The exclusive rights in a mask work subject to protection belong to the owner of the mask work, who may transfer or bequeath all or any part of those rights by written instrument [17 U.S.C. § 903(a), (b); see [5], above (duration of protection)]. Any document pertaining to a mask work may be recorded in the Copyright Office, and the recordation of any transfer or license gives all persons constructive notice of the facts stated in the recorded document [17 U.S.C. § 903(c)(1)]. In the case of a conflicting transfer of the exclusive rights in a mask work, the first executed will be void as against a subsequent transfer that is made for a valuable consideration and without notice of the first transfer, unless the first transfer is recorded within three months after the date of its execution and prior to the date of the subsequent transfer [17 U.S.C. § 903(c)(2)].

[9] Application for Registration

The owner of a mask work may apply to the Register of Copyrights for registration of a claim of protection in a mask work. Protection will terminate if the application is not made within two years after the date on which the mask work is first commercially exploited [17 U.S.C. § 908(a); see [5], above (duration of protection)].

PRACTICE TIP:

As a practical matter, waiting to register the work until near the end of the two-year pre-registration commercial exploitation period will not extend the period of protection, because protection of a mask work begins either on the date the mask work is registered or when it is first commercially exploited anywhere in the world, whichever occurs first [17 U.S.C. § 904(a); see [5], above].

Application is made on a form prescribed by the Register of Copyrights and designed to elicit information relating to the preparation or identification of the mask work, the existence or duration of protection, and ownership [17 U.S.C. § 908(c)]. The application must be accompanied by the fee set by the Copyright Office [see 37 C.F.R. § 211.3(a)] and all required identifying material [17 U.S.C. § 908(c), (d)]. For detailed discussion of these requirements and an illustration of the application form, see § 103A.240.

The effective date of registration of a claim of protection is the date on which an application and necessary accompanying material was received in the Copyright Office [17 U.S.C. § 908(e)].

Any applicant for registration who is dissatisfied with the refusal of the Register of Copyrights to issue a certificate of registration may seek judicial review of that refusal. The failure of the Register of Copyrights to issue a certificate of registration within four months after an application was filed constitutes a refusal [17 U.S.C. § 908(g); see 17 U.S.C. § 910(b)(2) (institution of civil action for infringement); see also [11][b], below].

[10] Recordation of Documents Relating to Mask Works

Any document relating to a mask work may be recorded in the Copyright Office. Recordation gives all persons constructive notice of the facts concerning the transfer or license [17 U.S.C. § 903(c)(1)]. The procedures for recordation are the same as those applicable to documents related to copyrighted works [37 C.F.R. §§ 201.4, 211.2 (requirements for recordation)]. For a guide to those procedures, see § 103A.152.

[11] Infringement

[a] Violation of Exclusive Rights

Any person who violates any of the exclusive rights of the owner of a mask work by conduct in or affecting commerce is liable as an infringer of those rights [17 U.S.C. § 910(a)]. For purposes of infringements occurring on or after November 15, 1990, "any person" includes any state, any instrumentality of a state, and any officer or employee of a state or instrumentality of a state acting in his or her official capacity [17 U.S.C. § 910(a); Pub. L. No. 101-553, § 3, 104 Stat. 2749 (1990) (effective date)]. For infringement occurring on and after that date, any state, and any instrumentality of the state, officer, or employee, is subject to the provisions of the Act [17 U.S.C. 901 et seq.] in the same manner and to the same extent as any nongovernmental entity [17 U.S.C. § 910(a); see 17 U.S.C. § 911(g)(1) (states are not immune from suit in federal court for violation of the Act)]. Sovereign immunity under the Copyright Act of 1976 is discussed in § 103A.90.

[b] Civil Action

Articles imported in violation of the owner's rights are subject to seizure and forfeiture in the same manner as property imported in violation of the customs laws. Any forfeited articles will be destroyed as directed by the Secretary of the Treasury or the court, except that the articles may be returned to the country of export whenever it is shown that the importer had no reasonable grounds for believing that his or her acts constituted a violation of the law [17 U.S.C. § 910(c)(2)].

The owner of a protected mask work or its exclusive licensee is entitled to institute a civil action for any infringement with respect to the mask work that is committed after the commencement of that protection [17 U.S.C. § 910(b)(1)]. Any court having jurisdiction of a civil action arising under the Act may grant temporary and permanent injunctive relief on terms the court deems reasonable to prevent or restrain infringement of the exclusive rights in a mask work [17 U.S.C. § 911(a)]. An action for infringement must be brought within three years after the claim accrues [17 U.S.C. § 911(d)]. For discussion of the right to sue under 17 U.S.C. § 910(b)(2) if registration is applied for but refused, see [g], below.

[c] Damages

On finding liability for infringement of any exclusive right, the court must award actual damages suffered as a result of the infringement. The court also must award the infringer's profits that are attributable to the infringement and that are not taken into account in computing the award of actual damages. In establishing the infringer's profits, the injured person need present proof only of the infringer's gross revenue; the infringer is required to prove his or her deductible expenses and the elements of profit attributable to factors other than the mask work [17 U.S.C. § 911(b), (g)(2)].

A person entitled to institute a civil action for infringement may elect, instead of actual damages and profits, an award of statutory damages for all infringements involved in the action, with respect to any one mask work for which any one infringer is liable individually, or for which any two or more infringers are liable jointly and severally, in an amount not more than $250,000 [17 U.S.C. § 911(c), (g)(2)].

[d] Other Available Relief

At any time while an action for infringement of the exclusive rights in a mask work is pending, the court may order the impounding of all semiconductor chip products, and any articles by means of which those products may be reproduced, that are claimed to have been made, imported, or used in violation of those exclusive rights. Applications for those orders will be heard and determined in the same manner as an application for preliminary injunctive relief [17 U.S.C. § 911(e)(1), (g)(2)]. As part of a final judgment, the court may order the destruction or other disposition of any infringing semiconductor chip products, and any articles by means of which those products may be reproduced [17 U.S.C. § 911(e)(2), (g)(2)].

[e] Attorneys' Fees and Costs

The court may allow the recovery of full costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, to the prevailing party [17 U.S.C. § 911(f), (g)(2)].

[f] Evidentiary Effect of Registration Certificate

In any action for infringement, the certificate of registration constitutes prima facie evidence of the facts stated in the certificate and of the fact that the applicant who was issued the certificate has met the requirements of the Act [17 U.S.C. § 901 et seq.] and applicable regulations, with respect to the registration of claims [17 U.S.C. § 908(f)].

[g] When Application for Protection Is Refused

If the application for registration of a claim of protection and registration of the mask work has been refused, the applicant may institute a civil action for infringement if notice of the action, together with a copy of the complaint, is served on the Register of Copyrights. The Register may opt to become a party to the action with respect to the issue of whether the claim of protection is eligible for registration, but his or her failure to become a party shall not deprive the court of jurisdiction to determine that issue [17 U.S.C. § 910(b)(2)].

[h] Imported Goods

Articles imported in violation of the owner's rights are subject to seizure and forfeiture in the same manner as property imported in violation of the customs laws. Any forfeited articles must be destroyed as directed by the Secretary of the Treasury or the court, except that the articles may be returned to the country of export whenever it is shown that the importer has no reasonable grounds for believing the his or her acts constituted a violation of the law [17 U.S.C. § 910(c)(2)].

[i] Limitation of Liability of Innocent Purchaser

An innocent purchaser of an infringing semiconductor chip product will not incur liability with respect to the importation or distribution of units of the infringing semiconductor chip product that occurs before the innocent purchaser has notice of protection with respect to the mask work embodied in the semiconductor chip product [17 U.S.C. § 907; see 17 U.S.C. § 901(a)(7) (innocent purchaser is one who buys a chip in good faith and without notice of its protection under the Act)]. That innocent purchaser is liable only for a reasonable royalty on each unit of the infringing semiconductor chip product that he or she imports or distributes after having notice of protection with respect to the mask work embodied in the semiconductor chip product. These limitations extend to any person who directly or indirectly purchases an infringing semiconductor chip product from an innocent purchaser [17 U.S.C. § 907].

PRACTICE TIP:

Because neither registration, recordation of documents, nor the placement of a notice symbol on a legitimate chip is likely to give an otherwise innocent purchaser actual knowledge of the infringement, the only way the owner of a mask work can protect itself against infringement is to do whatever possible to make itself aware of all new chips that enter the marketplace, whether incorporated into a computer or not [see 17 U.S.C. § 901(b) (distribution of computer is distribution of chip)], determine whether or not any of them infringe on its protected mask work, and notify the producer and purchaser of any claimed infringement.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

§ 103A.110 Availability of Copyright Protection

1. Does work satisfy all of following criteria and therefore qualify for federal copyright protection [17 U.S.C. § 301]?

a. Is it an "original work of authorship" [17 U.S.C. § 102(a); see 17 U.S.C. § 101]?

NOTE:

This phrase, which is purposely left undefined in the Copyright Law, is intended to incorporate without change the standard of originality established by the courts under the prior copyright law [see H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 51, 52 (1976); see also § 103A.22[1]].

(1) Works of authorship include [17 U.S.C. § 102(a); see 17 U.S.C. § 101]:

(a) Literary works.

(b) Musical works, including any accompanying words.

(c) Dramatic works, including any accompanying music.

(d) Pantomimes and choreographic works.

(e) Pictorial, graphic, and sculptural works.

(f) Motion pictures and other audiovisual works.

(g) Sound recordings.

(h) Architectural works.

(2) Does work contain any one of the following unprotected categories of work [17 U.S.C. § 102(b)]?

NOTE:

The statutory exclusion of the following categories applies regardless of the form in which they are described, explained, illustrated, or embodied in the work [17 U.S.C. § 102(b)].

For examples of these excluded works, see § 103A.23.

(a) Ideas.

(b) Procedures.

(c) Processes.

(d) Systems.

(e) Methods of operation.

(f) Concepts.

(g) Principles.

(h) Discoveries.

b. Is work fixed in any tangible medium of expression from which it can be perceived, reproduced, or otherwise communicated, either directly or with aid of machine or device [17 U.S.C. § 102(a)]?

NOTE:

A work is "fixed" in a tangible medium of expression when its authorized embodiment in a copy or phonorecord is sufficiently permanent to permit it to be communicated for a period of more than transitory duration. This includes a work consisting of transmitted sounds, images, or both if a fixation of the work is made simultaneous with its transmission [17 U.S.C. § 101]. An unfixed work of authorship, such as an improvisation or an unrecorded choreographic work, performance, or broadcast, continues to be subject to protection under state common law or statute, but is not eligible for federal statutory protection [see 17 U.S.C. § 301; see also H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 131 (1976)].

c. Does work fall within either of following categories that do not qualify for federal copyright protection?

(1) Work produced by federal government.

NOTE:

The federal government is not precluded from receiving and holding copyrights transferred to it by any method [17 U.S.C. § 105].

(2) Sound recording fixed before February 15, 1972 [17 U.S.C. § 301(c); see H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 133 (1976); see also Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 2, The Subject Matter of Copyright, § 2.10(A) (Matthew Bender)].

2. If work is ineligible for federal copyright protection, does it qualify for common law or state statutory copyright protection?

a. Subject matter is excluded from scope of Copyright Act [see 17 U.S.C. § 301(b)(1); see also P 1, above].

NOTE:

Examples of this kind of subject matter include the following works of authorship that are not considered fixed in any tangible medium of expression: choreography that has not been filmed or notated, extemporaneous speeches, original works of authorship communicated solely through conversations or live broadcasts, and dramatic sketches or musical compositions improvised or developed from memory, without being recorded or written down [17 U.S.C. § 301(b)(1); H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 131 (1976)].

b. Matter involves any cause of action arising from undertakings started before January 1, 1978.

NOTE:

The Copyright Act of 1909 (former 17 U.S.C. §§ 1-216) applies to undertakings begun before January 1, 1978, if the work in question attained federal copyright under its provisions [Magnuson v. Video Yesteryear (9th Cir. 1996) 85 F.3d 1424, 1427] .

c. Matter involves activity that violates legal or equitable rights that are not equivalent to any exclusive rights within general scope of federal copyright [17 U.S.C. § 301(b)(3)].

NOTE:

These activities are matters of commercial or personal rights, such as privacy, publicity, trade secrets, deceptive trade practices, and misappropriation [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 132 (1976)].

d. Matter involves common law or state law rights or remedies governing sound recordings fixed before February 15, 1972 [17 U.S.C. § 301(c)].

e. State and local landmarks, historic preservation, zoning, or building codes relating to architectural works protected under the copyright law [17 U.S.C. §§ 101 ("architectural works" defined), 102(a)(8) (applicability of copyright protection)].

3. If subject matter of work qualifies under copyright law [see P 1, above], does author's nationality or domicile affect copyrightable status of work [see 17 U.S.C. § 104]?

a. Federal copyright protection applies to unpublished works without regard to author's nationality or domicile [17 U.S.C. § 104(a)].

b. For published works, federal protection applies if [17 U.S.C. § 104(b)]:

(1) On date of first publication [see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("publication" defined)], one or more of work's authors is any of following:

(a) National or domiciliary of United States;

(b) National, domiciliary, or sovereign authority of treaty party; or

(c) Stateless person, wherever domiciled.

(2) Work is first published in:

(a) United States; or

(b) Foreign nation that, on date of first publication, is treaty party.

(3) Work is sound recording that was first fixed in treaty party.

(4) Work is in or on building or structure located in United States or treaty party and is either:

(a) Pictorial, graphic, or sculptural work that is incorporated in building or other structure, or

(b) Architectural work that is embodied in building.

(5) Work is first published by:

(a) United Nations or any of its specialized agencies; or

(b) Organization of American States.

(6) Work comes within scope of Presidential proclamation.

4. If work is compilation or derivative work [see § 103A.22[3]], what portions qualify for protection under copyright law?

a. Copyright extends only to material contributed by author of compilation or derivation [17 U.S.C. § 103(b)].

NOTE:

The copyright in a compilation or a derivative work does not imply any exclusive right in the preexisting material. The copyright is independent of, and does not affect or enlarge the scope, duration, ownership, or subsistence of, any copyright protection in the preexisting material [17 U.S.C. § 103(b)].

b. Protection does not extend to:

(1) Preexisting material employed in work [17 U.S.C. § 103(b)]; or

(2) Any part of work in which preexisting material has been used unlawfully [17 U.S.C. § 103(a)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

§ 103A.111 Copyright Ownership

1. Who will own copyright?

a. Author of work [17 U.S.C. § 201(a)].

b. If joint work, the authors [17 U.S.C. § 201(a)].

NOTE:

A "joint work" is one prepared by two or more authors with the intention that their contributions be merged into inseparable or interdependent parts of a unitary whole [17 U.S.C. § 101]. These authors are co-owners of the copyright and, as such, are tenants in common. As a tenant in common, each co-owner has an independent right to license the use of the work, subject to a duty of accounting to the other co-owners for any profits [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 121 (1976); see Pye v. Mitchell (9th Cir. 1978) 574 F.2d 476, 480] .

c. If work is made for hire, employer, unless parties have signed written agreement to the contrary [17 U.S.C. § 201(b)].

NOTE:

A "work made for hire" is a work prepared by an employee within the scope of his or her employment, or a work specially ordered or commissioned for certain specified uses if the parties agree in writing that the work will be considered a work made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 101; Community for Creative Non-Violence v. Reid (1989) 490 U.S. 730, 748-751, 109 S. Ct. 2166, 104 L. Ed. 2d 811 ; see also Ch. 84, Independent Contractors ; Ch. 85, Employment Agreements].

d. If work is a collective work [17 U.S.C. § 201(c)]:

NOTE:

A "collective work" is one in which a number of contributions, constituting separate and independent works in themselves, are assembled into a collective whole [17 U.S.C. § 101].

(1) Author of each individual contribution owns copyright in that contribution.

(2) Owner of copyright in collective works is presumed to have acquired only privilege of reproducing and distributing as part of:

(a) That particular collective work;

(b) Any revision of that collective work; and

(c) Any later collective work in same series.

2. Who will own any material object in which copyrighted work is embodied [see 17 U.S.C. § 202]?

NOTE:

Ownership of a copyright or any of the exclusive rights under it is distinct from ownership of any material object in which the work is embodied. Transfer of ownership of the object does not of itself convey any rights in the copyrighted work embodied in the object. Further, in the absence of agreement, transfer of ownership of the copyright or any exclusive rights does not convey property rights in any material object [17 U.S.C. § 202].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide

1. Copyright Owner

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.120

§ 103A.120 Affixing Notice of Copyright

NOTE:

Works first publicly distributed by authority of the copyright owner on or after March 1, 1989 [see Pub. L. 100-568, § 13, 102 Stat. 2861], are not required to have a notice of copyright affixed to them [17 U.S.C. § 401(a)]. However, affixing a notice benefits the copyright owner by limiting an infringer's ability to successfully raise an "innocent infringement" defense in an infringement action [17 U.S.C. §§ 401(d), 402(d)]. For further discussion of this point, see § 103A.62[4].

1. If desired, whenever copyrighted work is published anywhere by copyright owner, place notice of copyright on all publicly distributed copies from which work can be visually perceived either directly or with aid of machine or device [17 U.S.C. § 401(a); see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("published" defined)].

a. Position notice in manner and location that will [17 U.S.C. § 401(c); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20]:

(1) Give reasonable notice of claim of copyright; and

(2) Satisfy any:

(a) Additional applicable statutory requirements [see PP 2-4, below]; and

(b) Applicable regulatory methods of affixation and positioning [see § 103A.120 P (5)].

b. Include following elements in notice [see 17 U.S.C. § 401(b)]:

(1) One of the following:

(a) Copyright symbol © (letter "C" in a circle).

(b) Word "Copyright."

(c) Abbreviation "Copr."

(2) Year of first publication of work.

NOTE:

For compilations or derivative works with previously published material, the year of first publication of the compilation or derivative work is sufficient. The year may be omitted from pictorial, graphic, or sculptural works (with or without accompanying text) that are reproduced in or on greeting cards, postcards, stationery, jewelry, dolls, toys, or useful articles [17 U.S.C. § 401(b)(2); see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("useful article" defined)].

(3) Identity of copyright owner by one of following [17 U.S.C. § 401(b)(3)]:

(a) Name.

(b) Abbreviation by which name can be recognized.

(c) Generally known alternative designation of owner.

2. Affix notice of copyright to all publicly distributed phonorecords of copyrighted sound recording published anywhere under authority of copyright owner [see 17 U.S.C. § 402(a); see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("published," "phonorecords," "sound recordings" defined)].

a. Place notice on one of following in manner and location that give reasonable notice of copyright claim [see 17 U.S.C. § 402(c)]:

(1) Surface of phonorecord; or

(2) Phonorecord label or container.

b. Include following elements in notice [17 U.S.C. § 402(b)]:

(1) Symbol [Sound recording copyright] (letter "P" in a circle).

(2) Year of first publication of sound recording.

(3) Identity of copyright owner, by either [17 U.S.C. § 402(b)]:

(a) Name;

(b) Abbreviation by which name can be recognized; or

(c) Generally known alternative designation of owner.

NOTE:

If the producer of the sound recording is named on the phonorecord labels or containers, and if no other name appears in conjunction with the notice, the producer's name will be considered a part of the notice [17 U.S.C. § 402(b)(3)].

3. Whenever work incorporating United States government works (and consisting preponderantly of one or more works of those works) is published [see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("published" defined)], prepare and affix notice by:

- a. Satisfying requirements described in P 1 or 2, above; and
- b. Including statement identifying, either affirmatively or negatively, those portions of copy or phonorecord embodying any copyrighted work [see 17 U.S.C. § 403].

NOTE:

Works of the federal government are not eligible for copyright protection [see 17 U.S.C. § 105].

4. For collective work consisting of separate contributions, affix notice [see 17 U.S.C. § 404(a)]:

- a. On separate contributions in manner discussed in PP 1-3, above [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20 (regulatory examples of placement); see also § 103A.120, P 5c]; and/or
- b. As single notice [see PP 1-3, above, for applicable requirements], which will:

NOTE:

The option discussed in P b, above, applies regardless of the ownership of copyright in the contributions and whether or not they have been previously published. It does not apply to advertisements inserted on behalf of persons other than the owner of copyright in the collective work [17 U.S.C. § 404(a)].

(1) Be applicable to collective work as a whole; and

(2) Satisfy notice requirements with respect to separate contributions it contains.

NOTE:

With respect to copies and phonorecords publicly distributed before March 1, 1989, if the person named as the copyright owner of the collective work as a whole is not the owner of copyright in a separate contribution that does not bear its own notice, the separate contribution is subject to the law governing erroneous names in copyright notices [17 U.S.C. § 404(b); see 17 U.S.C. § 406(a); Pub. L. No. 100-568, §§ 7(d), 13, 102 Stat. 2858, 2861]. For further discussion of this issue, see § 103A.62[2].

5. For visually perceptible copies of copyrighted works, comply with following, if applicable [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20(d)-(i)]:

NOTE:

The Register of Copyrights has promulgated the following regulatory examples of methods of affixation and positions of the copyright notice on various works. These methods satisfy the notice requirement of 17 U.S.C. § 401(c) [see § 103A.120, P 1a], but are not exhaustive of satisfactory methods of affixation and positioning [17 U.S.C. § 401(c); 37 C.F.R. § 201.20]. Whether a notice affixed according to the regulations is acceptable depends on whether it is permanently legible to an ordinary user of the work under normal conditions of use and affixed to the copies in such a manner and position that it is not concealed from view on reasonable examination [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(c)(1)]. If the notice is not affixed in one of the locations provided in the regulatory examples, it will still be acceptable if a person looking in one of those locations would be reasonably certain to find the notice in another somewhat different location [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(c)(2)].

a. For works published in book form [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20(b)(4)], reproduce notice in any of following positions [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(d)]:

- (1) Title page.
- (2) Page immediately following title page.
- (3) Either side of front cover and if none exists, either side of front leaf.
- (4) Either side of back cover and if none exists, either side of back leaf.
- (5) First page of main body of work.
- (6) Last page of main body of work.
- (7) Any page between front page and first page of main body, if:
 - (a) There are no more than 10 pages between front page and first page of main body; and
 - (b) Notice is reproduced prominently and set apart from other matter on page where it appears.
- (8) Any page between last page of main body and back page, if:
 - (a) There are no more than 10 pages between last page of main body and back page; and
 - (b) Notice is reproduced prominently and set apart from other matter on page where it appears.

b. For work published as issue of periodical or serial, any of following locations:

- (1) Any location specified in PP a(1)-(8), above.
- (2) As part of, or adjacent to, masthead [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20(b)(8) ("masthead" defined)].
- (3) On page containing masthead if notice is reproduced prominently and is set apart from other matter appearing on page.
- (4) Adjacent to a prominent heading, appearing at or near front of issue, containing title of periodical or serial and any combination of volume and issue number and date of issue.

c. For musical work:

(1) Any location specified in P a or b, above; or

(2) On first page of music.

d. For single-leaf works [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20(b)(9) (definition)], reproduce notice anywhere on front or back of leaf [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(e)].

e. For separate contribution to collective work that will bear its own notice of copyright [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.20(f); see also 17 U.S.C. § 404; § 103A.122 P (4)(b)]:

(1) If separate contribution is reproduced on single page, place notice:

(a) Under title of contribution on that page;

(b) Adjacent to contribution; or

(c) On same page if, through format, wording, or both, application of notice to particular contribution is made clear.

(2) If separate contribution is reproduced on more than one page of collective work, place notice:

(a) Under a title appearing at or near beginning of contribution;

(b) On first page of main body of contribution;

(c) Immediately following end of contribution; or

(d) On any page where contribution appears, if contribution is reproduced on no more than 20 pages of collective work;

NOTE:

If the notice appears as described in P d, above, it must be reproduced prominently and set apart from any other matter on the page where it appears. Further, the format and wording, or both, of the notice must make it clear that the notice applies to the separate contribution [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(f)(2)(iv)(B), (C)].

(3) If separate contribution is musical work, place notice:

(a) In any location specified in P (1) or (2), above; or

(b) On first page of music of contribution.

(4) As alternative to placing notice on page where separate contribution itself appears, place notice clearly in juxtaposition with separate listing of contribution:

(a) By title; or

(b) If contribution is untitled, by description reasonably identifying contribution.

NOTE:

The placement of the notice in juxtaposition with this description will suffice only if the notice and description appear on the page bearing the copyright notice for the collective work as a whole, or in a clearly identified and readily accessible table of contents or listing of acknowledgments appearing near the front or back of the collective work as a whole [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(f)(4)].

f. For works reproduced in machine-readable copies, affix and position notice in any of following ways [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(g)]:

NOTE:

Examples of these works are magnetic tapes or disks, or punched cards, from which the work cannot ordinarily be visually perceived except with the aid of a machine or device [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(g)].

(1) Include notice in copies in machine-readable form so that on printouts it appears either with or near title, or at end of work.

(2) Display notice:

(a) At user's terminal at sign-on; and

(b) Continuously on terminal display.

(3) Reproduce notice legibly and durably (so as to withstand normal use) on gummed or other label securely affixed to:

(a) Copies; or

(b) Box, reel, cartridge, cassette, or other container used as permanent receptacle for copies.

g. For motion pictures and other audio-visual works [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(h)]:

(1) Include notice in copies by photomechanical or electronic process, so that it ordinarily would appear whenever work is performed in its entirety.

(2) Place notice:

(a) With or near title;

(b) With cast, credits, and similar information;

(c) At or immediately following beginning of work; or

(d) At or immediately preceding end of work.

(3) For untitled motion picture or other audiovisual work whose duration is 60 seconds or less, include notice:

(a) In any location listed in P (1), above; or

(b) In copies by photomechanical or electronic process, on leader of film or tape immediately preceding beginning of work, so that it ordinarily would appear to projectionist or broadcaster when preparing work for performance.

(3) For motion picture or other audiovisual work distributed to public for private use, include notice:

(a) In any location specified in P (1), above; or

(b) On any housing or container serving as permanent receptacle for work.

h. For pictorial, graphic, and sculptural works [37 C.F.R. § 201.20(i)]:

(1) If work is reproduced in two-dimensional copies, affix notice directly or by means of label cemented, sewn, or otherwise attached durably (so as to withstand normal use) to:

(a) Either front or back of copies; or

(b) Any backing, mounting, matting, framing, or other material to which copies are durably attached (so as to withstand normal use) or in which they are permanently housed.

(2) If work is reproduced in three-dimensional copies, affix notice directly or by means of label cemented, sewn, or otherwise attached durably (so as to withstand normal use), to:

(a) Any visible portion of work; or

(b) Any base, mounting, framing, or other material on which copies are durably attached (so as to withstand normal use), or in which they are permanently housed.

(3) When, because of size or physical characteristics of material in which work is reproduced in copies, it is impossible or extremely impracticable to affix notice directly or by durable label, affix notice on tag that is:

(a) Of durable material that will withstand normal use; and

(b) Attached to copy so as to remain with copy while passing through normal channels of commerce.

(4) For work reproduced in copies consisting of sheetlike or strip material bearing multiple or continuous reproductions of work, affix notice:

(a) To reproduction itself;

(b) To margin, selvage, or reverse side of material at frequent and regular intervals; or

(c) If material contains neither selvage nor reverse side, to tags or labels attached to copies and to any spools, reels, or containers housing them so that notice is visible while copies are passing through normal channels of commerce.

(5) For work permanently housed in a container (for example, game or puzzle box), reproduce notice on permanent container.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide

1. Copyright Owner

§ 103A.121 Deposit Requirements

1. Unless exempted or eligible for "special relief" [see § 103A.121, PP 2, 3], deposit copies of best edition of published work in Copyright Office in following manner [17 U.S.C. § 407; 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(1); see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("best edition" and "publication" defined); see also P b, NOTE, below]:

NOTE:

This deposit must be made by the owner of copyright or of the exclusive right of publication in a work published in the United States [17 U.S.C. § 407(a)]. The deposit may be made without an accompanying registration [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 150 (1976)]. The purpose of this requirement is to provide the Library of Congress with copies and phonorecords of all works published in this country [see 17 U.S.C. § 407(b)]. Although deposit is not a condition of copyright protection [17 U.S.C. § 407(a)], the Register of Copyright may issue a written demand for a deposit and fine any person who does not comply with the demand within three months [see 17 U.S.C. § 407(d)].

a. Make deposit within three months after date of publication [17 U.S.C. § 407(a); see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("publication" defined)].

b. Deposit appropriate number of copies of best edition of work and related materials:

NOTE:

The "best edition" of a work is the edition, published at any time before the date of deposit, that the Library of Congress determines to be most suitable for its purpose [17 U.S.C. § 101; 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(b)(1)]. The criteria used by the Library of Congress to select the best edition from among two or more published editions of the same version of the same work are described in detail in 37 C.F.R. pt. 202, app. B. Only the version in effect at the time of deposit may be used [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(b)(1)(ii)].

(1) For published sound recordings [17 U.S.C. § 407(a)(2); 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(1)(ii)]:

(a) Two complete phonorecords of best edition; and

(b) Any printed or other visually perceptible material published with phonorecords.

NOTE:

These phonorecord accompaniments include the text or pictorial matter appearing on record sleeves and album covers, or embodied in separate leaflets or booklets included in the containers. Thus, the entire package (and not just the disk, tape, or other form of phonorecord involved) must be deposited [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 151 (1976)].

(2) For published computer programs and published computerized information works, such as statistical compendia, serials, and reference works [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(vii)]:

(a) One complete copy of best edition, if work is not copy-protected; and

(b) Two copies of best edition, if work is copy-protected.

(3) For published works other than sound recordings, two complete copies of best edition [17 U.S.C. § 407(a)(1); 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(1)(i)].

c. Comply with following additional or alternative requirements, if applicable:

(1) Deposit only one complete copy of best edition of any of the following:

(a) Published three-dimensional cartographic representations of area (e.g., globes and relief models) [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(i)].

(b) Musical composition published in copies only, or in both copies and phonorecords, if only publication of copies in United States occurred by rental, lease, or lending [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(v)].

(c) Published multimedia kits prepared for use in systematic instructional activities and that include literary works, audiovisual works, sound recordings, or any combination of these works [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(vi)].

(2) For published motion pictures, deposit [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(ii)]:

(a) Only one complete copy of best edition; and

(b) Separate description of its contents (e.g., continuity, pressbook, or synopsis) [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(ii) (procedures for return of copies)].

(3) For published work deposited in hologram form, accompany deposit with two sets of [37 C.F.R. §

202.19(d)(2)(iii):

(a) Precise instructions for displaying image fixed in hologram; and

(b) Identifying material clearly showing displayed image [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21 (deposit of identifying material instead of copies)].

(4) When individual author is owner of copyright in published pictorial or graphic work and fewer than five copies have been published, or work published and sold or offered for sale in limited edition of up to 300 numbered copies, deposit following in lieu of standard two copies [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(d)(2)(iv)]:

(a) One complete copy of best edition of work; or

(b) Photographs or other identifying material [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21 (deposit of identifying material instead of copies)].

(5) Satisfy format requirements set forth in P 3, below [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21].

d. If desired, use these deposited materials to satisfy deposit provisions for copyright registration [see § 103A.123] by submitting both of following along with deposit [37 C.F.R. § 202.20(e); see 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(f)(1)]:

(1) Application for registration [see § 103A.122, P 1b]; or

(2) Registration fee or deposit account number on application.

2. Do not provide Copyright Office with copies of any of following categories of material [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c) (exemptions from deposit requirements of 17 U.S.C. § 407(a))]:

a. Diagrams and models that [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(1)]:

(1) Illustrate scientific or technical works; or

(2) Formulate scientific or technical information in linear or three-dimensional form.

NOTE:

Examples of such diagrams and models include an architectural or engineering blueprint, plan, or design, a mechanical drawing, or an anatomical model [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(1)].

b. Greeting cards, picture postcards, and stationery [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(2)].

c. Lectures, sermons, speeches, and addresses when published individually and not as collection of works of one or more authors [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(3)].

d. Literary, dramatic, and musical works published only as embodied in phonorecords [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(4)].

NOTE:

This category does not exempt the owner of copyright, or of the exclusive right of publication, in a sound recording resulting from the fixation of these works in a phonorecord from the applicable deposit requirements for sound recording [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(4)].

e. Automated databases available only online in United States [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(5)], except the following categories (which must be deposited) [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(5)]:

- (1) Automated databases distributed in form of machine-readable copies (for example, magnetic tape or disks, CD-ROM formats, or punch cards).
- (2) Computerized information works in nature of statistical compendia, serials, and reference works.

- (5) Works reproduced in CD-ROM formats.

f. Three-dimensional sculptural works [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(6)].

h. Prints, labels, and other advertising matter published in connection with rental, lease, lending, licensing, or sale of articles of merchandise, works of authorship, or services [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(7)].

i. Tests, and answer material for tests, when published separately from other literary works [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(8)].

j. Works first published as individual contributions to collective works [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(9)].

NOTE:

This category does not exempt the owner of copyright, or of the exclusive right of publication, in the collective work as a whole, from the applicable deposit requirements for the collective work [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(9)].

k. Works first published outside United States and later published in United States without change in copyrightable content, if [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(10)]:

- (1) Before publication in United States, work was registered under 17 U.S.C. § 408; or
- (2) Work was registered under 17 U.S.C. § 408, but before any demand for deposit [see 17 U.S.C. § 407(d)].

l. Works published only as embodied in soundtrack that is integral part of motion picture [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(11)].

NOTE:

This category does not exempt the owner of copyright, or of the exclusive right of publication, in the motion picture, from the applicable deposit requirements for the film [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(11)].

m. Motion pictures that [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(c)(12)]:

(1) Consist of television transmission programs; and

(2) Have been published, if at all, only by reason of license or other grant to nonprofit institution of right to make fixation of programs directly from transmission to public, with or without right to make further uses of fixations.

3. Confirm that any material to be deposited satisfies following requirements [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(a)-(h)]:

NOTE:

These requirements apply not only to the mandatory deposits discussed in this section of the Transaction Guide, but also to deposits made in connection with copyright registrations [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21(a); see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.20 (deposits for copyright registration); § 103A.123].

a. Consists of photographic prints, transparencies, photostats, drawings, or similar two-dimensional reproductions or renderings of work.

b. Is visually perceivable without aid of machine or device.

c. Color:

(1) If pictorial or graphic work, reproduces actual colors employed in work.

(2) In all other cases, is in black and white or reproduces actual colors.

d. Includes as many pieces of identifying material as necessary to show clearly entire copyrightable content of work.

e. Consists of only one set of complete identifying material, except in cases of holograms [see 37 C.F.R. §§ 202.19(d)(2)(iii), 202.20(c)(2)(iii); see also P 1c(3), above, § 103A.123, P 2d].

f. Contains only pieces of uniform size, as follows:

NOTE:

The only exception to this rule applies to separate drawings or similar reproductions of copyright notices [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21(e); see also PP 3i, j, below].

(1) Photographic transparencies must be:

(a) At least 35 mm in size; and

(b) If 3 x 3 inches or less, fixed in cardboard, plastic, or similar mounts to facilitate identification, handling, and storage.

NOTE:

The Copyright Office prefers that transparencies larger than 3 x 3 inches be mounted in a way that facilitates their handling and preservation, and reserves the right to require this mounting in particular cases [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(c)].

(2) All other types of identifying material must be:

(a) At least 3 x 3 inches and not more than 9 x 12 inches, and preferably 8 x 10 inches; and

(b) If less than lifesize, large enough to show clearly entire copyrightable content of work.

g. Contains at least one piece of identifying material which, on its front, back, or mount, indicates:

(1) Title of work; and

(2) Exact measurement of one or more dimensions of work.

h. If work has been published with notice of copyright, includes at least one piece of identifying material that clearly shows notice and its position on work.

NOTE:

If necessary because of the size or position of the notice, a separate drawing or similar reproduction must be submitted. It must be no smaller than 3 x 3 inches and no larger than 9 x 12 inches, show the exact appearance and content of the notice, and show the specific position of the notice on the work [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(d)].

i. For separate registration of fixed, unpublished work, or published work that is published only as embodied in soundtrack that is integral part of motion picture, any identifying material deposited in lieu of actual copy consists of [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(f)]:

NOTE:

The requirements discussed in PP d through f, above [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21(b)-(e)], do not apply to this kind of identifying material [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(f)].

(1) Transcription of entire work, or reproduction of entire work on phonorecord; and

(2) Photographs or other reproductions from motion picture showing title of motion picture, soundtrack credits, and copyright notice for soundtrack, if any.

j. For unpublished motion pictures (including unpublished transmission programs that are fixed and transmitted to public), any identifying material deposited in lieu of actual copy consists of [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(g)]:

NOTE:

The requirements set forth in PP d through h, above [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21(b)-(e)], do not apply to this kind of identifying material [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(g)].

A "description" of a motion picture [see PP (1), (2), below] is a continuity, pressbook, or a synopsis, and includes the following [37 C.F.R. § 202.21(g); see 37 C.F.R. § 202.21(h) ("description" in cases in which deposit copy of motion picture cannot be viewed for examining purposes on Copyright Office's equipment)]:

- Indication whether or not fixation was simultaneous with first transmission
- Date of first transmission, if any.
- Running time.
- Any credits appearing on work.

(2) Set consisting of one frame enlargement of similar visual reproduction from each 10-minute segment of motion picture, and description of motion picture.

4. If work is not exempt from deposit, consider requesting "special relief" from deposit requirement from Register of Copyrights:

a. Select one of following permissible forms of special relief [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(e)(1)]:

(1) Exemption from deposit requirements.

NOTE:

The Register may grant this exemption for single works and for series or groups of works [37 C.F.R. § 202.19(e)(1)].

(2) Deposit of one copy or phonorecord, or alternative identifying material, in lieu of two copies or phonorecords otherwise required.

b. Official application [17 U.S.C. § 409; 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(2); see § 103A.200-103A.208 (application forms)].

NOTE:

The application may be submitted by any author or other copyright claimant of the work or the owner of any exclusive right in the work, or their agents [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(1)].

Applications should be submitted in the class most appropriate to the nature of the authorship in which copyright is claimed. Applications for contributions to collective works should be submitted in the class representing the copyrightable authorship in the contribution. For derivative works, the application should be submitted in the class most appropriately representing the copyrightable authorship involved in recasting, transforming, adapting, or otherwise modifying the preexisting work. If a work contains elements of authorship in which copyright is claimed which fall into two or more classes, the submission should be made in the class most appropriate to the type of authorship that predominates in the work as a whole.

The Copyright Office recommends using its on-line registration process called the Electronic Copyright Office (eCO), which does not involve handling any paper forms; for information, see www.copyright.gov/eco/faq.html. The preferred alternative to using eCO is to use Form CO [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(2)(ii)], which is illustrated in § 103A.200[2]. Instructions for completing and mailing Form CO are provided on the Copyright Office web site, and the form can be downloaded from the web site, at www.copyright.gov/forms.

c. Fee [see 17 U.S.C. § 708(a)(1)].

NOTE:

For current fee amounts, check the U.S. Copyright Office website at www.copyright.gov or call (202) 707-3000 for current fee information.

d. Certificate [see P 5, below].

2. Submit one application and registration fee for any of following "single works" [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(4)]:

NOTE:

The Copyright Office of the Library of Congress has determined that all copyrightable expression owned by the same claimant and embodied in a computer program, or first published as a unit with a computer program, including computer screen displays, is considered a "single work" for purposes of registration, and should be registered on a single application form [Policy Decision of the Copyright Office, 53 Fed. Reg. 21817-21820 (1988) ; see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(4), (10)].

a. For published work, all copyrightable elements otherwise recognizable as self-contained works, included in single unit of publication, and in which copyright claimant is same.

b. For unpublished work, all copyrightable elements otherwise recognizable as self-contained works, combined in single unpublished collection that:

(1) Has elements assembled in orderly form;

(2) Bears single title identifying collection as a whole;

(3) Has same copyright claimant for all elements and for collection as a whole; and

(4) Concerning author(s):

(a) Has same author for all elements; or

(b) If elements were done by different authors, has at least one author who has contributed copyrightable authorship to each element.

NOTE:

Registration of an unpublished "collection" extends to each copyrightable element in the collection and to the authorship, if any, involved in selecting and assembling the collection [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(4)(i)(B)].

In the case of applications for registration as a single work [see P 2, above] or for group registration of contributions to periodicals [see P 3, below], the "year in which creation of this work was completed" that must be listed on the application means the latest year in which the creation of any copyrightable element was completed [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(4)(ii)].

3. If dealing with group of works that qualifies for single copyright registration, submit appropriate basic application and adjunct application [see 17 U.S.C. § 408(c)(2); 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(8)(i); see also § 103A.208[1][a] (adjunct application)].

4. Do not attempt to obtain more than one copyright registration for same version of particular work except under following circumstances [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(11)]:

a. If work has been registered as unpublished, first published edition of work may be registered, even if it does not represent new version.

b. When someone other than author is identified as copyright claimant in a registration, author may register same version in his or her own name as copyright claimant.

NOTE:

This provision does not permit an employee or other person working for hire to make a later registration in his or her own name [see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("work made for hire" defined)]. In the case of a joint work, one author may obtain a later registration in his or her own name as copyright claimant when an earlier registration identifies only another author as the claimant [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(11)(ii) n. 5].

c. If applicant alleges that earlier registration for same version is unauthorized and legally invalid.

5. Include certification with application, consisting of [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(2)]:

a. Designation of whether applicant is:

(1) Author of work.

(2) Other copyright claimant in work.

(3) Owner of exclusive rights in work.

(4) Agent of any person described in PP (1)-(3), above (whose identity must also be given).

b. Handwritten signature and typed or printed name of applicant, or electronic equivalent in electronically submitted application [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(2)(ii)].

c. Declaration that statements made in application are correct to best of applicant's knowledge.

d. Date of certification.

NOTE:

An application for registration of a published work will not be accepted if the date of certification is earlier than the date of publication given in the application [37 C.F.R. § 203.2(c)(2)].

If the application is approved, the Register of Copyrights will register the claim and issue to the applicant a certificate of registration. The certificate will contain the information given in the application together with the number and effective date of the registration [17 U.S.C. § 410(a)]. The effective date of a copyright registration is the date on which the Copyright Office received the complete application package (including application, deposit, and fee), which is later determined by the Register of Copyrights or a court of competent jurisdiction to be acceptable for registration [17 U.S.C. § 410(d)]. If the Register determines that the deposited material does not constitute copyrightable subject matter or that the claim is invalid for any other reason, the Register will refuse registration and notify the applicant in writing of the reasons for refusal [17 U.S.C. § 410(b)]. When a certificate is issued, it is prima facie evidence of the validity of the copyright and the facts stated in the certificate for at least five years [see 17 U.S.C. § 410(c)].

§ 103A.124 Notice of Objection to Nonprofit Performance

NOTE:

A nonprofit performance of a copyrighted nondramatic literary or musical work is not an infringement of copyright if certain conditions are met. One of these conditions prohibits the imposition of a direct or indirect admission charge unless both of the following apply: (1) the proceeds of any admission charge (after deducting reasonable production costs) are used exclusively for educational, religious, or charitable purposes; and (2) the copyright owner does not object to the imposition of such an admission charge [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B); see § 103A.132, P 1]. This section describes the procedure a copyright owner must follow in order to make such an objection.

1. Prepare notice of objection [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B); 37 C.F.R. § 201.13(c); see § 103A.220].

NOTE:

The Copyright Office does not provide printed forms for the use of persons serving Notices of Objection [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(b)]. § 103A.220[2] is a notice of objection, and § 103A.220[1] discusses the required contents [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.13(c)(1)] and applicable signature requirements [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.13(d)].

2. Have notice served on person responsible for performance [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(e)]:

- a. At least seven days before date of performance [see 17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B)(ii)].

NOTE:

The date of service is the date the notice is received by the person responsible for the performance or any agent or employee of that person [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(e)(3)].

b. By any of following methods:

(1) Personal service.

(2) First-class mail.

(3) Telegram, cablegram, or similar form of communication, if notice meets all of the other applicable requirements [see P 1, above], and before performance takes place, person responsible for performance receives written confirmation of notice, bearing actual handwritten signature of each copyright owner or agent.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide

1. Copyright Owner

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.125

§ 103A.125 Preregistering Unpublished Work

NOTE:

The effective date of a preregistration is the day the application and fee for preregistration of a work are received in the Copyright Office, provided the Copyright Office later notifies the claimant that the work has been preregistered [see P 6, below] or a court of competent jurisdiction concludes that the work was acceptable for preregistration [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(9)]. The preregistration record will be available to the public on the Copyright Office web site at www.copyright.gov [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(12)].

1. Verify that work is eligible for preregistration because all of following conditions are satisfied [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(b)(3); see 17 U.S.C. § 408(f); § 103A.75]:

- a. Work is unpublished.
- b. Work is being prepared for commercial distribution [see P 2, below].
- c. Work is in one of following classes of works, which Register of Copyrights has determined have had history of infringement prior to authorized commercial release [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(b)(1)]:
 - (1) Motion pictures.
 - (2) Sound recordings.
 - (3) Musical compositions.
 - (4) Literary works being prepared for publication in book form.

(5) Computer programs (including video games).

(6) Advertising or marketing photographs.

NOTE:

Works that are not copyrightable subject matter under title 17 of the United States Code may not be preregistered in the Copyright Office [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(2)].

At any time an interested person may petition the Register of Copyrights for a determination as to whether a particular class of works has had a history of copyright infringement prior to authorized release, which would justify inclusion of that class of works among the classes of works eligible for preregistration [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(14)].

2. Verify that work qualifies as being prepared for commercial distribution because following conditions are satisfied [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(b)(2)]:

a. Claimant, in statement certified by authorized preregistering party, has reasonable expectation that work will be commercially distributed to public.

b. Preparation of work has commenced and at least some portion of work has been fixed in tangible medium of expression, as follows:

(1) For motion picture, filming of motion picture must have commenced.

(2) For sound recording, recording of sounds must have commenced.

(3) For musical composition, at least some of musical composition must have been fixed either in form of musical notation or in copy or phonorecord embodying performance of some or all of work.

(4) For literary work being prepared for publication in book form, actual writing of text of work must have commenced.

(5) For computer program, at least some of computer code (either source code or object code) must have been fixed.

(6) For advertising or marketing photograph, photograph (or, in case of group of photographs intended for simultaneous publication, at least one of photographs) must have been taken.

3. Prepare and submit application for preregistration.

a. Find and complete application (Form PRE) on Copyright Office web site at www.copyright.gov, and ensure that application includes:

NOTE:

A work eligible for preregistration may be preregistered by submitting an application and fee (which is not refundable) to the Copyright Office [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(1)]. An application for preregistration is made using Electronic Form PRE, which is available exclusively, and can only be submitted electronically, on the Copyright Office website [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(3)].

For the purpose of preregistration on a single application and on payment of a single preregistration fee, all copyrightable elements (1) that are otherwise recognizable as self-contained works, (2) that are to be included and first published in a single unit of publication, and (3) in which the copyright claimant is the same, will be considered a single work eligible for preregistration [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(4)].

(1) Detailed description of work [see P 4, below]; and

(2) Prescribed certification [see P 5, below].

b. Submit application electronically on web site.

c. Pay fee [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(5) (amount of fee and methods of payment)].

NOTE:

No deposit of the work being preregistered should be submitted with an application for preregistration. Generally, the Copyright Office will not review descriptions for adequacy, but in an action for infringement of a preregistered work, the court might evaluate the adequacy of the description to determine whether the preregistration actually describes the work that is alleged to be infringed, taking into account the information available to the applicant at the time of preregistration and taking into account the legitimate interest of the applicant in protecting confidential information [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(6)].

a. For motion pictures, include following information to extent known at time of filing [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(6)(i)]:

d. For literary works in book form, include following information to extent known at time of filing [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(6)(iv)]:

- (1) Genre of book (such as biography, novel, history, etc.), which should include brief summary of work including, subject matter (for example, biography of President Lincoln, history of Civil War, fantasy novel).
- (2) Description (where applicable) of plot, primary characters, events, or other key elements of content of work.
- (3) Any other salient characteristics of book (for instance, whether it is later edition or revision of previous work), as well as any other detail which may assist in identifying this literary work in book form.

f. For advertising or marketing photographs, include following information to extent known at time of filing [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(6)(vi)]:

- (1) Subject matter depicted in photograph, including information such as particular product, event, public figure, or other item or occurrence that photograph is intended to advertise or market.
- (2) To extent possible and applicable, additional details that will assist in identifying this particular photograph, such as:

 - (d) Any events associated with photograph.
 - (e) Location and physical setting or surrounding depicted in photograph.
 - (f) Optional explanation of general presentation (such as lighting, background scenery, positioning of elements of subject matter as it is seen in photograph) and any locations and events, if applicable, associated with photograph.

NOTE:

The Copyright Office will conduct a limited review of an application for preregistration, in order to ascertain whether the application describes a work that is in a class of works that the Register of Copyrights has determined to have had a history of infringement prior to authorized commercial release. However, a work will not be preregistered unless the applicant has provided all of the information requested on the application and has certified that all of the information provided on the application is correct to the best of the applicant's knowledge [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(7)].

5. Certify on application that [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(8)]:

b. Information given in application is correct to best of that person's knowledge.

c. Work is being prepared for commercial distribution.

d. That person has reasonable expectation that work will be commercially distributed to public.

6. After application and supporting documents have been anticipated, await official notification to claimant by email [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(10)].

7. If certified copy of official notification in physical form is needed, contact Records Research and Certification Section of Information and Reference Division to order copy [37 C.F.R. § 202.16(c)(11); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.1(a)(3) (address)].

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.130

§ 103A.130 Use, Disposal, or Importation of Copy or Phonorecord

1. If client owns copy or phonorecord lawfully made under copyright law (or is acting under authority of owner), advise client of right to do following without obtaining permission of copyright owner [17 U.S.C. § 109]:

a. Sell or otherwise dispose of possession of copy or phonorecord [17 U.S.C. § 109(a)].

NOTE:

This right is subject to substantial exceptions for sound recordings and computer programs that preclude its exercise [see 17 U.S.C. § 109(b); see also 17 U.S.C. § 109(e); Pub. L. No. 101-650, § 840(c), 104 Stat. 5136 (certain electronic audiovisual games)]. Furthermore, unless authorized by the copyright owner, the right does not extend to any person who has acquired possession of the copy or phonorecord from the copyright owner, by rental, lease, loan, or otherwise, without acquiring ownership of it [17 U.S.C. § 109(d)].

b. Display copy publicly, either directly or by projection of no more than one image at a time, to viewers present at place where copy is located [17 U.S.C. § 109(c)].

NOTE:

Unless authorized by the copyright owner, this right does not extend to any person who has acquired possession of the copy or phonorecord from the copyright owner, by rental, lease, loan, or otherwise, without acquiring ownership of it [17 U.S.C. § 109(d)].

c. Publicly perform or display a lawfully made copy of an electronic audiovisual game in coin-operated equipment [17 U.S.C. § 109(e)].

NOTE:

This right does not apply to any work of authorship embodied in the audiovisual game if the copyright owner of the electronic audiovisual game is not also the copyright owner of the work of authorship [17 U.S.C. § 109(e)]. Nor does it apply to any public performance or display that occurs on or after October 1, 1995 [see Pub. L. No. 101-650, §§ 803, 804(a), (c), 104 Stat. 5135, 5136].

2. If client wishes to import copyrighted materials, advise client of statutory right to import:

a. Copies or phonorecords under authority or for use of federal government or of any state or political subdivision of state, but not for [17 U.S.C. § 602(a)(1)]:

(1) Use in schools; or

(2) Purposes other than archival use, if importing audiovisual works.

b. For private use of importer and not for distribution [17 U.S.C. § 602(a)(2)]:

(1) One copy or phonorecord of any one work at any one time; or

(2) Copies or phonorecords forming part of personal baggage of importer who is arriving from outside United States.

c. The following, if importation is by or for organization operated for scholarly, educational, or religious purposes and not for private gain [17 U.S.C. § 602(a)(3)]:

(1) One copy of audiovisual work solely for its archival purposes; and

(2) Up to five copies or phonorecords of any other work for its library lending or archival purposes.

NOTE:

This provision applies unless the importation of the copies or phonorecords is part of an activity consisting of systematic reproduction or distribution, engaged in by an organization in violation of the rights of reproduction and distribution [17 U.S.C. § 602(a)(3); see 17 U.S.C. § 108(g)(2) (rights of reproduction and distribution)].

§ 103A.131 Making Fair Use of Work

1. Advise client that a person other than copyright owner may lawfully make fair use of copyrighted work for purposes such as [17 U.S.C. § 107]:

- a. Criticism.
- b. Comment.
- c. News reporting.
- d. Teaching.
- e. Scholarship.
- f. Research.

NOTE:

These uses include reproduction in copies or phonorecords, derivative works, performance, or display [see 17 U.S.C. § 107].

2. In making fair use determination, consider following factors [17 U.S.C. § 107]:

- a. Purpose and character of use, including whether it is of commercial nature or is for nonprofit educational purposes.
- b. Nature of copyrighted work.

c. Amount and substantiality of portion used in relationship to copyrighted work as a whole.

d. Effect of use on potential market for or value of copyrighted work.

§ 103A.132 Nonprofit Performance of Nondramatic Musical or Literary Works

1. If client wishes to give nonprofit performance of nondramatic literary or musical work, advise client to take following steps to avoid infringement of copyright [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)]:

a. Do not transmit performance to public.

NOTE:

The performance must be given directly in the presence of its audience, by means of living performers, playing of phonorecords, or the operation of a receiving apparatus [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 85 (1976)].

b. Do not give performance for any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.

NOTE:

The performance may not be in connection with commercial or profit enterprises, even though admission is free [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 85 (1976)].

c. Do not pay any fee or other compensation for performance to any of its performers, promoters, or organizers.

d. Do not impose direct or indirect admission charge unless both of following apply:

(1) Proceeds from admission charge, after deducting reasonable production costs, are used exclusively for educational, religious, or charitable purposes, and not for private gain.

(2) Copyright owner does not serve notice of objection [see § 103A.124; see also § 103A.103A.220[2] (form for notice)].

2. Advise any client interested in performing nondramatic musical work by vending establishment (e.g., record store) to take following steps to avoid infringement of copyright [17 U.S.C. § 110(7)]:

- a. Limit performance to nondramatic musical work.
- b. Confirm that establishment is open to public at large.
- c. Do not impose a direct or indirect admission charge.
- d. Have, as sole purpose of performance, promotion of retail sale of copies of phonorecords of work, or of audiovisual or other devices used in performance.
- e. Do not transmit performance:
 - (1) Beyond place where establishment is located; or
 - (2) Outside of immediate area where sale is occurring.

3. If applicable, instruct client that display of any work or presentation of following materials in course of services at place of worship or other religious assembly may be given without constituting infringement of copyright [17 U.S.C. § 110(3)]:

NOTE:

Activities at a house of worship that are for social, educational, fundraising, or entertainment purposes are not exempted by this provision (although they may be covered by the exemption for performances under noncommercial circumstances) [see 17 U.S.C. § 110(4); see also P 1, above]. The required locale excludes the concept of religious broadcast or other transmissions, even from a place of worship; but it does not prevent sacred assemblies at other locations for convention of the religious body (such as an outdoor theater) [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 84, 85 (1976)].

- a. Nondramatic literary or musical work.
- b. Dramatic-musical work of religious nature.

NOTE:

This exemption is designed to include certain kinds of sacred music forms that might be regarded as "dramatic" in nature, such as oratorios, cantatas, musical settings of masses, and choral services. It is not intended to include secular musical forms, for example, opera, musical plays, or motion pictures, even if they have an underlying religious or philosophical theme and are given in the course of the services [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 84 (1976)].

4. Instruct client that performance at annual agricultural or horticultural fair or exhibition may be given and is not an infringement of copyright if performance [17 U.S.C. § 110(6)]:

- a. Is limited to nondramatic musical work; and
- b. Is given by organization or body conducting fair or exhibition.

NOTE:

This exemption also protects these entities from liability for copyright infringement for the above types of performances given by any other entity or person at the fair (for example, concessionaire), but does not protect those other entities or persons [see 17 U.S.C. § 110(6)].

5. If client wishes to give performance in course of social function, instruct client to take following steps to avoid infringement problems [17 U.S.C. § 110(10)]:

a. Perform only nondramatic literary or musical work.

b. Confirm that social function is:

(1) Organized and promoted by:

(a) Nonprofit veterans' organization; or

(b) Nonprofit fraternal organization; and

(2) Not open to general public.

NOTE:

This prohibition does not extend to invitees of the above organizations [17 U.S.C. § 110(10)].

c. Use proceeds from performance, after deducting production costs, exclusively for charitable purposes and not for financial gain.

NOTE:

The social functions of any college or university fraternity or sorority are not covered by this provision unless the social function is held solely to raise funds for a specific charitable purpose [17 U.S.C. § 110(10)].

6. If client is nonprofit organization or governmental body, explain that it can do following without infringing copyright:

a. Distribute single copy or phonorecord of nondramatic musical work of religious nature, but only by complying with following [17 U.S.C. § 112(c)]:

(1) Reproduce only:

(a) Particular transmission program embodying performance of above work.

(2) Do not impose direct or indirect charge for making or distributing the copies or phonorecords.

(3) Use each copy or phonorecord exclusively for single transmission to public by any transmitting organization entitled to transmit to public under license or transfer of copyright.

(4) Preserve no more than single copy exclusively for archival purposes.

(5) Destroy all other copies or phonorecords within one year from date transmission program was first transmitted to public.

NOTE:

These programs are prepared on tape or disk and distributed by mailing a single copy to each broadcast station carrying a program. The program producer either pays the station to carry the program or furnishes it free of charge. After the performance the tape is returned or the disk is destroyed. The station, having a performing license, compensates any copyright owner [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 104 (1976)].

b. Transmit performance of nondramatic literary work by [17 U.S.C. §§ 110(8), 112(d)]:

(1) Confirming that performance is by or in course of transmission specifically designed for and primarily directed to:

(a) Blind or other handicapped persons unable to read normal printed material as result of their handicap; or

(b) Deaf or other handicapped persons unable to hear aural signals accompanying transmission of visual signals.

(2) Making performance without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.

(3) Making transmission through facilities of any of the following:

(a) Governmental body.

(b) Noncommercial educational broadcast station [see 47 U.S.C. § 397 (definition)].

(c) Radio subcarrier authorization [see 47 C.F.R. §§ 73.293-73.295, 73.593-73.595 (definitions)].

(d) Cable system [see 17 U.S.C. § 111(f) (definition)].

(4) Making no more than 10 copies or phonorecords embodying performance.

(5) Confirming that any copy or phonorecord is:

(a) Retained and used exclusively by organization that made it, or by governmental body or nonprofit organization entitled to transmit above performance;

(b) Is not itself reproduced;

(c) Used exclusively for above transmission, or for purposes of archival preservation or security; and

(d) Used without charge by any other governmental body or nonprofit organization that has been authorized by client to use above copy or phonorecord.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide

2. User of Copyrighted Work

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.133

§ 103A.133 Compulsory License to Make and Distribute Phonorecords

1. Inform client that he or she may obtain compulsory license to make and distribute phonorecords of nondramatic musical works if [see 17 U.S.C. § 115(a)]:

NOTE:

It should be emphasized that the compulsory license discussed in this section merely grants a non-exclusive right to make and sell, for private use, records of any nondramatic musical works that have been publicly distributed in the United States [see 17 U.S.C. § 115(a)].

The compulsory license includes the right of the licensee to distribute or authorize the distribution of a phonorecord of a nondramatic work by means of a digital transmission which constitutes a digital phonorecord delivery, regardless of whether the digital transmission is also a public performance of the sound recording under 17 U.S.C. § 106(6) or of any nondramatic work embodied in the sound recording under 17 U.S.C. § 106(6) [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(3)(A)]. For further discussion of this right of digital phonorecord delivery, see P 7, below. For detailed discussion, see Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 8, The Nature of the Rights Protected by Copyright (Matthew Bender).

The compulsory license also includes the right of licensee to distribute or authorize distribution of the phonorecord by rental, lease, or lending, or by acts or practices in the nature of rental, lease, or lending [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(4)]. The right does not apply to literary or dramatic works or sound recordings. Further, it does not include the right to duplicate a motion picture soundtrack [see 17 U.S.C. § 101 (definition)], to reproduce the work in sheet music or in other types of copies, or to publicly perform the work as contained in the phonorecords made pursuant to the right [M. Witmark & Sons v.

Standard Music Roll Co. (D.N.J. 1914) 213 F. 532, 534 , aff'd, 221 F. 376, 380 (3d Cir. 1915)] . For additional discussion of this right, see Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 8, The Nature of the Rights Protected by Copyright (Matthew Bender).

a. Phonorecords of work have been distributed to United States public under authority of copyright owner; and

b. Client's primary purpose is to make phonorecords for distribution to public for private use (including by means of digital phonorecord delivery).

2. Advise client that compulsory license cannot be used to make phonorecords duplicating a sound recording fixed by another, unless [17 U.S.C. § 115(a)(1)]:

a. Sound recording was fixed lawfully; and

b. Making of phonorecords was authorized by:

(1) Owner of copyright in sound recording; or

(2) If sound recording was fixed before February 15, 1972, by any person who fixed sound recording under:

(a) Express license from owner of copyright in musical work; or

(b) Valid compulsory license for use of work in sound recording.

3. To obtain compulsory license, prepare notice of intention to obtain compulsory license, containing [17 U.S.C. § 115(b); 37 C.F.R. § 201.18]:

NOTE:

The Copyright Office does not provide printed forms for the use of persons serving or filing notices of intention [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(c)].

A person is entitled to serve or file a notice of intention and thereby obtain a compulsory license pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 115 only if the primary purpose in making phonorecords is to distribute them to the public for private use, including by means of a digital phonorecord delivery [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(2)]. A "digital phonorecord delivery" is each individual delivery of a phonorecord by digital transmission of a sound recording which results in a specifically identifiable reproduction by or for any transmission recipient of a phonorecord of that sound recording, regardless of whether the digital transmission is also a public performance of the sound recording or any nondramatic musical work embodied therein. The reproduction of the phonorecord must be sufficiently permanent or stable to permit it to be perceived, reproduced, or otherwise communicated for a period of more than transitory duration. Such a phonorecord may be permanent, or it may be made available to the transmission recipient for a limited period of time or for a specified number of performances. A digital phonorecord delivery includes all phonorecords that are made for the purpose of making the digital phonorecord delivery [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(2)].

The notice may designate any number of nondramatic musical works, provided that the copyright owner of each designated work or, in the case of any work having more than one copyright owner, any one of the copyright owners is the same and that certain required information [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(i)-(iv); P b(1), (5), below] does not vary. A notice that lists multiple works will be considered a composite filing of multiple notices, and fees will be paid accordingly [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(4)].

A single notice may designate works not owned by the same copyright owner when the notice is served on a common agent of multiple copyright owners [see P 4, below], and when each of the works designated in the notice is owned by any of the copyright owners who have authorized that agent to receive notices [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(6)].

If a notice served on a copyright owner or an authorized agent of a copyright owner identifies more than 50 works that are embodied or intended to be embodied in phonorecords made under the compulsory license, the copyright owner or the authorized agent may send the person who served the notice a demand that a list of each of the works so identified be resubmitted in an electronic format, along with a copy of the original notice. The person who served the notice must submit such a list, which must include all of the information required in 37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(v) [see P b(6), below] within 30 days after receipt of the demand from the copyright owner or authorized agent. The list must be submitted on magnetic disk or another medium widely used at the time for electronic storage of data, in the form of a flat file, wordprocessing document, or spreadsheet, readable with computer software in wide use at such time, with the required information identified or delimited so as to be readily discernible. The list may be submitted by means of electronic transmission (such as e-mail) if the demand from the copyright owner or authorized agent states that such submission will be accepted [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(6)].

A copyright owner or the agent of a copyright owner with authority to receive notices of intention may make public a written policy that it will accept notices of intention to make and distribute phonorecords pursuant to 17 U.S.C. 115 that include less than all of the information required by 37 C.F.R. § 201.18 in a form different from what is required by that section, or delivered by means (including electronic transmission) other than those required by that section. Any notice provided in accordance with such policy will not be rendered invalid for failing to comply with the specific requirements of that section [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(7)].

a. Following statement, at head of notice: "Notice of Intention to Obtain a Compulsory License for Making and Distributing Phonorecords." [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)].

b. Clear statement of following information:

NOTE:

This "clear statement" must be a clearly intelligible, legible, and unambiguous statement in the notice itself and must not incorporate by reference any facts or information contained in other documents or records [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(2)].

For purposes of this "clear statement" requirement, information required to be given "if known" or as "expected" must be given in good faith and on the basis of the best knowledge, information, and belief of the person signing the notice. If so given, later developments affecting the accuracy of this information will not affect the validity of the notice [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(3)].

(1) Full legal name of person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license, together with all fictitious or assumed names used by such person or entity for purpose of conducting business of making and distributing phonorecords [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(i)].

(2) Telephone number, full address including specific number and street name or rural route of place of business, and e-mail address, if available, of person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(ii)].

NOTE:

A post office box or similar designation is not sufficient for this purpose except when it is the only address that can be used in that geographic location [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(ii)].

(3) If business organization intends to obtain compulsory license, name and title of chief executive officer, managing partner, proprietor, or other person similarly responsible for management of such entity [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(ii)].

(4) If entity intending to obtain compulsory license is holding company, trust, or other entity that is not expected to be actively engaged in business of making and distributing phonorecords under license or of authorizing making and distribution, all of foregoing information in (1)-(3), above, for primary entity expected to be engaged in business of making and distributing phonorecords under license or business of authorizing making and distribution (for example, record company or digital music service) [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(iii)].

(5) Fiscal year of person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license, and statement that fiscal year is calendar year, if it is [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(iv)].

(6) For each nondramatic musical work embodied or intended to be embodied in phonorecords made under compulsory license [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(v)]:

(a) Title of nondramatic musical work.

(b) Name of author or authors, if known.

(c) Copyright owner of work, if known.

(d) Types of all phonorecord configurations already made (if any) and expected to be made under compulsory license (for example, single disk, long-playing disk, cassette, cartridge, reel-to-reel, digital phonorecord delivery, or combination of them).

(e) Expected date of initial distribution of phonorecords already made (if any) or expected to be made under compulsory license.

(f) Name of principal recording artist or group actually engaged or expected to be engaged in rendering performances fixed on phonorecords already made (if any) or expected to be made under compulsory license.

(g) Catalog number or numbers, and label name or names, used or expected to be used on phonorecords already made (if any) or expected to be made under compulsory license.

(h) In case of phonorecords already made (if any) under compulsory license, date or dates of such manufacture.

NOTE:

If the notice will be filed with the Copyright Office pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(3) [see P 5, below], the notice also must include an affirmative statement that, with respect to the nondramatic musical work(s) named in the notice, the registration records or other public records of the Copyright Office have been searched and found not to identify the name and address of any copyright owner of the work(s) [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(d)(1)(vi)].

c. Signature of person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license or duly authorized agent of such person or entity [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(e)].

(1) If person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license is corporation, signature must be that of duly authorized officer or agent of corporation.

(2) If person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license is partnership, signature must be that of partner or duly authorized agent of partnership.

NOTE:

If the notice is signed by a duly authorized agent for the person or entity intending to obtain the compulsory license, the notice must include an affirmative statement that the agent is authorized to execute the notice on behalf of the person or entity intending to obtain the compulsory license [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(e)(3)].

4. If public records of Copyright Office identify copyright owner of work named in notice and owner's address, have notice served as follows [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(1)]:

NOTE:

It is not necessary to file a copy of the notice in the Copyright Office in this case [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(1)].

a. By mail or reputable courier service.

b. Sent to owner's last address shown by records of Copyright Office.

NOTE:

Service of a notice of intention on a copyright owner may be accomplished by means of service of the notice on either the copyright owner or an agent of the copyright owner with authority to receive the notice [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.18(b) (duties of agent)]. If the work has more than one copyright owner, service of the notice on any one of the co-owners of the work or on an authorized agent of one of the co-owners identified in the notice is sufficient with respect to all co-owners [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(6)].

If a notice of intention is sent by certified mail or registered mail, a mailing receipt is sufficient to prove that service was timely. If a notice of intention is delivered by a reputable courier, documentation from the courier showing the first date of attempted delivery is also sufficient to prove that service was timely. In the absence of a receipt from the U.S. Postal Service showing the date of delivery or documentation showing the first date of attempted delivery by a reputable courier, the compulsory licensee bears the burden of proving that the notice of intention was served in a timely manner [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(5)].

If the notice is served electronically, the person or entity intending to obtain the compulsory license and the copyright owner must establish a procedure to verify that the notice is being submitted on the authority of the person or entity intending to obtain the compulsory license [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(e)(4)].

5. If notice is sent in manner described in P 4, above, and is returned because copyright owner is no longer located at that address or has refused to accept delivery, file original notice with Licensing Division of Copyright Office, accompanied by [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(2)]:

- a. Brief statement that notice was sent to last address for copyright owner shown by records of Copyright Office but was returned; and
- b. Appropriate evidence that notice was sent by mail or reputable courier service to that address.

NOTE:

In these cases, the Copyright Office will specially mark its records to consider the date the original notice was mailed, as shown by the evidence mentioned above, as the date of filing. A written acknowledgment of receipt and filing will be provided to the sender and no filing fee will be required. On request and payment of fee, a Certificate of Filing will be provided to the sender [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(2)].

6. If registration records or other public records of Copyright Office do not identify copyright owner of such work and include address for such owner:

- a. Notice may be filed in Copyright Office [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(3)].

NOTE:

Notices of intention submitted for filing must be accompanied by the fee specified in 37 C.F.R. § 201.3(e). A separate fee will be assessed for each title listed in the notice. Notices of intention are filed by being placed in the appropriate public records of the Licensing Division of the Copyright Office. The date of filing is the date when the notice and fee are both received in the Copyright Office. An acknowledgment of receipt and filing is provided to the sender [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(3)].

- b. Alternatively, if person or entity intending to obtain compulsory license knows name and address of copyright owner of nondramatic musical work, or agent of copyright owner as described in 37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(4) [see P 4, above], notice of intention may be served on copyright owner or agent of copyright owner by sending notice by mail or delivering it by reputable courier service to address of copyright owner or agent of copyright owner [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(4)].

NOTE:

For purposes of 17 U.S.C. § 115(b)(1), the notice is not considered properly served if the notice is not sent to the copyright owner or the agent of the copyright owner as described in 37 C.F.R. § 201.18(a)(6) [see P 4, above] or if the notice is sent to an incorrect address [37 C.F.R. § 201.18(f)(4)].

7. Instruct licensee to pay royalty to copyright owner for every phonorecord made and distributed in accordance with license [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)] as follows:

NOTE:

Distribution occurs if the person exercising the license has voluntarily and permanently parted with its possession. Whether it was a sale or gift is irrelevant. Forcible separation of copies through theft or fire would not constitute a voluntary parting [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(2); H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 110 (1976)]. The licensee may distribute or authorize distribution of a phonorecord of a nondramatic musical work by means of a digital transmission [see 17 U.S.C. § 101 ("digital transmission" defined)] that constitutes a digital phonorecord delivery [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(3); see 17 U.S.C. § 115(d) ("digital phonorecord delivery" defined)]. The licensee may also distribute or authorize distribution of the phonorecord by renting, leasing, or lending it, or by doing other acts or practices in the nature of rental, lease, or loan [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(4)].

Royalties need not be paid if the copyright owner is not identified in any of the public records of the Copyright Office. An identified owner is entitled to royalties for phonorecords made and distributed after being so identified, and not for any phonorecords previously made and distributed [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(1)].

a. For each work embodied in phonorecord, pay appropriate royalty as determined by nature of distribution:

(1) For each distribution consisting of licensee's voluntarily and permanently parting with possession of phonorecord, whether by sale or gift, pay statutory royalty rate [see 17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(2)].

(2) For each distribution of phonorecord of nondramatic musical work by means of digital transmission constituting digital phonorecord, pay either statutory royalty rate or negotiated rate, as applicable [see 17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(3)].

(3) For each distribution by or in nature of rental, lease, or loan occurring between October 4, 1984, and October 4, 1997, pay proportion of revenue received from rental distribution equal to the proportion of revenue payable under other forms of distribution [17 U.S.C. §§ 109 (note), 115(c)(4); Pub. L. No. 98-450, § 4; Pub. L. No. 100-617, § 1; Pub. L. No. 104-39, § 4; see P (1), above; see also Pub. L. No. 101-650, § 804(c), 104 Stat. 5136 (1990 amendment to 17 U.S.C. § 109(b) does not apply to rentals, leaseings, and lendings occurring on and after Oct. 1, 1997)].

b. Make payment on or before twentieth day of each month for all royalty obligations arising during month next preceding [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(5)].

NOTE:

Payments are made under oath and according to requirements of the Register of Copyrights [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(5)].

c. Prepare and distribute monthly statements of account and cumulative annual statements of account [17 U.S.C. § 115(c)(5); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.19 (detailed requirements)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide

2. User of Copyrighted Work

§ 103A.134 Employing Works for Educational or Library Purposes

1. If client is teacher or someone acting at teacher's request and wishes to take advantage of teacher's "fair use" right to photocopy copyrighted material, advise client to do following [see 17 U.S.C. § 107; see also H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 68-70 (1976)]:

NOTE:

The general principles of fair use are discussed in § 103A.131. The following guidelines suggest the minimal standards of educational fair use under the copyright law [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 68 (1976)]. Although the courts are not bound by these guidelines, they have been endorsed by Congress and are considered by some to be the equivalent of statutory text [see Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 13, Infringement Actions--Substantive Aspects (Matthew Bender)].

a. For single copy of a work:

(1) Make copy for only following purposes:

(a) Scholarly research.

(b) Use in teaching.

(c) Preparation to teach.

(2) Reproduce any of following:

(a) Chapter from book.

(b) Article from periodical or newspaper.

(c) Short story, short essay, or short poem, whether or not from collective work.

(d) Chart, graph, diagram, drawing, cartoon, or picture from book, periodical, or newspaper.

b. For multiple copies for classroom use or discussion:

(1) Do not make more than one copy per pupil in a course.

(2) Confirm that notice of copyright appears on each copy.

(3) If work consists of poetry, restrict copying to:

(a) Complete poem of under 250 words printed on not more than two pages.

(b) From longer poem, excerpt of up to 250 words.

(4) If prose, copy only:

(a) Complete article, story, or essay of under 2,500 words.

(b) From longer work, excerpt of at least 500 words and maximum of the lesser of 1,000 words or 10 percent of work.

NOTE:

The limits of poetry or prose may be expanded to complete a line of poetry or a prose paragraph. Certain special works, like illustrated stories for young children, may not be reproduced in their entirety although qualifying under prose guidelines, but an excerpt of two pages with no more than 10 percent of the words found in the text may be copied [see H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 69 (1976)].

(5) Limit copies of illustrations to one chart, graph, diagram, drawing, cartoon, or picture per book or per periodical issue.

(6) Confirm that copying is:

(a) Made at instance of individual teacher; and

(b) Not directed by higher authority (for example, school principal or board of education).

(7) Only make copies when it would be unreasonable to expect timely reply to request for permission to use.

(8) Do not copy material for more than one course in school.

(9) During any class term, limit copies to:

(a) Not more than one short poem, article, story, essay, or two excerpts of any one author.

(b) Three of above works from same collective work or periodical volume.

(10) Do not engage in more than nine instances of multiple copying for one course during one class term.

NOTE:

The limitations stated in PP (9) and (10), above, do not apply to current news publications in newspapers and periodicals [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 69 (1976)].

(11) Do not substitute copying for:

(a) Anthologies, compilations, or collective works.

(b) Book or reprint purchases.

(12) Do not copy "consumable" works, such as test booklets and workbooks.

(13) Do not permit same teacher to copy same item from term to term.

(14) Do not charge students for more than actual photocopying cost.

2. If client is interested in making fair use of music for educational purposes, brief client on applicable Congressional guidelines [see H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 70-71 (1976) (guidelines); see also 17 U.S.C. § 107].

3. If client wishes to perform or display copyrighted work at nonprofit educational institution, advise client to avoid infringement problems by confirming that performance or display is done as follows [17 U.S.C. § 110(1)]:

a. By instructors or pupils.

b. In course of face-to-face teaching activities.

NOTE:

Although the work must not be remotely transmitted between the participants, its presence may be augmented or amplified within the same facility to reach a larger number of participants [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 81 (1976)].

c. In classroom or similar place devoted to instruction.

NOTE:

Although stadiums, gymnasiums, or auditoriums might be used, the presence of a group resembling an audience rather than pupils enrolled in a particular course would violate the exemption [see H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 82 (1976)].

d. In case of motion picture or other audiovisual work, without utilizing copies that person responsible for performance knew, or reasonably should have known, were made in violation of copyright law.

4. If client wishes to present transmitted performance of nondramatic literary or musical work or reasonable and limited portions of any other work as part of instructional activities, notify client of need to make presentation under following circumstances [see 17 U.S.C. § 110(2)(A)-(D)]:

NOTE:

: Generally the performance of a nondramatic literary or musical work or reasonable and limited portions of any other work, or display of a work in an amount comparable to that which is typically displayed in the course of a live classroom session, by or in the course of a transmission, is not an infringement of copyright if the conditions listed below are satisfied. However, this is not true with respect to a work produced or marketed primarily for performance or display as part of mediated instructional activities (see note below) transmitted via digital networks, or a performance or display that is given by means of a copy or phonorecord that is not lawfully made and acquired under the Copyright Act, which the transmitting government body or accredited nonprofit educational institution knew or had reason to believe was not lawfully made and acquired [17 U.S.C. § 110(2)].

a. Performance or display is made by, at direction of, or under actual supervision of instructor as integral part of class session offered as regular part of systematic mediated instructional activities of governmental body or accredited nonprofit educational institution.

NOTE:

The term "mediated instructional activities" with respect to the performance or display of a work by digital transmission refers to activities that use the work as an integral part of the class experience, controlled by or under the actual supervision of the instructor and analogous to the type of performance or display that would take place in a live classroom setting. The term does not refer to activities that use, in one or more class sessions of a single course, such works as textbooks, course packs, or other material in any media, copies or phonorecords of which are typically purchased or acquired by the students in higher education for their independent use and retention or are typically purchased or acquired for elementary and secondary students for their possession and independent use [17 U.S.C. § 110(2)].

Accreditation, with respect to an institution providing post-secondary education, is to be determined by a regional or national accrediting agency recognized by the Council on Higher Education Accreditation or the United States Department of Education; and with respect to an institution providing elementary or secondary education, accreditation is to be as recognized by the applicable state certification or licensing procedures [17 U.S.C. § 110(2)].

b. Performance or display is directly related to, and of material assistance to, teaching content of transmission.

c. Transmission is made solely for (and, to extent technologically feasible, reception of transmission is limited to) either:

(1) Students officially enrolled in course for which transmission is made; or

(2) Officers or employees of governmental bodies as part of their official duties or employment.

d. Transmitting body or institution takes these steps:

(1) Institutes policies regarding copyright;

(2) Provides informational materials to faculty, students, and relevant staff members that accurately describe, and promote compliance with, laws of United States relating to copyright; and

(3) Provides notice to students that materials used in connection with course may be subject to copyright protection.

e. Transmitting body or institution takes these steps in case of digital transmission:

(1) Applies technological measures that reasonably prevent retention of work in accessible form by recipients of transmission from transmitting body or institution for longer than class session;

(2) Applies technological measures that reasonably prevent unauthorized further dissemination of work in accessible form by such recipients to others; and

(3) Does not engage in conduct that could reasonably be expected to interfere with technological measures used by copyright owners to prevent such retention or unauthorized further dissemination.

NOTE:

No governmental body or accredited nonprofit educational institution is liable for infringement by reason of the transient or temporary storage of material carried out through the automatic technical process of a digital transmission of the performance or display of that material as authorized under 17 U.S.C. § 110(2). No such material stored on the system or network controlled or operated by the transmitting body or institution under 17 U.S.C. § 110(2) may be maintained on the system or network in a manner ordinarily accessible to anyone other than anticipated recipients. No such copy may be maintained on the system or network in a manner ordinarily accessible to anticipated recipients for a longer period than is reasonably necessary to facilitate the transmissions for which it was made [17 U.S.C. § 110(2)].

5. If client is organization or governmental body, inform it of right to make no more than 30 copies of phonorecords of particular transmission program without infringing copyright under following conditions [17 U.S.C. § 112(b)]:

a. Client must:

(1) Be entitled to make educational transmission [see 17 U.S.C. § 110(2); see also P 4, above]; or

(2) Be exercising a right in sound recording that does not belong to copyright owner [see 17 U.S.C. § 114(a); see also § 103A.36].

b. Copies or phonorecords permissibly made under above exemption are not themselves reproduced.

c. Maximum of one exhibit is preserved exclusively for archival purposes.

d. Otherwise, remaining exhibits are destroyed within seven years from date of first transmission to public.

6. Instruct client that library or archives may reproduce or distribute one copy or phonorecord of work without infringing copyright by taking following steps [17 U.S.C. § 108]:

NOTE:

For purposes of 17 U.S.C. § 108, during the last 20 years of any term of copyright of a published work, a library or archives, including a nonprofit education institution that functions as such, may reproduce, distribute, display or perform in facsimile or digital form a copy or phonorecord of that work (or portions of the work) for purposes of preservation, scholarship or research, provided that (1) the work is not subject to normal commercial exploitation, (2) the work cannot be obtained at a reasonable price, or (3) the copyright owner or agent has not provided notice, as required by the regulations, that either (1) or (2) applies [17 U.S.C. § 108(h)(1), (2)].

For an analysis of the complex components of this important exemption, see Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 8, The Nature of the Rights Protected by Copyright (Matthew Bender). This exemption from the copyright owner's reproduction rights [see 17 U.S.C. § 106(1)] is in addition to the rights available to libraries and archives under the fair use doctrine [17 U.S.C. § 108(f)(4); see § 103A.131 (fair use); see also Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 13, Infringement Actions--Substantive Aspects (Matthew Bender), for a detailed discussion of "fair use" photocopying].

a. Do not reproduce or distribute for any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.

NOTE:

A library or archives collection contained within an industrial, profit-making, or proprietary institution should be able to operate within the exemption by making isolated, spontaneous renderings of single photocopies without any commercial motivation, or by entering into interlibrary arrangements as described below [H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 74, 75 (1976)].

b. Confirm that library or archives collections are either:

(1) Open to public; or

(2) Available to specialized field researchers who are unaffiliated with library or archives or institution of which those facilities are a part.

c. Include copyright notice.

d. When copy or phonorecord or unpublished work is to be duplicated in facsimile or digital form:

(1) Confirm that work is solely for either:

(a) Purposes of preservation and security; or

(b) Deposit for research use in another library or archives.

(2) Confirm that copy or phonorecord is currently in collections of library or archives.

(3) Confirm that copy or phonorecord that is reproduced in digital format is not otherwise distributed in that format and is not made available to public in that format outside premises of library or archives.

e. When copy or phonorecord of published work is to be duplicated in facsimile or digital form:

- (1) Confirm that material to be duplicated is damaged, deteriorating, lost, or has been stolen.

NOTE:

This right of reproduction applies to three copies or phonorecords of a published work [17 U.S.C. § 108(c)].

- (2) Proceed only if reasonable effort indicates that unused replacement cannot be obtained at fair price.

- (3) Confirm that copy or phonorecord that is reproduced in digital format is not otherwise distributed in that format and is not made available to public in that format outside premises of library or archives.

f. If user requests reproduction of copy or phonorecord of item from collection:

- (1) Do not reproduce if on notice that copy or phonorecord would be used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research.

- (2) Permit user to keep reproduction.

- (3) Display prominently at place where reproduction order is accepted, and include on order form, official warnings of copyright [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.14; see also P g, below].

- (4) Do not reproduce and distribute entire work (or substantial part of it) without first determining, on basis of reasonable investigation, that copy or phonorecord cannot be obtained at fair price.

NOTE:

Subject to certain conditions, this requirement does not apply to the reproduction and distribution of one article or other contribution to a copyrighted collection or periodical issue, or to a small part of any other copyrighted work [17 U.S.C. § 108(d)]. A "small part" of another work would probably be anything comparable in length to a typical contribution to a collection or periodical, such as a chapter from a novel [Nimmer On Copyright, Ch. 8, The Nature of the Rights Protected by Copyright, § 8.03[2][a] (Matthew Bender)].

g. When making user-requested reproduction [see P f, above], display or distribute warnings of copyright as follows:

- (1) Ensure that Display Warning of Copyright and an Order Warning of Copyright consists of verbatim reproduction of following notice [37 C.F.R. § 201.14(b)]:

NOTICE OF WARNING CONCERNING COPYRIGHT RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specific conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.

(2) Display warnings as follows [37 C.F.R. § 201.14(c)(1)]:

(a) Print official Display Warning of Copyright [see P (1), above] on heavy paper or other durable material in at least 18-point type.

(b) Display so that it is clearly visible, legible, and comprehensible to casual observer within immediate vicinity of place where orders are accepted.

NOTE:

To protect itself against unauthorized and unsupervised reproduction, the library or archives should place on all its reproducing equipment a notice to the effect that the making of a copy may be subject to the copyright law [17 U.S.C. § 108(f)(1)].

(3) Include warnings on reproduction order forms as follows [37 C.F.R. § 201.14(c)(2)]:

(a) Print official Order Warning of Copyright [see P (1), above] within box located prominently on order form itself, either on front side of form, or immediately adjacent to space calling for name or signature of person using form.

(b) Print in type size no smaller than that used predominantly throughout form and never smaller than eight-point type.

(c) Print in such a manner as to be clearly legible, comprehensible, and readily apparent to casual reader of form.

h. Do not engage in concerted or systematic reproduction or distribution of multiple copies or phonorecords of same material [see 17 U.S.C. § 108(g); see also H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 94-1733, at 72, 73 (1976)].

i. Do not reproduce and distribute any of following kinds of works [17 U.S.C. § 108(i)], except for preservation or replacement purposes [see 17 U.S.C. § 108(b),(c); see also PP d, e, above], or for pictorial or graphic works published as illustrations, diagrams, or similar adjuncts to certain works [see 17 U.S.C. § 108(d),(e); see also P f, above], or when reproducing under special exemption for last 20 years of copyright term [see 17 U.S.C. § 108(h); see also NOTE in P 6, above]:

(1) Musical works.

(2) Pictorial, graphic, or sculptural works.

(3) Motion pictures or other audiovisual works, except for audiovisual work dealing with news.

NOTE:

The exception for audiovisual works dealing with news is intended to apply to programs of actual news reporting, not to those of a more documentary or magazine format nature [see H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 77, 78 (1976)].

§ 103A.135 Performing Works for Handicapped Persons

1. To avoid infringement of copyright while performing nondramatic literary work for persons with impaired sight or hearing [17 U.S.C. § 110(8)]:

- a. Have performance transmitted primarily to above persons.
- b. Do not give performance for purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
- c. Confirm that transmission is made through facilities of:
 - (1) Governmental body.
 - (2) Noncommercial educational broadcast station [see 47 U.S.C. § 397 (definition)].
 - (3) Radio subcarrier authorization [see 47 C.F.R. §§ 73.293-73.295, 73.593-73.595 (definitions)].
 - (4) Cable system [see 17 U.S.C. § 111(f) (definition)].

2. To avoid infringement of copyright while performing dramatic literary work for persons with impaired sight [17 U.S.C. § 110(9)]:

NOTE:

These provisions are not applicable to more than one performance of the same work by the same performers or under the auspices of the same organization [17 U.S.C. § 110(9)].

- a. Give one performance of work published at least 10 years before performance date.
- b. Have performance transmitted:
 - (1) In manner specifically designed for sighted handicapped.
 - (2) Through facilities of radio subcarrier authorization [see 47 C.F.R. §§ 73.293-73.295, 73.593-73.595 (definitions)].
- c. Do not give performance for purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.

§ 103A.150 Transfer of Copyright

NOTE:

A copyright owner may assign all of his or her exclusive rights in a copyrighted work by assigning the renewal copyright without limitation; however, the assignee holds nothing if the owner dies before the beginning of the renewal period. Thus, if a copyright owner promises an assignee of the copyright that he or she will renew the copyright and assign it to the assignee for the renewal term, but dies before the beginning of the renewal period, the assignee may continue to use the work after the renewal date only if he or she obtains an assignment of the copyright for the renewal term from the owner's statutory successor [Stewart v. Abend (1990) 495 U.S. 207, 221, 110 S. Ct. 1750, 109 L. Ed. 2d 184] .

1. Draft instrument transferring copyright [see § 103A.224].

NOTE:

There are few formal requirements for an instrument transferring copyright ownership, and these are listed below. The transfer may be made as a separate instrument or as part of a detailed contract dealing with other matters besides the transfer of copyright. The transfer must, however, be made by a written instrument [see 17 U.S.C. § 204(a)].

a. State intent to transfer ownership of copyright.

b. Provide space for signature of owner of rights conveyed, or signature of owner's agent.

c. If desired, add acknowledgment of signature and certificate issued by [17 U.S.C. § 204(b)(1), (2)]:

NOTE:

A certificate of acknowledgment is not required, but it is desirable because it will constitute prima facie evidence of execution [see 17 U.S.C. § 204(b)].

(1) Person authorized to administer oaths within United States, if transfer executed in United States.

(2) Diplomatic or consular officer of United States, or person authorized to administer oaths, and whose authority to do so is proved by a certificate, if transfer executed in foreign country.

2. Have instrument of transfer signed by owner or owner's agent [17 U.S.C. § 204(a); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(1)].

3. Record instrument of transfer in Copyright Office [see § 103A.152; see also 37 C.F.R. § 201.4 (recordation procedures)].

§ 103A.151 Termination of Licenses and Transfers for Extended Terms of Copyrights Subsisting Before January 1, 1978

NOTE:

When the Copyright Act became effective on January 1, 1978, it extended the maximum duration of existing copyrights in their first or renewal terms from 56 to 75 years [see former 17 U.S.C. § 304(a), (b)]. Any copyright still in its renewal term at the time the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act became effective has a copyright term of 95 years from the date the copyright was originally secured [17 U.S.C. § 304(b); see Pub. L. No. 105-298, § 207 (Oct. 27, 1998; effective 90 days after enactment)]. If the rights under an existing copyright were transferred before the effective date of the Copyright Act, the Act permits the author or other specified persons [see 103A.221[1][c]] to terminate those rights for the extended term (except in the case of a copyright in a work made for hire) [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c), (d); see also § 103A.221[1]].

In the case of any copyright, other than a work for hire, subsisting in its renewal term on October 27, 1998 (the effective date of the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act), for which the termination right provided for in 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) has expired by that date and for which that right has not been previously exercised, termination may be effected at any time during a period of five years beginning at the end of 75 years from the date copyright was originally secured [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(d)(2)].

For all other contracts with termination rights provided in 17 U.S.C. § 304(c), termination may be effected at any time during a period of five years beginning at the end of 56 years from the date the copyright was originally secured, or beginning on January 1, 1978, whichever is later [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(3)].

Termination may be effected notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, including an agreement to make a will or any future grant [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(5)].

1. Prepare notice of termination [see § 103A.221[2]].

NOTE:

The required contents of this notice are discussed in detail in § 103A.221[1][e].

2. Have notice executed by person or persons terminating grant [see § 103A.211[1][c]].
3. Accompany handwritten signature of each person effecting termination with statement of full name and address of that person, typewritten or printed legibly by hand, or clearly include such a statement elsewhere in notice [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(c)(4)].
4. Serve notice on each grantee whose rights are being terminated, or on grantee's successor in title [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(d)(1)], by:
 - a. Personal service; or
 - b. First class mail sent to an address which, after a "reasonable investigation" [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.10(d)(3) (definition)], is found to be last known address of grantee or successor in title.
5. Record copy of notice in Copyright Office [see § 103A.152], accompanied by [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(f)(1)]:
 - a. Statement setting forth date on which notice was served and manner of service, unless that information is contained in notice.
 - b. Fee for recordation [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.3(c)].

NOTE:

If separate copies of the notice were served on more than one grantee, only one copy need be submitted for recordation [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(f)(1)].

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.152

§ 103A.152 Recordation of Transfers and Other Documents

NOTE:

An attorney representing a client in copyright matters should consider recording relevant documents with the Copyright Office even when recordation is not required by applicable statute or regulation. After recording a document, the Register of Copyrights will return that document along with a certificate of recordation [17 U.S.C. § 205(b)]. Recordation provides constructive notice to all persons of the facts stated in the document, provided that the document or the material attached specifically identifies work to which it pertains and states that the work is registered.

The procedures discussed below apply to documents commonly recorded in the Copyright Office. However, filing and recordation of certain specialized documents are governed by other law [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(a)(1)(i)-(vi)].

1. Make sure document to be recorded is either original or legible reproduction satisfying following requirements [37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(1), (3)]:

- a. Bearing actual signature or signatures of person or persons who executed it; or
- b. If photocopy or other facsimile is to be recorded in lieu of original, copy must be:
 - (1) Legible.
 - (2) Accompanied by sworn certification or official certification that reproduction is true copy of signed document.

NOTE:

The sworn certification accompanying a reproduction must be signed by at least one party to the document, or that party's representative [37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(1)].

2. If instrument contains a reference to any attached schedule, appendix, or exhibit, either [37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(2)(i)]:

NOTE:

The following rules do not apply to attachments that are self-contained parts of a larger instrument; these will be recorded if the person requesting recordation asserts that the document is sufficiently complete as it stands [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(2)(ii)]. If the document submitted for recordation merely identifies another document or incorporates another document by reference, the other document need not be recorded [37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(2)(iii)]. The completeness requirements may be waived in "exceptional cases" [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(2)(i)].

- a. Submit attachment along with document; or
- b. Have parties delete reference in document.

3. Submit document to Copyright Office along with required fee [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(d)].

1. Determine whether correction or amplification is necessary or appropriate.

a. Correction is appropriate if information in basic registration was incorrect at time basic registration was made, and error is not one that Copyright Office should have recognized [37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(i)].

b. Amplification is appropriate to reflect additional information that could have been given but was omitted at time of registration or to reflect changes in facts other than those specified in P c, below [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(ii)].

c. Correction or amplification is not appropriate to [37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(ii)-(iv)]:

NOTE:

Specific procedures for which supplementary registration is inappropriate are discussed in § 103A.154.

(1) Reflect ownership, division, allocation, licensing, or transfer of rights in work, whether at time of registration or thereafter.

(2) Correct errors in statements or notice on copies of phonorecords of work.

(3) Reflect changes in the content of work.

NOTE:

If the work has been changed substantially, an entirely new registration should be submitted for the revised version to cover the changes or additions.

(4) Correct renewal claimant or legal basis of claim or to add renewal claimant, if basic renewal registration has been made during last year of work's relevant first-term copyright, unless [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(iv)]:

(a) Application for supplementary registration and fee were received in Copyright Office within last year of relevant first-term copyright; and

(b) Clear and convincing evidence is submitted showing that inadvertent error was made in failing to designate correct living statutory renewal claimant in basic renewal registration.

2. To correct or amplify registration, file U.S. Copyright Office Form CA [see § 103A.209[2]] with Copyright Office, together with required fee.

§ 103A.154 Correction of Record or Status of Copyright

1. If name on copyright is erroneous [17 U.S.C. § 406(a)]:

NOTE:

An erroneous name does not affect the validity or ownership of copyright, but an innocent infringer may have a complete defense under those circumstances [see 17 U.S.C. § 406(a)]. Thus, to ensure protection of the copyright owner's rights, it is important that any errors be corrected promptly.

a. Register work in correct name of copyright owner; or

b. Record in Copyright Office [see § 103A.152] a document:

(1) Executed by person named in notice; and

(2) Showing ownership of copyright.

2. Document life or death of author by recording document with Copyright Office stating either [17 U.S.C. § 302(d); see 17 U.S.C. § 302(e) (presumption as to author's death)]:

NOTE:

Statements regarding the status of the author aid in establishing continuation or end of copyright. Anyone who has an interest in the copyright may record this type of statement [17 U.S.C. § 302(d)].

a. Date on which author died, or that author is living on specified date.

b. All of following information:

- (1) Identity of person filing.
- (2) Nature of person's interest.
- (3) Source of information recorded.
- (4) Other information required by regulations of Office of Register of Copyrights.

3. If desirable, alter term of copyright in case of anonymous or pseudonymous works by filing with Copyright Office statement that [17 U.S.C. § 302(c)]:

NOTE:

The copyright term for anonymous or pseudonymous works is 95 years from first publication or 120 years from creation, whichever occurs first. If, before the end of that term, the identity of one or more of the authors is revealed, the copyright endures for the term that would be applicable to a work having a known author--the lifetime of the author plus 70 years after the author's death [see 17 U.S.C. § 302(a)-(c)].

a. Identifies one or more authors of work.

NOTE:

Identification must be made before the end of the copyright term based on unidentified authorship. The identifying statement may be recorded by anyone having an interest in the copyright of the anonymous or pseudonymous work [see 17 U.S.C. § 708(a)(6)(fee)].

b. Identifies person filing it.

c. Gives nature of person's interest.

d. Gives source of information recorded.

e. Designates particular work affected.

f. Otherwise complies with applicable copyright regulations.

4. If desired, register first published edition of a work previously registered in unpublished form [17 U.S.C. § 408(e)].

§ 103A.155 Claim For Renewal of Subsisting Copyright

NOTE:

If copyright was originally secured before January 1, 1964, and not renewed at the proper time (that is, within its first term of protection lasting 28 years), copyright protection expired permanently at the end of the 28th year of the first term and could not be renewed [Pub. L. No. 102-307, § 102(g)(2); see former 17 U.S.C. § 304(a) (as it existed before June 26, 1992)].

For works originally copyrighted on or after January 1, 1978, the copyright law has eliminated all renewal requirements and established a single copyright term and different methods of computing the duration of a copyright [see 17 U.S.C. § 302(a); see also § 103A.85[1]].

For copyrights first obtained between January 1, 1964, and December 31, 1977 [see Pub. L. No. 102-307, § 102(g)(2)], the second term of copyright is secured automatically, and renewal registration is optional [17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3) (application to register claim to renewed and extended term of copyright may be made, but such application is not a condition of renewal and extension of copyright for further term of 67 years)]. However, whether or not an application to register a claim is submitted and the claim registered determines the vesting of copyright ownership during the extended 67-year term [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(2); § 103A.211[1][b][i]; see also 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3), (4) (procedure for filing and legal consequences of not filing)]. (Any copyright still in its renewal term when the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act became effective has a copyright term of 95 years from the date the copyright was originally secured [17 U.S.C. § 304(b); see Pub. L. No. 105-298, § 207 (Oct. 27, 1998; effective date 90 days after enactment)]). If renewal is desired, follow the steps listed below.

1. Have appropriate party claim renewal [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(A)-(C); see 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(1)-(3)]:

NOTE:

Notwithstanding the definition of "posthumous work" in 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(b), a renewal claim may be registered in the name of the proprietor (owner of the copyright at the time of renewal registration), as well as in the name of the appropriate claimant, if there was a contract for exploitation of the work during the author's lifetime but no copyright assignment occurred. However, registration by the Copyright Office in this case should not be interpreted as evidencing the validity of the claim [37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(2)].

a. If author is still living, have author claim renewal.

b. If author is not living:

(1) If work is posthumous, and copyright was originally secured by proprietor, have proprietor claim renewal.

NOTE:

A posthumous work is one with respect to which the author made no copyright assignment or other contract for exploitation during his or her lifetime [37 C.F.R. § 202.17(b)].

(2) If work is a periodical, cyclopedic, or other composite work, and copyright was originally secured by proprietor, have proprietor claim renewal.

(3) If work was copyrighted by corporate body other than as assignee or licensee of an individual author, have proprietor claim renewal.

(4) If work was copyrighted by an employer for whom work was made for hire, have proprietor claim renewal.

(5) In case of any other copyrighted work (including contribution to periodical or other composite work):

(a) If author's spouse and/or children are alive, have spouse and/or children claim renewal.

(b) If author's spouse and/or children are not alive but author left will, have author's executor claim renewal.

(c) If author's spouse and/or children are not alive and author left no will, have author's next of kin claim renewal.

NOTE:

When an author dies before the copyright renewal period arrives, his or her statutory successor [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(C); 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(1)] is entitled to the renewal rights, even if the author previously assigned the renewal rights to another person [Miller Music Corp. v. Charles N. Daniels, Inc. (1960) 362 U.S. 373, 375, 80 S. Ct.

792, 4 L. Ed. 2d 804 (construing prior law)]. Thus, if a copyright owner promises an assignee of the copyright that he or she will renew the copyright and assign it to the assignee for the renewal term, but dies before the beginning of the renewal period, the assignee may continue to use the work after the renewal date only if he or she obtains an assignment of the copyright for the renewal term from the owner's statutory successor. The right to renew a copyright is contingent and does not vest until the beginning of the renewal period. The assignee's right to the renewal is valid against the world if the copyright owner is alive at the beginning of the renewal period, but it is only an expectancy until that time [Stewart v. Abend (1990) 495 U.S. 207, 221, 110 S. Ct. 1750, 109 L. Ed. 2d 184] .

2. Complete renewal registration application form in accordance with its instructions [see § 103A.211].

3. Send application form and fee:

NOTE:

The Copyright Office has no discretion to extend the renewal time limits [37 C.F.R. § 202.17(e)(1)]. However, it does permit registration by telegraph, telefacsimile or similar written communication if it appears that a formal renewal application would not arrive in time, provided specified requirements are satisfied [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(e)(3)].

a. Within the last (28th) year before expiration of original term of copyright [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3)(A)(i)]; or

b. At any time during renewed and extended term of 67 years [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3)(A)(ii)].

c. Include renewal fee [see § 103A.211[2]].

d. To Library of Congress, Copyright Office, 101 Independence Ave., S.E., Washington, DC 20559-6000.

PART IV. FORMS

A. Applications for Copyright Protection

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.200

§ 103A.200 Application for Copyright Registration [U.S. Copyright Office Form CO]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

Form CO, illustrated in [2], below, may be used, in lieu of on-line registration at the Electronic Copyright Office [see [b], below], to register a claim of copyright in any work [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(2)(ii)]. Although it is illustrated here in blank, Form CO must be completed on a computer using the Adobe Acrobat Reader (or an equivalent utility); then the form must be printed and mailed to the Copyright Office. The form will not be acceptable if the applicant prints it in blank and then completes it or if the applicant adds or changes any data in the form after completing it on a computer and printing it. Instructions for completing and mailing Form CO are provided on, and the form can be downloaded from, the Copyright Office web site at www.copyright.gov/forms.

When the Copyright Office determines that the work can be copyrighted and that the legal and formal requirements have been met, the claim of copyright will be registered, and a certificate of registration will be issued to the applicant [17 U.S.C. 410(a)]. The effective date of a copyright registration is the day on which the application, the deposited work [see [d], below], and the fee, all acceptable for registration, have all been received in the Copyright Office [17 U.S.C. § 410(d)].

A certificate of registration will be sufficient to support a civil action for infringement [see 17 U.S.C. §§ 411, 412] even if the certificate contains inaccurate information, provided (1) the inaccurate information was included on the application for copyright registration without knowledge that it was inaccurate, and (2) the inaccuracy of the information, if it had been known, would not have caused the Register of Copyrights to refuse registration [17 U.S.C. § 411(b)(1)]. Therefore, an innocent mistake in completing the application form (such as failing to recognize existing works that the subject work incorporates) should not render the registration certificate insufficient to support an infringement action.

[b] Alternative Ways to Register Copyright

The Copyright Office recommends using its on-line registration process called the Electronic Copyright Office (eCO), which does not involve handling any paper forms; for information, see www.copyright.gov/eco/faq.html. The preferred alternative to using eCO is to use Form CO, illustrated in [2], below. The Copyright Office may continue to accept the following forms but prefers that they not be used. Form CO supersedes these forms, including the short versions and continuation sheets:

- Form TX, for a nondramatic literary work;
- Form PA, for a work of performing art;
- Form SR, for a sound recording;
- Form VA, for a work of visual art; and
- Form SE, for an individual issue of a serial.

However, the Copyright Office prescribes the superseded Forms TX, PA, and VA for use with the group-registration Form GR/CP; see § 103A.208 for further discussion. The Copyright Office will mail any of these forms on request. A request can be submitted on-line at www.copyright.gov/forms/formrequest.html or by mail to the Copyright Information Section, Library of Congress, Copyright Office, 101 Independence Avenue SE, Washington, DC 20559-6000.

Form CO does not supersede the forms for group registration that are illustrated and discussed in this chapter [see §§ 103A.206-103A.208] and does not supersede the forms for supplementing and renewing registrations [see §§ 103A.209, 103A.211].

Any application for copyright registration must be made on the appropriate official form and must be accompanied by the statutory fee [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(2); see 17 U.S.C. § 708(a)(1); 37 C.F.R. § 201.6 (payment and refund of fees)].

[c] Circulars and Factsheets

The Copyright Office publishes basic information about registration, fees, compulsory licenses, and other aspects of the copyright process, which can be downloaded or printed from the Copyright Office web site at www.copyright.gov/circls/ or obtained by mail. Fundamentally helpful are the following:

- Circular 1, "Copyright Basics"
- Circular 1b, "Limitations on Information Furnished by the Copyright Office"
- Circular 1c, "Make Sure Your Application Will Be Acceptable"
- Circular 3, "Copyright Notice"
- Factsheet SL-4, "Current Fees"
- Factsheet SL-15, "New Terms for Copyright Protection"
- Factsheet SL-35, "Online Copyright Registration"

[d] Deposit of Work Being Registered

The application for registration must be accompanied by a deposit of the work being registered [17 U.S.C. § 408(a)]. If the work is unpublished, the applicant must deposit one complete copy or phonorecord. In the case of a published work, the applicant must deposit two complete copies or phonorecords of the "best edition" [see 37 C.F.R. §§ 202.19(b)(1), 202.20(b)(1) (definition)] of the work being registered. In the case of a work first published outside the United States, only one complete copy or phonorecord of the work as so published is required. In the case of a contribution to a collective work, only one complete copy or phonorecord of the best edition of the collective work is required [17 U.S.C. § 408(b)(3),(4); 37 C.F.R. §§ 202.19(b)(2), 202.20(b)(2)(iv)].

On the Copyright Office web site, see Circular 7d, "Mandatory Deposit of Copies or Phonorecords for the Library of Congress," and Circular 7b, " 'Best Edition' of Published Copyrighted Works for the Collection of the Library of Congress," for more information.

[e] Notice of Copyright

For works publicly distributed by authority of the copyright owner on or after March 1, 1989 [see Pub. L. No. 100-568, § 13, 102 Stat. 2861], the placing of copyright notices on publicly distributed copies is optional [17 U.S.C. § 401(a)]. If a notice appears on the copies, it must consist of the following three elements [17 U.S.C. § 401(b)]:

- The symbol (c) (or, on a phonorecord, the letter P in a circle), or the word "Copyright," or the abbreviation "Copr.";
- The year of first publication of the work; and
- The name of the owner of copyright in the work, or an abbreviation by which the name can be recognized, or a generally known alternative designation of the owner.

In the case of compilations or derivative works incorporating previously published material, the year of first publication of the compilation or derivative work is sufficient. The year may be omitted if a pictorial, graphic, or sculptural work, with accompanying text matter, if any, is reproduced in or on greeting cards, postcards, stationery, jewelry, dolls, toys, or any useful articles [17 U.S.C. § 401(b)(2)].

The notice must be affixed to the copies in a manner and location that provide reasonable notice of the claim of copyright [17 U.S.C. § 401(c); see § 103A.120].

If copies of a work are distributed without a copyright notice, an infringer may be able to defeat an infringement action or reduce the amount of damages in the action by asserting an "innocent infringement" defense [see 17 U.S.C. §§ 401(d), 406(a); see also § 103A.62[2]-[4]].

§ 103A.206 Application for Copyright Registration for Group of Serial Issues of Collective Work Made for Hire [U.S. Copyright Office Form SE/GROUP]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official application for copyright registration of a group of issues of a serial collective work made for hire. This form may be used only if all of the following conditions are satisfied [see "When to Use This Form" and "Which Issues May Be Included in a Group Registration" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(6)]:

- The applicant must have provided a complimentary subscription for two copies of the serial to the Library of Congress, confirmed by a letter to the Library of Congress [see [b], below].
- The claim must be in a "collective work," i.e., a work in which a number of contributions are assembled into a collective whole [see 17 U.S.C. § 101].
- Each issue must be essentially an all-new collective work.
- Each issue must be a "work made for hire," as defined below.
- The author(s) and claimant(s) must be the same person(s) or organization(s) for all of the issues.
- Each issue must have been created no more than one year prior to publication.
- All issues in the group must have been published within the same calendar year.

A "work made for hire" is (1) a work prepared by an employee within the scope of his or her employment; or (2) a work specially ordered or commissioned for certain uses (including use as a contribution to a collective work), if the parties expressly agree in a written instrument signed by them that the work will be considered a work made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 101]. The employer or person for whom the work was prepared is considered the author of a work made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 201(b)].

If any of the above-listed conditions does not apply, the applicant must register issue separately, using Form CO, which is illustrated in § 103A.200[2], above.

Any application for copyright registration must be made on the appropriate official form [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(2)].

[b] Mailing Complimentary Subscription to Library of Congress

As noted in [a], above, an applicant may not use this form to register a group of issues for a serial work unless the applicant has provided the Library of Congress a complimentary subscription to two copies of the serial, which must be confirmed by a letter addressed to Group Periodicals Registration, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20540-4161 [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(6)(i)(A),(ii)]. The complimentary subscription copies should be mailed to the Library of Congress separately from the letter and from the application. The copies should be mailed to the same address, above, as the letter [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(6)(iii)]. The Register of Copyrights may revoke the privilege of group registration of serials for failure to submit the required complimentary subscription copies promptly after publication of each issue [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(6)(iv)].

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the application for registration are provided with the form. These instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the form.

The application must be submitted with the appropriate filing fee [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)] and a deposit [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(6)(v)]. The required deposit for a group registration of serials is one complete copy of the best edition of each issue included in the group registration [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(6)(v)(C)].

For discussion of other general information relating to registration, see § 103A.200[1]. For a detailed discussion of the procedure for registration of a copyright, see § 103A.122.

§ 103A.207 Application for Copyright Registration of Group of Daily Newspapers and Newsletters Published in One Calendar Month [U.S. Copyright Office Form G/DN]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official application for copyright registration for all issues of a daily newspaper or of two or more issues of a newsletter published within one calendar month. This form may be used only if all of the following conditions are satisfied [see "When to Use This Form for Newspapers" and "When to Use This Form for Newsletters" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(7)(i),(9) (newspapers; newsletters)]:

- The work must be a daily newspaper or newsletter [see [b], below (definitions)].
- The work must be a "work made for hire" [see [b], below (definitions)].
- The author(s) and claimant(s) must be the same person(s) or organization(s).
- Each issue must be an essentially all-new "collective work" [see [b], below (definitions)], or an essentially all new issue that has not been published before.
- For newspapers, the claim must include all issue dates within the calendar month within the same year; for newsletters, the claim must include two or more issue dates within the calendar month within the same year.
- The application must be filed within three months of the last publication date included in the group.
- For newsletters only, all issues in the group must have been first published on or after July 1, 1999. (For information about newsletters published before July 1, 1999, contact the Registration and Recordation Program of the Copyright Office.)

If any of these conditions does not apply, the applicant must register each issue of the newspaper or newsletter separately, using Form CO, which is illustrated in § 103A.200[2].

Any application for copyright registration must be made on the appropriate official form [37 C.F.R. § 202.3(c)(2)].

[b] Definitions

For registration purposes, as defined by the Newspaper Section of the Serials and Government Publications Division of the Library of Congress, a "newspaper" is a serial work that is mainly designed to be a primary source of written information on current events, either local, national, or international in scope. A newspaper contains a broad range of news on all subjects and activities and is not limited to any specific subject matter. Newspapers may be intended either for the general public or for a particular group [see "Definitions" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(7)(ii)].

For registration purposes, a daily "newsletter" is defined as a serial published and distributed by mail or electronic media. Publication must occur at least two days per week, and the newsletter must contain news or information of interest chiefly to a special group (for example, trade and professional associations, corporations, schools, colleges, and churches). Daily newsletters are customarily available by subscription and are not sold on newsstands [see "Definitions" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(9)(i)].

A "collective work" is a work in which a number of contributions are assembled into a collective whole [see 17 U.S.C. § 101; "Definitions" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below].

A "work made for hire" is (1) a work prepared by an employee within the scope of his or her employment; or (2) a work specially ordered or commissioned for certain uses (including use as a contribution to a collective work), if the parties expressly agree in a written instrument signed by them that the work shall be considered a work made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 101]. The employer or person for whom the work was prepared is considered the author of a work made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 201(b)].

[c] Deposit Requirements for Newspapers

Special deposit requirements apply to group newspaper registrations using this form. The application must be accompanied by a deposit of a positive, 35 mm silver-halide microfilm meeting the Library of Congress' best edition criteria that includes all issues published within the calendar month covered by the application. Final editions are required when two or more daily editions are published [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(7)(i)(D); see also "What to Deposit for Newspapers" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below]. In addition to the final edition of the daily newspaper, the copyright claim and deposit may also include earlier editions published in the same day in a given metropolitan area served by the newspaper, but may not include national or regional editions distributed beyond a given metropolitan area [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(7)(i)(D)].

In some cases, the publisher may be exempted from sending microfilm. The Copyright Acquisitions Division of the Copyright Office will notify the publisher if the newspaper is exempted. If the newspaper is exempted, an optional deposit may accompany the application. The deposit should consist of only one of the following [see "What to Deposit for Newspapers" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below]:

- Complete print copies of the first and last issues of the month; or
- Print copies of the first section of the first and last issues of the month; or

- Print copies of the first page of the first and last issues of the month.

[d] Deposit Requirements for Newsletters

Special deposit requirements apply to group newsletter registrations using this form. In all cases, one complete copy of each issue included in the group must accompany the form. If the newsletter is published only online, one complete print-out of each issue or a computer disk (or CD-ROM) containing all the issues and a print-out of the first and last issues included in the group must be sent [see "What to Deposit for Newspapers" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(9)(vi)(A)].

Additional material must be sent only if specifically requested by the Copyright Acquisitions Division. The request will specify the nature of the additional material, which will be either (1) one microfilm copy meeting the specifications given in [c], above, for newspapers, or (2) one or two complimentary subscriptions for the Library of Congress [see "What to Deposit for Newspapers" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(9)(vi)(B)].

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the application for registration are provided with the form. These instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the form.

For discussion of other general information relating to registration, including where to obtain this form, see § 103A.200[1]. For a detailed discussion of the procedure for registration of a copyright, see § 103A.122.

§ 103A.208 Adjunct Application for Copyright Registration for a Group of Contributions to Periodicals [U.S. Copyright Office Form GR/CP]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an adjunct application for copyright registration. It can be used to register copyright claims for multiple works that qualify for group registration [see [b], below]. This form must be submitted with a basic application for registration of a nondramatic literary work on Form TX, or of a work of performing arts on Form PA, or of a work of visual art on Form VA [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(8)(ii)(A)]. This form and the necessary basic form can be downloaded as a package from the Copyright Office web site at www.copyright.gov/forms or can be obtained through the mail [see § 103A.200[1][b]]. (The use of Form TX, PA, or VA is discouraged, except in connection with a group registration under Form GR/CP. To register a copyright claim for a single work in any of the categories described above, the Copyright Office recommends using Form CO, which is illustrated in § 103A.200[2].)

The purpose of this form is to provide separate identification for each of the contributions and to give information about their first publication, as required by statute ["Procedure for Group Registration" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see 17 U.S.C. § 408(c)(2) (single registration of group works)].

The choice of basic application to be submitted with this adjunct form is determined by the nature of the contributions being registered. As long as the contributions meet the requirements for group registration [see [b], below], they may be registered together even if they are entirely different in nature, type, or content. If the contributions differ in nature, the form most suitable for the majority of them should be used [see "Procedure for Group Registration" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below].

[b] Requirements for Single Registration of Group of Works

A single copyright registration for a group of works may be made if all of the following conditions are met [17 U.S.C. § 408(c)(2); see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(8)(i)]:

- All of the works are by the same author, who is an individual and not an employer for hire.
- Each of the works was first published as a contribution to a periodical, including a newspaper, within a 12-month period (each of the works need not have been first published during the same calendar year, but to be grouped in a single application, the earliest and latest contributions must not have been first published more than 12 months apart).
- All of the works have the same copyright claimant.
- The appropriate deposit accompanies the application [see [c], below].
- The application identifies each contribution separately, including the periodical containing it and the date of its first publication.
- For contributions first published before March 1, 1989, only, each contribution as first published must have borne a separate copyright notice, and the name of the owner of copyright in the work (or an abbreviation or alternative designation of the owner) must have been the same in each notice.

[c] Deposit Requirements

The application form for group registration must be accompanied by one complete copy of each published contribution listed on the form. The deposit may consist of any one of the following, as long as all contents of the contributions are clear and legible [see "What Copies Should Be Deposited for Group Registration" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(8)(i)(E)]:

- One copy of the entire periodical issue or newspaper section in which each contribution was first published.
- A photocopy of the contribution itself.
- A photocopy of the entire page containing the contribution.
- The entire page containing the contribution cut or torn from the collective work.
- The contribution cut or torn from the collective work.
- Photographs or photographic slides of the contribution or entire page containing the contribution.

PRACTICE TIP:

These deposit requirements differ from those in the current regulations [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(8)(i)(E)]. However, there is no need for the applicant to request special relief in writing; the Copyright Office will automatically grant special relief on receipt of the deposit [see Note under "What Copies Should Be Deposited for Group Registration" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below (explaining that this is done to facilitate registration pending change in regulations)].

[d] Procedure for Group Registration

An applicant for group registration should complete this form [see [e], below] and mail it, together with the appropriate basic application and the required copy of each contribution, to Library of Congress, Copyright Office, Washington, DC 20559-6000 [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(8)(ii); see also [c], above, 17 U.S.C. § 408(b)(4) (deposit requirement)]. The fee for registration is the same, no matter how many contributions are listed [see 37 C.F.R. § 202.3(b)(4)].

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the application for registration may be requested with the form. These instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the form.

Advantages and disadvantages to group registration are noted in the basic information provided with the form's instructions [see Note #3 under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below].

For discussion of other general information relating to registration, including where to obtain this form, see § 103A.200[1]. For a detailed discussion of the procedure for registration of a copyright, see § 103A.122.

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.209

§ 103A.209 Application for Supplementary Copyright Registration [U.S. Copyright Office Form CA]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official application for supplementary copyright registration. The form is used to correct an error or to amplify information given in an earlier registration. Accordingly, supplementary registration may only be made if a basic copyright registration for the same work has already been completed [see 17 U.S.C. § 408(d); see also 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)].

[b] Restrictions on Use of Form

Supplementary registration may NOT be used for the following [see "Please Note" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below; see also 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(iii)]:

- To correct errors in statements on the copies or phonorecords of the work in question, or to reflect changes in the content of the work. (If the work has been changed substantially, the applicant should consider making an entirely new registration for the revised version to cover the additions or revisions [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(iii)].)
- As a substitute for renewal registration [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(b)(2)(iv)]. (For an application for renewal registration, see § 103A.211[2] (U.S. Copyright Office Form RE).)
- To correct an error regarding publication when the work was registered as an unpublished work.
- As a substitute for recording a transfer of copyright or other document pertaining to rights under a copyright. (Recording a document under the copyright law gives all persons constructive notice of the facts stated in the document and may have other important consequences in cases of infringement or conflicting transfers [see 17 U.S.C. § 205; see also § 103A.53, 103A.225[2]] (document cover sheet used to record document)]. Supplementary registration does not have that legal effect.)

[c] Completing the Application

The application for supplementary registration must be accompanied by a fee [see 17 U.S.C. § 708(a)(1)] and must clearly identify the registration to be corrected or amplified [17 U.S.C. § 408(d)]. The information contained in a supplementary registration augments but does not supersede that contained in an earlier registration [17 U.S.C. § 408(d)].

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the application for registration are provided with the form. These instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the form [see also 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(c)].

If additional space is needed, complete the continuation sheet reproduced in § 103A.210[2] and attach it to this form.

For discussion of other general information relating to registration, including where to obtain this form, see § 103A.200[1]. For a detailed discussion of the procedure for supplementary registration, see § 103A.153.

[d] Copyright Office's Procedure After Completing a Supplementary Registration

On completion of a supplementary registration, the Copyright Office will assign a new registration number in the appropriate registration category and issue a certificate of supplementary registration under that number. The basic registration will not be expunged or canceled, and the two registrations will stand in the Copyright Office records [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.5(d); see also "What Happens When a Supplementary Registration Is Made?" under "Basic Information in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below].

§ 103A.211 Application for Renewal Registration and Addendum [U.S. Copyright Office Form RE]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official application for renewal registration of an existing copyright obtained before January 1, 1978. Also reproduced is an addendum for use in renewing a copyright for a work that was published between January 1, 1964, and December 31, 1977, and that was not registered during its first 28-year copyright term.

[b] Copyright Terms and Renewal in General

For works originally copyrighted between January 1, 1950, and December 31, 1977, the copyright law provides a first term of copyright protection lasting for 28 years, plus renewal for a second term of 47 years [see former 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)]. For copyrights originally secured before January 1, 1964, the copyright was required to be affirmatively renewed for the extended term. If the copyright were not renewed at the proper time (that is, before the end of 1991), copyright protection expired permanently at the end of the 28th year of the first term and could not be renewed [see former 17 U.S.C. § 304(a) (as in effect prior to June 16, 1992); Pub. L. No. 102-307, § 102(g)(2), 106 Stat. 266].

For copyrights secured between January 1, 1964, and December 31, 1977 [see Pub. L. No. 102-307, § 102(g)(2), 106 Stat. 266], a second term of copyright of 67 years is secured automatically, and renewal registration is optional [17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3) (application to register claim to renewed and extended term of copyright may be made, but such application is not a condition of renewal and extension of copyright for further term of 67 years)]. However, whether or not an application to register a claim is submitted and the claim registered determines the vesting of copyright ownership during the extended 67-year term [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(2); see also 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3), (4) (procedure for application to register claim for renewal period)]. If an application to register a claim for a renewal term has been made within one year before the expiration of the original term of copyright, and the claim is registered, the copyright vests in the proprietor of the copyright who is entitled to claim renewal of copyright at the time the application is made [17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(2)(A)(i)]. On the other hand, if no such application is made, or the claim pursuant to that application is not registered, copyright will vest, on the beginning of the renewal term, in the person or entity that was the proprietor of the copyright as of the last day of the original term of the copyright [17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(2)(A)(ii)].

Any copyright still in its renewal term when the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act became effective has a copyright term of 95 years from the date the copyright was originally secured [17 U.S.C. § 304(b); see Pub. L. No. 105-298, § 207 (Oct. 27, 1998; effective date 90 days after enactment); see also 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) (termination of transfer and licenses covering extended renewal term)].

For works originally copyrighted on or after January 1, 1978, copyright law has eliminated all renewal requirements and established a single copyright term and different methods of computing the duration of a copyright [see 17 U.S.C. § 302(a)]. For discussion of the duration of these copyrights, see § 103A.85[1]. Also helpful is Factsheet SL-15, "New Terms for Copyright Protection."

[c] Renewal Filing Period

In order to register a renewal copyright, the renewal application and fee must be received in the Copyright Office within the last (28th) calendar year before the expiration of the original term of copyright or at any time during the renewed and extended term of 67 years [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3)(A)]. All terms of the original copyright run through the 28th calendar year, making the period for renewal registration during the original term from December 31st of the 27th year of the copyright through December 31 of the following year [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(3)(A); see also "Renewal Filing Period" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below]. For help in calculating the renewal period for a particular copyright, see "Renewal Filing Period" under "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below.

[d] Who May Renew

Except in the case of four specified types of works (discussed below), copyright law gives the right of renewal to the individual author of the work (or to certain of the author's beneficiaries), regardless of who owned the copyright during the original term. Specifically, the renewal claim may be registered in the names of the following persons, in descending order of eligibility [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(C); 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(1)]:

- The author of the work, if still living.
- The widow, widower, or children of the author, if the author is not living.
- The author's executors, if there is a will and neither the author nor any widow, widower, or child of the author is living.
- The author's next of kin, in the absence of a will and if neither the author nor any widow, widower, or child of the author is living.

The proprietor (owner of the copyright at the time of renewal registration) of the copyright is entitled to claim renewal in the case of the following four types of work:

- Posthumous work [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(B)(i); 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(i); see also 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(b) (defining posthumous work as work published after the author's death as to which no copyright assignment or other contract for exploitation has occurred during the author's lifetime)].
- Periodical, cyclopedic, or other composite work [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(B)(i); 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(i)].

- Work originally copyrighted by a corporate body other than as assignee or licensee of the individual author [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(B)(ii); 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(1)(ii)].

- Work copyrighted by an employer for whom the work was made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(B)(ii); 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(1)(ii)].

Notwithstanding the definition of "posthumous work" in 37 C.F.R. § 202.17(b), a renewal claim may also be registered in the name of the proprietor, as well as in the name of the author or certain of the author's beneficiaries (as listed above), if there was a contract for exploitation of the work during the author's lifetime but no copyright assignment occurred. However, renewal in the latter case should not be interpreted as evidencing the validity of the claim [37 C.F.R. § 202.17(f)(2)].

[e] Completing the Application

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the application to register a renewal claim may be requested with Form RE; instructions for the Addendum to Form RE are printed on the back of the form. Both sets of instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the forms.

§ 103A.220 Notice of Objection to Noncommercial Performance of Nondramatic Literary or Musical Work

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice of objection to a noncommercial performance of a nondramatic literary or musical work. This type of notice must be served as a condition of preventing this kind of performance [17 U.S.C. § 110(4); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.13(a)(1)]. The Copyright Office does not provide printed forms for this notice [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(b)].

[b] Notice Required as Basis for Infringement

The performance of a nondramatic literary or musical work (other than in a transmission to the public), without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage and without payment of any fee or other compensation to the performers, promoters, or organizers, is not an infringement of copyright if there is no direct or indirect admission charge [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(A)].

Additionally, performance of a nondramatic literary or musical work (other than in a transmission to the public), without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage and without payment of any fee or other compensation to the performers, promoters, or organizers, is not an infringement of copyright if the proceeds (after deducting reasonable production costs) are used exclusively for educational, religious, or charitable purposes and not for private financial gain [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B)]. However, in this case, performance will constitute an infringement if the copyright owner serves a written notice of objection to the performance [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B)].

[c] Contents of Notice

A notice of objection must clearly state that the copyright owner objects to the performance. It must also contain all of the following [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(c)(1); see 17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B)]:

- Reference to the statutory authority on which the notice is based, either by a citation to 17 U.S.C. § 110(4), or by a more general characterization or description of that provision.

- The date and place of the performance to which objection is being made. If the exact date or place or both are not known to the copyright owner, it is sufficient if the notice describes whatever information the copyright owner has about the date or place of performance and the source of that information, unless the source was considered private or confidential.

- Clear identification, by title and at least one author, of the work to which objection is made. A notice may cover any number of separately identified copyrighted works owned by the copyright owner or owners serving the objection. Alternatively, a blanket notice, with or without separate identification of certain copyrighted works, and purporting to cover one or more groups of copyrighted works not separately identified by title and author, may be given [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.13(c)(2) (additional requirements for blanket notice)]. This form is designed for a specifically identified work or works and must be modified to meet the blanket notice requirements.

- A concise statement of the reasons for the objection.

A notice of objection must also contain a clear and prominent statement explaining that a failure to exclude the works identified in the notice from the performance in question may subject the person responsible for the performance to liability for copyright infringement, and that the objection is without legal effect if there is no direct or indirect charge for the performance and if the other conditions of 17 U.S.C. § 110(4) are met [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(c)(3)].

[d] Signature Requirements

The notice must be signed by each copyright owner or the owner's agent. The signature of each owner or agent must be an actual handwritten signature, accompanied by the date of the signature and the full name, address, and telephone number of that person, typewritten or printed legibly by hand. If the notice is initially served in the form of a telegram [see [e] below], the requirement for a handwritten signature will be waived if the other requirements for that type of service are met [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(d)].

[e] Service of Notice

The notice must be served on the person responsible for the performance at least seven days before the date of the performance [17 U.S.C. § 110(4)(B)(ii); 37 C.F.R. § 201.13(e)(1)]. The notice may be served personally or by first class mail. It may also be served by telegram, cablegram, or another similar form of communication if the notice meets all of the other applicable requirements, and before the performance takes place, the person responsible for the performance receives written confirmation of the notice, bearing the actual handwritten signature of each copyright owner or an authorized representative [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(e)(2)].

The date of service is the date the notice of objection is received by the person responsible for the performance or any agent or employee of that person [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(e)(3)].

§ 103A.221 Notice of Termination of Transfers and Licenses Covering Extended Renewal Term of Copyright in Existence on January 1, 1978

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice terminating transfers and licenses for the extended renewal term of a copyright that was in existence (in either its first or renewal term) on January 1, 1978 [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(a) (duration of subsisting copyrights)]. If the rights of such a copyright were transferred before January 1, 1978, the author or other specified persons [see [c], below] may terminate those rights for the extended term, except in the case of a copyright in a work made for hire [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c), (d)]. This form may be used to effect notice of termination of these transfers and licenses.

17 U.S.C. § 304(c), (d) governs termination of transfers and licenses covering an extended copyright renewal term.

17 U.S.C. § 304(c) governs termination of transfers and licenses covering an extended renewal term for any copyright (other than a work for hire) subsisting in either its first or renewal term on January 1, 1978. Its provisions are discussed in [c]-[i], below.

17 U.S.C. § 304(d) governs termination rights provided in 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) for any copyright (other than a work for hire) subsisting in its renewal term on October 27, 1998 (the effective date of the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act), if those rights have expired by that date and if they have not been previously exercised by their author or owner. In these circumstances, the exclusive or nonexclusive grant of a transfer or license of the renewal copyright, other than by will, executed before January 1, 1978, by persons specified in 17 U.S.C. § 304(a)(1)(C) [see § 103A.211[1][b][iii]] is subject to termination under the following conditions [17 U.S.C. § 304(d)]:

- The conditions specified in 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(1), (2) [see [c], below (persons entitled to terminate)];

17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(4) [see [d]-[g], below (time and manner of termination; service, signature, contents of notice)]; 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(5) [see [d], below (termination despite agreement to contrary)]; and 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6) [see [i], below (reversion rights)] apply to terminations in the last 20 years of the copyright term as provided by the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(b)] (copyrights in renewal term on October 27, 1998, have copyright term of 95 years from date copyright originally secured).

- Termination may be effected at any time during a period of five years beginning at the end of 75 years from the date copyright was originally secured [see [d], below].

[c] Persons Entitled to Terminate Grant

A grant executed by a person or persons other than the author may be terminated by the surviving person or persons who executed it [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(1)].

When a grant is executed by one or more of the authors of the work, the grant may be terminated, to the extent of a particular author's share in the ownership of the renewal copyright, by the author who executed it or, if the author is dead, by the person or persons who own and are entitled to exercise a total of more than one half of that author's termination interest [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(1)].

When the author who executed the grant is dead, his or her termination interest is owned and may be exercised by his or her spouse, children, or grandchildren, as follows:

- The author's surviving spouse owns the author's entire termination interest unless there are surviving children or grandchildren of the author, in which case the widowed spouse owns one half of the author's interest and the other half is divided among the author's surviving children and the surviving children of any dead children [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(2)(A), (B)].
- If there is no spouse, the author's surviving children and the surviving children of any dead children own the author's entire termination interest [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(2)(B)].
- The rights of the author's children and grandchildren are in all cases divided among them and exercised on a per stirpes basis according to the number of the author's children represented. The share of the children of a dead child in a termination interest can be exercised only by the action of the majority of them [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(2)(C)].
- If the author's widow or widower, children, and grandchildren are not living, the author's executor, administrator, personal representative, or trustee owns the author's entire termination interest [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(2)(D)].

[d] Time and Manner of Termination

Termination is effected by serving an advance notice in writing on the grantee or the grantee's successor in title [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(4); see [g], below (service)].

In the case of any copyright, other than a work for hire, subsisting in its renewal term on October 27, 1998 (the effective date of the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act), for which the termination right provided for in 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) has expired by that date and for which that right has not been previously exercised, termination may be effected at any time during a period of five years beginning at the end of 75 years from the date copyright was originally secured [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(d)(2)].

For all other contracts with termination rights provided in 17 U.S.C. § 304(c), termination may be effected at any time during a period of five years beginning at the end of 56 years from the date the copyright was originally secured, or beginning on January 1, 1978, whichever is later [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(3)].

Termination may be effected notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, including an agreement to make a will or any future grant [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(5)].

The Copyright Office does not provide printed forms for notices of termination [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(a)]. A notice of termination must include clear identification of each of the following [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(b)(1)]:

- If the termination is made under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) or (d), a statement to that effect.
- The name of each grantee whose rights are being terminated, or the grantee's successor in title, and each address at which service of the notice is being made.
- The title and name of at least one author of each work, the date the copyright was originally secured in each work, and if possible, the original copyright registration number.
- A brief statement reasonably identifying the grant to which the notice of termination applies.
- The effective date of termination.
- If the termination is made under 17 U.S.C. § 304(d), a statement that termination of renewal term rights under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) has not been previously exercised.
- If the grant is being terminated by a person or persons other than the author [see [c], above], a list of the surviving person or persons who executed the grant.
- If the grant is being terminated by the successors of a deceased author [see [c], above], either [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(b)(1)(vii)]:
 - A list of the names and relationships to that author of the author's surviving spouse, surviving children, and all the surviving children of any deceased child, together with specific indication of the person or persons executing the notice who constitute more than one half of the author's termination interest; or
 - If all of that information is not available, a statement of as much of the information as is currently available to the person or persons signing the notice, along with a brief explanation of the reason why the full information is lacking, together with a statement that to the best of that person's knowledge and belief, the notice has been signed by all persons whose signatures are necessary to terminate the grant [see [c], above].

All of the above-listed information must be clearly and unambiguously specified in the notice itself, without incorporation by reference of information in other documents or records [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(b)(2)].

[f] Signature Requirements

If the grant being terminated was executed by a person or persons other than the author, the notice must be signed by all of the surviving persons who executed the grant or by their agents [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(c)(1)].

In the case of a termination of a grant executed by one or more of the authors of the work, the notice as to any one author's share must be signed by that author or by his or her duly authorized agent. If that author is dead, the notice must be signed by the number and proportion of the owners of that author's termination interest required under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) or (d), whichever applies, or by their duly authorized agents, and must contain a brief statement of their relationship or relationships to that author [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(c)(2); see [c], above]. If the signature is by an agent, it must clearly identify the person or persons on whose behalf the agent is acting [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(c)(3)].

The handwritten signature of each person effecting termination must be accompanied by a statement of the full name and address of that person, typewritten or printed legibly by hand, or must clearly correspond to such a statement elsewhere in the notice [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(c)(4)].

This form is designed to be used when the grant to be terminated was executed by the author. However, the form may be adapted for use when the grantor was someone other than the author simply by listing the surviving person or persons who executed the grant and changing the signature block accordingly [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(1); see also 37 C.F.R. § 201.10(c)(1)].

[g] Service of Notice

The notice must be served not less than two or more than 10 years before the date of termination [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(4)(A)]. The date of termination falls either within the five-year period specified by 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(3) [see [d], above] or, in the case of a termination under 17 U.S.C. § 304(d), governing termination rights that have expired on or before October 27, 1998, within the five year period specified by 17 U.S.C. § 304(d)(2) [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(4)(A); see [d], above].

The notice must be served on each grantee whose rights are being terminated, or on the grantee's successor in title, by personal service or by first class mail sent to an address which, after a reasonable investigation, is found to be the last known address of the grantee or successor in title [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(d)(1)].

[h] Recordation of Notice

A copy of the notice must be recorded in the Copyright Office before the effective date of termination, as a condition to its taking effect [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(4)(A); see 37 C.F.R. §§ 201.4 (requirements for recordation); see also §§ 103A.152 (recordation procedures), 103A.225[2] (cover sheet for documents submitted for recordation)].

A copy of the notice will be recorded on payment of the specified fee [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.10(f)(2)]. The copy submitted for recordation must be a complete and exact duplicate and must include the actual signatures or a reproduction of the actual signatures. If separate copies of the notice were served on more than one grantee, only one copy need be submitted for recordation. The copy submitted for recordation must be accompanied by a statement setting forth the date on which the notice was served and the manner of service, unless that information is contained in that notice itself [37 C.F.R. § 201.10(f)(1)].

[i] Rights on Reversion

In the case of a grant executed by someone other than the author, all rights that were covered by the terminated grant revert, on the effective date of termination, to all those entitled to terminate the grant under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(1) [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6); see [c], above (persons entitled to terminate)].

In the case of a grant executed by one or more authors of the work, all of a particular author's rights that were covered by the terminated grant revert, on the effective date of termination, to that author [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6)]. If that author is dead, those rights revert to the persons owning the author's termination interest under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(2) [see [c], above], including those owners who did not join in signing the advance notice of termination [17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6); see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(4); see also [d], above (time and manner of termination)].

Reversion rights are subject to certain limitations [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6)(A)-(F)].

§ 103A.222 Advance Notice of Potential Copyright Infringement of Works Consisting of Sounds, Images, or Both

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an advance notice of potential copyright infringement. It enables a copyright owner to institute an action for copyright infringement either before or after the first fixation of a work consisting of sounds, images, or both that is first fixed simultaneously with its transmission. It entitles the owner to enjoy the full remedies the copyright law provides for copyright infringement, provided the work is registered within three months after its first transmission [see 17 U.S.C. § 411(b); 37 C.F.R. § 201.22(a)(1)]. The Copyright Office does not provide printed forms for this notice [37 C.F.R. § 201.22(b)].

[b] Contents of Notice

The notice must be clearly and prominently captioned "ADVANCE NOTICE OF POTENTIAL INFRINGEMENT." It must clearly state that the copyright owner objects to the relevant activities of the person responsible for the potential infringement, and must include all the following [37 C.F.R. § 201.22(c)(1)]:

- Reference to 17 U.S.C. § 411(c) as the statutory authority for the notice.
- The date, specific time, and expected duration of the intended first transmission of the work or works contained in the specific transmission program [17 U.S.C. § 411(c)(1)].
- The source of the intended first transmission of the work or works [17 U.S.C. § 411(c)(1)].
- Clear identification by title of the work or works [see 17 U.S.C. § 411(c)(1)]. A single notice may cover all works of the copyright owner embodied in a single transmission program. If any work is untitled, the notice must contain a detailed description of that work.

- The name of at least one person or entity that will be considered the author of the work on its fixation.
- The identity of the copyright owner. "Copyright owner" means the author or a person or organization that has obtained ownership of an exclusive right initially owned by the author [37 C.F.R. § 201.22(a)(2)]. If the copyright owner is someone other than the author, the notice must also include a brief general statement summarizing the means by which the copyright owner obtained ownership of the copyright and the particular rights that are owned.
- A description of the relevant activities of the person responsible for the potential infringement which, if carried out, would result in an infringement of copyright.

The notice must also include clear and prominent statements explaining that the relevant activities, if carried out, may subject the person responsible to liability for copyright infringement, and must declare that the owner intends to secure copyright of the work on its fixation [17 U.S.C. § 411(c)(1); 37 C.F.R. § 201.22(c)(2); see 17 U.S.C. § 101 (defining when work is "fixed")].

[c] Signature Requirements

The notice must be signed by the copyright owner or the owner's agent. The signature must be an actual handwritten signature, accompanied by the date of the signature and the full name, address, and telephone number of that person, typewritten or printed legibly by hand. If the notice is initially served in the form of a telegram [see [d], below], the requirement for a handwritten signature will be waived if the other requirements for that type of service are met [37 C.F.R. § 201.22(d)].

The notice must be served on the infringer not less than 48 hours before the first fixation of the work (by the intended simultaneous transmission) [17 U.S.C. § 411(c)(1); 37 C.F.R. § 201.22(e)(1)].

The notice may be served personally or by first class mail. It may also be served by telegram, cablegram, or another similar form of communication if the notice meets all of the other applicable requirements, and, before the first fixation and simultaneous transmission takes place, the person responsible for the potential infringement receives written confirmation of the notice, bearing the actual handwritten signature of each copyright owner or an authorized representative [37 C.F.R. § 201.13(e)(2)].

The date of service is the date the notice of objection is received by the person responsible for the potential infringement or any agent or employee of that person [37 C.F.R. § 201.22(e)(3)].

PART IV. FORMS

B. Related Forms

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.223

§ 103A.223 Authorization (License) to Use Copyrighted Work

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an authorization or license granting permission to use a copyrighted work. It is a general form, containing the basic information necessary to grant permission. It assumes that the permission will be limited in scope and that the copyright owner will retain the basic rights to the work. The form does not attempt to illustrate any of the infinitely variable licensing arrangements that are possible under the copyright law [see [d], below]. For an agreement assigning all of a copyright owner's rights under a copyright, see § 103A.224[2].

[b] Exclusive Rights of Copyright Owner

The owner of a copyright has exclusive rights to reproduce, distribute, perform, display, or prepare derivative works based on the copyrighted material, and to authorize others to do the same [see 17 U.S.C. § 106]. Thus, unless a proposed use of copyrighted material falls within a recognized limitation to these exclusive rights [see 17 U.S.C. §§ 107-121], anyone who wants to make use of a copyrighted work must obtain permission from the copyright owner. Failure to do so may result in liability for copyright infringement [see 17 U.S.C. §§ 501-513]. For discussion of permissible uses of copyrighted works and the copyright law in general, see §§ 103A.30-103A.40.

[c] Validity of Authorization

The copyright law specifically provides that the ownership of a copyright may be transferred in whole or in part by any means of conveyance or by operation of law, and may be bequeathed by will or pass as personal property by the applicable law of intestate succession [17 U.S.C. § 201(d)].

[d] Terms of Authorization

The terms under which an authorization to use copyrighted material will be granted vary enormously. The nature of the right granted may be very broad in scope [see, e.g., § 103A.224[2]] or extremely limited. In some cases, the author may grant the right for little or no consideration, while in other cases the permission may involve complex arrangements including royalties and rights to derivative works.

This form does not provide for consideration; it merely grants permission to use the right. The form, however, does contain an optional provision granting the right subject to the terms and conditions of a separate agreement executed by the parties. In the alternative, language similar to that set forth in this form may be included in the contract itself.

For examples of entertainment agreements containing provisions affecting the copyright rights of the parties, and discussion of copyright problems peculiar to the entertainment industry, see Ch. 87, Entertainment Contracts. The form in § 87.233 is an option agreement for dramatization of a literary work and includes provisions governing the rights of the parties in derivative works. License agreements for the distribution of copyrighted computer software are contained in Ch. 57, Computer-Related Transactions. For additional agreements for the licensing of a copyrighted work, a detailed checklist for drafting those agreements, and a discussion of the tax considerations involved, see Rabkin & Johnson, Current Legal Forms with Tax Analysis, Ch. 3, Licenses and Franchises (Matthew Bender).

If desired, this instrument may be recorded in the Copyright Office [see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c) (recording requirements)]. For additional information on recordation, see § 103A.224[1][c][iii].

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.224

§ 103A.224 Assignment of Copyright

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an assignment of the copyright to a published book. It can be adapted for other types of copyrighted works.

In addition to assigning the copyright, this form also specifically includes the transfer of all rights to the book. This second assignment is included because, absent such an agreement, the transfer of ownership of a copyright or any exclusive rights under a copyright does not convey any property rights in the material object subject to the copyright [see 17 U.S.C. § 202].

For a form for assignment of copyright (without consideration and for the purpose of changing formal title only) to the trustees of an inter vivos trust, see Ch. 73, Funding a Revocable Trust, § 74.370. For discussion of assignments in general, see Ch. 76, Assignments and Obligations. For forms of consent and notice concerning assignments, also see Ch. 76, Assignments and Obligations, § 76.20 et seq.

[b] Contents of Form

To be valid, a transfer of copyright ownership must be in writing and must [see 17 U.S.C. § 204(a); see also [d], below]

- State intent to transfer ownership of copyright.
- Provide space for signature of owner of rights conveyed, or signature of owner's agent.
- If desired, add acknowledgment of signature and certificate issued by
 - In the case of a transfer executed in the United States, a person authorized to administer oaths within the United States; or

- In the case of a transfer executed in a foreign country, a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States or a person authorized to administer oaths whose authority is proved by a certificate of such an officer.

A certificate of acknowledgment is not required, but it is desirable because it will constitute prima facie evidence of execution [see 17 U.S.C. § 204(b)].

The transfer may be made as a separate instrument or as part of a detailed contract dealing with other matters besides the transfer of copyright.

[c] Transfer of Copyright in General

The ownership of a copyright may be transferred in whole or in part by any means of conveyance or by operation of law. Ownership may be bequeathed by will or pass under the law of intestate succession [17 U.S.C. § 201(d)(1)]. Any of the exclusive rights included in a copyright may be transferred and owned separately [17 U.S.C. § 201(d)(2)].

[d] Requirements for Validity

A transfer of copyright ownership, other than by operation of law, is not valid unless an instrument of conveyance or memorandum of the transfer is made in writing and signed by the owner of the rights conveyed or the by owner's agent [17 U.S.C. § 204(a)]. The writing must to be "substantially contemporaneous" with the agreement to transfer the copyright [see Konigsberg Intern. Inc. v. Rice (9th Cir. 1994) 16 F.3d 355, 357 (letter written three and one-half years after alleged oral agreement was not sufficient); cf. Magnuson v. Video Yesteryear (9th Cir. 1996) 85 F.3d 1424, 1429 n.1 (non-contemporaneous writing was sufficient to establish valid assignment of copyright under Copyright Act of 1909, applicable to undertakings commenced before January 1, 1978, when there was no dispute that transfer had occurred or terms on which it occurred)]. A notarial acknowledgment is not required, but is prima facie evidence of the execution of the transfer [see 17 U.S.C. § 204(b)].

[e] Recordation

Any transfer of copyright ownership may be recorded in the Copyright Office if the document filed for recordation bears the actual signature of the person who executed it, or if it is accompanied by a sworn or official certification that it is a true copy of the original, signed document [17 U.S.C. § 205(a); 37 C.F.R. § 201.4(c)(1)]. On receipt of the appropriate documentation and the registration fee [see 17 U.S.C. § 708 (fees)], the Register of Copyrights will record the document and return it with a certification of recordation [17 U.S.C. § 205(b); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4 (recording requirements)]. Recordation gives all persons constructive notice of the facts stated in the recorded document [see 17 U.S.C. § 205(c)].

For the official document cover sheets for use in submitting documents to the Copyright Office for recordation, see § 103A.225[2].

[f] Assignment of Renewal Right

When an author dies before the copyright renewal period arrives, the author's statutory successor [see 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(1), (2)] is entitled to the renewal rights, even if the author previously assigned the renewal rights to another party [Miller Music Corp. v. Charles N. Daniels, Inc. (1960) 362 U.S. 373, 375, 80 S. Ct. 792, 4 L. Ed. 2d 804 (decided under prior law)]. Thus, if a copyright owner promises an assignee of the copyright that he or she will renew the copyright and assign it to the assignee for the renewal term, but dies before the beginning of the renewal period, the assignee must obtain an assignment of the copyright for the renewal term from the owner's statutory successor in order to continue to use the work. The right to renew a copyright is contingent, and does not vest until the commencement of the renewal period. The assignee's right to the renewal is valid against the world if the copyright owner is alive at the beginning of the renewal period; however, the assignee's right to renewal is only an expectancy until that time [Stewart v. Abend (1990) 495 U.S. 207, 221, 110 S. Ct. 1750, 109 L. Ed. 2d 184] .

[g] Taxation of Assignment

The sale of a copyright by an author results in ordinary income to the author [see I.R.C. § 1221(a)(3) (copyright excluded from definition of capital asset)]. A copyright is not a "Section 1231 asset," which would result in capital gains on the sale of the copyright [I.R.C. § 1231(b)(1)(C); Treas. Reg. § 1.1231-1]. However, the sale of the copyright by a person who has purchased the copyright from the author or has inherited the copyright from the author results in capital gain [Gershwin v. United States (Ct. Cl. 1957) 153 F. Supp. 477, 480, 139 Ct. Cl. 722] . If the owner of the copyright has acquired the copyright from the author as a gift, the owner will not obtain capital gains from the sale of the copyright [I.R.C. § 1221(a)(3)(C)].

This form is to official cover sheet to use when submitting documents (for example, transfers of ownership, changes of name, and licenses) for recordation in the U.S. Copyright Office. Recordation of a document with the Copyright Office gives constructive notice of the facts stated in the recorded document, provided that (1) the document, or material attached to the document, specifically identifies the work to which it pertains so that, after the document is indexed by the Register of Copyrights, it would be revealed by a reasonable search under the title or registration number of the work; and (2) the work has been registered [17 U.S.C. § 205(c); see 37 C.F.R. § 201.4 (requirements for recordation); see also §§ 103A.152 (recordation procedures), 103A.225[2] (cover sheet for documents submitted for recordation)].

Two copies of this Document Cover Sheet should be submitted with each document [see "Basic Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below].

[b] Completing Document Cover Sheet

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the document cover sheet are provided with the form. These instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the form.

C. Protection of Semiconductor Chip Mask Works

33-103A California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103A.240

§ 103A.240 Application for Registration of Mask Work Embodied in Semiconductor Chip Product [U.S. Copyright Office Form MW]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the official application for registration of a claim of protection of an owner's rights in a mask work [see 17 U.S.C. § 908(a)]. For discussion of the protection available for a mask work embodied in a semiconductor chip product ("chip") under the Semiconductor Chip Protection Act [17 U.S.C. § 901 et seq.], see § 103A.99.

[b] Where to Obtain Forms

This form may be ordered in writing from the Library of Congress, Copyright Office, 101 Independence Avenue, S.E., Washington, DC 20559-6000 or by calling the Forms and Publications Hotline at (202) 707-9100. Forms, circulars, and other information may also be accessed and downloaded from the Copyright Office website at www.copyright.gov. To speak to an information specialist, call (202) 707-3000 (TTY: (202) 707-6737). Circulars are also available from Fax-on-Demand at (202) 707-2600.

Helpful circulars and information sheets Circular 1c, "Make Sure Your Application Will Be Acceptable." See also 37 C.F.R. § 211.1 et seq., discussing the deposit of identifying material required to be submitted with this form [see [g], below].

The application must be made on either a printed copy of this form or on a legible photocopy made on a good grade of 8 1/2 x 11 (preferably blue-colored) paper, suitable for automatic feeding through a photocopier [see "General Information" in the official instructions reproduced in [2], below]. The application must contain the information required by the form and its accompanying instructions [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(b)(3)].

[c] Additional Submissions Required With Form

The application for mask work registration must be accompanied by the statutory fee [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(b)(3); see 37 C.F.R. § 211.3(a) (fee schedule)]. See the Copyright Office website at www.copyright.gov or call (202) 707-3000 for current fee information.

The application must also be accompanied by a deposit of all identifying material required under the law [see 17 U.S.C. § 908(c), (d); 37 C.F.R. § 211.4(b)(3); see also [g], below].

If additional space is needed, complete and attach U.S. Copyright Office Form MW/CON (continuation sheet for Form MW) to this form.

[d] Who May Submit Form

The application may be submitted by the owner of the mask work or by the agent of the owner [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(b)(2)]. The owner of a mask work includes one who has obtained the transfer all of the exclusive rights in the work. "Owner" does not include the transferee of less than all of the exclusive rights in the work or any licensee [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(b)(2); see generally § 103A.99[3]].

Detailed, line-by-line instructions on how to complete the application for registration are provided with the form. These instructions are reproduced in [2], below, along with the form. The application has been designed by the Copyright Office to elicit information bearing on the preparation or identification of the mask work to be protected, the existence or duration of protection, and ownership of the mask work [see 17 U.S.C. § 908(c)].

The application must include a certification stating that the applicant is authorized to submit the application and that the statements are correct to the best of that person's knowledge. The certification must be signed with that person's handwritten signature, accompanied by his or her typed or printed name [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(b)(3)].

[f] When to Submit Application for Registration

Application for registration of a claim of protection should be made within two years of the date of the first commercial application, because statutory protection for a mask work which has been commercially exploited [see 17 U.S.C. § 901(a)(5) (definition)] anywhere in the world is terminated if the application is not made within that two-year period [see 17 U.S.C. § 908(a); § 103A.99[5]].

[g] Deposit Requirements for Commercially Exploited Work

If a mask work has been commercially exploited [see 17 U.S.C. § 901(a)(5) (definition); see also § 103A.99[3]], the application for registration must be accompanied by four representations of the mask work fixed in the form of the semiconductor chip product in which it was first commercially exploited. Defective chips may be deposited provided that the mask work contribution would be revealed in reverse dissection of the chips. The four representations must be accompanied by a visually perceptible representation of each layer of the mask work. These representations must consist of either sets of plastic color overlay sheets, drawings or plots in composite form on a single sheet or multiple sheets, or a photograph of each layer of the work fixed in the chip. The visually perceptible representation must be reproduced on material which can be readily stored in an 8 1/2 -x-11-inch format, and must be reproduced at a magnification sufficient to reveal the basic circuitry design of the mask work, at least 20 times magnification [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(1)].

Exceptions to this deposit requirement exist for material that contains trade secret information [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(1), (c)(1); see [i], below]. Special relief may also be granted [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(d); see [j], below].

[h] Deposit Requirements for Work That Has Not Been Commercially Exploited

If a mask work has not been commercially exploited [see 17 U.S.C. § 901(a)(5) (definition); § 103A.99[3]], the application for registration must be accompanied by one of the following [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(2)]:

- When the mask work contribution in which registration is sought represents 20 percent or more of the area of the intended final form, a visually perceptible representation of the work in accordance with 37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(1) (required deposit for commercially exploited mask works). In addition, an applicant may deposit four representations in the most complete form of the mask work as fixed by the semiconductor product.
- When the mask work contribution in which registration is sought represents less than 20 percent or more of the area of the intended final form, a visually perceptible representation of the work that reveals the totality of the mask work contribution to a person trained in the state of the art. The visually perceptible representations may consist of any combination of plastic overlay sheets, drawings or plots in composite form, or a photograph or photographs of the entire mask set. If the visually perceptible representations fail to identify all of the elements of the mask work, additional explanatory material may be included. The visually perceptible representation must be reproduced on material which can be readily stored in an 8 1/2 -x-11-inch format, and must be of sufficient magnification and completeness to reveal all elements of the contribution. In addition, an applicant may deposit four representations in the most complete form of the mask work as fixed by the semiconductor product.

As in the case of commercially exploited work, special exceptions to this deposit requirement exist for material that contains trade secret information [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(2), (c)(2); see [i], below]. Special relief may also be granted [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(d); see [j], below].

[i] Trade Secret Protection

If specific layers of a mask work contain information in which trade secret protection is asserted [see generally Ch. 57, Computer-Related Transactions (trade secret law)], certain material may be withheld from deposit. For commercially exploited mask works, no more than two layers of a five or more layer mask work may be withheld [see 37 C.F.R. § 211.5(c)(1)]. For mask works that have not been commercially exploited, any layer may be withheld [see 37 C.F.R. § 211.5(c)(2)].

In lieu of a visually perceptible representation of the withheld material, the applicant must submit "identifying portions." For commercially exploited mask works, "identifying portions" means (1) a printout of the mask-work design data pertaining to each withheld layer, reproduced in microform or (2) visually perceptible representations in accordance with 37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(1)(i)-(iii), with those portions containing sensitive information maintained under a claim of trade secrecy blocked out, provided the portions remaining are greater than those blocked out [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(c)(1)].

For mask works not commercially exploited falling under 37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(2)(i), any layer may be withheld, and in lieu of the visually perceptible representations required, "identifying portions" means (1) a printout of the mask-work design data pertaining to each withheld layer, reproduced in microform, in which sensitive information maintained under a claim of trade secrecy has been blocked out or stripped or (2) visually perceptible representations in accordance with 37 C.F.R. § 211.5(b)(2)(i), with those portions containing sensitive information maintained under a claim of trade secrecy blocked out, provided the portions remaining are greater than those blocked out [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(c)(2)]. Otherwise, if the mask work has not been commercially exploited, the identifying portions must be accompanied by a single photograph of the top or other visible layers of the work. Sensitive information maintained under a claim of trade secrecy may be blocked out or stripped from the identifying portions, provided blocked-out portions do not exceed the remaining portions [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(c)(2)].

[j] Special Relief

The applicant may request special relief from the deposit requirements discussed above. A request must be made in writing to the Associate Register for Registration and Recordation Program, Library of Congress, Copyright Office - RPO, 101 Independence Avenue, SE, Washington, DC 20559-6200, and must be signed by the person who signs the application. It must set forth specific reasons why the request should be granted and propose an alternative form of deposit [37 C.F.R. § 211.5(d)]. Neither the Act nor the applicable regulations contain any guidelines as to what considerations might justify the granting of special relief.

[k] Single Registration

As a general rule, only one registration may be made for the same version of a mask work. However, if an applicant alleges that an earlier registration for the same version is unauthorized and legally invalid, a registration may be made in the applicant's name. The applicant's allegation must be set forth in a signed affidavit submitted for recordation [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(c); see 37 C.F.R. §§ 201.4, 211.2 (requirements for recordation); see also § 103A.152 (recordation procedures); § 103A.225[2] (cover sheet for documents submitted for recordation)]. Notwithstanding the general rule, owners of mask works in final forms of semiconductor chip products that are produced by adding metal connection layers to unpersonalized gate arrays may separately register the entire unpersonalized gate array and the custom metallization layers [see 37 C.F.R. § 211.4(c)(2)].

A mask work that has not been commercially exploited [see 17 U.S.C. § 901(a)(5) (definition); § 103A.99[3]] will be considered a single mask work that can be registered by a single application and payment of a single registration fee if all of its elements have been fixed in a particular form of a chip by the time the application is filed and if the same person owns all elements of the mask work [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(d)].

A mask work that has been commercially exploited will be treated as a single work if all of its elements have been fixed in a particular form of a chip by the time the chip was first commercially exploited and if the same person owns all elements of the mask work [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(d)].

[m] Registration in Most Complete Form

Owners seeking registration of a mask work contribution must submit the entire original mask work contribution in its most complete form as fixed in a semiconductor chip product. The most complete form means the stage of the manufacturing process that is closest to completion [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(e)]. When the owner is unable to register on the basis of the most complete form because he or she lacks control over the most complete form, this fact must be stated in Space 2 of the form [see [2], below]. In these circumstances, the owner may register on the basis of the most complete form in his or her possession [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(e)].

For applicants seeking to register an unpersonalized gate array or custom metallization layers under 37 C.F.R. § 211.4(c)(2), the most complete form is the entire chip on which the unpersonalized gate array resides or custom metallization layers reside, and registration covers those elements of the chip in which work protection is asserted [37 C.F.R. § 211.4(e)].

Scope

This chapter covers the registration of trademarks and service marks under the Model State Trademark Law as enacted in California [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14200 et seq.]. The Legal Background discusses the types of marks and highlights the protection afforded by that law. The Transaction Guide provides an overview of considerations for determining whether to register a mark under that law and the procedures for registration. The chapter includes forms relevant to the registration of marks under that law.

For discussion of, and forms for use in, an action to prevent infringement of a mark or unfair competition involving the use of a mark, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 549, Trademarks (Matthew Bender).

CHAPTER 103B TRADEMARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-103B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103B.10

§ 103B.10 Governing Law

[1] Model State Trademark Law; Trademarks and Service Marks Unit

The former California Trademark Law [former Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14200 et seq.] was superseded, effective January 1, 2008, by the Model State Trademark Law, codified at Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14200 et seq. Significant changes include the following:

- The duration of a California registration (formerly 10 years) is now five years [see § 103B.12[4][c]].
- The classification of goods and services now are those adopted by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office [see § 103B.200[1][b]].
- A single application may include multiple classifications of goods or services [see § 103B.200[1][b]].
- The applicant is required to disclose whether the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office ever refused to register the mark and, if so, the reasons why registration was refused [see § 103B.200[1][c]].
- Applicants are required to declare that the material facts in the application are true. A willful inaccurate statement can expose the applicant to a civil penalty of up to $10,000 [see § 103B.200[1][f]].

The Model State Trademark Law is administered by the Trademarks and Service Marks Unit in the Secretary of State's office [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(j)], which is referred to in this chapter as the Trademarks Unit. It has a web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/>.

If any provision of the Model State Trademark Law, or the application of any provision to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the Model State Trademark Law is not to be affected by that holding [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14265].

For discussion of, and forms for use in, an action to prevent infringement of a mark or unfair competition involving the use of a mark, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 549, Trademarks (Matthew Bender).

[2] Lanham Act

The intent of the Model State Trademark Law is to provide a system of state trademark registration and protection substantially consistent with the federal system of trademark registration and protection under the Trademark Act of 1946, commonly called the Lanham Act, which is codified at 15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq. To that end, the construction given the Lanham Act should be examined as nonbinding authority for interpreting and construing the Model State Trademark Law [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14272].

For discussion of the federal system of trademark registration and protection under the Lanham Act, see LaLonde, Gilson on Trademarks (Matthew Bender).

[3] Common Law

Nothing in the Model State Trademark Law adversely affects the rights or the enforcement of rights in marks acquired in good faith at any time within common law [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14259].

CHAPTER 103B TRADEMARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-103B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103B.11

§ 103B.11 Definitions

[1] "Trademark"

"Trademark" means any word, name, symbol, or device, or any combination of those, used by a person to identify and distinguish the goods of that person, including a unique product, from those manufactured or sold by others, and to indicate the source of the goods, even if that source is unknown [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(a)].

[2] "Service Mark"

"Service mark" means any word, name, symbol, or device, or any combination of those, used by a person to identify and distinguish the services of that person, including a unique service, from the services of others, and to indicate the source of the services, even if that source is unknown. Titles, character names used by a person, and other distinctive features of radio or television programs may be registered as service marks notwithstanding that they, or the programs, may advertise the goods of the sponsor [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(b)].

[3] "Mark"

"Mark" includes any trademark or service mark entitled to registration under the Model State Trademark Law, whether registered or not [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(c)].

California law also offers protection for container brands [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14427], farm names [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14461], laundry supply designations [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14482], and association insignia [see Cal. Corp. Code § 21301].

[4] "Trade Name"

"Trade name" means any name used by a person to identify a business or vocation of that person [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(d)]. A trade name cannot be registered as such under the Model State Trademark Law, but a trade name that qualifies as a trademark or service mark may be registered as a mark.

For discussion of, and forms for use in, an action to prevent unfair competition involving the plaintiff's trade name, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 549, Trademarks, § 549.107 (Matthew Bender).

[5] "Person"

The term "person" and any other word or term used to designate the applicant or other party entitled to a benefit or privilege or rendered liable under the provisions of the Model State Trademark Law includes a juristic person as well as a natural person. The term "juristic person" includes a firm, partnership, corporation, union, association, or other organization capable of suing and being sued in a court of law [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(e)].

[6] "Applicant"

"Applicant" means the person filing an application for registration of a mark under the Model State Trademark Law, and the legal representatives, successors, or assigns of the person [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(f)].

[7] "Registrant"

"Registrant" means the person to whom the registration of a mark under the Model State Trademark Law is issued, and the legal representatives, successors, or assigns of the person [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(g)].

[8] "Use"

"Use" means the bona fide use of a mark in the ordinary course of trade, and not made merely to reserve a right in a mark. For the purposes of the Model State Trademark Law, a mark is deemed to be in use if it is used on either of the following [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(h)]:

- On goods when it is placed in any manner on the goods or other containers or the displays associated therewith or on the tags or labels affixed thereto or, if the nature of the goods makes that placement impracticable, on documents associated with the goods or their sale, and the goods are sold or transported in commerce in California; or
- On services when it is used or displayed in the sale or advertising of services and the services are rendered in California.

"Abandoned" means that either of the following has occurred [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14202(i)]:

- A mark's use has been discontinued with intent not to resume that use. Intent not to resume the use may be inferred from circumstances. Nonuse for two consecutive years constitutes prima facie evidence of abandonment.
- When any course of conduct of the owner, including acts of omission as well as commission, causes the mark to lose its significance as a mark.

CHAPTER 103B TRADEMARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-103B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103B.12

§ 103B.12 Registration of Mark

[1] Application

Subject to the limitations set forth in the Model State Trademark Law, any person who uses a mark may file with the Trademarks Unit, on a form prescribed by the Trademarks Unit, an application for registration of that mark [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(a)]. See § 103B.200[2] for an illustration of the prescribed form and accompanying instructions.

However, a mark by which the goods or services of any applicant for registration may be distinguished from the goods or services of others cannot be registered if it meets any of the criteria specified in Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205 [see § 103B.13[1]].

[2] Examination by Trademarks Unit

On the filing of an application for registration and payment of the application fee, the Trademarks Unit may cause the application to be examined for conformity with the Model State Trademark Law [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(a)].

[3] Additional Information and Amendment of Application

The applicant must provide any additional pertinent information requested by the Trademarks Unit, including a description of a design mark, and may make, or authorize the Trademarks Unit to make, amendments to the application as may be reasonably requested by the Trademarks Unit or deemed by the applicant to be advisable in order to respond to any rejection or objection [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(b)].

The Trademarks Unit may make amendments to the application submitted by the applicant on the applicant's agreement, or may require the submission of a new application [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(d)].

[a] Issuance and Content of Certificate

On compliance by the applicant with the requirements of the Model State Trademark Law, the Trademarks Unit must cause a certificate of registration to be issued and delivered to the applicant. The certificate of registration must be issued under the signature of the Secretary of State and the seal of the state, and show the following information [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14215(a)]:

- The name and business address and, if a corporation, the state of incorporation, or if a partnership, the state in which the partnership is organized and the names of the general partners, as specified by the Trademarks Unit, of the person claiming ownership of the mark;
- The date claimed for the first use of the mark anywhere and the date claimed for the first use of the mark in California;
- The class of goods or services and a description of the goods or services on or in connection with which the mark is used;
- A reproduction of the mark; and
- The registration date and the term of the registration of the mark [see [c], below].

[b] Evidentiary Effect

Any certificate of registration issued by the Trademarks Unit under the provisions of the Model State Trademark Law, or a copy of a certificate duly certified by the Trademarks Unit, is admissible in evidence as competent and sufficient proof of the registration of the mark in any action or judicial proceeding in any court of California [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14215(b)].

[c] Term of Registration

A registration of mark pursuant to the Model State Trademark Law is effective for a term of five years from the date of registration and may be renewed for successive periods of five years [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(a),(b); see § 103B.15[1]].

Any registration in force under the former law when the Model State Trademark Law became effective, January 1, 2008, was automatically extended for the unexpired term of the registration under the former law, becoming eligible for renewal under the Model State Trademark Law on expiration of that term [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(c)].

[5] Public Access to Records

The Trademarks Unit must keep for public examination a record of all marks registered or renewed under the Model State Trademark Law, as well as a record of all related documents recorded pursuant to Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220 [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14225]. See § 103B.15 for discussion of the recordation of related documents.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 103B.13 Impediments to Registration

[1] Marks That Cannot Be Registered

[a] Immoral, Deceptive, or Scandalous Matter

A mark cannot be registered if it consists of or comprises immoral, deceptive, or scandalous matter [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(a)].

[b] Disparaging Matter

A mark cannot be registered if it consists of or comprises matter that may disparage or falsely suggest a connection with persons living or dead, institutions, beliefs, or national symbols, or bring them into contempt or disrepute [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(b)].

[c] Government Flag, Emblem, or Insignia

A mark cannot be registered if it consists of or comprises the flag or coat of arms or other insignia of the United States of America, of any state or municipality, or of any foreign nation, or any simulation of any of those [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(c)].

[d] Living Individual's Identity

A mark cannot be registered if it consists of or comprises the name, signature, or a portrait identifying a particular living individual, except by the individual's written consent [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(d)].

[e] Confusing Mark

A mark cannot be registered if it consists of or comprises a mark that so resembles a mark registered in California or a mark or trade name previously used by another and not abandoned, as to be likely, when used on or in connection with the goods or services of the applicant, to cause confusion or mistake, or to deceive [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(f)].

[2] Nondistinctive Mark[a] Definition

A mark cannot be registered if it consists of a mark that is any of the following [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(e)]:

- When used on or in connection with the goods or services of the applicant, is merely descriptive or deceptively misdescriptive of them.
- When used on or in connection with the goods or services of the applicant, is primarily geographically descriptive or deceptively misdescriptive of them.
- Is primarily merely a surname, provided, however, that this will not prevent the registration of a mark used by the applicant that has become distinctive of the applicant's goods or services.

The Trademarks Unit may accept as evidence that the mark has become distinctive, as used on or in connection with the applicant's goods or services, proof of continuous use of it as a mark by the applicant in California for the five years before the date the claim of distinctiveness is made [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(e)].

Marks are often classified by the courts in five categories of increasing distinctiveness [Two Pesos, Inc. v. Taco Cabana, Inc. (1992) 505 U.S. 763, 767-771, 112 S. Ct. 2753, 120 L. Ed. 2d 615 ; Park'N Fly, Inc. v. Dollar Park & Fly, Inc. (1985) 469 U.S. 189, 194, 196, 105 S. Ct. 658, 83 L. Ed. 2d 582] :

- Generic;
- Descriptive;
- Suggestive;
- Arbitrary; and
- Fanciful.

A mark in any of the last three categories intrinsically serves to identify a particular source of a product and so may be deemed inherently distinctive and generally entitled to protection [see, e.g., GoTo.com, Inc. v. Walt Disney Co. (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1199, 1207 (logo comprising words "Go" and "To" in white letters enclosed in green circle with ".com" in black letters trailing over circle's edge was suggestive trademark for search-engine web site)].

A mark that is "merely descriptive" of the product is not inherently distinctive and generally is not protectable unless it has acquired "secondary meaning," that is, unless customers associate the mark with a particular source [Two Pesos, Inc. v. Taco Cabana, Inc. (1992) 505 U.S. 763, 767-771, 112 S. Ct. 2753, 120 L. Ed. 2d 615 ; Park'N Fly, Inc. v. Dollar Park & Fly, Inc. (1985) 469 U.S. 189, 194, 196, 105 S. Ct. 658, 83 L. Ed. 2d 582] . Color alone, if it has attained "secondary meaning," may be a trademark, provided the color is "nonfunctional" (that is, is not essential to the product's use or purpose and does not affect its cost or quality) [Qualitex Co. v. Jacobson Products Co., Inc. (1995), 514 U.S. 159, 166, 115 S. Ct. 1300, 131 L. Ed. 2d 248] .

A generic mark is one that is merely the common word for a type of product (for example, "car" or "egg") [Park'N Fly, Inc. v. Dollar Park & Fly, Inc. (1985) 469 U.S. 189, 194, 105 S. Ct. 658, 83 L. Ed. 2d 582 (if products and services could be classified zoologically, then generic or common descriptive mark would be one that refers, or has come to be understood as referring, to "genus" of products or services)]. It is not registerable even with a showing of secondary meaning [see Filipino Yellow Pages, Inc. v. Asian Journal Publications, Inc. (9th Cir., 1999) 198 F.3d 1143, 1146-1147 (combination of two generic terms results in generic mark, not descriptive one)].

A mark composed of generic or descriptive words is not automatically invalid as a trademark, however. The validity and distinctiveness of a composite trademark is determined by viewing the trademark as a whole, as it appears in the marketplace, and not by dissecting it and reviewing the validity of its components [Self Realization Fellowship Church v. Ananda (9th Cir. 1995) 59 F.3d 902, 912] .

[3] Disclaimer of Objectionable Component

The Trademarks Unit may require the applicant to disclaim an unregistrable component of an otherwise registrable mark, and an applicant may voluntarily disclaim a component of a mark sought to be registered. No disclaimer can prejudice or affect the applicant's or registrant's rights, then existing or thereafter arising, in the disclaimed matter or the applicant's or registrant's rights of registration on another application if the disclaimed matter is or has become distinctive of the applicant's or registrant's goods or services [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(c)].

[4] Concurrent Applications for Identical or Similar Marks

In the event that several applications that are concurrently being processed by the Trademarks Unit seek registration of identical or confusingly similar marks for the same or related goods or services, the Trademarks Unit must grant priority to the applications in the order of filing. If a prior-filed application is granted a registration, the other application or applications must then be rejected. Any rejected applicant may bring an action for cancellation of the registration on grounds of prior or superior rights to the mark, in accordance with the provisions of Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230 [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(g)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 103B.14 Denial of Application

[1] Right to Amend and Resubmit Application

If an applicant is found not to be entitled to registration, the Trademarks Unit must so advise the applicant, stating the reasons. The applicant has a reasonable period of time, as specified by the Trademarks Unit, in which to reply or to amend the application, in which event the application must be re-examined. This procedure may be repeated until the Trademarks Unit finally refuses registration of the mark or the applicant fails to reply or amend within the specified period, whereupon the application will be deemed to have been abandoned [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(e)].

[2] Judicial Review

If the Trademarks Unit finally refuses registration of the mark, the applicant may seek a writ of mandamus to compel registration. A writ may be granted, but without costs to the Trademarks Unit, on proof that all statements in the application are true and that the mark is otherwise entitled to registration [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14209(f)].

For discussion of, and forms for use in, an action for a writ of mandamus to compel registration of a mark, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 474C, Procedures in Reviewing Agency Decisions (Matthew Bender).

§ 103B.15 Procedures After Registration

[1] Renewal of Term

On application filed within six months before the expiration of the current term of registration, in a manner complying with the requirements of the Trademarks Unit, the registration may be renewed for a term of five years from the end of the expiring term [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(a)], and may be renewed for successive periods of five years in like manner [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(b)]. See § 103B.201[2] for an illustration of the prescribed form and accompanying instructions.

[2] Cancellation of Registration

[a] Request by Registrant or Assignee

The Trademarks Unit must cancel a registration concerning which the Trademarks Unit receives a voluntary request for cancellation from the registrant or the assignee of record [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(a)]. See § 103B.16[1] for discussion of assignments.

[b] Unrenewed Term

The Trademarks Unit must cancel a registration granted under the Model State Trademark Law and not renewed in accordance with the provisions of the Model State Trademark Law [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(b)]. See [1], above, for discussion of renewal.

[c] Judicial Order or Finding

The Trademarks Unit must cancel a registration if cancellation is ordered on any ground by a court of competent jurisdiction [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(d)] and must cancel a registration concerning a mark with regard to which a court of competent jurisdiction finds any of the following [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(c)]:

- The registered mark has been abandoned.

- The registrant is not the owner of the mark.
- The registration was granted improperly.
- The registration was obtained fraudulently.
- The mark is or has become the generic name for the goods or services, or a portion of them, for which it has been registered.
- The registered mark is so similar to a mark registered by another person in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office before the date of the filing of the application for registration by the registrant under the Model State Trademark Law as to be likely to cause confusion or mistake, or to deceive, and has not been abandoned. However, should the registrant prove that the registrant is the owner of a concurrent registration of a mark in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office covering an area including California, the registration under the Model State Trademark Law may not be canceled for that area of the state.

[d] Check for Fee Is Dishonored

The Trademarks Unit must cancel a registration or renewal if a check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentment. However, the Trademarks Unit must give written notice to the registrant before cancellation for this reason and then must allow 30 days from the date of the notification letter for payment by cashier's check or the equivalent [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(e)].

[e] Confusing Mark

Within six months of the date of registration, the Trademarks Unit must cancel a registration issued in violation of the proscription of Bus. & Prof. Code § 14205(f) against registration of a confusing mark [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(f)]. See § 103B.13[1][f] for discussion of that proscription.

[3] Fraudulent Registration

Any person who, either for himself or herself or on behalf of another person, procures the filing or registration of any mark pursuant to the Model State Trademark Law by knowingly making any false or fraudulent representation or declaration, either orally or in writing, or by any other fraudulent means, is liable to pay all damages sustained as a consequence of the filing or registration, to be recovered by or on behalf of the person injured, in any court of competent jurisdiction [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14240].

CHAPTER 103B TRADEMARKS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-103B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103B.16

§ 103B.16 Recordation of Related Instruments

[1] Assignment of Registration

Any mark and its registration under the Model State Trademark Law can be assigned along with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(a)].

An application may be filed with the Trademarks Unit for recordation of the assignment. On recording the assignment, the Trademarks Unit must issue, in the name of the assignee, a new certificate for the remainder of the current term of the registration [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(a)]. See § 103B.202[2] for an illustration of the prescribed form of application and accompanying instructions for recordation of an assignment. When an assignment has been recorded by the Trademarks Unit, the record is prima facie evidence of the execution of the assignment [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(d)].

An assignment of any registration under the Model State Trademark Law is void as against any subsequent purchaser for valuable consideration without notice, unless it is recorded with the Trademarks Unit within three months after the date of assignment or before the subsequent purchase [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(a)].

[2] Change of Registrant's Name

Any registrant or applicant effecting a change of the name of the person to whom the mark is registered or for whom an application has been filed may, on a form prescribed by the Trademarks Unit, record a certificate of change of name of the registrant or applicant with the Trademarks Unit. The Trademarks Unit may consequently issue a new certificate of registration, in the new name of the registrant, for the remainder of the current term, or issue an original certificate of registration in the new name of the applicant [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(b)]. See § 103B.203[2] for an illustration of the prescribed form of application and accompanying instructions for recordation of a change of name.

[3] License or Other Event

Various instruments that relate to a mark registered or an application pending pursuant to the Model State Trademark Law, including, but not limited to, licenses, may be recorded at the discretion of the Trademarks Unit, provided the instrument is in writing and is duly executed [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(c)]. Acknowledgment is prima facie evidence of the execution of an instrument [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(d)]. A photocopy of the instrument must be accepted for recording if it is certified by a party to it, or a successor, to be a true and correct copy of the original [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(e)].

An instrument related to a security interest or a mortgage might not be accepted for recordation by the Trademarks Unit (possibly because a risk of confusion could arise if such instruments were recorded at various governmental offices). In the bill for enactment of the Model State Trademark Law [see AB 1484, 2007-2008 Reg. Sess.], a specific reference to such instruments in Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(c) was deleted before the bill was passed, and a limiting provision was inserted that specifically refers to security interests under Division 9 of the Commercial Code [see § 103B.17].

§ 103B.120 California Registration

1. Complete application for registration of mark, Form LP/TM 100 [see § 103B.200[2]].
2. File application accompanied by:
 - a. Three specimens of mark [Cal. Bus.&Prof. Code § 14207(e)].

NOTE:

The Trademarks Unit advises [see <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/faqs.htm>] that for a trademark, the specimen can be a label of the product sold or a photograph of the mark on the product itself, if the product is too big or bulky to send through the mail. For example, if the mark is printed on the front of tee-shirts, three photographs of the mark on the tee-shirt could be sent rather than sending three tee-shirts. For a service mark, the specimen can be a sample of how the services are being advertised. A telephone-directory advertisement, a flyer, a business card, or a photograph of a billboard advertising the services could be submitted. The specimen for a service mark must demonstrate the nature of the services rendered. The specimen must be something that could be handed to an average member of the public, and that person would immediately know what services are being provided by the company using the mark.

Photocopies, computer printouts, or camera-ready layouts of the mark will not be accepted as specimens. The mark owner must have released the product or service into the market prior to seeking registration of the trademark or service mark with the Secretary of State. If an advertisement cannot be provided, the mark owner must submit tags, labels, or photographs of products bearing the mark to be registered. A trademark or service mark cannot be registered until the mark owner has provided services or sold products with the mark to be registered. The Trademarks Unit must see specimens so as to be sure that the mark is being used in commerce and to conclude that the word or phrase to be registered functions properly as a trademark or service mark. The mark owner must wait until proper specimens can be provided before applying to register the mark.

b. English translation of mark, if mark or any part of mark is not in English language [Cal. Bus.&Prof. Code § 14207(g)].

c. Filing fee [Cal. Bus.&Prof. Code § 14207(f); see § 103B.200[1][h]].

PART IV. FORMS

33-103B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103B.200

§ 103B.200 Registration Application for Trademark or Service Mark

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is prescribed by the Trademarks and Service Marks Unit (the Trademarks Unit), in the Secretary of State's office, for use in applying for registration of a trademark or service mark under the Model State Trademark Act [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(a); § 103B.12[1]]. It is designated as Form LP/TM 100. The form and instructions for using it can be downloaded from the Trademarks Unit's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. (A registration form published by the Trademarks Unit before January 1, 2008, does not comply with the Model State Trademark Law and will not be accepted for filing.)

The Secretary of State's web site, at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/faqs.htm>, provides answers to frequently asked questions about registering trademarks and service marks.

[b] Required Content

An application for registration of a mark must set forth the following information, at least [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(a)]:

- The name and business address of the person applying for the registration and, if that person is a corporation or partnership, the state of incorporation or the state in which the partnership is organized and the names of the general partners, as specified by the Trademarks Unit.
- The date the mark was first used anywhere and the date it was first used in California by the applicant or a predecessor in interest.
- A statement that the applicant is the owner of the mark, that the mark is in use, and that, to the knowledge of the person verifying the application, no other person has registered in California, or has the right to use the mark, either in the identical form or in such near resemblance as to be likely, when applied to the goods or services of the other person, to cause confusion, to cause mistake, or to deceive.

- The goods or services on or in connection with which the mark is used, the mode or manner in which the mark is used on or in connection with the goods or services, and the class in which the goods or services fall.

The classification of goods and services must conform to the classifications adopted by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office [see 37 C.F.R. § 6.1]. A single application for registration of a mark may include any or all goods on which, or services with which, the mark is actually being used, indicating the appropriate class or classes of goods or services [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14235].

[c] Disclosure of Application Under Lanham Act

The Trademarks Unit also requires a statement as to whether an application to register the mark, or portions or a composite of the mark, has been filed by the applicant or a predecessor in interest with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. If so, the applicant must provide full particulars with respect to any such application, including the filing date and serial number of each application, the status of the allocation, and, if the application was finally refused registration or has otherwise not resulted in a registration, the reasons for that refusal or result [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(b)].

[d] Drawing of Mark

The Trademarks Unit also requires that a drawing of the mark must accompany the application [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(c)].

[e] Translation of Foreign Words

If the mark or any part of the mark is in any language other than English, the application must be accompanied by a certified translation in English [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(g)].

[f] Declaration of Accuracy

The application must include a declaration of accuracy signed by the applicant or by a member of the firm or an officer of the corporation or association, or by a general partner of the partnership, making application. If the person signing the declaration willfully states as true in the declaration any material fact that he or she knows to be false, he or she could be subject to a civil penalty of not more than $10,000. An action for that penalty may be brought by any public prosecutor. The person signing the declaration must be informed of this penalty in writing [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(d)]. See Item 14 on the form.

The application must be accompanied by three specimens showing the mark as actually used [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(e); see § 103B.120 P 2.a.].

[h] Fee

The application must be accompanied by a fee payable to the Trademarks Unit as set forth in Gov. Code § 12193(a) [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14207(f)]. For the current filing fee, see the Secretary of State's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. The fee is not refundable [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14260].

When a single application includes goods or services that fall within multiple classes [see [a], above], the Trademarks Unit may require payment of a fee for each class [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14235].

The Trademarks Unit must cancel a registration if a check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentment. However, the Trademarks Unit must give written notice to the registrant before cancellation for this reason and then must allow 30 days from the date of the notification letter for payment by cashier's check or the equivalent [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(e)].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is prescribed by the Trademarks and Service Marks Unit (the Trademarks Unit), in the Secretary of State's office, for use in applying for renewal of the registration term of a trademark or service mark under the Model State Trademark Act [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(a); § 103B.15[1]]. It is designated as Form LP/TM 109. The form and instructions for using it can be downloaded from the Trademarks Unit's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. (A renewal form published by the Trademarks Unit before January 1, 2008, does not comply with the Model State Trademark Law and will not be accepted for filing.)

The application for renewal must be filed within six months before the expiration of the current term of registration. A renewal fee, payable to the Trademarks Unit, must accompany the application for renewal of the registration as set forth in Gov. Code § 12193(c) [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(a)]. For the current filing fee, see the Secretary of State's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. The fee is not refundable [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14260]. The Trademarks Unit must cancel a renewal if a check or other remittance accepted in payment of the filing fee is not paid on presentment. However, the Trademarks Unit must give written notice to the registrant before cancellation for this reason and then must allow 30 days from the date of the notification letter for payment by cashier's check or the equivalent [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14230(e)].

All applications for renewal under the Model State Trademark Law, whether of registrations made under the Model State Trademark Law or of registrations effected under any prior act, must include a verified statement that the mark has been and is still in use and include a specimen showing actual use of the mark on, or in connection with, the goods or services with which the mark is associated [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14217(d)].

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is prescribed by the Trademarks and Service Marks Unit (the Trademarks Unit), in the Secretary of State's office, for use in applying for recordation of an assignment of the registration of a trademark or service mark under the Model State Trademark Act [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(a); § 103B.15[2]]. It is designated as Form LP/TM 108. The form and instructions for using it can be downloaded from the Trademarks Unit's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. (An assignment form published by the Trademarks Unit before January 1, 2008, does not comply with the Model State Trademark Law and will not be accepted for filing.)

Assignment must be by an instrument in writing duly executed and may be recorded with the Trademarks Unit on the payment of the recording fee payable to the Trademarks Unit as set forth in Gov. Code § 12193(b) [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(a)]. For the current filing fee, see the Secretary of State's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. The fee is not refundable [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14260].

Acknowledgment is prima facie evidence of the execution of an instrument of assignment [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(d)]. A photocopy of an instrument of assignment must be accepted for recording if it is certified by a party to the assignment, or a successor, to be a true and correct copy of the original [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(e)].

PART IV. FORMS

33-103B California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 103B.203

§ 103B.203 Change of Mark Owner's Name

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is prescribed by the Trademarks and Service Marks Unit (the Trademarks Unit), in the Secretary of State's office, for use in applying for recordation of a change of a mark owner's name [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(b); § 103B.17[2]]. It is designated as Form LP/TM 110. The form and instructions for using it can be downloaded from the Trademarks Unit's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. (A change-of-name form published by the Trademarks Unit before January 1, 2008, does not comply with the Model State Trademark Law and will not be accepted for filing.) There may be a filing fee [see Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(b)]. For the current filing fee, see the Secretary of State's web site at <http://www.sos.ca.gov/business/ts/forms.htm>. The fee is not refundable [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14260].

The instructions for the form state that it must be accompanied by "a true and correct copy of the original document showing proof of name change, or a copy of the original document filed in another jurisdiction and certified by the filing office of that jurisdiction." However, a photocopy of an instrument effecting a change of name is acceptable for recording if it is certified by the party or a successor, to be a true and correct copy of the original [Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 14220(e)].

This form is suitable for use only when a mark owner's name has been changed without an assignment or other transfer of the mark. If ownership of the mark has been transferred, the form in § 103B.202[2] should be used to apply for recordation of an assignment.

This chapter covers medical and hospital services that are provided pursuant to written agreements between patients and health care providers. The chapter covers hospital care and arbitration agreements, authorizations for and consents to medical and hospital treatment, refusals to consent to medical and hospital treatment, and release of medical records and information. The chapter also discusses the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.], effective July 1, 2000, which provides for the creation, form, and revocation of advance health care directives, including powers of attorney for health care, and for the appointment of health care surrogates. Although the chapter focuses principally on medical and hospital services for competent adults, it also contains some discussion of medical services for minors and incompetent persons. For other coverage of medical care for minors and incompetent persons, see Ch. 66, Guardianships , Ch. 66A, Conservatorships , and Ch. 100, Custody, Control, and Support of Minors .

This chapter does not cover anatomical gifts or abortion rights and procedures. Anatomical gifts are regulated by the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [see Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7156.5], which is covered in Ch. 106, Anatomical Gifts . Abortion rights are covered in part by the Therapeutic Abortion Act [see Health & Safety Code § 123400 et seq.], which is discussed in Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors .

§ 104.10 Hospital and Physician Defined

A "hospital," as used in this chapter, is a general acute care hospital, licensed by the State Department of Health Services and defined by statute as a health facility organized, maintained, and operated for the diagnosis, care, prevention, and treatment of physical or mental illness, including convalescence and rehabilitation, for one or more persons, to which persons are admitted for a 24-hour stay or longer, having a duly constituted governing body with overall administrative and professional responsibilities and an organized medical staff, and providing 24-hour inpatient care, including medical, nursing, surgical, anesthesia, laboratory, radiology, pharmacy, and dietary services [Health & Safety Code §§ 1250(a), 1253]. A general acute care hospital may include more than one physical plant maintained and operated on separate premises [Health & Safety Code §§ 1250(a), 1250.8]. A general acute care hospital that exclusively provides acute medical rehabilitation center services, including at least physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy, may provide for the required surgical and anesthesia services through a contract with another acute care hospital [Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)]. In general, the term does not include acute psychiatric hospitals, clinics, nursing homes, sanitariums, convalescent homes, or maternity homes [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1202, 1250, 1256].

An "acute psychiatric hospital" means a health facility having a duly constituted governing body with overall administrative and professional responsibility and an organized medical staff that provides 24-hour inpatient care for mentally disordered, incompetent, or other referrals [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5000 et seq., 6000 et seq.], including the following basic services: medical, nursing, rehabilitative, pharmacy, and dietary services [Health & Safety Code § 1250(b)].

A "skilled nursing facility" is a health facility that provides skilled nursing care and supportive care to patients whose primary need is for availability of skilled nursing care on an extended basis [Health & Safety Code § 1250(c)].

The term "physician" means a physician and surgeon licensed by the Board of Medical Quality Assurance or the Osteopathic Medical Board of California. Persons licensed by either of these boards have equal professional status and hold M.D. or D.O. degrees [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2100.2, 2142.7, 2396, 2450].

[1] Informed Consent Required

A patient's consent must be obtained before any medical treatment is performed or administered by a physician or hospital. If the consent is not obtained, either impliedly by the voluntary submission of the patient to treatment, or expressly by oral or written consent of the patient, the physician or hospital personnel technically may be committing assault and battery when providing medical treatment for the patient [see Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 33, 38-39, 224 P.2d 808 ; Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 240, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ; see also Valdez v. Percy (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 485, 491, 96 P.2d 142] . "Assault" is defined as "an unlawful attempt, coupled with a present ability, to commit a violent injury on the person of another" [Penal Code § 240]. The absence of lawful consent is part of this definition [Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 33, 40, 224 P.2d 808] . "Battery" is a consummated assault [People v. Glover (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 502, 506, 65 Cal. Rptr. 219] , and is defined as "any willful and unlawful use of force or violence upon the person of another" [Penal Code § 242]. Further, assault or battery may result if the patient consents to a particular treatment or procedure, but a substantially different treatment or procedure is performed [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 239, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

Although assault or battery may be the issue when a medical treatment or procedure is performed without appropriate patient consent, the issue of negligence by the physician arises when the patient gives his or her consent to treatment but the physician failed to meet his or her duty to disclose pertinent information [see Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . The reasoning is that, in order for the patient's consent to treatment to be effective, it must be an informed consent, that is, a reasoned and intelligent decision to consent. Therefore, as part of the physician's overall obligation to the patient, there is a duty of reasonable disclosure of the available choices with respect to the proposed therapy and the dangers inherently and potentially involved in each [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . However, a physician is not negligent in failing to disclose sufficient information on which to base an informed consent in the following situations [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245-246, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] :

- The patient requests that he or she not be so informed.

- The procedure is simple, and the danger is remote and commonly appreciated to be remote.
- The physician can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that a reasonable person would find that physician relied on facts demonstrating that patient would be so upset by disclosure that the patient would not be able to dispassionately weigh risks of refusing the treatment or procedure.

Special exist with respect to the right of a minor to consent to medical treatment. For forms and discussion relating to a minor's right to consent to medical treatment, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

[2] General Disclosure Requirements

[a] Physician's Duty to Disclose

Although a physician, as an expert, may appreciate the risks inherent in a treatment, diagnostic test, or other procedure, the risks involved in deciding against the procedure, and the probability of success, the weighing of these risks and the decision for or against the procedure is ordinarily reserved to the patient. Therefore, the physician has an obligation to make reasonable disclosure to the patient of the available therapies and the dangers inherently and potentially involved in each [Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 292-293, 165 Cal. Rptr 308, 611 P.2d 902 ; Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . A physician may not minimize the known dangers of the procedure to induce the patient's consent, or deceive the patient about the seriousness of the procedure [Salgo v. Leland Stanford etc. Bd. Trustees (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 560, 578, 317 P.2d 170 ; Berkey v. Anderson (1969) 1 Cal. App. 3d 790, 804, 82 Cal. Rptr. 67] .

The duty to disclose is not diminished because the patient rejects a recommended procedure. The California Supreme Court has held that patients do not have the burden of inquiring as to the potential consequences of rejecting a procedure, and that physicians have a duty to disclose potentially serious consequences [Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 292-293, 165 Cal. Rptr. 308, 611 P.2d 902] .

The scope of the duty of disclosure must be measured by the patient's need of whatever information is material to the decision, and whether a potential peril must be disclosed depends on its materiality to the patient's decision [Canterbury v. Spence (D.C. Cir. 1972) 464 F.2d 772, 786-787 ; Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . However, it is recognized that in deciding how much to tell a patient about the risks of a proposed treatment or procedure, a physician must use a certain amount of discretion in evaluating a patient's mental and emotional state [see Salgo v. Leland Stanford etc. Bd. Trustees (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 560, 578, 317 P.2d 170 ; see also Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 246, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] , and the physician need not disclose risks when the patient requests that he or she not be so informed [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

To meet the duty of disclosure, a physician need not give the patient a mini-course in medical science [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . Further, the physician is not required to discuss relatively minor risks inherent in common treatments or procedures when it is common knowledge that these inherent risks are of very low occurrence. However, in such instances, the physician must make necessary inquiries to determine whether for the particular patient the common treatment or procedure is contraindicated, such as, for example, inquiries made to determine whether the patient has adverse reactions to medication [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . On the other hand, when a complicated procedure, such as surgery, inherently involves a known risk of death or serious bodily harm, the physician has a duty to disclose these potential harms to the patient, and the explanation must be in lay terms [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502

P.2d 1] . The physician must also reveal additional information as a skilled practitioner of good standing would provide under similar circumstances [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244-245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

These guidelines are most difficult to apply when the chances of the occurrence of a particular complication are very small. In hindsight, a patient may say that he or she would not have consented to a specific procedure had he or she known of the risk of that complication. However, the patient would have to establish a causal relationship between the physician's lack of disclosure and the injury to the patient, that is, to establish that, had a revelation been made, consent to treatment would not have been given [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . In resolving the issue of causation, courts apply an objective test of what a prudent person in the patient's position would have decided if adequately informed of all significant perils [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

[3] Specific Disclosure Requirements

An individual gives informed consent for a sterilization procedure only under the following circumstances [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.3(a)]:

- The person obtaining consent offered to answer any questions the individual may have regarding the procedure; provided the individual with a copy of the consent form and booklet on sterilization published by the Department of Health Services; and made specific oral disclosures regarding the procedure and alternatives [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.3(a)(1)(C)].
- Suitable arrangements were made to ensure that the requisite information was effectively communicated to any individual who is blind, deaf, or otherwise handicapped.
- An interpreter was provided if the individual seeking sterilization did not understand the language used on the consent form or in the oral disclosures.
- The individual seeking sterilization was permitted to select a witness to be present during the informed consent process.
- Sterilization was requested without fraud, duress, or undue influence.
- Specified informed consent requirements were met [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.4].

A physician or a physician's designee may conduct the informed consent process [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.3(c)]. A copy of the signed consent form must be given to the patient, and a copy retained by the physician and the hospital in the patient's medical records [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.3(d)].

[b] Additional Disclosures for Hysterectomy

Special disclosure requirements apply to the performance of hysterectomies [see Health & Safety Code § 1690; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.5(a)]. Before performing a hysterectomy, physicians must provide specific information to the patient, both orally and in writing, and obtain a signed statement from the patient indicating that she has read and understood the written information and that the information has been discussed with her by her physician and surgeon or a designee [Health & Safety Code § 1690(a), (b)]. The patient must be informed that she may freely withhold or withdraw her consent for the hysterectomy without jeopardizing her right to future medical care or government medical benefits [Health & Safety Code § 1690(a)(1)]. The type of surgery and other procedures involved, the possible risks, discomforts, and side effects associated with those procedures (including those associated with the use of anesthetics), and the benefits expected to result must be explained [Health & Safety Code § 1690(a)(2), (4), (5)]. The physician must also describe known appropriate alternative treatments in writing and in language understood by the patient; noncompliance with this requirement is unprofessional conduct [Health & Safety Code §§ 1690(a)(2), 1691; see Bus. & Prof. Code § 2234].

Except for a previously sterile woman, a hysterectomy may only be performed or arranged for under the following circumstances [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.5(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1690(a)(6)-(8)]:

- The person obtaining authorization orally and in writing informed the individual (and any representatives) that the hysterectomy will render the individual permanently sterile [see Health & Safety Code § 1690(a)(3), (b) (exception for previously sterile or postmenopausal women)].
- The expected period of hospitalization and recovery and the cost of the surgery was disclosed [Health & Safety Code § 1690(a)(6)-(8)].
- The individual (and any representatives) signed a written acknowledgment of receipt of this information.
- The individual has been informed of consultation rights with a second physician.

For previously sterile women, the physician must discuss the preexisting sterility and certify in the patient's health record that the individual was previously sterile and the cause of that sterility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.5(c)].

A copy of the signed statement acknowledging receipt of the requisite information must be given to the patient, and a copy retained by the physician and the hospital in the patient's medical records [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707.5(b)].

The informed consent procedure described above need not be followed in a life-threatening emergency situation. However, the physician must execute a signed, handwritten statement certifying the nature of the emergency [Health & Safety Code § 1690(c)].

[4] Exceptions to Informed Consent Requirement; Special Rules

Limited instances exist when the patient's personal consent is not required. These exceptions and other special rules are discussed in greater detail in § 104.220. The exceptions include the following:

- Medical treatment for a minor, in which case consent usually may be given by the parent, parents, or legal guardian of the minor, unless an exception specified by statute applies [see Fam. Code § 6900 et seq.].
- Emergency medical treatment when immediate treatment is necessary to preserve the life or health of the patient, in which case the patient's consent is implied [Preston v. Hubbell (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 53, 57-59, 196 P.2d 113 ; see Prob. Code §§ 2354(c) (consent by conservator to emergency medical treatment), 3210(b)(capacity determination procedures do not limit provision of emergency health care)].
- When the patient lacks the capacity to give his or her informed consent or, in the parlance of the Health Care Decisions Law, capacity to make a "health care decision" [see Prob. Code §§ 3200(b), 3201, 4617].

§ 104.12 Patients' Bill of Rights

A person who enters a hospital as a patient has certain rights as a patient. In California, a patient's precise rights depend on the type of hospital he or she enters [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707 (general acute care hospitals), 71507 (acute psychiatric hospitals)].

General acute care hospitals must adopt a written policy on patients' rights and post the list in Spanish and English in appropriate places in the hospital so that the patients may read these rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707]. Important features of this "patient's bill of rights" include a patient's right to receive information from his or her physician about the patient's illness, the course of treatment, and prospects for recovery; to receive as much information about a proposed treatment as is necessary to give an informed consent or to refuse a course of treatment; to participate actively in decisions regarding the patient's medical care, including the right to refuse treatment, to the extent permitted by law; and to have confidential treatment of all communications and records pertaining to his or her care and stay in the hospital.

Acute psychiatric hospitals must adopt a written policy on patients' rights and prominently post the list in Spanish and English [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507(a), (c)]. Important features of 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507 include a patient's right to confidential communications and to refuse certain treatments. The physician with overall responsibility for treatment (or a designee) may deny some of the specified patients' rights for good cause, provided that the denial and its basis are entered into the patient's medical record. However, the right to refuse psychosurgery, to be informed of the confidential complaint procedure, and any right guaranteed by law or regulation may not be denied [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507(b)]. Further, the right to refuse shock treatment may only be denied under certain circumstances [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507(b); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5326.7].

When a patient is admitted to an acute care hospital, the hospital must ask if the patient wants specified information regarding patients' rights and responsibilities to be provided to the patient's next of kin or agent under a durable power of attorney for health care [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(1)]. The hospital must provide that information if the patient so directs [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(1)]. The material provided must include a comprehensive Patients' Bill of Rights, including the regulatory patients' rights for general acute care hospitals contained in 22 Cal.

Code Reg. § 70707, and the rights afforded to patients under 42 C.F.R. § 482.13 [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(2)(A); see § 104.206]. The hospital may also provide written materials regarding the hospital's expectations of patients and patients' responsibilities while the patient is receiving care at the hospital [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(2)(B)]. On the request of the patient, or of the patient's next of kin or agent under a durable power of attorney for health care, a representative of any hospital providing patients' rights information or other documentation described above must explain the materials provided [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(c)]. Similar requirements exist for skilled nursing facilities [Health & Safety Code § 1250(c)], intermediate care facilities [Health & Safety Code § 1250(d)], and nursing facilities [Health & Safety Code § 1250(k)] [see Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(a); see also Ch. 105, Nursing Homes and Care for the Elderly, § 105.22[3]].

[1] In General

Arbitration is a method of resolving disputes whereby the parties voluntarily agree to submit their dispute to private unofficial persons in an arbitration hearing rather than to a court of law. Public policy strongly favors arbitration as a speedy and relatively inexpensive means to resolve disputes [Ericksen, Arbuthnot, McCarthy, Kearney & Walsh, Inc. v. 100 Oak Street (1983) 35 Cal. 3d 312, 322, 197 Cal. Rptr. 581, 673 P.2d 251 ; see Advanced Micro Devices, Inc. v. Intel Corp. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 362, 373, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 581, 885 P.2d 994 (decision to arbitrate motivated by desire to avoid delay and cost)]. The policy favoring arbitration over litigation as a means of settling disputes is codified in the Code of Civil Procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2].

The applicable statutes include provisions relating to arbitration agreements [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1281-1281.8], conduct of the arbitration proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1282-1284.2], enforcement of the award [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1285-1288.8], and judicial proceedings [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1290-1294.2].

Written agreements to submit to arbitration a controversy that exists or thereafter arises are valid, enforceable, and irrevocable except on those grounds as exist for the revocation of any contract [Code Civ. Proc. § 1281]. Stated differently, private arbitration is a matter of agreement between the parties and is governed by contract law [Platt Pac., Inc. v. Andelson (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 307, 313 . 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 597, 862 P.2d 158] . Therefore, to form an enforceable contract, the parties' consent must be freely given [Civ. Code § 1565; see Civ. Code § 1566]. Apparent consent is not free when obtained through, among other things, duress, menace, or fraud [Civ. Code § 1567]. Whether an arbitration contract exists is a question of fact [see Cochran v. Rubens (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 481, 485-487, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 672 (status of book account is question of fact)].

For further discussion of arbitration, see § 104.201[1]. For detailed coverage of the arbitration process, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 32, Contractual Arbitration: Agreements and Compelling Arbitration , Ch. 33, Contractual Arbitration: Appointment of Arbitrator and Conduct of Proceeding , and Ch. 34, Contractual Arbitration: Judicial Review (Matthew Bender).

[2] Medical Malpractice Disputes

The term "medical malpractice" encompasses all acts in the provision of medical services and care that may give rise to tort liability. Stated differently, medical malpractice is a departure from the proper standards of medical care [Waters v. Bourhis (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 424, 433-434, 220 Cal. Rptr. 666, 709 P.2d 469] . Medical malpractice may arise from negligent acts or omissions in the rendering of professional services that are the proximate cause of injury or wrongful death (professional negligence) and from the provision of unnecessary or unauthorized medical services [see Baker v. Sadick (1984) 162 Cal. App. 3d 618, 622-627, 208 Cal. Rptr. 676 ; see also Bus. & Prof. Code § 6146(c); Civ. Code §§ 3333.1(c), 3333.2(c); Code Civ. Proc. §§ 340.5(2), 364(f)(2), 667.7(e)(3), 1295(g)(2)]. Professional negligence as applied to hospitals has been broadly defined [see Murillo v. Good Samaritan Hosp. (1979) 99 Cal. App. 3d 50, 56-57, 160 Cal. Rptr. 33 ; Williams v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal. App. 4th 318, 324, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 112] , and includes tort claims based on the failure to supervise or protect the safety of a patient [Bellamy v. Appellate Dep't (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 797, 809, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 (distinguishing between professional and ordinary negligence)].

The statutes relating to arbitration in general [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2] have been expressly applied to agreements to arbitrate medical malpractice disputes [see Doyle v. Giuliani (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 606, 43 Cal. Rptr. 697, 401 P.2d 1] . The issue of arbitration of medical malpractice also is specifically covered by a separate statute that, among other things, sets forth the precise language to be used when an arbitration clause is included in any contract for medical services, and provides for rescission of a contract on proper notice [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295; see also § 104.200[1]].

[3] Appeal of Arbitration Proceedings

An aggrieved party in an arbitration proceeding may appeal from any of the following [Code Civ. Proc. § 1294; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1294.2 (appellate proceedings)]:

- An order dismissing or denying a petition to compel arbitration.
- An order dismissing a petition to confirm, correct, or vacate an award.
- An order vacating an award unless a rehearing in arbitration is ordered.
- A judgment entered pursuant to the general arbitration laws.
- A special order after final judgment.

A party may not appeal an order compelling arbitration, but the validity of the order may be reviewed on appeal from a judgment confirming an award [Wheeler v. St. Joseph Hosp. (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 345, 353, 133 Cal. Rptr. 775] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Medical Care and Arbitration

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.14

§ 104.14 Confidentiality of Medical Records

[1] General Requirements for Release

The confidential relationship between a physician and patient is an established rule [Cole v. Wolfskill (1920) 49 Cal. App. 52, 54, 192 P. 549] . Any confidential communication between a patient and physician is protected by the physician-patient privilege [Evid. Code §§ 990-1007], and the willful betrayal of a professional secret by a physician constitutes unprofessional conduct [Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 2100.2, 2379]. The term "willful" means an actual and conscious infraction of duty, done deliberately and intentionally and with the design and purpose to cause an injury [see McPheeters v. Board of Medical Examiners (1930) 103 Cal. App. 297, 299-301 (construing former State Medical Practice Act, § 14, subdivision 2)].

The Confidentiality of Medical Information Act [Civ. Code §§ 56-56.37] prohibits unauthorized disclosures of medical information by health care providers and employers, except in certain situations.

All information and records obtained in the course of providing services under various provisions of the Welfare and Institutions Code are confidential unless otherwise provided by statute [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5328; see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5328.01-5328.06].

For forms and discussion relating to a minor's right to consent to medical treatment and obtain records concerning that treatment, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors .

[2] Consequences of Unauthorized Release

A violation of the Confidentiality of Medical Information Act [Civ. Code §§ 56-56.37] entitles a patient to recover compensatory and punitive damages, attorneys' fees, and court costs [see Civ. Code § 56.35]. A violation that causes injury to a patient is also punishable as a misdemeanor [Civ. Code § 56.36(a)]. In addition to other remedies available at law, an individual may bring an action against any person or entity who has negligently released confidential information in violation of the Act, for nominal, actual damages, or both [see Civ. Code § 56.36(b)]. In addition, any person or entity who negligently discloses medical information in violation of the Act will be liable for administrative finances and civil penalties [see Civ. Code § 56.36(c)].

Despite the general rule of nondisclosure [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code § 120980], any physician with a patient who has tested positive for HIV infection may inform persons who are believed to have had specified contacts with the patient that they may have been exposed to HIV [Health & Safety Code § 121015; see Health & Safety Code § 120775 (definitions of "AIDS," "HIV," and "HIV test")]. Specifically, this information may be disclosed to any person the physician reasonably believes to be the patient's spouse or sexual partner, to any person the physician reasonably believes to have shared hypodermic needles with the patient, or to a local health officer [Health & Safety Code § 121015(a)]. However, a physician may not disclose any identifying information about the patient, except as required by Health & Safety Code § 121022 (required reporting of HIV cases using patient names, by health care providers, laboratories, and local health officers) [Health & Safety Code § 121015(a)]. Before making any disclosure, the physician must discuss the test results with the patient and offer appropriate educational and psychological counseling [Health & Safety Code § 121015(b)]. The physician must also notify the patient of his or her intent to notify the patient's contacts and attempt to obtain the patient's voluntary consent for the notification. No physician is required to make these disclosures, except as required by Health & Safety Code § 121022 (required reporting of HIV cases using patient names, by health care providers, laboratories, and local health officers), but any physician who chooses to do so must refer persons who are advised of possible exposure for appropriate care, counseling, and follow-up [Health & Safety Code § 121015(b), (c)].

The local health officer may make similar disclosures to any person reasonably believed to be the spouse or sexual partner of a person who has tested positive on an HIV test, or any person who has shared hypodermic needles with such a person. Like physicians, local health officers who make this kind of disclosure are required to refer persons who are advised of their possible exposure for appropriate care and follow-up [Health & Safety Code § 121015(d)]. Similarly, health officers are forbidden to disclose any identifying information of the person believed to be infected, or the physician making the initial report [Health & Safety Code § 121015(d)]. When a health officer completes an attempt to advise a person of his or her possible exposure to AIDS, the officer must expunge all records regarding the attempt [Health & Safety Code § 121015(d)].

Disclosure of the results of an HIV test is prohibited in all other circumstances unless the disclosure is made under one of the following conditions:

- Pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 121022, which requires reporting of HIV cases using patient names to the local health officer and then to the state, by health care providers, laboratories, and local health officers [see Health & Safety Code § 121022(a)].
- Pursuant to the written authorization of the person tested or a person lawfully authorized to make health care decisions for him or her [see Health & Safety Code §§ 120980, 121020].
- In specified circumstances, by a hospital, physician, blood bank, plasma center, public health officer, or other specified person or agency, to another such person or agency [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1603.1, 1603.3].
- By the physician who ordered the test, to the test subject's medical record or health care provider [see Civ. Code § 56.05(d)] other than health care service plans for the purposes of diagnosis, care, or treatment of the patient [Health & Safety Code § 120985].
- To the test subject, his or her legal representative, conservator, or any person authorized to consent to the test on his or her behalf [Health & Safety Code § 121010; see Health & Safety Code § 120990].

- To the test subject's health care provider [see Civ. Code § 56.05(j)], not including health care service plans, an agent or employee of a health care provider who provides the test subject with direct care and treatment, or a health care provider that procures, processes, distributes, or uses a human body part donated under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 121010].

- Regarding the results of tests performed on cadavers [see Health & Safety Code § 120980].

No person may be compelled in any state, county, city, or other local civil, criminal, administrative, legislative, or other proceeding to identify or provide identifying characteristics of any individual who is the subject of a test to detect antibodies to HIV [Health & Safety Code § 120975]. Similarly, any person who willfully, maliciously, or negligently discloses the results of an HIV test [see Health & Safety Code § 120775(c) (definition)] to a third party in a manner that identifies or provides identifying characteristics of the person to whom the test applies, except in accordance with a written authorization [see Health & Safety Code § 120980(g)], or as provided in Health & Safety Code §§ 1603.1, 1603.3, or 121022, is subject to civil and criminal liability, depending on the circumstances of the disclosure and its consequences [see Health & Safety Code § 120980(a)-(d)].

[4] Consumer Privacy Protection

A business may not orally request medical information directly from an individual, regardless of whether the information pertains to that individual, and use, share, or otherwise disclose that information for direct marketing purposes, unless the business does the following before obtaining the information [Civ. Code § 1798.91(b)]:

- Orally disclose to the individual, in the same conversation during which the business seeks to obtain the information, that the business wants the information to market or advertise products, goods, or services to the individual.
- Obtain the consent of the individual to whom the information pertains, or a person legally authorized to consent for that individual, to permit his or her medical information to be used or shared to market or advertise products, goods, or services to the individual.
- Make and maintain, for two years after the date of the conversation, an audio recording of the entire conversation.

A business may not request in writing medical information directly from an individual, regardless of whether the information pertains to that individual, and use, share, or otherwise disclose that information for direct marketing purposes, unless the business does the following before obtaining that information [Civ. Code § 1798.91(c)]:

- Disclose in a clear and conspicuous manner that it is obtaining the information to market or advertise products, goods, or services to the individual.
- Obtain the written consent of the individual to whom the information pertains, or a person legally authorized to consent for that individual, to permit his or her medical information to be used or shared to market or advertise products, goods, or services to the individual.

These restrictions and requirements do not apply to:

- A health care provider, health care service plan, or contractor [Civ. Code § 1798.91(d); see Civ. Code § 56.05 (definitions)];

- Insurance institutions, agents, or support organizations, when engaged in an insurance transaction [Civ. Code § 1798.91(e); see Ins. Code § 791.02 (definitions)];
- A telephone corporation [see Pub. Util. Code § 234 (definition)], when providing certain telephone services and products, if the corporation does not share or disclose medical information obtained as a consequence of providing those services and products [see Pub. Util. Code §§ 2881-2881.2] to third parties for direct marketing purposes [Civ. Code § 1798.91(f)].

CHAPTER 104 HEALTH CARE TRANSACTIONS, CONSENTS, AND DIRECTIVES
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Health Care Decisions Law

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.30

§ 104.30 Overview of Statute

[1] Scope of Statute

The Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.] provides for the creation, form, and revocation of advance health care directives and powers of attorney for health care [see Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.]. The Health Care Decisions Law provides a comprehensive statutory scheme covering various related subjects that formerly were covered by separate statutes, including the Natural Death Act [Health & Safety Code § 7185 et seq.] and the statutes governing durable powers of attorney for health care [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.], which were repealed as of July 1, 2000 [see [2], [3], below].

The Health Care Decisions Law applies to health care decisions for adults lacking capacity to make those decisions for themselves, except as otherwise provided [Prob. Code § 4651(a)]. It does not effect the law governing the right of an individual to make health care decisions while having capacity, emergency health care, or health care for unemancipated minors [Prob. Code § 4651(b)]. The Health Care Decisions Law permits withholding or withdrawing health care to permit the natural process of dying, but no other act or omission to end life, such as mercy killing, assisted suicide, or euthanasia [Prob. Code § 4653]. It does not authorize consent to any of the following on behalf of a patient: commitment to or placement in a mental health treatment facility; convulsive treatment [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5325]; psychosurgery [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5325]; sterilization; or abortion [Prob. Code § 4652].

The Health Care Decisions Law also covers the manner of making health care decisions for patients with surrogates [see Prob. Code § 4711 et seq.; see § 104.38].

[2] Transitional Provisions

Except as otherwise provided, the Health Care Decisions Law applies to all advance health care directives, including, but not limited to, durable powers of attorney for health care and declarations under the Natural Death Act [former Health & Safety Code § 7185 et seq. (repealed effective July 1, 2000)], regardless of whether they were given or executed before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(a)].

The Health Care Decisions Law applies to all proceedings concerning advance health care directives begun on or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(b)]. The law also applies to all proceedings concerning written advance health care directives begun before July 1, 2000, unless the court determines that application of a particular provision of the law would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the proceedings or the rights of the parties and other interested persons, in which case the particular provision of the Health Care Decisions Law does not apply and prior law applies [Prob. Code § 4665(c)].

[3] Effect of Directive Executed Under Former Law

The Health Care Decisions Law does not affect the validity of an advance health care directive executed before July 1, 2000, that was valid under prior law [Prob. Code § 4665(d)]. Further, the law does not affect the validity of a durable power of attorney for health care executed on a printed form that was valid under prior law, regardless of whether execution occurred before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(e)]. For more detailed discussion of the status of durable powers of attorney executed under former law, see § 104.37[4].

[4] Definitions

Unless otherwise required, the definitions of the Act govern its construction as follows:

- An "advance health care directive" or "advance directive" means either (1) an individual health care instruction (a patient's written or oral directive concerning a health care decision for the patient) or (2) a power of attorney for health care (a written instrument designating an agent to make health care decisions for the principal) [Prob. Code § 4605; see Prob. Code §§ 4623, 4629].
- "Agent" means a person designated in a power of attorney for health care to make health care decisions for the principal, regardless of whether the person is referred to as an agent, attorney-in-fact, or another term, and includes a successor or alternate agent [Prob. Code § 4605].
- "Capacity" means a person's ability to understand the nature and consequences of a decision and to make and communicate a decision, and includes, in the case of proposed health care, the ability to understand its significant benefits, risks, and alternatives [Prob. Code § 4609].
- "Domestic partners" are two adults who have chosen to share one another's lives in an intimate and committed relationship of mutual caring and who meet specified requirements, including having both filed a Declaration of Domestic Partnership with the California Secretary of State [see Fam. Code § 297; see also Ch. 110, Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements and Related Transactions, §§ 110.50 et seq., 110.220].
- "Health care" means any care, treatment, service, or procedure to maintain, diagnose, or otherwise affect a patient's physical or mental condition [Prob. Code § 4615].
- "Health care decision" means a decision made by a patient or the patient's agent, conservator, or surrogate, regarding the patient's health care, including (1) the selection or discharge of health care providers and institutions; (2) the approval or disapproval of diagnostic tests, surgical procedures, and programs of medication; and (3) directions to provide, withhold, or withdraw artificial nutrition and hydration and all other forms of health care, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation [Prob. Code § 4617].
- "Health care institution" means an institution, facility, or agency authorized by law to provide health care in the ordinary course of business [Prob. Code § 4619].

- "Health care provider" means an individual authorized by law to provide health care in the ordinary course of business or practice of a profession [Prob. Code § 4621].
- "Individual health care instruction," or "individual instruction," means a patient's written or oral direction concerning a health care decision for the patient [Prob. Code § 4623].
- "Patient" means an adult whose health care is under consideration, including a principal under a power of attorney for health care, and an adult who has given an individual health care instruction or designated a surrogate [Prob. Code §§ 4625, 4633].
- "Power of attorney for health care" means a written instrument designating an agent to make health care decisions for the principal [Prob. Code § 4629].
- "Primary physician" means a physician designated by a patient (or the patient's agent, conservator, or surrogate) to have primary responsibility for the patient's health care, or where a designated physician is not reasonably available or does not exist, a physician who undertakes the responsibility [Prob. Code § 4631].
- "Supervising health care provider" means the primary physician, or if the primary physician is not reasonably available or does not exist, the health care provider who has undertaken the responsibility for a patient's health care [Prob. Code § 4641].
- "Surrogate" means an adult, other than a patient's agent or conservator, authorized under the Health Care Decisions Law to make a health care decision for the patient [Prob. Code § 4643].

§ 104.31 Requirements for Health Care Directive

A written advance health care directive is legally sufficient if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 4673(a); see Prob. Code § 4680 (power of attorney is legally sufficient if it satisfies same requirements)]:

- The advance directive contains the date of its execution.
- The advance directive is signed either by the patient, or in the patient's name by another adult in the patient's presence and at the patient's direction.
- The advance directive is either acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two witnesses who satisfy specified statutory requirements [see Prob. Code §§ 4674 (general requirements for witnesses), 4675 (additional requirements when individual is patient in skilled nursing facility)].

An electronic advance health care directive or a power of attorney for health care is legally sufficient if [Prob. Code § 4673(b)]:

- The requirements of Prob. Code § 4673(a) (discussed above) are satisfied;
- The directive is acknowledged before a notary public; and
- Any digital signature used meets the following requirements:
 - The digital signature either meets the general California legal requirements for digital signatures by public entities [see Gov. Code § 16.5; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 22000 et seq], or uses an algorithm approved by the National Institute of Standards and Technology.
 - The digital signature is unique to the person using it.

- The digital signature is capable of verification.
- The digital signature is under the sole control of the person using it.
- The digital signature is linked to data in such a manner that if the data are changed, the digital signature is invalidated.
- The digital signature persists with the document and not by association in separate files.
- The digital signature is bound to a digital certificate.

If a general acute care hospital [Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)] provides a patient with instructions and forms for advance health care directives, those materials must be printed in at least a 12-point font that is clear and legible [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(a), (b)(4)].

§ 104.32 Duties of Health Care Providers

[1] Duty to Communicate

Before implementing a health care decision made for a patient, a supervising health care provider, if possible, must promptly communicate to the patient the decision made and the identity of the person making the decision [Prob. Code § 4730].

A primary physician who makes or is informed of a determination that a patient lacks or has recovered capacity, or that another condition exists affecting an individual health care instruction or the authority of an agent, conservator of the person, or surrogate, must promptly communicate the determination to the patient, if possible, and to a person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient [Prob. Code § 4732].

A supervising health care provider who knows of a revocation of a power of attorney for health care, or a disqualification of a surrogate, must make reasonable efforts to notify the agent or surrogate of the revocation or disqualification [Prob. Code § 4731(b)].

[2] Record Keeping

A supervising health care provider who knows of the existence of an advanced directive, a revocation of an advanced directive, or a designation or disqualification of a surrogate, must promptly record its existence in the patient's health care record. If it is in writing, the supervising health care provider must request a copy [Prob. Code § 4731(a)]; if a copy is provided, the supervising health care provider must arrange for its maintenance in the patient's health care record [Prob. Code § 4731(a)].

A primary physician who makes or is informed of a determination that a patient lacks or has recovered capacity, or that another condition exists affecting an individual health care instruction or the authority of an agent, conservator of the person, or surrogate, must promptly record the determination in the patient's health care record [Prob. Code § 4732].

[3] General Duty to Comply With Health Care Instructions

In general, a health care provider or health care institution providing care to a patient must comply with an individual health care instruction for the patient and a reasonable interpretation of that instruction by a person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient [Prob. Code § 4733(a); but see Prob. Code §§ 4734, 4735 (grounds for noncompliance)]. Similarly, the provider or institution must comply with a health care decision for the patient by a person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient, to the same extent as if the decision had been made by the patient while having capacity [Prob. Code § 4733(b)].

For a discussion of when a health care provider may decline to comply with a health care instruction and the attendant responsibilities, see § 104.34.

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.33

§ 104.33 Immunities and Liabilities

[1] Health Care Provider Immunity

A health care provider or institution acting in good faith and in accordance with generally accepted health care standards is not subject to civil or criminal liability, or discipline for unprofessional conduct, for any actions in compliance with the Health Care Decisions Law, including, but not limited to, the following [Prob. Code § 4740]:

- Complying with a health care decision of a person that the health care provider or institution believes in good faith has the authority to make a health care decision for the patient, including a decision to withhold or withdraw health care.
- Declining to comply with an individual instruction or health care decision based on a belief that the person then lacked authority.
- Complying with an advanced directive and assuming that the directive was valid when made and has not been revoked or terminated.
- Declining to comply with an individual instruction or health care decision for reasons of conscience, or because the instruction or decision requires ineffective health care or health care that is contrary to generally accepted health care standards [see Prob. Code §§ 4734, 4735; see also § 104.34]

A person acting as an agent or surrogate under this part is not subject to civil or criminal liability or to discipline for unprofessional conduct for health care decisions made in good faith [Prob. Code § 4741].

[2] Liability for Intentional, Unexcused Noncompliance

A health care provider or institution that intentionally violates the provisions of the Health Care Decisions Law [see Prob. Code §§ 4650-4743] is subject to liability to the aggrieved individual for damages of $2,500 or actual damages resulting from the violation, whichever is greater. The aggrieved individual is also entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees [Prob. Code § 4742(a)]. These damages are cumulative and not exclusive of any other remedies provided by law [Prob. Code § 4742(c)]. However, under circumstances discussed in § 104.34, a provider or institution may decline to comply with a health care directive without incurring liability [see Prob. Code §§ 4734-4736].

[3] Liability for Malfeasance Regarding Directive

Any person who intentionally falsifies, forges, conceals, defaces, or obliterates an individual's advance directive (or a revocation of an advance directive) without the individual's consent, or who coerces or fraudulently induces an individual to give, revoke, or not to give an advance directive, is subject to liability to that individual for the greater of (1) $10,000 or (2) the actual damages resulting from the violation. The person is also liable for reasonable attorneys' fees [Prob. Code § 4742(b)]. These damages are cumulative and not exclusive of any other remedies provided by law [Prob. Code § 4742(c)].

Any person who alters or forges a written advance directive of another, or willfully conceals or withholds personal knowledge of a revocation of an advance directive, with the intent to cause a withholding or withdrawal of health care necessary to keep a patient alive, contrary to the desires of the patient, and thereby directly causes the death of the patient to be hastened due to withholding or withdrawal of health care, is subject to prosecution for unlawful homicide [Prob. Code § 4743; see Penal Code § 187 et seq.].

§ 104.34 Declining to Comply With Health Care Directive

[1] By Health Care Provider

[a] Basis for Decision

A health care provider may decline to comply with an individual instruction or health care decision for reasons of conscience [Prob. Code § 4734(a)]. Similarly, a health care institution may decline to comply with an individual instruction or health care decision if the instruction or decision is contrary to a policy of the institution that is expressly based on reasons of conscience, provided that the policy was timely communicated to the patient or the person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient [Prob. Code § 4734(b)].

A health care provider or institution may decline to comply with an individual instruction or health care decision that requires medically ineffective health care, or health care contrary to generally accepted health care standards applicable to the health care provider or institution [Prob. Code § 4735].

[b] Duties

When declining to comply with an individual instruction or health care decision, the health care provider or institution must do all of the following [Prob. Code § 4736]:

- Promptly inform the patient, if possible, and any person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient.
- Immediately make all reasonable efforts to assist in the transfer of the patient to another health care provider or institution that is willing to comply with the instruction or decision, unless that assistance is refused by the patient or person then authorized to make health care decisions for the patient.
- Provide continuing care to the patient until a transfer can be accomplished or until it appears that a transfer cannot be accomplished.

- Continue appropriate pain relief and other palliative care.

[2] By Agent

The statutes themselves are not specific regarding what happens if an agent is unable or unwilling to act, or unwilling to act in accordance with a specific direction of the principal. The Law Revision Commission comments to Prob. Code § 4687 (discussed below) state that an agent may, without liability, decline to act under a power of attorney [2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 83 (Mar. 2000)].

Prob. Code § 4685 gives the agent under a power of attorney for health care who is available and willing to make health care decisions priority over any other person in making health care decisions for the principal. Presumably, if the agent is unwilling or unable to make health care decisions, the power to do so would devolve upon the next person, in order of priority, who is legally entitled to do so. A recommended approach to this problem is to name one or more alternate agents to act in the event that the first named agent is unable or unwilling to do so. This approach is implicitly suggested by Prob. Code § 4701, the statutory form power of attorney for health care, which provides for the naming of an agent and two alternate agents [Prob. Code § 4701, P 1.1].

An agent who declines to act under a power of attorney for health care still has any right to make or participate in making health care decisions for the principal that the agent would otherwise have apart from the attorney [Prob. Code § 4687]. The Law Revision Commission comments to this section make clear that an agent who declines to act under a power in accordance with the principal's wishes (for example, because of changed circumstances), can still have the right to make or participate in health care decisions for the principal without being bound by the principal's stated desires, to the extent that the person designated as the agent has that right under the applicable law apart from the power of attorney [2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 83 (Mar. 2000)].

[1] Revocation by Patient

A patient having capacity may revoke the designation of an agent only by a signed writing, or by personally informing the supervising health care provider [Prob. Code § 4695(a)]. A patient having capacity may revoke all or any part of an advance directive, other than the designation of an agent, at any time and in any manner that communicates an intent to revoke [Prob. Code § 4695(b)].

A health care provider, agent, conservator, or surrogate who is informed of the revocation of an advance health care directive must promptly communicate that fact to the supervising health care provider and to any health care institution providing care to the patient [Prob. Code § 4696].

[2] Revocation by Operation of Law

If the principal's marriage to the agent is dissolved or annulled after executing a power of attorney for health care, the principal's designation of the former spouse as an agent to make health care decisions is revoked [Prob. Code § 4697(a)]. If an agent's authority is revoked solely because of dissolution or annulment, it is revived by the principal's remarriage to the agent [Prob. Code § 4697(b)].

An advance health care directive that conflicts with an earlier advance directive revokes the earlier advance directive to the extent of the conflict [Prob. Code § 4698].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Health Care Decisions Law

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.36

§ 104.36 Judicial Enforcement

[1] Parties Entitled to Petition Court

Judicial intervention is disfavored under the Health Care Decisions Law. In general, an advanced directive or health care decision by an agent or surrogate is effective without judicial intervention [Prob. Code § 4750]. However, provide a mechanism for interested persons to petition the court for various purposes [see Prob. Code §§ 4750-4771]. Persons permitted to file a petition include the following [Prob. Code § 4765; but see Prob. Code § 4753]:

- The patient.
- The patient's spouse, unless legally separated.
- A relative of the patient.
- The patient's agent or surrogate.
- The conservator of the person of the patient.
- The court investigator of the county where the patient resides [see Prob. Code § 1454].
- The public guardian of the county where the patient resides.
- The supervising health care provider or health care institution involved with the patient's care.
- Any other interested person or friend of the patient.

[2] Purposes for Which Petition May Be Filed

A petition may be filed for any one or more of the following purposes [Prob. Code § 4766]:

- Determining whether or not the patient has capacity to make health care decisions.
- Determining whether an advance health care directive is in effect or has terminated.
- Determining whether the acts or proposed acts of an agent or surrogate are consistent with the patient's desires or, if the patient's desires are unknown or unclear, whether the proposed acts of the agent or surrogate are in the patient's best interest.
- Declaring that the authority of an agent or surrogate is terminated, after a determination by the court that the agent or surrogate has made a health care decision that authorized something illegal, or after a determination by the court of the following:
 - The agent or surrogate has violated or has failed or is unfit to perform the duty under an advance directive to act consistent with the patient's desires, or is acting in a manner that is clearly contrary to the patient's best interests.
 - At the time of the court's determination, the patient lacks capacity to execute or revoke the advance directive or disqualify the surrogate.
- Compelling a third person to honor individual health care instructions or the authority of an agent or surrogate.

[3] Advance Directive May Limit Authority to Petition Court

In general, an advance directive may eliminate the authority of persons listed in [1], above, to petition the court with regard to the purposes listed in [2], above [Prob. Code § 4753(a)]. The individual executing the advance directive must be represented by a licensed attorney, who must certify that he or she advised the client of the applicable law and the consequences of signing or not signing the advance directive, and thereafter the client must have executed the advance directive [Prob. Code § 4753(a)]. The attorney must sign a certificate to this effect in substantially similar form to that provided by statute [see Prob. Code § 4753(a); see also § 104.230[2]].

However, the advance directive may not limit the following persons' rights to petition the court for particular purposes [Prob. Code § 4753(b)]:

- The conservator of the person, with respect to determining whether an advance directive is in effect or terminated, or declaring that an agent's or surrogate's authority has terminated for improper conduct [see Prob. Code § 4766(b), (d)].
- The agent under a power of attorney for health care, with regard to determining whether an advance directive is in effect or terminated, or determining whether the acts or proposed acts of the agent or surrogate are consistent with the patient's desires or best interests [see Prob. Code § 4766(b), (c)].

[4] Contents of Petition; Service

The petition must state facts showing that the petition is authorized [see Prob. Code §§ 4750-4771], the grounds for the petition, and if known to the petitioner, the terms of any advance directive in question [Prob. Code § 4767]. The petition should be filed in the superior court, with venue determined in the following order of priority [Prob. Code §§ 4760, 4763]:

- The county in which the patient resides.
- The county in which the patient or surrogate resides.
- Any other county that is in the patient's best interests.

Notice of the time and place for the hearing and a copy of the petition must be served on the patient and the agent or surrogate, if not the petitioner, at least 15 days before the hearing date [Prob. Code § 4769(a)]. For petitions to compel a third person to honor individual health care instructions or the authority of an agent or surrogate, notice of hearing and a copy of the petition must be served in the manner required for civil actions [Prob. Code § 4769(b); see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 413.10-417.40].

[5] Temporary Order Pending Disposition

For good cause, a court may issue a temporary order prescribing the treatment of the patient pending the disposition of the petition [Prob. Code § 4770]. If a person has both a conservator of the person and an effective power of attorney for health care, the court that appointed the conservator may, for good cause, issue a temporary order prescribing the treatment of the patient pending the disposition of the petition [Prob. Code § 4770 (duration limited to period needed to file petition and rule)].

[6] Dismissal

A court may dismiss a petition if it appears that the proceeding is not reasonably necessary to protect the interests of the patient. The court must stay or dismiss the proceeding in whole or in part when the interests of justice require that the matter be heard in another state [Prob. Code § 4768; see Code Civ. Proc. § 410.30].

[7] Award of Attorneys' Fees

In a proceeding commenced by a person other than an agent or surrogate, the court may order reasonable attorneys' fees to one of the following [Prob. Code § 4771]:

- The agent or surrogate, if the court determines that the proceeding was commenced without reasonable or probable cause.
- The petitioner, if the court determines that the agent or surrogate has clearly violated the duties under the advanced directive.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Health Care Decisions Law

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.37

§ 104.37 Powers of Attorney for Health Care

[1] Nature and Use

Powers of attorney for health care allow a designated agent to make health care decisions for the principal to the same extent that the principal could make health care decisions if the principal had the capacity to do so [Prob. Code § 4683(a)]. The agent is also authorized by statute to make decisions that may be effective after the principal's death, including making dispositions under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7150 et seq.; see Ch. 106, Anatomical Gifts], authorizing an autopsy [see Health & Safety Code § 7113], and directing the disposition of the principal's remains [Prob. Code § 4683(b); see Health & Safety Code § 7100 et seq.]. These powers are subject to any limitations contained in the power of attorney [Prob. Code § 4683]. Powers of attorney for health care are important personal planning tools for clients and should be discussed with every client in connection with preparation of the client's estate plan. For additional discussion of the use of durable powers of attorney, see § 104.230.

[2] Governing Law and Terminology

Prior to July 1, 2000, durable powers of attorney for health care, like other durable powers of attorney, were governed by the general provisions of the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4100 et seq.], augmented by special provisions applicable specifically to durable powers of attorney for health care [former Prob. Code § 4600 et seq. (repealed effective July 1, 2000)]. Effective July 1, 2000, however, durable powers of attorney are no longer governed by the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4050(a)(1)]. Instead, they are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.; see Prob. Code § 4680], as discussed in §§ 104.30-104.36.

The Health Care Decisions law generally abandons the term "durable powers of attorney for health care" (except with reference to powers executed under prior law [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 4665(a), (e)]), and instead substitutes the simpler term "power of attorney for health care" [see Prob. Code §§ 4629, 4680-4690], the statutory definition of which is set forth in § 104.30[4]. This chapter generally adopts the statutory terminology, and uses the term "durable powers of attorney" only with reference to powers executed under the former law.

Powers of attorney for health care, in turn, are simply treated as a species of "advance health care directive" [Prob.

Code § 4605], a term that also encompasses any other written or oral direction by a patient concerning a health care decision by that patient, including selection and discharge of health care providers, approval or disapproval of medical treatments and procedures, and directions to provide or withhold all forms of health care [see Prob. Code §§ 4605, 4617, 4623 (applicable definitions)]. Under the Uniform Health Care Decisions Law, a power of attorney is legally sufficient if it satisfies the requirements for an advance health care directive under Prob. Code § 4673 [Prob. Code § 4680; see §§ 104.30[4], 104.31, 104.124, 104.230[1]].

[3] Drafting Issues

Even when durable powers of attorney for health care were governed by the Power of Attorney law, the standard practice was to create a separate instrument for a durable power of attorney for health care, rather than combining it with a durable power of attorney for property management. Since these two types of powers are now governed by completely different statutes, the use of separate instruments is essential.

Prob. Code § 4701 contains a statutory form for an advance health care directive, consisting of a power of attorney for health care coupled with health care instructions. This form may be used to create an advance health care directive, but its use is not required, and it may be freely modified by the drafter of the power to reflect the wishes and intentions of the individual who will execute it [Prob. Code § 4700]. The form in § 104.230 is based on the statutory form, with modifications designed to enhance its utility.

For additional discussion of drafting issues relating to durable powers of attorney, see the comment to § 104.230.

[4] Durable Powers Executed Under Former Law

The Health Care Decisions Law applies to all durable powers of attorney, regardless of whether they were executed before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(a)]. However, the Health Care Decisions Law does not affect the validity of any durable power of attorney for health care executed before July 1, 2000, as long as it was valid under prior law [Prob. Code § 4665(d)]. Similarly, any durable power of attorney executed on a printed form that was valid under prior law is also valid, regardless of whether it was executed before, on, or after July 1, 2000 [Prob. Code § 4665(e)].

Proceedings concerning durable powers of attorney commenced before July 1, 2000, are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law unless the court determines that application of a particular provision of that law would substantially interfere with the effective conduct of the proceedings or the rights of the parties and other interested persons, in which case the particular provision does not apply, and prior law instead applies [Prob. Code § 4665(c)]. All proceedings involving durable powers of attorney for health care commenced after July 1, 2000, are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4665(b)].

§ 104.38 Health Care Surrogates

[1] Designation of Surrogate

A patient may designate an adult as a surrogate to make health care decisions by personally informing the supervising health care provider [Prob. Code § 4711]. The designation of a surrogate must be promptly recorded in the patient's health care record [Prob. Code § 4711(a)]. Unless the patient specifies a shorter period, a surrogate designation is effective only during the course of treatment or illness or during the stay in the health care institution when the surrogate designation is made, or for 60 days, whichever period is shorter [Prob. Code § 4711(b)]. The expiration of a surrogate designation does not affect any role the person designated under Prob. Code § 4711(a) may have in making health care decisions for the patient under any other law or standards of practice [Prob. Code § 4711(c)]. If the patient has designated an agent under a power of attorney for health care, the surrogate designated under Prob. Code § 4711(a) has priority over the agent for the period provided in Prob. Code § 4711(b), but the designation of a surrogate does not revoke the designation of an agent unless the patient communicates the intention to revoke in compliance with Prob. Code § 4695(a) [Prob. Code § 4711(d); see § 104.35[1]].

Within 24 hours of the arrival, in the emergency department of a general acute care hospital, of a patient who is unconscious or otherwise incapable of communication, the hospital must make reasonable efforts to contact the patient's agent, surrogate, or a family member or other person the hospital reasonably believes has the authority to make health care decisions on behalf of the patient [Health & Safety Code § 4717(a); see Health & Safety Code § 4717(a)(1), (2) (what constitutes reasonable efforts); see also Health & Safety Code § 4717(b) (documentation requirements)]. This requirement, however, is suspended during any period in which the hospital implements its disaster and mass casualty program, or its fire and internal disaster program [Health & Safety Code § 4717(c)].

[2] Duties of Surrogate

A surrogate must make health care decisions in accordance with the patient's individual instructions, if any, and other wishes to the extent known to the surrogate [Prob. Code § 4714]. Otherwise, the surrogate must make decisions in accordance with the surrogate's determination of the patient's best interests, taking into account the patient's personal values to the extent known by the surrogate [Prob. Code § 4714].

[3] Disqualification

A patient having capacity at any time may disqualify another person, including a family member, from acting as the patient's surrogate, by a signed writing or by personally informing the supervising health care provider [Prob. Code § 4715].

[4] Authority of Domestic Partner to Make Health Care Decisions

If a patient lacks the capacity to make a health care decision, the patient's domestic partner has the same authority as a spouse has to make a health care decision for his or her incapacitated spouse [Prob. Code § 4716(a); see Prob. Code § 4716(b)(1); Prob. Code § 4609 ("capacity" defined); Prob. Code § 4716(b)(2); Prob. Code § 4615 ("health care" defined); Prob. Code § 4716(b)(3); Prob. Code § 4617 ("health care decision" defined); § 104.30[4] (definitions)]. The term "domestic partners" for these purposes does not simply mean any two cohabiting individuals; rather, the term is defined to mean two adults who have chosen to share one another's lives in an intimate and committed relationship of mutual caring and who meet specified requirements, including having both filed a declaration of domestic partnership with the California Secretary of State [see Prob. Code § 4716(b)(4); Fam. Code § 297; see also Bouley v. Long Beach Memorial Medical Center (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 601, 606, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 813 (domestic partner who had signed declaration of domestic partnership held to have standing to sue medical center for wrongful death under Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60, which applied retroactively)].

The above provision may not be construed to expand or restrict the ability of a spouse to make a health care decision for an incapacitated spouse [Prob. Code § 4716(a)]. For discussion of the rights of spouses and others to make health care decisions for incapacitated persons, see § 121.220[1][g].

 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Health Care Decisions Law

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.39

§ 104.39 Requests Regarding Resuscitative Measures

[1] Definition and Effect

A "request regarding resuscitative measures" is a written document, signed by an individual with capacity, or a legally recognized health care decisionmaker, and the individual's physician, that directs a health care provider regarding resuscitative measures [Prob. Code § 4780(a)(1)]. A request regarding resuscitative measures is not an advance health care directive [Prob. Code § 4780(a)(1); see Prob. Code § 4605 (definition); § 104.30[4]].

A request regarding resuscitative measures includes one, or both of, the following [Prob. Code § 4780(a)(2)]:

- A prehospital "do not resuscitate" form as developed by the Emergency Medical Services Authority or other substantially similar form [see <http://www.emsa.ca.gov/pubs/pdf/DNRForm.pdf> (Prehospital Do Not Resuscitate (DNR) Form, developed by the California Emergency Medical Services Authority, in concert with the California Medical Association)].
- A Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment form, as approved by the Emergency Medical Services Authority [see § 104.233[2]].

A "Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment form" (POLST) is a request regarding resuscitative measures that directs a health care provider regarding resuscitative and life-sustaining measures [Prob. Code § 4780(a)(3)].

A health care provider must explain the POLST form and the medical intervention and procedures offered by the form [Prob. Code § 4780(c); see Prob. Code § 4621 ("health care provider" defined)]. The health care provider must complete the form based on patient preferences and medical indications [Prob. Code § 4780(c)]. The form must be signed by a physician and the patient or his or her legally recognized health care decisionmaker [Prob. Code § 4780(c)]. The health care provider, during the process of completing the form, should inform the patient about the difference between an advance health care directive and the POLST [Prob. Code § 4780(c); see Prob. Code § 4605 ("advance health care directive" defined); § 104.31 (requirements for advance health care directive); § 104.233[1][c]].

A legally recognized health care decisionmaker may execute a POLST form only if the individual lacks capacity, or the individual has designated that the decisionmaker's authority is effective, in accordance with Prob. Code § 4682, discussed below [Prob. Code § 4780(b)]. A legally recognized health care decisionmaker must make health care decisions in accordance with the individual's health care instructions, to the extent they are known to the decisionmaker, or with the individual's best interest in mind, taking into account the individual's personal values, if known [Prob. Code § 4781.5; see Prob. Code §§ 4684, 4714 (duties of decisionmaker or surrogate)]. An individual having capacity may revoke a POLST form at any time and in any manner that communicates an intent to revoke [Prob. Code § 4780(d); see Prob. Code § 4695 (revocation); § 104.35].

A request regarding resuscitative measures may also be evidenced by a medallion engraved with the words "do not resuscitate" or the letters "DNR," a patient identification number, and a 24-hour toll free number, issued by a person pursuant to an agreement with the Emergency Medical Services Authority [Prob. Code § 4780(e)].

A health care provider must treat an individual in accordance with a POLST form, unless the form requires medically ineffective health care or health care contrary to generally accepted health care standards applicable to the health care provider or institution [Prob. Code § 4781.2(a), (b)]. A physician may conduct an evaluation of the individual and, if possible, in consultation with the individual, or the individual's legally recognized health care decisionmaker, issue a new order consistent with the most current information available about the individual's health status and goals of care [Prob. Code § 4781.2(c)].

The legally recognized health care decisionmaker of an individual without capacity must consult with the individual's treating physician before making a request to modify that individual's POLST form [Prob. Code § 4781.2(d)]. An individual with capacity may at any time request alternative treatment to that treatment ordered on the form [Prob. Code § 4781.2(e)].

If the orders in an individual's request regarding resuscitative measures directly conflict with his or her individual health care instruction, the most recent order or instruction is effective [Prob. Code § 4781.4].

A health care provider who honors a request regarding resuscitative measures is not subject to criminal prosecution, civil liability, discipline for unprofessional conduct, or administrative sanction, as a result of his or her reliance on the request, provided that the health care provider (1) believes in good faith that the action or decision is consistent with the governing statutes [see Prob. Code § 4780 et seq.] and (2) has no knowledge that the action or decision would be inconsistent with a health care decision that the individual signing the request would have made under like circumstances [Prob. Code § 4782]. Absent knowledge to the contrary, a health care provider may presume that a request regarding resuscitative measures is valid and unrevoked [Prob. Code § 4784].

For purposes of these requests, the term "health care provider" includes, but is not limited to, individuals authorized by law to provide health care in the ordinary course of business [see Prob. Code § 4621] and emergency response employees [Prob. Code § 4781]. These rules apply regardless of whether the individual executing a request regarding resuscitative measures is within or outside a hospital or other health care institution [Prob. Code § 4785].

Forms for requests regarding resuscitative measures printed after January 1, 1995, must include the following acknowledgment [Prob. Code § 4783(a)]:

By signing this form, the legally recognized health care decisionmaker acknowledges that this request regarding resuscitative measures is consistent with the known desires of, and with the best interest of, the individual who is the subject of the form.

A printed form substantially similar to approved by the Emergency Medical Services Authority [see Prob. Code § 4780(a)(2)(A); § 104.233[2] (form)] is valid and enforceable if all of the following conditions are met [Prob. Code § 4783(b)]:

- The form is signed by the individual, or the individual's legally recognized health care decisionmaker, and a physician.
- The form directs health care providers regarding resuscitative treatment.
- The form contains all other information required by Prob. Code § 4783.

§ 104.40 Advance Health Care Directive Registry

Prob. Code § 4800 directs the Secretary of State to establish a registry system through which a person who has executed a written advance health care directive may register, in a central information center, information regarding the advance directive, making that information available upon request to any health care provider, the public guardian, the legal representative of the registrant [Prob. Code § 4800(a)]. Hospitals are required, within 24 hours after a patient who is unconscious or otherwise incapable of communicating arrives in the emergency room, to make reasonable efforts to contact the patient's agent, surrogate, or family member, or another person the hospital reasonably believes has the authority to make health care decisions on behalf of the patient [Prob. Code § 4717(a)]. The hospital will be deemed to have discharged this duty if, among other things, it contacts the Secretary of State, directly or indirectly, including by voice mail or fax, to inquire whether the patient has registered an advance health care directive with the Advance Health Care Directive Registry, if the hospital has evidence of the patient's registry identification card from the patient, the patient's family, or an authorized agent [see Prob. Code § 4717(a)(3); see also § 104.220[1][f]]. Accordingly, attorneys should be aware of the procedure for registering an advance health care directive, so that they can evaluate whether registration is appropriate in individual situations.

Information that may be received by the registry is limited to the registrant's name, social security number, driver's license number, or other individual identifying number established by law, if any, address, date and place of birth, the registrant's advance health care directive, the intended place of deposit or safekeeping of the written advance health care directive, and the name and telephone number of the agent and any alternative agent [Prob. Code § 4800(c)]. Information that may be released on request may not include the registrant's social security number, except when necessary to verify the identity of the registrant [Prob. Code § 4800(c)]. The Secretary of State's official registration form is reproduced in this chapter in § 104.232[2].

Registration with the Secretary of State does not affect the registrant's ability to revoke the registrant's advance health care directive or a later executed advance directive, nor does registration raise any presumption of validity or superiority among any competing advance directives or revocations [Prob. Code § 4804].

[1] Facts

1. Information on principal.

a. Name, address, and telephone number of principal.

b. Status:

(1) Competent adult;

(3) Incompetent person; or

NOTE:

Only an adult of sound mind may execute an advance health care directive [Prob. Code §§ 4670, 4671(a)].

(4) Disabled person.

2. Information on agent or surrogate.

A supervising health care provider, or employee of the institution or facility where the principal is receiving care, cannot act as an agent or surrogate, except for an employee, other than a supervising health care provider, who is related to the principal or works at the same institution or facility as the principal [Prob. Code § 4659(a), (b)]. A conservator under the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 4659(c)].

3. Information on primary physician and any other health care providers.

NOTE:

If the principal sees more than one physician, this information should be obtained for each physician so that it may be referred to later to determine which is the attending or primary physician. The term "primary physician" means a physician designated by a patient or the patient's agent, conservator, or surrogate, to have primary responsibility for the patient's health care or, in the absence of a designation or if the designated physician is not reasonably available or declines to act as primary physician, a physician who undertakes the responsibility [*Prob. B. Preliminary Determinations

§ 104.110 Hospital Admission Agreement

1. Determine which of following provisions will be included in agreement [see § 104.200].

- a. Provision stating level of nursing care that will be provided by hospital.
- b. Provision for consent to medical and surgical care provided by hospital at direction of patient's physician.

NOTE:

It may be technical assault [see Penal Code § 240] and battery [see Penal Code § 242] if services are rendered to the patient without his or her implied consent. Counsel should consider including an express consent clause in the form. For further discussion of consent, see § 104.11.

- c. Authorization for release of information to insurance company or other third-party payor of patient.

NOTE:

Although the hospital owns the medical record of the patient, the hospital must safeguard the information contained in the record against loss, defacement, tampering, or use by unauthorized persons [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70751(b)]. Authorization for release is required when information in a patient's medical record will be released to anyone not directly concerned with the care of the patient [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)(8)].

- d. Information regarding availability of fire-proof safe for storing patient's personal valuables.

NOTE:

The general liability for a hospital storing a patient's personal valuables is that of depository for hire [see

Civ. Code § 1859]. This liability may be further limited if the hospital keeps a fireproof safe and notifies the patient that the safe is available for his or her specified personal property [see Civ. Code § 1860].

- e. Financial clause stating that in consideration of services rendered by hospital, patient will obligate himself or herself to pay for services.

NOTE:

The financial clause may include a provision referring delinquent bills to an attorney or collection agency for collection. However, if a hospital uses the phrase "reasonable attorney's fees and collection expenses" in the admission agreement, the hospital may not assess patients a collection fee in excess of the actual cost of collection [Bondanza v. Peninsula Hosp. & Medical Center (1979) 23 Cal. 3d. 260, 266-267, 152 Cal. Rptr. 446, 590 P.2d 22 (hospital's enforcement of collection charge was unlawful when hospital assessed large charge without attempting to fix actual collection cost, failed to estimate and agree with patient regarding amount of collection costs to be paid in event of default, and made no showing that it would be impractical to fix actual collection costs)].

- f. Provision for assignment of insurance benefits.

NOTE:

Because a majority of hospital expenses are ultimately paid for by the insurance company of the patient, this clause facilitates the collection of payment by allowing the insurance company to pay the hospital directly.

- g. Provision informing patient that he or she may verify that payment by his or her insurance company will be accepted by hospital.

NOTE:

Verification of coverage may be accomplished by maintaining at the admission office a current list of health care service plans that have contracted with the hospital.

- h. Provision for arbitration of disputes that may arise.

NOTE:

Strict statutory requirements specify the language that must be used in arbitration clauses and their placement in a contract [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295]. Counsel should consider making this an entirely separate agreement, as discussed in § 104.201[1][b]-[d].

2. Determine whether facts of client's case require modification of agreement as to any of the following:

- a. Level of care provided by nursing staff.
- b. Whether physicians are employees or independent contractors to hospital.
- c. Hospital services routinely available for patients, such as:
 - (1) X-ray examinations.
 - (2) Laboratory tests.
 - (3) Anesthesia.

3. Duration of agreement.

NOTE:

The agreement usually covers the period of time that the patient is in the hospital. If the patient is discharged from the hospital, and is subsequently readmitted to the same hospital, another admission agreement probably will have to be executed.

(8) Employer (if medical information was created as result of employment-related health care services provided to employee at request and expense of employer).

NOTE:

A health care provider or health care services plan may disclose to the employer only that part of the patient's medical information that (1) is relevant to the proceeding in which the patient has placed at issue his or her medical history, provided that information is used only in connection with that proceeding; and (2) describes functional limitations of the patient that may entitle the patient to leave from work for medical reasons or limit the patient's fitness to perform his or her present work, provided no statement of medical cause is included in the information disclosed [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(8)].

(9) Sponsor, insurer, or administrator of plan or policy from which patient seeks coverage or benefits, if information was created by health care provider or health care service plan at request and expense of sponsor for purpose of evaluating application for coverage or benefits.

NOTE:

Disclosure may not be made for this purpose if the provider or plan has previously been notified in writing of an agreement by the sponsor, insurer, or administrator to the contrary [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(9)].

(10) Health care service plan, by health care providers that contract with plan for purposes of administering plan.

(11) Insurance institution, agent, or support organization, subject to provisions of Ins. Code § 791 et seq. (standards for use of information gathered by insurance institutions), if institution or agent has complied with all requirements for obtaining information [see Ins. Code § 791 et seq.].

(12) Probate court investigator during any investigation required or authorized in conservatorship proceeding under the Guardianship-Conservatorship Law [see Prob. Code § 1400], or probate court investigator, probation officer, or domestic relations investigator engaged in determining need for initial guardianship or continuation of existing guardianship.

NOTE:

Information that may be disclosed for this purpose is limited to that which is relevant to the patient's condition, care, and treatment [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(12)].

(13) Organ procurement organization or tissue bank processing tissue of decedent for transplantation into body of another person, but only with respect to donating decedent for purpose of aiding transplant [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(13) see Health & Safety Code § 1635].

(14) When disclosure is otherwise specifically authorized by law to disclosure [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(14)].

NOTE:

For example, information may be disclosed, either directly or indirectly, to the federal Food and Drug Administration regarding adverse events related to drug products or medical device problems [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(14)].

(15) State-recognized or federally recognized disaster relief organization for the purpose of responding to disaster welfare inquiries.

NOTE:

Information that may be disclosed for this purpose is limited to basic information including the patient's name, city of residence, age, sex, and general condition [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(15)].

(16) Third party for purposes of encoding, encrypting, or otherwise anonymizing data.

NOTE:

However, the recipient of the information may not further disclose the information in a way that would violate the Act, including unauthorized manipulation of coded or encrypted medical information that reveals individually identifiable medical information [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(16)].

(17) Any entity contracting with health care service plan or its contractors to monitor or administer care of enrollees for a covered benefit, for purposes of chronic disease management programs authorized by a treating physician, or to any disease management organization [see Health & Safety Code § 1399.900 (definition)] that complies fully with physician authorization requirements of Health & Safety Code § 1399.902, provided that health care service plan or its contractor has provided description of disease management services to a treating physician or to health care services plan's or contractor's network of physicians.

NOTE:

Nothing in this provision may be construed to require physician authorization for the care or treatment of the adherents of any well-recognized church or religious denomination who depend solely on prayer or spiritual means for healing in the practice of their religion [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(17)].

(18) Local health department, to prevent or control disease, as permitted by state and federal law.

NOTE:

Disclosure may include, but is not limited to, reporting disease, injury, vital events, for example, birth or death, and conducting public health surveillance, public health investigations, and public health interventions, as authorized or required by state or federal law or regulation [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(18)].

(19) To a specified type of employee welfare benefit plan formed under the Taft-Hartley Act (29 U.S.C. § 186(c)(5)), or to an entity contracting with that employee welfare benefit plan, if, among other requirements, the disclosure is for a specified purpose, is made pursuant to a request accompanied by a written authorization for the release of the information, and is authorized by and made in a manner consistent with HIPAA [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(21)(A)].

d. Under Confidentiality of Medical Information Act [Civ. Code §§ 56-56.37], psychotherapist [see Evid. Code § 1010 (definition)] may disclose medical information, consistent with applicable law and standards of ethical conduct, if psychotherapist, in good faith, believes disclosure is necessary to "prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the health or safety of a reasonably foreseeable victim or victims, and the disclosure is made to a person or persons reasonably able to prevent or lessen the threat, including the target of the threat" [Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(19)].

e. Under Confidentiality of Medical Information Act [Civ. Code §§ 56-56.37], health care provider may disclose medical information to county social worker, probation officer, or any other person who is legally authorized to have custody or care of minor, for purpose of coordinating minor's health care services and medical treatment [Civ. Code §§ 56.10(c)(20), 56.103(a); see generally Civ. Code § 56.103(b)-(h) (definitions and restrictions on further disclosure)].

f. Licensed hospital, physician, dentist, registered nurse, and certain other health care providers must make patient's records available to attorney (or attorney's representative authorized in writing) for inspection and copying before filing of action or appearance of defendant in action, on presentation of patient's written authorization [Evid. Code § 1158].

NOTE:

The medical provider must make the records available to the attorney within five business days of the request [Evid. Code § 1158].

2. Determine information to be released.

NOTE:

Regulations prescribe the basic information that must be contained in the medical record of a patient [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70749].

3. Determine whether hospital still maintains medical records to be released.

NOTE:

The hospital owns the medical record of a patient. It must maintain the record of an adult patient for a minimum of seven years following the discharge of the patient. If the patient is a minor, it must maintain the record for at least one year after the minor reaches the age of 18, but in any event for not less than seven years [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70751(b), (c)].

4. Determine whether any special federal or state laws or regulations apply.

NOTE:

For example, there are specific laws and regulations relating to the records for alcohol and drug abuse patients [see 42 C.F.R. §§ 2.31-2.61-1].

5. Ascertain facts relevant to specific authorization, including all of following [Civ. Code § 56.11(d)-(i)]:

NOTE:

An authorization for the release of medical information will be valid under the Confidentiality of Medical Information Act of 1981 [Civ. Code §§ 56-56.37] if all of the following are stated [Civ. Code § 56.11(d)-(i); see also § 104.223].

- a. Specific uses and limitations on types of medical information to be disclosed.
 - b. Names or functions of health care provider, health service plan, pharmaceutical company, or contractor that may disclose information.
 - c. Names or functions of persons or entities authorized to receive medical information.
 - d. Specific uses and limitations on use of medical information by persons or entities authorized to receive medical information.
 - e. Specific date after which provider of health care, health care service plan, pharmaceutical company, or contractor is no longer authorized to disclose medical information.
6. Ensure that authorization advises person signing it of right to receive copy of authorization.
 7. Draft authorization for release of medical information [see Civ. Code § 56.11; see also § 104.223].
 8. Advise holders of information of potential liability for unauthorized release of information, such as:
 - a. Libel [see Civ. Code § 45].
 - b. Libel on its face [see Civ. Code § 45a].
 - c. Slander [see Civ. Code § 46].
 - d. Defamation [see Civ. Code § 44].
 - e. Violation of general personal rights [see Civ. Code § 43].
 - f. Compensatory and punitive damages, plus attorneys' fees and costs of litigation [see Civ. Code §

56.35].

g. Misdemeanor conviction [see Civ. Code § 56.36(a)].

h. Nominal and/or actual damages sustained by individual bringing civil suit [see Civ. Code § 56.36(b)].

i. Various administrative fines and civil penalties [see Civ. Code § 56.36(c)].

§ 104.120 Hospital Admission Agreement

1. Draft hospital admission agreement [see §§ 104.110, 104.200].
2. Advise client regarding procedures for execution of agreement:
 - a. When to execute:
 - (1) Usually, at time of admission to hospital; or
 - (2) As soon after admission as possible, if patient was temporarily unable to sign at the time of admission; or
 - (3) In rare cases, such as for maternity labor, execution may be in advance of admission.

b. Who should sign:

NOTE:

Signature requirements are discussed in § 104.200[1].

- (1) Patient, if he or she is a competent adult; or
- (2) Parent, legal guardian, conservator, or other authorized person.

c. Witnesses.

NOTE:

Although witnesses are not ordinarily required, prudence suggests that an agreement be witnessed by one other person. When a patient cannot write but signs with a mark, one witness is required [see Health & Safety Code § 18].

3. Provide patient with copy of agreement.

§ 104.121 Arbitration Agreement

NOTE:

A signed arbitration agreement containing the required statutory provisions governs all subsequent open-book account transactions for medical services until or unless revoked [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c); see Cochran v. Rubens (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 481, 486-487, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 672 (three years without ongoing contact terminated arbitration agreement); but see Gross v. Recabaren (1988) 206 Cal. App. 3d 771, 778, 253 Cal. Rptr. 820 (evidence of ongoing relationship despite 18 month lapse in contact)]. The contract is not a contract of adhesion, nor unconscionable, nor otherwise improper, provided that the agreement conforms to the applicable statutory provisions [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d); see § 104.201[1]]. Further, the agreement is not subject to disaffirmance if signed by the minor's parent or legal guardian [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d)].

1. Draft arbitration agreement [see §§ 104.111, 104.201, 104.203].

a. Required provisions:

(1) Include arbitration provision as first article of contract.

NOTE:

The arbitration provision, when one is used, must be the first article of any contract for medical services that provides for arbitration of any dispute as to the professional negligence of a health care provider, and must be expressed in exact language prescribed by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a); see also §§ 104.201-104.203]. The terms "health care provider" and "professional negligence" are defined by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(g)].

(2) Include notice of arbitration immediately before signature line.

NOTE:

A notice containing exact language prescribed by statute must appear immediately before signature line, in at least 10-point bold red type. The notice must state that the parties, by signing the agreement, are giving up their right to a jury or court trial [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(b); see also § 104.201].

In Allied-Bruce Terminix Cos., Inc. v. Dobson, the United States Supreme Court held that the Federal Arbitration Act preempts state law that seeks to invalidate arbitration agreements [Allied-Bruce Terminix Cos., Inc. v. Dobson (1995) 513 U.S. 265, 115 S. Ct. 834, 130 L. Ed. 2d 753] . This decision throws into question whether the lack of this notice renders the agreement unenforceable.

b. Draft any other arbitration provisions [see §§ 104.201-104.203].

2. Draft and attach other relevant documents.

a. Medical arbitration rules [see § 104.204].

b. Agreement on behalf of another person [see § 104.205].

3. Execute arbitration agreement.

a. Usually at first office visit, or when admitted to hospital and in conjunction with hospital admission form.

b. If execution is on behalf of minor, subsequent agreement should be considered when:

(1) Minor later turns age 18 and is still under care and treatment of physician.

(2) Person signing agreement is not parent or legal guardian of minor.

NOTE:

For the parties to be protected from disaffirmance of the agreement, the agreement must be signed by the parent or legal guardian on behalf of the minor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d)]. The parent or legal guardian should be asked to sign an arbitration agreement as soon as he or she is available [see § 104.205].

§ 104.122 Patients' Bill of Rights

NOTE:

General acute care hospitals and acute psychiatric hospitals [see Health & Safety Code § 1250 (definitions)] and must adopt, print, and post their patients' rights lists in both English and Spanish [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707, 71507].

1. Draft patients' bill of rights [see § 104.206].

- a. List all rights prescribed by regulation [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707, 71507].
- b. List any other rights to be guaranteed in addition to those prescribed by regulation

NOTE:

The patients' rights document presents the position of the hospital and medical staff. Therefore, any additional rights listed in the agreement should be approved by the hospital and the medical staff.

2. Arrange for translation into Spanish.

3. Post patients' rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707(b), 71507(c)].

- a. Post list in both English and Spanish.
- b. Post list within hospital.

NOTE:

General acute care hospitals must post patients' rights in appropriate places within the hospital so that patients may read their rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)]. Acute psychiatric hospitals must post the rights prominently [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507(c)].

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.123

§ 104.123 Consent and Refusal to Medical Treatment or Procedure

1. Draft appropriate consent or refusal to treatment form.

a. If consent form is being drafted [see §§ 104.220, 104.221], include to extent known:

- (1) Name of medical condition.
- (2) Name, nature, and extent of proposed treatment or procedure.
- (3) Name of physician performing treatment or procedure;
- (4) Name of physician informing patient.
- (5) Patient's signature or name, signature, and capacity of person signing for patient.

b. If patient's refusal of treatment or procedure form will be drafted [see § 104.222], state:

- (1) Name of informing physician.
- (2) Name and nature of proposed treatment or procedure.

2. Have patient (or patient's representative, if appropriate) execute consent or refusal to treatment form.

NOTE:

A consent form typically is signed after the physician has given the patient a comprehensive disclosure of the nature of treatment, inherent risks, and potential consequences and complications for the proposed treatment and for each available alternative method of treatment and before the treatment or procedure. Verification of consent forms are usually executed at the time of admission to the hospital; hospital employees should first verbally verify with the patient that the physician has obtained the patient's informed consent. A refusal of treatment may be executed by patient at any time before treatment, including during his or her stay in hospital.

For discussion of the special consent requirements applicable to minor patients, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

a. Obtain required signatures:

(1) Patient ordinarily must sign if he or she is a competent adult [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243-244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

NOTE:

The fact that a patient has a conservator does not necessarily preclude the patient from giving valid consent to medical treatment. In fact, the opposite is true. Unless the conservatee has been adjudicated to lack the capacity to give informed consent to medical treatment, the conservatee may consent to his or her own medical treatment and consent of the conservator is not required [Prob. Code § 2354(a); but see Prob. Code § 2354(b) (consent of conservator is sufficient, notwithstanding refusal of conservatee, if conservator obtains order under Prob. Code § 2357)].

Note that the requirement of informed consent is generally inapplicable to emergency medical treatment [see Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243-244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

(2) Conservator may consent to health care for patient having capacity to consent if one of following situations exist:

NOTE:

These rules are subject to the priority of an agent appointed under a valid advance health care directive [Prob. Code § 4685].

(a) Patient has not expressed an objection to consent.

NOTE:

A conservator may consent to medical treatment for a conservatee, but the consent of the conservator is not required if the conservatee has the capacity to give informed consent to medical treatment. Moreover, the consent of the conservator alone ordinarily is not sufficient if the conservatee objects to the treatment [Prob. Code § 2354(a); but see Prob. Code § 2354(b) (consent of conservator is sufficient, notwithstanding refusal of conservatee, if conservator obtains order under Prob. Code § 2357)].

(b) Conservator has first obtained a court order authorizing treatment under Prob. Code § 2357.

NOTE:

If the conservator obtains an order under Prob. Code § 2357 specifically authorizing the treatment, the conservator may require the patient to receive the treatment whether the conservatee objects or not [Prob. Code § 2354(b)].

(c) Conservator determines in good faith on basis of medical advice that an emergency exists and treatment is required for alleviation of severe pain or conservatee has medical condition which, if not immediately diagnosed and treated, will lead to serious disability or death [Prob. Code § 2354(c)].

(3) If patient lacks capacity to make a health care decision, one of the following, as appropriate:

NOTE:

Issues regarding an individual's capacity to make a health care decision with respect to existing or continuing condition generally are determined under the petition procedure set out in Prob. Code §§ 3200, 3212 if the person does not have a conservator. Under the Health Care Decisions Law, unless otherwise specified in a written advance health care directive, a determination that a patient lacks or has recovered capacity, or that another condition exists that affects an individual health care instruction or the authority of an agent or surrogate, is to be made by the primary physician [Prob. Code § 4658].

(a) Agent under power of attorney for health care [Prob. Code § 4685].

NOTE:

Unless the power of attorney for health care provides otherwise, an agent designated in a power of attorney who is known to the health care provider to be reasonably available and willing to make health care decisions has priority over any other person in making health care decisions for the principal [Prob. Code § 4685]. The Law Revision Commission comments to Prob. Code § 4685 make it clear that this section was intended to give an agent priority over a conservator or a statutory surrogate [2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 82 (Mar. 2000)].

Nothing in the Health Care Decisions Law authorizes an agent under a power of attorney for health care to make a health care decision if the principal objects to the decision--apparently, whether the principal has capacity or not. If the principal objects to the health care decision of the agent under a power of attorney, the matter will be governed by the law that would apply if there were no power of attorney for health care [Prob. Code § 4689].

(b) Adult surrogate designated orally or in writing by patient [Prob. Code § 4711; see § 104.38].

NOTE:

A patient may designate an adult as a surrogate to make health care decisions by personally informing the supervising health care provider. The designation of a surrogate must be promptly recorded in the patient's health care record [Prob. Code § 4711(a); see 2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 101 (Mar. 2000)](clarifying that statutory language encompasses both oral and written designations)]. Unless the patient specifies a shorter period, a surrogate designation under is effective only during the course of treatment or illness or during the stay in the health care institution when the surrogate designation is made, or for 60 days, whichever period is shorter [Prob. Code § 4711(b)]. The expiration of a surrogate designation does not affect any role the person designated under Prob. Code § 4711(a) may have in making health care decisions for the patient under any other law or standards of practice [Prob. Code § 4711(c)]. If the patient has designated an agent under a power of attorney for health care, the surrogate designated under Prob. Code § 4711(a) has priority over the agent for the period provided in Prob. Code § 4711(b), but the designation of a surrogate does not revoke the designation of an agent unless the patient communicates the intention to revoke in compliance with Prob. Code § 4695(a) [Prob. Code § 4711(d); see § 104.35[1]].

(c) Conservator, if patient is a conservatee, has been adjudicated to lack capacity to make health care decisions, and no agent has been designated under an advance health care directive [Prob. Code § 2355(a); see Prob. Code §§ 1880, 1881 (adjudication of lack of capacity to give informed consent to medical treatment), 2356(e), 2657, 4685 (priority of agent)].

NOTE:

A conservator has exclusive authority to make health care decisions for the conservatee under the above-listed circumstances [Prob. Code §§ 1880, 2355(a); see Prob. Code §§ 2356(e), 4685 (priority of agent)]. The conservator is required to make health care decisions for the conservatee in accordance with the conservatee's individual health care instructions, if any, and other wishes to the extent known to the conservator. Otherwise, the conservator must make the decision in accordance with the conservator's determination of the conservatee's best interest. In determining the conservatee's best interest, the conservator is required to consider the conservatee's personal values to the extent known to the conservator. The conservator may require the conservatee to receive the health care, whether or not the conservatee objects. In this case, the health care decision of the conservator alone is sufficient, and no person is liable because the health care is administered to the conservatee without the conservatee's consent [Prob. Code § 2355(a)].

Special rules apply to certain types of drugs and treatment, such as experimental drugs, convulsive treatment, and placement of persons suffering from dementia in a secured facility [see Prob. Code §§ 2356, 2356.5].

Prob. Code § 2357 provides a procedure for obtaining a court order if a ward or conservatee has an existing or continuing medical condition not otherwise authorized to be performed on the ward or conservatee under Prob. Code §§ 2252-2255.

No court order empowering a conservator appointed under the Probate Code to give informed consent for medical treatment on behalf of a conservatee may be granted unless supported by a declaration executed by a licensed physician (or a licensed psychologist acting within the scope of his or her licensure) that the conservatee lacks the capacity to give an informed consent for any form of medical treatment and the reasons for the incapacity [Prob. Code § 1890(c)].

For discussion of consent by a conservator appointed pursuant to the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.], see § 104.220[1][i].

(d) Court-authorized person if adult patient is unable to give consent, patient does not have agent under advance health care directive, designated health care surrogate, or conservator of person, if treatment is for existing or continuing medical condition [see Prob. Code §§ 3201, 3203, 3208].

b. Witnesses.

(1) Have competent adult witness patient's signature.

NOTE:

Ordinarily, there is no witness requirement applicable to consent and refusals. However, it is recommended that the patient's signature be witnessed by at least one competent adult.

(2) Have competent adult witness form when patient signs by mark [see Health & Safety Code § 18].

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.124

§ 104.124 Advance Health Care Directive

1. Discuss nature, operation, and effect of advance health care directive with principal [see § 104.231].
2. Draft advance health care directive [see § 104.230].
 - a. Select and appoint agent (and alternate) to exercise power of attorney for health care.

NOTE:

The principal should communicate with the person being named as agent to ensure that the person is willing to assume the responsibility and that the agent understands the patient's wishes. The agent may not be an operator or employee of a community care facility or a residential care facility at which the principal receives care, or a supervising health care provider or employee of the health care institution at which the principal receives care, unless your agent is related to the principal or is a coworker [see Prob. Code § 4701].

- b. Ensure that selected agent is not:

(1) Supervising health care provider, or employee of institution or facility where the principal is receiving care.

NOTE:

A supervising health care provider, or employee of the institution or facility where the principal is receiving care, cannot act as an agent or surrogate, except for an employee, who is not a supervising health care provider, who is related to the principal or works at the same institution or facility as the principal [Prob. Code § 4659(a), (b)].

(2) Conservator of principal.

NOTE:

A conservator under the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.] may not act as an agent or surrogate unless the conservatee is represented by legal counsel who signs a certificate indicating that the conservatee was advised of the applicable law and potential consequences before to executing an advance directive [Prob. Code § 4659(c)].

c. Limit authority of agent, if desired.

NOTE:

Unless the directive limits the authority of the agent, the agent may make all health care decisions regarding the patient/principal. Absent limitation, the agent may (1) consent or refuse consent to any care, treatment, service, or procedure to maintain, diagnose, or otherwise affect a physical or mental condition; (2) select or discharge health care providers and institutions; (3) approve or disapprove diagnostic tests, surgical procedures, and programs of medication; (4) direct the provision, withholding, or withdrawal of artificial nutrition and hydration and all other forms of health care, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation; (5) make anatomical gifts, authorize an autopsy, and direct disposition of remains [Prob. Code § 4701].

d. State specific health care instructions.

e. Express intention regarding donation of bodily organs and tissues.

f. Designate physician (and alternate) as primary care physician.

3. Have principal execute agreement [see Prob. Code § 4673(a)(1)-(2)].

NOTE:

An electronic advance health care directive or a power of attorney for health care is legally sufficient if the requirements of Prob. Code § 4673(a) [see P P 3(a), (b), below] are satisfied, the directive is acknowledged before a notary public, and any digital signatures used meet specified requirements [see Prob. Code § 4673(b)]; for discussion of requirements for digital signatures, see § 104.31.

a. Have principal sign and date directive, if competent; or

b. Have other adult sign and date directive in principal's presence, in principal's name and at principal's direction.

4. Have agreement acknowledged before notary public or witnessed by at least two witnesses [Prob. Code § 4673(a)(3)].

NOTE:

When an advance directive is signed by witnesses, the witnesses must be adults. Each witness signing the advance directive must witness either (1) the signing of the advance directive by the patient or (2) the patient's acknowledgment of the signature or the advance directive [Prob. Code § 4674(a), (b)].

a. If witnesses are used, ensure that at least one of is an individual who is neither related to patient by blood, marriage, or adoption, nor entitled to any portion of patient's estate on patient's death under will existing when advance directive is executed or by operation of law then existing [Prob. Code § 4674(e)].

b. If witnesses are used, ensure that none of the following are either of required two witnesses [Prob. Code § 4674(c)].

- (1) Patient's health care provider or employee of patient's health care provider.
- (2) Operator or employee of community care facility where patient resides.
- (3) Operator or employee of residential care facility for elderly where patient resides.
- (4) Agent, if advance directive is power of attorney for health care.

5. If patient is in skilled nursing care facility, have patient advocate or ombudsman sign directive:

- a. As one of two required witnesses; or
- b. In addition to notarization.

6. After completing directive, instruct patient to give copy to:

- a. Physician.
- b. Other health care providers.
- c. Health care institutions where patient receives care.
- d. Health care agents.

7. Consider registering advance health care directive with Secretary of State [see § 104.232 (official Secretary of State registration form)].

NOTE:

Once a written advance health care directive is registered, the information may be made available on request to any health care provider, the public guardian, or other person authorized by the registrant [see Prob. Code § 4800(a)]. Registration with the Secretary of State is a non-compulsory filing. The failure to register does not affect the validity of any health care directive [Prob. Code § 4803]. However, registrants are required to notify the registry if the directive is revoked or replaced by a subsequent directive [see Prob. Code § 4802(b), (c); see also § 104.141].

A health care provider, agent, conservator, or surrogate who is informed of the revocation of an advance health care directive must promptly communicate that fact to the supervising health care provider and to any health care institution providing care to the patient [*Prob. PART IV. FORMS
A. Admission and Arbitration Forms

§ 104.200 Conditions of Admission to Hospital

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a typical hospital admission form that sets forth the general conditions of admission to the hospital and informs the patient of the general level of care and treatment that he or she will receive. By signing this form, the patient gives the hospital written consent to provide services pursuant to the instructions of the patient's attending physicians. In view of the need for obtaining the patient's consent for medical treatment [see [b], below], hospitals routinely require that this form or a comparable one be signed by patients, or their authorized representatives, at or around the time of hospital admission.

This form is appropriate for use when the patient's attending physicians are not employees of the hospital but are using the hospital facilities to treat the patient in accordance with the physician's privileges as members of the hospital's medical staff. In this situation, the relationship between the hospital and physicians is one in which the physicians are independent contractors [see Mayers v. Litow (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 413, 418, 316 P.2d 351]. This form, however, may be modified to cover the situation in which the physicians are hospital employees. It may also be modified to apply to the situation involving outpatient services, especially when repetitive rendition of services or a complex procedure will be performed on a patient.

If the patient cannot write, he or she may make a mark. However, a witness then must write the patient's name near the mark and write his or her own name near the patient's name [Health & Safety Code § 18].

A copy of the admission agreement should be given to the patient.

[b] Patient's Consent to Treatment

If a patient does not give his or her consent to treatment before hospital or medical services are rendered, either the hospital or the physician or both may be technically committing assault and battery on the patient [Valdez v. Percy (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 485, 491, 96 P.2d 142 (performance of an operation on a person who did not consent as technical assault and battery)]. The consent may be implied, as by voluntary submission of the patient to treatment, or expressed, as by an oral or written consent [Kritzer v. Citron (1950) 101 Cal. App. 2d 33, 38-39, 224 P.2d 808] . Therefore, to protect itself from a charge of assault and battery based on treatment or services rendered without consent, the hospital should obtain written consent by the patient for hospital services rendered pursuant to instructions of the patient's attending physician.

The patient's consent to a specified treatment or procedure must be an informed consent in order for the consent to be binding. It is the duty of the physician, and not the hospital, to obtain this consent. A physician violates his or her duty of disclosure to the patient if he or she withholds any facts which are necessary to form the basis of an intelligent consent by the patient to the proposed treatment [Salgo v. Leland Stanford Jr. Univ. Bd. of Trustees (1957) 154 Cal. App. 2d 560, 578, 317 P.2d 170] . For further discussion of the physician's duty of disclosure, see the §§ 104.11 and 104.220.

The patient's right to receive the requisite information to enable him or her to give an informed consent is specifically provided for in the hospital patients' bill of rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707(b)(4), (5) (general acute care hospitals), 71507(a)(9)(acute psychiatric hospitals); see § 104.206].

For detailed discussion of the situations in which someone other than the patient may consent to medical treatment on the patient's behalf, and the persons who may consent to medical treatment, see § 104.220[1].

[c] Release of Information

Confidentiality of hospital patient medical records is protected by the physician-patient privilege [Evid. Code § 990 et seq.], the standard of conduct prohibiting a physician's betrayal of a professional secret [Bus. & Prof. Code § 2225], and the hospital patient's bill of rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)(8)]. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707, which sets forth the hospital patients' bill of rights, applies to those hospitals that are licensed by the State Department of Health Services and have a duly constituted governing body with overall administrative and professional responsibilities and an organized medical staff which provides 24-hour inpatient care, including the following basic services: medical, nursing, surgical, anesthesia, laboratory, radiology, pharmacy, and dietary services [Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)]. Most general care hospitals probably come within this definition; however, counsel should independently verify that the hospital involved in his or her case is a hospital within this definition.

The hospital must obtain written permission from the patient before his or her medical records can be made available to anyone not directly related to the patient's care [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)(8)]. Therefore, this hospital admission form specifically provides for the patient's consent to release of portions of his or her medical records to insurance companies or other organizations with whom the patient may have contracted for the payment of all or part of hospitalization costs.

For further discussion, see §§ 104.14 and 104.223[1].

If the hospital keeps a fireproof safe and notifies the patient, either personally or by a printed notice posted prominently in the office or the room occupied by the patient, that the hospital keeps such a safe and will not be liable for money, jewelry, documents, furs, fur coats and fur garments, or other articles of unusual value and small compass, unless placed in the safe, the hospital is not liable, except so far as the acts of the hospital or its employees contribute to the loss or injury, for any loss or injury to those articles which are not deposited with the hospital for placement in the safe [Civ. Code § 1860]. The extent of liability is limited by statute to $500 unless the hospital has given the patient a written receipt for a greater amount [Civ. Code § 1860].

If the hospital does not maintain a safe for storing the personal valuables of the patient, it must use at least ordinary care for the personal valuables stored with it [Civ. Code § 1852]. The liability of a hospital that does not maintain a safe for the losses of or injuries to a patient's personal property is limited by statute to specified maximum amounts, depending on the type of personal property involved, unless the hospital consents in writing to assume a greater liability [see Civ. Code § 1859].

The hospital may not use the patient's money and valuables as its own, nor may the hospital mingle them with its own money and valuables. The patient's money and valuables must be separate, intact, and free from any liability that the hospital incurs in the use of its own funds and valuables. Further, the hospital must maintain a record of the patient's money and valuables entrusted to it for safekeeping, including a copy of the receipt furnished to the patient or other person responsible for the patient [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70755]. Hospitals that handle patients' money are required, as a condition precedent to licensing, to file with the State Department of Health Services a bond or undertaking executed by an admitted surety insurer [see Health & Safety Code § 1318(a); see also Code Civ. Proc. §§ 995.120, 995.210(a)]. The amount of the bond or undertaking will be fixed by the State Department of Health and will be at least $1,000. Any person injured because of the hospital's improper handling of his or her money may bring an action on the bond [Health & Safety Code § 1318(a), (b)].

[e] Financial Agreement

The patient or the agent of the patient who signs this form obligates himself or herself to pay for the services rendered by the hospital. Even if a patient has health insurance or other medical expense coverage, most health insurance plans contain a deductible amount that must be paid by the patient before the plan pays for additional hospital expenses incurred. Counsel should review the specific health insurance plan of a client who is a patient to determine the exact amount for which the patient is personally responsible under the plan.

On the request of a patient, general acute care hospitals offering outpatient services or emergency services must make available a schedule of hospital charges [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70717(b)].

[f] Assignment of Insurance Benefits

An assignment is a transfer of title or ownership of property, or some right or interest in property, from one person to another [see Commercial Discount Co. v. Cowen (1941) 18 Cal. 2d 610, 614, 116 P.2d 599]. Although no particular form of assignment is necessary, an effective assignment must manifest the intention of the owner of the right to transfer the right to another person, without any further action or manifestation of intention [Cockerell v. Title Ins. & Trust Co. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 284, 291, 267 P.2d 16]. In the absence of a statute requiring the assignment to be in writing, an assignment may be either oral or written [Swing v. Lingo (1933) 129 Cal. App. 518, 523, 19 P.2d 56].

Money due or to become due under a contract generally may be assigned even though the contract contains a clause prohibiting assignment [Trubowitch v. Riverbank Canning Co. (1947) 30 Cal. 2d 335, 339, 182 P.2d 182]. This is permitted because the mere assignment of the money due or to become due is not treated as assignment of the contract [Butler v. San Francisco Etc. (1914) 168 Cal. 32, 41, 141 P. 818]. Additionally, the fact that the money will not be due under a contract until the happening of a future contingency does not prevent it from being assignable [Baumgarten v. California Pac. T. & T. Co. (1932) 127 Cal. App. 649, 657, 16 P.2d 332]. The clause in this form is for the assignment of money to become due. If an insurance plan will be paying some or all of the hospital expenses, its inclusion will allow the hospital to collect the amount due for hospital services rendered to the patient directly from the patient's insurance company. This clause prevents a problem that can arise when the insurance company pays the patient for hospital expenses, but the patient delays paying hospital in turn.

For further discussion on the subject of assignments, see Ch. 76, Assignment of Rights and Obligations.

[g] Arbitration Clause

This form may be modified by inserting a clause relating to the arbitration of medical malpractice disputes. However, for the reasons discussed in § 104.201[1][b]-[d], it is ordinarily recommended that a medical malpractice arbitration provision be made a separate agreement. See § 104.202 for the optional clauses that may be included in this form and for the requirements that must be met whenever an arbitration provision is included in this type of agreement.

[h] Invalid Contracts

If the hospital attempts to condition admission to the hospital by requiring that it be released from any and all liability for the negligent or wrongful acts of its employees, and inserts a clause to this effect in the admission agreement, the agreement must fail for being against public policy [Civ. Code § 1668; see Tunkl v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1963) 60 Cal. 2d 92, 95-102, 32 Cal. Rptr. 33, 383 P.2d 441 ; YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 22, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 612, 614-615] . For further discussion, see Ch. 77, Discharge of Obligations .

[i] Format Requirements

If a general acute care hospital [Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)] provides a patient with admissions papers and forms, or a contract for consent for hospitalization, or an agreement to assume financial responsibility, or information produced by the hospital regarding the patient's rights and responsibilities, those materials must be printed in at least a 12-point font that is clear and legible [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(a), (b)(1), (3), (5)]. However, a hospital may continue to use its supply of materials that exists on January 1, 2003, until that supply is exhausted or until January 1, 2006, whichever occurs first. Effective January 1, 2006, the hospital must comply with the statutory requirements [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(c)].

[2] FORMConditions of Admission to Hospital

CONDITIONS OF ADMISSION TO _____ HOSPITAL

Nursing Care

1. This hospital provides only general duty nursing care unless the patient's physician orders that the patient be provided more intensive nursing care. If the patient's condition is such as to need the service of a special duty nurse, it is agreed that the service must be arranged by the patient or his or her legal representative. The hospital shall in no way be responsible for failure to provide it and is hereby released from any and all liability arising from the fact that the patient is not provided with that additional care.

Medical and Surgical Consent

2. The patient is under the care and supervision of his or her attending physician and it is the responsibility of the hospital and its nursing staff to carry out the instructions of the physician; the undersigned recognizes that all physicians and surgeons furnishing services to the patient, including the radiologist, pathologist, anesthesiologist, and the like, are independent contractors and are not employees or agents of the hospital. The undersigned consents to X-ray examination, laboratory procedures, anesthesia, medical or surgical treatment, or hospital services rendered to the patient under the general and special instructions of the physician.

Release of Information

3. To the extent necessary to determine liability for payment and to obtain reimbursement, the hospital may disclose portions of the patient's record, including his or her medical records, to any person or corporation that is or may be liable, for all or any portion of the hospital's charge, including but not limited to insurance companies, health care service plans, or workers' compensation carriers.

Personal Valuables

4. It is understood and agreed that the hospital maintains a safe for the safekeeping of money and valuables. The hospital is not liable for the loss or damage to any money, jewelry, documents, furs, fur coats and fur garments, or other articles of unusual value and small compass, unless placed in the safe. Further, the hospital is not liable for loss or damage to any other personal property, unless deposited with the hospital for safekeeping.

Financial Agreement

5. The undersigned agrees, whether he or she signs as agent or as patient, that in consideration of the services to be rendered to the patient, he or she hereby individually obligates himself or herself to pay the account of the hospital in accordance with the regular rates and terms of the hospital. Should the account be referred to an attorney for collection, the undersigned will pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all collection expenses. All delinquent accounts bear interest at the legal rate.

Assignment of Insurance Benefits

6. The undersigned authorizes, whether he or she signs as agent or as patient, direct payment to the hospital of any insurance benefits otherwise payable to the undersigned for this hospitalization at a rate not to exceed the hospital's regular charges. It is agreed that payment to the hospital, pursuant to this authorization, by an insurance company discharges the insurance company of any and all obligations under a policy to the extent of that payment. It is understood by the undersigned that he or she is financially responsible for charges not covered by this assignment.

Health Care Service Plans

7. This hospital maintains a list of the health care service plans with which it has contracted. A list of these plans is available on request from the financial office. The hospital has no contract, express or implied, with any plan that does not appear on the list. The undersigned agrees that he or she is individually obligated to pay the full cost of all services rendered to him or her by the hospital if he or she belongs to a plan that does not appear on the above-mentioned list.

 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Admission and Arbitration Forms

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.201

§ 104.201 Arbitration Agreement Between Hospital and Patient

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an arbitration agreement, to be used when both the hospital and the patient voluntarily desire to enter into an agreement to submit to arbitration any disputes as to medical malpractice that may arise from the patient's stay in the hospital. This form is to be used when the arbitration agreement between the hospital and the patient will be a separate agreement. Rather than entering into a separate arbitration agreement, a hospital and patient may insert an arbitration clause [see § 104.202] into the hospital admission form [see § 104.200].

The patient should be given a copy of any medical services contract or arbitration agreement.

[b] General Characteristics of Arbitration

Arbitration is the submission for determination of a disputed matter to private unofficial persons selected in the manner provided by law or by the agreement of the parties [Stockwell v. Equitable F. & M. Ins. Co. (1933) 134 Cal. App. 534, 540, 25 P.2d 873] . Usually the hearing is before a tribunal that has the power to render a binding decision, and parties are represented by counsel who may present evidence and examine and cross-examine witnesses. The proceedings are more informal than courtroom litigation, and the rules of evidence and rules of judicial procedure may be more flexible or need not be observed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1282.2].

In California, the general arbitration laws are codified in the Code of Civil Procedure [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq.]. A written agreement to submit to arbitration an existing controversy or a controversy thereafter arising is valid, enforceable, and irrevocable, except upon those grounds as exist for the revocation of any contract [Code Civ. Proc. § 1281]. Provisions relating to the appointment of an arbitrator and other procedural matters are also covered by statute. Most of the case law regarding the use of arbitration for medical malpractice disputes involves the application of these statutory provisions. Code Civ. Proc. § 1295 specifically relates to the arbitration of medical malpractice disputes. It specifies the exact language that must be used in an arbitration provision [see [c], below].

[c] Statutory Requirements Governing Medical Services Contract Arbitration Requirements

Arbitration is regarded as a proper and usual means of resolving medical malpractice disputes [Madden v. Kaiser Foundation Hosp. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 699, 706, 131 Cal. Rptr. 882, 552 P.2d 1178] . As evidence of a public policy favoring the use of arbitration in this area, the Legislature has enacted a specific statute relating to the use of arbitration in medical malpractice disputes [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295].

All contracts for medical services containing a provision for arbitration of medical malpractice disputes are subject to the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295. The provision for arbitration of any dispute relating to professional negligence of a health care provider must be the first article of the contract and must include precise statutory language [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a)]. A notice, the language of which is also prescribed by statute, must be set forth in at least 10-point bold red type immediately before the signature line provided for the individual contracting for the medical services [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(b)].

The terms "professional negligence" and "health care provider" are both defined by statute. "Professional negligence" means a negligent act or omission to act by a health care provider in the rendering of professional services, which act or omission is the proximate cause of a personal injury or wrongful death, provided that these services are within the scope of services for which the provider is licensed and which are not within any restriction imposed by the licensed hospital [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(g)(2)]. The term "health care provider" means a broad range of health care service providers, including but not limited to hospitals licensed by the State Department of Health Services, and any person licensed pursuant to the Healing Arts Division of the Business and Professions Code (the division provides for the licensing of dentists, physicians and surgeons, nurses, and other specified health care personnel), or to the Osteopathic Initiative Act, or to the Chiropractic Initiative Act [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(g)(1)].

Once signed, the contract governs all subsequent open-book account transactions for medical services for which the contract was signed unless or until rescinded or disaffirmed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c); Cochran v. Rubens (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 481, 485-487, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 672 ; see also [d], below].

[d] Rescission and Disaffirmance

A signed contract for medical services containing an arbitration provision that conforms to statutory requirements [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a)-(c)] governs all open-book account transactions for medical services for which the contract was signed until or unless rescinded by written notice within 30 days of signature. If the patient is incapacitated or a minor, the written notice of rescission may be given by a guardian or conservator of the patient [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c)].

One exception to the foregoing rescission rule is provided for in the Rules of Arbitration of the California Medical Association and the California Association of Hospitals and Health Systems. If a patient becomes pregnant or does not know she is pregnant until after signing the arbitration agreement, she has 30 days from the date she discovers she is pregnant in which to revoke the arbitration agreement on behalf of the unborn child. The other party must be notified in writing within the 30 days that the arbitration agreement is being revoked on behalf of the child [see § 104.204[2], P 2(c)].

If the contract is for medical services to a minor and a parent or legal guardian of the minor signed it, the contract is not subject to disaffirmance [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d)].

[e] Adhesion

If a contract for medical services containing an arbitration provision has been drafted in conformance with the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295, it is not a contract of adhesion, nor unconscionable or otherwise improper [see

Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(e). Some of the major litigation over the use of arbitration for medical malpractice disputes has revolved around the issue of whether a particular arbitration agreement was invalid on the basis of being a contract of adhesion [see Madden v. Kaiser Foundation Hosp. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 699, 131 Cal. Rptr. 882, 552 P.2d 1178 ; see also Powers v. Dickson, Carlson & Campillo (1997) 54 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1110, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 261 (arbitration clause in attorney's retainer agreement was enforceable); Wheeler v. St. Joseph Hosp. (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 345, 133 Cal. Rptr. 775] . In a case that did not involve Code Civ. Proc. § 1295, the court held that the procedural safeguards of calling the patient's attention to the arbitration clause, requesting the patient to read the clause, and giving the patient a reasonable explanation of its meaning and effect, including an explanation of any options available to the patient, are necessary to bind the parties when an arbitration provision is incorporated into a hospital admission agreement [Wheeler v. St. Joseph Hosp. (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 345, 361, 133 Cal. Rptr. 775] . To minimize the opportunity for a patient to claim that he or she was not aware of and did not understand the terms of the arbitration provision, and that he or she did not voluntarily contract, it is recommended that a staff member, such as the admissions clerk, follow the procedural safeguards outlined above as a matter of routine regardless of whether the arbitration provision is incorporated into the admissions form, separately agreed on, or entered into between a physician and patient instead of a hospital and patient.

The signing of an agreement meeting the requirements of Code Civ. Proc. § 1295 does not establish a conclusive presumption that the signing party has consented to arbitration. A contrary rule would violate the constitutional right to a jury trial [see U.S. Const., amend. VII; see also Cal. Const., art. I, § 16]. The signing party must be permitted to show that he or she was coerced into signing, or did not read the many waiver notices provided and did not realize that the agreement was an agreement to arbitrate [Ramirez v. Superior Court (1980) 103 Cal. App. 3d 746, 749-751, 754-755, 163 Cal. Rptr. 223] . In one medical malpractice action, a patient who claimed that she did not remember signing the agreement and that she didn't read English at all and could only read Spanish to a limited extent, was held bound to arbitrate under the arbitration agreement she had signed. If an arbitration agreement complies with the applicable statutory requirements [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295], a person may not, in the absence of fraud, coercion, or excusable neglect (none of which were found to exist in this case), avoid its terms on the ground that he or she failed to read it before signing it [Bolanos v. Khalatian (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1586, 1590, 283 Cal. Rptr. 209] .

[f] Rules of Arbitration

The arbitration agreement or medical services contract containing an arbitration provision should specify the arbitration rules that will be used in the event of an arbitration hearing. Different rules have been formulated by the American Arbitration Association, by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1280-1294.2], and jointly by the California Hospital Association and the California Medical Association and California Association of Hospitals and Health Systems. This form specifies that the CMA/CAHHS Medical Arbitration Rules will apply. Those rules are reproduced in § 104.204 of this publication, and include, among other things, specific provisions relating to the number of arbitrators, pregnant patients, voluntary intervention and joinder, and discovery.

Any hospital arbitration agreement that provides for arbitration in accordance with specific rules should have copies of those rules available for its patients. The Commercial Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association are set forth in Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions , and may also be obtained through the regional offices of the American Arbitration Association in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego.

[g] Parties Bound by Contract

Once a contract for medical services is signed, and until or unless it is later rescinded, both parties to the contract are bound by it. In addition to a person being able to bind himself or herself as a patient to an arbitration agreement, agents and fiduciaries may also bind their principals or beneficiaries to arbitration [see, e.g., Madden v. Kaiser Foundation Hosp. (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 699, 709, 131 Cal. Rptr. 882, 552 P.2d 1178] . For example, the agent for a group medical plan has the authority to agree to the inclusion of an arbitration provision [Madden v. Kaiser Foundation Hosp. (1976) 17

Cal. 3d 699, 706, 131 Cal. Rptr. 882, 552 P.2d 1178 (arbitration provision was included by amendment to the original contract)]. Further, a parent's right and duty to care for his or her child gives the parent the authority to enter into a contract for medical care that binds the child to arbitrate any dispute arising under the contract [Doyle v. Giuliani (1965) 62 Cal. 2d 606, 610, 43 Cal. Rptr. 697, 401 P.2d 1] . Further, a parent may bind both the child and the other parent to arbitrate claims related to medical treatment [see Bolanos v. Khalatian (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1586, 1591, 283 Cal. Rptr. 209 (mother bound unborn child and nonsignatory parent)].

This form contains a clause stating that the parties, their heirs, representatives, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns are bound by the agreement. Although this may be effective to bind these persons on a cause of action in the patient, at least one court has refused to bind the patient's heirs in a wrongful death suit [Rhodes v. California Hosp. Medical Center (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 606, 609-610, 143 Cal. Rptr. 59] . The court reasoned that the policy favoring arbitration does not extend to those who are not parties to an arbitration agreement or who did not authorize another to execute an arbitration agreement, and that even though a wrongful death cause of action must rest on a cause of action in the decedent, it is nonetheless an independent cause of action. Therefore, counsel is cautioned that the inclusion of this clause in the form may not cover the situation of a suit for wrongful death.

When one spouse contracts for prepaid health services for both spouses, the other spouse is bound by the arbitration provisions of the agreement to submit a wrongful death claim to arbitration [Hawkins v. Superior Court (1979) 89 Cal. App. 3d 413, 419, 152 Cal. Rptr. 491] . The Rhodes case [Rhodes v. California Hosp. Medical Center (1978) 76 Cal. App. 3d 606, 609, 143 Cal. Rptr. 59] was distinguished because the patient in that case signed the arbitration agreement on his own behalf in a hospital admission agreement whereas the agreement for health services in the Hawkins case was entered into on behalf of both spouses.

If the patient is a minor, disabled person, or unborn child, a separate additional provision [see § 104.205 7] may be executed by the appropriate authorized person and attached to the arbitration agreement.

This form contains an optional clause that may be included if the arbitration agreement will to apply to doctors of medicine having staff privileges with the hospital. This clause is intended for use in those situations when all of the physicians having staff privileges at a hospital have signed and filed with the hospital a document signifying their agreement to arbitrate any malpractice claims. If any other optional provision for the coverage of physicians with staff privileges is desired, counsel is cautioned to avoid ambiguity and uncertainty [see Wheeler v. St. Joseph Hosp. (1976) 63 Cal. App. 3d 345, 368, 133 Cal. Rptr. 775] .

[h] Advantages and Disadvantages of Arbitration

The advantages usually cited for the use of arbitration in medical malpractice cases as opposed to traditional judicial proceedings include the following:

- A faster disposition of the claims from the time that the hospital first receives notice of a claim to the time when the arbitration proceedings are concluded.
- The probability that the arbitrator will be technically more knowledgeable than a jury or the average judge.
- The privacy of a hearing that is not being held in open court and an accompanying minimization of publicity.
- The lessened likelihood of an unreasonably excessive award by an over-emotional jury.
- The probability that small claims will be more amenable to arbitration than to litigation.

- The probability that costs will be reduced since the hearings tend to be of shorter duration than judicial proceedings.

The most frequently mentioned and most important disadvantage of the use of arbitration, in terms of either of both parties giving up something, is the fact that both parties must forego their right to a jury trial. Other alleged disadvantages include the following:

- The limited right of appeal provided for by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1294].
- A perception of lack of finality and that arbitration only prolongs the dispute and merely defers judicial review.
- The questionable neutrality of the arbitrator.
- The potential for the introduction of damaging evidence that would not ordinarily be allowed in a judicial proceeding.
- The fact that no body of judicial precedents is created.
- The fact that some patients will refuse arbitration.
- The amount of time that staff members must use in answering questions from patients about arbitration.

Although the above-listed factors have been classified as either advantages or disadvantages, the particular facts and circumstances of each case will better determine whether any single factor is indeed an advantage or disadvantage. For example, the potential for introduction of damaging evidence has been classified as a disadvantage; however, in many situations the relaxed rules of evidence can be an advantage, such as when the damaging evidence is against the other party. Therefore, these factors should be used as a checklist of factors to be considered rather than as a fixed list of advantages or disadvantages.

As a practical matter and regardless of the specific facts involved, most hospitals and physicians either rely on arbitration agreements or they do not. Further, many health maintenance organizations (HMOs) require the use of a specified arbitration agreement. Arbitration agreements may or may not be used according to regional or community practice.

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.202

§ 104.202 Arbitration Clause Between Hospital and Patient for Inclusion in Hospital Admission Agreement

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is an arbitration clause that may be inserted into the conditions of admission to hospital form [see § 104.200] to bind a hospital and patient to arbitration. Alternatively, the arbitration agreement between a hospital and patient may be in the form of a separate arbitration agreement such as that set out in § 104.201.

The submission of any medical malpractice disputes to arbitration should not be a precondition to hospital admission. If an arbitration clause is included in the conditions of admission to hospital form [see § 104.200], the title and language of that form may confuse the patient or otherwise lead him or her to believe that arbitration is indeed a condition of hospital admission. Therefore, although inserting an arbitration clause into the conditions of admission to hospital form [see § 104.200] and entering into a separate arbitration agreement [see § 104.202] are both appropriate for the purpose of effecting an arbitration agreement between the hospital and the patient, entering into a separate arbitration agreement may be the preferred method for ensuring that the patient clearly understands that arbitration is not a condition of hospital admission and that he or she agrees to submit any medical malpractice disputes to arbitration.

If this form is inserted into the conditions of admission to hospital form [see § 104.200], the articles of the form must be renumbered because an arbitration clause must appear as the first article in any medical services contract [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a)]. Further, a statutory notice must appear directly above the signature [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(b)]. The statutory requirements and other considerations applicable to an arbitration clause in a medical services contract are fully discussed in § 104.201[1][c].

§ 104.203 CMA Physician-Patient Arbitration Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an arbitration agreement between a physician and a patient. It was prepared by the California Medical Association for use by physicians in private practice and is reproduced here by permission for illustrative purposes only. It is part of a booklet that also includes the CMA-CAHHS Medical Arbitration Rules [reproduced in § 104.204], which are incorporated into the agreement, as well as introductory materials designed to inform the patient about the nature and effect of the arbitration agreement. These introductory materials are reproduced here, along with the text of the form. Copies of the booklet suitable for distribution to patients may be ordered from CMA Publications, (415) 882-5175. The CMA forms are widely used by physicians.

This form should be given to the patient on his or her first office visit. It provides that the patient may receive the physician's services regardless of whether he or she signs the arbitration agreement. However, the physician should not use this form as a screening device by treating only those persons who agree to sign it. A patient should never be coerced into signing an arbitration agreement since, like all contracts, it must be executed voluntarily.

The arbitration agreement in this form is distinct from any separate arbitration agreement that the patient may enter into with a hospital [see §§ 104.201, 104.202]. An arbitration agreement between a patient and a hospital generally covers an attending physician who has staff privileges [see § 104.201]. However, it may be desirable for the physician and patient to separately agree to arbitrate any disputes regarding services since their professional relationship likely extends to office visits outside of the hospital.

For a detailed discussion of the statutory requirements applicable to arbitration agreements, and the advantages and disadvantages of arbitration agreements, see § 104.201[1][b]-[d]. It is critical that the statutory requirements relating to language and the placement of arbitration provisions in the contract be followed [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(a)-(c)].

This form provides, in article 3, that the arbitration agreement extends to "any and all treatment provided by the physician in the future, regardless of the length of time since my [the patient's] last visit to this physician, and regardless of the fact that the patient-physician relationship between myself and the physician may be interrupted for any reason and then recommenced." Such a provision is enforceable. In one case, the court held that a two-year gap between a patient's only treatments by the doctor, and the fact that the second treatment was wholly unrelated to the reason for the first treatment, were irrelevant, and that the arbitration agreement, which was signed on the occasion of the first treatment and was expressly applicable to any future treatments, extended to the second treatment [Reigelsperger v. Siller (2007) 40 Cal. 4th 574, 579-580, 53 Cal. Rptr. 3d 887, 150 P.3d 764] .

[b] Services to Minors

When an arbitration provision is included in a contract for medical services to minors, the contract may not be disaffirmed if signed by the minor's parent or legal guardian [Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d)]. If the physician continues to see the patient after he or she attains the age of 18, it is advisable for the physician to enter into a new arbitration agreement with the patient who may then contract on his or her own behalf.

An arbitration agreement made on behalf of a minor is set forth in § 104.205. It should be separately executed and attached to this form.

[c] Substituting Physicians

This form provides for coverage of any consenting substitute physician. This may be used when the physician is temporarily absent from his or her practice and has arranged for a substituting physician who agrees in advance to be bound by the agreement. The advance agreement may be a permanent arrangement between the referring and substituting physician, or separate agreements for a limited duration may be made between the two physicians each time the situation arises. In either case, for the protection of the substituting physician, the agreement should in writing.

[d] Patient's Copy of Agreement

The patient should be given a copy of the arbitration agreement at the time of execution. Because this agreement incorporates by reference the arbitration rules set forth in § 104.204 (medical arbitration rules), a copy of those rules should be attached to the patient's copy of the agreement. The CMA booklet includes both a physician's and a patient's copy of the agreement; only the physician's copy is reproduced here.

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form sets forth the Medical Arbitration Rules of the California Medical Association and the California Association of Hospitals and Health Systems. These rules are designed for use in conjunction with the CMA Physician-Patient Arbitration Agreement [see § 104.203], but could be incorporated into other arbitration agreements in appropriate cases. They also be used to govern an arbitration agreement between hospital and patient [see § 104.202]. They are the basic rules that will govern prospective arbitration proceedings involving questions of possible medical malpractice. The rules state that except as expressly provided otherwise, the arbitration will be governed by the California statutory arbitration rules [Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq.] and California law applicable to actions against health care providers, including the Medical Injury Compensation Reform Act of 1975 [Civ. Code §§ 3333.1, 3333.2].

These rules are reproduced here by permission of the California Medical Association for illustrative purposes only. They are included as part of a booklet that also includes the CMA Physician-Patient Arbitration Agreement and related materials [reproduced in § 104.203]. Copies of the booklet may be ordered from CMA Publications, (415) 882-5175.

§ 104.205 Supplemental Agreement by Responsible Person on Behalf of Minor, Unborn Child, or Disabled Person--To Be Attached to Arbitration Agreement

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a supplemental agreement to bind a patient to an arbitration agreement. It should be used when the patient is a minor, unborn child, or disabled person, or, in other words, when the patient is unable for legal or medical reasons to sign for himself or herself, and when an arbitration agreement between a patient and hospital [see § 104.201] or a patient and physician [see § 104.203] is entered into by another person on behalf of the patient. The CMA-CAHHS Medical Arbitration Rules [see § 104.204] govern disputes arising from either of the two aforementioned forms of arbitration agreements [see §§ 104.201, 104.203] and specifically bind patients if the appropriate responsible person signs the arbitration agreement on behalf of the minor, unborn child, or disabled person.

The language of this form allows persons responsible for the patient, in addition to the parent or legal guardian, to sign on behalf of the patient, and is in compliance with the provisions of the Medical Arbitration Rules [see § 104.204]. While the parent or legal guardian clearly may enter into a binding arbitration agreement on behalf of a minor [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d)], it is less clear whether, and under what circumstances, a responsible person other than a parent or legal guardian may bind the disabled person or minor. In order to be safe, whenever the parent or legal guardian authorizes a third person to consent to the hospital or medical care for a minor, and if the third person signs the arbitration agreement on behalf of the minor, the parent or legal guardian should also sign the arbitration agreement and this form as soon as possible [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(d)]. The problem involved in attempting to bind a disabled person is discussed [b], below.

For forms authorizing third persons to consent to hospital or medical treatment on behalf of a minor, see Ch. 100, Minors and Parents.

[b] Disabled Person

The term "disabled person" is used in these arbitration rules [see § 104.204]. A disabled person is described as one who is mentally or physically incapable of understanding the arbitration agreement. The inclusion of persons who are physically incapable of understanding the agreement indicates that other persons, in addition to legally incompetent adults, are to be included in the definition "disabled person." The concern is for patients who are temporarily so distressed or physically ill at the time of negotiating and signing the agreement, that they may not be able to consider rationally and understand the significance and meaning of the agreement. The determination that a person is affected to this degree must be made by the health care provider or the provider's employee based on the symptoms of the patient at the time of signing the agreement. When this situation arises, one method of handling it is for the physician or hospital to have another responsible person sign on behalf of the patient. The rules provide that the signature of the other responsible person for the patient binds the patient to the agreement [see § 104.204]. If the patient regains his or her abilities within 30 days of the signing of the agreement, he or she may revoke the agreement [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1295(c)]. However, the form provides, in accordance with the arbitration rules, that the decision of the responsible person on behalf of the patient binds the patient if he or she does not regain the ability to understand the agreement within the 30-day period.

§ 104.206 Hospital Patients' Bill of Rights

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the list of patients' rights that every general acute care hospital and acute psychiatric hospital licensed by the State Department of Health Services must print and post in the hospital for the patients to read [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707 (general acute care hospitals), 71507 (acute psychiatric hospitals)]. The list of rights provided by regulation is not exclusive [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707(b), 71507(a)]. The first alternative is for use by general acute care hospitals and the second is for acute psychiatric hospitals.

[b] Patients' Bill of Rights

A person who is admitted to a hospital as a patient retains certain rights. The specific rights that are retained depend on the type of hospital (such as state or federal, psychiatric or general care) and vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. California hospitals licensed by the State Department of Health Services pursuant to Chapter 2 of the Health and Safety Code [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1250-1339.37] must adopt a written policy on patients' rights and post these rights in the hospital [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 70707 (general acute care hospitals), 71507 (acute psychiatric hospitals)].

A "general acute care hospital" is a hospital, licensed by the State Department of Health Services, having a duly constituted governing body with overall administrative and professional responsibilities and organized medical staff which provides 24-hour inpatient care, including the following basic services: medical, nursing, surgical, anesthesia, laboratory, radiology, pharmacy, and dietary services [Health & Safety Code §§ 1250, 1253]. Although most general care hospitals are included in this definition, counsel should verify that the particular hospital involved is covered. The rights that must be included in a patients' bill of rights are prescribed by regulation [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)]. General acute care hospitals and medical staffs must adopt a written policy on patients' rights and post the list in both Spanish and English in appropriate places in the hospital so that the patients may read them. All hospital personnel must observe these rights, and a procedure must be established whereby patient complaints are forwarded to the hospital administration for appropriate response [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(a), (c), (d)].

An "acute psychiatric hospital" means a health facility having a duly constituted governing body with overall administrative and professional responsibility and an organized medical staff that provides 24-hour inpatient care for mentally disordered, incompetent, or other referrals [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 5000 et seq., 6000 et seq.], including medical, nursing, rehabilitative, pharmacy, and dietary services [Health & Safety Code § 1250(b)]. Acute psychiatric hospitals must adopt a written policy on patients' rights and post the list in both Spanish and English prominently. All hospital personnel must observe these rights, and a procedure must be established whereby patient complaints are forwarded to the hospital administration for appropriate response [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507(c), (d)].

When a patient is admitted to a general acute care hospital, the hospital must ask if the patient wants specified information regarding patients' rights and responsibilities to be provided to the patient's next of kin or agent under a durable power of attorney for health care [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(1)]. The hospital must provide that information, if the patient so directs [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(1)]. The material provided must include a comprehensive Patients' Bill of Rights, including the regulatory patients' rights for general acute care hospitals contained in 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707, and the rights afforded to patients under 42 C.F.R. § 482.13 [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(2)(A)].

The hospital may also provide written materials regarding the hospital's expectations of patients and patients' responsibilities while the patient is receiving care at the hospital [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b)(2)(B)].

On the request of the patient, or of the patient's next of kin or agent under a durable power of attorney for health care, a representative of any hospital providing patients' rights information or other documentation specified above must explain the materials provided [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(c)].

[c] Posting Requirements

General acute care hospitals must post patients' rights in English and Spanish in appropriate places within the hospital so that patients may read their rights [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)]. Acute psychiatric hospitals must post patients' rights in English and Spanish prominently [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507(c)].

[d] Format Requirements

Information produced by an general acute care hospital and provided to a patient regarding the patient's rights and responsibilities while receiving care at the hospital, or regarding grievances and appeals, must printed in at least a 12-point font that is clear and legible [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(a), (b)(5)]. However, the hospital may continue to use its supply of materials that exists on January 1, 2003, until that supply is exhausted or until January 1, 2006, whichever occurs first. Effective January 1, 2006, the hospital must comply with the statutory requirements [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(c)].

Hospital Patients' Bill of Rights

HOSPITAL PATIENTS' BILL OF RIGHTS

This hospital and its medical staff have adopted the following Patients' Rights in the belief and with the expectation that understanding and observation of the rights will result in more effective patient care and in promotion of the confidence and trust which must exist between the patient, the physician, and the Hospital. It is recognized that the patient and the physician must have a personal relationship in order for the patient to receive proper and effective medical care, and that the patient's stay in this Hospital adds a new dimension to this relationship. It is also recognized that the Hospital has responsibilities and duties of its own to the patient. With due regard and respect for these factors, this Hospital and its medical staff present and support the following Patients' Rights:

[For general acute care hospital:]

1. The right to exercise these rights without regard to sex, economic status, educational background, race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, or the source of payment for care.
2. The right to considerate and respectful care.
3. The right to knowledge of the name of the physician who has primary responsibility for coordinating the care and the names and professional relationships of other physicians who will see the patient.
4. The right to receive information about the illness, course of treatment, and prospects for recovery in terms that the patient can understand.
5. The right to receive as much information about any proposed treatment or procedure as the patient may need in order to give informed consent or to refuse this course of treatment. Except in emergencies, this information shall include a description of the procedure or treatment, the medically significant risks involved in this treatment, alternate courses of treatment or nontreatment and the risks involved in each, and the name of the person who will carry out the procedure or treatment.
6. The right to participate actively in decisions regarding medical care. To the extent permitted by law, this includes the right to refuse treatment.
7. The right to full consideration of privacy concerning the medical care program. Case discussion, consultation, examination, and treatment are confidential and should be conducted discreetly. The patient has the right to be advised as to the reason for the presence of any individual.
8. The right to confidential treatment of all communications and records pertaining to the care and the stay in the hospital. Written permission must be obtained before the medical records can be made available to anyone not directly concerned with the care.
9. The right to reasonable responses to any reasonable requests made for service.
10. The right to leave the hospital even against the advice of physicians.
11. The right to reasonable continuity of care and to know in advance the time and location of appointment as well as the persons providing the care.
12. The right to be advised if the hospital physician or personal physician proposes to engage in or perform human experimentation affecting care or treatment. The patient has the right to refuse to participate in such research projects.
13. The right to be informed of continuing health care requirements following discharge from the hospital.
14. The right to examine and receive an explanation of the bill regardless of the source of payment.
15. The right to know which hospital rules and policies apply to the patient's conduct while a patient.
16. The right to have all patients' rights apply to the person who may have legal responsibility to make decisions regarding medical care on behalf of the patient.

17. The right to designate visitors of the patient's own choosing, if the patient has decision-making capacity, whether or not the visitor is related by blood or marriage unless:

a. No visitors are allowed.

b. The facility reasonably determines that the presence of a particular visitor would endanger the health or safety of the patient, a member of the health facility staff, or other visitors to the health facility, or would significantly disrupt the operations of the facility.

c. The patient has indicated to the health facility staff that the patient no longer wants this person to visit.

18. The right to have the patient's wishes considered for purposes of determining who may visit if the patient lacks decision-making capacity and to have the method of that consideration disclosed in the hospital policy on visitation. At a minimum, the hospital must include any person living in the household.

19. Nothing in these rights may be construed to prohibit a health facility from otherwise establishing reasonable restrictions on visitation, including restrictions on the hours of visitation and the number of visitors.

[The rights set forth in P 20 through 24, below, are contained in 42 C.F.R. § 483.13 :]

20. The right to be free from any physical or chemical restraints imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience, and not required to treat the resident's medical symptoms.

21. The right to be free from verbal, sexual, physical, and mental abuse, corporal punishment, and involuntary seclusion.

22. The right to be free of mistreatment, neglect, and abuse of residents and misappropriation of resident property by the facility staff, which means, in part, that the facility may not use verbal, mental, sexual, or physical abuse, corporal punishment, or involuntary seclusion, or employ individuals who have been found guilty of abusing, neglecting, or mistreating residents by a court of law, or have had a finding entered into the state nurse aide registry concerning abuse, neglect, mistreatment of residents or misappropriation of their property.

23. The right to have all alleged violations involving mistreatment, neglect, or abuse, including injuries of unknown source, and misappropriation of resident property, reported immediately to the facility administrator and to other officials in accordance with state law through established procedures (including to the state survey and certification agency).

23. The right to have all alleged violations thoroughly investigated, and to have the facility prevent further potential abuse while the investigation is in progress.

24. The right to have the results of all investigations reported to the administrator or the administrator's designated representative and to other officials in accordance with state law (including to the state survey and certification agency) within five working days of the incident, and if the alleged violation is verified, the right to have the facility take appropriate corrective action.

[For acute psychiatric hospital:]

1. The right to wear one's own clothes, to keep and use personal possessions including toilet articles, and to keep and be allowed to spend a reasonable sum of personal money for canteen expenses and small purchases.
2. The right to have access to individual storage space for private use.
3. The right to see visitors each day.
4. The right to have reasonable access to telephones, both to make and receive confidential calls.
5. The right to have reasonable access to letter writing materials, including stamps, and to mail and receive unopened correspondence.
6. The right to refuse shock treatment.
7. The right to refuse psychosurgery [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 5325].
8. The right to be informed of the provisions of law regarding complaints and of procedures for registering complaints confidentially, including but not limited to, the address and telephone number of the complaint receiving unit of the Department.
9. All other rights as provided by law or regulation.

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.220

§ 104.220 Patient's Consent to Treatment or Procedure

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a consent to medical treatment to be used by physicians who want a written document signed by the patient as evidence that the patient has been informed of the proposed treatment or procedure, the available alternative treatments, the risks inherent in each treatment or procedure, and the patient consents to the treatment or procedure proposed by the physician. Many malpractice insurers offer their own medical consent forms.

Informed consent concerns the extent to which a physician must disclose to the patient the risks inherent in a proposed treatment and the available alternative treatments so that the patient may have the basis for making an informed and intelligent decision on whether or not to consent to the proposed treatment [see § 104.11]. Although this form may be evidence that informed consent was given by the patient, it is not a substitute for actual consent. For example, a signed form may be attacked if it can be shown that the patient was not actually given sufficient information to make his or her consent meaningful, or that fraud or coercion were used to obtain the patient's signature on the consent form [see Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

The form also contains an optional assignment of benefits to the physician, as well as an acknowledgment that the patient is financially responsible for all charges, regardless of whether or not covered or paid by an insurance company. The assignment remains in effect until revoked and authorizes the assignee to release all medical information necessary to receive payment. For further discussion, see § 104.200[1][g].

[b] Disclosure Requirements

A patient's informed consent must be obtained before any medical treatment is performed or administered by a physician or hospital. To obtain that consent, the physician must make reasonable disclosure to the patient of the available therapies and the dangers inherently and potentially involved in each [Truman v. Thomas (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 285, 292B293, 165 Cal. Rptr 308, 611 P.2d 902 ; Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502

P.2d 1] . The scope of the duty of disclosure is measured by the patient's need of whatever information is material to the decision; whether a potential peril must be disclosed depends on its materiality to the patient's decision [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 245, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . For further discussion of disclosure requirements and informed consent, see § 104.11.

[c] Patient's Right to Consent

If a patient is competent and has the legal capacity to consent to medical treatment, the patient's consent to the treatment ordinarily must be obtained. The United States Constitution does not explicitly mention a right of personal privacy, right of self-determination, right to be left alone, or right to bodily integrity as such; however, the essence of these as a right to personal privacy has been recognized by the United States Supreme Court in several cases dealing with medical treatment. The right to personal privacy in these cases has been based on the U.S. Const., amend. I, IV, V, or XIV, or the penumbras of the Bill of Rights [see Roe v. Wade (1973) 410 U.S. 113, 152-153, 93 S. Ct. 705, 35 L. Ed. 2d 147] . As a fundamental right, the right of personal privacy cannot be regulated by the states unless there is a compelling state interest [Roe v. Wade (1973) 410 U.S. 113, 152-155, 93 S. Ct. 705, 35 L. Ed. 2d 147] .

There exists a rebuttable presumption affecting the burden of proof that all persons have the capacity to make decisions and to be responsible for their acts or decisions [Prob. Code § 810; see also Prob. Code § 4657 (presumption of capacity under Health Care Decisions Law)].

[d] When Patient's Express Personal Consent Is Not Required

In accordance with this right of personal privacy, only limited instances exist when the patient's personal consent is not required. The exceptions include the following:

- Medical treatment for a minor, in which case consent usually may be given by the parent, parents, or legal guardian of the minor, unless an exception specified by statute applies [see Fam. Code § 6900 et seq.; see also [e], below].
- Emergency medical treatment when immediate treatment is necessary to preserve the life or health of the patient, in which case the patient's consent is implied [Preston v. Hubbell (1948) 87 Cal. App. 2d 53, 57-59, 196 P.2d 113 ; see Prob. Code §§ 2354(c) (consent by conservator to emergency medical treatment), 3210(b)(capacity determination procedures do not limit provision of emergency health care); see also [f], below].
- When the patient lacks the capacity to give his or her informed consent or, in the parlance of the Health Care Decisions Law, capacity to make a "health care decision" [see Prob. Code §§ 3200(b), 3201, 4617; see [g], below].

In most other instances, if the patient has the legal capacity to make health care decisions, the patient must give the consent.

[e] Consent of Minors

For a minor, the authority to consent is generally is transferred to his or her legal guardian or closest available relative [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . A parent, guardian, or caregiver of the minor who may authorize medical care [see Fam. Code § 6550] may authorize medical or dental care for the minor [Fam. Code § 6910].

On a minor's application, a court may grant consent to a minor's medical or dental care if the minor is at least 16 years old, resides in California, and has no parent or guardian available to grant the necessary consent minor [Fam. Code § 6911]. In addition, the consent of the minor alone is authorized in certain limited situations [see Fam. Code § 6920 et seq.].

For forms and discussion relating to a minor's right to consent to medical treatment, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

[f] Emergencies

Various statutes clarify what is meant by an "emergency" for purposes of medical consents. Prob. Code § 3210(b) states that nothing in Prob. Code § 3200 et seq., dealing with capacity determinations for adults without conservators, limits the provision of health care in an emergency case in which the health care is required because

- The health care is required for the alleviation of severe pain, or
- The patient has a medical condition that, if not immediately diagnosed and treated, will lead to serious disability or death.

Prob. Code § 2354(c), dealing with consent by conservators in emergency situations, uses essentially identical language.

Hospitals are required, within 24 hours after a patient who is unconscious or otherwise incapable of communication arrives in the emergency room, to make reasonable efforts to contact the patient's agent, surrogate, or a family member or other person the hospital reasonably believes has the authority to make health care decisions on behalf of the patient. The hospital will be deemed to have discharged this duty if it does all of the following: (1) examines the personal effects, if any, accompanying the patient, and any medical records regarding the patient in its possession, and reviews any verbal or written report made by emergency medical technicians or the police, to identify the name of any agent, surrogate, or a family member or other person the hospital reasonably believes has the authority to make health care decisions on behalf of the patient; (2) contacts or attempts to contact any agent, surrogate, or a family member or other person whom the hospital reasonably believes has the authority to make health care decisions on behalf of the patient; and (3) contacts the Secretary of State, directly or indirectly, including by voice mail or fax, to inquire whether the patient has registered an advance health care directive with the Advance Health Care Directive Registry, if the hospital has evidence of the patient's registry identification card from the patient, the patient's family, or an authorized agent [Prob. Code § 4717(a); see Prob. Code 4800(d) (issuance of registry identification cards by Secretary of State)]. The hospital's efforts in this regard must be documented in the patient's medical record [Prob. Code § 4717].

[g] Patient Lacking Capacity to Make Health Care Decisions

If the patient lacks the capacity to give informed consent or make health care decisions, the person or persons who may consent on the patient's behalf depends on a variety of factors, including the following:

- Whether or not the patient has designated an agent under an advance health care directive [see Prob. Code § 4683 (authority of agent to make health care decisions)] or a health care surrogate [Prob. Code § 4711; see § 104.23; see also [j], below] to make health care decisions. Unless the power of attorney for health care provides otherwise, an agent designated in a power of attorney who is known to the health care provider to be reasonably available and willing to make health care decisions has priority over any other person, including a conservator, in making health care decisions for the principal [Prob. Code § 4685; see 2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 82 (Mar. 2000)]. However, nothing in the Health Care Decisions Law grants a health care surrogate decision-making priority equal to that of an agent under a power of attorney for health care; thus it appears that a health care surrogate does not have priority over a conservator in making health care decisions.

■ Whether or not the patient has a conservator of the person [see [h], below]. The fact that a conservator has been appointed does not automatically mean, in and of itself, that the patient lacks the capacity to make health care decisions [see Prob. Code §§ 813, 1881 (capacity for determining consent), 2354(a); see also § 104.123 (detailed checklist explaining when conservator may or may not consent to medical treatment for conservatee)]. However, a conservator of the person may consent on the patient's behalf, whether or not the patient actually consents, if the court determines under Prob. Code § 1880 et seq. that there is no form of medical treatment for which the conservatee has the capacity to give informed consent, or if a court order for the specific treatment has been obtained under Prob. Code § 2357 [Prob. Code § 2354(b)].

If there is no advance health care directive, health care surrogate, or conservator of the person, and the situation does not qualify as an emergency [see Prob. Code § 3210(b), discussed in [f], above], a determination of capacity and authorization for medical treatment under the procedure specified in Prob. Code §§ 3200-3212 may be required to authorize the treatment and designate a person who may legally consent [see Prob. Code § 3208(a) (power of court to issue order authorizing consent to treatment)]. Note that although there are statements in the case law to the effect that the patient's closest available relative has authority to consent to medical treatment on behalf of an incompetent [see, e.g., Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 243-244, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1 ("if the patient is a minor or incompetent, the authority to consent is transferred to the patient's legal guardian or closest available relative")], the current statutes governing health care consents nowhere expressly confer such authority on any person (including the patient's spouse, parent, children, or siblings) with respect to an adult in a non-emergency situation (except in the limited case of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities; in that case, the list of those having legal authority to make medical treatment decisions on behalf of an incapacitated patient expressly includes "next of kin" [see Health & Saf. Code § 1418.8(c)]). Arguments have been advanced that a general right to consent to medical treatment for an incapacitated patient is implied in favor of the patient's family or next of kin in various statutes [see Health & Saf. Code § 1418.8(c); Prob. Code § 4717(a)] or in the case law [see Cobbs v. Grant, cited above], or that a "community practice" to that effect exists, but there is a lack of direct, solid legal authority clearly establishing such a right [see AB 1990, 1999-2000 Legislative Session, Assembly Judiciary Committee Analysis (March 28, 2000), pp. 10-11 (this bill, which was not enacted, proposed the addition of a new Health & Saf. Code § 1261.1, which would have specifically given specified persons, including the patient's family members, legal authority to make medical treatment decisions on behalf of an incapacitated patient; as noted, however, it did not pass)].

Prob. Code § 4716(a) provides that when a patient lacks capacity to make a health care decision, the patient's registered domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 4716(b)(4); Fam. Code § 4609(b)(1)], if any, has the same authority that a spouse has to make a health care decision for his or her incapacitated spouse. However, this section also expressly provides that it not to be construed to expand or restrict the ability of a spouse to make a health care decision for an incapacitated spouse [Prob. Code § 4716(a)]; thus, this section neither affects a spouse's ability to consent to medical treatment, nor grants a domestic partner the right to consent when a similarly situated spouse would not have that right under the same circumstances [see discussion, above].

For additional a checklist of the persons who have authority to consent to medical treatment on behalf of another, and the circumstances under which they have that authority, see the checklist and discussion in § 104.123.

[h] Conservatorships in General

The fact that a patient has a conservator does not necessarily preclude the patient from giving valid consent to medical treatment. In fact, the opposite is true. Unless the conservatee has been adjudicated to lack the capacity to give informed consent to medical treatment [see below], the conservatee may consent to his or her own medical treatment and consent of the conservator is not required [Prob. Code § 2354(a); but see Prob. Code § 2354(b) (consent of conservator is sufficient, notwithstanding refusal of conservatee, if conservator obtains order under Prob. Code § 2357)].

Prob. Code § 1880 authorizes the court to make a general determination that the conservatee lacks the capacity to consent to any form of medical treatment. If the statutory criteria for such a determination are satisfied [see Prob. Code §§ 811, 1881], the court, following a hearing [see Prob. Code §§ 1892, 1895 (procedures for hearing and determination)], may issue an order to that effect and grant the conservator of the person the power to consent to medical treatment as specified in Prob. Code § 2355 [Prob. Code §§ 1880, 1896]. Prob. Code § 2355 requires that the conservatee make health care decisions for the conservator in accordance with the the conservatee's health care instructions and other wishes, to the extent known, and otherwise in accordance with the conservator's determination of the conservatee's best interest. Special rules apply to certain types of drugs and treatment, such as experimental drugs, convulsive treatment, and placement of persons suffering from dementia in a secured facility [see Prob. Code §§ 2356, 2356.5].

In addition, Prob. Code § 2357 provides a procedure by which a conservator may obtain a court order authorizing medical treatment for an existing or continuing medical condition if that treatment is not otherwise authorized by the applicable statutes, and permitting the conservator to consent to that medical treatment on behalf of the conservatee. A conservator who obtains an order under Prob. Code § 2357 may require the conservatee to receive medical treatment specifically authorized by that order, whether or not the conservatee consents to the treatment [Prob. Code § 2354(b)].

In the absence of authorization under Prob. Code § 1880 et seq. or Prob. Code § 2357 as described above, a conservator has the power to give consent to medical treatment for the conservatee, but only if the conservatee does not object to the treatment [Prob. Code § 2354(a)], or if an emergency exists as discussed in [f], above [Prob. Code § 2354(c)].

Note that if the conservatee has designated an agent under a power of attorney for health care, that agent, if known to the health care provider to be reasonably available and willing to make health care decisions, has priority over any other person in making health care decisions for the principal [Prob. Code § 4685]. The Law Revision Commission comments to Prob. Code § 4685 make it clear that this section was intended to give an agent priority over a conservator or a statutory surrogate [2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 82 (Mar. 2000)]. Based on the Law Revision Commission comment, it appears that this provision in Prob. Code § 4685 overrides language in Prob. Code § 2355 stating that if a conservatee has been adjudicated to lack capacity to make health care decisions, the conservator has "exclusive" authority to make health care decisions for the conservatee [Prob. Code § 2355(a)].

[i] Conservatorships Under Lanterman-Petris-Short Act

A conservator appointed pursuant to the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.] has the right, if specified in the appointment order, to require the conservatee to receive treatment related specifically to remedying or preventing the recurrence of the conservatee being gravely disabled, or to require the conservatee to receive routine medical treatment unrelated to remedying or preventing the recurrence of the conservatee being gravely disabled [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5358(b)]. Notwithstanding the prior issuance of such an order, the conservator must obtain a court order specifically authorizing any surgery on the conservatee except (1) in emergency cases in which the conservatee faces loss of life or serious bodily injury or (2) in cases in which the conservatee gives prior consent to the surgery [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5358(b)]. If the court order appointing the conservator does not specifically authorize the conservator to require the conservatee to receive medical treatment, the conservator must obtain a court order for that treatment except in emergency cases in which the conservatee faces loss of life or serious bodily injury [Welf. & Inst. Code § 5358.2].

[j] Agents Under Power of Attorney; Health Care Surrogates

If the patient is not competent, and has executed a power of attorney for health care [see § 104.230], the agent designated in the power of attorney may make health care decisions for the principal to the same extent that the principal could make health care decisions if the principal had the capacity to do so [Prob. Code § 4683]. The agent's authority becomes effective only on a determination that the principal lacks capacity, and ceases to be effective on a determination that the principal has recovered capacity [Prob. Code § 4682]. Unless the power of attorney specifies otherwise, the principal's primary physician is the one empowered to determine whether or not the patient has capacity for this purpose [Prob. Code § 4258]. The patient is presumed to have capacity to make a health care decision; this presumption is one affecting the burden of proof [Prob. Code § 4657].

If an agent has been designated under a power of attorney, and that agent is known to the health care provider to be reasonably available and willing to make health care decisions, that agent has priority over any other person in making health care decisions for the principal [Prob. Code § 4685], including a conservator [2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 82 (Mar. 2000); see [h], above].

An agent is required to make health care decisions in accordance with the principal's individual health care instructions, to the extent they are known to the agent. Otherwise, the agent must make health care decisions in accordance with the agent's determination of the principal's best interest, taking into account the principal's personal values to the extent known to the agent [Prob. Code § 4684]. The agent does not have the power to make a health care decision if the principal objects to that decision, apparently regardless of whether or not the principal has the capacity to make that decision himself or herself. If the principal objects, the matter is governed by the law that would apply if there were no power of attorney for health care, as discussed in this comment [Prob. Code § 4689]. Furthermore, the authority of an agent to make health care decisions does not extend to certain specified procedures, including commitment or treatment in a mental health facility, convulsive treatment, psychosurgery, sterilization, abortion [Prob. Code § 4652], or any health care contrary to generally accepted health care standards [Prob. Code § 4654; see also Prob. Code § 4653 (mercy killing or euthanasia prohibited)].

A patient may designate an adult as a health care surrogate by personally informing the supervising health care provider [Prob. Code § 4711(a)]. The designation may be made either orally or in writing [2000 Health Care Decisions Law and Revised Power of Attorney Law, 30 Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Reports at 101 (Mar. 2000)]. Unless the patient specifies a shorter period, a surrogate designation is effective only during the course of treatment or illness or during the stay in the health care institution when the surrogate designation is made, or for 60 days, whichever period is shorter [Prob. Code § 4711(b)]. The expiration of a surrogate designation does not affect any role the person designated under Prob. Code § 4711(a) may have in making health care decisions for the patient under any other law or standards of practice [Prob. Code § 4711(c)]. If the patient has designated an agent under a power of attorney for health care, the surrogate designated under Prob. Code § 4711(a) has priority over the agent for the period provided in Prob. Code § 4711(b), but the designation of a surrogate does not revoke the designation of an agent unless the patient communicates the intention to revoke in compliance with Prob. Code § 4695(a) [Prob. Code § 4711(d); see § 104.35[1]]. For additional discussion of health care surrogates, see § 104.38.

[k] Consent to HIV Testing

Informed consent is generally required for HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) testing done by a medical care advisor, unless a person independently requests the test [see Health & Safety Code § 120990(a), (b); see also Health & Safety Code § 120990(d), (e) (exceptions)]. An "HIV test" is any clinical test, laboratory or otherwise, used to identify HIV, a component of HIV, or antibodies or antigens to HIV [Health & Safety Code § 120775(c)].

Before ordering an HIV test, a medical care provider must inform the patient that the test is planned, provide information about the test, inform the patient regarding specified treatment options and further testing needed, and advise the patient that he or she has the right to decline the test [see Health & Safety Code § 120990(a)]. If a patient declines the test, the medical provider must note that fact in the patient's medical file [Health & Safety Code § 120990(a)].

If the patient is not competent to give consent, consent may in some circumstances be given by the person authorized to make health care decisions for the patient, such as a parent, guardian, or conservator [see Health & Safety Code § 121020(a)]. A child 12 years of age or older is considered to be competent for purposes of consenting to the HIV test [Fam. Code § 6926; Health & Safety Code § 121020(a)].

No person may administer an HIV test unless the person being tested (or his or her parent, guardian, conservator, or other person specified in Health & Safety Code § 121020), signs a written statement documenting the person's informed consent [Health & Safety Code § 120990(c)]. This requirement, however, does not apply to anonymous HIV testing performed at alternative sites established by the county, in accordance with Health & Safety Code §§ 120890 or 120895 [Health & Safety Code § 120990(c)].

The written consent requirement also does not apply to tests performed to detect HIV on a cadaver when an autopsy is performed or body parts are donated under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act (Health & Safety Code § 7150 et seq.) [Health & Safety Code § 120990(d)]. Written consent is not required when blood is tested as part of a scientific investigation conducted either by a medical researcher approved by an institutional review board or by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 120990(e)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 120990(e)(2) (tests results must remain anonymous)]. Tests may also be performed without written consent on blood donated for transfusions [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1603.1-1603.4] and on certain criminal defendants [Health & Safety Code §§ 121050-121070].

[I] Malpractice Actions

Malpractice actions against physicians for treating a patient without having obtained the proper informed consent may be based on one of two theories. If the physician acts without any consent, or the physician obtains consent for one treatment and subsequently performs a substantially different treatment for which no consent was obtained, an action may be based on a theory of assault and battery [Valdez v. Percy (1939) 35 Cal. App. 2d 485, 491, 96 P.2d 142 ; Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 239, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . On the other hand, when an undisclosed but known inherent risk results from a treatment, an action based on negligence is proper [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 240B241, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] . Additionally, when the physician guarantees or promises a particular result and the patient consents to the treatment in reliance on that guaranty or promise, an action may be brought on the theory of breach of contract [Depenbrok v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (1978) 79 Cal. App. 3d 167, 171, 144 Cal. Rptr. 724] .

Physicians are not liable for negligence or malpractice if proper consent of the patient has been obtained, and an action is maintained solely on the basis of an unfavorable result that is the natural or expected result of reasonable treatment rendered for the disease or condition [Civ. Code § 1714.8].

This form contains an optional clause for use when a specific operation is proposed and consented to, and the physician wants authority to perform additional operations and procedures that are considered necessary and advisable by the chief surgeon and his or her assistants at the time of surgery. The provision is not intended for, nor should it be used as, a blanket consent for the performance of additional surgery that the surgeons consider to be conveniently performable at the time of surgery. Such a broad use of this optional provision could lead to a charge of battery since the surgeons would then be performing an operation for which no informed consent has been obtained.

§ 104.221 Authorization for and Consent to Surgery or Special Diagnostic or Therapeutic Procedures

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form is typical of those used by hospitals to verify that a physician has obtained the patient's informed consent to surgery or some other complex procedure or treatment recommended by the physician for the patient. Because it is the physician's duty to obtain the informed consent, this verification form provides the hospital with a method for determining that the patient's informed consent for the indicated treatment or procedure has actually been obtained by the physician. In case of a later dispute on the matter, the form could be used as evidence that the patient gave this consent.

The form may be adapted for use by hospitals that teach interns and residents by adding a clause stating that the hospital is a teaching hospital and that interns and residents will be involved in the care of the patient. Modification may also be made in accordance with variations in the relationships between the hospital and anesthesiologists, pathologists, and radiologists, as independent contractors.

§ 104.222 Patient's Refusal of Treatment or Procedure

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a refusal by a patient to permit a hospital or physician, or both, to administer a proposed treatment or procedure. When a physician believes the proposed treatment or procedure is essential to treat a patient's illness, disease, or condition, such as the administering of a blood transfusion, the hospital or physician, or both, may want a written statement of the refusal for their records. However, because the patient has a right to refuse treatment [see [b], below], the hospital or physician may not coerce the patient to sign the statement.

[b] Right to Refuse Treatment

While a patient is in the hospital, the right to refuse treatment is provided for in the patient's rights that are prescribed by regulation and which state that the patient has the right to participate actively in decisions regarding his or her medical care and, to the extent permitted by law, this includes the right to refuse treatment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)(6); see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 71507 (acute care psychiatric hospitals); 104.206]. Moreover, the right to refuse treatment is an integral part of a person's right to exercise control over his or her own body and to determine whether or not to submit to medical treatment [Cobbs v. Grant (1972) 8 Cal. 3d 229, 242, 104 Cal. Rptr. 505, 502 P.2d 1] .

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.223

§ 104.223 Authorization for Release of Medical Information--CMA Form

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the California Medical Association form authorizing a physician to release medical records concerning a patient. It was prepared by the California Medical Association for use by physicians in private practice and is reproduced here by permission. It is accompanied by extensive instructions prepared by the CMA concerning the use of the form, which are not reproduced here. Copies of the form and the accompanying instructions may be ordered from CMA Publications, (415) 882-5175.

The form may be modified for hospital use. A patient in a general acute care hospital has the right to confidential treatment of all communications and records pertaining to his or her care and stay in the hospital, and the permission of the patient must be obtained before the medical records can be made available to anyone not directly concerned with the care of the patient [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70707(b)(8)].

This form also may be adapted for use in special situations, such as to authorize the release of information on alcohol abuse or drug abuse patients. For this situation, however, counsel should review the specific federal and state laws and regulations dealing with the confidentiality of the records of alcohol or drug abuse patients [see 42 C.F.R. § 2.1 et seq.; Welf. & Inst. Code § 5000 et seq.].

[b] Ownership of Records

The medical record of a patient is the property of the hospital. The hospital must safely preserve the record for a minimum of seven years following the discharge of the patient or, if the patient is an unemancipated minor, the record must be kept for at least one year after the minor becomes 18 years of age and, in any case, not less than seven years [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70751(b), (c) (applicable to general acute care hospitals)].

[c] Information in Records

State regulations set forth a list of information that must, at a minimum, be included in the medical records of a patient in a general acute care hospital. The required information must include, among other things, statistical information on the patient, a history and examination report, progress notes, information on medication administered to the patient, laboratory tests and X-ray examination reports, pathology reports, operative reports, and a discharge summary [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 70749].

[d] Release Pursuant to Confidentiality of Medical Information Act

This form is designed to meet the requirements of the Confidentiality of the Medical Information Act of 1981 [Civ. Code § 56 et seq.]. Statutory requirements regarding the necessity of obtaining authorizations for release of medical information are found in Civ. Code § 56.10, which also provides exceptions under which authorization is unnecessary. Certain entities and situations are exempt from the provisions of the Act [see Civ. Code § 56.10(b); see also § 104.113]. Additionally, Civ. Code § 56.10(c)(11) provides that medical information may be disclosed without authorization by a health care provider or a health care services plan to an insurance institution, agent, or support organization, subject to the provisions of the Insurance Information and Privacy Protection Act [Ins. Code § 791 et seq.], which provides standards and regulations for the collection, use, and disclosure of information gathered in connection with insurance transactions by insurance institutions, agents, or support organizations. Medical information may only be disclosed pursuant to this part if the particular insurance institution, agent, or support organization has complied with all the requirements for obtaining information under the Insurance Information and Privacy Protection Act.

Whenever a demand for settlement or offer to compromise is made on behalf of a patient before service of the complaint on the defendant in a professional negligence suit against a physician or surgeon, the demand must be accompanied by an authorization to disclose medical information to the persons or organizations insuring, responsible for, or defending the professional liability of the physician or surgeon [see Civ. Code § 56.105].

If the authorization is for the purpose of processing an application for health insurance, or enrollment in a nonprofit hospital or health care service plan, and the processing of related claims, the authorization may be signed by the patient's spouse or by the parent, conservator or guardian of a patient who is a minor, or by an enrolled dependent. The authorization may be signed by a parent, conservator, or guardian for the purpose of making a claim for benefits or damages if the claimant is a minor, or for the purpose of underwriting a life insurance policy if the person to be insured is a minor. The minor may sign the authorization for himself or herself if the minor is legally competent to consent to the provision of medical services [Civ. Code § 56.11(c); see Fam. Code § 6900 et seq.].

For forms and discussion relating to a minor's consent to medical treatment, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

[e] Release to Attorney

Before filing an action or the appearance of the defendant in an action, an attorney may present a written authorization signed by the patient to inspect and copy the medical records of the patient. The request must be honored within five days of the presentation, during business hours [Evid. Code § 1158]. The patient's records must also be made available for inspection and copying by the attorney's agent or representative, on presentation of the patient's authorization by the agent or representative [Evid. Code § 1158].

If a request for records is made to an entity expressly covered by the first paragraph of Evid. Code § 1158 (such as a hospital), then an agent or contractor of that entity may be held liable for a violation of the statute if the agent or contractor (1) has assumed the duty of responding to Evid. Code § 1158 requests and (2) is acting for its own advantage and benefit as well the interests of the entity expressly covered by the statute [Thornburg v. Superior Court (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 43, 53, 41 Cal. Rptr. 3d 156 (contractor assumed hospital's duty to meet statutory obligations when contractor agreed to provide copies of records pursuant to any request received and forwarded by hospital; contractor acted for its own advantage because contractor was free to impose any fee to person requesting records, hospital was bound to forward any fee it received, and contractor would hold hospital harmless; therefore, contractor could be liable for charging fees exceeding maximum amounts permitted by statute)].

[f] Subpoenaed Records

If the medical records of a patient are subpoenaed, the permissible method of compliance depends on the language of the subpoena. For a subpoena duces tecum, a copy of the records may suffice [see Evid. Code §§ 1560-1562]. Even though the records or a copy of the records must be delivered to the court when subpoenaed, the physician-patient privilege [see Evid. Code § 990 et seq.] may possibly be assertable. Therefore, the physician should notify the patient that his or her records have been subpoenaed, unless the patient is a party to the action.

[g] Release to Others

If no special statutory provisions govern the disclosure of information in the patient's medical record, the usual criteria for determining whether the physician must obtain the authorization of the patient for release of that information, are (1) whether the information pertains to the care and stay of the patient in the hospital, as opposed to general statistics such as the patient's name and address; and (2) whether the person to whom the information will be released is directly concerned with the care of the patient. Moreover, while the records pertain to the patient, they belong to the hospital and, thus, the hospital has some amount of discretion when a patient wants to see his or her records. In this situation, it may be advisable for the hospital to consult with the patient's physician, depending on the nature of the information that the patient wants to inspect.

[h] Privacy Acts

If a federal hospital is involved, counsel should review the federal Right of Privacy Act of 1974 [see 5 U.S.C. §§ 551, 552]. When a state agency may be involved, see the Information Practices Act of 1977 [Civ. Code § 1798 et seq. (definition of "state agency")].

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.230

§ 104.230 Advance Health Care Directive (Durable Power of Attorney)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an advance health care directive. This advance health care directive may be used to authorize an agent to make decisions regarding the principal's health care, personal care, anatomical gifts, funerals, autopsies, and related matters. It includes a power of attorney for health care (formerly referred to as a "durable power of attorney for health care" [see [c], below]). For illustrative purposes, all available provisions have been included in this form; however, they need not all be included when actually drafting an advance directive using this form.

This form is based on the statutory Advance Health Care Directive form [Prob. Code § 4701], and contains provisions authorizing the attorney in fact to make health care decisions for the principal, specifying the principal's desires regarding life-prolonging treatment, to make personal care decisions for the principal, and either nominating or authorizing the attorney in fact to nominate a conservator of the principal's person. The statutory form may be used, but its use is not mandatory. An individual may modify all or any part of the statutory form, or use a completely different form [Prob. Code §§ 4700, 4701]. Other organizations, including the California Health Care Association, have prepared their own printed forms. The provisions of the Health Care Decisions Law govern the effect of the form as well as any other writing used to create an advance health care directive [Prob. Code § 4700].

An advance health care directive must be used if the principal wishes to authorize his or her agent to make health care decisions on his or her behalf. Authorizations relating to health care cannot be made in a durable power for property management [see Prob. Code §§ 4605, 4665].

When drafting an advance health care directive, counsel should familiarize himself or herself with the two types of directives [see [c], below], and the various statutory provisions relating to advance health care directives, particularly those relating to acknowledgment and witnesses [see [f], below].

[b] Contents

A written advance health care directive is legally sufficient if all of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 4673(a); see Prob. Code § 4680 (power of attorney is legally sufficient if it satisfies same requirements)]:

- The advance directive contains the date of its execution.
- The advance directive is signed either (1) by the patient or (2) in the patient's name by another adult in the patient's presence and at the patient's direction.
- The advance directive is either acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two witnesses who satisfy specified statutory requirements [see [f], below].

An electronic advance health care directive or a power of attorney for health care is legally sufficient if the requirements of Prob. Code § 4673(a) are satisfied, the directive is acknowledged before a notary public, and any digital signatures used meet specified requirements [see Prob. Code § 4673(b); for discussion of requirements for digital signatures, see § 104.31].

[c] Health Care Instruction Distinguished From Power of Attorney

An advance health care directive (or advance directive) may be either an individual health care instruction or a power of attorney for health care [Prob. Code § 4605].

An individual health care instruction (or individual instruction) means a patient's written or oral direction concerning a health care decision for the patient [Prob. Code § 4623]. An adult having capacity may give an individual instruction, and the instruction may be limited to take effect only if a specified condition arises [Prob. Code § 4670].

In contrast, a power of attorney for health care is a written instrument designating an agent to make health care decisions for the patient [Prob. Code § 4629]. An adult having capacity may execute a power of attorney, which may also include individual health care instructions [Prob. Code § 4671(a)]. The principal may grant authority to the agent to make decisions relating to the personal care of the principal, including, but not limited to, determining where the principal will live, providing meals, hiring household employees, providing transportation, handling mail, and arranging recreation and entertainment [Prob. Code § 4671(b)].

Prior to July 1, 2000, durable powers of attorney for health care, like other durable powers of attorney, were governed by the general provisions of the Power of Attorney Law [Prob. Code § 4100 et seq.], augmented by special provisions applicable specifically to durable powers of attorney for health care [former Prob. Code § 4600 et seq. (repealed effective July 1, 2000)]. Effective July 1, 2000, however, durable powers of attorney are no longer governed by the Power of Attorney Law [see Prob. Code § 4050(a)(1)]. Instead, they are governed by the Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.; see Prob. Code § 4680]. The Health Care Decisions law generally abandons the term "durable power of attorney for health care" (except with reference to powers executed under prior law [see, e.g., Prob. Code § 4665(a), (e)]), and instead substitutes the simpler term "power of attorney for health care" [see Prob. Code §§ 4629, 4680-4690]. Powers of attorney for health care are now treated as a species of "advance health care directive" as noted above [Prob. Code § 4605].

[d] Limiting Agent's Authority

Unless the advance health care directive limits the authority of the agent, the agent may make all health care decisions for the patient/principal [Prob. Code § 4701]. This form includes a place to limit the agent's authority. If the principal wishes to rely on the agent for all health care decisions, the principal need not limit the agent's authority. If no limitations are stated, the agent has the right to take all of the following actions [Prob. Code § 4701]:

- Consent or refuse consent to any care, treatment, service, or procedure to maintain, diagnose, or otherwise affect a physical or mental condition.
- Select or discharge health care providers and institutions.
- Approve or disapprove diagnostic tests, surgical procedures, and programs of medication.
- Direct the provision, withholding, or withdrawal of artificial nutrition and hydration and all other forms of health care, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation.
- Make anatomical gifts, authorize an autopsy, and direct disposition of remains.

Further, unless otherwise specified in the directive, the agent has the same rights as the patient to request, receive, examine, copy, and consent to the disclosure of medical or any other health care information [Prob. Code § 4678].

If the agent has authority to select or discharge health care providers and institutions, that implicitly includes the power to execute contracts of admission when having the principal admitted to a long-term health care facility. Unless the principal elects to restrict the powers of the agent so as to exclude any power to enter into arbitration agreements, the agent has the power to execute arbitration agreements when presented by the long-term health care facility as part of the package of admission documents [Hogan v. Country Villa Health Servs. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 259, 262, 264, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 450] . On the other hand, when there is no advance health care directive, then there is no such implicit authority from which could arise a power to execute arbitration agreements; and in such a case, a mere family relationship (as between husband and wife, for example) is not alone sufficient to confer authority to agree to an arbitration provision in a nursing-home admission contract [Flores v. Evergreen at San Diego, LLC (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 581, 586-587, 55 Cal. Rptr. 3d 823] .

[e] Limiting Authority to Institute Judicial Proceedings

In general, an advance health care directive may expressly eliminate the authority of a person otherwise entitled to petition the court for any one or more of the purposes enumerated in the statute, if both of the following requirements are satisfied [Prob. Code § 4753(a); see Prob. Code §§ 4765, 4766]:

- The advance directive is executed by an individual having the advice of a lawyer authorized to practice law in the state where the advance directive is executed.
- The individual's lawyer signs a certificate stating the substance of the required statutory language.

An advance health care directive may not limit the authority of a conservator of the person, with respect to a petition relating to an advance directive, to determine whether the directive is in effect or seeking a declaration that the agent's or surrogate's authority is terminated [Prob. Code § 4753(b); see Prob. Code § 4766(b), (d)]. Further, a directive may not limit an agent's authority to file a petition relating to a power of attorney for health care to determine whether the directive is in effect or whether acts are consistent with the directive [Prob. Code § 4753(b); see Prob. Code § 4766(b), (c) (if patient's wishes are unknown or unclear, court may declare whether actions are in patient's best interest)].

This form includes a lawyer's certificate that complies with the foregoing requirement and the form may be adapted to limit the agent's authority as permitted by statute [see [2], below]. For further discussion of judicial proceedings regarding advance health care directives, see § 104.36.

[f] Acknowledgment and Witness Requirements

An advance directive must either be acknowledged before a notary public or signed by at least two witnesses [Prob. Code § 4673(a)(3)]. When an advance directive is acknowledged before a notary public, the witness requirements discussed below do not apply [Prob. Code § 4674(g)], except that a patient advocate or ombudsman must sign the advance directive if the individual is a patient in a skilled nursing facility when the advance directive is executed [Prob. Code § 4675(a)].

When an advance directive is signed by witnesses, the witnesses must be adults. Each witness signing the advance directive must witness either (1) the signing of the advance directive by the patient or (2) the patient's acknowledgment of the signature or the advance directive [Prob. Code § 4674(a), (b)]. At least one of the witnesses must be an individual who is neither related to the patient by blood, marriage, or adoption nor entitled to any portion of the patient's estate on the patient's death under a will existing when the advance directive is executed or by operation of law then existing [Prob. Code § 4674(e)].

None of the following persons may act as a witness [Prob. Code § 4674(c)]:

- The patient's health care provider or an employee of the patient's health care provider.
- The operator or an employee of a community care facility.
- The operator or an employee of a residential care facility for the elderly.
- The agent, if the advance directive is a power of attorney for health care.

Each witness must make a declaration, the substance of which is provided for by statute [Prob. Code § 4674(d); see [2], below]. Witnesses satisfying the non-relative, non-heir requirement must sign an additional declaration [Prob. Code § 4674(f); see [2], below]. Further, if an individual is a patient in a skilled nursing facility when a written advance directive is executed, the advance directive is not effective unless a designated patient advocate or ombudsman signs the advance directive as a witness, either as one of two witnesses or in addition to notarization [Prob. Code § 4675(a); see [2], below]. The patient advocate or ombudsman witnessing an advance directive is entitled to rely on the representations of the administrators or staff of the facility, or of family members, as convincing evidence of the identity of the patient, provided that the patient advocate or ombudsman believes that the representations provide a reasonable basis for determining the identity of the patient [Prob. Code § 4675(b)].

[g] Format Requirements

If a general acute care hospital [Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)] provides a patient with instructions and forms for advance health care directives, those materials must be printed in at least a 12-point font that is clear and legible [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(a), (b)(4)].

Part 2

INSTRUCTIONS FOR HEALTH CARE

[EITHER, if principal wants to preclude use of life-sustaining procedures if continued health care will not improve prognosis for recovery:]

2.1. STATEMENT OF DESIRES CONCERNING LIFE-PROLONGING TREATMENT, SERVICES, AND PROCEDURES. END-OF-LIFE DECISIONS. Modern medical technology has made possible the artificial prolongation of my life beyond natural limits. I do not wish to artificially prolong the process of my dying if continued health care will not improve my prognosis for recovery. Therefore, I do not want efforts made to prolong my life and I do not want life-sustaining treatment to be provided or continued (1) if I am in an irreversible coma or persistent vegetative state; or (2) if I am terminally ill and the use of life-sustaining procedures would serve only to artificially delay the moment of my death; or (3) under any other circumstances in which the burdens of treatment outweigh the expected benefits. By an "irreversible coma," I mean a coma from which the treating physicians have reasonably concluded I will never regain consciousness. In making decisions about life-sustaining treatment under provision (3), above, I want my agent to consider the relief of suffering and quality of remaining life as well as the extent of the possible prolongation of my life. At the same time that I am signing this advance health care directive, I am entering my initials in the space immediately below this provision to show that I have read this provision and that it reflects my desires.

_____ Initials

[OR, if principal wants to receive medical treatment unless he or she is in an irreversible coma:]

2.1. STATEMENT OF DESIRES CONCERNING LIFE-PROLONGING TREATMENT, SERVICES, AND PROCEDURES. END-OF-LIFE DECISIONS. I want to receive medical treatment that prolongs and sustains my life unless I am in an irreversible coma. By an "irreversible coma," I mean a coma from which the treating physician or physicians have reasonably concluded I will never regain consciousness. If I am in such an irreversible coma, I do not want to receive medical treatment that prolongs and sustains my life. At the same time that I am signing this durable power of attorney for health care advance health care directive, I am entering my initials in the space immediately below this provision to show that I have read this provision and that it reflects my desires.

_____ Initials

[OR, if principal wants to preclude use of life-sustaining procedures if in a terminal condition:]

2.1. STATEMENT OF DESIRES CONCERNING LIFE-PROLONGING TREATMENT, SERVICES, AND PROCEDURES. END-OF-LIFE DECISIONS. If I am in a terminal condition, I do not want any life-sustaining procedures to be used to prolong my life. For purposes of this document, (1) "terminal condition" shall mean an incurable and irreversible condition caused by injury, disease or illness, which, regardless of the application of life-sustaining procedures, would, within reasonable medical judgment, produce death and for which the application of life-sustaining procedures serves only to postpone the moment of my death, and (2) "life-sustaining procedures" shall mean any medical procedure or intervention that utilizes mechanical or other artificial means to sustain, restore, or supplant a vital function which will serve only to artificially prolong the moment of my death. The term "life-sustaining procedures" shall not include the administration of medication or the performance of any medical procedure deemed necessary to alleviate pain. At the same time that I am signing this durable power of attorney for health care advance health care directive, I am entering my initials in the space immediately below this provision to show that I have read this provision and that it reflects my desires.

_____ Initials

[OR, if principal wants to receive medical treatment that will allow him or her to live as long as possible:]

2.1. STATEMENT OF DESIRES CONCERNING LIFE-PROLONGING TREATMENT, SERVICES, AND PROCEDURES. END-OF-LIFE DECISIONS. I want to live as long as possible; therefore, I want to receive all medical treatment that will prolong and sustain my life within the limits of generally accepted health care standards. I want such treatment provided to me regardless of my chances of recovery, my condition, or the cost of such treatment. At the same time that I am signing this durable power of attorney for health care advance health care directive, I am entering my initials in the space immediately below this provision to show that I have read this provision and that it reflects my desires. _____ Initials

[OR, if principal does not wish to include one of the foregoing provisions:]

2.1. STATEMENT OF DESIRES CONCERNING LIFE-PROLONGING TREATMENT, SERVICES, AND PROCEDURES. END-OF-LIFE DECISIONS. None.

[Continue with the following:]

2.2. RELIEF FROM PAIN. I direct that treatment for alleviation of pain or discomfort be provided at all times, even if it hastens my death.

[EITHER]

2.3. ADDITIONAL STATEMENT OF DESIRES, SPECIAL PROVISIONS, AND LIMITATIONS. OTHER WISHES. _____*[Set forth additional statement or add: None].*

[OR, if principal wants palliative care while in a persistently vegetative state:]

2.3. ADDITIONAL STATEMENT OF DESIRES, SPECIAL PROVISIONS, AND LIMITATIONS. OTHER WISHES. If I ever fall into a persistently vegetative state, you are directed to reduce my misery as painlessly as possible.

[OR, if principal wants no extraordinary medical care on becoming senile:]

2.3. ADDITIONAL STATEMENT OF DESIRES, SPECIAL PROVISIONS, AND LIMITATIONS. OTHER WISHES. If I become senile, you are directed to let me die naturally and without any extraordinary medical treatment.

[OR, if principal wants to preclude use of artificial life-support system:]

2.3. ADDITIONAL STATEMENT OF DESIRES, SPECIAL PROVISIONS, AND LIMITATIONS. OTHER WISHES. I do not want to be attached to or treated by any artificial life-support system.

[OR, if principal wants no medical treatment or procedures after entering condition rendering principal unable to make medical decisions, leaving principal unable to communicate, and from which there is no reasonable prospect of recovery:]

2.3. ADDITIONAL STATEMENT OF DESIRES, SPECIAL PROVISIONS, AND LIMITATIONS. OTHER WISHES.

In the event I suffer from an injury, disease, illness or other physical or mental condition which renders me unable to make medical decisions on my own behalf, which leaves me unable to communicate with others meaningfully, and from which there is no reasonable prospect of recovery to a cognitive and sentient life, I direct that no medical treatments or procedures (except as otherwise authorized in this instrument) can be utilized in my care or, if begun, that they be discontinued.

Part 3INSTRUCTIONS FOR PERSONAL CARE

3.1. INDEPENDENT LIVING. I wish to live in my home for as long as that is reasonably possible without endangering my physical or mental health and safety and to receive whatever assistance from household employees or personal care givers may be necessary to permit me to do so. I wish to return home as soon as reasonably possible after any hospitalization or transfer to convalescent care. If my agent determines that I am no longer able to live in my home, I wish that my agent consider alternatives to convalescent care which will permit me as much privacy and autonomy as possible, including such options as placing me in an assisted living facility or board and care facility.

3.2. SOCIAL INTERACTION. I wish to be encouraged to maintain my social relationships and to engage in social interaction even if I am no longer able to recognize my family and friends or to fully participate in social activities.

I wish to maintain that involvement as long as possible, even if I no longer fully appreciate its significance. To that end, and in accordance with my established beliefs and customary activities, my agent shall provide for the presence and involvement of church persons, clergy or other persons to attend to my spiritual needs and permit them access to me and shall arrange for my access to activities and publications, including books, tapes, and similar materials, associated with my spiritual involvement.

[Optional:]

_____. OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES. I wish to spend significant time outdoors. If I can no longer travel, I wish my agent to arrange for trips to local parks and other areas where I may be outdoors in a natural setting.

[If agent is authorized to make any anatomical gifts, add:]

Part 4DONATION OF ORGANS AT DEATH

[EITHER]

4.1. PURPOSES FOR WHICH ORGANS MAY BE DONATED. ORGAN DONATION. Upon my death, my agent may donate any needed organs, tissues, or parts.

4.1. ORGANS WHICH MAY BE DONATED. ORGAN DONATION. Upon my death my agent may donate only the following organ organs, tissues, or parts: _____.

[OR]

4.1. ORGANS DONATED FOR SPECIFIED PURPOSE(S). Upon my death my agent may donate any needed organs, tissues, or parts, but only for the following purposes: [specify, e.g., transplant or therapy or research or education]. My agent shall not donate any organs, tissues, or parts for the following purposes: [specify, e.g., transplant or therapy or research or education].

[To limit the purposes for which the anatomical gifts can be made, add:]

4.2. PURPOSES. This gift shall be for the following purposes only: [specify, e.g., transplant or therapy or research or education].

[If the principal wishes to designate a primary physician and/or alternate primary physician, add:]

Part 5

5.1. DESIGNATION OF PRIMARY PHYSICIAN. I designate the following physician as my primary physician:

_____ [name of physician]
 _____ [street address]
 _____ [city, state, zip code]

 PART IV. FORMS
 C. Advance Health Care Directives and Related Forms

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.231

§ 104.231 Statutory Explanation Regarding Advance Health Care Directive

[1] Comment--Use of Form

This form may be used to advise a principal of the consequences of executing an advance health care directive. It is based on the text of the explanation included in the statutory advance health care directive under Prob. Code § 4701 [see § 104.230[2]]. This form can be used to establish that the principal has been properly advised before executing the advance health care directive. This form should be read and initialed by the principal at the same time that he or she executes the advance health care directive.

When a principal wishes to limit the authority of the agent regarding health care matters, the principal must state that he or she has been advised as to the consequences of the directive by counsel in the directive [see § 104.230[2], P 6.4; see also § 104.230[2], PP 1.3-1.8]. In addition counsel must certify that he or she has advised the client on these matters [see § 104.230[2]].

If a general acute care hospital [Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)] provides a patient with instructions and forms for advance health care directives, those materials must printed in at least a 12-point font that is clear and legible [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(a), (b)(4)]. However, the hospital may continue to use its supply of materials that exists on January 1, 2003, until that supply is exhausted or until January 1, 2006, whichever occurs first. Effective January 1, 2006, the hospital must comply with the statutory requirements [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(c)].

[2] FORM

Statutory Explanation Regarding Advance Health Care Directive

Statutory Explanation Regarding Advance Health Care Directive

You have the right to give instructions about your own health care. You also have the right to name someone else to make health care decisions for you. This form lets you do either or both of these things. It also lets you express your wishes regarding your personal care, donation of organs, and the designation of your primary physician, should you wish to do so. If you use this form, you may modify all or any part of it. You are free to use a different form.

Part 1 of this form is a power of attorney for health care. Part 1 lets you name another individual as agent to make health care decisions for you if you become incapable of making your own decisions or if you want someone else to make those decisions for you now even though you are still capable. You may also name an alternate agent to act for you if your first choice is not willing, able, or reasonably available to make decisions for you. (Your agent may not be an operator or employee of a community care facility or a residential care facility at which you are receiving care, or your supervising health care provider or employee of the health care institution at which you are receiving care, unless your agent is related to you or is a coworker).

Unless the form you sign limits the authority of your agent, your agent may make all health care decisions for you and all decisions regarding your personal care. This form has a place for you to limit the authority of your agent. You do not need to limit the authority of your agent if you wish to rely on your agent for all health care decisions and personal care decisions that may have to be made. If you choose not to limit the authority of your agent, your agent will have the right to:

- Consent or refuse consent to any care, treatment, service, or procedure to maintain, diagnose, or otherwise affect a physical or mental condition.
- Select or discharge health care providers and institutions.
- Approve or disapprove diagnostic tests, surgical procedures, and programs of medication.
- Direct the provision, withholding, or withdrawal of artificial nutrition and hydration and all other forms of health care, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation.
- Make anatomical gifts, authorize an autopsy, and direct disposition of remains.
- Make personal care decisions, including determining where you will live, providing meals, hiring household employees, providing transportation, handling mail, and arranging recreation and entertainment for you.

Part 2 of this form lets you give specific instructions about any aspect of your health care, including the provision, withholding, or withdrawal of treatment to keep you alive, as well as the provision of pain relief. § 104.232 Registration Form for Written Advance Health Care Directive--Secretary of State's Official Form [Form LP/SF 461]

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is the Secretary of State's official registration form [Form LP/SF 461] for use to register a written advance health care directive with the advance health care directive registry established by the Secretary of State. The form may be used to initially register an advance health care directive, or to amend or revoke an advance health care directive that was previously registered.

PRACTICE TIP

ELECTRONIC FORMS NOTE: Electronic copies of this form that may be filled in and printed out for filing can be obtained at the official website of the California Secretary of State, Business Programs Division, which is located at <http://www.ss.ca.gov/business/business.htm>.

Use of the form is not mandatory, and the failure to register with the Secretary of State does not affect the validity of any advance health care directive [Prob. Code § 4803]. Further, the fact of registration does not raise any presumption of validity or superiority among any competing advance directives or revocations [Prob. Code § 4804; see [b], below]. For this reason, and because many attorneys may simply be unaware of its existence, the registration procedure has not been widely used. Nevertheless, attorneys should be aware of the procedure, and this form, so that they will be able to make a decision about whether or not registration is necessary or appropriate in a particular situation.

The Secretary of State is authorized to charge a fee for registering advance health care directives [Prob. Code § 4800(c)], but as of the date of publication of these materials, has not done so; registration is free at this time.

[b] Registry System

The Secretary of State is directed by statute to establish a registry system through which a principal may register, in a central information center, information regarding the advance directive, making that information available on request to any health care provider, the public guardian, or the legal representative of the registrant [Prob. Code § 4800(a)]. Information that may be received by the registry is limited to the registrant's name; social security number, driver's license number, or other individual identifying number; address; date and place of birth; the registrant's advance health care directive; the intended place of deposit or safekeeping of the written advance health care directive; and the name and telephone number of the agent and any alternative agent [Prob. Code § 4800(c)]. Information that may be released on request may not include the registrant's social security number, except when necessary to verify the identity of the registrant [Prob. Code § 4800(c)].

On receipt of the registrant's information, the Secretary of State must issue to the registrant an identification card indicating that an advance health care directive, or information regarding a directive, has been deposited with the registry [Prob. Code § 4800(d)].

The official form operates as notice to the registrant that a health care provider may not honor an advance health care directive until the provider receives a copy from the registrant [see Prob. Code § 4802(a)].

Once an advance directive is registered, the registrant or the registrant's legal representative may request that the Secretary of State transmit the information received to the registry system of another jurisdiction as identified by the registrant [Prob. Code § 4800(e)].

Hospitals are required, within 24 hours after a patient who is unconscious or otherwise incapable of communicating arrives in the emergency room, to make reasonable efforts to contact the patient's agent, surrogate, or family member, or another person the hospital reasonably believes has the authority to make health care decisions on behalf of the patient [Prob. Code § 4717(a)]. The hospital will be deemed to have discharged this duty if, among other things, it contacts the Secretary of State, directly or indirectly, including by voice mail or fax, to inquire whether the patient has registered an advance health care directive with the Advance Health Care Directive Registry, if the hospital has evidence of the patient's registry identification card from the patient, the patient's family, or an authorized agent [see Prob. Code § 4717(a)(3); see also § 104.220[1][f]].

Nothing in the registry statutes may be construed to affect the duty of a health care provider to provide information to a patient regarding advance health care directives pursuant to any provision of federal law [Prob. Code § 4805].

[c] Amendment and Revocation

This form also may be used to amend or revoke a written advance health care directive. The entire form must be completed if the amendment is before the initial registration [see [2], below].

Registration does not affect the ability of the registrant to revoke the registrant's advance health care directive or a later executed advance directive, nor does registration raise any presumption of validity or superiority among any competing advance directives or revocations [Prob. Code § 4804]. Once an advance health care directive is registered, the registrant must notify the registry if the advance directive is revoked [see Prob. Code § 4802(b)]; for revocation purposes, the registrant must complete items 3 through 7 [see [2], below]. Revocation of advance health care directives is discussed further in § 104.35.

A registrant must reregister whenever the registrant executes a subsequent advance directive [see Prob. Code § 4802(c)].

33-104 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 104.233

§ 104.233 Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form, Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment (POLST), is approved by the Emergency Medical Services Authority [see Prob. Code § 4780(a)(2)(B)]. The form is a request regarding resuscitative measures that directs a health care provider regarding resuscitative and life-sustaining measures [see Prob. Code § 4780(a)(3)].

This statutory form may be used, but is not mandatory [see Prob. Code § 4783(b)]. A printed form substantially similar to this form is valid and enforceable if all of the following conditions are met [Prob. Code § 4783(b)]:

- The form is signed by the individual, or the individual's legally recognized surrogate health care decisionmaker, and a physician.
- The form directs health care providers to forgo resuscitative treatment.
- The form contains all other information required by Prob. Code § 4783.

The statutory form is available on the website of California Coalition for Compassionate Care, the organization charged with implementing the POLST, at <http://www.emsa.ca.gov/pubs/pdf/ApprovedPOLSTForm.pdf>. This website also includes answers to frequently asked questions, and a POLST Guide for Health Care Professionals [see www.finalchoices.org].

[b] Contents

The POLST form addresses a range of treatment options and enables an individual to express his or her treatment preferences regarding life-sustaining treatments such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation, medical intervention, including pain management, and artificially administered nutrition [see § 104.233[2]].

[c] Advanced Health Care Directive Distinguished

A request regarding resuscitative measures is not an advance health care directive [Prob. Code § 4780(a)(1)]. An "advance health care directive" or "advance directive" means either (1) an individual health care instruction (a patient's written or oral directive concerning a health care decision for the patient) or (2) a power of attorney for health care (a written instrument designating an agent to make health care decisions for the principal) [Prob. Code § 4605; see Prob. Code §§ 4623, 4629; §§ 104.30[4], 104.230[1]].

The California Coalition for Compassionate Care recommends that an individual have a POLST, as well as an Advance Healthcare Directive or Advance Directive (AHCD)

[http://www.finalchoices.org/C4_textfiles/POLST_brochure_Final.pdf]. The POLST form complements the Advance Directive; it is not intended to replace that document [http://www.finalchoices.org/polst_faq.htm#replace%20ad]. The California Coalition for Compassionate Care explains the differences [http://www.finalchoices.org/C4_textfiles/POLST_brochure_Final.pdf]:

The POLST form reinforces the wishes that you express in your AHCD. The POLST form presents those wishes in an easy-to-understand way. The AHCD is written instructions stating how you want future medical decisions made, in the event that you become unable to make or to communicate those decisions for yourself. The AHCD states who you want to make healthcare decisions for you if you are unable to make them for yourself.

[d] Completion and Execution of Form

A health care provider must explain the POLST form and the medical intervention and procedures offered by the form, and must complete the form based on patient preferences and medical indications [Prob. Code § 4780(c); see Prob. Code § 4621 ("health care provider" defined)]. The form must be signed by a physician and the patient or his or her legally recognized health care decisionmaker [Prob. Code § 4780(c)]. During the process of completing the form, health care provider should inform the patient about the difference between an advance health care directive and the POLST [Prob. Code § 4780(c); see Prob. Code § 4605 ("advance health care directive" defined); § 104.233[1][c]].

A legally recognized health care decisionmaker may execute a POLST form only if the individual lacks capacity, or the individual has designated that the decisionmaker's authority is effective, in accordance with Prob. Code § 4682 [Prob. Code § 4780(b)]. A legally recognized health care decisionmaker must make health care decisions in accordance with the individual's health care instructions, to the extent they are known to the decisionmaker, or with the individual's best interest in mind, taking into account the individual's personal values, if known [Prob. Code § 4781.5; see Prob. Code §§ 4684, 4714 (duties of decisionmaker or surrogate)].

[e] Modification and Revocation of Form

The legally recognized health care decisionmaker of an individual without capacity must consult with the individual's treating physician before making a request to modify that individual's POLST form [Prob. Code § 4781.2(d)]. An individual with capacity may at any time request alternative treatment to that treatment ordered on the form [Prob. Code § 4781.2(e)].

An individual having capacity may revoke a POLST form at any time and in any manner that communicates an intent to revoke [Prob. Code § 4780(d); see Prob. Code § 4695 (revocation); § 104.35].

For discussion of the health care providers obligations relating to a POLST form, see § 104.39.

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter deals with long-term care facilities for the elderly. It is designed to aid attorneys in counseling clients who contemplate placing an elderly family member in a long-term care facility. It discusses the different types of facilities and emphasizes coverage of nursing homes. Admission, discharge, and transfer procedures are covered.

This chapter also includes a discussion of life care contracts between elderly persons and long-term care facilities. It analyzes the rights and responsibilities of patients in long-term care facilities and the avenues available to those patients for pursuing grievances. It provides an overview of the payment options and various forms of financial assistance available to patients in long-term care facilities. It also identifies the social agencies that family members may wish to contact when exploring long-term care options for family members.

The Transaction Guide is designed to aid attorneys in explaining the process of placing individuals in long-term care facilities and ensuring that all rights afforded by law are extended to those individuals. This chapter includes admission forms for long-term care facilities and related forms such as life care contracts and payment provisions for long-term care.

This chapter does not provide information on how to obtain licensing for long-term care facilities. It does not cover the health care aspects of long-term care, such as staffing, dietary requirements, and available medical facilities. It does not deal with long-term care facilities that provide specialized care, such as homes for the mentally disordered or incompetent, "locked facilities," or facilities for persons with specific diseases.

For discussion and forms relating to services provided in general acute care hospitals, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives. For medical consent forms and a discussion relating to medical treatment of minors, see Ch. 100A, Personal Affairs of Minors.

§ 105.10 Placement of the Elderly in Long-Term Care Facilities

As a general rule, the placement of an elderly person in a long-term care facility does not require any legal process. It is normally accomplished by family members or other persons responsible for the person to be placed. These people are usually assisted by the elderly person's attending physician (who is in the position to know best what level of medical care the elderly person requires) and by county social service agencies established under the Department of Health and Human Services. In addition, it is very important that the person to be placed in the facility participate to the fullest possible extent in all decisions bearing on his or her care.

However, an attorney's assistance may be valuable to clients in need of advice on this subject. An informed attorney can provide valuable advice regarding the client's options for paying the costs of long-term care, and can review long-term care contracts and advise clients on the legal aspects of admissions, transfers, and discharges.

An attorney's advice can be very important to the family of a long-term care facility resident who wishes to pursue a complaint against, or is wrongfully discharged from, the facility.

Attorneys are frequently consulted by relatives of elderly persons to establish conservatorships for those persons as a preparatory step toward placing them in long-term care facilities. For an analysis of conservatorship proceedings and related forms, see Ch. 66A, Conservatorship. For comprehensive coverage of those proceedings, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Chs. 281- 290H (Matthew Bender).

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.11

§ 105.11 Types of Long-Term Care Facilities

"Long-term care" facilities provide inpatient care to individuals over extended periods of time. Long-term care facilities that provide convalescent or rehabilitation services come within the statutory definition of "health facilities" [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c), (d)] and, accordingly, are subject to the laws governing licensing and administration of health facilities. Long-term care facilities do not provide certain types of treatment available in acute care hospitals, such as surgery, anesthesia, radiology, and laboratory services [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(a); see also Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives].

In general, long-term care facilities are appropriate for persons who are elderly, chronically ill, or in need of extensive rehabilitative services. However, in some instances an individual's condition will require several levels of care. For example, a resident of a residential facility for the elderly [see § 105.15] may develop a condition that would mandate his or her transfer to an acute care hospital. If the condition were successfully treated, the hospital would then transfer the individual back to the residential facility for the elderly or, if indicated, to a skilled nursing facility [see § 105.12].

There are three generally recognized classifications of long-term care facilities:

- Skilled nursing facilities [see § 105.12].
- Intermediate care facilities [see § 105.13].
- Residential care facilities for the elderly [see § 105.15].

Skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities are subject to the laws governing all health facilities as well as to the statutes and regulations specifically relating to long-term care [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1250, 1418]. Residential care facilities for the elderly are governed by the California Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly Act [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1569-1569.71]. However, for federal Medicare and Medicaid purposes, residential care facilities for the elderly are considered "community care facilities."

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.12

§ 105.12 Skilled Nursing Facilities

A "skilled nursing facility" (also referred to as a "convalescent hospital") is a health facility or a distinct part of a hospital which provides continuous skilled nursing care and supportive care to patients whose primary need is for the availability of skilled nursing care on an extended basis. It provides 24-hour inpatient care and, at a minimum, includes physician, skilled nursing, dietary, pharmaceutical services and an activity program [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c)]. Skilled nursing facilities are intended for persons who require assistance in performing most daily activities (e.g., walking, eating, bathing, and dressing) and/or who require complex or time-consuming treatments. In skilled nursing facilities, those persons are under the continuous observation of trained personnel who are under the direct supervision of a registered nurse or licensed vocational nurse [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72309 et seq.] and receive frequent medical attention.

In addition to the mandated level of care discussed above, skilled nursing facilities may provide intermediate care services. For an explanation of the services provided by intermediate care facilities, see § 105.13.

Special treatment programs for the mentally disordered may be included, as an option and with approval from the Department of Mental Health, as part of the supportive care rendered to mentally disordered patients requiring skilled nursing care [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72443(a)]. Skilled nursing facilities may provide certain other specialized treatment and services as part of their supportive care programs in order to meet the needs of patients. These optional services include physical therapy [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72403-72411], occupational therapy [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72413-72421], speech pathology and audiology [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72423-72431], and social services [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72433-72441].

The general federal definition of "skilled nursing and rehabilitative services" encompasses services that are ordered by a physician, require the skills of technical or professional personnel such as registered nurses, licensed practical (vocational) nurses, physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech pathologists and audiologists, and which are furnished by or under the supervision of those technical or professional personnel [42 C.F.R. § 409.31(a)(1)-(3)]. For federal purposes, services that qualify as skilled nursing services include intravenous or intramuscular injections, intravenous feeding, and enteral feeding that comprises at least 26 percent of daily calorie requirements and provides at least 501 milliliters of fluid per day [42 C.F.R. § 409.33(a)].

Specific examples of "skilled nursing services" include overall management and evaluation of a patient's care plan based on a physician's orders; observation and assessment of a patient's changing condition; and patient education services, if the use of technical or professional personnel is necessary to teach a patient self-maintenance [see 42 C.F.R. § 409.33(a)]. Other examples include intravenous, intramuscular, or subcutaneous injections and hypodermoclysis or intravenous feeding; levin tube and gastronomy feedings; insertion and sterile irrigation and replacement of suprapubic catheters; application of dressings involving prescription medications and aseptic techniques; treatment of extensive decubitus ulcers or other widespread skin disorders; heat treatments which have been specifically ordered by a physician as part of active treatment and which require observation by nurses to adequately evaluate the patient's progress; and rehabilitation nursing procedures, including the related teaching and adaptive aspects of nursing that are part of active treatment (e.g., the institution and supervision of bowel and bladder training programs) [42 C.F.R. § 409.33(b)].

For federal purposes, "skilled rehabilitation services" include the ongoing assessment of patient rehabilitation needs and potential; therapeutic exercises or activities; gait evaluation and training; range of motion exercises; maintenance therapy; ultrasound, short-wave, and microwave therapy treatment by a qualified physical therapist; hot pack, hydrocollator, infrared treatments, paraffin baths, and whirlpool; and services of a speech pathologist or audiologist when necessary for the restoration of function in speech or hearing [see 42 C.F.R. § 409.33(c)].

For purposes of determining eligibility under the federal Medicare program, skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities are consolidated into one category called "nursing facilities" [42 U.S.C. § 1396r; see § 105.14]. In order to qualify for participation in the Medicare program, a nursing facility must meet specified standards for residents' rights, quality of care, level of professional services, and facility administration [see 42 C.F.R. § 483.1 et seq.].

Patients may be admitted to skilled nursing facilities only on a physician's orders, and no facility may accept or retain a patient for whom it cannot provide adequate care [Health & Safety Code §§ 1262.7, 1418.6; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72515; see 42 C.F.R. § 483.40]. Some patients remain in skilled nursing facilities only during periods of convalescence or rehabilitation, after which they are discharged. However, other patients stay in the facilities for the remainder of their lives.

An "intermediate care facility" is a health facility that provides inpatient care to ambulatory or nonambulatory patients who have a recurring need for skilled nursing supervision and supportive care, but who do not require the availability of continuous skilled nursing care [Health & Safety Code § 1250(d)]. For these purposes, an "ambulatory patient" is a patient who is able to leave a building unassisted under emergency conditions [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72077(b)]. The term "nonambulatory patient" includes, but is not limited to, persons who are unable to leave the building unassisted by mechanical aids (such as crutches, walkers, and wheelchairs) and includes profoundly or severely mentally retarded persons [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72077(c)]. If a skilled nursing facility offers intermediate care, it must do so in a distinct part of the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72301(c)].

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.14

§ 105.14 Nursing Facilities

Federal law provides that Medicare and Medicaid coverage is available for care in "nursing facilities" rather than skilled nursing or intermediate care facilities. For purposes of determining Medicare and Medicaid eligibility, a nursing facility is an institution or a distinct part of an institution that is not primarily for the care and treatment of mental diseases and is primarily engaged in providing (1) skilled nursing care and related services for residents who require medical or nursing care; (2) rehabilitation services for injured, disabled, or sick persons; or (3) regular health-related care and services for persons who because of their mental or physical condition require care and services above the level of room and board, which can be made available to them only through institutional facilities, and must meet certain additional requirements [42 U.S.C. § 1396r(a)(1); see 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(a)(2), (3), (b)-(d) (additional requirements)].

This definition is similar to the California definitions of skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c), (d)]. The term "nursing facility" as used in California (generally, in statutes and regulations pertaining to the federal law) means a health facility that is certified to participate as a provider of care either as a skilled nursing facility in the federal Medicare program or as a nursing facility in the federal Medicaid program, or both, and is licensed under Health & Safety Code § 1250 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1250(k); Welf. & Inst. Code § 14002.5(f)]. Residential care facilities for the elderly are not considered "nursing facilities" under either federal or state law [42 U.S.C. § 1396r; Welf. & Inst. Code § 14002.5(f)].

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.15

§ 105.15 Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly

[1] Nature and Governing Law

[a] Definition

A "residential care facility for the elderly" is a housing arrangement chosen voluntarily by persons 60 years of age or older, or their authorized representatives, but including younger persons with compatible needs. These facilities provide varying levels and intensities of care and supervision, protective supervision, personal care, and, contingent on the adoption by the Department of Social Services of relevant regulations, health-related services. The level and intensity of services provided to an individual resident is based on his or her needs as determined before admission to the facility and at certain intervals following admission [Health & Safety Code § 1569.2(k), (l); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(5)]. For purposes of the California Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly Act [see Health & Safety Code § 1569 et seq.], which governs the licensing and administration of these facilities, "health and related services" are services that are directly provided by an appropriate skilled professional, including a registered nurse, licensed vocational nurse, physical therapist, or occupational therapist [Health & Safety Code § 1569.2(e)].

[b] Levels of Care

The legislature has declared its intent to develop and implement a plan to establish three levels of care under the residential care facility for the elderly license, subject to budget appropriations and statutory authorization to implement the levels of care. Each level will be based on the services required by residents. Level I would include residents that require only minimum care and supervision. Residents with functional limitations and psychosocial needs who require frequent assistance with personal activities would be included in Level II. Level III would consist of residents who rely on the facility for extensive assistance with personal activities of daily living, including those who also require the occasional services of an appropriate skilled professional due to chronic health problems and those returning from illness or treatment in facilities providing higher levels of care [Health & Safety Code § 1569.70].

[c] Excluded Facilities and Arrangements

Certain types of facilities and arrangements are specifically excluded from coverage under the Act. The Act does not apply to a facility conducted by and for the adherents of any well-recognized church or religious denomination for the purpose of providing facilities for the care and treatment of the sick who depend upon prayer or spiritual means for healing in the practice of their religion [Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(c)]. Nor does it apply to a health facility or to a clinic [Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(a), (b); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1250 ("health facility" defined), 1202 ("clinic" defined)]. Certain houses, institutions, or similar facilities that provide limited services such as meals or social activities and recovery houses that provide living arrangements but no care or supervision for persons recovering from alcoholism or drug addiction are also excluded under the Act [Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(d), (e)].

Other arrangements excluded from coverage under the Act are those in which a family member [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(i) ("family member" defined)] or a close friend provide for a person's care or supervision [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(f)]. An arrangement in which a close friend is the caregiver is exempt under the Act, however, only if the person or persons cared for are from only one family, the friendship existed before they became provider and recipient, the care is provided in a home or residence chosen by the recipient, and the arrangement is not of a business nature and occurs only as long as the needs of the recipient are adequately met [Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(f)(2)]. Also exempt is any housing occupied by elderly or disabled persons, or both, that meets specified federal requirements and in which supportive services are made available to residents at their option, but the project owner or operator does not contract to provide the supportive services [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(g)(1)(A)]. Also excluded from coverage under the Act is any housing that qualifies for a low-income housing credit under I.R.C. § 42 or that is subject to the requirements for rental dwellings for low-income families under 42 U.S.C. § 1437f, and that is occupied by elderly or disabled persons, or both, if supportive services are made available to residents at their option, as long as the project owner or operator does not contract for or provide the supportive services [Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(g)(1)(B); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(g)(2) (project owner may coordinate, or help residents gain access to, supportive services)]. A conservator of the person, estate of the person, or both, who provides care and supervision of a type regulated under the Act is not exempt from the Act's licensure requirements unless the conservator is otherwise exempt under any of the provisions discussed above [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.145(j)].

[d] Medical Care Limitations

Residential care facilities for the elderly, unlike skilled nursing facilities, are not primarily medically oriented. They meet the housing, social, and service needs of older persons and provide a home-like environment for individuals with a variety of care needs [Health & Safety Code § 1569.1(g)]. Because they are not primarily medical facilities, residential care facilities for the elderly may not admit or retain residents who require 24-hour skilled nursing or intermediate care or are bedridden [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.72(b)(1) ("bedridden" defined)] other than for a temporary illness (that is, an illness of less than 15 days duration) or for recovery from surgery [Health & Safety Code § 1569.72(a), (d)(1)]. A bedridden resident may be retained in excess of 14 days, however, if certain requirements concerning the giving of notice to the Department of Social Services and the protection of the resident's health and safety are satisfied [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.72(e)]. A residential care facility for the elderly may also permit incidental medical services to be provided through a home health agency if the facility has, in the judgment of the Department of Social Services, the ability to provide the supporting care and supervision appropriate to meet the needs of the resident receiving home health agency care, provided requirements concerning notice of regulations, protocol, and communication about services provided by the agency are satisfied [Health & Safety Code § 1569.725].

A residential care facility for the elderly may obtain a waiver from the Department to allow a resident who has been diagnosed as terminally ill to remain in the facility when certain conditions are satisfied, including the use of licensed hospice care for the resident [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.73(a)]. The same rules apply to allow a person who has been diagnosed as terminally ill to become a resident of the facility, if that person is already receiving hospice services and would continue to receive hospice services without disruption if he or she became a resident [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.73(a)].

[2] Resident and Family Councils

Residential care facilities for the elderly afford residents greater opportunities for involvement in determining the nature of their day-to-day lives than patients possess in skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, where a higher level of care is provided. If a majority of the residents request it, the facility must assist them in establishing and maintaining a resident-oriented council. The council must be composed of residents and may include members of their families. Among other things, the council may make recommendations to facility administrators to improve the quality of daily living in the facility and may negotiate with the facility administrators to protect residents' rights [Health & Safety Code § 1569.157(a); cf. Health & Safety Code § 1771.8 (resident councils in continuing care retirement communities)].

A family council is a meeting of family members, friends, responsible parties, or agents [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8] of two or more residents to confer in private without facility staff [Health & Safety Code § 1569.158(c)]. No residential facility may prohibit the formation of a family council. In addition, the facility must provide a family council adequate space to post meeting notices, minutes, and newsletters on the facility bulletin board or other posting area and must permit a family council to meet in a common meeting room of the facility on the request of a member of a resident's family or a responsible party [Health & Safety Code § 1569.158(a), (d)]. Facilities are prohibited from regulating family councils so as to limit the right of residents and family members to meet independently with outside persons (including members of nonprofit or government organizations) or with facility personnel during nonworking hours [Health & Safety Code § 1569.158(b)].

[3] Responsible Party

Although residents in care facilities for the elderly are often capable of handling their own affairs to a large extent, most admission agreements and applications produced by the facility will contain references to the resident's responsible person or responsible party. A "responsible person" is the individual (or group of individuals) including a relative, or placement agency [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(p)(2) (definition)], who assists the resident in placement or assumes varying degrees of responsibility for the resident's well-being [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(6)].

[4] Basic Services

Residential care facilities for the elderly must provide certain minimum basic services. Facilities must assume responsibility for, provide, or promise to provide in the future, ongoing assistance with activities of daily living without which resident physical health, mental health, safety, or welfare would be endangered. Assistance includes assistance with taking medications, money management, and personal care [Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.312(a), 1569.2(b)]. Facilities must provide assistance with the instrumental activities of daily living in the combinations that meet the needs of the residents [Health & Safety Code § 1569.312(b)]. Residents must be provided with help in gaining access to appropriate supportive services in the community [Health & Safety Code § 1569.312(c)]. For these purposes, "supportive services" are resources available to the residents in the community that help them maintain their functional abilities and meet their needs as identified in the individual resident assessment. Supportive services may include medical, dental, and other health care services; transportation; recreational and leisure activities; social services; and counseling services [Health & Safety Code § 1569.2(n)]. Although residents may travel independently in the community, the facility must be aware of their general whereabouts [Health & Safety Code § 1569.312(d)]. In order to ensure the general health, safety, and well-being of the residents, facilities must monitor their activities while they are under the supervision of the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.312(e)]. Facilities must encourage residents to maintain and develop their maximum functional abilities through participation in planned activities [Health & Safety Code § 1569.312(f)].

[5] Incidental or Special Medical Services

Residential care facilities for the elderly may provide incidental medical services to residents. However, if medical services constitute a substantial portion of the services provided by the community care facility, that facility must obtain approval for the services under the laws governing clinics [see Health & Safety Code § 1200 et seq.] or health facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1250 et seq.]. A residential care facility for the elderly may not require residents to purchase medications, or rent or purchase medical supplies or equipment, from any particular pharmacy or other source [Health & Safety Code § 1569.314].

A licensee of a residential care facility for the elderly that advertises or promotes special care, programming, or environments for persons with a health-related condition, except as specified in Health & Safety Code § 1569.72 [see § 1][d], above], must provide to each prospective resident, prior to admission, an accurate written description of these services and programs [Health & Safety Code § 1569.628]. The licensee must make all reasonable efforts to communicate this information to a person who is unable to read it, including, but not limited to, reading the description out loud [Health & Safety Code § 1569.628].

[6] Resident's Participation in Decisions Regarding Care and Services

A resident of a residential health care facility, or a resident's representative, or both, have the right to participate in decision making regarding the care and services to be provided to the resident [Health & Safety Code § 1569.80(a)]. Accordingly, before or within two weeks after the resident's admission, the facility must coordinate a meeting with the resident, and his or her representative, if any, an appropriate member of the facility's staff, and if the resident is receiving home health services in the facility, a representative of the home health agency involved, and any other appropriate parties [Health & Safety Code § 1569.80(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.80(e) (restricted applicability of this section if residential care facility for the elderly is a continuing care retirement community)]. The facility must ensure that participants in the meeting prepare a written record of the care the resident will receive in the facility, and the resident's preferences regarding the services provided [Health & Safety Code § 1569.80(a)]. Once prepared, this written record must be used by the facility, and, if applicable, by a health home agency, to determine the care and services to be provided to the resident [Health & Safety Code § 1569.80(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.725 (circumstances under which residential care facility may permit incidental medical services through home health agency)]. If the resident has a regular physician, the written record must be sent by the facility to that physician. The written record must be reviewed and, if necessary, revised, at least once every 12 months, or on a significant change in the resident's condition, whichever occurs first [Health & Safety Code § 1569.80(c)].

[7] Preadmission Fees, Rate Increases, and Lump-Sum Assessments

If a licensee of a residential care facility for the elderly charges a preadmission fee, the licensee must provide the applicant or his or her representative with a written general statement describing all costs associated with the preadmission fee charges and stating that the fee is refundable [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(e) ("preadmission fee" means any fee, however, designated, that is requested or accepted prior to admission)]. The statement must also describe the conditions for the refund, as specified by Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(g). That section provides that if the applicant decides not to enter the facility before the facility's completion of a preadmission appraisal, or if the facility fails to provide full written disclosure of the preadmission fee charges and refund conditions, the applicant (or his or her representative) is entitled to a refund of 100 percent of the preadmission fee [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(g)].

Unless Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(g) applies, preadmission fees in excess of five hundred dollars must be refunded to the applicant or his or her representative as follows [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(h)(1)-(4)]:

- If the applicant does not enter the facility after a preadmission appraisal is conducted, a refund of at least 80 percent of the preadmission fee amount in excess of $500.
- If the resident leaves the facility for any reason during the first month of residency, a refund of at least 80 percent of the preadmission fee amount in excess of $500.

- If the resident leaves the facility for any reason during the second month of residency, a refund of at least 60 percent of the preadmission fee amount in excess of $500.
- If the resident leaves the facility for any reason during the third month of residency, a refund of at least 40 percent of the preadmission fee amount in excess of $500.

The facility may, but is not required to, make a refund of the preadmission fee for residents living in the facility for four or more months [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(h)(5)].

Notwithstanding Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(g), if a resident of a licensed residential care facility for the elderly is evicted as the result of forfeiture of the facility's license or a change in the use, in accordance with the Department's regulations [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.682; § 105.222[2]], the resident is entitled to a refund of, or credit for, paid preadmission fees in excess of $500, on a sliding scale depending on when the preadmission fees were paid [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(i)(1)]. No preadmission refund is required if preadmission fees were paid 25 months or more before the notice of eviction [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(i)(2)]. Any refund must be paid within 15 days of issuing the notice of eviction [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(i)(3)].

A licensee may charge only a single preadmission fee [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(b)].

A licensee is prohibited from collecting any preadmission fee from a recipient of benefits under the State Supplementary Program for the Aged, Blind and Disabled who applies for admission to the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(a); Welf. & Inst. Code § 12200 et seq. (State Supplementary Program)].

These rules do not apply to licensees of residential care facilities for the elderly that have obtained a certificate of authority to offer continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(f), see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8) ("continuing care contracts" defined); § 105.20[2]].

If a licensee of a residential care facility for the elderly increases the rates of fees for residents or makes increases in any of its rate structures for services, the licensee must provide no less than 60 days prior written notice to the residents or the residents' representatives. The notice must include the amount of the increase, the reason for the increase, and a general description of the additional costs [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(a)]. Written notice of rate increase does not apply to an increase in the rate due to a change in the level of care of the resident, or to optional services that are provided by individuals, professionals, or organizations under a separate fee-for-service arrangement with residents [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(a)].

However, for any rate increase based on a change in the level of care of the resident, the licensee must provide the resident and the resident's representative, if any, written notice of the rate increase within two business days after initially providing services at the new level of care [Health & Safety Code § 1569.657(a)]. The notice must include a detailed explanation of the additional services to be provided at the new level of care and an accompanying itemization of the charges [Health & Safety Code § 1569.657(a)]. The following persons are exempt from these rules [Health & Safety Code § 1569.657(b), (c)]:

- Residents of the facility who are recipients of benefits under the State Supplementary Program for Aged, Blind and Disabled [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 12200 et seq.].
- Licensees of residential care facilities for the elderly that have obtained a certificate of authority to offer continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1569.651(f), see Health & Safety Code § 1771(8)(c) ("continuing care contracts" defined); § 105.20[2]].

A licensee is prohibited from charging nonrecurring lump-sum assessments, except for charges for specific goods or services provided to an individual resident [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(b)]. "Nonrecurring lump-sum assessments" are rate increases due to unavoidable and unexpected costs that financially obligate the licensee [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(b)]. Instead of a lump-sum payment, all increases in rates must be to the monthly rate amortized over a 12-month period. The notification requirements of Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(a), discussed above, apply to increases in this context [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(b)].

If a licensee increases rates for a recipient under the State Supplementary Program for the Aged, Blind and Disabled [Welf. & Inst. Code § 12200 et seq.], the licensee must meet the requirements for SSI/SSP rate increases, as prescribed by law [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(c)].

These rules do not apply to licensees of residential care facilities for the elderly that have obtained a certificate of authority to offer continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1569.655(d), see Health & Safety Code § 1771(8)(c) ("continuing care contracts" defined); § 105.20[2]].

§ 105.16 Specialized Long-Term Care Facilities

There are other types of specialized long-term care facilities in addition to those discussed above. Some specialized facilities provide care for persons afflicted with particular physical illnesses, such as tuberculosis. Others care for persons with mental disabilities. These facilities may be subject to specific regulations tailored to the type of care they offer. For example, intermediate care facilities for the mentally retarded are subject to different regulations than other intermediate care facilities [see 42 C.F.R. § 483.440 et seq.].

A detailed analysis of these specialized long-term care facilities is beyond the scope of this chapter. For additional information and a list of all licensed specialty facilities, interested parties should contact the nearest office of the California Department of Health Services.

§ 105.17 Alternative Arrangements for Care of the Elderly

[1] In General

If the extent of services provided in long-term care facilities is not required for a particular elderly person, there are alternative arrangements which should be considered. A detailed analysis of all possible alternative arrangements is beyond the scope of this chapter. The more common alternatives are home health care and retirement residences.

[2] Home Health Care

If the family and the individual feel strongly that he or she should remain at home, it may be advisable to investigate a home health care arrangement or a day health care program [see Health & Safety Code § 1570 et seq. (California Adult Day Health Care Act)]. Whether or not the individual's medical requirements will permit home health care must be determined by his or her attending physician. Under some circumstances, home health care is a viable alternative if the family and patient are willing to make the effort (e.g., installation of special devices such as ramps) and accept the responsibility that care entails. Any family wishing to explore this option should contact their county Department of Health and Human Services for the names of specific agencies providing home health services.

For federal purposes, "home health services" are any of the following services that are provided at the patient's place of residence under a physician's orders as part of a written plan of care reviewed by the physician every 60 days: nursing services provided by a home health agency or a registered nurse; home health aide services provided by a home health agency; medical supplies, equipment, and appliances suitable for use in the home; and physical therapy, occupational therapy, or speech pathology and audiology services provided by a home health agency or by a facility licensed by the state to perform the services [see 42 C.F.R. § 440.70(a), (b)(1)-(4)]. For these purposes, a patient's "place of residence" does not include a hospital, nursing facility, or intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded (except for home health services for the mentally retarded that are not required to be provided by the facility under 42 C.F.R. § 483.400 et seq.) [42 C.F.R. § 440.70(c)].

[3] Respite Care Services

"Respite care services" are services provided to a frail elderly or functionally impaired person in a licensed skilled nursing facility or intermediate care facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c), (d); see also §§ 105.12, 105.13], on a temporary or periodic basis to relieve those who are providing home health care for that person [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(e)]. For these purposes, "temporary or periodic" means a period of time not to exceed 15 consecutive days or a total of 45 days in any one year [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(f)]. A skilled nursing or intermediate care facility may use no more than 10 percent of its total licensed bed capacity for the provision of respite care services in any one year, unless it obtains prior written approval of the State Department of Health Services to exceed this limit [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(g)].

Contracts of admission to skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities for respite care services are known as "abbreviated contracts of admission." This is because they are not required to contain all of the provisions set forth by statute for skilled nursing and intermediate care facility admission contracts generally [Health & Safety Code § 1599.60(a); see § 105.205]. A skilled nursing or intermediate care facility providing respite care services may also implement an abbreviated resident assessment and care planning procedure for persons admitted for respite care, and is not required to update the procedure documents for every readmission of the same person to the facility for respite care services, unless the person's personal physician indicates that there has been a significant change in the person's medical condition. The abbreviated procedure must be consistent with the facility's obligation to protect the health and safety of residents and the general public, and must address the necessary care services required by the person admitted for respite care during the length of his or her respite care stay [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(d)].

Persons receiving respite care services must be permitted to bring medication to the facility, if the contents have been examined and positively identified at the time of admission by the person's personal physician or a pharmacist retained by the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(a)]. The facility must permit the personal physician of any person receiving respite care services to issue advance orders for care and treatment for a period not to exceed 90 days from the date of the person's admission to the facility, based on the person's medical history, diagnosis, and physical assessment conducted upon admission. The facility may readmit the person for respite care services on the basis of these advance orders, unless the physician indicates that there has been a significant change in the person's medical condition. The advance orders may be used by the facility only during periods in which the person is receiving respite care services [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(c)].

[4] Retirement Residences

Elderly persons who are in reasonably good health and who are self-sufficient might wish to explore retirement residences. Generally, individuals wishing to live in retirement residences must buy their apartments and, in addition, pay a monthly maintenance fee. Often, arrangements made between individuals and retirement residents are in the nature of life care ("continuing care") contracts [see § 105.20].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.18

§ 105.18 Financial Arrangements

[1] Issues and Options

An attorney should explore all available payment options when advising a client about placing a patient in a long-term care facility. Private funds, federal aid, and state medical assistance programs are options available to pay for long-term care and, in some circumstances, private insurance may help defray the costs of care for the elderly under "extended care" provisions. An attorney who is exploring the availability of Medicare or Medi-Cal payments to defray the cost of long-term care should contact an eligibility worker at the nearest office of the California Department of Health and Human Services, Medi-Cal division, and the federal Department of Health and Human Services. For checklists to be used in determining an individual's basic eligibility for medical assistance, see §§ 105.112, 105.122.

The quality and level of care received by patients is determined by their needs and by the type of license that the facility holds. Within a particular facility, the quality of care afforded patients should not depend upon the methods by which they pay for that care.

Facilities are not obligated to accept patients receiving medical assistance, even though the facilities are certified for Medicare and/or Medi-Cal participation. Nevertheless, each long-term care facility must reveal to all applicants for admission (or their designated representatives) both orally and in writing prior to admission, whether the facility participates in the Medi-Cal program and the circumstances under which the law permits a Medi-Cal patient to be transferred involuntarily [Health & Safety Code § 1439.8].

[2] Federal Medicare Program

The federal Medicare program covers post-hospital extended care services in a Medicare-certified facility for up to 100 days during any spell of illness, and, to the extent provided in 42 U.S.C. § 1395d(f), extended care services that are not post-hospital extended care services [42 U.S.C. § 1395d(a)(2)]. The Medicare program also covers extended care services that are not post-hospital services as long as that coverage does not increase the total payments under the program, and the services provided are of the type for which Medicare benefits are normally available [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 1395d(f), 1395x]. Coverage of post-hospital extended care services is limited to skilled nursing care (other than solely venipuncture for the purpose of obtaining a blood sample) [see discussion in § 105.12] or other skilled rehabilitation care required by the patient because of a condition for which he or she was receiving inpatient hospital care before being transferred to the skilled nursing facility [see 42 U.S.C. § 1395f(a)(2)(C)]. The required level of care will be reflected in the specific orders of the attending physician.

For purposes of determining "inpatient" status and, thus, Medicare eligibility, both the nature of the services and the place where the patient resides are considered. A patient who resides in a skilled nursing facility but does not receive skilled nursing care is not entitled to Medicare payments for hospital services due to a spell of illness [Levi by Levi v. Heckler (1984) 736 F.2d 848, 849-850] .

It is unusual for anyone to be covered by Medicare for a full 100 consecutive days in a skilled nursing facility. The decision as to whether payment will be forthcoming is made by the responsible Medicare fiscal-intermediary insurance carrier based on physician diagnoses and claim forms submitted by the facility. Some facilities may request partial advance payments upon admission since they anticipate little reimbursement from Medicare through an assignment of benefits.

Individuals are eligible for Medicare benefits if they are (1) at least 65 years old and eligible for retirement benefits under Subchapter II of the Social Security Act (or would be eligible for such benefits if certain government employment were covered employment under Subchapter II) or under the railroad retirement system; or (2) under age 65 and have been entitled for not less than 24 months to disability benefits under Subchapter II (or would be eligible for such benefits if certain government employment were covered employment under Subchapter II) or under the railroad retirement system. Certain other individuals who do not meet these conditions but who are medically determined to have end-stage renal disease are also eligible for Medicare benefits [42 U.S.C. § 1395c].

[3] Medicaid and Medi-Cal Programs

The federal Medicaid program authorizes payment of federal funds to states that establish their own medical assistance programs [see 42 U.S.C. § 1396].

The Medi-Cal program is California's state medical assistance program for persons whose income and resources are insufficient to meet the costs of necessary medical services. One of its purposes is to provide medical assistance to aged persons who lack an annual income sufficient to meet their health care costs [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14000]. Among other things, the Medi-Cal program covers outpatient physician, hospital, and clinic services [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14132(a)], inpatient hospital services [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14132(b)], and nursing facility services [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14132(c)].

The Department of Health Services, which administers the Medi-Cal program, must ensure that nursing facility applicants have access to assistance in identifying and securing the information necessary to complete the Medi-Cal application and to make the eligibility determination [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.05(a)]. The Department must also ensure that Medi-Cal applications for nursing facility residents are processed in a timely manner in accordance with state and federal laws and regulations [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.05(b)].

Medically needy persons must meet all eligibility criteria to receive health care services under the Medi-Cal program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.7; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005]. Monthly income (in excess of the maintenance levels established by law), excluding any exempt income and amounts paid for Medicare and other health insurance premiums, will be the share of cost to be paid by the needy person [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.7(c); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.9]. No medically needy person will be entitled to receive Medi-Cal health services during any month in which his or her share of cost has not been met [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.7(b)]. Amounts to be included in monthly income for purposes of determining Medi-Cal eligibility for medically needy persons are determined in accordance with Title XIX of the Social Security Act [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.7(c)-(e); see 42 U.S.C. § 1396]. In determining the income of a medically needy person residing in a licensed community care facility, any amount paid to the facility for residential care and support that exceeds the amount needed for maintenance is considered unavailable for purposes of the Medi-Cal program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.7(e)].

Ordinarily, Medi-Cal recipients are medically needy persons who are either receiving, or are eligible to receive, other forms of public assistance. A state agency must make certain deductions from the total income available to medically needy individuals in long-term care facilities. If the individual is married, the agency must deduct an amount for maintenance of the spouse at home [see 42 C.F.R. § 435.832(c)(1)-(4); see also Granneman v. Myers (1981) 115 Cal. App. 3d 846, 852, 171 Cal. Rptr. 583]. Special rules apply to eligibility determinations for married individuals, the inclusion of community property as available income, and transfers of community property between spouses when one spouse is admitted to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.2; see § 105.202]. These rules recognize the validity of agreements between spouses dividing community property into equal shares of separate property, and provide that the separate property of an individual's spouse will not be considered in determining the individual's eligibility for Medi-Cal benefits, except when separate property owned by one spouse is actually made available to the other spouse [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.2(a)(1)].

The Department of Health Services, at the time either of application for Medi-Cal benefits or of the assessment of the resources of a married couple [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.6; see also § 105.202[1]], and any nursing facility enrolled as a provider of the Medi-Cal program, before admitting any person, must provide a statement in writing, in a form and language specified by the Department, that explains the resource and income requirements of the Medi-Cal Program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.3]. This statement must be provided to the person admitted and that person's spouse, legal representative, or agent, if any [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.3; see § 105.202].

A person living in a nonmedical out-of-home care facility may be entitled to an allowance for personal and incidental needs in addition to allowances for room, board, and care. These allowances are subject to the same rules and restrictions on cost-of-living adjustments applicable to other Medi-Cal payments [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 13920, 13921; see Welf. & Inst. Code § 12201 (cost-of-living adjustments)].

Unlike Medicare, Medi-Cal payments are not dependant upon prior hospitalization in an acute care facility. If a medically needy person contemplates entry into a skilled nursing facility or an intermediate care facility, his or her physician must first consult with the state Department of Health Care Services in order to determine the level of care actually required. Once a Medi-Cal recipient has been admitted to a skilled nursing facility or an intermediate care facility, the Department will monitor the level of care required by the individual.

If a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility that is certified to provide benefits under the Medi-Cal program wishes to withdraw from the Medi-Cal program, it must file a notice of intent to withdraw with the Department of Health Services and continue to provide Medi-Cal service to Medi-Cal patients who were residing in the facility at the time the notice was filed [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14022.4(a), (d)]. When all of those residents have left the facility, it may formally withdraw from the program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14022.4(d)]. Between the time that the notice is filed and the time that the facility formally withdraws from the Medi-Cal program, it will not be required to accept new Medi-Cal patients [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14022.4(a)(3)(B)].

[4] Veterans Benefits

A veteran may be eligible to receive long-term hospital and nursing home care in a facility operated by the Department of Veterans Affairs or, following treatment in a Department facility, in a non-Department facility at government expense [see 38 U.S.C. §§ 1710, 1720]. Care in a non-Department facility is generally limited to six months unless the care is required because of a service-connected disability or other unusual circumstances [see 38 C.F.R. §§ 17.51(b)(4), 17.51a]. Veterans' benefits are generally available to any person who has served in the active military, naval, or air service, and who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable [38 U.S.C. § 101(2) (definition of "veteran")].

[5] Private Payment[a] Payment Arrangements

Patients whose long-term care is not covered by a governmental medical assistance program are referred to as "private patients." Individual facilities have varying payment programs available to private patients. These generally include month-to-month contracts as well as life care contracts, [see "Life Care Contracts--In General," and subsequent headings, below]. An inter vivos trust may be established to assure that fee payments will be made. For a discussion of the law governing these trusts and a representative declaration of trust, see § 105.233.

[b] Private Insurance

Occasionally a private health insurance plan will include care in a skilled nursing facility under a provision relating to "extended care." Usually, coverage under a private health policy will be limited to specific services. Few, if any, private health insurance plans will cover any costs incurred in a residential care facility for the elderly. All health insurance plans covering the individual to be placed in a long-term care facility should be carefully scrutinized for potential coverage. Specialized insurance plans covering long-term care may be available.

[c] Tax Considerations

Facilities sometimes encourage substantial donations from prospective patients who are financially able to make gifts as well as meet the regular costs of care. If a prospective patient or the relative of a prospective patient considers making a financial contribution to the facility, the attorney advising that person should determine the income tax consequences to the donor. A contribution to a nonprofit nursing home or residential care facility for the elderly may qualify as a charitable deduction for the donor [see I.R.C. §§ 170, 501(c)(3); see also Treas. Reg. §§ 1.170A-1-1.170A-10; Rev. Rul. 72-124, 1972-1 C.B. 145; Wardwell's Estate v. (8th Cir. 1962) 301 F.2d 632, 638; but see Sedam v. United States (7th Cir. 1975) 518 F.2d 242, 245]. For a detailed discussion of the income, gift, and estate tax consequences of charitable contributions, see the Legal Background to Ch. 69, Charitable Dispositions.

If a lump sum payment is made to the facility on behalf of the prospective patient under a life care contract, the attorney advising the payor should determine the deductibility of the portion of that payment designated for medical care [see I.R.C. § 213; see also Rev. Rul. 75-302, 1975-2 C.B. 86].

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.19

§ 105.19 Admissions

[1] In General

The long-term care facility admission agreement is a contract between the facility and the individual (or other authorized individual, such as a conservator or guardian) to be admitted specifying the terms and conditions under which the individual will be admitted, the financial arrangements, and the level of care that the individual will receive. The agreement will normally be executed at or shortly before the time of admission. For representative admission agreements, see § 105.200 (skilled nursing facility) and § 105.222 (residential care facility for the elderly).

If a person, or the person's legal representative, responsible person, or agent, has previously executed a contract of admission to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility, the person may under certain circumstances be readmitted pursuant to a signed written statement detailing any modifications to the original contract, rather than having to execute a new contract [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652]. For a representative form containing this statement, see § 105.206.

A facility may not admit or discharge an individual on the basis of that individual's race, color, religion, or national origin. However, if the facility is a nonprofit religious, fraternal, or charitable organization, it may establish admission policies that give preference to its own members if it does not do so in order to evade the anti-discrimination provisions of the law [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72521(c)(3) (skilled nursing facilities), 87128 (residential care facilities for the elderly)].

[2] Skilled Nursing and Intermediate Care Facilities

A skilled nursing facility may admit a patient only on the orders of a physician. Patients may not be admitted to a facility that is unable to provide care adequate for their needs [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72515; see also 42 C.F.R. § 409.31(a)(1)].

Admission contracts must meet specific legal requirements with respect to format and content [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.; for discussion of these requirements, see § 105.200[1]]. Health & Safety Code § 1599.61, adopted in 1997, required the Department of Long Term Care to develop a standard admission agreement to be used by all skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, and a short form agreement for patients whose length of stay is anticipated to be 14 days or less. By statute, all such facilities were required to use such an agreement by January 1, 2000 [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(a), (b)(2)]. Deviations from the standard agreement are permitted only when authorized by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(b)]. The Department was also required to develop a standardized version of the Patients' Bill of Rights for residents of these facilities, to be included as an attachment to all admission agreements [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(d); see § 105.22]. Development of these standardized forms has proven to be a difficult and controversial process, however, and as of January 2009, the Department has not finalized regulations containing the new forms. Department sources have advised that there is no anticipated date for final implementation of these regulations. Accordingly, the Department is advising operators to continue to use their current agreement forms.

Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities must make copies of the admission contracts available to the public, at cost [Health & Safety Code § 1599.63(a)]. In addition, each facility must conspicuously post either a complete copy of its admission contract or notice of its availability on the premises [Health & Safety Code § 1599.63(b)].

Skilled nursing facilities must establish written administration and management policies concerning certain aspects of admission procedures [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72521(a)]. For example, facilities must maintain a set of written policies and procedures for patient admissions, leaves of absence, transfers, passes and discharges, categories of patients accepted and retained, rate of charge for services included in the basic rate, types of services offered, charges for extra services, limitations on services, and causes for termination of services and policies relating to refunds upon termination of services [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72521(c)(2)].

Federal regulations require skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities certified for the Medicare and Medicaid programs to establish written policies and procedures governing the admission of patients [see 42 C.F.R. §§ 483.10(b), 483.12; see also 42 C.F.R. § 483.5 ("facility" defined to include skilled nursing and immediate care facilities)]. Before or at the time of admission, the facility must inform the patient (both orally and in writing, in a language that the patient understands) of the patient's rights and of all the rules and regulations governing patient conduct and responsibilities during the stay in the facility [42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.12 (additional notification requirements)]. In addition, the facility must provide written notice to each resident who is entitled to Medicaid benefits at the time of admission, or when the patient becomes eligible for Medicaid, of the items and services that are covered by Medicaid and those for which the patient may be separately charged, including the amount of the additional charges [42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(5); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(6)]. Further, the facility must provide information about how to apply for and use Medicare and Medicaid benefits [42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(10)], and must furnish a written description of the patient's legal rights, including the manner of protecting the patient's personal funds [42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(7); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(c); see also § 105.22 (residents' rights)].

When a patient is admitted to a skilled nursing facility, an admission record containing personal and medical information on the patient, as well as an inventory of any personal property he or she brings into the facility (including, but not limited to, items of jewelry, items of furniture, radios and other appliances, prosthetic and orthopedic devices, and other valuable items identified by the patient, family, or authorized representative), must be completed [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72545]. The patient will be provided with a wristband identification tag that must be worn at all times, unless the attending physician notes in the patient's health records that his or her condition precludes wearing the wristband. The wristband must contain, at a minimum, the patient's name and name of the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72555].

[3] Admission of Medi-Cal Beneficiaries

The Department of Health Services must ensure that nursing facility applicants have access to assistance in identifying and obtaining the information necessary to complete the Medi-Cal application and make a determination of eligibility for the Medi-Cal program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.05(a)]. Nursing facilities, including skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities cannot require Medi-Cal beneficiaries to have a responsible party [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(a)(4) (definition)] sign or cosign the admissions agreement as a condition of admission [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(b)]. However, if a resident has an agent [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(a)(3) (definition)], the facility may require, as a condition of admission, that the agent sign or cosign the admissions agreement and agree to distribute to the facility promptly when due any charges not paid for by the Medi-Cal program that the patient or the agent has agreed to pay [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(c)]. A new agent who did not sign or cosign the admissions agreement must distribute funds in accordance with the agreement [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(c)].

No facility may require a security deposit from a Medi-Cal beneficiary who applies for admission [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.9]. When a resident on non-Medi-Cal status converts to Medi-Cal coverage, any security deposit paid to the facility by the resident or on the resident's behalf as a condition of admission must be returned; the obligations and responsibilities of the resident or responsible party during the period when the resident is covered by Medi-Cal are limited to those provided for under the Medi-Cal program [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(d)]. If the resident becomes ineligible for Medi-Cal coverage subsequent to converting to that coverage, the resident or responsible party is bound by the terms of the original admission agreement or any admission agreement in effect at the time the resident's Medi-Cal coverage began [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(d)]. When a resident converts to Medi-Cal coverage, the facility must make a reasonable attempt to assist the resident in contacting the county to obtain an estimate of the share of the resident's cost [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(e)]. A resident or his or her agent must pay to the facility the share of the cost for which he or she is responsible under the Medi-Cal program, unless otherwise exempted by law [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(f); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(g) (fee disputes)].

Any agent who willfully violates these requirements is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine, imprisonment, or both [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(h)].

Special statutory requirements apply to contracts for the admission of Medi-Cal and Medicare recipients to long-term health care facilities [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.69, 1599.70]. These requirements are discussed in § 105.200[1][g].

[4] Residential Care Facilities

The class of persons admitted to a particular residential care facility for the elderly may be limited [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 87455(c), 87609, 87615]. If a restrictive license is issued, only the number of persons specified under the terms of that license may be admitted to the facility [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87158(b)].

Residential care facilities for the elderly may only admit individuals who have undergone a pre-admission appraisal [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87457] of their functional capabilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87459], mental condition [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87461], social needs and abilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87462], and medical condition [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87458].

Persons with active communicable tuberculosis, or who require inpatient care in a health facility, may not be admitted to residential care facilities for the elderly [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 87455(c), 87609, 87615]. For a list of the specific persons who may and may not be admitted to residential care facilities for the elderly, see § 105.120.

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.20

§ 105.20 Continuing Care and Life Care[1] In General

Continuing care retirement communities are an alternative for the long-term residential, social, and health care needs of elderly residents [Health & Safety Code § 1770(a)]. Elderly residents often expend a significant portion of their savings in order to purchase continuing care, and expect to receive lifelong care at their continuing care retirement community in return. Because of the tragic consequences that can result in this situation if the care provider becomes insolvent or unable to provide responsible care, the legislature has imposed detailed minimum requirements on any entity that offers or provides continuing care [Health & Safety Code §§ 1770(b), (c), (f); see Health & Safety Code § 1775(e) (requirements to be liberally construed for protection of those attempting to obtain or receiving continuing care); see also Health & Safety Code § 1771.3 (circumstances in which chapter does not apply)]. These requirements concern, among other matters, the issuance of certificates of authority to enter into continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code §§ 1771.2(b), 1786, 1786.2; see [3], below], contents of continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code §§ 1787, 1788; see §§ 105.123, 105.230], and business and financial matters [see, e.g., Health & Safety Code §§ 1779.4, 1790, 1792-1793]. These requirements are enforced by the Department of Social Services, assisted by the Continuing Care Contracts Advisory Committee of the Department of Social Services [Health & Safety Code §§ 1777(a), 1777.2, 1793.23(a)].

[2] Statutory Terms and Definitions

Entities that provide continuing care (that is, care for life or for more than one year), make a continuing care promise, or propose to promise to provide continuing care are known as providers [Health & Safety Code § 1771(p)(10); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8), (10) ("continuing care contract" and "continuing care promise" defined)]. "Provider" also includes any entity that controls an entity that provides continuing care, makes a continuing care promise, or proposes to promise to provide continuing care [Health & Safety Code § 1771(p)(10)]. However, no homeowner's association, cooperative, or condominium association may be a provider [Health & Safety Code § 1771(p)(10)]. A person who transfers, or promises to transfer, consideration in exchange for care and related services under a continuing care contract or proposed continuing care contract, for the benefit of another is called a transferor [Health & Safety Code § 1771(t)(3)]. A transferor has the same rights to cancel and obtain a refund as the depositor under the deposit agreement or the resident under a continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1771(t)(3); see [5], below]. A person who receives services pursuant to a continuing care contract, including care, board, or lodging, is called a "resident" [Health & Safety Code § 1771(r)(5)]. Often, but not always, the transferor and the resident are the same person.

[3] Authority to Provide Continuing Care

A licensee may not enter into any continuing care contract with any person without approval by the Department of Social Services in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(i)]. The Department will not issue a provisional certificate of authority or a certificate of authority to an applicant until the applicant has obtained licenses for the entire continuing care retirement community, including a license to operate the residential living and assisted living units [see Health & Safety Code § 1569 et seq.] and, if a skilled nursing facility is on the premises, as a health facility [Health & Safety Code § 1771.5; see Health & Safety Code §§ 1250 et seq. (health facilities), 1569.2(n) ("supportive services" defined), 1569.312 (basic services required of each licensed residential care facility for the elderly), 1771(a)(4) ("applicant" defined), 1771(c)(5) ("certificate" defined); see also § 105.15[4], above, for discussion of services required to be provided to residents of residential care facilities for the elderly generally].

In addition to holding all appropriate licenses for the type of care to be provided, any provider who executes a continuing care contract [see [4], below] must have a current and valid provisional or final certificate of authority issued by the Department of Social Services before it may enter into a continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code §§ 1771.2(b), 1779(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1779-1779.8 (application procedure), 1779.10 (causes for denial of application), 1786 (issuance of provisional certificate), 1786.2 (issuance of final certificate)]. If an entity enters into an agreement to provide care for life or for more than one year to a person under 60 years of age in return for consideration, and the agreement includes the provision of services to that person after the age of 60, the promising entity must comply with all the requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. when that person reaches age 60 [Health & Safety Code § 1771.2(d)]. Generally, if a provider subcontracts or assigns to another entity the responsibility to provide continuing care, the other entity must have a current and valid certificate of authority. However, a provider with a current and valid certificate of authority may contract for the provision of a particular aspect of continuing care, such as medical care, with another entity that does not have a certificate of authority, if (1) the other entity is appropriately licensed under California law to provide that care, and (2) the provider has not paid in advance for more than one year for the care [Health & Safety Code § 1771.2(c)].

Once issued, a final certificate of authority remains in force until forfeited by operation of law [see Health & Safety Code § 1793.7], inactivated [see Health & Safety Code § 1793.8], or suspended, or revoked by the Department of Social Services [Health & Safety Code § 1786.2(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1793.21 (suspension or revocation)]. A certificate of authority is forfeited by operation of law when:

- The provider surrenders to the Department its residential care facility for the elderly license, the permit to accept deposits, provisional certificate of authority, or certificate of authority for a continuing care retirement community [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(b)].
- The provider sells or otherwise transfers all or part of the continuing care retirement community [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(c); see Health & Safety Code § 1773 (approval of Department of Social Services required for transfer of facility ownership)].
- A change occurs in the majority ownership of the continuing care retirement community or the certificate of authority holder [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(d)].
- The provider merges with another entity [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(e)].
- The provider moves the continuing care retirement community from one location to another without the Department's prior approval [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(g)].

- The provider abandons the continuing care retirement community or its obligations under the continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(h)].
- The provider is evicted from the continuing care retirement community premises [Health & Safety Code § 1793.7(i)].

Executing a continuing care contract without holding a current and valid provisional certificate of authority or certificate of authority is a misdemeanor [Health & Safety Code § 1793.5(c)]. However, a certificate of authority is not required for the care of a person by a relative, or for the care of a person or persons from one family by a friend [Health & Safety Code § 1771.3(a)]. In addition, the requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. do not apply to admission or residence agreements offered by residential communities for the elderly or residential care facilities for the elderly that promise residents preferred access to assisted living services or nursing care, provided specified conditions are satisfied [see Health & Safety Code § 1771.3(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1771.3(c)-(e) (application for letter of exemption); see Health & Safety Code § 1771.6 (application for letter of nonapplicability)].

[4] Continuing Care Contracts

[a] Definitions

A "continuing care contract" is a contract that includes a continuing care promise made in exchange for an entrance fee, the payment of periodic charges, or both types of payments [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8)]. A continuing care contract may consist of one agreement or a series of agreements and other writings incorporated by reference [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8)]. A "continuing care promise" is an express or implied promise by a provider to provide one or more elements of care to an elderly resident for the duration of his or her life or for a term in excess of one year [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(10); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(1) ("elderly" means an individual who is 60 years or older)]. A continuing care promise includes any such promise or representation, written or oral, whether it is part of a continuing care contract, other agreement, or series of agreements, or contained in any advertisement, brochure, or other material [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(10)]. A life care contract is a continuing care contract that includes a promise to provide or pay for routine services at all levels of care, including acute care and physicians and surgeons' services, to the extent not covered by public or private insurance benefits, to a resident for the duration of his or her life [Health & Safety Code § 1771(l); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(r)(5) ("resident" defined)].

[b] Requirements

All continuing care contracts must be in writing and contain specified information [Health & Safety Code § 1787(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1788, 1793.80-1793.83 (contents of contract); see also § 105.123]. All continuing care contract forms, including all addenda, exhibits, and any other related documents incorporated in the contract, as well as any modification to these items, must be approved prior to their use by the Department of Social Services [Health & Safety Code § 1787(b)].

[c] Disclosure Statement

Before executing a deposit agreement or a continuing care agreement, or receiving any payment from a depositor or prospective resident, a provider must deliver to the other parties in the continuing care agreement a disclosure statement in the form prescribed by the department [Health & Safety Code § 1789.1(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1789.1(b) (information to be disclosed); Health & Safety Code § 1789.1(d) (form)].

[5] Cancellation Rights and Refunds

[a] Ninety-Day Cancellation Right

A continuing care contract may be canceled without cause by either party within 90 days from the date of the resident's initial occupancy [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(a)]. Cancellation must be made by written notice [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(a)]. Unless the contract specifically provides otherwise, death before or during the cancellation period will constitute a cancellation [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(b)]. If a resident cancels the contract before or during the 90-day period and returns possession of the living unit in a continuing care retirement community that is not an equity continuing care retirement to the provider in substantially the same condition as when received, the provider may charge the resident only a reasonable fee to cover costs and the reasonable value of any services rendered pursuant to the canceled contract [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(1)]. Equity project providers may impose a resale fee on sellers [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(2); see Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(e) (limitation on resale fees)]. The cancellation period and associated refund obligations apply to all executed continuing care contracts regarding a unit in a continuing care retirement community that is not an equity continuing care retirement community, as well as to continuing care contracts executed in conjunction with a purchase of an equity interest from a provider [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(c)(1), (2)]. However, the cancellation period and associated refund obligations do not apply to continuing care contracts executed in conjunction with sales of an equity interest by one resident to another [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(c)(2); see [6], below].

[b] Payment of Refunds

During the cancellation period, the provider must pay all refunds owed to a resident within 14 calendar days after a resident makes possession of the living unit available to the provider [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(2) ("cancellation period" is 90-day period beginning when resident physically moves into continuing care retirement community, during which resident may cancel contract)]. After the cancellation period, any refunds due to a resident under a continuing care contract must be paid within 14 calendar days after a resident makes possession of the living unit available to the provider, or 90 calendar days after death or receipt of notice of termination, whichever is later [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(b)]. If a resident has paid additional amounts for upgrades, special features, or modifications to the living unit and the provider terminates the resident's continuing care contract, the provider must amortize those additional amounts at the same rate as the entrance fee and must refund the unamortized balance [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(d)].

[c] Amount Refunded

In nonequity projects, if the continuing care contract is canceled by either party during the cancellation period or terminated by the provider after the cancellation period, the resident must be refunded the difference between the total amount of entrance, monthly, and optional fees paid and the amount used for care of the resident [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(c); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(6) ("equity project" defined)].

A lump sum payment to a resident after termination of a continuing care contract that is conditioned upon resale of a unit may not be considered to be a refund and may not be characterized or advertised as a refund. The lump sum payment must be paid to the resident within 14 calendar days after resale of the unit [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(e)].

[d] Other Terms and Conditions

In addition to the refund provisions discussed above, the law provides that any transfer of money or property pursuant to a continuing care contract found by the Department of Social Services to be executed in violation of the statutes governing continuing care contracts is voidable at the option of the resident or the transferor for 90 days from the execution of the transfer [Health & Safety Code § 1793.11(a)]. Any deed or other instrument of conveyance must contain a recital that the transaction is made pursuant to rescission by the resident or transferor within 90 days from the date of the first occupancy [Health & Safety Code § 1793.11(b)]. With respect to real property, this right of disaffirmance or rescission is conclusively presumed to have terminated if a notice of intent to rescind is not recorded with the county recorder of the county in which the real property is located within 90 days after the date of first occupancy of the residential living unit [Health & Safety Code § 1793.11(d)]. No action may be brought for the reasonable value of any services rendered between the date of transfer and the date that the resident disaffirms the contract [Health & Safety Code § 1793.11(c)]. The law also provides that any transfer of money or property to anyone pursuant to a continuing care contract that was not approved by the Department of Social Services [see Health & Safety Code § 1787(b)] is voidable at the option of the Department, the transferor, or the transferor's assigns or agents [Health & Safety Code § 1793.11(e)]. In addition, any transaction determined by the Department of Social Services to be in violation of the laws governing continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq.] is voidable at the option of the resident or the resident's assigns or agents [Health & Safety Code § 1793.11(f)].

[6] Transfer Fees and Restrictions Applicable to Equity Projects

An "equity project" is a continuing care retirement community where residents receive an equity interest in the continuing care retirement community property [Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(6)]. "Equity interest" means an interest held by a resident in a continuing care retirement community that consists of either an ownership interest in any part of the continuing care retirement community property or a transferable membership that entitles the holder to reside at the continuing care retirement community [Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(5)].

A provider for a continuing care retirement community may restrict or abridge the right of any resident, whether or not the resident owns an equity interest, to sell, lease, encumber, or otherwise convey any interest in the resident's unit [Health & Safety Code § 1775(b)]. A provider also may require that the resident only sell, lease, or otherwise convey the interest to persons approved by the provider [Health & Safety Code § 1775(b)]. Provider approval may be based on factors which include, but are not limited to, age, health status, insurance risk, financial status, or burden on the provider's personnel, resources, or physical facility [Health & Safety Code § 1775(b)]. The provider must record any restrictions on a real property interest [Health & Safety Code § 1775(b)].

Equity project providers may impose a resale fee on sellers [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(2)]. On the cancellation of a continuing care contract entered into after January 1, 1996 and executed in conjunction with the purchase of an equity interest from the provider, the provider may charge a resale fee not to exceed the excess of the gross resale price of the equity interest over the purchase price paid by, or on behalf of, the resident for the interest [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(2)]. No resale fee may exceed the sum of 10 percent of either the original or resale price of the equity interest and 100 percent of the excess if any, of the gross resale price of the equity interest over the purchase price paid by or on behalf of the resident, if the continuing care contract involved the purchase of an equity interest from the provider and is terminated after the cancellation period [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(e)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(f) ("gross resale price" defined)]. The same rule applies if the continuing care contract involved the purchase of an equity interest from another resident and is terminated at any time [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(e)(2)]. These restrictions do not limit the provider's ability to withhold delinquent periodic fees, late charges, accrued interest, or assessments from the sale proceeds, as provided by the continuing care contract or the real estate documents governing the equity continuing care retirement community [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(g)].

§ 105.21 Deposit Agreements

[1] Definition

A "deposit agreement" is an agreement made between any entity accepting a deposit and a depositor [Health & Safety Code § 1771(d)(3)]. Deposit agreements for deposits received by an applicant before the release of funds by the Department of Social Services from the deposit escrow account are subject to the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 1780.4 (discussed in [2], below) [Health & Safety Code § 1771(d)(3)]. An entity must apply for and hold a currently valid permit to accept deposits before it may enter into a deposit agreement or accept a deposit [Health & Safety Code § 1771.2(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(2) ("entity" defined); Health & Safety Code §§ 1779-1779.8 (application procedure), 1779.10 (causes for denial of application)].

[2] Statutory Requirements

All deposit agreements must be in writing and must contain specified information [Health & Safety Code § 1780.4(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1780.4(d) (required format); Health & Safety Code § 1780.4(e)-(i) (required contents)]. All deposit agreement forms must be approved by the Department of Social Services before their use [Health & Safety Code § 1780.4(b)], and all changes to a deposit agreement, or to a deposit escrow account agreement, must be submitted to and approved by the Department before use by the applicant [Health & Safety Code § 1781.6]. All deposits, excluding processing fees, must be placed in an escrow account [Health & Safety Code § 1781(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1781.2, 1781.8 (requirements for deposit accounts); see also Health & Safety Code § 1793.5(b) (misdemeanor to fail to place deposit in escrow account)]. All terms governing the deposit escrow account must be approved in advance by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 1781(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1781(b)-(f) (requirements for deposit escrow accounts); Health & Safety Code § 1781.4 (required contents of deposit escrow account agreement)].

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.22

§ 105.22 Residents' Rights

[1] Guaranteed by Law

Residents of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities in California are entitled to certain fundamental human rights [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599, 1771.7; see also Health & Safety Code § 1250(c), (d)(6) (definitions)], which may be denied or limited only if otherwise authorized by law and the reasons for denial or limitation are documented in the resident's health record [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(b) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(b) (intermediate care facilities)]. This "Patients' Bill of Rights" is set forth by statute and regulation [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.1-1599.4; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527 (skilled nursing facilities), 73523 (intermediate care facilities)]. Residents in California residential care facilities for the elderly are accorded slightly different rights [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468]. Facilities must encourage and assist residents in exercising their rights as residents and citizens, including the right to assert grievances without reprisal by the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(7) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(7) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(a)(4) (residential care facilities)].

Facilities that are certified under federal Medicare and Medicaid plans must also protect and promote residents' rights. Residents in Medicare-certified and Medicaid-certified facilities are entitled to "a dignified existence, self-determination, and communication with and access to persons and services inside and outside the facility" [42 C.F.R. § 483.10] and have other, more specific rights similar to those guaranteed under California law [see 42 C.F.R. §§ 483.10-483.75]. This discussion focuses mainly on California law, but citations to parallel provisions in the federal regulations are included and should be consulted if the facility participates in the Medicare or Medicaid programs. Many, if not most, skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities in California do participate in either the Medicare or the Medicaid programs.

Effective July 1, 2007 [see 2006 Stat., Ch. 530, § 1], the following federal regulations, as in effect on July 1, 2006, apply to skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities, regardless of a resident's payment source or the Medi-Cal or Medicare certification status of the facility in which the resident resides [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(i)]:

- 42 C.F.R. § 483.10 (resident rights) [see §§ 105.19[2], 105.22[2], [6]-[9], 105.24].

- 42 C.F.R. § 483.12 (admission, transfer, and discharge rights) [see §§ 105.19[2], 105.22[10], 105.23[2], [4]].
- 42 C.F.R. § 483.13 (facility practices and staff treatment of residents; reporting alleged violations) [see §§ 104.206[2], 105.22[7]].
- 42 C.F.R. § 483.15 (care to enhance resident's quality of life) [see §§ 105.22[5], [7], [8]].

However, a noncertified facility need not provide notice of Medicaid or Medicare benefits, covered services, or eligibility procedures [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(i)].

Skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities are consolidated into one category, called "facilities," for the purposes of determining residents' rights and other conditions of Medicare and Medicaid eligibility [see 42 C.F.R. § 483.5; see also Pub. L. No. 100-203, § 4211, 101 Stat. 1330-183 (amending 42 U.S.C. § 1396r as of October 1, 1990)].

[2] Required Disclosures

California skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities must establish written policies regarding patients' rights and facility rules governing patient conduct and must make these written policies available to patients, patients' guardians, next of kin, sponsoring agencies, representative payees, and members of the public [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a) (intermediate care facilities)]. Before or at the time of admission, each patient must be informed of these rights and must acknowledge in writing that he or she has been informed [Health & Safety Code § 1599.74(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(1) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(1) (intermediate care facilities)].

Contracts for admission to skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities must include copies of the Patients' Bill of Rights as set forth by the California statutory and regulatory provisions, and information regarding the facility's grievance procedure and the resident's right to contact state officials regarding grievances [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.74, 1599.75; see § 105.200[1][m]]. Health & Safety Code § 1599.61, adopted in 1997, required the Department of Long Term Care to develop a standard comprehensive version of the Patients' Bill of Rights to be a mandatory attachment to the standardized admission agreements that all skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities were required to use by January 1, 2000 [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(a),(d); see discussion in § 105.19[2]]. The Department was also required to develop Spanish, Chinese, and other translations of the Patients' Bill of Rights as needed to provide copies to members of any ethnic group that represents at least 1 percent of the state's skilled nursing facility, intermediate care facility, and nursing facility population [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(e)]. Development of the standardized admission forms has proven to be a difficult and controversial process, however, and as of January 2009, the Department has not finalized regulations containing the new forms. Department sources have advised that there is no anticipated date for final implementation of these regulations. Accordingly, the Department is advising operators to continue to use their current agreement forms.

The patient has the right to know what services are available in the facility, the charges for those services, and the charges for any services not covered by either federal programs or under the facility's per diem rate [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(2) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(2) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(5), (6)]. The facility must disclose any significant beneficial interest existing between it and any ancillary health service facility or provider, and must advise residents of their right to choose different ancillary facilities or providers for needed services [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(g)(1)]. This disclosure is not required if a resident receives services under a prepaid payment or premium plan [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(g)(2)].

At the time of admission residential care facilities for the elderly must personally advise each resident and his or her responsible person or conservator of the resident's rights. A copy of these rights, signed by the resident and his or her responsible person or conservator, must be included in the resident's record [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(b)].

Prior to or at the time of a resident's admission, Medicare-certified and Medicaid-certified facilities must inform the resident, both orally and in writing in a language that the resident understands, of his or her rights as a resident and of all the rules and regulations governing resident conduct and responsibilities. The resident must acknowledge receipt of this information, and of any amendments to it, in writing [42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(1)].

At or before the time of admission to a continuing care retirement community, the provider must provide the resident with a copy of the residents' bill of rights provided for by Health & Safety Code § 1771.5, in addition to any statutory or regulatory bill of rights required to be provided to residents of residential care facilities or skilled nursing facilities [Health & Safety Code § 1771.5(c); see § 105.230[2], Exhibit H].

[3] Format Requirements for Printed Materials

Specified printed materials that are provided to a patient by an employee or authorized agent of a skilled nursing facility [Health & Safety Code § 1250(c)], intermediate care facility [Health & Safety Code § 1250(d)], nursing facility [Health & Safety Code § 1250(k)], or residential care facility for the elderly [Health & Safety Code § 1569.2(l)], must be printed in at least a 12-point font that is clear and legible [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(a)]. These materials include [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(b)]:

- Admission and discharge papers and forms from skilled nursing facilities, intermediate care facilities, and nursing facilities.
- Medical and therapeutic instructions prepared by the facility specifically for an individual upon his or her discharge from a skilled nursing facility, an intermediate care facility, or a nursing facility.
- Any contract for consent for hospitalization, or agreement to assume financial responsibility between a patient and a skilled nursing facility, an intermediate care facility, or a nursing facility.
- Instructions and forms for advance health care directives [see Prob. Code § 4605 (definition); see also Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, §§ 104.31, 104.230 et seq.].
- Information produced by the facility regarding the rights and responsibilities of patients or residents while receiving care at the facility, and regarding grievances and appeals, including forms and instructions.
- Correspondence written, printed, or produced by skilled nursing facilities, intermediate care facilities, nursing facilities, or a residential care facilities for the elderly.

The facility's policies and procedures are specifically excluded from these requirements [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(d)].

Skilled nursing facilities, intermediate care facilities, nursing facilities, and any residential care facility for the elderly, may continue to use their supply of materials that exists on January 1, 2003, until that supply is exhausted or until January 1, 2006, whichever occurs first. Effective January 1, 2006, the facility must comply with the requirements enumerated above [Health & Safety Code § 123222.1(c)].

On admission of a patient to a skilled nursing, intermediate care, or nursing facility, the facility must ask if the patient wishes specified information regarding patients' rights and responsibilities to be provided to the patient's next of kin or agent under a durable power of attorney for health care [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(a)(1)]. The facility must provide that information, if the patient so directs [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(a)(1)]. The materials provided must include a comprehensive Patients' Bill of Rights, as described in Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(d) [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(a)(1); see [1], [2], above, and § 105.200[2], Exhibit C]. At a minimum, until Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(d) is fully implemented [see [2], above], the Patients' Bill of Rights provided in accordance with this law must include all of the following [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(a)(2)(A); see [1], [2], above]:

- The rights contained in Health & Safety Code §§ 1599-1599.89 (Skilled Nursing and Intermediate Care Facility Patients' Bill of Rights).
- The resident rights applicable to skilled nursing facilities, contained in 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72527.
- The resident rights applicable to intermediate care facilities, contained in 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 73523.
- The resident rights applicable to long-term care facilities under 42 C.F.R. §§ 483.10-483.25.

The facility may also provide written materials regarding the facility's expectations of patients and patients' responsibilities while the patient is receiving care at the facility [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(a)(2)(B)].

On the request of the patient, or of the patient's next of kin or agent under a durable power of attorney for health care, a representative of any facility providing patients' rights information or other documentation described above must explain the materials provided [Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(c)].

Similar requirements exist for general acute care hospitals [see Health & Safety Code § 123222.2(b); see also Health & Safety Code § 1250(a) ("acute care hospital" defined); Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, § 104.11].

[4] Services to Be Provided

The facility must employ adequate personnel to carry out its functions, and an adequately staffed activities program to meet the needs and interests of its residents [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(a), (d)]. Good personal hygiene must be provided to all residents, including care for the prevention of bedsores and the reduction of incontinence [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(b)]. The facility must be kept clean, sanitary, and in good repair at all times [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(e)]. Nurses' call systems must be maintained in all nursing units, and extension cords must be available to reach each resident's bed [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(f)]. The facility must provide food that meets the residents' needs, in accordance with physicians' orders [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(c)].

[5] Resident Councils

Residential care, skilled nursing, and intermediate care facilities must establish and maintain resident councils. Each council must include the residents of the facility and may include family members of residents, advocates or ombudsman groups interested in residents of health facilities, and facility personnel [Health & Safety Code § 1418.2(a); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.15(c)]. Family members of residents must be invited to council meetings [Health & Safety Code § 1418.2(a)]. In addition, facilities must permit the formation of family councils composed of residents' family members and permit these councils to meet and post meeting notices, minutes, newsletters, or other information pertaining to the operation or interest of the family council on facility premises [Health & Safety Code § 1418.4; see Health & Safety Code § 1569.158; Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8; for further discussion, see § 105.15[2]].

[6] Medical and Personal Matters

Every resident of a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility has the right to be fully informed of his or her total health status and to be afforded the opportunity to participate on an immediate and ongoing basis in the total plan of care, including the identification of medical, nursing, and psychosocial needs and the planning of related services. The resident also has the right to consent to or to refuse any treatment or procedure or participation in experimental research and to receive all information that is material to his or her decision to accept or refuse any proposed treatment or procedure [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(3)-(5) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(3)-(5) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(4), (8), (d)].

In recognition of these rights, a facility must abide by regulatory and other laws governing "informed consent" [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72528 (skilled nursing facilities), 73524 (intermediate care facilities)]. Specific disclosures and other requirements are required for the proposed administration of psychotherapeutic drugs or physical restraints or the prolonged use of a device that may lead to the inability to regain use of a normal bodily function [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(5), (23), 72528(b) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(5), (23), 73524(b) (intermediate care facilities)]. As part of its policies and procedures relating to patients' rights, a facility must include how it will, in consultation with a patient's physician, identify who may serve as a patient's representative [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(d), 73523(d)] when an incapacitated patient has no conservator or attorney in fact under a valid durable power of attorney for health care [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(e)(2) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(e)(2) (intermediate care facilities)]. In cases when informed consent for a proposed non-emergency medical procedure is required, but the attending physician determines that the resident lacks the capacity to make decisions concerning his or her health care and there is no person with legal authority to make those decisions on behalf of the resident, an interdisciplinary team must review the proposed procedure on behalf of the patient [Health & Safety Code § 1418.8].

The resident's medical and personal records must be treated confidentially. He or she has the right to refuse or approve the release of those records to any individuals outside of the facility, except as may be otherwise authorized by law [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(10) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(10) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(e)].

[7] Safety and Personal Dignity

Residents of residential care, skilled nursing, and intermediate care facilities have a right to be treated with consideration, respect, and dignity [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(11) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(11) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(a)(1) (residential care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. §§ 483.10, 483.15(a)]. Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities may not require residents to perform services for the facility except for therapeutic purposes pursuant to a resident's care plan [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(12) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(12) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(h)]. Residents have a right to be free from mental and physical abuse; they also have the right to be free from psychotherapeutic drugs and physical restraints used for the purpose of patient discipline or staff convenience and to be free from psychotherapeutic drugs used as a chemical restraint except in very limited, emergency situations [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(9), (23) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(9), (23) (intermediate care facilities); see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(a)(3) (residential care facilities); 42 C.F.R. § 483.13].

Residents must be permitted to retain and use their personal clothing and possessions as space permits, unless doing so is medically contraindicated or disruptive of the rights of the other residents [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(15) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(15) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(a)(12) (residential care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(l)]. Residents of residential care facilities must also be provided with access to individual storage for private use [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(a)(13)].

[8] Privacy and Association

Facilities must respect the residents' rights to privacy in treatment, care for their personal needs, and oral and written communications with persons inside and outside the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1418.3(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(11), (13), (20), (21) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(11), (13), (20), (21) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(a)(11), (14), (15) (residential care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(e), (i)-(k)]. Facilities must establish daily visiting hours and must permit visits at other hours in certain situations [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(17)-(20) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(17)-(20) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(a)(10), (11) (residential care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(j), (k)]. Residents must be permitted to meet with and participate in the activities of any social, religious, and/or community group [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(14) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(14) (intermediate care facilities), 87572(a)(5) (residential care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.15(b), (d)].

Married residents must be assured privacy for spousal visits. Spouses who are both living in the same facility must be permitted to share a room unless medically contraindicated [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(16) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(16) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(m)].

[9] Financial Affairs

Residents of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities have the right to manage their personal financial affairs. If a resident voluntarily delegates this responsibility to the facility, the facility must provide the resident at least quarterly with an accounting of the transactions made on his or her behalf [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(7)(i), (c)]. For further discussion of the regulations governing a resident's delegation of financial management responsibilities to a facility, see §§ 105.24, 105.122.

Residents of residential care facilities for the elderly are entitled to keep and spend their own money [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87572(a)(12)].

[10] Right to Remain in Facility

Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities may only transfer or discharge a resident for medical reasons, either for the welfare of the resident or for the welfare of the other residents, or for nonpayment. Reasonable advance notice must be given to assure orderly transfer or discharge [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(6) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(6) (intermediate facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.12].

If the resident of a long-term health care facility has been hospitalized in an acute care hospital and asserts his or her rights to readmission under bed hold provisions or readmission rights of either state or federal law, and the facility refuses to admit him or her, the resident may appeal the facility's refusal [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(h)(1)]. This refusal is treated as if it were an involuntary transfer under federal law, and the rights and procedures that apply to appeals of transfers and discharges of nursing facility residents apply to the resident's appeal under Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(h) [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(h)(2)]. If the resident who appeals is eligible under Medi-Cal, the resident must remain in the hospital, and the hospital may be reimbursed at the administrative day rate, pending the final determination, unless the resident agrees to placement in another facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(h)(3)]. If the resident who appeals is not eligible under Medi-Cal, the resident must remain in the hospital if other payment is available, pending final determination, unless the resident agrees to placement in another facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(h)(4)]. If the resident is not eligible under Medi-Cal and has no other source of payment, the hearing and final determination must be made within 48 hours [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1(h)(5)].

For further discussion of the regulations governing transfers and discharges, and the additional requirements applicable to Medicare and Medicaid-certified facilities, see § 105.23.

[11] Rights of Incompetent Residents

If a resident of a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility is judged incompetent, found by his or her physician to be medically incapable of understanding his or her rights, or exhibits a communication barrier, certain of the resident's rights pass to his or her authorized representative [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(c)-(e), 72528 (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(c)-(e), 73524 (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(a)(3)].

[12] Additional Rights of Residents in California Residential Care Facilities

Individuals in California residential care facilities for the elderly have additional rights. These rights are broader than the rights afforded patients in skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities, and generally are not limited by medical considerations. Prior to admission, an individual is entitled to visit the residential care facility for the elderly with his or her family and responsible persons [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87572(a)(7)]. He or she has the right to be informed by the facility regarding complaints and the procedures for registering complaints confidentially, including the address and telephone number of the complaint receiving unit of the Department of Health Services, Division of Licensing and Certification for Hospitals and Convalescent Homes [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87572(a)(4)]. If the facility has seven or more residents, it must post a notice, in areas accessible to residents and their relatives, that describes the procedures for filing confidential complaints and also contains a copy of the patients' rights, or, in lieu of a posted copy, instructions on how to obtain additional copies of those rights. If a significant number of the residents in the facility do not read English, this notice must be posted in a language that they can read [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(c), (d)].

Residents of residential care facilities for the elderly are entitled to safe, healthful, and comfortable living accommodations and must be free to leave the facility at any time and to move out of the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(a)(2), (6), (18)]. A residential care facility for the elderly may not subject a resident to corporal or unusual punishment, humiliation, intimidation, mental abuse, or other actions of a punitive nature, such as the withholding of monetary allowances or interfering with daily living functions such as eating, sleeping, or elimination [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(a)(3)]. The facility must keep the resident's family or responsible persons regularly informed of activities related to the resident's care or services and must promptly and appropriately respond to communications from the resident's family or responsible persons [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(a)(8), (9)]. Facilities must also provide residents with assistance in exercising their right to vote [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87468(a)(17)].

[13] Residents' Remedies

In addition to any other remedy provided by law, a resident or patient of a skilled nursing facility or an intermediate care facility may sue the licensee of a facility that violates the rights of any patient or resident as set forth in the Patients' Bill of Rights. The licensee is liable for up to $500 as well as costs and attorneys' fees, and may be enjoined from permitting the violation to continue. The licensee will be liable for the acts of its employees in any matter involving a violation of the Patients' Bill of Rights. An agreement by a patient or resident of a skilled nursing facility or intermediate care facility to waive his or her rights to sue the facility is contrary to public policy and void [Health & Safety Code § 1430(b), (c)].

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.23

§ 105.23 Transfers and Discharges

[1] Legal Restrictions on Transfers and Discharges

Transfer or discharge from a long-term care facility may have an adverse psychological impact, known as "transfer trauma," upon an elderly resident. Certain federal and state statutes and regulations are aimed at limiting transfer trauma by restricting the grounds upon which patients may be transferred or discharged.

[2] Skilled Nursing and Intermediate Care Facilities

A skilled nursing facility must maintain written transfer agreements with nearby health facilities in order to assure that those services will be available to facilitate the transfer of patients. When a patient is transferred from one facility to another, that patient's health record must reflect his or her condition at the time of transfer, the date and time the transfer took place, and the reason for the transfer. Unless the transfer is carried out in an emergency situation, the health record must also reflect the informed written or telephonic acknowledgment of the patient or the patient's guardian or other authorized representative [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72519; see 42 C.F.R. § 483.12]. Intermediate care facilities must also maintain written transfer agreements with nearby health facilities when appropriate [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 73503; see 42 C.F.R. § 483.12].

[3] Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly

A resident of a residential care facility for the elderly may be evicted only for specified cause and only upon 30 days notice or if the resident's behavior constitutes a threat to his or her health or safety, or the health and safety of others in the facility, on three days notice [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a), (b); see § 105.130]. A resident of a residential care facility may be relocated because the resident has a health condition which cannot be cared for within the limits of the license of the facility or which requires inpatient care in a licensed health facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 87223, 87612].

[4] Transfer and Discharge of Medi-Cal and Medicare Patients

Regulations governing the transfer and discharge of patients from Medicare- and Medicaid-certified facilities are found at 42 C.F.R. § 483.12.

Problems may arise if a facility is decertified for Medi-Cal or Medicaid participation. Since a decertified facility can no longer obtain reimbursement for care provided under those programs, Medicare or Medi-Cal recipients in a decertified facility must be transferred [see [5], below]. These patients have no constitutional right to a hearing before the facility is decertified since they have no enforceable expectation of benefits to pay for care in an institution that has been determined to be unqualified [O'Bannon v. Town Court Nursing Center (1980) 447 U.S. 773, 785, 100 S. Ct. 2467, 65 L. Ed. 2d 506] .

[5] Transfer Pursuant to Licensing Changes or Due to Earthquakes, Fires, and Other Causes

When patients are transferred due to changes in the status of the license or operations of a facility, including a facility closure or voluntary or involuntary termination of Medi-Cal or Medicare certification, the facility must take reasonable steps to protect the residents' safety and minimize transfer trauma [Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(a)]. The facility must give residents who will be affected, or their representatives, 30 days' written notice of the change, unless the change is due to an action by the Department of Health Services to revoke or suspend the facility's license [Health & Safety Code § 1336]. Thirty days written notice of the transfer services that the facility is legally obligated to provide must also be given, except in cases in which the change is due to a temporary license suspension under Health & Safety Code § 1296 [Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(c), (d)].

Before residents are transferred, the health facility, at a minimum, must do all of the following [see Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(a)]:

- Be responsible for ensuring that the resident's attending physician, if available, or a facility medical director, if available, completes the medical assessment of the resident's condition and susceptibility to adverse health consequences, including psychosocial effects, recommendations for counseling, follow-up visits, and other recommended services by designated health professionals, and recommendations for preventing or ameliorating potential adverse health consequences in the event of transfer, before written notice of transfer is given to the resident.
- Be responsible for ensuring that the facility nursing staff and activity director complete an assessment of the social and physical functioning of the resident based on the relevant portions of the minimum data set [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.15], including recommendations for preventing or ameliorating potential adverse health consequences in the event of transfer, before written notice of transfer is given to the resident.
- Be responsible for evaluating the relocation needs of the resident, including proximity to the resident's representative, and determine the most appropriate and available type of future care and services for the resident before written notice of transfer is given to the resident or the resident's representative. This evaluation and medical assessment must be discussed with the resident or the resident's representative and made a part of the medical records for transfer.
- At least 30 days in advance of the transfer, inform the resident or the resident's representative of alternative facilities that are available and adequate to meet resident and family needs.
- Arrange for appropriate future medical care and services, unless the resident or resident's representative has otherwise made these arrangements. This requirement does not obligate a facility to pay for future care and services.

A resident has the right to remain in the facility for up to 60 days after the approved written notice of the facility's intent to transfer the resident, if an appropriate placement based on the relocation assessment and relocation recommendations has not been made [Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(h)]. The facility must maintain an appropriate level of staffing in order to ensure the well-being of all the residents as they continue to reside in the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(h)].

Similar services must be provided when transfers are made necessary, or adverse health consequences are caused by emergencies such as earthquakes, fires, or floods [Health & Safety Code § 1336.3]. If 10 or more residents are likely to be transferred due to any voluntary or involuntary change in the facility's status or operation, the facility must submit a relocation plan to the Department of Social Services at least 15 days prior to the written transfer notification given to any resident or resident's representative [see Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(g)].

If residents of a residential care facility for the elderly are transferred from the facility due to a temporary suspension of the facility's license for the residents' protection, the Department of Social Services must make every effort to minimize the residents' transfer trauma. The Department must seek the services of medical personnel and any local agency having placement or advocacy responsibility to assist it in locating alternative placement sites, contacting relatives responsible for the residents' care, and evaluating and transferring the residents. The Department may also require the licensee to prepare and submit a written plan for the relocation of the facility's residents, and to provide other information as necessary [Health & Safety Code § 1569.525].

The Department may determine that even though suspension of a facility's license is not called for, the facility is not equipped to care for a resident with a particular health condition. On making such a determination, the Department may order the licensee to remove the resident [Health & Safety Code § 1569.54(a)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.54(b) (notice and review requirements)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

§ 105.24 Handling of Patients' Funds

Patients in long-term care facilities are often unable to handle their financial affairs competently. In order to protect patients from the potential abuses inherent in these situations, a facility that manages a patient's funds must comply with certain restrictions and reporting requirements.

A patient is entitled to manage his or her own financial affairs [see § 105.22[5], [8]] and must be advised of that right in writing upon admission to the facility [see § 105.19[1] above; see also § 105.122 for the alternative methods by which patients' funds may be handled]. However, the patient may delegate this management right to the facility. The applicable regulations prescribe standards governing the form and limits of this delegation [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8), 72529 (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8), 73557 (intermediate care facilities); see also 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(c) (facilities certified for Medicare and Medicaid)].

The delegation to the facility of the right to manage a patient's personal funds must be made in writing [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8) (intermediate care facilities)]. Once a facility has assumed the responsibility for managing a patient's funds, it must comply with detailed management, reporting, and record keeping requirements, including the submission of quarterly statements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8), 72529 (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8), 73557 (intermediate care facilities)]. The facility may not use patients' funds as its own, or commingle its funds with patients' funds. Patients' funds must be kept separate, intact, and free from any liability the facility incurs in the use of its own funds [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72529(a)(1) (skilled nursing facilities), 73557(a)(1) (intermediate care facilities)]. Facilities that are certified for Medicare and Medicaid may not commingle patients' funds with those of any person other than another patient [see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(c)(4)(i)].

When a patient is discharged, his or her funds must be surrendered in exchange for a signed receipt. Funds kept within the facility must be surrendered upon demand, and funds deposited elsewhere must be made available within three normal banking days [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72529(a)(8) (skilled nursing facilities), 73557(a)(6) (intermediate care facilities)]. Upon the death of a patient, except in a coroner or medical examiner case, his or her funds must be surrendered within 30 days to the executor or administrator of the estate, or to the patient's responsible party, in exchange for a signed receipt [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72529(a)(9) (skilled nursing facilities), 73557(a)(7) (intermediate care facilities)].

For a detailed list of a long-term care facility's responsibilities for the handling of patients' funds, see § 105.122.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.25

§ 105.25 Prevention of Theft and Loss of Patients' Belongings

Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities must make reasonable efforts to safeguard the property of their residents. A facility that fails to do so must reimburse residents for lost or stolen property at its current value [Health & Safety Code § 1289.3(a)]. Every skilled nursing and intermediate care facility must implement a program to protect residents' valuables and prevent theft and loss of their belongings [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4; see Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.152-1569.154 (similar procedures required for residential care facilities)]. The program must include the following features [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4]:

- Establishment and posting of the facility's theft and investigation procedures.
- Orientation to the facility's theft policies and investigation procedures for all facility employees.
- Reports to the Department of Health Services, the county health department, law enforcement agencies, and the Office of the Long-Term Care Ombudsman [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 9700, 9710; see also § 105.26[4]] regarding lost or stolen property of a resident valued at $25 or more, and reports to the local law enforcement agency within 36 hours of notice to the administrator of the suspected theft of any property valued at $100 or more.
- Preparation of a written personal property inventory for each resident on admission, and updating of the inventory as needed [see § 105.200[2], Exhibit D; § 105.222[2], Exhibit A].
- Inventory and surrender, by signed receipt, of each resident's personal effects and valuables on discharge or death, or immediate notification to the public administrator of any resident who dies without next of kin known [see Prob. Code § 7600.5; see also § 105.200[2], Exhibit D; § 105.222[2], Exhibit A].
- Semiannual documentation of the facility's efforts to control loss and theft.
- Establishment of a method of marking residents' personal property items for identification.

- Maintenance of a secured area for the safekeeping of residents' property, and the availability of locks for residents' bedside drawers or cabinets.

- Notification to all current residents, and to new residents on admission, of the facility's theft and loss policies and procedures [see §§ 105.200[2], P 16 (notice on admission), § 105.204[2] (notice to current residents)].

Copies of Health & Safety Code §§ 1289.3, 1289.4, and 1289.5, which set forth these requirements, must be given to all residents and their responsible parties, and made available to prospective residents and their responsible parties on request [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4(k)]. A facility must be cited by the Department of Health Services for failure to implement a theft and loss program or failure to include the required features in its program [Health & Safety Code § 1289.3(b)].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.26

§ 105.26 Inspection of Facility and Patient Complaints

[1] Centralized Consumer Response Unit

The Department of Health Services, Licensing and Certification Division is required by law to establish a Centralized Consumer Response Unit within the Division to respond to consumer inquiries and complaints [Health & Safety § 1419(a)]. On receipt of consumer inquiries, the Response Unit must offer assistance to consumers in resolving concerns about the quality of care and the quality of life in long-term health care facilities [Health & Safety § 1419(b)]. This assistance may include, but is not limited to, all of the following [Health & Safety § 1419(b)]:

- Offering to provide to consumers education and information about state licensing and federal certification standards, resident rights, name and address of facilities, referral to other entities as appropriate, and facility compliance history.
- Offering to participate in telephone conference calls between consumers and providers to resolve concerns within the scope of the authority of the Department. If the inquiry or concern is determined to warrant an on site investigation, the inquiry or concern must be considered a complaint and handled in accordance with the complaint investigation process set forth in Health & Safety Code § 1420.
- Initiating on site investigations in response to oral or written complaints made in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1419 [see [2], below], if the Response Unit determines that there is a reasonable basis to believe that the allegations in the complaints describe one or more violations of state law by a long-term care facility.

Nothing in Health & Safety Code § 1419(a) or (b), discussed above, precludes the Department from taking any enforcement action available under state or federal law [Health & Safety § 1419(c)].

[2] Right to Request Inspection

Any person, including a member of the general public, may request an inspection of a long-term health care facility by notifying the State Department of Health Services, Division of Licensing for Hospitals and Convalescent Homes, of an alleged violation of any applicable laws. The complainant's notice may be in writing signed by the complainant and must set forth the alleged violation in reasonable detail. The complaint may also be made by telephone or personal visit. If the complaint is oral, it will be reduced to writing by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 1419(d)]. Neither the names of the complainant nor of any persons mentioned in the complaint will appear in the original, any copy of the complaint, or any record that is published, released, or otherwise made available to the facility, unless the complainant requests the release of names or the matter results in a judicial proceeding. However, the name of any authorized officer, employee, or agent of the Department conducting the investigation or inspection is not protected from disclosure [Health & Safety Code § 1419(e); see Jongepier v. Lopez (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 535, 538-539, 191 Cal. Rptr. 131] .

The Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud, which operates under the authority of the Office of the Attorney General, reviews, investigates, and prosecutes patient complaints of abuse, neglect, and discrimination occurring in facilities that receive payments under the Medi-Cal plan [Gov. Code § 12528(a), (b)]. The Bureau also investigates charges of fraud in the administration of the Medi-Cal program (fraud by beneficiaries is handled by the Audits and Investigations Branch of the Department of Health Services) [Gov. Code § 12528(a)]. The Bureau collects information regarding abuse and neglect cases in Medi-Cal facilities, and disseminates this information to local law enforcement agencies [Gov. Code § 12528(j)]. Reports prepared by the Bureau are kept confidential until they become matters of public record [Gov. Code § 12528(g)].

[3] Disclosure of Licensing Reports

Residential care facilities must place in a conspicuous place copies of all licensing reports issued by the California Department of Social Services within the preceding 12 months, and all licensing reports issued by the department resulting from the department's most recent annual visit to the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38]. This requirement, however, does not apply to any portion of a licensing report referring to a complaint that was found by the department to be unfounded or unsubstantiated [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38]. During the admission process, the facility must inform the resident and the resident's responsible person in writing that the licensing reports are available for review at the facility and that copies of these reports and other documents pertaining to the facility are available from the appropriate district office of the department. The facility also must provide the telephone number and address of the appropriate district office [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38].

[4] Office of State Long-Term Care Ombudsman

To encourage community contact and involvement with elderly patients in long-term care facilities and to encourage those patients to effectively exercise their civil and human rights [see § 105.22], California has established an office of the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman within the Department of Aging [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 9700; see also Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 9710-9719].

Representatives of the office have the right to enter long-term care facilities to hear, investigate, and resolve complaints of elderly patients, and to render advice to them [Welf. & Inst. Code § 9722(a)]. The office will investigate and attempt to resolve any complaints and concerns that it receives from or on behalf of patients in long-term care facilities [Welf. & Inst. Code § 9720(a)]. The office of the ombudsman may refer any complaint it receives to the appropriate state agency, such as the Board of Examiners for Nursing Home Administration, or the Board of Medical Quality Assurance, and any complaint alleging an immediate threat to the patient's health and safety may be given first priority [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 9721].

[5] Retaliation for Complaints

A long-term health care facility that retaliates or discriminates against a patient who pursues a grievance is subject to a civil penalty of no more than $500. If a facility against which a complaint has been filed by or on behalf of a patient, attempts to expel or discriminates against that patient within 180 days after the complaint is filed, there will be a rebuttable presumption that the facility took that action in retaliation for the filing of the complaint [see Health & Safety Code § 1432(a), (b)].

[6] Classes of Violations

[a] Types of Citations and Burden of Proof

Violations for which long-term health care facilities may be cited fall into three classes: Class "AA," Class "A" and Class "B" violations [see Health & Safety Code § 1424]. A licensee that is cited for a Class "A," "AA," or "B" violation has the burden of proving that it did what might reasonably be expected of a long-term health care facility licensee, acting under similar circumstances, to comply with the subject regulation. If the licensee sustains this burden, the citation must be reduced or dismissed [Health & Safety Code § 1424(c), (d), (e)].

No citations will be issued to facilities if all of the following conditions are met [Health & Safety Code § 1424.1(a)(1)-(4)]:

- The facility maintains an ongoing quality assurance program.
- The violation was not willful and resulted in no actual harm to a patient or guest.
- The violation was first discovered by the facility and was promptly and accurately recorded in the quality assurance log prior to discovery by the Department.
- Promptly upon discovery, the facility implemented remedial action satisfactory to the Department to correct the violation and prevent a recurrence.

Relevant facts considered by the California Department of Health Services in determining the amount of the civil penalty for a violations must be documented by the Department on an attachment to the citation and available in public record [Health & Safety Code § 1424(b)].

[b] Class "A" Violations

Class "A" violations are those that present an imminent danger of death or serious harm to the patients or residents or present the substantial probability of death or serious physical harm. Class "A" violations, which may include physical conditions and practices at the facility, must be eliminated immediately unless the state allows the facility a specific period of time to make the correction. The basic civil penalty for each class "A" violation is $1,000 to $10,000 [Health & Safety Code § 1424(d)]. However, in the case of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, the civil penalty for Class "A" citations is increased to $2,000 to $20,000 for each and every citation [Health & Safety Code § 1424.5(a)(2)].

[c] Class "AA" Violations

Class "AA" violations are violations that meet the criteria for a Class "A" violation and which the Department determines to have been a direct proximate cause of death of a patient or resident of a long-term health care facility. The basic civil penalty for each Class "AA" violation is $5,000 to $25,000 [Health & Safety Code § 1424(c)]. However, in the case of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, the civil penalty for Class "A" citations is increased to $25,000 to $100,000 for each and every citation [Health & Safety Code § 1424.5(a)(1)].

In any action to enforce a class "AA" citation, the department must prove that the violation was a direct proximate cause of the patient's or resident's death, that the death resulted from the type of occurrence that the regulation was designed to prevent, and that the patient or resident was among the class of persons for whose protection the regulation was adopted [Health & Safety Code § 1424(c)]. The department must consider suspending or revoking the facility's license for each Class "AA" citation within a 12-month period that has become final. For a third or subsequent Class "AA" citation in a facility within that 12-month period that has been sustained following a citation review conference, the department is required to commence action to suspend or revoke the facility's license [Health & Safety Code § 1424(c); see Health & Safety Code § 1294(c)]. In addition, if a skilled nursing facility or intermediate care facility receives a second or subsequent Class "AA" citation within a 24-month period, the department must commence action to suspend or revoke the facility's license [Health & Safety Code § 1424.5(a)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 1294(c)].

[d] Payment of Uncontested Class "AA" or "A" Citations

A licensee who elects not to contest a Class "AA" or "A" citation can pay the department the minimum amount specified by law for that type of citation, or 65 percent of the amount specified in the citation, whichever is greater, for each violation, within 30 business days after the citation is issued [Health & Safety Code § 1424.5(b)].

[e] Class "B" Violations

Class "B" violations are those that have a direct or immediate relationship to the health, safety, or security of the patients or residents. Unless otherwise determined to be a Class "A" violation, any violation of a patient's rights [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527, 73523] that is determined by the department to cause (or under circumstances likely to cause) significant humiliation, indignity, anxiety, or other emotional trauma to a patient is a Class "B" violation. The citation for a Class "B" violation must specify the amount of time in which the violation must be corrected. If the correction is made within that time, the facility will not be fined if the violation was the only one in the preceding 12 or 13-month period. Otherwise, each Class "B" violation subjects the facility to a civil penalty of $100 to $1,000 [Health & Safety Code § 1424(e)].

[f] Willful Falsification of Health Records

Any willful material falsification or willful material omission in the health record for a patient of a long-term health care facility also is a violation subject to a monetary penalty [see Health & Safety Code § 1424(f) (all facilities); Health & Safety Code § 1424.5(a)(3) (skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities)].

[7] Related Remedies

A resident or patient of a skilled nursing facility or an intermediate care facility may also sue the licensee of a facility that violates the rights of any patient or resident as set forth in the Patients' Bill of Rights [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72527]. For additional discussion of this right, see § 105.22[1]. A contract for admission to a skilled nursing facility or an intermediate care facility cannot contain any clause purporting to alter the statutory period for filing an action against the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.82].

A skilled nursing facility [Health & Safety Code § 1250(c)], an intermediate care facility [Health & Safety Code § 1250(d), (e), (g), (h)], or a congregate living facility [Health & Safety Code § 1250(i)] must make reasonable efforts to contact the person named in the resident's admission agreement as the resident's contact person, or the resident's responsible person, within 24 hours after a significant change in the resident's health or mental status [Health & Safety Code § 1795(a)].

This rule also applies to residential care facilities for the elderly [Health & Safety Code § 1795(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.2(l) (definition)].

e. Marital status.

f. If individual is a veteran, Veterans Administration claim number.

NOTE:

The individual's military record is important in determining eligibility for coverage of long-term care under veterans' benefits programs [see § 105.18[4]; see also § 105.112].

g. Claim numbers for Medicare and/or Medi-Cal if individual has been determined eligible to receive benefits under those programs.

a. Name, address, and telephone number of attending physician.

b. Person's general condition and requirements [see § 105.110].

NOTE:

Consultation with the individual's physician is necessary in order to determine the level of care that the patient will require. However, the answers to the following questions will aid the attorney in understanding the individual's general condition and in eliminating obviously impractical alternatives.

(1) Is individual presently hospitalized or recuperating from hospitalization?

(2) Is individual ambulatory?

NOTE:

For most purposes, an "ambulatory" patient is one who can leave a building unassisted under emergency conditions. A "nonambulatory" person includes, but is not limited to, persons who depend upon mechanical aids such as crutches, walkers and wheelchairs [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72077(b), (c)].

(3) Is individual mentally disabled, and, if so, what is nature of disability?

(4) Is individual mentally alert and capable of conversing coherently?

- (3) Securities.
- (4) Business interests, if any.
- (5) Pension or other retirement benefits.

 - (c) Amounts they are willing to contribute.
- (2) Social Security benefits to which individual is entitled.
- (3) Medicare, Medicaid, or Medi-Cal benefits.
- (4) Private insurance coverage.

NOTE:

Some private insurance may help defray the costs of care in skilled nursing or intermediate care facilities under "extended care" provisions. Private health insurance policies ordinarily do not cover either home health services or the cost of a residential care facility for the elderly [see § 105.18[5][b]].

c. Outstanding obligations of individual.

The Department of Health and Human Services produces a brochure that includes guidelines highlighting health and safety issues to be considered in the selection of a residential care facility for the elderly, locations of licensing offices where facility records may be reviewed, types of local organizations that may have additional information on specific facilities, and a list of recommended inquiries to be made in the selection of a residential care facility for the elderly [see Health & Safety Code § 1535(b)].

1. Should conservator or guardian be appointed to handle individual's affairs?

NOTE:

For a basic discussion of conservatorship proceedings, see Ch. 66, Guardianship and Conservatorship Planning, Pt. B. For comprehensive coverage of this subject, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Chs. 281- 290H (Matthew Bender).

2. What type of health care does individual require?

- a. What is individual's physical condition?

- b. What is individual's mental condition?

- c. Based on extent of individual's daily care requirements, in what type of facility should he or she be placed?

NOTE:

The medical facts obtained during the client interview [see § 105.100] will give the attorney a general idea regarding the individual's requirements. However, the actual decision regarding the level of care that the individual will require is a medical decision and must be made by the individual's attending physician. Skilled nursing facilities will admit patients only upon the orders of a physician [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87458(a); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.40]. An applicant for admission to a residential care facility for the elderly must have had a physical examination within one year from the date of admission [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87458(a)]. A complete physical examination prior to admission is always advisable in order to determine any nonapparent health problems that may require special medical attention.

(1) Skilled nursing facility if individual requires continuous skilled nursing care and supportive care on extended basis [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c); see also § 105.12].

(2) Intermediate care facility if individual has recurring need for skilled nursing supervision and needs supportive care but does not require continuous skilled nursing care [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(d); see also § 105.13].

(3) Residential care facility for the elderly if individual requires nonmedical residential care [see Health and Safety Code §§ 1569.72, 1569.312; § 105.15].

(4) If individual does not require any of the foregoing levels of care, is individual interested in obtaining home health services [see § 105.17[2]]?

(5) If individual is relatively healthy and financially self-sufficient, would he or she be interested in exploring available retirement residences [see § 105.17[4]]?

3. Is individual likely to require care permanently, or only on temporary basis?

4. If individual is married, will his or her spouse also reside in facility?

5. What, if any, opinions and feelings does individual have concerning his or her future care?

6. What are preferred activities in which individual is able to participate?

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.111

§ 105.111 Selecting Particular Facility

NOTE:

Careful selection of a long-term care facility for an elderly person is extremely important since it is usually in an individual's best interests to remain in the facility where he or she was originally placed. Alternative facilities should be examined in order to assure that the best possible alternative is selected.

1. Based on desires of individual, relatives, guardian and other involved persons, in what geographical area should long-term care facility be located?
2. What facilities are available in selected area?
 - a. Does individual's physician recommend particular facility?
 - b. Obtain names and addresses of facilities from state Department of Health Services.

NOTE:

In order to obtain a list of the skilled nursing, intermediate care, and residential care facilities for the elderly in a particular area, contact the County Department of Health and Human Services Ombudsman Program.

3. If desired, call toll-free telephone hotline established by State Ombudsman for referral (1-800-231-4024) [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 9726].

NOTE:

This hotline is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The telephone number must be posted in a conspicuous place in the facility [Welf. & Inst. Code § 9726].

4. Which facilities offer services and programs meeting individual's needs?

5. Does administrator have current valid license issued by state?

NOTE:

The American Health Care Association cautions that a facility should not be used if the administrator does not hold a current valid license [see Thinking About a Nursing Home?--A Consumer's Guide to Choosing a Long-Term Care Facility (American Health Care Association)].

6. Which facilities under consideration are licensed to provide level of care required by individual?

NOTE:

The American Health Care Association cautions that facilities should not be used if they do not have current valid licenses from the state [see Thinking About a Nursing Home?--A Consumer's Guide to Choosing a Long-Term Care Facility (American Health Care Association)]. Some facilities are licensed to provide more than one level of care. For example, one facility may be licensed as both a skilled nursing facility and an intermediate care facility [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72301(c)]. In addition, acute care hospitals may designate distinct parts of their facilities as skilled nursing facilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72103]. If it is likely that the individual will require increased care in the future, it may be best to place him or her in a facility with multiple licenses since that facility could provide the increased level of care when needed, thereby avoiding potential transfer trauma.

7. If individual is a minor or suffers from mental dis-ability or tuberculosis, does facility hold special license to provide necessary services?

8. Based on answers to following questions, is facility suitable for individual?

a. Do facility director and chief registered nurse appear sympathetic and concerned with patients as individuals?

(1) Do they know the patients by name?

(2) Are they accessible for discussion of problems and answering questions?

b. What training have medical director and director of nursing services received?

NOTE:

The personnel of certain facilities must have minimum levels of training and experience. For example, the director of nursing services must be a registered nurse and must have had at least one year of experience in nursing supervision within the last five years [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72327(b)]. Directors who are trained in gerontology or geriatric nursing may be better able to meet the special needs of aged patients.

(1) Is licensed registered nurse on duty 24 hours a day?

(2) Are there trained nurses' aides and orderlies on duty and, if so, what is patient/aide ratio and what is extent of care provided?

NOTE:

It is important that support personnel are not charged with performing services that should be performed by licensed nursing staff.

(3) Is nursing staff required to participate in programs of continuing education?

(4) Are staff members friendly and respectful toward patients or residents?

c. Is facility certified for participation in federal Medicare or state Medi-Cal programs?

NOTE:

It will be important to know exactly what course will be available if and when the financial resources of the patient are exhausted.

d. What do following people think of facility?

(1) Administrator and social worker of hospital that has transfer agreements with long-term care unit.

(2) Individual's physician.

(3) Clergy who visit patients in facility.

(4) Families of current facility patients.

(5) Community volunteers working with residents of facility.

e. Does medical director have a conflict of interest, such as part ownership in facility?

NOTE:

A medical director of a skilled nursing facility should be able to exercise independent judgment, since his or her role is important to the overall level of care provided in the facility. The medical director is responsible for the standards, coordination, surveillance, and planning for improvement of the medical care in the facility [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72305(a)]. He or she acts as a liaison between the facility and the physicians attending patients, and as a consultant to the director of nursing services in matters relating to patient care services [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72305(b)(1), (3)].

f. Does administrative staff seem likely to maintain contact with patient's family regarding patient's condition?

g. Are pharmaceutical services available and, if so:

(1) Are all drugs readily available or are there frequent delays in providing them?

(2) Does pharmacist keep records on patient drug programs?

h. Are following aspects of medical attention ensured?

(1) Regular medical attention.

(2) Availability of alternative physician if regular physician is unavailable in an emergency.

(3) Confidentiality of medical records.

- (4) Maintenance of medical records and plan of care.
- (5) Patient involvement, to extent possible, in plan of care and treatment.
- (6) Arrangement with acute care hospital if transfer of patient or resident becomes necessary.
- (7) Availability of emergency transportation to acute care hospital.

i. Do adult social worker(s) and group of community volunteers regularly visit facility?

j. What are the bedroom arrangements?

- (1) How many people share a room?
- (2) How does facility decide who will share rooms?

NOTE:

The facility should take some care to ensure that persons with compatible conditions, interests, and/or abilities (i.e., mental state and competence) are assigned to share rooms.

- (3) May patient or resident bring own furniture into room?

NOTE:

Subject to space limitations and the rights of other residents, residents have a right to bring personal furnishings with them to the facility unless medically contraindicated [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(15) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(15) (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(l)].

- (4) Are rooms well lighted?
- (5) Do rooms have windows?
- (6) Is there a call buzzer or light by bed?
- (7) Do beds have side rails?
- (8) Do rooms open into hallway?
- (9) Are rooms large enough for wheelchairs to be used in them?
- (10) Are there adequate facilities for patients' or residents' clothes?
- (11) Is there at least one comfortable chair for use by each patient assigned to the room?
- (12) How much privacy will patient have in room (i.e., are there draw drapes or screens available for each bed)?

k. What bathroom facilities are available?

- (1) How many residents or patients share bathroom?
- (2) Are bathrooms in locations convenient to bedrooms?
- (3) Are they equipped for use by patients in wheelchairs?
- (4) Are there call lights or bells that patients may use in case they need assistance?
- (5) Is bathroom equipped with hand-grips?
- (6) Do bath tubs have non-slip surfaces?

l. What optional programs does facility offer?

NOTE:

A skilled nursing facility must provide, at a minimum, physician and skilled nursing services as well as dietary, pharmaceutical and activity programs [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72301(a)]. However, facilities may offer certain optional services, such as physical therapy [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72403-72411], occupational therapy [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72413-72421], speech pathology and audiology [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72423-72431], social services [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72433-72441], and special treatment [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72443 et seq.]. Optional services are regulated as to matters such as staff, space, and equipment.

m. Do patients appear well cared-for?

- (1) Are they out of bed?
- (2) Are they occupied?
- (3) Are those who are out of bed wearing day clothing that is both neat and clean?
- (4) Do they appear well-groomed and comfortable?
- (5) Are there arrangements for barbers and cosmetologists to provide patient services?
- (6) Is maintenance of neat and clean appearance encouraged?

n. Does staff appear to be competent and positive?

- (1) Are there ongoing training and educational programs for nurses and aides?
- (2) How do staff members greet patients?
- (3) Are staff members friendly and happy?

NOTE:

An obviously unfriendly or negative staff may indicate that the facility does not have adequate personnel to handle all necessary work.

o. Are following aspects of physical facility satisfactory?

NOTE:

A skilled nursing or residential care facility for the elderly should be as pleasant, cheerful and comfortable as possible since it will be the home of the patient or resident. At the very least, all facilities must comply with certain safety zoning and building clearance regulations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72205].

- (1) Is facility located in an area that will enable relatives to visit frequently?
- (2) Does physical arrangement of facility appear safe?
- (3) How often does facility conduct fire drills?
- (4) Does facility have sprinklers, sensing devices, and alarms that ring automatically at nearest fire department?
- (5) Is there a floor plan and written emergency evacuation plan posted throughout the facility?
- (6) Is facility free of underfoot obstacles?
- (7) Are hallways and other common areas well lighted?

p. Does facility afford reasonable degree of privacy to patients for receiving visits and making and receiving telephone calls?

q. What are facility's policies with respect to discharge and transfer of patients?

NOTE:

Skilled nursing facilities must have written policies and procedures covering transfer and discharge of patients [see § 105.23[1]]. If the facility provides services under continuing care contracts, it is subject to special reporting and reserve requirements designed to safeguard residents from transfer trauma by ensuring that the facility remains financially solvent [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1770(a), (b), 1789-1793].

r. Is facility clean and neat upon visual inspection, and free of unpleasant odors?

NOTE:

It is a very negative reflection on a facility if it smells offensive, since this may indicate that incontinent patients do not receive the attention they need.

s. What recreational and entertainment programs does facility offer?

- (1) Are families encouraged to take patients out for rides?
- (2) What activities are planned?
- (3) Does facility provide entertainment?
- (4) Is there television in patients' rooms?

(5) Are there religious activities?

(6) Are there separate rooms for patient activities?

(7) Is there activity equipment (for example, cards, board games, etc.) and, if so, does it appear to be used by the residents?

t. What services are included in basic rate charged by facility?

NOTE:

Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities must maintain written policies and procedures concerning charges for services included in the basic rate of the facility and charges for extra services [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72521(c)(2) (skilled nursing facilities), 73519(a)(2) (intermediate care facilities)]. The facility must review these policies and procedures annually, and make them available to residents and members of the public [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72521(b), (skilled nursing facilities), 73519(a)(2) (intermediate care facilities)].

u. What services and/or items are treated as "extras" and what rate of charge is applied to them?

NOTE:

Residential care facilities must either include in their admissions agreement a list showing additional services available but not included in the facility's basic rate and the charges for these services, or post such a list in a location accessible to residents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c), (d)].

v. What payment options does facility offer?

(1) Month-to-month or other plan providing for billing on periodic basis.

NOTE:

This is the most common arrangement for payment and is the only practical method if the individual who will remain a patient in the facility for a limited period of time, such as a person recovering from an acute illness, requires continuous nursing care during the period of recovery. Individual facilities may offer daily, monthly, or quarterly plans.

(2) Continuing care contract [see §§ 105.20[4], 105.230].

NOTE:

The primary drawback to continuing care contracts is that the patient may be left without a source of payment for continuing care if the facility ceases operating during his or her lifetime. Accordingly, the attorney should investigate the facility's reputation and financial condition before advising a client to enter into a continuing care contract.

(3) Inter vivos trust arrangement [see § 105.233].

NOTE:

An inter vivos trust can provide a desirable alternative to a continuing care contract since a provision can be included calling for termination of the trust should the facility cease to operate.

9. What information can residents, facility, and state licensing agency provide concerning facility's operations?

a. What are results of recent inspections and investigations?

b. Have any complaints been filed?

NOTE:

Residential care facilities must place in a conspicuous place copies of all licensing reports issued by the California Department of Social Services within the preceding 12 months, and all licensing reports issued by the department resulting from the department's most recent annual visit to the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38]. This requirement, however, does not apply to any portion of a licensing report referring to a complaint that was found by the department to be unfounded or unsubstantiated [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38]. During the admission process, the facility must inform the resident and the resident's responsible person in writing that the licensing reports are available for review at the facility and that copies of these reports and other documents pertaining to the facility are available from the appropriate district office of the department. The facility also must provide the telephone number and address of the appropriate district office [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38; see also § 105.222[2], EXHIBIT C]. Records of complaints and investigation results are contained in the public file of the Department of Health Services, Licensing and Certification Division (50 D Street, Suite 230, Santa Rosa, California 95404-4759; Telephone (707) 576-2210). Any member of the public who wishes to do so may go to the nearest office of that agency and view the records contained there, after signing a written request. There is a charge of 15 cents per copy for any material that the agency reproduces. The agency will not mail out information of this nature [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1422.5, 1439.5(b)]. In evaluating these records, an attorney should consider the number of complaints that have been made against the facility as well as the severity of the matters complained of.

c. Is facility financially stable?

NOTE:

This question is of particular concern if the prospective resident plans to enter the facility pursuant to a continuing care contract, since purchasers of continuing care often transfer all or nearly all of their resources in exchange for a facility's promise to provide care for life [see Health & Safety Code § 1770(b)]. Under the California Public Records Act [Gov. Code § 6250 et seq.] and the Information Practices Act of 1977 [Civ. Code § 1798 et seq.], the following documents are public information and must be provided by the Department of Social Services on request: audited financial statements, annual reports and accompanying documents, compliance or noncompliance with reserve requirements, whether an application for a permit to accept deposits and certificate of authority has been filed, whether a permit or certificate has been granted or denied, and the type of care offered by the provider [Health & Safety Code § 1776.6(a)].

10. If facility is certified for participation in Medicare and Medi-Cal programs, will it:

a. Handle individual's application for medical benefits?

b. Provide care under temporary payment arrangement pending approval of individual's application for medical assistance benefits?

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
B. Preliminary Determinations

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.112

§ 105.112 Sources of Payment

NOTE:

If long-term care is indicated, the source of payment for that care is a very important consideration. The extent of potential Medicare coverage should be discussed with the patient's attending physician and the Director of Nurses at the skilled nursing facility prior to admission.

Even if private funds are available to pay for the individual's care, the individual may be eligible to receive Medicare, Medi-Cal, or federal Veterans Administration benefits. The level and quality of care a patient receives in a given facility will not depend on the source of the funds with which the individual pays for the care.

The Department of Aging, in consultation with the California Commission on Aging, operates a statewide Health Insurance Counseling and Advocacy Program to provide Medicare beneficiaries with counseling and advocacy in Medicare, private health insurance, and related health care coverage plans [see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 9540, 9541].

1. Does individual have private funds sufficient for costs of institutional long-term care?
2. Will funds from federal Medicare program be available?
 - a. Is individual eligible for program benefits [see 42 U.S.C. § 1395c]?
 - (1) Is individual age 65 or over and either:
 - (a) Entitled to retirement benefits under Subchapter II of Social Security Act [see 42 U.S.C. §§ 401-431];
 - (b) Would be entitled to benefits under Subchapter II of Social Security Act if certain federal employment were covered employment under the Act [42 U.S.C. § 1395c]; or

(c) Entitled to retirement benefits under railroad retirement system [see 45 U.S.C. §§ 231-231v]?

(2) Is individual 65 years of age or under and entitled to retirement benefits for at least 24 months due to disability under above statutes?

(3) Is individual medically determined to have end stage renal disease?

b. Does Medicare cover type of care required by individual?

(1) Does individual require either [42 U.S.C. § 1395d(a)(2)(A), (B)]:

(a) Post-hospital extended care services for up to 100 days during any spell of illness [see 42 U.S.C. § 1395x ("post-hospital extended care services" and "spell of illness" defined)]; or

(b) Extended care services that are not post-hospital services?

NOTE:

Extended care services that are not post-hospital services are covered only to the extent the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines that such coverage will not result in any increase in total Medicare payments or any alteration in the acute care nature of the benefits provided [42 U.S.C. § 1395d(a)(2)(B)].

(2) Does individual require any of following types of care [see 42 U.S.C. § 1395x(h)]?

NOTE:

The following types of care are specifically included within the definition of "extended care services" covered by the Medicare program [42 U.S.C. § 1395x(h)].

(a) Nursing care provided by or under supervision of registered professional nurse, and/or bed and board connected with that care.

(b) Physical, occupational, or speech therapy furnished by or under arrangements with skilled nursing facility.

(c) Medical social services.

(d) Drugs, biologicals, supplies, appliances, and equipment ordinarily furnished by skilled nursing facilities in treatment and care of inpatients.

(e) Medical services provided by intern or resident in training of hospital with which facility has transfer agreement in effect under teaching program.

(f) Other services normally provided by skilled nursing facilities or by others under arrangements with them made by the facility and necessary to patients' health.

3. Is individual eligible for health care services under Medi-Cal program?

NOTE:

Ordinarily, individuals who are eligible for Medi-Cal assistance are receiving or are eligible for other forms of public assistance for the aged, blind, or disabled, or for aid to dependent children [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005]. The attorney exploring eligibility for benefits under the Medi-Cal program should contact the Medi-Cal division of the state Department of Health and Human Services, which will assist in making the actual computation necessary to determine eligibility.

a. Is individual's monthly income, over the amount required for maintenance [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14005.12] insufficient to provide for the costs of health care or coverage less any amount by which the value of his or her other resources [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006] exceeds the value established in Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006 [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14005.4, 14005.7(a); see Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14005.16, 14005.17 (eligibility of institutionalized spouses)]?

b. Is individual "medically needy" [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14051(a)]?

NOTE:

In the context of this discussion, a "medically needy person" is an aged, blind, or disabled person who could qualify as public assistance recipient except for income and resources, but whose income and resources are insufficient to provide the costs of health care coverage [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14051(a)(1)].

c. Does individual require nursing facility care of type and level covered by Medi-Cal [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14132(c)]?

NOTE:

For purposes of determining Medi-Cal eligibility, a nursing facility is a facility that is certified to participate as a provider of care either as a skilled nursing facility in the federal Medicare program or as a nursing facility in the federal Medicaid program, or both, and is licensed under Division 2, Chapter 2 of the Health & Safety Code [Health & Safety Code § 1250(k); see Health & Safety Code § 1250 et seq.].

(1) Physician, nurse practitioner, or podiatry services.

(2) Prescribed drugs [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14132(d)].

(3) Physical therapy.

(4) Occupational therapy.

(5) Speech therapy.

(6) Audiology services.

(7) Respiratory care.

4. Will long-term care benefits under veterans' program be available to individual?

a. Is individual a veteran?

NOTE:

A person who has served in the active military, naval, or air service and who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable may be eligible to receive hospital care, medical services, and nursing home care in a facility operated by the Department of Veterans Affairs or, following treatment in a Department facility, in a non-Department facility at government expense [see 38 U.S.C. §§ 1710, 1720; see also 38 U.S.C. § 101(2) ("veteran" defined)]. A veteran who comes within any of the classifications in PP b through h, below, is entitled to care [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(1), (2)]. Other veterans may be entitled to receive care to the extent resources and facilities are available [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(3)].

b. Does individual have service-connected disability?

NOTE:

The Department of Veterans Affairs must furnish needed hospital care and medical services, and may furnish needed nursing home care, to veterans with service-connected disabilities [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(1)(A), (B), (2)(A)]. Moreover, medical services may be furnished to correct or treat any non-service-connected disability while any veteran is receiving hospital care or nursing home care in any Department facility, if the veteran is willing and the services are reasonably necessary to protect the veteran's health [38 U.S.C. § 1710(c)].

c. Was individual discharged or released from service for disability incurred or aggravated in line of duty?

NOTE:

The Department of Veterans Affairs must furnish hospital care, and may furnish needed nursing home care, to a veteran who was discharged or released from active service because of a disability incurred or aggravated in the line of duty. The disability for which the veteran needs treatment need not be the disability for which the veteran was discharged or released from active service [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(2)(B)].

d. Is individual entitled to receive disability compensation?

NOTE:

A veteran who is receiving disability compensation or who would, but for 38 U.S.C. § 1151 (benefits for persons disabled by treatment or vocational rehabilitation), be entitled to receive such compensation is entitled to needed hospital and nursing care [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(2)(C)].

e. Was individual a prisoner of war?

NOTE:

A veteran who is a former prisoner of war is entitled to treatment for any disability [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(1)(D)].

f. Was veteran exposed to toxic substance or radiation or other conditions in Vietnam or during Persian Gulf War [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(2)(F)]?

NOTE:

A Vietnam era herbicide-exposed or radiation-exposed veteran is eligible for hospital care, medical services, and nursing home care for any disability, even if there is insufficient evidence to conclude that the disability may be associated with that exposure [38 U.S.C. § 1710(e)(1)(A), (B); see 38 U.S.C. § 1710(e)(2)(A), (3)(A) (limitations)]. A veteran who served on active duty in the southwest Asia theater of operations during the Persian Gulf War is also eligible for hospital care, medical services, and nursing home care for any disability, even if there is insufficient evidence to conclude that the disability may be associated with that exposure [38 U.S.C. § 1710(e)(1)(C); see 38 U.S.C. § 1710(e)(2)(B), (3)(B) (limitations)].

g. Is individual veteran of Mexican border period or World War I?

NOTE:

A veteran of the Mexican border period or World War I is entitled to treatment for any disability [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(2)(E)].

h. Is individual with non-service-connected disability unable to defray expenses of necessary care?

NOTE:

A veteran with a non-service-connected disability is entitled to care if he or she cannot defray the expenses of necessary care [38 U.S.C. § 1710(a)(2)(G); see 38 U.S.C. § 1722(a) (determination of inability to defray expenses)].

i. Does individual need protracted nursing home care following hospital or nursing home care in Department facility?

NOTE:

The Department of Veterans affairs may transfer a veteran who has received hospital or nursing home care in a Department facility to a non-Department nursing home for care at government expense if the veteran needs a protracted period of nursing home care and has received maximum benefits from care in the Department facility [38 U.S.C. § 1720(a)(1)]. The non-Department facility must meet Department of Veterans Affairs standards [38 U.S.C. § 1720(b)].

5. If individual is ineligible for government-sponsored programs, which of following sources will be used to pay for individual's care?

- a. Individual's personal assets.
- b. Other private funds from such sources as friends and relatives.
- c. Health, hospital, or other insurance coverage.

NOTE:

Health or hospital insurance often will not cover long-term care. However, the individual's policies should be read carefully in order to determine whether coverage exists under an "extended care" provision.

d. Private charitable or religious organizations.

e. Fraternal or other organizations.

6. Is individual competent and willing to manage his or her own financial affairs?

NOTE:

Residents of skilled nursing, intermediate care, and residential care facilities have the right to manage their personal financial affairs [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(a)(12) (residential care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(7)(i), (c)].

7. If individual will not manage his or her own finances, will it be necessary to:

a. Appoint conservator or guardian?

NOTE:

For a discussion of the law governing and forms relating to conservatorship and guardianship proceedings, see Ch. 66, Guardianship, and Ch. 66A, Conservatorships; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Chs. 280- 290H (Matthew Bender).

b. Designate another person, in writing, to manage his or her funds?

c. Authorize facility, in writing, to manage his or her funds [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8), 72529 (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8), 73557 (intermediate care facilities); see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(7)(i), (c)].

NOTE:

A facility that takes on the responsibility of managing a resident's finances must comply with detailed accounting and reporting requirements [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72529 (skilled nursing facilities), 73557 (intermediate care facilities)]. Medicare and Medicaid-certified facilities must also comply with federal requirements concerning the management of a resident's funds [see 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(c)]. When a person is admitted to a Medicare-certified or Medicaid-certified facility, the facility must provide him or her with a written statement that, among other things, details the facility's manner of protecting a resident's personal funds [42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(7)(i); see § 105.122].

8. Should individual create revocable inter vivos trust to pay for facility's charges [see § 105.233]?

 PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE
 C. Procedural Guide for Admission to Long-Term Care Facilities

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.120

§ 105.120 Admission Procedures

1. If individual requires skilled nursing care, contact Department of Social Services for county in which the individual will be placed and request list of skilled nursing facilities within that area.
2. Arrange for appointment of conservator if required.

NOTE:

For the steps involved in commencing a proceeding to appoint a guardian or conservator, see Ch. 66, Guardianships, and Ch. 66A, Conservatorships; see also California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch.280, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Guardians, and Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators (Matthew Bender).

3. If individual to be placed in residential care facility for the elderly has no guardian, conservator, or other person willing to act as his or her responsible person, contact County Welfare Department, Adult Protective Services, or other placement agency [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(p)(2) (definition)], which will then act in that capacity [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(6)].

NOTE:

For purposes of residential care facilities for the elderly, a "responsible person" is an individual (or group of individuals), including a relative, or placement agency, who assists the resident in placement or assumes varying degrees of responsibility for the resident's well-being [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(6)].

4. Arrange pre-admission interview if required by facility.

NOTE:

Even if the facility does not suggest a pre-admission interview, one should be requested by or on behalf of the individual. An individual who is considering entering a residential care facility for the elderly has the right to visit that facility with his or her family prior to admission, and a pre-admission interview of the prospective resident and his or her responsible person, if any, is mandatory [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87457(a)].

5. Make necessary financial arrangements.

a. If patient is private patient:

(1) Establish inter vivos trust to ensure payment of facility's charges; or

(2) Make any necessary financial arrangement with third party.

b. If individual will receive public medical assistance:

(1) Prepare and have individual or duly appointed conservator or guardian execute application for benefits.

(2) If eligibility has not yet been determined, contact appropriate agency (for example, state Department of Social Services for Medi-Cal benefits) to ensure processing of application with minimum delay.

(3) If facility will handle application on individual's behalf, verify that application was made and is being processed in timely fashion.

6. Make necessary medical arrangements, including:

a. Pre-admission medical examination.

b. If individual will enter residential care facility for the elderly and has had physical examination within the past year, make sure that there is written evidence of that examination and that it [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87458(b)];

(1) Establishes whether there are findings of communicable tuberculosis, other infectious or contagious diseases or other medical conditions that would preclude placing patient in facility.

(2) Contains documentation of prior medical services and history and current medical status including, but not limited to, height, weight, and blood pressure.

(3) Provides a record of current prescribed medications and an indication of whether they should be centrally stored [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87465(c)(1)].

(4) Identifies person's physical limitations to determine his or her capability to participate in programs provided by facility, including any medically necessary diet limitations.

(5) Reflects a determination of person's ambulatory status [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(a)(6) (definition)], and bedridden status [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87455(d) (definition)].

(6) Provides information applicable to the required pre-admission appraisal [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 87457-87462; see also P 7, below].

c. Release of individual's medical record for use by facility [see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, § 104.223[2]].

d. Inform individual's physician of individual's new residence.

7. If individual will enter a residential care facility for the elderly, make sure that facility does all of the following in conducting its pre-admission appraisal [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87457]:

NOTE:

Before admitting an individual to a residential care facility for the elderly, the person responsible for admissions must meet with the applicant for admission and his or her responsible person, if any [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87457(a)]. The facility will use the information elicited in this appraisal to determine whether the applicant is suitable for admission in light of the criteria established by applicable regulations [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87455; see also PP 8, 9, below].

a. Provides sufficient information about facility and its services to enable all persons involved in placement of individual to consider the plan fully.

b. Elicits information on applicant's desires regarding entrance to facility and information on his or her background, including:

(1) Specific service needs.

(2) Medical background.

(3) Functional limitations.

c. Whether person (or his or her responsible person) agrees and consents to enter facility.

NOTE:

A facility may not admit an individual without this consent [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87457(b)].

8. If individual seeks to enter residential care facility for the elderly, make sure that he or she is a person who [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87455(a), (b)]:

a. Is capable of administering own medication.

b. Is capable of receiving medical care and treatment outside facility or receives needed medical care from a visiting nurse.

c. May require assistance in taking medication normally prescribed for self-administration.

f. If under 60 years of age, has care needs compatible with those of other residents of facility.

NOTE:

A licensee may provide care for residents who have any of the following restricted health conditions or require any of the following health services [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87612]:

- Administration of oxygen [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87618].
- Indwelling urinary catheter care [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87623].
- Colostomy or ileostomy care [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87621].
- Contactures [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87626].

- Stage-1 and stage-2 pressure sores [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87631(a)(3)].
- Wound care, as specified [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87631].

9. If individual seeks to enter residential care facility for the elderly, make sure that he or she is not a person who [Health & Safety Code § 1569.72(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87455(c)]:

- a. Has active communicable tuberculosis.
- b. Requires inpatient care in a health facility.
- c. Is not elderly and who either:

(1) Has needs that conflict with other residents or the program of services offered; or

(2) Requires more care and supervision than other residents.

d. Has primary need for care because of either:

■ (1) Mental disorder that results from on-going behavior that would upset the general resident group and would require greater amount of supervision than other residents; or

■ (2) Dementia, unless requirements of 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87724 (care of persons with dementia) are met.

e. Cannot generally benefit from program of services available at facility.

f. Requires 24-hour skilled nursing or intermediate care.

g. Is bedridden, other than for temporary illness (that is, illness of less than 15 days duration) [Health & Safety Code § 1569.72(d)(1)] or recovery from surgery [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.72(e)] (circumstances under which bedridden resident may be retained in excess of 14 days); see also Health & Safety Code § 1569.725 (circumstances under which residential care facility may permit incidental medical services through home health agency)].

h. Has stage-3 and stage-4 pressure sores [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87615(a)(1)].

a. Ascertain that facility follows its resident assessment and care planning procedure for persons admitted for respite care [see Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(d)].

NOTE:

Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities may use an abbreviated assessment and care planning procedure for persons admitted for respite care, and are not required to update the procedure documents for every readmission of the same person for respite care services unless the person's personal physician indicates that there has been a significant change in the person's medical condition. The abbreviated procedure must be consistent with the facility's obligation to protect the health and safety of residents and the general public, and must address the necessary care services required by the person admitted for respite care during the length of his or her respite care stay [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(d)].

b. Arrange to have one of following persons examine and positively identify any medication that admittee will bring to facility [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(a)]:

(1) Admittee's personal physician and surgeon; or

The advance orders may be used by the facility only during periods in which the person is receiving respite care services [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(c)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide for Admission to Long-Term Care Facilities

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.121

§ 105.121 Admission Agreement

1. Review written agreement.

NOTE:

The agreement for admission to a skilled nursing, intermediate care, or residential care facility for the elderly should always be written [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(a) (residential care facilities)]. The statutory requirements for the contents of agreements for admission to skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.60-1599.84] are discussed in § 105.200[1][b]. The requirements for agreements pertaining to the admission of persons to skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities for respite care services [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1418.1, 1599.60, 1599.64] are discussed in § 105.205[1].

Health & Safety Code § 1599.61, adopted in 1997, required the Department of Long Term Care to develop a standard admission agreement to be used by all skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, and a short form agreement for patients whose length of stay is anticipated to be 14 days or less. By statute, all such facilities were required to use such an agreement by January 1, 2000 [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(a),(b)(2)]. Deviations from the standard agreement are permitted only when authorized by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(b)]. The Department was also required to develop a standardized version of the Patients' Bill of Rights for residents of these facilities, to be included as an attachment to all admission agreements [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(d); see § 105.22]. Development of these standardized forms has proven to be a difficult and controversial process, however, and as of January 2009, the Department has not finalized regulations containing the new forms. Department sources have advised that there is no anticipated date for final implementation of these regulations. Accordingly, the Department is advising operators to continue to use their current agreement forms.

2. Arrange for execution of agreement by:

- a. Individual if he or she is competent to enter into contracts.
- b. Legal guardian or conservator if individual has been declared legally incompetent or is unable to understand and sign agreement because of medical condition [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(a)].
- c. Third party, if any, assuming all or part of financial responsibility for individual's care.

NOTE:

No skilled nursing or intermediate care facility may require a Medi-Cal beneficiary to have a responsible party sign or cosign the admission agreement as a condition of admission to the facility [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(b); see § 105.19[3]].

3. Ensure that individual has received written copies of:

- a. Applicable statutory sections regarding procedures for preventing and handling theft and loss of residents' belongings [Health and Safety Code §§ 1289.4(k) (skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities), 1569.153(k) (residential care facilities); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1289.3-1289.5 (skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities), 1569.152-1569.154 (residential care facilities)].
- b. Facility's charges for services.
- c. Notice specified in Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.4 (relating to Medi-Cal eligibility and community property agreements), if individual is being admitted to any nursing facility enrolled as a provider in the Medi-Cal program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.3; see Health & Safety Code § 1250(k) ("nursing facility" defined); see also § 105.202].

4. If individual is entering residential care facility for elderly, make sure that agreement specifies [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)]:

- a. Basic services to be made available.

NOTE:

If the residents may purchase additional services (such as cosmetology) through the facility that are not specified in the admission agreement, a list of those services and the corresponding charges must be posted in a place accessible to the residents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(d)].

- b. Optional services available.
- c. Payment provisions, including:

- (1) Basic service rate, including any exempt-income allowance if resident agrees to such a charge.
- (2) Costs of optional services.

(3) Identity of payor.

(4) Date when payment is due.

(5) Funding source (provided that resident may refuse to disclose this information).

d. Conditions under which agreement may be modified, including required provision for at least 30 days prior written notice to the resident of any basic rate change, or for SSI/SSP rate changes as soon as facility is notified.

NOTE:

Agreements involving persons whose care is funded at government-prescribed rates may specify that operative dates of government modifications will be considered operative dates for basic service rate modifications [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(4)(A)].

e. Refund conditions.

NOTE:

If the Department orders relocation of a resident because of the resident's health condition [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87612(a)], the resident may not be held responsible for meeting any advance notice requirement imposed by the facility in the admission agreement. The facility must refund any money to which the resident would have been entitled had notice been given as required by the admission agreement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(5)(A)].

f. That state department or licensing agency has authority to examine residents' records as part of their evaluation of facility.

g. The general facility policies designed to make it possible for residents to live together.

h. Those actions, circumstances, or conditions [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a), (b)] that may result in eviction of residents from facility.

NOTE:

Except for general facility policies, the grounds for eviction specified in 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a)(3) are not subject to modification [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(8)].

i. Other conditions under which agreement may be terminated.

NOTE:

It is crucial that an attorney representing a prospective patient or resident in a long-term care facility clearly understand the exact circumstances under which that person may be forced to leave the facility. A displaced person is in an extremely vulnerable position, since he or she will obviously require immediate placement in another facility. The exigencies of time involved may force the displaced patient to be placed in a substandard facility.

j. Facility's policy concerning family visits and other communications with residents [Health & Safety Code § 1569.313; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(9)].

k. Other conditions under which the agreement may be terminated [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(10)].

5. If individual is entering residential care facility for elderly and that facility has not obtained a certificate of authority to offer continuing care contracts [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.888(b)], ensure that agreement also contains all of following [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq.]:

NOTE:

In addition to the requirements noted in P 4, above [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507], Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.880 et seq. establish requirements relating to the format [see P 8, below] and content [see PP 5, 6, below] of admission agreements for residential care facilities for the elderly. The law also provides procedural rules [see P 7, below]. These requirements are intended to be in addition to, and not exclusive of, any other requirements established by state law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 1569.888(a)]. Although some of these requirements may duplicate those contained in other laws and regulations, the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq. are listed below in their entirety.

The requirements listed in Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq. are inapplicable to licensees of residential care facilities for the elderly who have obtained a certificate of authority to offer continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1569.888(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(5) ("continuing care contracts" defined)].

a. Comprehensive description of any items and services provided under single fee, such as monthly fee for room, board, and other items and services [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(a)].

b. Comprehensive description of, and fee schedule for, all items and services not included in single fee [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(b)].

c. Statement that resident will receive monthly statement itemizing all separate charges incurred [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(b)].

NOTE:

A facility may assess a separate charge for an item or service only if that separate charge is authorized by the admission agreement [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(c)]. If additional services are available through the facility to be purchased by the resident that were not available at the time the admission agreement was signed, a list of these services and charges must be provided to the resident or the resident's representative [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(c)]. A statement acknowledging the acceptance or refusal to purchase the additional services must be signed and dated by the resident or the resident's representative and attached to the admission agreement [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(c)].

d. Explanation of use of third-party services within facility that are related to resident's service plan [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(d)].

NOTE:

These services include, but are not limited to, ancillary, health, and medical services, how they may be arranged, accessed, and monitored, any restrictions on third-party services, and who is financially responsible for the third-party services [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(d)].

e. Comprehensive description of billing and payment policies and procedures [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(e)].

f. Conditions under which rates may be increased in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1569.655 (preadmission fees and rate increases) [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(f); see § 105.15[7] (preadmission fees)].

g. Facility's policy concerning family visits and other communication with residents, in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1569.313 [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(g)].

h. Facility's policy concerning refunds [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(h)].

i. Conditions under which agreement may be terminated [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(i)].

j. Statement of licensee's responsibilities and resident's rights when facility evicts residents resulting from forfeiture of facility's license or change in the use, in accordance with Department regulations [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.884(j) 1569.682; see also § 105.222[2]].

k. Statement that facility rules must be reasonable and that there is facility procedure for suggesting changes to rules [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(a)].

NOTE:

This statement must appear in the agreement when it refers to the resident's obligation to observe facility rules [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(a)].

l. Statement that copy of facility grievance procedure for resolution of resident complaints about facility practices must be made available to resident or his or her representative [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(b)].

m. Statement that resident has right to contact State Department of Social Services, long-term care ombudsman, or both, regarding grievances against facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(c)].

n. List of justifications for eviction permissible under state law or regulation, exactly as they are worded in applicable law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(b)].

o. Explanation of resident's right to notice prior to involuntary transfer, discharge, or eviction, process by which resident may appeal that decision, and description of relocation assistance offered by facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(c)].

6. If individual is entering residential care facility for elderly, ensure that agreement does not include:

a. Any grounds for involuntary transfer or eviction of resident, unless those grounds are specifically enumerated under state law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(a); see P 5(m), above].

b. Any written attachment containing any revision that is prohibited from being included in admission agreement itself [Health & Safety Code § 1569.880(b)].

c. Unlawful waivers of facility liability for health and safety or personal property of residents [Health & Safety Code § 1569.883(a)].

d. Any provision that facility knows or should know is deceptive, or unlawful understate or federal law [Health & Safety Code § 1569.883(b)].

7. If individual is entering residential care facility for elderly, ensure that following procedural requirements relating to admission agreement are satisfied:

a. Make blank complete copies of admission agreement available to public immediately, subject to time required for copying or mailing, at cost, on request [Health & Safety Code § 1569.881(a)].

b. Post conspicuously in location accessible to public view within facility either [Health & Safety Code § 1569.881(b)]:

(1) Complete copy of admission agreement, or

(2) Notice of its availability from facility.

c. Ensure that admission agreement is signed and dated, acknowledging contents of document, by resident or resident's representative [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(a)].

d. Ensure that original signed and dated initial agreement and all subsequent modifications are retained in resident's file [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(b)].

e. Provide copy of signed and dated admission agreement to resident or resident's representative [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(c)].

f. Review admission agreement at time of compliance visit and in response to complaint involving agreement [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(d)].

8. If individual is entering residential care facility for elderly, ensure that admission agreement satisfies following format and attachment requirements:

a. Agreement is printed in black type of not less than 12-point type size, on plain white paper [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(a)].

b. Print appears on one side of the paper only [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(a)].

c. Language of agreement is clear, coherent, and unambiguous, using words with common and everyday meanings [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(b)].

d. Agreement is appropriately divided, and each section appropriately captioned [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(b)].

e. Copy of any applicable resident's rights specified by law or regulation is attached to all admission agreements [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(d)].

NOTE:

The statement of residents' rights attached to admissions agreements by a residential care facility for the elderly must include information on the reporting of suspected or known elder and dependent adult abuse [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(e)]. The Licensing Division of the Department of Social Services must provide, on the personal rights form it makes available to residential care facilities for the elderly, a statement regarding procedures for reporting abuse, including a toll-free number for the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman's CRISISline and a blank space for the telephone number for the nearest approved organization for long-term care ombudsperson activities. The residential care facility must insert in the form's blank space the telephone number of that nearest approved organization [Health & Safety Code § 1569.889].

9. Have resident and representative or conservator execute required written acknowledgment of notification of resident's rights [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.1, 1599.74; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(1) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(1) (intermediate care facilities), 87468(b) (residential care facilities); see also 42 C.F.R. § 483.10(b)(1)].

NOTE:

For agreements for admission to skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, the acknowledgment regarding the Patients' Bill of Rights must be made in the agreement next to the clause regarding these rights, or on a separate document. A signature appearing elsewhere on the agreement and acknowledging receipt of the agreement as a whole does not satisfy this requirement [Health & Safety Code § 1599.74(c)].

1. Arrange for management of individual's financial affairs by one of following:

a. Individual.

Residents of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities and residential care facilities for the elderly have the right to manage their own financial affairs [22 *Cal. NOTE:

If the facility maintains a safe for the protection of patients' money and valuables, the facility may disclaim liability for items not deposited in the safe, to the extent allowed by Health and Safety Code Sections 1289.3-1289.5 [see § 105.25], on notice as set forth by Civ. Code § 1860 [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72529(a)(7) (skilled nursing facilities), 73557(a)(5) (intermediate care facilities)].

c. Facility must keep accurate records of patients' funds, including [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72529(a)(2)(A), (B) (skilled nursing facilities), 73557(a)(2)(A),(B) (intermediate care facilities)]:

(1) Surrender patient's funds within 30 days to executor, administrator, or responsible party in exchange for signed receipt, except in coroner or medical examiner cases.

(2) Give written notice to public administrator as specified by Prob. Code § 7600.5, if patient dies without known next of kin, and:

(a) For intermediate care facilities, file copy of notice with Department of Health Services.

(b) For skilled nursing facilities, make copy of notice available in facility for review by Department.

Code Reg.* § 72007 (definition)], or employee of facility, or representative or immediate relative of such a person, may act as authorized representative of patient's funds, unless related to patient within second degree of consanguinity [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72529(c)].

CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

C. Procedural Guide for Admission to Long-Term Care Facilities

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.123

§ 105.123 Reviewing Continuing Care Contracts

1. Make sure that provider is entitled to enter into continuing care contract [see § 105.20[3]]:
 - a. Entire facility is licensed as residential care facility for the elderly [see Health & Safety Code § 1771(r)(6) ("residential care facility for the elderly" defined)], including license to operate residential living and assisted living units pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1569 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1771.5].
 - b. If skilled nursing facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c) (definition)] is on facility premises, facility is licensed as health facility pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1250 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1771.5].
 - c. Provider has current and valid provisional or final certificate of authority issued by Department of Social Services [Health & Safety Code §§ 1771.2(b), 1779(a)(1), (2)].
 - d. Provider has met required liquid reserve requirements [see Health & Safety Code § 1792(a); see also Health & Safety Code § 1792 et seq. (computing reserve requirement; qualifying assets)].
2. Ensure that contract form has been approved by Department of Social Services [Health & Safety Code § 1787(b), (c)].
3. Ensure that entire contract is in writing and printed in at least 10-point typeface to highlight terms and conditions as required [Health & Safety Code § 1787(a), (f)].
4. Make sure that contract contains all of following provisions [Health & Safety Code § 1788(a); see §

105.230]:

NOTE:

In addition to satisfying the requirements listed below, continuing care contracts under which care will be provided in residential care facilities for the elderly must contain other specific provisions [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87718]. For a list of these requirements, see § 105.121; see also § 105.222[1]. For a contract that satisfies both sets of requirements, see § 105.230. Only the skilled nursing admission agreement sections of continuing care contracts which cover long-term health care facility services are subject to Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1787(j); see Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.]. The provider must use a skilled nursing admission agreement that complies with the requirements of Health & Safety Code § 1599.85 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1787(j); see Health & Safety Code § 1599.85 et seq.].

a. Each provider's legal name and address.

NOTE:

Entities that provide continuing care (that is, care for life or for more than one year), make a continuing care promise, or propose to promise to provide continuing care are known as "providers" [Health & Safety Code § 1771(p)(10); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(a)(8), (9) ("continuing care contract" and "continuing care promise" defined)]. "Provider" also includes any entity that controls an entity that provides continuing care, makes a continuing care promise, or proposes to promise to provide continuing care [Health & Safety Code § 1771(p)(10)]. No homeowner's association, cooperative, or condominium association may be a provider [Health & Safety Code § 1771(p)(10)].

b. Facility's name and address.

NOTE:

The facility is the place or accommodation where the provider undertakes to provide the resident with care or related services pursuant to the continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1771(f)].

c. Resident's name and identity of unit resident will occupy.

d. If transferor and resident are not same person, transferor's name and address.

NOTE:

If there is a transferor other than the resident, the transferor must be a party to the contract, and the transferor's name and address must be specified [Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(4)].

e. Conspicuous statement that clearly informs resident of lack of financial and contractual obligations of any or all of following, as applicable:

(1) Any charitable, religious, or nonprofit organization that is not responsible for provider's financial and contractual obligations or obligations specified in continuing care contract, if provider used organization's name in its title before January 1, 1979, and continues to do so [Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(5)].

NOTE:

If the provider has used the name of any charitable or religious or nonprofit organization in its title before January 1, 1979, continues to use that name, and that organization is not responsible for the financial and contractual obligations of the provider or the obligations specified in the continuing care contract, the provider must include in every continuing care contract a conspicuous statement which clearly informs the resident that the organization is not financially responsible [Health & Safety Code § 1788.5(a)(5)].

(2) Any entity that impliedly sponsors, guarantees, or assures performance of continuing care contract, based on statements or implications in any report, circular, public announcement, certificate, financial statement, or any other printed matter or advertising material, or oral representation [see Health & Safety Code § 1772(c)].

NOTE:

Any implication that an entity may be financially responsible for these contracts may be rebutted by a conspicuous statement, in all continuing care contracts and marketing materials, that clearly discloses to prospective residents and all transferors that the entity is not financially responsible [Health & Safety Code § 1772(c)]. Thus, it is ordinarily advisable to include such a statement as a matter of course.

In general, no report, circular, public announcement, certificate, financial statement, or any other printed matter or advertising material, or oral representation, that states or implies that an entity sponsors, guarantees, or assures the performance of any continuing care contract, may be published or presented to any prospective resident [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)]. A limited exception to this prohibition exists for entities that are subject to P 1, above, and that file written declarations with the Department of Social Services accepting full financial responsibility for each continuing care contract. The filing entity also is subject to the application requirements set forth in Health & Safety Code § 1779 et seq., must be a coobligor for the contracts, and must be a coprovider on the applicable provisional certificate of authority and certificate of authority [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)]. Implied sponsorship includes the use of the entity's name for the purpose of implying that the entity's reputation may be relied upon to ensure the performance of the continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1772(b)].

(3) Any affinity group, for which Department of Social Services has granted exemption from Health & Safety Code § 1772 based on written appeal to Department and good cause shown [see Health & Safety Code § 1772(d)].

NOTE:

An "affinity group" means a grouping of entities sharing a common interest, philosophy, or connection. For the latter requirements, the statute gives the examples of military officers and religion [Health & Safety Code § 1771(a)(1)].

f. Date contract signed by resident and, if applicable, any other transferor.

g. Duration of contract.

NOTE:

NOTE:

For purposes of the requirements that apply to a facility that is certified for Medicare or Medicaid participation, "transfer and discharge" of a resident includes movement of a resident to a bed outside of the certified facility whether that bed is in the same physical plant or not. The term does not refer to movement of a resident to a bed within the same certified facility [42 C.F.R. § 483.12(a)(1)].

(1) Resident's needs cannot be met in facility and transfer or discharge is necessary for resident's welfare.

(5) Facility ceases to operate.

b. Transfer or discharge and reason for it are documented by physician in resident's clinical record, unless resident is transferred because facility ceases to operate [42 C.F.R. § 483.12(a)(2)(vi)].

NOTE:

If the resident is transferred for the reasons set forth under (a)(1) or (a)(2), above, documentation must be made by resident's own physician [42 C.F.R. § 483.12(a)(3)(i)].

c. Facility provides proper written notice to resident and family member or legal representative (if known) prior to transfer or discharge [42 C.F.R. § 483.12(a)(4)(i), (5), (6)].

2. If individual is in residential care facility for the elderly, make certain that:

a. If resident is evicted, that [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224]:

(1) Resident was given 30 days notice of eviction.

NOTE:

"Good cause" exists if the resident is engaging in behavior that is a threat to his or her mental and/or physical health or safety or that of other residents of the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(b)].

(2) Action is taken for one of following reasons [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a)]:

b. If resident is transferred because of temporary suspension of facility's license pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1569.50 (protection of residents), that Department of Social Services consults with medical personnel and local agencies having placement and advocacy responsibility for residents concerning transfer, and otherwise makes every effort to minimize resident's transfer trauma [Health & Safety Code § 1569.525].

Notwithstanding the right to review and determination, the Department may require an immediate transfer if necessary to protect the resident's health and safety. If 10 or more residents are likely to be transferred due to any voluntary or involuntary change in the status of the license or operation of the facility, it must submit, in addition to the requirements set forth below, a proposed relocation plan to the State Department of Health Services for approval at least 15 days before the written transfer notification given to any resident or resident's representative [Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(g)].

The assessment will not be considered complete unless it provides, in accordance with the assessments, recommendations for counseling, followup visits, and other recommended services by designated health professionals, and recommendations for preventing or ameliorating potential adverse health consequences in the event of transfer [Health & Safety Code § 1336.2(a)(1)].

b. Be responsible for ensuring that facility nursing staff and activity director complete assessment of resident's social and physical functioning, based on relevant portions of minimum data set, as described in *Welf. & Inst. § 105.131 Refunds

1. If individual wishes to cancel continuing care contract:

NOTE:

The cancellation period and the associated refund obligations apply to all executed continuing care contracts regarding a unit in a continuing care retirement community that is not an equity continuing care retirement community, and to continuing care contracts executed in conjunction with a purchase of an equity interest from a provider [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(c)(1), (2)]. The cancellation and refund provisions do not apply to continuing care contracts executed in conjunction with sales of an equity interest by one resident to another [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(c)(2)].

a. Mail or deliver notice of cancellation [see § 105.234] to provider within 90 calendar days after date of resident's initial occupancy [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1788(h) (notice)].

b. Secure refund of money or property transferred to facility, less [Health & Safety Code §§ 1788(h), 1788.2(d)(1)]:

NOTE:

During the cancellation period, the provider must pay all refunds owed to a resident, any refunds due pursuant to the cancellation must be paid within 14 calendar days after the resident makes possession of the living unit available to the provider [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1788(h)].

(1) Reasonable fee to cover costs;

(2) Reasonable value of services rendered pursuant to canceled contract; and

(3) If living unit is not returned to provider in substantially same condition as when received, amount necessary to restore unit to that condition.

2. If provider discharges or transfers resident, secure any refund due:

a. All property held for resident discharged or transferred from skilled nursing facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72529(a)(8)].

b. Any refunds due resident [see Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(c), (d)]:

NOTE:

All refunds due to a resident under a continuing care contract after the cancellation must be paid within 14 calendar days after a resident makes possession of the living unit available to the provider, or 90 calendar days after death or receipt of notice of termination, whichever is later [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(b)].

(1) Difference between the total amount of entrance, monthly, and optional fees paid and amount used for care of the resident.

(2) If a resident has paid additional amounts for upgrades, special features, or modifications to living unit, unamortized balance of those additional amounts, which must be amortized at same rate as entrance fee.

NOTE:

A lump-sum payment to a resident after termination of a continuing care contract that is conditioned upon resale of a unit may not be considered to be a refund and may not be characterized or advertised as a refund. The lump sum payment must be paid to the resident within 14 calendar days after resale of the unit [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(e)].

3. On termination of care arrangement, make sure provider returns any negotiable instrument executed by transferor and otherwise takes any necessary action to restore title to any property transferred to provider under arrangement [see Health & Safety Code § 1788(f) (continuing care contracts); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72529(a)(8) (skilled nursing facilities)].

§ 105.132 Complaints Against Facilities

1. If patient, family, guardian, conservator, or other interested member of public is dissatisfied with treatment of patients or conditions at facility, consider filing complaint.

NOTE:

A facility is prohibited from retaliating against any complainant or patient because of the filing of a grievance or complaint or because of any cooperation in an investigation or proceeding by a governmental entity relating to care, services, or conditions at the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1432(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1432(i) ("complainant" is any person who has filed a complaint as defined in Health & Safety Code § 1420)].

2. File complaint with Department of Health Services, Licensing and Certification Division for Hospitals and Convalescent Homes:

- a. In person; or
- b. By telephone; or
- c. In writing signed by complainant.

NOTE:

Complaints against long-term care facilities may be anonymous. The Department of Health Services will investigate all complaints, regardless of whether or not the complainant divulges his or her name.

3. If crisis is observed in long-term care or licensed residential care facility for the elderly, call toll-free telephone hotline established by Office of Long-Term Care Ombudsman (1-800-231-4024) [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 9726].

NOTE:

This hotline is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The telephone number must be posted in a conspicuous place in the facility [Welf. & Inst. Code § 9726].

4. Make certain that representative of Department of Health Services gives named complainant opportunity to accompany representative on official investigation.

NOTE:

After the representative has conducted the investigation, he or she will dictate a report of its outcome. The investigator will then notify all named complainants of the results.

5. Call Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud, in California Attorney General's Office, if facility receives payments under Medi-Cal plan, and patient has been abused, neglected, or discriminated against by facility [Gov. Code § 12528].

NOTE:

Gov. Code § 12528 does not require that the party requesting an investigation by the Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud be a Medi-Cal beneficiary.

§ 105.133 Readmission to Same Facility

1. Determine whether individual may be readmitted pursuant to signed statement detailing modifications to original contract rather than pursuant to new contract [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652]:

NOTE:

A written readmission statement cannot be used if the admittee has been declared legally incompetent subsequent to the time he or she signed the original contract of admission, or if the admittee's physician has determined that the admittee is unable to understand and sign the written statement because of his or her medical condition [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652].

- b. Does prior executed contract of admission, signed by individual or his or her legal representative, responsible party [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(6) (definition)] or agent in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq., exist?

- a. Lists all modifications to original contract.
- b. Does not contain any provision that is prohibited from being included in contracts of admission to skilled nursing or intermediate care facilities.

3. Have statement executed by individual, legal representative, responsible party, or agent prior to or at time of readmission [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652].
4. Ascertain that statement includes date signed [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652].
5. Ascertain that facility files statement with original contract of admission [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652].

PART IV. FORMS

A. Long-Term Health Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.200

§ 105.200 Admission Contract for Skilled Nursing or Intermediate Care Facility

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an admission and consent agreement to be used when placing an elderly individual in a skilled nursing facility or intermediate care facility. Health & Safety Code § 1599.61, adopted in 1997, required the Department of Long Term Care to develop a standard admission agreement to be used by all skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities, and a short form agreement for patients whose length of stay is anticipated to be 14 days or less. By statute, all such facilities were required to use such an agreement by January 1, 2000 [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(a), (b)(2)]. Deviations from the standard agreement are permitted only when authorized by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(b)]. The Department was also required to develop a standardized version of the Patients' Bill of Rights for residents of these facilities, to be included as an attachment to all admission agreements [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(d); see § 105.22]. Development of these standardized forms has proven to be a difficult and controversial process, however, and as of January 2009, the Department has not finalized regulations containing the new forms. Department sources have advised that there is no anticipated date for final implementation of these regulations. Accordingly, the Department is advising operators to continue to use their current agreement forms. An attorney counseling a client who is either entering or placing an individual in a long-term health care facility should carefully review the admission agreement used by the facility.

[b] Statutory Requirements for Form and Contents of Agreement

Detailed statutory requirements govern the form and contents of contracts for admission to long-term health care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1326 (definition)] entered into after 1987 [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.]. All contracts for admission must be printed on white paper, in black type of not less than 10-point type size, with print appearing on only one side of the paper [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(a)].

All contracts for admission also must be written in clear, coherent, and unambiguous language, using words with common and everyday meanings, and must be divided into captioned sections [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(b)].

This form complies with the statutory requirements as to the contents of admission contracts, which are discussed in the remainder of this comment.

A skilled nursing facility contract must have an attachment, placed before any other attachment, that discloses the name of the owner and licensee and the name and contact information of a single entity that is responsible for all aspects of patient care and the operation of the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(c)].

Long-term health care facilities are not required to execute new admission contracts for residents who entered their facilities before 1988, to comply with the statutory provisions set forth in Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq. However, residents must be given notice of the changes made by those sections [Health & Safety Code § 1599.84; see § 105.203].

[c] Parties to Agreement

This form is designed to be executed by three parties: the resident, the facility, and a third party who will be responsible for the resident, such as next of kin, a guardian, or a conservator. The facility must make reasonable efforts, prior to or at the time of admission, to explain the content of the contract to the prospective resident and obtain his or her signature on the contract [Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(a)]. The resident's signature must be obtained unless he or she has been declared legally incompetent or is unable to sign because of a medical condition [Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(a)]. If the resident cannot sign the contract, the reason must be documented in his or her medical record by the admitting physician [Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(a)].

The third party to the agreement acts primarily as a guarantor of payment and, accordingly, is designated as "guarantor." The term normally applied to this individual by health care providers is "responsible party" [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(a)(4)]. Skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities cannot require as a condition of admission that Medi-Cal beneficiaries have a responsible party sign or cosign an admission agreement in order to guaranty payment [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(b)]. This fact must appear, in bold capital letters of not less than 10-point type, in the admission contract of facilities certified to be reimbursed by Medi-Cal [Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(b)].

If a resident has an agent, the facility, as a condition of admission, may require that the agent sign or cosign the admissions agreement and agree to distribute to the facility promptly when due any charges not paid for by the Medi-Cal program that the resident or the agent has agreed to pay [Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(b)]. For this purpose, an "agent" is a person who manages, uses, or controls those funds or assets that legally are required to be used to pay the resident's share of cost and other charges not paid for by the Medi-Cal program [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(a)(3)].

[d] Medical Services Provided

Skilled nursing facilities must provide 24-hour inpatient care and, at a minimum, physician, skilled nursing, dietary, and pharmaceutical services and an activity program [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72103; see § 105.12]. Intermediate care facilities must provide skilled nursing supervision and supportive care [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 73051; see § 105.13]. Admission contracts to long-term health care facilities may require residents to consent to routine nursing care as provided by the facility, and to emergency care. A contract cannot require a resident to consent to all treatment ordered by any physician [Health & Safety Code § 1599.72]. Furthermore, it must contain a clause informing the resident of his or her right to consent or to refuse any treatment or procedure or participation in experimental research and to receive all information that is material to the patient's decision of whether to accept or refuse any proposed treatment or procedure [Health & Safety Code § 1599.72; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(4), (5), 72528 (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(4),(5), 73524 (intermediate care facilities); see also [2], P 2(c), below]. Specific information must be disclosed for the administration of psychotherapeutic drugs or physical restraints or the prolonged use of a device that may lead to the inability to regain use of a normal bodily function [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(5), (23), 72528(b) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(5), (23), 73524(b) (intermediate care facilities)].

A general medical consent provision in a contract for admission (such as the one in this form) may only encompass consent for routine nursing care or emergency care [see [2], P 2(d), below]. For this purpose, "routine nursing care" means a treatment or procedure that does not involve the administration of a psychotherapeutic drug or physical restraint, or the prolonged use of a device that may lead to the inability of the patient to regain use of a normal bodily function [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72528(b) (skilled nursing facilities), 73524(b) (intermediate care facilities)] or that is determined by the physician not to require the disclosure of information material to the individual patient. "Routine nursing care" includes, but is not limited to, care that does not require the order of a physician. The use of informed consent forms for any specific treatment or procedure at the time of admission or at any other time is not prohibited, but all consent provisions or forms must indicate that the patient or incapacitated patient's representative may revoke his or her consent at any time [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72528(g) (skilled nursing facilities), 73524(g) (intermediate care facilities)]. For further discussion of resident rights regarding the issue of informed consent, see § 105.22[5]; see also Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives.

[e] Financial Provisions

Long-term health care facilities generally charge a basic daily rate, which covers room, board, and ordinary services provided by the facility. The admission contract must state clearly what services and supplies are covered by the basic daily rate, and indicate that residents will receive itemized monthly statements of charges incurred by them [Health & Safety Code § 1599.67(a)]. This form sets forth a month-to-month payment schedule, which is the most common payment period used by long-term health care facilities [see P 6 of this form].

Skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities must provide at least 30 days written notice of any increase in the basic room rate or charges for optional services, except in certain cases in which a delay in fee adjustment would adversely affect the facility's ability to obtain full Medi-Cal reimbursement [Health & Safety Code § 1288]. This fact is indicated in this contract [see P 4 of this form], as required by law [Health & Safety Code § 1599.67(c)].

[f] Delinquent Accounts

This form imposes a late charge on past due accounts [see [2], P 7, below]. If a facility imposes late charges on residents' accounts, the admission contract must state the rate of interest charged and the method of computation [Health & Safety Code § 1599.68]. This form also includes an attorneys' fee clause [see [2], P 7, below]. Any clause in an admission contract providing for attorneys' fees must state that the prevailing party in any action arising under the contract will be entitled to attorneys' fees [Health & Safety Code § 1599.83; see Civ. Code § 1717; see also Ch. 75, Formation of Contracts and Standard Contractual Provisions, § 75.252].

[g] Medi-Cal and Medicare

The admission contract must state clearly whether the facility participates in the Medi-Cal program [Health & Safety Code § 1599.66; see § 105.18[3]]. A resident may not be required to pay privately for any period during which he or she has been approved for payment by Medi-Cal, or to remain in private pay status for a specified period of time as a condition of admission to a Medi-Cal certified facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.69(a)]. The facility must also reimburse residents for any amounts paid by them for which the facility is later reimbursed by Medi-Cal [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14019.3]. These matters must be stated, in at least 10-point type, in the contract [Health & Safety Code § 1599.69(a)].

If the facility provides services under Medicare and/or Medi-Cal, the contract must state that optional and covered services may be different for residents in these programs than for private pay residents [Health & Safety Code § 1599.67(b); see [2], P 6, below]. Residents who convert to Medi-Cal from private pay or Medicare must be given a form listing Medi-Cal optional and covered services [Health & Safety Code § 1599.67(b)]. The admission contract may not require that a resident give notice of his or her intent to convert to Medi-Cal status prior to the date of the resident's Medi-Cal application, although a facility may request such notice from a resident who has been admitted [Health & Safety Code § 1599.69(b)].

Prior to the admission of any resident, the facility must provide the prospective resident, his or her spouse, legal representative, or agent, if any, with a standard form explaining the standards for Medi-Cal eligibility, including how Medi-Cal eligibility requirements affect separate and community property interests [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.3; see § 105.202[2]].

[h] Deposits and Refunds

Paragraph 9 of this form provides that a security deposit will be collected by the facility at the time the contract is executed. Any security deposit paid by a private pay resident must be returned within 14 days of the closing of the resident's account, or first Medi-Cal payment, whichever is later. No deduction for administration or handling charges is permitted [Health & Safety Code § 1599.70(b)]. Residents who are Medi-Cal beneficiaries and apply to the facility as Medi-Cal patients cannot be required to pay a security deposit [Health & Safety Code § 1599.70(a)].

Paragraph 10 of this form contains the required provisions for the refund of monthly payments after the death of the resident [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72531], and similar provisions for refunds to be made upon the resident's transfer or discharge. A contract for admission cannot require the resident to pay for days beyond his or her death or involuntary discharge [Health & Safety Code § 1599.71(a)]. If a resident is voluntarily discharged less than three days after being admitted, the facility may charge the resident for a maximum of three days at their basic room rate [Health & Safety Code § 1599.71(a)].

[i] Release of Medical Information

Residents of long-term health care facilities have the right to confidential treatment of their medical information [see Civ. Code § 56.10(a)], and Paragraph 11 of this form acknowledges this, as required by law [Health & Safety Code § 1599.73(a)]. Paragraph 11 also informs the resident of the circumstances under which the facility will disclose medical information concerning him or her. The language of the form complies with the provisions of Civ. Code § 56.10(c), which governs the disclosure of medical information by providers of health care.

The contract also includes, as Exhibit B, the required separate attachment by which a resident may authorize disclosure of information to other specific persons [Health & Safety Code § 1599.73(b)]. This authorization must appear in at least 14-point type [Civ. Code § 56.11(a)]. The authorization conforms to the specifications for the release of medical information set forth under Civ. Code § 56.11. For a discussion of the Confidential Medical Information Act [see Civ. Code § 56 et seq.] and authorizations for release of medical information, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, § 104.223.

Skilled nursing facilities and intermediate care facilities must encourage residents having capacity to make health care decisions, after their admission, to execute an advance health care directive, in the event that they become unable to give consent for disclosure [Health & Safety Code § 1599.73(b)].

[j] Termination of Agreement by Resident

Paragraph 13 of this form provides that the resident may terminate the agreement on 30 days written notice. A resident cannot be required to give advance notice prior to voluntarily leaving the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.71(b)].

[k] Termination of Agreement by Facility

This form lists grounds for the resident's involuntary transfer or discharge [see [2], P 13(b), below]. The admission contract cannot list any grounds for transfer or discharge that are not specifically provided for by law [Health & Safety Code § 1599.76(a)]. For a summary of permissible grounds for discharge, see § 105.23. Admission contracts must state that except in an emergency a resident cannot be involuntarily transferred or discharged without reasonable written notice specifying the reason for the transfer or discharge, and discharge planning [Health & Safety Code § 1599.78].

A facility that participates in the Medi-Cal program cannot transfer or seek to evict a resident solely because the resident switches from private pay to Medicare or Medi-Cal, and the admission contract must state this [Health & Safety Code § 1599.76(b)]. Contracts that state that residents may be discharged for financial misrepresentation under Health and Safety Code § 1439.7 must specify that only material or fraudulent misrepresentation will be grounds for discharge [Health & Safety Code § 1599.77(a)], and all contracts must state that the resident may file a complaint with the long-term care ombudsman [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 9710 et seq.] or the State Department of Health Services regarding any notice of discharge for misrepresentation [Health & Safety Code § 1599.77(b); see § 105.26[2], [4]].

Paragraph 14 of this form reserves the facility's right to move the resident from one room to another or out of the facility when medically indicated, when payments are not kept current, or when the resident breaches the rules of the facility [see §§ 105.23, 105.130; see also 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72519].

This form also states, as required by law, that if the resident is transferred from the facility to an acute care hospital, the facility will hold the resident's bed for up to seven days on the request of the resident or his or her personal representative and that, if the facility fails to follow this procedure, it will offer the next appropriate available bed to the resident [Health & Safety Code § 1599.79; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72520; see [2], P 14(d), below]. At the time of an actual transfer, the facility must again notify the resident, or his or her representative, of the bedhold right, and allow 24 hours for the request to be made [Health & Safety Code § 1599.79].

[m] Facility's Policies and Patients' Bill of Rights

Paragraph 15 of this form lists the facility's rules of resident conduct. Upon admission to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility, the resident must be fully informed regarding his or her rights and all effective rules and regulations governing resident conduct and responsibilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(1), 73523(a)(1); see also § 105.22[1], [2]]. The admission contract must indicate that the facility will impose only reasonable rules, and that residents may obtain copies of the facility's grievance procedure and may also contact the State Department of Health Services and/or the long-term care ombudsman [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 9710 et seq.] regarding grievances against the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.75; see § 105.26[2], [4]].

The admission contract must include copies of both the statutory and regulatory Patients' Bill of Rights [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.1, 1599.2; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527, 73523], in print of at least 12-point type [Health & Safety Code § 1599.74(b)]. Non-English-speaking residents must be given copies in their language, if a translation has been provided to the facility by the State Department of Health Services [Health & Safety Code § 1599.74(a), (b)]. Ordinarily, the Patients' Bill of Rights is not incorporated into the admission agreement. It is printed on a separate sheet of paper and is discussed with and given to the resident and the guarantor at the time of admission. Exhibit C, which appears as an attachment to this form, contains the required preamble [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.2] and acknowledgment by the resident that he or she has been informed of and received a copy of the Patients' Bill of Rights [Health & Safety Code § 1599.74(c)]. For a summary of the rights of residents of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities under the Patients' Bill of Rights [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1; 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527, 73523], see § 105.22.

Health & Safety Code § 1599.61, adopted in 1997, required the Department of Long Term Care to develop a standard comprehensive version of the Patients Bill of Rights to be a mandatory attachment to the standardized admission agreements that all skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities were required to use by January 1, 2000 [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(a), (d); see discussions in [a], above, and § 105.19[2]]. The Department was also required to develop Spanish, Chinese, and other translations of the Patients' Bill of Rights as needed to provide copies to members of any ethnic group that represents at least 1 percent of the state's skilled nursing facility, intermediate care facility, and nursing facility population [Health & Safety Code § 1599.61(e)]. Development of the standardized admission forms has proven to be a difficult and controversial process, however, and as of January 2009, the Department has not finalized regulations containing the new forms. Department sources have advised that there is no anticipated date for final implementation of these regulations. Accordingly, the Department is advising operators to continue to use their current forms.

[n] Personal Property Inventory and Liability for Theft or Loss

A facility must make reasonable efforts to safeguard the property of its residents, and must implement a theft and loss program as specified by law [Health & Safety Code §§ 1289.3(a), 1289.4, 1418.7; see § 105.25]. The admission contract must not state or imply that the facility has a lesser responsibility for residents' personal property than that stated by law [Health & Safety Code § 1289.5]. Paragraph 16 of this form includes a statement of the facility's policy regarding the safekeeping, theft, and loss of residents' property. Exhibit D contains a personal property inventory sheet, which should be updated as necessary during the resident's stay, and a provision for the surrender of the resident's personal belongings upon signed receipt when the resident is discharged or dies. These contract features are required by law [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4(d)-(f), (l)].

Facilities must provide copies of Health & Safety Code §§ 1289.3-1289.5 to all residents and their responsible parties [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(a)(4) (definition)], and to prospective residents and their responsible parties upon request [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4(k)]. A form for this purpose is provided as Exhibit E to this Form.

[o] Disclaimers

An admission contract cannot include any unlawful waiver of the facility's liability, or any other provisions that the facility knows or should know to be deceptive or unlawful [Health & Safety Code § 1599.62(a)]. In this form, the facility disclaims responsibility for loss of or damage to the resident's personal possessions that are not listed in the inventory of personal belongings, and items that could have been deposited for safekeeping but were not [see [2], P 16, below]. It also disclaims responsibility for any consequences suffered by a resident who leaves the facility prior to being discharged by his or her attending physician [see [2], P 15(f), below].

Any language in a contract that purports to alter the statutory period for filing an action against the facility is illegal [Health & Safety Code § 1599.82].

[p] Residents' Funds

Paragraph 17 of this form sets forth the resident's rights regarding the management of his or her personal funds, and lists various options for the handling of those funds. Residents of skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities have the right to manage their own financial affairs; however, they may delegate this responsibility to the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72527(a)(8) (skilled nursing facilities), 73523(a)(8) (intermediate care facilities)]. For a general discussion of the formalities required for a delegation of the rights and responsibilities of financial management by a resident to a facility, see the discussion in § 105.24. For a detailed list of the obligations of long-term care facilities relating to the handling of residents' funds, see § 105.122.

[q] Arbitration

This form includes, as Exhibit F, an optional arbitration clause. An arbitration clause must appear as a separate attachment to the admission contract, and the contract must state that agreement to arbitration is not a precondition to medical treatment or admission to the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.81(a), (b)]. The arbitration clause includes a space for the resident's signature, or that of his or her responsible party, and notice that the resident may not waive the ability to sue for violation of the Patients' Bill of Rights [Health & Safety Code §§ 1430, 1599.81(b)]. This notice is required by law [Health & Safety Code § 1599.81(d)].

Facility's basic daily rate as set forth in Paragraph 3, and the rates for optional services and supplies set forth in Paragraph 6, are subject to change only upon 30-days written notice to Resident, except as permitted by Health and Safety Code Section 1288. If Resident does not agree to pay any rate change instituted by Facility, Resident shall leave Facility no later than the day before the rate increase becomes effective. If Resident does not vacate Facility in the time specified in this Paragraph 4, Resident [and Guarantor] shall be deemed to have consented to the rate increase.

Charges for these services and supplies shall be at the rate set forth in Exhibit A, which is attached to and incorporated into this Agreement. Facility shall provide Resident [or Guarantor] with an itemized monthly billing for services performed under this Paragraph 6, which shall be payable by Resident [or Guarantor] within _____ days of its receipt. Medi-Cal Participation

8. Facility presently [participates or does not participate] in the Medi-Cal program. *[If facility does participate in the Medi-Cal program, add: The participation of Facility in the Medi-Cal program is strictly voluntary. Facility shall have the right to terminate participation in the Medi-Cal program at any time, after giving Resident 60-days notice of its intent to do so. If, at the time of termination, Resident is a beneficiary under the Medi-Cal program, he or she shall either make the arrangements necessary to ensure payment of the private rate charged by Facility or shall terminate his or her residence. If Resident has an agent who manages, uses, or controls those funds that legally may be used to pay Resident's share of costs and other charges not paid for by the Medi-Cal program, that agent shall distribute those funds to Facility promptly when due. RESIDENT MAY NOT BE REQUIRED TO PAY PRIVATELY FOR ANY PERIOD DURING WHICH HE OR SHE HAS BEEN APPROVED FOR PAYMENT BY MEDI-CAL, OR TO PROMISE EITHER ORALLY OR IN THIS CONTRACT TO REMAIN IN PRIVATE PAY STATUS FOR A SPECIFIED PERIOD OF TIME AS A CONDITION OF ADMISSION TO FACILITY. FACILITY MUST REIMBURSE RESIDENT FOR ANY AMOUNTS PAID BY RESIDENT FOR WHICH FACILITY IS LATER REIMBURSED BY MEDI-CAL.]

[The following provision may not be used if resident is a Medi-Cal beneficiary:]

Security Deposit

9. Resident shall pay to Facility the sum of $_____ at the time of the execution of this Agreement, as a security deposit. This deposit shall be refunded, less any sums outstanding and due to Facility, within 14 days after the closing of Resident's account. If Resident becomes a recipient of Medi-Cal payments, this deposit shall be refunded within 14 days after the first Medi-Cal payment or the closing of Resident's account, whichever occurs first.

Refunds and Collections

10.(a) Upon discharge or transfer from Facility, Resident shall receive a refund based on unused days minus any sums outstanding and due to Facility. There will be a charge equal to Facility's basic rate for three days, for any voluntary discharge less than three days after Resident's admittance to Facility. All refunds shall be paid by Facility to Resident within ten business days after Resident is transferred or discharged. If Resident does not vacate Facility by 12:00 noon on the day of discharge, Resident shall be responsible for payment of the basic daily rate for that day.

(b) In the event of Resident's death or involuntary discharge, neither Resident nor Resident's heirs, legatees, or personal representative shall be liable for any amounts due under this agreement for accommodations beyond the date upon which Resident dies or is discharged. Any advance payment shall be returned to Resident or to Resident's heirs, legatees, or personal representatives no later than two weeks after the death or discharge of Resident. The provisions of this Paragraph 10(b) shall not be subject to modification or waiver.

Release of Medical Information

11. Facility shall respect Resident's right to confidential treatment of Resident's medical information. For the duration of Resident's stay at Facility, Facility may release information in its records regarding the nature, diagnoses, or treatment of Resident's physical condition, and all medical, dental, laboratory, and hospital records that it maintains on Resident only as follows:

- (a) In the case of Resident's transfer to another facility, to the extent necessary for Resident's treatment by that facility.
- (b) As set forth in Resident's Authorization for Release of Information From Medical Records.
- (c) As required by law or by any third party payment contract executed by Resident.

Release of Financial Information

12. Resident authorizes Facility to disclose all or any part of Resident's financial records to any agency or entity that is or may be responsible for any or all of the cost of care provided to Resident by Facility.

Termination of Agreement

13. (a) Resident may terminate this Agreement upon 30-days written notice to Facility. Resident shall be liable for any adverse consequences if he or she terminates this Agreement and/or leaves Facility prior to being discharged by an attending physician.

(b) Except in an emergency situation, Facility may discharge or transfer Resident only upon 60-days written notice and must provide discharge planning to Resident prior to the discharge or transfer. Resident may be discharged or transferred only for cause. For the purposes of this agreement, "cause" shall mean

- (2) Resident endangers the health and welfare of other residents in Facility;
- (3) Resident disturbs other residents in Facility;
- (4) Resident fails to comply with the Facility's rules of resident conduct as set forth in Paragraph 15 of this Agreement;
- (5) Resident loses federal and/or state health care benefits and fails to pay private rate charged by Facility, or
- (6) Within 90 days of Resident's admission, Facility discovers that Resident made a material misrepresentation of his or her financial condition, and the misrepresentation was relied upon by Facility in agreeing to admit Resident.

[Add, if facility takes Medi-Cal recipients:]

(c) Facility may not transfer or seek to evict any resident solely as a result of the resident changing his or her manner of purchasing Facility's services from private payment or Medicare to Medi-Cal.

Transfer and Bedhold Policy

14. (a) Facility shall have the right to move Resident to a different room when, in the opinion of the medical director, the move is necessary or desirable.

(b) Facility shall have the right to transfer Resident to an acute care hospital with which it has a transfer agreement if, in the opinion of the medical director or Resident's attending physician, Resident requires services that are available in the hospital and that Facility is not equipped to provide.

(c) Except in the case of a medical emergency, prior to moving or transferring Resident under the provisions of this Paragraph, Facility shall provide at least 24 hours notice to Resident [and/or Guarantor]. At the time of notification, Facility shall provide Resident [and/or Guarantor] with a written explanation of the reasons for the proposed move or transfer.

(d) In the event that Resident is transferred from Facility to an acute care hospital, Facility shall hold Resident's bed for up to seven days, at Facility's basic daily rate, on the written request of Resident or Resident's personal representative. [If facility participates in the Medi-Cal program, add: Medi-Cal recipients may have this cost paid by Medi-Cal.] The bedhold request must be made within 24 hours of receipt by Resident or Resident's personal representative of the bedhold notice given by Facility at the time of the transfer. If the procedure described in this Paragraph 14(d) is not followed, Facility shall offer Resident the next appropriate bed available following Resident's discharge from the hospital.

Rules of Resident Conduct

15. Resident agrees to observe the following rules of Facility, and other reasonable rules that may be adopted by Facility on [e.g., 30] days' written notice to Resident. (b) Only Resident's physician and authorized Facility personnel may provide medicines, medications, or treatments to Resident. Neither Resident nor any of Resident's visitors or guests shall bring any drugs or medications onto the premises of Facility unless they have been prescribed by a licensed physician attending Resident and have been ordered through Facility.

(c) Resident shall not bring any furniture or appliances on the premises of Facility without first obtaining the approval of the Administrator. Within the limitations imposed by space, Facility shall make every effort to accommodate Resident's wishes regarding his or her personal effects.

(e) Resident and Resident's visitors and guests shall abide by Facility's rules with respect to visiting hours. Regular visiting hours at Facility are [specify visiting hours, e.g., 11:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M.] daily. Resident or Resident's relatives or Guarantor may make special arrangements for visits at other times by obtaining the Administrator's consent in advance. Except in cases involving medical emergency, the Administrator may deny such a request if it would unduly disturb, inconvenience, or invade the privacy of other residents. Members of the clergy, upon request of Resident, may visit at any time.

(f) Upon request of Resident, Resident's family, or Guarantor, Resident shall be free to leave Facility at any time and for any purpose. However, if the Administrator or the Medical Director believes that Resident's well-being will be endangered by a departure from Facility, Resident's physician will be consulted and Facility shall not be liable for any ill effects suffered by Resident as a result of the departure.

Theft And Loss Policy

16. It is the policy of Facility to provide reasonable protection against the loss of Residents' personal belongings and valuables. Resident may obtain a lock for his or her bedside cabinet or drawer by contacting _____ [name, title, and telephone extension or office number of appropriate facility employee]. Facility shall not be liable for the loss or theft of any items not listed on the Inventory of Personal Belongings (attached to this Agreement as Exhibit D) or any valuables that Resident could have deposited but failed to deposit with Facility. Facility reserves the right to refuse to allow items of personal property that are valued at $ _____ or more and are not necessary for Resident's health or reasonable comfort to be kept on the premises if, in the opinion of the Administrator, adequate safekeeping cannot be provided for them.

(b) Resident or Resident's legal guardian may receive, retain, and manage Resident's personal funds.

(c) Resident may apply to the Social Security Administration to have a representative payee designated for purposes of receiving federal or state benefits to which Resident is entitled.

(d) Unless a representative payee has been appointed by the Social Security Administration, Resident may designate, in writing, another person to manage his or her personal funds.

(e) Facility shall be obligated, on Residents' written authorization, to hold, safeguard, and account for Resident's funds under Title 22, Section _____ [for a skilled nursing facility: 72529 or, for an intermediate care facility: 73557] of the California Code of Regulations. Any charge for holding, safeguarding, and accounting for Resident's funds is included in the basic rate of Facility.

(f) Facility shall be allowed to accept Resident's funds to hold, safeguard, and account for only upon written authorization of Resident or of his or her representative, or if Facility is appointed as Resident's representative payee. If Resident becomes incapable of managing his or her personal funds and does not have a representative, Facility shall assume management of Resident's funds and shall manage the funds in accordance with the requirements of Title 22, Section _____ [for a skilled nursing facility: 72529 or, for an intermediate care facility: 73557] of the California Code of Regulations.

PART IV. FORMS

A. Long-Term Health Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.202

§ 105.202 Notice Regarding Standards for Medi-Cal Eligibility

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory statement that explains the resource and income requirements of the Medi-Cal program, including certain exempt resources, certain protections against spousal impoverishment, and certain circumstances under which a home may be transferred without affecting Medi-Cal eligibility.

Before admitting any person to a nursing facility enrolled as a provider of the Medi-Cal program, the facility must provide the prospective resident, his or her spouse, legal representative, or agent, if any, with a copy of this statement [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.3; see Health & Safety Code § 1250(k); Welf. & Inst. Code § 14002.5(f) ("nursing facility" defined for purposes of California law); see also 42 U.S.C. § 1396r ("nursing facility" defined for purposes of federal law)]. This notice requirement is not restricted to Medi-Cal recipients or married persons, but applies to all residents of nursing facilities enrolled as providers of the Medi-Cal program [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.3].

Any facility that fails to comply with these requirements is guilty of a Class "B" citation [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.4(c); see Health & Safety Code § 1424 (Class "B" citation defined); see also § 105.26[6][e]].

[b] Contents of Statement

This statement reiterates the resource and income requirements of the Medi-Cal program contained in Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.2 and related provisions. Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.2, among other things, recognizes the validity of agreements between spouses dividing community property into equal shares of separate property, and provides that the separate property of an individual's spouse will not be considered in determining the individual's eligibility for Medi-Cal benefits, except when separate property owned by one spouse is actually made available to the other spouse [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.2(a)(1)]. For discussion of transmutation agreements changing the character of separate or community property of the spouses [see Fam. Code §§ 850-853; see Ch. 109, Postnuptial Agreements].

[c] Form of Statement

The form of this statement is prescribed by statute [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.4(a)]. The statement must appear in at least 10-point type, and must be clearly separate from any other document or writing. It must be signed by the person to be admitted to the facility, and that person's spouse, and legal representative, if any [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.4(b)].

[d] Assessment and Documentation of Total Value of Spousal Resources

Until Congress amends Title XIX of the federal Social Security Act to authorize the consideration of state community property law in determining Medi-Cal eligibility, or the federal government authorizes California to apply community property laws in making that determination [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.6(e)], on the request of a community spouse or an institutionalized spouse [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14002.5(b), (f) (definitions)], and on receipt of relevant documentation of resources, the Department of Health Services must promptly assess and document the total value of the couple's resources to the extent either the institutionalized spouse or the community spouse has an ownership interest. On completion of the assessment and documentation, the Department must provide a copy of the assessment and documentation to each spouse and retain a copy of the assessment [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.6(a)]. If the assessment is not part of an application for Medi-Cal, the Department may require payment of a fee for this service in an amount not to exceed the reasonable expenses of providing and documenting the assessment [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.6(b)]. The Department must notify the couple, on providing them with a copy of the assessment, that either spouse has a right to a fair hearing concerning the assessment to the extent required by federal law [Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.6(d)].

[2] FORMNotice Regarding Standards for Medi-Cal Eligibility*NOTICE REGARDING STANDARDS FOR MEDI-CAL ELIGIBILITY

If you or your spouse is in or is entering a nursing facility, read this important message!

You or your spouse do not have to use all your resources, such as savings, before Medi-Cal might help pay for all or some of the costs of a nursing facility.

You should be aware of the following to take advantage of these provisions of the law:

UNMARRIED RESIDENT

An unmarried resident is financially eligible for Medi-Cal benefits if he or she has less than (insert amount of individual's resource allowance) in available resources. A home is an exempt resource and is not considered against the resource limit, as long as the resident states on the Medi-Cal application that he or she intends to return home. Clothes, household furnishings, irrevocable burial plans, burial plots, and an automobile are examples of other exempt resources.

If an unmarried resident is financially eligible for Medi-Cal reimbursement, he or she is allowed to keep from his or her monthly income a personal allowance of (insert amount of personal needs allowance) plus the amount of health insurance premiums paid monthly. The remainder of the monthly income is paid to the nursing facility as a monthly deductible called the "Medi-Cal share of cost."

MARRIED RESIDENT

If one spouse lives in a nursing facility, and the other spouse does not live in a nursing facility, the Medi-Cal program will pay some or all of the nursing facility costs as long as the couple together does not have more than (insert amount of Community Spouse Resource Allowance plus individual's resource allowance) in available assets. The couple's home will not be counted against this $[amount of Community Spouse Resource Allowance plus individual's resource allowance], as long as one spouse or a dependent relative, or both, lives in the home, or the spouse in the nursing facility states on the Medi-Cal application that he or she intends to return to the couple's home to live.

If a spouse is eligible for Medi-Cal payment of nursing facility costs, the spouse living at home is allowed to keep a monthly income of at least his or her individual monthly income or (insert amount of Minimum Monthly Maintenance Needs Allowance), whichever is greater. Of the couple's remaining monthly income, the spouse in the nursing facility is allowed to keep a personal allowance of $[amount of personal needs allowance] plus the amount of health insurance premiums paid monthly. The remaining money, if any, generally must be paid to the nursing facility as the Medi-Cal share of cost. The Medi-Cal program will pay remaining nursing facility costs.

Under certain circumstances, an at-home spouse can obtain an order from an administrative law judge that will allow the at-home spouse to retain additional resources or income. Such an order can allow the couple to retain more than $[amount of Community Spouse Resource Allowance plus individual's resource allowance] in available resources, if the income that could be generated by the retained resources would not cause the total monthly income available to the at-home spouse to exceed $[amount of Monthly Maintenance Needs Allowance]. Such an order also can allow the at-home spouse to retain more than $[amount of Monthly Maintenance Needs Allowance] in monthly income, if the extra income is necessary "due to exceptional circumstances resulting in significant financial duress."

An at-home spouse also may obtain a court order to increase the amount of income and resources that he or she is allowed to retain, or to transfer property from the spouse in the nursing facility to the at-home spouse. You should contact a knowledgeable attorney for further information regarding court orders.

The paragraphs above do not apply if both spouses live in a nursing facility and neither previously has been granted Medi-Cal eligibility. In this situation, the spouses may be able to hasten Medi-Cal eligibility by entering into an agreement that divides their community property. The advice of a knowledgeable attorney should be obtained prior to the signing of this type of agreement.

Note:

For married couples, the resource limit $ _____ [amount of Community Spouse Resource Allowance plus individual's resource allowance] in _____ [current year] and income limit $ _____ [amount of Minimum Monthly Maintenance Needs Allowance] in _____ [current year] generally increase a slight amount on January 1 of every year.

TRANSFER OF HOME FOR BOTH A MARRIED AND AN UNMARRIED RESIDENT

A transfer of a property interest in a resident's home will not cause ineligibility for Medi-Cal reimbursement if either of the following conditions is met:

(a) At the time of transfer, the recipient of the property interest states in writing that the resident would have been allowed to return to the home at the time of the transfer, if the resident's medical condition allowed him or her to leave the nursing facility. This provision shall only apply if the home has been considered an exempt resource because of the resident's intent to return home.

(b) The home is transferred to one of the following individuals:

- (1) The resident's spouse.
- (2) The resident's minor or disabled child.
- (3) A sibling of the resident who has an equity interest in the home, and who resided in the resident's home for at least one year immediately before the resident began living in institutions.
- (4) A son or daughter of the resident who resided in the resident's home at least two years before the resident began living in institutions, and who provided care to the resident that permitted the resident to remain at home longer.

This is only a brief description of the Medi-Cal eligibility rules, for more detailed information, you should call your county welfare department. You will probably want to consult with the local branch of the state long-term care ombudsman, an attorney, or a legal services program for seniors in your area.

I have read the above notice and have received a copy.

A. Long-Term Health Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.203

§ 105.203 Notice of Legislation Affecting Admission Contracts to Long-Term Care Facilities

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form notifies a resident of a long-term health care facility who executed an admission contract with the facility before 1988 that his or her rights under that contract may be broader than indicated by the contract. The contents of agreements for admission to long-term care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1326 (definition); see also § 105.11] that are entered into on or after January 1, 1988, are set forth specifically by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.; see also § 105.200[2]]. Facilities are not required to execute new contracts to comply with these specifications for residents who were admitted before January 1, 1988 [Health & Safety Code § 1599.84]. However, those residents must be given notice of the post-1988 laws governing the contents of admission contracts, and that provisions in their contracts that conflict with those laws are unenforceable [Health & Safety Code § 1599.84].

[b] Contents of Notice

The statute imposing this notice requirement merely states that patients must "be given notice of changes in admission contracts" pursuant to the 1987 legislation [Health & Safety Code § 1599.84]. It does not establish any further requirements for the form or content of the required notice, or set a date by which the notice must be given. This form states that portions of a previously executed contract may be unenforceable, and that additional rights of the resident and responsibilities of the facility may exist under the law that are not identified in the contract. It also identifies the relevant statutes and directs the resident to a knowledgeable facility representative for further information. This information would appear to satisfy the literal statutory requirement that residents be given notice of changes in admission contracts. However, it is uncertain whether the Department of Health Services will interpret the statute to require a notice that is more specifically detailed to each contract used by a given facility prior to 1988. Ideally, the notice should be tailored to the actual contract and should identify specific clauses that are unenforceable and specific rights of the resident and responsibilities of the facility that are set forth by statute and not addressed in the contract.

[c] Penalty for Violation of Notice Requirement

Failure to comply with the notice requirement set forth by Health & Safety Code § 1599.84 may result in a Class "B" citation or a deficiency from the Department of Health Services [Health & Safety Code § 1599.62(b)]; see § 105.26[6][a],[e].

A. Long-Term Health Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.204

§ 105.204 Notice of Facility's Theft and Loss Policy

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice to existing residents of long-term care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1418 (definition)] or residential health care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.2 (definition)] of the facility's theft and loss policy. It should be given to each resident whose admission contract does not contain a statement of that policy. If a resident is unable to understand the notice and provide a list of his or her belongings, the notice should be given to his or her authorized representative.

Long-term health care facilities and residential care facilities must implement policies and procedures for preventing theft and loss of residents' belongings, and inform residents of those policies and procedures [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4(l) (long-term care facilities); Health & Safety Code § 1569.153(a), (l) (residential care facilities)]. Copies of the relevant statutory provisions must be given to all residents and their responsible parties, and made available to prospective residents and their responsible parties upon request [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4(k) (long-term care facilities); Health & Safety Code § 1569.153(k) (residential care facilities)]. For a more complete explanation of these requirements, see the discussions in §§ 105.24 and 105.200[1][n].

It also includes a provision for the surrender of the resident's personal belongings upon signed receipt when the resident is discharged or dies. CHAPTER 105 NURSING HOMES AND CARE FOR THE ELDERLY
PART IV. FORMS

A. Long-Term Health Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.205

§ 105.205 Abbreviated Contract of Admission for Respite Care Services

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an admission agreement to be used when placing a frail elderly or functionally impaired person in a licensed skilled nursing facility or intermediate care facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c), (d)], on a temporary or periodic basis to relieve those who are providing home health care for that person [see Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(f) ("temporary or periodic" defined as a period of time not to exceed 15 consecutive days or a total of 45 days in any one year)]. This type of care is known as respite care [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(e)]. For a discussion of the law applicable to respite care generally, see § 105.17[3].

Contracts of admission to skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities for respite care services are known as "abbreviated contracts of admission." This is because they are not required to contain all of the provisions set forth by statute for skilled nursing and intermediate care facility admission contracts generally [Health & Safety Code § 1599.60(a); see [b], below].

[b] Provisions Not to Be Included in Agreement

An abbreviated contract of admission is not required to contain any of the following provisions [Health & Safety Code § 1599.60(a)]:

- A prohibition against the facility's requiring or soliciting as a condition of admission that a Medi-Cal beneficiary have a responsible party sign or cosign the admission contract [Health & Safety Code § 1599.65(b); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(b)].
- A statement that optional and covered services may be different for residents covered by Medicare or Medi-Cal than for private residents [Health & Safety Code § 1599.67(b)].

- A statement that (1) neither the prospective resident, nor his or her representative, may be required to pay privately for any period during which the resident has been approved for payment by Medi-Cal, (2) upon presentation of the Medi-Cal card or other proof of eligibility, the facility must submit a Medi-Cal claim for reimbursement, and (3) no certified facility may require as a condition of admission, either in its contract of admission or by oral promise prior to signing the contract, that residents remain in private pay status for a specified period of time [Health & Safety Code § 1599.69(a); see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14019.3].

- A statement that the facility may not transfer or seek to evict any resident as a result of the resident changing his or her manner of purchasing the services from private payment or Medicare to Medi-Cal [Health & Safety Code § 1599.76(b)].

- Statements concerning the facility's bedhold policy [Health & Safety Code § 1599.79; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72520]. Skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities are not generally required to provide a bedhold for a person receiving respite care services when the person is transferred to a general acute care hospital [Health & Safety Code § 1418.1(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1250(a)].

Abbreviated contracts also are not subject to the prohibition against requiring, as a term of the contract, notice of a resident's intent to convert to Medi-Cal status prior to the date of the resident's application for Medi-Cal status [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.60(a), 1599.69(b)].

For discussion of the required provisions for skilled nursing and intermediate care contracts, see § 105.200[1].

[c] Provisions to Be Included in Agreement

Except as specified in [b], above, abbreviated contracts of admission to skilled nursing or intermediate care facilities for respite care services must conform to the statutory form and content requirements generally applicable to contracts of admission to these types of facilities [Health & Safety Code § 1599.60(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.60-1599.84]. These requirements are discussed in § 105.200[1]. Abbreviated contracts of admission must also include all of the following provisions:

- For a skilled nursing facility contract (or abbreviated contract), an attachment, placed before any other attachment, that discloses the name of the owner and licensee and the name and contact information of a single entity that is responsible for all aspects of patient care and the operation of the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(c)].

- A statement indicating that the respite care provided by the facility is not a Medi-Cal covered service and can only be provided by the facility on a private-pay or third-party payor basis, unless the person is participating in a Medicaid waiver program pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1396n, or other respite care service already covered by the Medi-Cal program [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(d)].

- The discharge date agreed to upon admission by the facility and the person being admitted or his or her representative. This discharge date will be binding as a ground for discharge in addition to any other ground for discharge pursuant to federal or state law and regulations [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(e); see § 105.23].

- A statement informing the person being admitted for respite care services that the contract is designed specifically for the provision of respite care services and cannot be used for any other type of admission to the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(f)].

This form complies with the statutory requirements as to the contents of abbreviated contracts for admission to skilled nursing or intermediate care facilities for respite care services.

[d] Documents to Be Provided to Admittee

At the time a patient is admitted to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility, the facility must provide the following:

- Copies of Health & Safety Code §§ 1289.3, 1289.4, and 1289.5 (§ 105.200[2], Exhibit E) [Health & Safety Code § 1289.4(k)].
- The notice concerning Medi-Cal eligibility and community property agreements specified in Welf. & Inst. Code § 14006.4 (§ 105.202) [Welf. & Inst. Code §§ 14006.2(b), 14006.3].
- The Patients' Bill of Rights as set forth by statute and regulation (§ 105.200[2], Exhibit C) [Health & Safety Code § 1599.1].

In addition, the admittee or his or her legal representative or responsible party should receive copies of the executed admission contract and the facility's list of charges for services.

[e] Subsequent Admissions of Same Person

A person who has once been admitted to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility for respite care services pursuant to an abbreviated contract of admission executed in accordance with the applicable statutory requirements and signed by that person, or his or her legal representative or responsible party [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(6) (definition)], does not need to execute a new abbreviated contract of admission for a subsequent admission to the same facility for respite care services. Instead, at the time of the subsequent admission the person, or his or her legal representative or responsible party, may sign a written statement prepared by the facility that lists the modifications to the prior abbreviated contract of admission. The statement must indicate the date it was signed by the person or his or her legal representative or responsible party. The facility must file the statement with the previously executed abbreviated contract of admission [Health & Safety Code § 1599.652].

This procedure may not be used if the person seeking admission has been declared legally incompetent subsequent to the time he or she signed the original abbreviated contract of admission, or if the person's physician has determined that the person is unable to understand and sign the written statement because of his or her medical condition [Health & Safety Code § 1599.652].

[Form must be printed in at least 10-point type, with print appearing on one side of each page only (Health & Safety Code § 1599.64(a)). Form must comply with Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.60-1599.84.]

ABBREVIATED CONTRACT OF ADMISSION TO _____ [name of facility] FOR RESPITE CARE SERVICES

Admission to Facility

1. _____ [Name of patient] ("Patient"), [_____ (name of conservator, guardian, or other responsible party),] and _____ [name of facility], ("Facility"), agree that Patient shall be admitted to Facility on _____ [date] for respite care services under the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement. This Agreement is designed specifically for the provision of respite care services, and cannot be used for any other type of admission to Facility.

Medical Treatment

2. (a) Patient is under the medical care of Dr. _____ [name of physician], _____ [address of physician], [telephone number of physician] ("Patient's Attending Physician"). Patient's Attending Physician may issue advance orders for Patient's care and treatment for a period not to exceed 90 days from the date of Patient's admission to Facility, based on Patient's medical history, diagnosis, and physical assessment conducted upon admission. Facility may readmit Patient for respite care services on the basis of these advance orders, unless Patient's Attending Physician indicates that there has been a significant change in Patient's medical condition. The advance orders shall be used by Facility only during periods in which Patient is receiving respite care services. Facility shall follow the advance orders of Patient's Attending Physician in providing care to Patient, provided that Patient's Attending Physician observes all applicable rules and regulations of Facility as well as any applicable federal and state agency regulations. Facility shall have the authority to contact Patient's Attending Physician at any time that, in the opinion of the Medical Director of Facility, Patient requires the attention of that physician.

(b) Facility shall have the authority, in the event that Patient's Attending Physician is unavailable during an emergency medical situation, to contact another licensed physician to attend Patient or, if it appears necessary in the opinion of the Medical Director of Facility, to transfer Patient to an acute care hospital.

(d) Facility provides general duty nursing care, and Patient hereby authorizes and consents to the providing of the care. Facility shall not be liable for the failure of Patient or Patient's Attending Physician to arrange for any special duty nursing care required by Patient.

(e) Patient [and/or Guarantor] shall be responsible for the payment of all charges for services provided by Patient's Attending Physician and all emergency medical services provided by other physicians selected by Facility under the terms of this Paragraph.

Basic Daily Rate

3.(a) Facility shall provide those services set forth in Paragraph 4 of this Agreement for the duration of Patient's stay. The basic daily rate for the services listed in Paragraph 4 is $_____.

(b) Facility's basic daily rate as set forth in this Paragraph, and the rates for optional services and supplies set forth in Paragraph 5 of this Agreement, are subject to change only upon 30 days written notice to Patient, except as permitted by Health and Safety Code Section 1288. If Patient does not agree to pay any rate change instituted by Facility, Patient shall leave Facility no later than the day before the rate increase becomes effective. If Patient does not vacate Facility in the time specified in this Paragraph, Patient [and Guarantor] shall be deemed to have consented to the rate increase.

Services Included in Basic Daily Rate

4. The basic daily rate includes the following:

(a) [Private or Semi-private or other appropriate description of number of persons to share room] room.

Charges for these services and supplies shall be at the rate set forth in Exhibit A, which is attached to and incorporated into this Agreement. The rates specified in Exhibit A may be adjusted on a periodic basis under the terms set forth in Paragraph 3 of this Agreement.

(a) Patient [or Guarantor] shall pay to Facility, on or before _____ [date], the sum of $[basic daily rate multiplied by length of stay in days] as payment in full for Facility's provision of the services listed in Paragraph 5 of this Agreement from _____ [admission date] through the discharge date specified in Paragraph 17 of this Agreement.

(b) Facility shall provide Patient [or Guarantor] with an itemized statement of charges incurred by Patient for services other than those covered by Facility's basic daily rate, within _____ days of Patient's actual discharge date. Patient [or Guarantor] shall, within _____ days after receipt of this statement, pay to Facility the amount due in full.

(c) Any sums not paid when due as set forth under this Paragraph shall accrue interest at the rate of _____ percent for each 30 days or part thereof that a balance due remains outstanding. In any suit brought by Facility to collect any sums due on Patient's account, or any other suit arising out of this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to have reasonable attorneys' fees paid by the other party.

Refunds and Collections

7. (a) On discharge or transfer from Facility, Patient shall receive a refund based on unused days minus any sums outstanding and due to Facility. There will be a charge, equal to Facility's basic rate for three days, for any voluntary discharge less than three days after Patient's admission to Facility. All refunds shall be paid by Facility to Patient within ten business days after Patient is transferred or discharged. If Patient does not vacate Facility by 12:00 noon on the day of discharge as specified in Paragraph 17 of this Agreement, Patient shall be responsible for payment of the basic daily rate for that day.

(b) In the event of Patient's death or involuntary discharge, neither Patient nor Patient's heirs, legatees, or personal representative shall be liable for any amounts due under this Agreement for accommodations beyond the date on which Patient dies or is discharged. Any advance payments shall be returned to Patient or to Patient's heirs, legatees, or personal representatives no later than two weeks after the death or discharge of Patient. The provisions of this Paragraph shall not be subject to modification or waiver.

Medi-Cal

8. (a) Patient understands that respite care services, as defined by Health and Safety Code Section 1418.1, provided by Facility are not Medi-Cal covered services and can only be provided by Facility on a private-pay or third-party payor basis, unless Patient is participating in a Medicaid waiver program pursuant to 42 United States Code Section 1396n, or other respite care service already covered by the Medi-Cal program.

(b) Facility presently [participates or does not participate] in the Medi-Cal program. [If facility does participate in the Medi-Cal program, add: The participation of Facility in the Medi-Cal program is strictly voluntary. Facility shall have the right to terminate participation in the Medi-Cal program at any time, after giving Patient 60 days notice of its intent to do so.]

Release of Medical Information

9. Facility shall respect Patient's right to confidential treatment of Patient's medical information. For the duration of Patient's stay at Facility, Facility may release information in its records regarding the nature, diagnoses, or treatment of Patient's physical condition, and all medical, dental, laboratory, and hospital records that it maintains on Patient only as follows:

(a) In the case of Patient's transfer to another facility, to the extent necessary for Patient's treatment by that facility.

(b) As set forth in Patient's Authorization for Release of Information From Medical Records, which is attached to and incorporated into this Agreement as EXHIBIT B.

(c) As required by law or by any third party payment contract executed by Patient.

Release of Financial Information

10. Patient authorizes Facility to disclose all or any part of Patient's financial records to any agency or entity that is or may be responsible for any or all of the cost of care provided to Patient by Facility.

Termination of Agreement

11. (a) Patient may terminate this Agreement upon 30 days written notice to Facility. Patient shall be liable for any adverse consequences if he or she terminates this agreement and/or leaves Facility prior to being discharged by Patient's Attending Physician.

(b) Except in an emergency situation, Facility may discharge or transfer Patient only upon 60 days written notice and must provide discharge planning to Patient prior to the discharge or transfer. Patient may be discharged or transferred only for cause. For the purpose of this Agreement, "cause" shall mean

(1) Patient requires a level of care not available in Facility;

(2) Patient endangers the health and welfare of other patients or residents in Facility;

- (3) Patient disturbs other patients or residents in Facility;
- (4) Patient fails to comply with Facility's rules of patient conduct as set forth in Paragraph 13 of this Agreement;
- (5) Patient loses federal and/or state health care benefits and fails to pay the private rate charged by Facility; or
- (6) Within 90 days of Patient's admission, Facility discovers that Patient made a material misrepresentation of his or her financial condition, and the misrepresentation was relied on by Facility in agreeing to admit Patient.

Transfer Policy

12. (a) Facility shall have the right to move Patient to a different room when, in the opinion of the Medical Director of Facility, the move is necessary or desirable.
- (b) Facility shall have the right to transfer Patient to an acute care hospital with which it has a transfer agreement if, in the opinion of the Medical Director of Facility or Patient's Attending Physician, Patient requires services that are available in the hospital and that Facility is not equipped to provide.
- (c) Except in the case of a medical emergency, prior to moving or transferring Patient under the provisions of this Paragraph, Facility shall provide at least 24 hours notice to Patient [and/or Guarantor]. At the time of notification, Facility shall provide Patient [and/or Guarantor] with a written explanation of the reasons for the proposed move or transfer.

Rules of Patient Conduct

13. Patient agrees to observe the following rules of Facility, and other reasonable rules that may be adopted by Facility upon [e.g., 30] days written notice to Patient. Facility shall not adopt unreasonable rules, and Patient may suggest changes in the rules, file a grievance regarding the rules, or file a grievance with the State Department of Health Services or the Long-term Care Ombudsman at any time. A copy of Facility's grievance procedure may be obtained from _____[name and title of appropriate person].

- (a) Food or beverages may be brought into Facility or otherwise provided to Patient only if authorized by, and subject to any limitations imposed by, Patient's physician. Any food or beverage brought into Facility must be approved by authorized Facility personnel before being given to Patient. Smoking materials and alcoholic beverages may be kept on the premises only with the prior permission of Patient's Attending Physician and the Administrator, and must be kept in the custody of authorized Facility personnel at all times.
- (b) Patient may bring medication to Facility only if the contents have been examined and positively identified at the time of Patient's admission by Patient's Attending Physician or Facility's pharmacist.
- (c) Patient shall not bring any furniture or appliances on the premises of Facility without first obtaining the approval of the Administrator. Within the limitations imposed by space, Facility shall make every effort to accommodate Patient's wishes regarding his or her personal effects.
- (d) Patient and Patient's visitors and guests shall abide by Facility's rules with respect to visiting hours. Regular visiting hours at Facility are [specify, e.g., 11:00 A.M to 9:00 P.M.] daily. Patient or Patient's relatives [or Guarantor] may make special arrangements for visits at other times by obtaining the Administrator's consent in advance. Except in cases involving medical emergency, the Administrator may deny such a request if it would unduly disturb, inconvenience, or invade the privacy of other patients or residents of Facility. Members of the clergy, upon Patient's request, may visit at any time.

(e) Upon Patient's request or the request of Patient's family [or Guarantor], Patient shall be free to leave Facility at any time and for any purpose. However, if the Administrator or Medical Director of Facility believes that Patient's well-being will be endangered by a departure from Facility, Patient's physician will be consulted and Facility shall not be liable for any ill effects suffered by Patient as a result of the departure.

Theft and Loss Policy

14. It is the policy of Facility to provide reasonable protection against the loss of Patients' personal belongings and valuables. Patient may obtain a lock for his or her bedside cabinet or drawer by contacting _____ [name, title, and telephone extension or office number of appropriate facility employee]. Patient may also deposit money (subject to Paragraph 15 of this Agreement) and other valuable items of personal property with Facility for safekeeping. Facility shall not be liable for the loss or theft of any items not listed on the Inventory of Personal Belongings attached to and incorporated into this Agreement as EXHIBIT D or any valuables that Patient could have deposited but failed to deposit with Facility. Facility reserves the right to refuse to allow items of personal property that are valued at $ _____ or more and are not necessary for Patient's health or reasonable comfort to be kept on the premises if, in the opinion of the Administrator, adequate safekeeping cannot be provided for them.

Patient's Personal Funds

15. (a) Patient shall not be obligated to deposit any funds with Facility. Patient shall have the right to select the manner in which his or her personal funds shall be handled, including but not limited to any options set forth in this Paragraph.

(b) Patient or Patient's legal guardian may receive, retain, and manage Patient's personal funds.

(c) Patient may apply to the Social Security Administration to have a representative payee designated for purposes of receiving federal or state benefits to which Patient is entitled.

(d) Unless a representative payee has been appointed by the Social Security Administration, Patient may designate, in writing, another person to manage his or her personal funds.

(e) Facility shall be obligated, upon Patient's written authorization, to hold, safeguard, and account for Patient's funds under Title 22, Section _____ [for a skilled nursing facility: 72529 or, for an intermediate care facility: 73557] of the California Code of Regulations. Any charge for holding, safeguarding, and accounting for Patient's funds is included in the basic rate of Facility.

(f) Facility shall be allowed to accept Patient's funds to hold, safeguard, and account for only upon written authorization of Patient or of his or her representative, or if Facility is appointed as Patient's representative payee. If Patient becomes incapable of managing his or her personal funds and does not have a representative, Facility shall assume management of Patient's funds and shall manage the funds in accordance with the requirements of Title 22, Section _____ [for a skilled nursing facility: 72529 or, for an intermediate care facility: 73557] of the California Code of Regulations.

Nondiscrimination

16. Facility shall not discriminate against Patient on the basis of race, religion, political affiliation, or the source from which Patient receives funds for payment of services provided by Facility.

Discharge Date

17. Patient will be discharged from Facility on _____[date]. This discharge date shall be binding as a ground for discharge in addition to any other grounds stated in this Agreement or provided by state or federal law.

PART IV. FORMS

A. Long-Term Health Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.206

§ 105.206 Readmission Statement Modifying Prior Admission Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statement concerning readmission to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1250(c), (d) (definitions)] of a person previously admitted to the facility pursuant to a written contract of admission. It may be used either by a person previously admitted pursuant to a regular contract of admission [see § 105.200], or by a person previously admitted pursuant to an abbreviated contract of admission for respite care [see § 105.205]. However, it may only be used if the person is seeking readmittance for the same type of care (that is, regular care or respite care) provided under the original contract [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.64(f), 1599.651, 1599.652].

[b] Requirements for Readmission Statements

A person who seeks to be admitted to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility is not required to execute a contract of admission if both of the following requirements are satisfied [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652]:

- There exists a prior executed contract of admission for the type of care sought (that is, regular care or respite care), signed by the admittee or his or her legal representative, responsible party [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87101(r)(6) (definition); see also § 105.15[3]], or agent in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.
- The admittee, or his or her legal representative, responsible party, or agent, signs a written statement prepared by the facility that lists the modifications to that contract.

The written statement may not contain any provision that is prohibited from being included in a contract of admission to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility [Health & Safety Code § 1599.651].

The written statement must be signed prior to or at the time of readmission. It must indicate the date on which the signature of the admittee, legal representative, responsible party, or agent was obtained. The facility must keep the written statement on file with the admittee's previously signed contract of admission [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652].

[c] Situations in Which Readmittance Statements Are Not Used

A written readmission statement cannot be used if the admittee has been declared legally incompetent after the time that he or she signed either the original or abbreviated contract of admission, or if the admittee's physician and surgeon has determined that the admittee is unable to understand and sign the written statement because of his or her medical condition [Health & Safety Code §§ 1599.651, 1599.652].

A written readmittance statement or a new contract of admission need not be signed by the admittee, legal representative, responsible party, or agent in order to readmit to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility a person transferred during a bedhold period [Health & Safety Code § 1599.651; see Health & Safety Code § 1599.79; 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 72520; see also § 105.200[1][1]].

B. Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.220

§ 105.220 Application for Admission to Nonprofit Residential Care Facility for the Elderly

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an application for admission to a nonprofit residential facility for the elderly. It is included here to illustrate the types of questions that appear on applications for admission to those facilities. Residential care facilities for the elderly provide their own admission applications and agreements. An attorney counseling a client who is either entering or placing an individual in a such a facility should carefully review the application and admission agreement used by the facility. For an admission agreement between an individual and a residential care facility for the elderly, see § 105.222. For a representative statement of admission policies, see § 105.221. For an analysis of the level of care provided by residential care facilities for the elderly, see § 105.15.

[b] Admission to Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly

Residential care facilities for the elderly may only admit certain classes of persons [22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 87455(c), 87609, 87615; see Health & Safety Code § 1569.2(k), (l)]. For a complete list of these classes, see § 105.120.

Residential care facilities for the elderly generally may not maintain discriminatory admissions policies [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87118(a)]. However, nonprofit facilities established and operated for members of a particular group, such as fraternal organizations, cultural or ethnic groups, or individuals involved in a particular profession or occupation, may limit admission to members of that group [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87118(b)]. For an analysis of the nondiscrimination regulations applicable to residential care facilities for the elderly, see § 105.221[1][b].

[c] Pre-Admission Appraisal

Before a community care facility may accept an applicant, it must conduct an interview with the applicant and his or her responsible person, if any, perform a pre-admission appraisal, obtain and evaluate a recent medical assessment, and execute an admission agreement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87457]. The pre-admission appraisal is designed to ensure that the facility will be able to offer services that will benefit the particular individual. For a complete list of the factors that must be considered in a pre-admission appraisal, see § 105.120.

PART IV. FORMS

B. Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.221

§ 105.221 Admission Policy of a Residential Facility for the Aged

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a sample admission policy of a charitable residential facility for the aged. The admission policy of the facility is generally attached to the application for admission [see § 105.220] or the admission agreement [see § 105.222]. For a complete list of persons who may and may not be admitted to residential facilities for the aged, see § 105.120. Since these facilities provide varying levels of medical and/or rehabilitative services beyond the services they must provide [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87605 et seq.], it is advisable to ascertain whether the residential facility is associated with a skilled nursing facility and an acute care hospital in case the resident requires a higher level of care following admission.

[b] Policy of Nondiscrimination

A residential facility for the elderly must admit persons on a nondiscriminatory basis according equal treatment and services without regard to age, sex, race, religion, color, political affiliation, national origin, disability, marital status, actual or perceived sexual orientation, or ancestry [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87118(a)]. However, any bona fide nonprofit religious, fraternal, or charitable organization that can demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Department of Health that its primary or substantial purpose is not to evade this requirement, may establish reception policies limiting or giving preference to its own members or adherents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87118(c)(1)]. Membership must be nondiscriminatory, however, and the policy must not be construed as a violation of the nondiscrimination requirement. To the extent that nonmembers or nonadherents are admitted, their admission is subject to the nondiscrimination requirement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87118(b), (c)(2)].

[2] FORM

Admission Policy of Residential Facility for Aged

ADMISSION POLICY OF _____ [name of facility]

_____ [Name of facility] (the "Facility") provides comprehensive sheltered care, including room and board, medical, social, health, and nursing care services to persons _____ years of age or over, who have resided in _____ [city or county] for a minimum of _____ consecutive years prior to making application. Various levels of care are provided for the nearly self-sufficient to the totally dependent, with the exception of acute hospital care and care for those whose mental condition and behavior will endanger themselves or others.

Need is the primary consideration for admission to the Facility. The need may be health, personal, social, or financial, and is usually a combination of several of these factors. Priority is given to those with little or no financial resources, and to persons alone or with little contact in the community.

Applicants and/or relatives are called upon to assist to the best of their abilities. The Facility does not require an applicant to turn over all assets upon admission.

Financial arrangements are made with applicants and relatives, with each case reviewed and administered in light of its unique aspects and circumstances, such as: age and health of applicant; financial status of applicant and relatives; applicant's present and future needs; and applicant's desire to provide for his or her survivors.

Capital gifts from applicants and relatives are welcome and solicited as the Facility requires funds for capital improvement such as remodeling and modernization of its main building and for future expansion.

The Facility provides services on a nondiscriminatory basis, and accepts applicants without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry [or the Facility accepts only (or gives preference in admission to) applicants who are members of _____ (name of bona fide nonprofit religious, fraternal, or charitable organization), but provides services to all admitted residents on a nondiscriminatory basis without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry].

B. Residential Care Facilities for the Elderly

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.222

§ 105.222 Admission Agreement--Licensed Residential Facility for the Elderly

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an admission agreement between a licensed residential facility and an elderly person. As a prerequisite to admission of a resident, a residential facility for the elderly must, among other things, complete a written, dated, executed admission agreement with the resident and his or her designated representative [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(a), (e)]. The facility must retain the original agreement and provide copies to the resident, his or her responsible person, or conservator, if any [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(f)]. The resident or the responsible person must date and sign the admission agreement no later than seven days following admission to the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(e)]. Attachments to these admission agreements may be employed provided that they are dated and signed [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(e)].

Every residential care facility for the elderly is required to make blank complete copies of its admission agreement available to the public immediately, subject to time required for copying or mailing, at cost, upon request [Health & Safety Code § 1569.881(a)]. In addition, every residential care facility for the elderly must conspicuously post, in a location accessible to the public view within the facility, either a complete copy of the admission agreement or a notice of its availability from the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.881(b)].

[b] Content of Admission Agreement--In General

Various statutory and regulatory requirements govern the format and content of admission agreements to residential care facilities for the elderly. These requirements overlap to some extent and the absence of a single comprehensive scheme can make drafting or review of an admission agreement for compliance with the applicable requirements confusing. Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq., enacted in 2003, list various detailed requirements for these regulations [see [c], below]. The requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq. relating to admission agreements for residential care facilities for the elderly are intended to be in addition to, and not exclusive of, any other requirements established by state law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 1569.888(a)]. In addition, the general administrative regulations of the Department of Social Services governing community care facilities also specify requirements for the admission agreement [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507, discussed in [d], below]. These various requirements are also discussed in § 105.121.

The requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq. are inapplicable to licensees of residential care facilities for the elderly that have obtained a certificate of authority to offer continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1569.888(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(5) (continuing care contract defined); see also § 105.230].

[c] Content of Admission Agreement--Statutory Requirements

For purposes of the requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1569.880 et seq., "admission agreement" is not limited merely to the contract of admission, but also encompasses all documents that a resident or his or her representative must sign at the time of, or as a condition of, admission to a residential care facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.880(a)].

The admission agreement must be written in clear, coherent, and unambiguous language, using words with common and everyday meanings [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(b)]. It must be printed in black type of not less than 12-point type size, on plain white paper, printed on one side of the paper only [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(a)]. It must be appropriately divided, and each section must be appropriately captioned [Health & Safety Code § 1569.882(b)].

The admission agreement must not include any provision that the facility knows or should know is deceptive, or unlawful under state or federal law [Health & Safety Code § 1569.883(b)]. It may not include unlawful waivers of facility liability for the health and safety or personal property of residents [Health & Safety Code § 1569.883(a)]. The admission agreement must not include any written attachment containing any provision that is prohibited from being included in the admission agreement [Health & Safety Code § 1569.880(b)].

In addition to these basic requirements, the admission agreement must also include all of the following provisions [Health & Safety Code § 1569.884]:

- A comprehensive description of any items and services provided under a single fee, such as a monthly fee for room, board, and other items and services [see [2], Paragraphs 2(a), 4].
- A comprehensive description of, and the fee schedule for, all items and services not included in a single fee. In addition, the agreement must indicate that the resident will receive a monthly statement itemizing all separate charges incurred by the resident [see [2], Paragraph 5]. A facility may assess a separate charge for an item or service only if that separate charge is authorized by the admission agreement. Note that if additional services that were not available at the time the admission agreement was signed are available through the facility to be purchased by the resident, a list of these services and charges must be provided to the resident or the resident's representative, and a statement acknowledging the acceptance or refusal to purchase the additional services must be signed and dated by the resident or the resident's representative and attached to the admission agreement.
- An explanation of the use of third-party services within the facility that are related to the resident's service plan, including, but not limited to, ancillary, health, and medical services, how they may be arranged, accessed, and monitored, any restrictions on third-party services, and who is financially responsible for the third-party services [see [2], Paragraphs 8-11].
- A comprehensive description of billing and payment policies and procedures [see [2], Paragraph 2(a), (b)].

- The conditions under which rates may be increased [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.655; see also [2], Paragraph 13].
- The facility's policy concerning family visits and other communication with residents [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.313; see also [2], Paragraph 16].
- The facility's policy concerning refunds [see [2], Paragraph 3].
- Conditions under which the agreement may be terminated [see [2], Paragraphs 11, 12, 15].
- An explanation of the facility's responsibility to prepare a relocation evaluation for each resident and a closure plan and to provide notice in the case of an eviction under Health & Safety Code § 1569.682 [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(d); see Health & Safety Code § 1569.682 (eviction resulting from facility's forfeiture of license or change in use, in accordance with the Department regulations); see also [2], Paragraph 12A].

When referring to a resident's obligation to observe facility rules, the admission agreement must indicate that the rules must be reasonable and that there is a facility procedure for suggesting changes in the rules [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(a); see [2], Paragraph 7].

The admission agreement must specify that a copy of the facility grievance procedure for resolution of resident complaints about facility practices will be made available to the resident or his or her representative [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(b); see [2], Paragraph 19]. It must also inform the resident of the right to contact the State Department of Social Services, the long-term care ombudsman, or both, regarding grievances against the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(c); see [2], Paragraph 19].

A copy of any applicable resident's rights specified by law or regulation must be an attachment to all admission agreements [Health & Safety Code § 1569.885(d); see §§ 105.22, 105.121, 105.200[2], see also [2], Exhibit H].

The admission agreement may not include any ground for involuntary transfer or eviction of the resident unless those grounds are specifically enumerated under state law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(a)]. The agreement must list the justifications for eviction permissible under state law or regulation, exactly as they are worded in the applicable law or regulation [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(b); see [2], Paragraph 12 (note that the grounds as listed in Paragraph 12 contain minor nonsubstantive grammar and format changes to achieve stylistic consistency with the rest of the agreement)]. Finally, it must include an explanation of the resident's right to notice prior to an involuntary transfer, discharge, or eviction, the process by which the resident may appeal the decision, and a description of the relocation assistance offered by the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.886(c); see [2], Paragraph 12(e)].

[d] Content of Admission Agreement--Regulatory Requirements

In addition to the statutory requirements listed above, 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c) imposes regulatory requirements for such agreements. These requirements overlap with the statutory requirements listed in [c], above, and cover many of the same manners, but in different language and in a manner that is not coextensive. For this reasons, they are listed below in their entirety. Specifically, the regulation requires that admission agreements must specify the following [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)]:

- Basic services to be made available [see [2], Paragraph 4].
- Optional services which are available [see [2], Paragraph 5].

- Payment provisions, including the following [see [2], Paragraphs 2, 5]:
 - Basic services rate, including any exempt-income-allowance, if the resident agrees to such charge.
 - Optional services costs.
 - Payor.
 - Due date.
 - Funding source, provided that the resident may refuse to disclose the source.
- Modification conditions, including requirement for provision of at least 30 days prior written notice to the resident of any basic rate change, or for SSI/SSP rate changes, as soon as the facility is notified [see [2], Paragraph 13]. Agreements involving persons whose care is funded at government-prescribed rates may specify that operative dates of government modifications will be considered operative dates for basic service rate modifications.
- Refund conditions [see [2], Paragraph 3]. When the DSS orders relocation of a resident because the resident has a health condition that cannot be treated at the facility [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 87612(a), 87637], the resident may not be held responsible for meeting any advance notice requirement imposed by the licensee in the admission agreement. The licensee must refund any money to which the resident would have been entitled had notice been given as required by the admission agreement [see [2], Paragraph 3(c)].
- That the department or licensing agency has the authority to examine residents' records as a part of their evaluation of the facility [see [2], Paragraph 17].
- General facility policies which are for the purpose of making it possible for residents to live together [see [2], Paragraph 7].
- Those actions, circumstances, or conditions specified in 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224 which may result in the resident's eviction from the facility [see [2], Paragraph 12]. Except for changes in the general facility policies [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a)(3)], the eviction provisions may not be modified [see [2], Paragraph 14].
- The facility's policy concerning family visits and other communication with residents [see [2], Paragraph 16; see also Health & Safety Code § 1569.313].
- Other conditions under which the agreement may be terminated [see [2], Paragraph 15].

If additional services are available through the facility to be purchased by the residents, such as cosmetology, and these are not specified in the admission agreement, a list of these services and charges must be posted in a location accessible to residents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(d); compare Health & Safety Code § 1569.884(c)]. This form contains a specification of additional services [see [2], Paragraph 5].

[e] Personal Property Inventory and Liability for Theft or Loss

Residential care facilities must make reasonable efforts to safeguard residents' property, and must implement theft and loss programs as specified by law [Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.152, 1569.153; see § 105.25]. No provision of a contract of admission, which includes all documents that a resident or representative is required to sign at the time of, or as a condition to, admission to a residential care facility for the elderly may require or imply that the facility has a lesser responsibility for residents' personal property than that imposed by law [Health & Safety Code § 1569.154]. Paragraph 18 of this agreement includes a statement of the facility's policy regarding the safekeeping, theft, and loss of residents' property. Exhibit A contains a personal property inventory sheet, which should be updated as necessary during the resident's stay, and a provision for the surrender of the resident's personal belongings upon signed receipt when the resident is discharged or dies. These contract features are required by law [Health & Safety Code § 1569.153(d)-(f)].

Residential care facilities must provide copies of Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.152-1569.154 to all residents and their responsible parties [see Welf. & Inst. Code § 14110.8(a)(4) (definition)] and to prospective residents and their responsible parties on request [Health & Safety Code § 1569.153(k)]. A form for this purpose is provided as Exhibit B to this form.

[f] Displaying Licensing Reports

Residential care facilities must place in a conspicuous place copies of all licensing reports issued by the California Department of Social Services within the preceding 12 months, and all licensing reports issued by the department resulting from the department's most recent annual visit to the facility [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38]. This requirement, however, does not apply to any portion of a licensing report referring to a complaint that was found by the department to be unfounded or unsubstantiated [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38]. During the admission process, the facility must inform the resident and the resident's responsible person in writing that the licensing reports are available for review at the facility and that copies of these reports and other documents pertaining to the facility are available from the appropriate district office of the department. The facility also must provide the telephone number and address of the appropriate district office [Health & Safety Code § 1569.38].

[g] Termination of Agreement on Death of Resident

The agreement must be automatically terminated by the death of the resident, whose relatives may not be liable for any payment beyond that due at the date of death unless agreed to in writing or ordered by the court [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(h)].

[h] Termination of Agreement on Eviction of Resident

The agreement must specify the actions, circumstances, or conditions that may result in the resident's eviction from the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(8)]. With the exception of a revision of general facility policies [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a)(3)], the eviction provision of the admission agreement may not be modified [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(8)]. Eviction of a resident may occur in either of the two ways discussed below.

In general, on 30 days written notice to the resident, the facility may evict the resident for one or more of the following reasons [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(a)]:

- Nonpayment of rate for basic services within 10 days of the due date.
- Failure to comply with laws after being notified of the necessity of compliance.
- Noncompliance with the general policies of the facility.
- If, after admission, it is determined that the resident has a need not previously identified, a reappraisal [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87463] is conducted, and the facility and person who performed the reappraisal believe the facility is not appropriate for the resident.

- The use of the facility changes.

There is one exception to the 30-day written notice requirement. If the facility obtains prior written approval from its licensing agency, it may evict a resident on three days written notice for good cause. "Good cause" exists if the resident is engaging in behavior which is a threat to the mental and/or physical health or safety of himself or herself or the other residents of the facility [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(b)].

The facility must mail notice or a copy of notice to the resident's responsible person, if any. The notice must state the reasons for eviction, including specific facts relating to date, place, witnesses, and circumstances. The resident or responsible person may request an investigation into the circumstances leading to the eviction [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87224(c)-(e)].

[i] Relocation of Resident for Health Reasons

If the Department orders relocation of a resident because of the resident's health condition [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87612(a)], the resident may not be held responsible for meeting any advance notice requirement imposed by the facility in the admission agreement. The facility must refund any money to which the resident would have been entitled had notice been given as required by the admission agreement [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(c)(5)(A)].

[j] Miscellaneous Admission Agreement Requirements

Any optional services not specified in the admission agreement (for example, cosmetology), and the charges for those services, must be listed and posted in a place accessible to residents [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(d)]. The facility may not enter into any written or oral agreement with any person that releases the licensee or its employees from responsibility for providing the person with safe and healthful facilities, equipment, and accommodations [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(g)]. No licensee may enter into any continuing care contract with any person without approval by the Department in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(i); see generally § 105.230].

If the owner of the facility intends to sell the facility and the sale will result in a new license being issued for the facility [see Health & Safety Code § 1569.19(a)], prospective residents or their legal representatives must be informed of that fact prior to entering into an admission agreement [Health & Safety Code § 1569.191(a)(2)].

[k] Execution and Retention Requirements

The admission agreement must be signed and dated, acknowledging the contents of the document, by the resident or the resident's representative [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(a); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(e)] no later than seven days following admission [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(e)]. Attachments to the agreement may be utilized as long as they are also dated and signed [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(e)]. The facility must provide a copy of the signed and dated admission agreement to the resident and the resident's responsible person or conservator, if any [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(c); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(f)(1)].

The facility must retain in the resident's file the original signed and dated initial agreement and all subsequent modifications [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(b); 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(f)]. The admission agreement will be reviewed at the time of the compliance visit and in response to a complaint involving the admission agreement [Health & Safety Code § 1569.887(d)].

(b) The facility may, upon obtaining prior written approval from the Department of Social Services, evict the resident

12A. (a) In the event of an eviction under Health & Safety Section 1569.682, the facility must:

(1) Take all reasonable steps to transfer affected residents safely and to minimize possible transfer trauma.

(2) At a minimum, do all of the following:

No preadmission refund is required if preadmission fees were paid 25 months or more before the notice of eviction.

(e) Refund to the resident or his or her legal representative a proportional per diem amount of any prepaid monthly fees, if the resident gives notice five days before leaving the facility, or pay the refund within seven days from the date that the resident leaves the facility and the unit is vacated.

MODIFICATION OF AGREEMENT

Rates

13. (a) The basic monthly rate specified in Paragraph 2 of this agreement may be changed by the Administrator upon at least 60 days prior written notice of the change to the resident. A rate increase may be due to additional costs, a change in the level of the resident's care, or unavoidable and unexpected costs that financially obligate the facility.

(b) The charges for additional services listed in Paragraph 5 of this agreement are subject to periodic adjustment. Upon adjustment of any charge or upon the addition or deletion of the available services, a revised list of the available additional services and corresponding charges shall be posted in a location of the facility accessible to all residents.

Evictions

14. The eviction provisions of this agreement shall not be subject to modification; provided, however, that the general policies of the facility, a violation of which will be grounds for eviction, may be modified by the facility from time to time.

Termination on Death of Resident

15. This agreement shall terminate automatically upon the death of the resident.

VISITORS AND COMMUNICATIONS

16. (a) It is the facility's policy to encourage visits and communication between residents and family members and participation of family members in the facility's activities.

(b) Regular visiting hours at the facility are [specify visiting hours, e.g., 11:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M.] daily. The resident and/or his or her family members may make special arrangements for visits at other times by obtaining the Administrator's consent in advance. Except in cases involving medical emergency, the Administrator may deny his or her consent for visits at other times if such visits would unduly disturb, inconvenience, or invade the privacy of other residents.

(c) The resident shall be permitted to visit with family members and use the telephone in privacy, and to send and receive sealed mail.

EXAMINATION OF RECORDS

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.230

§ 105.230 Admission and Continuing Care Contract for Residential Facility

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a care contract and admission agreement for a residential care facility for the elderly [see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8) ("continuing care contract" defined); Health & Safety Code § 1771(r)(6) ("residential care facility for the elderly" defined)]. It contains the provisions required for a life care contract [see Health & Safety Code § 1771(l) ("life care contract" defined)]. This type of contract is appropriate for an elderly person [see Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(1) (definition)] who is self-sufficient, has no serious medical problems, and wishes to live for the duration of his or her life or a period in excess of one year in a structured environment where some services and supervision are provided.

All continuing care contract forms, including all addenda, exhibits, and any other related documents incorporated in the contract, as well as any modification to these items, must be approved by the Department of Social Services prior to their use [Health & Safety Code § 1787(b)]. The statutes governing continuing care contracts [Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq.] and residential care facilities for the elderly [Health & Safety Code § 1569 et seq.] are the basis for approval of contract forms by the Department [Health & Safety Code § 1787(c)]. To the extent that Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq., governing continuing care contracts, conflicts with Health & Safety Code § 1569 et seq., governing residential care contracts, Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. will prevail [Health & Safety Code § 1787(c)]. Neither this form nor the forms in §§ 105.231 and 105.232 have been approved by the Department. They are presented here for illustrative purposes, to familiarize transferors, residents, and their attorneys with the contents and organization of continuing care contracts generally.

This form should not be used if the continuing care contract is executed in conjunction with the purchase of an equity interest in an equity continuing care retirement community. Additional fee and refund provisions apply to this type of contract [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(2), (e), (e)(2); see § 105.20[5]].

This form should not be used for admissions to long-term health care facilities, such as skilled nursing and intermediate care facilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 72103, 73051 (definitions)]. A combination continuing care contract and agreement for admission to a skilled nursing or intermediate care facility must satisfy the statutory requirements for the contents of admission contracts for long-term health care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.; see also § 105.200], as well as those set forth for continuing care contracts [see [h], below; see also § 105.123]. Continuing care contracts are most commonly used in arrangements involving residential facilities for the elderly, as opposed to skilled nursing or intermediate care facilities, although they can be used in connection with those facilities as well.

[b] Cancellation Notice

A statutory notice describing the transferor's right to cancel this contract within 90 days after entering into it must be attached to this form in duplicate [Health & Safety Code § 1788(h)]. The notice must be easily detachable, and must contain, in at least 10-point boldface type, the statement prescribed by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 1788(h)]. It should be attached as Exhibit F. For a copy of this notice, see § 105.234. For an explanation of the cancellation right, see §§ 105.20[5], 105.234.

[c] "Continuing Care Contract" Defined

A "continuing care contract" is a contract that includes a continuing care promise made, in exchange for an entrance fee, the payment of periodic charges, or both types of payments [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8)]. A continuing care contract may consist of one agreement or a series of agreements and other writings incorporated by reference [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8)]. A "continuing care promise" is a promise, expressed or implied, by a provider to provide one or more elements of care to an elderly resident for the duration of his or her life or for a term in excess of one year [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(10); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(1) ("elderly" means an individual who is 60 years or older)]. A continuing care promise includes any such promise or representation, written or oral, whether it is part of a continuing care contract, other agreement, or series of agreements, or contained in any advertisement, brochure, or other material [Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(10)]. A life care contract is a continuing care contract that includes a promise to provide or pay for routine services at all levels of care, including acute care and physicians and surgeons' services, to the extent not covered by public or private insurance benefits, to a resident for the duration of his or her life [Health & Safety Code § 1771(l)(1); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(r)(5) ("resident" defined); see also [e], below].

[d] Transfer of Assets to Facility

Continuing care arrangements frequently require the elderly person to transfer most, if not all, of his or her assets to the facility that will provide care. Consequently, some individuals may not wish to enter into this type of agreement. One alternative approach to ensuring care for the duration of an elderly person's life without requiring an irrevocable commitment of property to the facility is the execution of a revocable inter vivos trust to ensure payment of monthly care and incidental fees. For a representative trust designed for this purpose, see § 105.233. For a detailed explanation of inter vivos trusts, see the Legal Background to Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms.

[e] Resident Distinguished From Transferor

This form contains references to both the "resident" and the "transferor." Often, but not always, the resident and transferor will be the same person. The "resident" is the person who enters into a continuing care contract with a provider, or who is designated in a continuing care contract to be a person being provided or to be provided services, including care, board, or lodging [Health & Safety Code § 1771(r)(5)]. The "transferor" is the person who transfers, or promises to transfer, consideration in exchange for care and related services under a continuing care contract or proposed continuing care contract, for the benefit of another [Health & Safety Code § 1771(t)(3)]. A transferor has the same rights to cancel and obtain a refund as the depositor under the deposit agreement or the resident under a continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1771(t)(3); see § 105.20[5]].

[f] Entrance Fee

An "entrance fee" is the sum of any initial, amortized, or deferred transfer of consideration made or promised to be made by, or on behalf of, a person entering into a continuing care contract for the purpose of ensuring care or related services pursuant to that contract or as full or partial payment for the promise to provide care for the term of the continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(3)]. An entrance fee includes the purchase price of a condominium, cooperative, or other interest sold in connection with a promise of continuing care [Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(3)]. An initial, amortized, or deferred transfer of consideration that is greater in value than 12 times the monthly care fee is presumed to be an entrance fee [Health & Safety Code § 1771(e)(3)].

Usually the entrance fee is deposited in the resident's account and charges for additional services, damages caused by resident, and other incidental charges are offset against that amount. Paragraph 19 of this form specifies the amount of the entrance fee to be paid by the resident or transferor, and Paragraph 33 specifies the conditions under which part of that fee will be refunded.

[g] Authority to Provide Continuing Care

A licensee may not enter into any continuing care contract with any person without approval by the Department of Social Services in accordance with Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. [22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87507(i)]. The Department will not issue a provisional certificate of authority or a certificate of authority to an applicant until the applicant has obtained licenses for the entire continuing care retirement community, including a license to operate the residential living and assisted living units [see Health & Safety Code § 1569 et seq.] and, if a skilled nursing facility is on the premises, as a health facility [Health & Safety Code § 1771.5; see Health & Safety Code § 1250 et seq. (health facilities)]. In addition to holding all appropriate licenses for the type of care to be provided, any provider who executes a continuing care contract must have a current and valid provisional or final certificate of authority issued by the Department of Social Services before it may enter into a continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code §§ 1771.2(b), 1779(a); see Health & Safety Code §§ 1779-1779.8 (application procedure), 1779.10 (causes for denial of application), 1786 (issuance of provisional certificate), 1786.2 (issuance of final certificate)].

If an entity enters into an agreement to provide care for life or for more than one year to a person under 60 years of age in return for consideration, and the agreement includes the provision of services to that person after age 60, the promising entity must comply with all the requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. when the person reaches age 60 [Health & Safety Code § 1771.2(d)]. Generally, if a provider subcontracts or assigns to another entity the responsibility to provide continuing care, the other entity must have a current and valid certificate of authority. However, a provider with a current and valid certificate of authority may contract for the provision of a particular aspect of continuing care, such as medical care, with another entity that does not have a certificate of authority, if (1) the other entity is appropriately licensed under California law to provide that care, and (2) the provider has not paid in advance for more than one year for the care [Health & Safety Code § 1771.2(c)].

Before executing a continuing care agreement or receiving any payment from a depositor or prospective resident, a provider must deliver to the other parties in the continuing care agreement a disclosure statement in the form prescribed by the department [Health & Safety Code § 1789.1(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1789.1(b) (information to be disclosed); Health & Safety Code § 1789.1(d) (form)].

Executing a continuing care contract without holding a current and valid provisional or final certificate of authority is a misdemeanor [Health & Safety Code § 1793.5(c)]. However, a certificate of authority is not required for the care of a person by a relative, or for the care of a person or persons from one family by a friend [Health & Safety Code § 1771.3(a)]. In addition, the requirements imposed by Health & Safety Code § 1770 et seq. do not apply to admission or residence agreements offered by residential communities for the elderly or residential care facilities for the elderly that promise residents preferred access to assisted living services or nursing care, provided specified conditions are satisfied [see Health & Safety Code § 1771.3(b); see Health & Safety Code § 1771.3(c)-(e) (application for letter of exemption); Health & Safety Code § 1771.6 (application for letter of nonapplicability)].

[h] Contents of Agreement

All continuing care contracts must be in writing [Health & Safety Code § 1787(a)]. Health & Safety Code § 1788 requires that continuing care contracts contain provisions covering specific matters, and Health and Safety Code Sections 1569.152-1569.153 require residential care facilities to execute certain documents relating to theft and loss of residents' property and to provide residents with copies of these documents [see Health & Safety Code §§ 1569.152-1569.154; see also § 105.222[1][c]]. In addition, the State Department of Social Services has developed detailed regulations governing the contents of contracts for admission to residential care facilities [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 87718]. Health & Safety Code §§ 1793.80-1793.84 contain requirements and specific provisions relating to how a provider of a continuing care retirement community must proceed in the event of closure [Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(36); Health & Safety Code §§ 1793.80-1793.84]. This form contains all of the provisions required by statute and regulation to be included in continuing care contracts for residential care facilities, as well as various optional provisions. For a complete list of the required provisions as well as the format requirements imposed by statute and regulation on life care contracts and contracts for admission to residential care facilities, see §§ 105.121, 105.123. For a contract of admission to a residential care facility that is not also a life care contract, see § 105.222.

[i] Execution of Agreement

The continuing care contract must be executed by each provider named on the provisional certificate of authority or the certificate of authority, the resident, and any transferor [see Health & Safety Code § 1787(g)].

[j] Required Copies and Acknowledgments

A clearly legible, executed copy of the continuing care contract, must be furnished with all required or included attachments to the resident at the time the continuing care contract is executed [Health & Safety Code § 1787(g); see [i], above]. A copy must also be furnished within 10 calendar days to any transferor who is not a resident [Health & Safety Code § 1787(g)].

The provider must require a written acknowledgment from the resident (and any transferor who is not a resident) that the executed copy of the continuing care contract and attachments have been received [Health & Safety Code § 1787(h)].

[k] Appointment of Guardian or Conservator

Paragraph 27 of this form contains a provision allowing for the commencement of conservatorship proceedings if the resident becomes incompetent. For an explanation of the law governing conservatorships, see Ch. 66, Guardianship and Conservatorship Planning, Pt. B. For an explanation of conservatorship proceedings, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators (Matthew Bender).

[l] Benefits From Government Agencies

Paragraph 18 covers the resident's entitlement to government health benefits and the involvement of the provider in obtaining those benefits. A provider may pay the monthly premium on a resident's health insurance coverage under Medicare to ensure that the required payments will be made and the coverage will be available when needed [Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)(1)(D); see [2], P 18(d), below]. The resident may then assign his or her right to apply for and receive Medicare benefits to the provider [see Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)(1)(E)]. The provider may include a provision in the contract to the effect that it will not be responsible for the cost of furnishing the resident with any services, supplies, or medication for which reimbursement is reasonably available from a government agency or any private insurance [Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)(1)(F); see [2], P 18(b), below].

[m] Misrepresentations

A continuing care contract may contain a provision identifying the legal remedies that may be available to the provider if the resident makes any material misrepresentation or omission pertaining to the resident's assets or health [Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)(3)]. Paragraph 24 of this form contains this type of provision.

[n] Advertisements for Continuing Care Services

As a general rule, no report, circular, public announcement, certificate, financial statement, or any other printed matter or advertising material, or oral representation, that states or implies that an entity sponsors, guarantees, or assures the performance of any continuing care contract, may be published or presented to any prospective resident [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)]. However, this prohibition does not apply if both of the following conditions have been met:

- First, Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(5) must apply and the requirements of that provision must have been satisfied [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)(1)]. Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(5) specifies that if the provider has used the name of any charitable or religious or nonprofit organization in its title before January 1, 1979, and continues to use that name, and that organization is not responsible for the financial and contractual obligations of the provider or the obligations specified in the continuing care contract, the provider must include in every continuing care contract a conspicuous statement that clearly informs the resident that the organization is not financially responsible [Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(5)]. In light of the second requirement stated immediately below--that the entity accept full financial responsibility for each continuing care contract--this requirement of a conspicuous statement that the organization is not financially responsible does not seem logical in this situation, but that is what the statute provides.

- Second, the entity must have filed with the Department of Social Services a written declaration that it accepts full financial responsibility for each continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)(2)]. The filing entity is subject to the application requirements set forth in Health & Safety Code § 1779 et seq. [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)(2)]. The filing entity must be a coobligor for the contracts, and must be a coprovider on the applicable provisional certificate of authority and certificate of authority [Health & Safety Code § 1772(a)(2)].

An affinity exemption may be granted for good cause by the Department of Social Services [Health & Safety Code § 1772(d)]. If an exemption is granted, every continuing care contract must include a conspicuous statement that clearly discloses to prospective residents and all transferors that the affinity group entity is not financially responsible. [Health & Safety Code § 1772(d)]. Any implication that the entity may be financially responsible for these contracts may be rebutted by a conspicuous statement, in all continuing care contracts and marketing materials, that clearly discloses to prospective residents and all transferors that the entity is not financially responsible [Health & Safety Code § 1772(c)]. Implied sponsorship includes the use of the entity's name for the purpose of implying that the entity's reputation may be relied on to ensure the performance of the continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1772(b)]. For an optional statement that a such an entity is not financially responsible for the provider, see Paragraph 34 of this form.

If the name of an entity, including, but not limited to, a religion, is used in connection with the development, marketing, or continued operation of a continuing care retirement community, but that entity does not actually own, control, manage, or otherwise operate the continuing care retirement community, the provider must clearly disclose the absence of that affiliation, involvement, or association with the continuing care retirement community in the continuing care contract [Health & Safety Code § 1772(e)]. This form includes such a statement as an optional provision [see P 34 of this form].

All printed advertising materials, including brochures, circulars, public announcements, and similar publications pertaining to continuing care or a continuing care retirement community must specify the number on the provider's provisional certificate of authority or certificate of authority [Health & Safety Code § 1772.2(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1772.2(b)] (requirements for advertising materials when provider has not been issued certificate of authority). Similarly, residential care facilities must include their current license number in any public advertisement or correspondence [Health & Safety Code § 1569.68].

Assisted Living Services

10. (a) Provider will observe Resident's physical and mental condition on a regular basis, and will make arrangements as necessary to meet Resident's health needs, including arranging transportation. Resident and/or his or her family members may make special arrangements for visits at other times by obtaining the Administrator's consent in advance. Except in cases involving medical emergency, the Administrator may deny his or her consent for visits at other times if those visits would unduly disturb, inconvenience, or invade the privacy of other residents.

If special care or treatment on Facility premises is prescribed by an outside physician, it must be authorized by the Staff Physician.
- (d) If, in the opinion of the Staff Physician and/or the Administrator of Facility, Resident requires medical attention that is available only through a transfer of the Resident to another facility, the Administrator will attempt to contact and consult Resident's personal physician, if any, before making the transfer or terminating this Contract for medical reasons and will document all attempts at making that contact in Resident's file maintained by Facility.
- (e) Provider will not be responsible for the cost of drugs, medicines, vitamins, or other dietary supplements, dental work, glasses, hearing aids, orthopedic appliances, treatment of mental illness, any chronic condition from which Resident suffered before executing this Contract, or any contagious, infectious, or incurable disease contracted prior to the execution of this Contract.
- (f) Provider will not provide the following health care services: dentistry, ophthalmology, chiropractic, osteopathy, or chiropody.

Transfer From Living Unit

14. (a) Provider will have the right to change the unit originally occupied by Resident to a unit that has a fire clearance for nonambulatory residence if, in the opinion of the Administrator, a physician, or appropriate specialist, or licensing official in consultation with the resident and appropriate representative, if any, Resident becomes nonambulatory as that term is defined by Health and Safety Code Section 13131. Provider will provide a copy of this definition to Resident or Transferor upon request. Resident's monthly rate and entrance fee refund will be adjusted due to a transfer under this Paragraph 14(a) only if the monthly rate for the new unit is lower than the monthly rate for Resident's original unit.
- (b) If two Residents occupy a two-person suite and one of them dies, terminates the shared accommodation arrangement, or is transferred from Facility, the remaining Resident may elect to be transferred to a unit designed for single occupancy when one becomes available and pay the then current monthly rate for that unit. However, the remaining Resident will have the right and first option to remain in sole possession and occupancy of the two-person unit by the payment of three-fourths of the then current monthly rate for double occupancy.
- (c) Provider will have the right to change the unit originally occupied by Resident to another unit of comparable character for any reason not specified in this Agreement that, in the opinion of the Administrator, renders a change of accommodations necessary or desirable. Resident's monthly rate and entrance fee refund will be adjusted due to a transfer under this Paragraph 14(b) only if the monthly rate for the new unit is lower than the monthly rate for Resident's original unit.
- (d) Resident may request a change in accommodations from one unit to another by submitting a written request to the Administrator. Such requests will be honored on a first-come, first-served basis, subject to availability of units and contingent upon Resident's payment of the then current monthly rate for the new accommodations. Resident may change accommodations pursuant to this Paragraph 14(d) no more than once per calendar year.

Transfer From Facility

15. (a) Provider will have the right to transfer Resident to a skilled nursing facility, assisted living unit, nursing home, or hospital, if, in the opinion of the Administrator, a physician, appropriate specialist, or a licensing official of the Department of Social Services, in consultation with the resident and appropriate representative, any of the following occurs:

(1) Resident develops a physical or mental condition that endangers the health, safety, or well-being of the resident or another person.

(2) Resident's condition or needs require the resident's transfer to an assisted living care unit or skilled nursing facility, because the level of care required by the resident exceeds that which may be lawfully provided in the living unit.

(3) Resident's condition or needs require the resident's transfer to a nursing facility, hospital, or other facility, and the Provider has no facilities available to provide that level of care. In that event, Resident will continue to pay all fees required under this Contract and Provider shall pay for the other accommodations. If, in the opinion of the Staff Physician, the condition requiring the change of accommodations is not a temporary condition, Provider will not be required to provide services to the Resident while the Resident is absent from the continuing care community. Provider also will not be required to resume care of Resident, and the unit previously occupied by Resident will be released for other occupancy. No credit on fees paid will accrue to Resident when he or she is removed to another institution pursuant to this Paragraph 15(a).

(b) Provider has a transfer agreement in effect with _____ [name of acute care hospital], where Resident will be admitted upon the instruction of the Staff Physician and/or Resident's privately engaged physician.

(c) Emergency hospitalization outside a _____-mile radius from Facility, but within the United States, will be furnished or compensated for by Provider.

(d) Unless medically contraindicated in the opinion of the attending physician, accommodations at an acute care hospital will be semi-private. If private room accommodations are available and desired by Resident, and in the judgment of the attending physician private accommodations are not necessary, Resident will be obligated to pay the difference between the cost of semi-private accommodations and private accommodations. The term "semi-private accommodations" as used in this Paragraph 15(d) means a hospital room accommodating more than one, but not more than six, persons.

Examination of Premises and Records

16. (a) Resident acknowledges that the State Department of Social Services has the authority to examine Resident's medical, financial, and other records on file with Provider or Facility.

(b) Resident acknowledges that Facility's living units are licensed as residential care facilities for the elderly and, as a result, any duly authorized agent of the State Department of Social Services may, upon proper identification and upon stating the purpose of his or her visit, enter and inspect the entire premises at any time, without advance notice.

Disposition of Remains

17. On Resident's death, Provider will be responsible for making all necessary arrangements incident to the disposition of Resident's remains. Within 60 days after entering Facility, Resident will execute a Will containing instructions to Provider concerning the details that Resident wishes observed concerning his or her death.

Medical Payments

18. (a) Resident will take the action and execute the forms necessary to secure payment to any hospital, extended care facility, or other provider of services, including Provider (if payment is made by it), of all amounts payable for services rendered to Resident and for which benefits are available under the federal Medicare program or any public assistance or aid program for which Resident is eligible.

(b) Hospital, medical, or similar services for which reimbursement from a government agency is available will be paid for by the agency involved and excluded from the services provided by Provider under this Contract. Any and all other services will continue to be provided and paid for by Provider as specified in this Contract.

(c) Any benefits from federal and/or state sources will be credited in the following manner: first against any charge otherwise due from Resident for hospital, medical, or other services; next, as reimbursement for any payment made by Resident for the service involved; and the balance, if any, as reimbursement to Provider for any payment made by it or for application on the account of the Resident.

(d) Provider will pay, or make arrangements for payment of, any premium or other charge required to qualify Resident for benefits under federal and/or state medical assistance programs. Any charge of this nature paid directly by Resident will be reimbursed to Resident by Provider or credited by Provider as an offset against Resident's monthly rate.

(e) The effect of federal and/or state medical benefits upon the cost to Provider of furnishing continuing care benefits under this Contract shall be taken into account by Provider in determining any adjustment of the monthly or other rates, with due regard to maintenance of a high quality of service and operation.

(f) Resident shall be required to make and deliver to Provider a power of attorney for the purpose of permitting and instructing Provider to act as Resident's agent in handling all matters relating to any federal and/or state benefits.

Fees

19. (a) Provider acknowledges receipt from Transferor of a processing fee in the sum of $_____. The processing fee covers clerical and related costs for processing the application and is not refundable.

(b) Transferor shall pay to Provider the sum of $_____ [from _____ (funding source, if resident agrees to reveal source)] as an entrance fee, upon execution of this Contract. [If two parties have jointly paid entrance fee allowing them to occupy unit, add the following: This fee shall be allocated between _____ (name of first party) and _____ (name of second party) as follows: _____.] Any deposit made by Transferor at the time Transferor submitted an application to Provider, except for the processing fee, shall be credited against this amount.

(c) On Resident's admission to Facility, Transferor will be obligated to pay a monthly care fee in the amount of $_____, which will be due in full on the first of each month and will cover the costs of care provided by Provider pursuant to this Contract for that month. Resident's occupancy and use of the accommodations provided pursuant to this Contract are contingent upon the timely payment of this fee. The Provider will adjust monthly care fees for the Resident's support, maintenance, board, or lodging, when a Resident requires medical attention while away from the continuing care retirement community. A schedule of the average monthly care fees charged to residents for each type of residential living unit for each of the five years preceding execution of the continuing care contract is attached to this Contract as EXHIBIT A.

(d) Optional services that are not included in the monthly care fee are available at the rates set forth in EXHIBIT A to this Contract.

(e) Provider will notify Resident in writing at least 30 days in advance of any changes in the Resident's monthly care fees or in the scope or price of any component of care or other services provided under this Contract.

Changes in Monthly Care Fees

[EITHER, for prepaid contracts that include monthly care fees:]

20. Monthly care fees will not be changed based on the resident's level of care or service. The monthly care fee specified in Paragraph 19(c) of this Contract will [not be subject to change during the lifetime of this Contract or not be increased by more than $_____ in any one year and not more than $_____ during the lifetime of this Contract or not be increased in excess of _____ percent over the preceding year and not more than _____ percent during the lifetime of this Contract].

[OR, for monthly fee contracts:]

20. Monthly care fees will not be changed based on the resident's level of care or service. However, Provider may adjust the monthly care fee specified in Paragraph 19(c) of this Contract from time to time. Any adjustments will be based on projected costs, prior year per capita costs, and economic indicators.

Property Transfer

[EITHER, if one or two items of property are to be transferred:]

21. (a) In addition to paying the fees specified in Paragraph 19 of this Contract, Transferor will transfer to Provider the following property: [description of property or, if real property, legal description], currently valued at $_____ as determined by [specify method of ascertaining value].

[OR, if several items of property are to be transferred:]

(a) In addition to paying the fees specified in Paragraph 19 of this Contract, Transferor will transfer to Provider the property described in EXHIBIT K, which is attached to this Contract and incorporated by reference.

[Continue with the following:]

(b) With respect to the transfer of any real property, the deed or other instrument of conveyance must specify that the real property is conveyed pursuant to a continuing care contract and may be subject to rescission by the Transferor within 90 days from the date that the Resident first occupies the residential unit.

Assistance Programs

22. (a) If Resident's income is reduced to the extent that Resident is eligible to receive public assistance or other aid, including, but not limited to, California Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Veterans' Pension, or Medi-Cal, Resident agrees that he or she will apply for and diligently seek those benefits.

(b) If Resident obtains public assistance benefits, the monthly care fee specified in Paragraph 19(c) of this Contract will be adjusted so that it does not exceed the maximum monthly public assistance grant for the aid program, less the amount which that program permits Resident to retain.

Policies, Rules, and Regulations

23. Resident will abide by the rules and regulations of Facility, as they exist now and as they may reasonably be amended, modified, added to, deleted from, and changed by Facility's Board of Directors. A copy of the rules and regulations of Facility in effect as of the date of this Contract are set forth in EXHIBIT C, which is attached to and made a part of this Contract.

Representations

24. It is understood and agreed that Resident's age, application forms, statement of finances, health history, personal interview, and final record are a part of this Contract and any misrepresentation or material omissions made by Resident on any of those forms will render this Contract voidable at the option of Provider.

Admissions and Dismissals

25. Provider will be the final and conclusive decision-maker as to arrangements concerning the admission and dismissal of residents, and any adjustments to be made or any action to be taken regarding any charitable consideration to be extended to any of its residents. Resident will not have the right to object to admission, terms of admission, or dismissal of any other resident.

Obligations of Resident

26. (a) Resident will provide his or her own clothing and personal necessities at his or her own expense. Provider will not be responsible or liable for any expense incurred, or debt or obligation of any nature contracted by Resident on his or her own account.

(b) When Resident is absent from Facility for purposes other than receiving medical attention as provided in this Contract, he or she will be responsible for all payments for his or her own lodging, meals, and incidentals. Resident will remain responsible for payment of the monthly care fee(s) and any other fees charged by Provider during any absence from Facility and will not be entitled to any offset or credit against those fees.

Theft and Loss Policy

27. It is the policy of Provider and Facility to provide reasonable protection against the loss of Residents' personal belongings and valuables. Resident may obtain a lock for his or her bedside cabinet or drawer by contacting _____[name, title, and telephone extension or office number of appropriate facility employee].

Resident may also deposit money and other valuable items of personal property with Facility for safekeeping. Neither Provider nor Facility will be liable for the loss or theft of any items not requested to be included on, or deleted from, the Inventory of Personal Belongings (attached to this Agreement as EXHIBIT D) or any valuables that Resident could have deposited but failed to deposit with Facility. Provider and Facility reserve the right to refuse to allow items of personal property that are valued at $_____ or more and are not necessary for Resident's health or reasonable comfort to be kept on the premises if, in the opinion of the Administrator, adequate safekeeping cannot be provided for them.

A copy of California statutes governing theft and loss of resident's personal property from residential care facilities is attached to this Agreement as Exhibit E.

Disposition of Property on Death of Resident

28. (a) If Resident dies, Provider will use ordinary care in safeguarding his or her personal property and will have the right to immediately remove and store that property pending instructions as to its disposition.

(b) Resident will execute a will within 60 days after entering Facility and, in that will, provide instructions concerning the final disposal of his or her personal property and for the payment associated with any services and the disposition of his or her remains.

Incompetency of Resident

29. If Resident becomes unable to handle his or her personal or financial affairs, Provider will have the right to contact Resident's nearest relative and request that individual to commence proceedings for the establishment of a conservatorship of the person of Resident. If Provider is unable to locate any of Resident's relatives, it will have the right to contact the appropriate county agency for purposes of commencing conservatorship proceedings.

Damages Caused by Resident

30. Resident will reimburse Provider and Facility for any loss or damage suffered by them (beyond normal wear and tear) as a result of the carelessness or negligence of Resident, except for loss due to perils insured against by Provider or Facility.

Lien for Medical Care

31. (a) Provider will not be responsible for the expenses of medical, surgical, nursing, or additional care required by Resident as a result of injury caused to him or her by a third party.

(b) If Resident is injured by a third party, Resident may instruct Provider to arrange the medical or other care required by Resident as a result of that injury. In that event, Provider will make all payments due for that care and Resident will assign to Provider a lien against any recovery Resident may obtain from the third party as compensation for those injuries. The lien will be enforceable against Resident's property and, if Resident dies before Provider has been reimbursed, against Resident's estate.

(c) Resident or Resident's legal representative will diligently pursue any claim for compensation due from third parties for injury to Resident and will cooperate with Provider in collecting that compensation and reimbursing Provider for the cost of care furnished Resident by or through arrangements made by Provider.

(d) If Provider is satisfied that Resident or Resident's legal representative has diligently pursued claims for compensation against third parties and that no compensation will be received or that the net amount paid to Provider will be insufficient to fully compensate Provider, then the unpaid balance will be canceled.

Limitations on Rights of Resident

32. (a) The Rights of Resident under this Contract do not include any proprietary interest in the properties or assets of Provider or Facility.

(b) Pursuant to the requirements of any bona fide lender and/or the Federal Housing Administration, Resident's rights under this Contract will at all times be subordinate to the rights of the secured lender under any existing mortgage or deed of trust now or hereafter executed by Provider or Facility, or any extension, renewal, or substitute for the mortgage or deed of trust, up to the amount of the original mortgage or deed of trust, and relating to property of Provider or Facility in which Resident receives care or service. Resident will execute, acknowledge, and deliver any subordination agreement the lender may require in order to establish the priority of the mortgage or deed of trust as a lien against property of Provider or Facility.

(c) After the payment of the fees specified in Paragraph 19 of this Contract, Resident will not be required to pay any further sums to Provider or Facility except those amounts that constitute reimbursement of sums advanced by Provider or Facility on Resident's behalf under Paragraphs 18, 30, and 31 of this Contract. Provider will have the right and power to apply for and receive any financial or other aid from federal, state, or municipal sources to which it may be entitled, and to donations made in any manner by corporations or private persons, and Resident will have no right, title, or interest in any amounts so received or any right to an accounting for those amounts.

Termination of Agreement

33. This Contract will be terminated as follows:

(a) There will be a cancellation period of 90 days during which this Contract may be canceled by either party without advance notice or cause, and regardless of Resident's health. Resident's death before or during the cancellation period will constitute a cancellation. Cancellation by Resident during this 90-day cancellation period will be by telegram or by written notice of cancellation to Provider at _____ [address where notice of cancellation is to be delivered], which will be effective when given or, if mailed, when deposited in the mail properly addressed and with postage prepaid (see EXHIBIT F, Notice of Cancellation). If Resident cancels, Resident must return possession of any living unit delivered to the Resident under this Contract to the Provider in substantially the same condition as when the Resident took possession. Possession of the living unit must be made available to the Provider within 20 calendar days of the Resident's notice of cancellation. During the cancellation period, the Provider will pay all refunds owed to the Resident within 14 calendar days after the Resident makes possession of the living unit available to the Provider. During the cancellation period, the Provider may cancel the continuing care contract upon 30 days' written notice by the Provider without cause. If this Contract is canceled by either party during the cancellation period, the Resident will be refunded the difference between the total amount of entrance, monthly, and optional fees paid and the amount used for care of the Resident. If the Resident has paid additional amounts for upgrades, special features, or modifications to the living unit and the Provider terminates this Contract, the Provider will amortize those additional amounts at the same rate as the entrance fee and will refund the unamortized balance to the Resident.

(b) This Contract will terminate upon the death of Resident. If the Resident's death occurs after the initial 90-day cancellation period, Provider will retain the full amount of all payments made by Resident to Provider prior to his or her death. Amounts transferred to Provider by Resident before his or her death will not be subject to claim by Resident's estate or heirs. If the Resident's death occurs before or during the cancellation period, the provision of Paragraph 33(a) will apply.

(c) After the cancellation period, Provider will have the right to unilaterally terminate this Contract upon 90 days' written notice to Resident. Termination shall be only for good and sufficient cause. Good and sufficient cause will be deemed to exist under the following circumstances: (1) Resident engages in behavior that is a threat to the mental and/or physical health or safety of himself or herself or others in Facility; (2) Resident is diagnosed with a medical condition that Facility is not equipped to treat, or is determined to have a need not previously identified that makes his or her residence at Facility inappropriate; (3) Resident fails to abide by the rules and regulations of Facility or any state or local law after being notified of the necessity of compliance; or (4) Resident fails to pay the monthly care fee or the fee for additional services specified in EXHIBIT A within 10 days following the due date.

None of the following activities by the Resident, or on behalf of the Resident, constitutes "just cause," "good cause," or otherwise activates this termination provision:

- (1) Filing or lodging a formal complaint with the department or other appropriate authority.
- (2) Participation in an organization or affiliation of residents, or other similar lawful activity.

The Provider may not discriminate or retaliate in any manner against any Resident for contacting the Department of Social Services, or any other state, county, or city agency, or any elected or appointed government official to file a complaint or for any other reason, or for participation in a residents' organization or association.

If the provider terminates this Contract after the cancellation period, pursuant to this Paragraph 33(c), any refunds due to the Resident under this Contract shall be paid within 14 calendar days after the resident makes possession of the living unit available to the Provider or 90 calendar days after death or receipt of notice of termination, whichever is later. If this Contract is terminated by the provider after the cancellation period, the Resident will be refunded the difference between the total amount of entrance, monthly, and optional fees paid and the amount used for care of the Resident. If the Resident has paid additional amounts for upgrades, special features, or modifications to the living unit and the Provider terminates this Contract, the Provider will amortize those additional amounts at the same rate as the entrance fee and will refund the unamortized balance to the Resident.

(d) This Contract may be terminated voluntarily by Resident at any time after the initial 90-day cancellation period by giving 90 days' written notice to Provider at _____ [address where notice is to be delivered]. Termination of this Contract by Resident will not be effective until 90 days after notice is personally delivered or, if mailed, 90 days after notice is deposited in the mail properly addressed and with postage prepaid. Until termination, Resident will be responsible for paying the monthly fee and all other charges provided for under this Contract. After the cancellation period, any refunds due to the Resident under this Contract will be paid within 14 calendar days after the Resident makes possession of the living unit available to the Provider or 90 calendar days after receipt of notice of termination. The Resident will be refunded the difference between the total amount of entrance, monthly, and optional fees paid and the amount used for care of the Resident.

Financial Condition

34. The financial condition as of the last annual audit of Provider is set forth in the current audited financial statement attached as EXHIBIT B to this Contract. Upon request, Resident will be provided with Provider's subsequent annual audit reports, which will include full details on per capita costs of operation and the status of reserves.

[Add, if provider uses name of any charitable or religious or nonprofit organization in its title, and that organization is not responsible for Provider's financial and contractual obligations:]

[Resident or Transferor] understands and acknowledges that neither _____ [organization named] nor any other person, organization, company, society, or group, is in any way financially responsible for Provider's financial or contractual obligations.

Waiver of One Breach Not a Waiver of Any Other

35. The failure of Provider in any one or more instances to insist upon Resident's strict performance, observance of or compliance with any one of the terms or provisions of this Contract or its waiver of Resident's breach of those terms or provisions will not be construed to be a waiver of its right to insist upon Resident's strict compliance with all of the terms and provisions of this Contract.

Prohibition Against Assignment

36. The rights and privileges of Resident under this Contract are personal to him or her and will not be transferred or assigned by Resident either by his or her own act, by any proceeding at law, or otherwise.

[Describe closure and relocation plan that complies with requirements of Health & Safety Code §§ 1793.80-1793.83:.]

37. As required by Health & Safety Code § 1793.80, no less than 120 days prior to the intended date of the permanent closure of this continuing care retirement community facility, Provider will provide written notice, in no less than 12-point type, in the language prescribed by statute, to the affected residents and their designated representatives.

As required by Health and Safety Code Section 1793.81, 90 days prior to the permanent closure of this Continuing Care Retirement Community, Provider will provide Resident and Resident's designated representative, a written closure and relocation plan.

The plan will contain all of the following information:

- (e) The names and addresses of other continuing care retirement communities operated by Provider and whether there are openings available to Resident.
- (f) The names and addresses of other continuing care retirement communities within 30 miles of this closing continuing care retirement community facility that provide comparable replacement housing and care, if applicable, to those offered at this facility, and whether the facilities have immediate openings available to residents of this facility.
- (g) A description of how the facility will comply with Health & Safety Code Section 1793.82, requiring Resident to be offered the choice of the following four options: relocation to another facility owned or operated by Provider, if available; relocation to a continuing care facility that is owned by Provider; monetary compensation equal to the remainder of the value of Resident's contract with Provider; or a mutually agreed on alternative arrangement. This plan will describe or identify the replacement facility or facilities and the procedure by which Resident can select a replacement facility.
- (h) A statement regarding the availability of a licensed medical or geriatric professional to advise Resident, the resident's representative, and Provider regarding the Resident's transfer.

As required by Health and Safety Code Section 1793.83, within 30 days of submitting the relocation plan to the California Department of Social Services, Provider will fund a reserve, set up a trust fund, or secure a performance bond to ensure the fulfillment of the obligations and commitments associated with the relocation plan.

[Add, as required by Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(35) :].

Nothing in this continuing care contract limits either the provider's obligation to provide adequate care and supervision for the resident or any liability on the part of the provider which may result from the provider's failure to provide this care and supervision.

EXHIBIT H

RESIDENTS' BILL OF RIGHTS

(Health & Safety Code Section 1771.7)

No resident of any continuing care retirement community shall be deprived of any civil or legal right, benefits, or privileges guaranteed by law, by the California Constitution, or by the United States Constitution solely by reason of status as a resident of a community. In addition, because of the discretely different character of residential living unit programs that are a part of continuing care retirement communities, this Residents' Bill of Rights will augment Chapter 3.9 (commencing with Section 1599), Section 73523 of Title 22 of the California Code of Regulations, and applicable federal law and regulations.

All residents in independent living programs have all of the following rights:

- (1) To live in an attractive, safe, and well maintained physical environment.
- (2) To live in an environment that enhances personal dignity, maintains independence, and encourages self-determination.
- (3) To participate in activities that meet individual physical, intellectual, social, and spiritual needs.
- (4) To expect effective channels of communication between residents and staff, and between residents and the administration or board of directors.
- (5) To receive a clear and complete written contract that establishes the mutual rights and obligations of the resident and the continuing care retirement community.
- (6) To manage his or her financial affairs.
- (7) To be assured that all donations, contributions, gifts, or purchases of provider-sponsored financial products shall be voluntary, and may not be a condition of acceptance or of ongoing eligibility for services.
- (8) To maintain and establish ties to the local community.
- (9) To organize and participate freely in the operation of independent resident organizations and associations.

In addition, a continuing care retirement community shall maintain an environment that enhances the residents' self-determination and independence. The provider shall:

- (1) Encourage the formation of a resident association by interested residents, provide space and post notices for meetings, and provide assistance in attending meetings for those residents who request it. In order to promote a free exchange of ideas, at least part of each meeting shall be conducted without the presence of any continuing care retirement community personnel. The association may, among other things, make recommendations to management regarding resident issues which impact their quality of life, quality of care, exercise of rights, safety and quality of the physical environment, concerns about the contract, fiscal matters, or other issues of concern to residents. The management shall respond, in writing, to a written request or concern of the resident association within 20 working days of receiving the written request or concern. Meetings shall be open to all residents to attend as well as present issues when prearranged with the council president. Executive sessions of the council shall be for attendance only by council members.

(2) Establish policies and procedures that promote the sharing of information, dialogue between residents and management and access to the provider's governing body. The provider must conduct biennially a resident satisfaction survey that must be available to the resident association or its governing body, or, if neither exists, to a committee of residents at least 14 days prior to the next semiannual meeting of residents and the governing board of the provider required by Health & Safety Code Section 1771.8. A copy of the survey must be posted in a conspicuous location at each facility.

The resident has the right to freely exercise all rights pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1771.7, in addition to political rights, without retaliation by the provider.

EXHIBIT I

[Attach schedule of average monthly fees charged to residents for each type of residential living unit for each of five years preceding execution of continuing care contract (Health & Safety Code § 1788(e)). The provider must update this schedule annually at the end of each fiscal year. If the continuing care retirement community has not been in existence for five years, the information must be provided for each of the years the continuing care retirement community has been in existence (Health & Safety Code § 1788(f)).]

EXHIBIT J

[If any continuing care contract provides for a health insurance policy for the benefit of the resident, attach a binder under Ins. Code §§ 382 and 382.5 (Health & Safety Code § 1788(g)).]

PART IV. FORMS
C. Continuing Care Contracts

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.231

§ 105.231 Alternative Medical Care Provisions for Continuing Care Contract

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a medical care provision for use in a continuing care contract executed by an elderly person and a facility that is authorized to provide both residential care and skilled nursing care. It provides that, in the event that the elderly person requires a higher level of medical care than that provided as a basic service of the residential facility, he or she will be transferred to the skilled nursing section of the facility. It also provides for transfer to an acute care hospital if the person requires a higher level of care than that available in the skilled nursing section of the facility. It sets forth payment arrangements for treatments and services that are not covered by the life care contract, and/or that may be covered by private insurance or government benefit programs. For an explanation of the level of care provided by skilled nursing facilities, see § 105.12.

[b] Contents of Agreement

The contents of contracts for admission to skilled nursing facilities are governed by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 1599.60 et seq.]. The contents of continuing care contracts are governed by the regulations of the State Department of Social Services, as well as by statute [see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 89700 et seq.; Health & Safety Code §§ 1787, 1788]. For a complete list of the provisions that must be included in continuing care contracts, see § 105.123. For a representative continuing care contract for admission to a residential facility, containing the necessary information but not the necessary provisions for agreements for admission to skilled nursing facilities, see § 105.222. The required contents of agreements for admission to skilled nursing facilities and other long-term health care facilities [see Health & Safety Code § 1326 (definition)] are discussed in § 105.200[1].

Alternative Medical Care Provisions for Continuing Care Contract

Alternative Medical Care Provisions for Continuing Care Contract Medical, Surgical, Hospital, and Nursing Care

(a) Resident shall be seen at least once every 30 days by a Staff Physician employed by Provider. Provider shall provide Resident with the medical care and medical or surgical services directed by the Staff Physician or by other health care professionals authorized by Staff Physician. When, in the opinion of the Staff Physician, Resident requires a higher level of care than that provided as a basic service pursuant to this Contract, Resident shall be transferred to the skilled nursing section of the Facility for the period during which that care is required. Transfer to an acute care hospital with which facility has a transfer agreement shall be made when, in the opinion of the Staff Physician, the condition of the Resident requires hospitalization.

(b) Unless the Staff Physician recommends otherwise, hospital accommodations shall be in a ward consisting of more than one but not more than four beds. If Resident desires a private room and if, in the judgment of the Staff Physician, private accommodations are unnecessary, the Resident shall pay the difference between the cost of ward accommodations and private accommodations.

(c) General nursing care shall be provided while the Resident is hospitalized. Resident shall be provided with all medication, treatment, therapy, and other related services authorized by the Staff Physician.

(d) Provider shall be responsible for payment of Resident's hospitalization and treatment and/or surgery in an acute care hospital only after any privately owned insurance held by Resident has been applied to the cost of those services.

(e) Provider shall compensate Resident for emergency hospitalization while outside a _____-mile radius from the Facility (but within the United States) up to $_____, to the extent of the normal daily rate for accommodations in the institution where the care is provided.

(f) Resident shall, from time to time as appropriate, take all action and execute all forms reasonably necessary to secure the payment to any acute care hospital, extended care facility, physician, or other provider of health services, of any and all amounts payable for services rendered to Resident and for which benefits are available under Medicare or similar federal or state legislation.

(g) Hospital, medical, or other health care services for which federal or state health benefits are paid, shall be understood to be compensated for by the federal or state source involved, and shall be excluded from the services provided by Provider.

(h) Any health benefits paid from federal or state sources shall, as between the Provider and Resident, be credited first against any charge otherwise due from the Resident for the services involved; next, to reimburse to the Resident any payment he or she made for the service involved; and any balance to reimburse to the Provider for any payment made by it for the service involved.

(i) Provider shall not pay or arrange to pay to the federal and/or state government any charges required to qualify Resident for benefits under health programs. Resident shall pay any charges of that nature (including any deduction, e.g., from his or her Social Security) and the amount of the payment shall be reimbursed to the Resident by Provider or allowed by Provider as an offset against Resident's monthly rate under this agreement.

(j) Resident shall execute and deliver to Provider a power of attorney for the purpose of permitting Provider to act as Resident's agent in handling all matters relating to any reimbursable health benefits from federal or state resources.

(k) Provider does not assume any present or future responsibility or obligation to render medical, surgical, hospital, nursing or other care for conditions listed as medical or surgical exceptions. Resident assumes full responsibility for, and shall pay all expenses incurred in connection with, the care or treatment of any listed medical or surgical exception, whether provided by Provider or by an outside institution.

(l) Notwithstanding Paragraph _____ of this Contract, if medical or nursing care may be provided at no additional expense to Provider (as determined by the Administrator) for conditions listed as medical or surgical exceptions, that care shall be provided.

(m) Provider shall not pay for care or treatment of the eyes or refractions of the eyes, glasses, or for treatment of cataracts; care or treatment of hearing defects, or for hearing aids; care or treatment for the teeth, or for dentistry, dentures, or inlays; conditions affecting the mind or psychotherapy; osteopathic, chiropractic, or chiropody treatments; or orthopedic appliances.

(n) The following medical and/or surgical conditions of Resident disclosed by entrance examination are exceptions to the obligations of Provider under this agreement: [list exceptions].

PART IV. FORMS

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.232

§ 105.232 Optional Provision for Subsidized Resident

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an optional provision that should be included in a continuing care contract by any facility that will subsidize the care of a resident who becomes unable to meet his or her financial obligations under a life care contract. It may be added to the complete continuing care contract in § 105.230 and the remaining provisions of that form renumbered accordingly. For a complete list of other optional continuing care provisions specifically permitted by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)], see § 105.123.

[b] Subsidy of Costs for Resident Care

A life care contract may provide for a resident who becomes unable to pay for his or her monthly care fees at some future date. If it does include this provision, it may, as does this form, stipulate that the resident must apply for any public assistance or other aid for which he or she is eligible and that the provider may apply for that aid on behalf of the resident [Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)(1)(B)-(G)].

This form also contains the following provisions, each of which is authorized by statute [see Health & Safety Code § 1788(c)(1)]:

- The provider's decision is final and conclusive regarding any adjustments to be made or any action to be taken regarding any charitable consideration extended to any of its residents.
- The provider is entitled to payment for the actual costs of care out of any property acquired by the resident subsequent to any adjustment extended to subsidize the resident's monthly care fees, or from any other property of the resident that the resident failed to disclose.
- The provider may pay the monthly premium of the resident's health insurance coverage under Medicare to ensure that those payments will be made.

- The provider may receive an assignment from the resident of the right to apply for and to receive the benefits, for and on behalf of the resident.

- The provider is not responsible for the costs of furnishing the resident with any services, supplies, and medication, when reimbursement is reasonably available from any governmental agency, or any private insurance.

- Any refund due to the resident at the termination of the continuing care contract may be offset by any prior subsidy to the resident by the provider.

[2] FORM

Optional Provision for Subsidized Resident

Subsidized Residence

1. (a) If at a future time, Resident becomes financially unable to meet the costs of his or her care at Facility, Provider has the discretion to either subsidize Resident's care or terminate this Contract. The decision to subsidize or to not subsidize, in whole or part, the cost of Resident's care at Facility, is subject to Provider's sole and arbitrary discretion, and the decision made by Provider is final and conclusive.

(b) In the event Provider agrees at any time to subsidize in whole or in part the cost of Resident's care at Facility, the following provisions apply:

(1) Resident must apply for any public assistance or other aid for which he or she is eligible and Provider may apply on Resident's behalf.

(2) On request of Provider, Resident will assign to Provider the right to apply for and to receive on behalf of Resident, any benefits to which Resident is entitled.

(3) Provider may pay the monthly premium of the Resident's health insurance coverage under Medicare to ensure that those payments will be made.

(4) Provider has no responsibility for the costs of furnishing Resident with any services, supplies, or medication, when reimbursement is reasonably available from any governmental agency or any private insurance.

(5) Provider is entitled to payment for the actual costs of care out of any property acquired by the resident subsequent to any adjustment extended to the Resident to subsidize a resident who becomes financially unable to pay his or her monthly care fees. Provider is also entitled to payment from any other property of the Resident that the resident failed to disclose.

(6) If Provider subsidizes Resident under this Contract, then, upon Resident's death, his or her estate is liable to Provider for an amount equal to the difference between the sums actually paid by Resident to Provider and the cost of care rendered by Provider. Resident agrees not to make any gift of real or personal property in contemplation or subsequent to the execution of this contract which would diminish his or her estate or Provider's claim.

(7) Any refund due to the Resident at the termination of this continuing care contract may be offset by any prior subsidy to the Resident by the Provider.

§ 105.233 Inter Vivos Revocable Declaration of Trust for Payment of Charges to a Long-Term Care Facility

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a revocable inter vivos trust for the payment of monthly charges in a long-term care facility. It provides an elderly person with a firm basis for the payment of his or her monthly care fees and any other amounts necessary for maintenance. If the elderly person does not object to transferring all of his or her property to the facility, an alternative arrangement for ensuring a continued source of maintenance is a continuing care contract [see § 105.230].

This form is designed for use in situations involving an individual trustee. If the trustee will be an institution such as a bank, the pronouns relating to the trustee should be changed to a gender neutral form.

The payment and distribution provisions of this trust are not designed to preserve any entitlement that the beneficiary might have to government assistance benefits. So-called "special needs trusts," designed to preserve a trust beneficiary's entitlement to government benefits to the maximum extent possible, require special provisions and are beyond the scope of this chapter. For a detailed discussion of special needs trusts, see California Wills and Trusts, Ch. 118, Special Needs Trusts (Matthew Bender). For illustrative special needs trusts, see California Wills and Trusts Forms, Division 1, Complete Inter Vivos Trusts, Trust 3, Section 5.05 (special needs trust provisions for one beneficiary of revocable trust) and Trust 43 (irrevocable special needs trust) (Matthew Bender).

For an explanation of revocable trusts in general, see the Legal Background to Ch. 70, Complete Revocable Trust Forms. For a discussion of the basic income and estate tax considerations applicable to trusts and other estate planning devices, see Ch. 60, Estate Planning. For detailed coverage of the federal estate, gift, and income tax laws in the context of trust planning, see California Wills and Trusts, Ch. 2, Overview of Tax Laws Affecting the Disposition of Estates, Ch. 3, Selecting the Proper Estate Planning Devices, and Ch. 82, Basic Tax Considerations in Trust Planning (Matthew Bender).

[b] Source of Payments to Facility

Paragraph 3.01(a) of this form requires the trustee to make regular payments, from income produced by the trust estate, to a designated facility for the care of the settlor. It requires the addition of any excess income to the principal of the trust estate.

[c] Revocability

Unless a trust is expressly made irrevocable by the trust instrument, the trust is revocable by the settlor [Prob. Code § 15400]. Paragraph 2.02(a) of this form expressly makes the trust agreement revocable upon written notice from the settlor to the trustee.

The trust agreement is irrevocable upon the death of the settlor [see P 2.02(b)]. At that time, the trust estate will be distributed by the trustee. The effect of this provision is to render this form a will substitute as to the assets contained in the trust estate.

[d] Disposition of Trust Estate on Death of Settlor

Upon the death of the settlor, the trust estate will be divided equally among beneficiaries designated by the settlor in Paragraph 3.02(b). Paragraph 4.02 provides that, among the beneficiaries named in Paragraph 3.02(b), allocations of principal and income will be made in accordance with the provisions of the Legal Estates Principal and Income Law [see Civ. Code §§ 731-731.15].

[e] Effect of Subsequent Conservatorship

It is possible that if the settlor becomes incompetent, he or she will be placed under a conservatorship. A conservator of the person may be appointed for an adult who is unable to provide properly for his or her needs for personal health, food, clothing, or shelter, and a conservator of the estate may be appointed for any adult who is substantially unable to manage his or her own financial resources or to resist fraud or undue influence [Prob. Code §§ 1800.3, 1801; see "--Inability to Manage Finances or Resist Fraud or Undue Influence" in the Legal Background to Ch. 66, Guardianship and Conservatorship Planning, Pt. B]. For an explanation of conservatorship proceedings, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 281, Guardianship and Conservatorship: Appointment of Conservators (Matthew Bender).

If a conservator is eventually appointed for the settlor, that conservator will have the power to exercise the settlor's right to revoke this trust agreement [see Prob. Code § 2580(b)(11)].

[2] FORM

That property and all property subsequently added to this trust shall comprise the trust estate and shall be held, managed, administered, and distributed by the Trustee as provided in this Agreement.

Additions to Trust Estate

Section 1.02. Any person, including the Settlor, or organization may add to this trust any property acceptable to the Trustee. All additional property added to this Trust shall become a part of the trust estate and shall be held, managed, administered, and distributed by the Trustee as provided in this Agreement.

Revocability

Section 2.02. (a) The Settlor may revoke this Agreement at any time by delivery of notice to that effect to the Trustee. The Trustee's powers, rights, and obligations under this Agreement shall terminate immediately upon receipt of notice of revocation by the Settlor.

(b) On the death of the Settlor, this trust shall become irrevocable.

ARTICLE 3 DISTRIBUTIONS BY THE TRUSTEE

Lifetime Distributions

Section 3.01. During the life of the Settlor or until Settlor notifies Trustee in a signed writing to discontinue _____ [his or her] performance under this Agreement, the Trustee shall apply and distribute the net income and principal of the trust estate in the following manner:

(a) Trustee shall pay to _____ [name of facility], _____ [address of facility], monthly payments commencing on the date of this Agreement, of not less than $_____, together with all additional sums that may, in the sole discretion of the Trustee, be necessary or proper for the care and maintenance of the Settlor.

(b) If at any time the Settlor is declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be incompetent, or if Settlor for any reason becomes unable to act upon _____ [his or her] own behalf, the Trustee, in _____ [his or her] sole discretion, may pay to or apply for the benefit of the Settlor all amounts, up to the whole, of the principal of the trust estate, as the Trustee deems necessary for the reasonable support, care, and comfort of Settlor.

Distribution of Trust Estate Upon Death of Settlor

Section 3.02. On the death of the Settlor, the Trustee shall apply and distribute the trust estate in the following manner:

(b) Settlor shall distribute the residue of the trust estate in equal shares to the following beneficiaries:

_____ [identify beneficiaries, e.g., Jane Doe of 111 Oak Street, San Francisco, California; Richard Roe of 1376 Shannon Lane, City of Costa Mesa, Orange County, California]. Any expenses incurred by the Trustee in carrying out the provisions of this Article shall be charged equally against the shares of each beneficiary named in this paragraph. Trustee shall prorate taxes and other current expenses of administering the trust estate to the date of termination.

(c) The Trustee shall apply payments for the benefit of any beneficiary, or may make payments to any beneficiary under disability to the guardian or conservator of the person of that beneficiary or to the parent or person having legal custody of the beneficiary, if a minor. Trustee may pay sums necessary for care, support, comfort, and education directly to minor beneficiaries who, in the judgment of the Trustee, have attained sufficient age and discretion to render it probable that those sums will be properly used. The Trustee may also deposit income or principal payable under this Article to the credit of the beneficiary to whom it is due in any bank account the beneficiary designates.

Method of Distribution

Section 3.03. On any division or partial or final distribution of the trust estate, the Trustee shall have the power to partition, allot, and distribute the trust estate in undivided interests or in kind, or partly in money and partly in kind, at valuations determined by the Trustee, and to sell any property the Trustee deems necessary to make the appropriate division or distribution.

Change in Status of Beneficiaries

Section 3.04. Until the Trustee receives written notice of any birth, marriage, death, or other event upon which the right to payments from this trust may depend, the Trustee shall incur no liability to persons whose interest may have been affected by that event for disbursement made in good faith.

 PART IV. FORMS
 C. Continuing Care Contracts

33-105 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 105.234

§ 105.234 Transferror's Notice of Cancellation of Continuing Care Contract Within 90-Day Probationary Period

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a statutory notice of cancellation of a continuing care contract by the transferor [Health & Safety Code § 1788(h)]. This notice must be included or attached, in duplicate, to every continuing care contract executed in California [Health & Safety Code § 1788(h); see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(8), (l) ("continuing care contract" and "life care contract" defined)]. The notice must be easily detachable from the contract, and must be printed in at least 10-point boldface type [Health & Safety Code § 1788(h)]. The contract itself must also include a conspicuous statement, in at least 10-point boldface type in immediate proximity to the space reserved for the signatures of the resident and, if applicable, the transferor, that provides as follows: "You, the resident or transferor, may cancel the transaction without cause at any time within 90 days from the date you first occupy your living unit. See the attached notice of cancellation form for an explanation of this right." [Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(27); see § 105.230].

This notice serves the dual functions of providing notice of the right to cancel a continuing care contract and providing a form by which to effect such a cancellation.

[b] Cancellation Rights

A continuing care contract may be canceled without cause by either party, by providing written notice to the other party within 90 days after the resident's initial occupancy [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(a); see Health & Safety Code § 1788(a)(28) (provider's right to cancel during cancellation period on 30 days written notice)]. Unless the contract specifically provides otherwise, death before or during the cancellation period constitutes a cancellation [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(b)].

[c] Fees and Refunds

If possession of the living unit in a continuing care retirement community that is not an equity continuing care retirement community is returned to the provider in substantially the same condition as when received, the resident's only obligations is to pay a reasonable fee to cover costs and to pay the reasonable value of services rendered under the canceled contract [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(1)]. Equity project providers may impose a resale fee on sellers [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(d)(2); see Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(e) (limitation on resale fees)].

The cancellation period [see Health & Safety Code § 1771(c)(2) ("cancellation period" is 90-day period beginning when resident physically moves into continuing care retirement community, during which resident may cancel contract) and associated refund obligations apply to all executed continuing care contracts regarding a unit in a continuing care retirement community that is not an equity continuing care retirement community, as well as to continuing care contracts executed in conjunction with a purchase of an equity interest from a provider [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(c)(1), (2)]. However, the cancellation period and associated refund obligations do not apply to continuing care contracts executed in conjunction with sales of an equity interest by one resident to another [Health & Safety Code § 1788.2(c)(2)]. During the cancellation period, the provider must pay all refunds owed to a resident within 14 calendar days after a resident makes possession of the living unit available to the provider [Health & Safety Code § 1788.4(a)].

Any security interest arising out of the transaction will be canceled.

If you cancel, you are obligated to pay a reasonable processing fee to cover costs and to pay for the reasonable value of the services received by you from the provider up to the date you canceled or made available to the provider the possession of any living unit delivered to you under this contract, whichever is later.

If you cancel, you must return possession of any living unit delivered to you under this contract to the provider in substantially the same condition as when you took possession.

Possession of the living unit must be made available to the provider within 20 calendar days of your notice of cancellation. If you fail to make the possession of any living unit available to the provider, then you remain liable for performance of all obligations under the contract.

Scope

This chapter covers anatomical gifts under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40]. The Legal Background discusses the requirements of the Act and the practical considerations in making anatomical gifts. The Transaction Guide contains a guide to the procedures for making anatomical gifts. The forms include various instruments for making anatomical gifts, including donor registration donor cards, and testamentary provisions. A revocation of an anatomical gift is also included.

Anatomical gifts may also be made by means of an advance health care directive (durable power of attorney for health care) [see Prob. Code § 4701] under the Uniform Health Care Decisions Act [Prob. Code § 4670 et seq.], which is part of California's Health Care Decisions Law [Prob. Code § 4600 et seq.]. For discussion of these statutes, and forms for advance health care directives, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives .

CHAPTER 106 ANATOMICAL GIFTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.10

§ 106.10 Anatomical Gifts

[1] In General

An anatomical gift is a donation of all or part of a human body to take effect on or after the donor's death [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(3)]. In California, anatomical gifts are subject to the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40; see § 106.11 et seq.].

An anatomical gift may be made by a card, by a statement attached to or imprinted on a driver's license, by a will, or by some other writing signed or authorized by the donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20, (c); see also Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(a)(6) ("document of gift" defined)]. An anatomical gift may also be made directly through the Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry Internet web site at www.donatelifecalifornia.org [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(a)(2), see 106.11[3]]. Unless there are indications of religious objections [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(e); see also § 106.11[7]], a deceased person's attorney-in-fact, guardian, conservator, or next-of-kin may, under circumstances specified in the Act, make anatomical gifts of all or part of the person's body [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40; see § 106.11[4]].

[2] Hospital Protocols

Every general acute care hospital in California is required to develop a protocol for identifying potential organ and tissue donors [Health & Safety Code § 7184(a)]. The protocol must establish a procedure under which questions are asked of the potential donor's next of kin or other individuals, and the next of kin or other individuals are advised of the option to donate organs and tissues pursuant to the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7184(a), (c)].

The protocol may require the hospital itself to ask the necessary questions and provide the requisite information [Health & Safety Code § 7184(a)], or may delegate that responsibility to an organ or tissue procurement organization [Health & Safety Code § 7184(c)]. If the hospital asks the questions and provides the information, the protocol must require that any deceased individual's next of kin or other individual [see Health & Safety Code § 7151.40] be asked at or near the time of notification of death if the deceased was an organ donor, or if the family is a donor family. If not, the family must be informed of the option to donate organs and tissues under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. With the approval of the designated next of kin or other individual, the hospital then must notify an organ and tissue procurement organization and cooperate in the procurement of the anatomical gift or gifts [Health & Safety Code § 7184(a)]. If the hospital's protocol delegates the responsibility for asking the necessary questions and providing the necessary information to an organ and tissue procurement organization, the protocol must require the hospital to contact the organization at the time a potential organ and tissue donor is identified and provide for the trained personnel of the organization to ask the required questions of the deceased individual's next of kin or other individual [Health & Safety Code § 7184(c)].

The protocol must encourage reasonable discretion and sensitivity to the family circumstances in all discussions regarding donations of organs and tissues. The protocol may take the deceased individual's religious beliefs or obvious nonsuitability for organ and tissue donation into account. If there is no organ and tissue procurement organization in a region, the hospital must contact an organ or a tissue procurement organization, as appropriate. Laws pertaining to notification of the coroner must be complied with in all cases of reportable deaths [Health & Safety Code § 7184(a)].

A hospital may not participate in the Medi-Cal program unless it complies with the protocol requirements of the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7184(b)].

[3] Criminal Offenses

The sale or transfer of body parts or human organs for purposes of transplantation is a felony under both the Health and Safety Code and the Penal Code [Health & Safety Code § 7150; Penal Code § 367f]. The Health and Safety Code prohibits the knowing purchase or sale, for valuable consideration, of a body part for transplantation, therapy, or reconditioning, if removal of the part is intended to occur after death [Health & Safety Code § 7150.75(a)]. The Penal Code prohibits any person from knowingly acquiring, receiving, selling, transferring, or promoting the transfer of any human organ for valuable consideration and for purposes of transplantation [Penal Code § 367f(a)].

The Penal Code defines "valuable consideration" to mean financial gain or advantage [Penal Code § 367f(c)(2)]. Both the Penal Code and the Health and Safety Code exclude from "valuable consideration" reasonable costs or payments associated with the removal, transplantation, or disposal of the body part or human organ [Health & Safety Code § 7150.75(b); Penal Code § 367f(c)(2)].

The Penal Code provision does not apply to the person from whom the organ is removed [Penal Code § 367f(e)], nor does it apply to the person who receives the transplant, or the next of kin of either the donor or the donee if they assist in obtaining the organ for purposes of transplantation [Penal Code § 367f(e)]. The Penal Code provides that a physician who transplants a human organ that has been sold or transferred for valuable consideration is not criminally liable if the transplant is performed under emergency and life-threatening conditions [Penal Code § 367f(f)]. Finally, the Penal Code provision has no application to the nonsale donation of organs or other nonsale conduct pursuant to or in furtherance of the purposes of the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Penal Code § 367f(d); see Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40 (Uniform Anatomical Gift Act)].

[4] Determination of Death

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40] requires that the time of the donor's death be determined by a physician or surgeon [Health & Safety Code § 7151.40]. The Uniform Determination of Death Act [Health & Safety Code § 7180] sets forth standards for determining when a death has occurred and requires that the determination be made in accordance with accepted medical standards [Health & Safety Code § 7180]. When a part of the donor is used for direct transplantation pursuant to the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act and the death of the donor is determined under standards set forth in the Uniform Determination of Death Act, there must be an independent confirmation of the death by another physician [Health & Safety Code § 7182]. For discussion of the rights and duties of physicians attending the donor at the time of death or certifying (or confirming) the fact of the donor's death, see § 106.11[12].

[5] Cremation of Remains After Use

[a] In General

Except with the express written permission of the person entitled to control the disposition of the remains, it is unlawful to cremate the remains of more than one person at the same time in the same cremation chamber, or to introduce the remains of a second person into a cremation chamber until incineration of any preceding remains has been terminated and reasonable efforts have been employed to remove all fragments of the preceding remains. However, the fact that there is residue in the cremation chamber or other equipment or any container used in a prior cremation is not a violation [Health & Safety Code § 7054.7(a)(1)].

There is an additional exception, to allow the cremation of commingled parts of several donated bodies after scientific study, which is discussed in [b], below. That exemption from the statutory requirement for individual cremation does not apply to private cremations, where the decedent's remains have not been subject to study, and where the decedent's family may reasonably expect that the remains they receive will be those of their relative and not those of a stranger. Outside of a willed-body program or similar scientific use, the statute requiring individual cremations must be enforced [Bennett v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 347, 357, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 579] .

[b] After Scientific Study

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, following the conclusion of scientific use, recognizable anatomical parts, human tissues, anatomical human remains, or any material or article that has been, or may have been, exposed to contagious or infectious disease (infectious waste), must be disposed of by interment, incineration, or any other method determined by the Department of Health Services to protect the public health and safety [Health & Safety Code § 7054.4].

That statute is a legislative acknowledgment of the practical impossibility of providing individual cremation for a human body that has been subjected to scientific study. The statute permits a practice common at medical schools: remains of various dissected bodies will be gathered in bundles, which will be wrapped in shrouds and cremated several at a time. "It would be unduly burdensome to require a medical school to label and account for a willed-body donor's dissected tissue, organs, sinew and bones, and to ensure that all of the components are retrieved and cremated together, assuming that it is even possible to do so" [Bennett v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 347, 356, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 579] .

In addition, the Medical Waste Management Act [Health & Safety Code § 117600 et seq.] authorizes educational and research facilities to dispose of their "medical waste"--including recognizable human anatomical parts--by incineration [Health & Safety Code §§ 118215(a), 118220], and there is no requirement that separate waste containers be maintained for each individual's tissue or body parts. On the contrary, human remains may even be consolidated into a common container with nonorganic material such as needles prior to incineration [Health & Safety Code § 118275(h)]. As a cadaver is gradually reduced for study over the course of weeks or months, the Medical Waste Management Act sensibly allows tissue and other no-longer-needed remains to be disposed of periodically, and exempts scientific facilities from any requirement that dissected tissue and recognizable human anatomical parts be kept together in separate containers. If the law allows remains to be commingled during study, then by logical extension, the law also allows commingling to sterilize the remains [Bennett v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2005) 133 Cal. App. 4th 347, 356, 357, 34 Cal. Rptr. 3d 579] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.11

§ 106.11 Uniform Anatomical Gift Act

[1] In General

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act ("the Act") [see Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40] has been adopted in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

[2] Gift by Donor or Donor's Agent

An anatomical gift is a donation of all or part of a human body to take effect after the donor's death for the purpose of transplantation, therapy, research, or education [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(3)]. A person, who is at least 18 years of age, or an emancipated minor, may make an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a)]. A person who is between 15 and 18 years of age may also make an anatomical gift with the express written consent of a parent or guardian [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a)]. An agent of the donor can also make an anatomical gift of a donor's body or part during the donor's lifetime provided that a power of attorney for health care, or other record appointing the agent, expressly permits the agent to make an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(b)].

A person who wishes to make an anatomical gift can do so by any of the following [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(a)]:

- 1) By authorizing a statement or symbol indicating that the donor has made an anatomical gift to be imprinted on the donor's driver's license or identification card and included on a donor's database registry;
- 2) Directly through the Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry Internet Web site at www.donatelifecalifornia.org ;
- 3) In a will;
- 4) During a terminal illness or injury of the donor, by any form of communication that clearly expresses the donor's wish, address to at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, where the witnesses memorialize the donor's communication in a signed and dated writing.

Additionally, a donor or donor's agent (as authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(b)), can make an anatomical gift by a donor card or other record signed by the donor or donor's agent or by authorizing a statement or symbol, indicating that the donor has made an anatomical gift and to be included on a donor registry [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b), see also § 7150.10(a)(6) ("Document of gift" defined as a donor card or other record used to make an anatomical gift, including a statement recorded on the Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry or other donor registry)]. A "record" means information that is inscribed on a tangible medium or that is stored in an electronic or other medium and is retrievable in perceivable form [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(25)]. If the donor or donor's agent is physically unable to sign a record, the record may be signed by another individual at the direction of the donor or donor's agent provided the record is witnessed by at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, who have signed at the request of the donor or donor's agent, and the record states that it has been signed in compliance with these requirements [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b)].

[3] Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry

The Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry ("Donate Life California") contains information regarding persons who have identified themselves as organ and tissue donors [Health & Safety Code § 7150.90(a)]. The registry is made available to the federally designated organ procurement organizations in California and the state licensed tissue and eye banks [Health & Safety Code § 7150.90(b)]. A person can make an anatomical gift directly through the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry website at www.donatelifecalifornia.org or www.doneVIDAcalifornia.org. A donor is able to limit an anatomical gift to specific organs and tissues by either updating their profile on the registry website or contacting Donate Life California. Registration with Donate Life California serves as a "document of gift" under the Act [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(6)]. Upon online registration, a donor will receive confirmation of registration along with a donor identification number, which should be kept in a secure location.

The DMV's driver's license and ID card application and renewal process also provides an applicant the option to make an anatomical gift by registering with Donate Life California [Veh. Code §§ 12811(b), 13005(b)]. The DMV application forms ask the applicant if they wish to be an organ and tissue donor, and if they consent, they will be directed to read a statement on the back of the application that provides:

If you marked on the front of the application that you want to be an organ and tissue donor upon death, your consent shall serve as a legally binding document as outlined under the California Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. Except in the case where the donor is under the age of 18, the donation does not require the consent of any other person. For donors under the age of 18, the legal guardian of the donor shall make the final decision regarding the donation. If you want to change your decision to consent in the future, or if you want to limit the donation to specific organs, tissues, or research, you must contact Donate Life California by mail at 1760 Creekside Oaks Drive, #220, Sacramento, CA 95833, or online at www.donateLIFecalifornia.org, or www.doneVIDAcalifornia.org. [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(1)].

By providing consent, the DMV is authorized to collect information on the donor and will print the word "DONOR" or other appropriate designation on the face of the driver's license or identification card [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(3)-(b)(4)]. The DMV will transmit, on a weekly basis, relevant information on every applicant who has indicated his or her willingness to participate in the organ donation program to Donate Life California [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(5)]. Enrollment in the registry is a legal document and is binding after the donor's death despite any express desires of next of kin opposed to the donation [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(8)]. In addition to registering directly with Donate Life California, the DMV will make available to all applicants of a new or renewed identification card, a standardized form to be filled out by any person who desires to enroll in the Donate Life California with instructions for mailing the completed form [Veh. Code § 13005(b)(1)].

If a donor signed up with Donate Life California at the DMV, and wishes to revoke his or her gift, the donor will need to remove themselves from the registry and have the pink dot removed from their driver's license or identification card. By visiting Donate Life California's website, a donor can update their profile, and remove their name from the list of donors. A pink donor dot will remain on the driver's license or identification card until a new one is issued, but the dot is never used to identify someone as a legal organ or tissue donor, and verification of donor designation is only done through the Donate Life California Registry database. If desired, an individual can have the pink donor dot removed prior to renewal a driver's license or identification card by contacting the DMV.

The DMV donor cards and other donor cards will continue to grant authorization for organ and/or tissue recovery, but due to the suddenness surrounding the circumstances, a donor card is rarely available at the time a family is approached regarding donation. It is advisable for an individual wishing to make an anatomical gift, to register with Donate Life California either through the DMV or the registry's website. Every donor's desire to make an anatomical gift is stored in a secure, confidential database which is readily available to authorized organ and tissue recovery personnel.

Additional information on Donate Life California can be obtained at www.dmv.ca.gov , or www.donatelife.org

[4] Anatomical Gift by Third Party

The Act also authorizes an anatomical gift, of a decedent's body or part, to be made by a third person from the following classes of persons in the below order of priority [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a)]:

- (1) An agent of the decedent at the time of death who could have made an anatomical gift under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(b) immediately before the decedent's death [see § 106.11[2]];
- (2) The spouse or domestic partner of the decedent;
- (3) Adult children of the decedent;
- (4) Parents of the decedent;
- (5) Adult siblings of the decedent;
- (6) Adult grandchildren of the decedent;
- (7) Grandparents of the decedent;
- (8) An adult who exhibited special care and concern for the decedent during the decedent's lifetime;
- (9) The persons who were acting as the guardians or conservators of the person of the decedent at the time of death;
- (10) Any other person having the authority to dispose of the decedent's body, including, but not limited to, a coroner, medical examiner, or hospital administrator, provided that reasonable effort has been made to locate and inform persons listed in (1) to (9), above, of their option to make, or object to making, an anatomical gift.

For purposes of paragraph 10 above, a reasonable effort is deemed to have been made when a search for the persons has been underway for at least 12 hours and includes a check of local police missing persons records, examination of personal effects, and the questioning of any persons visiting the decedent before his or her death or in the hospital, accompanying the decedent's body, or reporting the death, in order to obtain information that might lead to the location of any persons listed [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a)(10)(B)].

Should there be more than one member of a class listed in (1), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), or (9) above, entitled to make an anatomical gift, an anatomical gift may be made by a member of that class unless that member or a donee to which the gift may pass under Health & Safety Code § 7150.50 knows of an objection by another member of the class [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(b)]. If an objection is known, the gift may be made only by a majority of the members of the class who are reasonably available [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(b)]. A person shall not make an anatomical gift if, at the time of the decedent's death, a person in a prior class under subdivision (a) is reasonably available to make, or to object to the making of, an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(c)].

A third person authorized to make an anatomical gift may do so by document of gift signed by the third person making the gift or by that person's oral communication that is electronically recorded or is contemporaneously reduced to a record and signed by the individual receiving the oral communication. [Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(a)].

An anatomical gift by a third person may be amended or revoked orally or in a record by any member of a prior class who is reasonably available [Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(b)]. If more than one member of the prior class is reasonably available, the gift made by a person authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.40 may be amended only if a majority of the reasonably available members agree to the amending of the gift or revoked only if a majority of the reasonably available members agree to the revoking of the gift or if they are equally divided as to whether to revoke the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(b)]. A revocation under Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(b) is effective only if the procurement organization, transplant hospital or physician or technician knows of the revocation prior to an incision being made to remove a part from the donor's body or before invasive procedures have begun to prepare the recipient [Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(c)].

[5] Validity of Document of Gift

A document of gift need not be delivered during the donor's lifetime to be effective [Health & Safety Code § 7150.60(a)]. Upon or after an individual's death, a person in possession of a document of gift or a refusal to make an anatomical gift with respect to the individual shall allow examination and copying of the document of gift or refusal by a person authorized to make or object to the making of an anatomical gift with respect to the individual or by a person to which the gift could pass under Section 7150.50 [Health & Safety Code § 7150.60(b)].

A document of gift is valid if executed in accordance with any of the UAGA, the laws of the state or country where executed, or the laws of the state or country where the person making the anatomical gift was domiciled, has a place of residence, or was a national at the time the document of gift was executed [Health & Safety Code § 7150.85(a)]. If a document of gift is valid, the law of California governs the interpretation of the document of gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.80(b)]. A person may presume that a document of gift or amendment of an anatomical gift is valid unless that person knows that it was not validly executed, or that it was revoked [Health & Safety Code § 7150.80(c)].

[6] When Gift is Effective

An anatomical gift takes effect after the donor's death [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(3)]. An anatomical gift made by will takes effect upon the donor's death, regardless of whether the will is probated [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(d)] and invalidation of a donor's will after the donor's death does not invalidate the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(d)].

[7] When There Are Indications of Religious Objections

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Act, only an individual can make an anatomical gift of all or part of that individual's body or pacemaker, if it is known that the individual at the time of death, was a member of a religion, church, sect, or denomination that relies solely upon prayer for healing of disease or that has religious tenants that would be violated by the disposition of the human body or parts or pacemakers for the purposes of transplantation, therapy, research, or education [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(e)].

[8] Amendment or Revocation of Anatomical Gift by Donor or Donor's Agent

A donor or donor's agent, as authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15, may amend or revoke an anatomical gift by a record signed by the donor, donor's agent, or individual acting at the direction of donor or donor's agent, recorded in a donor registry database, or a later executed document of gift that amends or revokes the previous anatomical gift or portion of an anatomical gift, express expressly or by inconsistency [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(a)]. A record signed by an individual acting at the direction of donor or donor's agent must be witness by at least two witnesses, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, who have signed at the request of the donor or donor's agent, and reduced to a signed and dated writing [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(b)]. A donor who makes an anatomical gift in a will may also amend or revoke the gift in the manner provided for amendment or revocation of wills [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(e)].

Subject to exceptions provided in Health & Safety Code § 7150.35 (discussed below), a donor or donor's agent, authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15, may revoke an anatomical gift by the destruction of the document of gift or cancellation of the document of gift on a donor database registry, or the portion of the document of gift used to make the gift, with the intent to revoke the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(c)]. Additionally, a donor may amend or revoke an anatomical gift that was not made in a will by any form of communication during a terminal illness or injury addressed to at least two adult, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, which is then memorialized in a signed and dated writing [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(d)].

In the absence of an express, contrary indication by the donor, a person other than the donor is barred from making, amending, or revoking an anatomical gift of a donor's body or part if the donor made an anatomical gift of the donor's body or part or an amendment to an anatomical gift of the donor's body or part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(a)]. However, a donor's revocation of an anatomical gift of the donor's body or part is not a refusal and does not bar another authorized person from making an anatomical gift of the donor's body or part under Health & Safety Code §§ 7150.20, 7150.45 [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(b)]. If a person other than the donor makes an unrevoked anatomical gift of the donor's body or part or an amendment to an anatomical gift of the donor's body or part, another person may not make, amend, or revoke the gift of the donor's body or part under Health & Safety Code § 7150.45 [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(c)]. A revocation of an anatomical gift of a donor's body or part by a person other than the donor does not bar another person from making an anatomical gift of the body or part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(d)]. In the absence of an express contrary indication by the donor or donor's authorized agent, an anatomical gift of a part is neither a refusal to give another part nor a limitation on the making of an anatomical gift of another part at a later time by the donor or another person [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(e)]. In the absence of an express, contrary indication by the donor or donor's authorized agent, an anatomical gift of a part for one or more of the purposes specified in Health & Safety Code § 7150.15 is not a limitation on the making of an anatomical gift of the part for any of the other purposes by the donor or any other authorized person [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(f)]. An individual who is between 15 and 18 years of age may make an anatomical gift for any authorized purpose, may limit an anatomical gift to one or more of those purposes, may refuse to make an anatomical gift, or may amend or revoke an anatomical gift, only upon the written consent of the parent or guardian [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(g)]. If a donor who is an unemancipated minor dies, a parent of the donor who is reasonably available may revoke or amend an anatomical gift of the donor's body or part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.35(g)].

On the death of a donor who executed and did not revoke an enforceable document of gift to donate his or her body [see § 106.200], the right to dispose of the donor's body passes to the beneficiary of that gift, exclusive of all other persons who could otherwise claim that right; and the beneficiary may dispose of the body in any lawful manner, subject only to any limitation in the donation document [Conroy v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1244, 1255, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 532, 203 P.3d 1127 (at issue was effect of unrevoked agreement to donate body to Willed Body Program at University of California at Irvine; agreement was governed by former Health & Safety Code § 7150.5(h), which provided that "an anatomical gift that is not revoked by the donor before death is irrevocable and does not require the consent or concurrence of any person after the donor's death"); see Revised Uniform Anatomical Gift Act (2006), § 8, Comment ("Section 8 [enacted as Health & Safety Code § 7150.35] is designed to state firmly the rule that a donor's autonomous decision regarding the making of an anatomical gift is to be honored and implemented and is not subject to change by others. Section 8 not only continues the policy of making lifetime donations irrevocable but also is restated to take away from families the power, right, or authority to consent to, amend, or revoke donations made by donors during their lifetimes.")].

[9] Refusal to Make Anatomical Gift

An individual can refuse to make an anatomical gift by: 1) a record signed by the individual, or another individual acting at the direction of the individual if the individual is physically unable to sign; 2) the individual's will; or 3) any form of communication made by the individual during the individual's terminal illness or injury addressed to at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, which is memorialized in a signed and dated writing by the witnesses [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(a)]. If a record of refusal is signed by an individual acting at the direction of the individual making the refusal, the record must be witnessed by at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, who have signed at the direction of the individual, and reduced to a signed writing stating as such [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(b)].

An individual who has made a refusal may amend or revoke the refusal: 1) in the same manner for making a refusal [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(a), see discussion above]; 2) by subsequently making an anatomical gift under Health & Safety Code § 7150.20 [see § 106.11[2]] that is inconsistent with the refusal; or 3) by destroying or cancelling the record evidencing the refusal, or the portion of the record used to make the refusal, with the intent to revoke the refusal [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(c)].

In the absence of an express, contrary indication by the individual set forth in the refusal, an individual's unrevoked refusal to make an anatomical gift of the individual's body or part bars all other persons from making an anatomical gift of the individual's body or part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(d)].

[10] Permissible Donees and Purposes

An anatomical gift may be made to: 1) a hospital, accredited medical school, dental school, college, university, or organ procurement organization for research or education; 2) an individual designated by the person making the anatomical gift if the individual is the recipient of the part; or 3) an eye bank, or tissue bank [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(a)].

If an anatomical gift is made in a document of gift that does not specify an individual designated as the recipient, but identifies the purpose for which an anatomical gift may be used, the following rules shall apply [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(c)]:

- If the part is an eye and the gift is for the purpose of transplantation or therapy, the gift passes to the appropriate eye bank.
- If the part is tissue and the gift is for the purpose of transplantation or therapy, the gift passes to the appropriate tissue bank.
- If the part is an organ and the gift is for the purpose of transplantation or therapy, the gift passes to the appropriate organ procurement organization as custodian of the organ.

- If the part is an organ, an eye, or tissue and the gift is for the purpose of research or education, the gift passes to the appropriate procurement organization.

If a document of gift provides for more than one purpose but the purposes are not set forth in any priority, the gift shall be used for transplantation or therapy [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(d)] and if the gift cannot be used for transplantation or therapy, the gift may be used for research or education [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(d)].

If an anatomical gift to an individual is unable to be transplanted into the individual, or if a document of gift does not specify an individual designated as a recipient and does not identify a purpose for the gift, or if document of gift specifies only a general intent to make an anatomical gift by words such as "donor," "organ donor," or "body donor," or by a symbol or statement of similar import the following rules apply [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(b)(e)(f)(g)]:

- If the part is an eye, the gift passes to the appropriate eye bank.
- If the part is tissue, the gift passes to the appropriate tissue bank.
- If the part is an organ, the gift passes to the appropriate organ procurement organization as custodian of the organ.

An anatomical gift of an organ for transplantation or therapy passes to the organ procurement organization as custodian of the organ [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(h)]. If an anatomical gift is not used for transplantation, therapy, research, or education, custody of the body or part passes to the person under obligation to dispose of the body or part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(i)]. An anatomical gift cannot be accepted by a person if the person knows that the gift was not effectively made, or if the person knows that the decedent made a refusal that was not revoked [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50(j)].

[11] Reasonable Search

A reasonable search for a document of gift or other information identifying an individual as a donor must be made by a law enforcement officer, firefighter, paramedic, or other emergency rescuer finding the individual, or if no other source of the information is immediately available, a hospital, as soon as practical after the individual's arrival at the hospital [Health & Safety Code § 7150.55(a)]. Should a document of gift or a refusal to make an anatomical gift be located in the search and the individual or deceased individual is taken to a hospital, the person responsible for conducting the search must send the document of gift or refusal to the hospital [Health & Safety Code § 7150.55(b)]. A person is not subject to criminal or civil liability for failing to discharge the duties imposed by this section, but may be subject to administrative sanctions [Health & Safety Code § 7150.55(c)].

[12] Duties and Responsibilities of Hospitals, Physicians, and Procurement Organizations

Each hospital must enter into agreements or affiliations with procurement organizations for coordination of procurement and use of anatomical gifts [Health & Safety Code § 7150.70]. When a procurement organization gets a referral from a hospital that an individual is at or near death, the organization must make a reasonable search of the records of the Donate Life California and any donor registry that it knows exists for the geographical area in which the individual resides to determine whether the individual made an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(a)]. Upon such referral, the procurement organization must make a reasonable search for any person listed provided in Health & Safety Code § 7150.40 [see § 106.11[4]] having priority to make an anatomical gift on behalf of a prospective donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(g)]. If a procurement organization receives information that an anatomical gift to any other person was made, amended, or revoked, it shall promptly advise the other person of all relevant information [Health &

Safety Code § 7150.65(g)]. If the donor was a minor, the procurement organization must, unless the procurement organization knows the minor is emancipated, conduct a reasonable search for the parents of the minor and provide the parents an opportunity to revoke or amend an anatomical gift, or revoke a refusal of gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(f)].

The procurement organization shall be allowed reasonable access to information in the records of Donate Life California to ascertain whether an individual who is at or near death is a donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(b)]. Personally identifiable information on a donor registry about a donor shall not be used or disclosed without the express consent of the donor or the person that made the anatomical gift for any purpose other than to determine, at or near death of the donor or a prospective donor, whether the donor or prospective donor has made, amended, or revoked an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(b)]. A procurement organization shall not sell the information obtained from the donor registry [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(b)]. A procurement organization shall also comply with all state and federal laws with respect to the protection of a donor's or prospective donor's personally identifiable information [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(b)].

The procurement organization may conduct any reasonable examination necessary to ensure the medical suitability of a part that is or could be the subject of an anatomical gift for transplantation, therapy, research, or education from a donor or a prospective donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(c)]. During the examination period, measures necessary to ensure the medical suitability of the part may not be withdrawn unless the hospital or procurement organization knows that the individual expressed a contrary intent [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(c)]. Unless prohibited by law, at any time after a donor's death, the person to whom a part passes may conduct any reasonable examination necessary to ensure the medical suitability of the body or part for its intended purpose [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(d)]. Such examination may include an examination of all medical and dental records of the donor or prospective donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(e)].

A document of gift may designate a particular physician to carry out the recovery procedures [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(e)]. In the absence of such a designation, or if the designee is not available or is deemed by the organ procurement organization not to be qualified to perform the required procedure, the organ procurement organization will authorize another physician or technician to carry out the recovery [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(e)]. A physician or technician may remove a donated part from the body of a donor that the physician or technician is qualified to remove [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(e)]. With the exception of Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(e), neither the physician who attends the decedent at death nor the physician who determines the time of decedent's death may participate in the procedures for removing or transplanting a part from the decedent [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(i)].

The rights of the person to which a part passes are superior to the rights of all others with respect to the part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(h)]. The person may accept or reject an anatomical gift in whole or in part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(i)]. Subject to the terms of the document of gift and the Act, a person that accepts an anatomical gift of an entire body may allow embalming, burial, or cremation, and use of remains in a funeral service [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(i)]. If the gift is of a part, the person to which the part passes, upon the death of the donor and before embalming, burial, or cremation, shall cause the part to be removed without unnecessary mutilation [Health & Safety Code § 7150.65(i)].

[13] Liability Under the Act

A person who, for valuable consideration, knowingly purchases or sells a part for transplantation or therapy, if removal of a part from an individual is intended to occur after the individual's death, is guilty of a felony and is subject to a fine not exceeding $50,000, or imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both [Health & Safety Code § 7150.75(a)]. A person may charge a reasonable amount for the removal, processing, preservation, quality control, storage, transportation, implantation, or disposal of a part [Health & Safety Code § 7150.75(b)].

A person who acts in accordance with the UAGA or with the applicable anatomical gift law of another state, or attempts in good faith to do so, is not liable for the act in a civil action or criminal prosecution [Health & Safety Code § 7150.80(a)]. Neither the person making an anatomical gift nor the donor's estate is liable for any injury or damage that results from the making or use of the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.80(a)]. In determining whether an anatomical gift has been made, amended, or revoked under this chapter, a person may rely upon representations of an individual specified in Health & Safety Code § 7140(a)(2)-(8) relating to the individual's relationship to the donor or prospective donor, unless the person knows that the representation is untrue [Health & Safety Code § 7150.80(c)].

[14] No Determination of Ultimate Recipient

No hospital, physician and surgeon, procurement organization, or other person shall determine the ultimate recipient of an anatomical gift based upon a potential recipient's physical or mental disability, except to the extent that the physical or mental disability has been found by a physician and surgeon, following a case-by-case evaluation of the potential recipient, to be medically significant to the provision of the anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7151.35(a)].

[15] Removal of Part or Body

After a determination of death by a physician and surgeon, if there has been an anatomical gift, a technician may remove any donated parts and an enucleator may remove any donated eyes or parts of eyes [Health & Safety Code § 7151.40(a)]. Following the final disposition of the remains of the donor and upon request of a person specified in Health & Safety Code § 7100, the donee shall return the cremated remains of the donor at no cost, unless the donor has previously designated otherwise in the document of gift [Health & Safety Code § 7151.40(b)]. Any person who knowingly returns the cremated remains of a person other than the donor to the specified person will be punished by imprisonment for up to one year [Health & Safety Code § 7151.40(b)].

Any residual anatomical materials and human remains donated to hospitals, organ procurement organizations, accredited medical schools, dental schools, colleges, or universities for educational, research, transplantation, or therapeutic use that are no longer useful or needed for those purposes, may be disposed of by those entities through cremation, in the same manner as medical waste, and without additional burial permit requirements only if the donor has specifically waived a return of remains under Health & Safety Code § 7151.40(b) [Health & Safety Code § 7151.40(c)].

[16] Duties of Coroner

A county coroner shall cooperate with procurement organizations to maximize the opportunity to recover anatomical gifts for the purpose of transplantation, therapy, research, or education [Health & Safety Code § 7151.15(a)]. If a county coroner receives notice from a procurement organization that an anatomical gift might be available or was made with respect to a decedent whose body is under the jurisdiction of the coroner and a post mortem examination is going to be performed, the coroner or designee shall conduct a post mortem examination of the body or the part in a manner and within a period compatible with its preservation for the purposes of the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7151.15(b)]. A part shall not be removed from the body of a decedent under the jurisdiction of a coroner for transplantation, therapy, research, or education unless the part is the subject of an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7151.15(c)]. The body of a decedent under the jurisdiction of the coroner shall not be delivered to a person for research or education unless the body is the subject of an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7151.15(c)].

[17] Inquest

On request from a qualified procurement organization, the county coroner may permit the removal of organs that constitute an anatomical gift from a decedent who died under circumstances requiring an inquest by the coroner [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(a)]. If no autopsy is required, the organs to be removed may be released to the qualified procurement organization [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(b)]. If an autopsy is required and the county coroner determines that the removal of the organs will not interfere with the subsequent course of an investigation or autopsy, the organs may be released for removal and the autopsy shall be performed following the removal of the organs [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(c)]. If a county coroner is considering withholding one or more organs of a potential donor for any reason, the county coroner, or his or her designee, upon request from a qualified organ procurement organization, shall be present during the procedure to remove the organs [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(d)]. The county coroner, or his or her designee, may request a biopsy of those organs or deny removal of the organs if necessary [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(d)]. If the county coroner, or his or her designee, denies removal of the organs, the county coroner may do any of the following [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(d)]:

- 1) In the investigative report, explain in writing the reasons for the denial;
- 2) Provide the explanation to the qualified organ procurement organization;

If the county coroner, or his or her designee, is present during the removal of the organs, the qualified procurement organization requesting the removal of the organ shall reimburse the county of the coroner, or his or her designee, for the actual costs incurred if reimbursement is requested by the county coroner [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(e)]. The payment shall be applied to the additional costs incurred by the county coroner's office in performing the services [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(e)]. The health care professional removing organs from a decedent who died under circumstances requiring an inquest shall file with the county coroner a report detailing the condition of the organs removed and their relationship, if any, to the cause of death [Health & Safety Code § 7151.20(f)].

[18] Conflict with Health Care Directive

If a prospective donor has a declaration (record signed by a prospective donor specifying the circumstances under which a life-support system may be withheld or withdrawn from the prospective donor [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(a)(2)]) or advance health care directive (a power of attorney for health care or a record signed by a prospective donor containing the prospective donor's direction concerning a health care decision for the prospective donor [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(a)(1)]) and the terms of the declaration or directive and the express or implied terms of a potential anatomical gift are in conflict with regard to the administration of measures necessary to ensure the medical suitability of a part for transplantation or therapy, the prospective donor's attending physician and prospective donor shall confer to resolve the conflict [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(b)]. If the prospective donor is incapable of resolving the conflict, an agent acting under the prospective donor's declaration or directive, or, if none, or the agent is not reasonably available, another person authorized by law other than this chapter to make health care decisions on behalf of the prospective donor, shall act for the donor to resolve the conflict [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(b)]. The conflict shall be resolved as expeditiously as possible [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(b)]. Information relevant to the resolution of the conflict may be obtained from the appropriate procurement organization and any other person authorized to make an anatomical gift for the prospective donor Health & Safety Code § 7150.40 [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(b)]. Before resolution of the conflict, measures necessary to ensure the medical suitability of the part shall not be withheld or withdrawn from the prospective donor if withholding or withdrawing the measures is not contraindicated by appropriate end-of-life care [Health & Safety Code § 7151.10(b)].

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

A. Client Interview--Facts and Documents

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.100

§ 106.100 Facts

1. Name and address of donor.

NOTE:

As used in the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40] and this chapter, the word "donor" means any individual whose body or part is the subject of an anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(7)].

2. Date of donor's birth.

NOTE:

Anatomical gifts may be made by persons at least 18 years of age, or by persons between 15 and 18 years of age with the written consent of a parent or guardian. [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a), (m); see § 106.11[2]].

3. Identity of person who will make gift, either:

- a. Donor personally; or
- b. Donor's Agent as authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(b)
- c. Other person legally qualified to make gift in behalf of donor.

NOTE:

Certain classes of persons are authorized by statute to make or object to anatomical gifts of all or part of a decedent's body [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a)]. Members of these classes may make or object to such gifts in the order of priority set forth in the statute [

Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a); for discussion, see § 106.11[4]].

- (1) Name, address, and age of other person.
- (2) Relationship of other person to donor.
- (3) Present condition of donor's health (e.g., deceased or near death).

4. Names, addresses, and other data relating to actual or potential survivors of donor, including [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a)] (classes of persons who may make anatomical gift of all or part of decedent's body):

a. Agent under power of attorney for health care;

NOTE:

An agent under a power of attorney for health care or other record that expressly permits the agent to make an anatomical gift can make an anatomical gift during the donor's lifetime [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.15; see also § 106.11[2]]. An agent who has authority under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15 also has priority over other persons in making or refusing to make an anatomical gift of all or part of a decedent's body [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.40; see also § 106.11[4]].

- b. Spouse or domestic partner.
- c. Adult children.
- d. Parents.
- e. Adult brothers and sisters.
- f. Adult grandchildren.
- g. Grandparents.
- h. An adult who exhibited special care and concern for the decedent during the decedent's lifetime.
- i. Guardian or conservator of donor's person.
- j. Person or persons authorized or obligated to dispose of donor's remains after death.

NOTE:

After removal of a part of the body, custody of the remainder of the donor's body vests in the persons named in Health & Safety Code § 7100 [Health & Safety Code § 7151.40(a)]. For discussion, see § 106.11[15].

5. Subject matter of anatomical gift; either [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(3)]:

- a. Donor's entire body.
- b. Specific parts or organs from donor's body.

6. Name, address, and telephone number, if a specific donee has been determined.

NOTE:

An anatomical gift may be made to a designated donee, or without designating a donee [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. If a donee is not designated, is unavailable, or rejects the gift, the gift may be accepted by the appropriate organization [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. For discussion, see § 106.11[10].

7. Name and address of physician or surgeon, if any, who will be authorized to perform removal or transplantation procedures.

NOTE:

A document of gift may designate a particular physician or surgeon to carry out the appropriate procedures [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(e)]. A physician or surgeon who attends the donor at death or who determines the time of death, however, may be barred from participating in the procedures for removing or transplanting a part [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150.65(1), 7182; see also §§ 106.10[4], 106.11[12]].

Except when the gift is made in contemplation of a specific procedure (e.g., transplantation of an organ to a specific donee), it is usually inadvisable to specify a particular physician or surgeon, since the designated physician or surgeon, for reasons unanticipated at the time the document of gift is executed, may be unable or unwilling to carry out the procedures at the time the removal or transplantation is made. In the absence of a designation, or if the designee is not available, the donee or other person authorized to accept the anatomical gift may employ or authorize any physician, surgeon, or technician, to carry out the procedures [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20].

8. Purpose or purposes for which gift is to be made [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.50; see also § 106.11[10]].

9. If gift is of less than donor's entire body, how remains are to be disposed of.

PART III. TRANSACTION GUIDE

B. Preliminary Determinations

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.110

§ 106.110 Preliminary Determinations for Donor

1. If gift is to be made by donor personally, verify that either:

NOTE:

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40] requires only that the donor be at least 18 years of age or, if the donor is between the ages of 15 and 18, that the donor has the written consent of the donor's parent or guardian [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a); see § 106.11[2]].

a. Donor is at least 18 years old; or

b. Donor is between ages of 15 and 18 and donor's parent or guardian will consent to gift.

2. If gift is to be made by donor's agent, verify that agent has express power to make anatomical gift under durable power of attorney for health care or other record [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(b); see also § 106.11[2]].

3. If gift is to be made by third party, determine whether:

a. Third party is member of class of persons authorized by statute to make anatomical gift of all or part of body of decedent [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a); see also § 106.11[4]] according to following order of priorities [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a)]:

(1) Agent under power of attorney for health care or other record.

NOTE:

An agent under a power of attorney for health care or other record that expressly permits the agent to make an anatomical gift can make an anatomical gift during the donor's lifetime [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.15; see also § 106.11[2]]. An agent who has authority under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15 also has priority over other persons in making or refusing to make an anatomical gift of all or part of a decedent's body [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.40; see also § 106.11[4]].

- (2) Donor's spouse or domestic partner.
- (3) Adult son or daughter of donor.
- (4) Either parent of donor.
- (5) Adult brother or sister of donor.
- (6) Adult grandchildren of donor.
- (7) Grandparent of donor.
- (8) An adult who exhibited special care and concern for the decedent during the decedent's lifetime.
- (9) Guardian or conservator of donor at time of death.

(10) Any other person having the authority to dispose of the decedent's body, including but not limited to, a coroner, medical examiner, or hospital administrator, provided that a reasonable effort has been made to locate and inform the persons listed in (1) - (9) above.

b. Third party actually has right to make gift because:

- (1) He or she is member of highest class of persons entitled to make gift according to order of priorities set forth in 3(a), above; and
- (2) All members of classes having higher priority are likely to be unavailable at time of donor's death;

NOTE:

An anatomical gift may not be made by any of the persons listed in 3(a), above, if a person in a higher class is available at the time of death to make the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40].

c. Third party knows of no objections to gift by donor, members of higher classes, or members of third party's own class;

NOTE:

No third party may make an anatomical gift if he or she knows of a refusal or contrary indications by the donor, or an objection by a member of a higher class or a member of the person's own class [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(b), (c)]; for classes in order of priority, see 3(a), above; see also § 106.11[4]].

d. Donor is or was member of religious group that relies solely on faith healing or has tenets that would be violated by anatomical gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(e)].

NOTE:

Only the donor may make an anatomical gift if he or she is a member of such a group at the time of his or her death [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(e); for discussion, see § 106.11[7]].

3. If gift is to be made by donor personally, determine whether gift should be made by:

a. Will [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150.20(a)(3) ("document of gift" includes will), 7150.10(a)(6)];

NOTE:

It is inadvisable to attempt to make an anatomical gift solely by will. This is because the medical and surgical procedures necessary to carry out an anatomical gift must be completed within a very short time--generally no more than an hour or two after the donor's death. Wills are not usually located and consulted so quickly. It is generally preferable for a client to make an anatomical gift in a nontestamentary instrument and then confirm the gift in his or her will. This minimizes the likelihood that the gift will not be discovered until it is too late to carry it out and eliminates the possibility that the gift may be viewed as inconsistent with any funeral, burial, or other interment instructions set forth in the donor's will. For a will provision confirming an anatomical gift made in a nontestamentary instrument, see § 106.211.

b. Card.

NOTE:

An anatomical gift may be made by card [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(6) ("document of gift" defined)]. This will ordinarily be a wallet-sized card carried on the person of the donor. The card must, however, meet all the requirements of more lengthy documents of gift. [see P c, below].

c. Registration with Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry

NOTE:

An anatomical gift can be made directly though the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry's website at www.donatelifecalifornia.org. A person can also register with the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry through the DMV when they apply for or renew their driver's license or identification card [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20, Veh. Code §§ 12811, 13005]. By doing so, the donor is automatically enrolled in the registry and the donor dot is pre-printed onto the person's driver's license or identification card. [see § 106.11[3]; see also § 106.201[1][c]].

d. Advance health care directive (durable power of attorney) under the Uniform Health Care Decisions Act [Prob. Code § 4670 et seq.; see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives].

NOTE:

The statutory form for an advance health care directive contains space for making anatomical gifts [see Prob. Code § 4671 (statutory form)]. If the donor plans to execute an advance health care directive, this may present a convenient opportunity to address anatomical gift issues as well. A donor who executes such a directive still may wish to carry an anatomical gift card on his or her person, since otherwise the advance health care directive may not be discovered in time for the gift to be made. For detailed discussion of advance health care directives, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives].

4. Determine whether document of gift should designate donee.

NOTE:

An anatomical gift may be made to a designated donee or without designating a donee [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. Permissible donees include hospitals, physicians, surgeons, procurement organizations, accredited medical or dental schools, colleges, or universities, designated individuals, [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50].

Anatomical gifts are rarely made to designated individuals. The medical and surgical procedures necessary to carry out the terms of an anatomical gift must be made promptly after the death of the donor, and the delay necessitated by efforts to find a designated individual may defeat the gift entirely.

If a donee is not designated, is unavailable, or rejects the gift, the gift may be accepted by the appropriate organization [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. The names and addresses of organizations that accept anatomical gifts are set forth in §§ 106.201[1], 106.202[1].

5. Determine whether prospective donee, if any, has specific forms that must be used or specific procedures that must be adhered to in making gift.

NOTE:

Some procurement organizations have specific procedures or forms that must be adhered to in making anatomical gifts. The State Curator for Northern California, for example, provides forms for anatomical gifts and prescribes procedures that must be met before it will accept a gift [see § 106.202[1], [2]].

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.120

§ 106.120 Preparation of Documents

1. Draft document of gift or obtain and complete appropriate printed form for gift, as follows:

- a. Draft document of gift [see (2), (3), below]; or
- b. Obtain donor card or form to be carried with driver's license, chauffeur's license, or personal identification card issued by Department of Motor Vehicles;

NOTE:

The Department of Motor Vehicles is required to provide a form by which the licensees or cardholders may indicate their willingness and intent to make anatomical gifts under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Veh. Code §§ 12811(b), 13005(b); see Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(c)]. The DMV forms comply with all of the requirements of the Act and afford the simplest means for making anatomical gifts. If a license expires or is revoked, suspended, or canceled after an anatomical gift form is signed, the gift remains effective [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(c)]. The DMV process and forms include registering with Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry. When a person applies for or renews their driver's license or identification card, the DMV will ask if they wish to register [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.20, Veh. Code §§ 12811, 13005; see also § 106.11[3]]. By doing so, the donor is automatically enrolled in the registry and the pink 'DONOR' dot is pre-printed on the person's driver's license or identification card.

- c. Draft will provision [see § 106.210] or codicil to will.

NOTE:

It is theoretically possible to make an anatomical gift in a will [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(c)]. In practice, however, a will is an unsuitable vehicle for an anatomical gift. This is because the medical and surgical procedures necessary to complete an anatomical gift must be completed within a very short time (usually no more than an hour or two) after the donor's death, and wills are rarely located or consulted within this limited time frame [see discussion in § 106.210[1]].

2. If anatomical gift is to be made by donor, or donor's agent (as authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15) by nontestamentary document of gift, include following in document of gift:

a. Name of donor.

b. Date of donor's birth.

NOTE:

The donor must be at least 18 years of age or between age 15 and 18 with the written consent of the donor's parent or guardian [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a)].

c. Words of gift.

d. Statement that gift is of one or more of following:

(1) Any needed body part(s) or organ(s).

(2) Only specifically identified part(s) or organ(s).

(3) Entire body.

e. Name of donee, if gift is to be to a designated donee [see § 106.100, P 6].

NOTE:

If a donee is specified, the donee should be clearly identified by name and address. Alternate donees may be specified at the option of the donor.

f. Purpose of gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50; see also § 106.11[10]].

g. Any conditions, limitations, or special directions, such as:

(1) Instructions regarding burial, embalming, or cremation of the donor's body.

(2) Name of physician or surgeon authorized to carry out the appropriate procedures.

NOTE:

For discussion of whether a specific physician or surgeon should be named in the document of gift, see § 106.100, P 7.

(3) Instruction that gift be limited to a particular person.

(4) Instructions for disposition of cremated remains if not to be returned to person in whom custody of remains vests [see Health & Safety Code § 7100; see also § 106.11[15]].

h. Date and place of execution.

i. Space for signature(s), as follows:

- (1) Space for signature of donor alone, if donor is able to sign own name.
- (2) Space for signature of donor's agent, if donor's agent is available to sign.
- (3) Space for signature of third party and two witnesses, if donor or donor's agent cannot sign.

j. If donor is between 15 and 18 years of age, include consent of parent or guardian and space for signature of parent or guardian [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a)].

NOTE:

If the donor cannot sign, the document of gift may be signed by another person and by two witnesses, all of whom have signed at the direction and in the presence of the donor and of each other. The document must state that it has been so signed [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b)].

3. If anatomical gift is to be made by third party, include following in document of gift:

- a. Name of donor.
- b. Date and place of donor's death.
- c. Facts showing that third party has right to make gift [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.40; see also § 106.11[4]].
- d. Words of gift.
- e. Statement that gift is of one or more of following:
 - (1) Any needed body parts or organs.
 - (2) Only specifically identified parts or organs.
 - (3) Entire body.
- f. Name of donee, if gift is to designated donee [see § 106.100, P 6].
- g. Purpose of gift.
- h. Any conditions, limitations, or special directions [see P 2g, above].
- i. Date and place of execution.
- j. Space for signature of person making gift.

4. If anatomical gift is to be made by will or codicil, include following in will provision or codicil:

- a. Information specified in PP 2a-2i, above;

NOTE:

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act provides that, if the donor is unable to sign a document of gift, the document may be signed by another person and two witnesses [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20; see P 2i(2), above]. The Probate Code prescribes identical requirements for the execution of a will or codicil when the testator is unable to sign [see Prob. Code § 6110(b)(2), (c); see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.13].

b. If donor's body is to be embalmed and buried after body part has been removed, directions for delivery of body to donee before embalming and burial.

5. If anatomical gift made by nontestamentary document [see P 2, above] is to be confirmed by donor's will [see § 106.121, P 5], draft will provision or codicil confirming gift [see § 106.211].

6. If anatomical gift is made by donor during a terminal illness or injury, any form of communication that clearly expresses the donor's wish addressed to at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness satisfies the Act [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.20; see also § 106.11[2]]. The witness must memorialize the communication in a signed and dated writing.

- c. By another person and two witnesses, if donor or donor's agent is not able to sign own name [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b)]; for execution and attestation requirements, see § 106.120, P (2)(i)(2); see also § 106.11[2]].
- d. By third party, if gift is made by third party for donor [for requirements for anatomical gifts by third parties, see § 106.11[4]].
- e. By donor and two witnesses if gift is made by will or codicil to will [for execution and attestation requirements for wills and codicils, see Prob. Code §§ 6110-6113; see also Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.13].
- f. By two witnesses if gift made by any form of communication by donor to the witnesses during donor's terminal illness or injury [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20, see § 106.11[2]].

2. Advise donor to register anatomical gift direct through Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry at www.donatelifecalifornia.org .

NOTE:

An anatomical gift can be made directly through the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry's website at www.donatelifecalifornia.org. A person can also register with the Donate Life California Organ & Tissue Donor Registry through the DMV when applying for or renewing a driver's license or identification card [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.20, Veh. Code §§ 12811, 13005; see also § 106.11[3]]. By doing so, the donor is automatically enrolled in the registry and the donor dot is pre-printed on the person's driver's license or identification card.

3. Instruct donor to carry donor card on person as evidence of gift.

NOTE:

The surgical and medical procedures necessary to carry out an anatomical gift must be made promptly after the donor's death. If the donor has not registered with Donate Life California or if some evidence of the anatomical gift is not carried on the donor's person, the fact that he or she has made a gift may not be discovered until it is too late to carry out the gift. For this reason, the donor should be advised to register with Donate Life California or carry a card or other form evidencing the gift. If the gift is made by some other document of gift, the donor should carry some other clear indication that he or she has executed the document and is a donor [see, e.g., § 106.201 (third alternative)].

4. Advise donor that necklace or bracelet may be worn.

NOTE:

A necklace or bracelet may be obtained from the Medic Alert Foundation International, Turlock, CA 94381-1009.

5. If gift is made by nontestamentary instrument, consider using will provision or codicil confirming gift.

NOTE:

If the gift is made by a nontestamentary document of gift, a will provision or codicil confirming the gift is recommended. This will make it clear to the executor of the will and other persons interested in the donor's estate that the gift has been made and has not been revoked. For a will provision confirming a nontestamentary anatomical gift, see § 106.211.

6. Advise donor to inform next of kin, executor named in will, guardian, conservator, or attorney-in-fact under durable power of attorney, if any, of following:

- a. Fact that gift has been made;
- b. Location of document of gift and person who will have custody of document; and
- c. Name of donee, if a donee is designated.

7. Review and inform donor as to procedures for completion of gift.

NOTE:

Completion of an anatomical gift following the death of the donor is ordinarily a medical matter that does not require the participation of the attorney. The case may be otherwise, however, if objections to the gift are made by relatives of the donor or if, as in some transplantation cases, there are legal questions regarding the confirmation of death or the rights or duties of physicians, surgeons procurement organization or donees [see § 106.11[12]].

§ 106.130 Amendment or Revocation of Anatomical Gift

NOTE:

An anatomical gift may be amended or revoked by (1) a signed statement, (2) any form of communication during a terminal illness or injury addressed to a physician or surgeon, or (3) delivery of a signed statement to a specified donee to whom a document of gift had been delivered [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(a)]. If the gift was made by will or a codicil to a will, it may also be amended or revoked by revoking the will [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(a)]; for revocation of wills, see Prob. Code §§ 6120-6124. For a general discussion of amendments and revocations of anatomical gifts, see § 106.11[8].

1. Document of gift may be revoked or amended in any of the following methods [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(a), (b)]:

a. A record signed by the donor, donor's agent under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15, or other person acting at the direction of the donor or donor's agent.

NOTE:

A record signed by an individual acting at the direction of donor or donor's agent must be witnessed by at least two witnesses, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, who have signed at the request of the donor or donor's agent, and must memorialize such in a signed and dated writing [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(b); see also § 106.11[8]].

b. A later-executed document of gift that amends or revokes a previous anatomical gift or portion of an anatomical gift, either expressly or by inconsistency.

2. Anatomical gift may be revoked by donor or donor's agent by [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(c)]:

- a. Destruction of the document of gift.
- b. Cancellation of the document of gift on a donor database registry.

3. Anatomical gift, not made in a will, may be amended or revoked by donor by any form of communication during a terminal illness or injury.

NOTE:

Communication must be made to at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, and the witnesses must memorialize the communication in a signed and dated writing [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(d); see also § 106.11[8]].

4. If original gift was made by will or codicil, amend or revoke gift as follows [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(e)]:

- a. Use any means of amendment or revocation specified in (2), above [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(e)]; or
- b. Execute subsequent will or codicil revoking or amending gift [see Prob. Code § 6120(a) (revocation of will); see also Prob. Code § 88 ("will" includes codicil)]; or
- c. Burn, tear, cancel, obliterate, or destroy will or codicil that made gift.

NOTE:

A will or codicil may be revoked by being burned, torn, canceled, or obliterated with the intent and for the purpose of revoking it [Prob. Code § 6120(b) (revocation of will); see Prob. Code § 88 ("will" includes codicil)]. This means of revocation should be relied on only when no other means is feasible, since it may be difficult after the donor's death to prove the necessary intent.

CHAPTER 106 ANATOMICAL GIFTS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Nontestamentary Instruments

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.200

§ 106.200 Nontestamentary Document of Gift

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is an inter vivos document of gift that may be used to make an anatomical gift pursuant to the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40]. For a form that may be used to make an anatomical gift by will or codicil, see § 106.210. For a form that may be used by a third party to make an anatomical gift on behalf of the donor, see § 106.220. For an advance health care directive containing anatomical gift provisions as well as provisions relating to the donor's health care, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives, § 104.230.

[b] Anatomical Gifts

Any person who is 18 years of age or older may give all or any part of his or her body to any of certain specified persons or institutions for purposes generally relating to medical and dental treatment, therapy, and research [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150.15(a)]. If the donor is between 15 and 18 years of age, the written consent of the parent or guardian must be given [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a)]. Regardless of the form in which an anatomical gift is made [see [c], below], it will take effect only on the death of the donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(3)]. For a discussion of the persons and institutions to whom anatomical gifts may be made, and the purposes for which such gifts may be made under the applicable statutes, see § 106.11[10].

[c] Form of Gift Document

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40] provides that a donor may make an anatomical gift by signing a "document of gift" [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15]. A "donor" is an individual who makes an anatomical gift of all or part of his or her body [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(7)]. A "document of gift" is a donor card or other record used to make an anatomical gift and includes a statement recorded on the Donate Life California Organ and Tissue Donor Registry or other donor registry [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(6)].

Although it is simpler to make an anatomical gift by donor registry card [see § 106.201] than by a formally drafted and executed document, donor registry's and cards may have certain limitations. First, it ordinarily does not have enough space to designate a specific donee [see [e], below]; second, it may not a suitable form in which to set forth any conditions or limitations that the donor may wish to apply to the gift. This form, which may be as long or as short as is necessary to accomplish the donor's purpose, may designate one or several specific donees and may set forth any conditions or limitations that the donee wishes to impose on the gift.

When this form is used to make an anatomical gift, the donor should carry on his or her person some indication that the gift has been made. Anatomical gifts must be completed very soon (in most cases within an hour) after the donor's death. If the intention to make an anatomical gift is not made known promptly, the gift may be frustrated. A typewritten card such as that illustrated in the third alternative of the form in § 106.201 may be carried by a donor who has also executed a more formal gift instrument.

[d] Execution and Attestation

If the donor will make the gift by an inter vivos document, the document must be signed by the donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(a)]. If the donor is unable to sign personally, the document must be signed by another person and by two witnesses, all of whom must sign at the direction and in the presence of the donor and of each other [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b)].

If the anatomical gift is to be made by will or codicil, the instrument must comply with the requirements relating to the execution and attestation of wills.

[e] Designation of Specific Donee

An anatomical gift may be made to a designated donee, or without designating a donee [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. If a donee is not designated, is unavailable, or rejects the gift, the gift may be accepted by the appropriate organization [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50; see § 106.11[10]]. Since most donors are concerned only that their gifts will actually benefit some person, designation of a specific donee usually is unnecessary.

Every prospective donor should understand that a gift which, by its terms, can be given only to a specified donee, may be delayed while physicians, hospital personnel, or other persons make efforts to locate the donee. Many donors would prefer not to risk the failure of the gift by limiting it to a specific donee.

[f] Confirmation of Gift in Will

In any case in which an anatomical gift is made by a nontestamentary instrument, it is recommended that the gift also be confirmed in the donor's will. The form in § 106.211 may be used for this purpose. Testamentary confirmation will help to overcome any inference that some provision of the will (such as a direction for funeral or burial arrangements) was intended to act as a revocation of the anatomical gift. It may also help to eliminate disputes among the donor's next of kin over disposition of the donor's body.

[g] Printed Forms

Printed documents similar to this form are used by some institutions that regularly accept anatomical gifts. Printed documents sometimes include provisions or prescribe execution procedures that are peculiar to the institutions that prepare and use them [see, e.g., § 106.202]. If a prospective donor wishes to make a gift to a particular institution, the donor or the attorney should inquire whether the institution provides its own form for making such a gift and, if so, a copy should be acquired and used in making the gift.

CHAPTER 106 ANATOMICAL GIFTS

PART IV. FORMS

A. Nontestamentary Instruments

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.201

§ 106.201 Donor Cards

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form illustrates three kinds of donor cards (or forms designed to be affixed to or carried with cards) that may be used to make gifts under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40]. The three examples illustrated are:

- The form issued by the California Department of Motor Vehicles and designed to be affixed to and carried with a California driver's license or identification card [see [c] and succeeding headings, below].
- The Uniform Donor Card issued by the National Kidney Foundation [see [d], below].
- A card indicating that an anatomical gift has been made by another instrument [see [e], below].

Note that these cards do not contain space for the signed consent of a minor's parent or guardian, which is required for a valid anatomical gift if the donor is between 15 and 18 years old [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15(a)]. Thus, they should not be used for minor donors without appropriate modification.

[b] Anatomical Gift Made by Donor Card

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act permits donors to make anatomical gifts by card or by attaching a statement to their driver's license or identification card [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(a); see Veh. Code §§ 12811(b), 13005(b)]. When an anatomical gift is made by a card, the card must be signed by the donor or donor's agent [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150.15, 7150.20]. If the donor or donor's agent cannot sign, however, the card must be signed by another person and by two witnesses, all of whom must sign at the direction of the donor or donor's agent [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b)]. Delivery of the card is not essential to the validity of the gift, which becomes effective only on the death of holder [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(3), 7150.60].

[c] Department of Motor Vehicles Registration[i] In General

The Department of Motor Vehicles is required to provide a process for individuals who indicate their willingness and intent to make an anatomical gift [Veh. Code §§ 12811(b), 13005(b)]. The DMV is required to present a form to each applicant for license or identification card at the time of application or renewal, and to explain its use [Veh. Code §§ 12811(b), 13005(b)]. The DMV applications and processes meet the requirements of the Act [see Health & Safety Code § 7150-7151.40; see also § 106.11 et seq.].

[ii] Process

The DMV's driver's license and ID card application and renewal forms now provide an applicant the option make an anatomical gift by registering with Donate Life California [Veh. Code §§ 12811(b), 13005(b)]. The DMV forms ask the applicant if they wish to be an organ and tissue donor, and if they consent, they will be directed to read a statement on the back of the application that provides:

If you marked on the front of the application that you want to be an organ and tissue donor upon death, your consent shall serve as a legally binding document as outlined under the California Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. Except in the case where the donor is under the age of 18, the donation does not require the consent of any other person. For donors under the age of 18, the legal guardian of the donor shall make the final decision regarding the donation. If you want to change your decision to consent in the future, or if you want to limit the donation to specific organs, tissues, or research, you must contact Donate Life California by mail at 1760 Creekside Oaks Drive, #220, Sacramento, CA 95833, or online at www.donateLIFecalifornia.org or www.doneVIDAcalifornia.org . [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(1)].

By providing consent, the DMV will collect donor information on the application for a new or renewed driver's licenses and identification cards, and will print the word "DONOR" or other appropriate designation on the face of the driver's license or identification card [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(3)-(b)(4)]. The DMV will transmit on a weekly basis relevant information on every applicant who has indicated his or her willingness to participate in the organ donation program to Donate Life California [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(5)]. Enrollment in the registry is a legal document and is binding after the donor's death despite any express desires of next of kin opposed to the donation [Veh. Code § 12811(b)(8)]

In addition to registering directly with Donate Life California, the DMV will make available to all applicants for a new or renewed identification card, a standardized form to be filled out by a person who desires to enroll in the Donate Life California with instructions for mailing the completed form [Veh. Code § 13005(b)(1)].

The DMV donor cards, and other donor cards, will continue to grant authorization for organ and/or tissue recovery, but due to the suddenness surrounding the circumstances, a donor card is rarely available at the time a family is approached regarding donation and it is advisable for an individual wishing to make an anatomical gift, they register with Donate Life California either through the DMV, or the registry's website. Every donor's desire to make an anatomical gift is stored in a secure, confidential database which is readily available to authorized organ and tissue recovery personnel.

[iii] Limitations on Use

Although it is quite simple to make an anatomical gift by registering through the DMV, or directly through Donate Life California, or using the DMV donor cards, there are some limitations. First, there is no place to designate a specific donee. Additionally, there is no place to indicate whether an anatomical gift has been made by another instrument. The third alternative card [see [e], below] is intended to serve that purpose.

[iv] Revocation

If a donor signed up with Donate Life California at the DMV, and wishes to revoke his or her gift, the donor will need to remove themselves from the registry and have the pink dot removed from their driver's license or identification card. By visiting Donate Life California's website, a donor can update their profile, and remove their name from the list of donors. A pink donor dot will remain on the driver's license or identification card until a new one is issued, but the dot is never used to identify someone as a legal organ or tissue donor, and verification of donor designation is only done through the Donate Life California Registry database. If desired, an individual can have the pink donor dot removed prior to renewal a driver's license or identification card by contacting the DMV.

Additional information regarding Donate Life California and the DMV donor program may be obtained by contacting any of the following:

[d] Uniform Donor Card

The alternative illustrated is the Uniform Donor Card. The Uniform Donor Card was developed in 1969 by the Ad Hoc Committee on Medical Legal Problems, reporting to the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council Committee on Tissue Transplantation. Committee participants included numerous organizations involved in the field of transplantation. The card was also reviewed by individual physicians and transplant surgeons and by committees of the American Medical Association and the American Bar Association. The version shown here is issued by and may be obtained from the National Kidney Foundation and is available on the Foundation's website at www.kidney.org. It is copyrighted by the National Kidney Foundation and reprinted here with permission. Many other organizations have issued substantially identical versions of the card for use by prospective donors. This card should be carried by the donor at all times, preferably in close proximity to his or her driver's license and in a manner that will render it clearly visible to anyone who might examine the driver's license.

The Uniform Donor Card is a self-contained legal document which, when properly executed, provides all of the documentation necessary to make a valid anatomical gift.

If the donor wishes to designate a specific donee, or to specify any limitations or conditions which will apply to the gift, a limited space is provided on the Uniform Donor Card for that purpose. It may be difficult or impossible, however, to include complete conditions or limitations, or other information, such as the donee's complete address and telephone number. If the card does not contain adequate space for addition of the desired conditions or limitations, a more formal instrument may be used. This may be either a will or codicil [see § 106.210] or an inter vivos document of gift [see § 106.200]. The formalities for execution of the Uniform Donor card are the same as for all gifts made under the Act, the donor or donor's agent as authorized under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15 must sign the card, and if the donor or donor's agent can't sign, an individual may sign at their direction, provided it is witnessed by two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, and then memorialized in a signed and dated writing [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.20; see also § 106.11[2]].

[e] Card Indicating That Anatomical Gift Was Made in Another Instrument

An additional alternative illustrated in this form is a card that may be carried by a donor to indicate that he or she has executed a separate instrument making an anatomical gift. This does not constitute a document of gift in itself. It is merely evidence of the existence of another document that does make such a gift. Thus, it should be used only in conjunction with another instrument that actually makes the gift.

Because this card is not a self-contained gift instrument, it is not subject to any of the formal requirements of the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. For the importance of carrying such a card when another type of instrument has been used to make the gift, see discussions in § 106.200[1][c], [e].

This type of card may be prepared by the attorney in typewritten form when the gift instrument is executed. The donor should carry it at all times, preferably in close proximity to his or her driver's license and in a manner that will render it clearly visible to anyone who might examine the license.

[f] Confirmation of Gift in Will

If an anatomical gift is made by registration with a donor registry, a card, or some other nontestamentary instrument, it is good practice to confirm the gift in the donor's will. Testamentary confirmation will help to overcome any inference that some provision of the will (e.g., a direction for funeral or burial arrangements) was intended as a revocation of the anatomical gift. It may also help to eliminate disputes among the donor's next of kin over disposition of the donor's body. The form in § 106.211 may be used for this purpose.

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used by an individual to dispose of his or her entire body to the State Curator of Northern California for the purpose of medical study and research. The illustrated material actually consists of three separate documents: an information sheet to be completed by the prospective donor and returned to the curator, a document authorizing the gift, to be executed by the donor, and a release form to be executed by the donor's next of kin. Following completion and review of these documents, the donor will be notified whether the gift will be acceptable. Copies of these forms, together with applicable instructions, are available upon request from the curator's office at the address listed below.

Use of these forms is not absolutely essential. The Curator has indicated that a gift made by another type of instrument, such as a will, will still be accepted if it meets all the other criteria for an acceptable donation. However, the Curator prefers that these forms be used by prospective donors.

[b] Role of State Curators

The state curators are the entities charged with supervision of dead bodies and remains. There are two curators, one for Northern California and the other for Southern California. Their addresses are as follows:

State Curator for Northern California
University of California Medical Center
San Francisco, CA 94143-0902
Telephone: (415) 476-1981

State Curator for Southern California
University of Southern California School of Medicine
Los Angeles, CA 90033

Telephone: (213) 222-0231

The State Curator for Northern California accepts donations of bodies for redistribution to all authorized higher education anatomy programs in Northern California. The documents illustrated in this form are those used by the Curator for Northern California. In Southern California, the Curator deals only with the disposition of unclaimed bodies, and the individual anatomy departments in the various medical schools make their own direct arrangements for donations of bodies. In either event, the above institutions accept only donations of whole bodies for teaching and research purposes.

[c] Dealing With Schools Directly

It is not absolutely necessary that an individual who wishes to make a gift of his or her entire body name the Curator as the recipient of the gift. As noted above, the anatomy departments of the various California medical schools in both Northern and Southern California have their own anatomical gift programs. The attorney or prospective donor should make individual inquiry at local medical schools for information about such programs and should determine whether any special forms or procedures are required. The form in § 106.200 is a general anatomical gift form that may be used to make a donation of an entire body, as well as for other types of anatomical gifts.

If the donor wishes to donate his or her body to a particular school, it is especially important that the school be contacted in advance. Most schools have a policy of not accepting more bodies than they can presently use. This means that a body cannot even be donated to the school unless that school's program is currently open. Even if the program is open at the time the gift instrument is executed, the school may still reject the donation at the time of the donor's death if it is not required at that time. It is important that the individual school be contacted because programs may be closed for long periods.

[d] Official Instructions Accompanying Forms

The forms provided by the Curator are accompanied by official instructions outlining the Curator's policies. These instructions are reproduced below essentially verbatim:

1. The Curator reserves the right not to accept registered donated remains if by doing so he will exceed the number required for scientific and educational needs.
2. The Curator cannot accept the remains of registered donors after autopsy or embalming, or if the remains have become so affected by injury, disease, operation, or obesity that preservation for scientific and educational purposes is not possible.
3. The donation is for the entire body, not parts thereof. The Curator is not associated with eye, organ, tissue, or gland banks, and is not able to arrange for donations of parts of the body. The donation of the entire body is compatible with eye donations, but is not compatible with organ, tissue, or gland donations.
4. No payment of money can be made at any time in connection with a donation. This policy is in accordance with State laws and all institutions accepting human remains comply with it.
5. The expense for transportation of a donated body is not assumed by the Curator. The family or estate of a donor must be willing to pay the transportation charges. If the family or estate are unwilling to assume this expense, the Curator would have to relinquish all claim to the remains. Donated bodies are usually transported by a limousine service or by one's local funeral director.
6. The Curator will determine which of the institutions authorized to conduct scientific and educational studies will utilize each donated body.

7. The institution utilizing the body for study will assume the expense for preparation and final disposition. When studies have been completed, remains are cremated. Ashes are not returned. Reports on examination findings are not issued to the next-of-kin.

8. Your next-of-kin, who at present is responsible under the law for disposing of your remains, must sign the "Release of Claim" form. You should show this information sheet to your next of kin and make sure that your wishes are clearly understood. On the few occasions when the next-of-kin has expressed regret about a donation following a donor's death, the Curator has relinquished all claim to the remains if so requested.

9. If you are accepted as a registered donor, a registration card will be sent to you. You must place the following statement on the reverse side of your card: "In the event of my death outside the Northern California area, please make my remains available to the nearest medical school."

[e] Individual Documents-Instructions for the Disposition of Remains

This document is the operative instrument making the gift. It must be signed by the donor or donor's agent [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(a)]. If the donor cannot sign, the instrument must be signed by another individual and by two witnesses, all of whom have signed at the direction of the donor or donor's agent and of each other, and state that it has been so signed [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(b)]. The donor should return one copy to the State Curator at the address listed above, retain one copy with his or her personal records, and give a third copy to next-of-kin, attorney, or physician.

[i] Medical Information Form

This document requests some simple medical information about the prospective donor to help determine whether the gift will be acceptable and to obtain basic relevant information for research purposes. One copy of this form should be completed by the donor and returned to the Curator at the office listed above.

Under the Information Practices Act of 1977 [Civ. Code §§ 1798-1798.78], state agencies that collect personal or confidential information from individuals are required to provide certain notices to those individuals. These notices must be provided at the time the information is collected from the individuals, unless the information required to be in the notice is contained in the form completed by the individual or the individual has received the same information within the preceding year [Civ. Code § 1798.17]. The notice must notify the individual, among other things, of the name of the agency that is requesting the information, the legal authority (whether granted by statute, regulation, or executive order) for maintaining the information, whether submission of the requested information is mandatory or voluntary, the consequences, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information, the principal purpose for which the information is to be used, and any known or foreseeable disclosures which may be made of the information [Civ. Code § 1798.17; see Civ. Code § 1798.24(e), (f) (to whom information may be disclosed)].

The State Curator for Northern California complies with the above requirement by providing a form to potential donors which, in substance, makes the following representations:

The principal purpose for requesting the information is to collect medical history for research purposes. University of California policy authorizes maintenance of the information. Furnishing all information requested on the donor forms is mandatory. Failure to provide that information will delay or may even prevent completion of the action for which the forms are being filled out. Information furnished on the forms may be used by various departments of the University of California for research purposes, and will be transmitted to the state and federal governments if required by law. Individuals have the right to review their own records in accordance with the Information Practices Act and University Policy. The person responsible for maintaining the information is: Curator, Department of Anatomy, 1487 4th Avenue, University of California, San Francisco, CA 94143.

[ii] Release of Claim by Next of Kin

This form must be executed by the donor's next of kin who, at the time of execution of the other documents mentioned above, would be responsible for disposition of the donor's remains in the event of the donor's death [see discussion in [d] P 8, above].

PART IV. FORMS

B. Testamentary Gifts

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.210

§ 106.210 Will Provision for Anatomical Gift

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to make an anatomical gift. In appropriate cases, the provision may also be used in a codicil. If properly executed and witnessed, the will or codicil embodying this provision will satisfy the requirements of both the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40] and the Probate Code [see Prob. Code §§ 6100-6390 (wills); see also Prob. Code § 88 ("will" includes codicil)].

Any person who is at least 18 years of age may make an anatomical gift under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15]. (In addition, persons between 15 and 18 years of age may make an anatomical gift on written consent of a parent or guardian [Health & Safety Code § 7150.15].) A person who is 18 or more years of age and who is of sound mind is legally qualified to make a will or codicil [Prob. Code § 6100(a); see Prob. Code § 88 ("will" includes codicil)]. For discussion of the persons and institutions to whom anatomical gifts may be made, and permissible purposes of such gifts, see § 106.11[8]. For discussion of the formal requirements of execution and attestation of wills and codicils, see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.13.

An anatomical gift made by will or codicil, like an anatomical gift made in some other form, becomes effective only on the death of the donor [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(d)]. Such a gift is effective whether or not the will is probated [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(d)]. If, after the death of the donor, the will is declared invalid for testamentary purposes, the validity of the anatomical gift is unaffected [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(d)].

If the testator has previously made an anatomical gift by means of a nontestamentary document of gift [see §§ 106.200-106.202], this form should not be used. Instead, the previous gift should be confirmed by a will provision or codicil. The form in § 106.211 may be used for this purpose.

[b] Impracticality of Making Anatomical Gift by Will

It is generally inadvisable to attempt to make an anatomical gift solely by will. The medical and surgical procedures necessary to complete an anatomical gift must be completed within a very short time--usually no more than an hour or two after the donor's death. If the donor's will is not located and consulted within this time frame, the gift will be frustrated.

Many attorneys prefer to make the gift by a nontestamentary instrument and then confirm it in the donor's will. For example, the client may register with the statewide donor registry, Donate Life California or execute a donor card [see § 106.201] to be carried on his or her person and also execute a will confirming the fact that the gift has been made [see § 106.211]. This procedure will achieve two purposes: First, it will minimize the likelihood that the gift will not be discovered until it is too late to carry it out. Second, it will minimize the possibility that any funeral, burial, or other interment instructions set forth in the donor's will may be viewed as inconsistent with the anatomical gift.

[c] Specification of Donee and Other Conditions of Gift

An anatomical gift may be made to a designated donee, or without designating a donee [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. If a donee is not designated, is unavailable, or rejects the gift, the gift may be accepted by the appropriate organization [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50]. This form includes a provision that may be used to designate a donee and an alternate provision that may be used if a specific donee is not to be designated.

Subject to the limitations on permissible purposes set forth in the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code § 7150.50; see also Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40 (Uniform Anatomical Gift Act); for discussion, see § 106.11[10]] and other provisions of law, a donor is free to limit or condition an anatomical gift as he or she sees fit. Conditions or limitations may include limitations on the organs donated, the donees who may receive them, and funeral or burial arrangements for the remainder of the body. It should be kept in mind, however, that if conditions or limitations on a gift are too onerous, the gift will be rejected.

[d] Designation of Specific Physician or Surgeon

The donor may also specify a physician or surgeon to carry out the appropriate procedures [Health & Safety Code § 7150.20(e)]. A physician or surgeon who attends the donor at death or who determines the time of death may be barred, however, from participating in the procedures for removing or transplanting a part [see Health & Safety Code §§ 7150.65(i), 7182; see also §§ 106.10[4] and 106.11[12]]. Except when the gift is made in contemplation of a specific procedure (transplantation of an organ to a specific donee), it is usually inadvisable to specify a particular physician or surgeon, since the designated physician or surgeon, for reasons unanticipated at the time the document of gift is executed, may be unable or unwilling to carry out the procedures at the time the removal or transplantation is made.

B. Testamentary Gifts

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.211

§ 106.211 Will Provision Confirming Nontestamentary Anatomical Gift

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a will provision that may be used to confirm an anatomical gift made by a nontestamentary documents of gift. In appropriate cases, the provision may also be used in a codicil. For nontestamentary documents of gift, see §§ 106.200-106.202. For the execution and attestation requirements for wills and codicils [Prob. Code §§ 6110-6113; see Prob. Code § 88 ("will" includes codicil)], see the discussion in Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms, § 61.13 et seq. A donor who wishes to make an anatomical gift in a will or codicil without also making the gift in a nontestamentary document of gift should use the form in § 106.210 instead of this form.

Although failure to confirm a nontestamentary anatomical gift in a will or codicil ordinarily will not affect the validity of the gift, a testamentary confirmation of the gift will effectively preclude any post-death claim that execution of the will or codicil without mention of the gift was intended as a revocation of the gift. Confirmation will also help prevent post-death disputes over disposition of the donor's body.

PART IV. FORMS

C. Gifts by Third Parties

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.220

§ 106.220 Anatomical Gift by Third Party

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form may be used by a legally authorized third party to make an inter vivos anatomical gift of all or part of a decedent's body. It is an all-purpose form that may be used to make an anatomical gift to any legally permissible donee. When properly executed, the gift will be as effective as an anatomical gift made by the donor himself or herself.

Anatomical gifts by third parties typically are made in emergency conditions, when the donor is critically ill or near death. They are usually executed on short notice and with no direct participation by an attorney. For this reason, forms for third-party gifts are typically preprinted forms with blank spaces that may be filled in as appropriate. Printed copies of this type of form may be obtained from hospitals, procurement organizations, medical schools, and registry offices.

[b] Anatomical Gifts by Third Parties

Under the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act [Health & Safety Code §§ 7150-7151.40], members of the following classes of persons, in the order stated below, may make anatomical gifts of all or any part of a decedent's body [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(a)]:

- (1) An agent of the decedent at the time of death who would could have made an anatomical gift under Health & Safety Code § 7150.15 immediately before the decedent's death.
- (2) The decedent's spouse or domestic partner.
- (3) An adult son or daughter of the decedent.
- (4) Either parent of the decedent.

- (5) An adult brother or sister of the decedent.
- (6) Adult grandchildren of the decedent.
- (7) A grandparent of the decedent.
- (8) An adult who exhibited special care and concern for the decedent during the decedent's lifetime.
- (9) A guardian or conservator of the person of the decedent at the time of death.
- (10) Any other person having the authority to dispose of the decedent's body, including but not limited to, a coroner, medical examiner, or hospital administrator, provided that a reasonable effort has been made to locate and inform the persons listed in (1) - (9) above.

The authority of the persons listed above to make anatomical gifts of all or any part of a decedent's body is subject to significant limitations. First, a gift may not be made by any of the above persons if the decedent, at the time of death, has made an unrevoked refusal to make the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7151.30(c); see Health & Safety Code § 7150.30 (refusal to make anatomical gift); see also § 106.11[9]]. Second, a person in any of the classes listed above may not make a gift if a person in a prior class is available at the time of death to make the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(c)], or if the person proposing to make the gift knows of an objection to making an anatomical gift by a member of the person's class or a prior class [Health & Safety Code § 7150.40(b)(c)]. Finally, no person may make an anatomical gift of all or part of a decedent's body if there are indications that the decedent had religious objections to the gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.30(e); see § 106.11[7]].

[c] Execution and Delivery of Documents

An anatomical gift by a third party may be made by a document of gift [Health & Safety Code § 7150.10(a)(6)] ("document of gift" defined; see also § 106.11[4]) signed by the third party [Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(a)]. Alternatively, it may be made by a telegraphic, recorded telephonic, or other recorded message, or any other form of communication that is contemporaneously reduced to writing and signed by the recipient [Health & Safety Code § 7150.45(c)]. There is no requirement that the third party's signature on a document of gift be witnessed. It is recommended, however, that the signatures of witnesses be obtained unless it would require undue hardship to do so, because proof of the due execution of the document will be facilitated if there are witnesses. Similarly, there is no requirement that the document be delivered [7150.60]. An institution that accepts an anatomical gift, however, normally will require a copy of the document of gift for its own records.

PART IV. FORMS

D. Revocation or Amendment of Anatomical Gift

33-106 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 106.230

§ 106.230 Revocation of Anatomical Gift

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

This form is a notice revoking a previous nontestamentary instrument making an anatomical gift. It should be used when a prospective donor, having previously executed and delivered a gift instrument, decides for any reason that he or she no longer wishes to make an anatomical gift.

Execution and delivery of an instrument revoking the gift is necessary only if the gift instrument was previously delivered to the donee or to some other party. If there was no previous delivery of the gift instrument, use of a revoking instrument is unnecessary since the gift may be revoked simply by destroying, canceling, or mutilating the original instrument and all executed copies.

[b] Revocation of Anatomical Gift

A donor or donors agent may amend or revoke an anatomical gift at any time before the gift has become irrevocable [see Health & Safety Code § 7150.25 (gift not revoked by donor before death is irrevocable)]. Any anatomical gift (whether made by will or in some other way) may be amended or revoked by one or more of the following [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25]:

- A record signed by the donor, donor's agent, or individual acting at the direction of donor or donor's agent, recorded in a donor registry database.
- A later executed document of gift that amends or revokes the previous anatomical gift or portion of an anatomical gift, either expressly or by inconsistency.
- Destruction of the document of gift or cancellation of the document of gift on a donor database registry.

- By any form of communication during a terminal illness or injury addressed to at least two adults, at least one of whom is a disinterested witness, which is then memorialized in a signed and dated writing.

[c] Revocation of Testamentary Instrument Making Anatomical Gift

If an anatomical gift was made by will, it may be revoked by any of the methods specified under [b], above. It may also be revoked in the manner provided in the Probate Code for amendment or revocation of wills [Health & Safety Code § 7150.25(e); see Prob. Code §§ 6120-6124 (revocation of wills); see also § 61.19]. The most usual and convenient method for amending or revoking a will or codicil is making a subsequent will that revokes the prior will or codicil expressly or by inconsistency [Prob. Code § 6120(a)].

If a will or codicil making an anatomical gift was never delivered to the donee or any third party, it is recommended that, to avoid confusion and uncertainty, the gift be revoked by subsequent will or codicil rather than by executing and delivering a special statement of revocation like this form. If a copy of the first will or codicil was delivered to the donee or a third party, the gift may be revoked by a subsequent will or codicil, but this form should be modified to refer to the subsequent will or codicil and, as modified, executed and delivered to any person who has previously been given a copy of the first will or codicil.

If the donor has registered with a donor database registry, or carries a donor card or other evidence of the original anatomical gift, he or she should be instructed to remove himself or herself from the donor database registry and remove any card or other evidence and destroy it.

This chapter discusses the considerations involved in preparing a written agreement between unmarried persons who wish to live together and contract with respect to their rights and obligations regarding property, support, and related matters, and contains forms for use in drafting the agreement. This chapter also discusses the registration of domestic partnerships with the California Secretary of State, and the rights and obligations of registered domestic partners. The Legal Background discusses the elements of an express cohabitation agreement, and provisions applicable to the registration of domestic partnerships. The Transaction Guide sets forth a checklist of potential provisions. Forms include complete cohabitation agreements as well as optional provisions that may be appropriate in some cases. Forms also include domestic partnership registration and termination forms for filing with the California Secretary of State, and forms for notifying third parties of the termination of a domestic partnership.

For a discussion of drafting premarital agreements and forms for those agreements, see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements . For coverage of drafting postnuptial agreements, see Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements . For provisions that may be adapted for use in the agreements presented in this chapter, see Chapters 120- 125. PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.10

§ 110.10 Validity and Purpose of Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements

[1] Validity of Cohabitation Agreements in General

[a] Property-Related Provisions

Nonmarital partners in California may lawfully contract to pool earnings and funds, and to share in property that is jointly accumulated during the period of their nonmarital relationship, so long as their agreement is not otherwise invalid [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 665, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Vallera v. Vallera (1943) 21 Cal. 2d 681, 685, 134 P.2d 761 ; Trutalli v. Meraviglia (1932) 215 Cal. 698, 700-701, 12 P.2d 430 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405] . An express agreement to pool earnings and share equally in joint accumulations of property does not require that both parties contribute property or earnings. One or both may contribute household or other services [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670 n.5, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Taylor v. Taylor (1954) 66 Cal. App. 2d 390, 398, 152 P.2d 480 (dealing with putative marriage)].

Because parties to a nonmarital relationship are neither actually nor putatively married, the provisions of the former Family Law Act (from which the current Family Code is derived) are inapplicable to the distribution of property acquired during the relationship [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 665, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see [3], below].

In general, the foregoing principles, and those discussed elsewhere in this chapter, apply equally to both heterosexual couples and same-sex couples. In In re Marriage Cases, the California Supreme Court held that differential treatment of opposite-sex and same-sex couples in California's marriage statutes violated the California Constitution's guarantees of privacy, due process, and equal protection [In re Marriage Cases, (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 757, 784, 847-856, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683, 183 P.3d 384] . That holding was superseded in part by the subsequent adoption of Proposition 8, which amended the California Constitution to provide that only marriage between a man and a woman is valid or recognized in California [see Cal. Const. art. I, § 7.5]. The Supreme Court upheld Proposition 8 against a constitutional challenge, but in doing so the Court emphasized that only the official designation of the term "marriage" was removed by Proposition 8. Thus, same-sex couples continue to enjoy the constitutional right to "choose one's life partner and enter with that person into a committed, officially recognized, and protected family relationship that enjoys all of the constitutionally based incidents of marriage" [Strauss v. Horton (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 364, 387-388, 412, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 207 P.3d 48 (quoting In re Marriage Cases (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 757, 829, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683, 183 P.3d 384)]. Nor did Proposition 8 fundamentally alter the meaning and substance of state constitutional equal-protection principles as articulated in In re Marriage Cases [Strauss v. Horton (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 364, 412, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 207 P.3d 48 ("In sum, although Proposition 8 changes the state Constitution ... to provide that restricting the family designation of 'marriage' to opposite-sex couples only, and withholding that designation from same-sex couples, no longer violates the state Constitution, in all other respects same-sex couples retain the same substantive protections embodied in the state constitutional rights of privacy and due process as those accorded to opposite-sex couples and the same broad protections under the state equal protection clause that are set forth in the majority opinion in [In re] Marriage Cases, including the general principle that sexual orientation constitutes a suspect classification and that statutes according differential treatment on the basis of sexual orientation are constitutionally permissible only if they satisfy the strict scrutiny standard of review.")].

Therefore, the general principles underlying the Court's decision in In re Marriage Cases--including the fact that state law governing registered domestic partners reflects a policy of providing same-sex couples all of the significant legal rights and obligations associated with marriage--remain applicable in assessing the rights of unmarried heterosexual couples and same-sex couples. Moreover, the Court's holding in the Marvin case (which expressly recognized the enforceability of nonmarital cohabitation agreements between opposite-sex partners) appears applicable to the enforcement of agreements between same-sex partners [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 675-676, 682, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . Specific recognition of cohabitation agreements by nonmarital partners of the same sex has occurred at the court of appeal level [see, e.g., Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 454, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 (court upheld express oral cohabitation agreement between two men, finding that allegations that one party provided other with services as chauffeur, bodyguard, secretary, and business partner stated contractual cause of action supported by consideration independent of sexual services)]. For further discussion of this issue, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 2, Enforcement of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements (Matthew Bender).

For discussion of limitations on the consideration for an express cohabitation agreement regarding property, see § 110.11[2].

[b] Support-Related Provisions

The California Supreme Court has suggested that an otherwise valid agreement between nonmarital partners regarding property, earnings and expenses, may be coupled with an agreement for the support of a party, even with respect to support that extends after the parties' relationship has ended [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674-675, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see also Cochran v. Cochran (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 1115, 1120, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 337 ; Byrne v. Laura (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 1054, 1063, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 908] . Unlike spousal support, which is governed by statute [see Fam. Code §§ 4300, 4303, 4330], support of a nonmarital partner is not statutorily required. A court's power to order support to a nonmarital partner in the absence of an agreement, particularly after a period of cohabitation has ended, is presently doubtful [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 685 n.26, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 (court reserved issue of whether post-separation support is available to nonmarital partner in absence of agreement); Friedman v. Friedman (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 876, 884-890, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 892 (under circumstances, court found that award of pendente lite "spousal support" was abuse of discretion in action founded on purported implied contract, but declined to address issue of whether award of support is proper absent express or implied contract); cf. In re Doyle (9th Cir. B.A.P. 1986) 16 C.B.C. 2d 761, 764, 15 B.C.D. 700 (Bankruptcy Court was unwilling to consider stipulated judgment between nonmarital partners as support obligation or alimony for purposes of applying federal statute to discharge judgment)]. An agreement expressly providing for support is the only certain method of assuring that this type of financial security will be available to one or both parties.

For a form of agreement that includes support provisions, see § 110.200. For discussion of legal theories on which a nonmarital partner might seek an award of support after separation in the absence of an express agreement, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 2, Enforcement of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements (Matthew Bender). For related tax discussion, see § 110.12[1].

[c] Attorneys' Fees and Costs

Parties to an otherwise valid nonmarital cohabitation agreement may also include provisions for the payment of attorneys' fees and costs in the event of litigation at the end of the relationship [see Civ. Code § 1717]. Generally, neither party to a lawsuit can recover attorneys' fees in the absence of a special agreement, statutory provision, or exceptional circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 1021; Prentice v. North American Guar. Corp. (1963) 59 Cal. 2d 618, 620, 30 Cal. Rptr. 821, 381 P.2d 645] but, even in the absence of an agreement, a prevailing party may recover costs in any action or proceeding, except as otherwise expressly provided by statute [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1032]. A provision with regard to costs and attorneys' fees is included in the sample agreement in § 110.200.

[2] Types of Agreements

In the landmark case of Marvin v. Marvin, the Supreme Court suggested that nonmarital partners could make the following valid and enforceable agreements [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674 , & n.10, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 450, 454, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 (express oral agreement for lifetime support, sharing of property acquired, opening and maintaining of bank accounts, and charge account privileges)].

- To pool their earnings and hold all property acquired during the relationship in accord with the law governing community property;
- To keep each partner's earnings and the property acquired from those earnings as the separate property of the earning partner;
- To keep their earnings and property separate, but to compensate one party for services which benefit the other;
- To pool only part of their earnings or property;
- To form a partnership or joint venture;
- To hold property acquired as joint tenants or tenants in common; and
- To establish "any other such arrangement."

An agreement for pooling of assets and sharing of accumulations may legitimately be coupled with a support agreement that extends even after the end of the relationship [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674-675, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

Parties may also wish to contract with regard to other matters, such as the following [see Weitzman, Legal Regulation of Marriage: Tradition and Change, 62 Cal. L. Rev. 1169 (1974), cited in Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674 n.10, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] :

- If the parties intend to rent a dwelling, such matters as how the rent will be divided, who will be responsible for payment, whose name is to go on the lease, and who has the right to stay in the dwelling if the parties separate.

- Provisions relating to inheritance rights, such as mutual promises to make wills, or provision with regard to acquisition of joint tenancy property, life insurance, or the creation of inter vivos trusts.
- Agreement about whether the couple will acquire any joint savings, checking, or credit accounts, or whether all such accounts will remain separate.
- Provisions for the division of jointly acquired property in the event of separation.
- Provisions for renegotiation and modification of the agreement.
- Provisions relating to custody of children, provided that the parties are aware that such agreements are subject to the discretion of the court as to the best interests of the children.
- Provisions relating to support of children of one of the parties by a former marriage, provided that the parties understand that a child's parents may not waive their duty to support the child.

[3] Inapplicability of Family Law Statutes

Prior to the repeal of the Family Law Act and its replacement by the Family Code, the California Supreme Court clarified that distribution of property acquired during a nonmarital relationship is not governed under the Family Law Act. The Court found that nothing in the language of the Act addressed the property rights of nonmarital partners, and nothing in its legislative history suggested that the Legislature considered nonmarital relationships [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 681, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . Thus, property rights arising within nonmarital relationships are not governed under statutory family law principles. A party who brings suit on the basis of a cohabitation agreement will be subject to a judicial determination of his or her rights under the agreement without respect to community property law and the law relating to spouses in general [Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1174-1176, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642 (claim brought under Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 , is civil action that will be heard according to procedural rules applicable to civil litigation and not according to family law rules and procedures)].

The consequences of the inapplicability of family law statutes to nonmarital relationships are significant in terms of the drafting considerations for nonmarital cohabitation agreements. Some parties may desire to establish a relationship with rights and privileges identical to those of a married couple. If so, the agreement must be specifically tailored to accomplish that objective.

Although the marital property and spousal support laws do not apply to nonmarital relationships, provisions of the Family Code that deal with child custody [see Fam. Code § 3020 et seq.], support of a child by a parent [see Fam. Code § 3900 et seq.], domestic violence prevention [see Fam. Code § 6200 et seq.], and establishment of the parental relationship [see Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.] do apply to nonmarital partners [see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Chs. 31- 33, 35, 40- 42, and 96 (Matthew Bender)]. In addition, provisions concerning registration of unmarried persons who meet the statutory criteria of "domestic partners" are governed by the Family Code, as discussed in § 110.50 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 297 et seq.].

CHAPTER 110 NONMARITAL COHABITATION AGREEMENTS AND RELATED TRANSACTIONS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.11

§ 110.11 Requirements for Express Agreement

[1] Desirability and Need for Written Agreement

[a] Reasons for Written Agreement

Parties to a cohabitation agreement should make and sign a written contract for two primary reasons. First, as discussed in [b], below, the agreement may fall within the purview of a statute requiring that it be in writing; if so, an oral agreement will be unenforceable unless estoppel can be asserted (see [c], below).

Second, and most important, putting the parties' agreement in writing will help to avoid later misunderstandings and enlighten each party regarding the actual intentions and expectations of the other with regard to property, support, and other financial matters.

It is advisable that cohabitants have their written agreement reviewed by their respective attorneys.

[b] Applicability of Statute of Frauds

Unlike premarital agreements, which must ordinarily be in writing and signed by both parties in order to be valid [see Fam. Code § 1611 (Uniform Premarital Agreements Act; applicable to agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986); see also discussion in Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements], agreements between unmarried cohabitants are not subject to formal requirements for their validity unless a writing is otherwise required by the statute of frauds [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 673-674, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 (construing former Civ. Code §§ 5133-5137)]. Unless the statute of frauds applies, an express cohabitation agreement may be oral or written.

The statute of frauds requires the following agreements to be written [Civ. Code § 1624]:

- An agreement that by its terms is not to be performed within a year from its making;
- A special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another, except in the cases provided for in Civ. Code § 2794 (relating to exception of original obligation);

- An agreement for the leasing for a longer period than one year, or for the sale of real property, or of an interest therein;
- An agreement authorizing or employing an agent, broker, or any other person to purchase or sell real estate, or to lease real estate for a longer period than one year, or to procure, introduce, or find a purchaser or seller of real estate or a lessee or lessor of real estate where the lease is for a longer period than one year, for compensation or a commission;
- An agreement that by its terms is not to be performed during the lifetime of the promisor;
- An agreement by a purchaser of real property to pay an indebtedness secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on the property purchased, unless assumption of the indebtedness by the purchaser is specifically provided for in the conveyance of the property; and
- A contract, promise, undertaking, or commitment to loan money or to grant or extend credit, in an amount greater than $100,000, not primarily for personal, family, or household purposes, made by a person engaged in the business of lending or arranging for the lending of money or extending credit.

For example, if one unmarried cohabitant agrees to transfer to the other an interest in real property, the agreement would have to be in writing [see Civ. Code § 1624(c)]. Furthermore, many statutes other than the general statute of frauds require contracts to be in writing [see, e.g., Lab. Code § 300 (requiring an assignment of wages to be in writing)]. If the subject of the cohabitation agreement falls within the purview of one of these statutes, a written agreement is required.

[c] Estoppel to Assert Statute of Frauds

Although a cohabitation agreement is generally not required to be in writing, if a written agreement is required by statute because of the particular subject matter [see [b], above], the defendant may be estopped from asserting the invalidity of the agreement based on a violation of the statute of frauds. Estoppel to assert the statute of frauds is available for the following reasons [Cline v. Festersen (1954) 128 Cal. App. 2d 380, 387, 275 P.2d 149 ; see Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 456, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 (estoppel argument prevailed)]:

- To prevent fraud that would result from denying enforcement of a contract after one party has been induced by the other seriously to change his or her position in reliance on the contract; or
- When unjust enrichment would result if a party who received benefits of the other's performance were allowed to rely on the statute.

Apart from the foregoing estoppel grounds, there may be occasions when traditional exceptions to the statute of frauds apply. For a summary of these exceptions in the context of premarital agreements, see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements . For a general discussion of enforcing cohabitation agreements, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 2, Enforcement of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements .

[2] Consideration and Object of Agreement

[a] Consideration Other Than Money

As noted in § 110.10[1][a], an express agreement to pool earnings and share equally in joint accumulations of property does not require that both partners contribute money. One or both partners may contribute household or other services as part or all of his or her consideration [see Bridges v. Bridges (1954) 125 Cal. App. 2d 359, 361, 270 P.2d 69 ; Garcia v. Venegas (1951) 106 Cal. App. 2d 364, 366-368, 235 P.2d 89] ; those services need not be presumed to be a gift. The opinion in Marvin reaffirmed this point [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670 n.5, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

[b] Sexual Services as Consideration

Agreements between nonmarital partners are unenforceable to the extent that they rest on a consideration of sexual services [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 670-671, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . For example, a contract for pooling of property and earnings will be invalid and unenforceable if sexual acts are explicitly made an inseparable part of the agreement [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 672, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; Whorton v. Dillingham (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 447, 451, 454, 248 Cal. Rptr. 405 (services as chauffeur, bodyguard, secretary, and business partner were supported by consideration independent of sexual services); Milian v. De Leon (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 1185, 1193, 226 Cal. Rptr. 831 ; Taylor v. Fields (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 653, 661, 665, 224 Cal. Rptr. 186 (noncohabiting lover's role as confidante, friend, and travel companion was indistinguishable from role as "paramour"); Jones v. Daly (1981) 122 Cal. App. 3d 500, 507-508, 176 Cal. Rptr. 130 (cohabitation agreement was unenforceable because sexual services were part of consideration, and demurrer to complaint alleging agreement was properly sustained)]. Recognizing, however, that an agreement between nonmarital partners will usually be made in contemplation of a common living arrangement, the Court has ruled that, even if sexual services are part of the contractual consideration, any severable portion of the contract supported by independent consideration will be enforced. The fact that the parties live together without marriage and engage in a sexual relationship, does not in itself invalidate agreements between them relating to their earnings, property, or expenses. Neither is such an agreement invalid merely because the parties may have contemplated the creation or continuation of a nonmarital relationship when they entered into it [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 672, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106 ; see Hill v. Estate of Westbrook (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 458, 460, 247 P.2d 19] .

For further discussion of enforceability of cohabitation agreements and permissible consideration for such agreements, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Chapter 2.

[3] Need for Fair Dealing Between Parties

[a] General Advantages of Disclosure

To ensure that neither party can claim that he or she was induced to transfer property or make any other promises without adequate knowledge of all relevant facts, each party should make a full, fair, and complete disclosure to the other of (1) property, assets, and expectancies, and (2) intentions and expectations regarding the relationship. If the parties happen to be in a confidential or fiduciary relationship, complete disclosure is an essential prerequisite to the validity of their agreement (see [b], below).

[b] Existence of Confidential or Fiduciary Relationship

[i] Confidential Relationship

A confidential relationship exists between two persons when one has gained the confidence of the other and purports to act with the other's interest in mind [see generally Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 337, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247] . Parties who are not married are not generally presumed to share a confidential relationship, and if they contract with each other with regard to property, earnings, and expenses, they are presumed to be dealing at arm's length [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 355, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 (discussing premarital agreements); Nelson v. Nevel (1984) 154 Cal. App. 3d 132, 139, 141 n.7, 201 Cal. Rptr. 93 (no presumption that confidential relationship exists between unmarried persons; none may be required to request equitable remedy such as constructive or resulting trust); see also Fernandez v. Fernandez (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 782, 790, 15 Cal. Rptr. 374 (case involving premarital contract)]. However, in some instances, a confidential relationship may arise between nonmarital partners, and in those instances economic transactions between them should be governed by the principles applicable to such relationships [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682 n.22, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . For further discussion of the existence and possible effects of a confidential relationship, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Chapter 2.

[ii] Fiduciary Relationship

A fiduciary relationship may exist between nonmarital partners if one of the partners has control over the property of the other [Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247] , even when there is no confidential relationship. The key factor in the existence of a fiduciary relationship is control by one person over the property of another. While it may be clear that the partners do not repose trust and confidence in each other, one partner may be in possession of the other partner's property, and as to that property he or she will be a fiduciary.

[c] Effect of Confidential or Fiduciary Relationship

The concepts of confidential and fiduciary relationships are similar. When unmarried partners assume a relationship of personal confidence with each other, they may be subject to the general rules governing trusts [cf. Prob. Code §§ 16002 (duty of loyalty), 16004 (duty to avoid conflict of interest)]. If one party obtains an advantage over the other with respect to the other's property, an agreement conferring that advantage will likely raise issues such as undue influence and inadequate consideration [see Prob. Code § 16004. Unlike former Civ. Code § 2235 (repealed July 1, 1987), § 16004 contains no language relating to presumption of insufficient consideration or undue influence, but instead provides that transaction between trustee and beneficiary, which occurs during existence of trust, or while trustee's influence on beneficiary remains, and by which trustee obtains advantage from beneficiary, is presumed to violate trustee's fiduciary duties]. An advantage has been obtained in a transaction whenever a person improves his or her position, obtains a favorable opportunity, or otherwise gains, benefits, or profits [see Rader v. Thrasher (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 244, 250, 18 Cal. Rptr. 736, 368 P.2d 360 ; Main v. Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, & Smith, Inc. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 19, 31, 136 Cal. Rptr. 378] .

Disclosure between the parties is an important aspect of assuring that one party cannot later claim to have been misled by someone who took unfair advantage.

[d] Representation by Independent Counsel

Representation by independent counsel during the drafting and execution of a cohabitation agreement is another factor that may support the validity of the agreement in the face of subsequent challenges. Charges of fraud, misrepresentation, or overreaching by a trusted partner are harder to sustain if, at the time the agreement was signed, each party had the agreement scrutinized by his or her own counsel who explained its legal significance in detail.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.12

§ 110.12 Related Considerations in Drafting Agreement

[1] Tax Consequences

[a] Income Tax Consequences

[i] Transfers of Earnings and Other Property in General

If nonmarital partners make an enforceable agreement under which one partner promises to share earnings with the other, to compensate the other for services, or to support the other, the agreement may have potentially adverse income tax consequences. The funds used to make the payments between partners will first be taxed as income to the earning partner, and then taxed again as income to the partner who received payments under the contract. Under the rule of Lucas v. Earl, an agreement under which one taxpayer acquires an enforceable right to share in the future earnings of another taxpayer does not prevent the entire amount from being taxed as income to the earning taxpayer [Lucas v. Earl (1930) 281 U.S. 111, 114-115, 50 S. Ct. 241, 74 L. Ed. 731] . Accordingly, income taxable to both nonmarital partners may arise if they commingle their earnings (for example, by making deposits into joint bank accounts), and if pooling of funds is combined with a sharing of services. The party contributing the lesser amount of funds might be treated as having received either income or the value of services up to an equal share in the pooled funds [see I.R.C. § 61 (a); Treas. Reg. § 1.61-2(a), (d); see also Lucas v. Earl (1930) 281 U.S. 111, 114-115, 50 S. Ct. 241, 74 L. Ed. 731] .

The tax liability of one nonmarital partner will not necessarily be imputed to the other partner, depending on the circumstances. In one case, one nonmarital partner, who had incurred a tax deficiency, transferred his interest in a residence he purchased to his nonmarital partner at the time of their separation, in payment for her services rendered to him in his medical practice. The transferee partner was issued a notice of transferee liability under Internal Revenue Code Section 6901(a), which allows the Internal Revenue Service to collect taxes owed by a taxpayer from a person to whom the taxpayer has transferred property without fair consideration. The Tax Court found the transfer was without fair consideration, focusing on whether the transferee had proven an enforceable Marvin claim, and held the transferee liable for the transferor's tax liability [see Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that the Tax Court had erred in holding the transferee liable, and that the relevant issue was not whether the transferee actually had an enforceable Marvin claim against the transferor, but whether the parties believed in good faith that the transferee had an enforceable right and the transfer was made to satisfy it, or in exchange for her forbearance from enforcement. The court found that the parties did have a good faith belief that the transferee had an enforceable claim and that the transfer was therefore for a fair consideration [Mayors v. C.I.R. (9th Cir. 1986) 785 F.2d 757, 759-762] .

Capital gains is another consideration in the cohabitation context [see I.R.C. § 61(a)(3)]. Although transfers between spouses generally are not taxable events [see I.R.C. § 1041], a property transfer between nonmarital partners is a taxable event, and the transferring party is required to report the gain as income [see I.R.C. §§ 61(a); 1001]. The transferee may also be required to report the fair market value of the property received as income [see I.R.C. § 61(a)(1), (3)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Nonmarital partners can help avoid imputation of income issues and potential double taxation by maintaining separate bank accounts and by not commingling earnings or other income from whatever source derived (for example, receipt of an inheritance). It may, in any case, be advisable for the cohabitants early on to enter into a written agreement that there is no intention to pool earnings or other income, and that each cohabitant has no interest in the future earnings or other income of the other, from whatever source derived. Commentary by Publisher's Editorial Staff

PRACTICE TIP:

There is a gradually developing body of law regarding cohabitation agreements. In the arena of tax law, generally the same rules apply to nonmarital partners as to any other parties entering into contracts and transactions. While nonmarital partners have some of the same tax benefits as married couples (such as, for example, dependency exemptions for qualifying individuals and the annual exclusion for gifts up to $10,000), many benefits remain the exclusive domain of the married, such as joint return filing, the unlimited marital deduction for interspousal gifts in any amount, and the presumption that only one-half of property jointly held with the surviving spouse is taxed in the decedent's estate (see [ii]-[iii], [b]-[c], below). Sensitivity to drafting, however, can still help ensure that nonmarital partners get the maximum advantages within the limits recognized by law. To the extent that this area of law is unsettled, counsel can resort to analogous areas, including premarital and even postnuptial agreements (see Chs. 111, 112). Counsel should pay particular attention to certain considerations. First, complete disclosure of all material facts is necessary, including full disclosure of all assets (see § 110.11[3][a]). Counsel should never attempt dual representation, but instead urge the parties to obtain independent counsel (see § 110.11[3][d]). This not only avoids ethical conflict of interest problems, but increases the likelihood that the agreement will not be judicially set aside based on accusations of fraud or overreaching. Any cohabitation agreement should include provisions related to the parties' later marriage (see [3], below). The agreement should protect the parties' rights and interests acquired during the nonmarital cohabitation without unduly interfering with their rights and interests after marriage. Alternatively, the more conservative approach is for the agreement to expressly state that it applies only to the period of nonmarital cohabitation and that the agreement will not apply after marriage. Commentary by Publisher's Editorial Staff

[ii] Return Filing and Claiming Dependency Exemption

An unmarried, cohabiting couple cannot file a joint income tax return [see I.R.C. § 6013]. Nevertheless, under some circumstances a nonmarital partner who supports the other partner may be entitled to claim a dependency exemption. In general, a taxpayer can claim a dependency exemption for the other cohabitant, and apparently any child of the other cohabitant, if the supported individuals live in the taxpayer's home, are members of the taxpayer's household for the entire year, and the taxpayer provided more than one-half of the individuals' total support during the taxable year [I.R.C.

§ 152(d)(2)(H); Treas. Reg. 1.152-1(b)]. The dependent's gross income for the taxable year in which the taxpayer claims the dependent must be less than the exemption amount [I.R.C. § 152(d)(1)(B)]. The dependency exemption is not allowed, however, if the cohabitation relationship is violative of local laws [I.R.C. § 152(f)(3)]. Note that counsel should ascertain whether any other person is entitled by a marital settlement agreement or otherwise to claim a dependency exemption for a child that is now living with a custodial parent and his or her nonmarital partner. For related provisions, see Chapter 123.

PRACTICE TIP:

The "violation of local law" limitation has essentially no present significance in California, which does not criminalize cohabitation between consenting adults. If, as in California, the state law does not in some manner criminalize cohabitation, the taxpayer is normally permitted the dependency exemption for a supported cohabitant. Commentary by Publisher's Editorial Staff

Payments made pursuant to a contract may be classified as compensation for services rather than support, thus preventing the paying partner from claiming a dependency deduction with respect to the recipient partner [see W. T. Hamilton (1960) 34 T.C. 927, 928-929 ; see also Angstadt v. Commissioner (1968) 27 T.C.M.693]. Designating the payments as being for something other than services, such as support, will not necessarily determine the nature of the payments. The overall facts and circumstances may control over the parties' labelling of payments [see Jones v. Commissioner (1977) 36 T.C. M. 1323 (payments construed as compensation for sexual services); Brizendine v. Commissioner (1957) 16 T.C.M. 149 (payments for companionship)]. The fact that a cohabitant performs some of the same services as a housekeeper, for example, will not prevent that person from being claimed as a dependent, if the evidence reveals that the relationship between the parties is not one of housekeeper and employer [see Kieffer v. Commissioner (1987), T.C. Memo 1987-213 (cohabitant may be former spouse of taxpayer, assuming that other requirements for dependency are met)].

PRACTICE TIP:

The courts have made it clear that designation of payments, such as for support versus services, is not determinative. A "facts and circumstances" test applies. However, the parties can nonetheless strengthen their position that any payments from one cohabitant to the other are for support by so stating ahead of time in a written agreement. This should increase the likelihood that the payor cohabitant's dependency exemption will be permitted. A cohabitant's receipt of income for services from the other cohabitant can have harsh consequences to both cohabitants. First, the dependency exemption will be lost to the payor cohabitant for what might have otherwise been support payments to the other cohabitant. Moreover, as discussed above, each party may incur income taxes owed on the same dollars, perhaps significantly reducing the household's net spendable income. Commentary by Publisher's Editorial Staff

[iii] Gifts Distinguished From Income

Gifts are not taxed as income to the recipient [see I.R.C. § 102(a)]. However, a gift for income tax purposes (as opposed to a gift for gift tax purposes, discussed in [b], below) must be a transfer resulting from the "detached and disinterested generosity" of the transferor [Commissioner v. Duberstein (1960) 363 U.S. 278, 285, 80 S. Ct. 1190, 4 L. Ed. 2d 1218]. Under this test, the payment of money or the transfer of property pursuant to an enforceable contract between nonmarital partners is not a gift for income tax purposes.

[b] Gift Tax Consequences

A transfer of property or funds is a gift subject to gift tax to the extent that the property is transferred for less than an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth [I.R.C. § 2512(b)]. In other words, the taxable gift is the difference between the value of the gift and the consideration received [I.R.C. § 2512(b)]. The transferor pays the tax [see I.R.C. § 2502(c)]. However, the first $10,000 in value of gifts to any one donee during a calendar year--an amount that is indexed for inflation for gifts made in calendar years after 1998--is excluded from taxation [I.R.C. § 2503(b)]. If property is transferred to a nonmarital partner pursuant to a contract for less than a full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth, gift tax may be payable.

The gift tax marital deduction [I.R.C. § 2523], which is unlimited for interspousal gifts made after December 31, 1981, does not apply to transfers between nonmarital partners.

PRACTICE TIP:

The practical advantages of treating payments or property transfers as gifts rather than as income are obvious. If a gift of $10,000 or less per year is involved, no taxable event between the parties occurs due to the transferor's use of the annual exclusion. If gifts of over $10,000 are involved, the transferor is taxed only on the excess over $10,000, after taking into account any applicable statutory indexing of that amount for inflation. Unfortunately, the unlimited marital deduction for any amount of gifts made between spouses during the calendar year is, of course, unavailable to nonmarital cohabitants. For a related discussion in the estate tax context, see [c], below. Commentary by Publisher's Editorial Staff

[c] Estate Tax Consequences

The marital deduction is not available to nonmarital partners, and therefore does not apply to bequests to a nonmarital partner so as to reduce the decedent partner's taxable estate [see I.R.C. § 2056(a)]. If the parties held title to property as tenants-in-common, only the decedent's one-half interest is included in the decedent's estate [see I.R.C. § 2033]. If a deed or other document of title does not identify the survivor's interest, and he or she seeks a judicial determination of this interest, the surviving nonmarital partner may be required to report the value of the property interest as income [see I.R.C. § 61(a)]. If the claimed interest is based on a promise to share made in exchange for services, the exchange would render the property interest taxable compensation [see I.R.C. § 61(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 1.61-1].

Another problem arises if the parties held title as joint tenants. In this situation, the entire value of jointly held property is included in the decedent's estate, minus any contributions by the surviving nonmarital partner that he or she can establish through tracing [see I.R.C. § 2040(a)]. In contrast, had the parties been married, only one-half of the qualified joint interest would be included in the decedent's estate [see I.R.C. § 2040(b)]. If the nonmarital partners had always pooled funds and made purchases with pooled funds, the survivor may in many cases be unable to trace the individual investments fully. If so, this means that the entire value of the jointly held property must be included in the decedent's estate for tax purposes, with no reduction in value for contributions by the cohabitant.

PRACTICE TIP:

The inability to trace a surviving nonmarital partner's contributions to jointly held property can result in up to twice as much tax payable by the decedent partner's estate with regard to the property involved. Nonmarital partners should keep complete and detailed bank records and all other documents related to income and substantiation of any significant transactions. As in many problem areas concerning nonmarital partners, the best preventive medicine, and the cleanest of record-keeping, may lie in the parties both (1) maintaining separate bank and other financial institution accounts and (2) scrupulously avoiding any commingling of funds. Commentary by Publisher's Editorial Staff

[2] Effect of Marriage to Third Party on Agreement Between Unmarried Parties

In general, a cohabitation agreement is not invalid simply because one of the cohabitants remains legally married to another person, at least if the married parties have separated. Once a married couple has separated, subsequent earnings of each spouse are separate property, and the other spouse cannot assert any interest in those earnings [Fam. Code § 771], although they may be subject to court-ordered support obligations [see Fam. Code § 4338]. However, if a cohabitation agreement attempts to transfer property in which the other spouse has an assertable interest (for example, community property), the transfer may be voidable, in which case the aggrieved spouse may have it set aside [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 673, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . It is unclear whether a cohabitation agreement would be enforced if one of the parties to the agreement has not separated from his or her current spouse, because there is at least the possibility that such an agreement might be held to violate public policy as promoting dissolution and impairing community property rights [see Feldman v. Nassi (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 881, 884-887, 169 Cal. Rptr. 9] .

For further discussion of this issue, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 2, Enforcement of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements (Matthew Bender). For a general discussion of the effects of cohabitation on the legal relations of one of the cohabitants and his or her estranged spouse, see Ch. 1, Legal Effects of Cohabitation , in that publication, and for a discussion of the rights of a spouse in community property assets transferred by the other spouse, including any right of reimbursement to the community, see Chapters 20- 24 of that publication.

[3] Effect of Parties' Subsequent Marriage to Each Other

Marriage of the parties to an express cohabitation agreement to each other does not preclude enforcement of the agreement, at least with regard to property interests the parties acquired pursuant to their agreement before marriage. However, other matters may affect enforcement of the agreement, such as the statute of limitations, as discussed further in Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 2, Enforcement of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements (Matthew Bender).

If parties to a cohabitation agreement marry and wish to continue to be bound by the terms of their cohabitation agreement, enforcement of some terms of the agreement may be difficult. Unlike premarital agreements [see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements], cohabitation agreements are not ordinarily entered into in contemplation of marriage. It is unlikely that a nonmarital cohabitation would be held to constitute a waiver of any rights acquired through marriage, such as community property rights. However, one court of appeal has upheld after marriage a cohabitation agreement that created, rather than waived, rights that would arise by marriage [In re Marriage of Stitt (1983) 147 Cal. App. 3d 579, 584-585, 195 Cal. Rptr. 172 ; see Watkins v Watkins (1983) 143 Cal. App. 3d 651, 653, 192 Cal. Rptr. 54] .

From a planning standpoint, parties to a cohabitation agreement who later decide to marry should review their agreement to determine what, if any, changes are appropriate. For further discussion of this issue, and a related discussion concerning consolidation of causes of action arising from nonmarital cohabitation with a family law proceeding, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 2, Enforcement of Rights Under Cohabitation Agreements (Matthew Bender). For coverage of premarital agreements, see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Domestic Partner Registration

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.50

§ 110.50 Registration Requirements

[1] Authorization for Domestic Partnerships

[a] State and Local Registration

An increasing number of California communities permit unmarried couples to register with a local city or county clerk as "domestic partners." Registration has varying effects depending on the terms of the local ordinance, such as eligibility to participate in health care benefits as a beneficiary of a partner who is employed by the city or county. In addition, state statute permits registration of "domestic partnerships" with the State of California [Fam. Code § 297 et seq.]. The following discussion concerns the requirements for, and effects of, statewide registration, which generally preempts local laws on domestic partnerships on and after July 1, 2000 (see § 110.52) [see Fam. Code § 299.6(a)].

[b] Revised Procedures Operative January 1, 2005

The California Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act of 2003 expanded the rights and responsibilities of registered domestic partners [Stats. 2003, ch. 421]. Most of the changes made by the Act become operative on January 1, 2005 [Stats. 2003, ch. 421, § 14]. To obtain the benefits of the Act, domestic partners must comply with the formal registration requirements under the Act [Koebke v. Bernardo Heights Country Club (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 824, 845, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 565, 115 P.3d 1212 ; Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1165, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642 ; but see Ellis v. Arriaga (In re Domestic P'ship of Ellis) (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1008, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401 (person's reasonable, good-faith belief that his or her domestic partnership was validly registered with Secretary of State entitles that person to rights and responsibilities of registered domestic partner, even if registration never took place)].

Under the Act, domestic partners registered with the Secretary of State generally have the same rights, protections, and benefits, and are subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties, that apply to spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(a) (operative January 1, 2005)]. However, domestic partners who registered their partnership with the Secretary of State before January 1, 2005, may elect to have their partnership governed by an agreement complying with the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, provided that the agreement is fully executed and in force as of June 30, 2005 [Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(2) (operative January 1, 2005); see Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.; see also [4], below].

The Act changes the procedure for terminating domestic partnerships; in most cases, termination will require the filing of a dissolution proceeding in superior court [see Fam. Code § 299 (operative January 1, 2005); see [6], below].

The Act also provides that a legal union of two persons of the same sex, other than a marriage, that was validly formed in another jurisdiction, and that is substantially equivalent to a domestic partnership as defined under California law, will be recognized as a valid domestic partnership in California, regardless of whether it bears the name "domestic partnership" [Fam. Code § 299.2 (operative January 1, 2005)].

The Act required the Secretary of State, in 2004, to send a letter to all registered domestic partners, generally describing the changes made by the Act. The letter also was required to advise that registered domestic partners who do not wish to be subject to the new rights and responsibilities (such as the possible need to initiate judicial proceedings to terminate the partnership) must terminate their partnership before January 1, 2005 [Fam. Code § 299.3(a)] (letter to be sent on or before June 30, 2004; on or before December 1, 2004; and again on or before January 31, 2005)].

The discussion in this chapter describes the procedures applicable both before and after the operative date of the major changes made by the California Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act of 2003. The pre-January 1, 2005, requirements may be relevant for those domestic partners who registered their partnership prior to that date and have elected to have their partnership governed by an agreement enforceable in the same manner as a premarital agreement [see Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(2) (operative January 1, 2005); see also [4], below].

[c] Availability of Marriage for Same-Sex Couples

Until 2008, the only option available to a same-sex couple who sought to establish an officially recognized family relationship was to form a registered domestic partnership; they were barred by statute from marrying [see Fam. Code §§ 300 (defining "marriage" as personal relation between "a man and a woman"), 308.5 (enacted by Proposition 22, providing that "[o]nly marriage between a man and a woman is valid or recognized in California")]. In In re Marriage Cases, the California Supreme Court declared these statutes unconstitutional [In re Marriage Cases (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 757, 785, 855-857, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683, 183 P.3d 384]. That holding was superseded by the subsequent adoption of Proposition 8, which amended the California Constitution to provide that only marriage between a man and a woman is valid or recognized in California [see Cal. Const. art. I, § 7.5 (eff. Nov. 5, 2008)]. The Supreme Court upheld Proposition 8 against a constitutional challenge, but in doing so the Court reaffirmed the continuing validity of same-sex marriages entered into before November 5, 2008, the effective date of Proposition 8 [Strauss v. Horton (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 364, 470-474, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 207 P.3d 48 (estimating 18,000 same-sex marriages lawfully entered into before Proposition 8 took effect)]. Thus, although some pre-existing same-sex marriages remain valid, entering into a marriage on and after November 5 is no longer an option for a same-sex couple. The California Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act of 2003 remains in effect, however, and registering as domestic partners continues to be an option for same-sex couples who meet the requirements of the Act [see Fam. Code § 297; see also [2], below].

[2] Eligibility for State Registration and Definitions

Under the Family Code, two unmarried adults who "have chosen to share one another's lives in an intimate and committed relationship of mutual caring" may establish a domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 297(a)]. A domestic partnership is established by filing a Declaration of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State, if all of the following requirements are met [Fam. Code § 297(b)]:

- Both persons have a common residence.
- Neither person is married to someone else or is a member of another existing domestic partnership.

- The two persons are not related by blood in a way that would prevent them from being married to each other in California.
- Both persons are at least age 18.
- Either (1) both persons are members of the same sex; or (2) if the persons are of opposite sexes, at least one of them is over age 62 and qualifies for old-age benefits under Title II of the Social Security Act or benefits for aged individuals under Title XVI of the Social Security Act.
- Both persons are capable of consenting to the domestic partnership.

For this purpose, having a "common residence" means that both domestic partners share the same residence. It is not necessary that the legal right to possess the common residence be in both of their names. If one partner leaves the residence it is still a common residence so long as that person intends to return. Moreover, one or both domestic partners may have additional residences while having a common residence [Fam. Code § 297(c)].

In addition to the foregoing, through December 31, 2004, domestic partners must have agreed to be jointly responsible for each other's basic living expenses incurred during the domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 297(b)(2) (operative through December 31, 2004)]. "Joint responsibility" means that each partner agrees to provide for the other partner's basic living expenses if the partner is unable to provide for herself or himself [Fam. Code § 297(e) (operative through December 31, 2004)]. "Basic living expenses" means shelter, utilities, and all other costs directly related to the maintenance of the common household of the common residence of the domestic partners. It also means any other cost, such as medical care, if some or all of the cost is paid as a benefit because a person is another person's domestic partner [Fam. Code § 297(d) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Beginning January 1, 2005, the specific requirement that domestic partners agree to be responsible for each other's basic living expenses is repealed [Fam. Code § 297 (operative January 1, 2005); see Stats. 2003, ch. 421, § 3; see also § 110.51[1]]. Beginning at that time, domestic partners' mutual responsibilities, obligations, and duties will be the same as those imposed by law on spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(a) (operative January 1, 2005)], unless the domestic partners have registered their partnership before January 1, 2005, and have elected to have their partnership governed by an agreement enforceable in the same manner as a premarital agreement [see Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(2) (operative January 1, 2005); see also [4], below].

[2A] Election to Change Names

The Name Equality Act of 2007 [see 2007 Stats., ch. 567] allows persons entering into a domestic partnership to change their middle or last names by making an appropriate election in the Declaration of Domestic Partnership form, without the need to petition the superior court for a change of name [Fam. Code § 298.6; see Code Civ. Proc. § 1275 et seq. (superior court proceedings for change of name)]. The Act grants similar rights to persons entering into marriage, who may change their names by making an election on the forms for marriage licenses and marriage certificates [see Fam. Code § 306.5].

Parties to a registered domestic partnership are not required to have the same name, and neither party is required to change his or her name. A person's name does not change upon registration as a domestic partner unless that person elects to change his or her name as follows [Fam. Code § 298.6(a)].

If there is no intent to defraud, any party to a registered domestic partnership may elect to change the middle or last names by which he or she wishes to be known after registration of the domestic partnership by entering the new name in the space provided on the Declaration of Domestic Partnership form [Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(1); see [2], below; see also § 110.220]. The party may adopt any of the following middle or last names [Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(2)]:

- The current last name of the other domestic partner.
- The last name of either domestic partner given at birth.
- A name combining into a single last name all or a segment of the current last name or the last name of either domestic partner given at birth.
- A hyphenated combination of last names.

An election by a person to change his or her name on registration of a domestic partnership will serve as a record of the name change. A certified copy of the Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership containing the new name, or retaining the former name, constitutes proof that the use of the new name or retention of the former name is lawful [Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(3)(A)]. Thus, a certified copy of a Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership must be accepted as identification establishing a true, full name for purposes of obtaining a driver's license [Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(3)(B); see Veh. Code § 12800.7 (verification of name and address for purposes of issuance of driver's license); see also Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(3)(C) (true, full name for purposes of Veh. Code § 12800.7 may also be established by other documents, such as substantial equivalent of Certificate of Domestic Partnership issued by other state or by local jurisdiction)].

The adoption of a new name, or the choice not to adopt a new name, by means of a Declaration of Domestic Partnership does not abrogate either party's common-law right to change his or her name, to adopt a different name through usage at a future date, or to petition the superior court for a change of name [Fam. Code § 298.6(b)(4),(c); see Code Civ. Proc. § 1275 et seq. (superior court proceedings for change of name)].

No person engaged in a trade or business of any kind, or in the provision of a service of any kind, may refuse to do business with a person, or provide service to a person, regardless of the person's marital status, because he or she has chosen to use or regularly uses his or her birth name, former name, or name adopted on solemnization of marriage or registration of domestic partnership [Code Civ. Proc. § 1279.6(a)]. Similarly, no person engaged in a trade or business of any kind, or in the provision of a service of any kind, may impose, as a condition of doing business with a person, or as a condition of providing the service to a person, a requirement that the person, regardless of his or her marital status, use a name other than his or her birth name, former name, or name adopted upon solemnization of marriage or registration of domestic partnership, if the person has chosen to use or regularly uses that name [Code Civ. Proc. § 1279.6(b)].

[3] Registration with Secretary of State

To register a domestic partnership at the state level, persons who meet the eligibility requirements for registration [see Fam. Code § 297; see also [2], above)] must file a completed Declaration of Domestic Partnership form with the Secretary of State [Fam. Code § 298.5(a)]. The form is promulgated by the Secretary of State and is available from the Secretary of State's office and website (<http://www.ss.ca.gov>) and county clerk offices [Fam. Code § 298(a), (b)(1); see § 110.220].

The Declaration of Domestic Partnership must require each person who wants to become a domestic partner to (1) state that he or she meets the eligibility requirements at the time the form is signed; (2) provide a mailing address; (3) sign the form with a declaration that representations made in it are true, correct, and contain no material omissions of fact to the best of his or her knowledge and belief; and (4) have a notary public acknowledge his or her signature [Fam. Code § 298(c)]. Also, beginning January 1, 2008, the form must include an optional section for either party or both parties to indicate a change in name, and any person indicating a name change must provide his or date of birth [Fam. Code § 298(d); see Fam. Code § 298.6; see also [2A], above].

In addition to the foregoing, beginning on January 1, 2005, the Declaration of Domestic Partnership must also require each person to state that he or she consents to the jurisdiction of the superior courts of California for the purpose of a proceeding to obtain a judgment of dissolution or nullity of the domestic partnership or for legal separation of the partners in the domestic partnership, or for any other proceeding related to the partners' rights and obligations, even if one or both partners ceases to be a resident of, or to maintain a domicile in, California [Fam. Code § 298(c)(3) (operative January 1, 2005)].

Both partners must sign one completed Declaration of Domestic Partnership form, and the form must then be transmitted to the Secretary of State, with the appropriate filing fee, in accordance with the instructions provided on the form [Fam. Code § 298(b)(2), (c); see Fam. Code § 298(b)(3) (additional fee, earmarked to support training and grants to promote nonviolent relationships in lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender community, with fee not to be collected from persons of opposite sexes who are over age 62 and who qualify for registration pursuant to Fam. Code § 297(b)(5)(B) to obtain Social Security benefits)]. Intentionally filing a materially false Declaration of Domestic Partnership is punishable as a misdemeanor [Fam. Code § 298(c) (through December 31, 2004, "[v]iolations of this subdivision are punishable as a misdemeanor"; beginning January 1, 2005, "[f]iling an intentionally and materially false Declaration of Domestic Partnership shall be punishable as a misdemeanor")].

On accepting the Declaration, the Secretary of State will register it in a registry for domestic partnerships and will return a copy of the registered form to the domestic partners [Fam. Code § 298.5(b)]. For any Declaration filed on or after January 1, 2005, the Secretary of State will also issue a Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 298.5(b) (operative January 1, 2005)]. The Secretary of State will also provide the informational brochure that is distributed to applicants for marriage licenses [see Fam. Code § 358(a) (brochure to contain information about genetic defects and diseases, AIDS, and domestic violence)], unless the registered domestic partners are persons of opposite sexes who are over age 62 and who qualify for registration pursuant to Fam. Code § 297(b)(5)(B) to obtain Social Security benefits [Fam. Code §§ 298.5(b), 358(b)].

The filing of a Declaration of Domestic Partnership restricts the ability of the partners to enter a new domestic partnership or marriage. Through December 31, 2004, no person who has filed a Declaration of Domestic Partnership may file a new Declaration until at least six months after the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership [see Fam. Code § 299(b) (operative through December 31, 2004)] in connection with the termination of the most recent domestic partnership. This prohibition does not apply, however, if the previous domestic partnership ended because one of the partners died or married [Fam. Code § 298.5(c) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Beginning on January 1, 2005, no person who has filed a Declaration of Domestic Partnership may file a new Declaration or enter a civil marriage with someone other than the registered domestic partner unless the most recent domestic partnership has been terminated or a final judgment of dissolution or nullity of the most recent domestic partnership has been entered. This prohibition does not apply, however, if the previous domestic partnership ended because one of the partners died [Fam. Code § 298.5(c) (operative January 1, 2005)].

[4] Need for Agreement Between Partners

Through December 31, 2004, to establish a domestic partnership eligible for state registration, the parties were required to have an agreement to be jointly responsible for each other's "basic living expenses" incurred during the partnership [Fam. Code § 297(b), (d) (operative through December 31, 2004); see [2], above].

Beginning January 1, 2005, the specific requirement that domestic partners agree to be responsible for each other's basic living expenses is repealed [Fam. Code § 297 (operative January 1, 2005); see Stats. 2003, ch. 421, § 3; see also § 110.51[1]]. Beginning at that time, domestic partners' mutual responsibilities, obligations, and duties generally will be the same as those imposed by law on spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(a) (operative January 1, 2005)].

However, domestic partners who registered their partnership with the Secretary of State before January 1, 2005, may elect to have their partnership governed by an agreement complying with the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, provided that the agreement is fully executed and in force as of June 30, 2005 [Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(2) (operative January 1, 2005); see Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.]. For discussion of the requirements of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements. The Secretary of State is required to inform domestic partners registered before January 1, 2005, of their option to enter into such an agreement [Fam Code § 299.3(a) (Secretary of State to send letters to registered domestic partners)].

[5] Termination of Domestic Partnership On or Before December 31, 2004

[a] Acts Constituting Termination

Through December 31, 2004, the termination of a domestic partnership that had been established of record with the Secretary of State was complete on the happening of any of the following [see Fam. Code § 299(a) (operative through December 31, 2004)]:

- One partner giving, or sending to the other by certified mail, a written notice that he or she is terminating the partnership;
- The death of a partner;
- The marriage of a partner; or
- The cessation of the partners having a common residence.

[b] Notice to Secretary of State Required

On termination of a domestic partnership, at least one partner was required to file a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership (a form promulgated by the Secretary of State) with the office of the Secretary of State by certified mail [see § 110.221]. The date of receipt of the form by the Secretary of State is deemed the actual termination date of the domestic partnership, unless termination occurred because of one partner's marriage or death, in which case the date will be that listed on the termination form. The partner who filed the Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership was required to send a copy of the notice to the last known address of the other partner filed [see Fam. Code § 299(b) (operative through December 31, 2004)]. The mandatory Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership form is set forth in § 110.221[2].

[c] Notice to Third Parties Required

A former domestic partner who has given a copy of a Declaration of Domestic Partnership to any third party in order to qualify for any benefit or right must, within 60 days of termination of the partnership, give or send to that third party written notification of the termination at the third party's last known address. A third party who suffers a loss as a result of the failure by a domestic partner to send this notice is entitled to seek recovery from the partner who was obliged to send it for any actual resulting loss [see Fam. Code § 299(c) (operative through December 31, 2004)]. However, failure to notify a third party of the termination of a domestic partnership does not delay or prevent its termination [see Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative through December 31, 2004)]. For a form to notify a third party of the termination of a domestic partnership, see § 110.222[2].

[6] Termination of Domestic Partnership On or After January 1, 2005

[a] Dissolution Proceeding Usually Necessary

Beginning January 1, 2005, new procedures govern the termination of domestic partnerships [see Stats. 2003, ch. 421, §§ 7, 8, 14 (repealing and enacting Fam. Code § 299, operative January 1, 2005)]. Under the new procedures, a dissolution proceeding in court generally will be necessary to terminate a domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative January 1, 2005)].

The judicial dissolution of a domestic partnership, nullity of a domestic partnership, and legal separation of partners in a domestic partnership generally are subject to the same procedures that apply to the dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, and legal separation of spouses [Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative January 1, 2005) (superior courts have jurisdiction over all proceedings relating to dissolution or nullity of domestic partnerships, and legal separation of domestic partners); see Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.28]. Moreover, domestic partners in such proceedings generally have the same rights, protections, and benefits, and are subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties, that apply in the dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, and legal separation of spouses [Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative January 1, 2005)].

However, in accordance with the consent acknowledged by domestic partners in the Declaration of Domestic Partnership form, proceedings for dissolution, nullity, or legal separation of a domestic partnership registered in California may be filed in a California superior court even if neither domestic partner is a resident or domiciliary of California at the time the proceedings are filed [Fam. Code § 299(d) (operative January 1, 2005)].

Compliance with the requirements for the formation of a domestic partnership under the Domestic Partner Rights and Responsibilities Act is a prerequisite to pursuing a dissolution action under the Act. Thus, if the partners have not attempted to register with the Secretary of State [see [3], above], registering only with a municipality or not at all, they may not pursue a dissolution under the Act [Velez v. Smith (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 1154, 1162-1169, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 642 (no "putative registered domestic partner" protection for those who never attempted to register with Secretary of State)]. However, a person's reasonable, good-faith belief that his or her domestic partnership was validly registered with the Secretary of State entitles that person to the rights and responsibilities of a registered domestic partner, including the right to pursue dissolution under the Act, even if registration never actually took place [Ellis v. Arriaga (In re Domestic P'ship of Ellis) (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1000, 1006-1008, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 401 (partner with reasonable but mistaken belief that partnership was properly registered is entitled to protection as putative registered domestic partner, similar to putative spouse under Fam. Code § 2251(a))].

Under limited circumstances, a domestic partnership may be terminated without the need for a judicial proceeding, by filing a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State [Fam. Code § 299(a) (operative January 1, 2005)]. For discussion of termination without judicial proceedings, see [b], below.

[b] Termination Without Court Proceedings

[i] Eligibility for Nonjudicial Termination

Beginning January 1, 2005, a domestic partnership may be terminated by the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State, without the need for a judicial dissolution proceeding, if all of the following conditions exist at the time of the filing [Fam. Code § 299(a) (operative January 1, 2005)]:

- The Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership is signed by both domestic partners.
- There are no children of the relationship of the parties born before or after registration of the domestic partnership or adopted by the parties after registration of the domestic partnership, and neither of the domestic partners, to their knowledge, is pregnant.

- The domestic partnership is not more than five years in duration.
- Neither party has any interest in any real property, except the lease of a residence occupied by either party if (1) the lease does not include an option to purchase, and (2) the lease terminates within one year from the date of filing of the Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership.
- There are no unpaid obligations in excess of the amount permissible for a summary dissolution of marriage [see Fam. Code § 2400(a)(6), (b)] incurred by either or both of the parties after registration of the domestic partnership, excluding the amount of any unpaid obligation with respect to an automobile.
- The total fair market value of community property assets, excluding all encumbrances and automobiles, including any deferred compensation or retirement plan, is less than the amount permissible for a summary dissolution of marriage [see Fam. Code § 2400(a)(7), (b)], and neither party has separate property assets, excluding all encumbrances and automobiles, in excess of that amount.
- The parties have executed an agreement setting forth the division of assets and the assumption of liabilities of the community property, and they have executed any documents, title certificates, bills of sale, or other evidence of transfer necessary to effectuate that agreement.
- Each party waives any right to support by the other domestic partner.
- The parties have read and understand a brochure prepared by the Secretary of State describing the requirements, nature, and effect of terminating a domestic partnership.
- Both parties desire that the domestic partnership be terminated.

[ii] Effectiveness of Nonjudicial Termination

A domestic partnership terminated by the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State will be terminated effective six months after the date of filing, provided that neither party has, before that date, filed a notice of revocation of the termination of the domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 299(b) (operative January 1, 2005)]. A notice of revocation must be on a form prescribed by the Secretary of State, and it must be sent to the other party by first-class mail, postage prepaid, at the other party's last known address [Fam. Code § 299(b) (operative January 1, 2005); see § 110.223 (form)].

The termination of a domestic partnership by the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership has the same effect as, and will be treated for all purposes the same as, the entry of a judgment of dissolution of a domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 299(b) (operative January 1, 2005)].

[iii] Action to Set Aside Nonjudicial Termination

The termination of a domestic partnership by the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership does not prejudice or bar the rights of either party to institute an action in superior court to set aside the termination for fraud, duress, mistake, or any other ground recognized at law or in equity. A court may set aside the termination of domestic partnership and declare the termination of the domestic partnership null and void on proof that the parties did not meet the requirements for nonjudicial termination of the partnership at the time of the filing of the Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State [Fam. Code § 299(c) (operative January 1, 2005); see Fam. Code § 299(a) (operative January 1, 2005) (eligibility for nonjudicial termination); see also [i], above].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Domestic Partner Registration

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.51

§ 110.51 Legal Effects of Registered Domestic Partnership

[1] Joint Responsibility for Basic Living Expenses

Through December 31, 2004, as a result of establishing a domestic partnership that was eligible for state registration, the partners were jointly responsible, pursuant to their agreement, for each other's "basic living expenses," as defined by statute [Fam. Code § 297(b), (d) (operative through December 31, 2004); see § 110.50[2], [4]]. In addition, persons to whom these "basic living expenses" are owed may enforce this responsibility if, in extending credit or providing goods or services, they relied on the existence of the domestic partnership and the agreement of the partners to be jointly responsible for those specific expenses [see Fam. Code §§ 297(e), 299.5(a) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Beginning January 1, 2005, the specific requirement that domestic partners agree to be responsible for each other's basic living expenses is repealed [Fam. Code § 297 (operative January 1, 2005); see Stats. 2003, ch. 421, § 3]. Beginning at that time, domestic partners' mutual responsibilities, obligations, and duties will be the same as those imposed by law on spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(a) (operative January 1, 2005)], unless the domestic partners have registered their partnership before January 1, 2005, and have elected to have their partnership governed by an agreement enforceable in the same manner as a premarital agreement [see Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(2) (operative January 1, 2005); see also [4], above].

[2] Interest in Shared Property

Through December 31, 2004, any property or interest that the parties acquire during their partnership in which title is shared was held by them in "proportion of interest assigned to each partner at the time the property or interest was acquired unless expressly agreed in writing by both parties," and this principle governs any division of property on termination of the partnership [see Fam. Code § 299.5(e) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Beginning January 1, 2005, domestic partners' rights in property acquired during the partnership will be determined under the same rules that apply to spouses' rights in property acquired during marriage [Fam. Code § 297.5(a), (b) (operative January 1, 2005)].

[3] Hospital Visitation

Under current law, health facilities must allow "a patient's domestic partner, the children of the patient's domestic partner, and the domestic partner of the patient's parent or child" to visit the patient, unless [see Health & Safety Code § 1261]:

- Visitors are otherwise not allowed;
- Visits by a particular person would endanger the health or safety of the patient, the staff, or another visitor, or would significantly be disruptive to the facility; or
- The patient has expressed a preference that a particular person not visit.

Health facilities, moreover, retain the right to establish reasonable restrictions on visitation. "Domestic partner" for these purposes has the same meaning as that given in Fam. Code § 297 (see § 110.50[2]) [see Health & Safety Code § 1261].

[4] Application of Other Laws

Through December 31, 2004, state registration as a domestic partner was not evidence of, and does not establish, any rights existing under law other than as expressly provided to domestic partners in Fam. Code § 297 et seq. [see § 110.50], and any provision of law specifically referring to domestic partners. The existence of specific statutes concerning domestic partners did not diminish any right under any other provision of law [see Fam. Code § 299.5(a) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Through December 31, 2004, state registration did not of itself change the character of real or personal property or any interest in property owned by either partner or both of them before registering. State registration did not of itself create any interest in, or rights to, any real or personal property owned by one partner in the other partner, including, but not limited to, rights similar to community or quasi-community property [see Fam. Code § 299.5(c), (d) (operative through December 31, 2004)]. Moreover, the formation of a domestic partnership did not change the individual income or estate tax liability of each domestic partner before or during the partnership, unless otherwise provided by law [see Fam. Code § 299.5(f) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Beginning January 1, 2005, domestic partners registered with the Secretary of State generally have the same rights, protections, and benefits, and will be subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties, that apply to spouses [see Fam. Code § 297.5(a) (operative January 1, 2005); see Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(1) (operative January 1, 2005) (any statutory, regulatory, or other reference to date of marriage will be deemed to refer to date of registration of domestic partnership with the state)]. For example, registered domestic partners have the same rights regarding nondiscrimination as those provided to spouses [see Fam. Code § 297.5(f), (g) (operative January 1, 2005); see Koebeke v. Bernardo Heights Country Club (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 824, 837-850, 31 Cal. Rptr. 3d 565, 115 P.3d 1212 (business that extends benefits to spouses that it denies to registered domestic partners engages in marital-status discrimination proscribed by Unruh Civil Rights Act, Civ. Code § 51)]. Also, to the extent that provisions of California law adopt, refer to, or rely on, provisions of federal law in a way that otherwise would cause registered domestic partners to be treated differently than spouses, registered domestic partners generally will be treated by California law as if federal law recognized a domestic partnership in the same manner as California law [see Fam. Code § 297.5(e) (operative January 1, 2005)]. For example, California law permits registered domestic partners to file their state income tax returns jointly or separately on terms similar to those governing spouses [see Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 17024.5(h)(2)(B), 18521], even though federal law does not provide for the same treatment of registered domestic partners' federal tax returns [see, e.g., I.R.C. §§ 1(a), 7703].

[5] No Obligations Incurred after Termination

Through December 31, 2004, on termination of a registered domestic partnership, the partners, from that time forward, will incur none of the obligations to one another as domestic partners that are created in Fam. Code § 297 et seq. [see § 110.50] and any other provision of law specifically referring to domestic partners [see Fam. Code § 299.5(b) (operative through December 31, 2004)].

Beginning January 1, 2005, former registered domestic partners generally will have the same rights, protections, and benefits, and will be subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties, that apply to former spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(b) (operative January 1, 2005)], unless the domestic partners registered their partnership before January 1, 2004, and elected to have their partnership governed by an agreement enforceable in the same manner as a premarital agreement [see Fam. Code § 297.5(k)(2) (operative January 1, 2005); see also [4], above].

[6] Wrongful Death

Persons who have registered with the State of California as domestic partners have the statutory right to bring an action for damages for the wrongful death of the other partner [Code Civ. Proc. § 377.60(a), (f)]. The wrongful death action is purely statutory; and the statutes are strictly construed [see Kunakoff v. Woods (1958) 166 Cal. App. 2d 59, 62, 332 P.2d 773].

A person who is not entitled pursuant to statute to bring an action for wrongful death has no cause of action, regardless of how close he or she was to the decedent, or how much he or she depended on the decedent for support [Garcia v. Douglas Aircraft Co. (1982) 133 Cal. App. 3d 890, 893-895, 184 Cal. Rptr. 390 (action brought by decedent's fiancée; also holding that exclusion of nonmarital partners is not unconstitutional denial of equal protection)]. Thus, a nonmarital partner who does not qualify as a "domestic partner" under Fam. Code § 297--for example, because the partners did not formally register under Fam. Code § 298.5--does not have a cause of action for wrongful death [Armijo v. Miles (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 1405, 1414, 26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 623] . For a detailed discussion of bringing wrongful death actions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 181, Death and Survival Actions (Matthew Bender).

[7] Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress

Registered domestic partners may bring a cause of action for negligent infliction of emotional distress with respect to a domestic partner [Civ. Code § 1714.01]. For a detailed discussion of bringing such an action, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 362, Mental Suffering and Emotional Distress (Matthew Bender).

[8] Adoption and Parentage of Children

Registered domestic partners may be treated as a "stepparent" for purposes of filing a petition for adoption of a child of his or her domestic partner [Fam. Code § 9000(b), (g); see Fam. Code § 297.5(d) (operative January 1, 2005, rights of domestic partners with respect to child of either of them are same as rights of spouses)]. For a detailed discussion of petitioning for adoption as a stepparent, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 12B, Adoptions: Unmarried Minors (Matthew Bender).

In addition, under the Uniform Parentage Act [Fam. Code § 7600 et seq.] registered domestic partners may both be the presumed natural parents of a child born during their partnership. For example, the Supreme Court has held that a woman who agreed to raise children with her lesbian partner, supported her partner's artificial insemination using an anonymous donor, and received the resulting children into her home and held them out as her own was presumed to be the children's natural parent and had an obligation to support them [Elisa B. v. Superior Court (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 108, 119-125, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 46, 117 P.3d 660 ; see Fam. Code §§ 7611(d), 7650(a); see also Charisma R. v. Kristina S. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 301, 308, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 332 (whether biological mother opposes presumed-parent status for former lesbian partner should not affect determination of that status under Fam. Code §§ 7611(d), 7650(a) and Elisa B.

v. Superior Court)). In another case, a woman supplied ova to impregnate her lesbian partner in order to produce children who would be raised in their joint home (they were registered domestic partners). Since a child's two parents may both be women, and there was no possible third parent (the sperm donor was anonymous), the Supreme Court found that both partners were mothers of the resulting children--one because she provided the ova, and the other because she gave birth [K.M. v. E.G. (2005) 37 Cal. 4th 130, 142-143, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 61, 117 P.3d 673]. For detailed discussion of parentage determinations under the Uniform Parentage Act, see Ch. 100, Control, Custody, and Support of Minors .

[9] Administration of Estate and Intestate Succession

[a] Administration of Estate

When domestic partners have registered with the State of California [see § 110.50], the surviving domestic partner is given first priority in being appointed administrator of a decedent partner's estate if the decedent died intestate or did not name an executor in the will [Prob. Code §§ 8461, 8462; see Prob. Code § 37 (definitions of "domestic partner" and "surviving domestic partner"); see also Fam. Code § 297.5(c) (operative January 1, 2005, surviving registered domestic partner has same rights and duties as widow or widower)]. A nonmarital partner who is not a "domestic partner" as defined under Fam. Code § 297, unless related to his or her decedent partner and "entitled to succeed" to a portion of the decedent's estate as an heir, has no priority to administer the decedent partner's estate except under the eighteenth and last statutory category of "any other person" [Prob. Code §§ 8461, 8462]. For related discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 442, Probate: Initiating Probate Administration (Matthew Bender).

[b] Intestate Succession

Operative July 1, 2003, if a registered domestic partner dies without a will, trust, or other estate plan, his or her surviving domestic partner [see Prob. Code § 37] will succeed to the deceased partner's separate property in the same manner as a surviving spouse [Prob. Code § 6401; cf. Prob. Code § 6402 (operative July 1, 2003, providing for passage of intestate estate when there is no surviving spouse or domestic partner)]. For related discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 458D, Probate: Accounts, Final Distribution, and Compensation (Matthew Bender).

The California Secretary of State was required to inform all currently registered domestic partners of the intestacy provisions by letter (on or before March 1, 2003), and immediately provide a notice concerning those provisions with all requests for a declaration of domestic partnership form [Stats. 2003, ch. 421, § 13; Stats. 2002, ch. 447, § 3; see 110.220[2] (declaration form)].

[10] Health Benefits, Conservatorship, Tax Treatment, and Other Effects

The rights and obligations of persons who have registered with the State of California as domestic partners are additionally affected in the following areas:

- Continued health coverage for a domestic partner and his or her child under the Public Employees' Medical and Hospital Care Act, on the death of the employee or annuitant [see Gov. Code § 22871.2].
- The same right as a spouse to make health care decisions on behalf of an incapacitated domestic partner under certain circumstances [see Prob. Code § 4716; for discussion, see Ch. 104, Health Care Transactions, Consents, and Directives].
- Coverage under group health care service plans [see Health & Safety Code § 1374.58].
- Use of sick leave to attend to an ill domestic partner [see Lab. Code § 233; for related discussion, see Ch. 85, Employment Agreements].

- Conservatorship and guardianship [see Prob. Code § 1811, et seq.; for related discussion, see Ch. 66, Guardianships , and Ch. 66A, Conservatorships].
- Unemployment benefits that otherwise might be lost in following a domestic partner to a new location [see Unemp. Ins. Code §§ 1030, 1032, 1256, 2705.1].
- Claims for disability benefits on behalf of a domestic partner who is mentally unable to make the claim for benefits [see Unemp. Ins. Code § 2705.1].
- Revocation of a disposition of property made in a will to a former domestic partner on termination of a domestic partnership [see Prob. Code § 6122.1; for related discussion, see Ch. 61, Will Drafting and Complete Will Forms , and Ch. 63, Will Provisions].
- State tax benefits relating to an exclusion from gross income for certain amounts expended for medical care and employer-provided coverage under an accident or health plan, and with respect to a deduction for certain health-insurance costs of self-employed individuals, and regarding some group health plans [see Rev. & Tax. Code § 17021.7].
- The same property-tax treatment of transfers between domestic partners that applies to transfers between spouses [Rev. & Tax. Code §§ 62(p) (transfer between registered domestic partners is not change of ownership that triggers reassessment of value for purposes of property tax), 63 (transfer between spouses is not change of ownership that triggers reassessment of value for purposes of property tax); 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.240(k) (transfer between registered domestic partners by intestate succession is not change of ownership that triggers reassessment of value for purposes of property tax); see Cal. Const. art. XIII A, § 2; see also Strong v. State Bd. of Equalization (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1182, 1190-1195, 66 Cal. Rptr. 3d 657 (upholding constitutionality of 18 Cal. Code Reg. § 462.240(k))].

§ 110.52 State Preemption of Local Domestic Partnership Laws

The provisions for state registration of domestic partners [see § 110.50] preempt any local ordinance regarding domestic partnership, on and after July 1, 2000. Any domestic partnership previously established under local ordinance remains valid, but since that date, such a partnership is governed by state law, provided that state registration occurs [see Fam. Code § 299.6(a), (b)].

Despite state preemption, however, local jurisdictions are expressly permitted to retain or adopt ordinances, policies, or laws that offer rights within that jurisdiction to domestic partners or that impose duties on third parties regarding domestic partners, as defined by Fam. Code § 297 et seq. or as more broadly defined by the local jurisdiction, that are in addition to those provided under state law. Those local rights may be conditioned on the partners' agreement to assume the additional obligations set forth in Fam. Code § 297 et seq. [see Fam. Code § 299.6(c)].

PART IV. FORMS
A. Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.200

§ 110.200 Agreement to Share Residence, Earnings, and Accumulated Property--With Support Provisions

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is an agreement by which two persons agree to cohabit without marriage and to share equally the property accumulated through their labor. It is designed for use by two persons who desire to establish and maintain a nonmarital cohabitation relationship in which one person financially supports the relationship and the other renders various homemaking services. Exhibits listing any assets currently owned and obligations currently owed by each party should be attached to the agreement [see Paragraph 3].

The form generally provides that the parties will jointly own any property acquired during the relationship [see Paragraph 4]. The form also contains an optional paragraph for use if one of the parties already owns a residence and the parties agree that any increase in value occurring during the relationship is to be shared [see Paragraph 5].

The form also contains an acknowledgment of the signatures of the parties by a notary public [see Civ. Code §§ 1181, 1189].

Related forms for agreements between two unmarried persons who either are both gainfully employed and intend to share jointly accumulated property or are both gainfully employed and intend to share only household and related expenses are set forth in §§ 110.201, 110.202. For alternative and additional provisions that may be appropriate for use in this form, see Chapters 111, 112, and 120- 125.

Counsel should consider the tax consequences to the parties in drafting a cohabitation agreement. Provisions for the payment of support and pooling of income and other property by the parties create the potential for certain adverse tax consequences, as discussed in § 110.12[1]. Accordingly, the benefits to the parties in utilizing the agreement presented in the form below must be evaluated in light of these consequences in determining whether it is appropriate to use the form in a particular case.

[b] Provisions for Support of Party

This form contains two alternative support provisions providing for the financial support of one party to the nonmarital relationship. One provision requires that the gainfully employed party support the other party after the relationship ends [see Paragraph 2, first alternative]. This provision protects a party who has, perhaps, foregone educational and career opportunities for the sake of the nonmarital relationship and who depends on the earnings of the other party to the relationship.

The second alternative provision also provides that the gainfully employed party is to provide the other party with support; however, the obligation to provide support is to continue only so long as the nonmarital relationship continues. The provision also provides that the parties disclaim any right to support after the relationship ends [see Paragraph 2, second alternative].

 PART IV. FORMS
 A. Nonmarital Cohabitation Agreements

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.203

§ 110.203 Agreement for Joint Purchase of Residence[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is an agreement between two unmarried individuals for the joint purchase of a residence. It may be used by parties who will contribute equally or unequally toward the down payment, mortgage, and incidental costs. If the parties want to make their joint purchase of a residence part of a comprehensive cohabitation agreement, this form can be incorporated into the forms set forth in §§ 110.200 and 110.201.

This form provides that in the event the parties separate, one party may buy the other party's interests on terms to be agreed on [see Paragraph 6(a)]. If neither party wishes to buy out the other party, or if the parties are unable to agree on the terms of sale, the agreement provides for the property to be sold and the proceeds distributed between the parties as specified in the agreement [see Paragraph 6(b)]. For an alternative provision for use if the parties have minor children, see § 110.204.

Unmarried cohabiting individuals who make a joint purchase of real property may hold that property as joint tenants, tenants in common, or partners [see Civ. Code § 682]. For further discussion of joint ownership of property by unmarried cohabitants, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Chapter 1.

B. Domestic Partner Registration and Related Forms

33-110 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 110.220

§ 110.220 Declaration of Domestic Partnership (Form DP-1)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory form for statewide registration of a domestic partnership in California: a Declaration of Domestic Partnership (Form DP-1). This form is promulgated by the California Secretary of State, and may be obtained from that office (including via the Secretary of State's website, at <http://www.ss.ca.gov>), or from county clerk offices [see Fam. Code § 298; see also § 110.50].

The form recites that each partner meets the statutory requirements for statewide registration of a domestic partnership [Fam. Code § 297]. It provides spaces for the partners to set forth their common residence address, and a mailing address. It must be signed by each partner before a notary public. Although the form does not contain a declaration under penalty of perjury, it does contain a preprinted declaration that the "representations are true, correct, and contain no material omissions of fact to our best knowledge and belief" [see Fam. Code § 298(c)].

The completed form must be mailed to the office of the California Secretary of State at the address listed on the form. The form should be accompanied by the filing fee indicated on the form. In addition, unless the form is submitted by persons of opposite sexes who are over age 62 and who qualify for registration pursuant to Fam. Code § 297(b)(5)(B) to obtain Social Security benefits, an additional $23 fee must accompany the form. This additional fee is earmarked to support training and grants to promote nonviolent relationships in the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender community [Fam. Code § 298(b)(3)]. It is recommended that the form and fees be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, although certified mail is not required for registration.

Beginning January 1, 2005, the statutory requirements for registration reflected in this form will no longer include a requirement that domestic partners agree to be responsible for each other's basic living expenses [Fam. Code § 297 (operative January 1, 2005); see Stats. 2003, ch. 421, § 3; see also § 110.51[1]]. Beginning at that time, domestic partners' mutual responsibilities, obligations, and duties will be the same as those imposed by law on spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(a) (operative January 1, 2005)]. For discussion of the eligibility criteria for unmarried couples to register as domestic partners, see § 110.50. For discussion of the legal effects of registration, see § 110.51.

Beginning January 1, 2008, this form is required to include an optional section for either party or both parties to indicate a change in name, and any person indicating a name change will be required to provide his or date of birth [Fam. Code § 298(d); see Fam. Code § 298.6; see also § 110.50[2A]].

[b] Return of Registration Form

On accepting the Declaration, the Secretary of State will register it in a registry for domestic partnerships and will return a copy of the registered form to the domestic partners [Fam. Code § 298.5(b)]. For any Declaration filed on or after January 1, 2005, the Secretary of State will also issue a Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership [Fam. Code § 298.5(b) (operative January 1, 2005); see § 110.50[3]]. The Secretary of State will also provide the informational brochure that is distributed to applicants for marriage licenses [see Fam. Code § 358(a) (brochure to contain information about genetic defects and diseases, AIDS, domestic violence, and options for name changes)], unless the registered domestic partners are persons of opposite sexes who are over age 62 and who qualify for registration pursuant to Fam. Code § 297(b)(5)(B) to obtain Social Security benefits [Fam. Code §§ 298.5(b), 358(b)].

[c] Registration Violation Is Misdemeanor Offense

Intentionally filing a materially false Declaration of Domestic Partnership is punishable as a misdemeanor [Fam. Code § 298(c) (through December 31, 2004, "[v]iolations of this subdivision are punishable as a misdemeanor"; beginning January 1, 2005, "[f]iling an intentionally and materially false Declaration of Domestic Partnership shall be punishable as a misdemeanor"); see § 110.50[3]].

§ 110.221 Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership--Official Form (Form DP-2)

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form in [2], below, is an illustrative reproduction of the mandatory Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership (Form DP-2), for use in notifying the California Secretary of State of the termination of a domestic partnership that has been registered in California [see Fam. Code § 299; see also § 110.50[5]]. The form, which is available through county clerk offices and the Secretary of State (including via the Secretary of State's website, at <http://www.ss.ca.gov>), may be completed by either of the former domestic partners, and must be signed by a notary public.

Beginning on January 1, 2005, a registered domestic partnership may be terminated by the filing of a Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State, without the need for a dissolution proceeding, only under limited circumstances [Fam. Code § 299(a)]. For discussion of the circumstances under which a registered domestic partnership may be terminated without judicial proceedings, see § 110.50[6][b].

For a form that may be used to revoke the Notice of Termination, see § 110.223.

[b] Cessation of Further Obligations

If a registered domestic partnership was terminated before January 1, 2005, the partners no longer incur the mutual obligations created in Fam. Code § 297 et seq. and any other relevant provision of law [see Fam. Code § 299.5(b)] (operative through December 31, 2004); see also § 110.50[5], § 110.51[5]].

Beginning January 1, 2005, former registered domestic partners generally will have the same rights, protections, and benefits, and will be subject to the same responsibilities, obligations, and duties, that apply to former spouses [Fam. Code § 297.5(b)] (operative January 1, 2005)].

Code § 299(c)* (operative through December 31, 2004)]. Although not required by statute, it is recommended that the signature of the notifying party be notarized and that the form be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. The form in [2], below, is an illustrative reproduction of the Revocation of Termination of Domestic Partnership (Form DP-3), for mandatory use in revoking a previously filed Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership [see Fam. Code § 299(b); see also § 110.221]. The form is available through county clerk offices and the Secretary of State (including via the Secretary of State's website, at <http://www.ss.ca.gov>).

Ordinarily, a registered domestic partnership will be terminated six months after the date of filing of the Notice of Termination of Domestic Partnership with the Secretary of State [Fam. Code § 299(b)]. However, either party may, before that date, file with the Secretary of State a notice of revocation of the termination [Fam. Code § 299(b)]. The partner revoking the termination must also send the other party a copy of the notice of revocation by first-class mail, postage prepaid, at the other party's last known address [*Fam. Scope

Scope

This chapter discusses agreements that are entered into between unmarried persons in contemplation of marriage, and presents forms of agreement by which they may delineate their rights to property and other matters. The Legal Background sets forth the major considerations that must be taken into account in drafting an enforceable premarital agreement under current law (the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act) and contains a general checklist of provisions. Forms include complete forms of agreement that cover property rights and personal relations, along with an extensive compilation of optional provisions that may be included in a premarital agreement.

For forms of agreement concerning property and other matters that may be used by unmarried cohabitants who have no intention of marrying, see Chapter 110. For forms of agreement entered into after marriage by spouses who are not engaged in litigation to terminate their marriage, see Chapter 112. Agreements made on termination of marriage are discussed in Chapters 120- 125.

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.10

§ 111.10 Use of Term "Premarital Agreement"

Agreements made in contemplation of marriage between intended spouses and between intended spouses and third parties have been variously described as "marriage settlements," "marriage contracts," "premarital contracts," "premarital agreements," and "antenuptial agreements." These terms are similar in meaning, but differ to some extent according to origin, customary use, and scope of potential application [see generally Fam. Code §§ 1500 et seq. (general provisions), 1600 et seq. (referring to "premarital agreements," and constituting the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, governing premarital agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986); former Civ. Code § 5133 et seq. (using term "marriage settlement" and governing formalities of premarital agreements made before January 1, 1986, per Fam. Code § 1503); see also Prob. Code §§ 140 et seq. (applicable to waivers, agreements, or property settlements made on or after January 1, 1985), 6560 et seq. (applicable for testators dying on or after January 1, 1985); former Prob. Code §§ 70, 220 (applicable for testators dying before January 1, 1985)].

This chapter uses the term "premarital agreement" because of its consistency with the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.] and related general provisions [see Fam. Code § 1500 et seq.]. As defined under the Act, a "premarital agreement" is an agreement between prospective spouses that is made in contemplation of marriage and to be effective on marriage [Fam. Code § 1610(a)]; see Fam. Code § 1613 (premarital agreement becomes effective on marriage)].

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.11

§ 111.11 Controlling Law

The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act (the Act) [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.] governs premarital agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code §§ 1600, 1601]. In addition, the provisions of Family Code Sections 1500-1503 generally govern marital property agreements and premarital agreements [Fam. Code § 1503]. The Act is to be applied and construed to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law governing the subject matter it addresses among the states enacting it [see Fam. Code § 3; former Civ. Code § 5301; see also Stats. 1985, ch. 1315, § 4 (governing severability of any provisions of Uniform Premarital Agreement Act that might ever be found invalid)].

Former case and statutory law [see former Civ. Code § 5133 et seq.] still govern premarital agreements executed before January 1, 1986 [see Fam. Code §§ 1503, 1601], and are currently relevant primarily in the context of enforcing those agreements.

Individual provisions of the Act are discussed throughout this Part in the context of the requirements for making an enforceable agreement.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Premarital Agreements

§ 111.12 Summary of Requirements for Enforceable Agreements

In general, to be valid and enforceable, a premarital agreement executed on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code § 1601], must meet all of the following requirements [see Fam. Code §§ 1611, 1612, 1615]:

- (1) Be written;
- (2) Be signed by both parties;
- (3) Be voluntarily entered into and not otherwise unconscionable or made without required disclosures of property and financial obligations; and
- (4) Have a lawful object, which may include any of the following matters [Fam. Code § 1612(a)]:
 - (a) The rights and obligations of each of the parties in any of the property of either or both of them, whenever and wherever acquired or located;
 - (b) The right to buy, sell, use, transfer, exchange, abandon, lease, consume, expend, assign, create a security interest in, mortgage, encumber, dispose of, or otherwise manage and control property;
 - (c) The disposition of property on separation, marital dissolution, death, or the occurrence or nonoccurrence of any other event;
 - (d) The making of a will, trust, or other arrangement to carry out provision of the agreement;
 - (e) The ownership rights in and disposition of the death benefit from a life insurance policy;

(f) The choice of law governing the construction of the agreement; and

(g) Any other matter, including the parties' personal rights and obligations, not violating public policy or a statute imposing a criminal penalty.

The parties may not may not adversely affect the right of a child to support in their premarital agreement [Fam. Code § 1612(b)].

The California Supreme Court has recognized the right of parties to provide for a waiver of spousal support following a termination of marriage in a premarital agreement, as discussed in § 111.32[1][a] [In re Marriage of Pendleton & Fireman (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 39, 49, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 5 P.3d 839] . However, any provision in a premarital agreement regarding spousal support, including a waiver, is not enforceable if the party against whom enforcement of the spousal support provision is sought was not represented by independent counsel at the time the agreement was signed, or if the provision is unconscionable at the time of enforcement. An otherwise unenforceable provision regarding spousal support may not become enforceable solely because the party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent counsel [Fam. Code § 1612(c)].

For further discussion of formal requirements for a premarital agreement, see §§ 111.20-111.22. For discussion of permissible matter in a premarital agreement related to property rights and support of the parties, see §§ 111.30-111.35. For discussion of issues related to children, as well as other personal rights, see §§ 111.50-111.52.

Even if it does not meet all of the requirements described above for an enforceable premarital agreement, a written agreement made before marriage may be an effective waiver of a surviving spouse's inheritance rights if it meets the requirements of the Probate Code for such waivers [Estate of Will (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 902, 907-908, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 502 ; see Prob. Code §§ 140 et seq., 21611(c)]. For a full discussion of spouses' waiver of inheritance rights, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 25, Succession to Marital Property (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Premarital Agreements

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.14

§ 111.14 Enforcement Issues

[1] Date of Execution Determines Applicable Law

Because the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act expressly applies only with respect to premarital agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986, and does not affect the validity of such agreements executed before that date, the date of execution becomes of prime importance in determining the law applicable to the agreement for enforcement purposes [see Fam. Code §§ 1503 (validity and effect of agreements made before Jan. 1, 1986, remains governed by former law), 1601 (current law applies to premarital agreement executed on or after Jan. 1, 1986)]. Although there are many similarities between current and former law with respect to the making of an enforceable premarital agreement, there are differences that must be kept in mind [compare Estate of Wamack (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 112, 115, 289 P.2d 871 (under prior law, consideration for agreement was required, but promise of marriage subsequently carried out was sufficient consideration), with Fam. Code § 1611 (under current law, premarital agreement is enforceable without consideration)]. These differences are pointed out in the context of the formal requirements for an enforceable agreement, as discussed in §§ 111.20-111.22.

[2] Enforcement Proceedings and Statute of Limitations

[a] Determining Agreement's Validity in Dissolution Proceedings

If the validity of a premarital agreement is at issue in a dissolution proceeding, counsel may move to bifurcate or sever the issue of validity of the agreement and have the validity issue adjudicated first [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1048(b); Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 5.175; see, e.g., In re Marriage of Iverson (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1495, 1497, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70; In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 681, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485]. Once a determination of the validity of the agreement has been made, the determination of other property issues may be simplified. The burden of proof that a premarital agreement is invalid is on the party who asserts its invalidity [see In re Marriage of Iverson (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1495, 1502, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 70 (citing, in part, Evid. Code § 500)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Whether to seek bifurcation of the validity issue when the enforceability of a premarital agreement is being challenged, is not always as simple a decision as it seems. For tactical reasons, one or both counsel may sometimes prefer to leave the validity issue to be determined along with all other issues of property and support, hoping that considerations of equity may bootstrap one or the other items by having them tried concurrently. On the other hand, the court often favors a bifurcation, not only because it can simplify the evidence and decisions to follow, but also because it might assist in promoting settlement once the parties know clearly where they stand on the matter of the premarital agreement. Commentary by Ira H. Lurvey

For further discussion of bifurcation of the trial of various issues in a dissolution proceeding, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Chapter 111, Pretrial Procedures. For discussion of the tolling of the statute of limitations during marriage concerning claims for relief under a premarital agreement, see [c] [ii], below.

[b] Civil Proceedings in General

Parties may bring a general civil action to enforce the terms of a premarital agreement, though such actions are not common. With regard to obtaining damages, few reported cases have concerned actions to recover damages for alleged breaches of premarital agreements. Usually, the plaintiff in actions on such an agreement has sought either restitution of property conveyed under the agreement, restoration of rights waived under it, or specific performance of duties imposed on the other party by the agreement, such as the duty to convey title to property [cf. Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 587-588, 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 588, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 (terms of oral agreement were sufficiently certain to allow specific performance; and enforcement of agreement was not inequitable to contesting party)]. However, the Supreme Court has held that when a covenant in a premarital agreement is breached, the aggrieved person has the right to recover damages for the breach [Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 776, 145 P. 504 ; cf. O'Brien v. O'Brien (1925) 197 Cal. 577, 588-589, 241 P. 861 (measure of damages in action by surviving spouse as survivor against representative of deceased spouse's estate is value of property agreed to be devised or bequeathed)]. For discussion of the statute of limitations in actions based on breach of contract, specific performance, and rescission, see [c], below.

[c] Statute of Limitations

[i] Tolling of Statute of Limitations During Marriage

Under current law, any statute of limitation applicable to an action asserting a claim for relief under a premarital agreement is tolled during the marriage of the parties to the agreement. Equitable defenses limiting the time for enforcement, however, including laches and estoppel, are available to either party [Fam. Code § 1617].

PRACTICE TIP:

Because a challenge to the validity of a premarital agreement usually occurs concurrently with a marital dissolution, so that the alleged breach and enforcement occur at about the same time, the issue of limitations as a bar to attack does not usually arise. However, in a long term marriage, an issue worth raising is whether the doctrine of laches can be invoked on behalf of the spouse defending the agreement. He or she can argue that, but for the apparent acceptance of the agreement by the other spouse throughout the years of marriage, the defending spouse would have terminated the relationship long ago. Commentary by Ira H. Lurvey

[ii] Action for Breach of Contract

An action for breach of a written premarital agreement must be brought within four years of the time that the cause of action accrues [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 337]. If the agreement is not in writing, but the aggrieved party can prove an exception to the statute of frauds so the suit is not barred on that ground [see [3], below], the action for breach must be commenced within two years of the time that the cause of action accrues [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 339]. For discussion of tolling provisions during marriage under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, see [i], above [Fam. Code § 1617].

[iii] Action for Specific Performance

An action for specific performance of a written premarital agreement must be commenced within four years of the time that the cause of action accrues. If the premarital agreement is oral, but the plaintiff can prove some exception to the statute of frauds so that the suit is not barred on that ground [see [3], below], the action for specific performance of the oral agreement must be begun within two years of the accrual of the cause of action [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 312, 339]. For discussion of tolling provisions during marriage under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, see [i], above [Fam. Code § 1617].

[iv] Action Based on Rescission

An action based on the rescission of an agreement in writing must be begun within four years from the date on which the facts that entitle the aggrieved party to rescind occurred [Code Civ. Proc. § 337]. An action based on the rescission of an agreement not in writing must be begun within two years [Code Civ. Proc. § 339]. When the ground for rescission is fraud or mistake, however, the time does not begin to run until the aggrieved party discovers the facts constituting fraud or mistake [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 337, 339].

Laches, in some cases, may bar an action for rescission before the statute of limitations has run when the aggrieved party's delay in seeking rescission is substantially prejudicial to the other party [see Civ. Code § 1693]. For discussion of tolling provisions during marriage under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, see [i], above [Fam. Code § 1617].

[3] Statute of Frauds (Writing Requirement)

[a] Effect of Failure to Reduce Premarital Agreement to Writing

A premarital agreement is required to be in written form [see Fam. Code § 1611]. In general, an oral premarital agreement is invalid for violation of the writing requirement, loosely referred to as the "statute of frauds," unless the party seeking to enforce the agreement can establish one of the exceptions to the statute of frauds summarized in [b], below.

However, as is true of other agreements in violation of the statute of frauds, an oral premarital agreement is not invalid in the sense that it is void, but instead merely is voidable. The statute of frauds relates to remedy only, and does not otherwise affect the validity of the oral agreement. Such an agreement, if otherwise valid, remains so, and the sole effect of the statute is to render the agreement unenforceable by one party against the other who abandons or repudiates it [O'Brien v. O'Brien (1925) 197 Cal. 577, 586, 241 P. 861].

The nature of the statute of frauds applicable to premarital agreements is in marked contrast to the specific statutory requirement of a writing for postnuptial transmutation agreements (changing the characterization of property as separate or community property). A postnuptial transmutation agreement is not valid unless a written declaration expressly changing the character of the property is made, joined in, consented to, or accepted by the spouse whose interest in the property is adversely affected [Fam. Code § 852(a); In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 267-268, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911; In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1095-1096, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886 (escrow instruction that proceeds of sale of residence "be split 50/50" does not transmute proceeds from community to separate property, because it does not include express declaration that character of property is being changed)]. This requirement is more than an evidentiary standard; it is an essential element of any postnuptial transmutation, and it is not subject to implied exceptions that may apply in the context of the statute of frauds that governs premarital agreements [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-482, 116 P.3d 1152 ("[W]e see no evidence the Legislature intended to incorporate traditional exceptions to the statute of frauds into [Fam. Code § 852, governing interspousal transmutation agreements]. Indeed, the Commission Comment ... supports the opposite proposition ... [P]remarital contracts are not construed and enforced under the same standards as interspousal agreements." [emphasis in original]]. For detailed coverage of postnuptial transmutation agreements, see Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements .

[b] Circumstances Rendering Oral Premarital Agreement Enforceable

Prior to the enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, which applies with respect to agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code §§ 1503, 1601], a substantial body of law developed concerning circumstances that would permit enforcement of an oral premarital agreement by "taking the case out" of the statute of frauds. Although the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act does not expressly refer to traditional statute of frauds exceptions to the writing requirement it imposes, one court has held that the act is a statute of frauds and the exceptions to the statute recognized under the former law are equally applicable to the new act [Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 585, 587, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 ; cf. In re Marriage of Shaban (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 398, 406-408, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 863 (parol evidence cannot be used to provide material terms omitted in written agreement)]. Thus, it appears that the following circumstances may take an oral premarital agreement out the statute of frauds and render the agreement enforceable, regardless of when the agreement was executed [see generally Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 585, 587, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 (scope of statute of frauds exceptions applicable under Uniform Premarital Agreement Act)]:

(1) The subsequent execution of a written memorandum of the essential terms of the agreement, signed by the party to be charged [see Civ. Code § 1624; Ayoob v. Ayoob (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 236, 242-243, 168 P.2d 462] ;

(2) The complete execution of the agreement on both sides [Realty Corp. of Am., Inc. v. Burton (1958) 162 Cal. App. 2d 44, 57, 327 P.2d 948 ; see Civ. Code § 1661; see also In re Marriage of Garrity & Bishton (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 675, 685, 226 Cal. Rptr. 485 ; Estate of Breschini (1953) 120 Cal. App. 2d 154, 156, 260 P.2d 804 ; La Liberty v. La Liberty (1932) 127 Cal. App. 669, 670, 16 P.2d 681] , except if the transfer of property after marriage under an oral premarital agreement works a fraud on an existing creditor [Sudbrock v. Kroener (1934) 136 Cal. App. 624, 631-632, 29 P.2d 435 ; cf. McKnight v. Faber (1986) 185 Cal. App. 3d 639, 645-646, 230 Cal. Rptr. 57 (action to set aside transfer made under terms of marital termination agreement; disapproved on another point in Silberg v. Anderson (1990) 50 Cal. 3d 205, 212, 266 Cal. Rptr. 638, 786 P.2d 365)];

(3) Confirmation or affirmation of the terms of the agreement by words or conduct of the parties after the marriage [see, e.g., Estate of Piatt (1947) 81 Cal. App. 2d 348, 351, 183 P.2d 919 ; see In re Marriage of Vanderbeek (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 224, 230, 222 Cal. Rptr. 832 (agreement to "share and share alike" all property, including husband's stock and stock options acquired before marriage); Woods v. Security-First Nat'l Bank (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 697, 701-702, 299 P.2d 657] ;

(4) The complete execution of one party's obligations [see Martin v. Pritchard (1921) 52 Cal. App. 720, 724, 199 P. 846 ; see also Braden v. Braden (1960) 178 Cal. App. 2d 481, 485, 3 Cal. Rptr. 120] ; or

(5) Partial performance of the agreement by the party seeking to enforce it [see Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 585-587, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 (wife's premarital acts of quitting work and applying for early Social Security along with her gift after marriage of promised funds were partial performance of oral agreement for life estate in husband's residence); see also O'Brien v. O'Brien (1925) 197 Cal. 577, 586-587, 241 P. 861 ; Stevenson v. Pantaleone (1933) 131 Cal. App. 401, 405-408, 21 P.2d 703 ; Hughes v. Hughes (1920) 49 Cal. App. 206, 210, 193 P. 144 ; Trout v. Ogilvie (1919) 41 Cal. App. 167, 171-173, 182 P. 333] .

[c] Estoppel to Assert Statute of Frauds

[i] Fraud Preventing Reduction of Agreement to Writing

When a promisor by some fraud or deceit prevents an oral premarital agreement from being reduced to writing, thereby inducing an irretrievable change of position on the part of the promisee, the party committing the fraud may be estopped from asserting the statute of frauds as a defense to an action on the oral agreement [see Peek v. Peek (1888) 77 Cal. 106, 110, 19 P. 227] .

The California Supreme Court has explained that although actual fraud in inducing a prospective spouse to enter into a marriage may be such as to estop the guilty party from asserting the statute of frauds as a defense to an action on an oral premarital agreement, the fraud must be more than mere omission to put the agreement into writing before the marriage and failure to perform it thereafter. Instead, the plaintiff spouse clearly must have been induced through deceit, false statement, or concealment of the defendant to waive a written agreement and rely on promises in parol before entering into the marriage relation [see Peek v. Peek (1888) 77 Cal. 106, 110, 19 P. 227] .

[ii] Unconscionable Injury or Unjust Enrichment

The California Supreme Court has suggested indirectly that a party may be estopped from asserting the statute of frauds to prevent the enforcement of an oral premarital agreement if the promisee would suffer unconscionable injury or the promisor would be unjustly enriched if the oral agreement were not enforced [see Estate of Baglione (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 192, 197-198, 53 Cal. Rptr. 139, 417 P.2d 683] . The mere act of entering into a marriage is not considered a change of position that can amount to unconscionable injury [see generally Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 586, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 ; see, e.g., Hughes v. Hughes (1920) 49 Cal. App. 206, 214, 193 P. 144] . Other significant changes of position in reliance on an oral premarital agreement, however, might prove sufficient detriment to the promisee or benefit to the promisor to estop the promisor from asserting the statute of frauds as a defense to enforcement of the agreement [see, e.g., Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 586-587, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 (contemplating marriage and pursuant to oral agreement, woman quit her job and applied for early payment of Social Security benefits, then moved in with fiancée and, on marriage, financed a trip and provided other funds aggregating some $10,000, pursuant to agreement); see also Estate of Sheldon (1977) 75 Cal. App. 3d 364, 374, 142 Cal. Rptr. 119] .

[4] Effect of Void Marriage

Under current law, if a marriage is determined to be void, an agreement that otherwise would have been a premarital agreement is enforceable only to the extent necessary to avoid an inequitable result [Fam. Code § 1616].

[5] Object of Agreement and Potential Remedy Problems

A premarital agreement must have a lawful object in order for its provisions to be valid [see generally Fam. Code § 1612]. Enforcement of the agreement may be denied if one or more of its provisions violates public policy or a statute that imposes a criminal penalty, or adversely affects the right of a child to support. While some provisions of an agreement that are invalid may not cause the entire agreement to fail, a court may invalidate an entire agreement if the invalid provision is "inseparably linked" to that provision [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 349-350, 353, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; see also § 111.35].

Matters that have traditionally fallen within the scope of the "public policy" prohibition, such as payment for domestic services, or provisions that "encourage or promote dissolution" or defraud creditors, are discussed in §§ 111.32-111.34. Other kinds of provisions, primarily those that contemplate the rendition of personal services, may also raise public policy questions, or, even if not invalid on statutory or policy grounds, may not be amenable to remedies such as specific performance [see § 111.52]. When drafting a premarital agreement, counsel must examine each provision desired by the client and consider the potential enforcement issues that surround it.

PRACTICE TIP:

The spectrum of issues affecting enforceability of a premarital agreement includes: whether the agreement in fact only benefits one party and confers no rights on the other; whether counsel for the noninitiating party was truly independent; and how long in advance of the marriage the agreement was presented, negotiated, and signed. A one-sided agreement presented to an unsuspecting party on the eve of his or her wedding, as a condition of going forward with the marriage, is obviously vulnerable [see Fam. Code § 1615(c)(2) (seven-day rule)]. Commentary by Diana Richmond

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Formal Requirements for Enforceable Agreements

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.20

§ 111.20 Essential Contractual Elements for Premarital Agreement

[1] Contractual Capacity

By statute, all persons are capable of contracting except minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons deprived of civil rights [Civ. Code § 1556]. Although minors ordinarily have limited contractual capacity [see Civ. Code § 1557; Fam. Code §§ 6700-6713], a minor who is emancipated or otherwise capable of contracting marriage may make a valid premarital agreement [Fam. Code § 1501; see Fam. Code § 1503; former Civ. Code § 5137 (applicable to pre-1986 agreements)].

A minor who otherwise lacks the requisite capacity may become capable of contracting marriage by obtaining the written consent of his or her parent or guardian, and by obtaining court approval of the marriage [see Fam. Code § 302]. For discussion of court approval of a marriage involving a minor, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 10, Validity and Legal Effects of Marriage (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

[2] Consent

[a] In General

The second major essential element for the existence of a valid premarital agreement is the parties' consent [see Civ. Code § 1550]. The consent of the parties to a contract must be free, mutual, and communicated by each to the other [Civ. Code § 1565]. Under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], operative January 1, 1986 and applicable to agreements executed on or after that date [Fam. Code § 1601], a premarital agreement is not enforceable if the party against whom enforcement is sought proves that he or she did not execute the agreement voluntarily [see Fam. Code § 1615(a)(1)(c)]. The agreement also is not enforceable if its terms are unconscionable [Fam. Code § 1615(a)(2); see [d], below].

An apparent consent is not real or free when obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake [see Civ. Code §§ 1567-1579]. A consent that is not free does not render an agreement absolutely void, but renders the agreement subject to rescission [see Civ. Code § 1566]

Most of the cases in which defective consent to a premarital agreement has been an issue have involved undue influence exercised by one prospective spouse over the other, combined with either active misrepresentation of the nature and effect of the agreement being signed or a failure to disclose the extent of assets in which marital rights are being waived. These and related matters are discussed in the following subsections.

[b] No Confidential Relationship Between Intended Spouses

Although most other states impose fiduciary duties on those contracting with each other in contemplation of marriage [see Branca & Steinberg, Antenuptial Agreements Under California Law: An Examination of the Current Law and In re Marriage of Dawley, 11 U.S.F. L. Rev. 317, 333 n.78 (1977)], no confidential relationship automatically exists between persons contemplating marriage in California. The parties to a premarital agreement do not owe a fiduciary duty to each other as such. Rather, they make their premarital agreement at arm's length [see, e.g., Fernandez v. Fernandez (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 782, 790-791, 15 Cal. Rptr. 374]. This principle stands in contrast to the rule that, in transactions between themselves, husbands and wives in California are subject to the general rules governing fiduciary relationships that control the actions of persons having confidential relations with each other, which impose a duty of the highest good faith and fair dealing on each spouse [Fam. Code § 721; but see Prob. Code §§ 143, 144, 146, 16040; see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, ch. 24, Management and Control of Property (Matthew Bender 2d ed.); see also In re Marriage of Bonds (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 1, 6, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252, 5 P.3d 815 (voluntariness of parties to premarital agreement was not intended by Legislature to be examined in light of strict fiduciary duties, like those imposed on married persons)].

Because the parties to a premarital agreement are not considered to be in a confidential relationship with each other, courts may be less prone to find that the consent of either to the agreement was obtained through the exercise of undue influence or oppressive conduct by the other. Undue influence may be found even when the parties are not in a confidential relationship, however, if one party takes a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of the other's necessity or distress [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 355, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323]. Furthermore, a confidential relationship may arise in some circumstances between nonmarital cohabitants [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 682 n.22, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106]. Thus, if the parties to a premarital agreement were living together at the time the agreement was made, an argument may be made that the agreement should be evaluated in light of the principles governing persons in a confidential relationship. To avoid any suggestion of overreaching, care should be exercised in the drafting and execution of premarital agreements between those who already live together at the time the agreement is prepared and executed.

[c] Undue Influence

[i] Definition

Under the general statutory provision defining undue influence, oppressive advantage, and unfairness, undue influence in the negotiation and execution of a premarital agreement may be found if any of the following circumstances is present [Civ. Code § 1575]:

- (1) If a person in whom confidence is reposed by another, or who holds a real or apparent authority over another, uses that confidence or authority to gain an unfair advantage;
- (2) If a person takes an unfair advantage of another's weakness of mind; or
- (3) If a person takes a grossly oppressive and unfair advantage of another's necessity or distress.

[ii] Evidence of Undue Influence

In determining whether undue influence was exercised by one party over the other to procure consent to a premarital agreement, the courts attempt to determine whether equality of bargaining power existed between the parties at the time the agreement was executed [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 355, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] . A court likely will find undue influence in connection with the execution of a premarital agreement if one or a combination of the following factors appears:

- (1) Extreme disparities between the parties in age, knowledge, or sophistication [see Estate of Nelson (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 138, 141-144, 36 Cal. Rptr. 352] ;
- (2) Substantial differences between the parties in their respective degrees of business expertise [Estate of Nelson (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d, 138, 141-144 , 36 Cal. Rptr. 352 ; see La Liberty v. La Liberty (1932) 127 Cal. App. 669, 672, 16 P.2d 681] ;
- (3) Vulnerability of the party claiming undue influence at the time the agreement was executed due to illness, poverty, pregnancy, or similar circumstances [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 355, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] ; or
- (4) Lack of representation for the party claiming undue influence by independent counsel during the preparation, drafting, and signing of the premarital agreement, especially when the other party was represented [see, e.g., Estate of Sayegh (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 327, 331, 257 P.2d 995] .

In cases in which premarital agreements have been found unenforceable because one party used undue influence to induce the other party to execute the agreement, often a variety of factors, including fraud and misrepresentation, as well as undue influence, have prompted courts to invalidate the agreements [see, e.g., Estate of Nelson (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 138, 141-144, 36 Cal. Rptr. 352 (advantage gained by husband over prospective wife was so great, and disparities in their ages and business experience was so significant, as to give rise to presumption of fraud and undue influence; and inadequacy of consideration supported finding of fraud); cf. In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 355, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 (no undue influence tainted agreement, despite wife's unplanned pregnancy and fear of losing her job, when husband, threatened with paternity suit and likely loss of his position as a result, was in no position to take advantage of her distress, and both parties were educated and experienced professionals)].

[iii] Effect of Undue Influence

A premarital agreement is invalid, and the court will refuse to enforce it, if it was executed as the result of undue influence by one party on the other. The issue of whether undue influence has been exerted is a question of fact [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 354, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] .

[d] Voluntariness and Unconscionability

Under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], operative on January 1, 1986, and applicable to agreements executed on or after that date [Fam. Code § 1601], a premarital agreement is not enforceable if the party against whom enforcement is sought proves either of the following [Fam. Code § 1615(a); see Estate of Gagnier (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 124, 129-130, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 128 (premarital agreement found valid under former Civ. Code § 5315, now Fam. Code § 1615)]:

- (1) That party did not execute the agreement voluntarily; or
- (2) The agreement was unconscionable when it was executed and, before execution of the agreement, all of the following applied to that party:

(a) He or she was not provided a fair, reasonable, and full disclosure of the property or financial obligations of the other party;

(b) He or she did not voluntarily and expressly waive, in writing, any right to disclosure of the property or financial obligations of the other party beyond the disclosure provided; and

(c) He or she did not have, or reasonably could not have had, an adequate knowledge of the property or financial obligations of the other party.

An issue of unconscionability must be decided by the court as a matter of law [Fam. Code § 1615(b)].

In addition, on and after January 1, 2002, in order for a court to find that a premarital agreement was entered into voluntarily, it must find in the writing or on the record all of the following conditions [Fam. Code § 1615(c)]:

- The party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent legal counsel at the time of signing the agreement or, after being advised to seek independent legal counsel, expressly waived, in a separate writing, representation by independent legal counsel;

- The party against whom enforcement is sought had not less than seven calendar days between the time that party was first presented with the agreement and advised to seek independent legal counsel and the time the agreement was signed;

- The party against whom enforcement is sought, if unrepresented by legal counsel, was fully informed of the terms and basic effect of the agreement as well as the rights and obligations he or she was giving up by signing the agreement, and was proficient in the language in which the explanation of the party's rights was conducted and in which the agreement was written. The explanation of the rights and obligations relinquished must be memorialized in writing and delivered to the party prior to signing the agreement. The unrepresented party must, on or before the signing of the premarital agreement, execute a document declaring that he or she received the information required by this paragraph and indicating who provided that information;

- The agreement and the writings executed pursuant to the above requirements were not executed under duress, fraud, or undue influence, and the parties did not lack capacity to enter into the agreement; and

- Any other factors the court deems relevant.

[e] Validity of Waiver of Property Rights

Parties to a premarital agreement are generally permitted under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act to waive property rights that they might otherwise acquire in the future as a result of marriage [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)]. The enforceability of a waiver, like the enforceability of the agreement in general, depends on various factors, which are summarized in Family Code Section 1615 (see [d], above).

Although unmarried persons who contract with each other in contemplation of marriage are not held to be in a confidential relationship under California law [Fernandez v. Fernandez (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 782, 790, 15 Cal. Rptr. 374], the courts are particularly careful in their scrutiny of the circumstances surrounding the execution of premarital agreements if charges of fraud, misrepresentation, or undue influence are made [see, e.g., Estate of Nelson].

(1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 138, 142-143, 36 Cal. Rptr. 352]. Scrutiny for possible unfairness is particularly acute when a premarital agreement has the effect of depriving one spouse, by waiver, of the normal incidents of marriage, including inheritance rights, the right to a probate homestead, and the right to a family allowance [see Estate of Cantor (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 544, 548, 114 Cal. Rptr. 160 (decided under former Prob. Code §§ 70, 220); Prob. Code § 140 et seq.; but see Prob. Code § 147(c) (Prob. Code § 140 et seq. have no effect on validity of any premarital property agreement)].

Under California probate law as it existed before 1985, and as still pertains to waivers made before 1985 [see Prob. Code § 147(b)], when one prospective spouse has waived valuable rights otherwise flowing from the married state (such as the right to a probate homestead or to a family allowance) [see Prob. Code §§ 6520-6528 (probate homestead), 6540-6545 (family allowance)], the waiver of those rights must have been "knowing" [see Estate of Cantor (1974) 39 Cal. App. 3d 544, 548-549, 114 Cal. Rptr. 160]. For a waiver of spousal rights to be characterized as "knowing," the spouse making the waiver should have been aware of the nature and extent of the other spouse's property and expectancies, the extent of his or her potential interest in that property under statutory guidelines, and the legal effect of the waiver agreement. The fact that one party to a premarital agreement can assert that he or she was not aware of the nature and extent of the rights being waived may constitute grounds for a court's refusal to enforce the agreement [see Estate of Sayegh (1953) 118 Cal. App. 2d 327, 331, 257 P.2d 995].

Waivers executed on or after January 1, 1985, regarding property rights as a surviving spouse are enforceable if (1) contained in a valid premarital agreement that is enforceable under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [see Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], or (2) contained in a signed writing (executed on or after January 1, 1985) that meets the requirements of Probate Code Section 140 et seq., relating to the waiver of spousal rights [see Estate of Will (2009) 170 Cal. App. 4th 902, 907-908, 88 Cal. Rptr. 3d 502 (agreement that does not meet requirements for enforceability under Uniform Premarital Agreement Act may nevertheless be effective waiver of surviving spouse's inheritance rights if it meets requirements of Prob. Code § 140 et seq.); Estate of Gagnier (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 124, 128-131, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 128]. If the waiver is contained in a premarital agreement, it can be upheld under either the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act or Probate Code Section 140 et seq., each of which is sufficient to validate the waiver [see Estate of Gagnier (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 124, 128-131, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 128 (validity of premarital agreement signed before or after January 1, 1985, not affected by Prob. Code § 140 et seq. insofar as they affect rights listed in Prob. Code § 141(a))]. Waivers not contained in a premarital agreement must be judged under Probate Code § 140 et seq. [Prob. Code § 147; Estate of Gagnier (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 124, 128-131, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 128], which are discussed more fully in Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 25, Succession to Marital Property (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

To help avert later claims that parties to a premarital agreement waived valuable rights without understanding the import of their actions, it is recommended that counsel prepare an inventory of all assets owned and liabilities owed by each party at the time of contracting and append the inventories to the agreement. For illustrative disclosure provisions, see the forms in §§ 111.200 and 111.201.

As a further consideration, note that while the Act may otherwise permit parties to a premarital agreement to generally waive property rights [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)], the provisions of law governing particular types of benefits must be examined to determine the effectiveness of a premarital waiver. For example, a nonparticipant in an employee benefit plan subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) cannot by a premarital agreement effectively waive the right to receive a joint and survivor annuity or death benefits [see I.R.C. §§ 401(a)(11), 417; 29 U.S.C. § 1055(c); Treas. Reg. § 1.401(a)-20, Q & A 28, 32; Hurwitz v. Sher (S.D.N.Y. 1992) 789 F. Supp. 134; Zinn v. Donaldson Co., Inc. (D. Minn. 1992) 799 F. Supp. 69]. Accordingly, in that type of situation, even if the parties include in their agreement a provision requiring that a waiver of rights to the benefits be executed following marriage, counsel should advise the parties to wait until after marriage to actually execute the statutorily regulated written waiver (or consent to waiver) of the benefits. For a general discussion of spousal rights to ERISA pension benefits, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 21, Special Property Characterization and Division Issues (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

For a discussion of spousal support waivers, which are not per se unenforceable, see § 111.32[1].

[f] Advisability of Independent Counsel

One of the factors the courts consider in determining whether the parties had equality of bargaining power at the time a premarital agreement was executed is whether each party was represented and advised by independent counsel [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 347, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323]. Representation by independent counsel provides good evidence that neither party imposed on the other, although independent representation is not necessarily a prerequisite to a finding of no undue influence [see, e.g., La Liberty v. La Liberty (1932) 127 Cal. App. 669, 674, 16 P.2d 681 (under circumstances, intended wife, an experienced real estate person, was not in need of independent legal counsel to advise her of legal effect of joint tenancy deed delivered to herself and her husband during marriage in performance of premarital agreement)].

Lack of representation by independent counsel for one party is just one factor to be considered in determining whether a premarital agreement was entered into voluntarily [In re Marriage of Bonds (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 1, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252, 5 P.3d 815]. However, Fam. Code § 1615(c) now provides that a premarital agreement shall be deemed to be involuntary unless the court makes a finding that all conditions set forth in that statute have been met. Among these are the requirements that (1) the party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent legal counsel at the time of signing the agreement or, after being advised to seek independent legal counsel, expressly waived, in a separate writing, representation by independent legal counsel; and (2) the party against whom enforcement is sought had not less than seven calendar days between the time that party was first presented with the agreement and advised to seek independent legal counsel and the time the agreement was signed [Fam. Code § 1615(c)]. For discussion of additional requirements, see [d], above.

In addition, Fam. Code § 1612(c) sets forth several fairness conditions that must be present for spousal support waivers to be enforceable in premarital agreements. Under this section, any provision in a premarital agreement regarding spousal support, including but not limited to a waiver, is not enforceable if the party against whom the support provision is enforced was not represented by independent counsel at the time the agreement was signed, or if the provision is unconscionable at the time of enforcement. However, an otherwise unenforceable support provision does not become enforceable solely because the party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent counsel [Fam. Code § 1612(c)].

Conflict of interest problems arise if one attorney represents both prospective spouses in the negotiation and drafting of a premarital agreement because the interests of the prospective spouses are adverse to each other, especially when a waiver of marital property rights is involved [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310; see also Gallo, Traps in Community Property Agreements, 28 U.S.C. Tax Inst. 79 (1976)]. Therefore, it is not advisable for counsel to represent both parties to a premarital agreement. While one attorney may assist both parties in drafting the agreement, the drafting attorney should then refer the parties to independent counsel for review of and advice concerning the agreement. For an illustrative provision stating that each party was represented by independent counsel and a form of certification by the attorney for each party to a premarital agreement, see the forms in §§ 111.200 and 111.201.

[3] Lawful Object

A premarital agreement must have a lawful object to be valid. The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], which applies to agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code § 1601], provides an expansive scope of permissible subject matter, as set forth in § 111.12 [Fam. Code § 1612]. Enforceable provisions of premarital agreements relating to property, as well as public policy limitations on these agreements, are discussed in §§ 111.30-111.35. Provisions of premarital agreements relating to children are covered in §§ 111.50 and 111.51, and provisions that purport to regulate the parties' personal relations are discussed in § 111.52.

[4] Need for Consideration[a] No Consideration Under Current Law

Premarital agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986, are enforceable without consideration [Fam. Code § 1611], and become effective on marriage [Fam. Code § 1613].

[b] Promise of Marriage as Sufficient Under Prior Law

Premarital agreements made before January 1, 1986, the operative date of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.] are subject to the applicable law in effect at the time the agreement was made [Fam. Code § 1503], which included a technical requirement that the agreement be supported by consideration. However, under former law, a promise of marriage subsequently carried out was sufficient consideration for a premarital agreement [Estate of Wamack (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 112, 115, 289 P.2d 871 ; see La Liberty v. La Liberty (1932) 127 Cal. App. 669, 674, 16 P.2d 681] .

Even under prior law, however, marriage alone has not been sufficient "part performance" of an oral premarital agreement to take the agreement out of the statute of frauds and render it enforceable. Furthermore, if one party had given up valuable marital rights in return for only a promise of marriage courts have been more vigilant in scrutinizing the negotiations leading up to the signing of the agreement [see Estate of Nelson (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 138, 141-144, 36 Cal. Rptr. 352] .

[c] Estoppel to Assert Invalidity of Marriage

A person who induces another person to enter into an invalid marriage in good faith is estopped to assert the invalidity of the marriage as a defense to the enforcement of a premarital agreement made by the parties in contemplation of the putative union [see Spellens v. Spellens (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 210, 217-218, 317 P.2d 613 (decided before enactment of Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.)]. This principle, which was decided under former law, appears to remain generally valid; but, for the purpose of enforcing agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986, it must be viewed in the light of Family Code Section 1616, which provides that if a marriage is determined to be void, an agreement that otherwise would have been a premarital agreement is enforceable only to the extent necessary to avoid an inequitable result.

 CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS
 PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
 B. Formal Requirements for Enforceable Agreements

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.21

§ 111.21 Writing Requirement

[1] In General

A premarital agreement, whether executed before or after January 1, 1986, is required to be in writing and signed by both parties to be enforceable [see Fam. Code § 1611; former Civ. Code §§ 1624(3), 5134 (applicable to premarital agreements executed before January 1, 1986); see also Fam. Code § 1503, 1601; for further discussion of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, see § 111.11]. An oral premarital agreement generally is invalid and unenforceable, unless a special exception applies. A variety of exceptions to the statute of frauds [Civ. Code § 1624] exists, under which some oral premarital agreements may be held valid and enforceable [see Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 585, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773]. Although unenforceable in the absence of an applicable exception to the statute of frauds, an oral premarital agreement is treated as being voidable, rather than void [O'Brien v. O'Brien (1925) 197 Cal. 577, 586, 241 P. 861]. For further discussion of the effect of the statute of frauds on enforcement of oral agreements, see § 111.14 [3].

The law applicable to premarital agreements executed before January 1, 1986, required, in addition to a writing, that the agreement (1) had to be executed and acknowledged, or proved in like manner as a grant of land is required to be executed and acknowledged or proved, and (2) it had to be recorded in the office of the recorder of every county in which any real estate may be situated that was granted or affected by the agreement [former Civ. Code §§ 5133-5135 (applicable to agreements executed before January 1, 1986); see Fam. Code § 1503].

By contrast, a premarital agreement executed on or after January 1, 1986, may be recorded in each county in which real property affected by the agreement is situated, when the agreement has been executed and acknowledged or proved in the manner required of a grant of real property [see Fam. Code § 1502(a)]. The recording or non-recording of the agreement, whether executed before or after January 1, 1986, has the same effect as the recording or non-recording of a grant of real property [see Fam. Code § 1502(b); former Civ. Code § 5136 (applicable only to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)]. For further discussion of these requirements, see § 111.22.

For a general discussion of the effect of recording or non-recording of a grant of real property, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Chapter 82, Recording of Instruments (Matthew Bender).

[2] Additional Circumstances When Writing May Be Required

Depending on the subject matter of the premarital agreement, regardless of when it was executed [see Fam. Code §§ 1503, 1601], other provisions of the statute of frauds [Civ. Code § 1624] may apply to require a writing, completely independent of the fact that the agreement is a premarital agreement. An independent requirement of a writing is imposed if the premarital agreement includes any of the following:

- (1) A promise that, by its terms, is not to be performed during the lifetime of the promisor [Civ. Code § 1624(e); former Civ. Code § 1624(6) (applicable only to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)];
- (2) A promise that, by its terms, cannot be performed within a year from when it was made [Civ. Code § 1624(a); former Civ. Code § 1624(1) (applicable only to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)];
or
- (3) A promise to transfer or convey an estate in real property, other than an estate at will or for a term not exceeding one year [Civ. Code § 1624(c); former Civ. Code § 1624(4) (applicable only to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)].

Furthermore, an estate in real property, other than an estate at will or for a term not exceeding one year, can be transferred only by operation of law or by an instrument in writing, signed by the party disposing of the property or by his or her authorized agent [Civ. Code § 1091].

Thus, in any given case, two statutory sources may require a premarital agreement to be in writing: (1) the statutory provisions requiring premarital agreements to be in writing whatever their subject matter [Fam. Code § 1611; former Civ. Code §§ 1624(3), 5134 (applicable only to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)], and (2) a statutory provision that mandates that the agreement be in writing because of the particular provision or promise it embodies (for example, a promise to make a will) [see Civ. Code § 1624(e); former Civ. Code § 1624(6) (applicable only to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)].

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS
PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Formal Requirements for Enforceable Agreements

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.22

§ 111.22 Acknowledgment, Proof, and Recording of Agreements

Agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986, may be executed and acknowledged or proven like a grant of realty and subsequently recorded in each county in which real property affected by the agreement is located; but acknowledgment, proof, and recordation are not required as such for the agreement to be enforceable [Fam. Code §§ 1502(a), 1503]. Recording or non-recording of a premarital agreement has the same effect as recording or non-recording of a grant of real property [Fam. Code § 1502(b)].

By contrast, all premarital agreements executed before January 1, 1986, involving property were required to be executed and acknowledged or proved in like manner as a grant of land is required to be executed and acknowledged or proved [former Civ. Code § 5134 (applicable to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)].

A deed or other instrument is "acknowledged" when the person who has executed it declares before a competent court or officer (usually a notary) that the deed or instrument was in fact executed by him or her [De Wolfskill v. Smith (1907) 5 Cal. App. 175, 184, 89 P. 1001 ; see Civ. Code § 1180 et seq. (statutory requirements regarding acknowledgments); see generally California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Acknowledgments (Matthew Bender)]. Acknowledgment or proof of the premarital agreement is a prerequisite for recordation [see Civ. Code § 1170; former Civ. Code § 5135 (applicable to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)], which in turn is a prerequisite for the validity of the premarital agreement against third parties, insofar as real property is involved.

An acknowledged or proved premarital agreement executed before January 1, 1986, had to be recorded in the office of the recorder of every county in which any real estate may be situated that is granted or affected by the agreement [former Civ. Code § 5135 (applicable to agreements executed before January 1, 1986)]. The recording or non-recording of the agreement had the same effect as the recording or non-recording of a grant of real property [former Civ. Code § 5136 (applicable to agreements made before January 1, 1986)].

An unrecorded instrument is valid between the parties and those third parties who have notice of the instrument [Civ. Code § 1217]. Therefore, an unrecorded premarital agreement is valid as between the parties. It may also be valid as to third parties who have actual notice of the terms of the agreement [see Civ. Code § 1217]. This appears to be the rule, regardless of whether the subject matter of the agreement is real property, personal property, or a combination of the two [see Branca & Steinberg, Antenuptial Agreements Under California Law: An Examination of the Current Law and In re Marriage of Dawley, 11 U.S.F. L. Rev. 317, 326-327 (1977)].

For further discussion of the processes of acknowledgment and proof generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 9, Acknowledgments (Matthew Bender).

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.30

§ 111.30 Validity of Premarital Contracts Relating to Property

Premarital agreements relating to the property rights of the intended spouses long have been recognized and enforced in California [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; Conner v. Stanley (1884) 65 Cal. 183, 3 P. 668 ; see also U.S. v. Elam (9th Cir. 1997) 112 F. 3d 1036, 1039 (government could use premarital agreement designating one spouse's earnings as separate property to show proper apportionment of tax refund between divorced spouses)]. The Family Code expressly exempts property matters from its general prohibition on agreements between spouses that alter their "legal relations" [see Fam. Code § 1620; see also Fam. Code § 721]. The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.] applicable to agreements made on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code § 1601] includes specific property matters on which parties may make an agreement [see Fam. Code § 1612; see also § 111.12]. "Property," as used by the Act, is an interest, present or future, legal or equitable, vested or contingent, in real or personal property, including income and earnings [Fam. Code § 1610(b)].

The recognized rule for agreements made before the operative date of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act has been that parties contemplating marriage may validly contract regarding their property rights, both with respect to property then owned by them and regarding property, including earnings, which may be acquired by them after marriage [Barker v. Barker (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 206, 212, 293 P.2d 85] . Premarital agreements may validly alter both the property rights of spouses during their lifetimes and the property consequences in the event of death of either of the spouses [see Fam. Code § 1612].

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.31

§ 111.31 Limitations on Premarital Contracts Relating to Property--In General

The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act provides parties with broad freedom to contract regarding their property rights and personal relations, with respect to agreements made on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code §§ 1601, 1612(a); see § 111.12]. The Act expressly prohibits parties to a premarital agreement from contracting on any matter in violation of public policy or a statute imposing a criminal penalty [Fam Code § 1612(a)(7)]. Furthermore, the right of a child to support may not be adversely affected by a premarital agreement [Fam. Code § 1612(b)].

Prior to the enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, parties were also permitted to contract with respect to property but were subject to three broad categories of prohibitions, as set forth below:

- (1) Persons contemplating marriage could contract with regard to property but were prohibited from entering an agreement that altered their "legal relations" [former Civ. Code § 4802; see Restatement of Contracts, § 587 (agreement changing "essential incidents of marriage" is illegal); see § 111.32];
- (2) Provisions of premarital agreements that "encourage or promote divorce" were void [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 350, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; see § 111.33]; and
- (3) Premarital agreements that operate to defraud creditors were prohibited [see Sudbrock v. Kroener (1934) 136 Cal. App. 624, 631-632, 29 P.2d 435 ; see Civ. Code §§ 3439, 3439.12; see § 111.34].

To the extent that these prohibitions reflect broad public policy concerns, it is arguable that they remain applicable to premarital agreements made under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, except with regard to those matters that the Act expressly permits that would have previously been prohibited on public policy grounds, such as provisions for transfer of property on dissolution [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)(3), (7)]. These issues are more fully discussed in §§ 111.32-111.34.

For a general discussion of waivers of property rights in premarital agreements, see § 111.20[2][e].

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.32

§ 111.32 Prohibition Against Contracts Altering "Legal Relations" of Spouses

[1] Spousal Support

[a] Prohibition Against Waivers of Spousal Support

Provisions of a premarital agreement that purport to relieve either party of the obligation to support the other party during marriage or to limit support in the event of dissolution, or that attempt to limit attorneys' fees if the parties separate and bring a dissolution action, have historically been held void as against public policy [In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 485-486, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289, overruled, In re Marriage of Dawley, 17 Cal. 3d 342, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323, 1976 Cal. LEXIS 282 (disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323); see In re Marriage of Fell (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 1058, 1063, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 522; Barker v. Barker (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 206, 211-212, 293 P.2d 85; see, generally Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Chs. 50, 51, 62 (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)]. These types of provisions were said to violate public policy by promoting dissolution [see, e.g., Barham v. Barham (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 416, 428, 202 P.2d 289]. The prohibition against such provisions has also been rationalized on the grounds that it serves to provide for indigent persons from the property of their spouses rather than from public funds, and to protect creditors of the indigent who contract with them for necessities [see Fam. Code §§ 910, 914]. The cases holding such provisions invalid predated the enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, and it has been somewhat unclear whether such provisions would remain invalid under the Act's general prohibition against provisions that violate public policy [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7)].

However, the California Supreme Court in In re Marriage of Pendleton & Fireman held that spousal support waivers contained within premarital agreements are not per se unenforceable, and it is not a violation of public policy to permit enforcement of a spousal support waiver, when it is executed by intelligent, well-educated persons, each of whom appears to be self-sufficient in property and earning ability, and both of whom have the advice of counsel regarding their rights and obligations as marital partners at the time they execute the waiver [In re Marriage of Pendleton v. Fireman (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 39, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 5 P.3d 839]. In response to the Pendleton v. Fireman ruling, Fam. Code § 1612(c) was enacted effective January 1, 2002, which sets forth several fairness conditions that must be present for spousal support waivers to be enforceable. Under this section, any provision in a premarital agreement regarding spousal support, including but not limited to a waiver, is not enforceable if the party against whom the support provision is enforced was not represented by independent counsel at the time the agreement was signed, or if the provision is unconscionable at the time of enforcement. Moreover, an otherwise unenforceable support provision does not become enforceable solely because the party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent counsel [Fam. Code § 1612(c)].

Note also that, even prior to Pendleton & Fireman, under the traditional analysis, a spouse could waive, in a premarital agreement, the right to support from the other spouse after that spouse dies. Thus, an intended spouse could waive a family allowance from the estate of the other intended spouse [Estate of Wamack (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 112, 115-116, 289 P.2d 871 ; Estate of Schwartz (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 308, 309, 179 P.2d 868 ; see § 111.20[2][e]].

[b] Prohibition Against Provisions for Lump-Sum Payment in Lieu of Support

A provision in a premarital agreement that allows either spouse a lump-sum payment in lieu of court-ordered support in the event of marital dissolution has been held void. The leading case on this point, Pereira v. Pereira, involved a reconciliation agreement between married persons rather than a premarital agreement, and was decided when fault was still needed to establish grounds for divorce [Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1, 4-5, 103 P. 488 (parties agreed that if husband gave wife cause for divorce and she established cause against him, he would pay $10,000 in lieu of all property claims, including support)]. Nevertheless, the Pereira case has been extensively cited as authority for the prohibition on payments in lieu of support in cases construing premarital agreements [see Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 852, 857, 120 Cal. Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204 ; In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 485, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289 , disapproved on another point in In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; Barham v. Barham (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 416, 427-429, 202 P.2d 289 ; Whiting v. Whiting (1923) 62 Cal. App. 157, 166, 216 P. 92] .

However, in Pendleton & Fireman, the California Supreme Court held that spousal support waivers contained within premarital agreements are not per se unenforceable, and it is not a violation of public policy to permit enforcement of a spousal support waiver, when it is executed by intelligent, well-educated persons, each of whom appears to be self-sufficient in property and earning ability, and both of whom have the advice of counsel regarding their rights and obligations as marital partners at the time they execute the waiver [In re Marriage of Pendleton & Fireman (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 39, 49, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 5 P.3d 839] . For related discussion of statutory requirements enacted in response to Pendleton & Fireman, see [a], above.

[c] Validity of Provisions Providing for Minimum Duration of Support

Premarital agreements that guarantee support for a specified minimum amount of time are not invalid. For example, a provision in a premarital agreement that the prospective husband would support his prospective wife and her daughter from a previous marriage for a minimum period of fourteen months after their marriage terminated was upheld as not violative of the public policy in favor of marriage and against waivers of the duty of spousal support. The court ruled that language imposing a minimum support obligation cannot be construed to impose a maximum limit on the husband's support obligation. Because a minimum guarantee continues to bind the person who promises it even beyond the period of the marriage, the court held, even if dissolution were sought immediately, such a provision deters rather than promotes dissolution [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 353-354, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] .

Subsequent to the ruling in Dawley, the California Supreme Court held that spousal support waivers contained within premarital agreements are not per se unenforceable, as discussed in [a], above [In re Marriage of Pendleton & Fireman (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 39, 49, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 278, 5 P.3d 839] . Thus, a provision for a minimum support duration would also appear to remain valid under this analysis.

[d] Validity in California of Settlements Made in Other States in Lieu of Support

Although, prior to Pendleton & Fireman, premarital agreements limiting support obligations had historically been held invalid as against public policy in California [see [a], [b], above], courts in some of the other states appear to have accepted such agreements in certain cases [see, e.g., Belcher v. Belcher (Fla. 1975) 307 So. 2d 918, 919-920 ; Volid v. Volid (1972) 6 Ill. App. 3d 386, 286 N.E.2d 42, 43-48] . Cases approving the limitation of support have been viewed by some commentators as the beginning of a trend toward recognition of the principle that adults contemplating marriage should have the freedom to structure their relationship as they wish [Fleischmann, Marriage by Contract: Defining the Terms of Relationship, 8 Fam. L.Q. 27, 40-41 (1974)]. The cases in which courts have upheld premarital agreements limiting support obligations have primarily dealt with support obligations in the event of dissolution. No cases appear to exist in which the reviewing court has upheld a premarital agreement waiving support obligations that exist during the marriage and before dissolution.

[2] Prohibition Against Promises to Pay for Spouse's Domestic Services

[a] Origin of Rule

Two court of appeal decisions, Brooks v. Brooks and Estate of Sonnickson, stand for the proposition that premarital agreements in which one prospective spouse promises to perform domestic or nursing services for the other spouse during the marriage in return for the other spouse's promise to pay money or transfer property are void as against public policy. Each case involved a wife who made a premarital promise to perform domestic services during the marriage in return for the husband's promise to pay her a salary or transfer property to her in consideration of her services. The appellate courts reviewing the cases held that agreements of this type are void because the wife's promise was not adequate consideration for the husband's promise to pay [Brooks v. Brooks (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 347, 349, 351, 119 P.2d 970 ; Estate of Sonnickson (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 475, 479, 73 P.2d 643 ; see Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 (in general, contract under which a spouse is to receive compensation for providing personal domestic services to other spouse is void as against public policy)].

[b] Severability of Provisions Obligating One Spouse to Care for Another

Courts have taken a negative view of agreements under which prospective wives explicitly agreed to perform nursing and domestic services for their prospective husbands in exchange for money or property [see Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652-654, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; Brooks v. Brooks (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 347, 349, 351, 119 P.2d 970 ; Estate of Sonnickson (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 475, 479, 73 P.2d 643] . Some cases have held the entire agreement void and unenforceable [Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652-654, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; Estate of Sonnickson (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 475, 479, 73 P.2d 643] . In another case, the court held that the husband had stated a cause of action for restitution of the sums he had paid his wife for domestic services and nursing under the agreement during their married years [Brooks v. Brooks (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 347, 349, 351, 119 P.2d 970] . Other cases have indicated that language in a premarital agreement obligating each spouse to care for the other, or words to that effect, does not render the agreement void, even though such promises are not necessary and, under former law, would not by themselves constitute sufficient consideration to support the agreement [see Ayoob v. Ayoob (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 236, 247-248, 168 P.2d 462] .

[c] Modern Implications

It has been argued that the prohibition on contracts between spouses for domestic services perpetuates sex-role stereotypes that are not only outmoded, but also unconstitutional in view of the current law of equal protection [Weitzman, Legal Regulation of Marriage: Tradition and Change, 62 Cal. L. Rev. 1169, 1262 (1974); see Frontiero v. Richardson (1973) 411 U.S. 677, 682-683, 93 S. Ct. 1764, 36 L. Ed. 2d 583 (plurality opinion); Sail'er Inn, Inc. v. Kirby (1971) 5 Cal. 3d 1, 16-20, 95 Cal. Rptr. 329, 485 P.2d 529 ; cf. Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 655-662, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 (dissenting opinion)]. Furthermore, the California Supreme Court has expressly stated that agreements between unmarried cohabitants in which the domestic partner is paid for homemaking duties are valid and enforceable [Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 674 n.10, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] .

However, the traditional view, which prohibits contracts to transfer property in return for domestic services by a spouse during marriage, is still being adhered to by some courts. One appellate court held that a contract in which one spouse is to receive compensation for nursing-type services provided to the other spouse is void as against public policy and that there is no consideration for a spouse's promise to transfer property in return for the other spouse's rendition of such services. The court reasoned that spouses are obligated by the nature of the marriage contract to provide one another with uncompensated protective supervision services, such as nursing an ill spouse. The rendition of these services comes within the ambit of the concept of providing "support," which is one of the obligations implicit in the marriage relation. A spouse is not entitled to compensation for support apart from rights to community property and the like that arise from the marital relation itself [Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652-654, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16] .

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.33

§ 111.33 Prohibition Against Provisions Encouraging or Promoting Dissolution

[1] In General

Before enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], which applies to any premarital agreement executed on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code § 1601], courts held that premarital agreements that dispose of community property on dissolution violate public policy when they "promote" or "encourage" dissolution [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 349-350, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; In re Marriage of Noghrey (1985) 169 Cal. App. 3d 326, 329-330, 215 Cal. Rptr. 153 ; see also In re Marriage of Dajani (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1387, 1389-1390, 251 Cal. Rptr. 871 (foreign premarital "dowry" agreement that provided for cash payment on death or dissolution was void as against public policy because wife would "profit" from dissolution)].

Although provisions of a premarital agreement subject to the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act must also not be in violation of public policy [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7)], the Act now expressly permits the parties to a premarital agreement to contract on a wide variety of property-related matters, including the disposition of property on dissolution of marriage [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(1)-(4); see § 111.12]. Because the Act expressly permits provisions for the disposition of property on marital dissolution, property division provisions in premarital agreements executed on or after January 1, 1986, are generally valid.

[2] Exception for Cases in Which Objects of Marriage Are Utterly Destroyed

Before enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], it was held that a premarital agreement that encourages or promotes the dissolution of a preexisting marriage to a third party is not void as against public policy if the legitimate objects of that existing marriage have been utterly destroyed. For example, a promise by a third party that, when a wife obtained her divorce, he would marry her, take care of her and her children, and make her an equal partner in all things, was enforceable because the marriage of the wife and her first husband was beyond saving when the agreement with the third party was executed [Spellens v. Spellens (1957) 49 Cal. 2d 210, 224, 317 P.2d 613].

In another case, an agreement by which a woman guaranteed a husband's support obligations to induce his wife to obtain a prompt divorce was enforceable because the marriage had irrevocably broken down and the agreement did not promote the divorce [Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 852, 857-858, 120 Cal. Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204] .

[3] Determinative Nature of Contract Terms

Before enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], it was held that a court must consider the objective terms of the agreement and the effect, if any, of the objective terms in promoting the dissolution of the marriage, rather than the subjective contemplation of the parties, in determining whether a particular premarital agreement violates public policy by encouraging or promoting dissolution [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 350, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] . Thus, a premarital agreement that by its terms is valid cannot be invalidated by uncontradicted parol evidence that the parties did not enter into a marriage contemplated to last until death, but anticipated the early dissolution of their marriage [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 349-352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] .

[4] Validity of Provisions Making Earnings and Accumulations of Each Spouse Separate Property

Before enactment of the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], it was held that a provision in a premarital agreement that the earnings and accumulations of each spouse will be held as separate property is not considered in violation of public policy as promotive of divorce [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 351, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] . These agreements prevent the automatic application of the community property system to California spouses' accumulations of property during marriage [See Fam. Code §§ 760, 850(a); see generally Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles].

Under the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act, the parties may contract on the disposition of property on separation, marital dissolution, death, or the occurrence or nonoccurrence of any other event [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(3)]. They also may contract with regard to their property whenever and wherever acquired or located [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(1); see discussion in § 111.12].

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.34

§ 111.34 Prohibition Against Contracts to Defraud Creditors

[1] Premarital Creditors

A premarital agreement that provides for the transfer of one party's assets to the other without fair consideration and thereby renders the transferor insolvent is fraudulent with respect to existing creditors of the transferor [Sudbrock v. Kroener (1934) 136 Cal. App. 624, 631-632, 29 P.2d 435] . Such a conveyance is void and may be set aside under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [see Civ. Code §§ 3439, 3439.12]. For discussion of procedure, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice (Matthew Bender), Fraudulent Conveyances. This rule operates to invalidate any provision under which a prospective spouse transfers his or her separate property to the other spouse as that other's separate property in an attempt to insulate the property from the claims of the transferor's premarital creditors [see Sudbrock v. Kroener (1934) 136 Cal. App. 624, 631-632, 29 P.2d 435] .

[2] Marital Creditors

[a] Contract Creditors

Contract debts incurred during marriage may be satisfied from the separate property of the spouse who contracted the debt [Fam. Code § 913(a)] and from all of the community property [Fam. Code § 910(a); but see Fam. Code § 910(b) (spouses are not liable for each other's debts during the period in which they are living separate and apart before judgment for dissolution of marriage or judgment for legal separation)]. A spouse's separate property ordinarily is not liable for contract debts incurred by the other spouse during marriage, except when the other spouse incurred the debts for the "necessaries of life" [Fam. Code § 914; see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 23, Debt Liability and Division and Related Reimbursement Issues].

If the parties agree that all of their separate property will become community property, contract creditors will not be affected because all the community property is liable for the contract debts incurred by either spouse during marriage [Fam. Code § 910(a)]. The intended spouses may also agree, however, that their earnings during the marriage, which ordinarily would be community property [see Fam. Code § 760], will remain separate property. Such a provision would diminish the community property fund from which a contract creditor could collect a judgment, but would not deprive the creditor of the right to collect a contract judgment from the separate property of the contracting spouse.

The California Supreme Court has suggested that a premarital agreement providing that the spouses' earnings will be their separate property is valid as against subsequent creditors with a right to community funds, provided that no creditor is misled to his or her detriment by the failure of the spouses to inform the creditor that the supposed community assets on which the creditor relied in extending credit are in fact separate assets [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 357, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P. 2d 323]. Recording the premarital agreement may have the effect of putting potential creditors on notice as to the character of real property purchased with the spouses' earnings. Recording is required when an agreement executed before January 1, 1986, affects real property [see former Civ. Code § 5135 (applicable to agreements made before January 1, 1986)] but is not required when the agreement is executed on or after January 1, 1986 [see Fam. Code §§ 1502, 1503; see also discussion in § 111.12].

Under former law, recording an inventory of a spouse's separate property specifically constituted notice and prima facie evidence of the title of the party filing the inventory [former Civ. Code §§ 5114, 5115].

Neither method appears to give creditors clear notice that future earnings are separate property. To avoid any claim by creditors against the other spouse's earnings, the spouse applying for credit should, at a minimum, be sure not to include the other spouse's income in any credit application.

For further discussion of the liability of community and separate property for contractual debts incurred before or during marriage, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 23, Debt Liability and Division and Related Reimbursement Issues (Matthew Bender),

[b] Tort Creditors

If one spouse commits a tort while performing an activity "for the benefit of the community," the community estate is primarily liable for satisfaction of an ensuing tort judgment, and the separate property of the tortfeasor spouse is secondarily liable. If the tortfeasor was not acting for the benefit of the community, his or her separate property is primarily liable and the community estate is secondarily liable. These rules do not apply to the extent that the liability is satisfied out of proceeds of insurance for the liability, whether the proceeds are from the community estate or are separate property [Fam. Code § 1000]. The liability of the community estate and separate property for the torts of the spouses is discussed in detail in Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 23, Debt Liability and Division and Related Reimbursement Issues (Matthew Bender).

It has not been determined whether a premarital agreement between intended spouses that their marital earnings are to remain the separate property of each respective spouse insulates those earnings from liability to victims of the other spouse's torts occurring during the marriage.

A premarital agreement converting future earnings to separate property before any tort has occurred can be distinguished from cases in which a tortfeasor spouse has attempted to render himself or herself judgment-proof by transferring assets to his or her spouse without fair consideration after a tort has occurred, but before suit is brought or an adverse judgment entered. The latter transfer clearly is fraudulent and will be voided by the courts at the request of the tort victim in an action to set aside the conveyance [see Freeman v. La Morte (1957) 148 Cal. App. 2d 670, 672-675, 307 P. 2d 734; see also Hansen v. Cramer (1952) 39 Cal. 2d 321, 322-325, 245 P.2d 1059].

For further discussion of the law of fraudulent conveyances, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances (Matthew Bender).

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.35

§ 111.35 Continuing Validity of Contracts Containing Void Provisions

If a court finds that a provision in a premarital agreement violates public policy by, for example, promoting or encouraging divorce [see § 111.33], or in some other way, the offending provision will be held void and unenforceable [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 349-350, 353, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; Barker v. Barker (1956) 139 Cal. App. 2d 206, 212, 293 P.2d 85] . The void provision will not cause the entire agreement to fail, however, unless the rest of the agreement is "inseparably linked" to the offending language [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 349-350, 353, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] .

Thus, for example, on several occasions courts have held invalid provisions deemed promotive of divorce, and yet enforced property divisions contained in the same agreement [e.g., Barham v. Barham (1949) 33 Cal. 2d 416, 428-429, 202 P.2d 289 ; Whiting v. Whiting (1923) 62 Cal. App. 157, 165, 216 P. 92] . The few decisions striking down property provisions as well as void terms all have involved agreements in which otherwise valid provisions were inseparably linked to void terms [see, e.g., Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1, 4-5, 103 P. 488 ($10,000 consideration in settlement of support and alimony claims); Estate of Nelson (1964) 224 Cal. App. 2d 138, 142-143, 36 Cal. Rptr. 352 (waiver of all property and support rights; agreement procured by undue influence); but cf. In re Marriage of Pendleton & Fireman (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th, 751, 764 , 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 840 (pet. for rev. 5/4/98; a nonfinal case holding that waivers of or limitations on spousal support in premarital agreements are not per se unenforceable, as discussed in § 111.32[1][a)].

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

C. Agreements Concerning Property and Support of Parties

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.36

§ 111.36 Tax Considerations in Drafting Property Provisions

[1] Federal Gift Taxes

A transfer of property is a taxable gift if it is given for less than adequate and full consideration [I.R.C. § 2512(a), (b)]. Accordingly, most transfers made prior to the parties' marriage, even if pursuant to a premarital agreement, will be subject to gift tax. The parties' marriage is not a valuable consideration for the transfer, because it cannot be given a financial value; therefore, there is no consideration exchanged for the transfer [see Commissioner v. Wemyss (1945) 324 U.S. 303, 65 S. Ct. 652, 89 L. Ed. 958]. Under the estate tax provisions (see [2], below), a donee's release of any marital property rights in exchange for a transfer of property pursuant to the premarital agreement is not given for adequate consideration [I.R.C. § 2043(b)(1)]; therefore, because the estate and gift tax elements of the Internal Revenue Code must be consistently construed together, the transfer is a taxable gift [see Merrill v. Fahs (1945) 324 U.S. 308, 65 S. Ct. 655, 89 L. Ed. 963].

In contrast, if a surrender of marital support rights, including the right to alimony on divorce, is otherwise permitted within the state, this type of surrender is treated as having value sufficient to constitute consideration, and a transfer made in exchange for such a surrender is not otherwise taxable as a gift [see Merrill v. Fahs (1945) 324 U.S. 308, 65 S. Ct. 655, 89 L. Ed. 963; see also Commissioner v. Wemyss (1945) 324 U.S. 303, 65 S. Ct. 652, 89 L. Ed. 958; Rev. Rul. 60-31, 1960-1 C.B. 174; Lasker v. Commissioner (7th Cir. 1943) 138 F.2d 989]. In one case a federal court determined that an agreement that included such a surrender was contrary to the public policy of the state in which it was made, and so the surrender was held ineffective, rendering the property transfer a gift and subject to gift tax [Ellis v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1971) 437 F.2d 442]. Because California has historically prohibited premarital waivers of support rights, this gift treatment for a property transfer founded on a purported waiver of spousal support would, arguably, apply in California; but more recent case law permitting spousal support waivers, at least in principle, may have reversed this result (see § 111.32[1][a]) [In re Marriage of Pendleton & Fireman (1998) 62 Cal. App. 4th, 751, 764, 72 Cal. Rptr. 2d 840 (pet. for rev. 5/4/98) (nonfinal case holding that waivers of or limitations on spousal support in premarital agreements are not per se unenforceable)].

The annual gift tax exclusion allows a donor to make nontaxable gifts to other individuals in the amount of up to $10,000 per year per donee, an amount that is indexed for inflation for gifts made in calendar years after 1998 [I.R.C. § 2503(b)]. The gift and any claimed consideration are valued as of the date of the transfer [see I.R.C. § 2512(a)]. These rules apply to transfers made pursuant to the premarital agreement but occurring after the marriage [see Rev. Rul. 69-347, 1969-1 C.B. 227]. However, transfers between spouses that are actually made after the marriage are subject to the unlimited marital deduction [I.R.C. § 2523(a)].

For a related discussion of gift taxes in the context of particular forms, see §§ 111.212[1], 111.224[1].

PRACTICE TIP:

If a waiver of spousal support in a premarital agreement is contemplated as consideration for a premarital transfer of property, counsel should refer the client to tax counsel for all opinion on the probable tax consequences of the proposed action. Commentary by Kathryn Kirkland.

[2] Federal Estate Taxes

The primary concern in the area of federal estate taxes is whether the property transferred to the surviving spouse under a premarital agreement will be included in the decedent's taxable estate, or whether it may be deducted, thereby making the transfer tax-free. The tax-free result clearly is achieved if the transfer was made after marriage, so as to bring the transfer within the marital deduction [I.R.C. § 2523(a)]. However, if the transfer was made prior to marriage, the central inquiry will be whether the transfer was made in exchange for adequate consideration. For estate tax purposes, a surrender of marital property rights is not adequate consideration [I.R.C. § 2043(b)(1); see Estate of Hermann (Herbert R.) T.C. Memo. 1995-90], .

[3] I.R.C. § 1041 "Nonrecognition Rule" Inapplicable to Premarital Transfers for Income Tax Purposes

Internal Revenue Code Section 1041 generally provides that no gain or loss is recognized on a transfer of property from an individual to, or in trust for the benefit of, his or her spouse, with specific exceptions. This "nonrecognition rule," by its own terms, does not apply to a transfer of property between parties before their marriage, even if made in contemplation of marriage [see I.R.C. § 1041].

Thus, a transfer of property before marriage pursuant to a premarital contract in return for consideration is a "sale or exchange" subject to all the usual tax rules. However, such premarital transfers are sales or exchanges only to the extent that consideration is received for the transferred property, and if no consideration is involved, the transfer may be treated as a gift (see [1], above) [see I.R.C. §§ 102, 1015].

For further discussion of Internal Revenue Code Section 1041, see Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements, § 112.15[2][a], and Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., § 160.30 (Matthew Bender).

§ 111.50 Validity in General of Provisions Relating to Children

Strict limitations govern existing or contemplated provisions of premarital agreements relating to children. Certain narrowly defined provisions generally are considered enforceable by the California courts; other provisions either clearly are deemed void as against public policy, or are subject to practical difficulties in enforcement.

Enforceable provisions of premarital agreements relating to children include both of the following:

- A promise to support the intended spouse's children by a former relationship [see § 111.51[3][c]]; and
- A promise that a minor stepchild of the intended spouse will be provided for on the death of his or her natural parent [see § 111.51[3][d]].

The interest of the state in the welfare of minor children imposes the following practical limitations on the rights of parents to agreement regarding children of the marriage:

- Neither parent may contract away the duty to support his or her minor child [Elkind v. Byck (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 453, 457, 67 Cal. Rptr. 404, 439 P.2d 316 ; see Fam. Code § 1612(b)]. Nevertheless, nothing prohibits parents from making a binding agreement to support a child in situations in which the law does not require support, such as after the child has reached majority [see Kamper v. Waldon (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 718, 721, 112 P.2d 1] or has married before reaching the age of majority [see Bryant v. Swoap (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 431, 439, 121 Cal. Rptr. 867] .
- Although spouses may be bound between themselves by contractual provisions determining custody of children on dissolution, such agreements are not binding on the court, which is required to determine custody matters according to the best interests of the child [see Fam. Code § 3040; see § 111.51[1]].
- Contracts between the spouses requiring a particular form of religious or secular education of children are likely to present difficulties in enforcement, because of the court's paramount interest in the welfare of the child [see § 111.51[2]].

■ Enforcement problems make it inadvisable to include in a premarital agreement a promise that one intended spouse will adopt the minor children of the other [see § 111.51[3][a]].

CHAPTER 111 PREMARITAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

D. Agreements Concerning Children and Personal Relations

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.51

§ 111.51 Specific Provisions Concerning Children

[1] Provisions Regarding Custody of Children on Dissolution

No reported appellate decisions have construed provisions in premarital agreements addressing custody of children of the parties in the event of dissolution of the marriage. Reported cases dealing with agreements between parents on the custody of their children that analyze the extent to which they should be honored or enforced by the courts have concerned agreements made at the time of the parties' separation [see Brown v. Brown (1951) 104 Cal. App. 2d 88, 91-92, 230 P.2d 651 ; but see In re Marriage of Weiss (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 106, 109 (holding premarital agreement provision on child's religious upbringing unenforceable, as discussed in [3][b], below), cert. denied 519 U.S. 1007 (1996)]. These agreements are authorized, and even encouraged, by statute [see Fam. Code §§ 1620, 3061, 3580].

The rule established by the cases involving child custody agreements made at the time of separation is that a court is never conclusively bound in child custody matters by an agreement of the parents [see Van der Vliet v. Van der Vliet (1927) 200 Cal. 721, 722-723, 254 P. 945], though it will likely give substantial consideration to such an agreement. Rather, the power of the court to vary or modify its decree in dissolution proceedings regarding the custody, care, and education of the minor children is governed by statute [see Fam. Code § 3020 et seq.]. Regardless of what agreement the parties have made, the court always retains power to award custody or modify a custody decree in the best interests of the child. This is true even if the court originally adopted the agreement or stipulation of the parties as to the disposition of the children [Black v. Black (1906) 149 Cal. 224, 225-226, 86 P. 505 (construing former Civ. Code §§ 138, 159)].

Although some prospective spouses may wish to discuss potential conflicts over the custody of children while preparing for marriage, they should be aware that any contractual agreement made by them at any time will be subordinate to the power of the court to determine custody matters in accordance with the best interests of the child. Any agreement made by them would be considered by a court and, if it is determined that the agreed arrangement is in the best interests of the child, would be given effect.

For sample marital settlement agreement provisions regarding child custody that may be modified for use in a premarital agreement, see Chapter 124, Custody and Visitation Provisions. For a detailed discussion of child custody orders in family law proceedings, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Chapter 33, Custody and Visitation Orders.

[2] Provisions Regarding Education of Children

Little authority exists on the enforceability of agreements between prospective spouses relating to the practical details of a child's upbringing, such as the place where the child will attend school and the form, if any, of the child's religious education. California courts have not ruled on the enforceability of such an agreement by means of an action for damages or specific performance, nor have they considered whether the failure of one spouse to comply with such an agreement is a material breach of a premarital agreement justifying unilateral rescission of the agreement by the aggrieved spouse [see Civ. Code § 1689(b)(2); see also Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 776, 145 P. 504 (failure of husband to pay for education of stepdaughter as promised in premarital agreement was grounds for rescission of agreement by wife); but cf. In re Marriage of Smith & Maescher (1993) 21 Cal. App. 4th 100, 103, 107-108, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 133 (regarding provisions in marital settlement agreement for college education of child)]. However, as discussed in [3][b], below, at least one California court has ruled that a provision for religious upbringing in a premarital agreement is unenforceable, making it unlikely that an action for damages or specific performance would be successful, or that a failure to comply with the terms of the agreement concerning religious upbringing would justify unilateral rescission [In re Marriage of Weiss (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 106, 109, 111, 117, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 339, cert. denied, 136 L. Ed. 2d 399 (1996)].

California guardianship and custody cases have held that the parents' views on both the religious and secular education of children are not binding when compliance would interfere with the court's exercise of its discretion in the best interests of the child [Frizzell v. Frizzell (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 652, 657, 323 P.2d 188; see Guardianship of Walsh (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 194, 198, 223 P.2d 322; see also In re Marriage of Weiss (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 106, 109, 111, 117, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 339]. Thus, a court would be unlikely to enforce the terms of a premarital agreement concerning the education of a child unless it found that enforcement was in the child's best interest [cf. Martin v. Martin (1954) 308 N.Y. 136, 123 N.E.2d 812 (premarital agreement required parties to rear child as Roman Catholic; on divorce, wife modified custody decree to raise child as Protestant; on appeal, court refused to enforce premarital agreement on grounds of child's best interests)].

[3] Provisions Regarding Children From Spouse's Previous Relationship

[a] Agreements to Adopt Child From Previous Relationship

Even if a court would decree specific performance of an executory agreement under which one intended spouse promised to adopt the minor child of the other on marriage, the specific enforceability of such a contractual provision is dependent on compliance with many other conditions imposed by statute that are beyond the control of the parties. In any case, it is unlikely that the report of the public agency charged with investigating the suitability of the adoption [see Fam. Code § 9001] would be favorable to the adoption when the adoptive parent expresses an unwillingness to adopt, any premarital written promise to adopt notwithstanding. It also is unlikely that a court would find the interests of the child to be promoted by decreeing adoption [see Fam. Code § 8612(c)] when the prospective adoptive parent expressed an unwillingness to adopt.

If the reason for the proposed adoption is to provide support of the child during minority or in the event of death of the natural parent, these concerns can be addressed directly by including a provision by which the non-parent party agrees to support the other party's child [see [c], [d], below]. These promises, if made independently, are enforceable. If adoption is agreed on by the parties, they may voluntarily take the required steps to carry it out after the marriage. If the prospective stepparent later decides that adoption is not desirable or the stepparent adoption proceeding is unsuccessful for some other reason, adequate provision for the child still will have been made in the premarital agreement, and the enforcement and interpretation problems that otherwise might arise if the promise were phrased in terms of a promise to adopt can be avoided.

For discussion of procedures for stepparent adoptions of minors and adoption of adults, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 172, Adoption of Unmarried Minors and Ch. 173, Adoption of Adults and Married Persons.

Even if the stepparent does not formally adopt the other spouse's child, he or she may in some circumstances be deemed to have "equitably adopted" the child [see Estate of Bauer (1980) 111 Cal. App. 3d 554, 560, 168 Cal. Rptr. 743]. For discussion of the doctrine of equitable adoption, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 170, Nature and Effect of Adoption.

[b] Provisions Governing Religious Education of Child From Previous Relationship

In proceedings involving children, such as custody or guardianship proceedings, courts are required to exercise their discretion in favor of the best interests of the children. In doing so, courts have been willing to disregard the views of parents on the education of their children [see, e.g., Frizzell v. Frizzell (1958) 158 Cal. App. 2d 652, 656-657, 323 P.2d 188; Guardianship of Walsh (1950) 100 Cal. App. 2d 194, 198, 223 P.2d 322].

With respect to a provision in a premarital agreement on religious upbringing, one California appellate court has held such a provision unenforceable. Although the court made its ruling with respect to a child born of the marriage and in the context of marital dissolution proceedings, there is no reason to believe the court would have ruled otherwise with respect to a child from a previous relationship of one of the parties if the same custody and visitation issues were involved, or if the question arose during the course of marriage rather than on dissolution. The court reasoned that a parent will not be enjoined from involving a child with that parent's religious activities in the absence of a clear, affirmative showing of harm to the child. It noted the standard of a Pennsylvania court, which ruled that the party seeking the restriction on a parent must demonstrate that the parent's belief or practice actually presents a substantial threat of harm of the child. Apart from harm, the court also said that such an agreement provision is unenforceable because it would require a court to entangle itself in analyzing such issues as what constitutes a "religious service" or in determining which services were contrary to the agreement, as well as posing constitutional problems by encroaching on the fundamental right of individuals to question, doubt, and change their religious beliefs [In re Marriage of Weiss (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 106, 109, 111, 117, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 339, cert. denied, 136 L. Ed. 2d 399 (1996)]. Thus, it appears unlikely that a court would enforce a provision that a party must raise a child in a particular faith, including providing for the child's religious education in that particular faith [see In re Marriage of Weiss (1996) 42 Cal. App. 4th 106, 109, 111, 117, 49 Cal. Rptr. 2d 339, cert. denied, 136 L. Ed. 2d 399 (1996)].

For a related discussion in the context of marital settlement agreements, see § 124.200.

[c] Provisions for Support of Minor Child From Prospective Spouse's Previous Relationship

A provision sometimes found in premarital agreements is a promise to support the children of the intended spouse by a former relationship, either for a specified period of time [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 353-354, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] or until the children reach majority [see, e.g., Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 774-775, 145 P. 504]. If support of a stepchild is contemplated, an explicit provision to that effect must be included in the premarital agreement because, although the natural parents of a child have an equal responsibility to support and educate their child in a manner suitable to the child's circumstances [Fam. Code § 3900], a person has no legal obligation to support a spouse's child from a former marriage or other relationship involving a third party.

These provisions are enforceable against the promisor and, in the event of breach, give rise to a cause of action for damages [Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 776, 145 P. 504]. The plaintiff in a damages action for breach of a promise to support a stepchild could be the aggrieved spouse, the child as third-party beneficiary [Civ. Code § 1559; see Fam. Code § 4000], or the county welfare authorities on behalf of the child [see Fam. Code § 4002]. If the promise to support the child was expressly made as consideration for waivers of valuable marital rights in the property of the promisor, a breach of that promise may constitute grounds for unilateral rescission of the agreement by the aggrieved spouse and reassertion of the previously waived rights against the property of the promisor [see Estate of Warner (1907) 6 Cal. App. 361, 365-366, 92 P. 191] .

For a sample provision to be included in a premarital agreement contemplating that one intended spouse will contribute to the support of the child of the other by a former relationship during the child's minority, see § 111.221.

[d] Provisions for Minor Child From Previous Relationship on Death of Natural Parent

No court has dealt expressly with the validity of a provision in which the promisor covenants to pay a lump sum for the support of the children of the intended spouse from a former relationship in the event that the natural parent dies during the marriage while the children are still minors. Such a provision appears analogous to promises to support a minor stepchild while his or her natural parent is living, however, which clearly are valid and enforceable [see In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 353-354, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323 ; Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 775-776, 145 P. 504 ; see [c], above]. A promise of support can be enforced after the natural parent's death by the child as a third-party beneficiary [see Civ. Code § 1559] or by the county welfare authorities on behalf of the child [see Fam. Code § 4002].

[e] Provision for Separate Property of Prospective Spouse to Descend to Children of Former Relationship

Premarital agreements may contain provisions regarding the making of wills, trusts, or other arrangements to carry out the provisions of the agreement [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(4)]. Parties to an intended marriage may therefore provide in a premarital agreement for the execution of testamentary instruments leaving their separate property to their children of former relationships. However, such an agreement is unnecessary since a spouse always has the power of testamentary disposition over his or her own separate property [see Prob. Code § 6101(a)] and therefore does not need the consent of his or her spouse to devise his or her separate property to his or her children or to any other beneficiary.

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND

D. Agreements Concerning Children and Personal Relations

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.52

§ 111.52 Agreements Regulating Personal Relationship

[1] General Considerations

Some couples contemplating marriage may seek the advice of a family law attorney regarding premarital agreements covering personal relations--that is, subjects other than property or the support and custody of children. The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], which is applicable to agreements made on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code § 1601], provides that parties may contract regarding their personal rights and obligations provided the agreement terms do not violate public policy or a statute imposing a criminal penalty [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7); see § 111.12].

However, some such provisions may be difficult or impossible to enforce. For example, as discussed in § 111.32 [2], agreements requiring a spouse to pay another spouse for domestic and nursing-type services have been held unenforceable [see Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 (in general, contract under which a spouse is to receive compensation for providing personal domestic services to other spouse is void as against public policy)]. In addition, operative January 1, 2002, any provision in a premarital agreement regarding spousal support, including but not limited to a waiver, is not enforceable if the party against whom the support provision is enforced was not represented by independent counsel at the time the agreement was signed, or if the provision is unconscionable at the time of enforcement [Fam. Code § 1612(c)]. Thus, counsel should advise clients of the possible difficulties that may be encountered if either party seeks damages or specific performance in the event of breach of a provision governing personal relations [see [3], below].

The parties may wish to consider making two separate agreements--one regarding property and children, and the other governing personal relations. The parties should also be advised that if the premarital agreement is to be recorded [see Fam. Code §§ 1502, 1503; former Civ. Code § 5135 (applicable to agreements made before January 1, 1986)], any provisions regarding personal relations included in it will become part of the public record.

[2] Public Policy Limitations

[a] In General

The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.], which is applicable to agreements made on or after January 1, 1986 [Fam. Code § 1601], provides that parties may contract regarding their personal rights and obligations as long as the agreement terms do not violate public policy or a statute imposing a criminal penalty [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7); see § 111.12]. Before its enactment, public policy imposed certain limitations on contractual freedom of intended spouses. For discussion of these limitations, see §§ 111.31-111.34.

While the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act has broadened the scope of matters on which the parties may contract, particularly concerning property [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)], many of the underlying broad public policy concerns must still be considered in drafting agreements [see § 111.31].

[b] Provision for Termination of Marriage Without Court Action

Because of the public policy limitation contained in the Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7)], and because marriage can only be terminated by death or by a judgment of dissolution or nullity [Fam. Code § 310], a contractual provision attempting to make the marriage legally terminated at the will of either party or on the happening of a certain event appears to be invalid. However, the subjective contemplation of parties to a premarital agreement that their marriage will not last a lifetime does not void an otherwise valid premarital agreement unless the contemplation is made an express part of the terms of the agreement [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 350-352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] .

[3] Remedy Problems

In addition to the public policy limitations on the right of spouses to contract [see [2], above, and § 111.31], remedy problems surround the enforceability of provisions of premarital agreements that attempt to govern certain personal relations.

Specific enforcement of such contractual provisions may be precluded by the general refusal of the courts to grant specific performance of agreements for personal services [see Civ. Code § 3390(1); Marvin v. Marvin (1976) 18 Cal. 3d 660, 684, 134 Cal. Rptr. 815, 557 P.2d 106] . "Personal" provisions of premarital agreements that are likely not to be specifically enforceable include all of the following:

- Agreements regarding the division of household duties;
- Agreements to have a child or, alternatively, to terminate a pregnancy by abortion;
- Promises regarding domicile; and
- Promises regarding abstaining from, or participating in, religious observances.

Injunctive relief is also unavailable to prevent breach of such an agreement (except under circumstances that are not relevant in the context of premarital agreements) [see Civ Code § 3423].

Relief for breach in the form of damages may be limited by the rule that no damages can be recovered for a breach of agreement that are not clearly ascertainable, both in their nature and in their origin [Civ. Code § 3301].

§ 111.200 Complete Premarital Agreement--Parties' Interests in Property Acquired After Marriage to Be Separate

[1] Comment

[a] Use of Form

The form set forth in [2], below, is a complete premarital agreement covering the property rights of prospective spouses [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)(1)-(3) (general right of parties to make premarital agreement regarding property interests, management and control of property, and disposition of property on separation, dissolution, or death)]. It is designed to be used by prospective spouses, each of whom is represented by independent counsel in the negotiation and preparation of the agreement, who do not wish to mingle or share their interests in property earned, accumulated, or in any other way received by either of them during their marriage or brought to that marriage by either of them. In the absence of such an agreement, the property acquired through their efforts during the marriage generally would be community property [see Fam. Code § 760; but see In re Marriage of Brooks, (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 176, 184-187, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624 (under "form of title" presumption, taking title to property solely in name of one spouse, during marriage and with acquiescence of other spouse, effectively removes that property from general presumption of Fam. Code § 760 that property acquired during marriage is community property)]. For a full discussion of the characterization of property acquired during marriage, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

This form provides for a complete separation of the property interests of the prospective spouses and specifies that their respective incomes and accumulations during marriage will be deemed the separate property of the spouse receiving those earnings or accumulations. It also contains a complete mutual release of all marital rights to the property of each spouse.

This form is sufficiently general that it should be enforceable with respect to property that either spouse might own in another state. However, the laws of another state in which either of the parties owns real property should be consulted to ensure that any recording or other requirements are satisfied.

[b] No Presumed Confidential or Fiduciary Relationship Between Prospective Spouses

In California, unlike many other states [see Lindey, Separation Agreements and Antenuptial Contracts, vol. 2. (Matthew Bender)], prospective spouses who enter into a premarital agreement are not presumed to occupy a confidential or fiduciary relationship with respect to one another [see Fernandez v. Fernandez (1961) 194 Cal. App. 2d 782, 790, 15 Cal. Rptr. 374]. Paragraph 1 of this form provides that the parties are entering into the agreement "in contemplation of their marriage."

[c] Purpose Clause

Paragraph 2 of this form states that the parties are entering into the premarital agreement in order to define their property rights and to preclude the operation of the community property laws on their property after they are married. The purpose clause is included to make it clear that the parties are not attempting, by way of premarital agreement, to alter their "legal relations." For a general discussion of provisions that are considered to alter the "legal relations" of spouses and that are therefore void and unenforceable as against public policy [see Fam. Code § 1620; see § 111.32].

[d] Disclosure of Assets and Enforceability of Agreement

A premarital agreement is unenforceable if it was unconscionable when it was executed and, before execution one party (1) was not provided a fair, full, and reasonable disclosure of the property or financial obligations of the other; (2) did not voluntarily and expressly waive, in writing, any right to disclosure of the property or financial obligations of the other beyond the disclosures provided; and (3) did not have, or reasonably could not have had, an adequate knowledge of the property or financial obligations of the other party [Fam. Code § 1615(a)(2)(A)-(C)]. Any issue of unconscionability of a premarital agreement is a matter of law to be decided by a court [Fam. Code § 1615(b)]. For related discussion of the need for independent counsel by each party, the requirements for a valid waiver of independent counsel, and of a period of seven days between presentment and signing of the agreement, see § 111.20[2][d] [see Fam. Code § 1615(c)].

Paragraph 3(a) of this form states that the prospective spouses fully disclosed to one another the nature and extent of their assets and debts or other obligations. Exhibits A and B contain lists of that property and also specify the extent of any encumbrances or indebtedness of the prospective spouses. The exhibits must as accurately as possible reflect the value of each prospective spouse's assets and the amount of party's liabilities (including contingent liabilities, such as potential tax liabilities) as of the date that the premarital agreement is executed. Paragraphs 3(b) and 3(c) make reference to the parties' understanding concerning these Exhibits, and recite the parties' acknowledgment of having read the Exhibits and of entering into the agreement voluntarily and with a complete understanding of it.

Paragraph 3(d) makes reference to the parties having executed a written waiver of any disclosure of assets and obligations beyond that which has been disclosed as of the time the waiver was made. A written waiver of disclosure must be executed before the time that the premarital agreement is executed [see Fam. Code § 1615(a)(2)(B)]. It is appended as Exhibit C, and reference to that Exhibit is made in Paragraph 3(d).

For a summary of the general requirements for enforceability of a premarital agreement, see § 111.12.

The first alternative Paragraph 4 of this form lists the children of each party. This paragraph is included to ensure that each party is fully aware of the potential heirs of, and possible duties of support [see Fam. Code §§ 3900, 3910(a), 4300, 4400] owed by, the other party. If neither of the prospective spouses has children, the second alternative Paragraph 4 should be used.

If the prospective spouses wish to make an agreement specifically relating to their duties to either, or both, of their children (for example, regarding support of the other party's children), those provisions may be added to this form following Paragraph 4. For a provision requiring one party to contribute to the support of the other party's children from a previous marriage or relationship, see the form in § 111.221.

[f] Mutual Release of Marital Rights

Paragraph 6 of this form contains a mutual release of all marital rights to the property of the other spouse. By including this provision, the parties agree to release any interest either one of them might have in the property of the other as an incident to their marital relationship, such as the right to dower or curtesy, which have been abolished in California [see Prob. Code § 6412], but which may exist in another state in which the one or both parties own property, rights of succession to the other party's property on the death of the other party [see Prob. Code § 140 et seq.], and community property rights.

The waiver of marital rights in the property of a prospective spouse may be accomplished through the use of general language in a premarital agreement. Whether the general language used in a particular premarital agreement is sufficient to waive specific rights is a question of construction. Each case must be determined in light of all surrounding circumstances as disclosed by the record and by the language used in the agreement [Estate of Schwartz (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 308, 309, 179 P.2d 868] . General language is sufficient to effectively relinquish the right to a family allowance [see Estate of Wamack (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 112, 117, 289 P.2d 871] and the right to be the administrator of the estate of the deceased spouse [see Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 773, 145 P. 504 ; see also Warner v. Warner (1904) 144 Cal. 615, 618-619, 78 P. 24] . The right to declare a homestead may be waived only by clear and explicit language [see Warner v. Warner (1904) 144 Cal. 615, 618-619, 78 P. 24] .

The Uniform Premarital Agreement Act [see Fam. Code § 1600 et seq.] states specifically that premarital agreements may contain provisions regarding the disposition of property and regarding the making of a will, trust, or other instrument to carry out the provisions of the agreement [see Fam. Code § 1612(a)(3), (4); see also Warner v. Warner (1904) 144 Cal. 615, 617-618, 78 P. 24 ; see also Estate of Warner (1907) 6 Cal. App. 361, 363, 92 P. 191] .

Paragraph 6(b) provides that neither party has made any promise to the other regarding any bequests or devises in his or her will.

[g] Acknowledgment

This form is designed to be used when one or both parties own or plan to acquire real property. A premarital agreement that is executed and acknowledged or proved in the same manner that is required for a grant of real property may be recorded in the office of the recorder for the county in which the real property affected by the agreement is situated [Fam. Code § 1502(a)]. Recording or non-recording of a premarital agreement has the same effect as the recording or non-recording of a grant of real property [Fam. Code § 1502(b)]. For a complete discussion of the formalities required in the conveyance of interests in real property, see California Legal Forms, Chapter 27, Deeds and Recording (Matthew Bender).

This agreement contains a form of acknowledgment of the parties' signatures by a notary or other authorized officer [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1189(a)]. For full discussion of the requirements and legal effects of an acknowledgment, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Acknowledgments (Matthew Bender).

PART IV. FORMS
A. Complete Agreements

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.201

§ 111.201 Complete Premarital Agreement--Separate Property Owned Before Marriage Will Remain Separate After Marriage

[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a complete premarital agreement designed to ensure that the parties' separate property, and all earnings attributable to that property, will retain its character following their marriage [see generally Fam. Code § 1612(a)(1) (general right of parties to make premarital contract regarding property interests)]. Generally, property owned by the parties prior to the marriage, and earnings and accumulations of that property, is separate property even without such an agreement [see Fam. Code § 770(a)(1), (3); see e.g., In re Marriage of Rossin (2009) 172 Cal. App. 4th 725, 735-740, 91 Cal. Rptr. 3d 427 (disability benefits received under policy purchased with separate property before marriage are separate property)]. However, executing such an agreement may be useful to avoid later misunderstandings regarding the scope of the parties' separate property.

Under this agreement, property acquired by either party during the marriage generally will be community property [Fam. Code § 760 (property acquired by married person during marriage while domiciled in California is community property); but see In re Marriage of Brooks, (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 176, 184-187, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624 (under "form of title" presumption, taking title to property solely in name of one spouse, during marriage and with acquiescence of other spouse, effectively removes that property from general presumption of Fam. Code § 760 that property acquired during marriage is community property)]. For an agreement that provides for complete separation of the parties' property interests (that is, that property acquired through the parties' efforts after marriage will be separate rather than community property), see the form in § 111.200.

For forms of transmutation agreements, see Chapter 112. For a discussion of transmutation of property, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles (Matthew Bender 2d ed.).

To help ensure enforceability, this form provides for complete disclosure of each party's assets and obligations [see Fam. Code § 1615(a)(2)]. For further discussion of disclosure requirements, § 111.200[1][d]. In addition, the form assumes that each party is independently represented by counsel. For related discussion of the need for independent counsel by each party, the requirements for a valid waiver of independent counsel, and of a period of seven days between presentment and signing of the agreement, see § 111.20[2][d] [see Fam. Code § 1615(c)].

B. Provisions Regarding Property

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.210

§ 111.210 Provision That Parties' Separate Assets Will Become Community Assets

[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a provision under which prospective spouses agree that all property owned by the parties that would otherwise be the separate property of either spouse [See Fam. Code §§ 770-772 (what constitutes separate property); see also Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed.), Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles (Matthew Bender)] will instead be their community property [see Fam. Code § 760 (general definition of community property); see generally Fam. Code § 1612(a)(1) (general right of parties to make premarital agreement regarding property rights)]. If the parties wish to exempt any items of separate property from the operation of this provision, the optional bracketed language should be included.

The provision is for insertion in a premarital agreement. If the form of complete premarital agreement set forth in § 111.200 [2] is used, this provision would be substituted for Paragraph 5 of that form. In that event, appropriate modifications would need to be made to Paragraph 2 (purpose clause) to indicate that the parties wish to transmute their separate property into community property. Paragraph 6 (release of rights in separate property) should also be omitted from that form if this paragraph is used.

A provision in a premarital agreement to the effect that some or all separate property owned by either or both spouses will become community property on marriage is valid and enforceable [see Woods v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 697, 703, 299 P.2d 657] .

In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, property acquired during the marriage solely in the name of one spouse, with the other spouse's acquiescence, is presumed to be the separate property of the titleholder [In re Marriage of Brooks, (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 176, 184-187, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624 (under "form of title" presumption, taking title to property solely in name of one spouse, during marriage and with acquiescence of other spouse, effectively removes that property from general presumption of Fam. Code § 760 that property acquired during marriage is community property)].

Prospective spouses who wish to change their separate property to community property must be fully advised of the practical consequences of their choice. For example, the affected property will be subject to attachment by creditors of either spouse for amounts due on contracts made after marriage [see Fam. Code §§ 910, 911]. The property will also be subject to execution by a judgment creditor for the torts of either spouse [see Fam. Code § 1000].

Any personal property affected by this form will be under the joint management and control of both spouses after marriage, and neither will be able to effectively convey the property, other than for fair and reasonable value, without the written consent of the other [see Fam. Code § 1100(a), (b)]. If the affected property consists of real estate, both spouses ordinarily must join in any conveyance or encumbrance of that property, with limited exceptions [see Fam. Code § 1102]. For full discussion of management and control of community property, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 24, Management and Control of Property (Matthew Bender).

Each party will become the one-half owner of all affected property and will inherit the entire amount of that property if the other party dies intestate [see Prob. Code §§ 6400, 6401(a), 6414(a)]. If the transferee spouse is survived by the transferor spouse, half of the affected property will be included in the decedent's estate for estate tax purposes [see I.R.C. § 2040]. For discussion of intestate succession rules regarding community and separate property, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed., Ch. 25, Succession to Marital Property (Matthew Bender). For a detailed discussion of estate taxation, see California Probate Practice, Ch. 15, Taxation of Estates (Matthew Bender), and California Wills and Trusts, Ch. 2, Overview of Taxation Affecting the Disposition of Estates (Matthew Bender).

[Add if appropriate, and conform preceding paragraph: (b) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a), the following asset(s) shall _____ (be or remain) the separate property of _____ (name of owner-spouse or the party who acquired the asset): _____ (specify excluded asset or type of asset, e.g., if the parties separate, any earnings or income of either party derived from any employment or services rendered after the date of separation, and any asset acquired with such earnings or income).]

B. Provisions Regarding Property

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.211

§ 111.211 Provision That Income Derived From Parties' Separate Assets Will Become Community Property, With Separate Corpus Unchanged

[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a provision making the income and accumulations from the separate property of either spouse (which would otherwise also be separate property) [see Fam. Code § 770(a)(3); see generally Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles] the community property of both spouses following their marriage, but leaving the character of the separate property corpus unchanged [see generally Fam. Code § 1612(a)(1) (general right of parties to make premarital agreement regarding property interests)]. This form is designed to be used by parties who wish to maintain intact the corpus of the property each acquires but who wish to share the returns produced by that property.

Although the form set forth in [2], below, changes the character of future income generated by separate property, it is not subject to the statutory requirements for transmutation agreements, since those requirements apply only to transmutation agreements made during marriage [see Fam. Code § 850 (transmutation agreements between "married persons" are subject to requirements of Fam. Code §§ 851-853); see In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1110-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 481-482, 116 P.3d 1152 ("[p]remarital contracts are not construed and enforced under the same standards as interspousal agreements.")]. Nevertheless, to ensure that both parties fully understand the consequences of their premarital agreement, this form includes a provision that would be required in a transmutation agreement: an express statement that the characterization of future income from separate property will be changed [see Fam. Code § 852(a); In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-482, 116 P.3d 1152 (spouses cannot accomplish transmutation in absence of written declaration expressly changing character of property); In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 267-268, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911 (spouses' transmutation agreement must expressly state that characterization or ownership of property is being changed); In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1095-1096, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886 (escrow instruction that proceeds of sale of residence "be split 50/50" does not transmute proceeds from community to separate property, because it does not include express declaration that character of property is being changed)]. For discussion of the requirements for interspousal transmutation agreements, see Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements .

This provision is for insertion in a premarital agreement. If inserted in the form set forth in § 111.201[2], it should be substituted for Paragraph 4(c) of that form and appropriate modifications should be made to Paragraph 2 (purpose clause).

Income From Separate Property

The net rents, profits, and other income from the parties' separate property Assets, which are listed in Exhibits A and B, and the net proceeds from the sale of any of those Assets, shall be held and owned as the community property of the parties for the duration of their marriage. PART IV. FORMS

B. Provisions Regarding Property

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.212

§ 111.212 Provision for Transfer of Property Immediately After Marriage

[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a provision for the immediate transfer of property from one prospective spouse to the other after their marriage has taken place. This form contains four alternative provisions, all covering different types of property transfers. The first covers lump sum cash payments. The second covers transfers of real property. The third covers the transfer of fully paid life insurance policies. The fourth covers transfer of securities.

The form is for inclusion in a premarital agreement. If desired by the parties, one or more of the alternative provisions may be added to the premarital agreement form in § 111.200 or § 111.201.

It is important that the prospective spouses be fully advised of the potential tax consequences attending a transfer of property between them. Whether a transaction will be a taxable sale or exchange, or a gift, is an important consideration for the parties. Unless counsel has sufficient expertise in tax matters to advise the parties, counsel should refer the parties to a CPA, tax attorney, or other tax specialist for advice on the specific tax consequences of the proposed transfer.

For federal income tax purposes, no gain or loss is generally recognized on a transfer of property between spouses [I.R.C. § 1041(a)]. In addition, unlimited amounts of property, other than certain terminable interests, can be transferred between spouses without federal gift tax consequences [see I.R.C. § 2523(a)].

By contrast, premarital transfers, even those made pursuant to an agreement in contemplation of marriage, do not qualify for the marital gift tax deduction, even if the donor and donee subsequently marry in the same calendar year as the transfer [see generally I.R.C. § 2523(a)(1); Treas. Reg. § 25.2523(a)-1(a); Rev. Rul. 69-347, 1969-1 C.B. 227]. Furthermore, to the extent that the transfer does not qualify as a gift, the gain on the sale may be subject to income taxation [see generally I.R.C. §§ 61(a)(3), 1001 et seq.]. Thus, if a lump-sum transfer of property from one intended spouse to the other is contemplated, it is advisable to provide that the actual transfer will occur after the marriage.

A gift to be made in the future pursuant to a premarital agreement is, for tax purposes, complete on the date of the marriage (provided that the gift may be valued at that time) because it is on the date of marriage that the donor's obligation becomes enforceable [see Rev. Rul. 69-347, 1969-1 C.B. 227].

This form requires the transferor to make the transfer of property after the marriage has occurred. If the transferor fails to make the transfer, the transferee may seek specific enforcement of this contractual provision because he or she would have a valid contractual basis on which to proceed. A premarital agreement requiring a premarital transfer of property would probably be unenforceable because a premarital contract does not become effective until the marriage of the parties [see Fam. Code § 1613]. If a transfer of property in contemplation of marriage precedes the actual marriage, and the marriage does not take place, the transferor may not be able to recover possession of the transferred property [see Estate of Smith (1936) 15 Cal. App. 2d 548, 550-551, 59 P.2d 854].

PART IV. FORMS
B. Provisions Regarding Property

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.213

§ 111.213 Provision Granting One Party Exclusive Management and Control of Community Property

[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a provision for a premarital agreement that gives one spouse the exclusive right to manage and control the community property of the spouses [see generally Fam. Code § 1612(a)(2) (general right of parties to make premarital agreement regarding management and control of property)]. The form contains an acknowledgment by the relinquishing spouse that he or she is informed concerning his or her right to equal management and control of the community property [see Fam. Code §§ 1100(a), 1102(a); see also Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 24, Management and Control of Property], but is voluntarily relinquishing this right, except as specified.

As a general rule, the spouses have an equal right to manage and control community personal property [see Fam. Code § 1100(a)] and community real property [see Fam. Code § 1102(a)]. For community personal property, this right is subject to exceptions that require one spouse to obtain the other's written consent or to give that other spouse notice before entering into certain transactions [see Fam. Code § 1100(b), (c), (d)]. For community real property, the right to management and control is limited by the requirement that both spouses must, either personally or by duly authorized agent, join in executing any instrument by which the community real property is leased (for a period longer than one year), sold, conveyed, or encumbered [Fam. Code § 1102(a)].

By executing this agreement, the relinquishing spouse gives up all rights to management and control of the community property that he or she would otherwise have by law. The one exception provided for in this agreement is a provision that requires the managing spouse to obtain the other spouse's written consent before selling or encumbering the community household's furniture or furnishings or the clothing of the nonmanaging spouse or of the parties' children [see Fam. Code § 1100(c)].

In exercising the right of management and control, the managing spouse is subject to the fiduciary duty that exists by law for transactions between spouses [see Fam. Code §§ 721(b), 1100(e)]. In transactions between a husband and wife, each is subject to the general rules governing fiduciary relationships that control the actions of persons occupying confidential relations with each other. This confidential relationship imposes a duty of the highest good faith and fair dealing on each spouse and prohibits either from taking any unfair advantage of the other [Fam. Code § 721(b); see In re Marriage of Burkle (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 712, 730-736, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181 (Fam. Code § 721(b) prohibits taking of unfair advantage but does not prohibit transaction in which benefits or advantages are obtained by both spouses and neither gains unfair advantage)]. The relationship is a fiduciary relationship subject to certain rights and duties that apply to nonmarital business partners [Fam. Code § 721(b) (legislatively abrogating holding of In re Marriage of Duffy (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 923, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160, to extent in conflict with accompanying statement of legislative intent in Stats. 2002, ch. 310, § 2); see Corp. Code §§ 16403, 16404, 16503]. Thus, for example, a spouse must (1) provide the other spouse access to any books kept regarding a transaction for the purposes of inspection and copying [Fam. Code § 721(b)(1); see Corp. Code § 16403]; (2) render, on request, true and full information of all things affecting any transaction that concerns the community property [Fam. Code § 721(b)(2); see Corp. Code § 16403(c)(1); see also In re Marriage of Walker (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1408, 1427, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 325 (Corp. Code § 16403(c)(1), which is incorporated by reference in Fam. Code § 721(b), requires partners to disclose to each other without demand any information concerning partnership's business and affairs reasonably required for proper exercise of partner's rights and duties)]; and (3) account to the other spouse, and hold as a trustee, any benefit or profit derived from any transaction made without the consent of the other spouse that concerns the community property [Fam. Code § 721(b)(3); see Corp. Code § 16404]. However, the Family Code's imposition of these duties of business partners does not broaden the spouses' duties and obligations to include those of corporate officers and directors beyond providing access, information, and an accounting [In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1092-1094, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886] . For a detailed discussion of fiduciary duties between spouses concerning the management and control of community property and other financial dealings, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 24, Management and Control of Property .

33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.214

§ 111.214 Waiver of Reimbursement for Separate Property Contributions to Acquisition of Community Property

[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a mutual waiver of the right to reimbursement for separate property contributions to the acquisition of community property in proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation [see Fam. Code § 2640(b)]. It may be included in a premarital agreement between parties who anticipate the purchase of property toward which either or both will contribute separate property funds, and who wish to provide for the possible disposition of such property on dissolution or legal separation [see generally Fam. Code § 1612(a)(3) (parties' general right to make premarital agreement regarding disposition of property on dissolution or legal separation)]. For a form of mutual waiver of the right to reimbursement for separate property contributions to the acquisition of the other party's separate property, see § 111.215.

In proceedings to divide the community estate, unless a party has made a written waiver of the right to reimbursement or signed a writing that has the effect of a waiver, that party is entitled to reimbursement for his or her contributions to the acquisition of community property to the extent that he or she traces the contribution to a separate property source. The party is not entitled to receive interest or any adjustment for changes in monetary values, or to receive reimbursement in excess of the net value of the property at the time it is divided. "Contributions to the acquisition of the property" includes down payments, payments for improvements, and payments that reduce the principal of a loan used to finance the purchase or improvement of property. It does not include payments of interest on the loan or payments made for maintenance, insurance, or taxation of the property [Fam. Code § 2640(a)]. Further, the payment of community credit-card debt to enable the parties to qualify for a loan to purchase property is not a reimbursable "contribution to the acquisition of property" [In re Marriage of Sparks (2003) 104 Cal. App. 4th 289, 292-297, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 882] . For further discussion of reimbursement rights, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. [1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a mutual waiver of the right to reimbursement for separate property contributions to the acquisition of the other spouse's separate property [see Fam. Code § 2640(c)]. It may be included in a premarital agreement between parties who anticipate the contribution of either's separate property toward the purchase of assets that will be the other's separate property. For a form of mutual waiver of the right to reimbursement for separate property contributions to the acquisition of community property, see § 111.214.

In dissolution proceedings, a spouse who has contributed his or her separate property to the acquisition of the other spouse's separate property during the marriage must be reimbursed for that contribution unless there has been a transmutation in writing [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq.; see also Ch. 112, Postnuptial Agreements] or a written waiver of the right to reimbursement [Fam. Code § 2640(c)]. Unless otherwise agreed in writing, the amount reimbursed is to be without interest or adjustment for a change in monetary values and may not exceed the net value of the acquired property at the time of the property division [Fam. Code § 2640(c)].

[2] FORM

Neither party shall have the right to reimbursement for any contributions made from his or her separate property toward the acquisition of the other's separate property, as defined in Family Code Section 2640, and each party expressly waives any such right of reimbursement.

§ 111.220 Provisions Regarding Responsibility for Joint Living Expenses[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, contains provisions assigning responsibility for the joint living expenses of parties to a prospective marriage. It is intended for use in a premarital agreement. This form apportions responsibility for joint expenses on the basis of each parties' ability to pay. Each party remains individually responsible for the costs of items used exclusively by him or her, such as individual automobiles.

The provisions of this form would not be enforceable to the extent that they violate the statutory duty of each spouse to support the other during marriage [see Fam. Code § 4300 (duty of support); see also Fam. Code § 1612(a)(7) (provisions of premarital agreement must not violate public policy) (c) (requirement of independent counsel in cases of support waivers); In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 485-486, 110 Cal. 33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.221§ 111.221 Provision for Support of Minor Stepchildren[1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a provision for the support of the minor children of one prospective spouse by the other prospective spouse. If the parties intend that one prospective spouse provide support for the other's minor children, they may include this provision in their premarital agreement. Although the natural parents of a child have an equal responsibility to support and educate their child in a manner suitable to the child's circumstances [Fam. Code § 3900; see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, Ch. 40, Duty to Support Children and Jurisdiction to Order Support, and Ch. 41, Child Support Orders (Matthew Bender 2d ed.)] an individual has no legal obligation to support a spouse's child by a former relationship.

Contractual provisions for the support of a spouse's children by a former relationship are enforceable against the promisor spouse and, in the event of breach, may give rise to a cause of action for damages by the spouse, the child as third-party beneficiary, or even the county welfare authorities on behalf of the child [see Estate of Warner (1914) 168 Cal. 771, 776, 145 P. 504 (dicta defining promisee spouse's options as either to proceed against promisor for breach of contract or to rescind premarital agreement)].

[1] Comment

The form in [2], below, is a provision for a premarital agreement requiring one prospective spouse to purchase and maintain an annuity payable to the other prospective spouse on the first spouse's death. This type of arrangement provides the recipient spouse with financial security if the other spouse predeceases him or her. The recipient spouse is then assured of receiving periodic, unconditional income. For a form of provision for an annuity to be payable beginning immediately on marriage, see § 111.223.

This provision requires the prospective spouse to purchase the annuity contract during his or her own lifetime. If instead the parties wish to provide for an annuity to be paid out of or purchased from assets in the decedent's estate, any such provision would need to comply with the requirements for a testamentary disposition. For a discussion of annuity provisions in testamentary instruments and forms of such provisions, see California Wills and Trusts, Ch. 25, Devises of Money and Personal Property (Matthew Bender).

For a general discussion of annuities as personal planning devices, see Ch. 97, Private Loans and Annuities.

The form in [2], below, is a provision requiring one prospective spouse to arrange annuity payments to the other beginning immediately after marriage. This type of arrangement is designed to ensure that the annuitant will have a guaranteed amount for his or her expenses. It can be used as a substitute for a lump-sum payment arrangement (see § 111.212). This form does not relieve the spouse who purchases the annuity of the duty to support the other spouse [see *Fam. The form set forth in [2], below, is a provision for a premarital agreement by which a prospective spouse agrees to change the beneficiary under an existing life insurance policy [see *generally Fam. For a provision requiring a prospective spouse to obtain a new life insurance policy naming the other prospective spouse as beneficiary, see the form in § 111.224.

If the insured spouse transfers ownership of the life insurance policy to his or her prospective spouse prior to the marriage, that transfer constitutes a gift for federal gift tax purposes [see *Treas. [1] Comment

The form set forth in [2], below, is a waiver of the right of the community to reimbursement for contributions to the education and/or training of one or both spouses [see Fam. Code § 2641(b)(1), (e)]. It may be used in a premarital agreement when one or both of the prospective spouses intends to pursue some type of educational or training program that will enhance their earning capacities. It will preclude the community from recovering any contributions to that education or training in the event that the parties later become legally separated or have their marriage dissolved [see generally Fam. Code § 1612(a)(3) (general right of parties to provide for disposition of property on dissolution or legal separation)].

This form contains two alternatives. The first is general and should be used by parties who do not wish the community to have any claim whatsoever for the cost of community contribution to their education or training. The second alternative is specific and may be used by parties who know that one of them will undertake a specified course of study and who wish only to limit the community right to reimbursement for contributions to that undertaking.

For full discussion of community reimbursement rights regarding contributions to a spouse's education or training, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. 33-111 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 111.228

§ 111.228 Waiver of Right to Seek Spousal Support on Termination of Marriage or Legal Separation

[1] Comment

Set forth in [2]-[3], below, are forms for use in a premarital agreement to provide for a waiver of spousal support on termination of marriage or legal separation. The first form (see [2], below) is for use in providing an outright waiver of spousal support with no offsetting property. The second form (see [3], below) is for use when the waiver of support is conditioned on the transfer of money or other property on marriage.

The form assumes that each party to the agreement has been represented by independent counsel in the negotiation and preparation of the agreement. Pursuant to statute operative January 1, 2002, any provision in a premarital agreement regarding spousal support, including a waiver, is not enforceable if the party against whom enforcement of the spousal support provision is sought was not represented by independent counsel at the time the agreement was signed, or if the provision is unconscionable at the time of enforcement. In addition, an otherwise unenforceable provision regarding spousal support may not become enforceable solely because the party against whom enforcement is sought was represented by independent counsel [Fam. Code § 1612(c)]. For related discussion of the requirements for a premarital agreement to be found voluntary and with respect to waivers of spousal support, see §§ 111.20[2][d], 111.32[1].

[2] FORM--Outright Waiver of Support With No Offsetting Property

Premarital Agreement Provisions

Waiver of Spousal Support

The parties do not currently contemplate, desire, or expect that a dissolution or annulment of their impending marriage to one another will ever occur. The parties have chosen to enter into this Agreement to strengthen their marriage by clarifying their respective financial positions. However, the parties realize that marital dissolutions or annulments do occur with respect to some marriages, and therefore they desire to put in place provisions pursuant to the terms of this Agreement that govern the consequences should marital dissolution, annulment, or related spousal separation occur.

Accordingly, each party hereby waives from the other any right to temporary or permanent spousal support in the event of separation, as defined by this Agreement, dissolution of marriage, or annulment of marriage. The parties have had the consequences of this waiver fully explained to them and they enter into this Agreement with the intent that it be binding in any future proceeding involving their marriage. The parties acknowledge that under current California law, a person may waive his or her interest in spousal support. It is the intent of each party, in consideration of the benefits of marriage and the benefits provided under this Agreement, to waive spousal support and not seek spousal support from the other party in the event of separation, as defined by this Agreement, dissolution of marriage, or annulment of marriage.

The parties acknowledge that each of them is in good health and is currently fully self-supporting, that each of them has been represented by independent counsel in the negotiation and preparation of this agreement, and that at least seven days have elapsed between the time the agreement was presented to each of them [and each was advised to seek independent counsel] and the time this agreement was signed.

[3] FORM--Waiver of Support With Provision for Transfer of Money or Other Property on Marriage

Premarital Agreement Provisions

Waiver of Spousal Support With Provision for Transfer or Transmutation of Property

The parties do not currently contemplate, desire, or expect that a dissolution or annulment of their impending marriage to one another will ever occur. The parties have chosen to enter into this Agreement to strengthen their marriage by clarifying their respective financial positions. However, the parties realize that marital dissolutions or annulments do occur with respect to some marriages, and therefore they desire to put in place provisions pursuant to the terms of this Agreement that govern the consequences should marital dissolution, annulment, or related spousal separation occur.

Accordingly, each party hereby waives from the other any right to temporary or permanent spousal support in the event of separation, as defined by this Agreement, dissolution of marriage, or annulment of marriage. The parties have had the consequences of this waiver fully explained to them and they enter into this Agreement with the intent that it be binding in any future proceeding involving their marriage. The parties acknowledge that under current California law, a person may waive his or her interest in spousal support; that each of them is in good health and is currently fully self-supporting; that each of them has been represented by independent counsel in the negotiation and preparation of this agreement; and that at least seven days have elapsed between the time the agreement was presented to each of them [and each was advised to seek independent counsel] and the time this agreement was signed.

This spousal support waiver is made in consideration of the benefits of marriage, and of the benefits provided under this Agreement, and specifically as part of the bargained-for compromise for the [transfer and/or transmutation of] property provisions [and the estate plan provisions] of this Agreement [that are set forth below].

[CONTINUE, with specific provisions for transfer or transmutation of property on marriage.]

[Transferring or transmuting party, e.g., Prospective Husband] agrees to transfer to [recipient party, e.g., Prospective Wife] as his/her sole and separate property [describe money or other property transferred or transmuted, e.g., the sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000.00) on the occasion of each anniversary of their marriage through and including the fifth (5th) anniversary of their marriage, for a total transfer of one million dollars ($1,000,000.00)]. [Continue with any related transfer/transmutation provisions, e.g.: The parties expect to purchase a home, which will be titled in joint names, as community property. In the event of marital dissolution or annulment of their marriage, Prospective Husband agrees that the residence will be transferred to Prospective Wife.]

[ADD, any related provisions, e.g.:]

[Transferring or transmuting party, e.g., Prospective Husband] specifically waives any right to reimbursement for any down payment, capital improvement, and/or reduction of mortgage principal, pursuant to California Family Code Section 2640, as it is currently enacted or any subsequent statutory or case law right to reimbursement, as part of any transfer of any community real property to [recipient party, e.g., Prospective Wife] as his/her sole and separate property if the parties' marriage is ever terminated by marital dissolution or annulment.

CHAPTER 112 POSTNUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide Scope

Scope

Scope

This chapter discusses agreements that are entered into between spouses during marriage without the expectation that the spouses will separate or dissolve their marriage, and presents forms of agreement by which they may delineate their rights to property. The Legal Background sets forth the major considerations that must be taken into account in drafting an enforceable postnuptial agreement and contains a general drafting guide. Forms include complete forms of agreement that cover property rights.

In In re Marriage Cases, the California Supreme Court held that differential treatment of opposite-sex and same-sex couples in California's marriage statutes violated the California Constitution's guarantees of privacy, due process, and equal protection [In re Marriage Cases (2008) 43 Cal. 4th 757, 784, 847-856, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 683, 183 P.3d 384] . That holding was superseded by the subsequent adoption of Proposition 8, which amended the California Constitution to provide that only marriage between a man and a woman is valid or recognized in California [see Cal. Const. art. I, § 7.5 (eff. Nov. 5, 2008)]. The Supreme Court upheld Proposition 8 against a constitutional challenge, but in doing so the Court reaffirmed the continuing validity of same-sex marriages entered into before November 5, 2008, the effective date of Proposition 8 [Strauss v. Horton (2009) 46 Cal. 4th 364, 470-474, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 591, 207 P.3d 48 (estimating 18,000 same-sex marriages lawfully entered into before Proposition 8 took effect)]. If a form in this chapter is used in the context of a same-sex marriage lawfully entered into before that date, the language in the form should be modified accordingly. For example, the names of the parties may be used instead of terms like "Husband" and "Wife."

For forms of agreement concerning property and other matters that may be used by unmarried cohabitants who have no intention of marrying, see Ch. 110. For forms of agreement entered into before marriage that are made in contemplation of marriage (premarital agreements), see Ch. 111. Note that provisions of certain of the forms set forth in Ch. 111 may, with appropriate modification, also be used in connection with postnuptial agreements. Agreements made on separation or in contemplation of termination of marriage (marital settlement agreements) are discussed in Chs. 120- 125.

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.10

§ 112.10 Use of Term "Postnuptial Agreement"

For purposes of this chapter, the term "postnuptial agreement" means any contract made between the spouses in an ongoing marriage, except as described hereafter. By definition, the term excludes premarital agreements, which are agreements made between intended spouses in contemplation of marriage [see Ch. 111], and marital settlement (termination) agreements, which are agreements entered into in contemplation of the separation of the parties or on dissolution of their marriage [see Ch. 120, Complete Marital Settlement Agreements].

An agreement between the spouses is a postnuptial agreement and is governed by the rules regulating postnuptial agreements even if it is made on the day of marriage, provided it was made after the ceremony [Tompkins v. Bishop (1949) 94 Cal. App. 2d 546, 549, 211 P.2d 14] .

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Postnuptial Agreements

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.11

§ 112.11 Reasons for Making Postnuptial Agreements

Spouses in an ongoing marriage for whom spousal separation or termination of the marriage is not an issue may wish to make an express agreement for a variety of reasons, some of which include, but are not limited to, the following:

- (1) To clarify their ownership of property [see § 112.200].
- (2) To change (transmute) the character of property from separate to community, or vice versa [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq.; see §§ 112.15, 112.30[4][b], 112.201, 112.202].
- (3) To amend or revoke a premarital agreement [see Fam. Code § 1614; see §§ 112.210, 112.211].

Spouses may also desire to contract with each other with respect to matters unrelated to their property rights. In general, this is permissible so long as the subject matter of the agreement is not one prohibited by statute or contrary to public policy. Spouses are, however, constrained by the prohibition on agreements that alter their "legal relations," except with respect to property [see Fam. Code § 1620; see § 112.13]. As in the case of premarital agreements [see Ch. 111], the enforceability of provisions unrelated to property is often questionable and counsel must proceed with caution in including such provisions.

This chapter emphasizes property-related agreements between spouses. For discussion of specific limitations on postnuptial agreements, see § 112.14. For discussion of agreements relating to property, support, child custody, and other matters of significance when spouses agree to separate or terminate their marriage, see Chapters 120- 125.

CHAPTER 112 POSTNUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Postnuptial Agreements

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.12

§ 112.12 Governing Statutes

Postnuptial agreements are governed primarily by Fam. Code §§ 721, 1500, 1620, and 3580. Fam. Code § 721(a) provides that a husband or wife may enter into any transaction with the other, or with any other person, respecting property, which either might enter into if unmarried, subject to the rules applying to the spouses' confidential and fiduciary relationship. In that regard, Fam. Code § 721(b) states that except as provided in Prob. Code §§ 143, 144, 146, 16040 and 16047, in transactions between themselves, a husband and wife are subject to the general rules governing fiduciary relationships that control the actions of person occupying confidential relations with each other [Fam. Code § 721(b)]. Property agreements between spouses and the impact of the spouses' confidential and fiduciary relationship on those agreements are discussed further in §§ 112.16[2], 112.30[3][b].

Fam. Code § 1500 provides general authority for spouses to alter their property rights by a marital property agreement. Fam. Code § 1620 states that, except as otherwise provided by law, a husband and wife cannot, by a contract with each other, alter their legal relations except as to property [see In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 487, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289 (construing a predecessor statute; disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323)].

Family Code Section 3580, which is derived from a common predecessor statute to Family Code Section 1620 [see former Civ. Code § 4802], provides that spouses may agree in writing to an immediate separation and may make provision for the support of either of them and of their children during the separation or on dissolution of their marriage. It further provides that the mutual consent of the parties is sufficient consideration for the agreement. The language that the mutual consent of the parties is a sufficient consideration "for the agreement" has been applied to postnuptial agreements generally, rather than to separation agreements only [see, e.g., Estate of Wilson (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 786, 798, 134 Cal. Rptr. 749 (construing language in predecessor statute)], although the placement of the statement in the statute might create the impression that it refers only to separation agreements [see Woods v. Security-First Nat. Bank (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 697, 702, 299 P.2d 657 (mutual consent doctrine given alternative status as judicially created rule)]. For discussion of consideration, see § 112.30[2].

To the extent that a postnuptial agreement has the effect of transmuting the character of property, it will additionally be governed by the special statutes relating to transmutation [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq.; see also §§ 112.15, 112.30[4][b]].

Agreements between spouses are construed under the statutory rules governing the interpretation of contracts generally, unless a more specific statute provides otherwise [In re Marriage of Benjamins (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 423, 429, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 313 ; see Civ. Code § 1635].

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Postnuptial Agreements

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.13

§ 112.13 Scope of Authorized Transactions

Family Code Section 721(a) authorizes all kinds of "transactions" between spouses with respect to property. It appears that this language is intended to give spouses broad latitude in this regard, both with respect to interspousal transactions and those involving third parties. In one early case, the California Supreme Court commented that the phrase "engagement or transaction," which appeared in a predecessor statute [see former Civ. Code § 158], was sufficiently comprehensive to apply to a promissory note and mortgage [Marlow v. Barlew (1879) 53 Cal. 456, 459]. Section 721(a) further provides that either spouse may enter into any transaction concerning property "which either might [enter] if unmarried." This language is derived from the former "Married Women's Property Act," which was intended to remove various limitations on a wife's contractual capacity that were imposed by common law [see former Civ. Code §§ 158, 162; see also Self v. Self (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 683, 685, 26 Cal. Rptr. 97, 376 P.2d 65] .

The language of Family Code Section 721(a) and its predecessors have prompted statements in the cases to the effect that a husband and wife may deal freely with each other in all property transactions [see, e.g., Tillaux v. Tillaux (1897) 115 Cal. 663, 670, 47 P. 691] . The fact that spouses have such broad freedom to contract regarding property encourages courts to examine all cases involving property disputes between the spouses to determine if an interspousal contract with regard to property is involved [see Perkins v. Sunset Tel. & Tel. Co. (1909) 155 Cal. 712, 720, 103 P. 190] .

§ 112.14 Limitations on Postnuptial Agreements

[1] Generally

The state's interest in marriage has led to strict limitations on spouses' power to contract with one another. While spouses are authorized to make all types of contracts with regard to their property relations [Fam. Code § 721(a)], both public policy and an express statutory prohibition on contracts altering the spouses' "legal relations" [see Fam. Code § 1620] make many interspousal contracts relating to matters other than property rights unenforceable and void [see Brooks v. Brooks (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 347, 351, 119 P.2d 970 ; see also In re Marriage of Mehren & Dargan (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1172-1173, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 522 (postmarital agreement in which husband promised to grant wife his entire interest in certain community property if he used illicit drugs was unenforceable as violative of public policy favoring no-fault divorce)].

Although spouses are prohibited from altering their legal relations [Fam. Code § 1620], the statutes offer little guidance about precisely what those unalterable relations are. Aside from the statutes defining property rights, the primary statute governing spousal relations is Family Code 720, which provides that husband and wife contract toward each other obligations of mutual respect, fidelity, and support. Because neither this nor any other statute offers a comprehensive definition of the spouses' "legal relations," the prohibition on contracts altering these relations must be interpreted in terms of judicial decisions and inferences from related statutory law. The list of prohibited contracts set forth in [2], below, is based on such an interpretation. For a related discussion of matters that appear prohibited on public policy grounds from inclusion in a premarital agreement, see Ch. 111.

[2] Specific Types of Agreements Prohibited

[a] Contracts to Pay for Domestic Services and Companionship

The duty to furnish, and the right to enjoy, companionship, sexual relations, and the society and affection of one's spouse have long been regarded as essential elements of the marital relationship [Hawkins v. Hawkins (1930) 104 Cal. App. 608, 612, 286 P. 747 ; Estate of Campbell (1910) 12 Cal. App. 707, 721, 108 P. 669 ; see Rodriguez v. Bethlehem Steel Corp. (1974) 12 Cal. 3d 382, 385, 115 Cal. Rptr. 765, 525 P.2d 669] . It is therefore highly unlikely that a contract between spouses to pay for any of these elements would be regarded as enforceable. The basis for refusal to enforce such a contract would be that a promise to furnish that which one is legally obligated to furnish is not consideration for a contract [see Civ. Code § 1605]. It has specifically been held that a spouse entitled to affection through the contract of matrimony cannot be required to pay for it [Rottman v. Rottman (1921) 55 Cal. App. 624, 634, 204 P. 46] .

Two early cases held that premarital agreements between intended spouses that promised payment for domestic or nursing services during marriage were void and unenforceable. In one of the cases, the disgruntled husband was allowed to sue his wife for restitution of the sums paid [Brooks v. Brooks (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 347, 351, 119 P.2d 970] . In the other, the wife was barred from recovering payment for her domestic services from the estate of her husband, which she had been promised in the agreement [Estate of Sonnickson (1937) 23 Cal. App. 2d 475, 479, 73 P.2d 643] . Some later cases have merely disregarded language promising payment for companionship and domestic services rather than considering that such language rendered the entire contract void [see, e.g., Ayoob v. Ayoob (1946) 74 Cal. App. 2d 236, 247-248, 168 P.2d 462] .

If the entire subject of the contract is the rendition of nursing-type services by a spouse in exchange for the promised transfer of property, the court may well find that the contract is void as against public policy. The court may adhere to the traditional view that spouses are obliged by the nature of the marriage relation to perform these services. The obligation of support that spouses mutually undertake embraces the rendition of such uncompensated "protective supervision services" [Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652-654, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 ; see [b], below]. Accordingly, no case appears to have held such a contractual provision between spouses to be enforceable.

Challenges to the prohibition on contracts for domestic services between spouses are further discussed in Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements .

[b] Contracts Waiving or Limiting Spousal Support Obligations

One of the three mutual obligations imposed by statute on married persons is the obligation of support [Fam. Code §§ 720, 4300]. Generally speaking, the support obligation is a duty to provide one's spouse with the necessities of life, measured by the lifestyle of the particular parties, and to pay creditors of the other spouse, with separate property if required, for contracts made by that spouse for the necessities of life [see Fam. Code §§ 914, 4301; see also Borelli v. Brusseau (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 647, 652-654, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 16 (spouse is obligated by marriage contract to provide nursing-type care without compensation to other spouse when ill; contract to provide nursing care in return for promised transfer of property is void as against public policy)].

The obligation of support has long been regarded as an unalterable legal relation of spouses under Family Code Section 1620 and its predecessor statutes [see In re Marriage of Higgason (1973) 10 Cal. 3d 476, 487, 110 Cal. Rptr. 897, 516 P.2d 289 (disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323) ; Pereira v. Pereira (1909) 156 Cal. 1, 4, 103 P. 488 , construing former Civ. Code §§ 158, 159]. Therefore, parties to an ongoing marriage ordinarily cannot make an enforceable agreement waiving or limiting the right of either spouse to support during marriages or in the event of separation.

Spouses can, however, provide for the following:

- A marital settlement (termination) agreement containing waivers or limitations on spousal support payments, as discussed in Ch. 123, Spousal and Child Support Provisions ; and
- An agreement in which one or both spouses waive the right to family allowance or probate homestead after the other spouse is dead [see, e.g., Estate of Wamack (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d 112, 115-116, 289 P.2d 871 ; Estate of Schwartz (1947) 79 Cal. App. 2d 308, 309, 179 P.2d 868 (both cases involving premarital agreement)).

For a related discussion of spousal support waivers in the context of premarital agreements, see Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements. For detailed discussion of the duty to support one's spouse, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 50, Duty to Support Spouse.

[c] Contracts Limiting Duty of Child Support

A parent may not contract away the duty to support his or her minor child [Elkind v. Byck (1968) 68 Cal. 2d 453, 457, 67 Cal. Rptr. 404, 439 P.2d 316 ; see Fam. Code § 3900], and it is extremely unlikely that a contract under which one spouse was purportedly relieved of his or her obligation to support an adult child in need [see Fam. Code § 3910] (or a parent in need) [Fam. Code § 4400] would be enforceable. However, parents are permitted to make binding contracts to support children in situations in which the law does not require support, as for example, after the child has attained majority or married before reaching the age of majority [see Fam. Code § 3901; Kamper v. Waldon (1941) 17 Cal. 2d 718, 721, 112 P.2d 1 ; Bryant v. Swoap (1975) 48 Cal. App. 3d 431, 439, 121 Cal. Rptr. 867] . Likewise, because a stepparent is not required to support his or her spouse's children by a former relationship, a contract is necessary to make such a support obligation enforceable. Contracts relating to the support of stepchildren are binding and give rise to a cause of action for damages if breached [see Estate of Warner (1907) 6 Cal. App. 361, 365-366, 92 P. 191 ; see also Fam. Code § 915].

For further discussion of child support duties, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 40, Duty to Support Children and Jurisdiction to Order Support.

[d] Contracts Modifying Obligation of Fidelity

In addition to support and respect, spouses contract towards each other the mutual obligation of fidelity [Fam. Code § 720]. This obligation is imposed on the spouses by law when they enter the marriage contract. However, under the statutory provisions barring suits for damages for breach of promise and for fraudulent inducement to marry [see Civ. Code §§ 43.4, 43.5 (the so-called "anti-heart balm" statutes)], a spouse does not have a cause of action for damages if the other spouse breaches this legal obligation of fidelity [see Boyd v. Boyd (1964) 228 Cal. App. 2d 374, 379-380, 39 Cal. Rptr. 400 (interspousal suit for failure to cohabit after marriage as barred by Civ. Code § 43.5, barring breach of promise actions)].

On the other hand, because of the legally imposed obligation of fidelity, it appears that any contractual provision that attempted explicitly to sanction sexual infidelity on the part of either husband or wife would be of no legal effect, either as consideration for a counterpromise or as the basis of an action for damages.

[e] Contracts Promoting or Encouraging Dissolution

Because of the strong public policy to foster and protect marriage [Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 852, 857, 120 Cal. Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204 ; see [1], above], contracts between spouses that promote or encourage dissolution of the marriage are prohibited [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 349-350, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] . However, such a void provision does not render the entire interspousal contract unenforceable unless it is "inseparably linked" to other contract provisions, in which case it causes the whole contract to fail [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 351, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] .

On the other hand, an interspousal property agreement that merely simplifies the ownership of marital property is not considered to promote dissolution, even though it might make property division on dissolution easier. Further, the subjective intention of the parties that the marriage will not last throughout their mutual lifetimes is not promotive of dissolution so as to render the contract void [In re Marriage of Dawley (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 342, 350-352, 131 Cal. Rptr. 3, 551 P.2d 323] . For further discussion of the prohibition on interspousal contracts promoting dissolution, see Ch. 111.

The only exception to the rule prohibiting contracts promotive of dissolution involves the situation in which the objects of the marriage are utterly destroyed [Glickman v. Collins (1975) 13 Cal. 3d 852, 857-858, 120 Cal. Rptr. 76, 533 P.2d 204] . As discussed in Ch. 211, marital settlement (termination) agreements fall within this exception and are not void as against public policy, even though they often explicitly refer to the pendency of dissolution, and deal with the division of the parties' property, custody of children, and support payments on dissolution.

Because the Legislature has specified that a marriage can be terminated only by means of death of one of the parties, or by a judgment of dissolution or nullity [Fam. Code § 310], it is clear that any contractual provision by which the parties attempt to provide for an alternative means of ending the marriage (for example, at will, or at the end of a certain period of time after one of the parties gave notice) is void and of no legal force or effect.

CHAPTER 112 POSTNUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Postnuptial Agreements

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.15

§ 112.15 Use of Transmutation Agreements

[1] Nature of Transmutation Agreements

Many postnuptial agreements have as their purpose the change, or transmutation, of the character of the parties' property from separate to community, or vice versa. Spouses are free to alter the character of property in this manner [Fam. Code § 850], provided that all statutory requirements are met [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq. (applicable to transmutations made on and after January 1, 1985); see also Fam. Code § 721]. A transmutation agreement may be used to change the character of property to be acquired in the future, as well as property that the spouses own at the time of the agreement [see, e.g., Roberts Land & Improvement Co. v. Dallas (1932) 124 Cal. App. 86, 88, 11 P.2d 1103 (spouses agreed that all real property "held" by either spouse was community property, and agreement was construed to apply to real property thereafter acquired by the parties)].

A transmutation agreement between spouses must be fair and based on full disclosure of the pertinent facts [Estate of Wilson (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 786, 798, 134 Cal. Rptr. 749 (citing predecessor of Fam. Code § 721(b)); see In re Marriage of Balcof (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 1509, 1519-1522, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183 (if one spouse secures advantage from transmutation, presumption arises under Fam. Code § 721 that advantaged spouse exercised undue influence, and transaction will be set aside unless advantaged spouse rebuts presumption)]. For discussion of the effect of the confidential and fiduciary relationship existing between spouses on the consent element of the agreement, see § 112.30[3][b].

The major considerations pertaining to transmutation agreements between spouses under the law applicable to transmutations made on and after January 1, 1985, are the following:

- Except for certain interspousal gifts [see Fam. Code § 852(c)], a transmutation of real or personal property is not valid unless a written declaration expressly changing the character of the property is made, joined in, consented to, or accepted by the spouse whose interest in the property is adversely affected [Fam. Code § 852(a); In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-482, 116 P.3d 1152 ; In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 267-268, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911 ; In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1095-1096, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886 (escrow instruction that proceeds of sale of residence "be split 50/50" does not transmute proceeds from community to separate property, because it does not include express declaration that character of property is being changed); see § 112.30[4][b]].

- Transmutations may be made with or without consideration [see Fam. Code § 850; see also § 112.30[2]].
- Transmutations of real property are not effective with respect to third parties without notice of the transmutation, unless the transmutation is recorded [Fam. Code § 852(b)].
- Transmutations are subject to the laws governing fraudulent transfers [Fam. Code § 851].
- A statement in a will of the character of property is not admissible as evidence of a transmutation of the property in any proceeding commenced before the death of the person who made the will [Fam. Code § 853(a)].
- A written joinder or written consent to a nonprobate transfer of community property on death that satisfies Family Code Section 852 is a transmutation and is governed by the law applicable to transmutations and not by specialized statutes governing nonprobate transfers [Fam. Code § 853(c)]. Otherwise, a spouse's written consent to a provision for a nonprobate transfer of community property on death generally is not a transmutation of the consenting spouse's interest in the property [see Prob. Code § 5022(a)].
- A waiver of a right to a joint and survivor annuity or survivor's benefits under the federal Retirement Equity Act of 1984 [Pub. L. No. 98-397] is not a transmutation of the community property rights of the person executing the waiver [Fam. Code § 853(b)].

The specialized transmutation statutes do not affect the law governing property characterization in which separate and community property have been commingled or otherwise combined [Fam. Code § 852(d)], nor are they applicable with respect to transmutations made before January 1, 1985 [Fam. Code § 852(e)]. For a detailed discussion of the requirements of law applicable to transmutation agreements made before and after January 1, 1985, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles.

[2] Tax Effects

[a] Income Tax Effects

[i] Recognition of Agreement for Tax Purposes

The characterization of property, and of the income from it, as separate or community property is important for income tax purposes only if the spouses file separate returns. The distinction between community and separate property is of little importance when a joint return is filed, because the income of the spouses is aggregated [see I.R.C. § 6013(d)(3)]. However, characterization and the effect of transmutation agreements on characterization will have important tax consequences when a husband and wife file separate returns, because each spouse must claim one-half of the community income, all income from his or her separate property, and all income from his or her percentage share of co-owned property, such as joint tenancy property [see Poe v. Seaborn (1930) 282 U.S. 101, 110-113, 51 S. Ct. 58, 75 L. Ed. 239].

Agreements between spouses that change the character of their ownership of property have generally been recognized as effective for federal income tax purposes [see Dollar v. Commissioner (1940) 41 B.T.A. 869, 873-874 ; Olson v. Commissioner (1948) 10 T.C. 458, 466 ; Crail v. Commissioner (1942) 46 B.T.A. 658, 659, 661-662 ; Van Dyke v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1941) 120 F.2d 945, 946 ; Helvering v. Hickman (9th Cir. 1934) 70 F.2d 985, 986] . An oral transmutation agreement, which is valid only if made prior to January 1, 1985 [see Fam. Code § 852(e)], may be difficult to prove for tax purposes, and the evidence supporting such an agreement must be unequivocal [see Wehe v. McLaughlin (9th Cir. 1929) 30 F.2d 217, 218 ; Helvering v. Hickman (9th Cir. 1934) 70 F.2d 985, 986-987] . A written agreement is greatly preferred, and is required by California law for transmutations agreements made on or after January 1, 1985 [Fam. Code § 852(a); In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-482, 116 P.3d 1152 ; In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 267-268, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911 ; see § 112.30[4][b]].

Under federal income tax law, if the separate property of either or both spouses is transmuted into community property, one half of the income from the property is attributable and taxable to each spouse as community income [Dollar v. Commissioner (1940) 41 B.T.A. 869, 873] . If community property is transmuted to separate property, income from that property will be taxed as separate income [Van Dyke v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1941) 120 F.2d 945, 947] . If the agreement provides that the earnings of either or both of the spouses will be the separate property of the earning spouse, the income will be treated as separate property for income tax purposes [Helvering v. Hickman (9th Cir. 1934) 70 F.2d 985, 986-987 ; Van Every v. Commissioner (9th Cir. 1940) 108 F.2d 650, 651-652 , cert. denied, 309 U.S. 689, 60 S.Ct. 891, 84 L. Ed. 1031 ; Rev. Rul. 73-390, 1973-2 C.B. 12] .

Separate, community, or quasi-community property may also be converted into joint tenancy or tenancy in common [see United States v. Pierotti (9th Cir. 1946) 154 F.2d 758, 762] , and the income from the property will be divided among the tenants for tax purposes in proportion to their fractional interests. The usual rule is that income from property owned by a husband and wife as (true) joint tenants or tenants in common is divided between them [Bullis v. Commissioner (1935) 32 B.T.A. 501, 505 ; Hafner v. Commissioner (1934) 31 B.T.A. 338, 341 ; Finney v. Commissioner (1976) T.C. Memo 1976-329 ; P. Colabella (1958) 17 T.C.M. (CCH) 704, 709] . One half of the income is taxable to each spouse even if one spouse actually receives all of the income [Morgan v. Finnegan (8th Cir. 1950) 182 F.2d 649, 650 ; Finney v. Commissioner (1976) 35 T.C.M. (CCH) 1504, 1507 ; see Lipsitz v. Commissioner (4th Cir. 1955) 220 F.2d 871, 873 , cert. denied, 350 U.S. 845, 76 S. Ct. 87, 100 L. Ed. 753 (1955)] or if the purchase price was paid by one spouse [P. G. Greene (1946) 7 T.C. 142, 152-153] .

[ii] Taxable Gain and Deductible Loss in General

In general, no gain or loss is recognized on a transfer of property (but not services) from an individual to, or in trust for the benefit of, his or her spouse. Transfers to, or for the benefit of a former spouse also qualify for nonrecognition if the transfers are made "incident to divorce." The transfer is treated as a gift and the basis of the transferee in the property is the adjusted basis of the transferor [I.R.C. § 1041(a), (b); see Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1041-1T(a), Q & A 2, 4]. This general rule of nonrecognition does not apply to a transfer made:

- To a spouse who is a nonresident alien at the time of the transfer, or for transfers after June 21, 1988, that are incident to a divorce, to a former spouse who is a nonresident alien [I.R.C. § 1041(d) (as amended by Pub. L. No. 100-647, § 1018(l)(3)); see Temp. Treas. Reg. § 1.1041-1T(a), Q-3];
- In trust, to the extent that the sum of the liabilities assumed, plus the liabilities to which the property is subject, exceeds the total adjusted basis of the property [I.R.C. § 1041(e) (added by Tax Reform Act of 1986, Pub. L. No. 99-514, § 1842(b) and effective retroactively)]; or
- In trust, of an installment obligation [I.R.C. § 453B(g) (as amended by Tax Reform Act of 1986, Pub. L. No. 99-514, § 1842(c) and effective retroactively)].

This rule of nonrecognition was enacted as part of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [see Pub. L. No. 98-369, § 421] and amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1986 [see Pub. L. No. 99-514, § 1842]. It generally applies to all transfers of property after July 18, 1984, unless the transfers are pursuant to instruments in effect on or before that date [see Pub. L. No. 98-369, § 421(d) (permitting spouses to make election to apply rule to certain other earlier transfers)]. Special applications of this nonrecognition rule to transfers of property incident to a dissolution of marriage are discussed in Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 160, Tax Effects of Dissolution, along with a discussion of prior law.

If the nonrecognition rule [see I.R.C. § 1041] is inapplicable and a transfer between spouses is regarded as a sale or exchange rather than a gift for income tax purposes, taxable gain will be recognized. Gain or loss may be affected by the specialized rules concerning "stepped-up" basis on the death of a spouse that are summarized in [iii], below. The recognized gain is the amount by which the fair market value of the property received exceeds the basis of the property transferred [I.R.C. § 1001(a)]. If the value of the property (or rights) received are not readily ascertainable, the amount of gain is the amount by which the fair market value of the property transferred exceeds its basis [see United States v. Davis (1962) 370 U.S. 65, 66-67].

Furthermore, if the nonrecognition rule [see I.R.C. § 1041] is inapplicable, whether a transmutation of property from community to separate or vice versa is regarded as a gift for income tax purposes would appear to depend on whether the spouse whose interests in property are relinquished had donative intent (the intent to make a gift) [see Farid-Es-Sultaneh v. C.I.R. (2d Cir. 1947) 160 F.2d 812, 815]. The existence of donative intent may be negated by the fact that the donor received fair consideration for the transfer in question [see, e.g., Farid-Es-Sultaneh v. C.I.R. (2d Cir. 1947) 160 F.2d 812, 815].

[iii] Stepped-Up Basis at Death

On a spouse's death, one-half of the community property belongs to the surviving spouse, and the other half belongs to the decedent [Prob. Code § 100]. If the property has appreciated in value during the time that it was held, the entire property will receive a stepped-up basis equal to its fair market value on the date of the deceased spouse's death, if the decedent's half of the property was included in his or her estate [see I.R.C. § 1014(b)(6); Rev. & Tax. Code § 18031; see also I.R.C. § 2001 (tax imposed on estate); cf. I.R.C. § 1022 (for decedents dying after 2009, modified carryover basis regime generally applies, so step-up basis for property included in decedent's estate does not apply; as discussed in Ch. 60, Estate Planning)]. The surviving spouse will receive a stepped-up basis in his or her half of the property, and will therefore have a smaller gain on disposition of that property [see I.R.C. § 1001 (adjusted basis used to compute gain)].

By comparison, if the spouses had held the property separately in joint tenancy with a right of survivorship, the surviving spouse would automatically receive his or her half of the property by operation of law through the original joint tenancy title, and not through inheritance or any other type of succession after death [see Goldberg v. Goldberg (1963) 217 Cal. App. 2d 623, 628, 32 Cal. Rptr. 93]. Consequently, his or her basis would not be stepped up if the property has appreciated, but instead would remain at the original cost basis [see I.R.C. § 1012].

EXAMPLE

1: Title in Joint Tenancy. A husband and wife (H and W) buy property in 1960 for $100,000 and take title as joint tenants. At H's death in 2001, the property has appreciated in value to $500,000. W acquires H's one-half interest by operation of law through the joint tenancy title. W's one-half joint tenancy interest has a basis of $50,000 (one-half the original total cost basis). H's one-half interest receives a stepped-up basis as of his date of death to $250,000 (one-half the present fair market value). Thus, W has property with a basis of $300,000 ($250,000 + $50,000) and a present fair market value of $500,000. If W sells or otherwise disposes of the property, she must recognize a capital gain of $200,000. Note that for decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis regime generally applies, so a step-up basis for property included in the decedent's estate does not apply [see I.R.C. §§ 1001(a), 1011, 1014, 1022]; see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, for detailed discussion].

EXAMPLE

2: Title in Community Property. A husband and wife (H and W) by property in 1960 for $100,000 and take title in community property. At H's death in 2001, the property has appreciated in value to $500,000. W now owns one-half of the property as community property, and the other half "belongs" to decedent H. The entire property receives a stepped-up basis ($250,000 for each spouse's community property interest) to the present fair market value of $500,000. Therefore, W will recognize no capital gain on a sale or other disposition of the property. Note that for decedents dying after 2009, a modified carryover basis regime generally applies, so a step-up basis for property included in the decedent's estate does not apply [see I.R.C. §§ 1001(a), 1011, 1014, 1022]; see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, for detailed discussion].

[b] Gift Tax Effects

[i] Generally

If community property is gratuitously transferred to a spouse as his or her separate property, the other spouse has at least nominally made a taxable gift equal to one-half the value of the property. The transmutation of the separate property of one spouse into community property without full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth [see I.R.C. § 2512(b)] is a taxable gift amounting to one-half the value of the property [H. L. Damner (1944) 3 T.C. 638, 642]. In either case, however, the transaction may result in no actual gift tax liability because of the availability of the gift tax marital deduction [see [iv], below].

If the transfer is pursuant to a written agreement between the spouses relative to their marital and property rights, and a marital dissolution occurs within a prescribed period after the agreement is made, the transfer is not subject to a gift tax because it is considered to have been made for a full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth [see I.R.C. § 2516; see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 160, Tax Effects of Dissolution].

For federal gift tax purposes, it appears that quasi-community property is treated as separate property, and transmutation agreements involving quasi-community property would be taxed accordingly [see Sbicca v. Commissioner (1960) 35 T.C. 96, 104].

For a complete discussion of the gift tax consequences of transmutation agreements and other property transfers between husband and wife, see Rabkin & Johnson, Federal Income, Gift and Estate Taxation (Matthew Bender), Ch. 51, Gift Tax Pattern .

[ii] Spousal Cotenancies in Personal Property

Under general gift tax principles, the gift tax consequences accompanying the creation of a joint tenancy or tenancy in common depend on the extent of the consideration furnished by each spouse. If one of the above tenancies is created from community property and the spouses are the sole tenants with equal interests, no gift tax consequences accompany the creation of the tenancy, because each spouse has converted a one-half interest in the community property into a one-half interest in the tenancy [see Commissioner of Int. Rev. v. Mills (9th Cir. 1950) 183 F.2d 32, 34]. If both spouses contribute an equal amount of their separate funds to the purchase of jointly held property, there are no gift tax consequences. However, if the tenancy was created from the separate property or quasi-community property of one of the spouses, there is a taxable gift to the other spouse equal to one-half of the value of the property [Treas. Reg. § 25.2511-1(h)(5); see Treas. Reg. § 25.2511-1(h)(4) (relating to joint bank accounts, which are subject to different gift tax rules than other joint tenancies)].

For discussion of the availability of the gift tax marital deduction, see [iv], below.

[iii] Spousal Cotenancies in Real Property

If one spouse furnishes all, or a disproportionate share, of the consideration to purchase or create a joint tenancy between the spouses in real property, no gift tax will be imposed at the time the joint tenancy is created. The gift qualifies for the unlimited gift tax marital deduction [I.R.C. § 2523(a)], and no federal gift tax return need be filed [I.R.C. § 6019].

On termination of the joint tenancy by death of one of the spouses, the federal estate tax rules provide that one-half of the jointly held property will be included in the deceased's gross estate regardless of which spouse originally furnished the consideration [I.R.C. § 2040(a)]. Thus, for federal estate tax purposes, the factual issues under prior law of which spouse was the original donor and to what extent the donee spouse furnished consideration are eliminated. However, placing real property in joint tenancy may not be the best estate planning device, because the surviving spouse will not obtain a fully stepped-up basis for his or her one-half joint interest [I.R.C. §§ 1014, 2040], as discussed in [a] [iii], above [but see I.R.C. § 1022 (for decedents dying after 2009, modified carryover basis regime generally applies, so step-up basis for property included in decedent's estate does not apply); see ch. 60, Estate Planning, for detailed discussion].

[iv] Availability of Marital Deduction

The gift tax marital deduction is available for interspousal gifts of separate and community property, subject to special provisions regarding spouses who are not citizens of the United States [I.R.C. § 2523(a), (i)]. Unlimited amounts of property, other than certain terminable interests, can be transferred between spouses with no gift tax. Because the estate tax marital deduction is also available for bequests of community property [I.R.C. § 2056], there is no longer any incentive to place real property in joint tenancy in an attempt to reduce transfer taxes. In fact, because the surviving spouse does not obtain a stepped-up basis on his or her half-interest in property held in joint tenancy, placing real property in joint tenancy is not the best estate planning device [see I.R.C. §§ 1012, 1014, 2040, 2056; see [a][iii], above; but see I.R.C. § 1022 (for decedents dying after 2009, modified carryover basis regime generally applies, so step-up basis for property included in decedent's estate does not apply; see Ch. 60, Estate Planning, for detailed discussion)].

[c] Estate Tax Effects

In general, the transmutation of property will not have any estate tax consequences for the surviving spouse when the other spouse dies, because of the unlimited federal estate tax marital deduction for both separate and community property (other than certain terminable interests) [see I.R.C. § 2056(a)]. However, transmutation does change the relative sizes of the spouses' respective estates, and any time such a change occurs, its effect on the couple's estate must be considered because, in the context of the total estate plan, any such change may ultimately increase or decrease the combined tax liability of the spouses' estates. Counsel should consider the couple's estate plan and calculate the potential tax effect before preparing a transmutation agreement. If the attorney does not have sufficient expertise regarding estate taxes, he or she should consult with a tax specialist or CPA. For discussion of the federal estate tax marital deduction and marital deduction trusts, see California Wills and Trusts (Matthew Bender), Chapter 112.

CHAPTER 112 POSTNUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
A. Overview of Postnuptial Agreements

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.16

§ 112.16 General Enforcement Issues

[1] Bringing Actions in General

[a] Capacity to Bring Action

Either spouse in an ongoing marriage can sue the other on a postnuptial agreement, although there is a dearth of reported cases outside the context of proceedings for marital dissolution or legal separation. Lawsuits to enforce premarital contracts between the spouses are more common.

At common law, a husband and wife were deemed to be one person. Neither spouse could maintain an action at law of any character against the other spouse [Peters v. Peters (1909) 156 Cal. 32, 34, 103 P. 219 (overruled on other grounds in Self v. Self (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 683, 684, 26 Cal. Rptr. 97, 376 P.2d 65)]. The common-law rule of interspousal immunity from suit was modified with the adoption of the California Married Women's Property Act [Former Civ. Code §§ 158, 162; see Fam. Code §§ 721, 770; Code Civ. Proc. § 370]. At an early date, the Act was construed to permit actions between the spouses for the protection of separate property and for the enforcement of interspousal contracts relating to that property [Peters v. Peters (1909) 156 Cal. 32, 36, 103 P. 219 (overruled on other grounds in Self v. Self (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 683, 684, 26 Cal. Rptr. 97, 376 P.2d 65)]. For discussion of contract and tort-related actions, see [b], below.

[b] Specific Actions

The abolition of the prohibition on property and contract actions between the spouses [see [a], above] has allowed the maintenance of all types of interspousal actions for the protection of property and the enforcement of contracts, including:

(1) An action for money due on a note [Wilson v. Wilson (1868) 36 Cal. 447, 453 ; Mann v. Mann (1946) 76 Cal. App. 2d 32, 38, 172 P.2d 369] .

(2) An action in ejectment to remove one spouse from the separate real property of the other [McDuff v.

McDuff (1919) 45 Cal. App. 53, 56-57, 187 P. 37 (because parties were separated, husband could not assert general prohibition on a spouse excluding the other from separate property dwelling place)].

(3) An action to recover separate property appropriated by the other spouse or to recover its value [People v. Graff (1922) 59 Cal. App. 706, 712, 211 P. 829] .

The abolition of interspousal immunity from suits to vindicate property rights extended to actions based on torts as long as the tortious act involved a direct injury to a property interest of the spouse [Langley v. Schumacker (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 601, 603, 297 P.2d 977 ; Peters v. Peters (1909) 156 Cal. 32, 36, 103 P. 219 (overruled on other grounds in Self v. Self (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 683, 684, 26 Cal. Rptr. 97, 376 P.2d 65)]. The California Supreme Court has also abolished interspousal tort immunity for personal injuries, based on both intentional and negligent torts [see Klein v. Klein (1962) 58 Cal. 2d 692, 693, 26 Cal. Rptr. 102, 376 P.2d 70] .

As an alternative to action for damages or specific relief, a declaratory relief action between the spouses is also possible. The plaintiff in such a suit may be any person interested under a written instrument (excluding a will or trust), or under a contract, or one who desires a declaration of his or her rights or duties with respect to another, or in respect to, in, over, or on property. Although an obligation need not yet be breached, there must be an actual controversy [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice (Matthew Bender), Ch. 182, Declaratory Relief].

A declaratory relief action must be instituted in the superior court [Code Civ. Proc. § 1060]. The court may refuse to exercise its powers if it determines that its declaration or determination is not necessary or proper at the time under all the circumstances [Code Civ. Proc. § 1061].

Ordinarily, declaratory relief actions take precedence over most matters on the court calendar, which is ordinarily another advantage [see Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(a)]. However, if the plaintiff seeks relief other than declaratory relief, the action will take precedence only if the plaintiff shows, on noticed motion, that the action requires a speedy trial [Code Civ. Proc. § 1062.3(b)].

The foregoing remedies are in addition to those now specifically set forth by statute for breach of spousal fiduciary duties, which are discussed in § 112.16[2].

[2] Breach of Confidential and Fiduciary Relationship

[a] Fraud, Undue Influence, or Other Breach

Spouses generally have a confidential, fiduciary relationship with each other. Thus, each spouse has a duty of the highest good faith and fair dealing with the other spouse, and neither spouse may take any unfair advantage of the other [Fam. Code § 721(b)]. Whenever spouses enter into an agreement in which one spouse gains an unfair advantage, a presumption of undue influence arises, and the advantaged spouse has the burden of demonstrating that the agreement was not obtained through undue influence [In re Marriage of Bonds (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 1, 27, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 252, 5 P.3d 815 ; In re Marriage of Haines (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 277, 293, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673] . The presumption of undue influence does not arise, however, unless one spouse gains an unfair advantage; the presumption has no application in a transaction in which benefits or advantages are obtained by both spouses and neither gains an unfair advantage [In re Marriage of Burkle (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 712, 730-736, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181 ; see Gray and Wagner, Complex Issues in California Law, Chs. A5.01[5][b], B7.04[3][b] and C5.05[2][b] (Matthew Bender)].

The statute setting forth the spouses' fiduciary relationship--and prohibiting the taking of unfair advantage--became operative January 1, 1994 [1992 Stats., ch. 162, enacting Fam. Code § 721, operative Jan. 1, 1994]. Before that statute took effect, some courts applied legal principles governing the duties of trustees to impose a presumption of undue influence in interspousal agreements based on any advantage gained by a spouse [see, e.g., Gaines v. California Trust Co. (1941) 48 Cal. App. 2d 709, 714-715, 121 P.2d 28 ; see also Prob. Code § 16004(c); Rader v. Thrasher (1962) 57 Cal. 2d 244, 252, 18 Cal. Rptr. 736, 368 P.2d 360 (attorney-client relationship)]. However, the legal requirements applicable to the one-way trustee-beneficiary relationship do not necessarily apply to an interspousal transaction, in which fiduciary duties run in both directions [In re Marriage of Burkle (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 712, 732-734, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181] . Thus, while a trustee is presumed to have violated his or her fiduciary duty by gaining any advantage from a trust beneficiary, a spouse is presumed to have exerted undue influence only if he or she gained an unfair advantage [compare Prob. Code § 16004(c) (transaction between trustee and beneficiary by which trustee "obtains an advantage" from beneficiary is presumed to violate trustee's fiduciary duties) (emphasis added) with Fam. Code § 721(b) ("neither [spouse] shall take any unfair advantage of the other") (emphasis added)]. Accordingly, pre-1994 decisions based on general trust principles are of limited value in assessing whether a transaction between spouses gives rise to a presumption of undue influence under the current statute governing interspousal transactions [see In re Marriage of Burkle (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 712, 733-734, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181] .

Regardless of whether the presumption applies, a spouse who seeks to avoid a postnuptial contract may submit evidence of actual undue influence, fraud, or other breach of the confidential relationship. The following evidence has been viewed as tending to prove actual fraud, undue influence, or other breach of the fiduciary duty between spouses:

(1) Evidence that the spouse lied or misrepresented facts to the other spouse [see, e.g., Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 142, 204 P. 583 (wife waived inheritance rights in $200,000 estate in exchange for $14,000 in part because of misrepresentation that she would otherwise receive no property on death of her husband); In re Marriage of Cairo (1988) 204 Cal. App. 3d 1255, 1261-1262, 251 Cal. Rptr. 731 (community-property presumption not rebutted by quitclaim deed signed in reliance on spouse's misrepresentation)].

(2) Evidence that the spouse concealed or undervalued assets that were the subject of the transaction or contract [see, e.g., Haseltine v. Haseltine (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 48, 54-58, 21 Cal. Rptr. 238 (husband grossly undervalued community property business when arranging to buy out wife's interest in it)].

(3) Evidence of threats or violence surrounding the transaction [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Pashley (1974) 40 Cal. App. 3d 1079, 1082, 115 Cal. Rptr. 537 (invalidation of quitclaim deed that husband was coerced into signing while recuperating from gunshot wound inflicted by wife)].

(4) Evidence that the spouse over whom the unfair advantage was obtained was disabled or senile [Malone v. Malone (1957) 155 Cal. App. 2d 161, 162-163, 317 P.2d 65 (gifts by husband to wife of real property and stocks set aside based on evidence of husband's advanced age, nervous disorders, impaired mental faculties, and complete trust and confidence in wife who acted as his confidential business agent during transactions)].

(5) Evidence that the consideration received for an interspousal transfer of property was clearly inadequate [Hilton v. Hilton (1921) 54 Cal. App. 142, 155-156, 201 P. 337 (wife transferred valuable property to husband without independent advice, and without knowledge of property's full value, receiving in return a "ridiculously small" amount of consideration)].

PRACTICE TIP:

Because mutual consent is sufficient consideration for a postnuptial agreement (see § 112.30[2]), this factor by itself is of limited current applicability. However, in combination with other factors, such as threats and deprivation of independent legal advice, it carries some weight. Commentary by Diana Richmond

(6) Evidence that the imposed-on spouse was ignorant of his or her rights and did not seek independent advice, but relied on the advice of his or her spouse [see, e.g., Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 145, 204 P. 583] .

(7) Evidence that the marriage was harmonious and that one spouse habitually depended and relied on the other spouse for guidance [see, e.g., Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 145, 204 P. 583] .

The fact that one spouse did not receive independent advice before entering into a business transaction with the other spouse is persuasive but not conclusive on the issue of undue influence. Although some early cases implied that independent advice was necessary for an interspousal transaction to be valid [see, e.g., Dolliver v. Dolliver (1892) 94 Cal. 642, 648, 30 P. 4] , the current rule is that independent advice is not absolutely necessary to establish the validity of an interspousal transaction [Pfingst v. Goetting (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 293, 309, 215 P.2d 93] , or to rebut a presumption of undue influence [Combs v. Combs (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 903, 905, 171 P.2d 949 ; cf. In re Marriage of Haines (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 277, 297, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673 (citing earlier case for proposition that marriage relationship alone will not support presumption of undue influence, but when one spouse obtains advantage over other, the parties' confidential relationship raises presumption of "use and abuse of that relationship by the spouse obtaining the advantage"); see also In re Marriage of Burkle (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 712, 731, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181 (reference to spouse obtaining "advantage" in In re Marriage of Haines plainly means "unfair advantage" proscribed by Fam. Code § 721(b))].

[b] Remedies for Breach

Under Family Code Section 1101(a), a spouse has a claim against the other spouse for any breach of a fiduciary duty that results in impairment to the claimant spouse's present undivided one-half interest in the community estate. The claim may be brought without filing an action for dissolution of marriage, legal separation, or nullity, in conjunction with such an action, or on the death of a spouse [Fam. Code § 1101(f)]. Remedies available under Family Code Section 1101 include an accounting of the property and obligations [Fam. Code § 1101(b)], a determination of ownership and possessory rights in the property [Fam. Code § 1101(b)], and a reformation of title [Fam. Code § 1101(c)]. A claimant may also seek an award of 50 percent, or an amount equal thereto, of any asset undisclosed or transferred in breach of the fiduciary duty, plus attorney's fees and court costs [Fam. Code § 1101(g); see Fam. Code §§ 721, 1100 (fiduciary duties of spouse)]. If the breach involves oppression, malice, or fraud as defined in Civil Code Section 3294, the award may be increased to 100 percent, or an amount equal to 100 percent, of the asset [Fam. Code § 1101(h); see In re Marriage of Rossi (2001) 90 Cal. App. 4th 34, 42-43, 108 Cal. Rptr. 2d 270 (wife concealed lottery winnings)]. For further discussion and a form of a petition, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 24, Management and Control of Property .

Remedies under Family Code Section 1101 generally apply only to transactions or events that occur on or after July 1, 1987 [see Stats. 1986, ch. 1091, § 3(a); Fam. Code § 1101(d)(4)]. The action must generally be commenced within three years of the date the petitioner had actual knowledge that the transaction or event occurred [Fam. Code § 1101(d)(1)]. However, these time limitations do not apply to actions commenced on the death of a spouse or in conjunction with an action for legal separation, dissolution or marriage, or nullity [see Stats. 1986, ch. 1091, § 3(a); Fam. Code § 1101(d)(2), (4)].

Before July 1, 1987, rescission of the agreement was ordinarily the proper remedy if, by virtue of an agreement or transaction between the spouses, one obtained an unfair advantage over the other [see, e.g., Auclair v. Auclair (1946) 72 Cal. App. 2d 791, 800-801, 165 P.2d 527 ; see Haseltine v. Haseltine (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 48, 54-58, 21 Cal. Rptr. 238] . However, even with respect to pre-July 1, 1987, transactions, the exercise of undue influence in a transaction between husband and wife did not automatically rescind the transaction. The transaction was not void but merely voidable and would remain valid and binding in the absence of an action to rescind it [Hicks v. Hicks (1962)

211 Cal. App. 2d 144, 156, 27 Cal. Rptr. 307] .

[c] Defenses Against Claim of Breach

[i] Lack of Confidential Relationship

In general, because the existence of a confidential relationship depends on the reposing of trust and confidence by one person in another, the confidential relationship may be terminated if trust and confidence no longer exist [Vai v. Bank of America (1961) 56 Cal. 2d 329, 337-338, 15 Cal. Rptr. 71, 364 P.2d 247] . The presumption that such a relationship existed when a postnuptial agreement was made may be rebutted. Whether a confidential relationship actually existed between a husband and wife at the time of a given transaction is a question of fact [see Hayutin v. Weintraub (1962) 207 Cal. App. 2d 497, 514, 24 Cal. Rptr. 761] .

However, a fiduciary relationship may be found to exist between the spouses even in the absence of a confidential relationship, and this relationship imposes a duty of the highest good faith and fair dealing between the spouses [see Fam. Code § 721(b)], particularly if one spouse has control over community property [see Fam. Code § 1100(e)]. Thus, a lack of confidence between the spouses appears not to be a complete defense to a purported breach of the statutory spousal fiduciary duties, unless it can also be shown that the defendant met all fiduciary requirements imposed by statute [see generally Fam. Code §§ 721(b), 1100(e)].

[ii] Knowing, Free, and Voluntary Agreement

A defense to a claim of undue influence in a transaction between spouses is that both parties were fully advised of the nature of the transaction and all the essential facts, and that they freely and voluntarily executed the agreement. This defense was sufficient in a case in which the attorney who prepared the agreement represented both parties, because both spouses had the opportunity to discuss fully the terms of the agreement and to object to any or all of its provisions [Marsiglia v. Marsiglia (1947) 78 Cal. App. 2d 701, 705, 178 P.2d 478] .

[iii] Disclosure

As a defense to a claim that a spouse was misled about the nature or effect of a postnuptial agreement, a spouse may submit evidence that he or she has made full and fair disclosure to the other spouse of all information that should be known for the other's benefit and protection about the nature and effect of the transaction. At the very least, the spouse must satisfy the requirements of Family Code Section 1100(e) by disclosing all material facts and information regarding the existence, characterization, and valuation of all assets in which the community has or may have an interest and debts for which the community is or may be liable, and providing access to all information, records, and books that pertain to the value and character of those assets and debts, on request. The disclosure requirements under current and prior law are more fully discussed in Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 24, Management and Control of Property .

If one spouse has made full disclosure to the other, there is apparently no general duty to ensure that the other spouse subjectively understood the facts. The subjective understanding of a spouse does not overcome the express language of a written agreement in the absence of fraud or imposition. In one case, a wife agreed to the transmutation of certain property from joint tenancy to community property. She executed a consent form in which she expressly declared that she fully understood the transaction. The court held that the wife could not subsequently rescind the agreement merely by asserting that she did not know what she was doing when she signed it [Estate of Wilson (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 786, 802, 134 Cal. Rptr. 749] . Also, the mere failure to read an agreement is not grounds for invalidating it in the absence of other evidence of fraud or mistake [Chadwick v. Chadwick (1928) 95 Cal. App. 690, 701, 273 P. 86] .

[iv] Acceptance of Benefits as Estoppel

A spouse who signs a postnuptial agreement that is voidable for undue influence or in violation of the parties' confidential relationship is not estopped from asserting the invalidity of the contract or agreement by virtue of having accepted benefits under the contract unless, in accepting the benefits, he or she acted with full knowledge of all the material facts and circumstances, and with full knowledge of his or her rights in the premises [see Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 146, 204 P. 583].

[v] Laches

If an agreement between spouses is voidable for fraud, and the spouse who obtained an unfair advantage (or his or her successors in interest) attempts to enforce the agreement, the defrauded spouse is not barred by either the statute of limitations or the doctrine of laches from raising the fraud as a defense to enforcement of the agreement. When fraud is relied on merely as a defense, neither the limitation of the statute nor the doctrine of laches will operate to bar the defense of the invalidity of the agreement on the ground of fraud. As long as the plaintiff is permitted to come into court seeking to enforce the agreement, the defendant may allege and prove fraud as a defense. It is not incumbent on one who has been defrauded to go into court and ask for relief. Instead, he or she may wait until enforcement is sought and then be excused from performance by proof of the fraud [Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 140-141, 204 P. 583 ; French v. Construction Laborers Pension Trust (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 479, 485, 118 Cal. Rptr. 731].

The right to rescind by notice without judicial proceedings [see Civ. Code § 1691] is also not barred by the statute of limitations governing actions for affirmative relief for fraud [see Code Civ. Proc. § 338], because statutes of limitation apply to bar only actions or proceedings in courts [French v. Construction Laborers Pension Trust (1975) 44 Cal. App. 3d 479, 485, 118 Cal. Rptr. 731].

[3] Assertion of Agreement in Dissolution Proceeding

In general, at the time of trial in a proceeding for marital dissolution or legal separation, a spouse who has entered into a postnuptial agreement regarding specific property may assert the agreement's provisions as controlling with regard to the disposition of that property. Frequently, this occurs in the context of responding to a spouse's characterization of property by asserting that the property at issue has been transmuted by agreement. For a general discussion of asserting agreements in a dissolution proceeding, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 20, Community Property: General Characterization and Division Principles, and California Family Law Trial Guide (Matthew Bender), Unit 47.

CHAPTER 112 POSTNUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

PART II. LEGAL BACKGROUND
B. Drafting the Postnuptial Agreement

33-112 California Legal Forms--Transaction Guide § 112.30

§ 112.30 Essential Contractual Elements

[1] Contractual Capacity

As in the case of other contracts, the parties to a postnuptial agreement must have legal capacity to contract [see Civ. Code § 1556; see also Fam. Code § 1501 (capacity of emancipated minor to make marital property agreement)]. Capacity is usually not a controverted matter with respect to postnuptial agreements, unless there is an issue of mental illness with respect to a spouse at the time of contracting.

[2] Consideration

No formal monetary or similar consideration is required for an enforceable postnuptial agreement, but the parties' mutual consent, which is required in any event [see 112.30[3]], will also serve and suffice as the nominal consideration for the agreement [see Fam. Code § 3580; derived from former Civ. Code § 4802; Estate of Wilson (1976) 64 Cal. App. 3d 786, 798, 134 Cal. Rptr. 749 (construing language in predecessor statute); see also Fam. Code §§ 850 (transmutation may be made with or without consideration), 1614 (agreement after marriage that amends or revokes premarital agreement is enforceable without consideration)].

[3] Consent

[a] In General

The parties' consent to a postnuptial agreement must be free, mutual, and communicated to each other [see Civ. Code § 1565]. An apparent consent is not free if it is obtained through duress, menace, fraud, undue influence, or mistake [Civ. Code § 1567].

The consent of the parties must be to a lawful object at the time the agreement is made, and the object must be possible and ascertainable by the time the agreement is to be performed [see Civ. Code § 1596]. For discussion of permissible objects of a postnuptial agreement, see §§ 112.13, 112.14 [see Fam. Code §§ 721, 1620].

[b] Effect of Spouse's Confidential and Fiduciary Relationship

Except as limited by statute [see Prob. Code §§ 143, 144, 146, 16040, 16047], in transactions between themselves, spouses are subject to the general rules governing fiduciary relationships that control the actions of persons occupying confidential relations with each other. This confidential relationship imposes a duty of the highest good faith and fair dealing on each spouse. The relationship is a fiduciary relationship subject to certain rights and duties that apply to nonmarital business partners [Fam. Code § 721(b)] (legislatively abrogating holding of In re Marriage of Duffy (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 923, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 160), to extent in conflict with accompanying statement of legislative intent in Stats. 2002, ch. 310, § 2; see Corp. Code §§ 16403, 16404, 16503]. Thus, for example, a spouse must:

- provide the other spouse access to any books kept regarding a transaction for the purposes of inspection and copying [Fam. Code § 721(b)(1); see Corp. Code § 16403];
- render, on request, true and full information of all things affecting any transaction that concerns the community property [Fam. Code § 721(b)(2); see Corp. Code § 16403(c)(1); see also In re Marriage of Walker (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1408, 1427, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 325 (Corp. Code § 16403(c)(1), which is incorporated by reference in Fam. Code § 721(b), requires partners to disclose to each other without demand any information concerning partnership's business and affairs reasonably required for proper exercise of partner's rights and duties)];
- account to the other spouse, and hold as a trustee, any benefit or profit derived from any transaction made without the consent of the other spouse that concerns the community property [Fam. Code § 721(b)(3); see Corp. Code § 16404].

However, the Family Code's imposition of these duties of business partners does not broaden the spouses' duties and obligations to include those of corporate officers and directors beyond providing access, information, and an accounting [In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1092-1094, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886] .

In particular, each spouse must act with respect to the other in the management and control of community property in accordance with the general rules governing fiduciary relationships that control the actions of persons having relationships of personal confidence, as set forth above, until such time as the property has been divided by the parties or by the court [see Fam. Code § 1100(e)]. Thus, in entering into a postnuptial agreement that concerns their property interests, spouses have a fiduciary duty to act with the highest good faith and fair dealing, and neither may take any unfair advantage of the other [see Fam. Code §§ 721, 1100(e); In re Marriage of Burkle (2006) 139 Cal. App. 4th 712, 730-736, 43 Cal. Rptr. 3d 181 (Fam. Code § 721(b) prohibits taking of unfair advantage but does not prohibit transaction in which benefits or advantages are obtained by both spouses and neither gains unfair advantage); see also In re Marriage of Balcof (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 1509, 1519-1522, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 183 (if one spouse secures advantage from transmutation of property, presumption arises under Fam. Code § 721 that advantaged spouse exercised undue influence, and transaction will be set aside unless advantaged spouse rebuts presumption)].

In general, spouses are obligated to make full disclosure of information related to their community property and debts and to provide each other with access to records, books, and other information related to community property transactions [see Fam. Code §§ 721(b), 1100(e)]. For detailed discussion of the fiduciary duty with respect to community property transactions, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. (Matthew Bender), Ch. 24, Management and Control of Property .

Therefore, subject to possible defenses [see § 112.16[2]], there is a presumption that the parties are subject to a confidential and fiduciary relationship, as set forth by statute, and that the rules applicable to persons in such a relationship will apply in "transactions" between spouses with regard to property [Fam. Code § 721(b)]. The rules have been held to apply in regard to such matters as:

- Contracts to make mutual wills [see Brewer v. Simpson (1960) 53 Cal. 2d 567, 589, 2 Cal. Rptr. 609, 349 P.2d 289] .
- Purchases and sales of property between the spouses [see Haseltine v. Haseltine (1962) 203 Cal. App. 2d 48, 54-58, 21 Cal. Rptr. 238] .
- Contracts for waiver of inheritable interests in a spouse's property in exchange for a cash settlement [Estate of Cover (1922) 188 Cal. 133, 143, 204 P. 583 ; see Estate of Smith (1966) 241 Cal. App. 2d 205, 209, 50 Cal. Rptr. 374] .
- Gifts of community property to third parties [see Combs v. Combs (1946) 75 Cal. App. 2d 903, 905, 171 P.2d 949] .

The California Supreme Court has held that a transmutation (changing separate property to community property, or community property to separate property) cannot be accomplished in the absence of a written declaration expressly changing the character of the property [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-482, 116 P.3d 1152 ; In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 267-268, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911 ; see Fam. Code § 852(a) (transmutation is not valid unless made in express written declaration by spouse whose interest in property is adversely affected); see also In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1095-1096, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886 (escrow instruction that proceeds of sale of residence "be split 50/50" does not transmute proceeds from community to separate property, because it does not include express declaration that character of property is being changed)]. Therefore, a violation of the statutory interspousal fiduciary duty of good faith and fair dealing may not serve as the basis for establishing a transmutation, in the absence of an express written declaration changing the character of the property [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1110-1112, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 482-483, 116 P.3d 1152 (absent transmutation that satisfies statutory formalities, there is no basis for applying presumption of undue influence under Fam. Code § 721(b))]. However, a spouse who has conveyed property in reliance on an unfulfilled oral promise to carry out a transmutation may seek to invalidate the conveyance based on the other spouse's violation of the interspousal fiduciary duty [see In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1111-1112, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 482, 116 P.3d 1152 ; see also In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1112-1113, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 483, 116 P.3d 1152 (Moreno, J., concurring)]. Furthermore, once an otherwise proper written transmutation has been made, a court may undo the transmutation if it is so grossly one-sided and unfair as to be the product of undue influence in violation of the interspousal fiduciary duty [see In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1112, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 482-483, 116 P.3d 1152 ; see, e.g., In re Haines (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 277, 293-294, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 673 ; see also § 112.16[2]].

For general discussion of transmutations of property by agreement, see § 112.15. Formal requirements for transmutation agreements are discussed in [4][b] and [5][b], below.

[4] Writing Requirement

[a] In General

Unlike premarital agreements [see Fam. Code § 1610 et seq.; see also Ch. 111, Premarital Agreements], postnuptial agreements are not subject to a specific requirement that they be in writing and, clearly, some postnuptial agreements can be oral [see, e.g., Fam. Code § 852(c) (written agreement for property transmutation is not required for certain gifts of personal property between spouses)]. However, postnuptial agreements are subject to both the general statute of frauds [see Civ. Code § 1624] and the writing requirements for transmutations of property [see Fam. Code § 850 et seq.; see also [b], below]. They are also subject to a writing requirement if they waive a surviving spouse's rights in a deceased spouse's estate [see Prob. Code § 142].

Because many interspousal property agreements fall within at least one of the foregoing categories of agreements that must be written, the circumstances under which oral agreements are valid appear extremely limited under current law.

[b] Transmutations of Property

As discussed in § 112.15, nearly all transmutations of property made on or after January 1, 1985, must be in writing. The writing must constitute an "express declaration that is made, joined in, consented to, or accepted by the spouse whose interest in the property is adversely affected" [Fam. Code § 852(a)]. The California Supreme Court has held that a writing signed by the adversely affected spouse is not an "express declaration" for purposes of the statute unless it contains language that expressly states that the characterization or ownership of the property is being changed [In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 267-268, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911 ; see In re Marriage of Leni (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1087, 1095-1096, 50 Cal. Rptr. 3d 886 (escrow instruction that proceeds of sale of residence "be split 50/50" does not transmute proceeds from community to separate property, because it does not include express declaration that character of property is being changed)]. Although a writing sufficient to satisfy the "express declaration" requirement of the statute might contain the words "transmutation," "community property," or "separate property," those words are not essential if the language used expressly states that the characterization or ownership of the property is being changed [In re Estate of MacDonald (1990) 51 Cal. 3d 262, 272-273, 272 Cal. Rptr. 153, 794 P.2d 911] .

The statute requiring an express written declaration changing the character of property to be transmuted [Fam. Code § 852(a)] does not operate like a general statute of frauds [see, e.g., Civ. Code § 1624(a) (general statute of frauds)]. The requirement of an express written declaration is more than an evidentiary standard; it is an essential element of any transmutation. Therefore, the requirement is not subject to implied exceptions that may apply in the context of a general statute of frauds [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1109, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-480, 116 P.3d 1152 ("[W]e see no evidence the Legislature intended to incorporate traditional exceptions to the statute of frauds into [Fam. Code § 852]. Indeed, the Commission Comment ... supports the opposite proposition." [emphasis in original])]. Thus, for example, a transmutation cannot be accomplished by part performance of an unwritten transmutation agreement [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1106-1107, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 478-479, 116 P.3d 1152 (statutory language and legislative history establish that Fam. Code § 852(a) "cannot be satisfied where there is no writing about the subject property at all, and where a transmutation would have to be inferred from acts surrounding the contract in dispute")].

Similarly, the requirement of an express written declaration to effect transmutation is not subject to exceptions that might permit the enforcement of an oral premarital agreement [In re Marriage of Benson (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1096, 1110-1111, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 471, 481-482, 116 P.3d 1152 ("[P]remarital contracts are not construed and enforced under the same standards as interspousal agreements"); see Hall v. Hall (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 578, 584-586, 271 Cal. Rptr. 773 (Fam. Code § 1611, requiring premarital agreements to be in writing, is ordinary statute of frauds that is subject to traditional exceptions, such as part performance)].

There are two express statutory exceptions to the requirement of a writing for transmutations:

- Gifts between the spouses of clothing, wearing apparel, jewelry, or other tangible articles of a personal nature that are used solely or principally by the spouse to whom the gift is made and are not substantial in value taking into account the circumstances of the marriage [Fam. Code § 852(c)];
- Transmutations of property made before January 1, 1985, the effective date of the controlling statute, which are not subject to the requirement [Fam. Code § 852(e)].

Note that before 1985, joint wills that were executed by the spouses could be used to transmute property for all purposes. Transmutation took place at the time the instruments were executed, and was not postponed until the testator died [see Chase v. Leiter (1950) 96 Cal. App. 2d 439, 448-449, 215 P.2d 756]. However, beginning in 1985, a statement in a will regarding the character of property is not admissible as evidence of a transmutation of the property in any proceeding commenced before the death of the person making the will [Fam. Code § 853(a); see Fam. Code § 852(e)].

If a written document contains the requisite express, unequivocal declaration of a present transmutation, any accompanying recital of the parties' motivations for executing the document do not change the nature of the transmutation itself. In one case, for example, an agreement stating that certain property "is hereby transmuted from [one spouse's] separate property to the community property of the spouses" was not made ambiguous by an accompanying statement that the agreement "is made solely for the purpose of interpreting how property shall be disposed of on the deaths of the parties." Because the agreement expressly and unequivocally effected a present transmutation, the affected property was treated as community property when the parties subsequently dissolved their marriage [In re Marriage of Holtemann (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1166, 1172-1174, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 385 ; see also In re Marriage of Lund (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 40, 50-54, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 84 (clear and unambiguous statement that all separate property of spouse "is hereby converted to community property" accomplished transmutation, despite accompanying recital that conversion was made "for estate planning purposes")].

A transmutation, once effected, cannot be limited in purpose or otherwise rendered conditional or temporary. Thus, once the character of property has been changed, a "retransmutation" can be achieved only by an express agreement to that effect that independently satisfies the statutory requirements for a transmutation [In re Marriage of Holtemann (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1166, 1174, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 385].

The statutory requirements for transmutations apply only to interspousal agreements to change the character of property already owned by the spouses; the initial acquisition of property from a third person does not constitute a transmutation and is not subject to the statutory requirements. Thus, for example, property acquired during the marriage solely in the name of one spouse, with the other spouse's acquiescence, is presumed to be the separate property of the titleholder even if there is no express written declaration by the other spouse regarding the character of the property [In re Marriage of Brooks, (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 176, 191-192, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624].

[5] Acknowledgment, Proof, and Recording of Agreements

[a] Permissive Recording of Instruments Affecting Real Property

A postnuptial agreement affecting real property that is executed and acknowledged or proved in the manner that a grant of real property is required to be executed and acknowledged or proved, may be recorded in the office of the county recorder of each county in which real property affected by the agreement is situated [Fam. Code § 1502(a)]. Recording or not recording a marital property agreement has the same effect as recording or not recording a grant of real property [Fam. Code § 1502(b)]. For discussion of the need to record an agreement that transmutes interests in real property in order to impart notice to third parties, see [b], below.

[b] Required Recording of Real Property Transmutations to Impart Notice

A transmutation of real property is not effective with respect to third parties who are without notice of the transmutation unless the transmutation instrument is recorded [Fam. Code § 852(b)]. While recording is not a prerequisite to the validity of the transmutation as between the spouses, it is a prerequisite in making the transmutation effective with respect to third parties who are otherwise without notice.

This requirement is consistent with the fact that transmutations are subject to the laws governing fraudulent transfers [see Fam. Code § 851].

Because of the potential conflicting interests of the spouses, each spouse should be represented by independent counsel in the negotiating and drafting of a postnuptial agreement. An attorney may not concurrently represent parties with conflicting interests unless the attorney first obtains their written consent [see Cal. Rules Prof. Conduct, Rule 3-310(B)]. As a general rule, dual representation is not advisable, even if the parties express a willingness to consent to such representation. The forms set forth in this chapter [see §§ 112.200-112.211] assume that the parties will be represented by separate counsel. For further discussion of an attorney's duties regarding potential conflicts of interests in family law matters, see Kirkland, Lurvey, Richmond and Wagner, California Family Law Practice and Procedure, 2nd ed. NOTE:

If a written document contains the requisite express, unequivocal declaration of a present transmutation, any accompanying recital of the parties' motivations for executing the document do not change the nature of the transmutation itself [In re Marriage of Lund (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 40, 50-54, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 84 (clear and unambiguous statement that all separate property of spouse "is hereby converted to community property" accomplished transmutation, despite accompanying recital that conversion was made "for estate planning purposes"); In re Marriage of Holtemann (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1166, 1172-1174, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 385 (agreement that certain property "is hereby transmuted from [one spouse's] separate property to the community property of the spouses" was not made ambiguous by accompanying statement that agreement "is made solely for purpose of interpreting how property shall be disposed of on the deaths of the parties")].
