(e) A majority of the entire board of directors shall constitute a quorum at directors' meetings. The acts approved by a majority of those present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall constitute the acts of the Board of Directors, except where approval by a greater number of directors is required by the Declaration of Condominium, (the "Declaration"), the Articles of Incorporation, or these Bylaws. If at any meeting of the Board of Directors less than a quorum is present, the majority of those present may adjourn the meeting from time to time until a quorum is present. At any adjourned meeting any business which might have been transacted at the meeting as originally called may be transacted without further notice. The joinder of a director in the action of a meeting by signing and concurring in the minutes thereof shall constitute the presence of such director for the purpose of determining a quorum.

(f) The Chairman of the Board, if such an officer has been elected, shall be the presiding officer at directors' meetings; otherwise, the President shall preside. In the absence of the presiding officer, the directors present shall designate one of their number to preside.

(g) The order of business at directors' meetings shall be

- (1) calling of roll;
- (2) proof of due notice of meeting;
- (3) reading and disposal of any unapproved minutes;
- (4) reports of officers and committees;
- (5) election of officers;
- (6) unfinished business;
- (7) new business; and
- (8) adjournment.

5. Powers and Duties of the Board of Directors. All of the powers and duties of the Association existing under the Condominium Act, the Declaration, the Articles of Incorporation, and these Bylaws shall be exercised exclusively by the Board of Directors, its agents, contractors, or employees, subject only to approval by apartment owners if such is specifically required. Compensation of employees of the Association shall be fixed by the directors. A director may be an employee of the Association, and a contract for management of the condominium may be entered into with a director.

6. Officers

(a) The executive officers of the Association shall be a President, who shall be a director, a Vice President, who shall be a director, a Treasurer, a Secretary, and an Assistant Secretary, all of whom shall be elected annually by the Board of Directors and who may be removed by vote of the directors at any meeting. Any person may hold two or more offices except that the President shall not also be the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary. The Board of Directors may from time to time elect other officers to exercise such powers and duties as the Board shall deem necessary or appropriate to manage the affairs of the Association. Compensation of officers shall be fixed by the Board of Directors.

(b) The President shall be the chief executive officer of the Association. He shall have all of the powers and duties which are usually vested in the office of president of an association, in order to assist in the conduct of the affairs of the Association, including, without limitation, the power to appoint such committees as he may deem appropriate from time to time from among the members of the Board.

(c) The Vice President shall in the absence or disability of the President exercise the powers and perform the duties of the President. He shall also generally assist the President and exercise such other powers and perform such other duties as shall be prescribed by the directors.

(d) The Secretary shall keep the minutes of all proceedings of the directors and the members. He shall attend to the giving and serving of all notices to the members and directors and other notices required by law. He shall have custody of the seal of the Association and affix the same to instruments requiring a seal when duly signed. He shall keep the records of the Association, except those of the Treasurer, and shall perform all other duties incident to the office of Secretary of an association and as may be required by the directors or the President. The Assistant Secretary shall perform the duties of the Secretary when the Secretary is absent.

(e) The Treasurer shall have custody of all property of the Association, including funds, securities, and evidences of indebtedness. He shall keep the books of the Association in accordance with generally accepted accounting practices and shall perform all other duties incident to the office of Treasurer.

7. Accounting. The funds and expenditures of the Association shall be credited and charged to accounts under the following classifications as shall be appropriate, all of which expenditures shall be common expenses:

(a) "Current expenses," which shall include all funds and expenditures to be made within the year for which the funds are budgeted, including a reasonable allowance for contingencies and working funds, except expenditures chargeable to reserves, to additional improvements, or to operations. The balance in this fund at the end of each year shall be applied to reduce the assessments for current expense for the succeeding year.

(b) "Reserve for deferred maintenance," which shall include funds for maintenance items which occur less frequently than annually.

(c) "Reserve for replacement," which shall include funds for repair or replacement required because of damage, depreciation, or obsolescence.

(d) "Additional improvements," which shall include the funds to be used for capital expenditures for additional improvements or additional personal property which will be part of the common elements.

8. Budget. The Board of Directors shall adopt a budget for each calendar year which shall include the estimated funds required to defray common expenses and to provide funds for the accounts listed in Section 7 of these Bylaws. The budget shall take into account the following items:

(a) "Current expense," the amount for which shall not exceed _____ percent (_____%) of the budget for this account for the prior year.

(b) "Reserve for deferred maintenance," the amount for which shall not exceed 105% of the budget for this account for the prior year.

(c) "Reserve for replacement," the amount for which shall not exceed _____ percent (_____%) of the budget for this account for the prior year.

(d) "Additional improvements," the amount for which shall not exceed _____ Dollars ($_____); provided, however, that in the expenditure of this fund no sum in excess of _____ Dollars ($_____) shall be expended for a single item or purpose without approval of the members of the Association.

(e) "Operations," the amount of which may be to provide a working fund or to meet losses.

The amount for each budgeted item may be increased over the foregoing limitations when approved by apartment owners entitled to cast not less than _____ percent (_____%) of the votes of the entire membership of the Association. Until the Developer has completed and sold all of the apartments of the condominium, or until _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , or until the Developer elects to terminate its control of the condominium, whichever shall first occur, the Board of Directors may omit from the budget all allowances for contingencies and reserves. Copies of the budget and proposed assessments shall be transmitted to each member on or before _____ [month] _____ [day] preceding the year for which the budget is made. If the budget is subsequently amended, a copy of the amended budget shall be furnished to each member.

9. Assessments

(a) Assessments against the apartment owners for their shares of the items of the budget shall be made on or before _____ [month] _____ [day] preceding the year for which the assessments are made. Such assessments shall be due in two equal payments on the first day of January and July of the year for which the assessments are made. If an annual assessment is not made as required, it shall be presumed to have been made in the amount of the last prior assessment. If the annual assessment proves to be insufficient, the budget and assessments therefor may be amended at any time by the Board of Directors if the items of the amended budget do not exceed the limitations thereon for that year. Any item which does exceed such limitation shall be subject to the approval of the membership of the Association as provided in section 8 of these Bylaws. The unpaid assessment for the remaining portion of the calendar year for which the amended assessment is made shall be due upon the date of the assessment.

(b) If an apartment owner shall default in the payment of an installment upon an assessment, the Board of Directors may accelerate the remaining installments of the assessment upon notice thereof to the apartment owner, and thereupon the unpaid balance of the assessment shall come due upon the date stated in the notice, but not less than ten days after delivery thereof to the apartment owner, or not less than twenty (20) days after the mailing of such notice to him by registered or certified mail, whichever shall first occur.

(c) Assessments for common expenses of emergencies which cannot be paid from the annual assessments for common expenses shall be made only after notice of the need therefor to the apartment owners concerned. After such notice and upon approval in writing by persons entitled to cast more than one-half of the votes of the apartment owners concerned, the assessment shall become effective, and it shall be due after thirty (30) days' notice thereof in such manner as the Board of Directors may require.

(d) The depository of the Association shall be such bank or banks as shall be designated from time to time by the directors and in which the moneys of the Association shall be deposited. Withdrawal of moneys from such accounts shall be only by checks signed by such persons as are authorized by the directors.

(e) An audit of the accounts of the Association shall be made annually by a certified public accountant, and a copy of the report shall be furnished to each member not later than _____ [month] _____ [day] of the year following the year for which the report is made.

(f) Fidelity bonds shall be required by the Board of Directors from all persons handling or responsible for Association funds. The amount of such bonds shall be determined by the directors, but shall be at least one-half of the amount of the total annual assessments against members for common expenses. The premiums on such bonds shall be paid by the Association.

10. Parliamentary Rules. Roberts' Rules of Order (latest edition) shall govern the conduct of Association meetings when not in conflict with the Declaration, the Articles of Incorporation, or these Bylaws.

11. Amendments. These Bylaws may be amended in the following manner:

(a) Notice of the subject matter of a proposed amendment shall be included in the notice of any meeting at which a proposed amendment is considered.

(b) A resolution adopting a proposed amendment may be proposed by either the Board of Directors or by the members of the Association. Directors and members not present in person or by proxy at the meetings considering the amendment may express their approval in writing, provided such approval is delivered to the Secretary at or prior to the meeting. Except as elsewhere provided, such approvals must be by at least _____ percent (_____%) of the entire membership of the Board of Directors and by not less than _____ percent (_____%) of the votes of the entire membership of the Association; or by at least _____ percent (_____%) of the votes of the entire membership of the Association. Until the first election of directors, all directors must approve any amendment.

(c) No amendment shall discriminate against any apartment owner or against any apartment or class or group of apartments unless the apartment owners so affected shall consent. No amendment shall change any apartment nor the share in the common elements appurtenant to it, nor increase the owner's share of the common expenses, nor change the voting rights of members, unless the record owner of the apartment concerned and all record owners of liens thereon shall join in the execution of the amendment.

(d) A copy of each amendment shall be certified by the President and Secretary of the Association as having been duly adopted and shall be effective when recorded in the Public Records of Dade County, Florida.

The foregoing were adopted as the Bylaws of Castle Association, Inc., a corporation not for profit under the laws of the State of Florida, at the first meeting of the Board of Directors on _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] .

FORM 20.67 Agreement to purchase condominium apartment

COMMENT

As soon as preliminary plans for construction have been completed and the declaration of condominium has been drafted, the developer will normally arrange for the sale of units. If the purchase contract is entered into during the early stage of the venture, both the seller and the purchaser are likely to require special protections. The developer may desire to avoid an ironclad commitment to build while he attempts to arrange sufficient sales to insure the profitability of the project. In addition, he may want to screen the various applications for units in order to sell only to potentially compatible residents. On the other hand, the purchaser needs protection against the possibility that the developer may abandon the project.

Several of the techniques which have been developed for satisfying these and other basic difficulties are illustrated by this form, which has been cast as an offer by a prospective owner to purchase an unit in the condominium. Upon acceptance by the developer, this document will serve as the purchase agreement. In the meanwhile, during the period allowed to the developer to consider the offer, it may investigate the personal information submitted by the offeror, and may further evaluate the desirability of completing the venture. If the developer should decide to abandon the project, even subsequent to accepting the offer, he is liable under the agreement only to return the amounts deposited by the purchaser.

As a protection to the purchaser under this agreement, his payments are to be held in trust and are not to be paid to the developer until the developer (1) accepts the offer; (2) gives the purchaser notice of the commencement of construction; (3) gives the purchaser an architect's certificate that he has entered into a general construction contract, and has received a performance bond; (4) gives the purchaser a certificate of a mortgagee that sufficient loans have been extended to cover the general contract price; and (5) obtains commitments for title insurance. There are other protective features for the purchaser. During the initial period when units remain unsold, assessments levied upon the purchaser for operating expenses may not exceed a specified amount. All mortgages on the property are to be discharged or released at the closing unless assumed by the purchaser. This affords the purchaser the opportunity to make his own financial arrangements. The developer undertakes to organize an owners' association (as required by the statute), and to arrange for the management of the condominium property.

Dealer treatment:

The tax consequences of selling units in a condominium project constructed by a developer can probably be equated with the construction and sale of private homes. Thus, the developer who dedicates property to condominium ownership and sells the units to different purchasers is likely to be treated as if he had subdivided real property and developed and sold private homes in separate transactions. Such a developer would be considered a "dealer" in real property and gains realized would be treated as ordinary income. However, if the owner of an apartment building, after holding it several years for the production of income, liquidates his investment by converting it to condominium unit, there may be some basis for contending that such a liquidation is a capital transaction.

Unit owners' benefit:

Any loss realized from the sale of a condominium unit is nondeductible if the apartment was used solely as a personal residence. On the other hand, if the owner of the apartment had converted it to rental property, he could deduct loss realized upon its sale. But, in such case, the basis for determining loss is the value of the property at the date of the conversion to rental use (but not greater than cost), adjusted for depreciation subsequent to such appropriation. If the owner of a condominium unit leases it to a tenant, the owner is entitled to depreciation deductions. In computing the depreciation deductions, the basis is the cost of the property or its value at the time of conversion to rental use, whichever is less.

FORM

_____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year]

The undersigned (the "Purchaser"), herewith pays the sum of _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] to Quinn Management Corp., a real estate broker, ("Quinn"), as earnest money to evidence the Purchaser's good faith, and hereby offers to purchase from Castle Development Corporation, 3000 Seaview Road, Miami, Florida, (the "Developer"), Apartment 4A of Castle Apartments, a condominium, (the "condominium"). The condominium is to be established by the filing of a Declaration of Condominium (the "declaration"). This apartment (the "apartment") is to be subject to the provisions of the declaration, which require the Purchaser to pay _____ percent (_____%) of the common expenses. The condominium is to be located upon the following land:

(Insert description)

This offer is subject to the following terms and conditions.

1. Price and Terms of Payment.

(a) The purchase price of the apartment is _____ Dollars ($ _____), _____ Dollars ($ _____) of which is paid herewith, _____ Dollars
 ($ _____) of which is to be paid to Quinn within fifteen (15) days after the Developer has given notice to the Purchaser of the beginning of construction of the apartment building, and the balance of which amounting to _____ Dollars ($ _____) is to be paid in cash at the time of closing.

(b) All payments made upon the purchase price shall be held in Quinn's Castelle Trust Account until:

(1) The Developer shall have complied with all of the requirements of Paragraph 2 of this agreement, and

(2) The Developer shall have entered into a sufficient number of contracts for the sale of apartments to assure satisfactory condominium operation. This condition shall be satisfied by the making of contracts for the sale of sixty-four (64) apartments at prices totaling not less than _____ Dollars ($ _____), or by a determination made by the Developer in its sole discretion that the number of contracts for the sale of apartments which have been made are sufficient for this purpose, whichever shall first occur. The satisfaction of this condition shall be evidenced by the Developer's certificate which shall be delivered to Quinn.

If all of the foregoing conditions are not satisfied before completion of the Purchaser's apartment, or before _____ [month] _____ [day], _____ [year], whichever shall first occur, the sums held by Quinn shall be returned to the Purchaser upon demand, and all parties shall be released from all obligations under this agreement.

(c) This offer is conditioned upon the Purchaser's ability to obtain a mortgage loan upon the apartment in the amount and upon the terms set forth in the supplemental agreement attached hereto.

2. Performance by Developer. Quinn shall not deliver to the Developer any payments made by Purchaser until such time as the Developer shall have satisfied the following conditions:

(a) The Developer shall have accepted this offer by delivering or mailing to the Purchaser a counterpart of this agreement signed by the Developer.

(b) The Developer shall have given notice to the Purchaser of the start of construction of the apartment building.

(c) The Developer shall have given to the Purchaser a certificate by an architect qualified to practice in Florida certifying that the Developer has contracted with a general contractor for the construction and equipping of the condominium as herein required, and that the Developer has been supplied with a performance bond by the general contractor in the amount of the general contract price.

(d) The Developer shall have given to the Purchaser a certificate of a mortgagee that a construction fund, consisting of the proceeds of mortgage loans and such other funds as may be required for the constructing and equipping of the condominium, has been established in an amount not less than the amount of the general contract price, and that such fund will be disbursed only in a manner approved by the mortgagee.

(e) The Developer at its expense shall have furnished to the Purchaser a commitment by a title guarantor or insurer selected by the Developer and qualified to do business in Florida to guarantee or insure the title of the apartment to the Purchaser in the amount of the purchase price, subject only to the exceptions stated in Paragraph 6 hereof and the following exceptions: rights of persons in possession of the property; facts that an accurate survey or personal inspection of the property will disclose; unrecorded labor, mechanic, or materialmen's liens; encumbrances, liens, or conveyances, other than a conveyance to the person to whom such commitment is made, which are recorded, or of which the Purchaser or his attorney acquires knowledge, between the effective date of the commitment and the date of issuance of the opinion and guarantee or insurance policy; and mortgages and liens of record. All mortgages and liens will be discharged or released at the closing unless assumed by the Purchaser.

3. Approval of Purchaser. The Purchaser understands that the Developer is attempting to create a community of congenial residents, that this offer will be screened with such purpose in view, and that this offer may be arbitrarily rejected. The Purchaser represents that the information he has submitted to the Developer concerning the Purchaser and his family are true. As part of the consideration for this agreement the Purchaser consents that the Developer may make such investigation of the Purchaser as may be deemed desirable, and the Purchaser shall hold the Developer harmless and releases the Developer from liability on account of such investigation and the Developer's decision thereon.

4. Disclosure. The Purchaser acknowledges having received copies of the following instruments:

- (a) the Developer's Declaration of Condominium;
- (b) the Developer's Articles of Incorporation;
- (c) the Developer's Bylaws;
- (d) the Developer's deed to the property on which the condominium will be situated;
- (e) the management contract for the condominium;
- (f) the projected operating budget for Apartment 4A; and
- (g) the sales brochure and floor plan for Apartment 4A.

5. Acceptance of Offer. If this offer is not accepted on or before sixty (60) days after the date hereof by delivery or mailing to the Purchaser of a copy of this agreement executed by the Developer, the Purchaser may elect to withdraw this offer at any time prior to its acceptance. Upon such withdrawal all sums paid hereunder will be paid to the Purchaser forthwith upon demand. If the Developer shall reject this offer, then all sums paid hereunder by the Purchaser shall be returned to the Purchaser forthwith with notice of such rejection. Upon return to the Purchaser of all sums paid hereunder, all parties shall be released from all obligations under this agreement.

6. The Condominium.

(a) The Developer will construct a multi-story apartment building and other improvements substantially in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor prepared by Paul J. Fisch, A.I.A., subject, however, to modifications approved by the Developer. Such plans and specifications are available for inspection by the Purchaser at the office of the Developer.

(b) The wood trim and doors in the Purchaser's apartment will be primed for painting but the apartment will not be otherwise decorated. The Purchaser's apartment is being sold unfurnished but will be equipped in the manner shown by the plans and specifications. The Purchaser will furnish all hanging lighting fixtures.

(c) The declaration will be recorded at or prior to the closing. The Developer reserves the right to make changes in the proposed declaration, a copy of which has been delivered to the Purchaser, providing such changes do not decrease the Purchaser's share in the common elements nor increase the Purchaser's share of the common expenses.

(d) Risk of loss prior to closing shall be borne by the Developer.

(e) The Developer shall cause Castle Association, Inc., a Florida nonprofit corporation, which will be responsible for the operation of the condominium, to contract with Quinn, a corporation owned by the same corporation that owns the Developer, for the furnishing of professional management in the operation of the condominium. This contract will be for the period beginning with the closing of the first sale of an apartment in the condominium and will continue until ninety (90) days after notice of cancellation given by either party to the contract.

(f) The Developer shall cause Castle Association, Inc., to make assessments so that the assessment against the apartment for common expenses for the period beginning with the closing of this sale and ending when the Developer has sold all of the apartments in the condominium, or on _____ [month] _____ [day], _____ [year], or when the Developer elects to pay assessments upon the apartments owned by it, whichever shall first occur, shall be at a rate of not more than _____ Dollars ($ _____) per month and shall be payable semi-annually in advance on _____ [month] _____ [day] _____ [month] _____ [day] of each year. The Developer shall be assessed for only that part of the common expenses incurred during such period which in excess of the sums collected by assessments against apartments sold by the Developer. This clause shall survive the closing.

7. Title to be Conveyed. The Developer shall convey by warranty deed a marketable or insurable fee simple title to the apartment, subject only to the following exceptions:

(a) The provisions of the declaration, including such regulations and service contracts as shall be in force under the declaration.

(b) Taxes for the year in which the sale is closed, if not paid.

(c) Restrictions of record and such zoning or other restrictions upon the use of the property as may be imposed by governmental authorities having jurisdiction thereof.

(d) Liens for work done or materials furnished at the request of the Purchaser.

8. Closing.

(a) This sale shall be closed and the balance of the purchase price paid on or before fifteen (15) days after delivery or mailing to the Purchaser of a certificate evidencing the completion of construction. Such certificate shall be made by an architect qualified to practice in Florida and shall certify that the Purchaser's apartment has been completed and equipped substantially in accordance with the manner herein described, and that approval of the apartment for occupancy has been obtained from all governmental bodies of which such approval is required.

(b) The closing will be at the office of the Developer, and title to the apartment shall be conveyed by warranty deed subject only to the exceptions herein stated.

(c) The following expenses will be prorated to the date of closing:

(1) Ad valorem taxes. If the taxes for the year in which the sale is closed are assessed against the property as a whole, then the portion of such taxes apportioned to such apartment shall be the same share as the share in the common elements which is appurtenant to such apartment. Such taxes will be paid by Castle Association, Inc., as a common expense and the taxes apportioned to such apartment shall be assessed to the Developer and the Purchaser in the sums prorated to them. The Developer covenants that the assessment against it for such taxes shall be secured by a lien against all apartments which the Developer then owns. If the Developer shall own less than three apartments at the time of closing, then at the closing the Developer will deposit in escrow with Castle Association, Inc., a sum which is 150% of the amount of the Developer's estimated share of such taxes on the entire condominium, which escrow shall be used for the payment of the Developer's share of the taxes, and the balance shall be paid to the Developer. This clause shall survive the closing.

(2) The costs of maintenance and operation of the condominium in the amount of the assessments last made against such apartment, or if none, then the assessments which would have been made if the sale had been closed prior to the last assessment date.

(d) The following expenses will be paid by the Purchaser:

(1) Documentary stamps required to be affixed to the deed.

(2) Recording of deed.

(3) Premium for title guarantee or insurance unless such guarantee or insurance is waived by the Purchaser.

(5) Utility deposits apportioned to said apartment.

9. Default.

(a) If the Developer shall default in the performance of this agreement, the Purchaser may elect to cancel the same by giving written notice to the Developer of the specified default and of such election before the Developer tenders performance of the omitted act, whereupon all sums paid hereunder by the Purchaser shall be returned to him upon demand. Purchaser's failure to give such notice prior to the Developer's tender of performance shall constitute a waiver of Developer's default.

(b) If this offer is accepted by the Developer and the Purchaser defaults in the performance of the resulting contract, then the Developer, if the Developer is not in default, at its election may terminate this agreement, in which event the value of the option given to the Purchaser by this agreement and the amount of damages suffered by the Developer because of such default shall be liquidated and paid in the following manner: The liquidated sum to be due to the Developer shall be one-half (1/2) of all sums paid by the Purchaser upon the purchase price, but not more than _____ percent (_____) of the purchase price. All sums paid upon the purchase price in excess of such liquidated amount shall be paid forthwith to the Purchaser, together with a statement of the Developer's election to terminate the agreement and describing the Purchaser's default. If the liquidated sum is held by Quinn, it shall be paid forthwith to the Developer.

(c) Upon the making of the payments provided in the event of default, both parties shall thereby be released from all further obligations under this agreement.

10. Nonassignability. This contract cannot be assigned by the Purchaser without approval of the Developer in writing.

11. Notice. The delivery of any item and the giving of notice in compliance with this agreement shall be accomplished by delivery of the item or notice to the party intended to receive it, or by mailing the same within the continental United States by certified mail addressed to the address of the recipient herein stated. Notice or delivery by mail shall be effective when mailed.

FORM 20.68 Condominium warranty deed

COMMENT

This form illustrates a deed conveying a unit in a condominium. The description of the unit is made only by reference to the condominium declaration, which is a document of public record. It should be noted that the grantee obligates himself to comply with the provisions of the condominium declaration, and especially to pay the assessments levied against his unit for the operation of the property. Typically, there is no distinction between a deed for a condominium and a deed for other property. The following form conveys a condominium in Florida. Florida, like many other states, has adopted a form of warranty deed, (see Florida Statutes Chapter 689, § 689.02). However, use of the statutory form is not required in Florida. Further, the practitioner should be aware of the recording requirements in the jurisdiction where the deed is to be recorded. For example, some states require notaries and witnesses.

FORM

THIS INDENTURE made _____ [month] _____ [day] ,
_____ [year] , between Castelle Development Corporation, a Florida corporation, hereinafter called the Developer, and Paul Nielsen, of 3000 Seaview Road, Miami, Florida (hereinafter called "Nielsen").

The Developer, for and in consideration of the sum of ten dollars and other good and valuable consideration to it in hand paid by Nielsen, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, has granted and sold to Nielsen, his successors, heirs, legal representatives, and assigns forever, the following described property:

Apartment 4A in Castle Apartments, a Condominium, hereinafter called the Condominium, according to a Declaration of Condominium dated _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , filed for record on _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , and recorded in the Public Records of Dade County, Florida; together with the undivided interest in common elements declared in the Declaration of Condominium to be appurtenant to such apartment.

Nielsen, by acceptance hereof and by agreement with the Developer hereby expressly assumes and agrees to be bound by and to comply with all of the covenants, terms, provisions, and conditions set forth in such Declaration of Condominium, including, but not limited to, the obligation to make payment of assessments for the maintenance and operation of the Condominium which may be levied against such apartment.

This conveyance is made subject to the following:

1. Real estate taxes for the year _____ [year] and subsequent years;
2. Applicable zoning regulations and ordinances;
3. All of the terms, provisions, conditions, rights, privileges, obligations, easements, and liens set forth in such Declaration of Condominium;
4. Such covenants, conditions, restrictions, and easements of record, if any, which may now affect the above described property; and
5. All facts which may be shown by an accurate survey of the above described property.

The Developer hereby fully warrants the title to the property, and will defend such title against the lawful claims of all persons.

In witness whereof the Developer has caused this warranty deed to be signed in its name by its President, and its corporate seal to be affixed, attested by its Secretary, the date first above written.

FORM 20.69 Medical office condominium--master deed, bylaws, and restrictive covenants

COMMENT

Use of the units in this condominium is restricted to office use. Although it is intended to be used as a medical office condominium, the restriction is limited to "use as an office" (Restrictive covenants and agreements, Paragraph 1). The office use restriction is not set forth in the master deed. There may be several reasons for this, one being that the restrictive covenants may be more easily amended than the master deed. Local and current law should be checked on these issues, as well as the client's wishes as to how limited and permanent the use restriction is intended to be. The construction of the buildings, as offices, and local zoning may provide sufficient protection in some circumstances.

Office and parking space units:

Units consist of two types: office units (Master Deed, Paragraph 3(a)), and parking space units (Master Deed, Paragraph 3(b)). Both office units and parking space units are owned as separate pieces of real estate. This is relatively unusual, as all of the parking spaces in many residential condominiums are common elements, the use of which is subject to the rules and regulations of the condominium board of directors. Here, parking space availability may increase the flow of patients or clients to the offices, putting a premium on parking. By holding fee title to the parking space itself, the unit owner or occupant does not need to look to the board of directors for more space. If necessary, the office unit owner can buy other parking spaces. An alternative approach would be to define "unit" as the office space and designated parking spaces. However, a unit owner may have more or less parking spaces than he needs, without the ability to buy or sell spaces to meet his requirements. In the plan presented here, the common elements contain additional parking spaces.

Therefore a purchaser of an office unit will have the use of at least a minimum number of spaces to be allocated, by the board of directors, to his unit (Restrictive covenants and agreements, Paragraph 3).

Exterior lighting and telephone wiring:

Common elements of particular concern to occupants of the office condominium may include the exterior lighting and the electric and telephone wiring network included here. Exterior lighting is particularly useful for evening office hours as well as security against nighttime vandalism and burglary. The telephone wiring system may permit the occupants to set up an independent telephone system, in either a separate building, or throughout the condominium (Master Deed, Paragraphs 4(d), (g)).

Project owner taxation:

The conduct of a trade or business in which the taxpayer does not materially participate is subject to the passive loss deduction limitation rules. Rental of real estate is a passive activity regardless of whether the taxpayer materially participates. Under the passive loss rules, losses and expenses are not currently deductible, but are carried forward indefinitely, unless other passive activity income is available to be offset by the passive activity losses or expenses. (See TB § 20.06[3]).

The sponsor of the condominium will realize ordinary income on the sale of the units unless he can qualify as an investor, rather than a "dealer." If the office buildings were held primarily for the receipt of rental income and realization of capital appreciation, this factor would tend to favor investor status. If, on the other hand, the sponsor purchased raw land and constructed the office buildings primarily for sale as condominium units, this tends to favor dealer status, resulting in the taxation of the gain as ordinary income. Just where the line is drawn between dealer and investor depends upon the intent and purposes of the property holder, which in turn depends, to a large extent, upon his actions. Resolution of this issue also requires an examination of the tax law.

(f) Encroachments. Grantor, for itself, its successors and assigns, hereby declares that every unit owner shall have a perpetual easement for the continuance of any encroachment by his unit or any adjoining unit or on any common element, now existing as a result of construction of the buildings or which may come into existence hereafter as a result of the reconstruction of the buildings or a unit after damage by fire or other casualty, or as a result of condemnation or eminent domain proceedings, so that any such encroachment may remain undisturbed so long as the buildings stand.

The Power of Attorney aforesaid is expressly declared and acknowledged to be coupled with an interest in the subject matter hereof and the same shall run with the title to any and all condominium units and be binding upon the successors and assigns of any of the foregoing parties. Further, said Power of Attorney shall not be affected by the death or disability of any principal and is intended to deliver all right, title, and interest of the principal in and to said Power.

(d) Amendment of Master Deed. Except as herein provided, this Master Deed may not be modified or amended without the acquiescence of all unit owners. All amendments or modifications shall be evidenced by an Amendment to Master Deed which Amendment shall be recorded in the Devon County Clerk's Office.

9. Restrictions. This Master Deed is subject to all covenants, restrictions, and easements of record.

10. Obligations of Grantor. The Grantor covenants and agrees that for so long as it owns one or more of the condominium units, the Grantor shall be subject to the provisions of this Master Deed and of all exhibits attached hereto; and the Grantor shall take no action that will adversely affect the rights of the other owners of units and their successors in interest, as their interests may appear.

11. No partition. Subject to the provisions of the Master Deed, Bylaws of the Medical Office Condominium at Maple Crest Association, and the Condominium Act, the common elements shall remain undivided and no unit owner(s) shall bring any action of partition or division thereof. In addition, the undivided percentage interest in the common elements shall not be separated from the unit to which it appertains and shall be deemed conveyed or encumbered with the unit even though such interest is not expressly mentioned or described in the conveyance or other instrument.

Failure to comply with any such provisions, rules, or regulations shall be grounds for injunctive relief by the Grantor, the Association, and any other unit owner.

13. Leases. The unit owners shall have the absolute right to lease a unit provided that said lease is made subject to the covenants and restrictions contained in this Master Deed, the Bylaws of both the Condominium Association and other documents referred to herein, including the right of amendment reserved to Grantor herein.

Premiums for any such blanket insurance coverage shall be a common expense to be included in the monthly assessment for common expenses and such premium charges shall be held in a separate escrow account of the Condominium Association to be used solely for the payment of said premiums as same become due.

16. Acceptance of Terms. The title of the Grantor which shall be hereafter conveyed or acquired in any manner is hereby expressly declared and made subject to the terms and provisions of this instrument, and the acquisition of title to a unit, by any person shall be conclusively deemed to mean that the acquirer approves, adopts, and ratifies the provisions of this instrument, the Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of the Condominium Association, and all exhibits attached hereto as set forth in Section 19. The covenants, agreements, and restrictions set forth herein shall run with the land and shall be binding upon Grantor, its successors and assigns.

17. Severability and Retrospective Application. It is the intention of the Grantor that the provisions of this instrument are severable so that if any provision, condition, covenant, or restriction thereof shall be invalid or void under any applicable federal, state, or local law, the remainder shall be unaffected thereby. In the event that any provision, condition, covenant, or restrictions thereof, is, at the time of recording of this instrument, void, voidable, or unenforceable as being contrary to any applicable federal, state, or local law, the Grantor, its successors and assigns and all persons claiming by, through or under the same, covenant and agree that any future amendments or supplements to the said laws having the effect of removing said invalidity, voidability, or unenforceability shall be deemed to apply retrospectively to this instrument, thereby operating to validate the provisions of this instrument which otherwise might be invalid, and it is covenanted and agreed that any such amendments and supplements to the said laws shall have the effect herein declared as fully as if they had been in effect at the time of the execution of this instrument.

No amendment or supplement shall change a unit unless the owner thereof shall join in the execution of the amendment or execute a consent thereto with the formalities of a deed.

2.6. Unit Owner Relations. Maintain businesslike relations with owners or occupants whose service requests shall be received, considered, and recorded in systematic fashion, in order to show the action taken with respect to each. As part of a continuing program, secure full performance by such owners or occupants of all such items and maintenance for which they are responsible.

2.7. Interpretation. The powers herein granted or necessarily implied shall be construed to favor the broadest discretion of the Board, except that the Board of Directors shall have the duty to exercise all of such powers as required by law.

2.8. Fiscal Responsibility. The Board shall be governed by the following with respect to its fiscal duties and responsibilities.

(1) Common Expenses. The Board shall have the duty to collect as "common expenses" assessed against each unit owner, his, her, or their heirs, administrators, successors and assigns, a proportionate part of the common expense of the entire condominium as provided in the Master Deed and in accordance with applicable law. The Board shall have the power to estimate the cost in advance on an annual basis and to give notice thereof to the individual unit owners in the manner herein provided and the same shall be a lien against each unit.

(2) Notice of Annual Assessment. The Board shall give written notice by ordinary mail to each such unit owner of the amount estimated by the Board to be the common expenses for the management of the Association for the ensuing period. Such notice shall be addressed to each owner at its last address known to the Board, and shall be conclusively presumed to have been delivered five days after deposit in the United States mails. If no objection is made by the unit owners on or before the twentieth day after receipt of such notice, the amount shall be deemed to be conclusive and binding. If an annual assessment is not made as required, an assessment shall be presumed to have been made in the amount of the last prior year's assessment, and monthly installments on such assessment shall be due upon each installment payment date until changed by an amended assessment. If the annual assessment proves to be insufficient, the budget and assessments may be amended at any time by the Board, provided, that nothing herein shall prohibit or prevent the Board from imposing a lump sum assessment in the case of an immediate need or emergency.

(3) Acceleration of Assessment Installments Upon Default. If a member shall be in default in the payment of an installment upon an assessment, the Board may accelerate the remaining installments of the assessment upon notice to the member, and the then unpaid balance of the assessment shall come due upon the date stated in the notice, but not less than five (5) days after delivery of the notice to the member, or not less than ten (10) days after the mailing of such notice to him by registered or certified mail, whichever shall first occur.

(4) Bank Accounts. The depository of the Association shall be such a bank or banks as shall be designated from time to time by the Board and in which the moneys of the Association shall be deposited. Withdrawal of moneys from such accounts shall be only by checks signed by such persons as are authorized by the Board, provided that a management agreement may include among its provisions authority for the manager to sign checks on behalf of the Association for payment of the obligations of the Association.

(5) Interest and Counsel Fees. The Board, at its option, shall have the right in connection with the collection of this or any other charge, to impose an interest charge at the legal maximum if such payment is made after a date certain stated in such notice. If the Board shall resort to Counsel for the collection of any charge, it may add to the aforesaid charge or charges a sum or sums of _____ percent (_____%) of the gross amount due as counsel fees, in addition to such costs as are allowable by law.

(6) Expenditure of Funds. The amount of moneys for common expenses deemed necessary by the Board and the manner of expenditure thereof, including but not limited to, the allocation thereof, shall be a matter for the sole discretion of the Board, until after the first annual meeting of the members.

(7) Disbursement. The Board shall take and hold the funds as collected and shall disburse the same for the purposes and in the manner set forth herein and as required by law.

(8) Reserves. The Board shall not be required to expend all of the revenues collected in any accounting period, but may maintain a reasonable reserve for, among other things, emergencies, contingencies of bad weather or uncollected accounts. Said reserve fund or funds shall, however, be kept in interest-bearing securities either short or long term, or in an insured, interest-bearing savings account(s). However, the Board may keep additional cash on hand, in a checking or petty cash account for the necessary discharge of its function.

(9) Annual Audit. The Board shall submit its books, records, and memoranda to an annual audit by a disinterested certified public accountant who shall audit the same and render a report thereon in writing to the Board and in summary form to the members and such other persons, firms, or corporations as may be entitled to same.

(10) Accounts. The receipts and expenditures of the Association shall be credited and charged to accounts under the following classifications as shall be appropriate, all of which expenditures shall be common expenses:

(i) Current Expenses. Current expenses, which shall include all receipts and expenditures within the year for which the budget is made, including a reasonable allowance for contingencies and working funds, except expenditures chargeable to reserves, to additional improvement or to operations. The balance of this fund at the end of each year shall be applied to reduce the assessments for current expenses for the succeeding year, or may be distributed to the membership as the directors shall determine;

(ii) Deferred Maintenance Reserve. Reserve for deferred maintenance, which shall include funds for maintenance items that occur less frequently than annually;

(iii) Replacement Reserve. Reserve for replacement, which shall include funds for repair or replacement required because of damage, depreciation, or obsolescence;

(iv) Capital Expenditures. Capital expenditures, which shall include the funds to be used for capital expenditures for additional improvements or additional personal property that will be part of the common elements.

(v) Revenue Producing Operations. Operations, which shall include all the gross revenues. Only the additional direct expense required by any revenue-producing operation will be charged to this account, and any surplus from any operation shall be used to reduce the assessments for current expense for the year during which surplus is realized, or at the discretion of the Board of Directors, in the year following the year in which the surplus is realized, losses from the operations shall be met by special assessments against members, which assessments may be made in advance in order to provide a working fund.

Section 3. Election and Term of Office. The first meeting of the unit owners shall be held on call by the Board no more than (a) sixty (60) days after two-thirds (2/3) of the units have been sold, paid for, and title closed, or (b) no later than two (2) years after the date of the recording of the Master Deed, whichever shall first occur. Said meeting shall be considered to be the first annual meeting of the unit owners. At the first meeting, five (5) members of the Board shall be elected by unit owners from among the unit owners. Three members shall be elected for a one (1) year term and two (2) members shall be elected for a two (2) year term. The members of the Board shall hold office until their respective successors have been elected by the unit owners. The Board appointed by the sponsor shall act until the election has been completed at said first meeting. At any vote for membership on the Board, each unit owner, including the sponsor, to the extent that the sponsor is still a unit owner shall vote in accordance with the provisions of Section 3 hereof for each position to be filled. If at any meeting for election of membership to the Board more than twice the number of candidates to be elected at such meeting are nominated, there shall be two ballots for membership. At the end of the first ballot, the field of nominees shall be reduced so that there are no more than twice as many candidates running as there are positions to be filled, with the lowest vote getters being eliminated. A second ballot shall be held, and on the second ballot, the top vote getters on the basis of the votes will be elected. If there are no more than twice the number of nominees for the number of positions to be filled, then there shall be one ballot, with the top vote getters being elected to membership on the Board. If the candidates are being elected for varying periods of years, the candidate polling the highest vote will be considered elected for the longest period of years. After the first annual meeting of the unit owners, succeeding annual meetings shall be held during the same month of each succeeding year. At each annual meeting members of the Board shall be elected by ballot of the unit owners in accordance with these Bylaws. Notwithstanding any other provisions of these Bylaws to the contrary, so long as the grantor shall own _____ percent (_____%) or more of the units, the grantor shall be entitled to elect at least one member of the Board for a one-year term. At such time as the grantor no longer owns _____ percent (_____%) or more of the units, the member of the Board elected by the grantor shall vacate the Board and the place vacated shall be filled by the remaining members of the Board as herein provided for the unexpired portion of the term.

Section 4. Removal of Members of the Board. At any duly held regular or special meeting of the unit owners, any one or more members of the Board may be removed with or without cause by a majority of the unit owners present and voting, and a successor may then and there, or thereafter, be elected to fill the vacancy thus created. Any member of the Board whose removal has been proposed by the unit owners shall be given an opportunity to be heard at the meeting.

This provision shall not apply to Board members appointed by the sponsor under Article II, Section 3, nor to any of the three original directors appointed by the grantor as set forth in the Master Deed.

Section 5. Vacancies. Vacancies in the Board caused by any reason shall be filled by a vote of a majority of the remaining members of the Board at a special meeting of the Board held for that purpose promptly after the occurrence of any such vacancy, even though the members present at such meeting may constitute less than a quorum. Each person so elected shall be a member of the Board for the remainder of the term of the member whose term he is filling and until his successor shall be elected.

ARTICLE VII

Maintenance, Repair, and Alteration of Property

Section 1. Maintenance and Repair. Each member shall promptly perform at his own risk, cost, and expense all maintenance and repair work with respect to the portion of each unit which he owns that does not comprise a part of the mutual easements, and which, if omitted, would adversely affect the safety of the building in which his unit is located or any part or parts thereof belonging in whole or in part to other members. Each member shall be liable for any damages, liabilities, costs, or expenses including attorneys' fees, caused by or arising out of his failure to promptly perform any such maintenance and repair work.

Section 2. Common Expense. All maintenance, repairs, and replacements to the common elements and facilities, whether located inside or outside of the units, (unless necessitated by the negligence, misuse, or neglect of a unit owner, in which case such expense shall be charged to such unit owner) shall be made by the Board and charged to all unit owners as a common expense. All payment vouchers are to be approved by either the President or Treasurer.

Section 3. Aesthetic Restrictions. Unit owners shall not have any right to paint or otherwise decorate or change the appearance of any portion of the exterior of the building in which a unit is located. The unit owner shall promptly report to the Board any defect or need for repairs, the responsibility for which is that of the Association. Except as herein provided, no member or group of members shall build, plant, or maintain any matter or thing upon, over or under the common elements, except with the express permission of the Board in writing first having been obtained, nor shall any member place trash, garbage, excess materials of any kind on or about the common elements, nor burn, chop, or cut anything on, over or above the common elements.

ARTICLE VIII

Insurance

Section 1. Insurance Trustee. The Board, as insurance trustee for each of the unit owners shall be required to obtain and maintain the insurance herein provided, to the extent obtainable, without prejudice to the right of each unit owner to insure his own unit for his own benefit.

Section 2. Broad Form Insurance.

2.1. Fire and Extended Coverage. Broad form insurance shall be maintained against loss by fire and against loss by lightning, windstorm, and other risks normally included within extended coverage, insuring all structural portions of the condominium property, together with all service machinery contained therein and covering the interest of the Association, the Board of Directors and all members and their mortgagees as their interests may appear, in an amount equal to the full replacement value of the buildings, without deduction for depreciation.

2.2. Mortgagee Clause. Each of said policies shall contain a standard mortgagee clause in favor of each mortgagee of a unit. Such clause shall provide that the loss, if any, thereunder shall be payable to such mortgagee as its interests may appear, subject, however, to the payment provisions in favor of the Board of Directors workmen's compensation insurance; and such other provisions as the Board of Directors may determine.

2.3. Loss Adjustment. All such policies shall provide that adjustment of loss shall be made by the Board of Directors.

2.4. Repair. In the event of fire or other disaster or casualty resulting in damage to or destruction of any improvements or any part thereof or to common elements in an amount less than two-thirds of the value of the condominium property, the net proceeds of any insurance carried by the Association shall be made available for the purpose of repair, reconstruction, restoration, or replacement. If the insurance proceeds are insufficient to cover the cost of repair, reconstruction, restoration, or replacement, the deficiency shall be paid by all of the owners directly affected by the damage in proportion to the value of their respective units. If any owner directly affected by the damage shall refuse to make payments, the Board of Directors shall levy an assessment in an amount proportionate to the value of the unit affected by the damage, the proceeds of such assessment being paid, together with the insurance proceeds to the Association for the purpose of recovering the costs of repair, reconstruction, restoration, or replacement. If any owner shall fail to respond to the assessment by payment thereof within a reasonable time, the amount of said assessment shall constitute a lien against the unit of such owner, which lien may be enforced and collected in the same manner as any other liens as hereinabove provided. In the event any insurance proceeds remain after such repair, reconstruction, restoration, or replacement, the excess shall be shared by the unit owners directly affected. The provisions of this Section may be changed by the unanimous resolution of the unit owners adopted after the date upon which the fire or other disaster occurs.

2.5. Substantial Destruction.

(1) Sale. If such insurance proceeds shall be inadequate by a substantial amount to cover the estimated cost of repair, reconstruction, restoration, or replacement of an essential improvement or common element, or if such damage shall constitute substantially total destruction of the condominium property, or if 75% of the unit owners directly affected by such damage, together with all mortgagees holding bona fide first mortgages on the units directly affected, shall determine not to repair, or restore, the Association shall realize upon the salvage value of the portion of the condominium property so damaged or destroyed, either by sale or such other means as the Association may deem advisable, and shall collect any proceeds of any insurance.

(2) Partition. In the event the owners decide to repair or restore, the payment of the costs thereof shall be in accordance with the preceding paragraph. In the event the election is made to sell, the covenants against partition herein contained shall become null and void and the said owner or owners shall be entitled to convey their interest in the condominium and may invoke relief in a court of competent jurisdiction to compel such sale and partition against those owners who shall have refused to approve such a sale or partition.

(3) Surplus. All sums received from insurance shall be combined with the proceeds of sale of the condominium, after providing for all necessary costs and expenses including court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees in the event of any litigation necessary to compel any owner to join in a conveyance of his interest in the condominium. Distribution of the combined funds shall be made to the owners of the units in the said condominium in accordance with their respective undivided interest in the common elements as herein set forth or to mortgagees or other lien holders, as their interest shall appear.

2.6. Obsolescence. In the event that the Board of Directors shall deem that the multi-unit buildings in the condominium are obsolete, the Board of Directors, at a regular or special meeting of the owners, may call for a vote by said owners to determine whether the entire condominium should be sold. In the event that all of the unit owners, with the consent of all bona fide first mortgagees, determine that the premises should be sold, the applicable provisions of the preceding section shall become effective.

2.7. Public Liability Insurance. To the extent obtainable, public liability insurance in such limits as the Board of Directors may, from time to time, determine covering each member of the Board of Directors, the managing agent, the manager and each member. Such public liability coverage shall also cover gross liability claims on one insured against another. The Board of Directors shall review such limits once a year. Until the first meeting of the Board of Directors following the first annual meeting of the members, such public liability insurance shall be amounts not less than _____ Dollars($ _____) / _____ Dollars

ARTICLE IX

Patios and Yards

Any patio, porch or yard to which there is an exclusive direct access from the interior of a unit shall constitute a limited common element for the exclusive use of the owner of such unit. The owners of a unit to which a patio, porch or yard is attached or connected shall repair all defects and damages thereto caused by their own negligence, misuse, or neglect and shall be responsible for all snow removal from said patio or yard. Any other repairs or maintenance to or with respect to the limited common elements shall be the responsibility of the Association.

ARTICLE X

Whenever, in the judgment of the Board, common areas shall require additions, alterations, or improvements costing in excess of _____ Dollars ($_____), said alterations and improvements shall not be made unless they have been approved by a majority of the unit owners present and voting at a meeting at which a quorum is present. When said approval has been obtained, all unit owners shall be assessed for the cost thereof as a common charge. In the event of any emergency which could cause damage to any building(s) or part(s) thereof, the Board may expend sums in excess of _____ Dollars ($_____) to protect said building(s) or part(s) and the judgment of the Board shall be final.

The Board shall answer any unit owner's request for such approval within sixty (60) days after receipt of such request. Failure to do so within the stipulated time shall constitute a consent by the Board to the proposed structural addition, alteration, or improvement. Any application to any municipal authority for a permit to make an addition, alteration, or improvement in or to any unit shall be executed only by or with the approval of the Board. The provisions of this Article shall not apply to units owned by the Grantor until such units have been initially sold by the Grantor.

ARTICLE XII

The unit owner's obligations concerning grant of access are subject to the condition that requests for entry shall be made in advance and at a time reasonably convenient to the unit owner. In case of an emergency, such right of entry shall be immediate whether the unit owner is present at the time or not.

12. Equipment Installation. The installation and use of any equipment in a unit shall conform to the generally accepted or recommended technical specifications for the equipment involved and shall not interfere with the use and enjoyment or create any danger to any other unit. Prior to the installation thereof, the owner shall submit to the Board of Directors all technical data regarding installation and use of such equipment for approval. The Board of Directors may at any time require the installation of insulation or detector machines or designate the hours of use of the equipment involved.

13. Interior Partitions. Each unit owner shall have the right to install partitions within the condominium unit and accordingly create a layout to suit the unitowner's requirements, provided however that there shall be no encroachment or attachment to or through any common element or any mechanical, plumbing, or electrical additions within the condominium unit without first obtaining approval of the Grantor or the Association and/or its Board of Directors.

There shall be no structural alteration, construction, or removal of any building, fence, or other structure in any common element other than repairs of rebuilding as provided in this instrument without the approval of the Association and/or its

Board of Directors. No building, fence, or other structure shall be constructed upon any portion of any common element other than such building and structures as shall be constructed by (a) the Grantor (or a person to whom Grantor assigns its rights as Developer), or (b) by the Association pursuant to this instrument.

14. Prohibited Uses. Except for usual office and professional use, no commercial or industrial operations of any kind shall be conducted in or upon any unit or the common element, except such temporary uses as shall be permitted by Grantor while the development is being constructed and Condominiums are being sold by the Grantor, or its successors in interest to the entire project prior to the sale of any Condominium units.

15. Vehicles. Except as permitted by the Rules of the Association, no trailer or vehicle of any type shall be stored in any common element. No vehicle shall be repaired or rebuilt in any common element.

16. Enforcement. All owners shall be members of the Association. There shall be no violation of the Bylaws or Rules of the Association for the use of units or the common elements, as these rules or Bylaws presently exist, or as they are hereinafter adopted or amended by the Association, as provided in its Bylaws. If any owner or resident of a unit, or any of their respective agents, employees, licensees or invitees, violates the Rules of the Association, the Association may impose a special assessment upon such owner of not more than _____ Dollars ($ _____), and may also suspend the right of such owner or resident to use the properties of the Association for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days for each violation, and under such conditions as the Association shall specify. Before invoking any such assessment or suspension, the Association shall give the owner an opportunity to be heard, either in person or by counsel. Any assessment imposed hereunder, which remains unpaid for a period of ten days, shall become a lien upon the owner's Condominium unit if included in a notice of assessment duly recorded.

17. Anti-discrimination. The right to use or occupy a unit, or the sale, lease, or other transfer or conveyance of the right to use or occupy a unit shall not be based on race, religion, or place of national origin.

18. Maintenance. The buildings, grounds, and improvements shall be maintained by the Association to the following standards.

A. Exterior. Building exteriors shall be maintained in accordance with good housekeeping practices.

(a) Exterior appearance of buildings shall be kept as nearly as possible consistent with that when structures were new and ready for first occupancy.

(b) Painted surfaces shall be restored and repainted whenever spalling, alligator cracking, blistering, or chalking has exposed underlying materials or coats of paint.

(c) Masonry joints shall be repainted whenever mortar becomes loose and displaced.

(d) All stains on masonry shall be removed as soon as weather permits.

(e) Broken windows shall be replaced as soon as possible.

(f) Lights illuminating signs and buildings shall be replaced as soon as failure is noted.

(g) Windows shall be cleaned at least once each six (6) months.

(b) Signs shall be kept carefully finished and in good repair with all broken elements repaired or replaced.

(c) Grassed areas shall be kept carefully trimmed, free of weeds, free of bare spots.

(d) Shrubbery shall be fertilized and pruned so as to maintain a healthy, well cared for appearance.

(e) Curbs shall be repaired and maintained free of spalled areas, cracks, or displaced sections.

(f) Sidewalks shall be maintained level, and free from spalled or broken areas.

(g) Fences shall be kept upright, in line, and free of corrosion or decay.

(h) Lighting standards shall be maintained upright and free of corrosion or decay.

(i) Garbage or trash storage shall not be visible from any street.

(j) Garbage or trash shall be removed at least twice a week.

(k) No disabled vehicles or equipment shall be stored out-of-doors where it is visible from any street.

19. Development. Nothing in this instrument shall limit the right of Grantor to complete construction of improvements to the common elements and to units owned by Grantor, or to alter the foregoing or to construct such additional improvements as Grantor deems advisable prior to completion of the entire development.

20. Unit Locations. In interpreting the provisions of this instrument, the Schedules attached to the Master Deed, subsequent deeds, and mortgages to individual units, etc., the actual location of the unit shall be deemed conclusively to be the property intended to be conveyed, reserved, or encumbered, notwithstanding any minor deviations, either horizontally or vertically, from the locations as indicated on said Schedules. To the extent that such minor variations in location exist, a valid easement therefor and for the maintenance thereof shall exist.

21. Common Expenses. The owner or co-owners of each unit shall contribute to the Association pro rata in the percentage of his interest in the undivided "common elements," toward the expenses of administration and of maintenance and repair of the said "common elements," the expenses of administering and maintaining the Association and all of its real and personal property, in such amounts as shall from time to time be fixed by the Association. No owner may exempt himself from contributing toward such expenses by waiver of the use or enjoyment of the "common elements" or the community or recreational facilities of the Association or by abandonment of the unit owned by him.

22. Assessment Lien. All such common expenses chargeable to any unit shall constitute a lien against said unit in favor of the Association, which lien shall be prior to all other liens except (1) assessments, liens, and charges for taxes past due and unpaid on the unit, and (2) payments due under bonafide mortgage instruments of encumbrance, if any, duly recorded. The said charges and expenses attributable to each unit and represented in the usual monthly maintenance charge, shall become effective as a lien against each such unit on the first day of each month. Additional or added assessments, charges, and expenses, if any, chargeable to units and not covered by the usual monthly maintenance charge, shall become effective as a lien against each such unit as of the date if the expense or charge remains unpaid by the owner for more than ten days after the same shall have become due and payable. The lien may be foreclosed by the Association in the manner provided by law for the foreclosure and sale of real estate mortgages, and in the event of foreclosure, the Association shall, in addition to the amount due, be entitled to recover reasonable expenses of the action including costs and attorney's fees. The right of the Association to foreclose the lien aforesaid shall be in addition to all other remedies which may be available to it at law or equity or as provided in the Bylaws for the collection of the monthly charges and expenses, including the right to proceed personally against any delinquent owner for the recovery of a personal judgment against him.

The title acquired by any purchaser following any such foreclosure sale shall be subject to all of the provisions of this instrument, by the Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of the Association and the Condominium Act of the State of New Jersey, and, by so acquiring title, said purchaser covenants and agrees to abide by and be bound thereby.

23. Payment Upon Unit Sale. Upon the sale, conveyance, or other lawful transfer of title to a unit all unpaid assessments, charges, and expenses chargeable thereto shall first be paid to the Association out of the sales price or shall be paid by the acquirer, in preference to all other assessments or charges of whatever nature except (1) municipal assessments, liens, and charges for taxes past due and unpaid on the unit and (2) payments due under bonafide mortgage instruments of encumbrance, if any, duly recorded.

24. Transferee Liability. The acquirer of title to a unit shall be jointly and severally liable with his predecessor in title thereto for the amounts (assessments, charges, and expenses) owing by the latter to the Association as of the time of the transfer of title, without prejudice to the acquirer's right to recover from his predecessor in title the amount paid by him (acquirer) as such joint debtor. The Association shall provide for and issue to every acquirer, upon his request, a statement of such amounts due, and the acquirer's liability under this covenant shall be limited to the amount as set forth in said statement. Liability for the payment of said amounts due to the Association shall not attach to the purchaser of the unit following a mortgage foreclosure sale thereof, provided the Association has been joined as a party to the foreclosure suit.

FORM 20.70 Declaration of expandable condominium--Ohio

COMMENT

The contents of a declaration of condominium are determined principally by two factors: the items required under the applicable condominium statute and the draftsman's decision as to whether other items should be covered in the declaration or in the bylaws. The following form is an expandable condominium under Ohio law. An expandable condominium is typically when an adjacent parcel is being held back to see if the project is successful. If the project is successful, the condominium declaration is expanded to cover the adjacent parcel.

Establishment of Condominium Ownership,

Division and Declaration of Condominium Property

Declarant, in order to establish a plan of Condominium ownership for the Condominium Property, hereby submits the Condominium Property, hereinbefore described, to the provisions of Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code. The Condominium Property shall include the structures separately designed and legally described freehold estates, hereinafter described and referred to as "Units," and underlying freehold estate, hereinafter described and referred to as the "Common Areas and Facilities" (including Limited Common Areas and Facilities).

A. Units. The Condominium Property will initially be comprised of four (4) Single-Family Units (identified as Building Nos. 1, 2, 8 and 9 in the Drawings.) Each Unit bears the identifying number as shown on the Drawings. The addresses, type of Units, square footage of each Unit and description of the Units are set forth on Exhibit D, attached hereto and made a part hereof. Each such Unit has appurtenant to it a two-car attached garage.

Subject to the provisions of subparagraph B next following, each Single-Family Unit consists generally of the entire residential building (with attached garage) including the foundation, walls, and roof together with everything contained within the building such as heating, electrical and plumbing equipment and fixtures, appliances, and that portion of the utility systems as are located fully within and/or servicing solely that Unit, to which the same are appurtenant.

No Unit Owner shall, by deed, plat or otherwise, subdivide or by any other means cause his Unit to be separated into tracts or parcels as the whole Unit is shown on the Drawings. Each Unit Owner shall be entitled to the exclusive ownership and possession of his Unit, and to the ownership of an undivided interest in the Common Areas and Facilities, in the percentage designated on Exhibit D, attached hereto.

B. Common Area and Facilities.

1. (a) Description of Common Areas and Facilities. That part of the Condominium Property which comprises the Common Areas and Facilities consists of all parts of the Condominium Property which have not been designated nor delineated as part of the Units in this Declaration or in the Drawings, including the Limited Common Areas and Facilities described in subparagraph (b) next following, and the Condominium Roadway.

(b) Limited Common Areas and Facilities. The Limited Common Areas and Facilities consist of the following:

(i) The driveway and apron which is accessory to each Unit and which connects to the Condominium Roadway.

(ii) Any utility pipe, line or system connecting a single Unit to a main or trunk, which main or trunk serves more than a single Unit; and any sump pump serving a single Unit.

(iii) That portion of the real property (land) surrounding the foundation of the Unit as depicted on the Drawings.

(iv) That portion of the real property (land) upon which a Unit is situated.

2. Use of Common Areas and Facilities. Each owner of a Unit shall own an undivided interest in the Common Areas and Facilities as a tenant in common with all other such owners, and, except as otherwise limited in this Declaration and in the Bylaws attached hereto as Exhibit C, shall have the right to use the Common Areas and Facilities for all purposes incident to the use and occupancy of his Unit for the purposes described in Article V below, subject to the right of other Unit Owners to the use and enjoyment of the Common Areas and Facilities and for ingress and egress to and from the respective Units, which rights shall be appurtenant to and shall run with his Unit. The extent of such ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities is hereby deemed and expressed by the Par Value of the Unit and shall be filed for record. Each Unit is being assigned an equal par value of 1. The percentages in the Common Areas and Facilities applicable to a Unit set forth on Exhibit D, attached hereto, is based upon the par value of 1 assigned to each Unit divided by the total of the par values for all the Units. The procedures whereby the aforesaid percentage interest may be altered are set forth in Article XV, Section H below. Except as permitted by Article XV, the percentages of interest cannot be altered or amended except by an amendment to this Declaration unanimously approved by all the Unit Owners affected. Where a Unit is owned by more than one person, whether fiduciaries, tenants in common or otherwise, each shall be entitled to exercise the proportion of the voting power for such Unit as is equivalent to such person's proportionate interest in the Unit.

3. Ownership of Common Areas and Facilities. The percentage of ownership interest in the Common Areas and Facilities attributable to the ownership interest in each Unit, together with the percentage of interest in the division of common profits and expenses, as hereinafter described in Section B of Article VI of this Declaration, are set forth on Exhibit D, attached hereto. The voting rights of the Unit Owners shall be in accordance with their respective interests in the Common Areas and Facilities.

4. Parking Areas. A Unit Owner shall have the right to use the outdoor parking spaces within the Condominium Property as shown on the Drawings, which are not designated as Limited Common Areas and Facilities, on a non-exclusive basis in common with other Unit Owners, and their respective guests and invitees. Such use shall be subject to Rules from time to time established by the Association.

5. Regulation of Common Areas and Facilities.

(a) Regulation by Association. No person shall use the Common Areas and Facilities or any part thereof in any manner contrary to or not in accordance with such Rules pertaining thereto as from time to time may be adopted by the Association, which Rules shall not be in conflict with the provisions hereof. Without in any manner intending to limit the generality of the foregoing, the Association shall have the right, but not the obligation, to promulgate Rules limiting the use (subject to all easements) of the Common Areas and Facilities to members of the Association and their respective families, guests, invitees and servants, as well as to provide for the exclusive use by a Unit Owner and his guests for special occasions, of recreational areas and other similar facilities, if any. Such use may be conditioned upon, among other things, the payment by the Unit Owner of such assessment as may be established by the Association for the purposes of defraying costs thereof.

(b) Use of Common Areas and Facilities. Subject to the Rules from time to time promulgated by the Association, all owners may use the Common Areas and Facilities in such manner as will not restrict, interfere or impede the use thereof by the other Unit Owners.

ARTICLE III

General Provisions as to Units and Common Areas and Facilities

A. Maintenance of Units.

1. By the Association. Except as otherwise provided in Section 2 next following, the Association at all times, at its cost and expense, shall maintain the Common Areas and Facilities in good order, condition, replacement and repair, shall maintain, plant, seed, reseed, fertilize, cut and trim all of the lawns comprised as part of the Condominium Property, including the Limited Common Areas defined in Article II, Section B. 1.(b)(ii) above and shall edge and mulch all landscape beds and shall trim all shrubs, bushes and trees. The Association shall plow snow from the driveways and all front sidewalks, which sidewalks are on areas designated as Limited Common Areas in Article II, Section B. 1.(b) hereof, as well as from the Condominium Roadway.

2. By the Unit Owner. Each Unit Owner at all times shall:

(a) Except as set forth in subparagraph A. 1. immediately above, clean, maintain, repair and replace, at his cost and expense, his Unit and the Limited Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to his Unit, in good order, condition, replacement and repair, subject however, to the provisions of Article VIII below.

(b) Maintain, repair and replace, at his cost and expense, that portion of the utility systems appurtenant to his Unit, designated as Limited Common Areas in Article II, Section B. 1. (b) above, as well as that portion of the utility systems located wholly within and/or servicing only his Unit, subject however to the provisions of Article VIII below.

(c) Perform his responsibilities in such a manner as shall not unreasonably disturb the Occupants of other Units.

(d) Pay all costs for utility services furnished to his Unit, and for the Limited Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to his Unit.

(e) Promptly report to the Association (or the managing agent, if any) employed by it, the need for any repairs to any portion of the Condominium Property which are the obligations of the Association to maintain hereunder.

(f) Reimburse the Association for such costs, if any, in excess of proceeds of insurance, if any, as the Association shall incur for maintaining, repairing or replacing any portion of the Common Areas and Facilities (including those portions thereof designated in this Declaration as Limited Common Areas and Facilities) which may be damaged or destroyed by his act or negligence, or by the act or negligence of any of his tenants, invitees, licensees or guests.

3. No Contractual Liability of Association. Nothing herein contained, however, shall be construed so as to impose a contractual liability upon the Association for maintenance, repair and replacement, except to the extent funds shall be available and said maintenance, repair and replacement shall be deemed necessary by the Board of the Association.

B. Right to Correct. If any Unit Owner fails to perform any act required of such Owner by this Declaration, the Bylaws or the Rules of the Association, the Association may, but shall not be obligated to, undertake such performance or cure such violation, and shall charge and collect from the defaulting Unit Owner the entire cost and expense, including reasonable attorneys' fees incurred by the Association in effecting such performance or cure. Any such amount shall be deemed to be an additional assessment upon the Owner and such Owner's Unit, and shall be due and payable with the payment for Common Expenses which falls due next following notification by the Association of such assessments. The Association may obtain a lien for said amount against such Owner and such Owner's Unit, to the extent as if it were a lien for common expenses.

C. Construction Defects. The obligations of the Association and of Unit Owners to repair, maintain and replace the portions of the Condominium Property for which they are respectively responsible shall not be limited, discharged or postponed by reason of the fact that any maintenance, repair or replacement may be necessary to cure any latent or patent defects in material or workmanship in the construction of the Condominium Property.

D. Effect of Insurance or Construction Guarantees. Notwithstanding the fact that the Association and/or any Unit Owner may be entitled to the benefit of any guarantee of material and workmanship furnished by any construction trade responsible for any construction defects, or to benefits under any policies of insurance providing coverage for loss or damage for which they are respectively responsible, the existence of said construction guarantee or said insurance coverage shall not excuse any delay by the Association or any Unit Owner in performing the obligations hereunder. The undertaking of repair, maintenance or replacement by the Association or any Unit Owner shall not constitute a waiver of any rights against any warrantor, but such rights shall be specifically reserved. The Association shall have the right to enforce, on behalf of the Unit Owners, any warranty, oral or written, express or implied, or any other contractual obligation, arising from construction defects, if the Association shall repair the same. It may institute litigation in the name of the Unit Owners and a release executed by the Association shall be binding upon all Unit Owners.

E. No Severance of Ownership. No Unit Owner shall execute any deed, mortgage, lease or other instrument affecting title to his Condominium Ownership Interest without including therein both his interest in the Unit and his corresponding percentage of ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities, it being the intention hereof to prevent any severance of such combined ownership and rights. Any such deed, mortgage, lease or other instrument purporting to affect the one without including all shall be deemed and taken to include the interest so omitted, even though the latter is not expressly mentioned or described therein. For purposes of conveyance of title to a purchaser of a Unit, description by Unit number and reference to this Declaration and to the Drawings shall be adequate to convey the fee simple title thereto, together with the percentage interest in and to the Common Areas and Facilities and voting rights with respect thereto.

F. Easements

1. Encroachments. In the event that, by reason of the construction, settlement or shifting of any Single-Family Building, or by reason of the partial or total destruction and rebuilding of any Single-Family Building, any part of the Common Areas and Facilities presently encroaches or shall hereafter encroach upon any part of a Unit, or any part of a Unit presently encroaches or shall hereafter encroach upon any part of the Common Areas and Facilities, or another Unit or Units, or if by reason of the design or construction of any Units it shall be necessary or advantageous to an owner to use or occupy, for formal uses and purposes, any portion of the Common Areas and Facilities consisting of unoccupied space within the building and adjoining his Unit, or, if by reason of the design or construction of utility systems, any main pipes, ducts or conduits serving more than one Unit presently encroaches or shall hereafter encroach upon any part of any Unit, valid easements for the maintenance of such encroachment and for the use of such adjoining space are hereby established and shall exist for the benefit of such Unit and the Common Areas and Facilities, as the case may be, so long as all or any part of the Single-Family Building containing such Unit shall remain standing; provided, however, that in no event shall a valid easement for any encroachment be created in favor of the Unit Owner of any Unit or in favor of the Common Areas and Facilities if such encroachment occurred due to the willful conduct of said Owner.

2. Limited Common Areas. The owner of each Unit with respect to any Limited Common Area appurtenant to his Unit shall have, for himself, his heirs and successors in interest, an exclusive easement for his use and enjoyment of such Limited Common Area; provided, however, that no Unit Owner shall decorate, landscape, change the appearance of the exterior thereof or otherwise adorn such Limited Common Area in any manner contrary to the Rules as may be established therefor by the Association, unless he shall first obtain the written consent of the Association. In no event shall the appearance of said exterior area be changed except in accordance with the provisions hereof.

3. Maintenance Easements. The ownership of each Unit shall be subject to easements for access arising from necessity of maintenance or operation of the Common Areas and Facilities and the Single-Family Building in which his Unit is located. The Owner of each Unit shall have the permanent rights and easements to and through the Common Areas and Facilities to the use of utilities now or hereafter existing within the walls.

4. Easements for Certain Utilities. The Association may hereafter grant easements for utility purposes for the benefit of the Condominium Property, including the right to install, lay, maintain, repair and replace cable television wires and facilities, water mains and pipes, sewer lines, gas mains, telephone wires and equipment, and electrical conduits and wires over, under, along and on any portion of the Common Areas and Facilities, and each Unit Owner hereby grants the Association an irrevocable power of attorney to execute, acknowledge and record, for and in the name of such Unit Owner, such instruments as may be necessary to effectuate the foregoing. Said power of attorney is coupled with an interest.

5. Easements for Additional Property. Developer reserves to itself easements over such portions of the property described on Exhibit A, attached hereto, or over the property which then constitutes the Condominium Property, as shall be necessary for the purpose of providing means of ingress and egress to the Additional Property and utilities for the benefit of the Additional Property, or any portion thereof.

6. Easements to Run with Land. All easements and rights described herein are easements appurtenant, running with the land, perpetually in force and effect, and at all times shall inure to the benefit of and be binding upon the undersigned, its successors and assigns, and any Owner, purchaser, mortgagee and other person having an interest in said land, or any part or portion thereof.

7. Reference to Easements in Deed. Reference in the respective deeds of conveyance, or in any mortgage or trust deed or other evidence of obligation, to the easements and rights described in this Declaration, shall be sufficient to create and reserve such easements and rights to the respective grantees, mortgagees and trustees of such parcels as fully and completely as though such easements and rights were recited fully and set forth in their entirety in such document.

ARTICLE IV

Such membership shall terminate upon the sale or other disposition by such member of his Condominium Ownership Interest, at which time the new Owner of such Unit shall automatically become a member of the Association. Any membership shall be terminable by the Association in accordance with the Association's Bylaws. The Board and officers of the Association elected as provided in the Bylaws of the Association attached hereto as Exhibit C shall exercise the powers, discharge the duties, and be vested with the rights conferred by operation of law, by the Bylaws, and by this Declaration upon the Association, except as otherwise set forth herein; provided, however, that in the event any such power, duty or right shall be deemed exercisable or dischargeable by, or vested in, an officer or member of the Board, solely in his capacity as an officer or a member of the Board, he shall be deemed to act in such capacity to the extent required to authenticate his acts and to carry out the purposes of this Declaration and the Bylaws attached hereto as Exhibit C.

B. Administration of Condominium Property. The administration of the Condominium Property shall be in accordance with the provisions of this Declaration and the Bylaws of the Association which are attached hereto as Exhibit C. Each Owner, tenant or occupant of a Unit shall comply with the provisions of this Declaration, the Bylaws, decisions and resolutions of the Association or its representative, as lawfully amended from time to time, and failure to comply with any such provisions, decisions or resolutions shall be grounds for an action to recover sums due for damages, or for injunctive relief.

C. Service of Process. Service of summons or other process upon the Association may be made in accordance with the provisions of Ohio Revised Code, Section 5311.20. The statutory agent for service of summons or other process shall be _____ [name] , _____ [address] , _____ [city] , _____ [state] . Such change may be effected by filing with the Ohio Secretary of State the appropriate forms for the subsequent appointment of a statutory agent for an Ohio corporation not for profit.

ARTICLE V

Covenants and Restrictions as to Use and Occupancy

The following covenants, restrictions, conditions and limitations as to the use and occupancy of a Unit or the Common Areas and Facilities which shall run with the land shall be binding upon each Unit Owner, his heirs, tenants, licensees, successors and assigns.

A. Purpose of Property. No part of the Condominium Property shall be used for other than residential housing and the common recreational purposes for which the Condominium Property was designed. Each Unit shall be used as a residence for a single family and for no other purpose; provided, however, the Declarant shall be allowed to utilize one or more Units together with such portion of the Common Areas and Facilities as it shall require as a place of business, construction office, sales office and for demonstration purposes so long as Declarant shall retain ownership of one or more Units or shall retain the right to add all or portions of the Additional Property to the Condominium Property, and further provided that a Unit Owner may incidentally use an immaterial portion of such Owner's Unit for such Owner's office or studio, provided the activities therein shall not interfere with the quiet enjoyment of any other Owner.

B. Obstruction of Common Areas and Facilities. There shall be no obstruction of the Common Areas and Facilities, nor shall anything be stored in the Common Areas and Facilities without the prior consent of the Association, except as hereafter expressly provided; provided, however, that during construction and for a reasonable period thereafter, the Declarant shall have the right to store construction equipment and material thereon so long as the same shall not unreasonably interfere with the rights of others.

C. Hazardous Uses and Waste. Nothing shall be done or kept in any Unit or in the Common Areas and Facilities which will increase the rate of insurance of the Single-Family Buildings, or contents thereof, without the prior written consent of the Association. No Unit Owner shall permit anything to be done or kept in his Unit or in the Common Areas and Facilities which will result in the cancellation of insurance on the Single-Family Buildings, or contents thereof, or which would be in violation of any law. No waste will be committed in the Common Areas or Facilities or in a Unit. Each Unit Owner shall abide by all rules and regulations of governmental authorities and rules and requirements of the issuer of all insurance policies with respect to the Common Areas and Facilities.

D. Exterior Surface of Buildings. Unit Owners shall not cause or permit anything to be hung or displayed in or on windows or placed on the outside walls of a Single-Family Building, and no sign, awning, canopy, or shutter shall be affixed to or placed upon the exterior walls or roof or any part thereof, or in the Common Areas and Facilities contrary to the Rules as may be established thereof by the Association, other than those originally provided by the Declarant, if any. Unit Owners may, at their sole cost and expense, install or affix radio or television antenna, or satellite dish, for their personal use only, upon the exterior walls or roof or any part thereof. No Unit Owner shall paint, decorate, remodel, or in any manner change or improve the appearance of the exterior of the Single-Family Buildings or other structures, or the driveways, parking areas or walkways, or any other portions of the Common Areas and Facilities or any improvements thereto contrary to the Rules as may be established thereof by the Association, other than those originally provided by the Declarant, if any.

E. Animals and Pets. No animals, rabbits, livestock, fowl or poultry of any kind shall be raised, bred or kept in any Unit or in the Common Areas and Facilities, except that dogs, cats, or other household pets, not collectively to exceed three (3), may be kept in Units, subject to Rules regulating the number of pets per Unit and other matters adopted by the Association, provided that they are not kept, bred or maintained for any commercial purpose; and provided further that any such pet causing or creating a nuisance or disturbance shall be permanently removed from the Condominium Property subject to these restrictions upon seven (7) days prior written notice from the Board of the Association.

F. Nuisances. No noxious or offensive activity shall be carried on in any Unit or in the Common Areas and Facilities, nor shall anything be done therein, whether willfully or negligently or by omission, which may be or become an annoyance or nuisance to the other Unit Owners or occupants.

G. Impairment of Structural Integrity of Buildings. Nothing shall be done in any Unit or in, on or to the Common Areas and Facilities which will impair the structural integrity of the Single-Family Buildings, or which would structurally change same.

H. Laundry or Rubbish in Common Areas and Facilities. No clothes, sheets, blankets, laundry of any kind or other articles shall be hung out or exposed on any part of the Common Areas and Facilities. The Common Areas and Facilities shall be kept free and clear of rubbish, debris and other unsightly materials.

I. Lounging or Storage in Common Areas and Facilities. There shall be no playing, lounging, parking of baby carriages or playpens, bicycles, wagons, toys, vehicles, benches or chairs on any part of the Common Areas and Facilities except in accordance with the Rules therefor adopted by the Association.

J. Prohibited Business Activities. Except as provided in Article V, Section A, above, no industry, business, trade, occupation or profession of any kind, commercial, religious, educational, or otherwise, designated for profit, altruism, or otherwise shall be conducted, maintained or permitted on any part of the Condominium Property. The right is reserved by the Declarant, or its agent, to place "for sale" or "for rent" signs in Common Areas and Facilities and on any unsold or unoccupied Units for the purpose of selling unsold or unoccupied Units. In addition, the right is hereby given to the Association to establish Rules to place or authorize a Unit Owner or his agent to place "for sale" signs on any Unit or on the Condominium Property for the purpose of facilitating the disposal of Units by any Unit Owner, a mortgagee, or the Association.

K. Alteration of Common Areas and Facilities. Nothing shall be altered or constructed in or removed from the Common Areas and Facilities except as hereinafter provided and except upon the written consent of the Association. No decoration, placement of statuary or yard ornamentation of any kind shall be permitted in the Common Areas and Facilities unless done pursuant to prior written approval of the Board. No free-standing basketball sets, swing sets, slides, playground equipment, sheds, barns, tents, treehouses or other such structures or devices shall be permitted in the Common Areas without the prior written approval of the Board.

No change, alteration, construction or redecoration of any kind shall be permitted to the exterior of any Unit or its appurtenant deck, porch, patio, driveways or walks, including any change of color of the exterior of any Unit, unless done pursuant to prior written approval of the Board. Landscaping within Limited Common Areas shall be tastefully done and with the exception of lawns, shall be maintained by the Unit Owner of that Unit to which the Limited Common Area is appurtenant.

No natural, artificial or man-made fence or hedge, or natural, artificial or man-made wall (other than any wall which is part of a Unit), trellis, arbor or any similar nature, artificial or man-made means of screening or physically separating one Unit from another shall be permitted without the prior written approval of the Board.

L. Rental of Units. The respective Units shall not be rented by the owners thereof for transient or hotel purposes, which shall be defined as (i) rental for any period less than twelve (12) months, or (ii) any rental if the occupants of the Units are provided customary hotel service, such as for food and beverage, or maid service, or furnishing of laundry and linen. The Owners of the respective Units may lease the same only in conformity with the terms and conditions set forth in Article XIV below and the Bylaws attached hereto as Exhibit C. Each lease shall be made subject to the covenants and restrictions in this Declaration and further subject to the Bylaws of the Association attached hereto as Exhibit C. Units which are unsold and which are owned by the Declarant may be leased by the Declarant, as determined by Declarant, and leases made by the Declarant shall not require the approval of the Board of the Association and shall not be subject to other provisions in the Bylaws of the Association relating to leasing and rental.

M. Use of Units by Declarant. During the period in which sales of Units by the Declarant or its agents are in progress, Declarant may occupy or grant permission to any person or entity to occupy, with or without rental, as determined by Declarant, one or more Units in such apportions of the Common Areas and Facilities as Declarant considers necessary, for business or promotional purposes, including clerical activities, sales offices and model units for display and the like.

N. Use of Parking Areas. Any unenclosed parking areas (being those parking areas designated on the Drawings other than the parking spaces in the garages) shall only be used for the periodic parking of automobiles and non-commercial trucks, not for the parking of any other kind of vehicle nor for the storage of any automobile or other vehicle or item. No boats, campers, mobile homes, trailers, commercial trucks, recreational vehicles or the like shall be parked or stored between the hours of 12:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m. either (i) on any street or driveway within the Condominium Property, or (ii) otherwise outside of any Unit or any unenclosed parking area. The foregoing parking and storage restrictions shall not apply to the parking and storage of construction vehicles and equipment reasonably necessary to construct any Unit or other improvement in or to the Condominium Property. Any automobile (other than an automobile periodically parked, as permitted herein), vehicle or other item occupying such a space (or any portion thereof) may be removed and/or stored at the sole expense of the Unit Owner who shall have caused or permitted the improper use of said unenclosed parking area.

O. Motor Vehicles. There shall be no driving or riding of any motor vehicles upon any non-paved area of the Condominium Property, except for normal landscaping or maintenance purposes. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, specifically prohibited within any non-paved area are motor vehicles such as motorcycles, motorbikes, minibikes, mopeds, all-terrain vehicles and snow mobiles.

P. Repair of Vehicles. No powered vehicle of any kind shall be constructed or repaired on the Condominium Property, except for normal maintenance performed by an Owner entirely within the garage that is appurtenant to the Unit of such Owner.

Q. Liquor. No spirits, vinous and/or fermented liquor shall be manufactured (except so-called "home manufacture" for on-premises consumption by the Owner) or sold, either at wholesale or retail, in any Unit or Common Area, and no place of public entertainment of any character shall be established, conducted or suffered to remain upon any part of the Condominium Property.

R. No Refuse Materials. No lumber, metals, bulk materials, refuse or trash shall be burned, whether in indoor incinerators or otherwise (excluding the burning of wood in a fireplace), kept, stored or allowed to accumulate on any portion of the Condominium Property, except normal residential accumulation pending pick-up, reasonable amounts of racked firewood for normal residential use and building materials during the course of construction or reconstruction of any approved building or structure.

S. Rules. The use of the Condominium Property shall be subject to such additional restrictions as may be set forth in the Rules.

ARTICLE VI

Assessments

A. General. Assessments for the maintenance, repair and insurance of the Common Areas and Facilities, together with the payment of the common expenses, shall be made in the manner provided herein and in the manner provided in the Bylaws. Assessments for renewals or renovations may be made by the Association as set forth in Article X below.

B. Division of Common Profits and Common Expenses. The percentage proportionate shares of the separate owners of the respective Units in the Common Profits and the Common Expenses of the operation of the Condominium Property, as well as their representation for voting purposes in the Association, shall be as referred to in Article II, Section B. 3.

C. Nonuse of Facilities. No owner of a Unit may exempt himself from any liability for his contribution toward the Common Expenses by waiver of the use or enjoyment of any of the Common Areas and Facilities, or by the abandonment of his Unit or by any other act whatsoever.

D. Lien of Association. The Association shall have a lien upon the estate or interest in any Unit of the then owner thereof and the percentage of interest of that owner in the Common Areas and Facilities for the payment of the portion of the common expenses chargeable against such Unit which remain unpaid for thirty (30) days after the same have become due and payable, together with the amount of any costs, including without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees, court costs, title reports and recording costs incurred by the Association. A certificate therefor, subscribed by the President, Secretary or other officer of the Association, may be filed with the Recorder of _____ [county] County, Ohio, pursuant to authorization given by the Board. Such certificate shall contain a description of the Unit, the name or names of the record Owner or Owners thereof, and the amount of such unpaid portion of the common expenses. Upon the filing of such certificate, notification thereof shall be by regular mail to the Unit Owner and his mortgagee as shown on the books of the Association. Said lien shall be effective as of the date it is filed with the Recorder of _____ [county] County, Ohio. Such lien shall remain valid for a period of five (5) years from the time of filing thereof, unless sooner released or satisfied in the same manner provided by law for the release and satisfaction of mortgages on real property or discharged by the final judgment or order of the court in an action brought to discharge such lien, as hereinafter provided.

E. Priority of Association's Lien. The lien provided for in Section D of this Article VI shall take priority over any lien or encumbrance subsequently arising or created, except liens for real estate taxes and assessments and liens for bona fide first mortgages which have been filed for record, and may be foreclosed in the same manner as a mortgage on real property in an action brought by the Association. In any such foreclosure actions the owner or owners of the Unit affected shall be required to pay a reasonable rental for such Unit during the pendency of such action, and the plaintiff in such action is entitled to the appointment of a receiver to collect the same. In any such foreclosure action, the Association shall be entitled to become a purchaser at the foreclosure sale. The Unit Owner shall pay all costs of said proceedings, including the Association's reasonable legal fees. In addition, the Unit Owner and any occupant thereof shall be personally liable for the amount secured by such lien and any fees incurred to enforce such lien.

F. Dispute as to Common Expenses. Any Unit Owner who believes that the portion of common expenses chargeable to his Unit, for which a certificate of lien has been filed by the Association, has been improperly charged against him/her or his/her Unit, may bring an action in the Court of Common Pleas of _____ [county] County, Ohio, for the discharge of such lien, or may contest the same in a foreclosure action brought by the Association.

G. Nonliability of Judicial Sale Purchaser for Past Due Common Expenses. Where the holder of a first mortgage of record or other purchaser of a Unit acquires title to the Unit as a result of a judicial sale resulting from litigation to which the Association has been made a party, or if the mortgagee accepts a deed in lieu of foreclosure, such person acquiring title, his successors and assigns, shall not be liable for the share of the Common Expenses or other assessments by the Association chargeable to such Unit which became due prior to the acquisition of title to such Unit by such person. Such unpaid share of Common Expenses or assessments shall be deemed to be Common Expenses collectible from all of the Units, including that of the person purchasing at the judicial sale, his successors or assigns.

H. Liability for Assessments Upon Conveyance. In the event of a conveyance of a Unit other than by judicial sale, the transferee of the Unit shall be jointly and severally liable with the transferor for all unpaid assessments, dues and other charges levied by the Association against the transferor and the Unit for his share of common expenses up to the time of the grant or conveyance attributable to that Unit. Such joint and several liability shall be without prejudice to the transferee's right to recover from the transferor the amounts paid by the transferee therefor. Any such transferee shall be entitled to a statement from the Board setting forth the amount of all unpaid assessments against the transferor due the Association as of the date of the transferee's acquisition, and such transferee shall not be liable for, nor shall the Unit conveyed be subject to a lien for, any unpaid assessments made by the Association against the transferor in excess of the amount set forth in such statement for the period reflected in such statement.

I. Common Profits. The Common Profits shall be distributed among the Unit Owners in accordance with their respective percentages of interest in the Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to their respective Units.

J. Transfer of Funds to Grantee. Upon the conveyance or transfer of title to a Unit (whether voluntarily or involuntarily) all funds, credits and Common Profits then pertaining to such Unit shall automatically inure to the sole benefit of the Grantee or Transferee of such Unit.

ARTICLE VII

Insurance

A. Casualty Insurance. Each Unit Owner of a Single-Family Unit shall maintain at his own cost and expense, fire and extended coverage insurance with vandalism and malicious mischief endorsements (known commonly as "all risk" insurance) with respect to the Single-Family Unit he owns, with respect to Limited Common Areas and Facilities, and with respect to any patio, porch or deck accessory thereto. All such insurance shall be in an amount equal to the full replacement costs of the property covered thereby. The Association and each mortgagee in whose favor a mortgage with respect to such Single-Family Unit shall be named as insured parties in such policies as their interest may appear and such casualty insurance policies shall provide that all proceeds payable as a result of losses shall be paid jointly to the respective mortgagees and the Unit Owners as their interests may appear. Such insurance policies shall provide for the issuance of certificates of insurance to the Association and to the holders of mortgages on the Single-Family Units and shall further provide that coverage shall not be terminated, canceled or materially modified without ten (10) days prior written notice to the Association and the mortgagees.

The Association, as a Common Expense, shall maintain for the benefit of each Unit Owner, such insurance as it deems necessary for the buildings, if any, structures and improvements comprising the Common Areas and Facilities and the Limited Common Areas and Facilities of the Condominium Property.

In respect of all policies of insurance obtained by the Association and by the Unit Owners, the Association and each Unit Owner do hereby waive (to the extent permitted by such policy, but only the extent of the proceeds payable in connection therewith) all rights of recovery and causes of action against each other, the Owners of Units, the members of the family of each Owner of a Unit, and their tenants and other occupants of the Condominium Property, the Association, the Board, and the managing agent, if any, for any loss which may result from any of the perils insured against under any such policies; and each such policy shall provide for release by the insurance company issuing such policy of such of its rights of subrogation thereunder as shall be coextensive with the foregoing waivers.

B. Public Liability Insurance. The Association shall insure itself, all Unit Owners and members of their respective families and other persons residing with them in the Condominium Property, their tenants, and all persons lawfully in possession or control of any part of the Condominium Property, against liability for bodily injury, disease, illness or death, and for any injury to or destruction of property occurring upon, in or about, or arising from, the Common Areas and Facilities, or from activities or acts or omissions of the Association, its agents and employees. Such insurance shall afford protection to a limit of not less than a combined single limit of _____ Dollars ($_____) with respect to bodily injury, disease, illness, death or property damage. Such policy shall not insure against liability for personal injury or property damage arising out of or relating to ownership, maintenance or use of individual Units, and any automobiles or motor-driven vehicles driven by or on behalf of such individual Owner. All liability insurance shall contain cross-liability endorsements to cover liabilities of the Unit Owners as a group to a Unit Owner. The Association shall also obtain such other insurance as the Board in its discretion may determine.

In the event that the public liability insurance shall not fully protect and indemnify the Unit Owners from all cost and liability arising from a loss insured thereunder or other loss not insured against, or from a negligent act or omission of an employee or agent of the Association occurring in the course and scope of his employment or agency, there shall be a right of contribution amongst the Unit Owners with respect to such unprotected or unindemnified cost or liability. It is the intention of this paragraph that a Unit Owner paying or required to pay more than his respective percentage interest of said cost or liability shall have the right to cause the other Unit Owners to reimburse him for such excessive payment.

C. Insurance Premiums. Insurance premiums for the policies obtained by the Association shall be a common expense.

D. Unit Owner's Insurance. Each Unit Owner shall obtain insurance at his own expense, affording coverage upon his personal property, including any insurance not insured under the Association's policies described above, and for his personal liability as may be required by law or with respect to liability affecting his own Unit.

ARTICLE VIII

Damage or Destruction and Restoration of Buildings

A. Single Family Units. In the event a Single-Family Unit shall be damaged or destroyed, the Single-Family Unit Owner shall make all necessary repairs and restorations and shall apply in payments thereof the insurance proceeds received by him. In the event such damage or destruction results from any peril not insured against, or if the insurance proceeds shall not be available to pay the entire cost of such repairs and restoration, the entire cost of such repairs and restoration or the amount of the difference between the insurance proceeds available therefor and the cost for such repairs and restoration (as the case may be) shall be borne by the Single-Family Unit Owner. In the event the Single-Family Unit Owner fails or refuses to make the necessary repairs or restoration within a reasonable time, the Association may after reasonable notice, make such necessary repairs and restoration and shall apply in payment thereof the insurance proceeds made available to the Single-Family Unit Owner and in the event such damage or destruction results from any peril not insured against, or if the insurance proceeds shall not be available to pay the entire cost for such repairs and restoration, the entire cost for such repairs and restoration, or the amount of the difference between the insurance proceeds available therefor and the cost for such repairs and restoration (as the case may be) shall be borne by and assessed against the Single-Family Unit Owner. In the event a Single-Family Unit Owner shall refuse or fail after reasonable notice to pay such cost and assessments, the Association shall have a lien upon the estate or interest of such Unit Owner, enforceable to the same extent and the same manner as any other assessments made by the Association.

B. Nonrestoration of Damage or Destruction

1. Common Areas. If the damaged improvement is a part of the Common Areas and Facilities, the damaged improvement in the Common Areas and Facilities shall be reconstructed and repaired unless the Unit Owners entitled to exercise not less than _____ percent (_____) of the total voting power determine not to repair the damaged or destroyed improvement. Thereupon, the proceeds of any insurance shall be utilized to eliminate or remove the damaged or destroyed improvement. The balance of any proceeds shall be (i) utilized to construct or acquire additional common improvements, or (ii) distributed to the Unit Owners (subject to the rights of their respective lien holders) in proportion to their respective percentage interests in the common profits and expenses, all as determined by the Unit Owners entitled to exercise _____ percent (_____) of the total voting power.

2. Units. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of Article VIII, Section A, above, in the event that Single-Family Units and the buildings, structures and improvements comprising the Common Areas and Facilities of the Condominium Property shall be damaged or destroyed to the extent of _____ percent (_____) or more of the insurable replacement cost thereof, the Owners, by the affirmative vote of those entitled to exercise not less than _____ percent (_____) of the voting power, may elect not to repair or restore the Condominium Property. Upon such election, all of the Condominium Property shall be subject to an action for sale as upon partition at the suit of any Owner. In the event of any such sale, the net sales proceeds, the net insurance, if any, and any other indemnity arising because of such damage or destruction shall be considered as one fund and shall be distributed to all Owners of a Unit in proportion to their respective percentages of interest in the Common Areas and Facilities. No Unit Owner, however, shall receive any portion of his share of such proceeds until all liens and encumbrances on his Unit shall have been paid, released or discharged.

ARTICLE IX Condemnation

In the event that the entire Condominium Property is taken by eminent domain or condemned, or sold, or otherwise disposed of in lieu of or in avoidance thereof, the Condominium Property shall be withdrawn from the provisions of Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code. The condemnation award shall be apportioned among the Unit Owners in accordance with their respective percentage interests in the common profits and expenses, subject to the right of their respective lienholders. The Association shall as soon as practicable determine the share of the condemnation award to which each Unit Owner is entitled, and such share shall be paid into separate accounts and disbursed as soon as practicable to the Unit Owners entitled to same, subject to the right of their respective lienholders.

In the event that less than the entire Condominium Property is taken or condemned, or sold or otherwise disposed of in lieu of or in avoidance thereof, the Condominium Property hereunder shall not be terminated. Each Unit Owner shall be entitled to a share of the condemnation award to be determined in the following manner: As soon as practicable the Association shall, reasonably and in good faith, allocate the condemnation award between compensation, damages, or other proceeds, and shall apportion the amounts so allocated among the Unit Owners, as follows: (a) the total amount allocated to taking of or injury to the Common Areas and Facilities (excluding Limited Common Areas and Facilities) shall be apportioned among all Unit Owners in proportion to their respective percentages of interest in the Common Areas and Facilities, (b) the total amount allocated to severance damages shall be apportioned to those Units which were not taken or condemned, (c) the respective amounts allocated to the taking of or injury to a particular Unit and/or improvements a Unit Owner has made within his Unit or to the Limited Common Areas appurtenant to such Unit shall be apportioned to the particular Unit involved, and (d) the total amount allocated to consequential damages and any other takings or injuries shall be apportioned as the Association determines to be equitable under the circumstances. If an allocation of the condemnation award is already established in negotiation, judicial decree, or otherwise, then in allocating the condemnation award the Association shall employ such allocation to the extent it is relevant and applicable. Distribution of apportioned proceeds shall be made by checks payable jointly to the respective Unit Owners and the respective lienholders holding liens against their Units.

In the event a partial taking results in the taking of a complete Unit, the Owner thereof shall automatically cease to be a member of the Association. Thereafter the Association shall reallocate the ownership, voting rights and assessment ratio determined in accordance with this Declaration according to the same principles employed in this Declaration at its inception and shall submit such reallocation to the Owners of the remaining Units for amendment of this Declaration and the amended Declaration shall be filed as required by law.

Any reconstruction and repair necessitated by condemnation shall be governed by the procedures specified in Article VIII hereinabove.

ARTICLE X

Renovation and Subsequent Improvements of Existing Buildings, Structures and Other Improvements

The Association may, by the affirmative vote of the Single-Family Unit Owners entitled to exercise not less than _____ percent (_____) of the voting power of the Single Family Unit Owners, determine that the portion of the Condominium Property zoned for single-family homes is obsolete or in need of renovation, in whole or in part, and elect to have the same renewed and renovated. The Association shall thereupon proceed with such renewal and renovation and the cost thereof shall be a Special Charge of the Single-Family Unit Owners, subject to assessment in the same as set forth in Article VI above. Any Single-Family Unit Owner who does not vote for such renewal and renovation may elect, in a writing served by him on the Association within ten (10) days after receiving notice of such vote, to receive the fair market value of his Unit, less the amount of any liens and encumbrances thereon as of the date such vote is taken, in return for a conveyance of his Unit, subject to such liens and encumbrances, to the Association. In the event of such election, such conveyance and payment of the consideration therefor, which shall be a Special Charge to the Single-Family Unit Owners who have not so elected, shall be made within thirty (30) days thereafter, and if such owner and a majority of the Association cannot agree upon the fair market value of such Single-Family Unit within thirty (30) days after such election, such determination shall be made by the majority vote of three appraisers, one of which shall be appointed by such Single-Family Unit Owner, one of which shall be appointed by the Association, and the third of which shall be appointed by the first two appraisers. Each party shall pay for the cost of its own appraiser, and the cost of the third appraiser shall be split between the Single-Family Unit Owner and the Association.

ARTICLE XI

Removal from Condominium Ownership

To the extent the removal of the Condominium Property from the provisions of the Act shall not, in and of itself, violate the local zoning and building codes applicable thereto, the Unit Owners, by the affirmative vote of not less than _____ percent (_____) of the voting power, may elect to remove the Condominium Property from the provisions of Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code. In the event of such election, all liens and encumbrances, except taxes and assessments not then due and payable, upon all or any part of the Condominium Property, shall be paid, released, or discharged, and a certificate setting forth that such election was made shall be filed with the Recorder of _____ [county] County, Ohio. Such certificate shall certify therein under oath that all liens, except taxes and assessments not then due and payable, upon all or any part of the Common Areas and Facilities, have been paid, released or discharged, and shall also be signed by the Unit Owners, each of whom shall certify therein under oath that all such liens on his Unit or Units have been paid, released or discharged. The Board may, at their discretion, require as a condition precedent to the filing of said certificate the issuance of a policy of title insurance evidencing the nonexistence of any liens as aforesaid. The Board shall designate the amount and issuer of said title insurance, and the cost thereof shall be a common expense.

ARTICLE XII

Amendment of Declaration and Bylaws

A. Reservation of Rights to Amend. Declarant shall have the right, exercisable in its sole discretion at any time during the seven (7) year period following the date this Declaration is filed for record, and the Board shall have the right thereafter to amend, from time to time, this Declaration, the Bylaws and/or the Drawings in such respects as Declarant may consider necessary, convenient or appropriate for the purpose of (i) complying with any regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Federal Housing Administration, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, the Veteran's Administration, the Department of Housing and Urban Development and/or the Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corporation (as such regulations may be amended periodically), (ii) complying with any regulations of any federal, state or local governmental agency or instrumentality (as such regulation may be amended periodically), (iii) correcting any scrivener's error or curing any ambiguity, inconsistency or form of defect or omission in this Declaration, the ByLaws and/or the Drawings, and/or (iv) effecting any other changes not adverse to the Unit Owners or to the holders of the mortgages encumbering the Units. Each Unit Owner, by accepting a Deed conveying title to his Unit, and each mortgagee accepting a mortgage encumbering any Unit, automatically consents and approves the provisions of this Section A and all Unit Owners and their respective mortgagees shall perform such actions and shall promptly execute and deliver to Declarant and/or the Board from time to time, as the Declarant and/or the Board shall request, all instruments as Declarant and/or the Board shall consider necessary, convenient or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of this Section A. In addition, each Unit Owner, by acceptance of a Deed in respect to his Unit, and each mortgagee, by accepting a mortgage encumbering any Unit, automatically hereby irrevocably appoints Declarant and/or the Board as the proxy of such Unit Owner and mortgagee coupled with an interest, to act and vote for on behalf of each such Unit Owner and each such mortgagee in such manner as shall enable Declarant and/or the Board to effectuate the rights reserved by Declarant and/or the Board pursuant to this Section A and to that end, each such Unit Owner and each such mortgagee hereby authorizes, directs and empowers Declarant and/or the Board, as the holder of such proxy, to execute, and to have witnessed, acknowledged and recorded, for and in the name of such Unit Owner and each such mortgagee, such amendments of the within Declaration, the Bylaws and/or the Drawings, together with such consents thereto as Declarant and/or the Board shall consider necessary, convenient or appropriate to comply with the provisions of this Section if Declarant shall exercise the rights reserved to it in this Section. Any documents requiring execution by any person, firm, corporation, or other entity (other than Declarant) shall be in full compliance if executed by Declarant and/or the Board on behalf of such person, firm, corporation or other entity.

B. Procedure for Amendments. This Declaration and the Bylaws attached hereto as Exhibit C may be amended upon the filing for record with the Recorder of _____ [county] County, _____ [state] , an instrument in writing setting forth specifically the item or items to be amended and any new matter to be added, which instrument shall have been duly executed by the Unit Owners entitled to exercise at least _____ percent (_____ %) of the voting power of the Association. Such amendment must be exercised with the same formalities as this instrument and must refer to the volume and page in which this instrument and its attached exhibits are recorded and must contain an affidavit by the Secretary of the Association that a copy of the amendment has been mailed by certified mail to all mortgagees having bona fide liens of record against any Unit. However, no amendment shall have any effect upon a bona fide first mortgagee until the written consent to such amendment of such mortgagee has been secured. No amendments may diminish or alter the security or rights of any existing lienholder. Such consents shall be retained by the Secretary of the Association and his certification in the instrument of amendment as to the names of the consenting and nonconsenting mortgagees of the various Units shall be sufficient for reliance by the general public. If less than all mortgagees consent to an amendment to the Declaration and/or the Bylaws, said amendment or modification shall nevertheless be valid among the Unit Owners, inter sese, provided that the rights of a nonconsenting mortgagee shall not be abrogated thereby. No provision in this Declaration or Bylaws may be changed, modified or rescinded, however, which, after such change, modification or rescission, would conflict with the provisions of Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code, as now in effect or as hereafter amended.

Notwithstanding the above, no consent of any mortgagee shall be required with respect to an amendment by the Declarant, its successors and assigns, if said amendment shall be made pursuant to Article XV, irrespective of the fact that said amendment shall affect the Unit Owners' percentage interest in the Common Areas and Facilities and their voting representation.

C. Exceptions. Notwithstanding the foregoing, for purposes of amending this Declaration:

(i) to submit the Additional Property to the provisions of the Act, the Declarant need only comply with the provisions of the Act pertaining to theright to add "Additional Property" (as defined in the Act) in respect of an "Expandable Condominium Property" as defined in the Act; and

(ii) to effect the rights reserved to Declarant pursuant to Section A, above, Declarant need only comply with the provisions of such Section A and Section 5311.06 of the Act.

ARTICLE XIII

Remedies for Breach of Covenants and Regulations

Abatement and Enjoyment. The violation of any restriction or condition or regulation adopted by the Association or the breach of any covenant or provision contained in this Declaration or in the Bylaws of the Association shall give the Association the right, in addition to all other rights in law or in equity, to (i) enter upon the land or Unit or portion thereof upon which, or as to which, such violation or breach exists and to summarily abate and remove, at the expense of the defaulting Owner, any structure, thing or condition that may exist thereon contrary to the intent and meaning of the provisions of this Declaration and the Bylaws of the Association, and the Association or its agents shall not thereby be deemed guilty in any manner of trespass; or to (ii) enjoin, abate or remedy by appropriate legal proceedings, either at law or in equity, the continuance of any breach. All expense and costs thereof, including reasonable attorneys' fees, shall be paid by the Unit Owner guilty of the breach and constitute the basis for a lien upon his Unit and interest in accordance with Article VI thereof.

ARTICLE XIV

Expansion of Condominium Property by Declarant

A. This Condominium, as planned and envisioned by the Declarant, is intended to be an Expandable Condominium Property. Therefore, in accordance with Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code, Declarant reserves the right, at Declarant's exclusive option, to expand the Condominium Property by submitting all or a portion, as provided below, of the Additional Property to the provisions of Chapter 5311. Except as otherwise provided in this Section, there are no limitations on the exercise of said option, including, but not limited to, no limitation requiring the consent of any Unit Owner. Said option shall expire seven (7) years after the Declaration is filed for record unless said seven-year period is extended in accordance with the provisions of Section 5311.05(C)(3) of the Ohio Revised Code. There are no circumstances under which said option will terminate prior to the expiration of the above-described time limit, except that Declarant may elect at any time to terminate said option.

B. All or a portion of the Additional Property, as described in Exhibit B, may be added to the Condominium Property in connection with the complete development of the Condominium. Different portions of the Additional Property may be added to the Condominium Property at different times, in phases, so that the entire contemplated development may proceed in an orderly fashion. However, the Declarant is under no legal obligation or duty to add any of such Additional Property to the Condominium Property and may add or decline to add any such portion of the Additional Property within the unrestricted and uncontrolled discretion of Declarant. There are no limitations with respect to the boundaries of portions of the Additional Property that may be added, or with respect to the order in which portions may be added; provided, however, that each portion added shall be contiguous, at some point, to what then constitutes the Condominium Property. There are no limitations as to the location of any improvements contemplated to be constructed on any portion of the Additional Property. Declarant reserves the right to change the design of structures and buildings to be constructed and the order of additions to the Condominium Property of portions of the Additional Property.

C. The Additional Property consisting of the real property set forth on Exhibit A, attached hereto, is owned by Declarant and zoned for single-family residences on which a total of fifteen (15) additional Single-Family Units may be constructed. The Additional Property described on Exhibit B, attached hereto, is zoned for single family-residences and an additional forty (40) Single-Family Units may be constructed. As stated in Article V, subparagraph A, above, all of the land and Units thereon which are added to the Condominium Property are restricted to residential use.

D. With respect to improvements, other than structures, to any portion of any of the Additional Property to be added to the Condominium Property, the Declarant reserves the right to make such improvements as Declarant deems necessary, if any. There are no restrictions or limitations upon improvements that may be made except that Declarant intends that such improvements, if made, will be of substantially the same kind, style and quality as exist with respect to the Condominium Property.

E. With respect to all Units to be constructed on any portion of the Additional Property, all such Single-Family Units are intended to be compatible with the Single-Family Units contained within the Condominium Property when and if initially constructed, as submitted to the provisions of Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code in accordance with this Declaration. Design shall not be deemed to be incompatible because of changes in the number of Units, changes in interior layout of Units, or variances in set-backs or relations of structures to other improvements.

F. All or any portion of the Common Areas and Facilities designated on any portion of the Additional Property may be assigned as Limited Common Areas and Facilities by the Declarant. It is anticipated that the type of Limited Common Areas will be substantially of the same type as those designated on the Condominium Property. The size and number of such newly created Limited Common Areas cannot be ascertained precisely because those facts will depend on how large each portion to the Additional Property added to the Condominium Property may be, the size and location of the buildings and other improvements on each portion, and other factors presently undetermined.

G. All or any portion of the Additional Property shall be submitted to the provisions of Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code, by the Declarant, by filing an amendment to this Declaration, which contains the information, Drawings and other items required by Section 5311.05(A) and (B) of the Ohio Revised Code, and which allocates and reallocates the fractions of undivided interest in the Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to each Unit on the real estate previously submitted to provisions of Chapter 5311 and for each Unit constructed or to be constructed on a portion of the Additional Property being submitted to the provisions of Chapter 5311 by said amendment. Said amendment shall uniformly reallocate said undivided fractional interests in the Common Areas and Facilities pursuant to the formula described below.

H. The fractional interest of each Unit Owner in the Common Areas and Facilities shall be allocated and reallocated so that at all times the interest shall be based on the relative Par Values assigned to Units being added to the Condominium Property to the Par Value of all Units. It is intended that the Single-Family Units, once and if added to the Condominium Property, shall be assigned an equal par value of one (1). Such amendment shall be executed by the Declarant in recordable form and filed for record, and shall be effective on the date on which it is filed for record.

ARTICLE XV

Certain Disclosures Required by the Act

In accordance with Section 5311.25 of the Ohio Revised Code and in connection with the sale or offer to sell Condominium Ownership Interests by the Declarant, the Declarant agrees that:

A. Any deposit or down payment made in connection with the sale of a Unit will be held in trust or escrow until delivered at settlement or returned to or otherwise credited to the purchaser of a Unit or forfeited to the Declarant, and if a deposit or down payment of _____ Dollars ($_____) or more is held for more than ninety (90) days, interest at the rate of at least _____ percent (_____%) per annum for any period exceeding ninety (90) days shall be credited to the purchaser of a Unit at settlement or upon return or other credit made to such purchaser, or added to any forfeiture to the Declarant. Deposits and down payments held in trust or escrow pursuant to this paragraph shall not be subject to attachment by creditors of the Declarant or a purchaser of a Unit.

B. Except in its capacity as a Unit Owner of unsold Condominium Ownership Interests, the Declarant will not retain a property interest in any of the Common Areas and Facilities after control of the Condominium Property is assumed by the Association, except that the Declarant may retain an interest consistent with this Declaration for the purpose of insuring a means of ingress and egress from and to the Common Areas and Facilities by the prospective Unit Owners in the Additional Property.

C. The owners of Condominium Ownership Interests that have been sold by the Declarant or his agent will assume control of the Common Areas and Facilities and of the Association in the following manner:

(1) The Association shall be established not later than the date the deed or other evidence of ownership is filed for record following the first sale of a Condominium Ownership Interest in the development. Membership in the Association shall be limited to Unit Owners, and all Unit Owners shall be members. Until the Association is established, the Declarant shall act in all instances where action of the Association or its officers is authorized or required by law or the Declaration.

(2) Not later than the time that Condominium Ownership Interests to which _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interest in the Common Areas and Facilities appertain have been sold and conveyed by the Declarant, the Association shall meet and the Unit Owners, other than the Declarant shall elect not less than _____ percent (_____%) of the members of the Board. Not later than the time that Condominium Ownership Interests to which _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interests appertain have been sold and conveyed, such Unit Owners shall elect not less than _____ percent (_____%) of the members of the Board. Since the Condominium is an Expandable Condominium, the percentage interest in the Common Areas and Facilities is to be computed by comparing the number of Units sold and conveyed to the maximum number of Units that may be created, as stated in the Declaration.

(3) Except as stated in subparagraph (2), above, the Declarant or person authorized by Declarant may appoint and remove members of the Board and other officers of the Association and exercise the powers and responsibilities otherwise assigned by law or the Declaration to the Association, the Board or other officers. Such authorization shall extend from the date of the establishment of the Association until the earlier of:

(a) five (5) years; or

(b) thirty (30) days after the sale and conveyance of Condominium Ownership Interests to which appertain _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interests in the Common Areas and Facilities to purchasers in good faith for value.

Within thirty (30) days of the expiration of control by the Declarant as aforesaid, the Association shall meet and elect all members of the Board and all other officers of the Association. The persons so elected shall take office upon election.

D. Neither the Association nor the Unit Owners will be subject to any management contract or agreement executed prior to the assumption of control as required by the preceding paragraph of this Article for more than one (1) year subsequent to the date of that assumption of control, unless such contract or agreement is renewed by a vote of the Unit Owners pursuant to the Bylaws of the Association.

E. Solely and only to the extent such warranties are or may be required by the provisions of Section 5311.25(E) of the Ohio Revised Code, Declarant will furnish a two-year warranty covering the full cost of labor and materials for any repair or replacement of roof and structural components and mechanical, electrical, plumbing and common service elements serving the Condominium Property, as a whole, occasioned or necessitated by a defect in material or workmanship and a one-year warranty covering the full cost of labor and materials for any repair or replacement of structural, mechanical and other elements pertaining to each Unit, occasioned or necessitated by a defect in material or workmanship commencing as follows:

(1) The two-year warranty shall commence on the date that the deed is filed for record following the first sale of the first Condominium Ownership Interest to a purchaser in good faith for value, except in the case of Expandable Condominium Property, the two-year warranty with respect to Units located on the Additional Property shall commence from the date the deed is filed for record following sale of the first Condominium Ownership Interest on the Additional Property.

(2) The one-year warranty shall commence on the date the deed is filed for record following the first sale of a Condominium Ownership Interest to a purchaser in good faith for value.

(3) In the case of ranges, refrigerators, washing machines, clothes dryers, hot water heaters and other similar appliances, if any, installed and furnished as part of the Unit by Declarant, the valid assignment, if permitted, of any express or implied warranties, if any, of the manufacturer satisfies the Declarant's warranty under this Section E with respect to such appliances, and the Declarant's warranty shall be limited to the installation of the appliances.

(4) All warranties made to the Declarant that exceed the time periods set forth hereinabove with respect to any part of the Units or Common Areas and Facilities shall be assigned to purchasers of Units, provided that such warranties are assignable.

None of the foregoing warranties shall cover repairs or replacements necessitated or occasioned by ordinary wear and tear or by the negligent or wanton acts of any Unit Owner or occupant or any tenant, guest or invitee of a Unit Owner or occupant or occasioned or necessitated for any reason whatsoever except by reason of defects in materials and workmanship. Any dispute in defining what constitutes a defect in materials and/or workmanship in the aforesaid items and the above warranties shall be mandatorily referred to the American Arbitration Association, and the determination thereby shall be final and binding.

F. The Declarant shall assume the rights and obligations of a Unit Owner with respect to Units not yet sold, including the obligation to pay common expenses attaching to such Units, from the date the Declaration is filed for record.

ARTICLE XVI

Special Declarant Rights

The Declarant hereby reserves unto itself, its successors and assigns, the following rights for the benefit of the Declarant:

(i) to complete all improvements that serve the Condominium Property, including without limitation, the right and easement through the Common Areas and Facilities for the purpose of making the improvements within the Condominium Property or within the Additional Property, if and when all or portions thereof are added to the Condominium Property; and

(ii) to maintain sales offices, management offices, signs, advertising and models at such places as Declarant shall determine.

ARTICLE XVII

Miscellaneous Provisions

A. Binding Effect. Each grantee of the Declarant, by acceptance of a deed of conveyance, accepts the same subject to all restrictions, conditions, covenants, reservations, liens and charges, and the jurisdiction, rights and powers created or reserved by this Declaration, and all rights, benefits and privileges of every character hereby granted, created, reserved or declared, and all impositions and obligations hereby imposed, shall be deemed and taken to be covenants running with the land, and shall bind any person having at any time any interest or estate in said real property, and shall inure to the benefit of such owner in like manner as though the provisions of the Declaration were recited and stipulated at length in each and every deed of conveyance. All of the provisions of this Declaration are in furtherance of a common plan to develop, promote and protect the desirability and value of the property described herein for the benefit of each owner thereof.

B. Nonwaiver. No covenants, restrictions, conditions, obligations or provisions contained in this Declaration shall be deemed to have been abrogated or waived by reason of any failure to enforce the same, irrespective of the number of violations or breaches which may occur.

C. Separability. The invalidity of any covenant, restrictions, condition, limitation or other provisions of this Declaration, or of any part of the same, shall not impair or affect in any manner the validity, enforceability or effect of the rest of this Declaration.

D. Statute of Perpetuities. If any of the privileges, covenants or rights created by this Declaration shall be unlawful or void for violation of (a) the rule against perpetuities or some analogous statutory provision, (b) the rule restricting restraints on alienation, or (c) any other statutory or common law rules imposing time limits, then such provision shall continue only until twenty-one (21) years after the death of the survivor of the now living descendants of the United States Senator representing the State of Ohio, the Honorable _____ [name] .

E. Sales by Declarant. So long as Declarant, its successors and assigns, own one or more of the Units established and described herein, the Declarant, its successors and assigns, shall be subject to the provisions of this Declaration and of the Drawings, except that Declarant may lease, sell, exchange and transfer Units owned by Declarant without approval of the Board.

F. Nonliability of Declarant. Neither Declarant nor its principals, members, shareholders, officers or other representatives, successors or assigns shall be liable for any claim whatsoever arising out of or by reason of any actions performed pursuant to any authorities granted or delegated to it by or pursuant to this Declaration in the management and operation of the Condominium and the Condominium Property and the Association, whether or not such claim (i) shall be asserted by a Unit Owner, occupant, the Association, or by any person or entity claiming through any of them; or (ii) shall be on account of injury to person or damage to or loss of property wherever located and however caused; or

(iii) shall arise ex contractu or (except in the case of gross neglect) ex delicto. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the foregoing enumeration includes all claims for, or arising by reason of, the Condominium Property or any part thereof being or becoming out of repair or containing any patent or latent defects, or by reason of any act or neglect of any Unit Owner, occupant, the Association, and their respective agents, employees, guests, invitees, or by reason of any neighboring property or personal property located on or about the Condominium Property, or by reason of the failure to function or disrepair of any utility services (heat, air conditioning, electricity, gas, water, sewage, etc.). The foregoing exculpatory language shall not include claims against the Declarant arising from Declarant's capacity as a developer, builder and seller.

G. Section Headings; Gender. The heading of each Article and to each Section hereto are inserted only as a matter of convenience and for reference and in no way define, limit or describe the scope or intent of this Declaration nor in any way affect this Declaration.

The use of the masculine gender herein or in the Bylaws shall be deemed to include the feminine and the neuter genders, as the case may be, and the use of the singular shall be deemed to include the plural, wherever the context so requires.

H. Uniform Plan. The provisions of this Declaration shall be liberally construed to effectuate its purpose of creating a uniform plan for the establishment and operation of a proper and harmonious condominium development.

I. Service of Notices. Any notice by the Association or by the Declarant to a Unit Owner shall be deemed to be duly given, and any demand upon him shall be deemed by him to have been duly made, if delivered in writing to him personally, or if sent to him by United States certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to him at the Unit owned by him, and any notice by a Unit Owner to the Association shall be deemed to be duly given and made, if in writing and delivered to the Secretary of the Association.

Each Unit Owner shall furnish written notice to the Secretary of the Association of the name and address of such Unit Owner's first mortgagee and of any change in the name and address of such mortgagee.

FORM 20.71 Bylaws for condominium--Ohio

COMMENT

The Ohio statute requires that bylaws governing the operation of a condominium must be filed with the declaration submitting the property to condominium ownership. The by-laws look very similar to the bylaws of a typical non-profit corporation; however, they contain many extra provisions relating to the operation of a condominium.

OF

SMITH COURT CONDOMINIUM UNIT OWNERS ASSOCIATION

ARTICLE I

PURPOSE AND DEFINITIONS

The purpose of these Bylaws is to provide for the establishment of a Unit Owners Association for the government of the Condominium Property described in the Declaration in the manner provided by the Declaration and these Bylaws, all of which shall be subject to the covenants, provisions and/or regulations contained in the Declaration and these Bylaws and shall be further subject to any and all restrictions, conditions and/or regulations hereafter adopted by the Board of Managers of the Association.

The within Bylaws are executed and attached pursuant to the Declaration of Smith Court Condominiums pursuant to Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code. The principal office of the Association and the place of meeting of the Unit Owners, hereinafter sometimes called the "Members," and of the Board of Managers of the Association, hereinafter sometimes called the "Board" or the "Managers", shall be 10532 Cleveland Avenue, N.W., P.O. Box 1056, Uniontown, Ohio 44685, or at such place in _____ [county] County, _____ Ohio, as the Board may from time to time designate. For the purpose of these Bylaws, the definition of any and all words, terms and/or phrases which appear or are used in these Bylaws and are defined in the Declaration shall have the same meaning in these Bylaws as set forth in the Declaration. In the event any words, terms and/or phrases are not defined in the Declaration and are defined in Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code, hereinafter sometimes called the "Act," such words, terms and/or phrases shall have the same meaning herein as set forth in the Act.

ARTICLE II THE ASSOCIATION

Section 1. Name and Nature of Association. The Association shall be a corporation not for profit and shall be called the Smith Court Condominium Unit Owners Association, hereinafter sometimes called the "Association."

Section 2. Membership. Membership of the Association shall consist of all the Owners of Units in the Condominium Property. Each Member shall have voting rights equal to the respective percentage interest in the Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to his Unit(s) as set forth in the Declaration. No purchaser of a Unit shall be deemed an Owner until the sale and purchase of such Unit has been consummated by the payment of the purchase price or such portion thereof as is required by the terms of the Purchase Agreement.

Section 3. Membership Not Transferable. Except as provided herein or in the Declaration, membership in the Association shall not be transferable separate and apart from a transfer of the Condominium Ownership Interest. The membership of each Owner in the Association shall terminate upon a sale, transfer or other disposition of the Owner's Condominium Ownership Interest accomplished in accordance with the provisions of the Declaration, and all rights and privileges of a Member in the Association, the Owner's Unit, and the Condominium Property shall cease on the termination of such membership, and thereupon the membership of such respective Owner in the Association shall automatically transfer to and vest in the new succeeding owner. The Association may, but shall not be required to, issue certificates or other evidence of membership therein.

Section 4. Proxies. Members may vote or act in person or by proxy. The person appointed as a proxy need not be a Member of the Association. Designation by a Member of a proxy to vote or act on the Owner's behalf shall be made in writing to the Board of Managers of the Association and shall be revocable at any time by actual notice to the Board of Managers by the Member or Members making such designation. Notice to the Board of Managers in writing or in open meeting of the revocation of the designation of a proxy shall not affect any vote or act previously taken or authorized.

Section 5. Voting. The percentage of the vote to which each Unit Owner is entitled is the voting percentage assigned to the Unit or Units the Unit owner owns as set forth in the Declaration. There shall be one voting Member for each Unit in the Condominium. Such voting Member may be the Owner or the group composed of all of the Owners of a Condominium Ownership Interest, or any person who is designated as a proxy in accordance with the section set forth above. Fiduciaries for minors who are owners of record of a Unit or Units may vote their respective interests as Unit Owners. If two or more persons, whether fiduciaries, tenants in common, or otherwise, own undivided interests in a Unit, each may exercise the proportion of the voting power of all the owners of his Unit that is equivalent to his proportionate interest in the Unit, provided that at or prior to the time of said vote notice is submitted to the Board of Managers, in writing, of his ownership interest and his desire to exercise his fractional share of the Unit's voting power separately from the rest of the voting power of the Unit.

Section 6. Majority of Owners. As used in these Bylaws, the term "majority of Owners" shall mean those Members owning at least _____ percent (_____%) of the percentage of total votes in accordance with the percentages assigned to the Declaration.

Section 7. Quorum. The presence at any meeting of the voting Members having _____ percent (_____%) of the total votes shall constitute a quorum sufficient to conduct business. Unless otherwise expressly provided herein or in the Declaration, any action may be taken at any meeting of the voting Members upon the affirmative vote of the voting Members having a majority of the quorum present at such meeting. Votes may be cast in person or by proxy. The percentage of votes present by proxy shall be counted in determining whether a quorum is present.

ARTICLE III BOARD OF MANAGERS

Section 1. Number and Qualification. The affairs of the Association shall be governed by the Board of Managers, which shall be composed of three (3) persons, all of whom must be owners of a Unit, the spouse of a Unit Owner, or occupiers of a Unit who have attained the age of eighteen.

Section 2. Election and Term of Office. The Declarant shall designate all of the Members of the Board of Managers to serve during the initial period during which the Declarant retains control of the Association, in accordance with the terms of Article IV, Section 1, set forth below. After the termination of such period of control, the Managers shall thereafter be elected at each annual meeting of the Members of the Association. Only persons nominated as candidates shall be eligible for election as Managers, and the candidates receiving the greatest number of votes shall be elected. Each Member may vote for as many candidates as there are authorized numbers of positions to be filled in the Board of Managers. The Managers shall hold office for the term of one (1) year from the date of their election and until the election and qualification of their successors. The Board of Managers shall hold office until their successors have been elected and hold their first meeting. As used in these Bylaws, the term Declarant means the developer or any successor or assign to whom the Declarant transfers the Declarant's rights under the Declaration, the Bylaws, the Condominium Act, or the other Condominium Instruments, which rights are over and above those rights which the Declarant has by reason of being a Unit Owner of Units to which the Declarant retains title. Notwithstanding Section I of this Article, or any other section of these Bylaws, the persons appointed by the Declarant to be Members of the Board of Managers during the initial period of control by the Declarant of the Association as set forth in this section, may, but need not be, Unit Owners, spouses of Unit Owners, or occupiers of Units.

Section 3. Vacancies. Vacancies in the Board of Managers caused by any reason other than the removal of a Manager by a vote of the Association shall be filled by vote of the majority of the remaining Managers, even though they may constitute less than a quorum; and each person so elected shall be a Manager until a successor is elected at the next annual meeting of the Association. In the event that a majority of the remaining Members of the Board do not agree upon the election of a successor within thirty (30) days of the occurrence of the vacancy, the successor shall be elected by a vote of the majority of the percentages of voting power of the Unit Owners at a meeting of the Association.

Section 4. Removal of Managers. At any regular or special meeting of Members of the Association duly called, at which a quorum shall be present any one or more of the Managers, except the Managers, if any, acting as a representative of the Declarant, may be removed with or without cause by the vote of Members entitled to exercise at least seventy-five (75%) of the voting power of the Association, and a successor or successors to such Manager so removed shall then and there be elected to fill the vacancy or vacancies thus created. Any Manager whose removal has been proposed by the Members of the Association shall be granted an opportunity to be heard at such meeting.

Section 5. Organizational Meeting. Immediately after each annual meeting of Members of the Association, the newly elected Managers and those Managers whose terms continue shall hold an organizational meeting for the purposes of electing officers and transacting any other business. Notice of such meeting need not be given.

Section 6. Regular Meetings. Regular meetings of the Board of Managers may be held at such time and place as shall be determined, from time to time, by a majority of the Managers, but at least one such meeting shall be held during each calendar year. Notice of regular meetings of the Board shall be given to each Manager, personally or by mail, telephone or telegraph, at least three (3) days prior to the day named for such meetings. At such meetings, any and all business within the power of the Board may be transacted. The Board may establish appropriate rules for the order and conduct of their meetings and consideration and transaction of business in accordance with the Declaration and these Bylaws.

Section 7. Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Managers may be held at any time upon the request of the President or any two Managers. Notice of the time and place of each such meeting shall be given to each Manager either by personal delivery or by mail, telegram, or telephone at least two (2) days before the meeting, which notice need not specify the purposes of the meeting. Attendance of any Manager at any such meeting without protesting, prior to or at the commencement of the meeting, the lack of proper notice, shall be deemed to be a waiver by that Manager of notice of such meeting, and such notice may be waived in writing either before or after the holding of such meeting, by any Manager, which writing shall be filed with or entered upon the records of the meeting. Unless otherwise indicated in the notice thereof, any and all business may be transacted at any organizational, regular or special meeting.

Section 8. Waiver of Notice. Before or at any meeting of the Board, any Manager may, in writing, waive notice of such meeting, and such waiver shall be deemed equivalent to the giving of such notice. Attendance by a Manager at any meeting of the Board shall be a waiver of notice by him of the time and place thereof. If all the Managers are present at any meeting of the Board, no notice shall be required and any business may be transacted at such meeting.

Section 9. Board of Managers Quorum. At all meetings of the Board, a majority of the Managers shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and the acts of the majority of the Managers present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the acts of the Board of Managers. If at any meeting of the Board there be less than a quorum present, the majority of those present may adjourn the meeting from time to time. At any such adjourned meeting, any business which might have been transacted at the meeting as originally called may be transacted without further notice.

Section 10. Action of Managers Without a Meeting. Any action required to be taken, or an action which may be taken, at a meeting of the Managers, may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by all of the Managers entitled to vote with respect to the subject matter thereof.

Section 11. Powers and Duties of the Board of Managers. The Board of Managers shall have the powers, authority and duties necessary for the administration of the affairs of the Association and the Condominium Property, and shall have all the powers, authorities and duties referred to in the Declaration, these Bylaws, and the Ohio Revised Code, as amended from time to time, and all other laws of the State of Ohio, and may do all acts and things provided by the Condominium Act to be done by the Board of Managers or by the Unit Owners collectively, except such acts or things as are by law, or the Bylaws, or the Declaration, directed to be exercised and done by the Members individually. - (m) to do all things and take all actions permitted to be taken by the Association by law, the Declaration or these Bylaws, or such other actions not specifically reserved by the same to others.

Section 12. Duties. It shall be the duty of the Board to:

- (h) cause the restrictions created by the Declaration to be enforced; and
- (i) take all other actions required to comply with all requirements of law and the Condominium Instruments.

Section 13. Nonliability of the Board of Managers. The Members of the Board of Managers shall not be liable to the Owners or to the Association or its Members for any mistake of judgment or for any acts or omissions made in good faith as such Managers. The Owners and the Association and its Members shall indemnify and hold harmless each Member of the Board of Managers against all contractual liability to other persons or entities, arising out of contracts made by the Board of Managers on behalf of the Association, unless any such contract shall have been made in bad faith or contrary to the provisions of the Declaration applicable to the Units or the Condominium Property or contrary to the Bylaws of this Association. The liability of any Unit Owner or Member arising out of the aforesaid indemnity shall be limited to such proportion of the total liability as the Unit Owner's percentage of interest in the Common Areas and Facilities relates to the total percentage of interest of all Unit Owners in the Common Areas and Facilities.

The aforesaid provisions concerning liability, and the indemnification provisions shall likewise apply to members of the Councils.

ARTICLE IV ADMINISTRATION OF THE ASSOCIATION

Section 1. Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of the Members of the Association for the election of Members of the Board of Managers, the consideration of reports to be laid before such meeting, and transaction of such other business as may be properly brought before the meeting, shall be held at the principal office of the Condominium Property, if any, or such other suitable place, convenient to the Unit Owners, as may be designated by the Board of Managers and specified in the notice of such meeting. The first annual meeting of the Members of the Association shall be held as soon as practicable on the date selected by the Declarant and designated by notice to the Unit Owners. The annual meeting of the Association will be held each year on the third Tuesday of the month of April, unless such other time is designated by the affirmative vote of the majority of the Unit Owners, after due notice to all Members of the Association.

The Association shall be established not later than the date the deed or other evidence of ownership is filed for record following the first sale of a Condominium Ownership Interest. Until the Unit Owners Association is established, the Declarant shall act in all instances where action of the Association or its officers is authorized or required by law or the Declaration. Not later than the time that Condominium Ownership Interests to which _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interest in the Common Areas and Facilities appertain have been sold and conveyed by the Declarant in the Condominium development, the Association shall meet, and the Unit Owners, other than the Declarant, shall elect _____ percent (_____%) of the Members of the Board of Managers, whichever is greater. Not later than the time that Condominium Ownership interests to which _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interest appertain have been sold and conveyed, such Unit Owners shall elect _____ percent (_____%) of the Members of the Board of Managers. When computing percentages of interest for purposes of this division, the percentage of interest to Common Areas and Facilities shall be computed by comparing the number of Units sold and conveyed to the maximum number of Units that may be created if all of the possible Additional Property is added to the Condominium.

Except for the limitations stated above in this section, the Declarant or persons designated by the Declarant, may appoint and remove the Members of Board of Managers and other officers of the Association, and exercise the powers and responsibilities otherwise assigned by law or the Declaration to the Association, the Board of Managers, or other officers during the period of initial control by the Declarant. Such authorization and period of control will extend from the date of the establishment of the Association until the earlier of:

(a) five (5) years; or

(b) thirty (30) days after the sale and conveyance of Condominium Ownership Interests to which appertain _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interest in the Common Areas and Facilities to purchasers in good faith for value.

Within thirty (30) days of the expiration of the period during which the Declarant exercises powers under this section the Association shall meet and elect all of the Board of Managers and all other officers of the Association. The persons so elected shall take office upon election. Neither the Association nor the Unit Owners will be subject to any management contract or agreement executed prior to the assumption of control as set forth in this Section 1 for more than one year subsequent to that assumption of control, unless such a contract or agreement is renewed by a vote of the Unit Owners pursuant to the Bylaws. Whenever elected Members of the Board of Managers of the Association take control of the Association, the Declarant shall deliver to such officers correct and complete books and records of account, specifying the receipts and expenditures relating to the Common Areas and Facilities and other common receipts and expenses, together with records showing the allocation, distribution, and collection of the common profits, losses and expenses among and from the Unit Owners.

Section 2. Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Members of the Association may be held on any business day when called by the President of the Association or the Board of Managers of the Association, or by Members entitled to cast at least _____ percent (_____%) of the votes of the Association. Upon request in writing delivered either in person or by certified mail or registered mail to the President or Secretary of the Association by any person or persons entitled to call a meeting of members, such officer shall forthwith cause to be given to the members entitled thereto written notice by personal delivery, mail or telegram, of a meeting to be held on a date not less than seven (7) nor more than thirty (30) days after the receipt of such request, as such officer may fix. If such notice is not given within ten (10) days after the delivery or mailing of such request, the Members calling the meeting may fix the time of the meeting and give notice thereof. Each special meeting shall be called to convene at 8:00 p.m. and shall be held at the office of the Association or at such other place upon the Condominium Property or at such convenient place as shall be specified in the notice of such meeting. No business, except that business stated in the notice of such special meeting, shall be transacted at said meeting unless by a consent of two-thirds (2/3) of the Unit Owners present, either in person or by proxy.

Section 3. Quorum and Adjournment. Except as may be otherwise provided by Law or by the Declarant, at any meeting of the Members of the Association, the Members of the Association entitled to exercise a majority of the voting power of the Association, present in person or by proxy, shall constitute a quorum. No action may be authorized or taken by a lesser percentage than is required by law, by the Declaration, or by these Bylaws. The Members entitled to exercise a majority of the voting power represented at a meeting of Members, whether or not a quorum is present, may adjourn such meeting from time to time. If any meeting is adjourned, notice of such adjournment need not be given if the time and place to which such meeting is adjourned are fixed and announced at such meeting.

Section 4. Order of Business. The order of business at all meetings of Members of the Association shall be as follows:

- (a) calling the meeting to order;
- (b) proof of notice of meeting or waiver of notice;
- (c) reading of minutes of preceding meeting;
- (d) reports of officers;
- (e) reports of Committees;
- (f) appointment of inspectors of election by the Chairman of the meeting;
- (g) election of Board of Managers;
- (h) unfinished and/or old business;
- (i) new business; and,
- (j) adjournment.

Section 5. Voting at Meetings. Unless a different vote is required by express statutory provisions of the State of Ohio, or by the Bylaws or the Declaration, each question presented at a meeting of Members shall be determined by a majority vote of the voting power of those present. With respect to all elections of the Board of Managers, each Member shall be entitled to cast his vote for each of the offices of Board of Managers to be elected at such meeting. Except as otherwise prohibited under the Condominium Act, the Declarant may exercise the voting rights with respect to any Units title to which is in the name of the Declarant.

Section 6. Vote by Business Entity. The vote of any corporate, partnership, limited liability company or trust Member may be cast on its behalf by any officer, partner, member or beneficiary of such Member. An individual Member may appoint a proxy. Each proxy must be filed prior to or at the time proxies are called for at a meeting.

ARTICLE V OFFICERS

Section 1. Election and Designation of Officers. The Board of Managers shall elect a President, a Vice President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer of the Association. The Managers may appoint such Assistant Treasurers or Assistant Secretaries or such other officers as in their judgment may be advisable. The officers may, but need not, be Members of the Board of Managers or of the Association. The same person may hold more than one office and may also be a Member of the Board of Managers. The Officers shall be elected by the affirmative vote of a majority of the Board of Managers.

Section 2. Term of Office; Removal; Vacancies. The officers of the Association shall be elected annually by the Board of Managers at the first meeting of each new Board. Each officer shall hold office during the pleasure of the Board and perform such duties as the Board may prescribe. Upon an affirmative vote of a majority of the Members of the Board of Managers, any officer may be removed, either with or without cause, and his successor elected at any regular meeting of the Board of Managers, or at any special meeting of the Board called for such purpose. Any vacancy in any office may be filled by the Board of Managers by majority vote.

Section 3. President and Vice President. The President shall be the chief executive officer of the Association. The President shall preside at all meetings of Members of the Association and shall preside at all meetings of the Board of Managers. Subject to instructions of the Board of Managers, the President shall have general executive supervision over the business and affairs of the Association. The President may execute all authorized deeds, contracts and other obligations of the Association and shall have such other authority and shall perform such other duties as may be determined by the Board of Managers or otherwise provided for in the Declaration or these Bylaws. The Vice President shall perform the duties of the President whenever the President is unable to act and shall have such other authority and perform such other duties as may be determined by the Board of Managers.

Section 4. Secretary. The Secretary shall keep the minutes of all meetings of the Board of Managers and the minutes of all meetings of the Association; he shall have charge of such books and papers as the Board may direct, and he shall, in general, perform all the duties incident to the office of Secretary and such duties as the Board may prescribe. A copy of such minutes shall be posted in a place designated by the Board of Managers. The Secretary shall maintain records of the names and addresses of the Unit Owners and their respective percentages of interest in the Common Areas and Facilities.

Section 5. Treasurer. The Treasurer shall have responsibility, on behalf of the Association, to keep correct and complete books and records of account, specifying the receipts and expenditures relating to the Commons Areas and Facilities and other common receipts and expenses, together with records showing the allocation, distribution and collection of the common profits, losses and expenses among and from the Unit Owners. He shall be responsible for the deposit of all monies and other valuable effects in the name, and to the credit of, the Association in such depositories as may from time to time be designated by the Board, and he shall perform such other duties as from time to time may be assigned to him by the Board of Managers.

Section 6. Duties of Officers May Be Delegated. In the absence of any officer of the Association, or for any other reason the Board may deem sufficient, the Board of Managers may delegate all or part of the powers or duties of such officer to any Member of the Board or to the managing agent, if any.

ARTICLE VI

MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR

Section 1. Repairs by Board of Managers. The Board of Managers, or any agent or officer acting at the direction of the Board, shall have the authority either to hire permanent employees or to contract specifically for the performance of ordinary repairs and maintenance, or replacement necessary or incidental to the administration of the Common Area and Facilities, and to purchase the tools, implements and materials used in repair, maintenance, replacement, gardening and snow removal, and shall have authority to engage the services of a Manager, Management Company or Managing Agent. The Association shall assume responsibility for maintaining landscaping and for snow removal within Limited Common Areas.

Section 2. Repairs by Unit Owners. Each Unit Owner shall promptly perform all maintenance and repair work within his own Unit, and within some of the Limited Common Areas appertaining thereto as described in the Declaration.

ARTICLE VII

DETERMINATION AND PAYMENT OF COMMON EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS; BOOKS

Section 1. Obligation of Unit Owners to Pay Common Expenses and Assessments. It shall be the duty of every Unit Owner to pay the Unit Owner's proportionate share of common expenses and all assessments therefor. Such proportionate share of the common expenses shall be in the same ratio as the Unit Owner's percentage of ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities as set forth in the Declaration. Payment therefore shall be in such amounts and at such times as may be determined by the Board of Managers of the Association, as herein provided. A common expense shall include, without limitation, the cost of maintenance and repair of Common Areas and Facilities (excluding certain Limited Common Areas which are maintained by the Unit Owner to which the Limited Common Area pertains), landscaping, snow removal, hazard insurance and liability insurance, salaries and fees of a management company or agents and employees, if any, the cost of tools, materials and equipment, bonding fees, the establishment of reserve funds if deemed necessary, and all other charges by the Board deemed necessary or appropriate to the proper functioning of the Condominium Property.

Section 2. Preparation of Estimated Budget. Each year, on or before December 1, the Board shall estimate the total amount necessary to pay the cost of management fees, wages, materials, insurance, services and supplies which will be required during the ensuing calendar year for the rendering of all such services in connection with the Condominium Property, together with such reasonable reserves for contingencies and replacements, if any, as the Board of Managers shall deem to be necessary, and shall on or before December 15th notify each Unit Owner in writing as to the amount of such estimate, with reasonable itemization thereof. Said estimated cash requirements shall be assessed to the Unit Owners according to each Unit Owner's percentage of ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities as set forth in the Declaration. On or before January 1st of the ensuing year, and the first day of each and every month of said ensuing year, each Unit Owner shall be obligated to pay to the Association, or as it may direct, the monthly amount determined to be payable that month as the appropriate amount of the annual common expenses for that year as well as the amount of any other assessment made pursuant to the terms of the Bylaws and Declaration. On or before the date of the annual meeting in each calendar year, the Board shall supply to all Owners an itemized accounting of the maintenance expenses actually incurred in the preceding calendar year, together with a tabulation of the amounts collected pursuant to the estimates provided, and showing the net amount over or short of the actual expenditures plus reserves. Any amount accumulated in excess of the amount required for actual expenses and reserves shall be credited according to each Unit Owner's percentage of ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities to the next monthly installments for common expenses due from Unit Owners under the then current year's estimate, until exhausted, and any net shortage shall be added according to each Unit Owner's percentage of ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities to the installments due in the succeeding six (6) months after rendering of the accounting. The budget shall be established on an annual basis, but a different amount may be due for each month during the year in order that the common expenses per month, which each Unit Owner shall be required to pay, may be increased or decreased each month based on the annual budget and the amount then required for common expenses. Each Unit Owner recognizes that the initial costs for the maintenance and operation of the Condominium Property may be less for each particular month during the first two years after the filing of the Declaration.

Section 3. Reserve for Contingencies and Replacements. The Association shall accumulate and maintain a reasonable reserve for contingencies and replacements. Extraordinary expenditures not originally included in the annual budget shall be charged first against such reserve. If the estimated budget proves inaccurate for any reason, including nonpayment of any Unit Owner's assessment, the amount or amounts necessary to make it adequate shall be assessed to the Unit Owners according to each Unit Owner's percentage of ownership in the Common Areas and Facilities. The Association shall serve notice of such further assessment on all Owners by a statement in writing giving the amount and reasons therefor, and such further assessments shall become effective with the first monthly maintenance payment which occurs more than ten (10) days after the delivery or mailing of such notice of further assessment. All Unit Owners shall be obligated to pay the adjusted monthly assessment.

Section 4. Budget for the First Year. The Board of Managers of the Association, at the time the Declaration is filed for record, shall be composed of Members designated by the Declarant, as set forth hereinbefore and pursuant to the provisions of the Condominium Act. The Board of Managers designated by the Declarant shall promptly prepare an estimated budget which will be consistent with the projected budget disclosed in the Disclosure Statement, and which will be the basis for determining the amount of the monthly common expenses which each Unit Owner shall be obligated to pay. Each year thereafter, the Board of Managers, whether designated by the Declarant or elected partially by the Declarant or Unit Owners as provided in the Condominium Act, the Declaration, and these Bylaws, shall prepare, as set forth above, an estimated budget for the following year. The initial budget may be prepared for the first two (2) years of the operation, but thereafter the estimated budget shall be on an annual basis.

Section 5. Failure to Prepare Annual Budget. The failure or delay of the Association or Board to prepare or serve the annual or adjusted budget shall not constitute a waiver or release in any manner of any Unit Owner's obligation to pay the common expenses for maintenance costs and necessary reserves or any other charges herein provided, whenever the same shall be determined. In the absence of any annual budget, the Unit Owners shall continue to pay the monthly common expenses at the existing monthly rate or rates established for the previous period until the first monthly common expense payment date which occurs more than ten (10) days after such new annual budget shall have been mailed or delivered.

Section 6. Books and Records for the Association. The Association shall keep full and correct books, and the same shall be open for inspection by any Unit Owner or by any representative of a Unit Owner duly authorized in writing, at reasonable times and upon request of the Unit Owner. Upon ten (10) days' notice to the Board and upon payment of a reasonable fee, any Unit Owner shall be furnished a statement of his account, setting forth the amount of any unpaid assessments or other charges due and owing from such Unit Owner.

Section 7. Remedies for Failure to Pay Assessments. If a Unit Owner is in default in the monthly payment of any of the aforesaid charges or assessments for common expenses for thirty (30) days, the Members of the Board may bring suit for and on behalf of themselves and/or as representatives of all Unit Owners and/or on behalf of the Association, to enforce collection thereof or to foreclose the lien therefor as provided in the Declaration. There shall be added to the amount due the cost of said suit, together with interest at the highest permitted rate and reasonable attorneys' fees to be fixed by the court. To the extent permitted by the Declaration, any decision of the court or any statute or law now or hereafter effective, the amount of any delinquent and unpaid charges, common expenses, and/or assessments, interest, costs and fees as herein provided, shall be a lien and/or charge against the Unit involved when payable, and may be foreclosed by an action brought in the name of the Association and/or its Board of Managers as in the case of foreclosure of liens against real estate, as provided in the Declaration. As provided in the Declaration, the Members of the Board of Managers and their successors in office, acting on behalf of the Association and/or other Unit Owners, shall have the power to bid on the interest so foreclosed at foreclosure sale, and to acquire and hold, lease, mortgage and convey the same. Any holder of an encumbrance on a Unit may from time to time request in writing a written statement from the Board of Managers setting forth the unpaid common expenses and/or assessments with respect to the Unit covered by the Unit Owner's encumbrance, and said request shall be complied with promptly. Any holder of an encumbrance holding a lien on a Unit may pay any unpaid common expenses and/or assessments payable with respect to such Unit, and upon such payment such holder of said encumbrance shall have a lien on such Unit for the amounts paid at the same amount and with the same priority as the amount so paid.

Section 8. Original Monthly Assessments. The original monthly assessments, which shall be increased or decreased by the Board of Managers from time to time in accordance with the provisions of these Bylaws, the Declaration, and the Condominium Act, shall be established. The monthly assessment shall be a common expense divided among and assessed against the Unit Owners in the percentages set forth in the Declaration for division of common expenses and profits.

Section 9. Initial Reserve Fund. It is contemplated that a reserve fund may be created out of monthly assessments. This amount shall be nonrefundable, except to the degree that other assessments are refunded or distributed to Members of the Association.

Section 10. Additions, Alterations or Improvements by the Board. Whenever, in the judgment of the Board, the Common Areas and Facilities shall require additions, alterations or improvements (as opposed to maintenance, repair and replacement as set forth in the Declaration), the cost of which exceeds _____ percent (_____%), the making of such additions, alterations or improvements shall be subject to the prior approval of Unit Owners entitled to exercise not less than a majority of the voting power prior to the Board proceeding with such additions, alterations or improvements and prior to the Board entering into any binding contracts for the same. If approved, the cost shall be assessed to all Unit Owners as a common expense. Any additions, alterations or improvements costing _____ Dollars ($_____) or less may be made by the Board without approval of the Unit Owners, and the cost thereof shall constitute part of the common expenses.

Section 11. Special Services. The Board may arrange for special services and activities for such Unit Owners and occupants as may desire to pay for the same, including, without limitation, the cleaning, repair and maintenance of the Units. The cost of any such special services or facilities shall be determined by the Board and may be charged directly to participating Unit Owners. The cost of any such special services may be charged directly to the participating Unit Owners at the time the services are rendered, or may be charged as an addition to the monthly maintenance fee.

ARTICLE VIII

SALE OR WITHDRAWAL AND TERMINATION

Section 1. Sale or Withdrawal. Unless otherwise provided by any statute generally applicable to condominium properties, and applicable to this project, the Unit Owners by affirmative vote of at least _____ percent (_____%) of the total vote, at a meeting of Unit Owners duly called for such purpose, may elect to sell the Condominium Property, as a whole, or to withdraw the Condominium Property from the provisions of these Bylaws, and said Declaration, and to terminate the same. The interest of any Unit Owner of the minority of _____ percent (_____%) or less not voting in favor of such action shall be subject to the right of any of the Unit Owners voting in favor thereof, or of the Association on behalf of those Unit Owners voting in favor thereof, to purchase such dissenting Unit Owner's interest at its then fair market value as determined by an appraiser made by three (3) qualified real estate appraisers upon by the minority Unit Owner and those desiring to acquire his Unit. In the absence of agreement on the appraisers, the minority Unit Owner and those desiring to acquire his interest hereunder may each select an appraiser, and the two so selected shall select a third, and the fair market value, as determined by a majority of the three so selected, shall control. If either party shall fail to select an appraiser, then the one designated by the other party shall make the appraisal. In the event any condominium statute applicable to this project shall require a different procedure than provided for herein, then the requirements of that act shall govern and shall be observed as if incorporated herein.

Section 2. Termination. In the event the election is made to terminate these Bylaws and said Declaration and to withdraw the property from its status as a Condominium and from the application of any statute relating to condominiums, then upon the consummation of the purchase of dissenting Unit Owners' interests as herein provided, all of the Unit Owners and their respective spouses shall duly execute, acknowledge and record an instrument setting forth the facts and circumstances, waiving dower and homestead rights insofar as such rights affect the exclusive ownership of any Unit, and expressly declaring their intention to withdraw the Condominium Property from Chapter 5311 of the Ohio Revised Code. The instrument shall provide that titles to all Units shall thereby be conveyed and become vested in all the then Unit Owners of the elements as tenants in common, in the same proportions as such Unit Owners shall then own said common elements, subject, however, to the rights of any mortgagee or other person having a bona fide lien of record against any Unit, unless such lienholders shall consent in writing to the transfer of its lien to the appropriate Unit Owner's undivided interest in the whole property resulting from the recording of such instrument. In the event any condominium statute applicable to this project shall provide a different procedure than the one herein set forth, then the provisions of that act shall be observed as if incorporated herein.

ARTICLE IX GENERAL PROVISIONS

If any of the privileges, covenants or rights established by these Bylaws shall be unlawful or void for violation of the rule against perpetuities or some analogous statutory provision, the rule restricting restraints and alienation, or any other statutory or common law rule imposing time limits, then such provision shall continue only until twenty-one (21) years after the death of the survivor of the now living descendants of the United States Senator representing the State of Ohio, the Honorable _____ [name] .

FORM 20.72 Disclosure statement--Ohio

COMMENT

In several jurisdictions, in addition to requirements concerning the recording of a declaration and bylaws before a condominium is established, a disclosure statement must be used. In some states, the disclosure statement and/or the public report must be filed with a governmental agency. Ohio does not require the filing of the disclosure statement. The regulations governing such approval serve the same purpose as similar Securities and Exchange Commission prospectus requirements--namely, protection of the public. Condominium offering requirements exist in most jurisdictions.

Introduction

SMITH COURT CONDOMINIUMS (the "Condominium") constitutes condominium property under Ohio Revised

Code Chapter 5311, as amended (the "Ohio Condominium Act") and this Disclosure Statement is provided to prospective purchasers of Units in the Condominium in compliance with the Ohio Condominium Act. This Disclosure Statement is intended to be a fully and accurate presentation of all material circumstances or features affecting the Condominium, without the omission of any material facts or the inclusion of any untrue statement of a material fact. It is requested and encouraged that each prospective purchaser of a unit carefully read this Disclosure Statement.

In addition to the information furnished in this Disclosure Statement, copies of the original condominium instruments are available for review at the offices of the Condominium, as required by the Ohio Condominium Act. The Condominium instruments (the "Condominium Instruments") include the Declaration of Condominium Ownership of the Condominium, as amended (the "Declaration") and the accompanying drawings, as amended (the "Drawings"), the Bylaws of the Smith Court Condominium Unit Owners' Association (the "Bylaws"), and any other documents, contracts or instruments establishing ownership of or exerting control over the condominium property or any unit.

THE CONDOMINIUM INSTRUMENTS ARE BINDING AND LEGAL DOCUMENTS IMPOSING RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS UPON THE PARTIES. SHOULD THEY NOT BE CLEARLY UNDERSTOOD, THE PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS ARE TO SEEK COMPETENT LEGAL ADVICE.

This Disclosure Statement is intended to be relied upon only by prospective purchasers of Units in the Condominium who purchase their units from the Developer. Prospective purchasers should rely only upon the information, data, or representations referred to in this Disclosure Statement or contained in the various Condominium Instruments described above. No person has been authorized by Smith Court, Ltd. (the "Developer") to make any representation which is not expressly contained in this Disclosure Statement or in any of the other Condominium Instruments. This presentation may not be changed or modified orally, but only in a writing signed by the Developer.

The information regarding the Condominium that is required to be furnished to the purchaser of a Unit has been assembled in this Disclosure Statement in a manner which is intended to be informative and useful. The Disclosure Statement includes both a narrative statement and attached Exhibits. The narrative statement provides an explanation of the significant features of the Condominium, as well as additional information of interest to prospective purchasers. The exhibits include projections and other estimates which should be closely reviewed by prospective purchasers.

Unless otherwise defined herein, the terms used in this Disclosure Statement should be interpreted to have the meanings given to them in the Declaration and Bylaws. In case of any inconsistency between this Disclosure Statement and the Declaration or Bylaws, the Declaration and Bylaws shall control.

NATURE OF CONDOMINIUM FORM OF PROPERTY OWNERSHIP

The term "condominium" refers to a form of property ownership which combines features of individual home ownership with features of apartment or other multi-family living. The owner of a residential condominium unit ("Unit Owner") is the sole owner of the portion of the single-family residential building that contains his residence or Unit, and has exclusive use of his residence or Unit, in the same manner that a tenant would have exclusive use of a leased apartment.

However, in contrast to the Owner of a single-family home, who owns his yard and driveway, the owner of a Condominium Unit is one of many co-owners, the lawns, roadways and sidewalks, and all other parts of the condominium development necessary or convenient to its existence, maintenance and safety, or normally in common use. Such common owned portions are referred to as "Common Areas and Facilities." All Unit Owners share the right to use the Common Areas and Facilities, as would be the case in an apartment building, except certain portions of the Common Areas and Facilities designated as Limited Common Areas are designated for the exclusive use of the owner of the Unit near which they are physically located. In this Condominium, these areas include the areas surrounding the Unit such as driveways and sidewalks, and decks and patios, if any. The Unit Owners also share the right to manage the Common Areas and Facilities, subject to the terms of the Declaration and Bylaws, and share the obligation to pay the expenses of operating, maintaining, repairing and replacing the Common Areas and Facilities (the "Common Expenses") and Limited Common Areas, save and except that some of such expenses as they relate to the Limited Common Areas shall be borne solely by the Unit Owner to which those Limited Common Areas pertain as enumerated in Article III of the Declaration.

Each Unit Owner owns an undivided, fractional fee simple interest in all of the Common Areas and Facilities. This fractional interest is expressed as a fraction or its percentage equivalent and, in accordance with the Declaration, is determined by the Developer on the basis of par value assigned to the Unit. As later discussed, each Unit (which Unit consists of a "Single-Family Building" as more fully described in the Declaration), shall be assigned the same par value.

Each Unit Owner receives and is responsible for paying an individual real estate tax bill just as would the owner of a single-family home, but the real estate taxes are based upon the assessed value of the Unit and the assessed value of the Unit's percentage interest in the Common Areas and Facilities. Each Unit Owner may mortgage his Unit, together with its percentage interest in the Common Areas and Facilities. In addition, each Unit Owner may sell his Unit to anyone without restrictions or limitations except for those certain restrictions or limitations set forth in the Declaration or which are imposed by rules and regulations adopted by the Unit Owners' Association.

The Condominium is an expandable condominium, which means that in the Declaration, the Developer has reserved the right to expand the Condominium Property by adding a parcel of vacant land more fully described below and buildings and improvements which may be constructed thereon from time to time in the future. The current construction, development and sales program now being undertaken by the Developer is referred to in this Disclosure Statement as "Phase I." Future expansion may happen on the land described in Exhibit B-1 which is referred to in this Disclosure Statement as "Phase II."

The remainder of this Disclosure Statement follows generally the specific requirements of Section 5311.26 of the Ohio Revised Code, and each portion of this Disclosure Statement bears the alphabetical and numerical designations of that Section 5311.26.

A. NAME AND ADDRESS OF THE CONDOMINIUM DEVELOPMENT AND OF THE DEVELOPER.

The name of the Condominium Development is the "Smith Court Condominiums." The Condominium will be an expandable residential condominium situated along a new private roadway to be constructed and called Smith Court, ending in a cul-de-sac. Smith Court will run north off of Route 42. The Developer of the Condominium is Smith Court, Ltd., an Ohio limited liability company. The Developer's address is _____ [address] , _____ [city] , _____ [state] and its telephone number is _____.

The Developer is the manager of the actual construction and development of the Condominium, and will initially manage the Condominium on a month-to-month basis until Unit Owners other than the Developer control the Unit Owners' Association to be established.

B. GENERAL NARRATIVE DESCRIPTION OF CONDOMINIUM DEVELOPMENT.

Phase I of the Condominium includes fifteen (15) parcel(s) of land zoned for single-family purposes, fifteen (15) parcels consisting of approximately 4.33 acres of land and zoned to allow the construction thereon of Single-Family Buildings on which the Developer has approval to construct fifteen (15) Single-Family Buildings or Units. The Units shall be either a ranch plan consisting of approximately 1,824 square feet or a two-story plan consisting of approximately 2,272 square feet. In either case, they will be of frame construction, with vinyl siding and constructed with basements. Under the Ohio Condominium Act, the Condominium cannot be formed until at least some of the Units in it have been substantially completed. Therefore, the Condominium will be created in stages as sales and construction of Units are completed. As Units are constructed and added, the Condominium Instruments will be amended to include such improvements so constructed. At the time the Condominium Instruments are first recorded, it is anticipated that just 3 or 4 of the Units will be substantially completed and described in the Drawings to be filed. As additional Units are constructed, the Condominium Instruments will be amended accordingly.

Phase II may consist of forty (40) additional Single-Family Unit on approximately 16.04 acres of land located across the street from Phase I. Phase II is zoned single-family and the Developer has not determined the size, architectural design or building materials which may be utilized.

The numerical designation, location, layout, dimensions, number of rooms in each Unit and the location of the immediate Limited Common Areas to which each Unit has access shall be graphically shown on the Drawings, or shall be set forth elsewhere in the Declaration and/or the exhibits thereto. The Limited Common Areas to the Units are as follows: driveways, sidewalks, patios and decks (if any), and planting beds adjacent to the structure. In addition to the Limited Common Areas, the Common Areas and Facilities and for use by all the Unit Owners.

Unit Owners will share ownership of the Common Areas and Facilities and will share the responsibility for paying all of the Common Expenses relating to the Common Areas and Facilities. The option to expand the Condominium extends for a seven (7) year period from the time the Condominium is created, unless Unit Owners vote to extend that time. There is no provision for the merger of the Condominium with any other condominium.

The initial base price range at which each Unit to be located in Phase I of the Condominium is listed on Exhibit A to this Disclosure Statement. However, economic circumstances may result in price changes from time-to-time after the initial base price list is established. Therefore, prospective purchasers are to contact the Developer to make certain that the price schedule contained in this Disclosure Statement is effective as of the date it is received by the prospective purchaser. Changes in the standard features of the Units will affect the base price.

The portion of the Condominium that is to be exclusively owned by a Unit Owner is called a "Unit." Each Unit Owner will own the entire "fee simple" interest in the Unit that the Unit Owner purchases. A fee simple interest in a Unit is the full legal title to that Unit. Each Unit consists of the single-family building, including the attached garage. The precise location of each Unit is shown on the Drawings.

C. STATUS OF CONSTRUCTION, ZONING, SITE PLAN, ETC. AND THE ACTUAL OR SCHEDULED DATES OF COMPLETION OF THE UNITS AND OTHER COMMON AREAS AND FACILITIES.

As of the date of this Disclosure Statement, the status of construction of the Units is that none have been started but they are in the planning stages. The Condominium Property is presently zoned for single-family residences under the ordinances of the City of Wadsworth, Ohio. The Developer has not received notice of violation of any federal, state or local statutes, ordinances or regulations applicable to the Condominium, and to the best of its knowledge it is in compliance with the requirements of such governmental authorities and its statutes, ordinances and regulations.

The estimated schedule dates of completion of the Condominium is as follows: the first four (4) Units should be done by January 31, _____ [year] .

D. FINANCING.

As of the date of this Disclosure Statement, there is no financing offered by or through the Developer to purchasers of Units in the Condominium. Upon request, Developer will be able to suggest a lending institution which may, but is not obligated to, finance a portion of the purchase price of Units in the Condominium. Such a suggestion will not obligate or commit any purchaser to obtain financing for such source and each Purchaser is free to obtain financing wherever financing is available.

E. DESCRIPTION OF WARRANTIES.

The Developer will furnish to each Purchaser of a Unit, but to no other person or party, certain limited warranties, solely and only to the extent such warranties are required by Section 5311.25 of the Ohio Condominium Act. Those warranties, which will be included in the written sales agreement between the Developer and the purchaser(s) of each Unit, are a two-year warranty covering the full cost of labor and materials for any repair or replacement of roof and structural components, and mechanical, electrical, plumbing and common service elements serving the Condominium Property or Additional Property as a whole, occasioned or necessitated by a defect in material or workmanship and a one-year warranty covering the full cost of labor and materials for any repair or replacement of structural, mechanical and other elements pertaining to each Unit, occasioned or necessitated by a defect in material or workmanship, commencing as follows:

(a) The two-year warranty shall commence for property submitted by the original Declaration on the date the deed or other evidence of ownership was filed for record following the first Sale of a Condominium Ownership Interest (defined as the execution by both parties of an agreement for the conveyance or transfer for consideration of a fee simple interest in a Unit) in the Condominium Property, and for any Additional Property submitted by Amendment to the Declaration, on the date the deed or other evidence of ownership is filed for record following the sale of the first Condominium Ownership Interest in the Additional Property; in either case to a purchaser in good faith for value.

(b) The one-year warranty shall commence on the date the deed or other evidence of ownership is filed for record following the first sale of a Condominium Ownership Interest to a purchaser in good faith for value.

The limited warranties given by the Developer in the written sales agreement, which will include those set forth above, are the only warranties, expressed or implied, made by the Developer to the purchaser of a Unit with respect to the construction or physical condition of the Condominium Property, including, without limitation, the Unit that is the subject of the written sales agreement, and any Additional Property and improvements thereon. None of the warranties set forth above cover repairs or replacements necessitated or occasioned by ordinary wear and tear or by the negligent or wanton acts of any Unit Owner, occupant, guest or invitee, or for any reason whatsoever other than by a defect in material or workmanship. All warranties made to the Developer that exceed the period specified in the warranties described above and included in the written sales agreement with respect to any part of the Units or Common Areas and Facilities shall be assigned to the Unit Owners, if assignable.

F. PROJECTION OF ANNUAL EXPENDITURES NECESSARY TO OPERATE AND MAINTAIN THE COMMON AREAS AND FACILITIES AND THE ESTIMATED MONTHLY COST PER UNIT.

The Developer has prepared and has attached to this Disclosure Statement on Exhibit B a two-year projection of annual expenditures necessary to operate and maintain the Common Areas and Facilities of the Condominium, specifically stating the assumptions and basis of the projection. The annual and monthly projections will be updated every six (6) months.

The projections are merely estimates based on limited available information and cannot be viewed as assurances or representations that actual expenditures will not exceed projected figures. The actual Common Expenses will be determined by operating experience and by services contracted for, charges made by, and decisions of, the Board of Managers of the Association. These matters are in many respects beyond the control of the Developer and could materially affect the projections from the date of this Disclosure Statement. Updated projections will cover at least two (2) years.

Based on the projections set forth on Exhibit B, attached hereto, the estimated monthly cost per Unit of annual expenses necessary to operate and maintain the Common Areas and Facilities (exclusive of Limited Common Areas and Facilities) is _____ Dollars ($ _____) per month for the first year and _____ Dollars ($ _____) per month for the second year. Each Unit's annual share of Common Expenses is calculated on the basis of the Unit's percentage interest in the Common Areas and Facilities which shall be proportional to the par value. In this instance, because the primary Common Areas and Facilities for which expenses will be incurred exclude Limited Common Areas and Facilities appurtenant to a Unit (which Limited Common Areas and Facilities are maintained by each Unit Owner, not by the Association) and therefore consist primarily of the private roadway and lift station facility, each Unit shall have the same par value of one (1) assigned to it. The percentage interest of a Unit will therefore be the percentage equivalent of one (1) divided by the total number of Units.

The Association does not own any real estate, and will not be liable for real estate taxes. Real estate taxes will be levied individually against each Unit, and will be the responsibility of each Unit Owner. Association assessments will not include amounts to pay these taxes.

G. REPORT BY DEVELOPER STATING THE AGE, CONDITION AND DEVELOPER'S OPINION OF THE REMAINING USEFUL LENGTH OF STRUCTURAL ELEMENTS AND MECHANICAL AND SUPPORTING SYSTEMS AND DEVELOPER'S ESTIMATE OF REPAIR AND REPLACEMENT COSTS PROJECTED FOR FIVE YEARS FROM RECORDING OF THE DECLARATION.

Not applicable to this Condominium.

H. MANAGEMENT OF THE CONDOMINIUM DEVELOPMENT.

1. Formation of Association. The Association will be created as an Ohio nonprofit corporation, for the purpose of managing and maintaining the Condominium. Each Unit Owner is a member of the Association and will continue to be a member so long as such ownership continues. The Association shall manage the Condominium and the affairs of the Condominium with the right, however, to delegate its authority to a management company. The Association shall be established by the Developer not later than a date the deed or other evidence of ownership is filed for record following the first sale of a Unit in the Condominium. Until the Association is established, the Developer shall act in all instances where action of the Association or its officers is authorized or required by law or the Declaration.

2. Voting Rights. Each purchaser, upon acquisition of a fee simple title interest ("Condominium Ownership Interest") in a Unit within the Condominium automatically becomes a member of the Association. Such membership shall automatically terminate upon the sale or the disposition by such member of his Condominium Ownership Interest, at which time the new owner of such Unit automatically becomes a member of the Association. Each member constituting the entire Condominium Ownership Interest in the Unit shall be entitled to exercise in person or by proxy that percentage of the total voting power of the Association which is equivalent to the percentage interest of such member's Unit in the Common Areas and Facilities. If two or more persons, whether fiduciaries, tenants in common or otherwise, own individual interests in the Condominium Ownership Interests, each shall be entitled to exercise the proportion of the voting power for such Unit as is equivalent to such person's proportionate interest in the Condominium Ownership Interest of such person.

3. Responsibility of the Unit Owners' Association.

(a) Management. The administration, management, maintenance, repair, alterations and improvements of the Condominium Property shall be the responsibility of the Association; provided, however, that the Association may delegate all or any portion of its authority to discharge such responsibility as hereinafter provided.

(b) Common Areas. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein or in the Declaration or Bylaws, the Common Areas and Facilities and driveways (excluding the other Limited Common Areas and Facilities) are required to be maintained in good repair and condition by the Association and the cost thereof shall be Common Expenses.

(c) Improvements Within Units. All maintenance, repairs and replacements to the Units are required to be made by the Owners of the Units, respectively, at their own expense. However, excluding the driveways, Limited Common Areas designated for the exclusive use of the Owner of a Unit, must be maintained, repaired and replaced solely by such Unit Owner. The Board of Managers has the right of access to any Unit for the purpose of making any repairs or replacements to any of the Common Areas and Facilities contained in such Unit or to remedy any condition which would result in damage to any other Unit or to the Common Areas and Facilities, or for the purpose of complying with any laws, orders, rules or regulations of any governmental body having jurisdiction thereof. In addition, if a Unit or a Limited Common Area, excluding the driveways, designated for the exclusive use of a Unit Owner becomes impaired, in a neglected state or otherwise in need of repair or restoration and if the Unit Owner fails after notice from the Association to correct the condition, the Association may but is not obligated to correct the situation at the expense of the responsible Unit Owner.

(d) Bylaws. The Bylaws of the Association provide that the Board of Managers will consist of three (3) persons, each of whom shall be the owner of a Unit or the spouse of such Owner elected by the Owners of the Units. The term of office of the members of the Board of Managers is three (3) years and members of the Board of Managers serve without compensation. It is anticipated that the three (3) members of the Board of Managers will be Perry M. Troyer, Bernice L. Dennison and Timothy D. Stutzman. The Bylaws provide that the officers of the Association will include a President, Vice President, Secretary and a Treasurer, each of whom is elected by and is a member of the Board of Managers. Officers serve without compensation. The officers are Perry M. Troyer, President, Bernice L. Dennison, Vice President and Timothy D. Stutzman, Secretary-Treasurer.

(e) Rights of the Developer. Pursuant to the provisions of the Bylaws and the Declaration, the Developer presently possesses all of the powers, rights, duties and functions of the Association and of the Board of Managers. Accordingly, through the exercise of this authority, the members of the Board of Managers and the officers of the Association have been designated by the Developer. The Developer will continue to have the right to exercise the powers, rights, duties and functions of the Association and of the Board of Managers until the earlier of: (i) five (5) years from the date of the establishment of the Condominium Owners' Association; or (ii) thirty (30) days after the sale and conveyance of Condominium Ownership Interests to which appertain _____ percent (_____%) of the undivided interests in the Common Areas and Facilities to purchasers in good faith for value. Prior to the earlier of the aforesaid, the Developer shall under certain instances as provided in the Declaration provide for certain minority representation on the Board of Managers, but not majority control.

(f) Delegation of Authority. The Developer, prior to formation of the Association, and the Association thereafter may, but shall not be required to, delegate all or any portion of its authority and responsibilities to a manager, managing agent, or managing company (herein called the "Managing Agent"). Such delegation may be evidenced by a management agreement which shall provide for the duties to be performed by the Managing Agent and for the payment to the Managing Agent of a reasonable compensation as a common expense. Upon the expiration of each management agreement the Association may renew said agreement or enter into a different agreement with a different Managing Agent. The Managing Agent, whether selected by the Developer or the Association, may be an entity owned, in whole or in part, associated with in whole or in part or in any other manner connected or associated with any owner, partner, agent, contractor or employee of Developer without in any manner restricting, limiting or affecting the validity of said agreement; provided, however, that any contract entered into by the Developer with a Managing Agent shall be in accordance with the provisions of Section 5311.25(D) of the Ohio Revised Code which limits the duration of any management contract entered into prior to the assumption of control of the Association by the Unit Owners to one year following such assumption of control, unless such contract is renewed by a vote of the Unit Owners. The holders of first mortgages on Units shall be given notice by the Association of the name and address of any new management company at least thirty (30) days prior to the employment of said new management company. In the event the Association decides or elects to terminate the employment of a Managing Agent or management company with the intent to manage the Condominium itself and no longer employ a Managing Agent or management company, and the terms of any first mortgage on a Unit provides that said termination shall be a default sufficient to accelerate and immediately call due and payable the entire principal balance of said mortgage, that said termination must be approved by said mortgagee(s) prior to the effective date of the termination.

4. Condominium Instruments --Binding Legal Documents-- Alterations or Amendments. The Condominium Instruments are binding legal documents. All amendments to the Declaration to change percentages of interest in Common Areas and Facilities must be approved by all Unit Owners, except that the Developer reserves the right in the Declaration to amend the Declaration to change percentages of interest, without the consent of the Unit Owners, upon the addition of Units to the Condominium Property.

All other amendments to the Declaration or the Bylaws may be made only by the affirmative vote of Unit Owners entitled to exercise not less than _____ percent (_____%) of the voting power of the Association, except that the Developer reserves the right to amend the Declaration, without the consent of the Unit Owners, in connection with the addition of Additional Property and Units thereon to the Condominium, and except that no amendment shall affect the rights of the Developer under the Declaration and the rights of bona fide first mortgagees until the written consent to such amendment has been obtained from the Developer and if required, from such mortgagees.

I. NO MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT.

The Association has not entered into any management contract or other agreement affecting the operation, use or maintenance of or access to all or part of the Condominium. As mentioned, it is the Developer's present intention to manage the Condominium on a month-to-month basis until the Unit Owners meet and determine who will manage the Association's affairs, and on what basis.

J. PURCHASER'S RIGHTS.

Set forth on Exhibit C attached hereto, is a statement in twenty-point boldface type of the purchaser's right to review the Condominium Instruments, to void the contract for the purchase and sale of the Unit which is the subject of such contract, the conditions for the return of the purchase deposit made by the purchaser, and the statement of the rights of purchasers under Section 5311.27 of the Revised Code.

K. ESTABLISHMENT OF RESERVE FUND FOR REPAIR OR REPLACEMENT OF COMPONENTS OF CONDOMINIUM AREAS AND FACILITIES.

The Bylaws of the Association provide that the Association shall build up and maintain a reasonable reserve for contingencies and replacements, to finance the cost of repair and replacement of the components of the Common Areas and Facilities. The projected Common Expenses set forth on Exhibit B to this Disclosure Statement include a reserve for repairs and replacements. In addition, the Association may assess each Unit Owner for payments to be made into the reserve account on the basis of the budgeted or actual costs.

L. SIGNIFICANT TERMS OF ANY ENCUMBRANCES, EASEMENTS, LIENS, AND MATTERS OF TITLE AFFECTING THE CONDOMINIUM DEVELOPMENT.

Attached as Exhibit D to this Disclosure Statement is a list of any encumbrances, easements, liens, and matters of title affecting the Condominium Development. To the best of the Developer's knowledge, none of the items listed on Exhibit D to this Disclosure Statement constitutes an impairment to the use and enjoyment of the common development as a residential property. The mortgages referred to on Exhibit D to this Disclosure Statement will be released as to each Unit and its percentage of interest in the Common Areas and Facilities at the time of the sale of each such Unit and interest in the Common Areas and Facilities.

M. ESCROW DEPOSITS.

Any deposit or down payment made in connection with the sale will be held in trust or escrow until delivered at closing, returned to or otherwise credited to the purchaser or forfeited to the Developer. If a deposit or down payment of _____ Dollars ($_____) or more is held for more than ninety (90) days, interest at the rate of _____ percent (_____%) per annum for any period exceeding ninety (90) days shall be credited to the purchaser at closing or upon return or other credit made to the purchaser, or added to any forfeiture to the Developer. Deposits and down payments held in trust or escrow shall not be subject to attachment by creditors of the Developer or of the purchaser.

N. RESTRICTIONS ON ALIENABILITY.

No Unit shall be rented by the respective Unit Owner thereof for transient or hotel purposes, which shall be defined as (i) rental for any period less than twelve (12) months, or (ii) any rental if the occupants of the Units are provided customary hotel service, such as room service for food and beverage, maid service, or the furnishing of laundry and linen and bellboy service. Other than the foregoing obligations, the Unit Owners shall have the right to lease the same, provided that said lease is made subject to the covenants and restrictions in the Declaration, the Bylaws and the Rules, as amended.

O. LITIGATION.

There is no present litigation concerning the Condominium.

FORM 20.74 Mobile home park condominium--master deed and bylaws

COMMENT

This master deed (or declaration as it is called in some jurisdictions) converts an existing mobile home park into a condominium. Each mobile home is located on its individual lot and is not attached to any other mobile home. One of the special features of this mobile home condominium includes the transformation of the mobile homes from personalty to real property, permitting mortgage financing rather than installment loan financing.

An additional feature includes representation of the existing tenant-occupants on the condominium association board of directors. This is provided for in the bylaws of the condominium association.

A specific provision of the master deed frees the developer from paying assessments on the undeveloped plots in the mobile home park, until such time as certificates of occupancy are issued for the completed units. Easements of access are specifically granted to municipal, county, and state authorities for fire, police, and other protection, due to the extensive road network required by numerous mobile home lots.

The mobile home park:

The master deed establishes a condominium in a mobile home park. The development is broken down (but not legally subdivided) into separate plots. The plots are then leased to individual mobile home owners, pursuant to a real estate lease for a term of one year or more. The lessee would then purchase the mobile home and have it placed on his rented lot. The mobile home, being personal property, is financed in the same manner as other personal property, by a secured installment loan. A security interest in the mobile home is perfected under Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code or other state laws, such as the motor vehicle law.

From the purchaser-tenant's perspective, this straight mobile home park arrangement has certain disadvantages when compared to purchasing a conventional house or condominium apartment. First, the financing of the mobile home, which, in this case, is treated as a motor vehicle, requires higher monthly payments. This is due to (1) the shorter term of the installment loan compared to the mortgage loan, and (2) the higher interest rate allowed on motor vehicle loans. A second disadvantage is nonownership of the land. Although some states have enacted laws to protect tenants from arbitrary eviction, a mobile home park tenant is usually subject to summary eviction proceedings. A failure to pay rent on leased land could result in a summary court ordered eviction sooner than a failure to pay an installment on a real estate mortgage. A third disadvantage is the practical problem of relocating the mobile home itself if there is an eviction. Modern mobile homes, in many cases, are substantially similar to prefabricated homes. The fact that these units are set, without wheels, on concrete blocks, and hooked up to underground utilities, makes them almost permanently affixed to the leased land.

Condominium:

In a condominium arrangement, a unit owner receives fee title to his unit, while sharing joint ownership as tenants in common with other unit owners in the common elements. In a conventional high-rise condominium, the boundaries of a unit might consist of the interior walls, floor and ceiling. The structural framework of the building, as well as water pipes, electric wiring and heating, ventilation and air-conditioning components would be common elements. Their maintenance is a common expense, assessed against all the units proportionately. The land upon which the condominium structure is located is often a common element also.

A mobile home park is a completely different arrangement. Each mobile home is located on a separate piece of land. If the underlying land is a common element, then the only property which makes up the unit is the mobile home itself. An alternative approach was used in the master deed here. The unit consists not only of the mobile homes, but also includes the specifically mapped-out lot upon which the unit is located. The fact that the lot is privately owned real property, rather than a common element, is emphasized by the fact that the unit owner is responsible for the lot's landscaping and maintenance. This is set out in the rules and regulations contained in the bylaws, which are annexed to the master deed.

The conversion of the mobile home park into a condominium causes several significant changes. Under state laws, the individual condominium unit is treated as real estate, rather than personalty. In the master deed here, the definition of "unit" includes the "residential dwelling," i.e., the mobile home, located on the lot. A precondition to the real estate status of the mobile home itself is that the unit owner also own the plot upon which the mobile home is located. Thus, where a tenant rents a lot from the developer, the tenant's mobile home remains his personalty. If the tenant opts to purchase the condominium unit, i.e., the plot which he rents, his mobile home will become part of the condominium unit, and thus real estate, upon his acceptance of the unit deed.

Because both the plot of land and the mobile home situated thereon are both realty, and designated as the condominium unit, the unit owner is able to obtain mortgage financing based on the total value of the home and land. (The previous installment loan was based only on the value of the mobile home.) Usually mortgage financing is for a longer term and lower interest rate than installment loan financing. The ownership of the underlying land eliminates the requirement to pay rent. The monthly con-dominium assessment, although an additional charge, should be substantially lower than the land rent. The assessment covers the cost of maintaining the common elements, and does not include amounts to cover the landlord's return on investment or land and development costs.

Conversion to condominium:

Several states require substantial disclosure statements to be distributed to prospective purchaser as well as registration statements to be filed with state authorities upon conversion to a condominium. These include New York (an "Offering Statement" is filed with the Attorney General), California (disclosure forms are filed with the Department of Investment--Division of Real Estate), New Jersey (a "Prospectus" is filed with the Department of Community Affairs), and Virginia (an "Application for Registration" and "Public Offering Statement" are filed with the Real Estate Commission). A practitioner should carefully review and follow the disclosure and registration requirements of the local jurisdiction where the conversion is to take place.

Several states have enacted separate laws dealing with the protection of tenant rights in conversion situations. The laws generally apply to conversions to cooperatives as well as to condominiums. Again substantial disclosure statements and administrative filings may be required under local law. Whether tenants in a mobile home park are exempt from such laws is a question for local counsel or perhaps court interpretation.

Easements of access:

A specific easement is granted in favor of governmental agencies for purposes of providing police, fire, sanitation, and other services. Although the mobile home park condominium contains a relatively substantial road network, it is privately owned. This is a significant difference from a filed subdivision, where the roads and other public improvements are dedicated to the local municipality. In a subdivision, there is no question that the local authorities, as well as the public in general, can use the roads and other amenities. In a mobile home development, the private ownership could conceivably inhibit entry unless the right to enter is unquestioned. The easement of access in favor of the public entities, does not, however, expressly permit the entry of the public in general.

Unit mortgages:

In order to protect mortgage lenders, and thus encourage loans for unit purchases, specific provisions for this purpose are contained in the master deed. Included is an express provision that assessments for common expenses shall be subordinate to the first mortgage or purchase money mortgage on a unit. Many state condominium laws also establish such priorities. Repeating the priority in the master deed is an additional precaution.

Because a mobile home can be easily moved, it is advisable for a mortgage lender to take extra precautions to protect its security in the mobile home. Therefore, in addition to the mortgage covering the mobile home as part of the real estate unit, it is also advisable to obtain a security interest under Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code, motor vehicle law, or other superseding state statute. Thus, if the mobile home should be removed from the lot, and conceivably lose its character as real property, the lender would be protected by following the steps necessary to obtain a security interest in personal property. This additional precaution could also avoid the defendant in a foreclosure action from raising the issue of whether the mobile home is covered by a real estate mortgage, alleging that the home is still personal property.

Designation of units:

The dimensions and location of the various condominium units are established in a schedule annexed to the master deed. This is an essential part of any master deed or declaration. The unit designation is thereafter as descriptive as any metes and bounds or filed map designation. This part of the master deed is usually prepared by professional engineers or architects, and varies substantially with each project. Therefore, the illustration of the lot locations has not been included.

Mobile home regulations:

Another feature of this form is the incorporation of the regulations governing the everyday operation of the mobile home park into the bylaws. By including the regulations in the bylaws, as part of the master deed, the grantor reserves the right to amend them. Thereafter the regulations can only be amended in the same manner as amending the bylaws. As a practical matter, the inclusion of the regulations in the bylaws, which are recorded in the county seat and distributed to each unit owner, precludes the unit owner from claiming lack of notice of such regulations. See Form 20.98 for a form of Rules and Regulations for a mobile home park which is not subject to a condominium declaration.

(f) Any amendment to the Master Deed will become effective upon the recording of an amendment to the Master Deed in the Office of the Clerk of Devon County. The Grantor will, thereafter, provide copies of said amendment to each owner and mortgagee affected.

11.2 Upon the expiration of the reservation of the Grantor, as set forth in Section 11.1 of this Article or upon surrender or modification of the rights reserved by the Grantor, in accordance with Section 11.1(e) of this Article then the following shall apply:

No such amendment shall be effective unless recorded in the Office of the Clerk of _____ [county] , _____ [state] .

Article XII

Assessments for Common Expenses

Common expenses shall be assessed by the Board of Trustees annually, but shall be payable in equal monthly installments, except that upon default in the payment of any monthly installment, the Board of Trustees may elect to accelerate the amount due, and charge interest on the amount due at the maximum rate allowed by law, plus reasonable attorneys' fees, accrued as of the date of default. Only units for which certificates of occupancy have been issued shall be assessed, and each unit's share of such assessment shall be determined by dividing one by the total number of units for which certificates of occupancy have been issued on the first day of each year, anything to the contrary herein or in the Bylaws of the Association notwithstanding. The amount of assessments against new units shall be equal to the amount payable monthly by the existing units multiplied by the number of months remaining in the Association's fiscal year. If the total assessments exceed the costs for that year, such excess shall be applied to costs and reduce the assessments for the following year. Special assessments may be made if deemed appropriate by the Board of Trustees.

Article XIII

Section 2. Powers and Duties. The Board of Trustees shall have the powers and duties necessary for the administration of the affairs of the Association as set forth in the _____ [state] Condominium Act and may do all acts and things as are not by law, the Master Deed or by these Bylaws directed to be exercised and done by the owners. The powers and duties of the Board of Trustees shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

For the first year one trustee shall be elected for a term of one year; one trustee shall be elected for a term of two years; one trustee shall be elected for a term of three years; one trustee shall be elected for a term of four years; and one trustee shall be elected for a term of five (5) years. Vacancies in the Board of Trustees caused by any reason other than the removal of a trustee by a vote of the Association shall be filled by the majority of the remaining trustees, provided that in the event of a deadlock, by the Grantor in the Master Deed and its successors and assigns, or if the Grantor is no longer entitled to designate a majority of the Board of Trustees, then by a majority of the unit owners. Each so elected shall serve as a trustee until the end of the term of the trustee whom he replaces.

Section 6. Removal of Trustees. Grantor-designated trustees may be removed and replaced by the Grantor at any time. Member-designated trustees at any regular or special meeting duly called, may be removed with or without cause by a three-fourths (3/4) vote of all of the members and a successor may then and there be elected to fill the vacancy thus created. Any trustee whose removal has been proposed by any owners shall be given an opportunity to be heard in the meeting and shall be afforded the right to have the vote on his removal adjourned to a new date not less than seven nor more than ten days from the date of the meeting at which the removal is proposed.

If all the trustees are present at any meeting of the Board, no notice shall be required and any business may be transacted at such meeting.

Section 11. Board of Trustee's Quorum. At all meetings of the Board of Trustees, a majority of the trustees shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the acts of the majority of the trustees present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the acts of the Board of Trustees. At any such adjourned meeting, any business which might have been transacted at the meeting as originally called may be transacted without further notice.

FORM 20.75 Senior citizen restriction--amendment to master deed

COMMENT

Where a tract is zoned for senior citizen community development, there is no need for a restrictive deed covenant to establish a senior's community. Without such zoning, however, a deed restriction may be a viable method. This form illustrates a situation where the master deed was subsequently amended to establish a senior citizen deed restriction on a part of the condominium. The amendment to the master deed, in this case, affected only lots which were yet to be developed. The amendment provides that notice of the restriction will be specifically referred to in the unit deeds to the affected lots.

There are some potential problem areas with senior citizen restrictions, either by zoning ordinances or deed restriction. Among the major problems are the following: Can the property be conveyed by the deceased senior citizen's executor or administrator to younger beneficiary who would take under a will or by intestacy. Would occupancy of the premises by household members under the age limit, for example, grandchildren, be barred: These unresolved areas require careful research and drafting. In the amendment to the master deed no provisions were made to deal with these issues, permitting a future case by case review of any difficulties which may arise.

This amendment to the master deed provides that only a part of the entire development is restricted to senior citizen occupancy. The remainder of the development, which consists of the already improved and occupied lots, is not so restricted.

FORM 20.76 Consent of mortgagee to condominium declaration

COMMENT

Occasionally, it may be necessary or helpful to file a declaration on property which is subject to a mortgage. In this scenario, the mortgage should be made subordinate to the declarations. If it is not subordinated, then a foreclosure of the mortgage would have the potential to cancel the declarations. Under the normal scenario, as each unit is sold, the mortgagee will agree to release the unit. The following consent is very simple and it can be attached to the declaration before it is filed.

FORM

Consent of Mortgagee

The undersigned _____ [lender] is the mortgagee of the property described in the foregoing Declaration of Condominium Ownership by virtue of a certain Mortgage Deed filed in the mortgage records of the Recorder of _____ [county] , _____ [state] , in Volume _____, Page _____ (the "Mortgage"). The undersigned hereby consents to the Declaration of Condominium Ownership and to the filing thereof in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ [county] , _____ [state] , and further, subjects and subordinates the Mortgage to such Declaration and the Drawings attached thereto, and to the provisions of Chapter _____ of the _____ [state] Code. This consent is not a release of the Mortgage, nor is it a waiver of the priority or validity of the Mortgage as it relates to any other agreement, encumbrance, lien, reservation, restriction or condition affecting the Property.

FORM 20.77 Condominium presentation-townhouse condominium--expandable

COMMENT

Developers may convey townhouses as each building or row of buildings is completed. Similarly, it is possible to hold additional land for future offerings if the initial offering sells well. Accordingly, many developers have sought authorization to plan a townhouse condominium of indeterminate size with the number of units to be determined by the demand generated by the initial reaction.

Problems inherent in the townhouse concept derive from the fact that there are undivided fractional interests attached to each unit, fractional shares of the expenses for the common facilities, and that the voting strength of the unit owners who acquired their units early on is subject to being diminished. Adequate safeguards for both unit owners and their mortgagees may be provided by spelling out the rights and obligations of purchasers in all of the possible contingencies. The estimated percentage interest in common elements, the estimated monthly charges for each unit, and the estimated operating expenses for the development can be shown for each contingency. In this way, prospective purchasers should be able to gauge the approximate size of their holdings, their potential voting strength, and their fractional shares of the common expenses. So long as each section is relatively self-sufficient, the addition of units or the failure to do so should not have too much of an effect on future carrying costs.

It should be observed that while the ordinary homeowner may postpone major capital outlays until such time as his budget permits, a condominium dweller is usually subject to assessment whenever an appropriate vote of his neighbors so requires, and, typically, a unanimous vote is not required. Payment, moreover, may be due on a short-term basis. This agreement diminishes the impact of this feature of condominium ownership as follows. If at least 50% but less than 75% of the unit owners agree to make an improvement to the common elements, the cost is divided only among those who have agreed to the improvement. If 75% or more vote for an improvement to the common elements, the cost is assessed to all owners, but if the cost is in excess of 10% of the value of the condominium, a disagreeing unit owner may go to court for an order directing the purchase of his unit by the board of managers at its fair market value.

Pinehurst Townhouses Condominium Presentation

Townhouse Development Corporation, (the "Sponsor"), herewith presents its proposal for condominium ownership of land adjacent to Spring Lake Park, Long Meadow, Massachusetts, (the "Land"), and the buildings and other improvements to be constructed thereon, (the "Buildings"). The condominium thus established will be known as Pinehurst Townhouses. This Presentation is intended only as a summary of the main features proposed by Pinehurst Townhouses and of the legal documents required for the creation of the Condominium. Because of the complexity and interdependence of those legal documents, all of the Sponsor's sales and other representatives are prohibited from changing any of the terms and conditions thereof or attempting to interpret their legal effect. You are urged to consult your own counsel in connection with a review of these documents. The Sponsor's counsel, in turn, will be available to discuss any matters that your counsel may wish to discuss. The Exhibits which follow this Presentation provide a more detailed description of the Condominium and the rights and obligations of the Unit Owners. If there is any inconsistency between the Exhibits and this Presentation, the Exhibits will govern.

The Condominium Concept

Condominium ownership yields the investment and tax advantages of homeownership without the attendant concerns of maintenance. A Condominium Unit Owner buys his own residence in fee simple and is entitled to the exclusive possession thereof. Through the Unit Deed, he acquires not only the physical apartment itself, but the right to use the facilities which all the Condominium participants own in common, such as the grounds, parking areas, and recreational facilities.

In order to insure full enjoyment of the common facilities, a Board of Managers is elected from among the Unit Owners to oversee the operation and maintenance of the Condominium. The cost of that operation and maintenance is shared by the individual Unit Owners in proportion to their respective interests in the common facilities, which proportion is established at the outset of the Condominium. Pinehurst Townhouses, however, may consist of one, two, or three Sections as more fully described in this Presentation.

As the Unit Deed makes each purchaser an owner in his own right, he bears no responsibility for the mortgage obligations or real estate taxes of his neighbors (just as the owner of a private home is unaffected by the mortgage responsibility or tax liability of the family next door). Each Unit Owner may mortgage his Unit or not, as he sees fit, and in such amount as he chooses, with any bank or other institutional lender. Each Unit Owner is free to resell his Unit, at such price as he determines, to any buyer subject only to the right of first refusal of the Board of Managers as specified in the Bylaws. The interior of one's Unit may be decorated in any way desired, except that in order to assure an aesthetically pleasing exterior, the color of the reverse side of draperies and curtains must meet with the approval of the Board of Managers.

As in the case of all other homeowners, a Unit Owner receives a federal income tax deduction for real estate tax and mortgage interest payments made in connection with his Unit, subject however, to applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code with regard to the deduction of interest under certain circumstances. If the Unit is purchased with the proceeds of the recent sale of a home, Section 1034 of the Internal Revenue Code permits deferral of the recognition of gain realized from that sale. Similarly on resale of the Unit, taxes on the gain, if any, may be deferred by promptly reinvesting the sales proceeds in another home or condominium unit.

For these reasons the Sponsor believes that the creation of Pinehurst Townhouses as a condominium will offer many advantages not available elsewhere in the community.

Pinehurst Townhouses

The Sponsor proposes to establish the Condominium in three Sections. However, the Sponsor retains the option to complete only one, two, or all three Sections, as market and other relevant considerations dictate.

Section A will consist of 52 Townhouse Units with surface parking facilities, together with the security and recreational facilities hereinafter described. Section B will consist of 48 Townhouse Units with surface parking facilities. Section C will consist of fifty (50) Townhouse Units with parking facilities and a Unit for a resident manager.

Section A of the Condominium will be created by the recording of the Master Deed of the Section A portion of the land, which deed will be in the form attached hereto as Exhibit E. The Master Deed permits the Sponsor to amend its provisions to include either or both of Sections B or C, without the approval or consent of Unit Owners. Simultaneously with the recording of the Master Deed, the Sponsor will also record a Declaration of Easements to reserve for the benefit of Sections B and C certain utility and access easements in the event the Master Deed is not amended to include either or both of those Sections. If Sections B or C are not included in the Condominium, they will have the benefit of those easements only if developed as single family or multifamily residential projects. In no event will Section B or C have the benefit of the recreational facilities unless the respective Section is included in the Condominium. Unless and until Section C is included in the Condominium, the Board of Managers will have to provide, outside of the Condominium, an office for the Board and a residence for the resident manager or pay him a larger salary. So long as the existing structures remain on the Section C land, the Sponsor is willing to make suitable space available for such office and residence to the Board of Managers at a nominal cost, but the Sponsor reserves for itself, its successors, and assigns, the right to terminate such arrangement at any time on thirty (30) days' written notice.

You will note in the attached Exhibits the alternative proportionate interests and estimated expenses which will be appropriate depending on which of the Sections are included in the Condominium.

The Land

The Land, consisting of slightly wooded and gently sloping area, is located on the westerly side of Pine Street in Long Meadow, Massachusetts, only a short walk from Pinehurst Square. It abuts directly on Spring Lake Park, a town forest and park surrounding Spring Lake. The Sponsor, in planning the site and placement of the buildings, has taken advantage of these features to preserve the character of the neighborhood.

All utilities, including electric and telephone lines, will be underground.

The roads and drives that the Sponsor will construct on the Land will be owned by the Condominium and the obligation to maintain them will be that of the Condominium unless and until they are dedicated to, and accepted by, the governmental authority having jurisdiction.

Transportation, Shopping, and Services

Long Meadow is conveniently serviced by bus, auto, and rail. It is only a few miles from Springfield which has several bus lines, three railroads, and a privately owned airport. The town is served by several expressways, including Routes 9 and 91. It is only a few miles from Route 90, the Massachusetts Turnpike. Two of the area's largest shopping malls are within a 20 minute ride of Pinehurst Townhouses. Branches of New England's finest stores create an elegant air for the Pinehurst Shopping Center. Springfield is the site of Springfield and American International Colleges, both founded in 1885.

The Berkshire Mountains are within an hour's drive from Pinehurst Townhouses as are Massachusetts and Vermont ski areas.

Long Meadow is a well-planned, progressive community offering a full range of municipal services and programs. Full police, fire, recreation, park, sewer, and water services are combined with one of the state's best known secondary school systems. Excellent youth and senior citizen programs assure a full life in Pinehurst Townhouses. Library, post offices, churches, professional offices, convenience stores, and the Long Meadow Inn are within easy walking distance to support day-to-day activities or to aid when unexpected guests arrive for dinner or the weekend. All these features combine to provide the utmost in ease and convenience.

The Townhouses, Units, and Utilities

Each Townhouse will be a duplex structure constructed primarily of concrete and masonry material in substantial accordance with the specifications contained in Exhibit A attached hereto.

The Units will contain either two bedrooms, three bedrooms, or three bedrooms and a library. Each Unit shall be used only as a residence for a single family. A more complete description of the Units and the specifications for their construction is set forth in said Exhibit A.

Each Unit Owner will pay for all electricity consumed within his Unit, including electricity for heating and for the distribution of air conditioning. Electrical consumption will be measured by a separate meter for each Unit. Water and air conditioning coolant supplied to each Unit will be paid for by the Board of Managers as a part of the services for which the common charge is paid.

Parking Facilities

Each Unit Owner will have the exclusive right to use one designated parking space within the Section in which his Unit is located. The exclusive right to use some additional parking spaces will also be available for purchase as follows:

Section A	26 spaces
Section B	25 spaces
Section C	26 spaces

So long as additional spaces in a particular Section remain unsold, any purchaser in that Section may acquire the exclusive right to use an additional designated parking space or spaces in such Section. If rights in such additional space are acquired, the percentage interest attributable to the Unit will be increased as indicated in the Exhibits annexed hereto so that the user of such additional space pays an additional common charge. Thereafter the Unit may be sold or mortgaged only with the benefit of the rights in the additional space or spaces. The owner of an additional space may, however, license such space to another Unit Owner without the consent or approval of the Board of Managers provided notice of such license is given to the Board of Managers.

Recreational Facilities

One of the common facilities of the Condominium will be an architecturally designed outdoor swimming pool surrounded by a pool deck area and located on the Land. A cabana with toilet facilities will be located adjacent to the pool. The pool will be available only for the exclusive use of Unit Owners and their invited guests. The estimated expenses for the first year of operation as set forth in the Exhibits annexed hereto include the salary of a lifeguard at the pool for three months, the estimated pool season. There will be a clubhouse available for the use of Unit Owners and their invited guests.

Security Facilities

The Condominium can be approached by car only from Pine Street. A gate house is to be constructed at that entranceway with a manned gate.

Expenses in Connection With the Creation, Construction, and Sale of the Condominium

The Sponsor will bear all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the creation of the Condominium and the sale of Units, including selling expenses and commissions upon the initial sale of Units, advertising and printing expenses, architects' fees, Sponsor's attorneys' fees, organization costs, and engineering and surveying costs, whether incurred by the Sponsor prior or subsequent to the effective date of the Condominium. The Sponsor will pay all brokerage commissions, if any, on initial sales of Units by the Sponsor's affiliated corporation, Townhouse Management Corp.. At the time of conveyance of a Unit to a Purchaser, there will be no liens or liabilities against such Unit, except the lien for current real estate taxes not then due and payable.

Purchase Agreement and Payments

If a prospective purchaser decides to purchase a Unit, a Purchase Agreement in the form attached hereto will be executed and a down payment toward the total price of the Unit shall be made in an amount which will equal _____ percent (_____) of the full purchase price.

Deposits

The Sponsor will place all deposits in its account at the New England National Bank. If the Sponsor does not complete the contemplated transaction for any reason, such moneys will be returned to the purchasers. It is intended, however, that when a respective Section becomes effective, such deposits as are attributable to that Section will be used by the Sponsor in connection with the construction of the Condominium. Therefore, a purchaser should understand that just as in a situation where a builder is to build single family homes, if the Sponsor fails to complete the construction of a Unit and has no financial resources, the purchaser may lose all or part of his deposit. You should consult your attorney in order to best evaluate the nature and extent of that risk. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "effective" means that Purchase Agreements for _____ percent (_____) in interest of the Units (or such lesser percentage as the Sponsor may determine) in the respective Section have been executed and accepted by the Sponsor. If the Plan does not become effective by _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , with respect to Section A, _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , with respect to Section B, or _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , with respect to Section C, all moneys paid by a purchaser of a Unit in the affected Section will be returned by the Sponsor.

Sale of Units

The Townhouse Units will be sold by the Sponsor, in fee simple, to purchasers who may be individuals, partnerships, corporations, or fiduciaries. Units will be sold together with their respective undivided interests in the Common Elements and exclusive rights and easements. Good record and insurable title to each Unit and its appurtenant interests in the Common Elements will be conveyed by the Sponsor by quitclaim deed, free and clear of all liens and encumbrances other than:

1. A state of facts as shown on the subdivision plan made by H. W. Moore Associates dated _____ [month] _____ [day] , _____ [year] , which indicates a utility easement to the Town of Long Meadow. Any additional state of facts which a subsequent survey would show, provided such additional facts do not render title uninsurable or materially interfere with the use of the Property as contemplated in this Presentation.
2. Zoning and Building Bylaws and any amendments thereto now or hereafter adopted. The Sponsor represents and warrants that the contemplated improvements comply with present zoning and building bylaws of the Town of Long Meadow.
3. Site Plan approval by the Board of Appeals of the Town of Long Meadow, and conditions, if any, imposed in connection therewith.
4. Easements in favor of utility companies for the construction and maintenance of utility and telephone lines, which easements may or may not have yet been recorded.
5. Easements in favor of the Town of Long Meadow, for use of sewer, drainage, and water lines, which easements may or may not have yet been recorded.
6. The Master Deed, Bylaws, Map, and Floor Plans to be recorded in Hampden County Registry of Deeds, as the same may be amended from time to time as provided in this Presentation, the Master Deed, or the Bylaws.
7. Any state of facts which an accurate survey of the Unit would show, provided that such state of facts would not render title unmarketable or materially interfere with the use of the Unit as contemplated in this Presentation.
8. Easements in favor of adjoining Units and in favor of the Common Elements for the continuance of all encroachments of such adjoining Units or Common Elements on the Unit, existing as a result of construction of the Units, or which may come into existence as a result of settling or shifting of the Units, or as a result of repair or restoration of the Units or of any adjoining Unit or of the Common Elements made by or with the consent of the Board of Managers, after damage or destruction by fire or other casualty, or after a taking in condemnation or eminent domain proceedings, or by reason of an alteration or repair to the Common Elements, made by or with the consent of the Board of Managers, so that any such encroachments may remain so long as the Units shall stand.
9. Easements in favor of the other Units to use the pipes, wires, flues, ducts, conduits, cables, public utility lines, roads, and other Common Elements located in the Unit or elsewhere on the Property and serving such other Units.

10. Exclusive rights in favor of other Units for the exclusive use of designated underground and surface parking spaces and storage cubicles.

11. Real estate taxes attributable to such Unit for the then current year as are not due and payable on the date of closing of the sale.

Section A shall have the benefit of a ten-foot utility easement and a seven-foot parking easement over Section B and two-foot drainage easements over land adjacent to the Premises.

Closing of Sales

The closing of the sale of each Unit shall take place only after, or concurrently with, the following events:

1. The issuance of a temporary or permanent Certificate of Occupancy permitting occupancy of the Unit under contract.
2. The Master Deed, Bylaws, floor plans, and architects' certification required by Sections 8 and 9 of Chapter 183A of Massachusetts General Laws shall be recorded as required by law.
3. Release of the Unit from the lien of all mortgages except the purchaser's mortgage, if any.
4. The issuance of a title insurance policy, if purchaser has applied for such title insurance, insuring fee title to the Unit in the purchaser, free and clear of all liens and encumbrances except those set forth or referred to in the Purchase Agreement and purchaser's mortgage, if any.
5. Assignment of all applicable warranties to the Board of Managers as set forth in the Exhibits annexed hereto.
6. Delivery to the purchaser of all applicable warranties on kitchen appliances and air conditioning equipment in his Unit as set forth in the Exhibits annexed hereto.

Closing Costs and Expenses

The estimated closing costs and expenses to be borne by each purchaser of a Unit will be as follows:

1. An Owner's title insurance policy, if ordered from _____ [title company], will cost approximately _____ Dollars ($_____) through a special arrangement made by the Sponsors with the title insurer.
2. Recording fees for recording the Unit Deed and accompanying plans and certificate.
3. The fees and expenses of the purchaser's own attorney, if any.
4. The purchaser will be required to pay to the Board of Managers common charges allocable to his Unit monthly in advance. Common charges assessed during the month in which the sale of a Unit closes shall be adjusted on a per diem basis as of the closing date. The percentage of common charges to be assessed against each Unit is fixed by the Master Deed. The estimated common charges for the first year of operation for each Unit are set forth in the Exhibits annexed hereto.

5. In addition to the regular monthly charge, the purchaser will be required to pay at the closing to the Board of Managers an amount equal to _____ percent (_____) of the estimated annual common charges to provide the Condominium with working capital and a contingency reserve.

6. Current real estate taxes attributable to the Unit shall be adjusted as of the closing date.

Obligations of the Sponsor

The Sponsor will deliver to the Board of Managers, at the time of conveyance of the first Unit, an agreement requiring the Sponsor to perform the following:

1. The Sponsor will pay or cause to be paid all contractors, subcontractors, and materialmen and all others involved in the construction of the Units and Common Elements for work performed and fixtures, material, and equipment supplied or installed in the construction of the Condominium.
2. The Sponsor, at its sole cost and expense, will with reasonable diligence perform or cause to be performed such work, or will supply or cause to be supplied all materials necessary to complete the Units and Common Elements, including the recreational facilities, substantially in accordance with the provisions of this Presentation. The construction of the recreational facilities will be substantially completed within six (6) months after the time _____ percent (_____) of the Units in Section A have been occupied.
3. The Sponsor will cause any and all mechanic's liens arising out of the construction of the Units or Common Elements to be discharged by bonding or otherwise, promptly after the filing of such liens.
4. If a permanent Certificate of Occupancy shall not have been issued at the date of closing of any Unit, the Sponsor will use its best efforts to secure such permanent Certificate of Occupancy and will, at its sole cost and expense, perform or cause to be performed all work and supply or cause to be supplied all materials necessary therefor, consistent with the standards of this Presentation.
5. The Sponsor will pay the indebtedness secured by the construction loan mortgage and will comply with all the other terms and provisions of such mortgage and the note which it secures.
6. The Sponsor will promptly correct any defects in the construction of a Unit, or in the installation or operation of any mechanical equipment therein, that is due to improper workmanship or materials substantially at variance with this Presentation, provided it is notified of such defects in writing within one year from the date of occupancy of such Unit by the Unit Owner. The Sponsor will correct any defects in the construction of the Common Elements, or in the installation or operation of any mechanical equipment therein, due to improper workmanship or materials substantially at variance with this Presentation, provided it is notified of such defects in writing by the Board of Managers (or by any three Unit Owners if the Board of Managers fails to give such notice) within one year from the date of conveyance of the first Unit in the respective Section. The quality of construction shall be comparable to local standards customary in the particular trade. The Sponsor makes no warranties as to fixtures or equipment except that it will deliver to purchasers any manufacturer's warranties thereon received by the Sponsor. In no event shall the Sponsor be responsible for any nail pops, normal settlement, or any consequential damage resulting therefrom.
7. The Sponsor will deliver to the Board of Managers, when the Board takes over the management of the Condominium, heating, electrical, plumbing, roofing, and appliance warranties to the extent the same are given by the subcontractors and manufacturers.

The Sponsor makes no other undertakings or warranties except as otherwise set forth in this Presentation and none should be implied.

The Sponsor has no obligation to make any repair to the Units or Common Elements except as set forth in this paragraph, and shall not be liable for or required to defend any suit arising out of any occurrence except claims arising out of acts of the Sponsor.

No bond or other security has been furnished to secure the performance of the Sponsor's obligations. The ability of the Sponsor to perform its obligations will depend upon its financial resources at the time it is called upon to perform.

Change in Number and Location of Units, Size, Layout, and Percentage of Common Interest of Units and Substitution of Materials, Etc.

In order to meet possible unforeseen or varying demands for the number and type of Units, or to meet particular requirements of prospective purchasers, lending institutions, or title insurance companies or for any other reason, the Sponsor reserves the right to change the size, number, and location of Units and other improvements in each Section (and the size, layout, location, and percentage interest in the Common Elements, of any Unit for which a Purchase Agreement has not been executed by the Sponsor or with respect to which the purchaser is in default), provided such changes do not change the percentage interest in the Common Elements of any Unit already sold or under an executed Purchase and Sale Agreement as to which the purchaser is not in default; increase the earlier purchaser's proportionate share of common expenses; alter the Sponsor's responsibilities and warranties; or diminish the assessments against unsold Units when Section A becomes effective. The Sponsor also reserves the right to substitute for any of the materials, equipment, and appliances specified in the Exhibits annexed hereto, materials, equipment, and appliances of equal or better quality.

Estimate of Common Charges

Annexed hereto are estimated annual budgets for the Condominium based respectively upon occupancy of all Units in Section A, upon occupancy of all Units in Sections A and B, and upon occupancy of all Units in Sections A, B, and C.

The Sponsor has prepared the estimates in the Exhibits annexed hereto. The Sponsor believes these estimates to be dependable, but because of actual expenditures differing from estimated expenditures, possible changes in the future income or expenses of the Condominium, and other variable factors, such estimates are not intended nor should they be considered as guarantees or warranties of any kind whatsoever.

Liens for Nonpayment of Common Charges.

Under the provisions of the _____ [state] General Laws, the Board of Managers, on behalf of the Unit Owners, shall have a lien on each Unit for unpaid common charges assessed against such Unit by the Board of Managers. Such lien, however, shall be subordinate to the liens for taxes on the Unit and any sums unpaid on a first mortgage of record on such Unit.

No Unit Owner may exempt himself from liability for his common charges by waiving use of any of the Common Elements or by abandonment of his Unit. Subject to the provisions of the Bylaws, a Unit Owner may, by conveying his Unit and his interest in the Common Elements to the Board of Managers, exempt himself from common charges thereafter accruing.

Other Liens

Until the Condominium is terminated, no lien of any kind may be created against the Common Elements after the Master Deed is recorded unless all Unit Owners consent thereto. During such period, liens may arise only against the Units and their respective interests in the Common Elements. A lien for labor performed on or materials furnished to a Unit may not be filed against the Unit or any Unit Owner not expressly consenting to or requesting such labor or materials, except in the case of emergency repairs.

Bylaw Provisions

The following is a summary of important provisions of the Bylaws of the Condominium.

1. Management. Under the Bylaws of the Condominium, the affairs of the Condominium will be managed by a Board of Managers ultimately consisting of six members. The Board of Managers is authorized to employ a manager or a managing agent for the buildings and grounds on such terms as the Board of Managers may deem proper. The services to be rendered by the Board of Managers or any such manager or managing agent shall include billing and collecting common charges, hiring and discharging employees, supervising repairs and alterations, purchasing supplies, maintaining the Condominium's books, and attending meetings of the Board of Managers and of the Unit Owners when reasonably requested.

In order to assure professional management for the Condominium during the initial years of its operation, Townhouse Management Corp., an affiliate of the Sponsor, has been employed to act as managing agent for the Condominium for a period of four years following the conveyance of the first Unit at a maximum compensation equal to 1.6% per annum of the actual cumulative initial sales prices of the Units in the respective Section pursuant to the terms and provisions of a Management Agreement. The Management Agreement may not be cancelled without the consent of two-thirds (2/3) of the Unit Owners in each Section. A copy of the Management Agreement is available for inspection at the office of the Sponsor's counsel.

2. Board of Managers and Officers. The term of office of members of the Board of Managers shall be three years, with the term of one-third (1/3) of the Board of Managers expiring each year.

The officers shall consist of the President, the Vice President, the Secretary, and the Treasurer, all of whom shall be elected by the Board of Managers at its annual meeting. All members of the Board of Managers and officers shall serve without compensation from the Condominium. The Board of Managers and Officers need not be Unit Owners, until the Board of Managers is elected by the Owners and all Units in all Sections have been sold by the Sponsor.

3. Control by Sponsor. The first Board of Managers shall consist of six members who shall be designated by the Sponsor, one of whom shall be a Unit Owner. At the first annual meeting of Unit Owners which will take place within thirty (30) days after title to _____ percent (_____%) of the Units in Section A have been conveyed, or one year following the date of conveyance of the first Unit, whichever is sooner, two of the original Managers will resign and be replaced by Managers elected by the Unit Owners. At each of the next two annual meetings, two of the Managers designated by the Sponsor will resign and be similarly replaced. Prior to the second annual meeting, the Sponsor will have voting control of the Board which shall be responsible for maintenance, the facilities and services to be provided, and will determine the common charges to be paid by all Unit Owners, including the Sponsor. So long as the Sponsor owns one or more Units, the Sponsor will be entitled to elect at least one member of the Board of Managers and can vote as owner of all Units still held by the Sponsor.

4. Voting. Each Unit Owner shall be entitled to cast one vote at all meetings of the Unit Owners for each _____ percent (_____) of interest in the Common Elements belonging to the Unit or Units owned by him. The presence in person or by proxy of a majority of Unit Owners shall constitute a quorum at all meetings of the Unit Owners and, unless otherwise provided, the vote of a majority in interest of Unit Owners at a meeting at which a quorum shall be present shall be binding upon all Unit Owners. To amend or modify the Bylaws, a vote of _____ percent (_____) in number and in common interest of all Unit Owners entitled to vote, cast at a meeting duly held for such purpose, shall be necessary. Special meetings of Unit Owners may be held from time to time, whenever necessary to conduct the affairs of the Condominium.

If the Sponsor duly amends the Master Deed so as to cause the Condominium to be enlarged by the addition of Section B, Units in Section B shall be entitled to vote and shall be chargeable with their share of common charges from and after the date of conveyance of the first Unit in such Section. If the Sponsor duly amends the Master Deed so as to cause the Condominium to be enlarged by the addition of Section C, Units in Section C shall be entitled to vote and shall be chargeable with their share of common charges from and after the date of conveyance of the first Unit in such Section.

5. Common Charges. The common charges payable by each Unit Owner from time to time shall be based upon budgets prepared annually by the Board of Managers and in accordance with such Unit Owner's proportionate interest in the Common Elements. Each Unit Owner shall be advised promptly after the adoption of each budget of the amount of common charges payable by him for the period covered by such budget. The Sponsor shall pay _____ percent (_____) of the common charges allocable to Units that it owns but are unoccupied.

No Unit Owner shall be liable for the payment of any part of the common charges assessed against his Unit subsequent to a permissible transfer by him of such Unit, or subsequent to his conveyance of such Unit to the Board of Managers on behalf of all Unit Owners, in accordance with the provisions of the Master Deed and Bylaws. The latter conveyance may be made only if his Unit is free and clear of liens and encumbrances other than statutory lien for common charges.

6. Repairs. All painting, decorating, maintenance, repairs, and replacements to the Common Elements shall be made by the Board of Managers, and the cost thereof shall be charged to all Unit Owners as a common expense, except to the extent that the same are necessitated by the negligence, misuse, or neglect of a Unit Owner, as determined by the Board of Managers, in which case such expense shall be charged to such Unit Owner. The estimate of common charges for the first year covers the projected cost of upkeep of grounds and snow plowing.

All painting, decorating, maintenance, repairs, and replacements to any Unit shall be at the Unit Owner's expense, except as otherwise provided herein.

The Board of Managers and the manager or managing agent shall have the right of access to any Unit, at reasonable times and in the case of emergency, in the performance of their duties.

7. Insurance. The Board of Managers shall obtain and maintain, to the extent obtainable, fire insurance with extended coverage, insuring the Units (including the bathroom and kitchen fixtures initially installed in all of the Units by the Sponsor, but excluding wall covering, fixtures, furniture, furnishings, or other personal property supplied or installed by Unit Owners), together with all service machinery contained therein and covering the interests of the Condominium, the Board of Managers, and all Unit Owners and their mortgagees, as their respective interests may appear. Each of such policies shall contain a standard mortgagee clause in favor of each mortgagee of a Unit which shall provide that the loss, if any, thereunder, shall be payable to such mortgagee as its interest may appear, subject, however, to the loss payment provisions in favor of the Board of Managers hereinafter set forth. The cost of all such insurance shall be paid by the Board of Managers and shall constitute a common expense. The proceeds of all policies of physical damage insurance shall be payable to the Board of Managers, to be applied for the purpose of repairing, restoring, or rebuilding the Buildings unless otherwise determined by the Unit Owners in accordance with the Bylaws and the provisions of Chapter 183A of Massachusetts General Laws. All policies of physical damage insurance shall, to the extent obtainable, contain waivers of subrogation, or reduction of pro rata liability of the insurer as a result of any insurance carried by Unit Owners, and of invalidity arising from any acts of the insured or any Unit Owners, and shall provide that such policies may not be cancelled or substantially modified without at least ten days' prior written notice to all of the insured, including all mortgagees of Units.

The public liability insurance policy to be maintained until the first meeting of the Board of Managers following the first annual meeting of the Unit Owners will be in limits of _____ Dollars ($_____) for bodily injury to any one person and _____ Dollars ($_____) covering all claims for bodily injury arising out of any one occurrence and _____ Dollars ($_____) for property damage arising out of any one occurrence in the Common Elements and covering cross liability claims of one insured against another. However, such policy does not cover the individual liability of a Unit Owner arising from occurrences within his own Unit. A Unit Owner should insure himself against such liability by purchasing insurance for this purpose at his own expense.

Unit Owners should also carry insurance for their own benefit insuring their carpeting, parquet flooring, wall covering, fixtures, furniture, furnishings, and other personal property, provided that such policies contain waivers of subrogation and further provided that the liability of the carriers issuing insurance procured by the Board of Managers shall not be affected or diminished by reason of any Unit Owner's other insurance.

The Board of Managers will arrange for repair of the Units and Common Elements in the event of casualty loss. If the insurance proceeds are not sufficient to cover the cost of repairs to the Units, the balance of such cost will be assessed against all Unit Owners.

8. Improvements; Costs. If _____ percent (_____%) or more but less than _____ percent (_____%) of the Unit Owners agree to make an improvement to the Common Elements, the cost of such improvement shall be borne solely by the Unit Owners so agreeing. _____ percent (_____%) or more of the Unit Owners may agree to make an improvement to the Common Elements and assess the cost thereof to all Unit Owners as a common expense, but if such improvement shall cost in excess of _____ percent (_____%) of the then value of the Condominium, any Unit Owner not so agreeing may apply to the Hampden Superior Court, on such notice to the Board of Managers as the court shall direct, for an order directing the purchase of his Unit by the Board of Managers at the fair market value thereof as approved by the court. The cost of any such purchase shall be a common expense.

No Unit Owner shall make any structural alteration, addition, or improvement in his Unit without the prior written approval of the Board of Managers, but this provision shall not apply to Units owned by the Sponsor until such Units have been initially sold by the Sponsor.

9. Liability of Board of Managers and Unit Owners. Any contract or other commitment made by the Board of Managers, the managing agent, or the manager shall be made only as agent for the Unit Owners, and none of them shall be personally liable on any such contract or commitment (except as Unit Owners). The liability of any Unit Owner on any such contract or commitment shall be limited to such proportionate share of the total liability thereunder as the common interest of such Unit Owner bears to the aggregate common interest of all Unit Owners. The Board of Managers shall have no liability to the Unit Owners for errors of judgment, negligence, or otherwise, except for willful misconduct or bad faith. The Unit Owners shall severally indemnify the members of the Board of Managers against any liability or claims except those arising out of bad faith or willful misconduct of the members of the Board of Managers, but the liability of any Unit Owner on account of such indemnification shall be limited to such proportionate share thereof as the common interest of such Unit Owners bears to the aggregate common interest of all Unit Owners. Members of the Board of Managers shall not be required to be bonded.

10. Easements. Each Unit Owner shall have, in common with all other Unit Owners, an easement to use all pipes, flues, ducts, cables, wires, conduits, public utility lines, or other Common Elements located in other Units and serving his Unit and an easement for the continuance of any encroachment by his Unit on an adjoining Unit or on any Common Element, existing as a result of construction of the Units, or which may come into existence thereafter as a result of the Units settling or shifting, or as a result of restoration of the Units or a Unit after damage by fire or other casualty, or as a result of condemnation or eminent domain proceedings, or as a result of repairs or alterations made or approved by the Board of Managers or the Unit Owners as hereinabove provided, so that any such encroachment may remain undisturbed so long as the Units stand. Each Unit shall be subject to these easements in favor of all other Unit Owners. The Board of Managers, through the manager, managing agent, or their employees, shall have a right of access to each Unit to inspect and make repairs to the Unit to prevent damage to the Common Elements or any other Unit. The owner or owners of Sections B and C, or either, shall have the easement set forth in the Declaration of Easements.

H. CONDOMINIUMS AND HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION

24-20 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 20.78

AUTHOR: by Stephen E. Pigott and Harold O. Maxfield, Jr.

FORM 20.78 Homeowners' association declaration

Unlike the typical condominium, a homeowners' association includes each owner owning a separate lot of land. The improvements consist of the house, driveway, etc., owned exclusively by the homeowner. Living in a homeowners' association may involve separate common facilities such as tennis courts and swimming pools. In such case, the homeowner by virtue of owning the land belongs to the homeowners' association and has access to such facilities. However, the typical homeowners' declaration will also place numerous other restrictions on the owner. The limitations might include a limitation on fences or sheds. They might also provide restrictions on the size of a house or even the type of materials that may be used in the construction of the house, or even upon the colors of the exterior of the house or which way a garage faces. The declaration is usually filed in the Recorder's Office before lots are sold and as a result, each homeowner in the development purchases their property subject to the restriction and/or limitation set forth in the declaration.

Like condominiums, most homeowners' associations have a requirement for each member to pay dues. Since most homeowners' associations are non-profit enterprises, the dues are used as the operating revenue for the association. Operating expenses for the association are items like errors and omissions insurance for the trustees or officers, maintenance, repair and replacement of the common areas and facilities. The following form is a typical declaration for a homeowners' association. As discussed above, many states regulate the initial sale of condominiums by the developer and require the seller to certain disclosures of information. No such regulation generally exists with respect to homeowners' association and subdivisions.

FORM

DECLARATION OF COVENANTS AND RESTRICTIONS

FOR

ABC HOMESTEAD

THIS DECLARATION is made this _____ [day] day of _____ [month] , _____ [year] , by ABC CORPORATION, an Ohio corporation ("Declarant").

WHEREAS, Declarant is the owner of certain real property situated in the _____ [city] , _____ [county] County, _____ [state] , known as ABC Homestead (Phase I) and ABC Homestead (Phase II), and further described on Exhibit A and Exhibit B respectively, attached hereto
 (collectively, the "Subdivision"); and

WHEREAS, Declarant wishes to impose certain covenants and restrictions upon all real property in the Subdivision to insure uniformity of development as a residential subdivision;

NOW THEREFORE, Declarant hereby declares that, except as set forth in Paragraph 11, below, the Subdivision and each parcel therein (each such parcel hereinafter referred to as a "Lot") is and shall be held, used, owned, occupied, transferred, sold and conveyed subject to the covenants, restrictions, obligations, easements, reservations, conditions, limitations, agreements, charges and liens set forth below:

1. Residential Use. Each Lot shall be limited in use to single family residence purposes only, except that an owner of a Lot ("Owner") may use a portion of his or her residence constructed on a Lot for office or studio use, provided (i) the activities conducted therein shall not interfere with the quiet enjoyment or comfort of any other Owner, (ii) such use does not violate any local zoning ordinance, and (iii) no more than three (3) outside, non-resident employees are present at any time.

2. Approval by Committee.

A. Plan Approval. No construction, including, but not limited to, the construction of any residence, garage, deck, gazebo, outbuilding, patio, swimming pool, landscaping, grading or other improvement to the Lot, may be commenced or erected on any Lot unless the complete plans, specifications (including brand, style and color of the brick, shingles, and all other exterior surfaces) and building grades for such construction be first submitted to and approved in writing by an architectural committee (the "Committee") selected by Declarant, its successors, or any person or persons hereafter designated by Declarant or its successors. Any material changes made subsequent to the written approval by the Committee must be resubmitted and approved in writing prior to the commencement of changes.

B. Builder Approval. No general contractor, subcontractor, corporation, sole proprietorship, general partnership, limited partnership, limited liability company, individual or any other party (the "Builder") may commence or erect any construction described in subparagraph A hereof, or assist or participate in such construction, unless the Committee shall first approve such Builder for such purpose.

C. Committee. It will be the purpose of the Committee to insure the integrity and harmony of the Subdivision and each building constructed therein for the benefit of each Owner. The Committee will have sole and absolute discretion in its decisions. Refusal of approval of plans, specifications or locations by the Committee may be based on any ground, including purely aesthetic grounds. No action or conduct by the Committee in furtherance of these restrictions, or Declarant in establishing the Committee, shall be grounds for any liability whatsoever against the Committee or Declarant by any Owner, such Owner's heirs, successors or assigns, or any third party. Nothing herein shall be construed as relieving any Owner, such Owner's heirs, successors or assigns from any obligation to comply with all applicable local, state and federal laws and regulations.

3. Building Restrictions.

A. Number of Residence Buildings. No more than (1) residence building may be erected on any Lot, however, a guest house conforming to the same architectural standards and of similar design to the main residence building is permitted.

B. Size of Residence. No residence erected on any Lot may contain less than 2,200 square feet for a one-story residence or less than 2,500 square feet for a two-story residence. The area of any residence shall be computed on the outside foundation of the first floor and the exterior dimensions of the second floor. In the case of a Cape Cod, the second floor area shall be computed from the outside dimension of the knee walls. Basement and garage area shall not be included in the computation. Any guest house constructed on a Lot shall not be required to meet the requirements of this subsection, however, the area of any such guest house shall not be included in the computation.

C. Garages. Except as provided herein, all garages shall be affixed to their respective residence building, shall have side or rear entry, and, except as otherwise provided in this subsection, shall have minimum inside dimensions of 23 feet by 32 feet so as to accommodate a minimum of two (2) automobiles. Detached garages are permissible but may not replace the required attached garage. Detached garages must conform to the same architectural standards as residence buildings and must be similar to the residence in design. In the event that a detached garage accommodating two (2) or more automobiles is constructed, the attached garage may be built so as to accommodate only two (2) automobiles. No garage doors may face or open toward the front of any Lot. In the case of corner Lots, the front of the Lot shall be considered the side of the Lot running along the residential building face with the longest dimension exclusive of the garage. All garage doors must face away from traffic traveling in the Subdivision, except where, in the discretion of the Committee, topographical conditions and/or aesthetic considerations prohibit such compliance.

D. Foundation. No exposed foundation may be constructed with cement or cinder block as the completed face. Exterior foundation surfaces must be brick, stone, stucco, wood, aluminum or vinyl siding, or any natural material.

E. Exposed Surfaces. No exposed surface may be constructed with unfinished masonry material (i.e., cement or cinder block) as the completed face. Exposed exterior walls must be brick, stone, stucco, wood, aluminum or vinyl siding, or any natural material or finished masonry products.

F. Roof Pitch. All residence buildings, guest houses, and garages (attached or otherwise) shall have a sloping roof with a pitch of 8 to 12.

G. Outbuildings. Outbuildings must conform to residence's architecture, including color and material. Outbuildings must be a minimum of 20 feet from the side property line or 30 feet from the rear property line.

H. Utilities. All electrical, television or telephone cables and any other utility lines and facilities which are to extend from outside a Lot to any residence or other structure located on the Lot or between structures on the Lot shall be placed underground.

I. Front Set Back. No building may be erected on any Lot, Lots or parts thereof nearer than 70 feet to the front of the Lot line, unless otherwise specified on plans which the Committee has approved pursuant to Section 2, above. The Committee may increase or decrease the required front set back if it deems, in its sole discretion, that topography and Lot configuration so require.

4. Construction and Maintenance.

A. Timing for Completion. Once construction on any structure on a Lot has commenced, it must be completed within eighteen (18) months of commencement.

B. Construction Debris. During construction, the Owner shall keep the Lot free from construction debris and shall not allow the burial of such debris on the Lot or its use as fill material at any location on the Lot.

C. Construction Mud and Damage. Each Owner shall keep such Owner's Lot and the streets providing access thereto free of accumulations of dirt, mud and debris, and shall be responsible for all repairs of damage to the swales, ditches, storm sewers and streets occasioned by work on or around the Lot by the Owner or the Owner's contractor, or their agents, representatives, subcontractors or employees. If the Owner shall fail to keep such Owner's Lot and the streets free of such accumulations, or shall fail to repair any damage to the swales, ditches, storm sewers and streets, then in addition to all other rights and remedies Declarant may have (including the right to specific performance), Declarant shall have the right to remove such dirt, mud and debris and repair all damage and shall charge the cost of such removal or repair to the Owner. Such costs shall be payable by the Owner upon demand and shall constitute an assessment, as set forth in Section 8, below, against the Lot.

D. Building Maintenance. Each Owner shall, at such Owner's sole cost and expense, maintain and keep the residence building and all other buildings or structures on the Lot in a state of good repair.

E. Building Casualties. If all or any portion of a residence on a Lot is damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty, the Owner shall promptly rebuild, repair or reconstruct such residence or raze the structure, remove all rubble and debris, fill in any basement areas or excavation areas with clean fill, and grade the Lot in accordance with any applicable improvement plans for the Subdivision or Lot.

F. Storm Sewer Maintenance on Lots. Each Owner shall maintain the ditches, storm sewers, culverts, water management areas and basins, swales and grading for the Lots owned by them in accordance with the improvement plans approved for the Subdivision.

5. Landscaping and Lot Appearance.

A. Lawns and Vegetation; Existing Trees. Lawns shall be kept properly trimmed at all times. No grains, underbrush, excessive weeds or other unsightly vegetation shall be permitted to grow or remain on any Lot or in any ditches in whole or in part on a Lot or in the street right-of-way in front of any Lot. All grass on any unbuilt lot must be kept at a maximum height of twelve (12) inches. Vegetables may be grown on a lot, provided they are not grown for commercial purposes and provided they are restricted to an area which is situated to the rear of the Lot and is at least 20 feet from any Lot line.

All plans for the clearing of a Lot which include removal of any tree with a trunk diameter greater than five (5) inches must be approved by the Committee prior to commencement of work.

B. Timing of Landscaping. All landscaping must be completed within one (1) year of the occupancy of the residence, including the replacement of any landscaping that does not survive initial and subsequent plantings.

C. Fences. No freestanding fences, solid or living, may be erected, placed, or permitted on any Lot from the street to the front building line, provided, however, that an entrance gate, the design and construction material of which must be approved by the Committee in writing, may be constructed. The annual and special assessments, together with interest, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, shall be a charge on the land and shall be a continuing lien on the Lot against which each assessment is made. Each assessment, together with interest, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, shall also be a personal obligation of the person or persons who are the titleholders to such Lot at the time the assessment falls due. Personal obligation for delinquent assessments shall not pass to successors in title unless expressly assumed by them, but the assessments shall continue as a charge on the Lot conveyed to the successor in title. Any assessments not paid within thirty (30) days after the date due shall bear interest at the rate of _____ percent (_____%) per annum and shall include costs and reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in collection. The Association will bring an action of law against the owner personally obligated to pay the same, or foreclose the lien against the Lot in accordance with the laws of the State of Ohio. No Owner may waive or otherwise escape liability for the assessments by non-use of the Easement Areas or abandonment of the Lot.

D. Commencement of Assessments. The Association's responsibility and obligation to collect assessments and maintain any Easement Areas shall commence as of the date of creation of the Association's governing body. Prior to such date, maintenance of any Easement Areas shall be the responsibility of Declarant.

E. Maintenance of Common Areas and Easement Areas. The Association shall provide for the maintenance and repair of all common areas, including without limitation the private road, and all Easement Areas, including without limitation the fire pond now or hereafter located on the Lot known as being proposed Sublot No. 22 (the "Fire Pond") and the entranceway(s) now or hereafter located on the Lot known as being proposed Sublot Nos. 31, 32, 16, and 46 (the "Entranceway"), each such Sublot being shown on Exhibit A attached hereto. In furtherance thereof, Declarant, for each Owner of a Lot within the Subdivision, hereby grants to the Association, its agents, employees, and contractors, such easements of access to all common areas and to the Fire Pond, Entranceway, and all other Easement Areas, as shall be required for the purpose of carrying out the maintenance and repair thereof. In consideration thereof, the Association hereby indemnifies, defends, and holds harmless Declarant, and the Owners of the Lots on which the Fire Pond, Entranceway, and any other Easement Areas, are or will be located, from all claims, actions, causes of action, liens, costs, expenses (including reasonable attorneys fees), and damages to persons or property caused by or growing out of the exercising of any of the rights granted under the aforesaid easements of access. In addition, to insure against the aforesaid risks the Association shall carry comprehensive general public liability insurance in such amounts as the Association shall reasonably determine, naming the Association, Declarant, and future owners of the Lots on which the Fire Pond, Entranceway, and other Easements Areas are or will be located, as insured parties thereunder. The Association shall provide proof of such insurance to the named insureds upon request.

F. Failure to Maintain Common Areas and Easement Areas. In the event the Association fails to make reasonable and necessary maintenance and repairs to any common area or Easement Area and to correct such failure within ten (10) days of receipt of notice of such failure, the Owners shall have the right to maintain and repair such common area or Easement Area and to recover the costs so incurred from the Association, and, in the event the Association shall fail to make such payment within sixty (60) days after written request therefor, from the Owners in proportion to each Owner's respective share of such costs determined in accordance with subsection 8. B., above. In addition, in the event the Association and the Owners fail to make reasonable and necessary maintenance or repairs to any common area or Easement Area, the City of _____ [city], after prior written notice upon the Association and the failure of the Association or the Owners to make such maintenance or repair within ten (10) days of receipt of said notice, shall have the right to perform such maintenance or repair at the expense of the Association and Owners. In furtherance thereof, Declarant, for each Owner of a Lot within the Subdivision, hereby grants to the City of _____ [city] and County of _____ [county], and their respective agents, employees, and contractors, such easements of access to all common areas, and to all Easement Areas, including without limitation the Fire Pond and Entranceway, as shall be required for the purpose of carrying out the maintenance and repair thereof. The City of _____ [city] shall have the right to assess the costs of such maintenance and repair against the Association, and, in the event the Association shall fail to make such payment within sixty (60) days after written request therefor, may collect such assessment from the Owners, provided however that each Owner shall be liable solely for such Owner's respective share of such assessment, which share shall be determined in the manner described in subsection 8. B., above.

9. Remedies. The remedies described in this Section 9. shall be in addition to any other remedies provided for in this Declaration.

A. Correction of Violations. Declarant shall provide written notice to any Owner whose Lot is in violation of this Declaration. The Owner shall have fifteen (15) days from receipt of written notice to take reasonable steps to correct the violation. If reasonable steps have not been taken toward the alleviation or termination of the violation within said fifteen (15) days, Declarant shall have the right, through agents and employees, to enter the Lot for the purpose of taking such steps as are necessary to abate and/or remove the violation. The Owner of the Lot in violation shall pay all costs incurred by Declarant in abating and/or removing the violation, including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses, within fifteen (15) days of receipt of an invoice for same from Declarant. Beginning on the sixteenth (16th) day after receipt of such invoice, the outstanding balance of the costs incurred shall accrue interest at the rate of _____ percent (_____) per annum until paid.

B. Lien. Declarant shall have a perpetual lien upon the Lots to secure, as to any specific Lot, the payment of assessments levied pursuant to Section 8., above and costs incurred by Declarant in maintaining any specific Lot, and such costs shall also be the personal responsibility of the Owner, other than Declarant (and the joint and several obligation of all parties comprising an owner, if applicable) as of the time the assessment or costs come due pursuant to subsections 8.A. and 9.A. respectively. If default in payment continues for a period of forty-five (45) days after the same shall become due and payable, Declarant shall have the right to declare the entire balance of such assessments or costs and any interest thereon to be immediately due and payable and may cause a "Notice of Lien" to be filed with the _____ [county] County Recorder. Such lien shall remain valid for ten (10) years from the time of filing thereof, unless extended or unless sooner released or satisfied in the manner provided by law or discharged by the final judgment or order of the court in an action brought to discharge such lien as hereinafter provided. In the event any such costs are not paid when due, the Declarant may, when and as often as such delinquencies occur, proceed by process of law to collect the amount then due by foreclosure of the above described lien or otherwise, and in such event shall also be entitled to recover and enforce against each Lot a lien for its costs and expenses, including attorneys' fees.

C. Priority of Declarant's Lien. The lien of Declarant may be foreclosed in the same manner as a mortgage on real property in an action brought by Declarant. In any such foreclosure action, Declarant shall be entitled to become a purchaser at the foreclosure sale. Sale or transfer of any Lot shall not affect the Declarant's lien; provided, however, that the sale or transfer of any Lot pursuant to foreclosure of a first mortgage shall, to the extent provided by laws as to liens, extinguish the lien of Declarant as to payments which became due prior to such sale or transfer. No sale or transfer shall relieve such Lot from liability for any costs thereafter becoming due or from the lien thereof.

D. Court Enforcement. Declarant shall have the right to have any breach of the covenants and restrictions contained herein enjoined by order of any court having jurisdiction and the right of specific performance with respect to the provisions of each such covenant or restriction.

10. Amendment. This Declaration may be amended only as follows:

A. Addition or Deletion of Real Property. So long as Declarant owns at least (1) Lot in the Subdivision, this Declaration may be amended by an instrument in writing signed by Declarant for the purpose of adding real property to the Subdivision, which shall then be subjected to the provisions of this Declaration, or deleting real property from the Subdivision, which shall then not be subjected to the provisions of this Declaration.

B. Amendment by Declarant. So long as Declarant owns at least one (1) Lot in the Subdivision, Declarant reserves the right to add to, modify or waive any or all of the covenants or restrictions set forth herein as to any individual Lot or as to all Lots, as Declarant, in its sole discretion, deems advisable.

C. Other Amendments and Termination. Provided Declarant does not own any Lot in the Subdivision, this Declaration may be amended or terminated for any reason by written instrument signed by Owners owning, in the aggregate, at least two-thirds (2/3) of the Lots in the Subdivision.

D. Amendment Regarding Duties of Association. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Section 10, no amendment to this Declaration shall materially affect the provisions of subsection 8.F. unless such amendment shall be submitted to and approved by the City of _____ [city] and County of _____ [county].

Any amendment shall become effective from and after the date of filing with the _____ [county] County Recorder an instrument stating the amendment and signed with the formalities required by law for recording by either (i) Declarant, in the case of amendment pursuant to subsection 10.A. or 10.B., or (ii) the requisite number of Owners in the case of amendment pursuant to subsection 10.C.

11. Exclusion of Sublot No. 8. Notwithstanding any provision contained herein, this Declaration shall not apply to the Lot known as being proposed Sublot No. 8 in ABC Homestead-Phase I Subdivision, as shown on Exhibit A, attached hereto, and said Lot shall be excluded from all covenants, restrictions, obligations, easements, reservations, conditions, limitations, agreements, charges and liens set forth herein.

12. Miscellaneous Provisions.

A. No Waiver. No covenant, restriction, condition, obligation or provision contained herein shall be deemed to have been abrogated or waived by reason of any failure to enforce the same, regardless of the number of violations or breaches which may occur.

B. Lot Division. Except for Lots owned by Declarant, no Lot shall be further divided, nor shall any portion less than the whole Lot be conveyed, either voluntarily or involuntarily, without prior approval of Declarant.

C. Severability. Invalidation of any one of these covenants or restrictions by judgment or court order shall in no way affect any other provisions, which shall remain in full force and effect.

D. Application of Zoning Code. In the event that the local zoning code or other governmental regulation is more restrictive than this Declaration with regard to matters addressed herein, the local zoning code or applicable regulation shall control; otherwise the provisions of this Declaration shall control.

E. Covenants Binding on Owners. The covenants, rights, terms, reservations, limitations, agreements and restrictions contained in this Declaration shall be deemed to be covenants running with the Subdivision and each Lot therein, and not conditions, and shall bind Declarant and all Owners, their respective heirs, successors and assigns. This Declaration shall create privity of contract and/or estate with and among all Owners of any part of the Subdivision and/or any Lot therein, their heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns. It is understood and agreed that the covenants, rights, terms, reservations, limitations, agreements and restrictions herein are part of a uniform plan of development for the Subdivision as a whole, and the recording of this Declaration shall be constructive notice to any present or future Owner or Owners of any interest in the Subdivision and/or any Lot therein of the terms of this Declaration, whether or not specific reference is made in the deed or instrument of transfer to such Owner or Owners. By the acceptance of a deed or other instrument of conveyance, the Owner accepting such instrument automatically thereby consents to and approves of this Declaration and agrees to be bound by its provisions.

F. Duration. This Declaration and the covenants and restrictions set forth herein shall remain binding from the date of the filing of this Declaration for record in the _____ [county] County Recorder's office and for fifty (50) years thereafter, subject to termination pursuant to Section 10.C., above, and shall automatically extended for successive five (5) year periods thereafter unless on or before expiration of any one (1) such extension period the owners of a majority of the Lots shall by written instrument, duly recorded, declare a termination of the same.

G. Notice. Any notice to be delivered to an Owner hereunder shall be deemed received when mailed, postage prepaid, to the last address of such Owner as such address appears on the records of the _____ [county] County Auditor.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Declarant has executed this Declaration of Covenants and Restrictions as of the date first above written.

FORM 20.80 Disclosure statement prospectus--public report

COMMENT

The offering of time share units is highly regulated. Each state has very specific requirements that a developer must address and comply with in order to make a lawful offering. The offering of a time share unit is also similar to that of the offer to sell a security or franchise. It requires complete disclosure of all relevant facts. The Disclosure Statement is extremely detailed. It typically must be submitted and approved by the applicable state department before the offering can be made. Most states will require information that generally describes the project and requires disclosure of all of the relationships of the developer, the manager, the selling agent and owner of the resort.

The typical Disclosure Statement starts out with numerous conspicuous disclaimers that are required by statute. The Disclosure Statement then should include the following, in addition to any other disclosures required by the jurisdiction where the project is located or offered:

- A general discussion of what a time share interest is and how the interest will be owned.
- A detailed description of the project including the type of units underlying resort facilities (i.e., golf course, pool, etc.), location and phases of the project.
- A statement disclosing various options and upgrades which the buyer may purchase. Most of the upgrades relate to becoming a member of a club which provides access to use other facilities or stay at other time share projects of the developer.

- There should be a disclosure of what utilities are available (i.e., gas, electric, water, cable, computer access, telephone, etc.).
- A discussion of the common area surrounding the project.
- A discussion of the local community.
- Various legal disclosures such as title matters, type of deed and real estates (i.e., restricting easements).
- A disclosure of the various legal and contractual relationships, such as, management company, title company, escrow company, developer and resort owner.
- A discussion of the unit owners association.
- There will typically be a significant amount of disclosure regarding financial pro forma projects and operating budgets.

The following public report was prepared in accordance with Arizona law. The preparation of a disclosure statement requires a significant amount of consideration on the part of the practitioner. In the preparation of a disclosure statement, it is absolutely critical that the practitioner be familiar with the details of the project and with the legal requirements of the jurisdictions where the project is located and where the interests are being sold.

GENERAL

This report includes:

One Hundred (100) units. Eighty-three (83) units in Phases 1, 2 and 3 divided into 52 timeshare intervals per unit, totaling 4316 intervals. Seventeen (17) units in Phase 3 (buildings 10, 11 and 12) are divided into 529,000 Rights per unit equivalent to 52 weeks of use resulting in 8,464,000 Rights total for the 16 units.

The Project Map for this development:

This is an undivided interest project. There is no subdivision or condominium plat. However the Site Plan, attached to the Declaration, recorded in Book _____, Page _____, records of _____ County, State of Arizona, identifies the location and numbering of the units. Phases 1, 2 and 3 of the development include 100 units all of which are completed.

The Project:

As provided for in the Declaration of Dedication as Sunset Resort, a Timeshare Resort ("Declaration"), Phases 1, 2 and 3 of the property are improved with structures described as follows: 18 one- and two-story buildings containing one hundred (100), identical 1260 sq. feet, 2 bedroom, 2 bathroom living units. A clubhouse and a pool house, which together total 6,800 square feet, house check-in desk, lounge area, fitness center, game room, and laundry facilities. A sales center, constituting Building 18, is part of Phase 3, but is controlled and used exclusively by the Developer. If Phases 4 and 5 are annexed and developed, buildings containing 132 units would be added. Developer is not obligated to annex or develop Phases 4 or 5.

TIME-SHARE USE

Sales:

Annual or Biennial Interval Ownership Interest: Will be evidenced by a deed conveying an interval in fee title for perpetuity and an undivided fractional ownership in all of the common elements and common areas that are a part of the project.

Flex Interval Ownership Interest (Rights): Will be evidenced by a deed conveying an undivided fractional interest in perpetuity in a unit or group of units and an undivided fractional ownership in all of the common elements and common areas that are a part of the project.

Both Interval Interests and Flex Interval Ownership Interests are allocated to "Units" only for convenience and inventory control purposes; all ownership interest in this project consist of undivided interests in all the Property subject to the Declaration. The offering is for variable unit, variable time. Although the Declaration includes the ability to offer fixed units and/or fixed weeks, the Developer has not offered such fixed units or weeks for sale.

Lock-outs:

Each of the units may be divided into a "Master Suite" of approximately 960 square feet, containing one-bedroom, one-bath, living-dining area and full kitchen; and a "Privacy Suite" of approximately 500 square feet containing bedroom/sitting room, one bathroom and wet bar area.

Maintenance Period:

Maintenance times occur throughout the use year, during times of non-occupancy of the unit. The Association may reserve up to a total of seven (7) days and nights in each calendar year for maintenance.

PROJECT LOCATION

The Project:

Is located in the western portion of _____, Arizona, an incorporated area approximately _____ miles _____ of Phoenix, Arizona. [insert directions from Phoenix].

Existing and Proposed Land Uses Adjacent to the Project: [describe existing land]

NARRATIVE OF OFFERING

Phases 1 and 2 are comprised of _____ acres, containing a clubhouse, pool house, 2 pools, 2 spas and 60 two-bedroom units in buildings 1 through 9 and was completed in 1997. Phase 3 is comprised of approximately 10 acres, on which Developer has built a sales center, deluxe spa and water feature and 40 units allocated among six (6) two-story buildings and three (3) one-story buildings, numbered buildings 10 through 17 and building 19, together, with related driveways, parking spaces, landscaped areas and three barbecues.

This offering covers any residual inventory in Phases 1 and 2. [insert addresses]. All of the buildings are complete and have received their Certificates of Occupancy. The developer should supply purchaser with a list of the furnishings for each unit. Purchasers are advised to satisfy themselves as to the quality and quantity of the furnishings.

Expansion of the resort for Phase 3 was permitted under a development agreement with the City of _____ [city] that places a taxation requirement upon purchasers of intervals in Phase 3 only of _____ Dollars ($ _____) per interval week per year for a 2-bedroom, annual interest (with proportional equivalents for other interests). Based upon the consumer price index, this tax will be reviewed annually, but in no event may the tax be increased more than _____ percent (_____ %) per year. To account for this tax, Phase 3 maintenance fees will be higher than the rest of the resort by the exact amount of the tax (with proportional equivalents for other interests).

The Declaration reserves the Developer's ownership and control over a building (Building 18) in Phase 3 to be used for sales functions for the entire project.

Additional Information for Flex Interval Owners:

To provide purchasers with a greater variety in the amount of accommodation use they buy, or which they may add from time to time, Sunset Resort uses a Flex Interval Ownership form of undivided interest structure for units located in Buildings 10, 11 and 12. These units are divided into 529,000 Rights per unit. Rights are the medium of exchange with which an Owner reserves accommodations. A table explaining the number of Rights required to reserve various days and seasons is included in the project's Rules and Regulations.

Flex Interval Owners may participate in Club Sunshine, an international points-based exchange program. Under the Club Sunshine program, purchasers retain their deeded interest in the undivided interest regime. They assign their Rights to Club Sunshine and receive an assigned number of "Options." "Options" work similarly to the owner's Rights, but with "Options" the purchasers ultimately may decide to "spend" all of their "Options" at Sunset Resort or may use all or a portion of their "Options" in exchange for accommodations at other resorts participating in the Club Sunshine exchange program.

TITLE AND ENCUMBRANCES

Title to the property is vested in Sunshine Development, LLC

Developers Interest is evidenced by fee title.

Conditions to Title as noted in exhibit "A" attached. YOU SHOULD INVESTIGATE AND SATISFY YOURSELF AS TO WHAT EFFECT, IF ANY, THESE MATTERS MAY HAVE ON THE USE OF THE LAND. Each timeshare interest will be conveyed to purchasers free and clear of all liens, encumbrances, defects or judgments, but subject to the following matters affecting title: the Declaration and its amendments; any deed of trust placed upon the timeshare interest in connection with purchase-money financing; any taxes and assessments for the year of purchase and subsequent years; any restrictions, reservations, conditions, limitations; and any other matters of record prior to purchase or imposed by governmental authorities having jurisdiction or control over the subject property; and all visible and apparent easements on the ground.

MANAGEMENT AND EXCHANGE NETWORK

The Project: Maintenance of the common and recreational facilities is provided for in the Management Agreement between the owner's association and RIP Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the Developer. The cost of operation and maintaining these facilities is a part of each timeshare owner's common expense assessment.

Purchasers should be aware that next to assurance of right of ownership, occupancy and use, competent on-going management will be the most important element in the value and satisfaction obtained from any type of timeshare purchase. Close attention should be paid to the arrangement both to manage the property and to service residential units. Management of the timeshare project is under the direction and control of the association, which is managed by a board of directors elected by the members. The board, among other things, may employ an Agent to manage and control the timeshare project, subject at all times to the board's direction, and certain administrative functions and powers may be delegated to that Agent by the Board, among them: (a) to supervise the operation of and to maintain and repair the timeshare project; (b) to lease, purchase, maintain and/or replace furniture, fixtures and equipment; (c) to employ, supervise and dismiss personnel necessary to maintain and operate the timeshare project; (d) to contract with others for the furnishing of such services as it deems proper for the timeshare project; (e) to prepare a proposed budget and to schedule assessments and payment of all bills; (f) to purchase insurance as is specified in the Declaration; and (g) to maintain custody and control of funds and to maintain books and records and to prepare financial reports.

EXCHANGE NETWORKS-Club Sunshine and Interval Brokerage, Inc.

The resort is affiliated with Club Sunshine, Inc. ("Club Sunshine"), an exchange membership program. Club Sunshine members may exchange their use privileges in this project for comparable use privileges at certain other timeshare resorts. Club Sunshine members retain their deeded timeshare interest. Participation in Club Sunshine is voluntary and members may terminate their membership at any time, subject to any assignment of use rights and Club Sunshine reservations that may have been made prior to termination. To maintain their membership exchange rights in Club Sunshine, a member must pay an annual membership fee and other club dues and charges to Club Sunshine, but no other fees are generally required each time a reservation is made in another project in the program. Full details of the Club Sunshine membership exchange program are set forth in the Club Sunshine documents and materials which will be provided to the purchaser and which should be carefully reviewed before deciding whether to join Club Sunshine. Membership in Club Sunshine for Owners at the Project automatically includes membership in Interval Brokerage, Inc., ("IBI") whose address is _____. Accordingly, "Options" may also be exchanged for use of accommodations through the IBI exchange system.

If the existence of the Club Sunshine exchange program (including the related IBI exchange program) is a significant factor in your decision to purchase a timeshare interest in this project, you should carefully consider the following before you make your decision.

A. Club Sunshine membership exchange rights and the related IBI exchange rights will not be available until you elect to join Club Sunshine and enter into the Club Sunshine documents.

B. You have no assurance that Club Sunshine or IBI will be able to provide you with an accommodation that meets your needs and desires when you want it, or at any time.

C. You have no assurance that this project will still be affiliated with Club Sunshine or IBI when you desire to exercise exchange privileges.

D. The current affiliation agreement between the Developer and Club Sunshine (the "Club Sunshine Agreement") and the agreement between Sunshine Corporation and IBI which provides for Club Sunshine affiliation with IBI (the "IBI Agreement") are subject to termination upon various conditions. If the Club Sunshine Agreement is terminated, you as an individual owner will not be eligible to participate in the Club Sunshine exchange program. If the IBI Agreement is terminated, you as a member of Club Sunshine will not be eligible to participate in the IBI exchange program. Moreover, Club Sunshine can terminate the affiliation of this project if there is a breach of the Club Sunshine Agreement and IBI can terminate the IBI Agreement if there is a breach of the IBI Agreement.

E. Club Sunshine rules currently use a point system ("Options") to measure the value of accommodation in various resorts at various times and in different sizes and quality of units. This means that you will not be able to exchange your right to use for the same duration of right to use another unit that Club Sunshine rates higher than the interest that you own. This rating system is based upon the dwelling unit itself and the time of year and length of time that you are eligible to use it. For additional information concerning these and other restrictions on exchanges, you should obtain a fact sheet from the developer or from Club Sunshine.

BUDGETS AND ASSESSMENTS

Operating Costs:

A copy of the budget and the proposed annual maintenance fees is attached as Exhibit "B." It should be examined carefully to determine if it realistically and accurately projects current and future costs of managing and maintaining project properties. Annual maintenance fees are subject to periodic increase. Purchasers are advised that these maintenance fees and/or association fees probably will increase as experience has shown in the industry.

Payment of Operating Costs:

Will be paid by the Association through assessments.

Assessments:

Owners will be required to pay a yearly assessment according to Exhibit B attached hereto. Developer indicates the amount set forth in Exhibit B is adequate to support the operation based on estimated costs of operation.

Financial Arrangements:

Developer reports that the provisions of the Declaration are sufficient to guarantee the payment of assessments on unsold intervals. See Section 5.5 of the Declaration. In addition, Developer has entered into a Subsidy Agreement with Association which provides for the payment of Developer's appropriate share of the costs and expenses of the Association for the operation of the Property.

Other Assessments:

"Special Assessments" may be collected if the Basic Assessments are, or will become, inadequate to meet all expenses incurred by the Association.

"Personal Expenses" may be collected to cover any expense resulting from the act or omission of any Owner, or Permitted User, for one or more of the reasons permitted under the Declaration.

TAXESReal Property Taxes:

Developer reports that the time-share dwelling units will be taxed as follows: The association will be billed by the county tax commissioner, and a pro rata share of the property tax bill will be included as part of each owner's assessment.

Other Tax' Assessments:

May be levied by taxing authorities if deemed necessary.

INTERVAL OWNERS ASSOCIATIONSName of Association:

Sunset Resort Owners Association ("Association")

Control of Association:

As contained in Article 3.5 of the Declaration, control of the association can occur at the first annual or special meeting of the Association following termination of the Initial Board Term (upon sale of _____ percent (_____%)) of the maximum number of Interval Interests created by the Declaration). The board of directors shall be elected by all then eligible members of the Association, including the Developer, who holds weighted votes, pursuant to the election procedures set forth in the bylaws.

Title to Common Areas:

Developer reports that individual owner's ownership interest in the common areas has been dedicated. However, the Developer has retained ownership and control of the Sales Center Building (i.e., the improvements and an exclusive easement over the underlying land), as is defined in the Declaration recorded for the resort.

NOTE:

The Developer has not provided a specific date or conditions for which title to the Sales Center Building will be transferred to the Association, but the Developer must pay the Association additional remuneration if Developer retains ownership and control of the Sales Center Building for more than twenty (20) years.

Membership:

All purchasers will be required to be members of the Association. Membership will mean certain responsibilities and obligations, such as:

In order to provide funds for operation and maintenance of the common facilities, the Association will have authority to levy assessments against your percentage of interest in the property. If you are delinquent in the payment of assessments, the Association may enforce payment through court proceedings, or your interest in the project or ability to use or occupy the facilities, or participate in the management, may in other ways be in jeopardy.

The anticipated income and expense of the Association and the amount that you may expect to pay annually through assessments should be outlined in, and predicated upon, budgets. Ask to see a copy of the budget if the developer has not already made it available for your examination. Your ownership or interest rights as member of the association will be controlled by governing instruments, which include the Declaration, the articles of incorporation, bylaws and association rules and regulations. The provisions of these documents are intended to be, and in most cases are, enforceable in a court of law. Study these documents carefully before entering into a contract to purchase an interest.

Until there is a sufficient number of purchasers, it is likely that the developer will effectively control the affairs of the Association. It is frequently necessary and equitable that the developer does so during the early stages of development. It is important to interest owners that the transition from the developer to all the owners collectively be accomplished in an orderly manner.

When contemplating the purchase of a dwelling in a common-interest project, you should consider factors beyond the attractiveness of the dwelling units themselves. Study the governing instruments and give careful thoughts to whether you will be able to exist happily in an atmosphere of cooperative living where the interests of the group must be taken into account as well as the interest of the individual.

PAYMENTS TO INTERVAL OWNERS ASSOCIATIONS ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE IN ACCORDANCE WITH RECORDED RESTRICTIONS. SAID ASSOCIATION MAY ALSO IMPOSE SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS. YOU ARE ADVISED TO READ THE RECORDED DECLARATION OF COVENANTS, CONDITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS, ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION, AND BYLAWS FOR THIS DEVELOPMENT TO DETERMINE THE RIGHTS OF INTERVAL OWNERS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE CONTROL OF THE INTERVAL OWNERS' ASSOCIATION AND TO DETERMINE THE RIGHTS, DUTIES AND LIMITATIONS OF OWNERS IN AND TO USE OF THEIR INTERVAL WEEKS. FURTHER, YOU SHOULD DETERMINE FOR YOURSELF IF DEVELOPER'S ARRANGEMENTS AND PLANS FOR THE PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENTS ON UNSOLD INTERVAL WEEKS WILL BE SUFFICIENT TO FULFILL THE NEEDS, DEMANDS AND FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS OF THE ASSOCIATION, AS SET FORTH IN THE DECLARATION AND BYLAWS.

FORM 20.82 Declaration for time share project

COMMENT

As with any real estate project, such as a condominium or homeowners' association, in order to commence the project the real estate must be dedicated. Included with the dedication are rights, restrictions, conditions and limitations. The Declaration is intended to benefit the purchaser. Without the dedication, a purchaser of an interest in the land would be free to deal with his or her interest in any manner which they desire. By filing the Declaration, each purchaser purchases his or her interest subject to the terms and conditions of the Declaration and they are, therefore, bound by it. Time share declarations are subject to the same criteria as other real estate declarations (i.e., easement agreements, condominium declarations, etc.). They must be filed with the public record. As such, they are subject to the recording agreements of the local jurisdiction where the real estate is located. The content of the time share declaration must be disclosed to the buyer of the time of the purchase of the share, along with all other title conditions.

Furthermore, the Declarations are typically provided to the buyer, along with the Disclosure Statement. As a result, they will generally be reviewed by the governmental body which regulates time shares in the jurisdiction where the project is located. The terms of a declaration vary widely depending on the project, the requirements of the local jurisdiction and the nature of the real estate which is being dedicated. The following form is a typical Declaration for time share.

2. RESERVATION RIGHTS, USE RIGHTS AND USE RESTRICTIONS

2.1 Reservation and Use Rights of Annual or Biennial Interval Ownership Interval Owners. Subject to all of the terms and conditions contained elsewhere in this Declaration, an Annual or Biennial Interval Ownership Interval Owner shall have the right, for each Interval Week owned (and in the case of Declarant, during all periods not timely reserved by other Owners) to use and occupy, pursuant to the reservation procedures set forth in the Rules and Regulations, a Unit, and the Common Furnishings contained within such Unit, and the non-exclusive right to use and enjoy the Common Area for one Interval Week during such Owner's Use Year; provided, however, that such Owner shall have reserved such use and occupancy in accordance with the requirements and procedures for the making of reservations set forth in the Rules and Regulations. The timing and details of the reservation procedure are subject to change by the Board in the best interest of the Owners. No use or occupancy by any Annual or Biennial Interval Ownership Interest Owner or Flex Interval Ownership Interest Owner will be permitted if such Owner is delinquent in the payment of any amounts owed to the Association. If, because of an error by the Association or Managing Agent, a Unit is not available for the Use Period to which an Owner was entitled by a properly made reservation, the Owner shall receive a compensating use of the next available Use Period selected by the Owner, together with such monetary compensation, if any, as the Board may elect to make, either on a case by case basis, or by established policy and schedules.

2.2. Flex Plan. An Owner who owns a Flex Interval Ownership Interest shall have the right, every Use Year, to reserve, use and occupy an assigned Unit(s) within the Property (though not necessarily any Unit identified in their deed) to the extent the number of Rights allocated to such Owner in such Use Year does not exceed the number of Rights required to reserve the subject Unit(s) during the desired Use Period(s) as properly reserved in accordance with the Rules and Regulations. Declarant shall record an amendment or supplement to this Declaration identifying each Unit dedicated to Flex Interval Ownership, which Declarant may do without the vote or assent of other Owners. Each Unit of the Property dedicated to Flex Interval Ownership shall have a total Rights allocation as set forth in the following chart (i.e., the number of Rights it would take to reserve a particular Unit for 52 Intervals in any Use Year):

Unit	Total Rights Allocation
Privacy Suite	_____
	___ Rights
Master Suite	_____
	___ Rights
Total Unit	_____
	___ Rights

If the Total Rights Allocation table set forth above in this paragraph contains blanks and does not reflect the number of Rights allocated to a Privacy Suite, Master Suite, and total Unit, Declarant shall not offer for sale or sell any Flex Interval Ownership Interest in the Property before first executing and recording an amendment or supplement to this Declaration setting forth the number and allocations of Rights. Notwithstanding other provision herein to the contrary, Declarant may unilaterally add such amendment or supplement to this Declaration without the Vote or assent of the Owners.

The undivided interest of an Owner of a Flex Interval Ownership Interest shall be expressed in terms of a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of Rights associated with Flex Interval Ownership Interest, and the denominator of which is the total number of Rights allocated to the particular Unit (or group of Units). Each deed conveying a Flex Interval Ownership Interest shall also include a contract number assigned by the Developer. The contract number and Rights allocated must appear on all subsequent deeds, deeds of trust and other documents affecting the subject Flex Interval Ownership Interest. In the event an Owner desires to purchase an additional Flex Interval Ownership Interest, such purchase shall be evidenced by a separate deed, which shall include a separate designation of allocated Rights and a separate contract number, and in no event shall such subsequent purchase be consolidated with the purchaser's original or subsequent purchase; provided, however, that the foregoing restrictions shall not prohibit the Owner from combining his Rights for reservation or occupancy purposes. In the event the Declarant reacquires title to a Flex Interval Ownership Interest (whether by deed, foreclosure or otherwise), (a) the Rights allocated to such Flex Interval Interest shall be deemed reacquired by the Declarant and the Declarant shall be free to reallocate such Rights in its discretion in connection with the conveyance of another Flex Interval Interest, and (b) the contract number originally assigned to the Flex Interval Ownership Interest by Declarant shall cease to exist. A new contract number shall be assigned by the Declarant in connection with any subsequent sale of the Flex Interval Ownership Interest by the Declarant. All Flex Interval Ownership Interests in a Unit shall have been conveyed when the sum of the fractional undivided tenant-in-common fee interests allocated to such Unit equals the whole number one (1). A Flex Interval Ownership Interest shall be Floating unless the deed indicates that the Use Period, Unit or both, associated with such Flex Interval Ownership Interest is Fixed. The Use Period may be Fixed by Date or Event.

2.3. Service Periods. To the extent reasonably feasible, the Association shall perform required maintenance between periods of occupancy of Units. However, the Association may reserve up to a total of seven (7) days and nights (not necessarily consecutive) in each calendar year as Service Period(s) for each Unit. Upon sellout of a Unit, the Association shall use reasonable efforts to reserve Service Period(s) when such Unit will not be occupied (e.g., when an Owner exchanges his interest through an exchange company). To the extent possible, if a reserved Use Period conflicts with any required Service Period, the Managing Agent shall use reasonable efforts to move the reservation to an unoccupied Unit of the same type within the Property, or to a Unit which holds at least as many occupants, or, if no Units are then available, to alternate accommodations pursuant to paragraph 2.1 of this Declaration. The Association and its agents shall have free access to each Unit during its reserved or designated Service Period(s) for the purpose of effecting any necessary or appropriate maintenance, repair= modifications, alterations, replacements and additions to such Unit and to the Common Furnishings therein. The Service Period(s) for a particular Unit may vary from time to time in the Board's sole discretion and need not occur at the same time for each Unit. The Association shall use reasonable efforts to reserve Service Periods in Units so as to reasonably maximize the use and enjoyment thereof by Owners and reasonably minimize any scheduling problems under the reservation system established by the Rules and Regulations.

2.4. Occupancy. No Owner shall occupy a Unit or the Common Area or exercise any rights of ownership with respect to the Property during any time period other than his Use Period(s) unless expressly authorized by the Owner entitled to such use rights during such time period. Each Owner shall keep the Unit occupied by him and the Common Furnishings therein in good condition and repair during his Use Period(s), vacate the Unit at the expiration of his Use Period(s), remove all persons and property therefrom, excluding only the Common Furnishings, leaving the Unit and the Common Furnishings therein in good and sanitary condition and repair and otherwise comply with such check-out and other procedures and regulations as may from time to time be contained in the Rules and Regulations. Any Owner may permit a Unit which he is entitled to occupy to be occupied by other persons (not in excess of the number of occupants permitted by the Rules and Regulations) for the purposes permitted by this Declaration during his Use Period(s), but such Owner shall be responsible for any loss, damage, destruction or violation of this Declaration, the Bylaws, the Articles or the Rules and Regulations which occurs during such occupancy as if such Owner were occupying the Unit.

2.5. Holdover User. In the event any Owner or Permitted User occupying a Unit with or without the permission of an Owner fails to vacate a Unit at the expiration of its Use Period in accordance with the provisions hereof, or at such earlier time as may be fixed by the Rules and Regulations adopted by the Association from time to time, such Owner or Permitted User shall be deemed a "Holdover Owner." It shall be the responsibility of the Association or the Managing Agent, if so provided in the Management Agreement, to take all steps necessary to remove the Holdover Owner from a Unit and assist the person entitled to occupy the Unit during the subsequent Use Period to find alternative accommodations during such holdover period, but neither the Association nor the Managing Agent is liable for the acts of a Holdover Owner. In addition to other remedies available to it, the Association may assist any Owner or Permitted User entitled to occupy a Unit, and denied occupancy due to a Holdover Owner's failure to vacate, in seeking alternate accommodations. Such accommodations should be as comparable as possible to the Unit to which occupancy is denied. A Holdover Owner shall be responsible for the cost of such alternate accommodations, travel expenses incurred by the Owner or Permitted User if an alternate Unit is not available, and any other expense incurred due to the Holdover Owner's failure to vacate. In addition, a Holdover Owner shall be charged an administrative fee, as determined by the Board of not less than _____ Dollars ($_____) per day, for each day of the, holdover period. If the Association is required to contract for a period greater than the actual period of holding over in order to secure alternate accommodations as set forth above, the expense of the entire period shall be the responsibility of the Holdover Owner, although any daily administrative fee shall cease upon the day following that upon which the Holdover Owner vacates the Unit. The Association shall submit a bill to the Holdover Owner in accordance with this paragraph. In the event the Holdover Owner fails to pay the bill within ten (10) days of the bill's date, the Association shall have a lien against the Holdover Owner's Interval Interest, which may be enforced in accordance with the provisions hereof. The provisions of this paragraph shall not abridge the Association's right to take such other action(s) available to it at law or in equity, including, but not limited to, eviction proceedings.

2.6. Use Restrictions-Owners. Except for Units used by Declarant for sales, marketing or management purposes, a Unit shall be used solely for resort or vacation use. Except as required to prevent damage or injury to person or property in an emergency, no Owner shall: make or authorize any alterations, additions or improvements to the Property; repair, tile, paper or otherwise refinish or redecorate the inner surfaces of the walls, ceilings, floors, windows or doors bounding the Property; or remove, alter or replace any portion of the Common Furnishings; or use his Unit in any way which will interfere with, or unreasonably disturb the rights of the other Owners without the prior written consent of the Association. The right to perform all of the foregoing acts has been delegated to the Association by this Declaration. The foregoing prohibitions, however, shall not modify or affect the obligation of each Owner for the prudent care and ordinary maintenance and upkeep of all property subject to his use.

2.7. Easement for Sales, Customer Service and Related Purposes. Declarant, on behalf of itself, its successors and assigns, and its and their respective agents, employees, contractors, subcontractors, invitees and other authorized personnel, reserves, for an initial period of twenty (20) years from the date of the sale of the first Interval Interest, a non-exclusive easement, in, over and through the Units and the Common Area, for the purpose of: (1) marketing and selling the Intervals and any other travel or vacation products offered by Declarant or any of its affiliates; (2) maintaining customer relations and providing post-sale service to Owners; (3) displaying signs and erecting, maintaining and operating, for sales and administrative purposes, model Units and customer relations, customer service and sales office complex(es) on the Property; (4) showing the Units and Common Area; and (5) arranging for the use of any recreational facilities within the Common Area by prospective purchasers. The use of such easement shall not materially interfere with or unreasonably diminish the rights of Owner(s) to use and occupy Units and Common Area amenities in accordance with this Declaration and the Rules and Regulations. Upon expiration of the initial 20-year term of this easement, Declarant's easement shall automatically be extended for so-long as Declarant: (i) pays the Association an annual extension fee of _____ Dollars ($_____) (against which Declarant shall receive a credit equal to _____ percent (_____%)) of all Assessments paid by Declarant the previous twelve [12] months) on or before January 31 of each year (commencing with the year following expiration of the initial 20-year term); (ii) paying the Association on or before January 31 of each year (commencing with the year following expiration of the initial 20-year term) the fair rental value (to be determined by a licensed real estate broker practicing in Sedona, Arizona, and not affiliated with or representing Declarant or the Association) of any building or improvement (or space within any building or improvement) controlled or occupied by Declarant on the Property; and (iii) paying the Association, within thirty (30) days of written request by the Association, all operating costs, utilities cost, and taxes and assessments for such building or improvement (to be prorated in an equitable manner if not separately billed or assessed).

2.8. Use of Units by Declarant. Declarant shall have the right, with respect to all unsold Interval Interests owned by Declarant, to reserve any Unit for use by Declarant or for use and occupancy by prospective purchasers of Interval Interests who have been brought to the Property as a result of the promotional efforts of the Declarant (the "Promotional Program") or for use and occupancy by members of the public for hotel use or other transient accommodations. Declarant may make such reservations in the same manner as reservations made by other Owners and consistent with the established Rules and Regulations for use and occupancy of the Property. The Declarant shall reimburse the Association for expenses incurred by and allocated to the Association in connection with the Promotional Program or such hotel use or other transient accommodations to the extent such expenses are not included in the Basic Expenses used by the Association in calculating Assessments. Declarant may use any Unit not registered for sale as part of the Interval Interest Program with the Arizona Department of Real Estate or other applicable regulatory agency for any lawful purpose, including without limitation for models, offices, sales, or administrative purposes, whether related to the Property or not.

2.9. Declarant Control and Use of Sales Center and other Declarant Buildings. Declarant has or intends to construct a sales center on Phase 3 of the Property. Declarant may also construct one or more maintenance buildings, service buildings, additional or replacement sales centers, or other buildings (the "Declarant Buildings"). Declarant hereby reserves and retains all right, title, interest, and control in, to, and over the improvements of the Phase 3 sales center and other Declarant Buildings, together with an exclusive easement over, under, and upon the land underlying the Declarant Buildings and non-exclusive easements, in bulk, over all the Property, for construction, repair, maintenance of the Declarant Buildings, vehicular and pedestrian ingress and egress to and from the Declarant Buildings, public and private utility lines providing service to the Declarant Buildings (and the construction, repair, and maintenance of such lines), and for parking. Declarant's ownership and control of the Declarant Buildings, and the exclusive and non-exclusive easements, shall run for a period of twenty (20) years from the date the certificate of occupancy or other final construction inspection approval is issued for the particular Declarant Building. During such 20-year period the particular Declarant Building shall not be part of the Common Area, shall be maintained by Declarant rather than the Association, and Declarant shall pay all operating costs, utilities, taxes and assessments relating to such Declarant Building, either directly, by prompt reimbursement of the Association, or through any other fair and reasonable payment or subsidy arrangement with the Association. Upon expiration of said 20-year period for any particular Declarant Building, the Declarant Building shall revert to the Owners in undivided interests, with the same fractional ownership as the Owners' interest in the other Common Areas, provided, however, Declarant may continue to use and occupy the Declarant Building and extend the exclusive and non-exclusive easement reserved by this paragraph by paying the annual fee, rental, and other charges set forth in paragraph 2.7 above. Declarant may use, discontinue the use, or modify the use of any Declarant Building at Declarant's sole discretion, and may elect to terminate use of any Declarant Building and transfer the ownership and control of a Declarant Building to the Owners and the Association at any time, including any time prior to expiration of the initial 20-year easement period established under this paragraph. If Declarant elects to let any Declarant Building revert to or be transferred to use and occupancy by the Association, Declarant shall surrender such Declarant Building broom clean, in reasonably good condition, ordinary wear and tear excepted.

2.10. Additional Amenities in New Phases. To preserve the Owners use and enjoyment of the amenities of the Common Area, Declarant will provide additional amenities in each new phase of the Property. Declarant has or will provide, as part of the Common Area in Phase 3, a large spa and water feature, and will expand the existing laundry and exercise facilities in Phases 1 and 2 to accommodate additional demand from expansion of the Property. If Developer builds out Phases 4 and/or 5, Phase 4 will include a swimming pool and a spa, and Phase 5 will include a swimming pool and a spa.

2.11. Declarant's Right to Modify Site Plan. Declarant is under no obligation to complete any or all of the planned Units or other improvements of Phases 3, 4, or 5 beyond those registered at any time with the Arizona Department of Real Estate as part of the Interval Interest Ownership Plan. Declarant will complete the additional amenities set forth in the previous paragraph of this Declaration, if, but only if, Declarant builds some or all of the Units in the respective Phases for which the additional amenities have been promised. The location, configuration, and other details regarding the amenities may be modified in Declarant's sole and absolute discretion. Declarant may also add, delete, modify, or otherwise change all other particulars of the Site Plan for un-built portions of the Property, including without limitation, the number, size, location, configuration, appearance, floor plans, and elevations of the Units and the location, configuration and appearance of driveways, sidewalks, landscape areas, parking areas and other portions of the Common Area, subject only to compliance with applicable laws and ordinances and public approval processes.

2.12. Separate Mortgages. Each Owner shall have the right to mortgage or otherwise encumber all, but not less than all, of his Interval Interest. Any mortgage encumbering an Interval Interest shall be subordinate to all of the provisions of this Declaration, and in the event of foreclosure, the provisions of this Declaration, shall be binding upon any Owner whose title is derived through foreclosure by private power of sale, judicial foreclosure, assignment in lieu of foreclosure or otherwise. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration, no breach of the provisions herein contained, nor the enforcement of any lien created pursuant to the provisions hereof shall defeat or render invalid the lien of any mortgage of any Owner's Interval Interest if such mortgage is recorded in the Office of the County Recorder of _____ County, Arizona, and is given in good faith and for value.

2.13. Transfer of Interest. No Owner shall sell, convey, hypothecate or encumber less than all of his Interval Interest. Any sale, conveyance, hypothecation or encumbrance by any Owner of less than all of his Interval Interest, shall be null, void and of no effect. The transfer of any Interval Interest shall operate to transfer to the new owner of the Interval Interest the interest of the prior Owner in all funds in the hands of the Association even though not expressly mentioned or described in the instrument of transfer and without further instrument of transfer.

2.14. Waiver of Right of Partition and Subordination of Tenancy-In-Common Attributes.

2.14.1. It is intended that this Declaration shall govern all rights with respect to the use, possession, enjoyment, management and disposition of the Interval Interests. Accordingly, all rights with respect to the use, possession, enjoyment, management or disposition of an Interval Interest which an Owner might otherwise have as a tenant-in-common (including, but not limited to, any common law or statutory right jointly to use, possess or manage commonly owned property) are hereby unconditionally and irrevocably waived and subordinated to this Declaration for so long as this Declaration shall remain in effect.

2.14.2. Except as provided in Subparagraph 2.14.1 above and paragraph 8.3 below, every Owner or other person or entity acquiring any right, lien or interest in any of the Property, hereby waives any and all right as a concurrent owner to any common law or statutory right of partition and no such party shall seek or obtain, through any legal procedures, judicial partition of the Property or the sale thereof in lieu of partition. If, however, any Interval Interest is owned by two or more persons as tenants-in-common, joint tenants or community property, nothing herein contained shall prohibit a judicial sale of the Interval Interest in lieu of partition as between such co-tenants.

2.15. Protection of Interest. Except as provided in paragraph 2.14.2 above, no Owner shall permit his Interval Interest to be subject to any lien (other than the liens of current real property taxes), claim or charge, the enforcement of which may result in a sale or threatened sale of the Interval Interest of any other Owner or any part thereof or result in any interference in the use or enjoyment thereof by any other Owner. In the event of a threatened sale of the Interval Interest of any Owner or any part thereof, or should the use and enjoyment of any portion thereof by any Interval Owner be threatened by reason of any lien, claim or charge against the Interval Interest of any other Owner, or should proceedings be instituted to effect any such sale or interference, any Owner acting on his behalf or through the Association or the Association acting on behalf of any one or more Owners (if promptly indemnified to his or its satisfaction) may, but shall not be required to, pay or compromise the lien, claim or charge without inquiry into the proper amount or validity thereof and, in such event, the Owner whose interest was subjected to such lien, claim or charge shall forthwith pay the amount so paid or expended to Owner or the Association, whomsoever shall have paid or compromised the lien, claim or charge, together with such reasonable attorneys' fees and related costs as he or it may have incurred. No Owner shall permit his interest in any funds from time to time in possession of the Association to be subjected to any attachment, lien, claim or charge or other legal process and each Owner shall promptly restore any funds held by the Association in respect of his Interval Interest to the extent depleted by the reason of the assertion of any such attachment, lien, claim, charge or process and shall reimburse the Association for all reasonable attorneys' fees or other costs incurred in respect thereof.

2.16. Easement for Maintenance and Project Use. The Association, for itself, its successors and assigns, and its and their agents, employees, contractors, subcontractors, and other authorized personnel, shall have the right and is hereby granted, for so long as the Association or its successors and assigns shall be required hereunder to manage and maintain the Property, an exclusive easement in gross in, over and through the Property for the repair and maintenance of the Units, the Common Area and the Common Furnishings during Service Periods; provided, however, that use of such easement shall not unreasonably interfere with or diminish the rights of Owners, Permitted Users, or Declarant to occupy the-Units and the Common Area, and to use the Common Furnishings.

2.17. Owner's Easement. Basic Expenses shall not include any expenses constituting Personal Expenses. Basic Expenses shall not include any operating cost, utilities cost, or taxes and assessments paid by Declarant under paragraphs 2.7 or 2.9 above. Subsequent annual Basic Assessments shall be due and payable on January 1 of each year. No Owner may waive or otherwise avoid liability for the Basic Assessments by non-use of his Interval Interest or any part thereof or any abandonment thereof. "Proportionate Share" for Owners of an Annual Full Interval Ownership Interest shall be determined by dividing the total Basic Expenses attributable to such Fiscal Year by (a) fifty-two (52) times (b) the number of Units included in the Property (the "Annual Interval Assessment"). 5.3. Special Assessments. If the Basic Assessments are, or will become, inadequate to meet all expenses incurred by the Association hereunder (other than for items constituting Personal Expenses) for any reason, including non-payment by any Owner of its Proportionate Share of the Basic Assessments on a current basis, the Association shall immediately determine the approximate amount of such inadequacy, prepare and distribute a supplemental budget and levy a special assessment (the "Special Assessment") in an amount sufficient to provide for such inadequacy; provided, however, that without the vote or written assent of a majority of the voting power of the Association residing in members other than the Declarant, Special Assessments shall not, in the aggregate, exceed: (1) _____ percent (_____%) of Basic Expenses for the applicable Fiscal Year, or (2) for a Special Assessment for repair or rebuilding of Unit(s), _____ percent (_____%) of the Basic Expenses. Any Special Assessment shall be payable in one lump sum or periodically, as determined by the Association, and shall be payable within fifteen (15) days after receipt of a statement therefor. The amount of Special Assessments payable by an Owner shall be based upon the Owner's Proportionate Share.

5.4. Personal Expenses. Each Owner of any Interval Interest, by acceptance of a deed for an Interval Interest and by virtue of such ownership, is deemed to covenant and agree to pay all Personal Expenses. The term "Personal Expenses" mean's any expense resulting from the act or omission of any Owner, or Permitted User, including, without limitation: the cost of long-distance telephone charges or telephone message unit charges, any optional maid service and other special services or supplies attributable to the occupancy of the Unit during such Owner's Use Period; the cost to repair any damage to the Unit, to repair or replace any Common Furnishings located therein or within the Common Area on account of loss or damage occurring during such Owner's Use Period; the cost to satisfy any expenses to any other Owner(s) or to the Association due to any intentional or negligent act or omission of such Owner, or a Permitted User relating to, and any expenses necessary to reimburse the Association for costs incurred in bringing the Owner into compliance with the provisions of this Declaration, the Bylaws or the Rules and Regulations, specifically including, but not limited to, charges pursuant to paragraphs 2.5 and 5.8 of this Declaration.

5.5. Purpose of Assessments. Assessments shall be used exclusively to promote the recreation, health, safety and welfare of the Owners, to operate, maintain and improve the Property, and to pay for the administration of the Interval Ownership Plan and reimbursement of expenses incurred by the Association and other expenditures incurred in the performance of the duties of the Association as set forth in this Declaration.

5.6 Declarant's Exemption. The Declarant shall not be required to pay any Basic Assessments or Special Assessments for any Interval Interest owned by the Declarant within the Property. However, for so long as Declarant elects not to pay Assessments and Special Assessments, the Declarant shall subsidize the Association by paying the lesser of: (a) the amount necessary to make up any short-fall between budgeted Association expenses and actual income received from other Owners based on the Basic Assessments and the Special Assessments; or (b) the amount which would otherwise be payable as individual Owner's Basic Assessments and Special Assessments for the Interval Interests owned by the Declarant.

5.7 Increased or Decreased Expenses Due to Annexation of Additional Property. In the event of annexation of all or any portion of the Additional Property pursuant to Article 7, the Board shall, not later than sixty (60) days following the date of such annexation (the "Annexation Date"), cause to be prepared a supplemental budget showing any increase or decrease in the Basic Expenses for the applicable Fiscal Year, prorated for the remainder of the Fiscal Year from the Annexation Date, multiplied by the fraction (i) the numerator of which is the total number of Units subject to this Declaration immediately following the Annexation Date and (ii) the denominator of which is the total number of Units subject to this Declaration on the date immediately prior to the Annexation Date; provided, however, that no increase in the Proportionate Share of Basic Assessments due to annexation of all or any portion of the Additional Property shall exceed _____ percent (_____%) of the Proportionate Share of Basic Assessments for the preceding Fiscal Year unless a majority of the members of the Association, excluding Declarant, shall consent thereto by vote or written assent.

5.8 Unpaid Association Assessments. All Association Assessments, including Basic Assessments, Special Assessments and Personal Expenses, which remain unpaid for a period of ten (10) days after the due date shall bear interest at the rate of _____ percent (_____ %) per annum from the due date until paid. The Basic Assessments, Special Assessments and Personal Expenses, together with interests, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees shall be a lien on the Interval Interest and all tangible personal property owned by the Owner and located in a Unit, and such lien shall be deemed effected upon the filing in the office of the Recorder of _____ [county] County, Arizona, of a notice of claim of lien, in such form as the Association may deem appropriate. The Basic Assessments, Special Assessments and Personal Expenses shall also be the personal obligation of the Owner of such Interval Interest at the time such assessments were levied. The lien may be foreclosed by appropriate action in court or in the manner provided by law with respect to the exercise of powers of sale in deeds of trust or in any other manner provided by law. The Association shall be entitled to bid at any sale held pursuant to foreclosure of such lien, and to apply as a cash credit against its bid all sums due as provided herein and covered by the lien to be enforced. The lien against an Owner shall be limited to the Interval Interest owned by that Owner and shall not encumber the property, real or personal, of any other Owner. No use or occupancy by any Owner will be permitted if such Owner is delinquent in the payment of any Assessments.

5.9 Subordination of Lien. The lien provided for in Section 5.8 above shall be subordinate to the lien of any first mortgage made in good faith and for value, and recorded in the office of the Recorder for _____ [county] County, Arizona, prior to the recordation of a notice of claim of lien hereunder ("Prior Mortgage"). The sale or transfer of any Interval Interest shall not defeat or affect the assessment lien provided for herein; provided, however, that the sale or transfer of any Interval Interest which is subject to any Prior Mortgage pursuant to a foreclosure or any proceeding or deed in lieu of foreclosure under such Prior Mortgage shall extinguish the lien provided for herein as to payments which became due prior to such sale or transfer. No such sale or transfer shall relieve any Owner from liability for any assessment(s) thereafter becoming due or from the lien thereof. No breach of the covenants, conditions or restrictions contained herein nor the enforcement of any lien provisions herein shall affect, impair, defeat or render invalid the lien or charge of any mortgage made in good faith and for value encumbering any Interval Interest, but all of said covenants, conditions and restrictions shall be binding upon and effective against any Owner whose title is derived through foreclosure or a trustee's sale or otherwise, with respect to an Interval Interest. It is intended that any loan to facilitate the resale of any Interval Interest after judicial foreclosure, deed in lieu of foreclosure or trustee's sale is a loan made in good faith and for value and entitled to all the rights and protections afforded to other mortgagees. Nothing in this section shall be construed to release any Owner from his personal obligation to pay the Assessments levied pursuant to this Declaration.

5.10. Adjusted Assessments for Owners of Large Fractions. If the Board or the Managing Agent reasonably determines that Basic Expenses or Reserve Expenses are higher or lower for Large Fractions or Whole Units (as a result of items such as owner-provided furniture, owner-contracted outside management, reduced or increased turnover or occupancy, etc.), then the Managing Agent may recommend and the Board may adopt higher or lower Basic Assessments or Reserve Assessments for Large Fraction or Whole Unit Owners.

6. DAMAGE, DESTRUCTION, CONDEMNATION

6.1. In General. In the event of any damage or destruction, whether resulting from an insured casualty, uninsured casualty or a partial taking in eminent domain proceedings to the Property and/or the Common Furnishings other than by ordinary wear and tear, the Association shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph 6.2, forthwith cause such damage or destruction to be repaired and shall use any available insurance or condemnation proceeds for such purpose. If the damage is not covered by condemnation proceeds or by insurance proceeds, or if the available insurance or condemnation proceeds are insufficient, the Association shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph 6.2, levy a Special Assessment at a uniform rate against all Owners for the amount required to meet the cost of such repair or restoration. In the event the damage or destruction was caused by the intentional or negligent act or omission of an Owner or his Permitted User(s), the cost of such repair or the amount of such deficiency shall be a Personal Expense and paid by such Owner as provided in paragraph 5.4 above.

6.2. Extensive Damage or Destruction. In the event the amount of the Special Assessment which is required to be levied pursuant to paragraph 6.1 above is not so approved or if no action is taken with respect to such Special Assessment within one-hundred eighty (180) days following the date of such damage or destruction, such disapproval or inaction shall be deemed to be an election to terminate this Declaration in the manner provided for in paragraph 8.3, in which event this Declaration shall terminate pursuant to the recordation of an amendment stating that the Declaration has been terminated in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 8.2. The proceeds arising from such sale, together with any insurance proceeds or condemnation proceeds received as a result of such damage or destruction, shall be distributed by the Association to each Owner (subject to the rights of each Owner's mortgagee) in accordance with the undivided percentage interest in the Property owned by each Owner; provided, however, that there shall be deducted from the amount due any Owner the amount, if any, of all sums due to the Association from such Owner.

6.3. Excess Insurance Proceeds. Any excess insurance or condemnation proceeds over the cost of repair or restoration or any insurance or condemnation proceeds available in the event the Property or the Common Furnishings are not rebuilt, restored, repaired or replaced pursuant to the provisions of this Declaration, shall be distributed to the Owners (subject to the rights of such Owners' mortgagees) in accordance with the undivided percentage interest in the Property owned by each Owner, provided, however that there shall be deducted from the amount due any Owner, the amount, if any, of all sums due to the Association from such Owner.

Such notice shall specify the place, day and hour of the meeting, and, in the case of a special meeting, the purpose of the meeting.

Section 3.4 Quorum. The presence at the meeting of members entitled to cast, or of proxies entitled to cast, one-tenth (1/10) of the votes of each class of membership shall constitute a quorum for any action except as otherwise provided in the Articles of Incorporation, the Declaration, or these Bylaws. If, however, such quorum shall not be present or represented at any meeting, the members entitled to vote thereat shall have power to adjourn the meeting from time to time, without notice other than announcement at the meeting, until a quorum as aforesaid shall be present or be represented.

Section 3.5 Proxies. At all meetings of members, each member may vote in person or by proxy, but no more than the maximum number of votes allocated to a particular timeshare interest or undivided interest by the Declaration shall be cast. All proxies shall be in writing and filed with the secretary. Every proxy shall be revocable and shall automatically cease upon conveyance by the member of his timeshare interest or undivided interest.

Section 6.3 Quorum. A majority of the number of directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. Every act or decision done or made by a majority of the directors present at a duly held meeting at which a quorum is present shall be regarded as the act of the Board.

ARTICLE 7

FORM 20.85 Summary of purchase and receipt of documents

COMMENT

The purchase of a time share is very technical and involves many complicated legal provisions. Accordingly, it is an excellent practice to provide a lay person's summary of the important terms of the transaction. The summary should be provided prior to the execution of the purchase documents. Further, because so many documents are used in the typical time share offering, it is appropriate to obtain a separate receipt from the buyer acknowledging receipt of the relevant documents.

FORM

SUMMARY

PURCHASER'S UNDERSTANDING AND ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF INTERVAL INTEREST PURCHASE

Prior to the execution of your Purchase Agreement to acquire an Interval Interest in Sunset Resort (the "Project"), Developer LLC ("Seller") desires to minimize the possibility of any misunderstandings regarding your purchase. Accordingly, we have prepared this non-technical summary of various key terms and conditions of your Interval Interest purchase to ensure that you are aware of certain rights, privileges and obligations under your Purchase Agreement as the owner of an Interval Interest in the Project. Please read each paragraph carefully, insert your initials, and sign below indicating that you acknowledge and fully understand the following statements:

1. In the event that Seller is unable to convey the specific Interval Interest identified on the first page of my/our Purchase Agreement, Seller may, at its option, substitute a comparable Interval Interest without prior notice to me/us.
2. Notwithstanding any provision of my/our Purchase Agreement or Special Warranty Deed to the contrary, I/we will NOT have the exclusive right to reserve, use, and occupy the Unit identified in such Purchase Agreement during any specific Use Period(s) (unless a particular Fixed Use Period is indicated on page 1 of my/our Purchase Agreement). Rather, I/we will be entitled to use and occupy an assigned Unit within the Project, during the Use Period(s) consistent with the class of Interval Interest I/we own as indicated in my/our Purchase Agreement, as shall properly have been reserved by me/us in accordance with the provisions of the then current Rules and Relations (the "Club Documents"). I/We further understand and acknowledge that all of my/our use and occupancy rights and obligations are governed by such Rules and Regulations, together with the Declaration of Dedication and Covenants, Conditions, Restrictions and Easements for Sunset Resort, including the payment of any fees associated with such use and occupancy.
3. Subject to the provisions of the Club Documents (if applicable), if I/we do not use a Unit within the Project for the maximum number of days and nights to which I am/we are entitled, any unused time cannot be accumulated or carried forward for future use at the Project.
4. Subject to the provisions of the Club Documents (if applicable), all reservation requests must conform to the requirements of the then current Rules and Regulations. I/We further acknowledge and understand that reservations are generally confirmed by the Managing Agent on a first come, first served, space-available basis.
5. Subject to the provisions of the Club Documents (if applicable), the time and day(s) on which Use Periods begin and end are set forth in the Rules and Regulations. I/We further acknowledge and understand that such time and day(s) for check-in and check-out may be changed from time to time by the Board, in its sole discretion.
6. I/We acknowledge my/our obligation to pay various Assessments to the Sunset Resort Owners Association (the "Association"), and that I/we may not exempt myself/ourselves from such obligation by waiving my/our right to use a Unit at the Project for the maximum number of days and nights to which I am/we are entitled during a particular Use Year. I/We understand that I/we must be current in the payment of all assessments due the Association before I/we may reserve a Use Period or otherwise occupy or allow others to occupy a Unit within the Project during a reserved Use Period. I/We also understand that the amount of my/our annual assessments may vary from year to year as determined by the Board. I/We further understand that my/our annual assessments may not include real estate taxes, which may be billed separately.
7. I am/We are responsible for the cost of repairing any damage to my/our assigned Unit or its contents caused by me/us or our family members or guests.
8. I/We have acquired an Interval Interest for my/our own personal use and enjoyment. No representations of any nature whatsoever concerning investment potential, rent returns, tax advantages, depreciation, or other possible financial benefits have been made by Seller or any of its salespersons or other representatives in connection with my/our purchase of an Interval Interest in the Project.
9. Seller has no resale or rental program for non-Seller owned Interval Interests, and no salesperson or other representative of Seller has made any representation to me/use that Seller or any agent or representative of Seller can or will handle the resale or rental of my/our Interval Interest. I/We understand that I/we may sell my/our Interval Interest or rent any properly reserved Use Period to which I am/we are entitled, either on my/our own or through the use of a properly licensed sales or rental agent. I/We acknowledge that Seller does not recommend or endorse any particular such sales or rental agent.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

1. DEFINITIONS

Unless expressly indicated herein to the contrary or the context otherwise requires, the capitalized terms used herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Declaration.

2. PAYMENT OF PURCHASE PRICE

(a) Purchaser may pay for the Interval Interest described herein in cash or by borrowing a portion of the purchase price set forth on line 1 of Page 1 hereof (the "Purchase Price") from Seller. If a portion of the Purchase Price is financed by Seller, then Purchaser will be required to execute a Promissory Note (the "Note") payable to the order of Seller in the amount of the unpaid balance of the Purchase Price, together with a first priority Deed of Trust (the "Deed of Trust") that secures the payment of the Note and encumbers Purchaser's Interval Interest, as well as certain other documents and instruments which Seller, in its sole discretion, deems reasonably necessary or appropriate in order to secure Purchaser's payment of the Note. Purchaser will be subject to all of the terms, provisions, and conditions described in and set forth in all such documents and instruments.

(b) If Purchaser requests purchase money financing, Seller may agree to finance Purchaser's purchase but is NOT required to do so. Purchaser agrees that all personal financial information submitted to Seller will be accurate, and Purchaser authorizes Seller to make credit inquiries regarding Purchaser, whether through a consumer credit reporting agency or other means. Purchaser agrees to provide immediate written notice to Seller of any material adverse change in Purchaser's financial condition that occurs prior to Closing. If, despite Purchaser's good faith best efforts to obtain purchase money financing, Purchaser is unable to qualify for such financing within ten (10) days following Seller's acceptance of this Agreement due to Purchaser's failure to satisfy completely Seller's credit requirements or for any other reason, then Purchaser shall be entitled to terminate this Agreement and receive a refund of any and all payments theretofore made by Purchaser hereunder (without interest) or, at Purchaser's option, to consummate the transaction contemplated hereby by paying the entire Purchase Price, less the amount of Purchaser's initial deposit and any other payments made to or on behalf of Seller hereunder, in cash at Closing. If Purchaser is unable to qualify for Seller financing within such ten (1) day period, Seller shall provide written notice thereof to Purchaser, whereupon Purchaser shall promptly notify Seller whether Purchaser elects to terminate this Agreement or consummate the transaction as provided in the preceding sentence. Seller reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to sell or assign the Note and the Deed of Trust to another person or entity, whether or not such person or entity is affiliated with Seller.

(c) In the event that the Interval Interest represents an "upgrade" from another Interval Interest in the Project or a timeshare interest in another resort (the "Old Timeshare Interest"), Purchaser agrees to execute and deliver to Seller, on the date hereof, a deed in form and substance satisfactory to Seller, in its sole discretion, pursuant to which all of Purchaser's right, title, and interest in and to the Old Timeshare Interest is conveyed to Seller, free and clear of any liens or encumbrances not expressly approved by Seller (the "Deed-back"). Such Deed-back will be recorded by Seller upon Closing. Pending Closing, Purchaser shall remain fully liable for all costs, expenses, and other obligations of any and every kind related to the Old Timeshare Interest (the "Old Timeshare Interest Obligations"). In the event that the transaction contemplated hereby fails to close for any reason whatsoever, the Deed-back will be returned to Purchaser, and Purchaser will remain fully liable for the Old Timeshare Interest Obligations.

(d) In the event that the Note, the Deed of Trust, the Deed-back (if applicable), or any other document or instrument which evidences or secures payment of the Purchase Price is misplaced or has not been completely and validly executed by Purchaser for any reason whatsoever, Seller shall have the option, in its sole discretion, to (i) cancel this Agreement at any time prior to closing; or (ii) send Purchaser whatever document(s) and/or instrument(s) that Seller needs Purchaser to re-execute, along with instructions on how to do so. In the event that Seller elects to cancel this Agreement, Seller shall provide written notice thereof to Purchaser and cause any funds held on Purchaser's behalf, without interest, to be refunded by Escrow Agent, as hereinafter defined, to Purchaser in the same manner as provided in Paragraph 5 hereof, in which event this Agreement shall be deemed terminated and of no further force or legal effect. In the event that Seller sends Purchaser any document or instrument for re-execution, Purchaser shall promptly re-execute same, cause his or her signature to be notarized (to the extent indicated), and return such document(s) and/or instrument(s) to Seller in accordance with Seller's written instructions. Purchaser's failure to do so for any reason within seven (7) calendar days following Purchaser's receipt thereof shall constitute a default hereunder, entitling Seller to exercise its available rights and remedies pursuant to Paragraph 12 hereof.

3. SELLER'S RIGHT TO ACCEPT OR REJECT THIS AGREEMENT

It is understood that Seller can accept or reject this Agreement. If Seller rejects this Agreement, Purchaser is only entitled to a refund of his or her down payment and any additional payments made by him or her, without interest. This Agreement will become effective and legally binding upon both parties when signed by Purchaser in the space provided and accepted by Seller and may not be amended or in any manner modified except by a written instrument that is signed by both Seller and Purchaser. If Seller accepts this Agreement, then Seller, subject to Paragraph 2 above, agrees to sell the Interval Interest described herein to Purchaser, and Purchaser agrees to make all of the payments required to be made under this Agreement when due and otherwise to comply fully with all of the terms, provisions, and conditions hereof and of the Project instruments.

4. DEPOSITS

Purchaser's initial deposit and any subsequent payments made by Purchaser to Seller prior to Closing shall be delivered to and held in escrow by Stewart Title Agency, Inc. (the "Escrow Agent"). PURCHASER AND SELLER AGREE TO ACCEPT ANY POTENTIAL RISKS THAT MAY ACCRUE AS A RESULT OF THE DEPOSITING OF ESCROWED FUNDS IN A DEPOSITORY LOCATED OUTSIDE OF ARIZONA. Any and all interest that accrues on Purchaser's deposit and any subsequent payments shall, except to the extent prohibited by law, be payable to and inure to the sole benefit of Seller and not be credited toward the Purchase Price. Escrow Agent shall hold such deposit and other amounts until the expiration of Purchaser's cancellation period as described herein without such right of cancellation having been exercised by Purchaser. Upon written notice from Seller to Escrow Agent that such cancellation period has expired and Closing has occurred, or alternatively, that Purchaser has breached any term, provision, or condition hereof, Escrow Agent shall deliver any funds held on Purchaser's behalf, together with any interest that has accrued thereon to Seller. Seller shall have no right to use any of the funds held by Escrow Agent until such funds have been delivered to Seller in accordance with the provisions hereof.

5. REFUND PRIVILEGE

In the event that Purchaser cancels this Agreement during the seven (7) calendar day cancellation period described herein, Seller will cause Escrow Agent to refund to Purchaser the total amount of any and all payments made by Purchaser under this Agreement and return any negotiable instruments, other than checks, executed by Purchaser in connection herewith.

6. SELLER'S RIGHT OF SUBSTITUTION

Purchaser expressly acknowledges and agrees that the actual Interval Interest conveyed by Seller to Purchaser upon Closing may be the same or different from the Interval Interest described on Page 1 hereof, provided that the conveyance of whatever Interval Interest is described in Purchaser's Special Warranty Deed affords Purchaser substantially the same rights, benefits, and privileges with respect to the Project's Units and Common Areas as the conveyance of the above-described Interval Interest would afford. Purchaser hereby authorizes Seller to modify and initial on Purchaser's behalf any documents or instruments executed by Purchaser in order to reflect such substitution.

7. VACATION OWNERSHIP PLAN

(a) Purchaser acknowledges that notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement or the Special Warranty Deed pursuant to which title to the Interval Interest described herein will be conveyed to Purchaser, Purchaser will not have the guaranteed exclusive right to reserve, use, and occupy the above-identified Unit(s) during any specific Use Period(s) (unless a specific Fixed Use Period is set forth on Page 1 hereof). Rather, Purchaser shall be entitled to use and occupy a Full Unit or Units or Partial Unit or Units within the Project during such use Period(s), either every calendar year or during alternate calendar years as indicated on Page 1 hereof, as shall properly have been reserved by Purchaser in accordance with the terms, provisions, and conditions of the Rules and Regulations, as they may be amended or restated from time to time. Because reservations are generally confirmed by the Managing Agent on a first come, first served, space-available basis, Interval Interest owners are encouraged to make their reservation requests as far in advance of their desired Use Periods as the Rules and Regulations permit in order to maximize their chances of obtaining confirmed reservations for the Use Periods of their choice.

(b) The vacation ownership plan created by the Declaration shall be perpetual unless terminated by the owners of Interval Interests and Units in the manner described in the Declaration.

(c) Under no circumstances shall Purchaser be entitled to make a reservation or use and occupy a Unit at the Project unless Purchaser has timely paid any and all Assessments and other amounts levied upon his or her Interval Interest as described in Paragraph 8 below and otherwise fully complied with all of the terms, provisions, and conditions of the Declaration and all other applicable documents and instruments.

8. ASSESSMENTS

(a) Purchaser understands and agrees that in accordance with the provisions of the Declaration, Purchaser shall be responsible for his or her proportionate share of the Project's Basic Expenses and Reserve Expenses. The initial annual Basic Assessment shall be due and payable to the Association prior to Purchaser's use and occupancy of a Unit during any Use Period in the year in which Closing occurs. Subsequent Basic Assessments shall be due and payable on a calendar year basis at the time(s) and in the manner established from time to time by the Board, written notice of which shall be provided to each owner of an Interval Interest. The amount of Purchaser's Basic Assessment each year may vary and will be determined by the Board, pursuant to an annual budget that will be prepared by the Managing Agent and approved by the Board.

In the event that Purchaser's Initial Use Year as set forth on Page 1 hereof is the year following the year in which Closing occurs, then no Basic Assessment attributable to the current Use Year shall be due and payable by Purchaser. Purchaser's failure for any reason to pay on a timely basis any and all Assessments levied against his or her Interval Interest could result in the foreclosure thereof by the Association and the loss of such Interval Interest. Except with respect to the calendar year in which Closing occurs as described in this paragraph, Purchaser's failure for any reason to use and occupy a Unit within the Project for one (1) or more Use Periods in any given Use Year shall not exempt such Purchaser from his or her obligation to pay in full all Assessments levied against his or her Interval Interest with respect to such Use Year.

(b) In addition to the annual Basic Assessment, Purchaser understands and agrees that he or she will be responsible for the timely payment to the Association of any Special Assessments levied upon his or her Interval Interest by the Association, as well as any Personal Expenses that he or she incurs or for which he or she is responsible, all in accordance with the provisions of the Declaration and all other applicable documents and instruments.

(c) The Association may enforce Purchaser's obligation to pay the aforescribed Assessments in the manner set forth in Article 5 of the Declaration. Under no circumstances shall Purchaser be entitled to reserve, use, or occupy a Unit within the Project or exercise any other rights, benefits, or privileges to which Purchaser would otherwise be entitled, pursuant to the Declaration or any other document or instrument unless and until all Assessments and other amounts that Purchaser owes the Association or Seller have first been paid in full.

9. CLOSING

Except as otherwise provided by applicable law, for purposes of this Agreement, the term "Closing" shall mean the date following the expiration of Purchaser's seven (7) day right of cancellation without such right having been exercised as of which the parties hereto have properly executed and delivered all documents necessary to effect transfer of title to the Interval Interest described herein, including but not limited to this Agreement, a Special Warranty Deed, and a Promissory Note and Deed of Trust, if applicable. Upon Closing, Seller shall cause all necessary documents to be recorded in the Official Records of _____ County, Arizona. Except as otherwise expressly provided in any of the Project's documents or instruments to the contrary, Purchaser may not reserve, use, or occupy any of the Project's Units or exercise any other rights, benefits, or privileges appurtenant to his or her Interval Interest until Closing occurs.

10. TITLE AND TITLE INSURANCE

Unless Purchaser elects otherwise by written notice received by Seller prior to Closing, within a reasonable period of time following the date of Closing, Purchaser will be provided with a standard ALTA owner's title insurance policy from a title insurance company of Seller's choosing, paid for by Purchaser out of the Closing Costs, insuring Purchaser's title to his or her Interval Interest, free and clear of all encumbrances except for taxes and assessments for the year of Closing and subsequent years and restrictions, reservations, conditions, limitations, and easements of record prior to Closing or imposed by governmental authorities having jurisdiction or control over the Project, and the lien of the Deed of Trust, if any. Purchaser may, at Purchaser's option exercised by written notice to Seller, elect to acquire a policy of title insurance from a title insurance company of Purchaser's choosing, in which event Seller shall refund to Purchaser from the Closing Costs the actual cost to Seller of the title insurance premium.

11. COMPLETION OF CONSTRUCTION

In the event that construction of any Unit described on Page 1 hereof has not been substantially completed as of the date hereof, Seller agrees, subject to the provisions hereof and excepting delays caused by strikes, inability to obtain labor or materials, governmental restrictions, civil commotion, fire, earthquakes, storms, floods, explosions, acts of God, and delays caused by conditions or circumstances beyond the reasonable control of Seller, to cause such Unit to be substantially completed no later than two (2) years after the date of execution of the first Purchase Agreement requiring the conveyance by Seller of an Interval Interest in such Unit.

12. DEFAULT

(a) Purchaser shall be in default under this Agreement if he or she fails to pay on time, keep any promise, or fulfill any agreement or obligation contained herein or in any of the documents or instruments referenced herein. In the event of a default by Purchaser, Purchaser shall not be entitled to reserve, use, or occupy a Unit at the Project, to use and enjoy any of the Project's Common Area, or to exercise any other rights, benefits, or privileges appurtenant to his or her Interval Interest.

(i) Purchaser's default in the performance of any of his or her obligations under this Agreement may result in the immediate and automatic termination of this Agreement and all of Purchaser's rights, benefits, and privileges hereunder. Upon such termination of this Agreement, Seller shall retain or, if such termination occurs prior to Closing, cause Escrow Agent to deliver to Seller, all sums of money previously paid by Purchaser hereunder as liquidated damages and not as a penalty. Furthermore, Seller may pursue any or all other legal and equitable remedies available to it, at law or in equity, including but not limited to specific performance and recovery of Seller's reasonable attorneys' fees and other costs of enforcement of Purchaser's obligations hereunder.

(ii) In the event that Purchaser fails to make any payment required under the terms of the Note or the Deed of Trust (if applicable) for the unpaid balance of the Purchase Price, Seller's and Purchaser's rights and remedies shall be governed by the provisions of said Note and Deed of Trust and by the applicable laws of the State of Arizona.

(b) In the event of a dispute between Purchaser and Seller with respect to Seller's performance hereunder, the matter in question may, in Seller's sole discretion, be settled by arbitration in accordance with the Commercial Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association. If a matter in dispute is referred to Arbitration, Purchaser and Seller shall each pay one-half (1/2) of the fees and expenses required to initiate the arbitration proceedings. The parties agree, however, that the costs and expenses of arbitration, including attorneys' fees, shall ultimately be borne as determined by the arbitrator. The parties further agree that any arbitration proceeding in connection with this Agreement shall be conducted in _____ County, Arizona, and that the decision of the arbitrator with respect to any such matter in dispute shall be final and determinative of the respective rights and obligations of the parties hereunder.

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Sub-paragraph 12.(b) to the contrary, if, for any reason, Seller is unable or fails to comply with the material provisions of this Agreement, then the sole obligation of Seller shall be to refund or cause Escrow Agent to refund (whichever is applicable) to Purchaser all payments previously made by Purchaser hereunder, without interest. Upon such refund, this Agreement shall be deemed canceled, and all rights and obligations hereunder shall immediately terminate. PURCHASER HEREBY WAIVES ANY AND ALL RIGHTS AND REMEDIES THAT MIGHT OTHERWISE BE AVAILABLE TO HIM OR HER, AT LAW OR IN EQUITY.

13. ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP

Upon Closing, Purchaser will automatically become a member of Sunset Resort Owners Association (the "Association"). Purchaser agrees to be subject to and to comply fully with the Association's Articles of Incorporation, Bylaws, and such Rules and Regulations as the Association's Board of Directors (the "Board") may promulgate, as each such document may lawfully be amended and/or restated from time to time.

14. PURCHASER'S ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Purchaser represents and warrants that the persons signing this Agreement have the legal capacity and are duly authorized to do so. Purchaser acknowledges that prior to signing this Agreement, Purchaser received the Timeshare Public Report prepared pursuant to Section 32-2197.01, Arizona Revised Statutes, together with the exhibits attached thereto, including the Declaration, the Bylaws, and the Rules and Regulations of the Association, all of which are hereby incorporated herein by this reference, and Purchaser agrees to be strictly bound and to comply fully with the terms, provisions, and conditions of such documents, as each may be amended or restated from time to time. Purchaser further acknowledges and represents that the Interval Interest described herein is being purchased for Purchaser's personal use and not for its investment potential or any possible rent returns, tax advantages, depreciation, or other financial advantages and that no representations of any nature whatsoever have been made to Purchaser concerning investment potential, rent returns, tax advantages, depreciation, or other financial advantages by Seller or any of its salespersons or other agents. Purchaser understands that Seller has no resale or rental program for non-Seller owned Interval Interests and acknowledges that neither Seller nor any of its sales agents, employees, or other representatives has indicated that Purchaser will be assisted in the resale or rental of his or her Interval Interest in the future. Purchaser represents that he or she does not intend to use any Unit at the Project as his or her principal residence. If Purchaser has chosen to finance a portion of the Purchase Price, then Purchaser acknowledges receipt of a completed Truth-in-Lending Disclosure Statement, Good Faith Estimate, HUD-1 Settlement Statement, and Servicing Disclosure Statement, together with a copy of Seller's Privacy Policy, prior to executing this Agreement. Purchaser's acknowledgments set forth in this Paragraph 14 shall survive Closing.

15. EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

Seller has executed an agreement with Club Sunshine, Inc. ("Club Sunshine") under which Club Sunshine has agreed to offer its reciprocal exchange services to Purchaser and other owners of Timeshare Interests at the Project. If Purchaser becomes a member of Club Sunshine, Purchaser will automatically become a member of Interval Brokerage, Inc.'s ("IBI") reciprocal exchange program that is unaffiliated with Seller known as _____. Purchaser's participation in such exchange programs is totally voluntary and subject to the payment by Purchaser of such fees as are required from time to time by IBI and Club Sunshine. Seller makes no representations concerning the current or future services to be provided by IBI or Club Sunshine or the cost, continued availability, success, or possible failure of either IBI's or Club Sunshine's exchange program. Any representations made regarding either exchange program, either orally by IBI's or Club Sunshine's agents or within the videos, brochures, and literature prepared or provided by IBI or Club Sunshine, as appropriate, the receipt and review of which Purchaser expressly acknowledges, are solely the representations of IBI or Club Sunshine, as appropriate, and should not be interpreted or relied upon as being the representations of Seller.

16. RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL

Purchaser's right to sell or otherwise transfer his or her Interval Interest is subject to the right of first refusal in favor of Seller in Section 8.6 of the Declaration.

17. NO WARRANTIES

Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, in Purchaser's Special Warranty Deed, or by applicable law, Seller makes NO WARRANTIES, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, of any type whatsoever regarding the Units or the Common Area of the Project, including but not limited to warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose.

18. FURNITURE AND FURNISHINGS

Although Seller's model Unit(s) and descriptive materials are for display purposes only, all Units within the Project have furniture, furnishings, appliances, and equipment that are substantially similar to, or of equal quality to, those shown or used in the model Unit(s) or descriptive materials.

19. RISK OF LOSS

Subject to Seller's right of substitution as described in Paragraph 6 above, all risk of loss to the Project's Units and Common Area shall be borne by Seller until Closing occurs. Thereafter, all such risk of loss shall be borne by Purchaser and the other owners of Interval Interests in the Project. In the event that Seller is unable to convey the subject Interval Interest to Purchaser and declines or is unable to exercise its right of substitution as described in Paragraph 6 above, then Seller's sole obligation shall be to cause any funds held on Purchaser's behalf, without interest, to be refunded to Purchaser in the same manner as provided in Paragraph 5 hereof, in which event this Agreement shall be deemed terminated and of no further force or legal effect.

20. NO ORAL OR WRITTEN REPRESENTATIONS

Seller and Purchaser agree that this Agreement (including the documents and instruments incorporated herein by reference) embodies the entire agreement between them related to the subject matter hereof and supersedes and replaces any and all prior negotiations, representations, agreements, and understandings, both oral and written, in connection therewith.

21. SURVIVAL OF AGREEMENT: ASSIGNMENT

This Agreement and the agreements and covenants herein set forth shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto, their respective heirs, successors, assigns, and personal representatives, and the provisions of this Agreement shall survive the Closing of the transaction contemplated hereby and not be deemed merged into the Special Warranty Deed delivered pursuant hereto. Purchaser's Interval Interest cannot be sold, assigned, transferred, conveyed, or encumbered except in accordance with the terms, provisions, and conditions hereof, the Declaration, the Bylaws, and Rules and Regulations. Purchaser acknowledges Seller's right, in its sole discretion, to assign some or all of its rights and interests hereunder. Purchaser may not assign any of his or her rights or interests hereunder.

22. SEVERABILITY

The terms and provisions hereof shall be deemed independent and severable, and the invalidity of any one provision or portion thereof shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision hereof.

23. CHOICE OF STATE LAW; WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL

This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Arizona. Subject to Sub-paragraph 12(b) hereof, any legal action or proceeding arising out of or in any way relating to this Agreement shall be brought in an appropriate court of competent jurisdiction located in _____ County, Arizona, and the parties hereto, on behalf of themselves and their respective successors and assigns, hereby irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction of any such court and agree that venue properly lies in such court. FORM 20.87 Escrow agreement for exercise of waiver of rescission rights

COMMENT

Because the sale of time share units is so intense, and many are purchased on an impulse while on vacation, most states have enacted laws granting buyers with an absolute right of rescission. That is, that after the documents are executed the buyer will have a period of time to reflect on the purchase and determine if they still want the unit. Under the typical scenario, all funds and documents are deposited into escrow with an unrelated third party escrow or title company. If the buyer does not exercise his right of rescission, then the transaction is closed. The following form is intended to comply with Arizona time share rescission laws. This Escrow Agreement has the added condition that the Project must have been completed. The condition relating to the completion of construction does not extend to time for the right of the buyer to rescind.

ESCROW AGREEMENT

THIS ESCROW AGREEMENT ("Agreement") is made and entered into as of the _____ [day] day of _____ [month] , _____ [year] , by and between STEWART TITLE AGENCY, INC., a Texas corporation ("Escrow Agent") and SUNSET DEVELOPMENT, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Developer).

(b) Purchaser's Default. Following expiration of the seven (7) day cancellation period provided by Section 32-2197.02, Arizona Statutes, if the Purchaser defaults in the performance of his obligations under the terms of his Purchase Contract with Developer, Developer shall provide written instruction to Escrow Agent requesting release of the escrowed funds or property.

9. Term of Agreement.

(a) This Agreement shall remain in effect unless and until it is cancelled in either of the following manners:

(i) Upon written notice given by Developer to Escrow Agent of cancellation, in which event the cancellation shall take effect no later than thirty (30) days after notice to Escrow Agent of said cancellation; or

(ii) Escrow Agent may resign as Escrow Agent at any time upon giving notice to Developer of its desire to do so; provided, however, that any such resignation by Escrow Agent shall take effect not sooner than thirty (30) days after the giving of such notice of resignation unless a new escrow agent has been sooner designated by Developer and all escrowed funds and property have been delivered to such new escrow agent.

Complaints regarding employees made by Owners/Permitted Users and for assistance from employees should be made to the Resort Manager or his/her designated assistant.

8. SAFETY AND HEALTH RULES

8.1. The Association reserves the right to establish specific rules governing such potentially loud or disturbing activities as use of musical instruments, stereo equipment, or late-evening entertaining or any activity that may disturb the peaceful enjoyment of the Resort by other Owners and guests.

Any assessments, which are not paid when due, shall be delinquent. If the assessment is not paid within ten (10) days after the due date, the assessment shall bear interest from the date of delinquency at the rate of ten percent (10%) per annum, and the Association may bring an action at law against the Owner personally obligated to pay the same and the Association may file a lien and may foreclose the lien against the property, and interest, costs, and reasonable attorney's fees of any such action shall be added to the amount of such assessment. No Owner may waive or otherwise escape liability for the assessments provided for herein by non-use of any Common Area or abandonment or non-use of the Owner's Interval Interest.

9.2. The Declaration provides that in lieu of using the formula set forth in paragraph 5.1.1 of the Declaration for determining each Interval Ownership Interest Owner's Proportionate Share of Basic Expenses, the Board or the Declarant may adopt a flat and uniform Basic Assessment amount per Right owned by a Interval Ownership Interest Owner, so long as Interval Ownership Interest Owners pay an Assessment that is proportionately equal to or greater than that paid by Owners of other types of Interval Interests. Without limiting the Board's or the Declarant's right to make future modifications in the method of determining Basic Assessments, and notwithstanding anything contained in the Declaration to the contrary, the Board has adopted a simple flat and uniform Basic Assessment amount per Right owned by a Interval Ownership Interest Owner.

9.3. The Per Right Basic Assessment amount represents the total Basic Expenses for the Resort divided by the number of Units in the Resort multiplied by the number of Rights allocated per Unit. For example, if there are 99 Units in the Resort and if the total Basic Expenses for the Resort were $2,900,000 and if there were 532,000 Rights per Unit, then the per Right annual Basic Assessment would be $0.055062 ($$2,900,000 \text{ in Basic Expenses for the Resort} = 99 \text{ total Units in the Resort} = $29,292.93 \text{ in Basic Expenses per Unit}$ $532,000 \text{ Rights per Unit} = $0.055062 \text{ Basic Assessment per Right}$). If an Owner owned 10,000 Rights, the Owners annual Basic Assessment would be $550.62. These numbers are illustrative only, and assessment amounts will generally increase annually.

9.4. The actual per Right Basis Assessment amount will be provided by the Association annually with the Association Budget.

2. Engagement of Manager. The Association hereby engages Manager, to the exclusion of all others, to perform the services described herein to manage the Development, and Manager hereby accepts such engagement on the terms and conditions herein set forth. If the Association has not entered into a replacement management agreement within such sixty (60) day period, Manager agrees to continue to perform its obligations hereunder for an additional thirty (30) days (a total of 90 days after the initial notice), at which time its management under this Agreement shall terminate.

Failure of Manager to substantially perform its duties and obligations under this Agreement, or to commence to cure any default thereunder, for a continuous period of sixty (60) days after written notice of default from the Association, specifying the default complained of, shall be grounds for the Association to terminate this Agreement as its sole remedy. In no event shall Manager be liable to the Association or Owners for damages for nonwillful, nonfraudulent or nongrossly negligent acts, errors or omissions exceeding the Management Fee earned by Manager during the twelve (12) month period immediately prior to the occurrence of Manager's default, except as heretofore provided. Upon termination of this Agreement, for any reason, Manager agrees to promptly prepare a summary of all fees due through termination, and Association agrees to pay such fees within fifteen (15) days of presentation of the summary.

4. Brand Display. In performing its services under this Agreement, Manager intends to employ the systems, techniques, and expertise developed by it and its affiliates in management of Vacation Interval properties. In the performance of its services, Manager may, but shall not be obligated to, identify the Development as a "Managed Resort."

The parties acknowledge that all of Manager's intellectual property related to its management for the Association and the Owners, including but not limited to any and all computer hardware and software provided by or obtained through Manager (the "Proprietary Materials"), is and always shall be the property of Manager. The parties expressly agree that upon termination of this Agreement due to the expiration of its term, cancellation or default, the Association shall cease using and thereafter abstain from using any Sunset-branded (collectively, "Branded Materials") or Proprietary Materials and shall return any Branded Materials and Proprietary Materials in its possession to Manager within fifteen (15) days after termination of this Agreement.

5. Powers and Duties. The Association hereby delegates to Manager, to the exclusion of all persons including the Association and its members, all the powers and duties of the Association as set forth in the Declaration (except those which cannot be delegated as a matter of law). This delegation in no way relieves the Association's officers and directors of the fiduciary obligations owed by them to Owners under applicable law. Manager shall, among other things including those duties set forth on the Fee Addendums attached hereto, perform the following services in the estimated frequency of performance set forth on Exhibit "B" attached hereto, or otherwise as agreed to between Manager and the Association:

5.1 Budget. Manager shall prepare: (i) a recommended operating budget setting forth an itemized statement of the anticipated receipts and disbursements for each year, based upon the then-current schedule of maintenance fees, assessments, Development fees, membership fees and other budgeted amounts due from the Owners to the Association (collectively "Assessments") and taking into account the general condition of the Development and/or Units; (ii) a capital expenditure budget; and (iii) a forecast of cash flow to and from current expense and capital replacement reserve funds (collectively, the "Budget"). The Budget shall be submitted to the Board of Directors in final draft at least sixty (60) days prior to the commencement of the year for which it has been proposed, or such shorter period of time as may be required by applicable law. Upon approval thereof by the Board of Directors, the Budget shall determine the schedule of Assessments.

5.2 Resale Programs. Association hereby grants to the Manager, or any affiliate of the Manager, as Manager may designate, the exclusive right to occupy the common areas of the Development and access areas of the Development for the purpose of providing any resale program to Owners and the Association, as well as for the provision of guest services, concierge services, time share or other vacation interval sales programs, as well as displaying any advertising or other promotional material with respect to any such programs. The Association agrees not to enter into any agreement with any other party with respect to the provision of such services without the prior written consent of the Manager.

5.3 Collections

Manager shall bill and collect from the Owners on behalf of the Association, based upon the Budget, all Assessments, real estate and other taxes (unless billed separately to each Owner) and any other amounts due and owing the Association or a third party pursuant to the provisions of any applicable law or the Project Instruments. All Assessment payments by an Owner shall be applied as to interest, delinquencies, costs and attorneys' fees, other charges, expenses and advances as provided herein and in the Project Instruments.

Manager may charge and collect for such purposes and against such parties as Manager determines, to the same extent that the Association is required or permitted by the Project Instruments or applicable law to do so. Manager is authorized to charge and collect from any Owner(s) the cost of providing special services on behalf of and at the request of such Owner.

Manager shall have the authority on behalf of the Association to utilize such means as may be established by law or the Project Instruments for collecting any delinquent amounts. Manager shall furnish the Association with an itemized list of all delinquent accounts overdue more than sixty (60) days, if requested. The Association shall aid and assist Manager in collecting Assessments and other amounts in any reasonable manner requested by Manager. Manager may, on behalf of the Association, file a lien against an Owner's Unit or Vacation Interval should such Owner fail to pay any Assessments or other amounts due, pursuant to the Project Instruments, and may take such other action as is permitted by the Project Instruments, in the name of or as agent of the Association. Manager may compromise liens in such amount(s) as it deems advisable, in its sole discretion, and may satisfy liens of record and render statements as to the current status of an Owner's account. To the extent permitted by law and subject to the requirements of the Project Instruments, Manager may suspend a delinquent Owner's right to use (or allow others to use) such Owner's Unit or Vacation Interval. The Association agrees to defend, indemnify and hold Manager harmless from and against any and all claims asserted against Manager, its agents, employees or affiliates, arising out of or in connection with any such suspension.

5.4 Records

Manager shall maintain the Association's financial record books, accounts and other records as required by the Project Instruments, and issue certificates of account to Owners and their mortgagees and lienors, without liability for errors other than as a result of gross negligence. Such books and records of the Association shall include records of the Association's receipts and disbursements, an individual account for each Owner designating such Owner's name and address and the amount of any assessments or other amounts paid by and/or due from such Owner, and a list of the names and current mailing addresses of all Owners and their mortgagees as provided by the Owners. Manager shall maintain records to describe its services hereunder and such financial books and records to identify the source and the disbursement of all Association funds collected by Manager. Manager shall make the Association's accounting records available for inspection and reproduction by the Owners, at reasonable times, in the office of Manager; provided, however, that Manager may charge the Owner or its authorized representative such reasonable reproduction fee as the Board from time to time establishes.

Manager shall also prepare and have available for each Owner for inspection any financial report required by the Project Instruments within one hundred fifty one (151) days following the end of each fiscal year (or such earlier date as may be required by applicable law). In addition, Manager shall make available at the required times to the Association or Owners, as applicable, any reports or other documents as may be required by the Project Instruments or any applicable law.

If required by the Association or by law or the Project Instruments, Manager shall arrange for an annual independent audit of all the books maintained for Association by Manager, to be conducted at the Association's expense by a certified public accountant. Subject to the prior direction and approval of the Board, Manager shall select an accountant to prepare the Association's annual tax returns. True and correct copies of such tax returns shall be available for inspection by the Owners of the Association in the office of Manager during normal business hours.

Manager is authorized to make available for inspection by any applicable governmental agency all books and records of the Association, upon the request of said agency, and file with said agency any and all reports and information requested and required by law. Manager is authorized to provide to any applicable governmental agency, upon request, a complete list of the names and addresses of all purchasers and Owners of interests in the Development.

5.5 Accounts Manager shall deposit all funds collected from all sources in the accounts of the Association or in special bank accounts (collectively the "Accounts") in federally insured banks and/or savings and loan associations, with suitable designation indicating their source; provided, however, that all sums collected by Manager for Assessments to the Development may be commingled in a single fund or divided into more than one (1) fund, as determined by Manager, but may not be commingled with any other funds or accounts of Manager or otherwise; provided, further, that

Manager shall maintain a separate account for reserve funds and shall not commingle reserve funds with the operating funds for a period in excess of thirty (30) days. Manager is authorized to withdraw such funds from the Accounts as required to pay expenses pursuant to Paragraph 6. Manager shall maintain fiduciary bonds normally required of management agents as required by law.

5.6 Maintenance

Manager shall arrange for the regular cleaning, maintenance and repair of the common elements of the Development and the Units committed to Vacation Ownership and the contents thereof for which the Association has maintenance responsibility. Manager shall cause such maintenance to be performed in conformity with good maintenance practices; provided, however, that Manager shall not be responsible for any pre-existing condition of any of the Units or the Development or for discovering any such condition which would require maintenance.

For any one (1) item of repair, replacement or refurbishing, the expense incurred as to the Development as a whole shall not exceed the sum of _____ Dollars ($_____) unless either contemplated in the approved Operating Budget or capital budget, or specifically authorized by the Association. However, in the case of an emergency, Manager is authorized to expend on behalf of the Association any sum necessary to protect and preserve the Development or any of the Units. For purposes of this paragraph, all expenses incurred by Manager on behalf of the Association during any twenty-one (21) day period and paid to any single person, entity or affiliates or principals thereof, shall be considered to be a single expense unless reasonably demonstrated by Manager to the contrary.

Manager shall have access to the Development and each Unit during reasonable hours as may be necessary for the upkeep of the Development and Units or for the making of emergency repairs to prevent damage to common areas of the Development, or to any Unit or Units; provided, however, that this right of access shall not be deemed to confer on Manager any affirmative obligation for inspection of, and resulting responsibility for, any repairs to ordinarily inaccessible areas (e.g., balconies). To the extent reasonably convenient, all maintenance, repairs, replacements, additions and/or changes to the interior of Units shall be performed at a time when such Unit is vacant. If it becomes necessary, in the judgment of Manager, to perform maintenance or repairs within an occupied Unit in order to prevent foreseeable personal injury or imminent damage to any of the Units, or personal belongings, of any Unit occupant or the Development, and if such work cannot be performed while the Unit is occupied, in the judgment of Manager, then Manager shall exercise reasonable efforts to relocate the Unit occupant(s) for the duration of such displacement to such reasonably comparable nearby accommodations as possible, at the Association's expense, to the extent so required by the Project Instruments.

If it is determined pursuant to the terms of the Project Instruments that Development property damaged by casualty be reconstructed, Manager shall have the Association's responsibility of reconstruction. In that event, Manager shall have all the rights, obligations and duties granted to the Association, and Manager shall be paid as a fee the sum of ten percent (10%) of the gross amount of all insurance proceeds received by the Association and Owners resulting from such damage or destruction. Where applicable and permitted under the provisions of the Project Instruments, such sum shall be paid to Manager from such insurance proceeds. If ten percent (10%) fee cannot be paid entirely from such insurance proceeds under the provisions of the Project Instruments, such fee shall be paid by the Association to Manager from revenues collected by the Association as regular and/or Special Assessments. In the event that for any reason the Project requires unforeseen and unbudgeted renovations or requires repair due to an uninsured casualty loss, and the Association desires for the Manager to have the responsibility for overseeing such renovations or reconstruction, the parties agree that the Manager will be entitled to a reasonable fee for the performance of such services, such fee to be determined by a negotiation between the parties at the time such services are requested. In the event that the Association and the Manager are unable to reach agreement with respect to the amount of the fee or how the fee will be paid, then the Manager shall have no responsibility for the oversight of such renovations or reconstruction, such responsibility in such event remaining with the Association.

5.7 Contracts

Manager may enter into contracts, on behalf of the Association for garbage and trash removal, heating and air conditioning maintenance, pool maintenance, landscaping, telephone service, cable television service, pest control and such other services as it deems necessary or appropriate for the proper maintenance and operation of the Development. To the extent not subcontracted by Manager to third parties, Manager may purchase or lease all tools, equipment, vehicles, appliances, goods, furniture, supplies and other materials that it determines to be reasonably necessary to properly maintain and operate the Development. All such contracts and purchases may be made in either the Association's or Manager's name, as Manager may elect. The Association agrees to honor all agreements and contracts executed by Manager in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement as the agent of the Association for the operation, repair and upkeep of the Development and the Units. Where Manager has executed such contracts for the upkeep, management and administration of the Development and the Units in conformity with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, the Association shall be deemed to have ratified such agreements and contracts, and the Association will fully and completely perform all of its duties and obligations under such agreements for their entire term. Where Manager has entered into agreements and contracts on behalf of the Association in compliance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, and where Manager has substantially complied with all of the material terms and provisions of such contracts and agreements, the Association shall indemnify and hold harmless Manager from any claims or actions instituted by the other party to such contracts and agreements in accordance with the terms and provisions of Paragraph 11 hereof.

Manager shall engage such attorneys, accountants and other professionals, experts and subcontractors as may reasonably be required, in the discretion of the Manager, in order to enable Manager to effectively perform its duties and exercise its powers hereunder. The foregoing shall not be a limitation upon the right of the Association to employ other such professionals and experts on its own account as it may desire, but the employment of the same by the Association shall in no way affect Manager's rights to employ and continue the employment of the professionals and experts which it has or will employ, nor shall the same in any way relieve the Association of its obligation to pay the cost of professionals and experts retained by Manager; provided that the Association has approved the retainer of specific firms and that the cost thereof either is consistent with the Budget or has been separately approved by the Board.

Except upon the approval of the Board, Manager hereby agrees not to enter into any contract on behalf of the Association with an initial term in excess of one (1) year or which does not permit termination of the contract by the Association without penalty upon no more than sixty (60) days' written notice. Manager shall have the, authority to extend, modify or terminate such contracts relating to the upkeep, maintenance and operation of the Development and/or Units, and Manager shall have the additional authority to enter into new service contracts for the upkeep, maintenance and operation of the Development and/or Units, subject to the above-described limitations. Moreover, it is specifically contemplated by Manager that, for an indefinite period of time, Manager may, at its option, subcontract some or all of the duties and responsibilities of Manager under this Agreement to a substitute local manager (or companies, over time) (the "Subcontract Manager"). The Association specifically consents to and approves of such subcontract(s) to the Subcontract Manager, provided that Manager remains contractually obligated to the Association to meet all of Manager's duties and obligations under this Agreement.

5.8 Insurance. Manager shall cause to be placed or kept in force such insurance as the Association requests and is provided for in the Budget provided such insurance is available. To the same extent that the Association is so required or permitted, Manager shall act as agent for the Association, each Owner and for each other insured interest to adjust all claims arising under said insurance policies, to bring suit thereon and deliver releases upon payment of claims, to otherwise exercise all of the rights, powers and privileges of the insured parties, to receive all insurance proceeds on behalf of the insured parties, subject to the provisions of the Project Instruments. Manager and any Subcontract Manager shall be designated as additional insureds in the comprehensive public liability policy obtained by or for the benefit of the Association, and any additional premium therefor shall be the responsibility of the Association.

5.9 Rules and Regulations; Enforcement

Manager shall be authorized to take such action as may be necessary to enforce the provisions of the Project Instruments or Rules and Regulations of the Development adopted pursuant thereto. Manager shall have all the rights and powers of the Association to remedy any violations thereof or to pursue such legal remedies as Manager may deem appropriate. Manager may act upon its own determination, either on its own behalf or on the behalf of the Association. If Manager deems it advisable not to act in any particular situation, Manager shall not be liable or responsible to the Association, its directors or any Owner for the failure to so act. Subject to the prior direction and approval of the Board, Manager is authorized to represent the Association in any action, suit or other proceeding, and any such action may be brought or defended in the name of the Association.

Manager shall have the authority to propose to amend the Rules and Regulations for the use and occupancy of the Development, subject to the approval of the Association. Manager shall ensure that a copy of the then-current Rules and Regulations promulgated by the Association is kept furnished to the Unit Occupant(s), at check-in or otherwise, upon request. Manager shall have the power to regulate all vehicular parking. Manager shall regulate the use of the storage areas on the Development property, if any.

5.10 Direction. Manager shall have the authority to perform such other acts and be responsible for such additional duties as may from time to time be delegated to it by the Association or the Project Instruments, or as may be imposed upon Manager by any applicable provisions of law, rule or regulation (in which event Manager's compensation under Paragraph 9 hereof will be adjusted as appropriate by mutual agreement). Manager shall hire and supervise the employees and/or subcontract for and supervise persons to perform the duties and responsibilities of Manager set forth herein. Such persons shall be under the exclusive supervision and control of Manager. Manager shall have absolute discretion as to the retention or discharge of any such employee or subcontractor. Although all employees shall be employees of the Manager, and not the Association, the Association acknowledges that all expenses of such employees (and an allocable share of the expenses related to Manager's employees who are not present at the Development on a full-time basis), including salary, payroll taxes and other benefits which are paid by the Manager shall be an expense reimbursable to Manager under the Budget.

6. Application of Funds. Manager shall pay the Association's financial obligations to the extent of available Association funds. Funds available shall be applied monthly as follows:

(i) Management Fee. First, to Manager's management Fee and other compensation to Manager, pursuant to Paragraph 9 hereof.

(ii) Reimbursement. Next, to reimbursement of Manager for any reimbursable expenses, including indemnities pursuant to Paragraph 11, or any funds advanced or incurred by Manager, in accordance with the Budget, or to carry out any of Manager's duties or responsibilities under this Agreement or as otherwise allowed under this Agreement on behalf of the Association.

(iii) Insurance. Next, to the payment of premiums on insurance policies for the Development carried by the Association and Manager.

(iv) Utilities. Next, to the payment of all utilities, if any, chargeable to the Association in accordance with either the Budget or otherwise as allowed under this Agreement.

(v) Balance. The balance shall be utilized, applied and disbursed and otherwise expended or reserved by Manager to pay Association expenses.

7. Duties of the Association

7.1 Interference. For so long as this Agreement remains in effect and is not properly terminated by the Association as herein provided, the Association shall not unlawfully interfere nor permit, allow or cause any of its officers, directors or Owners to interfere unlawfully with Manager in the performance of its duties or the exercise of any of its powers hereunder.

7.2 Amendments of Documents. The Association shall not amend any of the Project Instruments in a manner which might impair or prejudice the rights of Manager without the prior written consent of Manager.

7.3 Permits, Licenses and Quiet Title. The Association will use all commercially reasonable efforts to maintain quiet title to the common facilities in the Development and to obtain and maintain any and all permits and licenses necessary to the operations of the Development.

7.4 Meetings of Association. Manager shall receive written notice of any meeting of the Association's board of directors at least five (5) business days prior to the meeting, and shall have the right to have a representative attend, and shall cause a representative to attend all meetings of the Association and of any board of directors of the same. The minutes of all the Association's meetings, whether of Owners or of any board of directors, shall be taken by the Association's secretary and the minute book shall remain in the custody of said secretary, who shall always be responsible for preparing and furnishing notices of all meetings to the required parties. The Association shall provide Manager with a current roster of the officers and directors of the Association at all times, and with a current copy of any minutes taken of all meetings of both the Association and any board of directors.

At the Association's request, (i) Manager shall organize the meetings of the Owners, including the preparation and delivery of the notice of the meeting and the preparation of proxy forms; (ii) Manager shall prepare the agenda for the meeting, conduct the meetings and oversee the election of any board of directors; and (iii) Manager shall assist with the meetings of any board of directors, including the election of officers.

8. Deficits. Notwithstanding any implication in this Agreement or the Project Instruments to the contrary, Manager shall not be required to undertake to pay any costs or expenses necessary for the maintenance, repair, replacement, restoration, improvement, operation or administration of the Association from its own funds, and shall only be required to perform its services and make disbursements to the extent that and as long as, the payments of Assessments received by Manager from the Association and its members are sufficient to pay said costs and expenses in full. If it shall appear to Manager that said Assessments are insufficient to pay the same, and to adequately provide full reserves, Manager shall forthwith determine, advise the Association and, subject to the Association's approval, assess and collect from the Association and/or the Owners such additional Assessments as are required to pay expenses and/or maintain reasonable reserves. In the event of an emergency posing imminent danger to the Development or any portion thereof, including but not limited to the Units, the common elements or the common furnishings, or to the health or safety of any Owner or other person, Manager is authorized to expend from its own funds, for the protection of said property or person, an amount necessary to do so in its reasonable judgment, and the Association shall promptly reimburse Manager therefor.

The Manager shall have no obligation or fiduciary responsibility to make up shortfalls in the collection of maintenance fees or other assessments, but shall have the option of making advances, in the form of loans, to the Association as the Manager determines to be appropriate, in its sole discretion. Any such loans will be approved, in advance, by the Board of Directors of the Association. To the extent that the Manager does make loans to the Association, they shall be based upon terms with reasonable interest, the specific terms to be negotiated with the Board of Directors of the Association at the time of such loans.

9. Management Fee. In consideration for its services hereunder, Manager shall be paid the compensation provided for in the Fee Addendums or as specifically set forth herein. It is specifically understood and agreed that Manager shall perform all of the services required of it hereunder at no cost or expense whatsoever to itself, but solely at the cost and expense of the Association and that the compensation provided for in the Fee Schedule is to be after recovery of all sums advanced by Manager to provide the services required by this Agreement. Manager's Management Fee, overhead, employees and other costs, reimbursable expenses, accounting and administrative expenses, and other expenses necessary to fulfill Manager's obligations will be included in the Budget as Association expenses as reimbursable items. Any other out-of-pocket costs and expenses incurred by reason of special mailings, newsletters, polls and the like, requested by the Association, will also be considered reimbursable costs, which must be paid for by the Association. Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to preclude the payment to Manager or any of its affiliates of any fees, costs or compensation set forth in or contemplated by the Budget, provided that such fees, costs or compensation are for services or goods required by the Association and subject to Paragraph 4 hereof are not in excess of the prevailing rate or fees for such services or goods which would be charged by unaffiliated parties in arm's-length transactions.

10. Assignment. Manager may assign this Agreement in whole or in part with the consent of the Association, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, so long as the assignee agrees, in writing, to assume and perform the terms and covenants of this Agreement. Upon an assignment, Manager shall automatically be released from any and all further obligations hereunder for the assigned term. Manager may also assign this Agreement in whole or in part to any affiliate of Manager without the prior consent or approval of the Association. For purposes of this Agreement, an "affiliate" of Manager shall mean any company, partnership or entity in which either Manager or any of its constituent partners or shareholders owns _____ percent (_____%) or more of the beneficial ownership interest in such entity.

11. Indemnification. Manager shall not be liable to the Association or Owners for any loss or damage not solely caused by the fraud, gross negligence or willful misconduct of Manager, its employees, officers, directors, shareholders or agents, including the Subcontract Manager (collectively, the "Indemnitees"). The Association will defend, indemnify and hold the Indemnitees harmless from and against any such liability, or claims for damages, costs and expenses, including attorneys' fees, arising out of or related to the administration of the Indemnitees' duties hereunder, or from alleged injury to any person or property in and about, or in connection with the Development from any cause whatsoever, unless such loss or injury shall be solely caused by the fraud, gross negligence or willful misconduct of the Indemnitees not covered by the Association's insurance.

12. Default by Association. If the Association or its members shall interfere with Manager in the performance of its duties and exercise of its powers hereunder, or the Association shall fail to promptly do any of the things required of it hereunder, then Manager may, thirty (30) days after having given written notice to any officer of the Association, declare this Agreement in default if such default remains then uncured. Unless such default is cured by the Association within thirty (30) days following its receipt of such notice of default, Manager may, in addition to any other remedy given it by agreement or in law or equity, (i) terminate this Agreement pursuant to Paragraph 3 hereof, and (ii) bring an action against the Association for damages and/or injunctive relief. All rights of Manager, upon default, shall be cumulative and the exercise of one or more remedies shall not be deemed to exclude or constitute a waiver of any other additional remedy.

13. Miscellaneous

13.1 This Agreement shall be governed by, and shall be construed in accordance with, the laws of the State identified on the signature page hereto. The parties hereby waive any right they may have under any applicable law to a trial by jury with respect to any suit or legal action which may be commenced by or against the other concerning the interpretation, construction, validity, enforcement or performance of this Agreement or any other agreement or instrument executed in connection with this Agreement.

13.2 Except as otherwise specifically set forth herein, time is of the essence for all terms of this Agreement. In the event that Manager shall be delayed, hindered in or prevented from the performance of any act required hereunder by reason of strikes, lock-outs, labor troubles, inability to procure materials, failure of power, restrictive governmental laws or regulations, riots, insurrection, war or any other reasons beyond Manager's control, then performance of such act shall be excused for the period of the delay, and the period for the performance of any such act shall be extended for a period equivalent to the period of such delay.

13.3 No modification, release, discharge or waiver of any provision hereof shall be of any force, effect or value unless in writing and signed by the parties to this Agreement. No waiver of a breach of any of the covenants contained in this Agreement shall be construed to be a waiver of any succeeding breach of the same or any other covenant, irrespective of the number of violations or breaches thereof which may occur. This Agreement embodies the entire agreement between the parties hereto relating to the subject matter hereof and supersedes and replaces any and all prior negotiations, representations, agreements and understandings, both oral and written, in connection therewith. The invalidity in whole or in part of any covenant, promise or undertaking, or any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase or words, or of any provisions of this Agreement, shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions hereof. Whenever the context hereof so permits, the use of the plural will include the singular, the singular the plural and the use of any gender will be deemed to include all genders.

13.4 Except as may be otherwise provided herein, any notice, demand, request, consent, approval or communication under this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed duly given and made upon receipt. A party may designate a different address for receiving notices hereunder by notice to the other parties.

13.5 In the event either party hereto institutes an action to enforce its rights hereunder or to resolve any dispute arising with respect hereto, the substantially prevailing party in such action shall be entitled, in addition to any other relief granted by the court, to such reasonable attorney's fees and costs as such court may award.

20.92 Management Agreement--terminable at will

COMMENT

In connection with the ownership of real estate, particularly investment real estate, the owner of the property may not want to be involved in the day-to-day management of the property. The reasons for this are numerous. The owners may be strictly money managers, and may not have any real estate expertise. The owners may not be located in the same geographical area of the property, and it may be a way for a family to have equal ownership in a property and divert income and cash flow to family members that are actively involved with the operation of the property. Typically, a Management Agreement is utilized in connection with a multi-tenant property. The following form is a simple management agreement, and would likely be utilized in connection with a property when the management is being delegated to a trusted party. The following form is terminable at the will of the owner and places the risk of negative cash flow from the operations of the property upon the owner.

FORM

MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT is made and entered into this _____ [day] day of _____ [month] , _____ [year] , by and between _____, a(n) _____ corporation ("Owner"), and _____, a(n) _____ corporation ("Manager").

RECITALS

Owner is presently the owner of the property known as _____ (the "Property").

Owner desires to obtain the services of Manager to manage and operate the Property, and Manager is willing to render such services on the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth.

For good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are mutually acknowledged, the parties agree as follows:

1. Term. This Agreement may be terminated at any time by Owner upon written notice to Manager. This Agreement may be terminated by Manager upon thirty (30) days written notice to Owner.
2. Appointment. Owner appoints Manager, and Manager accepts such appointment, to manage, operate, supervise and conduct business of the Property during the term of this Agreement, upon the terms and conditions set forth.
3. Operation. Manager shall conduct business of and operate the Property in a good, efficient and lawful manner, and use its best efforts to preserve and protect the business, operations and goodwill of the Property. Subject to the requirements of this Agreement, Manager shall have reasonable discretion in the management and operation of the Property.

20.93 Management Agreement-apartment building

COMMENT

In connection with the ownership of real estate, particularly investment real estate, the owner of the property may not want to be involved in the day-to-day management of the property. The reasons for this are numerous. The owners may be strictly money managers, and may not have any real estate expertise. The owners may not be located in the same geographical area of the property, and it may be a way for a family to have equal ownership in a property and divert income and cash flow to family members that are actively involved with the operation of the property. Typically, a Management Agreement is utilized in connection with a multi-tenant property. The following form is a simple management agreement, and would likely be utilized in connection with a property when the management is being delegated to a trusted party. This form has a stated term and places the risk of negative cash flow from the operations of the property on the manager. The placing of the risk of negative cash flow from the operation of the property is not the typical situation, and would likely require a higher management fee. The form states that it is being utilized in connection with an apartment building, but it can be easily revised to cover any type of property. This type of structure gives the manager an incentive to operate the property efficiently.

20.94 Management agreement-unrelated parties

COMMENT

In connection with the ownership of real estate, particularly investment real estate, the owner of the property may not want to be involved in the day-to-day management of the property. The reasons for this are numerous. The owners may be strictly money managers, and may not have any real estate expertise. The owners may not be located in the same geographical area of the property, and it may be a way for a family to have equal ownership in a property and divert income and cash flow to family members that are actively involved with the operation of the property. Typically, a Management Agreement is utilized in connection with a multi-tenant property. The following form is a relatively comprehensive management agreement, typically for use with unrelated parties.

FORM

MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT, made and entered into as of the _____ day of _____, _____ and between _____ an Ohio limited liability company (hereinafter referred to as "Owner") and _____ (hereinafter referred to as "Manager").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Owner is the owner of the property located at _____, and the surrounding property and improvements, all of which are known as _____ (hereinafter referred to as "Property"); and

WHEREAS, Manager is experienced in the management of income properties similar to the Property; and

WHEREAS, Owner wishes to engage Manager, exclusively, as the manager of the Property, and Manager is willing to perform such responsibilities, all in accordance with the terms and provisions hereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, for and in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants herein contained, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

ARTICLE ONE

Definitions

For the purposes of this Agreement, the following defined terms shall have the meanings ascribed thereto:

1.01 "Agreement": This Management Agreement.

1.02 "Budget": The budget for the operation and management of the Property, as prepared and approved pursuant to Article Three hereof.

1.03 "Improvements": Any improvements now or hereafter erected on the "Property."

ARTICLE TWO

Employment of Manager

2.01 Employment. Owner hereby employs and authorizes Manager to take sole, entire and exclusive charge of the management of the Property, and Manager hereby accepts said employment and authorization and agrees to use the skills and efforts of Manager diligently to effect management of the Property. In the performance of Manager's duties hereunder, Manager agrees to render capable and competent services and to exercise due care in accordance with standard practices acceptable and common in the industry.

2.02 Independent Contractor Status. It is acknowledged that it is the express intent of Owner and Manager, and this Agreement shall be so construed, that the rights and duties hereby granted by Owner to Manager, and assumed by Manager, are those of an independent contractor only, with a fiduciary duty to Owner. Owner has retained Manager in such capacity because of Manager's expertise and experience in the management of income properties similar to the Property. Manager shall devote such portion of Manager's time, energy and skills in the accomplishment of Manager's duties hereunder in such manner as Manager sees fit.

ARTICLE THREE

Duties Of Manager

Manager shall take such actions, and perform such duties, as Manager deems necessary and desirable for the care, protection, operation, maintenance, repair and replacement, subject to the provisions hereof, of the Property, including, but not limited to the following:

3.01 Employment of Personnel. Manager shall investigate, hire, train, supervise and discharge such personnel as Manager deems necessary or desirable for the performance of Manager's duties hereunder. Such supervision and direction shall be the responsibility of Manager. All salaries, wages and other compensation of personnel employed by Manager hereunder, including fringe benefits, medical and health insurance, pension plans, social security, taxes, workman's compensation, et cetera, shall be borne and paid by Manager.

Manager agrees that Manager shall not discriminate against any employee, or applicant for employment, hereunder because of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, age or sex.

3.02 Preparation of Annual Report. Within sixty (60) days prior to the commencement of each succeeding fiscal year, Manager shall prepare and deliver to Owner an operating budget for the Property, setting forth an itemized statement of the estimated receipts and disbursements for the coming fiscal year. Said budget shall include a proposed rent schedule for all space within the Property, inclusive of then currently pending or projected repairs, replacements and additions thereto, and the market for competing properties similar to the Property. Owner and Manager shall jointly adjust, modify or amend said budget in order to fix the standard of operation for the succeeding fiscal year and the budget, as so revised and as it may be subsequently revised by agreement in writing executed by Owner and Manager, shall thereafter constitute the "Budget." Except in the case of emergency repairs permitted by Section 3.11 hereof or items specifically authorized by the Budget, or otherwise, no expenses may be incurred or commitments made by Manager in connection with the operation of the Property which would exceed the sum of Two Thousand and 00/100 Dollars ($2,000.00), or, in any event, which will, taken together with all additional commitments previously incurred or sums previously made or paid, exceed the line amount contained within said Budget, without the prior written consent of Owner. Provided, however, that written approval by Owner of a contract or other expenditure, capital or otherwise, shall, unless said written approval indicates otherwise on its face, not be included within any such line item and shall constitute an increase in the relevant line item of the Budget by said amount.

3.03 Property Bank Accounts. Manager shall open and maintain, during the term of this Agreement, a separate bank account, or, if Manager deems multiple accounts preferable, accounts, for the exclusive benefit of Owner and the Property, which account or accounts shall be separate from Manager's accounts and any other accounts maintained by Manager and not relating to the Property. Manager shall not mix any funds generated by the Property with any other monies of Manager or generated by other properties. All income and other monies received by Manager as a result of the operation of the Property or received by Manager as a result of the operation of the Property or otherwise delivered to Manager under the terms and provisions hereof shall be deposited in a timely manner by Manager in such separate account or accounts. All such monies shall be and remain the property of Owner and shall be disbursed by Manager, in accordance with the provisions hereof, in payment of the costs and expenses, including sums payable to Manager hereunder, of Owner relating to the Property.

3.04 Collection of Monies. Manager shall collect all rents, and all other amounts, whether in the form of rents, common area maintenance charges or other reimbursable expenses, due to Owner from any tenants within the Property, or licensees authorized to utilize portions of the Property and owe such sums to Owner as a result of the operation of the Property. In connection with enforcement of consumer price index or other escalators and collection of any other variable rent, Manager shall keep all records required to effectuate such collections. Owner hereby expressly authorizes Manager to request, demand, collect, and receive for all such rent and other charges and to institute legal proceedings, either in the name of Manager or, if necessary, the name of Owner for the collection of all such sums and expressly authorizes Manager to file any legal actions to enforce the terms of any lease or leases related to the Property, including, but not limited to, dispossessory actions and actions to terminate leases on space within the Property, if such is deemed necessary by Manager. The authority granted in this section as to lease enforcement shall be absolute except as to those restrictions, if any, placed on Manager, in writing, by Owner.

Any expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by Manager in connection with its performance under this section shall be borne by and paid by Manager. Manager is expressly authorized to retain counsel of its own choosing to assist Manager in fulfilling its responsibilities hereunder.

3.05 Leasing. Manager shall use its best efforts to lease space in the Property in accordance with guidelines furnished by Owner. Manager shall also negotiate for the renewal of leases; shall conduct all negotiations with tenants; and shall submit for Owner's prior written approval, all lease and/or lease renewal proposals.

3.06 Books and Reports. Manager agrees that it shall, during the terms of this Agreement and immediately thereafter, in accordance with the provisions hereof:

(a) Maintain, at the office of Manager, a comprehensive system of office records, books and accounts relating to the income, expenses and operations of the Property. Owner and those designated by Owner shall have access to such office records, books and accounts and to all vouchers, files and other material relating to the Property and maintained by Manager relating to the Property. Owner shall exercise its rights of inspection hereunder solely during normal business hours and shall do so in such a manner so as not to unreasonably interfere with the operations of Manager.

(b) Deliver to Owner, on or before the fifteenth (15th) day of each calendar month during the terms hereof, a detailed written report of all receipts and disbursements relating to the Property and made during the preceding calendar month, or any portion thereof. Such report shall be made on a cash, rather than accrual basis and shall include all such transactions, whether or not reimbursable pursuant to the provisions hereof. Said reports shall also include statements of arrearages of any tenant or others within the Property, vacancies, and the balance of sums retained in any escrow accounts maintained pursuant to the provisions hereof.

(c) Deliver to Owner, within sixty (60) days after the end of each fiscal year the Property, which fiscal year is hereby designated as running from January 1 to December 31 of each calendar year during the term hereof, a profit and loss statement showing the results of operations for the preceding fiscal year, or any portion thereof, as well as a balance sheet of the Property dated as of the end of such fiscal year. Each such report shall be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principals.

(d) In the event of the termination of this Agreement, whether by normal expiration or otherwise, Manager shall, within the applicable time period set forth herein, deliver to Owner both a monthly report and an annual report, each covering that portion of the relevant time period which is included within the term hereof, prior to such termination.

(e) Execute and file, in a timely fashion, all forms, reports and returns required by law relating to the employment of personnel in the operation of the Property (with the exception of income tax returns).

3.07 Compliance with Legal Requirements. Manager shall take such actions as may be necessary to comply with any and all orders or requirements affecting the Property by any federal, state, county or municipal authority having jurisdiction thereof, and order of the Board of Fire Underwriters or similar bodies subject to the limitations set forth in the Budget. Provided Manager is timely notified, Manager shall not, however, take any such actions for so long as Owner is contesting, or has affirmed its intention to contest and promptly institutes proceedings contesting, any such order or requirement, except that, if a failure to comply promptly with any such order or requirement would or might expose Manager to criminal or civil liability, Manager shall cause the same to be complied with. Manager shall promptly, and in no event later than seventy-two (72) hours from time of receipt, send written notice to Owner, including a copy thereof, of all such orders and notices of requirements and of Manager's actions or projected actions in response thereto.

3.08 Assistance in Tax and Awards Negotiations. Manager shall, when requested by Owner and without charge or reimbursement except for actual out-of-pocket costs, render advice and assistance to Owner in the negotiation and prosecution of all claims for the abatement of property taxes and other taxes effecting the Property and for awards for taking by condemnation proceedings or friendly acquisition in lieu thereof of all or portions of the Property.

3.09 Execution of Contracts. Subject to other limitations contained herein, including, but not limited to, those contained in the Budget, Manager shall, in the name of Owner, enter into such contracts and other agreements for the providing of all utilities and other services either required or deemed as desirable by Manager in connection with the operation of the Property. Manager shall order, in the name of Owner, such equipment, tools, appliances, materials and supplies as it deems desirable to properly maintain the Property, subject, however, to other limitations contained herein. If requested by the contracting third party, Owner shall execute such contract in its own name and by its own hand. Any contract in excess of _____ Dollars ($_____) per fiscal year must be approved in advance by Owner.

In the event that Manager delivers to Owner a written request that Owner approve, in writing, any such contract or order, and Owner does not, within ten (10) days of its receipt of such request, disapprove, by telephonic notice to be confirmed in writing, said contract or order, the same shall be considered approved by Owner and all costs, expenses, et cetera, shall be reimbursable to Manager hereunder. Manager shall always respect its fiduciary duty to Owner in the execution of such contracts or orders; provided, however, that Owner shall be required to cause to be made available to Manager such sums of monies as are required in order to enable Manager to obtain prompt payment, cause or similar discounts.

3.10 Maintenance and Repair of Property. Subject to limitations placed on it by the Budget, Manager shall maintain the Property in a first class manner, comparable to similar properties in the area of the Property. Such maintenance shall include, but not necessarily be limited to, interior and exterior cleaning, painting, decorating and maintenance, both preventative and otherwise, of all systems and improvements which are a part of the Property. All expenses incurred in connection with such maintenance shall be reimbursable by Owner to Manager, subject again to the Budget. Manager shall not incur or pay, in connection with said maintenance, any expense in excess of Two Thousand and 00/100 Dollars ($2,000.00), unless such item is contained within the Budget or has otherwise been, specifically authorized by Owner. Provided, however, the Manager is hereby authorized and empowered to incur or pay in excess of such sum in the event that emergency repairs or maintenance are required for the preservation and safety of the Property, to avoid the suspension of any service to the Property, or to avoid danger or damage to life or property. It is understood and agreed that, should any such emergency repairs be required, Manager shall bring same to the attention of Owner as soon as possible.

3.11 Insurance. Manager shall maintain, during the term of this Agreement, insurance in forms, companies and substance reasonably acceptable to Owner, and at Owner's sole cost and expense, as follows:

(a) Public liability insurance on a comprehensive general liability form in an amount of not less than _____ Dollars ($_____) single limit bodily injury and _____ Dollars ($_____) property damage;

(b) Fire and extended coverage insurance in an amount of not less than eighty (80) percent of the replacement cost of the Property, exclusive of land and excavation costs;

(c) Such other insurance as may be required by law or deemed desirable by either Owner or Manager to cover the interest of said parties, including, but not limited to, workman's compensation insurance, boiler insurance, burglary and theft insurance and, at the option of Owner, rent insurance;

(d) All insurance obtained pursuant to the provisions hereof, as well as any additional insurance which Owner, in its sole discretion, might desire to obtain, shall name both Owner and Manager as insured, as their interests may appear. Each such policy shall contain a waiver of subrogation reasonably acceptable to Owner;

(e) Manager shall promptly investigate all accidents, damages and other casualty to the Property or any claims of injury, to property or person, arising out of or related to the ownership, operation and maintenance of the Property. Manager shall promptly submit to Owner a written report regarding such incident including an estimate of the cost of repair of any damage or destruction and its recommendations as to such repair. Manager shall prepare, for approval by Owner, any and all reports required of any insurance companies or other interested entities or governmental bodies regarding such damage, destruction or injury; and

3.12 Claims. Manager shall advise Owner promptly, with confirmation in writing, of the service upon Manager of any summons, subpoena, or other similar legal document, as well as receipt of any notices, letters or other communication, setting out or claiming an actual or alleged potential liability of the Owner, the Property or Manager, arising out of the Property. The written confirmation by Manager to Owner shall include a copy of any such summons, subpoena, et cetera.

3.13 Disbursements. Manager shall, to the extent that funds are available from receipts relating to the Property or otherwise received from Owner, cause to be disbursed in a timely fashion;

(a) Sums reimbursable to Manager pursuant to the provisions hereof,

(b) Amounts otherwise due and payable as operating expenses of the Property and authorized pursuant to the terms and provisions hereof, inclusive of any compensation due and payable to Manager hereunder.

All such disbursements shall be made from the account, or accounts, maintained by Manager pursuant to the provisions hereof and any sums remaining in said account, subject to a reasonable reserve as agreed upon by Owner and Manager, shall be disbursed in accordance with the written instructions of Owner. Owner shall, in connection with Manager's duties hereunder, promptly forward to Manager any tax statements, payment schedules, invoices or similar notices received by Owner relating to the Property and requiring payment of sums relating thereto.

3.14 Tenant Relations. Manager shall take such actions as it deems necessary in order to maintain a professional, businesslike relationship with all tenants within the Property. All requests, complaints and notices delivered to Manager by any tenants will be incorporated into the monthly reports required to be delivered by Manager to owner hereunder and such reports shall indicate the action, or proposed action, taken, or to be taken, with respect thereto. Manager shall periodically review all leases and tenant premises within the Property in order to ensure compliance, by both Owner and tenant, with the leases.

ARTICLE FOUR

Responsibilities of Owner

4.01 Contract Execution. Owner agrees that it shall, if requested by Manager or any third party contracting with Owner pursuant to the provisions of Article Three hereof, execute in its own name and by its own hand any such contracts.

4.02 Payments to and Reimbursement of Manager. Owner covenants and agrees that it shall make available to, or otherwise cause to be made available to, Manager such sums as are required pursuant to the provisions hereof to (i) pay to Manager all compensation required by Article Six hereof, and (ii) reimburse (or provide monies) for all expenses incurred pursuant to this Agreement. Manager shall not be required to, although it may in its sole discretion, advance its own funds for the benefit of Owner. This provision shall survive the termination of this Agreement, whether by normal expiration or otherwise.

Not later than thirty (30) days prior to the end of the term, Manager shall notify Owner that the term is about to expire and Owner shall have sixty (60) days to notify Manager that it wishes the term not to be automatically extended for an extension period of ten (10) years. If not so notified, the term shall be automatically renewed for a ten (10) year period. Thereafter, this Agreement shall continue on a year-to-year basis unless terminated by either party.

For this purpose, "for cause" shall mean (i) Manager's indictment or conviction of a felony, (ii) a material breach by Manager of this Agreement, (iii) Manager's gross neglect of his duties, or commission of an act of dishonesty toward Owner's business, (iv) Manager's addiction to alcohol or any drug or substance (whether or not prescribed by a physician), or (v) the occurrence of any act or omission, or set of facts and circumstances, set forth hereinbelow.

(a) Provided that the necessary funds are available, either through Property receipts or deposits by Owner, Manager fails to pay any sum payable under this Agreement when due or fails to perform or comply with any of its obligations hereunder at the time or times and in the name required under this Agreement, provided that the Owner first gives the Manager prior written notice of such default or breach and the Manager (A) when the default or breach is a failure to pay a sum payable hereunder fails to pay such sum within five (5) days of receipt of such notice; or (B) when the default or breach is other than the failure to pay a sum payable hereunder, fails to commence curing any default or breach within ten (10) days of receipt of such notice, or after commencing the same fails to pursue the curing of such default with due diligence;

(b) Manager files a petition to be adjudicated a bankrupt or for reorganization or arrangement under the bankruptcy laws of any state or of the United States;

Manager may terminate this Agreement, immediately and at any time (for so long as the default continues), upon giving written notice to Owner after any one of the following:

(a) Owner does not fulfill its obligations hereunder with regard to deposit of any sums required by Manager, as reimbursement of expenses incurred by Manager, on behalf of Owner, hereunder or as compensation to Manager, provided that Manager first gives Owner prior written notice of such sums within five (5) days of receipt of such notice;

(b) Owner files a petition to be adjudicated a bankrupt or for reorganization or arrangement under the bankruptcy laws of any state or of the United States;

5.03 Termination Upon Destruction, Condemnation, Sale. This Agreement shall terminate upon the date of any damage or destruction of the Property which in the reasonable opinion of either party materially affects the operation of the Property for its intended purpose and the Property ceases so to be operated. This Agreement shall also terminate upon the date of the conveyance to or taking by any authorized entity under the threat of or by eminent domain of the Property or any portion thereof which in the reasonable opinion of either party materially effects the operation of the Property for its intended purpose and the Property ceases so to be operated.

5.04 Duties Upon Termination. Upon termination, whether by normal expiration or otherwise, of this Agreement, the parties hereto agree that:

Manager shall be entitled to retain copies of all records, documents and other agreements which were in Manager's possession relating to the Property, and Owner shall execute and deliver to Manager a receipt evidencing delivery by Manager to Owner of all papers or items delivered in accordance with the provisions hereof. Additionally, Owner shall expressly indemnify and hold Manager harmless from and against any and all costs, damages or expenses (including attorney's fees) arising out of any claims made or threatened for return of security deposits so delivered to Owner.

(b) Anything contained herein to the contrary notwithstanding, no termination of this Agreement, whether by normal expiration or otherwise, shall release either party from any obligations or liabilities arising under the terms and provisions hereof prior to the date of such termination or pursuant to continuing contracts or other commitments approved, pursuant to the terms and provisions hereof, prior to the date of such termination. It is expressly agreed that no such termination shall effect or modify in any respect the compensation due and payable, or to become due and payable, by Owner to Manager hereunder. In connection with any termination of this Agreement, Manager shall assign to Owner, if same are assignable, all contracts and other agreements, if any, executed in the name of Manager, relating to the operation and maintenance of the Property. 7.12 Captions. The captions appearing before Sections and Articles in this Agreement have been inserted solely for the purposes of convenience and ready reference. They do not purport to, and shall not be deemed to, define, limit or extend the scope or intent of the Sections or Articles to which they appertain.

20.95 Office Sharing Agreement--doctor

This agreement involves two doctors who want to share space. One doctor is the lessee of the space, and therefore, is responsible for and controls the space. This agreement is for an arms-length transaction which is intended to cover all aspects of the relationship, including, non-compete provisions and referrals. To some extent, this agreement contains elements of a sublease, however, this Agreement specifically attempts to avoid granting the adjunct doctor an interest in the real estate.

6. Reimbursement for Variable Office Expenses. Commencing on _____ [month] _____ [day] _____ [year] and on the same day of each successive month thereafter, Adjunct Doctor agrees to pay to the Company on or before the first _____ [last] day of each month a sum equal to _____ percent (_____%) of the costs incurred by the Company during the preceding month in connection with the expenses identified on Schedule 6, attached hereto. Costs and expenses of the Company not identified on Schedule 6 will be considered fixed office expenses.

7. Representations and Covenants of Adjunct Doctor. Adjunct Doctor represents to the Company that he is a duly licensed and qualified doctor of chiropractic medicine, in good standing and authorized to practice chiropractic medicine in the State of _____. Adjunct Doctor agrees that at all times that this Agreement shall remain in effect that he will remain duly licensed and qualified to practice chiropractic medicine within the State of _____.

8. No Partnership. The parties agree that this Agreement should not be construed to create a partnership, joint venture or other similar profit-sharing arrangement. Furthermore, the parties agree that this Agreement should not be construed to authorize either party to act on behalf of, or in any way bind, the other party. Except as specifically set forth herein, each party will be responsible for the payment of his or its own expenses, including, without limitation, income taxes, self-employment taxes, worker's compensation, disability insurance, retirement benefits, professional dues, continuing education and malpractice insurance. In addition, each party will be responsible for the generation, billing and collection of his or its own revenue.

9. Insurance. During the term of this Agreement, each party will maintain malpractice insurance from reputable companies licensed to conduct business in the State of _____ with customary terms and amounts as are generally maintained by reputable chiropractors in _____ County, _____. No compensation is required after the expiration of the first (1st) year.

- (b) a claim of malpractice resulting from the activities of the other party; or
- (c) any cost or expense of the other party;

Adjunct Doctor has carefully considered the nature and extent of the restrictions upon him and the rights and remedies conferred upon the Company hereunder and hereby acknowledges and agrees that the same are reasonable in time and territory, are designed to eliminate competition which otherwise would be unfair to the Company, do not stifle the inherent skill and experience of Adjunct Doctor, would not operate as a bar to Adjunct Doctor's sole means of support, are fully required to protect the legitimate interests of the Company and its shareholder and do not confer a benefit upon the Company disproportionate to the detriment of Adjunct Doctor. Adjunct Doctor further acknowledges that the Company would not have entered into this Agreement without this provision.

14. Modifications; Equitable Relief. The Company and Adjunct Doctor expressly agree that if any claim is made that any of the covenants set forth in Paragraphs 12 and 13 above is invalid or unenforceable, due to the duration or geographic area thereof, and/or otherwise, the covenant shall not thereby be rendered invalid or unenforceable, but it shall instead be modified to the maximum duration, maximum geographic area, and/or otherwise as a court of competent jurisdiction examining the covenant shall find to be reasonable and legally enforceable. The Company and Adjunct Doctor acknowledge that a violation of the covenants set forth in Paragraphs 12 and 13 above will result in irreparable harm to the Company and, accordingly, the Company and Adjunct Doctor agree that the Company shall be entitled to injunctive relief to enforce such covenants, as well as damages at law as may be recovered by the Company. In the event Adjunct Doctor shall violate any legally enforceable provision of this Agreement as to which there is a specific time period during which Adjunct Doctor is prohibited from taking certain actions or from engaging in certain activities, as set forth in such provision, then, in such event, such violation shall toll the running of such time period from the date of such violation until such violation shall cease.

15. Severable Provisions. The provisions of this Agreement are severable, and if any one or more provisions may be determined to be illegal or otherwise unenforceable, in whole or in part, the remaining provisions and any partially unenforceable provision to the extent enforceable in any jurisdiction shall nevertheless be binding and enforceable.

16. No Interest in Real Estate or Lease. The parties acknowledge and agree that this agreement is not intended to create an interest in real property or convey to Adjunct Doctor an interest in the Premises (as defined in the Lease) and that this Agreement does not constitute a Sublease and/or Assignment of the Lease.

21. Assignability. This Agreement may not be assigned by either party, and any purported assignment or attempted assignment will be null and void and of no force or effect whatsoever.

22. Force Majeure. The Company will not be deemed to be in default of this Agreement as a result of being unable to perform its obligations hereunder as a direct or indirect result of cause beyond the reasonable control of the Company; provided, however, in such event, both parties shall use reasonable efforts to remedy the conditions preventing such performance hereunder.

20.96 Office sharing agreement--related companies

COMMENT

This agreement is a very simple agreement between two companies that have common ownership, but seek to maintain separate existences. Typically, this type of agreement is used so that a creditor of one company will be unsuccessful in arguing that it should be able to hold the other liable for the debts of the other because they operated as one enterprise. Again, one party typically will be in control of the real estate and this agreement should avoid granting the other party a right in the real estate. The drafter must be careful, because if the lessee of the premises defaults under its lease, the other party could be left without a place to operate its business.

FORM

XYZ Co.

Gentlemen:

This letter is intended to set forth the agreement between XYZ Co. and ABC Co. relating to the common use of certain facilities and management services.

XYZ Co. is the lessee of the premises located at _____ (the "Premises"). Both companies will conduct their businesses at the Premises. In addition, certain employees of XYZ Co. will provide management and administrative services to ABC Co. from time to time.

To the extent possible, each company will incur and pay their own expenses. However, the companies acknowledge that each company may incur expenses which benefit both companies (i.e., rent, utilities, telephone and office equipment). Further, certain employees will render services to both companies (i.e., receptionist and certain management personnel). The parties acknowledge that it is difficult to predict the amount of these expenses. As a result, the parties agree that with respect to expenses incurred by either company which benefit both companies, XYZ Co. will be allocated _____ percent (_____%) and ABC Co. will be allocated seventy-_____ percent (_____%) of such expenses. [Alternative approach -- The parties acknowledge that it is difficult to specifically account for the amount of these expenses attributable to each company. As a result, the parties agree that with respect to expenses incurred by either company which benefit both companies, that they will allocate such expenses based upon the fraction using the aggregate gross revenue of the companies as the denominator and the gross revenue of each company as the numerator. The parties will reimburse each other as often as practicable, however, in all events the parties will reconcile and reimburse any amounts due on an annual basis. The party paying such expense will be promptly reimbursed by the other party.

The parties agree that this Agreement should not be construed to create a partnership, joint venture or other similar profit sharing arrangement. Furthermore, the parties agree that this Agreement should not be construed to authorize either party to act on behalf of, or in any way bind the other party. Except as is specifically set forth herein, each party will be responsible for the payment of their own expenses, including, without limitation, income taxes, worker's compensation, retirement benefits, and insurance. In addition, each party will be responsible for the generation, billing and collection of their own revenue.

The parties agree to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the other party with respect to claims, causes of action, damages, fees (including reasonable attorney's fees), costs or expenses which the other party incurs or becomes subject to as a result of the following:

- (a) A breach of this Agreement by the other party; and
- (b) A claim resulting from the activities of the other party.

This agreement shall have a term of one (1) year and shall be automatically renewed annually thereafter, unless one (1) of the parties hereto shall notify the other in writing of their intent to terminate the contract thirty (30) days prior to the end of the term then in effect.

20.97 Arbitration clauses

COMMENT

Many of the form agreements contained in this Chapter contain arbitration clauses. Most of the clauses are relatively simple in nature and refer solely to the rules of the American Arbitration Association. In order to avoid disputes, the practitioner may find it preferable to provide for a more detailed dispute resolution mechanism. The following two arbitration clauses provide alternatives to the simple language clause. Each provision requires mediation prior to the dispute being arbitrated. Mediation may be helpful because it requires the parties to sit down and negotiate before time, costs, and effort of preparing for arbitrating a dispute. While arbitration should be faster and cheaper than a typical lawsuit, it can still be time consuming and expensive.

FORM

Clause No. 1

Any controversy, claim, or breach between the parties relating to this Agreement or the Company, shall first be submitted to an independent mediator knowledgeable in the area in which the dispute arose. If the parties, using reasonable efforts are unable to resolve the dispute through mediation, then the dispute shall be settled by arbitration in _____ [city] , _____ [state] under the Commercial Rules of the American Arbitration Association in effect at the time such controversy, claim or breach shall be selected from a panel of persons having experience with and a knowledge of the issue in dispute. The panel will consist of at least three (3) arbitrators. The award of the arbitrators will be final, binding and non-appealable. Judgment on the award may be entered in any court, state or federal, having jurisdiction. The cost of any arbitration, including the fees and expenses of the arbitrators, will be paid by the losing party. The parties agree and acknowledge that money damages may not be an adequate remedy for a breach of a provision of this Agreement and that either party, in its sole discretion, may apply to a court for specific performance and/or injunctive relief in order to enforce or prevent any violations of the provisions of this Agreement.

Remedies

(a) In the event a dispute of any kind arises in connection with this Agreement, including any dispute concerning its construction, performance or breach, the Members will attempt to resolve the dispute as set forth in subsection (b) before proceeding to arbitration as provided in subsection (c). The Members waive all rights to seek remedies in any court (except to enforce the provisions of this Agreement in circumstances in which subsection (d) applied) and the right to jury trial. All documents, discovery and other information related to any such dispute, and the attempts to resolve or arbitrate such dispute will be kept confidential to the fullest extent possible.

(b) If a dispute arises, any Member will give notice to the other Member. After notice has been given, the Members in good faith will attempt to negotiate a resolution to the dispute.

(c) If, within twenty (20) days after the notice provided in subsection (b), a dispute is not resolved through negotiation or mediation, the dispute will be arbitrated. The Members agree to be bound by the selection of an arbitrator, and to settle the dispute exclusive by binding arbitration in accordance with the following provisions:

(i) The Members will collectively select one arbitrator. If they fail to do so within thirty (30) days after the notice provided in subsection (b), the Members will request the American Arbitration Association to submit a panel of ten arbitrators who are qualified in such matters from which the choice will be made. The Members will flip a coin and the loser will strike first, followed by alternative striking until one name remains. The Members may by agreement reject one entire list and request a second list. If selection by the above method is not completed within sixty (60) days after the notice provided in subsection (b), then an arbitrator will be selected by the American Arbitration Association. That arbitrator will then arbitrate the dispute in _____ [city], _____ [state], and issue an award.

(ii) The arbitration will be conducted under the Commercial Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association. The arbitrator shall have no ability to add, change or delete provisions of this Agreement and shall be required to interpret the terms of this Agreement as they exist. The award of the arbitrator will be final, binding and non-appealable. Judgment on the award may be entered in any court, state or federal, having jurisdiction.

(iii) The cost of any arbitration including the fees and expenses of the arbitrator, will be shared by the Members to the dispute in equal proportions. Each Member will bear his own costs, expenses and attorney's fees.

(d) The Members agree and acknowledge that money damages may not be an adequate remedy for any breach of the provisions of this Agreement and that either Member, in his sole discretion, may apply to the court for specific performance and/or injunctive relief in order to enforce or prevent any violations of the provisions of this Agreement

20.98 Rules and regulations--mobile home

COMMENT

A written copy of the park rules should be given to each resident prior to the resident's execution of the rental agreement. The rules and regulations should be posted in a conspicuous location at the park. Many parks have business offices or laundry facilities. These are excellent locations to post the rules and regulations. Mobile home parks are highly regulated and local laws should be reviewed before the rules and regulations are put into place or changed. A good practice is to attach the rules and regulations to the rental agreement.

FORM

Rules and Regulations of _____ Purpose

1. These rules and regulations are binding on all residents, their guests and visitors, and park management of this mobile home park. The park operator has promulgated these rules to preserve uniformity and quality of standards, convenience, and enjoyment of all persons interested in this mobile home park. No one will be denied residency or tenancy in this mobile home park on the basis of race, ancestry, color, religion, creed, sex, or marital status.

Guests

2. Guests who have stayed with a resident or tenant more than a total of twenty consecutive days or a total of thirty days in a calendar year and who intend to stay on for any continued period beyond that must register with the park operator. Guests include any family of the resident's or tenant's mobile home other than the resident or tenant and his or her spouse and minor children.

Pets

3. Animals are not allowed in the park.

Mobile Home Standards

4. All mobile homes and mobile home accessory structures and buildings must be approved by the management before being placed or installed on individual lot sites. Complete skirting and awning installation of mobile homes is required within fourteen (40) business days of occupancy in this mobile home park. Awnings are required over the length and width of patios and carports of mobile homes. Residents and tenants of this mobile home park may acquire installation and accessory equipment from any vendor of their choice. Approved forms of mobile home accessory buildings and structures are available for purchase or rental from the park operator, including installation on the lot site, as follow: [list equipment and charges].

Mobile Home Exteriors

5. Exteriors of all mobile homes must be kept clean and neat. All connections for utilities must be kept in safe, leak proof, and operative condition at all times. Clothing or other items not approved as accessories by management may not be hung from or outside of any mobile home. Clothes may be hung in the dryer yards of the laundry facilities. Patio furniture and barbecue equipment on the patio and a storage cabinet on the carport side are the only items permitted outside of a mobile home.

Lot Maintenance

6. All lot sites must be maintained by their residents or tenants in a clean, well-kept, and attractive fashion. The park operator may take over care of any neglected lot site and bill the resident or tenant for services rendered. Each resident or tenant must landscape the lot site within thirty (30) days of taking occupancy. Residents and tenants will maintain any lawns, flowers, and shrubs on their lot sites in an orderly, trimmed, and water manner and will keep all trash, debris, boxes, barrels, brooms, ladders, and other equipment out of site. Gardening equipment is available at the park operator's office for borrowing without charge. Unsightly decorations should not be used on lot sites. On vacating a lot site, the resident or tenant must ascertain that the lot site is leveled and have all holes filled, unless otherwise consented to in writing by the park owner.

Lot Usage

7. Lot sites are to be used for residential purposes in a manner that does not disturb the peaceful enjoyment of any part of the premises of this mobile home park by any resident or tenant. home. All material or debris gathered or accumulated under a mobile home must be removed immediately on request of management.

Utilities

other automobiles, motor homes, trailers, boats, and other vehicles must be parked in the parking areas or assembly centers provided for the appropriate kind of vehicle. The park operator will issue passes for permanent parking of all vehicles that are required to be parked in special areas. Residents and tenants may be assigned up to two parking spaces besides their carport parking areas free of charge.

Tenant Meetings

13. Meetings of residents, tenants, and occupants of mobile homes in this mobile home park relating to mobile home living and affairs may be held in any of the community or recreation halls or facilities of this mobile home park. Meetings must be held at reasonable hours when the hall or facility is not otherwise in use. All tenant meetings should be booked through either the park operator's office or the secretary of the tenant's association in order to assure that no other meeting is scheduled for the same time and place.

Tenants' Association

14. Residents and tenants of this mobile home park may join the tenants' association and membership is exclusively limited to them. The association is responsible for setting the social, educational, and recreational programs for this mobile home park community. It also is responsible for negotiating with the park operator in respect to rents, facilities, services, and charges. Due and procedures for operating are to be adopted by the association, and it will operate according to bylaws established and amended by its members.

Cooperation with Park Operator in Cleanup and Safety

15. All residents, tenants, and their guests have a responsibility to report to management any unsightly or unsafe condition that they observe in this mobile home park. Each should also keep the premises of this mobile home park free from any such conditions due to their own use of the premises and facilities. Residents and tenants are to cooperate with management in any formal fire protection or education program reasonably prescribed to maintain the safe condition of this mobile home park and the physical well-being of all its occupants.

Annoying Conduct

16. No residents, tenants, or their guests may engage in any conduct within any mobile home, at any lot site, or anywhere in this mobile home park that may reasonably be determined to constitute a substantial annoyance to other residents or tenants. Upon formal notice from management to desist from any annoying activities, a resident or tenant must immediately comply. A resident or tenant who believes that the conduct complained about is unreasonably categorized as an annoyance may request an immediate open meeting of tenants and the park operator to discuss the issue. After the meeting, the park operator will make a new determination of whether to demand that the resident or tenant refrain further from the conduct.

Compliance with Park Rules

17. All residents, tenants, and their guests shall fully comply with all park rules and amendments to these rules. Residents and tenants must keep themselves currently informed of the rules and amended rules in effect and have the responsibility of keeping their guests informed of appropriate rules on any occasion. If the park operator has reasonable grounds to believe that any resident or tenant is in violation of the park rules, the park operator may deliver the resident or tenant at least one written notice of the alleged violation. The tenant or resident shall be given _____ (e.g., thirty) days to comply with the rule before tenancy may be terminated.

19. These park rules may be amended by the park operator at any time, as long as the amendment is not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Prior written notice of collective meetings may be given to all residents and tenants by the park operator. Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.01

§ 21.01 Summary of this Chapter

§ 21.02 The Taxable Event. Gain or loss on disposition of property generally is reportable for the year of realization. A completed sale is a taxable event, so that gain or loss is realized in the year that title passes. Offers, contracts to sell, and grants of options to purchase property, however, do not constitute taxable events. But, sale, exchange, or nonexercise of option may result in recognition of gain or loss.

§ 21.03 Options to Buy Real Estate. Exercise of option is treated as purchase by option holder and sale by grantor. Gain or loss on sale or exchange of option is treated as capital gain or loss if underlying property would be capital asset in option holder's hands. Option payments are not usually included in income until option is exercised or lapses. Failure to exercise option is treated as sale or exchange, and results in ordinary or capital loss. Option gives right, but not obligation, to purchase property.

§ 21.04 Amount of Gain or Loss. Amount of gain or loss from sale or other disposition of real property is the difference between its adjusted basis and "amount realized." Basis for computing gain or loss is generally cost of property, increased by capital expenditures and certain other adjustments, and decreased by depreciation or cost recovery deductions allowed or allowable.

§ 21.05 Dealer Property or Capital Asset Status. Tax consequences of selling real estate depends on purpose for which held or used. Property used in taxpayer's trade or business is a "quasi-capital" asset which produces capital gain or ordinary loss. Property held by taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in ordinary course of trade or business produces ordinary income or loss. Otherwise, real estate is a capital asset producing capital gain or loss.

§ 21.06 Cost Recovery and Depreciation. The cost of depreciable real property is recovered under the straight-line method over a 27.5 year period for residential rental property and 39 years for nonresidential real property. Residential real property must have 80 percent of gross rental income from dwelling units. Lessee improvements are recovered over recovery period rather than lease term. Real property placed in service from 1981 through 1986 was eligible for accelerated cost recovery. Depreciation is allowed for real property placed in service before 1981.

§ 21.07 Recapture of Cost Recovery and Depreciation. Depreciation or accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS) deductions taken or allowed in previous years on certain real or personal property may be recaptured as ordinary income upon disposition of the property. Recapture provisions prevent taxpayers from realizing favorable capital gain treatment on some or all of gains resulting from use of cost recovery of depreciation allowances to the extent they previously reduced taxable income.

§ 21.08 Passive Activity Loss Limitation. Losses from passive activities may not offset other income, but may offset income from same or other passive activities. Disallowed passive activity losses are carried forward indefinitely to offset income from passive activities in following years. Disallowed losses are used to offset passive and nonpassive income when activity is completely disposed of in a taxable disposition. Passive activities include trade or business, or activities for production of income, in which taxpayer does not materially participate, and rental activities.

§ 21.09 At Risk Limitation on Loss Deductions. Losses from activity of holding real property are limited to amount taxpayer has at risk. Amount at risk includes money and property contributed to activity, and borrowed funds. Nonrecourse financing amounts are not at risk. However, for real property, qualified nonrecourse financing is amount at risk. Qualified nonrecourse financing is generally amounts borrowed from government or institutional lenders. At risk rules apply to individuals, including partners and S corporation shareholders, and to closely held corporations.

§ 21.10 Postponement of Income Recognition: General and Special Rules. "Amount realized" on sale or other disposition of real property includes fair market value of property received, including notes or other evidence of indebtedness, for unpaid portion. Original issue discount and imputed interest rules may apply to deferred or installment sales if adequate interest is not provided.

§ 21.11 Postponement of Income Recognition: Installment Sales. If some or all of sales price is paid after year of sale, installment method or reporting gain is applied automatically, unless seller elects otherwise. Dealers are not eligible to report under installment method. Under installment method, seller reports as income in any taxable year the proportion of payments received during that year which gross profit to be realized bears to total contract price. Depreciation recapture income must be recognized in taxable year of sale even if gain on sale qualifies for installment sale treatment. Interest charges are imposed on deferred tax payments resulting from certain installment dispositions of real property.

§ 21.12 Tax-Free Exchanges. No gain or loss is recognized when property held for productive use in a trade or business or for investment is "exchanged" solely for property of "like kind" which is to be held either for such productive use or for investment. Receipt of "other property or money" (i.e., "boot") in tax-free exchange results in recognition of gain to extent of boot received. Like-kind exchange postpones depreciation recapture except to extent of boot received. Exchange of like-kind property with related party does not qualify for nonrecognition treatment if either party disposes of transferred property within two years.

§ 21.13 Sale-Leaseback Transactions. Sale-leaseback transactions offer tax and other financial advantages to seller, as lessee, and purchaser, as lessor. However, if a transaction has no legitimate business purpose and is considered to be primarily for tax avoidance, it may be recharacterized for tax purposes as a mortgage loan or similar arrangement, resulting in corresponding changes to anticipated tax benefits. Each case is decided on its own facts.

§ 21.14 Exclusion of Gain from Sale of Principal Residence. Taxpayers may typically exclude up to $250,000 of gain from the sale of a residence which the taxpayer has owned and used as a principal residence for periods aggregating two years or more during the five year period ending on the date of the sale. Married taxpayers filing a joint federal income tax return may typically exclude $500,000 of gain. There is no requirement that the sales proceeds be used to purchase another residence and the taxpayers need not be any certain age to utilize the exclusion.

§ 21.15 Residential Mortgage Interest Deduction. Qualified residence interest not subject to deduction limitation on personal interest. Qualified residence interest includes interest on acquisition indebtedness and home equity indebtedness secured by principal residence or second home. Maximum allowed acquisition indebtedness is $1 million. Home equity indebtedness is limited to $100,000.

§ 21.16 Sale of Real Property Related Interests. Sale of real property related interest may involve sale of leasehold, or real estate partnership interest, or of real estate corporation stock. Different tax consequences may result from disposition, depending upon the particular interest sold.

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.02

§ 21.02 The Taxable Event

[1] Sales--When Title Passes

As a general rule, gain or loss on the sale of real estate is reportable when it is realized. Realization of gain or loss is deemed to result in the year that the transaction is completed, so that the mere execution of a contract of sale does not trigger any tax consequences. Generally, a sale is considered to be completed when title passes.ⁿ¹ In some situations, however, the transaction may be deemed to have been completed before title passes. An example is when possession is transferred to a buyer under a contract of sale, even though the deed is delivered and an adjustment of purchase price is made in the following year.ⁿ² Another example of a completed transaction without passage of title is where a deed and possession is tendered by an accrual basis seller but is refused by the buyer, and where specific performance of the contract is enforced in the subsequent year.ⁿ³

[2] Offers and Contracts

The transfer of anything less than title generally does not trigger any tax consequences. Thus, an offer to purchase or sell, the making of a contract, the conveyance of an exclusive option to purchase, or the tender of a down payment, does not, in itself, constitute a taxable event. No gain or loss is realized in such cases, even if the seller is on the accrual basis.ⁿ¹

An advance payment for property to be constructed has been held to be a mere deposit, not a selling price.ⁿ² On the other hand, a sale was held to be sufficiently consummated by an accrual basis seller where a warranty deed was placed on record, even though payment of the purchase price was dependent upon a subsequent ascertainment of acreage and an examination of title.ⁿ³ With respect to an option, no income was deemed to be realized even though part of the sales price was received, where the agreement required the seller to deliver a deed only if and when the payments made pursuant to the option aggregated a specified sum before a fixed future date, or where, under local law, the purchaser had a right to forfeit his initial payment and not take title.ⁿ⁴

[3] Options

The mere granting of an option to purchase property does not constitute a taxable event.ⁿ¹ Gain or loss may result, however, if an option is sold or exchanged, or if the optionee fails to exercise it.ⁿ² The federal income tax aspects of options to purchase real estate are discussed in greater detail in the following section.

[4] Reporting Real Estate Transactions

Real estate transactions are required to be reported to the Service. The primary person responsible for reporting the transaction is the attorney or title company responsible for closing the transaction. If there is no person responsible for closing the transaction, the reporting must be done by the mortgage lender. If there is no mortgage lender, the reporting must be done by the seller's broker. If there is no seller's broker, the reporting must be done by the buyer's broker. If there is no buyer's broker, the reporting is to be done in accordance with regulations. This reporting requirement applies to real estate transactions closing after 1986.ⁿ¹

Planning Notes

Refinancing Transactions Are Not Reported: Reporting Forms and Rules. Information reporting is not required on refinancing of real estate, unless required by regulations according to the Conference Committee Report to the Tax Reform Act of 1986. A form similar to Form 1099 used to report customer information by securities and other brokers should be available from the Service. A statement must also be given to customers whose name(s) appear on the form on or before January 31 of the year following the transaction.ⁿ²

Backup Withholding May Be Required for Real Estate Transaction. Backup withholding rules under I.R.C. Section 3406 require withholding of 20 percent of payments from reportable payments, when a payee fails to furnish a taxpayer identification number (i.e., social security number or employer identification number). However, the definition of "broker" required to withhold does not include a real estate broker under the real estate transaction reporting requirements. However, the amendment to I.R.C. Section 3406(h) does permit the Service to issue regulations including real estate brokers (or title closers, or attorneys) in the definition of brokers required to comply with backup withholding.

Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.03

§ 21.03 Options to Buy Real Estate

The holder of an option may exercise the option, sell, or exchange it, or let it lapse by failing to exercise within the required time. Each of these actions, or inactions, may result in different tax treatment for both the option holder and grantor. Each requires a separate analysis to determine the tax consequences.

[1] Options Defined

There is a clear distinction between an option and a contract of sale. An option gives a person a right to purchase at a fixed price within a limited period of time but imposes no obligation on the person to do so, while a contract of sale contains mutual and reciprocal obligations: the seller is obligated to sell and the purchaser is obligated to buy.ⁿ¹

An executory contract for the sale of an asset is not the equivalent of an option even though the amount paid to the seller upon execution is retained as liquidated damages upon the buyer's breach. As a result, it is not an option and the purchaser suffers an ordinary loss upon the failure to consummate the transaction.ⁿ²

Capital gain treatment was denied when a contract to purchase property gave the taxpayer a five-year option to acquire the property. The contract also permitted the optionors to purchase the option from the taxpayer at a stated price rather than to sell the optioned property itself. The court found that the payment to the taxpayer amounted to a cleverly disguised finder's fee.ⁿ³

[2] Exercise of Option

Generally, if the holder exercises an option, the transaction is treated as a purchase by the holder and a sale by the option grantor. For example, the holding period of the property begins the day after the property is acquired, rather than when the option is acquired, and the seller's holding period ends with the sale.ⁿ¹ The purchaser's cost for the option is included in his basis for the acquired property.ⁿ² The receipt of consideration for giving an option to buy property is treated as a nontaxable transaction until the option is either exercised or lapsed. If the option is exercised, the consideration is treated as part of the selling price. If the property itself is a capital asset, any loss on a sale under an exercise of the option is a capital loss.ⁿ³

Example:

John pays $5,000 for an option to purchase real property on the payment of an additional $95,000. The option is given on January 1, 2001. The grantor of the option has held the property for only three months as of January 1, and his basis is $90,000. John exercises the option, and the transfer of title takes place on July 1, 2002. John's basis in the property is $100,000, and his holding period starts the day after the closing or settlement. The Seller's holding period exceeds the one-year period required for long-term capital gain, and his gain is $10,000, i.e., $100,000 less the $90,000 basis.

[3] Sale or Exchange of Option

Gain or loss from the sale or exchange of an option to buy or sell property which is, or if acquired would be, a capital asset in the hands of the taxpayer holding the option is considered gain or loss from the sale or exchange of a capital asset. The period for which the taxpayer has held the option determines whether the capital gain or loss is short-term or long-term.ⁿ¹ However, any gain or loss realized from the sale or exchange of an option by a dealer in options is considered as ordinary income or loss. A dealer in options to buy and sell property is considered a dealer in the property subject to the option.ⁿ²

Example 1:

Louis is searching for a residence, and acquires an option to buy a house at a fixed price. Although the property goes up in value, Louis decides he does not want the house for his residence and sells the option for more than he paid for it. The gain which Louis realized is a capital gain since the property, if acquired, would have been a capital asset in his hands.

Example 2:

Assume the same facts as in Example 1, except that the property goes down in value, and Louis decides not to purchase the house. He sells the option at a loss. While this is a capital loss, it is not a deductible loss because it is not a business or investment loss.ⁿ³

Example 3:

John, a dealer in industrial property, acquires an option to buy an industrial site and fails to exercise the option. The loss is an ordinary loss since he would have held the property for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business if he had acquired it.ⁿ⁴

The allowance of capital gain or loss on the sale or exchange of an option does not apply to an option to lease property, but does apply to an option to buy or sell a lease. Therefore, an option to obtain all the right, title, and interest of a lessee in leased property is subject to the rule allowing capital gain, but an option to obtain a sublease from the lessee is not. When the rule applies to an option to buy or sell a lease, it is the character the lease itself, if acquired, would have in the hands of the taxpayer, and not the character of the property leased, which determines the treatment of gain or loss of the taxpayer with respect to the option.ⁿ⁵

[4] Option Payments

The granting of an option does not constitute a taxable sale. No income is realized even upon the receipt of part of the sales price when the agreement requires the grantor of the option to deliver a deed only if and when the payments are made in a specified sum before a fixed date.ⁿ¹ Generally, the treatment of the option payment is not determined until the option is exercised or lapsed. If the option is exercised, the seller realizes gain or loss at that time.ⁿ² Any gain to the grantor of an option arising from the failure of the holder to exercise it is ordinary income.ⁿ³

Despite the general rule that the transaction remains "open" until the option is either exercised or forfeited, there can be immediate ordinary income recognized on granting the option if the taxpayer can have only ordinary income whether the optionee exercises the option or allows it to expire.ⁿ⁴

[5] Failure to Exercise Option

If the holder of an option to buy or sell property incurs a loss on failure to exercise the option, the option is deemed to have been sold or exchanged on the date that it expired. Any such loss to the holder of an option is treated under the general rule that loss incurred when the option is unexercised is either an ordinary loss, or a capital loss, depending on the character of the property covered by the option.ⁿ¹ The period that the taxpayer held the option determines whether the loss is long-term or short-term.ⁿ²

Example 1:

Robert purchases an option for $5,000 to acquire real property. The option expires three months after it is written, and Robert fails to exercise it. Assuming the real estate would be a capital asset in Robert's hands, the loss would be a capital loss. However, because the option was held for only three months, the loss would be short term.

Example 2:

Robert, a dealer in real property, acquires a one and a half year option on real estate for $10,000. Robert fails to exercise the option. Although Robert held the option long enough to qualify for a long term loss, the loss is not a capital loss because Robert is a dealer in real property. The property would not be a capital asset in his hands, but would be treated as similar to inventory.ⁿ³

If an owner of property receives payments under an option which are subsequently forfeited, income normally is not realized until the time of forfeiture. This rule applies even though the payments exceed the basis of the property.ⁿ⁴ Any gain realized by the grantor of an option upon the failure of the holder to exercise it is ordinary income.ⁿ⁵

If an owner of property has granted a purchase option but then pays for its release in order to sell the property to another person, the payment is a capital expenditure which increases his basis for the property.ⁿ⁶

Planning Note

If Optioned Property Is to Be Resold, Capital Gain from Sale of Option Is Better than Ordinary Income from Sale of Property. If the holder of an option locates a buyer for the optioned property, willing to pay a higher price, taxes may be saved by selling the option rather than the property. The holding period for the option starts when the option is acquired. Under the same principle, the holding period for the property does not start until the property is purchased by exercise of the option. If the option runs for a period longer than the long term capital gain holding period, the holder can achieve long term capital gain on the sale of the option. The option, however, must be held for the required long term capital gain period (more than one year, for options acquired after 1987). If the option is held for the required time and the option is exercised, the holding period for the property starts the day after it is purchased. There is no tacking of holding periods here, and the property must be held for the required time before long term capital gain can be achieved. If a buyer is found before the option is exercised, it may be better to sell him the option after it has been held for the required time, rather than exercise the option, acquire the property, and wait during the required holding period to sell it.

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.04

§ 21.04 Amount of Gain or Loss

[1] In General

The amount of gain or loss realized from the sale or other disposition of real property, as with dispositions of property in general, involves consideration of two factors: the adjusted basis of the property conveyed and the amount realized. Gain or loss is the difference between the adjusted basis and the consideration received.ⁿ¹

Generally, the basis for computing gain or loss is the seller's original basis (usually cost, which includes mortgages involved in the original acquisition), adjusted upward for improvements and other capitalized expenditures or investments, and adjusted downward by cost recovery or depreciation deductions allowed or allowable in prior years.ⁿ² The amount realized is the sum of any money received plus the fair market value of the property (other than money) received plus debt relief.ⁿ³

[2] Adjusted Basis

[a] Original Cost

The adjusted basis for determining the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property is the basis adjusted as provided in I.R.C. Section 1016.ⁿ¹ The basis of property is generally its cost.ⁿ² Original cost basis for real property consists of amounts paid or incurred in constructing or acquiring and perfecting title to the property. Such costs include fees for architects, attorneys and surveyors, as well as costs of defending title and removing a cloud on title. The face amount of a purchase money mortgage is part of the purchase price, as is the face amount of an existing mortgage assumed by the taxpayer at the time of purchase. Even where the property is acquired subject to an existing mortgage which the taxpayer does not assume, its basis includes the amount of that non-recourse obligation.ⁿ³ There are significant benefits of including a loan in the basis of property it finances. If the property is eligible for depreciation deductions, including the debt in the basis enables a taxpayer to recover costs that he or she has not yet paid or assumed directly. Although the outstanding debt will be included in the taxpayer's amount realized on eventual sale (offsetting the earlier depreciation deductions), the taxpayer enjoys the time value of the depreciation deductions.

If, subsequent to the purchase, the taxpayer gives a mortgage on the property as security for a loan, that transaction normally has no effect on the basis of the property.ⁿ⁴ Since no gain is realized when the taxpayer obtains, without personal liability, a mortgage in excess of the property's basis, that excess does not give the taxpayer a stepped-up basis for the computation of gain or loss when the property is subsequently disposed.ⁿ⁵

The cost of real property does not include any portion of real property taxes that are treated as imposed upon the purchaser.ⁿ⁶ This rule applies whether or not the contract of sale calls for the purchaser to reimburse the seller for such taxes paid or to be paid by the seller. On the other hand, if the purchaser pays, or assumes liability for, real property taxes which the Code treats as imposed upon the seller, such taxes are considered part of the cost of the property.ⁿ⁷

[b] Improvements

The most common adjustments which increase the basis of real property are improvements and betterments.ⁿ⁸ There is specific statutory authority for capitalizing taxes and other carrying charges, incurred with respect to unimproved property and property under development, which are properly chargeable to capital account and which have not been previously taken as deductions.ⁿ⁹ Abandonment losses and distribution losses result in a decrease of basis.ⁿ¹⁰

[c] Other Adjustments

The only other adjustment to the basis for real property is for depreciation, cost recovery, obsolescence, amortizations, and depletion.ⁿ¹¹ Since the allowance for depreciation or cost recovery is limited to property which is used in the trade or business, or which is held for the production of income,ⁿ¹² no such adjustment is required in computing gain or loss on the sale of a taxpayer's residence. Where the basis of property is determined by its basis in the hands of the transferor, or by the basis of property exchanged by the taxpayer (i.e., carry-over basis), the depreciation adjustment must be made for the period during which the property was held by such transferor, or for the period during which the other property was held.ⁿ¹³

[3] Amount Realized

The second factor in determining the amount of gain or loss is the amount realized upon the sale or other disposition. The "amount realized" from the sale or other disposition of property is the sum of any money received plus the fair market value of other property (except money) received (such as the purchaser's obligations to pay in the future, plus outstanding mortgages which the purchaser assumes or to which the property is subject).ⁿ¹

In determining the amount realized, any amount received as reimbursement for real property taxes, which is treated under I.R.C. Section 164(d) as imposed upon the purchaser, are not taken into account; however, account amounts representing real property taxes which are treated under that statute as imposed upon the seller if those taxes are to be paid by the purchaser are taken into account.ⁿ²

In the case of a deferred payment sale, the obligations of the purchaser received by the seller are considered as an amount realized by the seller to the extent of their fair market value in ascertaining the gain or loss from the transaction. If the obligations have no fair market value, the payments in cash or other property having a fair market value are applied against and reduce the basis of the property sold, and, if they exceed such basis, are taxable to the extent of the excess. Gain or loss is realized when the obligations are disposed of or satisfied; that amount is the difference between the reduced basis, as discussed above, and the amount realized. Only in rare and extraordinary cases does property have no fair market value.ⁿ³

The requirement for immediate realization of obligations with a fair market value is not limited to sales in which there is an immediate transfer of title. This rule applies also to purchase and sale agreements which contemplate that a conveyance is not to be made at the outset but only after all, or a substantial portion of the selling price has been paid.ⁿ⁴

If the buyer assumes a mortgage for which the seller is personally liable (a recourse mortgage), the selling price includes the face amount of the mortgage.ⁿ⁵ Moreover, the Supreme Court has held, in two separate decisions, that the amount realized on a sale of property includes a nonrecourse obligation, whether the amount of such obligation exceeds or is less than the property's fair market value.ⁿ⁶ In the latter of these two cases, the Court held that when a taxpayer sells or otherwise disposes of property encumbered by a nonrecourse obligation that exceeds the fair market value of the property sold, the amount realized includes the outstanding amount of the obligation. The Court pointed out that the only difference between a nonrecourse mortgage and one on which the borrower is personally liable is that, in the event of nonpayment, the nonrecourse mortgagee's remedy is limited to foreclosure against the secured property. In effect, the risk of devaluation of the property is shifted from the borrower to the lender, but the nature of the obligation is not altered. The Court also stated that the amount of nonrecourse liability is to be included in calculating both the basis of the propertyⁿ⁷ and the amount realized on disposition. The fact that the nonrecourse loan exceeded the value of the property was deemed to be irrelevant.ⁿ⁸ In the earlier case, the Court held that the amount realized on sale of property included a nonrecourse obligation assumed by the purchaser, who also paid cash, even though the amount of that liability was less than the fair market value of the property. The Court indicated that the face amount of the mortgage had to be included in the selling price because the cash payment proved that the property was worth more than the mortgage.ⁿ⁹

[4] Recognition of Gains and Deductibility of Losses

Gain realized from the sale or other disposition of real property is included in income, unless an exclusion or nonrecognition provision applies.ⁿ¹⁰ The Internal Revenue Code contains a number of exceptions which permit taxpayers to postpone or permanently exclude the reporting of gain. Most are narrowly defined and constitute the exception rather than the general rule. Several including the exclusion of gain from the sale of a principal residence, the nonrecognition of gain from the exchange of like-kind properties and the involuntary conversion of property are addressed later in this chapter.ⁿ¹¹

Just as recognized gains are included in the taxpayer's gross income, losses sustained by the taxpayer are generally deductible.ⁿ¹² However, for individuals, only three types of sustained losses are deductible: (1) losses that are connected with a trade or business; (2) losses that are incurred in a transaction entered into for profit; and (3) casualty losses.ⁿ¹³ As a result of this loss limitation, a loss sustained on the sale of residential property purchased or constructed by the taxpayer for use as his personal residence and so used by him up to the time of the sale is not deductible. However, if the property is, prior to sale, rented or otherwise appropriated to income-producing purposes and is used for such purposes up to the time of its sale, a loss sustained on the sale of the property shall be allowed as a deduction.ⁿ¹⁴

Planning Note

Basis of Real Property Not Constant. The basis of real property is not necessarily constant, but may be "adjusted" upward (such as by capitalized expenditures), or downward (by depreciation or cost recovery allowances). Thus, for the purpose of computing gain or loss upon the disposition of real property, these adjustments must be taken into account. Capital expenditures will result in a higher adjusted basis, thereby creating a smaller gain (or larger loss) when the property is sold. Conversely, depreciation or cost recovery deductions will result in a lower adjusted basis, thereby producing a larger gain (or smaller loss) upon disposition.

If a taxpayer pays cash for improvements to property, the taxpayer obtains an upward basis adjustment for such expenditures. If a taxpayer finances improvements in the typical way--borrows money from a bank and "pays" the contractor with the borrowed money--the taxpayer also obtains an upward basis adjustment. What if cash method taxpayers, already the owners of the property, have improvements made to their property, and issue their own promissory notes to the contractor rather than paying cash (e.g., improvements financed by the contractor itself)? In Owen v. United States, 34 F. Supp. 2d 1071 (W.D. Tenn. 1999) , the court held that cash basis taxpayers cannot increase their basis on account of the improvements until they make payments on their promissory notes.

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.05

§ 21.05 Dealer Property or Capital Asset Status

[1] General Rule for Capital Gains and Losses

Capital gain or loss may result from the sale or exchange of a capital asset.ⁿ¹ Individuals typically prefer gains to be classified as capital gains rather than ordinary income, since capital gains have been afforded preferential tax treatment. For sales after May 5, 2003, long-term capital gain of individuals (and of estates and trusts) is generally taxed at a maximum rate of 15%,ⁿ² as compared to a much greater maximum rate on ordinary income.ⁿ³ On the other hand, individuals prefer losses to be characterized as ordinary losses, because of the statutory limitation on capital loss deductions. An individual's capital losses can only be used to offset capital gains; plus, if such losses exceed such gains, an individual may offset up to $3,000 of such excess capital losses against other income.ⁿ⁴ For corporations, the maximum tax rate for capital gains is 35 percent, which is also the maximum corporate tax rate.ⁿ⁵ Corporate capital losses are deductible only to the extent of capital gains.ⁿ⁶

[2] Net Capital Gains and Losses

The tax treatment of capital gains and losses depends upon specific rules which, in effect, determine whether there are net capital gains (taxed only at a specified maximum rate for individuals) or net capital losses. The holding period of capital assets is an important factor distinguishing between long-term and short-term capital gains and losses, which, in turn, determine net capital gain or net capital loss. The long-term capital gains apply only if the property is "held" by the taxpayer for more than the prescribed holding period.ⁿ¹ Thus, gain or loss realized from the sale or exchange of a capital asset is long-term if the property is held for more than one year (more than six months for property acquired after June 22, 1984 and before January 1, 1988), and is short-term if the property is held for one year or less (six months or less for property acquired after June 22, 1984 and before January 1, 1988).ⁿ² The holding period is generally the same as the period during which it is "owned" by the taxpayer.ⁿ³

[3] Categories of Property for Tax Purposes

For tax purposes, property is divided into two major categories, capital assets and noncapital assets. There is a special rule for certain noncapital assets which, for purposes of this discussion, we may call "quasi-capital" assets. In effect, therefore, there are three major classes of property: (1) capital assets, the sale or exchange of which produce either capital gain or loss; (2) noncapital assets, the sale or exchange of which produce either ordinary income or loss; and (3) "quasi-capital" assets, the sale or exchange of which produce either capital gain or ordinary loss, under special rules.ⁿ¹ Each of these categories are briefly discussed below.

[4] Capital Assets

The term "capital asset" refers to all property held by a taxpayer, regardless of whether it is connected with his trade or business, except for eight categories of property described in the Code.ⁿ¹ For the purposes of the sale or exchange of real estate, the following categories of property do not constitute capital assets:

(1) property held by a taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business;ⁿ² and

(2) depreciable property or real estate (i.e., land) used in a taxpayer's trade or business.ⁿ³

Property may be depreciated if it is used in the taxpayer's trade or business, or if it is held for the production of income.ⁿ⁴ In this context, only property which is depreciable (or subject to recovery under the accelerated cost recovery system) and real estate (i.e., land) that is used in the trade or business is excluded from the definition of "capital asset." Property which is held for the production of income is not excluded.ⁿ⁵ Real estate (i.e., land) is designated separately from depreciable property used in the trade or business because land may not be depreciated.ⁿ⁶

In determining whether property is a "capital asset," the period for which it is held is immaterial; however, the holding period is controlling in determining whether any gain or loss realized from the sale or exchange of such asset is short-term or long-term gain or loss.ⁿ⁷

[5] Noncapital Assets

Although the Code does not define noncapital assets, the sale of which produces either ordinary income or loss, they generally fall within one of the categories of property (such as stock in trade or inventory) that are excluded from the definition of capital assets.ⁿ¹ However, this statutory exclusion has been judicially broadened. The Court has stated that the "preferential" treatment of capital gains "is an exception from the normal tax requirements of the Internal Revenue Code" and that "the definition of a capital asset must be narrowly applied and its exclusions interpreted broadly."ⁿ² Ordinary income includes any gain from the sale or exchange of property which is neither a capital asset nor property used in a trade or business. Ordinary loss includes any loss from the sale or exchange of property which is not a capital asset.ⁿ³

[6] "Quasi-Capital" Assets

A "quasi-capital" asset is an asset the sale of which will produce either a long-term capital gain or an ordinary loss under special provisions of the Code.ⁿ¹ It consists of depreciable property or real estate used in a taxpayer's trade or business which is held for more than one year (more than six months for property acquired after June 22, 1984 and before January 1, 1988).ⁿ² In contrast with the definition of a capital asset, the holding period for a quasi-capital asset constitutes a material part of its definition. As in the case of capital assets, however, quasi-capital assets do not include what would otherwise be classified as inventory or other property which, for the most part, is excluded from the definition of capital assets.ⁿ³

The full thrust of the tax rules concerning quasi-capital assets covers not only the sale or exchange of property used in a taxpayer's trade or business, but also any involuntary conversion of such quasi-capital assets, and also capital assets held for more than one year (more than six months for property acquired after June 22, 1984 and before January 1, 1988). Accordingly, only if the gains exceed the losses from all of such transactions, for the taxable year, will such gains and losses be considered as long-term capital gains and losses.ⁿ⁴ Conversely, if the losses equal or exceed the gains, all of the gains and losses are considered as ordinary income and loss.ⁿ⁵

Thus, as a result of the aggregating process described above, if there are gains and losses on different assets, the taxpayer may not take an ordinary loss on the gross losses, and capital gains on the gross gains. Such gains and losses will be either capital or ordinary in nature, depending upon whether gains exceed losses.ⁿ⁶

[7] Dealer Property; Dealer vs. Investor Status

The application of the capital gain provisions to persons actively engaged in selling real estate has resulted in extensive litigation. Where a profit is realized, the taxpayer urges that he is an investor and not a dealer, so that he may obtain preferential capital gain treatment. Where a loss is incurred, however, the taxpayer contends that he is a dealer, so that an ordinary loss may be taken. Perhaps more than in any other area of the tax law, each case must be decided on its own facts. For the purpose of determining dealer status, the primary criteria are frequency and substantiality of the taxpayer's sales.ⁿ¹

In determining whether a taxpayer is a dealer with respect to a parcel of real property, the facts and circumstances connected with the purchase, operation, and sale of that particular parcel must be separately considered. Thus, a taxpayer may hold some property as a dealer and some property as an investor.ⁿ²

The courts have developed a number of criteria for determining when property is dealer property. The most important factors are:

- (1) the nature and purpose of the acquisition and the duration of ownership;
- (2) the extent and nature of sales efforts;
- (3) the number, extent, continuity, and substantiality of sales;
- (4) the extent of subdividing, developing, and advertising to increase sales;
- (5) the use of a business office for sales;
- (6) the taxpayer's control over any sales representatives; and
- (7) the time and effort habitually devoted to the sales.ⁿ³

Example:

The sale of 22 parcels of real estate during a three-year period, together with a relatively short holding period for most of the parcels, led to a holding that the taxpayer realized capital gain on the sale of investment properties rather than ordinary income on the sale of dealer properties (i.e., properties held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of trade or business). The court based its decision on the following factors: the taxpayer was not a real estate broker; he made no personal effort to initiate the sales (the buyer came to him); he did not advertise, have a sales office, hire brokers, or develop or improve the properties; and he devoted minimal time and effort to the sale.ⁿ⁴

An individual who is in the business of subdividing property for sale or exchange holds the property "for sale to customers," even though his sales are not made through brokers.ⁿ⁵ The nature of the original acquisition may be significant, at least where the selling activities are not very extensive. Thus, the Tax Court has held that parcels acquired for use as nursery tracts were not sold by the taxpayer as a dealer where the city built streets through the tract, and where the taxpayer did not actively attempt to sell but merely accepted satisfactory orders.ⁿ⁶

Financing construction through long-term loans is an indication that the taxpayer contemplated investment rather than sale.ⁿ⁷ Parcels acquired by inheritance are not held for sale to customers where the taxpayer merely lists them for sale.ⁿ⁸ Earlier dealings of the taxpayer may indicate that the property was acquired for sale. Where the taxpayer acquires property for sale and never changes his purpose, frequent sales produce ordinary income even though he is able to make the sales without extensive activity.ⁿ⁹

The Code requires that the property be held primarily for sale to customers.ⁿ¹⁰ The Court has construed that term to mean "of first importance" or "principally."ⁿ¹¹ Thus, a merely "substantial" sales purpose does not meet the "primarily" requirement.ⁿ¹² The Court apparently requires a finding of a singly dominant purpose at the outset, even though other "substantial" purposes are present.ⁿ¹³ An evaluation of the taxpayer's purpose in holding the real estate cannot be limited to circumstances existing at the time of sale; consideration should also be given to the purposes for which the property was acquired and held, the motive at the time of sale, and the method of sale.ⁿ¹⁴

Property is not acquired for sale merely because the taxpayer realizes at the outset that the inability to rent the property might force its sale.ⁿ¹⁵ Also, capital gain was allowed to a housing developer who was undecided at the time of an unsolicited offer as to whether to develop the property or hold it for investment, because neither purpose had ripened into the "principal" purpose at the time of sale.ⁿ¹⁶

Capital gain treatment is allowed in favor of certain noncorporate taxpayers who subdivide real property for sale under limited circumstances.ⁿ¹⁷ Where a noncorporate taxpayer who is an actual investor (or, at least, who was so when the property was first acquired) sells lots or parcels from a tract of land, the sales will not be treated as property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of trade or business solely because the taxpayer subdivided the tract for sale, or tried to sell the property. Certain conditions must be met, however:ⁿ¹⁸

- (1) The property must not have been held primarily for sale in the ordinary course of business at any previous time, unless the special subdivision provisions applied to that circumstance, nor may any other real property be so held during the taxable year in which the sale occurred;
- (2) The taxpayer cannot have made any "substantial improvement" that substantially enhances the value of the parcel or lot sold; and
- (3) The lot or parcel, except where acquired by inheritance or devise, must have been held by the taxpayer for at least five years.

If all the above requirements are met, the taxpayer may sell up to five lots or parcels from a tract and treat the proceeds as amounts received for property not held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business, i.e., the proceeds will be treated as capital gains.ⁿ¹⁹

[8] Nonbusiness Capital Assets

Land and buildings not used in the taxpayer's trade or business are capital assets, and, therefore, are subject to both the capital gain and loss rules.ⁿ¹ Sales of business real property, as indicated above, may produce capital gain or ordinary loss. The distinction may be especially difficult to make when applied to rental property. In a district court opinion upheld by the Second Circuit, it was held that mere renting does not make "business" property, unless the renting involves substantial supervision and maintenance activity.ⁿ² The Tax Court has held, however, that depreciable property is "used in the trade or business," and is, therefore, a noncapital asset, when it is devoted to the production of taxable income.ⁿ³ The Tax Court's income-production test also has been applied to a residence converted to rental property.ⁿ⁴ Moreover, even property which the taxpayer unsuccessfully attempted to rent has been held to be noncapital.n5

[9] Transactions Between Related Taxpayers

The general rules relating to capital or ordinary income treatment of gains and losses do not apply to transactions between related taxpayers. Special rules apply under such circumstances. Among other things, these rules:

- (1) disallow deductions for losses (and certain expenses) on transactions between related taxpayers;n1
- (2) deny losses and provide for the realization of ordinary income instead of capital gains on transactions between taxpayers and controlled partnerships;n2 and
- (3) require a taxpayer to realize ordinary income on the sale of depreciable property to a related person.n3

In addition, the Service may reallocate gains and losses among commonly controlled taxpayers (corporate or noncorporate) where there is tax avoidance intent.n4 Such reallocation may result in tax consequences which the parties did not intend.

Planning Note

If Higher Tax Rates Are Expected, Delay Capital Gains and Losses. If you anticipate higher tax rates in the future and if the sale or exchange of real property can be held off until a later tax year, the capital gain or loss may receive a better tax benefit. If the tax rates are increased, the capital losses can be used to offset other income that would be taxed at those higher rates. The maximum tax on any net capital gain of an individual is generally 15 percent.n5

§ 21.06 Cost Recovery and Depreciation

[1] Depreciation and ACRS Deductions--Generally

Taxpayers may recover the cost of property used in the trade or business or held for the production of income, over the time that the property is used. Specifically, the Code provides a depreciation deduction, or a "reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear (including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence)" of business or income-producing property. Depreciation of property placed in service before 1981 was allowed by assigning property an expected useful life, and deducting the property's cost, less salvage value, over that life through the use of one of several accounting methods.ⁿ¹ The depreciation provisions have taken on diminishing importance because of the introduction of the accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS).

Under the ACRS,ⁿ² the cost of "recovery property" placed in service after 1980 is deducted over a pre-established period of time, rather than the taxpayer's estimated useful life of the property. "Recovery property" is placed into one of several general categories or classes, based upon its useful life under the guideline class to which it is assigned by the Service. Deductions allowed for the property are taken in accordance with statutory prescribed methods to be written off each year. At the completion of the specified period, e.g., 27.5 years for residential rental property and 39 years for nonresidential real property under a straight-line method, the deductions will have totaled the original basis of the depreciable property (salvage value is not considered).ⁿ³

[2] Cost Recovery of Real Property: 1987 and After

[a] Recovery Method and Periods

The cost recovery allowance for tangible property, including real property, is determined by using the applicable depreciation method, recovery period, and convention.ⁿ¹ Most depreciable real property will fall within the category of residential rental property or nonresidential real property. The applicable depreciation method for each of these classifications is the straight line method, not an accelerated method.ⁿ² The applicable recovery period for each is as follows:ⁿ³

Real Property

Recovery Period

Residential Rental Property	27.5 years
Nonresidential Real Property	39 years

The applicable convention for residential rental property and nonresidential real property is the mid-month convention. Under the mid-month convention, the real property placed in service or disposed of by a taxpayer at any time during a month is treated as having been placed in service or disposed of in the middle of the month.ⁿ⁴ Under an alternative depreciation system, the taxpayer can irrevocably elect, on a building by building basis, a longer 40 year straight line recovery period for residential rental property or nonresidential real property.ⁿ⁵

[b] Real Property in Recovery Property Classes

A building or structure is residential rental property for the tax year if 80 percent or more of the gross rental income from it for the tax year is rental income from dwelling units. A dwelling unit is a house or apartment used to provide living accommodations in a building or structure, but does not include a unit in a hotel, motel, inn, or other establishment more than one half of the units in which are used on a transient basis. The rental value of the portion of the building or structure occupied by the taxpayer is included in the gross rental income to determine if the 80 percent test is met.ⁿ⁶

Example 1:

Martin constructs a six-story building starting in 2000. When it is placed in service in 2001, the first floor is rented to a retail store at $15,000 rent for the year. The dwelling units are rented and generate rental income of $60,000 for the tax year. Since 80 percent ($$60,000/$75,000$) of the gross rental income is from the dwelling units, the building qualifies as residential rental property in 2001.

Example 2:

Martin operates the retail store in the building in Example 1 in 2002, and he also occupies one of the apartment units. If the fair rental value of the store and the apartment are the same as in 2001, the building would qualify as residential rental property since the rental value of the store and the apartment occupied by Martin are treated as rental income from the building.

Example 3:

The building in Example 1 produces $18,000 rent from the store in 2002 and $64,000 gross rental income from the apartments. Since only 78.05 percent ($$64,000/$82,000$) of the gross rental income comes from the dwelling units, the building does not qualify as residential rental property in 2002.ⁿ⁷

Nonresidential real property is Section 1250 property, i.e., depreciable real property, which is not residential rental property or property with a class life of less than 27.5 years.ⁿ⁸ For example, nonresidential real property would not include real property with a class life of less than 27.5 years, such as a theme or amusement park (12.5 year class life), recreational facilities, including theaters, bowling alleys, and miniature golf courses (10 year class life), or even farm buildings (25 year class life). Since the class life of property is subject to revision by the Service, the latest ruling by the Service should be reviewed.ⁿ⁹

[c] Improvements and Leasehold Improvements

The cost recovery allowance for any addition to or improvement of property is computed in the same manner as the deduction for the underlying property would be computed if the underlying property were placed in service at the same time as the addition or improvement.ⁿ¹⁰

The recovery period of any addition or improvement to property begins on the later of (1) the date on which the addition or improvement is placed in service, or (2) the date on which the property, on which the addition or improvement was made, is placed in service.ⁿ¹¹

The cost of leasehold improvements made by a lessee, including the erection of a building on leased property, is recovered under the cost recovery rules, without regard to the lease term. On termination of the lease, the lessee who does not retain the improvement computes gain or loss by reference to the adjusted basis of the improvement at that time.ⁿ¹²

In determining the amortization period for the lessee's cost of acquiring a lease (rather than leasehold improvement made by the lessee) the lease term is treated as including all renewal options, and any other period for which the parties reasonably expect the lease to be renewed, if less than 75 percent of the lease acquisition cost is attributable to the period of the term of the lease remaining on the date of its acquisition. In determining the period remaining on the term of the lease under the 75 percent test, the period of renewal, extension, or continuation under an option exercisable by the lessee are not taken into account.ⁿ¹³

[3] Accelerated Cost Recovery of Real Property: 1981-1986

The accelerated cost recovery system required the capital cost of qualified real (or personal) property, placed in service by the taxpayer during 1981 through 1986, to be recovered by an accelerated or straight-line method (without regard to salvage) over predetermined periods generally unrelated to, but shorter than, the property's useful life.ⁿ¹ The ACRS applied to "recovery property," which was defined as depreciable tangible property used in a trade or business or held for the production of income.ⁿ² Depreciation under I.R.C. Section 167 remains in effect for property placed in service before 1981.ⁿ³

[a] Recovery Property; Recovery Period

Several classes of recovery property were distinguished by the number of years over which cost recovery deductions may be taken with respect to the property in each class.ⁿ⁴ At the completion of the specified period, the deductions should total the original basis of the property. Salvage value is not taken into account in determining the allowable deductions.ⁿ⁵

Most real property fell within a class which described its recovery period. This was initially "15-year real property," later extended to "18-year real property," and then "19-year real property." Other classes for which real property could qualify included "10-year property" and "low-income housing," the latter remaining with a 15-year recovery period.ⁿ⁶ The recovery periods and methods still apply to taxpayers who placed that property in service during the applicable periods.

A taxpayer could have elected to recover the cost of recovery property over a period longer than that described above, using the straight line method. Thus, for ten-year property the electable recovery periods were 10, 25, or 35 years; for 15, 18, or 19-year real property, the electable periods were 15, 18, 19 (respectively), 35, or 45 years.ⁿ⁷ The election could be made on a property-by-property basis with respect to 15, 18 or 19-year real property or low-income housing.ⁿ⁸ Longer periods were required for property used predominantly outside the United States.ⁿ⁹

Under special "anti-churning rules," the ACRS provisions excluded (and still exclude) property obtained in certain transactions from qualifying as recovery property even if acquired by the taxpayer after 1980 (or 1986). These rules, which apply to real and personal property, were (and are) designed to prevent taxpayers from turning their depreciable property placed in service before 1981 (or 1986) into ACRS property available for the newer writeoffs.ⁿ¹⁰

[b] Recovery Methods; Cost Recovery Deductions

The accelerated cost recovery allowance for 15, 18 or 19-year real property, was based on the 15, 18, or 19-year recovery period using a method similar to 175 percent declining balance (200 percent in the case of low-income housing property), switching to a straight-line method in later years to maximize the allowable deduction.ⁿ¹¹ The applicable percentage in the tax year that the property was placed in service was determined on the basis of the number of months in the year during which the property was in service in the years of acquisition and disposition.ⁿ¹² Recovery of property, other than 19-year real property, was subject to a half year convention, rather than 15, 18 or a monthly allocation for the year it was placed in service.ⁿ¹³

In effect, the recovery allowance for 15, 18 or 19-year real property for the year it was placed in service or the year of disposition was based on the number of months it was in service during the year, regardless of the duration of the taxpayer's taxable year, the property's recovery period, or the recovery method used.ⁿ¹⁴

The recovery method elected for a building which is Section 1250 class property, generally real property, applies to any component of the building. The recovery period for a building component begins on the later of the date such component, or the building, is placed in service.ⁿ¹⁵ For practical purposes, this provision eliminates the former practice of "component depreciation," under which separate depreciation methods based on various useful lines were used for the building and individual components.

A substantial improvement to a building, however, was eligible for a cost-recovery method other than the one used for the principal building, i.e., the improvement is treated as a separate building.ⁿ¹⁶ The improvement was substantial only if (1) it was made more than three years after the building was placed in service, and (2) it added to the capital account of the building within a 24-month period an amount equal to or in excess of 25 percent of the building's adjusted basis as of the first day of the 24-month period.ⁿ¹⁷

[c] Disposition of Recovery Property

If 1981-1986 ACRS property is sold or otherwise disposed of in a transaction where gain or loss is recognized, the gain or loss is usually recognized on an asset-by-asset basis. An ACRS deduction may not be claimed for the property in the year of disposition unless it is transferred in a tax-free exchange where the transferee is treated as the transferor to the extent of carryover basis,ⁿ¹⁸ or it is 15, 18 or 19-year real property.ⁿ¹⁹ However, that to the extent ACRS deductions in excess of straight line have been claimed for the property, there may be ordinary income recapture under I.R.C. Sections 1245 and 1250.ⁿ²⁰

[4] Depreciation of Property Placed in Service Before 1981

Depreciation of the cost or other basis of real property permits a taxpayer to deduct certain amounts each year. The deduction for depreciation generally applies only to property placed in service before 1981 and used in a trade or business or held for the production of income.ⁿ¹ The amount of the annual depreciation deduction depends on various factors such as the useful life of the property, its salvage value, and the method of depreciation permitted and used.ⁿ² Land is not subject to an allowance for depreciation because it is not subject to exhaustion or wear and tear.ⁿ³

Although straight-line and various accelerated depreciation methods are permitted, the accelerated depreciation methods allowed for depreciable real property are subject to special rules.ⁿ⁴ Only "new" residential rental property is eligible for the 200 percent declining balance method or the sum of the years-digits method.ⁿ⁵ Used residential rental property is generally limited to the straight-line method or the 125 percent declining balance method.ⁿ⁶ Other "new" real property is eligible for straight-line depreciation or the 150 percent declining balance method in most cases.ⁿ⁷ Used real property is generally limited to straight-line depreciation.ⁿ⁸ The property is "new" property if its original use commenced with the taxpayer.ⁿ⁹

The useful life of real (or other) property depends upon various factors. The estimate of useful life by the taxpayer and the Service has led to controversy in many situations.ⁿ¹⁰ Guidelines issued by the Service indicate that the useful life of real property ranges from 40 years for apartment buildings to 60 years for warehouses.ⁿ¹¹

Planning Notes

Residential Rental Property Can Include Commercial Use. If at least 80 percent of the gross rental income from a building is rental income from apartments, the balance of the gross rental income can come from office, retail, or other commercial space. When the gross rental income test is met the entire building, not just the residential use portion, is entitled to the shorter recovery period.ⁿ¹²

Rents from Mixed Use Residential Rental Property Must Be Examined Each Year. The test requiring that 80 percent of the property's gross rental income come from dwelling units is applied for the tax year. The building can pass the test one year and not meet it the next.ⁿ¹³ A careful examination of the rental income from the property is therefore required each year if the shorter recovery period is to be retained. This includes separating out certain income items which are specifically excluded from the category of gross rental income from the building in general. Excluded are:

- (1) rent attributable to personal property, such as furniture, in a furnished apartment or house;
- (2) income from performance of significant services, such as maid service (this does not include usual and customary cleaning of public areas, however); and
- (3) amounts paid by tenants directly to independent contractors, such as utilities for gas and electric (but amounts paid to the building owner are gross rental income items).

Included and excluded items of gross rental income from a dwelling unit must also be examined each year:

- (1) Tenant parking space and swimming pool fees are included as income from dwelling units.
- (2) Rental income from portions used as office space, such as a doctor's office, is not from a dwelling unit.
- (3) Rental value or asking rent for vacant units is not deemed income from a dwelling unit.
- (4) The inclusion of the fair rental value of the portion of the building occupied by the owner does not include space for a rental office or for storage of equipment, nor occupancy by a resident manager or maintenance personnel.ⁿ¹⁴

Leasehold Improvements Costs Are Recovered over Recovery Period Rather than Shorter Lease Term. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 requires that leasehold improvements made by a lessee be recovered under the cost recovery rules applicable to other taxpayers, including the recovery period (27.5 years for residential rental property or 39 years for nonresidential real property). This is a significant change from the prior law which permitted the lessee, in most circumstances, to recover the cost of improvements over the remaining term on the lease if it was shorter than the recovery period.ⁿ¹⁵

[1] Recapture Rules Generally

The Code contains two important "recapture" provisions under which at least a portion of accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS) or depreciation deductions taken or allowed in previous years on certain real or personal property is recaptured as ordinary income when the property is sold or otherwise disposed.ⁿ¹ The purpose of the recapture rules is to prevent the taxpayer from realizing favorable capital gain treatment on some or all of the gains resulting from the use of cost recovery or depreciation deductions which previously reduced taxable income.ⁿ² I.R.C. § 1245 recaptures gain from dispositions of depreciable personal property and certain other depreciable tangible property ("Section 1245 property").ⁿ³ I.R.C. § 1250 recaptures gain, to the extent of "additional depreciation," from dispositions of certain depreciable real property ("Section 1250 property").ⁿ⁴

The rules governing recapture of depreciable real property under I.R.C. Section 1250 are applied differently from the recapture rules for depreciable personal property under I.R.C. Section 1245. Both sets of recapture rules are important, particularly when the sale of real property includes the sale of personal property, as in the sale of commercial property with equipment, furnishings, or an active business.ⁿ⁵

In general, I.R.C. Section 1250 treats as ordinary income gain realized upon the sale, exchange, or other disposition of depreciable real property to the extent that the depreciation deductions allowed exceed the amount allowed under the straight-line method, i.e., "additional depreciation." If the property is held for one year or less, however, all depreciation claimed is recaptured as ordinary income.ⁿ⁶ Similarly, "additional depreciation" is recaptured for cost recovery real property. For purposes of recapture of recovery property under Section 1250, "additional depreciation" is generally the depreciation in excess of straight line over the recovery period used by the taxpayer with respect to the particular property.ⁿ⁷ It should be noted that, as a result of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997, any gain from depreciable real property attributable to depreciation deductions allowed to the taxpayer and not otherwise recaptured as ordinary income, is considered "unrecaptured section 1250 gain" and taxed at a maximum capital gains rate of 25 percent.ⁿ⁸

Recapture under I.R.C. Section 1250 applies only to "Section 1250 property." This category generally includes only depreciable real property, which encompasses a leasehold interest in Section 1250 property.ⁿ⁹ Other property, including real property-like assets, is Section 1245 property and, therefore, is excluded from the definition of Section 1250 property.ⁿ¹⁰

For any disposition of depreciable property (whether real or personal), all depreciation recapture income must be recognized currently in the year of the disposition, even if the transaction is an installment sale. Recaptured depreciation is added to the adjusted basis of the property to determine the amount of a principal payment constituting nontaxable recovery of basis.ⁿ¹¹

The following discussion is divided into five parts. The first part examines recapture of ACRS deductions for cost recovery real property placed in service after 1980.ⁿ¹² The second part considers recapture of depreciation allowances for depreciable real property placed in service before 1981.ⁿ¹³ The third part discusses the amount of the gain subject to recapture and what is a "disposition."ⁿ¹⁴ The fourth part examines the application of Section 1250 to tax-free exchanges and involuntary conversions.ⁿ¹⁵ The final part considers the rules for determining the holding period of property for purposes of Section 1250 recapture of ordinary income.ⁿ¹⁶

[2] Recapture of ACRS Allowance

As a general rule, the amount recaptured on a disposition of real property is the amount of accelerated depreciation or cost recovery taken on the property in excess of the amount that would have been taken using straight line cost recovery or depreciation.ⁿ¹ Since real property placed in service after 1986 is depreciated under the straight line method, i.e., nonresidential real property (39 years) and residential rental property (27.5 years), there is no excess depreciation and no recapture.ⁿ²

Real property placed in service during 1981 through 1986 was assigned a recovery period of 15, 18, or 19 years, depending on the recovery period allowed at the time the property was placed in service.ⁿ³ The accelerated cost recovery allowance resembled the 175 percent declining balance method changing to a straight-line method when it would yield a higher allowance.ⁿ⁴ Alternatively, the taxpayer could elect to recover the cost under the straight line method over the applicable 15, 18, or 19 year period, or one of two extended periods of 35 or 45 years.ⁿ⁵ For recapture purposes, real property placed in service during this period is divided into two classes: nonresidential (commercial) and residential. If the cost of nonresidential property is recovered under the prescribed accelerated method, all gain attributable to such recovery method is ordinary income to the extent of all recovery allowances previously taken. If, however, the straight line method is elected, no depreciation is recaptured and all gain is capital gain.ⁿ⁶

Different rules apply, however, to real property which is residential rental property. For all such property, gain attributable to cost recovery is ordinary income only to the extent the recovery allowed under the prescribed accelerated method exceeds the recovery that would have been allowable had the straight-line method over the applicable 15, 18 or 19-year period been used. Therefore, if the straight-line method was elected for residential property, all gain will be capital gain.ⁿ⁷ In summary, accelerated deductions with regard to residential rental property (placed in service from 1981 to 1986) are subject to Section 1250 recapture only to the extent they exceed straight line.

[3] Recapture of Depreciation Allowance

[a] Statutory Background

To the extent that depreciation deductions are taken against ordinary income while any gain on the sale of the property is treated as capital gain, there is, in effect, an opportunity to convert ordinary income into capital gain. This may occur when the allowed depreciation deduction reduces the basis of the property faster than its actual decline in value.ⁿ¹ The Treasury initially sought a statute which would eliminate this "loophole" in every case, on the questionable assumption that any sale for a price in excess of the property's depreciated basis is automatic proof that the taxpayer has deducted too much depreciation.ⁿ² The Court, however, pointed out that this assumption disregards the basic accounting concept of depreciation as a prorated recovery of cost and not as a measure of decline in market value, and also that it ignores such true capital appreciation factors as inflation, scarcity, and improvement of environment.ⁿ³ Nevertheless, a substantial segment of industry was willing to accept this restriction on equipment as the price for obtaining more liberal depreciation allowances. The result was the enactment in 1962 of I.R.C. Section 1245, which subjected the disposition of personal property to ordinary income treatment to the extent of post-1961 depreciation.ⁿ⁴ Two years later (in 1964), Congress added Section 1250, the depreciation recapture provision for real property, to the Code.ⁿ⁵ Both of these sections have subsequently been amended several times, including changes to account for ACRS deductions for property placed in service after 1980.ⁿ⁶

[b] Depreciation from 1964 to 1969

In 1964, the concept of depreciation recapture that was previously enacted with respect to personal property was extended to "Section 1250 property" (generally real property used in a trade or business, or held for the production of income).ⁿ⁷ Under the 1964 Act, if the real property was sold or disposed of after 1963, an "applicable percentage" of "additional depreciation" taken after 1963 was recaptured and treated as ordinary income to the extent of any gain.ⁿ⁸ If the property was sold before the end of 20 months, the "applicable percentage" was 100, and, accordingly, all "additional depreciation" was taxed as ordinary income. The additional depreciation that was recaptured was the excess depreciation allowed or allowable, after 1963, over straight-line depreciation, but if the property was held for less than one year before it was sold, all depreciation, including straight-line, was recaptured.ⁿ⁹ If the property was sold after 20 months, the applicable percentage was 100 percent, reduced by 1 percent for every month after 20 that the property continued to be held. Thus, if the property was held for 120 months (ten years) and then sold, there was no recapture of any depreciation.ⁿ¹⁰

[c] Depreciation from 1970 to 1975

For property sold after 1969 and before 1976, the depreciation recapture rules were modified by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, with respect to post-1969 depreciation, depending upon whether the property was residential rental or commercial property. If the property was residential real estate, the post-1969 excess depreciation was fully recaptured at the ordinary income rates (to the extent of gain) if the property was held for less than 100 months prior to its sale. For each month held over 100 months, there was a 1 percent reduction in the amount of post-1969 excess depreciation that was recaptured. Accordingly, if the property was held for 200 months (16 years, eight months) or more prior to being sold, there was no recapture of any depreciation and all gain was taxable as capital gain.ⁿ¹¹ If the real estate was nonresidential (commercial) property, all post-1969 excess depreciation was fully recaptured to the extent of any gain, regardless of the length of time that the property was held.ⁿ¹² The pre-1969 recapture rules for real estate (1 percent per month reduction after 20 months) was applied in the case of federal, state, and locally assisted housing projects (such as FHA 221(d)(3) and 236 programs) that were constructed or acquired after 1976; however, if such property was constructed or acquired after 1975, the regular post-1969 recapture rules with respect to residential property were applied, i.e., a 1 percent per month reduction after 100 months.ⁿ¹³

[d] Depreciation After 1975

As to post-1975 excess depreciation for other Section 1250 property, the Tax Reform Act of 1976 applied to residential rental property the recapture rules discussed above with respect to commercial property. Thus, for any depreciable real estate sold or otherwise disposed of after 1975 (except for specified government-subsidized housing discussed above), all post-1975 depreciation taken in excess of straight-line is fully recaptured as ordinary income (to the extent of any gain), regardless of the length of time that the property is held.ⁿ¹⁴ If the property was acquired before or after 1969 and prior to 1976, the respective excess depreciation rules applicable to such periods continue in effect to the extent of any gain not recaptured for post-1975 excess depreciation.ⁿ¹⁵ Since the inception of this rule in 1964, all depreciation, including straight-line, is recaptured as ordinary income if the property is held one year or less prior to its sale.ⁿ¹⁶

[4] Recapture on Disposition

When depreciation is recaptured upon the sale, exchange, or involuntary conversion of real property, the gain subject to recapture is the excess of the amount realized over the adjusted basis of the property. In the case of any other disposition, the gain is the excess of the fair market value of the property over its adjusted basis.ⁿ¹ The Treasury has issued regulations for the taxation of gain on real estate sales, but has not taken into account changes made by the 1969 and 1976 Acts. Thus, the regulations are applicable to post-1969 and -1975 transactions only to the extent that the Code was not changed by the 1969 and 1976 amendments. This includes the recapture of pre-1970 and -1976 depreciation, and some definitional provisions.ⁿ²

For any disposition of real (or personal) property occurring after June 6, 1984, all depreciation recapture income must be recognized currently, even if the transaction is an installment sale. In determining the amount of any principal payment which constitutes a nontaxable recovery of basis, however, the taxpayer's adjusted basis in the transferred property includes the amount of depreciation recapture income.ⁿ³

A "disposition," for purposes of the recapture rules, includes an otherwise nontaxable transaction, such as a corporate liquidation or dividend or other distribution, or an involuntary conversion, as well as ordinary sales and exchanges.ⁿ⁴ The recapture rules do not apply, however, to a gift (since the donee may have to pay the tax upon his own disposition of the property),ⁿ⁵ or to a transfer at death (except to the extent that the "income at death" provisions of the Code apply).ⁿ⁶

[5] Tax-Free Exchanges and Involuntary Conversions

As indicated above, the recapture rules apply to otherwise nontaxable transactions, such as tax-free exchanges and involuntary conversions. Ordinary income treatment does not apply to such transactions where the basis of the property carries over to the transferee. There may be ordinary income, however, to the extent of the larger of the following: (1) the recognized gain plus the value of any replacement stock, or (2) the ordinary income which would have been realized on a taxable exchange, less the value or cost of depreciable real estate acquired as an exchange or replacement.ⁿ¹

Example:

Depreciable real property with a $100,000 basis and $16,000 recapturable depreciation is destroyed, and $117,000 is received. If $105,000 is invested in real estate, and $9,000 in corporate stock, ordinary income under the first limitation is $3,000, plus $9,000, or $12,000. If the reinvested $105,000 ($117,000 less $12,000) is allocated $90,000 to land and $15,000 to building, there is no increase by reason of the second formula, because that limit is the $16,000 potential ordinary income less the $15,000 building cost, or $1,000. But, if the entire $105,000 is used for land, then there is $16,000 ordinary income.ⁿ²

In all nontaxable conversions, the basis of the replacement property is decreased to reflect any unrecognized gain. Where replacement property consists of both depreciable real estate and other property, this decrease is allocated by first applying the portion of the unrecognized ordinary income to the depreciable property.ⁿ³ In the above example, where only $12,000 of the $16,000 depreciation was taxable, the $15,000 cost of the new building is first reduced by the excluded $4,000 of depreciation to a cost of $11,000. Next, the $110,000 total "cost" of the properties is reduced by the amount that the unrecognized conversion gain, $14,000, exceeds the excluded depreciation of $4,000. The $100,000 basis thus obtained is allocated to the properties in proportion to "cost."ⁿ⁴

The ordinary income rule does not apply to a nontaxable sale of a principal residence, to the extent that the property is so used at the time of the sale, even though depreciation has been previously taken on such property.ⁿ⁵

[6] Holding Period

For purposes of determining the holding period of depreciable property under the Section 1250 recapture of ordinary income rules, i.e., the applicable percentage, the Code's general rules for "tacking" a transferor's holding period to that of a transferee in an exchange (so as to determine the application of the capital gain provisions) do not apply.ⁿ¹ Rather, the holding period of Section 1250 property is determined under special rules:

(1) The holding period of Section 1250 property is deemed to begin:

(a) in the case of property acquired by the taxpayer, on the day after the date of acquisition;

(b) in the case of property constructed, reconstructed, or erected by the taxpayer, on the first day of the month during which the property is placed in service.ⁿ²

(2) If the basis of property acquired by means of gift, death, certain tax-free transactions, or I.R.C. Section 1071 or 1081 transactions is determined by reference to its basis in the transferor's hands, the holding period of the property in the transferee's hands includes the holding period of the property in the transferor's hands.ⁿ³

(3) If the basis of property acquired in a transaction involving the disposition of a principal residence under I.R.C. Section 1250(d)(7) is determined by reference to the basis in the hands of the taxpayer of other property, the holding period of the property acquired includes the holding period of such other property.ⁿ⁴

Depreciation Recapture Income Must Be Recognized Currently. It is important to remember that for dispositions made after June 6, 1984, all depreciation recapture income must be recognized currently, even if the transaction is an installment sale.ⁿ⁵

Importance of Tacking Rules. As noted above, I.R.C. Section 1250 has its own tacking rules to determine the recapture amounts upon exchanges of depreciable real property. These special tacking rules are important because the applicable percentage of additional depreciation which is recaptured is reduced, for certain types of property, depending upon the length of time the property has been held.

Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.08

§ 21.08 Passive Activity Loss Limitation

[1] Limitation on Passive Activity Losses

Deductions in excess of income (i.e., losses) from passive activities generally may not offset other income such as salary, interest, dividends, and active business income. Deductions from passive activities may offset income from the same or other passive activities. Credits from passive activities generally are limited to the tax attributable to income from passive activities.ⁿ¹

A "passive activity" is any business or profit seeking activity in which the taxpayer does not "materially participate." A taxpayer materially participates in an activity only if the taxpayer is involved on a regular, continuous, and substantial basis in the operations of the activity. The Service has promulgated regulations which provide seven situations in which the material participation test may be satisfied.ⁿ²

Disallowed losses and credits are carried forward and treated as deductions and credits from passive activities in the next taxable year. Disallowed losses from an activity are allowed in full when the taxpayer disposes of his entire interest in the activity in a taxable transaction. Credits are not so allowed upon disposition.ⁿ³

The passive activity loss limitation applies to individuals, estates, trusts, and certain corporations.ⁿ⁴

Closely held corporations may not offset portfolio income (interest, dividends, etc.) with passive losses and credits but may use passive losses and credits to offset active business income. Due to the pass-through nature of partnerships and S corporations, individual partners and S corporation shareholders are subject to the limitation.ⁿ⁵ Interest deductions attributable to passive activities are subject to the passive loss rule, but are not subject to the investment interest limitation (unless the phase-in rules apply).ⁿ⁶

Example:

Albert has net passive losses of $100 for a tax year beginning after 1986, $40 of which consists of interest expense. The entire $100 is subject to limitation under the passive loss rule. No portion of the loss is subject to limitation under the investment interest limitation.

Interests in passive activities acquired by the taxpayer on or before October 22, 1986 are eligible for the phase-in under the passive loss rule. Interests in activities acquired after October 22, 1986, however, are not eligible for the phase-in, but rather are fully subject to the passive loss rule.

Under the phase-in rule, the amount disallowed under the passive loss rule during any year in the phase-in period equals the applicable percentage of the amount that would be disallowed for that year under the provision if fully effective. The applicable percentage is 35 percent for taxable years beginning in 1987, 60 percent in taxable years beginning in 1988, 80 percent in taxable years beginning in 1989, 90 percent in taxable years beginning in 1990, and 100 percent in taxable years beginning after 1990.ⁿ⁷

[2] Passive Activities, Rental Real Estate

Generally speaking, rental activity (i.e., any activity where payments are principally made for the use of tangible property) is considered to be a passive activity.ⁿ¹ Therefore, deductions and credits from rental activities can only offset income from other passive activities, generally. Such deductions and credits cannot be deducted from nonpassive income, such as wages, dividends, interest, etc. However, there are two major exceptions to this general rule.

First, beginning in 1994, certain eligible taxpayers who materially participate in rental real estate activities can deduct losses from such activities against nonpassive income. These eligible taxpayers include individuals and closely-held C corporations that meet special eligibility requirements.

An individual taxpayer meets the eligibility requirements if:

- (1) more than half of the personal services the taxpayer performs during the tax year are performed in real property trades or businesses in which the taxpayer materially participates; and
- (2) such taxpayer performs more than 750 hours of service during the tax year in the real property trades or businesses in which the taxpayer materially participates.

A closely-held C corporation meets the eligibility requirements if more than 50 percent of its gross receipts for the tax year are derived from real property trades or businesses in which the corporation materially participates.ⁿ²

"Real property trade or business" means any real property development, redevelopment, construction, reconstruction, acquisition, conversion, rental, operation, management, leasing or brokerage trade or business.ⁿ³

To be a material participant, the taxpayer must be involved in the business on a regular, substantial and continuous basis.ⁿ⁴

In the case of a joint return, the eligibility requirements are met if either spouse separately satisfies the two requirements. Thus, one of the spouses must satisfy the requirement with respect to half of such spouse's personal services, as well as the requirement with respect to 750 hours of services, without regard to services performed by the other spouse. However, participation of the taxpayer's spouse is taken into account in determining material participation.ⁿ⁵

The second exception provides that an individual who owns at least a 10-percent interest and who actively participates in rental real estate activity is permitted to offset up to $25,000 of passive activity losses against his nonpassive income.ⁿ⁶ The active participation requirement is not as stringent as the material participation rule. It can be satisfied without regular, continuous, and substantial involvement in operations if the taxpayer participates in the making of significant management decisions (approving new tenants, deciding on rental terms, approving capital/repair expenditures, etc.). The $25,000 exception is applicable to individuals other than those whose income is very large.ⁿ⁷

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.09

§ 21.09 At Risk Limitation on Loss Deductions

[1] At Risk Limitation Applicable to Real Estate

Losses from the activity of holding real property are limited to the amount the taxpayer has at risk.ⁿ¹ Deductions and losses not allowed in a tax year because of the at risk limitation are suspended until the taxpayer's at-risk investment in the activity increases. Amounts at risk are the amount of money and the adjusted basis of other property contributed to the activity by the taxpayer, and amounts borrowed with respect to the activity. However, except as to qualified nonrecourse financing hereafter described, borrowed amounts are not at risk to the extent the taxpayer is protected from loss through nonrecourse financing, guarantees, stop loss agreements, or other similar arrangements.ⁿ² Taxpayers subject to the at risk limitation include individuals, as well as individual partners and individual S corporation shareholders, and closely-held corporations.ⁿ³

[2] Qualified Nonrecourse Financing at Risk

Qualified nonrecourse financing secured by real property used in an activity of holding real property is treated as an amount at risk. Qualified nonrecourse financing generally includes financing loaned by a federal, state or local government or instrumentality, or guaranteed by federal, state or local government. It also includes amounts borrowed from qualified persons, generally any person actively and regularly engaged in the business of lending money. This category of qualified persons would include, for example, banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, or regulated insurance companies. Qualified persons do not include (1) any person from whom the taxpayer acquired the property, i.e., seller financing (or person related to the seller), or (2) any person who receives a fee, such as a promoter, from the taxpayer's investment in the property (or person related to such person). Nonrecourse financing from a person related to the taxpayer can qualify if the terms of the loan are commercially reasonable and on substantially the same terms as loans from unrelated persons.ⁿ¹

Planning Note

At Risk Rules Apply to Newly Acquired Partnership Interests and S Corporation Shares. The application of the at risk rules to real property generally applies to losses incurred after 1986 from real property placed in service after 1986. However, the at risk limitations apply to partnership interests, S corporation shares, and interests in other pass through entities acquired after 1986 regardless of when the real property was placed in service by the pass through entity.ⁿ²

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.10

§ 21.10 Postponement of Income Recognition: General and Special Rules

[1] Payment Pursuant to Contract or Note

Income is realized when a sale or other disposition of property takes place.ⁿ¹ Gain on a disposition is the excess of the amount realized or the sale over the adjusted basis of the property.ⁿ² The "amount realized" includes not only the amount of money received but also the fair market value of any other property received, including notes or other obligations of the purchaser.ⁿ³ Thus, these notes or other evidences of indebtedness are considered part of the amount received, thereby increasing the taxable gain.ⁿ⁴

In the case of a cash basis taxpayer, the amount realized upon receipt of the notes is their fair market value, which is taxable either as ordinary income or capital gain depending upon the nature of the transaction. Subsequent payments on such notes are treated as ordinary income to the extent they exceed the fair market value.ⁿ⁵ For an accrual method taxpayer, the entire face amount of the notes is included when received.ⁿ⁶ For both cash basis and accrual method taxpayers, a mortgage or other indebtedness to which the property is subject or which is assumed by the buyer is included in the amount realized.ⁿ⁷

In the event of an installment sale, the seller may defer payment of tax or the entire gain in the year of sale by spreading out the payments over a period of time; however, in any disposition of depreciable real or personal property, all depreciation recapture income must be recognized currently, even if the transaction is an installment sale.ⁿ⁸

If a cash basis taxpayer does not receive the purchaser's notes but merely has the right to receive payments under a purchase contract, the taxpayer generally does not report income until the payments are received.ⁿ⁹ The reporting of income and gain in this type of transaction is reported under the rules applicable to installment reporting, which may require the recognition of income or gain before payment is received under certain circumstances. The situation is less certain with respect to an accrual basis taxpayer, but similar deferred recognition treatment has been allowed in at least one case.ⁿ¹⁰

If a seller receives notes with a fair market value less than face, only such value is taxable at the time of sale, either as ordinary income or capital gain depending upon the nature of the transaction. The balance, however, is ordinary income when the notes are paid, unless the capital gain provision for redemption of corporate obligations is applicable. The erroneous failure to report any value for the notes in the year of sale does not make the ultimate payment capital gain. On the other hand, barring estoppel, the taxpayer is not required to report the original fair market value of the notes in the year of payment, notwithstanding his omission of this sum from income in the year of sale.ⁿ¹¹

[2] Original Issue Discount

[a] Debt Subject to Original Issue Discount Rules

Purchase money and other debt instruments may be subject to the original issue discount rules, which can significantly affect the deduction of the borrower or buyer and the taxable income of the lender or seller. The original issue discount rules may apply to real estate financing transactions and is most likely to apply to purchase money financing, either by the seller or a third party lender, with below-market interest rates or deferred interest payments.

Example:

An accrual method purchaser of real estate gives a note and mortgage to a cash method seller. The note provides that interest accrues annually but not paid for ten years when the note matures. Prior to the extension of the original issue discount rules to this type of transaction, the accrual method purchaser-borrower would claim an annual deduction for accrued, but unpaid, interest. The cash method seller-lender would defer interest income until it is actually received. The extension of the original issue discount rules to this type of transaction would require the periodic inclusion of interest in the seller-lender's income and the periodic deduction of interest by the purchaser-borrower.ⁿ¹ This is not the only type of transaction which may be subject to the original issue discount rules.

Debt instruments, including bonds and notes, received as consideration for the sale or exchange of property in a transaction with consideration of over $250,000 generally will be subject to an imputed principal amount, and correspondingly higher interest rate, if the interest on the debt is inadequate. Generally, the debt interest will be inadequate if it is not at least equal to the applicable federal rate.ⁿ² The applicable federal rate is determined by the term of the debt instrument.ⁿ³

If the Debt Term is:	The Applicable Federal Rate is:
Not over three	Federal short-term rate
Over three but not over nine years	Federal mid-term rate
Over nine years	Federal long-term rate

The original issue discount rules also apply to other debt instruments, but mostly affect the timing of the interest deduction and income inclusion rather than an adjustment in the amount of principal and interest. It applies to debt if the stated redemption price (i.e., generally the sum of all payments, except fixed periodic interest payment on a fixed interest at intervals of at least one year) exceeds the stated principal amount, when the interest is adequate. The rules only apply if a debt instrument has some or all payments due more than six months after the date of the sale or exchange of the property.ⁿ⁴

[b] Excluded Transactions and Persons

Exceptions to the operation of the original discount rules apply to particular situations and persons in certain transactions. A major exception applies to debt instruments given for property (i.e., seller financing) when the stated principal amount of the debt instrument does not exceed $2.8 million. For such debt instruments, the discount rate used for imputed interest rules or for original issue discount rules cannot exceed 9 percent, compounded semiannually.ⁿ⁵

Debt instruments in sales involving total payments of $250,000 or less are exempt. The exemption applies when the debt instrument is received as consideration for the sale or exchange of property if the sum of the payments due under the instrument, including principal and interest, together with any other debt instruments and consideration received in the sale does not exceed $250,000.

Any debt instrument from the sale or exchange by an individual of his principal residence is also exempt. A sale for $1 million or less of a farm by an individual or small business may qualify as an exception. The sale of the farm must be by an individual, estate, testamentary trust, or by a small business corporation or partnership provided the aggregate amounts received for the corporation's stock or the partnership interests do not exceed $1 million under the requirements of I.R.C. Section 1244(c)(3).

Debt instruments that are publicly traded or are issued for publicly traded property are subject to other original issue discount rules. A qualified land sale by an individual to a member of his family is also exempt from this set of original issue discount rules.ⁿ⁶

Loans between two individuals, not in excess of $10,000 and not made in the course of a trade or business of the lender, are exempt. Debt instruments with a fixed maturity date of one year or less are exempt.ⁿ⁷

A cash method issuer of a debt instrument is exempt from the original issue discount rules if the debt was given for personal use property, i.e., property not used in a trade or business or for the production or collection of income.ⁿ⁸

[c] Original Issue Discount Formulas and Rules

The original issue discount is the excess of the stated redemption price at maturity of the instrument over the issue price. The stated redemption price at maturity is the sum of all payments due under the instrument, including principal and interest, except interest based on a fixed rate and payable unconditionally at fixed periodic intervals of one year or less during the entire term of the loan. The issue price for debt instruments issued for property is either the stated principal amount if the interest is adequate, or the imputed principal amount if the interest is inadequate.ⁿ⁹

Example 1:

The purchaser of real property gives the seller a note and mortgage in the principal amount of $300,000. The term of the note is 15 years, with interest fixed at 14 percent. Each month the buyer pays an installment of principal and interest in the amount of $3,995.25. This note has no original issue discount because the interest is based on a fixed rate and the interest is unconditionally payable in fixed monthly intervals over the term of the loan.

Example 2:

The purchaser in the above example issues a $300,000 balloon note, for which the entire principal and interest will be payable in full in 15 years. The amount fixed by the note due in 15 years is $900,000. The original issue discount is determined by subtracting from the stated redemption price of $900,000, the issue price or stated principal of $300,000. $600,000 would be the original issue discount. The amount is allocated periodically as interest under rules described below.

The principal amount of the debt is imputed if the interest is inadequate. Interest is inadequate if it is less than the applicable federal rate.ⁿ¹⁰ If this safe harbor interest rate is not satisfied, the amount of principal, and correspondingly the original issue discount, is redetermined by using a discount rate equal to the applicable federal rate. Under this formula, the principal on the debt will generally be deemed to be the sum of the present values of all payments due using a discount rate equal to the applicable federal rate, if not issued in a potentially abusive situation.

In a potentially abusive situation, the principal amount will be determined with reference to the fair market value of the property sold or exchanged.ⁿ¹¹ Potentially abusive situations include tax shelters (i.e., a partnership, entity, plan or arrangement with the principal purpose of avoidance or evasion of tax) and other situations provided by regulation. Regulations are authorized for tax shelters and other transactions involving recent sales transactions, nonrecourse financing, financing with a term in excess of the economic life of the property, or other circumstances.ⁿ¹²

The applicable federal rate is determined as of the first day there is a binding contract for the transaction. As indicated, the rate used is one of three different rates, depending on the term of the debt instrument. The rates are determined monthly by the Service based on average market yield. The lowest rate in effect for any month in the three month period ending with the first month in which there is a binding written contract for the transaction is the governing rate.ⁿ¹³

[3] Imputed Interest

When property is sold for a deferred payment which does not specify an adequate rate of interest, the payment is deemed to include an "un- stated interest." Unstated interest is imputed for covered deferred payment sales or exchanges if the stated interest is not at least equal to the applicable federal rate. However, for debt instruments given for property (i.e., seller financing) with a face amount not exceeding $2.8 million, the discount rate used cannot exceed 9 percent, compounded semiannually. A separate federal rate is set periodically by the Service, based on treasury securities, for short-term, mid-term and long-term obligations. If the stated interest is inadequate, i.e., less than the applicable federal rate, an imputed rate, equal to the applicable federal rate, will be applied to determine the unstated interest. When interest is imputed, a portion of each payment is deemed to be interest income to the seller, and correspondingly an interest deduction for the buyer. Interest is imputed in covered deferred payment transactions for payments due more than six months after the sale or exchange. However, for the transaction to be covered by these rules, some or all of the payments must be due more than one year after the sale or exchange.ⁿ¹

Example:

A taxpayer sells real estate under a deferred payment contract. The purchaser will make full payment in nine monthly installments. Interest is below the applicable federal short-term rate. The transaction is not subject to the imputed interest rules because no payments are due more than one year after the sale. If the deferred payments extend past one year after the sale, then interest would be imputed on payments due after the sixth month following the sale.

[a] Imputed Interest Transactions and Rules

Interest will be imputed for deferred payments which meet certain criteria. The payment must be on account of the sale or exchange of property and constitute part or all of the price. Interest will be imputed, if stated interest is inadequate, on payments due more than six months after the sale or exchange, provided some or all of the payments are due more than one year after the date of the sale or exchange. In addition, there must be a total unstated interest determined by using a discount rate equal to the applicable federal rate. The rules apply to deferred payments under a contract for sale or exchange, as well as payments due under a debt instrument given as consideration for the sale or exchange. However, when the stated principal amount of the instrument does not exceed $2.8 million, the discount rate may not exceed 9 percent compounded semiannually.ⁿ²

The imputed interest rules do not apply to debt instruments for which an issue price is determined under the original issue discount rules.ⁿ³ The original issue discount rules apply to various categories of debt instruments.ⁿ⁴ Imputed interest rules do not apply to deferred payments if the sales price of the property does not exceed $3,000 and the price can be determined at the time of the sale or exchange.ⁿ⁵ Certain other exceptions, generally not applicable to real estate, also apply.ⁿ⁶ Special rules, discussed below, apply to certain sales or exchanges of land to a related party.ⁿ⁷

[b] Sale of Residence, Farm, or Land

Sales of personal residences and farms are subject to the general rules discussed above. Thus, for these transactions, when the stated principal amount of the debt instrument is over $2.8 million, the discount rate used to determine whether there is unstated interest is equal to the applicable federal rate compounded semiannually.ⁿ⁸ If the stated principal amount of the debt instrument is not over $2.8 million, a discount rate of not over 9 percent compounded semiannually is used.ⁿ⁹ However, if the principal residence or farm is leased back to the seller, a discount rate equal to 110 percent of the applicable federal rate is used.ⁿ¹⁰ Under prior law, sales of personal residences (to the extent the purchase price did not exceed $500,000) and farms qualified for special treatment because a discount rate of 9 percent was used to determine whether there was unstated interest.ⁿ¹¹

For sales or exchanges of land between family members when the combined sales price for all sales between the same family members in the same calendar year is not over $500,000, the discount rate may not exceed 6 percent compounded semiannually. Family members of an individual are limited to his brothers, sisters, spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.ⁿ¹²

OID Rules Affect Scope of I.R.C. Section 483. The Tax Reform Act of 1984 significantly expanded the scope of the original issue discount (OID) rules.ⁿ¹³ The unstated interest rules under I.R.C. Section 483 continue to apply only in the case of deferred payment transactions involving sales or exchanges of property that are within one of the exceptions to the OID rules. For seller financing debt instruments not exceeding $2.8 million, the discount rate used cannot exceed 9 percent. This limit is particularly useful when the applicable federal rate exceeds this 9 percent cap. If the applicable federal rate is less than 9 percent, then the lower applicable federal rate will produce less taxable income under these rule.ⁿ¹⁴

Tax Treatment of Imputed Interest. Remember that imputed interest is treated as ordinary income to the seller, and as an interest deduction to the buyer. The remaining portion of the payment is divided into basis recovery and gain portions under the installment sale rules.ⁿ¹⁵

§ 21.11 Postponement of Income Recognition: Installment Sales

[1] General Rules

For various reasons, a seller might not require that the purchase price for his property be paid in full at the time of sale; instead, he may be willing to accept payment over a period of time. In order to prevent the seller from being taxed on the full amount before all payments are received,ⁿ¹ the Code provides for an installment method of reporting gain.ⁿ² These installment sale provisions generally allow the seller to escape taxation of the full gain in the year of sale, except that all depreciation recapture income must be recognized currently.ⁿ³

The installment sale rules will not apply unless at least one payment is received after the end of the taxable year in which the sale takes place.ⁿ⁴ Essentially, taxable income is spread over the time during which installment payments of the sales price are made. The income to be recognized in any taxable year from a disposition is that proportion of payments received in such year which the gross profit from the sale bears to the total contract price (the "gross profit ratio"). The installment method does not apply, however, to the recognition of losses from deferred payment sales.ⁿ⁵

The total contract price consists of any cash received in the year of sale, the fair market value of other property received, and the face amount of the installment obligations. The total contract price does not include payments made or obligations assumed by the purchaser to the mortgagee, even though such amount is included in the selling price and realized profit, except to the extent that it exceeds the seller's basis for the property sold.ⁿ⁶ The Tax Court, acknowledging a different result for nondealers, has held that a real estate dealer must compute gross profit without reducing cost by sales expenses, which are independently deductible under the taxpayer's basic cash or accrual method.ⁿ⁷

Under the installment sale rules, it is not required for a sale of real estate that there be an established accounting method or a minimum selling price. The sale can be one in which title is immediately transferred, with the seller being protected by a mortgage, or one which contemplates a transfer of title after all or part of the selling price is paid.ⁿ⁸ The sale of each lot or parcel of a subdivided trust must be treated as a separate transaction.ⁿ⁹

The election to adopt the installment method is automatic for nondealer sales of real property (as well as to casual sales of personal property), unless the taxpayer "elects out."ⁿ¹⁰ The election not to use the installment method must be made on or before the due date (plus extensions) of the return for the taxable year in which the sale takes place. If the taxpayer reports the full selling price (including the full face amount of any installment obligation) in the year of sale, the election not to use the installment method is deemed to have been made.

Nondealers may also "elect out" by reporting the sale on Form 4797 (for sales involving trade, business, or rental property) or on Schedule D, and writing in the margin, next to the sale, "I elect out of the installment method." If the nondealer received a note that is reported at less than face value, that fact, along with the percentage of valuation, also must be stated.ⁿ¹¹ Late election will be allowed only rarely, and then only if the Service finds good cause. Once made the election is irrevocable, although the Service may permit a revocation if tax avoidance or a contingent selling price is not involved.ⁿ¹²

Dealers are not eligible to report under the installment method because the installment sale definition expressly excludes a dealer disposition.ⁿ¹³ A dealer disposition of property includes any disposition of real property held by the taxpayer for sale to customers in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's trade or business.ⁿ¹⁴ All payments received from a dealer disposition of property generally are treated as received in the year of disposition.ⁿ¹⁵

A dealer disposition does not, however, include certain dispositions of residential lots or timeshares if the taxpayer elects to pay interest on the amount of deferred tax attributable to the use of the installment method. Also, a dealer disposition does not include a disposition of property used or produced in the trade or business of farming. As a result, a disposition of such property on the installment plan is eligible for the installment method.ⁿ¹⁶

The installment method may be used in determining alternative minimum taxable income for all nondealer dispositions of property.ⁿ¹⁷

[2] Recapture Currently Recognized as Ordinary Income

Gain on sales of depreciable property is "recaptured" or taxed as ordinary income (even if the gain otherwise qualifies for capital gain treatment) to the extent of the depreciation allowed for personal property, and of "excess depreciation" (i.e., depreciation in excess of a straight-line computation) in the case of real property.ⁿ¹

There is immediate recapture of depreciation or cost recovery as ordinary income in the case of an installment sale.ⁿ² In determining how much of any principal payment constitutes a nontaxable recovery of basis, the taxpayer's adjusted basis in the transferred property is treated as including the depreciation recapture income. Any gain in excess of the recapture income is recognized under the installment method.ⁿ³

Example:

A, a calendar year taxpayer, sells commercial real estate to B on September 1, 1985, for $100,000 under a qualified installment contract executed earlier that year. The contract requires B to pay A $20,000, plus interest, for five years. A's basis in the property is $50,000, and $25,000 of the purchase price represents depreciation recapture income. Under this contract, A must recognize $25,000 in 1985 as ordinary recapture income even though he has only received $20,000. A's basis for installment reporting over the next four years (1986-1989) is increased to $75,000 ($50,000 basis plus $25,000 recapture income recognized in 1985).

[3] Payment and Price

Installment reporting is available if at least one payment (as defined below) is received in a year following the year of sale.ⁿ¹ Thus, payments may be split between the year of sale and a later year or years, or the entire sum may be paid in a later year. As long as some part of the total payment is deferred until after the year of sale, the installment method applies no matter how much of the total price is received in that year.ⁿ²

"Payment" does not include the receipt of evidence of indebtedness of the person acquiring the property. Thus, a seller who receives cash and a note in the year of sale may still use the installment method. However, any bond or other evidence of indebtedness that is payable on demand, or that is issued by a corporation or a government (or one of its political subdivisions) and is readily tradable, will be considered a payment when received by the seller.ⁿ³

Although property received without recognition of gain in like-kind exchanges is not treated as a "payment" for purpose of reporting income under the installment method, the receipt of like-kind property qualifies as a "payment" for purposes of determining whether a transaction is an installment sale.ⁿ⁴

[4] Nondealer Installment Obligations

[a] In General

If an installment obligation arises from the disposition of any property (real, personal, etc.) under the installment method, and the sales price of the property exceeds $150,000, the taxpayer is required to pay interest on the deferred tax liability resulting from the obligation if:

- (1) the obligation is outstanding at the close of the tax year in which it arose, and
- (2) the face amount of all such obligations of the taxpayer which arose during, and are outstanding as of the close of, such tax year exceeds $5 million.ⁿ¹

These obligations are referred to as nondealer installment obligations. They do not include an installment obligation arising from the disposition of (1) "personal use property" by an individual, or (2) any property used or produced in the trade or business of farming. (Personal use property is any property if substantially all of its use by the taxpayer is unconnected with the taxpayer's trade, business or income producing activities.) Also excluded are installment obligations from the disposition of residential lots or timeshares if the taxpayer elects to pay interest on the deferred tax resulting from use of the installment method.ⁿ²

[b] Interest Charged on Installment Sale Tax Deferral

When interest is to be paid for nondealer real property installment obligations arising during any year, interest must be paid for any subsequent taxable year if any of the installment obligation is outstanding at the close of that year. The interest equals the applicable percentage (defined below) of the deferred tax liability (defined below) for the obligation multiplied by the underpayment rate for the month that the taxable year ends. The deferred tax liability for an installment obligation is the amount of gain under the obligation that has not been recognized by the close of the taxable year multiplied by the maximum rate of tax in effect for the taxable year (which depends upon whether the taxpayer is an individual, corporation, estate or trust). The applicable percentage of an installment obligation is determined by dividing (1) the portion of the aggregate face amount of the installment obligations outstanding at the close of the taxable year in excess of $5 million, by (2) the aggregate face amount of the installment obligations outstanding at the close of the taxable year. This percentage does not change as payments are made in subsequent taxable years.ⁿ³

The interest is payable as an additional tax.ⁿ⁴ However, the amount is taken into account in computing the deduction allowable for interest paid or accrued during the tax year.ⁿ⁵

[c] Pledged Real Estate Installment Obligation

If any indebtedness is secured by an installment obligation arising from the sale of property at a price in excess of $150,000, the net proceeds of the indebtedness are treated as a payment received on the obligation for the purposes of the installment method. The time of payment is the later of the time (1) the indebtedness is secured, or (2) the proceeds of the indebtedness are received by the taxpayer. Net proceeds of the indebtedness are gross proceeds minus the direct expenses of obtaining the indebtedness. Indebtedness is secured to the extent that payment of principal or interest is directly secured, under the terms of the indebtedness or any underlying arrangement, by any interest in the installment obligation.

The amount treated as payment cannot exceed the amount, if any, by which the total contract price, exceeds any portion of the contract price received under the contract before the later of the times referred to in the preceding paragraph. Subsequent payments received on an obligation are not taken into account under the installment method to the extent that the aggregate amount of these payments does not exceed the aggregate amount treated as payment under the pledge rule. The total amount of gain recognized on an obligation because of the pledge rule and receipt of payments cannot exceed the total gain from the installment sale.ⁿ⁶

[d] Timeshares and Residential Lots Special Election

Dealer installment sales of residential lots or timeshares are eligible for installment sale treatment if the dealer elects to pay interest on the amount of deferred tax attributable to the use of the installment method. When the election is made, the dealer exclusion from installment sale treatment will not apply to an installment obligation arising from the sale to an individual of a timeshare ownership interest in residential real property for not more than six weeks per year (including campground timeshares), or of a residential lot if the taxpayer is not to make any improvements. The taxpayer is not eligible for the election if the installment obligation is guaranteed by any person other than an individual (for example, government or private mortgage insurance would disqualify the obligation from the election).

If these conditions are met, then the seller may elect to have the installment sales rules apply, provided that the seller pays interest on the deferral of its tax liability attributable to the use of the installment method. The interest rate charged is the applicable federal rate that would apply to the installment obligation received in the sale (without regard to the three-month lookback rule).

In applying the "six-week" limitation on the eligibility of timeshare interests, a timeshare right to use, or timeshare ownership in, a specific property, which right, or ownership interest, is held by the spouse, children, grandchildren or parents of an individual, is treated as held by such individual.ⁿ⁷

[5] Related Parties

[a] General Rule

The constructive ownership rules applicable to stock ownership, with one minor exception, define the targeted relationships to include the seller's spouse, children, grandchildren and parents, corporations controlled (50 percent) by the seller, and partnerships, trusts, or estates to the extent of the seller's proportionate interest in them.ⁿ¹ Related parties also include those related under the rule denying loss deductions in related party transactions. Related parties under this rule include brothers, sisters, member corporations in the same controlled group, certain trust, fiduciary and beneficiary relationships, as well as certain partnership, S corporation, and C corporation relationships.ⁿ² If a sale is made to a related person who, in turn, resells the property before the original seller receives all the payments under that sale, the amount realized under the second sale is deemed to be received by the original seller at the time of the second sale.ⁿ³

[b] Limitations and Exceptions to General Rule

The above rule about related party installment resales is subject to several important limitations and exceptions. The general rule applies only if the second sale occurs within two years of the first sale (except there is no two-year limit in the case of marketable securities). Thus, if the second sale occurs within two years of the first, the gain on the first sale must be reported in the year of the second sale rather than as payments are made. The running of the two-year period is suspended for the time the related person's risk of loss is substantially diminished by the holding of a put on the same or similar property, by another person's holding of a right to acquire the property, or by a short sale or similar transaction.ⁿ⁴

To the extent that a taxpayer is treated as receiving the proceeds of a second sale under the related party rules, installment proceeds from the first sale are not treated as received; only payments in excess of that amount are considered to be received pursuant to the sale.ⁿ⁵ Certain second dispositions do not trigger the resale rule, such as compulsory or involuntary conversions where the first disposition occurred before the conversion, and transfers occurring after the death of the first seller or the related party. In addition, any sale or exchange of stock to the issuing corporation is not treated as a first sale.ⁿ⁶ A more general rule exempts from the resale rule transactions in which neither the first nor second disposition has tax avoidance motives as one of its principal purposes.ⁿ⁷

In any event, the gain realized by the original seller on the second disposition under the related party resale rules is limited to the lesser of either (1) the amount realized on the second disposition, or (2) the contract price of the first disposition, reduced by the payments already received pursuant to the first disposition.ⁿ⁸ When a disposition is not a sale or exchange, e.g., a charitable contribution, the original seller is deemed to have realized the property's fair market value at that time.ⁿ⁹

[c] Cancellations and Bequests of Installment Obligations

If an installment obligation is cancelled or becomes unenforceable, it is treated as if it were disposed of in a transaction other than a sale or exchange. If the parties to the transaction are related, therefore, the value of the obligation is its face amount, and this amount, less the basis for the obligation, is given to the obligee at the time of the cancellation. This rule is intended to prevent the cancellation of debt between family members.ⁿ¹⁰

If the installment sales obligation is bequeathed by the seller to the obligor, the seller's estate is treated as having made a taxable disposition of it. This rule prevents an avoidance of taxation of gain unreported at the seller's death, which would result if the obligor had the right to his or her own payments.ⁿ¹¹ In situations where the seller's estate or beneficiary forecloses on real estate to cancel a second installment obligation which it received from the decedent, the gain is limited under I.R.C. Section 1038, thereby benefitting the estate or beneficiary.ⁿ¹²

[d] Installment Sales of Depreciable Property to Controlled Entity

The installment method is not available where a sale of depreciable property is made to a "related person," as defined in the rule treating gain from such sales as ordinary income. This denial of installment sale treatment applies even in situations where the second resale rules do not apply. In such cases, the seller is deemed to have received all payments in the year of disposition, unless the taxpayer can establish that tax avoidance was not one of the principal purposes of the transaction.ⁿ¹³ A "related person" under this rule includes (1) corporation or partnership which is 50-percent owned by the taxpayer, (2) a trust in which the taxpayer (or his spouse) is a beneficiary whose interest in the trust is not a remote contingent interest, and (3) certain corporation and corporation-partnership relationships described under the related party transaction loss deduction denial rule.ⁿ¹⁴ The constructive ownership rules of the loss deduction denial rule apply as well.ⁿ¹⁵ If the installment payments are contingent as to the amount, but their fair market value may not be reasonably ascertained, the basis is recovered ratably by the seller. The purchaser may not increase the basis of the property acquired by any amount before the time such amount is includable in the seller's gross income. This rule requires, in effect, conformity between the buyer and seller regarding recognition of income and basis.ⁿ¹⁶

Planning Notes

Secure Sufficient Down Payment on Installment Sale. Since all potential recapture under I.R.C. Section 1245 or Section 1250 is treated as ordinary income received in the year of sale regardless of the amount of payment received, it may be important that the seller in an installment sale secure a down payment that is large enough to cover the taxes on the recapture. Otherwise, the initial payment received by the seller may be insufficient to pay the taxes on the amount of ordinary income gain recognized under the recapture rules.ⁿ¹⁷

Annual Cash Payments May Be in Seller's Best Interest. Under the proportionate disallowance rule an installment seller subject to the rule is taxed on "phantom" income, even though no (or little) cash is received in the tax year. If the seller will be taxed on the "phantom" installment payment, i.e., the "allocable installment indebtedness" (AII), the seller would be better off having the cash payment each tax year in that amount, or at least in the amount of taxes due on the phantom AII.ⁿ¹⁸

I.R.S. Notification of Second Transaction. Where a taxpayer makes a sale to a "related person" who then resells the property before the original seller receives all the payments under the first sale, the statute of limitations for assessing a deficiency with respect to the gain on the first transaction does not start to run until the notice is given.ⁿ¹⁹

Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.12

§ 21.12 Tax-Free Exchanges

[1] Statutory Scope; Tax Benefits

Taxable gain or loss generally results from the exchange of one property for another property, measured by the fair market value of the property received on the exchange.ⁿ¹ However, special rules provide for nonrecognition of gain or loss, when property "held for productive use in a trade or business or for investment" is "exchanged solely" for property of "like kind" which is to be held for such productive use or for investment.ⁿ² This tax-free exchange of like-kind property permits the taxpayer to defer the recognition of gain on certain business or investment transactions. For that reason, the like-kind exchange has become a useful technique for tax deferral by real estate investors and other investors in commercial real property, who are thereby able to trade up unwanted qualifying property for other more desirable property, or to exchange unimproved land for improved real property (or vice versa), without being taxed at the time of the exchange on the resulting gain. Another tax advantage of a like-kind exchange is that it allows the owner of depreciated real property to postpone depreciation recapture and its accompanying tax burden.ⁿ³

Several requirements must be met, however, before real (or other) property may qualify for a tax-free exchange.ⁿ⁴ Also, certain property is specifically excluded from like-kind exchange treatment.ⁿ⁵ Moreover, if a taxpayer receives money or other property (other than like-kind property) in a tax-free exchange, gain (if any) is recognized to the extent of the money and the fair market value of the property received (the "boot").ⁿ⁶

Before examining the requirements, exclusions, and limitations of I.R.C. Section 1031, it is important to understand the tax consequences of a qualifying like-kind exchange, as demonstrated in the following examples:

Example 1:

Investor Smith owns a small apartment house, which cost him $200,000 and now has a fair market value of $500,000. Smith wishes to acquire a nearby office building which is on the market for $500,000. If Smith were to sell the apartment house, he would have to pay an immediate tax on the gain, which would reduce the amount available to buy the office building. I.R.C. Section 1031, however, allows Smith to exchange the apartment house for the office building without paying any tax.

It is important to remember, however, that a tax-free exchange only postpones gain. The taxpayer must eventually pay tax on that gain when he disposes of the property received on the exchange. Assume in the above example that Smith had written off $100,000 for depreciation on the apartment house. His basis would then be $100,000 ($200,000 cost less $100,000 depreciation). If Smith were to sell the house for $500,000, taxable profit would be $400,000 ($500,000 sales price less $100,000 adjusted basis), and his basis for the office building which he then purchased would be the $500,000 cost. If, however, Smith exchanges the properties under I.R.C. Section 1031, the replacement property (office building) would take on the basis of the old property.ⁿ⁷ Thus, Smith's basis in the office building would be only $100,000, so that when he later sells the building he will pay tax on his entire profit, including the $400,000 profit made on the original apartment house.

[2] Property Held for Productive Use in Trade or Business or for Investment

One of the major requirements for a like-kind exchange to qualify under I.R.C. Section 1031 is that the property exchanged must have been held for productive use in the taxpayer's trade or business or for investment, and the property received in exchange must similarly be held either for such productive use or for investment.ⁿ¹ Thus, these rules are not applicable to exchanges of personal use property, such as a residence.ⁿ² However, a residence such as a vacation home used at least in part for rental purposes can qualify for like-kind exchange treatment as an investment property under certain circumstances. Now, the IRS in a recent revenue procedure effective for exchanges occurring after March 10, 2008, has created a safe harbor for taxpayers who own vacation homes primarily for rental income, but who use the vacation home occasionally for personal use.^{n2.1} This is the first time the IRS has provided any guidance in this area. Previously, the IRS had traditionally taken the position that the sale or exchange of a residence constitutes a personal residence and not an investment property. Taxpayers who want to take advantage of the new revenue procedure must be aware of its requirements. The safe harbor specifies the requirements for both the property being transferred and the property being received. In order for the properties to qualify as investment properties, the taxpayer must have owned the property being transferred for at least 24 months before the transfer and must own the property received in exchange for no less than 24 months after the transfer. During each of the two 12-month periods constituting those 24-month periods: (i) the taxpayer must rent the dwelling unit at a fair rental price for 14 days or more; and (ii) the period of the taxpayer's personal use of the dwelling unit must not exceed the greater of 14 days or 10% of the number of days during the 12-month period that the dwelling unit is rented at a fair rental. On the other hand, unproductive real estate held by a taxpayer, other than a dealer, for future use or future realization of the increment in value is deemed to be held for investment and not primarily for sale.ⁿ³ Also, business property may be exchanged for investment property, and vice versa.ⁿ⁴

A distinction is made between business or investment real estate and real property that is held primarily for sale. Thus, exchanges made by dealers in real estate of property held primarily for sale to customers is not eligible for the tax-free exchange.ⁿ⁵ Similarly, the requirement that both the transferred property and the acquired property must be held for productive use or for investment excludes property which the taxpayer intends to sell in the immediate future.ⁿ⁶ The fact that property was not sold but was exchanged for similar property is an indication that the taxpayer was holding it for investment rather than for sale.ⁿ⁷ The application of these rules is illustrated in the following example.

Example:

Corporation Y wants to acquire a tract of land and an existing factory owned by Corporation X. Corporation Y acquires new land on which it constructs a factory solely for the purpose of exchanging the land and property for Corporation X's land and factory. Under these facts: (1) as to X, the exchange qualifies for nonrecognition despite the fact that Y acquired the property specifically to complete exchange; and (2) the exchange by Y does not qualify for nonrecognition because Y never held its newly acquired property for productive use in its trade or business or for investment.ⁿ⁸

[3] Exchange

The second major requirement for tax-free treatment under I.R.C. Section 1031 is that there must be an "exchange" of property.ⁿ¹ This requirement raises two closely related questions: (1) what constitutes the requisite "exchange," and (2) within what period of time must the exchange take place.

The term "exchange" is not specifically defined either in the statute or in the accompanying regulations. Other regulations, however, provide that "ordinarily, to constitute an exchange, the transaction must be a reciprocal transfer of property, as distinguished from a transfer of property for a money consideration only."ⁿ²

Prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1984, the courts held that there was no specific requirement that a like-kind exchange had to be completed within a specified period in order to qualify for tax-free treatment. In one leading case, the Ninth Circuit held that an exchange could qualify even though the property to be exchanged could be designated by the transferor for up to five years after the transaction and even though the transferor could have ultimately received cash or other than like-kind property.ⁿ³ The 1984 Act, however, amended I.R.C. Section 1031 to provide that any property received by the taxpayer more than 180 days after the date on which the taxpayer transfers property (or after the due date of the taxpayer's tax return for the taxable year in which the transfer occurs) cannot be treated as like-kind property.ⁿ⁴ As a result, tax-free treatment is not available unless the exchange is completed within this 180-day time period. In addition, property must be designated as the property to be received by the taxpayer within 45 days of the date the transferred property was relinquished in the exchange.ⁿ⁵ Failure to meet either the 45-day identification requirement or the 180-day receipt requirement will result in denial of tax-free exchange treatment under I.R.C. Section 1031, because either there was no "exchange" or the exchange was not of like-kind property.

The Courts and the Service have been divided over the validity of multi-party exchanges, with the results generally being determined on a case-by-case basis. For example, a "triangle" exchange, under which the taxpayer agrees to transfer his property to X if X will arrange to have other property transferred to him from third party Y, has been held to qualify as a sufficient "exchange" if X causes a direct conveyance to the taxpayer from Y.ⁿ⁶ The Tax Court, however, found a sale, rather than an exchange, where the taxpayer gave X an option to purchase a building and then entered into an exchange agreement with Y subject to the option, and where X exercised the option before the exchange with Y was concluded.ⁿ⁷

[a] Safe Harbor Deferred Exchange

In a deferred exchange, usually the biggest concern of the taxpayer is how to avoid the actual or constructive receipt of money or other property in connection with completing the exchange. Fortunately, Treasury Regulations issued in 1991 provide some safe harbors in this area. The preferred method used by most taxpayers is the Qualified Intermediary safe harbor.ⁿ⁸ The Qualified Intermediary is an independent party to the exchange transaction who performs the function of creating the reciprocal trade of properties for the exchange, holds the exchange funds, and sometimes supplies the necessary exchange documents. The exchange documents usually include an exchange agreement, assignments of the existing purchase and sale agreements and closing instructions. The taxpayer assigns the taxpayer's rights in the sale contract for the relinquished property and in the purchase contract for the replacement property to the Qualified Intermediary, who essentially becomes the "seller" of the relinquished property and the "buyer" of the replacement property. To avoid actual constructive receipt of exchange funds by the taxpayer, the proceeds from the sale of the relinquished property are held by the Qualified Intermediary until they are needed for the acquisition of the replacement property. Under this safe harbor, the Qualified Intermediary will be considered to have entered into the contract if (i) the Qualified Intermediary is assigned all of the taxpayer's rights under the sale contract, and (ii) all of the parties to that contract are notified in writing of the assignment on or before the closing of the transfer of that relinquished property.ⁿ⁹

In both simultaneous and delayed exchanges in which a Qualified Intermediary is used to create the reciprocal exchange of properties, direct deeding of the relinquished property from the taxpayer to the buyer and of the replacement property from the seller of the replacement property to the taxpayer is permitted thereby avoiding the necessity of the Qualified Intermediary holding title to any property.ⁿ¹⁰ Direct deeding avoids the possibility of the assessment on double state, county or local transfer taxes and also avoids any liability on the part of the Qualified Intermediary for possible environmental liability risks with respect to the properties.

These Treasury Regulations issued in 1991 further clarify the acceptable methods to properly identify the replacement property.ⁿ¹¹ The taxpayer must receive all replacement property within the earlier of 180 days after the date on which the taxpayer transferred the first relinquished property, or the due date (including extensions) for the taxpayer's tax return for the year in which the transfer of the first relinquished property occurs. Second, the taxpayer must identify the replacement property to be acquired by the end of the exchange period, within 45 days of the transfer of the first relinquished property. Proper identification of replacement property is critical and, if not made in a timely manner, the exchange fails and the entire transaction is taxable. The rules are (i) the replacement property identification must be in writing and signed by the taxpayer, (ii) it must be delivered by mail, fax, or hand-delivery to a party to the exchange transaction (usually the Qualified Intermediary) by midnight of the 45th day, (iii) the replacement properties must be unambiguously described, such as by street address, tax lot number or legal description, and (iv) the taxpayer may list up to three properties of unlimited value, but if more than three properties are listed, their total aggregate fair market value may not exceed 200% of the aggregate fair market value of the relinquished property. It is essential in a delayed exchange to adhere to these rules and deadlines established for identifying and acquiring replacement property. Failure to comply with the rules may result in a taxable transaction.

[b] Reverse Exchanges

In a reverse exchange, the taxpayer, for various reasons, must acquire the taxpayer's like-kind replacement property before disposing of the relinquished property. For example, for various reasons, the closing on the relinquished property may be delayed because of problems with the lender, zoning changes required by the buyer, or title or environmental concerns. The taxpayer can try to delay the closing on the replacement property so that the relinquished property can be sold, but that is not always possible. Case law has been inconsistent on the success of reverse exchanges.ⁿ¹² However, on September 15, 2000, in the form of Revenue Procedure 2000-37, the IRS provided that tax-deferral on reverse exchanges will be recognized if the transaction falls within the scope of the safe harbor described in that Revenue Procedure.ⁿ¹³ In the reverse exchange structured under the safe harbor protection of the Revenue Procedure, the entity used to facilitate a reverse exchange is referred to as the Exchange Accommodation Titleholder ("EAT"), and the property held by the EAT is commonly called the "parked property." To complete a reverse exchange, the EAT can take title to either the relinquished property or to the replacement property under an arrangement referred to as a "Qualified Exchange Accommodation Arrangement." The document between the two parties is called the "Qualified Exchange Accommodation Agreement" ("QEAA"). The QEAA must state that the EAT will be treated as the beneficial owner of the property for all federal income tax purposes. Both parties must report the federal income tax attributes of the property on their federal income tax returns in a manner consistent with the agreement. The QEAA must be entered into no later than five (5) business days after the EAT first acquires qualified indicia of ownership of the parked property (usually by acquiring legal title.)ⁿ¹⁴

If the closing on the replacement property cannot be avoided prior to the disposition of the relinquished property, generally two options are available under the Revenue Procedure.ⁿ¹⁵ In the most common type of reverse exchange the taxpayer contracts with the EAT to have it purchase and retain title to the replacement property. In the first phase of the reverse exchange, the taxpayer loans the necessary down payment funds to the EAT, who in turn uses these funds along with funds provided by a third-party lender, if any, to close on the replacement property and take title in the EAT's name. Under the terms of the parking agreement, or the QEAA, the EAT leases the property to the taxpayer under a triple net lease. In this way, the taxpayer can begin to use the property or sublet the property while the EAT holds title. On the rare occasion that a lease agreement is not possible, the EAT may be willing to retain the taxpayer or third party designated by the taxpayer as the property manager. The use of a property management agreement instead of a triple net lease has a substantial tax reporting obligation to the reverse exchange structure and therefore this type of arrangement should not be used if there are more suitable options.

When the taxpayer sells the relinquished property identified in the exchange, it is transferred directly to the buyer through a simultaneous exchange with the Qualified Intermediary and the use of direct deeding. The cash proceeds of the sale go to the Qualified Intermediary who uses the proceeds to acquire the replacement property from the EAT. The EAT uses these proceeds from the sale to first repay the loan from the taxpayer, and then any additional proceeds are used to pay down the third party loan on the replacement property prior to deeding the replacement property to the taxpayer. If there are more proceeds from the relinquished property sale then the Qualified Intermediary needs to acquire the replacement property and then the Qualified Intermediary can use the excess proceeds to purchase additional replacement property within 180 days of the transfer of the relinquished property, provided that such additional replacement property can be properly identified by the taxpayer within 45 days of the close of the relinquished property.ⁿ¹⁶ If a loan from an institutional lender is required, the taxpayer should seek lender approval for this type of exchange prior to beginning the exchange because the EAT will be required to be the borrower on the loan as the title holder of the property. In a safe harbor exchange, to protect the lender's security interest and to protect the EAT from liability in the event of a default by the taxpayer, the taxpayer will guaranty the loan and the EAT will only be the borrower on a non-recourse basis secured by a mortgage or deed of trust.

An alternative to parking the replacement property is to have the EAT park the taxpayer's relinquished property. This type of reverse exchange begins with the simultaneous exchange involving the taxpayer, the EAT, the seller of the replacement property, and the Qualified Intermediary. Here, with the assistance of the Qualified Intermediary, the taxpayer transfers the relinquished property to the EAT and then simultaneously receives the replacement property from the seller. Both transfers occur through the Qualified Intermediary and the use of direct deeding. Since the relinquished property has not yet been sold to a true buyer to provide exchange funds for the acquisition of the replacement property, the taxpayer must loan the funds to the EAT. The funds are then put into the exchange through the Qualified Intermediary to be used to acquire the replacement property from the seller. As in the replacement parking alternative, the EAT leases the relinquished property to the taxpayer under a triple net lease arrangement. In the second half of the transaction when the taxpayer has located a suitable buyer for the relinquished property, the relinquished property is sold and deeded from the holding entity to the buyer. The cash proceeds from the sale go to the EAT and are used first to retire any existing debt that the EAT took subject to, and then to repay the taxpayer for the original loan to the EAT.

Under Revenue Procedure 2000-37, a safe harbor reverse exchange must be completed within 180 days after the EAT acquires the parked property.ⁿ¹⁷ At the time the property is transferred to the EAT, the taxpayer must have a bona fide intent that the property represents either replacement property or relinquished property that is intended to qualify for non-recognition of gain under Section 1031. In addition, under a safe harbor reverse exchange in which the replacement property is parked with the EAT, the taxpayer must identify one or more relinquished properties within 45 days after the replacement property is acquired by the EAT.ⁿ¹⁸ Revenue Procedure 2000-37 adopts the same identification rules that apply in forward delayed exchanges.

[4] Like-Kind Property

The final major requirement for tax-free treatment under I.R.C. Section 1031 is that the property received as a result of the exchange must be of "like kind" to the property given up.ⁿ¹ The words "like kind" have reference to the nature or character of the property and not to its grade or quality. Thus, one kind or class of property may not be exchanged for property of a different kind or class. However, improved real estate may be exchanged for unimproved real estate, or vice versa, because such an exchange relates to the grade or quality of the property and not to its kind or class.ⁿ² Specific examples of permissible exchanges are: the exchange of city real estate for a farm or ranch; the exchange of a leasehold of a fee with 30 years or more to run for real estate; and the exchange of improved real estate for unimproved real estate.ⁿ³ But real estate located in the United States is not considered of like kind with real estate located outside of the United States.ⁿ⁴

[5] Exclusions from Like-Kind Exchanges

Certain types of property are specifically excluded from the nonrecognition rules of I.R.C. Section 1031. The rules do not apply to an exchange of:ⁿ¹

- (1) stock in trade or other property held primarily for sale;
- (2) stocks, bond, or notes;
- (3) other securities or evidences of indebtedness or interest;
- (4) interests in a partnership;
- (5) certificates of trust or beneficial interests; or
- (6) choses in action.

An interest in a partnership that has in effect a valid election to be excluded from the application of all of Subchapter K is treated as an interest in each of the assets of such partnership and not as an interest in a partnership.ⁿ² Thus, whether like-kind exchange treatment is available is determined with regard to the exchanges of the separate assets.

[6] Receipt of Other Property or Money ("Boot")

If a taxpayer receives, in addition to like-kind property, "other property or money" in a tax-free exchange under I.R.C. Section 1031, any gain is taxable to the extent of the value of the other property and the amount of money (i.e., the "boot") received in that exchange.ⁿ¹ The receipt of boot results in the recognition only of gain; however, any loss resulting from an exchange involving boot is not recognized to any extent.ⁿ²

The payment of boot is fairly common in Section 1031 exchanges, particularly where the value of the exchanged properties is not equal because they are subject to mortgages or other liabilities. In such cases, "other property or money" is usually paid by one party to the other as compensation for the differing amounts of equity involved in the exchanged properties.

If the taxpayer transfers mortgaged property in the exchange, and receives unencumbered property, the amount of the mortgage is treated as money received on the exchange. This rule applies regardless of whether the taxpayer is personally liable for the mortgage, or whether the mortgage is assumed by the transferee.ⁿ³ If, however, the taxpayer receives mortgaged property in exchange for his own mortgaged property, the amount of the mortgage on the acquired property is offset against the amount of the mortgage on the exchanged property. Similarly, any money paid by the taxpayer in the exchange is offset against the mortgage on the exchanged property. However, any money that the taxpayer receives in the exchange is taxable because it may not be offset by a mortgage on the received property.ⁿ⁴

[7] Basis in Exchanged Property; Holding Period

Property received in a tax-free exchange under I.R.C. Section 1031 acquires the same basis as that of the property transferred, decreased by the amount of money received by the taxpayer,ⁿ¹ and increased by the amount of gain to the taxpayer that was recognized on the exchange.ⁿ² The basis of the property received is also increased by any brokerage commissions paid by the taxpayer.ⁿ³ Where more than one property is acquired in a nontaxable exchange, the basis for the acquired properties is allocated according to their respective values on the exchange date.ⁿ⁴

The holding period of property acquired in a tax-free exchange includes the holding period of the property transferred provided that (1) the property was either a capital asset or Section 1231 property, and (2) the basis for the property received is determined, in whole or in part, by the basis of the property exchanged. If the property acquired does not meet these two requirements, its holding period begins on the date of the exchange.ⁿ⁵

The Service has stated in Notice 2000-4, that depreciable property acquired on a like-kind exchange should be depreciated over the remaining recovery period of, and using the same depreciation method and convention as that of the property given up. This rule applies to the extent the basis in the acquired property does not exceed the basis in the property given up. To the extent the basis of the acquired property exceeds the basis of the property given up, the acquired property is to be treated for depreciation purposes as if it had been newly purchased.ⁿ⁶

[8] Effect of Recapture Rules

As discussed earlier, the disposition of depreciable real property may result in the recognition, under I.R.C. Section 1250, of ordinary income, i.e., all or part of the cost recovery or depreciation deductions allowed or claimed in earlier years may be recaptured as ordinary income.ⁿ¹ The recapture rules, however, do not apply to like-kind exchanges except to the extent that boot is involved.ⁿ² Thus, if a taxpayer transfers and receives only like-kind Section 1250 property (generally depreciable real property), the transaction does not result in recapture, i.e., no ordinary income is recognized.ⁿ³

If, however, gain is recognized on an exchange of property because the taxpayer receives money or other property ("boot"), there is recapture to the extent of the greater of:

- (1) the Section 1031 gain (determined without regard to I.R.C. Section 1250); or
- (2) the excess of:
 - (a) the amount of Section 1250 gain which would (but for Section 1031) have been recognized, over
 - (b) the fair market value of the property received.ⁿ⁴

The Section 1250 property received in the exchange is treated as including the additional depreciation which was not recognized as ordinary income.ⁿ⁵ Thus, the additional depreciation must be taken into account when the taxpayer later disposes of the property in a taxable transaction.

[9] Special Rules for Exchanges Between Related Persons

If a taxpayer otherwise qualifies for nonrecognition of gain or loss in a like-kind exchange of property, but the exchange is with a related person, and either the taxpayer or the related person disposes of the property received in the exchange within two years thereafter, the taxpayer is not entitled to nonrecognition of gain or loss on the exchange. The taxpayer takes the previously unrecognized gain or loss into account on the date of the subsequent disposition of the exchanged property.ⁿ¹

For purposes of this rule, the term "related persons" is defined in the same manner as for the purposes of the limitation on the deduction of losses between related parties. Thus, "related persons" include, among others, members of a family, an individual and a 50-percent-owned corporation, and two corporations that are members of the same controlled group. For transfers after August 3, 1990, related persons also include a partnership and a person owning, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent of the capital interest or the profits interest in the partnership, and two partnerships in which the same persons own, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent of the capital interest or profits interest.ⁿ²

A disposition of the property will not invalidate the nonrecognition treatment of the original exchange if such disposition (1) is after the death of either the taxpayer or the related party, or (2) is in a compulsory or involuntary conversion of the property, provided that the original exchange occurred before the threat or imminence of the conversion. A disposition also will not invalidate the nonrecognition treatment of the original exchange if it is established to the satisfaction of the Service that neither the exchange nor the disposition had as one of its principal purposes the avoidance of federal income tax.ⁿ³

The legislative history indicates that the non-tax avoidance exception generally will apply to (1) a transaction involving an exchange of undivided interests in different properties that results in each taxpayer holding either the entire interest in a single property or a larger undivided interest in any of such properties, (2) dispositions of property in nonrecognition transactions, and (3) transactions that do not involve the shifting of basis between properties.ⁿ⁴

Nonrecognition will not be accorded to any exchange which is part of a transaction or series of transactions structured to avoid the purposes of the related party rules.ⁿ⁵ For example, if a taxpayer, pursuant to a prearranged plan, transfers property to an unrelated party who then exchanges the property with a party related to the taxpayer within two years of the previous transfer in a transaction otherwise qualifying under I.R.C. Section 1031, the related party will not be entitled to nonrecognition treatment under the section.

The running of the two-year holding period will be suspended during any period with respect to which a party's risk of loss with regard to the property is substantially diminished.ⁿ⁶

Planning Notes

Use Like-Kind Exchange to Trade Up Tax-Free. A qualified like-kind exchange of investment properties offers the taxpayer a useful technique to defer taxes. Such an exchange enables the investor to trade up highly appreciated real property for other real property while postponing the tax liability until the replacement property is sold. In effect, the tax deferral amounts to an interest-free loan from the Service.

When to Avoid Like-Kind Exchanges. A like-kind exchange is not beneficial for every owner of business or investment real property. The low carryover basis from the original property reduces depreciation deductions on the replacement property. Also, if the taxpayer has a loss on the original property, he will lose the deduction for it (although the loss will be reflected in a higher basis for the replacement property).

Designate Replacement Property in Contract. An exchange of like-kind property qualifies for tax-free treatment only if the taxpayer identifies the replacement property within 45 days after transfer of the original property.ⁿ⁷ This designation requirement may be met by designating the property to be received in the parties' contract. If this is not possible, the contract may specify a limited number of properties that may be transferred and state that the particular property to be transferred will be determined by contingencies beyond the parties' control. For example, A may agree to transfer real estate to B in exchange for B's promise to transfer property 1 to A if zoning changes are approved and property 2 if they are not.ⁿ⁸

Use Like-Kind Exchange to Postpone Recapture on Depreciated Property. A special attraction for some real estate investors is the avoidance of recapture of previously claimed accelerated depreciation deductions when the depreciated property is sold. A qualified like-kind exchange benefits such investors because it prevents the recaptured write-offs from being treated as ordinary income in the year of sale. Remember, however, that depreciation recapture is merely postponed and not eliminated. The replacement property includes the additional depreciation which was not taxed as ordinary income at the time of exchange, so that the taxpayer must pay tax on the recapture when the property is later sold.

§ 21.13 Sale-Leaseback Transactions

[1] Sale-Leaseback Transactions: General Considerations

The sale-leaseback transaction offers a real estate owner an alternative method (in lieu of mortgage financing) for realizing the cash value of his property while retaining its use and possession. In a typical sale-leaseback transaction, the initial property owner sells it and then leases it back from the new owner (the purchaser-lessor). The rent payments, under ideal circumstances, are sufficient to pay all liabilities and costs that the new owner incurs in acquiring and owning the property. All of such costs, previously paid by the initial owner, are then paid to the new owner in the form of rent.

Usually, the lease is made for a long term, often with renewal options. The sale-leaseback is not limited to transactions involving the fee ownership of property, but can be applied as well to the sale of a leasehold interest, in which event the transaction is technically a sale-subleaseback.ⁿ¹

A sale-leaseback has important tax and financial advantages for both the seller-lessee and the purchaser-lessor. These advantages may be destroyed, however, if the Service successfully challenges the substance of the transaction. A principal legal issue in a sale and leaseback transaction, in tax and other areas of the law, is whether the transaction, in substance, is a true sale and leaseback or rather a loan or other long-term financing arrangement. Moreover, the advantages of a sale-leaseback to the purchaser-lessor may be disadvantageous to the seller-lessee; conversely, advantageous consequences for the seller-lessee may result in detrimental consequences for the purchaser-lessor.

The following discussion examines three separate, but cognate, questions with respect to sale and leaseback transactions: (1) what are the financial advantages and disadvantages to the parties;ⁿ² (2) what are the tax consequences for the parties;ⁿ³ and (3) what factors will prompt the Service to recharacterize a sale-leaseback as a financing arrangement or other transaction (thereby probably resulting in tax consequences that the parties did not anticipate or desire).ⁿ⁴

[2] Financial Advantages and Disadvantages

[a] To Seller-Lessee

From a financing prospective, a sale-leaseback permits the initial owner to obtain funds equal to the market value of the property, in contrast to an alternative mortgage loan which is usually limited to a lower percentage (usually 80 percent or less) of the value. This financing technique is especially valuable in a tight-money market, where funds are not readily available or are subject to high borrowing rates. Also, funds obtained through a sale-leaseback do not carry the restrictions on company activities often imposed by capital financing loan documents.

The seller, as a tenant, may deduct his rental payments, which are often greater than the deductions for depreciation and mortgage interest available to him as an owner.ⁿ¹ If a substantial portion of the value of property is allocable to the land (which is not depreciable) or to substantially depreciated assets, the deductions as a lessee are even more likely to be greater than those as an owner. However, the loss of the depreciation deduction may, in some circumstances, outweigh any advantage from the deductible leaseback rent payments. In such cases, the sale and leaseback arrangement may not be advantageous for the initial owner.

Sale and leaseback arrangements sometimes include option clauses that give the seller-lessee the right to renew the lease or even to buy back the property. These options to renew or purchase should be carefully considered and structured, because they may subject the transaction to challenge by the Service on the ground that the parties are actually financing by mortgage loan rather than completing a bona fide sale.ⁿ²

[b] To Purchaser-Lessor

A major advantage to the purchaser-lessor of a sale-leaseback arrangement is that it may enable him to obtain a long-term tenant who has a special interest in remaining on the property and in making substantial improvements on it.ⁿ³ The lease often provides for a net rental, which obligates the tenant to pay all carrying charges, such as taxes, insurance, and the like; the purpose is to give the new owner sufficient rental payments to pay the mortgage servicing charges (interest plus amortization) and a fair return on his investment. The entire rental, of course, is deductible by the tenant. The owner, on the other hand, has interest and cost recovery or depreciation deductions to set off against his rental income.ⁿ⁴

Also, under ideal circumstances, the new owner is able to acquire the property without having to make an equity investment. Moreover, the new owner's equity interest in the property increases as principal payments are made under the mortgage (which are funded by the rental payments).

[3] Tax Consequences

[a] Taxation of Seller-Lessee

In a sale-leaseback, the seller-lessee exchanges deductions of mortgage interest and depreciation for the deduction of rent. In addition, other expenses paid in the case of a net leaseback, such as insurance, taxes, maintenance, and repairs are deductible by the seller as additional rent payments.ⁿ¹ Even if the rent deduction does not exceed the former interest depreciation deduction, other tax and financial considerations may still make the sale and leaseback desirable. Of course, a careful examination of all these factors is necessary.

The seller-lessee can determine the time of sale, thus timing the realization of gain or loss (the difference between the property's basis and the amount received).ⁿ² Gain may be realized on an appreciated asset in a year when net operating loss carryover or investment credits would expire otherwise unused. The gain would thus be sheltered, while the net operating loss carryover or investment credit carryover would not be lost.

Any gain realized upon the sale is normally long-term in nature if the property has been held for the requisite holding period or if it qualifies as I.R.C. Section 1231 trade or business property.ⁿ³ If, however, the property is subject to investment credit or depreciation recapture, all or a portion of the gain, i.e., the recaptured amount, is taxed at ordinary income rates.ⁿ⁴ In that event, the ordinary income treatment may offset any advantages from the sale and leaseback arrangement. It should also be remembered that ordinary income treatment may result, to the extent of the gain, if the sale-leaseback is between related parties.ⁿ⁵ Moreover, if such a transaction between related parties results in a loss, the loss may be disallowed.ⁿ⁶

[b] Taxation of Purchaser-Lessor

The purchaser-lessor in a sale-leaseback reports rent as ordinary income.ⁿ⁷ This amount is offset to a certain extent by the cost recovery or depreciation deduction, which is available to the purchaser for business or income producing property acquired after 1980 (cost recovery) or before 1981 (depreciation).ⁿ⁸ If accelerated depreciation is available in the early years, the purchaser-lessor may not only receive the rent tax-free, but may also shelter some other income as well. Interest on the purchaser's purchase money mortgage is also a deductible offset against rental income.ⁿ⁹ The purchaser may also be eligible for the rehabilitation tax credit if the property qualifies for that credit and if the purchaser is the original user of the property after the rehabilitation.ⁿ¹⁰

[4] Service Challenges; Tax Classification Factors

The tax and financial advantages of a sale and leaseback may be destroyed in the event of a successful Service challenge on the substance of the transaction. This risk is greatly increased if there is an obvious tax avoidance scheme without a legitimate business purpose. Even in the absence of tax avoidance, the Service has successfully used other avenues of attack to invalidate what the parties intended as a sale and leaseback arrangement. The principal challenges, and the tax factors which the Service and courts have applied in sale-leaseback litigation, are discussed below.

[a] Financing Devices

Although the payments in a sale-leaseback arrangement are in the form of rent rather than principal and interest, a true sale-leaseback transaction contains various characteristics which show that it is not a long-term loan or other financing device in substance. For example, if the purported purchaser-lessor assumes the risk of loss of the property's value, has entered into the transaction for business or income producing purposes, and possesses other meaningful benefits and burdens of ownership, it is more likely that the transaction is in fact a true sale and leaseback, and not a financing device.ⁿ¹

Whether a transaction is a bona fide sale-leaseback or a financing arrangement in the form of a sale-leaseback depends upon the facts of each case. Some of the principal factors examined in deciding the issue include the economic substance of the transaction, business realities, and other tax-independent considerations not used solely for tax avoidance.ⁿ² The same and related factors are used to determine whether sale-leaseback of equipment and other personal property is a true lease or merely a financing arrangement.ⁿ³

The landmark case dealing with a sale-leaseback of real property is Frank Lyon Co. v. United States,ⁿ⁴ in which the Supreme Court held that where there is a genuine multiple-party transaction with economic substance which is compelled or encouraged by business or regulatory realities, imbued with tax-independent considerations, and not shaped solely by tax-avoidance features that have meaningless labels attached, the Service should honor the allocation of rights and duties effectuated by the parties. The purchaser-lessor in Lyon financed the purchase by paying cash and borrowing funds for which there was substantial personal liability. The Court held that the transaction was a bona fide sale-leaseback. Among the many factors the Court cited in support for its holding was the fact that there was a business purpose for the sale-leaseback. This was evidenced by the fact that state and federal regulations prohibited the lessee-bank from borrowing a sufficient amount to finance construction. In addition, investment diversification was the lessor's principal motive. The Court also noted that the depreciation deductions would have been equally available to the lessee-bank had it retained title. The lessee's option to purchase, though fixed, was for a reasonable amount, and the lessor bore the risk that the lessee would not exercise that option if the price was more than the fair market value of the property. The facts indicated that the lessor would realize an overall profit from the transaction independent of tax benefits if the lessee-bank exercised its option to purchase the leased property.ⁿ⁵

In a subsequent case, decided in the Tax Court,ⁿ⁶ the fact that the lessor could not reasonably expect to show a profit from the transaction, without taking into consideration the tax benefits of depreciation, etc., was a significant factor in denying lease treatment to the transaction. Following the guidelines set down in Lyon, above, the court found a financing corporation was organized for the purpose of buying land from a department store chain, constructing a building, and then leasing it back to the chain under a net lease. The lessee was treated as the owner, not the lessor. The court reached this conclusion because the lessee's status vis-a-vis the property underwent no appreciable change when the sale and leaseback arrangement was made, the lessor made no investment in the project, financing had been obtained using the store's credit with rental payments being made by the lessee directly to the lender under the nonrecourse mortgage, and the corporation's ownership interest was marketed to individuals as a tax shelter. The court found further that there was no economic foundation for their investment other than as a tax loss.ⁿ⁷

The above cases and rulings indicate that the Service is especially likely to recharacterize a transaction as a mortgage loan when the transaction looks like an alternative to conventional mortgage financing and the seller retains substantial control over the property. A purchase option in the leaseback for nominal consideration or for a price against which the rent is credited may cause the transaction to fail as a sale-leaseback. If the Service prevails, the seller would not be entitled to deduct the entire rental payments, but only that portion which would have been interest on the intended mortgage. The seller, not the buyer, would be entitled to the depreciation deduction. The income to the buyer would not include all the rent payments, but rather only that portion deemed to be interest on the hypothetical mortgage.ⁿ⁸

[b] Like-Kind Exchanges

As discussed earlier, no gain or loss is recognized under I.R.C. Section 1031 where there is an exchange of "like-kind" property held for productive use in a trade or business or for investment.ⁿ⁹ The regulations provide that an ownership in fee and a 30-year lease are properties of "like-kind."ⁿ¹⁰ This provision has caused apparently conflicting decisions, as to whether a sale with a leaseback for a period of 30 years or more will result in the recognition of loss to the seller, or rather will be treated as a nontaxable like-kind exchange in which no loss can be recognized. An examination of the cases indicates that the courts look primarily at two related factors when the Service seeks to deny loss to the seller by claiming that the transaction is a like-kind exchange: (1) whether fair market value was paid for the property in cash, without including the leaseback as part of the consideration, and (2) whether fair rental value was paid on the leaseback. If the sale was consummated for a fair market price and the rentals are at fair market value, the sale-leaseback will probably be upheld and the seller-lessee will be able to recognize its loss.ⁿ¹¹

Where the leaseback is for less than 30 years and the selling price represents fair market value, loss (or gain) on the sale is recognized by the Service. In such a case, the transaction will not be treated as a like-kind exchange, even if the loss contains options permitting extensions beyond 30 years.ⁿ¹²

Structure Sale-Leaseback Transaction to Satisfy Lyon Factors. In order to lessen the chances that the Service will challenge a sale-leaseback transaction as a financing arrangement rather than a true sale-leaseback, the parties should make every effort to structure the transaction so that it satisfies all, or at least most, of the factors listed by the Court in Lyon. If that is done, the Service will probably not try to recharacterize the transaction as a loan or financing device, and the parties will receive the intended tax consequences.ⁿ¹³

Sale with Leaseback in Excess of 30 Years--Loss on Sale. If the sale in a sale-leaseback results in a loss to the seller and the leaseback is for 30 years or more, the Service may argue that the transaction is a tax-free exchange of "like-kind" property, for which no loss may be recognized. The necessity for a 30-year term under such circumstances should be carefully considered. If a leasehold term of 30 years or more is required, the transaction should be structured so as to meet the fair market and fair rental value criteria.ⁿ¹⁴

§ 21.14 Exclusion of Gain from Sale of Principal Residence

[1] In General

I.R.C. Section 121 excludes from gross income $250,000 of gain from the sale of a principal residence ($500,000 for certain taxpayers filing a joint return).ⁿ¹ The exclusion is available for any sale or exchange of a principal residence that satisfies the ownership and use requirements discussed below, unless an exclusion has applied to a sale or exchange of a principal residence within the preceding two years. The two-year period is measured from the date of the sale in question. In circumstances in which the buyer needs occupancy before the two-year period will have expired, it is possible for the seller to take advantage of the relief provision and still accommodate the buyer by entering into a contract with a closing date after the end of the two-year period and allowing the buyer to rent the property for the interim period.

Example:

H&P purchase Blackacre on 7/1/95 and immediately use it as their principal residence. On 10/18/97, they purchase Whiteacre, to which they move as their new principal residence, converting Blackacre to a rental property. They sell Blackacre on 6/10/98 in a transaction that takes advantage of I.R.C. § 121. In January, 2000, they put Whiteacre on the market and find a buyer who must move in by 6/1/00. H&P can sign a contract for the sale of Whiteacre with a 6/15/00 closing date, providing that the risk of loss from fire or other casualty remains with them, and lease Whiteacre to the Buyer from 6/1/00 through 6/15/00, for an arm's length rental. The sale of Whiteacre will close (and take place for tax purposes) on 6/15/00, which is more than two years after the sale of Blackacre. H&P occupied each of Blackacre (from 7/1/95-10/18/97) and Whiteacre (from 10/19/97-5/31/00) as their principal residence for more than two years during the five-year period preceding the sale of each property. Each sale can take advantage of I.R.C. § 121.

In determining whether there has been a sale or exchange within the preceding two years, sales or exchanges before May 7, 1997, are not taken into account.ⁿ² The exclusion is available without regard to the taxpayer's age.ⁿ³ The exclusion does not apply to any gain attributable to depreciation adjustmentsⁿ⁴ for periods after May 6, 1997; such gain must be recognized.ⁿ⁵

[2] Ownership and Use Requirements

To qualify for the exclusion, the taxpayer must have owned the property and used it as a principal residence for at least two years of the five-year period ending on the date of the sale or exchange.ⁿ⁶ A taxpayer is treated as using his or her residence for purposes of the use requirement during any period in which he or she is incapable of self-care and resides in a licensed nursing home or similar facility, provided the following requirements are met:ⁿ⁷

- (1) the taxpayer is physically or mentally incapable of self-care;
- (2) the taxpayer owns and uses the property as a principal residence for at least one year of the five-year period ending on the date of the sale or exchange; and
- (3) the taxpayer owns the property while living in the licensed nursing home or other facility.

Note that this relief provision would not apply to an incapacitated taxpayer who is residing with a relative.

Taxpayers, in some cases, may be treated as the owners of a residence for purposes of I.R.C. Section 121, even though title to the residence is actually held by another entity. For example, a residence the title to which is held by a partnership or a grantor trust may be treated as owned by the taxpayers for purposes of satisfying ownership and other requirements of I.R.C. Section 121.ⁿ⁸

[3] Requirements when Joint Return Is Filed

The $250,000 exclusion is available when a husband and wife file a joint return if either spouse meets the statutory ownership and use requirements with respect to the property.ⁿ⁹ Each spouse could utilize the full $250,000 exclusion with respect to property as to which he or she separately satisfied the use and ownership requirements. A $500,000 exclusion is available, however, if the following requirements are met:ⁿ¹⁰

- (1) a husband and wife file a joint return;
- (2) either spouse meets the ownership requirements during the applicable two-year period;
- (3) both spouses meet the use requirements with respect to the property during the applicable two-year period; and
- (4) neither spouse is ineligible for the exclusion by virtue of a sale or exchange of a principal residence within the preceding two years.

Thus, if H, a single taxpayer who owns his principal residence and is otherwise eligible for an exclusion under I.R.C. Section 121, marries W, who has recently used the exclusion, H is allowed a maximum exclusion of $250,000, whether on a separate return or on a joint return with W. Once both spouses satisfy the eligibility rules and two years have passed since the last exclusion was allowed to either spouse, the taxpayers may exclude $500,000 on their joint return.ⁿ¹¹

Where a husband and wife filing a joint return do not satisfy the two-year ownership test, the two-year use test and the prohibition on any other sale or exchange of a residence within the last two years, the limit on the amount of excludable gain is computed separately for each spouse. Each spouse is treated as owning the property during the period that either spouse owned the property.ⁿ¹²

[4] Availability of Partial Exclusion

In some instances, a partial exclusion from gain recognition may be available even if the ownership and use requirements are not met, or if there has been a prior sale or exchange of a principal residence within two years. This relief is available for taxpayers who sell or exchange their principal residence after May 6, 1997.ⁿ¹³

The partial relief is based on a fraction of the maximum exclusion ($500,000 [joint] or $250,000 [single]), instead of a fraction of the actual profit realized because of the sale transaction.

The amount of the partial exclusion is determined by a ratio. The amount of exclusion is the amount that bears the same ratio to the amount that otherwise would be excluded under I.R.C. Section 121 if the statutory requirements were met, as the shorter of the following bears to two years: (1) the aggregate periods during the five-year period ending on the date of the sale or exchange that the property was owned and used as the taxpayer's principal residence; or (2) the period after the date of the most recent prior sale or exchange of a principal residence by the taxpayer to which the I.R.C. Section 121 exclusion applied and before the date of the sale or exchange.ⁿ¹⁴ The ratio is applied to the maximum exclusion (i.e., $250,000 or $500,000), not to the gain recognized on the sale.

To illustrate, if a married couple purchased a new home for $300,000 and sold it one year later for $350,000, there would be a gain of $50,000. They would be eligible for up to one half of the $500,000 exclusion which they would have qualified for if they had lived in the house for at least two years before selling it: $$500,000 \times 1/2 = $250,000$. In this example, no tax would be owed on the gain of $50,000 because that amount is less than $250,000.

Example 2:

Elsa, an unmarried taxpayer, buys a midtown Manhattan condo in 1998 for $2 million and uses it for a year as her principal residence. She sells it in 1999 for $2.5 million, at a profit of $500,000. Since Elsa is single and only used the new condo for a year, she is entitled to claim an exclusion equal to only one half of the $250,000 maximum exclusion available for singles. Thus, she may only exclude $125,000 of her $500,000 gain. The remainder of the gain -- $375,000 -- is taxable.

For sales and exchanges taking place after August 4, 1999, the partial exclusion is available only if the sale or exchange in question occurs by reason of a change of place of employment, health, or, to the extent provided in regulations, unforeseen circumstances.ⁿ¹⁵

[5] Application of Exclusion Under Special Circumstances

[a] Property of Deceased Spouse

For an unmarried individual whose spouse is deceased, for purposes of the exclusion, the period that such person owned and used a property as his or her principal residence includes any period the deceased spouse owned and used the property before death.ⁿ¹⁶ This provision would seem to allow a surviving spouse to exclude gain from the sale of property which he never used as a principal residence. For example, it would seem to apply to a sale by H of Mountainview on 1/1/99, if H married his late wife W on 1/1/96, and W had owned and occupied Mountainview as her principal residence from 1/1/94 through 12/31/95. It appears that the exclusion provided by I.R.C. Section 121 thus could apply to appreciation in the value of Mountainview occurring after W's death, with appreciation occurring before W's death being, in effect, excluded from income pursuant to the basis provisions of I.R.C. Section 1014. In addition, it seems that this provision does not apply to a surviving spouse who has remarried.

[b] Property Owned by Spouse or Former Spouse

For property transferred to a spouse or to a former spouse incident to a divorce, the period that the transferee owns the property includes the period the transferor owned the property.ⁿ¹⁷ The reference to the period of ownership should presumably include the period of usage as a principal residence, but the statutory language does not so provide. In addition, an individual is treated as using property as a principal residence during any period of ownership while that individual's spouse or former spouse is granted use of the property under a divorce or separation instrument.ⁿ¹⁸

[c] Tenant-Stockholders in Cooperative Housing Corporations

I.R.C. Section 121 applies to tenant-stockholders in cooperative housing corporations. In that case, the holding requirements are applied to the holding of the stock, and the use requirements are applied to the house or apartment that the taxpayer's stock ownership (and proprietary lease) entitles the taxpayer to occupy.ⁿ¹⁹

[d] Involuntary Conversion

For purposes of I.R.C. Section 121, an involuntary conversion or destruction is treated as a sale of the property.ⁿ²⁰ In applying I.R.C. Section 1033, the amount realized from the sale or exchange is treated as being the amount determined without regard to I.R.C. Section 121, reduced by the amount of gain not included in gross income by reason of I.R.C. Section 121.ⁿ²¹ If the taxpayer takes a carryover basis under I.R.C. Section 1033(b) in property acquired after the involuntary conversion, the holding and use periods of the converted property are taken into account with respect to the acquired property.ⁿ²²

[e] Sales of Remainder Interests

Unless the sale or exchange is to a related party,ⁿ²³ a taxpayer selling a remainder interest in a principal residence may elect to have the exclusion apply if the requirements of I.R.C. Section 121 are met. However, the exclusion does not apply to any other interest in that residence that is sold or exchanged separately.ⁿ²⁴

[f] Principal Residences Acquired in Rollovers Under Former I.R.C. Section 1034

In the case of a principal residence acquired in a reinvestment pursuant to which any gain was not recognized on the sale or exchange of another residence under former I.R.C. Section 1034, the period that the taxpayer owned and used the replacement residence includes the period the taxpayer owned and used the prior residence (and also the period of ownership and use of any other prior residences taken into account under I.R.C. Section 1223(7)) in determining the holding period of the replacement residence.ⁿ²⁵

[g] Expatriates

The exclusion is not available for certain expatriates.ⁿ²⁶

[h] Bankruptcy Trustees

Several cases have held that a Chapter 7 or Chapter 11 bankruptcy trustee may use the I.R.C. Section 121 exclusion in selling the debtor's principal residence.ⁿ²⁷

The authority for the estate's use of the Section 121 exclusion is found in I.R.C. Section 1398. I.R.C. Section 1398(g)(6) provides that with respect to any property acquired by the estate from the debtor, the property retains the same basis, holding period, and character that it had in the hands of the debtor. Thus, if the debtor owned the property for the period required in I.R.C. Section 121, the estate succeeds to that holding period. Similarly, the "character" of the home as the taxpayer's principal residence for the requisite period also carries over to the bankruptcy estate. Because the estate succeeds to those attributes, it qualifies for the I.R.C. Section 121 exclusion.ⁿ²⁸

The conclusion is also compelled by I.R.C. Section 1398(c)(1), which states that an estate is taxed like an individual. In addition, I.R.C. Section 1398(f)(1) says that a transfer of property from a debtor to the bankruptcy estate is not a disposition for tax purposes, but that the estate must be treated as the debtor would with respect to the asset. The above cases depart from prior cases holding that bankruptcy trustees could not make an election to exclude gain under the pre-1998 version of I.R.C. Section 121.ⁿ²⁹

[i] Grantor Trusts

If a grantor trust owns title to the trustor's personal residence, the trustor is treated as the owner of the trust and the residence under statutory grantor trust provisions.ⁿ³⁰ The trustor is also treated as the owner of the residence for purposes of meeting requirements under I.R.C. Section 121. Therefore, a sale by the trustee-grantor of the residence is eligible for the exclusion under I.R.C. Section 121 if statutory conditions are otherwise met.ⁿ³⁰

[6] Election Not to Have Exclusion Apply

The exclusion does not have to be elected (except for sales of remainder interests),ⁿ³¹ and automatically applies unless the taxpayer makes an election not to have the exclusion apply.ⁿ³² Such an election might be prudent where the taxpayer expects to have two eligible sales within a two-year period, and expects that the gain on the first sale will be less than the $250,000/$500,000 ceiling and also smaller than the gain on the second sale. Under these circumstances, it would make sense for the taxpayer to waive the application of the exclusion to the first sale so that it can apply to the second sale.

[7] Return Filing Requirements

The return that is generally required in the case of a real estate transaction need not be filed with respect to sales or exchanges of residences for $250,000 or less (or $500,000 or less if the seller is married) if the real estate reporting person has written assurance of the following:ⁿ³³

- (1) the property is the principal residence of the seller;
- (2) there is no federally subsidized mortgage assistance with respect to the mortgage on the residence;
- (3) the full amount of gain is excludable under I.R.C. Section 121; and
- (4) when the $500,000 base amount applies, the seller is married.

The Secretary is authorized to increase the above dollar amounts by regulation.

Planning Tip

It should be noted that, for purposes of the above exception to the reporting requirements, the $250,000 amount (or $500,000 amount if the seller is married) refers to the selling price of the property, not the amount of gain from the sale. ⁿ³⁴

[8] Effective Date and Transition Rules

The exclusion of gain under I.R.C. Section 121 described above is generally effective for sales and exchanges after May 6, 1997. However, a taxpayer may elect to have the 1997 amendments to I.R.C. Section 121 not apply to any sale or exchange taking place before August 5, 1997, or to any sale or exchange taking place after August 4, 1997, pursuant to a binding contract in effect on August 5, 1997. A taxpayer may also elect not to have the 1997 amendments apply to a sale or exchange taking place after August 4, 1997, if, without regard to the amendments, gain would not be recognized under former I.R.C. Section 1034, as in effect before August 5, 1997, on the sale or exchange by reason of the acquisition of a new residence on or before that date, or with respect to the acquisition of which by the taxpayer a binding contract was in effect on that date.ⁿ³⁵

[9] Alternative to Sale--Conversion to Business Use

An alternative to selling a personal residence is to convert it to business or investment real estate. The tax benefits available to the investor, together with potential rental income and appreciation, may make conversion economically advantageous. Consideration should be given to the tax effects of I.R.C. Section 1231. Under I.R.C. Section 1231, property that has been converted to investment or income-producing property may receive capital gains treatment if sold at a profit, or ordinary loss treatment if sold below basis.ⁿ³⁶

When converting property from personal use to business or investment use, a taxpayer generally obtains a new tax basis for the converted property. The new basis, which is used to determine allowable depreciation as well as the amount of any loss sustained, is the lesser of: (1) the fair market value of the property at the time of conversion; or (2) the original cost, adjusted upward for capital improvements and downward for any allowable deductions (e.g., depreciation up to the date of conversion).ⁿ³⁷ The taxpayer will have the burden of establishing the fair market value of the property at the time of conversion.ⁿ³⁸

A personal residence is converted, for these purposes, only if it achieves the status of income-producing property.ⁿ³⁹ Property offered for rent, as evidenced by the owner's affirmative actions, will be considered as having been converted to income-producing property for purposes of deducting business expenses and depreciation, but a taxpayer will be entitled to deduct a loss on the sale of a former personal residence only if the property has actually been rented for more than a de minimis period of time.ⁿ⁴⁰ The key issue is the intent of the taxpayer in light of all the facts and circumstances.

It should be noted that, once the property is converted to investment status, the relief provisions of Section 121 discussed earlier in this chapter may no longer be available to the taxpayer when the property is sold.ⁿ⁴¹

Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.15

§ 21.15 Residential Mortgage Interest Deduction

Qualified residence interest is not subject to the deduction limitation that applies to personal interest.ⁿ¹ Nondeductible personal interest, or consumer interest, is any interest that is not (1) properly allocable to a trade or business, (2) investment interest, (3) interest used in computing the taxpayer's passive activity income or loss, or (4) qualified residence interest.ⁿ² Qualified residence interest includes interest on acquisition indebtedness and home equity indebtedness of a principal and second residence of the taxpayer. The debt must be secured by the taxpayer's principal or a second residence. The maximum allowed acquisition indebtedness is $1 million.ⁿ³

Acquisition indebtedness means debt that is incurred in acquiring, constructing, or substantially improving the principal or a second residence of the taxpayer. This indebtedness is reduced as payments of principal are made, and cannot be increased by refinancing.ⁿ⁴

Example:

An individual incurs an $85,000 mortgage to acquire his principal residence. Eventually, the mortgage debt is paid down to $60,000. His acquisition indebtedness for the residence cannot now be increased above $60,000, unless incurred to substantially improve the residence.

The total amount of acquisition debt for qualified residence interest is $1 million. As a result, if the taxpayer's debt to acquire, construct, or substantially improve his principal or second residence exceeds $1 million, then only interest on the total principal amount of $1 million of the debt is deductible as acquisition interest. For married persons filing separate returns, the limit is $500,000.ⁿ⁵

"Home equity indebtedness" is any indebtedness (other than acquisition indebtedness) secured by a qualified residence to the extent that the aggregate amount of such indebtedness does not exceed (1) the fair market value of such qualified residence, minus (2) the amount of acquisition indebtedness with respect to the residence.ⁿ⁶ The aggregate amount treated as home equity indebtedness for any period may not exceed $100,000 ($50,000 in the case of a separate return filed by a married individual).ⁿ⁷

A qualified residence includes the taxpayer's principal residence which would qualify as a principal residence under the gain rollover rules. A qualified residence also includes one other residence used for personal purposes by the taxpayer for the greater of 14 days or 10 percent of the number of days it is rented during the year.ⁿ⁸ If a second residence is not rented at any time during the taxable year, the taxpayer need not meet the use requirements that the residence be used for personal, non-rental, purposes.ⁿ⁹

For a housing cooperative, debt secured by stock held by the taxpayer as a tenant-stockholder is treated as secured by the residence of the taxpayer entitled to occupy it as a tenant-stockholder. If stock may not be used as security by virtue of restrictions arising, for example, pursuant to state or local law, or pursuant to reasonable restrictions in the cooperative agreement, the stock may be treated as securing such debt, if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the Service that the debt was incurred to acquire the stock.ⁿ¹⁰

Planning Note

The total residence indebtedness may be as high as $1,100,000. The total acquisition and home equity indebtedness secured by a taxpayer's principal residence and a second home that is eligible for the qualified residence interest exception may be as much as $1,100,000 overall. This maximum amount is $550,000 for a married individual filing a separate return.

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part I. The Tax Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.16

§ 21.16 Sale of Real Property Related Interests

[1] Sale of Leasehold Interest

In the hands of the lessee, a leasehold is ordinarily a capital asset.ⁿ¹ Thus, a lessee who disposes of his leasehold interest by quit claim to a purchaser of the property is allowed to recover the unexhausted portion of his basis in the interest, and to have the balance of the consideration taxed as capital gain.ⁿ² On the other hand, a lessee was held to realize ordinary rental income rather than capital gain from the proceeds of a sale where the agreement with the lessor and a third party created merely a sublease and not a complete transfer of all rights in the underlying lease.ⁿ³

Capital gain treatment has been allowed in several cases where the lessee transferred all of his interest in the property. Thus, capital gain treatment was allowed for an amount received by a lessee from the sublessee of part of the leased property under a three-party agreement pursuant to which the lessee assigned his interest as sublessor to the lessor so that the latter could lease directly to the sublessee; the assignment was treated as a sale, even though the payment was made by the sublessee, because it was for a legitimate business purpose.ⁿ⁴ Similarly, the amount received by a lessee for cancelling a sublease was held to be capital gain when accompanied by an assignment of the prime lease; the assignment completely divested the lessee-sublessor of all interest in the property so that the transaction was a sale of income-producing property rather than a payment in lieu of future rent.ⁿ⁵

A leasehold is depreciable business property where the lessee is engaged in the business of subleasing.ⁿ⁶ Although such a lease is not a capital asset,ⁿ⁷ a gain realized upon its sale is subject to the special capital gain rule unless the taxpayer is in the business of selling leaseholds.ⁿ⁸ A lessee's renewal option upon property used in his business is depreciable business property. Presumably, consideration received for the release of this option would be capital gain under the special capital gain provisions of I.R.C. Section 1231.ⁿ⁹ The present position of the Service is that a leasehold interest in land with less than 30 years to run is real property; if used in the lessee's trade or business it is not a capital asset but instead falls within the special capital gain rule so that a sale may still result in capital gain if the taxpayer is not in the business of selling leaseholds. If the leasehold is subject to depreciation, the recapture rules operate upon its sale.ⁿ¹⁰ On the other hand, the Service has ruled that consideration received by a lessee for an assignment of his 99-year lease was advance rental rather than the proceeds of a sale where the lessee reserved the right to exercise a purchase option in the lease.ⁿ¹¹

Where a shareholder's investment in a cooperative apartment is in the shares rather than the lease, any loss is limited to a capital loss even if the lease constitutes real property held for sublease. In any case, any loss on the lease is limited to its value at the time it was first held for sublease.ⁿ¹²

[2] Sale of Partnership Interest

Where real estate is held by a partnership, a sale of a partnership interest may be the method utilized to terminate the business as an alternative to the sale of the specific assets. In general, capital gain or loss is realized by the transferor partner upon the sale or exchange of a partnership interest.ⁿ¹

Ordinary income is recognized, however, to the extent that the payment is made for an interest in "unrealized receivables" or "substantially appreciated inventory."ⁿ² This limitation inhibits the use of the "collapsible partnership" to circumvent the collapsible corporation provisions.ⁿ³ If depreciable property would be subject to ordinary income tax upon a sale to the extent of gain attributable to "over-depreciation," that property is classified as an "unrealized receivable" to the extent that the partnership would have had ordinary income upon a sale for fair market value at the time of the sale.ⁿ⁴

The Supreme Court has held that when a taxpayer sells or otherwise disposes of partnership property that is encumbered by a nonrecourse mortgage or other obligation (one on which the borrower is not personally liable) in excess of the fair market value of the property sold, the "amount realized" includes the outstanding amount of the obligation.ⁿ⁵ The Court pointed out that the only difference between a nonrecourse mortgage and a recourse one is that in the event of nonpayment, the nonrecourse mortgagee's remedy is limited to foreclosure against the secured property. In effect, the risk of devaluation of the property is shifted from the borrower to the lender, but the nature of the obligation is not altered. The Court also pointed out that the amount of nonrecourse liability is to be included in calculating both the basis of the property and the amount realized on disposition. The fact that the nonrecourse loan exceeds the value of the property was deemed by the Court to be irrelevant.ⁿ⁶

A publicly traded partnership is treated as a corporation for tax purposes. This applies to partnerships that were not publicly traded on December 17, 1987. However, an existing publicly traded partnership on that date will not be treated as a corporation until its taxable years beginning after 1997.ⁿ⁷ An exception to corporate tax treatment applies to certain partnerships if 90 percent or more of their gross income is qualifying passive-type income.ⁿ⁸

Net income from a publicly traded partnership is not treated as passive income for purposes of the passive loss rules. Each partner treats loss from the partnership as separate from income and loss from any other publicly traded partnership, and from any other passive activities. Net income is treated as portfolio income.ⁿ⁹ Under the passive activity loss rules, if a taxpayer disposes of his entire interest in a passive activity, any previously suspended losses from the activity are deductible against income, whether passive or nonpassive. However, the Service is authorized to issue regulations, to the extent necessary to prevent avoidance of this provision, providing that taxpayers must reduce the amount of suspended losses by the amount of income or gain realized from the activity in past years. For example, regulations might be appropriate for situations where passive activities produce taxable passive income in the initial years of an investment and then a loss upon disposition, such as where the investment is structured so that income is recognized in years prior to the allowance of related deductions.ⁿ¹⁰

[3] Sale of Corporate Stock

Capital gain treatment is generally realized on the sale of stock in a real estate corporation. There are, however, three major exceptions to this rule. First, if the shareholder-seller does not meet the capital gain holding period requirement for the stock, the sale will be treated as a short term capital gain and will be taxed at ordinary income rates.ⁿ¹ Secondly, if the shareholder is a dealer in securities, the shares will be treated as a noncapital asset, i.e., property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's trade or business, so that the sale will result in recognition of ordinary income.ⁿ² Finally, if the corporation is a "collapsible" corporation, the sale will result in the realization of ordinary income, even if the transaction would otherwise have resulted in capital gain.ⁿ³

Planning Note

Sale of Leasehold May Result in Capital Gain or Ordinary Income Treatment. Note that the sale of a leasehold may have different tax consequences for the seller, depending upon whether the property is characterized as a capital asset, as I.R.C. Section 1231 property, or as "dealer" property. A leasehold is ordinarily a capital asset, so that if the lessee disposes of his entire interest in it he reports capital gain or loss (except to the extent of over-depreciation). If the lessee is engaged in the business of subleasing, the leasehold constitutes Section 1231 property, and its sale results in capital gain or ordinary loss treatment. But, if the leasehold is "dealer" property, i.e., the lessee is in the business of selling leaseholds, ordinary income or loss must be reported.ⁿ⁴

Part I. The Tax Background

§ 21.17 Involuntary Conversions

Section 1033 permits the nonrecognition of gain in certain circumstances in which property is involuntarily converted as the result of destruction, theft, condemnation, sale under threat or imminence of condemnation, and similar events. If old property is converted directly into qualified replacement property (i.e., by an exchange of real estate threatened with condemnation for similar property in another locality), nonrecognition of gain is mandatory. If old property is involuntarily converted into money (i.e., proceeds of fire insurance or a condemnation award), nonrecognition of gain is optional. Gain is not recognized only if the taxpayer acquires qualified replacement property within two years, the cost of which is greater than the amount realized as a result of the conversion.ⁿ¹ As a general rule, qualified replacement property must be "similar or related in service of use." Neither the Code nor the regulations defines the phrase. Courts have generally held, however, that the statute requires a reasonably similar business continuation of the taxpayer's prior commitment of capital and not a departure from it (i.e., the reinvestment must be made in substantially similar property).ⁿ²

There are some special rules that apply to real property that is converted by reason of condemnation or threat or imminence thereof. First, Congress enacted section 1033(g) to permit certain condemned realty to be replaced by other real property of a "like-kind" whether or not it is similar or related in service or use. This special rule only applies if the property is involuntarily converted by reason of seizure, requisition or condemnation, or threat or imminence thereof; it does not apply to destructions by fire, flood, or other catastrophe. Second, in keeping with the more liberal provision of section 1033(g), a three-year replacement period (rather than the two-year period) applies to conversions of business or investment real estate described in section 1033(g).ⁿ³

The basis of qualified replacement property is the cost of the new property less any unrecognized gain.ⁿ⁴ The holding period of the replacement property includes the holding period of the converted property if the latter was a capital asset at the time of conversions.ⁿ⁵

Section 1033 does not apply to losses resulting from involuntary conversions. In the case of individuals, the Code allows deductions for (1) losses that are connected with a trade or business; (2) losses that are incurred in a transaction entered into for profit; and (3) casualty losses arising from "fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty" and theft.ⁿ⁶ There has been much litigation over the meaning of the word "casualty." Generally, the I.R.S. and courts require an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected, and unusual nature. A casualty loss is deductible in the year sustained. If there exists a claim for reimbursement with a reasonable prospect for recovery, allowance of the loss awaits the resolution of the claim with reasonable certainty. The amount of the casualty loss is the lesser of (1) the adjusted basis of the property; and (2) the difference between the fair market value of the property beforehand and the fair market value afterwards (i.e., decline in value).ⁿ⁷ The amount of the loss must, of course, be reduced by any reimbursements received. For example, assume Taxpayer's office building was partially destroyed by a tornado. The adjusted basis of the building before the tornado was $50,000 and its fair market value was $75,000. Immediately after the tornado, the fair market value of the building was $60,000. There was a $10,000 insurance reimbursement. The amount of the Taxpayer's casualty loss is $5,000.

§ 21.26 Checklist for Doing Forward Deferred Exchange with a Qualified Intermediary

>[1] Determine Eligibility of Transaction for Like-Kind Exchange ☐

>[a] Qualified Property -- in general all property (real or personal) can qualify ☐

>[b] Property must be held for a qualified use or purpose. Both the property transferred and the property received must be held by the taxpayer for use in a trade or business or investment ☐

>[c] The replacement property acquired in the exchange must be like-kind to the property the taxpayer desires to sell. Like-kind means similar in nature or character, notwithstanding differences in grade or quality. All real property is like-kind regardless of whether it is improved or unimproved, and regardless of the type of improvement or interest ☐

>[d] An exchange of one property for another must take place rather than sold for cash. The exchange does not need to be simultaneous, but there are time restrictions for nonsimultaneous (deferred) exchanges. The exchange is created by using an intermediary and required exchange documentation ☐

>[2] The taxpayer obtains a contract to sell the relinquished property and adds to it an exchange cooperation clause stating that it is the taxpayer's intention to do a like-kind exchange and reserving the right to assign the contract to a Qualified Intermediary ("QI") for the purpose of completing the deferred exchange, and the Buyer of the relinquished property agrees to cooperate ☐

>[3] The taxpayer hires the QI and enters into an Exchange Agreement with the QI. Usually, the QI will prepare this document ☐

>[4] The taxpayer assigns the sales contract to the QI, and the QI notifies the buyer of the assignment and obtains the buyer's consent ☐

>[5] The QI gives direct deeding instructions to the taxpayer and the taxpayer executes a deed to the buyer. In this way, the QI does not need to take title to the relinquished property ☐

>[6] The buyer deposits the buyer's funds into escrow with the QI so that the taxpayer does not directly or constructively receive the funds. Those funds are held for ultimate use to acquire the replacement property ☐

>[7] The taxpayer has 45 days from the closing of the sale of the relinquished property to identify a replacement property ☐

>[a] The identification notice must contain an unambiguous description of the replacement property and must be signed by the taxpayer. The identification must include a legal description, a street address, or a distinguishable name. ☐

>[b] The written notification should be made to the person obligated to transfer the replacement property to the taxpayer (this will usually be the seller of the replacement property and the QI), and to any person involved in the exchange other than the taxpayer or a disqualified party (this will usually be the settlement or title officer who is providing the taxpayer with services) solely related to the exchange of the property ☐

>[c] The taxpayer can identify up to 3 properties without regard to their fair market value, or more than 3 properties if the total fair market value of all of the properties does not exceed 200% of the fair market value of all of the property relinquished in the exchange ☐

>[8] When the replacement property is found, the taxpayer enters into a sales contract with the owner of such replacement property, containing an exchange cooperation clause ☐

>[9] The taxpayer assigns the contract to the QI and gives the seller of the replacement property written notice of the assignment ☐

>[10] The QI orders the seller to execute a direct deed to the taxpayer ☐

>[11] The seller of the relinquished property is paid by the QI from the escrowed funds ☐

>[12] The deferred exchange must be completed by the earlier of 180 days from the first closing of the relinquished property or the due date (including extensions) of the taxpayer's tax return for the year in which the transfer of the relinquished property occurs ☐

>[13] At the time of the filing of the tax return of the taxpayer, IRS Form 8824 must be filed with the IRS providing the information requested related to the exchange ☐

Part II. The Practice Background

§ 21.28 Negotiating the sales agreement

Attorneys are often involved in negotiating commercial sales agreements, but frequently they are not directly involved in the negotiation of a residential sales agreement. Generally, a residential agreement has been negotiated and execution has been supervised by real estate agents prior to the attorney's involvement. It is usually only where the purchaser or seller is not using a real estate agent (a "by owner" sale) that an attorney is involved in residential negotiations.

For most purchasers and sellers, the price is the most important aspect of the entire transaction. Once that is agreed upon, the other issues can be resolved.

When real estate agents are involved, a written offer is generally prepared by the seller's agent or the purchaser's agent, if any, and presented to the seller. The offer may be in the form of a binder, a letter of intent or a full contract. If the parties execute any type of agreement which has not been reviewed by their respective attorneys, it is common and advisable to include a provision in the agreement conditioning it upon the attorneys' approvals. Where the attorneys negotiate a binder, a letter of intent or a full contract, an attorney approval clause obviously is not necessary.

A binder is a short written description of the basic terms of the deal, signed by both parties. A binder is often, but not always, accompanied by a "good faith" deposit. Sometimes the binder is simply a check for the "good faith" deposit which has the terms of the deal noted on the back of the check. A binder is, by definition, incomplete and uncertain, and therefore, may not be an enforceable contract. For this reason, and because binders can potentially create liability for a broker's commission even though there is no enforceable contract of sale for the property, binders should be discouraged. The listing agreement with the seller's real estate agent should state that the commission is not earned until the contract is signed and closed. The seller's attorney should advise the seller not to accept a binder, but instead to negotiate and execute a complete contract of sale.

Letters of intent, sometimes used in commercial sales, describe transactions which the parties intend to negotiate further. A letter of intent is not intended to bind the parties, and should so expressly state. Letters of intent, combined with the conduct of the parties, have been held by courts to create liability for the parties. The courts have also held that in some cases the parties to a letter of intent have a duty to negotiate the terms and conditions of the contract of sale in good faith. The letter of intent can expressly include a requirement for good faith negotiation, or it could expressly state that there is no binding obligation until a fixed length contract is signed.

Alternatively, oral negotiations may take place. Once terms are agreed upon, an agreement can be prepared. This avoids risky binders and letters of intent, or a purchase contract that has the price changed so many times that it is no longer legible.

The attorney should not be in the position of advising the client as to the appropriate price for the property. The client should provide the attorney with an acceptable range of prices. The attorney may wish to suggest that an appraiser or knowledgeable real estate agent be used to develop that range. It should be noted that if the sales price exceeds the fair market value of the property, the purchaser may experience difficulty in obtaining a mortgage loan. This is especially true if the purchaser's initial equity in the property is to be small. Banks generally have guidelines for loan to value (of property) ratios. If the transaction does not fit the guidelines, the purchaser will not receive loan approval. For example, if the property is worth $100,000, and the purchaser intends to make a down payment (total equity) of $10,000, the purchaser will have a 90% loan to value ratio. In a residential transaction, the bank will usually require Private Mortgage Insurance (PMI) to protect it from loss in the event of foreclosure unless a downpayment of at least 20% is made. However, if the purchaser offers $120,000 for the property with the same equity, the purchaser will not receive mortgage approval, as the loan to value ratio will be 110%. That is, the loan will exceed the value of the property. Obtaining a market analysis of the appraisal before making an offer will help avoid this situation.

Prior to signing a letter of intent or a contract, the client should be asked whether the client has ascertained whether there are any use restrictions affecting the property. In a residential transaction, such restrictions might include a restriction against pets or against operating a business from the property. In a commercial transaction, there may be restrictions against the use of the property for certain types of businesses that are offensive or that compete with other businesses.

The other items to be negotiated are set forth in the following sections in the discussions on drafting the contract.

Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part II. The Practice Background

§ 21.29 Drafting the contract of sale

Many of the basics of the contract of sale are the same for most transactions. A standard form purchased or developed by the attorney can be used for those aspects. Those items will be identified in the discussions which follow. The balance of the contract must be agreed upon by the parties and drafted for each transaction.

[1] Parties

The contract must identify the parties by role, i.e., purchaser and seller, as well as by name and address. If any of the parties is not an individual, that party should be identified by its genre, such as a corporation, partnership, limited liability company or joint venture. Instead of a residence address, the business office of such a party should be set forth.

Special care should be taken to ensure that all of the owners of the property are named as the sellers in the contract. The name of the seller or sellers should be identical with the name on the recorded deed for the property and on the relevant title insurance policy.

The attorney should be sure that all individual parties are over the age of majority. Infancy is not a bar to the purchase or sale of real property, but in most states laws protect minors by allowing them to disaffirm the contract within a reasonable period after reaching the age of majority. Thus, unless special care is taken under applicable state law, contracts made by those under the age of majority may be voidable. The attorney should also determine that none of the individual parties is incapacitated by a mental disease or defect, which also could render the contract voidable.

[a] Corporations

If one of the parties is a corporation, it can only act by direction of its board of directors. The attorney should obtain proof of the authority of the person who is to execute the contract on behalf of the corporation. This proof should include a copy of the resolution of the board of directors and a certificate by the secretary of the corporation acknowledging that the resolution was properly adopted, is in full force and effect, and has not been rescinded or modified.

[b] Partnerships

If one of the parties is a partnership, whether general, limited, or a limited liability partnership, the attorney should obtain proof of the authority of the person to act on behalf of the partners. If the partners are few in number, they should all sign the contract. If there are too many, or they are too distant, the attorney should review the partnership agreement and any amendments to determine whether authority exists. The attorney should also obtain an affidavit acknowledging that the partnership agreement is in full force and effect and has not been modified. Alternatively, the attorney could request a letter of authorization from each of the partners. Letters of authorization can also be used if there are any ambiguities in the partnership agreement. Also, it may be helpful for the attorney to review with the clients who are contracting with the partnership what recourse, if any, the clients may have against the partners individually. For example, it may be beneficial for the clients to understand that the partners of a limited liability partnership generally are protected against individual liability in much the same way shareholders of corporations and members of LLCs are protected. In such cases, the client contracting with the partnership may wish to obtain guaranties or representations and warranties directly from the individual partners.

[c] Limited Liability Company

If one of the parties is a limited liability company, the attorney should obtain proof of the authority of the person acting on behalf of the members. The attorney should review the operating agreement to determine whether there is a managing member with authority to bind the entity or if not, what type of vote of the members is required to bind the entity. Evidence that such a vote was taken and successfully given should be obtained. In the alternative, a written resolution signed by all of the members can be obtained.

[d] Fiduciaries

If one of the parties is a fiduciary, the attorney needs to obtain proof of the appointment. Such proof can be in the form of a certificate of letters testamentary, letter of administration, order of guardianship or conservatorship, or other similar order. The attorney must examine the order or decree appointing the fiduciary and must determine the scope of the fiduciary's authority. In addition, the attorney should examine any will, trust or other document which created or is related to the appointment. Finally, the attorney should review the relevant local laws for general powers of fiduciaries. Under certain circumstances, a court order may be required in order to sell real property.

[e] Power of attorney

If one of the parties is represented by an attorney-in-fact, the attorney must obtain proof of the appointment. A certified copy of the power of attorney document, together with an affidavit executed by the attorney-in-fact denying actual knowledge of the termination of his or her power by death, disability, incapacity or revocation by the principal, is sufficient in most states.

Some states have adopted the Uniform Durable Powers of Attorney Act, which contains rules for the effective use of durable powers. Other states, although they have not enacted the Uniform Act, have similar statutes. Some statutes provide forms for power of attorney documents. The attorney should consult the relevant statutes to determine the scope of authority granted in a particular document and whether that power is durable.

Although most states do not require that powers of attorney be acknowledged or recorded, they generally can and should be recorded.

[2] Premises

[a] Description

The contract should identify the subject real property in detail. The municipality and county should be specified. If there is a street address, that should be included as well. The lot size should be stated, although it is usually advisable to avoid stating an exact amount of acreage or square footage unless the figure is based upon a guaranteed survey, or unless the purchase price is tied to a certain price per acre of land in the parcel. In the case of the latter, if the acreage has not been exactly determined by survey, the contract should require the acreage to be determined by a registered surveyor who is directed to determine and certify the exact acreage to a stated decimal point. The purchaser's attorney should specify that the acreage must be usable as defined in the contract and not, for example, wetlands. The tax map number should be included. If the property is part of a parcel, that fact should be noted. A reference to the deed into the seller should be included. If a metes and bounds description or a subdivision description (filed map) is available, it should be included.

Often, the premises are defined by reference to an annexed schedule. Preferably, such a schedule should contain a description of the property that is identical to the description contained in the seller's title insurance policy. Often, to guard against typographical errors, the schedule contains a photocopy of the title insurance policy description. If the title insurance policy description is used in the contract of sale to identify the property, the attorney should compare that description with the description of the property contained in the recorded deed into the seller in order to avoid inconsistencies and to discover potential problems as soon as possible.

If the description will be derived from a survey or other event, that fact should be noted. In addition, a method for resolving any disputes should be included.

[b] Structures

The contract should specify all structures which are located on the premises, including buildings, houses, detached garages, sheds, barns, pools, or other structures. Customarily, contracts of sale provide that they include as part of the premises all buildings and improvements on the land. If known, the buildings and improvements should be specifically described in the contract or annexed schedule. If any structure is removable and not included in the sale, the contract should so specify.

[c] Fixtures

The term "fixtures," for the purpose of this section, is defined as any item of personal property which is attached to the premises. In sales of residential property, this would include such things as cabinets, lighting fixtures, doors, ceiling fans, and built-in appliances. In sales of commercial or industrial buildings, this would include a variety of equipment and machinery. The purchaser should consider requiring the seller to specifically represent that the seller owns the fixtures included in the sale, that they are not subject to liens or claims of any kind, and that they are included in the sale.

Disputes often arise where the seller has installed a fixture and expects to remove the item, but the purchaser expects the item to stay because it is "attached." The attorney drawing the contract should recommend that the client make a list of all fixtures that he or she expects to be included in the sale and a list of those which are not included. If there is any doubt about the removability of any item, it should be included on one of the two lists. Those lists should become a part of the contract.

Often custom window treatments, appliances which are not built-in, inventory and supplies used in an ongoing business, and other personal property not considered fixtures are offered to the purchaser. The contract should specify what personalty is to be transferred to the purchaser. In addition, the contract should state whether the personalty is included in the sales price or whether separate consideration will be paid. If separate consideration is paid, a bill of sale to transfer title to the personal property should be required as a closing document. The attorneys should consider the tax consequences of paying separate consideration for personal property, since, depending upon the state, real property transfer taxes will be reduced to the extent part of the purchase price is allocated to personalty, but a sales or use tax may be charged. If the purchaser is not certain whether he or she will want certain items, a time limit and notice provision should be included in the agreement.

[e] Condition of the premises, personalty and fixtures

The traditional rule of caveat emptor, or "let the buyer beware," places the responsibility for defects in the condition of the premises, personalty or fixtures on the purchaser, who is required to inspect the property carefully before closing the deal. The parties are free to vary the general rule by including express warranties as to the condition of the property in the contract of sale. However, as discussed in detail below, a variety of common law and statutory implied warranties and disclosure requirements in many states have eroded the general application of the rule of caveat emptor.

[i] "As is" condition

Absent a provision to the contrary, it is generally assumed that real property is transferred in its "as is" condition; however, there are a growing number of exceptions to the general rule that real property is assumed to be transferred in "as is" condition. Consequently, it is advisable to specify the condition of the premises to be transferred in the contract.

Typically, a contract specifies "as is" condition, but contains a contingency which allows a purchaser to obtain a structural inspection of the property. Under the contingency, the purchaser reserves the right to terminate the contract if the inspection shows that there are any substantial structural defects. (See § 21.29[4][f], below, on structural contingency.) Additionally, the contract usually gives the buyer the right to inspect the premises before the closing or before the buyer takes possession of the premises to check for changes in the condition of the property between the signing of the contract and the closing or the taking of possession by the buyer.

Often the contract provides that the personalty and fixtures are sold "as is;" however, the parties are certainly free to negotiate a contract which provides that personalty and fixtures are in working order or good working order. Many contracts contain such a "working order" requirement for plumbing, electrical and heating systems, machinery and appliances. An appliance, system or machine is considered to be in working order if it works when it is turned on. The seller's attorney may wish to avoid the phrase "good working order," which not only may require more than "working order," but may require the seller to improve an appliance, system or machine at the closing. Sometimes contracts provide that personalty and fixtures are sold in their present condition subject to reasonable use, wear, tear and natural deterioration between the contract date and the closing. A purchaser may desire a specific provision regarding the absence of leaks in the roof and cellar; however, the seller generally seeks to avoid such a warranty because the remedies for leaks can be extremely expensive.

The contract generally also provides that all agreements between the parties are merged in the contract, and neither party is relying on any statement made by anyone unless it is contained in the contract. (See § 21.29[12][c], below, on merger or entire agreement clauses.) The customary "as is" and merger clauses are not sufficient to expressly waive warranties now implied in some states and never protect the seller from claims of misrepresentation or fraud.

[ii] New construction

In almost all states, new residential construction is subject to a statutory or common law implied warranty as to condition, habitability or fitness for its intended purpose. Such implied warranties apply to the sale of completed new homes as well as to those under construction at the time of the contract, and usually survive the passing of title. Where implied warranties do not survive the closing, the purchaser should attempt to negotiate a provision setting forth the seller's liability for defects in construction after the closing. It is advisable to obtain at least a one-year guaranty against defects in construction and an assignment by the seller of all warranties and guaranties the seller receives from subcontractors and suppliers. Few states extend the implied warranty beyond the sale of the home to the initial purchaser, although a minority of states extend the warranty to a subsequent purchaser, at least as to latent defects not discoverable at the time of the subsequent purchase.

In general, statutory provisions regarding the condition of newly constructed homes presume certain warranties regarding workmanship and fitness for habitation to be implied in the contract of sale unless they are expressly waived. For example, under such a statute, there may be warranties for a specified or reasonable period of time that the new home will be free from defects due to unskillful construction; the plumbing, electrical, heating, cooling and ventilation systems will be free from defects due to unskillful installation; and the home will be free from material defects. In some states, such statutory provisions coexist with a common law implied housing merchant warranty of habitability or fitness.

In most states, the parties may expressly disclaim implied warranties for new construction. Some statutes require that the disclaimer must be clear and conspicuous. Usually, a simple "as is" clause is insufficient to disclaim implied warranties.

[iii] Disclosure of defects

In residential transactions, a growing majority of states now require the seller and/or the seller's agent to disclose facts which materially affect the value or desirability of the property, especially if such adverse facts are peculiarly within the seller's knowledge and are not discoverable by a reasonable inspection. The seller may be required by law or contract to give the purchaser a written report on the condition of the property. In residential transactions, sellers and brokers have been sued for both undisclosed physical defects in the property and undisclosed nonphysical facts about the property, such as alleged ghosts,ⁿ¹ murdersⁿ² and former occupants infected with the AIDS virus, and even the presence in the neighborhood of a sex offender of whom the residents in the neighborhood are notified.ⁿ³

Even where not required by local law, many brokers now recommend that sellers give such a report, to protect both the broker and the seller from liability for nondisclosure. Disclosure statements generally include information about structural defects, utilities, water, septic systems, defects in equipment and appliances, environmental problems and regulatory compliance. The seller's attorney should discuss the relevant disclosure law with the seller to determine what disclosure must or should be made under the circumstances.

State disclosure statutes do not eliminate the purchaser's duty to inspect the premises, at least for apparent defects, and the contract should still be made contingent upon the purchaser's inspection if such an inspection has not occurred before execution of the contract.

[iv] Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the disclosure of lead-based paint hazards to individuals who are renting, buying or renovating pre-1978 residential housing.ⁿ⁴ Lead-based paint and paint dust is often found in housing built before 1978. Lead is very dangerous, especially to young children and pregnant women. It can cause death, damage to the brain and nervous system, behavior and learning problems, reproductive problems, high blood pressure, slowed growth, hearing problems, and many other health problems in children and adults. Lead may be breathed into the body as dust from old paint, and small children often eat paint chips. Lead is extremely difficult to remove from the body.

Sellers of pre-1978 housing must disclose known information on lead-based paint hazards before selling a house, and landlords must disclose such information before leases take effect. Both sales contracts and leases must include a lead warning statement and disclosure information. Renovators must provide information about lead-based paint before starting work.ⁿ⁵

The seller and the broker are responsible for providing lead-based paint information to the purchaser before the sale.

The information required by law includes both specific information about the property being sold and general information about lead-based paint hazards. The seller must disclose known lead-based paint and lead-based paint hazards and provide available records and reports to the purchaser. The seller also must give the purchaser the pamphlet, developed by EPA, HUD, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), titled "Protect Your Family From Lead in Your Home."⁶ The purchaser must be given a 10-day period to conduct a lead-based paint inspection or risk management at the purchaser's expense. The parties have flexibility to negotiate the key terms of the evaluation.⁷ Finally, the sales contract must include certain notification and disclosure language.

Note that the law does not require the seller to test for lead-based paint or to remove such paint if it is known to exist. The law also does not invalidate a sales contract that does not include the required disclosure. However, any person who violates the lead disclosure requirements may be subject to civil and criminal penalties, as well as treble damages in a private civil suit.⁸

[v] Responsibility for defects and losses occurring after contract executed

Disputes often arise where, at the time the contract is executed, a particular item is functioning, but is no longer working by the time the closing or transfer of title occurs. Under an "as is" contract, the purchaser has no recourse unless the malfunction is due to deliberate misuse of the item. Under a "good working order" contract, the seller must repair or replace the item. Often the repair will be in the form of a credit of a specified amount against the purchase price at closing. The seller may be too busy to repair the problem or the purchaser may wish to select his or her own replacement. In addition, the warranty on the repair will run to the purchaser if the purchaser obtains the repair. If a repair or replacement is required, the parties should obtain two or three estimates of the cost. The parties can agree to take the lowest or use the average. Therefore, estimates should be sought only from reliable sources, capable of accomplishing the repair.

In a minority of states, the risk of a major casualty loss to the premises will be governed by the Uniform Vendor and Purchaser Risk Act. This provides that risk of loss remains with the seller until the transfer of title or possession, whichever occurs first. Thus, the seller must remain insured until the transfer of title. If the purchaser is allowed possession before the transfer of title occurs, the purchaser must obtain insurance before taking possession. The contract of sale may expressly waive the statutory allocation of risk, and the parties may allocate the risk of a casualty loss as they see fit.

In states where there is no statute governing the risk of loss, it is important to include a risk of loss provision in the contract. If a loss occurs and the contract is silent, it may become necessary to litigate the question of who bears the risk of loss. Since such litigation is expensive, and case law in this area varies a great deal from state to state, both of the parties' attorneys should advise their respective clients to negotiate a risk of loss provision.

[f] Conveyance of Non-Possessory and Non-Surface Interests

Frequently the conveyance of the primary piece of real property also includes non-possessory or non-surface rights that may be required to be conveyed with the real property. If so, these need to be adequately described in the contract.

Non-possessory rights include easements that may be required in order to use the real property. For example, an easement to gain access to the property for ingress or egress, or an easement to allow utilities or telecommunications facilities to be brought to the boundaries of the property may be required before the property can be used. If such easements are required for use, the purchaser's attorney must ascertain if such easements already exist and can be conveyed, or whether they need to be created as part of the transaction, and then conveyed. The title company should be asked to insure these rights when they are conveyed to the purchaser.

Non-surface interests include mineral interests in place, such as rights to oil and gas, and water rights. If the mineral interests in place are not available to be conveyed, the seller may have rights to oil and gas on adjoining properties by virtue of oil and gas leases on the adjoining properties. These can be conveyed by assignment of the oil and gas leases to the purchaser. The purchaser's attorney should review the oil and gas lease to ascertain its terms prior to requesting that it be part of the sale.

[3] Purchase price

[a] In general

The contract must specify the total purchase price. The contract should specify how and when such price will be paid. Typically, a deposit is made when the contract is executed. This deposit is held until the closing, at which time it usually is applied to the total purchase price. The total purchase price due at closing generally is adjusted to account for such items as taxes, fuel, prepaid services, water and sewer, and special assessments. Payments, both of the deposit and at the closing, are usually made by certified or bank check. In commercial sales, deposits are often made by wire transfers. A letter of credit is sometimes used for the deposit.

[b] Deposits

A deposit, sometimes called an earnest money deposit or a downpayment, usually is made when the contract is executed. A second deposit may be required when the contingencies are satisfied. The seller will want the deposits to be as large as possible to indicate the purchaser's strong commitment to the property. The purchaser will want the deposits to be as small as possible, especially if the purchaser will not be earning interest on the deposit while the sale is pending. In addition, if there is a termination of the contract due to a breach by the purchaser, the deposit is usually forfeited.

Typically in residential sales, especially where the contract has been prepared by a broker, deposits are held by the real estate broker in an escrow account. However, the seller's attorney will usually prefer that an independent third party, such as a lending institution or title company, hold the deposit as escrow agent. If there is no broker, the deposit may be held by either attorney in a trust or escrow account. In commercial sales, deposits are sometimes held by the seller's attorney. In some jurisdictions, deposits are held by the title company.

Although interest usually is not paid on deposits, if the deposit is quite large, or to be held for a lengthy period of time, the title company, whether or not acting as escrow agent, may be required by the contract to open an interest bearing account. The account should carry the social security or taxpayer identification number of the party who is to receive the interest. The contract should specify who is to receive the interest and pay income tax on it. Usually, the party who receives the deposit also receives the interest.

If, for any reason, there is no closing, either party to the contract can make a written demand on the broker, attorney or other escrow agent holding the deposit for payment. The escrow agent will then notify the other party of the demand and the escrow agent's intention to pay the deposit money. The escrow agent may pay the deposit to the demanding party if he or she does not receive a written objection from the other party. If the other party makes an objection, the escrow agent must hold the deposit until he or she is directed by the parties or a court judgment to do otherwise.

[c] Purchase money and existing mortgages

Although technically a purchase money mortgage is defined as a new mortgage given in connection with the purchase of real property, including an institutional mortgage, more commonly, a purchase money mortgage is thought of as a mortgage given in connection with a loan by the seller to the purchaser. In most cases, the parties know that they intend to enter into a purchase money loan and mortgage arrangement before they execute the contract, and the forms to be used for the note and mortgage (or deed of trust in some states) should be attached to the contract and incorporated by reference. If the sale also will be subject to an existing mortgage securing a mortgage debt evidenced by a promissory note, the parties should negotiate appropriate subordination provisions.

If the parties intend that an existing mortgage securing a mortgage debt will continue after the closing, that mortgage and note evidencing the debt should either be attached to the contract or described in detail. The note should disclose all relevant provisions regarding the principal amount, interest rate, installment payments and final maturity date. The purchaser's attorney should include in the contract an express representation by the seller that the mortgage and note attached or described are true and complete, do not contain a due on sale clause, is not now in default, and will not be in default at the time of the closing. If the existing mortgage requires the mortgagee's consent to the sale, the contract should require the seller to request such consent within a specified number of days after the contract is executed. The contract may require the purchaser to accept expected conditions of the mortgagee's consent, such as a specified increase in the interest rate. The contract also should permit the purchaser to terminate the contract if the mortgagee fails or refuses to consent to the sale or requires an additional payment or a change in the terms of the mortgage note as a condition of its consent. The seller should have a similar termination right if he or she is taking back a purchase money mortgage.

[d] Adjustments to purchase price

Several adjustments to the purchase price are typically made. These are actually adjusted and paid at closing. Adjustments should be specified in the contract.

[i] Taxes

Real property taxes sometimes are paid in advance, sometimes in arrears. These include state, county, municipal and school taxes. The attorney must check the period covered by each installment. Some are annual, some are semiannual, and some are quarterly. If the taxes have been paid, the seller will be entitled to a refund from the purchaser for the remaining period of the tax year after the transfer of title. If the taxes have not yet been prepaid, the purchaser will be entitled to a credit from the seller for the period of time in the tax year preceding transfer of title.

In new construction, or in the case of subdivision of an existing tract, the parcel to be purchased may not be separately assessed. It may be assessed as one parcel of vacant land. In that case, an estimate must be made. Many developers waive the adjustment because the amount is small in comparison to the effort required to perform the calculation. If the adjustment is not waived, the usual method is to divide the total tax by the number of acres in the entire parcel and to multiply by the number of acres purchased. When the actual tax bill for the split parcel is obtained, the parties can agree to recompute the prior adjustment that was done.

[ii] Fuel

Where the premises contain fuel oil or propane gas in tanks, the contract should provide that the purchaser will reimburse the seller for the amount on hand at the transfer of title. The seller can measure the tank or have it filled to a known capacity just prior to transfer of title. Generally, the contract will provide for reimbursements by the purchaser at current fair market value. Attempting to use the amount paid by the seller will be difficult. Since tanks are not emptied before filling, the seller may have paid varying amounts at different times when the tank was filled.

[iii] Prepaid services and wages

The cost of certain services affecting the real property may have been prepaid by the seller. These may include such services as trash removal, heating and air conditioning service, elevator service, building management, lawn care and security systems. The contract should specify that these will be reimbursed to the seller by the purchaser at closing. In addition, the contract should require the seller to assign his or her interest in such contracts, if assignable.

If such contracts are written, they should be reviewed to be sure that there are no prohibitions against assignment and that all necessary notices are timely given. If the assignment of the seller's rights requires the vendor's approval, the contract of sale should provide that the seller will obtain the vendor's written approval. The purchaser's obligation to reimburse the seller for the remainder of the period should be conditioned on the seller obtaining the vendor's approval.

The wages and benefits of building employees who will not be terminated upon the sale of the building also must be adjusted at the closing. Such an adjustment must include salaries, commissions, bonuses, vacation pay, pension and welfare benefits, and other fringe benefits.

[iv] Water and sewer expenses

Each locality has a different system for billing water and sewer expenses. Some areas have a municipal water and sewer system. Some areas have private water and sewer companies. Generally, municipal systems bill by usage or periodic minimums or a combination thereof. If not paid, these charges may be levied on the following year's general tax, thereby becoming a lien against the property. Private water and sewer companies are not afforded that privilege. They must use suspension of service and/or regular debt collection techniques to collect past due payments.

Some suppliers will provide an interim bill which terminates service on the seller's account and begins service on the purchaser's account. This is convenient, as a final bill will be sent to the seller which will be the seller's responsibility. Other suppliers do not provide interim bills. If the supplier has a "minimum" system, the bill must be allocated between the parties to reflect the number of days each will own the property during the billing period.

If the supplier has a "usage" system, a meter reading must be taken at or about the date of transfer of title. Generally, the supplier, based on the meter reading, can give a dollar amount to be credited against the purchase price or paid to the purchaser. The purchaser will receive and be responsible for the future bills.

This can be very difficult, because suppliers may bill at unusual times. In addition, there is often a significant lag between reading the meters and sending regular bills, so that a reading in one month may not be billed until several months later. It is important to verify with the supplier that all previous bills have been rendered and paid.

The contract should specify the supplier of water and sewer services and the method of billing. The contract should provide for an adjustment of water and sewer billing at the closing. In addition, it should contain a provision that the seller will hold the purchaser harmless for any past due bills. This provision, by its terms, should survive the transfer of title.

[v] Special assessments

Special assessments are often levied on a particular area to fund municipal installation of the infrastructure, including lights, streets, sewers, storm sewers, and roads. The municipality issues bonds to pay for the cost of the work and repays the bonds from the assessments. The assessments are usually levied for a set period, such as ten or twenty years, but often may be prepaid at a reduced amount. If a prepayment has been made, whether for the year or in its entirety, the contract may provide for reimbursement by the purchaser to the seller for the remaining period which the prepayment covered, unless the purchase price included what was considered to be the value of the improvement.

[vi] Rent

In a sale of a tenanted building, adjustments must be made at the closing for prepaid rents, percentage rents, escalation charges, and rent arrears. The seller should pay the purchaser for the unearned portion of any prepaid rents and for any future rent concessions or abatements given by the seller. The purchaser should be required to pay to the seller the seller's proportionate share of percentage rents and escalation charges to the extent they apply to a period of time prior to the closing of the transaction, since those payments are based upon future calculations of past amounts due.

Commonly, where there is rent in arrears at the time of the closing, the contract provides a formula for apportioning any payments received for such rent after the closing. The rent is generally applied first to the seller for the month before the month in which the closing occurred. The rent is next apportioned between the seller and the purchaser for the month in which the closing occurred. Then the payment is applied to the amount owed to the purchaser for the months after the month in which the closing occurred. Finally, if any money remains, it is applied to the seller for the period of rent arrears occurring before the month with respect to the month in which the closing occurred. The parties may agree to handle rent arrears in some other manner if they so choose.

[vii] Property Owners' Association Assessments

Residential properties are frequently part of a development that has a property owners association set up to maintain and operate certain amenities within the development. The association is authorized to assess the owners on a monthly or quarterly basis to pay for the costs of the association. These assessments are usually prorated as part of the sale. The contract should provide how the assessments shall be prorated depending on whether they are prepaid or accrued.

[4] Contingencies

[a] In general

Contingencies to the contract are designed to protect the purchaser from perils which cannot reasonably be determined at the time the contract is executed. The properly drafted contingency will set a period of time within which the purchaser or the purchaser's agent may conduct a specified test. The contingency may specify an acceptable result for the test. If that result is not achieved, the purchaser may terminate the contract and receive a refund of his or her deposit, provided that he or she timely gives notice of the failure. If the purchaser does not give notice to a specified party (usually to the seller, the seller's attorney, or the seller's real estate agent) within the specified time, the contingency is deemed waived. Subject to any other unresolved contingencies or contract provisions, the purchaser is obligated to complete the purchase.

Frequently, when the required test fails, the purchaser may still want the property. The parties may amend the contract to reflect the cost of alterations required to pass the test. This is typically done in one of two ways. The purchase price may be reduced, in which case the purchaser will bear the expense of repairs or alterations after the transfer of title. Alternatively, the price may be maintained and the seller required to perform the alterations or repairs prior to closing, or if time is a factor, may be required to deposit funds into escrow or to have funds held back from the net sales proceeds until the work can be done. In the latter event, the funds held in escrow will be used to cover the costs after the repairs are completed.

Where the seller will perform repairs, an amendment to the contract should specify the scope and nature of the work which is to be performed, the materials to be used, and the results to be achieved. In addition, the amendment should provide for inspection and/or additional testing to be sure that the desired result was achieved. The amendment should also provide that all work will be done in a workmanlike manner.

Occasionally, a lender will require that work which the purchaser is obligated to perform be completed prior to closing. In that case, a contract amendment must grant the purchaser access to the property and specify the risk of loss in addition to those items specified above. The purchaser and his or her contractor must be insured, and the amendment should specify the required levels of insurance. The amendment should also specify whether there will be a payment to the purchaser to cover the cost of the work if the closing does not take place for a reason other than the purchaser's fault.

At any time, the parties may agree to the extension of a contingency to allow further testing or investigation. This is helpful in preventing a viable purchaser from canceling the contract just to protect himself or herself when the purchaser really wants the property.

Generally, the cost of testing to satisfy a contingency is borne by the purchaser; however, this may be negotiated. Although there are many possible contingencies depending upon the circumstances of the transaction, the following discussion reviews some of the contingencies which are typical in a real estate transaction, including several common environmental contingencies. For a more detailed discussion of environmental contingencies and specific forms relating to them, see Vol. 33, Chapter 25, Environmental Considerations in Real Estate Transactions, infra.

[b] Wood-boring organisms

Wood-boring organisms include termites, carpenter ants, powder post beetles, and other organisms which eat or tunnel into wood. Such organisms can cause serious structural damage in a very short period of time. They are typically found in dark or damp places or where wood contacts the ground directly.ⁿ¹

The usual standard for the contingency is that there shall be no wood boring organisms, or damage from wood-boring organisms, present in the structures on the premises. The purchaser usually is given the right to terminate the contract if there is any evidence of wood-boring organisms or damage from such creatures. If such evidence is found, the parties can modify the agreement to provide for extermination and repairs and to designate who will pay for such work.

A qualified inspector can determine whether wood-boring organisms are present and whether any damage has been done. The inspector can determine the cost of extermination. A contractor's estimate may be needed to determine the cost of repairs, if any.

An inspection usually costs less than $100, and can be accomplished in approximately one hour. Before establishing the time frame for the contingency, the inspector should be approached to determine how quickly he or she can schedule an inspection and the type of guaranty provided.

[c] Well water quality

Well water should be free of harmful bacteria.ⁿ² The most frequently found bacteria are E. Coli and Coliform. The presence of these may be determined from a laboratory test performed by a qualified laboratory. The water is drawn from a tap in the building and delivered to the laboratory for analysis. Depending on the laboratory, a week or two may be required to obtain the results.

If bacteria are found, the well may be disinfected by adding chlorine to it. This is not very costly. The well must then be retested. If bacteria are still present, it may indicate a more serious problem, such as seepage from the septic system. The source of contamination must be located and remedied. This may be very costly. It may require the use of an engineer and extensive excavations. It may ultimately require the relocation of the septic system or the well. Both solutions are very costly.

In addition to the bacteria, other substances may be present in the water. Although some are not considered harmful, they may be noxious or unpleasant, such as sulphur or iron, which have a characteristically unpleasant smell. Others may be quite harmful, such as lead or methane gas. The presence of these and other substances also can be determined by laboratory tests. There are generally recognized industry standards of acceptable levels of substances; however, personal taste may not always be the same as industry standards. This should be taken into account when drafting the contingency.

If unwanted substances are found in the water, some of them may be removed by a filtering system which can be installed. Others, such as methane gas, must be removed by a ventilation system to prevent an explosion. The initial cost of such systems and the maintenance thereof varies widely and should be investigated thoroughly before negotiating an amendment to the contract.

[d] Well water quantity

In determining the standard to use in the contingency, the purchaser needs to consider his or her own anticipated use of water in addition to the quantity which may be required by the lender. There is no "industry standard" as such. The purchaser should get in touch with his or her intended lender(s) to obtain the quantity standards which they use. The standard is generally expressed as a sustained flow of a specified number of gallons per minute for a specified number of hours, such as four gallons per minute for four hours.

If the well does not produce the required number of gallons, several solutions may be attempted. A holding tank can be added to the water system to store water pumped from the well, giving added capacity during heavy uses such as showering and using washing machines and dishwashers. This solution is the least expensive way to proceed.

The well may be deepened. This solution has potential problems. It may not produce the desired increased flow. In addition, the process of deepening may tap into veins of water or minerals which may affect the quality of the well water.

A new well may be dug or drilled. Again, this may not produce any additional water and the quality of the water may not be acceptable.

Hydrofracturing may be undertaken. Hydrofracturing is a process of breaking up veins of water to make them more readily available to the well. This includes a variety of techniques, including blasting. It has the inherent dangers associated with blasting and is not guaranteed to produce the desired results. A seller should be extremely reluctant to allow this to occur prior to transfer of title. If the seller does allow hydrofracturing, a hold harmless agreement and substantial amounts of insurance should be obtained prior to the commencement of work. A thorough investigation of the qualifications of the hydrofracturer should be undertaken.

[e] Septic system

Three issues need to be considered with a septic system. First is whether the system is functioning. This is generally determined by the use of a dye test. A quantity of dye is placed in a toilet, which is flushed. The septic system is observed to determine where the dye goes.

Second is whether the system has adequate capacity. Local laws generally provide standards for capacity, which in many areas have increased over time. An older home may have a very small system. In addition, the size of a family and its habits will impact on the sufficiency of capacity. Generally, unless records exist on the capacity, it may be necessary to excavate to determine the size. The local health department often can provide information on the appropriate size for different size families.

Finally, as size standards have changed over the years, so have standards for types of systems. There are many types of septic systems. The type necessary depends on the amount of use, soil type, drainage, density of housing, and proximity of nearby waterways. Although an existing system may be grandfathered, if the system needs an alteration due to breakdown or lack of capacity, the locality may require replacement with a system which meets current code rather than allow a mere repair of the existing system.

Before drafting the contingency, the attorney should obtain information regarding capacity needs and the required type of system. Consideration should be given to a contingency which requires the system to be in good working order and to be of sufficient capacity for the purchaser's uses. If the system fails either test, it is likely that a new system will be required. Depending on the type of system required, a new system may be very costly. Estimates should be obtained before negotiating any amendment to the contract of sale. A seller may be very reluctant to contribute to the cost of a septic system replacement where the system has been adequate for the seller's needs. The purchaser may have to accept a large share of the cost to keep the deal together.

[f] Structural inspection

A structural inspection consists of a thorough review of the beams, joists, foundation, roof, plumbing, heating, air conditioning, ventilation, and other major systems in the structures, the purpose of which is to determine whether any major defects exist. Such an inspection may be performed either before the parties sign the contract or as a condition subsequent in the contract.

Structural inspections are typically performed by architects, engineers, or "structural inspectors." In most states, there are no statutory qualifications for an inspector, so it is recommended that the inspector's qualifications be examined before he or she is engaged. The purchaser should also make sure that the inspector has errors and omissions insurance and should determine whether the inspector includes a limit of liability in his or her report. These items are vital in case a major defect is missed by the inspector. Such a defect can be costly to repair and can affect the integrity of the house.

In drafting the contingency, it is always problematic to define the term "major structural defects." Some attorneys define it in terms of the cost of repair. For example, any single item which will cost in excess of $500 to repair is a structural defect. Other attorneys define it in terms of the importance of the item to the integrity of the house. Each approach has its problems, because reasonable minds may differ as to cost or importance of an item.

Other problems arise in the way that structural inspectors make their reports. For example, a report may state that the roof is not leaking but is of an age where it has reached the end of its expected life. This clearly will raise a concern with the purchaser, since the cost of a new roof is substantial; however, the seller will argue that it does not constitute a defect.

Similarly, some inspectors will classify a noted insufficiency as a "major defect," when the insufficiency may not meet the contractual definition of a major structural defect. Once clients have seen such a report, it may be difficult for them to comprehend the difference between the inspector's use of the term and that of the contract. It may be helpful to obtain an independent estimate of the repair cost to support the purchaser's claim or defuse it.

Some inspectors will not provide estimates of costs to repair. Some inspectors will not opine on certain items and recommend that a roofer or plumber be consulted for a more detailed determination of a potential problem. The purchaser should obtain estimates only from parties whom the purchaser would be willing to hire to do the work. This will prevent an estimate which has no relationship to reality.

Major structural defects, by their nature, are costly to repair. The purchaser may be unable to obtain a mortgage with such defects. The seller may not have enough cash to make repairs. Structural defects often result in termination of the contract. The parties may be able to negotiate an agreement with the contractor where the contractor will agree to accept payment at the closing instead of immediately. The contractor may exact a premium or interest in order to agree to a delayed payment.

[g] Radon gas inspection³

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas which occurs naturally. It has been linked to high levels of lung cancer.⁴ Radon enters structures through the foundation, through water, and through radon containing building materials used in the structure. Radon is only dangerous in enclosed areas.

Radon testing can be done with home test kits, which are purchased, set up in the basement, and mailed to a laboratory at the end of the test period. Alternatively, a radon testing company can be hired to test. The home test kits are often not as accurate. If a borderline result is achieved, the purchaser may wish to retest with a more sophisticated test. Most tests require the maintenance of "closed door" conditions. That is, the seller must agree to keep the house closed up for the test period and limit the number of times the doors are opened. This may be difficult during a heat wave. The test conditions which must be observed by the seller should be made part of the contingency. The cost of testing is usually between $100 and $200, and is customarily paid by the purchaser, although this is certainly negotiable.

Radon testing is not mandatory in most states, but many institutional lenders require such testing as a part of the mortgage application process. A radon contingency must provide what test is acceptable to the parties and must provide sufficient time for the testing to be completed. Before drafting the contingency, the purchaser's attorney may need to contact the radon testing company to determine how much time will be needed to complete the test.

A radon contingency should give the purchaser the right to terminate the contract if radon levels are above a specified amount. The amount of radon is expressed in pico curies per liter of air. Although there is no level of radon which is deemed safe, it is generally believed that it is difficult to reduce radon levels below 4 pico curies per liter. The higher the level of radon, the greater the need to reduce the level.

It may be helpful for the clients and attorneys to become familiar with current literature on radon. The United States Environmental Protection Agency publishes several pamphlets on radon.ⁿ⁵ They may be useful in making an informed determination as to what radon level is high enough to require a prudent purchaser to seek remediation or cancellation of the contract.

Reduction of radon levels can be performed in a number of ways depending on the source, radon level, and type of construction. The simplest methods involve ventilation of the basement. The more complicated methods require suctioning of air from under the basement. The cost can be considerable. There may be disadvantages to certain systems such as increases in heating costs.

After a reduction method is installed, the structure should be tested again to be sure that the method has been successful in achieving a reduction in the radon level. If remediation is to be done before closing, the contingency should be extended until the final testing is complete and shows an acceptable level. A practical consideration to keep in mind is that the other contingencies which are costly to satisfy, such as the mortgage contingency, should also be extended. The purchaser will spend a considerable amount of money in satisfying the mortgage contingency, including application fee, points, appraisal fee, credit report, title searching and survey fees, all of which are non-refundable. If the radon cannot be effectively reduced, the money spent on the mortgage application would be wasted.

[h] Asbestos inspectionⁿ⁶

Asbestos is a substance which was used in the past for its flame retardant and insulating properties. It is frequently found in older homes wrapped around pipes, furnaces, and in ceiling and floor tiles. Asbestos is known to cause lung disorders, including asbestosis and cancer.ⁿ⁷

Since the mid-1980s, there has been a movement to remove or encapsulate asbestos in all structures. Asbestos has been classified as a "hazardous air pollutant" under the Clean Air Act.ⁿ⁸ Work with asbestos is dangerous and costly. Asbestos workers must be certified to handle asbestos and must wear protective gear. Work areas must be sealed and negative air pressure must be maintained to prevent contamination of other areas. Air quality monitoring must take place to be sure that the fibers have been successfully removed.

The presence of asbestos is usually confirmed by microscopic examination of the suspected material. A certified asbestos handler can report whether the condition of the asbestos requires its removal.

The contingency should allow for termination of the contract if any asbestos is present. If the parties already know that asbestos is present, the purchaser may wish to make the contract contingent upon its removal with a satisfactory clearance air test, or upon a report by a qualified party that the condition of the asbestos does not require its removal.

The cost of removal depends on the quantity of asbestos and the location. For example, if the asbestos is solely on pipes in the basement, it can be removed by the glove bag technique, which does not require as many protective measures. However, if the asbestos is found in several rooms in tiles, it will be quite costly to remove. If it is on the furnace, replacement insulation will be required. Where the furnace is older, it may be less expensive to replace the furnace than to reinsulate.

The seller is frequently reluctant to contribute to the cost of removing asbestos which he or she has lived with, especially if it includes the cost of replacing a furnace which is working. It may be a better approach to take the possibility of asbestos removal into account when making the original offer rather than trying to do so in resolving the contingency.

[i] Urea formaldehyde insulation⁹

During the energy crisis in the 1970s, many existing buildings had insulation added by blowing foam into the spaces between the outer siding and the interior walls. The foam would harden into a solid, providing some insulation. Some of this type of insulation contained urea formaldehyde. A number of health problems have been reported from exposure to the fumes released by the insulation. Once in place, the hardened foam is difficult to remove. Generally, the removal of insulation requires the removal of the exterior siding.

Because of the potential health hazards, many lenders require certification that the building contains no urea formaldehyde insulation. If, upon inspection of the building, plugs in the siding are visible, further investigation is warranted. Unless records are available specifying the composition of the blown-in insulation, a piece of siding should be removed and a sample taken. If analysis shows that it contains urea formaldehyde, a contractor's estimate for removal and reinsulation should be obtained.

The contract contingency should specify the location where the siding may be removed for sampling. The contingency should also provide that the siding be replaced and the paint touched up if needed.

The contingency should provide the purchaser with the ability to terminate the contract if any urea formaldehyde insulation is present. The cost of removal is high because it is very labor intensive. If the purchaser still wants to purchase the property, an amendment to the contract of sale may be negotiated. The amendment should provide either that the seller will perform the removal and reinsulation with the price remaining stable or that the purchaser will perform the removal with a reduction in the purchase price.

The lender may require that the removal be completed before closing or a holdback from the mortgage for the costs of removal be made. This should be verified with the lender prior to negotiating an amendment to the contract of sale. The holdback is the preferable procedure, if the seller will wait for the held back funds. Otherwise, the purchaser may be making improvements to property which he or she does not own. There are a number of risks inherent in such an arrangement. If the closing does not occur, the purchaser may have to sue the seller for unjust enrichment to recoup the purchaser's investment. The seller may counterclaim for any damage resulting from poor workmanship. If a person or property is injured, both the purchaser and the seller will likely be sued. The parties should be certain that each of them and any contractor is properly insured.

[j] Lead¹⁰

Lead is often found in structures built before 1978 in the paint and/or in water pipes. Lead is very dangerous, especially to young children and pregnant women. It can cause death, damage to the brain and nervous system, behavior and learning problems, reproductive problems, high blood pressure, slowed growth, hearing problems, and many other health problems in children and adults. Lead is introduced into the body in a variety of ways. It leaches into the drinking water from pipes. It may be breathed into the body as dust from old paint, and small children often eat paint chips. Lead is extremely difficult to remove from the body.ⁿ¹¹

Federal law requires that individuals receive certain information before renting, buying or renovating pre-1978 housing.ⁿ¹² Sellers must disclose known information on lead-based paint hazards before selling a house, and landlords must disclose such information before leases take effect. Both sales contracts and leases must include a lead warning statement and disclosure information. Renovators must provide information about lead-based paint before starting work.

The presence of lead pipes can usually be determined by visual inspection. Lead paint problems can be determined by visual inspection of paint condition and location, surface dust tests, spectrography or chemical tests of samples. Home test kits generally are not considered to be reliable.

The dangers of lead water pipes can only be eliminated by removal and replacement of the pipes. The cost of this will depend on the number of pipes and the ease of access to them.

Lead paint can be handled in three ways: removal of the surface containing the paint, encapsulation (i.e., by sheetrocking over the surface), or by sanding the surface. Removal is the most permanent and most expensive method, and it causes the least amount of lead dust. Encapsulation may not be permanent and is moderately expensive. As the seams age, lead dust may escape. Encapsulation may not be performed by painting alone. Sanding is not recommended, as it produces high quantities of lead dust; however, sanding is a lower cost alternative and deemed permanent.

In drafting contingencies, the attorney should draft separate contingencies for lead pipes and lead paint respectively. The pipe contingency should allow termination of the contract if any lead water pipes exist.

A lead paint contingency should be included in any contract for the sale of a structure built before 1978, especially if the structure is a residence and the purchaser or anticipated tenant has small children. A commercial property contract should contain a contingency that at least provides for testing for lead dust, which is harmful to people of any age.

The lead paint contingency should allow the purchaser to terminate the contract if any lead paint or dust is found, or if the soil around the premises is found to be contaminated with lead. Alternatively, the contingency may provide that the agreement will be modified to provide for the remediation of any lead problem. The contingency should specify the method of testing and analysis to be used and should require that multiple samples be taken in each room, as well as soil samples from outdoors. The contingency should provide for repair of the sampled areas.

The lead paint contingency also should specify the qualifications and credentials of the party performing the sampling and analysis. It is important to be sure that the inspector is qualified and has received training in sampling and spectrography techniques.

Upon receipt of the results, the purchaser will have to decide whether remediation is required under the circumstances. If the purchaser has no small children and none are expected, he or she may decide against the expense. If the purchaser has small children or is purchasing a building where children may live or visit, he or she may be advised to seek another property.

[k] Mold Inspection

Mold inspection contingencies are becoming more common, possibly because of publicity surrounding litigation involving claims that mold has been the primary cause of personal injury to certain persons exposed to it. Mold belongs to a group of unicellular or multicellular organisms known as fungi. Fungi that is found indoors growing as branched filaments is what has caused concern. The most common, allegedly toxic, mold that you hear about is "black mold," technically called Stachybotrys. Some experts believe that these black molds generate volatile vapors known as mycotoxins. Black mold grows on water saturated or water damaged cellulose items.

The most common response to mold exposure is an allergic reaction in those with an allergy to the mold. Infections from mold are possible in an immunosuppressed individual. It is alleged that children are particularly susceptible to mold because their immune systems are still developing.

Currently there are no state or federal regulatory standards establishing permissible levels of molds or mold spores in indoor air. Guidelines that are currently available, which have been published by state and local governments, and by the U.S. EPA, talk in terms of when mold needs to be cleaned up and how to clean it up. In general, the guidelines state that where mold growth is visible, it is at a level that requires remediation.

It is important to hire an expert who is familiar with the problem, knows where and what to look for, and knows how to test the source samples or air samples taken. If it does exist, the contingency should allow the purchaser to terminate the transaction unless the seller is willing to remedy the problem. The inspector should propose a plan for remediation and estimate of its cost.

This is used primarily where a lay person has drawn the contract and the parties have signed before the attorneys can review the agreement. This contingency allows the attorneys to correct the wording and clarify any ambiguities. As with the other contingencies, it is waived if not acted upon within a specified time period. The contingency generally cannot be used to change the substance of the deal, such as the purchase price.

If there are items which need to be changed, the attorney typically sends a letter stating that he or she disapproves of the contract unless the following changes are made, or sends a proposed amendment to the contract. If the changes are not made, the contract is terminated and the deposit returned.

[m] Sale of present home by purchaser or purchase of new home by seller

These contingencies, used in residential sales, generally provide a specified period of time either for the purchaser to sell his or her present home or for the seller to locate a new home. Where the contract is contingent upon the purchaser selling his or her present home, it usually also provides that the seller may consider additional offers. If the seller receives such an offer which is acceptable, the seller may give the purchaser a notice of the offer. The purchaser then has a specified period of time (usually quite brief, such as forty-eight hours) in which to remove the contingency. If the purchaser fails to do so, the seller may terminate the contract and accept the second offer.

In both types of contingencies, consideration should be given to extending the satisfaction of all other contingencies to dates after this contingency is satisfied. Most other contingencies require the expenditure of sums of money for tests or inspections. If the contract may fail due to a contingency requiring one of the parties to sell or purchase another home, it is unwise to spend money on those other contingencies.

[n] Environmental site assessment

The prospective purchaser of real property should try to obtain full disclosure from the seller of any possible environmental problems. Pursuant to disclosure requirements in some states, discussed at § 21.29[2][e][iii] above, the seller may have a duty to disclose environmental problems which constitute defects in the condition of the premises. Even in states with such disclosure requirements, the purchaser should conduct an independent environmental examination of the property appropriate to the circumstances.

Environmental site assessments are not yet as typical in residential sales as in commercial sales. A Phase I assessment reviews the history of use of the property through public records, interviews, aerial photographs and maps, to determine whether there is any evidence that the site or a nearby site was ever used for an environmentally hazardous use. If any such evidence is found, a Phase II review, which includes sampling of soils, air and water, is performed. The cost of a Phase I assessment is quite high, and a Phase II assessment is even more costly. An environmental site assessment contingency usually provides that the sale of the property is contingent upon the purchaser obtaining a Phase I assessment which finds no evidence of adverse environmental impact.

Under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act (CERCLA),ⁿ¹³ an owner has a strict liability obligation to clean up hazardous wastes on its site. The cost of clean up can be immense. Thus, if an environmental problem is uncovered by an environmental site assessment, the purchaser should reserve the right in the contract to terminate the contract promptly.

For a more detailed discussion of environmental assessments and specific forms relating to them, see Vol. 33, Chapter 25, Environmental Considerations in Real Estate Transactions, infra.

[o] Mortgage contingency

The purchaser of residential property usually must obtain a loan from an institutional lender to afford the purchase price, but also usually must execute the contract of sale before obtaining the loan. To protect the purchaser from liability if he or she is unable to complete the transaction because a loan cannot be obtained, the purchaser's attorney should insist that the contract provide that it is conditioned upon the purchaser obtaining the necessary financing. Mortgage contingency provisions are less common in sales of commercial property because the purchaser generally assumes the risk of obtaining financing or prearranges the financing before executing the contract.

There are a tremendous variety of mortgage products available in the market today. In some states, deeds of trust are used instead of mortgages. Deeds of trust are nearly indistinguishable from mortgages, and the term "mortgage" will be used here to describe both forms of financing.

When drafting a mortgage contingency, it is extremely important to carefully specify the type of mortgage which, if it is obtained by a particular date, will bind the purchaser to perform. There are three basic types of residential mortgages given by institutional lenders: VA, FHA, and conventional. VA mortgages are available to a very limited population of veterans. They generally require a very small amount of equity, and are guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

FHA mortgages are generally used by home buyers with very little or no equity. Home buyers may even finance a portion of their closing costs, causing the amount of the mortgage to exceed the purchase price. FHA mortgages are guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration.

Conventional mortgages cover a large range of products. They may have fixed or adjustable interest rates. Some mortgages have an adjustable rate that may be converted to a fixed rate. They may require private mortgage insurance which guarantees payment to the lender in case of a default under the loan.

When drafting the mortgage contingency, specify the type, the amount and the term of the mortgage, whether the interest rate will be fixed, adjustable or convertible, and the maximum interest rate. The seller may wish to specify the maximum amount of the loan to prevent the purchaser from applying for too large a loan and being turned down.

The use of the phrases "prevailing rate" or "not in excess of the maximum legal rate" to describe the maximum interest rate can cause problems for some purchasers. A change of one percent in the interest rate can make a very significant change in the monthly payment. A mortgage which is affordable at 9% may not be affordable at 10%, and rates can change rather quickly. On the other hand, because of the unpredictability of interest rates, obtaining a loan at a maximum interest rate which is defined too specifically may be difficult.

In addition, the contingency should specify the maximum number of "points" which the lender may charge. "Points" are considered prepaid interest, which is used to buy down the interest rate. Each "point" is 1% of the mortgage amount. A lender who offers a lower interest rate will often require a larger number of points. A purchaser may not be in the position to pay four points to obtain a 9% mortgage. If the maximum points have not been specified, the purchaser may be required to accept a 9% mortgage regardless of the number of points.

When drafting the contingency, the attorney should confer with the borrower's anticipated lender(s) to determine the expected lapse of time between the application and receipt of the commitment. The attorney should add at least a week to that time to be sure that the borrower's right to cancel if he or she fails to obtain a mortgage commitment will be protected.

The seller's attorney should obtain a clause requiring the purchaser to apply promptly for financing, to pay all required fees, and to notify the seller of the name and address of the lending institution upon making the application. The purchaser also should be required to accept the mortgage commitment, to comply with the lender's requirements, and to deliver a copy of the commitment promptly to the seller.

Typically, the contract provides that if the purchaser fails to obtain the mortgage commitment by the stated date, the contract is canceled automatically, unless the parties agree to an extension or the purchaser waives the mortgage contingency in writing. The seller might prefer to have the right to extend the time for obtaining the commitment unilaterally, the right to obtain financing for the purchaser, or the right to take back a purchase money mortgage. The parties might also choose to provide that, rather than having an automatic cancellation, either party has the right to cancel the contract in writing.

[p] Governmental approvals and rezoning

If the purchaser has any intention of changing the use or structures on the premises, consideration should be given to a governmental approvals contingency. Such a contingency would give the purchaser a specified period of time to determine whether approvals are required and to obtain such approvals. Similarly, the parties may make the sale contingent upon a rezoning of the property.

Several types of approval should be considered. If the structure is a multi-family dwelling, the lender may require certificates of occupancy or compliance for the non-owner occupied units. The contingency should specify that, if there are any violations, the seller shall promptly make all necessary repairs.

If exterior changes are contemplated, the purchaser should determine whether the premises lie within any special district, such as a historic district or a conservation district, and whether it contains a wetland. If the premises do lie in a special district or adjacent to or contain a wetland, approvals must be obtained before the changes can be made. If the exterior change relates to the construction of something that the adjoining landowners might object to, such as the construction of a telecommunications tower, the purchaser should verify whether the local ordinances allow such installation, or necessitate obtaining a variance or conditional use permit to install it. If the changes are integral to the purchaser's use, a contingency must be included.

Many of these approvals take a considerable amount of time to obtain. The attorney should inquire as to the expected amount of time for approval and add a month to that time. Many review boards meet infrequently or are short staffed. If the purchaser does not reserve sufficient time for review and approval, he or she may need to seek an extension. The seller is not obligated to grant an extension, so the purchaser may be faced with the dilemma of purchasing without approval or losing the property.

Obtaining governmental approvals or rezoning can be very costly. The contract should clearly set forth the obligations and responsibilities of the parties in obtaining and paying for such approvals, including the possibility that such approvals or rezoning, once obtained, may be subjected to challenge in court.

[5] Deed type

The contract should specify the type of deed which will be used to transfer title to the purchaser. Different types of deeds are customarily given in different regions.

A warranty deed is the most comprehensive deed. In addition to transferring fee title, the grantor-seller provides certain assurances to the grantee-purchaser. The grantor-seller warrants that he or she will defend the grantee-purchaser if any of the assurances are violated.

In contrast, a special warranty deed, sometimes called a limited warranty deed, only warrants that the grantor did nothing to encumber the title, but does not warrant against what others may have done to encumber the title.

A bargain and sale deed also transfers fee title. It assures the purchaser that the seller has done nothing to encumber the property and prevent the purchaser's use and enjoyment.

A quit claim deed contains no warranties at all. It simply transfers to the grantee-purchaser anything which the grantor-seller may have had, if anything.

An executor's or administrator's deed is used when the seller is an estate. A trustee's deed is used when the seller is a trust. Each of these deeds will set forth full consideration and the source of authority for the grantor. A referee's deed is generally used in a foreclosure or partition sale.

The purchaser should request a warranty deed wherever possible, but may accept less than a warranty deed comfortably with fee title insurance. Fee title insurance gives assurances which are similar in effect to those contained in the warranty deed. If the seller is willing to offer only a quit claim deed, inquiry into the reason should be made promptly.

[6] Conditions to which purchaser shall take subject

The purchaser must review each of these conditions and the effect such conditions will have on his or her ability to use the land and improvements.

[a] Zoning laws

Many local governments have enacted zoning laws to establish the types of activities which are permissible in various areas. Among the purposes of such zoning laws is to protect neighborhoods from activities which are not appropriate in certain settings and thereby to help maintain property values.

The purchaser's attorney or his client should review the local zoning law to determine whether the area is zoned for the use contemplated by the purchaser. Such a review also will indicate what other uses may be part of the area as a permitted use or under a special use permit. For example, home occupations may be allowed in residential areas but professional offices may not. These other uses may affect the area. The purchaser should be aware of them prior to entering into the agreement.

In addition, if the purchaser intends to use or alter the property in any manner which is not permitted under the local zoning law, it may be necessary for him or her to obtain a variance or special use permit. If that is the case, a contingency for such approval or permit should be made a part of the contract. The contingency provision should also require the seller to cooperate in good faith with the purchaser to obtain the desired variance or permit.

[b] Environmental laws

Environmental laws cover a wide spectrum. They may include refuse removal, the ability to use certain pesticides or herbicides, the ability to use adjacent waterways, and other similar laws. These are of importance to the purchaser because they will affect his or her ability to use the property and the cost of enjoyment of the property. The purchaser should be aware of these before executing the contract.

Some municipalities provide refuse removal for residents as an ordinary service. Others do not, and residents must contract with private haulers to collect refuse. Private pickup may be quite costly. Private haulers often require customers to use specific containers, which may be costly to acquire. Many municipalities require refuse to be sorted according to ability to recycle.

Some municipalities have banned the use of certain chemicals as pesticides, herbicides or fertilizers. If the purchaser intends to garden or landscape extensively, this may be a concern. Some municipalities do aerial spraying for mosquitoes, black flies, and other insects. This may be of concern to a purchaser with chemical sensitivity.

These and other environmental concerns should be reviewed carefully, as the seller has no control over them. If they are not satisfactory to the purchaser, he or she should consider a different location. For a more detailed discussion of environmental laws and specific forms relating to them, see Vol. 33, Chapter 25, Environmental Considerations in Real Estate Transactions, infra.

[c] Covenants and restrictions

The seller's chain of title may contain covenants and restrictions with respect to the use of the property. These should be reviewed before the purchaser executes the contract. Unless the seller is the developer, he or she will have no ability to change covenants and restrictions. If the covenants and restrictions adversely affect the use which the purchaser intends for the property, the purchaser may not wish to purchase this parcel.

Covenants and restrictions are usually placed on the property through the deed or by a filing of a declaration of covenants and restrictions with the county clerk. The purposes are generally to maintain the characteristics of a development and to protect property values.

Covenants are generally affirmative duties. These may include requirements for style and cost of homes. They may require the payment of annual fees for the maintenance of parks, pools and other recreational facilities within a development.

Restrictions are often negative in nature. They prohibit certain uses of the property. Older developments may prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages on the premises. Some may prohibit the sale of the premises to members of certain races or ethnic groups. These latter types of restrictions are not enforceable.

More typically, residential restrictions apply to types and height of fencing and clothes lines. Restrictions may prohibit storage of commercial vehicles on the premises. There may be prohibitions against harboring certain types of animals or limiting the number of animals on the premises.

The purchaser and his or her attorney should review the covenants and restrictions before executing the contract; however, often it is not possible to review restrictions and covenants until the title search is complete. The purchaser may request a provision in the contract which allows the purchaser to terminate the contract if there are covenants or restrictions which affect his or her intended use. That use should be specified clearly in the contract. For example, if in addition to residing on the premises, the purchaser intends to raise show dogs, a restriction limiting the number of animals may interfere with his or her use of the property. Generally, such covenants and restrictions can only be waived by the approval of all of the owners of the property meant to be benefitted by the covenants and restrictions. This is a very difficult task, especially if the area contains more than a few properties.

The seller's attorney should review the seller's title insurance policy or abstract of title, as well as the deed, to make sure that all exceptions listed in the policy or abstract, and all covenants, restrictions, easements and the like contained in the deed, are listed as exceptions to the title promised to the purchaser in the contract.

[d] Easements

An easement is the burdening of one parcel of land for the benefit of another. Most often easements are found as rights to cross one parcel to gain access to another. For example, town house developments, where the houses are attached in rows, have easements for access to the rear of lots so that lawn mowers do not have to be taken through the townhouse to cut the rear lawn. Such easements may affect whether the property may be fenced or landscaped to provide privacy.

Commonly, there are also easements for power lines, telephone lines, cable television, water lines, sewer mains, storm sewers, gas pipes, and drainage. These easements often include more than just the rights to lay and maintain the facilities. They may prohibit construction or planting on the easement area, or they may allow entry for the purpose of cutting and removal of trees which may interfere with power lines.

Easements may be established through a recorded document, such as a deed or a declaration of easement, or on a filed map. Easements also may be established by use or necessity. Such easements are not recorded, and may or may not be visible by an inspection of the property. Inquiry should be made regarding such easements.

Easements can only be modified or released by the owner of the parcel receiving the benefit. The purchaser and his or her attorney should carefully review the location of easements, preferably before executing the contract. However, the existence of easements may not become known until the title search is complete, and a survey is obtained locating the easements. A provision should be included in the contract allowing termination if any easements are so extensive that they interfere with the beneficial use of the improvements on the property or they render the property unmarketable.

Unlike other conditions affecting the property, tenancies should be obvious, although the status and rights of tenants are not. Tenancies are generally month to month or for a fixed term. Month to month tenancies in most jurisdictions may be terminated by giving written notice at least one month before the date on which the tenant is obligated to pay rent. A tenancy for a fixed period cannot be terminated before the end of the fixed period absent a contrary provision in the lease or unless a violation of the lease has occurred. The purchaser takes subject to the existing tenancies, and the contract should list all tenancies and tenants' rights as exceptions to title.

Where there are existing tenancies, commercial or residential, the purchaser's attorney should obtain a rent schedule from the seller and attach such a schedule to the contract. The rent schedule should contain the names of tenants; descriptions of the leased spaces; commencement and expiration dates of the leases; rental and escalation amounts; security deposit information; information on lease amendments, extensions and renewal rights; information on options and rights of first refusal; and information on termination rights.

In addition to attaching a rent schedule to the contract, the contract should include the seller's representations that the rent schedule is accurate; that it contains the material terms of all leases; and that the schedule sets forth all leases, tenancies, subleases and subtenancies at the premises. The purchaser should obtain and include in the contract detailed representations from the seller regarding the information included in the rent schedule to ensure that there are no hidden problems with any tenancies, such as arrearages, withheld rents, entitlement to rent concessions or abatements, tenants' defaults, seller's defaults, pending or anticipated litigation, unpaid leasing commissions, or incomplete work. The contract should provide that representations of the seller regarding the rent schedule survive the closing for a specified period of time to enable the purchaser to verify the seller's representations.

The purchaser's attorney also may wish to obtain and review copies of the leases or rental agreements. Some sellers will insist on such a review, as well as a provision in the contract that if a lease reviewed by the purchaser is inconsistent with the rent schedule representations, such representations will be deemed modified to eliminate the inconsistencies. If the seller requires such a provision, the purchaser should review the leases carefully to be sure that they match the information in the rent schedule. If an option to purchase exists, the purchaser should obtain proof that it has been waived by the tenant and is no longer effective.

The purchaser also should obtain a provision in the contract barring the seller, without the purchaser's written consent, from: (a) amending, renewing or extending the lease of any existing tenant; (b) renting to new tenants or granting a new lease to any existing tenant; and (c) terminating any lease except for tenant default (unless the purchaser wants the building vacant anyway). The seller's attorney may seek a clause providing that the purchaser's consent will not be withheld unreasonably or that the purchaser will reimburse the seller for rent the seller would have received if the purchaser had consent to the new lease. Where both parties desire that rental activities in the building continue between the time the contract is executed and the closing, they may wish to include in the contract agreed terms under which the seller may enter into new leases without the purchaser's consent. If a tenant is residing in a unit in which the purchaser intends to reside, the purchaser would be wise to require a provision in the lease making the seller responsible for removing the tenant before the transfer of title.

The contract should provide that at the closing and transfer of title, the leases or rental agreements will be assigned to the purchaser. In addition, the contract should provide that the prepaid rents for the remainder of the term will be adjusted, which means that the seller will give the purchaser credit for the rent paid by tenants to the seller which covers any days after the transfer of title. For example, if the closing takes place on June 17, and the seller has been paid rent of $600 for the month of June, the purchaser is entitled to a credit of $260 for the thirteen days he or she will own the property.

The contract should provide that the seller will not apply any part of any security deposit unless the tenant has vacated the premises, and that the seller will give the purchaser an accounting of any interest earned on the security deposits. The contract should also provide that the seller will send a notice to each tenant, certified mail, return receipt requested, advising that the tenant's security deposit has been transferred to the purchaser, and advising that a change in ownership has taken place. The name, address and telephone number of the purchaser should be included in the notice.

[f] Licenses

A license is a terminable right to use property. Licenses are granted to excavate minerals, to remove timber, and for other similar purposes. They generally run for a finite period or can be terminated upon specified notice.

Licenses may be recorded or unrecorded. The terms of any license should be reviewed prior to the execution of any contract to purchase, because they may seriously impact on the purchaser's ability to use the property and/or upon the aesthetic value of the property.

If the license is terminable upon notice, the purchaser may wish to include a provision in the agreement requiring the seller to terminate prior to the transfer of title.

[7] Title

The contract should provide that the seller will transfer marketable or fee simple title, or in some states insurable title, to the purchaser, and that if the seller is unable to do so, the seller will return the purchaser's deposit and terminate the agreement. The seller's attorney should include a provision setting forth all exceptions to title contained in the seller's title insurance policy or abstract of title, since this is the state of title which has been insured to the seller. The purchaser should consider adding a provision which requires the seller to reimburse the purchaser's out-of-pocket expenses for title review and for mortgage application.

A minority of states have enacted marketable title laws. These statutes are designed to bar stale or ancient title defects or claims. Generally, such statutes provide that any interest in land arising from a transaction occurring before a certain date is extinguished unless the holder of the interest acts to preserve it.

Whether title is marketable is generally determined by review of an abstract of title or a title insurance report. An abstract of title is a list of recorded items which affect the real property. The abstract of title will include all deeds to the premises, all mortgages, all building loan agreements, any satisfactions, all judgments, tax warrants, mechanic's liens, easements, covenants, restrictions, real property taxes, and other miscellaneous records affecting the title. The person preparing the abstract typically will not indicate whether title is marketable. An attorney must review the abstract of title to make that judgment.

A title report is a preliminary step to obtaining title insurance. The title report takes an abstract and lists "objections" or "exceptions" to title, including liens which must be satisfied prior to closing and other items of which the purchaser should be aware, such as easements, covenants and restrictions. The title report indicates that the title company will provide title insurance subject to the objections or exceptions set forth therein. The title insurance insures against any forfeiture of title other than from the causes listed as objections or exceptions. The attorney reviews the title report to determine whether the title is marketable. Customarily, in many states, the contract expressly states that the seller's delivery of a title insurance policy or abstract of title that conforms to the contract satisfies the seller's obligation to deliver marketable title.

Responsibility for the cost of the abstract of title, the searching portion of the title report, or title insurance varies throughout the country. In most states, it is traditionally the seller's responsibility to prove that he or she has good title. Therefore, the seller pays for the abstract or the searching. In other states, traditionally, caveat emptor applies, and the purchaser needs to determine whether the seller has good title. In such areas, the purchaser pays for the abstracting. The terms of the contract are controlling over tradition, however, and the responsibility for the cost of the abstract of title, the searching, and title insurance is often negotiated, especially in commercial contracts. The contract should provide that the seller will provide to the purchaser copies of any back title reports or title policies which the seller has in his or her possession. This will save the purchaser considerable time and expense.

[8] Survey

A survey is a map, drawn to scale under the supervision of a licensed or professional engineer or a licensed land surveyor. The drawing is done on the basis of actual field measurements taken with surveying equipment. The survey should show the property boundaries, the location of any structures, the access to the property from public roads, the location of any bodies of water, and the location of any easements. It should contain references to any filed maps of the property and a certification that it was prepared in accordance with the standards of the applicable surveying association, or the requirements of state law, if one is applicable. The survey should be certified to the purchasers, title company and lender, if any, and must be signed and sealed.

A survey should be performed for each purchase; however, it is more common to obtain a survey only if improvements to the property were made during the seller's ownership or if an existing survey cannot be located. A survey coverage endorsement may be available for the lender's mortgagee title insurance; however, this does not protect the purchaser.

It is customary in some states for the contract to provide that the survey will be performed at the purchaser's expense. In other states, it is customary for the contract to require the seller to provide a current survey at the seller's expense. The contract also may provide that the seller will provide copies of any existing surveys or other maps of the premises which the seller may have.

[9] Transfer of title

The contract should provide the date, time and place of the transfer of title. In most cases, it is nearly impossible to predict the date of transfer of title at the time of execution of the contract. Therefore, the contract may specify an approximate date, and the transfer of title will take place near that date at the convenience of the parties and lender, if any. However, under certain circumstances, a particular date for transfer of title may be quite important, and the contract should specify that "time is of the essence." If time is of the essence and either party is unable to close on the specified date, that party has committed a breach of contract and may be liable for damages to the other party. "Time is of the essence" should not be used unless it is absolutely necessary. It has caused problems for many parties who demanded such a clause and then were unable to close in a timely manner. Without a 'time of the essence' clause, either party is entitled to a reasonable adjournment of the date of the title transfer.

When selecting a date for the transfer of title, the parties should consider such factors as the time needed to complete new construction, the seller's plans to purchase a new residence or the purchaser's need to sell his or her old residence. Under certain circumstances, one or both of the parties may need to make temporary financing, living or business arrangements during the period of transition from one building to another.

Generally, the parties should allow at least two weeks for a title search, as well as sufficient time to obtain a mortgage commitment if a loan is required. On the average, contracts of sale provide for the transfer of title within thirty to sixty days after the contract is signed.

The customary location of the transfer varies from state to state, although in any state the parties may agree upon a location other than the customary location in that area. Often, the location of the transfer of title is dictated by the lender. If there is no lender, the transfer is often held at the office of the seller's attorney. In some states, the transfer is customarily held at the title company's office.

In a few states (California, Illinois and Ohio), it is customary for an escrow agent to accomplish the transfer in escrow, without the physical presence of the parties. Typically, the escrow agent will be the escrow department of the lending institution financing the purchaser's acquisition, or the escrow department of the title company handling the title work. In these states, the parties give the escrow agent instructions to be followed in transferring title. All of the necessary documents and payments are sent to the escrow agent, who will close the sale when all of the escrow closing instructions have been complied with by the escrow agent.

[10] Transfer of possession

The right to possession is attached to ownership. That is, as soon as title transfers, the right of possession transfers. However, it is very common for the purchaser to need possession before the closing or for the seller to need possession after the closing. These needs are often dictated by successive closings or the need to relinquish a rental property on a particular date. If such needs are known at the time of execution, they should be included in the contract, and can be considered in negotiating the overall purchase price of the contract. Alternatively, the parties can negotiate separate payments for the privilege of transferring possession at a time other than when title transfers, and can insert the terms of such payments in the contract.

If the parties do not discover the need to transfer possession at a time other than the closing until after execution of the contract, a separate agreement should be drawn with appropriate consideration. The consideration is a matter to be agreed upon by the parties; however, some traditional guidelines may be helpful. The holding over seller can be expected to pay to the purchaser the per diem amount of the purchaser's mortgage payment, including principal, interest, taxes and insurance. Alternatively, if the purchaser's rent at the place the purchaser currently occupies while waiting to move is higher, it is appropriate for the seller to pay to the purchaser the amount of such rent. Where the purchaser moves in early, he or she can be expected to pay at least the per diem amount of the seller's existing mortgage and the cost of utilities incurred during such occupancy.

In any event, both parties should maintain their insurance coverage until both title and possession have vested in the purchaser.

[11] Brokers

The attorney drafting the contract of sale must ascertain from his client whether there is a brokerage commission payable in connection with the transaction. That question can be difficult to ascertain unless the attorney has been involved with his client at the time the client started looking to sell or purchase the property, as the case may be. If there is a broker or brokers involved, the names should be disclosed, as well as which party is required to pay their commission. Most frequently, the broker represents the seller and does so pursuant to the terms of a listing agreement, which spells out the type of listing, its duration, the duties of the broker, and fee schedule, and how the commission is earned.

The purchaser may hire his or her own broker. If so, there must be a clear understanding between the purchaser and his broker regarding who is responsible for paying the commission of the purchaser's broker. In most instances, the purchaser's broker's commission will be paid by the seller but will be split with the seller's broker. In addition, in some transactions, the broker may be acting in a dual capacity as broker for the seller and for the purchaser. This is permissible as long as full disclosure is made to both parties.

The contract of sale should identify the brokers and who is paying their commissions, but does not necessarily disclose the amount of the commission. The listing agreements do that, and clarify when the commission is earned. The brokers will have to supply evidence of the amount of the commission to the escrow agent if such commission is to be paid as part of the closing, and the parties will have to verify that amount. If only one of the parties is responsible for paying the commission, that party should indemnify the other for any claims to a commission emanating from that party's broker. If no brokers are involved, each party should indemnify the other from any claims to a commission resulting from that party's acts.

[12] Miscellaneous clauses

The miscellaneous clauses are often referred to as "boilerplate" clauses. Although the terms may be fairly standard, they are very important. Care should be taken to include them in the agreement.

[a] Waiver

This clause provides that the failure to demand performance does not waive the right to require performance at a later date. This could be important where a second deposit was due on a particular date and the seller forgot to obtain the deposit or the purchaser was unable to pay the deposit on that date. This clause protects the seller's right to collect the balance of the deposit later.

[b] State law

This provision designates which state's law will apply to the transaction. The purchaser and the seller may be residents of a state other than the designated state. This clause is important because real property laws vary significantly from state to state. Such issues as priority of taxes and liens are not even similar among the various states. Traditionally, the law of the situs applies to real estate transactions.

[c] Entire agreement

This clause acknowledges that the contract contains the entire terms of the agreement between the parties. There are no understandings, promises, representations or warranties not included in the contract. This protects each party from a claim by the other based on an oral statement.

[d] Binding effect

This clause provides that the contract is binding on the heirs, assigns, personal representatives, etc. of each party. This protects the right of each party to complete the transaction in the event of the death or incompetence of the other party. As a practical matter, however, the seller receives less protection, as lenders are unlikely to give a mortgage to a deceased purchaser.

[e] Written amendments

This clause provides that all amendments to the contract must be in writing and must be signed by both the purchaser and the seller. This protects both parties from any claim under an oral agreement. It also requires the parties to put any agreed upon changes, such as occupancy date changes or adjustments in purchase price based on contingencies, in writing.

[f] Alternative dispute resolution

Occasionally, the parties may desire to provide in the contract for an alternative method for resolving disputes in order to avoid litigation. The most common alternative methods are arbitration and mediation.

[13] Execution of the contract

The contract should be signed in multiple originals. Each party and his or her attorney and the lender will need originals. The contract should indicate that it has been executed in this fashion. The contract may be executed by fax or by electronic signature. Most states have adopted the Uniform Electronic Transaction Act (UETA) or some variation thereof. Under the UETA, the parties may agree that an electronic signature will be a valid form of execution. If the parties agree that the electronic signatures may be used, then the electronic signatures will have the same force and legal effect as a manual signature. Electronic signatures have not yet come into common use in real estate transactions.

The contract should be dated. Any changes on the face of the contract should be initialed by all parties and dated to indicate the parties' knowledge of that change.

The proper execution of the contract does not require witnesses or acknowledgment before a notary public; however, an acknowledged contract does not require authentication before submission as evidence in a trial. Unfortunately, notaries often are not available when contracts are executed.

[14] Plain language

In some states, certain consumer contracts must be written in plain language. The attorney drafting the contract must determine whether plain language laws apply to the particular contract. In some states, such as New York, a monetary limit on the value of contracts subject to the plain language requirements excludes most (but not all) real estate transactions. In other states, such as New Jersey, consumer contracts for the sale of real property are expressly included in the plain language law, regardless of the value of the property. If the attorney determines that the contract must be drafted in plain language, the attorney must then examine the particular plain language requirements in the relevant state. These range from a general requirement that the contract be written in a clear and coherent manner to detailed descriptions of the grammatical uses and words to be avoided. Plain language laws generally provide for damages and penalties for violations; however, such violations do not render the underlying contract void or voidable and are not a defense to an action under the contract.

[15] Miscellaneous comments on new residential construction

When dealing with individual sellers and purchasers, the bargaining power of the parties is usually relatively equal. However, where the seller is a residential developer, the bargaining power often becomes unequal. If the purchaser wants the property, he or she may have to accept a variety of unpleasant terms. These may include closing dates with penalties if the purchaser misses, but not if the developer misses. Similarly, if there are items not completed, the developer may refuse to allow a holdback of funds to ensure completion.

In such cases, the purchaser must be entirely sure that he or she wants the property enough to accept such conditions. In addition, the purchaser should investigate the reputation of the developer in the community. If the reputation is one of failure to complete items, the purchaser should consider another site.

Some states require that the deposit paid by the purchaser with respect to a one- or two-family house be held in escrow, and, regardless of state law, the purchaser should always require that the deposit be held in an escrow account. The purchaser should never allow the builder to use the deposit in construction. If the builder files a petition in bankruptcy, an escrow deposit can be returned, but a used deposit may be lost. The purchaser will then become a general unsecured creditor. This is a major risk for the purchaser, who is very unlikely to receive a refund of any part of the deposit, since general unsecured creditors often receive payment of only a tiny portion of the debt.

The purchaser also should make sure that the contract specifies in detail what will be built, when it will be completed and when it will be paid for by the purchaser. The contract should refer to either a model of the building or detailed plans and specifications.

[16] Special provisions required by governmental regulations

Federal regulations affecting certain property transactions may produce a need for the parties to include special provisions in the contract. These provisions may ensure one party that the other party has complied with governmental regulations, or may allocate between the parties the responsibility for compliance.

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)ⁿ¹ prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability by public accommodations. Among other things, the law requires places of public accommodation and commercial facilities to be designed, constructed and altered in compliance with accessibility standards contained in federal regulations.ⁿ² Depending upon the circumstances of the transaction, the seller and purchaser of real property which meets the statutory definition of a "public accommodation" and/or a "commercial facility" will desire to provide in the contract of sale for compliance with ADA requirements.

The parties may desire contract provisions to assure compliance with other federal laws. The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Actⁿ³ is designed to protect purchasers from abuse by real estate developers through interstate commerce and the mail. This law prohibits and punishes fraud by real estate developers. The Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Actⁿ⁴ requires a preacquisition filing and compliance with a mandatory waiting period before closing the sale of certain hotel and shopping center properties.

Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part II. The Practice Background

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate § 21.30

§ 21.30 Preparation for closing

[1] The mortgage commitment

After the contract has been signed, the purchaser and his or her attorney will be busy satisfying the contingencies. The purchaser will apply for a mortgage. The attorney will order the title work (abstract or insurance) and survey. Then the parties wait for the mortgage to be approved. The mortgage generally will contain a number of conditions to be satisfied prior to closing. These may include title and survey requirements, insurance requirements, tests for any of the items included in the contract contingencies, and the repair of any deficiencies noted by the lender's appraiser. It is the attorney's responsibility to obtain, review and provide the title and survey to the lender. The purchaser should obtain the casualty and liability insurance. If the property is in a flood plain, flood insurance may be required also. The purchaser should forward the test results to the lender.

If repairs are required, the purchaser should inquire whether they must be completed prior to closing. If so, an agreement must be reached between the purchaser and the seller granting the purchaser or the purchaser's agents access to perform the work. The seller must be protected by insurance and must be assured that the work will be done in a workmanlike manner. If the repairs can be completed after closing, a holdback agreement can be prepared. Lenders generally hold one and one-half times the cost of the repairs. The agreement will provide a period of time in which repairs must be performed. If the repairs are not completed within that time, the lender may complete them using the escrowed funds, or the lender may apply the funds to the principal balance of the loan.

In connection with the mortgage application, the purchaser or purchaser's counsel should review the Disclosure Statement required by the Truth in Lending Act (TILA),ⁿ¹ and its implementing Regulation Z.ⁿ² TILA was designed to promote the informed use of credit by requiring lenders to disclose the terms and cost of credit.ⁿ³ In general, TILA applies to consumer real estate loans but does not apply to business or commercial real estate loans.ⁿ⁴ As a general rule the creditor in a consumer real estate transaction must disclose the identity of the lender, a statement of the amount financed with a separate itemization of the finance charge, the annual percentage rate, details of any variable rate, payment schedule, total payments involved, and any demand feature imposed by the obligation of the parties.ⁿ⁵ As a general rule, the borrower must be provided with the disclosures prior to the consummation of the transaction.ⁿ⁶

In a commercial loan negotiation, as opposed to a residential transaction described above, where the purchaser has a proven track record and is buying a property with a proven history of producing a net income sufficient to cover the debt service on the loan being obtained, the purchaser may be able to negotiate a nonrecourse provision in its loan documents. Such a provision provides that the lender, upon default, will look only to the security of the mortgaged property to recover the amount owed to it, not to the personal assets of the purchaser. If such a nonrecourse provision can be obtained, the purchaser can expect the lender to except or carveout from its nonrecourse clause certain items for which the lender will require the purchaser to be personally liable. These so-called carveouts include personal liability for such matters as damages resulting from the existence of hazardous or toxic substances, failure of the property to comply with environmental laws, intentional damage to the property, failure to pay real estate taxes or other liens having priority ahead of the lender's mortgage lien, or damages arising from the fraud or malfeasance of the purchaser.

[2] Review of title and survey

[a] Description

The attorney for the purchaser should obtain a copy of the proposed deed from the seller's attorney. The deed should be compared with the contract of sale to be sure it describes the same property. Next, the deed description should be compared with the description in the title work and survey. Be sure to compare the metes and bounds description line by line. Map references should be checked for date and filing information. If the description refers to a map, the map must be filed or recorded in accordance with state law.

The deed should also be examined to be sure that the grantees are shown as in title in the title work. Check spelling, middle initials and designations such as "junior" or "senior."

The deed should be examined for correct spelling of the grantees' names. In addition, if there is more than one purchaser, an indication of the type of tenancy should be included in the deed. If the purchasers are married, the phrases "husband and wife" or "as tenants by the entirety" should be used. If the parties are not married, the phrases "as joint tenants" or "as tenants in common" should be used. A joint tenancy provides that the survivor takes all. A tenancy in common allows an owner to bequeath his or her undivided share of the property to someone other than the co-owner. The distinctions clearly have important ramifications and should be discussed with the clients.

The survey must be reviewed. It should include the map references. It should be certified to the purchaser, lender and title company, and should contain the standard of certification of the applicable surveying association. The survey should contain the signature and seal of the surveyor.

[b] Encroachments

The survey should be examined to be sure that all permanent improvements, such as buildings and driveways, are located within the property lines. If set back lines exist, those should be shown as well. In older cities, stoops may encroach on the setback. Often the city will provide a letter indicating that it will not enforce the setback with respect to the stoop.

If any neighboring improvements encroach upon the property or if the improvements on this property encroach upon the neighboring property, the seller's attorney should be notified immediately. The seller is responsible for clearing up the encroachments. If the encroachments are not permanent, such as a shed or fence, they can be moved. In some states, if the encroachment is small, there may be a statutory easement. If the improvements are of a more permanent nature, an agreement should be sought by the seller with the neighboring landowner. The agreement can take the form of an easement allowing the encroachment to remain so long as the encroaching structure stands, and providing for maintenance of the encroachment.

Alternatively, a deed from the neighbor for the area of the encroachment could be transferred to the owner of the property being sold. The neighbor will be very likely to ask for consideration from the seller if the encroachment is on the neighbor's land. If the encroachment has been in existence for a certain statutorily prescribed period of time, the owner of the encroachment may have the right to the area of the encroachment by virtue of adverse possession if the owner can prove such facts. This may help to reduce the amount of consideration sought by the neighbor.

Where a portion of a neighboring property must be acquired by the seller, a title search of that property must be obtained. If any liens exist, a release must be obtained as to the portion to be transferred. Frequently, there will be at least a mortgage. The mortgagee will want to review the survey and proposed deed. Under the terms of most mortgages, the mortgagee will have the right to the consideration paid by the seller to the owner of the neighboring property. If that right is exercised, the consideration is used to reduce the principal of the mortgage. The mortgagee can be expected to charge for the preparation of the release and review of the documents by its attorneys. It will be expected that these expenses will be paid by the seller.

The encroachment agreement, in whatever form it takes, should be acknowledged and recorded.

[c] Covenants and restrictions

Next, the title work should be reviewed for the terms of any restrictions or covenants. These should be reviewed with the purchaser to determine whether they will impact on the purchaser's intended use. Any existing violations of the covenants and restrictions should be noted and corrected by the seller.

If the covenants indicate that a property owners' association exists, proof of payment of all dues should be obtained from the association. Any past due payments should be collected from the seller at the transfer of title.

[d] Liens

The title work must be reviewed for liens, including taxes, mortgages, judgments and miscellaneous liens. The seller's attorney or the escrow agent handling the closing of the transaction should be given a list of all liens, and should then obtain written payment instructions from each lien holder. Generally, those instructions will give a payment figure as of a particular date with a per diem interest amount after that date. The instructions should also specify the proper payee, the form of payment (e.g., certified check), and the address for payment.

[e] Real property taxes

The title work should indicate whether real property and school taxes are paid. If the transfer of title takes place near a tax payment date, the records may be unavailable for review. The seller's attorney should provide copies of the receipted tax bills. If taxes are unpaid, they can be collected at the time of transfer of title. A proration of those taxes may be necessary.

[3] Preparation of closing documents

[a] Deed

The contract of sale will indicate the type of deed required for the transfer of title. The seller's attorney should review the deed into sellers for the exact spelling of the names. If any of the sellers' names have changed, both the former and current names should be used. For example, "Jane Doe, now known as Jane Wilson" or "Jane Wilson, formerly known as Jane Doe" should be used.

If any of the co-owners have died, that fact should be noted in the deed. If the decedent was a spouse of the surviving owner, or a joint tenant, the following should be used:

"James Roe died (testate or intestate) a resident of _____ County on _____, [date] leaving him survived by Janet Roe, the grantor herein."

If the decedent was a tenant in common, the deed should explain who is standing in place of the decedent, and why. For example:

"James Roe died testate on _____, [date], a resident of _____ County. His will was admitted to probate on _____, [date]. His interest in the property was bequeathed to Helen Johnson, one of the grantors above named."

The description of the property should match the description in the deed into the sellers; however, if that deed contains an antiquated description (such as in chains and links, or from this tree to that fence), the more modern surveyor's description can be added to the deed, with a preface stating that, "the premises are more modernly (or accurately) described as follows:"

The deed must contain signature lines for all sellers. If any sellers will execute by an attorney-in-fact, the following should be used: "Jane Doe by Mary Roe, her attorney-in-fact." The attorney-in-fact should sign both names. The deed must contain an acknowledgment to be executed by a notary public. If any seller executed the deed by an attorney-in-fact, the power of attorney must be recorded. The recording information for the power of attorney is added to the acknowledgment.

[b] State transfer and other tax documents

Many states tax real property transfers using a variety of methods. In some states the transfer itself is taxed; in others the recording of any instrument conveying real property is taxed. In the majority of states that tax transfers in some way, the taxes are paid by the seller, although in a few states the transfer taxes are shared or they are paid by the purchaser. Generally, both or one of the parties, most often the purchaser, must prepare a tax return to be delivered with the tax payment. In some states, the parties are required to submit other affidavits and forms to the state or local governmental agency handling transfers of real property. Often the payment, the tax return, and any other required documents are delivered to the title closer at the closing. The attorneys should consult local law to determine what is required and customary in a given state.

A few states also tax gains on the sale of real property. Again, the attorneys must consult local law to determine what tax payments, tax returns, affidavits, questionnaires or other documents are required in a particular state.

[c] Holdover agreement

This agreement is used when the seller will not vacate the premises until after the transfer of title. The agreement should identify the parties, recite the existence of the contract of sale, specify the period of time during which the seller may remain in occupancy of the premises, and require the seller to maintain casualty and liability insurance on the property. In addition, the seller should hold the purchaser harmless for any injury to person or property which occurs on the premises during the holdover period.

The agreement should specify the consideration for the holdover. Typically, the consideration will be the amount of the purchaser's per diem mortgage including principal, interest, taxes and insurance. The agreement should specify whether the consideration is to be paid based on the actual number of days of occupancy or based on the period reserved. The parties may consider including a substantial penalty for any days of occupancy beyond those agreed to by the parties. This will avoid the seller's staying on indefinitely.

This agreement is used where the purchaser must take occupancy prior to transfer of title. This often occurs when the closing is scheduled to occur near the end of a month and becomes delayed. The purchaser may be obligated to vacate a rental property the purchaser is leasing by a certain date.

The agreement should recite the identity of the parties, the existence of the contract of sale, and the commencement date for occupancy. Under the Uniform Vendor and Purchaser Risk Act, which has been adopted in a minority of states, and under most contracts, the risk of loss transfers on the earlier of the transfer of possession or the transfer of title. Thus, the purchaser must have in effect both casualty and liability insurance. The agreement should provide that the purchaser holds the seller harmless for any injury to person and/or property which occurs during the period of occupancy prior to the transfer of title.

Often when a purchaser takes possession before the transfer of title, the purchaser discovers things which are not perfect about the property. Although these things might have been discovered by a structural or other inspection, they were not or did not concern the purchaser at that time. To avoid conflict, many sellers' attorneys require a provision in the early occupancy agreement stating that the purchaser has inspected the premises and accepts the premises in its current condition.

During the course of the resolution of the multitude of inspections required by the contingencies to the contract, a condition may be discovered which would permit the purchaser to terminate the agreement. If the purchaser wishes to purchase despite the condition, the parties usually renegotiate the contract. This is done either by having the seller correct the condition or by having the purchaser correct it and reducing the sales price accordingly. The reduction may not be a dollar for dollar reduction, but instead an amount which the parties can agree upon. The solution needs to be memorialized in a written contract amendment. Most contracts have a provision requiring amendments to be written and signed by the parties to be valid.

The amendment should recite the parties, the contract of sale, and the problem discovered. It should detail the solution to the problem. It should also note, if the seller is to perform the work, the nature of the work, the materials to be used, and the contractor. In addition, the desired result should be set forth.

The parties should also make provisions for what must be done if the desired results are not achieved. For example, if the desired level of radon is 4 pico curies per liter of air, but the post-remediation level is 20, will the seller be required to perform additional work, and if so, at what expense? Will the purchaser be obligated to purchase? If so, will there be a reduction in purchase price? These issues should be considered in advance, and the parties' desires should be clearly set forth in the addendum to avoid conflict.

If the purchaser is to perform the work, the amendment should show the reduction in the purchase price. The amendment should also state that in consideration for the reduction, the purchaser waives his or her right to terminate the contract, and will be responsible for all expenses in connection with the remediation.

[f] Hold harmless agreements

In some circumstances, it can be difficult to determine whether water and sewer charges have been paid to the date of closing. Often the determination must be made based on the seller's representations and canceled checks. Where water or sewer systems are municipally owned, an unpaid bill can be levied as a tax. The title insurance company will be insuring to lender and purchaser that all taxes, including water and sewer levies, are paid. The title company may require a hold harmless agreement from seller for those levies.

Such an agreement should recite the parties, the date of transfer of title and the purpose of the agreement. The benefit of the agreement should run to the purchaser and the title company. The agreement should cover both minimum charges and usage charges to the date of transfer of title.

If the seller is unwilling to provide such an agreement, the seller can provide a letter from the municipality stating that all charges are paid to the date of transfer of title. Alternatively, the seller can place a sum in escrow with the title company to cover any unpaid bills. It is recommended that the amount of the escrow be no less than the amount of one period's average bill.

[g] Smoke alarm affidavit

Some states now provide by statute that all transferred residences be equipped with a functioning smoke alarm. Based on this requirement, many lenders require proof of the existence of a smoke alarm. To satisfy this requirement, the seller generally executes an affidavit at closing stating that an approved and functioning smoke alarm exists. In some states, the deed will not be recorded until such an affidavit is filed.

[h] Judgment affidavit

If the title work sets forth a judgment against anyone with a name similar to that of any seller, the purchaser must investigate further, since a judgment filed against a person can become a lien against his or her property. If the judgment is against the seller, it must be satisfied at or before the transfer of title. If the judgment is not against the seller, the seller must prove that fact to the title company and the purchaser. This can be accomplished by giving an affidavit, swearing under the penalties of perjury, that the judgment is not against the seller.

[i] Title affidavit

There is available to lenders an endorsement for mortgagee title insurance which insures the lender against any loss arising from any state of facts an accurate survey would show. In order to grant this endorsement, the title company will require an affidavit from the seller which details, under the penalties of perjury, the length of time the seller has owned the property, whether he or she has made any improvements to the property, and whether he or she has had any disputes with the adjoining landowners. If the seller is unable or unwilling to give such an affidavit, the purchaser should obtain a survey immediately. In addition, the purchaser should contact the adjoining landowners to determine whether a dispute does exist. If a dispute does exist, it is the responsibility of the seller to settle the dispute before transfer of title.

[j] Settlement Statement

This document is sometimes prepared by each attorney for his or her client before the closing. Hopefully, the attorneys will compare figures and provide them to the lender before the closing. However, under the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act ("RESPA")ⁿ¹ in purchase and sale transactions involving federally related mortgage loansⁿ² the person conducting the real estate settlement or closing is required to complete and make available to the seller and purchaser before closing a Uniform Settlement Statement prescribed by the Secretary of HUD.ⁿ³ This standard Settlement Statement form is referred to as the HUD-1 Settlement Statement.

The settlement statement, sometimes called the closing statement, including the HUD-1 Settlement Statement, shows the purchase price less the deposit and all of the adjustments. These adjustments include fuel oil, water and sewer, taxes, rents and security deposits, and any contractual amendments.

The statement should also list all of the closing costs. For the seller, the closing costs usually include the broker's commission, legal fees, state and local transfer taxes, recording of the discharge of mortgage or certificate of existing mortgage, and title searching, if applicable. For the purchaser, the closing costs usually include recording of the deed, recording of the mortgage, title insurance, survey, mortgage tax, lender's attorney's fees, purchaser's legal fees, tax and insurance escrow, points, prepaid interest and miscellaneous fees of the lender. These costs vary from state to state, so the attorney should examine local laws and customs.

The purchaser's attorney is well advised to ask the lender which, if any, of the closing costs of each party are cut from the mortgage proceeds. If all closing costs are cut, the net mortgage proceeds will be several thousand dollars less than the gross. The contract of sale generally provides that all sums payable to the seller must be in certified or bank funds. If the purchaser is not aware of the deductions in advance, he or she will not have the appropriate certified funds at the closing.

[k] Holdback agreements

The lender may identify, in its commitment letter, repairs which it deems necessary to protect the value of its security. Often, due to weather or preference of the seller, these items cannot be repaired before the transfer of title. Similarly, with new construction, it may not be possible to complete certain items before closing due to weather or availability of supplies. The most frequent solution is a holdback agreement.

In negotiating the holdback agreement, the following issues need to be considered: (a) which items are incomplete, (b) the reasons for the items being incomplete, (c) the time needed to complete the items, (d) the standards of workmanship, and (e) the amount of money to be withheld.

Where the lender has provided a list of items in its commitment letter, there is little to negotiate as to what needs to be completed. In new construction, there may be a considerable disagreement. Before the transfer of title takes place, there is generally a "walk through" where the purchaser is required to make a list of items which need touching up. These may include "dings" in walls or woodwork, stains on carpets, missing grids on windows, and the like. These items are placed on a "punch list" which the contractor completes within a reasonable time after transfer. Some of these items may entail significant cost, such as broken tiles or chipped windows. The purchaser may not be willing to take the contractor's assurances that these will be repaired after the transfer of title. Items such as landscaping and paving cannot be done in cold weather. These are very costly items to perform.

A helpful basis for distinguishing between "punch list" items and "holdback" items is whether the purchaser, a lay person, could readily perform the items of work, using his or her own materials and equipment, if the contractor failed to do so. Money should be held back wherever the purchaser cannot.

The second item to be negotiated is when the work will be completed. This depends in part on why the items are not completed. If the weather is the problem, the parties should allow approximately forty-five days after the date by which the weather would normally permit the activity. This will allow sufficient time to complete even if spring is late. It will also give a builder who may have many such holdbacks time to finish without doing a rushed job.

If the item is incomplete because a particular piece of material or equipment is unavailable, an estimate of when it will be available should be obtained. The parties should add a few days to that as items seem never to arrive when expected. The parties should then determine the number of days needed to complete the work. Again, a few days should be added for the unexpected.

The standard of workmanship should always equal or exceed that of the remainder of the building. For items such as driveways and landscaping, the workmanship should meet industry standards. The parties may wish to appoint an independent party such as an appraiser or design professional to determine whether the job is complete and has been performed to industry standards.

The amount of money to be withheld is the most difficult item to negotiate. Banks have a "rule of thumb" for items which they require to be done. They usually require one and one-half times the estimate for the work. This provides them with a cushion if the bank should have to do the work or if there is an unexpected increase in price.

Contractors usually want as little as possible held back, while the purchaser wants enough held back to act as a strong incentive to the contractor to complete the work in a timely fashion. In addition, the purchaser will want enough held back so that if the contractor does not complete the job, the purchaser will have sufficient funds to hire someone to complete the job. The bank's standard will usually work here. However, the purchaser should remember that it will usually cost the contractor less to complete the job than an outside craftsman, since the contractor has the benefit of the economies of scale.

The agreement should specify who will hold the funds. If the holdback is at a bank's request, the bank will hold the funds. If the holdback is at the purchaser's request, the bank or the purchaser's attorney may hold the funds. However, if there is an escrow agent designated to close the transaction, the escrow agent should hold the funds.

The agreement should contain a dispute resolution procedure. Most disputes arise over the quality of workmanship. The use of an independent third party should resolve that.

The agreement must provide a remedy if the work is not timely completed. Where the bank is involved, the remedy is usually that the bank may complete the work using the held back funds or that the bank may apply the funds to the principal of the mortgage. Where the bank is not involved, the remedy is usually that the purchaser receives the funds to complete the work.

A problem often arises where part of the work has been completed. An issue arises as to how much the contractor is to be paid. If the items were individually priced, the contractor should be paid only for those items fully completed. If the items were not individually priced, the contractor should be paid only what is left over, if anything, after the substitute worker has been paid.

Escrow agreements are used when a lien or a possible lien exists and cannot be satisfied before the transfer of title. This situation may arise where an ancient mortgage appears in the chain of title or where the seller paid a lien but a satisfaction or release was not filed. It often takes a considerable period of time to locate the former mortgagor or lienor to obtain the satisfaction or release. In order to allow the transfer of title to take place, the title company may agree to hold in escrow an amount sufficient to pay the debt plus continuing interest until a satisfaction or release can be obtained.

The agreement will provide that the seller is responsible for obtaining the satisfaction or release within a specified time. If the seller fails to do so, the title company may attempt to obtain the release, and charge its costs to the escrowed funds.

When the problem is an ancient mortgage, the amount to be held is often difficult to determine. There is no easy way to determine whether payments were made. The title company will insist on a hold harmless provision from the seller in case the amount in escrow is not sufficient to pay the lien.

[m] IRS reporting requirements for real estate transactions (Form 1099-S)

Internal Revenue Code § 6045(e) requires that a form 1099-S be filed for each sale of real estate, unless the seller is exempt. Corporate sellers are exempt from the IRS reporting requirement. Generally, it is the responsibility of the person listed on the RESPA form as "settlement agent" to prepare and file the 1099-S. This will usually be the lender's attorney or the escrow agent handling the closing. If the transaction does not involve a lender, several other parties may be responsible for preparing and filing the 1099-S. These include the attorneys for the parties, the brokers for the parties, and the purchaser.

The following information is required for the form:

- (a) name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the seller;
- (b) description of the property sold by address or section, block and lot;
- (c) date of transfer of title;
- (d) gross proceeds of sale;
- (e) name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the reporting person;
- (f) indication that the seller has or may receive property other than cash or services as part of the consideration or that the gross proceeds cannot be determined with certainty.

The reporting person must file the 1099-S after December 31 of the year in which the transfer occurred and before February 28 of the following year. The filing may be done on paper if there are less than 250 filings by the reporting person. Otherwise, the filing must be on magnetic media. A copy of the filing must be given to the transferor. There is a penalty for each 1099-S which a reporting person failed to file.ⁿ⁴

[n] Tenanted buildings

Typically, additional items must be delivered by the seller before the closing of a tenanted building. These may include some or all of the following: (a) copies of leases; (b) an updated rent schedule and updated seller's representations; (c) a schedule of security deposits; (d) copies of any tenant records; (e) original letters to the tenants from the seller notifying them of the sale and directing them to make future payments to the purchaser; (f) tenant estoppel letters; (g) copies of service contracts; (h) original insurance policies to be apportioned; (i) an assignment, without recourse or warranty, of the seller's interests in all leases, security deposits, insurance policies and service contracts; (j) plans and specifications; and (k) approvals of leases by lenders.

[o] Existing mortgage

The seller's attorney may be required to obtain or prepare several documents relating to the seller's existing mortgage on the property if the purchaser is purchasing the property subject to the mortgage or is assuming the mortgage. The contract may require the seller to obtain the mortgagee's written consent to the sale and/or a mortgagee's certificate as to the status of the loan, including the amount of unpaid principal and interest, the rate of interest, and the date of maturity.

If the mortgagee is holding escrow amounts for the payment of real estate taxes and insurance premiums, the seller's attorney must obtain a statement of such escrow amounts and an assignment of such escrow deposits to the purchaser. The amounts prepaid for such taxes and insurance will be apportioned at the closing.

The seller's attorney should prepare and bring to the closing a letter, signed by the seller and addressed to the existing mortgagee, advising the mortgagee of the sale of the property and directing the mortgagee to address future correspondence to the purchaser.

[p] Purchase money note and mortgage

If a purchase money note and mortgage were not prepared for attachment to the contract, the purchaser's attorney or seller's attorney must prepare these documents, in proper form for recording, for delivery at the closing. Before they are executed and recorded, they must be received and approved by both attorneys and their clients. Where personal property, fixtures or equipment are included in the sale, financing statements also must be prepared. The seller taking back the purchase money mortgage may demand that the purchaser prepare and execute a collateral assignment of leases and rents or other security interests.

[q] Corporate resolution

If one of the parties is a corporation, it can only act by direction of its board of directors. The attorney for that party should obtain a resolution of the corporation's board of directors authorizing the sale, purchase or loan, as the case may be. The resolution should be certified by the corporation's secretary or assistant secretary.

[r] Bill of sale

If the transaction involves the sale of personal property as well as the sale of real property, the seller's attorney must prepare a bill of sale of such personal property.

[4] Reminders to client

A few days before the date scheduled for the transfer of title, the purchaser's attorney should remind his or her client of the items needed for the transfer.

[a] Casualty and liability insurance

The client must have arranged for casualty and liability insurance. If the property is in a flood zone, flood insurance also is required. Casualty and flood insurance is required in at least the amount of the mortgage; however, the purchaser would be well advised to obtain insurance in the amount of the replacement cost of the structures. Some lenders have requirements on the maximum deductible for a loss. In addition, some lenders do not allow policies of co-insurance. At closing, the purchaser must present an insurance binder and paid receipt as proof of insurance.

[b] Proof of sale of prior home

Lenders generally require proof of sale of the purchaser's prior residence, if the equity from that residence will be part of the equity for the new residence. The proof required is generally the RESPA or Uniform Settlement Statement, also known as a HUD-1 form.ⁿ¹ However, this form will only be available if an institutional lender was involved in that prior sale. A privately held mortgage or a cash sale will not result in a HUD-1 form. The purchaser should so advise the lender and inquire as to what other proof of sale is acceptable.

[c] Certified checks

The purchaser will need to obtain the required certified or bank checks for the balance of the purchase price. The purchaser should also bring a number of personal checks. Where the lender does not deduct closing costs from the mortgage, the purchaser may need as many as ten personal checks.

[d] Types of title insurance

This is also an appropriate time to discuss title insurance options with the purchaser. It is often too confusing to discuss these options for the first time at the closing. In addition, since fee title insurance may be an expense which was not disclosed to the purchaser by the lender, the purchaser may need time to consider the issue and set aside funds.

The options to be considered are fee title insurance and the market value rider to such insurance. Fee insurance protects the owner from defects in title. Common defects include liens which were overlooked or mis-indexed and claims of ownership by adjoining land owners. Fee insurance provides coverage to the extent of the purchase price.

The market value rider provides for an increase in the limits of coverage as the value of the property increases due to normal market activity.

The decision to spend a large sum of money to purchase property is often difficult, and purchasers rarely understand why it is valuable to them to spend even more money to purchase fee title insurance. The purchaser's attorney should explain that if a title problem arises, the cost of such insurance is likely to be less than the cost of the first visit to the lawyer's office to try to straighten out the problem.

[e] Other

The purchaser's attorney should remind the purchaser to make arrangements for the transfer of telephone, gas, electric and cable television service. In some areas, it also may be necessary to transfer refuse disposal, water and sewer service.

The seller should be reminded to transfer the various services. The seller will need to bring checks to pay for the transfer taxes and title search, if applicable, although the attorney can sometimes arrange to have these amounts paid by the purchaser and credited against the amount due from the purchaser.

The seller should be told not to cancel his or her casualty and liability insurance until after the transfer of title has been consummated.

Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part II. The Practice Background

§ 21.31 Conducting the closing

The closing should be a pleasant culmination of the transaction, provided that all parties have fully performed their responsibilities prior to the closing. If a lender is involved, an average residential real estate closing can be expected to take approximately one hour. If there is no mortgage, the transaction should consume no more than half an hour.

[1] Parties

The seller need not be present if the seller's attorney is there with an executed deed and any other required documents, such as state or local tax documents or a smoke alarm affidavit. It is helpful for the attorney to have a limited power of attorney, so that he or she may sign the RESPA statement and other documents of the lender. Alternatively, someone acting under a power of attorney may attend on behalf of the seller and execute all documents, including the deed, at the closing.

Either all of the purchasers or a person authorized to act for them under a power of attorney must be present. The power of attorney must be recorded prior to or with the closing documents. An affidavit that the power of attorney is still in effect and the principal is alive may be required.

Often the listing and selling real estate brokers attend the closing. Where a residential purchaser is new to the area, the selling broker may drive the purchaser to the closing. The brokers often have extra keys and information about the property to deliver to the purchaser. The brokers typically collect their commissions at the closing.

The lender will generally be represented by an attorney or paralegal. The lender's representative generally conducts the closing. A representative of the title company will also attend the closing.

In states where it is customary for an escrow agent to conduct the closing in escrow, none of the parties need to be present.

[2] Coordinating closings of loan and sale

The lender's representative may have a number of closings in a day, and may not stay for the entire closing. Since the lender's funds are necessary to complete the transfer of title, the lender's representative generally will request that the lender's documents be executed first. Then the deed can be delivered in exchange for the consideration.

If there is any dispute between the parties, the lender's representative will generally excuse himself or herself and return when the dispute has been resolved. Similarly, if the borrower's counsel intends to read the mortgage line by line, the lender's representative may leave the room. Many lenders use FNMA documents for their closings. If the borrower's attorney is not familiar with the documents used by the lender, the attorney should inquire in advance, and obtain a copy of the printed forms. Then, at the closing, the attorney need only review the typed portions. By reviewing the documents in advance, the attorney can also satisfy any questions he or she may have in advance.

[3] Role of title company

The title company representative has many functions. Prior to closing, a search should have been performed for use in preparing a title report which sets forth the description of the property, the source of title, and any liens, covenants, restrictions, easements, and other objections. Before closing, the seller's attorney should have arranged for the payment of all liens and the satisfaction of other objections.

At the closing, the title representative does the following: (a) reviews the deed and mortgage to be certain that the description matches the premises searched; (b) collects documentary evidence of satisfaction of objections, such as paid receipts for taxes and property owners association dues; (c) collects the funds to satisfy the existing liens; (d) takes the responsibility for insuring that satisfactions or releases are filed properly; (e) records the deed, mortgage and other related documents; and (f) notifies the purchaser of the right to purchase fee title insurance and the market value rider to the fee policy. After the closing, the title representative delivers the title insurance policy to the lender and, if applicable, to the purchaser.

In some areas, it is customary to tip title company representatives. Tipping is never required. The purchaser pays an insurance premium which covers the services of the title company.

[4] Role of bank attorney

The lender's attorney reviews the title in advance of the closing for the lender's benefit. He or she is responsible for the preparation of the note, mortgage, HUD #1 (RESPA), and the 1099-S, as well as any other documents required by the lender.

The lender's attorney collects the casualty insurance proof, fees and other items specified in the commitment at closing. He or she can answer specific questions about the lender's documents and practices, but should not provide any legal advice to the purchaser or the seller.

[5] Role of purchaser's attorney

The purchaser's attorney reviews the title work in advance of the closing for the benefit of the purchaser. The purchaser's interest will not always be the same as the lender's. Restrictions which may not bother the lender may pose a distinct problem or annoyance for the purchaser. For example, there may be restrictions on the storage of recreational vehicles on the premises. That will not bother the lender; however, if the purchaser has a thirty-foot recreational vehicle, he or she may be quite unhappy if it must be stored elsewhere.

The purchaser's attorney should review with the purchaser the distinction between mortgagee title insurance, which the purchaser must obtain, and optional fee title insurance. Purchaser's attorney must make the purchaser understand that mortgagee title insurance offers the purchaser no protection at all.

The purchaser's attorney is responsible for preparing a closing statement and the early occupancy agreement, if any.

The purchaser's attorney should review the lender's documents for accuracy. He or she should review with the purchaser the important features of the promissory note, including payment terms, adjusting interest rate mechanisms, grace periods, late fees, prepayment provisions, and default provisions. The attorney should also review the important features of the mortgage, including the escrow account, condemnation, insurance requirements, and foreclosure. In short, the purchaser's attorney should be certain that the purchaser thoroughly understands the obligations which he or she is incurring and the consequences of default.

[6] Role of seller's attorney

The seller's attorney's obligations are nearly complete before the closing. He or she must make arrangements for the satisfaction of all liens and title objections prior to closing. Additionally, he or she must prepare a closing statement, the deed, and a holdover agreement, if needed. In some states, the seller's attorney also must prepare state or local tax documents or a smoke alarm affidavit.

At closing, the seller's attorney's role is primarily to see that the seller's liens are satisfied and that the seller obtains the appropriate amount of money.

If there is no lender, the seller's attorney is responsible for preparing and filing the IRS's 1099-S form.

§ 21.32 After the closing

After the closing, the purchaser's attorney should diary his or her file to receive the recorded deed. Depending on the area, this may be for two weeks to six months. When the deed is received, it should be reviewed to make certain that it was properly recorded. The original should be transmitted to the client, and a copy retained by the attorney for future reference.

The file should also be diared to receive the fee title insurance policy. This should be reviewed to be certain that all objections were removed. The sole lien should be the purchase money mortgage, if any. The original policy should be transmitted to the client, with a copy retained by the attorney.

The seller's attorney should diary his or her file to receive the recorded satisfactions or releases. These should be reviewed for proper recording. The seller's attorney should also receive any recorded mortgage held by the seller.

The attorneys may be called upon to assist in terminating holdover occupancy by the seller. They also may be called upon to assist in the administration of any holdback agreements.

As a practical matter, the attorneys should keep their closing files easily accessible through April 15 of the year following the transfer of title. Many purchasers and sellers need copies of documents or have questions when they prepare their income tax returns. The seller's attorney can generally archive the file at this point. The purchaser's attorney may wish to retain the file. Many purchasers of residences sell or refinance their homes within three to five years after purchasing.

Part III. Drafting Guidelines

§ 21.42 Drafting Guidelines

The drafting of a Purchase and Sale Agreement for real estate is usually undertaken by the purchaser's attorney because it is the purchaser who usually has to protect itself to be sure its contingencies are satisfied and that it is obtaining good title to what it is purchasing. The one exception might be when the real estate is a residential property. Frequently, in residential deals the broker has a preprinted form of contract which is used assuming a broker is involved, or the local bar association or local realtors' board has adopted a contract for use in residential transactions. Nevertheless, even the standard forms should be reviewed by counsel for both parties.

In a commercial transaction, the purchaser may have the benefit of obtaining much of the information required to prepare the contract from a letter of intent signed by the parties. The purchaser's attorney may have prepared the letter of intent, but in many instances it may have been prepared by the broker. In any event, the purchaser's attorney must obtain the necessary background information in order to prepare the contract. That information can be obtained primarily from the client, but also from any broker or title company involved in the transaction. The purchaser's attorney should have legal descriptions and maps or surveys of the property to understand the transaction, and if possible should view the property itself. The attorney must find out what the intended use of the property will be, and should find out if the client has done any due diligence type investigations of the property. If not, all such due diligence work must be written into the contract as contingencies which must be met to the purchaser's satisfaction.

Seller's counsel will review the draft prepared by purchaser's counsel. The primary concern of seller's counsel, apart from verifying the factual terms of the contract, is that the seller will receive the full amount of the purchase price in a timely fashion on the closing date, and that if there are delays, the seller will be able to enforce the seller's rights. Seller's counsel must also review the warranties the client is asked to give to make sure they can be given without exposing the seller to undue liability. The allocation of the closing costs must be examined to make sure they are fair and customary for the type of transaction in the area where the property is located.

A sample of a purchase and sale agreement for a commercial transaction involving the sale of a shopping center follows. Comments are set forth opposite noteworthy provisions in the agreement.

PURCHASE AGREEMENT AND ESCROW INSTRUCTIONS

THIS AGREEMENT is made at _____ [city], Ohio, this _____ [day] day of _____ [month], _____ [year], between Seller Associates, LLC, an Ohio limited liability company, hereinafter called "Seller," and Roudabush Properties, Ltd., an Ohio limited liability company, hereinafter called "Buyer." (n1)COMMENT

WITNESSETH:

In consideration of the mutual promises and covenants hereinafter set forth, the parties mutually agree as follows:

1. Description of Property. The Seller agrees to sell and convey to the Buyer, and the Buyer agrees to purchase and pay for, the premises known as the James Square Shopping Center located in the City of _____ [city], _____ [county] County, Ohio, which premises are outlined in red on the drawing marked Exhibit A, attached hereto and made a part hereof. The premises shall include the land and any and all buildings, fixtures, improvements, rights, privileges, and easements appurtenant thereto, and the personal property listed on Exhibit B, attached hereto and made a part hereof, all of which shall hereinafter be referred to as the "Property." (n2)COMMENT

It is understood that the Property excludes certain adjoining land consisting of approximately five (5) acres, which is zoned for residential purposes. Seller agrees at its expense to take all necessary steps required to subdivide such residential land from the larger parcel of which it is a part, including without limitation, the preparation of the lot split plat in form required for such approval of the subdivision. In addition, Seller shall have prepared a legal description of the portion of such parcel which is zoned commercial and is included as part of the Property. Copies of such lot split plat and legal description shall be submitted to Buyer and its counsel for approval prior to the submission of same to the local governmental authorities required to approve such lot split. (n3)COMMENT

2. Purchase Price. The total purchase price for the Property is Three Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($3,500,000), payable by Buyer as follows: (n4)COMMENT

A. Twenty Five Thousand Dollars ($25,000) in cash or by check upon the completion of Buyer's due diligence as hereafter described in Paragraph 4.A. below, delivered to Seller, which sum shall be deposited into escrow with the escrow agent hereinafter designated.

B. The balance of the purchase price, namely Three Million Four Hundred Seventy Five Thousand Dollars ($3,475,000), in cash (or certified or official bank check), or partly in cash (or certified or official bank check) and partly by immediately available funds from an irrevocable commitment for mortgage financing issued by a reputable lending institution committing said institution to loan Buyer a portion of the purchase price, all of which shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date of this transaction. (n5)COMMENT

3. Closing Date. The closing date of this transaction shall be on or before ninety (90) days from the date of execution of this Agreement. However, if necessary, Buyer shall be permitted to extend the closing date for thirty (30) days by written notice to Seller. (n6)COMMENT

4. A. Contingencies. This Agreement is expressly conditioned upon the following contingencies being met to Buyer's satisfaction:

(i) review and approval of a Phase I environmental audit to determine that no environmental hazards exist in, on or about the Property, and a wetlands delineation to determine if there are any wetlands on the Property. Seller will provide copies to Buyer of all previous environmental audits performed on the Property, if any; (n7)COMMENT

(ii) inspection and approval of the physical condition of the improvements located on the Property;

(iii) review and approval of leases, tenancies and rental agreements affecting the Property, copies of which shall be delivered to Buyer by Seller upon the execution of this Agreement, and approval of the operating statements for the Property provided by Seller to Buyer for the two years preceding the year of this Agreement. (n8)COMMENT

Buyer shall use commercially reasonable efforts to satisfy the above conditions within forty-five (45) days of the date of execution of this Agreement. Buyer, its agents and employees, shall have the right of access to the Property to perform all such tests, investigations and reports as Buyer shall determine to do, at Buyer's cost and expense. Buyer agrees to and does hereby indemnify, defend and hold harmless Seller from any damages to persons or property resulting from such inspections. In the event the aforesaid contingencies are not satisfied within the aforesaid 45-day period, Buyer shall have the right, at its option, to terminate this Agreement by written notice to Seller in which event all funds and documents shall be returned to the respective parties without further liability hereunder to either party. (n9)COMMENT

B. Financing Contingency. This Agreement is further conditioned upon Buyer obtaining a commitment within thirty (30) days from the date of execution of this Agreement, from a reputable lending institution of a mortgage loan of at least Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000), payable in equal constant monthly payments over a period of fifteen (15) years or longer, with interest at seven and one-half percent (7 1/2 %) per annum or less and a loan fee of one percent (1%) or less. Buyer shall endeavor in good faith to obtain a mortgage loan on said terms or more favorable terms, but if Buyer shall be unable to obtain such a commitment by the aforesaid date, this Agreement shall be null and void and all funds and documents shall be returned to the respective parties hereto, and neither party shall have any rights against the other. (n10)COMMENT

C. Warranties. Seller hereby warrants, which warranties shall be effective as of the closing date and shall survive the transfer of title to Buyer or Buyer's nominee, as follows:

(i) that all improvements now on the Property are entirely within the boundary lines of the land described on Exhibit A, attached hereto, and no other adjoining property encroaches upon said land;

(ii) that all work and labor performed and all materials furnished with respect to any improvements or repairs to the Property have been paid in full, and there will be no mechanic's liens or the possibility thereof in connection with any such work, labor and materials performed on or furnished to the Property; (n11)COMMENT

(iii) that there are no outstanding notices or orders from any governmental authority with respect to the condition of the Property or repair of the same, or with respect to any claim of a violation of any laws, ordinances, zoning codes, building codes or orders applicable thereto;

(iv) that to Seller's knowledge the improvements on the Property are structurally sound and in good condition and repair, including, without limitation of the foregoing, the roof, foundation, walls, heating and cooling system, plumbing, water and electrical systems;

(v) that all improvements made by the local governmental authority that now benefit or will benefit the Property upon completion have been assessed against the Property as of the execution date of this Agreement;

(vi) that there are no actions, suits or proceedings against the Seller with respect to the Property, and that there are no investigations pending or actions, suits or proceedings at law or in equity or investigations threatened against Seller that would adversely affect this transaction or the Property being sold hereunder;

(vii) that there are no employment contracts, service contracts, or similar contracts and agreements relating to the management, ownership or operation of the Property except as set forth on Exhibit C attached hereto and made a part hereof; (n12)COMMENT

(viii) that Seller will assign to Buyer on or before the closing date by delivering into escrow any and all guaranties or warranties with respect to the condition of the Property, including all improvements and fixtures being conveyed hereunder that remain in effect and are assignable; (n13)COMMENT

(ix) that all leases, tenancies, and rental agreements affecting the Property, and any amendments thereto, hereafter referred to collectively as the "Leases", have been delivered to Buyer and are identified on Exhibit D, attached hereto and made a part hereof, that the information describing the Leases as set forth on Exhibit D is accurate and complete, that no tenants are entitled to any rebate, concession or other benefit except as set forth therein, and there shall be no cancellations, amendments or modifications to the aforesaid Leases or new leases or agreements entered into prior to the closing date, without the written consent of Buyer; Seller further warrants that Seller has not and will not collect from any tenant more than one month's rental in advance; (n14)COMMENT

(x) that all Leases affecting the Property are now in full force and effect and the tenants are not in default under said Leases, and that Seller has neither committed nor suffered any act or omission which would constitute a default on Seller's part under the Leases, nor would entitle the tenants to damages, a right of setoff, or a right to terminate the Leases; furthermore, Seller has not received any notice nor is Seller aware of any intention on the part of any tenant to assert any claim of default, any claim for damages, any right of setoff, any right to terminate, or any intention of the tenant to vacate the tenant's premises; (n15)COMMENT

(xi) that all financial statements, rent rolls, and other documents and information given Buyer accurately reflect the operation of the Seller's Property and Seller has not withheld any material information from Buyer relating to the operation of the Seller's Property; (n16)COMMENT

(xii) that all documents delivered or required hereunder to be delivered to Buyer and all warranties herein made by

Seller are accurate and complete and there has been no material change in any of the facts, circumstances or subjectmatter of this transaction of which Buyer has not been informed; and (xiii) that the sale and transfer of the Property aforesaid is or shall be prior to the closing date duly authorized in accordance with law, and within the scope of authority of the party or parties conveying the Property, and evidence of such authority shall be presented to Buyer prior to the closing of this transaction.

5. A. Deed. Seller shall convey marketable title to the Property to Buyer or Buyer's nominee by good and sufficient general warranty deed, warranting title to be free and clear of all liens, charges and encumbrances, clouds and defects whatsoever, except such restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements and conditions of record which are approved by Buyer as hereinafter provided, leases to occupying tenants which have been approved by Buyer as provided above, zoning ordinances and taxes and assessments, both general and special, which are a lien but not yet due and payable. Said deed shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date. Prior to the deposit of said deed into escrow, a copy of said deed shall be submitted to Buyer's counsel for approval. (n17)COMMENT

Seller shall convey marketable title to the personal property being conveyed hereunder by a bill of sale in form approved by counsel for Buyer, warranting title to be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances whatsoever. Said bill of sale shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date. Prior to the deposit of said bill of sale into escrow, a copy of said bill of sale shall be submitted to Buyer's counsel for approval.

B. Title Insurance. Seller shall accompany Seller's deed with an Owner's Fee Policy of title Insurance (hereafter referred to as "title insurance") issued by Sloan Title Agency, Inc. as agents for First American Title Insurance Company (hereinafter called "title company"), in its customary form, in the amount of the purchase price, insuring marketable title to be good in Buyer, subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed. (n18)COMMENT

C. Title Report. A preliminary title report, with a special tax search included, in the form of a commitment to issue the required title policy requested by Buyer ("title report") shall be ordered from the title company by Seller immediately upon the execution of this Agreement, a copy of which shall be delivered to Buyer. Within ten (10) days from the receipt of said title report by Buyer, Buyer shall notify Seller and the title company of any restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements and conditions of record (together herein called "title defects") disclosed in said title report which are objectionable to Buyer. In the event Buyer so notifies Seller of any such title defects, Seller shall have until the closing date to cure or remove said title defects. Seller shall be obligated to remove all such title defects objected to by Buyer that may be removed by the payment of money, and Seller shall take whatever reasonable steps may be necessary to remove any other title defects. (n19)COMMENT

On the closing date, the escrow agent shall notify Seller and Buyer as to whether the title company is then in a position to issue the title insurance showing as exceptions only those items in the title report to which the Buyer did not object. If the escrow agent shall notify the parties that (a) the title company will issue such title insurance, this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, or (b) the title company will not issue such title insurance, and if the Seller does not forthwith cure the title defects that the escrow agent shall recite as preventing such issuance showing as exceptions only those items in the title report to which the Buyer did not object, or within such period of time as Buyer in Buyer's sole discretion shall permit, or Buyer does not forthwith waive the same, then this Agreement shall be automatically void and of no further force and effect, the escrow agent shall return to the parties the respective funds and documents deposited into escrow by them, and the parties shall be fully released from any liability or obligation hereunder. If Buyer shall waive the title defects preventing such issuance by so notifying the title company and the escrow agent, or if the Seller shall have cured the same as permitted above, the obligations of the parties hereunder shall not be affected by reason thereof, there shall be no abatement or reduction of the purchase price, and this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, except that such title defects that are waived by Buyer, if any, shall be set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title insurance. (n20)COMMENT

6. Assignment of Leases. The Seller agrees to assign to Buyer or Buyer's nominee, on or before the closing date, each and every Lease affecting the Property, by means of a blanket assignment specifically identifying all such Leases, in form approved by counsel for Buyer. Said blanket assignment shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date. Prior to the deposit of said blanket assignment into escrow, a copy of the same shall be submitted to Buyer's counsel for approval. Executed counterparts of all Leases affecting the Property shall also be delivered to Buyer or Buyer's counsel on or before the closing date, along with a current rent roll and list of security deposits or other tenant deposits, if any, certified by Seller as to its accuracy and completeness. A copy of same shall be delivered to the escrow agent. (n21)COMMENT

Buyer, at Buyer's option, shall have the right to request that Seller obtain prior to the closing, estoppel certificates from all tenants occupying space pursuant to the Leases. Such estoppel certificates shall be in such form as is reasonably approved by Buyer and its counsel. If all of such certificates from tenants leasing at least 10,000 square feet of space are not timely obtained, Buyer at its option, shall have the right to terminate this Agreement or to delay the closing until such certificates are obtained. (n22)COMMENT

7. Damage. Should the building or any other improvements on said Property be damaged or destroyed prior to transfer of record title (a) to the extent of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) or less, then this Agreement shall continue in full force and effect and Seller shall forthwith assign to Buyer all rights of Seller to the insurance proceeds due by reason of said damage, or (b) to the extent of an amount greater than Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000), then the Buyer may, at Buyer's option, (i) elect to continue this Agreement in full force and effect, in which case the Seller shall forthwith assign to Buyer all rights of Seller to the insurance recovery due by reason of said damage, or (ii) elect to rescind and void this Agreement, and thereupon there shall be returned to Buyer all money, papers or documents deposited by Buyer, and there shall be returned to Seller all papers or documents deposited by Seller. After transfer of record title to the Property to Buyer, the risk of loss shall be and is assumed by the Buyer. There shall be no proration of insurance. Seller shall retain Seller's insurance until transfer of record title to Buyer, and it shall be the obligation of Buyer to procure Buyer's own policies of insurance to be effective from and after the date title to the Property is transferred to the Buyer or Buyer's nominee. (n23)COMMENT

8. Possession. Seller shall maintain the Property in good repair and continue to operate it in a first-class manner through the closing date. Seller shall deliver possession of the Property as of the closing date, subject to the rights of tenants in possession, in the condition as warranted by Seller and in no event in any worse condition than the condition as of the date of execution of this Agreement, less reasonable wear and tear. (n24)COMMENT

9. Prorations. All prepaid rentals shall be prorated by the escrow agent as of the closing date, and Buyer shall receive credit for security deposits on said leases, if any, through the escrow. All maintenance and operating expenses applicable to the Property, to the extent they are not currently being paid by existing tenants, shall be prorated by the parties outside of escrow. All utility charges applicable to the Property, to the extent they are not being paid by existing tenants, shall be paid by Seller up to the date of closing based on final bills for the same obtained by Seller, after which such charges shall accrue to Buyer.

The sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500) shall be held in escrow as security for the payment of said utilities until Seller deposits into escrow receipts evidencing the payment of said utilities. (n25)COMMENT

10. Real Estate Taxes. All real estate taxes and assessments, both general and special, shall be prorated by the escrow agent as of the date the deed is filed for record, using for such purpose the rate and valuation shown on the last available tax duplicate. If the aforesaid proration shall not fully reimburse Buyer for all real estate taxes and assessments accrued and unpaid with respect to the Property as of the record date of transfer of title, Seller shall promptly reimburse Buyer that amount accrued in excess of the proration credit upon the official certification of the real estate tax duplicate for the year in which transfer of title occurs. (n26)COMMENT

11. Brokers. The Seller and the Buyer represent to each other, which representation shall survive the closing of this transaction, that no real estate broker was involved in this transaction and that no brokerage fees or other compensation is due any real estate broker or any other person because of this transaction, except for Sadd Realty, Ltd., whose commission shall be the sole responsibility of Seller and shall be paid by the escrow agent from the funds deposited into escrow and charged to Seller, if and when the transaction contemplated by this Agreement is consummated. (n27)COMMENT

12. Escrow. This transaction shall be placed in escrow with Sloan Realty Title Agency, Inc. ("escrow agent"). An executed counterpart of this Agreement shall be deposited with the escrow agent by the Buyer, and this Agreement shall serve as the escrow instructions. The escrow agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance thereto; provided, however, that in the event said standard conditions are inconsistent or in conflict with the terms of this Agreement, then this Agreement shall control. (n28)COMMENT

13. Duties of Escrow Agent. On the closing date, the escrow agent shall file for record the deed and any other instruments required to be recorded and shall thereupon deliver to each of the parties the funds and documents to which they shall be respectively entitled, together with its escrow statement, provided that the escrow agent shall then have on hand all funds and documents necessary to complete the within transaction and provided the title company has stated in writing that it shall be in a position to and will issue and deliver, upon the filing of the deed for record, the title insurance required hereunder. (n29)COMMENT

In closing this transaction, the escrow agent shall charge the Seller with the following:

- (a) the full amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated up to and including the date of transfer of title;
- (b) the cost of any transfer tax;
- (c) the cost of a title report, title search, and title insurance policy in the amount of the purchase price;
- (d) the cost of paying off and satisfying any mortgage indebtedness for which Seller is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee or other costs incident to the satisfaction of any such indebtedness; (n30)COMMENT
- (e) the cost of the brokerage commission required to be paid hereunder;
- (f) one-half (1/2) of the escrow fee; and
- (g) all other charges properly borne by Seller consistent with the terms of this Agreement;

and immediately thereafter shall deliver to the Seller the balance of the funds in its hands due under the terms hereof, and any documents due the Seller.

On closing, said escrow agent shall charge the Buyer with the following:

- (a) any cost of financing this transaction which may be arranged for by the Buyer;
- (b) the cost of filing the deed for record;
- (c) one-half (1/2) of the escrow fee; and
- (d) all other charges properly borne by Buyer consistent with the terms of this Agreement; and immediately thereafter, said escrow agent shall deliver to Buyer said title insurance, the recorded deed or Recorder's receipt therefor, any prorations to which Buyer is entitled, and any other funds or documents due the Buyer.

14. Notices. Any notice which may be or is required to be given pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement shall be deemed to be sufficiently given if personally delivered or sent by certified or registered mail, postage prepaid, return receipt requested, and addressed as follows:

15. Like-Kind Exchanges. Buyer acknowledges that Seller may wish to structure Seller's disposition of the Property in a manner intended by Seller to constitute an exchange of land for property of a like-kind (hereinafter the "replacement property") that is described in Section 1031 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (an "Exchange"). Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, Seller shall have the right to assign Seller's interest in this transaction without Buyer's consent, to such person or entity as Seller may designate to serve as a Qualified Intermediary (within the meaning of Treasury Regulation § 1.1031(k)-1(g)(iv)) for the sole purpose of enabling Seller to effect an Exchange; provide, however, that notwithstanding any such assignment, Seller shall not be released from any of Seller's liabilities, obligations or covenants under this Agreement. (n32)COMMENT

Buyer shall cooperate in all reasonable respects with Seller to effect any Exchange; provided, however, that (i) Seller's ability to consummate an Exchange shall not be a condition to the obligations of Seller under this Agreement, and Buyer shall not be responsible for any of the tax consequences to Seller with respect to the transaction contemplated hereunder, and (ii) Buyer shall not be required to incur any additional costs or expenses as a result of any Exchange.

16. Miscellaneous. This Agreement represents the entire agreement between the parties and shall not be modified except by a written amendment executed by both of the parties hereto. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of Seller and Buyer and their respective successors and assigns. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the state where the Property is located.

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)COMMENT(n1) The first paragraph should identify the parties and if entities, the type of entity. If the Seller is an individual, the Seller's marital status can be important to know in states which still have dower as an interest of a spouse in real property owned by the other spouse. If so, the spouse of the Seller should also be required to sign the contract. It is important to confirm how title to the real estate is held so that the titleholder is properly identified as the "Seller" on the contract.

(n2)COMMENT(n2) An adequate description of what is to be sold is critical to have an enforceable contract. A legal description is the best method. In this contract, a drawing is used because there is no separate legal description of the real estate because it is part of a larger parcel and not yet separately described. If personal property is included, it should be separately identified on an Exhibit to the contract.

(n3)COMMENT(n3) This paragraph is used to identify the excluded portion of the real property being sold. In order to split this excluded portion from the sale, it will be necessary to hire a surveyor to prepare a lot split plat in the form required by the local governmental authority for submission to such authority to obtain the approval necessary to split or subdivide the parcel. The Seller has agreed to undertake such expense so that the Seller can sell the remainder of the parcel. It may take several weeks to obtain the approval, and then the plat will be recorded to legally create the separate parcels. If there are any easements required to make each parcel self-sustaining, the easements should also be described in the contract. If the easements are appurtenant to the parcel to be sold, the contract should recite that the easement as identified is to be conveyed along with the parcel. The easement should be insured as part of the property covered in the title policy to be issued.

(n4)COMMENT(n4) The purchase price must be identified, to be followed by how it is to be paid and what time it must be paid.

(n5)COMMENT(n5) This paragraph states how the balance of the purchase price is to be paid, and when it is required to be paid. In this transaction, the Buyer is borrowing a portion of the purchase price from a lending institution which will secure its loan by a mortgage against the property being sold.

(n6)COMMENT(n6) The closing date must be adequately described for the contract to be enforceable and so that the parties know how much time they have to do what is necessary to prepare for the closing. Because this transaction is to be closed through an escrow agent, it is not necessary to state the place where the parties must meet to close the transaction. If it is closed by means of an escrow, all funds and documents are deposited with the escrow agent with instructions from both sides relating to the closing of the transaction. The parties and their counsel may or may not decide to attend the closing.

(n7)COMMENT(n7) Usually, it is the Buyer who will have the contingencies because the Buyer will have to perform the usual due diligence work to verify the condition of the Property, and to make sure the Property can be used by the Buyer for the Buyer's intended purpose. The environmental and physical condition of the Property must be satisfactory to the Buyer and the Buyer's lender.

(n8)COMMENT(n8) If the Property is an income producing property being purchased for investment purposes, all leases will have to be reviewed to ascertain the amount of the income stream and how long it will last. The rights granted to the tenants must be ascertained as well. For example, if a tenant was given an option to purchase the Property, the Buyer must make sure that right has been waived by the tenant.

(n9)COMMENT(n9) The Buyer will expect a certain date by which the contingencies must be satisfied so that the Seller knows the Seller has a firm contract and can plan accordingly. This paragraph clarifies that the inspections are to be done at the Buyer's expense and the indemnity protects the Seller from liability resulting from the inspections.

(n10)COMMENT(n10) In many real estate transactions because of the size of the transaction, financing will be required. By this contingency, the Buyer can protect itself both from the possibility of not qualifying for the financing, and from not being able to obtain financing on terms that will make the deal economically feasible. The Seller will want to know some detail about the financing that the Buyer needs, and also will want a certain deadline for satisfying the contingency.

(n11)COMMENT(n11) The Buyer's counsel will usually ask for some warranties from the Seller because the Seller has owned the Property and should know more about it than the Buyer. The Seller's attorney will try to limit the warranties or modify them so that the Seller is not unnecessarily exposed to claims for breach of warranties. If the warranties are approved by the Seller, the Seller's counsel may want to impose a dollar limit on them and a limit on how long the warranties will survive the closing. The Seller's attorney will take the position that the Buyer can inspect the Property for itself and if not satisfied, terminate the deal or negotiate with the Seller for a lower price, or for an agreement by the Seller to take care of the Buyer's objections. These warranties are typical examples of Seller warranties. The first one is suitable if the Buyer is not having a survey prepared to verify whether any encroachments exist, otherwise a survey will answer that question. Most attorneys for the Buyer will recommend that the Buyer obtain a survey to show the boundaries of the real estate and location of all improvements on the parcel, encroachments from adjoining land, and location of easements or other encumbrances affecting the land. The Buyer's lender also may insist on a survey, and that it be certified to the Buyer, the lender, and the title company.

(n12)COMMENT(n12) This warranty is important for an income producing property. The Buyer should review all such contracts prior to closing.

(n13)COMMENT(n13) If the Property is relatively new, there may still be warranties in effect for such things as the roof and heating and air conditioning systems. If the warranties are assignable, they should be assigned to the Buyer.

(n14)COMMENT(n14) This warranty is to insure full disclosure by the Seller of all leases affecting the Property. The Buyer must know the terms of all leases because these leases and the rents they produce are what makes the property valuable and worth the price being paid.

(n15)COMMENT(n15) The Buyer must make sure the Buyer is not purchasing a property having any significant tenant claims. The other way to ascertain this is by obtaining estoppel certificates from the tenants which the Buyer has the right to request as set forth below in this contract.

(n16)COMMENT(n16) This representation will provide a cause of action against the Seller if financial misrepresentations are made by the Seller.

(n17)COMMENT(n17) If the Seller is a limited liability company, care must be taken that the transaction is properly authorized by the members of the limited liability company, or by the principals in another type of entity if other than a limited liability company. The title company insuring the title to the Property must also make sure the conveyance is properly authorized because it is insuring such fact as part of the policy it is issuing.

The type of deed to be used should be spelled out. The general warranty deed is the best the Buyer can get because it contains the broadest warranty. Sometimes it may not be possible to obtain such a deed, but rather only a limited warranty deed, fiduciary deed or quitclaim deed may be given by the Seller. If an easement is to be conveyed as part of the sale of the parcel being conveyed, a description of the easement should be included in the deed.

(n18)COMMENT(n18) As a matter of good practice, the Buyer should protect itself from title claims by obtaining title insurance in the amount of the purchase price, from a reputable title company. If there is a claim, the title insurance company will defend the claim. It is easier to rely on title insurance than to try to sue the Seller on a warranty in the deed, if one was obtained as part of the deed.

(n19)COMMENT(n19) In advance of closing, the Buyer and its counsel must find out through review of a current title report what title matters the property is subject to. This clause gives the Buyer that right. The matters that the Buyer may object to depend on the Buyer's intended use of the Property. For example, there may be a restriction against the use of the Property for a purpose for which the Buyer intended to use it. If the items objected to cannot be removed, then the Buyer has the right to terminate the transaction.

(n20)COMMENT(n20) This paragraph spells out the duties of the escrow agent as they relate to ascertaining whether the title company can insure the title as required by the terms of the contract. The contract requires a title policy to be issued insuring marketable title to the Buyer upon filing the deed, subject only to those title matters approved by the Buyer as described in the contract.

(n21)COMMENT(n21) This assignment of leases is a document which, if used, will usually be recorded at the closing. It formally identifies the tenants having leases and identifies the Buyer as the new owner, and as the landlord of such tenants.

(n22)COMMENT(n22) It is good practice to require the Seller to obtain estoppel certificates from each tenant, or at least from all the major tenants (in this transaction, those leasing at least 10,000 square feet). In this way the Buyer will know before closing that the terms of the leases are accurate and that the tenants have no claims against the Seller, or if they do, the nature of the claim.

(n23)COMMENT(n23) The damage clause spells out what happens in the event of damage to the property prior to transfer of title to the Buyer. In this clause, if the damage is significant (greater than $50,000) the Buyer has the right to terminate the transaction. If not, the Buyer closes and takes an assignment of the insurance proceeds. That may be satisfactory unless the Seller has a large deductible. If so, the Buyer may want to negotiate as part of the contract that any deductibles will reduce the purchase price by the amount of the deductible.

(n24)COMMENT(n24) This clause spells out when possession is to be given, and in what condition the Property must be delivered. The Seller will want to change this clause so that it is clear that the Seller is conveying the Property without any warranties as to the condition, repair or use of the Property. In other words, that the Property is being sold in "as is" condition, except as expressly warranted in the contract, if at all.

(n25)COMMENT(n25) This clause spells out how the escrow agent is to prorate rents and other economic items affecting the Property. In addition, if there are security deposits, they must be credited to the Buyer. This clause can go into much more detail depending on the transaction and intent of the parties. Prior to closing, both the Seller and Buyer and their counsel should ask to see preliminary closing statements showing these computations to verify their accuracy.

(n26)COMMENT(n26) Real estate taxes are a lien against the Property and must also be prorated by the escrow agent as of the closing date, using the latest taxes available to do the prorations. In this locale, the real estate taxes are accrued and then paid by the owner in arrears. Therefore, the Buyer will receive a credit at closing for taxes accrued but not paid up to and through the closing date. When the actual bill is sent out, the Buyer will pay the entire bill, having received credit for the portion relating to the time the Seller owned the Property. If the actual bill is different than the latest available bill used to do the proration at the closing, the parties can later adjust the proration accordingly.

(n27)COMMENT(n27) This clause should disclose if there is a broker, and who has the obligation to pay the broker. If there is a commission, and it is to be paid at closing, the broker and the party paying the commission must notify the escrow agent of the amount of the commission agreed upon.

(n28)COMMENT(n28) Many real estate transactions are closed by means of an escrow agent. In this contract, the title company has a separate escrow department that insists on handling the escrow because it generates another fee for the lender.

(n29)COMMENT(n29) This clause spells out the duties of the escrow agent on the closing date. These duties are frequently expanded upon and clarified by supplemental letters from counsel for the Seller and counsel for the Buyer.

(n30)COMMENT(n30) This portion of the contract allocates the closing costs between Seller and Buyer. These costs vary from state to state and locale to locale. There probably is a custom in any area for such allocations, but the allocation of the costs can be negotiated in any event. Counsel should be familiar with the custom in the area so that counsel can be sure the allocation is fair.

(n31)COMMENT(n31) The contract should spell out how notices may be given and to whom. Counsel should request copies of any notices sent to their clients.

(n32)COMMENT(n32) If the Seller intends to do a like-kind exchange under Section 1031 of the Internal Revenue Code in order to defer the Seller's tax on the gain, the Seller should include a clause such as this one. Frequently, if an exchange is done, the Seller will elect to use a qualified intermediary as defined in the Regulations to facilitate the exchange. Use of a qualified intermediary is one of the safe harbors that can be used by the Seller to better insure that the transaction will be treated as complying with the requirements of Section 1031 for a like-kind exchange.

(n33)COMMENT(n33) These clauses are examples of additional clauses that may be used for this type of contract, but are not exhaustive.

Part IV. Forms
A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.01

FORM 21.01 Option to purchase--simple form--contract of sale to be attached

COMMENT

An option is a contract which gives its holder, the optionee, the exclusive right for a specified period of time to purchase property at the price and under the terms and conditions set forth in the option agreement. While the optionor, the proposed seller, is bound by the option and, in normal circumstances, cannot revoke the option, the optionee is not bound unless it exercises the option. See The Tax Background (TB) § 21.03[1], at the beginning of this chapter.

Options are most commonly used in land sales or sales of commercial property. They are useful in transactions where the purchaser needs a long period of time to resolve some aspect of the sale. This may include situations where the purchaser must arrange for complicated financing or for the purchase of adjacent property from other owners. Options also can be useful where the purchaser must obtain a zoning change or other local permit, verify the physical condition or suitability of the property, or where the purchaser must negotiate with prospective tenants.

Contents of option agreement

The following points are generally covered in an option agreement:

- (1) A description of the property under option;
- (2) The option price, i.e., the consideration for which the option is granted;
- (3) The price at which the optioned property may be purchased;

- (4) The expiration date of the option;
- (5) The manner in which notice of exercise of the option is to be given;
- (6) The consequence of failure to exercise the option (usually forfeiture of the consideration for the option); and
- (7) Assignability of the option.

Other provisions may be included, such as extension of the option period for additional consideration; credit of the option price against the purchase price; and special conditions of sale or payment, such as price adjustments, escrow, promissory notes, mortgage, etc.

Tax consequences to optionee

Gain or loss upon a sale or exchange of an option to purchase a capital asset is entitled to capital gain treatment, as would a loss upon a failure to exercise the option. The nature of the loss determines whether it is deductible. For example, a loss on the sale of an option to purchase a personal residence would not be deductible. If the loss is attributable to a failure to exercise the option, the option is deemed to have been sold or exchanged on the date it expired. If the optionee is a dealer in options or would have been considered a dealer with respect to the optioned property had the option been exercised, any gain or loss realized from the sale or exchange would be considered as ordinary income or loss. See TB § 21.03[3].

If the option is exercised, the consideration for the option is considered as part of the purchase price, and is included in the optionee's basis for the property purchased. The purchaser's holding period for the property does not include the period during which the option was outstanding. See TB § 21.03[2].

Tax consequences to optionor

The optionor's receipt of consideration is treated as a nontaxable transaction until the option is either exercised or lapsed. Gain or loss is not realized upon the exercise of the option but when the sale itself takes place. To the extent that the consideration for the option is credited against the selling price, it must be included in computing gain or loss on the sale of the property. To the extent it is not applicable to the purchase price, the consideration would be ordinary income to the optionor in the year of receipt. The seller's holding period for the property sold includes the period during which the option was outstanding. Upon the failure of the optionee to exercise the option, if the consideration is forfeited, the optionor realizes ordinary income. See TB § 21.03[2], [4].

Tax consequences of options to lease real estate

The above rules regarding gain or loss in the treatment of options apply to an option to buy or sell a lease but do not apply to an option to lease or sublease property. If the option is to buy or sell a lease, the character the lease itself would have in the hands of the taxpayer, rather than the character of the property leased, determines the character of the gain or loss. See TB § 21.03[3].

Advantages of options

Since gain is not realized until the sale of the optioned property takes place, an option may provide the seller with the advantage of receiving a portion of the sales price (the option price, i.e., the consideration for the option) prior to the tax year for which a tax on any gain must be paid. On the other hand, the purchaser, by obtaining an option, prevents a sale to another party and buys time to study the advisability of consummating the sale before committing himself.

Option form

This form is a simple option agreement with many applications. It can be used in a wide range of transactions since the contract of sale must be attached. This option contains the seven points generally covered in an option agreement. It provides that the consideration for the option be credited against the selling price. It provides for the optionee's right of access to the property during the option term to determine its suitability. Revisions of the terms of the sale can be made during the option period, with the consent of both parties, by changing and initialing the contract of sale without the necessity of reexecution or revision of the option agreement itself. The agreement allows for a short form version of the option to be recorded. It is important that the optionee's rights be protected by recording the option agreement itself or a short form version of it if allowed by the state recording statute. In the alternative, if the parties do not wish to disclose the purchase price of the property, the purchase price can be omitted from the option agreement and be set forth only in the purchase agreement attached as an exhibit to the option agreement. The parties can then agree that the option agreement be recorded without the attached purchase agreement.

FORM

OPTION, granted July 10, _____[year], by Sam Howard, residing at 18 Oakdale Terrace, Mount Vernon, New York ("Optionor"), to James T. Sherman, residing at 11 East 28th Street, New York, New York ("Optionee").

1. Grant of option. In consideration of the sum of $9,000 paid by Optionee to Optionor, receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, Optionor grants to Optionee the exclusive option to purchase the premises known as [insert short description], more particularly described in the annexed form of agreement initialed by the parties.
2. Expiration date. This option shall expire at 10 a.m. on _____[date].
3. Notice of exercise. Optionee may exercise this option only by giving written notice thereof to Optionor at his above address, by registered or certified mail, prior to the expiration date.
4. Purchase price. The total purchase price for the property shall be the sum of $100,000, which Optionee shall pay to Optionor as provided in the annexed form of agreement. The foregoing sum of $9,000 paid for this option shall be credited on account of the cash payment to be made on the closing of title, as provided in the annexed form of agreement.
5. Failure to exercise option. If Optionee does not exercise this option, Optionor shall retain Optionee's $9,000 payment made hereunder, free from any and all claims which Optionee may have. In that event, neither party shall have any further rights or claims against the other.
6. Exercise of option. If Optionee exercises this option, Optionor and Optionee shall perform their respective obligations set forth in the annexed form of agreement, as Seller and Purchaser respectively.

7. Assignment. This option and all rights hereunder shall be freely assignable. If Optionee shall assign the same, all acts to be performed by him with respect to the purchase of the property, including the execution and delivery of the purchase money note and mortgage, may be performed by any assignee, whether the assignment is made before or after the exercise of this option.

8. Access. During the term of the option, Optionee, its agents and employees shall have access to the premises for the purposes of making such tests and investigations as Optionee deems necessary to determine its suitability for Optionee's intended use. All such tests and investigations shall be done at Optionee's sole risk and expense. Optionee shall restore the premises to their prior condition as a result of such tests and investigations, and indemnify, defend and hold Optionor harmless from any liabilities, costs or expenses resulting therefrom.

9. Recording. Optionee shall have the right to record a short form version of the Option not disclosing the purchase price, at Optionee's expense.

Optionor has signed and acknowledged this option.

Current Legal Forms for Real Estate
Chapter 21 SALES AND EXCHANGES
Part IV. Forms
A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.02

FORM 21.02 Option to purchase--two option periods--installment sale--contract of sale attached

In this agreement, the term of the option is divided into two periods. The option expires at the end of the first period unless an additional payment is made by the optionee.

Recording option prohibited

The recording of the option is prohibited and if the optionee violates this provision the option is terminated, the optionors having the right to retain the consideration for the option. While the purpose of this provision is the desire of the optionors to keep the title to the property free of any possible cloud on title and not to disclose the purchase price, the rights of the optionee are not as well protected as would be the case if the option were recorded. Recording of the option, or at least a short form version of it, gives constructive notice to all third persons of the rights of the optionee to purchase the property.

Installment sale

The optioned property is to be sold under the installment method, which requires that full or part payment be made in a taxable year after the year of sale. For nondealers, the installment method is automatic, unless the taxpayer elects to the contrary. Dealers, subject to limited exceptions, are not eligible for installment sale tax treatment. The aggregate consideration for the option generally is credited against the purchase price, and this amount will be treated as part of the payment made in the year of sale. See The Tax Background (TB) § 21.03 (options) and § 21.11 (installment sales), at the beginning of this chapter.

Special rules exist when there is an installment sale of property to a related party who then resells the property before payment is made in full to the initial seller. If the second sale occurs within two years of the first, the gain on the first sale must be reported in the year of the second sale, rather than as payments are made. See TB § 21.11[5].

Installment gain, recapture

Under the installment method, the seller reports as income in any tax year that proportion of the payments received during the year which the gross profit to be realized bears to the total contract price. The recapture of accelerated cost recovery allowances as ordinary income is recognized currently in the year of sale, even if the disposition is by an installment sale. The installment seller should require the purchaser to pay sufficient cash in the year of the sale to at least pay the taxes that may be due by reason of the immediate recognition of the ordinary recapture income. For the balance of the gain, after subtracting out the amount of recaptured ordinary income, the use of the installment method does not change the character of the gain as capital gain or ordinary income. If the property sold is a capital asset, or is treated as a capital asset, the profit to be reported under the installment method is capital gain, and would be either short-term or long-term depending upon the holding period. See TB § 21.11[1].

A purchase money note, or other debt instrument, involved in an installment sale may be subject to the original issue discount rules. If the rules apply, there can be a significant effect on the deductions of the buyer-borrower and the taxable income of the seller-lender. The original issue discount rules are most likely to apply to seller purchase money financing at below market interest rates or deferred interest payments.

Notes, or other debt instruments, received as consideration for the sale of property in a transaction with consideration of at least $250,000 will be treated as involving a lower imputed principal amount, and correspondingly higher imputed interest payments, if the interest provided for the debt is inadequate. Generally, interest is inadequate when it is not equal to at least 110 percent of the applicable federal rate. However, for debt instruments not in excess of $2.8 million given in exchange for the sale of property, the discount rate cannot exceed 9 percent. The original issue discount rules are discussed in TB § 21.10[2] at the beginning of this chapter.

FORM

OPTION AGREEMENT made June 19, _____ [year], between James Baron and his wife Mary Baron ("Optionors"), both residing at 100 Oak Lane, Palm Beach, Florida, and Great Land Corporation, a Florida corporation ("Optionee"), whose post office address is 500 Northwest 8th Street, Miami, Florida.

In consideration of the payment of the sum of $25,000 (the "Option Money"), by Optionee to Optionors, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, by check subject to collection, the parties agree as follows:

1. Grant of option. Optionors irrevocably grant to Optionee the exclusive option to purchase from Optionors all those lands (the "Lands"), in Lee County, State of Florida, which are described in the annexed Exhibit A.
2. Term and extended term of option; access to the lands. This option shall continue in effect until 12 p.m. on May 15, _____ [year], and may be exercised in accordance with its terms at any time on or before that date. This option, however, shall automatically terminate, without notice to Optionee, at 12 p.m. on February 2, _____ [year], if prior thereto Optionee shall not have exercised the within option and shall not have paid Optionors, in addition to the Option Money paid on the execution hereof, the further sum of $75,000 (the "Additional Option Money"). The exercise of this option must be by written notice sent to Optionors in the manner prescribed by paragraph 12 before its expiration or termination.

During the term of the option, Optionee, its agents and employees shall have access to the Lands for the purposes of making such tests and investigations as Optionee deems necessary to determine its suitability for Optionee's intended use. All such tests and investigations shall be done at Optionee's sole risk and expense. Optionee shall restore the Lands to their prior condition as a result of such tests and investigations, and indemnify, defend and hold Optionor harmless from any liabilities, costs or expenses resulting therefrom.

3. Failure to exercise option. If Optionee shall fail to exercise the within option at any time herein permitted, Optionor shall retain the Option Money and Additional Option Money, if paid. This agreement shall thereupon terminate and neither party shall have any further rights or obligations hereunder.

4. Exercise of option. If this option is exercised (in accordance with its terms) Optionors shall sell and convey and Optionee shall purchase and acquire the Lands on and subject to the terms and conditions contained in the attached Agreement marked Exhibit B, which is made a part of this option agreement (the "Agreement").

5. Purchase price. The total purchase price for the Lands shall be $900,000, payable in installments as provided in the Agreement. All amounts paid for this option shall be credited against the purchase price as provided in the Agreement.

6. Closing. The closing of this transaction shall be at the offices of Optionors, 25 Lake Drive, West Palm Beach, Florida, at 10 a.m. on May 20, _____ [year], provided that the option is exercised in accordance with the terms hereof. Optionee may accelerate the closing to an earlier date if it so notifies Optionors in writing at least 30 days before the accelerated date. If, however, the acceleration of closing is to a date subsequent to 12 p.m. on February 2, _____ [year], Optionee shall pay Optionors the Additional Option Money on or before the accelerated closing date.

7. Assignment. Optionee may assign this option without obtaining Optionors prior consent, provided that concurrently with such assignment, Optionee shall notify Optionors of such assignment, together with the name and address of the assignee, and shall send Optionors a copy of such assignment and assignee's written agreement to observe, perform and keep all of the terms, provisions, covenants and conditions that Optionee is required to observe, perform and keep hereunder. All provisions herein contained shall be binding upon all subsequent assignees hereof.

8. Broker. The parties warrant and represent to each other that no broker brought about, or participated in, this option or transaction. Optionee shall indemnify and hold Optionors harmless against all liabilities and expenses (including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees) arising from any claims for brokerage on this transaction based on any act of Optionee. The warranties, representations and agreements contained in this paragraph shall survive any closing of the transaction contemplated by this option. This indemnification agreement shall be binding on Optionee and all subsequent assignees.

9. Recording option. Optionee shall not record this option. If this option is recorded, all of Optionee's rights hereunder shall automatically terminate and Optionors may retain absolutely all payments made hereunder by Optionee.

10. Corporate authority. Optionee represents and warrants that it is a duly incorporated and validly existing corporation, in good standing under the laws of the State of Florida, and that its board of directors have duly authorized the execution and performance of this option and the attached Agreement.

11. Entire agreement. This option, including the attached Agreement, constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. No representations, warranties, or promises pertaining to this option or any property affected by it have been made by, or shall be binding on, any of the parties, except as expressly stated in the option and the Agreement. This option and the Agreement may not be changed orally, but only by an agreement signed by the party against whom enforcement of any such change is sought.

12. Notices. Any notice or demand under this option shall be by registered or certified mail, sent as follows: to Optionors at 25Lake Drive, West Palm Beach, Florida; and to Optionee at 500 Northwest 8th Street, Miami, Florida.

13. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective heirs, successors, and assigns.

14. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

15. Governing law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Florida.

16. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

17. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this Agreement.

The parties hereto have executed and delivered this Agreement the day and year first above mentioned.

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.03

FORM 21.03 Option to purchase--annual increasing payments by optionee--escalating purchase price

COMMENT

This option refers to an annexed form of contract of sale. Since both parties are corporations, there are provisions for the exchange of appropriate corporate resolutions authorizing the execution of the option agreement and the sales contract. This option also restricts the assignment of the option to a parent, subsidiary or merged corporation of the optionee.

Increasing option installments and purchase price

A most distinctive feature of this agreement is an option price which increases during the option period. This device is used because of the relatively long period during which the option may be outstanding. The option is granted for a total of five years, but the optionee must pay additional amounts on the first, second, third, and fourth anniversaries of the option agreement in order to keep the option alive. The purchase price for the property also is increased on each anniversary date from the date that the option is granted. Unlike the usual option agreement, no portion of the consideration paid for the option is credited toward the purchase price.

Lapse of option

Upon the failure of the optionee to pay any amount required to extend the option period or upon any breach of its obligations after the exercise of the option, all payments made by the optionee are retained as liquidated damages, which would be considered as ordinary income to the optionor. For the optionee, the damages would be considered as a business expense if the optioned property was intended for use in a trade or business, or for the production of income. Whether a liquidated damage clause will be given effect depends upon applicable state law.

FORM

OPTION AGREEMENT, executed on July 21, _____ [year], by and between Mainland Corporation, a Texas corporation having its principal office in the County of Dallas, State of Texas ("Optionor"), and Southwest Lands, Incorporated, a Delaware corporation having its principal office in the County of Dallas, State of Texas ("Optionee").

1. Grant of option and consideration.

(a) In consideration of the following cash payments, made and to be made, to Optionor by Optionee:

(1) $5,000 at the time of the execution of this Agreement;

(2) $7,000 on July 21,

_____ [year];

(3) $9,000 on July 21,

_____ [year];

(4) $11,000 on July 21,

_____ [year]; and

(5) $13,000 on July 21,

_____ [year].

(b) Optionor grants and gives to Optionee, for the period of five years from the date of the execution of this Agreement and ending at 10 a.m. on July 21, _____ [year], the right and option to purchase all that certain tract of land lying and being situated in the City of Arlington, County of Tarrant, State of Texas, more particularly described in the annexed Appendix 1 (the "Property"). Notwithstanding any provision in this paragraph to the contrary, Optionee's exercise of this option shall relieve it from making any required payments to Optionor under this paragraph at any date or dates after the "time of closing" (as defined in paragraph 2 below).

(c) Concurrently with the execution of this option:

(1) Optionor shall deliver to Optionee a certified resolution of Optionor's Board of Directors authorizing (i) Optionor to enter into this option, and (ii) its officers to execute this Agreement and do all other things and execute all other documents required to close this transaction if Optionee exercises its option hereunder; and

(2) Optionee shall deliver to Optionor a certified resolution of its Board of Directors authorizing Optionee to enter into this option and its officers to execute this Agreement.

2. Notice of exercise. To exercise this option Optionee must deliver a written notice to Optionor fixing a date not more than 60 days in advance for the closing of title to the Property (the "time of closing"). Concurrently with the exercise of the option, Optionee shall deliver to Optionor a certified resolution of its Board of Directors authorizing the exercise of the option and authorizing its officers to execute all documents and do all things necessary to close this transaction. If this option is exercised, Optionor shall sell and Optionee shall buy Property pursuant to the terms and provisions of the attached Agreement set forth in Appendix 2.

3. Purchase price. The total purchase price for the land described in Appendix 1 shall be determined at the time of closing as follows:

- (a) $100,000 if the option is exercised on or before July 20, _____[year];
- (b) $115,000 if the option is exercised after July 20, _____[year] and on or before July 20, _____[year];
- (c) $130,000 if the option is exercised after July 20, _____[year] and on or before July 20, _____[year];
- (d) $140,000 if the option is exercised after July 20, _____[year] and on or before July 20, _____[year]; and
- (e) $150,000 if the option is exercised after July 20, _____[year] and on or before July 21, _____[year].

The total purchase price, as shown above, shall be paid to Optionor in cash at the time of closing. Optionee shall not receive any credit against the purchase price for the amounts paid for this option.

4. Payment default; liquidated damages. If Optionee shall fail to pay promptly any payment required under paragraph 1, this option shall automatically terminate on the date specified for the payment and this Agreement shall no longer be effective. In that event, or if Optionee in any manner breaches its obligations hereunder after exercising the option, Optionor may keep all previous payments made for the option as liquidated damages. Both parties agree that the total amount of such payments is a reasonable approximation of the damages that Optionor would sustain if damages were readily ascertainable.

5. No assignment by optionee. Optionee may assign this option to any of its subsidiary or parent corporations, to any corporation into or with which Optionee or its subsidiary or parent corporation is duly merged or consolidated, or to anyone to which all or substantially all of Optionee's assets are sold. Except as expressly permitted herein, any direct or indirect assignment of this option shall automatically terminate the option and all of Optionee's rights hereunder.

6. Binding effect. This option shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective representatives, successors, and assigns.

7. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

8. Governing law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas.

9. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

10. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this agreement.

11. Entire agreement. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof and there are no other understandings or agreements between them.

12. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the parties at their last known addresses.

The parties have duly executed this Agreement on the day and year first above written.

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.04

FORM 21.04 Option to purchase--sale through escrow

COMMENT

If this option is exercised, title to the property is conveyed by a warranty deed deposited into escrow and a copy submitted to optionee's counsel for approval. The deed is to be accompanied by a title guaranty policy or title insurance policy. The title guaranty referred to in this form is sometimes used in this locale in lieu of a title insurance policy. It insures only that, based on the examination of all public records, the Optionee is getting good record title. The title insurance policy goes beyond insuring just the record title. It insures that the Optionee is obtaining good marketable title even for such matters which are not ascertainable from the public records such as forgeries. This type of title insurance is also called an Owner's Fee Policy of Title Insurance. The Optionee's counsel should specify the type of title insurance policy which is desired. The form most frequently used is the one adopted by the American Land Title Association (ALTA). If the title company issues the policy or insurance, the sale is consummated; if not, and the optionor does not cure the title defects or the optionee does not waive such defects, the optionor has 30 days to remove the defects. If the defects are not removed, the consideration for the option and the balance of the purchase price, deposited with the escrow agent, are returned to the optionee and the transaction is cancelled. The better practice for the Optionee is to find out the condition of title to the property before the option agreement is executed. The agreement should then provide that the property must be conveyed by the Optionor subject only to the known conditions of title which were previously approved by the Optionee and are identified in the option agreement. See Form 21.06 for an example. By providing for a closing in escrow, it becomes unnecessary for the parties to be present at a specified time and place in order to consummate the transaction.

Proration of real estate taxes

As is customary in real estate sales, the real property taxes and assessments are prorated. The purchaser and seller are each entitled to claim a deduction for that part of the real property taxes which is proportionate to the period of the real property tax year during which each held the property. This applies whether or not the parties themselves allocate the tax and regardless of who paid the tax.

Release of dower

To avoid any complications with a reluctant spouse, the agreement provides for its execution by the wife of the optionor to evidence her consent to its terms. The deed to be furnished to the optionee requires that dower rights be released.

Recording

The option agreement is to be executed in recordable form so that it may be recorded at the optionee's election and at his expense. While, generally, recording is not essential, it is in the optionee's interest to record the option agreement in order to give notice to prospective purchasers or encumbrancers.

Sale through escrow

In a few states, it is customary for an escrow agent to accomplish the transfer in escrow, without the physical presence of the parties. In these states, the parties give the escrow agent instructions to be followed in transferring title. All of the necessary documents and payments are sent to the escrow agent, who will close the sale when all of the escrow closing instructions have been complied with.

5. Failure to exercise option. If Optionee does not exercise this option, Optionor shall retain the consideration paid hereunder and neither party shall have any further rights or claims against the other by reason of this agreement.

6. Closing date. Optionor shall close the transaction contemplated hereby 30 days after he shall have received written notice of the exercise of this option.

7. Deed; title insurance. (a) If Optionee exercises this option, Optionor shall convey title to the real property to Optionee or his nominee by good and sufficient general warranty deed, with any dower rights released. The deed shall warrant title to be free and clear of all liens, charges, encumbrances, clouds and defects, except for restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements and conditions of record, zoning ordinances, and taxes and assessments, both general and special, which are a lien but not due and payable. The deed shall be deposited into escrow with the Escrow Agent on or before the closing date. Before the deed is deposited, however, a copy thereof shall be submitted to Optionee's counsel for approval.

(b) Optionor shall submit with the deed a title guaranty policy, in the amount of the purchase price, issued by a title company selected by Optionee (the "Title Company"), in its customary form, guaranteeing the record title to the real property to be good in Optionee, subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed and the title guaranty policy as set forth in Section 10(b). Notwithstanding the above, Optionee may elect to receive an ALTA form of Owner's Fee Policy of title insurance in the amount of the purchase price, prepared by the Title Company, insuring marketable title to be good in Optionee subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed and the title insurance as set forth in Section 10(b). Such election shall be made by giving written notice thereof to the Escrow Agent prior to the closing date. In that event, Optionor shall furnish Optionee with title insurance, in lieu of a title guaranty policy. Optionor shall then pay the portion of the costs that would have been incurred had a certificate of title guaranty been issued, and Optionee shall pay the remaining costs.

8. Possession. Optionor shall deliver possession of the real property as of the date of transfer of the record title.

9. Escrow. The transaction contemplated hereby shall be closed in escrow with the Title Company or, if Optionee desires, with the lending institution through which Optionee will finance this transaction (the "Escrow Agent"). Optionee shall deposit an executed counterpart hereof with the Escrow Agent, and this Agreement shall serve as the Escrow Agent's escrow instructions. The Escrow Agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance to the counterpart, but if its conditions are inconsistent or in conflict with the terms and conditions hereof, those contained in this Agreement shall control.

10. Title closing. (a) On the closing date, the Escrow Agent shall notify the parties whether the Title Company is then in a position to issue the title guaranty policy or title insurance, whichever applies. If the Escrow Agent notifies the parties that:

(1) The Title Company will issue a title guaranty policy or title insurance, this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement; or

(2) The Title Company will not issue such a title guaranty policy or title insurance, and if Optionor does not forthwith cure the title defects that the Escrow Agent recites as preventing such issuance in the form required hereunder, or Optionee does not waive the same, this transaction shall be postponed for a reasonable period of time not to exceed 30 days until Optionor removes such title defects. If Optionor is unable or refuses to do so, this transaction shall be cancelled, the full amount of the consideration paid for the option plus the balance of the purchase price, deposited with the Escrow Agent, shall be promptly refunded to Optionee, and the documents deposited into escrow shall be returned to Optionor. The parties shall be fully released from any liability hereunder except that Optionor shall pay the cost of the escrow and the charges of the Title Company.

(b) If Optionee waives the title defects preventing the above issuance by so notifying the Title Company and the Escrow Agent, or if Optionor cures such defects, the parties' obligations shall not be affected by reason thereof, there shall be no abatement or reduction of the purchase price, and the transaction contemplated hereby shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and conditions hereof. However, any title defects waived by Optionee shall nevertheless be set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title guaranty policy or title insurance, as the case may be.

11. Prorations. The Escrow Agent shall prorate all general and special real estate taxes and assessments as of the date the deed is filed for record. For such purposes the Agent shall use the rate and valuation shown on the last available tax bill.

12. Duties of escrow agent. (a) On the closing date, the Escrow Agent shall file for record the deed and all other required instruments. The Agent shall then deliver to each party the funds and documents to which it is entitled, together with the Agent's escrow statement.

(b) In closing this transaction, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionor with:

- (1) The full amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated up to and including the date of transfer of title;
- (2) The cost of any transfer tax;
- (3) The cost of the title search, and title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price;
- (4) The cost of satisfying any mortgage indebtedness on the property for which Optionor is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee or other costs incident to the satisfaction of any such indebtedness;
- (5) The cost of any brokerage commission;
- (6) One half of the escrow fee; and
- (7) All other charges properly borne by Optionor consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionor the balance of the funds in its hands due under the terms of this Agreement, and all documents due Optionor.

(c) Upon the closing, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionee with:

- (1) Any cost of financing this transaction arranged for by Optionee;
- (2) The cost of filing the deed for record;
- (3) The amount by which the cost of furnishing the title insurance exceeds the cost of furnishing the title guaranty if Optionee elects to be furnished with title insurance as provided for in Section 7(b);
- (4) One half of the escrow fee;
- (5) All prepaid prorated real estate taxes and assessments charged to Optionee, as well as prepaid premiums for insurance policies transferred to Optionee; and
- (6) All other charges properly borne by Optionee consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionee the title guaranty policy or title insurance, as the case may be, the recorded deed or Recorder's receipt therefor, and all other funds or documents due to Optionee.

13. Broker. Optionor shall indemnify and hold harmless Optionee from all costs, expenses, or damages resulting from any claims for brokerage fees or other similar forms of compensation made by any real estate broker or any other person or entity because of the sale of the real property hereunder.

14. Notices. Any notice under this Agreement shall be delivered or sent by certified mail, postage prepaid, return receipt requested, and addressed as follows:

If to Optionor, to: Howard Smith
 20000 Jones Court
 Cleveland, Ohio 44118

If to Optionee, to: William Harris
 23752 James Lane

15. Consent of spouse. Joan Smith, wife of Optionor, joins in the execution of this Agreement to evidence her consent to its terms, including specifically the requirement of the release of her dower interest and all other marital rights she may have in the real property if and when it is conveyed under this Agreement.

16. Recording. This Agreement shall be executed in recordable form, and, if Optionee elects, may be recorded at his expense with the Cuyahoga County Recorder.

17. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns.

18. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

19. Governing law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Ohio.

20. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

21. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this Agreement.

22. Entire agreement. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof and there are no other understandings or agreements between them.

A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.05

FORM 21.05 Option to purchase--sale through escrow--terms of sale included--preliminary title report when option exercised

COMMENT

In this form a preliminary title report is to be issued upon the exercise of the option and prior to the closing. This gives the optionee the opportunity to object to any title defects disclosed in the report and the optionor would have until the closing date to cure or remove such defects. Since the preliminary report may be delayed and the optionee has ten days after its receipt to notify the optionor and the title company of any objectionable title defects, the closing is held 30 days after the report is received rather than 30 days after the option is exercised. Any defect not objected to by the optionee is considered as waived and set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title policy or insurance.

The better practice for the optionee is to find out the condition of title to the property before the option agreement is executed so that the option agreement can state that the property must be conveyed by the optionor subject only to the known conditions of title which were previously approved. See Form 21.06 for an example.

FORM

OPTION to purchase granted July 1, _____ [year], by Russell Hall and Joan Hall, husband and wife ("Optionor"), to Philip Horn, unmarried ("Optionee").

1. Grant of option. Optionor, for the option price of $5,000, receipt of which is acknowledged, grants to Optionee the exclusive option to purchase a certain parcel of land in Franklin County, Ohio (the "Property"), described in Exhibit A.

2. Option period. This option shall be for a period of six months, beginning July 1, _____ [year] and terminating December 31, _____ [year].

3. Exercise. This option may be exercised at any time during the option period by notice to Optionor delivered or mailed by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, to Optionor's address set forth in Section 14.

4. Purchase Price. The purchase price for the Property is $100,000, payable by Optionee as follows:

(a) $5,000, the sum paid for this option, shall be credited against the purchase price.

(b) The balance of the purchase price, $95,000, shall be deposited into escrow with the Escrow Agent in cash or its equivalent after the option is exercised and on or before the closing date described in Section 6.

5. Failure to exercise. If Optionee fails to exercise the option, Optionor shall retain the consideration paid for the option and neither party shall have any further rights or claims against the other by reason of this transaction.

6. Closing date. The closing date shall be 30 days after Optionee receives the preliminary title report, as set forth in Section 7(c).

7. Deed and title. (a) Deed. If Optionee exercises this option, Optionor shall convey title to the Property to Optionee by good and sufficient general warranty deed, warranting title to be free and clear of all liens, charges and encumbrances, clouds and defects, except for restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements and conditions approved by Optionee in the manner hereafter provided in Section 7(c) below, zoning ordinances and taxes and assessments, both general and special, which are a lien but not due and payable. The deed shall be deposited into escrow with the Escrow Agent on or before the closing date. A copy of the deed shall be submitted to Optionee's counsel for approval before it is deposited into escrow.

(b) Optionor shall accompany the deed with a title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price issued by a title company of Optionee's choice (the "Title Company") in its customary form, guaranteeing the record title to the Property to be good in Optionee subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed and the title guaranty policy. In lieu of a title guaranty policy, Optionee may elect, by giving written notice to the Escrow Agent before the closing date, to be furnished with an Owner's Fee Policy of title insurance (ALTA form) in the amount of the purchase price, prepared by the Title Company, insuring marketable title to be good in Optionee, subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed and the title insurance as set forth in Section 10(b). In that event, in lieu of a title guaranty policy Optionor shall furnish Optionee with title insurance, and Optionor shall pay that portion of its costs which would have been incurred had a title guaranty policy been issued, and Optionee shall pay the remaining costs.

(c) Preliminary title report. As soon as Optionor receives notice that this option is exercised, it shall order from the Title Company a preliminary title report in the form of a commitment to issue the title policy requested by Optionee, with instructions to deliver a copy of the report to Optionee. Within ten days after Optionee receives the title report, he shall notify Optionor and the Title Company of all restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements, liens, and conditions of record (collectively, "title defects") disclosed in the title report which are objectionable to Optionee. If Optionee so notifies Optionor, Optionor shall have until the closing date to cure or remove such title defects. If Optionee does not notify Optionor, Optionee shall be deemed to have waived the title defects and such defects shall be set forth as exceptions to be contained in the deed and the title policy or title insurance as provided in Section 10(b).

8. Possession. Optionor shall deliver possession of the Property as of the closing date.

9. Escrow. This transaction shall be closed in escrow with the Title Company or, if Optionee elects, with the lending institution through which Optionee finances this transaction (the "Escrow Agent"). Optionee shall deposit an executed counterpart of this Agreement with the Escrow Agent, and the Agreement shall serve as the Agent's escrow instructions. The Escrow Agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance to the Agreement, but if the Escrow Agent's conditions are inconsistent or in conflict with the terms and conditions hereof, the conditions contained herein shall control.

10. Closing of title. (a) On the closing date, the Escrow Agent shall notify parties whether the Title Company will issue the title guaranty policy or title insurance, as the case may be, required under this Agreement. If the Escrow Agent notifies the parties that:

(1) The Title Company will issue such a title guaranty policy or title insurance, this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement; or

(2) The Title Company will not issue such a title guaranty policy or title insurance, and if Optionor does not forthwith cure the title defects that the Escrow Agent recites as preventing such issuance in the form required, or Optionee does not waive the defects, this transaction shall be postponed for a reasonable period of time not to exceed 30 days until Optionor removes the title defects. If Optionor is unable or refuses to do so, this transaction shall be cancelled, the full amount of the consideration paid for the option plus the balance of the purchase price, if any, deposited with the Escrow Agent, shall be promptly refunded to Optionee, and the documents deposited into escrow shall be returned to Optionor. The parties shall be fully released from any liability hereunder except that Optionor shall pay the cost of the escrow and the charges of the Title Company.

(b) If Optionee waives the title defects preventing such issuance by so notifying the Title Company and the Escrow Agent, or if Optionor cures the defects within the permitted time, the parties' obligations hereunder shall not be affected by reason of such waiver or cure, the purchase price shall not be abated or reduced, and this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and conditions hereof. However, any title defects waived by Optionee shall nevertheless be set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title guaranty policy or title insurance, whichever applies.

11. Prorations. The Escrow Agent shall prorate all general and special real estate taxes and assessments as of the date the deed is filed for record. For such purposes the Agent will use the rate and valuation shown on the last available tax bill.

12. Duties of escrow agent. (a) On the closing date, the Escrow Agent shall file for record the deed and all other required instruments and shall thereupon deliver to each of the parties the funds and documents to which they are respectively entitled, together with its escrow statement.

(b) In closing this transaction, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionor with:

(1) The full amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated up to and including the date of transfer of title;

(2) The cost of any transfer tax;

(3) The cost of the title report, including the preliminary title report described in Section 7(c), title search, and title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price;

(4) The cost of paying off and satisfying any mortgage indebtedness on the property for which Optionor is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee, or other costs incident to the satisfaction of any such indebtedness;

(5) The cost of any brokerage commission required to be paid under this Agreement;

(6) One half of the escrow fee; and

(7) All other charges properly borne by Optionor consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionor the balance of the funds in its hands and documents due Optionor.

(c) Upon the closing, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionee with:

(1) Any cost of financing this transaction which Optionee arranges for;

(2) The cost of filing the deed for record;

(3) The amount by which the cost of furnishing the title insurance exceeds the cost of furnishing the title guaranty if Optionee elects to be furnished with title insurance, as provided by Section 7(b);

(4) One half of the escrow fee;

(5) All prepaid prorated real estate taxes and assessments charged to Optionee, as well as prepaid premiums for insurance policies transferred to Optionee; and

(6) All other charges properly borne by Optionee consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionee the title guaranty policy or title insurance, as the case may be, the recorded deed or Recorder's receipt for the deed, and all other funds or documents due Optionee.

13. Broker. Optionor represents and warrants to Optionee that no broker has listed the Property for sale and that no broker has been involved in this transaction. Optionor shall indemnify and hold harmless Optionee from any and all costs, expenses, or damages resulting from any claims for brokerage fees or other similar forms of compensation made by any real estate broker or any other person or entity because of the sale of the real property hereunder.

14. Notices. Any notice under this Agreement shall be delivered or sent by certified or registered mail, postage prepaid, return receipt requested, and addressed as follows:

Part IV. Forms
A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.06

FORM 21.06 Option to purchase--exercisable against separate parcels--sale through escrow--terms of sale included

COMMENT

In this form a copy of a commitment for title insurance is furnished to the optionee prior to the execution of the agreement. The commitment shows the condition of the title to the optioned property and the optionor only warrants delivery of title as reflected in the commitment. Accordingly, this form can be used when all matters initially reflected in the title insurance commitment are acceptable to the optionee.

Advantages of prior title commitment

A commitment for title insurance issued prior to entering into the option agreement gives the optionee the opportunity to consider the title he would receive if the option is exercised and the property is purchased. If he does not wish to take title subject to any title defects shown in the commitment, he would not execute the option agreement and there would be neither an option nor a sale. The optionee could, instead, negotiate the terms of the transaction, such as a reduction in the purchase price, or removal of the defects by the optionor, before the option agreement is executed. In such case the Option Agreement should require the Optionor to deliver title to the Property subject only to those items identified in the Commitment, save and except for the defects objected to by the Optionee and agreed to be removed by Optionor.

Once the option is exercised, the closing date will be set, the title policy or insurance will be issued according to the commitment and the transaction will be consummated.

Recording of option

This form is drafted for recordation. In many jurisdictions, the essential element of an option may be contained in a so-called "short-form" of option for recording. The short form may be preferable because it will not disclose matters such as the purchase price which the parties may want to be kept confidential.

Partial exercises

This form provides for the exercise of options by notice given from time to time for separate parcels of land or groups of parcels. The option holder may also exercise the option for all the land at one time. The price is based on the category of land involved. A separate price applies to platted lots, and a set price per acre applies to the unplatted land, depending upon its location. To keep the option alive, the option holder is required to make quarterly payments based on a percentage of the balance of the total purchase price.

FORM

OPTION granted May 1, _____ [year], by James Elliot and Alice Elliot of Akron, Ohio ("Optionor") to Michael Olsen and Carol Olsen, of Toledo, Ohio ("Optionee").

1. Option. In consideration of the sum of $2,500 received from Optionee, Optionor grants and gives Optionee the exclusive option to purchase certain parcels of land in Lucas County, Ohio (the "real property"), described in Exhibit A, attached hereto and made a part hereof.

2. Exercise of option, purchase prices. (a) Price. The option may be exercised either in whole, or in part from time to time. By exercising the option in whole, the maximum total purchase price shall be $1.75 million. By exercising the option in part, each platted lot shall be based upon a purchase price of $7,500, and all lands not platted in lots shall be based upon $15,000 per acre with the exception of a parcel of land consisting of approximately 10 acres located at Blue Springs, which is to be based upon $22,000 per acre. If the option is exercised in part, then as soon as the purchase price of the property aggregates $1.75 million any remaining property shall be conveyed to Optionee without payment of further consideration.

(b) Exercise. If Optionee decides to exercise this option, either in whole or in part, it shall so notify Optionor by written notice. Simultaneously with such notice, Optionee shall deliver to Optionor a check representing one percent of the total cost of the lands for which the option is being exercised.

3. Purchase price credits. Whenever the option is exercised in part, the purchase price shall be credited toward the total option price of $1.75 million. However, whenever the purchase price has been reduced by reason of Seller's inability to convey title as required, the total option price shall be reduced by the decreased amount.

4. Continuation of option period. The option contained in this Agreement shall continue for a period of five years, provided that Purchaser pays to Seller on a quarter annual basis (every three months), starting the first day of August, an amount equal to 1.5 percent of $1.75 million less the purchase price of all lands sold under the option portion of this Agreement. The determination as to the amount to be paid with each quarter annual payment shall be based upon the $1.75 million less all of the purchases made under the option provision to the date of each quarter annual payment.

5. Failure to exercise option. If Optionee does not exercise any option, Optionor shall retain the $2,500 paid by Optionee, free of all Optionee's claims, and neither party shall have any further claims against the other.

6. Closing date. This transaction shall be closed as to each parcel 60 days after receipt of written notice of an exercise of option.

7. Title commitment. Optionor has delivered to Optionee a copy of a Commitment for Title Insurance issued by the National Title Insurance Company (the "Title Company"), on April 14, _____ [year], under its Commitment No. 38324, showing the condition of the title of the real property. Optionee has approved the condition of title as shown therein. If Optionee exercises this option, Optionor shall convey title to the real property to Optionee or its nominee by good and sufficient general warranty deed, with any dower rights released. The deed shall warrant title to be free and clear of all liens, charges and encumbrances, clouds, and defects for each parcel conveyed, except for those defects, restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements, and conditions of record disclosed in the Commitment previously approved by Optionee, zoning ordinances, and general and special taxes and assessments which are a lien but not due and payable. The deed shall be deposited into escrow with the Escrow Agent on or before the closing date. A copy of the deed shall be submitted to Optionee's counsel for approval before the deed is deposited into escrow.

Optionor warrants that the real property is subject only to the defects, encumbrances, etc., set forth in the above Commitment. This warranty shall survive the execution of this Agreement. Optionor agrees not to further encumber the real property in any manner while this option remains in effect.

8. Title insurance. Optionor shall accompany the deed with an Owner's Fee Policy of title insurance in the amount of the purchase price, prepared by the Title Company in its customary form, insuring marketable title to be good in Optionee, subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed as shown above. Optionor shall pay for the cost of the title insurance.

9. Possession. Optionor shall deliver possession of each parcel of the real property as of the date of transfer of title.

10. Escrow. Each transaction shall be closed in escrow with the Title Company or, if Optionee desires, with the lending institution through which Optionee will finance the transaction (the "Escrow Agent"). Optionee shall deposit an executed counterpart hereof with the Escrow Agent, and this Agreement shall serve as the Agent's escrow instructions. The Escrow Agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance to such counterpart, but if its conditions are inconsistent or in conflict with the terms and conditions hereof, those contained herein shall control.

11. Proration. The Escrow Agent shall prorate all general and special real estate taxes and assessments as of the date the deed is filed for record. For such purposes the Escrow Agent shall use the rate and valuation shown on the last available tax bill.

12. Closing documents; funds. On each closing date, the Escrow Agent shall file for record the deed and all other required instruments and shall deliver to both parties the funds and documents to which they are respectively entitled, together with its escrow statement.

13. Cost of optionor. In closing each transaction, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionor with:

- (1) The full amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated up to and including the date of transfer of title;
- (2) The cost of any transfer tax;
- (3) The cost of the title commitment, title search, and title insurance policy in the amount of the purchase price;
- (4) The cost of paying off and satisfying any mortgage indebtedness on the property for which Optionor is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee, or other costs incident to the satisfaction of any such indebtedness;

- (5) The cost of the brokerage commission;
- (6) One half of the escrow fee; and
- (7) All other charges properly borne by Optionor consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionor the balance of the funds in its hands due under the terms hereof, and all documents due Optionor.

14. Costs of optionee. Upon the closing, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionee with:

- (1) Any cost of financing this transaction which is arranged for by Optionee.
- (2) The cost of filing the deed for record;
- (3) One half of the escrow fee;
- (4) All prepaid premiums for insurance policies transferred to Optionee; and
- (5) All other charges properly borne by Optionee consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionee the title insurance, the recorded deed or Recorder's receipt therefor, and all other funds or documents due Optionee.

15. Broker. Optionor represents and warrants that the sole and exclusive broker for this transaction is Decade Ten: Toledo Real Estate Agency. Optionor shall indemnify and hold harmless Optionee from all costs, expenses or damages resulting from any claims for brokerage fees or other similar forms of compensation made by Decade Ten or by any other real estate broker or any other person or entity because of the sale of the real property under this Agreement.

16. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be delivered or sent by registered mail, return receipt requested, to Optionor at 1010 Main Street, Akron, Ohio 44200, and to Optionee at 1031 Second Avenue, Toledo, Ohio 44202.

17. Recording. This Agreement shall be executed in recordable form, and, if Optionee elects, may be recorded at Optionee's expense with the Lucas County Recorder.

18. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns.

19. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

20. Governing law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Ohio.

21. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

22. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this Agreement.

23. Entire agreement. This Agreement supersedes all previous agreements between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof and there are no other understandings or agreements between them.

The parties hereto have signed this Agreement as of the date first above written.

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.07

FORM 21.07 Option to purchase--exercise period to commence after death of optionor

COMMENT

This form may be used when an optionee desires to acquire real estate owned by an elderly or terminally ill person with a low basis in the property. The option exercise period does not commence until the optionee receives notice of the death of the optionor. The notice is usually in the form of a letter from the executor or administrator of the optionor's estate.

Stepped-up basis for estate

The purpose of the form is to enable the seller of the property, which would be either the estate or the person to whom the property was devised, to take advantage of the stepped-up basis for the property.

Estate tax

The fair market value of the optioned real property as of the date of death of the optionor or as of the alternate valuation date, if so elected, would be includable in the optionor's estate for estate tax purposes.

The basis of property acquired from or passing from a decedent to the estate, legatee or heir is equal to the fair market value of the property at the time of the decedent's death, so that, when the property is sold, little or no gain is realized.

Title commitment

This form provides for a title commitment, the inclusion of the terms of sale and sale through escrow.

FORM

OPTION given August 1, _____ [year], by George Green of Akron, Ohio, his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ("Optionor"), to Walter Alen of Cleveland, Ohio ("Optionee").

1. Option price and grant. For $25,000, receipt of which is acknowledged, Optionor grants to Optionee the exclusive option to purchase, upon the following terms and conditions, a certain parcel of land in Summit County, Ohio (the "Real Property"), described in Exhibit A.

2. Exercise period. This option shall remain in full force and effect for a period commencing August 1, _____ [year] and terminating 90 days after Optionee receives notice of Optionor's death (the "Exercise Period").

3. Exercise of option. Optionee may exercise this option at any time during the Exercise Period by giving notice to Optionor's estate, delivered or mailed by certified mail, return receipt requested, to Optionor's address set forth in paragraph 14.

4. Price. The purchase price for the Property is $175,000, payable by Optionee as follows:

(a) $25,000, the sum paid for this option, shall be credited against the purchase price.

(b) The balance of the purchase price, $150,000, shall be deposited into escrow with the Escrow Agent, designated before, in cash or its equivalent after the exercise of the option and on or before the closing date set forth before.

5. Failure to exercise option. If Optionee does not exercise the option, Optionor shall retain the $25,000 paid as consideration for the option, free of all claims by Optionee and neither party shall have any further claims against the other.

6. Closing date. The parties shall close this transaction 30 days after Optionor shall have received written notice of the exercise of this option.

7. Title commitment. Optionor has delivered to Optionee a copy of a Commitment for Title Insurance issued by the National Title Insurance Company (the "Title Company"), on May 15, _____ [year], under its Commitment No. 63754, showing the condition of the title of the real property. If Optionee exercises this option, Optionor shall convey title to the real property to Optionee or his nominee by good and sufficient fiduciary warranty deed, with any dower rights released. The deed shall warrant title to be free and clear of all liens, charges and encumbrances, clouds, and defects, except for those defects, restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements, and conditions of record disclosed in the Commitment of Title Insurance, zoning ordinances, and general and special taxes and assessments which are a lien but not due and payable. The deed shall be deposited into escrow with the Escrow Agent on or before the closing date. A copy of the deed shall be submitted to Optionee's counsel for approval before the deed is deposited into escrow.

Optionor warrants that the Real Property is subject only to the defects, encumbrances, etc., set forth in the above Commitment. This warranty shall survive the execution of this Agreement. Optionor shall not further encumber the real property in any manner while this option remains in effect.

8. Title Guaranty. Optionor shall accompany the deed with a title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price issued by the Title Company in its customary form, guaranteeing the record title to the Real Property to be good in Optionee subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed, as set forth in Section 7.

9. Possession. Optionor shall deliver possession of the Real Property as of the date of transfer of record title.

10. Escrow. The transaction contemplated hereby shall be closed in escrow with the Title Company or, if Optionee desires, with the lending institution through which Optionee will finance the transaction (the "Escrow Agent"). Optionee shall deposit an executed counterpart hereof with the Escrow Agent, and this Agreement shall serve as the Agent's escrow instructions. The Escrow Agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance to such counterpart, but if such conditions are inconsistent or in conflict with the terms and conditions hereof, those contained herein shall control.

11. Proration. The Escrow Agent shall prorate all general and special real estate taxes and assessments as of the date the deed is filed for record. For such purposes the Agent shall use the rate and valuation shown on the last available tax bill.

12. Duties of escrow agent. (a) Closing. On the closing date, the Escrow Agent shall file for record the deed and all other required instruments. The Agent shall then deliver to each party the funds and documents to which it is entitled, together with the Agent's escrow statement.

(b) Optionor expenses. In closing this transaction, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionor with:

- (1) The full amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated up to and including the date of transfer of title;
- (2) The cost of any transfer tax;
- (3) The cost of the title commitment, title search, and title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price;
- (4) The cost of paying off and satisfying any mortgage indebtedness on the property for which Optionor is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee, or other costs incident to the satisfaction of any such indebtedness;
- (5) The cost of any brokerage commission required to be paid by Optionor;
- (6) One half of the escrow fee; and
- (7) All other charges properly borne by Optionor consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionor the balance of the funds in its hands due under the terms hereof, and all documents due Optionor.

(c) Optionee expenses. Upon the closing, the Escrow Agent shall charge Optionee with:

- (1) Any cost of financing this transaction which Optionee arranges for;
- (2) The cost of filing the deed for record;
- (3) One half of the escrow fee;
- (4) All prepaid premiums for insurance policies transferred to Optionee; and

(5) All other charges properly borne by Optionee consistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Immediately thereafter, the Escrow Agent shall deliver to Optionee the title guaranty policy or title insurance, the recorded deed or Recorder's receipt, and all other funds or documents due Optionee.

13. Broker. Optionor shall pay any broker commissions due and payable by reason of this transaction. Optionor shall indemnify and hold harmless Optionee from all costs, expenses, or damages resulting from all claims for brokerage fees or other similar forms of compensation made by any real estate broker or any other person or entity because of the sale of the real property hereunder.

14. Notices. Any notice under this Agreement shall be delivered or sent by certified mail, postage prepaid, return receipt requested, and addressed as follows:

If to Optionor, to:	George Green 1235 16th Street Akron, Ohio 44200
If to Optionee, to:	Walter Alen 5 North Main Street Cleveland, Ohio 44118

16. Recording. This Agreement shall be executed in recordable form, and, if Optionee elects, may be recorded at Optionee's expense with the Summit County Recorder.

17. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns.

18. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.08

FORM 21.08 Right of first refusal agreement

COMMENT

The holder of a right of first refusal essentially has a latent option to purchase real property that is activated when a third party offers or agrees to purchase the property. The holder's right to purchase the property for the price and on the terms offered by the third party is superior to the third party's offer or agreement. An outstanding right of first refusal can make it difficult for a property owner to market and sell the property, since brokers and prospective purchasers know that the holder of the right may intervene in the transaction and purchase the property.

FORM

AGREEMENT made and dated _____ [date], between _____, Grantor, residing at _____ Street, City of _____, State of _____, and _____, Grantee, residing at _____ Avenue, City of _____, State of _____.

In consideration of the payment of _____ Dollars ($_____) by Grantee to Grantor, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, by check subject to collection, the parties agree as follows:

1. Right of first refusal. Grantor grants to Grantee a right of first refusal for the purchase of the real property located in the City of _____, _____ County, State of _____, more particularly described in the annexed Exhibit A (the Property). Grantor and Grantee agree that if Grantor receives a bona fide offer from a third party for the purchase of all or any part of the Property, which offer Grantor is willing to accept, Grantor will give Grantee written notice thereof, and will send Grantee a copy of the proposed contract of sale to such third party. Grantee shall have the right for _____ days after the receipt of such notice to enter into a contract for the sale of the Property at the same price and on the same terms as contained in the proposed contract of sale to the third party, which right of Grantee shall be paramount to the rights of the third party. If Grantee fails to exercise any such preemptive right within the time herein specified, Grantor shall be at liberty to enter into a contract for the sale of the Property with the third party at the same price and on the same terms as contained in the proposed contract of sale sent to Grantee.

2. Term of right of first refusal. This right of first refusal shall continue in effect until the conveyance of the Property in fee simple to Grantee or to a third party pursuant to the right of first refusal described above. If the Property is not conveyed in fee simple to Grantee or to a third party pursuant to the right of first refusal described above, the right of first refusal shall expire at _____ a.m. on _____ [date]. Upon the termination of this right of first refusal, either by a conveyance of the Property or by expiration, Grantee shall deliver to Grantor a signed and acknowledged document stating that this right of first refusal has terminated and that Grantee expressly relinquishes all rights under this right of first refusal agreement.

3. Grantor's right to encumber and lease. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this agreement, grantor shall have the right during the term of this right of first refusal to mortgage or otherwise encumber the Property and to grant leases for all or parts of the property, as Grantor sees fit; however, Grantor may not lease all or any part of the Property for a term of more than _____ years, including renewal periods, and may not grant any lessee an option to purchase all or part of the Property.

4. Warranty of title. Grantor warrants and represents that Grantor is the sole owner of good, fee simple, marketable title to the Property and has full authority to grant this right of first refusal.

5. No assignment by grantee. Grantee may not assign its rights under this right of first refusal agreement. Any direct or indirect assignment of Grantee's rights under this agreement shall automatically terminate this right of first refusal and all of Grantee's rights hereunder.

6. Broker. The parties warrant and represent that no broker brought about or participated in this right of first refusal agreement or transaction. Grantee shall indemnify and hold Grantor harmless against all liabilities and expenses (including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees) arising from any claims for brokerage on this transaction based on any act of Grantee. The warranties, representations and agreements contained in this paragraph shall survive any conveyance of the Property pursuant to this right of first refusal agreement.

7. Recording. This agreement shall be executed in recordable form, and if Grantee elects, may be recorded at Grantee's expense with the _____ County Recorder.

8. Binding effect. This right of first refusal shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective representatives, successors and assigns.

9. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

10. Governing law. This agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of _____.

11. Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

12. Entire agreement. This agreement supersedes all prior agreements between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof, and there are no other understandings or agreements between them. This agreement can only be modified by a written instrument signed by both Grantor and Grantee.

13. Notices and correspondence. All notices and correspondence shall be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the parties hereto at the following addresses:

If to Grantor, to: _____ Street, City of _____, State of _____.

If to Grantee, to: _____ Street, City of _____, State of _____.

Either party may change the above address by sending a certified letter, return receipt requested, to the other party setting forth such changed address.

The parties hereto have executed and delivered this agreement the day and year first above written.

FORM 21.09 Right of first offer agreement

COMMENT

The grantor of a right of first offer is obligated to offer to sell the subject property to the holder of the right before offering to sell the property to any third parties. The grantee's right to purchase is activated when the grantor offers the property to the grantee at a price and upon terms chosen by the grantor. The grantee may then accept the grantor's terms, or, if not, the grantor may offer the property to third parties at the same price and upon the same terms. An outstanding right of first offer generally does not impair the property owner's ability to market and sell the property, since the holder of the right must elect whether or not to purchase the property upon the terms offered before any real estate brokers and prospective purchasers become involved.

FORM

AGREEMENT made and dated _____ [date] between _____, Grantor, residing at _____ Street, City of _____, State of _____, and _____, Grantee, residing at _____ Avenue, City of _____, State of _____.

In consideration of the payment of _____ Dollars ($_____) by Grantee to Grantor, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, by check subject to collection, the parties agree as follows:

1. Right of first offer. Grantor grants to Grantee a right of first offer for the purchase of the real property located in the City of _____, _____ County, State of _____, more particularly described in the annexed Exhibit A (the Property). Grantor and Grantee agree that Grantor shall not market, offer for sale, agree to sell or sell the Property without first offering to sell it to Grantee. Before Grantor enters into any agreement for the marketing or sale of the Property, Grantor will offer to sell the property to Grantee.

2. Form of first offer. Grantor will make such first offer to Grantee in a writing which shall advise Grantee that Grantor intends to market, offer for sale, agree to sell or sell the Property to a third party. The written first offer shall set forth the purchase price and terms for the sale of the Property which Grantee would be willing to offer to a third party, including: (a) the total amount of the purchase price; (b) the amount of deposit required; (c) the forms of payment of the deposit and the purchase price; (d) the amount and terms of any purchase money financing; and (e) the date and place of transfer of title. The first offer shall contain all of the essentials of a contract for the sale of the Property, and shall be executed by Grantor.

3. Grantee's acceptance of first offer. Grantee shall have the right for _____ days after the receipt of Grantor's first offer to accept the offer by delivering an executed copy of the first offer and the required deposit to Grantor prior to the expiration of the _____-day period. If Grantee then fails to consummate the sale of the Property by the date for transfer of title set forth in the first offer, Grantor shall retain the deposit paid pursuant to Grantee's acceptance as liquidated damages, and this right of first offer shall terminate.

4. Counteroffer. If Grantee responds to Grantor's offer under this agreement with anything other than an unequivocal and unconditional acceptance or rejection of the offer, such response shall be deemed to be an offer to purchase the Property ("Counteroffer"), which shall cause this agreement to terminate. Grantor may accept or reject Grantee's Counteroffer in Grantor's sole discretion.

5. Second offer rights. If Grantee expressly rejects Grantor's first offer under this agreement or makes a Counteroffer as described above, and Grantor subsequently becomes willing to sell the Property at a price or on terms substantially less favorable to Grantor than those contained in the first offer, Grantor shall then offer to sell the Property to Grantee at such new price or on such new terms ("Second Offer"). The second offer shall be made in the form described above for the making of the first offer, and shall be subject to the same terms, requirements, and time limits for acceptance, rejection or counteroffer as described above for a first offer.

6. Termination of right of first or second offer. If Grantee fails to respond to Grantor's offer before the expiration of the _____-day acceptance period described above, the offer shall be deemed rejected and this agreement and all of Grantee's rights under it shall terminate. If, within the _____-day acceptance period described above, Grantee expressly rejects Grantor's offer or makes a Counteroffer as described above, this agreement and all of Grantee's rights under it shall terminate, subject to Grantee's second offer rights described above. Upon the termination of this agreement for any reason other than Grantee's express rejection of Grantor's offer or Grantee's making of a Counteroffer, Grantor may market, offer for sale, agree to sell or sell the Property to any other party for whatever price and on whatever terms Grantor may choose, without any further obligation under this agreement.

7. Term of right of first offer. This right of first offer shall begin at _____ a.m. on _____ [date], and shall continue until _____ p.m. on _____ [date], unless terminated sooner in accordance with this agreement.

8. Grantor's right to encumber and lease. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this agreement, grantor shall have the right during the term of this right of first offer to mortgage or otherwise encumber the Property and to grant leases for all or parts of the property, as Grantor sees fit; however, Grantor may not lease all or any part of the Property for a term of more than _____ years, including renewal periods, and may not grant any lessee an option to purchase all or part of the Property.

9. Warranty of title. Grantor warrants and represents that Grantor is the sole owner of good, fee simple, marketable title to the Property and has full authority to grant this right of first offer.

10. No assignment by grantee. Grantee may not assign its rights under this right of first offer agreement. Any direct or indirect assignment of Grantee's rights under this agreement shall automatically terminate this right of first offer and all of Grantee's rights hereunder.

11. Broker. The parties warrant and represent that no broker brought about or participated in this right of first offer agreement or transaction. Grantee shall indemnify and hold Grantor harmless against all liabilities and expenses (including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees) arising from any claims for brokerage on this transaction based on any act of Grantee. The warranties, representations and agreements contained in this paragraph shall survive any conveyance of the Property pursuant to this right of first offer agreement.

12. Time of the essence. Time is of the essence in this agreement.

13. Binding effect. This right of first offer shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective representatives, successors and assigns.

14. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

15. Governing law. This agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of _____.

16. Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

17. Entire agreement. This agreement supersedes all prior agreements between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof, and there are no other understandings or agreements between them. This agreement can only be modified by a written instrument signed by both Grantor and Grantee.

18. Notices and correspondence. All notices and correspondence shall be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the parties hereto at the following addresses:

If to Grantee, to: _____ Avenue, City of _____, State of _____.

Part IV. Forms
A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.10

FORM 21.10 Option related forms--exercise--assignment--extension

COMMENT

Notice of exercise of option

The notice to the optioner that an option to purchase is being exercised normally does not require any particular form. Its contents will depend mainly upon the terms of the option agreement itself. The date of the option agreement and the property under option should be referred to in the notice. It should be sent as required by the agreement, whether by registered or certified mail. It is advisable to send the notice of exercise with a return receipt requested, whether or not this is required by the option agreement.

Often the option agreement requires the optionee to designate the date and time of closing the sale and, if so, this should be spelled out in the notice. If the agreement provides that any other action be taken at the time of exercise, such provisions must, of course, be followed by the optionee. The prime objective of the notice of exercise is to set in motion the events leading to the sale of the optioned property to the optionee.

Assignment of option

While the rights and obligations of an assignee of an option will be subject to all of the provisions of the option agreement, the instrument of assignment may be relatively simple. It must identify the option agreement. If the original option was recorded, or if it was drawn in recordable form, the assignment of the option should also be in recordable form. The assignee should require the assignor to deliver the original option agreement with the assignment. It may be advisable also to require the assignor to deliver other papers relating to the property, such as any survey, title search, development plans, municipal resolutions, variance applications, and the like. In addition to recording the assignment of the option, notice of the assignment should be given to the grantor of the option.

Assignment tax aspects

Gain or loss upon a sale of an option to purchase real property is entitled to capital gain treatment. The character of the loss will determine whether or not it is deductible. If the option is to purchase a personal residence, loss on the sale of the option would not be deductible. If the optionee is a dealer in options or would have been considered a dealer with respect to the property under option had the option been exercised, any gain or loss realized from the sale of the option would be considered ordinary gain or loss. See the Tax Background § 21.03[3] at the beginning of this chapter.

Extension of option

This set of forms includes an agreement to extend an option for specific periods upon the payment of additional sums. The optionor's receipt of consideration for an option generally is treated as a nontaxable transaction until the option is exercised or forfeited. If the option is exercised, the additional amounts paid for the extensions, in addition to the consideration for the initial option period would become part of the optionee's basis for the property purchased. If the option expires without being exercised, the consideration received by the optionor is ordinary income. See TB § 21.03[4]

A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.11

FORM 21.11 Offer to purchase--revocable until accepted--offeror's option to terminate if premises damaged

COMMENT

The following forms are offers to purchase real estate. No consideration is paid but earnest money is deposited by the offeror which is to be returned if the offer is not accepted during the period in which it is open. Since the consideration paid for an option may be substantial, the option period may be longer than is the case with an offer to purchase. The open period of an offer is usually short in order to avoid the use of the offer by the owner of the property to obtain a higher price with other prospective purchasers.

Offer written as a contract:

An offer should always contain all of the essentials of the contract of sale, so that nothing more will be required to bind both parties other than the acceptance of the owner. The offer, upon its acceptance, becomes a contract that is binding on both parties.

Acceptance of offer:

The most desirable and practical form of notification to the offeror of the acceptance is the delivery of a copy of the offer containing the owner's executed acceptance.

The offer form:

The form may be used in transactions involving residential and uncomplicated income property where the condition of record title is known. All of the essential elements of the contract of sale are present including escrow instructions. Upon acceptance, the offeror is obligated to place the earnest money into escrow and the owner is obligated to pay an agreed commission out of escrow upon the consummation of the transaction.

If the premises are damaged or destroyed prior to the transfer of possession, the offeror has the option of receiving the proceeds of any insurance payable in connection with the damages or destruction or terminating the agreement and recovering all funds he had paid.

A. OPTIONS AND OFFERS

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.12

FORM 21.12 Offer to purchase--irrevocable term--purchase through escrow--liquidated damages upon default

COMMENT

This form contains all of the essential elements of a contract of sale, including escrow instructions. This offer is irrevocable for a period of ten days.

The owner's acceptance binds all parties. The owner is obligated to deliver and the offeror obligated to accept such title as is reflected in the existing title commitment which the offeror has seen.

Tax aspects

Neither the earnest money nor the deposit of the balance of the purchase price into escrow are taxable to the seller until title passes, which is when the sale is deemed to have taken place. The earnest money would be considered as part of the purchase price to the seller and included in the basis of the property to the purchaser. See The Tax Background § 21.03, at the beginning of this chapter.

Earnest money, liquidated damages

If the purchaser defaults after acceptance by the seller, the earnest money will be retained by the seller as liquidated damages which would be considered as ordinary income. For the purchaser, the damages would be considered as a deductible business or investment expense if the property for which the offer was made was intended for use in a trade or business or for the production of income. Whether a liquidated damage clause will be given effect would depend upon applicable local law.

Columbus, Ohio

June 16, _____[year]

The undersigned, ABC Corporation ("Purchaser"), offers to purchase from Charles Axelrod ("Seller"), certain real estate known generally as 1220 Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio ("Property"), the legal description of which is contained on Exhibit A attached hereto and made a part hereof.

The terms and conditions of this offer are as follows:

1. Purchase price The purchase price for the Property shall be $100,000, payable by Purchaser as follows:

(a) The sum of $10,000 to be paid to Seller as earnest money on the date hereof, the same to be deposited in a trust or special account and deposited in escrow as hereinafter provided; and

(b) The balance of $90,000 to be deposited in escrow as hereinafter provided.

The foregoing balance of $90,000 shall be payable in cash or its equivalent and all or any part thereof may be by an irrevocable commitment for mortgage financing issued by a reputable lending institution committing it to lend the required sum to Purchaser and to deposit the same in escrow on or before the closing date.

2. Closing date and possession. The closing date of this transaction shall be September 1, _____ [year] and possession of the Property shall be surrendered to Purchaser on that date.

3. Title. Seller shall convey, to Purchaser or its nominee, marketable title to the Property by good and sufficient general warranty deed, with any dower rights released. The deed shall warrant title to be free and clear of all liens, charges, encumbrances, clouds and defects, except for any restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements and conditions of record approved by Purchaser, and except for zoning ordinances, and general and special taxes and assessments which are a lien but not due and payable. The deed shall be deposited with the escrow agent on or before the closing date. Before the deed is deposited into escrow, however, a copy thereof shall be submitted to Purchaser's counsel for approval.

4. Title insurance. Seller shall accompany its deed with a title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price issued by the Home Title Insurance Company (the "Title Company"), in its customary form, guaranteeing the record title to the Property to be good in Purchaser subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed. Notwithstanding the above, Purchaser may elect, by giving written notice to the Escrow Agent before the closing date, to be furnished with an Owner's Fee Policy of title insurance in the amount of the purchase price, prepared by the Title Company, insuring the marketable title to be good in Purchaser, subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed. In such event, in lieu of a certificate of title guaranty, Seller shall furnish Purchaser with title insurance. Seller shall pay the portion of the costs that would have been incurred had a certificate of title guaranty been issued, and Purchaser shall pay the remaining costs.

5. Preliminary title report. Immediately upon accepting this offer, Seller shall order from the Title Company a preliminary title report in the form of a commitment to issue the required title policy requested by Purchaser ("Title Report"). A copy of the Title Report shall be delivered to Purchaser within ten days of the date of acceptance. Within five days after Purchaser receives the Title Report, it shall notify Seller and the Title Company of all restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements, liens and conditions of record ("title defects"), disclosed in the Title Report which are objectionable to Purchaser. If Purchaser notifies the Seller of any title defects, Seller shall have until the closing date to cure or remove the defects. Seller shall be obligated to remove all such objectionable title defects that may be removed by the payment of money, and shall take all reasonable steps necessary to remove any other title defects.

6. Title insurance contingency. On the closing date, the Escrow Agent shall notify the parties whether or not the Title Company is in a position to issue the guaranty or title insurance, as the case may be, showing as exceptions only those items in the Title Report to which Purchaser did not object. If the Escrow Agent notifies the parties that: (1) The Title Company will issue such a guaranty or title insurance, this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement; or that (2) the Title Company will not issue such a guaranty or title insurance, and if Seller does not forthwith cure the title defects that the Escrow Agent recites as preventing such issuance in the form approved by Purchaser as aforesaid (or within such period of time as Purchaser in its sole discretion permits), or Purchaser does not forthwith waive the same, this Agreement shall be automatically void and of no further force and effect. The Escrow Agent shall thereupon return to the parties their respective funds and documents deposited into escrow, and they shall be fully released from any liability or obligation hereunder, except Seller shall pay the full cost of the escrow and the charges of the Title Company. If Purchaser waives the title defects preventing such issuance by so notifying the Title Company and the Escrow Agent, or if Seller has cured the same as permitted above, the obligations of the parties hereunder shall not be affected by reason thereof, there shall be no abatement or reduction of the purchase price, and this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this offer, except that any title defects waived by the Purchaser shall be set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title guaranty or title insurance, as the case may be.

13. Irrevocable term. In consideration of the payment to Purchaser by Seller of the sum of $10, receipt of which is acknowledged, Purchaser agrees that this offer shall be irrevocable until 5 p.m. June 30, _____ [year]. If an accepted copy of this offer is not delivered to Purchaser by that time, this offer shall be deemed revoked and Seller shall promptly refund the earnest money to Purchaser.

14. Binding effect. Upon acceptance, this offer shall become the agreement which shall be binding upon and accrue to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, and shall constitute the sole and entire agreement between the parties hereto with regard to the subject matter hereof.

All recertifications of such survey, and all other surveys which may be required in connection with the closing of this transaction, shall be at Purchaser's expense.

Article VII Damages and/or Condemnation

7.01. Casualty. If prior to the closing of this transaction the Improvements or any portion thereof are destroyed or materially damaged (as defined in Section 7.02) by fire or other casualty and if Purchaser shall elect within ten days after the date of such fire or other casualty, such election to be made in the manner required in Section 11.07 hereof for service of notice:

(a) This Agreement shall become null and void and all payments previously made by Purchaser to Seller shall be returned to Purchaser, if Purchaser gives notice of such election at or before the closing; or

(b) This transaction shall close in accordance with the other provisions of this agreement, and Seller shall at closing assign to Purchaser all claims arising under any policy of insurance covering such destruction or damage.

7.02. Material damage. "Material damage" is damage to the Real Estate caused by fire or other casualty of such a nature that the cost of restoring the property to its prior condition will exceed $100,000. If the damage is not material damage, the transaction shall close in accordance with and subject to the conditions of Section 7.01(b). At any time after such destruction or damage, and before closing, Seller may proceed to settle all such insurance claims, regardless of whether Purchaser has made its above election or of the nature of the election.

7.03. Condemnation. If any governmental or other entity with condemnation authority institutes an eminent domain proceeding against the Real Estate before the closing, Purchaser may terminate this Agreement by giving notice to Seller if Seller decides that the balance of the Real Estate remaining after the taking contemplated by the proceeding would not be suitable for carrying on the business for which the Real Estate is presently used. If Purchaser does not, or is not entitled to, terminate this Agreement, Seller shall assign to Purchaser, at closing, all of Seller's interest in the proceeding and in any resulting award.

Article VIII Closing of Possession

8.01. Closing. This transaction shall be closed upon a date to be designated by Seller. The date shall be within 60 days following the approval referred to at Section 12.01 subject, however, to the provisions of Section 6.03. The transaction shall be closed at the address of the Real Estate, in Rosewood, Indiana, or at any other place the parties agree upon.

8.02. Delivery of possession. Possession of the Property shall be delivered to Purchaser at closing subject to the Lease and other Permitted Exceptions.

Article IX Prorations

9.01. Adjustments. All items customarily prorated and adjusted in connection with the closing of the sale of property similar to the Real Estate shall be prorated and adjusted between the parties and computed as of 11:59 p.m. of the day immediately preceding the closing date. The prorations and adjustments shall include the following:

- (a) General real estate taxes and personal property taxes upon the basis of the amounts of the most recent ascertainable taxes;
- (b) The current installment of any special tax or assessment;
- (c) Assignable insurance policies shall be cancelled or assigned at Seller's election and prepaid premiums adjusted as required;
- (d) Water and other utility charges, and assignable utility deposits;
- (e) Prepaid or unpaid amounts under the service and other agreements subject to which conveyance is to be made, including those listed at Exhibit G, and the agreements shall be assigned to Purchaser at closing;
- (f) Prepaid or unpaid amounts of fees and other charges for license and permits assigned by Seller to Purchaser;
- (g) Rents, security deposits, and other payments under the Lease;
- (h) Security deposits, if any, and deposits by guests in excess of their current indebtedness as of the closing or with respect to reservations after the closing;
- (i) Guest ledger accounts relating to guests residing in the Lodge at the closing shall be collected by Purchaser for the benefit of Seller concurrently with the collection by Purchaser from such guests for periods after the closing. All collections from guests residing in the Lodge at or before the closing shall be allocated first to the oldest items due from the respective guests and Purchaser shall use its reasonable best efforts to effect such collections. Purchaser shall make remittances to Seller weekly for the first 30 days after the closing and then on the second and third monthly anniversary of the closing. Purchaser shall return all items unpaid at the end of the three months to Seller for its own collection efforts;

(j) Income from guests in the Lodge as of 11:59 p.m. on the date before closing shall be allocated with respect to the "hotel day" starting on the day before closing and continuing over to the next calendar day, shall be allocated in equal shares to the parties, and shall be remitted at the times set forth in paragraph (i) above;

(k) There shall be no proration with respect to payroll. Seller shall pay all accrued wages (including all pro rata vacation allowances and Social Security taxes) through the closing to its employees and the Corporation's employees in the normal course;

(l) Purchaser shall pay all state and local transfer or similar taxes.

Article X Purchaser's Representations and Covenants

10.01. Authorization. Purchaser Corporation represents and warrants to Seller that the execution and delivery of this Agreement by Purchaser has been duly authorized, and that the Agreement creates legally enforceable obligations as to Purchaser in accordance with its respective terms.

10.02. Resolutions. Purchaser Corporation, at Seller's request before closing, shall deliver to Seller certified copies of appropriate shareholder/director resolutions authorizing this transaction, in form reasonably acceptable to Seller and the title insurer.

10.03. Broker's commission. Purchaser shall pay all fees, commissions, or other compensation which shall be or become due and payable to any broker, consultant, agent, or finder in connection with this transaction. Purchaser shall also indemnify and hold Seller harmless from and against all claims, demands, actions, causes of actions, debts, liabilities, judgments, and damages (including costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, including those incurred by Seller in connection with the enforcement of this indemnity) which are asserted or recovered against Seller on account of any brokerage fee, consulting fee, commission or other fee arising out of or in connection with this transaction, or by reason of any matter or alleged matter which is inconsistent with Purchaser's representations in this Section.

10.04. "As is" sale. The parties expressly agree that the Property (including the Land, Improvements, Lease, and Tangible Property) is sold on an "as is" basis only. Purchaser has examined the Property and the assets of the Corporation and is completely satisfied with their condition. Seller does not make any warranties and representations, expressed or implied, as to the state of the Property, and assets, their area, condition, quality, quantity, character, size or description or suitability or fitness for any use, whether existing or contemplated, matters of zoning or survey, or in any other respect, and makes no agreement as to the condition of title except as expressly provided. Purchaser waives all rights conferred by statute or other law to make any claim against Seller before or after the closing of this transaction with respect to any matter arising out of or in connection with any of the foregoing.

10.05. Assignment. This Agreement, and/or any interest of Purchaser hereunder, may not be assigned in whole or in part without Seller's prior written consent.

10.06. No recordation. This Agreement shall not be recorded in whole or in part, and any party doing so or causing same to be done shall be deemed to be in default of this Agreement for all purposes hereof.

10.07. Assumption documents. Upon the closing of this transaction, Purchaser shall execute and deliver to Seller, in form acceptable to Seller, Purchaser's agreement to assume and be responsible for all obligations of Seller and the Corporation under all instruments affecting the Property and transferred in connection with the closing of this transaction, including, without limitation, the Lease, all licenses and permits, and all contracts and agreements listed in Exhibit G.

Article XI Miscellaneous

11.01. Entire agreement. This instrument contains the entire Agreement between the parties. Neither Seller nor its agents has made any representation or promise with respect to, or affecting the Property or this Agreement not expressly contained herein.

11.02. Governing law. This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Indiana.

11.03. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

11.04. Earnest money. Seller shall hold the Earnest Money payment and the original of this Agreement for the mutual benefit of the parties, but Purchaser's Earnest Money checks shall not be negotiated before the date of the approval referred to in Section 12.01.

11.05. Time of essence. Time is expressly declared to be of the essence of this Agreement.

11.06. Default; specific performance. If Seller defaults, Purchaser may enforce specific performance of this Agreement, or may terminate the same and recover the Earnest Money and all other payments made on account of the purchase price. The preceding remedies shall be exclusive and in lieu of all other remedies provided by law, including, without limitation, the recovery of damages of any type.

If Purchaser defaults, Seller may enforce specific performance of this Agreement, or may terminate it and retain the above Earnest Money payment of 15 percent of the purchase price as Seller's liquidated damages. Neither party shall then have any further right or claim against the other.

11.07. Notices. All notices under this Agreement shall be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the parties at their last known addresses.

11.08. Survival of conditions. The terms and conditions of this Agreement, and all representations, covenants, warranties, and agreements made herein, shall survive the closing of this transaction, and shall not be deemed to have merged or terminated upon closing.

11.09. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective successors and assigns.

11.10. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

Article XII Acceptance by Seller

12.01. Acceptance. This offer to purchase shall be irrevocable until Seller accepts or rejects the same, or until December 10, _____ [year], whichever occurs first. Upon its acceptance by Seller, this offer shall constitute the agreement between the parties upon all of the terms and conditions contained herein. If Seller does not accept this offer by the above date, it shall be deemed rejected and the Earnest Money paid hereunder shall be returned to Purchaser.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.15

FORM 21.15 Contract for sale of residence--purchase money mortgage--title subject to existing mortgage--mortgage contingency--settlement adjustments

COMMENT

This contract can be used for a variety of real estate sale transactions. Although practices and legal requirements vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction, this contract contains many useful sections for dealing with common problem areas, such as financing, title conditions, settlement adjustments, and pest inspections.

Gain or loss recognized on sale

Most dispositions of real estate result in the realization and recognition of gain or loss to the seller. Gain or loss is the difference between the adjusted basis of the property sold and the consideration received by the seller. The date of the completion of the transaction usually fixes the tax year in which it must be reported by the seller. The nature of the property determines whether capital gain (or loss) or ordinary income (or loss) is realized by the seller.

Time of sale

The execution of a contract of sale does not in itself result in the realization of gain or loss. Usually, the sale does not occur until the transaction is completed. Generally this is when title passes. In some special situations the transaction may be completed before title passes, for example, when possession is transferred to a buyer under a contract of sale. See The Tax Background (TB) § 21.03 at the beginning of this chapter. The date of the completion of the transaction determines the holding period of property.

Adjusted basis

A seller's adjusted basis of his property, generally, is his original basis (usually cost, which includes the mortgages involved in acquisition) adjusted for improvements, other capital expenditures and for cost recovery or depreciation prior to the sale, if any. Cost recovery or depreciation is taken into account only with respect to real property used in a trade or business or held for the production of income, but not for property used exclusively as a residence. The consideration received by the seller is the cash plus the fair market value of other property received, such as the purchaser's obligations to pay in the future, plus outstanding mortgages which the purchaser assumes or to which the property is subject. See TB § 21.04.

Capital or ordinary gain or loss

Whether the gain or loss on the sale of real property is capital or ordinary depends upon whether the property is: (1) a capital asset; (2) "Section 1231" property; or (3) dealer property. These classifications are discussed in TB § 21.05. In general, a taxpayer's own residence is a capital asset, so that gain on its disposition ordinarily qualifies as capital gain.

Gain on Sale of Residence

For sales after May 6, 1997, an individual may exclude from his income up to $250,000 of gain ($500,000 on a joint return in most situations) realized on the sale or exchange of a principal residence. The exclusion may not be used more frequently than once every two (2) years. Gain may only be excluded if, during the five (5) year period that ends on the date of the sale or exchange, the individual owned and used the property as a principal residence for periods aggregating two (2) years or more. Short, temporary absences for vacations or seasonal absences are counted as periods of use, even if the individual rents out the property during those periods of absence. The ownership and use tests may be met during non-concurrent periods, provided that both tests are met during the 5-year period that ends on the date of the sale or exchange. The amount of excludable gain is $500,000 for married individuals filing jointly if (i) either spouse meets the ownership test; (ii) both spouses meet the use test; and (iii) neither spouse is ineligible for exclusion by virtue of a sale or exchange of a residence within the prior two (2) years. The exclusion is determined on an individual basis. Therefore, if a single individual who is otherwise eligible for an exclusion marries someone who has used the exclusion within the two (2) years prior to the sale, the newly married individual is entitled to a maximum exclusion of $250,000. Once both spouses satisfy the eligibility rules and two (2) years have passed since the exclusion was allowed to either of them, they may exclude up to $500,000 of gain on their joint return.

In some instances, a partial exclusion from gain recognition may be available even if the ownership and use requirements are not met, or if there has been a prior sale or exchange for a principal residence with two (2) years. This relief is available for taxpayers who sell or exchange their principal residence after May 6, 1997. See T.B. Section 21.14[4].

The exclusion does not apply, and gain is recognized, to the extent of any depreciation adjustments with respect to the rental or business use of a principal residence after May 6, 1997. In determining the period of ownership and use of a current residence, taxpayers may include periods of ownership and use of all prior residences with respect to which gain was rolled over to the current residents under former Code Section 1034.

If the residence does not qualify from the exclusion because it is not a principal residence, for example a vacation residence, there is the possibility gain could be avoided by converting the vacation residence to a rental property and then exchanging it for another rental property as part of a like-kind exchange. For a discussion of a like-kind exchange, see TB § 21.12. There is a recently enacted revenue procedure discussed in TB § 21.12[2] which provides a safe harbor. The safe harbor allows for an exchange of a vacation residence used primarily for rental purposes for a two year period before the exchange, if the replacement rental property is also used primarily for rental purposes for a two year period after the exchange. See Rev. Proc. 2008-16, discussed in TB § 21.12[2] above, for the specific requirements which must be met to qualify for the safe harbor.

Deductible and nondeductible loss

A loss incurred by an individual on the sale of real property is deductible only if the property was held by him in his trade or business or as an investment for a profit. A loss on the sale of the taxpayer's own residence generally is not deductible. However, if the property is leased by the taxpayer prior to its sale, a loss may be deducted if the property is deemed to have been converted into an investment for profit. The basis for determining the loss is the value of the property on the date of its change to rental use, adjusted for cost recovery allowances. Cost recovery is computed on the cost of the property or on its value on the conversion date, whichever is less. When the property is held partly for personal use and partly for income producing purposes, a proportionate part of the loss on its sale is deductible. The deductible loss is computed by apportioning cost, selling price, cost recovery or depreciation, and selling expenses, as if there were two separate transactions.

Reporting gain or loss

An important question in connection with gain or loss on a sales transaction is the time when it is to be reported. When the purchase price is fully paid in cash, gain or loss is reported when the transaction is completed. However, there are two types of sales in which part or all of the payment is not made at the time of the sale. One class is that which qualifies as an installment sale. The second class includes deferred payment sales. Installment and deferred payment sale rules, as well as the original issue discount rules, are discussed in TB §§ 21.10 and 21.11.

Information reporting of real estate transactions

The attorney or title company responsible for closing title is responsible for reporting the real estate transaction to the IRS. In addition a statement must be provided to the customer before January 31 of the year following the closing. If an attorney or title company is not involved in the closing, the information reporting is the responsibility of the mortgage lender. The information reporting requirements are discussed in TB § 21.02[4].

Plain language laws apply to consumer transactions

New York, and a few other jurisdictions, have adopted plain language laws which generally require contracts for consumer transactions to be written in plain language. Plain language laws generally provide for damages and penalties for violations; however, such violations do not render the underlying contract void or voidable and are not a defense to an action under the contract. New York's law, similar to other plain language laws, requires the consumer contract to be written in a clear and coherent manner using words with common and everyday meaning, with appropriate divisions and captions. The law applies if the subject of the contract involves money, property, services or leases of personal property used primarily for personal, family or household purposes and a consumer is a party to the agreement. The law does not apply, however, to agreements involving amounts over $50,000, which exempts most real estate transactions. New York General Obligation Law Section 5-702. Other jurisdictions with plain language laws, however, may not include such an exemption. Because the price exceeds $50,000, the following contract is not a plain language agreement.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. The information required by law includes both specific information about the property being sold and general information about lead-based paint hazards. The seller must disclose known lead-based paint and lead-based paint hazards and provide available records and reports to the purchaser. The seller also must give the purchaser the pamphlet, developed by EPA, HUD, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), titled "Protect Your Family From Lead in Your Home." The purchaser must be given a 10-day period to conduct a lead-based paint inspection or risk management at the purchaser's expense. The parties have flexibility to negotiate the key terms of the evaluation. Finally, the sales contract must include certain notification and disclosure language. The law also does not invalidate a sales contract that does not include the required disclosure; however, any person who violates the lead disclosure requirements may be subject to civil and criminal penalties, as well as treble damages in a private civil suit. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

FORM

CONTRACT OF SALE made May 1, _____ [year], between John Curran, residing at 134 E. 67th Street, New York, New York ("Seller"), and Harrison Whitman, residing at 200 Chester Street, New York, New York ("Purchaser").

1. Sale. Seller shall sell, and Purchaser shall purchase the property, including all buildings and improvements thereon, erected, situated, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, more particularly described as follows (the Premises):

(Insert description)

2. Street rights. This sale includes all the right, title, and interest, if any, of Seller in and to any land lying in the bed of any street, or highway opened or proposed, in front of or adjoining the Premises, to the center line thereof. It also includes any right of Seller to any unpaid award by reason of any taking by condemnation and/or for any damages to the Premises by reason of grade of any street or highway. Seller shall deliver to Purchaser on demand, at or after closing, and at no additional cost to Purchaser, any document that Purchaser may require in order to collect the award and damages.

3. Personal property. All fixtures and articles of personal property, attached to or used in connection with the Premises, are included in the sale unless specifically excluded. Seller represents that the fixtures and personal property are paid for and owned by him free and clear of all security interests or liens other than the existing mortgage(s). The following fixtures and personal property are included in this sale: heating, air conditioning, plumbing, electrical and lighting fixtures, bathroom and kitchen fixtures and cabinets, storm windows and doors, screens, shades, venetian blinds, awnings, window boxes, mail boxes, wall-to-wall carpets, mantels, sump pumps, well pump, shrubbery, fences, exterior sheds, ranges, refrigerators, freezers, washing machines, clothes dryers, dishwashers, garbage disposal units, and drapery and curtain hardware and rods.

Not included in this sale are the following: furniture, household furnishings, drapes, curtains, microwave oven, automatic garage door openers, fireplace equipment, and trash compactor.

4. Purchase price. The purchase price is $250,000, payable as follows:

By check on the signing of this contract, subject to collection, to be held in escrow by Seller's attorney	$25,000
By allowance for the principal amount remaining unpaid on the Existing Mortgage	$110,000
By a Purchase Money Note and Mortgage from Purchaser, as assigns, to Seller	$60,000
Balance due and payable at closing	$55,000

5. Purchase money mortgage. The Purchase Money Note and Mortgage in the amount of $60,000 shall be drawn on the standard forms of Central Title Company by Seller's attorney at Purchaser's expense. Purchaser shall pay the mortgage recording tax, recording fees, and the attorney's fee of $500 for preparation of the mortgage. If this sale is subject to an Existing Mortgage, the Purchase Money Note and Mortgage will state that it is subject to the prior lien of any Existing Mortgage, and to any extension or modification of the Existing Mortgage made in good faith. It also shall be subject to the new mortgage being obtained by Purchaser described in Section 23. below. If any required payments are made on an Existing Mortgage between now and closing, which reduce the unpaid principal amount of an Existing Mortgage below the amount shown in this agreement, the balance of the price payable at closing will be adjusted.

6. Existing Mortgage. The Premises will be conveyed subject to the lien of an Existing Mortgage as follows: Mortgage now in the unpaid principal amount of $110,000 and interest of 12 percent per year payable in monthly installments of $1,484.35, which include principal, interest, and real property taxes, and with any balance of principal and interest being due and payable on July 31, _____ [year]. If there is a mortgage escrow account that is held for the payment of taxes, insurance or other expenses, Seller will assign it to Purchaser, if it can be assigned, and Purchaser will pay the amount of the escrow account to Seller at the closing. Seller states that:

- (a) The principal amount shown above for the existing mortgage is reasonably correct and only the payments required by the Existing Mortgage will be made;
- (b) No Existing Mortgage contains any provision requiring the prior consent of the holder of the mortgage to the transfer of the Premises and if no consent is obtained allowing the holder of the mortgage to require its immediate payment in full or to change any interest rate or other terms by reason of the transfer of title or closing; and
- (c) Any Existing Mortgage will not be in default at the time of closing.

7. Title conditions. The Premises are sold and are to be transferred subject to:

- (a) Laws and government regulations that affect the use and maintenance of the Premises, if they are not violated by the buildings and improvements existing on the Premises or by their current use;
- (b) Consents by Seller or any former owner of the Premises for the erection of any structure or structures on, under, or above any street or streets on which the Premises abut;

(c) Encroachments of stoops, areas, cellar steps, trim, and cornices, if any, upon any street or highway;

(d) Any state of facts an accurate survey may show, provided that it does not render title unmarketable; and

(e) Any covenants and restrictions of record, if they are not violated by existing use of the Premises.

8. Mortgage estoppel certificate. If there is a mortgage on the Premises Seller shall deliver to Purchaser at closing a certificate dated not more than 30 days before closing signed by the holder of each Existing Mortgage, in form for recording, certifying the amount of the unpaid principal and interest, date of maturity, and rate of interest. Seller will pay the fees for recording the certificate.

9. Violations. Seller shall comply with all notes or notices of violations of law or municipal ordinances, order, or requirements noted in or issued by any governmental department having authority as to lands, housing, buildings, fire, health and labor conditions affecting the Premises at the date of this contract, and the premises shall be conveyed free of them. This provision shall survive closing. Seller shall furnish Purchaser with an authorization to make the necessary searches. If the Premises are located within New York City, Seller shall discharge at closing all obligations affecting the Premises incurred under the Administrative Code of the City of New York and payable in money. This provision shall survive closing.

10. Assessments. If, at the time of closing, the Premises are affected by any assessment which is or may become payable in annual installments, and the first installment is then a lien, or has been paid, for the purposes of this contract all the unpaid installments shall be deemed to be due and shall be paid by Seller at closing.

11. Items to be apportioned. The following are to be apportioned as of midnight of the day before closing:

(a) Rents as and when collected;

(b) Interest on existing mortgage(s);

(c) Premiums on existing transferable insurance policies or renewals of those expiring before the closing;

(d) Taxes, water charges, and sewer rents, if any, on the basis of the fiscal year for which assessed;

(e) Fuel, if any; and

(f) Vault charges, if any.

If the closing occurs before a new tax rate is fixed, the apportionment of taxes shall be upon the basis of the old tax rate for the preceding period applied to the latest assessed valuation.

If there is a water meter on the Premises, Seller shall furnish a reading to a date not more than 30 days before closing, and the unfixed meter charge and sewer rent, if any, shall be apportioned on the basis of the last reading.

All errors or omissions in computing apportionments of any of the above items at closing shall be corrected, and this provision shall survive closing.

12. Lien of purchaser. All money paid on account of this contract and the reasonable expense of the examination of the title to the Premises and of any survey and survey inspection are made liens on and are collectible out of the Premises.

However, the lien shall not continue if Purchaser shall default in the performance of this contract.

13. Purchaser's credit for unpaid items. As an adjustment to the purchase price, Seller may credit Purchaser with the amount of all unpaid taxes, assessments, water charges, and sewer rents, plus any interest and penalties, to a date not less than five days after the closing, if the official bills, computed to that date, are produced at closing. If Seller is required to pay and discharge at closing anything else affecting the sale, he may use any part of the balance of the purchase price to discharge the same. Alternatively, Seller may deposit money with Purchaser's title insurance company to assure discharge, but only if the company will insure Purchaser's title free and clear of the matter or insure against its enforcement against the Premises. Upon request made within a reasonable time before closing, Purchaser shall provide separate certified checks as requested to assist in clearing these matters.

14. Judgment affidavit. If a title examination discloses judgments, bankruptcies, or other returns against other persons having names the same as or similar to that of Seller, Seller will deliver to Purchaser at closing an affidavit showing that they are not against Seller.

15. Default by seller. If on the closing date Seller is unable to convey title in accordance with the terms of this contract, the closing shall be delayed up to 30 days to allow Seller to cure the defects preventing such conveyance of title, unless Purchaser agrees to waive such defects and take title subject to such defects.

16. Closing, deed. The term "closing" as used in the contract means the settlement of the parties' obligations hereunder to each other. Closing includes the payment of the purchase price to Seller and the delivery to Purchaser of a bargain and sale with covenants against grantor's acts deed in the proper statutory form for recording to transfer full ownership, fee simple title, to the Premises, free of all encumbrances except as stated in this contract. The deed will contain a covenant by Seller required by Section 13 of the Lien Law.

If Seller is a corporation, it will deliver to Purchaser at closing (a) a resolution of its Board of Directors authorizing the sale and delivery of the deed, and (b) a certificate of its Secretary or other authorized officer certifying the resolution and stating the facts showing that the transfer conforms with the requirements of Business Corporation Law Section 909. The deed will contain a recital sufficient to establish compliance with that Statutory section.

The closing will take place at the office of Purchaser's lending institution at 10:00 A.M. on July 1, _____ [year].

17. Title. Seller shall give and Purchaser shall accept any title that a reputable title company which is a member of the New York Board of Title Underwriters will be willing to approve and insure at standard rates with their standard form of title policy, subject only to the matters specifically excepted in this contract.

18. Payments by acceptable funds. All money payable under this contract shall be paid, unless otherwise specified, as follows:

(a) Cash, but not over $1,000,

(b) Good certified check of Purchaser, or an official check of any bank, savings bank, trust company, or savings and loan association having a banking office in New York State, payable to the order of Seller, or to the order of Purchaser duly endorsed to the order of Seller in the presence of Seller or his attorney,

(c) Money other than the purchase price, payable to Seller at closing, may be by Purchaser's check up to the amount of $500, or

(d) As Seller or his attorney otherwise agrees in writing.

19. Risk of casualty loss. Seller assumes the risk of loss or damage to the premises by fire or other casualty until delivery of the deed.

20. Broker. Purchaser has not dealt with any broker in connection with this sale other than Wilson Real Estate & Company. Seller shall pay the broker the commission earned under a separate agreement.

21. Transfer and recording taxes. Seller will deliver a certified check at the closing payable to the order of the appropriate State, City or County officer in the amount of any applicable transfer tax, recording tax, or both, payable by reason of the delivery or recording of the deed, together with any required tax return. Purchaser shall duly complete the tax return and cause the check and the tax return to be delivered to the appropriate officer promptly after closing. Seller will also deliver a signed certificate of exemption from the capital gain tax applicable to New York real property transfers.

22. "As is" condition. Purchaser has inspected the buildings on the Premises and the personal property included in this sale and is fully acquainted with their condition. Purchaser shall purchase the Premises, buildings and personal property "as is" and in their present condition subject to reasonable use, wear, tear and natural deterioration between now and closing. Purchaser may, after reasonable notice to Seller, inspect them before closing.

23. Mortgage contingency. This contract is conditioned upon Purchaser's ability to obtain, at his expense, a conventional mortgage loan in the principal amount of $50,000, to be amortized over a period of not less than 25 years, with interest at the prevailing rate at the time of closing for a second mortgage. Such mortgage shall be subject to the Existing Mortgage, but not the Purchase Money Mortgage. Purchaser shall with due diligence apply to a lending institution or institutions for such a loan and fully cooperate with their procedures in the processing thereof. Purchaser shall have 45 days from the date hereof to obtain a firm commitment for the mortgage loan. If Purchaser does not receive such commitment before the expiration of such period, either party may cancel this contract. Cancellation shall be in writing, by certified mail. Upon cancellation, all money paid hereunder by Purchaser shall be returned to him, and neither party shall have any further rights or obligations hereunder with respect to the other party.

24. Pest inspection. Purchaser shall, at his expense, obtain a termite inspection of the Premises within ten days after the date hereof. If the inspection report indicates the presence of termite infestation, Seller may either eliminate the infestation or cancel the contract by returning Purchaser's down payment. If Seller decides to do either, he shall give Purchaser appropriate notice within ten days after the termite inspection report is received. If notice is not given within the ten day period, Seller shall eliminate the reported infestation at his expense. If Seller does not receive the termite inspection report within 15 days after the date hereof, this paragraph shall be unenforceable and void.

25. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

26. Oral modification. No provision of this contract may be modified or waived unless in writing and signed by the party against whom the enforcement of such modification or waiver is sought.

27. Binding effect. This contract shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective executors, administrators, legal representatives, heirs, successors, distributees, and assigns.

28. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right under this contract, and no partial or single exercise of that right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

29. Headings. Headings in this contract are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

30. Governing law. This contract shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New York.

31. Counterparts. This contract may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

32. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this contract.

33. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the parties at their last known addresses.

This contract has been duly executed by the parties.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.16

FORM 21.16 Contract for sale of residence--seller warranties--time of essence--late closing per diem penalty--mortgage contingency--purchaser's form

COMMENT

The attorney for the purchaser of residential real estate should want the specific inclusion of clauses in a contract of sale which protect the purchaser's interest. These clauses emphasize what are of principal concern to the buyer. The practical importance of the various purchaser oriented clauses will vary in each situation. For example, a purchaser may feel the price of the home is sufficiently low to reflect the elimination of any warranties or "working-order" representations in the contract. On the other hand, a buyer may be paying a higher price than he otherwise would because he is relying on the move-in and good working-order condition of the house. Some purchaser clauses may be absolutely essential to the buyer, such as a mortgage contingency, because without the mortgage funds, the buyer would be unable to complete the closing.

Mortgage contingency:

More often than not the buyer will require borrowed funds to pay for the house, and condition performance upon obtaining a written mortgage commitment from a financial institution. The mortgage contingency clause sets forth certain basic minimum requirements. The amount of the mortgage required is an essential element. From the buyer's perspective this amount should be as high as reasonably possible. If the commitment comes in at a lower principal amount, the buyer can waive the clause and still close with the lower mortgage amount. If, on the other hand, the stated mortgage contingency amount is too low, the buyer may receive a commitment for that amount and will remain bound by the contract but might be unable to come up with the additional cash at the time of closing.

The interest rate can be for a stated percentage for the term of the loan or for the initial year(s), or for the "prevailing rate." The set percentage favors the purchaser, especially in times of rising interest rates, because he can claim the contingency is not satisfied if a commitment is received at a rate higher than set forth in the contract. If the contingency sets forth the "prevailing rate" then a higher interest rate would be binding on the buyer. The term of the mortgage, usually 25 or 30 years, will affect the size of the periodic payments on the mortgage. To be in a position to evaluate these terms, the attorney should obtain information on the current local mortgage market situation. This information can be obtained most readily from mortgage officers at local banks and real estate brokers or salesmen.

Seller's warranties and representations:

The purchaser would like as many express representations or warranties written into the contract as are reasonably negotiable. A representation is a statement of existing fact which induced a party to enter into the contract. Therefore, if the representation is false or mistaken, the party to the contract, who was induced to enter the contract based upon the representation, can sue for rescission and restitution of all funds paid, or if not rescinded, can sue for damages related to the misrepresentation. A warranty is a statement that certain facts do and will exist, and is included as a term of the contract. If the warranty is breached, the injured party has an action for damages, but not, necessarily, for rescission. The contract, upon breach of warranty, would otherwise generally remain binding.

A provision or statement that the representations or warranties will survive closing of title and will not merge with the deed should assure a right of action after closing if the representation proves false, or if the warranties are breached. The inclusion of representations and warranties in the contract also assists in resolving problems which may arise before or at closing.

Marketable title:

Despite the general rule of caveat emptor in real estate transactions, some limited obligations are placed upon the seller by common law. Included is the implied obligation of the seller to convey good or marketable title. The contract can expressly state that obligation and even broaden it. The seller might represent that unencumbered title, insurable title, or title free of encroachments will be conveyed.

Violations of municipal or other local laws are not title encumbrances per se, and would not be included in the seller's implied obligation to convey marketable title. Therefore, an express representation that the seller has not violated any local laws--zoning ordinances, health codes, multiple dwelling laws, building codes, fire ordinances, etc.--would protect the buyer in this regard.

Condition of premises:

Traditionally, absent an express warranty regarding the condition of the premises, personalty and fixtures, it was generally assumed that the property was transferred in its "as is" condition. In recent years, a variety of common law and statutory implied warranties and disclosure requirements in many states have eroded the traditional rule of caveat emptor, or "let the buyer beware." A growing majority of states now require the seller and/or the seller's agent to disclose facts which materially affect the value or desirability of the property, especially if such adverse facts are peculiarly within the seller's knowledge and are not discoverable by a reasonable inspection. The seller may be required by law or contract to give the purchaser a written report on the condition of the property.

Sellers and brokers have been held liable to purchasers for both physical defects in the property and nonphysical facts about the property, such as alleged ghosts, murders and former occupants infected with the AIDS virus.

Consequently, it is advisable to specify the condition of the premises to be transferred in the contract and to expressly state whether any representations or warranties in the contract will survive the closing. Often the contract provides that the personalty and fixtures are sold "as is;" but contains a contingency which allows a purchaser to obtain a structural inspection of the property. Under the contingency, the purchaser reserves the right to terminate the contract if the inspection shows that there are any substantial structural defects.

The parties are free to include express warranties as to the condition of the property in the contract of sale. Sometimes the seller is willing to warrant that certain systems or structural parts of the premises are in working order or good working order. The seller's attorney may wish to avoid the phrase "good working order," which not only may require more than "working order," but may require the seller to improve the premises at the closing. The seller may prefer a contract provision that specified systems or structural parts of the premises are sold in their present condition subject to reasonable use, wear, tear and natural deterioration between the contract date and the closing.

The purchaser should require that the seller, if required by local ordinances, have the property inspected by the local governmental authority for any code violations, and repair any such violations prior to the closing. Many communities have such local ordinances called "point of sale" ordinances, to assist in keeping its housing stock up to code. These ordinances require an inspection and any violations corrected prior to allowing a residential property to be sold.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards:

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.13, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

Preclosing property inspection:

As a practical matter, a substantial question of fact may exist as to whether a certain household system was in good repair or in good working order on a specified date. The usefulness of this clause comes into play in the preclosing inspection of the premises by the buyer. The right of inspection should be expressly provided for in the contract, especially where there are representations regarding the condition of certain items. It should be done even if there is a "point of sale" inspection done by the local governmental authority because the latter usually just deals with code violations. If an item is not in the represented condition then adjustments can be made before or at closing. The situation can be remedied by the preclosing repair of the defective item by seller, the escrow of funds at closing to cover the estimated cost of repair by the buyer, or a straight credit to the buyer or lowering of the purchase price at closing. The buyer's attorney may prefer to set forth a specific remedy in the contract, or to handle the problems as they may arise.

Date of possession:

Usually, unless otherwise agreed, the seller is obligated to surrender possession of the property to the buyer as of the date of closing. Problems often arise and the transfer of possession can be delayed. For example, the seller's mover might not be available until a week after closing. If the seller is buying another home, that closing may occur at a later date. The buyer might want an earlier closing date because his mortgage commitment will expire before the contract closing date, or the old residence must be vacated.

Time of essence and alternatives:

If the buyer must be in possession as of the date of closing, some attorneys make the closing date an essential part of the agreement, by making time of the essence. Care is required here, because if the closing does not occur on the specified date, the buyer may be left with a claim for damages and no house to move into. If a seller fails to close on the date specified in the contract, where time is of the essence, the contract is breached. There is a conflict of authority as to whether the buyer is thereafter entitled to specific performance. As a practical matter, however, a time of the essence clause puts a substantial burden on the seller to be ready to close and surrender possession on the date specified, or to otherwise obtain a written extension of time from the buyers.

An alternative to the time of the essence clause is a per diem penalty clause, whereby the seller is obligated to pay so much per day to buyer for each day he remains in possession after the closing date specified in the contract. This induces the seller to surrender possession on the closing date in the contract, but does not carry the risk to the buyer that a time of the essence clause would entail.

Escrow closing:

In some jurisdictions the practice is to close real estate transactions through professional escrow companies. The objective is to place responsibility for all the details of the transaction in a skilled intermediary. While all funds and all documents are cleared through this intermediary, the function of the attorney is not eliminated. It is his responsibility to see that his client, whether seller or purchaser, gets precisely what he bargained for in the transaction. This imposes upon the attorney the obligation to see that the instructions to the escrow agent are fully consistent with the terms of the contract between the parties, and that these instructions are carried out by the escrow agent.

Most instructions to the escrow agent fix the period during which the escrow is to continue. The activities of the escrow agent may in many cases extend over a period of weeks or months, depending upon the complexity of the title or transaction. Nevertheless, the intention is that the payment of the purchase price and the passage of title and of possession occur on the closing date even though some details of the escrow may extend beyond that date

AGREEMENT made at Dayton, Ohio, on June 1, _____ [year], between Joseph P. Allen ("Seller"), and John W. Collins ("Buyer").

The parties agree as follows:

1. Sale. Seller shall sell and convey to Buyer, and Buyer shall purchase and pay for, the premises located at 1622 Fourth Street, Dayton, Ohio, described in Exhibit A. The premises shall include the land and all buildings, fixtures, improvements, rights, privileges, and easements appertaining thereto (the "Property"). The personal property identified on Exhibit B shall be included as part of this transaction.

2. Price. The total purchase price for the Property is $160,000, payable by Buyer as follows:

(a) $10,000 in cash or by check upon the execution of this agreement, delivered to Seller or Seller's broker, to be deposited into escrow with the escrow agent.

(b) The balance of the purchase price, namely $150,000, in cash or certified check, or partly in cash or certified check and partly by an irrevocable commitment for mortgage financing issued by a reputable lending institution committing it to lend Buyer a portion of the purchase price. The entire balance shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date of this transaction.

3. Time of essence. The closing date of this transaction shall be on or before March 3, _____ [year]. Time is of the essence for the closing of this Agreement. If Seller is unable to deliver possession of the Property to Buyer or Buyer's nominee by March 3, _____ [year], other than for any reason caused by Buyer's acts or omission, Seller shall pay to Buyer $100 per day until Seller is able to deliver possession to Buyer.

4. Mortgage Contingency. This Agreement is subject to Buyer obtaining a commitment by February 14, _____ [year], from a reputable lending institution of a mortgage loan of at least $128,000 payable in equal constant monthly payments over a period of 25 years or longer, with interest at the prevailing rate and a loan fee or points of 1 percent or less. Buyer shall endeavor in good faith to obtain a mortgage loan on the above or more favorable terms, but if Buyer is unable to obtain such a commitment by the aforesaid date, this Agreement shall be null and void, all funds and documents shall be returned to the respective parties, and neither party shall have any rights against the other.

5. Seller's warranties. Seller warrants and represents to Buyer as follows:

(a) Encroachments. All improvements now on the Property are entirely within the boundary lines of the land described on Exhibit A, and no other adjoining property encroaches upon the land;

(b) Mechanic's liens. All work and labor performed and all materials furnished with respect to any improvements or repairs to the Property have been paid in full, and there will be no mechanic's liens or the possibility of any in connection with any such work, labor and materials performed on or furnished to the Property;

(c) Violations. Seller has no knowledge of any outstanding notices or orders from any governmental authority with respect to the condition of the Property or its repair, or with respect to any claim of a violation of any laws, ordinances, zoning codes, building codes or orders;

(d) Structural soundness. To Seller's best knowledge and belief, the personal property included as a part of this transaction and the improvements on the Property are structurally sound and in good condition and repair, including, without limitation, the roof, foundation, walls, heating and cooling system, plumbing, water and electrical systems; and

(e) Assessments. All improvements made by the local government that now benefit or will benefit the Property upon completion have been assessed against it as of the execution date of this Agreement.

All of Seller's foregoing warranties and representations shall be continuing in nature, shall be effective on the closing date, and shall survive Seller's delivery of the deed to Buyer and the consummation of all matters and things at the closing.

6. Title and deed. Seller shall convey to Buyer, or Buyer's nominee, good and marketable title to the property, by good and sufficient general warranty deed with all dower rights released. The deed shall warrant title to be free and clear of all liens, charges and encumbrances, clouds and defects, except any restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements, and conditions of record approved by Buyer, zoning ordinances, and general and special taxes and assessments which are a lien but not yet due and payable. The deed shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date, but a copy thereof shall be submitted to Buyer's counsel for approval prior to the same being deposited into escrow.

7. Title guaranty, insurance. Seller shall accompany Seller's deed with a title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price issued by General Title Company ("title company") in its customary form, guaranteeing record title to the Property to be good in Buyer subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed. However, Buyer may elect to be furnished with an Owner's Fee Policy of title insurance ("title insurance"), in the amount of the purchase price, insuring marketable title to be good in Buyer, subject only to the exceptions to be contained in the deed. In such event, in lieu of a title guaranty policy, Seller shall furnish Buyer with title insurance. Seller shall pay that portion of the costs which would have been incurred had a title guaranty policy been issued, and Buyer shall pay the remaining costs.

8. Preliminary title report. Immediately upon the execution hereof, Seller shall order from the title company a preliminary title report, with a special tax search included, in the form of a commitment to issue the required title policy requested by Buyer ("title report"). A copy of the title report shall be delivered to Buyer. Within 10 days after Buyer receives the title report, he shall notify Seller and the title company of all restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements, and conditions of record ("title defects") disclosed in the title report that are objectionable to Buyer. If Buyer notifies Seller of title defects, Seller shall cure or remove the same by the closing date. Seller shall remove all objectionable title defects that may be removed by the payment of money, and shall take reasonable steps necessary to remove all other title defects.

9. Title contingency. On the closing date, the escrow agent shall notify the parties whether the title company is then in a position to issue its title guaranty or title insurance, as the case may be, showing as exceptions only those items in the title report to which Buyer did not object. If the escrow agent notifies the parties that (a) the title company will issue such title guaranty or title insurance, this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, or (b) the title company will not issue such title guaranty or title insurance, and if Buyer does not immediately waive the title defects claimed by the escrow agent to prevent such issuance or Seller does not cure the defects within the permitted period, this Agreement shall be null and void, the escrow agent shall return to the parties all funds and documents previously deposited by them into escrow, and the parties shall be fully released from any liability or obligation hereunder, except that Seller shall pay the full cost of the escrow and the title company's charges.

10. Title defects waiver. If Buyer waives the title defects preventing issuance of the title guaranty or title insurance by notifying the title company and the escrow agent, or if Seller has cured the title defects, the obligations of the parties shall not be affected by them. There shall be no abatement or reduction of the purchase price, and this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, except that any title defects waived by Buyer, shall be set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title guaranty or the title insurance, as the case may be.

11. Casualty. If the building or buildings or any other improvements on the Property are damaged or destroyed before transfer of record title, and the damages are $3,000 or less, this Agreement shall continue in full force and effect and Seller shall immediately assign to Buyer all of Seller's rights to the resulting insurance proceeds. If the damages are greater than $3,000, Buyer may either (a) continue this Agreement in full force and effect, and Seller shall immediately assign to Buyer all of Seller's rights to the insurance proceeds, or (b) rescind this Agreement, and all money, papers, or documents deposited by the parties shall be returned to them. Buyer shall assume risk of loss after record title to the Property is transferred to him. There shall be no proration of insurance. Seller shall retain his insurance until record title is transferred to Buyer, and Buyer shall procure his own policies of insurance to be effective from and after the date title to the Property is transferred to Buyer or his nominee.

12. (a) Point of Sale Inspection. Prior to the closing date, Seller agrees to correct, at Seller's expense, any violations found in connection with the inspection done to comply with the point-of-sale or similar ordinance required by the local governmental authority, if any. Evidence in writing that the corrections were made to the satisfaction of the local governing authority shall be given to Buyer prior to the closing date.

12. (b) Possession. Seller shall deliver possession of the Property as of the closing date, in the condition as warranted by Seller and in no event in any worse condition than the condition as of the date of execution of this Agreement, less reasonable wear and tear.

13. Utility charges. There shall be no proration of utilities. Seller shall cause the meters to be read for water, electricity, gas and other utilities, if any, as of the date of delivery of possession, and shall pay all utility charges to the date of the readings, after which the charges shall accrue to Buyer. The sum of $200 shall be held in escrow as security for the payment of utilities until Seller deposits into escrow receipts evidencing such payment.

14. Taxes, rents. All general and special real estate taxes and assessments shall be prorated by the escrow agent as of the date the deed is filed for record, using the rate and valuation shown on the last available tax duplicate. If the proration does not fully reimburse Buyer for all real estate taxes and assessments accrued and unpaid with respect to the Property as of the record date of transfer of title, Seller shall promptly reimburse Buyer that amount accrued in excess of the proration credit upon the official certification of the real estate tax duplicate for the year in which transfer of title occurs. The escrow agent shall prorate any rents as of the date the deed is filed for record.

15. Broker's commission. No real estate broker was involved in this transaction and no brokerage fees or other compensation is due any real estate broker or any other person because of this transaction except for Smith Co., whose commission of $10,000 shall be Seller's sole responsibility and shall be paid by the escrow agent from the funds deposited into escrow and charged to Seller, if and when the transaction contemplated by this Agreement is consummated.

16. Escrow agent. This transaction shall be closed in escrow with an escrow agent of Buyer's choice ("escrow agent"). Buyer shall deposit with the escrow agent an executed counterpart of this Agreement, which shall serve as the escrow instructions. The escrow agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance, but if they are inconsistent or conflict with the terms of this Agreement, this Agreement shall control.

17. Closing documents; funds. If on the closing date (1) the escrow agent then has on hand all necessary funds and documents to complete the transaction, and (2) the title company has stated that it shall be in a position to and will issue and deliver, upon the filing of the deed for record, the required title guaranty policy or title insurance, the escrow agent shall thereupon file for record the deed and all other required instruments and shall deliver to each party the funds and documents to which it is entitled, together with the agent's escrow statement.

18. Seller's charges. In closing this transaction, the escrow agent shall charge Seller with the following:

- (a) the amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated up to and including the date of transfer of title;
- (b) the cost of any transfer tax;
- (c) the cost of a title report, title search, and title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price;
- (d) the cost of paying off and satisfying any mortgage indebtedness for which Seller is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee or other costs incident to the satisfaction of any such indebtedness;

(e) the cost of any required brokerage commission;

(f) one half of the escrow fee; and

(g) all other charges properly borne by Seller consistent with the terms of this Agreement;

and immediately thereafter shall deliver to Seller the balance of the funds in its hands due, and all documents due Seller.

19. Buyer's charges. On closing, the escrow agent shall charge Buyer with the following:

(a) any cost of financing this transaction which Buyer arranges for;

(b) the cost of filing the deed for record;

(c) the amount by which the cost of furnishing the title insurance exceeds the cost of furnishing a title guaranty policy, if Buyer elects to be furnished with title insurance;

(d) one half of the escrow fee; and

(e) all other charges properly borne by Buyer consistent with the terms of this Agreement;

and immediately thereafter, the escrow agent shall deliver to Buyer the title guaranty or title insurance, as the case may be, the record deed or Records' receipt, any prorations to which Buyer is entitled, and all other funds or documents due Buyer.

20. Notice. All notices under this Agreement shall be deemed to be sufficiently given if personally delivered or sent by certified or registered mail, postage prepaid, return receipt requested, and addressed as follows:

If to Seller, to:

If to Buyer, to:

21. Release of dower. Seller's spouse (if Seller is married), if not already a party, joins in the signing of this Agreement to evidence her consent to the terms and provisions hereof, including the obligation to release of all dower and other marital rights in the Property upon its conveyance to Buyer.

22. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns.

23. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of that right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

24. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

25. Governing law. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Ohio.

26. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

27. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

The parties have set their hands the day and year first above written.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.17

FORM 21.17 Contract for sale of residence--"as is" condition--title defect cure period--cash transaction--seller's form

COMMENT

The seller's form of a contract of sale is characterized by its lack of certain clauses which are primarily aimed at protecting the purchaser and the inclusion of clauses which protect the seller.

Title clause

One of the seller's principal obligations is to convey good or marketable title. If the seller's attorney is aware of encumbrances to title which cannot be removed, it should be specified in the contract that the title to be conveyed will be subject to such an encumbrance. Exceptions to title, which would most likely appear in the seller's own title guaranty or title insurance policy, would include utility easements, covenants and restrictions, minor encroachments or other items which do not substantially affect marketability. If these encumbrances are included in the contract, then the buyer's attorney is not in a position to object to them at closing.

Dealing with title objections

If unanticipated title problems arise at closing, the seller may be in breach of contract without time to cure the defect. The seller's attorney might provide in the contract that if the buyer raises title objections at closing, through his attorney or title insurance company, then the seller's attorney will have a specified amount of time, for example, 30 days, to cure the defect. Some contracts provide that the purchaser must notify the seller's attorney of any objections to title before closing, for example, 15 days prior to closing, or any defects will be deemed waived. The buyer's attorney should make or receive a title search sufficiently prior to closing to meet this deadline.

Condition of premises

Traditionally, absent an express warranty regarding the condition of the premises, personalty and fixtures, it was generally assumed that the property was transferred in its "as is" condition. In recent years, a variety of common law and statutory implied warranties and disclosure requirements in many states have eroded the traditional rule of caveat emptor, or "let the buyer beware."

The seller may want to avoid the risk of representing or warranting that the condition of the property is satisfactory, in good repair or in good working order, even if the seller is sure that there are no such problems. A seller's attorney can accomplish this by including an express disclaimer and "as-is" clause. The contract would provide that the purchaser has inspected the dwelling, is fully aware of its condition and agrees to accept the property "as is." An additional clause would disclaim any representation as to the condition of the property (or any of its components) made by the seller or any of the seller's agents, including real estate salesmen, brokers, or lawyers.

If warranties cannot be obtained, the purchaser should at least require the seller to correct any code violations that may be found in connection with the inspection done by the local governmental authority, if one is required. Many communities have adopted such ordinances, sometimes referred to as "point of sale" ordinances, requiring an inspection and correction of code violations found before a residence in the community can be sold.

Known defects

A growing majority of states now require the seller and/or the seller's agent to disclose facts which materially affect the value or desirability of the property, especially if such adverse facts are peculiarly within the seller's knowledge and are not discoverable by a reasonable inspection. The seller may be required by law or contract to give the purchaser a written report on the condition of the property. Sellers and brokers have been held liable to purchasers for both physical defects in the property and nonphysical facts about the property, such as alleged ghosts, murders and former occupants infected with the AIDS virus. Seller and brokers should also consider disclosure of known facts regarding the neighborhood where the property is located. For example, disclosure of a notice received from the local government pursuant to a state law version of "Megan's Law" requiring notices to be given to neighborhood property owners when a registered sexual predator has moved into the neighborhood.

Even where not required by local law, many brokers now recommend that sellers give such a report, to protect both the broker and the seller from liability for nondisclosure. Disclosure statements generally include information about structural defects, utilities, water, septic systems, defects in equipment and appliances, environmental problems and regulatory compliance.

The seller's attorney should discuss the relevant disclosure law with the seller to determine what disclosure must or should be made under the circumstances. If the seller is aware of any defects in the condition of the property or any of its components, the seller's attorney might be well advised to specify the defect, and the buyer's knowledge of it, in the contract. The existence of the defect may have led the parties to negotiate a lower sales price, and this should be noted in the contract.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

If the seller is aware of any defects in the condition of the property or any of its components, the seller's attorney might be well advised to specify the defect, and the buyer's knowledge of it, in the contract. The existence of the defect may have led the parties to negotiate a lower sales price, and this should be noted in the contract.

Mortgage contingency

Ideally, the seller's contract would be without contingencies, and the buyer would shoulder the risk of having the necessary purchase funds at closing. Some sellers' attorneys insist that the buyer obtain a written mortgage commitment prior to permitting their clients to sign the contract. The problem here is that many financial institutions will not issue a mortgage commitment unless there is a contract in existence. The practical realities of the situation may require the inclusion of a mortgage contingency clause in the contract.

The time period within which the purchaser must receive a mortgage commitment should be as short as reasonably possible, from the seller's perspective. The seller, by entering the contract, has taken the house off the market and is no longer receiving purchase offers. The time period should be long enough to permit a diligent purchaser to obtain a commitment, but not so long as to allow the purchaser the luxury of shopping around for the best possible mortgage at the seller's time and expense.

FORM

THIS AGREEMENT is made at Columbus, Ohio on August 11, _____ [year], between John Howard Jones, ("Seller") and William E. Coleman, ("Buyer").

The parties mutually agree as follows:

1. Sale. Seller shall sell and convey to Buyer, and Buyer shall purchase and pay for, the premises located at 1422 North Street, Columbus, Ohio, a legal description of which is attached hereto, made a part hereof, and marked Exhibit A. The premises shall include the land and all buildings, fixtures, improvements, rights, privileges, and easements appertaining thereto (the "Property"). The personal property identified on Exhibit B, attached hereto and made a part hereof, shall be included as part of this transaction.

2. Price. The total purchase price for the Property is $100,000, payable by Buyer as follows:

(a) $5,000 in cash or by check upon the execution of this Agreement, delivered to Seller or his broker. This sum shall be deposited into escrow with the escrow agent, designated in paragraph 12.

(b) The balance of the purchase price, $95,000, in cash (or certified check), or partly in cash (or certified check) and partly by an irrevocable commitment for mortgage financing issued by a reputable lending institution committing the institution to loan Buyer a portion of the purchase price. The entire balance shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date of this transaction.

3. Closing date. The closing date of this transaction shall be on or before November 3, _____ [year].

4. Deed. Seller shall convey the Property to Buyer by general warranty deed with dower rights released, if any, free and clear of all liens, encumbrances, clouds and defects, except restrictions, reservations, limitations, easements and conditions of record, all other conditions that would be disclosed by an accurate survey of the Property, zoning ordinances, and general and special taxes and assessments which are a lien but not yet due and payable. The deed shall be deposited into escrow on or before the closing date.

5. Title guaranty, insurance. Seller shall furnish Buyer with a title guaranty policy in the full amount of the purchase price, to be issued by Mid-West Title Company ("title company") in its customary form, guaranteeing record title to the Property to be good in Buyer, subject only to the allowed exceptions to be set forth in the deed. However, Buyer may elect to be furnished with an Owner's Fee Policy ("title insurance") in the full amount of the purchase price, subject only to the allowed exceptions to be contained in the deed. In such event, in lieu of a title guaranty policy, Seller shall furnish Buyer with title insurance. Seller shall pay the portion of the costs that would have been incurred had a title guaranty policy been issued, and Buyer shall pay the remaining costs.

6. Title contingency. On the closing date, the escrow agent shall notify the parties whether the title company is then in a position to issue its title guaranty or title insurance, as the case may be. If the escrow agent notifies the parties that (a) the title company will issue the title guaranty or title insurance, this transaction shall be consummated in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement, or (b) the title company will not issue the title guaranty or title insurance, and if Buyer does not immediately waive the title defects claimed by the escrow agent to prevent such issuance or if Seller does not immediately cure the defects, the closing of this transaction shall be postponed for a reasonable period of time, not to exceed 30 days, to permit Seller to remove the defects. If Buyer waives the title defects by notifying the escrow agent in writing, or if Seller cures such defects, as provided above, then this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect and the parties shall perform the same in accordance with the provisions hereof; provided however that any defects waived by Buyer, if any, shall be set forth as exceptions in the deed and in the title guaranty or the title insurance, as the case may be.

7. Taxes, rents. All real estate taxes and assessments shall be prorated by the escrow agent as of the date the deed is filed for record, using for such purpose the rate and valuation shown on the latest available tax duplicate. Any rents shall be prorated by the escrow agent as of the date the deed is filed for record.

8. "As is" condition. Except as hereafter stated, Seller shall deliver possession of the Property to Buyer in its "as is" condition as of the closing date, except for reasonable wear and tear.

9. Point of Sale Inspection. Prior to the closing date, Seller agrees to correct, at Seller's expense, any violations found in connection with the inspection done to comply with the point-of-sale or similar ordinance required by the local governmental authority, if any. Evidence in writing that the corrections were made to the satisfaction of the local governing authority shall be given to Buyer prior to the closing date.

10. Utilities. Seller shall cause the meters to be read for water, electricity, gas, and any other utilities, as of the date of delivery of possession, or as close thereto as is practicable. Seller shall pay all charges to the date of the readings, after which the charges shall accrue to Buyer. The sum of $200 shall be held in escrow as security for payment of the utilities until Seller deposits into escrow receipts evidencing their payment.

11. Broker's commission. The parties warrant and represent to each other that no real estate broker is involved in this transaction and no brokerage or other compensation is due any real estate broker on account of this transaction, except for ABC Real Estate Company which is owed a commission of $5,000. Seller shall be responsible for the commission, which shall be paid by the escrow agent from the funds deposited into escrow and which shall be charged to Seller upon the consummation of this transaction.

12. Casualty. If the building or any other improvement on the Property is damaged or destroyed before transfer of record title, and the damages are $10,000 or less, this Agreement shall continue in full force and effect and Seller shall immediately assign to Buyer all of Seller's rights to the resulting insurance proceeds. If the damages exceed $10,000, Buyer may either (a) continue this Agreement in full force and effect, whereupon Seller shall assign to Buyer all of Seller's rights, title and interest in and to the insurance proceeds, or (b) rescind this Agreement, whereupon all money, instruments, and documents deposited in escrow by the parties shall be returned to them. Buyer shall assume risk of loss after record title to the Property is transferred to him. There shall be no proration of insurance. Seller shall retain his insurance until record title is transferred to Buyer, and Buyer shall procure his own insurance policies to be effective from and after the date title to the Property is transferred to him.

13. Escrow agent. All funds and documents required to close this transaction shall be deposited with Mid-West Title Company (the "escrow agent"). Buyer shall deposit with the escrow agent an executed counterpart of this Agreement, which shall serve as the escrow instructions. The escrow agent may attach its standard conditions of acceptance, but if those conditions are inconsistent or in conflict with the terms of this Agreement, this Agreement shall control.

14. Escrow closing. If on the closing date (1) the escrow agent then has on hand all necessary funds and documents to complete the transaction, and (2) the title company has stated that it is in a position to and will issue and deliver, upon filing of the deed for record, the title guaranty or policy of title insurance, the escrow agent shall thereupon file for record the deed and all other required instruments, and shall deliver to the parties the funds and documents to which each are entitled, together with its escrow statement.

15. Expenses of seller. In closing this transaction, the escrow agent shall charge Seller with the following:

- (a) The amount of real estate taxes and assessments prorated as provided in Paragraph 7, up to and including the date of transfer of title;
- (b) The cost of any transfer tax;
- (c) The cost of a title search and of a title guaranty policy in the amount of the purchase price;
- (d) The cost of paying off and satisfying any mortgage indebtedness for which Seller is liable, together with the cost of any mortgage cancellation, recording fee or other costs incident to the satisfaction of the indebtedness;
- (e) The cost of any required brokerage commission;
- (f) One half of the escrow fee; and
- (g) All other charges properly borne by Seller consistent with the terms of this Agreement;

and immediately thereafter shall deliver to Seller the balance of the funds in its hands due, and all documents due Seller.

16. Expenses of buyer. On closing, the escrow agent shall charge Buyer with the following:

- (a) Any cost of financing this transaction which Buyer arranges for;

(b) The cost of filing the deed for record;

(c) The amount by which the cost of furnishing the title insurance exceeds the cost of furnishing the title guaranty, if Buyer elects to be furnished with title insurance;

(d) One half of the escrow fee; and

(e) All other charges properly borne by Buyer consistent with the terms of this Agreement; and immediately thereafter shall deliver to Buyer the title guaranty or title insurance, as the case may be, the record deed or Recorder's receipt, any prorations to which Buyer is entitled, and all other funds or documents due Buyer.

17. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, legal representatives, and assigns.

18. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

19. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

20. Governing law. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Ohio.

21. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

22. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this Agreement.

23. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

24. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the parties at their last known address.

The parties have set their hands the day and year first above written.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.18

FORM 21.18 Contract for sale of residence--purchase money installment mortgage--subject to first mortgage--advance notice of title defects

COMMENT

Many of the clauses in a sales contract raise important tax considerations. These include the clauses relating to taxes, assessments, interest on mortgages, expense of sale, and fire loss.

Deduction of allocable real estate taxes

Real property taxes are apportioned between a seller and purchaser. The real property tax properly allocable to that part of the year which ends on the day before the date of the sale is treated as a tax imposed on the seller. The tax properly allocable to that part of the year which begins on the date of the sale is treated as a tax imposed on the purchaser. The deduction is allowed only for the portion of the real property tax year during which the purchasers own the property, even though they actually pay the entire tax. The statutory allocation formula applies whether or not the parties themselves allocate the tax. Under the statute, the only governing factors are the date of sale and the real property tax year.

Timing of real estate tax deduction

If either the seller or the purchaser used the cash method of tax accounting, and is liable for the tax, his portion of the tax becomes deductible when he makes the payment. If the other party is liable for the tax, or if the other party holds the property at the time the tax becomes a lien, then the taxpayer who is entitled to a portion of the deduction is considered to have made his payment at the time of the sale. An accrual method taxpayer who has not elected to prorate real estate taxes is treated as having accrued on the date of the sale that portion of the real property tax which is allocable to him. The apportionment rules do not apply to delinquent real property taxes for any real property tax year prior to the year of sale.

Gain and basis not affected by tax allocation

The amount realized upon the sale or exchange of property by the seller does not include any amount received as reimbursement for real property taxes from the purchaser. It does include amounts representing real property taxes which are treated as imposed on the seller if such taxes are to be paid by the purchaser. These rules apply whether or not the contract specifies a reimbursement or reduction for the taxes in question. Similarly, the cost basis of real property does not include any amount of real estate taxes which are treated as imposed on the purchaser.

Property assessment tax treatment

Assessments against real property, depending upon their nature and purpose, may be deducted as taxes or are required to be capitalized. Deduction as a tax is allowed for those assessments levied for the general public welfare by the proper taxing authorities at a like rate against all property in the territory. Assessments for local benefits, such as street, sidewalk, and similar improvements, imposed because of and measured by the benefit inuring to the benefitted property, are not allowable deductions, but are usually capitalized. An assessment is generally a nondeductible capital expense when it is assessed against the local benefit to the property or properties affected, rather than against all properties within the jurisdiction of the taxing authority. Special assessments are not deductible, even though an incidental benefit may inure to the public welfare. However, to the extent that assessments are made for the purpose of maintenance and repair or for meeting interest charges on such benefits, they are deductible. But the burden is on the taxpayer to show the allocation of the amount assessed to the different purposes.

Mortgage interest deduction

Interest on a mortgage covering real estate, whether business or residential property, is deductible when paid or accrued by one who has a legal or equitable interest in the property, even though under a mortgage assumption no liability exists on the bond or note secured by the mortgage. Interest is not deductible if it represents an initial cost of the property. Interest which is properly chargeable to capital account may be capitalized or deducted at the taxpayer's annual option, except construction period interest which must be capitalized. Interest on a mortgage debt secured by real property which is subject to the passive loss rules is part of the passive activity losses. Passive activity losses can only be used to offset income from the same or other passive activities. The passive activity loss limitation is discussed in The Tax Background (TB) § 21.08, at the beginning of this chapter.

Document and recording costs tax treatment

This agreement allocates the various expenses of the sale between purchaser and seller. The purchaser is to pay for recording the deed, mortgage tax, for the cost of recording the mortgage, and for the cost of preparing the purchase money note and mortgage. The seller is to pay for the drawing of the contract and deed and for any sales tax on the transaction. These various nontax expenditures are not deductible. They increase the purchaser's cost and decrease the seller's amount realized from the sale.

Installment sale qualification

A transaction may qualify as an installment sale of real estate if at least one payment is made in a tax year following the year of sale. Since there need not be two payments, a lump sum paid in a year after the year of sale will qualify for installment treatment. The receipt of evidences of indebtedness of the person acquiring the property is not a payment. However, debt that is payable on demand or issued by a corporation or a governmental unit and readily tradable is payment when received. The sale may be one in which title is immediately transferred, with the seller protected by a mortgage, or one which anticipates a transfer of title after all or part of the selling price is paid. In order to use the installment method, the taxpayer need not make any affirmative election; the installment method is applied automatically unless the taxpayer elects not to use it. Installment sales are discussed in TB § 21.11.

Imputed interest in installment sale of residence

An installment sale of property with an inadequate rate of interest is subject to readjustment of the rate of interest and the principal amount. A special rule applies to an installment sale of a principal residence to the extent the purchase price of the residence does not exceed $250,000. If the installment payments include "unstated interest," the selling price must be reduced by the amount of such interest. If no interest is provided in the sales agreement, or if interest that is provided is more than 1 percent lower than the minimum currently required under the regulations, a portion of each payment will be treated as interest. The interest component of each payment will be treated as ordinary income to the seller, and will allow the purchaser a deduction. When the debt instrument given in exchange for property does not exceed $2.8 million, the imputed interest, or discount rate, cannot exceed 9 percent. See TB § 21.10[3].

Installment reporting of gain recognized

If the seller sells the old residence in an installment sale but gain realized exceeds the exclusion amount permitted under I.R.C. Section 121, the gain in excess of the excluded amount may be reported under the installment method. Because a residence is not eligible for cost recovery or depreciation allowances, there is no recapture of these items. Under the installment method of reporting income, gain is proportionately allocated under a formula each year that installment payments are received. The proportion of each installment that is realized as gain is the same proportion that the gross profit (in excess of the exclusion amount), realized or to be realized, bears to the total contract price. The contract price is the proceeds actually received or to be received by the seller. It does not include payments made or obligations assumed by the purchaser to the mortgagee. See TB § 21.11.

Information reporting of real estate transactions

The attorney or title company responsible for closing title is required to report the real estate transaction to the IRS. In addition a statement must be provided to the customer before January 31 of the year following the closing. If an attorney or title company is not involved in the closing, the information reporting is the responsibility of the mortgage lender. The information reporting requirements are discussed in TB § 21.02[4].

Mortgage assumption tax treatment

Mortgages assumed by the purchaser or mortgages to which the property is subject are not considered as part of the payments in the year of sale, except to the extent that the mortgage amount exceeds the seller's basis for the property.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.13, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

Purchaser may prepay all or any part of the principal without premium or penalty. In addition, Seller shall deliver to Purchaser satisfactory evidence of the balance due on the first mortgage debt and of the fact that the mortgage is not in default. Possession of the property will pass to Purchaser on the closing. The transfer of title is to include, without further consideration, all fixtures, appurtenances, and appliances now in the property, and all other

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.19

FORM 21.19 Contract for sale of residence--installment sale contract--deed delivered in escrow until after installments paid

COMMENT

This form is an installment sale contract which serves the dual purpose of a contract of sale and a recordable security device for the payment of the installments. Under the installment sale arrangement the deed to the property is deposited in escrow, held during the installment payment period, and finally delivered to the purchaser after the installments have been paid.

Terms of installment sale contract

Under this agreement, the purchase price is to be paid in annual installments over an extended period. The purchaser is permitted to take possession of the property upon the execution of the contract. The deed is placed in escrow with a title company and is not to be delivered to the purchaser until the purchase price is completely paid. If the buyer defaults, the seller may elect either specific performance of the contract, or may enforce a forfeiture. The general practice in this type of transaction is to record the contract of sale, so that the equitable rights of the purchaser in the property become a matter of public record.

Tax aspects

This arrangement constitutes an exception to the general rule that a sale is deemed to occur when title passes. See The Tax Background § 21.02 at the beginning of this chapter. Here the transaction is completed for tax purposes when possession is transferred, which is upon the execution of the contract. The retention of the deed by the escrow agent is recognized for what it is: a security device. After assuming possession, the purchaser is considered as the owner of the property and may deduct interest, taxes, and all other deductible items otherwise available to an owner.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

6. Delivery of deed in escrow. Seller's Warranty Deed conveying the property to Buyer, subject only to easements, reservations, restrictions, and exceptions affecting title to the property (which are identified on the deed and which have previously been approved by Buyer), has been delivered to Central Title in escrow. The Deed shall, as provided in the escrow instructions to Central Title, be delivered to Buyer as soon as Buyer fulfills her obligations hereunder to Seller.

7. Possession of property. Buyer may take possession of the property and continue in possession while this agreement remains in effect. Buyer shall maintain the premises and all improvements thereto in good repair, shall permit no waste, and shall take the same care of such property as would a prudent owner.

8. Assignment. No person having an interest under this agreement shall make any transfer or assignment of rights hereunder unless the assignment is made in a manner, and accompanied by deeds and other instruments required by Central Title, or until Central Title's regular escrow fee and other costs, including its charge for the issuance of a new Title Insurance Policy, are fully paid, and all instruments are deposited in escrow with it.

9. Indemnity of escrow agent. Both parties shall promptly pay, indemnify and hold harmless Central Title against all costs, damages, attorney's fees, and liabilities which it in good faith or without its fault, incurs or sustains in connection with this agreement or any court action arising hereunder.

10. Seller's remedies. If Buyer defaults in making any payment or in performing any other obligation hereunder, Seller may either bring an action against Buyer for specific performance, or enforce a forfeiture of Buyer's interest in any lawful manner, including forfeiture by notice as provided in the escrow instructions or supplemental escrow instructions given to Central Title in connection with this transaction. If a forfeiture is enforced, Buyer shall forfeit all rights and interests in and to the property and appurtenances, and shall immediately surrender to Seller peaceable possession of the property and forfeit to Seller, as liquidated damages, all payments made hereunder together with all improvements placed on or in the property. In no event shall the provisions of this paragraph or of the escrow instructions affect Seller's other lawful rights or remedies against Buyer.

11. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this agreement.

12. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

13. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

14. Governing law. This agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Arizona.

15. Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

16. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.20

FORM 21.20 Contract of sale--deferred installment payments--deed given when price balance equals existing deed of trust balance

COMMENT

This form illustrates a deferred payment contract of sale under which the buyer enters into possession of the property on the execution of the contract. The property is encumbered by a deed of trust. Payments are credited first to the payment of taxes and assessments against the property, secondly, for the payment of insurance on the property, third, for the interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase price, and, finally, for the reduction of the unpaid principal of the balance of the purchase price. The seller is not permitted to further encumber the property or make any improvements or additions without the consent of the buyer. The Seller is required to continue to make payments due on the debt secured by the deed of trust. If the buyer defaults, the seller is entitled to retake immediate possession and the payments made by the buyer will be credited to the reasonable rental value of the property during the period the buyer used and occupied it.

Deferred payment contract

The deferred payment requirements under this contract require the buyer to make monthly payments to the seller. Once the principal balance due under the contract equals the balance of an existing deed of trust, the seller will convey title to the purchaser and the purchaser will assume the deed of trust.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

FORM

AGREEMENT entered into July 3, _____ [year], by and between Hollywood Realty Co., a California corporation ("Seller"), and Charles Crosby, of Los Angeles, California ("Buyer").

1. Sale. Seller shall sell and convey, and Buyer shall purchase, the real property situated in the City of Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California, described as follows:

(Insert description)

on the following terms and conditions.

2. Purchase price. The total purchase price for the property is $1,500,000, payable as follows: $50,000 on the execution of this contract, receipt of which is acknowledged, and the balance in installments of $14,500 per month payable to Seller at any place or places it designates in writing on the first day of each month commencing August 1, _____ [year], and continuing until the full purchase price together with interest has been paid. Seller shall credit each such monthly installment as follows:

(a) First, to a trust fund for the payment of taxes and assessments that are levied, assessed, or accrue against the property during the continuance of this contract. The amount of each installment to be credited to the trust fund will be determined by dividing the latest available tax bill for the property by 12. If taxes or assessments are increased during the continuance of this contract, Buyer's monthly installments shall be increased by the amount necessary to pay the tax or assessment increase.

(b) Secondly, to a trust fund for the payment of premiums on insurance policies issued by insurance companies selected by Seller insuring all buildings and improvements on the property for their full insurable value, with loss payable to Seller, against loss by fire. Seller shall apply all monies which it collects from the insurance policy (or policies) to the payment of the then unpaid principal balance of this contract, plus interest, in any order it elects.

(c) Thirdly, to interest of 12 percent per annum from the date of this contract on the then remaining unpaid principal balance of the purchase price.

(d) Finally, to reduction of the then remaining unpaid principal balance of the purchase price.

3. Encumbrances. The property is subject to the following encumbrance which is outstanding at the date of this contract and will be paid by Seller according to its terms:

Deed of Trust recorded in Book 1027 at Page 101 of the Official Records in the Office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, California, securing a promissory note in the principal amount of $700,000 payable, together with interest on the remaining unpaid principal balance thereof at 12 percent per annum, to Home Savings and Loan Association in installments of $10,000 on the 15th day of each month and having an unpaid principal balance of approximately $600,000.

4. No future encumbrances by seller. Seller, after the date of this contract, shall not in any manner further encumber the property without Buyer's written consent.

5. No future work by seller. Seller, after the date of this contract, shall not undertake any additional off-site improvements or perform any other work on the property if it may result in the creation of a mechanic's lien on the property, unless Seller first obtains Buyer's written consent and files a surety bond with the city or county in which the property is located for the performance and payment of required materials and labor costs. If Seller undertakes additional improvements or work, it shall furnish the contractor with a copy of the Final Subdivision Report, issued by the California Real Estate Commissioner, pertaining to the tract and lot constituting the property.

6. Risk of loss. Buyer shall not be released from any obligation hereunder because of destruction of, or damage to, any present or future building or other improvement placed on the property, whether from fire or any other cause. Buyer shall bear all risk of loss to, or damage of, the property.

7. Condition and repair of property. Buyer acknowledges that as of the date hereof, the property, including the buildings and improvements thereon, are in good condition, order, and repair. Buyer shall, at his expense, maintain the property, buildings, and improvements in as good order and repair as they are now, reasonable wear and tear excepted.

8. Inspection and repair. Seller may enter upon and inspect the property, buildings, and improvements at least once during each calendar month. Buyer shall, at his expense, make all required repairs noted by Seller, within 10 days after Seller's written notice is given with respect thereto.

9. Maintenance of buildings. Buyer shall not remove or permit removal from the property of any building or other improvement without Seller's written consent, or commit or permit the commission of any waste of the property or of any building or improvement.

10. Alterations. Buyer shall not renovate, remodel, or alter any present or future building or improvement on the property, or construct any additional building or improvement thereon without first giving Seller written notice and submitting plans for the renovating, remodeling, or construction, for the purpose of receiving Seller's written approval with regard thereto.

11. Mechanics' liens. Buyer shall indemnify and hold harmless Seller and its property, including its interest in the subject property, from liability for all mechanics' liens or other expenses or damages resulting from any renovations, alterations, buildings, repairs, or other work placed on the property by Buyer.

12. Personal injuries. Buyer shall indemnify and hold Seller free and harmless from all demands, loss, or liability resulting from the injury to or death of any person or persons because of Buyer's negligence or strict liability or the condition of the property at any time after the date possession of the property is delivered to Buyer.

13. Possession. Buyer may enter into possession of the property on execution of this contract and continue in possession so long as he is not in default in its performance.

14. Default. Buyer's payment of all monies becoming due hereunder and the performance of all of his other obligations hereunder are conditions precedent to Seller's performance of any of its obligations herein contained. If Buyer fails either to pay any amount due within 15 days after the due date thereof, or to comply with any of his other obligations hereunder, then:

(a) Seller shall be released from all obligations in law or equity to convey the property to Buyer;

(b) Buyer shall forfeit all rights to the property or to its possession;

(c) Seller shall have an immediate right to retake possession of the property; and

(d) Payments previously made by Buyer under this contract shall be credited by Seller to the reasonable rental value of the property during the period Buyer had its use and occupancy, and any excess of such payments over the reasonable rental value shall be refunded to Buyer.

(e) In lieu of the foregoing, Seller may declare, by notice to Buyer, the entire unpaid balance of the purchase price specified in this contract to be due and payable, and may by appropriate action, in law or in equity, proceed to enforce payment thereof.

(f) All rights or remedies given herein to Seller shall not be exclusive of, but in addition to, all other rights and remedies which Seller may have at law or in equity.

15. Conveyance of title. When the remaining unpaid principal balance of the purchase price stated above equals (but does not exceed) the remaining unpaid principal balance owing on that certain promissory note secured by a Deed of Trust on the property in favor of Home Savings and Loan Association, Seller shall execute and deliver to Buyer, at his request, a good and sufficient deed conveying to him good and marketable title to the property, subject to the Deed of Trust, as evidenced by a standard form C.L.T.A. title insurance policy, in the full amount of the purchase price, which policy shall be procured and paid for by Seller. Buyer shall then assume the obligations on the promissory note and Deed of Trust.

16. No representations. Buyer has inspected the property and has been assured by means independently of Seller or its agents of the truth of all facts material to this contract. Buyer is purchasing the property, as it is described in this contract, as a result of such inspection or investigation and not by or through any representations made by Seller or its agents. Buyer waives all claims for damages or for rescission or cancellation of this contract because of any representations made by Seller or its agents, except for those expressly contained herein. Seller and its agents shall not be liable for or on account of any inducements, promises, representations, or agreements not contained herein. Seller has not authorized its agents or employees to make any warranties or representations with respect to the property, and if any are so made, the same shall not be binding upon Seller.

17. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

18. Attorney's fees. If any litigation is commenced between the parties concerning the property or this contract, or the parties' respective rights and duties hereunder, the prevailing party may recover, in addition to other relief granted, reasonable attorney's fees.

19. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed, if to Buyer, at the address of the property, or, if to Seller, at 100 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California. Either party may change its address by notifying the other party in writing as provided above.

20. Binding effect. This agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as Seller's consent to Buyer's assignment of this contract or of any interest herein, except as provided in paragraph 21.

21. Assignment. Buyer shall not, other than by will, intestate succession, or right of survivorship, assign this contract or any interest herein, without receiving Seller's prior written consent.

22. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this agreement.

23. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

24. Headings. Headings in this contract are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

25. Governing law. This agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of California.

26. Counterparts. This contract may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

Part IV. Forms

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.21

FORM 21.21 Contract of sale--cash and purchase money deed of trust

COMMENT

A contract for the sale of real property, such as a residence to be occupied by a buyer, should spell out the terms to be embodied in the deed which will be delivered upon closing. If the full purchase price will not be paid in cash at the closing, the seller may be willing to stand in the shoes of a mortgagee and accept a deed of trust arrangement whereby the unpaid balance is periodically reduced by payments to named trustees.

Deed of trust

In the standard deed of trust, payments are applied first to interest and then to the amortization of principal. For tax purposes, a deed of trust is treated like a mortgage:

- (1) Interest payments are deductible currently by the purchaser;
- (2) Payments of interest are ordinary income to the seller;
- (3) Payments of principal are returns of capital to the holder of the security interest.

Interest

Interest on a mortgage of the owner's residence is deductible when paid or accrued by a person who has a legal or equitable interest in the property. However, if it represents an initial cost of the property, interest is not deductible. It may be capitalized or deducted at the taxpayer's annual option if it is an item properly to be charged to the capital account.

Installment sale accounting for gain

If some or all of the sales price is paid after the year of sale, the installment method is applied automatically, unless the seller elects to the contrary. If the property sold is not the seller's residence, but was held in a business or for the production of income, any amounts recaptured as ordinary income due to prior deductions of accelerated cost recovery or accelerated depreciation (if any) are recognized and taxed in the year of sale, whether or not cash payments are received in the year of sale. After taking into account any recapture amounts, the gain in excess of the recapture amount is recognized proportionately each year installment payments are received. Under the installment method, the seller reports as income in any taxable year the proportion of the payments received during that year which the excess gross profit to be realized bears to the total contract price. The character of the gain is not changed by use of the installment method. For a further discussion of the installment method, see The Tax Background (TB) § 21.11 at the beginning of this chapter. See TB § 21.07 for coverage of the recapture rules.

Imputed interest

To the extent that the purchase price of an individual's principal residence does not exceed $250,000, interest may be imputed under a special rule. If a contract for the sale of an individual's principal residence by deferred payments provides for no interest, or for interest at a rate more than 1 percent below the rate set out in the Regulations, a prescribed portion of the gain must be treated as interest. If the debt instrument given for the property does not exceed $2.8 million, the imputed interest, or discount rate, cannot exceed 9 percent. The unstated interest is treated as ordinary income to the seller, and as an interest deduction to the buyer. See TB § 21.10[3].

Information reporting of real estate transactions

The attorney or title company responsible for closing title is required to report the real estate transaction to the IRS. In addition, a statement must be provided to the customer before January 31 of the year following the closing. If an attorney or title company is not involved in the closing, the information reporting is the responsibility of the mortgage lender. See TB § 21.02[4].

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

This provision shall survive delivery of the deed.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.22

FORM 21.22 Contract for sale of residence--deferred payments secured by landlord-tenant arrangement

COMMENT

In this form of contract the relationship between the seller and purchaser, pending payment of the full purchase price, is that of landlord and tenant. The purchaser takes immediate possession. He is to receive a deed upon completing payments of the required installments. During the tenancy period he is obligated to pay taxes, assessments, and water rents and is required as well to purchase fire and liability insurance. Upon default by the purchaser, the contract provides that the seller may recover possession by summary proceedings, usual in the landlord and tenant relationship. The effect and enforceability of this type of contract is a matter of local law. The purchaser will normally record the agreement so as to give public notice of his equity in the property.

Sale for tax purposes

From the tax viewpoint, the purchaser is treated as the owner of the property beginning with the date of his possession, so that all deductions for interest, taxes, and other proper items will thereafter be available to him. For the purpose of reporting gain or loss, the date of the change in possession is also the date of the completion of the transaction.

Deferred payment sale

The deferred payments under this contract are not represented by a note or mortgage or other negotiable document. The consideration given by the purchaser is only a contract right. If this sale cannot qualify as an installment transaction, the question is whether the seller realizes the value of the contract right in the taxable year of the "sale." When the seller holds a mere contract right so that there are no secured "obligations" with a fair market value, it seems that a cash basis seller is not taxable until he receives the payments. He reports gain only when the installment payments received by him exceed his adjusted basis for the property. The situation with respect to an accrual basis seller is less certain, although there is some authority for his receiving similar treatment. In either case (cash method or accrual method seller), if the transaction is treated as an installment sale, it may be subject to imputed interest because no interest is stated, and recognition of income may be accelerated under the proportionate disallowance rule. Deferred payment sales, imputed interest, and the proportionate disallowance rule are discussed in The Tax Background (TB) §§ 21.10 and 21.11, at the beginning of this chapter.

Information reporting of real estate transactions

The attorney or title company responsible for closing title is required to report the real estate transaction to the IRS. In addition, a statement must be provided to the customer before January 31 of the year following the transaction. The information reporting requirements are discussed in TB § 21.02[4].

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

FORM

AGREEMENT made February 12, _____ [year], between Ace Development Corporation, a domestic corporation with its principal office at 200 South Street, Albany, New York ("Seller"), and David Polling, residing at 105 Williams Avenue, Albany, New York ("Purchaser").

1. Sale. Seller shall sell and Purchaser shall purchase the following described property:

(Description)

2. Price and terms of payment. The total purchase price for the premises is $81,000, which Purchaser shall pay as follows:

(a) $1,000 on the execution and delivery of this contract, receipt of which Seller acknowledges; and

(b) $836.73 on April 1, _____ [year], and a similar sum on the first day of each subsequent month until the balance of the purchase price is paid in full. The monthly installments shall be applied, first, to the payment of interest at 10 percent per annum on all unpaid balances of the purchase price, and, second, to the reduction of the principal amount of the purchase price. The principal balance may be prepaid, in whole or in part, without premium or penalty. Partial payments of principal installments shall be applied to such installments in the inverse order of their maturity.

3. Deed upon full payment. Installment payments shall continue until the purchase price, plus accrued interest, is paid in full. At that time, Purchaser shall receive a deed in proper statutory form for record, containing the usual full covenants and warranty, duly executed and acknowledged by Seller, so as to convey to Purchaser the fee simple of the premises, free of all encumbrances except as follows:

(Enumerate exceptions in title)

4. Additional payments. In addition to the required monthly payments, Purchaser shall pay Seller, on the first day of every month, a sum equal to one-twelfth of (a) the annual taxes, assessments, and water rents taxed, assessed, or levied against the premises, and (b) the annual insurance premiums.

5. Apportionments. Taxes, water rates, and insurance premiums shall be apportioned as of March 1, _____ [year].

6. Insurance. Purchaser shall obtain and maintain not less than $80,000 of fire insurance to cover Seller's interest, and liability insurance in favor of Seller covering up to $100,000 for injury or death to a single person and up to $200,000 for any one accident.

7. Possession as tenant; default. Purchaser may enter into possession and occupancy of the premises on March 1, _____ [year]. Until delivery of the deed, all payments and improvements made to the premises shall be regarded as rent and the relationship between the parties shall be that of landlord and tenant. If Purchaser defaults in any manner in the performance of any of his obligations hereunder, including failure to make any payment within 10 days after its due date, Seller may maintain summary proceedings for Purchaser's removal from the premises, with the same force and effect as for the nonpayment of rent. In that event, and upon a final order in summary proceedings, Seller shall be released and discharged from all claims or obligations hereunder, and all payments made by Purchaser shall be deemed rent for the use and occupation of the premises, as herein previously provided.

8. Assignment. Purchaser shall not assign this contract without Seller's prior written consent.

9. Binding effect. This agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective heirs, legal representatives, successors, and assigns.

10. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

11. Headings. Headings in this contract are for convenience only and shall not be used to interpret or construe any of its provisions.

12. Governing law. This agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New York.

13. Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.23

FORM 21.23 Contract for sale of residence--contingencies for mortgage commitment, pest, mold and engineering inspections--broker's form--plain language form--seller warranties and representations

COMMENT

This form contains several provisions that are particularly useful in residential real estate sale contracts. These include the contingencies for a mortgage commitment, separate termite and structural-mechanical engineering inspections, and attorney approval. In addition, the contract includes a listing of specific personal property and fixtures sold with the property and seller representations and warranties about the condition of the building, fixtures, and appliances.

Contingencies for satisfactory inspection reports

Under this agreement, the purchaser is allowed to have the property inspected for termite and other pest infestation, for the existence of mold, and for structural and mechanical problems. If insect infestation or resulting damage is reported, the seller has the option to exterminate and repair any damage, or cancel the contract. If mold is found, the seller has the option to remediate the problem, or cancel the contract. The purchaser, however, may waive this or any other contingency in the agreement. If the structural-mechanical engineering report shows any defects, the seller may either correct the problem, credit the estimated cost of repair against the selling price, or cancel the contract. Because a negative report gives the seller the right to cancel and the buyer may waive the defects, the parties are in a position to negotiate who will pay for repairs or whether the costs will be shared. Although the buyer may waive the defects, there is the risk that the seller will cancel the contract and refuse to negotiate new contract terms. If the purchaser wants the benefit of the inspections, but with less risk of seller cancellation or renegotiation, the contingencies could be drawn in a different manner. Thus, the seller could agree to pay the cost of any reported defects, but only up to a specified amount. If the costs of correction exceed the specified amount, then the seller would have the option to cancel the agreement. Separate ceiling amounts may be provided for each inspection contingency, or the ceiling may apply to the total costs of repair and correction. This assures the purchaser that defects shown in the reports will be corrected, at least up to the specified cost, without increasing the purchaser's costs to complete the transaction.

Seller representations and warranties

The seller, in this agreement, assumes more responsibility than the minimum obligation to convey good or marketable title. For example, the seller warrants that, at the time of closing, the electrical, heating and various other building systems will be in good working order. This means that, beyond the risk of loss from fire or other casualty, the seller must maintain and repair these building systems until the closing. This obligation also extends to appliances included in the sale. The appliances are specifically listed in the provision which includes the fixtures and personal property also sold to the buyer. Other representations of the seller relate to environmental and hazardous material risks. For example, the seller states that a specific hazardous building material is not used in the building, and that the water source is a private rather than a community well and the water is drinkable or potable. For specific forms relating to environmental representations and warranties, see Vol. 33, Chapter 25, Environmental Considerations in Real Estate Transactions, infra. Other seller representations relate to local real estate tax reductions which may only apply to the seller and not the buyer. These representations may be used as a model for specific risks or tax laws in other locations.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

Approval by attorney

When a contract is made up by the parties themselves, or a real estate broker, attorney review and approval is advisable. This contract contains a three day review period by the attorneys, who are authorized to disapprove and void the contract. The provision in this agreement is one required by New Jersey law, but may serve as a model for contracts used by real estate brokers or others who frequently use contracts in real estate transactions. The attorney approval contingency would not be appropriate when the initial contract is drawn by an attorney for a client in a specific transaction. It would be useful, however, if the client intends to use the same form over and over, such as a real estate broker or developer.

Plain language laws

In some jurisdictions, consumer contracts are required to be written in plain language. Plain language laws generally provide for damages and penalties for violations; however, such violations do not render the underlying contract void or voidable and are not a defense to an action under the contract. New Jersey's plain language law covers leases and purchases of real or personal property, regardless of the value of the property, as well as other consumer transactions. Under that law, a contract with certain characteristics tends to negate its being a plain language form.

These include confusing cross references, longer than necessary sentences, double negatives, exceptions to exceptions, confusing or illogical order of sentences or sections, and use of obsolete words. That law requires the agreement to be simple, clear, understandable, and easily readable. The statute encourages a logical division of sections with captions, a table of contents or index for contracts over 3,000 words, and equal prominence and at least ten-point type for exception or conditions to the main promise. Although this form has been written in an attempt to comply with the plain language law, it has not been submitted to or approved by the New Jersey Attorney General for an opinion that it complies with the law as to its form and language.

CONTRACT OF SALE

Dated: May 7, _____[year]

1. Purchaser, seller and property. John Wells and Alice Wells, husband and wife, residing at 2 Elm Lane, Arrowwood, New Jersey, Purchaser, agree to purchase from James Mills and Carol Mills, husband and wife, residing at 43 Maple Road, Riverwater, New Jersey, Seller, the following property:

Lot 52, Block 5378 on a certain map entitled "Map of Riverwater Estates" filed in the Office of the Clerk of Morris County as Map No. 9876 on June 1, 1982; also known as 43 Maple Road, Riverwater, New Jersey

Being Lot 8, Block 987 on the Tax Map of Riverwater Township, N.J.

Approximate size of lot: 175 x 350, more or less or as an accurate survey may show.

2. Purchase price and payment

The total purchase price is $160,000

Payment as follows:

Initial deposit paid on signing this Agreement, for which this is a receipt, to be held in trust account $1,000

Additional cash deposit to be paid within 14 days after the later of this Agreement or written attorney approval of this Agreement $15,000

Amount of mortgage $120,000

Balance of purchase price, by cash or certified check, on delivery of warranty deed if Seller received one, otherwise a bargain and sale, with covenants against grantor's acts, deed $24,000

3. Deposit money. Cross out the paragraph which does not apply:

Delivered at closing. All deposit money paid by Purchaser will be held in Seller's attorney's trust account until the closing of title. At the closing the deposit money will be paid to Seller. If this contract is voided by either party, the deposit money will be disbursed pursuant to the written instruction of Purchaser or Purchaser's attorney and Seller.

Delivered before closing. Purchaser authorizes the delivery of all deposit money to Seller as soon as this Agreement is signed unless it contains contingencies which need to be satisfied. If there are unsatisfied contingencies, Seller's attorney will hold the deposit money until all of them are satisfied or waived, after which the deposit money will be delivered to Seller. If the contingencies are not satisfied or waived, the deposit money will be returned to Purchaser and this Agreement will be voided, as provided below.

4. Mortgage contingency. This Agreement is contingent on Purchaser obtaining a firm commitment for a conventional mortgage of $120,000 at prevailing interest rates for 30 years, with monthly payments based on a 30-year amortization payment schedule, secured by a first mortgage on the property. Purchaser will immediately apply for the mortgage commitment, and pay all application, origination, and other fees to obtain the mortgage financing. Unless Seller is notified that Purchaser will complete this transaction without the mortgage commitment, either party may void this Agreement, by giving written notice to the other party or the party's attorney, if Purchaser does not receive a written mortgage commitment within 45 days after this Agreement is signed or is approved by both parties' attorneys, whichever occurs later. Seller or its attorney, in writing, may extend the time for Purchaser to obtain the required mortgage commitment. If the mortgage commitment is not received and there is no written waiver or extension, this Agreement will be void, the deposit money shall be returned to Purchaser, and neither party shall have any claim against the other or the property.

5. Other financing. The following paragraph(s) apply only if filled in and completed:

Purchaser to assume existing mortgage. Purchaser will assume and agree to pay the first mortgage which is now a lien against the property. There is presently due $ _____, approximately, with interest at _____ percent per year, due and payable on or about _____. Seller states that the mortgage will be in good standing at the time of the closing of title. This means that all required mortgage payments will be paid as of the date of the closing and that the lender will have no legal basis for demanding full payment of the mortgage or foreclosing against the property.

Seller to take back a mortgage. Purchaser will sign and give to Seller a purchase money note and mortgage in the usual form. The note and mortgage will be prepared by Seller's attorney at Purchaser's expense. The attorney's fee will not exceed $ _____. The principal amount due under the note and mortgage will be $ _____. The interest rate will be _____ percent, and the term _____ years. Principal and interest will be paid as follows:

6. Closing, deed, and closing papers. The closing of title will be at the office of Seller's attorney, or at any other place mutually agreed upon, on or before July 7, _____ [year] at 10:00 am. Seller will sign and deliver a deed containing a legal description of the property, transferring title to the property free of all encumbrances except as stated in this agreement, together with an affidavit of title. Purchaser will pay the balance of the purchase price at the closing. The parties agree to sign other papers reasonably necessary to complete this transaction at the closing.

7. Adjustments at closing. The following will be apportioned as of the date of the closing of title: real estate taxes, rents, interest on mortgages, fuel, insurance premiums, water rents, sewer service charges, municipal utilities, and rent securities, if any.

8. Inspection and possession. Seller will permit Purchaser or Purchaser's representative to make an inspection of the premises at a reasonable time before the closing of title. Physical possession of the premises will be delivered to Purchaser at the time of closing of title and delivery of the deed.

9. Assessments. Seller will pay, or credit to Purchaser at the closing of title, all assessments for municipal or other public improvements completed or under construction at the date of this Agreement.

10. Claims paid at closing. Seller may pay any person with a claim or right affecting the property from the proceeds of this sale at the closing of title.

11. Title. Seller will convey clear and marketable title, insurable at regular rates by a reputable title insurance company licensed to do business in New Jersey, subject only to the rights of tenants, if any, and the claims and rights described as follows:

Easements and restrictions. This sale is subject to easements and restrictions of record, if any. Generally, an easement is a right of a person other than the owner to use a portion of the property for a special purpose. A restriction is a recorded limitation on the manner of use of the property by the owner. Purchaser does not have to complete this purchase, however, if any easement or restriction would substantially interfere with the use of the property for residential purposes.

Survey facts. This sale is subject to any state of facts that an accurate survey of the property may disclose. It is understood and agreed that the buildings, driveway, septic and/or well, if any, are within the boundary lines of the property, and that there are no encroachments whatsoever. If any facts disclosed by an accurate survey would substantially interfere with the use of the property for residential purposes, Purchaser does not have to complete this purchase.

Zoning ordinances. The sale is subject to applicable zoning ordinances. Neither the property nor its current use violate applicable zoning ordinances.

Mortgage. If Purchaser has agreed to take title subject to any existing mortgage(s), or to assume any existing mortgage(s), title will be transferred subject to it (them).

12. Tenants. This sale is subject to the following tenancies. These tenancies are not in violation of existing municipal, county, state, or federal laws, ordinances, rules, or regulations.

Name	Location	Rent	Term
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

13. Personal property and fixtures included in sale. Included in the sale price, unless specifically excluded in this agreement, are the following: Gas and electric fixtures, cooking ranges, stoves and ovens, exhaust fans and hoods, furnaces, hot water heaters, sump pump, linoleum, built in refrigerator, dishwasher and central air conditioning, water softener unless a rental, chandeliers, drapery and curtain hardware, cornices, radiator covers, interior and exterior window shutters, porch blinds, venetian blinds, television antenna, screens, storm sash, shades, awnings, bathroom fixtures, shelving, mirrors and fireplace screens attached to the building, storm windows and doors, attic fans, built in furnishings and furniture, smoke or fire and burglar detection devices, mailbox, trees, shrubbery and plantings, and all fixtures not specifically listed here, if any (and if not belonging to any tenant of the property) now on the property.

Not included in this sale are the following: microwave oven, exercise equipment, stereo equipment and wiring, and outdoor furniture.

14. Risk of loss. The risk of loss to the property by fire, casualty, or otherwise, except ordinary wear and tear, is on Seller until closing of title. Except for ordinary wear and tear, Seller will repair damage arising before the closing of title or make appropriate deductions from the purchase price. However, if the cost of replacement or repair exceeds 25 percent of the purchase price, Purchaser may cancel this Agreement and receive back the deposit money.

15. Condition of property. The seller states that the roof is free of leaks. The heating, plumbing, electrical, hot water, water supply, and if included with the property, the air conditioning, septic and well systems and all appliances included in this sale will be in good working order at the time of closing of title, but these representations will not survive the closing of title. Seller will cut grass and remove snow until the closing of title, and deliver the premises in broom clean condition. The parties enter into this Agreement with knowledge of the value of the land and buildings on the property, and without reliance on any representation made as to the character or quality of the property or other items included in the sale, except as stated in this Agreement.

16. Broker. Seller will pay Westwood Real Estate Co., pursuant to a separate commission agreement, if Westwood is the listing broker, or will pay the listing broker and Westwood as subagent, pursuant to that agreement, if Westwood is the subagent negotiating this Agreement. The broker's commission will be earned, due and payable by cash or attorney trust check on the closing of title and delivery of the deed. Westwood has permission and authority to make known the names, sale price, terms and financing used by the parties in the ordinary course of Westwood's business.

17. Health and safety laws. If Seller is notified by an appropriate governmental authority that the property is subject to violations of housing, building, fire, health, or safety laws, Seller will correct the violations at his expense before title is closed, and the property will be transferred free of them. Seller represents that the property complies with the requirements of the New Jersey Hotel and Multiple Dwelling Health and Safety Act, but this representation does not extend to minor repairs or redecoration.

18. Binding effect. This Agreement is binding in accordance with its terms on all persons who sign it, and on their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns.

19. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

20. Assignment. This Agreement cannot be assigned without Seller's written consent. This means that Purchaser may not transfer the rights under this Agreement to buy the property to anyone else, unless Seller approves the transfer in writing.

21. Pest and Mold inspection contingency. This Agreement is contingent on an inspection by a reliable pest control company for termites and other wood-destroying insects and related structural damage to the building(s) on the premises, and inspection by an environmental engineer or hygienist for the presence of mold, both within 14 days after the later of the signing of this Agreement or attorney approval. If the inspection report shows no infestation or damage, and no mold is found this Agreement is binding and effective. If the report shows infestation or damage, or the presence of mold, Seller will promptly notify Purchaser in writing whether Seller intends to pay for the extermination and for repair of any structural damage from the infestation before the closing of title, and pay for the removal of the mold or to cancel this Agreement and cause the return of Purchaser's deposit money. If Purchaser accepts the deposit refund, this Agreement will be terminated and unenforceable. Purchaser may waive the pest and mold inspection contingency, either by stating so in writing or by refusing the refund, in which event this Agreement will be binding and enforceable. Purchaser will pay for the cost of the pest inspection and mold inspection.

22. Attorney review. If this Agreement is entered into through a real estate broker, the following applies:

Study by attorney. Either party may choose an attorney to study this contract. The attorney must complete the review within three days, unless the parties agree in writing to extend the period. The contract will be legally binding at the end of the three-day period (or any other period the parties agree upon) unless the reviewing attorney disapproves of the contract.

Counting the time. You count the beginning of the three days from the date the signed contract is delivered to both parties. You do not count Saturdays, Sundays, or legal holidays.

Notice of disapproval. If the attorney for either party disapproves of this contract after review, he must so notify the Broker(s) and the other party within the three-day period. Otherwise, this contract will be legally binding as written. The attorney must send the notice of disapproval to the Broker(s) by certified mail or telegram, or by delivering it personally. The certified letter or telegram will be effective as soon as it is sent. The personal delivery will be effective as soon as the notice is delivered to the Broker's office. The attorney may inform the Broker(s) of any suggested revisions in the contract to make it satisfactory.

23. Engineer inspection contingency. This Agreement is contingent on an inspection by a reliable engineer or firm for the following items and conditions within 14 days after the later of the signing of the Agreement or attorney approval. The inspection shall be for structural and mechanical soundness of any buildings, including the proper functioning of the roof, foundation, walls, basement, windows, doors, and the heating, plumbing, electrical, air conditioning, water supply, and sewage disposal systems. If the inspection report shows no deficiencies, this Agreement is binding and effective. If the report shows deficiencies, Seller will promptly notify Purchaser whether Seller will (a) correct the deficiencies at its expense before closing of title, (b) allow a credit against the purchase price for Purchaser's reasonable estimate of the costs to correct the deficiencies, or (c) cancel this Agreement. If Seller elects to cancel, and Purchaser accepts refund of the deposit money, this Agreement will be void and unenforceable. Purchaser may waive this contingency, either by refusing the refund or by stating so in writing. In either event, this Agreement will be binding and enforceable, and Purchaser will accept the property "as is" except as otherwise stated in the Agreement.

24. Seller representations. Seller states that:

Flood zone. The property is not located in a flood hazard zone, flood plain, or flood way as designated by any governmental agency or body.

Certificate of occupancy. If required by the municipality, Seller will provide, at Seller's expense, an unconditional certificate of occupancy at the closing of title.

Insulation. The building(s) on the property do not contain urea formaldehyde or other formaldehyde based insulation.

Water supply. The property is not served by a spring or any form of community well. If the water supply is a private well, the water from the well is potable.

Real estate tax reductions. If a veteran, senior citizen, or comparable deduction is allowed against the real estate taxes on the property, the tax adjustment at closing of title will be made on the basis of the net annual taxes on the property after taking the applicable deduction.

25. Purchaser representations. Purchaser states that:

Sufficient funds. Purchaser has sufficient cash, or other property readily changeable into cash (liquid assets), which together with the mortgage monies to be applied for, assumed, taken subject to or taken back by Seller as provided in this Agreement, are sufficient to complete the purchase of the property, arrange the mortgage financing, and pay closing costs.

26. Legally binding agreement. Both parties have read all the terms of this Agreement, and understand and agree to all of them.

27. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for the parties' convenience only and are not to be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

28. Governing law. This Agreement will be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

29. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts (duplicates). Each one will be deemed an original but all of them together will constitute the same instrument.

30. Time of essence. Time is the essence of this Agreement.

31. Notices. All notices under this Agreement must be in writing and delivered personally or mailed by certified mail, postage prepaid, addressed to the parties at their last known addresses.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.24

FORM 21.24 Contract for sale of cooperative apartment--contingent on effective sponsor's plan, apartment corporation approval, and loan commitment--subject to existing tenant's lease and right of first refusal

COMMENT

This form illustrates the sale of a cooperative apartment either to the tenant occupying the apartment or to an outside purchaser subject to the tenant's occupancy rights. This contract, or subscription agreement, can be used as a model when a sponsor initially converts an apartment building to a cooperative arrangement.

Sponsor's offering plan

An offering plan, prospectus, or similar document is required to be given to prospective purchasers and/or filed with a state office in a number of jurisdictions. In New York, administrative approval is required before cooperative apartments may be sold. Other jurisdictions may require only a filing containing the required information with the appropriate state office and delivery of much or all of this information to prospective purchasers. Some jurisdictions may have few or no such requirements. It is important that the contract conform with the requirements of the local jurisdiction in these and other matters.

Apartment corporation approval contingency

In most cases, the sale of a cooperative apartment is subject to the approval of the cooperative apartment's board of trustees or board of directors. This prior approval requirement is usually found in the cooperative's articles, charter, or by-laws.

Existing tenant rights

In certain jurisdictions, including New York, specific steps must be taken in order to evict existing tenants to obtain possession for the apartment purchasers. If the prescribed steps are not taken, generally the existing tenants cannot be removed. In this contract, the purchaser's rights are subject to the right of occupancy of any existing tenant and to the tenant's right of first refusal to purchase the apartment. If the tenant remains in possession, the new owner will become the landlord, rather than the occupant of the apartment. If the purchaser is the existing tenant, then this point is moot. On the resale by the owner-occupant, the existing tenant provisions would not be included in the contract.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

3. Payment. Herewith is my check to the order of "159 W. 95th St. Tenants Corp. Escrow Account" for the amount of the Down Payment. I agree that, if and after the Plan becomes effective, I will pay the Balance of the Purchase Price within 15 days after written notice and demand by you or the Apartment Corporation (the notice to state that the date of closing title has been specified to be not later than 60 days thereafter), such payment to be by personal certified check or official check drawn on a New York bank to the order of "159 W. 95th St. Tenants Corp.", delivered to you, and that I

4. Acquisition date. The date of the commencement of the term of Proprietary Lease, and the date of issuance of the certificate for the shares, which may be inserted by either you or the Apartment Corporation, shall be the date it acquires title to the premises. If I have paid the full Purchase Price for the shares, and am not in default, I am to receive the certificate for the shares, together with my executed copy of the proprietary lease, promptly after the Apartment Corporation acquires title. I further understand that if the apartment I am purchasing is subject to an existing tenancy, that I will, after the closing date, be assuming the seller's rights and obligations, under the existing lease or tenancy, which will include the obligation to repair and maintain the apartment for the benefit of the existing tenant and the right to collect rent payable under the existing lease and tenancy whether the same is greater or less than the proprietary rent established by the proprietary lease.

6. Deposit in trust. The Sponsor will hold all moneys received by it through its agents or employees directly or indirectly in trust until actually employed in connection with the consummation of the transaction. The Agent will deposit all such moneys with Bank of Queens, at its branch at 61 East 42nd Street, New York City, to be held in trust in a special account under the name of "159 W. 95th St. Tenants Corp.," or similar name. The deposited funds will be disbursed only at the closing and only for the purposes of the consummation of this Plan or returned to me as herein provided. I shall be entitled to any interest earned on the sums deposited by me.

7. Condition of apartment. My signing of this Purchase Agreement shall constitute my acceptance of the apartment in its condition as of the time of Closing, including the existing equipment, air conditioning units and installations.

8. Contingent on effective plan. This contract is contingent on the Plan being declared effective, as provided in the Plan. Seller may abandon the Plan at any time before it is declared effective, and it shall be abandoned and deemed abandoned if it is not declared effective within the prescribed time.

9. Abandoned or ineffective plan. If the Plan is abandoned or does not become effective, or, if after being declared effective, the Plan is not consummated for any reason on or before December 31, _____ [year], this Agreement shall be deemed cancelled and the Plan terminated. In that event, I am to receive back, not later than 45 days thereafter, in full, all monies paid by me hereunder, together with any interest actually earned and accrued on the monies at the rate set by the Depository Bank (except as provided in this Agreement). Upon such repayment no party shall have any claim against any other party or person, the Sponsor, or the agent, and all parties shall be released from all obligations hereunder.

10. Time of closing. Title shall be transferred to the Apartment Corporation not earlier than 30 days nor later than 120 days after the Plan has been declared effective, unless the Closing of title is adjourned.

11. Payment default. If I fail to pay the Balance of the Purchase Price when due, the Apartment Corporation may cancel this Agreement by written notice to me at my residence or at the address stated below, by registered or certified mail. If I do not pay the Balance of the Purchase Price in full within 30 days after the date of mailing, the notice shall be effective, this Agreement shall be deemed cancelled, and all rights of the parties shall terminate, except that the Down Payment shall be paid over to the Sponsor, with any earned or accrued interest, as liquidated damages not to exceed $500. In case of cancellation, the Sponsor or Apartment Corporation may sell the shares and proprietary lease to another purchaser as if this Agreement had never been made. If, however, the purchaser cannot secure financing from a lending institution, all his payments will be returned to him.

12. Entire agreement; assignment; binding effect. This Agreement and the Plan contain the entire contract between the parties, as well as the only representations made to me. I have not relied upon any other written or oral representations, statements, or warranties as to any matter or estimate. I acknowledge that I have had full opportunity to examine all documents and investigate all facts referred to and stated herein. I may not assign this Agreement without the Apartment Corporation's prior written consent. The Agreement shall bind and apply to the parties and their respective legal representatives, successors, and assigns. It may not be changed orally. Conflicts between this Agreement and the Plan will be resolved in favor of the Plan.

13. Tenant right of first refusal. If this offer is for an apartment not occupied by Purchaser, and, if the tenant purchases the shares allocated to the apartment within the 90-day exclusive period or match-offer period granted to the tenant under the Plan or any amendment, this Agreement shall be deemed cancelled. Within 45 days after cancellation, the Agent shall refund to Purchaser all monies paid by him, together with all accrued interest earned. Upon repayment, there shall be no liability or obligation by or among the Purchaser, Sponsor, Apartment Corporation, Agent, or other party. If the Rent Stabilization Law or an administrative or judicial interpretation allows the tenant to purchase the apartment at a later date, and the tenant does so, this Agreement will be deemed cancelled and the provisions of this paragraph will apply.

14. Approval contingency. This Agreement will not be binding on me or the Apartment Corporation until I, as Purchaser, am accepted by endorsement hereon by the Apartment Corporation and the Agent, and a fully signed copy is promptly delivered to me. If this Agreement is not accepted within 40 days of its execution by delivery to me of the endorsed and fully signed copy, it shall be deemed to be rejected and cancelled and my deposit shall be promptly refunded to me. This paragraph does not apply if I am or was a tenant at the time of presentation of the Plan.

15. "Purchaser." I represent that I am a person resident in the State of New York and over 18 years of age. The term "I" shall be read as "we" and "Purchaser" shall be read as "Purchasers" if more than one person are subscribers, in which case our obligations shall be deemed joint and several.

16. Notice. Notices shall be delivered or mailed as follows: to Purchaser(s), at the address stated below; and, to the Agent and the Apartment Corporation, at the Agent's office.

17. Certification. I certify that I have agreed in good faith to purchase the shares allocated to the above-described apartment with no discriminatory repurchase agreement or other discriminatory inducement.

18. Loan contingency. Purchaser's obligations are subject to (a) the issuance of a commitment letter by a bank or other lending institution selected by Purchaser, within 60 days from the date of signing of this Subscription Agreement, under which the lending institution agrees to make a Cooperative Mortgage Loan for 60 percent or more of the purchase price, at the prevailing rate of interest for cooperative loans, for a term of at least 25 years, solely upon the security of a pledge, security interest, or assignment of the Shares and Proprietary Lease; and (b) the consent of the Apartment Corporation to the Loan, if required by the terms of the Proprietary Lease or of the Corporation's bylaws. The form and substance of the loan agreement must be satisfactory to the lending institution and the Apartment Corporation and protect the institution's right as lender.

Purchaser may cancel this Agreement if he fails to procure the above commitment. In that case, neither party shall have any further rights or obligations under the Agreement, except that the Sponsor shall refund the down payment to Purchaser. Purchaser shall promptly apply to a lending institution for the loan, execute all necessary instruments in connection with the application, and provide the bank with all required information.

19. Governing law. The terms of this Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New York.

20. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts. Each one will be deemed an original, but all of them together will constitute one and the same instrument.

21. Time of essence. Both parties understand that time is the essence of this Agreement.

22. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

23. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience and reference only, and may not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.25

FORM 21.25 Contract for sale of condominium unit--subject to effective offering plan after conversion from rental apartment building--subject to existing tenancy--plain language

COMMENT

This form is a contract of sale for a condominium unit in an apartment building. The contract is subject to the sponsor obtaining an effective offering plan after conversion of the rental apartment building into a condominium.

Unit purchaser and tenant

This agreement provides that the purchaser will acquire the condominium unit subject to the rights of an existing tenant. Certain jurisdictions have enacted laws protecting the occupancy of tenants in apartments converted to condominium units, and these laws vary in the jurisdictions which have adopted them. If the applicable law permits the tenant to remain indefinitely, the purchaser will be in the position of a landlord rather than an occupant of the unit. This contract contains a provision that the purchaser will acquire the unit subject to the existing tenancy (paragraph 12). The unit may also be purchased by the existing tenant, or by a third party who intends to purchase the unit vacant, free of any tenancy. This form includes provisions for each of these circumstances.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

FORM

PURCHASE AGREEMENT

THE PARK CONDOMINIUM

Purchaser's Name: John Addison and Ellen Addison, husband & wife

Address: 235 West Elm St., Staten Island, N.Y. 10079

Apartment Unit No.: 5-D in Building E-4

1.	Down Payment	$490
2.	Balance of 10% Due	$4,410
3.	Amount to be Financed	$39,200
4.	Balance Due at Closing	$ 4,900
5.	Total Purchase Price (1 + 2 + 3 + 4)	$49,000

1. My agreement to purchase. As Purchaser, I agree to purchase from you, Park Apts. Co., apartment unit No. 5-D in Building E-4 and the appurtenant interest in the common elements of The Park Condominium for the Total Purchase Price shown on line 5, above. I am delivering to you now my $490 check, subject to collection, for the Down Payment shown on line 1. When you sign this Agreement you acknowledge receiving this check although you will not then have cashed it.

2. Balance of total purchase price and Closing Expenses. (a) Deposit balance. Upon the Offering Plan of Condominium Ownership of The Park Condominium (the "Plan") being declared effective, you shall advise me in writing when the balance of 10 percent of the Total Purchase Price is due, as shown on line 2, and I will pay it to you within 15 days after I receive your notice.

(b) Balance due and costs at closing. You will also write to me at least 15 days (but not more than 90 days, unless you request an adjournment of Closing as provided in paragraph 3) in advance of my closing to tell me the exact scheduled date of Closing. In that notice, you will inform me that I must give you or anyone you designate, not later than 15 days from the date I receive the notice, my certified check or official bank check for the Balance Due at Closing, as shown on line 4, drawn on a New York City bank which is a member of the New York Clearing House Association. You will, however, offset against amounts due at closing the security deposit you hold for me under my lease, if I am a tenant and am not in default under the lease on the closing date. You will also notify me of the date on which common charges will first be due and payable. In the same notice, you will remind me that I must also pay, within the same time period, (i) the expenses shown in the Plan under "Closing Costs and Adjustments" which are my obligations, plus (ii) any amount I owe you as a result of our apportionment of the real estate taxes and common charges for the apartment, so that you pay those real estate taxes and common charges attributable to any period prior to the midnight before the date of closing and I will pay the rest. You agree to pay at Closing the expenses shown in the Plan which are your obligations.

(c) Bank financing. If I am taking advantage of Met Bank financing as permitted in the Plan, I will promptly sign and return all documents and instruments required by Met Bank to complete its financing and pay all expenses due by check upon demand by Met Bank, or its authorized representatives. I understand that the form of the note, mortgage, deed, and power of attorney is contained in the Plan. I will also execute any other document or instrument that Met Bank deems necessary to complete its loan.

(d) Sponsor financing. If I am unable to obtain Met Bank financing, but am entitled to Sponsor-financing, you will also notify me in writing what expenses relating to the loan are payable by me. In addition, you will send me the required Note, Mortgage, Deed, and Power of Attorney in the form contained in the Plan, as well as all other documents that you, your counsel, or the insurance company deem necessary to assure the validity of your mortgage lien and compliance of the loan with law. I will pay the expenses due by check, made payable to anyone you designate, and will sign and return all documents and instruments in appropriate form for recording to the Selling Agent within 15 days after I receive your notice. I authorize the Selling Agent to complete, date and deliver to you or the title company representative the Note, Mortgage, Deed, Power of Attorney and other documents and instruments that are necessary to properly conclude the transaction.

3. Delivery of deed and marketable title. Upon my properly paying you the full amount of the Total Purchase Price, the Closing Costs and Adjustments and expenses (as described in the preceding paragraphs) and delivery of the Deed, Power of Attorney, Note, Mortgage and other required documents and instruments, you will execute the deed to my apartment unit and request the Bank or the Selling Agent, whichever is applicable, to deliver all documents and instruments to The Title Security Insurance Company for recording. The proceeds of the Escrow Account may be used to meet the purchase price and such costs, adjustments, and expenses. The deed will be a standard type of deed known as a bargain and sale deed with covenant against grantor's acts, the form of which is shown in the Plan. In any case, you will not deliver to me the deed to my Apartment Unit until all of the events described in the Plan under "Closing of Title to Units" have occurred. I agree to be bound by the Declaration, By-Laws and Rules and Regulations of the Condominium and the Plan.

You will convey to me good and marketable title in fee simple to my apartment unit without any liens or encumbrances other than those shown in the Plan.

I understand that you have the right at any one or more times, by giving me written notice, to adjourn the scheduled closing date for a period of not more than 180 days.

4. Recording of deed. I understand that the deed to my apartment unit will be delivered to the title company representative issuing title insurance to me or to you (if I do not obtain title insurance), so that the deed can be recorded in the Office of the New York City Register, Queens County.

5. My payments to be held in trust. All monies received from me by you through your agents or employees will be deposited with Met Bank (the "Escrow Agent") at 13-25 Jay Avenue, Queens, New York, in a special account with or without interest under the name of "Park Condominium Escrow Account" or similar name. These funds will be held on the following terms: (a) if the Plan is declared effective and the Closing takes place under this Agreement, you will be paid the monies due you, and the Selling Agent may satisfy expenses I owe from my previous payments and any interest earned thereon, (b) if the Plan is abandoned or the closing does not take place because you fail to keep your promises under this Agreement, I will be paid the monies and any interest earned thereon, and (c) if I fail to keep my promises under this Agreement, you will be paid the monies (not more than 10 percent of the Total Purchase Price, plus any interest earned thereon). The Escrow Agent will pay out the monies only upon written instructions of the attorneys for the Board of Managers, Conrad, Weis & Bok, who may rely upon your written description of the facts when they give the instructions.

I understand that you will have no obligation to place any monies received from me in an interest-bearing account. You will hold all such monies through your agents or employees in trust in accordance with the provisions of Sections 352-h and 352-e(2-b) of the General Business Law until actually employed in connection with the consummation of my purchase. I understand that Conrad, Weis & Bok may rely on your written description of the facts when they give instructions to the Escrow Agent.

6. My mortgage loan. I will not be obligated to purchase my apartment unit from you unless Met Bank (the "Bank") promises in writing to give me a mortgage loan for the same amount shown on page one of this Agreement. The mortgage loan must provide for repayment in full within no more than 30 years and be on the terms regularly offered by Met Bank. I understand that the actual interest rates to be charged on my Mortgage Loan may not be determinable until approximately five days before you give me the deed to my Unit and I sign the documents for this mortgage loan. I also understand that my application may have to be renewed every 90 days, and I agree to do so. I know that each monthly payment I make will be used first to pay the interest I then owe and second to pay back the amount I have borrowed. I may make payments in addition to these monthly payments in the amounts of repayment of principal that would be due in future monthly payments so that I pay back sooner the amount I have borrowed, but I may have to pay any extra fee for making these additional payments depending upon the type of mortgage loan I select among those offered by the Bank. The sample forms of documents which the Bank will require me to sign for this mortgage loan are contained in the Plan, but I understand that these might be different at closing.

I have signed and given you my application for a mortgage loan, which you will send to the Bank promptly. I agree to supply all information which the Bank requests for this application within five business days and to keep you advised of its status. I authorize you to check the status of my application directly with the Bank, and I will tell you when my application has been accepted or rejected. If 45 days from now, the Bank has not given me its then current written promise to make the mortgage loan as described in this Paragraph (or if a commitment is issued and is subsequently withdrawn), and I give you written notice of this fact, either of us may cancel this Agreement, unless within 30 days after my written notice, you arrange for me to receive from a lending institution (including the Bank) or from you the same type of mortgage loan. If no such mortgage loan is available to me, either of us may cancel this Agreement by written notice no later than five days after the 30-day period expires. In that case, all my payments to you under this Agreement and all interest earned on them will be returned to me. However, you may cancel this Agreement and keep my Down Payment and all interest earned on it if either I do not promptly supply the information required for a mortgage application loan within five days after the information is requested, or I do not accept a written promise from the Bank, any other bank, or you to give me the type of mortgage loan described in this Paragraph.

7. Your rights if I fail to keep my promises and agreements. You may keep my payments and any interest earned on them if I fail to do any of the following: (a) to pay when due any portion of the Total Purchase Price when notified, (b) to pay when due closing adjustments and expenses, (c) to execute and return within 15 days any document or instrument needed to complete the transaction, including any mortgage application, note, or mortgage, if I elect financing and, in any case, the power of attorney, deed, and New York State gains tax transferee questionnaire, or (d) to keep any other promise under this Agreement.

If I am in default under my lease or the terms of my apartment tenancy, and if I am now a tenant of the apartment unit that I agree to purchase under this Agreement, or become a tenant of the unit before the closing of title on it, you may also keep any payment made by me on account of the Total Purchase Price (but not more than 10 percent, plus any interest earned thereon). I understand that any default in that situation will be treated also as a default under this Agreement. I further understand that my above promise is a separate and material inducement for you to enter into this Agreement with me.

Before you may keep any payment, however, you must first send me a notice stating that you intend to cancel this Agreement and describing each promise you think I did not keep under it. If I do not cause each promise to be kept within 30 days after your notice is sent, you may keep the payments (but not more than 10 percent of the Total Purchase Price, plus any interest earned on it). After that, neither of us will have any further obligations under this Agreement, the Agreement will be considered cancelled without any further action by either of us, and you may sell the apartment unit to any other person.

8. No right to assign this agreement. I understand that I cannot give or sell my rights under this Agreement to anyone else (except my spouse or my adult children), unless I first obtain your written consent.

9. Survival of seller's obligations. After you give me the deed to the apartment unit, your only remaining obligations are those set forth in this Agreement and the Plan.

10. Agreement subject to plan becoming effective. This Agreement is contingent upon the Plan being declared effective. The Agreement will be cancelled if (a) the Plan is abandoned or does not become effective within 15 months after the Attorney General issues a letter stating that the Plan has been accepted for filing, or (b) the Plan is declared effective within 15 months after the acceptance letter is issued, but the first deed to an apartment unit in the Condominium is not delivered within 21 months after the letter's issuance. Not later than 45 days after cancellation, I will receive a full refund of all my payments to you under this Agreement and all interest earned on them. After I receive this refund, neither of us will have any claim against the other or any further obligation under this Agreement.

11. My acceptance of the apartment unit. I have read the Sponsor's Statement of Condition of the Property. I have also examined the apartment unit and agree to accept it, and all fixtures, machinery, equipment, furnishings, appliances, installations and other personal property in the apartment unit in their present condition, except for reasonable wear and tear and natural deterioration between now and the time you give me the deed to the apartment unit. I understand that because of the amount and power of electricity in the Building I will not be able to install air conditioners or other appliances in my unit unless the Board of Managers permits me to do so.

12. Purchase subject to rights of tenant in occupancy. I understand that the apartment unit is now occupied by a tenant under a lease expiring on May 31, _____ [year] (monthly tenancy) at a rent of $400 per month. If the tenant does not voluntarily move out when his lease expires or his right to occupancy ends, you will have no obligation to obtain possession for me. I also understand that the apartment unit is subject to the Rent Stabilization Law or Rent Control Law and the Omnibus Housing Act of 1983 (as described in the Plan), and I will have all your rights and obligations under the tenant's lease or tenancy after you give me the deed to the apartment unit, including, without limitation, the right to collect all rents (whether more or less than my common charges and assessments and mortgage payments) and the obligations to comply with the applicable law and to repair and maintain the apartment unit for the benefit of the tenant, and the tenant cannot be evicted except for nonpayment of rent or other default under his lease or tenancy or his refusal to renew his lease in compliance with law. I know I cannot evict the tenant for my own occupancy unless allowed under Section 352_____ of the General Business Law. In addition, I agree that I (and my successors) shall always use the managing agent of the property to manage my unit. I shall deliver promptly to the managing agent and continue to maintain a fund equal to two months common charges to secure my performance of my obligations, and I shall not subject the tenants to unconscionable rent increases if the apartment unit becomes no longer subject to the Rent Stabilization Law and Rent Control Law. This sale is subject to the tenant's right to continue in occupancy as a nonpurchasing tenant in accordance with Section 352-eeee of the General Business Law and as set forth in the Plan. I represent and warrant I have read Section G of the Plan and understand and accept the risks involved in this purchase.

13. Designation of managing agent. If this Agreement is for an apartment not occupied by me, I will designate the managing agent of the Property as my agent to provide to the nonpurchasing tenant now in occupancy all services and facilities required by law, as provided in the Plan.

14. Purchase for personal occupancy. If this agreement is for an apartment I do not occupy, I represent to you that I am purchasing the apartment for my personal occupancy or for the occupancy of a member of my immediate family and, if requested, I will promptly deliver an affidavit confirming this to you.

15. Broker. I did not negotiate for the apartment unit with any broker other than Broderick & Dey, Real Estate Brokers.

16. Receipt of documents. I received at least 72 hours ago a copy of the Plan. I understand that we are treating the contents of the Plan as if it were included in this Agreement. I have also been given an opportunity to examine the apartment unit, the Building and the Property.

17. No representations. I have not relied on any statements made by you or any other person except those contained in this Agreement or the Plan. You will have no liability to me if there is a minor error or inaccuracy in the layout or dimensions of the apartment unit or of the common elements of the Condominium as shown on the floor plans (the "floor plans") certified by Vox & Albans, Architects, on file at the office of the Selling Agent and to be filed in the Office of the Register of the City of New York, County of Queens, so long as the layout and dimensions conform substantially to the floor plans, which I have been given the opportunity to examine.

18. Plain language. I have read this Agreement, and I understand it. Under New York law (General Obligations Law Section 5-702), I know that as a consumer I have a right to an agreement written in clear and simple language. You and I both think that this is such an agreement.

19. Notices. All notices between us (including requests, consents, and other communications) must be in writing and sent by registered or certified mail, to me, at the address shown on page one of this Agreement, and, to you, at 10 East 59th Street, New York, N.Y. 10022. I will send a copy of any notice I give you to your attorneys, Boone & Davis, at 10 East 39th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016, Attention: John Davis, Esq. Either of us can specify a different address by notifying the other, as provided in this paragraph. A notice shall be considered given on the date it is mailed, except that a notice of an address change shall be considered given when it is received.

20. Jury waiver. I waive my right to trial by jury in any action, proceeding, or counterclaim in any way connected with this Agreement or the Plan.

21. No discriminatory inducement. If I am a tenant, I confirm that I have purchased the apartment unit in good faith and without fraud, discriminatory repurchase agreements or other discriminatory inducements. If requested to do so, I will promptly deliver an affidavit confirming this to you, together with all other documents or instruments you reasonably request.

22. Acceptance of this agreement. This Purchase Agreement shall not be binding on me or the Sponsor until it is accepted, as evidenced by endorsement hereon by the Selling Agent, and a fully signed copy is delivered to me. The Purchase Agreement will be deemed accepted if I am not notified within 20 days of the date hereof whether it has been accepted or rejected. If the Purchase Agreement is rejected within the 20-day period, the Down Payment, together with any interest on it, will be refunded to me within 10 days after the rejection.

23. Headings. Headings in this Agreement are for convenience and reference only, and may not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

24. Binding effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon both of us and our respective heirs, legal representatives, and assigns.

25. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

26. Governing law. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New York.

27. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts. Each copy shall be deemed an original, but all of them together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

28. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this Agreement.

29. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

30. Definitions. The term "I" shall be read as "we" if more than one person is a purchaser, in which case our obligations shall be considered joint and several. All the terms used in this Agreement shall have the same meanings as in the Plan.

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.26

FORM 21.26 Contract for sale of condominium unit--new construction--anticipated completion date in lieu of set closing date--option to apply for mortgage at developer's lending institution

COMMENT

New construction provisions

A number of paragraphs in this form cover matters which come up in new construction. For example, rather than establish a set closing date, the contract specifies an anticipated date for completion of construction (paragraph VI). The title closing will take place after the seller-developer gives notice to the buyer (paragraphs 10, 11, 12). This is an alternative to a set closing date in the contract which recognizes unanticipated or uncontrollable delays in construction. Other new construction oriented terms provide that the buyer cannot enter the premises prior to closing without a sales representative of the developer (paragraph 15), and a disclaimer of the survival of trees and shrubbery (paragraph 22). These terms are aimed at protecting the seller from potential liability resulting from personal injury at the construction site or from failed landscaping.

New residential construction warranties

In almost all states, new residential construction is subject to statutory or common law implied warranties as to condition, habitability or fitness for its intended purpose. Such implied warranties apply to the sale of completed new homes as well as to those under construction at the time of the contract, and usually survive the passing of title. In states where implied warranties do not survive the closing, the purchaser should attempt to negotiate a provision setting forth the seller's liability for defects in construction after the closing.

In general, statutory provisions regarding the condition of newly constructed homes presume certain warranties regarding workmanship and fitness for habitation to be implied in the contract of sale unless they are expressly waived. For example, under such a statute, there may be warranties for a specified or reasonable period of time that the new home will be free from defects due to unskillful construction; that the plumbing, electrical, heating, cooling and ventilation systems will be free from defects due to unskillful installation; and that the home will be free from defects in material. In some states, such statutory provisions coexist with a common law implied housing merchant warranty of habitability or fitness.

In most states, the parties may expressly disclaim implied warranties for new construction and substitute specific limited warranties, as in this form (paragraph 17). The disclaimer must clear and conspicuous. Usually, a simple "as is" clause is insufficient to disclaim implied warranties.

Mortgage application, closing costs

This contract gives the buyer the option to apply for a mortgage loan with either a lender of the buyer's choice, or with the lender working with the developer-seller (paragraphs 6, 7). When a developer is involved in the construction and sale of a large number of residential units, an institutional mortgage lender can be engaged to provide mortgage financing to the various purchasers. Allowing the buyer the option to select its own mortgage lender or use the lender working with the developer avoids a tie-in with the developer's financial institution. To clarify the buyer's costs and expenses at closing, this agreement contains a listing of items to be paid for by the buyer at or before the closing, including items which would be required by the purchaser's mortgage lender (paragraph 8).

THIS CONTRACT FOR SALE BETWEEN ALP RIDGE, INC., a New Jersey Corporation and with mailing address set forth in Paragraph I, "Seller," AND Catherine Conover, "Purchaser." The word "Purchaser" includes all the purchasers listed in Paragraph II.

Based on all of the information and promises in this Contract, Seller agrees to sell to Purchaser and Purchaser agrees to buy from Seller the property set forth on page one.

1. Description of property. The property is shown on the Map of Alp Ridge, Ridge Township, Hunterdon County, New Jersey and filed in the Hunterdon County Clerk's Office, together with a housing unit which Seller will or has built on that property. The exact description is set forth on Schedule A. The housing unit will be substantially like the model designated in Paragraph III and which Purchaser saw and inspected before signing this Contract. In addition to the unit, Seller will convey to Purchaser an undivided interest in the common elements of Alp Ridge Condominium Association, Inc., a nonprofit corporation. This interest shall be calculated as set forth in Schedule F. However, the interest shall be determined by dividing the number 1 by the total number of units in the applicable condominium association.

Seller represents that the housing unit has been or will be constructed substantially in accordance with the floor plan of the unit designated in Paragraph III of this Contract and set forth on Schedule B.

2. Purchase price. The Purchase Price is payable as set forth in Paragraph IV. It is made up of the Base Price, "Options/Extras" and other items on Schedule B.

3. Exclusions. Unless indicated, as included in Schedule C under "Options/Extras" being paid for, the following items which are or may be found in the model or available as extras/options/change order are excluded from this sale, including but not limited to all furniture, draperies, furnishings, special landscaping, fences, special finishing of garage area, special flooring, lighting and tiling, wallcoverings, all devices such as radio and electronic equipment, fireplaces, air conditioning systems, full basements, garage in condominiums, second car garage in homes, side entry to garage, decks.

4. Color selections. Within seven days after notice by Seller, Purchaser shall promptly make choices and selections from samples and lists submitted by Seller. Purchaser shall pay for all extras she selects. The monies shall be held in escrow in accordance with Paragraph 5. If Purchaser fails to make the choices and selections, Seller may do so on Purchaser's behalf and complete the unit.

5. Deposit monies. All deposit monies shall be held in escrow by Jones & Smith, Esqs., 99 Main Street, Flemington, New Jersey 08822. The deposit monies shall be held in escrow and shall not be released until title is closed, this agreement is terminated as provided herein, or a bond or other guaranty acceptable to the State of New Jersey is provided. In any event, no deposit will be released for eight days after this agreement is executed.

6. Mortgage. Purchaser acknowledges that he has the right to arrange for a direct reduction conventional mortgage from a lending institution of her choice upon written notice to Seller. If Purchaser notifies Seller on execution hereof in writing that she does not want Seller to assist in securing the mortgage called for in Paragraph IV, she must obtain a firm written commitment from her lending institution within 30 days from the date of this Agreement. If Purchaser is unable to obtain the mortgage commitment within this time, Seller, upon written notice to Purchaser, at the address set forth above, may terminate this Contract. If Seller chooses to terminate the contract, all monies paid hereunder shall be returned to Purchaser without interest.

7. Mortgage placement. If Purchaser fails to elect to seek his own mortgage as provided in Paragraph 6, Purchaser appoints Seller to arrange for and process a mortgage loan from a mortgage lending institution selected by Seller in the amount set forth in Paragraph IV and Purchaser shall agree to the mortgage commitment with all applicable terms. For this service, Purchaser shall pay the lending institution a nonrefundable application fee payable upon the request of the lending institution or Seller. Purchaser will sign the mortgage loan application and supply complete financial and employment information requested by the lending institution. If Seller has obtained a written commitment for a mortgage loan from the lending institution for Purchaser, any future change in Purchaser's credit or employment status or any failure by her to comply with the conditions or requirements of the commitment, will not affect Purchaser's obligation to complete this Contract.

Seller does not guarantee that it can obtain a mortgage commitment for Purchaser. If the mortgage application submitted by Seller on behalf of Purchaser is refused, Seller shall return Purchaser's deposit without interest within ten days of notice thereof. If Seller determines that a mortgage commitment cannot be obtained, Seller may cancel this Contract and refund to Purchaser all deposit monies without interest. In that event, neither party shall have any claim against the other. Once a lending institution issues its written mortgage loan commitment to Purchaser, there shall be no refund of monies paid by Purchaser to Seller for deposits, options, or changes. This provision applies to Paragraph 6, as well as this paragraph.

8. Purchaser's closing costs. Purchaser will pay the following charges at or before closing:

(a) Purchaser's attorney's fees; and all charges, fees and escrows (including taxes, insurance, and prepaid interest) required by the lending institution;

(b) All taxes for any period following the actual closing date required by the lending institution;

(l) First quarter's Alp Ridge Condominium Association assessment based on monthly rate from first of the month in which closing occurs.

9. Seller's costs. Seller will pay the following charges at or before closing: Realty transfer fee and premium on homeowner's warranty.

10. Anticipated completion date. It is expected that the housing unit will be completed on or near the date set forth in Paragraph VI. It will be considered finished when the Township issues a temporary or permanent Certificate of Occupancy covering the property. Purchaser will close so long as an occupancy certificate is provided at closing.

11. Delay in completion. Completion of this housing unit may be delayed for various reasons. If the delay is caused by Seller's inability to secure an occupancy certificate or other causes, and continues for more than six months beyond the anticipated closing date, Purchaser may terminate this contract without penalty and be refunded all money and deposits previously paid.

12. Closing. The exact closing date cannot be made final at this time. Upon completion of the housing unit, a closing will take place at the date and time specified by Seller in a notice to Purchaser. If Purchaser fails to close within ten business days of the date in the notice, Purchaser shall be deemed to have breached this contract and Seller shall be entitled to remedies in Paragraph 20. The closing, also known as the settlement, is when Seller transfers ownership of the property by deed and Purchaser pays the balance of monies due.

Closing will take place at the office of Seller's attorney as set forth in Paragraph VII. If Purchaser arranges for a mortgage loan with a lending institution not selected by Seller and closing takes place at another location, Purchaser will pay $150 for closing within the State of New Jersey and $250 for closing out of the state, but travel shall not exceed 75 miles.

13. Title. Seller, upon receipt of the purchase price, shall deliver to Purchaser a Bargain and Sale Deed with Covenants Against the Acts of Grantor, in proper statutory form for recording, together with the required New Jersey Realty Transfer Fee, so as to convey to Purchaser title to the property. Seller shall also execute and deliver an Affidavit of Title, in the form attached to this agreement as Schedule C. Seller will not execute any other affidavits.

The title to the property shall be in the condition set forth in the Policy of Title Insurance issued by Lawyer's Title Insurance Company, attached as Schedule D, which Purchaser acknowledges was received and approved by Purchaser. Further, title to the property shall be subject to the covenants, conditions, restrictions and terms of the Declaration of Covenants and Restrictions, Rules and Regulations and By-Laws of the Alp Ridge Owners Association and, if applicable, Master Deed and Rules and Regulations of the Alp Ridge Condominium Association, Section I. The title condition as shown in the attached Policy of Title Insurance and as described in this paragraph shall be deemed marketable title for purposes of this contract. However, title shall be insurable at regular rates.

It is understood that Purchaser is not obligated to obtain title insurance from Lawyer's Title Insurance Company.

14. Adjustments at closing. Taxes, water rents, sewer rents, and fuel, if any, shall be apportioned as of the date of the closing. Seller shall be responsible for payment of these items up to the date of closing. Purchaser shall be responsible thereafter.

15. Possession. Purchaser understands that possession of the premises is given by a deed at the time of closing of title. Before then, Purchaser shall have no right to take possession of the premises, to use any part of the premises, or to move into or store anything in it.

Purchaser understands that she may not enter onto the property for any purpose before closing of title except for purposes set forth in Paragraph 24 (Pre-Closing Inspection). Any entrance onto the property before closing must be in the presence of a sales representative. Any entrance onto the property other than as specified above is unauthorized and Purchaser does so at her own risk. Purchaser releases Seller from any liability for personal injuries or property damage occurring while on the property without a sales representative, except while being in designated sales areas.

If requested, Purchaser shall sign a written request for the issuance of a Certificate of Occupancy.

16. Use of premises. Purchaser agrees that the property will be used only for a residence and not for any other purpose. However, units may be leased in accordance with requirements of Alp Ridge Owners' Association and, if applicable, the Alp Ridge Condominium Association, Section I. This Paragraph shall continue in full force and effect following the closing date. If Purchaser violates the terms of this Paragraph, Seller, in addition to its other rights, may specifically enforce this Paragraph by obtaining an injunction preventing Purchaser from violating this clause.

17. Seller's warranty. Seller is a member of the Home Owner's Warranty Program, and a specimen Limited Warranty-Home Warranty Agreement, together with Approved Standards, is available upon request. Seller's sole responsibility shall be limited to the terms and conditions set forth therein. Seller makes no further warranties, express, general, limited or implied, except as contained in the Limited Warranty-Home Warranty Agreement, together with the Approved Standards. Seller makes no warranties regarding consumer products for which a written, manufacturer's warranty is available. Additionally, Purchaser acknowledges that she was advised by Seller before execution of this agreement that written manufacturers' warranties for all consumer products included in the dwelling for which there exists a written manufacturer's warranty are available for Purchaser's inspection at Seller's sales office and that Purchaser was given an opportunity to inspect them before the execution of this agreement. This clause shall survive closing of title.

In addition, Seller warrants for a period of one year following closing of title, subject to normal use and upkeep, that the outbuildings, driveways, walkways, patios, retaining walls and fences, if any, shall be free from defects due to faulty workmanship or materials, that the surface drainage is proper and adequate, and that all off-site improvements constructed by Seller are free from defects for a period of one year from the date of their construction, all as required by the Planned Real Estate Development Full Disclosure Act (N.J. Stat. Ann. §§ 45:22A-21, et seq.).

Seller further represents that the lots, parcels, units, or interest described herein are fit for their intended use as more fully required by N.J. Stat. Ann. §§ 45:22A-21, et seq. Seller also warrants the construction of the common facilities existing in the Development for a period of two years after completion of each facility. Seller also warrants that all common facilities are fit for their intended use. Seller shall repair or correct any defect in construction, material, or workmanship of the common facilities within a reasonable time after it receives notice of the defect, or as more fully required by N.J. Stat. Ann. §§ 45:22A-21, et seq.

18. Fire and other casualty. If the housing unit is damaged by fire, storm, or other casualty after this Contract is signed but before the closing, Seller may repair the damage at its expense. If it does so, the Contract will remain in full force and effect and the date of closing will be extended for the additional time required to repair the damage. In case of damage to the housing unit, Seller shall notify Purchaser within 15 days whether it intends to repair the premises or to refund all deposit monies paid under this Contract. If Seller elects to refund the monies, the Contract shall be considered cancelled.

19. Seller's default. If Seller's title proves to be unmarketable, or if for any reason Seller does not construct or complete the premises, its only liability under this Contract shall be to return to Purchaser the deposit money, without interest, plus up to no more than $250 of Purchaser's out-of-pocket costs for the search and survey. Neither party shall have any further liability to the other, and this Contract shall be considered void, as if it never existed.

20. Purchaser's default. Purchaser will be considered in default of this Contract if she: fails to make any payment as provided in Paragraph IV; fails in any way to comply with the terms of this Contract; repudiates this agreement or otherwise prevents its performance by her own action, including (1) failure to supply documentation for mortgage application, or (2) any material overstatement of her cash or net worth in any mortgage application; becomes bankrupt or makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors; or is placed under the control or custody of any court or court-appointed custodian or guardian. If Purchaser defaults, Seller may declare this Contract cancelled. In that case, Seller may retain all deposit monies paid and all other monies not to exceed 10 percent of the purchase price of the housing unit, plus extras and change orders installed by Seller, which shall be paid as liquidated damages to Seller. If the Contract is cancelled, all copies shall be returned to Seller for cancellation, and the parties will have no further obligations or responsibilities to each other.

Seller may elect not to cancel this agreement if Purchaser defaults. In that event, the closing shall take place as if Purchaser did not default.

21. Subordination. Purchaser's rights under this contract are expressly subordinated to any existing or future mortgage on the premises, or to any mortgage advances made thereon. Seller shall satisfy any mortgage or lien encumbering the property from the sales proceeds at the closing of title.

22. Landscaping. Seller makes no representation regarding the condition of trees or any other vegetation or growth on the premises, and shall not be responsible for their survival before or after closing of title. Moreover, Seller shall not be responsible to replace any vegetation, growth, or seed that washes away.

23. License. Seller shall have the irrevocable right to enter into, upon, over, and under the conveyed property for a period of ten years after the deed is delivered or the Development is completed, whichever occurs first, for the completion of construction, repair, or emergency matters, or under government order or requirement. This provision shall survive delivery of the deed.

24. Pre-closing inspection. Within a reasonable time before the deed is delivered, Purchaser shall perform a pre-closing inspection of the unit with Seller or its representative during normal business hours. At that time, both parties will compile and sign a listing of items requiring completion, adjustment, or repair. Seller shall complete the items on the listing within a reasonable time. Under no circumstances shall any escrows be held for any incomplete items at closing. This provision shall survive closing of title.

25. No assignment or recording. Purchaser shall not assign, sell, or otherwise transfer this Contract without Seller's prior written consent.

Purchaser shall not record or file this Contract in any court or public office. If Purchaser does so, the filing or recording will be invalid and Seller may declare Purchaser in default of the Contract.

26. Notices. All notices under this Contract shall be in writing and sent by registered or certified mail, postage prepaid, to the other party at the address shown in Paragraphs I and II.

27. Entire agreement; representations. This Contract and application for registration constitute the entire understanding between the parties. There are no other representations, warranties, covenants, or understandings between them. No agent, representative, salesperson, or officer of the parties or Alp Ridge Realty, Inc. has authority to make, or has made, any oral agreement or representation modifying or supplementing the provisions of this Contract.

28. Changes in contract. No provision of this Contract may be changed unless the change is in writing and signed by both parties.

29. Binding effect; parties liable. This Contract is binding on the parties and their respective heirs, administrators, executors, successors, and assigns.

30. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience and reference only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

31. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

32. Governing law. This Contract shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

33. Counterparts. This Contract may be executed in two or more counterparts. Each copy shall be deemed an original, but all of them together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

34. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this Contract.

35. Pronouns. The neuter gender, when used, shall include all persons, and words used in plural shall include words in the singular where the text of the agreement so requires.

36. Receipt of documents. Purchaser acknowledges receipt of a copy of the Declaration of Covenants and Restrictions, Master Deed, By-Laws and Rules and Regulations of the Alp Ridge Owner's Association, By-Laws and Rules and Regulations of Alp Ridge Condominium Association, and the Public Offering Statement of Seller.

37. Representation by attorney. Purchaser understands that Seller's attorney represents Seller only and the purchase money mortgagee, if any, and not Purchaser. Accordingly, Seller urges Purchaser to retain independent counsel at Purchaser's expense in order to better serve her interests.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.27

FORM 21.27 Contract for sale of condominium unit--resale of apartment unit in existing condominium building

COMMENT

This form is a contract for the sale of a condominium apartment unit in a combined residential and commercial use building. The contract is designed to be used for the resale of a unit in an existing condominium building.

Purchase money mortgage

This form provides that some of the purchase will be financed by a purchase money mortgage given in connection with a loan by the seller to the purchaser. If the parties know that they intend to enter into a purchase money loan and mortgage arrangement before they execute the contract, then the forms to be used for the note and mortgage (or deed of trust in some states) may be attached to the contract and incorporated by reference. In this case, the contract provides that a specified standard form mortgage will be used.

Subordination of purchase money mortgage

If, as in this form, there will be a purchase money mortgage and the sale also will be subject to an existing mortgage, the parties should negotiate appropriate subordination provisions. This contract provides that any purchase money mortgage will be subordinate to the existing mortgage on the premises.

Existing mortgage

In this transaction, an existing mortgage on the premises will survive the closing. The contract describes the existing mortgage by including a statement of the principal amount of the existing mortgage, the interest rate and the final maturity date. Alternatively, a copy of the existing mortgage may be attached to the contract. The seller expressly represents that the existing mortgage does not contain a due on sale clause, is not in default, and will not be in default at the time of the closing.

Mortgagee's certificate

This contract requires the seller to obtain a mortgagee's certificate as to the status of the loan, including the amount of unpaid principal and interest, the rate of interest, and the date of maturity. Alternatively if the mortgagee is a bank or other financial institution, the seller is permitted to substitute for the certificate a letter signed by an authorized officer, employee, or agent of the mortgagee containing the information required to be set forth in the certificate. The seller must pay the fees for recording the certificate or letter.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, infra.

This provision of this contract shall survive delivery of the deed hereunder. The Seller shall furnish the Purchaser with an authorization to make the necessary searches therefor.

10. If, at the time of the delivery of the deed, the premises or any part thereof shall be or shall have been affected by an assessment or assessments which are or may become payable in annual installments, of which the first installment is then a charge or lien, or has been paid, then for the purposes of this contract all the unpaid installments of any such assessment, including those which are to become due and payable after the delivery of the deed, shall be deemed to be due and payable and to be liens upon the premises affected thereby and shall be paid and discharged by the Seller, upon the delivery of the deed.

13. If there is a water meter on the premises, the Seller shall furnish a reading to a date not more than thirty days prior to the date set for closing title, and the unfixed meter charge and the unfixed sewer rent, if any, based thereon for the intervening time shall be apportioned on the basis of such last reading.

14. The deed shall be the usual deed in proper statutory short form for recording and shall be executed and acknowledged so as to convey to the purchaser the fee simple of the premises, free of all encumbrances, except as herein stated.

15. Seller, a corporation incorporated under the laws of the State of _____, will deliver to the Purchaser, at the time of the delivery of the deed hereunder, a resolution of its Board of Directors authorizing the sale and delivery of the deed, and a certificate by the Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the corporation certifying such resolution and setting forth facts showing that the conveyance is in conformity with the requirements of applicable law.

16. At the closing of the title, the Seller shall deliver to the Purchaser a certified check to the order of the recording officer of the county in which the deed is to be recorded for the amount of the documentary stamps to be affixed thereto in accordance with applicable law, and a certified check to the order of the appropriate officer for any other tax payable by reason of the delivery of the deed, and a return, if any be required, signed and sworn to by the Seller. 20. The amount of any unpaid taxes, assessments, water charges and sewer rents which the Seller is obligated to pay and discharge, with the interest and penalties thereon to a date not less than two business days after the date of closing title, may at the option of the Seller be allowed as a credit to the Purchaser out of the balance of the purchase price, provided official bills therefor with interest and penalties thereon figured to that date are furnished by the Seller at the closing.

21. If at the date of closing there are any other liens or encumbrances which the Seller is obligated to pay and discharge, the Seller may use any portion of the balance of the purchase price to satisfy the same, provided the Seller simultaneously either delivers to the Purchaser at the closing of title instruments in recordable form and sufficient to satisfy such liens and encumbrances of record together with the cost of recording or filing such instruments; or, provided that the Seller has made arrangements with the title company employed by the Purchaser in advance of closing, to deposit with such company sufficient monies, acceptable to and required by it to insure obtaining and the recording of such satisfactions and the issuance of title insurance to the Purchaser either free of any such liens and encumbrances or with insurance against enforcement of same out of the insured premises. The Purchaser, if request is made within a reasonable time prior to the date of closing of title, agrees to provide at the closing separate certified checks as requested, aggregating the amount of the balance of the purchase price to facilitate the satisfaction of any such liens or encumbrances. The existence of any such taxes or other liens and encumbrances shall not be deemed objections to title if the Seller complies with the foregoing requirements.

22. The Purchaser has inspected the premises and agrees to take same "as is" in its present physical condition, and the parties agree that, except as otherwise set forth in this contract, the Seller has made no representations or warranties whether express or implied, of any nature, kind or description with reference to the physical condition of the premises.

23. It is understood and agreed that all items of personalty passing hereunder shall be delivered in its "as is" present physical condition and no warranty whatsoever is made with respect to same, except as otherwise herein set forth.

24. This contract constitutes the entire contract between the parties hereto, and the Seller is not liable or bound in any manner by expressed or implied warranties, guarantees, promises, statements, representations or information pertaining to the premises, made or furnished by any real estate broker, agent, employee, servant, or other person representing or purporting to represent the Seller, unless such warranties, guarantees, promises, statements, representations or information is expressly and specifically set forth in this contract.

25. This agreement is personal with the Purchaser and shall not be sold, transferred or assigned by the Purchaser without first obtaining the written consent of the Seller endorsed hereon. Any such consent given by the Seller shall not be construed as a release, or be a release, to the purchase of and from any of its obligations hereunder.

26. Included in the within sale, but not necessarily limited thereto, are all lighting fixtures with the exception of those presently existing in the front hall and dining room, all existing carpeting, one dishwasher and combination washer/dryer, all to the extent the above presently exist in the premises. Any lighting fixtures removed by Seller shall be replaced by standard lighting fixtures in working order at the closing.

27. It is further understood that this contract is subject to and conditional upon the Seller obtaining the consents necessary if required, as set forth in the Condominium by-laws, or in any other provisions, rules or regulations to sell the premises to the Purchaser.

28. Seller shall have thirty (30) days from the date of this contract to obtain the consents necessary, and Seller agrees to make all reasonable effort to secure such consent promptly, and further agrees to comply with all the requirements of the Condominium to which such application is made.

If Seller fails to obtain such consent by such date, then either party shall have the right to cancel this contract upon delivering written notice to the other party or their attorney, whereupon the Seller shall return to the Purchaser all consideration paid hereunder and this contract shall thereupon become null and void and neither party shall have further rights or claims against the other.

29. The Seller hereby certifies that the appliances, plumbing, heating and electrical systems will be in working order on the closing date.

30. The Purchaser shall have a reasonable right of inspection prior to the closing of title.

31. Seller represents that at the closing the premises will be in substantially the same condition as existed on the date of this contract, reasonable wear and tear excepted. Seller further represents that as of the date of closing, the premises shall be vacant and "broom clean."

32. As of the date of closing, Seller represents and warrants that there shall be no unpaid assessments or liens against the premises for capital improvements or repairs, except for the then current assessment for common charges.

33. If a search of the title discloses judgments, bankruptcies or other returns against other persons having names the same as or similar to that of the Seller, the Seller will on request deliver to the Purchaser an affidavit showing that such judgments, bankruptcies or other returns are not against the Seller.

34. If Seller is unable to convey title in accordance with the terms of this contract, the sole liability of Seller will be to refund to Purchaser the amount paid on account of the purchase price and to pay the net cost of examining the title, which cost is not to exceed the charges fixed by the State of _____ Board of Title Underwriters, and the net cost of any survey made in connection therewith incurred by the Purchaser, and upon such refund and payment being made this contract shall be considered canceled.

35. The deed shall be delivered upon the receipt of the payments at the office of _____ at _____ a.m. on _____ [date].

36. The parties agree that _____ is the broker who brought about this sale, and the Seller agrees to pay any commission earned thereby.

37. It is understood and agreed that all understandings and agreements heretofore had between the parties are merged in this contract, which alone fully and completely expresses their agreement, and that the same is entered into after full investigation, neither party relying upon any statement or representation, not embodied in this contract, made by the other. The Purchaser has inspected the buildings standing on the premises and is thoroughly acquainted with their condition and agrees to take title "as is" and in their present condition and subject to reasonable use, wear, tear, and natural deterioration between the date of this contract and the closing of title.

38. This agreement may not be changed or terminated orally. The stipulations stated above are to apply to and bind the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns of the respective parties.

39. If two or more persons constitute either the Seller or the Purchaser, the word "Seller" or the word "Purchaser" shall be construed as if it read "Sellers" or "Purchasers" whenever the sense of this agreement so requires.

This agreement has been executed by the parties hereto.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.28

FORM 21.28 Contract for construction and sale of new home--builder's warranty of major systems--liquidated damages for seller's breach--closing after construction completed

COMMENT

This form is for the construction and sale of a single family home. It includes paragraphs which reflect the interests of the builder-seller, and others which are directed toward the purchaser's interests.

New residential construction warranties

In almost all states, new residential construction is subject to statutory or common law implied warranties as to condition, habitability or fitness for its intended purpose. Such implied warranties apply to the sale of completed new homes as well as to those under construction at the time of the contract, and usually survive the passing of title. In states where implied warranties do not survive the closing, the purchaser should attempt to negotiate a provision setting forth the seller's liability for defects in construction after the closing.

In general, statutory provisions regarding the condition of newly constructed homes presume certain warranties regarding workmanship and fitness for habitation to be implied in the contract of sale unless they are expressly waived. For example, under such a statute, there may be warranties for a specified or reasonable period of time that the new home will be free from defects due to unskillful construction; that the plumbing, electrical, heating, cooling and ventilation systems will be free from defects due to unskillful installation; and that the home will be free from defects in material. In some states, such statutory provisions coexist with a common law implied housing merchant warranty of habitability or fitness.

In most states, the parties may expressly disclaim implied warranties for new construction and substitute specific limited warranties. In this form, there is no express disclaimer of implied warranties, so the specific warranties expressly made in the contract are presumably in addition to implied warranties as to condition, habitability or fitness for intended purpose.

Warranty of major systems by builder

The builder, in this form, agrees to be responsible for the proper operation of the heating, plumbing, electrical and other major systems for a period of one year. The warranty also extends to roof and basement water leaks. (See paragraph 29 of the form.) This warranty, which clearly benefits the buyer, is not considered a standard provision in new construction contracts. However, similar warranties are included in new home agreements if the builder is willing to take on this additional obligation. This form also includes an agreement by the builder to assign to the buyer any warranties given by appliance suppliers or other parties involved in construction. (See paragraph 25 of the form.)

Liquidated damages for seller-builder's breach

Another nonstandard provision in this contract is the seller's obligation to pay a specified amount of liquidated damages to the buyer if the seller fails to perform or otherwise breaches the contract. (See paragraph 30 of the form.) A more usual provision is for the seller to return the purchaser's deposit and other money advanced on the contract and a release of the parties. A liquidated damages clause, however, protects the purchaser from the risk of the seller refunding the deposit and selling the new home to a third party for a higher price. Although the seller may be liable for damages in such a case, depending on the contract terms and local law, a liquidated damages provision is more likely to encourage the builder to complete the transaction with the purchaser.

Closing date

In this form, the closing date is agreed upon, but it can be adjourned or advanced based on the completion of construction. (See paragraphs 19, 20, 21, and 33 of the form.) Generally, a builder requires this flexibility in setting the closing date, rather than a set closing date with no adjournments allowed, or a time of the essence closing date. There are numerous possible causes for construction delays: material delivery delays, unavailable subcontractors, bad weather, etc. As additional protection to the builder, cancellation of the contract is allowed if essential construction materials or utility hook-ups become unavailable, or if local ordinances, regulations, or approvals change to bar use of the property for a single family dwelling. (See paragraphs 14 and 18 of the form.)

Additional construction contract terms

Other terms and conditions in this agreement deal with issues which arise in new construction situations. For example, this contract allows the purchaser to inspect the property during construction and order changes in the work, subject to the builder's right to adjust the price. (See paragraph 23 of the form.) This not only allows the purchaser, or the purchaser's architect or other agent, to see that construction is done according to plans, but also permits changes if they are desirable or necessary.

Because the property will have an increased assessed value for real estate tax purposes after the building is completed and approved, the real estate taxes will increase. This agreement provides that the tax adjustment at the closing will be based on the assessed value as fully determined, even if this determination is made after the closing. (See paragraph 16 of the form.)

FORM

CONTRACT OF SALE made September 15, _____ [year]y Shore, New York ("Seller") and James Perry, residing at 80 Fifth Street, Babylon, New York ("Purchaser").

1. Sale. Seller agrees to sell, and Purchaser agrees to purchase, the property (the "premises" or "property") described as follows:

(Insert description)

2. Street rights, easement. This sale includes all of Seller's right, title, and interest of, in, and to the land lying in the bed of the street, or highway in front of and adjoining the premises to the center line thereof, if such street, or highway in front of and adjoining the premises is, at the time of closing of title, dedicated to, and under maintenance by, the town, city, village, or other municipality in which the premises are situate. If at the time of title, such street or highway is not thus dedicated and maintained, Seller shall grant to Purchaser a good and sufficient easement of ingress and egress to and from the nearest public highway.

3. Construction of dwelling. Seller shall, at its expense, erect and complete a one family dwelling on the premises substantially similar to the Model House Type A on Exhibit 1. Such dwelling shall be constructed in accordance with the requirements as to materials and workmanship of the municipality where it is or will be located, and with the requirements of the lending institution which makes the mortgage loan to Purchaser. Seller reserves the right to make changes or substitutions, or both, in the construction as required, authorized, or approved by Purchaser and by Purchaser's lending institution. Seller shall determine the exterior color and design to fit into the general pattern of the development.

4. Property and work included in sale. All furniture and furnishings in the Model House are for exhibition purposes only and are not included in this sale. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this contract, Seller shall, at its expense, furnish and perform the following:

(a) Grade the premises and landscape the area in front of the house.

(b) Furnish and install a four-burner range, or if Purchaser furnishes a range before the title closing, install the same and allow Purchaser $200 as an adjustment.

(c) Furnish and install kitchen cabinets, inlaid linoleum on kitchen floor, electrical fixtures, and plumbing and heating plants and fixtures.

(d) Within ten days of notification, Purchaser shall select wallpaper at a place to be designated by Seller or Seller's painting contractor, at a list price of $9.50 per roll. The wallpaper will be installed at Seller's expense. If Purchaser selects a more expensive wallpaper he shall pay the additional cost of the wallpaper and of the painting contractor for installing it. Unless the parties specifically agree otherwise, Purchaser may not select more than one design of wallpaper for the walls in any one room.

5. Purchase price. The purchase price of the property is $240,000, payable as follows: $24,000 on the signing of this contract, receipt of which is acknowledged (subject to collection, if made by check), and $216,000 in cash, or by good certified or savings bank check or the proceeds of the mortgage loan upon delivery of the deed.

6. Mortgage loan. Purchaser shall make diligent, truthful, and proper applications to lending institutions designated by Seller for a loan to be secured by a first mortgage against the premises, and without delay furnish such verifications of bank accounts and employment, and all other instruments or information required by the lending institutions in processing Purchaser's application for the following type of loan:

A first mortgage in the amount of $192,000, to run for a period of 30 years, to bear interest at the prevailing rate, and to be payable in monthly installments. The installments may include amortization of principal, interest, taxes, water rates if not a private company, fire and other hazard insurance premiums, and all other provisions required by the lending institution.

7. Mortgage commitment conditions. If the application for the mortgage loan is approved and commitment issued, Purchaser shall execute, acknowledge, and deliver any bond, mortgage assumption, extension, and modification agreements, affidavits, statements, or other instruments that are necessary or required by the lending institution to properly place the mortgage loan and any mortgage insurance. If the mortgage loan is granted in a reduced amount and the reduced amount is not more than $6,000 less than the amount specified for such mortgage loan, Purchaser shall nevertheless accept the mortgage loan in the reduced amount, but the amount of cash to be paid on the closing of title shall be increased by the amount of the reduction. If the lending institution refuses to approve the application for the reduced amount and upon the terms and conditions above described, this contract shall become null and void and upon refunding the deposited money without interest both parties shall be released from any liability under this contract.

8. Mortgage application. Purchaser shall make diligent, truthful, and proper application to a lending institution designated by Seller, and without delay furnish all verifications of bank accounts, employment, and other instruments or information required by the lending institution in processing Purchaser's application for the mortgage loan.

9. Subordination to building loan mortgage. All terms and provisions of this contract are and shall be subject and subordinate to the lien of all present or future building loan mortgages and advances made thereon, without the execution of further legal documents by Purchaser.

10. Mortgage costs and fees. Seller shall pay the following costs and fees in connection with the mortgage loan: title examination fee and title policy premium to insure the mortgagee; attorney's fees for drawing the mortgage instruments; mortgage taxes; recording fees of the mortgage instruments; and survey, inspection, and approval fees. Purchaser shall pay Seller, at the time of closing title, the sum of $1,200, to cover all of the foregoing costs and fees advanced by Seller. In addition, Purchaser shall pay the lending institution at title closing all origination, appraisal, and service charges and all points in connection with the mortgage loan.

11. Closing adjustments. Purchaser shall apportion with Seller and pay all taxes, water rates, and insurance premiums on existing policies determined to be due at closing of title. Purchaser shall also make the usual and required adjustments with and prepayments to the lending institution.

12. Closing before completion. The fact that the dwelling or its environs are not fully completed at the time set by Seller for closing of title shall not constitute an objection to the closing if Purchaser's lending institution issues an inspection report, Seller deposits an escrow fund with the institution (if the report so requires), and a certificate of occupancy has been issued for the dwelling.

13. Title exceptions. Purchaser shall accept the premises subject to:

- (a) Municipal building restrictions and regulations and all amendments and additions in effect at the date of closing of title.

- (b) Any state of facts an accurate survey may show if title is not rendered unmarketable thereby.
- (c) Encroachments of stoops, area ways, steps, trim and cornices, retaining walls, party walls and extensions thereof, if any.
- (d) Sewer, water, electric, gas, telephone, railroad, and other public utility consents and easements now or hereafter recorded.
- (e) Covenants, agreements, and restrictions now or hereafter recorded against or affecting the premises if they do not prohibit the erection or maintenance of the structures as a single family residence.
- (f) Local, municipal, town, county, and state zoning ordinances and resolutions if they do not prohibit use of the property as a single family dwelling.

14. Local ordinances; approvals and regulations contingency. If at any time on or before closing of title any zoning or building ordinance or regulation, or required approval, prohibits or will prohibit Purchaser from using the property as a single family dwelling, this contract shall become null and void, Seller shall return to Purchaser the amount paid under the contract, and neither party shall have any further obligation or liability to the other by reason of hereof.

15. Assessments. If, upon delivery of the deed, all or any part of the premises is or has been affected by an assessment or assessments which are or may become payable in annual installments, and the first installment is then a charge or lien or has been paid, for the purpose of this contract all the unpaid installments of the assessments, including those which are to become due and payable after delivery of the deed, shall be deemed to be due and payable and to be liens upon the premises, and shall be paid and discharged by Seller upon delivery of the deed.

16. Unpaid or unassessed taxes. The existence of unpaid taxes at closing of title shall not constitute an objection to title if Seller deposits a sufficient amount with the title company and the company insures against the collection of such taxes from the premises. If the closing of title occurs before the tax rate is fixed, the tax apportionment shall be made when the valuation is fully determined, and this sentence shall survive delivery of the deed. The parties intend that the apportionment of taxes be based on the assessed value of the property with the completed dwelling and other improvements.

17. Seller's inability to deliver title. If for any reason Seller is unable to deliver title to the premises in accordance with this contract, Seller's liability shall be limited to the return of Purchaser's payments together with the net bulk rate cost of title examination without title insurance as actually charged to Purchaser by the title company engaged in making a search of the premises for the lending institution. Upon the return of such sum, this contract shall be and become null and void.

18. Seller's inability to obtain construction materials. Seller shall endeavor to complete the construction of the dwelling on the premises before the date set for the closing of title. Nevertheless, Seller may cancel this contract by forwarding its check in the full amount paid by Purchaser on the execution of this contract, together with a notice in writing, addressed to Purchaser if any of the following events occur: (a) a governmental bureau, department, or subdivision imposes restrictions on the manufacture, sale, distribution, or use of materials necessary in the construction of residential housing, (b) Seller is unable to obtain materials from its usual sources due to strikes, lockouts, war, military operations, abnormal prices and requirements, acts of terror or National emergencies, or (c) the installation of public utilities is restricted or curtailed.

19. Adjournment of closing. Closing of title shall be adjourned to a date fixed by Seller if final action on the mortgage applications is not taken, final inspection or other necessary instruments or reports are not made or issued, or the dwelling is not ready for occupancy at the date set for title closing. However, the adjourned date shall not be later than one month after the dwelling is ready for occupancy and all necessary reports, inspections, and instruments are made or issued.

20. Construction delays; adjourned closing. The closing date shall be extended for up to one month after the dwelling can be completed, as provided above, if completion of the dwelling is delayed due to inclement weather; strikes, lockouts, or other disputes affecting either Seller or any of its suppliers of material or labor; delay in issuance of certificates, permits, or licenses; delayed inspections; acts of war or terror or civil commotion; emergency proclamation; governmental regulations; changes ordered by Purchaser in the construction; or any reason beyond Seller's control.

21. Early completion and closing. If the house is completed before the closing date specified herein, Purchaser shall accept title five days after he receives written notice thereof from Seller's attorneys.

22. Unauthorized possession; purchaser's default. Purchaser shall in no event take possession of the premises before delivery of the deed and full compliance with the terms of this contract. If Purchaser violates this provision, Seller may dispossess him from the premises as a squatter and intruder by summary proceedings. If Purchaser fails to take title at closing or there is an unauthorized possession, this contract shall be deemed cancelled without further notice by Seller, and the amount paid hereunder shall belong to Seller as liquidated damages.

23. Inspection by purchaser; change orders. Purchaser or his agent shall have access to the dwelling at reasonable times during progress of the construction for the purpose of examining the work. Purchaser may order reasonable changes in the work, and the purchase price shall be adjusted accordingly. All such change orders and price adjustments shall be in writing and signed by Purchaser.

24. Certificate of occupancy, permits. On the closing of title, Seller shall deliver to Purchaser a certificate of occupancy issued by the proper authorities, and the certificate shall be in full force and effect at that time. Seller shall secure all permits and licenses, and pay all fees, necessary for construction of the dwelling.

25. Appliance warranties and operating systems. Seller will transfer to Purchaser all warranties given to Seller by any contractor, subcontractor, supplier, or third party for any portion of the building, fixtures, or appliances included in this sale. At the closing date, all water, heating and electrical services will be turned on and in good working order.

26. Risk of loss. Seller assumes all risk of loss or damage to the premises by fire or other casualty until delivery of the deed.

27. Type of deed. The deed shall be a bargain and sale deed with covenants against grantor's acts in proper statutory short form for record and shall contain the covenant required by Section 13. The deed shall be duly executed and acknowledged by Seller at its expense, so as to convey to Purchaser the fee simple of the premises free of all encumbrances, except as herein stated. The deed shall contain any description of the premises accepted and approved by Purchaser, the lending institution or the title company insuring it.

28. Seller's full performance on delivery of deed. This contract is a single, indivisible contract. The delivery to and acceptance of the deed by Purchaser shall be deemed and considered as full performance and compliance by Seller of all the terms of this contract, and as a release by Purchaser of all rights, obligations, claims, or causes of action against Seller. No provision of this contract, unless otherwise herein expressly provided, and no promise, representation, agreement, or obligation of Seller or its agents, employees, or representatives, shall survive the delivery and acceptance of the deed, unless the same is fully set forth in writing together with an express provision that it shall survive delivery of the deed, and is signed by Seller.

29. One year builder's warranty. In order to assure the proper care of the dwelling, Seller assumes responsibility for the proper operation, under normal conditions for a period of one year from the date of closing of title, of the following major systems: maintenance of the roof and roof flashings against leaks, except if caused by an act or event beyond Seller's control; service of the basement against water conditions resulting from seepage or pressure if such conditions develop; the heating unit and heating system that it is sufficient to heat the building when it is zero degrees outside with a five m.p.h. wind to a 70 degree temperature inside (Fahrenheit degrees); and the electrical system and interior plumbing. Seller's responsibility under this paragraph is subject to the condition that the above major systems are properly maintained. Seller's obligations and warranties under this paragraph shall survive delivery and acceptance of the deed.

30. Liquidated damages for seller's breach. If Seller breaches this contract or refuses to complete the sale of the property to Purchaser as herein provided, Purchaser may recover from Seller the amount paid hereunder, together with the sum of $6,000 as liquidated damages. Such amount is agreed upon as the damages that Purchaser will sustain from Seller's breach, it being impractical and extremely difficult to fix actual damages at this time. The foregoing shall be in addition to all other remedies which Purchaser shall have either at law or in equity.

31. Assignment. Seller may assign this contract to any building corporation that assumes construction and completion of the dwelling and complies with all other terms and provisions hereof. Purchaser shall in no event make such assignment without Seller's written consent.

32. Broker. Thomas Cowan is the broker for this transaction, and his commission shall be paid by Seller as set forth in a separate agreement. However, Seller warrants and represents that no commission shall be due and payable unless and until title closes hereunder.

33. Closing. The closing of the within transaction shall be held at Seller's office, or at the office designated by the lending institution which accepts the mortgage on the premises, at 10 a.m. on February 10, _____ [year].

34. Binding effect. This contract shall be binding upon the parties and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns.

35. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience and reference only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

36. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

37. Governing law. This contract shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New York.

38. Counterparts. This contract may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

39. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this contract.

40. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. This contract is entered into after full investigation made by Seller, and neither party relies upon any statement or representation made by anyone unless contained herein.

41. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be in writing and sent by registered or certified mail, postage prepaid, to the respective parties at their address shown above.

The parties have signed this contract.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.29

FORM 21.29 Contract for sale of tract of land--release of subdivided parcels on specified payments--purchase money deed of trust and guaranty given to seller

COMMENT

In this form a developer buys a tract of land which will be subdivided into residential lots after the acquisition. Payment of most of the purchase price is deferred. Frequently a developer in these circumstances intends to pay part of the purchase money debt as each subdivided lot is sold. To allow this, the deed of trust, which will secure the balance of the purchase price due to the seller, will provide that certain portions of the property are released from the seller's lien as the indebtedness is reduced by specified amounts. This type of release provision is a common device when the purchaser is planning to subdivide the property or otherwise intends to improve the property in parcels.

The seller needs to be sure that the land remaining subject to the seller's deed of trust not only has enough value to cover any remaining debt owed by the purchaser, but also that the land has direct access (or access over easements) to a public street. In this way, if there is a default and the seller needs to foreclose, the land will be usable and salable by the seller. For the same reasons, the seller also may want to control the location and order in which the parcels will be released.

On rare occasions, parties to a contract for the sale of land will agree to honor electronic signatures in lieu of manual signatures. The Uniform Electronic Transaction Act, adopted in some form by most states, provides that electronic signatures will have the same legal effect as manual signatures, if the parties to a contract so agree. This contract contains a provision authorizing electronic signatures.

Tax aspects

The release provision has no effect on basic tax consequences. The purchaser's cost basis and the amounts realized by the seller are established at the time of the sale. Subsequent releases from the lien do not affect these items, except to the extent that the purchaser's original allocation of his cost among the various parcels may have to be modified if a default occurs after some parcels have already been released from the seller's lien. The year in which payments are received by the seller will affect the seller's taxable income for that year. If the seller is a dealer, installment sale tax treatment generally is not available. The lien is released as the purchaser pays the deed of trust for each lot. Each lot is not sold separately by the seller receiving the installment payments. For a further discussion of deferred payment and installment sales see The Tax Background (TB) §§ 21.10, 21.11 at the beginning of this chapter.

Information reporting of real estate transactions

The attorney or title company responsible for closing title is required to report the real estate transaction to the Service. In addition, a statement must be provided to the customer before January 31 of the following year. If an attorney or title company is not involved in the closing, the information reporting is the responsibility of the mortgage lender. The information reporting requirements are discussed in TB § 21.02[4].

FORM

AGREEMENT made and entered into February 6, _____ [year], by and between Graham Corporation, a California corporation ("Seller"), Central Housing Corporation, a California corporation ("Buyer"), and William Doyle ("Guarantor").

1. Sale of property. Seller shall sell and Buyer shall buy the following described real property located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

(Insert description)

2. Purchase price. The total purchase price of the property shall be $200,000. Buyer shall deposit $10,000 of the purchase price in escrow at the opening of the escrow provided for below and an additional $75,000 of the purchase price in escrow before the close of escrow. The balance of the purchase price of $115,000 shall be payable in 10 equal annual installments, plus interest at the rate of 12 percent per annum, commencing one year after the close of escrow. If Buyer fails or refuses to pay the $75,000 by the close of escrow, the initial deposit of $10,000 shall immediately become Seller's property and be paid to it. Buyer may make additional payments of principal at any time before maturity, which shall be applied against the payment of future principal installments in the inverse order of their maturity. In such event, the balance of the unpaid purchase price shall continue to be payable in equal annual installments, plus interest of 12 percent per annum, for the remainder of the above ten year period.

3. Note, guaranty, deed of trust. The total unpaid balance of the purchase price of $115,000 shall be evidenced by Buyer's promissory note providing for payment upon the terms set forth in Section 2. The note shall be guaranteed by Guarantor, as provided in Section 5. The note shall be secured by a deed of trust on the property, which shall be prior to any other deed of trust, mortgage, lien, or encumbrance on the property.

4. Release of parcels from deed of trust. One third of the total property then subject to the deed of trust referred to in Section 3 shall be released therefrom when all of Buyer's payments of principal after the close of escrow, including all elective prepayments referred to in Section 2, equal $40,000. One half of the total property then subject to the deed of trust shall be released when the principal payments total an additional $40,000. The balance of the property shall be released from the deed of trust as soon as the remaining unpaid balance of the purchase price is paid in full. For this purpose, the property, which has a 450 foot frontage along Holmes Avenue in Van Nuys, California, shall be divided into three equal parcels, each having a frontage of 150 feet along Holmes Avenue. The three parcels shall be referred to as follows: the most northerly parcel as Parcel A; the most southerly parcel as Parcel C; and the remaining portion of the property between Parcels A and C as Parcel B. Buyer may select Parcel A or Parcel C as the first parcel to be released in accordance with the above. If either parcel is released upon total payments of $40,000 as set forth above, and Buyer makes additional payments of $40,000 in accordance with the provisions of this Section, Parcel B shall be the second parcel released.

5. Guaranty. William Doyle ("Guarantor") personally guarantees all of Buyer's obligations under the terms of this agreement, including but not limited to the guarantee of the payment of the purchase price as provided in Sections 2 and 3. Guarantor shall execute a written guarantee of payment of Buyer's note evidencing the unpaid balance of the purchase price. Guarantor shall reimburse Seller, and its successors and assigns, for all damages sustained by Seller by reason of Buyer's breach of any term of this agreement.

6. Escrow. The sale shall be completed through an escrow to be opened at Central Title Insurance Company, 3000 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California. The escrow instructions shall be in the standard form used by the Central Title Insurance Company, but shall be consistent with the terms and conditions of this agreement which shall control if there is any inconsistency. The escrow shall be for a period of 120 days.

7. Title to property. At the close of escrow Seller shall convey to Buyer title to the property subject to all covenants, conditions, restrictions, easements, and rights of way of record, all of which shall be subject to Buyer's approval within ten days after receipt of a preliminary title report, and subject to any current unpaid real property taxes which are a lien on the property.

8. Title insurance policy. Seller shall provide Buyer with a C.L.T.A. standard coverage policy of title insurance in an amount equal to the total sales price.

9. Taxes, insurance, and costs. Any real property taxes and insurance shall be prorated as of the close of escrow. Escrow costs and recording fees shall be divided between the parties according to the normal practice in connection with escrows in Los Angeles County, California.

12. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience and reference only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

14. Governing law. This agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of California.

15. Counterparts; Electronic Signatures. This agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument. This agreement may be executed by electronic signature pursuant to Section 1633.1 et seq. of the California Civil Code.

16. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this agreement.

17. Entire agreement. All prior understandings and agreements between the parties are merged in this contract, which constitutes the entire agreement between the parties. B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.30

FORM 21.30 Contract rider for residential sales contracts containing lead-based paint disclosures and lead-based paint contingency

COMMENT

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the disclosure of lead-based paint hazards to individuals who are renting, buying or renovating pre-1978 residential housing. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. Lead-based paint and paint dust often found in housing built before 1978. Lead is very dangerous, especially to young children and pregnant women. Sellers of pre-1978 housing must disclose known information on lead-based paint hazards before selling a house, and landlords must disclose such information before leases take effect. Both sales contracts and leases must include a lead warning statement and disclosure information. Renovators must provide information about lead-based paint before starting work.

The seller and the broker are responsible for providing lead-based paint information to the purchaser before the sale. The information required by law includes both specific information about the property being sold and general information about lead-based paint hazards. The seller must disclose known lead-based paint and lead-based paint hazards and provide available records and reports to the purchaser. The seller also must give the purchaser the pamphlet, developed by EPA, HUD, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), titled "Protect Your Family From Lead in Your Home." The purchaser must be given a 10-day period to conduct a lead-based paint inspection or risk assessment, at the purchaser's expense. The parties have flexibility to negotiate the key terms of the evaluation. Finally, the sales contract must include certain notification and disclosure language.

Note that the law does not require the seller to test for lead-based paint or to remove such paint if it is known to exist. The law also does not invalidate a sales contract that does not include the required disclosure. However, any person who violates the lead disclosure requirements may be subject to civil and criminal penalties, as well as treble damages in a private civil suit.

Lead testing contingency

To protect against the dangers of lead, many purchasers desire a provision making the contract of sale contingent upon the outcome of lead-based paint testing. A lead paint contingency should be included in any contract for the sale of a structure built before 1978, especially if the structure is a residence and the purchaser or anticipated tenant has small children. A commercial property contract should contain a contingency that at least provides for testing for lead dust, which is harmful to people of any age.

The contingency should specify the method of testing and analysis to be used and should require that multiple samples be taken in each room, as well as soil samples from outdoors. The contingency should provide for repair of the sampled areas. The lead paint contingency also should specify the qualifications and credentials of the party performing the sampling and analysis. It is important to be sure that the inspector is qualified and has received training in sampling and spectrography techniques.

The lead paint contingency should allow the purchaser to terminate the contract if any lead paint or dust is found, or if the soil around the premises is found to be contaminated with lead. Alternatively, the contingency may provide that the agreement will be modified to provide for the remediation of any lead problem. Upon receipt of the test results, the purchaser will have to decide whether remediation is required under the circumstances. If the purchaser has no small children and none are expected, he or she may decide against the expense. If the purchaser has small children or is purchasing a building where children may live or visit, he or she may be advised to seek another property.

Lead-based paint testing techniques and remedies

Lead paint problems can be determined by visual inspection of paint condition and location, surface dust tests, spectrography or chemical tests of samples. Home test kits generally are not considered to be reliable.

Lead paint can be handled in three ways: removal of the surface containing the paint, encapsulation (i.e., by sheetrocking over the surface), or by sanding the surface. Removal is the most permanent and most expensive method, and it causes the least amount of lead dust. Encapsulation may not be permanent and is moderately expensive. As the seams age, lead dust may escape. Encapsulation may not be performed by painting alone. Sanding is not recommended, as it produces high quantities of lead dust; however, sanding is a lower cost alternative and deemed permanent.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.31

FORM 21.31 Residential property disclosure form

COMMENT

This form is the official form for residential property disclosure in Ohio. See Ohio Rev. Code § 5302.30, which requires sellers of residential property to disclose various aspects of the property's physical condition on this form. The Ohio form is a useful model for disclosure statements by sellers in states which do not have mandatory disclosure laws, since disclosure of the condition of the property may be recommended even when not required.

Required disclosure of defects

A growing majority of states now require the seller and/or the seller's agent to disclose facts which materially affect the value or desirability of the property, especially if such adverse facts are peculiarly within the seller's knowledge and are not discoverable by a reasonable inspection. The seller may be required by law or contract to give the purchaser a written report on the condition of the property. Sellers and brokers have been held liable to purchasers for both undisclosed physical defects in the property and undisclosed nonphysical facts about the property, such as alleged ghosts, murders and former occupants infected with the AIDS virus. In some cases it might even be prudent to disclose matters which affect not just the property being sold but also the neighborhood. For example, if a registered sex offender has moved into the neighborhood the seller has likely received a notice from the local governmental authority of such fact, and may want to disclose such fact to the purchaser. All 50 states have now adopted some version of what is commonly called "Megan's Law," requiring such notifications to be given.

Recommended disclosure of defects

Even where not required by local law, many brokers now recommend that sellers give purchasers a disclosure report, to protect both the broker and the seller from liability for nondisclosure. Disclosure statements generally include information about structural defects, utilities, water, septic systems, defects in equipment and appliances, environmental problems and regulatory compliance. The seller's attorney should discuss the relevant disclosure law with the seller to determine what disclosure must or should be made under the circumstances.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.32

FORM 21.32 Contract for sale of tract of land--purchase money mortgage--release provisions for large subdivision development

COMMENT

This contract illustrates a transaction in which the purchaser contemplates the subdivision and platting of property for development purposes. Many of these transactions are partly financed by purchase money mortgages which give the purchaser the right to secure the release of separate parcels from the lien of the mortgage by specific payments which are applied against the total mortgage debt.

A definite scheme is used in this contract for the geographical order in which parcels may be released from the purchase money mortgage. This is designed to prevent a "raiding" of the most desirable locations and a subsequent default by the purchaser, leaving the seller-mortgagee with the less valuable parcels. To facilitate the development of the property, the seller-mortgagee commits himself to join in the execution of any plat or any instrument dedicating part of the property for public use. A special provision has been added, as required by local law, giving some protection to a person who buys one of the plots and later faces the possibility of losing it because the developer has defaulted on the purchase money mortgage held by the original owner.

FORM

AGREEMENT made November 15, _____ [year], between Arthur Brown, joined by his wife Harriet Brown ("Seller"), and Great Land Corporation, a Florida corporation ("Buyer").

1. Sale. Seller agrees to sell and Buyer agrees to purchase the following four Parcels of property, located in Lee County,

Florida, and described as follows:

(Insert description)

The acreage shown for each of the Parcels are acreages as shown on their respective tax receipts. Seller makes no representations as to the exact number of acres comprising all four Parcels, and the purchase price set forth in this agreement is a firm price without regard to any variance from the actual number of acres shown.

2. Purchase price. The total purchase price for the property shall be $3.5 million, payable as follows:

(a) As earnest money, Buyer, upon the execution of this agreement, has paid $100,000 to the law firm of Smith & Harris as Escrow Agent.

(b) On or before March 3, _____ [year], Buyer shall pay Escrow Agent an additional $250,000 on account of the purchase price. Immediately upon receipt of this additional sum, Escrow Agent shall pay Seller all escrow moneys then held hereunder.

(c) At closing, Buyer shall pay Seller an additional $650,000, plus or minus prorations, Buyer shall assume existing mortgage or mortgages on the property with a balance of $100,000, and the remainder of the purchase price of $2,400,000 shall be represented by a promissory note secured by a purchase money mortgage, to be executed by Buyer and delivered to Seller after it is recorded at the closing.

3. Nonrecourse note and mortgage. The promissory note shall be payable in five equal annual installments of principal, with the first installment due and payable on March 1, _____ [year], and bear interest at 5-percent per annum payable with each installment of principal. The purchase money mortgage shall be in the usual Florida form, contain a grace period for the payment of any installment of principal and interest of 20 days, provide for prepayment without penalty at any time after January 1, _____ [year], and further provide that if the mortgagor fails to meet any installment of mortgage debt when due, the mortgagee may in no case accelerate the unpaid balance of principal and interest until the mortgagor has first been given notice of any such default by registered or certified mail, and such default has not been cured within ten days after receipt thereof. The purchase money note and mortgage shall also provide that Buyer's obligation in respect of the indebtedness secured thereby shall be limited wholly and solely to the value of the land encumbered thereby, without right to any deficiency claim or judgment.

4. Closing. This agreement shall be consummated and the purchase and sale concluded on or before December 15, _____ [year], at the office of Smith & Harris, attorneys for Seller. Buyer shall notify Seller at least 40 days before the date fixed by Buyer for the closing.

5. Title insurance or abstracts. At least 30 days before the closing date, Seller will furnish to Buyer, at Buyer's expense, either commitments for title insurance from a recognized title company, or abstracts of title extended to such date, showing title to the property to be good and marketable and vested in Seller free and clear of all encumbrances, except (a) the mortgage encumbrances to be assumed as part of the purchase price, (b) taxes and assessments for the year _____ [year] and thereafter, (c) conditions and restrictions of record common to the neighborhood, (d) any oil, gas, and mineral leases of record and reservations to receive royalties, rentals, and other receipts therefrom, and (e) any applicable zoning ordinances.

6. Objections to title. Buyer shall have 15 days from the date of delivery of either the commitment or abstract in which to examine and make written objections. If Buyer has valid objections to the state of the title, Seller shall have 60 days after it receives written notice thereof to have the same removed, and the date of closing shall be extended for that purpose. If the objections are not eliminated by the end of the 60-day period, Buyer may refuse to accept the title or may accept it in its then existing condition without reduction of the purchase price. If Buyer refuses to accept title, all monies paid on account of the purchase price shall immediately be refunded. If there are valid objections to the condition of title, any closing will be held within 10 days after the objections are eliminated.

7. Adjustments. Taxes, insurance, rents, and interest on existing mortgages shall be prorated as of the date of closing.

8. Deed. At the closing, Seller shall convey good and marketable title to Buyer by warranty deed, conveying the property free and clear of all liens and encumbrances except as herein noted. The deed shall be prepared at Seller's expense.

9. Tracts released from mortgage. The purchase money mortgage to be delivered to Seller shall provide that property in ten-acre tracts shall be released from the lien of the mortgage on the payment to Seller of $5,000 per acre as to Parcels No. 1, 2, and 3, and on payment of $12,000 per acre as to Parcel No. 4, except that releases of tracts in Parcel No. 4 shall be at $5,000 per acre after Buyer has paid Seller the first two installments of principal due under the purchase money note and mortgage. Buyer may commence releases of tracts in any Parcel comprising the property described in paragraph 1 of this agreement, and may obtain releases of tracts in different Parcels at the same time. However, all such releases in a given Parcel shall commence at a boundary of such Parcel and extend across the entire Parcel to the boundaries which are perpendicular to the commencement boundary, e.g., a ten-acre tract being released on the south boundary of a given Parcel shall extend from its east to its west boundaries. All subsequent releases in a given Parcel shall be contiguous to previous releases in the same Parcel, and shall likewise extend across the entire Parcel.

10. Easements over released tracts. If tracts released from the lien of the mortgage operate so as to separate the still-encumbered property from access to a section line or to an existing public road, Buyer, at Seller's request, shall grant an easement to Seller furnishing access from the property still encumbered by the mortgage to the section line or to a then existing public road. The easement, however, shall not be over ten feet in width and Buyer shall select its location.

11. Lots released from mortgage. After the property encumbered by the mortgage has been platted into lots of less than one acre each, but to not less than three lots per acre, after approval of the plat by the appropriate governmental authorities as provided in the appropriate Florida statutes, and after posting of bond and recording of such plat, Seller will release each lot from the lien of the mortgage at the rate of $400 per lot as to lots in Parcel No. 4 until the first two annual installments of the mortgage have been paid, after which the release price in Parcel No. 4 shall be $2,000 per lot; and at the rate of $1,750 per lot in Parcels No. 1, 2, and 3. Each lot shall be approximately 80 x 125 feet in size, and shall be comprised of approximately 10,000 square feet. Buyer shall not be required to request releases of lots in a contiguous manner after the platting has been completed in accordance with the foregoing.

12. Releases for public facilities. Seller shall join with Buyer in the execution of any plat or instrument dedicating to public use all streets, rights-of-way, easements for drainage, waterways, and similar or comparable public facilities, after the plat is approved by appropriate governmental authorities. Buyer shall not be required to pay any release price for areas dedicated as public facilities, nor for areas shown as usual canals. However, Buyer shall pay Seller $500 per acre for all other bodies of water created by Buyer, or for other dedicated areas.

13. Application of release payments. Payments made on account of releases shall be applied to the next principal installment due and payable under the terms of the purchase money note and mortgage.

14. Releases after mortgage default. If Purchaser defaults under the purchase money note and mortgage after a plat has been approved and recorded, any lot encumbered by the mortgage will nevertheless be released by Seller from the mortgage lien. The price to be paid for the release of any such lot, however, will be not less than the release price above provided.

15. Release preparation expenses. All mortgage releases shall be prepared and paid by Buyer. With reference to acreage releases, Buyer shall pay to Seller the additional sum of $150 for each release requested in order to cover attorneys examination fees on Seller's behalf.

16. Broker. Buyer represents to Seller that this agreement was procured only by and through the efforts of Terence Powell, as broker, and that it has dealt with no other salesman or broker in connection with this purchase. Buyer shall indemnify and save Seller harmless of and from any claim to real estate brokerage or commission by Terence Powell, but assumes no responsibility or obligation with respect to any other claim or claims in respect of this agreement by any other broker or salesperson.

17. Binding effect. This agreement shall be binding upon the parties and their respective legal representatives, successors, and assigns.

18. Headings. Headings in this agreement are for convenience and reference only and shall not be used to interpret or construe its provisions.

19. Non-waiver. No delay or failure by either party to exercise any right hereunder, and no partial or single exercise of any such right, shall constitute a waiver of that or any other right, unless otherwise expressly provided herein.

20. Governing law. This agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Florida.

21. Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

22. Time of essence. Time is of the essence of this agreement.

23. Entire agreement. This agreement supersedes all prior agreements and constitutes the entire agreement between the parties hereto with regard to the subject matter hereof.

24. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be in writing and sent by registered or certified mail, postage prepaid, to the respective parties at their addresses shown above.

The parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

B. CONTRACTS OF SALE: RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

25-21 Current Legal Forms for Real Estate FORM 21.33

FORM 21.33 Sale of garden apartment complex--purchase price allocation between personal and real property--assignment and assumption of leases--apartment unit and parking space leases

COMMENT

This agreement involves the sale of a four-unit garden type apartment complex with the purchase price to be allocated as to personal and real property in each unit. The personal property is to be conveyed by general warranty bills of sale. There is a warranty as to minimum amount of rent roll. The leases are to be assigned to and assumed by purchaser.

Allocation of purchase price

In this contract not only is there a separate allocation of price for each of four parcels, but also sub-allocations, on each parcel, for both personal property and real property. (See paragraph 3 of the contract.) The cost recovery allowance each tax year for personal property and real estate does vary substantially and will, therefore, have an effect on the buyer's taxable income. The allocation also establishes a separate basis in each parcel of land and the personalty. For a further discussion of accelerated cost recovery see The Tax Background § 21.06 at the beginning of this chapter.

Lease provisions

The contract contains specific provisions relating to the unit leases. The seller not only provides the purchaser with a "rent roll" showing the annual gross rent, but also represents and warrants a minimum amount of rent. (See paragraph 7(f).) The leases are to be assigned to the purchaser, and the purchaser agrees to indemnify the seller against claims and liabilities which may arise from the leases. The seller represents and warrants that there are no defaults in the leases to be assigned. (See paragraphs 7(g) and 12.)

Mortgage commitment

The purchaser, in this contract obtained a commitment for financing prior to entering the agreement. This contract contains a relatively unique representation and warranty that the purchaser does in fact have a mortgage commitment. Also included is the representation and warranty that the purchaser will meet all conditions in the commitment. (See paragraph 4.)

Closing documents

Paragraph 7 lists each document needed at closing and requires seller to deliver them to the escrow agent not later than five days before the closing date. This can serve as a preclosing checklist and should prevent disputes as to what documents are required at the closing. Specific items required for each unit include security deposit schedule, lease assignments, rent roll certification, employee list, and bills of sale on personal property used in connection with the operation of the complex. (See paragraph 7.)

Real estate tax litigation

Another relatively unique clause in this contract acknowledges pending litigation challenging the existing tax assessment, and provides for the allocation of the tax savings in the event that the challenge is successful. Tax savings by reason of taxes due prior to closing are to be paid over to the seller. (See paragraphs 8 and 10(c).)

Seller's representations

Several representations and warranties made by the seller upon which the purchaser relies in entering the contract are listed. Included are representations that the property is free of mechanic's liens, that the property (real and personal) will be in good condition on closing date, and that the various systems will be in good working order. There are no pending law suits, violations, or condemnation proceedings outstanding. (See paragraph 13.) These statements provide the buyer with a remedy in the event that any representations are not fulfilled at closing. The purchaser can claim breach of contract and sue for damages, or holding the threat of such a suit, renegotiate the relevant terms of the transaction at or prior to closing.

Disclosure of lead-based paint hazards

Federal law requires the seller of pre-1978 residential housing to disclose known information to the prospective purchaser on lead-based paint hazards. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4851-4856; 40 C.F.R. Part 745 and 24 C.F.R. Part 35, Subpart A. The sales contract must include a lead warning statement and certain disclosure information. See discussion in comments to Form 21.15, supra. A sample lead-based paint sales contract rider, including both disclosure under the federal law and a lead-based paint contingency clause, is included in this chapter at Form 21.30, supra.
