DIVISION VII: PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 96 TAX RETURNS, AUDITS, AND PROTESTS

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers audits (also called "examinations") of individual income tax returns, as well as tax protests and the administrative procedures to dispute deficiency assessments by the Internal Revenue Service. It discusses the requirements of practice before the IRS and examines the audit process, including examination selection criteria, types of audits, appealing within the IRS, appealing to the Tax Court or to the district court, collection alternatives (installment agreements and offers in compromise), and settlement and closing agreements. The chapter also discusses the attorney-client privilege in the context of tax proceedings and the statutory federal tax practitioner-client privilege. This chapter focuses on transactional or administrative processes, as opposed to tax litigation.

Procedural guides include step-by-step guides to practice before the IRS, including:

- Responding to initial notices and requests.
- Requesting technical advice.
- Handling correspondence, office, and field audits.
- Handling appeals within the IRS.
- Responding to a 90-Day Letter (notice of deficiency).
- Terminating accrual of interest on deficiencies.
- Abating interest assessments.
- Settlement and closing agreements.
- Compromise.
- Claims for credits or refunds.

Although the chapter focuses on federal procedures, it also addresses Franchise Tax Board audit and appeal procedures. For more detailed coverage of California tax matters, including audits and appeals, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 540, Taxes and Assessments .

Forms include IRS forms and other forms related to powers of attorney, consents to extend time to assess tax, requests for technical advice, protests of federal tax deficiencies, claims for refund, offers in compromise, collection forms, waivers, settlement, and closing agreements. FTB forms include protests, appeal from an FTB decision, and claims for refund.

This chapter emphasizes coverage of individual income tax audits. It does not cover the problems or procedures involved in audits of other types of taxes or jeopardy assessments (for example, corporate slush fund examinations or problems involving excise and employment taxes paid by businesses). Neither does it discuss criminal proceedings or investigations by the Intelligence Division of the Internal Revenue Service. For a detailed discussion of those issues as well as appellate proceedings, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis(Matthew Bender).

The federal income tax law is contained in Title 26 of the United States Code, Subtitle F, Procedure and Administration [I.R.C. § 6001 et seq.]. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) also produces publications that contains useful information about the examination (audit) process (e.g., IRS Pub. No. 556, Examination of Rights, Appeal Returns, and Claims for Refund). These publications can be viewed and downloaded from the IRS website at www.irs.gov. The Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) provides basic procedures, guidance, and requirements for use by revenue agents and tax auditors [see Capitol Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Comm'r (1991) 96 T.C. 204, 216-220 for a general discussion of the circumstances under which IRS may be bound by its procedural rules)]. This handbook offers essential information about how agents are instructed to treat taxpayers. The entire IRM is available on the IRS website at www.irs.gov/irm.

The California Personal Income Tax Law is contained in Rev. & Tax. Code § 17001 et seq. Administration of franchise and income tax laws, including the Personal income Tax Law and the Corporation Tax Law, is governed by Rev. & Tax. Code § 18401 et seq. The Franchise Tax Board's (FTB) various audit manuals are available on the FTB's website, at www.ftb.ca.gov/aboutFTB/manuals/index.html.

§ 96.11 "Practice" Defined

Practice before the IRS encompasses "all matters connected with presentation to the Internal Revenue Service or any of its personnel relating to a taxpayer's rights, privileges, or liabilities under laws or regulations administered by the Internal Revenue Service." These presentations include the "preparation and filing of necessary documents, correspondence with and communications to the Internal Revenue Service, and the representation of a taxpayer at conferences, hearings, and meetings" [Treas. Reg. § 601.501(b)(10); see 31 C.F.R. § 10.2(d)].

Treasury Regulations contained in 26 C.F.R. pt. 601 govern conference and practice requirements. Treasury Department Circular No. 230, codified at 31 C.F.R. pt. 10 contains additional regulations governing practice before the IRS [see § 96.120].

Generally, practice before the IRS is limited to [see Treas. Reg. §§ 601.501(a), 601.509; see also § 96.200 (IRS Form 2848, Power of Attorney)]:

- Attorneys [see Treas. Reg. § 601.502(b)(1)] (any person who is a member in good standing of the bar of the highest court of any state, possession, territory, commonwealth, or the District of Columbia)].
- Certified public accountants [see Treas. Reg. § 601.502(b)(2)] (any person who is qualified to practice as a certified public accountant in any state, possession, territory, commonwealth, or the District of Columbia)].
- Enrolled agents [see Treas. Reg. § 601.502(b)(3)] (individuals who have passed an IRS examination and who are enrolled to practice before IRS)].

An attorney need not be "enrolled" to practice before the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 601.502(b)(1); 31 C.F.R. § 10.3(a)].

Representatives permitted a limited practice, with and without enrollment, before the IRS include:

- Enrolled actuaries [see Treas. Reg. § 601.502(b)(4)] (any individual who is enrolled as an actuary by and is in active status with the Joint Board for the Enrollment of Actuaries pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 1242]. Practice of an enrolled actuary is limited to issues generally in the area of employee plans [see 31 C.F.R. § 10.3(d)(2)].
- Various specified individuals. Individuals may represent themselves [31 C.F.R. § 10.7(a)(1)] and may otherwise appear before the IRS without enrollment in specified categories of cases [Treas. Reg. § 601.502(b)(5); see 31 C.F.R. § 10.7(c)]. For example, an individual may represent, without compensation, a member of his or her immediate family. An individual may represent another individual who is a bona fide officer or regular full-time employee of a corporation or other specified organizations [31 C.F.R. § 10.7(c)(1)(i), (iv)]. Representatives from commercial tax preparation firms may accompany a taxpayer to an audit, but they usually cannot argue a taxpayer's case [see 31 C.F.R. § 10.7(c)(1)(viii)].

The circumstances of the tax proceeding may dictate which, if any, representative should act on the taxpayer's behalf. A taxpayer may choose to represent himself or herself in a simple correspondence audit [see § 96.32[2]]. In more complicated audits, appeals, or collections, it may be advisable to involve both an accountant and an attorney. If the taxpayer faces potential exposure to a fraud charge, an attorney may be the best choice to protect the taxpayer's interests. For discussion of the role of privilege in selecting a representative, see §§ 96.15 and 96.16.

IRS Form 2848 (Power of Attorney) [see § 96.200] is the practitioner's authorization to deal with the IRS on behalf of a client with respect to specified tax matters [see Treas. Reg. §§ 601.501(b)(6), 601.503(b)(1); Treas. Reg. § 601.504(a) (situations in which power of attorney is required); see also § 96.120].

Examiners may not require the taxpayer to accompany an authorized representative at an examination interview, absent an administrative subpoena [I.R.C. § 7521(c)]. However, "the taxpayer's voluntary presence at the interview can be requested through the representative as a means to expedite the examination process" [IRM 4.10.3.2.1].

PRACTICE TIP:

Generally, clients should not accompany their representatives to an audit, because the client may offer additional information that the representative does not want disclosed. Therefore, a representative should be intimately familiar with the relevant facts and records. Otherwise, the examiner may request the taxpayer's presence and use an administrative subpoena, if necessary.

FTB Form 3520 (Power of Attorney) [see § 96.230], the analogous California form is the practitioner's authorization to deal with the FTB on behalf of a client.

§ 96.15 Confidentiality of Taxpayer Communications: Attorney-Client Privilege

One consideration in choosing an attorney to represent the taxpayer traditionally has been the additional protection potentially available under attorney-client privilege. The elements of the federal privilege are well-established in federal common law [see United States v. Flores (9th Cir. 1980) 628 F.2d 521, 526 (collecting cases)]. In sum, a client holds a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent any other person from disclosing, confidential communications between the client (or the client's representatives) and the client's attorney (or certain representatives of the attorney) when the communications were made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services [see United States v. Chen (9th Cir. 1996) 99 F.3d 1495, 1501-1502, cert. denied, 520 U.S. 1167 (1997); see generally Moore's Federal Practice(3d ed.), Ch. 26, General Provisions Governing Discovery; Duty of Disclosure (civil cases); Ch. 616, Discovery and Inspection (criminal cases) (Matthew Bender 3d ed.)]. Similarly, under California law, the attorney-client privilege, governed by Evid. Code §§ 950-962, is a privilege that generally protects against the disclosure of confidential communications between the client and the client's attorney [see Evid. Code § 954; see generally California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 191, Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations (Matthew Bender)].

§ 96.16 Rules Relating to Accountants and Other Tax Practitioners

[1] Extension of Confidentiality Privilege to Federally Authorized Tax Practitioners

The attorney-client privilege formerly was limited to communications between a taxpayer and the taxpayer's attorney [see, e.g., United States v. Arthur Young & Co. (1984) 465 U.S. 805, 817 (rejecting work product immunity for independent auditor's tax work papers; creation of privilege was "misplaced" and in conflict with "clear intent of Congress"); Couch v. United States (1973) 409 U.S. 322, 335 ("no confidential accountant-client privilege exists under federal law, and no state-created privilege has been recognized in federal cases")], while communications between a taxpayer and a tax practitioner other than an attorney were protected only when the tax practitioner was working as the attorney's representative [see United States v. Judson (9th Cir. 1963) 322 F.2d 460, 462 (statement of client's net worth and related work papers prepared by accountant were protected by attorney-client privilege when they were "prepared at the [client's] attorney's request, in the course of an attorney-client relationship, for the purpose of advising and defending his clients;" see also United States v. Bell (N.D. Cal. 1994) 95-1 U.S. Tax. Cas. (CCH) & 50,006, 1994 U.S. Dist. Lexis 17408, 24-25, 74 A.F.T.R.2d (RIA) 7271 (remanding case for in camera review of accountant reports and related correspondence to determine if documents were prepared in conjunction with rendition of legal advice)]. Accordingly, communications between an accountant or other tax practitioner and the taxpayer generally were not protected under the privilege. However, the confidentiality privilege has been extended by federal and by California statute to federally authorized tax practitioners [see [2], [3], below].

[2] Federal Statutory Privilege

The Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (Pub. L. No. 105-206, 112 Stat. 685) extended the traditional attorney-client privilege of confidentiality to tax advice given to a client-taxpayer (or potential client-taxpayer) by any individual authorized under federal law to practice before the IRS [I.R.C. § 7525(a)(1), (3)(A)]. These federally authorized tax practitioners include certified public accountants, enrolled agents, and enrolled actuaries [I.R.C. § 7525(a)(3)(A); see 31 U.S.C. § 330]. Tax advice means advice given by tax practitioners, within the scope of their practice, on matters regulated by the Internal Revenue Code [I.R.C. § 7525(a)(3)(B)]. The privilege may be asserted only in noncriminal tax proceedings before the IRS and in the federal courts with respect to noncriminal tax matters in proceedings in which the IRS is a party [I.R.C. § 7525(b)(2)]. The privilege may not be asserted to prevent the disclosure of information to any regulatory body other than the IRS, such as the SEC or national and state boards of accountancy [see I.R.C. § 7525(a)(2); IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-206, 112 Stat. 685 § 3411 (Senate Committee Report)]. In addition, the privilege does not apply to written communications between tax practitioners and certain corporate representatives regarding the promotion of corporate tax shelters [I.R.C. § 7525(b)(2); see I.R.C. § 6662(d)(2)(C)(ii) ("tax shelter" defined)].

The privilege is effective with regard to communications made on or after July 22, 1998 [IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-206, 112 Stat. 685 § 3411(c)].

Under the privilege, "[w]ith respect to tax advice, the same common law protections of confidentiality which apply to a communication between a taxpayer and an attorney shall also apply to a communication between a taxpayer and any federally authorized tax practitioner" [I.R.C. § 7525(a)(1); see § 96.15]. The statutory privilege does not modify the attorney-client privilege, other than to extend it to tax practitioners. Accordingly, communications between a taxpayer and an authorized tax practitioner are privileged only if the communications would have been privileged between an attorney and the attorney's client or prospective client [United States v. Frederick (7th Cir. 1999) 182 F.3d 496, 502, cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1154 ("[n]othing in the new statute suggests that these nonlawyer practitioners are entitled to privilege when they are doing other than lawyers' work;" verifying accuracy of return during audit is accountant's work and remains so even if performed by attorney)]. For example, information disclosed to an attorney for the purpose of preparing a tax return generally is not privileged [IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-206, 112 Stat. 685 § 3411 (Senate Committee Report); see United States v. Bell (N.D. Cal. 1994) 95-1 U.S. Tax.Cas. (CCH) & 50,006, 1994 U.S. Dist. Lexis 17408, 24-25, 74 A.F.T.R.2d (RIA) 7271 ("[i]f the unnamed accountant was indeed primarily engaged to assist [defendant] with the preparation of its tax returns, the reports produced pursuant to that engagement would not be privileged under either Rule 24(b)(4)(B) or the work product doctrine. The reports would also forgo protection under the attorney-client privilege, which only protects communications relating to the rendition of legal advice, not to the discharge of ordinary business tasks.")].

The privilege may be waived in the same manner as the attorney-client privilege [IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-206, 112 Stat. 685 § 3411 (Conference Committee Report); see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 191, Discovery: Privileges and Other Discovery Limitations (Matthew Bender)].

Questions about the privilege remain to be resolved by future litigation. For example, the statute does not provide guidance in distinguishing noncriminal administrative and court proceedings from criminal cases and proceedings. The extent to which the work product doctrine will apply to written materials prepared by federally authorized tax practitioners also remains unresolved [see Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(3) (work product rule provides qualified immunity for materials prepared in anticipation of litigation by party, attorney, or other representative of party); see generally Moore's Federal Practice(3d ed.), Ch. 26, General Provisions Governing Discovery; Duty of Disclosure (civil cases); and Ch. 616, Discovery and Inspection (criminal cases) (Matthew Bender)].

[3] California Statutory Privilege

In modified conformity to federal income tax law [see I.R.C. § 7525; IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-206, 112 Stat. 685; see also [2], above], the California legislature has extended the attorney-client privilege of confidentiality [see Evid. Code §§ 950-962] to communications with respect to tax advice between a client-taxpayer and a federally authorized tax practitioner [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(1), 21028(a)(1); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(1)].

"Federally authorized tax practitioner" means any individual who is authorized under federal law to practice before the IRS [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(A), 21028(a)(3)(A); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(A)]. Persons who may become federally authorized tax practitioners include certified public accountants, enrolled agents, and enrolled actuaries [see 31 U.S.C. § 330; 31 C.F.R. § 10.3]. "Tax advice" means advice given by an individual with respect to a state tax matter. Tax advice may include federal tax advice related to a state tax matter [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(B), 21028(a)(3)(B); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(B)]. For these purposes, "federal tax advice" means advice given by individuals within scope of their authority to practice before IRS on noncriminal matters [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(B), 21028(a)(3)(B); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(B)].

The privilege may be asserted only in noncriminal tax proceedings before the State Board of Equalization, the FTB, or the Employment Development Department [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(2), 21028(a)(2); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(2)]. The privilege does not apply to written communications between tax practitioners and certain corporate representatives regarding the promotion of corporate tax shelters [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(b), 21028(b); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(b); see Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(3)(C), 21028(a)(3)(C) ("tax shelter" defined); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(3)(C) (same)]. In addition, the privilege may not be asserted to prevent the disclosure of information in any proceeding to revoke (or otherwise discipline) any license or right to practice by any governmental agency [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(b), 21028(b); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(b)].

The privilege is effective with regard to communications made on or after January 1, 2001 until its repeal [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(c), (d), 21018(c), (d); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(c), (d)]. The privilege is also effective for communications made on or after October 11, 2009 [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(c), 21018(c); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(c); see Stats. 2009, ch. 411 (urgency legislation effective October 11, 2009)]. Accordingly, this leaves a (presumably unintended) gap from January 1, 2009 through October 10, 2009, leaving communications made during that time period unprotected under the privilege.

Under the privilege, the same statutory protections of confidentiality that apply to a communication between a taxpayer and an attorney [see Evid. Code §§ 950-962] also apply to a communication between a taxpayer and any federally authorized tax practitioner [Rev. & Tax Code §§ 7099.1(a)(1), 21028(a)(1); Unemp. Ins. Code § 13019(a)(1)]. Like the federal statutory privilege, this privilege does not modify the attorney-client privilege, other than to extend it to tax practitioners. Accordingly, communications between a taxpayer and an authorized tax practitioner are privileged only if the communications would have been privileged between an attorney and the attorney's client [see [2], above].

[4] Accountants and Other Tax Practitioners As Attorney's Representatives

Communications to an accountant or other tax practitioner will be protected under the lawyer-client privilege if it can be shown that the accountant was employed, preferably by the attorney, to assist the attorney in the attorney's rendition of legal services [see Sup. Ct. Standard 503(a)(3) (representative of lawyer)]. "What is vital to the privilege is that the communication be made in confidence for the purpose of obtaining legal advice from the lawyer. If what is sought is not legal advice but only accounting service ... or if the advice sought is the accountant's rather than the lawyer's, no privilege exists" [United States v. Gurtner (9th Cir. 1973) 474 F.2d 297, 298-299, quoting United States v. Kovel (2d Cir. 1961) 296 F.2d 918, 922; accord Cavallaro v. United States (1st Cir. 2002) 284 F.3d 236, 247, 246-249]. Moreover, the fact that an attorney confers with an accountant or investment banker to obtain information in order to better advise his or her client is insufficient to give rise to the privilege [United States v. Ackert (2d Cir. 1999) 169 F.3d 136, 139; accord United States v. Chevron Texaco Corp. (N.D. Cal. 2002) 241 F. Supp. 2d 1065, 1071-1072; see also United States v. Gurtner (9th Cir. 1973) 474 F.2d 297, 299]. Because the purpose of the privilege is "to encourage clients to make full disclosure to their attorneys" [Fisher v. United States (1976) 425 U.S. 391, 403, 96 S. Ct. 1569, 48 L. Ed. 2d 39], the privilege protects communications between a client and an attorney [see Cavallaro v. United States (1st Cir. 2002) 284 F.3d 236, 247 (presence of accountant while client relates complicated tax story to lawyer does not destroy privilege when accountant is "necessary, or at least highly useful," for effective consultation between client and lawyer, but only when communication is made for purpose of obtaining legal advice; privilege does not apply when client is seeking accounting services or accountant's advice)], not communications that prove important to an attorney's legal advice to the client [see United States v. Ackert (2d Cir. 1999) 169 F.3d 136, 139; United States v. Chevron Texaco Corp. (N.D. Cal. 2002) 241 F. Supp. 2d 1065, 1071-1072 (communications between attorney and third party do not become privileged solely because they are important to attorney's ability to represent client)].

Rather, the attorney-client privilege protects a client and his or her accountant or the accountant and the client's attorney when the accountant's role is to clarify communications between attorney and client [see United States v. Ackert (2d Cir. 1999) 169 F.3d 136, 139; United States v. Chevron Texaco Corp. (N.D. Cal. 2002) 241 F. Supp. 2d 1065, 1071-1072]. Thus, for example, communications with an accountant may be privileged if the accountant were hired by the attorney to assist the attorney in understanding the client's financial information [see, e.g., United States v. Judson (9th Cir. 1963) 322 F.2d 460, 462-463 (privilege applied to accountant who prepared client's net worth statement, at attorney's request, to help attorney advise and defend client); United States v. Chevron Texaco Corp. (N.D. Cal. 2002) 241 F. Supp. 2d 1065, 1072 (privilege extends only to communications with third parties that are necessary to effectuate client's consultation)].

[5] Tax Practitioner's Work Papers May Be Privileged Under Certain Circumstances

Under former law, the attorney-client privilege generally did not protect the work papers of an accountant or other tax practitioner from a tax investigation [see generally United States v. Arthur Young & Co. (1984) 465 U.S. 805, 816-818, 104 S. Ct. 1495, 79 L. Ed. 2d 826 (no attorney-client or work product privilege protects tax accrual work papers of independent auditor from IRS summons); see, e.g., Beckler v. Superior Court (9th Cir. 1978) 568 F.2d 661, 662 (attorney to whom taxpayer client had transferred documents could rely only on state attorney-client privilege)]. The extent to which the work-product doctrine will apply to written materials prepared by federally authorized tax practitioners [see [2], above] remains unresolved [see Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(3) (work product rule provides qualified immunity for materials prepared in anticipation of litigation by party, attorney, or other representative of party); see generally Moore's Federal Practice(3d ed.), Ch. 26, General Provisions Governing Discovery; Duty of Disclosure (civil cases) and Ch. 616, Discovery and Inspection (criminal cases) (Matthew Bender)].

If, however, the accountant or other tax practitioner has been retained by counsel or by the client at counsel's direction [see [4], above], work papers and reports of the accountant may be protected by the attorney-client privilege [Petersen, Attorney-Client Privilege in Internal Revenue Service Investigations, 54 Minn. L. Rev. 67, 90-91 (1969); see also Holthus, Caveat Taxpayer: How and Why the IRS May Examine Your Books, Your Accountant, and Even Your Attorney, 12 Pepp. L. Rev. 769 (1985)]. In addition, if the client can show that the client instructed the accountant to retain counsel and that all communications were in contemplation of the accountant's briefing of counsel, the communication should be protected [see Sup. Ct. Standard 503(b)(4)].

As a practical matter, to protect the client (who is likely to be ignorant of the law of privileges), a competent tax practitioner, recognizing that any communications between the client and the practitioner will be discoverable, should recommend that the client retain an attorney and that accounting or tax services be provided only at the attorney's direction [Petersen, Attorney-Client Privilege in Internal Revenue Service Investigations, 54 Minn. L. Rev. 67, 90-91 (1969)]. However, problems in the application of the lawyer-client privilege to a tax preparer's worksheets may still persist. For example, a taxpayer cannot, by hiring a lawyer to do tax preparation, obtain greater protection from government investigators than a taxpayer who does not use a lawyer as a tax preparer. "Communications from a client that neither reflect the lawyer's thinking nor are made for the purpose of eliciting the lawyer's professional advice or other legal assistance are not privileged" [United States v. Frederick (7th Cir. 1999) 182 F.3d 496, 500 (information furnished to lawyer as tax preparer was not privileged because it was provided for preparation of clients' tax return, not for preparation of brief or opinion letter); accord United States v. Torf (In re Grand Jury Subpoena) (9th Cir. 2003) 357 F.3d 900, 909-910 (communications of consultant hired to help attorney assess manufacturer's civil and criminal liability were not privileged, citing Frederick with approval)]. Even if an attorney's legal thinking "infects his worksheets, that does not cast the cloak of privilege over the worksheets; they are still accountant's worksheets, unprotected no matter who prepares them" [United States v. Frederick (7th Cir. 1999) 182 F.3d 496, 501, cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1154 (2000) (worksheets created by attorney in preparing clients' tax return were not privileged even though lawyer simultaneously represented clients in tax audit)].

Whether the privilege applies to documents, numerical or otherwise, prepared in connection with the audit of a tax return also presents a difficult question. The Seventh Circuit addressed the issue by defining two different kinds of work involved in preparing for audits. A practitioner who is "merely verifying the accuracy of a return" is doing "accountant's work" even if the representative is a attorney. However, if the taxpayer attends the audit accompanied by an attorney "who is there to deal with issues of statutory interpretation or case law," the attorney is doing attorney's work, and the attorney-client privilege may attach [United States v. Frederick (7th Cir. 1999) 182 F.3d 496, 502 , cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1154 (2000) (documents at issue fell into first category of work and thus were not privileged) accord United States v. Torf (In re Grand Jury Subpoena) (9th Cir. 2003) 357 F.3d 900, 909-910] .

§ 96.30 Purpose of Tax Audit

A tax audit is intended to determine if income, expenses, and credits are being reported accurately [Examination of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund (IRS Pub. No. 556); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504 (ascertaining correctness of returns and determining or collecting tax liability)]. The various district directors of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) are responsible for making all inquiries necessary to the determination and assessment of federal taxes [Treas. Reg. § 301.6201-1]. However, the Commissioner may direct other IRS officials to make specific inquiries concerning assessments [Treas. Reg. § 301.6201-1].

On the state level, the personal income tax law is administered by the Franchise Tax Board (FTB). The FTB may audit returns and determine correct tax liability [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504].

§ 96.31 Selection of Returns for Audit

[1] Disclosure of Examination Selection Criteria Is Not Required

Neither the IRS nor the FTB is required to disclose the standards used for the selection of returns to be audited (or the data used to determine those standards) if the agency has determined that disclosure of that information will seriously impair the assessment, collection, or enforcement under the tax laws [I.R.C. § 6103(b)(2)(B); Rev. & Tax. Code § 19544; see I.R.C. § 6110(b)(1)(B) (exceptions to public inspection of written disclosures)].

[2] IRS Examination Selection Criteria

A tax return can be selected for audit in several ways. The most common ways include [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 2]:

- Computer Scoring (the Discriminatory Inventory Function System).
- Questionable treatment of an item on the return.
- Market Segment Specialization Program.
- Information received from other sources on potential non-compliance with tax laws or inaccurate filing, including:
 - Media.
 - Public record.
 - Informant.

The most common method of selecting a return for audit is based on the "Discriminant Functions Systems Program" (DIF). A computer program (DIF) assigns a numeric score to each individual, corporate, and partnership tax return. The return can be selected for examination if it receives a high DIF score. A high score means there is a significantly greater potential for an examination of the return that might result in a change in income tax liability [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 2]. A high score does not mean there is something "wrong" with the return [see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 2]. Guidelines used by the DIF program are not disclosed to the public [see [1], above].

The DIF score originated with the "Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program" (TCMP). The TCMP audit consisted of a line-by-line audit of a tax return [see United States v. Flagg (8th Cir. 1980) 634 F.2d 1087, 1088-1089, cert. denied, 451 U.S. 909 (1981) (describing TCPM)]. The IRS has since developed the National Research Program (NRP), which it claims is a less intrusive and burdensome system of maintaining compliance. During its first year (2002), the NRP involved the audits of approximately 50,000 taxpayers. Of the 50,000 returns selected, only 2,000 were line-by-line examinations with "reasonable substantiation" required, as opposed to the mandatory substantiation requirement under the old TCMP system [see Tax Administration: IRS Is Implementing the National Research Program as Planned, General Accounting Office Report No. GAO-010614 (July 16, 2003)].

A return also may be selected for examination on the basis of information received from third parties (e.g., W-2 and 1099 forms) that does not match the information reported on the taxpayer's return. [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 2; see Rosato v. Comm'r (1967) 26 T.C.M. (CCH) 1156, T.C. Memo. 1967-226]. The return also may be selected for examination to address both the questionable treatment of an item and to study the behavior of similar taxpayers (a market segment) in handling a tax issue [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 2].

The Internal Revenue Manual provides the following factors to be considered when identifying a "large, unusual, or questionable" (LUQ) item [IRM 4.10.2.3.1]:

- Comparative size of the item--an expense item of $6,000 with total expenses of $30,000 would be a large item; however, if total expenses are $300,000, the item generally would not be considered a large item.
- Absolute size of the item--despite the comparability factor, size by itself may be significant. For example, a $50,000 item may be significant, even though it represents a small percentage of taxable income.
- Inherent character of the item--although the amount of an item may be insignificant, the nature of the item may be significant; for example, airplane expenses claimed on a plumber's Schedule C.
- Evidence of intent to mislead--this may include missing, misleading or incomplete schedules, or incorrectly showing an item on the return.
- Beneficial effect of the manner in which an item is reported--expenses claimed on a business schedule rather than claimed as an itemized deduction.
- Relationship to other items--incomplete transactions identified on the tax return. For example, the taxpayer reported sales of stock but no dividend income.
- Whipsaw Issues--whenever there is a transaction between two parties and characteristics of the transaction will benefit one party and harm the other. Examples include alimony versus child support, sale versus rental/royalty, employee versus independent contractor status, gift versus income.
- Automatic adjustments--obvious errors, omissions, or items subject to thresholds and/or limitations.
- Missing items--items not shown on the return that normally would appear on the returns of similar taxpayers. This applies not only to the examination of income, but also to expenses and deductions that would result in tax changes favorable to the taxpayer.

[3] Abusive Tax Shelters

In the past, many higher-earning individuals sought tax shelter investments that were designed to produce a current loss rather than a profit. The loss could then be used on the individual's tax return to cancel out earnings that otherwise would have been taxed at a high-bracket tax rate. Ideally, tax shelter investments would generate "paper losses" produced by the tax law, rather than an actual cash loss. The 1986 Tax Reform Act [Pub. L. No. 99-514, 100 Stat. 2085 (1986)] cracked down on tax shelter investments by restricting losses produced by passive activities. A passive activity is a limited partnership or another business entity in which the taxpayer does not participate on a regular, continuous, and substantial basis [see I.R.C. § 469(c)]. Losses produced by a passive activity cannot be used to offset earned income or investment income; the losses can be used only to offset other passive activities [see generally I.R.C. § 469]. The IRS continues to devote substantial efforts to identifying abusive tax shelters [see Rev. Proc. 83-78, 1983-2 C.B. 595 (procedure for advising investors); see also I.R.C. § 6700 (penalties for promoting abusive tax shelters); I.R.C. § 6701 (penalties for aiding and abetting the understatement of tax liability)].

I.R.C. §§ 6700 and 6701 impose civil penalties, not criminal penalties. Therefore, an IRS action to recover the penalties is not abated by the death of a taxpayer [Reiserer v. United States (9th Cir. 2007) 479 F.3d 1160, 1164] .

[4] California Examination Criteria

Like the IRS, the FTB employs several methods to select returns for audit. In California, personal returns may be selected for audit based on patterns of income, loss, and deductions that indicate a likelihood of error. The FTB also normally audits returns for which it receives a federal audit report from the IRS. Like the IRS, the FTB continues to target abusive tax shelters [see Rev. & tax Code § 19777 (penalties for failure to disclose reportable transactions relating to abusive tax shelters) see also "Abusive Tax Shelters" at www.ftb.ca.gov/law/tax_shelter/index.html].

CHAPTER 96 TAX RETURNS, AUDITS, AND PROTESTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Audits and Deficiency Assessments

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.32

§ 96.32 Types of Audit

[1] Time and Place of Examination

A tax audit begins when the IRS notifies the taxpayer that his or her tax return has been selected for audit. The notice includes the type of audit and the records to be assembled to clarify or support specified items reported on the return. IRS Pub. No. 556 emphasizes the importance of gathering the requested records before the audit interview [see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 3].

The IRS determines the place and type of audit [I.R.C. § 7605(a); Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(a)-(d)]. The audit may take place by correspondence, at the taxpayer's home or place of business, at an Internal Revenue office, or the office of the attorney or other practitioner representing the taxpayer [see [2]-[4], below]. The IRS will consider, on a case-by-case basis, written requests by taxpayers or their representatives to transfer the examination to a place other than the one set by the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(e); see Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(f) (transfer to IRS office to protect officers and employees), Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(g) (initiation of transfer by IRS)].

A taxpayer who wants an attorney or other authorized practitioner [see §§ 96.12, 96.13] to be present and represent the taxpayer during the examination must file a written authorization [see § 96.14].

[2] Correspondence Audits

In a "correspondence audit," the taxpayer is asked to explain or send supporting evidence by mail. Correspondence audits are conducted when warranted by "the nature of questionable items and by the convenience and characteristics of the taxpayer" [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(2)(ii)]. Issues are typically interest expense, taxes, charitable contributions, medical expenses, and simple miscellaneous itemized deductions.

The taxpayer has the option of requesting a meeting with an examiner to discuss any matter that the taxpayer believes cannot be adequately resolved through correspondence. If the taxpayer does so, the case is transferred to the taxpayer's district office. A taxpayer who disagrees with the adjustments proposed by the examiner may pursue any of the appeal processes ordinarily available [see § 96.50].

[3] Office Audits

In an office audit, the taxpayer is requested to visit the district offices of the IRS, bring certain records in support of his or her return, and discuss the issues with an IRS auditor. Office audits may be directed at a small number of items, or at an entire individual or business return, and the issues raised by the examiner are likely to be more complex than those raised in a correspondence audit. During the interview, the taxpayer has the right to point out to the examiner any amounts included in the return that are not taxable, and any deductions that the taxpayer failed to claim on the return [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(2)(ii)]. The IRS has the right to conduct a field examination [see [4], below], if the auditor determines that one is necessary [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(2)(ii)], but this is not the usual course of events.

PRACTICE TIP:

A taxpayer may avoid visiting the IRS office for an audit if it is chiefly a matter of verifying deductions claimed on the tax return. The taxpayer can contact the auditor and ask to send in copies of the canceled checks or other evidence of payment. If the auditor agrees, the taxpayer should send the information so that it arrives before the scheduled time of examination. If everything is in order, the taxpayer may save a trip to the office.

Issues are typically Schedule A deductions, along with more complicated issues such as travel expenses, employee business expenses, and educational expenses. The auditor may expand the scope of the examination [see IRM 4.10.3.2 (examiner must access the facts and apply judgment in determining the scope of the audit)].

[4] Field Audits

In a "field audit," the examination of the taxpayer's books and records takes place at the taxpayer's home or office. The place of examination is the location at which "the original books, records, and source documents are maintained" [IRM 4.10.2.7.6]. An examiner checks the entire return filed by the taxpayer and examines all supporting books, papers, records, and memoranda. If the return presents an engineering or appraisal problem (such as depreciation or depletion deductions, gains or losses on the sale or exchange of property, or losses on account of abandonment, exhaustion, or obsolescence), it may be investigated by an engineer agent, who makes a separate report [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(3)]. An examiner retains the right to tour the taxpayer's business to establish facts that can only be ascertained by a direct visit, regardless of where the examination takes place [Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(d)(3)(iii)].

§ 96.33 Repetitive or Unnecessary Examinations Are Prohibited

A taxpayer may not be subjected to unnecessary examinations or investigations. Only one inspection of a taxpayer's books may be made for each taxable year, unless an authorized IRS officer, after investigation, notifies the taxpayer in writing that an additional inspection is necessary [I.R.C. § 7605(b); Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(h)].

Similarly, the IRS has a policy discouraging the audit of returns submitted by individuals whose returns have been audited in either or both the preceding two years if that audit resulted in either a small change or no change. However, this policy cannot be used as a bar to a present audit involving substantive audit changes for either or both of the earlier two years' returns, even though the earlier audits resulted in no change or small changes [Tucker v. Comm'r (1983) 45 T.C.M. (CCH) 1347, T.C. Memo 1983-210 ; Chapman v. Comm'r (1982) 43 T.C.M. (CCH) 511, T.C. Memo 1982-68] .

 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Audits and Deficiency Assessments

§ 96.34 Scope of Audit

[1] Relevant Material

During audits, the IRS and the FTB may request that the taxpayer produce material relevant to the agency's inquiries [see I.R.C. § 7602(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504(a)]. The scope of the proceeding and the determination of the relevance of evidence is broader in a tax audit than in a trial [United States v. Rugeiro (9th Cir. 1970) 425 F.2d 1069, 1071] . The IRS has broad powers of discovery in implementing its statutory mandate to investigate tax liability [De Masters v. Arend (9th Cir. 1963) 313 F.2d 79, 86-87 , writ dismissed, 375 U.S. 936 (1963) ; see I.R.C. § 7601].

[2] Uncooperative Representatives

If a taxpayer's representative has unreasonably delayed or hindered an audit by failing to furnish necessary and nonprivileged information after repeated requests, the IRS examiner may request permission of his or her immediate supervisor to contact the taxpayer directly. If permission is granted, the IRS must give written notice to both the taxpayer's representative and the taxpayer, along with a request that the taxpayer provide the non-privileged information. The district director also may refer the matter for possible disciplinary action against the uncooperative representative, in accordance with Treasury Department Circular 230, 31 C.F.R., pt. 10 [Treas. Reg. § 601.506(b); see § 96.120].

[3] Examination of Witnesses

Examiners may question persons with knowledge relevant to the audit. The IRS has the power to issue a summons to take the testimony of any person under oath concerning (1) the correctness of any return; (2) filing a return when none has been filed; (3) determining tax liability; or (4) collecting any tax liability [I.R.C. § 7602(a)].

The IRS has broad discretion in the use of its summons power. For example, in one case, a summons was enforced against an attorney who simply mailed a letter to a district director with which was enclosed a check for a substantial amount of money on behalf of an unknown taxpayer. An examiner was assigned to discover the name of the taxpayer and the years covered by the check and to determine whether further proceedings would be necessary. When questioned, the attorney informed the examiner that the matter had been referred to him by another attorney, whose name he refused to divulge, and that he had no personal knowledge of the details. Since part of the examiner's duties in pursuing the investigation was to determine if the correct tax had been paid and if fraud penalties were due [see I.R.C. § 7601(a)], the summons was enforced [Tillotson v. Boughner (7th Cir. 1964) 333 F.2d 515, 517 , cert. denied, 379 U.S. 913 (1964)] .

Similarly, in California, to carry out its statutory duty to administer the tax laws, the FTB may require a person having knowledge concerning the subject of an audit to appear before it and give testimony under oath [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504(b)]. To compel the appearance of witnesses, the FTB has the power to issue subpoenas or subpoenas duces tecum [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504(c), (d)].

[4] Examination of Records

The IRS has the power to issue a summons to examine books, papers, records, or other data relevant to any of the following [I.R.C. § 7602(a)]:

- The correctness of any return.
- Filing a return when none has been filed.
- Determining tax liability.
- Collecting any tax liability.

When the genuineness of a document or some element of a document (such as a signature) is at issue, the Internal Revenue has the right to make copies of the documents concerned [United States v. Stamp (D.C. Cir. 1971) 458 F.2d 759, 777 , cert. denied, 409 U.S. 842 (1972) ; Boren v. Tucker (9th Cir. 1956) 239 F.2d 767, 771-772] .

Similarly, in California, the FTB may require any taxpayer or entity to make available for examination, or copying at a specified time and place, any books, papers, or other data that may be relevant to the administration of the tax laws. Any demand to a financial institution must comply with the California Right to Financial Privacy Act (Gov. Code § 7460 et seq. [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19504(a)]).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Audits and Deficiency Assessments

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.35

§ 96.35 Taxpayer's Options on Conclusion of Audit

[1] IRS Audits

If the IRS agrees to accept the taxpayer's return as filed, the IRS will send a letter to the taxpayer a few weeks later stating that the examiner proposed no changes to the return [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4]. If the examiner has proposed changes to the return, the IRS will send a notice of tax examination changes [see § 96.209]. If the taxpayer agrees with the examiner's proposed changes contained in the examination report [see § 96.209], the taxpayer will sign an agreement form [see § 96.209] prepared by the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(4)]. If the taxpayer owes additional tax and pays it when the agreement is signed, interest is generally calculated from the due date of the tax return to the date of payment [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 5]. If the taxpayer agrees with the proposed adjustments, but does not immediately pay any additional tax owed, the IRS will mail the taxpayer a bill showing the tax due [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(4)]. In that case, interest is charged from the due date of the return until the date of the bill. If the taxpayer pays the additional tax within 10 business days of the billing date (or 21 calendar days, if the amount due is less than $100,000), no further interest or penalties is added [IRS Pub. 556, at 5].

Even if the taxpayer signs an acceptance of a proposed overassessment, the district director or the director of the regional service center remain free to assess a deficiency. On the other hand, the taxpayer who has given a waiver may still claim a refund of any part of the deficiency assessed against and paid by the taxpayer. The taxpayer's acceptance of an agreed overassessment does not prevent the taxpayer from filing a claim and bringing suit for an additional sum, nor does it preclude the government from maintaining a suit to recover an erroneous refund. However, as a matter of practice, waivers or acceptances ordinarily result in the closing of a case, insofar as the government is concerned [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(4)]. The concessions made by an examiner during an audit for one tax year do not bind the IRS for future tax years [Lewis v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1977) 560 F.2d 973, 977] .

PRACTICE TIP:

In deciding whether to agree to an examiner's proposed adjustments, an attorney or other practitioner should carefully review the agent's work papers, to determine how the examiner arrived at the amount owed. The practitioner should also make sure the examiner identifies the Treasury Regulation, Internal Revenue Code Section, or ruling on which the examiner bases the deficiency proposal. The practitioner should be prepared to discuss the relevant law and the facts of each issue. Even though the examiner may be sympathetic to the taxpayer's position, he or she may be reluctant to change his or her mind about a proposed assessment for fear that the examiner's manager, or the review staff, will return the case for correction. Careful documentation and presentation of arguments in writing by the practitioner will help the examiner write his or her work papers in a way that avoids any question about the examiner's decisions. In addition, if the taxpayer appeals the examiner's findings, this written record will be sent with the examination report to the reviewing officer and to any other IRS officials who participate in subsequent settlement or redetermination proceedings.

[2] FTB Audits

A taxpayer who disagrees with the FTB's proposed adjustments to his or her tax liability following an audit will be informed of his or her right to protest the auditor's findings [FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 13000 et seq.]. For a discussion of the taxpayer's protest and appeal rights, see § 96.51. For detailed discussion of appeal within the FTB and a California taxpayer's judicial remedies, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 540, Taxes and Assessments (Matthew Bender).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Audits and Deficiency Assessments

§ 96.36 Deficiency Assessments

[1] Federal Law

[a] "Deficiency" Defined

A tax "deficiency" is the excess of the tax (income, estate, gift, or excise) over the sum of the amount shown as the tax by the taxpayer on the return, and the amounts previously assessed or collected without an assessment as a deficiency, and reduced by the amount of any rebates made [I.R.C. § 6211(a); Treas. Reg. § 301.6211-1(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 19043; see I.R.C. § 6211(b)(2); Rev. & Tax. Code § 19043(b)(2) (rebate defined)]. Expressed as a mathematical equation, a "deficiency" is shown as follows [see Kurtzon v. Comm'r (1952) 17 T.C. 1542, 1548] :

A "deficiency" also exists if there is an increase in a late filing penalty that results in an increase in tax liability [Rev. Rul. 78-20, 1978-1 C.B. 441].

An appeal to the Tax Court may be made only after a deficiency has been assessed [Crowther v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1959) 269 F.2d 292, 293 ; see § 96.50[4]]. The Tax Court's jurisdiction is based on the determination of the deficiency by the IRS, not on the mere existence of a deficiency [Scar v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1987) 814 F.2d 1363, 1367-1368 ; Hannan v. Comm'r (1969) 52 T.C. 787, 790-791 ; see § 96.50[4]].

[b] Summary Record of Deficiency

The summary record of deficiency assessment identifies the taxpayer, the character of the liability assessed, the taxable period, if applicable, and the amount of the assessment. In the case of a tax shown on a taxpayer's return, the amount of the assessment must be the amount shown on that return. In all other cases, the assessment must be the amount shown on the supporting list or record. The date of the assessment is the date on which the assessment officer signs the summary record. On request, the IRS will furnish the taxpayer with a copy of the pertinent parts of the summary record of assessment [Treas. Reg. § 301.6203-1]. If any assessment is incomplete or incorrect, the district director or director of the regional service center may make a supplemental assessment [Treas. Reg. § 301.6204-1].

[c] Arbitrary Deficiency Assessments

A taxpayer may attempt to avoid an assessment in Tax Court by asserting that it is arbitrary (i.e., that the assessment is without evidentiary foundation). An assessment is "arbitrary" if it is not reasonable under all the existing facts. Whether or not the taxpayer attempted to interfere with the efforts of the IRS to make a precise determination of the deficiency, if any, is not dispositive of the issue [Chaum v. Comm'r (1977) 69 T.C. 156, 161-162] .

There is a presumption that any deficiency assessment against a taxpayer is correct [Weimerskirch v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1979) 596 F.2d 358, 359] . However, before the IRS can rely on this presumption, it must produce some substantive evidence showing that the taxpayer received the income on which the deficiency is based [see Weimerskirch v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1979) 596 F.2d 358, 360] . Absent that showing, the assessment may be characterized as arbitrary and, accordingly, not upheld by the Tax Court. This issue arises most frequently when the IRS charges a taxpayer with receipt of income from an illegal activity such as gambling [see United States v. Janis (1976) 428 U.S. 433, 96 S. Ct. 3021, 49 L. Ed. 2d 1046] or drug dealing [see Weimerskirch v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1979) 596 F.2d 358, 362] .

[2] California Law

As soon as practicable after a return is filed, the FTB will examine the return and determine the correct amount of tax [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19032]. If, after examination, the FTB determines that the tax shown due on the return is less than the amount owed, it will mail a deficiency notice to the taxpayer [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19033(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19033(e), (f) (notices issued on or after January 1, 2008 must include postmark)]. The deficiency determination may, in no case, be arbitrary or without foundation. [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19033(a)]. When a taxpayer's return is available, the FTB may not assess or collect a deficiency without relying on the return [Wertin v. FTB (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 961, 976, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 644 (FTB's issuance of notice of proposed assessment of tax deficiency without reviewing tax returns for relevant year rendered FTB's assessment invalid)].

The FTB ordinarily must examine the original or amended return or related electronically stored return data, unless the return or return data has been destroyed or cannot be located after reasonable effort [Rev. & Tax Code § 19033(b); see Rev. & Tax Code § 19033(c) ("electronically stored data" defined); Rev. & Tax Code § 19033(d) (effective for notices of deficiency proposed to be assessed on or after January 1, 2001)]. If the return or return data has been destroyed or cannot be located, the FTB will request the taxpayer to provide a paper or electronic copy of the return. If the taxpayer fails to provide a copy within 30 days from the date of the request, or within 60 days if the first 30-day period has been extended another 30 days for reasonable cause, the requirements of Rev. & Tax Code § 19033(b)(1), requiring that the Board examine the original, amended return, or electronically stored return data, will not apply [Rev. & Tax Code § 19033(b)(2); see Rev. & Tax Code § 19033(d) (effective for notices of deficiency proposed to be assessed on or after January 1, 2001)].

California examiners are instructed to obtain, evaluate, and record information throughout the audit process. These steps are repeated until the auditor and his or her supervisor are satisfied that a valid conclusion has been reached and an audit report can be prepared that would withstand a challenge. In California, no precise, step-by-step order or manner of examination is followed. The determination of how a particular case should be approached and how the information gathering, evaluating, and recording is conducted is determined by the auditor on a case-by-case basis [see FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 7000 et seq. (working a case/case unit)].

[1] Confidentiality of Returns

In general, the contents of income tax returns are confidential [see I.R.C. § 6103; Rev. & Tax. Code § 19542]. However, the contents of income tax returns may be disclosed when disclosure is specifically authorized by law [see I.R.C. § 6103(a); Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 19542-19570; see also Schnabel v. Superior Court (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 704, 720, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 200, 854 P.2d 1117 (bank and corporation tax); Webb v. Standard Oil Co. (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 509, 513, 319 P.2d 621 (personal income tax)]. Such disclosure generally facilitates the administration or enforcement of the tax laws or serves a public policy considered more important than confidentiality [see, e.g., I.R.C. § 6103(c)-(o)].

All information developed during an audit, except that obtained from public sources, is confidential. It is the responsibility of the auditor to prevent unauthorized disclosure of information and to maintain security during the audit procedure [see I.R.C. § 6103(a); Rev. & Tax. Code § 19542; see also FTB Disclosure Manual, §§ 1100, 1110].

[2] Exchange of Information

Federal and state taxing authorities exchange information concerning tax returns pursuant to agreements coordinating tax administration between the two levels of government [I.R.C. § 6103(d)(1)]. On the written request of the Audit Division of the FTB, the IRS will release information contained in federal returns (or copies of the entire returns) to an appropriate representative designated in the request. The information or returns are released only for the purpose of, and to the extent necessary in, conducting the state audit [I.R.C. § 6103(d)(2)].

After a state or federal audit has been concluded, information regarding any increase or decrease in tax liability is shared with the other agency. The taxpayer must report each change or correction on his or her federal tax return, or the results of any renegotiation with the IRS, to the FTB within six months after the date of each final federal determination [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18622(a)]. A taxpayer filing an amended return with the IRS also must file an amended return within six months with the FTB [Rev. & Tax. Code § 18622(b)]. Likewise, any change on the state tax return may affect the federal return [see I.R.C. § 6103(d)(1)].

§ 96.50 Appealing Within IRS

[1] Immediate Resolution Options

If the taxpayer disagrees with the examiner's proposed changes, the examiner will explain the taxpayer's rights [see IRS Pub. No. 1, Your Rights as a Taxpayer]. If the examination has taken place at an IRS office, the taxpayer may request an immediate meeting with the examiner's supervisor to explain the taxpayer's position. If a settlement cannot be reached within the supervisor at this meeting, or if the examination took place outside an IRS office, the examiner will explain the taxpayer's appeal rights under the appeals procedure and will "close" the case and forward it for processing [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(c)(1)(ii); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4].

The IRS also offers fast track mediation to help taxpayers resolve disputes from examinations (audits) [see §§ 96.30-96.35], offers in compromise [see § 96.61], trust fund recovery actions, and other collection actions [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4]. Most cases that are not docketed in any court qualify for fast track mediation. Mediation can take place at the requested conference with a supervisor, or later. The process involves an appeals officer who has been trained in mediation [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4]. This process is discussed in detail in IRS Pub. No. 3605, Fast Track Mediation: A Process for Prompt Resolution of Tax Issues.

Appeal within the IRS is available to taxpayers as long as the basis of their dispute with the examiner's findings comes within the scope of the internal revenue laws. Taxpayers who base their positions on moral, religious, political, conscientious, constitutional, or other similar grounds cannot avail themselves of the appellate procedures within the IRS and must pursue their positions in court [Rev. Proc. 68-12, 1968-1 C.B. 763; see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4]. The appeals process is described in [2]-[4], below. For step-by-step procedures to be followed to appeal within the IRS or to the Tax Court, see §§ 96.141 and 96.145.

In most cases, a taxpayer is eligible to take his or her case to court, if the taxpayer and the IRS do not reach an agreement at the appeals conference, or if the taxpayer does not want to appeal to the IRS Office of Appeals [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 8; see [4], [5], below]. However, a case petitioned to the Tax Court normally will be considered for settlement by the Appeals Office before the Tax Court hears the case [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 9].

[2] 30-Day Letter

If the taxpayer does not agree with the examiner's proposed changes, the examiner will close the case [see [1], above]. Within a few weeks of the closing conference, the taxpayer will receive the following [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4]:

- A letter, known as a 30-day letter, notifying the taxpayer of his or her rights to appeal the proposed changes within 30 days.
- A copy of the examination report explaining the examiner's proposed changes [see § 96.209].
- An agreement or waiver form.
- A copy of IRS Pub. No. 5, Your Appeal Rights and How to Prepare a Protest If You Don't Agree [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 4; Treas. Reg. § 601.105(d)(1)].

The taxpayer generally has 30 days from the date of the 30-day letter to inform the IRS that he or she will accept or appeal the proposed changes. The method used to appeal generally depends on the dollar amount of the proposed changes. The following general rules apply [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(d)(2)]:

- An oral request is sufficient to transfer a case to the Appeals Office in an office audit or a correspondence examination.
- In a field examination, if the proposed tax (including penalty and interest) is $2,500 or less, a written request is not required.
- For a field examination in which the amount of proposed tax is between $2,500 and $10,000 a written request is optional.
- For a field examination in which the amount exceeds $10,000 a written request is required.

PRACTICE TIP:

Typically it takes several months for an appeal to be transmitted to the Office of Appeals. An appeals officer will contact the taxpayer (or the taxpayer's representative) by telephone or in writing to schedule a date for the appeals conference. The conference is typically in person at the local IRS Appeals Office. A conference may also be held by telephone at the discretion of the Appeals Officer.

If the taxpayer takes no action, on expiration of the 30-day period the IRS usually will issue a formal notice of deficiency, or "90-day letter."

[3] 90-Day Letter

A "90-day letter," or notice of deficiency, is a letter from the IRS to a taxpayer whose return is being audited or has been audited, stating, among other things, the amount of the deficiency determined by the I.R.S. The 90-day letter notifies the taxpayer that the deficiency will be collected unless he or she files a timely petition to the Tax Court. The letter must include a notice to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's right to contact a local office of the taxpayer advocate, and the location and phone number of the appropriate office. The 90-day letter is sent to the taxpayer by certified or registered mail [I.R.C. § 6212(a)]. After the 90-day letter is sent, all options for settlement of the matter within the Audit Division of the IRS are foreclosed to the taxpayer [see I.R.C. § 6213(a)].

The taxpayer has the option of filing a petition with the Tax Court for a redetermination of the deficiency [I.R.C. §

6213(a); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6213-1(a)(1)). The petition must be filed within 90 days (or 150 days if the letter is addressed to a person outside the United States) from the date the 90-day letter is mailed (not counting Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia as the last day). Any petition filed with the Tax Court on or before the last date specified in the notice of deficiency will be treated as timely filed [I.R.C. § 6213(a)]. With specified exceptions, no proceeding for the collection of the assessed deficiency may be made within the 90- or 150-day period [I.R.C. § 6213(a); Treas. Reg. § 301.6213-1(a)(2); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6213-1(b) (exceptions to restrictions on assessment); see also Fayeghi v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 2000) 211 F.3d 504, 506-507 (tax court lacked authority to enjoin collection of taxes pursuant to motion to restrain collection; I.R.C. § 6213(a) did not apply because tax at issue was not "deficiency")]. Further, no additional deficiency may be determined with respect to income tax for the same taxable year [Treas. Reg. § 301.6212-1(c)].

[4] Tax Court Jurisdiction

A formal determination of a deficiency from the IRS is a prerequisite to Tax Court jurisdiction over any dispute between the IRS and a taxpayer [Crowther v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1959) 269 F.2d 292, 293] . Because there is no statutory or regulatory requirement for the contents of a notice of deficiency [see 3], above], disputes about what constitutes a notice of deficiency occasionally arise. Examples of correspondence that have been determined not to constitute deficiency notices and provide bases for Tax Court jurisdiction include:

- 30-day letters [Estate of Gillespie v. Comm'r (1994) 103 T.C. 395, 397 ; Estate of Adamczyk v. Comm'r (1981) 41 T.C.M. (CCH) 1596, T.C. Memo. 1981-259] .
- A letter notifying a taxpayer that certain tax shelter items would be disallowed [Benzvi v. Comm'r (11th Cir. 1986) 787 F.2d 1541, 1543] .
- A letter rejecting the taxpayer's offer of a compromise [Mall v. Comm'r (1981) 41 T.C.M. (CCH) 1568, T.C. Memo. 1981-253] .
- Notification by the IRS that an additional amount of tax is due because of a mathematical error on the return. That notice does not constitute a 90-day letter or notice of deficiency [Treas. Reg. § 301.6213-1(b)(1)].

The IRS, with the taxpayer's consent, may rescind a notice of deficiency. A rescinded notice is not treated as a notice of deficiency for purposes of the restrictions on further deficiencies and collection proceedings during the period for appeal to the Tax Court. If the statute of limitations were suspended when the deficiency notice was issued, the rescission operates as a non-retroactive termination of the suspension. At the time of the rescission, the statute begins to run again from the point at which it was suspended. The taxpayer has no right to file a petition to the Tax Court on the basis of a rescinded notice of deficiency [I.R.C. § 6212(d)].

If the full amount of the tax is paid before the notice of deficiency is mailed, no deficiency exists, thus precluding Tax Court jurisdiction over the matter [Conklin v. Comm'r (10th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1027, 1029-1030 ; McConkey v. Comm'r (4th Cir. 1952) 199 F.2d 892, 893-894] . However, the taxpayer can still appeal to the district court or the Court of Federal Claims [see generally IRS Pub. No. 556, at 12; see also [5], below].

[5] District Court and Court of Federal Claims Jurisdiction

Generally, the district court and the Court of Federal Claims will hear cases only after the tax is paid and the taxpayer has filed a claim for a credit or refund [see I.R.C. § 7422; IRS Pub. No. 556, at 12]. However, neither court has jurisdiction to adjudicate claims that relate to promoting an abusive tax shelter, or aiding and abetting the understatement of tax liability [see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 12; see also I.R.C. §§ 6700 (penalties for promoting abusive tax shelters), 6701 (penalties for aiding and abetting the understatement of tax liability)].

The taxpayer may file a claim with the IRS for a credit or refund. If the claim is completely or partially disallowed, the taxpayer should receive a notice of claim disallowance. If the IRS does not act on the claim within six months from the date the claim was filed, the taxpayer may then file suit for a refund [see generally IRS Pub. No. 556, at 12].

§ 96.51 Appealing Within FTB

A taxpayer who disagrees with a notice of deficiency issued by the FTB must file a written protest, specifying in the protest the grounds on which it is based within 60 days after the mailing of each notice of proposed deficiency [Rev. & Tax Code § 19041(a); see § 96.231]. If no protest is filed, the amount of the proposed deficiency assessment becomes final after the 60-day period expires [Rev. & Tax Code § 19042].

If a protest has been filed, the FTB will reconsider the deficiency assessment and, if the taxpayer requested it in the protest, will grant the taxpayer or his or her representative an oral hearing [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19044]. The FTB's action on the protest is final after 30 days from the date the FTB mails notice of its action to the taxpayer, unless within that 30-day period the taxpayer files a written appeal with the FTB [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19045(a); see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19047 (hearing of appeal; notice of determination); § 96.231].

For state tax purposes, any amount of tax in excess of that disclosed by the return, due to a mathematical error, is not a deficiency assessment. The taxpayer has no right to protest or appeal based on this type of notice. However, the amount of tax erroneously omitted in the return may be assessed and collected in the same manner as a deficiency assessment [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19051].

For a detailed discussion of appeal within the FTB and a California taxpayer's judicial remedies, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 540, Taxes and Assessments (Matthew Bender).

§ 96.60 Installment Agreements

[1] Availability

The IRS is authorized to enter into installment agreements with any taxpayer if the IRS determines that an installment agreement would facilitate full or partial collection of a tax liability [I.R.C. § 6159(a); see I.R.C. § 7122(d) (administrative review and appeal)]. Under some circumstances, the IRS is required to enter into an installment agreement [see I.R.C. § 6159(c); discussed in [2], [3], below]. An installment agreement does not reduce the tax liability, or any interest or penalty. However, during the installment agreement, other enforcement actions, such as liens or levies, are held in abeyance [Treas. Reg. § 301.6159-1(d)].

[2] Guaranteed Installment Agreement

A "guaranteed installment agreement" is available if [I.R.C. § 6159(c); IRM 5.14.5.3]:

- The liability is $10,000, or less (excluding penalties and interest).
- Within the previous five years, the taxpayer has not failed to file or to pay, nor entered an installment agreement under I.R.C. § 6159.
- If requested by the IRS, the taxpayer submits financial statements, and the IRS determines that the taxpayer is unable to pay the tax due in full.
- The installment agreement provides for full payment of the liability within three years; and
- The taxpayer agrees to continue to comply with the tax laws and the terms of the agreement for the period (up to three years) that the agreement is in place.

[3] Streamlined Installment Agreement

A "streamlined installment agreement" is available if [IRM 5.14.5.2]:

- The aggregate unpaid balance of assessments is $25,000 or less. The unpaid balance of assessments includes tax, assessed penalty and interest, and all other tax assessments, but does not include accrued penalty and interest.
- If pre-assessed taxes are included, the pre-assessed liability plus unpaid balance of assessments is $25,000 or less.
- The aggregate unpaid balance of assessments will be fully paid in 60 months, or the agreement will be fully paid before the collection statute expiration date (CSED), whichever comes first [see IRM 5.14.2.1 (CSED extensions)].

[4] Installment Agreement for Deficiencies Over $25,000

If the deficiency exceeds $25,000, the IRS will request financial information [see §§ 96.213, 96.214 (forms)] and, based on established guidelines, will set the amount to be paid monthly [see IRM 5.14.2.2].

[5] Partial Payment Installment Agreement

On January 1, 2005, the IRS implemented an additional payment option, known as the Partial Payment Installment Agreement. This payment option became possible with the passage of the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 (Pub Law No. 108-357, 118 Stat. 1418). This legislation allows the IRS to enter into installment agreements that result in full or partial payment of the tax liability [see I.R.C. § 6159(a), (d)]. Previously, taxpayers who could not fully pay their outstanding tax liabilities could only enter into an agreement with the IRS if it resulted in full payment of the liability [see former I.R.C. § 6159]. This left taxpayers unable to meet this criterion with limited payment options.

Taxpayers who request a PPIA must provide complete and accurate financial information that will be reviewed and verified. Taxpayers will also be required to address equity in assets that can be used to reduce or fully pay the amount of the outstanding liability [see I.R.C. § 6159; www.irs.gov/businesses/small/article/0,,id=136207,00.html]. In addition, taxpayers granted PPIAs will be subject to a subsequent financial review every two years. As a result of this review, the amount of the installment payments could increase or the agreement could be terminated, if the taxpayer's financial condition improves [see I.R.C. § 6159(d)].

§ 96.61 Offers in Compromise

[1] Who May Authorize Compromise

In some circumstances, the IRS may accept an amount less than the full amount a taxpayer owes [see [2], below]. The IRS Commissioner has the power to accept a lesser amount in any civil or criminal tax case before referring the case to the Justice Department for prosecution or defense [I.R.C. § 7122(a)]. The Attorney General, or its delegate, also may compromise a case after reference to the Justice Department [I.R.C. § 7122(a)]. For a procedural guide to making offers in compromises, see § 96.142. For a copy of the IRS form (Form 656), see § 96.212.

[2] Grounds for Compromise

The IRS may accept an offer in compromise for any of the following reasons:

- There is doubt about the amount owed (or whether the taxpayer owes it) [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)(1); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 7-8].
- There is doubt about whether the taxpayer can pay the amount owed based on his or her financial situation [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)(2); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 8].
- Acceptance of an offer in compromise will "promote effective tax administration," because full collection would cause the taxpayer economic hardship [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)(3)(i); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 8; see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6343-1(b)(4) (meaning of "economic hardship")].
- Acceptance of an offer in compromise will "promote effective tax administration," because the taxpayer's case presents compelling reasons that the IRS determines are a sufficient basis for compromise [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)(3)(ii); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 8].

In determining whether to accept or reject an offer in compromise on the ground that acceptance would promote effective tax administration, the IRS must consider several nonconclusive factors, including the taxpayer's record of overall compliance with the tax laws [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)(3)(i), (ii) (nonconclusive factors to be considered in evaluating these offers); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)(3)(ii), (iii) (examples)].

In addition, the IRS may not reject an offer in compromise from a "low income" taxpayer solely on the basis of the amount of the offer [I.R.C. § 7122(d)(3)(A)]. If an offer in compromise is based on doubt as to liability, the IRS may not reject an offer solely because the IRS is unable to locate the taxpayer's return or return information to verify the liability [I.R.C. § 7122(d)(3)(B)(i)]. Moreover, if an offer in compromise is based on doubt about liability, the taxpayer is not required to provide a financial statement [I.R.C. § 7122(d)(3)(B)(ii)].

[3] Development and Application of IRS Guidelines

The IRS has developed guidelines for determining whether an offer in compromise is adequate and should be accepted to resolve a dispute [see I.R.C. § 7122(d)(1)]. The guidelines include national and local living expense standards published by the IRS [see I.R.C. § 7122(d)(2)(A); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)(2)(i)]. However, the IRS must evaluate the individual facts and circumstances presented by each taxpayer's case, and may not apply the guidelines if their use would result in the taxpayers not having adequate means to pay basic living expenses [I.R.C. § 7122(d)(2)(B); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)(2)(i)].

[4] Independent Review of Rejected Offers

All proposed rejections of offers in compromise must receive an independent administrative review before the proposed rejection is communicated to the taxpayer [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)(2)]. The taxpayer may appeal any rejection of an offer in compromise to the IRS Office of Appeals [see I.R.C. §§ 6159(d), 7122(e); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)(5)].

[5] Moratorium on Levies While Offer Is Evaluated

The IRS generally will not levy a taxpayer's property during the following periods [I.R.C. § 6331(k)(1)(A); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(g)(1); see I.R.C. § 6331(k)(3); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(g)(3), (4) (exceptions for jeopardy assessments and offers submitted solely for purposes of delay)]:

- While the IRS is evaluating the offer.
- Within 30 days immediately after the offer is rejected.
- While the IRS considers a timely-filed appeal from the rejection of the offer.

The statute of limitations on collection will be suspended while levy is prohibited for the reasons listed above [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(i)(1)].

If the IRS rejects the original offer and the taxpayer submits a revised offer within 30 days after the offer is rejected, the IRS generally will not levy the taxpayer's property while it considers the revised offer [I.R.C. § 6331(k)(1)(B); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(g)(2)].

[6] Written Notice of Rejection of Offer

For offers in compromise submitted on or after 60 days from May 17, 2006 (the date of enactment of the Tax Increase Prevention and Reconciliation Act of 2005), an offer in compromise is deemed to be accepted if the offer is not rejected before 24 months after the date of submission [I.R.C. § 7122(f)]. However, any period during which any tax liability that is the subject of the offer in compromise is in dispute in a judicial proceeding is not taken into account in determining the expiration of the 24 month period [I.R.C. § 7122(f)]. For offers in compromise not subject to the foregoing rules, an offer is not rejected until the I.R.S. issues a written notice to the taxpayer (or the taxpayer's representative), advising of the rejection, the reasons for the rejection, and the right to an appeal [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)(1)].

§ 96.62 Offer in Compromise Procedure

An offer to compromise a tax liability must be submitted according to the procedures, and in the form and manner prescribed by the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(d)(1)]. Form 656, Offer in Compromise, is the official compromise agreement [see § 96.212]. The offer must be submitted on the current version of the form [see § 96.212[2] (Instructions)].

In a case construing the requirement that the offer in compromise be in writing, the taxpayer had reached an oral agreement concerning tax liability for two tax periods. When the IRS subsequently issued a deficiency notice covering those tax periods, the taxpayer appealed to the Tax Court, arguing that the previous oral agreement, which purported to settle the tax liability for those years, constituted a binding compromise. Alternatively, the taxpayer argued that the IRS was equitably estopped from assessing the deficiency because the taxpayer had relied on the oral agreement and changed his position to his detriment. The Tax Court rejected the taxpayer's arguments, holding that the director of international operations, with whom the oral agreement was reached, lacked authority to bind the IRS because of the regulatory requirement that offers and acceptances of compromises be in writing [Boulez v. Comm'r (D.C. Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 209, 214-215 , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 896 (1987) ; see, e.g., Estate of Carberry v. Comm'r (2d Cir. 1991) 933 F.2d 1124, 1127] .

The circuit court affirmed the ruling of the Tax Court, finding that when a compromise of tax liability is at issue, the need for rigorous compliance with pertinent regulations may be at its greatest, since not only the integrity of the public coffers but also public faith in the equitable enforcement of the tax laws hangs in the balance [Boulez v. Comm'r (D.C. Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 209, 219 , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 896 (1987)] .

Except in civil cases involving assessments of $50,000 or less (including any interest, additional amount, addition to the tax, and assessable penalties), any accepted compromise settlement requires an opinion of the Chief Counsel of the IRS. That opinion must be kept on file and will include a statement of [I.R.C. § 7122(b)]:

- The amount of the tax assessed;
- The amount of interest, additional amount, addition to the tax, or assessable penalty, imposed by law on the taxpayer; and
- The amount actually paid in accordance with the terms of the compromise.

§ 96.70 IRS Closing Agreements

The IRS may enter into a closing agreement with a taxpayer for any taxable period when it appears advantageous to the case, or if the taxpayer shows sufficient reasons for wanting a closing agreement and the IRS determines there will be no disadvantage to the government in entering into the agreement [Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(a); see I.R.C. § 7121(a)].

Once it is approved, a closing agreement is "final and conclusive" [Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(c)]. Unless there is a showing of fraud or malfeasance, the case may not be reopened on the matters agreed on, and the agreement may not be modified by any government employee [I.R.C. § 7121(b); Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(c)(1)]. In any action, or proceeding, the agreement or any determination, assessment, collection, payment, abatement, refund, or credit made in accordance with the agreement may not be annulled, modified, set aside, or disregarded [Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(c)]. However, a closing agreement for a taxable period ending after the date of the agreement must contain a recitation that it is subject to any change in, or modification of, the law enacted after the date of the agreement and made applicable to the taxable period [Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(c)(2)].

For a procedural guide to reaching a closing agreement, see § 96.143]. For closing agreement forms, see §§ 96.217 (applicable to specific items) and 96.218 (applicable to tax liability for an entire tax period).

As is the case with a federal closing agreement [see § 96.70], unless there is a showing of fraud, malfeasance, or a representation of a material fact (1) the case will not be reopened as to any matters agreed on, or the agreement modified, by any officer, employee, or agent of the State of California; and (2) in any suit, action, or proceeding, the agreement or any determination, assessment, collection, payment, abatement, refund, or credit made in accordance with the agreement will not be annulled, modified, set aside, or disregarded [*Rev. & Tax. An attorney (or other practitioner) retained to represent the taxpayer at this point must make critical decisions concerning the merits of the case within a short time.

B. Preliminary Determinations

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.110

§ 96.110 Limitations Periods

1. Did taxpayer file return for the year(s) subject to audit?

NOTE:

Although I.R.C. § 6211(a)(1)(A) defines tax deficiencies with reference to the amount of tax shown on the return, a deficiency can be assessed even if no return was filed [Hartman v. Comm'r (1975) 65 T.C. 542, 546] .

2. Has federal statute of limitations on assessment and collection expired for tax year at issue?

NOTE:

In general, any tax must be assessed within three years after the return was filed [I.R.C. § 6501(a); Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(a)-1(a)]. For purposes of assessing tax liability against a shareholder in a Subchapter S corporation, the federal limitations period runs from the date of filing the shareholder's return, not from the date of filing the corporation's return [Bufferd v. Comm'r (1993) 506 U.S. 523, 529, 113 S. Ct. 927, 122 L. Ed. 2d 306] . For purposes of assessing tax liability against a partner in a partnership, the federal limitations period runs from the date the liable partner's return was filed, not from the date the partnership's return was filed [Charlton v. Comm'n (9th Cir. 1993) 990 F.2d 1161, 1163 ; see also Bufferd v. Comm'r (1993) 506 U.S. 523, 529, 113 S. Ct. 927, 122 L. Ed. 2d 306] .

3. If more than three years have passed since return was filed, do any of following exceptions to statute of limitations apply [I.R.C. § 6501(c); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(c)-1]?

- a. Return was false or fraudulent.

NOTE:

When a return was filed with the intent to evade tax, the tax may be assessed, or a judicial proceeding to collect the tax may be commenced without assessment, at any time after the return is filed [I.R.C. § 6501(c)(1); Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(c)-1(a)].

b. Taxpayer willfully attempted to evade tax.

NOTE:

If there has been a willful attempt in any manner to defeat or evade tax, the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of the tax may be begun without assessment, at any time [I.R.C. § 6501(c)(2); Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(c)-1(b)].

c. Taxpayer failed to file return.

NOTE:

If no return was filed, the IRS may assess the tax or begin a judicial proceeding to collect the tax without assessment, at any time after the date on which the return should have been filed [I.R.C. § 6501(c)(3); Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(c)-1(c)].

d. Taxpayer extended time for assessment by written agreement with the district director or assistant regional commissioner [I.R.C. § 6501(c)-1(d); Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(c)-(d); see §§ 96.204, 96.205].

e. Tax results in changes in certain income tax or estate tax credits [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(5)].

f. IRS has received written document, signed by taxpayer, showing he or she owes additional amount of tax for tax year at issue [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(7)].

NOTE:

If, within the 60-day period ending on the day the statute of limitations would otherwise expire, the IRS receives a written document, signed by the taxpayer, showing an additional tax liability for the tax year at issue, the period of assessment of this additional amount does not expire before the day 60 days after the date on which the IRS receives the document [I.R.C. § 6501(c)(7)].

g. Taxpayer is liable for gift tax on certain gifts not shown on return [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(9); Treas. Reg. § 301.6501(c)-1(e)].

h. Taxpayer failed to notify IRS of certain foreign transfers [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(8)].

i. Private foundation status was terminated [I.R.C. § 6501(c)(6); see I.R.C. § 507 (private foundation status)].

j. Gain was attributable to taxpayer's election not to recognize gain following involuntary conversion, making statutory period for assessment three years from date taxpayer notifies IRS of either [I.R.C. § 1033(a)(2)(C)(i); see I.R.C. § 1033(a)(2)(C)(ii) (exceptions)]:

(1) Replacement of converted property; or

(2) Taxpayer's intention not to replace converted property.

k. Gain following involuntary conversion resulted from exercise of election to purchase replacement property or stock before beginning of last taxable year for the election, making limitations period same as that applicable to assessments for deficiencies for that last taxable year [I.R.C. § 1033(a)(2)(D)].

4. If FTB has notified taxpayer of audit, has California statute of limitations on proposed deficiency assessments expired?

NOTE:

A deficiency assessment must ordinarily be mailed to the taxpayer within the four years following the filing of the return to which it relates [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19057(a)]. For purposes of determining the correct limitations period, any return that is filed before the last permissible day for filing is deemed to have been filed on that last day [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19066(a)]. The running of the limitation period is suspended under specific circumstances [see, e.g., Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 19057(b) (certain Chapter 11 bankruptcy cases), (c) (FTB's receipt of certain taxpayer documents), (d) (exempt organizations later determined to be taxable organizations), 19064 (certain cases involving subpoenas)].

5. If more than four years have passed since California return was filed, will assessment fall within one of following exceptions to statute of limitations?

a. Return was false or fraudulent [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19057(a)].

b. Taxpayer failed to report (or did report, but not on a timely basis) a change or correction made by the IRS in amount of taxpayer's gross income or deductions for any year or failed to file (or did file, but not on a timely basis) amended California return for any year in which amended federal return was filed [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19060; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18622 (time limits for reporting changes or corrections and for filing amended return)].

NOTE:

If the taxpayer does not notify the FTB of changes or corrections made by the IRS, or does not file an amended California return after filing an amended federal return [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 18622], a notice of proposed deficiency assessment resulting from the adjustment may be mailed to the taxpayer at any time [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19060(a)]. If the taxpayer does report changes or corrections made by the IRS or does file a required amended California return but does either on an untimely basis [see Rev. & Tax. Code 18622(b) (six-month time period)], a proposed deficiency assessment may be mailed to the taxpayer within four years from the date the taxpayer or the IRS notified the FTB of those changes or corrections or filed that amended return [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19060(b)].

c. Taxpayer failed to include in gross income amount that [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19058(a)]:

(1) Should have been included in gross income; and

(2) Exceeds 25 percent of amount of gross income stated in return.

NOTE:

If the taxpayer omits an amount in excess of 25 percent of his or her gross income, the state has six years in which to mail a notice of deficiency assessment [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19058(a)]. An amount will not be considered "omitted from gross income" if that amount was disclosed in the return or in a statement attached to the return in a manner adequate to apprise the FTB of the nature and amount of the item [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19058(b)(2)].

d. Assessment is attributable to any partnership item of federally registered partnership [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19063].

e. Time for assessment was extended by written consent of taxpayer [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19067].

The IRS will consider, on a case-by-case basis, written requests by taxpayers or their representatives to transfer the examination to a place other than the one set by the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(e); see Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(f) (transfer to IRS office to protect officers and employees), (g) (initiation of transfer by IRS)].

2. Is scheduled location inconvenient for taxpayer for any reason (e.g., is location of records in field audit outside district where audit is scheduled)?
3. Is there any matter on which guidance is necessary to determine proper application of internal revenue laws, related statutes, and regulations because [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(a)]:

NOTE:

The district director may request "technical advice" from the national office to be used in connection with an audit [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)]. Technical advice is provided by the IRS to assist examiners in closing cases and establishing and maintaining consistent holdings among the districts [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(a)]. While technical advice is sought at the district director's discretion, the taxpayer or his or her representative may request referral of the matter on one of the grounds listed in (a) or (b), below. For a procedural guide to submitting a request for technical advice, see § 96.122.

- a. There is lack of uniformity as to disposition of issue?
- b. Issue is so unusual or complex as to warrant attention of National Office?

1. Has taxpayer received 30-day letter from IRS?
2. If 30-day letter has been issued, is it in taxpayer's best interests to request conference at IRS Office of Appeals?

NOTE:

The IRS encourages appeals conferences rather than immediate resort to judicial proceedings. A case petitioned to the Tax Court will normally be considered for settlement by an appeals office before the Tax Court hears the case [IRS Pub. 556, at 9].

3. Is filing of written protest to proposed changes in taxpayer's liability necessary?

§ 96.114 90-day Letter (Notice of Deficiency)

1. If taxpayer has not yet received 90-day letter, is it in taxpayer's best interests to execute waiver of restrictions on assessment and collection of deficiency [see § 96.216]?

NOTE:

If the taxpayer executes a waiver of restrictions on assessment and collection of a deficiency, he or she relinquishes the right to receive a 90-day letter and consequently loses the opportunity to pursue an appeal to the Tax Court [see § 96.216]. The attorney representing the taxpayer must weigh the circumstances of the particular case to determine if any advantage will be gained by signing the waiver.

2. If taxpayer has already received notice arguably constituting 90-day letter, is it in best interests of taxpayer to attempt to characterize notice as:

NOTE:

There is no prescribed form or content for a notice of deficiency. All that a notice of deficiency need do is identify the taxpayer, show that a deficiency was determined, state the taxable year involved, and set forth the amount of the deficiency [Pasternak v. Comm'r (6th Cir. 1993) 990 F.2d 893, 897] . Thus, characterization of correspondence from the IRS as a notice of deficiency or as a defective notice of deficiency often depends on the taxpayer's strategy.

- a. Defective (and thus forestalling amount of time in which action must be taken)?
- b. 90-day letter (thus creating immediate jurisdiction for appeal to Tax Court)?

3. If notice of deficiency was received from FTB [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19033]:

NOTE:

On the California level, a "notice of deficiency" is the equivalent of a "90-day letter" on the federal level. When a taxpayer's return is available, the FTB may not assess or collect a deficiency without relying on the return [Wertin v. FTB (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 961, 971-974, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 644 (FTB's issuance of notice of proposed assessment of tax deficiency without reviewing tax returns for relevant year rendered FTB's assessment invalid)].

a. Was it mailed within appropriate limitations period [see § 96.110]?

b. Does the notice include a postmark, if issued for deficiency on or after January 1, 2008 [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19033(e), (f)]?

c. Does it specify all of the following [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19034]:

(1) Reasons for proposed additional assessment?

(2) Computation of proposed additional assessment?

(3) Date determined by FTB to be last date on which taxpayer may file written protest under Rev. & Tax Code § 19041?

NOTE:

Failure to include this date will not invalidate a notice that is otherwise valid [Rev. & Tax Code § 19034(b)].

4. Has taxpayer already signed waiver of restrictions on assessment?

NOTE:

For a discussion of the consequences of this type of waiver, see § 96.216.

5. If statute of limitations on assessment is about to run, is it advisable to consent to extension of time within which to make assessment [see §§ 96.204, 96.205]?

NOTE:

IRS policy is to request extensions of assessment periods when the audit is not yet complete and the statute of limitations is about to expire. If the taxpayer refuses to consent to the extension, the IRS may simply proceed to issue a 90-day letter with the information it has, rather than let the limitations period expire. Because internally developed procedural guidelines of the IRS do not have the force of law, an attorney representing a taxpayer in this position should be aware that the examiner need not make the request for an extension and that it is unlikely a taxpayer could successfully use this as a basis to challenge the propriety of a 90-day letter that was not preceded by a request for an extension [see Ward v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 1424, 1431 ; Luhning v. Glotzbach (4th Cir. 1962) 304 F.2d 560, 564-565] .

§ 96.120 Practice Before IRS

NOTE:

Any attorney who is unfamiliar with practice before the IRS should review IRS Pub. No. 216, Conferences and Practice Requirements, available at www.irs.gov.

1. File with IRS one of following documents indicating practitioner's appointment as taxpayer's representative:

- a. IRS Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative [Treas. Reg. § 601.503(b)(1); see § 96.200].
- b. Power of attorney other than IRS Form 2848, together with completed IRS Form 2848 executed by representative [see Treas. Reg. § 601.503(b)].

NOTE:

The attorney should indicate on line 4 of the form whether it will be used for a specific use not recorded in the centralized authorization file (CAF). Examples of specific issues include, but are not limited, to the following [see IRS Form 2848, Instructions]:

- Requests for a private letter ruling or technical advice.
- Applications for an Employer Identification Number (EIN).
- Claims filed on IRS Form 843, Claim for Refund and Request for Abatement.

■ Corporate dissolutions.

■ Requests to change accounting methods or periods.

2. Keep in mind following duties and restrictions [see 31 C.F.R. pt. 10], relating to practice before IRS:

a. Do not neglect or refuse to submit, or attempt to interfere with, efforts of IRS to obtain, records or information concerning dispute [31 C.F.R. § 10.20(a)].

NOTE:

An attorney may attempt to prevent the IRS from gaining access to records or information if he or she believes in good faith and on reasonable grounds that the records or information is privileged [31 C.F.R. § 10.20(a)].

b. Advise client promptly if it appears that he or she has made error in or omission from return, document, affidavit, or other paper that client is required to execute [31 C.F.R. § 10.21].

c. Exercise diligence in [31 C.F.R. § 10.22]:

(1) Preparing or assisting in preparation of, approving, and filing papers related to client's case.

(2) Determining correctness of oral and written representations made to IRS.

(3) Determining correctness of oral and written representations made to clients concerning any matter administered by IRS.

d. Do not unreasonably delay prompt disposition of any matter before IRS [31 C.F.R. § 10.23].

e. Do not accept assistance from [31 C.F.R. § 10.24]:

(1) Person under disbarment or suspension from practice before IRS, if assistance relates to matter constituting practice before IRS [see §§ 92.11, 96.120].

(2) Any former government employee in violation of provisions of any federal law [see, e.g., 31 C.F.R. § 10.25 (practice by former government employees, their partners and associates)].

g. If licensed as notary, do not notarize any documents submitted in matters for which you are representing taxpayer before IRS [31 C.F.R. § 10.26].

h. Do not charge unconscionable fees [31 C.F.R. § 10.27(a)].

i. Do not represent parties with conflicting interests without first [31 C.F.R. § 10.29(b)].

(1) Determining that practitioner will be able to provide competent, diligent representation to all affected clients.

(2) Determining that representation is not prohibited by law.

(3) Obtaining informed, written consent to representation from all directly interested parties.

j. Observe all advertising and solicitation restrictions [see 31 C.F.R. § 10.30].

k. Do not negotiate refund checks made out to taxpayer [see 31 C.F.R. § 10.31].

2. If return under examination was filed jointly and spouses have subsequently separated and established separate residences, notify District Director:
 - a. That taxpayers have separated.

§ 96.122 Technical Advice

1. If guidance is required concerning correct application of internal revenue laws, related statutes, and regulations, ask district director to submit request for technical advice to National Office [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii); see also § 96.206].

NOTE:

This request should be made at the earliest possible stage of the audit. Taxpayers are encouraged to make the request in writing, setting forth the facts, law, and arguments on the issue concerning which advice is sought. However, the taxpayer may make the request orally [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(a)].

2. If district director submits matter to National Office, either of own volition or on taxpayer's request, submit statement [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(g)]:

NOTE:

If the district director submits the request without having been asked to do so by the taxpayer, the taxpayer will be informed of the referral and of his or her right to a conference in the National Office. The taxpayer will be asked to indicate whether he or she desires a conference in the event of an adverse decision [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(h)].

- a. Explaining taxpayer's position of the issues.
- b. Citing precedents that taxpayer believes apply to the case.
- c. Requesting National Office conference in event of proposed adverse decision.

3. If district director declines to refer matter to National Office, consider [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(b)]:

a. Appealing decision by submitting the following to examining officer within 10 calendar days of being advised of decision [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(b); see also § 96.207]:

(1) Statement of facts.

(2) Statement of law.

(3) Arguments with respect to issue.

(4) Reasons matter should be referred to National Office.

b. Submitting written request for extension of time within which to appeal [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(b); see also § 96.208].

NOTE:

The request for an extension of time within which to appeal must be justified by the taxpayer and approved by the Chief of the Examination Division [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(b)].

4. If National Office conference has been requested, be prepared for conference no later than 21 days after request is submitted [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(v)(a)].

NOTE:

The National Office will notify a taxpayer of the time and place of the conference when, after reviewing the request, it appears that adverse advice will be given to the taxpayer. If conferences are being arranged for more than one request for technical advice with respect to the same taxpayer, the National Office will attempt to arrange schedules for the convenience of the taxpayer. The conference arrangements will be made by telephone, if possible [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(v)(a)].

5. Within 21 days following conference at National Office, if any, furnish to National Office written record of any of the following that may have been discussed at conference but were not adequately presented in writing [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(v)(d)]:

NOTE:

Extensions of the 21-day time limit will be allowed only if justified in writing by the taxpayer and approved by the appropriate technical branch chief [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(v)(d)].

a. Additional data.

b. Lines of reasoning.

1. Assemble all documents that:
 - a. Were requested in audit notice.
 - b. Were not requested in audit notice but that might support taxpayer's return.
2. Contact potential witnesses, if any, with knowledge of transactions relevant to tax year(s) under examination.

NOTE:

At the early stages of an office audit, the taxpayer normally will not need to seek the supporting testimony or declarations of witnesses. However, it is good practice to determine (if possible) whether the witnesses will provide favorable or damaging testimony. For example, if an important witness would provide damaging testimony or testimony that would not support the taxpayer's position, pursuing a case through several appellate levels may be inadvisable.

3. Either:
 - a. Meet with examiner at IRS office designated in notice; or
 - b. If meeting at designated office would be inconvenient, request transfer of case to another district office [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7605-1(e); § 96.112, & 1].
4. If taxpayer disagrees with examiner's proposed adjustments, consider examiner's explanation of alternatives, including immediate conference with Appeals Officer [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(c)(1)(ii)].

5. If taxpayer does not request immediate conference with Office of Appeals, await receipt of examination report and 30-day letter (transmittal letter) [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(c)(1)(ii)].

6. On receipt of 30-day letter, consider available alternatives detailed in letter, and either [see Treas. Reg. § 601.105(c)(1)(ii)]:

NOTE:

If the taxpayer takes no action following receipt of the examination report and the 30-day letter, he or she will receive a notice of deficiency (90-day letter) on the expiration of 30 days.

1. Review notice to ensure that it was sent to taxpayer.

NOTE:

Except in cases in which a fiduciary is handling the examination of a deceased taxpayer's return [see I.R.C. § 6903], the 90-day letter must be sent to the taxpayer at his or her last known address, even when the taxpayer is deceased, under a legal disability, or, in the case of a corporation, has terminated its existence [Treas. Reg. § 301.6212-1(b)(1)].

2. If appropriate, notify district director for Internal Revenue district in which joint return was filed that spouses have since established separate residences.

NOTE:

Unless the district director is notified that spouses have established separate residences, he or she may send a 90-day notice to either spouse at the spouse's last known address. However, if notification has been made, a duplicate notice of the original of the joint notice will be sent to the separate residence by either registered or certified mail [Treas. 3. Determine advisability of appeal to Tax Court [see §§ 96.50[4], 96.145].

NOTE:

If an appeal is made to the Tax Court, no additional deficiency may be determined with respect to (1) income tax for the same taxable year; (2) gift tax for the same calendar period [see Treas. § 96.127 Terminating Accrual of Interest on Deficiencies

1. If it appears that there will be deficiency assessment (even though exact amount remains under dispute), consider sending money to cover all or part of assessment to stop interest from accruing [see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 5]:

NOTE:

When a payment is made during the audit, interest will stop accruing on the amount of the deficiency covered by the payment on the date the IRS receives the payment. Because of the compounding rules, interest will continue to accrue on accrued interest even though the underlying tax has been paid. To stop the accrual of both tax and interest, the taxpayer must make a payment or deposit for both the tax and the interest that has accrued as of the date of payment or deposit [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 5].

a. Paying tax; or

NOTE:

If the tax is paid and it ultimately develops that there was an overpayment, the taxpayer will have to file a claim for a refund in order to recover this type of payment [I.R.C. § 7422(a); see § 96.211].

b. Making deposit in form of cash bond.

NOTE:

A deposit does not earn interest. If it is returned to the taxpayer, no interest will be included [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 5].

2. If taxpayer makes deposit, keep in mind that it will be returned on taxpayer's request, without filing a claim for refund, unless the IRS:

NOTE:

If a deficiency is later assessed for the period and type of tax for which a returned deposit was made, interest will be calculated as if the funds were never on deposit [IRS Pub. No. 556, at 5].

- a. Assesses a tax liability.
- b. Determines that return will jeopardize collecting future deficiency.
- c. Determines that deposit should be applied against another tax liability.

1. If taxpayer wishes to pursue possible settlement or compromise of case within IRS, submit written request for appeals conference to director of district in which audit was conducted.

2. Prepare written protest of federal report if [see generally IRS Pub. No. 5; see also § 96.210]:

§ 96.142 Compromise

1. Explore possibilities of compromise of proposed assessment with IRS if there is [I.R.C. § 7122(a)]; see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)]:

NOTE:

The IRS Commissioner has the power to accept a lesser amount in any civil or criminal tax case before referring the case to the Justice Department for prosecution or defense [I.R.C. § 7122(a)]. The Attorney General, or its delegate, may also compromise a case after reference to the Justice Department [I.R.C. § 7122(a)].

a. Doubt about taxpayer's liability; or

b. Doubt about collectibility of tax even if it is assessed.

c. No doubt about liability or collectibility, but either:

(1) Collection of full liability would cause taxpayer economic hardship [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6343-1(b)(4) (meaning of "economic hardship")]; or

(2) Regardless of taxpayer's financial circumstances, case presents compelling reasons that IRS determines are a sufficient basis for compromise.

2. If compromise offer is made orally, immediately confirm offer in writing [see § 96.212].

NOTE:

The requirement that compromises of tax cases be in writing is rigorously enforced. Oral compromises will not be upheld [Boulez v. Comm'r (D.C. Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 209, 218-219 , cert.

denied, 484 U.S. 896 (1987) ; see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(d)(1).

3. If taxpayer is prepared to make compromise offer based on doubt about liability or collectibility [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)], complete IRS Form 656 (Offer in Compromise) [see § 96.212] and either or both Form 433-A [see § 96.213], if taxpayer is individual, and Form 433-B [see 96.214], if taxpayer is business.

NOTE:

The taxpayer should not send financial information for an offer based solely on doubt as to liability [see I.R.C. § 7122(d)(3)(B)(ii)]. Any offer of compromise should be made in good faith. Frivolous offers or offers submitted for the purpose of delaying collection will be returned by the IRS [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)(5)(ii), (g)(4)].

4. If taxpayer is prepared to make compromise offer when there is no doubt about liability or collectibility, but when either collection of full liability would create economic hardship [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6343-1(b)(4) ("economic hardship" defined)], or, regardless of taxpayer's financial circumstances, exceptional circumstances exist [see § 96.212[2] (Instructions)]:

a. Complete IRS Form 656 (Offer in Compromise) indicating the taxpayer's offer amount [see § 96.212].

NOTE:

Complete Item 9 of Form 656 [see § 96.212[2]], clearly explaining why paying the liability in full would create an economic hardship or result in an unfair or inequitable situation for the taxpayer. For further discussion of compromise based on these issues, see § 96.212[1][d].

b. Complete IRS Form 433A, Collection Information Statement for Individuals and attach it to IRS Form 656-A [see § 96.215].

c. If applicable, complete IRS Form 433B, Collection Statement for Businesses.

5. Make payment in one of three ways [see IRS Form 656 (Offer in Compromise) (see § 96.212)]; Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(e)(3):

NOTE:

Partial payment generally is required with the submission of an offer in compromise [see I.R.C. § 7122(c)(1); I.R.C. § 7122(c)(2)(C) (exceptions)]. A lump sum offer in compromise (that is, any offer of payments made in 5 or fewer installments) must be accompanied by the payment of 20 percent of the amount of the offer [I.R.C. § 7122(c)(1)(A)]. Any periodic payment offer in compromise must be accompanied by payment of the amount of the first proposed installment [I.R.C. § 7122(c)(2)(A)].

a. Cash (paid in 90 days or less);

b. Short-term deferred payment (more than 90 days, up to 24 months); or

c. Deferred payment (offers with payment terms over remaining statutory period for collecting tax owed).

NOTE:

In the case of installment offers, keep in mind that if a final payment on an accepted compromise offer is contingent on the immediate or simultaneous release of a tax lien in whole or in part, that final payment will have to be made in accordance with the forms, instructions, or procedures prescribed by the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(e)(4)].

6. If desired, withdraw offer of compromise at any time before its acceptance [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(d)(3)].
7. Be prepared to waive running of statutory period of limitations on both (or either) assessment and collection of tax liability with respect to which compromise offer is made for [see I.R.C. §§ 633(i)(5), (k)(3), 6502; Treas. Reg. § 301-7122-1(g) see also §§ 96.110 (limitations period), 96.204, 96.205 (IRS waiver forms)].

NOTE:

The statute of limitations on collection is suspended during the period in which IRS is prohibited from making a levy or otherwise enforcing collection against the liability that is the subject of the offer in compromise [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(h)(1)].

8. If taxpayer is notified in writing that compromise offer is accepted, be prepared to [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(e)]:
 - a. Enter into collateral agreement proposed by IRS.
 - b. Post security deemed necessary for protection of government's interests.
9. If taxpayer's compromise offer is rejected or if taxpayer decides to withdraw offer, make sure that any amount submitted with offer is refunded [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)].

NOTE:

If the IRS rejects an offer of compromise, the taxpayer will be notified of the rejection in writing [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)(1)]. The taxpayer has right to appeal the decision to the Office of Appeals within 30 days from the date of the rejection letter [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(f)(5)(i)].

10. Determine if taxpayer wishes to submit another offer.

NOTE:

If the offer is increased and the taxpayer's financial situation remains unchanged, additional financial information need not be submitted unless the original offer is more than six months old. However, the taxpayer must provide updated financial information when the original offer is more than six months old or when the taxpayer's financial situation changes [see § 96.212[2]].

§ 96.143 Settlement and Final Closing Agreements

1. If taxpayer and examiner or Appeals Officer agree to settle tax liability, attempt to finalize agreement by showing that [see I.R.C. § 7121; Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(a); see also §§ 96.217, 96.218; Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770]:

NOTE:

If a settlement is reached, it will normally be in the taxpayer's best interests to memorialize it in a final closing agreement. However, the IRS may be reluctant to enter into this type of agreement unless it is convinced the interests of the government will not be adversely affected [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(a)].

a. There is advantage to having case permanently and conclusively closed.

b. There are "good and sufficient reasons" for wanting case closed, and there is no disadvantage to government in consummating agreement.

2. Determine whether closing agreement will be drafted to cover [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(b)]:

a. Entire tax period [see § 96.218].

b. One or more separate items affecting tax liability [see Form 96.217].

c. Both specific items and liability for entire tax period.

NOTE:

There is no IRS form designed to be used as a combination closing agreement. If a combination agreement is necessary, the final page of Treasury Form 906 [see § 96.217] should be used as the final page of the combination agreement [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

3. Prepare closing agreement by requesting and completing IRS Form 866 [see § 96.218] or IRS Form 906 [see § 96.217].

NOTE:

Closing agreements must be executed on the forms prepared by the IRS [Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(d)]. If multiple taxpayers sign the agreement (for example, in the case of a joint return), two additional copies must be prepared for each additional party [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

4. If closing agreement relates to deficiency assessment of $500 or more, specify [I.R.C. § 7121(b)]:

a. Amount of tax assessed.

b. Amount of interest, additional amount, addition to tax, or assessable penalty, imposed by law on taxpayer against whom tax is assessed.

c. Amount actually paid in accordance with terms of compromise.

5. If space on IRS Form 866 [see § 96.218] or 906 [see § 96.217] is insufficient for contents of agreement [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770]:

a. Submit entire agreement on plain bond paper containing all printed provisions on Form 866 or 906; or

b. After completing first page of Form 906, insert clearly identified pages containing additional material between first and second pages of that form.

6. In first paragraph of agreement, specify taxpayer's name, address, and taxpayer identification number [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

7. If it is necessary to include attachments [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770]:

a. Clearly identify each attachment; and

b. Number top of each page.

8. Do not alter or erase any significant portion of agreement [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

9. If change to agreement becomes necessary after IRS has received agreement, make sure that taxpayer dates and initials each page on which change was made [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

10. Do not include in agreement [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770]:

a. Conditions.

NOTE:

One exception to the rule that a closing agreement may contain no conditions exists for a condition stating that another closing agreement between the IRS and a related taxpayer will be accepted if it is concurrently submitted and deemed to be acceptable [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

- b. Provision requiring taxpayer to take some action in future concerning his or her tax liability.
- c. Provision relating to interest unless taxpayer's liability for interest was specifically resolved by agreement.

11. When agreement is complete:

NOTE:

If the IRS forms are not used, the page on which the signatures appear must contain at least two lines of the provision that immediately precedes the signatures [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

- a. Have taxpayer(s) sign at end of agreement.

NOTE:

If the taxpayer's representative wishes to sign on the taxpayer's behalf, he or she must be specifically authorized to do so under the power of attorney filed with the IRS, a copy of which must be submitted [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770 ; see § 96.200].

If spouses are entering into the agreement, one may sign as the agent of the other only if the signing spouse evidences authority under a power of attorney executed by the other spouse. Otherwise, both spouses' signatures must appear on the agreement [Rev. Proc. 68-16, 1968-1 C.B. 770].

- b. Make sure that Internal Revenue officer specifically delegated by Commissioner signs on behalf of government [see Treas. Reg. § 601.202(c)(4) (list of designated officers)].

12. If taxpayer wishes final and conclusive agreement concerning liability for California income tax for any taxable period [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19441; see § 96.33]:

- a. Prepare agreement to be submitted to:

- (1) FTB; or

- (2) Person authorized in writing by FTB to make agreements with taxpayers concerning their tax liability.

- b. Obtain approval of FTB.

§ 96.200 Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative [IRS Form 2848]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 2848] is a power of attorney that a taxpayer uses to empower an agent to represent him or her before the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) with respect to specified tax matters [see Treas. Reg. § 601.504(a) (situations in which power of attorney is required)]. Only a person recognized to practice before the IRS may be designated [see 96.11]. Form 2848, and instructions for completing and filing it, may be obtained from the IRS, and are available online at the IRS website, www.irs.gov. The IRS will accept a power of attorney other than IRS Form 2848 only if the power of attorney meets certain requirements detailed by regulation [see Treas. Reg. § 601.503(b)(2)]. The form is reproduced in [2], below, along with the official IRS instructions.

A taxpayer's representative must execute a written declaration and attach it to the taxpayer's power of attorney [Treas. Reg. § 601.502(c)]. Part II of this form, properly completed, satisfies the requirement of the representative's declaration [see Treas. Reg. § 601.503(b)(1)].

This form allows the attorney in fact to perform essentially all the acts the taxpayer could perform.

If the taxpayer does not want to appoint a representative, but does wish to authorize another individual or an entity to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information relating to the taxpayer, the taxpayer should use IRS Form 8821 [see § 96.201].

For the analogous FTB for form use in California state tax matters, see § 96.230.

[b] Contents of Form

The form is largely self-explanatory. Some items of note include:

- More than one authorized representative may be appointed [see IRS Form 2848, § 2].
- Specific types of tax and specific tax years or periods must be listed [see IRS Form 2848, § 3]. A single power of attorney may cover more than one type of tax and more than one tax period. "Blanket" powers of attorney, covering "all types of taxes" or "all taxable years" are not acceptable. For example, "Income taxes (Form 1040) for 2002, 2003, 2004, and Payroll taxes (Form 941) for 2003 and 2004" would be correct. However, "all tax matters--2003/12, 2004/12" or "Income tax--2002 and subsequent years" would not be correct.
- If more than one representative is to receive copies of written communications, that fact must be noted [see IRS Form 2848, § 7].
- Form 2848 will revoke all previous powers of attorney, unless the previous representative is identified on this form, or a copy of the power of attorney to remain in effect is attached to this form.

§ 96.201 Tax Information Authorization [IRS Form 8821]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 8821] is used by a taxpayer who wishes to authorize another individual or an entity to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information relating to the taxpayer [see I.R.C. § 6103(c); Treas. Reg. §§ 301.6103(c)-1, 601.501(b)(15)]. The authorization will apply to the type of tax and the years or periods specified in the form. The form is a disclosure authorization only and cannot be used to appoint a representative. If the taxpayer wishes to authorize an individual to represent the taxpayer's interests before the IRS, the taxpayer must complete IRS Form 2848 [see § 96.200; see also Treas. Reg. § 601.504(a)] (situations in which power of attorney is required)]. Form 8821, and instructions for completing and filing it, may be obtained from the IRS, and are available online at the IRS website, www.irs.gov.

A taxpayer may file a tax information authorization without using this form. However, the authorization must contain all of the information required on this form [see [2], below (General Instructions to IRS Form 8821)].

A taxpayer may also use a nonwritten consent authorizing the disclosure of tax returns and return information to a third party assisting the taxpayer in resolving tax related matters. Thus, for example, the taxpayer can orally consent to disclosures by the IRS to a person accompanying the taxpayer to meetings or interviews with the IRS, or participating in a telephone conversation with the taxpayer. When the taxpayer is present, either physically or on the telephone, the taxpayer will be able to consent to the disclosure knowingly and voluntarily without the need for further expressing that intent in writing. The IRS is required to take reasonable steps to confirm the identity of the taxpayer and the designee before disclosing tax returns and return information [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)].

[b] Filing

The taxpayer must file the form with each IRS office in which the taxpayer wants the appointee to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information on the taxpayer's behalf. The taxpayer may file the authorization by mail, by fax, or electronically [see [2], below (General Instructions to IRS Form 8821)]. If the authorization is filed for a matter currently pending before an IRS office, the taxpayer must file the authorization with that office [see [2], below (General Instructions to IRS Form 8821)].

[c] Revocation of Previous Authorizations

As indicated in Paragraph 6 of this form, filing a tax information authorization automatically revokes all previously filed tax information authorizations covering the same tax matters and time periods covered by the newly filed form. However, the taxpayer may prevent a revocation from occurring by checking the appropriate box in Paragraph 6.

This form [IRS Form 4506] is used by a taxpayer to request a copy of his or her tax return. If the taxpayer had the return prepared by a paid preparer, the preparer should be able to provide a copy. However, if a taxpayer does not have, or is unable to obtain, a copy of his or her tax return, and the IRS has notified the taxpayer that it will examine (audit) the return, the taxpayer (or the taxpayer's representative) should obtain copies of the return to be examined, and copies of any other returns for which the statute of limitations has not expired [*see I.R.C. § 6501(a); Treas. [1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a request for the transfer of an examination (audit) from the district in which the taxpayer resides to another district. It may be used to request a change of venue for an office examination or a field audit [see § 96.32].

Sometimes a return may be examined more quickly and conveniently if the audit is conducted in a district other than the one in which the taxpayer lives. For example, if the taxpayer must produce substantial documentary evidence, records, or books, it may be preferable to conduct the audit in the district where those materials are located [see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 3-4]. In this case, the taxpayer may use this form to request a change of district.

§ 96.204 Consent to Extend Time to Assess Tax [IRS Form 872]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 872] is a consent to extend the statute of limitations for the assessment of tax. An extension of the statute of limitations using this form sets a fixed time limit in which the IRS must either issue a notice of deficiency, decide not to assess additional tax, or negotiate a new extension. The IRS will likely ask a taxpayer to sign Form 872 when the assessment period will expire before the audit is complete.

For coverage of applicable statutes of limitation, see § 96.110. For a form that waives (rather than extends) the statute of limitations until the taxpayer gives the IRS notice that he or she is revoking the waiver, see § 96.205.

[b] When to Extend Statute of Limitations

Whether to extend the statute of limitations should be given careful consideration. One "advantage" of extending the statute is that the IRS will not be forced to issue a notice of deficiency that might be more detrimental to the taxpayer than a carefully negotiated 30-day letter. On the other hand, extending the statute will give the examiner more time to uncover potentially damaging issues. If the IRS has failed to discover damaging issues, or has not been diligent in its examination, it may be to the taxpayer's advantage to refuse to extend the statute of limitations. In addition, the extension should not be granted (1) before the audit has begun; (2) if the audit has been completed and further negotiations appear to be futile; or (3) if there will be no settlement negotiations until the 90-day letter is issued.

The taxpayer may be placed in a difficult position by an examiner who threatens to disallow deductions or otherwise make an adverse finding unless the taxpayer executes a waiver of the limitations period. While a waiver executed under duress will not be effective, the facts of each case must be examined to determine whether duress existed. The IRS is afforded broad leeway in this regard [see, e.g., Shireman v. Comm'r (2004) 87 T.C.M. (CCH) 1448, T.C. Memo 2004-155 (when examiner threatened to take legally authorized actions if taxpayer did not sign waiver, neither duress nor coercion existed and waiver was valid); Narragansett Wire Co. v. Comm'r (1973) 32 T.C.M. (CCH) 643, T.C.

Memo 1973-135 (same)].

[c] Representative's Execution of Extension

The practitioner representing the taxpayer may sign this consent form on the taxpayer's behalf, provided the action is authorized by a properly filed Form 2848 [see [2], below (instructions); see also § 96.200 (IRS Form 2848)].

[d] Effect on Taxpayer's Appeal Rights

The execution of this form will not prevent the taxpayer from subsequently exercising the right to appeal a deficiency assessment once it has been issued. For a discussion of appeal rights, see §§ 96.50, 96.141, 96.145.

[e] Modification of Form; Restricted Consent

Accompanying documents (drafted either by the government or by the taxpayer) may condition or modify the waiver of the statute of limitations [see United States v. Hodgekins (N.D. Ind. 1993) 832 F. Supp. 1255, 1260 ; Neilson v. Harrison (7th Cir. 1942) 131 F.2d 205, 209] . The taxpayer should also consider a restricted consent, limited to one issue. This would protect the taxpayer from new issues being raised by the IRS.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 872-A] is a waiver of the statute of limitations for the assessment of tax. A waiver is effective until the taxpayer gives the IRS notice on Form 872-T (Notice of Termination of Special Consent to Assess Tax) or another appropriate form that the taxpayer is revoking the waiver. The issuance of a 90-day letter by the IRS also terminates this waiver [see [2], below]. Practitioners generally prefer IRS Form 872 [see § 96.204], because it extends the statute for a fixed time, rather than an indefinite one.

For coverage of applicable statutes of limitation, see § 96.110.

PART IV. FORMS

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.206

§ 96.206 Request for Technical Advice

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a request for technical advice from the National Office of the IRS. The IRS provides technical advice to assist examiners in closing cases and establishing and maintaining consistent holdings among the districts [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(i)(a)]. An attorney may request technical advice at time during the examination, but it is preferable to request advice at the earliest possible stage [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(ii)(b)]. A request should be made if a point arises on which the application of the law is unclear and an answer concerning that application will determine the strategy for the future handling of the audit.

This form should be submitted to the examiner conducting the audit. After considering the taxpayer's request, the examiner will either submit the request to the district director or will inform the taxpayer that, in his or her opinion, the circumstances do not warrant submission of the request to the National Office [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(a)]. For an outline of the procedures to be followed in appealing a decision not to refer a request for technical advice, see § 96.122. For a representative letter of appeal and a discussion of the appeal process, see § 96.207.

For a list of the procedures available when a request for technical advice has been granted and the advice from the National Office is adverse to the taxpayer, see § 96.122.

[b] Areas in Which Technical Advice May Be Requested

Technical advice may be requested on any technical or procedural question arising in connection with the audit of a return or a taxpayer's claim for a refund or credit [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(ii)].

[c] Circumstances Warranting Request for Technical Advice

A request for technical advice may be made by, or on behalf of, a taxpayer to clarify the correct application of the internal revenue laws, related statutes, and/or regulations to a particular set of facts. Clarification may be necessary when there is lack of uniformity among the districts or decisions concerning the issue or because the issue presented is unusual or complex. Technical advice does not include memoranda on matters of general technical application furnished to district offices when the issues are not raised in connection with the examination of a specific taxpayer's return [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(i)(a), (iii)(a)].

Only the director of the district where the audit is conducted may submit a request for technical advice to the National Office [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(a)]. Therefore, a taxpayer seeking advice must convince the examiner conducting the audit that the circumstances warrant submission of the request.

§ 96.207 Appeal of Refusal to Submit Request for Technical Advice

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an appeal from the district director's refusal to submit a request for technical advice to the National Office of the IRS. An examiner who has declined to submit a request for technical advice to the National Office pursuant to a taxpayer's request [see § 96.206] must inform the taxpayer of his or her decision [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(a)]. Within 10 calendar days, a taxpayer who wishes to further pursue the matter must appeal that decision or file a request for an extension of time within which to appeal the decision [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(b)].

For a procedural guide outlining the actions to take when a request for technical advice has been granted and the advice from the National Office is adverse to the taxpayer, see § 96.122.

[b] Required Contents

An appeal of an examiner's decision not to submit a request for technical advice must contain [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(b)]:

- A statement of facts.
- A statement of law.
- Arguments with respect to the issue.
- An explanation of the reasons why the taxpayer believes the matter should be referred to the National Office.

[c] Appeal Process

The examiner will submit the appeal and accompanying statements to the Chief of the Examination Division, along with a statement outlining the examiner's reasons why the matter should not be referred to the National Office. Based on consideration of the statements submitted by the taxpayer and by the examiner, the Chief will determine whether the matter should be referred. If the Chief determines that technical advice is not warranted, he or she will notify the taxpayer in writing that he or she intends to deny the request, giving the specific reasons for that decision. The taxpayer has 15 days from receipt of the letter in which to notify the Chief of the Examination Division whether he or she agrees with the denial. The taxpayer has no right to appeal the decision. However, if the taxpayer disagrees with the proposed denial, all data relating to the issue for which technical advice has been sought, including the taxpayer's written request [see § 96.206] and statements, will be submitted to the National Office for review. The review will be solely on the basis of the written record and no conference on the matter will be held in the National Office. After the review is complete, the district office will be notified whether the proposed denial is approved or disapproved [Treas. Reg. §§ 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(c), (d)].

[d] Suspension of Proceedings Pending Review

While the appeal and accompanying statements are under review in the National Office, the district office will suspend action on the issue, provided that the position of the government is not prejudiced by that suspension. The National Office will notify the district director of its decision with 30 days from the date the data was received [Treas. Reg. § 601.105(b)(5)(iv)(d)].

§ 96.209 Income Tax Examination Changes [IRS Form 4549]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 4549] is a report issued by the IRS on completion of an individual income tax examination, showing the proposed examination changes. The form includes a consent to assessment under which the taxpayer relinquishes his or her rights to appeal within the IRS or to the Tax Court [see [2], below].

[b] Closed Cases

An attorney who receives this report on behalf of a client-taxpayer and determines that the report is acceptable should request a final closing agreement from the IRS in order to ensure that the matter will not be reopened [see §§ 96.70, 96.217, 96.218].

A case is deemed "closed" at the district level when the taxpayer is notified in writing following the district conference, if any, that his or her return has been accepted or that certain specified adjustments have been made [Rev. Proc. § 85-13, 1985-1 C.B. 514]. If a 90-day letter [see § 96.50[3]] was issued in the case, the case is considered "closed" when the period for filing a petition with the Tax Court expires and no petition was filed [Rev. Proc. § 85-13, 1985-1 C.B. 514].

[c] Reopening Closed Cases

The IRS may reopen a closed case if no final closing agreement were executed with respect to that case [see §§ 96.70, 96.217, 96.218]. The Chief of the Examination Division or the Chief of the Compliance Division must approve the reopening of a case. That approval will be granted only if (1) there was fraud, malfeasance, collusion, concealment, or misrepresentation of a material fact, or (2) a substantial error was involved in the closing of the case [Rev. Proc. § 85-13, 1985-1 C.B. 514].

CHAPTER 96 TAX RETURNS, AUDITS, AND PROTESTS
PART IV. FORMS
A. Federal Audits

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.210

§ 96.210 Protest of Federal Tax Deficiency and Request for Hearing

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a letter that may be used to protest a proposed federal tax deficiency. The form contains alternative provisions requesting a hearing before the IRS Office of Appeals or the Audit Division.

[b] Notice of Deficiency

A notice of a tax deficiency may be mailed to a taxpayer at any time during an examination [see §§ 96.32, 96.36]: while the examination is in progress, after it has been completed, or even during compromise negotiations [Cataldo v. United States (2d Cir. 1974) 501 F.2d 396, 397 ; Rosenberg v. Comm'r (10th Cir 1971) 450 F.2d 529, 531] .

After the examiner has conducted the examination, he or she will discuss the proposed deficiency with the taxpayer. If the taxpayer agrees to the deficiency, the taxpayer will be asked to execute a Form 870 or a Form 870-AD. Form 870 is a waiver of restrictions on assessment. It is not a formal settlement agreement, although it is rarely reversed. Form 870-AD is almost the equivalent of a closing agreement. Form 870-AD is further discussed in § 96.216.

If the taxpayer does not agree to the deficiency, the IRS will issue a 30-day letter, stating the amount of the deficiency, the basis for the deficiency assessment, and a statement that the taxpayer has 30 days from the date of the letter to request a conference or a hearing [see § 96.50[2]].

[c] Options Available to Taxpayer

After a taxpayer has received a 30-day letter, he or she may do one of the following:

- Pay the assessed deficiency and sign the waiver form enclosed with the letter [see § 96.209].

- Request a district conference [see [d], below].
- Request a hearing before the Office of Appeals [see [e], below].
- Wait for the IRS to issue a 90-day letter, and then either file a petition with the Tax Court [see § 96.50[3], [4]]; or pay the assessment and then claim a refund and, when it is denied, file an action for a refund in the District Court or Court of Claims, as applicable [see I.R.C. § 7422; see also [g], below].

[d] Request for District Conference

If the taxpayer wants a district conference with the Audit Division, he or she must submit a written request for the conference within 30 days from the date of the 30-day letter. A written protest must accompany the request if a field audit was conducted. A written protest is unnecessary when there has been an office audit or the proposed deficiency is less than $2,500 [see IRS Pub. No. 5; § 96.50[2]].

In determining whether a district conference is advisable, the attorney should keep in mind that the authority at the district level is limited to a resolution of factual questions. If the dispute is over a legal issue, that issue will not be resolved. The attorney should also keep in mind that the conference may result in the disclosure of additional bases for tax liabilities that might not otherwise have been brought to the attention of the IRS.

[e] Request for Appellate Hearing

If a legal issue underlies the controversy, a hearing before the IRS Office of Appeals should be requested. However, there is always the risk that previously undiscovered tax deficiencies may be unearthed during the hearing. Thus, when large amounts are involved, an attorney should seriously consider advising the client to pay the deficiency assessment and having the tax year in question closed.

The taxpayer must file a written request for a hearing [see [2], below]. In representing the taxpayer during the hearing, the attorney should be familiar with the rules governing conduct of the Office of Appeals during the hearing [see Treas. Reg. § 601.106(d)(3) (conference and practice requirements)]. The Office is prohibited from discriminating among taxpayers and is required to strictly and impartially adhere to the applicable law. If there are substantial questions of law and/or fact, the Office Division must seriously consider offering to settle the dispute on a basis that fairly reflects the relative merits of the opposing positions. If the taxpayer makes a good faith offer to settle, which is nonetheless unacceptable to the IRS, the IRS Appeals representative should communicate its position and provide the taxpayer with an evaluation of the case in a manner that will enable the taxpayer to ascertain the type of settlement offer that might be recommended for acceptance [Treas. Reg. § 601.106(f)(1), (2)].

[f] Failure to Request Hearing

If the taxpayer does not reply to the 30-day letter, the IRS will issue a 90-day letter, after which the taxpayer will have 90 days in which to either pay the assessment or file a petition with the Tax Court for a resolution of the dispute [I.R.C. §§ 6212(a), 6213(a); see Fayeghi v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 2000) 211 F.3d 504, 506-507 (tax court lacked authority to enjoin collection of taxes pursuant to motion to restrain collection; I.R.C. § 6213(a) did not apply because tax at issue was not a "deficiency")]. That notice must include a notice to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's right to contact a local office of the taxpayer advocate and the location and phone number of the appropriate office [I.R.C. § 6212(a)]. If the taxpayer takes no action within the 90-day period, the IRS will take action to collect the deficiency. The IRS may attempt collection in any of several manners, including liens [see I.R.C. § 6321], levies, seizures, and sales of property [see I.R.C. § 6331]. An explanation of collection procedures is beyond the scope of this chapter.

When the controversy is based on an IRS revenue ruling, a request for a hearing may be inadvisable because the Office of Appeals is bound to follow the ruling. A taxpayer who wishes to pursue the matter should file a petition with the Tax Court or the district court. Before filing in district court, the taxpayer must have paid the deficiency and filed a claim for a refund [see § 96.50[4]] which was denied by the IRS [I.R.C. § 7422(a); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6402-2(a)(1)].

[g] Payment of Deficiency

If the taxpayer pays the deficiency, he or she may bring an action for refund in either the federal district court or in the Court of Claims. Generally, the venue for refund actions is the former.

The question whether to litigate in the Tax Court (without prior payment) or in the district court (with prior payment) depends on the nature of the dispute and the question of law involved. If a complex legal issue is involved, a proceeding in Tax Court is generally preferable because that court deals exclusively in that area of law and is better equipped to understand the nature of the controversy. However, if the dispute involves a question of fact or a legal issue concerning which existing law is not consistent among all circuits, it may be preferable to pay the tax and bring an action for a refund in the district court or Court of Claims. Payment has the added advantage of stopping the running of interest on the deficiency.

[h] Preparation of Written Protest

Written protests must be prepared for all cases except those in which (1) the proposed increase or decrease in tax, or claimed refund, does not exceed $2,500 for the tax period involved; or (2) the examination was conducted by correspondence or in an office audit [IRS Pub. No. 5, Your Appeal Rights and How to Prepare a Protest If You Don't Agree; see § 96.32[2]].

When a written protest is necessary, it should be sent within the time specified in the letter transmitting the report of examination. The protest should include all of the following [IRS Pub. No. 5]:

- A statement that the taxpayer wishes to appeal the findings of the examiner to the Appeals Office.
- The taxpayer's name and address.
- The date and symbols from the letter transmitting the proposed adjustments and findings that are being protested.
- The tax periods or years involved.
- An itemized schedule of the adjustments with which the taxpayer disagrees.
- A statement of facts, declared under penalty of perjury, supporting the taxpayer's position in any contested factual issue.
- A statement outlining the law or other authority on which the taxpayer is relying.

The declaration of facts must be made under penalty of perjury. If the protest is prepared by the taxpayer, he or she should add the following declaration: "Under penalties of perjury, I declare that the facts presented in my written protest, which are set out in the accompanying statement of facts, schedules, and other attached statements, are to the best of my knowledge and belief, true, correct, and complete." If the protest is prepared by the attorney, he or she may substitute a declaration stating (1) that the attorney prepared the protest and accompanying documents; and (2) whether he or she knows personally that the protest and accompanying documents are true and correct [IRS Pub. No. 5].

The written protest must be executed by the taxpayer or his or her representative [IRS Pub. No. 5].

A. Federal Audits

§ 96.211 Claim for Refund (Amended Income Tax Return) [IRS Form 1040X]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS 1040X] must be used to amend individual income tax return [Treas. Reg. § 301.6402-3(a)(2); see Treas. Reg. § 301.6402-3(e) (rules for nonresident aliens)]. The form and instructions may be obtained from the IRS, and are available online at the IRS website, www.irs.gov.

For a form to be used in claiming a refund of California state taxes, see § 96.233.

[b] Effect of Amended Return on California Income Tax

A taxpayer who files an amended federal income tax return must file a similarly amended California return with the FTB within 90 days, and pay any additional tax that may be due [18 Cal. Code Reg. § 19059(b)].

[c] Time Within Which Claim for Refund Must Be Filed

If a return has been filed, any claim for a tax credit or refund must be filed within three years from the time the return was filed, or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. When no return was filed, the claim for a tax credit or refund must be filed within two years from the time the tax was actually paid [I.R.C. § 6511(a)].

If, before the statute of limitations for assessment of a tax expires, the IRS and the taxpayer agree in writing to extend that date, the tax may be assessed at any time before expiration of the date agreed on [see I.R.C. § 6501(c)(4)]. When the parties agree to an extension of the assessment date, the period for filing a claim for a tax credit or refund is the later of six months after the extended assessment date or two years after the payment of the tax [I.R.C. § 6511(c)].

[d] Limit on Amount of Refund

The amount of a refund is limited by statute. If the claim is filed within the three-year period following the filing of the return, the refund cannot exceed the portion of the tax paid within that period [I.R.C. § 6511(b)(2)(A)]. If the claim was not filed within the three-year period but was filed within two years of the date the tax was paid, the refund cannot exceed the amount of the tax that was paid within that two-year period [I.R.C. § 6511(b)(2)(B)].

[e] Investigation of Amended Return

When a claim for a refund is filed, the entire return for the year (including matters otherwise barred by the statute of limitations) for which the claim is filed is open for investigation, but only for the purpose of determining whether there was an overpayment of taxes [Lewis v. Reynolds (1932) 284 U.S. 281, 283, 52 S. Ct. 145, 76 L. Ed. 293] . Therefore, in investigating the claim, the IRS is entitled to consider all matters that would increase or decrease income or deductions. However, matters barred by the statute of limitations can only be raised to the extent of the amount of the refund and cannot be used as the basis for assessing a deficiency against the taxpayer.

PRACTICE TIP:

If a taxpayer files a false return but later files a nonfraudulent amended return, the filing of the amended return will not cause the statute of limitations to begin running, and the IRS may assess tax at any time [Badaracco v. Comm'r (1984) 464 U.S. 386, 395, 104 S. Ct. 756, 78 L. Ed. 2d 549] .

[f] Filing Actions for Refunds

A taxpayer may elect to pursue a refund either by way of an appeal in the Tax Court or in an action in the federal district court [see Flora v. United States (1960) 362 U.S. 145, 148, 80 S. Ct. 630, 4 L. Ed. 2d 623] .

Before a taxpayer may file an action for recovery of any tax payment, he or she must first file a claim for a refund [I.R.C. § 7422(a)]. An action in the district court for a refund based on a deficiency raised in an examination of the taxpayer's return may only be brought if the taxpayer has paid the entire amount of the deficiency, since a partial payment would not enable the taxpayer to maintain an action for a refund [see Flora v. United States (1960) 362 U.S. 145, 177, 80 S. Ct. 630, 4 L. Ed. 2d 623] .

[g] Filing by Taxpayer's Representative

Claims for refunds may be filed by authorized representatives, as well as by the taxpayer.

If the taxpayer who filed the original return has died, the legal representative may file for a refund and, when doing so, must attach to the claim certified copies of the letters testamentary or of administration evidencing his or her authority [Treas. Reg. § 301.6402-2(e)]. For a general discussion of the authority of executors and administrators, see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms .

If an agent of the taxpayer files a claim for a refund, he or she must be authorized under a power of attorney to act on the taxpayer's behalf and that power of attorney must be attached to the claim [see § 96.200].

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.212

§ 96.212 Offer in Compromise [IRS Form 656]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 656] is the official IRS compromise agreement. The taxpayer must use this form to make an offer to pay less than the full amount of liability owed in any civil or criminal case [see [2], below (Instructions); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(d)(1); see also I.R.C. § 7122(a)].

Copies of this form may be obtained from any district office of the IRS, by calling (800) 829-1040 or by downloading the form from the IRS website, www.irs.gov.

[b] Additional Forms Required

If the taxpayer submits an offer in compromise based on doubt as to collectibility, the taxpayer must also submit Form 433-A, Collection Information Statement for Wage Earners and Self-Employed Individuals [see § 96.213], or Form 433-B, Collection Information Statement for Businesses [see § 96.214]. If the taxpayer is an individual who operates a business, the taxpayer must submit both forms. However, the taxpayer should not send financial information for an offer based solely on doubt as to liability [see I.R.C. § 7122(d)(3)(B)(ii); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(e)(1)].

For further discussion of offers in compromise, see § 96.61. For a step-by-step procedural guide for making a compromise offer, see § 96.142.

[c] Nature of Compromise

The Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General or his or her delegate may compromise any civil or criminal case arising under the internal revenue laws [I.R.C. § 7122(a)]. On proper acceptance by the IRS, an offer of compromise becomes a binding contract [Aviation Corp. v. United States (Ct. Cl. 1942) 97 Ct. Cl. 550, 575-576, 46 F. Supp. 491 ; Castle v. United States (1937) 17 F. Supp. 515, 84 Ct. Cl. 300, 311] .

There is a distinction between a compromise and a settlement of a tax case. A "compromise" is appropriate only when (1) the taxpayer admits a tax liability but is financially unable to satisfy that liability; or (2) there is doubt as to liability [see Rev. Proc. 80-6, 1980-1 C.B. 586]. On the other hand, the term "settlement" refers to the process in which a taxpayer who disagrees with the findings of an examiner at the conclusion of an audit attempts to finally resolve his or her case within the IRS [see § 96.35[1]].

[d] Offer Based on Issues of Equity and Economic Hardship

The IRS may accept an offer in compromise to "promote effective tax administration," because full collection would cause the taxpayer economic hardship [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)(3)(i); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 7-8; see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6343-1(b)(4) (meaning of "economic hardship")], or because the taxpayer's case presents compelling reasons that the IRS determines are a sufficient basis for compromise [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(b)(3)(ii); see IRS Pub. No. 556, at 7-8].

In determining whether to accept or reject an offer in compromise on the ground that acceptance would promote effective tax administration, the IRS must consider several nonconclusive factors, including the taxpayer's record of overall compliance with the tax laws [see Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)(3) (nonconclusive factors to be considered in evaluating these offers); see also Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(c)(3)(iii) (examples)].

If a taxpayer bases his or her offer on issues of equity and economic hardship, the taxpayer must complete Item 9 on Form 656 [see [2], below], explaining the taxpayer's exceptional circumstances and why requiring payment of the tax liability in full would create an economic hardship or be unfair. The taxpayer must also attach to Form 656 any documents to help support his or her exceptional circumstances [see [2], below (Instructions)].

[e] Waiver and Extension of Statute of Limitations

When the taxpayer signs an offer, he or she agrees to suspend the statute of limitations on collection for all the tax periods of the offer [see I.R.C. § 6331(i)(5); Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(i)(1)]. The IRS may also require the extension of the statute of limitations on assessment. However, in any case in which waiver of the running of the statute of limitations on assessment is sought, the IRS must notify the taxpayer of the right to refuse to extend the period of limitation or to limit the extension to particular issues or particular periods of time [Treas. Reg. § 301.7122-1(i)(2)].

A waiver of the statute of limitations is effective even if the offer is ultimately rejected by the IRS [see United States v. Brown (E.D. Pa. 1964) 225 F. Supp. 414, 415, aff'd, 337 F.2d 858 (3d Cir. 1964)].

§ 96.216 Offer to Waive Restrictions on Assessment and Collection of Tax Deficiency and to Accept Overassessment [IRS 870-AD]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 870-AD] is a waiver of the restriction on assessment and collection of a tax deficiency. It operates as a waiver to the protections normally afforded by a 90-day letter under I.R.C. § 6213(a), because its effect is to waive the taxpayer's right to receive that 90-day letter [see § 96.50[3]]. The execution and filing of this form thus renders any proposed deficiency subject to immediate assessment and collection [see Quigley v. IRS (D.C. Cir. 1960) 289 F.2d 878, 880] .

This form is used by the IRS Office of Appeals. If the case is still in the audit division, IRS Form 870 should be used.

[b] Conditional Waivers

The form itself provides for the prompt payment of deficiencies and that the taxpayer will not file any claim for refund or credit [see [2], below]. The form also provides that if the Commissioner accepts this offer, the IRS will not reopen the case absent any of the following [see [2], below]:

- Fraud, malfeasance, concealment or misrepresentation of material fact.
- An important mistake in mathematical calculation.
- Deficiencies or overassessments resulting from certain partnership and business allowances.
- An excessive tentative allowance of a carryback.

This limitation constitutes a condition, and therefore does not become executory on filing. Rather, the form must first be accepted by, or on behalf of, the Commissioner before it becomes effective [see Godchaux v. United States (E.D. La. 1952) 102 F. Supp. 266, 269].

§ 96.217 Closing Agreement on Final Determination Covering Specific Matters [IRS Form 906]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 906] is a final closing agreement covering specific matters under examination. This form would be used, for example, when the parties are unable to agree on an unqualified liability figure for a past taxable year, but may want to reach a final determination regarding taxable income only.

For a closing agreement that determines the tax and liability for each type of tax and period listed on the agreement [IRS Form 866], see § 96.218. If parties want to set forth their agreement on both liability and specific matters, they should use both Forms 906 and 866.

[b] Effect of Agreement

When this form is completed and properly executed by the taxpayer and the Commissioner (or a person to whom the Commissioner has given written authorization), the taxpayer's liability on the covered matters will be conclusively determined, unless there is a showing of fraud, malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact [I.R.C. § 7121(b)(1); Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(c)]. Moreover, the agreement cannot be modified by the government, and the determination, assessment, collection, payment, abatement, refund, or credit covered by the agreement cannot be set aside in any other proceeding [I.R.C. § 7121(b)]. However, a closing agreement with respect to a taxable period ending subsequent to the date of the agreement is subject to any change in, or modification of, the law enacted subsequent to the date of the agreement and made applicable to the taxable period, and each closing agreement must recite this fact [Treas. Reg. § 301.7121-1(c)].

A final closing agreement operates as a mutual release. It binds both the taxpayer and the IRS, regardless of the fact that there is no mutual consideration [Proctor v. White (D. Mass. 1939) 28 F. Supp. 161, 167] . Although the final closing agreement is conclusive between the taxpayer and the IRS concerning the matters it covers, its terms are not binding on third parties [see Phillips v. Comm'r (3d Cir. 1949) 178 F.2d 270, 271 , writ denied, 339 U.S. 932 (1950)] .

For further discussion of final closing agreements, see § 96.70. For a procedural guide to be used to determine whether the IRS is likely to agree to enter into a final closing agreement, see § 96.143.

[c] Other Documents as Final Closing Agreements

Any taxpayer who wishes to effect a final closing agreement with the IRS should take care to use this form or, if appropriate under the circumstances, Form 866 [see § 96.218]. Some taxpayers have unsuccessfully attempted to assert that final closing agreements were made by way of other documents in which the taxpayer relinquished a right or made a notation indicating an understanding that the matter was conclusively disposed of [see, e.g., Uinta Livestock Corp. v. United States (10th Cir. 1966) 355 F.2d 761, 765 (Form 870-AD) ; Howard v. Comm'r (1956) 15 T.C.M. (CCH) 1152, T.C. Memo 1956-219 (check with notation indicating that payment fully satisfied tax liability)]. Accordingly, it is very important to leave no doubt that the arrangement reached was in fact a final closing agreement within the meaning of I.R.C. § 7121. Toward this end, the appropriate IRS form should be used.

§ 96.230 Power of Attorney Declaration for Franchise Tax Board [FTB Form 3520]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Franchise Tax Board's power of attorney form [Form FTB 3520], which authorizes one or more designated persons to represent a taxpayer before the Franchise Tax Board. It is the California counterpart to IRS Form 2848 [see § 96.200], which serves a similar function in federal proceedings. The official instructions are reproduced here along with the form. This form is available online at the forms and publications page of the FTB's website, located at www.ftb.ca.gov. Additional information on the use of power of attorney in FTB proceedings is located on the power of attorney page on the FTB website, which is located at www.ftb.ca.gov/law/Poa/index.html.

This form is used to grant an individual the power to receive confidential tax information or to represent a taxpayer before the FTB. It can also be used to authorize an individual to receive information for non tax-related issues administered by the FTB, such as homeowner and renter assistance and child support collection.

In lieu of this form, the FTB will accept IRS Forms 2848 [see § 96.200] and 8821 [see § 96.201], provided those forms are modified to state clearly that they apply to FTB proceedings. The FTB will also accept a joint FTB/Board of Equalization power of attorney form (Form BOE 392), properly completed, as well as general or durable power of attorney declarations, and handwritten authority documents. However, in order to be acceptable, those documents must include specified items, including a clear statement that that the power applies to FTB matters. For a detailed list of the required contents of such a power of attorney, see "Purpose of Form" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below.

[c] Completing the Form

The official instructions reproduced in [2], below, contain detailed information on completing the form, and are largely self-explanatory. Note that multiple representatives may be designated if desired. Note also that the taxpayer must specify the tax years or periods covered by the power; the powers of the named representative are limited to those tax years specified. Past years can be listed; however, the power can be extended only to those future time periods that end not later than three years from the current year.

Specific limitations or deletions may be made to the acts otherwise authorized. Unless the powers of the representatives are limited, they will have the powers to do all of the following:

- Receive and inspect confidential tax information.
- Represent the taxpayer in matters before the FTB.
- Sign waivers that extend the statutory period for assessment of determination of taxes.
- Execute settlement agreements.
- Execute closing agreements.

The taxpayer, owner, officer, receiver, administrator, or trustee for the taxpayers must sign the declaration. If it is a joint power of attorney, both spouses must sign. If the form is not signed and dated, the FTB will return it. The form should be mailed to the address shown in the instructions, or may be faxed to the FTB.

31-96 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 96.231

§ 96.231 Protest of State Tax Deficiency

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a protest of a tax deficiency proposed by the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB). When a taxpayer disagrees with the adjustments proposed by a state auditor, the auditor will explain the protest procedures available to the taxpayer [see FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 16210 et seq.].

A taxpayer who disagrees with a deficiency assessment must file a written protest within 60 days after the mailing of each notice of additional tax proposed to be assessed [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19041(a); see, e.g., Werten v. FTB (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 961, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 644 (taxpayers protested notice of proposed assessment on grounds that FTB issued it without reviewing plaintiffs' tax returns; assessment was held invalid)].

Any protest filed on or before the last date specified for filing by the FTB in any notice of proposed deficiency assessment (according to Rev. & Tax Code § 19034) will be treated as timely filed [Rev. & Tax Code § 19041(b)].

[b] Required Contents

Unlike the written protest under federal law [see § 96.210[1][h]], a state protest of a deficiency assessment need not be verified or made under oath. The only specific requirement for a state protest is that it specify the grounds on which the protest is based [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19041(a)].

[c] Action Following Filing of Protest

If the taxpayer files a protest to a deficiency assessment, the FTB will reconsider the assessment and, if the taxpayer requested it in the protest, will grant the taxpayer or his or her representative an oral hearing [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19044]. These hearings are informal and are usually conducted in Sacramento or at one of the larger district offices. If the taxpayer does not request a hearing, the protest officer assigned to the case will contact the taxpayer, by letter, indicating the material that must be submitted to support the protest [see FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 16300].

When the FTB has reached a decision, it will mail a Notice of Action to the taxpayer [see Rev. & Tax Code § 19045(a); see also FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 16240].

[d] Appeal

The action taken by the FTB on a protest is final, and the assessment payable, 30 days from the date that the Notice of Action is mailed to the taxpayer, unless within that 30-day period the taxpayer appeals in writing from the action of the FTB to the Board of Equalization [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 19045-19048]; see also § 96.232.

As an alternative to appealing the decision of the FTB, the taxpayer who still disagrees with the proposed adjustments may pay the deficiency and file a claim for a refund [see FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 16270].

§ 96.232 Appeal From Decision of FTB

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an appeal from an adverse decision by the FTB on a taxpayer's written protest concerning deficiency assessment. For a form and discussion of this type of protest, see § 96.231.

Two copies of the appeal and two copies of any supporting documents must be addressed and mailed to the State Board of Equalization in Sacramento, California. On receipt of the appeal, the Board of Equalization must provide one copy of the appeal and one copy of any supporting documents to the FTB [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19046].

[b] Presentation of Appeal

If an appeal to the State Board of Equalization is filed, the taxpayer will be afforded an opportunity to assemble and submit additional information in support of his or her position. An oral hearing will be scheduled unless it is waived by both the taxpayer and the FTB [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 19044; FTB, General Tax Audit Manual, § 16230].

[c] Action by the Board of Equalization

After receipt of the appeal, the Board of Equalization will decide the matter and will notify the taxpayer and the FTB of its determination and its reasoning in reaching that determination [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19047]. The determination of the Board becomes final on the expiration of 30 days from the time it is rendered unless, within that 30-day period, the taxpayer or the FTB files a petition for a rehearing with the Board. If a petition for rehearing is filed, the decision of the Board will become final on the expiration of 30 days from the day the Board issues its opinion on the petition [Rev. & Tax. Code § 19048].

CHAPTER 97 PRIVATE LOANS AND ANNUITIES

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter covers loans and annuity agreements between private individuals.

The discussion of private loans focuses on simple loan transactions, tax treatment of below-market loans, and the use of private loans as a tool for family tax planning. For analysis and forms covering commercial loans and more complex private loans, see Ch. 55, Commercial Paper and Other Methods of Fund Transfers. For discussion of consumer credit transactions, see Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales. This chapter does not cover loans secured by real property. For analysis and forms relating to security transactions involving real property, see Ch. 25, Real Estate Loans; Ch. 25A, Security Instruments for Real Estate Financing; Ch. 25B, Subordination, Assumption, and Assignment; Ch. 25C, Release and Reconveyance; and Ch. 25D, Foreclosure.

The discussion of private annuities focuses on the advantages and disadvantages of annuities as a personal planning device, the use of annuities in family tax planning and property management strategies, and the characterization of annuity payments for tax purposes. For an overview of employee benefits, see Ch. 1D, Overview of Employee Benefits; see also Ch. 85, Employment Agreements. For annuity provisions appearing in wills, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions. For coverage of annuity provisions appearing in charitable trusts, see Ch. 74, Split-Interest Charitable Trusts.

The transaction guide provides a checklist of information that should be obtained before drafting a loan or annuity agreement, including the parties' financial status, their tax concerns, and the terms they want the agreement to cover. Detailed instructions for determining the tax consequences of the proposed transaction are also included, as well as drafting instructions and follow-up procedures.

Loan forms include simple interest-free term and demand notes, a secured interest-bearing note, and an optional guarantor clause. Annuity forms include both sole annuitant and joint and survivor annuitant agreements, with optional provisions for the designation of a beneficiary under a term annuity, the payment of an annuity to an annuitant who has become disabled or incompetent, and clarification of the source of payments.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.10

§ 97.10 Private Loans

[1] In General

Private loan transactions can vary in complexity from simple, short-term loans between friends or family members to long-term transactions involving several parties, extensive security and guarantor arrangements, and variable interest and repayment provisions. In all of these transactions, promissory notes are the primary instrument used to document the debt, the promise to pay, and the payment terms.

Loans between individuals differ from commercial loan transactions in that the parties often will not be dealing entirely "at arm's length." The lender may be a relative, friend, or employer of the borrower, and may be motivated to make the loan by factors other than a lucrative interest rate. The agreement may include below-market interest rates, or make no provisions for interest. The lender may extend the time for repayment without seeking additional interest payments, or decide to forgive the loan. These possibilities, and the tax consequences arising from them, should be carefully considered before the loan agreement is made.

[2] Intra-Family Loans

Depending on the forms they take, loans between family members may be useful in estate and tax planning. A loan from a family member in a high income tax bracket to a low income family member can shift the income produced by the loan to a lower tax rate, while preserving the principal within the family unit. However, I.R.C. § 7872, enacted in 1984, significantly reduced the usefulness of interest-free and low-interest loans in family tax strategies. Under that section, below-market loans are treated for federal tax purposes as if the lender had made a gift to the borrower of the forgone interest on the loan [see § 97.11]. The elimination of the personal interest deduction under I.R.C. § 163 has also diminished the utility of below-market loans [see § 97.12].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.11

§ 97.11 Below-Market Loans

[1] Federal Gift Tax Treatment

Prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1984, the Internal Revenue Service took the position that an interest-free demand loan between family members was a taxable gift of the value of the use of the money lent [see Rev. Rul. 73-61, 1973-1 C.B. 408 ; see also Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-5]. The IRS position on this issue was long standing, but for years had not been accepted by the courts, leaving interest-free and low-interest loans attractive devices for spreading income among family members [see Estate of Berkman (1979) 38 T.C.M. 183, 186 ; but see Crown v. Commissioner (7th Cir. 1978) 585 F.2d 234, 236 (holding that intra-family interest-free demand notes were nontaxable)]. However, the IRS position was judicially sanctioned in a 1983 case involving a demand note, in which the court held that the lender had made a gift to the borrower of the forgone interest, in the tax year during which the loan transaction occurred [Dickman v. C.I.R. (11th Cir. 1983) 690 F.2d 812, 819 , aff'd, 465 U.S. 330 (1984)] .

In 1984, I.R.C. § 7872 was adopted to govern the income and gift tax treatment of loans at below-market interest rates. For federal tax purposes, a "below-market loan" is (1) any demand loan on which interest is payable at less than the "applicable federal rate" [I.R.C. § 7872(e)(1)(A); see I.R.C. § 1274(d) (applicable federal rate); see also I.R.C. § 7872(f)(2)(B) (demand loans)]; or (2) any term loan [see I.R.C. § 7872(f)(6) (definition)] in an amount exceeding the present value of all payments due under the loan [I.R.C. § 7872(e)(1)(B); see I.R.C. § 7872(f)(2)(A) (term loans)]. The present value of the payments is determined by applying a discount rate equal to the applicable federal rate set by the Secretary of the Treasury for the date on which the loan was made [I.R.C. § 7872(f)(1)]. The federal short-term rate is applicable to loans with a term of not more than three years. The mid-term rate applies to loans with a term of between three and nine years, and the long-term rate applies to loans with a term in excess of nine years [I.R.C. § 1274(d)]. I.R.C. § 7872 applies to gift and tax avoidance loans, compensation-related loans, corporation-shareholder loans, and other loans with interest arrangements that significantly affect the tax liability of either party [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(1)].

Under I.R.C. § 7872, the interest actually payable on a loan for any period during which the loan is outstanding is compared to the amount that would have been payable for that period had interest accrued at the applicable Federal rate and been payable annually on the last day of the calendar year. If the latter amount exceeds the actual interest properly allocable to that loan period, the excess is classified as "forgone interest" [I.R.C. § 7872(e)(2); see I.R.C. § 2872(a)(2)]; see also I.R.C. § 1274(d) (applicable federal rate)]. In general, forgone interest on below-market loans between individuals (as opposed to persons and/or entities involved in compensation-based relationships) is treated as a gift from the lender to the borrower [see I.R.C. § 7872(a)(1)] and, as such, is subject to federal gift tax [for discussion of the federal gift tax and related planning considerations, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, and Ch. 60A, Gifts]. In other words, the maker of a gift or demand loan is deemed to have made a gift of the uncharged interest up to the statutory federal rate. The gift is computed annually during the life of the loan [see I.R.C. § 7872(a)(2)]. The maker of a term loan is deemed to have made, on the date of the loan, a gift equal to the excess of the amount of the loan over the present value of all payments required to be made under the terms of the loan [I.R.C. § 7872(b)(1); see I.R.C. § 7872(f)(6) ("term loan" is any loan other than a demand loan)].

A de minimis exception to the rules discussed in the preceding paragraph exempts gift loans between individuals, provided that the aggregate outstanding amount of all loans from the lender to the borrower does not exceed $10,000 and that the proceeds of the loan are not used to buy income-producing assets [see I.R.C. § 7872(c)(2)(A), (B)]. When the total amount of all loans made to one borrower fluctuates, tax liability will be incurred only for those days on which the aggregate amount owed to one lender exceeds $10,000 [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(2)(A), (3)(A)]. When determining the aggregate amount transferred by a single lender to a single borrower, spouses are treated as one person [I.R.C. § 7872(f)(7)].

[2] Income Tax Treatment

For income tax purposes, forgone interest on gift and demand loans is treated as having been transferred from the lender to the borrower and retransferred by the borrower to the lender as interest [I.R.C. § 7872(a)]. For these purposes, any loan that (1) is payable in full on the demand of the lender, (2) contains nontransferable interest arrangements that are conditioned on the future performance of substantial services by an individual, or (3) is made in the form of an extension of credit by use of a broadly available credit card is a demand loan [I.R.C. § 7872(f)(5); Treas. Reg. § 1.7872-10(a)(5), (a)(6)]. The Internal Revenue Code also authorizes promulgation of Treasury Regulations specifying the extent to which a loan with an indefinite maturity date may be considered to be a demand loan [I.R.C. § 7872(f)(5)].

Any loan that is not a demand loan is a term loan [I.R.C. § 7872(f)(6)]. Term loans are treated as if, on the date the loan was made, the lender transferred and the borrower received a cash payment equal to the excess of the amount loaned over the current value of all payments due [I.R.C. § 7872(b)(1)].

The borrower will be treated for tax purposes as if he or she had actually paid the interest, and the lender will be treated as if he or she received income in an amount equal to the forgone interest (in the form of original issue discount, in the case of term loans) [see I.R.C. § 7872(a), (b)]. However, the borrower may not be able to claim a deduction for the forgone interest. Deductions for "personal interest" were eliminated after 1990 [I.R.C. § 163(a), (h); see § 97.12]. Any forgone interest attributable to periods during a calendar year is deemed to have been transferred annually on the last day of the calendar year for both term and demand loans [I.R.C. § 7872(a)(2)].

There is a de minimis exception for compensation-related and corporation-shareholder loans, under which aggregate loans of $10,000 or less are not subject to these income tax rules [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(3)]. This exception does not apply to loans arranged primarily for tax avoidance purposes [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(3)]. The de minimis exception for gift loans is the same as the exception for gift tax purposes [see § 97.11[1]]. In addition, when the aggregate gift loans between two individuals do not exceed $100,000 and the borrower's annual net investment income is less than $1,000, the forgone interest is not subject to taxation [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)] and the amount deemed to be retransferred by the borrower to the lender will not exceed the borrower's net investment income for the year [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(A), (E)(ii)]. "Net investment income," for these purposes, is the excess of investment income over investment expense [I.R.C. § 163(d)(4); see I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(E)]. If the annual net investment income limitation applies and the borrower has gift loans outstanding from more than one lender, net investment income will be allocated proportionally between lenders [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(C)]. This exception will not apply to any loan arranged primarily for tax avoidance purposes [

I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(B)].

§ 97.12 Deductibility of Interest

Prior to a 1987 amendment [Pub. L. No. 99-514, § 511(a)], all interest paid on a loan was deductible by the borrower [see former I.R.C. § 163]. However, the deductibility of so-called "personal interest" was phased out during 1987-1990, and completely eliminated for noncorporate taxpayers for tax years following 1990 [I.R.C. § 163(d)(6)(B), (h)(5)]. This phaseout and elimination of the interest deduction applies only to "personal interest," which is any interest that is not any of the following [I.R.C. § 163(h)(2)]:

- Paid or accrued on indebtedness properly allocable to a trade or business.
- Investment interest [see I.R.C. § 163(d) (limitation of investment interest)].
- Interest taken into account in computing income or loss from a passive activity [see I.R.C. § 469 (passive activity losses and credits limited)].
- Qualified residence interest [see I.R.C. § 163(h)(3) (qualified residence interest)].
- Interest on unpaid portions of any estate tax for which the taxpayer is liable [see I.R.C. §§ 2001 (estate tax), 6163 (extensions of time for payment of estate tax of value of reversionary or remainder interest in property), 6166 (extension of time for payment of estate tax when estate consists largely or interest in closely held business), 6601 (interest on underpayment, nonpayment, or extensions of time for payment of tax)].
- Interest on educational loans allowable as a deduction [see I.R.C. § 221 (interest on educational loans)].

Any interest received by a lender constitutes gross income and is taxable in the year received [I.R.C. § 61; Treas. Reg. § 1.61-7].

§ 97.13 Taxation of Unearned Income of Children

Loans made to young children who subsequently realize unearned income from the loan proceeds may have income tax consequences for the family. The so-called "kiddie tax" applies to the net unearned income of any child who is under the age of 18 years and has at least one living parent at the close of the taxable year [I.R.C. § 1(g)(1), (2)]. Net unearned income is determined by computing the child's unearned income for the year and subtracting from it the sum of (1) the maximum standard deduction available for the child for the year under I.R.C. § 63(c)(5)(A); and (2) the greater of the maximum standard deduction available for the child for the year or the amount of the child's itemized deductions, if any, directly relating to the production of the unearned income [I.R.C. § 1(g)(4)].

The amount of the maximum standard deduction available for the child under I.R.C. § 63(c)(5)(A) is indexed for inflation and changes from year to year [I.R.C. § 63(c)(4)]. "Unearned income" is very broadly defined to include any income other than wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered [I.R.C. § 1(g)(4)(A)(i), 911(d)(2)].

The rate of the "kiddie tax" is that of the custodial parent if the parents are not married, or the parent with the greater taxable income if the parents are married but filing separately [I.R.C. § 1(g)(5)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.14

§ 97.14 Forgiveness of Debts

Forgiveness of a debt may have an impact on the income tax of the debtor and may have gift and estate tax implications for the lender.

Generally, under both federal and California law, a discharge of indebtedness constitutes taxable income to the debtor in the amount of the debt [I.R.C. § 61(a)(12); Rev. & Tax. Code § 17071; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5]. However, if the discharge of the obligation is a gift from the lender to the debtor, the debtor will not be liable for income tax on the amount discharged [I.R.C. § 102(a)]. The discharge of a debt is considered to be a gift if the lender receives no consideration in return for agreeing to erase the debt [Helvering v. American Dental Co. (1943) 318 U.S. 322, 331, 63 S. Ct. 577, 87 L. Ed. 785] . The discharge of a debt is also excluded from the debtor's income for tax purposes if the debtor is insolvent and will remain insolvent after the discharge [I.R.C. § 108(a)(1)(B)].

Forgiveness of a debt owed by a solvent person will generally constitute a gift on which the lender will be liable for a gift tax [Treas. Reg. § 25.2511-1(a)]. When an interest-bearing loan is made and the obligation to pay the stated interest is discharged by the family member who made the loan, the amount of interest forgiven is a gift [Republic Petroleum Corporation v. United States (E.D. La. 1975) 397 F. Supp. 900, 918] .

In some instances the lender dies before the loan is repaid. If a decedent provides by will for cancellation of the loan, the amount still owed is treated as a specific bequest and is not valid against creditors of the decedent lender [Prob. Code § 8851].

Circumstances may arise when the likelihood of repayment seems remote and the lender would like to take a loss deduction based on the bad debt. Generally, deductions may be taken for nonbusiness bad debts during the taxable year in which they become worthless [I.R.C. § 166(d)]. Attempts to take loss deductions on bad debts owed by family members are carefully scrutinized by the Internal Revenue Service and the courts. If it is determined that the lender had no reasonable expectation of repayment at the time the loan was made, the deduction will be disallowed [see Goldstein v. Commissioner (1980) 40 T.C.M. 752, T.C. Memo. 1980-273] .

CHAPTER 97 PRIVATE LOANS AND ANNUITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.15

§ 97.15 Private Annuities

[1] In General

Annuities can be created by various instruments, including wills, deeds, and contracts [Estate of Bourn (1938) 25 Cal. App. 2d 590, 598, 78 P.2d 193] . An annuity contract is created when one party (the "annuitant") transfers money or property to another party (the "obligor") in return for periodic cash payments [Manne v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (8th Cir. 1946) 155 F.2d 304] . No particular form is required to create an annuity contract. Consideration is required, as with any contract [see Civ. Code § 1550]. However, the court will not generally inquire into the sufficiency of consideration, or invalidate an annuity contract because the annuitant dies before any annuity payments have been made [Coyne v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1935) 8 Cal. App. 2d 104, 47 P.2d 1079] .

Private annuities differ from commercial annuities in that the obligor is a private party not regularly engaged in the business of selling annuities [Ware v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue (5th Cir. 1947) 159 F.2d 542 ; for discussion of commercial annuities, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, § 63.508].

Annuities may provide for payments for the duration of the annuitant's life, or for a term of years.

[2] Uses

Private annuities are most commonly used by older family members to transfer real property, stocks, or other family assets to younger family members. This arrangement provides the annuitant with a steady income and relief from property management responsibilities, while keeping the assets within the family. It may also reduce the annuitant's estate taxes, by removing assets from the estate during his or her lifetime. However, the annuitant may incur gift tax liability if the value of the annuity is less than the value of the property exchanged [I.R.C. § 2512(b)]; see § 97.112 and § 97.210[1].

A private annuity may be used when a third party has offered to buy property from the parents of adult children. If the parents do not wish to sell the property directly to the third party, they may elect to transfer it to their children in return for a private annuity, and the children thereafter can sell the property to the third party. However, this sale will be treated as a capital disposition and be subject to taxation under the rules relating to capital gains and losses [see I.R.C. §

1(h) (maximum capital gains rate)]. Further, if the sale is made within two years after the property is transferred to the children, the amount received by the children will be treated for income tax purposes as if it were received by the parents [see I.R.C. § 453(e) (second disposition by related persons within two years after first disposition)]. For further discussion of the income taxation of capital gains, see "Gain or Loss on Sale of Real Property--In General" and succeeding headings in the Legal Background to Ch. 23, Real Property Sales Agreements.

Private annuities are rarely used in non-family situations. This may be because secured annuities (those under which obligor's promise to make payments is secured by some asset, such as the property transferred to obligor under the annuity agreement) do not enjoy the same beneficial tax treatment as unsecured annuities [Estate of Bell v. Commissioner (1973) 60 T.C. 469] , and few people wish to transfer property outside of the family in exchange for an unsecured promise to make payments [see § 97.210[1][l]].

For a discussion of the use of annuities in wills, see Ch. 63, Will Provisions, §§ 63.508-63.5100.

[3] Distinguished From Trusts

An annuity contract gives rise to a right to fixed, periodic payments--the amount and the entitlement to payment are not dependent on the productivity of the property transferred. A situation in which the transferor retains a right to income from the property transferred will be treated as a trust rather than an annuity [see Lazarus v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1975) 513 F.2d 824] . The distinction is important because trust income is fully taxable [I.R.C. §§ 671, 677(a)], while only a portion of each annuity payment is taxable [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43 ; see § 97.210[f][i] et seq.]; and a purported annuity transaction that is treated as a trust for federal income tax purposes may generate undesirable estate and gift tax consequences for the annuitant [see Lazarus v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1975) 513 F.2d 824] .

A provision for fixed payments is not in itself determinative in distinguishing a trust from an annuity. If payments, although fixed, are "tied to" the amount of interest generated by the property transferred, they will be treated as payments of trust income [Lazarus v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1975) 513 F.2d 824 ; Ray v. United States (9th Cir. 1985) 762 F.2d 1361] . Other factors considered in determining whether payments received will be treated as annuity payments or distributions of trust income for federal tax purposes are the amount of control the annuitant/transferor retains over the property transferred [LaFargue v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1982) 689 F.2d 845] and the extent to which the annuitant/transferor observes the appropriate formalities in setting up the transaction [Stern v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1984) 747 F.2d 555] .

[4] Tax Treatment

Tax treatment of annuity payments is covered generally by I.R.C. § 72 and Treas. Reg. § 1.72-2, which treat annuity payments as part gross income and part return of investment [see § 97.210[1]]. Because private annuities are often unsecured and usually involve a transfer of property rather than cash, their tax treatment can be complicated and involves special rules. Payments under an unsecured annuity are divided into three parts: recovery of basis in the property transferred, capital gain, and regular income [Garvey, Inc. v. United States (Fed. Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1569 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 823] . Secured private annuities are treated as commercial annuities for federal tax purposes [Estate of Bell v. Commissioner (1973) 60 T.C. 469] .

If the property exchanged has a current value greater than that of the annuity, gift tax consequences may also arise [Estate of Bartman v. Commissioner (1948) 10 T.C. 1073] . For a more detailed discussion of the tax aspects of private annuities, see § 97.210[1].

B. Preliminary Determinations

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.110

§ 97.110 Necessary Parties

1. Determine whether parents or guardians of any minor or incompetent parties must be joined.

NOTE:

Minors cannot enter into contracts involving real property interests [Fam. Code § 6701(b)]. This, and the broad power of minors to disaffirm their contracts generally [Fam. Code § 6710; see Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors], keep annuity contracts with minor parties from being a useful device. For a discussion of the issues involved in contracting with minors, see Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors .

2. Ascertain identities of all owners of property to be transferred or advanced as security, including but not limited to:
 - a. Spouses, if community property involved.
 - b. Joint tenants.
 - c. Lienholders.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.111

§ 97.111 Private Loans

1. Determine what type of loan is best suited to parties' needs [see § 97.200[1] and § 97.201[1]]:
 - a. Demand or term loan [see § 97.200[1][a]].

NOTE:

Term notes may be desirable to both parties because they provide specific dates for repayment. However, a demand note may be useful to the lender if the borrower's financial situation is unstable, because it allows the lender to assert a right to payment as soon as he or she receives an indication that obtaining payment may become problematic, without the necessity of waiting for an actual default by the borrower.

- b. Secured or unsecured loan.

NOTE:

The inclusion of a security clause will not affect the negotiability of a note [Com. Code §§ 3104(a)(3), 3106(b)]. Securing a loan can help prove its bona fide status, as well as protecting the lender's interest in repayment [see § 97.201[1][a]]. For analysis and forms relating to security transactions involving real property, see Chs. 25-25D.

- (1) Determine who is to retain custody of security.
 - (2) Determine restrictions to be placed on custodian's ability to transfer or encumber security during loan term.
 - (3) Determine whether security is to be insured during loan term [see § 97.201[2], P 2].

(4) Confirm fair market value of security.

NOTE:

The fair market value of the borrower's security (what a willing and reasonably knowledgeable buyer would pay, and a willing and reasonably knowledgeable seller would sell for [Treas. Reg. §§ 20.2031-(b), 25.2512-1]) is a factor in determining whether or not a gift has resulted when the parties have not intended to make one. If the security is not in fact worth what it is purported to be, it reduces the fair market value of the promissory note given in exchange for the loan [Estate of Berkman (1979) 38 T.C.M. 183, 187] .

2. Determine interest arrangements:

a. Market-rate loan.

NOTE:

Market-rate interest arrangements will be desirable if production of income for the lender is a primary purpose of the loan agreement, or if the lender wishes to avoid gift and income tax liabilities stemming from the transaction [see § 97.11].

(1) Determine which rate applies [I.R.C. § 1274(d)]:

(a) Federal short-term rate applies if loan term is three years or less.

(b) Federal mid-term rate applies if loan term is more than three years but not more than nine years.

(c) Federal long-term rate applies if loan term exceeds nine years.

(2) Contact Internal Revenue Service to ascertain applicable federal rate for month in which loan is to be made.

b. Below-market or interest-free loan.

NOTE:

Below-market or interest-free loans may be desirable if the lender's primary reason for making the loan is to assist the borrower, rather than to generate income in the form of interest payments. For a discussion of the gift and income tax consequences for below-market and interest-free loans, see below; see also § 97.11.

(1) For tax purposes, loan is below market if it is:

(a) Demand loan on which interest charged is less than would accrue at applicable federal rate [I.R.C. § 7872(e); see (2)(a)(1), (2), above]; or

(b) Term loan under which amount loaned exceeds present value of all payments due [I.R.C. § 7872(e)].

NOTE:

See § 97.11 for determination of present value.

- (2) If loan is below market, determine amount of forgone interest for each tax year loan will be outstanding.

NOTE:

The amount of forgone interest is the difference between the amount actually paid and the amount that would be payable at the applicable federal rate if paid on the last day of the year [I.R.C. § 7872(e)].

- (3) Determine whether forgone interest will be treated as gift for federal income tax purposes; in order to escape classification as gift, all of following must be true [I.R.C. § 7872(c)]:

(a) Parties are individuals;

(b) Aggregate amount owed by lender to borrower does not exceed $10,000; and

NOTE:

When the total amount of all loans made to one borrower fluctuates, tax liability will be incurred only for those days on which the aggregate amount owed to one lender exceeds $10,000 [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(2)(A), (c)(3)(A)]. When determining the aggregate amount transferred by a single lender to a single borrower, spouses are treated as one person [I.R.C. § 7872(f)(7)].

(c) Loan proceeds are not used to purchase income-producing assets.

- (4) If forgone interest will be classified as a gift [see (3), above], determine whether loan will generate any federal gift tax liability.

NOTE:

If the total of all gifts made by the borrower to the lender during the tax year, including foregone interest, do not exceed the applicable annual exclusion amount [see I.R.C. § 2503(b); for discussion of the annual exclusion and the applicable exclusion amounts, which are adjusted annually for inflation, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4]], they may qualify for the annual exclusion. However, any gifts made by the borrower should be consistent with the borrower's general estate plan. For a discussion of estate planning issues, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning. For a general discussion of gifts and the federal gift tax, see Ch. 60A, Gifts.

- (5) Determine whether lender will be liable for income taxes on forgone interest--lender will be liable unless loan is:

(a) Compensation related or between corporation and shareholder, and not made for tax avoidance purposes [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(3)]; or

(b) Gift loan [see I.R.C. § 7872(f)(3) (definition)] meeting all three requirements listed in (3)(b)(3)(a)-(c), above [I.R.C. § 7872(c)(2)].

NOTE:

When the aggregate gift loans between two individuals do not exceed $100,000 and the borrower's annual net investment income is less than $1,000, the forgone interest is not subject to taxation [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)] and the amount deemed to be retransferred by the borrower to the lender will not exceed the borrower's net investment income for the year [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(A), (E)(ii)]. "Net investment income," for these purposes, is the excess of investment income over investment expense [I.R.C. § 163(d)(3); see I.R.C. §

7872(d)(1)(E)]. If the annual net investment income limitation applies and the borrower has gift loans outstanding from more than one lender, net investment income will be allocated proportionally between lenders [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(C)]. This exception will not apply to any loan arranged primarily for tax avoidance purposes [I.R.C. § 7872(d)(1)(B)].

c. Maximum permissible rates under usury laws [see Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1].

(1) If loan is for primarily personal, family, or household purposes, interest rate cannot exceed 10 percent.

(2) If loan is for other purposes, interest rate cannot exceed the higher of:

(a) 10 percent per annum, or

(b) 5 percent plus prevailing rate established by Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco for 25th day of month preceding making of loan or execution of loan contract, whichever occurs earlier.

3. If borrower is a child, determine income tax consequences of loan to borrower.

a. Determine whether, at end of tax year, borrower [I.R.C. § 1(g)]:

(1) Is under 18 years of age, and

(2) Has at least one parent living.

b. Determine whether loan proceeds were used to produce unearned income (income not received as payment for personal services performed, or received as distribution of earnings or profits rather than allowance for services performed) [I.R.C. § 911(d)].

c. If both (a) and (b) above apply, determine tax rate to be applied to loan proceeds [I.R.C. § 1(g)(5)]:

(1) Parents' rate, if parents are filing jointly.

(2) Rate of parent with greater taxable income, if parents are filing separately.

(3) Rate of custodial parent, if parents are not married.

4. Determine guarantor arrangements, if any.

a. Determine whether guarantor clause would be desirable due to:

(1) Uncertain financial future of borrower;

(2) No security or inadequate security advanced for loan; or

(3) Lender's unwillingness to make gift of principal to borrower.

b. Determine whether guarantor's obligation is to be conditional or unconditional.

NOTE:

Unless otherwise stated in the terms of the agreement, the guarantor's obligation is unconditional and the lender may proceed against the guarantor without first giving notice or securing a judgment against the borrower [Civ. Code §§ 2806, 2807; Com. Code § 3419; see § 97.202[1]].

5. Determine whether additional provisions are needed to clarify and carry out client's objectives.

NOTE:

For more complex promissory notes and note provisions, see Ch. 25A, Security Instruments for Real Estate Financing, Ch. 43, Commercial Loans, and Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments. For general contract provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

a. If lender's primary purpose in extending loan is to earn interest income, or if borrower's financial status is unstable, consider including:

(1) Provision for interest on unpaid interest [see § 55.221].

(2) Provision for acceleration on default [see § 55.231].

(3) Provision for late charges [see §§ 25A.43, 55.240].

NOTE:

Before a lender may impose the first late charge on a delinquent payment of a loan secured by real property, the borrower must either be (1) notified in writing and given at least 10 days from the mailing of the notice in which to cure the delinquency or (2) informed, by a billing or notice sent for each payment due on the loan, of the date after which such a charge will be assessed [Civ. Code § 2954.5(a)]. The notice sent to the borrower must contain the amount of the late charge or the method by which it is calculated [Civ. Code § 2954.5(a)]. If a subsequent payment becomes delinquent, the borrower must be notified in writing that the charge will be imposed if payment is not received, or the borrower must be notified at least semiannually of the total amount of late charges imposed during the period covered by the notice [Civ. Code § 2954.5(b)]. For discussion, see § 25A.43[1].

b. Consider including provision extending time for payment of note payable at definite time [see § 55.260] if:

(1) Lender's primary purpose in making loan is to assist borrower.

(2) Late charges or other incentives to timely payment are not a concern.

c. If lender may be unavailable at time payment becomes due, consider including provision authorizing payment to lender's representative [see Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments, § 55.282].

d. If prepayment would frustrate lender's purpose in making loan, consider including clause prohibiting or imposing penalties for prepayment [see Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments, § 55.250].

e. If borrower wants assurance of right to prepay, consider clause allowing prepayment, with or without penalty [see § 55.251].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.112

§ 97.112 Private Annuities

1. Determine whether life annuity or term annuity would better accomplish client's goals.

NOTE:

The major advantage of a term annuity over a life annuity is that the exact amount to be paid can be determined at the onset of the agreement. Under a life annuity, there is a substantial risk of overpayment (if the annuitant outlives his or her life expectancy) or underpayment (if the annuitant does not live out his or her life expectancy) for the property transferred. The major disadvantage of a term annuity is that payments falling due after the annuitant's death will become part of his or her estate. For this reason, a term annuity is probably unsuitable for an annuitant whose primary purpose for entering into an annuity contract is to remove assets from his or her estate [see § 97.210[1][j]].

2. If more than one annuitant is involved, determine whether joint annuity or two single annuities would better serve clients' needs.

NOTE:

The use of separate annuities involves the extra step of dividing the property to be transferred, and requires the obligor to make two payments for each payment period. However, it allows each annuitant to manage his or her finances independently and to assign the right to receive annuity payments without the consent of the other [see §§ 97.211[1], 97.212[1]].

3. Determine annuitant's life expectancy [see Actuarial Tables, Treas. Reg. § 1.72-9].

NOTE:

For annuity contracts entered into after June 30, 1986, use Tables V (single annuitant) and VI (joint annuitants) [Treas. Reg. § 1.72-9].

4. Determine whether there are any liens or other restrictions on sale of subject property.

NOTE:

Restrictions on the transfer of shares of stock are not valid against bona fide purchasers unless they appear on the face of the certificate or, in the case of uncertificated securities, in the initial transaction statement [Corp. Code § 418].

a. Obtain copy of last title insurance policy affecting real property.

b. If interview with parties or information on policy indicates potential problems, arrange for title search.

NOTE:

Title searches are usually undertaken by title companies. For a discussion of the guarantees generally provided by title insurance, see Ch. 26A, Title Insurance.

5. Determine federal gift tax treatment of annuity.

NOTE:

Generally, the establishment of a private annuity will be treated as a gift from the annuitant to the obligor to the extent that the value of the property transferred exceeds the value of the annuity [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43]. If jointly owned property is transferred in exchange for a joint and survivor annuity, the value of the gift will have to be determined for each annuitant since the life expectancy of joint annuitants is rarely the same and the annuitant with the longer life expectancy will receive a greater interest in the entire value of the annuity. For further discussion of gift tax issues, see § 97.210[1][i].

a. Determine present value of annuity.

NOTE:

The determination of present value for gift and estate tax purposes will not be affected by the fact that the annuity is unsecured and therefore has no present value for income tax purposes [Estate of Bartman v. Commissioner (1948) 10 T.C. 1073]. To compute the present value of an annuity interest payable until the earlier of the lapse of a specific number of years or the death of an individual, see Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-5(d)(2)(v) [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(2)(v)].

(1) Multiply aggregate amount payable annually by proper annuity actuarial factor [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(2)(iv)].

NOTE:

The appropriate annuity actuarial factor is the one that corresponds to the applicable I.R.C. § 7520 interest rate [see Treas. Reg. § 20.7520-1(b)(1)(i)] and annuity period. Although tables of annuity actuarial factors do not appear in Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7, the tables are available in IRS Publication No. 1457, Actuarial Values, Book Aleph [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(4)]. Annuity actuarial factors may also be derived mathematically by subtracting the applicable remainder factor found in Table B (for term-of-years annuities) or Table S (for one-life annuities) [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(6), (7) (tables)] from 1.000000, and then dividing the result by the applicable I.R.C. § 7520 interest rate expressed as a decimal number [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(2)(iv)(A)].

(2) If payments are to be made at end of semiannual, quarterly, monthly, or weekly periods, multiply product of annuity factor and aggregate annual amount by adjustment factor from Table K [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(6)] for payments made at end of specified periods [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(2)(iv)(B)].

(3) If payments are to be made at beginning of annual, semiannual, quarterly, monthly, or weekly periods, multiply product of annuity factor and aggregate annual amount by adjustment factor from Table J [see Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(6)] for payments made at beginning of specified periods [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(2)(iv)(C)].

b. If present value of annuity is substantially equal to fair market value of property exchanged for annuity, no gift taxes will result.

c. If present value of annuity is not substantially equal to fair market value of property exchanged for annuity, gift tax on excess will result unless:

(1) Transfer is shown to be free of donative intent and made in ordinary course of business [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-8]; or

(2) Total gifts from annuitant to obligor for tax year, including excess of value of property over value of annuity, do not exceed applicable annual exclusion amount [see I.R.C. § 2503(b)]; for discussion of the annual exclusion and the applicable exclusion amounts, which are adjusted annually for inflation, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4].

NOTE:

For additional discussion regarding avoiding gift tax on inter vivos transfers, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, and Ch. 60A, Gifts.

d. Determine schedule of payments necessary to avoid gift tax characterization.

(1) Determine value of property to be transferred.

(2) Determine annuity actuarial factor for annuitant based on annuitant's age (for life annuity) or length of annuity term (for term annuity) [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-5(d)(2)(iv)(A); see P 5a(1), above].

(3) If annuity will be payable more often than annually, determine adjustment factor [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-5(d)(2)(iv)(B), (C); see PP 5a(2), (3), above].

(4) Determine annual annuity payment (divide value of property transferred by annuity factor or product of annuity and payment factors).

NOTE:

If payments are made more often than annually, the annual payment figure should be proportioned accordingly.

6. Determine estate tax consequences of annuity, if any.

NOTE:

Estate taxes will result if a term annuity is not paid off before the annuitant's death [I.R.C. § 2033], or if annuity payments are tied to the interest produced by the transferred property [I.R.C. § 2036(a)]; see § 97.210[1][j]. For a discussion of estate planning issues generally, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning.

7. Determine income tax consequences to annuitant.

a. Unsecured annuities.

NOTE:

Each payment under an unsecured private annuity is divided into three portions for income tax purposes: (1) tax-free return of basis, (2) capital gain, and (3) regular income [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43].

(1) Determine what portion of each payment is tax-free return of basis [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43]:

(a) Determine expected return (annuitant's life expectancy) [see Treas. Reg. § 1.72-9], or term of annuity, multiplied by amount of yearly annuity payment.

(b) Determine exclusion ratio (annuitant's tax basis divided by expected return).

(c) Determine annual exclusion (product of annual payment figure and exclusion ratio).

(2) Determine what portion of each payment is taxable as capital gain:

NOTE:

Under a life annuity, a portion of each payment will receive capital gain treatment only until the annuitant reaches his or her life expectancy. Thereafter, the entire portion of each payment not excluded as return of basis will be treated as ordinary income [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43 ; but see § 97.210[1][f][i] et seq. (tax rate currently the same for capital gains and ordinary income)].

(a) Determine term of annuity.

NOTE:

For life annuities, see life expectancy table under Treas. Reg. § 20.2031; for term annuities, term is certain at the time the contract is entered into.

(b) Determine value of annuity (multiply term of annuity by annual payment amount).

NOTE:

For payment factors when payments are made more often than annually, see § 97.111.

(c) Divide value of annuity by number of years during which payments will be made.

(d) Determine whether annuitant is entitled to capital gains tax exclusion under I.R.C. § 121.

NOTE:

I.R.C. § 121 provides an exclusion of up to $250,000 of gain from the sale of a taxpayer's personal residence ($500,000 in the case of married taxpayers filing joint returns) [I.R.C. § 121(b)(1), (2)]. The residence must have been owned and used as the taxpayer's personal residence for periods aggregating at least two years during the five-year-period preceding the sale or exchange [I.R.C. § 121(a)]. This exclusion can be taken only once every two years [I.R.C. § 121(b)(3)].

The $500,000 exclusion for joint returns applies if (1) either spouse meets the above-listed ownership requirements with respect to the property; (2) both spouses meet the use requirements with respect to the property; and (3) neither spouse is ineligible for the exclusion with respect to the property by reason of having claimed the exemption in connection with another sale or exchange during the preceding two-year period [I.R.C. § 121(b)(2)(A), (3)]. If a husband and wife filing jointly do not qualify for the $500,000 exclusion because they do not satisfy the two-year ownership or use test, the available exclusion is the sum of the exclusions to which each spouse would be entitled if the spouses had not been married. For this purpose, each spouse will be treated as owning the property during the period that either spouse owned it [I.R.C. § 121(b)(2)(B)].

For discussion of other capital gains rules, see § 97.210[1][f][i] et seq.

b. Secured annuities.

NOTE:

There are two main differences between the income tax treatment of unsecured private annuities and that of secured private annuities. First, since a secured annuity has an ascertainable fair market value, any gain or loss on the transfer of property for annuity is fully taxable in the year in which the transfer occurs [I.R.C. § 1001; Garvey, Inc. v. United States (Ct. Cl. 1984) 726 F.2d 1569, cert. denied, 469 U.S. 823]. Second, the annuitant's investment in the contract is the fair market value of the property transferred, rather than the annuitant's basis in the property [Estate of Bell v. Commissioner (1973) 60 T.C. 469].

(1) Determine what portion of each payment is tax-free return of investment [I.R.C. § 72(b)]:

(a) Determine expected return to annuitant [see P a1(a), above].

(b) Determine exclusion ratio (fair market value of property transferred in exchange for annuity divided by expected return).

(c) Determine actual exclusion (product of annual payment and exclusion ratio).

(2) Determine capital gain or loss on transfer of property for annuity [I.R.C. § 1001]:

(a) Determine value of annuity (multiply term of annuity in years by annual payment).

NOTE:

The term of years used for a life annuity is the life expectancy of the annuitant under the actuary tables in Treas. Reg. § 1.72-9. Tables V (single annuitant) and VI (joint annuitants) should be used for annuity agreements entered into after June 30, 1986.

(b) Compare value of annuity to annuitant's adjusted basis in property transferred [see I.R.C. § 1016].

8. Determine income tax consequences to obligor.

a. Tax deduction for payments.

NOTE:

There is no tax deduction for annuity payments [Bell v. Commissioner (8th Cir. 1982) 668 F.2d 448], unless the obligor sells property at a loss before the annuity is paid off [Sheridan v. Commissioner (1952) 18 T.C. 381, 384].

b. Tax basis of property transferred to obligor in consideration for annuity, for purposes of sale [Rev. Rul. 55-119, 1955-1 C.B. 352].

(1) Value of all payments made, less depreciation, if property is sold after annuity is paid off.

(2) Sum of actual payments made plus estimated value of remaining payments, less depreciation, if property is sold before annuity is paid off.

c. Tax basis for depreciation purposes [Rev. Rul. 55-119, 1955-1 C.B. 352].

(1) Amount actually paid, or present value of expected payments, generally.

(2) "Extra" payments added to basis, if life annuitant outlives life expectancy.

1. Select appropriate promissory note form.

NOTE:

See § 97.111, § 97.200[1][a], and § 97.201[1][a] for guidelines to choosing the proper note.

- a. Interest-free demand note [§ 97.200].
- b. Interest-free term note [§ 97.200].
- c. Interest-bearing note [§ 97.201].

2. Draft promissory note to include:

- a. Recitals.
- b. Name and address of each party:
 - (1) Lender.
 - (2) Borrower.
 - (3) Guarantor.
 - (4) Spouse of any party whose community property interests may be affected by transaction.

NOTE:

A spouse may not encumber community property that is the family residence, its furnishings, or the clothing of the other spouse or minor children without the written consent of the other spouse [Civ. Code § 100(c)].

c. Date and place of execution.

d. Amount of loan.

e. Interest provisions.

NOTE:

If the loan calls for payment of interest at the rate currently charged by banks and other financial institutions, the parties are unlikely to face any unusual tax problems. Interest payments received by the lender must be reported as gross income [I.R.C. § 61(a)(4)]. For tax years following 1990, the interest deduction for noncorporate borrowers has been eliminated [I.R.C. § 163(d)(6)(B), (h)(5); see § 97.12].

Loans made without interest or at an interest rate below the applicable federal rate may result in adverse gift or income tax consequences under I.R.C. § 7872 [see § 97.11].

f. Payment provisions.

(1) Frequency of payments.

(2) Dates and amounts of payments.

(3) Distinction between interest and principal provisions.

(4) Provisions for extensions or late payment penalties.

NOTE:

For form provisions regarding late payment penalties, interest on unpaid interest, and other adjustments in payment schedules, see Ch. 25A, Security Instruments for Real Estate Financing, and Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments.

Unrepresented parties should be advised of their right to seek independent counsel before signing the note. 1. Select appropriate agreement.

- a. Annuity for sole annuitant [§ 97.210].
- b. Joint and survivor annuity [§ 97.211].

2. Draft agreement, including:

- a. Recitals.
- b. Date and place of execution.
- c. Payment schedule.
 - (1) Frequency of payments (e.g., monthly or yearly).
 - (2) Date payments will be due (e.g., first day of each month).
 - (3) Amount of each payment.

NOTE:

See § 97.112 for an explanation of the tax and financial planning considerations relevant to the establishment of the payment schedule, and a guide to determining the amount of each payment.

d. Provision regarding assignability.

- (1) Annuitant's right to assign entitlement to payments.
- (2) Obligor's right to assign duty to make payments.

NOTE:

The typical private annuity agreement, which features a relative's unsecured promise to make payments, exposes the annuitant to some risk of nonpayment. The annuitant and his or her attorney should carefully consider whether or not the additional risk of allowing the obligor to assign the duty to make payments is acceptable.

e. Names and addresses of parties.

f. Appropriate additional provisions.

- (1) Provision allowing term annuitant to designate beneficiary of payments if he or she dies during term of annuity [see § 97.212].
- (2) Provision giving child obligor various options for making payments in event of disability of parent annuitant [see § 97.213].
- (3) Provision specifying payments not tied to income of property transferred [see § 97.214].

NOTE:

This type of provision may be useful if income-producing property was transferred in exchange for the annuity, to prevent the treatment of the transaction as a trust for tax purposes [see I.R.C. §§ 671, 677; see also § 97.15[3]].

- (4) Security provision [see § 97.215].

NOTE:

Private annuities are generally unsecured, since this allows the annuitant to spread the gain realized on the transfer of property for the annuity over the entire term of the annuity [see Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43]. The gain realized on secured annuities is fully taxed during the year of the transfer [I.R.C. § 72(c)(1); see § 97.215[1]].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Private Loans

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.200

§ 97.200 Interest-Free Note

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a simple interest-free promissory note. It contains two variations: a demand note and a term note. A "demand" note is one that either: (1) states that it is payable on demand or at sight, or otherwise indicates that it is payable at the will of the holder, or (2) does not state any time of payment [Com. Code § 3108(a)]. A demand note is useful to the lender in a situation involving an unreliable borrower because it allows the lender to demand payment immediately, if circumstances warrant such action, without waiting for an actual default. A note that is payable at a definite time is commonly referred to as a term note [see Com. Code § 3108(b)].

This note may be used to evidence a loan between private individuals. It satisfies the basic requirements for a negotiable instrument [see Com. Code § 3104(a)]. To be negotiable, a writing must [Com. Code § 3104(a); see Com. Code § 3103(a)(5), (9) ("maker" and "promise" defined)]:

- Be signed by the maker;
- Contain an unconditional promise to pay a certain amount of money;
- Be payable on demand or at a definite time;
- be payable to order or to the bearer; and
- With limited exceptions, not state any other undertaking or instruction by the person promising or ordering payment to do any act in addition to the payment of money.

For a general discussion of promissory notes, and the applicable provisions of the California Commercial Code, see Ch. 55, Commercial Paper and Other Methods of Fund Transfers .

[b] Below-Market Loans

This note makes no provision for the payment of interest by the borrower. Interest-free and below-market loans between individuals will be treated for federal gift tax purposes as if the lender had made a cash gift to the borrower in the amount of the forgone interest [I.R.C. § 7872(a)(1), (b)(1), (f)]. "Foregone interest" is the difference between the interest actually charged and that which would have been generated if the applicable federal rate had been charged during the period of the loan [I.R.C. § 7872(e)(2)]. For income tax purposes, the lender will be treated as if he or she had actually received the forgone interest from the borrower [I.R.C. § 7872(a), (b)]. For a more detailed discussion of the tax consequences that will attend interest-free and below-market loans, see § 97.11.

[c] Bad Debts and Forgiveness of Debts

Loans between individuals sometimes remain unpaid for long periods or are forgiven by the lender. These events may have tax implications for the parties involved. In an intra-family situation, attempts to write off bad debts may be disallowed [see Alfred R. Goldstein (1980) 40 T.C.M. 752]. For a discussion of these issues, see § 97.14.

[d] Joint and Several Liability

When two or more people sign a promissory note, the signers are jointly and severally liable for payment of the note unless the instrument clearly specifies otherwise [Com. Code § 3116(a)].

§ 97.201 Secured Interest-Bearing Note

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a simple interest-bearing promissory note with an optional security clause. Paragraph 3 contains alternative provisions for repayment: the first requires payment of a lump sum; the second provides for regular installment payments throughout the term of the loan. Paragraph 4 contains a clause awarding attorneys' fees and costs to the prevailing party in any litigation relating to the note, and a clause providing for assumption of costs incident to defending the transaction in the event of a tax challenge.

This loan may be modified for transactions involving multiple borrowers or lenders. When two or more people sign a promissory note they are ordinarily jointly and severally liable for payment, unless the instrument clearly provides otherwise [Com. Code § 3116(a)].

For a coverage of notes secured by real property, see Ch. 25A, Security Instruments for Real Estate Financing . For additional examples of interest-bearing promissory notes, and notes dealing with more complex transactions, see Ch. 55, Commercial Paper and Other Methods of Fund Transfers .

[b] Security

The security provision in Paragraph 4, in addition to protecting the lender's interest in repayment, may help support a contention that the loan was bona fide, if the debt can not be collected and the lender wishes to take a loss deduction for it [see Treas. Reg. § 1.166-1(c); see also § 97.14].

The fact that a loan is secured does not make the promise to pay conditional [Com. Code §§ 3104(a)(3), 3106(b)]. Accordingly, a secured promissory note is negotiable [Com. Code § 3104(a)(3)]. For a discussion of the requirements for negotiable instruments, see § 97.200[1]. For a discussion of the laws relating to sale of collateral security in the event of default on a loan, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions .

[c] Extension of Time

The parties to a loan may wish to provide for an extension of time for repayment of the loan. Such a clause can be useful in a situation involving a borrower with an uncertain financial future and a lender willing to allow additional time for repayment but only under formal guidelines. The first alternative in Paragraph 3 of this form contains optional language indicating that the lender may extend the time for repayment. For a form providing for a time extension, see § 55.260 in Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments.

[d] Interest Payments

This form provides for equal periodic payments of interest and principal. Some loans provide only for periodic payment of interest and reserve all principal payments for a specific due date. The parties' relative income and tax levels should be considered in order to determine the apportionment desired. For instance, a note requiring periodic payments of interest and reserving a lump sum principal payment for a specified due date might be desirable in a situation in which the borrower expects to be in a better financial position by the end of the term.

Before 1987, all interest paid on a loan was deductible by the borrower [see former I.R.C. § 163]. Between 1987 and 1991, the personal interest deduction was phased out [see § 97.12]. For tax years following 1990, the personal interest deduction for noncorporate taxpayers has been completely eliminated [I.R.C. § 163(d)(6), (h)(1), (5)]. This elimination applies only to "personal interest," which is any interest that is not either [I.R.C. § 163(h)(2)(A)-(E)]:

- Paid or accrued on debts properly allocable to a trade or business (other than in the performance of services as an employee);
- Incurred or continued on property held for investment [see I.R.C. § 163(d)];
- Accounted for in computing income or loss from a passive activity [see I.R.C. § 469];
- Paid or accrued on indebtedness secured by a qualified residence of the taxpayer [see I.R.C. § 163(h)(3)]; or
- Payable on certain unpaid portions of estate taxes for which the taxpayer is liable [see I.R.C. § 6601].

Interest payments received by a lender constitute gross income for the taxable year in which they are received [I.R.C. § 61; Treas. Reg. § 1.61-7].

California tax law, like federal law, treats interest payments as gross income [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17071], and deductibility of interest for California tax purposes is governed by I.R.C. § 163 [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5(a)(1)].

[e] Usury Laws

California Constitution, Article XV, Section 1, prohibits usurious interest rates. The interest rate on loans and forbearances (agreements to extend the time for repayment of an obligation) for primarily personal, family, or household expenses may not exceed 10 percent per annum [Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1(1)]. The interest rate on other loans may not exceed the higher of 10 percent per annum, or 5 percent per annum plus the prevailing rate as established by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco for the 25th day of the month preceding the making of the loan or the execution of the loan contract, whichever occurred earlier [Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1(2)]. Usurious interest provisions are void [Stats. 1919, p. lxxxiii (West's Ann. Civ. Code § 1916-2)]. However, the obligation to repay the principal will be unaffected by the void interest provision [Teichner v. Klassman (1966) 240 Cal. App. 2d 514, 524, 49 Cal. Rptr. 742]

. There are various exceptions to the usury statute [see Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1(2)], but these exceptions generally do not apply to private loan situations.

Violation of the prohibition against usurious interest carries both civil and criminal penalties. In addition, a borrower who has paid usurious interest may recover treble damages from the lender [Stats. 1919, p. lxxxiii (West's Ann. Civ. Code § 1916-3); see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 568, Usury (Matthew Bender)].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a guarantor clause that may be included on the reverse of a promissory note. The holder of the note should consider requiring a guarantor in a number of situations. For example, the borrower may be considered an unacceptable risk for default, or the loan might be unsecured or inadequately secured.

One who signs an instrument as a guarantor promises that if the instrument is not paid when due he or she will pay it according to its terms [Com. Code § 3419(a), (b); but see Com. Code § 3419(d) (exception if party guarantees collection only, rather than payment)]. The obligation of a guarantor may be enforced notwithstanding any statute of frauds and whether or not the guarantor receives consideration for the guaranty [Com. Code § 3419(b); see Com. Code § 3605 (discharge of obligations)].

When the guaranty agreement is entered into at the same time as the original obligation, or forms part of the consideration for the loan and is entered into at the time of the lender's acceptance of the loan agreement, no other separate consideration for the guaranty is needed. In all other cases, there must be consideration for the guaranty [Civ. Code § 2792]. It is not necessary to mention the fact of consideration in the written guaranty [Civ. Code § 2793].

For further discussion of the effect and enforceability of a guaranty, see Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments , and Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity .

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.210

§ 97.210 Annuity Contract for Sole Annuitant

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract for a private annuity under which one person (the annuitant) transfers property to another person (the obligor) in return for the obligor's promise to make regular cash payments during the annuitant's life or a specified term. This type of annuity is generally used between family members. The annuitant typically is a parent and the obligors are one or more adult children [see § 97.15[2]]. If the annuity is for the benefit of a single annuitant, this form should be used. If the annuity is for the benefit of two or more annuitants, the joint and survivor annuity in § 97.211 should be used.

[b] Nature of Annuity Agreement

An annuity agreement is a contract between the annuitant and the obligor, and general contract principles will be applied to the agreement [Estate of Bourn (1938) 25 Cal. app. 2d 590, 78 P.2d 193]. Consideration must be given in return for the obligor's promise to make annuity payments [Civ. Code § 1550]. The courts will not usually inquire into the sufficiency of consideration given for an annuity, although a transaction involving property and payments not of equal value may have gift tax consequences [see § 97.210[1][i]]. An annuity contract may be established by an oral agreement, but the Statute of Frauds will preclude enforcement of the agreement unless it is possible for it to be performed within one year of its making [Civ. Code § 1624]. For a discussion of basic contract requirements, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

[c] Life Annuities

Under a life annuity, the annuity payments continue as long as the annuitant lives. The obligor assumes the risk that the annuitant will live beyond his or her life expectancy, and thus be entitled to "overpayment." This is in contrast to the situation under a life insurance contract, in which the insurer's risk is that the insured will live for fewer than the number of years stated in the actuarial tables. A life annuity can be converted to a term annuity if the parties so desire. However, this conversion may change the annuitant's tax liability, since the amount to be paid under a term annuity can be determined with certainty and the annuitant's capital gain taxed ratably over the entire term of the annuity, while the amount to be paid under a life annuity is determined by the imprecise method of reference to life expectancy tables and taxed according to those figures [I.R.C. § 72(c)(3); see § 97.210[1][f]; see also IRS Letter Ruling 7934023].

[d] Term Annuities

Under a term annuity, the annuity payments continue for a fixed term of years. If the annuitant dies before the expiration of the term, the right to payments becomes a part of the estate, unless the instrument shows an intent that the payments be personal to the annuitant [Union Nat'l Bank v. Hunter (1949) 93 Cal. App. 2d 669]. For this reason, a term annuity may be unsuitable if the purpose of the annuity agreement is to avoid estate taxes by removing assets from the annuitant's estate during his or her lifetime. In the event that the annuitant dies long before the end of the term, the bulk of the annuity payments will be included in his or her estate. For further discussion of the estate tax consequences occurring when the annuitant dies before the expiration of the term, see § 97.210[1][j]. For a general discussion of estate tax issues, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning .

[e] Assignment

An annuitant may assign the right to receive annuity payments unless the agreement contains a clause to the contrary [Civ. Code § 1458]. The obligor may transfer the obligation to make payments only with the consent of the annuitant [Civ. Code § 1457]. Paragraph 3 of this form provides for assignment by either party on written notice, and gives alternative language prohibiting assignment by the obligor. For a more complete discussion of assignment of contractual rights and duties, see Ch. 76, Assignment of Obligations .

[f] Income Tax Consequences to Annuitant

[i] In General

Private annuities generally are subject to the income tax treatment set forth for commercial annuities under I.R.C. § 72, and Treas. Reg. § 1.72-2 [Treas. Reg. § 1.72-2(a)]. Each annuity payment is treated as partly a nontaxable return of the annuitant's investment and partly taxable interest [I.R.C. § 72]. The nontaxable portion is determined by dividing the annuitant's investment in the contract (the consideration paid for the annuity) by the expected return (the total amount the annuitant expects to receive under the annuity agreement) [I.R.C. § 72(b), (c)]. However, the taxation of private annuities is complicated by two facts: first, property rather than money is generally exchanged for the annuities; and second, the transactions are generally unsecured.

For income tax purposes, California treats annuities in the same manner as they are treated under federal law [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17081; see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17024.5].

For a step-by-step guide to determining the income tax treatment of annuity payments, see § 97.112.

[ii] Capital Gain

Revenue Ruling 69-74 [1969-1 C.B. 43] sets forth the manner in which the annuitant is taxed on payments received under an unsecured private annuity agreement. Since an unsecured promise to pay has no fair market value [Garvey, Inc. v. United States (Cl. Ct. 1984) 726 F.2d 1569, 1573 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 823] , the capital gain, represented by the value of the annuity in excess of the transferor/annuitant's basis in the property transferred, is not taxed at the time of the transfer. Instead, it is reported ratably as received, over the term of the annuity. To determine what portion of each payment will receive capital gain treatment, the excess value of the annuity over the annuitant's basis is divided by the number of years during which the payments will be received [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43].

Under a life annuity, the term used to determine capital gains treatment is the annuitant's life expectancy as computed using the actuarial tables in IRS Publication No. 1457, Actuarial Values, Book Aleph [Treas. Reg. § 20.2031-7(d)(4)]. If the annuitant lives beyond his or her life expectancy, the portion of each annuity payment that had been taxed as capital gain will be treated as ordinary income to the annuitant from that point forward. Under a term annuity, the number of payments to be made can be determined without reference to the Treasury Tables, and the capital gain will be taxed ratably over the entire term [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43].

For taxable years ending on or after May 6, 2003, and before January 1, 2009 [see Pub. Law No. 108-27, §§ 301(a), (d), 303 (effective dates and sunset provisions)], the maximum rate of tax on the net capital gain of an individual, estate, or trust is 15 percent, or 5 percent for taxpayers in the 15-percent regular income tax bracket [I.R.C. § 1(h)(1)(B)]; for tax years beginning after December 31, 2007 and before January 1, 2009, a zero percent capital gains rate applies for taxpayers in the 15 percent regular income tax bracket [I.R.C. § 1(h)(1)(B)]. For taxable years that include May 6, 2003, the 15-percent (or 5-percent) rate applies only to amounts properly taken into account for the portion of the year on or after that date. This generally has the effect of applying the lower rates to capital assets sold or exchanged (and installment payments received) on or after May 6, 2003. In the case of gain and loss taken into account by a pass-through entity, the date taken into account by the entity is the appropriate date for applying this rule [Pub. Law No. 108-27, § 301(c)]. For tax years beginning after December 31, 2008, the lowest capital gains tax rate is 20 percent, or 10 percent for taxpayers in the 15-percent regular tax bracket [I.R.C. § 1(h)(1)(B), before amendment by Pub Law No. 108-27; see Pub. Law No. 108-27, § 303 (sunset provision)]. Short-term capital gains are taxed at ordinary income tax rates [I.R.C. §§ 1(h), 1222(11)].

For transactions occurring after May 6, 1997 and in tax years ending before May 6, 2003 [see Pub. Law No. 108-27, §§ 301(a), (d), 303 (effective dates and sunset provisions)], the maximum long-term capital gains rate is 10 percent for taxpayers in the 15 percent bracket and 20 percent for taxpayers in the 28 percent tax bracket and above [I.R.C. § 1(h)(1)(B), (C), before amendment by Pub Law No. 108-27]. Lower rates of 8 percent for taxpayers in the 15 percent bracket and 18 percent for taxpayers in the 28 percent bracket and above apply to transactions after December 31, 2000 [I.R.C. § 1(h)(2)(A), (B), before amendment by Pub Law No. 108-27]. Short-term capital gains are taxed at ordinary income tax rates [I.R.C. §§ 1(h), 1222(11)].

[iii] Exclusion for Sale of Personal Residence

If the property transferred by the annuitant to the obligor is the annuitant's principal residence, and if during the five-year period ending on the date of the transfer the annuitant has owned and used the property as his or her principal residence for periods aggregating at least two years, up to $250,000 of gain may be excluded from gross income (up to $500,000 in the case of married persons filing a joint return) [I.R.C. § 121(a), (b) (applicable to transfers after May 6, 1997)]. However, this exclusion is available only once every two years [I.R.C. § 121(b)(3)].

[iv] Recovery of Basis

A portion of each annuity payment is classified as recovery of the annuitant's basis in the property transferred, and is not taxed. To determine this portion, the following exclusion ratio is used: the annuitant's investment in the contract (the adjusted basis in the property transferred) is divided by the expected return under the annuity contract. This percentage of each payment is excluded from taxation [Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43]. The expected total of payments under a life annuity is determined with reference to the annuitant's life expectancy under the Treasury Tables. This amount remains nontaxable throughout the term of the annuity, regardless of whether the annuitant lives beyond his or her life expectancy. The remaining portion of each annuity payment is taxed as ordinary income. Under a life annuity, this portion will increase once the entire capital gain has been reported (i.e., if the annuitant lives beyond his or her life expectancy).

[v] Unearned Income of Child

Special income tax rules apply if a parent transfers income-producing property to his or her child aged 18 or under in exchange for an annuity. The net unearned income of children who are under 18 years of age and have at least one parent living at the end of the tax year will be taxed at the tax rate of the parent or parents [I.R.C. § 1(g); see § 97.11[2]].

[g] Income Tax on Secured Annuities

Secured private annuities are treated like commercial annuities for income tax purposes [Estate of Bell v. Commissioner (1973) 60 T.C. 469] . The annuitant's investment in the contract will be the fair market value of the property rather than the basis, and the entire capital gain realized on the transaction will be taxed in the year of the sale [I.R.C. § 72(c)(1); see Garvey, Inc. v. United States (Cl. Ct. 1984) 726 F.2d 1569 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 823] .

[h] Loss Deductions Disallowed

In order for a loss to be deductible, it must flow from a closed, bona fide business transaction [Treas. Reg. § 1.165-1(b)]. Unsecured annuities are not closed transactions [Commissioner of Internal Revenue v. Kann's Estate (3d Cir. [T.C.] 1949) 174 F.2d 357] ; thus, no immediate loss deductions will be allowed. A deduction for loss has also been denied on the ground that a private annuity agreement was not a transaction entered into for profit [Rev. Rul. 71-492, 1971-2 C.B. 127]. The sale of a residence that was being used as a home at the time of the sale is not considered a transaction entered into for a profit [Treas. Reg. § 1.165-9(a)]. Loss deductions will also be disallowed on some transactions between family members [see § 97.14].

In computing income for taxation purposes, California follows the federal rules [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17201].

[i] Gift Tax Consequences to Annuitant

If the fair market value of the property transferred in exchange for the annuity exceeds the present value of the annuity, the amount of the difference will be treated as an immediate gift to the obligor [I.R.C. § 2512(b); see Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43]. Accordingly, the annuitant will be liable for the gift tax, if any, imposed on the transfer [I.R.C. § 2501(a); see discussion under "Determination of Taxable Gifts for Federal Tax Purposes" in the Legal Background to Ch. 60A, Gifts], regardless of whether or not the annuity has a recognized present value for income tax purposes [Estate of Koert Bartman (1948) 10 T.C. 1073] . The imposition of gift tax may be avoided if the annuitant can show that despite the disparate values of the annuity and the property transferred, the transaction was made in the ordinary course of business and was free of donative intent [Treas. Reg. § 25.2512-8]. For example, there was held to be no gift tax liability in a case in which a taxpayer sold an oil lease to a family corporation in exchange for an annuity and relief from management responsibilities [E.B. Hull, T.C.M. 1962-199].

An annuitant can avoid gift taxes by arranging the annuity transaction so that the payments reflect a fair exchange for the property, and then simply giving the obligor, in a separate transaction, an annual gift that does not exceed applicable annual exclusion amount [see I.R.C. § 2503(b); for discussion of the annual exclusion and the applicable exclusion amounts, which are adjusted annually for inflation, see Ch. 60A, Gifts, § 60A.32[4]].

[j] Estate Tax Consequences to Annuitant

An annuity that provides for payments to continue only while the annuitant is alive generally will have no impact on the annuitant's estate. However, annuity contracts between parents and children often provide that the annuity payments will be equal to the income from the transferred property. For tax purposes, these contracts will be treated as trusts under which the annuitant has retained a life interest in income from his or her own property [see Rev. Rul. 79-94, 1979-1 C.B. 296]. Thus, the full value of the property will be included in the annuitant's estate [see I.R.C. § 2036(a); see also § 97.15[3]].

Under a term annuity that provides for payments to continue after the annuitant's death, the balance due at the annuitant's death will be included in the estate as a debt owed to the decedent [I.R.C. § 2033]. If the annuity agreement contains a provision directing that the payments due after the annuitant's death be paid to a beneficiary [see § 97.212], the value of any payments received by the beneficiary will be included in the annuitant's estate [I.R.C. § 2039(a)]. For a general discussion of estate tax issues, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning.

[k] Tax Consequences to Obligor

Annuity payments made by the obligor are capital expenditures to acquire property, and no part of the payments are deductible as interest under I.R.C. § 163 [Bell v. Commissioner (8th Cir. 1982) 668 F.2d 448 ; see also Rev. Rul. 72-81, 1972-1 C.B. 98].

For purposes of reporting gain or loss on the sale of transferred property, the obligor's basis depends on whether that property is sold before or after the annuity is fully paid. If the property is sold after the annuity is paid off, the obligor's tax basis is the value of all annuity payments made. If the property is sold before the annuity is paid off, the obligor's basis for determining gain is the value of all payments made plus the estimated value of the remaining payments to be made [see Rev. Rul. 55-119, 1955-1 C.B. 352].

If the obligor sells the property at a loss before the annuity is paid off, the obligor may deduct all payments made after the date of sale from his or her gross income [Donald H. Sheridan (1952) 18 T.C. 381, 384].

[l] Use of Private Annuity as Planning Device

There are several advantages to the private annuity as a personal planning device: it allows the transfer of property to the annuitant's heirs without the imposition of estate or gift taxes; the capital gain realized from the transaction is not immediately taxed [see I.R.C. § 72(b); see also Rev. Rul. 69-74, 1969-1 C.B. 43]; and the basis in the property transferred is stepped up at the time of the transfer, allowing for an increase in depreciation deductions [Rev. Rul. 55-119, 1955-1 C.B. 352 ; see Kaufman's, Inc. (1957) 28 T.C. 1179].

However, the drawbacks of using a private annuity are also numerous. Because the transfer must be unsecured in order to spread the annuitant's gain over the term of the annuity [I.R.C. § 72; see Garvey, Inc. v. United States (Cl. Ct. 1984) 726 F.2d 1569 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 823 ; see also § 97.210[1][f][ii]], the private annuity form is suitable only when the obligor's trustworthiness and financial stability are certain. In an inflationary economy, the purchasing power of a fixed annuity will progressively decline, and may become inadequate for the annuitant's needs. The fixed payment schedule will also be unresponsive to extraordinary expenses or changes in the annuitant's circumstances, and for this reason annuity payments probably should not be relied on as a sole source of income and support. For the obligor, the private annuity form may be unsatisfactory because it does not allow for deductions for interest payments [I.R.C. § 163(h); see § 97.210[k]]. The attorney advising prospective parties to a private annuity should determine the total financial impact of the proposed annuity, and should also consider alternative arrangements to accomplish the parties' objectives.

[m] Installment Sale as Alternative

When undesirable tax consequences render a private annuity impractical, an installment sale of property from parents to children may be an acceptable alternative. For income tax purposes, an "installment sale" is any disposition of property in which at least one payment is to be received after the close of the tax year in which the disposition occurs [I.R.C. § 453(b)(1)]. However, the installment method of reporting income [I.R.C. § 453(c)] is not permitted for sales of stock or securities that are traded on an established securities market [I.R.C. § 453(j)]. If the installment method is not permitted, the seller must report all installment payments as if they were received during the year in which the sale is made [I.R.C.

For tax years prior to 1987, installment sales had an advantage over annuities in that the interest paid by the children, as purchasers, was generally deductible from their gross incomes [I.R.C. § 163(a)]. However, the deduction for personal interest was limited beginning in 1987, and eliminated after 1990 [I.R.C. § 163(h); see § 97.12]. The obligor under a private annuity may not deduct annuity payments from his or her gross income [see Rev. Rul. 72-81, 1972-1 C.B. 98]. Another advantage of an installment sale is that the income tax consequences to the obligor are determined on the date of the sale [see Rev. Rul. 55-119, 1955-1 C.B. 352].

On the other hand, certain tax problems not encountered in private annuities may attend installment sales. For example, I.R.C. § 453(e) imposes restrictions on second dispositions of installment sale property by related taxpayers. If a parent sells property to his or her child on an installment basis and that child disposes of the property before the parent has received all payments due, any gain realized by the child on that second disposition will be treated as income to the parent [see I.R.C. § 453(e)(1); see also I.R.C. §§ 318(a), 453(d)(1)]. The parent will be treated as having received that income as of the date the second disposition takes place [see I.R.C. § 453(e)(1)(B)]. If, however, the child disposes of the installment sales property, other than marketable securities, more than two years after the original sale, no gain on that second disposition will be imputed to the parent [see I.R.C. § 453(e)(2)(A)]. An installment sale may result in estate tax complications if the seller/parent dies before receiving all payments due under the sales contract, since the value of the remaining payments would be included in his or her gross estate [see I.R.C. §§ 2031, 2033]. Use of an annuity providing for payments to cease on the annuitant's death would guard against this result.

The impact of tax consequences attending installment sales and private annuities can be tempered by dividing the property to be transferred and conveying one portion under an installment sale contract and the other portion in exchange for an annuity. If the property cannot be physically divided, both transfers should pass undivided interests in that property. If, however, the property can be readily divided (for example, listed securities) it should be transferred in separate portions.

CHAPTER 97 PRIVATE LOANS AND ANNUITIES
PART IV. FORMS
B. Private Annuities

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.211

§ 97.211 Joint and Survivor Annuity Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement for a joint and survivor annuity. A private joint and survivor annuity is most often created by the transfer of community property by parents to their children in return for the children's unsecured promise to pay the parents a fixed annuity during the joint lives of the parents and during the life of the survivor.

[b] Tax Consequences

[i] To Annuitant

The tax consequences of a joint and survivor annuity to the annuitants are similar to the tax consequences of an annuity to a sole annuitant, except that the computations are more involved since joint lives are involved [I.R.C. § 72; Treas. Reg. § 1.72-2; see § 97.210[1][f]]

[ii] To Obligor

The tax consequences of a joint and survivor annuity to the obligor are the same as for a sole annuity: none of the payments are deductible under I.R.C. § 163 [see Bell v. Commissioner (8th Cir. [T.C.] 1982) 668 F.2d 448 ; see also Rev. Rul. 72-81, 1972-1 C.B. 98] ; and the basis of the property for depreciation or for gain or loss on its sale by the obligor is dependent on the value of the annuity, with adjustments to the basis made in the same manner as for sole annuities [Rev. Rul. 55-119, 1955-1 C.B. 352 ; see § 97.210[1][k]].

[c] Alternative to Joint and Survivor Annuity

As an alternative to a joint and survivor annuity, the community property that is to be transferred for the annuity equally may first be divided between the husband and wife, and each spouse subsequently may transfer his or her one-half interest in return for a separate annuity. Since the two annuitants may not have identical life expectancies, their fixed payment amounts are likely to differ if the value of the property transferred is to be exactly equal to the value of the annuity received.

The creation of two annuities rather than a joint and survivor annuity requires the extra step of dividing the subject property before transferring it to the obligor. It also creates extra work for the obligor, who must make payments under two separate agreements. However, the use of separate annuities may be desirable if the husband and wife are living apart from each other or prefer to manage their financial affairs separately. The use of separate annuities also allows each annuitant to assign his or her right to payments without the consent of the other.

PART IV. FORMS
B. Private Annuities

§ 97.212 Optional Clause for Designation of Beneficiary[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an optional clause directing the payment of a term annuity to an individual of the annuitant's choice in the event that the annuitant dies before the expiration of the annuity term. This clause should only be used in a term annuity, since under a life annuity payments do not continue after the annuitant's death. If a beneficiary is not designated, the annuity right will pass into the annuitant's general estate, as a debt owed the estate, at the time of the annuitant's death [see Prob. Code § 9650(a)(1)].

While both annuitants are living, both of their signatures should be required to change the beneficiary. If the requirement of both signatures is made absolute, it will prevent the surviving annuitant from changing the beneficiary after the death of his or her spouse. Depending on the annuitants' circumstances, this may be a necessary safeguard or an undesirable restraint on the survivor's ability to respond to events occurring after his or her spouse's death. This form contains optional language limiting the requirement for both signatures to the period during which both annuitants are alive.

For a discussion of the tax consequences of a term annuity when the annuitant dies before the expiration of the term, see § 97.210[1][j].

[2] FORMOptional Clause for Designation of Beneficiary

Designation of Beneficiary

(a) Any annuity payments that become due under this Agreement after the death of [both] Annuitant(s) shall be paid to _____ [name of beneficiary] ("Beneficiary"), _____ [street address], _____ [city and state].

[For a sole annuitant:]

(b) Annuitant reserves the right to change the beneficiary under this Paragraph at any time during the term of this Agreement, by written notice to Obligor.

[Or, for joint annuitants:]

(b) Annuitants expressly reserve the right to change the beneficiary under this Paragraph at any time during the term of this Agreement, by written notice to Obligor. [While both Annuitants are living,] any such notice of a change of beneficiary must be signed by both Annuitants in order to be valid.

[Continue with the following:]

(c) Any unpaid annuity payments, with respect to which no designated beneficiary is living when those payments become due, shall be paid to the estate of Annuitant(s).

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.213

§ 97.213 Optional Clause for Payments in Case of Disability of Annuitant

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This is an optional annuity provision that gives the obligor various options for making payments in the event that the annuitant becomes legally, mentally, or physically unfit to administer his or her own affairs. This type of provision may be desirable if the obligor is a child of the annuitant. It should be inserted, if appropriate, as an additional clause under Paragraph 2 in § 97.210 or § 97.211.

Because it allows the obligor to exercise considerable discretion in directing annuity on behalf of the annuitant, this provision will generally be desirable only when the obligor is a close relative of the annuitant. A durable power of attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4018, 4124] can be used to accomplish the same purpose served by this form, and can be tailored to limit the grant of authority according to the annuitant's wishes. For forms and discussion relating to durable powers of attorney, see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney .

[2] FORM

Optional Clause for Payments in Case of Disability of Annuitant

[For a sole annuitant:]

If Annuitant is under a legal disability at the time any installment is due or is unable, in Obligor's opinion, to properly administer that installment because of illness or mental or physical disability, that installment may be paid either (1) directly to Annuitant; (2) to Annuitant's legally appointed guardian, conservator, or other legal representative; (3) to the spouse or any near relative of Annuitant to be applied for Annuitant's benefit; or (4) to any person or institution in payment for support, maintenance, or medical care provided to Annuitant.

[Or, for joint annuitants:]

Whenever any installment is payable to an Annuitant who is under a legal disability or, in the opinion of the Obligor, is unable to properly administer that installment because of illness or because of mental or physical disability, the installment may be paid (1) directly to the Annuitant; (2) to the legally appointed guardian, conservator, or other legal representative of the Annuitant; (3) to the spouse or any near relative of the Annuitant to be applied for the benefit of the Annuitant; or (4) to any person or institution in payment for support, maintenance, or medical care provided to the Annuitant.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form contains an express statement that the annuity payments are not to be tied to the income, if any, produced by the property transferred. It should be inserted, if appropriate, as an additional clause under Paragraphs 2 in §§ 97.210[2] and 97.211[2]. This form may be useful if there is a risk that income property exchanged for an annuity may not be as profitable to the obligor as the parties expect. It may also be useful if there is a danger, due to the arrangement of the payment schedule, that the annuity form will be disregarded and the transaction will be treated as a trust with a reservation of life income for federal tax purposes [I.R.C. §§ 671, 677; for discussion of this issue, see § 97.15[3]].

[2] FORM

Optional Clause Indicating That Payments Are Not Dependent on Income From Property

The parties to this Agreement agree that the annuity payments specified under this Paragraph 2 shall be paid in full under the terms of this Agreement, regardless of the amount of income, if any, produced by the property transferred to Obligor under Schedule A of this Agreement.

PART IV. FORMS
B. Private Annuities

31-97 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 97.215

§ 97.215 Security Clause

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an optional clause to secure the obligor's promise to make annuity payments. It should be added as an additional paragraph to the complete annuity agreements in §§ 97.210 and 97.211.

The annuitant is often given a security interest in the property transferred to the obligor in exchange for the annuity. This situation is different from the situation in which the annuitant retains a right to the income produced by the property transferred to the obligor. If a right to income is retained rather than a security interest, the transfer will be treated as a trust for tax purposes [see I.R.C. §§ 671, 677; see also § 97.15[3]].

[b] Tax Drawbacks of Secured Annuity

Secured private annuities are used infrequently because they do not enjoy the tax advantage of spreading the annuitant's capital gain over the term of the annuity, which is available in unsecured private annuity transactions [see § 97.210[1][f]]. Secured private annuities are treated according to the Internal Revenue Code provisions and Treasury Regulations for commercial annuities [I.R.C. § 72; Treas. Reg. § 1.72-2; see Estate of Bell (1973) 60 T.C. 469]. If an annuity is secured, a fair market value can be attached to the obligor's promise to make payments and the annuitant's capital gain will be fully realized in the year that the property is transferred [I.R.C. § 1001(a); Garvey, Inc. v. United States (Cl. Ct. 1984) 726 F.2d 1569, cert. denied, 469 U.S. 823; see § 97.210[1][g]].

For a more detailed discussion of secured interests generally, see Ch. 42, Secured Transactions.

[2] FORM

Security Clause

Security

In support of Obligor's promise to make the payments specified in this Agreement, Obligor grants to Annuitant a security interest in the following property: [describe property in detail]. Obligor shall keep that property free from all liens and encumbrances [other than those specifically set forth herein] and shall maintain insurance against loss of the property. Obligor warrants that Obligor is the sole owner of the property, free from all liens and encumbrances [except the following: _____ (specify nature and extent of any liens or encumbrances)].

This chapter deals with powers of attorney. In 1994 the California Legislature enacted the Power Of Attorney Law. The law was generally moved from the Civil Code to the Probate Code. While there were no substantive changes of great magnitude, many provisions of the general law of agency that previously applied to powers of attorney were included in the new Power Of Attorney Law. This chapter reflects the new Power Of Attorney Law. This chapter does not cover durable powers of attorney [see Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney].

The Legal Background contains a general discussion of the law relating to powers of attorney, including the creation, use, modification, revocation, and recording of powers of attorney. Coverage of the authority, duties, and responsibilities of attorneys in fact is also provided. The Transaction Guide provides checklists of facts and documents, determinations, and procedures relating to powers of attorney. The Forms section provides complete power of attorney forms, specific power of attorney provisions, and revocation and substitution forms.

The forms in this chapter are intended to serve as general drafting guides and should be modified to reflect the particular circumstances and the intentions of the parties. § 98.10 The Power of Attorney Law

[1] Enactment of New Power of Attorney Law

In 1994 the California Legislature enacted the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.]. This legislation transferred the law governing powers of attorney from the Civil Code to the Probate Code, and drew provisions from other California statutes and the statutes of other states. For coverage of the source and effect of provisions in the new Power of Attorney Law, see Official California Law Revision Commission Comments to Power of Attorney Law, available from the CLRC at (415) 494-1335.

[2] Application of Power of Attorney of Law

Powers of attorney are governed by the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.] and, to the extent not otherwise inconsistent with the Power of Attorney Law, the general law of agency [see Prob. Code § 4051; see Civ. Code §§ 2019 et seq., 2295 et seq. (law of agency)]. The Power of Attorney Law applies to the following [Prob. Code § 4050(a)]:

- Durable powers of attorney, other than powers of attorney for health care governed by Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.
- Statutory form powers of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4400 et seq.].
- Other powers of attorney that incorporate or refer to the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4050(a)].

Durable powers of attorney are usually thought of as an estate planning device and therefore are not covered in this chapter. For coverage of durable powers of attorney, see Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney .

The Power of Attorney Law does not apply to the following:

- Powers of attorney to the extent that the authority of the attorney in fact is coupled with an interest in the subject of the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4050(b)(1)].
- Reciprocal or interinsurance exchanges and their contracts, subscribers, attorneys in fact, agents, and representatives [Prob. Code § 4050(b)(2)].
- Proxies given by an attorney in fact to exercise voting rights [Prob. Code § 4050(b)(3)].
- Durable powers of attorney for health care, which are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code §§ 4050(a)(1), 4651(a); see Prob. Code §§ 4600-4805].

Certain provisions of the Power of Attorney Law may not be limited in a power of attorney [see Prob. Code §§ 4155 (termination of authority of attorney in fact by incapacity of the principal), 4206 (certain matters affecting durable powers of attorney), 4207 (resignation of attorney in fact), 4236 (duties of attorneys in fact concerning records of transactions)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Overview of Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.11

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.11 Definitions

[1] "Power of Attorney" Defined

A "power of attorney" is a written instrument, however denominated, that is executed by a natural person having the power to contract and that grants authority to an attorney in fact. A power of attorney may be durable or nondurable [Prob. Code § 4022; see Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney]. A power of attorney may grant authority by incorporating by reference the powers permitted by statute [Prob. Code § 4263].

In a power of attorney a principal may grant authority to an attorney in fact to act on the principal's behalf with respect to all lawful subjects and purposes or with respect to one or more express purposes [Prob. Code § 4123].

There is an apparent inconsistency in the Power of Attorney Law. Although Prob. Code § 4022 does not require that a power of attorney be acknowledged or witnessed, Probate Code Section 4121 declares that a power of attorney is "legally sufficient" only if it contains the date of its execution, is signed by the principal or is signed in the principal's name in the principal's presence at his or her direction, and is acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two witnesses [Prob. Code § 4121; see Prob. Code § 4122]. Therefore, when preparing a power of attorney, the best practice would be to have it acknowledged before a notary public or witnessed [see Prob. Code § 4122; see also Civ. Code § 1189 (acknowledgments); see Estate of Rabinowitz (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 635, 638-640, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 722 (oral acknowledgment of power of attorney may be sufficient, and witnesses' signing of attestation clauses after principal's death may also be sufficient at least in absence of fraud)].

Case law provides that a power of attorney is a written authorization given by a principal to an agent to perform specified acts on behalf of the principal [Rosenberg v. C. W. Clarke Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 178, 186, 19 Cal. Rptr. 191] . A power of attorney is, in effect, a formalized delegation of authority [18 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 200, 201 (1951)] . The instrument by which the authority is granted is called a "power of attorney" [see Frink v. Roe (1886) 70 Cal. 296, 307, 11 P. 820] .

[2] "Principal" Defined

A "principal" is a natural person who executes a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4026].

[3] "Attorney in Fact" Defined

An "attorney in fact" is a person granted authority to act for the principal in a power of attorney, regardless of whether the person is known as an attorney in fact, agent, or other term [Prob. Code § 4014(a)]. The term "attorney in fact" includes not only the originally appointed attorney in fact, but also successors, alternates, and persons delegated authority by an attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4014(b)]. An attorney in fact is more than a mere agent. He or she is empowered to act in the place of the principal as to all acts necessary and proper for the transaction of business not of a legal character that is within the scope of the authority granted under the power of attorney [see County of L. A. v. Stuyvesant Ins. Co. (1964) 227 Cal. App. 2d 428, 431, 38 Cal. Rptr. 713].

[4] "Durable Power of Attorney" Defined

A "durable power of attorney" is a power of attorney by which a principal designates another person as attorney in fact in writing, and the power of attorney shows, by specified statements [Prob. Code § 4124(a), (b)] or otherwise, the principal's intent that the power remain exercisable regardless of the principal's subsequent incapacity [Prob. Code §§ 4018, 4124(c)]. Durable powers of attorney are covered in Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney.

Any person having the capacity to contract may appoint an agent [Prob. Code § 4022]. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Overview of Powers of Attorney

§ 98.13 Interpretation of Power of Attorney

The Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.] applies to all powers of attorney. Except where the Power of Attorney Law provides a specific rule, the general law of agency also applies to powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4051; see Civ. Code §§ 2019 et seq., 2295 et seq. (law of agency)].

Powers of attorney, being formal instruments, are subject to strict interpretation. They must be construed in accordance with the plain meaning of the language of the document without regard to extrinsic evidence. The authority conferred is not to be extended by implication beyond the natural and ordinary significance of the terms used [Rosenberg v. C. W. Clarke Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 178, 186, 19 Cal. Rptr. 191] . Further, the document is not to be construed as authorizing acts beyond those specified, unless those acts are necessary and proper to carry out the powers expressly delegated [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1020, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538 , overruled o.g., Morris v. Thogmartin (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 922, 930, 105 Cal. Rptr. 919 ; Rosenberg v. C. W. Clarke Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 178, 186, 19 Cal. Rptr. 191] .

If a power of attorney provides that the Power of Attorney Law of this state governs the power of attorney or otherwise indicates that is the principal's intention, the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code §§ 4000 et seq.] applies to acts and transactions inside and outside California if any of the following is satisfied [Prob. Code § 4052(a)]:

- The principal or attorney in fact was domiciled in California when the power of attorney was executed.
- The authority conferred on the attorney in fact relates to property, acts, or transactions in California.
- The acts or transactions of the attorney in fact occurred or were intended to occur in California.
- The power of attorney was executed by the principal in California.

- There is otherwise a reasonable relationship between California and the subject matter of the power of attorney.

If Prob. Code § 4052(a) does not apply to the power of attorney, the Power of Attorney Law governs the power of attorney and applies to the acts and transactions of the attorney in fact in California if (1) the principal was domiciled in California when he or she executed the power of attorney, or (2) the principal executed the power of attorney in California [Prob. Code § 4052(b)]. A power of attorney described in this section remains subject to the Power of Attorney Law despite any change in domicile or the principal or attorney in fact, or the removal from California of property that was the subject of the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4052(c)].

If a principal grants inconsistent authority to one or more attorneys in fact in two or more powers of attorney, the authority granted last controls to the extent of the inconsistency. This rule of interpretation may not be limited in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4130].

CHAPTER 98 POWERS OF ATTORNEY

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

A. Overview of Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.14

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.14 Statutory Form Power of Attorney

[1] In General

The Power of Attorney Law provides for uniform statutory form powers of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4400 et seq.]. In general, a uniform statutory form power of attorney is legally sufficient when the requirements of Prob. Code § 4402 are satisfied and the form presented in Prob. Code § 4401 is used. The requirements for completion of a uniform statutory power of attorney are strict and care must be taken in execution to ensure compliance. For example, placing an "X" rather than initialing specific powers on a uniform statutory power of attorney does not meet statutory requirements [see Torres v. Torres (2006) 135 CA 4th 870 ; 37 CR 3d 754]. However, any other form of power of attorney that complies with the requirements of law may be used instead of the form presented in Prob. Code § 4401, though in that case, the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney Act is inapplicable [Prob. Code § 4408]. For a form for a uniform statutory form power of attorney, see § 98.200.

In general, the entire Power of Attorney Law applies to statutory form powers of attorney. However, if there is a conflict between specific and general provisions, the specific provisions of the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney Act prevail [Prob. Code § 4407; see Prob. Code § 4400 et seq.].

A legally sufficient statutory form power of attorney is durable if language is included showing the intent of the principal that the power granted may be exercised regardless of later incapacity [Prob. Code § 4404; see Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney].

[2] Provisions in Statutory Form Power of Attorney

A statutory form power of attorney may be drafted to take effect on the occurrence of a specified event or contingency, and it may specify the persons who have the power to determine whether the event or contingency has occurred [Prob. Code § 4405(a), (b)]. Third persons may be compelled to honor an attorney in fact's authority under a properly executed statutory form power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4406].

By executing a statutory form power of attorney, the principal empowers the attorney in fact act for him or her in a variety of specified ways [Prob. Code § 4450]. In addition, grants of power regarding real property transactions, personal property transactions, stock and bond transactions, commodity and option transactions, banking transactions, business operating transactions, insurance and annuity transactions, estate transactions, claims and litigation, personal and family transactions, governmental programs, retirement plan transactions, and tax matters also have particular specified effects [see Prob. Code § 4451 et seq.].

[3] Validity of Former Statutory Form Power of Attorney

A statutory form power of attorney executed at any time, using a form that complied with former Civ. Code § 2450 or former Civil Code Part 4, Title 9, Chapter 3.5 [see former Civ. Code § 2475 et seq.], is valid [Prob. Code § 4409(a), (b)]. This is also true for a printed form of durable power of attorney under former Civil Code provisions [see Prob. Code § 4102; see also Ch. 68, Durable Powers of Attorney].

§ 98.15 Recordation of Power of Attorney

A power of attorney to execute a mortgage must be recorded [Civ. Code § 2933]. Because instruments affecting title to or possession of real property are entitled to be recorded [see Gov. Code § 27280(a)], other powers of attorney affecting title to or possession of real property may be recorded [Jones v. Marks (1874) 47 Cal. 242, 246-247 ; see Civ. Code §§ 1215, 1216]. Instruments entitled to be recorded must be recorded in the county in which the real property affected by the instrument is situated [Civ. Code § 1169].

The purpose of recording is to give constructive notice of the contents of the instrument to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees of the property [see Civ. Code § 1213]. However, if a power of attorney for the sale of land is otherwise valid, it is good as between the parties to the transaction, whether or not it is recorded [Delano v. Jacoby (1892) 96 Cal. 275, 279, 31 P. 290] .

No fee may be imposed for the recordation of a power of attorney to act as the agent for a service member for the period he or she is in military service [Mil. & Vet. Code § 822].

§ 98.16 Execution of Instrument to Convey Real Property

When an attorney in fact executes an instrument transferring an estate in real property, he or she must subscribe the name of the principal as well as his or her own name as attorney in fact [Civ. Code § 1095]. Accordingly, an instrument purporting to transfer an estate in real property signed only by the attorney in fact, even if the words "attorney in fact for" the named principal are added, does not convey the principal's title to the real property [Morrison v. Bowman (1865) 29 Cal. 337, 352-353 ; Mitchell v. Benj. Franklin B. & I. Corp. (1936) 13 Cal. App.2d 447, 448, 57 P.2d 185] . An instrument conveying an interest in real property that is executed by an attorney in fact must be acknowledged before it can be recorded [see Gov. Code § 27287; Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1189(a)].

There is no statute specifying the manner in which an attorney in fact must execute instruments that do not transfer estates in real property [see Title & Trust Co. v. Crocker First Nat. Bk. (1933) 131 Cal. App. 487, 493, 21 P.2d 475 (holding that Civ. Code § 1095 does not apply to checks)]. To avoid potential personal liability on an instrument, however, an attorney in fact must make known that he or she is executing the instrument in a representative capacity [see Com. Code § 3402].

A principal may modify a power of attorney in accordance with the terms of the power of attorney or by an instrument executed in the same manner as a power of attorney may be executed [*Prob. § 98.18 Revocation and Termination of Power of Attorney

[1] In General

A principal may revoke a power of attorney in accordance with its terms or by a writing [Prob. Code § 4151(a)]. However, revocation does not bind an attorney in fact or third person without notice of the revocation [Prob. Code § 4151(b)].

Unless it is coupled with an interest in the subject of the power [see [5], below; see also § 98.240 [1]], the authority of an attorney in fact is terminated by the occurrence of any of the following as to every person who has notice [Prob. Code § 4152(a), (b)]:

- (1) In accordance with the terms of the power of attorney;
- (2) Extinction of the subject or fulfillment of the purpose of the power of attorney;
- (3) Revocation of the attorney in fact's authority [see Prob. Code § 4153];
- (4) Death of the principal, except in specified circumstances;
- (5) Removal of the attorney in fact;
- (6) Resignation of the attorney in fact;
- (7) Incapacity of the attorney in fact (except that temporary incapacity suspends attorney in fact's authority only during incapacity);

(8) Dissolution or annulment of the marriage of the attorney in fact and the principal [see Prob. Code § 4154]; or

(9) Death of the attorney in fact.

The principal's good faith sale of the property subject to the power of attorney also terminates the power [Boehm v. Spreckels (1920) 183 Cal. 239, 248, 191 P. 5] .

Unless the power of attorney expressly provides for a termination date, the power of attorney does not terminate merely due to the lapse of time [Prob. Code § 4127].

The authority of an attorney in fact may be revoked in any of the following ways [Prob. Code § 4153(a)]:

- (1) In accordance with the terms of the power of attorney;
- (2) When the principal informs the attorney in fact orally or in writing that the authority is revoked or under what circumstances it is revoked;
- (3) When the principal's legal representative, with court approval [see Prob. Code § 4206] informs the attorney in fact in writing of the revocation or under what circumstances it is revoked.

Notice of the revocation should be given to all with whom the attorney in fact has dealt [see Prob. Code § 4153(b) (revocation not effective as to those without notice of revocation)].

[2] Resignation of Attorney in Fact

An attorney in fact may resign by any of the following means [Prob. Code § 4207(a)]:

- (1) If the principal is competent, by giving notice to the principal;
- (2) If a conservator has been appointed, by giving notice to the conservator;
- (3) On written agreement of a successor attorney in fact, or as provided in the power of attorney; or
- (4) Pursuant to a court order.

[3] Acts Undertaken Without Knowledge of Principal's Death or Incapacity

The death of a principal who has executed a written power of attorney does not revoke or terminate the power as to the attorney in fact or any other person who, without actual knowledge of the death of the principal, acts in good faith under the power of attorney. Any action so taken, unless otherwise invalid or unenforceable, binds the principal's successors in interest [Prob. Code § 4304(a)].

The incapacity of a principal who has previously executed a written nondurable power of attorney does not revoke or terminate the power as to the attorney in fact or any other person who, without actual knowledge of the incapacity of the principal, acts in good faith under the power of attorney. Any action so taken, unless otherwise invalid or unenforceable, binds the principal and his or her successors in interest [Prob. Code § 4304(b)].

[4] Acts of Attorney in Fact in Good Faith Reliance on Power

An affidavit executed by an attorney in fact stating that he or she did not have actual knowledge at the time of exercising a power of attorney that the power had been terminated by the principal's revocation, death, or incapacity is conclusive proof of the nonrevocation or nontermination of the power of attorney as to acts undertaken in good faith reliance on it. This rule is applicable to all powers of attorney. If the attorney in fact's exercise of the power requires execution and delivery of an instrument that is recordable, the affidavit, when authenticated for recordation, may also be recorded [Prob. Code § 4305(a)]. An attorney in fact's affidavit that he or she did not have actual knowledge of the revocation or termination of the power is not operative with respect to termination by expiration of time or occurrence of an event other than express revocation or a change in the principal's capacity [Prob. Code § 4305(b); see § 98.32[7]].

[5] Irrevocable Power of Attorney

If a power is created for the benefit of the attorney in fact to protect some title or right in the attorney in fact or to secure performance to the attorney in fact, the attorney in fact rather than the principal is the person most concerned with the power [Becket v. Welton Becket & Associates (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 815, 820, 114 Cal. Rptr. 531] . In such a case, the power of attorney is said to be "coupled with an interest" and the principal no longer has the power to terminate the power at will; that is, the power of attorney becomes irrevocable [Boehm v. Spreckels (1920) 183 Cal. 239, 248, 191 P. 5] . To constitute a power coupled with an interest, a power of attorney must: (1) be held for the benefit of the attorney in fact rather than the principal; (2) be created to secure the performance of a duty to the attorney in fact or to protect a title in the attorney in fact; and (3) be created either simultaneously with the duty or title or for consideration [Becket v. Welton Becket & Associates (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 815, 820, 114 Cal. Rptr. 531] .

The mere recitation that the power of attorney is coupled with an interest is not enough to make the power irrevocable [see Todd v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1919) 181 Cal. 406, 414-417, 184 P. 684] . The interest must be in the subject matter of the power of attorney itself and not just in the proceeds of the power [Woolley v. Embassy Suites, Inc. (1991) 227 Cal. App. 3d 1520, 1532, 278 Cal. Rptr. 719] .

[6] Revocation of Power Bestowed in Recorded Instrument

A recorded power of attorney to convey or execute instruments affecting real property [see § 98.15] is not revoked by an act of the party by whom it was executed unless the instrument containing the revocation is also acknowledged or proved, certified, and recorded in the same office in which the instrument containing the power was recorded [Civ. Code § 1216].

[7] Loss or Destruction of Instrument

A power of attorney is not terminated by the mere loss or destruction of the instrument bestowing the power. In this case, the courts will permit secondary evidence, such as the testimony of witnesses, to establish the contents of the instrument and the nature and scope of the power so that the intentions of both principal and attorney in fact may be carried out. The will of the party who executed the power of attorney, not the paper it is printed on, that creates the power [Posten v. Rasette (1855) 5 Cal. 467, 469 ; Culver v. Newhart (1912) 18 Cal. App. 614, 624-625, 123 P. 975] .

[8] Temporary Incapacity of Principal or Attorney In Fact

When a power of attorney is terminated by the incapacity of the principal, a question may arise as to the effect of subsequent restoration of capacity. The general rule of law that terminates the authority of the attorney in fact during the period of the principal's total insanity [see Civ. Code § 2356(a)(3)] is subject to the qualification that if, on restoration to capacity, the principal ratifies or knowingly fails to repudiate the acts of the attorney in fact, the powers previously granted are considered merely to be suspended, and the principal is deemed to assent to the acts done by the attorney in fact [S.F.C. Clearing-House v. MacDonald (1912) 18 Cal. App. 212, 216, 122 P. 964] .

Similarly, while the incapacity of an attorney in fact terminates the power of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4152(a)(7)], with respect to temporary incapacity the power is terminated only with respect to acts undertaken during the period of incapacity [see Clay v. Saute (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 681, 685-686, 295 P.2d 914] .

[9] Revival

A written instrument of power of attorney that has been revoked by a written instrument may not be revived by a mere oral declaration of the principal; rather, a revoked power of attorney can be reinstated only by a new writing [People v. Tufts (1914) 167 Cal. 266, 268, 139 P. 78] .

§ 98.30 Attorney in Fact Distinguished From Attorney at Law

A power of attorney does not permit the attorney in fact to act as an attorney at law [People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. Malone (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 531, 536, 42 Cal. Rptr. 888] . An attorney in fact differs from an attorney at law by definition and by general customary treatment [People ex rel. Dept. of Public Works v. Malone (1965) 232 Cal. App. 2d 531, 537, 42 Cal. Rptr. 888] . The State Bar Act [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6000 et seq.] restricts the practice of law in California to active members of the State Bar [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6125]. The term "practice of law" includes performing services in a court of justice, giving legal advice and counsel, and preparing legal instruments and contracts by which legal rights are secured, whether or not the matter involved is pending in a court [State Bar of California v. Superior Court (1929) 207 Cal. 323, 334-335, 278 P. 432] . An attorney in fact may not act as an attorney at law on behalf of a principal, even though the principal could appear in propria persona [In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1151, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46] . A person who is not an active member of the State Bar and who practices law is guilty of a misdemeanor [Bus. & Prof. Code § 6126(a)].

An attorney in fact may bring an action on behalf of the principal only if the attorney in fact is appointed a guardian ad litem [In re Marriage of Caballero (1994) 27 Cal. App. 4th 1139, 1152, 33 Cal. Rptr. 2d 46] .

Any person having the capacity to contract may act as an attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4200]. Hence, minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons deprived of civil rights [see Civ. Code § 1556] may not be appointed as attorneys in fact.

§ 98.32 Authority of Attorney in Fact

[1] In General

Except when the rules relating to powers of attorney provide otherwise, the general law of agency applies to the authority of an attorney in fact under a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4051; see Civ. Code §§ 2019 et seq., 2295 et seq. (law of agency)].

An attorney in fact may be given authority to act on the principal's behalf with respect to all lawful subjects and purposes [Prob. Code § 4123].

A principal may authorize an attorney in fact to do any acts that the principal might do, except those to which he or she is bound to give personal attention [Civ. Code § 2304]. An attorney in fact has the actual and ostensible authority that the principal confers on him or her [Civ. Code § 2315]. "Actual authority" is authority that the principal intentionally confers on the attorney in fact or that the principal either intentionally or by lack of ordinary care allows the attorney in fact to believe that he or she possesses [Civ. Code § 2316]. "Ostensible authority" is authority that a principal either intentionally or by lack of ordinary care causes or allows a third person to believe that the attorney in fact possesses [Civ. Code § 2317].

An attorney in fact has authority to do everything necessary and proper in the ordinary course of business to effect the purpose of the power of attorney [Prob. Code §§ 4261, 4262]. An attorney in fact is not, however, authorized to perform any act that constitutes a fraud on the principal [Civ. Code § 2306].

[2] Multiple and Successor Attorney in Fact

A principal may designate more than one attorney in fact in one or more powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4202(a)]. Authority granted to two or more attorneys in fact is exercisable only by their unanimous action [Prob. Code § 4202(b)]. If a vacancy occurs, the remaining attorneys in fact may exercise the authority conferred as if they were the only attorneys in fact [Prob. Code § 4202(c)]. If one of the attorneys in fact is unavailable, the remaining attorneys in fact may exercise the authority conferred as if they were the only attorneys in fact if such action is necessary to accomplish the purposes of the power of attorney or to avoid irreparable injury to the principal's interests [Prob. Code § 4202(d)].

An attorney in fact is not liable for the actions of other attorneys in fact unless he or she participates in, knowingly acquiesces in, or conceals a breach of fiduciary duty by another attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4202(e)].

A principal may designate or grant authority to one or more successor attorneys in fact to act if the authority of a predecessor attorney in fact terminates [Prob. Code § 4203(a), (b)]. A successor attorney in fact is not liable for the actions of the predecessor attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4203(c)].

[3] Relations With Third Parties

Third parties are required to give attorneys in fact the same rights and privileges that would be given to the principal if the principal were personally present and seeking to act. However, the third party need not give the attorney in fact rights and privileges to which the principal is not entitled [Prob. Code § 4300]. Third parties may deal with attorneys in fact as to subjects covered by the power of attorney even if the specific action of the attorney in fact is not set forth in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4301].

A third party may require, as a condition of dealing with an attorney in fact, that the attorney in fact provide proof of his or her identity and the current and permanent address of the principal [Prob. Code § 4302].

A third party who conducts activities through employees is not charged with actual knowledge of facts relating to a power of attorney or of a change in the attorney in fact's authority unless the information is received at a home office or other place where there is an employee with authority to act on the information and the employee has a reasonable time to act on the information using the procedures and facilities available in the regular course of operations. Knowledge given to an employee in one branch or office of a business that conducts business through multiple branches or offices is not attributable to an employee in a different branch or office [Prob. Code § 4308].

PRACTICE TIP:

Because knowledge between branches or offices is not attributed [see Prob. Code § 4308], an attorney in fact conducting business at different branches of the same bank should give all notices to the bank either to the main office or to all branches with which the attorney in fact does business.

A financial institution is not obligated to open a deposit account or to make a loan to an attorney in fact on behalf of a principal if the principal is not already a depositor or borrower of the financial institution [Prob. Code § 4310].

A third party is not required to enter into a transaction with an attorney in fact who has previously breached any agreement with the third party [Prob. Code § 4309].

[4] General Power of Attorney

If a power of attorney, other than in a statutory form power of attorney [see § 98.200], gives the attorney in fact general powers without limitation, the attorney in fact has all the authority to act that a person having the capacity to contract may carry out through an attorney in fact specifically authorized to take the action [Prob. Code § 4261; see Prob. Code § 4260].

A general power of attorney gives the attorney in fact full authority to transact any and all kinds of business for the principal [Moore v. Gould (1907) 151 Cal. 723, 728, 91 P. 616]. A general power includes almost every conceivable mode of dealing with the principal's property, real and personal, tangible and intangible [Kiekhoefer v. United States Nat. Bank (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 98, 104, 39 P.2d 807 ; Moore v. Gould (1907) 151 Cal. 723, 727, 91 P. 616] . Thus, the authority of an attorney in fact acting under a general power of attorney extends to executing a renewal of a note and mortgage made by the principal [see Moore v. Gould (1907) 151 Cal. 723, 727-728, 91 P. 616] and to employing a person to superintend and conserve the property of the principal [see Seymour v. Oelrichs (1912) 162 Cal. 318, 321-323, 122 P. 847] .

A general power of attorney does not authorize the attorney in fact to do acts for his or her own benefit or for the benefit of a third person [Bank of America v. Perry (1940) 41 Cal. App. 2d 133, 136-137, 106 P.2d 53] . Furthermore, a general power of attorney does not authorize an attorney in fact to act in his or her own name unless it is in the usual course of business to do so, or to define the scope of his or her authority, or to do any act that a trustee is forbidden to do [Civ. Code § 2322; see Prob. Code § 16000 et seq. (obligations of trustees)].

A power of attorney does not give the attorney in fact the power to do any of the following unless it is specifically so provided in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4264]:

- To create, modify, or revoke a trust.
- To fund a trust not created by the principal or a person authorized by the principal to create a trust on the principal's behalf with property of the principal.
- To make or revoke a gift of the principal's property in trust or otherwise.
- To exercise the right to make a disclaimer on behalf of the principal unless it is the disclaimer of a detrimental transfer to the principal with the approval of the court.
- To create or change survivorship interests in the principal's property or property in which the principal has an interest.
- To designate or change the designation of beneficiaries to receive any property, benefit, or contract right on the principal's death [see Schubert (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 100, 106, 115 Cal. Rptr. 2d 285 (attorney in fact who executed trust providing life estate in the decedent's residence to herself with remainder to decedent's grandchildren attempted to change beneficiary designation in violation of Prob. Code § 4264(f)).
- To make a loan to the attorney in fact.

A power of attorney is a general power unless it is specifically limited by the principal [see Prob. Code § 4261; Civ. Code § 2318]. When a power of attorney is given partly in general and partly in specific terms, the general authority gives no higher powers than those specifically mentioned [Civ. Code § 2321; see Prob. Code § 4262]. Thus, a power of attorney that authorized the attorney in fact to act for the principal on all matters, but contained a specific provision concerning the collection of securities from a particular brokerage firm, was held to be limited to that transaction [Byer v. Canadian Bank of Commerce (1937) 8 Cal. 2d 297, 302, 65 P.2d 67] .

An attorney in fact has all powers reasonably necessary to comply with Prob. Code § 4238 (duties relating to the disposition of records and property on termination of authority) [see Civ. Code § 2319 (authority of agent)].

[5] Special Power of Attorney

A principal may limit an attorney in fact's authority to that specified in the instrument [see Prob. Code § 4262; Civ.

Code §§ 2315, 2318]. Even under a special power of attorney, however, an attorney in fact has general authority as to third persons, unless they have actual or constructive notice of the restrictions on his or her authority [Civ. Code § 2318; see Meister & Sons Co. v. Wood-Tatum Co. (1915) 26 Cal. App. 584, 587-588, 147 P. 981]. Thus, when third parties have notice of restrictions on the authority of the attorney in fact, the principal is not bound by any actions of the attorney in fact that are beyond the scope of his or her authority [Terminix Co. v. Contractors' State etc. Bd. (1948) 84 Cal. App. 2d 167, 171-172, 190 P.2d 24].

[6] Springing Power of Attorney

A principal can limit the power of his or her attorney in fact by creating a "springing power of attorney"; that is, a power of attorney that provides that it will become effective at a specified future time or on the occurrence of a specified event or contingency, such as the principal's subsequent incapacity [Prob. Code § 4030]. The principal may designate one or more persons who, by a written declaration under penalty of perjury, have the power to determine conclusively that the specified event or contingency has occurred. The principal may designate the attorney in fact or another person to perform this function, either alone or jointly with other persons. If the springing power of attorney includes such a designation, the power of attorney will become effective when the person or persons designated execute a written declaration under penalty of perjury that the specified event or contingency has occurred, and persons acting in reliance on the declaration will not be liable to the principal or to any other person, regardless of whether the specified event or contingency has actually occurred [Prob. Code § 4129(b)].

[7] Affidavits of Authority

An attorney in fact may execute an affidavit [see Code Civ. Proc. § 2003] to the effect that at the time the attorney in fact did some act pursuant to the power of attorney, he or she did not have actual knowledge of termination or revocation of his or her authority to so act. The affidavit may be recorded if necessary [Prob. Code § 4305; see § 98.243 (form for affidavit)].

If acts are undertaken by third parties in good faith reliance on such an affidavit, the affidavit is conclusive proof of the nonrevocation or nontermination of the power at that time [Prob. Code § 4305(a)]. However, such an affidavit does not affect termination provisions actually contained in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4305(b)].

If an attorney in fact furnishes a third party an affidavit of authority and the third party refuses to accept the attorney in fact's authority, that third party is liable for the attorney's fees required to obtain court confirmation of the attorney in fact's authority unless the court determines the third party acted in good faith [Prob. Code § 4306(a)]. However, the third party has no obligation to request an affidavit of authority [Prob. Code § 4306(b)].

[8] Limiting Applicability of Statutes

A power of attorney may not limit the applicability of statutes stating they are not subject to limitation [see, e.g., Prob. Code §§ 4130(b), 4155(c), 4206(c), 4207(b)], or statutes relating to power of attorney warnings, operative dates of statutes, execution formalities, qualification of witnesses and attorneys in fact, and protection of third parties from liability [*Prob. § 98.33 Duties and Liabilities of Attorney in Fact

[1] General Duties and Liabilities

Generally, an attorney in fact has no duty to exercise the authority granted in a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4230(a)]. If an attorney in fact acts for the principal in one or more particular transactions, the attorney in fact is not thereby obligated to act for the principal in subsequent transactions. However, an attorney in fact is obligated to complete any transaction he or she has commenced [Prob. Code § 4230(b)]. An attorney in fact with special skills has a duty to apply the full extent of those skills [Prob. Code § 4237].

If an attorney in fact agrees in writing to act for the principal, the agreement is enforceable against the attorney in fact as a fiduciary regardless of whether there was consideration for the agreement [Prob. Code § 4230(c)]. An attorney in fact must exercise the standard of care that would be observed by a prudent person dealing with the property of others [Prob. Code § 4231(a)]. If an attorney in fact is not compensated, he or she is not liable for loss to the principal's property unless the loss results from the attorney in fact's bad faith, intentional wrongdoing, or gross negligence [Prob. Code § 4231(b)]. However, if an attorney in fact possesses special skills or expertise or was designated an attorney in fact based on a representation that he or she possessed special skills or expertise, the attorney in fact will be held to the same standard of care to which others possessing the special skills or expertise are held [Prob. Code § 4231(c)].

An attorney in fact has a duty to act solely in the interest of the principal and to avoid conflicts of interest [Prob. Code § 4232(a)]. An attorney in fact does not violate that duty solely because he or she benefits from acting for the principal, has a conflicting interest in relation to the property, care of affairs of the principal, or acts in an inconsistent manner regarding his or her interests and those of the principal [Prob. Code § 4232(b)].

An attorney in fact must keep the principal's property separate and distinct from other property and clearly identified as belonging to the principal [Prob. Code § 4233(a)]. The principal's property is properly held if it is held either in the name of the principal or in the name of the attorney in fact as attorney in fact for the principal [Prob. Code § 4233(b)].

An attorney in fact, to the extent reasonably practical under the circumstances, has a duty to keep in regular contact with the principal, to communicate with the principal, and to follow the instructions of the principal [Prob. Code § 4234(a)]. However, with court approval, the attorney in fact may disobey the instructions of the principal [Prob. Code § 4234(b)].

If the principal becomes incapable of giving instructions to the attorney in fact or there is a question as to whether or not the principal has that capability, the attorney in fact may consult with the principal's spouse, physician, attorney, accountant, and other advisors and family members as to matters to be undertaken that concern the principal's personal affairs, welfare, family, property, and business interests. The person consulted is required to disclose relevant information to the attorney in fact, and such disclosure is not a waiver of any privilege that may apply [Prob. Code § 4235].

[2] Duties Regarding Records and Accounts

An attorney in fact has a duty to keep records of all transactions entered into on behalf of the principal [Prob. Code § 4236(a)].

An attorney in fact does not have a duty to make an account of transactions entered into on behalf of the principal, except in the following circumstances [Prob. Code § 4236(b)]:

- When requested to do so by the principal.
- When the power of attorney so requires.
- When requested to do so by the conservator of a living principal.
- When requested to do so by the personal representative or successor in interest of a deceased principal.
- Pursuant to court order.

The following persons have a right to examine and copy the records kept by an attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4236(c)]:

- The principal.
- The conservator of the estate of a living principal.
- The personal representative or successor in interest of a deceased principal.
- Any person pursuant to a court order.

On termination of the authority of an attorney in fact, he or she must promptly deliver possession or control of the principal's property as follows [Prob. Code § 4238(a)]:

- If the principal is not incapacitated, to the principal or another person as he or she may direct.
- If the principal is incapacitated, to the following person in the following priority:
 - A qualified successor attorney in fact.

- As to any community property, to the principal's spouse.
- To the conservator or guardian of the principal's estate.
- If the principal is deceased, to the principal's personal representative or the principal's successors.

Copies of records relating to transactions concerning property undertaken on the principal's behalf must, if requested, be delivered to the person to whom possession or control of the property is delivered [Prob. Code § 4238(b)].

Termination of his or her authority does not relieve an attorney in fact of any duty to account for actions taken [Prob. Code § 4238(c)].

§ 98.34 Court Enforcement of Duties of Attorney in Fact

[1] In General

As a preliminary matter, a power of attorney is exercisable free of any judicial intervention [Prob. Code § 4500 (effective July 1, 2000)]. However, the superior court, on petition by a proper party, has jurisdiction to enforce and adjudicate matters relating to a power of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4500 et seq. (effective July 1, 2000; replacing Prob. Code § 4900 et seq., repealed effective July 1, 2000)]. To be enforced, a power of attorney must be written and must designate a natural person to act as attorney in fact [Prob. Code § 4022].

There is no right to a jury trial in proceedings concerning powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4504 (effective July 1, 2000)].

[2] Jurisdiction and Venue

The superior court has jurisdiction in judicial proceedings relating to powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4520(a) (effective July 1, 2000)]. A person who acts as an attorney in fact under a power of attorney governed by the Power of Attorney Law is subject to personal jurisdiction concerning the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4522 (effective July 1, 2000)].

The proper county for proceedings regarding powers of attorney are determined in the following order [Prob. Code § 4523 (effective July 1, 2000)]:

- The county in which the principal resides.
- The county in which the attorney in fact resides.
- A county in which property subject to the power of attorney is located.

- Any other county that is in the principal's best interest.

[3] Who May File Petition

Subject to the principals's right in a power of attorney to eliminate the authority of certain persons to petition the court for specified purposes [see Prob. Code § 4503 (effective July 1, 2000)], a petition regarding a power of attorney may be filed by any of the following [Prob. Code § 4540 (effective July 1, 2000)]:

- The attorney in fact.
- The principal.
- The spouse of the principal.
- A relative of the principal.
- The conservator of the person or estate of the principal.
- The court investigator of the county where the power of attorney was executed or where the principal resides.
- The public guardian of the county where the power of attorney was executed or where the principal resides.
- The personal representative or trustee of the principal's estate.
- The principal's successor in interest.
- A person who is requested in writing by an attorney in fact to take action.
- Any other interested person or friend of the principal.

[4] Purposes of Petition

A petition regarding a power of attorney (other than a durable power of attorney or power of attorney for health care) may be filed for any one or more of the following purposes [Prob. Code § 4541 (effective July 1, 2000)]:

- To determine whether the power of attorney is still effective or has terminated.
- To pass on the acts or proposed acts of the attorney in fact, including approval of authority to disobey the principal's instructions [see Prob. Code § 4234(b)].
- To compel the attorney in fact to submit his or her accounts or to report his or her acts as attorney in fact to the principal, the principal's spouse, the conservator of the person or the estate of the principal, or any other person as the court requires, if the attorney in fact has failed to submit an accounting and report within 60 days after written request from the person filing the petition.
- To declare that the power of attorney is terminated on a determination by the court (a) that the attorney in fact has violated or is unfit to perform the fiduciary duties under the power of attorney, (b) that at the time of the court's determination, the principal lacks the capacity to give or to revoke a power of attorney, and (c) that the revocation of the attorney in fact's authority is in the best interests of the principal or the principal's estate.

- To approve the resignation of the attorney in fact.
- To compel a third person to honor the authority of an attorney in fact.

[5] Notice of Hearing

At least 15 days before the hearing, the petitioner must serve a copy of the notice of a hearing setting forth the time and place of the hearing, together with a copy of the petition, on the attorney in fact, if he or she is not the petitioner, and on the principal, if he or she is not the petitioner [Prob. Code § 4544(a) (effective July 1, 2000)]. If the petition seeks to compel action by a third person, it must also be served on the third person [Prob. Code § 4544(b) (effective July 1, 2000)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Attorneys in Fact

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.35

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.35 Delegation of Authority of Attorney in Fact

[1] In General

An attorney in fact may revocably delegate his or her authority to perform mechanical acts to one or more other persons qualified to exercise the authority delegated [Prob. Code § 4205(a)]. However, the attorney in fact remains responsible to the principal for the exercise or nonexercise of the delegated authority [Prob. Code § 4205(b)].

[2] Prior Law

Before passage of the Power of Attorney Law, the delegation of the authority of an attorney in fact was governed by Civ. Code § 2349. In addition to the delegable mechanical acts allowed by Prob. Code § 4205(a) [see [1], above], that section allows the authority of an agent to be delegated (unless specifically forbidden by the principal) [Civ. Code § 2349(2)-(4)]:

- When it is an act that the attorney in fact cannot lawfully perform, but that the sub-agent can lawfully perform;
- When it is the usage of the place to delegate such powers; and
- When the delegation is specially authorized by the principal.

The attorney in fact could not delegate his or her powers under any other circumstances [Civ. Code § 2349].

The Official California Law Revision Commission Comment to the Power of Attorney Law indicates that Prob. Code § 4205 is taken from Civ. Code § 2349, without explaining the reason the additional allowable circumstances for delegation were omitted from Prob. Code § 4205. Therefore, delegation under the additional circumstances may or may not be permitted.

However, the Power of Attorney Law expressly incorporates the general law of agency, including Title 9 of the Civil Code, which contains Civ. Code § 2349 [Prob. Code § 4051]. Therefore, it is likely Civ. Code § 2349 applies to powers of attorney. If a delegation for the addition purposes is desired, it should be argued that the general law of agency contained in Civ. Code § 2349 applies to powers of attorney, because the Power of Attorney Law provides for it (by incorporating the law of agency) and does not directly conflict with it.

[3] Substituted Attorney in Fact

In accordance with the general law of agency, a lawfully substituted attorney in fact represents the principal in the same manner as the original attorney in fact. Moreover, the original attorney in fact is not responsible to third parties for the acts of the substituted attorney in fact [Civ. Code § 2351]. If, however, an attorney in fact appoints a substitute attorney in fact without authority to do so, the original attorney in fact becomes the principal of the substituted attorney in fact. Thus, the original principal has no connection with the substituted attorney in fact [Civ. Code § 2350].

For further discussion of substitution of an attorney in fact, see § 98.242[1].

1. Does principal have capacity to appoint attorney in fact?

NOTE:

All persons, with the exception of minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons deprived of civil rights are capable of contracting [Civ. Code § 1556]. Minors are expressly precluded from granting powers of attorney [Fam. Code § 6701(a)].

a. Is principal over age 18 [Civ. Code § 1556; Fam. Code §§ 6500, 6701]?

b. Is principal of sound mind [Civ. Code § 1556]?

c. Is principal able to exercise his or her civil rights [Civ. Code § 1556]?

2. Does proposed attorney in fact have capacity to contract?

a. Is attorney in fact over age 18 [Civ. Code § 1556; Fam. Code §§ 6500, 6701]?

b. Is attorney in fact of sound mind [Civ. Code § 1556]?

c. Is attorney in fact able to exercise his or her civil rights [Civ. Code § 1556]?

Any person may be an agent [Civ. Code § 2296]. However, an attorney in fact must be a person with the capacity to contract [Prob. Code § 4200; see Prob. Code § 56 ("person" defined)]. § 98.111 Determining Type of Power of Attorney to Be Created

1. Are client's purposes best served by power authorizing attorney in fact to transact any and all business for principal (general power of attorney)?

NOTE:

A power of attorney is a general power unless it is specifically limited by the principal [Prob. Code § 4261; see Civ. Code § 2318]. A general power of attorney authorizes the attorney in fact to do any acts the principal might do, except those to which the principal is bound to give personal attention [Civ. Code § 2304]. All rights and liabilities that would accrue to the attorney in fact from transactions within the scope of his or her actual [see Civ. Code § 2316] or ostensible [see Civ. Code § 2317] authority if they had been entered into on the attorney in fact's account, accrue to the principal [Civ. Code § 2330].

2. Are client's purposes best served by limiting attorney in fact's authority to particular transactions on behalf of principal (special power of attorney)?

NOTE:

A special power of attorney is one that does not bestow a general power, but rather grants the attorney in fact authority to engage in particular transactions on behalf of the principal [see Prob. Code § 4262; Civ. Code §§ 2315, 2318].

PRACTICE TIP:

Normally, it is best to create a special power of attorney, limited to those powers the principal wishes the attorney in fact to exercise.

1. Review power of attorney to confirm it is enforceable by petition to court:

a. Does instrument qualify as a power of attorney?

§ 4503 (effective July 1, 2000); see P c, below].

c. If instrument does contain restrictions, do restrictions comply with statutory requirements for enforceability?

(1) Provision eliminating right to petition does not apply to person or purpose specifically protected by statute [see Prob. Code § 4503(b) (effective July 1, 2000)].

(2) Power of attorney was executed by principal who was represented by licensed counsel and counsel signed certificate stating fact of representation [see Prob. Code § 4503(a)(2) (effective July 1, 2000); see also § 98.120, P 5c(2)].

- a. Determining whether power is still effective or has terminated.
- b. Passing on acts or proposed acts of attorney in fact, including authority to disobey the principal's instructions.
- c. Compelling attorney in fact to submit accounts or to report acts as attorney in fact.
- d. Revoking power of attorney on determination that:
 - (1) Attorney in fact has violated or is unfit to perform fiduciary duties;
 - (2) Principal lacks capacity to give or revoke power of attorney; and

(3) Revocation of power is in best interests of principal or principal's estate.

e. Approving resignation of the attorney in fact.

f. Compelling third person to honor authority of attorney in fact.

4. Commence proceedings in superior court by filing a petition stating facts showing that petition is authorized [Prob. Code § 4541 (effective July 1, 2000)] and, if known to petitioner, terms of power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4542 (effective July 1, 2000)]; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 427, Principal and Agent (Matthew Bender)].

NOTE:

The court may dismiss a petition if it appears that the proceeding is not reasonably necessary for the protection of the interests of the principal or the principal's estate [Prob. Code § 4543 (effective July 1, 2000)].

5. Give notice of time and place of hearing [Prob. Code § 4544(a) (effective July 1, 2000)]:

CHAPTER 98 POWERS OF ATTORNEY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.200

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.200 Statutory Form Power of Attorney

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the statutory power of attorney form prescribed by the Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney Act [Prob. Code § 4401; see Prob. Code § 4400 et seq.]. The statutory form is legally sufficient if it complies with the following requirements [Prob. Code § 4402]:

- (1) The wording of the form substantially complies with the wording set forth in Probate Code Section 4401 [see Prob. Code § 4402(a) (specified nonconforming language deemed acceptable)];
- (2) The form is properly completed; and
- (3) The principal's signature is acknowledged [see Civ. Code § 1189; Certificate of Acknowledgment at end of form].

Other statutory form powers of attorney may be used if they comply with the requirements of law [Prob. Code § 4408; see [b], below].

This form is not required to be witnessed [see Prob. Code § 4402].

[b] Validity of Nonstatutory Forms and Former Statutory Forms

The Uniform Statutory Form Power of Attorney Act does not affect or limit the use of any other form for a power of attorney. A form that complies with the requirements of any other law may be used in lieu of the statutory form. However, the Act will not apply if another form is used [Prob. Code § 4408].

California statutory short form powers of attorney [see former Civ. Code §§ 2450 et seq., 2475 et seq.] executed before, on, or after the January 1, 1991 repeal of former Civil Code Sections 2450 et seq. and the January 1, 1995 repeal of former Civil Code Section 2475 et seq. continue to be valid in California [Prob. Code § 4409].

[c] Applicable Law

Court action against a third party who refuses to honor the agent's authority under a properly executed statutory form power of attorney is specifically authorized by statute [see Prob. Code § 4406]. In addition, statutory provisions concerning the nonliability of persons acting in good faith reliance on powers of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4301] and the lack of necessity to describe each item of personal property or parcel of real property to which a power of attorney applies [Prob. Code § 4123] are applicable to statutory form powers of attorney [Prob. Code § 4407].

[d] Limitation or Extension of Powers

The powers granted to an agent under a statutory form power of attorney are set forth in detail by statute [see Prob. Code §§ 4450 (general powers), 4451 (real property transactions), 4452 (personal property transactions), 4453 (stock and bond transactions), 4454 (commodity and option transactions), 4455 (banking and other financial institution transactions), 4456 (business operating transactions), 4457 (insurance and annuity transactions), 4458 (estate, trust, and other beneficiary transactions), 4459 (claims and litigation), 4460 (personal and family maintenance), 4461 (governmental benefits), 4462 (retirement plan transactions), 4463 (tax matters)].

The principal may limit or extend these statutory powers [Prob. Code § 4450]. He or she may also withhold altogether the power to handle certain types of transactions, such as real property transactions or business operating transactions [see Prob. Code §§ 4401, 4403; see also [2], below].

A statutory form power of attorney does not empower the agent to modify or revoke a trust created by the principal unless that power is expressly granted by the power of attorney. If this power is expressly granted, the trust may be modified or revoked by the agent only as provided in the trust instrument [Prob. Code § 4465].

The agent's powers are exercisable with respect to interests the principal acquires after the form is executed, as well as those the principal has at the time of execution, regardless of whether the power of attorney is executed, the powers are exercised, or the property covered by the power is located inside or outside California [Prob. Code § 4464].

[e] Springing Power of Attorney

A power of attorney that is to become effective at a future time, or on the occurrence of a specified event or contingency, is known as a "springing power of attorney" [Prob. Code § 4030]. Such a power may contain a provision designating one or more persons who, by written declaration under penalty of perjury, have the power to determine conclusively that the specified event or contingency has occurred [Prob. Code § 4129; see Prob. Code § 4405 (other methods may also be used to create springing powers of attorney)]. This provision may be included in the "Special Instructions" portion of the form [Prob. Code § 4405(c); see [2], below]. If this type of provision is used, it will become effective when the person or persons designated in the power of attorney execute the required declaration, and persons acting in reliance on the declaration will not be liable to the principal or to any other person, regardless of whether the specified event or contingency has actually occurred [Prob. Code § 4405(b)].

CHAPTER 98 POWERS OF ATTORNEY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.201

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.201 General Power of Attorney

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a traditional form of general power of attorney for use in California. It gives the attorney in fact broad and general powers to transact virtually any kind or nature of business in the name of the principal. Because of the sweeping powers contained in this type of general power and the absence of any limitation on its effective term, this type of power should be used with great caution and only in extraordinary circumstances where a precisely drafted special power of attorney would not be satisfactory.

PRACTICE TIP:

Normally, it is prudent to create a special power of attorney, limited to just those powers the principal wishes the attorney in fact to exercise.

[b] Use of Phrase "for my Use and Benefit"

The phrase "for my use and benefit," when used as part of the appointment clause at the commencement of the power of attorney, modifies and controls all the powers granted so that the exercise of any enumerated power, if not for the use and benefit of the principal, is not binding on the principal [see New York Life Ins. Co. v. Daley (1914) 25 Cal. App. 376, 378-379, 143 P. 1033]. In the New York Life case the court held that the exercise of a power of attorney to sign defendant's name to the note in payment of a premium for a life insurance policy was not for the use and benefit of defendant, because, even though defendant was the named beneficiary of the policy, she had no interest in it but a mere expectancy which could be changed at any time.

[c] Notice to Third Persons

An act done by the attorney in fact not for the use and benefit of the principal but for the use and benefit of the attorney in fact will nevertheless bind the principal if the third party with whom the attorney in fact deals has no knowledge or information sufficient to put him or her on inquiry that the agent is not acting for the use and benefit of the principal [Roth v. Schaaf (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 662, 666, 307 P.2d 421] . A party who gives a power of attorney to another, authorizing him or her in general terms to manage and transact all business matters of every nature and description in which the principal may be interested and to make, execute, and deliver promissory notes, bills, or bonds, will be held liable for all such securities executed in his or name by the attorney in fact, where they have reached the hands of an innocent holder although they may have been made for the private individual purpose of the attorney in fact [Hellman v. Potter (1855) 6 Cal. 13, 15] .

Although an agent can never have authority, either actual or ostensible, to do an act that is, and is known or suspected by the person with whom he deals, to be fraud on the principal [Civ. Code § 2306], there are many situations in which a fraud can be perpetrated on the principal by the agent without the third person's knowledge. For example, an attorney in fact who was given a broad and general power of attorney deceived a bank by simulating his principal's signature on a check. In rejecting the principal's claim that such an act constituted forgery and was therefore an unauthorized act, the court held that the attorney in fact had authority to sign the check in that manner by virtue of the broad powers conferred by the general power of attorney, and since the act of the agent was authorized, it was binding on the principal [Kiekhoefer v. United States Nat. Bank (1934) 2 Cal. 2d 98, 107-108, 39 P.2d 807] . For further discussion, see § 98.32[1].

[d] Termination of Attorney in Fact's Authority

This form includes an optional provision stating that the power of attorney will terminate on a specified date. Expiration of the stated term of a power of attorney is one of several events that terminates the power, as to every person having notice of the occurrence of that event [Prob. Code § 4152]; see § 98.18]. For examples of instruments revoking powers of attorney, see §§ 98.240 and 98.241.

PART IV. FORMS

§ 98.202 Special Power of Attorney

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a general form of special power of attorney. Spaces are provided in the first paragraph of the form for the enumeration of the powers granted to the attorney in fact and the limitations placed on those powers. For examples of specific powers that may be granted to an attorney in fact, see §§ 98.220 to 98.228. Those forms are illustrative, rather than exclusive, examples of powers that may be granted to an attorney in fact.

PRACTICE TIP:

It is prudent practice to create a special power of attorney, limited to just those powers the principal wishes the attorney in fact to exercise.

[b] General and Special Powers of Attorney

The difference between a general power of attorney and a special power of attorney is that a general power of attorney authorizes the attorney in fact to transact all business of the principal, while a special power of attorney limits the attorney in fact to certain specified acts or transactions [Moore v. Gould (1907) 151 Cal. 723, 728, 91 P. 616 ; see Prob. Code §§ 4261, 4262]. For an form for a general power of attorney, see § 98.201.

[c] Termination of Attorney in Fact's Authority

This form includes an optional provision stating that the power of attorney will terminate on a specified date. Expiration of the stated term of a power of attorney is one of several events that terminates the power, as to every person having notice of the occurrence of that event [Prob. Code § 4152]; see § 98.18]. For examples of instruments revoking powers of attorney, see §§ 98.240 and 98.241.

[d] Provision Making Power Irrevocable

This form contains an optional provision making the power of attorney irrevocable. Such a provision will be effective only if the power is "coupled with an interest" in the subject of the power [Civ. Code § 2356(a)]. To constitute a power coupled with an interest, a power of attorney must (1) be held for the benefit of the attorney in fact rather than the principal; (2) be created to secure the performance of a duty to the attorney in fact or to protect a title in the attorney in fact; and (3) be created either simultaneously with the duty or title or for consideration [Becket v. Welton Becket & Associates (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 815, 820, 114 Cal. Rptr. 531] . For further coverage, see § 98.240[1][b].

[e] Acknowledgment

While certain powers of attorney must be acknowledged [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 2933 (power to execute mortgage)], there is no general requirement that all powers of attorney be acknowledged. However, a power of attorney must either be acknowledged or witnessed [Prob. Code § 4121(c)].

Because acknowledgment is a prerequisite to recording a power of attorney [Gov. Code § 27287], a proper acknowledgment provides prima facie evidence of the facts recited in the certificate and of the genuineness of each signature appearing on the certificate [Evid. Code § 1451; see Civ. Code § 1190 (evidentiary effect of acknowledgment of instrument executed in behalf of incorporated or unincorporated entity)], and to avoid the need for witnesses [see Prob. Code § 4121(c)], it is recommended that powers of attorney be acknowledged.

The form of acknowledgment is specified by statute [see Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1189].

§ 98.203 Joint Power of Attorney by Husband and Wife

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a power of attorney to deal with property that is held jointly by both spouses or that is held in the name of one spouse, but in which the other spouse has a community property interest or other interest. This form does not contain any operative powers; these may be selected from §§ 98.220-98.228 or may be specially drafted to fit the particular needs of the situation.

[b] Power to Execute Power of Attorney

Any person who has the capacity to contract [see Civ. Code § 1556] has the power to execute a power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4022]. Minors are specifically precluded from making, executing, or revoking a power of attorney [Fam. Code § 6701(a)].

[c] Effect of Joint Power of Attorney

A joint power of attorney executed by a husband and wife has the effect of authorizing the conveyance of whatever interest either or both of the parties have in the property affected by the instrument [Cousino v. Western Shore Lumber Co. (1918) 179 Cal. 1, 4, 175 P. 406] . Thus, a joint power is effective to permit a transfer of the subject property despite its characterization as community property or as the separate property of either spouse.

CHAPTER 98 POWERS OF ATTORNEY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.204

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.204 Power of Attorney Empowering Counsel to Appear for Military Person in Adoption Proceedings

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an instrument commissioning and empowering counsel to appear in court in adoption proceedings for a member of the military or the American Red Cross. A military power of attorney is exempt from any requirement of form, substance, formality, or recording provided for powers of attorney under state law and must be given the same effect as a power of attorney prepared and executed in accordance with state law [10 U.S.C. § 1044b].

Ordinarily, a person wishing to adopt a child must appear before the court. However, if at the appointed time for the court appearance it is established by satisfactory evidence that (1) the adoptive parent is commissioned or enlisted in the military service or an auxiliary of the military service of the United States or of any of its allies, or in the American Red Cross (or any other recognized charitable or religious organization), and (2) the adoptive parent's service-related absence from California or other service-related circumstances makes it impossible or impracticable for him or her to appear in person, the appearance may be made by counsel commissioned and empowered in writing to act in this capacity [Fam. Code § 8613(a)]. Counsel acting as a commissioned and empowered attorney in fact for this purpose may execute and acknowledge the adoption agreement for the adoptive parent. Alternately, the adoption agreement may be acknowledged by the adoptive parent before a notary public or a person authorized to take acknowledgments under Civ. Code §§ 1183 and 1183.5 [Fam. Code § 8613(b)].

The power of attorney may be, but is not required to be, incorporated in the petition for adoption [Fam. Code § 8613(a)]. This form is intended to be used when a separate power of attorney is presented to the court. However, it may also be incorporated in the petition for adoption.

[b] Appearance by Spouse Also Residing With Adoptive Parent in Military Service

If the spouse of an adoptive parent who is in the military service or in the American Red Cross resides with that adoptive parent outside of California, the spouse may also make an appearance in the adoption proceedings through his or her counsel, commissioned and empowered in writing to so act [Fam. Code § 8613(e)]. Alternative language is provided in this form for use by a spouse in this situation.

[c] Use of Acknowledgment

Because the power of attorney must be filed in the office of the clerk of the court [see Fam. Code § 8613(d)], and to provide the court with assurance of the power's validity, it should be acknowledged whether it is incorporated in the petition for adoption [see Fam. Code § 8613(a)] or is executed as a separate instrument (this form).

Two forms of acknowledgment are presented for use with this form. The first is the form prescribed by statute for use by military notaries. Any officer on active duty or performing inactive duty training in the armed forces with the general powers of a notary public under applicable federal law [see 10 U.S.C. § 1044a] may perform all notarial acts for any person serving in the armed forces of the United States, or for any spouse of a person serving in the armed forces, wherever they may be. A military notary may also perform all notarial acts for any person eligible for legal assistance under laws and regulations of the United States, wherever he or she may be; for any person serving with, employed by, or accompanying the armed forces of the United States outside the United States and outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands; and for any person subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice outside of the United States [Civ. Code § 1183.5]. Instruments acknowledged by and oaths and affirmations made before authorized officers may not be rendered invalid by the failure to state the place of execution or acknowledgment. No seal or authentication of the officer's certificate of acknowledgment or of any jurat signed by him or her may be required. However, the officer must endorse or attach a certificate of acknowledgment in a form authorized by the laws of California or in substantially the form set forth in Civ. Code § 1183.5 (first example shown here).

The second acknowledgment shown here is the general form of acknowledgment prescribed by Civil Code § 1189. This form should be used if the notary is not an officer on active duty in the armed forces with the general powers of a notary public under applicable federal law [Civ. Code § 1188; see 10 U.S.C. § 1044a (authority to act as notary in military)].

CHAPTER 98 POWERS OF ATTORNEY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.205

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.205 Power to Petition for and Receive Legacy or Inheritance

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a power of attorney to collect an inheritance. It empowers the attorney in fact to act on behalf of the principal to apply for and collect money or other property due to the principal out of the named estate. The attorney in fact may be paid a flat fee or a percentage of the amount recovered.

[b] Court Scrutiny of Power of Attorney Containing Assignment of Heir's Interest

If the power of attorney contains an assignment of all or part of the heir's interest, the probate court may inquire into it on the motion of an interested party or on its own motion to ascertain whether the fee or consideration paid or agreed to be paid by the heir is reasonable and whether it was obtained by duress, fraud, or undue influence. The court may make such judgment as it deems just and equitable [Prob. Code § 11604]. In one case, for example, a $122,000 distribution to an heir hunter was held to be not grossly unreasonable even though the probate court had authorized a $5,000 fee to a different heir hunter. The heir hunter who actually located the heir spent approximately 150 hours searching data bases and interviewing leads and had spent two days searching for the heir [Estate of Wright (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 228, 239, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 572] .

[c] Validity of Assignment of Heir's Interest

An inheritance or interest in an estate is assignable whether the claim arises because of the provisions of a will or because of intestacy [Estate of Clark (1928) 94 Cal. App. 453, 460, 271 P. 542] . An assignment of a claim of inheritance, in whole or in part, in return for genealogical services is particularly proper [Estate of Cohen (1944) 66 Cal. App. 2d 450, 456-459, 152 P.2d 485] . If the assignment is made, however, as part of, or in conjunction with, a power of attorney whereby the attorney in fact is empowered to procure and pay for legal services on behalf of the principal in return for a percentage of the principal's interest in the estate so that the attorney in fact has the entire management of litigation, the arrangement is against public policy as constituting the practice of law without a license (if the attorney in fact is not an attorney) and because it amounts to a commercial exploitation of the legal profession [Estate of Collins (1968) 268 Cal. App. 2d 86, 90-92, 73 Cal. Rptr. 599] . In such a situation, the principal may disclaim the contract and appoint another person as his or her attorney in fact to act in the matter of the collection of the inheritance [Estate of Butler (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 644, 646, 649-652, 177 P.2d 16] . The distinguishing feature that makes a contract void as against public policy is the inclusion of a power permitting the attorney in fact to engage an attorney to act for the principal when the attorney in fact is an heir-hunter in the business of acting as middleman between the heir and the person who will present the case in court [see Estate of Butler (1947) 29 Cal. 2d 644, 649-650, 177 P.2d 16] . However, when an heir revoked a general power of attorney in favor of an attorney procured by the heir hunter and employed independent counsel, the heir's assignment of her interest in the estate to the heir hunter did not require invalidation [Estate of Wright (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 228, 236, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 572] .

CHAPTER 98 POWERS OF ATTORNEY

PART IV. FORMS

A. Complete Powers of Attorney

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.206

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.206 Power to Represent Creditor in Bankruptcy Proceedings

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a power of attorney to act on behalf of a creditor in bankruptcy matters. It may be used to appoint an attorney or a layperson to perform specified actions relating to a bankruptcy, such as voting on questions submitted to the creditors, on behalf of a creditor [see 11 U.S.C. § 101(10) ("creditor" defined for purposes of federal bankruptcy law)]. The first alternative is a general power of attorney. The second is a special power of attorney. For a discussion of general and special powers of attorney, see § 98.32[4], [5]. For discussion of creditors' agreements, see Ch. 78, Creditors' Agreements: Nonbankruptcy Alternatives. For discussion of bankruptcy proceedings, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 94, Bankruptcy (Matthew Bender).

The alternative forms presented here are adapted from Official Forms 11a and 11b, which are used by the Supreme Court in bankruptcy proceedings.

[b] Need for Written and Acknowledged Authorization

A creditor may act in a bankruptcy proceeding through an agent, attorney in fact, or proxy. The agent, attorney in fact, or proxy may not, however, appear in judicial proceedings or perform other acts constituting the practice of law unless he or she is also an attorney at law [Bankruptcy Rules, Rule 9010(a)].

The authority of an agent, attorney in fact, or proxy to represent a creditor for any purpose other than the execution and filing of a proof or claim or the acceptance or rejection of a plan must be evidenced by an executed and acknowledged power of attorney form substantially similar to Official Form 11a or 11b of the Bankruptcy Rules. The acknowledgment must be taken by a justice or judge of the United States, a court clerk or a clerk's deputy, or any person authorized to administer oaths in the state where the acknowledgment is taken [Bankruptcy Rules, Rule 9010(c); 28 U.S.C. §§ 459, 953]. In California, this includes notary publics, certified shorthand reporters and, if certain requirements are met, former justices and judges [Code Civ. Proc. § 2093]. The form for acknowledgments taken in California is specified by statute [Civ. Code §§ 1188, 1189].

§ 98.207 Special Power to Represent Principal Before Internal Revenue Service [IRS Form 2848]

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 2848] is a power of attorney that a taxpayer uses to empower an agent to represent him or her before the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) with respect to specified tax matters [see Treas. Reg. § 601.504(a) (situations in which power of attorney is required)]. Only a person recognized to practice before the IRS may be designated. Form 2848, and instructions for completing and filing it, may be obtained from the IRS, and are available online at the official IRS website. The IRS will accept a power of attorney other than IRS Form 2848 only if the power of attorney meets certain requirements detailed by regulation [see Treas. Reg. § 601.503]. The form is reproduced here along with the official IRS instructions.

A taxpayer's representative must execute a written declaration and attach it to the taxpayer's power of attorney [Treas. Reg. § 601.502(c)]. Part II of this form, properly completed, satisfies the requirement of the representative's declaration [see Treas. Reg. § 601.503(b)(1)].

This form allows the attorney in fact to perform virtually all of the acts the taxpayer (principal) could perform.

If the taxpayer does not want to appoint a representative, but does wish to authorize another individual or an entity to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information relating to the taxpayer, the taxpayer should use IRS Form 8821 [see § 98.208].

§ 98.208 Taxpayer's Authorization for Disclosure of Tax Information To Another Person or Entity [IRS Form 8821]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form [IRS Form 8821], referred to in the regulations and tax parlance as a "tax information authorization," is used by a taxpayer to authorize another individual or entity to inspect and/or receive confidential information relating to the taxpayer [see I.R.C. § 6103; Treas. Reg. §§ 301.6103(c)-1, 601.501(b)(15)]. The authorization will apply to the type of tax and the years or periods specified in the form. The form is only a disclosure authorization and cannot be used to appoint a representative. If the taxpayer wishes to authorize an individual to represent the taxpayer's interests before the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), the taxpayer must complete IRS Form 2848 [see § 98.207; see also Treas. Reg. § 601.504(a)]. Form 8821, and instructions for completing and filing it, may be obtained from the IRS.

A taxpayer may file a tax information authorization without using this form. However, the authorization must contain all of the information required on this form [see General Instructions to IRS Form 8821].

[b] Written Requests for or Consent to Disclosure of Tax Returns

A written request for or consent to disclosure of tax returns or return information must be in the form of a separate written document pertaining solely to the authorized disclosure. It must be signed [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(e)(1); see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6061-1(b) (methods of signing)] and dated by the taxpayer who filed the return or to whom the return information relates [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(b)(1)]. At the time it is signed and dated by the taxpayer, the written document also must specify all of the following [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(b)(1)(i)-(iv)]:

- The taxpayer's name, mailing address, and taxpayer identifying number [see I.R.C. § 6103(b)(6)].

- The identity of the person or persons to whom the disclosure is to be made.
- The type of return (or specified portion of the return) or return information (and the particular data) that is to be disclosed; and
- The taxable year or years covered by the return or return information.

In order to qualify as a "separate written document," the request must meet one of the following requirements [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(e)(1)]:

- Text appearing on one or more sheets of 8 1/2-inch by 11-inch or larger paper, each of which pertains solely to the authorized disclosure, so long as the sheet or sheets, taken together, contain all the elements described above;
- Text appearing on one or more computer screens, each of which pertains solely to the authorized disclosure, as long as the screen or screens, taken together, (1) contain all the elements described above; (2) can be signed [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(e)(1); see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6061-1(b) (methods of signing)] and dated by the taxpayer; and (3) can be reproduced, if necessary; or
- The consent is a consent on the record in an administrative or judicial proceeding, or a transcript of such a proceeding recording such consent, containing the information required above.

[c] Requests for Information or Assistance

If a taxpayer makes a written or nonwritten request, either directly to another person, or to the IRS, that the other person (such as a member of Congress, friend, or relative of the taxpayer) provide information or assistance relating to the taxpayer's return or to a transaction or other contact between the taxpayer and the IRS, the IRS may disclose returns or return information (in written or nonwritten form) to the other person under specified circumstances [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)]. If the request is written, it may be in the form of a letter or other written document, which must be signed [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(e)(1); see also Treas. Reg. § 301.6061-1(b) (methods of signing)] and dated by the taxpayer and include [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)(1)(i)]:

- The taxpayer's name, mailing address, and taxpayer identifying number [see I.R.C. § 6103(b)(6)].
- The identity of the person or persons to whom the disclosure is to be made.
- Sufficient facts underlying the request for information or assistance to enable the IRS to determine the nature and extent of the information or assistance requested and the returns or return information to be disclosed in order to comply with the taxpayer's request.

A person who receives a copy of a taxpayer's written request for information or assistance but who is not the addressee of the request, such as a member of Congress who is provided with a courtesy copy of a taxpayer's letter to another member of Congress or to the IRS, cannot receive returns or return information [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)(1)(ii)].

[d] Nonwritten Requests for Disclosure

Requests for information also may be nonwritten [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)(2)(ii)]. Examples of disclosures pursuant to nonwritten requests for information or assistance include disclosures to a friend, relative, or other person whom the taxpayer brings to an interview or meeting with IRS officials, and disclosures to a person whom the taxpayer wishes to involve in a telephone conversation with IRS officials [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)(2)(ii)]. The IRS may disclose returns and return information to the extent of the taxpayer's written request only after the IRS has done all of the following [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)(2)(i)]:

- Obtained from the taxpayer sufficient facts underlying the request for information or assistance to enable the IRS to determine the nature and extent of the information or assistance requested and the return or return information to be disclosed in order to comply with the taxpayer's request.
- Confirmed the identity of the taxpayer and the designee.
- Confirmed the date, the nature, and the extent of the information or assistance requested.

As long as the preceding requirements have been met, the taxpayer does not need to be present, either in person or as part of a telephone conversation, for disclosures of returns and return information to be made to the other person [Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(c)(2)(iii)].

[e] Filing

The taxpayer must file the form with each IRS office in which the taxpayer wants the appointee to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information on the taxpayer's behalf. The taxpayer may file the authorization by fax, provided the appropriate IRS office is equipped to accept such a transmission. If the authorization is filed for a matter currently pending before an IRS office, the taxpayer must file the authorization with that office. Otherwise, the taxpayer should file the authorization with the service center where the related return was, or will be, filed. The IRS must receive this form within 60 days of the date it was signed and dated by the taxpayer [see Treas. Reg. § 301.6103(c)-1(b)(2); General Instructions to IRS Form 8821].

[f] Revocation of Previous Authorizations

As indicated in Paragraph 6 of this form, the filing of a tax information authorization automatically revokes all previously filed tax information authorizations covering the same tax matters and time periods covered by the newly filed form. However, the taxpayer may prevent such a revocation from occurring by checking the appropriate box in Paragraph 6.

§ 98.222 Power to Execute a Mortgage on Real Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a specific power giving an attorney in fact the power to execute a mortgage on a specified parcel of real property belonging to the principal. This type of power may be useful when the attorney in fact is borrowing money for the principal and is authorized to secure the loan by a deed of trust or mortgage on the principal's property. For a complete form of power of attorney into which this particular power may be inserted, see Section 98.202.

[b] Requirement That the Power Be in Writing and Recorded

A power of attorney to execute a mortgage must be in writing and subscribed, acknowledged, or proved, certified, and recorded in the same manner as powers of attorney for grants of real property [Civ. Code § 2933].

[c] Necessity for Specific Power

Because a power to sell and convey real estate does not authorize the attorney in fact to mortgage it [Golinsky v. Allison (1896) 114 Cal. 458, 460, 46 P. 295] , it may be necessary to include a special provision authorizing the attorney in fact to mortgage the property if this is the intention, even though he may have been empowered to sell and convey the property.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a specific power giving an attorney in fact the power to consummate an exchange of all or part of the principal's specified parcel of real property for other real property as the attorney in fact deems appropriate. The attorney in fact is further authorized to execute any instruments necessary in conjunction with the exchange. The form may be used alone as a limitation on the agent's available methods of disposing of the property where, for tax or other reasons, the principal desires to exchange rather than sell the property, or the power may enlarge the agent's alternatives by being used in addition to a sale or mortgage power. The power of attorney should be acknowledged and recorded [see §§ 98.11 [1], 98.18]. For a complete form of power of attorney into which this power may be inserted, see Section 98.202.

§ 98.226 Power to Borrow Money and to Execute Promissory Note and Security Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a specific power giving an attorney in fact the power to borrow money on behalf of the principal; it is primarily useful when broad authority is necessary. Whenever possible, the power should be limited in scope both as to the source of funds and to the type of security that may be given. A limitation on the terms on which the funds are borrowed, such as number and amount of payments and rate of interest, may also be desirable. If it is anticipated that the loan will be secured by real property, also use the form presented in Section 98.222. For a complete form of power of attorney into which this power may be inserted, see Section 98.202.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a specific power authorizing an attorney in fact to take over the business of a principal. It may be used when the principal will be unable, because of absence or other reason, to carry on the affairs of the business. Because of the broad policy-making powers granted, the attorney in fact should possess sound business judgment in addition to being a trusted person. For a complete form of power of attorney into which this power may be inserted, see Section 98.202.

§ 98.240 Notice of Revocation of Power of Attorney

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a general form for the of revocation of a power of attorney. It is in the form of a notice of the revocation and may be sent directly to the attorney in fact and to any third persons with whom he or she has dealt or is dealing. For a form for use in revoking a power of attorney affecting real property, particularly when the power of attorney has been recorded, see Section 98.241.

[b] Revocability of Power of Attorney

The Power of Attorney Law provides that a power of attorney may be revoked (1) in accordance with its terms or (2) by a writing [Prob. Code § 4151(a)]. In addition, an attorney in fact's authority under a power of attorney may be revoked (1) in accordance with its terms, (2) by the principal's informing the attorney in fact of the revocation, or (3) in writing from the principal's legal representative, with court approval [Prob. Code § 4153(a)]. The general law of agency provides that the power of an agent is terminated by (1) revocation by the principal, (2) death of the principal, or (3) incapacity of the principal to contract [Civ. Code § 2356(a)]. For further discussion of revocability, see Section 98.18[1].

[c] Effect of Revocation

In order to make a revocation effective, it is essential, as a practical matter, that not only the attorney in fact, but all third persons who might deal with the attorney in fact in reliance on the power of attorney, be given notice of the revocation. This is because an attorney in fact or third person who does not have notice of the revocation is protected from liability [Prob. Code § 4151(b); see Prob. Code § 4300 et seq.]. In addition, although a revocation of the power of attorney will terminate the authority of the agent to act under it, any bona fide transaction entered into with the agent by any person acting without actual knowledge of the revocation will be binding on the principal and the principal's successors [Civ. Code § 2356(b)]. It is important to note that "actual knowledge" of the revocation is required, so that mere constructive notice which may follow from the recordation of the revocation appears to be insufficient.

Once a power of attorney has been formally revoked by a written instrument, it may not be revived and reinstated by a mere oral declaration; a new written instrument is required [see People v. Tufts (1914) 167 Cal. 266, 268, 139 P. 78] .

[d] Effect of Provision Making Power Irrevocable

Before a valid revocation of a power of attorney can be made, it is necessary to determine whether the power of attorney is revocable. A recitation in the power of attorney itself that it is revocable or irrevocable will not be dispositive since the power may in fact be irrevocable or revocable despite a contrary statement on its face [see Frink v. Roe (1886) 70 Cal. 296, 309, 11 P. 820 ; see Boehm v. Spreckels (1920) 183 Cal. 239, 248, 191 P. 5] . While such a provision in the power of attorney will not be conclusive, it will, however, be some evidence of the intention and understanding of the parties [see Norton v. Whitehead (1890) 84 Cal. 263, 270, 24 P. 154] .

A power of attorney terminates if it is revoked by the principal, unless the attorney in fact has an interest in the subject of the power [Civ. Code § 2356(a)(1)]. If the power of attorney is coupled with an interest, is given for a valuable consideration, or is part of a security for the payment of money or the performance of some other lawful act, it will be irrevocable whether so expressed on its face or not [Frink v. Roe (1886) 70 Cal. 296, 309, 11 P. 820 ; see Boehm v. Spreckels (1920) 183 Cal. 239, 248, 191 P. 5] . If it is not coupled with an interest or given as security for the payment of money or for the performance of an act deemed of value, it can be revoked by the principal even though made irrevocable by its terms [Todd v. Superior Court (1919) 181 Cal. 406, 417, 184 P. 684] .

To constitute a power coupled with an interest, making the power irrevocable, the power of attorney must: (1) be held for the benefit of the attorney in fact rather than the principal; (2) be created to secure the performance of a duty to the attorney in fact or to protect a title in the attorney in fact; and (3) be created either simultaneously with the duty or title or for consideration [Becket v. Welton Becket & Associates (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 815, 820, 114 Cal. Rptr. 531] . There must be a specific, present, and coexisting interest in the subject of the power or agency; the agent must have an interest or estate in the subject matter of the agency independent of the power conferred, rather than merely an interest or estate which accrues by or after the exercise of the power conferred [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1023, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538 , overruled o.g., Morris v. Thogmartin (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 922, 930, 105 Cal. Rptr. 919] .

If the power of attorney is coupled with an interest (that is, if the attorney in fact acquires an interest in the thing or estate to be disposed of or managed under the power), the power will be irrevocable, provided that the attorney in fact has such a beneficial interest in the subject matter itself, apart from its proceeds, that if the power were revoked he or she would be deprived of a substantial right [O'Connell v. Superior Court (1935) 2 Cal. 2d 418, 423, 41 P.2d 334] .

For further discussion of irrevocability, see Section 98.18 [5].

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a revocation of a power of attorney affecting real property. For discussion of the revocation of powers of attorney, see § 98.240[1].

[b] Recordation Requirement

To revoke a power to convey or execute instruments affecting real property that has been recorded, it is necessary to execute a written revocation and have it acknowledged or proved, certified, and recorded in the same office in which the power of attorney was recorded [Civ. Code § 1216]. However, an unrecorded instrument is valid as between the parties to the instrument and those who have notice of it [Civ. Code § 1217]. If the power being revoked affects real property but has not been recorded, it is still advisable to record the revocation in the county where the real property is situated in case the power of attorney is subsequently recorded. Revocations of powers of attorney that do not affect real property need not be recorded.

C. Revocation and Substitution

31-98 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 98.242

AUTHOR: Reviewed by the Honorable Walter L. Blackwell III

§ 98.242 Substitution of Attorney in Fact

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a substitute power of attorney. It is to be used by an attorney in fact to appoint a substitute attorney in fact to exercise some or all of the powers granted to the attorney in fact under his or her power of attorney. The attorney in fact who executes this document may be the original attorney in fact appointed by the principal, or a substitute attorney appointed pursuant to a document such as this one [see § 98.35[3]].

PRACTICE TIP:

If the principal wishes to appoint a different attorney in fact, he or she should terminate the existing power of attorney and execute a new one, rather than using a form of substitution. For revocation forms, see §§ 98.240 and 98.241.

[b] Power of Substitution

Before an attorney in fact can execute a valid substitute power of attorney, he or she must have the authority to do so. An agent, unless specially forbidden by the principal to do so, can delegate his or her powers to another person in any of the following cases, and in no others [Civ. Code § 2349]:

- When the act to be done is purely mechanical;
- When it is such as the agent cannot himself or herself, and the sub-agent can lawfully perform;
- When it is the usage of the place to delegate such powers; or

- When the delegation is specially authorized by the principal.

The Power of Attorney Act specifically allows the delegation of authority by an attorney in fact to perform purely mechanical acts [Prob. Code § 4205], but does not address the other cases covered by the general law of agency. Therefore, delegation of authority in those circumstances would still be allowed [see Prob. Code § 4051].

The primary way in which a principal authorizes his or her attorney in fact to execute a substitute power of attorney is by the use of the phrase "with full power of substitution" in the grant of power under the power of attorney. The use of this phrase in the power of attorney and in successive substitute powers of attorney will create a continuing power of substitution whereby each succeeding attorney in fact will be able to choose a successor to carry out the powers granted to him or her [see Rosenberg v. C. W. Clarke Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 178, 182-186, 19 Cal. Rptr. 191].

[c] Requirements for Valid Substitute Power of Attorney

Because an attorney in fact cannot confer on a substitute attorney in fact greater or different powers than the attorney in fact possesses under his or her power of attorney, the powers enumerated in the substitute power of attorney should either be identical to, or fall within the scope of, the powers granted under the original power of attorney [see Rosenberg v. C.W. Clarke Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 178, 184, 19 Cal. Rptr. 191]. Any change or alteration in the powers after the execution of the document will extinguish all executory obligations of the instrument against parties who did not consent to the act [Rosenberg v. C.W. Clarke Co. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 178, 184, 19 Cal. Rptr. 191].

Furthermore, since the naming of a substitute attorney in fact creates a personal agency relationship with the principal, the original or substitute attorney in fact may not execute a substitute power of attorney in blank, to be filled out by the bearer at some future date. The appointment must be the personal act of the attorney in fact, so the name of the substitute attorney in fact must be filled in at the time of the execution of the instrument [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1020, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538, overruled o.g., Morris v. Thogmartin (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 922, 930, 105 Cal. Rptr. 919]. If the substitute power of attorney includes the power to convey land, the description of the land must also be included in the substitute power of attorney; it may not be inserted afterward [Jay v. Dollarhide (1970) 3 Cal. App. 3d 1001, 1020, 84 Cal. Rptr. 538, overruled o.g., Morris v. Thogmartin (1973) 29 Cal. App. 3d 922, 930, 105 Cal. Rptr. 919].

Scope

This chapter covers the control, custody, and support aspects of the parent-child relationship. The Legal Background discusses the nature and extent of that relationship and its concomitant rights and duties. It also examines the practical and legal issues involved in artificial insemination and surrogate parenting. The Transaction Guide sets forth the facts, documents, determinations, and procedures used in drafting custody and support agreements, as well as contracts for artificial insemination and surrogate parenting services. The forms include examples and discussions of contracts for child custody, child support, artificial insemination, and surrogate parenting arrangements.

This chapter does not cover agreements regarding child custody and support made pursuant to dissolution of marriage or separation. For a discussion of agreements made in those contexts, see Chs. 120- 125. For a discussion of contract formation generally, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

The personal affairs of minors, including consent to medical and dental care by minors, marriage of minors, and tort claims by and against minors, are discussed in Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors . The business affairs of minors, including contracts by minors, and minors' work permits and entitlement to earnings, are covered in Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors . For a discussion of birth and death records, see Ch. 101, Vital Records . Inheritance issues regarding minors are discussed in Ch. 60, Estate Planning . The Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.] is covered in Ch. 60A, Gifts . For a discussion of guardianships for minors, see Ch. 66, Guardianships ; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians , et seq. (Matthew Bender). Adoptions are covered in California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect , et seq. (Matthew Bender).

DIVISION VII: PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 100 CONTROL, CUSTODY, AND SUPPORT OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Parent-Child Relationship

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.10

§ 100.10 Definitions

[1] Parent-Child Relationship

A parent-child relationship is the legal relationship existing between a child and his or her natural or adoptive parents, by which the law confers or imposes rights, privileges, duties, and obligations. It includes both the mother-child relationship and the father-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7601]. For most purposes, the legal considerations involved in the parent-child relationship apply only when the child is an unmarried minor child [see [2], below; but see Fam. Code § 3910(a)] (parental duty to support incapacitated, needy child of any age)].

The parent-child relationship may be established between a child and any of the following:

- The natural mother, by proof that the woman gave birth to the child;
- The biological father, under a series of presumptions [see Fam. Code § 7611; see also § 100.11[2], [3]]; or
- An adoptive parent, by proof of adoption [Fam. Code § 7610; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect (Matthew Bender)].

A parentage action under the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam. Code §§ 7600-7730] is used to establish the parentage of a mother or father [see § 100.11[1]].

The parent-child relationship extends equally to every child and every parent, regardless of the parent's marital status [Fam. Code § 7602]. A determination by a court as to the existence or nonexistence of a parent-child relationship is determinative for all purposes except for criminal proceedings brought for child neglect [Fam. Code § 7636; see Penal Code § 270].

The Legislature and courts have recognized the value of having two parents, rather than one, as a source of both emotional and financial support for a child [see Kristine M. v. David P. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 783, 786, 788-791, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 748 (once paternity is established under Uniform Parentage Act, public policy prevents court from terminating father's parental rights pursuant to parents' post-birth stipulation made as matter of convenience to end father's contact with, and obligation to support, child); Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 123, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188 ("whenever possible, a child should have the benefit of two parents to support and nurture him or her"); see also Fam. Code § 7570(a)]. However, there is no reason that the parents of a child cannot both be women [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 117-119, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 (explaining that Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 92, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776, which said child can have "only one natural mother," must be read in context as rejecting argument that child can have one father plus two mothers); see Sharon S. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 417, 427 n.6, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699, 73 P.3d 554 (mother could consent to "second parent" adoption by her lesbian partner)]. For example, if two women are registered domestic partners, their rights and obligations with respect to a child of either of them are the same as those of spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(d)]. For discussion of domestic partner registration, see Ch. 110, Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements and Related Transactions.

In some instances, the parent-child relationship may exist between a child and a person, such as a stepparent, who stands in loco parentis to the child [see Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 681-682, 300 P. 7, overruled on other grounds, Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648]. The term "in loco parentis" refers to a person who has put himself or herself in the position of a parent by assuming the obligations incidental to the parental relationship, without formally establishing that relationship through adoption [Estate of Teddy (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 29 Cal. Rptr. 402; see § 100.201[1][d]].

[2] Minor

A minor is any individual who is under 18 years of age [Fam. Code § 6500]. The period of minority is calculated from the first minute of the day on which the individual is born to the same minute of the corresponding day completing the period of minority [Fam. Code § 6500]. Any individual who is age 18 or older is an adult [Fam. Code § 6501].

DIVISION VII: PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS
CHAPTER 100 CONTROL, CUSTODY, AND SUPPORT OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Parent-Child Relationship

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.11

§ 100.11 Establishing Parentage

[1] Uniform Parentage Act

[a] Purpose and Scope of Act

Effective January 1, 1976, California abolished the concept of illegitimacy by enacting its version of the Uniform Parentage Act (UPA) [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.; see Lozano v. Scalier (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 843, 846, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 346]. The UPA established a procedure to determine the existence or nonexistence of the parent-child relationship [see Fam. Code § 7630(e), 7650], and abolished most distinctions between children of married and unmarried parents [see Fam. Code § 7602].

An action under the UPA is often used by one parent to establish a parent-child relationship as a basis for obtaining support from the other parent [see Fam. Code § 3900 (parents' duty of support); see also §§ 100.30, 100.31]. However, a parentage action may be brought for other reasons, such as obtaining custody or visitation rights [see Fam. Code §§ 7604, 7637 (custody and visitation orders allowed under UPA)] or determining inheritance rights [see Prob. Code § 6450 (determining parent-child relationship for purposes of intestate succession)].

In a paternity action under the UPA, a series of presumptions applies [see Fam. Code § 7611; see also [2], [3], below]. These presumptions are relevant not only in determining paternity, but also in establishing a man's standing to file a paternity action. An action to declare the existence of the father-child relationship based on a presumption that arises from the parents' marriage or attempted marriage [see Fam. Code § 7611(a)-(c)] may be brought at any time by the child, the child's natural mother, the presumed father, an adoption agency to which the child has been relinquished, or a prospective adoptive parent of the child [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(1); see Lisa I. v. Superior Court (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 605, 614-621, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 927 (application of statutory presumptions and standing rules to bar biological father's and paternity suit does not violate biological father's constitutional rights where biological father has no existing relationship with child); see also Fam. Code § 7630(e) (party to assisted reproduction agreement, as defined in Fam. Code § 7606, may bring action to establish parent-child relationship consistent with intent expressed in that agreement)]. Those same parties may also bring an action to declare the nonexistence of the father-child relationship based on those presumptions, but only within a reasonable time after obtaining knowledge of the relevant facts. If the presumption is rebutted, paternity of the child by another man may be determined in the same action if the other man has been made a party [Fam. Code § 7630(a)(2)]. Any interested party may bring an action for the purpose of determining the existence or nonexistence of the father-child relationship based on a man's receipt of the child into his home and his openly holding out the child as his natural child [Fam. Code § 7630(b); see Fam. Code § 7611(d)]. To have standing to pursue such an action, a man seeking to prove the existence of paternity must allege that he is an interested party who can also prove he is a presumed father based on his receiving the child into his home and openly holding out the child as his own [Said v. Jegan (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1375, 1383, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 661 ; Librers v. Black (2005) 129 Cal. App. 4th 114, 124-126, 28 Cal. Rptr. 3d 188] . However, if the man seeks to prove he is not the child's father, he need only allege facts showing that he might qualify as a presumed father [Said v. Jegan (2007) 146 Cal. App. 4th 1375, 1383-1384, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 661 (plaintiff was interested party because he was listed as father on child's birth certificate)].

Any interested party also may bring an action at any time for the purpose of determining the existence or nonexistence of the father-child relationship that is presumed when a child is conceived using a decedent's genetic material [Fam. Code § 7630(b); see Fam. Code § 7611(f); Prob. Code § 249.5]. For detailed discussion of the statutory presumptions, see [2], [3] below.

To determine a mother-child relationship, any interested party may bring an action under the UPA [see Fam. Code § 7650; Robert B. v. Susan B. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1114-1117, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 785 ("interested" person does not include woman who has no genetic or gestational relationship to child and no status as presumed mother, at least when another woman asserts cognizable claim to motherhood)]. Proof of the mother-child relationship may be established by proof of her having given birth to the child, or as otherwise permitted by the UPA [Fam. Code § 7610(a); see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 91-92, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 (blood test evidence to prove maternity)].

Regardless of its terms, an agreement between the parties, or between an alleged or presumed parent and the child, does not bar an action under the UPA [Fam. Code § 7632; K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 144, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673 (waiver form signed by ovum donor relinquishing and waiving all claims to legal parentage does not affect's court's determination of parentage)].

An action under the UPA to determine parentage may be brought before the birth of the child [Fam. Code § 7633]. If an order or judgment is entered before the birth of the child, enforcement of the order or judgment will be stayed until the birth of the child [Fam. Code § 7633].

A judgment establishing parentage under the UPA may be set aside under certain circumstances [see Fam. Code § 7645 et seq.; see, e.g., [2][b], [6], below]. However, a party who has stipulated to the entry of a judgment establishing parentage, and who has enjoyed the benefits of that judgment, will be estopped from challenging the validity of the judgment [Kristine H. v. Lisa R. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 156, 162-166, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 81, 117 P.3d 690 (stipulated judgment established that lesbian partners were both parents of child; "[g]iven that the court had subject matter jurisdiction to determine the parentage of the unborn child, and that Kristine invoked that jurisdiction, stipulated to the issuance of a judgment, and enjoyed the benefits of that judgment for nearly two years, it would be unfair both to Lisa and the child to permit Kristine to challenge the validity of that judgment")].

If a party invokes the jurisdiction of the superior court to determine parentage under the UPA, and that party then stipulates to the entry of a judgment declaring that both parties to the action are legal parents of the child, the party will be estopped from claiming ends with the entry of a stipulated judgment establishing parentage,

For a detailed discussion of actions under the UPA, and forms for use in such actions, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 31, Establishing Parentage (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

[b] Application of Act's Father-Child Provisions to Mother-Child Determinations

Most of the UPA is cast in terms of proceedings to determine paternity [see Fam. Code §§ 7611-7649.5]. However, the UPA also expressly provides that insofar as practicable, its provisions applicable to the father-child relationship also apply in an action to determine the existence or nonexistence of a mother-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7650(a)]. For example, the UPA expressly provides that a man who receives a child into his home and openly holds out the child as his natural child is presumed to be the child's natural father, even in the absence of a biological relationship [Fam. Code § 7611(d); see [3][a], below]. This presumption may also apply, therefore, to a woman who, although not biologically related to a child, receives the child into her home and openly holds out the child as her natural child. The presumption that the woman is the child's natural mother may be rebutted by clear and convincing evidence, but only in an "appropriate" case [Fam. Code § 7612(a)]. A case in which rebuttal of the presumption would leave the child motherless (such as when there is no competing claim to be the child's mother) is not an appropriate case for rebuttal, even if the presumed mother admits she is not the biological mother [In re Karen C. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 932 937-940, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677]. However, if the child's biological father and biological mother have identified themselves and come forward to assert their legal parentage, it is not appropriate to invoke a gender-neutral reading of the paternity presumptions to find that another woman is the child's mother [Amy G. v. M.W. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1, 12-14, 16, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 297 (when birth mother promptly comes forward to assert her legal maternity, and child's father is undisputed and present in action, father's spouse cannot be child's presumed mother under Fam. Code § 7611(a),(d))].

A biological mother whose parental rights have been terminated in a dependency proceeding [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 366.26] may not seek presumed mother status under the UPA [In re Cody B. (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1009-1013, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 652 (no exception to Fam. Code § 7648.4's reimbursement bar for declared father who filed motion to set aside paternity decree before that statute's enactment)].

The foregoing principles also apply in determining the parental rights and obligations of a woman with regard to a child born to her partner in a lesbian relationship. For example, the Supreme Court has held that a woman who agreed to raise children with her lesbian partner, supported her partner's artificial insemination using an anonymous donor, and received the resulting children into her home and held them out as her own was presumed to be the children's natural parent and had an obligation to support them [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 119-125, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 ; see Fam. Code §§ 7611(d), 7650(a); see also Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 308, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332 (whether biological mother opposes presumed-parent status for former lesbian partner should not affect determination of that status under Fam. Code §§ 7611(d), 7650(a) and Elisa B. v. Superior Court)]. The Court found that the case was not an appropriate one in which to rebut the presumption of natural parenthood with proof that the woman was not the children's biological mother, because she actively participated in causing the children to be conceived with the understanding that she would raise them as her own together with the birth mother, she voluntarily accepted the rights and obligations of parenthood after the children were born, and there were no competing claims to her being the children's second natural parent [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 122-125, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660]. The Supreme Court's holding that a child could have two natural parents, both of whom are women, was not precluded by the Court's statement in an earlier case that a child can have "only one natural mother" [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 92, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776]. That earlier statement had been made in a case in which the child had an undisputed father and it was necessary for the court to decide between the competing claims of the father's wife, who supplied the ovum, and a surrogate, who gave birth to the child. In that context, the Court's "only one natural mother" language was no more than a rejection of an argument that a child could have three parents [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 117-119, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 ; see Scott v. Superior Court (2009) 171 Cal. App. 4th 540, 544-545, 89 Cal. Rptr. 3d 843 ("In a same sex domestic partner relationship, a child may have two natural mothers (i.e., a biological mother and a mother meeting the presumed parent criteria in [Fam. Code] section 7611); but in a heterosexual relationship, there can be only one mother.")].

For detailed discussion of rebuttable presumptions of parentage under the UPA, see [3][a], [b], below.

Another section of the UPA provides that a man who donates semen to a licensed physician and surgeon or to a licensed sperm bank for use in artificial insemination or in vitro fertilization of a woman other than the donor's wife is treated in law as if he were not the natural father of any resulting child [Fam. Code § 7613(b); see [4], below]. Whether this section also applies to a woman who provides ova used to impregnate another woman is an open question [see K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 139, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673 ("Even if we assume that the provisions of section 7613(b) apply to women who donate ova, the statute does not apply under the circumstances of the present case")]. However, the Supreme Court has held that, even if an ovum donor is to be treated the same as a sperm donor, this section would not apply in a case of gestational surrogacy in which the ovum donor intends to raise the resulting child as her own [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 100, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776]. Similarly, the section does not apply to a woman who supplies her ova to impregnate her lesbian partner (using an anonymous sperm donor) in order to produce children who would be raised in their joint home; in such a case, therefore, the genetic relationship between the ovum donor and the children would establish a mother-child relationship [K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 139-143, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673 (if sperm donor is anonymous, child's two parents may both be women)].

For detailed discussion of the effect of artificial insemination on paternity, see [4], below. For discussion of surrogacy arrangements, see [5], below.

[2] "Conclusive" Presumptions Regarding Father

[a] Presumption That Mother's Husband is Father

A child born to a married woman cohabiting with her husband who is not impotent or sterile is "conclusively" presumed to be the child of the husband [Fam. Code § 7540]. The presumption was once truly conclusive for all purposes, and as such, it was a substantive rule of law rather than an evidentiary presumption [Vincent B. v. Joan R. (1981) 126 Cal. App. 3d 619, 623, 179 Cal. Rptr. 9]. However, the presumption is now subject to a limited right of rebuttal by blood test evidence or other genetic test evidence only, on a motion brought only by particular persons authorized by statute, including the husband, the mother (but only with the cooperation of an alleged biological father), and the child (through a guardian ad litem) [see Fam. Code §§ 7541, 7551; Rodney F. v. Karen M. (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 233, 240, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 399 (court-ordered blood test that was not authorized by statute could not rebut presumption); see also Brian C. v. Ginger K. (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 1198, 1216-1219, 92 Cal. Rptr. 2d 294 (application of presumption under Fam. Code § 7540 improper where mother had left husband and was cohabiting with another man, who assumed parental responsibilities)].

Blood tests or other genetic tests cannot be used to rebut the presumption of paternity in any case (1) in which the wife was artificially inseminated under the supervision of a licensed physician and with the consent of her husband [see Fam. Code § 7613; see also [4], below], (2) in which the wife conceived by means of a surgical procedure with the consent of her husband, or (3) in which a final judgment regarding paternity was reached on or before September 30, 1980 [Fam. Code § 7541(e)].

The United States Supreme Court, in a case without a majority opinion, has upheld the constitutionality of the "conclusive" presumption of paternity against due process and equal protection challenges [see Michael H. v. Gerald D. (1989) 491 U.S. 110, 119-130, 133-136, 109 S. Ct. 2333, 105 L. Ed. 2d 91 (alleged biological father and guardian ad litem for child sought determination of paternity over opposition of mother and husband, who were still married and living together and with child in family unit)]. However, five justices refused to foreclose the possibility that a biological father might ever have a constitutionally protected interest in his relationship with a child whose mother was married to and cohabiting with another man at the time of the child's conception and birth [see Michael H. v. Gerald D. (1989) 491 U.S. 110, 133-136, 156-163, 109 S. Ct. 2333, 105 L. Ed. 2d 91 (Stevens, J., concurring in judgment; Brennan, J., joined by Blackmun, J., and Marshall, J., dissenting; and White, J., dissenting); see also Michael M. v. Giovanna F. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1272, 1284-1285 n.8, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 460 (plurality opinion of Scalia, J., in Michael H. v. Gerald D. was not majority opinion and thus not controlling on question of scope of constitutionally protected interest in parent-child relationship)].

The California Supreme Court has found the "conclusive" presumption unconstitutional as applied to some facts [see Michelle W. v. Ronald W. (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 354, 358-359, 216 Cal. Rptr. 748, 703 P.2d 88 (putative father did not claim paternity at birth or for four years, during which time mother remained married and continued to live with husband, who fulfilled all parenting obligations)]. Courts are increasingly reluctant to apply the statutory presumption conclusively if there is no intact family interest to protect [see, e.g., County of Orange v. Leslie B. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 976, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 797; In re Melissa G. (1989) 213 Cal. App. 3d 1082, 1089, 261 Cal. Rptr. 894] .

A biological father lacks standing to seek an order for blood tests to overcome the conclusive presumption that the mother's husband is the father, unless the biological father is able to allege facts that would make him a "presumed father" within two years of the child's birth [see Fam. Code § 7541(b)]; see also Fam. Code §§ 7611, 7612 ("presumed father" status)]. Thus, the mother and her husband can prevent the biological father from ever establishing any parental rights over the child, by preventing him from developing a relationship with the child. However, if they permit the biological father to receive the child into his home and hold the child out as his own, the biological father will attain "presumed father" status [see Fam. Code § 7611(d)] and will have standing to seek an order for blood tests [Craig L. v. Sandy S. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 36, 49-52, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 606] .

[b] Presumption Arising From Declaration of Paternity

In a nonmarital situation, there is a presumption of paternity that can be created by the voluntary execution of a declaration of paternity by the mother and the man who alleges (and is alleged) to be the father of the child [see Fam. Code §§ 7573, 7576]. For declarations executed on or before December 31, 1996, this presumption is deemed "conclusive" and has the same force and effect as the presumption applicable to the mother's cohabiting husband [see Fam. Code § 7540; see also [a], above]. However, it may be rebutted by any person, but only by blood test or genetic test evidence. A notice of motion for blood tests, supported by a declaration of the moving party stating the factual basis for placing the issue of paternity before the court, must be made within three years from the date the declaration of paternity was executed by either the attesting father or the attesting mother, whichever signature is later [Fam. Code § 7576(a), (d)]. This presumption does not override the presumption that the mother's husband is the father [see Fam. Code § 7540; see also [a], above] or the presumption arising from genetic test evidence [see Fam. Code § 7555; see also [3][b], below]. It does, however, override all other statutory presumptions [Fam. Code § 7576(e)].

For voluntary declarations of paternity executed on or after January 1, 1997, the governing statutes do not characterize the declaration in terms of creating any particular type of presumption. Instead, they provide that a completed voluntary declaration of paternity that has been filed with the State Department of Child Support Services "shall establish the paternity of the child and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment of paternity issued by a court of competent jurisdiction" [Fam. Code § 7573; see Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1136-1139, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477 (declaration of paternity under Fam. Code § 7573 rebuts any presumption of paternity arising under Fam. Code § 7611)]. The voluntary declaration must be recognized as a basis for the establishment of an order for child custody, visitation, or child support, with certain statutory exceptions [Fam. Code § 7573]. These exceptions, which include the rules for declarations executed on or before December 31, 1996 (discussed immediately above), also include a special rule applicable to parents who are minors [see Fam. Code § 7577], and provisions for rescinding or setting aside the declaration [see Fam. Code §§ 7573, 7575-7577].

Although California law requires a voluntary declaration of paternity to be executed on a form developed by the California Department of Child Support Services [see Fam. Code § 7574(a)], a substantially similar declaration executed in another state may not be denied effect in California simply because it was not executed on a California form [In re Mary G. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 184, 198-202, 59 Cal. Rptr. 3d 703 (applying Fam. Code §§ 7611 and 7570 et seq. to deny presumed-father status solely because voluntary acknowledgment of paternity was made outside California would violate constitutional equal protection and full faith and credit principles)].

Either parent may rescind a post-1996 voluntary declaration within 60 days of the execution of the declaration by the attesting father or attesting mother, whichever signature is later, unless a court order for custody, visitation, or child support has been entered in an action in which the signatory was a party [Fam. Code § 7575(a)].

The set-aside provisions for post-1996 declarations permit a motion for genetic tests to be filed no later than two years from the date of the child's birth by (1) a local child support agency, (2) the mother, or (3) the man who signed the voluntary declaration as the child's father [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(3)(A); see, e.g., County of Orange v. Superior Court (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1253, 1262, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 689 (trial court erred in granting request for genetic testing filed more than five years after child's birth)]. A motion for genetic tests may also be filed by any participant in any action to determine the existence or nonexistence of the father and child relationship [see Fam. Code § 7630], or in any action to establish an order for child custody, visitation, or child support based on the voluntary declaration [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(3)(A); Solano County Health & Soc. Servs. Dep't v. Adrian L. (In re J.L.) (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1020-1021, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 27]. A local child support agency's authority to seek genetic tests is limited to circumstances in which there is a conflict between a voluntary acknowledgment of paternity and a judgment of paternity, or a conflict between two or more voluntary acknowledgments of paternity. [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(3)(B)]. If the court finds that the conclusions of all the experts based on the results of the genetic tests are that the man who signed the voluntary declaration is not the father of the child, the court may set aside the voluntary paternity declaration, unless the court determines that denial of the action to set aside the voluntary declaration of paternity is in the best interest of the child [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(1); see Fam. Code § 7575(b)(2) (if action is denied, court must state on record basis for denial of action and any supporting facts)]. In determining the best interest of the child, the court must consider all of the following factors [Fam. Code § 7575(b)(1)]:

- The age of the child.
- The length of time since the execution of the voluntary declaration of paternity by the man who signed the voluntary declaration.
- The nature, duration, and quality of any relationship between the man who signed the voluntary declaration and the child, including the duration and frequency of any time periods during which the child and the man who signed the voluntary declaration resided in the same household or enjoyed a parent-child relationship.
- The request of the man who signed the voluntary declaration that the parent-child relationship continue.
- Notice by the biological father of the child that he does not oppose preservation of the relationship between the man who signed the voluntary declaration and the child.
- The benefit or detriment to the child in establishing the biological parentage of the child.
- Whether the conduct of the man who signed the voluntary declaration has impaired the ability to ascertain the identity of, or get support from, the biological father.
- Additional factors deemed by the court to be relevant to its determination of the best interest of the child.

The above provisions do not preclude either parent, or a local child-support agency, from seeking set-aside relief under the general provisions for relief from judgments [see Code Civ. Proc. § 473; County of Los Angeles v. Sheldon P. (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1337, 1343-1346, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 (county maintaining local child support agency has standing to bring Code Civ. Proc. § 473 motion to set aside voluntary declaration of paternity, but voluntary declarant must be made party to set-aside proceeding)]. If the court sets aside a post-1996 declaration, it must order that the mother, child, and alleged father submit to genetic tests and proceed as in the case of a motion for genetic tests, as described immediately above [see Fam. Code § 7575(c)]. In addition, the Uniform Parentage Act provides detailed procedures for setting aside a judgment of paternity [Fam. Code § 7645 et seq.; see County of Fresno v. Sanchez (2005) 135 Cal. App. 4th 15, 19-20, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 192 (enactment of comprehensive statutory scheme for setting aside paternity judgments under Fam. Code § 7645 et seq., which took effect Jan. 1, 2005, vitiates County of Los Angeles v. Navarro (2004) 120 Cal. App. 4th 246, 248-250, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 905, which had relied on equitable considerations in granting relief from factually wrong paternity judgment after expiration of time for relief under Code Civ. Proc. § 473)]. For discussion, see [6], below.

For further discussion of voluntary paternity declarations, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 31, Establishing Parentage (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

[3] Rebuttable Presumptions Regarding Father

[a] Statutory Presumptions

In addition to the "conclusive" presumptions arising from the mother's marriage and a declaration of paternity [see [2], above], there are four rebuttable presumptions that a man is the biological father of a child:

- First, a man is presumed to be the father if (1) he and the child's natural mother are or have been married to each other; and (2) the child is born either during the marriage, or within 300 days after the marriage is terminated by death, annulment, declaration of invalidity, divorce, or decree of separation [Fam. Code § 7611(a)].
- Second, a presumption of paternity arises if before the child's birth, the man and the child's natural mother have attempted to marry each other by a marriage solemnized in apparent compliance with law (although the attempted marriage is or could be declared invalid); and the child is born during the attempted marriage or either (1) within 300 days of its termination by death, annulment, declaration of invalidity, or divorce, if the attempted marriage could be declared invalid only by a court; or (2) within 300 days after the termination of cohabitation if the attempted marriage is invalid without a court order [Fam. Code § 7611(b)].
- Third, a man is the presumed father if, after the child's birth, he and the child's natural mother have married or attempted to marry each other by a marriage solemnized in apparent compliance with law, although the attempted marriage is or could be declared invalid, and either (1) with his consent, the man is named as the child's father on the birth certificate; or (2) he is obligated to support the child under a written voluntary promise or by court order [Fam. Code § 7611(c)].
- Fourth, a presumption of fatherhood applies if a man receives the child into his home and openly holds out the child as his natural child [Fam. Code § 7611(d); see Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 119-125, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 (presumption of motherhood applies to woman who agreed to raise children with her lesbian partner, supported her partner's artificial insemination using anonymous donor, and received resulting children into her home and held them out as her own); see, e.g., In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 784, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (dependency case)]. The receipt of the child into the home must be sufficiently unambiguous as to constitute a clear declaration regarding the nature of the relationship, but it need not continue for any specific duration [Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 361, 374, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 26 (parties cohabited and shared parental responsibilities for first thirteen weeks of child's life; although cohabitation for an extended duration may strengthen a claim for presumed parent status, Fam. Code § 7611(d) does not require that cohabitation or coparenting continue for any particular period of time)]. But the receipt of the child into the home must be actual; there is no doctrine of "constructive receipt," by which the presumption would be established without actual receipt if the father is prevented from receiving the child into his home by the mother's acts, such as placing the child for adoption [Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 825-830, 823 P.2d 1216]. However, a father in this situation may have certain constitutional protections [see [b], below]. "Openly" holding out a child as one's own does not necessarily entail a public declaration of parenthood, and it is not necessarily negated by admitting to school officials, social workers, or police that there is no biological relationship. With an older child (over age two), the child's long-held belief that a parent-child relationship exists may be the most compelling evidence that the child was held out to the community as the person's own [see Kern County Dep't of Human Servs. v. Monica G. (In re Salvador M.) (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1357-1359, 4 Cal. Rptr. 3d 705 (applying "presumed father" principles to woman seeking "presumed mother" status)].

A fifth statutory rebuttable presumption became inoperative on January 1, 1997. Under that provision, a man was presumed to be the father of a child who was born and resided in a nation with which the United States engaged in an Orderly Departure Program (a program under the aegis of the United Nations, designed to establish the paternity of Amerasian children in Vietnam), if the father acknowledged paternity in a declaration under penalty of perjury [Fam. Code § 7611(e); see Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5 (declaration requirements)].

A sixth statutory rebuttable presumption applies to a child (other than a clone) who is conceived, using a man's genetic material, after the man's death. This presumption, which applies only if statutory conditions are met, is relevant only for determining rights to property to be distributed on the death of the presumed father [Fam. Code § 7611(f); Prob. Code § 249.5].

If two or more of these presumptions arise and conflict with each other, or with a claim or presumption in favor of the child's natural or adoptive parent [see Fam. Code § 7610], the presumption that, on the facts, is founded on the weightier considerations of policy and logic will control [Fam. Code § 7612(b); see In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 781, 788, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (in dependency case involving two competing claims of presumed-father status under Fam. Code § 7611(d), only one man attained that status and trial court did not need to engage in weighing process under Fam. Code § 7612(b))].

If none of the presumptions described above is applicable, then a man may not be presumed to be the biological father of a child if either of the following is true [Fam. Code § 7611.5]:

- The child was conceived as a result of rape [see Penal Code § 261] and the father was convicted of that crime.
- The child was conceived as a result of unlawful sexual intercourse [see Penal Code § 261.5], the father was convicted of that crime, and the mother was under age 15 and the father was age 21 or older at the time of conception.

Apart from the statutory presumptions described above, under the doctrine of "parentage by estoppel," a man who receives a child into his home and holds the child out as his own may be obligated to pay child support, even if it is established that the man was not the child's biological father. In one case, for example, a man had held himself out to be a child's natural father for over 12 years, and the child never was informed he had any other father. Under the circumstances, the court of appeal found that there was substantial evidence to estop the man from denying paternity, whether or not the statutory presumption of paternity could be rebutted [In re Marriage of Pedregon (2003) 107 Cal. App. 4th 1284, 1287-1291, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 861] . At least one court of appeal, however, has declined to apply the doctrine of parentage by estoppel to a man who acted without knowledge that he was not truly the child's biological parent. That court reasoned that it would be unfair to apply the equitable doctrine of estoppel to impose a support obligation on an individual whose conduct in receiving the child into his home and holding the child out as his own was based on his mistaken belief that he actually was the child's natural father [County of San Diego v. Arzaga (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1336, 1347-1348, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 329] .

[b] Rebuttal of Statutory Presumptions

Any of the presumptions described above is a rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of proof and may be rebutted only by clear and convincing evidence and only in an appropriate case [Fam. Code § 7612(a); see In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 788, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (in dependency case in which presumed father under Fam. Code § 7611(d) established family with minor child, as matter of law, presumption not rebutted by clear and convincing evidence that another party was biological father); In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1118-1121, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (though results of genetic testing constitute clear and convincing evidence, it does not follow that evidence will rebut presumption in every case; but only in appropriate case)].

With respect to the presumption arising when a man receives a child into his home and openly holds the child out as his own [see Fam. Code § 7611(d)], the California Supreme Court has held that the presumption is not necessarily rebutted when a presumed father seeks parental rights but admits that he is not the child's biological father. In particular, the statutory rebuttal provision [Fam. Code § 7612(a)] was not intended to apply when no other man claims parental rights and the child would be rendered fatherless by rebuttal of the presumption. Those circumstances are not "an appropriate action" in which to apply the rebuttal provision. Instead, the Supreme Court has suggested, the Legislature intended for the rebuttal provision to apply in an action in which "another candidate is vying for parental rights and seeks to rebut a presumption (under Fam. Code § 7611(d)) in order to perfect his claim, or in which a court decides that the legal rights and obligations of parenthood should devolve upon an unwilling candidate" [In re Nicholas H. (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 56, 62-70, 120 Cal. Rptr. 2d 146, 46 P.3d 932 (man does not lose status as presumed father by admitting he is not biological father); see In re Raphael P. (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 716, 734, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 610 (when there is only one man seeking to establish paternity based on having received child into his home under Fam. Code § 7611(d), genetic evidence that man is not child's biological father will not necessarily rebut presumption); In re Kiana A. (2001) 93 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1118-1121, 113 Cal. Rptr. 2d 669 (in applying paternity presumptions, extant father-child relationship is to be preserved at cost of biological ties)]. The California Supreme Court applied similar reasoning in a case in which a woman had agreed to raise children with her lesbian partner, had supported her partner's artificial insemination using an anonymous donor, and had received the resulting children into her home and held them out as her own [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 119-125, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 ; see Fam. Code §§ 7611(d), 7650(a)]. The Court found that the case was not an appropriate one in which to rebut the presumption of natural parenthood with proof that the woman was not the children's biological mother, because she had actively participated in causing the children to be conceived with the understanding that she would raise them as her own together with the birth mother, she had voluntarily accepted the rights and obligations of parenthood after the children were born, and there were no competing claims to her being the children's second natural parent [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 122-125, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660] .

When two men claim fatherhood and both are presumed fathers under Fam. Code § 7611, the biological paternity of one presumed father does not necessarily rebut the other man's presumption of paternity. A court must instead consider whether rebuttal of the presumption would be appropriate in the circumstances of the case, and it is within the court's discretion to find that the presumption in favor of the nonbiological father controls [In re Jesusa V. (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 588, 603-612, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 205, 85 P.3d 2 (failing to accord determinative weight to biological relationship with child does not violate due process rights of man with biological paternity); see Craig L. v. Sandy S. (2004) 125 Cal. App. 4th 36, 49-52, 22 Cal. Rptr. 3d 606 (state's interest in preserving stability of marriages will not necessarily outweigh interests of man and child with whom he has established paternal relationship under Fam. Code § 7611(d)]. However, if the mother and the biological father have signed and filed a valid declaration of paternity under Fam. Code § 7573 (see 100.11[2][b], above), that declaration has the same force as a judgment of paternity and rebuts any presumption arising under Fam. Code § 7611 [Kevin Q. v. Lauren W. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 1119, 1136-1139, 95 Cal. Rptr. 3d 477].

The rebuttable presumptions also are rebutted by a court decree establishing paternity of the child by another man [Fam. Code § 7612(c)]. Paternity may be established for purposes of Fam. Code § 7612(c) by, for example, a stipulated judgment of paternity in favor of another man entered in another case [see, e.g., Barkaloff v. Woodward (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 393, 399, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 167]. A mere determination made in the same case, however, that another man is the biological father, is insufficient for this purpose [In re A.A. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 771, 789, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 755 (trial court improperly used determination of paternity made in same case to find rebuttal, although "judgment" on determination did not exist until that case was concluded)].

[c] Presumption Based on Constitutional Rights

In addition to the statutory presumptions discussed in [a], above, federal constitutional guarantees of equal protection and due process for unwed fathers require that a presumption of paternity also apply in situations in which the man has promptly come forward and demonstrated as full a commitment to his parental responsibilities as the biological mother allowed and the circumstances permitted, within a short time after he knew or should have known of the existence of the child or the pregnancy [Adoption of Michael H. (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1043, 1060, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 898 P.2d 891 ; Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216]. Thus, an alleged father who acts promptly, and who is prevented by the mother's conduct from meeting the statutory requirements for presumed-father status, must be permitted standing to bring an action to establish his paternity (and to rebut the mother's husband's competing presumption of paternity) if the child was conceived or born while the mother was not married to her husband [Gabriel P. v. Suedi D. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 850, 859-861, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 437]. Similarly, an alleged father's delay in asserting his constitutional paternity rights will not forfeit those rights if the delay is the result of violent coercion by the presumed father [Solano County Health & Soc. Servs. Dep't v. Adrian L. (In re J.L.) (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 1010, 1022-1025, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 27]. This constitutional protection is not available, however, to a father who fails to promptly come forward to offer support, but rather attempts to assume his parental responsibilities many months after learning of the pregnancy [Adoption of Michael H. (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 1043, 1060, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 898 P.2d 891 ; In re Jason J. (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 922, 932-933, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625 (biological father did not qualify as father under Adoption of Kelsey S. (1992) 1 Cal. 4th 816, 849, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 615, 823 P.2d 1216, because "he points to no evidence he promptly stepped forward to assume any parental responsibilities, let alone full parental responsibilities"); Adoption of Arthur M. (2007) 149 Cal. App. 4th 704, 719-721, 57 Cal. Rptr. 3d 259]. Similarly, this constitutional protection is unavailable to a natural father who abandons his parental responsibilities and formally waives his parental rights when a guardianship is established for the child [In re Charlotte D., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1140, 1147-1151, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724, 202 P.3d 1109]. And the constitutional protection will not be afforded to a biological father whose involvement in criminal activities, resulting in incarceration, is the primary factor preventing him from assuming full parental responsibilities [Adoption of O.M., (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 672, 680-681, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 135 (although mother broke off relationship with child's biological father, father's ability to demonstrate commitment to parental responsibilities was impeded to far greater extent by predictable consequences of his own criminal activity)].

An alleged father does not have a constitutionally protected interest in establishing a relationship with his biological child if the child was born to a woman who was married to another man at the time of the child's conception and birth. In such a case, the fact that the alleged father is effectively prevented from establishing a relationship with the child by the child's mother will not change this result, if he otherwise has no recognized basis for asserting paternity [Dawn D. v. Superior Court (1998) 17 Cal. 4th 932, 939-944, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 871, 952 P.2d 1139 ; Gabriel P. v. Suedi D. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 850, 860-861, 46 Cal. Rptr. 3d 437]. For further discussion of the constitutional ramifications of the presumptions of paternity, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 171, Termination of Parental Rights (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

[4] Effect of Artificial Insemination

A husband is treated as if he were the biological father of a child conceived by his wife through artificial insemination with semen donated by another man, if (1) the insemination is performed under the supervision of a licensed physician, and (2) the husband has given his consent to the procedure [Fam. Code § 7613(a)]. The objective of this statutory provision is to establish two legal parents for the child [Alexandria S. v. Pacific Fertility Medical Center, Inc. (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 110, 126, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 23 ; cf. Dunkin v. Boskey (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 171, 196-198, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 44 (written agreement between unmarried parties to grant paternity rights to male party regarding child conceived by artificial insemination is enforceable to avoid unjust enrichment of mother, by awarding male party reimbursement of amounts he expended in performance of agreement)].

The husband's consent to artificial insemination must be in writing and signed by both husband and wife. The physician must certify their signatures and the date of the insemination, and the physician must retain the husband's consent as part of the medical record, which must be kept confidential and in a sealed file. However, the physician's failure to take these actions will not affect the father-child relationship. All papers and records pertaining to the insemination, whether part of the permanent record of a court or of a file held by the supervising physician or elsewhere, are subject to inspection only on an order of the court for good cause shown [Fam. Code § 7613(a)].

The donor of semen provided to a licensed physician and surgeon or to a licensed sperm bank for use in artificial insemination or in vitro fertilization of a woman other than the donor's wife is treated by statute as if he were not the biological father of the child conceived pursuant to the artificial insemination [Fam. Code § 7613(b)]; see Robert B. v. Susan B. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1113-1114, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 785 (Fam. Code § 7613(b) does not apply to man who provides semen solely for purpose of inseminating his own wife, even if resulting embryo is erroneously implanted in another woman)]. This provision does not apply, however, to a man who supplies sperm for use in a surrogacy arrangement to produce a child whom he and his wife will raise in their joint home [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 100, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 ; see K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 139-141, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673 ("there is nothing to indicate that [Fam. Code § 7613(b)] would apply if a man provided semen to be used to impregnate his unmarried partner in order to produce a child that would be raised in their joint home"); but see Steven S. v. Deborah D. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 319, 326, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 482 (Fam. Code § 7613(b) applies even if semen donor was known to impregnated woman and they had had sexual relationship; parties did not live together or plan to raise child in semen donor's home)].

Under the statutory procedure, the insemination (including the donation of semen) must be performed under the supervision of a licensed physician [Fam. Code § 7613(a)]. If the semen is provided and the woman inseminated privately, the statutory presumption does not operate and the donor may establish his paternity of the child [Jhordan C. v. Mary K. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 386, 391-396, 224 Cal. Rptr. 530 (rejecting constitutional challenge to physician requirement)]. For further discussion of issues concerning artificial insemination, see § 100.220[1][b].

Pre-conception agreements establishing parentage in the context of artificial insemination or other means of reproductive assistance are to be distinguished from post-birth agreements regarding parenthood in the context of normal sexual reproduction. A pre-conception agreement generally involves a situation in which the child would not have been born without the deliberative, acted-on intention of the couple who sought reproductive assistance [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 93, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 (honoring pre-conception surrogacy agreement)]. In contrast, when a child is born as the result of procreation through normal sexual reproduction, public policy generally prevents a court from terminating the father's parental rights pursuant to the parents' post-birth stipulation made as a matter of convenience to end father's contact with, and obligation to support, the child [Kristine M. v. David P. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 783, 786, 788-791, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 748 (public policies favoring creation of father-child relationship as source of emotional and financial support, and declaring preeminence of parent's obligation to support his or her minor child, trump any policy that would favor private ordering of parenthood after child's birth)].

[5] Surrogate Parenting Arrangements

Some couples who desire but are unable to bear children have turned to the use of surrogates, often paying substantial sums of money in exchange for the gestation of a child. Under a typical arrangement, the surrogate mother agrees to provide the gestation function and to renounce any parental rights that she might otherwise be entitled to, in exchange for monetary consideration. Two basic types of surrogate arrangements have come before the California courts.

Under the first type of surrogate arrangement, which involves in-vitro fertilization, fertilization of a human egg occurs in a laboratory. Under this process, an egg can be removed from one woman, fertilized with the intended father's sperm in a petri dish, and then implanted into the uterus of a different woman, who carries the fetus and gives birth to the child [see, e.g., Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776]. This arrangement has been called "gestational" surrogacy [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893]. If a woman who wants a child is unable to carry the fetus, her fertilized egg may be implanted in the uterus of a gestational surrogate. Conversely, the woman desiring a child might be unable to ovulate; in that case, the fertilized egg of the surrogate could be implanted in her uterus. Another variation of gestational surrogacy involves implantation into a surrogate of fertilized ovum in which both sperm and egg come from anonymous donors [see In re Marriage of Buzzanca (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1410, 1421, 1428, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 280].

Under the second type of surrogacy arrangement, a child is produced from the egg of the surrogate mother and the sperm of the intended father. This arrangement has been called "traditional surrogacy" [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1221-1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893]. In traditional surrogacy, the surrogate is unquestionably the biological mother of the child. The typical surrogate agreement in such a case requires the surrogate to acknowledge the sperm donor's paternity and to surrender the child to the donor and, if he is married, to his wife [see, e.g., Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1252, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18, cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991]. In this type of surrogacy arrangement, the donor's wife must adopt the child to establish her parent-child relationship with the child. In addition, because of the possible application of statutory law against the sperm donor as father [see Fam. Code § 7613(b); see also § 100.221[1][c]], both the sperm donor and his wife may be required to adopt the child by independent adoption (rather than just the wife by stepparent adoption) [see Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 56-57, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778].

Under either type of surrogacy arrangement, if the surrogate changes her mind and refuses to fulfill her obligations under the contract, the court must first determine the rights of the parties under existing statutory law. Then the court must consider the effect of the contract on those rights [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 89, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776].

In a case involving in vitro fertilization and gestational surrogacy, the California Supreme Court has ruled that a child borne by a surrogate but produced by the egg and sperm of a married couple is the child of the woman who was intended to be the mother by the parties. In the case before the Court, the claim of the surrogate that she was the "mother of the child" because she gave birth to the child was rejected by the Court, which determined that the wife of the couple (whose egg was used in the process) was the intended mother of the child under their surrogacy arrangement [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 93, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776]. In that case (which did not require adoption of the child), the Court upheld the basic validity and enforcement of surrogacy contracts against the argument that they are in violation of public policy [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 95, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776]. In another case, a woman supplied ova to impregnate her lesbian partner in order to produce children who would be raised in their joint home (they were registered domestic partners [see Fam. Code § 297.5 et seq.]). Since a child's two parents may both be women, and there was no possible third parent (the sperm donor was anonymous), the Supreme Court found that both partners were mothers of the resulting children--one because she provided the ova, and the other because she gave birth. Under the circumstances, it was unnecessary to examine the partners' intentions about maternity, since there was no need to choose between the two possible parents [K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 142-143, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673] .

A variation on the in-vitro procedure involves implantation into a surrogate of fertilized ovum in which both sperm and egg come from anonymous donors. In such a case, although neither the couple contracting for the child nor the surrogate mother is genetically related to the child, the couple will be deemed the child's parents [In re Marriage of Buzzanca (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 1410, 1421, 1428, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 280] .

One appellate court has refused to find a contractual exception to the consent requirements of adoption law in the case of "traditional" surrogacy. If a surrogate who is the child's true biological mother subsequently changes her mind and refuses to consent to the adoption of the child by the father's wife, the adoption may not proceed absent some other ground for terminating the surrogate's parental rights [In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1228-1231, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] .

For a surrogacy agreement and a summary of legal issues involved in their enforcement and the determination of paternity and maternity, see § 100.221.

Pre-conception agreements establishing parentage in the context of surrogacy arrangements or other means of reproductive assistance are to be distinguished from post-birth agreements regarding parenthood in the context of normal sexual reproduction. A pre-conception agreement generally involves a situation in which the child would not have been born without the deliberative, acted-on intention of the couple who sought reproductive assistance [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 93, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 (honoring pre-conception surrogacy agreement)]. In contrast, when a child is born as the result of procreation through normal sexual reproduction, public policy generally prevents a court from terminating the father's parental rights pursuant to the parents' post-birth stipulation made as a matter of convenience to end father's contact with, and obligation to support, the child [Kristine M. v. David P. (2006) 135 Cal. App. 4th 783, 786, 788-791, 37 Cal. Rptr. 3d 748 (public policies favoring creation of father-child relationship as source of emotional and financial support, and declaring preeminence of parent's obligation to support his or her minor child, trump any policy that would favor private ordering of parenthood after child's birth)].

[6] Vacating Paternity Judgment on Basis of Genetic Testing

In addition to any other procedures available to set aside a paternity judgment [Fam. Code § 7649; see [2][b], above], a judgment establishing paternity may be set aside or vacated on motion by the person identified in the judgment as the mother (the "previously established mother"), the person identified in the judgment as the father (the "previously established father"), the child, or the legal representative of any of those persons, if genetic testing indicates that the previously established father is not the biological father of the child [Fam. Code § 7646(a); see Fam. Code §§ 7645(c), (d) (definitions), 7647, 7647.5, 7647.7 (procedure on motion)]. In the absence of actual genetic testing, the court lacks authority to vacate the paternity judgment; thus, if genetic test results are not available because of the mother's noncompliance with a testing order or for any other reason, the paternity judgment cannot be vacated [San Mateo County Dep't of Child Support Servs. v. Clark, (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 834, 841-843, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 763] .

For purposes of this remedy, a paternity "judgment" includes any judgment, order, or decree entered in a California court that establishes paternity, including a determination of paternity made pursuant to a petition filed under Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 300, 601, or 602, or a voluntary declaration of paternity. However, a judgment in any action for marital dissolution, legal separation, or nullity is not considered a "judgment" for purposes of these set-aside provisions [Fam. Code § 7645(b)]. Furthermore, a court may not set aside or vacate (1) any judgment made by a tribunal of another state, or (2) a California judgment, if genetic tests conducted prior to the judgment did not exclude the previously established father as the biological father [Fam. Code § 7648.3].

A motion to set aside or vacate a judgment under these provisions must be filed within one of the following time periods [Fam. Code § 7646(a)]:

- If paternity was established by a voluntary declaration of paternity, a two-year period beginning on the date of the child's birth. The court may, however, consider an untimely motion if the declaration of paternity was procured by extrinsic fraud, such as when the movant has been fraudulently kept ignorant or otherwise prevented from denying paternity [see County of Orange v. Superior Court (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1253, 1261, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 689 (extrinsic fraud not established by allegations that movant and child's mother were not "mutually exclusive" while they were in a relationship, and that movant had heard from unnamed individuals that child did not look like him)].
- If the paternity judgment was entered before January 1, 2005, on the default of the established father, the two-year period from January 1, 2005, to December 31, 2006, inclusive [Fam. Code § 7646(a)(3)]. Formerly, this time period was expressed as "a two-year period commencing with the enactment of" the relevant statute [see former Fam. Code § 7646(a)(3)]. Under a strict interpretation of this former provision, a motion to set aside a paternity judgment was untimely if filed more than two years after the September 28, 2004, enactment of the former statute, even if filed within two years of the January 1, 2005, effective date of the statute [see, e.g., County of Sacramento v. Llanes (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1165, 1174-1176, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 158]. The statute was amended, effective January 1, 2009, to express the relevant time period as "a two-year period from January 1, 2005, to December 31, 2006, inclusive" [Fam. Code § 7646(a)(3), as amended by Stats. 2008, ch. 58, § 1]. The amendment also provides that a court may reconsider a motion to set aside a paternity judgment if (1) the motion was filed between September 24, 2006, and December 31, 2006, inclusive; (2) the motion was denied solely on the basis that it was untimely; and (3) the request for reconsideration is filed on or before December 31, 2009 [Fam. Code § 7646(c)].
- In all other cases, a two-year period beginning on the date on which the previously established father knew or should have known of the judgment, or when he knew or should have known of the existence of an action to adjudicate the issue of paternity, whichever is first.

If the court finds that the conclusions of all of the experts, based on the results of genetic tests [see Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.], indicate that the previously established father is not the biological father of the child, the court may, nevertheless, deny the motion if it determines that denial of the motion is in the best interest of the child, after considering the following factors [Fam. Code § 7648; see Fam. Code § 7648.1 (basis for denial and supporting facts to be stated on record)]:

- The age of the child.
- The length of time since the entry of the judgment establishing paternity.
- The nature, duration, and quality of any relationship between the previously established father and the child, including the duration and frequency of any periods during which the child and the previously established father resided in the same household or enjoyed a parent-child relationship.
- The request of the previously established father that the parent-child relationship continue.
- Notice by the biological father of the child that he does not oppose preservation of the relationship between the previously established father and the child.

- The benefit or detriment to the child in establishing the biological parentage of the child.
- Whether the conduct of the previously established father has impaired the ability to ascertain the identity of, or get support from, the biological father.
- Additional factors deemed by the court to be relevant to its determination of the best interest of the child.

If the court grants the motion, it must also vacate any order for child support and arrearages issued in the basis of the vacated judgment. However, the previously established father has no right of reimbursement for any support paid prior to the granting of the motion [Fam. Code § 7648.4; see County of Los Angeles v. James (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 253, 256-257, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 880 (no exception to Fam. Code § 7648.4's reimbursement bar for declared father who filed motion to set aside paternity decree before that statute's enactment)].

These procedures to set aside or vacate paternity judgments do not establish a basis for the termination of any adoption, and they do not affect any obligation of an adoptive parent to an adoptive child [Fam. Code § 7648.8]. Similarly, these procedures do not establish a basis for setting aside or vacating a judgment establishing paternity with regard to a child conceived by artificial insemination [see Fam. Code § 7613] or a child conceived pursuant to a surrogacy agreement [Fam. Code § 7648.9]. Finally, a distribution from the estate of a decedent, or a payment made by a trustee, insurance company, pension fund, or any other person or entity that was made in good-faith reliance on a final paternity judgment may not be set aside or subject to direct or collateral attack because of the entry of an order setting aside or vacating the paternity judgment under these provisions. The person or entity that has made such a distribution or payment does not incur any liability because of the distribution or payment or because of the entry of an order setting aside or vacating the paternity judgment [Fam. Code § 7649.5].

§ 100.20 Parental Right to Custody

A parent's most basic right with respect to a child is the right to custody [see Odell v. Lutz (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 104, 106, 177 P.2d 628]. The mother and presumed father [see Fam. Code § 7611; see also § 100.11[2], [3]] are equally entitled to custody of their unmarried child [Fam. Code § 3010(a)]. If either parent is deceased, is unable or unwilling to take custody, or has abandoned the family, the other is entitled to custody [Fam. Code § 3010(b)]. The concept of custody includes a variety of parental rights [see § 100.21].

Parents who are married to each other are jointly entitled to custody [see Fam. Code § 3010(a)]. While they live together, this jointly held right usually does not create problems. However, when they live separately from each other and disagree regarding the custody of their child, the superior court has jurisdiction to make a custody order either as part of a dissolution proceeding [see Fam. Code § 3022] or without such a proceeding [Fam. Code § 3120; Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.22]. For discussion of contested custody proceedings, whether in the context of a proceeding for dissolution of marriage or within some other proceeding [see Fam. Code § 3021 (proceedings to which custody provisions of Family Code apply)], see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 32- 35 (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody and Control of Minor Child

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.21

§ 100.21 Parental Control of Child

[1] State's Power to Restrict Parental Control

Generally, fit parents have a liberty interest in the care, custody, and control of their children derived from the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution [Troxel v. Granville (2000) 530 U.S. 57, 65-69, 120 S. Ct. 2054, 147 L. Ed. 2d 49] . Thus, for example, a fit parent's decisions regarding nonparental visitation with his or her child are presumed to be in the child's best interests and ordinarily will not be subject to state interference [see Zasueta v. Zasueta (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 1242, 1252-1255, 126 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245 (Fam. Code § 3102, which authorizes court to order relatives' visitation with child after parent's death without considering surviving parent's wishes, is unconstitutional as applied to fit parent); Herbst v. Swan (2002) 102 Cal. App. 4th 813, 816-820, 125 Cal. Rptr. 2d 836 (same)]. However, the presumption that a fit parent is acting in the child's best interests only means that the parent's decisions must be accorded "special weight"; the presumption does not insulate a fit parent's decisions from all judicial review [Fenn v. Sherriff (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 1466, 1478-1487, 1 Cal. Rptr. 3d 185 (court may constitutionally order grandparent visitation over objection of fit parent under Fam. Code § 3102, so long as court accords special weight to fit parent's objection); see also In re Marriage of W. (2003) 114 Cal. App. 4th 68, 73-75, 7 Cal. Rptr. 3d 461 (Fam. Code § 3101, allowing stepparent visitation, is not facially unconstitutional, but was unconstitutionally applied because court failed to accord special weight to parents' position)].

The court's power to override a parent's decision was illustrated by a California Supreme Court decision applying Fam. Code § 3104. After a judgment has been entered dissolving a marriage and awarding sole custody to one parent, Fam. Code § 3104 authorizes a court to grant reasonable visitation rights to a grandparent. In such a case, if the parent with sole custody objects to visitation by the grandparent, the statute creates a rebuttable presumption, affecting the burden of proof, that grandparent visitation is not in the child's best interest [Fam. Code § 3104(f)]. However, an objection by the parent with sole custody will not prevent grandparent visitation in every case. The California Supreme Court held that Fam. Code § 3104 may constitutionally be applied to grant visitation to paternal grandparents with the approval of the father but over the objection of the mother, who had been awarded sole custody of the child, so long as the trial court considers the statute's rebuttable presumption that grandparent visitation is not in the child's best interest [In re Marriage of Harris (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 210, 223-230, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 842, 96 P.3d 141] .

Moreover, despite parents' wide discretion in the control they exercise over their children, the state's interest in the well-being of children justifies some state intervention in the parent-child relationship [see Prince v. Massachusetts (1944) 321 U.S. 158, 166-167, 64 S. Ct. 438, 88 L. Ed. 645]. For example, the state may limit a parent's control over his or her child with regard to education [see Educ. Code §§ 48200-48232 (type and duration of instruction required), 48293 (penalties against parents)], employment [see, e.g., Lab. Code § 1294 (prohibited occupations for minors; see also Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors), discipline [see Penal Code § 273d (willful infliction of cruel or inhuman punishment on child resulting in traumatic condition is felony)], and medical care [see Penal Code § 270 (willful failure to provide medical care is a misdemeanor); see also Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors].

[2] Child's Name

The parents' right to custody also gives them the authority to decide whether their child may change his or her birth name. A minor generally does not have the right to change his or her own name; a petition for a minor's change of name ordinarily must be signed by a parent or guardian, or if both parents are dead and there is no guardian, then by some near relative or friend of the minor [Code Civ. Proc. § 1276(a); but see Code Civ. Proc. § 1276(d) (if minor age 12 or older has been relinquished to adoption agency and has not been legally adopted, petition to change name may be made jointly by minor and adoption agency); see generally California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 377, Name, Change of (Matthew Bender)]. A change-of-name petition may be filed in conjunction with an action to establish a parent-child relationship [see Fam. Code § 7638].

[3] Child's Residence

The parental right to custody includes the right to determine the minor child's residence, subject to the power of the court to restrain a removal that would prejudice the rights or welfare of the child [Fam. Code § 7501(a); see Fam. Code § 7501(b) (reaffirming In re Marriage of Burgess (1996) 13 Cal. 4th 25, 37, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 444, 913 P.2d 473, which held that when judicial custody order is in place, custodial parent seeking to relocate bears no burden of establishing that it is necessary to do so); see also § 100.202[1][c]]. Generally, the residence of a minor is the residence of the parent or parents with whom the child maintains his place of abode, or the residence of any individual who has been given legal custody of the minor by court order [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 17.1(a); Gov. Code § 244(d)]. The residence of an unmarried minor who has a living parent cannot be changed by the minor's own act [Gov. Code § 244(e)].

The right to control a child's residence includes the right to place the child with another person for the purpose of establishing a guardianship over the child [Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 486, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707 (custodial mother placed children with grandparents in Illinois); see Ch. 66, Guardianships].

[4] Child's Property

A parent, as such, has no control over the property of his or her child [Fam. Code § 7502]. It is well settled in California that minors are entitled to hold their own property, both real and personal [In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 405, 155 Cal. Rptr. 671, 595 P.2d 105, cert. denied, 444 U.S. 973 (parent may not consent to warrantless search of tool box owned by minor child); In re Guardianship of Yano (1922) 188 Cal. 645, 649, 206 P. 995]. For further discussion, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors. However, a court may direct that an allowance be made to a parent from a child's property for the child's support, when that action would be for the child's benefit [Fam. Code § 3902].

For discussion of a child's receipt of property by inheritance or gift, see Chs. 60A, Gifts, and 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

[5] Child's Earnings

Generally, a child's earnings are not considered to be his or her property. Parents having custody of an unmarried minor generally are entitled to the child's earnings [Fam. Code § 7500; see Fam. Code § 771(a)]. The father's right to the child's earnings is equal to the mother's right, if he is presumed to be the father [see Fam. Code § 7500(a)]. An employer must pay a minor employee's earnings directly to the minor, until such a time as the parent or guardian gives notice that he or she claims them [Fam. Code § 7503; Lab. Code § 3605; see Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors].

An exception to the general rule applies to a child's earnings from an entertainment, artistic, or professional sports contract [see Fam. Code §§ 771(b), 6750 et seq.]. Fifteen percent of the minor's gross earnings under such a contract, whether or not it has been approved by a court, must be set aside by the employer in trust for the benefit of the minor (a "Coogan Trust Account") [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)-(i), 6753; see Fam. Code § 6750(c) (minor's "gross earnings" defined)]. For further discussion, see Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors .

[6] Child's Marriage

An unmarried minor may marry only with the written consent of one or both parents and a court order [Fam. Code § 302; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 359, Marriage (Matthew Bender)]. The purpose of this statutory requirement is to permit parents to exercise over their children the control and discipline to which they are entitled by virtue of their right to custody [Turner v. Turner (1959) 167 Cal. App. 2d 636, 642, 334 P.2d 1011] .

CHAPTER 100 CONTROL, CUSTODY, AND SUPPORT OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Custody and Control of Minor Child

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.22

§ 100.22 Termination of Parental Control

[1] Termination for Abuse of Parental Authority

A child, a relative within the third degree of the child, or the supervisors of the county where the child resides, may bring a civil action to establish abuse of parental authority, in order to free the child from the control of the parent and enforce the duty of support and education [see Fam. Code § 7507]. However, this form of action is infrequently used, because the protection of a child from an abusive parent ordinarily is accomplished through a dependency proceeding in juvenile court [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings (Matthew Bender)].

[2] Termination to Facilitate Adoption

The Family Code prescribes a procedure, sometimes called a "Section 7800 proceeding," by which a minor child may be judicially declared free from the custody and control of either or both parents [see Fam. Code § 7800 et seq.]. The purpose of the procedure is to serve the welfare and best interest of the child by providing the stability and security of an adoptive home if those conditions are otherwise missing from the child's life [Fam. Code § 7800].

A declaration of freedom from parental custody and control issued in a Section 7800 proceeding terminates all parental rights and responsibilities with regard to the child [Fam. Code § 7803]. Thus, although the term "freedom from parental custody and control" is still used in the statutes [see Fam. Code § 7803], the proceeding is essentially one for the "termination of parental rights," which is now the commonly used terminology.

Grounds for the termination of parental rights in a Section 7800 proceeding include (1) abandonment; (2) conviction of a felony; (3) developmental disability or mental illness of the parents; and (4) inadequate parental relationship [see Fam. Code §§ 7822, 7825, 7826, 7827, 7828]. A judgment terminating parental rights on one of these grounds must be supported by a judicial determination of the child's best interests, based on clear and convincing evidence; the judgment is voidable if entered by the court solely on the basis of the parents' stipulation [Fam. Code §§ 7800, 7801, 7821; In re Marriage of Jackson (2006) 136 Cal. App. 4th 980, 990-994, 39 Cal. Rptr. 3d 365] .

Several other grounds for Section 7800 proceedings are listed in the Family Code [see Fam. Code §§ 7823 (cruelty or neglect), 7824 (alcoholism, drug-related disability, or moral depravity), 7829 (determination that parent is not entitled to reunification with a dependent of juvenile court)]. These other grounds require that the child first have been adjudicated a dependent child of the juvenile court under Welfare & Institutions Code § 300 et seq. [see Fam. Code §§ 7823(a), 7824(b), 7829(a)]. However, since January 1, 1999, the Welfare and Institutions Code has provided the exclusive procedures for terminating parental rights of children who are dependents of the juvenile court [Welf. & Inst. Code § 366.26(a); see Fam. Code §§ 7660-7670, 8604-8606]. Therefore, Section 7800 proceedings are no longer available for the grounds listed in the Family Code that require the child to be a dependent child of the juvenile court. For further discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights, and Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings (Matthew Bender)].

Section 7800 proceedings often are initiated concurrently with adoption proceedings, because the effect of declaring a child free of the custody and control of a parent is that the parent's consent to an adoption is not required [see Fam. Code § 8606(a); but cf. Sharon S. v. Superior Court (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 417, 426-427, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 699, 73 P.3d 554 (stepparent adoption may occur without termination of birth parent's rights)]. If a parent has agreed for the child to be in the physical custody of another person or persons for adoption and has not signed an adoption placement agreement [see Fam. Code § 8801.3], a consent to adoption [see Fam. Code § 8814], or a relinquishment to a licensed adoption agency [see Fam. Code § 8700], evidence of the adoptive placement does not in itself preclude the court from finding an intent on the part of the parent to abandon the child [Fam. Code § 7822(d)]. Similarly, if the parent did place the child for adoption [see Fam. Code § 8801.3], consent to adoption [see Fam. Code § 8814], or relinquish the child to a licensed adoption agency [see Fam. Code § 8700], and then revoked the consent or rescinded the relinquishment but has not taken reasonable action to obtain custody of the child, evidence of the adoptive placement does not in itself preclude the court from finding an intent on the part of the parent to abandon the child [Fam. Code § 7822(d)].

If the parent of an Indian child has transferred physical care, custody, and control of the child to an Indian custodian, that action will not be deemed to constitute abandonment of the child unless the parent manifests the intent to abandon the child by either (1) failing to resume physical care, custody, and control on the request of the Indian custodian, or (2) failing to substantially comply with any obligations assumed by the parent in his or her agreement with the Indian custodian despite the Indian custodian's objection to the noncompliance. Also, intent to abandon may be evidenced by the Indian custodian's inability to request that the parent resume physical care, custody, and control of the child, if that inability results from the parent's failure to keep the Indian custodian apprised of his or her whereabouts, and the Indian custodian has made reasonable but unsuccessful efforts to find the parent [Fam. Code § 7822(e)].

Probate Code Section 1516.5 authorizes Section 7800 proceedings to facilitate adoption by a child's probate guardian if one or both parents do not have legal custody of the child, the guardianship has continued for at least two years, and the court finds that adoption by the guardian would be in the child's best interest [Prob. Code § 1516.5(a)]. If those conditions are met, the court need not make any finding of present parental unfitness before terminating parental rights [see Prob. Code § 1516.5(a)]. The California Supreme Court has held that Section 1516.5 is not unconstitutional on its face for failing to require a finding of present parental unfitness. The Court concluded that Section 1516.5 does not on its face violate parents' due-process rights, since the termination of parental rights and adoption can occur under the statute only after a parent has surrendered custody to a guardian and has exercised no parental care or control for at least two years [Guardianship of Ann S. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1110, 1126-1136, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701, 202 P.3d 1089] . The Court noted, however, that Section 1516.5 is open to constitutional challenge as applied to particular parents, for example, if a fully responsible parent were to find it necessary to place a child in a guardianship despite maintaining a parental commitment as full as the circumstances permit [Guardianship of Ann S., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1110, 1132, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 701, 202 P.3d 1089 ; see In re Charlotte D., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1140, 1143, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724, 202 P.3d 1109] . But the Court rejected an as-applied challenge by a natural father who had abandoned his parental responsibilities and formally waived his parental rights when the guardianship was established, circumstances that precluded him from establishing a full commitment to parental responsibility [In re Charlotte D., (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1140, 1147-1151, 90 Cal. Rptr. 3d 724, 202 P.3d 1109] .

For further discussion of the termination of parental rights proceedings, and for the forms used in those proceedings, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 171, Termination of Parental Rights (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

[3] Protective Orders Under Domestic Violence Prevention Act

The Domestic Violence Prevention Act [Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.] is intended to prevent the recurrence of acts of domestic violence and sexual abuse and to provide for a separation of the persons involved in the domestic violence for a period sufficient to enable them to seek a resolution of the causes of the violence [Fam. Code § 6220]. Under the Act, protective orders may be obtained to protect alleged victims, including minor children [Fam. Code §§ 6221-6226]. A court issuing a protective order may also make an ex parte order regarding temporary custody and visitation of a minor child at the request of a party who establishes a parent-child relationship with the child and shows immediate harm to the child or an immediate risk that the child will be removed from California [Fam. Code §§ 3064, 6323(a)(1)]. After notice and hearing, a temporary custody order may be extended by the court if the adverse party fails to establish a parent-child relationship with the child [Fam. Code §§ 6340(a), 6345(a); Gonzalez v. Munoz (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 413, 421-423, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 317].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Support of Child

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.30

§ 100.30 Parental Obligation to Support Child

The father and mother of a minor child generally have an equal responsibility to support their child in the manner suitable to the child's circumstances [Fam. Code § 3900]. If a parent owing a duty of support is present in or a resident of California, his or her duty of support exists under California law, regardless of the presence or residence of the child to whom the duty of support is owed [Fam. Code § 3550(b)]. The willful failure of a parent to support his or her child is a misdemeanor [see Penal Code § 270].

The duty of support generally terminates when the child reaches age 18 [see Fam. Code § 6500] or is emancipated [see Fam. Code § 7050(a)]. However, the duty will continue to exist as to any unmarried child who has attained the age of 18, is a full-time high school student, and who is not self-supporting, until the child completes the twelfth grade or attains age 19, whichever occurs first [Fam. Code § 3901]. To the extent they are able, parents must also support their child, of whatever age, if he or she is incapacitated from earning a living and without sufficient means [Fam. Code § 3910].

A parent's duty to support his or her minor child does not extend to any child of the minor [Fam. Code § 3930]. For comprehensive discussion of the duty of child support, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 40, Duty to Support Children and Jurisdiction to Order Support (2d ed. Matthew Bender). For discussion of the appropriate amount of child support under California's statewide uniform child support guideline [see Fam. Code § 4050 et seq.], see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 41, Child Support Orders (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

§ 100.31 Enforcement of Support Obligation

Child support issues often arise in conjunction with proceedings for dissolution of marriage [see Fam. Code § 2010(c)]. For discussion and forms for use in marital settlement agreements, see Ch. 123, Spousal and Child Support Provisions. If the parents of a minor child are unmarried, child support may be ordered in a proceeding under the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam. Code § 7637; see also § 100.11[1]]. For comprehensive discussion of proceedings under the Uniform Parentage Act, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 31, Establishing Parentage (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

Duties of child support are also commonly enforced by a county through its local child-support agency [see Fam. Code § 17400 et seq.]. For discussion of enforcement of support by local authorities, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 141, Special Remedies for Enforcement of Support (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

§ 100.32 Agreements for Support

A husband and wife may agree in writing to a separation, and they may provide in that agreement for the support of either of them and of their children during the separation or on the dissolution of their marriage. The mutual consent of the parties is sufficient consideration for the agreement [Fam. Code § 3580]. The provisions of an agreement between the parents for child support are deemed to be separate and severable from all other provisions of the agreement relating to property and support of the wife or husband. An order for child support based on the agreement is treated as a law-imposed order made under the court's power to order child support [Fam. Code § 3585].

A promise in writing to furnish support for a child, growing out of a presumed or alleged father-child relationship does not require consideration and is enforceable according to its terms [Fam. Code § 7614(a)]. If it is in the best interest of the child or the mother, a court may, and on the promisor's request must, order the promise to be kept in confidence and designate a person or agency to receive and disburse on behalf of the child all amounts paid in performance of the promise [Fam. Code § 7614(b)]. Notwithstanding the terms of any agreement between an alleged or presumed father and the mother or child, the agreement does not bar an action to determine the existence or nonexistence of a parent-child relationship [Fam. Code § 7632].

Parents may agree to provide additional support for a child over and above what is required by law [see Fam. Code § 3901(b); see § 100.30 (legal duty of support)]. Without an agreement for compensation, a parent is not bound to compensate the other parent or any relative for the voluntary support of the parent's child [Fam. Code § 3951(a)].

§ 100.33 Liability of Stepparent for Support

The separate property of a married person is not liable for any debts incurred by his or her spouse before or during the marriage [Fam. Code § 913(b)(1)]. A child support obligation that does not arise from that marriage is treated as a debt incurred before marriage, regardless of whether or when a court order for support is made or modified [Fam. Code § 915(a)].

The community property of a stepparent and natural parent generally is liable for a child support obligation of the natural parent that arose prior to the marriage [Fam. Code § 910(a)]. However, the stepparent's community earnings are not liable for the support obligation, to the extent that they are (1) held in a deposit account in which the natural parent has no right of withdrawal; and (2) not commingled with other community property, other than property that is insignificant in amount [Fam. Code § 911(a)].

If community property of a marriage is applied to the satisfaction of a prior child support obligation of one spouse (the natural parent), when nonexempt separate income of the natural parent is available but not applied, the community is entitled to reimbursement from the natural parent up to the amount of the separate income [Fam. Code § 915(b)] (reimbursement not to exceed amount of community property applied to pay natural parent's child support obligation).

For an agreement by a stepparent to support the stepchild, see § 100.201.

If a parent obligated to support a child dies and leaves an estate sufficient to support the child, and the child is left chargeable to the county or confined in a state institution to be cared for in whole or in part by the state, the county supervisors or the director of the relevant state department may bring a civil action against the parent's estate for child support. For that purpose, the board or director has the same remedies as any creditor against the estate and against the parent's heirs, devisees, and next of kin [Fam. Code § 3952].

§ 100.35 Rights of Persons Supplying Necessaries

If a parent neglects to provide articles necessary for a child under his or her charge, according to his or her circumstances, a nonrelative may in good faith supply those necessities and ordinarily recover their reasonable value from the parent [Fam. Code § 3950]. "Necessaries" in this context include food, clothing, habitation, and medical treatment [see Nielsen v. Richards (1925) 75 Cal. App. 680, 686, 243 P. 697 ; see also Penal Code § 270 (criminal liability for parent's willful failure to furnish necessities)].

A parent is not bound to compensate the other parent or any relative for the voluntary support of his or her child, without an agreement for compensation [Fam. Code § 3951(a)]. Similarly, a parent is not bound to compensate a stranger for the support of a child who has abandoned the parent without just cause [Fam. Code § 3951(b)]. "Abandonment" is a child's permanent relinquishment of submission to parental control. Determination of abandonment is a factual issue [see County of Fresno v. Walker (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 814, 824-825, 171 Cal. Rptr. 572]. These exceptions to the parent's general duty to compensate third parties do not relieve the parent of the obligation to support a child during any period in which the state, county, or other governmental entity furnishes support for the child [Fam. Code § 3951(c)].

§ 100.50 Emancipation Defined

Emancipation of a minor child is the termination of the parents' control and authority over the minor, thereby allowing the minor to act as an adult for some or all purposes [see Fam. Code § 7050]. A minor may become emancipated by operation of law, by relinquishment of the parental right of control over the minor, or by judicial declaration under the Emancipation of Minors Law [Fam. Code §§ 7122, 7504; see § 100.51].

CHAPTER 100 CONTROL, CUSTODY, AND SUPPORT OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
D. Emancipation of Minor Child

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.51

§ 100.51 Methods of Emancipation

[1] Emancipation by Operation of Law

A person under age 18 is an emancipated minor if any of the following conditions is satisfied:

- The person has entered into a valid marriage (whether or not the marriage has been dissolved) [Fam. Code § 7002(a)];
- The person is on active duty with the armed forces of the United States [Fam. Code § 7002(b)]; or
- The person has received a declaration of emancipation under the Emancipation of Minors Law [Fam. Code § 7002(c); see [3], below].

[2] Relinquishment of Parental Control

Emancipation may be accomplished by a parent's relinquishment of the right to control his or her child and the right to receive the child's earnings [see § 100.21[5]], whether the parent is solvent or insolvent [Fam. Code § 7504]. Relinquishment of control may result in complete or partial emancipation [Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 536, 540, 295 P.2d 972] , and it may be effective for specific purposes only [see, e.g., Jolicoeur v. Mihaly (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 565, 580, 96 Cal. Rptr. 697, 488 P.2d 1 (emancipation for residential and voting purposes); see also § 100.210[1][c]].

Relinquishment may occur under an express agreement of the parents and child [see, e.g., Slater v. California State Auto. Asso. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 375, 377, 19 Cal. Rptr. 290 (relinquishment of son's military earnings)] or by implication from the conduct of the minor child and his or her parents [see, e.g., Martinez v. Southern Pacific Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 244, 253, 288 P.2d 868 (minor controlled her own finances and contributed to family budget as adult)]. Relinquishment is presumed if a parent has abandoned his or her child [Fam. Code § 7504; see Guardianship of Brazeal (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 59, 61, 254 P.2d 886 (relinquishment of all rights and duties toward child constitutes abandonment)].

[3] Judicial Declaration of Emancipation

An unemancipated minor may petition the court for a declaration of emancipation, if all of the following conditions are satisfied [Fam. Code § 7120]:

- The minor is at least 14 years of age;
- The minor willingly lives separate and apart from his or her parents or legal guardian, with their consent or acquiescence;
- The minor manages his or her own financial affairs; and
- The source of the minor's income is not derived from any activity declared to be a crime under federal or California law.

Before the petition may be heard, any notice that the court deems reasonable must be given to the minor's parents, guardian, or other person entitled to the minor's custody, or proof must be supplied to the court that their addresses are unknown or that for other reasons the notice cannot be given [Fam. Code § 7121]. The court will issue a declaration of emancipation if it finds that the minor meets the requisites for filing the petition and that emancipation would not be contrary to the minor's best interest [Fam. Code § 7122(a)]. The declaration is conclusive evidence that the minor is emancipated [Fam. Code § 7122(c)].

A judicial declaration of emancipation confers full capacity on the minor; partial emancipation is not possible under the statutory procedure [see West Shield Investigations & Sec. Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 935, 949, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612 (when issuing declaration of emancipation under Fam. Code § 7122, court has no power to modify or limit consequences of emancipation as set forth in Fam. Code § 7050)].

For further discussion of the procedure required to obtain a declaration of emancipation, and the forms used for that procedure, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 30, The Parent-Child Relationship (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.52

§ 100.52 Effect of Emancipation

Unless emancipated through a partial relinquishment of parental control [see, e.g., Jolicoeur v. Mihaly (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 565, 580, 96 Cal. Code § 7050]:

- The right to support from the minor's parents [see § 100.30].
- The right of the minor's parents or guardian to control the minor and to receive the minor's earnings [see § 100.21].
- Establishing the minor's residence [see § 100.21].
- Being outside the jurisdiction of the juvenile court with respect to wardship [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 601] or dependency proceedings [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300; but see Welf. & Inst. Code § 602 (emancipated minor subject to juvenile court for purposes of criminal activity)].

- Capacity to buy, sell, lease, encumber, exchange, or transfer any interest in real or personal property, including shares of stock in a domestic or foreign corporation or a membership in a nonprofit corporation [see Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors]. 31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.101

§ 100.101 Facts for Agreement Concerning Custody, Control, and Support

1. Extent of client's custody and control of child, for example, whether:

a. Client has sole custody, pursuant to:

(1) Death of other parent.

(2) Court order.

(3) Custody agreement.

b. Client has joint custody with other parent.

c. Client has no legal custody or control over child, such as when client is stepparent.

d. Client no longer has legal custody or control over child, as result of one of following circumstances:

NOTE:

A parent, whether natural or adoptive, does not retain custody and control of the child--and therefore may not make any agreement regarding that custody and control--under the circumstances listed below.

(1) Court has appointed guardian for child [see Fam. Code § 7505].

NOTE:

The appointment of a guardian terminates a parent's authority over his or her child [see Fam. Code § 7505]. For discussion of guardianship proceedings, see Ch. 66, Guardianships.

(2) Child has attained age 18 [Fam. Code § 6501; see Fam. Code § 7505].

NOTE:

Attainment of the age of majority [see Fam. Code § 6501] emancipates a minor by operation of law [see Fam. Code § 7505(c)].

(3) Minor child has been emancipated from parental control by any of following [Fam. Code § 7002]:

NOTE:

An emancipated minor is no longer subject to the custody and control of his or her parents [Fam. Code §§ 7050(b)].

(a) Marriage [see Fam. Code § 7505(b)].

(b) Current active duty with United States armed forces.

(c) Judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7120].

(d) Express relinquishment of parental right to control [see Fam. Code § 7504].

(4) Child has been declared free from parental custody and control pursuant to any of following proceedings:

NOTE:

The parent-child relationship, with its accompanying rights and duties, may be terminated by a court in any of the following ways:

(a) Abandonment proceedings [Fam. Code §§ 7800-7895; see § 100.22[2]].

NOTE:

For discussion and forms used in this type of proceeding, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12A, Adoptions: Termination of Parental Rights (Matthew Bender).

(b) Dependency proceeding in juvenile court [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.]X; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 328, Juvenile Courts: Dependency Proceedings (Matthew Bender).

(c) Proceedings for abuse of parental authority [Fam. Code § 7507].

NOTE:

There remains in the Family Code a civil action for abuse of parental authority, which may be brought by the child, by the child's relative within the third degree, or the supervisors of the county in which the child resides. If the abuse is established, the child may be freed from the parent's dominion, and the duty of support and education may be enforced [Fam. Code § 7507]. This action is seldom, if ever, brought today because parental abuse is addressed under juvenile court dependency jurisdiction [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 300 et seq.].

2. Parent's reason for changing support or custody obligations.

NOTE:

If, for example, a parent intends to have a friend or relative provide support to the child because the parent is absent from the country or state, he or she may wish to have financial and other affairs handled by that person pursuant to a power of attorney [see Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.; see also Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney].

3. If client is stepparent, whether he or she has attempted to adopt stepchild.

NOTE:

A stepparent may acquire a legal parental relationship with his or her spouse's child by means of a stepparent adoption [see Fam. Code §§ 9000-9007; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors (Matthew Bender)]. A stepparent adoption severs the parent-child relationship between the child and the noncustodial parent [see Fam. Code § 8617], and it creates a new parent-child relationship between the child and the adoptive parent [see Fam. Code § 8617]. However, a stepparent may be prevented from adopting a stepchild by the noncustodial parent, because a noncustodial parent who has not "abandoned" his or her child must give consent to the adoption of that child [Fam. Code §§ 8604-8606, 9003; see § 100.201[1][b]].

§ 100.103 Facts for Agreement for Artificial Insemination

1. Following information about semen donor:

NOTE:

An attorney who has been retained to draft an artificial insemination agreement should probably inquire into the following matters, even though they are outside the strict legal aspects of the agreement, in order to determine whether the parties are likely to perform their obligations under the agreement, and to counsel the client on the potential problems that could arise.

a. Whether donor is willing to undergo medical screening.

NOTE:

Sperm banks generally screen donors for venereal disease. However, when a private arrangement is made with a known donor, the recipient should ensure that the donor is disease-free for her own protection and the protection of the child. For that reason, the agreement should include a provision requiring medical screening [see § 100.220[2]].

b. Whether donor has any other children.

NOTE:

A man with no other children may be more likely to attempt to establish paternity and thereby acquire custody or visitation rights.

c. Whether donor has his own attorney.

NOTE:

Because the parties have conflicting interests with respect to the child to be conceived, the donor should have his own attorney to advise him of the legal consequences of the artificial insemination agreement.

2. How long parties wish to attempt conception.

NOTE:

The agreement should specify a finite period of time during which conception will be attempted [see § 100.220[1][c], [2]].

3. Whether contemplated arrangement is one in which parties will acknowledge donor's paternity.

4. Parties' intentions regarding:

- a. Child custody.
- b. Visitation rights.
- c. Child support.

5. Whether parties want to keep fact of artificial insemination private.

6. Whether parties want child to be informed of parentage on attainment of age of majority or otherwise.

7. Whether parties intend for donor to receive compensation in addition to medical expenses.

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.110

§ 100.110 Agreement Concerning Custody, Control, and Support

1. Determine whether client has parent-child relationship with child who will be subject to agreement.

NOTE:

Control of a child, with its accompanying rights and duties, results from a parent or guardian's lawful custody of a child [see §§ 100.20, 100.21].

a. Determine whether client has mother-child relationship with child as result of any of following:

(1) Having given birth to child [see Fam. Code § 7610(a)].

(2) Adoption proceedings [see Fam. Code § 7610(c)].

(3) In vitro fertilization of surrogate [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 93, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776] .

(4) Status as presumed mother [see Fam. Code §§ 7611, 7650; In re Karen C. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 932, 937-940, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 677 (insofar as practicable, Uniform Parentage Act's presumptions applicable to father-child relationship also apply to mother-child relationship)].

NOTE:

If the child's biological father and biological mother have identified themselves and come forward to assert their legal parentage, it is not appropriate to invoke a gender-neutral reading of the paternity presumptions to find that another woman is the child's mother [Amy G. v. M.W. (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1, 12-14, 16, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 297 (when birth mother promptly comes forward to assert her legal maternity, and child's father is undisputed and present in action, father's spouse cannot be child's presumed mother under Fam. Code § 7611(a),(d)].

b. Determine whether client has father-child relationship with child, pursuant to either of following:

(1) Status as presumed father [see Fam. Code § 7540, 7611; see also § 100.11[1]-[3]].

(2) Adoption proceedings [see Fam. Code § 7610(c)].

c. Determine whether client has informal relationship with child, such as that of stepparent.

NOTE:

A stepparent has no legal right of custody or control over his or her stepchild unless the relationship is formalized through adoption, or unless the stepparent stands in loco parentis to the child [see Fam. Code §§ 9000-9007; Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 681, 682, overruled on other grounds, Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648; see also §§ 100.10[1], 100.201[1][d]].

2. Determine whether client has present right to make agreement regarding child's custody and control.

NOTE:

A person who does not retain a present right to custody and control of the child may not make any agreement regarding that child's custody and control. For a list of facts that should be used to determine the status of the client's right to custody and control, see § 100.101.

§ 100.111 Emancipation of Minor Child

1. Determine whether express relinquishment of control is preferable method of emancipating minor.

NOTE:

A minor may obtain a judicial declaration of emancipation instead [see Fam. Code § 7120; see also § 100.51[3]]. For the procedure and forms used to obtain such a declaration, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender). Neither method will emancipate the minor for all purposes. However, an express parental relinquishment may be used when the parties wish to emancipate the minor for certain purposes only [see § 100.211], or when the minor wishes to continue living with his or her parents [see Fam. Code § 7120(b)(2) (judicial declaration of emancipation requires that minor live separate and apart)]. A judicial declaration of emancipation will entitle the minor to extensive statutory rights [see Fam. Code § 7050; § 100.52].

2. Determine whether express relinquishment should be in writing.

NOTE:

Although no particular form of relinquishment is required [see Fam. Code § 7504], a writing will serve as a record of that act.

§ 100.112 Surrogate Parenting Services

NOTE:

An attorney who has been retained to draft a surrogate parenting agreement should make the following determinations, some of which may be somewhat outside the usual scope of inquiry regarding parties' intentions regarding a contract, in order to ascertain whether the parties are likely to perform their obligations under the agreement. Careful planning and evaluation of the parties' intentions regarding the surrogate arrangement may eliminate some problems that could arise later. For example, careful examination of the prospective surrogate [see P 3, below] may reveal her ambivalence about relinquishing a child, allowing the childless couple to avoid choosing a woman who would subsequently refuse to perform the contract [see, e.g., In re Baby M (1988) 109 N.J. 396, 537 A.2d 1227 (surrogate refused to relinquish child); see also § 100.221[1][b]].

1. Determine whether contract will be enforceable if surrogate refuses to perform.

NOTE:

For a discussion of some of the major issues involved in the interpretation and enforcement of surrogate agreements, see § 100.221[1][b].

2. Determine whether attorney-client agreement for preparation of surrogate agreement should reflect legal uncertainties inherent in arrangement [see P 1, above; see also § 100.122].
3. In selecting surrogate mother consider all of following:

NOTE:

Surrogate broker or provider services generally screen potential surrogate mothers, and provide childless couples with that information [see Graham, "Surrogate Gestation and the Protection of Choice," 22 Santa Clara L. Rev. 291, 293 (1982)]. However, when a private arrangement is made with a prospective surrogate, the potential father and his wife, and their attorney, should make the following determinations.

- a. Whether woman is physically and emotionally healthy.
- b. Genetic compatibility of woman with biological father.

NOTE:

A complete medical examination of the prospective biological parents can be used to detect any potential genetic problems.

- c. Woman's motives in bearing child for someone else to raise.
- d. Whether surrogate is married.

NOTE:

Some surrogate organizations use only widowed, divorced, or single women as surrogates, to avoid the conclusive statutory presumption that the woman's husband is the father of the child [see Fam. Code § 7540].

- e. If surrogate is married, whether her husband agrees with her decision to act as surrogate.

NOTE:

The husband's cooperation is needed to consent to adoption of the child, since he will be the presumed father [see Fam. Code §§ 7540, 8604; Civ. Code § 224 (consent of both parents required)].

- f. Whether woman already has other children.

NOTE:

Women who have already had children are probably better able to determine how they will feel about parting with their newborn babies [see Bird, Surrogate Motherhood: Hers? Yours? Ours?, 2 Calif. Lawyer 20, 21 (Feb. 1982)].

- g. Whether surrogate is likely to maintain appropriate lifestyle during pregnancy?

NOTE:

Most surrogate agreements require the surrogate to refrain from the use of cigarettes, alcohol, nonprescription drugs, and other activities harmful to the fetus during pregnancy. Potential parents should ascertain whether the surrogate is likely to maintain that lifestyle, since they probably cannot obtain specific performance of such a contract provision [see Civ. Code § 3390(1) (obligations to render personal services or employ another for personal service cannot be specifically enforced); see also Ch. 92, Service Contracts].

- 4. Ascertain that surrogate has her own attorney.

NOTE:

Due to the potential for conflicts between the parties to a surrogate agreement, both before and after the birth of the child, each party should be represented by independent counsel [see § 100.221[1][z]].

5. Determine amount of fee that should be offered for surrogate services.

NOTE:

Surrogate arrangements generally involve payment by the couple of a lump sum fee to the mother, as well as maternity expenses, and all Attorneys' Fees [see Turk, If Baby M Were a Californian ... , 7 Calif. Lawyer 78 (No. 8)(August 1987)].

6. Determine whether surrogate has medical insurance covering pregnancy and birth.

NOTE:

If she is not covered, the father should expect to cover all medical costs.

7. Verify that parties agree regarding potential abortion of abnormal child.

NOTE:

The parties may add a provision in their agreement regarding the action to be taken if amniocentesis or other medical tests reveal an abnormal fetus. However, because any decision regarding abortion remains solely with the mother [see Roe v. Wade (1973) 410 U.S. 113, 153, 93 S. Ct. 705, 35 L. Ed. 2d 147] , the parties should be in accord on this point [see § 100.221[1][m]].

8. Determine whether childless couple is prepared for possibility that they may:

NOTE:

The parties to a surrogate arrangement must be fully aware of the legal uncertainties regarding the arrangement.

- a. Be required to pay child support or medical expenses throughout child's lifetime.
- b. Never receive custody of child or visitation rights.

 - a. Read written contract.
 - b. Execute contract, indicating date and place of execution.
3. Prepare duplicate copy of contract for each party.
4. If required by agreement, ensure that parties open bank, trust, or escrow account, as appropriate.

5. If required by agreement, draft and have parties execute appropriate power of attorney form.

NOTE:

For example, an agreement for the support of a minor child [see § 100.200] may require the absent parent to execute a power of attorney, in order for the custodian to handle the child's day-to-day affairs and medical consents. 31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.122

§ 100.122 Surrogate Parenting Services

NOTE:

For the most part, the procedures outlined below apply to a surrogate arrangement that involves adoption, which is the type of arrangement covered by the surrogacy agreement presented in this chapter in § 100.221. That form is an agreement between two married couples; the "surrogate" (the biological mother) and her husband on the one hand, and the biological father and his wife on the other hand. Under such an arrangement, which is referred to in this chapter as "traditional" surrogacy, adoption of the child is necessary.

A different type of surrogate arrangement is referred to as "gestational" surrogacy, which involves the in vitro fertilization of the egg of one woman for implantation in the womb of another [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893 ; see also § 100.11[5]].

Gestational surrogacy does not require an adoption; only a determination of whether the egg donor or the child bearer is the legal mother of the child. For more detailed discussion of the two general types of surrogacy arrangements, see §§ 100.11[5] and 100.221[1][a], [b].

1. Consider adding following provisions to standard attorney-client agreement [see, e.g., Ch. 86, Agreements for Professional Services]:

NOTE:

The following is based on the assumption that the attorney will be representing the childless couple. Generally, a childless couple seeks the advice of an attorney in finding a surrogate and in making the entire arrangement.

a. Each client's acknowledgment that attorney cannot guarantee that:

- (1) Surrogate will conceive.
- (2) Surrogate will comply with agreement.
- (3) Any resulting child will be free from defects.

b. Each client's understanding that some issues involved in surrogacy contracts have not been adjudicated and that client faces several risks if surrogate refuses to comply with terms of contract, for example:

- (1) Biological father's name may not be entered on birth certificate as father.
- (2) Surrogate may be granted exclusive custody of child (or lesser custodial rights) as mother of child.
- (3) Biological father may be denied custody or visitation rights.
- (4) Biological father may be ordered to pay lifetime medical expenses or support for child who may never be in his custody.

c. Attorney's agreement to:

- (1) Report to biological father on progress of insemination and pregnancy.
- (2) Oversee surrogate's compliance with agreement, by reviewing surrogate's monthly medical reports.

d. Warning that surrogate agreement involving adoption may be unenforceable under following laws:

NOTE:

Because the law governing surrogate agreements that involve adoption is uncertain, the attorney drafting the surrogate contract should inform his or her clients of the specific laws that may pose problems [see § 100.221[1][b]; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12, Adoptions: Nature and Effect (Matthew Bender)].

- (1) Penal Code § 273(a), making payment, offer of payment, or receipt, of money or anything of value for consent regarding subsequent adoption of child punishable as misdemeanor.
- (2) Penal Code § 181, making sale or attempted sale of custody of human being punishable as felony [see Penal Code § 17(a) ("felony" defined)].
- (3) Fam. Code § 8609, making advertisement for supplying or accepting of children for adoption by person or organization other than licensed agency punishable as misdemeanor.

e. Warning that certain statutes may preclude client who is semen donor from being considered child's father, for example [see § 100.221[1][b], [c]]:

(1) Fam. Code § 7613(b), which specifically denies any parental rights to man who donated semen to licensed physician and surgeon or to licensed sperm bank for use in artificial insemination or in vitro fertilization of woman other than his wife.

(2) Fam. Code § 7540, which provides conclusive presumption of paternity by husband of surrogate when couple cohabits, if husband is not impotent or sterile.

f. Statement specifying whether attorney will be required to represent childless couple in event of litigation with surrogate.

2. Draft surrogate contract [see § 100.135].

3. Have parties do the following:

a. Read written contract.

b. Execute contract, indicating date and place of execution.

4. Prepare duplicate copy of contract for each party.

5. Prepare documents required for adoption of child at birth [see Fam. Code §§ 8800-8823].

NOTE:

Because Fam. Code § 7613(b) treats a sperm donor as though he were not the biological father of the child, the California State Department of Social Services has taken the position that the biological father must therefore complete an "independent" adoption, as if he were a complete stranger to the child [see Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 55, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778 ; see also Emley, Something Borrowed, Something Blue: Surrogate Parenting and California Laws, San Francisco Attorney, August/September 1987, p. 10]. For the forms and procedures used to accomplish an independent adoption, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors (Matthew Bender)].

6. If desired, submit following to court for approval:

NOTE:

In the uncertain legal climate in which surrogate arrangements involving adoption operate, court approval of these documents may increase the likelihood that they will be treated as enforceable should litigation later arise [Turk, If Baby M Were a Californian ..., 7 Calif. Lawyer 78, 82 (No. 8)(August 1987)]. Procedurally, approval might be obtained pursuant to a court action brought by a guardian ad litem for the unborn child. A guardian ad litem is a special guardian appointed by the court to prosecute or defend on behalf of an infant party [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 373, 373.5 (procedure for appointment); see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem (Matthew Bender)]. However, use of such a procedure assumes that the surrogate agreement does not violate Penal Code § 273, regarding payment for the right to adopt a child, and that the surrogate mother will not change her mind regarding relinquishment of the child.

a. Surrogate parenting agreement.

b. Adoption documents [see P 5, above].

7. Draft any of following documents required by surrogate agreement to provide for support of child:
 - a. Will [see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms ; Ch. 63, Will Provisions].
 - b. Codicil [see Ch. 62, Codicils].
 - c. Trust [see Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms ; Ch. 71, Marital Deduction Trust Provisions].
 - d. Private annuity [see Ch. 97, Private Loans and Annuities].
8. Verify that appropriate party obtains any of following insurance policies required by surrogate agreement:
 - a. Medical insurance for surrogate.
 - b. Life insurance for surrogate.
 - c. Life insurance for childless couple, to benefit child on their deaths.
9. Ensure that childless couple opens escrow account for deposit of surrogate fees.
10. Ensure that parties comply with appropriate medical or psychological screening required by agreement.
11. After birth of child:
 - a. Confirm paternity of child.

NOTE:

Blood tests are generally considered accurate to determine paternity [see, e.g., Fam. Code §§ 7550-7557]. For practical reasons, the parties to the agreement need to verify that the man contracting with the surrogate is in fact the biological father; if he is not, the parties should cancel the contract. By statute, blood test evidence cannot be used to rebut the presumption that a woman's husband is the father, if she has either: (1) borne a child conceived by means of a surgical procedure, with the consent of her husband; or (2) borne a child through artificial insemination and the insemination was under the supervision of a licensed physician and with the consent of her husband [Fam. Code §§ 7541(e)(3), 7613; see § 100.11[2][a]]. Whether the courts would apply this statutory rule in a surrogate arrangement involving adoption is uncertain [see Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1272-1273, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18, cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991 ; Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 59, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778 ; see also § 100.221[1][c]].

- b. Follow procedures for adoption by childless couple [see Civ. Code §§ 224.21-224.95; see Fam. Code §§ 8800-8823; see also P 5, above].

NOTE:

For a detailed discussion of adoptions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors (Matthew Bender).

- c. Ensure that surrogate receives payment for services from escrow account [see P 9, above].

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.133

§ 100.133 Agreement Relinquishing Parental Rights

NOTE:

This chapter includes only the forms for an express written relinquishment by parents of their right to control their minor child or to receive his or her earnings [Fam. Code § 7504; see §§ 100.210, 100.211]. For forms and discussion of the judicial procedure by which a minor may obtain a declaration of emancipation [Fam. Code § 7120], see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender). For forms and discussion relating to transactions that an emancipated minor may make, see Chs. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors, and 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors. For a general guide to drafting contracts, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

1. State names of the following persons:

- a. Parent(s) relinquishing control.
- b. Minor child.

2. If desired, describe reasons for relinquishment of control.

3. State either:

- a. Specific rights regarding control of child that parents are relinquishing [see § 100.211 (right to child's earnings only)]; or
- b. That parents are relinquishing all control over child [see § 100.210].

4. If desired, state that parents will continue to support child upon request.

NOTE:

Emancipation pursuant to relinquishment of control does not automatically terminate the parents' duty of support and other obligations to the child [Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709] . Otherwise, parents could agree to relinquish their right of control merely to evade their parental duties [see § 100.210[1][f]].

5. If desired, state parents' intent to continue general responsibility for minor child.

6. Add any appropriate standard contractual provisions [see § 100.130 P 7].

7. Include signature of each party.

§ 100.134 Agreement for Artificial Insemination

NOTE:

For an example and discussion of an agreement for artificial insemination, see § 100.220. For a general guide to drafting contracts, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

1. Set forth each of following:

- a. Parties to agreement.
- b. Purpose of agreement [see § 100.220[2], P 1].

2. Include provisions governing each of following:

- a. Medical screening of donor [see § 100.220[2], P 2].

NOTE:

The donor should be determined to be free of venereal disease before insemination takes place [see § 100.103]. The prospective mother may also want the donor to have a genetic evaluation.

b. Procedure for insemination [see § 100.220[2], P 3], specifying:

- (1) Finite period of time or timetable under which insemination will be performed.
- (2) How procedure will be performed, either:
 - (a) Under supervision of licensed physician.

(b) Privately.

NOTE:

Before any parties contemplate a private procedure (that is, one outside the supervision of a licensed physician), they must be advised that the resulting paternity of a child may not be that intended by the parties [see Fam. Code § 7613; see also § 100.220[1][b]].

c. Recognition or nonrecognition of donor's paternity [see § 100.220[2], P 4].

NOTE:

The form set forth in this chapter [see § 100.220] is designed for insemination of a married woman, under the supervision of a licensed physician and with the consent of her husband. It provides that (1) the donor's paternity will not be recognized, and (2) he will not be entitled to the rights and duties inherent in the parent-child relationship [see P d, below]. However, the parties may provide for recognition of paternity by including the donor's name on the birth certificate [see Health & Safety Code § 102425(a) (entry of father's name on birth certificate)].

d. Any parental rights and obligations of donor [see § 100.220[2], PP 4-7], such as:

NOTE:

If the donor's paternity will not be recognized [see P c, above], he will not have any enforceable obligations or rights regarding the child. However, if the parties recognize the donor's paternity, they may wish to provide for visitation or support.

(1) Child custody.

(2) Visitation.

(3) Child support.

e. Confidentiality of arrangement, if desired [see § 100.220[2], P 7].

NOTE:

If the parties want to keep the artificial insemination arrangement private, the agreement should include a provision to that effect.

f. Consideration [see § 100.220[2], P 8].

NOTE:

Even if the parties do not intend for the donor to receive any compensation, the woman to be inseminated should cover the cost of the donor's medical screening.

g. Attorneys' fees [see § 100.220[2], P 9].

NOTE:

For discussion of a provision for attorneys' fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1021], see § 100.220[1][i].

h. Cancellation of agreement [see Civ. Code § 1699; § 100.220[2], P 10], on occurrence of specified events, such as:

NOTE:

The parties may specify the manner in which they may cancel the agreement, such as notification by the cancelling party's attorney to the other party. A cancellation generally involves the abrogation of only those provisions that have not yet been performed [see Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571] .

(1) Medical determination that donor has venereal disease or transmissible genetic defect.

(2) Woman's failure to conceive within specified period of time or specified number of attempts.

i. Representation by separate counsel.

NOTE:

The competing interests between the parties with respect to the child necessitates separate legal representation for the childless couple and the semen donor.

3. Include appropriate standard contractual provisions [see § 100.220[2], PP 11-14; see also § 100.130 P 7].

NOTE:

Because the agreement is being drafted with the intent that California law apply, and because the agreement may not be given effect in the manner the parties intend under the laws of other states, it is especially important that a choice of law provision stating that California law will govern the agreement be included [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. Other standard contract provisions may be added when applicable.

4. Include signatures of all parties.

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.135

§ 100.135 Agreement for Surrogate Parenting Services

NOTE:

This section is intended as a checklist of provisions that should be considered for inclusion in a surrogacy arrangement of the type illustrated in § 100.221. That form is an agreement between two married couples; the "surrogate" (the biological mother) and her husband on the one hand, and the biological father and his wife on the other hand. Under such an arrangement, which is referred to in this chapter as "traditional" surrogacy, adoption of the child is necessary.

A different type of surrogate arrangement is referred to as "gestational" surrogacy, which involves the in vitro fertilization of the egg of one woman for implantation in the womb of another [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893 ; see also § 100.11[5]].

Gestational surrogacy does not require an adoption; only a determination of whether the egg donor or the child bearer is the legal mother of the child. For more detailed discussion of this distinction and the enforceability of both types of surrogate parenting contracts, see [see § 100.221[1][b]].

In either case, appropriate modifications will be necessary to take into account different relationships among the principal parties; for example, if the surrogate is unmarried, provisions relating to her husband obviously will be unnecessary.

For coverage of attorney-client agreements that cover drafting a surrogate parenting contract, see § 100.122. For a general guide to drafting contracts, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

1. Set forth each of following:

a. Parties to agreement.

NOTE:

The wife of the biological father may be included as a party, although she has no actual duties under the contract. However, because of the possibility that a court might hold that the paternity provisions of Fam. Code §§ 7540 and 7613 (stating that the husband of the inseminated woman, rather than the biological father, will be deemed to be the father for all purposes) do not apply to surrogate arrangements [see Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1272-1273, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18, cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991; Sherwyn v. Department of Social Services (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 52, 59, 218 Cal. Rptr. 778; see also § 100.221[1][c]], some practitioners recommend that the wife of the biological father should not sign the agreement, in order to avoid possible criminal repercussions. Penal Code § 273 makes it a misdemeanor to pay money for the adoption of a child. The biological father would not commit a misdemeanor under that statute, because a man cannot purchase his own child; his wife could circumvent that statute by not becoming a party to the agreement [see Turk, If Baby M Were a Californian ..., 7 Calif. Lawyer 78, 80 (No. 8)(August 1987)].

b. Purpose of agreement [see § 100.221[2], P 1].

NOTE:

The parties may also wish to include a summary of the procedure that will be used to effectuate the purpose.

2. Include provisions regarding following:

a. Biological father's emotional investment in surrogate arrangement [see § 100.221[2], P 3].

NOTE:

An express acknowledgment of the emotional investment of the biological father and his wife may later help establish the basis for a cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress if the surrogate breaches the contract by keeping the child after birth [see Bird, Surrogate Motherhood: Hers? Yours? Ours?, 2 Calif. Lawyer 20, 24 (No. 2)(Feb. 1982); see also § 100.221[1][g]].

b. Termination of parental rights [see § 100.221[2], P 3].

NOTE:

The surrogate and her husband should agree to completely terminate parental rights to the child, and not attempt to establish any relationship with the child.

c. Death of biological father [see § 100.221[2], P 4].

NOTE:

The parties should determine the custody and support of the child if the biological father, or both the biological father and his wife, die before the surrogate has relinquished the child [see § 100.221[1][h]].

d. Medical and psychological evaluations [see § 100.221[2], PP 5, 6].

NOTE:

Most surrogate agreements require the surrogate to undergo extensive tests, since her physical and emotional health are the most important factors for suitability as a surrogate [ see § 100.221[1][i]. Psychological counseling may identify and eliminate potential problems [see Turk, If Baby M Were a Californian ..., 7 Calif. Lawyer 78 (No. 8)(August 1987)].

e. Review of medical records [see § 100.221[2], P 7].

NOTE:

The adopting parents may want to examine the medical records of the surrogate's existing children, to determine any genetic problems.

f. Artificial insemination [see § 100.221[2], P 8].

NOTE:

The contract may designate a doctor to perform the procedure, and it may contain the husband's agreement to give his consent [see § 100.221[1][j]].

g. Conduct during pregnancy [see § 100.221[2], P 9].

NOTE:

The contract should specify all activities, such as smoking and drinking, that the surrogate agrees to forgo in the best interests of the fetus [see § 100.221[1][k]].

h. Amniocentesis [see § 100.221[2], P 10].

NOTE:

This procedure, used to detect genetic defects in a fetus, may be required on the advice of a physician, or on the request of the biological father. The parties should agree on the action to be taken if the test results show an abnormal fetus [see § 100.221[1][l]].

i. Abortion [see § 100.221[2], P 11].

NOTE:

The parties should attempt to agree on whether an abortion should be performed if the fetus is abnormal or the surrogate's health is threatened. However, the surrogate has the sole right to decide whether to seek an abortion, to the exclusion of the biological father [see Roe v. Wade (1973) 410 U.S. 113, 153, 35 L. Ed. 147, 93 S. Ct. 705 ; see also § 100.221[1][m]].

j. Miscarriage [see § 100.221[2], P 12].

NOTE:

The parties should agree on whether miscarriage will cancel the agreement or whether additional attempts at pregnancy will be required [see § 100.221[1][n]].

k. Delivery [see § 100.221[2], P 13].

NOTE:

If the adoptive parents wish to be present during the delivery of the child, the parties should include a provision to that effect. They may want to require that the delivery take place in a hospital, to ensure optimum medical attention for the child [see § 100.221[1][o]].

l. Determination of paternity [see § 100.221[2], P 14].

NOTE:

A surrogate contract should include the agreement of the surrogate's husband (if any) to be tested for paternity, since the purpose of the agreement would not be accomplished if the child born to the surrogate was biologically her husband's [see § 100.221[1][p]]. The contract may require the child's birth certificate to state the biological father's surname if the blood test confirms that he is the biological father.

m. Surrender of custody [see § 100.221[2], P 15].

NOTE:

The parties should specify whether the child will be released to the adoptive parents from the hospital after birth, or within a certain time after going home with the surrogate and her husband. The surrogate and her husband should agree to sign all releases incident to transfer of custody and adoption [see § 100.221[1][q]].

n. Consideration [see § 100.221[2], P 16].

NOTE:

The parties should specify all fees and expenses to be paid by the biological father, including medical and insurance expenses [see P p, below], as well as other agreed-upon costs [see § 100.221[1][r]].

o. Escrow [see § 100.221[2], P 17].

NOTE:

Many surrogate arrangements require the biological father to deposit the surrogate's flat fee into escrow, to be paid to her upon relinquishment of the child [see § 100.221[1][s]]. This arrangement overcomes to some extent the potential unenforceability of the agreement. If the surrogate refuses to relinquish the child, at least the biological father's out-of-pocket loss is minimized [see Andrews, The Stork Market: The Law of the New Reproductive Technologies, 70 A.B.A. J. 50, 56 (Aug. 1984)].

p. Insurance [see § 100.221[2], P 18].

NOTE:

The biological father may purchase medical insurance for the surrogate if she is not already covered, and may agree to purchase a life insurance policy to insure against her death resulting from the pregnancy or childbirth [see § 100.221[1][t]].

q. Assumption of pregnancy risks [see § 100.221[2], P 19].

NOTE:

The surrogate and her husband should acknowledge and accept the risks inherent in pregnancy and childbirth, including death [see § 100.221[1][u]].

r. Assumption of risk of abnormal child [see § 100.221[2], P 20].

NOTE:

The biological father should acknowledge that the baby may be abnormal, and should agree to accept the child, whatever the child's condition [see § 100.221[1][u]].

- s. Cancellation of agreement [see § 100.221[2], P 21].

NOTE:

The parties should state what circumstances, such as failure to conceive or miscarriage, permit cancellation of the contract [see Civ. Code § 1699; see also § 100.221[1][v]].

- t. Procedure in event of surrogate's decision to keep child [see § 100.221[2], P 22].

NOTE:

The parties to a surrogate agreement may agree to permit the surrogate to change her mind regarding relinquishment of the child during a certain period of time, such as the first trimester of pregnancy, and require her to notify the father immediately on making such a decision. If the surrogate makes that decision, the contract should provide for reimbursement of expenses to the father. It should also provide for the custody, visitation, and support of the child in the event the surrogate keeps the child, whether in accordance with or in breach of the agreement [see § 100.221[1][w]].

- u. Representation by separate counsel [see § 100.221[2], P 25].

NOTE:

Because of the great potential for conflict between the parties, both before and after execution of the agreement, they should have separate counsel. This fact should be stated in the agreement [see § 100.221[1][z]].

- v. Provision for attorneys' fees [see § 100.221[2], P 23].

NOTE:

For discussion of a provision for attorneys' fees [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1021], see § 100.221[1][x].

- w. Confidentiality of arrangement, if desired [see § 100.221[2], P 28].

NOTE:

Some, if not most, parties may wish to keep the fact of surrogate parenting secret, for their own or the child's sake [see § 100.221[1][aa]].

3. Add standard contractual provisions [see §§ 100.130, P 7; 100.221[2], PP 24, 26, 27].

NOTE:

Because the agreement is being drafted with the intent that California law apply, and because the agreement may not be given effect in the manner the parties intend under the laws of other states, it is especially important that a choice of law provision stating that California law will govern the agreement be included [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. Other standard contract provisions may be added when applicable.

4. Set forth space for signatures of all parties to agreement.

5. If desired, include following:

NOTE:

These statements may be added to increase the likelihood that a court would find the agreement enforceable [see California Family Law Monthly, vol. 3, No. 10 (May 1987), p. 398 (Matthew Bender)]. For further discussion, see § 100.221[1][i], [z]].

a. With respect to surrogate's attorney:

(1) Statement that he or she:

(a) Has explained agreement to surrogate and her husband.

(b) Believes that they fully understand their rights and obligations under agreement.

(2) Signature.

b. With respect to mental health expert:

(1) Statement that he or she:

(a) Has examined surrogate and her husband.

(b) Believes they are psychologically sound and fully competent to enter into agreement.

(c) Believes they understand consequences of their act.

(2) Signature.

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.200

§ 100.200 Agreement for Compensation for Support of Child

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract between a parent and a third party, in which the parent agrees to compensate the third party for the support of his or her minor child. It may be used in circumstances in which a parent with sole custody agrees to have his or her child live with a friend or relative, if, for example, the parent will be absent from the state or country for an extended period of time. If the child's parents have joint custody, appropriate modifications should be made. This form is not intended to be used as a custody and support agreement between spouses.

Like all other types of contracts, an agreement for the support of a child must include (1) the consent of parties capable of contracting [see Civ. Code §§ 1556-1559 (parties), 1565-1590 (consent)]; (2) a lawful object [see Civ. Code §§ 1595-1599]; and (3) a sufficient cause or consideration [Civ. Code § 1550; see Civ. Code §§ 1605-1615 (consideration); see also [2], P 2, below]. For a detailed discussion of these essential contract elements, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

[b] Parents' Duty of Support

Parents have an equal responsibility to support and educate their child in a manner suitable to the child's circumstances, taking into consideration their respective earnings or earning capacities [see Fam. Code § 3900]. As a general rule, the parental duty of support continues as to an unmarried child who has attained the age of 18 years, is a full-time high school student, and who is not self-supporting, until the time the child completes the 12th grade or attains the age of 19 years, whichever occurs first [Fam. Code § 3901(a)]. For emancipated minors, the duty of support ends at the time of emancipation [see Fam. Code §§ 7002, 7050(a)].

A parent is not bound to compensate the other parent or a relative for the voluntary support of his or her child, unless the parent has made an agreement for compensation [Fam. Code § 3951(a)]. However, this rule does not relieve the parent of the obligation to support a child during any period in which the state, county, or other governmental entity furnishes support for the child [Fam. Code § 3951(c)]. Similarly, a parent is not required to compensate a "stranger" for the support of a child who has abandoned the parent without just cause [Fam. Code § 3951(b)]. "Abandonment" is a child's permanent relinquishment of submission to parental control [see County of Fresno v. Walker (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 814, 824, 171 Cal. Rptr. 572 ; see also § 100.35].

[c] Power of Attorney

If a parent intends to have a third party support his or her child during the parent's extended absence for a reason such as employment abroad, he or she may want to appoint an agent to carry out his or her support and other obligations. This may be accomplished through a power of attorney. For example, a statutory short form power of attorney states that the appointed attorney in fact can provide for the support and welfare of the person's spouse, children, and dependents, and perform a variety of other actions, unless the power of attorney specifically limits the permissible actions [see Prob. Code § 4000 et seq.; see also Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney]. For discussion and a power of attorney form authorizing the custodian to act as the parents' agent with respect to a child, see Ch. 98, Powers of Attorney .

A. Custody, Control, and Support of Child

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.201

§ 100.201 Stepparent's Agreement for Support of Minor Child

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement by a stepparent to support stepchildren who reside with the stepparent and the stepchildren's birth parent but who have not been adopted by the stepparent. It is intended for use in situations in which the birth parent (the stepparent's spouse) has sole custody of his or her children. If the birth parents have joint custody, appropriate modifications should be made to this form in accordance with the custody and support order.

This agreement may be executed prior or subsequent to the marriage of the stepparent and the birth parent. For discussion and examples of prenuptial agreements generally, see Ch. 111, Prenuptial Agreements. Contract formation generally is covered in Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions.

[b] Need for Agreement

A stepparent may acquire a legal parental relationship with respect to his or her spouse's child by means of a stepparent adoption [see Fam. Code §§ 9000-9007; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors (Matthew Bender)]. A stepparent adoption severs the parent-child relationship between the child and the noncustodial birth parent and creates a new parent-child relationship between the child and the adoptive parent [see Fam. Code §§ 8616, 8617].

A stepparent may be either unwilling or legally unable to formalize his or her relationship with stepchildren through adoption. For example, the stepparent and natural parent may be unable to obtain the noncustodial birth parent's consent to the adoption. This consent is usually, but not always, required [see Fam. Code §§ 8604-8607]. At the time request for consent is sought from a birth parent, the birth parent must be advised that if he or she lived at any time with the child as parent and child, the adoption of the child by a stepparent does not affect the child's right to inherit the birth parent's property or the property of blood relatives of the birth parent [see Fam. Code § 9004]. In addition, the consent of the child, if over the age of 12 years, is necessary to his or her adoption [Fam. Code § 8602].

There is no intermediate status between an informal stepparent-child relationship and a legal stepparent adoption, and no support obligation in an informal stepparent-child relationship [see [c], [d], below]. This form creates a legal obligation on the part of a nonadoptive stepparent to treat the stepchild as his or her legal child.

[c] Liability of Stepparent's Property for Support of Child

The separate property of a stepparent who has not adopted his or her stepchild is not liable for the support of that child [see Fam. Code § 813(b)(1)]. The community property of the stepparent and the child's birth parent generally is liable for a child support obligation that arose prior to the marriage [Fam. Code §§ 910, 915]. However, the stepparent's community earnings are not liable for such a support obligation to the extent that they are (1) held in a deposit account in which the stepparent's spouse has no right of withdrawal, and (2) uncommingled with other community property other than property that is insignificant in amount [Fam. Code § 911(a)]; see Com. Code § 9102(a)(29) (defining "deposit account")].

If community property of a marriage is applied to the satisfaction of a prior child support obligation of one spouse (the natural parent), when nonexempt separate income of the natural parent is available but not applied, the community is entitled to reimbursement from the natural parent up to the amount of the separate income [Fam. Code § 915(b) (reimbursement not to exceed amount of community property applied to pay natural parent's child support obligation)].

[d] Effect of Stepparent's Assumption of Parental Obligations

The parent-child relationship with its concomitant rights and duties extends to persons, including stepparents, standing in loco parentis to a child. The term "in loco parentis" refers to any person who has put himself or herself in the situation of a lawful parent by assuming the obligations incident to the parental relationship without going through the formalities necessary to establish the legal relationship of parent and child [Estate of Teddy (1963) 214 Cal. App. 2d 113, 119, 29 Cal. Rptr. 402] . A stepparent does not, merely by virtue of marrying a child's birth parent, stand in loco parentis to his or her stepchild [Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 681 , overruled on other grounds, Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648] . However, to the extent that a stepparent receives the child into his or her own family and treats the child as a member of the family, the stepparent stands in the place of a natural parent. In that situation, the reciprocal rights, duties, and obligations of parent and child continue as long as the relationship continues [Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 681, 682 , overruled on other grounds, Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648] . Just as a natural parent cannot recover for the support and maintenance of his or her child, and is not liable for the services of that child, a person in loco parentis is subject to the same rule, in the absence of an express contract [Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 681, 682 , overruled on other grounds, Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648] .

The rights and duties arising out of a relationship in loco parentis last only as long as the relationship with the child continues, and they may be abandoned [see Clevenger v. Clevenger (1961) 189 Cal. App. 2d 658, 665-666, 11 Cal. Rptr. 707 ; see also [2], P 3, below]. In contrast, the duties and obligations of legal parents may not be abandoned by the parent, even if parental rights and obligations have been assumed by a person standing in loco parentis to a child [see Fam. Code §§ 3901, 4000; see also § 100.30].

[e] Intestate Succession

For purposes of determining intestate succession [see Prob. Code §§ 6400-6455], a parent-child relationship generally exists between a child and his or her birth or adoptive parents [see Prob. Code § 6450; but see Prob. Code §§ 6451-6453 (exceptions to general rule)]. If an adoption has not occurred, a parent-child relationship between a child and his or her stepparent generally exists only if [Prob. Code § 6454; see [b], above]:

- The relationship began during the child's minority and continued throughout the parties' joint lifetimes; and
- It is established by clear and convincing evidence that the stepparent would have adopted the child but for a legal barrier.

Also, a child born out of wedlock can establish that he or she is the natural child of an intestate decedent by producing clear and convincing evidence that the decedent openly held the child out as the decedent's own [Estate of Chambers (2009) 175 Cal. App. 4th 891, 896, 96 Cal. Rptr. 3d 651 ; see Fam. Code § 7630(c); Prob. Code § 6453(b)].

However, even if the foregoing requirements are not met, the judicial doctrine of equitable adoption may be applied to establish the right of a child (or the child's issue) to share in a deceased stepparent's intestate estate [Prob. Code § 6455]. To establish an equitable adoption, the child (or the child's issue) must show by clear and convincing evidence (1) some direct expression by the decedent of an intent to adopt the child, and (2) that the decedent acted consistently with that intent by forming a close and enduring familial relationship with the child [Estate of Ford (2004) 32 Cal. 4th 160, 171-173, 8 Cal. Rptr. 3d 541, 82 P.3d 747 (intent to adopt may be shown by proof of unperformed express agreement or promise to adopt, or by proof of other acts or statements directly and unequivocally showing that decedent intended child to be, or to be treated as, legally adopted child)].

[f] Consideration for Agreement

Generally, every contract requires a sufficient cause or consideration [Civ. Code § 1550(4); see Civ. Code §§ 1605-1615]. However, if this agreement is executed as a premarital agreement, it does not require consideration to be enforceable [Fam. Code § 1611; see [2], P 2, below].

[g] Enforcement of Agreement

If this agreement is made as a premarital agreement, its enforceability is governed by Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code §§ 1600-1617; see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements]. For a discussion of the enforcement of postnuptial agreements, see Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements .

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.202

§ 100.202 Notice of Change of Minor's Residence

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of a minor's change of residence. It is intended to be used by a parent or guardian when the residency of the minor child is at issue, such as when the child changes school districts.

The right to determine a child's residence is based on the right to custody [Fam. Code § 7501; see § 100.21[3]; see also [c], below]. For a discussion of other rights inherent in the right to custody, see §§ 100.20 and 100.21.

[b] Establishment of Residence Generally

A minor's residence ordinarily is the same as either (1) the residence of the parent or parents with whom the child maintains his or her place of abode; or (2) the residence of any individual who has been given legal custody of the minor by court order [Gov. Code § 244(d), (e); Welf. & Inst. Code § 17.1].

[c] Determination by Parent

A parent entitled to the custody of a child [see § 100.20] has the right to change the child's residence, subject to the power of the proper court to restrain a removal that would prejudice the rights or welfare of the child [Fam. Code § 7501]. For example, a child's welfare would be prejudiced if his or her mother removed the child from the state in order to frustrate or destroy the father's visitation rights [see In re Marriage of Ciganovich (1976) 61 Cal. App. 3d 289, 293, 132 Cal. Rptr. 261]. The right to determine the child's residence includes the right to place the child with another person for the purpose of establishing a guardianship over the child [Guardianship of Donaldson (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 477, 486, 223 Cal. Rptr. 707].

[d] Determination by Guardian

A child's guardian or conservator may fix the residence of the child at any place in California without the permission of the court [Prob. Code § 2352(a),(b)]. However, he or she must select the least restrictive appropriate setting that is both (1) available and necessary to meet the needs of the child, and (2) in the best interests of the child [Prob. Code § 2352(a),(b); see Ch. 66, Guardianships]. A child's guardian or conservator may also fix the residence of the child at any place outside of California, if he or she obtains permission of the court first [Prob. Code § 2352(c)]. The guardian or conservator must file a notice of change of residence with the court within 30 days of the date of the change [Prob. Code § 2352(e)(1) Judicial Council to develop forms of notice]. The guardian or conservator ordinarily must mail a copy of the notice to any persons who would be entitled to notice of a hearing to appoint a guardian or conservator [see prob. Code §§ 1511(b), 1822(b)], and must file a proof of service, unless the court waives the mailing requirement in order to prevent harm to the child [Prob. Code § 2352(e)(2)]. For additional discussion of guardians and conservators, see Ch. 66, Guardianships .

[e] Determination by Child

The residence of an unmarried minor who has a living parent cannot be changed by the minor's own act [Gov. Code § 244(e)]. However, an emancipated minor [see §§ 100.50-100.52] is considered to be an adult [see Fam. Code § 6501] for the purpose of establishing his or her own residence [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(15)].

B. Emancipation of Minor

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.210

§ 100.210 Relinquishment of Parental Rights to Control Minor and to Receive Minor's Earnings

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a relinquishment by parents of the right to control and receive the earnings of their minor child. This type of declaration can be used to create an express emancipation of the minor child [Fam. Code § 7504; see [d], below]. For a relinquishment of the right to a child's earnings only, see § 100.211.

For forms and discussion of the judicial procedure by which a minor may receive a declaration of emancipation, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender).

[b] Parents' Right to Custody and Control of Unemancipated Minor

The mother of an unemancipated minor child, and the father, if presumed to be the father [see Fam. Code § 7611], are equally entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(a)]. If one parent is dead, is unable, or refuses to take custody, or has abandoned the child, the other parent is entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(b)]. A parent's statutory rights to a child's earnings, however, do not include earnings from professional, sports, or related contracts of a kind described in Fam. Code § 6750 et seq. [Fam. Code § 7500(c)]. Included within the concept of custody are various rights of control over the child [see § 100.21]. Emancipation of a minor child terminates the parents' right of custody and control [see Fam. Code § 7050(b); see also § 100.52].

[c] Authorization for Relinquishment of Parental Control

The parents of a minor child, whether solvent or insolvent, may emancipate their child by relinquishing their rights to control the minor and receive his or her earnings [Fam. Code § 7504]. Emancipation may also occur by operation of law [see Fam. Code § 7002] or by judicial declaration [see Fam. Code § 7120].

[d] Manner of Relinquishment

Emancipation pursuant to parental relinquishment of control may be express or implied, complete or partial, conditional or absolute [Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 536, 540, 295 P.2d 972] . Whether a child has been emancipated by his or her parents presents a question of fact, as the alleged emancipation is not based on a simple and determinable event such as a marriage ceremony or a birthday, but rather on the totality of circumstances and a variety of acts and attitudes [Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709] .

This form is an express written relinquishment of parental control. It may also constitute evidence of parental consent if the minor wishes to obtain a judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7120; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender)]. However, relinquishment may also be implied from parental conduct [see, e.g., Martinez v. Southern Pacific Co. (1955) 45 Cal. 2d 244, 253, 288 P.2d 868 (minor controlled her own finances and contributed to family budget as adult)], and will be presumed if the parents have abandoned the minor child [Fam. Code § 7504; see Guardianship of Brazeal (1953) 117 Cal. App. 2d 59, 61, 254 P.2d 886 (relinquishment of all rights and duties toward child constitutes abandonment)].

[e] Effect of Minor Child

Emancipation by relinquishment of parental authority may be effective for specific purposes only [see Jolicoeur v. Mihaly (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 565, 580, 96 Cal. Rptr. 697, 488 P.2d 1 (emancipation for residential and voting purposes)]. In contrast, emancipation by operation of law is effective for all purposes [see Fam. Code § 7505], and emancipation pursuant to the Emancipation of Minors Law is complete for most purposes [see Fam. Code § 7050; see also §§ 100.51[3], 100.52]. To the extent that the child has been emancipated, he or she becomes sui juris, with the same independence as though he or she had attained majority [Lev v. College of Marin (1971) 22 Cal. App. 3d 488, 491, 99 Cal. Rptr. 476] .

This parental relinquishment form is designed to provide for complete emancipation of the minor child. For an example of a relinquishment resulting in partial emancipation, see § 100.211.

[f] Effect on Parents' Duty of Support

When emancipation occurs under the Emancipation of Minors Law [Fam. Code §§ 7000-7143], the parent's duty of support is terminated [Fam. Code § 7050(a); but see Fam. Code § 7130(b) (declaration of emancipation of indigent minor with no means of support is subject to rescission)]. However, emancipation pursuant to relinquishment of control does not automatically terminate the parents' duty of support and other obligations to the child [Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709] . Otherwise, parents could agree to relinquish their right of control merely to evade their parental duties. Whether emancipation is total or partial, a parent may continue the obligation to support a child by agreement [see Fam. Code § 3901(b)]. This form provides for the continuation of support [see [2], P 3, below]. Even if a child has been emancipated, his or her parents are always obligated to support the child to the extent of their ability, if the child is incapacitated from earning a living and without sufficient means [Fam. Code § 3910(a)].

[g] Execution of Agreement

If the parents have joint custody, each must sign the declaration of relinquishment, since they are equally entitled to their child's custody, services, and earnings [see Fam. Code § 7500(a)]. This form assumes execution by two parents. It may be modified for use by a surviving parent or a parent with court-awarded sole custody [see Fam. Code § 7500(b)].

[h] Acknowledgement of Receipt by Child

Although a relinquishment is not a contract made with the minor, but a declaration by the parents, this form includes an acknowledgment by the minor that he or she is aware of the parents' express relinquishment of control.

§ 100.211 Relinquishment of Parental Right to Minor's Earnings

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a declaration by the parents of a minor child relinquishing their right to control the child's earnings. The use of this form constitutes a partial emancipation of the minor child [see Slater v. California State Auto. Asso. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 375, 377, 19 Cal. Rptr. 290 ; see also [c], below]. For a form relinquishing both the right to earnings and the right of control over the child, intended to constitute a complete emancipation, see § 100.210.

[b] Parents' Right to Earnings

It is generally established that minors are entitled to hold their own property, both real and personal [In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 405, 155 Cal. Rptr. 671, 595 P.2d 105 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 973, 100 S. Ct. 468, 62 L. Ed. 2d 388 ; see § 100.21[4]]. However, a minor child's earnings are not considered to be his or her own property, and parents having custody and control of an unmarried minor are entitled to his or her earnings [see Fam. Code § 7500]. For further discussion of the parents' right to their child's earnings, see § 100.21[5].

[c] Relinquishment of Parental Right to Earnings

A parent, whether solvent or insolvent, may relinquish to the child the rights of controlling the child and receiving the child's earnings. Such a relinquishment is a form of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7504], and it may be either complete or partial [Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 536, 540, 295 P.2d 972 ; see also § 100.210[1][d]]. The relinquishment illustrated in § 100.210 is intended to be a relinquishment of all parental rights of control, resulting in complete emancipation. In contrast, relinquishment only of parents' rights to their child's earnings ordinarily constitutes a partial emancipation [see Slater v. California State Auto. Asso. (1962) 200 Cal. App. 2d 375, 377, 19 Cal. Rptr. 290] . This form is intended to emancipate the minor child only for purposes of his or her earnings.

[d] Declaration of Relinquishment

Although no particular form of voluntary relinquishment is required by statute [see Fam. Code § 7504], a writing will serve as a record of that relinquishment. This declaration is designed for execution by both parents. It may be modified for use by a surviving parent or a parent with court-awarded custody [see Fam. Code § 7500(b)].

In addition to a written declaration, relinquishment may be implied from the actions of the parents and child, and it will be presumed when the parents have abandoned the child [see Fam. Code § 7504; see also §§ 100.51[2], 100.210[1][d]].

C. Artificial Insemination and Surrogate Parenting

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.220

§ 100.220 Agreement for Artificial Insemination

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement among a married woman who wishes to become pregnant through artificial insemination, her husband, and a man who agrees to be the semen donor. It is intended for use under circumstances in which the donor is known to the married couple (rather than anonymous) and in which the insemination will be performed under the supervision of a physician [see [b], below].

This form does not address or cover any issues that are involved in other types of artificial insemination arrangements, such as a relationship between a single woman who will be inseminated and her woman companion who plan to jointly raise a child or children conceived by artificial insemination [see, e.g., Nancy S. v. Michele G. (1991) 228 Cal. App. 3d 831, 279 Cal. Rptr. 212 ; Curiale v. Reagan (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1597, 272 Cal. Rptr. 520].

For an agreement for surrogate parenting, see § 100.221.

[b] Statutory Requirements

When donor artificial insemination is performed under the supervision of a physician with the consent of a woman's husband, the husband is treated as if he were the biological father of the child conceived by his wife. The husband's consent to the procedure must be in writing and signed by both husband and wife. The physician must certify their signatures and the date of the insemination. The physician must retain the husband's consent as part of the medical record, which must be kept confidential and in a sealed file [Fam. Code § 7613(a)]. The physician's failure to take these actions, however, will not affect the father-child relationship. All papers and records pertaining to the insemination, whether part of the permanent record of a court or of a file held by the supervising physician or elsewhere, are subject to inspection only on an order of the court for good cause [Fam. Code § 7613(a)].

This form requires the husband and wife to execute a separate written instrument of consent to the artificial insemination procedure and present the instrument to the physician for certification of the spouses' signatures [see [2], P 3, below]. The parties should be aware that a physician may require the use of his or her own consent form for this purpose.

The requirements that semen be donated to, and the insemination be under, the supervision of a licensed physician must be satisfied for the statutory presumptions regarding paternity to apply. If the semen is provided and the woman inseminated privately, the presumption does not operate and the donor may establish his paternity of the child [Jhordan C. v. Mary K. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 386, 391-396, 224 Cal. Rptr. 530 (rejecting constitutional challenge to physician requirement)].

The donor of semen provided to a licensed physician and surgeon or to a licensed sperm bank for use in artificial insemination or in vitro fertilization of a woman other than the donor's wife is treated by law as if he were not the biological father of the child conceived pursuant to the artificial insemination [Fam. Code § 7613(b)]. This provision provides unmarried as well as married women a statutory method of obtaining semen for artificial insemination without fear that the donor may claim paternity. Similarly, it provides men with a statutory method for donating semen to married or unmarried women without fear of liability for child support [see Jhordan C. v. Mary K. (1986) 179 Cal. App. 3d 386, 392, 224 Cal. Rptr. 530]. If the woman is married, her husband is presumed to be the father [see Fam. Code § 7540]; neither spouse can use blood tests to rebut that presumption [see Fam. Code § 7541(e)(2); see also § 100.11[2][a], [4]].

[c] Insemination Procedure and Paternity Rights

Paragraph 3 of this form requires the artificial insemination procedure to be conducted by a designated, licensed physician. It also provides for the husband to be listed as "father" on the child's birth certificate. The semen donor acknowledges and agrees that he has no paternity rights and further agrees that he will make no claim to those rights. Paragraph 5 denies the donor any rights of custody or visitation. In Paragraph 6, the wife waives any rights to seek support from the donor.

The husband and wife agree that they both consent to the procedure and that they will execute a separate written consent instrument for presentation to the supervising physician. For further discussion of these issues and the applicable legal presumptions, see [b], above. This agreement [see [2], P 3, below] requires the wife to cancel the agreement if she has not become pregnant within a specified time. A corresponding right could be given to the donor if the parties so agree.

[d] Medical Screening

The parties to an artificial insemination agreement should consider requiring the donor to undergo a physical and genetic evaluation, including testing for venereal disease or other conditions that might be detrimental to a fetus [see [2], P 2, below]. This agreement permits the husband and wife to cancel the agreement if the evaluation discloses certain abnormalities.

[e] Confidentiality of Agreement

If confidentiality of the artificial insemination arrangement is desired by the parties, the express obligations of each party and the specific scope of those obligations must be specified in the agreement [see, e.g., [2], P 7, below]. Otherwise, the parties are under no obligation to maintain confidentiality regarding the arrangement. Both sides to the agreement, the husband and wife on one hand, and the donor on the other, may desire this confidentiality.

[f] Consideration

This agreement requires that the husband and wife bear all medical costs for the physical evaluation and screening of the donor and for the insemination procedure. Additional consideration, if any, to be paid to the donor should be clearly stated in the agreement [see [2], P 8, below].

[g] Standard Contractual Provisions

The agreement should include a choice-of-law provision stating that California law will govern the agreement [see [2], P 11, below; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions], and it may include other general provisions used in most contracts, such as a provision regarding partial invalidity of the contract [see [2], P 13, below; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. For other standard provisions, see § 100.130.

[h] Separate Counsel

The fact that the donor is relinquishing all parental rights to any child necessitates separate legal representation for both the donor and for the prospective mother. This form states that the parties had separate legal counsel, who explained the consequences of the agreement to them [see [2], P 12, below].

[i] Attorneys' Fees

A litigant is not entitled to attorneys' fees unless they are agreed to by the parties or specifically provided for by statute [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021; see Annette F. v. Sharon S. (In re Adoption of Joshua S.) (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 945, 949, 954-958, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 372, 174 P.3d 192 ("private attorney general" statute, Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5, did not authorize fee award in case that established validity of second-parent adoption by same-sex partner of child's birth mother, because statute does not authorize award of fees against individual who has done nothing to adversely affect rights of public or substantial class of people other than to raise issue in course of private litigation that could establish legal precedent adverse to portion of public); see also [2], P 9, below]. In any action on a contract, if the contract provides that attorneys' fees and costs incurred to enforce the contract are to be awarded either to one of the parties or to the prevailing party, then the party who is determined to be the party prevailing on the contract, regardless of whether he or she is the party named in the contract, is entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees in addition to other costs [Civ. Code § 1717(a)].

For further discussion and examples of attorneys' fees provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions .

PART IV. FORMS

C. Artificial Insemination and Surrogate Parenting

31-100 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100.221

§ 100.221 Agreement for Surrogate Parenting Services

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement by a woman to be artificially inseminated under the supervision of a doctor and to carry, bear, and relinquish the resulting child to the biological father (that is, the sperm donor) and his wife for a stepparent adoption. Although such a woman is the biological mother of the baby, she is commonly referred to as the "surrogate mother." This form of surrogacy has been denominated "traditional" surrogacy, as opposed to "gestational" surrogacy, the latter involving the in vitro fertilization of the egg of one woman for implantation in the womb of another [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1222, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893 ; see also § 100.11[5]].

Despite basic questions of legality and enforceability [see [b], below], surrogate parenting contracts have been used by infertile couples as an alternative to agency adoption. Not only do surrogate arrangements usually provide a child sooner than the lengthy agency adoption process, but they also ensure that the child will be biologically related to at least one parent, and under gestational surrogacy, to both parents. The arrangement also gives a couple some choice regarding the woman who will bear the child. Although a surrogate parenting arrangement may also be used in other situations, this agreement contemplates that the prospective parents will be a married couple.

An attorney who prepares this type of agreement should first enter into a written contract with his or her client. For the attorney's protection, it is recommended that the attorney-client agreement contain language disclosing to the client the state of the law with respect to the legality and enforceability of surrogate parent arrangements. For a list of recommended provisions that may be included in the attorney-client agreement to draft a surrogate parenting agreement, see § 100.122.

Despite questions of legality and enforceability [see [b], below], most surrogate parenting agreements contain detailed provisions, so that the parties to the arrangement understand all aspects regarding conception, pregnancy, birth, and surrender of the child before those events actually occur [see Bird, Surrogate Motherhood: Hers? Yours? Ours?, 2 Calif. Lawyer 20, 23 (No. 2)(Feb. 1982)].

[b] Enforceability of Traditional Surrogacy Contracts

Although the California Supreme Court has held that surrogacy contracts, in general, do not necessarily violate public policy [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 95-97, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 (upholding gestational surrogacy)], traditional surrogacy contracts do not override the otherwise-applicable provisions of California adoption law [In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1228-1231, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] . Thus, one California court of appeal has held that a traditional surrogacy arrangement is unenforceable against a surrogate mother who refuses to consent to the adoption of the child by the biological father's wife [see In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1228-1231, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] .

Under either type of surrogacy arrangement, if the surrogate changes her mind and refuses to fulfill her obligations under the contract, the courts must first determine the rights of the parties under existing statutory law. Then the court must consider the effect of the contract on those rights [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 89, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776] . Gestational surrogacy does not require an adoption; only a determination of whether the egg donor or the child bearer is the legal mother of the child. California parentage law supports both positions. The egg donor may rely on blood tests to establish her genetic link to the child [see Fam. Code § 7555], while the Uniform Parentage Act expressly provides that a mother-child relationship may be established by proof of having given birth to the child [see Fam. Code § 7610(a)]. Therefore, to break the "tie," the court may look to the intent of the parties as expressed in their contract [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 93, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P. 2d 776 ; but see K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 142-143, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673 (if ovum donor and child bearer are lesbian partners who will raise child in their joint home, and sperm donor is anonymous, each partner is mother of child, court need not examine partners' intentions about maternity)].

In contrast, under traditional surrogacy, although the husband is the true biological father of the child, the wife may attain parental rights only through a stepparent adoption [see Fam. Code § 9000 et seq.]. As exemplified by this form, the surrogate must acknowledge the husband's paternity, surrender the child to the couple, and consent to a stepparent adoption by the wife [see Fam. Code § 7613(b); see also [c], below].

Under California law, a stepparent adoption first requires the filing of a petition [see Fam. Code § 9000(a)], and then the signing of parental consent before a notary public, court clerk, probation officer, qualified court investigator, or county welfare department staff member, who must immediately file the consent with the clerk of the court where the petition is filed [Fam. Code § 9003(a)]. A natural parent's consent is considered to be a jurisdictional prerequisite to an adoption, regardless of the child's best interests [see Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1259 n.9, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18 , cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991] . If the surrogate gives her consent after the birth of the child and then attempts to withdraw it, the question may be resolved according to the best interests of the child under the adoption statutes [Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1255-1259, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18 , cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991 ; see Fam. Code § 9005 (petition to withdraw consent to stepparent adoption)]. However, if the surrogate refuses to give her consent at all, there is no judicial remedy. The California Supreme Court's opinion in Johnson v. Calvert might support, by implication, the position that a nonstatutory exception to the consent requirement arises from the parties' contract [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776] . However, the first court to confront the issue after Johnson v. Calvert refused to find any such exception, holding that a traditional surrogacy contract is unenforceable if the surrogate refuses to give the required consent [In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 1228-1231, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893] . Therefore, counsel should assume that the provisions of this form requiring the surrogate to consent to an adoption cannot be specifically enforced, and the clients must be advised accordingly.

[c] Application of Artificial Insemination Statutes to Surrogacy Arrangements

Parental rights are denied to a man who donates semen that has been used by a physician to artificially inseminate a woman other than the donor's wife [Fam. Code § 7613(b); see Bird, Surrogate Motherhood: Hers? Yours? Ours?, 2

Calif. Lawyer 20, 22 (No. 2)(Feb. 1982)]. Thus, there is a "conclusive" presumption that the husband of a woman is the father of any child born to that woman, unless the husband is impotent or sterile [Fam. Code § 7540; see § 100.11[2][a]]. If a married woman conceives by artificial insemination under the supervision of a physician, or with semen obtained from a physician, or by means of a surgical procedure with the consent of her husband, no party can challenge the paternity of the child based on blood tests that would otherwise be permissible [Fam. Code § 7541(a), (e)].

However, the rule that the donor is not the father of a child born as a result of artificial insemination has no application to a surrogacy situation in which the purpose of the donation is to produce a child who will be raised in the donor's home [Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 100, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776 (husband and wife did not intend to "donate" sperm and ova to surrogate mother, but rather "to procreate a child genetically related to them by the only available means"); see K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 139-141, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673 (even if Fam. Code § 7613(b) applies to women who donate ova, it does not apply when purpose of donation is to produce child who will be raised in donor's home; also, "there is nothing to indicate that [Fam. Code § 7613(b)] would apply if a man provided semen to be used to impregnate his unmarried partner in order to produce a child that would be raised in their joint home")].

[d] Suggested Procedures for Adoption

Because it is unlikely that a surrogacy agreement can be specifically enforced to compel the surrogate to consent to an adoption [see [b], above], the prospective parents should take advantage of all statutory procedures to accelerate the adoption process. In this regard, the parents may wish to attempt to jointly adopt the child using the procedures for an independent adoption, arguing that a joint adoption is necessary because, as a sperm donor, the husband is not treated as the biological father of the child [see Fam. Code § 7613(b); see also [c], above]. However, the parents should be made aware of the possibility that a court might rule that a joint adoption is not required, pursuant to the rule that one cannot adopt one's own child [see Marshall v. Marshall (1925) 196 Cal. 761, 765-767, 239 P. 36] .

Independent adoption procedures, applicable since January 1, 1995, allow the surrogate and the adopting parents to sign an adoption placement agreement at the time when the child is released from the hospital and given over to the adopting parents [see Fam. Code § 8801.3]. This agreement would include the surrogate's consent to the adoption [see Fam. Code § 8801.3(c)(5)], which would be absolutely revocable for 30 days [see Fam. Code § 8814.5(a)(1)]. However, once the child is born, the surrogate may waive the right to revoke [see Fam. Code § 8814.5(a)(2)].

There are no similar procedures for a stepparent adoption because the statutes assume that stepparent adoptions do not involve newborn children [see Fam. Code § 9000 et seq.]. The surrogate's consent to a stepparent adoption must be signed in the presence of a notary public, court clerk, probation officer, qualified court investigator, or county welfare department staff member [see Fam. Code § 9003(a)], which is unlikely to be accomplished at the time the child is released to the prospective parents. While there is no absolute right of revocation within a certain number of days, there is a right to petition to withdraw consent, which may be made anytime before the adoption is granted [see Fam. Code § 9005; Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18, cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991] .

Whether an independent adoption or a stepparent adoption is attempted, the petition should be filed immediately on the child's birth. Prenatal filing would appear to be prohibited because in both kinds of adoptions, the petition must set forth the child's gender, date of birth, and name before adoption [see Fam. Code §§ 8802(c), 9000(c)]. Immediate filing allows a copy of the petition to be served on the public or private adoption agency that will be asked to take either the surrogate's waiver of the right to revoke consent in an independent adoption [see Fam. Code § 8814.5(a)(2)] or the surrogate's consent to a stepparent adoption [see Fam. Code § 9003(a)].

[e] Potential Practical Problems

An attorney drafting a surrogate parenting agreement must consider various practical problems that might arise. For example, the most obvious thing that could go wrong would be the surrogate's decision to keep the baby [see [b], above]. The surrogate might also violate her contractual agreement not to smoke, drink, or take drugs, or she might refuse to keep prenatal medical appointments or follow medical advice. On the other hand, the adoptive parents might separate or divorce before the birth of the baby [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Moschetta (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 1218, 30 Cal. Rptr. 2d 893], refuse to accept a deformed or retarded child, or refuse to pay the surrogate's medical expenses or flat fee. The surrogate could die or become incapacitated in childbirth, or the biological father could die before receiving the child, leaving no means of support.

These possibilities should be covered in the contract, so that the parties understand the problems inherent in the arrangement, as well as their agreed-to solutions, before performance. However, if one of the parties seeks court intervention regarding performance of the contract, a court might reach its own decision regardless of the contract provisions [see Bird, Surrogate Motherhood: Hers? Yours? Ours?, 2 Calif. Lawyer 20, 24 (No. 2)(Feb. 1982)]. The attorney should warn the parties of that possibility.

[f] Purpose of Agreement

A surrogacy contract should state that its sole purpose is to obtain the services of the surrogate mother in carrying and delivering a child for the biological father [see [2], P 1, below]. It may disclaim that it is an attempt to pay for the adoption or sale of a baby [see [b], above].

[g] Termination of Surrogate's Rights

This form contains a provision in which the surrogate and her husband acknowledge the emotional investment of the biological father and his wife in the surrogate arrangement and agree to terminate completely their parent-child relationship on surrender of the child [see [2], P 3, below].

[h] Death of Father

In order to cover all possibilities, a surrogacy contract should specify what provisions the biological father must make for the support and custody of the child, if he should die before receiving custody of the baby. It should also include provisions for the child on the death of both adoptive parents. This form requires the biological father to provide for the child by will or life insurance, and it specifies that custody of the child will remain with his wife if he should die, or with the surrogate mother and her husband if both the father and his wife should die before the child has been legally adopted [see [2], P 4, below]. The contract should also provide for the possibility of the death of the surrogate mother during pregnancy or during delivery [see [2], P 18, below].

[i] Medical and Psychological Testing

Because a woman's physical and mental health are extremely important factors in her suitability as a surrogate mother, the contract should require her to undergo extensive medical and psychological testing at the expense of the biological father-to-be [see [2], PP 5, 6, below]. Provisions may be added to continue psychological testing during the beginning of pregnancy, to determine whether the physical changes have also effected psychological changes regarding her willingness to relinquish the child. Some attorneys recommend that the surrogate's attorney and a mental health expert sign the agreement, attesting to the fact that the woman has been advised of her rights, is psychologically healthy, and understands the consequences of her act [Turk, If Baby M Were a Californian ..., 7 Calif. Lawyer 78, 82 (No. 8)(August 1987)].

This form also permits the biological father and his wife to examine the medical records of the surrogate's children, to determine any medical characteristics that might be relevant to the child to be conceived [see [2], P 7, below].

The biological father should also undergo medical testing to determine his health and the presence of any diseases or genetic factors that could contribute to problems in the child to be conceived [see [2], P 5, below].

[j] Artificial Insemination

The surrogacy contract should describe the insemination procedure and require the surrogate's husband, if any, to consent in writing to the procedure [see [2], P 8, below]. For further discussion of the legal aspects of artificial insemination, see § 100.220[1][b].

[k] Surrogate's Conduct During Pregnancy

Generally, pregnant women are advised to refrain from certain activities during pregnancy for the health of the fetus. The contract should itemize all such activities, including smoking and consumption of alcohol and nonprescription drugs. It may also require the surrogate to comply with additional restrictions or procedures required by her physician [see [2], P 9, below].

[l] Amniocentesis

The process of amniocentesis, used to detect the presence of genetic or congenital abnormalities, may be required, or may be required on the request of the biological father or the surrogate's physician [see [2], P 10, below]. The contract should also specify the action to be taken if the result of the amniocentesis indicates an abnormal fetus [see [m], below].

[m] Abortion

This form allows the surrogate to have an abortion if the surrogate's physician recommends that procedure for the surrogate's health. It provides that the agreement will terminate if the surrogate has an abortion for any other reason [see [2], P 11, below]. The parties may also agree to abortion if tests reveal fetal abnormalities. However, a provision that attempts to restrict a woman's right to an abortion may be unconstitutional [see Note, Rumpelstiltskin Revisited: The Inalienable Rights of Surrogate Mothers, 99 Harv. L. Rev. 1936 (1986)]. In a New Jersey case, the court held that a clause in a surrogacy contract prohibiting abortion except as allowed by the biological father was void and unenforceable [see In the Matter of Baby M (1988) 109 N.J. 396, 537 A.2d 1227]. The New Jersey court stated that after conception, only the surrogate, to the exclusion of the semen donor, will have the right to decide whether to abort the fetus, citing Roe v. Wade [(1973) 410 U.S. 113, 153, 35 L. Ed. 147, 93 S. Ct. 705].

In an in vitro (gestational) surrogacy case, the California Supreme Court declined to determine the validity of a surrogacy contract purporting to deprive the surrogate of her freedom to terminate the pregnancy [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 97, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P.2d 776]. As noted by the court, the contract involved in that case at one point purported to give the biological parents the sole right to determine whether to abort the pregnancy, but at another point acknowledged that a pregnant woman has the absolute right to abort or not abort any fetus she is carrying [see Johnson v. Calvert (1993) 5 Cal. 4th 84, 96-97, 19 Cal. Rptr. 2d 494, 851 P. 2d 776].

[n] Miscarriage

The possibility of miscarriage should be addressed. This form provides that miscarriage will terminate the agreement, and it does not require additional attempts at conception [see [2], P 12, below]. However, this provision may be amended to require performance of additional insemination within a stated period of time after a miscarriage if the parties so agree.

[o] Delivery

The contract should specify whether the biological father and his wife will be permitted to attend the delivery of the child. The father may wish to require delivery to take place in a hospital, to ensure optimum medical care for the child [see [2], P 13, below].

[p] Determining Paternity

The parties must verify that the man who has contracted with the surrogate is, and the surrogate's husband (if any) is not, the biological father of the child born to the surrogate. Blood tests generally are used to determine paternity [see Fam. Code § 7550 et seq.], and if a child is born to a married woman, a motion may be brought by the husband for blood tests to prove that he is not the biological father of the child [Fam. Code § 7541(b)]. This form requires the surrogate's husband to take all actions, including blood testing, required to establish his nonpaternity [see [2], P 14, below]. If tests reveal that the surrogate's husband is the biological father, the contract is rescinded, and the surrogate must reimburse the prospective parents for all expenses paid under the agreement [see [2], P 21, below].

[q] Surrender of Custody and Adoption

This form contains the agreement of the surrogate and her husband to deliver custody to the biological father on a physician's determination that the child may leave the hospital, and their agreement to sign all adoption consents [see [2], P 15, below]. Whether the child must be adopted by both the biological father and his wife through an independent adoption, or by only the biological father's wife through a stepparent adoption, is discussed in [d], above. For coverage of both types of adoptions, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 172, Adoption of Unmarried Minors (2d ed. Matthew Bender).

[r] Consideration

The surrogacy contract should specifically describe all fees and expenses to be paid by the biological father. These typically include the following [see [2], P 16, below]:

- A flat fee that is deposited into escrow and paid on delivery of the child to the father.
- The costs of initial medical and psychological testing;
- The insemination fee.
- All medical and related expenses incurred by the surrogate during pregnancy and delivery that are not covered or allowed by the surrogate's or her husband's insurance.
- Life insurance for the surrogate.
- Transportation expenses.
- Maternity clothing.
- Paternity testing.
- The surrogate's attorney fees.
- All court costs, filing fees, and copying fees for the establishment of paternity and adoption of the child.

The contract should emphasize that the consideration under the contract is for services, rather than the buying and selling of a child or a payment for adoption, which are illegal [see Penal Code §§ 181, 273; see also [2], P 16, below].

[s] Escrow

Most surrogacy contracts provide that the flat fee to be paid to the surrogate mother, as distinguished from the reimbursement for expenses incurred throughout pregnancy, will be deposited in an escrow account on conception and paid to the surrogate on relinquishment of custody to the biological father and his wife [see Bird, Surrogate Motherhood: Hers? Yours? Ours? 2 Calif. Lawyer 20, 24 (No. 2)(Feb. 1982); see also [2], P 17, below]. Such a provision assures the biological father that if the surrogate breaches the contract and keeps the child, the economic loss is minimized [see Andrews, The Stork Market: The Law of the New Reproductive Technologies, 70 A.B.A. J. 50, 56 (Aug. 1984)]. For a general discussion of the nature and purpose of escrow, see Ch. 26, Real Property Escrows.

[t] Insurance

Most surrogate parenting contracts provide that the biological father will, in addition to furnishing other consideration, take out a life insurance policy on the life of the surrogate mother, to insure against her increased risk of death due to pregnancy or birth of the child [see [2], P 18, below].

[u] Assumption of Risks

This agreement provides that the surrogate's physician has advised her about the risks of pregnancy and childbirth, and that she accepts those risks [see [2], P 19, below]. It also provides that the biological father understands that there is no guarantee that the child to be born will be normal, and that he accepts such a risk and will accept the baby, whatever its condition [see [2], P 20, below].

[v] Cancellation of Contract

A surrogate agreement should state the events that will allow the parties to cancel their rights and duties. Cancellation [see Civ. Code § 1699] generally involves the abrogation of only those provisions that have not yet been performed [see Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571 ; see also Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations]. For example, the parties may cancel their obligations if conception does not occur, if the surrogate suffers a miscarriage, or if paternity testing after birth reveals that the surrogate's husband is the biological father [see [2], P 21, below].

[w] Surrogate's Decision to Keep Child

Because the greatest possibility for failure of the surrogate arrangement involves the surrogate's decision to keep the child, the surrogate agreement should provide for that eventuality. It may require the surrogate to return some or all of the money received pursuant to the agreement, and it may require her to execute a written agreement for joint custody [see [2], P 22, below; see also Ch. 124, Provisions for Child Custody and Visitation].

Some agreements specify a period during which the mother may change her mind, such as the first trimester of pregnancy, and provide that if she changes her mind after that period, the father will receive sole custody and she will have visitation rights only. However, while custody agreements between parents are legal and encouraged, they are not binding on a court, which may make any custody order that it deems to be in the best interests of the child [see Fam. Code § 3020; Adoption of Matthew B. (1991) 232 Cal. App. 3d 1239, 1258-1259, 284 Cal. Rptr. 18 , cert. denied sub nom. Nancy B. v. Charlotte M. (1992) 503 U.S. 991] . Regardless of the type of provision that the drafting attorney includes in the agreement, he or she must prepare all parties for the possibility that, if they do not perform their contractual obligations, they may have to share the child in some manner for the rest of their lives [see Turk, If Baby M Were a Californian ..., 7 Calif. Law. 78, 82 (No. 8)(August 1987)].

[x] Attorneys' Fees

This form provides that the prevailing party in litigation arising under the contract will be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees [see [2], P 23, below; see also Civ. Code § 1717]. For further discussion of attorneys' fee provisions, see § 100.220[1][i].

[y] Standard Contractual Provisions

Because the agreement is being drafted with the intent that California law apply, and because the agreement may not be given effect in the manner the parties intend under the laws of other states, it is especially important that a choice of law provision stating that California law will govern the agreement be included [see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. If desired by the parties, the contract also may include other standard provisions such as a provision regarding partial invalidity of the contract [see [2], P 26, below; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]. For other standard provisions, see § 100.130.

[z] Separate Counsel

The strong possibility of conflict between the parties both before and after the baby is born makes separate legal representation for the surrogate and adopting parents highly advisable [see Fam. Code § 8800 (legislative policy concerning separate counsel for adopting parents and birth parents in independent adoptions)]. For example, while issues of the biological mother's lifestyle and compliance with medical procedures [see [2], P 9, below] may arise during the pregnancy, the most extreme potential for conflict involves the decision of the biological mother to keep the baby [see [w], above]. This form states that the parties had separate legal counsel, who explained the consequences of the agreement to them [see [2], P 25, below].

[aa] Provisions for Confidentiality

If the parties to the agreement want to maintain confidentiality regarding the surrogate arrangement, the agreement should state that no party will discuss the agreement or the surrogate arrangement with persons other than those directly involved, such as attorneys and doctors [see [2], P 28, below].

[2] FORMAgreement for Surrogate Parenting Services*SURROGATE PARENTING AGREEMENT

This agreement is made among _____ [name of surrogate mother] ("Surrogate"), _____ [name of surrogate's husband], her husband, ("Husband"), and _____ [name of biological father] ("Father").

Purpose

1. The sole purpose of this Agreement is to enable _____ [name of biological father], Father, and his wife, _____ [name], to have a child who is biologically related to _____ [name of biological father], by means of the artificial insemination, conception, and delivery of such a child by _____ [name of surrogate]. This is not intended to be an agreement for the purchase of Surrogate's Child, or for Surrogate's consent to surrender the Child for adoption, as prohibited under Penal Code §§ 181 and 273. As used in this Agreement, "Child" shall include all children born simultaneously pursuant to insemination performed pursuant to Paragraph 8 of this Agreement.

General Procedure

2. The parties agree that Surrogate shall be artificially inseminated with the semen of Father by a licensed physician, pursuant to Paragraph 8 of this Agreement. Upon conception, Surrogate shall carry the Child until delivery. At the time set forth in Paragraph 15, Surrogate and Husband shall surrender custody of the Child to Father and his wife, and shall take all necessary actions required for the adoption of the Child by Father and his wife, pursuant to Paragraph 15 of this Agreement.

Termination of Parental Rights

3. Surrogate and Husband acknowledge that Father and his wife have an emotional investment in the surrogate arrangement, and that it is in the best interests of the Child that Father and his wife shall act as the Child's only parents. Therefore, they agree that immediately after birth, they will surrender all rights to the Child, including the right of custody and the right to name him or her, and will not attempt to form a parent-child relationship with him or her.

Death of Father

4. If Father should die after execution of this Agreement, prior to relinquishment of custody of the Child to Father pursuant to Paragraph 15 of this Agreement, Surrogate and Husband agree that relinquishment of custody shall be made instead to _____[name of biological father's wife], the wife of Father. If both Father and _____[name of wife], his wife, should die after execution of this Agreement and prior to relinquishment of custody to them, custody of the Child shall [state custody provision, e.g., remain with Surrogate and Husband]. Father agrees that he shall provide for the support of the Child in the event of his death [specify method, e.g., by will or by purchase of a life insurance policy].

Medical Evaluations

5. Prior to artificial insemination performed pursuant to Paragraph 8, Surrogate and Father shall undergo a complete physical and genetic evaluation by a licensed physician. This evaluation shall be used to determine the physical health of each party, including the presence of any sexually transmitted diseases, including [specify, e.g., AIDS], and to determine the presence of any transmissible genetic condition or abnormality, including [identify any specific conditions]. Surrogate and Father agree to sign a release, before the evaluation, permitting review of each other's evaluation report.

Psychological Evaluation

6. Prior to artificial insemination performed pursuant to Paragraph 8, Surrogate and Husband shall undergo a psychological evaluation by _____[name of doctor, if known or a licensed psychologist or psychiatrist they shall select]. Surrogate and Husband agree to sign a release, prior to the evaluation, permitting review of the evaluation report by Father and his wife.

Review of Children's Medical Records

7. Surrogate and Husband agree to allow Father, his wife, and their physician to review the medical records of any existing children of Surrogate and Husband. They agree to sign any consent forms required for such a review.

Artificial Insemination Procedure

8. Surrogate agrees to be artificially inseminated with Father's sperm, according to the times and procedures determined by _____[name of physician]. Husband agrees that he shall not sign any written consent to the insemination procedure under Family Code Section 7613, or do any other act that might result in his treatment as the biological father of the Child. Surrogate agrees to refrain from sexual intercourse with Husband during the period of time in which she attempts to conceive pursuant to artificial insemination. Surrogate and Husband agree to notify Father upon confirmation of pregnancy by her physician.

Conduct During Pregnancy

9. Surrogate agrees to obtain prenatal examinations at least [specify, e.g., once per month] during pregnancy, and any other physical examinations and medical tests specified in Paragraph 10 as necessary, and shall follow all medical instructions given to her by her obstetrician. She further agrees that during pregnancy, she shall not smoke, drink alcohol, use any drugs, prescription or otherwise, or [specify any additional restrictions, e.g., engage in strenuous exercise] without the written consent of her physician. Surrogate agrees to inform Father and his wife of the progress of the pregnancy, and to sign any release forms required to allow their review of the medical records pertaining to her pregnancy.

Amniocentesis

10. Surrogate agrees that, on the request of her obstetrician or Father, she will undergo amniocentesis or other related tests including [specify desired medical tests] to determine whether any genetic or congenital defects are present in the Child. The parties agree that Surrogate may undergo these tests of her own accord, if her obstetrician and Father do not require them.

Abortion

11. Surrogate agrees that she will not abort the fetus unless, in the professional medical opinion of her physician, abortion is necessary for her health [add if desired; or unless amniocentesis reveals the presence in the fetus of genetic or congenital defects]. If Surrogate obtains an abortion under any other circumstances, this Agreement shall terminate, and Surrogate shall reimburse Father and his wife for all payments, other than medical expenses, received to that date.

Miscarriage

12. If miscarriage occurs during any month of pregnancy, Surrogate shall be entitled to the compensation already received pursuant to Paragraph 16, but shall not receive further compensation. All medical expenses shall be covered as provided in Paragraph 16. Surrogate shall cancel this Agreement upon miscarriage pursuant to Paragraph 21, and no party shall be further obligated under this Agreement; however, the parties may make a new agreement regarding subsequent attempts at conception.

Delivery of Child

13. Surrogate and Husband agree that they will notify Father and his wife at the onset of labor [add if desired: and that Father and his wife may be present during delivery of the Child. Surrogate and Husband shall sign any consent forms necessary to facilitate this result]. Surrogate agrees to deliver the Child in a hospital, under medical supervision.

Determination of Paternity

14. Husband agrees that, after the birth of the Child, he shall comply with all actions required to determine the paternity of the Child, including blood testing.

Surrender of Custody Upon Birth

15. Surrogate and Husband agree to surrender custody of the Child to Father and his wife _____ [specify time after birth, e.g., as soon as a physician determines that the Child is physically ready to leave the hospital]. They agree to sign any documents required for the hospital's relinquishment of the Child, and all adoption consents required for Father and his wife to adopt the Child.

Consideration for Services

16. The parties agree that the consideration paid pursuant to this Agreement constitutes payment for services to be provided by Surrogate and expenses related to those services, not payment for Surrogate's Child or for Surrogate's consent to surrender the Child for adoption in violation of Penal Code §§ 181 and 273. In consideration for her services, Father agrees to pay to Surrogate all of the following:

(a) $ _____, on surrender of custody of Child to Father. This sum shall be placed in escrow on notification of conception, pursuant to Paragraph 17 of this Agreement.

(b) The costs of initial medical and psychological testing to determine suitability as a surrogate mother, pursuant to Paragraphs 5 and 6 of this Agreement.

(c) The insemination fee incurred pursuant to Paragraph 8.

(d) All medical, pharmacy, hospital, and laboratory expenses incurred by Surrogate during insemination, pregnancy, and delivery that are not covered or allowed by Surrogate's or Husband's insurance. However, medical and related expenses occurring _____ [length of time, e.g., eight weeks or more] after the birth of the child shall not be included. Furthermore, Father shall not reimburse Surrogate or Husband for lost wages.

(e) Transportation expenses, if it is necessary for Surrogate to travel in order to meet the obligations set forth in this Agreement.

(f) The cost of Maternity clothing, up to a total of $ _____.

(g) The cost of Paternity testing of the Child pursuant to Paragraph 14 of this Agreement.

(h) Surrogate's attorneys' fees for independent legal advice regarding the meaning and consequences of this Agreement, but not for any legal advice regarding breach or enforcement of this Agreement.

- (i) All court costs, filing fees, and copying fees for the establishment of paternity and adoption of the Child.
- (j) The cost of a life insurance policy on Surrogate's life, pursuant to Paragraph 18.
- (k) _____ [Specify any other agreed-upon consideration].

Escrow Agreement

17. On notification by Surrogate or Husband of conception, Father shall deposit into escrow the fee set forth in Paragraph 16(a). The escrow agent shall place this sum into an interest-bearing account in a financial institution. Upon notification by Father of the relinquishment of custody of the Child to him, the escrow agent shall pay the deposited sum, plus interest, to Surrogate.

Insurance

18. Due to the risks of pregnancy and childbirth as set forth in Paragraph 19, Father shall purchase a term life insurance policy on Surrogate's life, payable to a beneficiary selected by Surrogate, of at least $_____, and shall ensure that the policy remains in effect for at least [specify period, e.g., 6 weeks] after the birth of the Child.

Assumption of Pregnancy Risks

19. Surrogate and her Husband have had the medical risks associated with pregnancy and childbirth explained to them by _____ [name of physician], and they understand and agree to assume all of those risks, including the risk of death.

Assumption of Risks of Abnormal Child

20. _____ [Name of physician] has explained to Father the risk that pregnancy may result in an abnormal Child, and that genetic and congenital abnormalities may not be detected by amniocentesis or other related tests described in Paragraph 10. Father understands that risk, and agrees to accept any Child born as a result of this Agreement who possesses genetic or congenital abnormalities, including birth defects or mental retardation.

Cancellation of Agreement

21. The parties shall cancel this Agreement if Surrogate fails to conceive pursuant to Paragraph 8, if she miscarries, or if paternity testing performed after the Child's birth pursuant to Paragraph 14 reveals that Surrogate's Husband is the biological father of the Child. Notice of termination shall be given by one party's attorney to the attorney for the other party.

Surrogate's Decision to Keep Child

22. If at any time prior to conception, during pregnancy, or after delivery, Surrogate decides that she will not relinquish the Child to Father and his wife, she shall immediately notify Father regarding that decision. This Agreement shall terminate, and Surrogate shall reimburse Father for [describe consideration to be returned, e.g., all amounts received from Father pursuant to this Agreement]. Surrogate agrees that it is in the best interest of the Child in such a situation that Surrogate and Father share joint custody, and agrees to execute an agreement to that effect. The parties understand that Father shall be required to provide support to the Child whether or not he receives custody of the Child.

Attorneys' Fees

23. If any legal action, including an action for declaratory relief, is brought to enforce the provisions of this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees from the other party. These fees, which may be set by the court in the same action or in a separate action brought for that purpose, are in addition to any other relief to which the prevailing party may be entitled. This provision applies to the entire Agreement.

Governing Law

24. The validity of this Agreement and of any of its terms or provisions, as well as the rights and duties of the parties under this Agreement, shall be construed pursuant to and in accordance with the laws of the state of California.

Representation by Separate Counsel

25. The parties acknowledge that they have been represented by separate counsel in the negotiations of this agreement, that their respective counsel were of their own choosing, that they have read this Agreement, that their counsel have explained its meaning and legal consequences to them, and that they are signing it freely and voluntarily.

Partial Invalidity

26. If any term of this agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be void or unenforceable, the remainder of the contract terms shall remain in full force and effect and shall not be affected.

Original and Copies

27. On execution of this Agreement, the original shall be retained by the attorney for _____ [specify party, e.g., Father], and copies shall be given to Surrogate and Father.

[Optional:]

Confidentiality

28. Surrogate and Husband acknowledge that it is in the best interests of the Child that the details surrounding his or her birth should remain private, and that disclosure of the surrogate parenting arrangement should be left to the discretion of Father and his wife. Therefore, Surrogate and Husband agree to respect this privacy and refrain from discussing this Agreement and related topics with persons other than the parties and their attorneys, physicians, or other professionals involved in the surrogate arrangement.

DIVISION VII: PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS CHAPTER 100A PERSONAL AFFAIRS OF MINORS PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND A. Medical and Dental Care

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.10

§ 100A.10 Rights and Duties of Parents

Parents have both the authority and the duty to provide for medical care for their minor children [Simoneau v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co. (1911) 159 Cal. 494, 506, 115 P. 320 ; County of Alameda v. Kaiser (1965) 238 Cal. App. 2d 815, 817-818, 48 Cal. Rptr. 343 ; Slaughter v. Zimman (1951) 105 Cal. App. 2d 623, 625, 234 P.2d 94 ; 57 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 28, 29 (1974) ; see Fam. Code § 3900; see also Fam. Code § 6500 (definition of "minor"); Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors]. A parent's authority with respect to his or her minor child includes the right to direct the minor's activities and to make decisions regarding the minor's care, control, education, health, and religion [Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 617, 262 P.2d 6] . The obligation to provide medical and other support for a minor child falls equally on the child's mother and father [Fam. Code § 3900] and may be enforced by civil suit on behalf of the child [Fam. Code §§ 4000-4002].

If a parent fails to provide articles necessary for a child who is under the parent's charge, any person may in good faith supply the necessary articles and recover their reasonable value from the parent [Fam. Code § 3950]. A parent who willfully fails to provide necessary medical attendance or other remedial care for his or her minor child is guilty of a crime [Penal Code § 270]. Although financial inability may excuse a failure to provide necessary medical care [People v. Arnold (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 438, 451, 58 Cal. Rptr. 115, 426 P.2d 515 ; People v. Smith (1918) 38 Cal. App. 175, 177, 175 P. 696] , providing unorthodox treatment (such as home remedies or faith healing) might not discharge the parent's duty [People v. Arnold (1967) 66 Cal. 2d 438, 451-452, 58 Cal. Rptr. 115, 426 P.2d 515] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Medical and Dental Care

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.11

§ 100A.11 Contracts of Parents

Parents ordinarily must contract and pay for medical care for their minor children [see Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 878, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; Doyle v. Giuliani (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 606, 610, 43 Cal. Rptr. 697, 401 P.2d 1], since unemancipated minors, with some exceptions [see § 100A.12[3]], can disaffirm their own contracts to pay for medical services [Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 878, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; Doyle v. Giuliani (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 606, 610, 43 Cal. Rptr. 697, 401 P.2d 1 ; see Fam. Code §§ 6700, 6701, 6710]. The right of minors to disaffirm contracts is conferred by law to protect them against their own improvidence in assuming contractual obligations [Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 878-879, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; see generally Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors]. Since the power of disaffirmance does not apply to contracts between adults, a parent's contract to pay for medical care rendered to his or her minor child is not subject to disaffirmance [see Doyle v. Giuliani (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 606, 609, 43 Cal. Rptr. 697, 401 P.2d 1].

Consent is primarily important in determining whether a health care provider [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(2) (definition of "health care provider"); Civ. Code §§ 3333.1(c)(1), 3333.2(c)(1); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5(1), 667.7(e)(3), 1295(g)(1); see also California Torts, Ch. 31, Liability of Physicians and Other Medical Practitioners (Matthew Bender)] may be held liable for battery or negligence arising out of treatment of a patient (whether the patient is a minor or an adult). The legal concept of consent derives from the general proposition that every person has a fundamental right to give or withhold consent for health care treatment [see Turpin v. Sortini (1982) 31 Cal. 3d 220, 233, 182 Cal. Rptr. 337, 643 P.2d 954; see, e.g., Prob. Code § 4701 (statutory health care directive)]. Since a battery is any harmful or offensive touching of the person, a health care provider who renders medical or surgical treatment to which the patient has not consented may be liable for battery [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 240, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1]. Consent, however, is a complete legal defense to an action for battery [Carr v. Dickey (1958) 163 Cal. App. 2d 416, 423, 329 P.2d 539; see California Torts, Ch. 41, Assault and Battery (Matthew Bender)].

Because minors generally are not legally capable of consenting to medical treatment or hospital care, except as permitted by statute [see Fam. Code § 6920 et seq.], their parents have the right and duty to give or withhold consent for their medical treatment or hospital care [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1; Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345].

[2] Emancipated Minor

Emancipated minors are generally free from the legal disabilities to which other minors are subject. Under the Emancipation of Minors Law [Fam. Code § 7000 et seq.], emancipated minors are considered as being over the age of majority for many purposes, including consenting to medical, dental, or psychiatric care without parental consent, knowledge, or liability and entering into binding contracts [see Fam. Code § 7050(e)(1), (2); see also § 100A.210].

A minor may be emancipated by any of the following [Fam. Code § 7002]:

- Entering into a valid marriage, whether or not the marriage is later terminated by dissolution;
- Assuming active duty with any of the armed forces of the United States; or
- Receiving a judicial declaration of emancipation.

A petition for a judicial declaration of emancipation must specify all of the following [Fam. Code § 7120]:

- The minor is at least 14 years of age.
- The minor is willingly living separate and apart from his or her parents or guardian.
- The minor is managing his or her own financial affairs.
- The minor's income is not derived from any activity declared to be a crime under the laws of California or of the United States.

For a discussion of judicial proceedings for emancipation, together with necessary forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender).

[3] Unemancipated Minor

Although generally lacking the authority to consent to medical care and treatment, an unemancipated minor does have the power to give consent under various circumstances specified by statute [see Fam. Code § 6920 et seq.]. The consent of the parents or guardian of a minor who contracts for medical care or treatment in any of the circumstances specified in the statutes is not necessary to that care or treatment, and a minor who contracts under the specified circumstances may not disaffirm his or her contract because of minority [see Fam. Code §§ 6920, 6921].

An unemancipated minor who is alleged to have been sexually assaulted [see § 100A.211] or needs medical or surgical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy [see § 100A.212] may consent to medical care with regard to his or her condition, regardless of his or her age [Fam. Code §§ 6925, 6928].

At or after age 15, an unemancipated minor who is living separate and apart from his or her parents or guardian and is managing his or her own financial affairs may consent to any type of medical or dental care [Fam. Code § 6922; see § 100A.213].

A minor who is at least 12 years of age may obtain mental health treatment or counseling on an outpatient basis [see § 100A.214] or may consent to residential shelter services [see § 100A.215] if, in the opinion of the attending professional, the minor is mature enough to participate intelligently in the outpatient services or residential shelter services and either has been the victim of incest or child abuse or would present a danger of serious physical or mental harm to himself or herself or others without the treatment or counseling [Fam. Code § 6924(b)]. At or after age 12, a minor may consent to medical care or treatment for a communicable disease [Fam. Code § 6926; see § 100A.216], or the effects of having been raped [Fam. Code § 6927; see § 100A.217], or a drug or alcohol problem [Fam. Code § 6929; see § 100A.218].

Even though some statutes authorizing minors to give consent for their own medical care or treatment do not specify a minimum age below which minors are incapable of consenting, case law establishes that no minor who lacks the maturity to give an informed consent to any treatment or procedure may consent to or contract for that treatment or procedure. Thus, regardless of any applicable statutory age limit, a minor who is unable to convince competent medical authorities that he or she has the requisite understanding and maturity to give an informed consent for any medical treatment must be denied the treatment without the consent of either a parent or a guardian [Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 8 Cal. 3d 873, 883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345] .

§ 100A.14 Minor's Agreement to Pay for Medical Care

In general, if a minor agrees to pay for medical care or treatment, the minor's contract may be disaffirmed (before the minor reaches majority or within a reasonable time thereafter) unless the contract is one the minor may validly make by express statutory authority [see Fam. Code §§ 6710, 6711]. For example, a minor's contract to pay the reasonable value of things necessary for the minor's support is not subject to disaffirmance if made by the minor when not under the care of a parent or guardian able to provide those things for the minor, as long as the things have actually been furnished to the minor [Fam. Code § 6712]. In addition, a minor cannot disaffirm an otherwise valid obligation assumed by the minor under the express authority or direction of a statute [see Fam. Code § 6711; see also Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors].

Statutory law describes particular circumstances in which a minor may consent to the furnishing of medical care and treatment for various purposes [see Fam. Code § 6920 et seq.]. Those provisions state that consent given in the circumstances described is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921]. Courts have stressed that statutes permitting minors to enter into certain types of contracts and to give consent for medical care or treatment in specified circumstances were enacted to permit the minors to obtain those services [see Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 880, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 866, 186 P.2d 417] . They represent the legislative determination that the public interest in encouraging minors to obtain the specified services outweighs the public policy designed to protect minors from their own improvidence [Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 880, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345] .

Although no reported cases have held that the statutory provisions that permit a minor to give consent for certain medical care and treatment [see Fam. Code § 6920 et seq.] also apply to agreements to pay for health care, the Attorney General has expressed that opinion. In a decision interpreting former Civ. Code § 34.5 [now see Fam. Code § 6925], authorizing a minor to give consent for medical and surgical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy [see § 100A.212], the Attorney General opined that a minor who consents to care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy is not relieved of responsibility for payment for the pregnancy-related care [57 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 28, 29 (1974)] .

In California, it is settled that minors are entitled to acquire and hold property, both real and personal [Estate of Tetsubumi Yano (1922) 188 Cal. 645, 649, 206 P. 995 ; see In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 405, 155 Cal. The courts have repeatedly held that the property of a minor belongs to the minor and not to the minor's parents [*Emery v. B. Money and Property

§ 100A.21 Parental Control of Minor's Property

[1] General Lack of Parental Authority over Minor's Property

By statute, a minor's parents, as parents, have no rights in or to the minor's property [see Fam. Code § 7502], except for earnings [see Fam. Code § 7500; § 100A.22]. This rule appears to be absolute [see Barnett & Spradlin, Enslavement in the Twentieth Century: The Right of Parents to Retain Their Children's Earnings, 5 Pepperdine L. Rev. 685 (1978)]. It makes no difference if the child acquires the property while supported by the parent, or even as the beneficiary of property paid for by the parent [see Estate of Tetsubumi Yano (1922) 188 Cal. 645, 650, 206 P. 995 ; see also Barnett & Spradlin, Enslavement in the Twentieth Century: The Right of Parents to Retain Their Children's Earnings, 5 Pepperdine L. Rev. 685 (1978)].

Although the right of minors to own property is well-established in California [see § 100A.20], the right of minors to contract with respect to their property is subject to severe statutory restrictions. For example, a minor may not make any contract relating to real property or relating to any personal property not in the immediate possession or control of the minor [Fam. Code § 6701]. Contracts made contrary to these restrictions are void and require no act of disaffirmance [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 865, 186 P.2d 417 ; Hakes Investment Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 559-561, 137 P. 911] . For this reason, if a minor owns any substantial property, it is usually necessary to entrust control of the property to some person other than the minor. Further, because the parents of a minor, as parents, have no control over the property of the minor [see Fam. Code § 7502], the person entrusted with control of the minor's property may not generally be a parent unless the parent is acting in some other legally recognized capacity, such as trustee [see Ch. 64A, Testamentary Trusts: Trustee Provisions ; Ch. 72, Irrevocable Trusts] or guardian of the minor's estate [see Prob. Code § 2100 et seq.; see also Ch. 66, Guardianships], or custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.; see also Ch. 60A, Gifts].

Although a minor child's property generally may not be used by the parents for the support of the child [see generally Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors], the court may direct an allowance to be made to the parent of a child for whom support may be ordered, out of the children's property, for the child's past or future support if for the child's benefit. Any order directing such an allowance may be made on any conditions the court deems proper [Fam. Code § 3902].

[2] Parents as Trustees of Minor's Small Estate

The total estate of a minor may be paid to a parent of the minor entitled to the minor's custody, to be held in trust for the minor [Prob. Code § 3401(a), (b)], if the parent gives the person making the payment or delivery written assurance, verified by the parent's oath, that the total estate does not exceed $5,000 [Prob. Code § 3401(c)(2)]. The written receipt of the parent [see § 100A.230] acquits the person making the payment or delivery to the parent [Prob. Code § 3402].

For this purpose, the total estate of the minor includes all money and other property belonging to the minor or to the minor's guardianship estate, if any [Prob. Code § 3400(a)]. It does not include custodial property held for the minor pursuant to the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.], nor does it include the proceeds of a compromise of the minor's claim or a judgment in favor of the minor [Prob. Code § 3400(b); see Prob. Code §§ 3602(c), 3610 et seq.].

§ 100A.22 Parental Right to Minor's Earnings

With limited exception, parents who have custody of an unmarried minor are entitled to the minor's earnings [see Fam. Code § 7500]. The earnings and accumulations of a minor child while living with or in the custody of a separated parent are the separate (and not the community) property of that parent [Fam. Code § 771]. However, a minor's wages must be paid directly to the minor until the parent or guardian entitled to the wages gives the employer notice that he or she claims the wages [Fam. Code § 7503]. In addition, a minor's earnings from an artistic, entertainment, or sports contract are subject to special rules. Fifteen percent of the minor's gross earnings under such a contract, whether or not it has been approved by a court, must be set aside by the employer in trust for the benefit of the minor (a "Coogan Trust Account") [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)-(i), 6753; see Fam. Code § 6750(c) (minor's "gross earnings" defined); see generally Ch. 100B, Contracts and Employment of Minors].

When parents have the right to a child's earnings, they may use the earnings as they see fit [Macchi v. La Rocca (1921) 54 Cal. App. 98, 100-101, 201 P. 143] , and they have no duty to return them to the minor when he or she reaches the age of majority [Smith v. Smith (1918) 38 Cal. App. 388, 397, 176 P. 382] . However, a parent may waive or relinquish the right to receive the earnings of a minor child [see Fam. Code § 7504; see also Osterberg v. Osterberg (1945) 68 Cal. App. 2d 254, 260, 156 P.2d 46 (waiver); Taylor v. Hill (1896) 115 Cal. 143, 151, 44 P. 336 (relinquishment)].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.30

§ 100A.30 Minors' Tort Claims

[1] Right to Recover for Injury

Minors generally have the same right as adults to recover for injuries caused by the torts of others. However, in any action to recover damages for injuries, a minor must be represented by a guardian, unless the minor is emancipated [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Fam. Code § 6601; see Fam. Code § 7000 et seq. (Emancipation of Minors Law)]. If a minor does not already have a guardian, the minor must appear by a guardian ad litem [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 373, 373.5 (appointment of guardian ad litem generally; appointment for unborn or unascertained person)]. Even if a minor claimant has a guardian of his or her estate, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to represent the minor in judicial proceedings when the court deems the appointment to be expedient [Code Civ. Proc. § 372].

A minor at least 12 years of age may appear without a guardian, counsel, or guardian ad litem for the purpose of requesting or opposing a request for a protective or restraining order against harassment, workplace violence, or domestic violence [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(b)(1)]. A minor under age 12 may seek or oppose such orders without the assistance of counsel, but the minor must appear by a guardian ad litem [Code Civ. Proc. § 374; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1153]. For further discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence (Matthew Bender).

[2] Prenatal Injury

A child conceived but not yet born is considered an existing person for purposes of recovery for injuries suffered before birth [Civ. Code § 43.1; Scott v. McPheeters (133 Cal. App. 2d 629, 631, 939) P.2d 678, 93 P.2d 562]. However, recovery is permitted only if the child is actually born [see Code Civ. Proc. § 340.4] and only if the unborn child suffered some actual injury. A child may not recover for a doctor's failure to perform an abortion on the child's mother, since birth itself is not a compensable injury [Stills v. Gratton (1976) 55 Cal. App. 3d 698, 705-706, 127 Cal. Rptr. 652].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Tort Claims

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.31

§ 100A.31 Settlement of Minors' Tort Claims

[1] Capacity of Minors to Settle Claims

Settlements of tort claims (and releases and covenants not to sue executed as part of settlements) are contracts [see Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 705, 711, 160 P.2d 783 ; Setzer v. Moore (1927) 202 Cal. 333, 338, 260 P. 550] . Since minors generally lack the capacity to contract for themselves or with respect to their own property [see Fam. Code § 6701], they generally lack the capacity to settle tort claims, whether those claims are in their favor or against them.

An emancipated minor is considered to be an adult for the purpose of entering into binding contracts [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(2)] and compromising, settling, arbitrating, or otherwise adjusting a claim, action, or proceeding by or against the minor [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(5); see § 100A.241].

[2] Power to Settle Claims

[a] Parents and Guardians

Guardians ad litem and guardians of the estates of minors have power to settle tort claims in favor of their wards, provided certain requirements are met [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 (compromise by guardian ad litem or guardian of estate); Prob. Code § 2500 (power of guardians to settle claims in favor of or against wards)].

Generally parents have no power release a minor's claims in the absence of specific statutory authority [Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 613, 262 P.2d 6] . Parents who are guardians of the estates of their minor children, and parents who have been appointed as guardians ad litem for the purpose of representing their children in judicial proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 373, 373.5], may settle tort claims of their children [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 2500]. Further, parents who have custody of their children have statutory authority to settle tort claims in favor of their minor children when the settlements are approved by the court [Prob. Code § 3500(b); see [3], below]. If the parents are living together, either parent may exercise this right to settle; if the parents are living separate and apart, the parent who has the care, custody, or control of the minor may exercise the right [Prob. Code § 3500(a)].

A judgment rendered against a minor who is not represented by a general guardian or a guardian ad litem is subject to disaffirmance by the minor [Gouanillou v. Industrial Acc. Com. (1920) 184 Cal. 418, 420, 193 P. 937 ; Keane v. Penha (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 693, 696, 173 P.2d 835] . However, the right to disaffirm will be lost if the minor fails to inform the trial court that he or she is not an adult or if, after attaining majority, the minor continues to participate in the proceedings without objecting to the earlier proceedings [Childs v. Lanterman (1894) 103 Cal. 387, 391-392, 37 P. 842 ; Hughes v. Quackenbush (1934) 1 Cal. App. 2d 349, 363, 37 P.2d 991] .

[b] Claims of Unborn Persons

A tort claim in favor of an unborn person may be compromised by a guardian ad litem appointed to act on behalf of the unborn person, subject to court approval. A judgment, order, or decree rendered pursuant to such a compromise is conclusive on the unborn person. The guardian ad litem of an unborn person has the same power to release or discharge a claim on behalf of the unborn person as a guardian or parent of a living minor; and the court has the same power to order the proceeds of any settlement on behalf of an unborn person to be held and invested for the unborn person [Code Civ. Proc. § 373.5; see Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code §§ 3500, 3602, 3610, 3611].

[3] Requirement of Court Approval

Settlements by parents, acting as parents and not in some other legal capacity, require court approval [see Prob. Code § 3500(b)]. Settlements by guardians also require court approval, except in limited circumstances. Court approval is required when a tort claim of a minor is settled by a guardian ad litem or by a guardian of the minor's estate who has appeared for the minor in judicial proceedings to which the minor is a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 372]. If a settlement is made by a guardian of the minor's estate who has not appeared for the minor in a judicial proceeding, the general rule is that court approval is not required if the settlement is to the advantage of the estate [Prob. Code § 2501(a)(1)]. However, court approval is required in the following cases:

- When the settlement involves title to, an interest in, a lien or encumbrance on, or an option to purchase, real property or an interest in real property [Prob. Code § 2501(a); see Prob. Code § 2501(b), (c) (special rules regarding certain leases)].
- When the settlement requires the transfer or encumbrance of property of the minor's estate or the creation of an unsecured liability of the estate, or both, in an amount or value in excess of $25,000 [Prob. Code § 2502].
- When the claim is in favor of the minor and against the guardian or against the attorney for the guardian (whether or not the claim arises out of the administration of the minor's estate) [Prob. Code § 2503(a)].
- When the claim is for the support, maintenance, or education of the minor or a person whom the minor is legally obligated to support, maintain, or educate [Prob. Code § 2504(a)].
- When the minor's claim is for wrongful death [Prob. Code § 2504(b)].
- When the claim is for physical or nonphysical harm to the minor's person [Prob. Code § 2504(c)].

Whether or not court approval is required, guardians, at their option, may seek court approval of any settlement in favor of a minor [Prob. Code § 2500(b); see Prob. Code § 2503; see also Prob. Code § 2403]. When a settlement is approved by the court, any proceeds must be held and invested pursuant to court order [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 3500(c); see Prob. Code §§ 3500(d), 3610, 3611; see also [5], below].

[4] Execution of Releases

A guardian or parent who has the power to compromise a minor's claim also has the power to execute a full release and satisfaction of the claim or, if appropriate, a covenant not to sue or not to enforce judgment on the claim [Prob. Code § 3500(d)].

A person who releases a claim abandons or relinquishes the claim and any right to demand that it be paid or enforced [Civ. Code § 1541; Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 705, 711, 160 P.2d 783]. Under the former rule that the release of one joint tortfeasor had the effect of releasing all [see Kincheloe v. Retail Credit Co., Inc. (1935) 4 Cal. 2d 21, 23, 46 P.2d 971], covenants not to sue were at one time used instead of releases when tort claimants settled with fewer than all of the tortfeasors claimed to be liable for the same tort. Under Code Civil Proc. § 877, however, a release given in good faith to one or more of a number of tortfeasors claimed to be liable for the same tort does not discharge any other tortfeasor from liability unless the terms of the release so provide (although it does reduce the claims against the others in the amount stipulated by the release, or in the amount of the consideration paid for it, whichever is greater).

If the court orders that all or any part of the proceeds of the compromise be deposited in a financial institution [see [5], below], a parent's release and satisfaction is not effective for any purpose until the money has been deposited as ordered [Prob. Code § 3500(d)].

[5] Disposition of Proceeds

When settlement of a minor's claim is approved by a court, the court that approves the settlement has authority to make orders respecting disposition of the money or property payable to the minor [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code §§ 3500(c), 3600; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 367A, Minors: Tort Actions (Matthew Bender)].

If there is a guardian of the minor's estate, the balance due to the minor after payment of all expenses, costs, and fees approved by the court [see Prob. Code § 3601] ordinarily must be paid or delivered to the guardian [Prob. Code § 3602(b)]. However, on application of the guardian, the court may order all or part of the money to be deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution, or deposited with a trust company, as a part of the guardianship estate, but subject to withdrawal only on court authorization [Prob. Code §§ 2456(a), 3602(b)]. On the ex parte motion of the guardian or any person interested in the guardianship estate, the court may instead order that the remaining balance not become part of the guardianship estate but be either [Prob. Code § 3602(c)]:

- Deposited in an insured account in a California financial institution or in a single-premium deferred annuity;
- Transferred to a custodian for the benefit of the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.]; or
- Transferred to the trustee of a trust that is created or approved in the order or judgment and is revocable by the minor at the age of 18 years.

As still another alternative, the guardian or any person interested in the guardianship estate may petition the court for an order that all or part of the remaining balance not become a part of the guardianship estate but instead be paid to a special needs trust for the benefit of the minor [Prob. Code § 3602(d), (f); see Prob. Code § 3604 et seq. (requirements for special needs trust)].

If there is no guardian of the estate of the minor, the court must, on application of the minor's attorney, order one or more of the following [Prob. Code §§ 3602(a), 3610]:

- A guardian of the estate must be appointed, and the remaining balance of the money or property must be paid to that person [Prob. Code § 3611(a)].
- The remaining balance of any property other than money must be held on any conditions that the court determines to be in the best interest of the minor, and the remaining balance of any money must be deposited with the county treasurer (subject to statutory restrictions) or in an insured account in a financial institution in California or in a single premium deferred annuity, subject to withdrawal only on the authorization of the court [Prob. Code § 3611(b),(h)].
- After a hearing by the court, the remaining balance of any money must be paid to a special needs trust for the benefit of the minor [Prob. Code § 3611(c); see Prob. Code §§ 3604, 3605 (requirements for special-needs trust)].
- If the remaining balance of the money does not exceed $20,000, all or part of that balance will be held as the court determines to be in the best interest of the minor [Prob. Code § 3611(d)].
- If the remaining balance of the money and other property does not exceed $5,000 in value, all or part will be paid or delivered to the parent of the minor, without bond, to be held for the benefit of the minor according to statutory requirements [Prob. Code § 3611(e); see Prob. Code § 3400 et seq.].
- The remaining money or property to be delivered for the benefit of the minor will be transferred to a custodian and held pursuant to the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [Prob. Code § 3611(f); see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.].
- The remaining balance of the money or other property must be paid or delivered to the trustee of a trust that is created or approved in the order or judgment [see Prob. Code § 3600] and is revocable by the minor on becoming 18 [Prob. Code § 3611(g)].

CHAPTER 100A PERSONAL AFFAIRS OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Tort Claims

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.32

§ 100A.32 Claims Based on Minors' Torts

[1] Claims Against Minors

Minors are liable for their tortious conduct [Fam. Code § 6600; see Civ. Code § 1714(a) (everyone responsible for own willful acts and negligence)]. This is so even when they lack the mental capacity to recognize the wrongfulness of their conduct, provided they are mature enough to have the state of mind necessary for commission of the particular tort with which they are charged [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 315, 253 P.2d 675] . Thus, a minor who inflicts injury on another will be liable even if he or she did not intend to inflict the injury, provided he or she intended to do the act that resulted in the injury [see Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 641, 301 P.2d 440 (minor throwing rock was liable for battery); Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] . However, a minor cannot be held liable for punitive or exemplary damages [see Civ. Code § 3294] unless, at the time of the wrongful act, the minor was capable of knowing that the act was wrongful [Fam. Code § 6600].

Whether a minor will be liable for negligence depends on whether the minor exercised the degree of care ordinarily exercised by persons of like age, mental capacity, and experience [Christian v. Goodwin (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 650, 652, 10 Cal. Rptr. 507 ; Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 315, 253 P.2d 675] . When, however, a minor engages in an activity that is ordinarily undertaken by adults and for which adult qualifications are required (for example, driving an automobile), the minor will be required to meet the standard of care established for adults [Pritchard v. Veterans Cab Co. (1965) 63 Cal. 2d 727, 732, 48 Cal. Rptr. 904, 408 P.2d 360] . Similarly, minority will not insulate a person from the Vehicle Code provisions imputing liability to the owner of an automobile [see Veh. Code §§ 17150-17153]. If a minor permits another to drive an automobile that the minor owns, the minor may be liable for the negligence of the driver [see Ridley v. Young (1944) 64 Cal. App. 2d 503, 513-514, 149 P.2d 76] . Whether a particular act of a minor constitutes negligence is usually a question of fact to be determined by the trier of fact [Singer v. Marx (1956) 144 Cal. App. 2d 637, 642-643, 301 P.2d 440] .

[2] Claims Against Parents of Minors

Since the purpose of holding minors liable for their torts is to compensate the injured parties and not to punish the minors [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 314-315, 253 P.2d 675] , recovery for a minor's torts is usually limited to the minor's own assets and does not extend to the assets of the parents. The general rule is that parents are not liable for injuries caused by their children unless the parents' own negligence contributed to the injuries. If, however, a parent's failure to exercise reasonable control over a child that the parent had a right and duty to control results in injuries to a third party, the parent will be liable for the injuries [Poncher v. Brackett (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 769, 771-772, 55 Cal. Rptr. 59] . In such a case, the parent's liability is founded on the right and duty to control the child [Poncher v. Brackett (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 769, 772, 55 Cal. Rptr. 59] . If a parent's negligence made it possible for a child to injure another, the parent will be liable for the injury if the parent had the duty to control the child and it was probable that an injury would result from failure to control the child [Buelke v. Levenstadt (1923) 190 Cal. 684, 689, 214 P. 42 ; Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] .

Parents may also be liable for the torts of their children under an agency theory. If a child commits a tort while acting as an agent of the parent and within the authority of the agency, the parent may be liable [see Van Den Eikhof v. Hocker (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 900, 904-905, 151 Cal. Rptr. 456 ; Johnson v. Peterson (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 619, 622-624, 113 Cal. Rptr. 445] .

Under circumstances specified by statute, parents may be liable for their children's torts even when the parents have not been negligent and there was no agency relationship between the child and the parent. Statutes impose liability on parents, regardless of the parents' personal lack of culpability, for the following [see § 100A.251[1][c]]:

- Willful misconduct of the minor child if it results in an injury to the person or property of another [Civ. Code § 1714.1; see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. B (liability limit, as adjusted by Judicial Council to reflect cost-of-living increases)].
- Injury to person or property caused by the discharge of a firearm, if the parent permitted the minor to have the firearm or left the firearm in a place accessible to the minor [Civ. Code § 1714.3].
- Petty theft involving merchandise taken from a store or a book or other library materials taken from a library [Penal Code § 490.5(b)].
- Willful misconduct that results in injury to or death of a pupil or any person employed by a school district or private school, or for willful defacement of school property [Educ. Code § 48904(a)].
- Malicious damage to or detention of library or exhibit materials [Educ. Code § 19910].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.110

§ 100A.110 Medical and Dental Care for Minors

1. Determine whether minor is legally capable of consenting to medical, dental, hospital, or surgical care by virtue of meeting any of following statutory criteria:

- a. Minor has been lawfully married [see Fam. Code § 7002(a)].
- b. Minor is on active duty with armed forces [see Fam. Code §§ 6950, 7002(b)].
- c. Minor is at least 14 years of age and received judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7002(c); see also Fam. Code § 7120].
- d. Minor is at least 15 years of age, living apart from parents or guardian, and managing own financial affairs [see Fam. Code § 6922].

NOTE:

While the consent of parents or a guardian is not necessary in such a case, a treating physician, surgeon, or dentist may (with or without the minor's consent) advise the parents or guardian of the treatment given or needed if, on the basis of information given by the minor, the physician, surgeon, or dentist has reason to know their whereabouts [Fam. Code § 6922(c); see § 100A.213[1]].

e. Minor is at least 12 years of age and, in opinion of attending professional, in need of outpatient mental health treatment or counseling because both:

- (1) Minor is mature enough to participate intelligently in the outpatient services.
- (2) Minor is alleged victim of incest or child abuse or would present danger of serious physical or mental harm to self or others without treatment or counseling [Fam. Code § 6924(b); see § 100A.214[1]].

f. Minor is at least 12 years of age and in need of diagnosis or treatment for infectious, contagious, or communicable disease that either [see Fam. Code § 6926; see also § 100A.216[1]]:

(1) Is required by law or regulation to be reported to the local health officer.

(2) Is related sexually transmitted disease, as determined by State Director of Health Services.

g. Minor is victim of rape or sexual assault [see Fam. Code §§ 6927, 6928].

NOTE:

The statute that permits a minor to give consent for treatment for an alleged rape applies only to minors age 12 and older [see Fam. Code § 6927]. A separate statute, which permits minors who have been sexually assaulted to give consent for treatment, has no specific minimum age for the minor and requires the treating medical professional to contact the minor's parents or guardian (unless the professional reasonably believes that the parent or guardian committed the assault) [see Fam. Code § 6928].

h. Minor is at least 12 years of age and in need of diagnosis of, or treatment for, drug or alcohol problem [see Fam. Code § 6929(b); see also § 100A.218[1]].

i. Minor is in need of hospital, medical, or surgical care related to prevention or treatment of pregnancy [see Fam. Code § 6925; Health & Safety Code § 123450; but see American Academy of Pediatrics v. Lungren (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 307, 314, 356-357, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 940 P.2d 797 (parental consent and judicial bypass procedure for minors' abortions was unconstitutional); see also § 100A.212[1][b]].

2. Determine whether minor is mature enough to make decisions about his or her own medical care.

NOTE:

A minor must be sufficiently mature to give an informed consent for any treatment or procedure, even when a statute authorizes the minor to give consent for the treatment. A minor who cannot convince competent medical authorities that he or she has the requisite understanding and maturity to give an informed consent may be denied the treatment without the consent of either a parent or guardian [see Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345].

3. Determine whether person other than minor must consent to and contract for minor's medical, dental, hospital, or surgical care, such as:

a. Either parent.

NOTE:

Unless the minor comes within a special statute entitling the minor to give consent for his or her own medical care or treatment, the right (and duty) to make health care decisions for the minor ordinarily is vested in the parents [see § 100A.10]. Ordinarily, if either parent is unable or unwilling to take custody, the other is entitled to make health care decisions for the minor [see Fam. Code § 3010(b)]. Adoptive parents have the same right to give consent for medical care for their adopted children that natural parents have for their natural children [see Fam. Code § 8616 (status of adopted child)].

b. Custodial parent.

NOTE:

When custody has been awarded to one parent on dissolution of marriage, that parent has the right to make health care decisions for the minor [Lerner v. Superior Court (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 676, 681, 242 P.2d 321] .

c. Guardian.

NOTE:

The guardian of a minor generally has the same rights as a parent to make health care decisions for the minor [Prob. Code §§ 2252(b)(1), 2353(a)]. However, no surgery (except emergency surgery) may be performed on a minor ward 14 years of age or older without either (1) the consent of both the guardian and the ward, or (2) a court order specifically authorizing the surgery [Prob. Code § 2353(b)].

d. Other person authorized by parent or guardian to consent [see Fam. Code § 6910; see also § 100A.202].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.111

§ 100A.111 Money and Property of Minors

1. Determine whether minor is emancipated, and therefore legally capable of holding and dealing with property, as result of either:

NOTE:

An unemancipated minor may not make any contract relating to real property, or any contract relating to personal property unless the personal property is in the minor's immediate possession or control [Fam. Code § 6701]. Such a contract is void and requires no act of disaffirmance [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 865, 186 P.2d 417 ; Hakes Investment Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 559-561, 136 P. 911] . For this reason, it is usually necessary to entrust control of a minor's property to some person other than the minor.

- a. Having been lawfully married [see Fam. Code § 7002(a)].
- b. Being on active duty with armed forces [see Fam. Code §§ 6950, 7002(b)].
- c. Being at least 14 years of age and receiving judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7002(c); see also Fam. Code § 7120].

2. Determine whether parent or other adult should hold minor's property, considering following:

- a. Nonparent adult is legally capable of holding property for minor as any of following:
(1) Trustee [see Prob. Code § 15000 et seq.; see also Ch. 64A, Testamentary Trusts: Trustee Provisions ; Ch. 72, Irrevocable Trusts].

(2) Guardian of minor's estate [see Prob. Code § 2401(a); see also Ch. 66, Guardianships].

(3) Custodian under California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.; see also Ch. 60A, Gifts].

NOTE:

The California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.] provides a nonexclusive method for giving property to minors without the creation of a guardianship or trust [see Prob. Code § 3925]. Any type of property may be transferred to and held by a custodian under the Act.

b. Parent is legally capable of holding property for minor as any of following:

NOTE:

A minor's parents, acting as parents and not in some other legal capacity, have no control over the minor's property [Fam. Code § 7502; see § 100A.21[1]]. (For this purpose, however, the minor's earnings must be excluded from the definition of the minor's property [Fam. Code § 7500].) A parent who acts in some other capacity, such as trustee, guardian, or custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act, may, however, hold and manage the minor's property.

(1) Trustee.

(2) Guardian of minor's estate.

(3) Custodian under California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.].

(4) Parent-trustee, if total value of minor's estate is $5,000 or less [Prob. Code § 3401; see §§ 100A.21[2], 100A.230[1]].

NOTE:

Property held for the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act and the proceeds of a compromise of or judgment on a minor's claim [see Prob. Code § 3610 et seq.; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 364, Minors: Claims and Property of Minors (Matthew Bender)] may be excluded for purposes of the $5,000 limit on the value of the minor's estate [Prob. Code § 3400].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.112

§ 100A.112 Tort Claims

1. Determine whether minor is emancipated, and therefore legally capable of settling tort claim, as result of any of following:

NOTE:

Minors generally lack the capacity to settle tort claims, whether those claims are in their favor or against them, because minors generally lack the capacity to contract for themselves or with respect to their own property [see Fam. Code §§ 6701, 6710; see also § 100A.31[1]]. Also, in any civil action or other proceeding in which a minor seeks to enforce his or her rights, a guardian must conduct the action or proceeding [Fam. Code § 6601].

- a. Having been lawfully married [see Fam. Code § 7002(a)].
- b. Being on active duty with armed forces [see Fam. Code §§ 6950, 7002(b)].
- c. Being at least 14 years of age and receiving judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7002(c); see also Fam. Code § 7120].

2. Determine whether parent or other adult is legally capable of settling tort claim, either as:

- a. Guardian or guardian ad litem.

NOTE:

A tort claim against a minor may be compromised and settled by a guardian of the minor's estate or by a guardian ad litem appointed to represent the minor in litigation [

Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 2500(a)(1)].

b. Custodial parent.

NOTE:

Parents who have custody of their minor children have statutory authority to settle tort claims in favor of the children, provided the settlements are approved by the court. If the parents are living together, either may settle [Prob. Code § 3500(a)(1)]. If the parents are living separate and apart, the parent having care, custody, or control of the minor has the right to settle [Prob. Code § 3500(a)(2)].

3. Determine whether settlement of minor's claim will require court approval because either:

a. Settlement is being made by guardian ad litem or by guardian of estate who has appeared for minor in a judicial proceeding [Code Civ. Proc. § 372].

b. Settlement is being made by guardian who has not appeared for minor, but either [see Prob. Code § 2500(a)]:

(1) Settlement involves title to, interest in, lien or encumbrance on, or option to purchase, real property or a real property interest [Prob. Code § 2501].

(2) Settlement requires transfer or encumbrance of property of minor's estate in amount or value in excess of $25,000 [Prob. Code § 2502].

(3) Claim is in favor of minor and against guardian or attorney for guardian, whether or not claim arises out of administration of minor's estate [Prob. Code § 2503].

(4) Claim is for support, maintenance, or education of minor or person whom minor is legally obligated to support, maintain, or educate [Prob. Code § 2504(a)].

(5) Claim is minor's claim for wrongful death [Prob. Code § 2504(b)].

(6) Claim is for physical or nonphysical harm to minor's person [Prob. Code § 2504(c)].

c. Claim is being settled by parent having custody of minor [Prob. Code § 3500].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.200

§ 100A.200 Consent by Parent or Guardian to Medical, Dental, or Hospital Care for Minor

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used by a health care provider [see Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c)(2) (definition of health care provider); Civ. Code §§ 3333.1(c)(1), 3333.2(c)(1); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5(1), 667.7(e)(3), 1295(g)(1)] to obtain the consent of the parent or guardian of an unemancipated minor to medical, surgical, or hospital care or treatment for the minor. The form optionally provides that the parent is to be responsible for payment of charges for the care or treatment. For consents by minors to their medical, surgical, or hospital care or treatment, see § 100A.210 et seq.

[b] Payment for Medical Care; Parent as Contracting Party

Minors are not generally capable of contracting to pay for medical care or treatment [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1], and the contracts of minors are generally subject to disaffirmance [Fam. Code § 6710; see Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 878, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 ; see also § 100A.14]. A minor's parents have the authority (and, when medical care is necessary, the duty) to contract and pay for the minor's medical care [Rainer v. Community Memorial Hosp. (1971) 18 Cal. App. 3d 240, 251 n.14, 95 Cal. Rptr. 901 ; see § 100A.10].

The right to make decisions about a minor's medical care is one of the rights embraced within the general concept of custody of the minor [Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 617, 262 P.2d 6]. Normally custodial rights are exercised by both parents [Fam. Code §§ 3010(a), 3900; see Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 617, 262 P.2d 6]. When custody has been awarded to one parent on dissolution of marriage, that parent has the right to make basic decisions regarding the child's care and control, including health care decisions [Lerner v. Superior Court (1952) 38 Cal. 2d 676, 681, 242 P.2d 321]. If either parent is unable or unwilling to take custody, or has abandoned the child, the other is entitled to exercise those rights [see Fam. Code § 3010(b)].

If the minor has been adopted, the adoptive parents have the same right and duty to make health care decisions for the minor as would the natural parents [see Fam. Code § 8616 (status of adopted child)]. Although stepparents as such do not have any custodial rights in their minor stepchildren, stepparents who have received children into their family and thereafter treat the children as members of their family stand in loco parentis and have the rights and are subject to the duties of natural parents [Trudell v. Leatherby (1931) 212 Cal. 678, 681-682, 300 P. 7, overruled on other grounds, Gibson v. Gibson (1971) 3 Cal. 3d 914, 923, 92 Cal. Rptr. 288, 479 P.2d 648] .

[c] Guardian as Contracting Party

The guardian of the person of a minor generally has the same rights as a parent to make health care decisions for the minor [Prob. Code §§ 2252(b)(1), 2353(a)]. However, no surgery (except emergency surgery) may be performed on a minor ward 14 years of age or older without (1) the consent of both the guardian and the ward, or (2) a court order specifically authorizing the surgery [Prob. Code § 2353(b); see Prob. Code § 2357 (procedure for obtaining court order)]. The guardian has the power to give consent for surgery for the ward in any case in which the guardian determines in good faith, based on medical advice, that the case is an emergency in which the ward faces loss of life or serious bodily injury if the surgery is not performed [Prob. Code § 2353(c)]. In such an emergency, the consent of the guardian alone is sufficient [Prob. Code § 2353(c)]. For petitions for court orders authorizing medical treatment of minors subject to guardianship, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 285, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Care of Ward or Conservatee (Matthew Bender).

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used by the parent or guardian of a minor to authorize an adult who is neither a parent nor a guardian to give consent for medical, dental, or hospital care or treatment for the minor. This form also may be used by a qualifying caregiver of the minor to authorize another adult to give consent for the minor's medical or dental care or treatment. The caregiver must be a relative of the minor and must be permitted by Fam. Code § 6550 to authorize medical and dental care for the minor [Fam. Code § 6910]. The form optionally provides that the authorized person (1) agrees to pay for the care or treatment [see § 100A.200[1][b]] and (2) will receive physical custody of the minor following completion of the care or treatment [see [c], below].

For a special form for a caregiver's authorization for medical care, see § 100A.203 [see Fam. Code § 6552].

The authorization must be in writing [Fam. Code § 6910].

[c] Custody of Minor Following Treatment

A health facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1250] may not surrender the physical custody of a minor under 16 years of age to any person unless the surrender is authorized in writing by the minor's parent, the person having legal custody of the minor, or the caregiver who is a relative of the minor and who may authorize medical and dental care under Fam.

DIVISION VII: PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS
 CHAPTER 100A PERSONAL AFFAIRS OF MINORS
 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Medical and Dental Care
 1. Parental Consent or Authorization

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.203

§ 100A.203 Authorization by Caregiver for School Enrollment and Medical Care

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a caregiver's authorization affidavit, which must be in substantially the form prescribed by statute [Fam. Code § 6552]. If this form is validly executed by the caregiver as required by statute, it authorizes a caregiver who is 18 years of age or older to enroll a child in school and give consent for school-related medical care [see Fam. Code § 6550(h)(3) (definition)] for the minor [see Fam. Code § 6550(a)]. If the caregiver is a qualified relative [see Fam. Code § 6550(h)(2)], proper execution gives the caregiver the same rights to authorize medical care, including mental health treatment, and dental care for the minor that are given to a legally appointed guardian of the person of a minor [Fam. Code § 6550(a); see Prob. Code § 2353 (guardian's right to authorize medical treatment for ward); see also Prob. Code § 2356 (limitations on mental health treatment for ward)].

A caregiver's authorization affidavit is invalid unless it substantially contains, in not less than 10-point boldface type or a reasonable equivalent and enclosed in a box with 3-point rule lines, a warning to the effect that if any of the statements in the affidavit are incorrect, the affiant will be committing a crime punishable by a fine, imprisonment, or both [Fam. Code § 6550(g); see Fam. Code § 6552].

[b] Caregiver Not Defined

"Caregiver" is not expressly defined in the statutes [see Fam. Code § 6550(h) Fam. Code § 6550(i)(definitions)]. However, it is clear from the statutes and from the statutory text of the affidavit that the minor must live with the caregiver [see Fam. Code §§ 6550(f), 6552 (introductory statement that "minor named below lives in my home")]. If the minor stops living with the caregiver, the caregiver must notify any school, health care provider, or health care service plan that has been given the affidavit [Fam. Code § 6550(f)]. The affidavit becomes invalid when the school, health care provider, or health care service plan receives notice that the minor is no longer living with the caregiver [Fam. Code § 6550(f)].

[c] Parental Consent Not Required

No parental signature is required [see Fam. Code §§ 6550, 6552]. However, the text of the affidavit requires the caregiver to state either or both of the following: (1) that he or she has advised the parent or parents or other person having legal custody of the minor of the caregiver's intent to authorize medical care, and has received no objection; or (2) that he or she is unable to contact the parent or parents or other person having legal custody of the minor to give notice of the intended authorization. Both statements may be necessary if notice has been given to one parent and the other cannot be contacted [see Fam. Code § 6552]. The decision of a caregiver to give or withhold consent for medical or dental care for a minor is superseded by any contravening decision of the parent or other person having legal custody of the minor, provided the decision of that parent or person does not jeopardize the life, health, or safety of the minor [Fam. Code § 6550(b)].

[d] Third-Party Liability

No person [see Fam. Code § 6550(h)(1)] who acts in good faith reliance on a caregiver's authorization affidavit to provide medical or dental care, without actual knowledge of facts contrary to those stated on the affidavit, is subject to criminal liability or to civil liability to any person, or is subject to professional disciplinary action, for the reliance if the applicable portions of the affidavit are completed. This immunity applies even if medical or dental care is provided to a minor against the wishes of the parent or other person having legal custody of the minor, as long as the person providing the medical or dental care has no actual knowledge of the wishes of that parent or person [Fam. Code § 6550(c)]. A person who relies on the affidavit has no obligation to make any further inquiry or investigation [Fam. Code § 6550(d)]. However, these provisions do not relieve an individual from liability for violations of other provisions of law [Fam. Code § 6550(e)].

2. A person who relies on this affidavit has no obligation to make any further inquiry or investigation.

Additional Information:

1. "Qualified relative," for purposes of item 5, means a spouse, parent, stepparent, brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, half brother, half sister, uncle, aunt, niece, nephew, first cousin, or any person denoted by the prefix "grand" or "great," or the spouse of any of the persons specified in this definition, even after the marriage has been terminated by death or dissolution.

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.210

§ 100A.210 Consent by Emancipated Minor to Medical, Dental, or Psychiatric Care

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a health care provider to obtain the consent of an emancipated minor for medical, dental, or psychiatric care or treatment [see § 100A.12[2]]. The form also provides that the minor agrees to pay for the care or treatment [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by the parent or guardian of a minor to medical, dental, or hospital care for the minor, see § 100A.200.

Emancipated minors are treated as adults for most legal purposes, including the right to give or withhold consent for medical, dental, or psychiatric care [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(1)] and to make binding contracts [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(2)]. The parents of an emancipated minor are not liable for the minor's medical care and are not obligated to support the minor [see Fam. Code § 7050(a)].

Under the Emancipation of Minors Law [Fam. Code § 7000 et seq.], a person under age 18 who comes within any of the following descriptions is an emancipated minor [Fam. Code § 7002]:

- The person has entered into a valid marriage, whether or not the marriage has been dissolved;
- The person is on active duty with any of the armed forces of the United States; or
- The person has received a judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7122; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender)].

The Emancipation of Minors Law recognizes that minors may attain emancipation under facts other than those specified [see Fam. Code § 7001 (no effect on status of minors emancipated under prior case law)]. Thus, a minor also may become emancipated by virtue of the parents' relinquishment of control [see Jolicoeur v. Mihaly (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 565, 580, 96 Cal. Rptr. 697, 488 P.2d 1 ; see also Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.211

§ 100A.211 Consent by Minor for Medical Care for Sexual Assault

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a health care provider to obtain the consent of a minor who is alleged to have been sexually assaulted, for hospital, medical, or surgical care related to the diagnosis or treatment of the minor's condition. The form optionally provides that the minor is to be responsible for payment of charges for the care [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210. For a form of consent by a parent or guardian for medical, dental, or hospital care for a minor, see § 100A.200.

A minor who is alleged to have been sexually assaulted may give consent for hospital, medical, and surgical care related to the diagnosis and treatment of his or her condition and for the collection of medical evidence with regard to the alleged sexual assault [Fam. Code § 6928(b)]. For this purpose, sexual assault includes (but is not limited to) conduct coming within the provisions of Penal Code §§ 261, 286, and 288a (rape, sodomy, and oral copulation) [Fam. Code § 6928(a)]. However, the minor must be of sufficient maturity to give an informed consent for any treatment or procedure [see Ballard v. Anderson (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 873, 883, 95 Cal. Rptr. 1, 484 P.2d 1345 (construing former Civ. Code § 34.9, predecessor to Fam. Code § 6928)].

The person rendering medical treatment to the minor pursuant to the consent given in this form must attempt to contact the minor's parent or guardian and note in the minor's treatment record the date and time he or she attempted to contact the parent or guardian and whether the attempt was successful or unsuccessful. However, the treating professional is relieved of this duty if he or she reasonably believes that the parent or guardian committed the sexual assault on the minor [Fam. Code § 6928(c)].

For a form for consent by a minor aged 12 years or older who may have come into contact with an infectious disease, see § 100A.216. For a form of consent by a minor aged 12 years or older who is alleged to have been raped, see § 100A.217.

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.212

§ 100A.212 Consent by Minor and Parent or Guardian to Medical Care Related to Prevention or Treatment of Pregnancy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an unemancipated minor's consent to medical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy. The form optionally provides that the minor is to be responsible for payment of charges for the care [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210.

By statute, a minor generally may consent to medical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy [Fam. Code § 6925], and that consent is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [see Fam. Code §§ 6920, 6921]. For example, such treatment might involve furnishing birth control devices or prenatal care to a pregnant minor. However, an unemancipated minor may not be sterilized without a parent's or guardian's consent [Fam. Code § 6925(b)(1); see [b], below]. For a form for consent by a parent or guardian for medical, dental, or hospital care for a minor, see § 100A.200.

[b] Minor's Consent for Abortion or Sterilization

Statutory law that permits a minor to give consent for medical care related to the prevention or treatment of pregnancy expressly does not authorize a minor to be sterilized without the consent of the minor's parent or guardian or to receive an abortion without the consent of a parent or guardian except as provided in Health & Safety Code § 123450 (prohibiting abortion except pursuant to parental consent or judicial order or in medical emergency) [Fam. Code § 6925(b)]. However, the statutory requirement of parental consent or a judicial order for an abortion is unconstitutional [American Academy of Pediatrics v. Lungren (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 307, 314, 356-357, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 940 P.2d 797]. It thus appears that only the prohibition on sterilization of an unemancipated minor without consent of a parent or guardian [see Fam. Code § 6925(b)(1)] remains in effect with respect to the prevention and treatment of pregnancy.

§ 100A.213 Consent by Minor Aged 15 or Older and Living Apart From Parents to Medical, Dental, or Hospital Care

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a health care provider to obtain the consent of an unemancipated minor aged 15 years or older who is living apart from his or her parents or guardian and managing his or her own financial affairs to the minor's own medical, dental, or hospital care. The form provides that the minor is to be responsible for payment of charges for the care [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210.

A minor 15 years of age or older may give consent and contract for medical, dental, or hospital care if living separate and apart from his or her parents or guardian (with or without their consent) and managing his or her own financial affairs [Fam. Code § 6922(a)]. The length of time that the minor has been living separate does not affect the minor's capacity to consent, nor does the source of the minor's income [see Fam. Code § 6922(a)(2), (3)]. A minor who meets these qualifications is empowered to give consent for hospital care or any X-ray examination, anesthetic, or medical or surgical diagnosis or treatment rendered by a licensed physician, surgeon, or dentist [Fam. Code § 6922(a); see Fam. Code §§ 6901, 6902]. The minor's consent is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921].

The consent of a parent or guardian is not necessary, and there is no liability on the part of the parents or guardian for any care rendered pursuant to the minor's consent [Fam. Code § 6922(b)]. However, a treating physician, surgeon, or dentist may (with or without the consent of the minor) advise the parents or guardian as to the treatment given or needed, if the physician, surgeon, or dentist has reason to know their whereabouts based on information given by the minor [Fam. Code § 6922(c)].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.214

§ 100A.214 Consent by Minor Aged 12 or Older to Outpatient Mental Health Treatment or Counseling

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a health care provider to obtain the consent of an unemancipated minor 12 years of age or older to mental health treatment or counseling on an outpatient basis. The form optionally provides that the minor is to be responsible for payment of charges for the treatment or counseling [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by a minor 12 years of age or older for medical care and counseling relating to the diagnosis and treatment of a drug or alcohol problem, see § 100A.218. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210.

A minor who is 12 years of age or older may consent to mental health treatment or counseling on an outpatient basis if both of the following requirements are satisfied [Fam. Code § 6924(b)]:

- The minor, in the opinion of the attending professional person [see Fam. Code § 6924(a)(2) (definition)], is mature enough to participate intelligently in the outpatient services.
- The minor would present a danger of serious physical or mental harm to himself or herself or to others without the mental health treatment or counseling or the minor is the alleged victim of incest or child abuse.

Mental health treatment or counseling services on an outpatient basis encompasses such services by a governmental agency, a person or agency that contracts with a governmental agency to provide the services, an agency that receives funding from community united funds, a runaway house or crisis resolution center, or a professional person [Fam. Code § 6924(a)(1)]. The term does not include, and the statutory authorization for consent by minors 12 years of age and older specifically does not authorize, a minor to receive, convulsive therapy or psychosurgery [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5325(f), (g)], or psychotropic drugs without the consent of the minor's parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6924(f)]. For a form for consent by a parent or guardian for medical, dental, or hospital care for a minor, see § 100A.200.

The mental health treatment or counseling of a minor authorized by statute must include the involvement of the minor's parents or guardian unless, in the opinion of the professional who is treating or counseling the minor, such involvement would be inappropriate. The professional must state in the client record whether and when he or she attempted to contact the parents or guardian and whether the attempt was successful or unsuccessful, or the reason why, in the professional's opinion, contact would be inappropriate [Fam. Code § 6924(d)]. The minor's parents or guardian are not liable for payment for mental health treatment or counseling services provided pursuant to the minor's consent unless the parents or guardian participated in the mental health treatment or counseling, and then only for services rendered with the participation of the parents or guardian [Fam. Code § 6924(e)].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.215

§ 100A.215 Consent by Minor Aged 12 or Older to Provision of Residential Shelter Services

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a provider of residential shelter services [see Fam. Code § 6924(a)(3) (definition)] to obtain the consent of an unemancipated minor 12 years of age or older for residential shelter services. The form optionally provides that the minor will be required to pay for these services [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210.

An unemancipated minor who has attained the age of 12 years may consent to the provision of residential shelter services if, in the opinion of the attending professional person [see Fam. Code § 6924(a)(2) (definition)], the minor is mature enough to participate intelligently in a decision to give consent for residential shelter services and either allegedly has been the victim of incest or child abuse or presents a danger of serious physical or mental harm to himself or herself or to others without the residential shelter services [Fam. Code § 6924(b)].

The consent of the parent(s) or guardian of the minor is not necessary to authorize the provision of these services, and the minor's consent to the services is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921]. However, the professional person who offers the residential shelter services, whether as an individual or as a representative of an entity [see Fam. Code § 6921(a)(3)], must make his or her best efforts to notify the minor's parents or guardian that the services are being provided [Fam. Code § 6924(c)].

The parents or guardian of the minor are not liable for payment of the cost of any residential shelter services rendered to the minor unless they consented to the provision of the services [Fam. Code § 6924(e)].

This form may be used by a health care provider to obtain the consent of an unemancipated minor aged 12 years or older for medical treatment for an infectious, contagious, or communicable disease. The form optionally provides that the minor is to be responsible for payment of charges for the treatment [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210.

A minor who is at least 12 years of age and who may have come into contact with an infectious, contagious, or communicable disease may give consent, under certain circumstances, for hospital, medical, and surgical care related to the diagnosis or treatment of the disease. The disease must be either a disease required by law or regulation to be reported to the local health officer [see Health & Safety Code § 120130; *17 Cal. 31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.218

§ 100A.218 Consent by Minor Aged 12 or Older to Medical Care and Counseling for Drug or Alcohol Problem

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by a physician, surgeon, registered nurse, psychologist, clinical social worker, or marriage and family therapist (or an appropriately employed and supervised marriage and family therapist registered intern, psychological assistant, or associate clinical social worker) [see Fam. Code § 6929(a)(4)] to obtain the consent of an unemancipated minor 12 years of age or older for medical care and counseling related to the diagnosis and treatment of a drug or alcohol problem [see Fam. Code § 6929(a)(1), (2) (definitions)]. The form optionally provides that the minor is to be responsible for payment of charges for the care and counseling [see § 100A.14]. For a form for consent by an emancipated minor, see § 100A.210.

A minor 12 years of age or older may give consent for medical care and counseling related to the diagnosis and treatment of a drug or alcohol problem [Fam. Code § 6929(b)], and the consent of the minor is not subject to disaffirmance because of minority [Fam. Code § 6921]. However, the minor may not receive replacement narcotic abuse treatment without the consent of the minor's parent or guardian [Fam. Code § 6929(e)]. For a form for consent by a parent or guardian for medical, dental, or hospital care for a minor, see § 100A.200.

The treatment plan must include the involvement of the minor's parent or guardian if that involvement is determined to be appropriate by the professional person or treatment facility treating the minor. If the treating person determines that it is appropriate to contact the parents or guardian, he or she is required to state in the minor's treatment record whether and when he or she attempted to make contact and whether the attempt was successful or unsuccessful. If the treating person determines that contact would be inappropriate, he or she must state in the treatment record why, in his or her opinion, it would be inappropriate [Fam. Code § 6929(c)]. In any event, the parent or guardian will not be liable for services rendered to the minor unless the parent or guardian has participated in the program [Fam. Code § 6929(d)].

The statutory authorization for the minor's consent does not restrict the right of a parent or guardian to seek medical care and counseling for a drug or alcohol problem of a minor when the minor does not give consent for treatment [Fam.

Code § 6929(f)]. In addition, when the parent or guardian has sought such treatment, the provider must disclose (and will incur no liability for disclosing) medical information to the parent or guardian even if the minor child does not give consent for the disclosure [Fam. Code § 6929(g)].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.230

§ 100A.230 Parent's Receipt and Declaration for Total Estate of Minor Not Exceeding $5,000

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used by the parent of a minor to acknowledge receipt of money or other property belonging to the minor when the minor's total estate does not exceed $5,000. Use of this form obligates the parent to hold the minor's total estate in an informal trust. For a transfer of a minor's money or other property to a custodian under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.], see Ch. 60A, Gifts .

Although the parents of a minor generally have no right to control the minor's property [see Fam. Code § 7502; § 100A.21[1]], the minor's property may be paid to and held by a parent (or both parents) when the minor's total estate does not exceed $5,000 in value [Prob. Code § 3401(c)(2); see § 100A.21[2]]. The parent or parents must be entitled to custody of the minor [Prob. Code § 3401(a), (b)] and must give the person making the payment or delivery written assurance, verified by oath (or declaration under penalty of perjury [Code Civ. Proc. § 2015.5]), that the minor's total estate (including the property being paid or delivered) does not exceed $5,000 [Prob. Code § 3401(c)(2)].

In computing the $5,000 limit, all money and other property belonging to the minor or to the minor's guardianship estate, if any, must be included in the total estate [Prob. Code § 3400(a)]. However, property held for the minor under the California Uniform Transfers to Minors Act [see Prob. Code § 3900 et seq.] and the proceeds of a compromise of or judgment on a minor's claim [see Prob. Code §§ 3602(c), 3610 et seq.] must be excluded [Prob. Code § 3400(b)].

The written receipt of the parent or parents acquits the person making the payment or delivery [Prob. Code § 3402]. A parent who receives any money or property belonging to a minor pursuant to these provisions must account to the minor for the money or property when the minor reaches the age of majority [Prob. Code § 3300].

1. Claims by Minor

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.240

§ 100A.240 Release of Minor's Claim by Parent or Guardian

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a release that may be used by a guardian of the estate, guardian ad litem, or custodial parent of a minor to release a tort claim in favor of the minor [see generally Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations]. For an emancipated minor's release, see § 100A.241. For release of a tort claim against a minor, see § 100A.250. For release of a tort claim against a minor and the minor's parent or guardian, see § 100A.251. For detailed coverage of settlement and release of litigation in general, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 520, Settlement and Release (Matthew Bender).

[B] Capacity of Minor to Release Claim

A release of a tort claim is a contract that settles and extinguishes the claim [Civ. Code § 1541; Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 28 Cal. 2d 705, 711, 160 P.2d 783] . Since minors generally lack the capacity to make contracts [see Fam. Code §§ 6700, 6701, 6710], they generally lack the capacity to release persons against whom they have claims [see § 100A.31[1]]. Furthermore, a minor's civil action to enforce the minor's rights must be conducted by a guardian [Fam. Code § 6601].

[c] Limited Power of Parent or Guardian

Guardians ad litem and guardians of the estates of minors have the power to settle tort claims in favor of their wards, provided certain requirements are met [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 (compromise by guardian ad litem or guardian of estate); Prob. Code § 2500 (power of guardians to settle claims in favor of or against wards)]. Generally, parents have no power release a minor's claims in the absence of specific statutory authority [Burge v. City & County of San Francisco (1953) 41 Cal. 2d 608, 613, 262 P.2d 6] . Parents who are guardians of the estates of their minor children, and parents who have been appointed as guardians ad litem for the purpose of representing their children in judicial proceedings [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 373, 373.5], may settle tort claims of their children [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372 ; Prob. Code § 2500]. Further, parents who have custody of their children have statutory authority to settle tort claims in favor of their minor children when the settlements are approved by the court [Prob. Code § 3500(b); see [d], below]. If the parents are living together, either parent may exercise this right to settle; if the parents are living separate and apart, the parent who has the care, custody, or control of the minor may exercise the right [Prob. Code § 3500(a)]. For additional discussion, see § 100A.31[2][a].

[d] Court Approval of Settlements

Except when a statute specifically provides otherwise, settlement of a disputed minor's claim is not binding on the minor unless the claim is approved by the court [see Everett v. Everett (1976) 57 Cal. App. 3d 65, 69, 129 Cal. Rptr. 8 ; Berry v. Chaplin (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 652, 657, 169 P.2d 442] . Statutes specifically require court approval for settlement of a claim in favor of a minor when the claim is settled by the parents [Prob. Code § 3500(b)], a guardian ad litem [Code Civ. Proc. § 372], or a guardians of the estate who has appeared for the minor in judicial proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. § 372].

The general rule is that a settlement of a claim in favor of a minor by a guardian who has not appeared for the minor in a judicial proceeding does not require court approval [Prob. Code § 2500(a)]. However, court approval is required by statute in many circumstances [see Prob. Code §§ 2501-2504; § 100A.31[3]]. For practice rules relating to compromises of minor's claims, see California Civil Actions Pleading and Practice, Ch. 48, Compromising and Settling Case (Matthew Bender).

A guardian or parent who has the power to compromise a minor's claim also has the power to execute a full release (or, if appropriate, a covenant not to sue or not to enforce judgment on the claim) with court approval [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 3500(d)].

[e] Disposition of Settlement Proceeds

On approving the settlement of a minor's claim, the court has authority to make orders respecting disposition of the proceeds of the settlement [Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 3500(c)]. It may order that reasonable medical and other expenses, attorneys' fees, and costs be deducted from the proceeds [Prob. Code § 3601(a)] and that the balance be paid to the guardian of the minor's estate, if there is one [Prob. Code § 3602(b); see Prob. Code § 3611(a) (court may order appointment of guardian of estate)], or otherwise disposed of according to numerous statutory alternatives [Prob. Code §§ 3602(a), 3610, 3611]. If the remaining balance of the money or other property to be paid or delivered does not exceed $5,000 in value, it may be paid or delivered to a parent of the minor under Probate Code § 3401 [see § 100A.230]. For additional discussion of the disposition of settlement proceeds, see § 100A.31[5].

If the court orders that all or any part of the proceeds of the settlement of a minor's claim be deposited in an insured financial institution in California or in a single-premium deferred annuity [see § 100A.31[5]], a parent's release and satisfaction is not effective for any purpose until the money has been deposited as ordered [Prob. Code § 3500(d)].

[f] Release of Unknown Claims

This release contains a provision concerning unknown claims. In the absence of such a provision, a release generally does not extend to claims that the claimant does not know or suspect to exist and that would have materially affected the settlement [Civ. Code § 1542; see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations].

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.250

§ 100A.250 Release of Claim Against Minor

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to release a minor from tort liability. For release of a claim against a minor and the minor's parent or guardian, see § 100A.251.

A minor is generally liable for his or her own torts, but a minor is not liable for exemplary damages unless at the time of the act he or she was capable of knowing that the act was wrongful [Fam. Code § 6600; see § 100A.32[1]]. However, since minors generally lack the capacity to make enforceable contracts [see Fam. Code §§ 6700, 6701, 6710], they generally lack the capacity to settle tort claims against them [see § 100A.31[1]].

Although parents have statutory authority to settle tort claims in favor of their minor children (provided the settlements are approved by the court) [see Prob. Code § 3500; see also § 100A.31[2][a]], parents have no authority to settle tort claims against their minor children unless acting as guardian of the estate or guardian ad litem. Statutes broadly empower guardians to settle claims against wards [see Code Civ. Proc. § 372; Prob. Code § 2500(a)].

The court must approve the settlement of a tort claim against a minor if it is made by a guardian ad litem or by a guardian of the estate who has appeared for the minor in a proceeding to which the minor is a party [Code Civ. Proc. § 372]. The general rule is that court approval is not required if the settlement is by a guardian who has not appeared for the minor in a judicial proceeding [Prob. Code § 2500(a)]. However, the general rule is vitiated by statutory provisions requiring court approval in particular circumstances [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 2502 (court approval required for settlement in excess of $25,000); see also § 100A.31[3]].

For detailed coverage of settlement and release of litigation in general, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 520, Settlement and Release (Matthew Bender).

PART IV. FORMS
C. Tort Claims
2. Claims Against Minor

31-100A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100A.251

§ 100A.251 Release of Claims Against Minor and Minor's Parent, Guardian, or Conservator

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used to release a minor and the minor's parent or guardian from tort liability [see generally Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations], either when the parent or guardian is vicariously liable for the torts of the minor or when the parent or guardian is independently liable. The form includes alternative provisions for use if court approval is required for the settlement of the claim. For discussion of requirements for court approval, see § 100A.31[3]. For detailed coverage of settlement and release of litigation in general, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 520, Settlement and Release (Matthew Bender).

[b] Limited Liability of Parent or Guardian for Minor's Tort

A minor is civilly liable for his or her own wrongs, but he or she is not liable for exemplary damages unless at the time of the act the minor was capable of knowing that the act was wrongful [Fam. Code § 6600].

The parent or guardian of a minor generally is not liable for the minor's torts unless the negligence of the parent or guardian contributed to the injuries. If, however, the negligence of a parent or guardian makes it possible for a minor to cause an injury, and the parent or guardian had the duty to control the minor, the parent or guardian will be liable for the injury [Buelke v. Levenstadt (1923) 190 Cal. 684, 689, 214 P. 42 ; Poncher v. Brackett (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 769, 771-772, 55 Cal. Rptr. 59 ; Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] . In such a case, the liability of the parent or guardian is founded first on the duty to control the minor and second on the failure to discharge that duty with reasonable care [Poncher v. Brackett (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 769, 772, 55 Cal. Rptr. 59] .

The duty to control a minor is imposed by law on the custodial parents [Ellis v. D'Angelo (1953) 116 Cal. App. 2d 310, 317, 253 P.2d 675] . Similar duties may be imposed on others. For example, in appropriate circumstances, guardians have the duty to control their wards [see Prob. Code § 2351(a) (guardian has care, custody, and control of ward)). Even a grandparent may be liable for failure to reasonably control a minor if the grandparent has assumed custody and control of the minor and does not exercise reasonable control [Poncher v. Brackett (1966) 246 Cal. App. 2d 769, 773, 55 Cal. Rptr. 59] .

[c] Vicarious Liability of Parent or Guardian in General

The liability of a minor may be imputed to a parent or guardian under various theories. For example, if a minor commits a tort while acting as an agent of a parent, and if the tort was committed in the scope and purpose of the agency, the parent will be liable for the tort [see Van Den Eikhof v. Hocker (1978) 87 Cal. App. 3d 900, 904-905, 151 Cal. Rptr. 456 ; Johnson v. Peterson (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 619, 622-624, 113 Cal. Rptr. 445] . Most commonly, parents and guardians are liable for the torts of minors under various statutory provisions that impose liability in specific fact situations [see [d]-[h], below].

[d] Willful Misconduct

Any act of willful misconduct by a minor that results in injury or death to another person or in any injury to the property of another is imputed to the parent or guardian having custody and control of the minor for all purposes of civil damages [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. Willful misconduct by a minor that results in defacement of the property of another with paint or a similar substance is also imputed to the parent or guardian having custody and control of the minor for all purposes of civil damages, including court costs and attorneys' fees [Civ. Code § 1714.1(b)]. For this purpose, the parent or guardian having custody and control of the minor is jointly and severally liable with the minor for any damages resulting from the willful misconduct [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)].

This rule does not impute liability to persons other than the parents or guardians of the minor. Neither foster parents nor governmental entities exercising control over minors, such as juvenile courts, are liable for a minor's willful misconduct unless otherwise provided by law [59 Ops. Atty. Gen. 142, 143 (1976)].

There is a statutory limit of liability imputed to parents and guardians under this rule for each tort of the minor [see Civ. Code § 1714.1(a), (b)]. The limit is to be adjusted every two years by the Judicial Council to reflect any increases in the cost of living [Civ. Code § 1714.1(c); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Appen. B (effective Jan. 1, 2007, limit is $34,700)]. In the case of injury to a person, vicarious liability is further limited to medical, dental, and hospital expenses incurred by the injured person [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. Insurer liability is limited to $10,000 [Civ. Code § 1714.1(e)].

Vicarious liability for personal injury is in addition to any other liability imposed on the parent or guardian [Civ. Code § 1714.1(a)]. Thus, a parent could be vicariously liable under the statute and also liable for the parent's own negligence in failing to exercise reasonable control over the minor.

[e] Discharge of Firearm

Civil liability for any injury to the person or property of another proximately caused by the discharge of a firearm by a minor is imputed to a parent or guardian having custody or control of the minor, if the parent or guardian either permitted the minor to have the firearm or left the firearm in a place accessible to the minor [Civ. Code § 1714.3]. The liability of a parent under this rule is joint and several with that of the minor [Civ. Code § 1714.3].

The liability imposed by this rule is in addition to any other liability imposed on the parent or guardian by law [Civ. Code § 1714.3]. Liability is limited to $30,000 for injury or death of one person as a result of any one occurrence and $60,000 for injury to or death of all persons as a result of any one occurrence [Civ. Code § 1714.3].

[f] Certain Acts of Petty Theft

When an unemancipated minor's willful conduct would constitute petty theft [see Penal Code §§ 487, 488] involving merchandise taken from a merchant's premises or a book or other library materials taken from a library facility, any merchant or library facility injured by such conduct may bring a civil action against the parent or guardian having control and custody of the minor [Penal Code § 490.5(b)]. For the purpose of such an action, the misconduct of the minor will be imputed to the parent or guardian, who will be jointly and severally liable with the minor [Penal Code § 490.5(b)]. Liability under this rule is limited to the retail value of the merchandise taken (unless recovered in merchantable condition), plus not less than $50 nor more than $500 [Penal Code § 490.5(b)]. Recovery of damages under this rule is in addition to any other liability imposed by law on parents and guardians for the tortious conduct of minors [Penal Code § 490.5(b)].

An action to recover damages under this rule may be brought in small claims court if the total damages do not exceed the jurisdictional limits of the small claims court [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 116.220, 116.221, 116.231(a)] or in any other appropriate court. However, total damages, including the value of the merchandise or book or other library materials taken, cannot exceed $500 for each action brought [Penal Code § 490.5(b)].

[g] Willful Injury or Damage to School Personnel or Property

The parent or guardian of any minor whose willful misconduct results in injury or death to any pupil or any person employed by or performing volunteer services for a school district or private school, or who willfully cuts, defaces, or otherwise injures any property belonging to a school district, private school, or school employee, is liable for damages caused by the minor [Educ. Code 48904(a)]. In addition, the parent or guardian is liable to a school district or private school for all property belonging to the school district or private school lent to the minor and not returned on demand of an employee of the district or private school authorized to make the demand [Educ. Code § 48904(a)].

Liability under this rule cannot exceed $10,000, plus a maximum of $10,000 for any reward paid by a local agency for information leading to the apprehension of a person who willfully caused personal injury or property damage [Educ. Code § 48904(a)(1); see Gov. Code § 53069.5 (authority of local agency to offer reward)]. However, the liability limits are subject to adjustments for inflation by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction [Educ. Code § 48904(a)(2)].

[h] Malicious Damage to Library or Exhibit Materials

The parent or guardian of a minor who willfully and maliciously cuts, tears, defaces, breaks, or injures any book, map, chart, picture, engraving, statue, coin, model, apparatus, other work of literature, art, mechanics, or object of curiosity, deposited in any public library, gallery, museum, collection, fair, or exhibition, is liable for all damages caused by the minor [Educ. Code § 19910].

This chapter covers contracts and employment agreements involving minor parties. The coverage of contracts focuses on the capacity of minors to enter into, disaffirm, and ratify various types of contracts. The forms in this chapter include a minor's contract for necessities, statements of ratification and disaffirmance, and releases of claims by and against minors. For general contract forms and a discussion of basic contract principles (which, subject to the special considerations discussed in this chapter, are applicable to contracts involving minors), see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions , and Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations .

The coverage of employment agreements in this chapter deals with the special considerations involved in hiring minors, including work permit requirements, permissible occupations and hours of work under state and federal law, and parental entitlement to minor children's earnings. The employment forms include applications for work permits and permits to employ, special applications and contract clauses relating to the employment of minors in the entertainment industry, a complete contract for the employment of a minor as a photographic model, and notices regarding parental claims to minors' wages. For forms and discussion relating to employment contracts generally, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements .

The emancipation of minors is discussed briefly in this chapter insofar as it relates to the capacity of minors to contract and to control their earnings. For a more detailed discussion of the emancipation procedure, and of the rights and responsibilities arising out of the parent-child relationship, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors . For forms relating to the judicial emancipation procedure, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender).

Nonbusiness concerns of minors, such as medical care, marriage, and tort claims, are discussed in Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors .

A. Minority Status

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.10

§ 100B.10 "Minor" Defined

Minors are all persons under 18 years of age [Fam. Code § 6500]. All other persons are adults [Fam. Code § 6501]. However, for purposes of California law prohibitions against the employment of minors [see § 100B.31[2]], a person is considered a "minor" if he or she is either of the following [Lab. Code § 1286(c); see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11705]:

- Under age 18 and either (1) required to attend school under relevant provisions of the Education Code [see Educ. Code §§ 48200 et seq., 48400 et seq.], or (2) not required to attend school under those provisions solely because he or she is a nonresident of California; or
- Under age six.

For a more detailed discussion of the determination of minority and majority, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Minority Status

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.11

§ 100B.11 Emancipation of Minors

[1] Methods and Effect of Emancipation in General

A minor may become emancipated through marriage, the assumption of military active duty, or the statutory declaration of emancipation procedure [Fam. Code § 7002; see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors]. A minor also may become emancipated if his or her parents relinquish the right to control the minor and receive his or her earnings [see Fam. Code § 7504; see also [2], below].

Once emancipated, a minor has the capacity to contract as an adult, including the capacity to contract involving real property interests [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(2), (3)]. The minor will have no right to disaffirm contracts entered into after his or her emancipation on the basis of minority [see Fam. Code § 7050(e)]. However, the minor may rescind or otherwise avoid contractual obligations on grounds generally available to adult contracting parties [see Civ. Code § 1688 et seq.; see also Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations]. The minor will acquire the right to sue and be sued, and to compromise or otherwise settle claims in his or her own name [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(4), (5)]. A judicial declaration of emancipation confers full capacity on the minor; partial emancipation is not possible under the statutory procedure [see West Shield Investigations & Sec. Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 935, 949, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612] (when issuing declaration of emancipation under Fam. Code § 7122, court has no power to modify or limit consequences of emancipation as set forth in Fam. Code § 7050).

Emancipated minors are not exempt from the working hour and occupation provisions of the Education Code and the Labor Code [see Fam. Code § 7050 (effect of emancipation does not specifically include exemption from hour and occupation limitations); Educ. Code §§ 49111, 49112; Lab. Code § 1290; see also § 100B.30[4]].

The parents or guardians of an emancipated minor lose their right to receive and control the minor's earnings [Fam. Code § 7050(b); see § 100B.30[5]], and the minor can to apply for a work permit without a parental request [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(16); see § 100B.32[2]]. For a discussion of the effect of emancipation on the parent and child relationship generally, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors.

[2] Relinquishment of Parental Rights

Emancipation may occur through the express or implied relinquishment by a minor's parents of the right to control the minor and receive his or her earnings [see Fam. Code § 7504; see also Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors]. Abandonment by the parent is presumptive evidence of that relinquishment [Fam. Code § 7504]. Whether emancipation through relinquishment has occurred, and if so, the extent of the emancipation, are determined by reference to the totality of circumstances in the particular case [Lehrer v. Lehrer (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 276, 280, 133 Cal. Rptr. 709] .

Partial emancipation, for particular purposes but not for others, is possible through a partial relinquishment of parental rights [Perkins v. Robertson (1956) 140 Cal. App. 2d 536, 540, 295 P.2d 972] . For instance, a minor may be emancipated for the purpose of establishing his or her own residence, but not for purposes of entering into contracts or controlling his or her own earnings [Jolicoeur v. Mihaly (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 565, 580, 96 Cal. Rptr. 697, 488 P.2d 1] . For these reasons, a minor who wishes to assume control over his or her business affairs to the full extent permitted by the law, or to enter into a contractual or employment relationship on the basis of his or her emancipated status, should obtain a judicial declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7122; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender)].

§ 100B.20 General Capacity to Make Contracts

With specific exceptions designated by statute [see § 100B.21], a minor may make a contract in the same manner as an adult [see Fam. Code § 6700]. However, this general power is limited by the minor's right to disaffirm certain contracts [Fam. Code §§ 6710-6713; see § 100B.22[1]] and by statutory restrictions on a minor's right to marry [see Fam. Code §§ 300-310].

There are three general categories of contracts involving minor parties:

- Contracts that are void because the minor lacked capacity to contract regarding the subject matter [see § 100B.21].
- Contracts that are valid but may be disaffirmed by the minor [see § 100B.22[1]].
- Contracts that are valid and may not be disaffirmed by the minor [see § 100B.22[2]].

The largest category consists of contracts that are valid but subject to disaffirmance by the minor [see Fam. Code § 6700]. Minors may enter into most types of contracts in the same manner as adults, and they retain the power to disaffirm most of their contracts [see Fam. Code §§ 6700, 6710]. This power of disaffirmance reflects a public policy of protecting minors from their own lack of judgment and from "machinations of other people," by discouraging adults from contracting with minors [Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 793, 221 P.2d 178 ; see Goldberg v. Superior Court (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1378, 1383, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 613 (one who provides minor with goods and services proceeds at his or her own risk)].

A minor's capacity to contract will often depend on whether the subject matter of the contract is within the minor's immediate possession and control. It has been held that a minor news carrier, who received newspapers from a distributor and folded and delivered them, was in immediate possession of the papers and therefore was entitled to contract with the distributor regarding their sale [Taylor v. Industrial Acci. Com. (1963) 216 Cal. App. 2d 466, 473-474, 30 Cal. Rptr. 877] .

Minors who become emancipated through marriage, the assumption of military active duty, or the statutory declaration of emancipation procedure [see Fam. Code §§ 7000-7143] acquire the status of adults for various purposes and may enter into binding contracts [Fam. Code §§ 7050-7052]. For a discussion of the effect of emancipation on a minor's contractual and employment relationships, see § 100B.11[1]. For a discussion of the emancipation of minors generally, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors .

§ 100B.21 Areas in Which Minors Lack Contractual Capacity

A minor cannot make any contract that relates to real property or any interest in real property, and cannot make any contract relating to any personal property that is not in the immediate possession or control of the minor [Fam. Code § 6701]. A minor also may not give any delegation of a power [Fam. Code § 6701(a)]. A minor without a valid driver's license cannot contract to lease, purchase, accept, or otherwise obtain any vehicle subject to registration [Veh. Code § 15500]. Contracts entered into by minors in these areas are void as a matter of law; no act of disaffirmance is necessary to render them ineffective [see Fam. Code § 6701; see also Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 865, 186 P.2d 417].

The prohibition against minors' contracts regarding real property does not extend to holding real property. There is no statutory prohibition against minors owning real property or interests in the property [see Oyama v. California (1948) 332 U.S. 633, 640, 68 S. Ct. 68, 92 L. Ed. 249; In re Scott K. (1979) 24 Cal. 3d 395, 405, 155 Cal. Rptr. 671, 595 P.2d 105].

The main purpose of the prohibition against a minor's delegation of power is to prevent minors from circumventing their inability to contract by appointing an agent to act for them [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 560, 137 P. 911].

A contract for attorneys' fees for services in litigation, made by or on behalf of a minor, is void unless it is approved by the court. If the agreement has not been approved, the court that renders the judgment in the underlying matter must set reasonable attorneys' fees [Fam. Code § 6602]. For further discussion and related forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem (Matthew Bender).

A minor who wishes to ratify an obligation that he or she assumed under a void contract must execute a new contract after reaching the age of majority. The original contract cannot be ratified, since it was void at the time it was executed [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Contracts Involving Minors

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.22

§ 100B.22 Disaffirmance of Contracts

[1] Contracts Subject to Disaffirmance

Except as otherwise specified by statute, contracts entered into by minors may be disaffirmed by them before, or within a reasonable time after, reaching the age of majority (18). If a minor dies after executing a contract that is valid but subject to disaffirmance, the minor's heirs or personal representative can disaffirm the contract [Fam. Code § 6710]. In most cases, a disaffirmance will rescind the contract even if it has been fully executed [Warner Bros. Pictures v. Brodel (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 766, 771, 192 P.2d 949] . A minor can disaffirm a contract regardless of whether the other party had notice of the minor's age when the contract was entered into [Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 792-793, 221 P.2d 178 ; but see [3], below].

The circumstances of the particular case must be considered to determine whether a person seeking to disaffirm a contract has acted within a reasonable time after reaching the age of majority [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 559, 137 P. 911] . If, upon reaching majority, the minor is aware of his or her right to disaffirm, the statute of limitations for an action on the contract may serve as a guide to determining a reasonable time [Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132 ; see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337 (four-year limitation for actions on written contracts), 339 (two-year limitation for actions on oral contracts)].

A contract must be disaffirmed as a whole if it is disaffirmed at all. One who made a contract as a minor cannot retain the benefits of the contract while disaffirming the burdens [Peers v. McLaughlin (1891) 88 Cal. 294, 299, 26 P. 119] . If goods transferred by a minor are sold to an innocent purchaser before disaffirmance of the contract, the goods cannot be recovered from that purchaser on disaffirmance [Fam. Code § 6713].

Disaffirmance may be accomplished by any act or declaration disclosing an unequivocal intent to repudiate the contract [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal App. 4th 809, 820, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140 ("No specific language is required to communicate an intent to disaffirm.")].

[2] Contracts Not Subject to Disaffirmance

A minor cannot disaffirm an obligation that is otherwise valid and that was entered into by the minor under the express authority or direction of a statute [Fam. Code § 6711]. There are three general categories of minor's contracts that, by statute, are not subject to disaffirmance:

- Contracts for necessities [Fam. Code § 6712].
- Certain employment contracts that have been approved by the superior court [Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751; see §§ 100B.33, 100B.203].
- Consents to various medical treatments [Fam. Code § 6921; see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors].

A minor who is not under the care of a parent or guardian able to provide support cannot disaffirm a contract to pay the reasonable value of things actually received that are necessary to support the minor or the minor's family [Fam. Code § 6712]. A contract for necessities may be inferred from the furnishing of necessities as requested by the minor [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417] . Lodging [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 868, 186 P.2d 417] , emergency medical care [Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 161, 108 P.2d 989] , and legal services under some circumstances [Leonard v. Alexander (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 385, 389, 122 P.2d 984] have been held to be "necessities" for this purpose. A contract to secure personal-management services to advance a minor's acting career is not a contract for "necessities" [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal App. 4th 809, 820, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140] .

Parents are liable for the support of their minor children [Fam. Code §§ 3900, 3901], and one who has provided necessities to a minor can recover from the minor's parents [Fam. Code § 3950]. Adoptive parents assume all the duties of parenthood toward an adopted child, including the duty to provide support during the child's minority [Fam. Code § 8616]. At the time of adoption, the child's birth parents are relieved of all responsibility for the child, and they are no longer liable for necessities provided to the child by others [Fam. Code § 8617]. Parents are not liable for the value of necessities provided to any child of their child [Fam. Code § 3930]. For a discussion of parental obligations in general, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors .

Subject to specific statutory limitations, a minor may consent to certain types of medical and dental care, and the consent of the minor's parent or guardian is not necessary [Fam. Code § 6920; see Fam. Code §§ 6922-6929]. In these permitted situations, a consent by the minor is not subject to disaffirmance because of his or her minority [Fam. Code § 6921; see, e.g., Michaelis v. Schori (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 133, 137-139, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 380 (minor who consents to provision of medical care relating to pregnancy pursuant to statutory authority [see Fam. Code § 6925] is barred from disaffirming that consent); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d) (minor may not disaffirm medical services contract containing arbitration provision, if contract was signed by minor's parent or legal guardian)]. For a more detailed discussion of minors' consents to medical care and treatment, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors .

Minors who receive workers' compensation payments may not disaffirm the payments after reaching the age of majority. Workers' compensation payments received by a minor operate as a full release of the employer and the insurance carrier for the amount paid [Lab. Code § 3605].

Minors who have been emancipated through marriage, the assumption of military active duty, or the statutory declaration of emancipation procedure [see Fam. Code § 7002; see also § 100B.11[1]] may not disaffirm their contractual obligations on the basis of minority [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(2)]. For a discussion of the emancipation of minors generally, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors].

Contracts that cannot be disaffirmed by reason of minority may nevertheless be void, subject to rescission, or unenforceable for other reasons. For a discussion of the requirements for valid contracts generally, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions . For a discussion of excuses for nonperformance of contractual duties, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations .

[3] Defenses to Disaffirmance

There are very few effective defenses to a minor's disaffirmance of a contract. The purpose of the law providing for disaffirmance is to discourage adults from contracting with minors, and this purpose is effectuated by allowing the minor to disaffirm even in circumstances in which an adult would be estopped from doing so [Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 792-793, 221 P.2d 178 ; see Goldberg v. Superior Court (1994) 23 Cal. App. 4th 1378, 1383, 28 Cal. Rptr. 2d 613 (one who provides minor with goods and services proceeds at his or her own risk)]. However, the right of disaffirmance was not intended to affect contracts entered into by adults on behalf of their children, at least when those contracts do not impose affirmative obligations on the children. Thus, when a parent signs a liability release relating to his or her child's participation in a school program, the child may not disaffirm the release based on his or her minority [Hohe v. San Diego Unified Sch. Dist. (1990) 224 Cal App. 3d 1559, 1564-1565, 274 Cal. Rptr. 647 ; see also Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d) (minor may not disaffirm arbitration provision in medical-services contract signed by parent or legal guardian)]. On the other hand, a minor may disaffirm a contract made by his or her parent that imposes significant affirmative responsibilities on the minor, such as a contract that obligates a child actor to pay commissions to a personal manager [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal App. 4th 809, 818-819, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140 ("There is no public policy barring a minor from disaffirming a contract [made by the minor's parent] that imposes significant affirmative responsibilities on [the minor].")].

The doctrine of estoppel is not applicable to minors [Lackman v. Wood (1864) 25 Cal. 147, 153 ; Morgan v. Morgan (1963) 220 Cal. App. 2d 665, 675, 34 Cal. Rptr. 82] . Thus, a contract made by a minor may be disaffirmed even if the minor made misrepresentations concerning his or her age at the time the contract was entered into [Williams v. Leon T. Shettler Co. (1929) 98 Cal. App. 282, 283, 276 P. 1065] . The doctrine of estoppel does apply, however, to acts done after the minor reaches the age of majority [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417] . Thus, a person who makes a contract at age 16, and expressly ratifies the contract or continues to perform his or her duties under the contract after reaching age 18, may be estopped from disaffirming it [see Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417] . Likewise, a person who takes no action to disaffirm a contract entered into during minority within a reasonable time after reaching majority may be estopped from disaffirming the contract [see Fam. Code § 6710; see also Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132] .

§ 100B.23 Ratification of Contracts On Reaching Majority

Upon reaching majority, a minor can ratify contracts entered into during his or her minority [see §§ 100B.211, 100B.212]. No special form is required to show ratification, and oral ratifications are valid. A ratification may be inferred from actions consistent with the contract or from a failure to disaffirm the contract within a reasonable period after reaching the age of majority [see Fam. Code § 6710; see also Hastings v. Dollarhide (1864) 24 Cal. 195, 210] .

An effective ratification will preclude a later disaffirmance [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911] . However, a ratification made during minority is not binding on the minor and does not preclude a later disaffirmance [Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 793, 221 P.2d 178] .

CHAPTER 100B CONTRACTS AND EMPLOYMENT OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Employment of Minors

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.30

§ 100B.30 General Regulation of Minors' Employment

[1] Governing Law

The employment of minors is regulated by the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) of the Department of Industrial Relations, the Department of Education, and local school districts. Statutes relating to the employment of minors are found in the Education Code and the Labor Code, and implementing regulations are contained in the California Code of Regulations. To the extent that an employer located in California is engaged in interstate commerce, or in the production, manufacture, or delivery of goods for shipment in interstate commerce, the employer is also subject to the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and related federal regulations that deal with child labor [29 U.S.C. §§ 203(l), 212; see § 100B.31[1]]. The various laws and regulations are not always consistent with one another, and the practices of the regulatory authorities involved in enforcing the statutory requirements differ considerably according to region. When state and federal laws differ, higher standards set by the state are controlling [29 U.S.C. § 218].

Violations of child labor laws carry civil and criminal penalties under both state and federal law [see, e.g., Educ. Code § 49182; Lab. Code §§ 1288, 1303; 29 U.S.C. § 216(a), (e); see [2], below; see also § 100B.31].

[2] Violations by Employers

[a] Criminal Penalties

Both the Education Code and the Labor Code treat violations of statutory duties imposed on employers as criminal offenses [see Educ. Code § 49182; Lab. Code § 1303]. The penalty for each offense is a fine of at least $1,000, or up to six months' imprisonment, or both, with a penalty of up to $10,000, or up to six months imprisonment, or both, for each willful violation [Lab. Code § 1303 (imprisonment not to be imposed except for second or subsequent conviction)]. Other sections of the Labor Code provide criminal penalties for violations of specific prohibitions. For example, Lab. Code § 1391 makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $1,000 to $5,000, imprisonment for up to 60 days, or both, to violate the restrictions on the hours minors may work, with a penalty of up to $10,000, or imprisonment for up to six months, or both, for willful violations [Lab. Code § 1391(c) (imprisonment not to be imposed except for second or subsequent conviction); see [4], below. Lab. Code § 1308 provides for a fine of $1,000 to $5,000, or imprisonment for up to six months, or both, for violation of its provisions prohibiting parents or other persons with custody of a minor from allowing the minor to engage in certain specified occupations (imprisonment not to be imposed except for second or subsequent conviction).

Violations of the federal laws relating to child labor carry criminal penalties of up to $10,000 or six months imprisonment, or both [29 U.S.C. § 216(a)].

[b] Civil Penalties

The Labor Code imposes civil penalties for violations of child labor laws [see Lab. Code § 1288]. Class "A" violations are those involving the employment of minors in certain occupations or environments in violation of specified provisions of the Labor Code [see Lab. Code §§ 1290, 1292, 1293, 1293.1, 1294, 1294.1, 1294.5, 1308, 1308.1, 1392] and any other violation that the Director of Industrial Relations determines presents an imminent danger to minors or a substantial probability of death or serious physical injury to minors [Lab. Code § 1288(a)]. The violation of Lab. Code § 1391 (permissible hours of employing minors) for a third or subsequent time is also a class "A" violation [Lab. Code § 1288(a)]. The penalty for class "A" violations is an amount not less than $5000, nor more than $10,000, for each violation, with a penalty of up to $10,000 for willful or repeated violations [Lab. Code § 1288(a)].

Class "B" violations are (1) violations of Lab. Code §§ 1299 or 1308.5 (pertaining to work permits); (2) a violation of Lab. Code § 1391 for the first or second time; and (3) any other violation that the Director of Industrial Relations determines to have a direct and immediate relationship to the health, safety, or security of minor employees, and that does not fall into class "A" [Lab. Code § 1288(b)]. The penalty for class "B" violations is an amount not less than $500, nor more than $1,000, for each violation; the penalty for a second violation of Lab. Code § 1391 is $1,000 [Lab. Code § 1288(b)].

The Director of Industrial Relations is authorized to issue citations to employers [Lab. Code § 1287] and to define additional class "A" and class "B" violations [see Lab. Code § 1288]. The Labor Commissioner is authorized to investigate complaints made by employees, provide hearings, and recover civil penalties [Lab. Code §§ 98, 1289(a), (c)]. An employer who has been cited must either request a hearing by the Labor Commissioner or pay the amount specified for the violation within 15 business days after service of the citation [Lab. Code § 1289(a), (b); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1013 (methods of service of citation)]. If a hearing is requested, the Labor Commissioner must hold the hearing within 30 days. At the conclusion of the hearing, the citation or proposed civil penalty must be affirmed, modified, or dismissed by the Commissioner [Lab. Code § 1289(a)]. A writ of mandate may be taken from a finding to the appropriate superior court, as long as party agrees to pay any judgment and costs ultimately rendered [Lab. Code § 1289(a)].

A violation of federal child-labor laws generally carries a civil penalty of up to $11,000 for each affected employee. If a violation results in serious injury or death of any employee under age 18, the penalty may be as much as $50,000, and that amount may be doubled in a case of a repeated or willful violation [29 U.S.C. § 216(e)].

[3] Effect of Compulsory Education Laws

Children between the ages of six and 18 must attend school full time [Educ. Code § 48200]. Exempt from this requirement are (1) students who receive private tutoring at least three hours a day, between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M., from persons holding valid California credentials [Educ. Code § 48224]; and (2) students enrolled in continuation education classes [Educ. Code § 48200; see Educ. Code §§ 48400, 48430-48438]. Children holding full-time work permits may also be exempt from full-time classes, but they must attend classes part time [Educ. Code § 48230; see also 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760].

The governing board of a school district may adopt a written policy authorizing pupil leaves of absence [Educ. Code § 48232(a)]. If this type of policy has been adopted, a child who attends school within the district and who is at least 15 years old may be granted a leave of absence for up to one semester, for the purpose of supervised travel, study, training, or work not available under another education option [Educ. Code § 48232(b)]. For a discussion of the conditions that must be satisfied in order for a pupil to obtain a leave of absence, see § 100B.243[1][b]. For coverage of the procedures for obtaining work permits and exemption from full-time education requirements, see §§ 100B.32[2] and 100B.240-100B.243.

[4] Wage and Hour Restrictions

Minors age 16 or 17 generally are not allowed to work more than eight hours in any one day or more than 48 hours in any one week. They may not work or before 5 A.M., or after 10 P.M. on any day preceding a school day. However, a minor 16 or 17 years of age may work during any evening preceding a non-school day until 12:30 A.M. [Lab. Code § 1391(a)(3); see Lab. Code § 1391(b) ("school day" defined)]. In addition, while school is in session, a minor who is 16 or 17 years old may not work more than four hours in any school day, unless the minor (1) is employed in personal attendant occupations such as babysitting [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11150], school-approved work experience, or cooperative vocational education programs; or (2) has been issued a permit to work pursuant to Educ. Code § 49112 and is employed in accordance with the provisions of that permit [Lab. Code § 1391(a)(4); see also § 100B.32[2]]. A minor 16 or 17 years of age may work in an agricultural packing plant for no more than 10 hours on any day during peak harvest season that school is not in session, if the Labor Commissioner has issued an exemption to the minor's employer [Lab. Code § 1393(a)].

More restrictive provisions with respect to maximum hours and permitted work times apply to minor age 15 or younger [see Lab. Code § 1391(a)(1), (2)]. The general rule is that a minor 15 years of age or younger cannot work more than eight hours a day or more than 40 hours in one week, or before 7 A.M. or after 7 P.M., except that from June 1 through Labor Day, a minor 15 years of age or younger may work until 9 P.M. [Lab. Code § 1391(a)(1)]. In addition, while school is in session, a minor 14 or 15 years of age cannot work more than three hours in any school day, more than 18 hours in any week, or during school hours [Lab. Code § 1391(a)(2)]. However, a minor 14 or 15 years of age who is enrolled in and employed under a school-supervised and school-administered work experience and career exploration program may be employed up to 23 hours, any portion of which may be during school hours [Lab. Code § 1391(a)(2)].

These provisions do not apply to any minor employed to deliver newspapers to consumers [Lab. Code § 1391(d)]. Minors who (1) are involved in work experience education programs [Lab. Code § 1391.1], or (2) have obtained a high school degree or its equivalent [Lab. Code § 1391.2] also are exempt from these limitations. However, emancipated minors are not exempt from the hour and occupation provisions of the Education Code and the Labor Code [see Fam. Code § 7050 (effect of emancipation does not specifically include exemption from hour and occupation limitations); Educ. Code §§ 49111, 49112; Lab. Code § 1290; see also § 100B.11[1]].

Minors 14 and 15 years of age who are employed in permitted occupations involved in interstate commerce may work a maximum of 8 hours per day and 40 hours per week. When school is in session, such minors may work a maximum of 3 hours on any school day and 18 hours in any week. They may work only between the hours of 7:00 A.M. and 7:00 P.M. except between June 1 and Labor Day, when they may work until 10:00 P.M. [29 C.F.R. § 570.35; see 29 C.F.R. §§ 570.33, 570.34 (prohibited and permitted occupations for minors age 14 and 15)].

The California and federal minimum wage standards apply to minors [Lab. Code § 1197; 29 U.S.C. § 206]. Failure to comply with California's minimum wage statute is a crime [Lab. Code §§ 1197-1199] and also carries civil penalties [see Lab. Code § 1197.1]. A minor receiving less than the minimum wage is entitled to recover the unpaid balance of the full amount owed, including interest, plus reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit [Lab. Code § 1194(a)]. Punitive damages are not available, however [see Brewer v. Premier Golf Props. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1243, 1252, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 225 ("[P]unitive damages are not recoverable when liability is premised solely on the employer's violation of the Labor Code statutes that regulate meal and rest breaks, pay stubs, and minimum wage laws.")). For a detailed analysis of the federal and California minimum wage laws, see California Employment Law, Ch. 2, Minimum Wages (Matthew Bender).

[5] Parental Entitlement to Wages

The mother of an unemancipated minor child, and the father, if presumed to be the father [see Fam. Code § 7611], are equally entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(a)]. If one parent is dead, is unable or refuses to take custody, or has abandoned the child, the other parent is entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(b)]. Special rules, however, pertain to the receipt of a child's professional earnings [see Fam. Code §§ 6750 et seq., 7500(c); see also § 100B.33]. In addition, a parent may relinquish to the child the right to control the child and to receive the child's earnings. Abandonment by the parent is presumptive evidence of that relinquishment [Fam. Code § 7504].

An employer must pay a minor employee's earnings directly to the minor, until such a time as the parent or guardian gives notice that he or she claims them [Fam. Code § 7503; Lab. Code § 3605 (Workers' Compensation); see § 100B.250].

These statutory provisions apply only to the earnings of minors, not to the property of minors. Parents do not, by virtue of their status as parents, have the right to control the property of their minor children generally [Fam. Code § 7502].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Employment of Minors

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.31

§ 100B.31 Prohibited Occupations

[1] Federal Regulation

Generally, businesses that engage in interstate commerce are prohibited from employing minors under age 16 in any capacity, and minors between the ages of 16 and 18 in occupations that have been determined to be hazardous to minors [29 U.S.C. §§ 203(l), 212]. This rule does not apply to agricultural and entertainment occupations (within certain age and hour limitations) [29 U.S.C. § 213(c)], to newspaper carriers or home workers engaged in the making of ornamental wreaths [29 U.S.C. § 213(d)], or to the employment of minors by their parents or guardians in occupations other than mining, manufacturing, and occupations found to be particularly hazardous or detrimental to the health and well-being [29 U.S.C. § 203(l)].

The Department of Labor has created several exceptions to the general rule that employment of children under the age of 16 constitutes oppressive child labor. Children age 14 or older may work in retail, clerical, and food service jobs, and in certain service station jobs [see 29 C.F.R. § 570.34; see also 29 C.F.R. § 570.33 (prohibited occupations for minors age 14 and 15)]. They may also be employed in school-sponsored work experience and career exploration programs meeting certain requirements [see 29 C.F.R. § 570.35a]. The Department has defined particular occupations and working conditions that are prohibited under the terms of the Fair Labor Standards Act, imposing civil penalties of up to $11,000 for each violation of these regulations [29 C.F.R. §§ 570.50-570.72, 579.5; see 41 U.S.C. § 35(c) (employment of minors under public contracts in excess of $10,000 prohibited); see also § 100B.111[1]].

[2] California Regulation

The Labor Code contains numerous specific restrictions on the occupations that may be engaged in by minors under age 16. Minors age 14 and 15, however, may be employed in any occupations not prohibited by these provisions [see Lab. Code § 1294.3 (giving examples of nonprohibited occupations)].

Minors under the age of 16 are prohibited from working in occupations that are dangerous or injurious to their lives, limbs, health, or morals [Lab. Code § 1294(h)]. They may not work on any railroad, vessel, or aircraft, or operate an automobile on the job [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11707; Lab. Code § 1294(a), (b), (g)]. They may not work in places where dangerous acids, dyes, gases, or other dangerous chemicals are used, or in processes involving the manufacture of tobacco [Lab. Code § 1294(c), (d), (f)]. The operation of various tools and machines by minors under age 16 is also prohibited, as is any work in proximity to moving machinery [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11701; Lab. Code §§ 1292, 1293]. Work in certain physically dangerous occupations, including the building, construction, and mining trades, and in any occupation involving the manufacture, sale, or transfer of explosives, is prohibited [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 11701, 11703; see Lab. Code § 1294(e)]. Although minors age 14 and 15 may work in gas service stations, they may only perform specific tasks listed in Lab. Code § 1294.3 [Lab. Code § 1294.5(c)].

Minors under age 16 are also prohibited from working (1) in occupations declared hazardous for minors under age 16 in federal regulations dealing with agricultural activities [Lab. Code § 1294.1(a)(1); see 29 C.F.R. § 570.71]; (2) in any occupation excluded from the application of federal regulations permitting the employment of minors 14 or 15 years of age under certain conditions [Lab. Code § 1294.1(a)(2); see 29 C.F.R. §§ 570.31 et seq., 570.33, 570.34(b)]; or (3) in occupations declared in federal regulations to be particularly hazardous to, or detrimental to the health of, minors between age 16 and 18 [Lab. Code § 1294.1(b); see 29 C.F.R. § 570.50 et seq.]. However, none of these restrictions prohibits those minors engaged in processing and delivering newspapers from entering areas of a newspaper plant, other than areas where printing presses are located, for purposes related to their work [Lab. Code § 1294.1(c)]. Moreover, these restrictions do not apply to student-learners in a bona fide vocational agricultural program meeting certain criteria [see Lab. Code § 1295(b)(1)], or minors 14 or 15 years of age holding certificates of completion of tractor operation or machine operation programs meeting specified criteria who are working in the occupations for which they have been trained [see Lab. Code § 1295(b)(2), (3)].

Minors under age 16 may not work as messengers (except for the delivery of newspapers to consumers) except in cities with a population of 15,000 or less; older minors are restricted as to the hours they may work in this occupation [see Lab. Code § 1297]. Minors under age 16 are generally prohibited from making deliveries from moving vehicles, and their employment as door-to-door sales agents is severely restricted [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 11701, 11706]. However, they are permitted to deliver newspapers from an automobile driven by a person at least 16 years of age, as well as by foot, bicycle, or public transportation [Lab. Code § 1294.4]. Minors under age 16 are also prohibited from engaging in door-to-door selling of newspaper or magazine subscriptions, candy, cookies, flowers, or other merchandise or commodities more than 50 miles from their place of residence [Lab. Code § 1308.1(b); see also § 100B.32[3]]. The DLSE is empowered to determine additional occupations or tasks that are unsuitable for performance by minors [see Lab. Code § 1296].

Generally, no business that sells or serves alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises may employ any person under age 21 for the purpose of preparing or selling alcoholic beverages [Bus. & Prof. Code § 25663(a) (employer violating this provision is guilty of misdemeanor)]. A person between age 18 and age 21 who is employed in a bona fide eating place [see Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 23038, 23038.1] that is licensed for the sale of alcoholic beverages may serve alcoholic beverages to consumers only if (1) that service occurs only in an area primarily designed and used for the sale and service of food for consumption on the premises; and (2) the primary duty of the employee is to serve food, with the service of alcoholic beverages being incidental to that duty [Bus. & Prof. Code § 25663(c) ("service" of alcoholic beverage includes delivery, presentation, opening, or pouring of beverage)]. A person under age 18 may be employed at an establishment that sells alcoholic beverages for consumption off the premises only if the employee is under the continuous supervision of a person age 21 or older [Bus. & Prof. Code § 25663(b)]. An employer who violates these sections is guilty of a misdemeanor and may be fined up to $1,000, or sentenced to six months imprisonment, or both [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 25663, 25617]. Minors age 16 and 17 may not perform work in gas service stations that involves the use of pits, racks, or lifting apparatus, or work that involves the inflation of any tire mounted on a rim equipped with a removable retaining ring [see Lab. Code § 1294.5(b)].

Minors under the age of 12 may not work in agricultural zones of danger or accompany their parents to work in such places. The presence of moving machinery, unprotected chemicals, or unprotected water hazards creates an agricultural zone of danger [Lab. Code § 1293.1(a)]. With one exception, minors under age 12 may not work or accompany their parents to work in any agriculture-related occupations declared hazardous for minors under 16 under federal regulations [Lab. Code § 1293.1(b); see also 29 C.F.R. § 570.71]. The exception to this rule applies to agricultural, horticultural, viticultural, or domestic labor performed while school is not in session, for or under the control of the minor's parent, on premises owned or controlled by the parent [Lab. Code § 1394(a)]. Minors under age 12 may not work at selling or distributing newspapers, magazines, periodicals, or circulars [Lab. Code § 1298(a)].

Minors under age 6 are not permitted to engage in door-to-door sales or street sales of candy, cookies, flowers, or any other merchandise or commodities [Lab. Code § 1308.1(a); see Lab. Code § 1286(e) ("door-to-door sales" has same meaning as "home solicitation contract or offer," as defined in Civ. Code § 1689.5(a), but without reference to that provision's minimum price limitation)]. Minors under age 16 who are regularly employed as news carriers are not prohibited from door-to-door selling of, or solicitation of subscriptions to, the newspaper that they usually deliver [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11706.2].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Employment of Minors

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.32

§ 100B.32 Special Requirements for Employment of Minors

[1] Permits to Employ Minors

A firm or corporation that wishes to employ a minor must obtain a permit to employ minors [Educ. Code § 49160; see §§ 100B.240-100B.242]. There are exceptions to this rule for the employment of minors in dramatic performances, when the consent of the Labor Commissioner has been obtained [Lab. Code § 1308.5], and situations in which minors are working under the supervision of their parents or guardians [Educ. Code § 49141].

The Superintendent of Public Instruction prepares the appropriate forms and procedures, which are administered by the local school districts [Educ. Code § 49117; see § 100B.240]. The district superintendent (or chief executive officer or equivalent of a charter school attended by the minor), or persons who are designated by the superintendent (or chief executive officer or equivalent of the charter school) and certified to provide specialized pupil personnel services or work experience education, may issue permits to employ [Educ. Code § 49110(b)(1)-(3)]. Also authorized to issue permits are the county superintendent of schools (or a person authorized by the county superintendent) if the minor does not reside within a school district or attend a charter school, and the principal (or administrator designated by the principal) of the public or private school that the minor attends [Educ. Code §§ 49110(b)(4),(5)].

Once a permit to employ has been issued, it must be kept on file by the employer during the minor's term of employment [Educ. Code § 49161; Lab. Code § 1299]. Various education and labor officials may inspect the premises from time to time, and the permit will be subject to cancellation if the inspections reveal any violations of the laws relating to the employment of minors [Educ. Code § 49164; see Lab. Code § 1300].

If a minor is not required by law to attend school, but is otherwise required to hold a work permit, a certificate of age will serve as the employer's permit to employ [Educ. Code § 49114; see [2], below; see also § 100B.240[1]].

The employment of minors in the entertainment industry requires special consents, forms, and procedures. The DLSE is authorized to issue permits for the employment of minors to entertainment industry employers [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11753; see Lab. Code § 1308.5]. "Blanket Permits" may also be issued, subject to certain conditions and limitations, for the employment of groups or organizations of minors [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754; see § 100B.242[1][d]]. In addition to satisfying employment permit requirements, employers in the entertainment industry must provide studio teachers to instruct and supervise minor employees. Studio teachers are certified for this purpose by the Labor Commissioner [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755]. For coverage of the procedures to obtain permits to employ minors in the entertainment industry, see Sections 100B.121[1] and 100B.242[1].

Anyone who makes a false statement on a permit to employ is guilty of a misdemeanor and will be punished by a fine of not more than $100, imprisoned for not more than 30 days, or both [Educ. Code § 49183].

[2] Work Permits

Work permits may be issued to persons between the ages of 12 and 18 [Educ. Code § 49111]. A minor is permitted to work only if he or she holds a valid work permit or is exempt from the work permit requirements by the provisions of the Education Code [Lab. Code § 1290]. Regular work permits may be issued by the district superintendent (or chief executive officer or equivalent of a charter school attended by the minor); certified work experience instructors; the county superintendent of schools (or a person authorized by the county superintendent) if the minor does not reside within a school district or attend a charter school; or the principal (or administrator designated by the principal) of the public or private school that the minor attends [Educ. Code § 49110(b)]. Permits to work in the entertainment field and related fields are issued by the DLSE [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11752; see Lab. Code § 1308.5]. The authority that issued the permit may revoke it at any time if it determines that the work is interfering with the minor's health or education [Educ. Code § 49116(c)].

A minor's parent, guardian, foster parent, caregiver with whom the child resides, or residential shelter services provider must file a written request with the proper issuing authority before a work permit can be issued [Educ. Code § 49110(c); see Fam. Code § 7050(e)(16)]. To obtain a certificate of age (used by minors who are not required to attend school full-time but are otherwise required to hold work permits), or permission for a minor under the age of 16 to work full-time, the parent or guardian must appear in person before the issuing authority [Educ. Code §§ 49114, 49132].

In order to obtain a permit to work on school days, a minor ordinarily must be at least 14 years old and must have completed the equivalent of the seventh grade [Educ. Code § 49112(a); see Educ. Code § 49112(d) (permit requirement not applicable to minors employed to deliver newspapers to consumers)]. Maximum hours that may be worked under the permit on a school day depend on the age of the minor [Educ. Code § 49112(a); see Educ. Code § 49112(c) (extended hours permitted on school day preceding nonschool day for minors age 16 or older)]. Permits to work in a school-sponsored employment program may also be issued to a minor 13 years old who has completed the sixth grade but who has been identified by a school district as exhibiting the potential to drop out of school [Educ. Code § 49112(b)].

A permit to work full-time during the school year may be issued to a minor between the ages of 14 and 16 only on a showing that he or she has successfully completed an elementary school course and has no other sufficient source of support [Educ. Code § 49130]. If a parent or guardian is available and able to support the minor, this type of permit will not be issued. Minors over age 16 may obtain full-time work permits without meeting the education and necessity requirements applicable to those between 14 and 16 years of age [Educ. Code § 49131].

Minors who are employed by their parents or guardians are not required to have work permits [Educ. Code § 49141]. In practice, work permits are not required for minors engaged in employments such as babysitting, newspaper routes, and yard work [18 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 114 (1951); see Educ. Code § 49112(d) (specific exemption for newspaper deliveries)].

[3] Registration of Persons Hiring or Transporting Minors Engaged in Door-to-Door Sales

Any individual, association, corporation, or other entity that employs or uses, indirectly through third persons or directly, minors under age 16 in door-to-door sales at any location more than 10 miles from the minor's residence, must register annually with the Labor Commissioner [Lab. Code § 1308.3(a)]. Registration requires the execution under penalty of perjury of a written application (including a copy of any written contract or agreement offered to the minor or used in the sales), an investigation into whether the applicant has previously violated the California child labor laws and whether the minors will be exposed to hazardous or unsafe working conditions, and payment of a fee [Lab. Code § 1308.3(b)]. Registrants must make all of their payroll records available for inspection by the Labor Commissioner [Lab. Code § 1308.3(c)]. These registration requirements do not apply to a trustee or charitable corporation [see Gov. Code §§ 12582, 12582.1] or to an entity described in Gov. Code § 12583, which generally includes governmental units and agencies, certain religious organizations or charities operated as religious organizations, educational institutions, hospitals, or licensed health care plans [Lab. Code § 1308.3(g)].

Similar registration requirements apply to anyone age 18 or older who transports, or provides direction or supervision during transportation of, a minor under age 16 to any location more than 10 miles from the minor's residence, or who directs or supervises the minor, for the purpose of facilitating the minor's participation in door-to-door sales of any merchandise or commodity [Lab. Code § 1308.2(a)]. Registration requires the execution under penalty of perjury of a written application; an investigation of the applicant's character, competency, and responsibility; and payment of a fee [Lab. Code § 1308.2(b)]. These registration requirements do not apply to the minor's parents or guardians, to anyone solely providing transportation for hire, or to anyone acting on behalf of a trustee or charitable corporation [see Gov. Code §§ 12582, 12582.1] or an entity described in Gov. Code § 12583 [Lab. Code § 1308.2(f)].

The Labor Commissioner may revoke, suspend, or refuse to renew a registration in any of the following circumstances:

- The registrant or an agent of the registrant has violated or failed to comply with the provisions governing registration [Lab. Code § 1308.4(a); see Lab. Code §§ 1308.2, 1308.3];
- The registrant has made any misrepresentation or false statement in the application for registration [Lab. Code § 1308.4(b)];
- The registrant has operated in a manner substantially different from the conditions of operation stated in the application for registration [Lab. Code § 1308.4(c)];
- The Labor Commissioner or a court of law has found that the registrant or an agent of the registrant has violated, or willfully aided or abetted the violation of, any California law regulating the employment of minors [Lab. Code § 1308.4(d)]; or
- The Secretary of Labor or a court of law has found that the registrant has violated the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act [Lab. Code § 1308.4(e); see also 29 U.S.C. § 212 (FLSA child labor provisions)].

CHAPTER 100B CONTRACTS AND EMPLOYMENT OF MINORS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
C. Employment of Minors

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.33

§ 100B.33 Professional Entertainment and Sports Contracts Involving Minors

[1] Court Approval Requirement

An employment contract under which a minor agrees to perform as an artist or athlete, or to render other artistic or creative services, either directly or through a third party, may be submitted for approval to the superior court [Fam. Code § 6751(a)]. Once approved by the court, the contract will not be subject to disaffirmance on the basis of minority [Fam. Code § 6751(a)].

Artistic services subject to this provision include, but are not limited to, acting, dancing, writing, composing, directing, producing, designing, song writing, arranging, producing music, or performing as a musician, comedian, singer, stunt-person, or other entertainer [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(1)]. Athletic services covered include any in which the minor is "employed or agrees to render services as a participant or player in a sport" [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(3)].

This rule also applies to any contract by which a minor agrees to purchase, sell, lease, license, or otherwise dispose of any tangible or intangible rights in literary, musical, or dramatic properties, or the use of a person's likeness, voice recording, performance, or story of or incidents in his or her life--either tangible or intangible--for any use in the entertainment field, including motion pictures, television, the production of sound recordings in any format, or the legitimate or living stage [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(2)].

A contract to secure personal-management services to advance a minor's acting career is not a contract in which the minor agrees to perform artistic services; such a contract, therefore, is not strictly within the scope of this rule [see Fam. Code § 6750(a)]. As a practical matter, however, parties to agreements for personal-management services in the entertainment industry routinely seek court approval, for the protection of all involved [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal App. 4th 809, 819 n.4, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140] .

[2] Trust Account for Minor's Earnings

Notwithstanding the general rule regarding parental entitlement to a minor's wages [see § 100B.30(5)], at least 15 percent of a minor's gross earnings must be set aside by the minor's employer and placed in a trust account in a bank, savings and loan, or similar financial institution, as prescribed by statute [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b), (d), 6753(a)]. At least one parent or legal guardian of the minor who is entitled to the minor's physical care, custody, and control, must serve as a trustee of the account, and the trustee, or trustees, as the case may be, are responsible for monitoring and accounting for the funds on deposit [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(2), (d)(1)]. Each trustee is subject to the law of trusts and occupies a fiduciary position with respect to the minor [Fam. Code § 6752(e)].

The set-aside rule for earnings applies whether or not a court has approved the underlying contract [Fam. Code § 6752(b), (d)]. If the court has approved the contract, the court retains jurisdiction over the trust [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(7)].

With limited exceptions (for example, to pay taxes on the minor's earnings), the funds may not be removed from the trust account, except on court order, until the minor reaches age 18, at which time he or she can withdraw the funds [Fam. Code §§ 6752(e), 6753(b), (e)(3)]. Terms and conditions for establishing the trust account and its management are set forth in Fam. Code §§ 6752 and 6753. For forms relating to court approval of minors' employment contracts, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions (Matthew Bender).

B. Preliminary Determinations

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.110

§ 100B.110 Contracts Involving Minors

[1] Capacity to Contract

1. Determine whether minor is emancipated--and therefore has capacity to contract--by reason of any of following circumstances [Fam. Code § 7002]:

a. Minor is or has been legally married.

NOTE:

A minor who has entered into a legal marriage will not lose his or her emancipated status on dissolution of the marriage [Fam. Code § 7002(a)].

b. Minor is currently on active military duty.

c. Minor has obtained declaration of emancipation [see Fam. Code § 7122].

NOTE:

For a discussion of the judicial declaration of emancipation procedure, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors, and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 245, Emancipation of Minors (Matthew Bender).

2. Confirm that contract does not concern subject matter for which minors may not contract, such as:

a. Lease, purchase, or other contract to obtain vehicle subject to registration by minor without valid driver's license [Veh. Code § 15500].

b. Delegation of power [Fam. Code § 6701(a)].

NOTE:

The prohibition against delegations of power by minors does not apply to the petition of a minor of at least 12 years of age for the appointment of a guardian [Prob. Code § 1510(a)].

- c. Real property or any interest in real property [Fam. Code § 6701(b)].

NOTE:

There is no prohibition, however, against minors owning real property or interests in real property [see Oyama v. California (1948) 332 U.S. 633, 640, 92 L. Ed. 249, 68 S. Ct. 68] . If a minor is to receive property from an estate, but does not have a legal guardian or other person authorized to receive the property, it may be liquidated and placed in an account held by the county treasurer for the minor [Prob. Code § 11850(c)].

- d. Personal property not within minor's immediate possession or control [Fam. Code § 6701(c)].

NOTE:

Minors may execute a valid assignment of their wages, provided the written consent of a parent or guardian is attached to the assignment [see Lab. Code § 300(b)(3)]. For a form for parental consent to a minor's wage assignment, see § 100B.251.

- e. Contract for attorneys' fees for litigation services that has not been approved by court [Fam. Code § 6602].

[2] Power of Disaffirmance

1. Determine whether contract is one that minor cannot disaffirm, such as [Fam. Code § 6711]:

NOTE:

Minors may disaffirm their contracts, before reaching the age of majority or within a reasonable time thereafter, except for contracts entered into under the express authority or direction of a statute [Fam. Code §§ 6710, 6711].

- a. Contract to pay reasonable value of necessities [see § 100B.200], to extent that all of following circumstances exist [Fam. Code § 6712]:

NOTE:

A contract may be inferred from the furnishing of necessities as requested by the minor [see Leonard v. Alexander (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 385, 122 P.2d 984] , or in circumstances in which the minor would have requested them if he or she had been able to do so [see Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 186 P.2d 417] . For a discussion of items that may be considered "necessities," see § 100B.22[2].

- (1) Minor is not under care of parent or guardian able to provide those necessities.

- (2) Items are actually necessary to support of minor or minor's family.

(3) Items are actually provided to minor or minor's family.

b. Contract that has been approved by superior court and involves:

NOTE:

Minors are not prohibited from entering into contracts in these areas without the approval of the court. However, contracts that have not been approved will be subject to the minor's disaffirmance [see Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751]. Although a contract to secure personal-management services to advance a minor's acting career is not listed in the governing statute [see Fam. Code § 6750(a)], parties to agreements for personal-management services in the entertainment industry routinely seek court approval, for the protection of all involved [Berg v. Traylor (2007) 148 Cal App. 4th 809, 819 n.4, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 140] .

(1) Minor's employment in entertainment industry, as [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(1)]:

(a) Actor or actress.

(b) Dancer.

(c) Musician.

(d) Comedian.

(e) Singer.

(f) Writer.

(g) Director.

(h) Producer.

(i) Production executive.

(j) Choreographer.

(k) Composer.

(l) Conductor.

(m) Designer.

(n) Stunt-person.

(o) Voice-over artist.

(p) Songwriter.

(q) Musical producer.

(r) Musical arranger.

(s) Other type of performer or entertainment industry employee.

(2) Minor's agreement to purchase, sell, lease, license, or otherwise dispose of tangible or intangible rights in literary, musical, or dramatic properties for use in entertainment industry [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(2)].

(3) Minor's employment as participant or player in sport [Fam. Code § 6750(a)(3)].

(4) Minor's agreement with talent agency [Lab. Code § 1700.37].

c. Minor's consent to medical treatment, in certain circumstances [Fam. Code §§ 6900-6929; see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors].

NOTE:

For a discussion of a minor's obligation to pay for medical treatment obtained pursuant to his or her nondisaffirmable consent, see § 100B.22[2].

d. Minor's written relinquishment to licensed adoption agency, or consent to adoption, of his or her child [Fam. Code §§ 8606(b)-(e), 8700(b); but see Fam. Code § 8700(e) (relinquishment may be withdrawn at any time before certified copy of it is filed with State Department of Social Services)].

e. Contract entered into by minor in capacity as public officer or candidate for public office [Gov. Code § 275.2].

f. Premarital or marital property agreement made by emancipated minor or minor otherwise capable of contracting marriage [Fam. Code § 1501].

g. Minor veteran's contract for purchase of farm or home from Department of Veterans Affairs, or other related contract [Mil. & Vet. Code § 986.10].

h. Certain contracts of minors for life insurance, disability insurance, or annuities [see Fam. Code § 7051].

2. Determine whether contract is void [see [1], above].

NOTE:

If a contract is void, the minor does not need to perform any acts of disaffirmance or return any consideration received under the contract [see Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 865, 186 P.2d 417; Sparks v. Sparks (1951) 101 Cal. App. 2d 129, 137, 225 P.2d 238] .

3. Ascertain that disaffirmance will be in minor's best interest.

a. Determine whether minor will be able to return consideration received without hardship [see Civ. Code § 1691].

NOTE:

It is uncertain whether a minor is required to return any consideration received upon disaffirmance of a contract [see Fam. Code § 6710].

b. Determine whether performing obligations under contract will be more burdensome to minor than giving up benefits of contract.

NOTE:

A contract cannot be partially disaffirmed. A minor who disaffirms his or her obligations under a contract must also give up the expectation of receiving future benefits under the contract [Peers v. McLaughlin (1891) 88 Cal. 294, 26 P. 119] .

4. Ascertain that none of following has occurred to render otherwise disaffirmable contract binding on minor:

a. Minor has ratified contract after reaching age of majority (18), either:

(1) By express oral or written ratification [see Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911] .

(2) By continuing to perform obligations under contract [see Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 186 P.2d 417 ; Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132] .

NOTE:

Ratifications made during minority are not binding on the minor making them, and do not preclude a later disaffirmance [Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 221 P.2d 178] .

b. Minor has failed to perform any acts indicating disaffirmance within reasonable time after reaching age 18 [Fam. Code § 6710].

NOTE:

The circumstances of the particular case must be considered to determine whether the person seeking to disaffirm the contract has acted within a reasonable time after reaching the age of majority [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 137 P. 911] . If upon reaching majority the minor is aware of his or her right to disaffirm, the statute of limitations for an action on the contract may serve as a guide to determining a reasonable time [Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132 ; see Code Civ. Proc §§ 337 (four-year limitation for actions on written contracts), 339 (two-year limitation for actions on oral contracts)].

c. Contract has been approved by superior court [Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751; see §§ 100B.33, 100B.203[1][b]].

5. Determine who should execute disaffirmance:

a. Minor, if living [Fam. Code § 6710].

b. If minor is deceased, minor's heir or personal representative, either [Fam. Code § 6710]:

(1) Administrator of estate, if estate has been administered under court supervision [see Prob. Code § 8461 (persons entitled to administer estate of intestate decedent)].

(2) Beneficiaries under minor's will, if minor executed will after reaching age 18 or becoming emancipated.

(3) Heirs under laws of intestate succession [see Prob. Code §§ 6400-6455].

[3] Preventing Disaffirmance

1. Determine whether third party guarantor for minor's performance is desirable [see § 100B.210].

NOTE:

A guaranty is not necessary if the minor's contract is not disaffirmable, and will have no effect if the contract is void. See Paragraph 1 in [2], above, for a list of nondisaffirmable and void contracts of minors.

- a. Ascertain that obligation is not binding on minor.
- b. Ascertain that contract is not void.
- c. Ascertain that one of following applies:
 - (1) Minor's only obligation under contract is to pay money.
 - (2) Minor's only obligation under contract is simple task not requiring minor's personal skill or knowledge.
 - (3) Oblige will accept payment of money in lieu of minor's performance of personal services or delivery of unique items.
- d. Ascertain whether proposed guarantor is:
 - (1) Over age 18.

NOTE:

The use of a minor guarantor would defeat the purpose of the guaranty clause, since the guarantor, like the primary obligor, would be able to disaffirm the obligation [see Fam. Code § 6710].

- (2) Within jurisdiction of court in which obligee would, if necessary, sue to enforce obligation.
- (3) In position to influence minor to honor contract.

2. Determine whether validity of contract should be conditioned on superior court approval [see § 100B.203].

- a. Ascertain that contract is subject to court approval procedure [Fam. Code § 6750; Lab. Code § 1700.37; see § 100B.203].
- b. Determine whether risk of minor's disaffirmance and hardship resulting from disaffirmance justify time and expense required to obtain court approval of contract.

NOTE:

For a procedural guide to obtaining court approval of a minor's contract, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 364, Minors: Contract Actions (Matthew Bender).

c. Ascertain that minor's parent or guardian will consent to court's plan to preserve minor's earnings under contract [see Fam. Code § 6752].

NOTE:

The court must order that 15 percent of a minor's earnings under an entertainment industry or professional sports employment contract be set aside and preserved for the minor's future use. The individual (at least one custodial parent or guardian) who serves as trustee must provide the minor's employer with a copy of a statement that identifies the trust account into which the earnings will be placed and must render an annual accounting for the trust funds [Fam. Code §§ 6752, 6753; see § 100B.204].

[4] Release of Contract Claims by or Against Minor

NOTE:

The following determinations address only those aspects of settlement and release that are unique to minors' contract claims. For a general guide to settlement and release of claims, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations. For coverage of tort claims by or against minors, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

1. If claim involves minor's contract breach, determine whether minor can avoid liability by disaffirming contract.

NOTE:

A minor can disaffirm most types of contractual obligations without incurring liability for breach [Fam. Code §§ 6710, 6711]. For a list of contracts that cannot be disaffirmed, and a list of acts by the minor that may extinguish the right of disaffirmance, see Paragraph 1 in [2], above.

2. Ascertain that claim does not involve any of following acts, for which release of liability through contract is prohibited [Civ. Code § 1668]:

- a. Fraud.
- b. Willful injury to persons or property.
- c. Violations of law.

3. Determine extent of release, considering following [see Civ. Code §§ 1541-1543]:

- a. General release is appropriate if parties wish to cancel contract.
- b. Special release is appropriate if claim involves litigation or dispute over single breach or aspect of contract, and parties wish to continue contractual relationship.
- c. Release of later-discovered claims is generally appropriate only if likelihood of later-discovered claims is very low.

4. Determine who may properly execute release, either:

- a. Guardian of minor's estate [Prob. Code § 2500(a)(1)].
 - b. If minor has no guardian of estate, one of following [Prob. Code § 3500(a)]:
 - (1) Custodial parent [Prob. Code § 3500(a)(2)].
 - (2) Either parent, if parents are living together [Prob. Code § 3500(a)(1)].
 - c. Minor, if emancipated [Fam. Code § 7050(e)(5)].
 - d. Only guardian of estate or guardian ad litem, if action or proceeding on claim has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 372].
5. Determine whether one of following circumstances exists, requiring prior court approval of compromise and release:

NOTE:

For forms and discussion relating to court approval of the compromise and release of a minor's claim, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 364, Minors: Claims and Property of Minors (Matthew Bender).

- a. Compromise requires transfer or encumbrance of property belonging to minor's estate, or creation of unsecured liability of estate, in amount or value exceeding $25,000 [Prob. Code § 2502].
- b. Compromise involves claim by minor against guardian or guardian's attorney, whether or not arising out of administration of minor's estate [Prob. Code § 2503].
- c. Compromise involves minor's claim for support, maintenance, or education of self or children, or for wrongful death [Prob. Code § 2504(a), (b)].
- d. Compromise involves real property interests, other than extension, renewal, or modification of lease in situation in which either of following applies [Prob. Code § 2501(b)]:

NOTE:

Because minors lack the capacity to contract regarding interests in real property [Fam. Code § 6701], a minor would rarely have occasion to enter into a compromise of a contract claim involving real property.

- (1) Under lease as extended, renewed, or modified, rental does not exceed $5,000 per month and term does not exceed two years.
- (2) Lease is from month to month, regardless of amount of rent.
- e. Compromise is executed by minor's parent or parents [Prob. Code § 3500(b)].
- f. Action or proceeding on claim has been filed [Code Civ. Proc. § 372].

[6] Registration of Persons Hiring or Transporting Minors Engaged in Door-to-Door Sales

1. Determine whether registration with Labor Commissioner is required because client is individual, association, corporation, or other entity that employs or uses, directly or indirectly through third persons, minors under 16 years of age in door-to-door sales anywhere more than 10 miles from minor's residence [Lab. Code § 1308.3(a)].

NOTE:

This requirement does not apply to trustees, charitable corporations, or certain other entities [Lab. Code § 1308.3(g)].

2. Determine whether registration with Labor Commissioner is required because client is person over 18 years of age who transports, or provides direction or supervision during transportation of, minor under 16 years of age to location more than 10 miles from minor's residence, or directs or supervises minor, for purpose of facilitating minor's participation in door-to-door sales of any commodity [Lab. Code § 1308.2(a)].

NOTE:

This requirement does not apply to any minor's parents or guardians, anyone solely providing transportation for hire who is not otherwise subject to registration, or anyone acting on behalf of trustees, charitable corporations, or certain other entities [Lab. Code § 1308.2(f)].

§ 100B.120 Procedural Guide to Contracts Involving Minors

[1] Contracts for Necessities

1. Draft contract to include following [see § 100B.200]:

NOTE:

For general guides to contract drafting and standard contractual provisions, see Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions . For contracts governing sales of goods under the Uniform Commercial Code, see Ch. 52, Sales of Goods Under the Uniform Commercial Code .

a. Preliminary matters, including:

(1) Name of each party.

(2) Acknowledgment of minor's age.

(3) Minor's statement that goods or services to be provided are necessary to support minor or minor's family [see Fam. Code § 6712(a)].

(4) Minor's statement that parent or guardian is absent or unable to provide subject goods or services [see Fam. Code § 6712(c)].

b. Terms of contract, including:

(1) Description of goods or services to be provided.

(2) Price and payment terms.

(3) Required disclosure statements, if contract provides for interest or installment payments [see 15 U.S.C. § 1606 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.; see also Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales].

(4) Guarantor or security arrangements, if any.

c. General provisions, including:

(1) Entire agreement clause.

(2) Choice of law clause.

(3) Attorneys' fees clause.

2. Review draft with client.

a. Explain that minor cannot disaffirm contract [Fam. Code § 6712; see §§ 100B.22[2], 100B.200[1][b]].

b. Ascertain that minor fully understands credit terms, if any.

c. Inform provider of necessities that he or she can also recover reasonable value of necessities actually provided to minor from minor's parent or guardian, to extent parent or guardian is able to pay [Fam. Code § 3950].

3. Obtain signatures of all parties.

4. Indicate date and place of agreement.

5. Provide each party with signed copy of contract, and keep copy for attorney's records.

[2] Ratification of Contracts

NOTE:

In order for the ratification of a minor's contract to be valid and binding, it must be executed after the minor reaches age 18. Ratifications executed by a minor are not binding [see Fam. Code § 6700, 6710; Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 221 P.2d 178]. For a guaranty that a minor will ratify a contract on reaching the age of majority, see § 100B.210.

1. Negotiate consideration, if any, to be paid to client (former minor) in exchange for ratification.

2. Draft ratification to include [see § 100B.211]:

a. Adequate description of contract or obligation to be ratified, including:

(1) Date contract was made.

(2) Parties.

(3) Client's obligations.

(4) Other important terms.

NOTE:

If the contract is written, a copy of it should be attached to the ratification for reference.

b. Statement of client's date of birth, age at time contract was made, and present age.

c. Client's acknowledgment of right to disaffirm contract.

d. Clear and unambiguous statement of ratification.

e. Acknowledgment of any consideration received in exchange for ratification.

3. If ratification is in form of promise to pay debt incurred during minority [see § 100B.212], include additional requirements for negotiable instruments [Com. Code § 3104; see Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments]:

a. Unconditional promise to pay specified amount.

b. Statement that amount is payable either:

(1) On demand.

(2) At definite time.

c. Statement that debt is payable either:

(1) To order.

(2) To bearer.

4. Review draft with client.

a. Make sure client understands legal right to disaffirm obligation, and full extent of duties assumed by ratifying contract.

b. Instruct client to verify date of birth as stated and execute ratification.

5. Indicate date and place of execution.

6. Provide executed copies of ratification to each party to original contract, and keep copy for attorney's records.

[3] Notices of Nullity

NOTE:

Minors' contracts regarding real property interests are void and are not subject to ratification once the minor reaches the age of majority [Fam. Code § 6701(b); Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911 ; see § 100B.213[1][b]]. A minor who has executed a purported conveyance of real property should execute and record a notice that the conveyance is void, to put others who deal with the property on notice that there is a cloud on the title.

1. Draft notice to include [see § 100B.213]:

- a. Names of grantor, grantee, and other parties to transaction.
- b. Legal description of property affected.
- c. Statement of minor's age at time of conveyance.
- d. Place where original instrument was recorded.

2. Review notice with minor and obtain minor's signature.

3. Indicate date and place executed.

4. Have notice notarized.

NOTE:

The form for acknowledgment by a notary is specified by Civ. Code § 1189.

5. Record notice in each county in which original conveyance was recorded [see Civ. Code § 1213].

NOTE:

A minor's notice that his or her conveyance of real property is void is entitled to recording as an instrument that purports to affect title to real property [see Gov. Code § 27280].

6. Deliver copies of executed, notarized notice to all parties to original conveyance, and keep copy for attorney's records.

[4] Disaffirmance of Contracts

NOTE:

Except as otherwise specified by statute, contracts entered into by minors may be disaffirmed by them before, or within a reasonable time after, they reach the age of majority (18) [Fam. Code §§ 6710, 6711]. A disaffirmance may be written, made orally, or made through actions indicating an intent to repudiate the contract [Pereira v. Toscano (1927) 84 Cal. App. 526, 258 P. 429] . However, a written disaffirmance will prevent disputes regarding whether, when, and in what manner the disaffirmance was actually made.

1. Draft written disaffirmance, including the following provisions [see §§ 100B.214 (disaffirmance of contract), 100B.215 (disaffirmance of promissory note)]:

NOTE:

A disaffirmance may also be made orally, or through actions indicating an intent to repudiate the contract [Pereira v. Toscano (1927) 84 Cal. App. 526, 258 P. 429] . However, a written disaffirmance will prevent disputes regarding whether, when, and in what manner the disaffirmance actually was made.

a. Adequate description of contract or obligation disaffirmed, including:

(1) Date contract was made.

(2) Parties.

(3) Subject matter.

(4) Material terms.

NOTE:

If the contract is written, a copy of it should be attached to the notice of disaffirmance.

b. Clear and unambiguous statement of disaffirmance.

c. Statement that minor is returning consideration already received under contract.

NOTE:

It is unclear whether a minor who disaffirms an obligation is required to return benefits received under the contract prior to the disaffirmance [see Fam. Code § 6710; see also Civ. Code § 1691]. The minor should return the benefits, if he or she can do so without undue hardship, since a refusal to do so may encourage the other party to contest the validity of the disaffirmance.

d. Demand for return of any consideration advanced by minor, or acknowledgment of receipt if consideration has already been returned.

NOTE:

If, prior to the minor's disaffirmance, the goods sold by the minor pursuant to the contract are transferred to another purchaser, for value and without notice of the transferor's defect of title, the minor may not recover the goods from that innocent purchaser [Fam. Code § 6713].

e. If disaffirmance will be executed by heir or personal representative of deceased minor [see § 100B.216], include:

NOTE:

Upon the death of a minor, the heirs or personal representatives may disaffirm the minor's contracts that could have been disaffirmed by the minor during his or her lifetime [Fam. Code § 6710]. To determine who should execute the disaffirmance, see §§ 100B.110[2] and 100B.216[1][c].

(1) Statement that minor is deceased, specifying date of death.

(2) Statement of signatory's capacity, either:

(a) Personal representative (executor or administrator) of minor's estate; or

NOTE:

Because unemancipated minors generally lack the capacity to dispose of property by will [Prob. Code § 6100], the personal representative of a deceased minor's estate ordinarily would be a court-appointed administrator rather than an executor or an administrator with the will annexed [see Prob. Code § 8460(a) (appointment of administrator as personal representative for estate of intestate decedent)]. For the same reason, in the usual case there would be no beneficiaries under a will who might give a notice of disaffirmation; only heirs at law [see (b), below]. However, if a minor became emancipated or reached the age of majority, thereafter made a will, and death occurred soon after, an executor or administrator with the will annexed appointed under such a will might conceivably disaffirm a contract or contracts made by the decedent before the decedent had become emancipated or reached the age of majority. Similarly, there might be beneficiaries under such a will who could disaffirm in this situation.

(b) Heir of minor or beneficiary under will of minor.

(3) Probate number and court in which probate is pending, if applicable.

2. Review draft with minor, or minor's heir or personal representative, and obtain signature.

3. Indicate date and place of agreement.

4. File petition for court approval of disaffirmance only if:

NOTE:

Heirs or personal representatives are not required by statute to obtain court approval before giving notice of disaffirmance of a deceased minor's contract [see Fam. Code § 6710]. However, it may be advisable to seek court approval if there are questions concerning the validity of the disaffirmance. For further discussion of this issue, see § 100B.216[1][d][i].

a. Minor is deceased and disaffirmance is executed by minor's heir or personal representative.

b. Either of following applies:

(1) Uncertainty exists as to whether contract is:

(a) Void [see Fam. Code § 6701].

NOTE:

Disaffirmance is not necessary to extinguish a minor's obligation under a void contract [Fam. Code § 6701; see Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 865, 186 P.2d 417].

(b) Subject to disaffirmance [see Fam. Code §§ 6700, 6710, 6711; see also § 100B.110[2]].

(2) Personal representative is public administrator or creditor of minor, or other potential conflict of interest exists.

5. Deliver copies of disaffirmance to:

a. All parties to contract.

b. All other persons who may be affected by disaffirmance.

6. Keep copy of disaffirmance for attorney's records.

[5] Release of Contract Claims by or Against Minor

1. Negotiate settlement agreement.

NOTE:

For a guide to settlement of disputed claims, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations. For a discussion of the release of minors' tort claims, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

2. Draft release to include [see §§ 100B.230 (release of minor's claim), 100B.231 (release of claim against minor)]:

a. Identification of parties to release.

(1) Minor's name and statement of minority.

(2) Name of person executing release on minor's behalf, and statement of relationship to minor.

(3) Other parties to release.

b. Identification of contract out of which claim arose.

NOTE:

If the contract is written, a copy should be attached to the release for reference.

c. Extent of release, either:

(1) Release of specific claim or cause of action only.

(2) General release.

(3) General release including later-discovered claims.

d. Acknowledgment of consideration given for release.

NOTE:

Consideration is not necessary to support a written release. Oral releases require consideration [Civ. Code § 1541].

e. Statement that either:

(1) Contract is canceled; or

(2) Release does not discharge duty of future performance under contract.

f. Statement conditioning validity of release on superior court approval, if required by law [see § 100B.110[4]] or desired by parties.

3. Review release with parties.

4. Obtain court approval of release, if required [see § 100B.110[4]; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 364, Minors: Claims and Property of Actions, and Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions (Matthew Bender)].

5. Collect payment for release, if payment is owed by minor party.

NOTE:

Property due the minor should be collected by the person specified by the court order approving the settlement and release [see Prob. Code §§ 3600-3612]. If the settlement and release have been executed without court approval, the guardian of the minor's estate should collect the property [see Prob. Code § 2500]. A minor's parent cannot execute a release until payment has been delivered and deposited pursuant to the court order, if any [Prob. Code § 3500(d)].

6. Instruct client to execute release.

7. Indicate date and place of execution.

8. Provide executed copies of release to each party and retain copy for attorney's records.

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.121

§ 100B.121 Procedural Guide to Employment of Minors

[1] Obtaining Work Permits and Permits to Employ

NOTE:

See § 100B.111[3] to determine what type of work permit, if any, will be required.

1. For regular work permit and permit to employ, or certificate of age:

a. Instruct minor to obtain Statement of Intent to Employ Minor and Request for Work Permit [see § 100B.240] from school, local school district administrative office, or Department of Education.

NOTE:

The same form is used to request regular work permits, permits to employ, and certificates of age.

b. Instruct prospective employer to fill out lower portion of application and sign application.

c. Instruct minor or minor's parent or guardian to fill in upper portion of application.

d. Obtain signature of parent or guardian.

e. Instruct minor to present application and proof of age, in person, to local school superintendent or other officer authorized to issue work permit.

NOTE:

If the job placement officer at the minor's school is unable to direct the minor to the appropriate person and place to which the application should be delivered, the local school district administrative office can provide this information.

f. Advise parent, guardian, or employer to accompany minor when presenting application if any of following applies:

- (1) Occupation or working conditions are particularly unusual for minors.
- (2) Minor is claiming special exceptions to hour and occupation restrictions, or schooling requirements.

2. For full-time work permit and permit to employ:

- a. Complete application in same manner as for regular work permit [see PP 1a--d, above].
- b. Instruct minor, and parent or guardian if minor is under age 16 [see Educ. Code § 49132], to present application in person before local school superintendent or other officer authorized to issue work permits.
- c. Instruct minor to provide following documents to superintendent at time application is submitted [Educ. Code § 49133]:

- (1) School record signed by teacher or principal and stating:
 - (a) Minor's age.

- (b) Minor's grade.

- (c) Minor's attendance record for current term.

- (2) Evidence of birth, such as:

- (a) Birth certificate.

- (b) Baptism certificate duly attested.

- (c) School record of enrollment.

- (d) Passport.

- (e) Affidavit of parent or guardian.

- (3) Written statement of proposed employer acknowledging that work is waiting for minor and describing nature of work.

NOTE:

The work permit request form includes spaces for this information and for the employer's signature [see § 100B.240]. However, some school districts may require a separate, additional writing to satisfy this requirement.

(4) If minor is under age 16, certificate of physician appointed by school board or other public medical officer stating that minor is physically fit to pursue specified occupation.

NOTE:

No charge may be made to the minor for this certificate [Educ. Code § 49133].

3. For entertainment industry work permit:

a. Instruct minor to:

(1) Obtain Application for Permission to Work in the Entertainment Industry [see § 100B.241] from local office of Division of Labor Standards Enforcement.

(2) Ask official from whom application is obtained whether medical examination will be required for type of employment sought.

b. Instruct minor or minor's parent or guardian to complete front side of form.

c. Obtain signature of parent or guardian.

d. Instruct minor to ask principal or other school official designated by principal to complete School Record section of form.

e. If physical examination is required, instruct minor to have examining physician complete appropriate portion of form and sign form.

f. Mail completed form or deliver in person to local office of Division of Labor Standards Enforcement.

4. For permit to employ minors in entertainment industry:

NOTE:

Entertainment industry employers apply for permits to indicate that their place and type of business are suitable for the employment of minors generally, rather than applying for permission to employ a specific minor [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 11751(b), 11752].

a. Instruct employer to obtain and complete Application for Permission to Employ Minors in the Entertainment Industry [see § 100B.242] from, and mail completed Application to, local office of Division of Labor Standards Enforcement.

b. Inform employer that Division of Labor Standards Enforcement may investigate employer's premises before issuing permit [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11752].

c. Instruct employer to note expiration date of permit, and to keep permit current [see § 100B.131].

5. For blanket permit to employ minors in entertainment industry:

a. Instruct employer to request permit in writing from local office of Division of Labor Standards Enforcement.

b. Inform employer that request must include evidence of employer's arrangements for following [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754]:

(1) Studio-teachers [see § 100B.202[1]].

(2) Workers' compensation insurance for minor employees.

(3) Supervision of minor employees by at least one parent or other qualified person per every 20 minors or part thereof.

6. For emergency permits to employ minors before 5:00 A.M. or after 10:00 P.M.:

a. Instruct employer to submit written request for permit at least 48 hours in advance [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760(g)].

b. Advise employer that request should contain following:

(1) Explanation of emergency situation.

NOTE:

Emergency situations that may justify the issuance of a temporary permit to employ minors at hours not normally permitted include live productions presented during those hours, and early morning or late night exteriors shot as exteriors [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760(g)].

(2) Copy of employer's regular permit to employ minors.

(3) Explanation of any special measures to be taken to ensure safety and well-being of minors employed pursuant to emergency permit.

[2] Obtaining Pupil Leave of Absence for Temporary Employment

NOTE:

Pupil leaves of absence are only permitted by law if the governing board of the local school district has adopted a written policy authorizing them, and are subject to the conditions set forth by Educ. Code § 48232. Although some schools or school districts handle extended absences on a more informal basis, the pupil and his or her parent or guardian should attempt to comply with the statutory requirements in order to avoid problems that may arise later concerning classroom attendance requirements. A pupil must be at least 15 years old in order to take a leave of absence [Educ. Code § 48232].

1. Contact local school district administrative offices to obtain official forms, if any, used by district.

2. If official forms are provided, review for required contents, including [Educ. Code § 48232(c)]:

a. Purpose of leave.

NOTE:

Pupil leaves of absence may be granted for the purposes of supervised travel, study, training, or work not available to the pupil under another education option [Educ. Code § 48232(b)].

- b. Length of leave.
 - c. Provisions for child to contact or meet with appropriate school official at least monthly during leave.
 - d. Statement that activity to be pursued during leave is not available under other education option.
3. If official forms are not provided, draft agreement to include [see § 100B.243]:
- a. Name of child.
 - b. Name of school.
 - c. Statement that leave is taken pursuant to Educ. Code § 48232 and any local policy promulgated under its authority.
 - d. Purpose of leave [Educ. Code § 48232(c)(1)].
 - e. Statement that activity to be pursued during leave is not available under other education option [Educ. Code § 48232(c)(4)].
 - f. Length of time child will be on leave [Educ. Code § 48232(c)(2)].

NOTE:

A leave of absence may be granted for a period not to exceed one regular school semester, and may be extended for up to one additional semester on the written approval of the local attendance review board [Educ. Code § 48232(e)]. A leave of absence cannot be continued past the end of the school year in which it is taken [Educ. Code § 48232(f)].

- g. Provisions for child to contact or meet with appropriate school official at least monthly during leave [Educ. Code § 48232(c)(3)], including:
 - (1) Official's name, address, and telephone number.
 - (2) Time, place, and nature of contacts or meetings.
 - (3) Statement that leave will be terminated if pupil fails to perform contact or meeting obligation.
- h. Statement that leave may be terminated at any time and by any party, by written notice to pupil.
- i. Statement of child's right to do any of the following [Educ. Code § 48232(d)]:
 - (1) Return to school at any time.
 - (2) Receive makeup sessions for classes missed during leave, if reenrollment occurs at beginning of semester.
 - (3) Complete any academic requirements within time period equal to that of classmates, plus period of time equal to leave of absence, without penalty.

4. Review draft with client and school principal or school administrative officer.
5. Obtain signatures from minor and other required parties [Educ. Code § 48232(c)]:
 - a. Minor's parent or guardian.
 - b. School principal or administrative officer.
 - c. Classroom teacher familiar with child's academic progress, chosen by child.
 - d. District supervisor of child welfare and attendance.
6. Provide copies of executed agreement for:
 - a. Each party to agreement.
 - b. Child's school record.
 - c. Attorney's records.
7. Instruct child to do following:
 - a. Contact or meet with school official as required by contract, and keep record of contacts or meetings.
 - b. Upon return to school, request that written acknowledgment of date of return be placed in child's record.
 - c. Obtain written approval of all parties to original agreement and local school attendance review board prior to extending leave [Educ. Code § 48232].

[3] Drafting, Executing, and Reviewing Employment Agreements

NOTE:

The procedure provided here is a simple one, appropriate for the usual summer and after-school work arrangements of minors. For discussion and examples of more detailed employment agreements, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements, and Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts. The procedure for a minor's simple entertainment industry employment agreement is set forth in [4], below.

1. Draft employment contract to include:
 - a. Preliminary matters, such as:
 - (1) Name and address of each party.
 - (2) Nature of employer's business.
 - (3) Statement that employee is a minor.

b. Terms of contract, such as:

(1) Term of employment, indicating either:

(a) Employment is at will.

(b) Specified beginning and ending dates.

(c) Conditions under which contract may be terminated before or extended beyond specified dates.

(2) Employee's title.

(3) Name and title of employee's immediate supervisor.

NOTE:

Because of the age and inexperience of minor employees, and the fact that they often work during evening or weekend hours when the regular supervising staff is not present, it is especially important that the employer identify the person to whom the minor should look for immediate supervision. This person should be someone familiar with the hour and occupation restrictions imposed on minor employees by law.

(4) Duties of employee.

(5) Limitations on employee's duties pursuant to child labor laws.

NOTE:

Tasks or occupations that are performed in the course of the employer's business but are prohibited to minors should be specifically identified in the employment contract, to put both parties on notice of the restrictions applicable to the minor employee. For a list of prohibited occupations and conditions of employment, see § 100B.111[1].

(6) Hours of employment [see § 100B.111[2].

(7) Rules of employer, such as:

(a) Uniform requirements or dress code.

(b) Restrictions on serving friends or family members (for retail and restaurant jobs).

(c) Absentee policy.

(d) Grievance procedure.

(e) Grounds for termination.

(8) Manner of giving notice to terminate employment.

NOTE:

A contract clause requiring the employee to give notice a particular number of days before terminating the employment relationship will not affect a minor employee's right to disaffirm the contract obligation at will [Fam. Code § 6710]. However, it may be useful to encourage voluntary compliance with the employer's wishes.

(9) Compensation, including as appropriate:

- (a) Hourly wages.
- (b) Salary.
- (c) Holiday and overtime pay.
- (d) Commissions.
- (e) Provisions for wage increases.
- (f) Statement of who is to receive minor's earnings.

NOTE:

A minor's wages must be paid directly to the minor until the minor's parent or guardian notifies the employer that he or she claims the wages [Fam. Code § 7503; Lab. Code § 3605; see § 100B.250]. A minor may also assign his or her wages with the consent of his or her parent or guardian [*Lab. Code § 300(b)(3); see § 100B.251; see also Ch. 76, *Assignment of Rights and Obligations].

(10) Benefits, including as appropriate:

- (a) Workers' compensation insurance.
- (b) Health insurance.
- (c) Employee discount.
- (d) Vacations and sick time.

c. General provisions, such as [*see Ch. 75, *Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions]:

- (1) Entire agreement clause.
- (2) Choice of law clause.

2. Review draft with client.

a. Explain minor's right to disaffirm contract if not submitted to superior court for approval [Fam. Code § 6710; see § 100B.22].

b. Explain employer's potential civil and criminal liability for violation of child labor laws.

NOTE:

In addition to civil and criminal penalties, an employer who violates any law respecting the employment of minors may have its permit to employ minors revoked [Lab. Code § 1300; Educ. Code § 49164; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11758].

(1) Criminal penalties of $1,000 to $5,000, up to 6 months imprisonment, or both, for each violation of California child labor laws, with a penalty of up to $10,000, or up to 6 months imprisonment, or both, for willful violation [Lab. Code § 1303; see also Lab. Code §§ 1308(a), 1391(c)].

(2) Civil penalties of $5,000 to $10,000 for each class "A" violation [Lab. Code § 1288(a)]:

NOTE:

Civil citations for child labor law violations are issued by the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE), under the authority of the Director of Industrial Relations [*Lab. Code § 1287; 8 Cal. 6. If minor will be employed full-time, instruct minor to enroll in continuation classes.

Code § 48430*]. If information regarding the local continuation program cannot be obtained from the work experience office at the minor's school, the minor or the minor's parents should contact the local public school administrative office for information.

[4] Drafting, Executing, and Reviewing Entertainment Industry Employment AgreementsNOTE:

The following procedures apply when a small independent employer hires a minor for a single production. Major motion picture contracts, recording contracts, and other arrangements by which large corporations employ minors for extended periods are beyond the scope of this chapter, and usually would not involve the drafting of an employment agreement by the minor's attorney. For additional forms and discussion regarding entertainment industry employment, see Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts.

1. Draft employment contract to include [see § 100B.201 (minor's modeling contract)]:

NOTE:

A minor's contract with a talent agency, agreement to perform as a professional athlete, or agreement to perform artistic or creative services in the entertainment field may be submitted for approval to the superior court. If the contract is approved by the court, the minor may not later disaffirm the obligation [Lab. Code § 1700.37; see Fam. Code § 6751]. For further discussion of this procedure, see § 100B.203[1][b].

(10) Acknowledgment of court order for preservation of minor's earnings, and statement that parties will comply with order.

NOTE:

A parent or guardian should never allow a minor to work for an entertainment industry employer who does not have a valid permit to employ minors. NOTE:

The court must order that 15 percent of a minor's earnings under an entertainment industry or professional sports employment contract be set aside and preserved for the minor's future use, and the individual (at least one custodial parent or guardian) who serves as trustee must provide the minor's employer with a copy of a statement that identifies the trust account into which the earnings will be placed and must render an annual accounting for the trust funds [*Fam. § 100B.130 Modification of Minors' Contracts

NOTE:

This coverage is limited to considerations that are unique to minors' contracts. For a guide to performance, modification, and cancellation of contracts generally, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations.

1. Prior to modifying contract, determine that contract is valid [see Fam. Code §§ 6700, 6701; see also § 100B.110[1]].

2. For employment contracts, ascertain that proposed modification will not result in violation of:

- a. Hour or occupation restrictions on employment of minors [see § 100B.111[1], [2]].
- b. Provisions of work permit and permit to employ.

NOTE:

If new permits are needed, the minor and the minor's employer should apply for the permits in the same manner used to obtain the original permits [see § 100B.121[1]].

3. Consider submitting modified contract to superior court for approval, if either:

NOTE:

Obtaining court approval of certain contracts will prevent the minor from disaffirming the contract [Fam. Code § 6751; Lab. Code § 1700.37; see § 100B.22]. Statutory provisions governing those contracts do not address the issue of whether modifications to the contract must also be approved by the court [see Fam. Code § 6751; Lab. Code § 1700.37]. Therefore, it is possible that the minor would be permitted to disaffirm the modified contract even if the original version had been approved by the court. For this reason, it is advisable to seek approval for any modifications. For discussion of the approval process, see § 100B.203[1][b], and California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions (Matthew Bender).

a. Original contract was approved by court.

b. Contract as modified will be of type for which approval procedure is provided [see Fam. Code § 6751; Lab. Code § 1700.37].

4. For contracts involving minor's purchase of necessities [see § 100B.200], ascertain that contract as modified will satisfy requirements for nondisaffirmable contracts [Fam. Code § 6712; see § 100B.110[2]].

NOTE:

A minor's contract for non-necessities, or for necessities not provided under the conditions outlined by statute [see Fam. Code § 6712], may be disaffirmed by the minor [Fam. Code §§ 6710, 6711].

 - a. Minor will turn 18 before permit expires.
 - b. Employment will end before permit expires.
2. If renewal is required, advise minor and employer to apply for renewal before expiration date of permit, using same procedure as for original permit [see § 100B.121[1]].

NOTE:

Regular work permits and permits to employ issued during the school year expire no later than the fifth day of the next school year [Educ. Code § 49118]. Entertainment industry work permits are not valid for a period exceeding six months [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11753].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Contracts Involving Minors

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.200

§ 100B.200 Contract for Necessities Provided to Minor or Minor's Family

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete contract between a minor and a supplier of necessities to the minor or the minor's family. It can be used for goods or services, and it contains language for both single transactions and ongoing contractual relationships.

No particular form is required for an agreement to create an obligation on the part of a minor to pay the reasonable value of necessities actually furnished to him or her. A contract will be implied if the necessities are furnished at the request of the minor [Leonard v. Alexander (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 385, 388, 122 P.2d 984]. Furthermore, a quasi-contractual obligation will arise when things are provided that the minor would have requested had he or she been capable of doing so (such as emergency medical treatment) [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417]

If a contract involves the extension of consumer credit, the appropriate Truth in Lending and Unruh Act disclosure provisions must be included [15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.; see Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales]. Special requirements also apply to contracts for the sale or lease of an automobile [see Ch. 47, Automotive Financing and Vehicle Leasing ; see also Veh. Code § 15500 (minors without valid driver's licenses prohibited from contracting to buy or lease automobiles)].

[b] Disaffirmance Not Permitted

A minor's contract to pay the reasonable value of necessities actually provided to the minor, or the minor's family, while he or she is not under the care of a parent or guardian who is able to provide them cannot be disaffirmed on the basis of minority [Fam. Code § 6712]. A minor who is under the care of a parent or guardian able to provide support may enter into a contract for necessities, but the minor retains the power to disaffirm the contract [Fam. Code §§ 6710-6712; see also Aubel v. Sosso (1925) 72 Cal. App. 57, 60, 236 P. 319]. This form contains specific representations by the minor that he or she is not under the care of a parent or guardian able to provide the things contracted for, and that those things are necessary for the support of the minor or the minor's family [see P 1 of form].

A clause relating to the reasonableness of the price charged for the necessities is also included [see P 3 of form]. It is unlikely that such a statement would be given much weight by a court if the price was in fact unreasonable, but the statement nevertheless may be useful to alert the parties to the importance of the reasonableness requirement. Minors are obligated to pay only the reasonable value of necessities furnished to them pursuant to a contract [Fam. Code § 6712(a)].

[c] Parental Duty of Support

Parents have a duty to support their minor children according to their circumstances [Fam. Code § 3900]. One who provides necessities to a minor who is under the care of a parent or guardian can recover the reasonable value of the things provided from the parent or guardian, to the extent that the parent or guardian is able to pay for them [Fam. Code § 3950]. A parent does not have the duty to support a child of the parent's child (whether or not the parent's child is a minor) [Fam. Code § 3930].

[d] Necessities

The courts have not set forth any uniform standard for determining what may be considered necessary for the care and support of a minor or a minor's family. Food and lodging [Burnand v. Irigoyen (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 861, 867, 186 P.2d 417] ; the services of an attorney in civil actions, when rendered for the benefit of the minor [Leonard v. Alexander (1942) 50 Cal. App. 2d 385, 389, 122 P.2d 984 ; see Estate of Ott (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 605, 615-616, 160 Cal. Rptr. 402 (legal services are not "necessaries of life" if not rendered expressly for benefit of minor)]; and emergency medical treatment [Bauman v. San Francisco (1940) 42 Cal. App. 2d 144, 162, 108 P.2d 989] have been held to be necessities within the meaning of applicable statutory provisions [see Fam. Code § 6712(a); (cited cases decided under predecessor statute, former Civ. Code § 36(a)(1))].

[a] Use of Form

This form is a complete contract between a minor and a person or organization employing the minor as a photographic model. In addition to standard modeling contract provisions, this form includes an express statement of the employee's minority and an optional clause conditioning the contract's validity on the superior court's approval of the agreement [see P 9; see also [e], below].

[b] Work Permit Requirements

Modeling is considered to be an entertainment industry job, and the written consent of the Labor Commissioner is required for the employment of a minor under the age of 16 as a model [Lab. Code § 1308.5(a)(7); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11751]. The written consent of the Labor Commissioner is given in the form of an entertainment industry work permit, which will not be issued unless the Labor Commissioner has determined that the work environment is proper for the minor and that the employment will not be harmful to the minor's health or education [Lab. Code § 1308.6]. The permit may be revoked by the Commissioner at any time if the minor's continued employment would violate any law or regulation or be detrimental to the minor [Lab. Code § 1300]. For the application used to request a modeling work permit, see § 100B.241. For the application used to request a regular work permit for non-entertainment industry employment, see § 100B.240.

[c] Hours of Employment

The maximum number of hours per day and per week for which a minor may be employed in the entertainment industry is regulated by statute [Lab. Code § 1308.7(a)]. The precise number of hours that minors employed in the entertainment industry can work per day is determined by the age of the minor [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760]:

- Infants younger than six months of age but older than 15 days may work for only 20 minutes per day, and may be kept at the place of employment for a maximum of two hours per day.

- Children between the ages of six months and two years may work two hours per day, and may be kept at the place of employment for up to four hours per day.
- Between the ages of two and six, three hours of actual work and up to six hours spent at the place of employment are allowed.
- From age six to age nine, four hours of work on school days and six hours on nonschool days is allowed, with a maximum of eight hours to be spent at the workplace.
- Children between nine and 16 years of age may work for five hours on school days and seven hours on nonschool days, and may be kept at the place of employment for up to nine hours per day.
- Minors over the age of 16 may work for six hours on school days and eight hours on nonschool days, and remain at the place of employment for up to 10 hours per day.

Work time includes time spent in wardrobe or makeup, whether at the minor's home or at the place of employment [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11763]. Paragraph 3 of this form should be filled in to reflect the permissible hours of work for the minor, in accordance with the above regulations.

[d] Compulsory Schooling Requirements

Minors working in the entertainment industry must be supervised by studio teachers, and must, if they are between the ages of six and 18, be engaged in schoolwork for at least three of the hours spent at work during each full work day [see [c], above] that is also a regular school day [Educ. Code § 48224; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760]. The hours of instruction must be between 8:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M. [Educ. Code § 48224]. For a more detailed discussion of the responsibilities of the teachers who work with minors in the entertainment industry, see § 100B.202[1][c]. For an example of a provision regarding a studio teacher, which should be included as Paragraph 5 of this form, see § 100B.202[2].

[e] Court Approval of Contract

Minors' employment contracts do not require court approval in order to be valid [see Fam. Code § 6700, 6701]. However, obtaining court approval will prevent the minor from later disaffirming a sports or entertainment industry employment contract on the basis of his or her minority [see Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751]. This statutory rule [Fam. Code § 6751(a) (former Civ. Code § 36(a))] applies generally to "artistic and creative services" rendered by minors in the entertainment industry. The regulations relating to the employment of minors include modeling as an entertainment industry occupation [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11751; see also Faloona v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (N.D. Tex. 1985) 607 F. Supp. 1341, 1355, aff'd, 799 F.2d 1000 (5th Cir. 1986) (stating that modeling contracts are covered by former Civ. Code § 36, predecessor of Fam. Code § 6751)].

The court approving the contract must order that 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings be set aside by the employer in trust, in an account or other savings plan, and preserved for the benefit of the minor (a "Coogan Trust Account") [Fam. Code § 6752(b)(1); see Fam. Code §§ 6750(c) (minor's "gross income" defined), 6753 (standards for operation of trust); see also § 100B.204[1]].

Obtaining court approval may be a wise precaution for the employer's protection if an ongoing contractual relationship is contemplated. If the agreement involves a single show or photo session, however, the benefit of extinguishing the minor's right to disaffirm may not justify the time and expense involved in obtaining approval.

Paragraph 9 of this form is an optional clause stating that the contract will be submitted for court approval and that the employer may cancel the contract if the court does not approve it. Cancellation has the effect of abrogating all unperformed duties under the contract [see Civ. Code § 1699; Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571]. It is distinguished from rescission, which restores the parties to their pre-contract positions [see Civ. Code § 1688; Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571]. For further discussion of rescission and cancellation, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations.

For further discussion of court approval of minors' contracts, see § 100B.203[1][b]. For another example of a clause conditioning a contract on court approval, see § 100B.203[2]. For a petition for approval of a minor's employment contract, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 365, Minors: Contract Actions (Matthew Bender).

[f] Termination of Contract

Contract provisions that give one party an option to terminate the contract under specified conditions are valid [R.J. Cardinal Co. v. Ritchie (1963) 218 Cal. App. 2d 124, 143, 32 Cal. Rptr. 545]. However, if an employer terminates an employment agreement in bad faith, he or she may be liable for wrongful discharge or breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing [Tameny v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 167, 176, 164 Cal. Rptr. 839, 610 P.2d 1330; Cleary v. American Airlines, Inc. (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 443, 456, 168 Cal. Rptr. 722 (overruled in part by Guz v. Bechtel National, Inc. (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 317, 351, 100 Cal Rptr. 2d 352, 8 P.3d 1089)]. Paragraph 2 of this form sets forth the beginning and ending dates of the job, and specifies that the employer may terminate the contract before the stated ending date if he or she is dissatisfied with the minor's performance, or for other good cause. There is also an optional provision allowing the employer to terminate the contract on a good-faith determination that the minor's services are no longer needed.

For additional discussion of termination of employment contracts by the employer, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements.

[g] Parental Consent

Before a minor's name, voice, signature, photograph, or likeness can be used for advertising purposes, the consent of the minor's parent or legal guardian must be obtained [Civ. Code § 3344(a)]. If proper consent has not been obtained, the person who provided the minor's likeness (but not the owners or employees of the medium used for the advertisement) will be liable to the minor in an amount equal to $750 or the actual damages suffered by the minor, whichever is greater [Civ. Code § 3344(a), (f)]. Punitive damages and attorneys' fees may also be available to the minor, along with any profits from the unauthorized use that are not collected in the form of actual damages [Civ. Code § 3344(a)].

This form includes a parental consent form that can be tailored to the specific uses for which the photographs are released [see Exhibit "A"]. Civ. Code § 3344 does not specify that the consent must be in writing, but a writing is advisable for both parties, as proof of the fact and extent of the consent given.

[h] Sexual Exploitation of Children

It is a crime to knowingly develop, duplicate, print, or exchange any representation of information, data, or image, including any film, photograph, videotape, negative, or slide depicting a child under the age of 18 engaged in sexual conduct [Penal Code § 311.3(a)]. Violators may be fined up to $2,000, or imprisoned in the county jail for up to one year, or both. Repeat offenders may be imprisoned in the state prison [Penal Code § 311.3(d)].

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.202

§ 100B.202 Clause in Minor's Employment Contract Regarding Studio Teacher

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a clause for use in a minor's entertainment industry employment contract, stating that the employer will provide a studio teacher for the minor as required by California law [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11751]. Entertainment industry employers include organizations and individuals that use the services of minors in motion pictures, theatrical productions, photography, modeling, recording, rodeos, circuses, and other entertainment performances [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11751]. This form is designed for use by small independent companies or individuals employing minors. Major studios and other large entertainment industry employers will generally have their own form contracts, with provisions for studio teachers that reflect the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

This clause can be added to a regular entertainment industry contract that is being tailored for use with a minor employee. For examples of entertainment industry contracts, see Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts. Other clauses that may be desirable when a minor employee is involved include a declaration or acknowledgment of the fact of minority, a clause conditioning the contract on the approval of the superior court, and a clause specifying that the minor's wages are to be distributed in compliance with the court's order. For examples of these clauses, see §§ 100B.201 and 100B.203.

[b] Attendance Requirements

Minors between the ages of six and 18 who have not been exempted from compulsory schooling requirements [see Educ. Code §§ 48220-48232] must receive at least three hours of instruction per school day while working in the entertainment industry [Educ. Code §§ 48200, 48224; see also 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760]. The instruction must be in English and must cover the same topics covered by regular public education for the child's age or grade level [Educ. Code § 48224].

[c] Studio Teacher's Credentials and Responsibilities

Studio teachers must be certified schoolteachers and must hold both elementary and secondary California teaching credentials [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755]. Since they will be responsible not only for the education of minor employees, but also for their health, safety, and morals on the job, they must be certified by the Labor Commissioner to ensure that they are knowledgeable concerning California child labor laws [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755].

The studio teacher is responsible for the education and supervision of minors on the set or other location of employment [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755]. Generally, it is his or her job to ensure that the child labor laws are complied with during the course of the minor's employment. The studio teacher has the authority to prohibit the minor's engagement on a set or location, or to remove the minor from a location, if he or she determines that the minor's health, safety, or morals are being endangered. The employer may appeal the studio teacher's decision to the Labor Commissioner, who will make the final determination [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755.2]. The studio teacher must also report to the Board of Education any unusual occurrences or circumstances on the job that affect the employment of minors [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11758]. If an employer discriminates against a studio teacher for removing a minor from an improper employment situation or making reports to the Board of Education regarding the working conditions for minors at the place of employment, the employer's permit to employ minors may be denied, suspended, or revoked by the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11758.1].

[d] Employer's Responsibilities

An entertainment industry employer must provide studio teachers for the benefit of all minor employees between the ages of 15 days and 16 years, and for those between the ages of 16 and 18 who are required to attend school [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755.2]. The employer must pay the teachers [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755.4]. Generally, the employer must provide one teacher for every 10 students. During weekends, holidays, and school vacations, the employer must provide one teacher for every 20 students between the ages of 15 days and 16 years. A larger teacher-to-student ratio, and the employment of nurses in addition to studio teachers, are required for infants and very young children [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760].

Employers may obtain lists of qualified and available studio teachers from the county superintendent, or other local school district personnel [see Educ. Code § 48225]. Placement services for teachers and employers may also be provided by the local school districts, particularly in the Los Angeles area.

Studio Teacher Arrangements

Studio Teacher Arrangements

In compliance with Title 8, Section 11755.2 of the California Code of Regulations, Employer [or other designation used in contract] shall provide, at Employer's expense, a certified studio teacher to tutor and supervise the activities of Minor [or Employee or other designation used in contract] while Minor is employed under the terms of this Agreement. Employer's obligation under this Paragraph shall cease when Minor attains age eighteen.

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.203

§ 100B.203 Clause in Minor's Employment Contract Conditioning Employment on Court Approval of Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a clause for use in an entertainment industry employment contract. It states that the employee is a minor and that the employer may cancel the contract if it is not approved by the superior court [see Fam. Code § 6751]. The clause may be added to a regular entertainment industry contract that is being tailored for use with a minor employee. For examples of entertainment industry contracts, see Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts. Other clauses that may be desirable when a minor employee is involved include a clause relating to the employer's obligation to provide a studio teacher to tutor and supervise minor employees [see § 100B.202], and a clause specifying that the minor's wages are to be paid to a parent or guardian in compliance with the court order [see § 100B.201].

[b] Obtaining Court Approval of Contract

Certain contracts of minors may be submitted for approval to the superior court of the county in which the minor lives or works, and, if approved by the court, cannot be subsequently disaffirmed on the basis of minority. Contracts that may be submitted to the court for approval include those under which a minor agrees to render artistic or creative services in the entertainment field; to buy, sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of literary, musical, or dramatic properties; to employ a talent agency; or to perform professional athletic services [Fam. Code §§ 6750, 6751; Lab. Code § 1700.37].

Any party to the contract may petition the court for approval of the contract [Fam. Code § 6751(b)]. The court approving the contract must order 15 percent of the minor's gross earnings set aside and preserved for the minor's future benefit, and the individual (at least one custodial parent or guardian) who serves as trustee must provide the minor's employer with a copy of a statement that identifies the trust account into which the earnings will be placed and must render an annual accounting for the trust funds [Fam. Code §§ 6752, 6753; see § 100B.204 (trustee's statement)]. For a form used to petition the superior court for approval of a minor's contract, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 364, Minors: Contract Actions (Matthew Bender).

If the minor neither lives nor works in California, the contract may be approved by the superior court in the county where any party has its principal place of business in the state [Fam. Code § 6751(a)].

[c] Disaffirmance by Minor

Court approval is not required to make a minor's employment contract valid [see Fam. Code § 6700]. However, employers who do not avail themselves of the approval procedure will have no defense to the minor's right to disaffirm the contract at will. A minor may generally disaffirm his or her contractual obligations during minority or within a reasonable time after reaching the age of majority, even if the minor made misrepresentations concerning his or her age, or the other party had no notice of the minor's age, when the contract was entered into [Fam. Code § 6710; see Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 793, 221 P.2d 178 ; see also Williams v. Leon T. Shettler Co. (1929) 98 Cal. App. 282, 283, 276 P. 1065]. The disaffirming minor will be entitled to receive payment for any services that he or she has already performed under the contract [Civ. Code § 1691(b); see Abdullah v. Abdullah (1920) 50 Cal. App. 115, 119, 194 P. 511]. The acknowledgment of the employee's minority that appears at the beginning of this form is designed to place the employer on notice of the possibility that the employee may disaffirm the contract unless court approval is obtained.

For further discussion of the right of minors to disaffirm their contractual obligations, see § 100B.22[1].

This form is a written statement for use by a trustee or trustees to identify the trust account that has been established for the benefit of a minor who has entered into a professional entertainment or sports contract. A photocopy of the trustee's statement must be provided to the employer within 10 days after the minor and the employer (and any "loan-out company" through which the minor's service are provided) sign the contract [*Fam. § 100B.210 Guaranty by Third Party to Assume Minor's Obligations if Minor Disaffirms Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a guaranty for the benefit of a person who contracts with a minor that the guarantor will be liable for the minor's obligation under the contract in the event that the minor disaffirms the contract before or after reaching the age of majority. Because minors can disaffirm most types of obligations they incur, before or within a reasonable time after reaching majority [Fam. Code § 6710; see § 100B.22[1]], adults are often unwilling to contract or conduct business with minors. It is unclear whether a minor is required to return benefits already received under a contract upon disaffirmance of the contract [see Fam. Code § 6710]. Even if the requirement is found to exist, it offers only limited protection for the other party, since the item may be used or damaged upon return and the minor may not have other assets with which to compensate the other party for the loss. A guarantee assures performance, by creating an obligation in an adult who does not have the power to disaffirm it [see Civ. Code § 2787].

If a guaranty agreement is entered into at the same time as the original obligation, or forms part of the consideration given to the other party, no separate consideration for the guaranty is needed. In all other cases, separate consideration must be given [Civ. Code § 2792]. For this reason, the guaranty should be executed at the same time as the contract between the minor and the obligee. A copy of the contract should also be attached to the guaranty agreement.

Guaranties generally must be in writing, but it is not necessary for the writing to express the consideration given for the guaranty [Civ. Code § 2793; but see Civ. Code § 2974 (exceptions to writing requirement)]. For a more detailed discussion of the law regarding guaranty agreements, see Ch. 79, Suretyship, Guaranty, and Indemnity.

[b] Qualifications of Guarantor

This form is designed for use by a parent or other close adult relative of the minor, but it can be used by any other adult who is willing to guarantee the minor's performance. The guarantor should not be another minor, since the purpose of the guaranty agreement is to assure performance by securing the promise of one who cannot disaffirm his or her obligations.

[c] Nature of Underlying Obligation

This type of guaranty will be most useful in cases in which a minor has purchased goods or services pursuant to an agreement to make future payments. It can also be used if the minor has promised to perform some other simple obligation. Obligations that would be difficult or impossible to enforce against a third party, such as an obligation to deliver a unique item, or to perform personal services, can be secured under this note by the guarantor's promise to pay a specific sum if the minor disaffirms his or her obligation.

This form should not be used to secure a minor's contract regarding real property or personal property not within his or her immediate control, since minors' contracts in these areas are void, rather than merely disaffirmable [Fam. Code § 6701(b), (c)].

This type of guaranty is not necessary to secure a contract that, by statute, cannot be disaffirmed by the minor. Contracts that cannot be disaffirmed on the basis of minority include certain contracts for necessities [Fam. Code § 6712; see § 100B.200], consents to various medical treatments [Fam. Code §§ 6900-6929; see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors], and contracts for employment in the sports and entertainment fields that have been approved by the superior court [Fam. Code § 6751(a); see § 100B.203[1][b]].

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.211

§ 100B.211 Ratification of Contract Made During Minority[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a statement of ratification by an obligor who has made a disaffirmable but otherwise valid contract during his or her minority and wishes to confirm the obligation after reaching the age of majority. For a note acknowledging and promising to pay a debt incurred during minority, see § 100B.212. Although an obligor could execute this statement on his or her own initiative, he or she would most likely be asked to do so by the other party to the contract.

A ratification, if executed by an obligor aged 18 or over, prevents the obligor from subsequently disaffirming the contract on the basis of minority [see Hakes Investment Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911]. In some cases, the other parties to the contract may be willing to increase their consideration if the obligor will ratify the contract. A ratification executed while the obligor is still a minor is not binding, and it does not preclude a later disaffirmance [Fam. Code § 6710; see Niemann v. Deverich (1950) 98 Cal. App. 2d 787, 793, 221 P.2d 178].

No particular form is required for a ratification. If the obligor continues to perform under the contract for a reasonable period of time after reaching the age of majority, or fails to take any actions indicative of an intent to disaffirm the contract, ratification may be implied and the obligor will be estopped from subsequently disaffirming the contract [see Fam. Code § 6710; see also Hastings v. Dollarhide (1864) 24 Cal. 195, 198]. For a discussion of the reasonable time standard, and actions that may indicate disaffirmance, see § 100B.214[1][c].

§ 100B.212 Agreement to Pay Debt Contracted During Minority

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a promissory note by a debtor who wishes to acknowledge a debt incurred during his or her minority and to make a binding promise to pay it. It satisfies the statutory requirements that a negotiable instrument (1) be signed by the maker, (2) contain an unconditional promise to pay a certain amount, (3) be payable on demand or at a definite time, and (4) be payable to order or to bearer [Com. Code § 3104]. For a discussion of promissory notes and negotiable instruments generally, see Ch. 55, Negotiable Instruments .

[b] Credit Sales and Prohibitions Against Usury

This form will not be effective to ratify debt terms that violate California's constitutional prohibition against usury [Cal. Const., art. XV, § 1] or are otherwise illegal. Usurious loan provisions are void [Epstein v. Frank (1981) 125 Cal. App. 3d 111, 122, 177 Cal. Rptr. 831] , and void contracts or contractual provisions cannot be ratified [see Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911] . Debt instruments for consumer credit transactions that do not comply with the disclosure requirements set forth under the Truth in Lending and Unruh Acts [15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq.; Civ. Code § 1801 et seq.] may also be invalid and therefore not subject to ratification. For a discussion of the latter disclosure requirements, see Ch. 45, Consumer Installment Loans and Credit Sales .

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.213

§ 100B.213 Notice of Nullity of Minor's Conveyance of Real Property

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a declaration that a minor's instrument conveying an interest in real property is a nullity. It should be used if a minor has executed a deed or made a contract purporting to convey an interest in realty, to place subsequent purchasers of realty on notice of the ineffectiveness of the minor's purported conveyance and the resulting cloud on title.

[b] Real Property Conveyances by Minors

Minors lack the capacity to contract regarding real property or any interest in real property [Fam. Code § 6701(b)]. Minors' contracts regarding real property interests are void and are not subject to ratification once the minor reaches the age of majority [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911] . Although title insurance will normally protect subsequent purchasers of real property, the minor, or the minor's survivors, should record this form to avoid confusion and conflicting claims relating to title. For a discussion of title insurance, see Ch. 26A, Title Insurance .

[c] Recording the Notice

This form should be recorded in each county where the minor's original conveyance was recorded [see Civ. Code § 1213 (constructive notice)]. It should also be sent to all other parties to the original contract. It may be recorded as an instrument that purports to affect title to real property [see Gov. Code § 27280]. Instruments that affect title include, but are not limited to, deeds and contracts for sale, real covenants [Barbieri v. Ongaro (1962) 208 Cal. App. 2d 753, 757, 25 Cal. Rptr. 471] , and contracts for the harvesting and sale of timber on the land [Kirsch v. Barnes (N.D. Cal. 1957) 157 F. Supp. 671, 673 aff'd on other grounds, 263 F.2d 692 (9th Cir. 1959)] .

Before this notice may be recorded, its execution must be acknowledged before a notary public [Gov. Code § 27287]. The form for the acknowledgment is specified by statute [Civ. Code § 1189].

B. Ratification and Disaffirmance of Minors' Contracts

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.214

§ 100B.214 Notice of Disaffirmance of Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice given by a party to a contract that he or she is disaffirming the contract on the ground that he or she was a minor when he or she executed the contract. Most types of contracts entered into by a minor may be disaffirmed by the minor before he or she reaches majority or within a reasonable time after reaching majority [Fam. Code § 6710]. If a minor is deceased, his or her heirs may execute a disaffirmance [Fam. Code § 6710; see § 100B.216]. No particular form is required to make an effective disaffirmance. A disaffirmance may be made orally, or through actions that clearly indicate an intent to repudiate the contract [Pereira v. Toscano (1927) 84 Cal. App. 526, 531, 258 P. 429 ; see Abdullah v. Abdullah (1920) 50 Cal. App. 118, 194 P. 411 (act of suing for return of benefits conferred under contract was sufficient communication of disaffirmance)].

[b] Effect of Disaffirmance

A valid disaffirmance has the effect of a rescission [Warner Bros. Pictures v. Brodel (1948) 31 Cal. 2d 766, 771, 192 P.2d 949] , which is to return the parties to their pre-contract positions [see Civ. Code § 1688; see also Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571] . Rescission is distinguished from cancellation, which abrogates all remaining unperformed duties under the contract [Mamula v. McCulloch (1969) 275 Cal. App. 2d 184, 197, 79 Cal. Rptr. 571 ; see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations].

Fam. Code § 6710 is silent regarding whether a minor is obligated to return consideration received under a contract when he or she disaffirms the obligation. A party who rescinds a contract must return or offer to return any consideration received [Civ. Code § 1691]. Disaffirmance generally is treated in the same manner as rescission, and has the same effect [Scollan v. Government Emp. Ins. Co. (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d. 181, 183, 35 Cal. Rptr. 40] . However, it is not clear whether this rule for rescission would apply to a minor's disaffirmance of a contract. It is probably a good idea for the minor to return the benefits, if he or she can do so without undue hardship, since a refusal to do so may encourage the other party to contest the validity of the disaffirmance.

The disaffirming minor is entitled to recover the reasonable value of any services rendered under the contract [Abdullah v. Abdullah (1920) 50 Cal. App. 115, 119, 194 P. 511] .

Paragraph 2 of this form is a clause demanding return of any consideration received from the minor, and Paragraph 3 consists of three alternative clauses regarding the minor's return of any consideration or benefits received. The first alternative should be used if the minor is returning some or all of the consideration received under the contract. The second alternative should be used in conjunction with the first, if the minor is returning only part of the consideration, and by itself if no part of the consideration is being returned. The third alternative should be used if the minor has received intangible benefits, such as services rendered, under the contract.

[c] Time of Disaffirmance

Unlike ratifications, disaffirmances made during minority are effective [Fam. Code § 6710]. In the case of a disaffirmance occurring after the minor has attained the age of majority, the court will determine whether the minor has acted within a reasonable time based on the facts of the case [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 560, 137 P. 911] . If, upon reaching majority, the minor is aware of his or her right to disaffirm, the statute of limitations for an action on the contract may serve as a guide to determining a reasonable time [Hurley v. Southern California Edison Co. (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 125, 132 ; see Code Civ. Proc §§ 337 (four-year limitation for actions on written contracts), 339 (two-year limitation for actions on oral contracts)]. If it is determined that the minor did not act within a reasonable time after reaching the age of majority, or that he or she expressly or impliedly ratified the contract after attaining majority, the minor will be estopped from disaffirming the contract [Fam. Code § 6710; see Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911] . Estoppel theory is not applicable to minors' conduct before they reach majority [see § 100B.22[3]], so ratification or other actions taken by a minor prior to attaining majority will not preclude a later disaffirmance of the contract [Lackman v. Wood (1864) 25 Cal. 147, 153] . Disaffirmance may be allowed even when the minor lied about his or her age at the time the contract was entered into [Williams v. Leon T. Shettler Co. (1929) 98 Cal. App. 282, 283, 276 P. 1065] .

[d] Contracts That Cannot Be Disaffirmed

Certain contracts for necessities provided to a minor or to his or her family, and court-approved employment contracts under which a minor agrees to perform entertainment or athletic services, cannot be disaffirmed on the basis of minority [Fam. Code §§ 6712, 6751; see §§ 100B.200[1][b], 100B.203[1][c]]. Contracts entered into with talent agencies and approved by the superior court are not subject to disaffirmance [Lab. Code § 1700.37; see Lab. Code § 1700.4 ("talent agency" defined); see Marathon Entm't, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 986-988, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741 (Talent Agencies Act, Lab. Code § 1700 et seq., applies to personal manager who solicits or procures employment for artist-client, even if such procurement occurs on one-time basis); see also Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts]. However, contracts with talent agencies or entertainment industry employers that have not been approved by the court may be disaffirmed, and the minor may recover the reasonable value of any services rendered under the contract [Fam. Code §§ 6710, 6711, 6751; Civ. Code § 1691]. A minor's written relinquishment of his or her child to a licensed adoption agency, or consent to the adoption of his or her child, cannot be avoided on the basis of minority [see Fam. Code § 8700(b); but see Fam. Code § 8700(e) (relinquishment may be withdrawn at any time before certified copy of it is filed with State Department of Social Services)]. Contracts entered into by minors in their capacity as public officers or candidates for public office are not subject to disaffirmance [Gov. Code § 275.2]. This form will not be effective to disaffirm contracts in any of these areas.

§ 100B.215 Notice of Disaffirmance of Promissory Note

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notice given by a person who wishes to disaffirm a promissory note executed by him or her on the basis that he or she was a minor when he or she executed the note. Debt instruments executed by minors may be disaffirmed by them during minority or within a reasonable time after reaching the age of majority [Fam. Code § 6710]. The heirs of a deceased minor, or of a person who dies shortly after reaching the age of majority, may also disaffirm contracts that the decedent made during his or her minority [Fam. Code § 6710; see § 100B.216[1][c]]. This form should be sent to the creditor or to the creditor's assignees, and it may also be sent to any other party that will be affected by the disaffirmance.

Fam. Code § 6710 is silent regarding whether a minor is obligated to return consideration received under a contract when he or she disaffirms the obligation. A party who rescinds a contract must return or offer to return any consideration received [Civ. Code § 1691]. Disaffirmance generally is treated in the same manner as rescission, and has the same effect [Scollan v. Government Emp. Ins. Co. (1963) 222 Cal. App. 2d. 181, 183, 35 Cal. Rptr. 40] . However, it is not clear whether this rule for rescission would apply to a minor's disaffirmance of a contract. It is probably a good idea for the minor to return the benefits, if he or she can do so without undue hardship, since a refusal to do so may encourage the other party to contest the validity of the disaffirmance.

This form will not be effective to disaffirm an obligation entered into by a minor under the express authority or direction of a statute [Fam. Code § 6711]. For a discussion of particular obligations that, pursuant to statute, are not subject to disaffirmance, see §§ 100B.22[2] and 100B.214[1][d].

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of disaffirmance by the heirs or personal representatives of a minor who died after executing a disaffirmable contract. On the death of a minor, the heirs or personal representatives may disaffirm the minor's contracts that could have been disaffirmed by the minor during his or her lifetime [Fam. Code § 6710; see [c], below]. The rights of minors to disaffirm their contracts are discussed in §§ 100B.22[1] and 100B.214[1].

[b] Nondisaffirmable Obligations of Deceased

Certain contracts made by minors may not be disaffirmed by the minor. These include contracts approved by the superior court under which the minor agreed to render artistic, creative, or professional athletic services; certain contracts for necessities [see § 100B.200[1][b]]; and other contracts entered into under the express authority or direction of a statute [Fam. Code § 6711; see §§ 100B.22[2], 100B.214[1][d]]. This form will not be effective to terminate the liability of a minor's estate for those types of contractual obligations (although in the case of contracts requiring the minor to render personal services, performance will be impossible in any case after the minor's death).

[c] Persons Authorized to Give Notice

Notice of disaffirmance of a deceased minor's contract may be given by either the personal representatives [see Prob. Code § 58 (definition)] or by the heirs of the minor [Fam. Code § 6710; see Prob. Code §§ 44 ("heirs" defined with reference to intestate succession laws), 6401, 6402 (heirs under laws of intestate succession); see also Ch. 60, Estate Planning]. If the minor's estate is administered under court supervision, the administrator of the estate [see Prob. Code § 8461 (order of priority for appointment of administrator of estate of intestate decedent)] should send this notice. If the estate is disposed of without administration, the heirs, guardian, or trustee of an express trust, if any, should send the notice. The estates of deceased minors generally are disposed of without administration, since spouses, children, large amounts of property, and other complications are not usually involved [see Prob. Code §§ 13000-13660 (disposition without administration)).

Because minors generally lack the capacity to dispose of property by will [Prob. Code § 6100], an executor normally would not be appointed for the estate of a deceased minor, and for this reason the notice of disaffirmance ordinarily would not be made by an executor or an administrator with the will annexed. However, if a minor became emancipated or reached the age of majority, thereafter made a will, and death occurred soon after, an executor or administrator with the will annexed under such a will might conceivably give this notice to disaffirm a contract or contracts made by the decedent before the decedent had become emancipated or reached the age of majority. For a discussion of the emancipation of minors, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors. The responsibilities of executors and administrators are discussed generally in Ch. 65, Executors.

[d] Desirability of Court Approval

Heirs or personal representatives are not required by statute to seek court approval before giving notice of disaffirmance of a deceased minor's contract [see Fam. Code § 6710]. However, it may be desirable to seek court approval in some situations. If there is a possibility that the contract may be void rather than merely voidable, as is the case for minor's contracts concerning real property interests or personal property not within the minor's possession or control [Fam. Code § 6701; see § 100B.21], a judicial determination should be obtained so that the heirs or personal representatives will be able to submit a notice of nullity [see § 100B.213] rather than a disaffirmance. If it is uncertain whether the contract is subject to disaffirmance, obtaining a judicial determination at the onset of the proceedings may avoid costly and time-consuming litigation of the issue at a later date. If there is a potential for conflicts of interest, as may be the case if the personal representative is the public administrator or a creditor of the deceased, judicial approval of the disaffirmance should be obtained.

[e] Methods for Obtaining Court Approval or Authorization

The usual method for obtaining court authorization is to file a petition for instructions in the probate proceeding. When no other procedure is provided by statute, the executor or administrator may petition the court for instructions about the administration, disposition, management, operation, care, protection, or preservation of the estate [Prob. Code § 9611].

When the heirs or personal representatives have given notice of disaffirmance and later decide to seek a judicial determination of the validity or effect of the disaffirmance, a petition to determine heirship is the appropriate procedure. Any time after letters are first issued to a general personal representative [see Prob. Code § 58(b) (definition)] and before the filing of the petition for final distribution, the executor or administrator, or any person claiming entitlement to any part of the estate as an heir or creditor, may file a petition setting forth his or her claim and seeking a judicial determination as to persons entitled to distribution of the estate [Prob. Code § 11700].

[f] Trustees and Trust Beneficiaries

Because unemancipated minors lack the capacity to delegate power and to contract regarding real property interests and personal property not within their immediate possession or control [Fam. Code § 6701], they are unable to create inter vivos trusts for the distribution of their assets on death. However, a minor 12 years of age or older may petition the superior court for the appointment of a guardian [Prob. Code § 1510], and then have the guardian create a trust that, on the petition of the guardian or the minor, could be submitted for approval to the court [Prob. Code § 2403]. In addition, trusts may be created for minors by third parties, or by court order under various circumstances.

The power of trustees and beneficiaries to disaffirm a contract made during a decedent's minority is very limited. Unless the beneficiaries qualify as heirs or personal representatives of the decedent, they will not have direct authority to disaffirm his or her contracts [see Fam. Code § 6710]. They can, however, petition the court for an order instructing the trustee, as personal representative of the decedent, to give the notice of disaffirmance. The trustee also has the same right to petition for instructions [see Prob. Code § 17200(a), (b)(6)]. Under this method, the court would be authorized to make all orders and take all actions necessary and proper to dispose of the matters presented in the petition [Prob. Code § 17206]. Thus, the trustee's right to give the notice of disaffirmance, and the validity of the disaffirmance, could be determined at the same time.

A contract properly entered into by the trustee probably is not subject to disaffirmance by reason of the minority of the decedent if the trust instrument expressly confers on the trustee the power to enter into contracts and if the trust was established under judicial direction or authorization [see Prob. Code § 2403].

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.230

§ 100B.230 Release of Minor's Disputed Contract Claim Against Third Person

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a written release of a minor's disputed claim arising out of a contract, to be executed by the parent or guardian of the minor. It may be used in conjunction with a compromise and settlement agreement executed by the parties to the contract [see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations]. A release of a minor's claim should be executed by the guardian of the minor's estate or, if there is no guardian of the estate, by the minor's parent or parents [Prob. Code §§ 2500, 3500]. A minor who has been emancipated through marriage, assumption of military active duty, or judicial declaration may execute his or her own release [Fam. Code § 7002; see § 100B.11]. For a release of a contract claim against a minor, see § 100B.231. For releases relating to tort claims by and against minors, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors .

[b] Nature of Release

A valid release extinguishes an obligation and constitutes an abandonment of the underlying claim [Civ. Code § 1541; see Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 26 Cal. 2d 705, 711, 160 P.2d 783] . A release generally is executed in exchange for a cash payment by the party against whom the claim is asserted. However, consideration is not necessary to support a written release such as the one contained in this form [Civ. Code § 1541]. Oral releases, on the other hand, do require consideration [Civ. Code § 1541].

A general release will not cover claims that are undisclosed at the time the release is executed and that, if known, would materially affect the settlement [Civ. Code § 1542]. If the parties intend the release to cover later-discovered claims, they should make this clear in the writing [see Carmichael v. Industrial Acc. Comm'n. (1965) 234 Cal. App. 2d 311, 315, 44 Cal. Rptr 470] . Paragraph 1 of this form contains alternative provisions regarding the extent of the release. The first alternative is a general release of all claims and contains an optional clause for including later-discovered claims. However, such a reference, in and of itself, will not be sufficient to release all unknown claims. Rather, it must be shown, apart from the words of the release, that there was an intent to include those claims [Casey v. Proctor (1963)

59 Cal. 2d 97, 109, 28 Cal. Rptr. 307, 378 P.2d 579 ; see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations]. The second alternative presented in Paragraph 1 of the form is a narrow release of one specific claim or action only.

Public policy prohibits people from contracting to avoid liability for fraud, willful injury to persons or property, or violations of the law [Civ. Code §§ 1667, 1668]. This form will not be effective as a release from liability for those acts. For a more detailed discussion of the general law concerning releases, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations .

[c] Court Approval of Compromise Prior to Filing of Action

In general, the guardian of a minor's estate may compromise claims made by or against the minor without first obtaining court approval [Prob. Code § 2500(a)(1)]. However, a compromise that requires the transfer or encumbrance of property belonging to the minor's estate, or the creation of an unsecured liability of the estate, in an amount or value exceeding $25,000, must be submitted to the superior court for approval [Prob. Code § 2502]. The compromise or settlement of any claim by the minor against the guardian, or attorney for the guardian, whether or not it arises out of the administration of the estate, must be approved by the court [Prob. Code § 2503(a)]. Court approval is required for the compromise of any claim by the minor for his or her support, maintenance, or education, or that of his or her legal dependents, against any person [Prob. Code § 2504(a)]. The compromise of claims for physical or nonphysical harm, and of wrongful death claims, also requires court approval [Prob. Code § 2504(b), (c)].

Court approval is required for most compromises involving real property interests [Prob. Code § 2501(a); see Prob. Code § 2501(b), (c) (special rules regarding certain leases)]. However, since minors lack the capacity to contract regarding interests in real property [Fam. Code § 6701(b)], a guardian would rarely have occasion to enter into a compromise of a contract claim involving real property. The guardian may file a petition for approval of the compromise in the county where the guardianship proceeding is pending, the county where the guardian or the minor resides, or any county where a suit on the claim could properly have been brought [Prob. Code § 2505(b)].

If there is no guardian of the minor's estate, the minor's parents have the right to compromise contract claims made by or against the minor [Prob. Code § 3500(a)]. Compromise agreements entered into by the minor's parents are valid only after they are approved by the superior court [Prob. Code § 3500(b)]. The parents may petition for approval in the superior court of the county where the minor resides or any county where a suit on the claim could properly have been brought [Prob. Code § 3500(b)]. If the parents are living together, either of them may compromise the minor's claim and execute the release [Prob. Code § 3500(a)(1)]. If they are living apart, the custodial parent is authorized to execute the compromise and release [Prob. Code § 3500(a)(2)]. A valid release may be executed by a parent only after any payment or other property given in exchange for the release has been delivered as specified by the court [Prob. Code §§ 3500(d), 3601].

[d] Court Approval of Compromise After Action Is Filed

After an action or proceeding has been initiated regarding a minor's contract claim, it may be released only by the guardian of the minor's estate or the guardian ad litem (usually, the minor's parent) appointed to represent the minor [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a)]. Court approval is needed for the release [Code Civ. Proc. § 372(a)], and the guardian may obtain such approval by filing a petition in the court in which the matter is pending [Prob. Code § 2505(a)]. If the action is not in a California court, approval of the release may be obtained from the court in which the action is pending or the court in which the guardianship proceeding is pending [Prob. Code § 2505(c)].

A minor cannot conduct his or her own legal proceedings and must appear through a guardian [Fam. Code § 6601]. For forms relating to the appointment of a guardian ad litem to conduct a minor's legal affairs, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 291, Guardians ad Litem (Matthew Bender).

[e] Receiving the Minor's Property

When the court approves any compromise of a minor's claim involving the delivery of money or other property for the minor's benefit, the court will direct the parent, guardian, or payor to pay from that money or property any reasonable attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred by the minor or on the minor's behalf in connection with the proceeding [Prob. Code §§ 3600, 3601]. If there is a guardian of the minor's estate, the balance of the money or property will be delivered to him or her [Prob. Code § 3602(b)], unless the guardian or another interested person petitions the court to order the deposit of some or all of the balance in to an account for the minor's future benefit [Prob. Code § 3602(b)-(f); see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors]. If there is no guardian of the minor's estate, the court will, on the application of the minor's counsel, order that the money or property be disposed of by one or more of the following methods [Prob. Code § 3611]:

- Appointment of a guardian of the minor's estate, and the delivery of the money or other property to that person.
- Deposit of the money in an insured account in a financial institution in California, or in a single-premium deferred annuity, subject to withdrawal only on the authorization of the court, with any other property to be held on conditions the court determines to be in the best interest of the minor.
- After a hearing by the court, payment of money to any special needs trust established for the benefit of the minor [see Prob. Code §§ 3604, 3605 (requirements for "special needs trust")].
- Payment of up to $20,000, to be held as otherwise specified by the court, based on the best interests of the minor.
- Payment of up to $5,000 to the minor's parents, for the benefit of the minor.
- Transfer to a custodian for the minor's benefit under the California Uniform Transfer to Minors Act [Prob. Code §§ 3900-3925; see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors ; see also Ch. 60A, Gifts].
- Payment or delivery of money or other property to the trustee of any trust created by, or approved in, the order or judgment referred to in Prob. Code § 3600. This trust must be revocable by the minor on attaining age 18, and it must contain other terms and conditions, including terms and conditions concerning trustee's accounts and the trustee's bond, as the court determines to be necessary to protect the minor's interests.
- Deposit of the money with the county treasurer, if the county treasurer has been authorized by the county board of supervisors to handle such deposits, and subject to statutory conditions and requirements pertaining to the county treasurer's handling of the deposited funds.

The court will have continuing jurisdiction over any money or property paid under a minor's compromise and release that it has approved, until the minor reaches age 18 [Prob. Code § 3612(a)]. Moreover, if the money or property has been placed in a trust, and the minor has a disability as defined by federal regulations [see 20 C.F.R. § 416.906; Prob. Code § 3603(b)(3)], the trust will continue under the court's jurisdiction until terminated by the court [Prob. Code § 3612(b) (effective January 1, 2005)].

PART IV. FORMS
C. Releases

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.231

§ 100B.231 Release of Minor From Liability for Breach of Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a release of a minor from liability for breach of a contract. For a release of a minor's claim arising out of a contract, and discussion of the rights of parents and guardians to compromise claims by or against minors, see § 100B.230. For a discussion of the compromise of claims and the execution of releases generally, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations.

[b] Consideration for Release

A release generally is executed in exchange for a cash payment by the party against whom the claim is asserted. However, consideration is not necessary to support a written release such as the one contained in this form [Civ. Code § 1541]. Oral releases require consideration [Civ. Code § 1541].

[c] Effect of Right to Disaffirm Obligations on Minors' Liability for Breach

In many cases, a minor who has breached a contract will not be liable for the breach regardless of whether or not a release is executed. Minors have the right to disaffirm most of their contractual obligations during their minority or within a reasonable time after reaching the age of majority [Fam. Code § 6710; see § 100B.22]. A disaffirmance may be made by words and commencement of an action provides sufficient notice of such a disaffirmance [Pereira v. Toscano (1927) 84 Cal. App. 526, 531, 258 P. 429], so that a minor who breaches a contract may simply be exercising his or her right to disaffirm the obligation.

If there is a possibility that the contract may be disaffirmable, the other party may be willing to execute a release of the minor's liability for a smaller sum than would be expended by the minor in an action to determine the disaffirmability of the contract. For a more detailed discussion of the rights of minors to disaffirm their contracts, see § 100B.22.

[d] Contracts That Minor May Not Disaffirm

There are three situations in which a minor may be liable for his or her breach of contract. First, if there is a statute making the contract nondisaffirmable, the minor will be liable for the breach to the same extent that an adult would be [see Fam. Code § 6711]. Employment contracts in the sports and entertainment industries that have been approved by the superior court, consents to various medical treatments, and certain contracts for necessities are not subject to disaffirmance on the ground of minority [Fam. Code §§ 6751, 6921, 6712; see § 100B.22[2]; see also Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors]. Court-approved contracts between minors and talent agencies are not subject to disaffirmance [Lab. Code § 1737.37; see Lab. Code § 1700.4 ("talent agency" defined); Marathon Entm't, Inc. v. Blasi (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 974, 986-988, 70 Cal. Rptr. 3d 727, 174 P.3d 741 (Talent Agencies Act, Lab. Code § 1700 et seq., applies to personal manager who solicits or procures employment for artist-client, even if such procurement occurs on one-time basis); see also Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts]. Also not subject to disaffirmance are contracts entered into by a minor in his or her capacity as a public officer or candidate for public office [Gov. Code § 275.2]. A minor's written relinquishment of his or her child to a licensed adoption agency, or consent to the adoption of his or her child, also cannot be avoided on the basis of minority [see Fam. Code §§ 8700, 8814(d); but see Fam. Code § 8700(e) (relinquishment may be withdrawn at any time before certified copy of it is filed with State Department of Social Services)].

Second, a minor who has breached a disaffirmable contract may decide that he or she would rather accept liability for the breach and continue to enjoy the benefits of the contract, than disaffirm the contract to avoid liability for the breach. A minor may not disaffirm part of a contract, or disaffirm the obligations while retaining the benefits [see Peers v. McLaughlin (1891) 88 Cal. 294, 299, 26 P. 119].

Finally, a minor may lose the right to disaffirm a contract by ratifying the obligation, or failing to disaffirm it within a reasonable time, after reaching the age of majority [Fam. Code § 6710; see § 100B.22[3]]. For example, if a person (1) entered into a five-year employment contract at age 17, (2) continued to work under that contract for a year and a half after reaching the age of majority, and (3) subsequently quit and was sued for breach of contract, he or she probably would be estopped from disaffirming the contract. Similarly, a minor who executed a written ratification of his or her contract [see § 100B.211] after reaching the age of majority could not disaffirm the contract upon being sued for a later breach [Hakes Inv. Co. v. Lyons (1913) 166 Cal. 557, 561, 137 P. 911].

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.240

§ 100B.240 Statement of Intent to Employ Minor and Request for Work Permit (Department of Education Form B-1)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a combined application by a minor to obtain a work permit, and by an employer to obtain permission to employ the minor. It is the official California Department of Education form (Form B-1). Copies of this form can usually be obtained from the minor's school, or from the local school district administrative offices. It is also available online at the website of the Department of Education, which is located at <http://www.cde.ca.gov>.

If the minor is to be employed in the entertainment industry, the forms illustrated in §§ 100B.241 (application for work permit) and 100B.242 (application for permit to employ) should be used instead of this form. For a discussion of the jobs that are considered to be in the entertainment industry, see § 100B.241[1][b]. Entertainment industry work permits are issued through the Labor Commissioner rather than through the school districts [Lab. Code § 1308.5].

[b] Persons for Whom Work Permits Are Not Required

Work permits may be issued to minors between the ages of 12 and 18 [Educ. Code § 49111] and are generally required in order for minors to be employed [see Lab. Code § 1290]. Work permits are not required for minors who work for their parents, unless the particular industry is subject to special work permit requirements [Educ. Code § 49141]. In practice, work permits are not required for minors engaged in self-employment, babysitting, newspaper delivery, yard work, and similar occupations [see 18 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 114 (1951)]. A minor who has a high school degree or its equivalent will be exempted from work permit requirements and school-related restrictions on working hours [Educ. Code § 49101]. A minor who is not required to attend school for reasons other than having already obtained a high school degree or its equivalent may obtain a Certificate of Age rather than a work permit [Educ. Code § 49114; see [c], below].

[c] Permits to Employ

The work permit issued in response to this request form serves as both the minor's permit to work and the employer's permit to employ the minor. Every person, firm, or corporation that employs a minor must have a permit to employ the minor [Educ. Code § 49160], except in cases in which (1) the employer is the minor's parent or guardian [Educ. Code § 49141]; (2) the minor has obtained a high school degree or its equivalent [Educ. Code § 49101]; or (3) the minor is employed by a private person as a babysitter, newspaper carrier, gardener, or the like [see 18 Ops. Cal. Atty. Gen. 114 (1951) ; see also [b], above]. The employer must keep the permit on file during the time the minor is employed [Educ. Code § 49161].

In the case of a minor exempted from compulsory school attendance for reasons other than having obtained a high school degree or its equivalent, the employer should have the minor obtain a Certificate of Age, which will serve as a permit to employ the minor. To obtain a Certificate of Age, the minor must appear with his or her parent or guardian before the officer authorized to issue work permits, and submit proof of his or her age [Educ. Code § 49114]. This form may be used to request a Certificate of Age.

[d] Effect of Compulsory School Attendance on Minors' Hours of Work

Children between the ages of six and 18 are generally required to attend public or private school, or receive private instruction, full-time [Educ. Code § 48200]. Children between the ages of 16 and 18 who are not enrolled full-time must attend special continuation education classes for at least four hours per week [Educ. Code § 48400].

Except in very unusual circumstances, work permits will not be issued for employment that will interfere with a child's schooling. Special arrangements involving studio teachers are required for children employed in the entertainment industry, who often work during school hours [see § 100B.202]. Unless employed in the entertainment industry, children under the age of 14 may not work on school days [see Educ. Code § 49111]. Children 16 and 17 years of age who have completed the seventh grade or its equivalent may work up to four hours on a school day [Educ. Code § 49112(a)] (three hours for 14 or 15 years of age), or longer if they are enrolled in school-sponsored vocational or work experience programs [Educ. Code § 49116(a), (b)]. Children aged 16 or older also may obtain permits to work up to eight hours on school days preceding nonschool days [Educ. Code § 49112(c)].

Industries that are subject to California wage orders [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11000 et seq.] or the Fair Labor Standards Act [29 U.S.C. § 201 et seq.; 29 C.F.R. § 570.1 et seq.] may be subject to additional, stricter hour limitations on child labor. Effective July 1, 2004, the California Legislature de-funded the Industrial Welfare Commission, which promulgated the California wage orders. However, the wage orders remain in effect, and the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement will continue to enforce them [see Lab. Code § 61].

[e] Procedures for Obtaining Work Permit and Permit to Employ

To obtain a work permit for a minor, the minor's parent, guardian, foster parent, or residential shelter services provider should complete the top section of this application form. The minor's prospective employer should provide the information in the box in the next section of the form. The minor's parent, guardian, foster parent, caregiver with whom the child resides, or residential shelter services provider must also sign the form [see Educ. Code § 49110(c)]. The minor must present the form, in person, to the officer authorized to issue work permits in the minor's school district (generally the local district superintendent, the chief executive officer or equivalent of a charter school attended by the minor, a person authorized by the superintendent or chief executive, the county superintendent if the minor does not reside in a school district or attend a charter school, or the principal of the minor's public or private school) [Educ. Code § 49110(b)]. Local school districts may require the parent or guardian to accompany the minor when he or she submits the work permit. The parent or guardian may wish to accompany the minor in any case, to ask questions about the limitations placed on the minor's employment, or answer any questions the officer may have. If the proposed employment is unusual or might be considered unsuitable for minors, the employer may also wish to accompany the minor in order to explain the situation to the issuing officer. For a discussion of occupations prohibited to minors under state and federal law, see § 100B.31.

The officer who reviews the form will ask the minor for proof of age and will indicate the type of proof submitted in the appropriate box on the form. School enrollment records, birth or baptism certificates, and passports generally are accepted as proof of age. If no other reliable proof of age is available, the officer will obtain an affidavit from the minor's parent, guardian, or custodian stating the minor's age [see Educ. Code § 49133(b)]. Some districts issue work permits at the time the request is submitted; others mail the permits later. Permits to work and to employ must be issued on official California State Department of Education forms [Educ. Code § 49117]. The expiration date of the permit will be indicated on the permit form. Permits issued during the school year will expire no later than the fifth day of the next school year [Educ. Code § 49118]. To obtain a new permit to replace an expired one, the above-described procedure must be repeated.

[f] Full-Time Work Permits

Most work permits are issued for school vacations or subject to the hour limitations discussed in [d], above. Minors between the ages of 14 and 16 who have graduated from an elementary school course may obtain full-time work permits during the school year only if their full-time labor is necessary to support themselves or their families, and no other source of support is available, or if they are in foster care and the purpose of employment is to enable them to gain work skills and habits [Educ. Code § 49130]. In practice, these types of permits are very rarely issued. Minors under the age of 16 who are employed full-time during the school year must attend part-time continuation education classes [Educ. Code § 49135].

A minor applying for a full-time work permit must be accompanied by his or her parent or guardian [Educ. Code § 49132] and must present a medical certificate and a school record for the current term, in addition to the proof of age and employer's statement required on the regular work permit application [Educ. Code § 49133]. No fee may be charged for the medical certificate [Educ. Code § 49133(d)]. The parent, foster parent, or guardian of the minor must present a sworn statement that he or she is unable to work due to illness or injury, or that, due to the death or desertion of the minor's father, the minor's earnings are needed for family support and sufficient aid cannot be obtained in any other manner [Educ. Code § 49130]. The minor or the minor's parents should also contact the Labor Commissioner (Division of Labor Standards Enforcement) to find out whether additional official forms need to be filled out to obtain the full-time work permit.

Minors over the age of 16 may obtain full-time work permits without their parents or guardians appearing before the issuing officer, and without presenting medical certificates or detailed school records [Educ. Code § 49131]. They need not show that their full-time labor is necessary for their support or that of their families [Educ. Code § 49131; see Educ. Code § 49130]. However, they will be subject to the requirement that they attend part-time continuation education classes [Educ. Code § 49135].

[g] Cancellation of Work Permits

Work permits and permits to employ are subject to cancellation at any time by the Labor Commissioner, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, or the person who issued the permit [Educ. Code § 49164]. A permit will be canceled if the revoking authority determines that the employment is impairing the minor's health or education, or is in violation of any provision of the permit or any law, or that the conditions for legal issuance were not met [Educ. Code § 49164].

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.241

§ 100B.241 Application for Permission to Work in the Entertainment Industry (Form DLSE 277)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for a minor's work permit for employment in the entertainment industry. It is the official form (Form DLSE 277) issued by the California Department of Industrial Relations, Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE). Copies of this form can be obtained from the local DLSE office or online at the DLSE website which is located at <http://www.dir.ca.gov/DLSE>, as an attachment to the Department's pamphlet covering the child labor laws. This form is used only for the minor's request for a work permit. For the application used by the employer to obtain permission to employ minors, see the form illustrated in § 100B.242. The form illustrated in § 100B.240 should be used to obtain a work permit and permit to employ if the employment is not in the entertainment industry.

[b] Entertainment Industry Occupations

For work permit purposes, minors are employed in the "entertainment industry" if they are involved in work in television and motion pictures, radio broadcasting, theatrical productions, recording, modeling, rodeos, circuses, musical performances, or other entertainment presented to the public [Lab. Code § 1308.5(a); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11750]. The minor's parents or employer should contact the DLSE if they are uncertain whether the proposed employment requires a regular work permit [see § 100B.240] or an entertainment industry work permit (this form).

[c] Persons Subject to Work Permit Requirements

Although the relevant provisions of the Labor Code and the California Code of Regulations indicate that entertainment industry work permits are not required by minors of certain ages for certain types of employment [see Lab. Code § 1308.5 (minors under age 12 appearing in certain types of performances exempted); 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11750 (minors under school age exempted)], it is the practice of the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement to require permits for all minors working in the industry. However, a permit is not required for the appearance by a minor in any of the following activities [Lab. Code § 1310]:

- Church, public, or religious school, or community entertainment.
- School entertainment or any entertainment for charity or for children, for which no admission is charged.
- Single, uncompensated appearance on radio or television that lasts not more than one hour, and for which no admission fee is charged.
- Any one event during a calendar year, occurring on a day on which school attendance is not required or on the day preceding such a day, lasting four hours or less, where a parent or guardian of the minor is present and for which the minor does not receive any compensation.

[d] Schooling Requirements

Minors between the ages of 6 and 18 who have not been exempted from compulsory schooling requirements must receive at least three hours of instruction per school day while working in the entertainment industry [Educ. Code § 48224; see also 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11760]. The minor's employer is responsible for hiring a studio teacher to oversee the minor's daily studies [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 11755.2, 11755.4]. The studio teacher is also responsible for supervising the minor at the place of employment, and assuring that the minor's health, safety, and morals are not endangered by the conditions of employment [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755]. For more detailed coverage of schooling requirements for minors employed in the entertainment industry and the role of studio teachers, see § 100B.202.

[e] Procedure for Obtaining Entertainment Industry Work Permit

To obtain a permit for a minor to work in the entertainment industry, the minor or the minor's parent or guardian should fill out the top portion of the application form. The minor's parent or guardian must also sign the form. If the minor is of school age, the appropriate official at the minor's school (usually, the principal or another official designated by the principal) should fill out and sign the School Record section of the form. If the minor is not of school age, the parent or guardian must provide proof of the minor's age, either a certified copy of the minor's birth certificate, the minor's baptismal certificate, the minor's passport, or a letter from the hospital where the minor was born attesting to the date of birth.

When the minor picks up the application form from the DLSE office, he or she should ask if a medical examination will be required for the type of employment sought. If an examination is required, the examining physician should fill out and sign the appropriate portion of the form. If the form is obtained online, similar inquiry should be made by phone.

The completed form, with the appropriate signatures, should be mailed or delivered in person to the local office of the DLSE; faxed copied will not be accepted. No appearance by the minor's parent or guardian is necessary.

Entertainment industry work permits are valid for a maximum period of six months [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11753(b)]. To obtain a new permit to replace an expired one, the above-described procedure must be repeated.

§ 100B.242 Application for Permission to Employ Minors in the Entertainment Industry (Form DLSE 281)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application by an employer for permission to employ minors in the entertainment industry. It is the official form (Form DLSE 281) issued by the California Department of Industrial Relations, Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE). Copies of this form can be obtained from the local DLSE office or online at the DLSE website which is located at <http://www.dir.ca.gov/DLSE>, as an attachment to the Department's pamphlet covering the child labor laws [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11752]. The form illustrated in § 100B.240 should be used instead of this form if the employment is not in the entertainment industry. For a discussion of what constitutes entertainment industry employment, see § 100B.241[1][b].

[b] Nature of Entertainment Industry Permit to Employ

In contrast to the application for a permit to employ used in industries other than the entertainment industry [see § 100B.240], this form is not an application to employ a particular minor. Instead, its purpose is to request a determination by the Labor Commissioner (through the DLSE) that the applicant's studio or other working quarters are a proper environment for the employment of minors generally [see Lab. Code § 1308.6(a)], and that the conditions of employment are not detrimental to the health or education of minors [Lab. Code § 1308.6(b), (c)]. For this reason, the parent or guardian of a minor should not allow the minor to work for any employer unless the employer has a current permit to employ minors.

[c] Issuance, Suspension, and Revocation of Permit

After an application for a permit has been submitted, the DLSE will make any necessary investigation to determine whether the permit should be issued. Permits will not be issued for the employment of minors under conditions that will bring them into close proximity with explosives, unguarded and dangerous moving machinery, aircraft, vessels, or functioning blades or propellers [8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 11701, 11707]. The permit to employ may be suspended or revoked at any time by the issuing officer, if the minor's employment is found to be in violation of any law or regulation or otherwise unsuitable for the minor [Lab. Code § 1300; 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11758]. The employer may appeal the suspension or revocation to the Labor Commissioner, who will hold a hearing on the matter and then make the final determination [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11758.2].

[d] Blanket Permits to Employ Minors

An employer who wishes to hire a group or organization of minors for a particular production, but ordinarily does not employ minors, may obtain a blanket permit to employ minors for a limited time and purpose [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754(a), (b)]. A blanket permit does not represent the Labor Commissioner's determination that the types of employment and working conditions offered by the employer are generally suitable for minors. It signifies that, for the single production described, and under the limitations stipulated, the employment of a designated group of minors is permissible [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754].

Blanket permits are obtained through a written request stating the nature of the production, the purposes for which the minors will be used, and the times and places they will be required. The applicant must give evidence of having made arrangements for studio teachers [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754(c); see § 100B.202], workers' compensation insurance for the minors [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754(d)], and the supervision of the minors by at least one parent or other qualified person per every 20 minors or part thereof [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11754(e)]. Blanket permits are issued by the DLSE in the same manner, and subject to the same cancellation provisions, as regular permits to employ minors in the entertainment industry [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 11751, 11752]. Minors who are employed under a blanket permit must have individual work permits as with any other type of entertainment industry employment [see 8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11753(a); see also § 100B.241].

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.243

§ 100B.243 Agreement for Pupil Leave of Absence From School

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an agreement allowing a child to take a leave of absence from school for a special employment opportunity or other appropriate purpose. Some schools or school districts handle student leaves of absence more informally, allowing the child to make separate arrangements with each of his or her teachers for homework to be done during the leave and assignments to be made up following the leave, and not requiring the involvement of any administrative officer in the arrangements. The statutory procedure [see [b], below] should be used, however, unless the absence will be very brief, to avoid problems that may arise later concerning classroom attendance requirements. If the school provides a form agreement concerning pupil leaves of absence, the child's parent or attorney should read it carefully to be sure that it satisfies the statutory requirements [see Educ. Code § 48232].

[b] Statutory Requirements for Leave

The governing board of a school district may adopt a written policy authorizing pupil leaves of absence for the purposes of supervised travel, study, training, or work not available under another education option [Educ. Code § 48232(a), (b)]. If this type of policy has been adopted within a district, a child who is at least 15 years old may be granted a leave of absence from school for up to one semester for one of these purposes [Educ. Code § 48232(b)] and, on the approval of the local school attendance review board and all of the parties to the original agreement [see [d], below], the leave may be extended for an additional semester [Educ. Code § 48232(e)]. A leave of absence may not continue past the end of the school year in which it is taken [Educ. Code § 48232(f)], and it may be nullified by any party to the agreement at any time for cause [Educ. Code § 48232(g)]. No more than 1 percent of the pupils enrolled and in attendance at any school are permitted to take a leave of absence during an academic year [Educ. Code § 48232(h)].

The child must be allowed to return to school at any time and must not be penalized from completing academic requirements within a time period equal to that permitted for classmates who are not on leave, plus a period of time equal to the leave. The school will not be required to give makeup sessions for missed classes if the child enrolls at any time other than the beginning of a semester [Educ. Code § 48232(d)].

[c] Type of Work Involved

School officials may be less liberal in granting leaves of absence for work than for travel or specialized study. Most types of work available to children between the ages of 15 and 18 can be accommodated by a regular high school schedule or do not represent opportunities that justify the suspension of formal schooling. A leave of absence might be appropriate to allow a pupil to tour with a professional music or performance group, or to take advantage of an unusual opportunity to study a specialized trade. For situations involving a pupil who needs to work in order to support his or her family or self, a full-time work permit will probably be more appropriate than a leave of absence [Educ. Code § 49131; see § 100B.32[2]]. For pupils involved in the motion picture industry or other entertainment industry employments, studio-teacher arrangements rather than leaves of absence are used [8 Cal. Code Reg. § 11755.2; see § 100B.202].

[d] Contents of Agreement

A pupil leave of absence will only be allowed pursuant to a written agreement setting forth the conditions under which the leave is to be granted [Educ. Code § 48232(c)]. The agreement must explain the purpose of the leave and state that the purpose is one permitted by statute and not available to the pupil under another education option [Educ. Code § 48232(b), (c)(1), (4)]. The length of the leave must be stated [Educ. Code § 48232(c)(2)]. The agreement must provide that the child will contact or meet with a designated school official at least once a month while the child is on leave [Educ. Code § 48232(c)(3)]. If the pupil does not contact the designated school official as stipulated in the agreement, the leave of absence will be nullified [Educ. Code § 48232(g)].

The agreement must be executed by the child's parent or guardian, the principal or administrative officer of the child's school, a classroom teacher familiar with the child's academic progress selected by the child, and the district supervisor of child welfare and attendance [Educ. Code § 48232(c)]. This form also includes a space for the signature of the child.

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.250

§ 100B.250 Notice to Employer of Parent or Guardian's Claim to Minor's Wages or Workers' Compensation Payments

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice given by a parent or guardian to a minor's employer, stating that the employer is to pay the minor's wages or workers' compensation payments to the parent or guardian. It is intended for use by the parents or guardians of any employed minor, other than one who has been emancipated [see Fam. Code § 7002 (definition of "emancipation"); see also [c], below], or whose parents have expressly relinquished their right to the minor's earnings [see Fam. Code § 7504; see also Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors].

[b] Parents' Entitlement to Child's Earnings

Although a minor's parents are entitled to receive the minor's earnings [Fam. Code § 7500] and workers' compensation payments [Lab. Code § 3605], an employer may pay the minor directly until the parent or guardian gives notice of his or her intent to claim them [Fam. Code § 7503]. Earnings claimed by the parent or guardian need not be preserved for the minor or used for his or her benefit [Macchi v. La Rocca (1921) 54 Cal. App. 98, 100, 201 P. 143] . For forms and discussion relating to the relinquishment of parental rights, including the right to claim a minor child's earnings, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors .

The mother of an unemancipated minor child, and the father, if presumed to be the father [see Fam. Code § 7611], are equally entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(a)]. If one parent is dead, is unable or refuses to take custody, or has abandoned the child, the other parent is entitled to the services and earnings of the child [Fam. Code § 7500(b)]. These provisions, however, do not apply with respect to services or earnings of an unemancipated minor under a professional entertainment or sports contract of a type described by Fam. Code § 6750 [Fam. Code § 7500(c)]. For discussion of those contracts, see § 100B.33.

A parent, whether solvent or insolvent, may relinquish to the child the right of controlling the child and receiving the child's earnings. Abandonment by the parent is presumptive evidence of that relinquishment [Fam. Code § 7504].

[c] Inapplicability to Emancipated Minors

This form should not be used by the parent or guardian of an emancipated minor. Emancipation of a minor through marriage, active military duty, or the statutory procedure for declaration of emancipation [Fam. Code § 7002; see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors] confers on the minor the right to receive and control his or her own earnings, extinguishing the parent or guardian's claim to the minor's earnings [Fam. Code § 7050(b); see Fam. Code § 7002 (definition of "emancipation")]. The right of a minor to receive and control his or her own earnings is also a feature of most emancipations occurring under existing case law [see Fam. Code § 7504 (express parental emancipation of child)]. For a discussion of emancipation procedures and the rights of emancipated minors generally, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors .

[d] Earnings Held in Coogan Trust Account

A minor's earnings under a contract for his or her employment in the entertainment or professional sports industries are subject to special requirements [see Fam. Code §§ 6750-6753]. Fifteen percent of the minor's gross earnings under such a contract, whether or not it has been approved by a court, must be set aside by the employer in trust for the benefit of the minor (a "Coogan Trust Account") [Fam. Code §§ 6752(b)-(i), 6753; see Fam. Code § 6750(c) (minor's "gross earnings" defined); see also § 100B.33]. Therefore, the parent or guardian may claim only the remainder of the earnings [see Fam. Code § 7500].

[e] Taxation of Minors' Earnings

Under federal income tax law, a minor's earnings are included in the minor's gross income and taxable to him or her regardless of who actually claims the earnings, and notwithstanding that the earnings may be considered the property of the minor's parents under state law [I.R.C. § 73; Treas. Reg. § 1.73-1(a)]. However, if a minor fails to pay the income tax on his or her earnings, the minor's parents generally will be assessed for the amount due [I.R.C. § 6201(c)]. A parent whose rights to control and receive the earnings of his or her child have been terminated through adoption, custody orders, or emancipation will not be assessed for the child's unpaid taxes [I.R.C. §§ 73(c), 6201(c)]. California follows federal law regarding the tax treatment of minors' earnings [Rev. & Tax. Code § 17081].

PART IV. FORMS

E. Parental Entitlement to Earnings

31-100B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100B.251

§ 100B.251 Consent of Parent or Guardian to Assignment of Minor's Wages

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a consent by the parent or guardian of a minor to the minor's assignment of wages. For the accompanying form that the minor would use to execute the actual assignment, see Ch. 76, Assignments of Rights and Obligations.

[b] Limitations on the Assignment of Wages

Wages may be assigned only if they are due, or expected to become due, under an existing employment contract [see Civ. Code § 1045; see also Walker v. Rich (1926) 79 Cal. App. 139, 144, 249 P. 56]. An assignment of wages under an anticipated future employment agreement will not be effective. Wages that have not yet been earned may be assigned only for the purchase of the necessities of life [Lab. Code § 300(h)]. No more than 50 percent of the assignor's wages payable at any time may be assigned [Lab. Code § 300(c)]. An assignor may revoke an assignment of wages at any time by written notice to his or her employer [Lab. Code § 300(e)].

The limitations placed on wage assignments, and the formalities required [see Lab. Code § 300] are not applicable to assignments made by independent contractors [Fitch v. Pacific Fid. Life Ins. Co. (1975) 54 Cal. App. 3d 140, 146, 126 Cal. Rptr. 445]. For a discussion of how to determine whether a person is an employee or an independent contractor, see Ch. 84, Independent Contractors. For a more detailed discussion of the law regarding wage assignments, see Ch. 76, Assignments of Rights and Obligations.

[c] Requirements for Assignment of Wages

In general, any assignment must be evidenced by a writing, signed by the person whose earnings are to be assigned, that identifies the transaction to which the assignment relates [Lab. Code § 300(b)(1)]. The writing must also contain a statement that there is no other assignment in effect involving the same transaction [Lab. Code § 300(b)(5)]. The assignment must be notarized and filed with the assignor's employer, along with an itemized statement of the amount due to the assignee [Lab. Code § 300(b)(6)].

A minor may make an assignment of his or her wages, provided the written consent of a parent or guardian of the minor (this form) is attached to the assignment [Lab. Code § 300(b)(3)]. An emancipated minor may execute a wage assignment in the same manner as an adult [Fam. Code § 7050(b)]. If the minor is married, the written consent of his or her spouse to the assignment must be attached [Lab. Code § 300(b)(2)]. The consent of a parent or guardian will not be necessary in this case, since a minor who has entered into a valid marriage is emancipated by statute [Fam. Code § 7002(a)].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter discusses the licensing and operational requirements applicable to two types of child care facilities covered by the California Child Care Facilities Act: child care centers and family child care homes. Particular attention is given to the numerous forms that must be completed and filed with the Department of Social Services, including the initial licensing forms, the operational forms once the facility has opened, and the administrative forms. This chapter also discusses zoning issues related to child care, insurance issues, tax issues surrounding child care providers, and administrative proceedings. A brief discussion of the Child Care and Development Services Act is also included. This chapter does not discuss the licensing requirements and related provisions under the California Community Care Facilities Act.

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.10

§ 100C.10 California Child Day Care Facilities Act

[1] In General

Child care facilities in California are governed by the California Child Day Care Facilities Act (the "Act") [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.]. The Act is intended to streamline the administration of child care licensing, encourage the development of quality licensing staff, provide child care providers with technical assistance about licensing requirements, enhance consumer awareness of licensing requirements and the benefits of licensed child care, and recognize that affordable, quality licensed child care is critical to the well being of parents and children [H&S Code § 1596.73]. The Act invests the State Department of Social Services (referred to in this chapter simply as the "Department") with responsibility for licensing child care facilities. By empowering the Department with licensing responsibilities, the Legislature intended to establish within the Department an organizational structure for child care licensing that is separate from the Department's other licensing activities [see H&S Code § 1596.72(d)].

The Act requires that the Department adopt rules and regulations that may be necessary to carry out the Act [H&S Code § 1596.81(a)]. The Department has adopted detailed regulations governing general licensing requirements, applications for child care licenses, license enforcement, operating requirements, and related matters [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151 et seq.]. The regulations are designed to ensure the safety and well being of the children, requiring that child care facilities be run by competent persons who have no histories of child abuse or related criminal activity and that the facilities themselves be operated in accordance with legal requirements. A free copy of all applicable regulations is available from the Department [H&S Code § 1596.855], and licensees must make their copy of the current licensing regulations available to employees and consumers [H&S Code § 1596.874(b)]. The Department must also mail, without charge, printed copies of all revisions of regulations to all resource and referral programs funded under Educ. Code § 8210 and to any association of child care agencies that has requested copies of regulatory revisions [H&S Code § 1596.855(b)].

Although the Department is responsible for licensing child care facilities, it may contract with state, county, or other public agencies to assume those licensing responsibilities [H&S Code § 1596.82]. However, most licensing is handled by the state. The Director of Social Services must publish and make available to interested persons an annual list (or lists) of all licensed child care facilities, other than small family child care homes [see H&S Code § 1596.78(c); see also [2], below], and the services for which each facility has been licensed or issued a special permit. The list(s) must also specify the licensed capacity of the facility and whether the facility is licensed by the department or by another public agency [H&S Code § 1596.86(a)].

[2] Types of Facilities

The Act recognizes different types of child care facilities. In addition, the Act exempts certain types of facilities from its requirements [see H&S Code § 1596.792; see also [4], below].

A "child care facility" or "child day care facility" is any facility that provides nonmedical care to children under 18 years of age who are in need of personal services, supervision, or assistance essential for sustaining the activities of daily living, or for the protection of the individual, on less than a 24-hour basis [H&S Code § 1596.750; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(9); see H&S Code § 1596.75 ("child" defined)]. The term "child care facility" includes "child care centers" [see H&S Code § 1596.76; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(7)], "employer-sponsored child care centers" [H&S Code § 1596.750; see H&S Code § 1596.771], and "family child care homes" [H&S Code § 1596.750; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102352(f)(1); see H&S Code § 1596.78]. A "child care center" is any child care facility other than a family day care home, including infant centers [see § 100C.35[2]], preschools, extended day care facilities, and school-age child care centers [H&S Code § 1596.76].

An "employer-sponsored child care center" is any child care facility at the employer's site of business, operated directly or through a provider contract by any person or entity having one or more employees, and available exclusively for the care of children of that employer and of the officers, managers, and employees of that employer [H&S Code § 1596.771].

A "family child care home" (or family day care home) is defined as a home that regularly provides care, protection, and supervision of 14 or fewer children in the provider's own home for periods of less than 24 hours a day while the parents or guardians are away, and is either a large family child care home or a small family child care home [H&S Code § 1596.78(a)]. A "large family child care home" is a home that provides family day care to no fewer than 7 and not more than 14 children, including children under the age of 10 who reside at the home [H&S Code § 1596.78(b); see H&S Code § 1597.465 (additional rules for homes with 13 or 14 children)]. A "small family child care home" is a home that provides family day care to eight or fewer children, including children under the age of 10 who reside at the home [H&S Code § 1596.78(c); see H&S Code § 1597.44 (additional rules for homes with seven or eight children)].

[3] Applicability of Rules and Regulations to Types of Facilities

The Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.], and the regulations promulgated by the Department of Social Services [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151 et seq.] govern the establishment and operation of child care facilities in California. The Act is divided into three sections:

- General rules applicable to all child care facilities [H&S Code §§ 1596.70-1596.895].
- Specific rules applicable only to child care centers (which include infant care centers, preschools, extended day care facilities, and school-age child day care centers) [H&S Code §§ 1596.90-1597.21].
- Specific rules applicable only to family child care homes [H&S Code §§ 1597.30-1597.621].

The regulations promulgated under the Act are similarly divided [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151 et seq.]:

- General regulations that apply to all child care centers. However, unlike the general statutes, the general regulations are not applicable to family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102351.1].

- Specific regulations that apply to specific types of centers.
- Specific regulations that apply only to family child care homes.

Consequently, in opening and operating a child care center, close attention must be paid to which rules and regulations apply to which facilities [see H&S Code §§ 1596.71, 1596.90, 1597.53; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151(a), 101351, 101451, 101551, 102351.1]:

- Child care centers are governed by H&S Code §§ 1596.70-1597.21 and 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2.
- Infant care centers are governed by all rules and regulations applicable to child care centers, plus 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101351-101439.1.
- School-age child care centers are governed by all rules and regulations applicable to child care centers, plus 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101451-101539.
- Child care centers for mildly ill children are governed by all rules and regulations applicable to child care centers, plus 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101551-101639.2.
- Family child care homes are governed by H&S Code §§ 1596.70-1596.895 and 1597.30-1597.621 and by 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102351.1-102424.

Because of this overlapping statutory and regulatory scheme, some of the discussion in Part B of this Legal Background with respect to child care centers is repeated in Part C with respect to the same or similar requirements as applied to family child care homes. Although the statutory authority is the same in many cases, the two types of facilities are governed by different implementing regulations, and these regulations, though often similar, are not always identical. To avoid confusion, therefore, some of the requirements, such as fingerprinting, are discussed separately with respect to these two types of facilities.

[4] Exempt Facilities, Arrangements, and Recreation Programs

[a] Facilities Subject to Other Regulatory Schemes

The Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.] exempts from its requirements the following facilities that are subject to other types of governmental licensing or regulation [see H&S Code § 1596.792(a)-(c); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101158(a)(8)]:

- Health facilities [see H&S Code § 1250 ("health facilities" defined)];
- Clinics [see H&S Code §§ 1200, 1200.1 ("clinic" defined)]; and
- Community care facilities [see H&S Code § 1502(a) ("community care facility" defined)].

In addition, licensed alcohol and drug treatment program facilities, administered by the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, that house women and their children and are specifically designated for the purpose of providing substance abuse treatment and maintaining and strengthening the family unit are exempt from the Child Day Care Facilities Act [see H&S Code § 1596.792(m)].

[b] Extended School Day Care Programs

Extended day care programs operated by public or private schools are exempt from the Act [H&S Code § 1596.792(h)]. However, such before- and/or after-school programs for school-age children are only exempt from the regulations if the program is operated by the school and run by qualified teachers employed by the school or the school district [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101158(a)(8)(A)]. If an outside organization or individual uses a public or private school site to operate a child care program, the organization or individual is subject to licensure even when the program is open only to the children enrolled at that school [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101158(a)(8)(B)].

[c] Informal Arrangements

Certain informal facilities that more closely resemble personal arrangements for child care than businesses open to the public are exempt from the Act. For example, family child care homes that provide care for the children of only one family in addition to the operator's own children [H&S Code § 1596.792(d)] and arrangements for child care by relatives [H&S Code § 1596.792(f)] are exempt.

[d] Facilities Providing Specified Limited Services

The Act exempts facilities and programs that provide specified limited child care services. For example, (1) child care programs that operate only one day per week for no more than four hours that day [H&S Code § 1596.792(j)], (2) child care programs offering temporary child care services when the parent or guardian remains on the same premises as the site of the program [H&S Code § 1596.792(k)] (exemption inapplicable if site is ski facility, shopping mall, department store, or other similar, prohibited site), and (3) programs providing activities of an instructional nature for children in a classroom-like setting operated on a limited basis during times when school is not normally in session [see H&S Code § 1596.792(l)] are exempt.

[e] Cooperative Arrangements Between Parents

Cooperative arrangements between parents for the care of their children in which no payment is involved are also exempt [H&S Code § 1596.792(e)]. To qualify for this exemption, the cooperative arrangement must meet all of the following conditions [H&S Code § 1596.792(e)(1)-(4)]:

- The parents must combine their efforts so that each parent (or set of parents) rotates as the responsible care giver with respect to all children in the cooperative.
- Any person caring for children must be a parent, legal guardian, stepparent, grandparent, aunt, uncle, or adult sibling of at least one of the children in the cooperative.
- No payment of money or receipt of in-kind income is exchanged for providing care.
- No more than 12 children may receive care in the same home at the same time.

[f] School Parenting or Adult Education Child Care Programs

School parenting or adult education child care programs that are operated by a public school district or by an individual or organization pursuant to a contract with a public school district and whose operation is not by an organization specified in H&S Code § 1596.793 are exempt [H&S Code § 1596.792(i)].

[g] Specified Recreation Programs

The Act exempts specified recreation programs, including certain public recreation programs operated by government entities [see H&S Code § 1596.792(g)]. Certain private recreation programs conducted for children by the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Boys Club, Girls Club, Camp Fire, and similar organizations are also exempt from the Act [H&S Code § 1596.793]. However, child day care programs operated by these organizations are subject to the Act [H&S Code § 1596.793].

[h] Licensing Waivers for Small Businesses

To encourage and facilitate the establishment of employer-sponsored child care centers [see H&S Code § 1596.771 (definition)], the Department allows for reasonable waivers of those regulations presenting difficulties to small businesses for licensure, provided that the health and safety of all children is maintained. The applicant must agree to alternative methods of meeting the purpose and intent of any regulation waived [H&S Code § 1597.71].

[5] Overview of Administrative Proceedings Under the Act

The following text briefly discusses the administrative proceedings that may be encountered when litigating child day care issues. For a detailed analysis of proceedings and forms related to administrative proceedings in general, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 470, Overview of Public Administrative Law (Matthew Bender).

Administrative proceedings that are likely to arise under the California Child Day Care Facilities Act include hearings for the following purposes:

- To determine the validity of a denial, revocation, or suspension of a child care center license or special permit [see H&S Code §§ 1596.879, 1596.887].
- To review a notice of deficiency or penalty [see H&S Code § 1597.56; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196].
- To appeal assessments of civil penalties for operating an unlicensed facility [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102394].
- To determine the validity of the Department's prohibition of an individual from employment in a child care facility [see H&S Code § 1596.8897(e) (burden of proof on department)].
- To appeal any decision through the Department to the deputy director of the Department of Social Services [H&S Code § 1596.842(b)(1)].

Hearings to determine whether a license or special permit has been properly denied, revoked, or suspended, and appeals related to prohibiting individuals from employment in facilities, are governed by the administrative adjudication provisions of the Government Code [see H&S Code §§ 1596.879, 1596.887(a), 1596.8897(e); see also Gov. Code § 11500 et seq.]. However, other administrative proceedings that may be encountered, such as the review of deficiency notices and civil penalty assessments, are governed by the Department of Social Service's own regulations [see, e.g., 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101196, 102394]. If a conflict between the Child Day Care Facilities Act and applicable provisions of the Government Code arise, the provisions of the Government Code prevail [H&S Code § 1596.887(a)].

Licensure revocation hearings are given priority calendar preference. In all proceedings to determine the validity of a license denial, revocation, or suspension the standard of proof is the preponderance of the evidence [H&S Code § 1596.887(b),(c)].

Hearings required to be conducted under the Government Code are heard by administrative law judges [see Gov. Code § 11502]. The hearings are initiated by filing an accusation or statement of issues, depending on the type of hearing, that must clearly identify the acts or omissions being complained of, and set forth the relevant statutes and rules applicable to the hearing [see Gov. Code §§ 11503, 11504]. The individual being served with the accusation or statement of issues (the respondent) has the opportunity to file a notice of defense after which a hearing will be conducted [see Gov. Code §§ 11505, 11506]. The respondent must be served with a notice of hearing at least 10 days before the hearing [Gov. Code § 11509]. Discovery proceedings, rules of evidence, and conduct at the hearing are all regulated under special rules [see Gov. Code §§ 11507.6, 11512, 11513].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.11

§ 100C.11 Child Care and Development Services Act

The Child Care and Development Services Act [Ed Code § 8200 et seq.] is a comprehensive Act covering numerous child care and development services. The Act is geared primarily toward ensuring that parents and children (up to age 13) have access to child care and development programs [see Ed Code §§ 8201, 8202 (purposes of Act and Legislative intent)], such as resource and referral programs [see Ed Code §§ 8210-8216], programs for children with special needs [see Ed Code §§ 8250-8252], and services for school-age community child care [see Ed Code §§ 8460-8481].

Of special importance for child care providers are the Act's provisions that relate to the potential availability of government funds for assisting providers in opening and operating their facilities [see, e.g., Ed Code §§ 8275-8279.2]. These provisions include reimbursement for approvable start-up costs, such as staff orientations, rental deposits, and initial insurance premiums [see Ed Code § 8275(a)], the allocation of funds to family child care homes for repairs and renovation to ensure compliance with health and safety standards [see Ed Code § 8277.1], and the offering of revolving loans with no interest to child care and development facilities other than family child care homes to ensure compliance with licensing standards [see Ed Code §§ 8276.5, 8277.2]. Funding is also authorized for state preschool programs and full-day child development programs for preschoolers [see Ed Code §§ 8211, 8236].

Detailed regulations define and implement the many services offered under the Act [see 5 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 18000-18308]. As with the regulations implementing the California Child Care Facilities Act [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151 et seq.], the regulations applicable to the Child Care and Development Services Act must be followed if an individual or an organization is taking part in the programs and services of the Act. For child care centers and family child care homes seeking state funds, eligibility requirements must be satisfied [see, e.g., 5 Cal. Code Reg. § 18001] and specific application procedures must be followed, including the submission of a complete application in accordance with instructions contained in a Request for Applications [see 5 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 18000(f), 18002]. Facilities that are exempt from child care licensing laws [see § 100C.10[4]] must comply with the health and safety regulations for child care centers and family child care homes as specified in Title 22 of the California Code of Regulations in order to qualify for state funds [5 Cal. Code Reg. § 18020].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.12

§ 100C.12 Zoning Ordinances and Child Care Facilities

Local zoning ordinances historically failed to list family child care homes as permitted uses in residential zones, and their definitions of "family" made it nearly impossible for child care homes to operate legally in "single family" residential zones [see Comment, Family Day-Care Homes: Local Barriers Demonstrate Needed Change, 25 Santa Clara L. Rev. 481, 493-494 (1985)]. In addition, fire codes, which typically require fire exits and limit the occupancy of structures and rooms, are often too broad to distinguish child care facilities from schools or hospitals.

Recognizing that local zoning regulations and fire codes can constitute significant obstacles to child care services, the Legislature has removed some of these zoning and fire code obstacles, and eased others. It has declared that the public policy of the state is to provide children in family child care homes [see H&S Code § 1596.78(a); see also § 100C.10[2]] with the same home environment that is provided in traditional home settings [H&S Code § 1597.40(a)]. It has also declared its purpose of occupying the field to the exclusion of municipal zoning ordinances, building and fire codes, and regulations governing the use or occupancy of family child care homes, and of prohibiting restrictions relating to the use of single-family residences for family child care homes, except as specifically provided in the statutes applicable to family child care homes [H&S Code § 1597.40(a)]. Further, restrictions and prohibitions against the use of real property for family child care homes are void [H&S Code § 1597.40(b)]. However, when the family child care is or will be located on rental property, the provider (or prospective provider) must notify the landlord [see H&S Code § 1597.40(d)].

Small family child care homes providing care for eight or fewer children [H&S Code § 1596.78(c); see H&S Code § 1597.44 (additional rules for homes with seven or eight children); see also § 100C.10[2]] have been almost entirely exempted from local zoning ordinances and other regulations [see H&S Code § 1597.45; see also § 100C.70[2]]. Large family child care homes providing care for 7 to 14 children [H&S Code § 1596.78(b); see H&S Code § 1597.465 (additional rules for homes with 13 or 14 children); see also § 100C.10[2]] cannot be prohibited on lots zoned for single-family dwellings [H&S Code § 1597.46(a)], although zoning authorities may attach certain conditions to use permits for such homes [see H&S Code § 1597.46(a)(1)-(3) (permissible conditions)].

Local authorities may adopt restrictions on building heights, setback, or lot dimensions of family child care facilities, as long as the restrictions are identical to those applied to other single-family residences. Similarly, they may apply local ordinances dealing with health and safety, building standards, environmental impact standards, or other matters properly within the jurisdiction of a local public entity, to family child care homes [H&S Code § 1597.47; see, e.g., H&S Code § 1596.795(a) (local government permitted to enact and enforce ordinance more stringent than state prohibition against smoking in family child care center)]. Further, local authorities may abate nuisances. However, the ordinance or nuisance abatement may not distinguish family child care facilities from other single-family dwellings, except as permitted by the statutes applicable to family child care homes [H&S Code § 1597.47].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.13

§ 100C.13 Insurance and Child Care Facilities

[1] In General

Prudent business practices, as well as licensing agencies, require that operators of child care facilities obtain adequate insurance coverage including, at a minimum, general liability insurance. Property insurance in case of fire or other damage is also essential. Other types of insurance that a child care facility may purchase include personal property insurance to cover the facility's contents (such as equipment, furniture, and toys), auto insurance if the facility provides transportation for the children, and product liability insurance to cover such items as food served to the children.

The legislature has enacted the Child Care Insurance Act [Ins. Code §§ 1862-1864] to ensure the availability, stability, and affordability of liability insurance for child care facilities, and to provide residents of California with an adequate, safe, affordable, and plentiful market of child care services [Ins. Code § 1862]. The Act requires all insurers writing child care liability insurance to submit annual reports to the Insurance Commissioner regarding child care liability claims experience for the preceding year. The reports are for the benefit of child care centers and family child care homes and must separately state detailed information such as premiums earned, number of claims filed, total losses incurred, total number of policies canceled, total number of policies nonrenewed, net underwriting gain or loss, and separate allocations of expenses [see Ins. Code § 1864(a)].

[2] Family Child Care Home Requirements

Family child care homes must maintain in force either (1) liability insurance covering injury to clients and guests, in the amount of at least $100,000 per occurrence and $300,000 in the total annual aggregate, sustained on account of the negligence of the licensee or the licensee's staff, or (2) a bond in the aggregate amount of $300,000 [H&S Code § 1597.531(a)]. In lieu of the liability insurance or bond, family child care homes may obtain affidavits signed by each parent with a child enrolled in the home stating that the parent has been informed that the home does not carry liability insurance or a bond [H&S Code § 1597.531(a); see § 100C.257]. If the licensee does not own the premises used as a family child care home, the affidavit must contain additional information. This type of affidavit must also state that the parent has been informed that the liability insurance, if any, of the property owner (or homeowners' association) may not provide coverage for losses arising out of, or in connection with, the operation of the family child care home, except to the extent that the losses are caused by or result from an action or omission by the owner or association for which the owner or association would otherwise be liable [H&S Code § 1597.531(a)].

Family child care homes that maintain liability insurance or a bond, and that provide care in premises that are rented or leased, or shared with a homeowners' association, must name the owner of the property, or the homeowners' association, as an additional insured party on the policy or bond if (1) the owner or governing body of the homeowners' association requests, in writing, to be added as an additional insured party, (2) the addition of the owner or homeowners' association does not cause cancellation or nonrenewal of the insurance policy or bond, and (3) any additional premium assessed is paid by the owner of the property or homeowners' association [H&S Code § 1597.531(b)].

§ 100C.14 Tax Issues Affecting Child Care Facilities

[1] In General

Various special tax considerations relate to different aspects of child care. The tax discussion in this section focuses on those special tax considerations specifically applicable to individuals and/or organizations that provide child care. Other tax considerations not discussed in this chapter include the following:

- A potential income tax credit available to families paying expenses for child care services [see I.R.C. § 21].
- Potential income tax deductions available to employers who contribute to a child day care plan for their employees [see I.R.C. § 419].
- An employer tax credit equal to 25 percent of qualified expenses for employee child care and 10 percent of qualified expenses for child care resource and referral services [I.R.C. § 45F, effective for tax years beginning after December 31, 2001].

For general analysis of the tax issues related to operating a business, and, in particular, operating a business from one's home, as is the case with operators of family child care homes, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 12, Employment and Compensation (Matthew Bender).

[2] Tax Exemptions for Child Care Providers

An income tax exemption exists for non-profit organizations providing child care services. Specifically, corporations, community chests, funds, and foundations organized and operated exclusively for educational purposes are exempt from paying income taxes [see I.R.C. § 501(a),(c)]. The term "educational purposes" includes child care provided away from the child's home if substantially all of the care provided is for purposes of enabling individuals to be gainfully employed, and the services provided by the organization are available to the general public [I.R.C. § 501(k)]. To qualify for this exemption the following conditions must be met [I.R.C. § 501(c)(3)]:

- No part of the organization's net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual;
- No substantial part of the organization's activities relates to carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation; and
- The organization may not participate in, or intervene in (including the publication or distribution of statements), any political campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) any candidate for public office.

Further, a property tax exemption may exist for property used exclusively for nursery school purposes [see R&T Code § 214(a),(c); see also R&T Code § 221(a) ("nursery school" defined as licensed child care facilities owned and operated to provide child day care for parents unable to care for their children due to their hours of employment)]. This exemption is known as the "welfare exemption," and to qualify all of the following conditions must be met [see R&T Code § 214(a),(c)]:

- The property must be owned and operated by religious, hospital, or charitable funds, foundations, limited liability companies, or corporations, and cannot be organized or operated for profit.
- No part of the owner's net earnings may benefit any private shareholder or individual, nor can the property's use or operation financially benefit any individual.
- The property must be used for the actual operation of the exempt activity, and cannot exceed an amount of property reasonably necessary to accomplish the exempt purpose.
- The property cannot be used for social purposes, including fraternal or lodge purposes, except when that social purpose is clearly incidental to the property's primary purpose.
- The property must be irrevocably dedicated to religious, charitable, scientific, or hospital purposes and, on the liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment by the owner cannot inure to the benefit of any private person.
- The individual seeking the exemption must qualify for the federal exemption under I.R.C. § 501 [R&T Code § 214(a)(3)(D)].

[3] Tax Deductions for Child Care Providers

The general rule is that individual taxpayers cannot deduct expenses paid in connection with the business use of their home [I.R.C. § 280A(a)]. However, several broad exceptions exist to this rule. With regard to homes providing child care services, deductions are allowed for expense items to the extent that they are allocable to the use of any portion of the dwelling unit (which includes houses, apartments, condominiums, mobile homes, and boats) on a regular basis in the taxpayer's trade or business of providing child care for children [I.R.C. § 280A(c)(4)(A); see I.R.C. § 280A(f)(1) ("dwelling unit" defined); see also I.R.C. § 280A(c)(4)(C) (allocation formula when portions of home not used exclusively for providing child care services), (5) (limits on deduction)]. These deductions apply to expense items accruing for a certain period only if the facility's owner or operator has been granted a license that has not been revoked, the owner or operator has applied for licensure and the application has not been rejected, or the owner or operator is exempt from licensure as a child care center or family child care home under state law [I.R.C. § 280A(c)(4)(B)].

Specific items that are usually deductible include toys, equipment, and supplies purchased solely for child care, such as fire extinguishers, beds and bedding, and safety latches [see I.R.S. Pub. No. 587]. Additionally, indirect expenses, that is, items used by both the provider's family and the child care children, may also be deductible, but only on a percentage basis.

[4] Employer-Provided Child Care Credit

Effective for tax years beginning after 2001, employers may claim a tax credit equal to 25 percent of qualified expenses for employee child care and 10 percent of qualified expenses for child care resource and referral services [I.R.C. § 45F(a)(1)]. The maximum total credit that may be claimed by a taxpayer cannot exceed $150,000 per taxable year [I.R.C. § 45F(a)(2)].

Qualified child care expenses include costs paid or incurred for the following [I.R.C. § 45F(c)(1)(A)]:

- To acquire, construct, rehabilitate or expand property that is to be used as part of the taxpayer's qualified child care facility;
- For the operation of the taxpayer's qualified child care facility, including the costs of training and certain compensation for employees of the child care facility, and scholarship programs; or
- Under a contract with a qualified child care facility to provide child care services to employees of the taxpayer.

To be a qualified child care facility, the principal use of the facility must be for child care (unless it is the principal residence of the taxpayer), and the facility must meet all applicable State and local laws and regulations, including any licensing laws [I.R.C. § 45F(c)(2)(A)]. A facility is not treated as a qualified child care facility with respect to a taxpayer unless all of the following requirements are satisfied [I.R.C. § 45F(c)(2)(B)]:

- It has open enrollment to the employees of the taxpayer.
- Use of the facility (or eligibility to use the facility) does not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees of the taxpayer [see I.R.C. § 414(q)].
- At least 30 percent of the children enrolled in the center are dependents of the taxpayer's employees, if the facility is the principal trade or business of the taxpayer laws.

Qualified child care resource and referral expenses are amounts paid or incurred under a contract to provide child care resource and referral services to the employees of the taxpayer [I.R.C. § 45F(c)(3)(A)]. Qualified child care services and qualified child care resource and referral expenditures must be provided (or be eligible for use) in a way that does not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees of the taxpayer (within the meaning of I.R.C. § 414(q) [I.R.C. § 45F(c)(3)(B)]).

Any amounts for which the taxpayer may otherwise claim a tax deduction are reduced by the amount of these credits [I.R.C. § 45F(f)(2)]. Similarly, if the credits are taken for expenses of acquiring, constructing, rehabilitating, or expanding a facility, the taxpayer's basis in the facility is reduced by the amount of the credits [I.R.C. § 45F(f)(1)(A)]. Credits taken for the expenses of acquiring, constructing, rehabilitating, or expanding a qualified facility are subject to recapture for the first 10 years after the qualified child care facility is placed in service. The amount of recapture is reduced as a percentage of the applicable credit over the 10-year recapture period [I.R.C. § 45F(d)(1),(2)]. Recapture takes effect if the taxpayer either ceases operation of the qualified child care facility or transfers its interest in the qualified child care facility without securing an agreement to assume recapture liability for the transferee [I.R.C. § 45F(d)(3)]. The taxpayer's tax in the year the recapture event occurs is increased by the amount of the recapture [I.R.C. § 45F(d)(1)], but only if the child care credit decreased the taxpayer's tax liability. If the credit before the recapture event did not decrease the taxpayer's tax liability, the recapture event causes the carryforwards and carrybacks of unused credits to be adjusted [I.R.C. §§ 39, 45F(d)(4)(A)]. Any increase in the tax resulting from a recapture event is not treated as a tax for purposes of determining the amount of other credits or for purposes of the alternative minimum tax [I.R.C. § 45F(d)(4)(B)]. There is no recapture if the cessation of the operation of a child care facility results from a casualty loss, to the extent the loss is restored by reconstruction or replacement within a reasonable period [I.R.C. § 45F(d)(4)(C)].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.15

§ 100C.15 Americans With Disabilities Act Issues

Child care operators should be aware that the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) generally applies to child care centers and family child care homes and bars discrimination based on disabilities [see 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.]. The ADA applies to child care center premises, any part of a home used as a child care facility, and access, including doors, sidewalks, halls, and restrooms.

The ADA covers children who are experiencing measurable developmental delays in cognitive development, physical development, language and speech development, psycho-social development or self-help skills [see 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(h)-(j)]. Child care programs must evaluate the individual needs of children on a case-by-case basis and make reasonable accommodations as necessary, rather than rejecting an individual, for example, because the individual is developmentally disabled or hyperactive. Programs must take readily achievable steps to prevent discrimination based on disability, including open access to public facilities, unless they result in an undue burden, that is, significant difficulty or expense [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 12111(9),(10), 12112(b)(5); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1630.9, 1630.15].

The ADA also covers facility clients in terms of access and services, and, assuming at least 15 employees, qualified individuals who, with or without reasonable accommodation, can perform the essential functions of the position [see 42 U.S.C. § 12111(5),(8); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(n)]. The ADA bars disability discrimination in job application procedures, hiring, advancement, discharge, compensation, job training, and other terms and privileges of employment [see 42 U.S.C. § 12112(a),(b); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1630.4-1630.13]. However, an employer may refuse to assign an individual with specified infectious and communicable diseases to a job involving food handling if reasonable accommodation will not eliminate the problem [see 42 U.S.C. § 12113(e); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.16(e)].

Although the ADA does not require facilities to accept every child for care, and requires only reasonable accommodation, many concepts readily apply to the development of standard operating procedures that best serve the needs of the children in care. Organizational and operational documents should clearly state the facility's refusal to discriminate based on disability, and nondiscriminatory policies should be set forth in the bylaws, job descriptions, promotional information, admission policies, and ongoing training programs. The facility should keep records of discussions with clients or employees that relate to specific disabilities. Further, the facility should attempt to negotiate accommodations as the need arises, rather than planning for disabilities that may never need accommodation, and be flexible and willing to make creative accommodations.

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.20

§ 100C.20 Introduction

[1] Governing Law

A "child care center" or "day care center" is any child care facility of any capacity other than a family child care home [see § 100C.70], including infant centers, preschools, extended day care facilities, and school-age child care centers [H&S Code § 1596.76; see also § 100C.10[2]], in which less than 24-hour per day nonmedical care and supervision is provided for children in a group setting. The term "child care center" supersedes "day care center" [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(7)].

Child care centers are subject to licensure in accordance with the Child are Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.90], and cannot be licensed under the California Community Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1500 et seq.]. The general requirements of the Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.], and the general regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2], apply to child care centers [H&S Code § 1596.90; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151]. In addition, specific statutes apply to child care centers [H&S Code §§ 1596.90-1597.21].

[2] License Required

Unless a child care arrangement is exempt from the licensing requirements [see § 100C.10[4]], a current valid license is required to establish, operate, manage, conduct, or maintain a child care center [H&S Code § 1596.80; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101156]. A special permit is required if specialized services will be provided within the facility [H&S Code § 1596.805]. Under no circumstances, however, may a licensee operate any facility beyond the conditions and limitations specified on his or her license, including the stated capacity limitation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101161(a)]. It is the responsibility of the licensee to ensure compliance with all applicable laws and regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151(b)], and unless prior approval is received from the Department, the licensee must maintain continuous compliance with the licensing regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101175(a)].

If a non-exempt facility is alleged to be providing care and supervision [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(3) ("care and supervision" defined)] without a valid license in violation of H&S Code § 1596.80 [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §

101157(a)], the Department must conduct a site visit and/or evaluation of the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101157(b); see H&S Code § 1596.853]. If the facility is found to be operating without a license, the Department must issue a Notice of Operation in Violation of Law, and refer the case for criminal prosecution and/or civil proceedings [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101157(c)]. In addition, the Department can issue an immediate civil penalty [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101157(d); see H&S Code § 1596.891; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198]. Any action brought by the Department against an unlicensed center does not abate with the sale or transfer of the center, except with the written consent of the Department [H&S Code § 1596.894].

Under specified circumstances, an applicant may seek a waiver of, or exception to, licensing and application requirements. The Department can approve the use of alternative child care arrangements if the alternative provides for safe and adequate services that are not detrimental to the health and safety of the children. The request for a waiver or exception must be in writing with substantiating evidence to support the request [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101175(b)(1),(2); see § 100C.270]. Within 30 days of receipt of the request, the agency must notify the applicant or licensee in writing of the approval or denial, or of the need for additional substantiating documentation. The licensee must maintain and make available for review a copy of the approval or denial at the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101175(b)(3)].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.21

§ 100C.21 Initial Application Procedures for Obtaining License

[1] In General

Any adult may apply for a child care facility license regardless of age, sex, race, religion, color, political affiliation, national origin, disability, marital status, or sexual orientation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101168; see Fam. Code § 6502 ("adult" defined)]. The application process to obtain an initial child care center license, or a special permit to provide specialized services within a child care center, is commenced when the applicant files an application with the Department of Social Services, on forms furnished by the Department [H&S Code § 1596.95; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(a); see § 100C.200]. Before filing an application, the applicant must attend an orientation given by the Department of Social Services that outlines the rules and regulations, the scope of operation of a child care facility, the responsibility entailed in operating a facility, and information about the Healthy Schools Act of 2000 and integrated past management practices [H&S Code § 1596.845; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(b)].

The application includes a wide range of information and documents [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(d); see also § 100C.200]. In addition, the application must include evidence that the applicant can comply with rules and regulations, is reputable and responsible, and has sufficient financial resources to properly operate the facility [see H&S Code § 1596.95(a)-(c); see also § 100C.200[1]]. Applicants must also disclose certain information regarding past experience and financial involvement with child care facilities, clinics, or health or community care facilities [see H&S Code § 1596.95(d)], and whether disciplinary action has been taken regarding the applicant's operation of one of these facilities [see H&S Code § 1596.95(e); see also § 100C.200[1]]. Applicants must also provide satisfactory evidence (1) of the existence of a fire escape and disaster plan for the center, including drill plans [see H&S Code § 1596.95(f)], and (2) that the applicant has posted safety signs at the point of entry of the center, including the telephone number of the local health department and child car safety requirements [see H&S Code § 1596.95(g)]. If the applicant fails to cooperate with the Department by not properly providing all required information [see H&S Code § 1596.95(h)], the application must be denied [H&S Code § 1596.95(i)]. The application must be signed by the applicant [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(e)], and must be filed with the Department that serves the geographical area in which the facility is located [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(f)].

An applicant may withdraw, in writing, an application for a child care center license, a special permit, or a renewal license [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101180]. The withdrawal of an application after filing does not deprive the Department of its authority to institute or continue a proceeding against the applicant for the denial of a license (or to enter an order denying the license) unless the Department consents to the withdrawal in writing [H&S Code § 1596.854; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101180(b)].

[2] Eligibility of Child Care Personnel

[a] Criminal Record Review

[i] Overview

During the application process--that is, after the submission of the application and before the issuance of an operating license or special permit, the Department will conduct a detailed review of the applicant's criminal past [see H&S Code § 1596.871; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(a)]. The criminal review process includes obtaining any criminal record on the applicant and other individuals associated with the proposed child care facility [see H&S Code § 1596.871(b); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(c),(d)-(f)] for the purpose of determining whether that person has ever been convicted of a crime other than a minor traffic violation or has ever been arrested for violation of specified sections of the Penal Code [see Pen Code §§ 245, 273.5, 273a(b), 290(c); former Pen Code § 273a(2)] or for any crime for which the department cannot grant an exemption if the person was convicted and not subsequently exonerated [H&S Code § 1596.871(a); see H&S Code § 1596.871(f)(1)]. The following persons are subject to this requirement [H&S Code § 1596.871(a),(b)(1)(A)-(D); see H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(E)-(G) (entity requirements)]:

- The applicant for licensure.
- Adults responsible for administration or direct supervision of staff.
- Any person other than a child residing in the facility.
- Any person who provides care and supervision to the children.
- Any staff person, volunteer, and employee who has contact with children.

With respect to the last category listed above, volunteers providing time-limited specialized services and students enrolled or participating at an accredited educational institution are exempt if they are directly supervised by the licensee or a facility employee with a criminal record clearance or exemption, spend no more than 16 hours per week at the facility, and are not left alone with children in care [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(i),(ii)]. A volunteer who is a relative, legal guardian, or foster parent of a child in care is exempt [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(iii)]. A contract repair person retained by the facility is also exempt if the person is not left alone with children in care [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(iv)]. The Department may also exempt similar persons by regulation [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(v)].

Based on the results of the criminal record review, the Department can approve or deny a license, or an individual's employment, residence, or presence in a child care facility [H&S Code § 1596.885; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(a)]. However, if it is found that the applicant or any other person subject to the criminal record review has been convicted [see H&S Code § 1596.871(d)(1) ("conviction" defined)] of a crime, other than a minor traffic violation, the application must be denied, unless an exemption from disqualification is granted [H&S Code § 1596.871(a); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(j),(k); see also [iii], below].

The Department cannot use a record of arrest to deny, revoke, or terminate any application, license, employment, or residence unless it investigates the incident and secures evidence, whether or not related to the incident of arrest, that is admissible in an administrative hearing to establish conduct by the person that may pose a risk to the health and safety of any person who is or may become a client [H&S Code § 1596.871(e)].

[ii] Fingerprinting Requirements

It is the intent of the legislature to require the fingerprints of all individuals whose contact with child care center clients may pose a risk to the children's health and safety [H&S Code § 1596.871]. An individual is required to obtain either a criminal record clearance or a criminal record exemption from the Department of Social Services before he or she is present in a child day care facility [H&S Code § 1696.871]. Before the issuance of a license, the Department must receive a criminal-record clearance on the applicant, the administrator, and all adults residing in the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(c),(e); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(d)(13)]. In addition, all persons subject to criminal record review [see [i], above] must be fingerprinted as a precondition to employment, residence, or initial presence in the center, and must sign a declaration, under penalty of perjury, regarding prior criminal convictions [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(1)(A); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(d)].

The licensee must maintain documentation of criminal record clearances of staff, employees, volunteers, and non-client adults residing in the facility in the individual's personnel file. This documentation must be available at the facility for inspection by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(g)].

For a further discussion of the criminal clearance procedures conducted by the Department before the issuance of a license, see § 100C.231[1].

[iii] Exemptions

After review of the criminal record, the Director of Social Services may grant an exemption from disqualification for a license, or from disqualification for employment, residence, or presence in a child care facility, if the director has substantial and convincing evidence to support a reasonable belief that the applicant and the person previously convicted of a crime (if other than the applicant) are of such good character as to justify the issuance of the license or the granting of an exemption [H&S Code § 1596.871(f)(1); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(c)]. The Department may also grant a criminal record exemption that imposes conditions on the individual's continued licensure, employment, and presence in the licensed facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(i)]. The licensee must maintain documentation of any exemptions of staff, employees, volunteers, and non-client adults residing in the facility in the individual's personnel file. This documentation must be available at the facility for inspection by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(g)]. The reasons for the granting or denying of an exemption must be in writing and kept by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(h)].

The Department may grant an exemption after reviewing a criminal record transcript [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(g)] if (1) the applicant/licensee requests an exemption for himself or herself, (2) the applicant/licensee requests an exemption in writing for an individual associated with the facility, or (3) the affected individual requests an individual exemption in writing (and the applicant/licensee chooses not to seek an exemption) and the individual submits substantial and convincing evidence satisfactory to the Department, that he or she has been rehabilitated and is currently of sufficiently good character as to justify being issued or maintaining a license, employment, or residence in a licensed facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(c); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(g) (grounds for denial)]. The Department may consider factors, including but not limited to the following, as evidence of good character and rehabilitation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(e)]:

- The nature of the crime, including whether it involved violence or a threat of violence.

- The period of time since crime was committed and the number of offenses.
- The circumstances surrounding the commission of the crime that would demonstrate the unlikelihood of repetition.
- The individual's conduct since the conviction, including employment or participation in therapy or education, that would indicate changed behavior.
- The granting of a full and unconditional pardon.
- Character references.
- A certificate of rehabilitation from a superior court.
- Evidence of honesty and truthfulness as revealed in exemption application documents and interviews and conversations with the Department.

No exemption may be granted for certain assaults [see Pen Code § 220], sexual battery [see Pen Code § 243.4], other specified sex crimes [see Pen Code § 264.1], child abuse [see Pen Code §§ 273a(a), 273d; see also former Pen Code § 273a(1)], failure to register as a sex offender [see Pen Code § 290(c)], lewd and lascivious acts with a child or dependent adult [see Pen Code § 288], sexual penetration with a foreign object [see Pen Code § 289], elder abuse [see Pen Code § 368], or certain felonies [H&S Code § 1596.871(f)(1); see B&P Code § 729; see also Pen Code §§ 206, 215, 347(a), 417(b), 451(a),(b), 667.5(c)]. The Department will consider criminal convictions from another state or federal court as if the criminal offense were committed in California [H&S Code § 1596.871(d)(2)].

If a criminal record exemption is not or cannot be granted, the Department will take one of the following actions [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(p)]:

- For initial applicants, denial of the application.
- For current licensees, the Department may institute an administrative action, including but not limited to, license revocation.
- For current or prospective employees, exclusion of the affected individual [see H&S Code § 1596.8897] and denial of the application or revocation of the license if the individual continues to provide services or reside at the facility.
- For individuals residing in the facility, including spouses, exclusion of the affected individual [see H&S Code § 1596.8897] and denial of the application or revocation of the license if the individual continues to provide services or reside at the facility.

PRACTICE TIP:

The Community Care Licensing Department advises that, as of March 2002, no exemptions are currently being granted. A substantial backlog exists.

[iv] Declarations Regarding Prior Criminal Convictions

Following initial licensure, any person subject to the fingerprinting requirement [see [ii], above] who is not exempt [see [iii], above] must, as a condition to employment, residence, or presence in the child care center, sign a declaration under penalty of perjury regarding any prior criminal conviction [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(1)(A)].

[v] Transfer of Current Criminal Records Clearance

On request, the Department may permit an individual to transfer a current criminal records clearance from one facility to another, provided that the clearance has been processed through a state licensing district office and is being transferred to another state licensing district office. The request must be submitted in writing to the Department. If the person is a California resident, the person must include a copy of the person's driver's license or valid identification card issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles. If the person is not a California resident, the person must include a valid photo identification issued by another state or the federal government [H&S Code § 1596.871(h)(2); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(r)]. On the request of the licensee, the Department will verify whether the individual has a transferable clearance, provided that the licensee encloses a self-addressed, stamped envelope for that purpose [H&S Code § 1596.871(h)(1); see H&S Code § 1596.871(h)(2) (Social Services Department will hold criminal records clearance for two years after employee leaves employment at licensed facility)]. If the Department denies the transfer request, the individual is entitled to an administrative hearing to contest the determination [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(t)].

[vi] Denial of Criminal Background Clearance

If the Department has denied a criminal background clearance for an individual based on an information search response provided by the Department of Justice, the individual may make a written request to the Department for a copy of that state or federal level criminal offender record information search response [H&S Code § 1696.871(i)].

[b] Review of Child Abuse Registry

In addition to the criminal record clearance procedures [see [a], above], the Department must check the Child Abuse Registry before granting a license to or otherwise approving a child care center [H&S Code § 1596.877(b)]. A license cannot be denied based on registry information unless the child abuse is substantiated [H&S Code § 1596.877(c); see Pen Code §§ 11170(b)(4), 11165.12(a)].

[3] Fire and Water Clearances

During the initial application procedures, and before obtaining licensure, applicants must secure and maintain a fire clearance approval from the city or county fire department, the district providing fire protection services, or the State Fire Marshal, whichever has primary jurisdiction over the area where the facility is to be located [see H&S Code § 1596.809; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101171(a)]. The request for fire clearance must be made through and maintained by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101171(a)(1)]. The applicant must notify the Department if the facility plans to admit nonambulatory children so that the appropriate fire clearance can be obtained before those children are accepted [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101171(b); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(n)(1) ("nonambulatory person" defined)].

Centers providing water for human consumption from a private source must obtain a water supply clearance before initial licensure. The applicant must provide evidence of an on-site inspection of the source of the water and a bacteriological analysis that establishes the safety of the water, conducted by the local health department, the Department of Health Services, or a licensed commercial laboratory [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101172(a)(1)]. After initial licensure, those facilities providing water from a private source must provide the Department with evidence of a bacteriological analysis of the water supply as frequently as is necessary to ensure the children's safety, or annually, semiannually, or quarterly, depending on the facilities' licensed capacity [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101172(a)(2)].

[4] Plan of Operation and Disaster Plan

As part of the initial application procedures, the applicant must submit a plan of operation [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173] to the Department [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(d)(12)]. The plan must be an individualized plan specific to the type of center operated, and include the licensee's own philosophies, methods, programs, and goals. Each licensee must have and maintain on file a current, written, definitive plan of operation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173(a); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173(b) (contents of plan); see also § 100C.203 (administrative organization)]. The center must operate in accordance with the terms specified in the plan [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173(d)], and any proposed changes in the plan of operation that affect services to children must be reported to and approved by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173(c); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212].

As a practical matter, applicants rarely prepare a written document titled "Plan of Operation." Rather, most plans of operation consist of several statements, policies, plans, and practices that govern the center. For example, the supplemental instructions to the application presents outlines and suggestions for the individual components of the plan of operation. The forms covering these individual components are forth in §§ 100C.211-100C.220.

In addition, the applicant must prepare and submit an emergency disaster plan with the application for licensure [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174; see also § 100C.210].

[5] Capacity Determination

A child care center license will only be issued for a specific capacity [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101179(a)]; that is, the maximum number of children that are authorized to be provided care and supervision at any one time in any licensed facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(2)]. As part of the application process, the applicant must specify the maximum number of children to be served by the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(d)(5)].

As part of the initial licensing process, a determination must be made as to the number of children for whom the facility will provide care and supervision. This capacity determination will be made based on the application review by the Department [see § 100C.22]. This review will consider such factors as the fire clearance [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101171; see also [3], above], the applicant's ability to comply with applicable law and regulations, any other household members residing at the facility and their individual needs, the physical features of the facility, number of available staff, and any restrictions pertaining to the specific category of facility [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101179(b); see also § 100C.120]. The Department may issue a license for fewer children than requested by the applicant [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101179(a)], and may decrease an existing center's capacity when one or more of the factors listed above change [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101179(d) (if licensee refuses decrease, Department may begin revocation action)]. In addition, the Department may restrict care to specific individuals [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101179(e)].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.22

§ 100C.22 Initial Application Review by Department and Issuance of License or Provisional License

[1] Notice of Incomplete Application

If the applicant has not provided all required information and documents [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(a); see also §§ 100C.21, 100C.200], the Department must give the applicant written notice that the application is incomplete and describe what further information is needed to constitute a completed application [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101178(a)]. If the applicant does not complete the application within 30 days after receipt of the notice, the application is deemed withdrawn and the Department will cease review of the application, providing that the Department has not denied or taken action to deny the application [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101178(a)(1)]. However, the 30-day requirement does not apply to centers under construction [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101178(a)(1)(A)].

[2] Action on Complete Application

[a] Granting of Initial License

Within 30 days after receiving all appropriate licensing application materials, as determined by the Department, the Department must conduct a site visit at the proposed center [H&S Code § 1597.13]. The Department then must grant or deny an application within that 30-day period, after the site visit has been completed and the center found to be in compliance with licensing standards [H&S Code § 1597.13]. However, for organizations that already possess a current valid license to operate a child care facility at another site, the Department has 60 days to review and make a final determination on applications to open another facility [H&S Code § 1596.96(a)]. If a determination cannot be made within the 60-day period, the Department will issue a provisional license, provided that no life safety risks exist and on completion of all fire and criminal clearances [H&S Code § 1596.96(c); see [b], below].

If the Department determines that all licensing and application requirements have been met, the Department must issue a license [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101182(a)]. The issuance of the license constitutes written notice that the application is complete and the license has been granted [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101182(b)]. No limitations may be imposed on the license solely on the basis that the licensee is a parent who has administered or will continue to administer corporal punishment to his or her own children, provided that the punishment does not constitute child abuse [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101182(c); see H&S Code § 1531.5(c); Pen Code § 11165.6 ("child abuse" defined)]. The effect of the withdrawal of an application for licensure is discussed in § 100C.271[1].

Once a license has been issued, the Department will furnish each licensee with a notice that must be posted at the facility where it can be easily seen by employees and consumers. The notice must identify the Department and how licensing regulations can be obtained, give local telephone numbers where complaints can be made, and contain a statement that employers at child day care centers cannot discharge, demote, suspend, or threaten an employee for taking specified actions [H&S Code § 1596.874(a); see H&S Code § 1596.881].

[b] Issuance of Provisional License

[i] Grounds for Issuance

The Department may also issue a provisional license [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(p)(4) ("provisional license" defined)] to operate a child care center if (1) the center is in substantial compliance with applicable licensing laws, (2) the center has submitted a completed application, and (3) no life safety risks are involved [H&S Code § 1596.84; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(a)]. In determining whether any life safety risks are involved, all applicable fire and criminal record clearances must be completed [H&S Code § 1596.84]. For example, the Department must issue a provisional license for otherwise qualified applicants who have not yet satisfied the health and safety training requirements [H&S Code § 1596.866(c)(3); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(c)]. The Department may not issue a provisional license if a corporate applicant's board of directors, executive director, and officer are ineligible for licensure [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(b); H&S Code § 1596.952(b)].

A provisional license also may be issued to an applicant who already holds a current license for a child care center and who has submitted an application to operate a center at another site. In these cases, the Department must review and make a final determination regarding the application within 60 days of the submission of the completed application [H&S Code § 1596.96(a)]. If the Department for any reason is unable to make a final determination within that time frame, it must grant a provisional license, provided that (1) the Department knows of no life safety risks exist and (2) the requisite criminal record clearances and fire safety clearances are complete [H&S Code § 1596.96(c)]. If the Department does not issue a provisional license, it must give the applicant, within the same 60-day period, a detailed explanation of the specific reason or reasons for the nonissuance. If the reasons identified in the notice are corrected, the Department must issue the provisional license within five days after the corrections are made [H&S Code § 1596.96(d)].

[ii] Duration of Provisional Licenses

A provisional license is valid for up to six months from the date of issuance if the Department determines that full compliance with licensing regulations will be achieved within that time [H&S Code §§ 1596.84, 1596.96(c); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(e)]. The term of the provisional license may be extended an additional six months, up to a maximum of 12 months, if more than six months will be required to achieve full compliance with licensing standards due to circumstances beyond the applicant's control [H&S Code §§ 1596.84, 1596.96(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(e)]. However, if the Department discovers any serious deficiencies during the provisional license period, the Department has authority to institute administrative action or civil proceedings, or to refer the case for criminal prosecution [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(d); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(s)(3) ("serious deficiencies" are those that represent an immediate or substantial threat to the physical or mental health or safety of children)].

A provisional license will also be issued for a maximum of 90 days to otherwise qualified applicants who have not yet complied with the health and safety training requirements [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(c); see H&S Code § 1596.866(c)(3)].

[c] Denial of Licensure

Except with regard to the issuance of provisional licenses based on substantial compliance [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181; see also [b], above], the Department must deny an application for licensure if the Department finds that the applicant is not in compliance with all applicable rules and regulations [H&S Code § 1596.856; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101205(a)]. However, applicants for initial licenses cannot be denied solely on grounds that the licensee is a parent who has administered or will continue to administer corporal punishment to his or her own child, if that punishment does not constitute child abuse [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101205(a)(3); see Pen Code § 11165.6 ("child abuse" defined); see also H&S Code § 1531.5(c) (additional definition of "child abuse")].

If the application for an initial license is denied, the Department must mail a written notice of denial to the applicant. The notice must inform the applicant of the reasons for the denial and advise the applicant of the right to appeal [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101205(b)]. An applicant for initial licensure whose application has been denied may petition the Department of Social Services for a hearing within 15 days after the mailing of the notice of denial; on receipt of the petition, the department will set a date for the hearing [H&S Code § 1596.879]. However, notwithstanding any appeal action, a center whose application for licensure has been denied remains unlicensed and may not operate pending resolution of the appeal [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101205(d)].

§ 100C.24 When New Application Required

Child care centers that are already licensed must file a new application, including all the same information required on the initial application, whenever there is a change in the conditions or limitations described on the current license, or other changes, including but not limited to the following [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101185(a)]:

- Any change in the child care center category, other than the proposed addition of a toddler component to an existing preschool or infant care program.
- The sale or transfer of a majority of the licensee's stock.
- Separation of the licensee from a parent company or merger with another company.
- A change in the licensee.

When the licensee seeks a change in capacity, the number of nonambulatory children, or location, the licensee may transfer documents from an existing application to the new application in lieu of filing an entirely new application and supporting documents. The "new" application must include the filed application, any necessary fire clearance, and an update of the existing application documents affected by the change [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101185(b)].

A new application must also be filed whenever an applicant fails to complete an application within the requisite time period after receipt of notice that his or her application is incomplete [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101185(d); see § 100C.22[1]].

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.25

§ 100C.25 Compliance With Operating Requirements After Licensure

Once a licensee secures a license, the licensee must comply with strict operating requirements. These operating requirements consist of general requirements applicable to child care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101212-101231], the special requirements applicable only to infant care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415 et seq.; see also § 100C.35[2]], school-age child care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515 et seq.; see also § 100C.35[3]], and centers for mildly ill children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101615 et seq.; see also § 100C.35[4]]. For a discussion of the special operating requirements applicable to family child care homes, see §§ 100C.74-100C.79.

The licensee must provide care and supervision [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(3)] ("care and supervision" defined)] as is necessary to meet the children's needs [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101229(a)] (supervision includes visual observation)], and it is the licensee who is accountable for the general supervision of the licensed center, and for the establishment of policies concerning its operation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101214(a)]. If the licensee is a corporation or an association, the governing body must be active and functioning in order to ensure the licensee's accountability [*22 Cal. CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.27

§ 100C.27 Personnel Requirements

[1] In General

Child care centers must employ competent employees and at all times have sufficient staff members to meet the individual needs of the children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(a)]. The Department may require the licensee to provide additional staff if the agency determines and documents that additional staff is required for the provision of services necessary to meet the children's needs [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(b)]. In determining the need for additional staff, the Department will consider the following factors: the needs of the children, the extent of services provided by the center, the physical arrangement of the center, and whether an emergency or disaster exists. If the Department determines that additional staff is needed, it must provide the licensee with written reasons for its determination [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(b)].

Additional personnel and operating requirements applicable to child care centers include the continual observation of the children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.3], the supervision of a group of children by a teacher [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101229], the establishment and maintenance of written sign-in and sign-out procedures [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101226.1(b), 101229.1; see also § 100C.122], food service requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227], prohibiting disciplinary actions that violate the children's personal rights [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101223, 101223.2; see also §§ 100C.34, 100C.251[1]], and certain activity requirements, such as providing quiet and active play time and napping facilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101230].

[2] Staffing Requirements

[a] Teacher-Child Ratios

Specified teacher-child ratio standards must be met for maintaining proper supervision of children at the center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.5 (staffing requirements at parent-cooperative centers)]. In general, a child care center teacher may not be responsible for observing and supervising more than 12 children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3(a); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3(c) (staffing ratios do not apply to child development programs funded by state)]. However, the licensee may employ teacher aides, in which case one teacher and one teacher's aide may not supervise more than 15 children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3(b)].

[b] Eligibility and Qualifications

Before employment or initial presence in the center, all employees and volunteers subject to a criminal record review [see § 100C.21[2][a]] must either obtain a California clearance or a criminal record exemption, or request a transfer of a criminal record clearance [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(f)], or request and be approved for a transfer of a criminal record exemption [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170.1(r)], unless, on request for a transfer, the Department permits the individual to be employed, reside, or be present at the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(i)]. Further, staff members cannot abuse, exploit, or prejudice any child [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(j)], must report violations of the children's rights [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(k); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101223 (children's rights); § 100C.251], and must be informed of their own rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(l); see H&S Code §§ 1596.881, 1596.882; see also § 100C.250[1]].

Detailed staffing requirements exist for personnel working at child care centers, including qualification and duty requirements for the following personnel:

- Administrators [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(a)(1) ("administrator" defined as licensee or adult designated by licensee to act on licensee's behalf in overall management of center)].
- Directors [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1; see also § 100C.211[1]].
- Teachers [see H&S Code §§ 1597.055, 1597.056; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101216, 101216.1; see also § 100C.211[1]].
- Teacher's aides [see H&S Code § 1597.059; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101216, 101216.2; see also § 100C.211[1]].

[c] Health and Safety Training

Child care centers must satisfy health care training requirements [see H&S Code §§ 1596.865, 1596.866(a)]. At least one director or teacher must have at least 15 hours of health and safety training [H&S Code § 1596.866(a),(c); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(m), 101216(f), 101216.1(i)]. This training must include pediatric first aid, pediatric cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and preventative health practices course or courses that include instruction in the recognition, management, and prevention of infectious diseases, including immunizations, and prevention of childhood injuries [H&S Code § 1596.866(a),(c)]. These training requirements are a condition of licensure [H&S Code § 1596.866(a),(c)].

At least one staff member who has a current certificate, issued by an approved program, in pediatric cardiopulmonary resuscitation and pediatric first aid must be present at all times when children are present at the center, or when children are offsite for center activities [H&S Code § 1596.866(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(f)].

Training in pediatric first aid and pediatric CPR must be current at all times. However, training in preventive health practices is a one-time-only requirement [H&S Code § 1596.866(c)(2)].

If the center provides water activities, at least one adult must have a valid water-safety certificate in the center's files and be present during those activities [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.6].

A licensee or staff person who obtains or renews a pediatric first aid certificate [see H&S Code § 1596.866] must complete formal training designed to provide instruction in administering inhaled medication to children with respiratory needs before licensees and staff may administer inhaled medication [H&S Code § 1596.798(a)(4)].

[d] Age and Health Requirements

In general, child care center staff who supervise employees and/or volunteers and persons who provide any element of care and supervision must be at least 18 years old [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(d)]. However, centers may use teacher's aides who are less than 18 years old provided that they are high school graduates or are currently participating in an occupational program conducted by an accredited high school or college [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2(b); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2(c) (age verification requirement)].

All center personnel, including the licensee, the administrator, and volunteers, must be in good health, and physically, mentally, and occupationally capable of performing their assigned tasks. The physical health of all staff members, except volunteers, must be verified by a health screening examination, including a test for tuberculosis, performed by or under the supervision of a physician, not more than one year before or seven days after employment or licensure [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(1); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(2) (contents)]. Volunteers' good physical health must be verified by a signed statement affirming that the volunteer is in good health and a test for tuberculosis must have been performed not more than one year before or seven days after the volunteer's initial presence in the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(3)]. Any personnel with evidence of physical illness that poses a threat to the health and safety of children must be relieved of their duties [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(h)].

[e] Volunteers Permitted

Volunteers may work at child care centers if they are supervised and not included in the staffing plan [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(c); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173(b)(5) (staffing plan required as part of plan of operation); see also § 100C.211[1]]. Volunteers' good physical health must be verified by a signed statement affirming that the volunteer is in good health and a test for tuberculosis must have been performed not more than one year before or seven days after the volunteer's initial presence in the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(3)].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.28

§ 100C.28 Requirements for Physical Environment of Centers

[1] In General

Requirements related to the physical environment of a child care facility are designed to ensure a safe place for the children, employees, and visitors. A child care center must at all times be clean, safe, sanitary, and in good repair, including being free of insects and rodents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(a)], and must provide for the safe storage of cleaning and other potentially dangerous supplies in areas inaccessible to children [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101226(d), 101238(d),(g),(i), 101238.4(d)]. Numerous other protective measures must be taken, including providing nonslip materials on rugs [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(b)(1)] and an isolation place for ill children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.2].

A center must provide storage space for facility equipment and supplies [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(d)], storage space for each child's clothing, personal belongings, and/or bedding [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.4(a)], and storage space for play materials and equipment and napping equipment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.4(b),(c); see also [3], [6], below]. Firearms and other weapons may not be allowed on or stored on the premises [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(g)(2)]. Additional requirements apply to food and medication storage [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101226(e), 101227(a)(14),(15), 101238(g),(h); see also § 100C.33[4]].

Child care centers must maintain a comfortable temperature for children at all times [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(a)], safe and clean windows [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(b)], adequate lighting and linen [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(d),(g)], and a proper system for the storage and disposal of solid waste [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(f)]. Additionally, all outdoor and indoor passageways, stairways, inclines, ramps, open porches, and other areas of potential hazard must be kept free of obstruction [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(c)]. Further, fireplaces and open-faced heaters must be inaccessible to the children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(c)]. The smoking of tobacco on the premises of a licensed child care center is also prohibited [H&S Code § 1596.795(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101231].

All water for drinking must be potable, and drinking water from a noncontaminating fixture or container must be readily available both indoors and outdoors [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239.2].

[2] Bathroom Facilities

All toilet, hand washing, and bathing facilities must be maintained in a safe and sanitary operating condition [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(a),(b) 101239(e)]. If the center accommodates physically handicapped children, the center must provide additional equipment, aids, or conveniences to assist these children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(e)(4)]. Faucets used by children for personal care and grooming may or may not deliver hot water (with regulated temperature controls) [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(e)(1),(3)]; however, faucets delivering water at specified temperatures must be prominently identified by warning signs [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(e)(2)]. Additional requirements must be satisfied for toilets and hand washing fixtures, including at least one for every 15 children in the center, plus an additional separate toilet and hand washing fixture designated for use by ill children, by staff, and for emergency use [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(h),(i)]. Common towels and washcloths are impermissible [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(j)].

[3] Furniture and Napping Equipment

The center must provide adequate tables and chairs scaled to the size of children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(k)]. All furniture and equipment must be maintained in good condition, free of sharp, loose, or pointed parts [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(n)]. All play equipment and materials used by children must be appropriate for the children's ages [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(m)], and playground equipment must be securely anchored to the ground unless the equipment is portable by design [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(o)]. No "baby walkers" may be kept or used on the premises of a child care center [H&S Code § 1596.846(b),(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(n)(1); see 16 C.F.R. § 1500.86(a)(4) (definition)].

The center must provide adequate napping equipment, such as cots and mats, and maintain the equipment in a safe condition [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101226.2(a)(2), 101230(b), 101239(l), 101239.1; see also [6], below]. Napping mats must meet specified requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239.1(b)], and both cots and mats must satisfy bedding requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239.1(c)]. Napping equipment must be arranged to provide access for each child to a walkway without the necessity of walking on or over the cots or mats of other children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239.1(d)]. In addition, centers must provide a mat, cot, couch, or bed in isolation area to care for any sick child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.2(a)(2)].

All furniture, including cots and mats used for napping, must be arranged so that no exit is blocked [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(p)]. All materials accessible to children, including toys, must be free of toxic substances [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(q)].

[4] Bodies of Water

All bodies of water, including swimming pools, wading pools, hot tubs, spas, fish ponds, and similar bodies of water, when not in use, must be inaccessible to children through the use of fencing, covering, or other means [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(e)]. Centers must have at least a five foot fence around the pool, constructed so that it does not obscure the pool from view and is self-latching at the top of the gate, or an approved pool covering [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(e)(1)]. Above-ground pools must be made inaccessible when not in use by removing or making the ladder inaccessible, or erecting a barricade to prevent access to decking [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(e)(2)]. All in-ground pools and above-ground pools that cannot be emptied after each use must have an operative pump and filtering system [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(f)].

Notwithstanding these requirements, inflatable or other portable plastic wading pools do not require fencing if the sides of the pool are low enough for the children using them to step out without assistance [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.5].

All wading pools must be emptied after each use [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.5].

[5] Outdoor Activity Space

Child care centers must provide at least 75 square feet of outdoor activity space per child, based on the center's total licensed capacity, not including areas such as swimming pools, adjacent pool decking, and natural or man-made hazards, including cliffs, condemned buildings, creeks, power lines, rivers, and areas subject to flooding [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(a)]. The outdoor activity space must be situated to provide a shaded rest area and allow for safe access to the area [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(b)]. Equipment and activity areas must be arranged in a manner so as to avoid hazard from conflicting activities [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(c)]. The surface of the outdoor activity space must be maintained in a safe condition for the activities planned and kept free from hazards, including but not limited to holes, broken glass, other debris, and dry grasses that pose a fire hazard [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(d)]. Areas around and under high climbing equipment, swings, slides, and similar equipment must be properly cushioned, sandboxes must be inspected daily, and playgrounds must be enclosed by an adequate fence at least four feet high [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(e)-(g)]. Any construction or equipment, including but not limited to incinerators, air conditioners, water heaters, or fuse boxes, that cause a hazardous situation in the outdoor activity space, must be made inaccessible to the children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(h)]. Inflatable or plastic wading pools need not be fenced if they are low enough for children to step out unassisted, but must be emptied after each use [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.5; see also [4], above].

[6] Indoor Activity and Storage Space

With regard to indoor activity space, the center must provide at least 35 square feet per child based on the center's total licensed capacity, excluding bathrooms, halls, offices, isolation areas, food preparation areas, storage places, and floor space occupied by shelves, built-in cabinets, and office equipment [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.3(a)]. Although floor areas under tables, desks, chairs, and other equipment intended for use as part of children's activities can be included in the calculation of indoor activity space, all floors in the facility must have surfaces that are safe and clean [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.3(a)(3),(b)].

The licensee must ensure that each child has individual permanent or portable storage space for each child's clothes, belongings, and/or bedding [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.4(a)]. The center must have adequate permanent or portable storage space in playrooms for play materials and equipment. However, outdoor play equipment and materials can be stored outdoors [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.4(b)]. Napping equipment must be stored at the center when not in use and combustibles, cleaning equipment, and cleaning agents must be stored in an area separate from food supplies and in a locked cabinet or place inaccessible to children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.4(c),(d)].

[7] Alterations to Center

If a child care center licensee intends to change the physical or structural aspects of the center, the licensee must notify the Department of the proposed change before construction or alteration [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101237(a)]. The Department may require a building inspection if the agency suspects the existence of a hazard to the children's health and safety [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101237(b)].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.29

§ 100C.29 Written Policy Statements and Admission Policies and Procedures

[1] Written Policy Statements

Every child care center must have a written policy statement that includes the names and qualifications of all current employees, admissions policies, program philosophy, location and telephone number of the nearest local office responsible for child care licensing, disciplinary practices, and the licensee's policy and practice regarding preventive health and care of children with non-life endangering illnesses. The center must retain an affidavit signed by the parent or guardian of every child in the center indicating that he or she has read this policy statement. The center must also provide to all parents, with the consent of all parents involved, a list of parents of children served by the center [H&S Code § 1597.07; see § 100C.215].

[2] Written Admission Policy and Procedures

In addition to written admission agreements [see [3], below, see also § 100C.220], child care centers must have all admission policies in writing and available to the public [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218(a)]. These policies must coincide with the limitations stated on the license and must include, but are not limited to, the following [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218(a); see § 100C.217]:

- Written admission criteria designating those children whose needs can be met by the center's programs and services.
- The ages of children who will be accepted.
- Program activities.
- Any supplementary services.
- Any field trip and transportation arrangements.

- Food service provisions.
- Medical assessment requirements.

Each licensee also must develop, implement, and maintain an admission procedure according to the center's individual program, policies, and needs. The procedures adopted must enable the person in charge of admissions to determine that the child meets the center's criteria [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218.1(a)]. As part of these admissions procedures, the licensee must inform each child's authorized representative of the right to enter and inspect the center and give each child's authorized representative a copy of the notice of parents' rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218.1(b),(e); see § 100C.252].

[3] Admission Agreements

Admission agreements must specify basic information for consumers, such as basic and optional services provided by the facility, payment provisions, and modification and refund provisions [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(b)]. Modifications to the original agreement are required whenever circumstances covered in the agreement change [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(d)]. The licensee must comply with all terms and conditions of the agreement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(f)].

The agreement must be signed and dated by the parent or authorized representative of the child and by the licensee or his or her designee no later than seven calendar days following admission [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(c); see § 100C.220[1]]. The agreement automatically terminates on the death of the child, and no liability or debt can accrue after the date of death [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(g)].

If any exculpatory clauses are included in the admission agreement or supporting documents, they should be drafted narrowly and carefully, and the enforceability of such clauses should be regarded as questionable in any case. In one case, an agreement exculpating a child care provider from its own negligence was held to be void as against public policy [Gavin W. v. YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 662, 671-674, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 168] .

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.30

§ 100C.30 Recordkeeping Requirements

[1] Operating Records

Child care centers must keep certain records on file as part of the facility's day to day operations [see § 100C.140]. The center must maintain the original of each admission agreement on file, as well as a copy of the center's admission policies [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101218, 101219(e); see § 100C.217; see also [3][a], below]. Similarly, the center must keep its plan of operation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101173(a); see § 100C.203], and its disaster and mass casualty plan on file [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(a); see § 100C.204].

[2] Personnel Records

The center must maintain personnel records for the licensee, the administrator, and each employee for at least three years following the termination of employment [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101217(a),(c)], as well as personnel records on all volunteers [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101217(b)]. The records must contain specified information [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101217(a)(1)-(14),(b)(1)-(3)], including the hours actually worked [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101217(e)]. Personnel records must be kept available to the Department to inspect, audit, and copy on demand during normal business hours [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101217(c)]. These records must be maintained either at the center or in a central administrative location where they are readily available to the Department at the center on request [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101217(d)].

[3] Record Requirements for Children

[a] Admission Agreements

Child care centers and a child's authorized representative must complete a current, individual written admission agreements for each child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(a); see § 100C.220]. The licensee keeps the original of the agreement and provides a photocopy to the child's authorized representative [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(e)]. The agreement must be maintained at the child care center and kept available for review [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(a)].

[b] Individual Records

A child care center must maintain a separate, complete, and current record for each child in the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(a); see H&S Code § 1596.841 (all child day care facilities required to keep current roster of children); see also § 100C.253]. Each record must contain specific information about each child, including, but not limited to, the following [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(b); see also H&S Code § 1596.841]:

- The name, birthday, and sex of each child.
- The date of admission.
- The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of each child's authorized representative and of relatives or others who can assume responsibility if the authorized representative cannot be reached when needed.
- A signed copy of the admission agreement [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(a),(e); see also [a], above; § 100C.220].
- The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of each child's physician, dentist, and any other medical and mental health provider.
- A medical assessment, including ambulatory status [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101220, 101221(b)(8); see also [c], below], immunization record [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220.1(e)-(g)], and other specified information, including instructions regarding actions to be taken if the authorized representative or designated physician cannot be reached in an emergency, and a signed consent form for emergency medical treatment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101220(f) (religious faith exemption), 101221(b)(8)].
- Record of any illness or injury requiring treatment by a physician or dentist for which the center provided assistance to the child.
- Record of any current medications, including the name of the prescribing physician and any instructions regarding the control and custody of the medications.
- A signed and dated authorization from child's authorized representative for each activity away from the center.
- Date of termination of the center's services.

This information must be updated as necessary to ensure the accuracy of the child's record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(f)]. All information regarding the children is confidential and the licensee is responsible for safeguarding the confidentiality of the contents of the records [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(c)]. The children's records cannot be revealed or made available by facility personnel, unless authorized by law, requested by the Department during normal business hours, or the child's authorized representative requests to inspect the records [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(c)(2),(d),(e)]. The Department may remove records if necessary for copying for three business days [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(d)(1),(3)]. The right to remove designated current records is restricted unless that same information is otherwise readily available in another document or format [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(d)(1)]. Further, before removing any records, the Department must prepare a list of the records to be removed, sign and date the list on their removal, and leave a copy of the list with the licensee or designated substitute [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(d)(2)].

Original or photocopies of the children's records must be retained for at least three years following termination of services to the child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101221(g)].

[c] Children's Medical Assessments

Before, or within 30 days following, the acceptance of each child to a child care center, the licensee must obtain a written medical assessment of the child that enables the assessment of the licensee's ability to provide necessary health related services [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220(a)]. The assessment must be performed by, or under the supervision of, a licensed physician [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220(a)(1)]. The assessment may not be more than one year old when obtained by the center and must include the following information [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220(a)(1),(b)]:

- A record of any infectious or contagious diseases that would preclude care of the child by the licensee.
- Results of a tuberculosis test.
- Identification of special problems and needs of the child.
- Identification of any prescribed medications being taken by the child.
- The child's ambulatory status.

The Department can require the licensee to obtain a current written medical assessment, if necessary to verify the appropriateness of a child's placement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220(c)].

If the requisite medical assessment is not available for a child and cannot be obtained within 30 days of admission, a medical appointment date must be obtained from the parent on the child's admission, and a tuberculosis test must be performed within 30 days after admission [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220(d); but see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220(e),(f) (documentation of medical assessment not required for children enrolled in elementary school, and children whose parents practice religious faith healing excepted from requirements)].

Children must also have certain immunizations before being admitted to the center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220.1; see also 17 Cal. Code Reg. § 6000 et seq.] unless (1) a physician states in writing that an immunization should not be given to a child and specifies the duration of this exemption; (2) the child's authorized representative provides a written statement that immunizations are contrary to personal or religious beliefs; or (3) the child is also enrolled in elementary school [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101220.1(e),(i)].

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.31

§ 100C.31 Reporting, Posting, and Notice Requirements

[1] Reporting Requirements

Each licensee and applicant are under a continuing obligation to furnish detailed reports to the Department regarding certain specified events [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(a)]. Oral and written reports must be made to the Department if a child has died, been injured, taken ill, or some other unusual event has occurred [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(d)(1)(A)-(H)]. These events must also be reported to the child's authorized representative [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(f)], and, if the event involves an epidemic outbreak, a poisoning, or some other catastrophe [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(d)(1)(E)-(G)], it must be reported to the local health official [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(g)]. Fires or explosions that occur on the premises during the operation of the center must be reported immediately to the local fire authority [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(h); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(d)(1)(H)].

Whenever there is an administrative, organizational, or operational change to the center itself [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(e)], the change must be reported to the Department within 10 working days following the occurrence [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101212(e)].

[2] Posting and Notice Requirements

The licensee must permanently post, in an area of the facility that is accessible to parents and guardians, a copy of the written notice setting forth the parents' or guardian's right to enter and inspect the home. This notice, available from the Department, must state the prohibition against retaliation for the exercise of those rights and the right of parents and guardians to review, at the facility site, licensing reports documenting facility visits and substantiated complaints against the facility [H&S Code § 1596.857(d); see also H&S Code § 1596.859 (licensing report requirements)]. This notice must include information stating that the specified registered sex offender database is available to the public at a web site, www.meganslaw.ca.gov, that is maintained by the Department of Justice [H&S Code § 1596.857(d)].

The licensee also must post a notice, available from the Department, that identifies the Department, explains how the licensing regulations may be obtained, provides a local telephone number for complaints, and sets forth the nonretaliation provisions applicable to employees [H&S Code § 1596.874; see H&S Code § 1596.881]. The notice must be posted at a location in the facility where the notice can be easily seen by employees and consumers [H&S Code § 1596.874].

In addition, on acceptance of each child into a day care facility after January 1, 2007, the licensee must provide the child's parent or guardian with a copy of the Family Child Care Home Notification of Parents' Rights provided by the Department of Social Services. This notice includes information stating that the specified registered sex offender database is available to the public at a web site, www.meganslaw.ca.gov, that is maintained by the Department of Justice. [H&S Code § 1596.857(e)]. A provider, however, is not required to provide any additional information regarding the location and proximity of registered sex offenders who reside in the community where the child care facility is located [H&S Code § 1596.857(f)].

For further discussion, see § 100C.130.

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.32

§ 100C.32 Telephone, Transportation, and Food Service Requirements

All child care centers must have telephone service on the premises [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101224(a)].

With regard to the potential transportation needs of the children, only drivers licensed for the type of vehicle operated are allowed to transport children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101225(a)]. In addition, the manufacturer's rated seating capacity of a vehicle cannot be exceeded, and motor vehicles used to transport children must be maintained in a safe operating condition [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101225(b),(c)]. All vehicle occupants must be secured in an appropriate restraint system [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101225(d); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101225(f) (posting requirement)], and children may not be left in parked cars [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101225(e)].

For centers providing meals to children, the Department has drafted detailed food service requirements aimed at ensuring safe food products [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227]. All centers that prepare meals or snacks on site must have a sink, hot and cold running water, refrigeration, and a food storage area, and a food preparation area that is not used for play activities, napping, or passageways for children while being used for food preparation or service [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227(a)(22),(25)]. The Department may require the center to provide written information, including menus, regarding the food purchased and used over a given period of time if it is necessary to determine whether the licensee is in compliance with food service regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227(b)]. If the center is required to provide this information, the Department must specify, in writing, the information required from the licensee [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227(b)(1)].

Additional specific food service requirements apply to full-day and half-day programs [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227(a)(5)]. For example, full-day programs must ensure that each child has a lunch and offer a midmorning and midafternoon snack [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101227(a)(5)(A),(B)].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.33

§ 100C.33 Health-Related Issues

[1] Illness Assessments

The licensee must inspect children daily for signs of illness [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.1], and the behavior and health of the children must be continually observed throughout the period of attendance [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.3(a)]. Any unusual behavior or signs of illness must be reported to the parents and recorded in the child's record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.3(b)].

The licensee is responsible for ensuring that children with obvious symptoms of illness, such as fever or vomiting, are not accepted at the center. The licensee must pay additional attention to children who have been absent because of illness or who have been exposed to a contagious disease [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.1(a)]. The licensee must develop and implement a written inspection procedure that includes the following rules [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.1(b)]:

- No child may be accepted without contact between the center staff and the person bringing in the child.
- The licensee must require that the person bringing in the child remain until (1) the child has been determined to be without obvious signs of illness, (2) the child is accepted by a staff member, and (3) the person bringing in the child signs in the child.

In addition, the licensee must develop, maintain, and implement additional written sign-in and sign-out procedures to transfer responsibility for the child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101229.1(a)]. Sign-in/sign-out sheets [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101226.1, 101229.1] must be kept on file for one month and be available for review by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101229.1(b)].

[2] Isolation for Illness

Child care centers must be equipped to isolate and care for any child who becomes ill during the day. The isolation area must be located so as to afford easy supervision, and may not be located in the kitchen area or the general use toilet area [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.2(a)(1),(3)]. The area must be equipped with a mat, cot, couch, or bed for each ill child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.2(a)(2)].

[3] Notification Requirements

The licensee must immediately notify parents of any illness or injury in the center that is more serious than minor cuts or scratches, and obtain their specific instructions with regard to actions to be taken [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(a)]. If a child becomes sufficiently ill to warrant isolation, the center must immediately notify the child's authorized representative and request that they remove the child from the center as soon as possible [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101226(a)(1), 101226.2(b)].

[4] First Aid, Medications, and Emergency Care

The licensee must maintain specified first aid supplies in a location that is accessible to the staff but not to the children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(d)].

If the licensee opts to handle medications, all prescription and nonprescription medications must be stored centrally, in a safe place that is inaccessible to children. Each container must have an unaltered label, and a refrigerator must be used to store all medications requiring refrigeration [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(e)(1)]. All prescription and nonprescription medications must be dated and maintained with the child's name [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(e)(2)], and must be administered only with the written approval of the child's authorized representative and in accordance with the label directions as prescribed by the child's physician [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(e)(3)]. The written document containing the approval and instructions must be maintained in the child's record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(e)(3)(B); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(e)(4)]. All medications must be returned to the authorized representative, or disposed of after an attempt to reach the representative, when no longer needed by the child, or when the child withdraws from the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(e)(6)].

The licensee must make prompt arrangements for obtaining any necessary medical treatment for any child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(b)], and must obtain emergency medical treatment without specific instruction from the authorized representative whenever (1) the representative cannot be reached immediately or (2) the nature of the illness or injury is such that there should be no delay in securing medical treatment [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(c)]. Teachers supervising activities away from the center premises must carry either (1) a signed consent form for emergency medical treatment for each child [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(c)(1)(A)] or (2) the telephone numbers of the authorized representative, relatives, or others who can assume responsibility in an emergency for each child exempted from the requirement for an emergency medical treatment form [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226(c)(1)(B)].

The Department has promulgated a list of children's rights specifically tailored to children attending child care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101223(a)]. These rights are drafted to ensure that children are properly treated and afforded a healthy and safe environment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101223]. All child care center children, or their authorized representatives, must be personally advised of their rights and given a copy of these rights on admission [22 Cal. CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

B. Child Care Centers

1. Licensing and Operating Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.35

§ 100C.35 Specialized Programs

[1] Optional Toddler Program

[a] Addition to Existing Programs

Licensed care centers with preschool care or infant care programs may add an optional toddler component [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(i)(2),(p)(2),(t)(1)] for children between the ages of 18 and 30 months by submitting an amended license application and obtaining the approval of the Department. The toddler component is considered an extension of the preschool or infant care program [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101169(a)(1)(A), 101185(a)(1)(A), 101216.4(a)(1), 101417(a)(1)].

[b] Preschool Programs With Toddler Component

When a preschool program has a toddler component, child care general licensing requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2] apply to children over the age of 24 months. In addition, the provisions of 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101351-101439.1 apply to children between the ages of 18 and 24 months participating in the toddler component. However, certain special rules, described below, override these general provisions [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)].

Children in a child care center between the ages of 18 and 30 months may be placed in the toddler program. Children older than 30 months may participate in the toddler program with written permission from the authorized representative; no children may be placed in the preschool program before the age of 30 months without that permission [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(2)]. In addition, a child whose developmental needs require continuation in a toddler component may remain in that component up to a maximum age of three years [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(3)].

A ratio of six children to each teacher must be maintained for all children in attendance in the toddler program. An aide who is participating in on-the-job training may be substituted for a teacher when directly supervised by a fully qualified teacher [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(4)]. The maximum group size, with two teachers (or one fully qualified teacher and one aide) must not exceed 12 toddlers [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(5)].

The toddler program must be conducted in areas physically separated from those used by older or younger children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(6)]. Space planning and usage for the toddler component are governed by 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101438.3. Plans to alternate use of outdoor play space must be approved by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(6)]. Requirements for physical separation between children in the toddler component and older or younger children need not apply when a planned activity is being conducted [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.4(a)(6)(A)].

[c] Infant Care Programs With Toddler Component

When an infant care center [see [2], below] has a toddler component, child care general licensing requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2] apply, along with the provisions of 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101351-101439.1 [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)], except as described in this subsection.

Children in a child care center between the ages of 18 and 30 months may be placed in the toddler program. No children may be placed in the toddler program before the age of 18 months [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)(2)]. The infant care center must obtain written permission from parents for the placement of their children in the toddler program [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)(3)].

A ratio of six children to each teacher must be maintained for all children in attendance in the toddler program. An aide who is participating in on-the-job training may be substituted for a teacher when directly supervised by a fully qualified teacher [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)(4)]. The maximum group size, with two teachers (or one fully qualified teacher and one aide) must not exceed 12 toddlers [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)(5)].

The toddler program must be conducted in areas physically separated from those used by older or younger children. Space planning and usage for the toddler component are governed by 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101438.3. Plans to alternate use of outdoor play space must be approved by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)(6)]. Requirements for physical separation between children in the toddler component and older or younger children need not apply when a planned activity is being conducted [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101417(a)(6)(A)].

[2] Infant Care Centers

An "infant care center" is any facility or part of a facility where less than 24-hour per day, nonmedical care and supervision are provided to infants, that is, children under the age of two, in a group setting [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(3),(i)(1),(2) ("care and supervision," "infant," and "infant care center" defined)]. However, children whose developmental needs require continuation in an infant care center can remain there up to three years of age [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101361]. Centers providing group infant care must meet special regulations applicable only to infant care centers [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101351; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101351-101439.1], as well as the general regulations applicable to child care centers unless specified to the contrary [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2].

The specific requirements applicable to infant care centers are tailored to the special needs of infants and include standards for staff qualifications and duties [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101415-101416.3], infant-staff ratios (that is, one teacher for every four infants) [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101416.5, 101416.8], and establishing an infant's needs and services plan, feeding plan, toilet training plan, and activities plan [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101419.2, 101419.3, 101427, 101428, 101430; see also § 100C.262]. Additionally, each infant must be constantly supervised and under direct visual observation and supervision by a staff person, and under no circumstances may any infant be left unattended [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101429].

Infant care centers are also subject to additional requirements regulating the center's physical environment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101438.1-101439.1]. General sanitation of the center must be maintained, such as washing hands before feedings and after diaper changes, and washing linens used by infants [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101438.1; see also 22

Cal. Code Reg. § 101428(b)-(f)]. Any outdoor and indoor activity space must be physically separate from space used by other children in the center, and equipped with age-appropriate toys [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101438.2, 101438.3]. Further, infant centers must be equipped with appropriate furniture and equipment such as cribs, cots or mats, changing tables, and feeding chairs. These items, and others used by the center, must meet detailed safety requirements to ensure that infants will not be injured while using them [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101439, 101439.1].

[3] School-Age Child Care Centers

A "school-age child care center" is any child care center or part of a child care center of any capacity where less than 24-hour, nonmedical care and supervision are provided in a group setting to school-age children (that is, children who have either entered the first grade or above, or are in a day care program providing care and supervision exclusively to children enrolled in kindergarten and above) [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(s)(2); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(3) ("care and supervision" defined)]. Centers providing school-age child care must meet all the general regulations applicable to child care facilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2] and the specific regulations applicable only to school-age child care centers [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101451; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101451-101539].

School-age child care centers regulations entail standards for director and teacher qualifications and duties [see H&S Code § 1597.21; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101515, 101516.2; see also § 100C.211], teacher-child ratios (that is, one teacher and aide to every 28 children) [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101516.5], recordkeeping requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101521], observing children for signs of illness [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101526.1], and providing snacks [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101527]. Further, the center must meet outdoor and indoor activity space requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101538.2, 101538.3], and the center must maintain toilets that provide for individual privacy and cannot be used simultaneously by girls and boys [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101539; but see H&S Code § 1596.806 (exemption for certain facilities)].

Centers providing care for school-age children need not document medical assessments and immunizations of children enrolled in public or private schools [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101520, 101520.1; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101220, 101220.1]. Children may leave the center on their own with the written permission of their authorized representative, but the center must still sign out those children [22 Cal. Code Reg. 101529.1(c); see § 100C.261].

[4] Child Care Centers for Mildly Ill Children

A "child care center for mildly ill children" is any center or part of a center of any capacity where less than 24-hour per day, nonmedical care and supervision are provided to mildly ill children in a group setting [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101552(c)(1); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101552(l)(1),(2) ("Level I" and "Level II" defined)]. These centers must meet special regulations applicable only to child care centers for mildly ill children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101551-101639.2], as well as the general regulations applicable to child care centers unless specified to the contrary [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101551; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2].

Child care centers for mildly ill children regulations include limitations on capacity and ambulatory status [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101561], standards for director and teacher qualifications and duties [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101615, 101616.2], personnel requirements and teacher-child ratios [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101616.3, 101616.5, 101616.8], recordkeeping requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101621], and observing children for signs of illness [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101626, 101626.1, 101626.3]. Further, the center must meet outdoor and indoor activity space requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101638.2, 101638.3], and must maintain toilets that provide for individual privacy and cannot be shared with or used by any other child care component [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101639].

§ 100C.37 Sale of Child Care Center

[1] Licenses Not Subject to Sale or Exchange

No license or special permit issued pursuant to the Child Day Care Facilities Act has any property value for sale or exchange purposes, and a license or special permit cannot be sold or exchanged for any commercial purpose [H&S Code § 1596.85]. For a discussion of how licenses can be forfeited, see§ 100C.55[2].

[2] Effect of Sale

The sale of a child care center that will result in a new license being issued to the purchaser is subject to several notice and other requirements [see H&S Code § 1597.14]. The selling licensee must give 30 days' prior notice of the intended sale to both the Department and to the parents or guardians of children in care [H&S Code § 1597.14(a); see §§ 100C.274, 100C.275]. No sale is permitted to occur until 30 days after this required notice is given to the Department [H&S Code § 1597.14(c)].

The seller must also give the prospective buyer written notice that a license is required if the buyer intends to continue operation of the property as a child care center, and send a copy of this written notice to the licensing agency [H&S Code § 1597.14(b)(1)]. The prospective buyer must submit an application for a license [see § 100C.200[2]] within five days after the purchase offer is accepted by the seller [H&S Code § 1597.14(b)(2)]. The department will give priority to such an application for licensure to ensure the timely transfer of the property and business, and make a decision within 60 days after submission of the complete application [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 1597.14(d)]. If all of these procedures are followed, the sale may be completed and the buyer will not be considered to be operating an unlicensed facility while the Department makes a final determination on the application for licensure [H&S Code § 1597.14(e)]. For further discussion of these requirements, see§ 100C.274[1].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.50

§ 100C.50 Overview

The Department must take specified actions to ensure compliance with the rules and regulations applicable to child care centers. These actions include conducting ongoing programs and seminars for licensing staff and law enforcement agencies, and ensuring that license revocations appear on criminal records [see H&S Code § 1596.875]. The Department is also charged with extensive licensing duties relating to applications for initial licenses and renewal licenses. However, licensing reviews must be limited to health and safety considerations, and cannot include review of the content of any educational or training program of the facility [H&S Code § 1597.05(a)].

The Department has broad inspection authority [see H&S Code §§ 1596.852, 1596.8535, 1596.853; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101200(a), 101201; § 100C.51], and extensive notification duties [see H&S Code § 1596.98; see also § 100C.52[1]]. The Department also has numerous remedies that can be used to enforce compliance, including the imposition of monetary penalties [see § 100C.52[3]], the issuance of citations [see § 100C.53], the issuance of injunctions [see § 100C.54], and the revocation or suspension of licenses [see § 100C.55]. Willful or repeated violation of any applicable rule or regulation is punishable as a misdemeanor and subjects the guilty party to a fine and/or imprisonment [see H&S Code § 1596.890]. These remedies are not exclusive, and can be sought and employed in any combination to enforce provisions of the Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.892].

For a discussion of the special license enforcement regulations applicable only to family child care homes, see §§ 100C.90-100C.93.

§ 100C.51 Inspections and Evaluations

[1] Inspections by Governmental Authorities

The Department, or any authorized officer, employee, or agent of the Department of Social Services may, after presenting proper identification, enter and inspect any child care center for the purpose of ensuring compliance with, or preventing a violation of, applicable rules and regulations. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, these inspections may be conducted only during the period beginning one hour before and ending one hour after the facility's normal business hours or at any time child care services are being provided, unless the Department (1) is investigating a complaint and (2) determines that an inspection or site visit outside the time period beginning one hour before, and ending one hour after, the center's normal operating hours is necessary to protect the health or safety of any child [H&S Code § 1596.8535(a); see Rush v. Obledo (1985) 756 F.2d 713, 722 (H&S Code § 1596.852 violates Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution as overbroad)]. It is a misdemeanor to inform, without proper authorization, a child care center of an impending or proposed inspection or evaluation of that facility. This offense is punishable by a fine and/or imprisonment [see H&S Code § 1596.8915].

The Department may observe the physical condition of the children, including conditions that could indicate abuse, neglect, or inappropriate placement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101200(d)]. In addition, the Department may interview children or staff without prior consent [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101200(b)]. The Department may also inspect, audit, and copy child or child care center records on demand during normal business hours, and remove the records if necessary for copying [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101200(b); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101217(c), 101221(d) (removal requirements)]. The licensee must make provisions for private interviews with any children or staff members and for examining records relating to the operation of the child care center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101200(b)(1),(c)(1)].

The scope of the authority of the Department to inspect a center following a complaint [see H&S Code § 1596.853; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101200(a)] is discussed in [3], below.

[2] Parental Inspections

In addition to the Department's right to inspect child care centers [see [1], above], the responsible parent or guardian of a child receiving services in a child care center has the right to enter and inspect the center, without advance notice, during the normal operating hours of the center or at any time that the child is receiving services in the center. During inspections, parents or guardians must be respectful of the children's routines and programmed activities. The center must inform parents and guardians of children receiving services from the center of their right to inspect the center [H&S Code § 1596.857(a)].

No center may discriminate or retaliate against any child, parent, or guardian based on (1) the parent's or guardian's exercise of the right to inspect the center or (2) the fact that the parent or guardian has filed a complaint against the center [H&S Code § 1596.857(b); see [3], below]. If a center denies a parent or legal guardian the right to enter and inspect the center, or retaliates, the department must issue a warning citation. The department may impose a civil penalty on each subsequent violation [H&S Code § 1596.857(c); see § 100C.52], and may take other appropriate actions, including license revocation [H&S Code § 1596.857(c); see § 100C.55].

The center must permanently post written notice of the right to make an inspection, the prohibition against retaliation, and the right to make a complaint [see [3], below] in a center location that is accessible to parents and guardians. This notice, available from the Department, must include information stating that the specified registered sex offender database is available to the public at a web site, www.meganslaw.ca.gov, that is maintained by the Department of Justice [H&S Code § 1596.857(d)]. Furthermore, it must include a statement of the right of parents and guardians to review, at the center site, licensing reports documenting center visits and substantiated complaints against the center [H&S Code § 1596.857(d); see H&S Code § 1596.859 (licensing report requirements)]. However, notwithstanding any of the rights discussed above, the person present who is in charge of the center may deny access to any adult whose behavior presents a risk to the children present in the center, and may deny access to noncustodial parents or guardians on the request of the responsible parent or legal guardian [H&S Code § 1596.857(g)].

[3] Requesting Departmental Inspections

Any person [see H&S Code § 1596.79 ("person" defined)] may request an inspection of any child care center by transmitting to the Department, either orally or in writing, a notice or complaint alleging a violation of the applicable rules and regulations [H&S Code § 1596.853(a)].

On receipt of a complaint, the Department must make a preliminary review. Unless the Department determines that the complaint is willfully intended to harass the licensee or is without any reasonable basis, the Department must make an onsite inspection within 10 days after receiving the complaint, except if the visit would adversely affect the licensing investigation or the investigation of other agencies, including law enforcement agencies [H&S Code § 1596.853(c)]. In either event, the complainant must be promptly informed of the department's proposed course of action. If the department determines that the complaint is without any reasonable basis, then the department must dismiss the complaint, mark the complaint confidential, and bar the disclosure of the complaint to the public. The child care provider must be notified of the dismissal within 30 days of that action [H&S Code § 1596.853(c)].

The substance of the complaint may be provided to the licensee no earlier than at the time of the inspection [H&S Code § 1596.853(b)]. However, absent a specific request from the complainant, neither the substance of the complaint provided to the licensee nor any copy of the complaint or any record made available to the licensee may disclose the name of any person mentioned in the complaint other than the name of the duly authorized officer, employee, or agent of the department conducting the investigation or inspection [H&S Code § 1596.853(b)].

[4] Evaluation and Spot Visits

Each licensed child day care center is subject to unannounced visits by the Department, which is directed to visit these facilities as often as necessary to ensure the quality of care provided [H&S Code § 1597.09(d)]. All site visits must be unannounced [H&S Code § 1597.08].

The Department must conduct an annual unannounced visit to a licensed child day care center under any of the following circumstances [H&S Code § 1597.09(b)(1)-(4)]:

- When a license is on probation.
- When the terms of agreement in a facility compliance plan require an annual evaluation.
- When an accusation against a licensee is pending.
- In order to verify that a person who has been ordered out of a child day care center by the Department is no longer at the facility.

The Department must conduct an annual unannounced visit to no less than 20 percent of facilities not subject to an evaluation under any of the circumstances listed above. These unannounced visits must be conducted based on a random sampling methodology developed by the Department [H&S Code § 1597.09(c)(1)]. If the total citations issued by the Department exceed the previous year's total by 10 percent, then the following year the Department must increase the random sample by 10 percent of facilities not subject to an evaluation under any of the circumstances listed above. The Department may request additional resources to increase the random sample by 10 percent [H&S Code § 1597.09(c)(2); see Stats. 2008, ch. 759, § 39 (paragraph (c)(2) suspended for 2008-09 and 2009-10 fiscal years)].

Under any circumstances, the Department may not visit a licensed child day care center less often than once every five years [H&S Code § 1597.09(d)].

[5] Provider's Rights Applicable to Investigations and Visits

Any site visit conducted by the Department is subject to certain rights afforded the child care provider [see H&S Code § 1596.842]. These rights include the right to require the licensing field staff to identify themselves, the right to be advised of the type of visit, the right to receive an accurate report of the evaluator's findings, and the right to an impartial investigation of all complaints [see H&S Code § 1596.842(a)].

The Department will provide a copy of the Applicant/Licensee Rights form (LIC 9058) to each applicant and licensee. The form covers site visit rights, appeal rights, and appeal procedures.

§ 100C.52 Notices of Deficiencies and Imposition of Civil Penalties

[1] Notice Requirements

When a licensing evaluation is conducted and a determination is made that a deficiency exists [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(d)(1)] ("deficiency" defined as any failure to comply with applicable rules and regulations)], the Department conducting the evaluation must issue a notice of deficiency, unless the deficiency is not serious and is corrected during the visit [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101193(a)]. A "serious deficiency" is any deficiency that presents an immediate or substantial threat to the physical or mental health or safety of children in a child care center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(s)(3)].

Child care centers must be notified in writing of all deficiencies in their compliance with applicable child care center rules and regulations [see H&S Code §§ 1596.90-1597.21; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151 et seq.], and be given a reasonable time in which to comply [H&S Code § 1596.98(a)]. The notice must include reference to the statute or regulation violated, a description of the deficiency, a plan for correcting each deficiency, a date by which the deficiency must be corrected, the amount of penalty being assessed and the date the penalty begins, and the address and telephone number of the licensing office responsible for reviewing notices of deficiencies for the area in which the center is located [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101193(d)].

If the notice of deficiency is issued in conjunction with a site visit, the notice (1) must be delivered personally to the licensee at the end of the visit, or (2) if the licensee is not present during the visit, must be left with the person in charge of the center, and another copy must be mailed to the licensee. If the person in charge of the center refuses to accept the notice, (1) a notation of the refusal must be written on the notice, (2) a copy of the notice must be left at the center, and (3) another copy must be mailed to the licensee [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101193(c)]. Additionally, before completion of the visit, a staff member of the center must meet with the evaluator to assess any deficiencies, to develop a plan for correcting the deficiencies, and to acknowledge receipt of the notice [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101193(b)].

[2] Correction of Deficiency and Follow-Up Visits

In general, the deficiency that is the subject of the notice must be corrected within 30 days following service of the notice. However, if the deficiency cannot be rectified within 30 days, the notice must specify what actions must be taken within 30 days to begin correction. Furthermore, the evaluation must require correction of the deficiency within 24 hours whenever civil penalties are assessed [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101193(d)(4)(D); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195; [3], below].

A follow-up visit to determine compliance with the correction plan must be conducted within 10 working days following the dates of correction specified in the notice of deficiency, unless the licensee has demonstrated that the deficiency was corrected [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101194(a),(d)]. Unless a follow-up visit is conducted, no penalty may be assessed [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101194(a)(2); but see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(i) (one-day immediate civil penalty assessment even when corrected on same day)]. If the follow-up visit indicates that a deficiency was not corrected on or before the date specified in the notice, the evaluator must issue a written notice of penalty [see H&S Code § 1596.98(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101194(b),(c)]. The notice must state the amount of penalty assessed, the date that payment is due, and the name and address of the agency responsible for collecting the penalty [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101194(c); see [3], below].

[3] Penalties

[a] Penalties for Noncompliance

On a finding of noncompliance [see [1], [2], above], the Department will levy a civil penalty that must be paid to the department each day until the center is determined to be in compliance [H&S Code § 1596.98(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101194, 101195]. The levying of a civil penalty may be in addition to the revocation, temporary suspension, or suspension of the center's license [H&S Code § 1596.99(a)]. However, no civil penalty may be assessed against a licensed child care center operated by a governmental entity, including a state or city, holding a license [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101197].

The amount of the civil penalty may not be less than $25 nor more than $50 per day for each violation except when the nature or seriousness of the violation or the frequency of the violation warrants a higher penalty or an immediate civil penalty assessment, or both [H&S Code § 1596.99(b); see H&S Code § 1596.99(d) (repeated deficiencies)]. The maximum civil penalty assessment may not exceed $150 per day [H&S Code § 1596.99(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(a)]. The Department will assess an immediate civil penalty of $150 per day per violation of any of the following serious violations: (1) fire clearance violations; (2) absence of supervision; (3) accessible bodies of water; (4) accessible firearms and/or ammunition; or (5) refused entry to a facility or any part of it [Health & Safety Code § 1596.99(c); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1596.852, 1596.853, 1597.09]. Ordinarily, a penalty of $50 per day, per cited violation, is assessed for serious deficiencies that are not corrected by the date specified in the deficiency notice, subject to the $150 per day maximum [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(a)]. The penalty is assessed for each day following the correction date until compliance is demonstrated [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(f)]. However, notwithstanding these limitations, an immediate penalty of $100 per cited violation per day (for a maximum of five days) must be assessed if any individual required to be fingerprinted [see H&S Code § 1596.871(b); § 100C.21[2][a][ii]] has neither obtained a Department of Justice clearance or criminal record exemption, nor requested a transfer of a criminal record clearance, nor requested and been approved for a transfer of an exemption [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(e)], before the individual works, resides, or volunteers in the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(b)]. In addition, an immediate penalty of $150 per day must be assessed if a deficiency results in the sickness, injury, or death of a child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(c)]. Further, if a center is cited for a serious deficiency and repeats that violation within a 12-month period, an immediate penalty of $150 per day must be assessed until the deficiency is corrected [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(d); see H&S Code § 1596.99(d)]. If the same serious deficiency is then repeated again within 12 months of the penalty assessment for repeated violations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(d)], an immediate penalty of $150 per day must be assessed until the deficiency is corrected [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(e); see H&S Code § 1596.99(e)]. Immediate penalty assessments begin on the day the deficiency is cited and continue until compliance is demonstrated [

22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(f)]. However, in no event may the civil penalties exceed $150 per day [H&S Code § 1596.99(b)].

If a child care center licensee or the licensee's representative reports to the Department that the deficiency has been corrected, the penalty ceases as of the day that the agency receives the written or verbal notification. If the evaluator determines that the deficiency was not corrected as reported, the civil penalties continue to accrue from the date of the original citation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(g)]. If necessary, a site visit will be made immediately or within five working days to confirm the correction of the deficiency; if the deficiency has not been corrected, the penalty continues to accrue from the date of the original citation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(g),(h)].

Penalties must be paid by check or money order to the specified agency on receipt of the notice for payment from the Department, unless the Department orders to the contrary [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(j); but see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198.1(b)(1),(2) (Department may approve arrangement and form of payment)]. The failure to pay required penalties can lead to the filing of a lawsuit by the Department and the suspension or revocation of the child care center license [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(k); see H&S Code § 1596.885(a); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198.1(b)]. The transfer, surrender, forfeiture, or revocation of a license does not affect the licensee's responsibility for paying civil penalties accrued while the license was in effect, unless the Department orders to the contrary [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198.1(a)(1)]. However, any denial or revocation of licensure for failure to pay civil penalties may be appealed [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198.1(c); see H&S Code § 1596.887].

[b] Penalties for Operating Without a License

Civil penalties for operating a child care center without a license are more severe than those assessed for noncompliance [see H&S Code § 1596.891; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198]. All centers, except those that are exempt [see § 100C.10[4]], must have a current valid license to establish, operate, manage, conduct, or maintain a child care center [H&S Code § 1596.80; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101156; see § 100C.20[2]]. The operation of an unlicensed center subjects the owner and/or operator to an automatic summons to appear in court [H&S Code § 1596.89], a site visit and/or evaluation, civil and criminal proceedings, and the levying of an immediate civil penalty [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101157, 101198].

Operators of unlicensed centers may be liable for an immediate civil penalty assessment of $200 per day [H&S Code § 1596.891(a)]. Mandatory imposition of this penalty occurs if the operator of the center refuses to seek licensure (or fails to submit a completed application), or the application for licensure was denied but the center continues to operate, unless other remedies, including criminal prosecutions, are deemed by the Department of Social Services to be more effective [H&S Code § 1596.891(b); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198(a)]. Unlicensed operators are exempt from the $200 per day penalty if the sole reason for nonlicensure is the lack of liability insurance and the reason for operating without liability insurance is not due to any fault of the operator [H&S Code § 1596.891(d)].

The $200 per day penalty assessed for the continued operation of an unlicensed day care center continues until the operator ceases operation or submits a completed application form [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198(b)]. If the unlicensed center informs the Department that they have stopped operating, the penalty ends as of the day that the Department receives the notification, but a site visit will be made to verify that operations have actually ceased. If the center continues to operate after reporting the cessation of operations, the $200 per day penalty accrues without interruption from the date of initial penalty assessment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198(c)].

Penalties must be paid by check or money order to the Department on receipt of the notice [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198(d)]. The failure to pay assessed penalties may lead to the filing of a lawsuit by the Department or suspension or revocation of the license [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198(e); see also H&S Code § 1596.885(a)].

[4] Administrative Review and Appeal

[a] Review of Notice of Deficiency or Penalty

Any person has the right to request a review of an adverse licensing decision, including notices of deficiency and civil penalties, unless an administrative proceeding is pending against the person. This request must be made within 10 working days of receipt of the written decision. However, if the deficiency has not been corrected, the assessed penalties will continue to accrue during the review process [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196(a)].

The Department must acknowledge the request to review a notice of deficiency and/or penalty in writing within 10 days of receipt [H&S Code § 1596.844]. The review must be conducted by a higher level staff person than the evaluator who made the licensing decision and issued the notice [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196(b)]. The reviewer may uphold, amend, or dismiss the licensing decision, or extend the date specified for correcting a deficiency [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196(c)].

[b] Appeal of Penalty Assessment by Unlicensed Center

Civil penalties assessed against unlicensed centers may be appealed to the director of the Department of Social Services within 10 working days after service of the assessment [H&S Code § 1596.891(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196, 101198(g)]. However, the $200 per day penalty continues to accrue during the appeal process for child care centers that continue to operate during the appeal [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196(a)(2)]. The appeal review must be conducted by a higher staff person than the evaluator who issued the penalty. If the reviewer determines the penalty was not issued in accordance with applicable rules and regulations, he or she can amend or dismiss the penalty [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196(b),(c)].

§ 100C.53 Citations

When the Department has reason to believe that an unlicensed center is operating, or that a licensed center is operating in violation of applicable rules and regulations, the agency is authorized to issue a citation to the center. The citation must be in writing and served on the center operator personally or by registered mail. The citation must specifically describe the nature of the violation and the agency's proposed action and, if the citation was developed pursuant to a site visit and evaluation, must include the plan developed to correct each deficiency [H&S Code § 1596.893a(a)]. In considering the appropriateness of the penalty to the alleged violation, the Department will consider the gravity of the violation, the history of previous violations, the number of children affected by the violation, the possibility of a threat to the health and safety of any child, and the availability of equipment or personnel necessary to correct the violation [H&S Code § 1596.893a(b)].

Civil penalties may be imposed [see H&S Code §§ 1596.99, 1597.62] only after the licensee fails to correct the violation in the time period specified in the deficiency notice developed by the licensee and the evaluator [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101193(b)] or the deficiency results in the illness, injury, or death of a child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(a)-(c)]. Civil penalties begin to accrue on the day the evaluator revisits the site and verifies that the violation was not corrected, even if the evaluator's visit is after the time period specified in the plan [H&S Code § 1596.893b(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101195(f) (penalty assessed from correction date to date of compliance)].

The center may contest a citation or the proposed civil penalty if, within 10 business days after service of the citation, the center notifies the Department in writing of a request for an informal conference. Within 30 days after receipt of the request, the Department must hold an informal conference at which the agency may affirm, modify, or dismiss the citation or proposed penalty by stating in writing the reasons for that action [H&S Code § 1596.893a(c)]. If the penalty contained in the citation is affirmed at the informal conference, the Department must pursue enforcement of the penalty, and the center may pursue an appeal [H&S Code § 1596.893a(d); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101196 (appeal procedures); see also § 100C.52[4]].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.54

§ 100C.54 Injunctions

A child care center that operates, or threatens to operate, without a license or special permit, subjects itself to an action by the Department of Social Services to enjoin that operation or threat of operation [see H&S Code § 1596.89; see also H&S Code §§ 1596.80, 1596.805]. The action must conform to all the requirements necessary to obtain an injunction [see CCP §§ 525-534], except the Department need not allege a lack of an adequate legal remedy or irreparable damage or loss [see H&S Code § 1596.89; see also H&S Code §§ 1596.80, 1596.805]. If the court finds the Department's allegations to be true regarding the unlicensed operation of a facility, it must enjoin the facility from continuing to operate [H&S Code § 1596.89].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.55

§ 100C.55 Denial, Suspension, Revocation, and Forfeiture of Licenses

[1] Grounds for Denial, Suspension, or Revocation of Licenses

The Department may deny an application for [see § 100C.22[2][c]], or suspend or revoke, any license, registration, or special permit issued under the California Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.] based on any of the following grounds [H&S Code § 1596.885]:

- Violation of the applicable rules and regulations by the licensee, registrant, or permit holder.
- Aiding, abetting, or permitting the violation of the applicable rules and regulations.
- Conduct that is inimical to the health, morals, welfare, or safety of any person in or receiving care from a child day care center or the people of California.
- The conviction of the licensee or persons subject to the criminal clearance requirements, at any time before or during licensure, of any crime other than a minor traffic violation, [H&S Code § 1596.885(d); see H&S Code § 1596.871; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(k)].
- Engaging in acts of financial malfeasance concerning the operation of a facility, including but not limited to, improper use or embezzlements of client funds and property, fraudulent appropriation for personal gain of facility funds or property, and the willful or negligent failure to provide services for children in care.

Improper conduct, such as child molestation, by a child care center employee, not occurring at the center itself, but that has an impact within the center, is within the scope of conduct that is contrary to the health, safety, welfare, and morals of children at centers, and thus constitutes grounds for revocation of the center's license [see Adamson v. Department of Social Services (1988) 207 Cal. App. 3d 14, 24, 254 Cal. Rptr. 667].

[2] Grounds for Forfeiture of Licenses

In addition to the grounds for denying, suspending, or revoking licenses [see [1], above], child care center licenses can be forfeited by operation of law before the license expires. Forfeiture occurs if the licensee does any of the following [H&S Code § 1596.858]:

- Sells or otherwise transfers the center or the center's property, unless the change in ownership involves a transfer of stock that does not constitute a majority change in ownership.
- Surrenders the license to the Department of Social Services.
- Moves the center from one location to another.
- Is convicted of certain specified offenses or crimes, including sexual battery or child abuse [see Pen Code §§ 220, 243.4, 264.1, 273a(a), 273d, 288, 289, 667.5(c)].
- Dies.
- Abandons the center.

[3] Effect of Previous Revocation or Denial of License or Exclusion

If an applicant was previously issued a license to operate a child care center, clinic [see H&S Code § 1200 et seq.], health facility [see H&S Code § 1250 et seq.], community care facility [see H&S Code § 1500 et seq.], residential care facility for persons with chronic, life-threatening illness [see H&S Code § 1568.01 et seq.], or residential care facility for the elderly [see H&S Code § 1569 et seq.], or to be a licensed foster family agency [see H&S Code § 1534(b)], and this prior license was revoked within the preceding two years, the Department must stop reviewing the present application until two years have elapsed from the date of the revocation [H&S Code § 1596.851(a)(1),(2)].

In general, if an applicant previously applied for one of the above-mentioned licenses, and the application was denied within the last year, the Department must stop reviewing the present application if the applicant appealed or was informed of his or her right to appeal the decision denying the previous application [see H&S Code § 1596.851(b)]. If the applicant appealed [see H&S Code § 1596.879], that is, if the applicant petitioned for a hearing on the previous denial of a license, the Department must stop reviewing the present application until one year has elapsed from the effective date of the decision and order upholding the denial [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(1)]. If the Department informed the applicant of the right to appeal, and the applicant did not petition for a hearing, the Department must stop reviewing the application until one year has elapsed from the date of the notification of the denial and the right to petition for a hearing [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(2)]. However, the Department may continue to review the application after determining that the reasons for the denial of the previous application were due to circumstances and conditions that have been corrected or that no longer exist [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(3)].

Similarly, if the applicant was excluded from a licensed facility [see H&S Code §§ 1558, 1568.092, 1569.58, 1596.8897], the Department must cease further review of the application unless the excluded individual has been reinstated [H&S Code § 1596.851(a)(3); see Gov. Code § 11522].

The cessation of review under these circumstances does not constitute denial of the application [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(3),(d)].

[4] Temporary Suspension of Licenses

Any license, registration, or special permit may be temporarily suspended before a hearing when, in the opinion of the director of the Department of Social Services, temporary suspension is necessary to protect any child in a child care center from physical or mental abuse, abandonment, or any other substantial threat to health or safety. The director must notify the licensee, registrant, or holder of the special permit of the temporary suspension and its effective date, and at the same time serve the child care provider with an accusation [H&S Code § 1596.886; see Gov. Code § 11503 (hearing to determine suspension of license initiated by filing accusation)]. Within 15 days of receipt of a notice of defense [see Gov. Code §§ 11505 (notice of defense must be included with service of accusation), 11506 (contents)], the matter must be set for hearing. The hearing must be held as soon as possible, but in no event later than 30 days after receipt of the notice. The temporary suspension of the license remains in effect until the hearing is completed and a final determination on the merits is made. However, the suspension is vacated if the director fails to make a final determination on the merits within that 30-day period [H&S Code § 1596.886].

On a temporary suspension pursuant to H&S Code § 1596.886, the Department must give written notice to the parent or legal guardian of each child receiving services in the center, and must post a notice of the suspension at the center in a place readily visible and accessible to parents or guardians of children receiving services at the center. The removal of the posted notice while the temporary suspension is in effect is punishable by a fine of $500 [H&S Code § 1596.8895(a)]. If a temporary suspension order is not effected within 30 days after the accusation is filed, the parent or legal guardian of each child receiving services in the facility must be notified in writing that the accusation has been filed [H&S Code § 1596.8895(b)]. The Department must conduct an unannounced visit to a facility within 30 days after the effective date of a temporary suspension of a license, in order to ensure that the facility is nonoperational, unless the Department has previously verified that the facility is nonoperational [Health & Safety Code § 1596.8867(a)].

On receipt of an accusation indicating the Department's intent to revoke a facility's license, the licensee must provide copies of a summary of the accusation to the parent or legal guardian of each child receiving services in the facility, until that accusation is either dismissed or resolved through the administrative hearing process or stipulated agreement [H&S Code § 1596.8895(c)(1)]. Whenever a new child enrolls in the facility, the licensee must provide the child's parent or legal guardian with copies of a summary of any accusation that the licensee has received during the previous 12-month period and that indicates the Department's intent to revoke the facility's license [H&S Code § 1596.8895(c)(2)]. Each recipient of the summary must date and sign a statement indicating receipt. The licensee must keep verification of receipt in each child's file [H&S Code § 1596.8895(c)(3),(4)].

Further, if a police, sheriff's, probation, or welfare department has a reasonable suspicion that the death or serious injury of a child occurred at a child care center because of abuse or willful neglect by facility personnel, the license, registration, or special permit must be temporarily suspended within two days after the Department receives the evidence [H&S Code § 1596.8865(a),(b); see Pen Code §§ 11165.9, 11166(a) ("reasonable suspicion" defined); see also H&S Code § 1596.8865(d) ("serious injury" defined)]. The licensee, registrant, or holder of a special permit must be immediately notified of the temporary suspension and served with an accusation [H&S Code § 1596.8865(b); see Gov. Code § 11503].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Family Child Care Homes

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.70

§ 100C.70 Introduction

[1] Governing Law

A "family child care home" is defined as a home (either a large family child care home or a small family child care home) that regularly provides care, protection, and supervision of 14 or fewer children in the provider's own home for periods of less than 24 hours a day while the parents or guardians are away [H&S Code § 1596.78(a); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102352(f)(1)].

The legislature has recognized that an insufficient number of regulated family child care homes exist in California and that the need for child care facilities will continue to grow [H&S Code § 1597.30(b),(c)]. The legislature has determined that the state should develop and maintain an efficient program for regulating family child care homes that ensures the provision of adequate protection, supervision, and guidance to children in a home setting, while not placing undue burdens on the provider [H&S Code § 1597.30(f),(g)].

Family child care homes cannot be licensed under the California Community Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1500 et seq.] and are subject to licensure only in accordance with the Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1597.53]. However, family child care homes are a minimally regulated facility. Consequently, although the general requirements of the Child Day Care Facilities Act [see H&S Code §§ 1596.70-1596.895] apply to all family child care homes [H&S Code §§ 1596.71, 1597.53], the general regulations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151-101239.2] do not apply to family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102351.1; see also § 100C.230[1]]. Further, specific statutes and regulations apply to family child care homes [H&S Code §§ 1597.30-1597.621; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102351.1-102424].

[2] Types of Family Child Care Homes

[a] Large Family Child Care Homes

The Act recognizes two types of family child care homes: large family child care homes and small family child care homes [see [b], below]. A "large family child care home" is a home that provides family child care to no fewer than 7 and not more than 14 children, including children under the age of 10 who reside at the home [H&S Code § 1596.78(b)].

The following special rules apply to large family child care homes:

- Cities, counties, or cities and counties may not prohibit large family child care homes on lots zoned for single-family dwellings, but must [see H&S Code § 1597.46(a); see also § 100C.12]:
 - Classify these homes as a permitted use of residential property for zoning purposes;
 - Grant nondiscretionary permits to large family child care homes that comply with certain local ordinances; or
 - Require large family child care homes to apply for use permits to allow them to use lots zoned for single family dwellings.
- Large family child care homes are not subject to the California Environmental Quality Act [see H&S Code § 1597.46(b); see also PR Code § 21000 et seq.].
- The use of a single family dwelling for purposes of a large family child care home does not constitute a change of occupancy for purposes of state housing laws or local building and fire codes [H&S Code § 1597.46(d); see H&S Code § 17910 et seq.].
- Large family child care homes are considered single family residences for purposes of the State Uniform Building Standards Code and local building and fire codes, except with respect to safety provisions adapted by the State Fire Marshal, including (1) requiring a fire extinguisher or smoke detector that meets standards established by the State Fire Marshal, (2) specification as to the number of required exits, and (3) specification as to the floor or floors on which child care may be provided [H&S Code § 1597.46(e); see H&S Code §§ 13145, 13146].

If a large family child care home provides care for 13 or 14 children, all of the following conditions must also be satisfied [H&S Code § 1597.465]:

- At least one child is enrolled in and attending kindergarten or elementary school and a second child is at least six years of age.
- No more than three infants are cared for during any time when more than 12 children are being cared for.
- The licensee must notify a parent that the facility is caring for two additional school-age children and that there may be up to 13 or 14 children in the facility at one time.
- The licensee must obtain written consent of the property owner when the home is operated on rented or leased property.

[b] Small Family Child Care Homes

A "small family child care home" is defined as a home that provides family child care to eight or fewer children, including children under the age of 10 who reside at the home [H&S Code § 1596.78(c)].

The following special rules apply to small family child care homes:

- The use of a single family residence for purposes of a small family child care home is considered a residential use of property for purposes of local ordinances [H&S Code § 1597.45(a)].
- No local jurisdiction can impose any business license, fee, or tax for operating a small family child care home [H&S Code § 1597.45(b)].
- The use of a single family dwelling for purposes of a small family child care home does not constitute a change of occupancy for purposes of state housing laws or local building codes [H&S Code § 1597.45(c); see H&S Code § 17910 et seq.].
- Small family child care homes are not subject to certain fire protection provisions, but must contain a fire extinguisher and smoke detector device that meet standards established by the State Fire Marshal [H&S Code § 1597.45(d); see H&S Code § 13100 et seq.].

A small family child care home may provide care for seven or eight children, without an additional adult attendant, if all of the following conditions are satisfied [H&S Code § 1597.44]:

- At least one child is enrolled in and attending kindergarten or elementary school and a second child is at least six years of age.
- No more than two infants are cared for during any time when more than six children are being cared for.
- The licensee notifies each parent that the facility is caring for two additional school-age children and that there may be up to seven or eight children in the facility at one time.
- The licensee obtains the written consent of the property owner, when the facility is operated on rented or leased property.

[3] License Requirement

Unless a facility is exempt from the licensing requirements [see H&S Code § 1596.792; see also § 100C.10[4]], all family child care homes must obtain a current valid license before providing care [H&S Code § 1596.80; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102358; see H&S Code §§ 1597.53, 1597.54]. Licenses have no property value for sale or exchange purposes and cannot be sold, exchanged or otherwise transferred to other individuals or locations [H&S Code § 1596.85; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102368(b)].

If the Department has reason to believe that family child care is being provided without a license, the agency must conduct a site visit to determine whether the home is operating without a license, and whether the continued operation of the home will be dangerous to the health and safety of the children receiving care [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357(a)(1)]. The Department must notify the unlicensed provider in writing of the requirements for licensure [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357(a)(2)] and must issue a Notice of Operation in Violation of Law if (1) the unlicensed provider does not apply for licensure within 15 working days from the date of notification; or (2) the Department finds and documents that the continued operation of the home will be dangerous to the health and safety of the children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357(a)(3),(4); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357(a)(3)(A)-(F) (situations endangering health and safety of children)].

The Department may issue an immediate civil penalty against unlicensed family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357(b); see H&S Code § 1596.891; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102393 (conditions for assessment of immediate civil penalties)]. Further, the Department may issue a cease and desist order provided that (1) the unlicensed facility is notified of the licensure requirements and (2) the Department finds and documents that continued operations will be dangerous to the health and safety of the children, or that a license held by the home had been revoked within the past two years; or (3) the home fails to apply for a license within a reasonable time after being notified of the licensing requirements [see H&S Code § 1597.61(a)]. If an unlicensed facility does not respond to a properly issued cease and desist order, or the immediate health and safety of the children must be protected, the Department can bring an action to enjoin the home from continuing to operate [H&S Code § 1597.61(b); see H&S Code § 1596.89]. Any action brought by the Department against an unlicensed family child care home is instituted and brought by the district attorney's office of the county in which the facility is located [H&S Code § 1597.61(c)].

The civil, criminal, and administrative remedies are not exclusive, and may be used in any combination deemed advisable in order to enforce statutes and regulations applicable to family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357(c); H&S Code § 1596.892]. Any action brought by the Department against an unlicensed facility does not abate with the sale or transfer of the facility, except with the written consent of the Department [H&S Code § 1596.894].

For discussion of the initial application procedures, see § 100C.71.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Family Child Care Homes

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.71

§ 100C.71 Initial Application Procedures for Obtaining License

[1] In General

Any person at least 18 years of age is eligible to apply for a family child care home license regardless of age, sex, race, religion, color, political affiliation, national origin, disabilities, or marital status [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102368(c)]. However, no home may be licensed or registered as a large family child care home unless the provider has at least one year's experience as a regulated small family child care home operator, or as an administrator of a licensed child care center, or the director waives this requirement after finding that the applicant has sufficient qualifying experience [H&S Code § 1597.52(b)].

The application process to obtain an initial family child care home license is commenced when the applicant files an application with the Department of Social Services on forms furnished by the department [H&S Code § 1597.54; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(a); see § 100C.230]. The application includes a wide range of information and documents [see H&S Code § 1597.54; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b); see also § 100C.230]. For example, the application must include a statement that the applicant will comply with all rules and regulations governing family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(4)], and a brief statement confirming that the applicant has sufficient financial resources to operate a home [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(6); H&S Code § 1597.54(a)]. Applicants must also provide evidence that the applicant and all other persons residing in the home are of reputable and responsible character, including but not limited to employment history, character references, and criminal record clearance [H&S Code § 1597.54(f); see H&S Code §§ 1596.871, 1597.59(b); see also [2][a], below]. If the applicant fails to cooperate with the Department by not properly providing all required information, the application must be denied [H&S Code § 1597.54(g); see § 100C.93].

[2] Eligibility of Child Care Personnel

[a] Criminal Record Review

[i] Overview

During the application process, the Department will conduct a detailed review of the applicant's criminal history [see H&S Code § 1596.871]. The criminal record review process includes securing a criminal record of the applicant, and other individuals associated with the proposed child care facility [see H&S Code § 1596.871(b)], for the purpose of determining whether that person has ever been convicted of a crime other than a minor traffic violation, or has ever been arrested for violation of specified sections of the Penal Code [see Pen Code §§ 245, 273.5, 273a(b), 290(c); former Pen Code § 273a(2)], or for any crime for which the department cannot grant an exemption if the person was convicted and not subsequently exonerated [H&S Code § 1596.871(a); see H&S Code § 1596.871(f)(1); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102370, 102370.1].

The following persons are subject to this requirement [H&S Code § 1596.871(a),(b)(1)(A)-(D); see H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(E)-(G) (entity requirements)]:

- The applicant for licensure.
- Adults responsible for administration or direct supervision of staff.
- Any person other than a child residing in the facility.
- Any person who provides care and supervision to the children.
- Any staff person, volunteer, and employee who has contact with children.

With respect to the last category listed above, volunteers providing time-limited specialized services and students enrolled or participating at an accredited educational institution are exempt if they are directly supervised by the licensee or a facility employee with a criminal record clearance or exemption, spend no more than 16 hours per week at the facility, and are not left alone with children in care [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(i),(ii)]. A volunteer who is a relative, legal guardian, or foster parent of a child in care is exempt [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(iii)]. A contract repair person retained by the facility is also exempt if the person is not left alone with children in care [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(iv)]. The Department may also exempt similar persons by regulation [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(v)].

Based on the results of the criminal record review, the Department can approve or deny a license, or an individual's employment, residence, or presence, in a child care facility [H&S Code § 1596.885; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102370, 102370.1]. If it is found that the applicant or any other person subject to the criminal record review has been convicted [see H&S Code § 1596.871(d)(1) ("conviction" defined)] of a crime, other than a minor traffic violation, the application must be denied, unless an exemption for disqualification is granted [H&S Code § 1596.871(a); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102370, 102370.1; see also [iii], below]. The Department may not use a record of arrest to deny, revoke, or terminate any application, license, employment, or residence unless it investigates the incident and secures evidence, whether or not related to the incident of arrest, that is admissible in an administrative hearing to establish conduct by the person that may pose a risk to the health and safety of any person who is or may become a client [H&S Code § 1596.871(e)].

For a further discussion of the criminal clearance procedures conducted by the Department before the issuance of a license, see §§ 100C.231, 100C.240.

[ii] Fingerprinting Requirements

It is the intent of the Legislature to require the fingerprints of all individuals whose contact with family child care home clients may pose a risk to the children's health and safety [H&S Code § 1596.871]. An individual is required to obtain either a criminal record clearance or a criminal record exemption from the State Department of Social Services before he or she is present in a child day care facility [H&S Code § 1696.871]. Before the issuance of a license, the Department must receive fingerprints from the applicant and all adults residing in the facility, any person who provides care and supervision to the children, and any staff or employee who has contact with the children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(8); H&S Code § 1596.871(a)-(c)]. In addition, all persons subject to criminal record review [see [i], above] must be fingerprinted as a precondition to employment, residence, or initial presence in the home, and must sign a declaration, under penalty of perjury, regarding prior criminal convictions [H&S Code §§ 1596.871(c), 1597.59(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(d)].

For a further discussion of the criminal clearance procedures conducted by the Department before the issuance of a license, see §§ 100C.231, 100C.240.

[iii] Exemptions

After review of the criminal record, the Director of Social Services may grant an exemption from disqualification for a license, or from disqualification for employment, residence, or presence in a family child care home, if the director has substantial and convincing evidence to support a reasonable belief that the applicant and the person previously convicted of a crime (if other than the applicant) are of such good character as to justify the issuance of the license or special permit or the granting of an exemption [H&S Code § 1596.871(f)(1); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370.1]. For example, if it is found that the applicant (or any other person residing at or regularly visiting the home during the hours of care) has ever been convicted of a crime other than a minor traffic infraction [see H&S Code § 1597.59(b)], the application will be denied, or the license revoked. However, the denial or revocation is not mandatory if (1) the convicted individual has been granted a full and unconditional pardon from the governor or (2) the director determines, after review, that the person is of such good character as to justify the issuance of the license [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370.1(c)]. The director may consider, but is not limited to, the following factors in justifying the issuance of a license [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370.1(c)(3)]:

- The nature of the offense committed.
- The time elapsed since the offense was committed and the number of offenses.
- The circumstances surrounding the commission of the crime that would demonstrate the unlikelihood of repetition.
- The individual's conduct since the conviction, including employment, education, or participation in therapy, that would indicate changed behavior.
- Character references.
- A certificate of rehabilitation from a superior court.
- Evidence of honesty and truthfulness as revealed in exemption application documents and interviews and conversations with the Department.

The director may not grant an exemption regarding violent or sexual convictions [H&S Code § 1596.871(f); 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102370(g), 102370.1(k)]. Criminal convictions from another state or federal court are treated as if the criminal offense were committed in California [H&S Code § 1596.871(d)(2)].

The licensee must maintain documentation of clearances and exemptions of staff, employees, volunteers, and non-client adults residing in the facility, and must make that documentation available for inspection by the Department at the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370(k)].

[iv] Declarations Regarding Prior Criminal Convictions

Following initial licensure, any person subject to the fingerprinting requirement [see [ii], above] who is not exempt [see [iii], above] must sign, as a condition to employment, residence, or presence in the home, a declaration under penalty of perjury regarding any prior criminal conviction [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(1)(A)].

[v] Transfer of Current Criminal Records Clearance

On request, the Department may permit an individual to transfer a current criminal records clearance from one facility to another, provided that the clearance has been processed through a state licensing district office and is being transferred to another licensed facility. The request must be submitted in writing to the Department. If the person is a California resident, the person must include a copy of the person's driver's license or valid identification card issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles. If the person is not a California resident, the person must include a valid photo identification issued by another state or the federal government. On the request of the licensee, the Department will verify whether the individual has a transferable clearance, provided that the licensee encloses a self-addressed, stamped envelope for that purpose [H&S Code § 1596.871(h)(1); see H&S Code § 1596.871(h)(2) (Social Services Department will hold criminal records clearance for two years after employee leaves employment at licensed facility); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370(j)].

[vi] Denial of Criminal Background Clearance

If the Department has denied a criminal background clearance for an individual based on an information search response provided by the Department of Justice, the individual may make a written request to the Department for a copy of that state or federal level criminal offender record information search response [H&S Code § 1696.871(i)].

[b] Review of Child Abuse Registry

In addition to the criminal record clearance procedures [see [a], above], the Department must check the Child Abuse Registry before granting a license to or otherwise approving a family child care home [H&S Code § 1596.877(b)]. For a family child care home license, the agency must also check the child abuse and neglect complaint records of the child protective services agency of the county in which the applicant has resided for the previous two years [H&S Code § 1596.877(a)]. A license cannot be denied based on information from either of these sources unless the child abuse is substantiated [H&S Code § 1596.877(c); see Pen Code §§ 11165.12(b), 11170(b)(4)].

[c] Health and Safety Training

Family child care homes must satisfy health and safety training requirements [see H&S Code §§ 1596.865, 1596.866(a)]. Each licensee must have at least 15 hours of health and safety training [H&S Code § 1596.866(a),(c); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102368(d)]. This training must include pediatric first aid, pediatric cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and preventative health practices course or courses that include instruction in the recognition, management, and prevention of infectious diseases, including immunizations, and prevention of childhood injuries [H&S Code § 1596.866(a),(c)]. These training requirements are a condition of licensure [H&S Code § 1596.866(a),(c)].

Licensees of family child care homes must ensure that at least one staff member has a current certificate, issued by an approved program, in pediatric cardiopulmonary resuscitation and pediatric first aid is present at all times when children are present at the home, or when children are offsite for home activities [H&S Code § 1596.866(b)].

Training in pediatric first aid and pediatric CPR must be current at all times. However, training in preventive health practices is a one-time-only requirement [H&S Code § 1596.866(c)(2)].

A licensee or staff person who obtains or renews a pediatric first aid certificate [see H&S Code § 1596.866] must complete formal training designed to provide instruction in administering inhaled medication to children with respiratory needs before licensees and staff may administer inhaled medication [H&S Code § 1596.798(a)(4)].

[3] Fire Safety Clearance

All large family child care homes must have a fire safety clearance approved by (1) the city or county fire department, (2) the district providing fire protection services, or (3) the state fire marshal, whichever has primary jurisdiction [H&S Code § 1596.809; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102371; see H&S Code § 13235]. The statute appears to require fire clearances for all family child care homes, but the regulations specify that small homes need not secure a clearance [compare H&S Code § 1596.809 with 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102371(b)]. The summary for the current application booklet states that a fire clearance is required when the application is for seven or more children or nonambulatory children.

[4] Emergency Disaster Plan

The licensee must prepare an emergency disaster action plan on a form provided by the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(9); see § 100C.232]. All children, age and ability permitting, the provider, any assistant provider, and other household members must be instructed in their duties under the disaster plan; as age and ability permit, newly enrolled children must be informed promptly of their duties under the plan. Each home must conduct fire drills and disaster drills at least once every six months. The licensee must document these drills, including the date and time of each drill, and retain the documentation at the home [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(9)].

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.72

§ 100C.72 Initial Application Review by Department and Issuance of License or Provisional License

[1] Issuance or Denial of License

Within 30 days after the receipt of all appropriate licensing application materials, the department must conduct an initial site visit [H&S Code § 1597.59]. Notwithstanding the requirements of the criminal record review [see H&S Code § 1596.871(a); see also § 100C.71[2][a]], the Department must grant or deny a license to a family child care home within 30 days after receiving all appropriate licensing materials, provided that (1) a site visit has actually been completed and the facility is found to be in compliance with licensing standards; and (2) all required persons [see H&S Code § 1596.871(b)] have obtained a criminal record clearance or been granted an exemption [H&S Code § 1597.59(a),(b); see § 100C.230]. The effect of the withdrawal of an application for licensure is discussed in § 100C.271[1].

If the requirements for licensure are not met, the Department must deny the application within 30 days after receipt of a completed application [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(a); see H&S Code § 1596.856]. In addition, the Department may deny an application for initial licensure if the applicant has failed to pay a civil penalty assessed for operating without a license, in accordance with a final judgment, unless acceptable payment arrangements have been made [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(b); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102393].

If the application for an initial license is denied, the Department must immediately notify the applicant in writing. The applicant then has 15 days after the mailing of the notice of denial to petition the Department for a hearing; on receipt of the petition, the department will set a date for a hearing [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(c); H&S Code § 1596.879].

Licensing reviews must be limited to health and safety considerations and cannot include reviews of the content of any educational or training program [H&S Code § 1597.52(a)]. Further, no limitations may be imposed on the licensee or printed on the license solely on the basis that the licensee is, or admits orally or in writing to being, a parent who has administered or will continue to administer corporal punishment to his or her own children, provided that the punishment does not constitute child abuse [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(d),(e); see H&S Code § 1531.5(c)].

[2] Effect of Previous Revocation or Denial of License or Exclusion

If an applicant was previously issued a license to operate a family child care home, clinic [see H&S Code § 1200 et seq.], health facility [see H&S Code § 1250 et seq.], community care facility [see H&S Code § 1500 et seq.], residential care facility for persons with chronic, life-threatening illness [see H&S Code § 1568.01 et seq.], or residential care facility for the elderly [see H&S Code § 1569 et seq.], and this prior license was revoked within the preceding two years, the Department must stop reviewing the present application until two years have elapsed from the date of the revocation [H&S Code § 1596.851(a)].

In general, if an applicant previously applied for one of the above-mentioned licenses, and the application was denied within the last year, the Department must stop reviewing the present application if the applicant appealed or was informed of his or her right to appeal the decision denying the previous application [see H&S Code § 1596.851(b)]. When the applicant appealed [see H&S Code § 1596.879], that is, when the applicants petitioned for a hearing on the previous denial of a license, the department must stop reviewing the present application until one year has elapsed from the effective date of the decision and order upholding the denial [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(1)]. If the department informed the applicant of the right to appeal, and the applicant did not petition for a hearing, the Department must stop reviewing the application until one year has elapsed from the date of the notification of the denial and the right to petition for a hearing [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(2)]. However, the Department may continue to review the application after determining that the reasons for the denial of the previous application were due to circumstances and conditions that have been corrected or that no longer exist [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(3)].

Similarly, if the applicant was excluded from a licensed facility [see H&S Code §§ 1558, 1568.092, 1569.58, 1596.8897], the Department must cease further review of the application unless the excluded individual has been reinstated [H&S Code § 1596.851(a)(3); see Gov. Code § 11522].

The cessation of review does not constitute denial of the application [H&S Code § 1596.851(b)(3),(d)].

[3] Provisional Licenses

The Department may also issue a provisional license [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(p)(4) ("provisional license" defined)] to operate a family child care home if (1) the home is in substantial compliance with applicable licensing laws, (2) the home has submitted a completed application, and (3) no life safety risks are involved [H&S Code § 1596.84]. In determining whether any life safety risks are involved, all applicable fire and criminal record clearances must be completed [H&S Code § 1596.84].

A provisional license is valid for up to six months from the date of issuance if the Department determines full compliance with licensing regulations will be achieved within that time [H&S Code §§ 1596.84, 1596.96(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(e)]. The term of the provisional license may be extended an additional six months, up to a maximum of 12 months, if more than six months will be required to achieve full compliance with licensing standards due to circumstances beyond the applicant's control [H&S Code §§ 1596.84, 1596.96(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(e)]. However, if the Department discovers any serious deficiencies during the provisional license period, the Department has authority to institute administrative action or civil proceedings, or to refer the case for criminal prosecution [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101181(d); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(s)(3) ("serious deficiencies" are those that represent an immediate or substantial threat to the physical or mental health or safety of children)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Family Child Care Homes

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.73

§ 100C.73 Continuing Term of License

A license for a family child care home is not issued for a finite term [see H&S Code § 1597.54]. Rather, it continues in effect unless suspended, revoked, or forfeited for cause [see H&S Code § 1596.856; see also § 100C.93 (suspension, revocation, or forfeiture)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Family Child Care Homes

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.74

§ 100C.74 General Operating Requirements

Family child care homes must satisfy special operating requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102416-102424], but are not subject to general operating regulations applicable to other child care facilities [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102351.1]. The license must be kept available in the facility on request [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102368(a)].

The licensee must be present in the home and ensure that the children in care are properly supervised at all times. If circumstances require the licensee's temporary absence, the licensee must arrange for a substitute adult to care for and supervise the children during the absence. Temporary absences may not exceed 20 percent of the hours that the home is providing care per day [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(a)].

The home must be kept clean and orderly, with adequate heating and ventilation, must maintain telephone service, and must provide safe toys, play equipment, and materials [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(b)-(d)]. The licensee must keep the home free from defects or conditions that might endanger a child; "baby walkers" are specifically prohibited [H&S Code § 1596.846(b),(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g); see 16 C.F.R. § 1500.86(a)(4) (definition)]. Safety precautions include, but are not limited to, the screening of fireplaces and open-face heaters; the maintenance of a fire extinguisher and smoke detector; the fencing or barricading of stairs if children are under five years old; and the establishment of inaccessible locked storage areas for poisons, medicines, firearms, and other dangerous items [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)]. The smoking of tobacco in a private residence that is licensed as a family child care home is prohibited during the hours of operation as a family child care home and in those areas of the home where children are present. Cities and counties may enact or enforce more stringent ordinances that regulate smoking in these homes [H&S Code § 1596.795(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102424]. Strict requirements must be satisfied if the facility will be transporting children in motor vehicles, such as requiring car seats for infants and prohibiting leaving children unattended in parked vehicles [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(h)-(l)].

Family child care homes must maintain a current roster of children receiving care in the facility [see H&S Code § 1596.841; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(8); see also § 100C.253], and an emergency information card for each child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(7); see §§ 100C.76, 100C.255].

When a child shows signs of illness, the child must be separated from the other children and the nature of the illness must be determined. If the child's disease is communicable, the child must be separated from the other children until the infectious stage is over [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(e)]. Whenever food is brought from the children's homes, the container must be labeled with the child's name and properly stored or refrigerated [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(f)].

The licensee must also comply with liability insurance coverage requirements [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(m),(n); see H&S Code § 1597.531; see also §§ 100C.13[2], 100C.257[1]].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Family Child Care Homes

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.75

§ 100C.75 Personnel, Staffing Ratio, and Capacity Requirements

The licensee of a family child care home must meet specified personnel, staffing ratio, and capacity requirements. The licensee must notify all personnel, in writing, of their rights under the Child Day Care Facilities Act [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102416; see H&S Code §§ 1596.880-1596.883]. The licensee must provide each employee with a copy of the Notice of Employee's Rights form [see § 100C.250], request that each employee sign and date the notice form acknowledging receipt, and retain the signed notice form in each employee's personnel record [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102416(a)(1),(2), 102417(q)]. If the employee refuses to sign the notice form, a dated notation to that effect must be retained in the employee's personnel record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102416(a)(3)].

With regard to staffing ratios, the capacity specified in the license is the maximum number of children for whom care may be provided [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102416.5(a)]. For small family child care homes, the maximum number of children (including the licensee's children under the age of 10 who live in the home) for whom care must be provided is either (1) four infants, that is, children under the age of two; or (2) six children, no more than three of whom can be infants [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102416.5(b)]. A small home may provide care for up to eight children, without an additional adult attendant, provided that at least one child is enrolled in and attending kindergarten or elementary school and a second child is at least six years of age, no more than two infants are cared for when more than six children are in care, the licensee notifies each parent, and the licensee obtains the written consent of the property owner if the premises are rented or leased [H&S Code § 1597.44].

For large family child care homes with an assistant provider, the maximum number of children (including the licensee's children under the age of 10 who live in the home and the assistant provider's children under 10) is 12, no more than four of whom can be infants [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102416.5(c)]. A large home may provide care for up to 14 children, provided that at least one child is enrolled in and attending kindergarten or elementary school and a second child is at least six years of age, no more than three infants are cared for when more than 12 children are in care, the licensee notifies each parent, and the licensee obtains the written consent of the property owner if the premises are rented or leased [H&S Code § 1597.465].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Family Child Care Homes

1. Licensing and Operational Requirements

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.76

§ 100C.76 Children's Records

The licensee must maintain individual emergency information cards for all children receiving care. The card must include the child's full name, the telephone number and location of the authorized representative (parent, guardian, or other responsible adult) to be contacted in the case of an emergency, the name and telephone number of the child's physician, and the parent's authorization for the licensee or registrant to consent to emergency medical care [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(7); see § 100C.255]. The licensee must also ensure that all children satisfy the immunization requirements for children enrolled in a family child care home before admission [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102418; see H&S Code §§ 1596.813, 1597.541, 120335; see also 17 Cal. Code Reg. § 6000, 6015, 6020, 6035(a)].

The licensee must inform all authorized representatives of their rights, including the right to enter and inspect the home [see H&S Code § 1596.857(a)], provide a copy of the notice form provided by the Department, and request that the authorized representative sign and date the form acknowledging that he or she has received and read the notice [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102419(a),(b),(d); see H&S Code § 1596.857(d); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102419(b) (posting requirement); see also § 100C.78]. The licensee must also provide to all authorized representatives the Caregiver Background Check Process form [LIC 995E] at the time of acceptance of each child into care [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102419(c),(d)]. The licensee must maintain the signed and dated receipt for the parents' rights notice, which includes a receipt statement for the Caregiver Background Check Process form in the child's record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102419(d), 102421(a)]. If the authorized representative refuses to sign the receipt or the notice form, dated notations to that effect must be placed in the child's record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102419(g)]. The signed and dated receipts, notice forms, and notations must be retained for at least three years following the termination of service to the child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102421(a)(1)]. In addition, on acceptance of each child into a day care facility after January 1, 2007, the licensee must provide the child's parent or guardian with a copy of the Family Child Care Home Notification of Parents' Rights provided by the Department of Social Services. This notice includes information stating that the specified registered sex offender database is available to the public at a web site, www.meganslaw.ca.gov, that is maintained by the Department of Justice. [H&S Code § 1596.857(e)]. A provider, however, is not required to provide any additional information regarding the location and proximity of registered sex offenders who reside in the community where the child care facility is located [H&S Code § 1596.857(f)].

It must include information stating that the specified registered sex offender database is available to the public at a web site, www.meganslaw.ca.gov, that is maintained by the Department of Justice [H&S Code § 1596.857(d)]. This notice, available from the department, must also state the prohibition against retaliation for the exercise of those rights and the right of parents and guardians to review, at the facility site, licensing reports documenting facility visits and substantiated complaints against the facility [H&S Code § 1596.857(d); *see 22 Cal. 32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.90

§ 100C.90 Overview

The Department must take certain actions to ensure compliance with the rules and regulations applicable to family child care homes, including conducting ongoing programs and seminars for licensing staff and law enforcement agencies, and ensuring that license revocations appear on criminal records [see H&S Code § 1596.875]. The Department is also charged with extensive licensing duties relating to applications for initial licenses and renewal licenses. However, licensing reviews must be limited to health and safety considerations, and cannot include any review of the content of any educational or training program of the facility [H&S Code § 1597.52(a)].

The Department has broad inspection authority [see H&S Code §§ 1596.852, 1596.8535, 1596.853, 1597.55a, 1597.55b; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102391, 102392; § 100C.91]. The Department also has numerous remedies that can be used to enforce compliance, including the imposition of monetary penalties [see § 100C.92; see also § 100C.52[3]], the issuance of citations [see § 100C.53] or injunctions [see § 100C.54], and the denial, suspension, revocation, or forfeiture of licenses [see § 100C.93]. Willful or repeated violation of any applicable rule or regulation is punishable as a misdemeanor and subjects the guilty party to a fine and/or imprisonment [see H&S Code § 1596.890]. These remedies are not exclusive, and can be sought and employed in any combination to enforce provisions of the Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.892].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.91

§ 100C.91 Site Visits and Inspections

[1] Site Visits and Inspections by Governmental Authorities

The licensee must permit the Department to inspect the facility, and to privately interview children or staff, to determine compliance with, or to prevent violations of, family child care laws or regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102391(b); see H&S Code §§ 1596.852, 1597.55a(g), 1597.55b(f); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102392]. These inspections and interviews may only be conducted during the period beginning one hour before and ending one hour after the facility's normal business hours or at any time child care services are being provided, unless the Department (1) is investigating a complaint and (2) determines that an inspection or site visit outside the time period beginning one hour before, and ending one hour after, the center's normal operating hours is necessary to protect the health or safety of any child [H&S Code § 1596.8535(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102391(b); see Rush v. Obledo (1985) 756 F.2d 713, 722 (H&S Code § 1596.852 violates Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution as overbroad)]. The licensee must permit the Department to inspect any part of the facility in which family child care services are provided or to which any children have access [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102391(c); see H&S Code §§ 1597.55a, 1597.55b].

An announced site visit is required before the initial licensure of a family home [H&S Code §§ 1597.55a(a), 1597.55b(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102392]. Unannounced site visits mandated by law must occur at least every five years [see H&S Code § 1597.55a(d), (h)] and, under some circumstances, at shorter intervals [see H&S Code §§ 1597.55a(b),(c),(h), 1597.55b(c),(e),(g) (annually in specified circumstances)].

It is a misdemeanor to inform, without proper authorization, a family child care home of an impending or proposed inspection or evaluation of that facility; this offense is punishable by a fine and/or imprisonment [see H&S Code § 1596.8915].

All site visits are subject to rights of the home's operator, including the right to require licensing field staff to identify themselves, the right to be advised of the type of visit, and the right to receive an accurate report of the evaluator's findings [see H&S Code § 1596.842(a); see also § 100C.51[5]]. Further, each licensee has the right, without prejudice or risk of discriminatory treatment by the Department, to notify the Department of any action or behavior by the licensing representative that the licensee believes to constitute a wrongful application or capricious enforcement of the family child care home regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102403(a)]. In addition, each licensee has the right to complain to the Department regarding any review of any disputed issues [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102403(b)].

The licensee must permit the Department to inspect, audit, and copy children's records or other family child care home records on demand during normal business hours. The Department may remove records for three business days if necessary, for copying [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102391(d)(1),(3)]. The right to remove designated current records is restricted unless that same information is otherwise readily available in another document or format [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102391(d)(1)]. Further, before removing any records, the Department must prepare a list of the records to be removed, sign and date the list on their removal, and leave a copy of the list with the licensee or designated substitute [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102391(d)(2)].

[2] Parental Inspections and Requests for Inspections

In addition to the Department's right to inspect family child care homes [see [1], above], the responsible parent or guardian of a child receiving family child care has the right to enter and inspect the home, without advance notice, during the normal operating hours or at any time that the child is receiving care [H&S Code § 1596.857(a)]. For further discussion, see § 100C.51[2].

Any person may request a Departmental inspection of any home by transmitting, either orally or in writing, a notice or complaint alleging a violation of applicable rules or regulations [H&S Code § 1596.853(a)]. For further discussion, see § 100C.51[3].

§ 100C.92 Notices of Deficiencies and Imposition of Civil Penalties

The Department of Social Services must notify family child care homes in writing of all deficiencies in their compliance with applicable rules and regulations and set forth a reasonable time for compliance [H&S Code § 1597.56; see H&S Code § 1596.844].

Operators of unlicensed family child care homes are subject to cease and desist orders [see H&S Code § 1597.61(a); see also § 100C.70[3]], and orders enjoining them from continuing operations [see H&S Code §§ 1596.89, 1597.61(b)]. In addition, civil penalties may be assessed against operators of unlicensed family homes [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102393]. The process of appealing this type of penalty assessment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102402] is essentially the same as the appeal process applicable to child care centers operating without a license [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101198, 102394; see also § 100C.52[4][b]]. The transfer, surrender, forfeiture, or revocation of a license [see § 100C.93] does not affect the licensee's responsibility for paying civil penalties accrued while the license was in effect, unless the Department orders to the contrary [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102402.1(a)(1)]. However, any denial or revocation of licensure for failure to pay civil penalties may be appealed [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102402.1(c); see H&S Code § 1596.887].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.93

§ 100C.93 Denial, Suspension, Revocation, and Forfeiture of Licenses

[1] Denial

The Department must deny an application for licensure within 30 days after receipt of the completed application if the licensing requirements are not met [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(a)]. Whenever it is determined that the licensee or anyone subject to the criminal clearance requirements [see § 100C.71[2]] has a criminal record (and has not been granted an exemption), the license will be denied [H&S Code § 1597.59(b); see H&S Code § 1596.871(b); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401]. Initial licensure may also be denied if the applicant has failed to pay any final civil penalty assessment unless payment arrangements have been made [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(b)]. However, a license may not be denied (or limited) solely on the basis that the applicant is a parent who has administered or will continue to administer corporal punishment not constituting child abuse on his or her own children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(d),(e)].

Immediately after the denial of a licensing application, the Department must notify the applicant in writing. The applicant has 15 days in which to present a written petition for hearing [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102401(c)].

[2] Suspension, Revocation, and Forfeiture

A family child care license may be suspended or revoked on any of the following grounds [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102402; see H&S Code §§ 1596.856, 1596.885]:

- The violation by the licensee of the applicable laws, rules, and regulations.
- Aiding, abetting, or permitting the violation of the applicable laws, rules, and regulations.
- Conduct in the operation of a home that is inimical to the health, morals, welfare, or safety of any person in or receiving care from a family child care home or the people of California.

- The conviction, at any time during licensure, of the licensee or persons subject to the criminal clearance requirement [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(8); see also H&S Code § 1596.871(b)] of any crime other than minor traffic violations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370(g)].
- Engaging in acts of financial malfeasance concerning operations, including, but not limited to, improper use or embezzlement of client funds and property, fraudulent appropriation for personal gain of facility funds and property, or willful or negligent failure to provide services for the care of clients.
- The failure to comply with the health safety training requirements [see § 100C.71(2)(c)].

Improper conduct, such as child molestation, by a family child care home employee not occurring at the home itself, but that has an impact within the home, is within the scope of conduct that is contrary to the health, safety, welfare, and morals of children at family child care homes, and thus constitutes grounds for license revocation [see Adamson v. Department of Social Services (1988) 207 Cal. App. 3d 14, 24, 254 Cal. Rptr. 667] .

A family child care home license will be revoked if the facility fails to obtain either liability insurance or an affidavit from each parent of a child enrolled in the facility acknowledging that the facility does not carry insurance [see H&S Code § 1597.531; see also § 100C.257].

A license may be temporarily suspended when necessary to protect any child in a family child care home from physical or mental abuse, abandonment, or any other substantial threat to health or safety [H&S Code § 1596.886; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102402(b); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370]. The Department's authority to suspend a license temporarily is discussed in § 100C.55[4].

A family child care home license may also be forfeited by operation of law [see H&S Code § 1596.858]. The grounds for forfeiture are discussed in § 100C.55[2].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.110

§ 100C.110 General Licensing Determinations

1. Determine if facility must be licensed under California Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.]:

a. Does facility constitute a "child care center?"

NOTE:

Only facilities providing nonmedical care to children under 18 years of age who are in need of personal services, supervision, or assistance essential for sustaining the activities of daily living, or for protection of the individual on less than a 24-hour basis are child care facilities and thus subject to licensure [see H&S Code §§ 1596.750, 1596.80]. "Day care center" means any child day care facility other than a family day care home, and includes infant centers, preschools, extended day care facilities, and school-age child care centers [H&S Code § 1596.76].

b. Is facility exempt from licensing requirements [see H&S Code § 1596.792; see also § 100C.10[4]]?

(1) Is facility subject to other governmental regulation or licensing?

NOTE:

Examples of facilities that are subject to other licensing and regulation are health facilities [H&S Code § 1596.792(a); see H&S Code § 1250], clinics [H&S Code § 1596.792(b); see H&S Code § 1202], community care facilities [H&S Code § 1596.792(c); see H&S Code § 1502], and extended day care programs operated by public or private schools [H&S Code § 1596.792(h)].

In addition, licensed alcohol and drug treatment program facilities, administered by the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, that house women and their children and are specifically designated for the purpose of providing substance abuse treatment and maintaining and strengthening the family unit are exempt [see H&S Code § 1596.792(m)].

(2) Does family child care home provide care for children of only one family in addition to operator's own children [H&S Code § 1596.792(d)]?

(3) Does facility provide care only for children of operator's relatives [H&S Code § 1596.792(f)]?

(4) Does facility provide free care to 12 or fewer children pursuant to cooperative arrangement among parents when parents rotate as responsible care giver, and care is provided only by and in homes of certain relatives [see H&S Code § 1596.792(e)]?

(5) Is facility publicly run recreation program [see H&S Code § 1596.792(g)]?

NOTE:

To be eligible for this exemption, a publicly run recreation program must meet specific requirements as to the number of hours per week (and, in most cases, the number of weeks per year) it is in session, based on the age group to which the program is offered [see H&S Code § 1596.792(g)].

(6) Is care provided by school parenting or adult education program operated by public school district or individual or organization under contract with public school district [see H&S Code § 1596.792(i)]?

NOTE:

For privately run recreation programs, specified programs conducted by the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Boys Club, Girls Club, and Camp Fire are exempt from the Act. However, child care programs operated by these organizations are not exempt [H&S Code § 1596.793].

(7) Does facility operate one day per week for no more than four hours on that day [H&S Code § 1596.792(j)]?

(8) Is facility providing temporary child care services where parents and guardians remain on premises [H&S Code § 1596.792(k)]?

NOTE:

To qualify for this exemption, the facility cannot be operated on the site of a ski facility, shopping mall, department store, or other similar site [see H&S Code § 1596.792(k)(2)].

(9) Does facility provide activities of instructional nature in classroom-like setting only during periods in which public schools are normally not in session because of regularly scheduled vacations [H&S Code § 1596.792(l)]?

NOTE:

To qualify for this exemption, the total number of sessions during the periods described above cannot exceed 30 days when only school-age children are enrolled or 15 days when children younger than school-age children are enrolled [see H&S Code § 1596.792(l)(2)].

2. If licensure is required under the Child Day Care Facilities Act, determine type of facility license sought:

a. Child care center.

NOTE:

A "child care center" or "day care center" means any child day care facility other than a family day care home, and includes infant centers, preschools, extended day care facilities, and school-age child care centers [H&S Code § 1596.76] in which less than 24-hour per day nonmedical care and supervision is provided for children in a group setting [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(7)]; see P c, below. "Child care center" includes infant centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101152(i)(2), 101351], child care centers for mildly ill children centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101552(c)(10)], and school-age child care center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101152(s)(2), 101451].

b. Employer-sponsored child care center.

NOTE:

An "employer-sponsored child care center" is any child care center at the employer's site of business, operated directly or through a provider contract by any person or entity having one or more employees, and available exclusively for the care of children of that employer and of the officers, managers, and employees of that employer [H&S Code § 1596.771].

c. Family child care home.

NOTE:

A "family child care home" is a home that regularly provides care, protection, and supervision of 14 or fewer children in the provider's own home for periods of less than 24 hours per day while the parents or guardians are away [H&S Code § 1596.78(a)].

(1) Small family child care home; or

NOTE:

A "small family child care home" is a home that provides family child care to eight or fewer children, including children under age 10 who reside at the home [H&S Code § 1596.78(c); see H&S Code § 1597.44 (additional rules for homes with seven or eight children)].

(2) Large family child care home.

NOTE:

A "large family child care home" is a home that provides family child care to no fewer than seven and not more than 14 children, including children under age 10 who reside at the home [H&S Code § 1596.78(b)]; see H&S Code § 1597.465 (additional rules for homes with 13 or 14 children)].

3. Determine whether client is eligible for waiver of or exception to licensing requirements.

NOTE:

To avoid strict compliance with many licensing rules and regulations, some facilities may seek a waiver of the licensing requirements from the Department of Social Services [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101175(b); see also § 100C.270]. An employer-sponsored child day care center sponsored by a small business may be eligible for a reasonable waiver of those regulations that present difficulties to the small business [H&S Code § 1597.71; see H&S Code § 1597.70 (legislative findings)].

4. Determine which licensing rules and regulations apply to client's type of facility:

NOTE:

The Child Day Care Facilities Act [H&S Code § 1596.70 et seq.] and the regulations promulgated by the State Department of Social Services [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151 et seq.] govern the establishment and operation of child care facilities in California. However, these rules and regulations are not uniformly applied to all facilities [see H&S Code §§ 1596.71, 1596.90, 1597.53; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101151(a), 101351, 101451, 101551, 102351.1]. Consequently, once counsel knows the type of facility license sought (namely, child care center, infant care center, school-age child care center, mildly ill child care center, or family child care home), counsel may then determine which rules and regulations apply to which facilities [see § 100C.10[3]].

5. Determine whether any restrictions exist on property or home.

a. Are there private covenants, easements, etc. that would affect opening and/or operation of facility, particularly family child care homes?

NOTE:

While private covenants restricting the use of property as a family child care home are void [see H&S Code § 1597.40(b),(c)], the attorney should still ascertain whether or not any such purported restrictions exist, so as to be on guard for potential conflicts with neighbors and/or purchasers of the property.

b. What local zoning ordinances apply that may restrict use of center or home as child care facility?

NOTE:

In some circumstances, local authorities may restrict building heights, setback, and lot dimensions of family child care homes [see H&S Code § 1597.47]. However, significant steps have been taken to remove or ease zoning ordinances as they apply to family child care homes in order to make home day care a more feasible day care option [see H&S Code §§ 1597.40, 1597.45, 1597.46; see also § 100C.12].

c. Is use permit required for city in which facility will operate [see § 100C.120]?

d. If family child care home will be located on rental property, what is landlord's address to which required notices can be sent [see H&S Code § 1597.40(d)]?

6. Determine facility's capacity considering:

a. Square footage of classroom and playground space;

NOTE:

For child care centers, at least 35 square feet of indoor activity space (namely, usable classroom space) and 75 square feet of fenced outdoor activity space (namely, suitable playground space) per child specified in the capacity request is required. For example, if the requested capacity is 45 children, there must be 1,575 square feet of classroom space and 3,375 square feet of playground space [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101238.2, 101238.3; see also §§ 100C.28[5],[6], 100C.120].

b. Number of toilets and sinks;

NOTE:

Child care centers must have at least one toilet and one sink for every group of 15 children or fraction thereof, plus an additional separate toilet and handwashing fixture designated for use by ill children, by staff, and for emergency use [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(h),(i); see § 100C.28[2]].

- c. Staff restroom, rest area, and/or office;
- d. Conditions stated on fire clearance [see § 100C.21[3]].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.111

§ 100C.111 Financial Determinations

1. Determine if client has adequate working capital to fund opening and continued operation of facility.

NOTE:

Family child care home applicants need only submit a brief statement confirming that they are sufficiently financially secure to operate such a facility, and no other specific or detailed financial disclosures are required [H&S Code § 1597.54(a)]. In contrast, child care center applicants are required to disclose detailed financial information [see §§ 100C.205[2] (Form LIC 403), 100C.206[2] (Form LIC 404)].

- a. Are funds sufficient to provide the necessary care, supervision, equipment, supplies, and other items required by law?
- b. Will funds from fees charged to parents be sufficient to meet facility's operating costs?

2. Determine if client is eligible to receive government funding for facility [see Educ. Code §§ 8275-8279.2; see also 5 Cal. Code Reg. § 18000 et seq.].

C. Procedural Guide

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.120

§ 100C.120 Obtaining Child Care Center License

NOTE:

A child day care center applicant will only be issued a license once all of the following are completed [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101156]:

- All application documents are correctly submitted and approved.
- A fire clearance for the facility is on file with the licensing office.
- The center has a qualified director, and any other facility personnel to be employed at time of licensure has met the required qualifications and been cleared by the Department.
- The required fingerprint clearances are on file with the Department.
- The Department has inspected and approved the facility building and grounds.

Centers may not begin operating until a license has actually been issued.

1. Instruct client to attend orientation given by Department of Social Services.

NOTE:

All child care center applicants must attend an orientation that outlines applicable rules and regulations and explains what the operation of such a facility entails [see H&S Code § 1596.845].

2. Choose facility site.

a. Ensure that site meets minimum physical environment requirements for building, fixtures, and grounds [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101238-101239; see also §§ 100C.21, 100C.28].

(1) Site must have at least 35 square feet of indoor activity space per child, not including bathrooms, halls, offices, isolation areas, food preparation areas, and storage space [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.3; see also § 100C.28[6]].

(2) Site must have at least 75 square feet of fenced outdoor activity space per child, including a shaded rest area and easy access to and from center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.2(a),(b),(g); see also § 100C.28[5]].

(3) Site must have at least one toilet and one sink for each group of 15 children, plus an additional separate toilet and handwashing fixture designated for use by ill children, by staff, and for emergency use [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239(h),(i); see § 100C.28[2]].

(4) Site must have an isolation area for sick children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101226.2].

(5) Site must meet other requirements such as adequate storage space [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238.4], proper heating and ventilation [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101239], protective devices on passageways, stairs, and ramps [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(b)], and proper storage of hazardous materials [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101238(g)].

(6) If facility is providing care and supervision to infants (children under age two), site must meet additional requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101438.1-101439.1; see also § 100C.35[2]].

b. Consider fire clearance requirements when evaluating prospective sites to avoid sites that would clearly fail fire inspection.

NOTE:

Fire clearance requirements are contained in the State Uniform Building Code (Title 24 of the California Code of Regulations).

(1) Searches should probably be limited to first floor of buildings, since clearances are rarely given for facilities where care will be provided on second floor.

(2) Prospective site should have fire resistant siding and roof.

(3) Facility should be accessible to handicapped.

(4) Facility should have at least two exits, neither of which is through kitchen or sliding glass doors.

(5) Building should be at least five feet from adjoining property line and/or contain a two-hour fire wall.

c. Consider applicable zoning ordinances [see § 100C.12], whether use permits are required in your community, and potential neighborhood opposition, any one of which could prevent establishment of center.

NOTE:

City planning and zoning departments often can identify neighborhoods that have opposed child care centers in the past, and conducting door to door surveys can be helpful in determining the neighborhood's attitudes about a child care center. Additionally, local realtors may have information on zoning and neighborhood practices, as well as provide potential sites as they come on the market.

d. Other items to examine when evaluating prospective facility sites include:

- (1) Windows for natural light;
- (2) Safe and clean floors;
- (3) Storage areas within reach of children's play area;
- (4) Bathroom fixtures suitable for size and height of children; and
- (5) Safe accessible parking for parents, guardians, and staff.

e. When suitable site is located, rental or purchase agreement should be contingent on property being licensable as a child care center.

3. Complete and submit all required forms.

NOTE:

All of the forms listed below must be completed in full and submitted to obtain licensure. Required forms are divided into two sections. "Section A" forms (PP a through n, below) are pre-printed forms provided by the Department of Social Services in an official application booklet and must be submitted to initiate the licensing process. "Section B" forms (PP o through z, below) are either documents completed for other purposes (such as bylaws or school transcripts) or statements about the facility, admission policies, and services offered that must be drafted by the applicant and submitted with the application or the application will be subject to closure.

An application is not complete until all required materials, including all Section A and B forms, except A15 and A16 (fingerprint cards and child abuse index check) have been submitted and the Department has completed a site visit [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(11)]. Only completed applications will be considered for final licensure. This rule is significant because facilities that begin operating without submitting a "completed application" subject themselves to imposition of civil penalties [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101198(a)(1)]. Once completed, the attorney and/or client should maintain a copy of all forms sent to the Department. Additionally, all forms submitted should be clearly labeled with the center name and address and sent to the attention of the licensing program analyst assigned to your center.

a. Application [Form LIC 200; see § 100C.200[2]].

- (1) Complete all relevant items.

(2) Obtain original signature since signed under penalty of perjury.

(3) Ensure that signature(s) corresponds to type of organization completing application and that signer has proper authority.

NOTE:

If the applicant is a partnership, all partners must sign the application. If the applicant is a corporation, the application must be signed by the chief executive officer or authorized representative [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(e)].

(4) Ensure that capacity request is based on physical features of center [see § 100C.110, P 6], and if combination center license is sought, ensure that capacity for each program is designated.

(5) If applicant is corporation, include board resolution authorizing filing of application [see § 100C.219], and copies of articles of incorporation (with seal) and bylaws with application.

(6) If applicant is partnership, include copy of partnership agreement with application.

NOTE:

The partnership agreement should include a description of what the partnership does, and what happens if the partnership dissolves and how to dissolve it.

(7) Ensure that all requirements of H&S Code § 1596.95 have been satisfied (i.e., application and other forms indicate evidence of applicant's reputable character, adequate financial resources, etc.).

b. Applicant Information [Form LIC 215; see § 100C.201[2]].

(1) Ensure that all "applicant(s)" complete this form, such as each partner in partnership, or chief executive officer or authorized representative if corporate applicant.

(4) Calculate fringe benefits at 25 percent of salary or state why fringe benefits are not applicable.

(5) Ensure that rent amount corresponds with lease or rental agreement.

(6) Ensure that program should at least break even financially.

f. Financial Statement [Form LIC 403; see § 100C.205[2]].

g. Financial Information Release and Verification [Form LIC 404; see § 100C.206[2]].

NOTE:

The applicant must complete Section 1 and return the form to the Department. The agency will send the form to the financial institution. The verification must be sent by the financial institution directly to the Department; the licensee may not hand carry the verification. Separate forms are required for each bank or financial institution with which the applicant does business [see Form LIC 404 instructions].

(1) If combination center license is sought, ensure that form is completed for each component.

(2) Show all positions with days and hours on duty, ensuring requisite staff coverage for all hours of operation.

(3) Ensure that director, teachers, and other facility staff hired at the time of application are represented on form.

(4) Identify positions with staff not yet hired as "to be hired" and include position title.

(5) Ensure that form indicates director is present full time or, if director is not present full time, designate qualified substitute.

NOTE:

The director, or a duly qualified substitute director must be on the premises during the center's hours of operation [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(d),(f); see also § 100C.202[1]].

(6) Distinguish staff subject to fingerprinting requirement from those who are exempt.

(7) Distinguish staff subject to health screening requirement from those who are exempt.

i. Personnel Record [Form LIC 501; see § 100C.208[2]].

(1) Complete and submit form to Department for director/administrator and any program manager only, but instruct client to maintain separate records for all other staff members in facility files for review.

(2) Ensure that educational information on form is supported with proper documentation, such as college transcripts.

j. Health Screening Report for all facility personnel, including applicants, licensees, and employed staff [Form LIC 503; see § 100C.209[2]].

(2) Ensure that physician performing exam is qualified medical professional and that he or she has signed report.

(3) Ensure that tuberculosis test has been performed and results are shown on report.

k. Emergency Disaster Plan [Form LIC 610; see § 100C.210[2]].

is verified in writing.

(4) Attach copy of center's facility sketch, indicating exits [see § 100C.241].

l. Fingerprint cards and applicable fees.

NOTE:

An applicant must submit fingerprint images and related information to the Department of Justice and the FBI, through the Department of Justice, for a state and federal level criminal offender record search. The Department of Social Services may issue a license before receipt of the FBI criminal record history if the individual in question executes a statement that he or she has never been convicted of a crime other than a traffic infraction [H&S Code § 1596.871(a)(4)(E)]. An individual must obtain either a criminal record clearance or a criminal record exemption from the Department of Social Services before he or she is present in a child day care facility [H&S Code § 1696.871].

Neither the Department of Social Services nor the Department of Justice will charge a fee for the fingerprinting of an applicant who will serve six or fewer children or any family child care applicant for a license [see H&S Code § 1596.871(a)(3) (except during the 2008-2009 and 2009-2010 fiscal years)].

(1) Ensure that completed cards are submitted for all applicants, administrators/directors, hired staff, volunteers, and residents other than clients unless exempt.

(2) Ensure that clearances have been received for applicant and director before licensure.

m. Child Abuse Index Check [Form LIC 198A; see § 100C.240[2]; see also § 100C.21[2]].

NOTE:

(b) Show dimension and location of major equipment and swimming pools.

o. Copies of organizational documents:

(1) If applicant is partnership, copy of partnership agreement.

(2) If applicant is corporation, articles of incorporation with Secretary of State Seal, bylaws, and board resolution to determine identity of agents acting on behalf of corporation.

p. Verification of director qualifications [see § 100C.211; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101215.1, 101415, 101515].

q. Job descriptions for each person and position, including statement of supervision [see §§ 100C.130, 100C.212].

r. Statement of personnel policies covering selection of staff and conditions of employment [see §§ 100C.130, 100C.213].

s. In-service training for staff [see §§ 100C.130, 100C.214].

t. Child care program description, including statement of goals, schedule of operation, and time of meals and activities [see §§ 100C.130, 100C.215].

NOTE:

The program description should also contain information outlined in the Admissions Policies section of the regulations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218(a)].

u. Rules of discipline, including clear prohibition against corporal or unusual punishment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101223(a)(3); see also § 100C.216].

v. Admission policies [see §§ 100C.130, 100C.217].

w. Sample menu and schedule for one week.

x. List of play equipment and inventory of furniture [see § 100C.218].

(1) Detailed inventory of all items is not required, but list should show different types of equipment that are age appropriate, and that equipment reflects different types of planned activity and matches type of program facility proposed.

(2) If facility is not fully equipped by opening date, submit schedule for completing purchases.

(3) Outdoor equipment list should include both fixed structures and movable outdoor equipment.

y. Copy of lease agreement or deed or property tax bill.

(1) If applicant is renting or leasing, ensure that name and address of owner of facility premises appears on lease.

(2) If lease is conditional on facility being licensed as child day care center, unsigned lease can be submitted initially.

z. If water for human consumption is from private source, water supply clearance must be submitted [see § 100C.21[3]].

4. Submit application fee with application documents.

NOTE:

The amount of the initial application fee (and subsequent annual fees) is assessed based on the capacity range of the center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101187(a)].

5. Obtain fire clearance.

NOTE:

Fire clearance approval is a condition to licensure [see H&S Code § 1596.809]. Consequently, even if a day care center has a use permit and meets all other licensing requirements, it will not be issued a license until a fire inspection has been conducted and a clearance is obtained.

Once the application is submitted, the Department will contact the fire marshal's office in the relevant city [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101171(a)(1) (request for fire clearance must be made through Department)].

a. During site selection process, evaluate fire clearance issues to avoid sites that would clearly fail fire inspection [see P 2b, above].

b. If client intends to admit nonambulatory children, ensure that Department is informed of that intention, so that appropriate fire clearance can be obtained [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101171(b); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(n)(1) ("nonambulatory person" defined)].

c. Ensure that facility has at least two fire extinguishers, smoke detectors, and approved bell alarm system.

d. Do not spend money on renovations or repairs unless and until recommended by local fire marshal.

6. Hire sufficient and qualified staff.

NOTE:

Great care must be taken in selecting staff members to work at child day care centers. The staff is a key element that many parents examine in choosing a facility and probably constitutes the facility's major operating expense. Further, centers must not only have a director before licensure, but all hired employees must be cleared by the Department, including criminal clearances, before employment. The Department may require a center to hire additional staff, if it determines additional staff is required [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(b)].

a. Ensure that prospective employees meet qualification requirements for position sought.

NOTE:

One of the major areas of confusion for day care center applicants is sorting through the detailed qualification requirements for facility personnel. In addition to age requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(d) (personnel who supervise employees and/or volunteers or who provide any care and supervision must be 18 years old); see also § 100C.21[2]], directors, teachers, aides, infant care and school-age personnel must meet very specific educational and employment requirements. The day care center applicant or licensee must be familiar with the requisite qualifications before publishing job announcements and interviewing prospective employees.

(1) Educational and employment requirements for child care center director [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1; see also § 100C.211[1][b][i]].

(2) Educational and employment requirements for infant care center director [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415; see also § 100C.211[1][b][ii]].

(3) Educational and employment requirements for assistant infant care center director [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415.1; see also § 100C.211[1][b][ii]].

(4) Educational and employment requirements for school-age care center director [see H&S Code § 1597.21; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515; see also § 100C.211[1][b][iii]].

(5) Educational and employment requirements for child care center teacher [see H&S Code § 1597.055; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1; § 100C.211[1][c][i], [ii]].

(6) Educational and employment requirements for infant care teacher [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2; see also § 100C.211[1][c][i],[iii]].

(7) Educational and employment requirements for school-age day care teacher [see H&S Code § 1597.21; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101516.2; see also § 100C.211[1][c][i],[iv]].

(8) Educational and employment requirements for day care center teacher's aide [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2; see also § 100C.211[1][c][i],[ii]].

(9) Educational and employment requirements for infant care aide [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.3; see also § 100C.211[1][c][i],[iii]].

b. Ensure that adequate personnel are hired to satisfy required staff-children ratios.

(1) Teacher-child ratios for child care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3; see also § 100C.27[2]].

(2) Staff-infant ratios for infant care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.5].

(3) Teacher-child ratios for school-age child care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101516.5].

c. Prepare written employment contracts including:

NOTE:

Written employment contracts with child center employees are not required, but have obvious advantages over oral ones should a dispute arise between employer and employee. For general coverage of employment agreements, and an extensive selection of provisions that may be included in these agreements, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements .

- (1) Names of employer (i.e., child care center's name) and employee.
- (2) Address of center.
- (3) Date employment began.
- (4) Dates of probationary period, if applicable.
- (5) Work hours and salary.
- (6) Description of employees duties.
- (7) Date agreement was signed.
- (8) Signatures of employer (e.g., licensee of child care center) and employee.

d. Prepare statement of personnel policies [see §§ 100C.130, 100C.213].

7. Additional steps to take before initial licensure.

a. Obtain use permit, if applicable.

NOTE:

Many cities require a use permit to either open or expand a child care center. Consequently, counsel should determine whether a use permit is required for the city in which the center will operate.

(1) Apply for permit at city zoning department, which usually involves completing application, submitting physical plans for building, and paying fee.

(2) Prepare for public hearing, if necessary.

NOTE:

Anyone interested in the application can appear at the public hearing and voice their support, concerns, and/or objections. Counsel should prepare for the hearing by addressing common issues such as the need for child care in the area, how a center will benefit the neighborhood, how additional traffic will be dealt with, and what arrangements will be made for parking. Asking city officials before the hearing what neighborhood objections have been raised may help narrow the issues. Additionally, board members should be given a description of the center's programs and any other information that would support the center's position.

b. Obtain insurance [see § 100C.13].

c. Plan advertising campaign.

NOTE:

Advertising a child care center is prohibited until the center is issued a license [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101156].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.121

§ 100C.121 Obtaining Family Child Care Home License

NOTE:

Family child care homes are minimally regulated facilities. To make family child care a more viable day care option, these homes have been exempted from a majority of the licensing regulations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102351.1]. Therefore, family home licenses are generally easier to obtain than child care center licenses.

1. Instruct client/applicant to attend orientation given by Department of Social Services [see H&S Code § 1596.845].
2. Complete and submit required forms.
 - a. Application [Form LIC 279; see § 100C.230[2]].
 - (1) Complete all relevant items.
 - (2) Obtain original signature since signed under penalty of perjury.
 - (3) Specify whether license requested is for small or large family child care home.
 - (4) If large family child care home license is sought, include documentation evidencing that applicant has at least one year's experience as regulated small family child care home operator or as administrator of licensed child care center.

NOTE:

This experience requirement may be waived if the applicant has sufficient qualifying experience [see H&S Code § 1597.52(b)].

- (5) Confirm that required license fee is submitted with application [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102384; see also H&S Code § 1596.803].
- b. Current Children in Your Home list [Form LIC 279B].
- c. Proof that applicant has completed orientation [see P 1, above].
- d. Criminal Record Statement and fingerprints for all required personnel [see § 100C.231 (Form LIC 508); see also § 100C.71[2]].

NOTE:

Before initial licensure, the Department must receive fingerprints from the applicant and all adults residing in the facility, any person who provides care and supervision to the children, and any staff or employee who has contact with the children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(8); see also H&S Code § 1596.871(a)-(c)]. Further, all persons subject to criminal record review must be fingerprinted as a precondition to employment, residence, or initial presence in the home, and must sign a declaration, under penalty of perjury, regarding prior criminal convictions [H&S Code §§ 1596.871(c), 1597.59(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101170(d); see § 100C.231].

A person subject to the fingerprinting requirements must submit fingerprint images and related information to the Department of Justice and the FBI, through the Department of Justice, for a state and federal level criminal offender record search. The Department of Social Services may issue a license before receipt of the FBI criminal record history if the individual in question executes a statement that he or she has never been convicted of a crime other than a traffic infraction [H&S Code § 1596.871(a)(4)(E)].

Neither the Department of Social Services nor the Department of Justice will charge a fee for the fingerprinting of an applicant who will serve six or fewer children or any family child care applicant for a license [see H&S Code § 1596.871(a)(3) (except during the 2008-09 and 2009-10 fiscal years)].

An individual must obtain either a criminal record clearance or a criminal record exemption from the Department of Social Services before he or she is present in a child day care facility [H&S Code § 1696.871].

- e. Emergency Care and Disaster Action Plan [see § 100C.232; see also Form LIC 610A instructions].
- (1) Ensure that alternatives to 911 for emergency service numbers are included, such as police department, poison control center, and hospitals.
 - (2) Ensure that relocation site and alternative relocation site are suitable for number of children in home.
 - (3) Determine whether relocation site requires written agreement to allow children to relocate there during emergency.
 - (4) Attach copy of home's floor plan.
- f. Copy of applicant's signed Statement Acknowledging Requirement To Report Suspected Child Abuse [Form LIC 9108; see § 100C.258].

g. Facility sketch covering home and yard [Form LIC 999A; see § 100C.241[2]].

h. Local Fire Safety Clearance, if care will be provided for in a large family child care home [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 102369(b)(7), 102371; see also H&S Code § 1597.46(e); § 100C.242[2] (Form LIC 9054)].

NOTE:

Small family child care homes must supply evidence that the home contains a fire extinguisher and smoke detector device that meets established standards [H&S Code § 1597.45(d); Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(7)].

i. If applicant is operating on rented or leased property, notify property owner/landlord.

NOTE:

A licensee operating on rented or leased property must maintain proof of control of property in the form of a lease or rental agreement at the home and available for review [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(o)].

j. If applicant applies for capacity of eight children in small home, or 14 children in large home, obtain consent of property owner/landlord.

NOTE:

Such an applicant, and a licensee wishing to increase the capacity of home [see H&S Code §§ 1597.44, 1597.465], must obtain the written consent of the property owner/landlord [H&S Code §§ 1597.44(d), 1597.465(d); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(p)]. The original of the completed and signed consent form must be attached to the facility's license and maintained in the home [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(p)(1)].

k. Evidence of current tuberculosis clearance, not more than one year before or seven days after initial presence in home, for all adults in home during time that children are under care [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(9)].

l. Proof of completion or enrollment in Preventative Health Practices training.

m. Proof of child care experience if applying for large family child care home license.

An announced site visit is required before the initial licensure of a family home [see H&S Code §§ 1597.55a(a), 1597.55b(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102392]. The Department of Social Services provides the Pre-Licensing Readiness Guide to prepare for the initial site visit [Form LIC 9217]. The Guide should not be returned to the licensing agency until the home has met all the listed requirements. When the licensing agency receives the guide, a licensing program analyst will contact the applicant to schedule the initial visit [see Form LIC 9217].

4. Obtain use permit, if applicable [see § 100C.120, P 7].

5. Obtain liability insurance, bond, or, in lieu of insurance or bond, affidavits from each parent with children enrolled in home stating that parent has been informed that home does not carry liability insurance or bond [see H&S Code § 1597.531; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(m),(n); see also §§ 100C.13, 100C.257]:

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.122

§ 100C.122 Operating Child Care Center

NOTE:

Once a child care center has been issued a license, the center must adhere to numerous and detailed continuing requirements. It is the licensee's duty to ensure compliance with all applicable rules and regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101151(b)]. The failure to comply with these requirements subjects the licensee to revocation or suspension of the license and/or the imposition of civil penalties [see H&S Code §§ 1596.885, 1596.98, 1596.99].

1. Follow required admission procedures and prepare all required forms.

a. Conduct one (or more) personal interview(s) with parents in order to [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218.1(a)(2)-(4)]:

(1) Determine child's individual needs and whether these needs can be met by center.

(2) Provide authorized representative with information about center and child abuse prevention pamphlet.

(3) Obtain all necessary information about child including name, birthday, and medical information [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101220, 101220.1, 101221(b); see also § 100C.256].

NOTE:

The information that must be maintained for each child in his or her record is discussed in § 100C.30[3] [see also §§ 100C.140, 100C.225].

(4) Inform each child's authorized representative of rights, including but not limited to right to enter and inspect facility premises [H&S Code § 1596.857(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218.1(b)].

(5) Provide authorized representative with copy of notice of parents' rights form, and obtain each parent's or guardian's signature and date signed on form acknowledging receipt of notice [H&S Code § 1596.857; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101218.1(b),(e); see § 100C.252].

NOTE:

NOTE:

The agreement must require that the authorized representative be given at least 30 calendar days prior written notice of any basic rate change [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(b)(4)]. However, agreements involving children whose care is funded at government-prescribed rates may specify that the effective date of a government rate change will be considered the effective date for basic service rate modifications and that no prior notice is required [22 Cal. NOTE:

An agreement exculpating a child care provider from its own negligence has been held to be void as against public policy [Gavin W. v. YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 662, 671-674, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 168]. This holding suggests that any exculpatory provision must be carefully and narrowly drafted if it is to have any chance of surviving a challenge on public policy grounds (for example, exculpatory clauses involving recreational activities such as swimming or scuba diving have been upheld) [see Randas v. YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 158, 160, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245 (poolside slip-and-fall case); Madison v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 589, 599 250 Cal. Rptr. 299 (scuba class)].

PART IV. FORMS

A. Initial Licensing Forms

1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.200

§ 100C.200 Application for Child Care Center License (LIC 200A)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for a child care center license [LIC 200A]. It is provided by the Department of Social Services and must be filed with the Department serving the geographical area in which the facility is located [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(f)]. This form should be used only by applicants for child care center licensure [see H&S Code § 1596.76; see also § 100C.10[2]]. Applicants seeking a license to operate a family child care home [see H&S Code § 1596.78] must complete a different application [see § 100C.230]. However, applicants for licensure of a combination child care center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(10) ("combination center" defined)] may file a single application [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(a)(1)]. The application should be prepared in duplicate, and the original submitted to the Department [see LIC 200A instructions]. For a step by step procedural guide to completing the application and related documents, see § 100C.120.

This form must be used in any of the following situations:

- Initial licensure [H&S Code § 1596.95; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(a)].
- Any change in the child care center category, other than the proposed addition of a toddler component to an existing preschool or infant care program.
- The sale or transfer of a majority of the licensee's stock.
- The licensee separates from a parent company, or merges with another company.
- A change in the licensee.

- Whenever an applicant fails to complete an application within the requisite time period after receipt of notice that his or her application is incomplete [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101185(d); see § 100C.22[1]].

[b] Licensure Required

No person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation may operate, establish, manage, conduct, or maintain a child care center without a current valid license [H&S Code § 1596.80]. The unauthorized operation of a child care center may lead to civil and criminal proceedings, injunctive actions, and the immediate levying of civil penalties [see H&S Code §§ 1596.89, 1596.891; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101157]. Any person 18 years of age or over may apply for a license regardless of age, sex, race, religion, color, political affiliation, national origin, disability, marital status, or sexual orientation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101168].

[c] Required Contents and Supporting Documentation for Application

The application packet includes Section A forms, which are preprinted and available from the Department, and a list of Section B forms that must accompany the application. The Department also provides a supplemental application pamphlet with instructions for completing these forms. However, the Department may require additional information and documentation [see H&S Code § 1596.95(h)], and the applicant must cooperate with the Department in providing the verification and/or requested documents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(c)]. The failure to cooperate, by not providing required information or by not providing the information in proper form, will result in the denial of the application [H&S Code § 1596.95(i)].

The application must include the name and address of the facility, the name, residence, and mailing address of the applicant, and, if the applicant is leasing or renting, the name and address of the owner of the facility premises [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(d)(1)-(3)]. If the applicant is a partnership, the supporting documents must include a copy of the partnership agreement and all documents governing the partnership and the name and principal business address of each partner [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101169(d)(2)(A); see §§ 100C.201, 100C.203]. 32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.204

§ 100C.204 Monthly Operating Statement (LIC 401)

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 401, is a monthly operating statement that must be submitted by each applicant for day care center licensure. Together with the other financial forms [see §§ 100C.204A, 100C.205, 100C.205A, 100C.206], these documents provide financial information to the Department to evaluate the applicant's overall financial status and to determine whether the applicant has sufficient financial resources to operate the center and meet expenses. The form is available from the Department.

When completing this form, also referred to as the estimated monthly operating budget, it is important to establish that the program will at least break even financially. The applicant must ensure that the number of clients corresponds with requested capacity and that the stated rent amount corresponds with the lease or rental agreement. The statement must indicate all operating costs, which must be reasonable. For example, reasonable salaries must provide for at least the minimum wage. Fringe benefits should be calculated at 25 percent of salary, or the statement should explain why fringe benefits are not applicable. If other income is available to fund the center, it must be clear and documented [see Form LIC 401 supplemental instructions]. Additional documentation is required [see Form LIC 401a, not reproduced here], and a profit and loss statement must be submitted for other business operations [see Form LIC 401 instructions].

Original signatures are required because the form is signed under penalty of perjury. The failure to sign, date, and attest to the accuracy of the reported information constitutes noncompliance and will cause the statement to be rejected [see Form LIC 401 instructions].

Applicants must also file a supplemental financial information form [see § 100C.204A].

§ 100C.204A Supplemental Financial Information (LIC 401a)

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 401a, requires the disclosure of additional financial information and must be submitted by each applicant for licensure. Together with the other financial forms [see §§ 100C.204, 100C.205, 100C.206], these documents provide financial information so that the Department can evaluate the applicant's overall financial status and determine whether the applicant has sufficient resources to operate the center and meet expenses.

Each applicant must submit this form, completing Part II. Sole proprietorships must also complete Part I. Each general partner must submit a personal form, completing both parts. The form must also include information at the top of the form to identify (1) the reporting period for the information; (2) the name of the sole proprietor, partner, general partnership, or corporation for whom the information applies; (3) the facility name; and (4) the application or license number [see Form LIC 401a instructions].

The applicant or licensee must sign and date this form and attest to the accuracy of the financial information stated. 1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.205

§ 100C.205 Balance Sheet (LIC 403)

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 403, is a balance sheet, also referred to as a financial statement, that must be submitted by each applicant for licensure. Together with the other financial forms that must be submitted in connection with the application, [see §§ 100C.204, 100C.204A, 100C.205A, 100C.206], these documents provide financial information to the Department to evaluate the applicant's overall financial status and to determine whether the applicant has sufficient financial resources to operate the center and meet expenses. The form is available from the Department.

This form is designed to provide information concerning the assets and liabilities concerning all of the applicant's activities, not just those related to the child care center. Realistic estimates must be provided, including credit card balances and income and expenses of other businesses. Life insurance amount must be the cash value or surrender value rather than face value for life insurance. If the applicant is sole owner of real property, the form should state the appraised value of property; however, if the applicant is a partnership or corporation, the cost of the real property must be used, not appraised value. Further, the funds or assets must be readily available to the center, that is, not dependent on the sale or transfer of stock or other personal property [see Form LIC 403 supplemental instructions].

If a center will be operated by a husband or wife individually, the information reported must pertain to both, such as individual credit card balances that are listed solely under one name or under both as husband and wife. Such balances may be unrelated to the center's actual operation, or to the person who will actually operate the center [see Form LIC 403 instructions].

If a center will be operated by a partnership, the partners must file this form on behalf of the partnership. In addition, each general partner must file a personal balance sheet to reflect their individual financial position [see Form LIC 403 instructions].

Original signatures are required because the form is signed under penalty of perjury. The failure to sign, date, and attest to the accuracy of the reported information constitutes noncompliance and will cause the statement to be rejected [see Form LIC 403 instructions].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 403a, is a worksheet to be used in compiling the detailed financial information that is then totaled and displayed on the balance sheet form. Accordingly, this form must be completed before completing the balance sheet [see Forms LIC 403 and LIC 403a instructions; see also § 100C.205]. If the applicant or licensee files more than one balance sheet, an additional LIC 403a must be completed.

The form must also include the following information at the top of the page: (1) the current date; (2) the entity's name for whom the information is being reported; and (3) the facility name to identify [see Form LIC 403a instructions]. The effective date for the information should be the most current date possible, and must be the same as the date on the balance sheet [see Form LIC 403a instructions].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 404, is a financial information release and verification form. Together with the other financial forms that must be submitted along with the application [see §§ 100C.204, 100C.205], these documents provide financial information to the Department to evaluate the applicant's overall financial status and to determine whether the applicant has sufficient financial resources to operate the day care center and meet expenses. In particular, this form is used to verify approximately three months of operating budget. A verifiable line of credit from a reputable financial institution is acceptable for start-up funds if the credit is readily accessible [see Form LIC 404 supplemental instructions]. The form is available from the Department.

The applicant must complete Section 1 and return the form to the Department, which, in turn, will forward the form to the relevant financial institution. The verification must be sent by the financial institution directly to the Department; the licensee may not hand carry the verification [see Form LIC 404 supplemental instructions].

Separate forms are required for each bank or financial institution with which the applicant does business [see Form LIC 404 supplemental instructions].

1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.209

§ 100C.209 Health Screening Report--Facility Personnel (LIC 503)

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 503, is a health screening report available from the Department. The day care center completes the first portion, which identifies the center and the subject to the screening. The subject completes the middle portion, which authorizes the release of medical information. The third portion is prepared by the physician or under the direction of the physician [see Form LIC 503 instructions].

All center personnel, including the licensee, the administrator, and volunteers, must be in good health, and physically, mentally, and occupationally capable of performing their assigned tasks. The physical health of all staff members, except volunteers, must be verified by a health screening examination, including a test for tuberculosis, performed by or under the supervision of a physician, not more than one year before or seven days after employment or licensure [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(1); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(2) (contents)]. However, if the applicant has other licensed facilities, or the director has worked at another facility with the same licensee, and an exam is on file, a new health exam is not required unless obvious health problems exist [see Form LIC 503 supplemental instructions]. The good physical health of volunteers must be verified by a signed statement affirming that the volunteer is in good health and a test for tuberculosis must have been performed not more than one year before or seven days after the volunteer's initial presence in the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(g)(3)].

If the applicant is a corporation, a health screening and tuberculosis clearance is required for the board president, chief executive officer, or person designated by the board resolution [see Form LIC 503 supplemental instructions].

The report must be signed and dated by a qualified medical professional. Signatures may not be photocopied [see Form LIC 503 supplemental instructions].

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART IV. FORMS

A. Initial Licensing Forms

1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.210

§ 100C.210 Emergency Disaster Plan (LIC 610)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, Department of Social Services Form LIC 610, is an emergency disaster plan. It is provided by the Department and must be completed and maintained by each licensee of a child care center to enable the center to handle any emergency that may arise and to protect the safety and well being of each child [H&S Code § 1596.95(f); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(a)]. A separate form is required for each child care component [see Form LIC 610 supplemental instructions]. This form is not to be used by licensees of family child care homes. Family child care homes are also required to have similar disaster plans but the Department provides a different form for these facilities [see § 100C.232].

As indicated on the form, a copy of the form must be posted in a prominent location in the facility near a telephone. Further, the licensee is responsible for keeping the plan current.

[b] Required Contents of Plan

Each child care center's plan is subject to review by the Department. The plan includes a designation of administrative authority and staff assignments; contingency plans for action during an emergency, such as a fire safety plan, providing exit locations, emergency names and telephone numbers; and temporary relocation sites away from the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(b)(1),(2)(A),(B),(D)]. The relocation sites must be equipped to provide safe temporary accommodations for children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(b)(2)(D)]. If use of the relocation site requires an agreement from some other person, this agreement should be verified in writing [see Form LIC 610 supplemental instructions] and a copy kept in the center's files.

The plan must also be accompanied by a floor plan of the facility indicating the facility exits and utility shut-off locations. Furthermore, the plan must include arrangements for the transportation of children during an emergency, the supervision of children during an evacuation or relocation, and for contact after relocation to ensure that relocation has been completed as planned; if applicable, the plan must address any special methods or procedures needed for the evacuation and relocation of nonambulatory children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(b)(2)(C)-(E), (3)]. Finally the plan must state the means of contacting local agencies, including the fire department, law enforcement agencies, and civil defense and other disaster authorities [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(b)(2)(F)].

[c] Instruction and Drill Requirements

The licensee is responsible for instructing all children, age and abilities permitting, and child care personnel, including volunteers, in their duties and responsibilities under the plan [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(c)]. Disaster drills must be conducted at least every six months. The completion of these drills does not require travel away from the center premises or contact with local disaster agencies. The drills must be documented and the documentation maintained in the center's files for at least one year [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101174(d)].

[d] Earthquake Preparedness Checklist

Every child care center must include an Earthquake Preparedness Checklist (LIC 9148) as an attachment to its emergency disaster plan. This checklist must be made accessible to the public at the center. However, this checklist is not a requirement for obtaining or maintaining a license for a child care center, and the Department is not responsible for enforcing any component of the checklist or ensuring public accessibility [H&S Code § 1596.867(a)].

A sample checklist is available from the Department. However, centers may prepare their own, provided that the checklist does not exceed two typewritten pages [H&S Code § 1596.867(b) (licensee may select from suggested procedures)].

A. Initial Licensing Forms

1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.211

§ 100C.211 Verification of Director's Teaching Experience

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a verification of a child care center director's qualifications. The director's experience as a teacher under the supervision of a person who would qualify as a director must be verified as having been performed satisfactorily [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(h),(l)]. The form is suited for licensees who need to verify the teaching experience of a director that they wish to hire for a child care center [see [b][i], [d], below]. The form can be adapted to verify the necessary work experience of directors of specialized programs and of teachers and teacher aides [see [b][ii]-[iv], [c], [d], below].

[b] Qualification Requirements for Directors

[i] Child Care Centers

To qualify as a director, the individual must first meet the qualification requirements of an administrator [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215]. Specifically, he or she must meet the following criteria [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215(a)]:

- Be 18 years or older.
- Know the requirements for providing the type of care and supervision needed by children, including being able to communicate with children.
- Know and be able to comply with applicable laws and regulations.
- Be able to maintain or supervise maintenance of financial and other records.

- Be able to establish the center's policy, program, and budget.
- Be able to recruit, employ, train, direct, and evaluate qualified staff.
- Be able to terminate staff members.

Child care center directors must also meet specific educational and employment qualifications [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(h)-(k),(m)]. Before employment, directors must have completed one of the following [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(h)(1)-(4)]:

- High school graduation or GED, plus 15 semester units or equivalent quarter units in early childhood education at an accredited or approved college or university (three units must be in administration or staff relations and 12 units in courses in general areas of child or human growth and development, child and family (or family and community), and program or curriculum), and at least four years of teaching in a licensed child care center or comparable group child care program;
- An AA degree from an accredited or approved college or university with a major or emphasis in early childhood education or child development (with three semester units or equivalent quarter units in administration or staff relations), and at least two years of teaching experience in a licensed child care center or comparable group child care program;
- A bachelor's degree from an accredited or approved college or university with a major or emphasis in early childhood education or child development (with three semester units or equivalent quarter units in administration or staff relations), and at least one year of teaching experience in a licensed child care center or comparable group child care program; or
- A Child Development Site Supervisor Permit or a Child Development Program Director Permit issued by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing.

Approved schools, colleges, or universities, and correspondence courses they may offer, are institutions that are approved or authorized by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Postsecondary Education, or by the California Department of Consumer Affairs, Bureau for Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(i); see Educ. Code § 94700 et seq.]. Accredited schools, colleges, or universities, and correspondence courses they may offer, are institutions accredited by either the Accrediting Commission, Distance Education and Training Council, the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, Accrediting Bureau of Health Education Schools, association of Independent Colleges and Schools, or the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(j)]. Units earned through correspondence courses from approved or accredited institutions are accepted for meeting the above educational requirements [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(k)].

[ii] Infant Care Centers

In addition to the requirements imposed on child care center directors [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1], directors of infant care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(i)(3) ("infant care center director" defined); see also § 100C.35[2]], must meet other qualification requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415]. Specifically, the teaching experience requirements for child care center directors [see [i], above] must be completed in an infant care center or comparable group child care program dealing with children under five years of age [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415(b)], and at least three of the required course units must be related to the care of infants [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415(c)].

If an infant care center has 25 or more infants, an assistant director must be present and on duty [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415.1(a); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(a)(4) ("assistant infant care center director" defined)]. Assistant infant care directors work under direction and supervision of the director [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415.1(b)(2)(B); and must also meet qualification requirements, such as being a fully qualified infant care teacher and successfully completing specific course requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101415.1(b); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2 (infant care teacher qualifications)].

[iii] School-Age Child Care Centers

In addition to the requirements imposed on child care center directors [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1], school-age child care center directors [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(s)(2) ("school-age child care center" defined); see also § 100C.35[3]], are subject to other requirements [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515(a)]. Although all school-age child care centers must have a director [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515(b)], combination programs that have a school-age child day care center component [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(10) ("combination center" defined)] do not need a separate director; the director of the child care center must maintain ultimate responsibility for the combined program and provide direct supervision and guidance [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515(b)(1)]. Additionally, in a combination program, the director must designate a fully qualified teacher for the school-age child care center component [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515(b)(1)(A); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101516.2; see also [c][iv], below]. Moreover, alternative educational prerequisites exist for directors of school-age child care centers [see H&S Code § 1597.21; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101515(c)].

[iv] Center for Mildly Ill Children

In addition to the requirements imposed on child care center directors, infant care center directors, and school-age child care center directors [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101215.1, 101415, 101515], directors of Level I or Level II child care centers for mildly ill children must meet additional educational requirements [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101615(a),(b)]. Directors must complete three postsecondary or equivalent quarter units in the identification, transmission, control, and care of common childhood illnesses and communicable diseases at an approved or accredited college or university and 15 hours of health and safety training [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101615(b)(1); see [d], below]. Alternative educational prerequisites exist for physicians, physician's assistants, registered nurses, and license vocational nurses seeking to qualify as a director [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101615(b)(2)]. In a combination program with a Level I or II component, a separate director is not required for each component; however, the director must designate a fully qualified teacher for the Level I or II component [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101615(e)].

[c] Qualification and Duty Requirements for Teachers and Aides

[i] In General

A teacher's experience must be verified as having been performed in a satisfactory manner under a staff member who would qualify as a teacher or director [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(c)(1)(B),(2)(C)]. Verifications are also required for teacher's aides who are less than 18 years old [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2(c)] and infant care teachers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(c)(2)(A)]. In addition to verification of work experience, a photocopy of teacher's transcripts documenting successful completion of the educational requirements must be maintained at the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(g)].

[ii] Child Care Centers

Teachers at child care centers must meet specific educational and employment qualifications [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1]. Before employment, teachers must have completed at least six semester units or equivalent quarter units of the educational requirements, and after employment the teacher must properly complete at least two units each semester or quarter until the educational requirement is met [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(b)(1)]. The educational and employment requirements are satisfied by completion or obtainment of any one of the following [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(c)(1)-(3); but see H&S Code § 1597.055 (conditions for hiring teachers who have not yet obtained full educational and employment qualifications]):

- Twelve postsecondary semester units or equivalent quarter units in early childhood education or child development completed with passing grades at an accredited or approved college or university [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(e),(f)], including courses covering general areas of child or human growth and development, child, family and/or community, and program or curriculum, and at least six months of work experience in a licensed child care center or comparable group child care program. This experience must be verified as having been performed in a satisfactory manner, at least three hours per day for a minimum of 50 days in a six-month period, as a paid or volunteer staff member under the supervision of a person who would qualify as a teacher or director.
- A current and valid Child Development Associate (CDA) credential with the appropriate age level endorsement issued by the CDA National Credentialing Program, and at least six months of on-the-job training and/or work experience in a licensed child care center or comparable group child care program. This experience must be verified as having been performed satisfactorily, at least three hours per day for a minimum of 50 days in a six-month period, as a paid or volunteer staff member under the supervision of a person who would qualify as a teacher or director.
- A Children's Development Associate Teacher Permit, Child Development Teacher Permit, or Child Development Master Teacher Permit issued by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing.

The educational requirements set out above do not apply to teachers who were employed as teachers before May 1, 1970. A teacher employed before this date meets the qualification requirements if there was no break in their employment as a teacher at a child care center for more than three consecutive years [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(h)].

Child care centers may use teacher aides to assist teachers in performing their duties if the aide is under the direct supervision of the teacher [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2(e)]. Teacher aides can also be used to satisfy teacher-child ratios [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3(b), § 101216.2(d)]. To work as an aide, the person must satisfy minimal postsecondary educational requirements [see H&S Code § 1597.059(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2(d)]. Aides who are younger than 18 years old must provide verification that they are either high school graduates or currently participating in an occupational program conducted by an accredited high school or college [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.2(b),(c)]. Each teacher must visually observe aides under his or her supervision whenever the aide is working with children [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.1(j)].

Teachers may not be required to perform housekeeping or maintenance duties that prevent them from performing duties related to providing care and supervision, and persons employed for clerical, housekeeping, and maintenance functions may not be included as teachers in the teacher-child ratio [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216.3(g),(h)].

[iii] Infant Care Centers

Before employment, infant care teachers must have completed, with passing grades, at least three postsecondary semester units or equivalent quarter units in early childhood education or child development, and three postsecondary semester or equivalent quarter units related to the care of infants, at an accredited or approved college or university [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(b)]. After employment, a teacher who has not completed the required course work must complete at least two units each semester or quarter until the educational requirement is met [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(b)].

To be a fully qualified infant care teacher, the teacher must successfully complete 12 postsecondary semester or equivalent quarter units in early childhood education or child development at an accredited or approved college or university (at least three of which are related to the care of infants or contain instruction specific to infants), and have at least six months experience in a licensed infant care center or comparable group child care program for children under five years of age. This experience must be verified as having been performed in a satisfactory manner at least three hours per day for a minimum of 50 days in a six-month period, as a paid or volunteer staff member under the supervision of a person who would qualify as a teacher or director [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(c)]. A photocopy of each teacher's postsecondary transcript documenting completion of the required course work must be maintained on file at the center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(d)].

Further, if required under H&S Code § 1596.866 [see § 100C.27[2][c]], infant care teachers must complete 15 hours of prescribed health and safety training [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(g); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101215.1(m)(1)].

Infant care teachers must provide, under the supervision of the director and assistant director, direct care and supervision of infants at the center, and visually observe aides whenever aides are working with infants [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.2(e),(f)]. Aides may work at infant care centers if they (1) are under the direct supervision of the director, assistant director, or fully qualified teacher, (2) provide direct care and supervision of infants, and (3) participate in on-the-job training programs [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101416.3; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101216(e)].

[iv] School-Age Child Care Centers

Teachers at school-age child care centers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(s)(2) ("school-age child care centers" defined); see also 100C.35[3]] must ordinarily satisfy the educational requirements imposed on child care center teachers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101216.1, 101516.2(a); see also [ii], above]. However, teachers may use alternative means to satisfy these requirements, such as substituting 12 units or 240 training hours in any combination of the following [H&S Code § 1597.21(d); see H&S Code § 1597.21(e),(f) (additional alternatives); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101516.2(b),(d)]:

- Recreation, including art, music, and dance.
- Physical education, including indoor and outdoor sports activities.
- Human services and social welfare, including nursing, psychology, sociology, and home economics.
- Units earned toward an elementary or middle school teaching credential.
- Early childhood education, child development, or school-age child units.

In a combination center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(10) ("combination center" defined)], a fully qualified child care center teacher must be designated to work closely with the director in planning the daily activities of the school-age child care component. The designated teacher must maintain responsibility for the overall operation of the school-age center component under the direction and supervision of the director of the child care center component [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101516.2(e)].

[v] Center for Mildly Ill Children

In addition to the requirements imposed on child care center teachers, infant care center teachers, and school-age child care center teachers [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101216, 101216.1, 101416.2, 101516.2], teachers at centers for mildly ill children [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101552(c)(10)] must complete three postsecondary or equivalent quarter units in the identification, transmission, control, and care of common childhood illnesses and communicable diseases, and three postsecondary or equivalent quarter units in early childhood education or child development, at an approved or accredited college or university, plus 15 hours of health and safety training [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101616.2(a)-(c); see [d], below].

In a combination center [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101152(c)(10) ("combination center" defined)], a fully qualified child care center teacher must be designated to work closely with the director in planning the daily activities of the Level I or Level II component. The designated teacher must maintain responsibility for the overall operation of that component under the direction and supervision of the director of the child care center component [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101616.2(e)].

[d] Health and Safety Training

At least one director or teacher at each child care center must have at least 15 hours of health and safety training including pediatric first aid, pediatric cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), and a preventative health practices course or courses that include instruction in the recognition, management, and prevention of infectious diseases, including immunizations, and prevention of childhood injuries [H&S Code § 1596.866(a)(1),(2)]. This training may include instruction in sanitary food handling, child nutrition, emergency preparedness and evacuation, caring for children with special needs, and identification and reporting of signs and symptoms of child abuse [H&S Code § 1596.866(a)(3)]. The completion of health and safety training is a condition of licensure, and pediatric first aid and pediatric CPR training must be current at all times [H&S Code § 1596.866(c)(1),(2); see H&S Code § 1596.866(c)(3) (90-day, nonrenewable provisional license)].

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.213

§ 100C.213 Personnel Policies

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form sets forth sample personnel policies for a child care center. These policies are intended to ensure that the staff have a clear understanding of the expectations of the center, and the benefits due them from their employment. It is a Section B form that must be submitted with the application.

This form states the general conditions of employment, such as preemployment screening, work schedules, vacation time, sick leave, compensation, retirement, training, health plans, and other benefits offered. These policies must also describe the regulatory requirements commonly associated with personnel practices, such as staff coverage, staff qualification, work schedules, and conditions of employment [see Supplemental Application Information].

[2] FORM

Personnel Policies

Personnel Policies

All staff employees are expected to conduct themselves in a professional, competent manner at all times. The primary concern of each and every employee is the health and safety of all children in care at the center. Teachers in particular are expected to be with the children and accessible to their needs. Staff members are prohibited from using foul or abusive language around or to the children.

Anti-Discrimination Policy

The Center will not discriminate against any staff based on age, sex, race, religion, color, political affiliation, national origin, disability, marital status, or sexual orientation.

Preemployment Screening

The Center will screen applicants to verify the requisite education and experience. The Center will advise each prospective employee the employment preconditions include a fingerprint and criminal record clearance, a medical clearance including a tuberculosis clearance, a physical examination and health questionnaire, and a child abuse index check.

Employee Rights

The Center will inform all employees of their rights. Further, the Center will inform each employee of his or her obligations to report suspected child abuse to the Department and to the child protection agency. The Center will retain documentation that all employees were informed of their rights and the abuse reporting procedures.

Teachers must call in when ill by 7:45 A.M. so that arrangements can be made to obtain a substitute teacher. No staff member will be allowed to work if sick.

Teachers are encouraged to have lunch while the children eat, but if other staff are available to properly supervise the children, each teacher may take a 45-minute lunch break on his or her own. Teachers are also entitled to two 15-minute breaks during the day. However, breaks may only be taken if sufficient staff are available to supervise the children.

Vacation Time and Sick Leave

The director is entitled to three weeks vacation per year. Each teacher is entitled to two weeks vacation per year. Vacation times must be planned well in advance so that adequate substitutes can be obtained.

Each staff member is entitled to one-half day of sick leave per month.

Health Plan

Each employee is entitled to join the health plan offered by the Center.

Pay Provisions and Employee Evaluations

All staff members are paid on the first and fifteenth of the month.

All employees are to be evaluated once every two months. The evaluations are to be conducted by the director. Employees may be entitled to certain benefits, such as pay increases and bonuses, depending on results of the evaluations.

Termination

The termination of any staff member requires 30 days notice. However, conditions for immediate termination from employment include any mental, verbal, or physical abuse of any child in care, violation of our disciplinary rules, two poor evaluations in a six-month period, violation of any applicable licensing law that affects the health and safety of any child in care, or being under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs while working with the children.

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.215

§ 100C.215 Facility Program Description

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a facility program description that sets forth a general overview of the philosophies, goals, and objectives of the program and outlines the services to be provided by the center. It is a Section B form that must be submitted with the application.

This form contains many components that are covered in other statements and center documents. The applicant should review all Section A and Section B forms to ensure consistency before submitting the application packet.

Facility Program Description

[Child care center letterhead]

Program Description

Our mission is to provide a physically and emotionally safe and nurturing environment for children to grow and learn about themselves, their peers, and the world. We focus on the differing needs of children depending on their particular stage of development. We place special emphasis on the social and emotional development of our children, particularly conflict resolution and emotional intelligence. We also emphasize a structured environment for the children that consists primarily of providing the same caregivers each day and adhering to a daily schedule (see daily schedule, below).

Our program is designed to provide a safe, warm, stimulating, and fun place for children to grow and learn outside of their home. We believe that to be an effective environment for learning we need to be respectful of the individual child, his or her family, and cultural background. We celebrate the multiplicity of the human family. We actively support each child's unique self and encourage their place as the primary agent of their own learning and growth.

Health and safety standards regarding all aspects of the children's care are strictly observed. We are periodically inspected by Community Care Licensing and copies of the licensing reports are available for your review. The location and telephone number of the office responsible for the Department of this facility is _____[address and phone number of Department].

Our center will inform parents, children, and employees of their rights under the law, including personal rights, inspection rights, and complaint procedures.

Weekly menus are posted on the wall in the kitchen for parents to review. Before admission of any child, the parent must inform us of any foods to which his or her child is allergic.

Admission Policies and Procedures

Our center accepts all children within the required age range for admission. We serve children aged three and above who are toilet trained, up to the time that they are enrolled in kindergarten. The center is equipped to care for children with physical or emotional disabilities, depending on the extent of the disability. To ensure that we can meet a child's special needs, prior to admission we will request a complete social, psychological, and/or medical assessment of the child. In all cases, before we admit a child, we require a personal meeting with a parent to discuss the child's needs, how our facility can meet those needs, and other records and information that we will need. We also request to meet with the child. Further, before any child can be admitted to the center, the parents must provide a record showing that immunizations are completed and up to date, and evidence that a physical examination and tuberculosis test has been done within 30 days of the child's admission.

Our center offers a variety of educational and recreational activities (see schedule above), quiet activities, and snacks and meals. At least twice a week we walk to the park on Main Street where we spend approximately one hour in the large playground there. Additionally, once a month we try to take the children on a field trip to the zoo, beach, or another appropriate location. Transportation for these trips is provided by us as we have two large vans equipped with safety equipment and seat belts. Parents are given ample notice of any intended trip, and will be requested to sign and return a permission slip.

Parents are required to drop their children off in the morning and pick them up in the afternoon. Unless otherwise agreed, we do not provide transportation arrangements for any child in care. Parents are required to comply with our sign-in and sign-out procedures.

Staff Members: Qualifications and Duties

Our staff consists of one director, four teachers, and two volunteers. Our director is responsible for the general operation of the center, which includes supervising all other staff members, observing the children, keeping the center's records in order, communicating with the Department, and contacting parents whenever a problem arises. The director also assists in teaching responsibilities and is on the center premises at all times. Our director, teachers and volunteers all meet or exceed state requirements for their positions.

Rate-Setting Policy and Policy on Refunds

Admission fees are based on the needs of the child on a per day basis. That is, fees are charged depending on the number of days per month the child attends the facility and whether the child requires special care and supervision in addition to the ordinary care and supervision provided. Rates are the same for all children and are generally not negotiable.

Refunds may be provided up until the child has completed his or her first month at the facility, but only after the parent and the facility director have discussed the reasons for withdrawing the child from the facility and the director believes a refund is appropriate. Further details of the fee arrangement and refund policy are discussed in the admission agreement.

PART IV. FORMS

A. Initial Licensing Forms

1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.216

§ 100C.216 Discipline Policies

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a statement of a child care center's disciplinary rules. A discipline statement defines the center's philosophy regarding the purposes of discipline, informs the parents of the manner in which the center will discipline their children, and provides a framework for training staff. This form is a Section B form that must be submitted with the application. The Department will evaluate the discipline policies to ensure that they do not violate the personal rights of children. If the Department has reason to believe that the applicant lacks a clear understanding of what constitutes corporal punishment, or the statements are unclear, the Department may request additional information [see Supplemental Application Information, B8].

The statement should clearly state the techniques of discipline that are used and not used, and under what conditions each type will be used. Further, the statement should clearly prohibit corporal punishment and other forms of intimidating and humiliating discipline [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 101223(a)(3), 101223.2]. Finally, the statement should provide for meetings and conferences with the children's authorized representative and specify grounds for dismissal or relocation from the center or a component of the center [see Supplemental Application Information, B7].

[2] FORM

Discipline Policies

Our center believes that children find security and direction when there is consistent adult guidance and discipline. Children explore, observe, feel, interact, and learn through interaction with people and their world. All behaviors, even disruptive ones, are learned; children need to know what we expect from them before they can meet our expectations. We expect our teachers to serve as models for appropriate behavior and to use constructive and preventative methods of discipline.

Therefore, our center believes that proper discipline is an essential element in a child's development. The disciplinary policy that we have developed is intended to protect each child and help him or her learn acceptable behavior. Each staff member has been fully instructed in our policy and rules, will follow them, and will help your child to understand and follow them. Our general policy is discipline with love and acceptance. Additionally, we will not allow behavior to continue if it appears that your child will hurt himself or herself or others around him or her, or that property will be damaged. In implementing this policy there are certain practices we will and will not use.

Disciplinary Practices We Will Not Use:NO CORPORAL PUNISHMENT*NO VIOLATION OF CHILDREN'S PERSONAL RIGHTS

No staff member is allowed to use any corporal punishment, which is defined as the use of negative physical touching. Examples include spanking, hitting, slapping, or pinching; pulling hair, arms, or ears; or lifting a child against his or her will for a punitive reason. Staff members are also strictly prohibited from using any practice that inflicts pain, humiliates, intimidates, ridicules, coerces, or threatens physical or mental abuse on any child in care. Additionally, staff members are not allowed to use for punitive purposes any techniques related to interfering with a child's daily living functions, such as preventing a child from eating, sleeping, taking medication, or going to the bathroom.

No staff member may use prone containment or similar disciplinary techniques, except as a last resort emergency physical control technique designed to prevent injury to bystanders, the assaulting child, other children, or staff.

None of these prohibited disciplinary practices may be included in a child's needs and services plan. Further, authorized representatives, parents, or guardians may not consent to the use of these prohibited disciplinary practices.

Disciplinary Practices We Will Use:

1. Prevention. Teachers will plan ahead for possible areas of conflict and ensure that children know that there are sufficient toys and snacks, that everyone will have a turn, and that everyone knows the basic rules of the center.
2. Ignoring negative behavior if that behavior is trivial.
3. Distracting child's attention from the disruptive behavior by directing the child to some other acceptable activity or toy.
4. Emphasizing words over physical actions. Children often express themselves by physical behavior, not talking, and this can lead to one child hurting another unintentionally.
5. Talking with the child alone, not in front of others, to explain why his or her behavior is unacceptable. Additionally, discussing with the child what the potential consequences are if the negative behavior persists.
6. Talking out conflicts. If a child hurts another child, after comforting the hurt child, the teacher will sit down with both children and help each put their thoughts and emotions into words. The teacher will not show favoritism and will maintain a calm demeanor.

If several attempts at positive discipline have failed, the teacher will inform the director. If the unacceptable behavior continues, the director will contact the child's authorized representative to discuss the matter and may schedule a conference. If the director and teacher conclude that the child may require additional professional guidance, the director must schedule a conference. The center reserves the right to dismiss a child (and require the child's immediate removal from the center) when, in the opinion of the center, the child's needs can no longer be met at the center.

CHAPTER 100C CHILD CARE FACILITIES

PART IV. FORMS

A. Initial Licensing Forms

1. Child Care Centers

32-100C California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 100C.220

§ 100C.220 Admission Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a contract between a child care center and the child's "authorized representative" (parent or guardian) for the care of a child at the center. Generally this type of agreement is a printed form with blank spaces for filling in information specific to each individual contract. This form is drafted in that format.

Individual admission agreements must be completed and maintained for each child attending a child care center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(a)], and a sample admission agreement must be submitted with the plan of operation as part of the initial licensure process [see Application booklet instructions; see also § 100C.200]. When signed by the parent and the licensee of a child care center, the admission agreement obligates the parties to a periodic agreement for child care.

The admission agreement must be signed and dated by the parent or authorized representative of the child, and by the licensee or his or her representative, no later than seven calendar days following the child's admission to the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(c)]. Modifications to the original agreement are required whenever circumstances covered in the agreement change and must be signed and dated [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(d)]. The original of the agreement must be retained by the licensee, and a copy of the agreement must be provided to the parent and/or authorized representative of the child [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(e)]. The licensee must comply with all terms and conditions of the admission agreement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(f)]. The agreement automatically terminates on the death of the child, and no liability or debt can accrue after the date of death [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(g)].

This form can also be used for family child care homes, even though the law does not require a written agreement for day care in family child care homes. Written agreements can be very useful for family child care operators by serving as a record of the terms of the agreement to which both parents and operators may refer from time to time, and by setting forth the necessary details of services provided, fees, and other agreements that might be overlooked in an oral agreement.

[b] Required Contents of Agreement

Admission agreements must specify the following data [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101219(b); see Supplemental Application Information, B9; see also § 100C.130, P 9]:

- Basic services provided by the center.
- Available optional services.
- Payment provisions, including the basic rate charged, optional service rates, the payor, dates payments are due, and the frequency of payments.
- Modification conditions, including a provision that the center give written notice to the parent or authorized representative of any basic rate change, at least 30 calendar days before the change.
- Refund conditions.
- The right of the Department to interview children and staff without prior consent; inspect, audit, and copy child or child care center records on demand during normal business hours; remove records if necessary for copying; and observe children's physical condition [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 101200(b)-(d)].
- Conditions under which the agreement may be terminated.

[c] Use of Exculpatory Provisions

This agreement does not contain any provisions limiting the liability of the day care center. Some agreements have included such limitations. However, an agreement exculpating a child care provider from its own negligence has been held to be void as against public policy [Gavin W. v. YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles (2003) 106 Cal. App. 4th 662, 671-674, 131 Cal. Rptr. 2d 168] . This holding suggests that any exculpatory provision must be carefully and narrowly drafted if it is to have any chance of surviving a challenge on public policy grounds. For example, exculpatory clauses involving recreational activities such as swimming or scuba diving have been upheld [see Randas v. YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 158, 160, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 245 (poolside slip-and-fall case); Madison v. Superior Court (1988) 203 Cal. App. 3d 589, 599 250 Cal. Rptr. 2d 299 (scuba class)].

§ 100C.230 Application for Family Child Care Home License (LIC 279)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for a family child care home license. It is provided by the Department of Social Services (Form LIC 279) and must be fully completed and filed with the appropriate Department [H&S Code § 1597.54; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(a)]. The form should be used only by applicants for large or small family child care homes [see H&S Code § 1596.78 ("family child care home" defined); see also § 100C.10[2]]. Applicants seeking a license to operate a child care center [see H&S Code § 1596.76 ("child care center" defined)], must complete a different application [see § 100C.200].

This form may be used to seek initial licensure, when a licensed home changes locations, and when the licensee seeks to change the home's capacity [see Form LIC 279 instructions].

[b] Licensure Required

No person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation may operate, establish, manage, conduct, or maintain a family child care home without a current valid license [H&S Code § 1596.80]. Any person 18 years of age or over may apply for a license regardless of age, sex, race, religion, color, political affiliation, national origin, handicaps, or marital status [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102368(c)]. Operating a family child care home without a license may lead to civil and/or criminal proceedings, injunctive actions, and the immediate levying of civil penalties [see H&S Code §§ 1596.89-1596.891; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102357; §§ 100C.90-100C.93].

For a step by step procedural guide to completing the application and related documents, see § 100C.121, Paragraph 2.

[c] Required Contents and Supporting Documentation for Application

When submitting an application, the applicant must provide all of the following information [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(1)-(3)]:

- The name, address, telephone number, and confirmation that the applicant is 18 years of age or over.
- The age and number of children to whom care will be provided.
- The name and age of every person residing in the home where care will be provided.

The name, address, and telephone number of the city or county fire department, the district providing fire protection, or the State Fire Marshal's Office having jurisdiction in the area where the facility is located, criminal record statements, and fingerprints must also be included with the application [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(8); see H&S Code § 1596.871(a)-(c); see also §§ 100C.231, 100C.242].

The applicant must also state on the application that he or she will comply with all laws and regulations governing family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(4)]. Although H&S Code § 1597.54(e) appears to require that family child care home applicants show evidence of ability to comply with the general regulations, more specific authority clarifies that family child care homes are not subject to the general regulations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102351.1]. The application must also contain evidence (1) of a current tuberculosis clearance for any adult in the home during the time children are under care and (2) that the applicant and all other persons residing in the home are of reputable and responsible character, including but not limited to evidence of required criminal record clearances, employment histories, and character references [H&S Code § 1597.54(d),(f); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(9)].

The application must include a brief statement confirming that the applicant is financially secure to operate the facility. Aside from this statement, the Department may not require any other specific or detailed financial disclosures [H&S Code § 1597.54(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(6)]. For a large family child care home, the applicant must provide substantiation that he or she has at least one year of experience as a regulated small family child care home operator or as an administrator, director, or teacher at a licensed child care center [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(5)].

For a small family child care home, evidence must be submitted that the home contains a fire extinguisher or smoke detector device, or both, that meets required safety standards. For a large family child care home, evidence is required that the home meets specific fire safety standards [H&S Code § 1597.54(b)(1); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102369(b)(7); see also H&S Code §§ 1597.45(d), 1597.46(c)]. For any size family child care home, satisfactory evidence must be submitted that there is a fire escape and disaster plan for the facility and that fire drills and disaster drills will be conducted at least once every six months. The documentation of these drills must be maintained at the facility on a form prepared by the Department and must include the date and time of the drills [H&S Code § 1597.54(b)(2)].

The applicant must also provide any other information required by the Department [H&S Code § 1597.54(h)], and must cooperate with the Department in completing the application. Failure to cooperate with the Department (by not providing required information and/or not providing the information in proper form) results in denial of the application [H&S Code § 1597.54(g)].

[d] Signature Requirements and Application Fee

Each applicant must sign the application under penalty of perjury. The signatures should match the names listed at the top of the form [see Form LIC 279 instructions].

A license fee must accompany the application and be paid annually after licensure. The amount of the required fee varies, depending on the capacity (in number of children) for which the license is issued [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102384; see also H&S Code § 1596.803(a)].

§ 100C.231 Criminal Record Statement (LIC 508)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a criminal record statement regarding prior criminal convictions other than minor traffic violations. It is provided by the Department of Social Services (Form LIC 508), and must be completed by certain individuals as a condition of licensure, employment, residence, or presence in a family child care home [see [b], below]. The form must be submitted with the application for family child care home licensure [see H&S Code § 1596.871(a),(c),(h); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370(a)].

The signing of this statement is only one part of the entire criminal clearance review that the applicant, and other individuals who may come into contact with children, must go through. Fingerprinting [see [c], below], a check of the Child Abuse Index [see §§ 100C.21[2][b], 100C.71[2][b]], and other criminal clearance reviews are also conducted. For a discussion of the criminal review process, see § 100C.21[2] (child care centers) and § 100C.71[2] (family child care homes).

[b] Persons Required to Complete Statement

As a condition of employment, residence, or presence in a family child care home, the following individuals must sign a declaration under penalty of perjury regarding prior criminal convictions [see H&S Code § 1596.871(a)-(c); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370(c)]:

- All applicants for licensure.
- All adults responsible for administration or direct supervision of staff.
- Any person, other than a child, residing in the home.

- Any person who provides care and supervision to children.
- Any staff person, volunteer, or employee who has contact with the children.

With respect to the last category listed above, volunteers providing time-limited specialized services and students enrolled or participating at an accredited educational institution are exempt if they are directly supervised by the licensee or a facility employee with a criminal record clearance or exemption, spend no more than 16 hours per week at the facility, and are not left alone with children in care [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(i),(ii)]. A volunteer who is a relative, legal guardian, or foster parent of a child in care is exempt [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(iii)]. A contract repair person retained by the facility is also exempt if the person is not left alone with children in care [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(iv)]. The Department may also exempt similar persons by regulation [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(D)(v)].

Certain employees of child care and development programs under contract with the State Department of Education who have completed a criminal records clearance as a condition of employment are not required to sign the statement [H&S Code § 1596.871(b)(1)(H)-(I)].

[c] Fingerprinting Requirements

The individuals required to complete the Criminal Record Statement [see [b], above] also must, as a condition to employment, residence, or presence in a facility, be fingerprinted unless exempt. Further, each individual must sign a declaration under perjury regarding any prior criminal conviction [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370(c)]. The licensee must submit the fingerprint images and related information to the Department of Justice and the FBI, through the Department of Justice, or satisfy criminal records clearance transfer requirements [see H&S Code § 1596.871(h)(1)] before the person's employment, residence, or initial presence in the family child care home [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(1)(A)].

Exemptions can be obtained for employees of, or individuals present in, family child care homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370.1]. In determining whether individuals are eligible for the exemption, the Department considers the nature of the offense (including whether it involved violence or a threat of violence), the time elapsed since the offense and the number of offenses, the circumstances surrounding the commission that would demonstrate the unlikelihood of repetition, subsequent actions that indicate rehabilitation, character references, any certificate of rehabilitation, and evidence of honesty and truthfulness as revealed in exemption application documents and interviews and conversations with the Department [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102370.1(c)(3)].

If it is determined on the basis of fingerprints submitted that the person has been convicted of a sex offense against a minor, sexual battery, abusing or endangering the health of a child, any felony, or other specified crimes, the Department will notify the licensee to immediately terminate the person's employment, remove the individual from the home, or bar the person from entering the home [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(2); see Pen Code §§ 243.4, 273a, 273d, 273g, 289, 368]. If the conviction was for another crime except a minor traffic violation, the licensee must, on notification by the Department, immediately comply but may seek an exemption. However, only the Department can determine if the person may remain in the home until a decision on the exemption is rendered [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(2); see H&S Code § 1596.871(f)]. A licensee's failure to comply with the prohibition against employment, contact with clients, or presence in the home will result in a deficiency citation and immediate assessment of civil penalties, and constitutes grounds for disciplining the licensee [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(2); see H&S Code §§ 1596.885, 1596.886 (disciplinary action)].

Concurrently with notification to the licensee, the Department must notify the affected individual of his or her right to seek an exemption. The individual may seek an exemption only if the licensee terminates the person's employment or removes the person from the home after receiving notice from the Department [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(4)]. The Department may issue an exemption on its own motion if the person's criminal history indicates that the person is of good character based on the age, seriousness, and frequency of the conviction or convictions [H&S Code § 1596.871(c)(3)].

The agency cannot use a record of arrest to deny, revoke, or terminate any application, license, employment, or residence unless it investigates the incident and secures evidence, whether or not related to the incident of arrest, that is admissible in an administrative hearing to establish conduct by the person that may pose a risk to the health and safety of any person who is or may become a client [H&S Code § 1596.871(e)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The Community Care Licensing Department advises that, as of March 2002, no exemptions are currently being granted. A substantial backlog exists.

§ 100C.232 Emergency Disaster Plan (LIC 610A)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an emergency disaster plan developed by the applicant to handle any emergency and to protect the safety and well-being of children. It is provided by the Department of Social Services (Form LIC 610A), and must be submitted with the application for family child care home licensure [see H&S Code § 1597.54; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(9)]. Child care centers must also have an emergency plan, but the Department provides a different form for these facilities [see § 100C.210].

A copy of the home's emergency disaster plan must be posted in a conspicuous location near a telephone [see Form LIC 610A instructions].

[b] Required Contents

The plan includes a designation of administrative authority, emergency names and telephone numbers, exit locations, temporary relocation sites, utility shut-off locations, and the location of a first aid kit. A floor plan of the home must also accompany the plan, indicating all exits. The licensee is responsible for updating information in the plan as required [see Form LIC 610A instructions].

[c] Instruction of Plan and Drills

All children, age and ability permitting, the provider, any assistant provider, and other household members must be instructed in their duties under the emergency disaster plan. As age and ability permit, newly enrolled children must be informed promptly of their duties under the plan. Each home must conduct fire drills and disaster drills at least once every six months. The licensee must document these drills, including the date and time of each drill, and retain that documentation at the home [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 102417(g)(9)].

[d] Earthquake Preparedness Checklist

Every family child care home must include an Earthquake Preparedness Checklist as an attachment to its emergency disaster plan. This checklist must be made accessible to the public at the home. However, this checklist is not a requirement for obtaining or maintaining a license for a family child care home [H&S Code § 1596.867(a); see H&S Code § 1596.867(b) (suggested contents for checklist and two typewritten pages restriction)]. The Earthquake Preparedness Checklist (Form LIC 9148) is illustrated in § 100C.210[2].

§ 100C.233 Property Owner/Landlord Notification (LIC 9151)

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is a notification to be sent to the owner or landlord of the premises of a family child care home informing him or her that a family child care home will be operated on the property. The form is available from the Department of Social Services (Form LIC 9151).

Prospective family child care home operators who intend to open a home on rented or leased premises must provide 30 days' written notice to the landlord or owner before beginning operations [H&S Code § 1597.40(d)(1); see H&S Code § 1597.40(d)(2) (less notice for relocation)]. On the commencement or knowledge of the operation of a family child care home on his or her property, the landlord or property owner may require the family child care home operator to pay an increased security deposit for operation of the home, notwithstanding any other provision of law. The increase in deposit may be required regardless of whether a lesser amount is required of tenants who do not operate family child care homes. However, in no event may the total security deposit charged exceed the maximum allowable under existing law [H&S Code § 1597.40(d)(4)].

If the operator plans to operate a small family child care home with a capacity of seven or eight children, or a large family child care home with a capacity of 13 or 14 children, the operator must receive written permission from the property owner or landlord [H&S Code §§ 1597.44(d), 1597.465(d); see § 100C.234].
