In light of Rojas, it is important for the parties and the judge chosen or assigned to handle settlement to understand the ground rules that will pertain to dispute resolution. Specifically, is the settlement conference to be conducted pursuant to Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380? In other words, will the assigned judge be conducting a settlement conference or mediation? Because of the strong public policy toward confidentiality as set forth in Rojas it is important for the settling judge to be aware of the limitations the mediation privilege can bring if one of the parties or a party's insuring carrier refuses to participate in the actual resolution process itself. Does the mediation privilege apply to a party's insuring carrier who refuses to participate in the actual process itself notwithstanding participation by the insured party? Can this refusal become transparent for later use by the insured? While the purpose and intent behind the confidentiality aspects of the mediation privilege may be laudable, the practicality of the situation may be that the protection accorded is too great thereby defeating the use of the privilege in the first place. Judge's may opt for simple settlement powers as set forth in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380.

Strategic Point:

Although the mediation privilege has been construed broadly, Foxgate Homeowners Assn. v. Bramalea California, Inc. (2001) 26 C4th 1, 14, 108 CR2d 642, 25 P3d 1117 recognizes that the mediation privilege should not be enforced in a manner that "would lead to absurd results, thereby violating the presumed intent of the Legislature." Written settlement agreements prepared in the course of mediation generally are not made inadmissible by the mediation privilege [Evid Code § 1123; Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 C4th 570, 588-589, 80 CR3d 83, 187 P3d 934 (evidence of unsigned draft written settlement inadmissible)]. However, because settlement agreements that are signed at the end of a long mediation session often are somewhat sketchy agreements that cover only the essential terms of the deal, extrinsic evidence may be necessary to provide meaning and to allow enforcement of the agreement. Although the Legislature obviously intended that the mediation privilege would encourage mediation and enforceable settlement agreements, it is not clear that such extrinsic evidence would be admissible even though such evidence might be necessary to enforce the settlement agreement. As a result, it is important that settlement agreements entered into during a mediation be as clear and as complete as possible.

Strategic Point--Stipulation:

When stipulating to a protective order for mediation, clarify that evidence that is discoverable is not being made undiscoverable by submission to mediation. For example, charts made in preparation of mediation will not be discoverable, however the raw data that produced the charts are still discoverable after the mediation. Sample language to include in the stipulation may include: "Any information (including electronic information and documents) which has been or will be prepared by the parties for the purpose of, or in the course of, mediation and/or settlement discussions shall be maintained as confidential by the parties and their agents, and shall not be used for any purpose whatsoever other than for confidential evaluation and discussion of settlement of the Lawsuit. This does not apply to information obtained through discovery in the Lawsuit, and the potential confidentiality of any information obtained through discovery in the Lawsuit shall be handled by separate agreement or order of the Court."

24.56[5] Disclosure of Mediation Evidence Permitted in Limited Circumstances. All persons conducting and participating in the mediation may agree to disclose a communication, document, or writing subject to the nondisclosure rules [Evid Code § 1122(a)(1)]. Disclosure of protected communications and writings that were "prepared by or on behalf of fewer than all the mediation participants" is permissible if the participants expressly agree to disclosure and if disclosure would not reveal "anything said or done or any admission made in the course of the mediation" [Evid Code § 1122(a)(2); Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 C4th 407, 423, 15 CR3d 643, 93 P3d 260, 93 P3d 260 ].

The award of mediation expenses as costs is neither provided for nor proscribed by statute [ Gibson v. Bobroff (1996) 49 CA 4th 1202, 1207, 57 CR2d 235 ]. When an unsuccessful mediation has been court-ordered, reasonably necessary expenses incident to the mediation may, in the sound discretion of the trial court, be awarded after trial to the prevailing party [ Gibson v. Bobroff (1996) 49 CA4th 1202, 1209, 57 CR2d 235 ]. The basis for the award is the discretionary authority of a court under CCP § 1033.5(c)(4) to award costs reasonably necessary to the conduct of the litigation rather than merely convenient or beneficial to its preparation [ *Gibson v. Chapter 25 Reference
I. STRATEGY

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.02

25.02 Objective and Strategy.

25.02[1] Types of Reference. Reference is the procedure by which a referee is appointed in a civil case to hear issues of fact and law and report to the court [see CCP §§ 638-645.2]. It may be either "general" (voluntary only) or "special" (voluntary or involuntary) [see CCP §§ 638(a), (b), 639].

25.02[2] General Reference. As a consensual proceeding, in a general reference the referee can finally decide any or all issues of fact and law [ Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 C2d 719, 722, 269 P2d 3 ; see Murphy v. Padilla (1996) 42 CA4th 707, 713, 49 CR2d 722 ], and the referee's decision stands as the decision of the court [CCP 644(a)]. Thus, an agreement for reference may provide an expeditious disposition of all issues.

25.02[3] Special Reference. A special reference can be used to resolve disputes that are complex or require special expertise, and may be used in a manner somewhat similar to an agreement to arbitrate. But in a reference, the decisions are subject to review in a manner that is not available in an arbitration where errors of law or of fact are generally not reviewable. Reference may be particularly appropriate in cases where there are complex or technical issues, but there is one or more key unresolved issues of law for which the parties wish to retain the right to access to the appellate courts.

A "special" reference, in which the referee is appointed only for a specific, limited purpose may be ordered with or without the parties' consent [see CCP §§ 638, 639]. A special reference may be ordered pursuant to:

- The agreement of the parties [CCP § 638];
- A motion filed by one of the parties [CCP § 639(a)]; or
- The court's own motion [CCP § 639(a)].

A special reference ordered pursuant to a motion may only discharge the purposes specified by statute [see CCP § 639(a) (instances authorizing appointment of referee)]. The report of the referee in a special reference is considered advisory only and may be adopted or disregarded by the court [CCP § 644(b)]. Thus, a special reference may be desirable to narrow or focus issues for trial.

25.02[4] Discovery Referees. Often the decision to request a discovery referee, a special reference, requires consideration of the manner in which discovery would be handled without a discovery referee (e.g., by a specially assigned judge who also will preside over trial or by a discovery commissioner who may be unable to devote much attention to the case), the difficulty and complexity of the discovery likely to be involved, and the expense of a discovery referee in relation to the amount in dispute. Often one side of a dispute has relatively little access to the key facts (e.g., the plaintiff in a fraud case) and will be the party propounding discovery, while the other side's goal is to resist discovery. Although there can be significant expense associated with having a private judge serve as a discovery referee, often the appointment and availability of a discovery referee will help cause a recalcitrant party to be more cooperative. Discovery referees, for example, often will make themselves available by telephone to resolve disputes that may arise during the course of a deposition. In contrast, few judges or commissioners are willing to become involved in such telephone conferences.

Chapter 25 Reference
II. OBTAINING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.04

25.04 Options and Strategies for Party Seeking Appointment of Referee.

25.04[1] Referee May Be Appointed Under CCP § 638 Pursuant to Agreement of Parties.

25.04[1][a] Consent for Reference May Be by Stipulation or Provision of Written Contract or Lease. The parties to an action or proceeding may stipulate, either in writing or by agreement in open court, to the appointment of a referee. A referee may be appointed [CCP § 638]:

- Pursuant to an agreement of the parties filed with the clerk or judge, or entered in the minutes; or
- On motion of a party to a written contract or lease that provides that any controversy arising from the contract or lease must be heard by a referee.

The "may" in the statute authorizing appointment of referees pursuant to a reference agreement makes the appointment discretionary, not mandatory [Tarrant Bell Property, LLC v. Superior Court (2009) 179 CA4th 1283, 1290, 102 CR3d 235].

Distinguish--Agreement for Outside Expert Opinion:

A stipulation that the court may appoint an expert to render an opinion is not a reference if it fails to allow the expert to hear witnesses and make findings of fact [ Petroleum Midway Co. v. Zahn (1944) 62 CA2d 645, 650, 145 P2d 371 ].

Distinguish--Consent to Reference/Consent to Particular Referee:

An agreement for an order appointing a referee does not constitute a waiver of grounds for objection to the appointment of a particular person as the referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.905].

➤ Cross References:

Discussion of objections to appointment of particular person as referee, see 25.17. Discussion of selection procedure when parties agree to reference but not to appointment of particular referee, see 25.07[2].

25.04[1][b] Parties May Agree to General or Specific Reference. The court may appoint a referee, pursuant to the agreement between the parties [CCP § 638]:

- To hear and determine any or all of the issues in an action or proceeding, whether of fact or of law, and to report a statement of decision; and/or
- To ascertain a fact necessary to enable the court to determine an action or proceeding.

Warning:

To have a valid general reference, the parties must consent, and the order of the court must specify that the referee is authorized to decide all issues [ Murphy v. Padilla (1996) 42 CA4th 707, 713-714, 49 CR2d 722 ].

Example--Requirements for General Reference Not Met:

The parties did not stipulate to reference. The court appointed a special referee pursuant to CCP § 639 to hear all law and motion and summary judgment matters. The plaintiff moved for partial summary judgment, and the referee heard the motion and submitted a report to the court. The court treated the referee's findings and conclusions as binding and determinative and entered partial summary judgment for the plaintiff. The appellate court ordered vacatur of the partial summary judgment because the special referee had no authority to make a binding determination of liability without the parties' consent [ Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 182 CA3d 431, 435-436, 227 CR 460 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of requirements for reference under CCP § 638, see 25.05.

25.04[2] Reference May Be Ordered on Motion Under CCP § 639. When the parties do not consent to the appointment of a referee, the court may, on the written motion of any party, or on its own motion, appoint a referee in specified circumstances [see CCP § 639(a)].

Distinguish--Appointment of Mediator:

A court cannot use the reference procedure under CCP § 639 to appoint a person to conduct a mediation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.920(b)]. However, this rule does not limit the power of a court to appoint a referee to conduct a mandatory settlement conference in a complex case, or prevent a court, after the termination of a reference, from appointing a person who previously served as a referee to conduct a mediation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.920, Advisory Committee Comment].

II. OBTAINING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

25.05 Reference by Agreement Governed by Procedure Under CCP § 638.

25.05[1] Written Stipulation or Motion Must Be Presented to Court With Proposed Order. A written stipulation or motion for an order appointing a referee pursuant to CCP § 638 must be presented [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.901(a)]:

- To the judge to whom the case is assigned; or
- To the presiding judge or law and motion department if the case has not been assigned.

The motion must be based on a written contract or lease that provides that any controversy arising therefrom is to be heard by a referee if the court finds a reference agreement exists between the parties [CCP § 638].

In either case, the stipulation or motion for appointment of a referee must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.901(b)]:

- Clearly state whether the scope of the requested reference includes all issues or is limited to specified issues;
- State whether the referee will be privately compensated;
- If authorization to use court facilities or court personnel is requested, describe the use requested and state the reasons that the use would further the interests of justice;
- If the applicant is requesting or the parties have stipulated to the appointment of a particular person as referee, be accompanied by the proposed referee's certification as required by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.904(a) [see 25.05[4]]; and
- Be accompanied by a proposed order that includes the matters specified in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.902 [see 25.05[2]].

► Cross References:

Forms, see 25.23 (California Judicial Council Form ADR-109 Stipulation or Motion for Order Appointing Referee (Alternative Dispute Resolution)), 25.25 (California Judicial Council Form ADR-110 Order appoint Referee (Alternative Dispute Resolution)).

25.05[2] Contents of Order.

25.05[2][a] Order Must Identify Proposed Referee. If the applicant is requesting or the parties have stipulated to the appointment of a particular person as referee, the proposed order must state [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.901(b)(4), 3.902(1)]:

- The name, business address, and telephone number of the proposed referee; and
- The proposed referee's State Bar number if he or she is a member of the State Bar.

If the proposed referee is a former California judicial officer, he or she must be an active or inactive member of the State Bar [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.903].

The court's order of appointment of a referee by agreement of the parties must state the aforementioned information concerning the person ultimately appointed as the referee in the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.902(1)].

► Investigating Referees Using Online Resources:

Many resources are available online for investigating referees. These resources can aid you in assessing referee or potential referee in your case. For example, helpful resources at lexis.com include:

- To find biographical information on a referee in California, search Legal tab > Reference > Biographies > Biographies.

○ Sample Search: To find information about a specific referee, try a NAME segment search such as: name (first name /3 last name) and state (ca)

- To find news articles that have mentioned a specific referee, search Legal tab > States Legal--U.S. > California > General News & Information > California news publications.

○ Sample Search: To find news items about the referee, try a simple search in this format: first name /3 last name

► Cross Reference:

25.05[2][b] Order Must State Whether Referee Is To Be Privately Compensated. The proposed order filed with the application for appointment of referee by agreement of the parties must state whether the referee will be privately compensated [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.901(b)(5), 3.902(3)].

The order of appointment of a referee by agreement of the parties issued by the court must state whether the referee will be privately compensated [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.902(3)].

25.05[2][c] Order Must Specify Scope of Reference. The proposed order and the final order must clearly state whether the scope of the reference covers all issues or is limited to specified issues [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.901(b)(5), 3.902(2)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of effect of referee's decision, see 25.12.

25.05[2][d] Order Must State Whether Use of Court Facilities and Personnel Is Authorized. The proposed order and the final order for appointment of referee by agreement of the parties must state whether the use of court facilities and court personnel is authorized [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.901(b)(5), 3.902(4)].

 Cross Reference:

25.05[3] Party May Move to Seal Records. A party's motion to seal records in a cause before a referee must be filed with and heard by the judge to whom the case is assigned, or the presiding judge or his or her designee. The motion must be served on the referee and all parties who have appeared in the case. Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.550 and 2.551, applicable to motions to seal court records, apply to the motion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.932(a)].

25.05[4] Appointed Referee Must File Certification Before Serving. Before beginning to serve, a referee appointed by agreement must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.904(a)]:

- Certify in writing that he or she consents to serve as provided in the order of appointment and is aware of and will comply with applicable provisions of Cal Rules of Ct, Code Jud Ethics, Canon 6, and the California Rules of Court; and
- File the certification with the court.

 Cross Reference:

Form of referee's certification, see 25.26.

25.05[5] Referee Must File Statement of Contact Information. In each case in which he or she is appointed referee, a referee must file a statement that provides the name, telephone number, and mailing address of a person who may be contacted to obtain information about the date, time, location, and general nature of all hearings scheduled in matters pending before the referee that would be open to the public if held before a judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(b)(1)]. The referee may also provide the address of a website containing the information [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(b)(2)].

Timing:

The referee must file his or her statement of contact information at the same time that he or she files the certification under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.904(a) or 3.924(a) [see § 25.05[4]] that is required of referees [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(b)(1)].

If the referee's contact information changes during the pendency of a case, the referee must promptly file a revised statement with the court in the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(b)(1)].

II. OBTAINING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

25.06 Procedure to Obtain Order Appointing Referee Governed by CCP § 639 When Parties Do Not Agree.

25.06[1] Court May Appoint Referee on Motion by Party or on Own Motion. If the parties have not agreed to the appointment of a referee, the court may, under specified circumstances, appoint a referee [CCP § 639(a)]:

- On the written motion of any party; or
- On its own motion.

➡ Cross References:

Forms, see 25.23 (California Judicial Council Form ADR-109 Stipulation or Motion for Order Appointing Referee (Alternative Dispute Resolution)), 25.25 (California Judicial Council Form ADR-110 Order appoint Referee (Alternative Dispute Resolution)).

25.06[2] Grounds for Appointment of Referee. The court may appoint a referee, without the agreement of the parties, only in the following cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.920(a)]:

- When the trial of an issue of fact requires the examination of a long account on either side; the referee may be directed to hear and decide the whole issue, or report on any specific question of fact involved;
- When the taking of an account is necessary for the information of the court before judgment, or for carrying a judgment or order into effect;
- When a question of fact, other than upon the pleadings, arises on motion or otherwise, in any stage of the action;
- When it is necessary for the information of the court in a special proceeding; or
- When the court in any pending action determines that it is necessary for the court to appoint a referee to hear and determine any and all discovery motions and disputes relevant to discovery in the action and to report findings and make a recommendation to the court.

Warning:

A discovery referee cannot be appointed pursuant to CCP § 639(a)(5) unless the exceptional circumstances of the case require it [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.920].

25.06[3] Hearing on Motion. A motion by a party for the appointment of a referee pursuant to CCP § 639 must be served and filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.921(a)].

The motion must be heard [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.921(b)]:

- By the judge to which the case is assigned; or
- If the case has not been assigned, by the presiding judge or law and motion judge.

The motion must specify the matter or matters to be included in the requested reference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.921(a)].

25.06[4] Court Must Make Written Order.

25.06[4][a] Reason for Appointment Must Be Stated. When a referee is appointed under CCP § 639(a), the order must state the reason for appointment of a referee [CCP § 639(d)(1); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(c)(1)].

25.06[4][b] Order Must Specify Scope and Circumstances for Appointment of Referee in Discovery Disputes. When a referee is appointed to hear discovery matters, the order must indicate whether the referee is being appointed for all discovery purposes in the action or only for limited purposes [CCP § 639(c); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(d)(2)].

The order appointing a referee for discovery matters must also state the exceptional circumstances requiring the reference, which must be specific to the circumstances of the particular case [CCP § 639(d)(2); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(c)(2)].

25.06[4][c] Subject Matter Included in Reference Must Be Stated. The order must state the subject matter or matters included in the reference [CCP § 639(d)(3); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(d)(1)].

25.06[4][d] Referee Must Be Identified. The order must include the name, business address, and telephone number of the referee [CCP § 639(d)(4); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(b)].

If the referee is a member of the State Bar, the order must include the referee's State Bar number [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(b)].

If the proposed referee is a former California judicial officer, he or she must be an active or inactive member of the State Bar [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.923].

25.06[4][e] Certification Signed by Requested Referee Must Be Attached. If the motion requests the appointment of a particular person as referee, the requested person's certification that he or she is aware of and will comply with applicable provisions of the Code of Judicial Ethics, Canon 6, and the California Rules of Court must be attached to the order [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.921(a)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 25.26 (certificate of referee).

25.06[4][f] Maximum Hourly Rate Must Be Stated. The order must state the maximum hourly rate the referee may charge [CCP § 639(d)(5); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(f)(1)].

25.06[4][g] Maximum Number of Hours May Be Stated. At the request of any party, the order must include the maximum number of hours for which the referee may charge [CCP § 639(d)(5); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(f)(1)].

Upon the written application of any party or the referee, the court may, for good cause shown, modify the maximum number of hours for which the referee may charge [CCP § 639(d)(5)].

Any modification of the maximum hours is subject to any findings made concerning the parties' economic ability to pay [CCP § 639(d)(5), (6)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of finding concerning economic ability to pay, see 25.06[4][h].

25.06[4][h] Finding Concerning Economic Ability to Pay Must Be Made. An order appointing a referee must include either [CCP § 639(d)(6)(A); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(f)(2)]:

- A finding that no party has established an economic inability to pay a pro rata share of the referee's fee; or
- A finding that one or more parties has established an economic inability to pay a pro rata share of the referee's fees and that another party has agreed voluntarily to pay that additional share of the referee's fee.

Warning:

The party drafting a proposed order must include one of these two findings. A court cannot appoint a referee at a cost to the parties if neither of these findings is made [CCP § 639(d)(6)(A); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(f)(2)].

When the issue of economic hardship is raised before the commencement of the referee's services, the court must determine a fair and reasonable apportionment of the reference costs [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(f)(3)].

The court may modify its order as to the apportionment and may consider a recommendation by the referee as a factor in determining any modification [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(f)(3)].

Strategic Points--Finding of Economic Inability to Pay:

A party seeking a finding of economic inability to pay should be aware of the following [CCP § 639(d)(6)(B)]:

- In determining whether a party has established an inability to pay the referee's fees, the court can consider only the ability of the party, not the party's counsel, to pay these fees.
- If a party is proceeding in forma pauperis, the party is deemed by the court to have an economic inability to pay the referee's fees.

- A determination of economic inability to pay the fees is not limited to parties who proceed in forma pauperis.

- In determining whether a party has established an inability to pay the fees (for parties not proceeding in forma pauperis), the court must consider, among other things, the estimated cost of the referral and the impact of the proposed fees on the party's ability to proceed with the litigation.

25.06[4][i] Order Must State Authority of Discovery Referee. An order appointing a referee under CCP § 639(a)(5) to hear and determine discovery motions and disputes relevant to discovery must state that the referee is authorized to set the date, time, and place for all hearings determined by the referee to be necessary; direct the issuance of subpoenas; preside over hearings; take evidence; and rule on objections, motions, and other requests made during the course of the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(e)].

25.06[4][j] Order Must State Whether Use of Court Facilities and Personnel Is Authorized. The order for appointment of referee under CCP § 639 must state the extent, if any, that the use of court facilities and court personnel in the reference is authorized [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(g)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of use of court facilities and personnel in reference under CCP § 639, see 25.08[2].

25.06[5] Appointed Referee Must File Certification Before Serving. Before beginning to serve, a referee appointed by agreement must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.924(a)]:

- Certify in writing that he or she consents to serve as provided in the order of appointment and is aware of and will comply with applicable provisions of Code of Judicial Ethics, Canon 6, and the California Rules of Court; and

- File the certification with the court.

25.07 Procedure for Selection of Referee Varies Depending on Whether Agreement Controls.

25.07[1] Court Must Appoint Individual(s) Agreed to by Parties. When the parties have agreed on the selection of a referee, the court must appoint the person or persons selected by the parties [CCP § 640(a)]. Up to three persons may be appointed as referees [CCP § 640(a)].

When there are three referees, all must meet, but two of them (a quorum) may do any act which might be done by all [CCP § 1053].

25.07[2] Court Uses Selection Procedure When Parties Do Not Agree.

25.07[2][a] Parties Shall Submit Nominees. If the parties do not agree on the selection of the referee or referees, each party shall submit to the court up to three nominees for appointment as referee [CCP § 640(b)]. The court must appoint one or more referees, not exceeding three, from among the nominees against whom there is no legal objection [CCP § 640(b)].

25.07[2][b] If Parties Fail to Submit Nominees. If no nominations are received from any of the parties, the court shall appoint one or more referees, not exceeding three, against whom there is no legal objection [CCP § 640(b)]. Alternatively, the court may appoint a court commissioner of the county where the cause is pending as referee [CCP § 640(b)].

25.07[3] Participation in Selection Procedure Does Not Constitute Waiver of Objections. Participation in the referee selection procedure does not constitute a waiver of grounds for objection to the appointment of a referee [CCP § 640(c)].

25.08 Choosing Hearing Site for Proceeding Before Referee.

25.08[1] Reference Pursuant to Parties' Agreement to Use Privately Compensated Referee.

25.08[1][a] Parties Are Deemed to Have Elected to Proceed Outside Courthouse. A party who has elected to use the services of a privately compensated referee pursuant to CCP § 638 is deemed to have elected to proceed outside the courthouse [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.909(a)].

Court facilities, court personnel, and summoned jurors cannot be used, except on a finding by the presiding judge or his or her designee that the use would further the interests of justice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.907].

25.08[1][b] Clerk Must Post Contact Information. For a matter pending before a referee, the court clerk must post in the court facility the contact information set forth in the referee's statement of contact information [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(c)(3)].

Cross Reference:

25.08[1][c] Judge May Order Appropriate Hearing Site. On the request of any person or on the judge's own motion, the presiding judge or his or her designee may order that a case before a referee must be heard at a site [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(c)(1)]:

- Easily accessible to the public; and
- Appropriate for seating those who have made known their plan to attend hearings.

A request for an appropriate hearing site must state the good cause for the request [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(c)(1)]. The request must be filed with the court and served on [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(c)(1)]:

- Each party, and

- The referee.

The proceedings are not stayed while the application is pending unless the presiding judge or his or her designee orders that they be stayed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.931(c)(1)].

25.08[2][b] Proceedings May Be Held in Private Facility. A reference ordered on motion pursuant to CCP § 639 may also be held in a private facility [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.926]. However, if the proceedings are in a private facility, that facility must be open to the public [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.926]. 25.09 Referee Must Make Disclosures.

25.09[1] Matters That Must Be Disclosed.

25.09[1][a] Matters Subject to Rules of Code of Judicial Ethics. In addition to any other disclosure required by law, a referee must disclose to the parties any matter subject to disclosure:

- In a case of reference by agreement under CCP § 638, under Cal Rules Ct, Code Jud Ethics, Canon 6D(5)(a), (b) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.904(b)(1)], or
- In a case of judicial appointment of referee under CCP § 639, under Cal Rules Ct, Code Jud Ethics, Canon 6D(2)(f), (g) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.924(b)(1)].

25.09[1][b] Personal Conflicts of Interest. A referee must also disclose any significant personal or professional relationship the referee has or has had with a party, attorney, or law firm in the instant case [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.904(b)(2), 3.924(b)(2)]. The disclosure of any relationships must include the number and nature of any other proceedings in the past 24 months in which the referee has been privately compensated by a party, attorney, law firm, or insurance company in the instant case for any services, including, but not limited to [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.904(b)(2), 3.924(b)(2)]:

- Service as an attorney, expert witness, or consultant; or
- Service as a judge, referee, arbitrator, mediator, settlement facilitator, or other alternative dispute resolution neutral.

25.09[2] Time Within Which Disclosure Must Be Made. A referee must make disclosures no later than five days prior to the deadline for parties to file a motion for disqualification of the referee under CCP § 170.6 [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.904(b), 3.924(b)].

Exception:

If the referee is not aware of his or her appointment or of a matter subject to disclosure at that time, the referee must make the disclosure as soon as practicable thereafter [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.904(b), 3.024(b)].

II. OBTAINING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.10

25.10 Hearing Must Follow Statutory Procedural Requirements.

25.10[1] Statement Regarding Contact for Filing of and Access to Documents and Exhibits. Temporary judges and referees must file a statement in each case in which they are appointed that provides the name, telephone number, and mailing address of a person who may be contacted to obtain access to any documents or exhibits submitted to the temporary judge or referee that would be open to the public if filed or lodged with the court. The statement must be filed at the same time as the temporary judge's or referee's certification under rule 2.831(b), 3.904(a), or 3.924(a). If there is any change in this contact information, the temporary judge or referee must promptly file a revised statement with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.400(d)(2)].

25.10[2] Filing Party Must Provide Documents to Referee and Court.

25.10[2][a] File Documents and Pay Fee to Court Clerk. In a case pending before a referee, all original documents are to be filed with the clerk in the same manner as would be required if the case were being heard by a judge, including paying any required fees [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(1)].

Timing:

All documents to be submitted to a temporary judge or referee must be filed within time limits specified by law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(1)].

Exception:

If a document would ordinarily be filed with the court after it is submitted to a judge or if a party submits an ex parte application, the party that submits the document or application to a temporary judge or referee must file the original with the court after the document or application has been submitted to the temporary judge or referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(3)].

Timing:

An original document or application to be filed with the court after it is submitted to a temporary judge or referee must be filed with the court no later than the next court day after the document or application has been submitted to the temporary judge or referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(3)].

25.10[2][b] Provide Proper Copies of Documents to Referee. The filing party must provide to the referee a file-stamped copy of each document relevant to the issues before the referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(1)]. If a document would ordinarily be filed with the court after it is submitted to a judge or if a party submits an ex parte application, after submitting the document or application to the temporary judge or referee and filing the original with the court [see § 25.10[2][a]], the party must promptly provide a filed-stamped copy of the document or application to the temporary judge or referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(3)].

Warning:

If a document must be filed with the court before it is considered by a judge, the temporary judge or referee must not accept or consider any copy of that document unless the document has the clerk's file stamp or is accompanied by a declaration stating that the original document has been submitted to the court for filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(2)].

25.10[2][c] Provide Referee Notice of Cancellation or Court Rejection of Filing. A party who has submitted a document to a temporary judge or referee must immediately notify the temporary judge or referee if the document is not accepted for filing by the court or if the filing is subsequently canceled [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(b)(4)].

25.10[3] Hearing Is Conducted in Same Manner As Trial Before Court. A hearing before a referee is conducted in the same manner as a trial held before a court [ In re McNamee (1933) 131 CA 30, 31, 20 P2d 722 ]. The Evidence Code applies in proceedings conducted by a referee [Evid Code § 300].

Exception:

A special reference for an accounting does not contemplate hearings or the taking of evidence; the parties are simply required to deliver to the referee all books, accountings, bank records, or other documentation requested by the referee [ Jones v. Wagner (2001) 90 CA4th 466, 475, 108 CR2d 669 ].

Warning:

A referee or party may be subject to criminal penalties for engaging in unlawful communications about a pending cause or action outside the regular course of the proceedings [see Pen Code §§ 95, 96].

Cross Reference:

Contact information for information about proceedings, see §§ 25.05[5], 25.08[1][b].

25.10[4] Scope of Authority of Discovery Referee. When a referee is appointed under CCP § 639(a)(5) to assist in the resolution of a discovery dispute, the referee is authorized to [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.922(e)]:

- Set the date, time, and place for all hearings determined by the referee to be necessary;
- Direct the issuance of subpoenas;
- Preside over hearings;
- Take evidence; and
- Rule on objections, motions, and other requests made during the course of the hearing.

II. OBTAINING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.11

25.11 Post-Hearing Procedural Requirements.

25.11[1] Statement of Decision.

25.11[1][a] Time for Filing Report Is Generally 20 Days After Hearing. Unless otherwise directed by the court, a referee must report the statement of a decision in writing to the court within 20 days after the hearing, if any, has been concluded and the matter has been submitted [CCP § 643(a)].

The California Judicial Council has approved Form ADR-111, Report of Referee (Alternative Dispute Resolution), for the referee's optional use in reporting [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.35].

25.11[1][b] Referee Appointed Pursuant to Agreement of Parties Must Report in Accordance With Agreement. A referee appointed under CCP § 638 pursuant to an agreement of the parties must report as agreed by the parties and approved by the court [CCP § 643(b)].

25.11[1][c] Referee Appointed Without Agreement of Parties Must Address Specific Items and Serve Report on Parties. A referee appointed on motion pursuant to CCP § 639 must file a report with the court that includes [CCP § 643(c)]:

- A recommendation on the merits of any disputed issue;
- A statement of the total hours spent and the total fees charged by the referee; and
- The referee's recommended allocation of payment.

The referee must serve the report on all parties [CCP § 643(c)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of objections to referee's report or recommendations, see 25.21.

25.11[2] Rule of Court Governs Delivery of and Access to Exhibits.

25.11[2][a] Referee Must Deliver Exhibits to Clerk at Conclusion. If proceedings are conducted by a referee outside of court facilities, the referee must keep all exhibits and deliver them, properly marked, to the clerk at the conclusion of the proceeding [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(c)(2)].

Exception:

The parties may file a written stipulation for alternative disposition of the exhibits, subject to court approval [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(c)(2)].

Distinguish:

For these purposes, a "court facility" consists of those areas within a building required or used for court functions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(e)].

25.11[2][b] Referee Cannot Release Exhibits in His/Her Possession Other Than to Clerk. On request of the referee, the clerk must deliver exhibits to the possession to the referee, who cannot release them to any person other than the clerk [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(c)(2)].

25.11[2][c] Referee Must Make Exhibits Available Upon Request. Documents and exhibits in the possession of a temporary judge or referee that would be open to the public if filed or lodged with the court must be made available during business hours for inspection by any person within a reasonable time after request and under reasonable conditions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.400(d)(1)].

25.12 Effect of Referee's Decision.

25.12[1] Decision Stands As Decision of Court If Consensual General Reference Under CCP § 638. In the case of a consensual general reference pursuant to CCP § 638(a), the decision of the referee on the whole issue must stand as the decision of the court. When the statement of decision is filed with the clerk of court, or with the judge if there is no clerk, judgment may be entered in the same manner as if the action had been tried by the court [CCP § 644(a)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of motion for new trial after consensual general reference, see 25.20.

25.12[2] In Special References, Decision Is Advisory. In the case of all references other than general consensual references pursuant to CCP § 638, the decision of the referee is only advisory. The court may adopt the referee's recommendations in whole or in part after independently considering the referee's findings and any objections and responses thereto filed with the court [CCP § 644(b)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of objections to referee's report or recommendations, see 25.21.

25.12[3] Party May Move Court to Confirm or Adopt Referee's Report in Special Reference. In a special reference, the report of the referee does not become the decision of the court without further action by the trial judge. Until adoption of the report and the filing of the findings of fact and conclusions of law of the trial court, the report may be set aside without the necessity of granting a new trial [ Ellsworth v. Ellsworth (1954) 42 C2d 719, 723, 269 P2d 3 ].

Strategic Point--Party in Agreement With Referee's Recommendations:

A party in agreement with the recommendations of the referee should move to confirm or adopt the referee's report as soon as possible after the report is filed to indicate that party's position with respect to the report for the court's consideration.

II. OBTAINING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

25.13 Payment of Referee's Fees.

25.13[1] If Referee Is Appointed Pursuant to CCP § 638, Payment Must Be Made in Accordance With Parties' Agreement. When a referee is appointed pursuant to CCP § 638, the referee's fees must be paid as agreed by the parties. If the parties do not agree on the payment of fees, and request the matter to be resolved by the court, the court may order the parties to pay the referee's fees, in the same manner as referees appointed pursuant to CCP § 639 [CCP § 645.1(a)].

Example:

The trial court erred in refusing to enforce a provision in a stipulation calling for a 50-50 split in payment of fees of referee appointed under CCP § 638 [ Carr Business Enterprises, Inc. v. City of Chowchilla (2008) 166 CA4th 25, 29-31, 82 CR3d 135 (citing CCP § 645.1)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of orders for payment of fees to referee's fees appointed pursuant to CCP § 639, see 25.13[2].

25.13[2] If Referee Is Appointed Pursuant to CCP § 639, Court Specifies Manner of Payment. When a referee is appointed pursuant to CCP § 639, the court may order the parties to pay the fees of a referee who is not an employee or officer of the court at the time of appointment [CCP § 645.1(b); see CCP § 1023 (referee's fees as costs)]. The order for payment of fees may be made at any time after a determination of ability to pay is made [CCP § 645.1(b)].

The court may order payment of the referee's fees in any manner that is fair and reasonable, including an apportionment of the fees among the parties. The term "parties" does not include parties' counsel [CCP § 645.1(b)].

Examples--"Fair and Reasonable" Apportionment:

- Order requiring objecting party to pay entire cost of reference simply because the other party was indigent was not fair and reasonable [ Taggares v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 94, 105-106, 72 CR2d 387 ].

■ Order requiring parties to share referee fees equally was not fair and reasonable because court failed to consider one party's claim that having to pay referee fees would impact her ability to pursue the litigation [ McDonald v. Superior Court (1994) 22 CA4th 364, 369-370, 27 CR2d 310 ].

Chapter 25 Reference
III. OPPOSING APPOINTMENT OF A REFEREE

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.15

25.15 Options and Strategy.

25.15[1] Options for Opposing Reference. A party who wishes to completely oppose the appointment of a referee, can either file an opposition to a motion for appointment under CCP §§ 641, 641.2, or file a motion to withdraw a stipulation for reference under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906.

A party seeking to oppose the appointment of a particular individual as referee, may:

- File an objection to the individual before the appointment [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.905, 3.925]; or
- File a peremptory challenge against an individual who has been appointed [CCP 170.6]; or
- File a motion to vacate the appointment, based on one or more of the grounds for disqualification [CCP § 641].

25.15[2] Strategies for Party Opposing Reference.

25.15[2][a] Intervention by Nonparty. An agreement for reference only applies as to the original parties to the agreement. If a nonparty is granted leave to intervene in an action before a privately compensated referee, the case must be returned to the trial docket unless all of the parties stipulate to have the matter heard by the referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.932(b)].

25.15[2][b] Challenge to Method in Which Stipulation Was Obtained. If a party has stipulated to reference and later determines that he or she wants the matter heard by the court, good cause to withdraw the stipulation must be shown [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906(a)].

Strategic Point:

To establish good cause, counsel should consider matters such as the circumstances under which the stipulation was obtained and facts or issues that have been discovered since the stipulation.

25.15[2][c] Challenge to Enforceability of Underlying Agreement. If an opposing party moves to have a referee appointed pursuant to a written contract or lease between the parties providing for the appointment of a referee, the agreement itself should be carefully reviewed for issues as to its enforceability [see Woodside Homes of Cal., Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 107 CA4th 723, 731-736, 132 CR2d 35 ; Pardee Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2002) 100 CA4th 1081, 1086-1092, 123 CR2d 288 ].

Example--Reference Provision Unenforceable:

Property owners filed class action suit against construction company. The provision of the purchase agreement requiring the appointment of a referee to resolve the controversy was not enforceable because the agreements were found to be adhesive and unconscionable [ Pardee Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2002) 100 CA4th 1081, 1086-1087, 123 CR2d 288 ].

Example--Reference Provision Enforceable:

Home buyers filed suit against developer. The purchase contracts contained provisions requiring binding judicial reference. Scrutinizing the provisions and distinguishing them from the contracts at issue in Pardee Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2002) 100 CA4th 1081, 123 CR2d 288 , the court determined that the provisions were enforceable because the contracts did not contain the procedurally unconscionable elements present in the prior case [ Woodside Homes of Cal., Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 107 CA4th 723, 728-730, 132 CR2d 35 ].

25.15[2][d] Challenge of Particular Individual As Referee. If a party objects to the appointment of a particular individual as referee, the objection must be made with reasonable diligence [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.905, 3.925]. The objection should therefore be made, if possible, before appointment during the selection process.

Drawback--Only One Peremptory Challenge:

Although a referee is subject to peremptory challenge [CCP § 170.6], the parties are limited to one peremptory challenge each [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)]. Therefore, if possible, a referee should be challenged for cause [see CCP § 641], to avoid unnecessarily using the peremptory challenge.

 Cross References:

Discussion of circumstances requiring return of case to trial calendar, see 25.16. Discussion of peremptory challenge of referee, see 25.17[2]. Discussion of grounds for disqualification of referee, see 25.17[3].

25.15[2][e] Judicial Economy Supports Denial of Reference. A trial court may refuse to enforce a reference agreement where there is a possibility of conflicting rulings on a common issue of law or fact or other circumstances related to considerations of judicial economy, consistent with the purposes and policies of CCP § 638 [Tarrant Bell Property, LLC v. Superior Court (2009) 179 CA4th 1283, 1295, 102 CR3d 235].

25.16 Circumstances Requiring Return of Case to Trial Court Docket.

25.16[1] Motion to Withdraw Stipulation for Appointment of Referee. A party who previously stipulated to the appointment of a referee may move to withdraw the stipulation [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906]. The notice of the motion must be served on all parties and the referee, and filed with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906(b)].

A motion to withdraw a stipulation for the appointment of a referee must be [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906]:

- Supported by a declaration of facts establishing good cause for permitting the party to withdraw the stipulation; and
- Heard by the judge to whom the case is assigned, or the presiding judge or law and motion judge.

If the motion is granted, the case must be transferred to the trial court calendar [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906(b)].

Warning--Party Seeking to Withdraw Stipulation:

The following do not constitute good cause for withdrawal of a stipulation for appointment of referee:

- A declaration that a ruling is based on an error of fact or law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906(a)(1)].
- An order for an appropriate hearing site accessible to the public [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.906(a)(2)].

Cross References:

25.16[2] Motion for Leave to File Complaint in Intervention. If a nonparty seeks to intervene in a case before a privately compensated referee, the motion for leave to file a complaint in intervention must be [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.908]:

- Served on the referee and all parties who have appeared in the case, and filed with the court; and
- Heard by the assigned judge or, if the case is not assigned, by the presiding judge or his or her designee.

If intervention is allowed, the case must be returned to the trial court calendar unless all parties stipulate to proceed before the referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.932(b)].

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.17

25.17 Objections to Reference or Referee.

25.17[1] Manner of Making Objections.

25.17[1][a] Objections Must Be in Writing, Heard by Court. Any objections to a reference or to the referee or referees appointed by the court must be made in writing and must be heard and disposed of by the court, not by the referee [CCP § 642].

Any objection to the appointment of a person as referee must be in writing and must be [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.905, 3.925]:

- Made with reasonable diligence; and
- Filed and served upon all parties and the referee.

25.17[1][b] Agreeing to Reference Does Not Constitute Waiver of Objections to Referee. A stipulation or agreement for an order appointing a referee does not constitute a waiver of grounds for objection to the appointment of a particular person as referee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.905].

25.17[1][c] Participation in Selection Process Does Not Constitute Waiver of Objections to Referee or Compensation. Participation in the selection procedure, used by the court when the parties do not agree on the person to be appointed as referee, does not constitute a waiver of grounds for objection to [CCP § 640(c); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.925]:

- The appointment of a particular person as referee; or
- The rate or apportionment of compensation of the referee.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of selection procedure, see 25.07[2].

25.17[2] Peremptory Challenge of Referee.

25.17[2][a] Referee May Be Disqualified by Peremptory Challenge Pursuant to CCP § 170.6. A referee may be disqualified by peremptory challenge, in the same manner a judge may be disqualified, on the ground that the referee is prejudiced against [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)]:

- A party or attorney; or
- The interest of any party or attorney appearing in the action.

Strategic Point--Only One Peremptory Challenge:

A party is limited to one peremptory challenge [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)]. Therefore, a party should consider whether grounds exist for a challenge for cause against a particular referee before exhausting the peremptory challenge [see CCP § 641 (grounds for disqualification); [ Baugh v. Garl (2006) 137 CA4th 737, 746, 40 CR3d 539 ] (peremptory challenge to discovery referee was denied because party with unity of interest previously exercised peremptory challenge against judge in the case)].

Cross References:

Discussion of grounds for challenge for cause, see 25.17[3][a].

Discussion of procedure for peremptory challenge, see Ch. 22, Disqualification of Judge, 22.03 et seq.

25.17[2][b] Peremptory Challenge Against Discovery Referee Must Be Made Within Specified Time. If a referee has been appointed for all discovery purposes, a party must make a peremptory challenge pursuant to CCP § 170.6 against the referee either [CCP § 639(b)]:

- Within 10 days after notice of the appointment, if the party has appeared in the action; or
- Within 10 days after the appearance.

If a referee has been appointed for limited discovery purposes, a party must make a peremptory challenge against the referee at least five days before the date set for hearing, if the referee assigned is known at least 10 days before the date set for hearing [CCP § 639(b)].

25.17[3] Challenges for Cause.

25.17[3][a] Party May Object to Appointment of Referee on Specified Grounds. A party may object to the appointment of any person as referee, on one or more of the following grounds [CCP § 641]:

- A want of any of the qualifications prescribed by statute to render a person competent as a juror, except a requirement of residence within a particular county in the state.
- Consanguinity or affinity, within the third degree, to either party, or to an officer of a corporation which is a party, or to any judge of the court in which the appointment is made.
- Standing in the relation of guardian and ward, conservator and conservatee, master and servant, employer and clerk, or principal and agent, to either party.
- Being a member of the family of either party.

- Being a partner in business with either party.
- Being security on any bond or obligation for either party.
- Having served as a juror or been a witness on any trial between the same parties.
- Interest on the part of the person in the event of the action, or in the main question involved in the action.
- Having formed or expressed an unqualified opinion or belief as to the merits of the action.
- The existence of a state of mind in the potential referee evincing enmity against or bias toward either party.

Strategic Point:

To satisfy the requirement of making an objection "with reasonable diligence," a party should object to the appointment of a particular referee as soon as the grounds for objection are known [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.905, 3.925]. If grounds for an objection are not known until after the referee is appointed, the objecting party must file a motion to vacate the appointment.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of motion to vacate appointment, see 25.17[3][c].

25.17[3][b] Technical Qualifications Required in Environmental Pollution Actions. In environmental actions brought under Gov Code § 12600 et seq., a party may object to the appointment of any person as referee on the ground that he or she is not technically qualified with respect to the particular subject matter of the proceeding [CCP § 641.2].

25.17[3][c] Party May Move to Vacate Appointment of Referee. If the grounds for disqualification of a particular referee become known after the referee is appointed, the objecting party may file a motion to vacate the appointment to be heard by the court [see CCP §§ 641, 642].

IV. OBJECTING TO REFEREE'S REPORT OR RECOMMENDATIONS

25.19 Options and Strategy.

25.19[1] Options If Reference Is General Reference--CCP § 638. If the report is rendered pursuant to a general consensual reference, the referee's decision becomes the decision of the court [CCP § 644(a)]. Therefore a motion for a new trial must be filed to have the report, and judgment thereon, set aside [see CCP § 657 (grounds for new trial)].

25.19[2] Options If Reference Is Special Reference--CCP § 639. If the report is rendered pursuant to a special reference, the referee's decision is advisory only and may be adopted, in whole or in part, or disregarded by the court [CCP § 644(b)]. Objections to the report should be filed with the court within 10 days of service of the report [CCP § 643(c)].

If an opposing party has filed a motion to confirm the report, the objections may be incorporated into the response to the motion to confirm. If the objecting party seeks to have the court disregard the report in its entirety, the objections can be incorporated into a motion to set aside the report.

Strategic Point--Party Objecting to Referee's Report:

When a referee has been appointed in a special reference, the court is required to treat the report as advisory only and independently consider the referee's findings [see CCP § 644(b)]. The court's failure to do so may render a judgment entered on the report subject to vacatur [see Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 182 CA3d 431, 436, 227 CR 460 ].

Example:

The court appointed a special referee pursuant to CCP § 639. The plaintiff moved for partial summary judgment, and the referee heard the motion and submitted a report to the court. The court treated the referee's findings and conclusions as binding and determinative and entered partial summary judgment for the plaintiff. The appellate court ordered vacatur of the partial summary judgment because the referee had no authority to make a binding determination of liability without the parties' consent, and the court had not independently considered the summary judgment matter [ Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 182 CA3d 431, 436, 227 CR 460 ].

IV. OBJECTING TO REFEREE'S REPORT OR RECOMMENDATIONS

25.20 Party May Move for New Trial After General Reference Under CCP § 638.

25.20[1] Decision Is Treated As Decision of Court. In a general consensual reference pursuant under CCP § 638, the referee's decision becomes the decision of the court; it is subject to the same exceptions and manner of review as if made by the court [CCP §§ 644(a), 645]. Therefore, a party may object to the decision by moving for a new trial [see CCP § 657].

In general, the objections must be raised in the trial court before they will be reviewed on appeal; however, a motion for a new trial is not a prerequisite to an appeal based on insufficiency of the evidence [ Estate of Raphael (1953) 115 CA2d 525, 528-529, 252 P2d 979 ].

25.20[2] Grounds for New Trial. After a general reference, a new trial may be granted, in whole or in part, on any of the following grounds:

- Irregularity in the proceedings of the court or adverse party, or any order of the court, or abuse of discretion by which either party was prevented from having a fair trial [CCP § 657(1)];
- Accident or surprise, which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against [CCP § 657(3)];
- Newly discovered evidence, material for the party making the application, that the party could not, with reasonable diligence, have discovered and produced at the trial [CCP § 657(4)];
- Excessive or inadequate damages [CCP § 657(5)];
- Insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or other decision, or the verdict or other decision is against law [CCP § 657(6)]; or
- Error in law occurring at the trial and excepted to by the party making the application [CCP § 657(7)].

Cross References:

Form, see 25.32.

For detailed discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 371.60 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

25.20[3] Motion May Be Heard by Referee. The motion for a new trial may be heard by the referee, unless the parties' stipulation and the order of reference indicate that the referee's powers expire once the decision is rendered [ Clark v. Rancho Santa Fe Assn. (1989) 216 CA3d 606, 625-626, 265 CR 41 ].

Example:

A referee properly heard a motion for a new trial because the order for reference stated that the referee was to make "a complete and final adjudication" [ Clark v. Rancho Santa Fe Assn. (1989) 216 CA3d 606, 625-626, 265 CR 41 ].

25.21 Objections to Referee's Report in Special Reference Proceeding.

25.21[1] Objections Must Be Filed Within 10 Days. Any party may file an objection to the referee's report or recommendations within 10 days after the referee serves and files the report [CCP § 643(c)].

Exception:

The court may direct a different time within which objections must be filed [CCP § 643(c)].

Warning:

A party's failure to promptly file written objections to a referee's report or to move to set aside the report may be deemed a waiver of those objections [ Martino v. Denevi (1986) 182 CA3d 553, 557-558, 227 CR 354 ].

Cross References:

Form, see 25.30 (objections to report of referee). Discussion of motion to set aside referee's report, see 25.22.

25.21[2] Responses to Objections Must Be Filed Within 10 Days. Responses to the objections to a referee's report or recommendations must be filed within 10 days after the objection is served [CCP § 643(c)].

25.21[3] Objections Must Be Served on All Parties and Referee. Objections and responses to objections to a referee's report or recommendations must be served on [CCP § 643(c)]:

- The referee; and
- All other parties.

IV. OBJECTING TO REFEREE'S REPORT OR RECOMMENDATIONS

2-25 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 25.22

25.22 Party May Move to Set Aside Referee's Report in Special References.

The court must review any objections to the referee's report and any responses to those objections [CCP § 643(c)].

The court shall then enter appropriate orders [CCP § 643(c)].

However, the court also has the power to change the terms of the referee's appointment or to modify or disregard the referee's recommendations [CCP § 643(c)]. This overriding power may be exercised at any time, either on [CCP § 643(c)]:

- The motion of any party for good cause shown; or
- The court's own motion.

Strategic Point--Party Objecting to Report:

Although the court has the power to disregard the referee's report "at any time," a party opposing the report should raise objections, if any, at the earliest possible opportunity, or move to set aside the entire report if appropriate under the circumstances, to avoid waiver of those objections [see Martino v. Denevi (1986) 182 CA3d 553, 556-558, 227 CR 354 ].

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
I. STRATEGY

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.02

26.02 Objective and Strategy.

An order is a direction of a court or judge, made or entered in writing and not included in a judgment. A motion is an application for an order [see CCP § 1003; Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 CA3d 479, 483, 114 CR 356 ]. A motion is not an independent right or remedy, and is confined to incidental matters in the progress of a cause. It is not proper to raise matters by motions that are wholly distinct and independent and subject to a formal petition or complaint [ Hospital Sys., Inc. v. Office of Statewide Health Planning & Dev. (1994) 25 CA4th 1686, 1691, 30 CR2d 922 ].

Although motions are incidental to an action, they may be made throughout the pendency of such action, including pre-trial [e.g., motion for summary judgment, CCP § 437c], during trial [e.g., motion for nonsuit, CCP § 581], post-trial [e.g., motion for directed verdict or for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, CCP § 629], post judgment [e.g., motion to set aside or vacate judgment, CCP §§ 473(b), (d), 473.5, and 663], and during an appeal [e.g., motion to strike pursuant to Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.204(e)(2)(B)].

All motions should be direct, clear, and concise. The specific relief requested should be clearly described. If exhibits are necessary, they should highlight the pertinent parts and be referenced in the body of the motion. Counsel should not assume that the court would attempt to determine on its own why an exhibit is significant. Opposing papers also need to be clear and concise, with a short direct statement of why the relief requested is inappropriate. Both moving and opposing papers should support the party's position with facts and legal authority rather than hyperbole or ad hominem argument.

There are three basic types of law and motion procedures that may be brought: oral motions, ex parte applications, and noticed motions. Choosing which one will depend on the circumstances. The predominant motions are noticed motions because they provide the court and opposing parties with sufficient notice to thoroughly prepare the arguments and identify the substantive and procedural issues. Oral motions are generally limited to open court proceedings in the presence of adverse counsel and are often made when an unexpected issue arises. Ex parte relief is obtained by making an application to the court. Prior commentary and decisions often refer to these applications as ex parte motions; however, with the amendments to Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq., this procedure is now referred to as ex parte applications.

Distinguish--Terminology:

In describing a written motion, counsel should use the appropriate terminology ("motion" or "application" or "petition") of the statute governing the particular motion unless a written form employing other terminology is provided by the court. Do not confuse the use of the word "petition" in probate proceedings that substitute for the term "written motion" [see, e.g., Prob Code § 1201] from the word "petition" used to describe the pleading that initiates a special proceeding such as a prerogative writ [see, e.g., CCP §§ 1086, 1103 (writs of mandate and prohibition)].

Judge's Perspective:

The court's law and motion docket, for the most part, is made up of summary judgment/adjudication motions, demurrers, and discovery disputes. Clearly, there are a myriad of other motions that are and can be brought before the fast track court but those listed above seem to be the most frequent. Be mindful that it is always best to keep your motion very succinct and credible. Avoid attaching correspondence that contains vituperative exchanges and avoid ex parte applications that seek to shorten time on noticed motions that can't wait.

- ☐ Determine timing and place for making motion:

- ☐ Generally make motion at any time during pendency of action in court in which action is pending.

☐ An action is deemed pending from the time of its commencement until its final determination on appeal or when the time for appeal has expired, unless the judgment is sooner satisfied.

Exceptions:

Statutes relating to specific motions may impose time limitations on when motion can be made [see, e.g., CCP § 435, regarding motions to strike all or part of pleadings].

The Code of Civil Procedure and other statutes may permit motions to be made in other courts.

Authority:

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.04

26.04 Options and Strategies.

A court's law and motion calendar exists to manage the various requests for orders that occur before trial. The variety of motions and applications that may be sought are extremely varied, such as motions to quash, demurrers, motions to strike, discovery motions, and motions for summary judgment, just to name a few. In general, the various procedures and orders sought can be classified into three categories: oral motions, applications for ex parte relief, and noticed motions. The most commonly used procedure is the written, noticed motion. Oral motions are limited to in court situations, and ex parte applications are requests for orders usually when there is an urgent situation. In all cases, counsel should ensure that the court has the power to grant the relief requested.

The preliminary step is to review the applicable statute for the contemplated motion. The requirements between motions are often quite different and the statute governing the desired procedure will have requirements specific to that procedure. For example, the evidentiary requirements for summary judgment motions are much more extensive than a motion to quash service of summons. However, there are common requirements for most all motions, and this chapter addresses these basic requirements.

Judge's Perspective:

Counsel should make sure that the relief being sought by the motion is the proper vehicle to accomplish the result. All too often, counsel interpose motions for judgment on the pleadings, or demurrers, when the proper vehicle to approach an issue that is outside the pleading is a motion for summary judgment or adjudication.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.05

26.05 Three Basic Types of Law and Motion Procedure Are Oral Motions, Ex Parte Applications, and Noticed Motions.

26.05[1] Oral Motions May Be Made During Hearing or Trial in Open Court or in Chambers. Oral motions are usually made in the presence of adverse counsel and include motions to strike testimony, motion for nonsuit [CCP § 581c], or judgment [CCP § 631.8], motions for directed verdict, and motions for mistrial.

26.05[2] Ex Parte Applications Must Be in Writing and May Be Made in Urgent Situations. Ex parte applications (formerly referred to as ex parte motions) must be in writing, are presented along with a proposed order to a judge or commissioner in chambers, and are permitted only when there is a showing of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or based on statute granting ex parte relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1201, 3.1202(c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of ex parte applications, see 26.23 et seq.

26.05[3] Noticed Motions Must Be In Writing and Served and Filed Prior to Hearing. Noticed motions involve serving and filing a notice of motion with its supporting papers followed by a hearing on the motion and the ruling of the judge granting or denying the motion [CCP §§ 1005, 1005.5; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1112, 3.1113, 3.1300]. The majority of pretrial motions are made by noticed motion.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.06

26.06 Who May Make Motions and Applications.

26.06[1] Party to Pending Action or Proceeding May Make Motion. Ordinarily, only a person who is a party to a pending action or proceeding may make a motion [ Difani v. Riverside County Oil Co. (1927) 201 C 210, 213-214, 256 P 210 (creditor of defendant was not allowed to bring motion to vacate default judgment and attachment); Chase v. Superior Court (1962) 210 CA2d 872, 876, 27 CR 383 (attorneys who filed complaint were not allowed to bring motion to reconsider order that had dismissed complaint on ground it was filed without plaintiff's authorization)].

Example:

When a worker's compensation insurer voluntarily dismissed its action against a third party whose negligence allegedly caused a worker's injury, the worker was not allowed to bring a CCP § 473 motion to set aside the dismissal. Although the worker had a right to intervene in the action, the worker never did so, and after the dismissal there was no action in which he could intervene [ Roski v. Superior Court (1971) 17 CA3d 841, 846, 95 CR 312 ].

26.06[2] Nonparty May Make Motion to Vacate Void Judgment or Order. A nonparty may move to vacate a void judgment or order if he or she has a right or interest that would be affected by enforcement of the judgment or order [ People v. Silva (1981) 114 CA3d 538, 547-548, 170 CR 713 ].

26.06[3] Attorney May Move for Enforcement of Fee Award. An attorney who has been awarded fees, although not a party to the action, may move the court for enforcement of the award [ Sorell v. Superior Court of San Francisco (1967) 248 CA2d 157, 159, 56 CR 222 ].

26.06[4] Media May Apply to Cover Trial. News media may apply for authorization for media coverage (i.e., photographic, recording, broadcast) of court proceedings [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.150 ].

II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

26.07 Motions and Applications Generally Must Be Made While Action Is Pending.

Except as limited by statute, a motion may normally be made at any time when the relief sought would be appropriate in a pending action [see CCP § 1004 (motion made in court where action is pending)]. An action is deemed pending from the time of its commencement until its final determination on appeal, or until the time for appeal has passed, unless the judgment is sooner satisfied [CCP § 1049].

Warning:

Statutes relating to specific motions may impose time limitations for when a motion may be made [see, e.g., CCP § 435 (motion to strike all or part of a pleading); CCP § 437c (motion for summary judgment)].

II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

26.08 Where Motions and Applications May Be Made.

26.08[1] Motions Generally Must Be Made in Court in Which Action Is Pending. Except as provided in CCP § 166 (power of trial judges to act in chambers and powers of judges versus the power of the court), motions must be made in the court in which the action is pending [CCP § 1004].

26.08[2] Motions May Be Made in Court Other Than One in Which Action Is Pending When Authorized by Statute. Some statutes may authorize the making of a motion in a court other than the one in which the action is pending [see, e.g., CCP §§ 708.110-708.205 (third-party examination in aid of enforcement of judgment)].

26.08[3] Payment of Filing Fee Is Required. A uniform fee for filing any notice of motion or any other paper requiring a hearing after the first paper will be imposed [Gov Code § 70617].

Exceptions:

A special uniform filing fee for a motion for summary judgment or adjudication will be imposed [Gov Code § 70617(d)]. There is no filing fee for an amended notice of motion [Gov Code § 70617(b)(2)] or other papers as set forth in Gov Code § 70617(b)(3)-(13).

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.09

26.09 Moving Party Must Determine Whether Written Notice Is Required.

26.09[1] Notice Generally Required by Statute. Although there is no express statutory provision requiring that notice of all motions be given, the vast majority of motions require written notice [see, e.g., CCP § 1005(a) (list of motions requiring written notice); CCP § 437c(a) (motion for summary judgment); CCP § 473(d) (motion to set aside void judgment or order)].

26.09[2] Court Will Determine Whether Written Notice of Motion Is Required Where Statute Is Silent. When there is no statutory provision requiring written notice of a motion to an adverse party or the applicable statute is silent regarding the requirement of written notice [see, e.g., CCP §§ 464, 473(a), (b)], the court must determine whether such notice is required [ Arata v. Tellurium Gold & Silver Mining Co. (1884) 65 C 340, 342, 4 P 195 ].

26.09[3] Written Notice Is Required If Order Granting Proposed Motion Would Affect Rights of Adverse Party. To satisfy procedural due process requirements of the federal and state constitutions, when an order granting a motion will affect the rights of the adverse party, the motion must be made on notice to such party [ McDonald v. Severy (1936) 6 C2d 629, 631, 59 P2d 98 ; Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 C 532, 536-537, 129 P 981 ; Miller v. Foremost Motors, Inc. (1993) 16 CA4th 1271, 1276, 20 CR2d 503 ].

Exception:

In cases requiring urgency, a court order may be sought by ex parte application, without the full notice procedure required by CCP § 1005 [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq.]. Even this ex parte procedure, however, generally requires a short period of notice or attempted notice in advance of the moving party's ex parte appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1203].

Discussion of ex parte applications, see 26.23 et seq.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
II. DETERMINING TYPE OF MOTION OR APPLICATION AND PROCEDURE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.10

26.10 Service of Notice and Other Papers.

26.10[1] Service May Be Made on Adverse Party or Attorney Pursuant to Statute. Notices and other papers may be served on a party or the party's counsel in the manner prescribed in CCP §§ 1010-1020 when not otherwise provided by the Code of Civil Procedure [CCP § 1010].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of service of motions and extensions of time based on manner of service, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

26.10[2] No Service Required on Defaulting or Nonappearing Party. A notice of motion need not be served on any party whose default has been duly entered or who has not appeared in the action or proceeding [CCP § 1010; see also CCP § 1014 (enumerating acts constituting an appearance and stating that service of notice or papers need not be made on a nonappearing defendant)].

26.10[3] "Serve and File" in Court Rules Means Serve on Each Party or His or Her Attorney Identified As Such in Proof of Service. Unless a statute or rule provides otherwise, the requirement that a party "serve and file" documents means that the party must serve a copy of the documents on each unrepresented, the attorney of each represented party, and any other person as required by statute, rule, or court order. It also requires the filing of the document and a proof of service with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.21(b)].

Exception:

In the case of an action in which a party's attorney has given notice of limited scope representation, all papers must be served on both the attorney and the party, until either a substitution of attorneys or an order to be relieved as attorney has been served and filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.36(b)].

Cross References:

Establishing limited scope representation, see Ch. 3, Beginning and Terminating Attorney-Client Relationship, 3.13[2].

Substitution of attorneys, see Ch. 3, Beginning and Terminating Attorney-Client Relationship, 3.34.

Grounds for obtaining order to be relieved as attorney in noticed representation of limited scope, see Ch. 3, Beginning and Terminating Attorney-Client Relationship, 3.29[7].

For these purposes, "proof of service" consists of a declaration stating that service has been made in the aforementioned manner. The proof of service must state which party or parties in an action involving multiple attorneys is represented by each served attorney [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.21(c)].

The attorney of record, if any, must sign every written notice of motion or other similar paper, and presentation of the paper to the court certifies that the motion or other paper is not frivolous [CCP § 128.7]. Sanctions may be imposed for violation of this provision of the Code of Civil Procedure [CCP § 128.7(c)].

III. PROVIDING EVIDENTIARY SUPPORT FOR MOTIONS AND APPLICATIONS

26.13 Options and Strategies.

Carefully and accurately presented evidence is the cornerstone of a successful motion or application. The evidence needs to support the motion and must be tailored to specific issue before the court. Extraneous evidence only tends to confuse the situation and opens up avenues of attack in later proceedings. Stick to evidence based on personal information, avoid hearsay statements, and get to the point quickly.

Judicial notice is an effective tool for supporting your motion or application. However, be wary of requests for judicial notice that attempt to bring in evidence that is objectionable. One common trap is a request for judicial notice of court files. Many practitioners attempt to build arguments on filed court documents containing hearsay statements. Just because the document is filed does not mean the hearsay is suddenly converted to judicially noticed material.

All the content of a court-filed document may not be admissible. The fact of its filing is subject to judicial notice. Taking judicial notice of facts within an appellate court opinion is proper [ Weiner v. Mitchell, Silberberg & Knupp (1980) 114 CA3d 39, 45, 170 CR 533 ].

Judge's Perspective:

Counsel request judicial notice in far too many instances, thinking that it is a panacea for evidentiary problems. Try to avoid this problem by limiting judicial notice to that which is absolutely needed and make sure that evidentiary foundation exists for the information contained in the judicial notice request.

26.14 Evidence at Hearing May Be Presented by Affidavit or Declaration, and by Request for Judicial Notice.

Evidence presented by affidavit or declaration or by request for judicial notice is received without testimony or cross-examination except in the court's discretion for good cause shown [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a); see also Smith, Smith & Kring v. Superior Court (1997) 60 CA4th 573, 578, 70 CR2d 507 (only evidence trial court should have considered is that contained in declarations filed in support of and in opposition to motion)]. Therefore, attendance of the moving party is not required for purpose of testimony or cross-examination [ McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 CA3d 343, 359, 100 CR 258 ].

Any person is qualified to make an affidavit or declaration in support of a motion, which will be considered competent evidence absent an objection that the affiant or declaration lacked personal knowledge of the matters stated [ McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 CA3d 343, 359-360, 100 CR 258 ].

Warning:

Although hearsay or other incompetent evidence in an affidavit received without a proper objection or motion to strike is regarded as competent evidence in support of the subsequent order [ Flood v. Simpson (1975) 45 CA3d 644, 649, 119 CR 675 ], facts contained in an unverified statement are not evidence and cannot provide the basis for granting the motion [ Smith, Smith & Kring v. Superior Court (1997) 60 CA4th 573, 578, 70 CR2d 507 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of hearsay in affidavits or declarations and objections to it, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 11.94 et seq.

Distinguish:

Evidence other than affidavits and declarations is admissible when an issue of fact is to be determined at the hearing on the motion [ Ascherman v. Superior Court (1967) 254 CA2d 506, 510, 62 CR 547 ].

26.15 Oral Evidence May Be Presented at Motion Hearing.

Although a trial court is empowered to exclude oral testimony, it has the discretion to receive such testimony, and refusal to exercise such discretion to receive such testimony may result in reversal of the court's order [see Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 CA3d 479, 485, 114 CR 356 ].

Prerequisite:

A written statement setting forth the nature and extent of the evidence sought to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for presentation of such evidence at the hearing must be filed at least three court days prior to the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)]. If the statement is filed less than five court days before the hearing, the filing party must serve a copy on the other parties in a manner that assures delivery at least two days prior to the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

Exception:

The requirement of a written statement is inapplicable to oral evidence presented in rebuttal to oral evidence presented by the other party.

Warning:

Presentation of oral evidence at a law and motion hearing is highly unusual and would only be allowed by the court in extraordinary circumstances. The courts have limited time for law and motion proceedings and are averse to citing the motions based on anything other than the papers that have been filed.

26.16 Affidavit Evidence or Oral Testimony May Be Restricted on Particular Motions.

Where courts are limited to examining the face of a challenged pleading [see, e.g., CCP § 435 et seq., (motion to strike a pleading or matter from a pleading)] and other matters appearing from the court's records, use of affidavit evidence and oral testimony is restricted.

Litigants do not have a right to present oral testimony at a hearing on a motion for summary judgment [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a); Mediterranean Constr. Co. v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. (1998) 66 CA4th 257, 263, 265, 77 CR2d 781 ].

III. PROVIDING EVIDENTIARY SUPPORT FOR MOTIONS AND APPLICATIONS

26.17 Moving Party May Request Court Take Judicial Notice of Evidence.

26.17[1] Judicial Notice May Be Permissive or Mandatory. The court is required to take judicial notice of matters specified in Evid Code § 451, and may take judicial notice of matters set forth in Evid Code § 452. However, the court is required to take judicial notice of matters set forth in Evid Code § 452 if a party requests that judicial notice be taken, gives each adverse party notice of the request, and furnishes the court with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice of the matter [Evid Code § 453].

Exception:

Judicial notice may not be taken of any matter unless authorized or required by law [Evid Code § 450].

Prerequisite:

During a hearing on a motion, a request to take judicial notice of a matter must be made by separate document listing the specific items for which notice is requested [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(l); but see CCP § 430.70 (matter of which court is requested to take judicial notice in ruling on a demurrer must be specified in the demurrer or supporting points and authorities except as court may otherwise permit)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of subjects of judicial notice, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 321, Judicial Notice (Matthew Bender).

26.17[2] Moving Party Must Provide Material for Which Judicial Notice Is Requested to Court and Other Parties. Party requesting judicial notice of material must provide such material to the court and each party. If the material is part of the court file, the party must specify in writing the portion of the file to be judicially noticed, and make sure the file is in the courtroom for the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(c)].

Trap:

It is important to make the arrangements to have the file in the courtroom in advance. This requirements is often ignored, and it can be a trap for the unwary.

Warning--Local Rules May Impose Additional Requirements:

For example, in Los Angeles County Superior Court, and San Francisco Superior Court, at least five days before the hearing, the party requesting judicial notice of a court file must file a separate document with the clerk of the department in which the motion is to be heard requesting the clerk to order delivery of the file to the department for the hearing. Moreover, the file must be delivered to the department at least two court days before the hearing to give the judge an opportunity to review the file in preparation for the hearing [Los Angeles Co Super Ct Rules, Rule 9.2; San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 8.9B]. It is always wise to check the appropriate county's local rules for further judicial notice requirements.

26.17[3] Oral Motion Should Be Made When Invoking Judicial Notice Regarding Evidence Presented at Trial. If judicial notice is invoked at trial based upon evidence produced at trial, an oral motion to the court to take judicial notice is proper [Evid Code §§ 453, 455]. If a party knows before trial that he or she intends to invoke judicial notice at trial, a written request for judicial notice may be filed at a pretrial conference [see Evid Code § 453(a); see also, e.g., Estate of Muller (1969) 2 CA3d 259, 270, 82 CR 531 ].

Cross Reference:

For list of matters subject to Judicial Notice under Evid Code §§ 451, 452, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 321, Judicial Notice (Matthew Bender).

26.17[4] Trial Court Must Give Parties Reasonable Opportunity to Be Heard on Issue of Judicial Notice. Regarding any matters specified in Evid Code § 451(f) or 452 that are of substantial consequence to the determination of the action, the court must afford each party a reasonable opportunity, before the jury is instructed or before the cause is submitted for decision by the court, to be heard on the propriety of taking judicial notice of the matter and the tenor of the matter to be noticed [Evid Code § 455(a)].

26.17[5] Judicial Notice May Be Denied If Matter Sought to Be Noticed Is Not Relevant or Because of Potential Prejudice or Undue Consumption of Time or Where Material Is Hearsay. To be given judicial notice the matter must be relevant to the pending case [ Western States Petroleum Assn. v. Superior Court (1995) 9 C4th 559, 574-576, 38 CR2d 139, 888 P2d 1268 (only relevant evidence is subject to judicial notice); Mangini v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. (1994) 7 C4th 1057, 1063-1065, 31 CR2d 358, 875 P2d 73 ; see also Evid Code § 350 (relevancy requirement)].

Warning:

The general rule is that the truthfulness and interpretation of a document's contents are disputable, and the California Courts of Appeal have utilized three different approaches at the demurrer stage as to accepting the accuracy of the contents of judicially noticed documents [ C.R. v. Tenet Healthcare Corp (2009) 169 CA4th 1094, 1103, 87 CR3d 424 ] :

- The truth of a document's contents will not be considered unless it is a judgment, statement of decision, or order.
- The truth of statements may be accepted when made by a party but not those of third parties or an opponent
- The contents of a document may only be accepted where there is not or cannot be a factual dispute concerning that which is sought to be judicially noticed.

Exception:

Under Evid Code § 352 judicial notice of relevant matters may be denied if the trial court determines that the probative value of the evidence is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will create a substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury, or will require an undue consumption of time [ Mozzetti v. City of Brisbane (1977) 67 CA3d 565, 577-579, 136 CR 751 ].

Where matter sought to be noticed is hearsay and not subject to any exception to the hearsay rule, judicial notice of the matter may be denied [see Osborn v. Irwin Mem'l Blood Bank (1992) 5 CA4th 234, 261 n5, 7 CR2d 101 ].

Warning--Court Records:

A request for judicial notice of court records does not mean the court judicially notices the existence of facts asserted in every document of a court file. A court cannot take judicial notice of hearsay allegations as being true, just because they are part of a court record or file. A court may take judicial notice of the existence of each document in a court file, but can only take judicial notice of the truth of facts asserted in documents such as orders, findings of fact and conclusions of law, and judgments [ Arce v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 471, 484, 104 CR3d 545 ; Kilroy v. State of California (2004) 119 CA4th 140, 145 ; Lockley v. Law Office of Cantrell, Green, Pekich, Cruz & McCort (2001) 91 CA4th 875, 882, 110 CR2d 877 ; Weiner v. Mitchell, Silberberg & Knupp (1980) 114 CA3d 39, 45-47, 170 CR 533 ].

26.17[6] Reviewing Court Must Generally Take Judicial Notice of Matters Trial Court Noticed or Was Required to Notice. A reviewing court generally must take judicial notice of matters properly noticed by the trial court or that the trial court was required to notice [Evid Code § 459].

Warning:

Although a reviewing court has the same discretionary power as the trial court to take judicial notice of matters [Evid Code § 459], it will generally not take judicial notice of matters that were before the trial court [see, e.g., People v. Peevy (1998) 17 C4th 1184, 1208 n4, 73 CR2d 865, 953 P2d 1212 (requests for judicial notice of exhibit was denied because the issue upon which the exhibits were offered was not raised in the trial court); see also Brosterhous v. State Bar of Cal. (1995) 12 C4th 315, 325, 48 CR2d 87, 906 P2d 1242 ].

26.17[7] Reviewing Court Will Generally Uphold Trial Court's Decision on Judicial Notice. The trial court's determination to take judicial notice of a matter specified in Evid Code § 452 will be upheld on appeal if the matter was properly noticed. A reviewing court may use any information, whether or not available to the trial court to sustain the proper taking of judicial notice [Evid Code § 459(b), (d); see also Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid Code § 453].

Similarly, a decision of the trial court judge denying a request for judicial notice will be upheld on appeal unless the reviewing court determines that no reasonable judge would refuse to take judicial notice of the matter [see Cal. L. Revision Comm'n Comment to Evid Code § 453].

Although judicial notice of matters set forth in Evid Code § 451 is mandatory, a trial court's failure to take judicial notice of such matters may not be reversible error on appeal depending on the circumstances. For instance, an appellate court may hold that the error was "invited" or that points not urged in the trial court may not be advanced on appeal, without abrogating the provisions of Evid Code § 451.

IV. MAKING A TELEPHONE APPEARANCE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.18

26.18 CHECKLIST: Making a Telephone Appearance.

☐ Determine whether to appear at hearing by telephone.

☐ Telephone appearance is permitted in most proceedings in civil cases and other special proceedings.

☐ Consider requesting appearance by telephone where appropriate even though appearance in person is required because:

☐ Hearing, conference, or proceeding is one in which personal appearance is generally required.

☐ Client is one of whom personal appearance is generally required in the pertinent type of hearing or proceeding.

☐ Local Rules of Court govern procedure for telephone appearance.

☐ When appearing by telephone, provide notice of such appearance to other parties.

☐ Notify court of intent to appear by telephone, either by:

☐ Indicating "Telephone Appearance" below title of moving, opposition, or reply papers; or ☐ Notifying court and all parties of intent to appear by telephone at least 3 court days before the appearance.

☐ Oral notice must be personal or by telephone.

☐ Written notice must be served by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail or other means ensuring delivery no later than close of next business day.

☐ Where party first notices an intent to appear by telephone and later decides to appear in person, that party must notify the court and the other parties, orally or in writing, at least 2 days prior to the hearing, of such change.

☐ If another party has given notice of appearance by telephone, give notice of appearance by telephone no later than noon on the court day before the appearance.

☐ If notice has not been given in timely manner, consider whether good cause permits appearance by telephone without required notice.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
IV. MAKING A TELEPHONE APPEARANCE

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.19

26.19 Options and Strategies.

Appearance by telephone is a useful procedure to manage one's calendar, permitting multiple appearances in different courtrooms in the same day, often in different counties. Whether to use this procedure depends primarily on the type of evidence in support of the motion and the motion's complexity. If there is a possibility that oral testimony is needed or if the motion is very crucial to the case, do not opt for a telephone appearance. Physical presence in the courtroom provides the ability to read the reactions of the court and opposing counsel, which strengthens argument presentation and allows greater flexibility for responding to last minute changes in circumstances. Being present at the courtroom before the hearing can give you a better understanding of the calendar and how the court is handling the docket. However, telephone appearances are very useful for routine motions and motions where there is little need for argument.

Appearance by telephone could affect an award of attorney fees, because a court should consider whether an attorney is claiming fees for appearing in person in a proceeding in which that attorney could have appeared by telephone [Cal Rules Ct, Stnds Jud Admin, Standard 3.1].

Judge's Perspective:

Telephonic appearances are useful, but keep in mind that when the court addresses case management and issue phasing, it is best for all counsel to be physically present. There may be instances where the court will want counsel to meet and confer in the courtroom to work out differences or issues that do not require court involvement at that time.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
IV. MAKING A TELEPHONE APPEARANCE

26.20 Determining Whether Appearance by Telephone Is Permitted.

26.20[1] Court Rules Authorize Appearance by Telephone. The Legislature has given the Judicial Council authority to make rules for appearance by telephone after notice in accordance with CCP § 367.5, as well as for other situations [CCP § 367.5(d)]. The limitations of the statutory authorization do not apply to rules made concerning appearance by telephone in instances not enumerated in CCP § 367.5(b) [CCP § 367.5(e)]. Court rules permitting appearance of parties by telephone apply in all general civil cases as defined in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.6 and to unlawful detainer and probate proceedings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(b); see also CCP § 367.5(b)].

Strategic Point:

To improve access to the courts and reduce litigation costs, courts should, to the extent feasible, permit parties to appear by telephone at appropriate conferences, hearings, and proceedings in civil cases [CCP § 367.5(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(a)].

26.20[2] Appearance by Telephone Is Generally Permitted in Certain Types of Conferences, Hearings, and Proceedings. Appearance by telephone is generally permitted upon proper notice in [CCP § 367.5(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(c); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(c)]:

- Case management conferences, provided the party has made a good faith effort to meet and confer and has timely served and filed a case management statement before the conference date.
- Trial setting conferences.
- Hearings on law and motion, except motions in limine.
- Hearings on discovery motions.
- Status conferences, including conferences to review the status of an arbitration or a mediation.

- Hearings to review the dismissal of an action.

Exception:

The court may require a party to appear in person at a hearing, conference, or proceeding listed above if the court determines on a hearing-by-hearing basis that a personal appearance would materially assist in the determination of the proceedings or in the effective management or resolution of the particular case [CCP § 367.5(c); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(2)]. In exercising its discretion in that regard, the court is to consider the general policy favoring telephone appearances in civil cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(1)]. In ordering the party to appear in person after notice of appearance by telephone, the court may continue the hearing, conference, or proceeding and must provide for notice to all parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(h); see 26.22[3]].

 Cross Reference:

Notice of appearance by telephone, see 26.22.

26.20[3] Personal Appearance Is Generally Required in Other Types of Conferences, Hearings, and Proceedings. Personal appearance is generally required in conferences, hearings, and proceedings not listed in 26.20[2], including [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(d)]:

- Trials and hearings at which witnesses are expected to testify.
- Hearings on temporary restraining orders.
- Settlement conferences.
- Trial management conferences.
- Hearings on motions in limine.
- Hearings on petitions to confirm the sale of property under the Probate Code.

Exception:

The court may permit a party to appear by telephone at a hearing, conference, or proceeding listed above if the court determines that a telephone appearance is appropriate [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(3)]. In exercising its discretion in that regard, the court is to consider the general policy favoring telephone appearances in civil cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(1)].

26.20[4] Personal Appearance Is Generally Required of Certain Types of Parties. Personal appearance is generally required in all conferences, hearings, and proceedings by persons [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(d); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1207]:

- Seeking an ex parte order, except when the applicant is seeking an order:
  - ☐ For permission to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limits;
  - ☐ For an extension of time to serve pleadings;
  - ☐ To set hearing dates on alternative writs and orders to show cause; or

- ☐ By stipulation of the parties;
- Ordered to appear:
  - ☐ To show cause why sanctions should not be imposed for violation of a court order or a rule; or
  - ☐ In an order or citation issued under the Probate Code.

Exception:

The court may permit a party listed above to appear by telephone at the pertinent hearing or proceeding if the court determines that a telephone appearance is appropriate [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(3)]. In exercising its discretion in that regard, the court is to consider the general policy favoring telephone appearances in civil cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(1)].

At these proceedings, other parties who are not required to appear in person may appear by telephone [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(d)].

26.20[5] Court May Continue Hearing, Conference, or Proceeding in Progress Upon Ordering Personal Appearance. At any time during a hearing, conference, or proceeding conducted by telephone, the court may determine that a personal appearance by a party appearing by telephone is necessary, order a personal appearance of that party, and continue the matter [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.670(f)].

26.21 Local Court Rules Must Provide Court's Specific Telephone Appearance Information.

Each court must publish notice providing parties with the specific requirements for appearance by telephone at conferences, hearings, and proceedings in that court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(m)]. A reasonable fee may be charged a party appearing by telephone [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(i); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(l) (a court may designate by local rule the conference call vendor to be used for telephone appearances)].

Each court's local rules should specify who initiates the call, whether there is a time limit, how the parties are notified, and the effects of a tentative ruling system [Cal Rules Ct, Stnds Jud Admin, Stnd 3.1].

26.22 Notifying Court and Other Parties of Telephone Appearance or Cancellation Thereof.

26.22[1] Notification When No Other Party Has Notified of Telephone Appearance.

26.22[1][a] Party Must Provide Notice of Appearance by Telephone in Pleading or Separate Notice. A party choosing to appear by telephone must either [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1)]:

- Set forth that intention by placing the phrase "Telephone Appearance" below the title of the party's moving, opposing, or reply papers, or
- Provide oral or written notification to the court and all parties at least 3 court days before the telephone appearance.

Exception:

The trial court, on a showing of good cause, may permit a party to appear by telephone even if the party has not given notice by either of these methods [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(4)].

Under the second option, a party providing oral notification must do so either in person or by telephone. A party providing written notification under that option must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1)(B)]:

- File a "Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone" with the court at least three court days before the appearance, and
- Serve the notice at the same time on all other parties by personal delivery, fax transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the parties no later than the close of the next business day.

Form of notice of motion with "Telephone Appearance" below the title, see 26.65. Form of "Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone," see 26.69.

26.22[1][b] Cancellation of Notification Made When No Other Party Has Notified of Telephone Appearance.

A party that has given notice of telephone appearance in its pleadings or separate notice under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1) may cancel the telephone appearance and appear in person by notifying the court and the other parties at least 2 court days before the appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(3)].

Exception:

The trial court, on a showing of good cause, may permit a party to appear in person after giving notice of telephone appearance under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1) even if the party has not given notice of cancellation of appearance by telephone [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(4)].

26.22[2] Notification of Telephone Appearance by Party Notified of Other Party's Telephone Appearance.

A party that has not given notice that decides to appear by telephone after receiving notice of telephone appearance from another party must notify the court and all other parties that have appeared in the action of its intent to appear by telephone by no later than noon on the court day before the appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(2)].

Exception:

The trial court, on a showing of good cause, may permit a party to appear by telephone after receiving notice of telephone appearance from another party even if the party showing good cause has not given notice of telephone appearance after receiving notice of telephone appearance from the other party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(4)].

26.22[3] Notification By Court Ordering Personal Appearance. A trial court ordering a party to appear in person after receiving that party's notice of telephone appearance must reasonably notify all parties of its order. The court may direct the court clerk, a court-appointed vendor, a party, or an attorney to provide the notification [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(h)].

Exception:

In courts using a telephonic tentative ruling system for law and motion matters, the court may give notice that the party must appear in person as part of the court's tentative ruling on a specific law and motion matter if that notification is given one court day before the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(h)].

Strategic Point:

The trial court ordering personal appearance may continue the hearing if necessary to accommodate the personal appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(h)].

V. MAKING EX PARTE APPLICATIONS

26.24 Options and Strategies.

Ex parte applications (formerly referred to as ex parte motions) are a procedure to obtain immediate relief to avoid irreparable harm or immediate danger. Ex parte applications are commonly understood to mean only one party presents its case to the court; however, Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1200 et seq. requires the applicant to undertake considerable efforts to timely notify the adverse party of the application unless the applicant can justify why the adverse party should not be notified.

Courts will closely scrutinize an ex parte application because fundamentals of due process require notice and an opportunity to be heard. A declaration stating why notice should not be required must be very specific and fact oriented, avoid vague statements or rote recitations of harm or injury, and be based on competent testimony based on personal knowledge. There are many published opinions where counsel have been sanctioned for bringing improper ex parte applications based on less than forthcoming declarations, often made for the purpose of gaining a tactical advantage.

Judge's Perspective:

Make sure that the relief that is sought on an ex parte basis is relief that the court can, in fact, provide.
Many counsel request relief that the court can only give by way of a noticed motion. Hence, the request should be for an order shortening time and not the relief called for in the motion itself.

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.26

26.26 Applicant Must Provide Notice of Ex Parte Application to Opposing Party One Day Before Ex Parte Appearance.

Absent a showing of exceptional circumstances warranting a shorter notice period [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(c)], a party seeking an ex parte order must notify all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1203; see also Datig v. Dove Books, Inc. (1999) 73 CA4th 964, 976-979, 87 CR2d 719 (order granting ex parte application reversed because obtained without any notice or any excuse for lack of notice)]. The notice must specifically state the nature of the relief requested and the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(b)(1)].

Warning:

Absent exceptional circumstances, no hearing on the application may be conducted unless service has been made to the adverse party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1206].

Distinguish:

A party seeking an ex parte order in an unlawful detainer proceeding may provide shorter notice provided that the notice given is reasonable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(c)(2)].

26.28 Judge or Court Commissioner May Grant Ex Parte Motion.

Ex parte motions may be granted by a judge in chambers [CCP § 166(a)(1); see also CCP § 1003]. Court commissioners may also grant ex parte motions [CCP § 259(a) and Gov Code § 72190].

Practice varies among the courts about the judge or department to which an ex parte motion or application must be presented. Therefore, counsel should consult local court rules, practices, and procedures concerning special requirements for the time such motions are heard, service of papers, and notification of court and counsel of ex parte application. However, the local rules relating to ex parte applications and the form and format of papers may be preempted by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.20.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
V. MAKING EX PARTE APPLICATIONS

26.29 Preparing Ex Parte Applications.

26.29[1] Ex Parte Application Must Be in Writing. The ex parte application must be in writing and must contain the case caption, a statement of the relief requested, and the name, address and telephone number of any attorney known to the applicant to represent any party to the pending action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201, 3.1202(a)]. If there is no known attorney, the name, address, and telephone number of the known party must be stated in the application [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(a)].

If the court in which the action is pending provides a printed form for use in making the particular ex parte motion, that form must be used.

Warning:

If an ex parte application for an order has previously been made to the court and refused, in whole or in part, any subsequent application of the same character or seeking the same relief, although based upon an alleged different set of facts, must include full disclosure of the previous application and the court's action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(b)].

Cross References:

Format of citations to legal sources, see 26.43[5][c]. Exclusion or redaction of social security and financial account numbers from documents filed in the court's public file, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.06[10].

26.29[2] Attach Affidavit or Declaration Showing Notice or Attempted Notice to Opposing Party or That No Notice Should Be Required. An ex parte application for an order must be accompanied by a declaration showing that notice of the ex parte application was provided within the applicable time period, or that a good faith attempt at notice was made, or that for specified reasons notice should not be required [Cal Rules Ct, 3.1204(b)]. The declaration must also state whether there was any response to the notice given, and whether opposition is expected [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(b)(1); see also CCP §§ 2009, 2015.5].

If notice was provided later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance, the notice declaration must explain the exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice; however, if involving unlawful detainer proceedings, the declaration may explain why the notice given is reasonable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(c)].

26.29[3] Attach Supporting Declaration That Demonstrates Basis for Proceeding Ex Parte Based Upon Personal Knowledge. The declaration must amount to an affirmative factual showing, containing competent testimony based upon personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or other statutory basis for granting ex parte relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(c); see also CCP § 2015.5].

26.29[4] Include Memorandum. The ex parte application must be supported by a memorandum [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201].

Exception:

In very limited circumstances, ex parte applications do not need supporting memoranda or points and authorities if the application is filed on Judicial Council forms. These instances include [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1114(a)]:

- An application for appointment of guardian ad litem in a civil case.
- Application for an order extending time to serve pleadings.

In these instances, a party may still submit, or the court may order submission of, a memorandum in support of the application if it would further the interests of justice; and the memorandum must comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1114(b)].

 Cross References:

Discussion of when memorandum required, see 26.43[5]. Format of citations to legal sources, see 26.43[5][c]. Exclusion or redaction of social security and financial account numbers from documents filed in the court's public file, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.06[10].

26.29[5] Include Request for Judicial Notice. Although Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq. does not mention requests for judicial notice, an applicant may need to reference a piece of evidence subject to judicial notice to support the application. Prudent practice would be to follow the procedure for judicial notice as though the application was a noticed motion.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of judicial notice, see 26.17.

26.29[6] Include Proposed Order. A proposed order must be included in the ex parte application [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201(5); see also 26.60 and 26.61 for proposed samples of proposed orders].

Trap:

The court may deny a motion for the sole reason that an order was not provided.

26.30[2] Service of Application and Any Opposition Made at First Reasonable Opportunity. The applicant must serve the ex parte application or any written opposition on all other parties appearing at the hearing at the first reasonable opportunity; and absent exceptional circumstances, no hearing may be conducted unless such service has been made [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1206].

VI. RESPONDING TO EX PARTE APPLICATIONS

26.36 Options and Strategies.

A party adversely affected by an ex parte application will either be noticed before the hearing, or will learn about the application's order after it is imposed if the court rules that notice was not required. In the former situation, draft opposition papers and attend the hearing. Courts require strict adherence to the rules of court requirements, and a procedural attack on the application has a good chance of succeeding. Substantive attacks focus on the declaration asserting irreparable harm, immediate danger, or other statutory grounds for ex parte relief. In the latter situation where the adverse party was not notified, consider filing a CCP § 473 motion for relief from the court's order.

26.37 Objecting to Notice.

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq. has multiple procedural safeguards to require notice to the adverse party, and courts require strict compliance with this rule. If notice is defective, attend the hearing on the application and make a limited appearance only for the purpose of objecting to notice to avoid waiving the notice defects; however, be prepared to oppose the application substantively in case the court finds notice is proper.

VI. RESPONDING TO EX PARTE APPLICATIONS

26.38 Objecting to Ex Parte Relief.

The party opposing ex parte relief should focus on the central issue of the application, i.e., the applicant's assertion of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for ex parte relief [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(c)]. The declaration supporting these contentions may be attacked for not being competent or based on personal knowledge [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(c)].

Strategic Point:

A counter declaration may be used to contravene the assertions of the applicant's declaration. Support the counter declaration with a memorandum.

Warning:

As is the case with the applicant, opposing counsel should review local rules of court to determine any requirements or limitations imposed on the manner in which objections may be made.

26.40 Options and Strategies.

Noticed motions are the most common form of law and motion practice. The name of the motion may change depending on the procedure being used (e.g., demurrer, motion to quash, motion to strike, motion for summary judgment, claim of exemption), but the procedures share the common element of requesting the court to issue an order affecting the action before trial.

The majority of motions are enumerated in CCP § 1005, and the requirements of CCP § 1005 apply to any other proceeding under the code in which notice is required and no other time or method is prescribed by law or by court or judge [CCP § 1005(a)(13)].

If pressed for time and the period of notice causes problems, consider filing a concurrent motion to shorten time.

Be sure to completely and thoroughly support the motion with the required evidence, to facilitate the court's determination of the precise relief being sought and the merit of the request. Law and motion papers should never be used to burden an opponent. Resist the urge to sandbag the opposition by saving crucial evidence for the reply papers or the hearing. The court may deem the evidence waived because it was not provided in the moving papers. Evidence varies from motion to motion, and the amount required depends on the procedure. Motions for summary judgment have extensive evidence requirements and should be fully supported or risk denial of valid motion.

VII. MAKING NOTICED MOTIONS

26.41 Notice of Motion Is Required and Must Be in Writing.

During a pending action or proceeding, the moving party must provide the opposing party with notice of any motion it intends to bring [CCP §§ 1005(b), 1010]. Notices must be in writing, and the notice of a motion, other than for a new trial, must state when, and the grounds upon which the motion will be made, the papers, if any, upon which it is to be based [CCP § 1010; see also CCP § 1005 (instances in which written notice is required)], the party bringing the motion, the names of the parties to whom it is addressed, and if a pleading is challenged, the specific portion challenged [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(d)].

Warning:

The fact that an opposing party has actual knowledge of a proceeding will not waive the statutory written notice requirement [ County of Santa Clara v. Perry (1998) 18 C4th 435, 442, 75 CR2d 738, 956 P2d 1191 ]. However, failure to provide written notice may be excused if the motion is made orally in open court in adverse counsel's presence [ Thieme v. Commercial Lighting & Maint. Co. (1960) 177 CA2d 575, 576, 2 CR 382 ].

Exception:

The notice requirement or objection to defects in notice may be waived by opposing party's appearance at the hearing of the motion and opposition to it on its merits [ Mann v. Cracchiolo (1985) 38 C3d 18, 27, 210 CR 762, 694 P2d 1134 ; Vlahovich v. Cruz (1989) 213 CA3d 317, 320, 261 CR 565 ], unless the appearance is solely for the purpose of objecting to the motion on grounds of inadequate notice [ Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 C 532, 538-539, 129 P 981 ].

26.42 Noticed Motion Composed of Three Required Parts: Notice of Motion, Motion Itself, and Supporting Papers.

The papers filed in support of a motion or demurrer must include the following papers [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(a)]:

- The motion or demurrer itself;
- The notice of hearing on the motion or demurrer; and
- A memorandum in support of the motion or demurrer.

These papers may be filed as separate documents or may be combined in one or more documents if the party filing a combined pleading specifies these items separately in the caption of the combined pleading [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(c)].

Other papers may be filed in support of a motion, such as [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(b)]:

- Declarations.
- Exhibits.
- Appendices.
- Other documents or pleadings.

26.43 Preparing Motion Papers.

26.43[1] Notice of Motion Must State Nature of Order Sought and Grounds. The notice of motion must state in the opening paragraph the nature of the order being sought and the grounds for issuance of the order [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1110(a)].

26.43[2] Motion Must Have Required Elements. The motion itself must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(d)]:

- Identify the party or parties bringing the motion;
- Name the parties to whom it is addressed;
- Briefly state the basis for the motion and the relief sought; and
- If a pleading is challenged, state the specific portion challenged.

➤ Cross References:

Format of citations to legal sources, see 26.43[5][c]. Exclusion or redaction of social security and financial account numbers from documents filed in the court's public file, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.06[10].

26.43[3] Provide Affidavits and Declarations Setting Forth Evidentiary Facts. Unless the motion is not subject to support by extrinsic evidence, one or more affidavits or declarations, made under penalty of perjury, and setting forth the evidentiary facts required to establish the grounds of the motion are necessary [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a)]. Other evidentiary documents on which the motion is based, such as contracts, deeds of trust, or matters of which judicial notice may be taken, may be attached as exhibits to the declarations that authenticate them [see, e.g., Coulston v. Cooper (1966) 245 CA2d 866, 869, 54 CR 302 (auto rental contract attached as exhibit to declaration supporting motion to quash)].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of evidentiary support for motions, see 26.12 et seq.

26.43[4] Provide Written Statement Setting Forth Nature and Extent of Oral Evidence Which Seek to Introduce and Time Estimate for Hearing. A written statement setting forth the nature and extent of the evidence sought to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for presentation of such evidence at the hearing must be filed at least three days prior to the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of evidentiary support for motions, see 26.12 et seq.

Warning:

Likelihood of oral testimony at a law and motion proceeding is extraordinarily limited.

26.43[5] Provide Supporting Memorandum.

26.43[5][a] Supporting Memorandum Must Be Served and Filed With Motion. Unless specifically exempt by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1114, a supporting memorandum must be served and filed with a motion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

Warning:

Failure to file the requisite memorandum may be construed as an admission that motion lacks merit, may result in denial of the motion, and may waive of all grounds not supported [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

Exception.

In limited circumstances, a supporting memorandum is not required if the civil motion, application, or petition is filed on one of the following Judicial Council forms [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1114(a)]:

- Application for appointment of guardian ad litem in a civil case.
- Application for an order extending time to serve pleadings.
- Motion to be relieved of counsel.
- Motion filed in small claims case.
- Petition for change of name or gender.
- Petition for declaration of emancipation of minor.
- Petition for injunction prohibiting harassment.
- Petition for protective order to prevent elder or dependent adult abuse.
- Petition of employer for injunction prohibiting workplace violence.
- Petition for order prohibiting abuse (transitional housing).

- Petition to approve compromise of claim of a minor or person with a disability.
- Petition for withdrawal of funds from blocked account.

In these instances, a party may still submit, or the court may order submission of, a memorandum in support of the motion, application, or petition if it would further the interests of justice; and the memorandum must comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1114(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of when memorandum required, see 26.43[5].

26.43[5][b] Memorandum Must Comply With California Rules of Court. The form and content of memoranda are governed by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113, and more generally by Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1100, 3.1103, 3.1110, 3.1112, 3.1113, 3.1150, 3.1200 et seq., 3.1350. Memoranda are also subject to general rules governing papers served and filed with the court [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 1.20(b), 1.200, 2.100 et seq.].

Warning:

The rules of court adopted by the Judicial Council preempt local court rules dealing with the form and format of papers, as well as local court rules relating to, inter alia, motions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.20].

Cross Reference:

Exclusion or redaction of social security and financial account numbers from documents filed in the court's public file, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.06[10].

26.43[5][c] Contents of Memorandum and Style. A memorandum filed in support of a motion must contain: 1) a statement of facts; 2) a concise statement of the law; 3) evidence and arguments upon which the memorandum relies; and 4) a discussion of the statutes, cases and textbooks cited in support of the position advanced. The rules do not prohibit the organization of the points and authorities in the memorandum "on some other basis than plodding down the line with each cause of action, seriatim" [ Hope Internat. Univ. v. Superior Court (2004) 119 CA4th 719, 732 ].

A memoranda that exceeds 10 pages must include a table of contents and a table of authorities [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)]. A memorandum that exceeds 15 pages must also include an opening summary of argument [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)].

As with all documents filed with the court, the style used in a memorandum must comport with the California Style Manual or The Bluebook: Uniform System of Citation, at the option of the party filing the document, and must be used consistently throughout the memorandum [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.200].

Warning:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.100 et seq. sets forth statewide standards for the size, color, and type of paper; font style and color; line spacing and numbering; and other formatting requirements for papers filed with trial courts. Violation of these requirements may cause the court to reject the motion.

26.43[5][d] Page Length Is Limited and Permission Required for Longer Memorandum. Except for memoranda accompanying summary judgment motions, supporting memoranda may not exceed 15 pages, and reply memoranda are limited to ten pages. The page limits do not include exhibits, declarations, attachments, the table of contents, the table of authorities, or the proof of service [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)].

Warning:

Court has discretion to refuse to consider a memorandum that is filed in excess of page limit without permission [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)].

Judge's Perspective:

Counsel should be admonished not to try and extend the page limitations through the use of footnotes, declarations that contain further points and authorities, and clever margin and font changes. These tactics can be readily spotted and serve no useful purpose. These tactics jeopardize counsel's credibility prior to the hearing on the motion.

Distinguish--Multiple Parties:

The page limits of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.113(d) apply to all plaintiffs or all defendants on each side of a motion, rather than as separate page limitations as to each plaintiff or defendant (e.g., three co-plaintiffs opposing a single summary judgment motion are limited to a single memorandum of 20 pages instead of an aggregated 60 pages). Should multiple plaintiffs or multiple defendants want to increase the page limit of a memorandum, they must use the application process to file a longer memorandum under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.113(e) [ Collins v. Hertz Corp (2006) 144 CA4th 64, 71, 50 CR3d 149 ].

Warning:

File ex parte application with the court at least 24 hours before the memorandum is due requesting permission to file a longer memorandum, and advise the other parties of the request by written notice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)]. It is advisable to seek permission to file a longer memorandum well in advance of the 24-hour deadline in case your application for extension is denied.

26.43[5][e] Attach Evidence Referenced In Memorandum for Service and Filing. If the memorandum refers to evidence that is not before the court, a copy of such evidence must accompany the memorandum [see CCP § 1010; see also CCP § 1005(b)]. Also, authority other than California law, or California case law published in the Advance Sheets of the Official Reports must be lodged with the papers and tabbed as exhibits as required by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1110(f) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(j)].

Strategic Point:

Some judges request that copies of California opinions also be provided with the "Judge's Copy" of the memorandum. It also may be useful to bracket the portions of opinions that are provided to assist the trial judge in focusing quickly on the points for which the opinion was cited. A "Judge's Copy" is sometimes required by local rule [see, e.g., San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 8.5]. If the moving party needs to obtain a hearing and ruling or order promptly, it may be advisable to provide "Judge's Copies" of both your own and your adversary's papers to avoid a possible continuance of the hearing. Some judges have encouraged the submission of a well-organized three-ring binder of all papers that have been filed or lodged in connection with the particular hearing.

Evidence not before the court is usually in the form of affidavit or declaration, but may also include documentary evidence, presented as exhibits that are authenticated by affidavits or declarations attached to the exhibits, or discovery products such as deposition testimony and interrogatories, which also require authentication. Evidentiary facts may also be matters subject to judicial notice.

Distinguish:

- For all practical purposes, declarations under penalty of perjury have replaced affidavits as the mode of presenting the evidence of a witness on motion.

- Some motions may not be supported by extrinsic evidence [see, e.g., CCP § 438 (motion for judgment on the pleadings)]; therefore, the supporting or opposing memorandum will rely on pleadings or judicially noticed matters. In addition, when submitting evidence discussed in a memorandum counsel must be aware of the foundational requirements for the court to consider the evidence, as well as the limitations on the court's consideration of particular forms of evidence.

Strategic Point:

Prior to presenting a legal argument, counsel should ensure that the evidence supports counsel's position. To the extent the support is contained in counsel's own declaration, counsel must scrupulously confine statements to matters of counsel's own knowledge or to matters shown by other documents that counsel can authenticate.

26.43[6] Provide Request for Judicial Notice. The court is required to take judicial notice of matters set forth Evid Code § 452 if a party requests that judicial notice be taken, gives each adverse party notice of the request, and furnishes the court with sufficient information to enable it to take judicial notice of the matter [Evid Code § 453].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of judicial notice for motions, see 26.17.

26.43[7] Provide Notice of Nonappearance If Party Does Not Intend to Appear at Hearing on Motion. A party may give notice that he or she will not appear at a hearing and submit the matter without an appearance unless the court requires such appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(c)]. In such event, the court must rule on the motion as if the party had appeared [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(c)].

26.43[8] Provide Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone If Desired and Permitted. If a party chooses to appear by telephone, that party generally must either set forth such intention by placing the phrase "Telephone Appearance" below the title of the moving papers, or notify the court and all parties at least three court days before the appearance, either orally or in writing, of such intention [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1)]. If the party subsequently decides to appear in person, notice must also be provided to the court and the other parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(3)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearing by telephone, see 26.18 et seq.

26.43[9] Other Documents May Accompany Motion. Requests to introduce oral evidence at the motion hearing pursuant to Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a), and written objections to evidence submitted in opponent's papers may also accompany the memorandum.

Prerequisite:

A written statement setting forth the nature and extent of the evidence sought to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for presentation of such evidence at the hearing must be filed at least three days prior to the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of oral testimony and restrictions, see 26.15, 26.16.

26.43[10] Signing Notice of Motion and Sanctions. If the party is represented by an attorney of record, at least one attorney of record must sign the notice of motion in the attorney's name; or if the party is not represented by counsel, the party must sign the notice of motion [CCP § 128.7(a), (i)]. An unsigned paper will be stricken unless the omission is corrected promptly after being called to the attention of the attorney of party [CCP § 128.7(a)]. Presenting the motion to the court, whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating it constitutes a certification that the motion is not filed for an improper purpose or frivolous [CCP § 128.7(b)].

26.44 Service and Filing of Papers.

26.44[1] For CCP 1005 Motions, Serve and File Notice of Motion, Motion, and Supporting Papers at Least 16 Court Days Prior to Hearing. For the majority of motions, the notice of motion, motion, and supporting papers must be served on the opposing parties at least 16 court days before a hearing on the motion [CCP §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(a); Gov Code § 70617]. Papers served on the parties must be a copy of papers filed or to be filed with the court [CCP § 1005(b)].

Trap:

Not all motions require 16 court days' notice. Motions for summary judgment require notice 75 days before hearing [CCP § 437c(a)]. Motions to dismiss for failure to prosecute require 45 days' notice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342]. Completely read the appropriate statute, and if there are no specific time requirements then review the statutes governing time and method when not otherwise prescribed by law or by court or judge [see CCP § 1005(a)(13), (b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of determining time requirements for service, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.03 et seq.

Local rules may provide that notice and motion papers be filed in a place other than the clerk's office.

Courts must provide a drop box for filing when the clerk's office filing counter is closed between 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. A court may provide a drop box for use at other times [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.210(a)]. A document deposited in a court's drop box up to and including 4:00 p.m. on a court day is deemed to have been deposited for filing on that day. A court may provide for same-day filing of a document deposited in its drop box after 4:00 p.m. on a court day. If so, the court must give notice of the deadline for same-day filing of a document deposited in its drop box [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.210(b)]. A court must have a means of determining whether a document was deposited in the drop box by 4:00 p.m., or after the deadline for same-day filing if a court provides for a later time, on a court day [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.210(d)].

Warning:

A paper is late if not submitted before the close of the clerk's office on the day the paper is due [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(e)]. However, no paper may be rejected for filing on the ground that it was submitted after the time set for filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(d)]. Nonetheless, if a clerk refuses to accept late-filed papers, counsel may be required to engage in the time-consuming task of submitting an ex parte application to file a late brief. Although late filing may be waived by the court, late service on opposing counsel must be waived by the opposing party.

26.44[2] Notice Period May Be Extended or Limited Depending Upon Type of Service. For non-personal service, the 16-court-day period is increased by:

■ Mail:

- ☐ 5 calendar days if place of mailing and place of address are within California.
- ☐ 10 calendar days if either place of mailing or place of address is outside California, but within United States.
- ☐ 15 calendar days if place of mailing or place of address is outside United States.

■ Facsimile transmission, express mail, or overnight delivery:

- ☐ 2 calendar days.

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of determining time requirements for service and extensions, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.03 et seq.

26.44[3] Court May Prescribe Shorter Notice Period on Its Own Motion or Upon Application for Order Shortening Time. Notwithstanding the notice period set forth in CCP § 1005(b), on its own motion or on application for an order shortening time, supported by a declaration showing good cause, the court may prescribe a shorter time for filing and service of papers [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(b)].

Warning:

For summary judgment motions, the court may not order the shortening of the 75-day notice period [ McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 118, 130 CR 2d 407 ; see also CCP § 437c(a) (notice period)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of shortening time, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.08 et seq.

26.44[4] File Proof of Service With Court Clerk. Proof of service on the other parties in the action may be filed with the noticed motions and supporting papers, but no later than five (5) court days before the motion hearing. The motion is deemed made upon service and filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(c)].

Cross Reference:

Forms of proof of service, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.48 et seq.

26.44[5] Motion Deemed Made on Service and Filing. A motion on all the grounds stated in the written notice of motion is deemed to have been made and to be pending before the court, for all purposes, upon service and filing of the notice of motion [CCP § 1005.5].

Parties are still entitled to a hearing of the motion to which they are otherwise entitled [CCP § 1005.5].

Distinguish:

Enactment of CCP § 1005.5 did not convert an oral motion to a written motion or affect the contents of the notice of motion; it merely stopped the running of any time period on the motion and dispensed with the necessity of making the motion orally at the hearing by providing that the motion is deemed made on service and filing of the notice of motion.

VII. MAKING NOTICED MOTIONS

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.45

26.45 File Reply Memorandum 5 Court Days Before Hearing If Opposing Memorandum Raises Issues Not Sufficiently Addressed in Supporting Memorandum.

A reply memorandum should only be filed if an opposing memorandum raises issues or evidence that were not sufficiently addressed in the supporting memorandum [see Bergman v. Rifkind & Sterling, Inc. (1991) 227 CA3d 1380, 1386-1387, 278 CR 583 ].

Timing:

Reply papers must be filed, and a copy served on each party at least 5 court days before the hearing [CCP § 1005(b), (c); see also CCP § 437c(b)(4) (reply in summary judgment proceeding must be served and filed not less than five days preceding the hearing)].

Warning:

CCP § 1013, which extends the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done based on type of service, does not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, papers opposing a motion, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of time extensions based on type of service, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.07.

Strategic Points:

- Depending on local practice, may want to file reply memorandum directly with the clerk of the law and motion department or division rather than in the office of the court clerk, so that the court will have sufficient time to consider the reply memorandum prior to the hearing on the motion. Counsel should also review local requirements to determine whether filing in the department is optional or mandatory.
- Reply papers offer the opportunity to provide a succinct response to the issues opposing counsel has raised. The motion papers generally cover multiple issues in a fairly limited fashion, whereas the opposing papers may raise a singly point that can be thoroughly addressed in the reply.

■ If no party has yet to give notice of telephone appearance, the replying party may use its reply papers to notify the court and the parties of its intention to do so [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1)(A)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearing by telephone, see 26.18 et seq.

Warning:

A reply memorandum should not attempt to raise issues not previously raised in either the supporting or opposing memoranda.

Judge's Perspective:

The court always welcomes reply briefs when, in fact, they function as a reply and not a vehicle for the presentation of new material. The reply brief needs to be succinct and address only those points raised in opposition. It is a good opportunity to frame your strongest point and have the last word. Keep the brief very short.

☐ Determine whether to oppose motion.

☐ Seek stipulation as an alternative.

☐ Assess whether opposition may subject party to sanctions.

☐ Review motion and supporting papers to determine whether there is a substantive basis for challenge to the motion and/or the supporting papers accompanying the motion.

Warning:

Failure to oppose a motion results in a waiver on appeal of any objection to the resulting order.

Discussion:

See 26.47

☐ Determine whether the notice of motion has been timely given.

☐ Challenge defective notice.

☐ Appear at hearing without filing a response to request a continuance.

☐ File opposition to noticed motion based upon defective service or inadequate notice and appear at hearing to object to hearing based upon defective or inadequate notice.

  - ☐ Serve and file the memorandum and any affidavits, declaration, and/or statement relating to oral evidence.
- ☐ Service and filing is generally in same manner as required for moving party.

Timing:

All papers opposing a noticed motion must be filed and served at least 9 court days before the hearing. The statement relating to oral evidence must be filed no later than three court days before the hearing, and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, counsel must serve a copy on the moving party in a manner to assure delivery to the moving party no later than two days before the hearing.

VIII. RESPONDING TO NOTICED MOTIONS

26.47 Options and Strategies.

Opposition to noticed motions involves the two-prong attack of asserting procedural defects and lack of substantive law or evidence in support of the motion. A very common procedural opposition is challenging defective notice, which involves the issue of making a limited appearance at the hearing. Courts do not want their orders subject to collateral attack, and defects in notice and service are a quick way of taking motions off calendar or obtaining a denial.

Substantive attacks are as varied as the motions themselves. Each motion has a central element (e.g., no issue of material fact for summary judgment, insufficient minimum contacts to support jurisdiction for a motion to quash service of summons). Papers should be clear and concise and, if appropriate, provide an alternative to the relief sought in the papers. Craft arguments that consistently focus on the lack of central elements of the motion. Successful oppositions to motions often have a central theory that is supported by each successive point. However, do not be afraid to argue in the disjunctive to avoid waiver of a point that may well deny the motion.

If the motion is meritorious, consider a stipulation to the order sought because this gives your party a better chance at fashioning an agreement that better suits the situation. Also, be mindful that opposing a clearly valid motion on very weak grounds may subject counsel to sanctions for frivolous activity.

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
VIII. RESPONDING TO NOTICED MOTIONS

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.48

26.48 Challenging Defective Notice.

Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion, or failure to provide notice at all to the adverse party may be challenged without waiving the defects or irregularities by an appearance in opposition to the motion for the limited purpose of objecting to a consideration of the motion by the court on the ground of insufficiency of the notice [ Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 C 532, 538-539, 129 P 981 ].

Trap:

Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion, and failure to give notice at all, are normally waived by the adverse party's appearance at the hearing on the motion and opposition to it on its merits [ Carlton v. Quint (2000) 77 CA4th 690, 697-698, 91 CR2d 844 ; Vlahovich v. Cruz (1989) 213 CA3d 317, 320, 261 CR 565 ; Tate v. Superior Court (1975) 45 CA3d 925, 929-930, 119 CR 835 ].

In challenging the absence of notice or defective notice counsel or the adverse party may also appear at the hearing and request a continuance for the purpose of preparing a proper response, making a complete record regarding the notice for appellate purposes in the event the continuance is denied. Alternately, counsel may file an opposition to the motion based on the notice irregularities and the merits, and appear at the hearing to object to the hearing proceeding based upon defective and/or inadequate notice, and requesting a continuance.

Strategic Point:

Counsel should only stand on the notice requirements when doing so affirmatively benefits the client (e.g., improper notice of a summary judgment motion causes the court to deny the ability of a party to have a summary judgment motion heard). If, however, adherence to a notice requirement is an exercise of form over substance, little other than extra expense is to be gained for the client and the court will not appreciate the fact that counsel has asserted notice requirements with vigor, on principle, only to have counsel back once proper notice has been given.

Warning:

Counsel should be prepared to argue the motion on the merits if the court rejects the request for continuance.

26.49 File Opposing Memorandum and Other Papers 9 Court Days Before Hearing.

Although not expressly authorized by statute or the California Rules of Court, practice permits counsel for the adverse party to oppose the noticed motion by filing a memorandum in opposition to the motion. Counsel also may consider filing counter declarations, requests for judicial notice, and any of the other types of supporting documents used to bring a noticed motion.

Warnings:

- Failure to oppose a motion results in a waiver on appeal of any objection to the resulting order [ Bell v. Am. Title Ins. Co. (1991) 226 CA3d 1589, 1602, 277 CR 583 (party neither filed opposition nor objected at hearing)].
- CCP § 1013, which extends the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done based on type of service, does not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, papers opposing a motion, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)].

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
VIII. RESPONDING TO NOTICED MOTIONS

26.50 Object to Improper Evidence and Requests for Judicial Notice.

Although the adverse party may choose not to oppose the noticed motion, he or she may object to a request for judicial notice by the moving party or on the court's own motion [Evid Code §§ 450, 451, 453; see also 26.54 (form)]. Grounds for such objection include: failure of the party requesting judicial notice to give adequate notice of and information about the request [see Evid Code § 453], the matter for which judicial notice is requested is not subject to judicial notice [Evid Code §§ 451, 452], or that the matter sought to be judicially noticed is irrelevant, prejudicial, or hearsay [see Evid Code § 450].

Strategic Point:

Where a written objection to the request for judicial notice is made counsel should append or attach to the objection a memorandum supporting each ground of objection.

Counsel also may object to the movant's other evidence using the range of objections available in the Evidence Code. A common objection is that the supporting declarations are not based on personal knowledge or include inadmissible hearsay. Review the evidence in support of the motion as if at trial, make the objection in the memorandum, and support the objections with appropriate statutes and case law. Evidence objections include relevance, competency, improper opinion, privilege, hearsay, and authentication.

If the opposing party or counsel does not intend to appear at the hearing on the motion and opposition to the motion, a notice of nonappearance must be filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(c)]. Alternately, opposing counsel may opt to appear by telephone absent court order to the contrary, and may do so upon filing a notice of appearance by telephone with the court and the other parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(a), (g)].

IX. CHECKING TENTATIVE RULING PROCEDURES

26.53 Options and Strategies.

Tentative ruling procedures enable the court to shorten the time for a hearing on the motion by focusing the oral discussion, and in some cases to eliminate the need for parties to appear. The tentative ruling should be checked early in the day before the scheduled hearing in case notice is required to opt for oral argument. Use the ruling to focus on the issues the court believes are central to motion and to better prepare for oral argument.

IX. CHECKING TENTATIVE RULING PROCEDURES

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.54

26.54 Court Must State Tentative Ruling Procedure in Local Rules.

A court adopting a tentative ruling procedure must include the procedure in its local rules of court describing the procedure and set forth the telephone number and time for obtaining the ruling. If a court or a branch of a court adopts a tentative ruling procedure, then all judges in the court or branch must use that procedure for issuing tentative rulings. However, no judge is required to issue a tentative ruling [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1308(c)-(e)].

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
IX. CHECKING TENTATIVE RULING PROCEDURES

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.55

26.55 Court May Adopt One of Two Procedures.

Rules of court offer two tentative ruling procedures for a court to adopt:

- Make ruling available by telephone, and by any other method the court designates, by 3:00 p.m. on the court day before the scheduled hearing. The court must designate if oral argument is required, and may note any issues on which the court wishes the parties to provide further argument. If the court has not requested oral argument, it is permitted only upon telephonic or personal notice to the court and the other parties of a party's intent to appear by 4:00 on the court day prior to the hearing. Under this procedure, the tentative ruling becomes the court's ruling if the court has not directed oral argument and notice of intent to appear has not been given [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1308(a)(1)].
- The court makes the tentative ruling available by telephone and any other method it designates, by a specified time prior to the hearing, noting any issues on which the court wishes the parties to provide further argument at the hearing. The parties are not required to provide notice of intent to appear, and the tentative ruling does not automatically become the court's ruling if no notice is given. Rather, the court's final ruling is not tendered until after the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1308(a)(2)].

X. HEARINGS ON MOTIONS

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.57

26.57 Options and Strategies.

If presenting oral testimony, be sure all witnesses are in attendance and consider having them under subpoena. Be prepared to assert the grounds for permissive judicial notice and to rebut objections to evidence.

When arguing the case, do not merely recite the arguments in the moving and supporting papers. The court has already read your papers and wants clarification of difficult issues or questionable precedents.

Judge's Perspective:

Oral argument at a law and motion hearing is very difficult. You have to avoid repeating matters in your papers and you likewise have to make sure that your points have been emphasized. The best approach is to highlight those issues raised in your points and authorities and ask if the court has any questions or concerns with respect to a particular argument.

26.59 Hearing on Noticed Motion.

26.59[1] Clerk of Court Posts Schedule of Hearings. The clerk of the court is required to post a general schedule showing the days and departments for holding law and motion hearings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(a)].

Warning:

If a matter will not be heard on the date scheduled, the moving party must immediately notify the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(b)].

26.59[2] Moving Party Must Decide Whether to Submit Matter Without Appearance or Whether to Appear By Telephone. After the moving party provides notice to the other party, unless the court requires his or her appearance at the hearing on the noticed motion, upon filing a notice of nonappearance, the moving party may choose to submit the matter without appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(c)]. The party also may choose to appear by telephone even if the phrase "Telephone Appearance" was not indicated on the moving papers. To do so, the party must notify the court and all parties by oral or written notice at least 3 court days before the appearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(d)(1)(B)]. If another party has given notice of telephone appearance, other parties may notify the court and all other parties that have appeared in the action until noon on the court day before the appearance of their intent to appear by telephone [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(2)].

Warning:

If a party fails to appear at the hearing without providing a notice of nonappearance, the court may take the matter off the calendar, to be reset only on motion, or the court may rule on the matter [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(d)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearance by telephone, see 26.18 et seq.

26.59[3] If Moving Party Appears Court Will Consider Evidence and Arguments of Both Sides. Unless counsel for the moving party has given a notice or nonappearance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1304(c)], or the court does not direct oral argument in its tentative ruling and neither party has noticed an appearance, moving counsel will appear and present oral argument in support of the motion, and in opposition to any affidavit or declaration or memorandum served and filed by the opposing party. Opposing counsel may then present oral argument as to why the motion should not be granted or why it should be granted in a limited or conditional manner. Counsel for the moving party may rebut the opposing counsel's argument and submit matter to the court.

At the hearing, the court will consider evidence that has been submitted as part of the papers filed with the motion, including declarations, affidavits, and requests for judicial notice, without testimony or cross examination, except as allowed in the court's discretion for good cause shown [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a)]. The court may also consider oral evidence, if the party presenting the evidence has timely complied with the requirements for presenting oral testimony [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b); see 26.15].

XI. RULINGS, ORDERS & POST HEARING REQUIREMENTS

26.61 Options and Strategies.

If a proposed order has not been submitted with the moving papers, draft a proposed order and have it present during the hearing. If your motion is successful, the judge can sign the order immediately, which is especially important if immediate relief is needed.

Consider bringing a laptop computer to court with an electronic copy of the order. The order can be conformed to the court's ruling just after the hearing. Although many courts do not have the facilities to provide a printer, if a printer is available, the order can be signed a short time after the judge has ruled.

Judge's Perspective:

Proposed orders for the most part are very general in nature, because counsel do not necessarily know what points or basis the court will cite for the relief granted. Hence, trial judges generally assign the task of preparing the order to counsel that has prevailed.

➡ Cross Reference:

Chapter 26 Law and Motion Procedure
XI. RULINGS, ORDERS & POST HEARING REQUIREMENTS

2-26 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 26.62

26.62 Ruling on Motions and Entry of Orders.

26.62[1] Court Will Ordinarily Rule on Motion at Hearing.

26.62[1][a] Court Is Ordinarily Not Required to Make Specific Findings. Absent case or statutory law to the contrary, the general rule is that specific findings of fact as a basis for a particular order are to be made only upon issues joined by the pleadings under CCP § 590, where the decision of the court following the findings is a judgment, and otherwise, in fact, have no place in the court's ruling on a motion [ Waller v. Weston (1899) 125 C 201, 204, 57 P 892 ; see Allstate Ins. Co. v. Orlando (1968) 262 CA2d 858, 867, 69 CR 702 ; Skouland v. Skouland (1962) 201 CA2d 677, 679, 20 CR 185 ].

Exceptions:

Failure of the court to specify the matters set forth in CCP § 437c may provide a basis for writ relief (if the motion is denied) or appeal (if the motion is granted) from the order [CCP § 437c (summary judgment), CCP § 473.5 (default)].

26.62[1][b] If Motion Granted Moving Party Prepares Formal Order. If the motion is granted a formal order is usually required. If the order is prepared prior to hearing, it may be provided to the clerk for signature by the judge and for conforming the copies. If moving counsel prepares the order after the hearing, counsel should secure opposing counsel's approval as to form, and submit it to the judge for signature. Moving counsel will then have the copies conformed and served on the adverse party or his attorney [see CCP § 1015].

Distinguish:

Some courts may require counsel preparing the order to submit it to opposing counsel for approval as to form before the order is presented to the court for signature. In such case, the notation "Approved as to form" appears at the bottom of the order, and is sent to opposing counsel for his signature.

If the motion is denied, a formal order is not normally prepared. However, if the court requires a formal written order, opposing counsel will ordinarily prepare the order for signature.

Warning:

While a trial court may shift to counsel the burden of preparing a formal order on a motion for summary judgment under CCP § 437c(g), the total abdication of judicial responsibility is error. Thus, granting a summary judgment motion without any specification of the reasons for doing so, then directing counsel for the prevailing party to prepare an order including findings necessary to support the order, without telling the prevailing party what any of those findings should be, is not permitted [ Carnes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 688, 692, 23 CR3d 915 ].

26.62[2] Entry of Order on Motion Is by Minute Order or by Filing Formal Order With Clerk. An entry of order on the motion occurs by either the court's order to the clerk to enter a minute order, which when entered in the minutes is a written order of the court, or the court may make a formal order, the entry of which consists of filing the signed order with the clerk [ Eldridge v. Superior Court (1989) 208 CA3d 1350, 1354, 256 CR 724 ].

26.62[3] When Court Takes Matter Under Submission Clerk Notifies Parties of Court's Ruling. If the court takes matter under submission rather than ruling on the motion at the hearing, the court clerk is required to notify the parties of the court's ruling or order. The notification must specifically identify the matter ruled upon, and may be made by mail. Where there are multiple parties, the notification must identify the moving party, the party against whom relief was requested, and must specifically identify the particular motion ruled on [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1109; see also CCP § 664.5 ].

Warning:

Failure of the clerk to give the requisite notice does not extend the time provided by law for performing any act, except as provided in Cal Rules Ct, Rules 8.104(a), 8.751(a), respectively relating to notice of appeal. However, although notice by the clerk is not required by CCP § 664.5, notice by the court clerk may constitute notice that will commence the running of certain periods [see, e.g., notice given by the clerk of the court's order denying a motion for summary adjudication of issues begins the running of the period within which a party must petition for review by writ under CCP § 437c(m)].

26.62[4] Prevailing Party Must Provide Notice of Entry of Order. A prevailing party represented by counsel, and submitting an order or judgment for entry, must prepare and mail a copy of the notice of entry of order or judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding and file with the court the original notice of entry of judgment together with the proof of service by mail [ CCP § 664.5(a) ].

If the prevailing party is not represented by counsel, the clerk of the court is required to mail notice of entry of judgment to parties appearing in the action or proceeding, and execute a certificate of mailing that is placed in the court file [ CCP § 664.5(b) ].

Whether or not the order is one of which the clerk is required to give notice pursuant to CCP § 664.5, and whether or not the order is written or appealable, counsel for the prevailing party must give notice of the court's decision regarding a motion to all other parties or their attorneys, in the manner provided in CCP §§ 1010-1020 unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and entered in the minutes [ CCP §§ 1010-1020 ].

Strategic Point:

The ten-day deadline for filing a motion for reconsideration begins at the prevailing party's service of notice of the ruling, not the clerk's sending of notice [ Forrest v. Department of Corporations (2007) 150 CA4th 183, 203, 58 CR3d 466 (motion made more than ten days after clerk's mailing but less than ten days after prevailing party's service of notice was timely) ]. Accordingly, counsel for the prevailing party should consider serving notice of the ruling on a motion on the other party as soon as possible after the ruling in order to minimize the time for the other party to consider making a motion for reconsideration of the ruling on the motion.

Strategic Point:

Although a proposed order is not always required, the prevailing party should consider submitting a proposed order with the moving papers [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(m)] to avoid the five day approval period provided in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1312(a). If notice was not waived, but a minute order was entered, a notice of ruling can be used as an alternative to a more formal order. A notice of ruling will avoid the delays inherent in the use of a more formal order that must be approved as to form by opposing counsel.

26.62[5] Court Provides Notice of Order When Motion Granted or Denied On Its Own Motion. When a court grants or denies a motion on its own motion, the court is responsible for providing notice of its order in the manner provided in CCP §§ 1010-1020, unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [CCP § 1019.5(b)].

26.63 Order to Show Cause.

26.63[1] Order to Show Cause Is Used as Both Notice of Motion and Citation Requiring Party to Appear to Show Cause Why Requested Relief Should Not Be Granted. An order to show cause is in the nature of a citation to a party to appear at a stated time and place to show cause why the relief sought by the moving party should not be granted [ Green v. Gordon (1952) 39 C2d 230, 232, 246 P2d 38 ], and substitutes for a notice of motion [ Donald J. v. Evna M. (1978) 81 CA3d 929, 933, 147 CR 15 ; Marshank v. Superior Court (1960) 180 CA2d 602, 605, 4 CR 593 ], thereby operating as both a notice of motion for an order and a citation to a party to appear [ Difani v. Riverside County Oil Co. (1927) 201 C 210, 213-214, 256 P 210 ; see also Sarracino v. Superior Court (1974) 13 C3d 1, 8 n6, 118 CR 21, 529 P2d 53 ; Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 CA3d 479, 483-484, 114 CR 356 ].

26.63[2] Show Cause Proceeding Also Used to Secure Order Against Party Who Has Not Yet Appeared in Action. The order to show cause proceeding may attempt to secure an order against a party who has not appeared in the action or proceeding [ see CCP §§ 1010, 1014 ], although jurisdiction has been obtained over the party by service of summons, or will be obtained by such service concurrently with the service of the show cause order.

26.63[3] Order to Show Cause Is Made by Ex Parte Application. An order to show cause is made by the court or judge on ex parte application [ Kenney v. Kelleher (1883) 63 C 442, 444 ]. The application, like the affidavit or declaration submitted in support of a noticed motion [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a) ], must set forth evidentiary facts that would justify issuance of the order.

A memorandum may be necessary and is sometimes required by a party requesting an order to show cause [ see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1100, 3.1113(a) ; see also CCP § 527 (order to show cause in injunction), and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1176 (order to show cause why ex parte appointment of receiver should not be confirmed) ].

The procedure for obtaining a show cause order is the same as for obtaining an order on ex parte application, and the hearing on the show cause order is conducted in substantially the same manner as a hearing on a noticed motion, with the court having the discretion to admit or reject oral testimony [ Reifler v. Superior Court (1974) 39 CA3d 479, 485-486, 114 CR 356 ].

A judicial officer may impose reasonable money sanctions, not exceeding $1500, for violation of a lawful court order without good cause or substantial justification, by a witness, a party, his or her counsel, or both. This power does not apply to advocacy of counsel before the court [CCP § 177.5].

[SUMMARIZE the arguments set forth in the memorandum]

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

_____ [State facts relevant to the determination of the motion, e.g., Plaintiff seeks recovery of damages for personal injuries sustained in an automobile accident that occurred on _____ (date). As shown by the records of this court, the complaint was filed on _____ (date)].

[SET FORTH each point of law supporting your position, anticipating and, if desired, defusing the major arguments that the opposition will raise. The following points and authorities set forth as an example illustrate the manner in which points and authorities in support of a motion for judgment on the pleadings on the ground the action is barred by the statute of limitations might be set forth. Counsel should also insert argument between paragraphs when appropriate, showing the relationship between the facts of the present case and the point of law stated. If appropriate, the letter and introductory phrase or paragraph heading of each point should be included in the table of contents if one is required.]

III. A MOTION FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS IS PROPER TO RAISE THE BAR OF THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS AND MAY BE MADE AT ANY TIME BEFORE FINAL JUDGMENT IS ENTERED.

A. Nature of Motion. A motion for judgment on the pleadings is made on the same grounds and decided on the same basis as a general demurrer, and judgment on the pleadings for defendant is proper when the complaint on its face fails to state a cause of action ( Pierson v. Sharp Mem'l Hosp., Inc. (1989) 216 CA3d 340, 342, 264 CR 673 ).

B. Failure of Complaint to State Cause of Action. A complaint that shows on its face that the cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action and is subject to a general demurrer (Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e)), but the defect (bar of the statute) must be alleged (see Jessica H. v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1984) 155 CA3d 590, 592, 202 CR 239 (involving a demurrer)).

C. When Motion Can Be Made. A motion for judgment on the pleadings can be made at any time before final judgment is rendered ( Shabrick v. Moore (1961) 195 CA2d 56, 59, 15 CR 310 ).

IV. THE COMPLAINT SHOWS ON ITS FACT THAT THIS ACTION IS BARRED BY THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

A. When Cause of Action Accrues. A cause of action accrues when there is a remedy available ( Heyer v. Flaig (1969) 70 C2d 223, 230, 74 CR 225, 449 P2d 161 , overruled on other grounds, Laird v. Blacker (1992) 2 C4th 606, 7 CR2d 550, 828 P2d 691 ).

B. When Period of Limitation Starts. The period of limitation begins to run when a suit may be maintained ( Osborn v. Hopkins (1911) 160 C 501, 506, 117 P 519 ). In this action, the period of limitation began to run on _____[date], the date on which the automobile accident occurred.

C. Limitation on When Action Can Be Commenced. With exceptions not here applicable, civil actions can only be commenced within the periods prescribed in Code of Civil Procedure sections 312-365 (Code Civ. Proc. § 312).

D. Period of Limitation on Personal Injury Action. The period prescribed for the commencement of an action for injury to one caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another is two years (Code Civ. Proc. §§ 335, 335.1). Thus, to be timely in this case, the action would need to have been commenced before _____ [date].

E. When Is Action Commenced. An action is commenced, within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 312 et seq., when the complaint is filed (Code Civ. Proc. § 350). Here, the complaint was filed on _____ [date], _____ [specify number of days] after the limitation period expired.

[CONCLUSION if desired]

Based on the foregoing authorities, defendant respectfully requests an order granting his/her motion for judgment on the pleadings and dismissing the action.

APPLICATION

_____ [Party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] hereby applies for an order, pursuant to California Rules

of Court, Rule 3.1113(d), granting leave to file a memorandum in _____ [purpose of points and authorities, e.g., support of motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction] that is in excess of _____ [page limitation, e.g., 15] pages in length.

[EITHER, if proposed memorandum is attached]

[OR, if proposed memorandum is unavailable to present for evaluation]

_____ [Party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] seeks leave to file a memorandum not exceeding _____ [number of pages anticipated, e.g., 22] pages in length.

[CONTINUE]

This application is made on the grounds that good cause exists to permit a longer memorandum, and is based on the attached declaration of _____ [name of declarant attorney].

Attorney for _____ [moving party]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (moving party) or other statement as appropriate].

2. _____ [State facts showing reasons why the argument cannot be made within the page limit, e.g., The argument in support of defendant's motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction is an issue of first impression in this jurisdiction. An adequate analysis of this issue requires discussion of numerous authorities both inside and outside California. Unless the court grants leave to file a memorandum in support of this motion that exceeds 15 pages, defendant will be denied the opportunity to present to the court a complete analysis of an issue central to the entire action.

[3. A copy of the drafted memorandum is attached hereto and made a part hereof.]

4. On _____ [date], at _____ [time], I provided written notice to _____ [name], attorney for _____ [party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] of _____'s [applicant's party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] intention to make this application for leave to file the memorandum specified above in excess of the applicable page limit, that the notice provided the date, time, and manner of the application as noted above, _____ [specify facts demonstrating means of written notice, e.g., as set forth in the attached proof of personal service].

5. I _____ [have or have not] received a response to this application, and I _____ [do or do not] expect opposition to this application.

6. California Rules of Court, Rule 3.1113(d) provides the basis for granting ex parte relief as requested in this application, rather than setting this matter for hearing on notice motion.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [name of declarant]

SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

I. AN EX PARTE APPLICATION TO FILE A MEMORANDUM IN EXCESS OF THE APPLICABLE PAGE LIMITATION IS PROPER AND SHOULD BE GRANTED WHEN SUPPORTED BY REASONS WHY THE ARGUMENT CANNOT BE MADE WITHIN THE STATED LIMIT.

A. Ex Parte Relief. A party may apply to the court ex parte for permission to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limits when written notice of the application is given to other parties at least 24 hours before the memorandum is due [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(d)]. Written notice of this ex parte application was given to _____ [name], attorney for _____ [party] on _____ [date] and this application is presented on _____ [date].

B. Reasons to Exceed Page Limits. An application to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limits must state the reasons why the argument cannot be made within the stated limit [Cal Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1113(d)]. The supporting declaration incorporated in this application provides sufficient reasons to exceed the page limit so the court is properly informed of the issues before it.

PROPOSED ORDER

[EITHER, if proposed memorandum is attached] Good cause appearing, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

The application of _____ [party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] for leave to file the memorandum attached to the declaration of _____ [name of declarant attorney] in support of this application is GRANTED.

[OR, if the proposed memorandum is unavailable for the court's evaluation]

Good cause appearing, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

The application of _____ [party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] for leave to file a memorandum in _____ [specify purpose of memorandum, e.g., support of motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction] that is in excess of _____ [number, e.g., 15] pages is GRANTED; and

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
I. STRATEGY

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.02

27.02 Objective and Strategy.

There are specific, mandatory rules governing service of papers. [see, e.g., CCP § 1013 (method of service)]. Service must be effected properly [see, e.g., Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 CA4th 503, 511, 33 CR2d 572 (failure to comply with statutory requirements for service by mail deprives a court of jurisdiction to act)]. Rules for service of papers are primarily set forth in CCP §§ 1005, 1010-1020 and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.300 et seq.

Warning--Mistakes Are Costly:

Compliance with notice provisions is the most important aspect of an attorney's practice. Ensuring strict compliance should not be left to others, as a client's rights can be irretrievably lost, subjecting an attorney to a malpractice action or sanctions. Some sanctions are mandatory; other sanctions may be imposed by the court. In addition, the client whose case is compromised by attorney mistakes will want an explanation of the error and appropriate remedies. Moreover, proper notice and service are fundamental element of due process, and failure to abide by the statutes and rules will often render any judgment or order void or subject to collateral attack.

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

If statute calls for filing on or before a date and that date falls on a weekend or holiday, court may rule that filing may not be done on the next court day [ Steele v. Bartlett (1941) 18 C2d 573, 573, 116 P2d 780 ].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
II. DETERMINING TIME FOR SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.04

27.04 Options and Strategies.

27.04[1] Type of Procedure Determines Time Requirements. Time requirements vary based on the procedure involved. Review the statute governing the procedure involved and determine the precise time requirements. Be sure to check the exact statute for the procedure, and do not allow a general understanding of the subject area to misdirect you to the wrong statute.

Example--Not All Motions Have the Same Time Requirements:

Motions are an example of a procedure where practitioners can make mistakes. Most motions must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing [see CCP § 1005(a), (b)]. However, motions for summary judgment require notice 75 days before hearing [CCP § 437c(a)]. Motions for failure to dismiss requires notice 45 days before hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342]. Completely read the appropriate statute, and if there are no specific time requirements then review the statutes governing time and method when not otherwise prescribed by law or by court or judge [see CCP § 1005(a)(13), (b)].

Distinguish--Service of Summons:

Service of summons, which notifies a defendant of the complaint and brings that person under the jurisdiction of the court, is distinct from service of papers and has its own time requirements, proof of service, and extensions of time. Do not confuse the two terms when reviewing statutes and opinions.

Strategic Point:

Before undertaking the contemplated procedure, review these factors and consider whether time constraints will affect the specific procedure and the overall litigation relative to:

- The stage of the proceedings.
- The overall strategy of the case.

- How much discovery is needed or already provided.
- Costs.
- Subsequent procedures available.
- Procedures no longer available.

Cross References:

See chapter on specific procedure for time requirements.

Discussion of noticed motions, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

Discussion of service of summons, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

27.04[2] Non-Personal Service Extends Time Requirements. Personal service is complete on the day made, but the following non-personal methods of service extend the statutory notice time, as well as the time for a right or duty to do any act or make a response after the notice [see CCP §§ 1005, 1010.6, 1101, 1013]:

- Mail.
- Express mail or overnight delivery.
- Facsimile transmission.
- Electronic.

Warning:

Fax transmissions may only be utilized if counsel agrees in writing [CCP § 1013(e)]. Electronic service may only be used if the party indicates that he or she will accept electronic service by filing and serving a notice of agreement to accept electronic services or by electronically filing any document with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(a)(2)].

Cross References:

Discussion of time extensions based on type of procedure and method of service, see 27.07.

Discussion of noticed motion, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

27.04[3] Court Orders and Local Court Rules May Change Time Requirements. Always review the court file and your own file for court orders extending or shortening time [see, e.g., CCP § 1005(b) (court may prescribe a shorter time for notice of motion, filing of opposition and reply papers)].

Always consult local court rules for additional requirements relating to service of papers [see, e.g., Sacramento Co. Rules Ct, Rule 3.03(B), (C) (opposition and reply papers to be served by means to ensure receipt within 24 hours of filing on penalty of sanctions or court's discretion not to consider document)].

27.04[4] Party May Request Time Requirements Be Shortened or Extended. A party may request the court to shorten the time in which to do an act [see, e.g., CCP § 1005(b) (court may prescribe a time shorter than the 16 court days required for notice motion)], or request the court to extend the time in which to do an act or seek a stipulation to extend time [see CCP § 1054].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
II. DETERMINING TIME FOR SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.06

27.06 Computing Time Within Which an Act Must Be Done.

27.06[1] Exclude First Day and Include Last Unless Last Is Holiday. Generally, the time for determining when an act must be done is computed by excluding the first day and including the last, unless the last day is considered a holiday. If the last day of the period within which an act is to be done is a holiday, the period is extended to the next day that is not a holiday [see CCP § 12a].

Warning:

If statute calls for filing on or before a date and that date falls on a weekend or holiday, court may rule that filing may not be done on the next court day [ Steele v. Bartlett (1941) 18 C2d 573, 573, 116 P2d 780 ].

27.06[2] Holidays Are Enumerated in Statute and Include Weekends. The following constitute judicial holidays [see CCP § 12a]:

- Every Saturday and Sunday [CCP §§ 10, 12a, 135].
- All days specified in CCP §§ 10, 12a [referencing CCP § 135; Gov Code § 6700]:
  - ☐ New Year's Day (January 1).
  - ☐ Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day (3rd Monday in January).
  - ☐ Lincoln Day (February 12th).
  - ☐ Presidents' Day (3rd Monday in February).
  - ☐ Cesar Chavez Day (March 31).

- ☐ Good Friday from 12 noon to 3 p.m.
- ☐ Memorial Day (last Monday in May).
- ☐ Independence Day (July 4).
- ☐ Labor Day (first Monday in September).
- ☐ Admission Day (September 9).
- ☐ Columbus Day (second Monday in October).
- ☐ Veterans Day (November 11).
- ☐ Thanksgiving Day.
- ☐ Day after Thanksgiving Day.
- ☐ Christmas Day (December 25).
- ☐ Every day appointed by the President or Governor for a public fast, thanksgiving, or holiday.

■ "Admission Day" on September 9 is listed in Gov Code § 6700 although not specified in CCP §§ 10, 12a.

■ When any city, county, state, or public office, other than a branch office, is closed for the whole day, the day is considered a holiday [CCP § 12b].

■ If January 1st, February 12th, March 31st, July 4th, September 9th, November 11th, or December 25th falls upon a Sunday, the Monday following is a holiday. If November 11th falls upon a Saturday, the preceding Friday is a holiday [Gov Code § 6701]. If any holiday designated in Gov Code § 6700 falls on a Saturday, the board of supervisors of any county may by ordinance or resolution provide that an alternate day must be a holiday for the employees of the county, except those employees of the county working as court attaches [Gov Code § 6701].

27.06[3] Distinguishing Between Calendar Days and Court Days. Depending on the statute or rule of court, service may be based on either calendar days or court days. Calendar days are determined using a standard calendar, and the time in which an act provided by law is to be done is computed by excluding the first day and including the last, unless the last day is a holiday, and then it is also excluded [CCP § 12].

A "court day" may be defined as any day in which the court is not closed due to a judicial holiday [see CCP §§ 133, 134]. While courts of justice may be held and business transacted on any day, [CCP § 133], courts must be closed for the transaction of judicial business on judicial holidays, for all but the following purposes [CCP § 134(a), (b)]:

- To give, upon request, instructions to a deliberating jury.
- To receive a verdict or discharge a jury.
- For arraignments in criminal actions.
- For Saturday Small Claims court sessions.
- For injunctions and writs of prohibition, which may be issued and served on any day.

The fact that a court is open on a judicial holiday cannot make that day a non holiday for purposes of computing the time required for the conduct of any proceeding nor for the performance of any act [CCP § 134(d)].

If a day appointed for the holding or sitting of a court, or to which it is adjourned, falls on a judicial holiday, it is deemed appointed for or adjourned to the next day [CCP § 134(d)].

A court may designate one or more departments to remain open on a judicial holiday or at any hours of the day or night [CCP § 134(c)], however these courts are still judicial holidays for purposes of computing the time required for the conduct of any proceeding or for the performance of any act [CCP § 134(d)]; and any paper lodged with the court during that time must be filed by the court on the next day that is a non-judicial holiday if the document meets the filing criteria [CCP § 134(d)].

II. DETERMINING TIME FOR SERVICE

27.07 Computing Time Extensions Based on Procedure and Type of Service.

27.07[1] Notice for CCP § 1005 Motions Is Extended 2 to 20 Days Depending on Method of Nonpersonal Service. CCP § 1005 motions require notice be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. For non-personal service, the 16-day period is increased by:

● Mail:

- ☐ 5 calendar days if place of mailing and place of address are within California.
- ☐ 10 calendar days if either place of mailing or place of address is outside California, but within United States.
- ☐ 20 calendar days if place of mailing or place of address is outside United States.

● Facsimile transmission, express mail, or overnight delivery:

- ☐ 2 calendar days.

27.07[2] CCP § 1005 Motions Not Affected by CCP § 1013 Extension of Time for Right or Duty to Act After Notice. CCP § 1013, which extends the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done, does not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, papers opposing a motion, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)]. CCP § 1005 includes extensions within its terms.

Timing:

All papers opposing a CCP § 1005 noticed motion must be filed with court and a copy served on each party at least nine court days before the hearing and all reply papers at least five court days before the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)].

 Cross Reference:

Motion practice, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

27.07[3] Nonpersonal Service of Notice Extends Right or Duty to Act or Respond Under CCP § 1013. When not otherwise provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, notices and other papers are served as prescribed by CCP §§ 1010-1020 [CCP § 1010]. Any notice period and any right or duty to act or respond within a certain time after service of the document is increased by:

■ Mail [CCP § 1013(a)]:

- ☐ 5 calendar days if place of mailing and place of address are within California.
- ☐ 10 calendar days if either place of mailing or place of address is outside California, but within United States.
- ☐ 20 calendar days if place of mailing or place of address is outside United States.

■ Facsimile transmission [CCP § 1013(e)]:

- ☐ 2 court days.

■ Express mail or overnight delivery [CCP § 1013(c)]:

- ☐ 2 court days.

■ Electronic service [CCP § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(e)(2)]:

- ☐ 2 court days.

Example:

Ten-day period to file CCP § 170.6 peremptory challenge to judge's assignment is extended 5 days if the clerk mails the notice of the judge's all purpose assignment to party's California address [ California Bus. Council for Equal Opportunity v. Superior Court (1997) 52 CA4th 1100, 1103, 62 CR2d 7 ].

Trap--CCP § 1005 Motions:

These time extensions do not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)]. CCP § 1005 includes extensions within its terms.

Exception:

The extensions of time do not apply to [CCP §§ 1013(a), 1010.6(a)(6); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(e)(3)]:

- Filing notice of intention to move for new trial.
- Filing notice of intention to move to vacate judgment.
- Filing notice of appeal.

Consider:

Notice by facsimile, express mail, overnight delivery, or electronic service is increased two "court" days instead of two "calendar" days.

27.07[4] CCP § 1013 Extensions Do Not Apply to Jurisdictional Deadlines. CCP § 1013 extensions do not apply to jurisdictional deadlines [ Department of Indus. Relations, Div. of Labor Standards Enforcement v. Atlantic Baking Co., Inc. (2001) 89 CA4th 891, 895, 108 CR2d 44 ; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(e)(2) (CCP § 1013 does not apply to petition for writ of mandate from Order issued by Labor Commissioner)].

27.07[5] CCP § 1013 Extensions Only Apply If Service Required. CCP § 1013 time extensions apply only when the relevant time limit begins to run from the service of a document to which a response is directed [ Citicorp N. Am., Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 213 CA3d 563, 568, 261 CR 668 ]. When the time period is commenced by an act other than service, there is no extension of time [ Camper v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd., J.C. Penney Co., Inc. (1992) 3 C4th 679, 684, 12 CR2d 101, 836 P2d 888 ; *Department of Indus. Relations, Div. of Labor Standards Enforcement v. Chapter 27 Service of Papers
III. SHORTENING TIME

27.09 Options and Strategies.

27.09[1] Consider Necessity of Shortening Time. The strategies underlying a request to shorten time are determined by the context in which the request is being made. Other chapters in this publication addressing specific procedures discuss the strategic use of a request to shorten time in context. Factors to be considered in shortening time include:

- Whether procedure sought may be noticed using statutory time requirements.
- Urgency of obtaining relief.
- Stage of the proceedings.
- Time lines set by statute and the court.
- Statutes and local rules restricting shortening of time.
- Time extensions depending on manner of service.
- Court's calendar and assigned judge's availability.
- Availability of witnesses.
- Need to coordinate hearing on related motions.
- Opposing party's willingness to stipulate to shorten time.

27.09[2] Consider Whether to Use Ex Parte Application, or Stipulation. Because of the nature of an order shortening time, giving the standard 16-day notice of motion [see CCP § 1005(b)] would defeat the purpose of the motion, so the order is commonly sought ex parte. Another alternative to shortening time is to seek the stipulation of all opposing parties to shorten time.

Warning:

For motions for summary judgment, the court may not order the shortening of the 75-day-notice period; however, the parties can stipulate to it [ McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 118, 130 CR2d 407 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of stipulations in general, see Ch. 28, Stipulations.

27.09[3] Consider Provisions That Shorten Time for Discovery. Several statutes for shortening time periods relating to various discovery procedures should be considered.

To shorten time periods related to various discovery procedures under the Discovery Act, see CCP § 2016.010 et seq. operative July 1, 2005].

- For shortening notice required before a deposition [see CCP § 2025.270(d)].
- To shorten time before plaintiff's propounding of interrogatories [see CCP § 2030.020(d)].
- To shorten time for responding to interrogatories [see CCP § 2030.260(a), (b)].
- To shorten time before plaintiff's demand for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling [see CCP § 2031.020(d)].
- To shorten time for responding to requests for production or entry [see CCP § 2031.260].
- To shorten time before plaintiff's request for admissions [see CCP § 2033.020(d)].
- To shorten time for responding to requests for admissions [see CCP § 2033.250].
- To shorten time for periods for service of documents related to the subpoenaing of personal records of a consumer, or their employment record [see CCP §§ 1985.3(h), 1985.6(g)].

III. SHORTENING TIME

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.10

27.10 Shortening Time by Noticed Motion Uncommon.

The very nature of shortening time usually precludes the use of a noticed motion since time is of the essence. However, if a party is aware that a motion or other procedure is going to occur in the future and that certain litigation time constraints may affect the motion, the party may file a noticed motion to shorten time for service.

Warning:

For motions for summary judgment, the court may not order the shortening of the 75-day-notice period; however, the parties can stipulate to it [ McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 118, 130 CR2d 407 ].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
III. SHORTENING TIME

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.11

27.11 Shortening Time by Ex Parte Application Is Common Method.

27.11[1] Ex Parte Application Is Made As a Necessity. Ex parte applications are permitted when there is a showing of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for granting ex parte relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(c)]. The very nature of shortening time dictates that there is insufficient time to follow the statutory time requirements; therefore, of necessity, an order shortening time is usually obtained ex parte.

27.11[2] Shortening Time for Filing and Serving Motion Papers Requires Good Cause. An ex parte application for an order shortening the time requirements of CCP § 1005 for filing and service of motion papers must be supported with a declaration showing good cause for the order [Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.1300(b)].

27.11[3] Follow Standard Ex Parte Application Procedure. Ex parte applications require [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq.]:

- Notice to all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance unless exceptional circumstances justify a shorter time [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1203].
- The notice to the opposing party to state the specific nature of the relief requested, the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application, and whether the application will be opposed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(a)].
- A declaration that notice was given to the opposing party as required, that the applicant tried in good faith but was unable to inform the opposing party of the application, or that the applicant, for reasons specified, should not be required to inform the opposing party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(b)].
- The application to state the contact information for all parties' attorneys and whether a similar ex parte application has been previously made and the court's rulings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(a), (b)].
- The application be in writing and include [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201, 3.1202(c)]:

- Case caption and relief requested.

- ☐ Declaration in support of application containing affirmative factual showing containing competent testimony based on personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for relief.
- ☐ Declaration that notice given.
- ☐ Memorandum.
- ☐ Proposed order.

Cross References:

Forms, see 27.43, 27.44.

Discussion of ex parte applications and motions, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.23 et seq.

Strategic Points--Applicant:

Provide compelling reasons for shortening time in the supporting declaration. While good cause is expressly required for shortening time of a CCP § 1005 motion, it is highly unlikely the court will shorten other notice periods without a similar showing of good cause.

If the ex parte application is to shorten time on a motion, include a copy of the motion with the ex parte application or provide an explanation for not doing so. If the motion is not attached, include a time and date for service of the motion in the ex parte order.

Warning:

Counsel should check local rules for ex parte applications including procedures for paying filing fees and obtaining the case file, the time for presenting ex parte applications to the judge, and special service requirements.

27.11[4] Personal Appearance Required at Hearing With Some Exceptions. Personal appearance of the applicant is required at the hearing except if the application is to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limit, to extend time to serve pleadings, to set hearing dates on alternative writs and orders to show cause, or for stipulations by the parties or other orders of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1207].

III. SHORTENING TIME

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.12

27.12 Shortening Time by Stipulation Available.

A stipulation is effective at any stage of an action or proceeding when filed with the clerk, or entered on the minutes of the court [CCP § 283(1)]. When there is an attorney of record, the attorney's signature or assent is required on the stipulation before the conduct or disposal of an action can be entertained by the court [ Wells Fargo & Co. v. City & County of San Francisco (1944) 25 C2d 37, 42-43, 152 P2d 625 ].

Warning:

Be sure to have all parties affected by the shortening of time sign the stipulation.

Strategic Point--Written Stipulation:

Stipulations may be in writing or orally entered into the minutes of the court. Because notice is an essential element of due process, execute a written stipulation shortening time, even if there is an oral agreement, to guard against any confusion about the extent of the stipulation and to avoid collateral attack of the motion or procedure sought.

Strategic Point--Ex Parte Motions:

If there is any question whether a stipulation to shorten time will be accepted by the court, submit the stipulation as part of an ex parte application to shorten time.

Consider:

Trial Court Delay Reduction rules affect the shortening and extension of time. While the court may be in favor of shortening time to speed up the litigation, be sure to check local rules of court to see whether notice periods for certain motions and procedures can or cannot be shortened.

III. SHORTENING TIME

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.13

27.13 Objecting to Request to Shorten Time.

27.13[1] Attend Ex Parte Hearing to Shorten Time and Assert Defects. Appear at the ex parte hearing to shorten time and assert defects in the notice of the application and/or the declaration in support of the motion. Establish that good cause does not exist to grant the application.

27.13[2] Seek Relief Under CCP § 473 If Ex Parte Application Granted. A party may seek relief from an order against the party for mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [CCP § 473(b)]. The court may grant the application without the opposing party's appearance at the hearing, especially if the court finds that notice of the application was not required. In this event, file a CCP 473 motion ex parte asserting defects in the application and no good cause to shorten time. Do this immediately after receiving notice of the order shortening time.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of relief from orders under CCP § 473(b) and related equitable relief, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 29.10 et seq.

27.13[3] Attend the Noticed Hearing but Assert Only Defects in the Notice to Avoid Waiver. Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion, or failure to provide notice at all to the adverse party may be challenged without waiving the defects or irregularities by an appearance in opposition to the motion for the limited purpose of objecting to a consideration of the motion by the court on the ground of insufficiency of the notice [ Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 C 532, 538-539, 129 P 981 ].

Consider:

Counsel should not insist on asserting the notice requirements unless there is a valid reason for doing so. Otherwise, the court may feel that counsel is engaging in gamesmanship to avoid addressing the merits of an issue.

 Trap--Avoid Waiver of Issue:

Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion, and failure to give notice at all, are normally waived by the adverse party's appearance at the hearing on the motion and opposing to it on its merits [ Carlton v.

Quint (2000) 77 CA4th 690, 697-698, 91 CR2d 844 ; Vlahovich v. Cruz (1989) 213 CA3d 317, 320, 261 CR 565 ; Tate v. Superior Court (1975) 45 CA3d 925, 930, 119 CR 835 ].

In challenging the absence of notice or defective notice counsel or the adverse party may also appear at the hearing and request a continuance for the purpose of preparing a proper response, making a complete record regarding the notice for appellate purposes in the event the continuance is denied. Alternately, counsel may file an opposition to the motion based on the notice irregularities and the merits, and appear at the hearing to object to the hearing proceeding based upon defective and/or inadequate notice, and requesting a continuance.

Warning:

Counsel may request a continuance at the hearing to prepare a proper response and complete record, or file opposition to the hearing based on defective and/or inadequate notice. Counsel should be prepared to argue the motion on the merits if the court rejects the request for continuance.

Discussion of opposing defective noticed motions, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.48.

IV. EXTENDING TIME

27.15 Options and Strategies.

27.15[1] Consider Necessity of Extending Time. The strategies underlying a request to extend time are determined by the context in which the request is being made. Other chapters in this publication addressing specific procedures discuss the strategic use of a request to extend time in context. The factors considered for extending time are often the same as those for shortening time.

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of factors for shortening time, see 27.09[1].

27.15[2] Consider Whether to Use Ex Parte Application or Stipulation. Because of the nature of an order extending time, giving the standard 16-court-day notice of motion [see CCP § 1005(b)] would defeat the purpose of the motion, so it is commonly done ex parte or pursuant to an ex parte application for an order shortening time. Another alternative to extending time is to seek the stipulation of all opposing parties to extend time.

27.15[3] Consider Statutes Expressly Denying or Permitting Extensions of Time Based on Procedure Sought. Specific statutes prohibit time extensions and the computation of time within which to act:

- CCP § 1013 as not extending notice of trial requirements for unlawful detainer actions [CCP § 594].
- CCP § 1013 as not extending time to move to vacate or set aside judgment [CCP § 594].
- No extension of time to file notice of intention to move for new trial [CCP § 659].
- Notice of appeal may not be extended [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.752].

Specific statutes permit extensions of time based on procedure sought:

- Extensions following CCP § 418.10 motion to quash service of summons, stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum, or dismiss for delay in prosecution [CCP § 418.10(b), (c)].

- Extension by filing motion to strike [CCP § 435].
- Court extending time for answer or demurrer [CCP § 473(a)]; stipulated extension of 15 days, or extension as permitted by local rules, for responsive pleading [Gov Code § 68616(b)].
- Court extending period of attachment [CCP § 488.510].
- Court postponing trial due to amendment [CCP § 594a].
- Postponement of trial or demurrer for not more than 30 days on written stipulation of parties [CCP § 595.2].
- Extension to serve and file affidavits (as opposed to the notice) for new trial motion [CCP § 659a].
- Extensions related to bond or undertaking [CCP § 995.050].
- Extensions in unlawful detainer actions not to exceed 10 days [CCP § 1167.5].

27.15[4] State Legislators Given Special Time Extensions. When a party whose attorney is a member of the state legislature seeks an extension for acts to be done in any action or proceeding in a state court or before a state administrative agency the time allowed for the act must be extended to a date certain. The extension is available for acts that relate to the pleadings, the preparation of bills of exceptions, or their amendments, or the services of notices [see CCP § 1054.1]. When a member of the State Legislature is a party, the attorney of record, or the principal witness, the trial of any civil action/proceeding in state court, or any administrative hearing, or the hearing of any motion, demurrer, or other proceeding must be postponed to a date certain, similar to the circumstances and conditions in CCP § 1054.1 [see CCP § 595].

Prerequisite:

To qualify for the extension, the Legislature must be in session, or in recess for less than 41 days, or the attorney must a member of a legislative committee that is meeting or supposed to meet [see CCP § 1054.1].

27.16 Broad Range of Acts May Have Time Extended.

CCP § 1054 authorizes extension of time for:

- Any act that relates to the pleadings in an action.
- Notices of motion.
- Any act that relates to bonds [see CCP § 995.010 et seq.].
- Any act that relates to the preparation of bills of exception and their amendments.

Exception:

Services of notice of the following acts cannot have their time extended [see CCP §§ 659, 1054]:

- Notice of appeal.
- Notice of intention to move for a new trial.

IV. EXTENDING TIME

27.17 Extensions Must Be Requested During Period in Which Act Must Be Done.

The court may only grant an extension during the period of time within which the act must be done; therefore an order extending time after a deadline to act has passed will be void [see Coast Elec. Serv., Inc. v. Jensen (1931) 111 CA 124, 126, 295 P 346].

Exception:

If the time for performance is not jurisdictional, relief may be granted for filing late under CCP § 473(b), based on mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [see Lee v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (2001) 88 CA4th 1187, 1190-1191, 1193, 106 CR2d 726 (relief under CCP § 473 from late filing of memorandum of costs); Cornell Univ. Med. Coll. v. Superior Court (1974) 38 CA3d 311, 314-315, 113 CR 291 (relief for excusable inadvertence granted when petition for writ of mandate was misdirected by messenger; extension could have been granted under CCP § 418.10(c))].

27.18 Good Cause Showing Required for Extension.

"Good cause" for the extension must be shown [CCP § 1054].

Distinguish:

CCP § 473 extension for responsive pleading does not require "good cause" but does require extension order to be in furtherance of justice.

Consider--No Precise Definition of What Constitutes Good Cause:

Generally "good cause" has been defined as requesting a "factual exposition of a reasonable ground for the sought order. The good cause may be equated to a good reason for a party's failure to perform that specific requirement from which he seeks to be excused" [see Waters v. Superior Court (1962) 58 C2d 885, 893, 27 CR 153, 377 P2d 265 ].

IV. EXTENDING TIME

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.19

27.19 Extension Limited to 30 Days Unless Adverse Party Consents to Longer Time.

An extension of time cannot exceed 30 days unless the adverse party consents [CCP § 1054(a)]. An order granting an extension beyond 30 days without the adverse party's consent is void [see Kennedy v. Mulligan (1902) 136 C 556, 557, 69 P 291 ].

Distinguish:

Previous extensions of time by stipulation of all parties are not included in the computation of the 30-day time limitation [CCP § 1054(b)].

Warning:

Although technically no limit exists for the extension of time to answer or demur under CCP § 473(a), other sections of the Code of Civil Procedure without specified limits have been interpreted to be subject to the 30-day limitation that exists under CCP § 1054 [see Lewith v. Rehmke (1933) 217 C 563, 565, 20 P2d 687 ].

27.20 Extending Time by Noticed Motion Uncommon.

The very nature of extending time usually precludes the use of a noticed motion since time is of the essence. ### 27.21 Extending Time by Ex Parte Application.

27.21[1] Establish Necessity of Application. Ex parte applications are permitted when there is a showing of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or an other statutory basis for granting ex parte relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(c)].

27.21[2] Follow Standard Ex Parte Procedure. Ex parte applications require [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq.]:

- Notice to all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance unless exceptional circumstances justify a longer time [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1203].
- The notice to the opposing party state the specific nature of the relief requested, the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application, and whether the application will be opposed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(a)].
- A declaration that notice was given to the opposing party as required, that the applicant tried in good faith but was unable to inform the opposing party of the application, or that the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(b)].
- The application state the contact information for all parties' attorneys and whether a similar ex parte application has been previously made and the court's rulings [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1202(a), (b), 2.20(b)].
- The application be in writing and include [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201]:
  - ☐ Case caption and relief requested.
  - ☐ Declaration in support of application containing affirmative factual showing containing competent testimony based on personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for relief.

- ☐ Declaration that notice given.
- ☐ Memorandum.
- ☐ Proposed order.

Exception:

If filing an ex parte application for extension of time to serve pleadings on Judicial Council Form CM-020, a supporting memorandum is not required, but one may be submitted if it would further the interests of justice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1114(a)(2), (b)].

27.21[3] Application Must Be Made to Judge Before Whom Matter Pending. Applications for orders extending time must be heard and determined by the judge before whom the matter is pending; however, another judge of the same court may hear the application if the first judge is unable to hear the application due to inability, death, or absence [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.20(a)].

27.21[4] Previous Time Extensions Must Be Disclosed. Applications for orders extending time must disclose in writing the nature of the case and what extensions, if any, have previously been granted by court order or stipulation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.20(b)].

27.21[5] Personal Appearance Required at Hearing With Some Exceptions. Personal appearance of the applicant is required at the hearing except if the application is to file a memorandum in excess of the applicable page limit, to extend time to serve pleadings, to set hearing dates on alternative writs and orders to show cause, or for stipulations by the parties or other orders of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1207].

27.22 Extending Time by Stipulation.

27.22[1] Parties May Stipulate to Extend Time but Delay Reduction Act May Restrict Length of Extension.

Upon a showing of good cause, the court must grant an extension of time when all attorneys of record of the parties stipulate to extend time [CCP § 1054(a), (b)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 27.45.

Warning--Trial Court Delay Reduction Act:

The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act can in some aspects limit time extensions by stipulation. The act specifically allows for:

- Stipulations to extend time to serve responsive pleadings by 15 days after service of complaint [see Gov Code § 68616(b)].
- Stipulations that allow for a single continuance not to exceed 30 days, provided the stipulation is made within 30 days of service of the responsive pleadings [see Gov Code § 68616(d)].

Warning--Local Rules:

Local rules may have specific provisions that govern the manner and procedure by which parties can stipulate to extend time.

27.22[2] Previous Stipulation to Extend Time Not Used to Compute 30-Day Limit. Previous extensions of time by stipulation of all parties are not included in the computation of the 30-day time limitation [CCP § 1054(b)].

27.22[3] Stipulating to Extend Time to Plead Not Normally a General Appearance. Applying to the court for, or stipulating to, an extension of time to plead is not a general appearance for a defendant [see CCP § 418.10(d)].

However, a stipulation that extends the time "within which to appear" may be held to be a general appearance [see RCA Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 47 CA3d 1007, 1009-1010, 121 CR 441 , but see CCP § 418.10]; and stipulations that also accept service of the summons and complaint are held to be general appearances [see General Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 C3d 449, 452-453, 124 CR 745, 541 P2d 289 ].

27.24 Objecting to a Request to Extend Time.

A party need not stipulate to a request to extend time. If a properly noticed ex parte application is made, attend the hearing and assert lack of good cause for the extension and to argue against the application. If notice was improper, make a limited appearance at the hearing to assert defective notice only to avoid waiver of improper notice.

Consider:

Counsel should act to protect their client; however, this should be tempered with professional courtesy. Objections to extending time should only be used to obtain a quid pro quo or to protect the ultimate rights of the client. Avoid leaving the court with the impression that you are "playing games."

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
V. IDENTIFYING PERSONS TO BE SERVED AND ADDRESSES

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.26

27.26 Parties Must Provide Information for Service.

Each party must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.254]:

- Furnish the first-named plaintiff with its current address for service of notice when it first appears in the action;
- Furnish the first-named plaintiff with any changes in its address for service of notice; and
- If it serves an order, notice, or pleading on a party who has not yet appeared in the action, serve a copy of the list at the same time as the order, notice, or pleading is served.

If more than two parties have appeared in a case and are represented by different counsel, the plaintiff named first in the complaint must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.254(a)]:

- Maintain a current list of the parties and the address for service of notice on each party; and,
- Furnish a copy of the list on request to any party or the court.

Consider:

Whether a party is represented by counsel or acting in pro per can change throughout litigation, and substitution of counsel is common. Be sure to track the status of the adverse party's representation to avoid improper service and/or improper contact with a party represented by counsel. Diligent counsel should monitor all pleadings, petitions, written notices of motion, or other similar papers because they must be signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney's individual name, or, if the party is not represented by counsel, the documents must be signed by the party [see CCP § 128.7].

In addition, if an attorney or pro per litigant has only provided a P.O. box, request a physical address either by agreement or court order. Otherwise, service cannot be made personally or by express mail or overnight delivery.

Record Keeping:

Monitor the address of the opposing party's last document filed and served on your client because that is the address used for service by mail [CCP § 1013(a), (c)]; the fax number on the last document filed and served is the fax number for service by facsimile [CCP § 1013(e)].

V. IDENTIFYING PERSONS TO BE SERVED AND ADDRESSES

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.27

27.27 Service Required on Attorney of Record If Party Represented by Counsel.

27.27[1] Service on Attorney Instead of Party. In all cases where a party has an attorney in the action or proceeding, service must be on the attorney and not the party, except when service involves subpoenas, writs, and other process issued in the suit, and papers for contempt [CCP § 1015; Cal Rules Prof C, Rule 2-100].

"Service," as defined by the Rules of Court, means service in the manner provided by statute or rule [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.6(19)]. The rules provide further that a notice or other paper required to be served on or given to a party must be served on the party's attorney if there is one [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.21(a)].

Warning:

If a substitution of counsel has occurred, the former attorney is still recognized as attorney of record until written notice of the substitution is given to the adverse party [see CCP § 285]. For discussion of substitution of counsel, see Ch. 3, Beginning and Terminating the Attorney-Client Relationship, 3.34.

27.27[2] Exceptions to Service on Attorney of Record.

27.27[2][a] Serve Party With Subpoenas, Writs, and Contempt Documents. Subpoenas, certain writs, and other process issued in the suit, and papers to bring the party into contempt must be served on the party, not the attorney [CCP §§ 1015, 1016].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of contempt of court, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 23, Contempt.

27.27[2][b] Serve Party If Attorney Removed or Suspended From Practice of Law. If the sole attorney for a party has been removed or suspended from practice, the party has no attorney for purposes of service of papers, and service may be made on the party [see CCP § 1015].

27.27[3] Attorney's Address for Service.

27.27[3][a] Serve at Office or Address Provided by Attorney. Service on an attorney is made at the attorney's office [CCP § 1011(a)]. If the party's sole attorney has no known office in the state, but has filed an address where notices and papers may be served on him or her, service may be made at that address [CCP § 1015].

27.27[3][b] May Serve at Court If No Address Provided. If the party's sole attorney has no known office in the state, notices and papers may be served by leaving a copy of each of the notices and papers with the court clerk [CCP § 1015].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
VI. CHOOSING METHOD OF SERVICE AND PROOF OF SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.30

27.30 Options and Strategies.

When not otherwise provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, notices and other papers must be in writing and may be served as prescribed in Chapter 5, Part 2, Title 14 of the Code [CCP §§ 1010-1020].

Chapter 5 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides several methods for service:

- Personal service, or leaving with a designated person [CCP § 1011].
- Service by mail [CCP §§ 1012, 1013].
- Service by express mail or overnight delivery [CCP §§ 1012, 1013].
- Service by facsimile transmission [CCP §§ 1010.5, 1013].
- Electronic service [CCP § 1010.6].
- Service on court clerk when party or attorney address unknown [CCP § 1015].
- Transmission of papers by telegraph for service [CCP § 1017].
- Service by registered mail when service not governed by CCP §§ 1010-1019.

The statutory language of these code sections provide that service "may" be made using one of the statutory methods of service. This allows the party serving the papers to choose the manner of service.

Service by other than personal service, i.e., mail, express mail, overnight delivery, facsimile, and electronic means provide time extensions for the other party to act or respond. When choosing the method of service, consider time constraints, costs, and office capabilities. Personal service may be difficult and costly compared to other methods of service, and access to gated communities is permitted for service of process or a subpoena [see CCP § 415.21] but the statute does not include service of other papers in its language [see Ch. 8, Service of Summons, 8.33].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
VI. CHOOSING METHOD OF SERVICE AND PROOF OF SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.31

27.31 Personal Service or Leaving Papers With Designated Person.

27.31[1] Serving Attorney of Record. The service may be personal, by delivery to the attorney on whom the service is required to be made [CCP § 1011(a)].

Service also may be made on an attorney by using one of the following methods [CCP § 1011(a)]:

- At the attorney's office by leaving the notice or other papers in an envelope or package clearly labeled to identify the attorney with the receptionist or person in charge.
- At the attorney's office by leaving the paper between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. in a conspicuous place in the office when there is no person in the office.
- If the attorney's office is not open, by leaving the notice or other papers at the attorney's residence, with a person not less than 18 years of age, if the residence is in the same county as the office.
- If the attorney's residence is not known or not in the same county as the attorney's office, or there is no person over 18 years of age to accept service, by placing the papers, enclosed in a sealed envelope, into the post office or a mailbox or other facility regularly maintained by the U.S. Government, addressed to the attorney at the attorney's office, if known, or otherwise to the attorney's residence, if known.
- If neither the attorney's office nor residence is known, by delivering the papers to the address of the attorney as designated on the court papers, or by delivering the papers for the attorney to the clerk of the court.

Consider:

The court may require the serving party demonstrate why service should be effectuated by delivery to the court.

➡ Cross Reference:

Procedure for delivery to clerk of court when address unknown, see 27.36.

27.31[2] Serving Party. If upon a party, service must be made in the manner specifically provided in particular cases [CCP § 1011(b)].

If no specific provision is made, service may be made on a party using one of the following methods [CCP § 1011(b)]:

- By leaving the notice or other papers at the party's residence, between 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m., with a person not less than 18 years of age. If at the time of attempted service between those hours no person 18 years of age or older cannot be found, notice may be served by mail.
- By delivering the papers for that party to the clerk of court if the party's residence is not known.

Consider:

The court may require the serving party demonstrate why service should be effectuated by delivery to the court.

Cross References:

Procedure for delivery to clerk of court when address unknown, see 27.36.

Service by mail, see 27.32.

27.31[3] Proof of Service.

27.31[3][a] Absence of Method in CCP § 1011. Although personal service is authorized by CCP § 1011, the statute does not expressly provide the method for proof of service; moreover, the Code of Civil Procedure sections that govern service of papers [CCP §§ 1010-1020] do not provide an express method for proof of service when personal service is used.

27.31[3][b] Proof by Affidavit or Declaration. The standard practice has been to prove personal service by affidavit [CCP § 2009] or by declaration under penalty of perjury [CCP § 2015.5] of the person making the service, or by the written acknowledgment of the person served [compare CCP §§ 417.10(d), 417.20(d) (proof of service of summons)].

Cross Reference:

Forms, see 27.48, 27.51.

27.31[3][c] Certificate of Attorney. Proof of personal service by an attorney of record is usually made by the certificate of the attorney [compare CCP § 1013a(2) (proof of service by mail)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 27.49.

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
VI. CHOOSING METHOD OF SERVICE AND PROOF OF SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.32

27.32 Service by Mail.

27.32[1] Strict Compliance Required for Party and Court Clerk. Service by mail requires strict compliance with all statutory requirements; failure to comply may deprive a court of jurisdiction to act [see Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 CA4th 503, 511, 33 CR2d 572]. This requirement applies to mailings by the court clerk as well as to mailings by parties [see Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 CA4th 503, 508, 33 CR2d 572 (dismissal of an action void when court clerk did not mail notice of dismissal to the current address of the plaintiffs' counsel on file)].

27.32[2] Mail to Residence or Office. Service by mail may be made [CCP § 1012]:

- Where the person to be served resides.
- Where the person to be served has an office where there is delivery service by mail.
- Where the person making the service and the person to be served reside or have their offices in different places between which there is regular communication by mail.

The notice or other papers must be [CCP § 1013(a)]:

- In a sealed envelope, with postage prepaid.
- Addressed to the person on whom it is being served, at the office address last given by that person on any document filed in the cause and served on the person making service by mail; otherwise, the envelope must be addressed to the place of residence.
- Deposited in a post office, mailbox, subpost office, substation, or mail chute, or other like facility regularly maintained by the United States Postal Service.

27.32[3] Provide Required Notation on Papers or Include Unsigned Affidavit or Certificate. The copies of notice or papers served by mail must bear a notation of the date and place of mailing, or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit or certificate of mailing [CCP § 1013(b)].

27.32[4] Service Complete at Time of Deposit but Time Requirements Extended 5 to 20 Calendar Days Depending on Addresses. Service of notice and papers by mail is complete at the time of deposit, but any notice period and any right or duty to act or respond is extended: [CCP § 1013(a)]:

- 5 calendar days if the place of mailing and the place of address are within California.
- 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the State of California but within the United States.
- 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or address is outside the United States.

These extensions of time apply in the absence of a specific exception provided for by other statute or by rule of court [CCP § 1013(a)].

Exceptions:

CCP § 1013(a) time extensions do not apply to:

- Filing notice of intention to move for a new trial.
- Notice of intention to vacate a judgment pursuant to CCP § 663a.
- Notice of appeal.

Trap--CCP § 1005 Motions:

The time extensions under CCP § 1013 which extend the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done do not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)]. CCP § 1005 includes extensions within its terms.

Cross Reference:

Motions practice, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

27.32[5] Proof of Service.

27.32[5][a] Affidavit of Non-Attorney. The more common way for a non-attorney to provide proof of service is by mail by affidavit setting forth the exact title of the document served and filed in the cause, and showing all of the following [CCP § 1013a(3)]:

- The name and residence or business address of the person making the service.
- That he or she is a resident of, or employed in, the county where the mailing occurs.
- That he or she is over the age of 18 years and not a party to the cause.
- That he or she is readily familiar with the business's practice for collection and processing of correspondence for mailing with the United States Postal Service.
- That the correspondence would be deposited with the United States Postal Service that same day in the ordinary course of business.

- The name and address of the person served as shown on the envelope, and the date and place of business where the correspondence was placed for deposit in the United States Postal Service.
- That the envelope was sealed and placed for collection and mailing on that date following ordinary business practices.

This proof of service, on motion of a party served, is presumed invalid if the postal cancellation date or postage meter date on the envelope is more than one day after the date of deposit for mailing contained in the affidavit [CCP § 1013a(3)].

Cross Reference:

Forms, see 27.50, 27.51.

A non-attorney may alternatively provide proof of service by mail by affidavit setting forth all of the following [CCP § 1013a(1)]:

- The exact title of the document served and filed in the cause.
- The name and residence or business address of the person making the service.
- A statement that the person making the service is a resident of or employed in the county where the mailing occurs.
- A statement that the person making the service is over the age of 18 years and not a party to the cause.
- The date and place of deposit in the mail.
- The name and address of the person served as shown on the envelope.
- A statement that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with the postage fully prepaid.

Cross Reference:

Forms, see 27.50, 27.51.

27.32[5][b] Certificate of Attorney. Proof of service by mail may be made by an attorney by a certificate setting forth the following [CCP § 1013a(2)]:

- The exact title of the document served and filed in the cause.
- The name and business address of the person making the service.
- A statement that the person making the service is an active member of the State Bar of California and is not a party to the cause.
- The date and place of deposit in the mail.
- The name and address of the person served as shown on the envelope.

- A statement that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with the postage thereon fully prepaid.

27.32[5][c] Proof of Service by Court Clerk. In case of service by the clerk of a court of record, the clerk must execute a certificate that provides [CCP § 1013a(4)]:

- The exact title of the document served and filed in the cause.
- The name of the clerk and the name of the court of which he or she is the clerk.
- That he or she is not a party to the cause.
- The date and place of deposit in the mail.
- The name and address of the person served as shown on the envelope.
- That the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with the postage fully prepaid.

This form of proof is sufficient for service of process in which the clerk or deputy clerk signing the certificate places the document for collection and mailing on the date shown thereon, so as to cause it to be mailed in an envelope so sealed and so addressed on that date following standard court practices [CCP § 1013a(4)].

Service made by the court clerk, on motion of a party served and a finding of good cause by the court, is deemed to have occurred on the date of postage cancellation or postage meter imprint as shown on the envelope, if that date is more than one day after the date of deposit for mailing contained in the certificate [CCP § 1013a(4)].

27.33 Service by Express Mail or Overnight Delivery.

27.33[1] Mail or Have Delivered to Office or Residence. In the case of service by Express Mail, the notice or other paper must be [CCP § 1013(c)]:

- In a sealed envelope, with Express Mail postage paid.
- Addressed to the person on whom it is to be served, at the office address as last given by that person on any document filed in the cause and served on the party making service by Express Mail; otherwise, at that party's place of residence.
- Deposited in a post office, mailbox, subpost office, substation, or mail chute, or other like facility regularly maintained by the United States Postal Service for receipt of Express Mail.

In the case of service by another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the notice or other paper must be [CCP § 1013(c)]:

- In an envelope or package designated by the express service carrier with delivery fees paid or provided for.
- Addressed to the person on whom it is to be served, at the office address last given by that person on any document filed in the cause and served on the party making service; otherwise at that party's place of residence.
- Deposited in a box or other facility regularly maintained by the express service carrier, or delivered to an authorized courier or driver authorized by the express service carrier to receive documents.

27.33[2] Provide Required Notation on Papers or Include Unsigned Affidavit or Certificate. The copies of notice or papers served by Express Mail or other overnight delivery must bear a notation of the date and place of mailing, or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit or certificate of deposit [CCP § 1013(d)].

27.33[3] Service Complete at Time of Deposit But Time Requirements Extended Two Court Days. Service is complete at time of deposit, but any period of notice and any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any period or on a date certain after the service of the document served by Express Mail or other method of delivery providing for overnight delivery is extended by two court days [CCP § 1013(c)].

This extension applies in the absence of a specific exception provided for by CCP § 1013 or other statute or rule of court [CCP § 1013(c)].

Exceptions:

CCP § 1013(c) time extensions do not apply to:

- Filing notice of intention to move for a new trial.
- Notice of intention to vacate a judgment pursuant to CCP § 663a.
- Notice of appeal.

Trap--CCP § 1005 Motions:

The time extensions under CCP § 1013 which extend the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done do not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)]. CCP § 1005 includes extensions within its terms.

Cross Reference:

Motions practice, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

27.33[4] Proof of Deposit. Although not specifically authorized by statute, proof of service by express mail or overnight delivery, by implication, may also be made by either a non-attorney or an attorney [see CCP § 1013a].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
VI. CHOOSING METHOD OF SERVICE AND PROOF OF SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.34

27.34 Service by Facsimile Transmission.

27.34[1] Specific Definitions for This Method of Service. A fax transmission is the transmission of a copy of a document by a system that encodes a document into electrical signals, transmits these electrical signals over a telephone line, and reconstructs the signals to print a duplicate of the original document at the receiving end [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(2)].

A fax machine is a machine that can send, in regular resolution, a facsimile transmission using the international standard for scanning, coding, and transmission established for Group 3 machines by the Consultative Committee of International Telegraphy and Telephone of the International Telecommunications Union (CCITT) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(3)]. A "fax machine" includes, but is not limited to, a facsimile modem that is connected to a personal computer [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(3)].

A fax filing is the facsimile transmission of a document to a court that accepts the documents [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(4)].

"Service by fax" refers to the transmission of a document to a party or the attorney for a party under the fax rules [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(5)].

A "transmission record" is the document printed by the sending fax machine stating the telephone number of the receiving machine, the number of pages sent, and the transmission time and date, and an indication of any errors in transmission [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(6)].

A "fax filing agency" is an entity that receives documents by fax for processing and filing with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(7)].

27.34[2] Standards.

27.34[2][a] Fax Machine Must Have Minimum Baud Rate. Any fax machine used to send documents to a court must send at an initial transmission speed of no less than 4800 baud and be able to generate a transmission record [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.301(3)].

27.34[2][b] Fax Form and Format Must Conform to State and Local Rules of Court. A document used for transmitting a fax must comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.100 et seq. [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.302; see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.100(a), 3.20(a) (preempting local rules concerning the form or format of papers)].

Any exhibit that exceeds 8 1/2 by 11 inches must be reduced to not more than 8 1/2 by 11 inches before it is transmitted [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.302].

27.34[2][c] First-Named Plaintiff Must Maintain Fax Service List. The plaintiff or petitioner named first in the complaint or petition in a case in which the parties have agreed to service by fax must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(b)(1)]:

- Maintain a current list of the parties that includes their fax numbers for service of notice on each party.
- Furnish a copy of the list on request to any party or the court.

27.34[2][d] Parties Must Participate in Fax Service List and Serve It on New Parties. Each party in a case in which the parties have agreed to service by fax must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(b)(2)]:

- Furnish the first-named plaintiff or petitioner with the party's current fax number for service of notice when the party first appears in the action.
- Include a copy of the service list maintained by the first-named plaintiff [see 27.34[2][c]] when serving an order, notice, or pleading on any party that has not yet appeared in the action.

27.34[3] Court May Notice Parties by Fax. A court may serve a notice by fax in the same manner that parties may serve papers by fax [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(c)]. The court may serve notices by fax on an attorney who consents to fax service [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(a)(1)].

Distinguish:

Inclusion of a fax number in the attorney identification information in the upper left corner of paper filed with a court does not constitute consent to service by fax or email unless otherwise provided by law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.111(1)].

27.34[4] Signed Documents.

27.34[4][a] Signature on Fax Indicates Possession or Control of Original Document. A party who serves a signed document by fax represents that the original signed document is in his or her possession or control [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.305(a)].

A signature produced by fax transmission is an original, notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, including Evid Code §§ 255 and 260 (defining the terms "original" and "duplicate" for purposes of the Evidence Code) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.305(d)].

27.34[4][b] Party May Demand Production of Original Signed Document. At any time after service of a signed fax document, any other party may serve a demand for production of the originally signed document. The demand must be served on all other parties but is not to be filed with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.305(b)].

If a party serves a demand for production of the original signed document, the parties must arrange a meeting for examination of the original signed document [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.305(c)].

27.34[5] Filing Documents With Court.

27.34[5][a] Different Rules Govern Different Court Departments. Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.300 et seq. apply to fax service in civil, probate, and family law proceedings in all trial courts, while Cal Rules Ct, Rule 5.522 govern fax filing in juvenile proceedings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.300(a)].

27.34[5][b] Specific Papers Excluded From Facsimile Filing or Issuance by Court. No will, codicil, bond, or undertaking may be filed by fax, nor can the court issue by fax any document that is intended to carry the original seal of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.300(b)]. However, a court may serve any notice by fax in the same manner that litigants may serve papers by fax [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(a), (c)].

Distinguish--Service of Summons:

The fax rules do not affect the requirements for personal or substituted service of the summons and complaint or any other opening paper [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306 (authorizing "service of papers" by fax, but not service of summons)].

27.34[5][c] Party May Directly File Documents With Court. A party may fax a document directly to a court that allows direct fax filing by local rule [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(a) (local rule providing fax telephone numbers)]. A Judicial Council Facsimile Filing Cover Sheet must be the first page transmitted, followed by any special handling instructions, then the document [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(b)]. The document must contain the phrase "By fax" immediately below the document's title [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(c)].

 Cross Reference:

Form of Facsimile Filing Cover Sheet, see 27.56.

The filing fee is paid by credit card or a prearranged filing fee account with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(e), (f)].

The party's fax machine must print a transmission record of each fax filing, and if the court does not file the document due to a transmission error or failure to process the document when received by the court, the party may move for an order filing the document nunc pro tunc [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(d)]. The motion must include the printed transmission record and a declaration in the form specified in the rules of court stating the transmission dates and compliance with the rules of court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(d)].

27.34[5][d] Party May Use Fax Filing Agency. A party may fax a document to a fax filing agency for filing with the court. However, the agency is an agent of the party, not an agent of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.303(a)]. After receiving the fax, the agency prepares the document to comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.100 et seq., physically transports the document to the court, and files the document as well as paying any filing fee [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.303(b)]. Each document filed must contain the phrase "By fax" immediately below the document's title [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.303(f)]. The agency also may file the documents by fax [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.304(a)].

An advance agreement must be made between the agency and the party for payment of filing fees and service charges [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.303(c)], the agency must keep all documents confidential [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.303(d)], and by filing the document the agency certifies it has followed the rules of court for fax filing and that the document is filed in full and unaltered [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.303(e)].

27.34[6] Service Between Parties.

27.34[6][a] Written Consent Required. Service by fax is permitted only if the parties agree and a written confirmation of that agreement is made [CCP § 1013(e); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(a)(1)].

Distinguish:

Inclusion of a fax number in the attorney identification information in the upper left corner of paper filed with a court does not constitute consent to service by fax or email unless otherwise provided by law [see

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.111(1)].

Exception:

Where a statute specifies only that service may be accomplished in accordance with CCP § 1013 [see, e.g., CCP § 364(c)], service may be accomplished by facsimile transmission [ Jones v. Catholic Healthcare West (2007) 147 CA4th 300, 309, 54 CR3d 148 ].

27.34[6][b] Fax Machine Must Be Available During Specific Times. A party or attorney agreeing to accept service by fax must make his or her fax machine generally available for receipt of documents between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on days that are not court holidays under CCP § 136 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(e)].

This provision does not prevent the attorney from sending documents by means of the fax machine or providing for normal care and maintenance of the fax machine during these hours [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(e)].

27.34[6][c] Notice Must Include Adequate Notations or Copy of Affidavit or Certificate of Transmission.

The copy of the notice or other papers served by fax must bear a notation of the date and place of transmission and the facsimile telephone number to which it was transmitted or be accompanied by an unsigned copy of the affidavit or certificate of transmission containing the telephone number to which the notice or papers were transmitted [CCP § 1013(f)].

27.34[6][d] Service Complete at Time of Transmission but Time Requirements Extended Two Court Days.

Service is complete at the time of transmission, but any prescribed period of notice and any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any prescribed period or on a date certain after service of the document by fax is extended by two court days [CCP § 1013(e); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(d)].

This extension applies in the absence of a specific exception provided for by CCP § 1013 or other statute or rule of court [CCP § 1013(c)].

Exceptions:

CCP § 1013(c) time extensions do not apply to [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(e)]:

- Filing notice of intention to move for a new trial.
- Notice of intention to vacate a judgment pursuant to CCP § 663a.
- Notice of appeal.

Trap--CCP § 1005 Motions:

The time extensions under CCP § 1013 which extend the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done do not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers [CCP § 1005(b)]. CCP § 1005 includes extensions within its terms.

Service by fax is complete on receipt of the entire document by the receiving party's facsimile machine. Service occurring after 5:00 p.m. is deemed to have occurred on the next court day [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(g)].

Service is ineffective if the transmission does not fully conform to the provisions of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(h)(5)].

Warning:

Be sure entire document is transmitted before 5:00 p.m. to avoid untimely notice.

 Cross Reference:

Motions practice, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

27.34[6][e] Proof of Transmission. Proof of service by fax may be made by any method provided in CCP § 1013(a) (governing proof of service by mail) with certain exceptions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(h)]:

- Time, date, and sending fax machine number used in lieu of date and place of deposit in mail.
- Name and fax machine number of person served used in lieu of name and address of person served on envelope.
- Statement that document transmitted by facsimile transmission, complete, and without error used in lieu of statement envelope was sealed and deposited in mail with postage paid.
- Copy of the transmission report must be attached to proof of service along with declaration that transmission report properly issued by fax machine.

Service of papers by fax is ineffective if the transmission does not fully conform to the provisions of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.306(h)(5)].

Chapter 27 Service of Papers
VI. CHOOSING METHOD OF SERVICE AND PROOF OF SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.35

27.35 Electronic Service.

27.35[1] Specific Definitions for This Method of Service. "Electronic filing" is the electronic transmission to a court of a document in electronic form [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(4)].

An "electronic filing service provider" is a person or entity that receives an electronic filing from a party for re-transmission to the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(5)]. In submission of filings the electronic filing service provider does so on behalf of the electronic filer and not as an agent of the court.

"Electronic service" is the electronic transmission of a document to a party's electronic notification address, either directly or through an electronic service provider, for purposes of effecting service [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(6)].

A party's "electronic notification address" is the electronic address at or through which the party has authorized electronic service [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(8)].

"Electronic filer" is a party filing a document in electronic form directly with the court, by an agent, or through an electronic filing service provider [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(3)].

"Document" means a pleading, paper, declaration, exhibit, or other filing submitted by a party or party's agent and may be in paper or electronic form [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(2)].

"Close of business" means 5:00 p.m. or any other time on a court day at which the court stops accepting documents for filing at its filing counter; and the court must provide notice of its close-of-business time electronically [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(1)].

27.35[2] Standards.

27.35[2][a] Court Must Maintain Internet-Accessible System and Publish Requirements and Problems. A trial court may adopt local rules permitting electronic filing and service [CCP § 1010.6(a)]. A court that permits electronic filing must allow filing over the Internet ensuring transmission security and integrity, must publish the court's electronic filing requirements in both electronic and print formats, and must promptly take reasonable steps to provide notice of problems affecting electronic filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.254].

27.35[2][b] Electronic Filer Must Have System That Is Compatible With and Does Not Harm Court's Electronic System. An electronic filer must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.256]:

- Comply with court requirements designed to ensure electronic system integrity and protect sensitive personal information.
- Take all reasonable steps to ensure filings do not contain computer code, including viruses, that might be harmful to the court's system and to other users of that system.
- Use software in the public domain or generally available at reasonable cost.

27.35[3] Electronic Filing With Court.

27.35[3][a] Electronic Filing With Court Permitted in Any Action or Proceeding If Local Rules Adopted. A court may permit electronic filing of a document in any action or proceeding unless rules of court or other legal authority prohibit filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.252(a)].

Prerequisite:

The court must adopt local rules first before permitting electronic filing [see CCP § 1010.6(a)].

27.35[3][b] Wide Range of Documents May Be Filed. Electronic documents that may be filed with the court include [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.250(2), 2.252(a)-(d)]:

- Pleadings, papers, declarations, exhibits, and any other filings.
- Scanned copies of an original that is later filed with the court within 10 calendar days.
- Applications for waiver of costs and fees.
- Notices, orders, minute orders, judgments, or other documents prepared by the court.

27.35[3][c] Filed Electronic Document Has Same Legal Effect As Paper Document. A filed electronic document has the same legal effect as a document in paper form [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.252(e)(1)].

27.35[3][d] Electronic Filing Does Not Alter Filing Deadline. Filing a document electronically does not alter any filing deadline [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.252(e)(2)].

27.35[3][e] Electronic Filer Must Provide Court With Latest Electronic Address. Electronic filers must provide the court with [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.256(a)]:

- One or more electronic notification addresses at which the filer agrees to accept service.
- Immediate notice of any change in electronic notification addresses.
- Any information the court needs for case processing.

27.35[3][f] Signatures Required Under Penalty of Perjury Must Be Signed Before Filing and May Have to Be Produced. A document requiring a signature under penalty of perjury must be signed in printed form before electronically filing the document; and the act of filing indicates the original is signed and available for review by the court or any party [CCP § 1010.6(a)(2)(B); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(a)(1), (2)].

A party may serve a demand for production of the original any time after the document is filed and the party who filed the document must produce the signed original within 5 days of being served the demand [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(a)(3), (4)].

At any time after the document signed under penalty of perjury is filed, the court may order the filing party to produce the original signed document in court for inspection and copying by the court. The order must specify the date, time, and place for the production and must be served on all parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(a)(5)].

27.35[3][g] Signatures Not Required Under Penalty of Perjury Are Deemed Signed When Filed. A document not requiring a signature under penalty of perjury is deemed signed by the party when electronically filed [CCP § 1010.6(a)(2)(A); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(b)].

27.35[3][h] Documents Requiring Signatures of Opposing Parties Must Be Completed Before Filing. Documents requiring signature of opposing parties, such as stipulations, requires the party filing the document obtain all signature on an original printed document and make the original available for inspection; and filing the document indicates all parties have signed the document [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(c)].

The court and any other party may demand production of the original signed document in the manner discussed in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(a)(3)-(5) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(c)(2); see 27.35[3][f]].

27.35[3][i] Digital Signatures Not Required. A party is not required to use a digital signature on an electronically filed document [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(d)].

27.35[3][j] Court May Permit Electronic Payment of Filing Fees. The court may permit payment of filing fees by credit card, debit card, electronic funds transfers, or debit accounts, and fees may be waived for those eligible [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.258; see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.252(c); Gov Code § 68630 et seq.].

27.35[3][k] Court May Contract With Electronic Service Providers. The court may contract with an electronic service provider wherein electronic filers file the documents with the service provider who in turn files the document with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.255(a)].

Distinguish:

In submission of filings, the electronic filing service provider does so on behalf of the electronic filer and not as an agent of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(5)].

27.35[3][l] Court Must Send Confirmation of Electronic Filing or Reason Why Rejected. After the court receives an electronic document, the court must promptly send the filer confirmation of the receipt of the document, indicating the date and time of receipt. A document is considered received at the date and time the confirmation of receipt is created [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(a)(1)]. The document complies with the filing requirements, the confirmation will indicate the document is filed, the transaction number, the title of the documents as filed, and the fee assessed [CCP § 1010.6(a)(4); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(a)(2)].

If a document received does not comply with electronic filing requirements or the fee was not paid, the court must send notice why the document was rejected for filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(b)].

27.35[3][m] Document Filed After Close of Business Is Filed Next Court Day. A document electronically filed with the court after 5:00 p.m., or any other time designated as close of business, is deemed filed on the next court day [CCP § 1010.6(a)(3); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.250(1), 2.259(c)].

Consider:

Counsel should never file a complaint electronically if there is a risk the statute of limitations may expire, particularly if filing late in the day. The systems are too new to risk a client's rights by electronic filing.

27.35[3][n] Party May Challenge Filing Delay Caused by Court's System. If a party attempts to file a document during regular electronic filing hours but the court system is unavailable, the court must deem the document filed on that day if the party demonstrates that he or she attempted to file on that particular day [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(d)].

Exception:

This rule does not apply to complaints or other initial proceedings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(d)].

27.35[3][o] Court Endorsement Will Indicate Electronic Filing. The court will endorse the documents as electronically filed and will have the same effect as a manually endorsed stamp [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(e)].

27.35[3][p] Court May Transmit Electronic Summons. If the court receives an electronic complaint, petition, or other document that must be served with summons, the court must issue at the plaintiff's request a summons to be kept in its records and may transmit a copy of the summons electronically to the electronic filer [CCP § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(f)(1)].

27.35[4] Electronic Service by Court and Between Parties.

27.35[4][a] Electronic Service Permitted When Other Nonpersonal Service Permitted. Electronic service is permitted when notice may be served by mail, express mail, overnight delivery, or facsimile transmission [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(a)(1)].

27.35[4][b] Court May Electronically Serve Notices and Other Court Documents. The court may electronically serve any notice, order, judgment, or other documents by the court in the same manner parties serve electronic documents [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(g)].

27.35[4][b1] Judge or Judicial Officer May Sign Electronically Served Document in Any Legal Manner. If a document requires a signature by a court or a judicial officer, the document may be electronically signed in any manner permitted by law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(e)].

27.35[4][c] Party Subject to Electronic Service by Notice to Accept Electronic Service or by Electronically Filing Any Document. A party indicates it agrees to accept electronic service by [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(a)(2)]:

- Filing and serving a notice accepting electronic service, and including the address for electronic service address.
- Electronically filing any document with the court.

Warning:

A party that has consented to electronic service by either of the aforementioned methods and has used an electronic filing service provider to file and serve documents in a case consents to service on that electronic filing service provider as the designated agent for service for the party in the case, until the party designates a different agent for service [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(a)(3)].

Warning:

An electronic notification address is presumed valid if the party files electronic documents from that address and has not filed and served notice that the address is no longer valid [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(d)(3)].

Judicial Council Form EFS-005 Consent to Electronic Service and Notice of Electronic Notification Address (Electronic Filing and Service) has been approved for optional use in providing notice of change of electronic notification address.

 Cross Reference:

Judicial Council Form EFS-005 Consent to Electronic Service and Notice of Electronic Notification Address (Electronic Filing and Service), see 27.53.

27.35[4][d] Party Must Update Any Change of Electronic Address. A party whose electronic notification address changes while the action is pending must promptly file a notice of change of electronic address and serve the notice on all parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(d)(1)]. A party's election to contract with an electronic filing service provider to electronically file and serve documents or to receive electronic service of documents on the party's behalf does not relieve the party of this duty [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(d)(2)].

 Warning:

An electronic notification address is presumed valid if the party files electronic documents from that address and has not filed and served notice that the address is no longer valid [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(d)(3)].

Judicial Council Form EFS-010 Notice of Change of Electronic Notification Address (Electronic Filing and Service) has been approved for optional use in providing notice of change of electronic notification address.

 Cross Reference:

Judicial Council Form EFS-010 Notice of Change of Electronic Notification Address (Electronic Filing and Service), see 27.54.

27.35[4][d1] Court Must Provide Electronic Service List, But Serving Party Must Ensure Service. A court that permits electronic filing in a case must maintain and make available electronically to the parties an electronic service list that contains the most recent electronic notification addresses that the parties that have filed electronically in the case have provided to the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(b)].

 Warning:

Although the court is required to provide the electronic service list, the serving party is responsible for electronic service on all other parties in the case. A party may serve documents electronically directly, by an agent, or through an electronic filing service provider [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(b)].

27.35[4][e] Service Complete at Time of Transmission but Time Requirements Extended Two Court Days. Service is complete at the time of transmission, but any prescribed period of notice and any right or duty to do any act or make any response within any prescribed period or on a date certain after service of the document by fax is extended by two court days [CCP § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(e)(1), (2)].

Exceptions:

This time extension does not apply to [CCP § 1010.6(a)(6); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(e)(3)]:

- Filing notice of intention to move for a new trial.
- Notice of intention to vacate a judgment pursuant to CCP § 663a.

- Notice of appeal.

Trap--CCP § 1005 Motions:

The time extensions under CCP § 1013 which extend the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done do not apply to CCP § 1005 notices of motion, opposition papers, or reply papers as time has already been incorporated into § 1005. CCP § 1005 includes extensions within its terms. CCP § 1005 does not address electronic service.

27.35[4][f] Service After Close of Business Considered Served on Following Court Day. Service that occurs after the close of business is considered to have occurred on the next court day [CCP § 1010.6(a)(3); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(e)(4)]. "Close of business" is defined as 5:00 p.m. for the court or any other time the court stops accepting documents for filing at its counter [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.250(1)].

27.35[4][g] Proof of Transmission. Proof of service by electronic transmission may be made by any method provided in CCP § 1013a (governing proof of service by mail) with certain exceptions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(a)(1), (f)(1)]:

- The electronic notification address of the person making the service used in addition to that person's residence or business address.
- The date and time of the electronic service used in lieu of the date and place of deposit in the mail.
- The name and electronic notification address of the person served used in lieu of the person's name and address as shown on the envelope.
- That the document was served electronically is used in lieu of the statement that the envelope was sealed and deposited in the mail with postage fully prepaid.

Proof of service may be in electronic form and may be filed electronically with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(f)(2)].

Timing:

Per Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(c), proof of service of the moving papers must be filed at least 5 court days before the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(f)(3)].

The party filing the proof of electronic service must maintain the printed form of the document bearing the declarant's original signature and must make the document available for review and copying on the request of the court or any party to the action or proceeding in which it is filed, per Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.257(a) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.260(f)(4)].

Judicial Council Form POS-050/EFS-050 Proof of Electronic Service (Proof of Service/Electronic Filing and Service) has been approved for optional use in providing proof of electronic service. The Judicial Council has also approved as add-on forms to Form POS-050/EFS-050 a form for listing multiple documents, Form POS-050(D)/EFS-050(D) Attachment to Proof of Electronic Service (Documents Served) (Proof of Service/Electronic Filing and Service), and a form for listing multiple persons served, Form POS-050(P)/EFS-050(P) Attachment to Proof of Electronic Service (Persons Served) (Proof of Service/Electronic Filing and Service).

27.35[5] Court May Order Electronic Filing and/or Service in Special Cases. A court may, on motion of any party or on its own motion, order all parties in a class action, a consolidated action, or a group of actions, a coordinated action, or an action that is deemed complex under Judicial Council rules [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.403], after finding that such an order would not cause undue hardship or significant prejudice to any party in the action [CCP § 1010.6(a)(8); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.253(a)] to [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.253(a)(1)-(3)]:

- Serve all documents electronically, except when personal service is required by statute or rule,
- File all documents electronically, or
- Serve and file all documents electronically, except when personal service is required by statute or rule.

The court's order also may provide [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.253(b)]:

- Documents previously filed in paper form may be resubmitted in electronic form; and
- When the court sends confirmation of filing to all parties, receipt of the confirmation constitutes service of the filing if the filed document is available electronically.

When it is not feasible for a party to convert a document to electronic form by scanning, imaging, or another means, a court may allow a party to serve, file, or serve and file the document in paper form [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.253(c)].

When service is made by delivering the notice or papers to the clerk of the court under CCP § 1011(b) because a party's address is unknown, the papers must be enclosed in an envelope addressed to the party in care of the clerk [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.252(a)]. The back of the envelope must state the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.252(b)]:

- "Service is being made under Code of Civil Procedure Section 1011(b) on a party whose residence address is unknown."

27.37 Writ or Order Via Telegraph.

Any writ or order in any civil suit or proceeding and all other papers requiring service may be transmitted by telegraph for service in any place, subject to the following requirements [CCP § 1017]:

- The telegraphic copy of the writ, order, or paper so transmitted may be served or executed by the officer or person to whom it is sent for that purpose, and returned by him or her, if any return is required, in the same manner, and with the same force and effect in all respects, as the original might be if delivered to him or her.
- The officer or person serving or executing the telegraphic copy has the same authority, and is subject to the same liabilities, as if the copy were the original.
- The original, if a writ or order, must also be filed in the court from which it was issued, and a certified copy must be preserved in the telegraph office from which it was sent. In sending it, the operator may use either the original or the certified copy for that purpose.
- Whenever any document to be sent by telegraph bears a seal, either private or official, it is not necessary for the operator in sending it to telegraph a description of the seal or any words or device on it, but the seal may be expressed in the telegraphic copy by the letters "L.S." (locus sigilli, that is, place of the seal) or by the word "seal."

27.38 Notices Sent by Registered Mail When Service Not Governed by Service Statutes.

Any notice required by law, other than a notice required to be given to a party to an action or to the party's attorney, the service of which is not governed by CCP §§ 1010-1019 and which is not otherwise specifically provided for by law, may be given by sending it by registered (or certified [CCP § 11]) return-receipt mail, with proper postage prepaid, addressed to the addressee's last known address [CCP § 1020].

The production of a returned receipt purporting to be signed by the addressee creates a disputable presumption that the notice was received by the person to whom it was required to be sent [CCP § 1020].

Distinguish:

The absence of a signed return receipt does not negate any other presumptions concerning mailed items. Under Evid Code § 641, a letter correctly addressed and properly mailed is presumed to have been received in the ordinary course of mail. To rebut this presumption, evidence must be admitted to deny receipt of the mailing [ Bear Creek Master Assn. v. Edwards (2005) 130 CA4th 1470, 1486, 31 CR3d 337 ]. Where a statute provides for service by registered or certified mail, the addressee cannot assert failure of service when he or she wilfully disregards a notice of certified mail delivered to his or her address under circumstances where it can be reasonably inferred that the addressee was aware of the nature of the correspondence [ Bear Creek Master Assn. v. Edwards (2005) 130 CA4th 1470, 1487, 31 CR3d 337 ].

Consider:

Service by registered mail is not preferred unless specifically required by statute. A party can simply not accept the registered mail, leaving the party without service. Conversely, proof of service by regular mail provides the presumption that the document was properly served.

Any objection to the manner or proof of service or in a notice of motion must be made in the trial court and cannot normally be raised for the first time on appeal [see *Peers v. Chapter 27 Service of Papers
VII. ASSERTING DEFECTS IN SERVICE

2-27 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 27.42

27.42 Avoid Waiver by Limited Appearance at Hearing Objecting Only to Notice.

Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion or failure to provide notice at all to the adverse party may be challenged without waiving the defects or irregularities by making a limited appearance at the hearing on the motion for the purpose of objecting to a consideration of the motion by the court on the ground of insufficiency of the notice [ Bohn v. Bohn (1913) 164 C 532, 538-539, 129 P 981 ].

Trap--Avoid Waiver of Issue:

Defects and irregularities in a notice of motion, and failure to give notice at all, are normally waived by the adverse party's appearance at the hearing on the motion and opposing it on its merits [ Carlton v. Quint (2000) 77 CA4th 690, 697-698, 91 CR2d 844 ; Vlahovich v. Cruz (1989) 213 CA3d 317, 320, 261 CR 565 ; Tate v. Superior Court (1975) 45 CA3d 925, 930, 119 CR 835 ]. This rule applies even when no notice was given at all [ Carlton v. Quint (2000) 77 CA4th 690, 698, 91 CR2d 844 ].

Decision Point--Continuance Versus Opposition:

In challenging the absence of notice or defective notice counsel or the adverse party may appear at the hearing and request a continuance for the purpose of preparing a proper response, and making a complete record regarding the notice for appellate purposes in the event the continuance is denied. Alternately, counsel may file an opposition to the motion based on the notice irregularities and the merits, and appear at the hearing to object to the hearing proceeding based upon defective and/or inadequate notice, and requesting a continuance.

Warning:

Counsel should be prepared to argue the motion on the merits if the court rejects the request for continuance unless counsel wants to preserve the issue of notice for appeal; however this is not recommended.

Strategic Point--CCP § 473 Motion:

A party may seek relief from an order on the basis of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect by use of a CCP § 473 motion.

Discussion of opposing defective noticed motions, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.48.

Chapter 28 Stipulations
I. STRATEGY

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.01

28.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Objectives and strategy for stipulations [see 28.02].
- Authority to enter and requirements for stipulations [see 28.04, 28.13].
- Subject matter of stipulations [see 28.05-28.09; Forms: see 28.16 and 28.17].
- Preparing stipulations [see 28.03; Forms: see 28.16, 28.17].

- Obtaining relief from stipulations [see 28.14, 28.15; Forms: see 28.18, 28.19].

Core Statute:

CCP § 283(1)

Chapter 28 Stipulations
I. STRATEGY

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.02

28.02 Objective and Strategy.

Stipulations are agreements entered into between counsel, relating to the business before the court. Unless it is contrary to law, court rules or policy, a stipulation is also binding on the court [see Spindell v. State Bar (1975) 13 C3d 253, 260-261, 118 CR 480, 530 P2d 168, 80 A.L.R.3d 1231 ; T & O Mobile Homes, Inc. v. United Cal. Bank (1985) 40 C3d 441, 445 n. 11, 220 CR 627, 709 P2d 430 ]. Stipulations can be made at any step of the action or proceeding [CCP § 283(1)].

Strategic Points:

- Parties may often reduce the cost and time associated with litigation by entering into stipulations.
- Time management of litigation becomes easier through the use of stipulations regarding deadlines.
- Alternative procedures for resolving disputes may be available by stipulation, including arbitration and mediation.
- A stipulation that impacts that court's conduct of business may not be "rubber stamped"--it is important to find out how your particular judge may react to a particular stipulation.
- A final stipulated judgment is not appealable unless consent was merely given to facilitate an appeal following adverse determination of a critical issue.

Warning:

The client must sign off on stipulations that affect fundamental rights as opposed to litigation tactics [see 28.04].

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 533, Stipulations (Matthew Bender).

II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.04

28.04 Attorney's Authority to Enter Into Stipulations Is Limited.

28.04[1] Attorney Has Implied Authority to Enter Into Stipulations Regarding Management of Case. An attorney has the authority to bind his or her client in any of the steps of an action [see CCP § 283(1)] and may do so without a client's prior, express authority with respect to tactical decisions or necessary or incidental matters regarding management of the suit [ Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 404, 212 CR 151, 696 P2d 645, 48 A.L.R.4th 109 (plaintiff not bound by binding arbitration agreement her attorney signed: attorney acted against her express wishes and without authority, depriving plaintiff of substantial rights)].

► Cross Reference:

Attorney's general authority to appear and to control the litigation, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 72, Attorney Practice and Ethics (Matthew Bender).

28.04[2] Attorney Must Get Express Authority to Impair Fundamental Right or Substantial Portion of Case. The client's consent must be obtained before an attorney may enter into a stipulation which impairs a substantial portion of the case or involves a waiver or compromise of a fundamental right [ Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 C4th 578, 584, 41 CR2d 878, 896 P2d 171 ; see Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 C2d 272, 277-278, 74 CR 544, 449 P2d 760 (listing stipulations outside attorney's authority)]. These include:

- Consent to conservatorship [ Conservatorship of John L. (2010) 48 C4th 131, 149-157, 105 CR3d 424 ].
- Settlement [ Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 C4th 578, 584, 41 CR2d 878, 896 P2d 171 ].
- Agreeing to binding arbitration [ Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 407-408, 212 CR 151, 696 P2d 645, 48 A.L.R.4th 109 ; Lazarus v. Titmus (1998) 64 CA4th 1242, 1247-1249, 75 CR2d 676 ].

28.04[3] Client May Ratify Unauthorized Stipulation. A client may ratify an unauthorized stipulation entered into by his or her attorney [ Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 407-408, 212 CR 151, 696 P2d 645, 48

Chapter 28 Stipulations
II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.05

28.05 Stipulation May Address Content or Timing of Pleadings.

28.05[1] Dismissing Claims. Stipulations may provide for the dismissal or abatement of an action [see, e.g., Reid v. Valley Restaurants, Inc. (1957) 48 C2d 606, 609-610, 311 P2d 473 (during trial, complaint dismissed and matter of fees sought in cross-complaint submitted to court); Cal-Vada Aircraft, Inc. v. Superior Court (1986) 179 CA3d 435, 448, 224 CR 809 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

If discovery discloses one or all of your legal theories is not well-supported by the facts, consider dismissing that count or cause of action while going forward with the others so as not to taint the meritorious aspects of your case in front of the jury. If dismissal of all or part of the case is warranted, consider seeking the defendant's consent to get a waiver of malicious prosecution and attorneys' fee and cost claims.

Cross Reference:

Stipulating to the discharge of an interpleading party, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 134, Interpleader (Matthew Bender).

28.05[2] Extending Time Limits for Pleading Requirements. The parties may extend the time required to effectuate service of process [ Big Bear Mun. Water Dist. v. Superior Court (1969) 269 CA2d 919, 923, 75 CR 58 ]. Stipulations may extend the time to move, answer, or otherwise plead to the complaint [see, e.g., Farrar, Herrick & Assocs. v. Safecare Co. (1981) 115 CA3d 123, 127, 171 CR 191 (parties may stipulate to an open ended extension of time to respond to the complaint)].

Exception:

Actions subject to the Trial Court Delay Reduction rules are subject to stringent restrictions. In most instances complaints must be served within 60 days of filing [see Gov Code § 68616(a)]. The parties may stipulate to an additional 15 days (or more if allowed by local rule) [see Gov Code § 68616(b)]. Courts strongly discourage stipulations relating to time limits, and for extensions other than the statutorily authorized 15-day extension of time to respond to a complaint, local rules may require court approval [see Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.10].

Warning--Action May Still Be Dismissed for Delay in Prosecution:

A stipulation granting an open extension of time to respond to a complaint will not preclude dismissal of an action for delay in prosecution [see Marra v. Mission Foods Corp. (1993) 19 CA4th 724, 728, 23 CR2d 741 (affirming dismissal); Martin v. K & K Properties, Inc. (1987) 188 CA3d 1559, 1566, 234 CR 161 ].

Chapter 28 Stipulations
II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.06

28.06 Stipulation May Address Discovery Issues.

Stipulations are commonly used in the conduct of discovery matters. The Civil Discovery Act recognizes a number of subjects on which parties may expressly stipulate, including:

- Taking subsequent depositions of a person who has been previously deposed [CCP § 2025.610].
- Regarding the manner in which physical, mental, or blood examinations may be taken [CCP §§ 2016.030, 2032.310, 2032.320].
- For protective orders regarding interrogatories and demands for inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of documents, tangible things, places, or electronically stored information [CCP §§ 2030.090, 2031.060].
- Additional discovery in limited civil cases [CCP § 95(b)].
- Modification of deposition and other discovery procedures [CCP § 2016.030].
- Preserving and protecting the confidentiality of certain documents during litigation. The parties may stipulate to a protective order in anticipation of, or in response to, written discovery requests and then seek the court's approval [CCP §§ 2016.030, 2017.020, 2019.030(b)].
- Limiting the issues in a case [ Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 C4th 715, 733, 14 CR2d 822, 842 P2d 121 ].
- Extending the time for the completion of discovery proceedings to a specified date [CCP § 2024.060].

Exception:

Stipulation cannot require a court to grant a continuance or postponement of trial [CCP § 2024.060].

Strategic Point:

Counsel may derive significant advantages through cooperative give and take on discovery issues, particularly given the often-applicable requirement that counsel make a reasonable and good faith effort at informal resolution of discovery disputes before filing a motion [see CCP § 2023.020 (potential sanctions even if you prevail on motion)]. Willingness to engage in discovery stipulations may:

- Make available some discovery that might otherwise be impossible to schedule on demand.
- Allow considerable savings by avoiding inevitable objections to technicalities regarding discovery.
- Favorably impress the court when you really must object to some specific request.
- Help contain any attorney fee and cost requests, both yours and those of opposing counsel.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of use of stipulations in discovery, see specific topics in Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

Warning:

A discovery stipulation may waive a party's right to insist on a formal order compelling responses as a precursor to an issuance of evidentiary, issue, or terminating sanctions; and a poor outcome is not a principled reason to set aside a stipulation by counsel [ Mileikowsky v. Tenet Healthsystem (2005) 128 CA4th 262, 279 ].

Chapter 28 Stipulations
II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.07

28.07 Stipulation May Address Alternative Dispute Resolution.

28.07[1] Agreeing to Arbitration. Any superior court action may be submitted to judicial arbitration by stipulation [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(4)].

A written agreement to submit an existing controversy to arbitration is valid, enforceable and irrevocable [CCP § 1281; see Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 407-408, 212 CR 151, 696 P2d 645, 48 A.L.R.4th 109 (stipulation not enforceable because client did not agree or ratify)]. In private arbitration, parties may also stipulate to limit the scope of arbitration and place limits on the arbitrator's power [see Moncharsh v. Heily & Blase (1992) 3 C4th 1, 9, 10 CR2d 183, 832 P2d 899].

► Cross References:

Discussion of judicial arbitration, see Ch. 24, Pretrial ADR, 24.03 et seq.

28.07[2] Agreeing to Mediation. Any action regardless of the amount in controversy may be submitted to mediation under the Civil Action Mediation Act by stipulation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.871(a)(2); see CCP §§ 1775-1775.15]. The Civil Action Mediation Act applies in Los Angeles County and any other county that elect to apply it as an alternative to judicial arbitration under CCP §§ 1141.10-1141.31 [CCP § 1775.4]. It does not preempt other ADR programs in trial courts [CCP § 1775.13], and in many instances, parties may stipulate to use other programs [see San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 4.2].

Timing:

Stipulation under Civil Action Mediation Act must be filed not later than 90 days before trial unless court permits a later time [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.871(a)(2)].

Chapter 28 Stipulations
II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.08

28.08 Stipulation May Address Introduction of Evidence or Alteration of Trial Procedures.

28.08[1] Narrowing Issues or Defenses. The parties may stipulate to limit the issues or defenses to be adjudicated [ Title Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1992) 4 C4th 715, 733, 14 CR2d 822, 842 P2d 121 ].

A stipulation may also admit liability or damages [ Gonzales v. Pacific Greyhound Lines (1950) 34 C2d 749, 754, 214 P2d 809 ].

Warning--Client May Have to Join Stipulation:

Counsel does not have authority to enter a stipulation that relinquishes substantial rights of the client, e.g., to stipulate to nominal damages [see Linsk v. Linsk (1969) 70 C2d 272, 277-278, 74 CR 544, 449 P2d 760 (listing stipulations outside attorney's authority); see also 28.04[2]].

Example:

Stipulation that the only issue to be tried was whether forbearance agreement was enforceable in lieu of prior forbearance agreement squarely presented the issue of the statute of frauds to the trial court for disposition by motion and opposition, and the issue was thus not waived [Secret v. Security National Mortgage Loan Trust 2002-2 (2008) 167 CA4th 544, 552, 84 CR3d 275 ].

28.08[2] Admitting Facts. The parties may stipulate that certain facts are undisputed and may be treated as proved in court [see CCP § 283(1)].

Proof of facts may be dispensed with by stipulation [ Greatorex v. Board of Admin. (1979) 91 CA3d 54, 58, 154 CR 37 ].

Warning--Stipulation Binding Even if Other Provisions Set Aside:

Once a party has stipulated to a fact, that party is bound by the stipulation even if other provisions of the stipulation are later set aside [ Rossmann v. State Bar (1985) 39 C3d 539, 542, 216 CR 919, 703 P2d 390 ].

28.08[3] Waiving Evidentiary Requirements.

28.08[3][a] Admission of Otherwise Inadmissible Evidence. Parties may stipulate to the admission of evidence even if it is otherwise inadmissible [ County of Alameda v. Risby (1994) 28 CA4th 1425, 1430, 34 CR2d 333 ]. Stipulations pertaining to the admission of evidence, absent an express limitation, apply to a later trial of the same action, unless the trial court allows the stipulation to be withdrawn [ City of Hope National Medical Center v. Genentech, Inc. (2008) 43 C4th 375, 398, 75 CR3d 333, 181 P3d 142 (stipulation admitted after withdrawal denied)].

Cross References:

Form of stipulation of facts, see 28.17.

Stipulating to the submission of a controversy on an agreed statement of facts, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 534, Submitted Controversy (Agreed Case) (Matthew Bender).

28.08[3][b] Admission of Depositions. Depositions may be admitted in evidence by stipulation [see, e.g., Los Angeles County Employees' Assn. v. Sanitation Dist. No. 2 (1979) 89 CA3d 294 ].

28.08[3][c] Expert Witnesses. The parties may also stipulate to the qualifications and findings of an expert witness [ McGuire v. Baird (1937) 9 C2d 353, 356, 70 P2d 915 ].

28.08[3][d] Judicial Notice. Parties may stipulate that the trial court take judicial notice of particular matters [ Laguna Beach Taxpayers' Ass'n v. City Council (1960) 187 CA2d 412, 416, 9 CR 775 ].

28.08[4] Modifying Trial Procedures. Stipulations are frequently made pertaining to procedural steps during trial. For example, stipulations may:

- Extend the time for trial or for a hearing on a motion [CCP § 1054].
- Provide that the action be tried by a temporary judge or special master [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.816; see, e.g., In re Horton (1991) 54 C3d 82, 97-98, 284 CR 305, 813 P2d 1335 ].
- Provide for the consolidation of actions with court approval under CCP § 1048(a).
- Designate the content of jury instructions [see, e.g., Cracknell v. Fisher Governor Co. (1967) 247 CA2d 857, 862, 56 CR 64 ].
- Waive findings by the court [see, e.g., Worcester v. Worcester (1966) 246 CA2d 56, 62, 54 CR 436 ].
- Provide that the case be taken under submission without further hearing [see, e.g., Jacoby v. Feldman (1978) 81 CA3d 432, 445-446, 146 CR 334 ].
- Waive the requirement that the court provide a statement of reasons for granting a new trial when it has expressly adopted previously filed reasons [see, e.g., Herman v. Shandor (1970) 8 CA3d 476, 481, 87 CR 443 ].
- Provide that the court determine liability issues before deciding whether to certify the case as a class action [ Woosley v. State (1992) 3 C4th 758, 794, 13 CR2d 30, 838 P2d 758 , cert. denied, 508 US 940, 113 S Ct 2416, 124 L Ed2d 639 (1993) ].

An attorney has the authority to stipulate to a temporary judge to hear the action without first obtaining express authority from the client [ In re Horton (1991) 54 C3d 82, 92-93, 284 CR 305, 813 P2d 1335 ].

Chapter 28 Stipulations
II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.09

28.09 Stipulation May Address Settlement of Action.

28.09[1] Stipulating to the Entry of Judgment. The parties to the action or proceeding may stipulate to the entry of judgment [see, e.g., California State Auto. Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Superior Court (1990) 50 C3d 658, 664, 268 CR 284, 788 P2d 1156 ].

The court may enter judgment on motion of a party pursuant to the terms of a settlement agreement that has either been stipulated to orally in court or by written agreement [CCP § 664.6; Corkland v. Boscoe (1984) 156 CA3d 989, 994, 203 CR 356 ].

Trap:

In most instances a stipulated judgment is not appealable. An exception to this rule permits an appeal if consent was merely given to facilitate an appeal following adverse determination of a critical issue [ Norgart v. Upjohn Co. (1999) 21 C4th 383, 400, 87 CR2d 453, 981 P2d 79 ; Villano v. Waterman Convalescent Hosp., Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 1189, 1198, 105 CR3d 276 ; Harrington-Wisely v. State of California (2007) 156 CA4th 1488, 1495, 68 CR3d 209] .

The Courts of Appeal are divided on when there has been an adverse determination of a critical issue. On the one hand, Division Seven of the Second Appellate District has ruled that the exception only applies when the stipulated judgment is final, in that it disposes of all issues between the parties [ Harrington-Wisely v. State of California (2007) 156 CA4th 1488, 1496, 68 CR3d 209] . On the other hand, the Fourth Appellate District's Division Two has ruled that the exception applies even if the trial court's challenged rulings were tentative and subject to reconsideration, or if an appealing plaintiff still has the possibility of recovering on his or her remaining causes of action [ Villano v. Waterman Convalescent Hosp., Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 1189, 1203, 105 CR3d 276] . Interestingly, both Districts rely on the same decision by Division Two of the Fourth Appellate District for their rule [see Tudor Ranches, Inc. v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1998) 65 CA4th 1422, 77 CR2d 574] .

The Villano decision of Division Two of the Fourth Appellate District noted that Tudor gives appellant the burden of showing reversible error by an adequate record. One aspect of that burden requires that the appellant develop the fullest possible evidentiary record before seeking review. Thus, an appellant must make an offer of proof in the trial court in order to claim on appeal that evidence was wrongly excluded. Similarly, if an appellant wishes to argue a point on appeal, it must first make a record by raising the point in the trial court. In addition, the appellant must show prejudice, in that it is reasonably probable a result more favorable to the appellant would have been reached absent the error [ Villano v. Waterman Convalescent Hosp., Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 1189, 1200, 105 CR3d 276] .

Warning--Client Must Participate:

A stipulation under CCP § 664.6 requires the direct participation of the parties; a stipulation signed only by the attorneys is not enforceable under Section 664.6 [ Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 C4th 578, 585-586, 41 CR2d 878, 896 P2d 171 ].

If requested by the parties, the court may retain jurisdiction over the parties to enforce the settlement [CCP § 664.6].

Cross Reference:

Discussion and forms, see Ch. 37, Settlement and Release, 37.47, 37.66.

28.09[2] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Apply to Stipulated Judgment. A stipulated judgment is a decision on the merits [ Greator v. Board of Admin. (1979) 91 CA3d 54, 58, 154 CR 37 ].

The doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel apply to those claims and issues embraced within a consent judgment [ Greator v. Board of Admin. (1979) 91 CA3d 54, 58, 154 CR 37 ].

A stipulated judgment normally determines all matters placed in issue by the pleadings but the parties can agree to restrict the scope of the judgment by expressly withdrawing an issue from it [see In re Marriage of Buckley (1982) 133 CA3d 927, 935, 184 CR 290 ].

II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.10

28.10 Parties Cannot Stipulate to Matters That Are Illegal or Contrary to Public Policy.

A stipulation is not binding on the court if it is illegal or contrary to public policy [see Mary R. v. B. & R. Corp., (1983) 149 CA3d 308, 316, 196 CR 871 (stipulated order of confidentiality is contrary to public policy); Copley Press, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 CA4th 367, 374, 74 CR2d 69 (sealing order in a civil case is always subject to continuing review and modification, if not termination, on changed circumstances)]. Therefore, a stipulation intended to bar a party's fraud claims does not bind the party [ McClain v. Octagon Plaza, LLC (2008) 159 CA4th 784, 797-798, 71 CR3d 885 ]. A stipulation cannot call for judgment that includes damages constituting a penalty unenforceable under Civ Code § 1671 [ Greentree Financial Group, Inc. v. Execute Sports, Inc. (2008) 163 CA4th 495, 497, 78 CR3d 24 ].

28.11 Parties Cannot Stipulate to Matters That Constitute Questions of Law.

A stipulation will not bind the court on questions of law, including legal conclusions to be drawn from admitted or stipulated facts, or interpretations of the federal and California Constitutions, statutes, and ordinances [ Fields v. Blue Shield of Cal. (1985) 163 CA3d 570, 579, 580 n.5, 209 CR 781 (stipulation to legal conclusion that document was not adhesion contract not binding on court); County of Inyo v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 160 CA3d 1178, 1183, 207 CR 425 (court cannot accept stipulation that eclipses prior, final adjudication of substantial issues; remaining jurisdiction limited to implementing terms of judgment)].

Chapter 28 Stipulations
II. ENTERING INTO STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.13

28.13 Requirements for Stipulations.

28.13[1] Written Record Is Usually Required. A stipulation is effective at any stage of an action or proceeding when filed with the clerk, or entered on the minutes of the court [see CCP § 283(1); see also Lipscomb v. Krause (1978) 87 CA3d 970, 974, 151 CR 465 ].

The extent of the agreement must be ascertainable from the record, either from the minutes, if oral, or from a writing filed with the clerk [ Cathcart v. Gregory (1941) 45 CA2d 179, 187, 113 P2d 894 ].

The terms of an oral stipulation entered in the minutes must be definite and certain to be valid and effective [ Harris v. Spinali Auto Sales, Inc. (1966) 240 CA2d 447, 452, 49 CR 610 ].

28.13[2] Exceptions to Requirement of Writing. Stipulations that are neither filed with the court nor entered on the minutes of the court will be recognized if they have been executed and cannot be nullified without doing an injustice to one party [see Baker v. Ramirez (1987) 190 CA3d 1123, 1135, 235 CR 857 ].

Despite the CCP § 283(1) requirement of a writing or entry in the minutes, an oral stipulation may be enforced based on the parties' conduct through either estoppel or ratification [ Harding v. Collazo (1986) 177 CA3d 1044, 1052, 223 CR 329 ].

If the party admits making the stipulation it will be as binding as if entered in the minutes [ Harding v. Collazo (1986) 177 CA3d 1044, 1052, 223 CR 329 ].

28.13[3] Signature or Assent by Attorney and/or Client. When there is an attorney of record, the attorney's signature or assent is required on the stipulation before the conduct or disposal of an action can be entertained by the court [ Wells Fargo & Co. v. City and County of San Francisco (1944) 25 C2d 37, 42-43, 152 P2d 625 ].

➤ Cross Reference:

An attorney may not enter into a stipulation impairing a substantial portion of the case or waive or compromise a client's fundamental rights without the client's express consent [ Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 C4th 578, 584, 41 CR2d 878, 896 P2d 171 ].

Chapter 28 Stipulations
III. REQUESTING RELIEF FROM STIPULATIONS

2-28 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 28.15

28.15 Requirements for Release From Stipulation.

28.15[1] Noticed Motion Is Required. A party may obtain a release from a stipulation only on a noticed motion to set it aside, made in the trial court and supported by an affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury stating the grounds for relief [ Harris v. Spinali Auto Sales, Inc. (1966) 240 CA2d 447, 453, 49 CR 610 ].

► Cross Reference:

Form, see 28.18.

28.15[2] Grounds. A party must show good cause in order to be released from a stipulation [ Huston v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1979) 95 CA3d 856, 865, 157 CR 355 ].

A court may exercise its sound discretion and set aside the stipulation in the following situations [see Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2010) 181 CA4th 752, 768, 104 CR3d 641 (knowingly taking the risk of unsettled law not grounds for avoiding stipulation); In re Marriage of Jacobs (1982) 128 CA3d 273, 283 n.3, 180 CR 234 ]:

- When a stipulation has been entered into through inadvertence, excusable neglect, fraud, mistake of fact, or mistake of law [see CCP § 473];
- When facts stipulated have changed or there has been a change in the underlying conditions that could not have been anticipated; or
- When special circumstances exist rendering it unjust to enforce the stipulation.

► Cross Reference:

Circumstances under which when stipulation entered into without the consent of the client may be set aside, see 12.04.

28.15[3] Mistake of Fact or Law. The trial court, in its discretion, may disregard a stipulation that has been entered into through inadvertence or mistake of fact [ County of Sacramento v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 77 CA4th 1114, 1121, 92 CR2d 290 ].

The court may relieve a party from a stipulation that incorrectly sets forth material facts that are contradicted by undisputed evidence [ Sinnock v. Young (1943) 61 CA2d 130, 131, 142 P2d 85 ].

A mistake of fact must be of a material character, that will change the legal rights of the parties, as well as one that could not have been avoided by the exercise of ordinary care [ Harris v. Spinali Auto Sales, Inc. (1966) 240 CA2d 447, 454, 49 CR 610 ].

When there is no mistake but merely a lack of full knowledge of the facts which is due to the failure of a party to exercise due diligence to ascertain them, there is no proper ground for relief from the stipulation [ Robinson v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1987) 194 CA3d 784, 791, 239 CR 841 ].

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
I. STRATEGY

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.02

29.02 Objective and Strategy.

Motions for reconsideration and renewed motions are used to attack adverse orders at the trial court level, but only when new or different facts, circumstances, or law can be shown [see CCP § 1008]. Neither is appropriately used to correct an erroneous ruling.

Strategic Point:

The two main distinctions between the motions are:

- Motion for reconsideration [CCP § 1008(a)]:
  - ☐ May be brought by any party.
  - ☐ Must be brought within 10 days after receiving service of notice of entry of the original order.
- Renewed motion [CCP § 1008(b)]:
  - ☐ May only be brought by original moving party.
  - ☐ No 10-day limit.

Strategic Point:

The three main hurdles for the moving party to overcome and, hence, points of attack for the opposing party are [see CCP § 1008]:

- Time limits.
- The requirement to show new or different facts, circumstances, or law.
- The requirement to give a satisfactory explanation for not presenting the new or different facts, circumstances, or law at the time of the original motion.

Judge's Perspective

Motions for reconsideration tend to be the most problematic for both counsel and the court. Counsel need to be aware that, for the trial court, the first impression regarding these motions is one of retracing old territory. Accordingly, the proponent of the motion has an immediate uphill battle in trying to justify why the ruling or order needs to be revisited. Moreover, motions for reconsideration, unlike any other, have the effect of making the court an advocate and, for the purposes of the hearing, your constructive opponent. Specifically, the opposing party can sit back and watch the proponent of the motion argue with the court. The fact that counsel forgot to cite existing substantive authority or that a new argument has surfaced is not going to save the motion from possible sanctions.

Warning:

The Legislature has amended CCP § 1008 several times. Take particular care when citing case law governed by versions of the statute prior to the January 1, 1993, effective date of major 1992 amendments. Before those amendments, CCP § 1008 did not purport to be jurisdictional or exclusive [ Kollander Construction, Inc. v. Superior Court (2002) 98 CA4th 304, 310, 119 CR2d 614 ], in contrast to the current version of the statute [see CCP § 1008(e)]. The 1992 and 1998 amendments have engendered considerable controversy concerning the statute's jurisdictional effect and required showings.

Determine timing.

Must move for reconsideration under CCP § 1008(a) within 10 days after being served with written notice of entry of order.

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.04

29.04 Options and Strategies for Moving Party.

Having new or different facts, circumstances, or law and a satisfactory explanation for not having presented that information at the time of the original motion is at the core of a motion for reconsideration or a renewed motion. Without this, the motion is not authorized and proceeding risks sanctions [CCP § 1008(a), (b), (d)].

If those prerequisites cannot be met, consider other possibilities, for example a CCP § 473(b) motion for relief from the order based on mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect.

Appellate courts are divided as to whether a trial court may reconsider its rulings when a party does not satisfy the requirements of CCP § 1008.

Warning:

Ignoring CCP § 1008 will not make it go away. If you file a second identical motion without explicitly fulfilling the requirements of section 1008, the court will nonetheless apply the section 1008 requirements to the motion [see Kerns v. CSE Ins. Group (2003) 106 CA4th 368, 380, 130 CR2d 754 (reversing summary judgment granted on second motion for summary judgment that did not comply with section 1008)].

Judge's Perspective:

Counsel are well advised to think carefully about bringing a motion for reconsideration. The court will demand strict adherence to the prerequisites of CCP § 1008. If there are new or different facts or case law then those matters should be addressed right up front. Do not bury the basis for the motion in the body of the memorandum. Specify and articulate the basis right in the notice portion of the motion.

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

Before making the motion weigh the benefit to be gained against the potential for increasing antagonism with opposing counsel, as well as the judge.

Warning:

A CCP § 1008 motion is not without risk. CCP § 1008(d) permits a finding of contempt and imposition of sanctions under CCP § 128.7 for failure to comply with the requirements of CCP § 1008.

Judge's Perspective:

Even if the moving party strongly believes that the original order or ruling of the court was in error the better course would be to seek writ review or appellate review. There is no advantage to bringing a renewed motion when the gist of what is requested is reconsideration.

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.05

29.05 Interim and Final Orders May Be Reconsidered or Renewed, but Ruling Must Come Before Judgment Is Entered.

29.05[1] CCP § 1008 Governs Both Interim and Final Orders. CCP § 1008 by its own terms, applies to motions to reconsider and to renew, whether the order deciding the previous matter or motion was interim or final. It applies to all applications for interim orders [CCP § 1008(e), (g)].

29.05[2] Reconsideration Is Not Allowed After Entry of Judgment. A trial court lacks jurisdiction to rule on a motion for reconsideration after judgment is entered [ APRI Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1999) 76 CA4th 176, 181, 90 CR2d 171 (vacating order granting motion on reconsideration; entry of written order of dismissal operates as judgment under CCP § 581d); Ramon v. Aerospace Corp. (1996) 50 CA4th 1233, 1236, 58 CR2d 217 ]. This is so even if the motion was filed before entry of judgment; after entry the court cannot correct judicial error except in accordance with statutory proceedings, of which a motion for reconsideration is not one [ APRI Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1999) 76 CA4th 176, 181, 90 CR2d 171 ; Nave v. Taggart (1995) 34 CA4th 1173, 1177, 40 CR2d 714 ].

Warning:

A motion for reconsideration undetermined after judgment, even if the trial court erroneously takes it up then, does not affect the time for filing an appeal. A party lulled into inaction on that basis may not avail itself of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.108 to file a late appeal after the normal deadline for filing an appeal [ Safeco Ins. Co. of Ill. v. Architectural Facades Unlimited, Inc. (2005) 134 CA4th 1477, 1480-1482, 36 CR3d 754 ].

Exception:

The Fourth District's Division Three of the Court of Appeals, in a decision discussing none of the cases cited above, has allowed a motion for reconsideration of a determination on a postjudgment motion to be filed and decided after entry of default judgment [ D.R.S. Trading Co., Inc. v. Barnes (2009) 180 CA4th 815, 819-822, 103 CR3d 329 (relying on CCP § 1008(e) to affirm reconsideration of motion to vacate based on attorney fault under CCP § 473(b))].

Strategic Point:

Following entry of judgment, a party should abandon any pending motion for reconsideration and determine whether it is appropriate to attack the judgment by [ Ramon v. Aerospace Corp. (1996) 50 CA4th 1233, 1238, 58 CR2d 217 ]:

- Motion for a new trial [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 371.60 et seq. (Matthew Bender)];
- Motion to vacate [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 371, Motions After Trial, § 371.90 et seq. (Matthew Bender)]; or
- Timely appeal [see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 40, Appeal: An Overview et seq. (Matthew Bender)].

With "extremely good cause," a court may construe a party's motion for reconsideration after entry of judgment as a motion for a new trial [20th Century Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 CA4th 1247, 1261, 109 CR2d 611, cert. denied, (2002) 535 US 1033, 122 S Ct 1788, 152 L Ed2d 648 (good cause found when trial court erroneously invited plaintiff's post-judgment motion)].

29.05[3] Distinction Between Orders and Judgments Is Not Always Clear. Every direction of a court or judge, made or entered in writing, and not included in a judgment, is an order [CCP § 1003]. Despite the wording of section 1003, an order need not include a direction, it may simply grant or deny a motion [ Passavanti v. Williams (1990) 225 CA3d 1602, 1606 n3, 275 CR 887 ].

A judgment is the final determination of the rights of the parties in an action or proceeding [CCP §§ 577, 1064]. There may be numerous orders made throughout a proceeding but only one judgment [ Passavanti v. Williams (1990) 225 CA3d 1602, 1605, 275 CR 887 ].

Exception:

Multiple final judgments are possible if there are multiple parties or a party has multiple capacities in the action and a judgment is final as to that party or capacity even though the case continues as to other parties, or the same party in a different capacity [ Justus v. Atchison (1977) 19 C3d 564, 568, 139 CR 97, 565 P2d 122 (multiple parties), disapproved on another ground in Ochoa v. Superior Court (1985) 39 C3d 159, 171, 216 CR 661, 703 P2d 1; Panico v. Truck Ins. Exchange (2001) 90 CA4th 1294, 1300-1301, 109 CR2d 638 (multiple parties); First Security Bank of California N.A. v. Paquet (2002) 98 CA4th 468, 474, 119 CR2d 787 (multiple capacities)].

This distinction between judgments and orders is not always clear:

- Some "orders," such as a written order of dismissal, are final judgments for purposes of appeal and res judicata, because they are the final determination of the parties' rights [CCP § 581d];
- Some orders, such as those granting or denying a new trial or vacating judgment, are made after final judgment [ Passavanti v. Williams (1990) 225 CA3d 1602, 1605 n3, 275 CR 887 ]; and
- Judgments sometimes are mislabeled as orders [ Passavanti v. Williams (1990) 225 CA3d 1602, 1606, 275 CR 887 ].

Examples:

The following orders have been held not to be final judgments and, thus, have been subject to reconsideration:

- Order granting a demurrer without leave to amend [ Rains v. Superior Court (1984) 150 CA3d 933, 945, 198 CR 249 (prior law)].
- Minute order granting summary judgment [see George Ball Pacific, Inc. v. Coldwell Banker & Co. (1981) 117 CA3d 248, 253, 172 CR 597 (prior law)].

Strategic Point:

If you prevail on a demurrer, summary judgment, or other motion that can end the case but is not a written dismissal that acts as a judgment under CCP § 581d, act promptly to ensure that a judgment is entered and notice of entry of judgment given. In addition to precluding reconsideration, doing so will start running the time for appeal [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.104].

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.06

29.06 Motions for Reconsideration and Renewed Motions Are Distinguishable.

29.06[1] Terms Often Used Interchangeably. The terms "motion to reconsider" and "renewed motion" often are used interchangeably, and both motions require a showing of new or different facts, circumstances, or law, but they are legally distinct. CCP § 1008(a) governs motions to reconsider, while CCP § 1008(b) governs renewed motions.

29.06[2] Motion to Reconsider May Be Made by Any Affected Party. A motion to reconsider may be made by any affected party and addresses any order "refused in whole or in part, or granted, or granted conditionally, or on terms." The statute sets a 10-day deadline for filing a motion for reconsideration [CCP § 1008(a)].

➡ Cross References:

Discussion of affected parties, see 29.07; discussion of deadline, see 29.08.

29.06[3] Renewed Motion May Be Made Only by Party Whose Original Motion Was Denied. A renewed motion is a new motion by the same party whose prior motion has been refused in whole or part, or granted conditionally or on terms, seeking the same relief. The statute does not set any deadline for renewing a motion. If a party fails to comply with the affidavit requirement of [CCP § 1008(b)] when renewing a motion, the subsequent order may be revoked or set aside on ex parte motion [see CCP § 1008(b); compare CCP § 1008(a), which does not contain a similar express ex parte motion provision].

Example:

A party's second application for a writ of attachment amounted to a renewed motion, not a motion for reconsideration and therefore did not need to be heard by the same judge who heard the first application. The motion did not ask the court to reconsider the matter and modify, amend, or revoke its prior order on the first application or claim that the court had erred in its original assessment of the evidence or law. The request in the second application for the same relief did not transform it into a motion for reconsideration [ Deauville Restaurant, Inc., v. Superior Court (2001), 90 CA4th 843, 848-849, 108 CR2d 863 ].

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.07

29.07 Any Party May Seek Reconsideration but Only Original Moving Party May Renew a Motion.

Any party affected by an order denying a motion in whole or in part, granting the motion, or granting it conditionally, or on terms, may move for reconsideration of the order [see CCP § 1008(a)].

In some instances, the term "Any party affected" may not be limited to parties to the action in which the order was entered, but may include nonparty members of the public who are affected [see Wilson v. Science Applications Internat. Corp. (1997) 52 CA4th 1025, 1033, 60 CR2d 883 (media attempt to set aside order sealing settlement)].

A renewed motion may only be brought by the party who originally made a motion that was denied in whole or part, or granted conditionally or on terms, may make a subsequent application for the same order upon new or different facts, circumstances, or law [see CCP § 1008(b)].

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.08

29.08 Time Limits.

29.08[1] Motion for Reconsideration Must Be Filed Within 10 Days After Service on Party of Written Notice of Entry of Order. A party moving for reconsideration must do so within 10 days after being served with written notice of entry of the order [CCP § 1008(a)].

Distinguish:

The ten-day deadline for filing a motion for reconsideration begins at the prevailing party's service of notice of the ruling, not the clerk's sending of notice [ Forrest v. Department of Corporations (2007) 150 CA4th 183, 203, 58 CR3d 466 (motion made more than ten days after clerk's mailing but less than ten days after prevailing party's service of notice was timely)].

Distinguish:

If a nonparty who has not been served with the order is moving for reconsideration, the 10-day period would never have commenced to run and will not preclude the motion [see Wilson v. Science Applications Internat. Corp. (1997) 52 CA4th 1025, 1033, 60 CR2d 883 ].

Strategic Point:

If an order is in your favor, be sure to serve it on all interested parties, or verify that the court clerk has done so, so that those parties cannot come in later and interfere [see CCP § 1019.5 (notice of court's decision or order)].

29.08[2] CCP § 1008 Does Not Set Time Limit on Renewal of Motion. CCP § 1008(b) sets no time limit on the making of a renewed motion or the court's ruling on it. In the case of an appealable order, however, a renewed motion must be brought before the order becomes final [see Stephen v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1991) 235 CA3d 806, 818, 1 CR2d 130 ].

29.08[3] Time Limits Derived From Other Statutes May Apply. Other statutes related to the type of order sought under CCP § 1008 may impose their own time limits on motions for reconsideration and renewed motions.

Example:

Under California law, an order that has the effect of denying class action certification a so-called "death knell ruling" is an appealable final judgment. One court held that although CCP § 1008 imposes no time limitations for renewed motions, a renewed motion for class certification is untimely if not made before the appealable prior order becomes final [ Stephen v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1991) 235 CA3d 806, 818, 1 CR2d 130 ].

The Stephen court noted but did not reach the question of whether a renewed motion, like a motion for reconsideration, was prohibited after entry of judgment [ Stephen v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1991) 235 CA3d 806, 817 n6, 1 CR2d 130 (acknowledging Passavanti v. Williams (1990) 225 CA3d 1602, 275 CR 887 )].

II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.09

29.09 Application to Reconsider Must Be Made to Same Judge or Court.

Before the 1992 amendments, CCP § 1008(a) required that a motion to reconsider an order be made to the same judge who made the order. The statute, as amended, requires that the motion be made to the same judge or court. Even with the amended wording, courts continue to state that the motion must be heard by the same judge unless that judge is unavailable [ International Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 784, 786 n2, 72 CR2d 849 (relying on pre-1992 authority)].

Distinguish:

A renewed motion need not be heard by same judge who heard initial motion [ Deauville Restaurant, Inc., v. Superior Court (2001) 90 CA4th 843, 849, 108 CR2d 863 ].

29.10 Court Commissioner May Hear Reconsideration Motion.

If parties stipulate to have their cause heard by a court commissioner sitting as a temporary judge, the commissioner will have authority to rule on any motion to reconsider its orders in the matter. A second stipulation is not necessary [ McCartney v. Superior Court (1990) 223 CA3d 1334, 1339, 273 CR 250 (prior law)].

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.11

29.11 Must Show New or Different Facts, Circumstances, or Law.

29.11[1] Must Establish by Affidavit or Declaration. Motions to reconsider and renewed motions must be based on new or different facts, circumstances, or law [CCP § 1008(a), (b)]. Failure to show new facts, circumstances, or legal authorities that were not previously presented in the original motion is a jurisdictional bar to consideration of a renewed motion [ Le Francois v. Goel (2005) 35 C4th 1094, 1104 (reversing trial court's granting of party's motion identical to prior denied motion); Kerns v. CSE Ins. Group (2003) 106 CA4th 368, 391, 130 CR2d 754 (vacating trial court order)].

The moving party must provide a supporting affidavit (or declaration under CCP § 2015.5) setting forth what new or different facts, circumstances, or law are claimed to be shown [CCP § 1008(a), (b)].

Warning:

Take care in using case law based on CCP § 1008 before 1992 amendments. The required showing for motion for reconsideration under former CCP § 1008(a) was a "different state of facts," and for renewed motion under former CCP § 1008(b) was "new" facts. The 1992 amendments made the grounds for both motions the same, i.e., a showing of "new or different facts, circumstances, or law" [CCP § 1008(a), (b)].

Decision Point:

If a new case has rendered a ruling wrong, consider the possibility of entering a joint stipulation to obtain a corrected ruling. Be open to this possibility even if the ruling was favorable to you. Weigh the possibility that the incorrect ruling, if allowed to stand, might result in the later reversal of a judgment in your favor.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 29.31.

29.11[2] What Constitutes New Facts Is Within Sound Discretion of Court. Whether alleged "new" facts are sufficient to satisfy the new facts requirement is within the sound discretion of the trial court [ Graham v. Hansen (1982) 128 CA3d 965, 971, 180 CR 604 (applying CCP § 1008(b) prior to 1992 amendment)].

New depositions that shed light on previously known facts may be adequate to support the new facts requirement. However, a reason for not having taken the depositions sooner may be needed [ Film Packages, Inc. v. Brandywine Film Productions, Ltd. (1987) 193 CA3d 824, 829-830, 238 CR 623 (alternative ground was that court had inherent power to hear renewed motion apart from CCP § 1008(b)); cf. In re Marriage of Burgard (1999) 72 CA4th 74, 84 CR2d 739 (failure to understand import of document was not excuse for failing to produce earlier)].

Warning:

Do not try to use a motion to reconsider or a renewed motion simply to augment the record.

29.11[3] Must Not Have Been Considered Previously by Court. The 1992 amendments may be assumed to approve generally the previous case law relaxation of what constitutes new or different facts justifying reconsideration, but this does not mean all facts not previously presented to a court now suffice [ Garcia v. Hejmadi (1997) 58 CA4th 674, 690, 68 CR2d 228 ]. It is not enough for party to reiterate its prior legal reasoning and authorities [see Gilberd v. AC Transit (1995) 32 CA4th 1494, 1500, 38 CR2d 626 ].

Distinguish:

Reconsideration on the basis of new facts, circumstances, or law is warranted on a showing that the trial court did not consider a timely filed memorandum in support of a special motion to strike [ Johnston v. Corrigan (2005) 127 CA4th 553, 556 ].

29.11[4] Must Not Be Wholly Collateral to Merits of Initial Motion. The new or different fact or circumstance required must not be something wholly collateral to the merits of the initial motion, such as the fact that respondent had not intended to waive oral argument [ Gilberd v. AC Transit (1995) 32 CA4th 1494, 1500 ].

29.11[5] Later-Enacted Statute Not Sufficient If No Retroactive Application. A later enacted statute does not constitute "new or different law" for purposes of CCP § 1008 if it does not apply retroactively [CCP § 1008(f)].

29.12 Must Show Satisfactory Explanation for Failure to Produce New or Different Facts, Circumstances, or Law Before Initial Order.

29.12[1] Party Must Make Threshold Showing of Diligence. To be entitled to reconsideration, the moving party must not only show evidence of new or different facts, circumstances, or law, but also must give a satisfactory explanation for having failed to produce that evidence at the original hearing [see Kalivas v. Barry Controls Corp. (1996) 49 CA4th 1152, 1161, 57 CR2d 200 (new or different facts); Baldwin v. Home Savings of America (1997) 59 CA4 1192, 1198-1200, (new or different law)]. The 1992 amendments to the statute did not eliminate the requirement of a threshold showing of diligence [ Garcia v. Hejmadi (1997) 58 CA4th 674, 690, 68 CR2d 228 ].

29.12[2] Inadvertence and Time Pressure Not Sufficient Explanation. Inadvertent oversight and time pressure do not justify moving party's failure to identify facts that were within the party's knowledge at the time of the original motion [ Garcia v. Hejmadi (1997) 58 CA4th 674, 690, 68 CR2d 228 ].

29.12[3] Mistake Based on Ignorance of Law or Imprecision in Drafting Not Basis for Reconsideration. Counsel's incorrect presumption that an offer to compromise included the issue of attorney fees was not the kind of new fact required by CCP § 1008; a mistake based on ignorance of the law or imprecision in drafting is not a proper basis for reconsideration [ Pazderka v. Caballeros Dimas Alang, Inc. (1998) 62 CA4th 658, 670, 73 CR2d 242 ].

29.12[4] Moving Party's Failure to Understand Relevance of Information in Party's Possession Not Satisfactory Explanation. A moving party's failure to understand the import of evidence in the party's possession until after hearing on original motion is not sufficient explanation for failing to submit the evidence or law at the hearing [ New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (2006) 135 CA4th 206, 213-215 ; 37 CR3d 338 (that deposition transcripts were not thought to be necessary to defeat motion for summary judgment is not satisfactory explanation); In re Marriage of Burgard (1999) 72 CA4th 74, 81-82, 84 CR2d 739 ].

29.13 Draft Motion Documents to Emphasize What Is New.

29.13[1] Notice of Motion and Motion. A notice of motion and motion is required [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(a)].

Strategic Point:

The moving papers should focus tightly on what is new or different right from the beginning. The papers should be kept as brief as possible. Align yourself with the court, emphasizing that the new development has made it necessary to correct a ruling that was correct when made, but that has become wrong in light of the new development. The moving papers should be limited to addressing what is new without revisiting all the unchanged facts, arguments, and law.

Cross References:

Forms, see 29.29, 29.30.

29.13[2] Supporting Memorandum. A supporting memorandum is required [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

Cross References:

Forms, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 158, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions (Matthew Bender).

29.13[3] Supporting Affidavit or Declaration. A party moving for reconsideration or renewing a motion must file a supporting affidavit or declaration [CCP §§ 1008(a), (b), 2015.5], setting forth:

- What motion was previously made.
- When motion was made.

- What judge heard motion.
- What order or decisions were made.
- What new or different facts, circumstances, or law are shown in present motion.

The moving party also must explain satisfactorily why the new or different facts, circumstances, or law were not presented with the initial motion [ Kalivas v. Barry Controls Corp. (1996) 49 CA4th 1152, 1161, 57 CR2d 200 (facts); Baldwin v. Home Savings of America (1997) 59 CA4th 1192, 1193, 1198-1200, 69 CR2d 592 (law)].

Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
II. MAKING A MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR RENEWED MOTION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.14

29.14 If Unable to Meet Statutory Requirements, Party May Suggest Court Invoke Inherent Power to Reconsider Interim Rulings On Its Own Motion.

CCP § 1008 clearly limits the parties' ability to file repetitive motions. However, it does not restrict the court's authority to reconsider its prior interim rulings on its own motion under its inherent power to correct errors in those rulings [ Le Francois v. Goel (2005) 35 C4th 1094, 1104-1105, 112 P3d 636 (applying its reasoning also to CCP § 437c(f)(2))].

Distinguish:

In clarifying the effect of CCP § 1008 on a court's inherent power to correct errors in interim rulings, the Supreme Court disapproved the rulings in Scott Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Ins. Co. (2003) 107 CA4th 197, 132 CR2d 89, Wozniak v. Lucutz (2002) 102 CA4th 1031, 126 CR2d 310, Kollander Construction, Inc. v. Superior Court (2002) 98 CA4th 304, 119 CR2d 614, Blake v. Ecker (2001) 93 CA4th 728, 113 CR2d 422 and Remsen v. Lavacot (2001) 87 CA4th 421, 104 CR2d 612 [ Le Francois v. Goel (2005) 35 C4th 1094, 1107, 112 P3d 636 ], which suggested that the court's power on its own motion was limited in some way by CCP § 1008. However, reconsideration to examine new evidence not in the record is an order for a new trial beyond trial court's sua sponte authority [ In re Marriage of Herr (2009) 174 CA4th 1463, 1469-1470, 95 CR3d 464 ]. In this context, even the trial's court erroneous grant of a motion for reconsideration by a party that is actually the court's ruling on its own motion is harmless error [ In re Marriage of Barthold (2008) 158 CA4th 1301, 1308-1309, 70 CR3d 691 ].

Strategic Point:

The Supreme Court has acknowledged that a court cannot prevent a party from suggesting that the court reconsider an interim ruling on its own motion [ Le Francois v. Goel (2005) 35 C4th 1094, 1108, 112 P3d 636 ]. In that case, the court may choose to make its own motion and should provide notice of hearing to the parties for them to contest the motion [ Le Francois v. Goel (2005) 35 C4th 1094, 1108-1109, 112 P3d 636 ].

Warning:

Do not make your own motion to reconsider; rather, suggest to the court orally at the earliest opportunity that the court make its own motion. An oral suggestion affords the opportunity to gauge the court's reaction to the suggestion. If there is no opportunity to make an oral suggestion, consider making the suggestion in a case management conference statement or other filing with the court. Do not send the court a letter requesting reconsideration of the motion because the letter will address substantive issues, and some judges consider such letters to be an ex parte communication, even when all parties are copied on the letter. Because judges receive far too many requests to reconsider their rulings, it is advisable to make such a suggestion only when counsel believes that there are compelling reasons.

Judge's Perspective:

In light of Le Francois, while counsel are free to ask the trial judge to review sua sponte the issue previously ruled on, the success of this request will depend greatly on the tact and diplomacy of counsel. Reconsideration requests are not favored by the court, but if it can be shown that the court should revisit the issue again so as to right a wrong then by all means the request should be made.

29.15 Alternative Methods of Relief May Be Available If Reconsideration Is Unavailable Under CCP § 1008.

29.15[1] Other Motions May Be Available to Accomplish Desired Result. A party unable to comply with CCP § 1008 should consider whether any of the following methods of relief from an order or judgment would be appropriate:

- Motion for relief from a judgment, dismissal, order, or other proceeding based on mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect, under CCP § 473(b) [ Wozniak v. Lucutz (2002) 102 CA4th 1031, 1043, 126 CR2d 310 ].
- Motion for correction of clerical mistakes in a judgment or orders [CCP § 473(d)].
- Motion for a new trial [CCP §§ 660, 657].
- Motion to vacate judgment [CCP §§ 662, 663].

➡ Cross References:

New trial and motions to vacate, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 371, Motions After Trial (Matthew Bender).

29.15[2] Court and Parties May Not Use Alternative Methods of Relief Merely to Circumvent CCP § 1008 Jurisdictional Limits. A party cannot use a demurrer or a CCP § 473 motion for relief based on mistake, surprise, inadvertence, or excusable neglect to indirectly obtain reconsideration of a prior adverse order without having to satisfy Section 1008's requirement of "new or different facts, circumstances, or law" [ Gilberd v. AC Transit (1995) 32 CA4th 1494, 1501-1502 ; but see Wozniak v. Lucutz (2002) 102 CA4th 1031, 1043, 126 CR2d 310 (trial court had jurisdiction to vacate prior order whether under inherent power to reconsider or for surprise under CCP § 473); Community

Memorial Hospital v. County of Ventura (1996) 50 CA4th 199, 205, 56 CR2d 732 (declining to follow Gilberd to extent that it might be read to preclude a summary judgment motion based on issues similar to those argued and lost on demurrer)].

Nor can a court avoid the jurisdictional limits of CCP § 1008(e) by simply ignoring another judge's prior stay order and setting a case for trial, instead of modifying, amending, or revoking stay order after proper, explicit reconsideration [ Morite of California v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 485, 492-493, 23 CR2d 666 ].

Coopers & Lybrand, LLP* (2003) 106 CA4th 1, 16-17, 130 CR2d 263 (filing one day beyond statutory 10-day limitation period is sufficient cause to deny motion)].

29.20 Seeking Sanctions for Noncompliance With CCP § 1008.

29.20[1] Trial Court May Punish Violation of CCP § 1008 as Contempt. A violation of CCP § 1008 may be punished as a contempt [CCP § 1008(d); see CCP §§ 1209, 1218, 1219].

Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 135, Contempt (Matthew Bender).

29.20[2] Trial Court May Impose Sanctions Under CCP § 128.7. Sanctions, as allowable under CCP § 128.7, may be imposed for a violation of CCP § 1008 [CCP § 1008(d)].

Mere legal inadequacy of a reconsideration motion, absent a finding of bad faith, frivolous motion, intention to cause unnecessary delay is insufficient to justify sanctions under CCP § 128.5 (prior law) [see Lucas v. Santa Maria Public Airport Dist. (1995) 39 CA4th 1017, 1028-1029, 46 CR2d 177 ].

Judge's Perspective:

Failure to comply with the statutory requirements of CCP § 1008 can be juxtaposed with the requirements of CCP § 128.7, and the combination of the two statutory elements can provide a sufficient basis for the imposition of sanctions. Even if the opposing party has not requested sanctions pursuant to CCP § 128.7 counsel for the moving party should weigh the risk of the court itself initiating the procedure.

A motion for sanctions under CCP § 128.7 must be made separately from the motion for reconsideration or opposition to it [CCP § 128.7(c)(1)].

A motion for sanctions brought primarily for an improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation, is itself subject to a motion for sanctions [CCP § 128.7(h)].

Strategic Point:

Given the timing issues on a 128.7 motion resulting from its safe harbor provision, it would be necessary to request the court for a continuance on the motion for reconsideration or renewed motion to accommodate a 128.7 motion. All in all it may be better simply to point out the absence of any basis for the motion for reconsideration or renewed motion, not mention sanctions, and allow the court to deal with the sanction issue.

29.21[2] Ex Parte Motion to Revoke or Set Aside Order Is Available for Failure to Comply With CCP § 1008(b). Any order made on a renewed motion may be revoked or set aside on ex parte motion if there was a failure to comply with CCP § 1008(b) [CCP § 1008(b); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq. (ex parte applications and orders)]. Chapter 29 Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions
IV. SEEKING REVIEW OF ORDER GRANTING OR DENYING RECONSIDERATION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.23

29.23 Distinguishing Between Grant or Denial of Motion for Reconsideration and Grant or Denial on Merits After Reconsideration.

A trial court may sometimes enter an order "denying reconsideration" when it is plain from the record that the first motion was denied without prejudice and the second ruling was intended to be a ruling on the merits of the original motion, not simply a denial of reconsideration [ Blue Mountain Development Co. v. Carville (1982) 132 CA3d 1005, 1011, 183 CR 594 (disapproved on another ground in Passavanti v. Williams (1990) 225 CA3d 1602, 1607-1608 n5, 275 CR 887 )].

A trial court may not ignore a notice of motion for reconsideration. If the court has jurisdiction to hear the motion but it appears to be based on substantially the same grounds as the original motion and seeks substantially the same relief, the court may do any of the following [ Muller v. Tanner (1969) 2 CA3d 445, 460-461, 82 CR 738 (prior law)]:

- Summarily deny the motion without further reconsideration.
- Give the matter reconsideration and deny it.
- Give the matter reconsideration and reverse the prior decision.

CCP §§ 904.1 and 904.2 set forth the types of orders that are appealable in civil cases. They do not list an order granting or denying reconsideration. This has led to a split of authority on whether such orders are appealable.

A trial court's denial of a motion to reconsider a nonappealable order has been held to also be nonappealable [ Ghanooni v. Super Shuttle (1992) 2 CA4th 380, 381 n2, 3 CR2d 43 (prior law) (criticized on other grounds in Greene v. Amante (1992) 3 CA4th 684, 689, 4 CR2d 571 (prior law))].

29.26 Grant or Denial of Reconsideration of Nonappealable Order May Be Reviewed by Extraordinary Writ.

A party may seek relief from an order granting or denying reconsideration of a nonappealable order via a writ petition [see APRI Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1999) 76 CA4th 176, 186, 90 CR2d 171 (writ directing denial of reconsideration motion); Mink v. Superior Court (1992) 2 CA4th 1338, 1344, 4 CR2d 195 (prior law; writ directing grant of motion for reconsideration)].

Division One of the Second Appellate District has held, however, that, absent compelling facts, an extraordinary writ ought not to be used to review orders granting or denying reconsideration of a summary adjudication order, since such orders are reviewable on appeal from final judgment [ International Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 784, 788, 72 CR2d 849 ].

29.27 Courts Are Split As to Whether an Order Denying Reconsideration of Appealable Order Is Appealable.

29.27[1] Cases Allowing Appeal. Some courts allow appeal of an order denying reconsideration if the underlying order was appealable, and the motion for reconsideration was based on new or different facts [ Santee v. Santa Clara County Office of Education (1990) 220 CA3d 702, 710-711, 269 CR 605 ]. These courts reason that the order qualifies as an order made after judgment under CCP § 904.1 [ Rabbitt v. Vincente (1987) 195 CA3d 170, 174, 240 CR 524 ].

If, however, the motion for reconsideration of an appealable order is based on exactly the same factual showing as was offered in support of the original motion, the party cannot appeal from the order denying the motion for reconsideration. Rather, the appeal must be taken from final judgment [ Gill v. Hughes (1991) 227 CA3d 1299, 1310-1311, 278 CR 306 ].

29.27[2] Cases Disallowing Appeal. Most recent cases hold that a motion for reconsideration is never appealable, for the same reasons that orders denying motions for a new trial or motions to vacate judgment are not appealable. Prohibiting such appeals, they reason, eliminates the possibilities that a nonappealable order or judgment may be made appealable, a party may have two appeals from the same decision, and a party may obtain an unwarranted extension of time to appeal [ Branner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (3d Dist., 2009) 175 CA4th 1043, 1050, 96 CR3d 690 ; Association for L.A. Deputy Sheriffs v. Cty. of L.A. (2d Dist., Div. 8, 2008) 166 CA4th 1625, 1633, 83 CR3d 494 ; In re Marriage of Burgard (1999) 72 CA4th 74, 81, 84 CR2d 739 ].

IV. SEEKING REVIEW OF ORDER GRANTING OR DENYING RECONSIDERATION

2-29 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 29.28

29.28 Determining Whether Motion Extends Time to Seek Review of Original Order.

29.28[1] Motion for Reconsideration Extends Time for Appeal. Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.108(e) explicitly provides for an extension of time to appeal an order if a "valid" motion to reconsider an appealable order under CCP § 1008(a) is filed and served.

- The time to appeal from the appealable order is extended for all parties until the earliest of the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.108(e)]:

- ☐ 30 days after the clerk mails, or a party serves, an order denying the motion or a notice of entry of that order.
- ☐ 90 days after the first motion to reconsider is filed.
- ☐ 180 days after entry of the appealable order.

- Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.108(e) applies to any "appealable order," whether made before or after judgment. It does not attempt to resolve the dispute over whether an order denying a motion to reconsider is itself appealable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.108, Advisory Committee Comment].

- To be "valid," a motion need only comply with all procedural requirements, such as timely filing. It need not also have substantive merit [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.108, Advisory Committee Comment]. To toll the appeal period, a motion for reconsideration must be valid at the time it is initially filed [ Branner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2009) 175 CA4th 1043, 1049, 96 CR3d 690 ] .

Example:

A motion to reconsider that is not accompanied by the affidavit required by CCP § 1008(a) at the time it is filed is invalid and does not extend the appeal period [ Branner v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (2009) 175 CA4th 1043, 1048-1049, 96 CR3d 690 ] .

The rule operates only to extend the time to appeal otherwise prescribed in Cal Rules Ct., Rule 8.104(a). It cannot shorten the time to appeal. If the normal time to appeal stated in 8.104(a) is longer than the time provided in 8.108(e), the time to appeal stated in 8.104(a) governs [Cal Rules Ct., Rule 8.108(a)].

The time for appeal of an appealable order or judgment starts to run on notice of entry of minute order, rather than the later date of the written order, unless the minute order expressly directs that a written order be filed [Cal Rules Ct., Rule 8.104(d)]; see Hughey v. City of Hayward (1994) 24 CA4th 206, 209-210, 30 CR2d 678 ; see also CCP § 668.5].

29.28[2] Court's Sua Sponte Reconsideration or Party's Renewed Motion Under CCP § 1008(b) Does Not Extend Time for Appeal. Cal Rules Ct., Rule 8.108(e) does not apply when a court reconsiders an order on its own motion or when a party renews its motion under CCP § 1008(b) [Cal Rules Ct., Rule 8.108, Advisory Committee Comment].

Chapter 30 Continuances
I. STRATEGY

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.02

30.02 Objective and Strategy.

Motions and applications for continuances are used to defer a hearing or a trial (or halt a trial) because additional time is required for the parties to fully prepare and present their case.

Continuances raise the competing interests of accommodating the parties' schedules versus the court's need to promptly dispose of cases on the civil calendar. The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act has changed the prior practice of generally granting continuances. With the current goal of disposing of 75 percent of nonexempt unlimited civil cases and 90 percent of nonexempt limited civil cases within one year of filing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(b)], it is easy to see why continuances are disfavored.

Strategic Point:

The willingness of an individual court to grant continuances varies greatly from courthouse to courthouse and even between individual judges sitting in the same locale.

Distinguish--Extensions of Time:

Motions and stipulations for extensions of time are made to increase the time within which to perform a duty or respond after being served with a summons or notice (e.g., a motion to extend statutory time to serve notice of motion or a stipulation to extend time to file responsive pleading). Both extensions of time and continuances result in a similar outcome (i.e. extra time); however, continuances are distinct in that they change established hearing or trial dates rather than increase the time frame within which to perform an act. While "good cause" is required for both procedures, the factual basis for good cause is different between the procedures, and courts have a more rigorous set of standards to be reviewed before granting a continuance.

Strategic Point--Joint Motions and Stipulations:

Even if a continuance of the trial date is uncontested or the parties stipulate to a continuance, a request for continuance must be made by a noticed motion or ex parte application [Cal Rules Ct, Rule, 3.1332(b)], but the joint motion or stipulation of all parties does show the willingness of the parties to accommodate one another and reduces the likelihood that a party is prejudiced by the continuance [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(d)(5), (9)]. However, the court's obligation to ensure prompt disposition of civil cases is a primary concern, and a stipulation based on a weak showing of good cause will be denied regardless of the parties' willingness to accommodate one another.

Judge's Perspective:

Joint Stipulations to continue a trial date are clearly preferred over contested motions. However, counsel need to avoid the notion of being presumptuous when presenting the court with the stipulation. Under no circumstances should counsel simply present a joint stipulation to the court with a proposed order and expect a fast track court to sign the proposed order unless the stipulation was invited by the court in the first place. Counsel should ask the court how best to proceed when a joint request is going to be made.

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.04

30.04 Options and Strategies for Party Seeking Continuance.

30.04[1] Consider Negative Consequences If Continuance Granted.

30.04[1][a] Court May Impose Costs and Conditions on Granting Continuance. The trial court has discretion to require the payment of the expenses incurred by the nonmoving parties as a result of the postponement as a condition of granting a continuance [CCP § 1024; see DeCesare v. Lember (1983) 144 CA3d 20, 25-26, 192 CR 354 ].

Courts also have the inherent authority to impose other conditions designed to protect adverse parties against prejudice that might otherwise result from the continuance [see Muller v. Tanner (1969) 2 CA3d 445, 458, 82 CR 738 (continuance conditioned on waiver of objection to timeliness of motion for security)].

► Cross Reference:

Payment of costs as condition of continuance, see 30.11.

30.04[1][b] Case May Be Removed From Calendar on Granting of Continuance. There is some possibility that a court might grant a continuance but order a case that is not subject to the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act removed from the civil active list. Because counsel may have to repeat the trial setting procedure (or move to set the case for trial) if the case is removed from the active list, counsel should evaluate this possibility before deciding to seek a continuance [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1335 (motion to reset for trial)].

Judge's Perspective:

Cases are rarely, if ever, removed from the civil active list simply because counsel are requesting a trial continuance. Instead, removal from the civil active list occurs more often when events preclude the trial court from acting further in the matter, such as when the matter is in arbitration, the sole defendant has declared bankruptcy, the matter is pending removal to federal court, or the matter is otherwise stayed [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.650].

30.04[1][c] Case May Be Dismissed for Failure to Prosecute If Not Timely Brought to Trial. Though unlikely given trial court case management under Fast Track Rules, the use of continuances may lead to involuntary dismissal for delay in prosecution. Repeated requests for continuances may result in discretionary dismissal on the court's own motion, or on the motion of the defendant if the plaintiff fails to settle or bring the case to trial within two years after filing [see CCP § 583.420(a)(2)(B); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1340]. If the plaintiff fails to bring the case to trial within five years after filing, mandatory dismissal may result [CCP §§ 583.310, 583.360; see Blank v. Kirwan (1985) 39 C3d 311, 331-332, 216 CR 718, 703 P2d 58 (prior law)].

If the facts of a particular case or the practice of the particular court require counsel to take the case off calendar rather than request a continuance to a specified date, the consequences of a dismissal for delay in bringing the action to trial can be avoided if the defendant waives the applicable statutory time requirement [CCP § 583.140; see Bank of America Nat'l Sav. & Trust Ass'n v. Superior Court (1937) 22 CA2d 450, 452-453, 71 P2d 296 (applying former CCP § 583(b))].

30.04[2] Consider Abatement or Stay Rather Than Continuance If Other Action Pending. When two cases involving substantially the same issues are pending in the same jurisdiction between identical parties, the prior action may be pleaded in abatement of the second action rather than seeking a continuance of one action pending the result of the other action [see CCP § 430.10(c)]. However, if abatement is not applicable because of some difference between the two cases, but the outcome of one of the actions could substantially resolve issues in the other, a continuance (sometimes described as a stay) of the latter case is appropriate [ Anthony v. General Motors Corp. (1973) 33 CA3d 699, 707-708, 109 CR 254 (continuance proper when pending case would be collateral estoppel on key issue)].

When one case is brought in California and a related action is pending in another state, instead of requesting a continuance of the California action, move to stay or dismiss on the grounds of inconvenient forum [see CCP §§ 410.30, 418.10(a)(2)].

Warning:

A motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum must be brought by a defendant before the last day to plead or the issue is waived [see CCP § 418.10(a)].

Cross References:

Discussion of other action pending as grounds for continuance, see 30.08[8].

Discussion of motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum, see Ch. 9, Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction, 9.23 et seq.

30.04[3] Determine If Continuance Governed by Specific Rather Than General Statute. The general grounds for continuances and the applicable motion procedures are set forth in CCP §§ 139, 473(a)(2), 594a-596, 1024, 1054, and 1054.1. However, specific statutes govern continuances in specific proceedings:

- Postponement of small claims court hearing if all parties are not present [CCP § 116.370(c)(2)].
- Procedure for requesting postponement of small claims court hearing date [CCP § 116.570].
- Proceedings to disqualify judges [CCP § 170.6(a)(4)].
- Proceedings to obtain temporary restraining order [CCP § 527].
- Proceedings to obtain temporary restraining order in labor dispute [CCP § 527.3].
- Proceedings involving adjudication of mining claims [CCP § 595.3].

- Proceedings to partition property [CCP § 873.850].
- Mandamus proceedings [CCP § 1090].
- Forcible entry and unlawful detainer proceedings [CCP § 1173].
- Contempt proceedings [CCP § 1217].
- Proceedings before state agency boards and administrative law judges [Gov Code § 11524].
- Probate proceedings [Prob Code §§ 1045, 1205].
- Motor vehicle actions against nonresidents [Veh Code § 17457].

Distinguish--Discovery:

An extension of time for discovery is not a ground for a continuance [CCP § 2024.060].

30.04[4] Consider Effect of Local Rules Limiting Continuances. The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act requires all superior courts to implement trial court delay reduction programs and apply firm, consistent policies against continuances as is reasonably possible in all stages of litigation [see Gov Code §§ 68605.5, 68607, 68620]. The Act permits parties to stipulate to a single continuance, not to exceed 30 days, within 30 days of filing responsive pleadings [Gov Code § 68616(d)].

Most trial courts have local rules governing continuances, either in general or in specific situations. Local rules may affect when continuances can be requested, impose writing and execution requirements, and specify or modify the grounds for continuances [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.12(a) (a lawyer should not attach unfair and extraneous conditions to extensions); Alameda Super Ct Rules, Rule 5.2 (no hearing may be dropped or continued less than 48 hours before the hearing); Sacramento Super Ct Rules, Rule 11.09 (filing no later than 170 days after complaint filed; stipulation ineffective unless filed with court within 30 days of service of all responsive pleadings; all responsive pleadings must have been served within 30 days of date of stipulation)].

30.04[5] Consider Effect of Preference Status. When a case is entitled to preferential trial setting based on age or terminal illness, the case must be set for trial within 120 days [CCP § 36]. A continuance beyond that 120-day period may only be granted based on the physical disability of a party or counsel, or on some other showing of good cause in the record [see CCP § 36]. If granted, the continuance is limited to 15 days, and only one continuance may be sought by any one party [CCP § 36(f)].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

If the party in whose favor the preference was granted is not prepared for trial on the continued date, the party may request off-calendar status [see Greenblatt v. Kaplan's Restaurant (1985) 171 CA3d 991, 995-996, 217 CR 746 ].

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.05

30.05 Court Has Discretionary Authority to Grant Continuance.

The authority to postpone the time of a hearing or trial is inherent in the court's jurisdiction to hear and determine a proceeding [ Curtis v. Underwood (1894) 101 C 661, 669, 36 P 110 ]. This authority is independent from the rules of court specifying procedures for the exercise of this authority [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332], and from statutory and case law delineating when this authority is appropriately exercised [see CCP §§ 594a-596; see also Taylor v. Bell (1971) 21 CA3d 1002, 1008, 98 CR 855 ].

The trial court has discretion to determine whether to grant a continuance even when the applicable statutory language appears to make postponement mandatory [ Pham v. Nguyen (1997) 54 CA4th 11, 15, 62 CR2d 422 ; Thurmond v. Superior Court (1967) 66 C2d 836, 838-840, 59 CR 273, 427 P2d 985 ]. This discretion has been described as a legal discretion, not capricious or arbitrary, but one controlled in its exercise by fixed legal principles [ Kalmus v. Kalmus (1951) 103 CA2d 405, 415, 230 P2d 57 ]. Further, the court has broad discretion to determine the existence of good cause [ Estate of Smith (1973) 9 C3d 74, 81, 106 CR 774, 507 P2d 78 ]. Absent a clear abuse of this discretion, the trial court's finding of good cause to support a continuance will not be disturbed by an appellate court [ Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 429, 240 CR 656 ]. However, trial courts may be reversed for refusing to grant a continuance if their actions, however laudable in controlling their calendar, deny the party an opportunity to fairly and fully present his or her case [ Hays v. Viscome (1953) 122 CA2d 135, 140, 264 P2d 173 ].

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.06

30.06 Courts Generally Disfavor Continuances.

Continuances before or during trial in civil cases are disfavored. The dates assigned for trial are firm, and all parties and their counsel must regard the date set for trial as certain [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332; see Gov Code § 68607(g) (judges are directed to use firm, consistent policy against continuances, to maximum extent possible and reasonable); see also Lazarus v. Titmus (1998) 64 CA4th 1242, 1249, 75 CR2d 676 (upholding denial of continuance when plaintiff's acceptance of job offer and need to attend training conflicted with trial date)].

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332 bars the granting of a continuance of a trial date except on an affirmative showing of good cause. A request for continuance almost always affects the court's ability to meet its obligations under the fast track rules. Nonetheless, a request for a continuance supported by a showing of good cause usually ought to be granted, absent some balancing circumstances [see Estate of Meeker (1993) 13 CA 4th 1099, 1105, 16 CR2d 825 ].

Judge's Perspective:

Recently, the trend has been to focus too much on absolute adherence to fast track time standards. In both fast track and complex litigation, trial judges need to be more flexible and should orient their primary focus on the dispensing of justice [see Estate of Meeker (1993) 13 CA 4th 1099, 16 CR2d 825 ; Polibrid Coatings, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 112 CA4th 920, 923-924 (trial continuance required where necessary to allow late-added defendant an opportunity to reasonably complete discovery and bring a summary judgment motion; denial of continuance reversed where based on need to maintain disposition time goals)]. Specifically, in Estate of Meeker at page 1105 , the Court states the following: "... [w]e do question the increasing number of trial court decisions reflecting an attitude of absolute adherence to time standards without regard to the court's raison d'etre."

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.07

30.07 Court Requires Affirmative Showing of Good Cause.

30.07[1] Showing of Good Cause Required by Moving Party. Although continuances of trials are disfavored, each request for a continuance must be considered on its own merits; and the court may grant a continuance only upon an affirmative showing of good cause requiring the continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)]. Circumstances that may indicate good cause include [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)]:

- The unavailability of an essential lay or expert witness because of death, illness, or other excusable circumstances.
- The unavailability of a party because of death, illness, or other excusable circumstances.
- The unavailability of trial counsel because of death, illness, or other excusable circumstances.
- The substitution of trial counsel, but only where there is an affirmative showing that the substitution is required in the interests of justice;
- The addition of a new party if:
  - ☐ The new party has not had a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery and prepare for trial, or
  - ☐ The other parties have not had a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery and prepare for trial in regard to the new party's involvement in the case.
- A party's excused inability to obtain essential testimony, documents, or other material evidence despite diligent efforts.
- A significant, unanticipated change in the status of the case as a result of which the case is not ready for trial.

One element of good cause has been described as necessity [ County of San Bernardino v. Doria Mining & Eng'g Corp. (1977) 72 CA3d 776, 781, 140 CR 383 ].

Other elements typically evaluated in determining the existence of good cause are the party's past record of diligence in proceeding with the case and the degree of prejudice to either side [see Carl v. Thomas (1931) 116 CA 294, 300-301, 2 P2d 872 ].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

The type of continuance sought ordinarily determines the type of "good cause" that must be shown to support the motion. Although several statutes describe situations that support a finding of good cause for a continuance, case law describes other sets of facts in which continuances have been deemed either justifiable or necessary [ Taylor v. Bell (1971) 21 CA3d 1002, 1008, 98 CR 855 ].

30.07[2] Court's Determination of Good Cause Based on Specific Factors. In ruling on a motion or application for continuance, the court must consider all the facts and circumstances that are relevant to the determination, which include [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(d) ]:

- The proximity of the trial date.
- Whether there was any previous continuance, extension of time, or delay of trial due to any party.
- The length of the continuance requested.
- The availability of alternative means to address the problem that gave rise to the motion or application for a continuance.
- The prejudice that parties or witnesses will suffer as a result of the continuance.
- If the case is entitled to a preferential trial setting, the reasons for that status and whether the need for a continuance outweighs the need to avoid delay.
- The court's calendar and the impact of granting a continuance on other pending trials.
- Whether trial counsel is engaged in another trial.
- Whether all parties have stipulated to a continuance.
- Whether the interests of justice are best served by a continuance, by the trial of the matter, or by imposing conditions on the continuance.
- Any other fact or circumstance relevant to the fair determination of the motion or application.

However, Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.100(f) permits a trial court to deny a request for accommodation, which under appropriate circumstances may include a continuance [ In re Marriage of James & Christine C. (2008) 158 CA4th 1261, 1274 n.4, 70 CR3d 715 (interpreting Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.100(a)(3)) ], under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., only if the court makes a determination of at least one of three specifically identified grounds [ In re Marriage of James & Christine C. (2008) 158 CA4th 1261, 1265 n.2, 70 CR3d 715 ].

30.07[3] Court Must Be Notified Immediately of Need for Continuance. The party must make the motion or application for continuance of the trial date as soon as reasonably practical once the necessity for the continuance is discovered [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b) ]. A delay may support a finding of lack of good cause [ Lazarus v. Titmus (1998) 64 CA4th 1242, 1249, 75 CR2d 676 ].

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.08

30.08 Grounds for Continuance.

30.08[1] Unavailable Material Witness.

30.08[1][a] Witness Testimony Must Be Material. The unavailability of an essential lay or expert witness because of death, illness, or other excusable circumstances may be considered good cause for a continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(1)]. The unavailability of a material witness, or the absence of material evidence, may constitute proper grounds for a continuance [ Jurado v. Toys "R" Us, Inc. (1993) 12 CA4th 1615, 1618, 16 CR 2d 158 ; Cade v. Mid-City Hospital Corp. (1975) 45 CA3d 589, 599-600, 119 CR 571 ]. The testimony of the absent witness must be material in the sense that the evidence cannot be proven in other ways [see Oak Knoll Broadcasting Corp. v. Hudgings (1969) 275 CA2d 563, 565-566, 80 CR 175 (defining material witness)]. Thus, a witness whose testimony is cumulative or only collateral to the controverted issue, or who is needed only for impeachment purposes, is not a material witness for the purpose of granting a continuance [ Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 429, 240 CR 656 (cumulative testimony); Zlotoff v. Tucker (1984) 154 CA3d 988, 993-994, 201 CR 692 (collateral issue); In re Steiner (1955) 134 CA2d 391, 395, 285 P2d 972 (impeachment only)].

30.08[1][b] Due Diligence to Procure Attendance Required. Obtaining a continuance on the basis of the absence of a material witness requires a showing of diligence [see CCP § 595.4]. Counsel must state facts that support a claim of diligence [ Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 430, 240 CR 656 ]. In the case of a scheduled witness, counsel should show substantial previous efforts to procure the witness's attendance [see Marcucci v. Vowinkel (1913) 164 C 693, 694-695, 130 P 430 ; Jurado v. Toys "R" Us, Inc. (1993) 12 CA4th 1615, 1619, 16 CR2d 158 (denial of continuance reversed when one subpoenaed medical expert left country before trial and other moved with no forwarding address); see also Kramer v. Kramer (1961) 197 CA2d 727, 731, 17 CR 461 (denial of continuance upheld when witness was on call, but not subpoenaed, and court refused to wait 15 minutes for witness to appear)].

Denial of a continuance is justified if counsel cannot identify the witness or state when the witness will be available [ Allstate Ins. Co. v. King (1967) 252 CA2d 698, 703, 60 CR 892 ].

30.08[1][c] Consider Substitution for Ill Witness and Include Doctor's Declaration. Though former Cal Rules Ct, App, Div. § 9 is now repealed, the court might still find good cause is not met if there is a reasonable opportunity that another witness may be substituted. Be prepared to show the court why substituting another witness is impossible or impracticable.

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

The illness of a witness should be supported whenever possible by an appropriate declaration of a medical doctor, stating the nature of the illness and anticipated period of incapacity.

30.08[1][d] Affidavit or Declaration of Materiality and Due Diligence Required to Postpone Trial. To postpone a trial date, the motion for continuance can only be made by affidavit (or declaration under CCP § 2015.5) showing the evidence's materiality and the due diligence used to procure it [CCP § 595.4].

30.08[1][e] Court May Require Affidavit or Declaration of Expected Testimony to Postpone Trial. For a motion to postpone a trial due to an unavailable material witness, the court may require moving party to state upon affidavit (or declaration under CCP § 2015.5) the evidence (testimony) expected to be obtained [CCP § 595.4].

Trap:

If the adverse party to the continuance admits that the testimony proffered in the affidavit or declaration would be that given at trial, and that it be considered as actually given on the trial, the court must not continue the trial [CCP § 595.4]. Moreover, if the proffered testimony is offered and overruled as improper, the court must not continue the trial [CCP § 595.4].

Strategic Point--Movant:

When preparing the expected testimony, be very careful to include all material points in support of the case. The adverse party may accept the testimony as a tactical decision if important parts of the testimony are left out. The more complete the testimony, the less likely the adverse party will accept it because of the lack of opportunity for cross examination. Additionally, review the testimony for possible evidentiary objections to avoid the court finding the evidence improper and denying the continuance.

30.08[2] Unavailable Material Evidence.

30.08[2][a] Evidence Must Be Material. A party's excused inability to obtain essential testimony, documents, or other material evidence despite diligent efforts may be considered good cause for a continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(6)]. The absence of material evidence, or the unavailability of a material witness, may constitute proper grounds for a continuance [ Jurado v. Toys "R" Us, Inc. (1993) 12 CA4th 1615, 1618, 16 CR 2d 158 ; Cade v. Mid-City Hospital Corp. (1975) 45 CA3d 589, 599-600, 119 CR 571 ].

Distinguish:

In cases that have held the evidence to be immaterial, the party has usually been exceedingly lax in bringing the case to trial [see Agnew v. Larson (1961) 197 CA2d 444, 449-450, 17 CR 538 ]. In contrast, courts may overlook a moderate failure of diligence if the evidence is of critical importance to the party's cause [see Murr v. Murr (1948) 87 CA2d 511, 521-522, 197 P2d 369 ].

30.08[2][b] Due Diligence to Obtain Evidence Required. Obtaining a continuance on the basis of absent material evidence requires a showing of diligence [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(6); see CCP § 595.4]. Counsel must state facts that support a claim of diligence [ Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 430, 240 CR 656 ]. Diligence is lacking when counsel requests time to obtain evidence, the need for which should have been anticipated before the trial [ Estate of Smith (1973) 9 C3d 74, 81, 106 CR 774, 507 P2d 78 ; Advantec Group, Inc. v. Edwin's Plumbing Co., Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 621, 630-631, 63 CR3d 195 (denial of continuance to obtain certified copy of license)].

Strategic Point:

If the plaintiff's complaint alleges that the plaintiff possesses a license necessary to maintain the action, a general denial puts that allegation at issue, without the need to raise the issue by affirmative defense, and because the plaintiff should have anticipated the burden of proving possession of the license, the trial court need not continue the trial to allow the plaintiff to cure the license requirement [see Advantec Group, Inc. v. Edwin's Plumbing Co., Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 621, 630-631, 63 CR3d 195 ]. In such a situation, the defendant may not want to alert the plaintiff to this issue by raising it by a plea in abatement or as an affirmative defense. In turn, the plaintiff should be alert to the need to prove the license requirement at trial or risk a nonsuit and adverse judgment.

However, counsel is not required to anticipate an unpredictable change of events at trial [ Crosby v. Martinez (1958) 159 CA2d 534, 541-542, 324 P2d 26 (legal surprise as basis for continuance when evidence admitted in error and rebuttal witness not otherwise needed)].

30.08[2][c] Affidavit or Declaration of Materiality and Due Diligence Required to Postpone Trial. A motion to postpone a trial on unavailable material evidence must be made on affidavit (or declaration under CCP § 2015.5) showing the materiality of the evidence expected to be obtained, and that due diligence has been used to procure it [CCP § 595.4]. Counsel must describe the desired evidence with particularity and state facts showing its materiality [ Lea v. Shank (1970) 5 CA3d 964, 977, 85 CR 709, 86 CR 515 ; see Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 429, 240 CR 656 ]. An affidavit or declaration that states evidence already testified to, or that fails to describe the evidence adequately, is insufficient to support a continuance to produce material evidence [ Stephens v. Aviation Research & Dev. Pub. Corp. (1966) 243 CA2d 349, 351, 52 CR 322 ].

30.08[3] Unavailable Party.

30.08[3][a] Mere Absence Insufficient, Good Cause Requires Critical Necessity of Party's Presence. The unavailability of a party because of death, illness, or other excusable circumstances may be considered good cause for a continuance [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(2) ]. The mere absence of a party from a proceeding is not sufficient reason to compel a court to grant a continuance [ Young v. Redman (1976) 55 CA3d 827, 832, 128 CR 86 ]. Thus, a party may bring an issue to trial or hearing and proceed with the case in the absence of the other party unless the court, for good cause, otherwise directs [CCP § 594(a)].

Good cause requires more than a showing of serious illness or unavoidable absence [ Nahas v. Nahhas (1955) 135 CA2d 440, 442, 287 P2d 381 ]. The party's presence must be critically necessary to assist counsel or to testify [ Sonstelie v. Bush (1929) 102 CA 396, 398-399, 283 P 336 ]. Further, the party should have been otherwise proceeding with the case diligently [ Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. Taylor (1921) 52 CA 307, 310, 198 P 651 ]. A party's illness does not support a continuance if the trial court concludes that the party is able to attend trial [ Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 430, 240 CR 656 ].

Parties must consider trial dates to be definite court appointments taking priority over nonemergencies. Therefore, a party's unavailability will not support a finding of good cause when the conflicting commitment was made with knowledge of the trial date [ Lazarus v. Titmus (1998) 64 CA4th 1242, 1249, 75 CR2d 676 ].

Exception:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.100(f) permits a trial court to deny a disabled party's request for accommodation, which under appropriate circumstances may include a continuance [ In re Marriage of James & Christine C. (2008) 158 CA4th 1261, 1274 n.4, 70 CR3d 715 (interpreting Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.100(a)(3))], under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., only if the court makes a determination of at least one of three specifically identified grounds [ In re Marriage of

James & Christine C. (2008) 158 CA4th 1261, 1265 n.2, 70 CR3d 715 ].

Exception:

A continuance is appropriate when a scheduled trial date unexpectedly changes and a party's prior commitment conflicts with the new date [ Link v. Cater (1998) 60 CA4th 1315, 1324-1326, 71 CR2d 130 (denial of continuance was abuse of discretion when notification of delay was late and new date conflicted with preexisting medical appointment)].

Drawback--Continuance Conditioned on Taking Deposition:

Though former Cal Rules Ct, App, Div. § 9 is now repealed, the court might still condition a continuance of the taking of a deposition. If a party has already or could testify by deposition, continuances based on illness are ordinarily denied except for continuances for evidence-taking [ Young v. Redman (1976) 55 CA3d 827, 831, 128 CR 86 (voluntarily absent party had already given deposition); Russell v. Roberts (1974) 39 CA3d 390, 397, 114 CR 305 (party hospitalized but available for evidence-taking)].

30.08[3][b] Submit Doctor's Declaration If Party Ill. The illness of a party should be supported, whenever possible, by an appropriate declaration of a medical doctor, stating the nature of the illness and the anticipated duration of any incapacity [see In re Marriage of James & Christine C. (2008) 158 CA4th 1261, 1275, 70 CR3d 715 (doctor's declaration provided explanation of condition required for accommodation of disability, i.e., continuance, requested under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. in accordance with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.100(f)) and In re Marriage of Teegarden (1986) 181 CA3d 401, 405-406, 226 CR 417 ].

30.08[4] Party in Military Service.

30.08[4][a] Servicemembers Civil Relief Act Is Federal Authority for Continuance. The Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 USC app § 501 et seq.; formerly known as the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act] empowers courts to continue any case in which a party is in the military service unless the party's ability to prosecute or defend is not materially affected by reason of military service [50 USC app §§ 521(d)-(f), 522; see Buttler v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 153 CA3d 520, 526, 200 CR 372 ].

The Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, enacted in 2003 and replacing the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, significantly changed the federal law to make the granting of stays essentially automatic; in any action or proceeding in which a person in the military service is involved, the court is required to grant a stay of proceedings for a minimum period of 90 days upon application by the qualified servicemember [50 USC app, §§ 521, 522; see also Christine M. v. Superior Court (1999) 69 CA4th 1233, 1243-1245, 82 CR2d 220 (interpreting prior law, but showing record supported denial of requested stay)].

Distinguish:

Unlike the initial stay, the court has discretion whether to grant an additional stay under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [see 50 USC § 522(d)], and the court may deny it if the servicemember's ability to appear and participate in a civil action is not adversely affected by his or her military duties, in which case the court may alternatively appoint counsel [ George P. v. Superior Court (2005) 127 CA4th 216, 224-225 ].

Exception:

Continuances have been held unnecessary if only issues of law, not fact, are in dispute or if the military party is judgment-proof [ Whealton v. Whealton (1967) 67 C2d 656, 665-666, 63 CR 291, 432 P2d 979 ; Culver v. Superior Court (1954) 125 CA2d 76, 78, 270 P2d 78 (interpreting prior law, but may be applicable under new Act)].

30.08[4][b] State Statutes Provide Protections for Reservists and Members of the National Guard. California has enacted statutes similar to the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act to offer protections for service members who are officers and enlisted members of the National Guard called or ordered into active state service by the Governor or President, and Reservists of the United States Military Reserve who have been called to full-time active duty [see M&V § 400 et seq.]. At any stage in any action or proceeding in which a service member is involved as plaintiff or defendant during the period of military service or within 60 days thereafter, the court may, in its discretion on its own motion, and must, on application to it by the service member or some person on his or her behalf, stay the action or proceeding unless the court concludes that the plaintiff's ability to prosecute the action or the defendant's ability to conduct his or her defense is not materially affected by reason of the military service [see M&V § 403(a)].

The court may order a stay of any action for the period of military service and three months thereafter, or any part of that period, and subject to those terms as may be just. If the service member is a codefendant, plaintiff may, by leave of court, proceed against the others [see M&V § 403(d)].

Warning:

In 2003, the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (formerly the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act) was significantly changed to make the granting of stays brought under this Act essentially automatic upon application by the servicemember. The revisions to the federal law eliminated language allowing the court to deny the stay if in the court's opinion military service did not materially affect the servicemember's ability to prosecute or defend the action [see 50 USC app § 522]. However, California law, patterned after the former law, retains this requirement. Cases interpreting the federal law prior to the 2003 revisions may be useful in supporting a motion for a continuance brought under the California Military and Veterans Code which requires the servicemember to make a prima facie showing that his or her ability to prosecute or defend is materially affected by reason of military service.

30.08[5] Unavailable Trial Counsel.

30.08[5][a] Diligence of Counsel Required And Schedule Conflicts Must Be Unavoidable. The unavailability of trial counsel because of death, illness, or other excusable circumstances may be considered good cause for a continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(3); see Thomas v. Toppins (1928) 206 C 18, 19, 272 P 1042]. Continuances may be granted to counsel to provide additional preparation time, resolve a conflict between cases, or reschedule a case when counsel is absent. Counsel must show both diligence and necessity [ County of San Bernardino v. Doria Mining & Eng'g Corp. (1977) 72 CA3d 776, 783, 140 CR 383 ]. When the asserted basis for continuance is the unavailability of counsel, the trial court must carefully consider the reasons for that unavailability when exercising its discretion with due regard to all interests involved [ Arm v. State Bar (1990) 50 C3d 763, 776, 268 CR 741, 789 P2d 922 ].

When the party and counsel have been diligent, but counsel is nonetheless not ready for trial, denial of a continuance has been held to be reversible error [ Vann v. Shilleh (1975) 54 CA3d 192, 196-199, 126 CR 401 (denial of continuance reversed when former counsel withdrew, not at party's request, one or two days before trial); Cohen v. Herbert (1960) 186 CA2d 488, 493-496, 8 CR 922 (denial of continuance reversed when attorney was involved in military duties, opposing party was not prejudiced, and receivership would be imposed absent continuance)]. An unusual problem with a case in and of itself will not support a continuance if the number of trial preparation days was adequate [ Beck v. Reinholtz (1956) 138 CA2d 719, 722-723, 292 P2d 906 (denial of continuance affirmed when attorney discovered he lacked all necessary information during pretrial period longer than that prescribed by statute)].

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332 eases the restrictiveness of the prior rule (former Cal Rules Ct, App, Div. I, § 9(3)(i) (repealed January 1, 2004)) with respect to continuances for schedule conflicts of counsel. In determining such questions, the court must apply all relevant factors of the rule [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(d)]. The policy of expediting civil cases generally cannot override the trial court's obligation to hear cases on the merits; a civil litigant has a constitutional right to be represented by counsel at trial, which generally may not be abrogated simply because the trial court concludes that the litigant's counsel of choice takes on too many cases [ Oliveros v. County of Los Angeles (2004) 120 CA4th 1389, 1398-1399 ].

Distinguish:

Counsel may well still have a duty under the rule to anticipate or take steps to resolve the schedule conflict [see Bixby v. Hotchkis (1945) 72 CA2d 368, 371-372, 164 P2d 808 (decided under prior rule)], but appellate courts have not yet expounded on the extent of that duty under the new rule and the consequences for violating it.

Warning--Local Rules:

Local court rules or practice may also restrict the availability of continuance on the ground of schedule conflict [see, e.g., San Mateo Super Ct Rules, Rule 2.3(e)(4) (no continuance of trial date on ground that counsel is engaged in trial of another case unless trial counsel and back-up trial counsel were specified at first case management conference)].

30.08[5][b] Necessity of Counsel Required. Even when the party and attorney act with diligence, a continuance may be denied if there is no real necessity for its issuance [ Fejer v. Paonessa (1951) 104 CA2d 190, 194-195, 231 P2d 507 (denial of continuance affirmed when two of party's attorneys were unprepared but party had adequate representation from third counsel); County of San Bernardino v. Doria Mining & Eng'g Corp. (1977) 72 CA3d 776, 783, 140 CR 383 (denial of continuance affirmed when party sought to substitute counsel without showing that counsel of record was unable or unwilling to provide representation)].

30.08[5][c] Substitution of Trial Counsel Requires Affirmative Showing. The substitution of trial counsel may be considered good cause for a continuance, but only where there is an affirmative showing that the substitution is required in the interests of justice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(4)].

30.08[6] Judge Engaged in Another Trial. The court may, on its own motion, postpone a trial if the court is engaged in the trial of another action at the time fixed for the trial of the instant action [CCP § 594a; see also CCP § 139 (daily adjournment when judge absent)].

30.08[7] Member of California Legislature When Legislature in Session.

30.08[7][a] Continuance Generally Mandatory. Subject to stated exceptions, a member of the California Legislature is entitled to a continuance when he or she is a party, attorney of record, or principle witness to a civil action before a trial court or an administrative proceeding before a state board, commission, or officer when the Legislature is in session or in a recess of no more than 40 days [CCP § 595]. The action or proceeding may not be brought for trial or hearing before the expiration of 30 days next following final adjournment of the Legislature or the commencement of a recess of more than 40 days without the consent of the attorney of record. If a date is available during recess, continuance must be given to the earlier recess date rather than a date during adjournment [CCP § 595].

In the trial court, the continuance applies to any discovery proceeding, pretrial conference, deposition, interrogatory, or any other proceeding arising out of the pending civil action as well as the trial itself [CCP §§ 595, 595.1].

Exceptions:

The granting of a continuance on this basis is mandatory unless the court determines that a continuance would defeat or abridge a right to relief pendente lite in a paternity action or a right to invoke a provisional remedy such as pendente lite support in a domestic relations controversy, attachment and sale of perishable goods, receivership of a failing business, and temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, and that the continuance should not be granted [CCP § 595].

30.08[7][b] Continuance Extends Time for Rulings and Parties' Performance. The continuance for a legislator suspends the running of any period of time for any ruling or proceeding by the court, board, commission, or officer, or for the performance by any party of any act affected by the postponement for the same duration as the postponement [CCP § 595].

30.08[8] Other Action Pending.

30.08[8][a] Move for Continuance When Abatement Not Applicable. In general, when two cases involving substantially the same issues are pending in the same jurisdiction between identical parties, the prior action may be pleaded in abatement of the second action [CCP § 430.10(c)]. However, if abatement is not applicable because of some difference between the two cases, but the outcome of one of the actions could substantially resolve issues in the other, a continuance (sometimes described as a stay) of the latter case is appropriate [ Anthony v. General Motors Corp. (1973) 33 CA3d 699, 707-708, 109 CR 254 (continuance proper when pending case would be collateral estoppel on key issue); Pesquera Del Pacifico S. De R. L. v. Superior Court of San Diego County (1949) 89 CA2d 738, 741, 201 P2d 553 (continuance not necessary when foreign trial raised different issues)]. The party seeking a stay need not be a party to the other proceeding (or subject to collateral estoppel) if the result of the other proceeding would simplify the postponed case and prevent multiple adjudication of some issued affecting some parties [ Marcus v. Superior Court (1977) 75 CA3d 204, 209-212, 141 CR 890 ].

Timing:

The uncontinued case need not have been filed before the continued case [ Ehrhart & Assocs., Inc. v. Superior Court (1960) 185 CA2d 1, 4, 7 CR 844 ]. Continuance may be justified whether the uncontinued case is at the pretrial, trial, or appellate stage [ Margolis v. Superior Court of San Mateo County (1957) 151 CA2d 333, 338-339, 311 P2d 167 ].

30.08[8][b] Use Stay Based on Inconvenient Forum When Other Action Pending Outside California. When one case is brought in California and a related action is pending in another state, a result similar to a continuance may be available. CCP § 410.30 (inconvenient forum) permits a California court to stay (or dismiss) an action when the court finds that, in the interest of substantial justice, the action should be heard in a forum outside the state. When granting a continuance under case law, the main concern of the court is the effect of the other pending action on issues in the instant case; however, under CCP § 410.30, the trial court examines factors as convenience, residence, and availability of witnesses [see, e.g., Belnap Freight Lines, Inc. v. Petty (1975) 46 CA3d 159, 162-164, 119 CR 907 ].

Warning:

A motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum must be brought by a defendant before the last day to plead or the issue is waived [see CCP § 418.10(a)]. However, a motion to stay or abate on the ground that another action is pending may be raised after the time frame set by CCP § 418.10, if the defense has been raised in the answer [see CCP § 597]. If the defense has not been raised in the answer, counsel should consider a motion seeking relief to amend the answer, coupled with a motion to stay or abate.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum, see Ch. 9, Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction, 9.23 et seq.

30.08[9] Amended Pleadings. When a trial court determines that an amendment of pleadings requires a postponement, the court may on its own motion postpone the trial [CCP § 473(a)(2)]. The decision to allow amendment of the pleadings if requested during trial will not be disturbed absent a clear showing of abuse of discretion [ Consolidated World Investments, Inc. v. Lido Preferred Ltd. (1992) 9 CA4th 373, 383, 11 CR 2d 524 ]. Counsel may request a continuance on the ground of surprise when the court permits an opposing party to amend the pleadings [see Carl v. Thomas (1931) 116 CA 294, 298, 2 P2d 872 ]. Similarly, good cause may exist when the court causes a significant, unanticipated change in the case by order a change in the parties or pleadings [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(7)].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

A continuance required by the amendment of pleadings may be appropriate even if the matter is on the "fast track" [ Honig v. Financial Corp. of America (1992) 6 CA4th 960, 967, 7 CR 2d 922 (rule permitting liberal amendment of complaint applies to fast track cases even when amendment requires continuance)].

Strategic Point--Responding Party:

The court may require, as a condition to permitting the amendment, the payment of just costs to the adverse party [CCP § 473(a)(2); see 30.11].

30.08[10] Significant, Unanticipated Change in Status of Case. A significant, unanticipated change in the status of the case as a result of which the case is not ready for trial may be considered good cause for a continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(7)].

30.08[11] Addition of New Party. The addition of a new party may be considered good cause for a continuance under the following circumstances [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(c)(5)]:

- The new party has not had a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery and prepare for trial; or
- The other parties have not had a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery and prepare for trial in regard to the new party's involvement in the case.

30.08[12] Insufficient Time to Bring Summary Judgment Motion. A trial date may be continued to permit sufficient time for a party to conduct discovery and file a motion for summary judgment; the fast track rules must give way to the statutory right to bring a motion for summary judgment [ Polibrid Coatings, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 112 CA4th 920, 923-924 ].

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.09

30.09 Procedure for Seeking Continuance.

30.09[1] Court May Postpone Trial on Its Own Motion. A court may postpone a trial on its own motion when [CCP § 594a]:

- The court is engaged in the trial of another action at the time fixed for trial.
- Amended pleadings require postponement [CCP § 473(a)(2)].
- The allowance of time to plead or amend the pleadings requires postponement [CCP § 473(a)(2)].

30.09[2] Stipulation by Attorneys.

30.09[2][a] Written Noticed Motion or Ex Parte Application Required Despite Stipulation of the Parties.

Even if the parties stipulate to a continuance of the trial date, a notice motion or ex parte application is required for a continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b)].

Cross References:

Form of stipulation for continuance, see 30.19; form of notice of joint motion for continuance, see 30.22.

30.09[2][b] Trial or Hearing on Motion or Demurrer May Be Postponed Up to 30 Days. A court may postpone a trial, or the hearing of any motion or demurrer, for a period not to exceed 30 days, when all attorneys of record of parties who have appeared in the action agree in writing to the postponement [CCP § 595.2].

CCP § 595.2 has been construed as directory only; if it is impracticable to accommodate the parties, the court may refuse a continuance [ Lorraine v. McComb (1934) 220 C 753, 757, 32 P2d 960 ; Pham v. Nguyen (1997) 54 CA4th 11, 15, 62 CR2d 422 ]. One court has suggested that although CCP § 595.2 does not create any entitlement to a continuance, trial courts should be cognizant of the exigencies of actual practice and recognize that continuances play a legitimate role in keeping a law practice manageable [ Pham v. Nguyen (1997) 54 CA4th 11, 15-16, 62 CR2d 422 (criticizing County of San Bernardino v. Doria Mining & Eng'g Corp. (1977) 72 CA3d 776, 140 CR 383 's suggestion that continuances be granted only grudgingly is too extreme)]. Balancing the competing goals of prompt disposition of civil cases and accommodating professional courtesy between opposing counsel may require some discernment by the trial court [ Pham v. Nguyen (1997) 54 CA4th 11, 16-17, 62 CR2d 422 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying continuance)].

30.09[2][c] Parties May Stipulate to Continuance of Up to 30 Days After Service of Responsive Pleading. The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act permits parties to stipulate to a single continuance, not to exceed 30 days, within 30 days after service of responsive pleadings [Gov Code § 68616(d)].

30.09[3] Noticed Motion.

30.09[3][a] Written Noticed Motion Required Unless Excused for Good Cause. Except for good cause, a motion for continuance must be made on written notice to all other parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b)]. 16 court days notice is required for the motion, with time extensions based on type of service and addresses of parties [see CCP § 1005(b)].

Cross References:

Form of notice of motion for continuance, see 30.21. Form of notice of joint motion for continuance, see 30.22.

Notice of motion, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

Extension of time based on service, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

30.09[3][b] Noticed Motion Must Be Made Promptly. When moving to continue a trial date, the party must make the motion for continuance as soon as reasonably practicable once the necessity for continuance is discovered [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b)].

30.09[3][c] Supporting Declaration of Good Cause Required. A continuance before or during trial may not be granted except on an affirmative showing of good cause supported by declaration [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b)].

Cross Reference:

Forms of declaration in support of continuance, see 30.23-30.25.

30.09[3][d] Reserved.

30.09[3][e] Follow Standard Motion Procedure. Follow standard motion procedure and submit the following papers:

- Notice of motion.
- Affidavit or declaration in support of motion.
- Supporting memorandum.
- Proof of service.
- Proposed order.

Prerequisite:

While a motion or application for continuance of trial that requires a hearing is subject to the uniform filing fee for papers filed after the first paper filed [Gov Code § 70617(a)(2)], a request, application, or motion for, or a notice of, each continuance of a hearing is subject to a reduced fee if it does not require a hearing, unless the continuance is required by the court, in which case there is no fee [Gov Code § 70617(c)(1)].

Cross Reference:

Standard motion procedure, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

30.09[3][f] Court May Waive Procedural Requirements. For good cause, trial courts may exercise their discretion to disregard the failure of a party requesting a continuance to satisfy formal requirements such as noticed motion, writings, or affidavits [ Taylor v. Bell (1971) 21 CA3d 1002, 1008, 98 CR 855 ; see CCP § 595.4]. However, the court is not required to waive these formalities [ Mahoney v. Southland Mental Health Assocs. Med. Group (1990) 223 CA3d 167, 172, 272 CR 602 ].

Drawback:

If a party fails to satisfy the formal requirements for a continuance, and the trial court denies the continuance for other reasons, the appellate court may uphold the denial without examining the merits [see County of San Bernardino v. Doria Mining & Eng'g Corp. (1977) 72 CA3d 776, 783, 140 CR 383 ].

30.09[4] Ex Parte Application.

30.09[4][a] Applicant Must Establish Need for Immediate Relief for Ex Parte Application in Addition to Good Cause for Continuance. Although generally disfavored, a continuance of the trial date may be requested by ex parte application and supported with good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b), (c)]. Thus, in addition to establishing good cause for the continuance, the movant must also prove a pressing need for immediate relief, to avoid irreparable harm, when the adverse party has no right to be heard, or for any other statutory reason [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1202(c), 3.1204(b)(3)].

Warning:

An ex parte application for a continuance should only be filed in exigent circumstances or to advise the court of an unexpected problem that has arisen and that cannot, due to time constraints, be raised by noticed motion.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 30.20.

30.09[4][b] Follow Standard Ex Parte Application Procedure. Ex parte applications require [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq.]:

- Notice to all parties no later than 10:00 a.m. the court day before the ex parte appearance unless exceptional circumstances justify a shorter time [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1203].
- The notice to the opposing party to state the specific nature of the relief requested, the date, time, and place for the presentation of the application, and whether the application will be opposed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(a)].
- A declaration that notice was given to the opposing party as required, that the applicant tried in good faith but was unable to inform the opposing party of the application, or that the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(b)].

- The application to state the contact information for all parties' attorneys and whether a similar ex parte application has been previously made and the court's rulings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1202(a), (b)].

- The application be in writing and include [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201]:

- ☐ Case caption and relief requested.
- ☐ Declaration in support of application containing affirmative factual showing containing competent testimony based on personal knowledge of irreparable harm, immediate danger, or any other statutory basis for relief.
- ☐ Declaration that notice given.
- ☐ Memorandum.
- ☐ Proposed order.

Prerequisite:

While a motion or application for continuance of trial that requires a hearing is subject to the uniform filing fee for papers filed after the first paper filed [Gov Code § 70617(a)(2)], a request, application, or motion for, or a notice of, each continuance of a hearing is subject to a reduced fee if it does not require a hearing, unless the continuance is required by the court, in which case there is no fee [Gov Code § 70617(c)(1)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of ex parte applications and motions, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.13 et seq.

30.09[5] Oral Motion.

30.09[5][a] Oral Motion Requires Emergency. Though oral motions for continuance are not specified in the Rules of Court [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332], the court's inherent powers to control the proceedings may give the court the authority to grant a continuance of an oral motion to continue [see CCP § 128(a)(9)]. Oral motions are unlikely to arise, and it is unlikely that an oral motion to continue would be granted absent some type of emergency. If there is an emergency, a trial judge might defer commencement of trial for a day or two without characterizing it as a continuance, but an ex parte application under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq. would be the better method to have the written papers and supporting declarations on file to justify the continuance.

30.09[5][b] Surprise May Support Oral Motion to Continue. A common situation creating good cause for an oral motion is the occurrence of an event at trial that surprises one of the parties; the surprised party may immediately move for a continuance or mistrial rather than waiting to see how the case progresses [ McCown v. Spencer (1970) 8 CA3d 216, 228, 87 CR 213 ]. By analogy, surprise at a pretrial hearing may support an oral motion to continue, but the court is likely to require a written motion given that pretrial proceedings have less exigency and the court's disfavor of continuances. If possible, obtain opposing counsel's agreement to a continuance in open court and request the judge to find good cause based on the surprise.

Warning:

A continuance on this basis will only be granted under extraordinary conditions in which the "surprise" was unforeseeable and cannot be remedied by any means other than a continuance.

Judge's Perspective:

Depending on the nature of the surprise or unexpected circumstance, trial judges need to be flexible in determining the circumstances that would permit a continuance.

Prerequisite:

While a motion or application for continuance of trial that requires a hearing is subject to the uniform filing fee for papers filed after the first paper filed [Gov Code § 70617(a)(2)], a request, application, or motion for, or a notice of, each continuance of a hearing is subject to a reduced fee if it does not require a hearing, unless the continuance is required by the court, in which case there is no fee [Gov Code § 70617(c)(1)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of court waiving procedural requirements, see 30.09[3][f].

30.09[6] Reply to Opposition Papers. Serve and file all reply papers 5 court days before the hearing unless a shorter time is prescribed by the court [CCP § 1005(b)].

II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

30.10 Consent to Testimony by Deposition of Attending Witness.

If required by the adverse party, the party obtaining a continuance must consent that the testimony of any witness of the adverse party who is in attendance be taken by deposition before a judge, the clerk of the court in which the case is pending, or before a notary public selected by the court. Testimony so taken may be read at trial, with the same effect, and subject to the same objections, as if the witnesses were produced [CCP § 596].

Strategic Point:

This is a rarely-invoked procedure. Be prepared to refer the judge to CCP § 596.

Chapter 30 Continuances
II. MOVING FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.11

30.11 Payment of Costs As Condition of Continuance.

The trial court has discretion to require the payment of expenses incurred by the nonmoving parties as a result of the postponement as a condition of granting a continuance [CCP § 1024; see Inman v. Fremont Medical Center (1975) 49 CA3d 169, 172, 122 CR 372 (continuance conditioned on payment of costs of entire jury panel when continuance requested after panel summoned)]. For example, if a continuance becomes necessary because the court permitted an adverse party to amend a pleading or proceeding, the court may require the payment of just costs as a condition to permitting the amendment [CCP § 473(a)(2)]. Expenses that the moving party may be required to pay include:

- Fees paid to jurors [ Inman v. Fremont Med. Ctr. (1975) 49 CA3d 169, 172, 122 CR 372 ].
- Travel and lodging expenses [ Wilkin v. Tadlock (1952) 110 CA2d 156, 157-158, 241 P2d 1066 ].
- Business expenses caused by postponement [ Levine v. Pollack (1995) 37 CA4th 129, 133-139, 43 CR2d 491 ].

However, courts may not require the payment of attorney's fees in exchange for a continuance [ DeCesare v. Lember (1983) 144 CA3d 20, 24, 192 CR 354 ] or lost income [ DeCesare v. Lember (1983) 144 CA3d 20, 25-26, 192 CR 354 ].

In assessing costs, the court need not limit its assessment to expenses that are ordinarily taxable after a case has been tried [ McFaddin v. H.S. Crocker Co. (1963) 219 CA2d 585, 594-595, 33 CR 389 (amount assessed to cover costs and counsel fees); Inman v. Fremont Medical Center (1975) 49 CA3d 169, 172, 122 CR 372 (continuance conditioned on costs of empaneling entire jury)].

Chapter 30 Continuances
III. OPPOSING MOTION FOR CONTINUANCE

2-30 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 30.13

30.13 Options and Strategies for Party Opposing Continuance.

Continuances are disfavored and should not be granted except on an affirmative showing of good cause requiring the continuance [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332]. While a party opposing a continuance request has a considerable advantage favoring their position from the outset, this advantage should not be used blindly to oppose a continuance. If the request is without merit and is detrimental, oppose it. However, good practice is to be mindful of life's uncertainties such as death and illness, as well as the difficulties in scheduling a law practice. Stipulating to a reasonable continuance based on good cause may well have the favor returned in the future. Moreover, opposing a continuance when good cause is very evident could be deemed frivolous. Sanctions may or may not be imposed, but after such a staunch showing of the need to keep the case on track, the court will most likely be less inclined to grant a continuance when the opposing party later needs one.

Judge's Perspective:

Counsel who seek to oppose a continuance need to analyze the situation carefully. The old adage of what goes around comes around is especially true when a party seeks, in a knee jerk fashion, to oppose a request for continuance. Make sure the opposition is justified, and more importantly make sure that you can live with the ramification of opposing the request.

Strategic Point--Court's Own Motion:

If the court is continuing the hearing or trial date on its own motion, good cause will most likely exist. However, if the continuance is a detriment or affects the party's rights, counsel should state the objections on the record to preserve appellate issues.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of continuance on court's own motion, see 30.09[1].

Strategic Point--Noticed Motion or Ex Parte Application:

Opposition to a noticed motion or ex parte application for continuance should focus on two parts:

- The motion or application does not comply with statutory and rules procedures; and
- Good cause does not exist to support the continuance.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of notice motion or ex parte application for continuance, see 30.09[3], [4].

Strategic Point--Oral Motion:

Opposition to an oral motion for continuance should assert that motions for continuances are to be made on written notice to all other parties, and no continuance otherwise requested is granted except in emergencies [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of oral motion for continuance, see 30.09[5].

IV. APPEAL

30.18 Appellate Review.

30.18[1] Denial Not Subject to Immediate Appeal. Appeal may not be taken from an order denying a continuance. However, the order is reviewable on an appeal from an appealable order [ Cohen v. Herbert (1960) 186 CA2d 488, 490, 8 CR 922 (appeal from order appointing receiver); see CCP §§ 904-904.5 (appealable judgments and orders)].

30.18[2] Writ of Mandamus May Be Available. A writ of mandate, which is used to compel the performance of an act that the law specially enjoins, may issue to compel a continuance that was improperly denied [ Whalen v. Superior Court (1960) 184 CA2d 598, 602, 7 CR 610 ; see CCP § 1085 (power to issue writ of mandate)].

30.18[3] Abuse of Discretion Standard of Review. In general, a trial court's determination of the existence of good cause for a continuance will not be disturbed on appeal absent a clear abuse of discretion [ Lewis v. Neptune Society Corp. (1987) 195 CA3d 427, 429, 240 CR 656 ; see Pham v. Nguyen (1997) 54 CA4th 11, 16-17, 62 CR2d 422 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying continuance)]. Trial courts may be reversed for refusing to grant a continuance if their actions deny the party an opportunity to fairly and fully present his or her case [ Hays v. Viscome (1953) 122 CA2d 135, 140, 264 P2d 173 ].

As a practical matter, a trial court's decision granting or denying a continuance is almost always upheld on appeal, although denial of a continuance may constitute reversible error [see, e.g., Oak Knoll Broadcasting Corp. v. Hudgings (1969) 275 CA2d 563, 565-566, 80 CR 175 (denial of continuance upheld when unprepared witness placed on call after service of subpoena); Hays v. Viscome (1953) 122 CA2d 135, 140-141, 264 P2d 173 (prejudicial error to deny continuance to call witness whom adverse party failed to call)].

I, _____ [identify declarant, e.g., Jane Lee] declare:

[If witness unavailable, use:]

1. The following declaration is based on my personal knowledge, and if called upon to testify I could testify competently as to the matters set forth below.

2. I am a member of _____ [identify firm], counsel of record for _____ [specify party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] in the above-entitled action. I submit this declaration to request that the Court continue _____ [the hearing or trial date] presently set for _____ [specify date, time, and location].

3. The principal reason for the request is the unavailability of a key witness, _____, who resides at _____, to testify because [state reason for unavailability, e.g., the witness is recuperating from a heart attack]. I first learned about the unavailability of the witness on _____ [date].

4. This witness will be unavailable even though _____ [state actions showing diligent effort to secure attendance, e.g., I subpoenaed the witness and then held a personal interview at which I stressed the importance of appearing to testify].

5. The attendance of this witness is required for trial. This witness would testify to _____ [describe nature of expected testimony]. This evidence is material because _____ [describe materiality of testimony, e.g., this witness is the CEO of _____ [name of company], likely the person most knowledgeable as to issues that go to the very heart of the case]. This evidence cannot be proven with the testimony of any other available witness.

6. The witness informed me that he/she can be available to testify on _____.

7. I have met and conferred with _____, counsel for the plaintiff on the subject of this motion. On _____ [date], I requested that plaintiff's counsel and clients agree to a continued trial date, in light of the unavailability of this witness for _____ [deposition or trial] until _____ [date]. I further notified plaintiff's counsel on _____ [date] that I would file this motion if the plaintiff would not agree to a reasonable continuance of trial.

8. The plaintiff will not be prejudiced by a continuance to a later date.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed on _____ [date] in _____, California.

3. I am also counsel of record for _____ [specify party] in the case of _____ [title, court, and number], set for _____ [hearing or trial] on _____ [date], at _____ [city], California. I must be present in that court for trial of that cause, which is expected to last approximately _____ days. I, _____ [identify declarant, e.g., Mary Jones] declare:

1. The following declaration is based on my personal knowledge, and if called upon to testify I could testify competently as to the matters set forth below.

2. I am the _____ [defendant or plaintiff] in the above-captioned action. I have fully and fairly stated all of the facts to my attorney, _____ [name], and I have been advised by him/her that I have a good and meritorious defense to the action on each and every _____ [count or cause of action] set out in plaintiff's complaint.

[If defendant will not be a witness, use:]

3. _____ [If assisting counsel is primary basis for showing necessity of party's presence, state appropriate facts, e.g., I have been advised by my attorney that in order to fully present my defense it will be necessary for me to be present at the trial to consult, confer with, and make suggestions and to give advice to my attorney.]

[If defendant will be a witness, use:]

3. I have been advised by my attorney that in order to fully present my defense it will be necessary for me to be present at the trial to consult, confer with, and make suggestions and to give advice to my attorney. Further, _____ [state facts supporting need for party as witness, e.g., I am my own principal witness in this action, and I know all of the circumstances of the transactions with plaintiff and all of the acts, statements, conduct, and representations of plaintiff and I am the only person who knows all of the facts].

4. On _____ [date], the _____ [action or proceeding] was set for trial on _____ [date]. On or about _____ [date], I _____ [state nature of illness, e.g., began to suffer from a heart attack. I have been advised by my physician and know from my own experience, that my condition is made more severe by physical exertion and excitement].

5. I have been fully advised by my physician and believe that my physical condition by reason of this illness is such that I will be unable to undergo the strain and excitement of attending a trial that my attorney informs me will be of _____ days' duration. My physician advises that the strain and excitement of a trial of that length at this time would be injurious to my health and that to give testimony would be dangerous to my physical well-being but that with rest and freedom from excitement for a period of _____ days it is probable that I will be able to attend and testify on my own behalf in the action.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed on _____ [date] in _____, California.

I, _____ [identify declarant, e.g., Doctor Ron Scott] declare:

1. The following declaration is based on my personal knowledge, and if called upon to testify I could testify competently as to the matters set forth below.

2. At all times stated I have been a physician and surgeon duly licensed as such and engaged in the practice of my profession in _____ [specify state, e.g., California]. _____ [Specify party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] has been a patient of mine since _____ [date].

4. This condition is serious and greatly aggravated by excitement of the slightest degree. Because of the condition, _____ [party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] is in no condition to undergo the strain of attending a trial of several days duration and of testifying in any way in an action in which his/her interests are involved.

5. To attend trial would be extremely injurious to his/her health and to testify would be dangerous to his/her physical well-being.

6. The prognosis is good and, in the absence of any complications, _____ [party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] should be able to attend trial on or after _____ [date].

I, _____ [identify declarant, e.g., Attorney Tom Doe] declare:

1. The following declaration is based on my personal knowledge, and if called upon to testify I could testify competently as to the matters set forth below.

2. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the attorney of record] for _____ [specify party opposing continuance motion, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] in the above-captioned case originally set for trial on _____ [date]. Plaintiff submits this declaration in opposition to _____ [identify movant and request sought, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones's last minute request for a three week continuance of the trial date].

3. _____ [Set out facts constituting claim of delay, e.g., Approximately three weeks prior to the date set for trial of this action, defendant's attorney, Jane Lee, asked for a continuance of the trial on the ground that she was expected to be in trial on the same date as this action's original trial date of _____; I consented to the case trailing until Ms. Lee had finished the trial in the other action but specified that the matter should be disposed of as soon as Ms. Lee was available to try it and that I would oppose any continuance other than to trail the case until Ms. Lee was available for trial].

4. _____ [Set out facts why claim of delay is without good cause, e.g., On _____ (date), Ms. Lee completed the trial of the cause referred to above and was at that time prepared to go to trial. On _____ (date), Defendant Mary Jones discharged Ms. Lee for the sole purpose of obtaining a continuance].

5. _____ [Specify additional reasons to deny continuance, e.g., This is an antitrust/monopolization case, and Plaintiff is entitled to have this matter heard before Plaintiff suffers further irreparable damage to Plaintiff's business. Further, Plaintiff's lead trial counsel, _____ (name), has a very expensive prepaid family vacation that would be jeopardized by the continuance. Other trial counsel, _____ (name), is expecting a baby on _____ (date) and has already continued a trial due to this trial conflict. Discovery and trial of that case, along with arrival of a newborn infant, will prevent him/her from participating in this trial for seven months if it is continued for three weeks]. For these reasons, and because Defense counsel's motion is too late and not properly noticed, it should be denied.

Chapter 31 Intervention
I. STRATEGY

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.02

31.02 Objective and Strategy.

Intervention is a procedure by which a third person, not originally a party to, but claiming an interest in, the action, enters into the pending case through a complaint in intervention to protect a right or make a claim [see CCP § 387].

Intervention is used to [ People v. Superior Court (1976) 17 C3d 732, 736, 131 CR 800, 552 P2d 760 ]:

- Obviate delay;
- Avoid a multiplicity of suits; and
- Protect the interests of those who will be affected by the judgment.

Distinguish--Joinder of Parties:

Joinder is the act of uniting as parties to an action all persons who have the same rights or against whom rights are claimed as plaintiffs or codefendants [see CCP §§ 378, 379, 379.5, 389, 389.5].

Strategic Point--Party Seeking to Intervene:

A third person may be able to enter an action through either joinder [see CCP §§ 389, 389.5] or intervention [see CCP § 387]. Joinder may be the more appropriate and expeditious procedure if the third person's interests are completely aligned with those of an existing party. When the interests of the third person are not so clearly aligned with the existing parties, intervention, if available, will allow the third person to frame his or her own allegations in the complaint for intervention.

Strategic Point--Survival of Complaint in Intervention:

If a complaint in intervention can be brought independently, it can survive the dismissal of the underlying action Lohnes v. Astron Computer Prods. (2001) 94 CA4th 1150, 1153, 115 CR2d 34 ].

Chapter 31 Intervention
II. INTERVENING IN AN ACTION OR PROCEEDING

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.04

31.04 Options and Strategies for Person Seeking to Intervene.

31.04[1] Complaint in Intervention Is Used to Protect Interest or Assert Claim of Third Party. Intervention is a procedure by which a third person, not originally a party to the action, but claiming an interest in the subject matter of the action, enters into the case through a complaint in intervention in order to protect a right or interpose a claim [see CCP § 387].

Depending on the circumstances of the case, the intervening party may [CCP § 387(a)]:

- Join the plaintiff in claims sought by the complaint;
- Unite with the defendant in resisting the claims of the plaintiff; or
- Demand anything adverse to both the plaintiff and the defendant.

As a precondition to intervention, the nonparty must timely seek leave of court to file a complaint in intervention [see CCP § 387].

➡ Cross Reference:

Timing for intervention, see 31.06; Discussion of procedure for intervention, see 31.07.

If leave to intervene is granted, the intervenor becomes a party to the action and is regarded as either a plaintiff or defendant, depending on the party with whom the intervenor's interests are aligned [see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 879, 150 CR 606 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Effect of intervention, see 31.08.

31.04[2] Alternatives to Intervention May Be Available. In certain circumstances, a nonparty may be able to use other specific statutory procedures, instead of a complaint in intervention, to protect his or her interests or assert claims.

Examples--Alternative Procedures:

- Joinder of party having interest in property [CCP § 389.5].
- Third party claim in property that is attached [CCP § 488.110].
- Third party claim in property subject to writ of possession [CCP § 514.050].
- Third party claim in property levied on [CCP § 720.010 et seq.].
- Action by private party challenging validity of agency acts regarding community development [CCP §§ 860-870].
- Will contest by third party [Prob Code § 8270].

➡ Cross References:

Discussion of joinder, see Ch. 5, Parties.

Chapter 31 Intervention
II. INTERVENING IN AN ACTION OR PROCEEDING

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.05

31.05 Evaluating Availability of Intervention.

31.05[1] Two Types of Intervention: Mandatory and Permissive. Before seeking intervention, a prospective applicant must determine whether "mandatory" or "permissive" intervention, or both, are available.

Under certain statutorily specified circumstances, the right to intervene is "mandatory." If an applicant can show the requisite circumstances for a mandatory intervention, a court will permit the intervention [see CCP § 387(b)].

In contrast, in other statutorily specified circumstances, the right to intervene is "permissive." If an applicant shows the requisite circumstances for a permissive intervention, the court has broad discretion in determining whether to permit the intervention [ US Ecology, Inc. v. California (2001) 92 CA4th 113, 139, 111 CR2d 689 , see CCP § 387(a)].

Strategic Point--Assert Grounds For Mandatory Intervention Whenever Applicable:

Even if grounds for permissive intervention clearly exist, a nonparty seeking to intervene should also consider the potential grounds for mandatory intervention under CCP § 387(b).

Cross References:

Discussion of mandatory intervention, see 31.05[2]. Discussion of permissive intervention, see 31.05[3].

31.05[2] Mandatory Intervention.

31.05[2][a] Available When Law Confers Unconditional Right to Intervene. If any provision of law confers an unconditional right to intervene, the court will permit the intervention [CCP § 387(b)].

Examples--Statutory Provisions Authorizing Intervention:

- Intervention by employer or employee in action against third party [Lab Code § 3853].

- Intervention by person claiming interest in property subject to eminent domain proceeding [CCP § 1250.230].
- Intervention by creditor to reach unpaid subscription of shareholder [Corp Code § 414(b)].
- Intervention by dissenting shareholder in action for appraisal of stock [Corp Code § 1304(a)].
- Intervention by dissenting shareholder or creditor in corporate dissolution proceedings [Corp Code § 1800(c)].

Cross Reference:

California statutes providing specific statutory authorization for intervention, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 395, Parties, § 395.61[2] (Matthew Bender).

31.05[2][b] Available When Interest Relates to Property or Transaction. The court must permit intervention if [CCP § 387(b)]:

- The person seeking intervention claims an interest relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action;
- The person seeking intervention is so situated that the disposition of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede that person's ability to protect that interest; and
- The person's interest is not adequately represented by existing parties.

Examples--Mandatory Intervention Available:

- State Department of Finance (DOF) was permitted to intervene when DOF had interest against success of city in its claim against State of California Commission on State Mandates to recover state funds for housing costs incurred by city [Redevelopment Agency v. Comm'n on State Mandates (1996) 43 CA4th 1188, 1197-1198, 51 CR2d 100 ].

Examples--Mandatory Intervention Not Available:

- Medical benefits provider was not entitled to mandatory intervention in a personal injury action brought by its subscriber against health care providers because the benefits provider did not have an interest in the subject of the litigation, the subscriber's cause of action in tort [ Cal. Physicians' Serv. v. Superior Court (1980) 102 CA3d 91, 96-97, 162 CR 266 ].
- Identity of interests between adjacent property owner with neighbor contesting validity of neighbor's offer to dedicate beach access for public use prevented intervention [ City of Malibu v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 128 CA4th 897, 902, 906 , 27 CR3d 501 ].

31.05[3] Permissive Intervention.

31.05[3][a] Available When Intervening Party Has Direct Interest in Litigation. Any person may seek permissive intervention in a pending action or proceeding if he or she has an interest [CCP § 387(a)]:

- In the matter in litigation;

- In the success of either of the parties; or
- Adverse to both of the parties.

The interest of the person seeking to intervene must be of such a direct or immediate character that the intervenor will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment [ Bechtel v. Axelrod (1942) 20 C2d 390, 392, 125 P2d 836 ; Siena Court Homeowners Assn. v. Green Valley Corp. (2008) 164 CA4th 1416, 1428, 79 CR3d 915 ].

In considering an application for permissive intervention, the court will consider the following [ Gray v. Begley (2010) 182 CA4th 1509, 1521, 106 CR3d 729 ; Hinton v. Beck (2009) 176 CA4th 1378, 1382-1383, 98 CR3d 612 ; Noya v. A.W. Coulter Trucking (2006) 143 CA4th 838, 842, 49 CR3d 584 ; cf. Bame v. City of Del Mar (2001) 86 CA4th 1346, 1364, 104 CR2d 183] .:

- Whether the prospective intervenor has a direct interest in the lawsuit;
- Whether or not intervention would enlarge issues raised by the original parties; and
- Whether the reasons for intervention outweigh any opposition by the parties presently in the action.

Examples--Direct Interest:

- Insurer providing defense to insured under policy has direct interest to intervene in attempt by insured and tortfeasor to settle the case without the participation of the insurer [ Gray v. Begley (2010) 182 CA4th 1509, 1521-1525, 106 CR3d 729] .
- Law firm has direct and immediate interest in obtaining attorney fees under CCP § 1021.5 in action in which clients refused to move for attorney fees sufficient for right to intervene under CCP § 387(a), in absence of agreement providing for disposition of fees to another [ Lindelli v. Town of San Anselmo (2006) 139 CA4th 1499, 1505-1519, 43 CR3d 707 ].
- In an action against and insured for property damage, an insurer was allowed to intervene because the defendant was a suspended corporation and thus not able to defend. The insurer was liable for any default judgment against the insured and had no means other than intervention to litigate liability or damage issues [ Reliance Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 84 CA4th 383, 384-388, 100 CR2d 807 ].

Strategic Point:

In the event of default against the insured, the insurer may either intervene prior to judgment or move under CCP § 473 to set aside the default judgment on grounds of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [ Belz v. Clarendon America Ins. Co. (2007) 158 CA4th 615, 633, 69 CR3d 864 ; see 36.65 et seq.].

- One of three insurers, which had accepted the defense of the insured under liability policy, had direct interest in action brought by two other insurers against insured seeking to rescind their policies; outcome of action for rescission would have direct effect on defending insurer's right to seek equitable contribution from other insurers [ Truck Ins. Exch. v. Superior Court (1997) 60 CA4th 342, 346, 70

CR2d 255 ].

- Nonprofit corporation composed of parents was entitled to intervene in action involving desegregation of school district; reassignment of students would have direct impact on students and their parents, and their interests were not represented by the parties to the action [ Bustop v. Superior Court (1977) 69 CA3d 66, 70-71, 137 CR 793 ].

Distinguish--Issues Enlarged:

In a construction defect action concerning a claim that defendant was liable for the alleged construction defects in a condominium complex, adding a claim that a joint obligor with plaintiff on a use and maintenance agreement concerning the complex is entitled to a portion of plaintiff's recovery pursuant to the joint use and maintenance agreement would enlarge the issues [ Siena Court Homeowners Assn. v. Green Valley Corp. (2008) 164 CA4th 1416, 1429-1430, 79 CR3d 915 ].

31.05[3][b] Consequential Interest Does Not Justify Permissive Intervention. Permissive intervention is not justified if the asserted interest is indirect, consequential, or remote in that the threatened injury or benefit will not inevitably result from the judgment, but rather from the consequences of the judgment [ Jersey Maid Milk Prods. Co., Inc. v. Brock (1939) 13 C2d 661, 664-665, 91 P2d 599 ; Mary R. v. B & R Corp. (1983) 149 CA3d 308, 314-315, 196 CR 871 ]. The interest is only consequential when the action in which intervention is sought does not directly affect the interest although the results of the action may indirectly benefit or harm its owner [ Hinton v. Beck (2009) 176 CA4th 1378, 1384, 98 CR3d 612] .

Examples--Consequential Interest:

- An insurer who denies coverage and refuses to defend its insured does not have a direct interest in the litigation between the plaintiff and the insured to warrant intervention, because the insurer loses its right to control the litigation when it denies the defense [ Hinton v. Beck, 176 CA4th 1378, 1384, 98 CR3d 612] .

- Although the results of a construction defect action could indirectly benefit or harm intervenor, because plaintiff's ability to meet its obligations under the joint use and maintenance agreement with intervenor concerning the allegedly defectively constructed property could be affected, intervenor's interest was consequential and thus insufficient for intervention [ Siena Court Homeowners Assn. v. Green Valley Corp. (2008) 164 CA4th 1416, 1429, 1430, 79 CR3d 915 ].

- Adjacent property owner did not have direct and immediate interest sufficient to intervene in action contesting validity of neighbor's offer to dedicate beach access for public use [ City of Malibu v. California Coastal Com. (2005) 128 CA4th 897, 905 , 27 CR3d 501 ].

- Major shareholder of a bankrupt corporation had only a consequential interest in an action being prosecuted by the trustee in bankruptcy because asserted interest of shareholder was in enhancing the value of the stock, an indirect benefit flowing from the success of the suit [ Continental Vinyl Prods. Corp. v. Mead Corp. (1972) 27 CA3d 543, 553, 103 CR 806 ].

- Unsecured creditors of defendant had only a consequential interest in an action involving the defendant who would be rendered unable to pay the owed debt if the suit was lost [ Olson v. Hopkins (1969) 269 CA2d 638, 642-644, 75 CR 33 ].

31.05[3][c] Consequential Interest May Become Direct. What would otherwise be a consequential interest may become a direct interest justifying intervention under the circumstances of a particular case, such as [ Continental

Vinyl Prods. Corp. v. Mead Corp. (1972) 27 CA3d 543, 551, 103 CR 806 ]:

- Bad faith of a party to the litigation;
- Assertion by all parties to the litigation of claims adverse to the person seeking intervention,
- Collusion; or
- Impossibility of asserting a position that should be presented in the litigation.

Example--Consequential Interest Becoming Direct:

- Shareholders entitled to intervene in action against corporation when officers and directors fail to defend suit [ Eggers v. Nat'l Radio Co. (1929) 208 C 308, 314, 281 P 58 ].

Chapter 31 Intervention
II. INTERVENING IN AN ACTION OR PROCEEDING

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.06

31.06 Time to Intervene.

31.06[1] Application Must Be Timely Made. An application for leave to intervene must be "timely" made [CCP § 387(a), (b)].

The statute of limitations governing the action may affect the right to intervene [see Andersen v. Barton Mem'l Hosp., Inc. (1985) 166 CA3d 678, 682, 212 CR 626 ].

In a class action, the class notice may specify the date by which intervention must be sought [ Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 43, 51, 75 CR3d 413 ].

If otherwise appropriate, intervention is possible even after judgment [ Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 CA3d 434, 437, 152 CR 503 ].

Warning:

The court may deny intervention if it is untimely [see e.g. Lohnes v. Astron Computer Prods. (2001) 94 CA4th 1150, 1153, 115 CR2d 34 ]. Counsel should move to intervene as soon as the necessity is apparent.

Examples--Timely Application:

- Even though wrongful death action was timely filed by some of decedent's heirs, an omitted heir seeking to intervene was required to file application within limitations period when asserting a new cause of action [ Andersen v. Barton Mem'l Hosp. (1985) 166 CA3d 678, 682-683, 685, 212 CR 626 ].

- Application to intervene was timely when made after motion for new trial was granted and cause was still at issue [ Eggers v. Nat'l Radio Co. (1929) 208 C 308, 312, 281 P 58 ].

Examples--Untimely Application:

- Request to intervene in class action that was filed January 6, and served by mail on January 5, was untimely under deadline of January 5 in class notice [ Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (April 21, 2008) 162 CA4th 43, __, 75 CR3d 413, 2008 Cal. App. LEXIS 584 at 12 ].

31.06[2] Statute Providing Mandatory Intervention May Specify Time. If a statutory provision grants an unconditional right to intervene, the statute may also provide a standard of timeliness [see Mar v. Sakti Internat. Corp. (1992) 9 CA4th 1780, 1784-1785, 12 CR2d 388 ].

Example:

Application to intervene made "at any time before trial on the facts" was timely pursuant to statutory provision giving employer right to intervene to recover workers' compensation sums in employee's action against third party [ Mar v. Sakti Internat. Corp. (1992) 9 CA4th 1780, 1784-1785, 12 CR2d 388 ].

Chapter 31 Intervention
II. INTERVENING IN AN ACTION OR PROCEEDING

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.07

31.07 Procedure for Intervention.

31.07[1] Prospective Intervenor Must Seek Leave of Court to File Complaint. An application for leave to file a complaint in intervention is required even when there is an unconditional right to intervene [ Lohnes v. Astron Computer Prods. (2001) 94 CA4th 1150, 1153, 115 CR2d 34 ].

Without permission from the court, a party lacks any standing to the action [ Lohnes v. Astron Computer Prods. (2001) 94 CA4th 1150, 1153, 115 CR2d 34 ; Mar v. Sakti Internat. Corp. (1992) 9 CA4th 1780, 1784, 12 CR2d 388 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of standing requirement, see Ch. 5, Parties.

31.07[2] Leave of Court Is Generally Obtained by Noticed Motion. In nearly all circumstances, intervention will be by noticed motion [see Bowles v. Superior Court (1955) 44 C2d 574, 588-589, 283 P2d 704 ]. If a party is moving to intervene as a plaintiff, the party must include a copy of the proposed complaint as part of the motion seeking leave to intervene.

➡ Cross Reference:

Forms, see 31.18 (notice of motion and motion for leave to intervene).

An ex parte application should be used only if there is some exigency that requires that the matter not be done by noticed motion [see Allen v. Cal. Water & Tel. Co. (1947) 31 C2d 104, 107-108, 187 P2d 393 ]. Counsel should check the local rules with respect to ex parte applications.

⚠ Warning:

An ex parte application must comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1200 et seq.

➡ Cross References:

Form, see 31.20 (ex parte application for leave to intervene). Discussion of requirements for ex parte applications, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

Intervention may be allowed by stipulation of all the parties to the pending action and an order of the court.

Exception--When Case Is Before Temporary Judge or Referee:

A motion for leave to file a complaint for intervention in a case pending before a temporary judge requested by the parties must be filed with the court and served on all parties and the temporary judge. The motion must be heard by the trial court judge to whom the case is assigned or, if the case has not been assigned, by the presiding judge or his or her designee. If intervention is allowed, the case must be returned to the trial court docket unless all parties stipulate to proceed before the temporary judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.835(b), 3.932(b)].

Warning:

The first paper filed in the action on behalf of an intervenor must be accompanied by a filing fee [see Gov Code §§ 70611, 70612].

31.07[3] If Leave Is Granted, Intervenor Must File and Serve Complaint. If leave to intervene is granted, the intervenor must file a complaint in intervention, setting forth the grounds on which the intervention rests [CCP § 387(a)].

Cross References:

Discussion of pleadings in general, see Ch. 7, Complaints; Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings; Ch. 14, Answers; Ch. 16, Cross-Complaints.

Strategic Point--Party or Parties Opposing Intervenor:

The pleading filed by the intervenor is referred to as a "complaint" in intervention, even if the intervenor is uniting with the defendant in resisting the claims of the plaintiff. The response required by the party or parties opposing the relief sought by the intervenor will depend on the nature of the allegations of the "complaint," which may be adverse to any or all of the existing parties.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of responding to complaint in intervention, see 31.13-31.17.

The complaint in intervention must be served on parties to the action who have not appeared, in the same manner provided for service of summons in an original action [CCP § 387(a)].

The complaint in intervention must be served on parties who have appeared [CCP § 387(a)]:

- By service of summons on their attorneys, or on the party if he or she has appeared without an attorney, or
- In the manner provided for service of papers in an action [see CCP §§ 1010-1020].

Cross Reference:

Discussion, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

31.07[4] If Leave Is Denied, Intervenor May Appeal. An order denying intervention is a final determination against the prospective intervenor and may be appealed [ Dollenmayer v. Pryor (1906) 150 C 1, 3-4, 87 P 616 ; Bame v. City of Del Mar (2001) 86 CA4th 1346, 1363, 104 CR2d 183 ].

Warning:

The prospective intervenor must file a direct appeal from the court's order denying intervention to challenge the propriety of that order [see Bame v. City of Del Mar (2001) 86 CA4th 1346, 1363, 104 CR2d 183 ].

Cross Reference:

Distinguish--Appeal After Final Judgment in Action:

The denial of leave to intervene can be appealed only on that issue; the unsuccessful intervenor has no right to appeal from a judgment ultimately rendered in the action in which intervention was sought [ County of Alameda v. Carleson (1971) 5 C3d 730, 736, 97 CR 385, 488 P2d 953 ]. A successful intervenor has the same right to appeal after final judgment as does an original party [ Corridan v. Rose (1955) 137 CA2d 524, 528, 290 P2d 939 ].

Chapter 31 Intervention
II. INTERVENING IN AN ACTION OR PROCEEDING

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.08

31.08 Effect of Intervention.

31.08[1] Intervenor Becomes Plaintiff or Defendant. If leave to intervene is granted, the intervenor becomes a party to the action and is regarded as either a plaintiff or a defendant, depending on the party with whom the intervenor's interests are aligned [see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 879, 150 CR 606 ].

An intervening plaintiff generally must accede to the original plaintiffs in the prosecution of the case unless the intervenor can show the court that the original plaintiffs are not pursuing the conduct of the case to their and the intervenor's best interests [see Mann v. Superior Court (1942) 53 CA2d 272, 280, 127 P2d 970 ].

31.08[2] Intervenor Has Same Procedural Rights and Remedies As Original Parties. As a general rule, an intervenor takes a suit as he or she finds it and cannot take advantage of ordinary procedural irregularities that the original parties have either expressly or impliedly waived [ Hosp. Council of N. Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 CA3d 331, 336, 106 CR 247 ].

However, when timely, or otherwise appropriate, the intervenor may [ Deutschmann v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1982) 132 CA3d 912, 916-918, 183 CR 573 ; Hosp. Council of N. Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 CA3d 331, 336, 337 n6, 106 CR 247 ]:

- Object to the court's jurisdiction.
- Object that the complaint does not state a cause of action.
- Demand a jury trial.
- Move to disqualify a judge.

The intervenor can also obtain the same affirmative relief that he or she could properly achieve by cross-complaint if he or she were an original party [ City of Santa Monica v. Stewart (2005) 126 CA4th 43, 87, 24 CR3d 72 (attorney's fees under CCP § 1021.5); Marc Bellaire, Inc. v. Fleischman (1960) 185 CA2d 591, 595, 8 CR 650 ].

31.08[3] Intervenor May Be Able to Continue Suit After Voluntary Dismissal by Plaintiff. The nature of the complaint in intervention determines whether the intervenor can continue the action after a voluntary dismissal by the plaintiff.

An intervenor who seeks only to resist the plaintiff's cause of action cannot deprive that party of the privilege of a voluntary dismissal [ Klinghoffer v. Barasch (1970) 4 CA3d 258, 261-262, 84 CR 350 ].

If the intervenor's complaint in intervention constitutes a request for affirmative relief, a cross-complaint, or claims adverse to both of the original parties, the intervenor's right to have the issues determined cannot be affected by the dismissal of the plaintiff's action [ Farmer v. Union Oil Co. (1977) 75 CA3d 42, 44-45, 44 n1, 141 CR 848 ; Voyce v. Superior Court (1942) 20 C2d 479, 488, 127 P2d 536 ].

Chapter 31 Intervention
II. INTERVENING IN AN ACTION OR PROCEEDING

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.08A

31.08A Appeal of Order Denying Intervention.

[1] Order Appealable If Final. An order denying a motion to intervene is appealable when it finally and adversely determines the right of the moving party to proceed in the action [ Noya v. A.W. Coulter Trucking (2006) 143 CA4th 838, 841, 49 CR3d 584 ; Jun v. Myers (2001) 88 CA4th 117, 122-123, 105 CR2d 537 ; see Hinton v. Beck (2009) 176 CA4th 1378, 1382, 98 CR3d 612 (order striking intervention complaint is appealable)]. That the motion to intervene was ex parte does not matter [ Noya v. A.W. Coulter Trucking (2006) 143 CA4th 838, 841, 49 CR3d 584 ].

[2] Standard of Review Depends on Issue on Appeal. An order denying intervention is reviewed on appeal under the deferential abuse-of-discretion standard [ Noya v. A.W. Coulter Trucking (2006) 143 CA4th 838, 842, 49 CR3d 584 ; Reliance Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 84 CA4th 383, 386, 100 CR2d 807 ]. However, whether a party has sufficient interest in a statutory fee award to support intervention under CCP § 387 is a question of statutory interpretation subject to de novo review [ Lindelli v. Town of San Anselmo (2006) 139 CA4th 1499, 1505, 43 CR3d 707 ].

Chapter 31 Intervention
III. OPPOSING INTERVENTION

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.09

31.09 CHECKLIST: Opposing Intervention.

☐ Review application for leave to intervene to determine whether nonparty has grounds for intervention:

☐ Determine whether nonparty has mandatory right to intervene because:

☐ Provision of law confers unconditional right to intervene; or

☐ Nonparty has an interest relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action, and ☐ Nonparty is so situated that the disposition of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede his or her ability to protect that interest.

☐ Nonparty's interest is not adequately represented by existing parties.

Authority:

CCP § 387(b)

Discussion:

See 31.05[2]

☐ Determine whether nonparty otherwise has interest justifying intervention:

☐ Nonparty must have interest:

- ☐ In the matter in litigation;
- ☐ In the success of either of the parties; or
- ☐ Against both of the parties.

☐ Interest must be:

- ☐ An interest of such direct or immediate character that the intervenor will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment; or
- ☐ An interest, which would otherwise be consequential, that has become direct under the circumstances of the case.

Authority:

CCP § 387(a)

Discussion:

See 31.05[3]

☐ Determine whether application for leave to intervene is timely:

- ☐ Application for leave to intervene must be "timely" made.
- ☐ Statute of limitations governing action may affect right to intervene.
- ☐ Statutory provision granting unconditional right to intervene in particular case may provide standard of timeliness.

Authority:

CCP § 387

Discussion:

See 31.06

☐ If grounds for intervention are inadequate or application is untimely, prepare, file and serve appropriate opposition to application.

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.23 (ex parte), 26.39 (noticed motion)

Chapter 31 Intervention
III. OPPOSING INTERVENTION

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.10

31.10 Options and Strategy for Person Opposing Intervention.

A party served with notice of an application for leave to intervene may oppose the application for leave because of [see CCP § 387]:

- Lack of grounds for the intervention; or
- The untimeliness of the application.

Strategic Point--Party Opposing Intervention:

An order granting leave to intervene is not appealable until after final judgment. If an existing party opposes the granting of leave to intervene, however, that party should specifically make an objection to the application to intervene to avoid waiving the issue. The issue of whether intervention is proper will not be preserved for appeal by allowing the application for leave to intervene to be granted without objection, and then objecting to the intervention in response to the complaint in intervention [see Watson v. Collins (1962) 204 CA2d 27, 30-32, 21 CR 832 ].

III. OPPOSING INTERVENTION

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.11

31.11 To Avoid Waiver of Objection, Party Must Oppose Motion for Leave to Intervene.

A party must make a timely and appropriate objection to intervention or the matter will be considered waived [ Traweek v. Draper (1956) 143 CA2d 119, 121-122, 299 P2d 391 ]. A party cannot oppose intervention after treating the complaint in intervention as a valid complaint and filing an answer to it [ Traweek v. Draper (1956) 143 CA2d 119, 121-122, 299 P2d 391 ].

An objection to intervention cannot be raised for the first time on appeal [ Watson v. Collins (1962) 204 CA2d 27, 30-31, 21 CR 832 ].

Warning:

A party must have made a timely objection to intervention to preserve the issue for appeal, or the issue will be considered waived, even though the party may be able to otherwise appeal from the final judgment [see Watson v. Collins (1962) 204 CA2d 27, 30-32, 21 CR 832 ].

IV. RESPONDING TO COMPLAINT IN INTERVENTION

31.14 Options and Strategy for Responding to Complaint in Intervention.

Counsel should respond to a complaint-in-intervention in the same manner as responding to a regular complaint. The same options of filing an answer, motion to strike, or demurrer are available. Counsel should ensure that any particular affirmative defenses applicable to the plaintiff-in-intervention are pled, and that if a party has an offset as to the plaintiff-in-intervention, that it, too, is pled. Defenses applicable to the plaintiff may be applicable to the plaintiff-in-intervention as well (e.g. comparative fault of the plaintiff applies to the workers' compensation carrier as plaintiff-in-intervention). Any compulsory cross-complaints must be filed and non compulsory cross-complaints should be considered as well.

31.16 Responding When Intervenor Assumes Role of Plaintiff.

If the intervenor is aligned with the plaintiff or otherwise assumes the role of a plaintiff in seeking affirmative relief, an opposing party may file, as appropriate:

- A demurrer to the complaint in intervention [see CCP §§ 430.10, 430.30(a)].
- A motion to strike [see CCP § 435].
- An answer to the complaint in intervention [see CCP §§ 430.10, 430.30(b)].
- A cross-complaint [see CCP §§ 426.30, 428.10].

Chapter 31 Intervention
IV. RESPONDING TO COMPLAINT IN INTERVENTION

2-31 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 31.17

31.17 Responding When Intervenor Assumes Role of Defendant.

If the intervenor unites with a defendant, the complaint in intervention may be treated as an answer, and the original parties need not file a responsive pleading [see Drinkhouse v. Van Ness (1927) 202 C 359, 371, 372, 260 P 869 ].

However, if the complaint in intervention is in the nature of answer to the original complaint or to a cross-complaint filed in the action, the opposing party may object to the complaint in intervention by demurrer, on the same grounds as an objection to an answer [see CCP § 430.20].

If an intervenor who unites with a defendant in resisting the claims of the plaintiff also seeks affirmative relief, the party or parties against whom such relief is sought may treat the complaint in intervention as a cross-complaint and respond in the same manner as a response to a complaint [see CCP §§ 430.10, 430.30].

Chapter 32 Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions
I. STRATEGY

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.02

32.02 Objective and Strategy.

An attorney has the duty of promptly informing the court and other parties of any action or proceeding pending in any state or federal action in California that has the same parties litigating the same or similar claims, the same property or event, or substantially the same facts and questions of law. The attorney performs this duty by filing and serving a notice of related case, and must do so when he or she "knows or learns of the existence" of the related action.

A party or person causing a stay of proceedings has a duty to immediately notify the court and all parties of the stay. Avoid sanctions by the court, or motions for costs by parties who have expended efforts in litigating what they thought was an ongoing case, by immediately filing the notice.

Warning:

In some instances the attorney is readily aware of the related action, such as a plaintiff's attorney filing a related action in another court. Other cases may not be so apparent, such as actions with varying degrees of party and facts overlap, when an attorney discovers another case in the media that has the same facts and question of law, or when the other action is outside of California. When in doubt, side in favor of immediate disclosure. If the court determines the attorney was aware of a related case but did not submit a notice for a tactical advantage, the attorney is doing a disservice to the client and is inviting potential discipline proceedings.

Consolidation is the power of the court to order several actions or issues with common question or law or fact, filed in the same county, to be tried together. Coordination is the assignment of civil actions sharing common questions of law or fact, but filed in different counties, to a single judge for trial who coordinates pretrial procedures and may try the cases in one or more courts. Severance is the power of the court to order a separate trial of any cause of action or issue filed in that county.

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

For coordination and consolidation of actions, bring motions as soon as possible (as soon as the reason for doing so is apparent). If cases are too close to trial, the judge will have more reason to deny the motion.

Chapter 32 Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions
II. FILING AND RESPONDING TO NOTICE OF RELATED CASES AND NOTICE OF STAY

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.03

32.03 CHECKLIST: Filing and Responding to Notice of Related Cases and Notice of Stay.

☐ Determine if a case that is pending, was dismissed with or without prejudice, or was disposed of by judgment is "related" to another in California state or federal court by investigating whether it:

☐ Involves the same parties and is based on the same or similar claims; or

☐ Arises from the same or substantially identical transactions, incidents, or events requiring the determination of the same or substantially identical questions of law or fact; or

☐ Involves claims against, title to, possession of, or damages to the same property; or

☐ Is likely for other reasons to require substantial duplication of judicial resources if heard by different judge.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(a)

Discussion:

Chapter 32 Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions
II. FILING AND RESPONDING TO NOTICE OF RELATED CASES AND NOTICE OF STAY

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.04

32.04 Filing Notice of Related Cases.

32.04[1] Notice of Related Cases Must Be Filed When Party Learns of Related Action. A party in a civil action who knows or learns of the existence of a related action or proceeding pending, dismissed, or disposed of by judgment in any state or federal court in California is required to file and serve a Notice of Related Case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(b)]. This duty applies when a party files a case with knowledge of a related action or proceeding, and applies thereafter whenever a party learns of a related action or proceeding [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(f)].

Exception:

A party is not required to serve and file a Notice of Related Case if another party has already filed a notice and served all parties on the same case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(k)].

Strategic Point:

Be certain to determine whether the court has local rules regarding when a Notice of Related Case is required and, if so, to adhere to them.

Example:

Under the Los Angeles County Superior Court Rules, a Notice of Related Case is not required when all the cases to be related are already assigned to the same department [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(f)(6)(a)]. Instead, the cases must be consolidated under Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(g) [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(f)(6)(b)].

32.04[2] Definition of "Related Case."

32.04[2][a] "Related Case" May Be Pending, Dismissed, or Disposed of By Judgment. Another case may be a related case whether it is or has been [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(a)]:

- Pending,
- Dismissed with or without prejudice, or

- Disposed of by judgment.

32.04[2][b] Case Is "Related" If Specified Elements Are Same or Identical, or If Duplicate Court Resources Are Required. An action is "related" to another when both [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(a)]:

- Involve the same parties and are based on the same or similar claims; or
- Arise from the same or substantially identical transactions, incidents, or events requiring the determination of the same or substantially identical questions of law or fact;
- Involve claims against, title to, possession of, or damages to the same property; or
- Are likely for other reasons to require substantial duplication of judicial resources if heard by different judges.

32.04[3] Notice Must Meet Statutory Requirements and Be Served on All Parties Within 15 Days. The Notice of Related Case must state the court, title, case number, and filing date for each related action together with a description of the relationship between the cases. The Notice must also identify the case that has the earliest filing date and the court and department in which that case is pending [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(c)]. The Notice must be served on all known parties in each related action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(d)].

Timing:

The Notice of Related Case must be served and filed as soon as possible, and not more than 15 days after the facts concerning the existence of related cases become known [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(e)].

The California Judicial Council has approved Form CM-015, Notice of Related Case, for optional use in giving notice of a related case [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.35].

Cross Reference:

Form, notice of related case, see 32.26A.

Strategic Point:

Be certain to determine whether the court has additional local rules regarding the filing of the Notice of Related Case and, if so, to adhere to them.

Example:

The Los Angeles County Superior Court Rules require that the Notice of Related Case must set forth facts and be accompanied by relevant complaint(s) and/or cross-complaint(s) demonstrating the relationship between the cases [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(f)(2)(b)(v)].

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.05

32.05 Response to Notice Must Be Served Within 5 Days.

Within 5 days of service of the Notice of Related Case on a party, the party may file and serve a response. The response must state why one or more of the cases listed in the Notice are not related or why other good cause exists for the court not to transfer the cases to or from a particular court or department. The response must be filed in all pending cases listed in the Notice and must be served on all parties in those cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(g)].

II. FILING AND RESPONDING TO NOTICE OF RELATED CASES AND NOTICE OF STAY

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.06

32.06 Court Orders on Cases in Notice of Related Cases.

32.06[1] Judicial Action on Related Cases Pending in One Superior Court.

32.06[1][a] Depends on Whether Court Assigns to One Judge or Uses Master Calendar. If all of the cases listed together in a Notice of Related Cases have been filed in one Superior Court, the court on notice to all parties may order that the cases (including probate and family law cases) be related and may assign them to a single judge or department [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(1)].

If the court uses a master calendar, the presiding judge may order the cases related. However, if the court assigns cases to a single judge or department, cases may be ordered related as follows [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(1)(A)-(C)]:

- If the cases in the Notice are either all unlimited or all limited civil cases, the judge who has the earliest filed case must determine whether to order the cases related and assigned to his or her department.
- If the cases in the Notice include unlimited and limited civil cases, the judge who has the earliest filed unlimited civil case must determine whether to order the cases related and assigned to his or her department.
- If the cases listed in the Notice include a probate or family law case, the presiding judge or a judge designed by the presiding judge decides whether to order the cases related and, if so, to which judge or department to assign them.

Exception:

Local rules of court may have different provisions regarding the decision whether to relate cases and, if they are related, how to assign them.

Examples:

Under the Los Angeles County Superior Court Rules, a Notice of Related Case is not required when all the cases to be related are assigned to the same department [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule

7.3(f)(6)(a)]. Instead, the cases must be consolidated under Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(g) [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(f)(6)(b)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Consolidation of cases, see 32.07 et seq.

The Los Angeles County Superior Court Rules contain special provisions for when the cases listed in the Notice contain a probate or family law case. If the cases are all pending in the Central District, or if the cases are pending in different districts, Department One determines whether the cases are related and, if so, to which department they are to be assigned. If the cases are all pending in the same district, other than the Central District, the Supervising Judge of that district shall determine whether the cases are related and, if so, to which department they are to be assigned [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(f)(3)(c)].

In San Francisco County Superior Court, assigned to the discovery department to which the earliest-filed case has been assigned, or as the Presiding Judge may direct [San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rules 8.14(B)(1), 10.0(B)(1)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Classification of cases as unlimited or limited, see Ch. 15, Reclassification of Cases.

32.06[1][b] Party May File Motion for Order Relating Cases Not Ordered Related. In the event that a case listed in the Notice of Related Cases is not ordered related under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(1)(A)-(C) [see 32.06[1][a]], any party in any of the cases listed in the Notice may file a motion to have the cases related. The motion is to be filed with the presiding judge or the judge designated by the presiding judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(1)(D)].

32.06[1][c] Cases Not Subject to Rules for Relating Cases Must Be Consolidated. If the procedures for relating cases under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300 do not apply, the cases must be consolidated under CCP § 1048 and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(1)(E)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Consolidation of cases under CCP § 1048 and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350, see 32.07 et seq.

32.06[1][d] These Rules Do Not Apply to Complex Cases in One Superior Court. The provisions of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(1) concerning judicial action on a Notice of Related Case in cases before one Superior Court do not apply to cases that have been designated as complex by the parties or determined to be complex by the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(3)].

32.06[2] Judicial Action on Related Cases Pending in More Than One Superior Court May Consist of Formal or Informal Coordination. The judge to whom the earliest filed case of cases listed in a Notice of Related Case that are pending in more than one Superior Court may on notice to all parties confer with all parties and the judges to whom each related case is assigned. The purpose of the conferring is to determine the feasibility and desirability of joint discovery orders and other informal or formal means of coordinating proceedings in the cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(2)(A)].

If it is determined that related cases pending in different Superior Courts should be formally coordinated, that coordination should occur [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(h)(2)(B)]:

- In noncomplex cases, under the procedures in CCP § 403 and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500; or

- In complex cases, under the procedures in CCP § 404 et seq. and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.501 et seq.

Cross References:

Coordination of noncomplex actions, see 32.14 et seq. Coordination of complex actions, see 32.18 et seq.

32.06[3] Issuing Court or Party It Directs to Do So Files and Serves Notice of Order. The court, department, or judge issuing an order relating cases under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300 either [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(i)]:

- Files notice of order in all pending cases and serves a copy of notice on all parties listed in Notice of Related Case, or
- Directs counsel for a party to file the notice in all pending cases and serves a copy of notice on all parties.

Strategic Point:

Be certain to determine whether the court has local rules regarding the ruling on whether to relate cases as well as the notice of ruling, and, if so, to adhere to them.

Example:

Under the Los Angeles County Superior Court Rules, the ruling court reviews cases for pending ADR referrals and "should" ensure the ADR process is for all the related cases and notify parties as such [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(f)(5)].

32.06[4] Cases Not Related Remain With Originally Assigned Court, Judge, or Department. A case not ordered related under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300 for any reason remains assigned to the court, judge, or department in which it was pending at the time of filing and service of the Notice of Related Case[Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(j)].

II. FILING AND RESPONDING TO NOTICE OF RELATED CASES AND NOTICE OF STAY

32.06A Notice of Stay.

32.06A[1] Notice of Stay Must Be Immediately Filed and Served. A party who requested or caused a stay of a proceeding must immediately serve and file a notice of the stay and attach a copy of the order or other document showing that the proceeding is stayed. If the person who requested or caused the stay has not appeared, or is not subject to the jurisdiction of the court, the plaintiff must immediately file a notice of the stay and attach a copy of the order or other document showing that the proceeding is stayed. The notice of stay must be served on all parties who have appeared in the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.650(a)].

The party responsible for giving notice must provide notice if the case is stayed for any of the following reasons [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.650(b)]:

- An order of a federal court or a higher state court.
- Contractual arbitration under CCP § 1281.4.
- Arbitration of attorney fees and costs under B&P Code § 6201.
- Automatic stay caused by a filing in another court, including a federal bankruptcy court.

The notice must state whether the case is stayed with regard to all parties or only certain parties. If it is stayed with regard to only to certain parties, the notice must specifically identify those parties. The notice must also state the reason that the case is stayed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.650(c)].

Cross Reference:

Mandatory form, Notice of Stay of Proceedings (Judicial Council Form CM-180), see 6.64A.

32.06A[2] Notice of Termination or Modification of Stay Must Be Immediately Filed and Served. When the stay is vacated, no longer in effect, or modified, the party who filed the notice of stay must immediately file and serve a notice of termination or modification of the stay, and upon that party's failure to give notice, any party with knowledge of the termination or modification must file and serve the notice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.650(d)].

Cross Reference:

Form, notice of termination or modification of stay (Judicial Council Form CM-181, mandatory), see 6.64B.

32.06A[3] Automatic Bankruptcy Stay Terminated in Certain Circumstances. The automatic stay caused by the filing of a bankruptcy case under 11 USCS § 362(a) continues until the property is no longer the property of the estate; however the stay is subject to limitations under the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005 [Pub L 109-8], such as:

- If a case of the debtor was pending within the preceding 1-year period but was dismissed, other than a case refiled under a chapter other than chapter 7 after dismissal, the automatic stay terminates with respect to the debtor on the 30th day after the filing of the later case unless, after notice and a hearing, the court extends the stay because the new case is filed in good faith [11 USCS § 362(c)(3)].
- With respect to a stay of an act against real property, by a creditor whose claim is secured by an interest in such real property, the court may make an order over the property if the court finds that the filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, and defraud creditors that involved either: (1) a transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, such real property without the consent of the secured creditor or court approval; or (2) multiple bankruptcy filings affecting the real property [11 USCS § 362(d)].
- For personal property in which a creditor has a purchase-money security interest, the automatic stay is terminated if the debtor fails to timely file a reaffirmation agreement on the creditor's claims or redeems the personal property [11 USCS §§ 362(h), 521(a)].
- For individuals filing a chapter 7, 11, or 13 case, the automatic stay terminates 60 days after a request for relief from the stay unless a final decision on the request is issued by the court within the 60 days or the period is extended either by agreement or by the court for a specific period of time found necessary for good cause [11 USCS § 362(e)].

Other limitations on the automatic stay under the 2005 act apply to family proceedings, landlord-tenant disputes, and tax actions [see Pub L 109-8].

Chapter 32 Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions
III. SEEKING AND OPPOSING CONSOLIDATION OF ACTIONS

32.08 Consolidation Defined.

32.08[1] Consolidation Combines Actions in Same Court and County. Consolidation is the power of the court to order several actions or issues involving common questions of law or fact filed in the same county to be tried together in order to promote convenience and conserve judicial resources by avoiding unnecessary costs, delays, and duplication. Actions may be consolidated for all purposes with a single judgment or may be consolidated for the purpose of trial of related issues with separate judgments. The court may make any orders concerning consolidated proceedings as may tend to avoid unnecessary costs or delay [CCP § 1048(a)].

Distinguish:

Actions pending in different counties are not eligible for consolidation, but if the cases are not "complex" according to Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400 et seq., they may be transferred to the same court and then consolidated [see CCP § 403]. If the cases are complex, then they may be coordinated (for some or all purposes).

➡ Cross References:

Discussion of coordination of non-complex cases by transfer and consolidation, see 32.14 -32.17.

Discussion of coordination of complex cases, see 32.18 -32.22.

32.08[2] Non-Court Proceedings Are Also Subject to Consolidation. Actions filed in courts of law are not the only proceedings subject to consolidation. Separate arbitration proceedings pursuant to contract may be ordered consolidated where there is a risk of conflicting rulings by one or more arbitrators. The disputes should arise from the same transaction and involve common issues of law and fact [CCP § 1281.3; see Garden Grove Cmty. Church v. Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. (1983) 140 CA3d 251, 261-262, 191 CR 15 ].

If the issues involved in a pending action are also the subject of an arbitration proceeding, the court has the power to consolidate both proceedings for all purposes, including trial [CCP § 1281.2(c); Mercury Ins. Group v. Superior Court (1998) 19 C4th 332, 345-347, 79 CR2d 308, 965 P2d 1178 ].

Exception:

Where the arbitration proceeding is governed by the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA), the FAA preempts state consolidation rules [9 USC §§ 1-2]. Because there is no authority under the FAA for consolidating pending arbitration claims with pending court actions, FAA claims may not be consolidated with nonarbitrable claims in a court action [see Broughton v. CIGNA Healthplans of Cal. (1999) 21 C4th 1066, 1088, 90 CR2d 334, 988 P2d 67 ].

32.08[3] Consolidation Is Not a Matter of Right. Consolidation is not a matter of right. The decision of whether to consolidate and whether the consolidation is for all purposes, or for trial only, rests solely within the discretion of the trial judge [ Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp., Ltd. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1149, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 ; Fisher v. Nash Bldg. Co., Inc. (1952) 113 CA2d 397, 402, 248 P2d 466 ]. The trial court's decision regarding consolidation will not be disturbed on appeal absent a clear showing of abuse of discretion [ Todd-Stenberg v. Dalkon Shield Claimants Trust (1996) 48 CA4th 976, 978-979, 56 CR2d 16 ].

32.08[4] Consolidation May Be for All Purposes or for Trial Only. Two distinct types of consolidation are possible. The court may order consolidation for all purposes, which results in a single action under one case number with one verdict or set of findings and one judgment [ Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp., Ltd. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1147, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 ; Jaffe v. The Albertson Co. (1966) 243 CA2d 592, 606-607, 53 CR 25 ]. Complete consolidation is correct where no doubt exists as to the applicability of the various findings to each of the consolidated cases [ Page v. Bakersfield Unif. & Towel Supply Co. (1966) 239 CA2d 762, 772, 49 CR 46 ] or where the plaintiffs could have joined together originally to bring the action [ Jaffe v. The Albertson Co. (1966) 243 CA2d 592, 606-607, 53 CR 25 ].

Alternatively, courts may order consolidation for purposes of trial only, that is, consolidation only for the purpose of trial of related issues, with separate judgments and findings [ Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp., Ltd. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1147, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 ; Stubblefield Constr. Co. v. City of San Bernardino (1995) 32 CA4th 687, 701, 38 CR2d 413 ]. With consolidation only for trial of related issues, each action maintains its separate identity and independent dispositions of the actions are necessary [ *Hamilton v. III. SEEKING AND OPPOSING CONSOLIDATION OF ACTIONS

32.09 Seeking and Opposing Consolidation.

32.09[1] Consolidation Is Requested by Stipulation or Noticed Motion. Consolidation may be ordered upon motion of any party, on stipulation of the parties or on the Court's own motion with notice to the parties and an opportunity to be heard [CCP § 1048(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350(a)].

Moving Party:

The moving party must: list all named parties in each case and the names of those who have appeared and their attorneys in the moving papers; include all the captions of all the cases sought to be consolidated, with the case with the lowest number first; and, serve the motion on all parties in all the cases to be consolidated, with a proof of service filed with the moving papers. A copy of the notice of motion must be filed in each case sought to be consolidated [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350(a)].

Cross References:

Forms of notice of motion, motion and declaration of motion to consolidate, see 32.28, 32.31.

Discussion/Forms regarding stipulations in general, see Ch. 28, Stipulations.

Discussion/Forms regarding law and motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.09[2] Motion for Consolidation May Be Filed Any Time Up to Trial. There is no deadline for filing a motion to consolidate. Cases may even be consolidated on the eve of trial [CCP § 1048(a)].

Warning:

Waiting too long to seek consolidation may result in its denial. Different judges assigned to the cases may make disparate rulings affecting discovery and trial, rendering the actions too different to consolidate.

Cross References:

Forms of notice of motion, motion and declaration of motion to consolidate, see 32.28, 32.31.

Forms of order consolidating actions, see 32.29, 32.32.

Discussion/Forms regarding law and motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.09[3] Factors Considered in Assessing Motion for Consolidation.

32.09[3][a] Avoiding Unnecessary Costs and Delays. Consolidation is proper when it would avoid unnecessary costs and delays and when actions contain common questions of law or fact [CCP § 1048(a)].

32.09[3][b] Parties Must Not Be Prejudiced. An order of consolidation is not proper if parties to the action are prejudiced by virtue of the consolidation [ State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1956) 47 C2d 428, 431-432, 304 P2d 13 ].

Example:

In a declaratory judgment action, an insurer sought a determination that the insured driver was carrying passengers for a charge under a liability policy that excluded coverage if the insured's vehicle was used to carry passengers for a charge. The passengers brought a second action against the insured driver, which action was defended by the insurer. In the second action, the insurer's/insured's defense was that the passengers were not being carried for a charge, but instead were guests within the meaning of a guest statute and therefore could not recover without proof of willful misconduct. Because consolidation would put the insurer in an inconsistent position in arguing the status of the passengers, consolidating the actions was prejudicial to the insurer and sufficient for a finding of abuse of discretion [ State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1956) 47 C2d 428, 431, 304 P2d 13 ].

32.09[3][c] Consolidation Must Not Confuse Jury. Consolidation is not proper where such an order would result in confusion to the jury, such as when the same party is obligated to assume inconsistent positions and the jury must apply differing tests to particular fact situations that it may find to exist [ Todd-Stenberg v. Dalkon Shield Claimants Trust (1996) 48 CA4th 976, 980, 981 n1, 56 CR2d 16 ].

32.09[3][d] Evidence Inadmissible in One Action Does Not Preclude Consolidation. Consolidation may be proper although the evidence presented in one action would not have been admissible in the other action [ Jud Whitehead Heater Co. v. Obler (1952) 111 CA2d 861, 866-867, 245 P2d 608 ]. Where consolidation is only for the purpose of trial of related issues, the evidence presented in one case is deemed applicable in the other only to the extent that it is relevant [ McClure v. Donovan (1949) 33 C2d 717, 722, 205 P2d 17 ].

32.09[3][e] Lack of Identical Parties Does Not Preclude Consolidation. Consolidation may also be appropriate and not an abuse of discretion even though the parties to both actions are not identical [ Jud Whitehead Heater Co. v. Obler (1952) 111 CA2d 861, 867, 245 P2d 608 ].

32.10 Court's Order Granting or Denying Consolidation.

32.10[1] Court's Order Must Be Filed in Each Case. The order granting or denying all or part of a motion to consolidate is filed in each case sought to be consolidated [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350(c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms on service of papers in general, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

32.10[2] Order Should State Whether Actions Consolidated for All Purposes or Trial Only. The order must state whether the actions are being consolidated for all purposes, or only for trial of related issues. If the cases involve the same parties, an order consolidating the actions for all purposes should indicate that the causes of action are joined, and that there will be one judgment, and only one set of factual findings and conclusions of law. The cases will be treated as if the actions had been united originally [ Didier v. Am. Cas. Co. (1968) 261 CA2d 742, 752, 68 CR 217 ; CCP § 632]. Where pending actions are consolidated for trial of related issues, the order should set forth the issues, and state that separate findings and judgments must be made in each action [ Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp., Ltd. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1147, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 ].

All documents filed in the consolidated case must include the caption and case number of the lead case, followed by the case numbers of all the other consolidated cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350(d)]. Unless otherwise ordered by the court, the lead case will be the case with the lowest file number [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350(b)].

32.13 Parties to Consolidated Cases May Challenge Assigned Judge.

A party to any of the consolidated cases may seek to disqualify the assigned judge by timely challenge [CCP § 170.6]. This is true even if that party previously accepted the judge [ Nissan Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 6 CA4th 150, 155, 7 CR2d 801 ; *Philip Morris, Inc. v. 32.15 Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation of Non-Complex Actions.

32.15[1] Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation Assigns Non-Complex Cases Filed in Different Courts to One Judge. In non-complex actions, a judge in one court may order a case pending in a different court or county transferred to his or her court if the cases involve "a common question of fact or law" [CCP § 403]. Upon such transfer, the judge may consolidate the cases for trial without further notice or hearing [CCP §§ 403, 1048].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of consolidation of actions, see 32.07 -32.13.

32.15[2] Procedure Applies to Non-Complex Cases Only. Coordination by transfer and consolidation is available only for actions which are "not complex" [CCP § 403; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.400 et seq., Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.502].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of how courts distinguish between "complex" and "non-complex" cases, see 32.19[3].

32.15[3] Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation Is Allowed Where It Will Promote Justice According to Statutory Criteria. Coordination by transfer and consolidation is appropriate only where the actions involve a "common question of fact or law," and coordination would "promote the ends of justice" as specified in CCP § 404.1 [CCP §§ 403, 404, 404.1]:

- Whether the "common question of fact or law" is significant to the litigation;
- The convenience of parties, witnesses and counsel;
- The relative development of the actions and the work product of counsel;
- The efficient utilization of judicial facilities and manpower;

- The calendar of the respective courts;
- The disadvantages of duplicative and inconsistent rulings, orders, or judgments;
- The likelihood of settlement of the actions without further litigation should coordination be denied.

32.16 Seeking and Opposing Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation.

32.16[1] Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation Is Requested By Party's Noticed Motion. Transfer and consolidation may be requested by motion of any party [CCP § 403].

Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms for law and motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.16[2] Motion Must Include Declaration That Actions Meet Statutory Criteria for Coordination, Cases Are Not Complex, and Party Attempted Informal Resolution. The motion must be supported by a declaration stating facts which show the following [CCP § 403; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(c)]:

- The actions meet the standards specified in CCP § 404.1;
- The actions are not complex as defined by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400 et seq.;
- The moving party has made a good faith effort to obtain agreement to the transfer from all parties to each action;
- The moving party has notified all parties of their obligation to disclose to the court any information they may have concerning any other motions requesting transfer of any case that would be affected by the granting of the motion before the court.

Cross References:

Form of notice of motion and supporting declaration, see 32.33.

32.16[3] Notice of Motion for Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation Is Served on All Parties. Notice of the motion must be served on all parties to each action and on each court in which an action is pending [CCP § 403].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms regarding service of papers in general, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

32.16[4] Any Party May Oppose Motion for Coordination by Transfer and Consolidation. Any party to an action affected by the motion may file papers opposing the motion "within the time permitted by rule of the Judicial Council," [CCP § 403] although the Judicial Council has yet to promulgate such a rule. The motion is subject to the requirements generally applicable to motions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(c)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms regarding motion procedure generally, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.16[5] All Memoranda and Affidavits in Support of or in Opposition to the Motion Must Be Filed at Least Five Days Before Hearing. Unless otherwise directed by the assigned judge, all memoranda and declarations in support of, or in opposition to, the motion for coordination by transfer must be served and filed at least nine court days before any hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.513].

32.16[6] Evidence Presented Must Be Written Unless Judge Orders Otherwise. Any evidence presented in support of, or in opposition to, the motion for transfer and consolidation must be initially submitted in writing to the court. Declarations, answers to interrogatories or requests for admissions, depositions, or matters judicially noticed are acceptable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.514]. Oral testimony is not permitted at the motion hearing unless the assigned judge allows such testimony to resolve factual disputes raised by the declarations, responses to discovery, or matters judicially noticed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.514].

32.16[7] Parties Must Disclose Other Pending Motions to Transfer. If they know of any other relevant motions to transfer which are pending before another court, the parties have a duty to disclose this information to the court. Failure to do so by a party may result in a finding that the party unlawfully interfered with the processes of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(g)].

32.16[8] Only Parties Who Have Filed Papers Can Attend Hearing. Unless the assigned judge orders otherwise for good cause, only the parties who have submitted a petition, motion, or application, or a written response or opposition to a petition, motion, or application are permitted to attend the hearing on the motion for coordination by transfer and consolidation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.514].

32.17 Court's Order Regarding Motion and Moving Party's Obligations Thereafter.

32.17[1] Court May Make Alternative Disposition If Actions Belong in Another Court. After considering the motion, the judge may determine that the actions pending in another court should not be transferred to the judge's court, but transferred and consolidated in another court. In this instance, the judge may order the parties to prepare, serve, and file a motion to have the actions transferred to the appropriate court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(h)].

32.17[2] Court's Order Granting Transfer Must Indicate that Actions Are Not Complex and State Why Transfer and Consolidation Would Promote Justice. If the court orders that the case or cases be transferred from another court, the order shall specify the reasons supporting a finding that the transfer will promote the ends of justice, with reference to the following standards [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(d)]:

- The actions are not complex;
- Whether the common question of fact or law is predominating and significant to the litigation;
- The convenience of the parties, witnesses, and counsel;
- The relative development of the actions and the work product of counsel;
- The efficient utilization of judicial facilities and staff resources;
- The calendar of the courts;
- The disadvantages of duplicative and inconsistent rulings, orders, or judgments; and
- The likelihood of settlement of the actions without further litigation should coordination be denied.

Form of Order, see 32.34.

32.17[3] Moving Party Serves Copies of Order and Assures That Transfer Takes Place. If the court orders that the case or cases be transferred from another court, the moving party must immediately:

- Serve the order on all parties to each case and must send copies to the Judicial Council and to the presiding judge of the court from which each case is to be transferred [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(e)];
- Promptly take all appropriate action necessary to assure that the transfer takes place and that proceedings are initiated in the other court or courts to effectuate consolidation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(f)]

32.17[4] Receiving Judge May Consolidate Actions Without Further Notice or Hearing. CCP § 403 provides that the court to which a case is transferred under that provision may order the cases consolidated for trial pursuant to CCP § 1048 without any further motion or hearing [CCP § 403].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

The court normally will not consolidate matters for trial on its own motion, but will conduct a hearing and ask for briefing on the issue of consolidation, unless all counsel agree.

Strategic Point--Opposing Party:

If the court consolidates matters for trial on its own motion, an opposing party could later file a motion to sever [see 32.23 -32.26].

The actions may be consolidated for all purposes, or for trial only [ Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp., Ltd. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1147, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 ; Stubblefield Constr. Co. v. City of San Bernardino (1995) 32 CA4th 687, 701, 38 CR2d 413 ]. All documents filed in the consolidated case must include the caption and case number of the lead case, followed by the case numbers of all the other consolidated cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.350(d)].

Parties to the consolidated case may challenge the assigned judge [CCP § 170.6].

32.17[5] Administrative Office of the Courts Reviews Transfer Orders and Confers With Presiding Judges to Avoid Conflicting Orders. The coordination staff in the Administrative Office of the Courts must review all transfer orders submitted [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.500(f), (g)] and shall promptly confer with the presiding judges of any courts that have issued conflicting orders under CCP § 403. The presiding judges of any such courts shall confer with each other and with the judges who have issued the orders to the extent necessary to resolve the conflict [Cal Rules Ct, Rule

32.19 Coordination of Complex Actions Defined.

32.19[1] Coordination Assigns Complex Actions Filed in Different Courts to One Judge. Coordination is the assignment to a single judge of civil actions which share common questions of law or fact and are filed in different courts [CCP § 404]. The assigned judge may try the cases in one or more courts [CCP § 404.3]. The assigned judge also has the flexibility to order issues or defenses tried separately, and to order the hearings conducted at various sites in the state as may be selected to provide convenience to witnesses, parties, and counsel [Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.541; McGhan Med. Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 11 CA4th 804, 812-814, 14 CR2d 264 ].

Coordination proceedings are useful in determining common issues in personal injury mass tort claims, although each individual plaintiff is responsible for proof of the particular facts for his or her case [ Jolly v. Eli Lilly & Co. (1988) 44 C3d 1103, 1125 n19, 245 CR 658, 751 P2d 923 ]. Strict products liability actions can also benefit from coordination in the area of discovery and demurrer or summary judgment rulings [see McGhan Med. Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 11 CA4th 804, 812-814, 14 CR2d 264 ].

32.19[2] Procedure Applies to Complex Cases Only. The coordination procedure, which involves submitting a petition for coordination to the Chair of the Judicial Council, is available only for cases that are "complex," as defined by the Judicial Council [CCP § 404]. Non-complex cases are "coordinated" through transfer from one court to another, followed by consolidation with cases pending in the transferee court. This is accomplished via motion to the court [CCP § 403].

Cross References:

Discussion of coordination by transfer and consolidation, see 32.14-32.17.

Discussion of how courts distinguish between "complex" and "non-complex" cases, see 32.19[3].

32.19[3] Court Determines If Case Is "Complex" by Considering Statutory Factors. A case is "complex," if it requires exceptional judicial management to avoid placing unnecessary burdens on the court or the litigants and to expedite the case, keep costs reasonable, and promote effective decision making by the court, the parties, and counsel [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.400(a), 3.502]. The factors to be considered by the court in deciding whether an action is a complex case include, among other things, whether the action is likely to involve [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400(b)]:

- Numerous pretrial motions raising difficult or novel legal issues that will be time-consuming to resolve;
- Management of a large number of witnesses or a substantial amount of documentary evidence;
- Management of a large number of separately represented parties;
- Coordination with related actions pending in one or more courts in other counties, states, or countries, or in a federal court; or
- Substantial postjudgment judicial supervision.

Unless the court has significant experience resolving similar claims, or a local rule provides otherwise, an action will be provisionally designated as "complex" if it involves one of the following types of claims [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400(c), (d)]:

- Antitrust or trade regulation claims;
- Construction defect claims involving many parties or structures;
- Securities claims or investment losses involving many parties;
- Environmental or toxic tort claims involving many parties;
- Claims involving mass torts;
- Claims involving class actions; or
- Insurance coverage claims arising out of any of the claims listed above.

32.19[4] Coordination Is Allowed Where It Will Promote Justice According to Statutory Criteria.

Coordination is appropriate where the actions involve a "common question of fact or law," and coordination would "promote the ends of justice," according to the following criteria [CCP §§ 404, 404.1]:

- Whether the "common question of fact or law" is significant to the litigation;
- The convenience of parties, witnesses and counsel;
- The relative development of the actions and the work product of counsel;
- The efficient utilization of judicial facilities and manpower;

- The calendar of the respective courts;
- The disadvantages of duplicative and inconsistent rulings, orders, or judgments;
- The likelihood of settlement of the actions without further litigation should coordination be denied.

Exception:

The imminence of a trial in any action otherwise appropriate for coordination may be grounds for summary denial of a petition in whole or in part [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.521(d)].

V. SEEKING AND OPPOSING COORDINATION (COMPLEX ACTIONS ONLY)

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.20

32.20 Seeking and Opposing Coordination.

32.20[1] Petition for Coordination of Complex Cases Is Filed With Chair of Judicial Council. Coordination proceedings may be commenced by submitting a petition for coordination to the Chair of the Judicial Council [see CCP § 404; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.521].

Cross Reference:

Form of Petition, see 32.39.

32.20[2] Who May File Petition.

32.20[2][a] All Plaintiffs or Defendants in One Action May File Direct Petition. The most common method of commencing a coordination proceeding is by direct petition. A direct petition is permitted where all plaintiffs or all defendants in any one action support the petition [CCP § 404]. If all parties plaintiff or defendant in an action do not support the petition, the party seeking coordination must first make a motion to the presiding judge for permission to submit a petition [CCP § 404; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.520(b)].

Cross References:

Discussion of how to move the court for permission to submit a petition for coordination, see 32.20[2][c].

Related forms, see 32.35 -32.38.

Discussion/Forms regarding motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.20[2][b] Presiding Judge May File Direct Petition. Alternatively, the presiding judge of a court in which one of the actions is pending may file a direct petition for coordination [CCP § 404; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.520(b)].

32.20[2][c] Where Direct Petition Not Allowed, Party May Request Permission to File from Presiding Judge. When a direct petition cannot be made because it is not supported by either all plaintiffs or all defendants in one of the actions, any party may make a motion to the presiding judge of a court in which one of the actions is pending for permission to submit a petition for coordination to the Chair of the Judicial Council [CCP § 404; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.520(b)(1)]. The motion must also be accompanied by a proposed order stating that the moving party has permission to submit a petition for coordination to the Chair of the Judicial Council [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.520(b)(1)]. If permission is granted, the movant must serve and file the signed order and submit it to the Chair of the Judicial Council [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.520(b)(2)].

If permission is granted, the moving party prepares an order that must be served and filed in the action and submitted to the Chair of the Judicial Council. The order grants the moving party permission to submit a petition for coordination to the Chair of the Judicial Council [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.520(b)].

Cross References:

Forms, see 32.35, 32.36, 32.38.

Discussion/Forms regarding motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.20[2][d] Court May Stay Related Actions for Reasonable Time. To provide sufficient time for a party to submit a petition, the judge can stay all related actions pending in that court for a reasonable time not to exceed 30 calendar days [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.520(b)(3), 3.515(f)].

Cross References:

32.20[3] Contents of Petition and Supporting Documents.

32.20[3][a] Petition Specifies Name and Status of Each Action. The petition for coordination must specify [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.521]:

- The name of the petitioner (or, if filed by the court, the names of the parties), and the name and address of counsel;
- The names of all other parties in all of the included actions, and the name and address of each party's attorney of record;
- If the party seeking to submit a petition for coordination is a plaintiff, whether the party's attorney has served the summons and complaint on all parties in all included actions in which the attorney has appeared;
- The complete title, the case number, the date the complaint was filed, and the title of the court in each action to be included in the order;
- The complete title and case number of any other action sharing the same "common question of fact or law" with the included actions, as well as a statement of reasons why the action is not included, or a statement that the petitioner knows of no other actions sharing a common question of fact or law;
- The status of each included action, including pretrial motions, discovery, or other orders, if known to the petitioner;

- The facts relied upon to show that each included action meets the statutory criteria for coordination [see CCP § 404.1];

- The facts in support of selecting any particular court as a forum for the trial.

➤ Cross Reference:

Form of petition, see 32.39.

32.20[3][b] Petition Must Be Supported by Declaration that Cases Are Complex and Meet Statutory Coordination Criteria. The petition must be accompanied by a memorandum and a declaration stating facts which demonstrate that the actions are complex and meet the statutory criteria for coordination [CCP §§ 404, 404.1; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.521].

In lieu of proof by declaration of facts, a certified or endorsed copy of the respective pleadings may be attached to the petition for coordination specifying which parts of the pleadings are relied on to support a particular fact [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.521(c)].

Discussion of how courts distinguish between "complex" and "non-complex" cases, see 32.19[3].

Discussion of the statutory criteria for coordination, see 32.19[4].

Form of petition and declaration, see 32.39.

32.20[3][c] Petition Is Served With Notice of Submission of Petition for Coordination. The petitioner must submit a copy of the petition to the Chair of the Judicial Council, Administrative Office of the Courts, c/o Coordination Attorney, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California 94102-3660 [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.511(a)(1), 3.521(a)].

Within five court days of submitting the petition for coordination, the petitioner must submit to the Chair of the Judicial Council proof of filing of the notice of submission of petition [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.522] in each included action and proof of service of the notice of submission of petition and of the petition on all other parties in the included actions [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.510, 3.521(b), 3.522(b), 3.523].

The petition, as well as any paper listed in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.511(a) may be submitted electronically to the Chair of the Judicial Council at the following url: coordination@jud.ca.gov [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(a)]. The party submitting the electronic document must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(b), (c)]:

- Take all reasonable steps to ensure the submission does not include computer codes or other viruses that might damage the court's computer system.
- Furnish an electronic notification address and immediately provide the court with any changes to this address.
- Use only software that is in the public domain or generally available.
- Have a document that does not result in the loss of document text, format, or appearance when printed.

When a document does not require a signature under penalty of perjury, the document is deemed signed by the party when the document is submitted electronically [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(e)]. A party is not required to use a digital signature on an electronically submitted document [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(f)].

When a document submitted electronically requires a signature under penalty of perjury, the document is deemed signed by the declarant if, before submission, declarant has signed a printed form of the document [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(d)(1)]. By electronically submitting the document, the party indicates that a printed, signed form has been completed and is available for review and copying by the court or any other party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(d)(2)]. Any party may serve a demand for the original signed document, served on all parties though the demand need not be filed with the court, and the party on whom the demand is made must produce the original within five days of service of the demand [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512(d)(3), (4)].

 Cross Reference:

Form of notice, see 32.40.

32.20[4] Time for Serving and Filing Petition, Statement in Support, and Opposition.

32.20[4][a] Petition Procedure May Be Initiated After Complaint Filed. A petition for coordination, along with the notice of submission and supporting documents, may be served and filed "any time after filing of the complaint" [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.521(a)].

 Cross References:

Forms of petition and notice, see 32.39, 32.40.

Discussion/Forms regarding service of papers in general, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

32.20[4][b] Statement in Support May Be Served and Filed Within Nine Days of Hearing Date. Any party to an included action who supports coordination may submit a written statement in support of the petition at least nine court days before the date set for hearing. The statement in support may request that a different site or sites be selected based on facts included in the statement [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.526, 3.530(b)]. The documents may be submitted electronically to the Chair of the Judicial Council [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512].

Strategic Point--Supporting Party:

Given that the assigned judge may order that a specified issue or issues whose determination may dispose of a petition for coordination, without the necessity of conducting a hearing upon all issues raised by such the petition and by any opposition thereto, be heard and determined prior to any before a hearing on the remaining issues [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.528], supporting party having such an issue or issues should request in the statement in support that the assigned judge limit the hearing initially to the issue or issues.

 Cross References:

Hearing date, see 32.20[9].

32.20[4][c] Opposition May Be Served and Filed At Least Nine Court Days Before Hearing Date. Any party to an included action who opposes coordination may serve and submit a memorandum and declarations in opposition to the petition at least nine court days before the date set for hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.525]. The documents may be submitted electronically to the Chair of the Judicial Council [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512].

Strategic Points--Opposing Party:

- Given the assigned judge's duty to recommend a site or sites for the coordination using specified criteria [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.530], opposing party should include any opposition to proposed sites and should propose desired alternate sites in the memorandum and declarations.
- Given that the assigned judge may order that a specified issue or issues whose determination may dispose of a petition for coordination, without the necessity of conducting a hearing upon all issues raised by such the petition and by any opposition thereto, be heard and determined prior to any before a hearing on the remaining issues [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.528], opposing party having such an issue or issues should request in the opposing statement that the assigned judge limit the hearing initially to the issue or issues.

32.20[4][d] All Memoranda and Affidavit in Support of or in Opposition to Petition Must Be Filed at Least Nine Calendar Days Before Hearing. Unless the assigned judge orders otherwise, all memoranda and declarations in support of, or in opposition to, a petition must be served and filed at least nine court days before the hearing date [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.513].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of electronic submission to the Chair of the Judicial Council, see 32.20[3][c].

32.20[4][e] Duty to Provide Notice of Potential Add-On Cases. A party to an included action in a pending petition for coordination must promptly provide notice of any potential add-on cases in which that party is also named or in which that party's attorney has appeared to the coordination motion judge, the Chair of the Judicial Council, and parties appearing in the included actions in the pending petition and in the potential add-on cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.531(a)].

32.20[5] Motion for Stay May Be Included With Petition or Submitted by Any Party Prior to Determination on Petition.

32.20[5][a] Motion or Opposition Must List All Known Related Cases. Pending the determination of whether coordination is appropriate, the judge making the determination may stay any action being considered for coordination, or any action which could affect an action being considered for coordination [CCP § 404.5]. A motion for a stay order may be included as part of a petition for coordination, or it may be served and submitted by a party to an affected action prior to the decision on coordination [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(b)].

The motion for a stay order must list all known related cases pending in California's courts and whether the stay order being requested extends to them [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(a)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Forms of motion and order staying proceedings, see 32.37, 32.38.

32.20[5][b] Motion Must Be Supported by Memorandum and Declarations Establishing That Stay Is Necessary for Coordination. A motion for a stay order must be supported by a memorandum and by declarations establishing the facts relied on to show that the order is necessary and appropriate to "effectuate the purposes of coordination" [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(a)].

32.20[5][c] Copies Are Served on All Affected Parties. Copies of the motion for a stay order may be included with the petition for coordination. If it is not, the motion and supporting papers must be served upon every party to the action to be stayed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(c)].

32.20[5][d] Opposition Is Served and Filed Within 10 Days. Any opposition to the motion for a stay must be served and submitted within 10 days after service of the motion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(a)]. The opposition should include a memorandum and affidavit and must be served on all affected parties.

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms regarding motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

Discussion of electronic submission to the Chair of the Judicial Council, see 32.20[3][c].

32.20[5][e] No Hearing Is Required, Unless Requested in Writing. The assigned judge may issue a stay order with or without a hearing. A party filing a motion for a stay order or opposition to a motion may request a hearing to determine whether the stay order should be granted. A request for hearing should be made at the time the requesting party files the motion or opposition. The requesting party must provide notice of any hearing that the assigned judge grants [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(e)].

Consider:

A stay order can be limited by its terms to specified proceedings, order, motions or other phases of the action stayed. The party requesting the stay should determine the scope of the stay and submit a proposed order accordingly. Otherwise, the order will suspend all proceedings in the stayed action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(h)].

32.20[5][f] Party Requesting Stay Must Serve Stay Order, and Any Party May File Motion 30 Days After Issuance to Terminate Stay Order. If a stay order is issued, the party that requested the stay must serve and file a copy of the order in each included action that is stayed. Any party that is subject to the stay order may move 30 days following issuance of the stay order to terminate the stay [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515(g)].

32.20[6] Petitioner Serves and Files Order of Chair of Judicial Council Assigning Petition to Judge.

32.20[6][a] Petition May Be Assigned to Coordination Motion Judge for Decision or Presiding Judge for Assignment. On receiving a petition for coordination, the Chair of the Judicial Council may assign a coordination motion judge to determine whether the actions are complex, and if so, whether coordination of the actions is appropriate. Or, the Chair may authorize the presiding judge of a court to assign the matter to judicial officers of the court to make the determination "in the same manner as assignments are made in other civil cases" [CCP § 404, Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.524(a)].

Exception:

The Chair of the Judicial Council may assign the petition to the coordination trial judge for existing coordinated cases to decide the petition as a request to coordinate an add-on case under Rule 3.544 if it the included actions in a petition for coordination share a common question of law or fact with cases already ordered coordinated under a separate petition [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.532(a)].

Cross References:

Discussion of how courts distinguish between "complex" and "non-complex" cases, see 32.19[3].

32.20[6][b] Petitioner Must Serve on Parties and File in Courts. The petitioner must serve any order assigning the petition to a coordination motion judge for decision or to the presiding judge of the court for assignment on each party appearing in an included action and file it with each court in which an included action is pending [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.524(b)].

Strategic Point--Petitioner:

Given that the assigned judge may order that a specified issue or issues whose determination may dispose of a petition for coordination, without the necessity of conducting a hearing upon all issues raised by such the petition and by any opposition thereto, be heard and determined prior to any before a hearing on the remaining issues [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.528], petitioner having such an issue or issues should request that the assigned judge limit the hearing initially to the issue or issues.

32.20[7] After Assignment of Coordination Motion Judge, Each Side Has 20 Days to Challenge Assigned Judge. The assignment of a coordination motion judge may be challenged, but the challenge must be made within 20 days after service of the order of assignment, with an extension of five days if the order is served by mail [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516; CCP § 1013; Citicorp North America, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 213 CA3d 563, 565, 261 CR 668 ].

Warning:

Only one peremptory challenge is allowed for each "side" [CCP § 170.6]. All plaintiffs or similar parties in the actions included in a petition for coordination constitute a "side," and all defendants or similar parties in the included actions constitute a "side" [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516; Philip Morris, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 71 CA4th 116, 123, 83 CR2d 671 ].

Parties have the right to challenge the assignment of both the coordination motion judge and the coordination trial judge, even if the coordination motion judge is later assigned as the coordination trial judge. Each challenge must be made within 20 days of service of the order of assignment [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516; Stone v. Superior Court (1994) 25 CA4th 1144, 1147, 31 CR2d 56 ].

Examples:

- A challenge to a coordination trial judge filed on April 5 was timely where the coordination motion judge was appointed February 3 and notice that same judge was appointed coordination trial judge was served on March 17 [ Stone v. Superior Court (1994) 25 CA4th 1144, 1147, 31 CR2d 56 ].

- The grounds for challenging an assigned judge are prejudice against a party, attorney, or an interest of a party or attorney. The procedure is oral or written motion, which may be made without notice, supported by affidavit or declarations [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516; CCP § 170.6]. The motion is made to the assigned judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516].

Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms regarding disqualification of judges in general, see Ch. 22, Disqualification of Judge.

32.20[8] Evidence Presented Must Be Written Unless Judge Orders Otherwise. Any evidence presented in support of, or in opposition to, the petition for coordination must be submitted in writing to the court. Declarations, answers to interrogatories or requests for admissions, depositions, or matters judicially noticed are acceptable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.514]. Oral testimony is not permitted at the motion hearing unless the assigned judge allows such testimony to resolve factual disputes raised by the declarations, responses to discovery, or matters judicially noticed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.514].

32.20[9] Hearing Must Be Held If Any Party Objects to Coordination.

32.20[9][a] Assigned Judge Must Set Hearing Date Within 30 Days. The assigned judge must set a date for hearing the petition for coordination within 30 days of the date of the order assigning the coordination motion judge. The petitioner must give notice of the hearing date to each party appearing in an included action. The assigned judge must order petitioner to notify any party of an included action who has not yet received notice of submission of the petition [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.527(a)]. In addition, the assigned judge may order that a potential add-on case is an included action for purposes of the hearing on the petition for coordination [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.531(b)].

Cross Reference:

Duty to provide notice of potential add-on case, see 32.20[4][e].

32.20[9][b] Assigned Judge May Continue Hearing Date to Hear Competing Petitions Together. A coordination motion judge assigned to decide petition for coordination that lists additional included actions sharing a common question of law or fact with included actions in another petition for coordination pending before the judge may continue the hearing date on the first petition no more than 30 calendar days in order to hear both petitions at the same time [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.527(a)].

32.20[9][c] Scheduled Hearing Only Held If Opposition to Petition for Coordination Is Filed. A hearing must be held to decide a petition for coordination if any party opposes coordination. A petition for coordination may not be denied unless a hearing has been held [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.527(b)]. If the coordination motion judge determines that a hearing is not required, the hearing date must be vacated and notice provided to the parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.527(a)].

Strategic Point--Petitioner:

Upon the expiration of the nine court days before the hearing date in which opponents of coordination must file opposition [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.525], file a motion for vacation of the hearing if the court does not vacate it sua sponte.

Cross Reference:

Opposition to petition for coordination, see 32.20[4][c].

32.20[10] Coordination Motion Judge May Appoint Liaison Counsel. During coordination proceedings, the coordination motion judge may ask the parties on each side to select a "liaison counsel" to serve as a representative of all parties on that side. If the parties are unable to agree, the judge may appoint liaison counsel [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.501(12), 3.506]. The liaison counsel has the power to receive and distribute notices from the court, act as a spokesperson for the side he or she represents, and call meetings of counsel to propose joint action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.501(12)].

32.21 Court's Order Regarding Petition.

32.21[1] Order Must Be Filed in Each Included Action. The coordination motion judge either denies or grants the petition, and depending on how the two applicable but inconsistent Rules of Court are applied, the petitioner and/or the party directed to give notice of entry of the order must submit a copy of the order to the Chair of the Judicial Council [CCP § 404.3; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.511(a)(9), (b) (petitioner or the party directed to give notice of entry of the order files and serves order granting or denying petition for coordination), with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.529(a) (petitioner files and serves order granting or denying petition for coordination) and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.540(c) (petitioner files and serves order assigning coordination trial judge); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.512 (electronic submission to Chair of Judicial Council)]. The petitioner must file the order in each included action and serve it upon every party appearing in each included action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.529(a)].

32.21[2] If Petition Is Denied, Stay Is Lifted After 10 Days and Authority of Coordination Motion Judge Terminates. When an order denying a petition for coordination is filed in an included action and served on the parties, the authority of the coordination motion judge over that action terminates. Any stay entered by the coordination motion judge automatically terminates 10 days after the order is filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.529(d)].

32.21[3] If Petition Is Granted, Proceedings Are Automatically Stayed and Case Is Assigned to Coordination Trial Judge. Once an order granting coordination is filed in an included action, all proceedings in that action are automatically stayed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.529(b)]. The coordination order must recommend a particular superior court as the site for the coordination proceedings in accordance with specified criteria [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.530]. On receipt of the order, the Chair of the Judicial Council either assigns a coordination trial judge to preside over the coordinated actions in a particular superior court or authorizes the presiding judge of a particular superior court to assign the matter to judicial officers of the court in the same manner as assignments are made in other civil cases [CCP § 404.3; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.540(a); see Keenan v. Superior Court (1980) 111 CA3d 336, 340-341, 168 CR 561 (applying prior version of court rules)].

After a petition for coordination is granted, but before a coordination trial judge is assigned, the coordination motion judge can make any appropriate order for "good cause" and "as the ends of justice require." "Good cause" must include proof of an "urgent need for judicial action to preserve the rights of a party" [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.529(c)].

32.21[4] After Assignment of Coordination Trial Judge, Each Side Has 20 Days to Challenge Assigned

Judge. The assignment of a coordination trial judge may be challenged, but the challenge must be made within 20 days after service of the order of assignment, with an extension of five days if the order is served by mail [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516; CCP § 1013; Citicorp North America, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 213 CA3d 563, 565, 261 CR 668 ]. Each "side" may only make one peremptory challenge of the assignment, with all plaintiffs in the coordinated action constituting a "side," and all defendants in the coordinated action constituting a "side" [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516; CCP § 170.6].

Each side may challenge the assignment of the coordination trial judge regardless of whether a party has already challenged the judge prior to coordination [ Philip Morris, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 71 CA4th 116, 125, 83 CR2d 671 ].

Warning:

Where a case is added to the litigation after a coordination trial judge has been assigned and the 20-day period has run, add-on parties do not have a right to challenge the assignment [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.532(d); Industrial Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 214 CA3d 259, 263-264, 262 CR 544 ; see Philip Morris, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 71 CA4th 116, 125, 83 CR2d 671 ].

32.22 Duties of Coordination Trial Judge and Pretrial Management Rules.

32.22[1] Judge Has Broad Discretion to Foster Goals of Coordination. The coordination trial judge has "whatever great breadth of discretion may be necessary and appropriate to ease the transition through the judicial system of the logjam of cases which gives rise to coordination" [ McGhan Med. Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 11 CA4th 804, 812, 14 CR2d 264 ].

Example:

In a case involving the coordination of hundreds of separate complaints and as many as 20 different counties, the coordination judge had the flexibility to (1) sever noncommon cases or issues, (2) order trial in more than one forum, (3) minimize travel by all participants by lodging discovery materials in a central location accessible by computer networking or fax and by centralizing motion practice in specific county courts [ McGhan Med. Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 11 CA4th 804, 812-813, 14 CR2d 264 ].

32.22[2] Case Management Conference Should Be Held Within 45 Days. The coordinating trial judge should hold a case management conference withing 45 days of assignment. At the conference, the judge may [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.541(a) ]:

- Appoint liaison counsel;
- Establish a timetable for filing motions other than discovery motions;
- Establish a schedule for discovery;
- Provide a method and schedule for the submission of preliminary legal questions which might expedite the disposition of the coordinated actions;
- Establish a schedule for the prompt determination of matters pertinent to class action issue;
- Establish a central repository to receive and maintain for inspection by the parties evidentiary material and specified documents which are not required to be served on all parties; and

- Schedule further trial conferences, if appropriate.

Cross Reference:

Discussion/Forms regarding case management in general, see Ch. 23, Case Management.

32.22[3] Judge Must Actively Manage Coordinated Actions and Has Power to Remand, Transfer, Add-On, Sever or Terminate Coordinated Action. The coordination trial judge must assume an active role in managing pretrial, discovery and trial proceedings to expedite the determination of the coordinated actions. He or she may do any or all of the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.532, 3.541(b), 3.542, 3.543, 3.544, 3.545]:

- Schedule hearings, conferences or trials at any site in the state deemed appropriate;
- Order any issue or defense to be tried separately and prior to the trial of the remaining issues;
- Remand a coordinated action or any severable claim back to the court where it was originally filed;
- Transfer a coordinated action or several claim to another court;
- Add-on another case to the coordinated action; and
- Terminate a coordinated action by settlement, final dismissal, summary judgment or judgment.

VI. SEEKING AND OPPOSING SEVERANCE OF ACTIONS

32.24 Severance Defined.

32.24[1] Severance Allows Separate Trials of Issues or Causes of Action. The court, in furtherance of convenience or to avoid prejudice, or when separate trial will be conducive to expedition and economy, may order a separate trial of any cause of action, including a cause of action asserted in a cross-complaint, or of any separate issue or of any number of causes of action or issues, preserving the right of jury trial required by the Constitution or a statute of California or the United States [CCP § 1048(b)].

Where applicable, specific statutes on severance govern. Thus, when parties have been joined under CCP § 378 (permissive joinder of plaintiffs) or CCP § 379 (permissive joinder of defendants), the court may make such orders as may appear just to prevent any party from being embarrassed, delayed, or put to undue expense, and may order separate trials or make such other order as the interests of justice may require [CCP § 379.5].

Cross References:

Forms of motion and order, see 32.43, 32.44.

Discussion/Forms regarding motion procedure in general, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

32.24[2] Severance May Be Mandated by Statute or Discretionary. Severance is ordinarily a matter within the discretion of the trial court and is not interfered with except where there has been a manifest abuse of discretion [ Finley v. Superior Court (2000) 80 CA4th 1152, 1163, 96 CR2d 128 ; Omaha Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 209 CA3d 1266, 1271, 258 CR 66 ]. However, severance may be mandatory pursuant to particular statutes which govern specific types of actions. For example, CCP § 597.5 requires mandatory severance of issues involving the bar of the statute of limitations in medical malpractice cases [see CCP §§ 597, 597.5, 598].

VI. SEEKING AND OPPOSING SEVERANCE OF ACTIONS

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.25

32.25 Seeking and Opposing Severance.

32.25[1] Claims May Be Severed to Avoid Prejudice. Severance is commonly used to avoid the prejudice to a party that would result if the claim or issue were not severed.

Examples:

- Severance is proper when an insured is sued for negligence and the insurer is sued for bad faith (or merely for disputing coverage) in the same action because to do otherwise would violate the letter and spirit of Evid Code § 1155, which precludes the use of evidence that a tortfeasor has insurance for the injury he or she allegedly caused [ Omaha Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 209 CA3d 1266, 1271, 258 CR 66 ].
- Where a cause of action for nominal compensatory damages includes an extremely large punitive damages claim, any undue prejudice caused thereby may be avoided by severing the claim or the punitive damages issue [ Stencel Aero Eng'g Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 56 CA3d 978, 988, 128 CR 691 ].

32.25[2] Legal and Equitable Claims May Be Severed If They Are Mutually Exclusive. The court may sever legal and equitable claims for trial and try the equitable claim first, without a jury, if the claims are mutually exclusive remedies. Even if the court's determination of the equitable issue is also dispositive of the legal issues, and nothing remains to be tried to a jury, this does not deprive a party of the right to a jury trial [ Walton v. Walton (1995) 31 CA4th 277, 293, 36 CR2d 901 ]. Equitable claims cannot, however, be severed from legal claims where they are not mutually exclusive, such as a claim for damages for trespass and a claim for injunctive relief against future trespass [ Walton v. Walton (1995) 31 CA4th 277, 293, 36 CR2d 901 ].

VI. SEEKING AND OPPOSING SEVERANCE OF ACTIONS

2-32 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 32.26

32.26 Judgment of Severed Claim Not Appealable Until There Is Complete Disposition of All Causes of Action.

An appeal cannot be taken from a judgment that fails to complete the disposition of all the causes of action between the parties. This is so even if the causes of action disposed of by the judgment were severed by court order, or are characterized as "separate and independent" from those remaining [ Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 C4th 725, 743, 29 CR2d 804, 872 P2d 143 ].

Review by writ of mandate may be available when unusual circumstances make appellate review of an interlocutory judgment appropriate. The writ must demonstrate that postponement of the appeal until the final judgment would cause serious hardship and inconvenience, rendering appeal from the final judgment an inadequate remedy [ Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 C4th 725, 743, 29 CR2d 804, 872 P2d 143 ].

I, _____ [name], declare:

I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of California and the attorney of record herein for Defendant Mary Jones].

1. [Here and in subsequent numbered paragraphs set forth applicable facts in narrative form, e.g., Plaintiffs in both actions were riding in an automobile being driven by Peter Case in Farallon County, California on June 14, 2002 at which time it was involved in a collision with an automobile owned and driven by Defendant, Mary Jones. Both actions arise out of this one automobile collision and the primary issue to be determined is the liability for the collision. The defendants in both actions are the same persons and consolidation of the actions would avoid delay since the same witnesses would be called to testify as to liability and this testimony would be repeated if the actions were tried separately.]

SUPPORTING DECLARATION

I, _____ [name], declare:

I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of California and the attorney of record herein for Defendant, Mary Jones].

[Here and in subsequent paragraphs set forth applicable facts in narrative form, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones is the alleged owner of an automobile which was involved in an accident with Plaintiffs in Farallon County, California on June 14, 2002. Mary Jones contends that she sold the vehicle to Cross-Defendant, Peter Case, one week prior to the incident. A primary issue to be determined in both actions is ownership of the vehicle. Defendant Mary Jones has answered that she is not the owner of the automobile. Consolidation of the actions would avoid delay since the same witnesses would be called to testify as to ownership of the automobile and this testimony would be repeated if the actions were tried separately.]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

The motion of _____ [identify party, e.g., defendant] _____ [name] for an order to transfer Action No. _____ [specify case number] came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff _____ [name] appeared by counsel _____ [name]. Defendant _____ [name] appeared by counsel _____ [name]. CASE NO. _____

PETITION FOR COORDINATION

Petitioner hereby submits a request to the Chair of the Judicial Council for assignment of a judge to determine whether the above-entitled action and the included actions referred to herein are complex actions, and if so, whether coordination of the actions is appropriate.

The request is made on the grounds set forth in Section 404.1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, namely, that one judge hearing all of the actions for all purposes in a selected site or sites will promote the ends of justice taking into account whether the common question of fact or law is predominating and significant to the litigation; the convenience of parties, witnesses, and counsel; the relative development of the actions and the work product of counsel; the efficient utilization of judicial facilities and manpower; the calendar of the courts; the disadvantages of duplicative and inconsistent rulings, orders, or judgments; and the likelihood of settlement of the actions without further litigation should coordination be denied.

Declarations, a memorandum, and accompanying supporting papers set forth with more particularity the appropriateness of the actions for coordination.

Proof of filing in each included action of a notice of submission of petition for coordination and of a copy of this petition as required by Rule 3.522 of the California Rules of Court and proof of service on each party appearing in each included action of the notice of submission of petition for coordination and a copy of this petition as required by Rule 3.523 of the California Rules of Court are affixed to the original of this petition collectively as Exhibit A.

WHEREFORE, petitioner requests that the actions referred to herein be coordinated pursuant to Sections 404-404.9 of the Code of Civil Procedure and Rules 3.501-3.550 of the California Rules of Court. Petitioner _____ [requests or does not request] that a hearing be held [at _____ (specify site(s))] to determine whether coordination is appropriate.

Chapter 33 Class Actions
I. STRATEGY

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.02

33.02 Objective and Strategy.

In class actions, one or more representative plaintiffs or defendants bring an action on behalf of themselves and a group of similarly situated individuals who will be bound by the judgment. Class action litigation seeks to serve the interests of necessity, convenience, and justice. A class action also permits the simultaneous resolution of many plaintiffs' claims and eliminates the possibility of repetitious or inconsistent litigation.

Strategic Point--Plaintiffs:

In filing a writ of mandate for judicial review following exhaustion of administrative relief, even though the administrative review was not conducted on a class basis, consider filing the petition for writ of mandate as a class action. Named plaintiffs in the class petition do not have to have even participated in administrative review of the issues in a class action, but if some of the class have done so on the issues contested in the petition, it reduces the burden necessary for showing a viable action for purposes of class certification [see Tarkington v. California Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (2009) 172 CA4th 1494, 1508-1510, 92 CR3d 131 ; for discussion, see 33.304[1][e]].

Distinguish:

Class actions differ from representative actions and coordinated actions. In a representative action, an entity is formed to represent the interests of the class, but the entity is not a representative member of the class [see Salton City Area Prop. Owners Ass'n v. M. Penn Phillips Co. (1977) 75 CA3d 184, 188, 141 CR 895 (action brought by homeowners association on behalf of association's members)]. In a coordinated action, two or more civil cases that share a common question of fact or law in different courts are coordinated for trial [see CCP §§ 404, 404.1; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.501 et seq.].

Strategic Point:

Some statutes, such as the Unfair Competition Law [see B & P Code § 17204] and the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 [see Lab Code § 2699], generally allow representational actions only in the form of class actions [ Amalgamated Transit Union, Local 1756, AFL-CIO v. Superior Ct. (2009) 46 C4th 993, 1002, 1005, 95 CR3d 605, 209 P3d 937 (representative actions not permitted under the Law and the Act); Arias v. Superior Ct. (2009) 46 C4th 969, 980, 95 C R3d 588, 209 P3d 923 (representative actions not permitted under the Law)]. However, under the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004, that restriction does not apply to a suit for civil penalties [ Arias v. Superior Ct. (2009) 46 C4th 969, 982-987, 95 C R3d 588, 209 P3d 923] .

Warning:

Class counsel is obliged to consider the advantages and disadvantages to the class of adding any reasonable cause of action to the complaint, to bring these considerations to the attention of the class representatives, and to take or recommend such action (including of course the possibility of doing nothing with respect to each additional claim) as would an attorney using the skill, prudence and diligence commonly exercised by attorneys handling such litigation [ Janik v. Rudy, Exelrod & Zieff (2004) 119 CA4th 930, 937 , 14 CR3d 751 (counsel can be liable for failure to undertake these duties)].

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See discussion of class actions, Cabraser, California Class Actions Practice and Procedure, Ch. 1, History and Overview (Matthew Bender).

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 120, Class Actions (Matthew Bender).

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 41, Class and Representative Actions (Matthew Bender).

Cross Reference:

Discussion of coordinated actions, see Ch. 32, Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions.

Timing--Filing of Complaint:

During the pre-suit due diligence phase of litigation, counsel should carefully consider when to file a class action complaint. The first plaintiff to file can have significance on their appointment as lead counsel or the steering committee. Counsel should also consider the amount of publicity sought before and after filing the complaint, which may cause the filing of "copy cat" lawsuits.

Warning:

Plaintiff's counsel must also consider the possibility of removal of a qualifying class action to federal district court under the federal Class Action Fairness Act of 2005. A single defendant can remove an eligible case even before class certification, and generous provisions on interlocutory appeal of remand orders ensure that federal courts will decide the extent of their jurisdiction under the Act. Plaintiff's counsel should also consider the impact upon their action, after removal, of the "Consumer Class Action Bill of Rights" [see 28 USC § 1711 et seq.] included in the Act. On the other hand, defendant's counsel has leverage under the Act with respect to other parties in addition to the option to have federal courts more inclined to deny class certification than state courts as the forum in which the question is decided.

Lexis.com With This Publication at the front of this volume.

Distinguish:

In opposing a class action, be careful to distinguish whether the issues in contention go to the issue of certification or to the merits of the substantive claims. It is an abuse of the trial court's discretion to address substantive issues in the context of a challenge to class certification [ Medraza v. Honda of North Hollywood (2008) 166 CA4th 89, 98, 82 CR3d 1 ]. When the substantive theories and claims of a proposed class suit are alleged to be without legal or factual merit, the interests of fairness and efficiency are furthered when the contention is resolved in the context of a formal pleading, i.e., demurrer [see 33.26[1]], or motion for judgment on the pleadings [see 11.38 et seq.], or motion for summary judgment or adjudication [see 38.03 et seq.] that affords proper notice and employs clear standards. Were the courts to condone merit-based challenges as part and parcel of the certification process, similar procedural protections would be necessary to ensure that an otherwise certifiable class is not unfairly denied the opportunity to proceed on legitimate claims [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 440-441, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ; Medraza v. Honda of North Hollywood (2008) 166 CA4th 89, 97-98, 82 CR3d 1 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions

II. DETERMINING WHETHER CLASS ACTION CAN BE MAINTAINED

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.04

33.04 Ensure That Action Meets Requirements for Class Action.

33.04[1] Ascertainable Class Must Exist.

33.04[1][a] Satisfy Objective Criteria. A clear, objective definition characterizes an ascertainable class [ Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Superior Court (2003) 29 C4th 1096, 1103-1104, 131 CR2d 1, 63 P3d 913 ; Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 C2d 695, 704, 63 CR 724, 433 P2d 732 ]. To the extent plaintiffs' proposed definitions improperly incorporate the merits of the claim, the trial court should redefine the class [ Bell v. Superior Court (2007) 158 CA4th 147, 168, 69 CR3d 328 ].

33.04[1][b] Members Must Be Identifiable. There must be sufficient records available to identify class members at remedial stage [ Lewis v. Robinson Ford Sales, Inc. (2007) 156 CA4th 359, 369-370, 67 CR3d 347 (records sufficient); Reyes v. Board of Supervisors (1987) 196 CA3d 1263, 1274-1275, 1280 ]. Ordinarily, plaintiff has the burden of identifying class members and establishing their number [ State of California ex rel. Dept. of Motor Vehicles v. Superior Court (1998) 66 CA4th 421, 438, 78 CR2d 88 ].

Distinguish:

The representative plaintiff need not identify the individual members of the class at the class certification stage in order for the class members to be bound by the judgment. Class members are "identifiable" if potential class members are identifiable without unreasonable expense or time and given notice of the litigation, and the proposed class definition offers an objective means of identifying those persons who will be bound by the results of the litigation [ Medraza v. Honda of North Hollywood (2008) 166 CA4th 89, 101, 82 CR3d 1 (class representative's inability to identify potential class members at certification hearing was irrelevant)].

Exception:

A court may require defendant to contribute to the costs of notification for the purposes of identifying potential class members [ State of California ex rel. Dept. of Motor Vehicles v. Superior Court (1998) 66 CA4th 421, 438, 78 CR2d 88 ].

Strategic Point:

The use of subclasses is an appropriate device to facilitate class treatment [ Aguir v. Cintas Corp. No. 2 (2006) 144 CA4th 121, 134, 50 CR3d 135 ]. A party may suggest the use of subclasses to certify a manageable class [see Rosack v. Volvo of Am. Corp. (1982) 131 CA3d 741, 762, 182 CR 800, cert. denied, 460 US 1012, 103 S Ct 1253, 75 L Ed2d 482 (1983) ].

Distinguish:

The fact that the class may ultimately turn out to be overinclusive is not a bar to certification of the class [ Bell v. Superior Court (2007) 158 CA4th 147, 169, 69 CR3d 328 ].

33.04[1][c] Class Must Be Reasonable Size. The class must be susceptible to reasonable control of its size [ Reyes v. Board of Supervisors (1987) 196 CA3d 1263, 1274-1275, 1280 ].

33.04[1][d] Members Can Be Located and Notified. Location and notification of the class members should demand only a reasonable expenditure of time and money [ Lewis v. Robinson Ford Sales, Inc. (2007) 156 CA4th 359, 369-370, 67 CR3d 347 (no unreasonable expenditure required); Reyes v. Board of Supervisors (1987) 196 CA3d 1263, 1274-1275, 1280 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of class allegations required in complaint, see 33.11[2].

Cabraser, California Class Actions Practice and Procedure, § 3.03[1], [2] (Matthew Bender).

Deskbook on the Management of Complex Civil Litigation, § 3.74 (Matthew Bender).

33.04[1][e] Members Must Have Plausible Cause of Action. For a class to be considered ascertainable, its members must have a plausible cause of action against the defendant [ Sony Electronics Inc. v. Superior Court (2006) 145 CA4th 1086, 1094, 52 CR3d 139 ; American Suzuki Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 CA4th 1291, 1294-1295, 44 CR2d 526 ]. To determine whether multiple members of the proposed class have a viable cause of action, the trial court is required to examine [ American Suzuki Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 CA4th 1291, 1295, 44 CR2d 526 ]:

- The issues framed by the pleadings,
- The law applicable to the cause of action alleged, and
- The actual performance of the product, as revealed by the record developed between filing the complaint and moving for certification.

Example:

Even though the named plaintiffs have not participated in administrative review of the issues in a class action, so long as certain individuals who are members of the putative class have already exhausted their administrative remedies the class consisting of both groups may go forward on the issues presented, because it would serve no additional useful purpose and nothing more could effectuate the policy of the exhaustion doctrine by requiring those who have not done so to do so outside the class action [ Tarkington v. California Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (2009) 172 CA4th 1494, 1508-1510, 92 CR3d 131 (exhaustion was sufficient for class to go forward)]. When none of the putative class member plaintiffs, named or otherwise, exhausts administrative remedies, the relevant inquiry is whether the available administrative remedies provide class-wide relief. If the remedies do provide class-wide relief, than at least one plaintiff must exhaust them before litigation may proceed. If the remedies do not provide class-wide relief, then no plaintiff need exhaust them before suing [see Tarkington v. California Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (2009) 172 CA4th 1494, 1508-1510, 92 CR3d 131] .

Example:

The language of the standing requirements of the Unfair Competition Law [see B & P Code § 17204] makes clear that its mandate of a showing of injury in fact is applicable only to the class representatives and not to all absent class members [In Re Tobacco II Cases (2009) 46 C4th 298, 323-324, 93 CR3d 559, 207 P3d 20 (requirement of actual injury did not apply to absent class members); Pfizer Inc. v. Superior Court (2010) 182 CA4th 622, 633, 105 CR3d 795 (class overbroad as certified because more than half had no claim); Weinstat v. Dentsply Int'l, Inc. (2010) 180 CA4th 1213, 1222, 1224, 103 CR3d 614 (reversing trial court ruling)].

33.04[2] Well-Defined Community of Interest Must Exist.

33.04[2][a] Common Questions of Law or Fact Predominate. Predominant questions of law or fact must exist among the class members' claims or defenses [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 435, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ].

Exception:

The predominant-interest requirement is not satisfied if:

- Each class member's right to recover is based on a separate set of facts applicable only to that individual [ Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 C3d 800, 809, 94 CR 796, 484 P2d 964 ; In re Vioxx Class Cases (2009) 180 CA4th 116, 133-136, 103 CR3d 83 (nature of reliance on misrepresentations and calculation of restitution were individual in claim under B&P Code § 17200 et seq.); Evans v. Lasco Bathware, Inc. (2009) 178 CA4th 1417, 1432, 101 CR3d 354 (differing costs of replacing defective shower pans); Ali v. U.S.A. Cab Ltd. (2009) 176 CA4th 1333, 1347-1352, 98 CR3d 568 (workers' compensation action involving issue of employment status); Kaldenbach v. Mutual of Omaha Life Ins. Co. (2009) 178 CA4th 830, 851, 100 CR3d 637 (insurance agent's representations were not scripted by insurance company); Cohen v. DirecTV, Inc. (2009) 178 CA4th 966, 981, 101 CR3d 37 (claims of deceptive advertising required individual proof of exposure to advertising and reliance); Akkerman v. Mecta Corporation, Inc. (2007) 152 CA4th 1094, 1102-1103, 62 CR3d 39 (products liability tort action)].

- The individual issues are too complex, numerous, diverse, or substantial [ Osborne v. Subaru of Am., Inc. (1988) 198 CA3d 646, 653-654, 243 CR 815 ; Bozaich v. State of California (1973) 32 CA3d 688, 694-695, 108 CR 392 ].

- The enforcement of a right in favor of some class members would adversely affect the substantial interests of others [ Knox v. Streatfield (1978) 79 CA3d 565, 571, 145 CR 39 ].

However, a total community of interest need not exist among class members [ City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 C3d 447, 460, 115 CR 797, 525 P2d 701 ]. Predominance is a comparative concept [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 334, 17 CR3d 906, 96 P3d 194 ]. The community of interest requirement for certification does not mandate that class members have uniform or identical claims [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 338, 17 CR3d 906, 96 P3d 194 ; Capitol People First v. State Dep't of Dev. Servs. (2007) 155 CA4th 676, 692, 66 CR3d 300 ]. Individual issues do not render class certification inappropriate so long as the issues may be effectively managed [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 334, 17 CR3d 906, 96 P3d 194 ].

Examples:

Class certification where the community of interest is less than total may be appropriate where:

- An inference of common reliance was adequate to show causation as to each class member sufficient to establish common issues predominate [ McAdams v. Monier, Inc. (2010) 182 CA4th 174, 183, 105 CR3d 704 (limiting definition of class); cf., In re Vioxx Class Cases (2009) 180 CA4th 116, 133-136, 103 CR3d 83] .

- Class certification was warranted despite individual issues because two central legal issues that are common to all putative class members. [ Arce v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 471, 488, 104 CR3d 545] .

- Common issues of unlawful sales and the amount of restitution in a Consumers Legal Remedies Act, Civ. Code, § 1750 et seq., were not dominated by individual issues of causation and injury [ Steroid Hormone Product Cases (2010) 181 CA4th 145, 156-158, 104 CR3d 329] .

- Common issues predominated for the purpose of class certification because the question whether an inherently defective product is presently functioning as warranted goes to the remedy for the breach, not proof of the breach itself [ Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Superior Court (2008) 167 CA4th 87, 96, 83 CR3d 836] .

- The calculation of individual damages may at some point be required [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 334, 17 CR3d 906, 96 P3d 194 ; Lewis v. Robinson Ford Sales, Inc. (2007) 156 CA4th 359, 371] .

- Separate transactions may be involved [ City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 C3d 447, 460, 115 CR 797, 525 P2d 701] .

- There would be a common recovery [ Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 C2d 695, 707] .

As an analytical matter, the theory of recovery advanced by the proponents of certification must be likely under the evidence to prove amenable to class treatment. When applying this test, the court looks to the allegations in the complaint and the declarations of attorneys representing the class [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 327, 17 CR3d 906, 96 P3d 194 ; Jaimez v. DAIOHS USA, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 1286, 1298, 1299, 105 CR3d 443 ; Capitol People First v. State Dep't of Dev. Servs. (2007) 155 CA4th 676, 692, 66 CR3d 300] . In deciding whether the commonality requirement has been satisfied, courts may consider [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 333, 17 CR3d 906, 96 P3d 194 ; Capitol People First v. State Dep't of Dev. Servs. (2007) 155 CA4th 676, 692-693, 66 CR3d 300 (evidence supported finding of community of interest)]:

- Pattern and practice.

- Statistical and sampling evidence.

- Expert testimony.

- Other indicators of a given defendant's classwide practices relevant to assessing whether that common behavior toward similarly situated plaintiffs renders class certification appropriate.

In evaluating the evidence in light of the legal theory, the trial court must not become enmeshed with the merits of the underlying action, or to concern itself with which side's experts are more qualified. At the class certification stage, the concern is whether the evidence plaintiffs will offer is "sufficiently generalized in nature" [ Capitol People First v. State Dep't of Dev. Servs. (2007) 155 CA4th 676, 696, 66 CR3d 300 ]

Distinguish:

Class certification will not be permitted if each member is required to litigate substantial and numerous factually unique questions before a recovery may be allowed [ Arenas v. El Torito Restaurants, Inc. (2010) 183 CA4th 723, 732, 108 CR3d 15] .

 Cross Reference:

Cabraser, California Class Actions Practice and Procedure, § 3.02 (Matthew Bender).

33.04[2][b] Typicality of Claims or Defenses of Class Representative. The claims or defenses of the class representative must be typical of those of the class members [ City of San Jose v. Superior Court (1974) 12 C3d 447, 463-464, 115 CR 797, 525 P2d 701 ].

Warning--Nonclass Party:

Challenging a class on typicality grounds is difficult because generally a class member's claims will meet the requirement if the member satisfies the definition of a class member [see, e.g., Classen v. Weller (1983) 145 CA3d 27, 44-46, 192 CR 914 ].

Cross Reference:

Typicality of claims and defenses, see 33.07[3].

Warning--Class Party:

A class action may only be maintained against multiple defendants when the class representative has a cause of action against each defendant [ Hart v. County of Alameda (1999) 76 CA4th 766, 775-776, 90 CR2d 386 ].

Exception:

When a class representative alleges that multiple defendants were involved in a conspiracy or that multiple defendants were jointly responsible for the class members' injuries the action will be viable [ Hart v. County of Alameda (1999) 76 CA4th 766, 775-776, 90 CR2d 386 ].

33.04[2][c] Class Representative Must Adequately Represent Class. The class representative must be able to adequately represent the class members [ Richmond v. Dart Indus., Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 462, 470, 174 CR 515, 629 P2d 23 ]. A trial court may conclude this requirement is not met if the class member "fail[s] to raise claims reasonably expected to be raised by the members of the class" [ Evans v. Lasco Bathware, Inc. (2009) 178 CA4th 1417, 1432, 101 CR3d 354] .

Example:

A class representative did not adequately represent the class because the representative did not have consequential damages to other parts of their house caused by a defective shower pan that other claimants had [ Evans v. Lasco Bathware, Inc. (2009) 178 CA4th 1417, 1432-1436, 101 CR3d 354 (action could not be split by issues)].

Cross References:

 Cabraser, California Class Actions Practice and Procedure, § 6.05[2] (Matthew Bender).

33.04[3] Class Action Must Be Superior Method of Adjudication.

33.04[3][a] Class Proponent's Burden. The party seeking class certification must show that for fair and efficient adjudication, the method is superior to other available methods [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 CA4th 319, 332 ; Schneider v. Vennard (1986) 183 CA3d 1340, 1345, 228 CR 800 (approving application of Fed R Civ P, Rule 23(b)(3) to actions brought under CCP § 382)].

Strategic Point:

Class action litigation is proper whenever it may be determined that it is more beneficial to the litigants and to the judicial process to try a suit in one action rather than in several actions. Clearly, the more intimate the judge becomes with the character of the action, the more intelligently he or she may make the determination. If the judicial machinery encourages the decision to be made at the pleading stages and the judge decides against class litigation, he or she divests the court of the power to later alter that decision. Therefore, given that the sustaining of demurrers without leave to amend represents the earliest possible determination of the propriety of class action litigation, it should be looked upon with disfavor [ Arce v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 471, 487-488, 104 CR3d 545] .

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

33.04[3][b] Court Considers Various Interests in Evaluating Superiority of Method. In determining whether a class action is the superior method of adjudicating a case, the interests of the following must be considered [ Schneider v. Vennard (1986) 183 CA3d 1340, 1347, 228 CR 800 ]:

- Judicial system;
- Potential class members;
- Named plaintiff;
- Attorneys for litigants;
- Public at large; and
- Defendant.

33.04[3][c] Legal and Practical Issues Presented. The legal issues presented by the case must be considered in determining the superiority of the class action method [ Schneider v. Vennard (1986) 183 CA3d 1340, 1347, 228 CR 800 ].

33.04[3][d] Other Litigation. The extent and nature of other litigation already commenced by or against class members may be an important factor in evaluating whether a class action would be the superior litigation vehicle [

Schneider v. Vennard (1986) 183 CA3d 1340, 1347, 228 CR 800 ].

33.04[3][e] Practical Difficulties. Difficulties associated with the cost of the action, size of the class, or different damages sustained should be considered in determining if a class action is superior to other methods of adjudication [ Harper v. 24 Hour Fitness, Inc. (2008) 167 CA4th 966, 976, 84 CR3d 532 ; Rosack v. Volvo of Am. Corp. (1982) 131 CA3d 741, 760-762, 182 CR 800 ].

Strategic Point--Class Party:

Suggest bifurcation or subclassing if there are practical difficulties involved [see Rosack v. Volvo of Am. Corp. (1982) 131 CA3d 741, 762, 182 CR 800 , cert. denied, 460 US 1012, 103 S Ct 1253, 75 L Ed2d 482 (1983) ].

Example:

When individual issues of fact predominate over common issues, "a class action would be extremely difficult to manage [ Ali v. U.S.A. Cab Ltd. (2009) 176 CA4th 1333, 1353, 98 CR3d 568 (workers' compensation action involving unmanageable issue of employment status)].

Cross Reference:

Allegations required in a class action complaint, see 33.11.

33.04[4] Action Must Be of Type Typically Suited to Class Action Treatment. Examples of actions typically suited to class action treatment are:

- Price-fixing action [see B.W.I. Custom Kitchen v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1987) 191 CA3d 1341, 1348-1349, 235 CR 228 ; Rosack v. Volvo of Am. Corp. (1982) 131 CA3d 741, 763, 182 CR 800 , cert. denied, 460 US 1012, 103 S Ct 1253, 75 L Ed2d 482 (1983) ].
- Contract action [see MacManus v. A. E. Realty Partners (1987) 195 CA3d 1106, 1115-1116, 241 CR 315 ].
- Land ownership action [see Twain Harte Homeowners Assn. v. Patterson (1987) 193 CA3d 184, 239 CR 316 ].
- Unlawful discrimination action [see Stephens v. Montgomery Ward & Co. (1987) 193 CA3d 411, 238 CR 602 ].
- Action regarding employer's unlawful wages and benefits policy [see Vizcaino v. Microsoft Corp. (9th Cir 1997) 105 F3d 1334 ].
- Fraud action [see Danzig v. Jack Grynberg & Assocs. (1984) 161 CA3d 1128, 208 CR 336 , cert. denied, 474 US 819, 106 S Ct 67, 88 L Ed2d 55 (1985) (class not challenged by employer)].
- Negligence action [see Hansell v. Santos Robinson Mortuary (1998) 64 CA4th 608, 75 CR2d 361 ].

Warning--Personal Injury:

Personal injury tort actions generally cannot be maintained as class actions [ Jolly v. Eli Lilly & Co. (1988) 44 C3d 1103, 1123, 245 CR 658, 751 P2d 923 ].

Warning--Injustice or Lack of Benefits:

Even if all the requirements are met, a court may not allow a class action to be maintained if there is a significant potential to create injustice or if both the litigants and the courts do not accrue substantial benefits [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 435, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ; Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 914, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ].

Distinguish:

An action under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 [29 U.S.C. § 216(b)] predicated on an affirmative class opt-in feature cannot be maintained as a class action under California law, which does not authorize the opt-in procedure of the Act [ Haro v. City of Rosemead (2009) 174 CA4th 1067, 1076-1077, 94 CR3d 874 ] .

Designing a Search for Relevant Cases With the Help of Online Resources:

To find cases in California state and federal courts that are germane to the procedural and substantive issues in your class action case, helpful resources at lexis.com include:

- Search for cases involving the subject of your class action, e.g., for cases dealing with asymptomatic plaintiffs in medical monitoring cases, under the tab Legal > States Legal--U.S. > California > Cases > CA Federal & State Cases, Combined, search: medical/5 monitor! and asymptomatic
- To review recent Mealey's articles discussing class action lawsuits in the emerging area of toxic mold litigation, under Legal tab > Secondary Legal > Mealey Reports & Conferences > Mealey's Litigation Reports > Mold: Mealey's Litigation Report use this search: HEADLINE segment search: headline (class)
- To find news articles about California lawsuits pertaining to harmful mold, under Legal tab > States Legal--U.S. > California > General News & Information > California News Publications, search, e.g.: suit or lawsuit or action or claim or filing w/10 modl

33.04[5] Class Action Waiver Must Not Be Unconscionable. Class action waivers are generally enforced, even in contracts of adhesion, unless they operate effectively as exculpatory contract clauses that are contrary to public policy, in which case they are unconscionable [ Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 C4th 148, 160-161, 30 CR3d 76, 113 P3d 1100 ; see CC § 1668].

California law provides for a three-part inquiry in order to determine whether a class action waiver in a consumer contract is unconscionable. Under this three-part inquiry, courts are required to determine whether [ Shroyer v. New Cingular Wireless Services, Inc. (2007) 498 F3d 976, 983 (finding class action waiver unconscionable)]:

- The agreement is a consumer contract of adhesion drafted by a party that has superior bargaining power,
- The agreement occurs in a setting in which disputes between the contracting parties predictably involve small amounts of damages, and
- It is alleged that the party with the superior bargaining power has carried out a scheme to deliberately cheat large numbers of consumers out of individually small sums of money.

Warning:

Choice of law clauses can remove from consideration California law concerning class action waivers [see Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 134 CA4th 886, 894-895, 36 CR3d 456 (Delaware choice of law clause enforced because sole defendant was resident of Delaware, Delaware's interest in applying its law, and plaintiff brought separate Delaware law claims as well, which overrode California's interest in barring enforcement of unconscionable class action waiver)], but that same California law can also play a role in the unconscionability determination [ Klussman v. Cross Country Bank (2005) 134 CA4th 1283, 1292-1298, 36 CR3d 728 (California law against unconscionable class action waivers gives California additional interest in applying its law where the other state is likely to enforce the waiver)].

Examples:

Examples of unconscionable class action waivers include:

- Employer's explanation of class action and arbitration waiver to employee was procedurally unconscionable, even though an option to opt out of the waiver was given [ Gentry v. Superior Court (2007) 42 C4th 443, 469-473, 64 CR3d 773, 165 P3d 556 ].
- A one-sided, exculpatory contract of adhesion, to the extent that it insulates a party from liability under California law, because the only remedy in consumer cases in which a company wrongfully exacts a dollar from each of millions of customers is a class action [ Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 C4th 148, 161, 162-163, 30 CR3d 76, 113 P3d 1100 ].
- Class action waiver of claims concerning reduction of quality of high-definition television signal to customers paying small monthly fee and initial equipment investment of as much as $1,000 [ Cohen v. DirecTV, Inc. (2006) 142 CA4th 1442, 1451-1453, 48 CR3d 813 ].
- A prohibition of class actions unless all parties consent in the selected rules of an arbitration service required in the contract to be used for arbitration of contract disputes, which rules are not readily available to one party, which acts as an exculpatory clause [ Klussman v. Cross Country Bank (2005) 134 CA4th 1283, 1292-1298, 36 CR3d 728 ].

Distinguish:

The class action waiver must be both procedurally and substantively unconscionable in order to be unenforceable [ Discover Bank v. Superior Court (2005) 36 C4th 148, 160, 30 CR3d 76, 113 P3d 1100 ].

Strategic Point:

The analysis of class action waivers for unconscionability mirrors that used for determining the unconscionability of arbitration agreements and class arbitration waivers generally [see, e.g., Shroyer v. New Cingular Wireless Services, Inc. (2007) 498 F.3d 976, 981-987 (giving overview of California law on unconscionability of class action waivers)].

Cross References:

Discussion of unconscionability of arbitration agreements and provisions, see 6.24. Discussion of unconscionability of class arbitration waivers, see 6.13A[2].

33.04[6] Prima Facie Showing of Community of Interest Must Be Reasonable Possibility. In seeking class certification, the class action plaintiff must only establish that there is a reasonable possibility that plaintiffs can establish a prima facie community of interest among the class members. Where there is a reasonable possibility that the plaintiff in a class action can establish a community of interest among class members, the preferred course is to defer decision on the propriety of the class action until an evidentiary hearing has been held on the appropriateness of class litigation [ Arce v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 471, 487, 104 CR3d 545] .

Chapter 33 Class Actions

II. DETERMINING WHETHER CLASS ACTION CAN BE MAINTAINED

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.05

33.05 Defendant Class Actions Require Special Consideration.

33.05[1] Saves Time and Costs. A defendant class action may be maintained if it will save time and minimize costs [see Kaye v. Mount La Jolla Homeowners Assn. (1988) 204 CA3d 1476, 1489-1490, 1494-1495, 252 CR 67 ].

33.05[2] Due Process Challenges.

33.05[2][a] Adequate Notice and Service Are Jurisdictional. Defects in service and notification are jurisdictional and require reversal of a judgment against a defendant class [ Simons v. Horowitz (1984) 151 CA3d 834, 846, 199 CR 134 ].

33.05[2][b] Defendant Represents Class Interests. The named-party defendant must vigorously and tenaciously represent the interests of the class [ Simons v. Horowitz (1984) 151 CA3d 834, 846-847, 199 CR 134 ].

33.05[2][c] Adequate Counsel for All Class Members. The attorney for the named-party defendant must provide adequate representation for all class members, and not merely individual clients [ Simons v. Horowitz (1984) 151 CA3d 834, 846, 199 CR 134 ].

Warning:

Counsel who wins an aggregate award is obligated to continue representing the class in any proceeding needed for enforcement of the award [ Barboza v. West Coast Digital GSM, Inc. (2009) 179 CA4th 540, 547, 102 CR3d 295 ].

33.05[3] Actual Injury by Each Defendant. Plaintiff must have been actually injured by each defendant in the class [ Simons v. Horowitz (1984) 151 CA3d 834, 845, 199 CR 134 ; Hart v. County of Alameda (1999) 76 CA4th 766, 776, 90 CR2d 386 ].

33.05[4] Affirmative Relief Required. A defendant class action for declaratory relief is improper when no affirmative relief is sought against the class members, and the class members cannot grant any affirmative relief [see Pinnacle Holdings, Inc. v. Simon (1995) 31 CA4th 1430, 1436-1437, 37 CR2d 778 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions

III. ASCERTAINING WHETHER CLASS REPRESENTATIVE IS SUITABLE

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.07

33.07 Class Representative Must Satisfy Criteria.

33.07[1] Class Member. The class representative must be an actual member of the class at the time the action is commenced [ La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn (1971) 5 C3d 864, 875, 97 CR 849, 489 P2d 1113 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

A named plaintiff may act in the dual roles of class representative and attorney for the class [ McGhee v. Bank of Am. (1976) 60 CA3d 442, 451, 131 CR 482 ].

33.07[2] Represents and Protects Class Interests. The class representative must be able to represent and protect the interests of the class fairly and adequately [ La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 C3d 864, 871, 97 CR 849, 489 P2d 1113 ; Classen v. Weller (1983) 145 CA3d 27, 46, 192 CR 914 ].

Cross Reference:

Adequacy of class representative, see 33.04[2][c].

33.07[3] Typicality of Claims or Defenses. The class representative must have claims or defenses that are typical of those of the class [ Stephens v. Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc. (1987) 193 CA3d 411, 422, 238 CR 602 ; Fed R Civ P, Rule 23(a) ].

Exception:

A class representative need not have incurred all of the damages sustained by each class member [ Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 CA4th 224, 238, 110 CR2d 145 ].

Exception:

The standing requirements of the Unfair Competition Law [see B & P Code § 17204] are applicable only to the class representatives and not to all absent class members, but under them, the class representative must show an injury in fact [In Re Tobacco II Cases (2009) 46 C4th 298, 323-324, 93 CR3d 559, 207 P3d 20 (requirement of actual injury did not apply to absent class members); Pfizer Inc. v. Superior Court (2010) 182 CA4th 622, 633-634, 105 CR3d 795 (class representative's experience not representative of other consumer's experiences)]. While only the class representative need establish personal reliance on the defendant's misrepresentation or nondisclosure resulting in damage, the representative need not show that such reliance was the sole or even the predominant or decisive factor in influencing his or her conduct. It is enough that the misrepresentation has played a substantial part, and so has been a substantial factor, in influencing his or her decision. Moreover, a presumption, or at least an inference, of reliance arises wherever there is a showing that a misrepresentation was material. A misrepresentation is "material" if a reasonable person would attach importance to its existence or nonexistence in deciding his or her course of action in the transaction in question. Finally, the class representative need not demonstrate individualized reliance on a specific misrepresentation [In Re Tobacco II Cases (2009) 46 C4th 298, 326-327, 93 CR3d 559, 207 P3d 20 ; Weinstat v. Dentsply Int'l, Inc. (2010) 180 CA4th 1213, 1222-1223, 103 CR3d 614] .

Cross Reference:

Typicality of class representative's claims or defenses, see 33.04[2][b].

33.07[4] No Conflict of Interest. The class representative cannot have an actual or potential conflict of interest with the other class members [ Seastrom v. Neways, Inc. (2007) 149 CA4th 1496, 1502, 57 CR3d 903 (distributors had direct conflict of interest with consumers in proposed class action against manufacturers); see La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 C3d 864, 872874, 97 CR 849, 489 P2d 1113 ]. As part of this analysis, the trial court assesses the competency of class counsel, if the firm is representing the class as a whole and not simply the interests of the named representative plaintiffs, and if the named plaintiffs have lent their names to litigation that is controlled by class counsel [ Sharp v. Next Entertainment Inc. (2008) 163 CA4th 410, 433, 78 CR3d 37 ].

Cross Reference:

Obtaining consent to conflict of interest on part of attorney, see Ch. 3, Beginning and Terminating Attorney-Client Relationship, 3.08.

However, in the realm of class actions, the rules of disqualification cannot be applied so as to defeat the purpose of the class proceedings [ Sharp v. Next Entertainment Inc. (2008) 163 CA4th 410, 434, 78 CR3d 37 ].

Warning:

The majority of courts have refused to permit class attorneys, their relatives, or business associates from acting as the class representative. The failure to abide this rule may result in disqualification of the law firm from representing the putative class [ Apple Computer Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 1253, 1264 (law firm disqualified)].

33.07[5] Not Perceived to Have Incompatible Interests. Class members should not be able to perceive the class representative as having interests incompatible with those of other class members [ Richmond v. Dart Indus., Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 462, 471, 174 CR 515, 629 P2d 23 ].

Distinguish:

Antagonistic interest is not sufficient to bar class certification unless it goes to "the very subject matter of the litigation" [ Richmond v. Dart Indus., Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 462, 470, 174 CR 515, 629 P2d 23 ; Capitol People First v. State Dep't of Dev. Servs. (2007) 155 CA4th 676, 697, 66 CR3d 300 (conflict did not go to subject matter of litigation)].

Examples:

Types of conflicts that do not constitute grounds for barring class certification include:

- Different philosophical perspectives on the issues or merits of the case [ Capitol People First v. State Dep't of Dev. Servs. (2007) 155 CA4th 676, 700-701, 66 CR3d 300 ].

33.07[6] No Special Consideration From Opposing Party. The class representative cannot receive special consideration from the opposing party if it does not inure to the benefit of the entire class [see La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 C3d 864, 871874, 97 CR 849, 489 P2d 1113 ].

Strategic Point--Class Party:

Do not select a class representative who has received any consideration from the opposing party.

III. ASCERTAINING WHETHER CLASS REPRESENTATIVE IS SUITABLE

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.08

33.08 Opposing Party May Remove Class Representative.

33.08[1] Trial Court Has Discretion to Remove Representative. Although no specific rule or statute provides for removal of a class representative, the trial court has discretion, based on the facts and circumstances of the case, to order that the action not continue as a class action with the named party representatives [ Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 C2d 695, 710, 63 CR 724, 433 P2d 732 ; see Apple Computer Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 1253, 1264 ].

Timing--Substituting Representative:

The trial court retains the authority, even during the pendency of an appeal of the final judgment, to substitute a suitable representative of the class if the named representative is found to be unsuitable [see Mallick v. Superior Court (1979) 89 CA3d 434, 437, 152 CR 503 ].

Strategic Point--Precertification Discovery:

Precertification discovery is permissible for the purpose of identifying potential class action plaintiffs to substitute for a class representative who has been found improper; but the method of communication must protect privacy and be narrowly tailored to avoid the ban on improper solicitation [ Safeco Ins. Co. of Am. v. Superior Ct. (2009) 173 CA4th 814, 834-835, 92 CR3d 814 (order for discovery affirmed); CashCall, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 159 CA4th 273, 290, 71 CR3d 441 (lack of standing does not bar original class representative's discovery of suitable substitute class representative(s)); Best Buy Stores, L.P. v. Superior Court (2006) 137 CA4th 772, 775, 40 CR3d 575 ].

Cross Reference:

Discovery generally, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

33.08[2] Representative Must Have Viable Claim in Order to Represent Class Asserting the Claim. A named representative who lacks standing to assert a claim is prohibited from representing the class regarding the claim [see Bailey v. Patterson (1962) 369 US 31, 32-33, 82 S Ct. 549, 7 L Ed2d 512 ; Hall v. Time Inc. (2008) 158 CA4th 847, 853-855, 70 CR3d 466 ].

Exception:

Where a defendant in a class action has forced an involuntary settlement on the representative plaintiff after the lawsuit is filed, a representative plaintiff may continue to be a member of the proposed class. These cases so-called "pick off" cases" arise when, prior to class certification, a defendant in a proposed class action gives the named plaintiff the entirety of the relief claimed by that individual. The proper procedure in a pickoff case is for the trial court to consider whether the named plaintiff will continue fairly to represent the class light of the individual relief offered by the defendant. As a practical matter, in most cases, that evaluation may be performed in the context of a ruling on a motion for class certification [Wallace v. Geico Gen. Ins. Co. (2010) 183 CA4th 1390, 1398-1400, 108 CR3d 375 (pickoff cases apply to class action alleging violation of B&P Code § 17200 et seq.)].

Strategic Point:

A class representative's lack of standing at the beginning of a class action is not necessarily fatal to continuation of the action. Although a complaint filed by a party who lacks standing is subject to demurrer, the rationale for the demurrer "would be that there is a defect in the parties, since the party named as plaintiff is not the real party in interest." Amendments to complaints under CCP § 473(a) are liberally allowed to substitute in plaintiffs with standing for original plaintiffs without standing. If, after the court has thus extended an opportunity to amend, the class still lacks a suitable representative, the court may conclude that it must dismiss the action [ CashCall, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 159 CA4th 273, 287-290, 71 CR3d 441 ].

33.09 Plaintiff Class May Be Granted Leave to Amend Complaint.

If the court determines that the named plaintiff is unsuitable, it should afford the plaintiff class the opportunity to amend the complaint to redefine the class or to add new individual plaintiffs, or both [ Scott v. City of Indian Wells (1972) 6 C3d 541, 550, 99 CR 745, 492 P2d 1137 ; La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn., (1971) 5 C3d 864, 872, 97 CR 849, 489 P2d 1113 ].

Cross References:

Leave to amend class allegations in complaint, see 33.28[3].

Discussion of amended complaints, see Ch. 34, Amended and Supplemental Pleadings.

Strategic Point--Class Party:

Consider selecting an alternate representative, should the court fail to approve the original named plaintiff.

Warning--Class Party:

A career plaintiff who simply lends his or her name to a suit that is controlled entirely by the attorney for the putative class may not be a proper class representative [ Howard Gunty Profit Sharing Plan v. Superior Court (2001) 88 CA4th 572, 577-580, 105 CR2d 896 ].

IV. DRAFTING CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.11

33.11 Allege Facts Sufficient to Withstand Demurrer.

33.11[1] Allegations Should Establish a Community of Interest in Elements of Class Claims. Absent strong factual showings to the contrary, class allegations are sufficient if facts tend to show an ascertainable class of plaintiffs and questions of law or fact that are common to the class [ Beckstead v. Superior Court (1971) 21 CA3d 780, 783-784, 98 CR 779 ].

Warning:

An order sustaining a demurrer to the class action allegations of a complaint, without leave to amend, may be appealed. Such an order is effectively a dismissal of the action as to the unnamed class members. As such, its legal effect is a final judgment [ Brown v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1984) 151 CA3d 982, 986 n1, 198 CR 916 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of well-defined community of interest, see 33.04[2].

Discussion of appealing demurrer sustained without leave to amend, see Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings, 11.34 et seq.

33.11[2] Complaint Should Specifically Allege Reasons for Superiority of Class Action Method. Plaintiff must show that fair and efficient adjudication requires the class action method of litigating claims [ Schneider v. Vennard (1986) 183 CA3d 1340, 1345, 228 CR 800 (approving application of Fed R Civ P, Rule 23(b)(3) to actions brought under CCP § 382)], such as:

- Joinder is impracticable because the class is so numerous.
- Individual actions are impracticable because the individual damages are so small.
- Burdensome cost will result because class members cannot afford to initiate individual actions.

- Burden to judicial system as multiple actions would outweigh any burdens imposed on the system by a class action.
- Risk of inconsistent results and standards is present because multiple actions.
- Potential risk to interests of other class members exists.
- Public interest would be served by obtaining definitive answers to questions posed by the case.

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of class action as superior method of adjudication, see 33.04[3].

Strategic Point--Plaintiffs:

Verification of the complaint will require that answers be verified and will preclude a general denial in an unlimited civil case. It will also preclude a general denial in a limited civil case if the action is a claim assigned to a third party for collection [CCP § 431.30(d)].

Chapter 33 Class Actions

VI. FILING MOTION FOR CLASS CERTIFICATION OR FOR DETERMINATION OF OTHER CLASS ISSUES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.16

33.16 Include Proper Content in Motion for Class Certification.

33.16[1] Notice of Motion for Class Certification.

33.16[1][a] Calendar at Least 28 Days' Notice. A motion to certify a class or to amend or modify a certification must be filed and served at least 28 calendar days prior to the hearing date. However, they should be filed and served as soon as practicable after the pleadings are settled [ Danzig v. Jack Grynberg & Assocs. (1984) 161 CA3d 1128, 1136, 208 CR 336 ; see Cal Rule Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(1)].

Cross Reference:

Form of notice of motion and motion to determine issues for class action, see 33.44.

33.16[1][b] Discovery May Be Required. Each party must have an opportunity to conduct discovery on class action issues before filing documents to support or oppose a class action certification motion [ Stern v. Superior Court (2003) 105 CA4th 223, 232, 129 CR2d 275 ; see Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1978) 80 CA3d 1, 11, 145 CR 316 ].

Strategic Point--Precertification Discovery of Putative Members:

Discovery of, and precertification communication to, members of the putative class must safeguard putative member privacy rights, but these rights are not absolute and are subject to a balancing test against the discovery rights of the litigants [ Pioneer Electronics (USA), Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 360, 371 (manufacturer required to disclose other purchasers who complained about product); Colonial Life & Accident Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 31 C3d 785, 787-790 (privacy protections required in letter to putative members)].

Strategic Point--Precertification Discovery of Witnesses as Discovery of Putative

Members--Waiver:

A class plaintiff has a right to conduct discovery of nonprivileged information about witnesses, even among putative class members, such as their identity and location [ Crab Addison Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 169 CA4th 958, 966-967, 87 CR3d 400 (even if the putative class members have executed waivers of notice of pending class actions, public policy warrants discovery)].

Example:

Precertification discovery of names and contact information of potential class members is warranted where there is no showing of undue privacy invasion and there is the risk that the alleged abuses by defendant will go unaddressed absent notice to potential class members [ Lee v. Dynamex, Inc. (2008) 166 CA4th 1325, 1338-1339, 83 CR3d 241 ].

 Cross References:

Standing of class representative to seek discovery, see 33.08.

Discovery generally, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

33.16[2] Prepare Memorandum in Support of Motion for Class Certification.

33.16[2][a] Memorandum Must Not Exceed 20 Pages. An opening memorandum may not exceed 20 pages; otherwise, the provisions of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113, apply [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(2)].

33.16[2][b] Include Required Components of Memorandum. The memorandum must contain the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1113(b), 3.764(c)(3)]:

- A statement of facts,
- A concise statement of the law, evidence, and arguments, and
- A discussion of the statutes, cases, and textbooks cited in support of the position advanced.

Forms opposing motion to certify class, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 41, Class and Representative Actions (Matthew Bender).

33.16[2][c] Oral Testimony as Evidence in Support of Motion for Class Certification Is Disfavored. The evidence in support of the motion for class certification must comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(d)]. Although the court has discretion, for good cause shown, to admit oral testimony and cross examination, the preferred evidentiary support should be the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.764(c)(3), (d), 3.1306(a)]:

- Declarations of Counsel;
- Declarations of Class Representatives;
- Declarations of Others; and

- Request for Judicial Notice.

33.16[2][d] Stipulations Are Favored. The parties should endeavor to resolve any uncontroverted issues by stipulation. If all class issues are so resolved and approved by the court, no hearing on class certification is required [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(e)].

Strategic Point:

A party opposing the motion for class certification may submit a responding memorandum, evidentiary materials, and requests for judicial notice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(3); discussed in 33.27].

VI. FILING MOTION FOR CLASS CERTIFICATION OR FOR DETERMINATION OF OTHER CLASS ISSUES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.18

33.18 File Motion When Practicable.

A motion for class certification should be filed when practicable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(b)].

Exception:

The court may establish a deadline for filing the motion for certification [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(b)].

Class certification must be decided prior to any determination on the merits [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 ; Green v. Obledo (1981) 29 C3d 126, 146 ], provided that [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083, 1086, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 ]:

- Defendant has not waived objection to ruling on the merits at the same time or before resolution of certification issues.
- Defendant has not raised the issue of the merits of principle issues in the case, such as by demurring or moving for summary judgment before the court has resolved certification issues.

Exception:

Plaintiff may obtain resolution of certification issues after seeking resolution of the merits, in the absence of a defense waiver, by demonstrating changed circumstances or other good cause justifying the belated motion. In this regard, the court must have a compelling equitable reason to rule on the merits prior to ruling on certification [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083-1084, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 ].

Warning--Class Party:

A court may consider the merits of an action in a certification proceeding in an exceptional case, e.g., if the defense has no other reasonable pretrial means to challenge the merits [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 443, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ]. Be prepared to brief the merits.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

By first litigating on the merits or by requesting early consideration of liability issues without also objecting to class certification, defendant may inadvertently waive the right to a pretrial certification determination [ Employment Development Dept. v. Superior Court (1981) 30 C3d 256, 263-264, 178 CR 612 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions

VI. FILING MOTION FOR CLASS CERTIFICATION OR FOR DETERMINATION OF OTHER CLASS ISSUES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.19

33.19 Consider Choice-of-Law Factors.

33.19[1] Complexity. If claims of nonresident class members will require adjudication under the laws of the members' home states, before certifying a class action [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 915, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ; Clothesrigger, Inc. v. GTE Corp. (1987) 191 CA3d 605, 619, 236 CR 605 ] the trial court must ascertain the degree of complexity arising from the application of those laws.

33.19[2] Choice-of-Law Agreement. When parties have an agreement that another jurisdiction's law will govern their disputes, the court will examine the scope of the choice-of-law clause and determine its enforceability.

Strategic Point:

In determining the enforceability of contractual choice-of-law agreements, California courts apply the principles set forth in Restatement Second of Conflict of Laws § 187, which reflects a strong policy favoring enforcement of such provisions [ Brack v. Omni Loan Company, Ltd. (2008) 164 CA4th 1312, 1321, 80 CR3d 275 ].

33.19[3] Choice-of-Law Clause Must Satisfy Tests.

33.19[3][a] Scope-of-Clause Test. The advocate of the choice-of-law clause has the burden of establishing that the class members' claims fall within the scope of the clause [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 916, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ].

33.19[3][b] Enforceability-of-Clause Test. If the class claims fall within the scope of the choice-of-law clause, the court must evaluate the clause's enforceability. The court must determine whether:

- The chosen state has a substantial relationship to the parties or the transaction; or
- There is any other reasonable basis for the parties' choice of law.

33.19[3][c] Choice-of-Law Agreement May Be Unenforceable. The choice-of-law clause need not be enforced if neither test is met [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 916, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ].

33.19[3][d] Foreign-State Law May Be Inimical to Fundamental California Policy. If either test is met, the court determines whether the chosen state's law is contrary to a fundamental policy of California. The relative significance of a particular policy or statutory scheme can be determined by considering whether parties may, by agreement, avoid the policy or statutory requirement [ Brack v. Omni Loan Company, Ltd. (2008) 164 CA4th 1312, 1322-1323, 80 CR3d 275 ]. Upon assessing the existence of a conflict:

- If no conflict exists, the court will enforce the parties' choice of law [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 916, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ].

- If a conflict exists, the court determines whether California has a materially greater interest than the chosen state in the determination of the issue. If so, the choice-of-law clause will not be enforced [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 916-917, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ]. However, the court of appeals has additionally required that the forum state's interests have to be more seriously impaired by enforcement of the parties' contractual choice-of-law provision than would the interests of the chosen state by application of the law of the forum state, in order for the provision to be unenforceable [ Brack v. Omni Loan Company, Ltd. (2008) 164 CA4th 1312, 1324, 80 CR3d 275 ].

Restatement Second of Conflict of Laws § 187(2).

33.19[4] Choice-of-Law Tests Absent Enforceable Choice-of-Law Agreement.

33.19[4][a] Significant Contacts Test. A forum state may apply its own substantive law to the claims of a nationwide class if [ Phillips Petroleum Co. v. Shutts (1985) 472 US 797, 821-822, 105 S Ct 2965, 86 L Ed2d 628 ; Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 919, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ]:

- The state has a significant contact or significant aggregation of contacts with respect to the claims of each class member.
- The application of the forum state's law is not arbitrary or unfair.

33.19[4][b] Governmental Interest Test. Even if its own law can be constitutionally applied, California follows a governmental interest analysis. California law will apply to nonresident members so long as the interests of other states do not outweigh California's interest in having its law applied [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 921, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ].

33.19[4][c] Proponent Has Burden to Justify Application of Foreign Law. A foreign-law proponent has the burdens of identifying the applicable rule of law in each potentially concerned state and of showing that it materially differs from California law [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 919, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ]:

- If the laws of each state are identical, a court may find California law applicable to class claims.
- If the laws are materially different, a court will determine what interest each state has in having its own law applied to the case.

A class action proponent also has the following burdens [ Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th

906, 926, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ]:

- Demonstrating that state law variations will not swamp common issues and defeat predominance; and
- Presenting sufficient information showing that any state-law differences could be managed fairly and efficiently at trial.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

33.19[4][d] Court Will Choose Law of Forum With Interests in Greatest Jeopardy of Impairment. A court will select the law of the state whose interests would be more impaired if its law were not applied, considering the following factors [ Offshore Rental Co., Inc. v. Cont'l Oil Co. (1978) 22 C3d 157, 166, 148 CR 867, 583 P2d 721 ]:

- Relative commitment of the respective states to the laws involved; and
- History and current status of the states' laws and the functions/purposes of those laws.

VI. FILING MOTION FOR CLASS CERTIFICATION OR FOR DETERMINATION OF OTHER CLASS ISSUES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.20

33.20 Reviewing Certification Determination.

33.20[1] Final Judgment Rule Applies. The final judgment rule, as codified in CCP §§ 904.1, 904.2, generally allows appeals only from a final judgment or from an order that has been expressly made appealable by statute [see Stephen v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1991) 235 CA3d 806, 811, 1 CR2d 130 ].

33.20[2] Order Denying Certification Appealable If Same as Final Judgment. Although not made appealable by statute, an order denying certification is appealable when it is deemed equivalent to a final judgment, or is otherwise a "death knell" to an entire class [ Richmond v. Dart Indus., Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 462, 470, 174 CR 515, 629 P2d 23 ; Haro v. City of Rosemead (2009) 174 CA4th 1067, 1077-1078, 94 CR3d 874 ; Szetela v. Discover Bank (2002) 97 CA4th 1094, 1098, 118 CR2d 862 ].

Distinguish:

A denial of certification which disposes of less than all causes of action between the parties may not be appealed until after final judgment, although immediate review by writ of mandate is generally available [see Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 C3d 800, 806-807, 94 CR 796, 484 P2d 964 ; Rosack v. Volvo of Am. Corp. (1982) 131 CA3d 741, 748-749, 182 CR 800 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of appealable orders, see 33.40[1].

Discussion of orders subject to mandate proceedings, see 33.40[2].

33.20[3] Order Granting Certification Not Appealable. An order granting certification for a statewide, rather than a national, class is not appealable [ Shelley v. City of Los Angeles (1995) 36 CA4th 692, 696, 42 CR2d 529 ; General Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 CA3d 247, 250-251, 244 CR 776 ].

33.20[4] Intermediate Orders Reviewed by Mandate or Prohibition. A court order permitting the class action to proceed is reviewable by mandate or prohibition proceedings [see Chance v. Superior Court (1962) 58 C2d 275, 278 n. 1, 23 CR 761, 373 P2d 849 ; see also CCP §§ 1085-1097, 1107, 1108; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.485 et seq.]. Such intermediate orders that do not dispose of the entire action or that do not have the effect of a "death knell" are reviewable by mandate before proceedings take place on the merits [ Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 211 CA3d 758, 763, 259 CR 789 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
VII. PROVIDING NOTICE TO CLASS MEMBERS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.22

33.22 Preparing and Filing Statement Regarding Class Notice and Exclusion from Class.

33.22[1] Submission Requirement. The class proponent must submit the following to the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(b)]:

- A statement regarding class notice [see 3.22[2]].
- A proposed notice to class members [see 3.22[3]].

33.22[2] Contents of Statement. The statement regarding class notice must include the following items [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(b)]:

- Whether notice is necessary.
- Whether class members may exclude themselves from the action.
- The time and manner in which notice should be given.
- A proposal regarding which parties should bear the costs of notice.
- If cost shifting or sharing is proposed, an estimate of the cost involved in giving notice.

➡ Cross Reference:

Detailed discussion of the above items in the context of the court's order regarding notice and exclusion from the class, see 33.23[1].

33.22[3] Contents of Proposed Class Notice. The content of the class notice is subject to court approval. If class members are to be given the right to request exclusion from the class, the notice must include the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(b)]:

- A brief explanation of the case, including the basic contentions or denials of the parties.
- A statement that the court will exclude the member from the class if the member so requests by a specified date.
- A procedure for the member to follow in requesting exclusion from the class.
- A statement that the judgment, whether favorable or not, will bind all members who do not request exclusion.
- A statement that any member who does not request exclusion may enter an appearance through counsel if the member so desires.

Exception:

The contents of notices in consumer class actions alleging violation of CC § 1770 (unfair competition and deceptive trade practices) are specified by CC § 1781(e).

 Cross References:

Form, see 33.48.

33.22[4] Manner of Submission.

33.22[4][a] Preparing and Filing Notice of Motion and Proposed Order. The rules do not specifically require a noticed motion as a prerequisite to submitting the mandatory statement regarding class notice and exclusion from the class, and proposed class notice. However, the fact that the court is required to issue an order regarding these matters [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(c); see 33.23] suggests that the statement and proposed class notice should be accompanied by a notice of motion and proposed order unless the court has directed some other procedure. Accordingly, counsel should prepare and file these papers unless the court directs otherwise.

 Cross Reference:

Forms, see 33.46 (notice of motion and motion for order), 33.47 (order).

33.22[4][b] Combining With Motion to Certify the Class Action. The rules do not specifically authorize the order regarding class notice to be addressed in the motion to certify the class action, but neither do they prohibit these matters from being addressed in that motion. Presumably such matters reside in the discretion of the court. If class notice issues are addressed in a motion to certify the class, that motion is subject to the specific requirements applicable to motions to certify a class [see 33.16].

33.22[4][c] Filing Memorandum. Counsel should consider filing a memorandum if necessary to support the positions taken on the items that must be included in the statement regarding class notice [see 33.22[2]]. If the statement regarding notice is filed as part of the motion to certify the class action [see 22.33[4][b]], a memorandum in support of the motion to certify the class action are mandatory [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(3); see 33.16[2]], and the limitation on a memorandum in connection with such a motion are applicable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(2); see 33.16[2][a]].

33.22[5] Timing and Ruling on the Merits. The rules do not specify when the statement regarding class notice must be filed. Class notice issues must be settled prior to any determination on the merits [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 ; Home Sav. & Loan Assn v. Superior Court (1974) 42 CA3d 1006, 1011, 1015, 117 CR 485 ], provided that [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083, 1086, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 ]:

- Defendant has not waived objection to ruling on the merits at the same time or before resolution of notice issues.
- Defendant has not raised the issue of the merits of principle issues in the case, such as by demurring or moving for summary judgment before the court has resolved notice issues.

Exception:

Plaintiff may obtain resolution of notice issues after seeking resolution of the merits, in the absence of a defense waiver, by demonstrating changed circumstances or other good cause justifying the belated motion. In this regard, the court must have a compelling equitable reason to rule on the merits prior to ruling on notice issues [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083-1084, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 ].

The 28-day filing requirement of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(1) applicable to filing a notice of motion to certify a class action are not specifically applicable to filing the statement regarding notice or proposed class notice. Because the court is required to make an order regarding class notice at the time the class is certified, or as soon as practicable thereafter, it seems implicit that the statement should be filed with the court concurrently with, or as soon as possible after, the motion to certify the class is filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(c) (timing of court's order)].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
VII. PROVIDING NOTICE TO CLASS MEMBERS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.23

33.23 Issuance of Court Order Regarding Notice and Exclusion from Class.

33.23[1] Content of Order. The court is required to issue an order on certification of a class, or as soon thereafter as practicable, determining all of the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(c)]:

- Whether notice to class members is necessary.

Decision Point:

Since the California class action statute CCP 382 does not specify notice requirements in class actions, California courts are encouraged to look to the requirements of Fed R Civ P, Rule 23 with regard to notice [ Frazier v. City of Richmond (1986) 184 CA3d 1491, 1499, 228 CR 376 ; see Green v. Obledo (1981) 29 C3d 126, 145-146, 172 CR 206, 624 P2d 256 ; Home Sav. & Loan Assn v. Superior Court (1974) 42 CA3d 1006, 1012, 117 CR 485 ]. Fed R Civ P, Rule 23 describes three types of class actions and defines the notice requirement applicable to each type. Subdivision (c)(2) of Rule 23 provides that notice is mandatory in class actions defined in subdivision (b)(3) (actions based predominantly on common questions of law and fact). No notice is specifically required in (b)(1) (actions based on need to avoid inconsistent or varying adjudications, or adjudications that would be dispositive of the interests of nonparties or substantially impair or impede their ability to protect their interests) and (b)(2) actions (actions seeking injunctive or declaratory relief). In these latter two classes of actions, state and federal courts generally have held that notice is within the discretion of the trial court [ Frazier v. City of Richmond (1986) 184 CA3d 1491, 1499, 228 CR 376 ]. California courts generally have favored resolving doubts as to which notice standard applies in favor of applying the discretionary notice standard [see, e.g., Frazier v. City of Richmond (1986) 184 CA3d 1491, 1503, 228 CR 376 ].

Exception:

Notice is mandatory in consumer class actions alleging violation of CC § 1770 (unfair competition and deceptive trade practices) [CC § 1781(e)].

- Whether class members may exclude themselves from the action.

Exception:

The right to exclusion is mandatory in consumer class actions alleging violation of CC § 1770 (unfair competition and deceptive trade practices) [CC § 1781(e)(1)].

- The time and manner of notice. If personal notification is unreasonably expensive or the stake of individual class members is insubstantial, or if it appears that all members of the class cannot be notified personally, the court may order a means of notice reasonably calculated to apprise the class members of the pendency of the action, such as publication in a newspaper or magazine; broadcasting on television, radio, or the Internet; or posting or distribution through a trade or professional association, union, or public interest group [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(f)].

- The content of the notice [see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(d)] (content of class notice subject to court approval)].

- The parties responsible for the cost of notice.

Cross References:

Form, see 33.47.

Notice of class actions in deceptive trade practice actions, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Unfair Competition and Business Torts, 3.08.

33.23[2] Factors Court Must Consider in Determining Manner of Notice. In determining the manner of the notice, the court is required to consider the following factors [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.766(e)]:

- The interests of the class.
- The type of relief requested.
- The stake of the individual class members.
- The cost of notifying class members.
- The resources of the parties.
- The possible prejudice to class members who do not receive notice.
- The res judicata effect on class members.

Example:

Applying these principles, prior to a determination of liability, members of a plaintiff class may not be advised that unless they affirmatively request inclusion in class or perform some other act they will be excluded [ Hypertouch, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 128 CA4th 1527, 1543-1550 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
VIII. OPPOSING CLASS ACTIONS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.25A

33.25A Removing the Case to Federal District Court.

The federal Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 permits a single defendant to remove qualifying class actions involving more than $5,000,000 from state court to federal district court by filing a notice of removal [28 USCS §§ 1332(d), 1446, 1453(b)].

Strategic Point:

A single defendant can remove an eligible case even before class certification, and generous provisions on interlocutory appeal of remand orders ensure that federal courts will decide the extent of their jurisdiction under the Act [see 28 USCS §§ 1446, 1453].

Cross References:

Chapter 33 Class Actions
VIII. OPPOSING CLASS ACTIONS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.26

33.26 File Merit-Based Challenges Prior to Certification Hearing.

33.26[1] Demur on Grounds of Insufficient Facts. File a demurrer if the complaint on its face fails to allege facts sufficient to establish an ascertainable class or community of interest in the essential elements of the class claims [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4 429, 440-441 ].

An oral hearing is a key constituent of due process, not an "empty gesture"; it should be requested if there is a real and genuine factual dispute regarding the necessary elements for maintenance of the action [ TJX Companies, Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 87 CA4 747, 749-754 ].

Warning:

Defendant's raising the issue of the merits of principal issues in the case, such as by demurring or moving for summary judgment before the court has resolved certification or notice issues waives the right to have class notice issues decided prior to any determination on the merits and gives individual plaintiffs the opportunity to withdraw from the case before final judgment but after judgment on the merits [ Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 C4th 1069, 1083, 56 CR3d 861, 155 P3d 268 (referring to withdrawal as "one-way intervention"); Home Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Superior Court (1974) 42 CA3d 1006, 1011, 1015, 117 CR 485 ].

Warning--Moving Party:

Demurrers are disfavored, although permissible, in California [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 223 C4th 429, 2 P3d 27 ]. A complaint will survive a demurrer if it alleges facts that tend to show an ascertainable class and questions of law and fact that are common to the class [ Minsky v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 11 C3d 113, 118, 113 CR 102, 520 P2d 726 ; Beckstead v. Superior Court (1971) 21 CA3d 780, 784, 98 CR 779 ].

Strategic Point:

Only in mass tort actions or other actions equally unsuited to class action treatment can and should class suitability be determined at the pleading stage, because individual questions of liability and damages frequently predominate over common questions and resolving class suitability at the pleading stage is therefore proper. In cases involving a single set of facts applicable to all members and one question of law common to all class members, class suitability should not be determined by demurrer [ Tarkington v. California Unemployment Ins. Appeals Bd. (2009) 172 CA4th 1494, 1510-1512, 92 CR3d 131 (class suitability determination premature); Prince v. CLS Transportation, Inc. (2004) 118 CA4th 1320, 1325-1329, 13 CR3d 725] .

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

An order that sustains a demurrer to the class action allegations of a complaint without leave to amend may be appealed.

Cross References:

Appeal after order granting demurrer and motion to strike, see 33.28[4].

Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

33.26[2] Move to Strike Class Allegations. A motion to strike is proper to have class-suit allegations stricken from the complaint [ In re BCBG Overtime Cases (2008) 163 CA4th 1293, 1298-1299, 78 CR3d 257 (permitting nonclass defendant to file motion to strike class allegations under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.767); Stilson v. Reader's Digest Assn, Inc. (1972) 28 CA3d 270, 273-275, 104 CR 581 ].

Distinguish:

This type of motion seeks to have the class allegations stricken from the complaint by asking the trial court to hold an evidentiary hearing and determine whether the proposed class should be certified [ In re BCBG Overtime Cases (2008) 163 CA4th 1293, 1299, 78 CR3d 257 ].

Timing:

Class certification is generally not decided at the pleading stage of a lawsuit. The preferred course is to defer decision on the propriety of the class action until an evidentiary hearing has been held on the appropriateness of class litigation. However, if the defects in the class action allegations appear on the face of the complaint or by matters subject to judicial notice, the putative class action may be defeated by a motion to strike [ In re BCBG Overtime Cases (2008) 163 CA4th 1293, 1298-1299, 78 CR3d 257 ].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

A motion to strike may be combined with a demurrer [see Weaver v. Pasadena Tournament of Roses (1948) 32 C2d 833, 835, 198 P2d 514 ].

33.27 File Opposition to Motion for Certification.

33.27[1] Adhere to Correct Format and Filing Requirements.

33.27[1][a] Observe Class Action Rule of Court. Opposition papers must be served and filed at least 14 calendar days preceding the noticed or continued hearing, unless the court for good cause orders otherwise. The provisions of CCP § 1005 otherwise apply [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(1)].

33.27[1][b] Include Supporting Papers. The memorandum in opposition must not exceed 20 pages. The Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113 requirements for memoranda otherwise apply [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(2)]. In addition to the memorandum, the opposing party's documents consist of the party's evidence in opposition, including any declarations of counsel or other appropriate declarants and any requests for judicial notice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(c)(3)].

33.27[1][c] Follow Evidence Procedures. Evidence to be considered at the hearing must be presented in accordance with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(d)].

33.27[2] Determine If Appropriate for Discovery to Be Permitted. Each party must have an opportunity to conduct discovery on class action issues before filing documents to support or oppose a class action certification motion [ Stern v. Superior Court (2003) 105 CA4th 223, 232, 129 CR2d 275 ; Carabini v. Superior Court (1994) 26 CA4th 239, 241-244, 31 CR2d 520 ].

Warning:

A trial court is not required to hear merit-based challenges prior to certification; it retains discretion to determine whether it is more appropriate to allow challenges on the merits only after certification proceedings [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 443, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
VIII. OPPOSING CLASS ACTIONS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.28

33.28 File a Motion for Decertification.

33.28[1] Permitted When Change in Circumstances or New Information. After class certification, if a change of circumstances occurs or new information is discovered that calls into question the appropriateness of continuing the class action, the opposing party may file a motion to decertify the class [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.764(a)(4); Washington Mut. Bank v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 906, 927, 103 CR2d 320, 15 P3d 1071 ; Keller v. Tuesday Morning, Inc. (2009) 179 CA4th 1389, 1397, 102 CR3d 498 ; Danzig v. Jack Grynberg & Assocs. (1984) 161 CA3d 1128, 1136, 208 CR 336 ]. Grounds supporting decertification may be that individual issues predominate, or that it is otherwise not an appropriate vehicle for adjudicating the controversy.

33.28[2] Bring Motion Before Decision on Merits. Generally, a decertification motion must be brought before a decision is rendered on the merits [see Danzig v. Jack Grynberg & Assocs. (1984) 161 CA3d 1128, 1136, 208 CR 336 ].

Exception:

A decertification motion may be entertained after a decision on the merits if the motion is based on changed circumstances and the moving party adduces new evidence that became available only after the merits of the case were decided [see Green v. Obledo (1981) 29 C3d 126, 148, 172 CR 206, 624 P2d 256 ].

33.28[3] Propounding Party May Amend Complaint. Before the court decertifies the class and dismisses the class action the court may offer plaintiffs an opportunity to amend the complaint to redefine the class or to add new individual plaintiffs, or both [ Kagan v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan assn (1984) 35 C3d 582, 596, 200 CR 38, 676 P2d 1060 ].

► Cross References:

Amending complaint, see 33.09.

Form of complaint, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, § 120.50 (Matthew Bender).

33.28[4] Decide Whether to Seek Review of Order Denying Decertification. A mandate proceeding, rather than an appeal, is the appropriate proceeding to review an order denying a motion to decertify a class [see Occidental Land, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 18 C3d 355, 359, 134 CR 388, 556 P2d 750 ].

Exception:

If order effectively terminates the entire action as to the class or otherwise has a "death knell" effect on the class, an appeal is appropriate means of review [ Stephen v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1991) 235 CA3d 806, 811, 1 CR2d 130 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
VIII. OPPOSING CLASS ACTIONS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.29

33.29 Pretrial Dispositive Motions.

33.29[1] Summary Judgment Is Preferred Method of Bringing Merit-Based Challenge. Generally, courts prefer that litigants bring merit-based challenges to class actions as motions for summary judgment rather than including such challenges in the pretrial certification proceedings [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 440-441, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ].

Strategic Point:

When the substantive theories and claims of a proposed class suit are alleged to be without legal or factual merit, the interests of fairness and efficiency are furthered when the contention is resolved in the context of a formal proceeding, such as a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication, that affords proper notice and employs clear standards. If the class is large, the court may be compelled to resolve those issues given the fact that the potential exposure may be so large that the pressure to settle may otherwise become irresistible [ Starbucks Corp. v. Superior Court, 168 CA4th 1436, 1453, 87 CR3d 81 (writ ordering entry of summary judgment granted)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of summary judgments, see Ch. 38, Summary Judgment.

33.29[2] Motion to Dismiss.

33.29[2][a] Court Must Approve. Court approval is required for dismissal of [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770(a)]:

- An entire class action;
- Any party in a class action; and
- Any cause of action in a class action.

Exception:

A court may not enter an order dismissing a class action at the same time as, or after, entry of judgment following final approval of a settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(h), 3.770(a)].

33.29[2][b] Supporting Affidavit or Declaration Required. Include an affidavit or declaration setting forth [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770(a)]:

- Facts on which the petitioner relies;
- A clear statement of whether any direct or indirect consideration is being given for dismissal; and
- If consideration is being given, a detailed statement describing it.

Timing:

If the court issues notice of tentative disapproval, seek a hearing within 15 calendar days after service of Notice to Avoid Disapproval [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770(b)].

33.29[2][c] Disposition May Be Followed by Hearing If Request Is Disapproved. The court may grant the request without a hearing. If the request is disapproved, Notice of Tentative Disapproval must be sent to the attorneys of record. Any party may seek, within 15 calendar days of the service of the Notice of Tentative Disapproval, a hearing on the request. If no hearing is sought within that period, the request for dismissal will be deemed denied [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770(b)].

33.29[2][d] Class Notice of Dismissal May Be Required. A Class Notice of Dismissal may be ordered depending on the status of prior class notification [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770(c)]:

- If the court has certified the class, and notice of the pendency of the action has been provided to class members, notice of the dismissal must be given to the class in the manner specified by the court.
- If the court has not ruled on class certification, or if notice of the pendency of the action has not been provided to class members in a case in which such notice was required, notice of the proposed dismissal may be given in the manner and to those class members specified by the court.
- If the court finds that the dismissal will prejudice the class members, the action may be dismissed without notice to them.

Chapter 33 Class Actions
IX. SETTLING CLASS ACTIONS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.31

33.31 Prepare Motion for Preliminary Approval of Settlement.

33.31[1] Any Party to Agreement May Initiate Motion. Any party to a class action settlement agreement may submit a written notice of motion for preliminary approval of the settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(c)]. Court approval, after a hearing, is required for a settlement or compromise of an entire class action, or of a cause of action in a class action, or of a party's inclusion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(a)].

33.31[2] Include Agreement for Payment of Attorney's Fees. Any express or implied agreement regarding either the payment of attorney's fees or submission of an application for approval of attorney's fees must be set forth in full in any application for approval of the dismissal or settlement of an action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(b)].

Strategic Point:

Courts may not rely solely on a fee distribution agreement to allocate fees between counsel in class actions settled under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769. Instead, an award of attorney fees in class action litigation must be tied to counsel's actual efforts to benefit the class [ Mark v. Spencer (2008) 166 CA4th 219, 229, 82 CR3d 569 ]. Thorough judicial review of fee applications is required in all class action settlements and the fairness of the fees must be assessed independently of determining the fairness of the substantive settlement terms [ Consumer Privacy Cases (2009) 175 CA4th 545, 555, 96 CR3d 127 ] .

Strategic Point:

A cap on the maximum award of attorney fees may be appropriate in settlement of some cases. If the court's review independent review leads to a finding that the award should be less than the cap, the difference between the award and the cap does not automatically accrue to the class [ Consumer Privacy Cases (2009) 175 CA4th 545, 555, 96 CR3d 127 ] . Thus, plaintiff's counsel willing to accept an attorney-fee cap in a settlement might want to include language that any difference is added to the award to the class.

Warning:

The failure to include an agreement on distribution of attorney fees in cases involving co-counsel bars a separate action for fees based on a claim for distribution other than that included in the approval of settlement of the class action [ Mark v. Spencer (2008) 166 CA4th 219, 228-229, 82 CR3d 569 ].

Example:

Trial court erred by ruling that settlement agreement calling for arbitration of attorney fees within a stated range was unenforceable. A finding that a range starting at the actual expenses of counsel and ending slightly lower than class counsel's lodestar plus expenses with no multiplier was proper [ Cellphone Termination Fee Cases (2009) 180 CA4th 1110, 1120-1125, 104 CR3d 275 (lack of participation of class members in setting fees does not bar enforcement of provision)].

Cross Reference:

Attorney fees, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 25A, Recovering Attorney's Fees From Opposing Party.

33.31[3] Include Agreement and Proposed Notice and Order. The settlement agreement and proposed notice to class members must be filed with the motion. The proposed order must be lodged with the motion [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(c) ].

33.31[4] Provide Notice to Class Members of Final Approval Hearing. If a class action is certified, notice of the final approval hearing must be given to the class members in the manner specified by the court. The notice must contain [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(f) ]:

- An explanation of the proposed settlement;
- Procedures for class members to file written objections to the settlement; and
- Procedures in arranging to appear at the settlement hearing and a statement of all objections.

33.31[5] Include Proposed Order Certifying Provisional Settlement Class. The proposed order must be lodged with the motion [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(c) ].

33.31[6] Order Certifying Settlement Class.

33.31[6][a] Order Regarding Provisional Settlement Class. Following the preliminary settlement hearing, the court may make an order approving or denying certification of a provisional settlement class [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(d) ].

33.31[6][b] Order Regarding Final Approval Hearing. If the court grants preliminary approval, its order must include the time, date, and place of the final approval hearing; the notice to be given to the class; and any other matters deemed necessary for the proper conduct of a settlement hearing [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(e) ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
IX. SETTLING CLASS ACTIONS

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.32

33.32 Seek Final Approval of Settlement.

33.32[1] Notify Class Members If Class Has Been Certified. If the court has certified the action as a class action, notice of the final approval hearing must be given to the class members in the manner specified by the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(f)].

33.32[2] Notice Must Include Proposed Settlement and Objection Procedures. The notice must contain an explanation of the proposed settlement and procedures for class members to follow in filing written objections to it and in arranging to appear at the settlement hearing and state any objections to the proposed settlement hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(f)].

33.32[3] Hearing Is Required and Certain Factors Must Be Considered. The court must conduct a final approval hearing inquiring into the fairness of the proposed settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(g)].

A trial court may approve a class action settlement agreement only after determining it is fair, adequate, and reasonable. It has broad discretion in making this determination. In exercising its discretion, the court is to consider relevant factors, which may include, but are not limited to [ Cho v. Seagate Tech. Holdings, Inc. (2009) 177 CA4th 734, 742-743, 99 CR3d 436 ] :

- The strength of the plaintiffs' case.
- The risk, expense, complexity and duration of further litigation as a class action.
- The amount offered in settlement.
- The extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings.
- The experience and views of counsel.
- The presence of a governmental participant.

- The reaction of class members to the proposed settlement.

At the same time, the trial court must give due regard the private consensual agreement between the parties. That regard limits its inquiry to the extent necessary to reach a reasoned judgment that the agreement is [ Cho v. Seagate Tech. Holdings, Inc. (2009) 177 CA4th 734, 743, 99 CR3d 436 ] :

- Not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or collusion between, the negotiating parties.
- Taken as a whole, is fair, reasonable and adequate to all concerned.

The trial court operates under a presumption of fairness when [ Cho v. Seagate Tech. Holdings, Inc. (2009) 177 CA4th 734, 743, 99 CR3d 436 ] :

- The settlement is the result of arm's-length negotiation, investigation, and discovery that are sufficient to permit counsel and the court to act intelligently.
- Counsel are experienced in similar litigation.
- The percentage of objectors is small.

Ultimately, the court's determination is an amalgam of delicate balancing, gross approximations, and rough justice [ Cho v. Seagate Tech. Holdings, Inc. (2009) 177 CA4th 734, 743, 99 CR3d 436 ] .

33.32[4] Judgment After Hearing Retains Jurisdiction. If the court approves the settlement agreement after the final approval hearing, the court must make and enter judgment. The judgment must include a provision for the retention of the court's jurisdiction over the parties to enforce the terms of the judgment [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(h) ].

Warning:

The trial court's judgment is res judicata with respect to distribution of attorney fees in cases involving co-counsel [ Mark v. Spencer (2008) 166 CA4th 219, 230, 82 CR3d 569 ].

Strategic Point:

The court's approval of class action settlement necessarily includes a finding that the notice procedure agreed upon by the parties complies with the requirements of due process and that the settlement itself was fair, adequate, and reasonable, which bars claims of malpractice against counsel for not negotiating different terms [ Martorana v. Marlin & Saltzman (2009) 175 CA4th 685, 696-697, 96 CR3d 172 (sanctions denied where class member failed to file claim after notice)].

Cross Reference:

33.32[5] Court May Not Dismiss Upon Entry of Judgment Based on Settlement. A court may not enter an order dismissing a class action at the same time as, or after, entry of judgment following final approval of a settlement [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(h), 3.770(a) ].

33.33 Meet Standards of Fairness for Approval of Settlement.

33.33[1] Court Has Broad Discretion. The trial court has broad discretion to determine whether a proposed settlement is fair and just [see Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.769(g)]. In making this determination, the court should consider the following factors [ Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 CA4th 224, 244-245, 110 CR2d 145 ; Clark v. Am. Residential Servs. LLC (2009) 175 CA4th 785, 799, 96 CR3d 441 (most important factor is the strength of the case for plaintiffs on the merits, balanced against amount offered in settlement); 7-Eleven Owners for Fair Franchising v. Southland Corp. (2000) 85 CA4th 1135, 1146 ]:

- The strength of the plaintiffs' case;
- The risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation;
- The risk of maintaining class action status through the trial;
- The amount offered in settlement;
- The extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings;
- The experience and views of counsel; and
- The reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement.

This list of factors is not exhaustive and should be tailored to each case.

Example:

The court should also consider whether there is any evidence of fraud or collusion in the fashioning of provisions of a settlement agreement concerning attorney fees [ Cellphone Termination Fee Cases (2009) 180 CA4th 1110, 1119, 104 CR3d 275 ] .

Strategic Point:

The court may and undoubtedly should place reliance on the competence and integrity of counsel, the involvement of a qualified mediator, and the paucity of objectors to the settlement. However, the court must also receive and consider enough information about the nature and magnitude of the claims being settled, as well as the impediments to recovery, to make an independent assessment of the reasonableness of the terms to which the parties have agreed. The trial court is not to attempt to decide the merits of the case or to substitute its evaluation of the most appropriate settlement for that of the attorneys. However, as the court does when it approves a settlement as in good faith under CCP § 877.6 [see 37.30], the court must at least satisfy itself that the class settlement is within the "ballpark" of reasonableness [see Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Associates (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499-500, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ; Clark v. Am. Residential Servs. LLC (2009) 175 CA4th 785, 800, 96 CR3d 441 (court erred by relying on presumption of fairness, see 33.33[2], in lieu of making independent determination of reasonableness)]. While the court is not to try the case, it is "called upon to consider and weigh the nature of the claim, the possible defenses, the situation of the parties, and the exercise of business judgment in determining whether the proposed settlement is reasonable" [ Kullar v. Foot Locker Retail, Inc. (2008) 168 CA4th 116, 131-133, 85 CR3d 20 ].

Prerequisite--Discovery:

The settling parties should be given the opportunity to file their discovery requests, which should not be denied simply because the requested information was disclosed during the mediation leading to the proposed settlement. The trial court need not grant all requests that the objector sees fit to make. Discovery requests that seek particular materials that are properly within the scope of Evid Code § 1119 should be denied. The court should exercise its normal discretion to weigh the relevance and need for particular materials against the cost and burdens of production [see CCP § 2017.020; Greyhound Corp. v. Superior Court (1961) 56 C2d 355, 378-380, 15 CR 90, 364 P2d 266 ]. Moreover, the trial court should limit discovery in view of the context in which it is being requested. Discovery is required not to prepare the case for trial, but simply to provide sufficient information to permit an intelligent evaluation of the terms on which the case is proposed to be settled. The objecting parties should not be permitted to frustrate the mutual interest of the class members and the defendant to resolve the litigation promptly by conducting extended or unnecessary discovery. The extent of discovery that is appropriate will depend in large part on the extent of the information that the settling parties provide the court to justify the terms of the settlement. If the settling parties have provided a meaningful and substantiated explanation of the manner in which the factual and legal issues have been evaluated, and there is no reason to believe that significant information has been overlooked, very little in the way of additional discovery may be justified. However, where the settling parties provide essentially no information to explain, much less to substantiate, their evaluation of the magnitude or potential merit of the claims being settled, objectors should not be denied access to data that reasonably may be expected to shed light on these issues. Following the opportunity for limited discovery, the trial court should redetermine whether the proposed settlement is fair, adequate and reasonable [ Kullar v. Foot Locker Retail, Inc. (2008) 168 CA4th 116, 131-133, 85 CR3d 20 ].

Cross Reference:

See Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

33.33[2] Fairness May Be Presumed. A presumption of fairness applies if the settlement has been reached under the following conditions [ Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 43, 5255, 75 CR3d 413 (presumption not rebutted by claim of coupon settlement); Dunk v. Ford Motor Co. (1996) 48 CA4th 1794, 1802, 56 CR2d 483 ]:

- There has been arm's-length bargaining.
- Investigation and discovery have been sufficient to allow counsel and the court to act intelligently.
- Counsel is experienced in similar litigation.
- The percentage of class members who object to the settlement is small.

33.33[3] Court May Apply Heightened Scrutiny to Settlement. A class action settlement should be scrutinized more carefully if the settlement was proposed prior to an adversarial class certification determination [ Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 CA4th 224, 240, 110 CR2d 145 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions

X. OBTAINING RELIEF AND RECOVERING AND DISTRIBUTING DAMAGES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.35

33.35 Determine Appropriate Relief.

33.35[1] Court May Grant Precertification Equitable Relief. In a class action, the court can issue a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction, or both, whether or not the class has been certified [CCP § 527(b)].

33.35[2] Court May Order Legal and Equitable Relief. For the many class actions in which individual damages are too small to warrant traditional methods of proof, courts adopt the guidelines for relief set out in the Consumers Legal Remedies Act, which authorizes the following forms of relief in class actions [CC §§ 1780, 1781]:

- Actual damages, but at least an aggregate $1,000 to the class members;
- An order enjoining the methods, acts, or practices;
- Restitution of property;
- Punitive damages; and
- Any other relief that the court deems proper.

33.35[3] Legal and Equitable Relief Available in Class Actions for Unlawful Credit Transactions Regarding Women. CC § 1812.31(a) provides the following forms of relief in class actions against creditors who improperly deny credit to women [see CC § 1812.30]:

- Actual damages;
- Punitive damages, provided the total recovery does not exceed the lesser of $100,000 or one percent of the creditor's net worth, and taking into account the amount of any actual damages awarded, the frequency and persistence of violations, the resources of the creditor, the number of persons adversely affected, and the extent to which the creditor's violation was intentional;
- An order enjoining further violations of CC § 1812.30.

Chapter 33 Class Actions

X. OBTAINING RELIEF AND RECOVERING AND DISTRIBUTING DAMAGES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.36

33.36 Identify Appropriate Method for Distribution of Damages

33.36[1] Cy Pres, Fluid Recovery Method of Fixing Damages Preferred. Cy pres, or fluid recovery, is the preferred method when numerous individuals each claim a small amount of damages. The fluid recovery method uses three steps to distribute small amounts of damages to each member of a large class [ State of California v. Levi Strauss & Co. (1986) 41 C3d 460, 472-473, 479, 490, 224 CR 605, 715 P2d 564 ]:

- Defendant pays the total damage liability into a class fund.
- Class members individually collect from the class fund by proving their particular damages, usually according to a lower standard of proof.
- Court determines the means of distribution of the residue.

In appropriate circumstances, fluid recovery may result in the entire class settlement amount being distributed to charitable, governmental, and non-profit organizations without direct payments to any class members [ In re Vitamin Cases (2003) 107 CA4th 820, 827, 132 CR2d 425 ].

33.36[2] Alternative Methods of Distribution May Be Appropriate. Alternative methods of distributing damages in consumer class actions include [ State of California v. Levi Strauss & Co. (1986) 41 C3d 460, 473, 224 CR 605, 715 P2d 564 ]:

- Rollbacks of the defendant's prices;
- Escheat to a governmental body for either specified or general purposes;
- Establishment of a consumer trust fund; and
- Claimant fund sharing.

California courts have even found pure coupon settlements to be fair and reasonable under certain circumstances [see, e.g., In re Microsoft I-V Cases (2006) 135 CA4th 706, 711-713, 37 CR3d 660 ; Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 CA4th 224, 247, 110 CR2d 145 ]. In a pure coupon settlement, the class members would receive a coupon, voucher, or discount that would partly defray the cost of making a new purchase of goods or services from the defendant. [ Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 43, 53-54, 75 CR3d 413 (modified coupon distribution allowing free additional product was approved)].

33.36[3] Consider Factors to Use in Determining Method of Distribution. In determining the method to employ for distribution of damages, the court may evaluate the following [ State of California v. Levi Strauss & Co. (1986) 41 C3d 460, 473, 224 CR 605, 715 P2d 564 ]:

- The amount of compensation provided to class members, including nonclaiming members;
- The proportion of class members sharing in the recovery;
- The extent to which benefits will spill over to nonclass members and the degree to which the spillover benefits will effectuate the purposes of the underlying substantive law; and
- The costs of administration.

X. OBTAINING RELIEF AND RECOVERING AND DISTRIBUTING DAMAGES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.37

33.37 Determine Method for Distribution of the Residue.

33.37[1] Statutory Procedure for Actions Brought Under CCP § 382.

33.37[1][a] Court Determines Total Amount of Damages and Orders a Report Date. After determining the total amount that will be payable to all class members, if all members are paid the amount granted in the judgment, the court sets a date when the parties must report back the total amount actually paid [CCP § 384(b)].

33.37[1][b] Court Will Amend Judgment After Report. Upon receipt of the report of actual payments, the court amends the judgment to direct the defendant to pay the sum of the unpaid residue, plus interest on that sum from the date of entry of the initial judgment to the following [CCP § 384(b)]:

- Nonprofit organizations or foundations which support projects that will benefit the class or similarly situated persons, or which promote the law consistent with the objectives and purposes of the underlying cause of action;
- Child advocacy programs; and
- Nonprofit organizations providing civil legal services to the indigent.

Timing:

CCP § 384 does not provide any time limit for filing a motion to amend, and the provisions of CCP § 473(b) do not apply, including its six-month time limit on filing for general relief from default [ Cundiff v. Verizon California, Inc. (2008) 167 CA4th 718, 731, 84 CR3d 377 ].

Exceptions:

Procedures for distributing the residue do not apply to class actions brought against public entities or public employees [see Gov Code §§ 811.2, 811.4].

In addition, the cy pres distribution provisions of CCP § 384(b) do not apply to the distribution of residue resulting from a settlement in which the settlement agreement provides for the complete distribution of the residue on terms that are fair, adequate, and reasonable [ In re Microsoft I-V Cases (2006) 135 CA4th 706, 722, 37 CR3d 660 ]. The requirement in CCP § 384(b) for distribution of residue applies to claims made "remedies as well as to "fluid recovery" remedies [ Cundiff v. Verizon California, Inc. (2008) 167 CA4th 718, 731, 84 CR3d 377 ].

33.37[2] Statutory Procedures Must Comport With Cy Pres Remedy. The procedures for distribution of the residue must not be construed to abrogate any equitable cy pres remedy that may be available for all or part of the residue in any class action [CCP § 384(c)].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
XI. APPEALING ORDERS AND JUDGMENT

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.39

33.39 Seek Appellate Review of Pretrial Disposition of Entire Action.

33.39[1] Appeal of Pretrial Rulings on the Merits.

33.39[1][a] Demurrers and Motions to Strike Are Favored Means of Challenging Class Action. The California Supreme Court favors weeding out meritless class action claims at the pretrial stage through demurrer proceedings and other pretrial dispositive motions [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 440, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ].

33.39[1][b] Court Retains Discretion to Delay Merit-Based Challenges. The trial court nevertheless retains discretion to determine whether it is more appropriate in a given case to allow pretrial challenges on the merits after class certification proceedings [ Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 443, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27 ].

33.39[2] Appeal of Interlocutory Orders.

33.39[2][a] Review Available Only If Order Causes Finality. Piecemeal litigation is disfavored, and appeals are generally allowed only from a final judgment or from an order that has been expressly made appealable by statute [CCP §§ 904.1, 904.2; Stephen v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1991) 235 CA3d 806, 811, 1 CR2d 130 ].

33.39[2][b] Review Available Only If Order Implicates the "Death Knell" Doctrine. If an order deprives individual class members of the economic ability and the incentive to pursue the lawsuit to a final judgment, it has a "death knell" effect and is appealable before final judgment [ Coopers & Lybrand v. Livesay (1978) 437 US 463, 469-470, 98 S Ct 2454, 57 L Ed2d 351 ; General Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 CA3d 247, 249, 250-252, 244 CR 776 ].

Examples:

- An order sustaining a demurrer to the complaint, to the extent it alleged statewide rather than nationwide class was appealable [ Van de Kamp v. Bank of Am. Nat'l Trust & Sav. Ass'n (1988) 204 CA3d 819, 866-867, 251 CR 530 ].

● Plaintiffs' refusal to refile all class-action claims dismissed with leave to amend does not preclude appeal of the order under the doctrine [ Alch v. Superior Court (2004) 122 CA4th 339, 359, 19 CR3d 339 ]. However, this decision by Division Eight of the Second Appellate District appears to conflict with a decision by the same court to the effect that, under the death knell doctrine, only an order denying certification of a class is appealable [ Farwell v. Sunset Mesa Property Owners Association, Inc. (2008) 163 CA4th 1545, 1552, 78 CR3d 666 (dismissal with leave to amend on demurrer based on inappropriate class representative not appealable)].

Warning:

Failure to appeal a certification decision at the time it is made can have a res judicata effect and render the decision final and binding [ Reich v. Club Universe (1981) 125 CA3d 965, 970, 178 CR 473 ].

Distinguish:

Although of lesser scope than requested, a trial court order that certified a class of 21,000 members, and that dismissed one of two causes of action as class actions, was not an appealable order [ General Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 CA3d 247, 249, 250-252, 244 CR 776 ].

33.39[3] Appellant Must Have Standing to Appeal. An unnamed class member need not obtain permission to intervene or be designated a named plaintiff before appealing [ Simons v. Horowitz (1984) 151 CA3d 834, 842-843, 199 CR 134 ].

Warning:

The Courts of Appeal have declined to import the law governing "pick off" cases, by which a representative plaintiff whose claim is involuntarily disposed of could nonetheless proceed with an appeal of an adverse class certification ruling so long as the plaintiff had reserved a right to shift attorney fees to other class members, into the context of a voluntary settlement [ Watkins v. Wachovia Corp. (2009) 172 CA4th 1576, 1590, 92 CR3d 409 (individual settling plaintiff denied standing to appeal); Larner v. Los Angeles Doctors Hospital Associates, LP (2008) 168 CA4th 1291, 1304, 86 CR3d 324 ("pick off" rule would not apply to settlement after summary judgment granted to opposing party)].

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.40

33.40 Seek Writ Review of Pretrial Disposition of Less Than Entire Action.

33.40[1] Petition for Writ of Mandate Challenging Class Certification or Class Representative. File a petition for a writ of mandate when review is sought for intermediate orders that do not dispose of the entire action, such as:

- Denial of class certification operates only against the class and not against a named plaintiff [ Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 C3d 800, 820-821, 94 CR 796, 484 P2d 964 ; Rosack v. Volvo of Am. Corp. (1982) 131 CA3d 741, 748-749, 182 CR 800 ].
- Order certifying statewide rather than nationwide class [ General Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (1988) 199 CA3d 247, 249, 250-252, 244 CR 776 ].
- Order dismissing one of several class causes of action, but allowing others to stand [ Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 C3d 800, 806-807, 94 CR 796, 484 P2d 964 ].
- Order denying motion to decertify class [see Occidental Land, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 18 C3d 355, 359-360, 134 CR 388, 556 P2d 750 ].

Timing:

Prior to a hearing or any action by the court [CCP § 1088.5].

Strategic Point--Petitioner:

If unsure whether a petition for a writ of mandate or an appeal is appropriate, file both.

33.40[2] Contents of Petition for Writ of Mandate. A petition for a writ of mandate should allege facts showing that:

- Petitioner is a beneficially interested party [ Funeral Directors Asso. v. Bd. of Funeral Dirs. &

Embalmers (1944) 67 CA2d 311, 313, 154 P2d 39 ].

- Proper grounds exist compelling performance of an act that the law specially enjoins [see CCP § 1085(a)].
- Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [see CCP § 1086].

XI. APPEALING ORDERS AND JUDGMENT

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.41

33.41 Appeal Final Disposition by Settlement or Judgment After Trial.

33.41[1] Unnamed Class Member Has Standing to Appeal on Behalf of Class. Because all class members are bound by the judgment, an unnamed class member need not obtain permission to intervene or be designated a named plaintiff prior to pursuing an appeal [ Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 43, 51, 75 CR3d 413 (appeal allowed despite denial of intervention); Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 CA4th 224, 235, 110 CR2d 145 (unnamed class members who appear at final fairness hearing and object to proposed settlement have standing to appeal)].

33.41[2] Standard of Review of Trial Court's Certification Order Is Abuse of Discretion. On appeal, a trial court's order of certification will not be reversed if it is supported by correct legal principles and is not an abuse of discretion such as [ Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 C4th 319, 326-327; Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 C4th 429, 435-436, 97 CR2d 179, 2 P3d 27; Reese v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (1999) 73 CA4th 1225, 1229, 87 CR2d 346 ]:

- The court used improper criteria to grant or deny certification.
- The court's order relies on erroneous legal assumptions.

33.41[3] Exception to Standard of Review for Order Denying Class Certification Requires Reviewing Court to Examine Trial Court's Reasoning. If a trial court has failed to follow a correct legal analysis when deciding to deny class certification, an appellate court is required to reverse the order even though there may be substantial evidence to support it [ Bartold v. Glendale Fed. Bank (2000) 81 CA4th 816, 828, 97 CR2d 226 (appellate court reviews only reasons given by trial court for its ruling on class certification and ignores any other grounds that might otherwise support the ruling)].

33.41[4] Standard of Review for Decision on Settlement Is Abuse of Discretion. A trial court has broad discretion to determine whether a class action settlement is fair and reasonable. Appellate review is limited to determining whether the record discloses a clear abuse of discretion by the trial court [ Kullar v. Foot Locker Retail, Inc. (2008) 168 CA4th 116, 128, 85 CR3d 20; Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 43, 51, 75 CR3d 413 ]. Great weight is accorded the trial court's views [ Kullar v. Foot Locker Retail, Inc. (2008) 168 CA4th 116, 128, 85 CR3d 20 ].

Chapter 33 Class Actions
XII. OBTAINING ATTORNEY'S FEES

3-33 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 33.43

33.43 Theories for Obtaining Fees.

33.43[1] Common Fund Theory. When a number of persons are entitled in common to a specific fund and an action brought by plaintiffs for the benefit of all results in the creation or preservation of that fund, plaintiffs may be awarded attorney's fees out of the fund [ Trope v. Katz (1995) 11 C4th 274, 279, 45 CR2d 241, 902 P2d 259 ; Serrano v. Priest (1978) 20 C3d 25, 35-38, 141 CR 315, 569 P2d 1303 ].

33.43[2] Private Attorney General Theory. An award can be made under the private attorney general theory [ Ketchum v. Moses (2001) 24 C4th 1122, 1131, 104 CR2d 377, 17 P3d 735 ]. Such an award is proper when [ Serrano v. Priest (1978) 20 C3d 25, 46-47, 141 CR 315, 569 P2d 1303 ]:

- The interests furthered by the action are constitutional;
- The benefits flowing from the action are to be widely enjoyed among citizens of the state; and
- Subsidization of plaintiffs is justified in the event of their victory.

On motion, a court may award attorney's fees in any action that has resulted in the enforcement of an important right affecting the public interest if [CCP § 1021.5]:

- A significant benefit has been conferred on the general public or a large class of persons;
- The necessity and financial burden of private enforcement, or of enforcement by one public entity against another public entity, are such as to make the award appropriate; and
- In the interest of justice the recovery should not be reduced by the fee.

Under CCP § 1021.5, a plaintiff may recover attorney's fees for services relating to administrative hearings and collateral litigation where these hearings or litigation are "intertwined inextricably" with the lawsuit, and the legal services performed are "both useful and necessary to the ultimate resolution of the action, and directly contributed to that resolution." Even the fees incurred defending against an amicus curiae brief that meets these standards may be recovered [ Ramon v. County of Santa Clara (2009) 173 CA4th 915, 923-925, 93 CR3d 278] .

Prerequisite:

Only an opposing party can be liable for attorney fees under CCP § 1021.5. Defining "opposing party" requires consideration of both the origin and the entire procedural history of the subject action between the parties. First, determine who is the successful party in favor of whom fees may be awarded. The courts utilize a broad, pragmatic view of what constitutes a "successful party" in order to effectuate the policy underlying CCP § 1021.5. It is the "impact" of the case as a whole that is to be considered. This must include a recognition of the roles of all the different participants or parties, as of all the relevant time periods. Once the successful party is ascertained, the "opposing party" is one party whose position in the litigation was adverse to that of the successful party [ McGuigan v. City of San Diego (2010) 183 CA4th 610, 624-626, 107 CR3d 554 (city-intervenor was not opposing party to successful party)]. Those found liable for CCP § 1021.5 fees have been either real parties in interest that had a direct interest in the litigation, the furtherance of which was generally at least partly responsible for the policy or practice that gave rise to the litigation, or codefendants with a direct interest intertwined with that of the principal defendant [ McGuigan v. City of San Diego (2010) 183 CA4th 610, 629, 107 CR3d 554] .

Trap:

Successful and opposing parties for purposes of the judgment are not necessarily the same as those on appeal for purposes of attorney fees under CCP § 1021.5 [ McGuigan v. City of San Diego (2010) 183 CA4th 610, 624-626, 107 CR3d 554 (successful party in the judgment was not entitled to additional fees for defense of judgment on appeal concerning an issue that did not affect its interests directly)].

33.43[3] Substantial Benefit Theory. When substantial benefits are conferred on defendant, defendant may be required to yield some of those benefits in the form of an award of attorney's fees [ Trope v. Katz (1995) 11 C4th 274, 279, 45 CR2d 241, 902 P2d 259 ; Serrano v. Priest (1978) 20 C3d 25, 34, 38-42, 141 CR 315, 569 P2d 1303 ]. Thus, an objector must establish his or her efforts produced a concrete benefit for the class, allowing it to recover more (or otherwise be in an improved position) than it would have in the absence of the objector's effort [ Consumer Privacy Cases (2009) 175 CA4th 545, 560, 96 CR3d 127] .

33.43[4] Lodestar Method Is Primary Method. The primary method for establishing the amount of "reasonable" attorney fees is the lodestar method. The lodestar (or touchstone) is produced by multiplying the number of hours reasonably expended by counsel by a reasonable hourly rate. Once the trial court fixes the lodestar, it may increase or decrease that amount by applying a positive or negative multiplier to take into account a variety of other factors, including the quality of the representation, the novelty and complexity of the issues, the results obtained, and the contingent risk presented. The purpose of this adjustment is to fix a fee at the fair market value for the particular action by determining, retrospectively, whether the litigation involved a contingent risk or required extraordinary legal skill justifying augmentation of the unadorned lodestar, in order to approximate the fair market rate for those services. Under certain circumstances, a lodestar calculation may be enhanced on the basis of a percentage-of-the-benefit analysis. To properly use the lodestar approach, the court requires plaintiffs' counsel to submit detailed support for their fee claims and to deny those claims found unsupported [ Consumer Privacy Cases (2009) 175 CA4th 545, 556-557, 96 CR3d 127 (objector failed to establish benefit to class)].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
I. STRATEGY

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.02

37.02 Objective and Strategy.

Voluntary settlement and compromise of a claim allows the parties to resolve a dispute before or after litigation begins. CCP § 998 provides specific procedures for settlement offers. A CCP § 998 offer raises the possibility that the responsibility for payment of costs and expert witness fees will shift to the other party.

Under CCP § 877, a good-faith settlement with less than all of the joint tortfeasor defendants reduces the potential liability of the nonsettling defendants by the amount of the settlement and releases the settling party from liability to the nonsettling defendants for contribution or equitable indemnity. A settling party can file a CCP § 877.6 motion to confirm that the settlement is in good faith to end any further involvement in the litigation. The settlement may also provide protection from other joint tortfeasors, even though they are not parties to the case. The settlement can be raised as a bar in a subsequent action or a nonparty may be given notice of a good-faith application for a motion.

General contract principles apply to settlement agreements, and a settlement agreement may be enforced in the same manner as any other contract or by a CCP § 664.6 motion. Parties to a settlement commonly execute a release agreement whereby the releasor agrees to relinquish a known claim. While under CC § 1542, a general release does not extend to claims that are unknown or unsuspected at the time of the execution of the release, all standard settlement agreements executed in California should include a waiver of the provisions of that statute.

For continuity, tactical reasons, and to avoid the filing of a separate action to enforce the agreement, parties often request the court to retain jurisdiction over the settlement agreement because absent this request the court loses jurisdiction once the underlying suit is dismissed.

Settlements before trial resolve more than 95% of all litigation. Even those cases that are tried are often ultimately resolved by settlement.

Early settlements promote the parties' interest in resolving the dispute before substantial litigation expense is incurred. But often the parties start a case with the extreme positions that prompted the plaintiff to file a complaint; the parties only recognize the strengths of their opponent's positions and the weaknesses of their own positions after some discovery and motion practice has occurred. Settlements often occur only after the case reaches the "courthouse steps," because it takes the imminence of a trial and the associated risk of loss to force the parties to realistically evaluate their positions. In the end, cases settle only when both sides conclude that on a cost-benefit basis settlement is preferable to taking the case to trial.

Tactical decisions often must be made as to whether the positions of the parties are close enough to merit disclosing evidence or arguments that would be more effectively made at trial under circumstances in which the other side may not be prepared. Generally a favorable settlement can be achieved only when the other side is convinced that a settlement will produce a more favorable result than proceeding to trial.

Civil litigation often involves a "zero-sum game" because the dispute is primarily a monetary dispute--what the plaintiff gets necessarily equals what the defendant must pay. But occasionally there are opportunities to devise creative settlement strategies where each side can maximize its interest without necessarily adversely affecting the opposing party's interest. The parties sometimes can achieve at least a partial "win-win" result by negotiating with consideration of the tax implications of the settlement. For example, a structured settlement can be used so that the defendant's purchase of an annuity contract is deductible by the defendant at the time of settlement, but taxable to the plaintiff only when the annuity payments are received by the plaintiff over a period of years. The parties may also be able to affect the tax implications of a settlement by making a defensible allocation in the settlement agreement between different types of payments--some of which are taxable and some of which are not.

Settlements usually are intended by the defendant to buy "complete peace" so the plaintiff never again "darkens the defendant's door." To achieve that goal, care is required to assure that the definition of the parties releasing claims and the parties being released are broad enough to assure that other individuals affiliated with the parties, such as agents and subsidiaries, are within the scope of the releasors and releasees. Although standard "boilerplate" may seem unnecessary, serious problems can result from a release that is not broad enough to protect individuals or entities affiliated with--and perhaps entitled to indemnity from--the settling party. Conversely, while it is customary to have a very broad definition of the claims released and to include a mutual release, it can be very important to assure that no inadvertent release of claims occurs. For example, a bank that enters a mutual release in an employment dispute would need to assure that it has not precluded itself from filing an action against the plaintiff if the plaintiff failed to make timely payments on the plaintiff's home or auto loan.

Judge's Perspective:

The Court is always looking for ways to assist the parties in an early resolution of the matter. From the court's perspective, this is the single most important opportunity in the life of the case that the court can facilitate. If counsel feel comfortable with the trial judge, then it would be wise to engage that judge in settlement discussions. While counsel will need to stipulate to have the trial judge serve in both capacities, the use of the trial judge has an added benefit, because the trial judge is familiar with the case and can candidly share thoughts about the case's strengths and weaknesses. The court should always be looking for opportunities to assist counsel in the resolution of the case.

37.04 Options and Strategies for Parties Considering Settlement.

A party making a settlement offer needs to evaluate a variety of factors. The factors include the potential value of the case and the likelihood of winning, taking into consideration the strength of the case on the law and evidence, including the potential effectiveness or weakness of crucial witness for both parties. The party responding to the offer will engage in essentially the same evaluation, but considering exposure as opposed to value.

If a party has interests that extend beyond the present case, another factor may appear. Resistance or amenability to settlement may be influenced by a party's desire to obtain a precedent, or to avoid setting one. In some instances, extreme animosity between the parties may be an obstacle.

In most cases in which an offer pursuant to CCP § 998 is made, the parties discuss resolution by some means other than the entry of judgment. Nevertheless, if there is a possibility that judgment can be taken against your client, the ramifications of the judgment should be thoroughly discussed with that client.

Judge's Perspective:

The single most important factor that counsel should be mindful of when formulating demands and offers is that whatever the figure is, make sure that credibility rings through the amount. Too often counsel forget that their conduct throughout the settlement process brings credibility into play, and if lost, the dynamics of settlement can be markedly affected.

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.05

37.05 CCP § 998 Offer Allows Judgment to Be Taken or an Award to Be Taken in Accordance With Certain Terms and Conditions.

37.05[1] 998 Offer Must Be Served No Less Than 10 Days Before Trial or Arbitration. An offer pursuant to CCP § 998 must be served not less than 10 days before the commencement of trial or contractual arbitration under CCP §§ 1281 (arbitration of contracts generally) or 1295 (arbitration of medical services contracts) [CCP § 998(b)].

Example:

An uninsured motorist arbitration pursuant to Ins Code § 11580.2, even though it is mandated by statute, is a contractual arbitration subject to the provisions of CCP § 1281, and therefore is an arbitration within the meaning of CCP § 998 and subject to the latter statute's cost-shifting provisions [ Pilimai v. Farmers Ins. Exchange Co. (2006) 39 C4th 133, 141-142, 45 CR3d 760, 137 P3d 939 ].

Timing:

For purposes of CCP § 998(b), a trial or arbitration is deemed to be commenced at the beginning of the opening statement of the plaintiff or counsel and, if there is no opening statement, at the time the oath or affirmation is administered to the first witness, or the introduction of any evidence [CCP § 998(b)(3)].

The time for serving an offer under CCP § 998 must be extended by the requisite number of days prescribed by CCP § 1013 before the commencement of the action for methods of service other than personal [ Lecuyer v. Sunset Trails Apts. (2004) 120 CA4th 920, 927 ]. However, no formal proof of service is required; and it is sufficient proof of mailing if the notice or other paper served by mail bears a notation of the date and place of mailing [ Berg v. Darden (2004) 120 CA4th 721, 733 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

CCP § 998 does not set any minimum period that must elapse following commencement of suit for service of a valid 998 offer [ Barba v. Perez (2008) 166 CA4th 444, 452, 82 CR3d 715 ]. Thus, an early 998 offer by the plaintiff that the defendant ignores may bind the defendant, even if the deadline for a response expires before the deadline for filing an answer in the action. However, the discretionary grant of costs is still subject to the requirement of reasonableness [see 37.15[2]]. In a decision enforcing a 998 offer against a defendant who had sufficient information about the reasonableness of the offer when it was made, the court of appeals suggested in dictum that a plaintiff's 998 offer in the absence of sufficient knowledge of the facts on the part of the defendant and the plaintiff's uncooperation with defendant's informal discovery requests for additional information may be grounds for denying costs [ Barba v. Perez (2008) 166 CA4th 444, 452, 82 CR3d 715 (998 served with complaint was binding after no response by defendant who had full information on plaintiff's damages)]. Accordingly, plaintiff may gain advantage by filing a complaint with detailed allegations with or closely followed by a reasonable 998 offer. An additional benefit of serving a 998 offer early is that interest on the judgment is calculated from the date of the 998 offer in personal injury cases [see CC § 3291], so the earlier the offer is served, the more interest accrues.

37.05[1A] Offer Must Be in Writing, State Terms and Conditions, and Allow for Acceptance Within It. A 998 offer must be in writing, include a statement of the offer, and state the terms and conditions of the judgment or award. The offer must also include a provision that allows the accepting party to indicate acceptance of the offer by signing a statement that the offer is accepted [CCP § 998(b)].

Strategic Point:

The offer does not have to dispose of all claims by or against the offeree [ Arno v. Helinet Corp. (2005) 130 CA4th 1019, 1026 (relief granted after rejection of offer regarding some claims)]. Furthermore, that the offer did not cover all claims has not resulted in a proration of the costs, fees, or interest awarded [see Arno v. Helinet Corp. (2005) 130 CA4th 1019, 1026 ]. However, in order that the court to determine whether the judgment is more favorable than the offer, counsel for the offeror of an offer covering only some claims should see to it that the terms of the judgment specify the relief granted for the particular claims encompassed in the offer separately from relief granted for other claims.

37.05[1B] Judicial Council Form May Be Used in Simple Cases. The Judicial Council has approved Form CIV-090, Offer to Compromise and Acceptance Under Code of Civil Procedure Section 998, for optional use in making and accepting 998 offers in simple cases. The form may be used in cases in which there is one plaintiff and one defendant and judgment is solely monetary.

Prerequisite:

Judicial Council Form CIV-090 requires that a proposed judgment be included with the completed form.

Cross Reference:

37.05[2] Party Who Makes Erroneous 998 Offer May Seek Relief From Judgment Entered Per Mistaken Offer. If a party makes a clerical error in a CCP § 998 offer to compromise, he or she may seek relief pursuant to the discretionary relief provision of CCP § 473(b) [ Zamora v. Clayborn Contracting Group, Inc. (2002) 28 C4th 249, 252, 121 CR2d 187, 47 P3d 1056 (party making offer was allowed to seek discretionary relief when legal assistant typed the word "against" instead of the phrase "in favor of" and therefore the document mistakenly offered to settle the case for a judgment against the attorney's client)].

37.05[3] Rejection of Offer May Affect Parties' Ability to Obtain Costs. CCP § 998 provides for withholding or augmenting of allowable costs pursuant to CCP §§ 1031 and 1032 and expert witness fees [CCP § 998(c)(1)(d)] when the party to whom the offer is made does not obtain a judgment or award more favorable than the offer.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of calculation of the amount of an award, see 37.12.

Allowable costs are set out in CCP § 1033.5 and include attorney's fees authorized by statute or by law and those recoverable under a contract [CCP § 1033.5(a)(10)]. In addition, rejection of the offer may entitle a personal injury plaintiff to recover interest. CC § 3291 provides for the payment of interest at 10 percent from the date of the first offer of judgment that is exceeded by the verdict.

Cross References:

Discussion of the effect of rejection of a 998 offer on costs, see 37.12.

Discussion of the award of prejudgment interest, see 37.14.

Warnings:

- The party making the offer to compromise should cite to CCP § 998 within the offer to put the opposing party on notice or the court may refuse to award costs to which the party would otherwise be entitled [ Stell v. Jay Hales Dev. Co. (1992) 11 CA4th 1214, 1231-1232, 15 CR2d 220 (settlement proposal making no reference to CCP § 998 and requiring an immediate response not a statutory CCP § 998 offer entitling party to expert witness fees)].

- Before making or responding to a 998 offer, discuss with your client the client's potential liability for costs (and in the case of a personal injury defendant, interest) triggered by the 998 offer. A client is not fully and fairly advised concerning the settlement offer without this information.

Strategic Points--Defendant:

- CCP § 998 offers are particularly important in contract disputes in which the contract provides that the prevailing party recovers attorneys' fees [see CC § 1717]. Attorneys' fees invariably are far larger than the amount of recoverable costs. CCP § 998 allows a party to redefine success and ultimately be viewed as the "prevailing party" [ Hsu v. Abbata (1995) 9 C4th 863, 876, 39 CR2d 824, 891 P2d 804 ]. A CCP § 998 offer of judgment is a particularly important procedure for a defendant who is a party to a contractual attorneys' fee provision and faced with a contract claim by a plaintiff that is likely to recover some amount of damages, but whose settlement demands are excessive. The plaintiff in that situation may pursue the claim and take an unreasonable settlement position because it is likely to recover its attorneys' fees. CCP § 998 allows a defendant in such a situation to turn the tables on such a plaintiff and create a risk that the plaintiff may be liable for the defendant's attorneys' fees.

■ If the defendant wishes to waive liability for contractual attorney's fees and costs, it should expressly so state in its 998 offer. If the defendant neglects to include a waiver of fees and costs in the 998 offer, the defendant may be liable for those items as postjudgment costs [see Ritzenthaler v. Fireside Thrift Co. (2001) 93 CA4th 986, 991, 113 CR2d 579 ].

37.06 Calculating Amount of 998 Offer.

Setting the amount of an offer of judgment under CCP § 998 can be difficult because the amount needs to be favorable enough to the other side that there is a reasonable likelihood of obtaining a result at trial that is more favorable to the client. If the ultimate result is not more favorable than the bar set by the offer, no cost-shifting will occur. The theoretically ideal CCP § 998 offer is one dollar more favorable to the other side than the ultimate outcome. As a result, defendants sometimes offer a round number plus one dollar ($1,000,001) and plaintiffs offer a round number minus one dollar ($999,999). Often the purpose of a CCP § 998 offer is to "up the stakes" and to create some downside to the opposing party for taking an unreasonable settlement position based on the gamble that a jury might reach an unusual result. But if the offer is not close enough to the other party, the other party will not feel any pressure as a result of the increased stakes. Also, when calculating the offer, be sure to account for costs that may put you over or under your initial calculations.

Prior to making a CCP § 998 offer to compromise, it is important to properly evaluate the amount you are requesting. Several resources are available to assist you in determining what the value should be. Among them are the use of jury reporting services, speaking with fellow counsel, and having a firm understanding of the nature and extent of the damages and economic factors in the underlying litigation. Because the strategic significance of a CCP § 998 offer to compromise cannot be overstated, you must perform your due diligence before ever proposing a settlement figure.

Preparing for Negotiation of a Damages Demand Using Online Resources:

Many resources are available online for researching recent verdicts and settlements that can help you propose a reasonable demand for damages or assess your opponent's demand. Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.07

37.07 Joint 998 Offers Are Permissible.

37.07[1] Joint Offers Must Be Unconditional. A joint 998 offer, either by a single party to multiple parties or by multiple parties to a single party, must be unconditional [ Hutchins v. Waters (1975) 51 CA3d 69, 72-74, 123 CR 819 ]. For example, an offer to multiple parties may not be conditioned on acceptance by all of them [ Burch v. Children's Hosp. of Orange County Thrift Stores, Inc. (2003) 109 CA4th 537, 544, 135 CR2d 404 ].

The conditionality of an offer can be implied from the nature of the offer [ Menees v. Andrews (2004) 122 CA4th 1540, 1546 ]. The offering party has the burden of showing that a joint offer is unconditional [ Menees v. Andrews (2004) 122 CA4th 1540, 1546 ].

37.07[2] Offer May Be Made to or by Multiple Plaintiffs.

37.07[2][a] Offer by Single Defendant to Multiple Plaintiffs Must Designate the Amount Offered to Each Plaintiff. A 998 offer to multiple plaintiffs must designate the amount offered to each plaintiff or it is a nullity [ Randles v. Lowry (1970) 4 CA3d 68, 74, 84 CR 321 ; Meissner v. Paulson (1989) 212 CA3d 785, 791, 260 CR 826 ].

Exception:

Where there is more than one plaintiff, a defendant may still extend a single, joint offer, conditioned on acceptance by all of them, if the separate plaintiffs have a unity of interest such that there is a single, indivisible injury [ Peterson v. John Crane, Inc. (2007) 154 CA4th 498, 505, 65 CR3d 185 ].

Distinguish:

A separate 998 offer or an apportioned and unconditional joint offer only has to be extended to each party, not to each capacity of multiple capacities in which a singular individual may choose to sue. Thus, only a single offer to more than one person must generally be apportioned and unconditional [ Peterson v. John Crane, Inc. (2007) 154 CA4th 498, 506-512, 65 CR3d 185 ].

37.07[2][b] Offer Made by Multiple Plaintiffs Must Apportion Amount Demanded. A 998 offer made by multiple plaintiffs must apportion the amount demanded among all the plaintiffs so that it can be determined whether any plaintiff received a more favorable amount at trial [ Hurlbut v. Sonora Cmty. Hosp. (1989) 207 CA3d 388, 409-410, 254 CR 840 ].

Exception:

At least one court has refused to apply this rule when the sole plaintiff whose case was tried was awarded damages in excess of the entire 998 offer to all plaintiffs [ Fortman v. Hemco, Inc. (1989) 211 CA3d 241, 262-263, 259 CR 311 ].

Exception:

Courts have split on whether this rule should apply in wrongful death actions [see, e.g., Stallman v. Bell (1991) 235 CA3d 740, 745-747, 286 CR 755 (court stated there is a single verdict in wrongful death action to be compared to single offer); Canavin v. Pacific Southwest Airlines (1983) 148 CA3d 512, 529-530, 196 CR 82 (court stated proper procedure was for court to apportion, in separate proceeding, the amount awarded in the verdict among various plaintiffs); Gilman v. Beverly Cal. Corp. (1991) 231 CA3d 121, 124-126, 283 CR 17 (joint offer void because wrongful death action is not joint cause of action, but merely involves compulsory joinder of the separate causes of action of each heir-plaintiff); Smith v. Premier Alliance Ins. Co. (1995) 41 CA4th 691, 698, 48 CR2d 461 (court has authority to apportion settlement)].

37.07[3] Offer May Be Made to or by Multiple Defendants.

37.07[3][a] Multiple Defendants May Make Joint 998 Offer to Single Plaintiff. Multiple defendants sued on a joint and several liability theory may make a joint offer to compromise to a single plaintiff, with all defendants to be released on acceptance of the offer [ Santantonio v. Westinghouse Broad. Co. (1994) 25 CA4th 102, 114-116, 30 CR2d 486 ; Brown v. Nolan (1979) 98 CA3d 445, 449-451, 159 CR 469 ].

Warning:

This is complicated by the fact that Proposition 51 eliminated joint and several liability for noneconomic damages. In cases involving noneconomic damages (e.g., pain and suffering), multiple defendants will have potentially varying liability for those damages [see CC § 1431.2].

Cross References:

Discussion of Proposition 51, see 37.24.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution (Matthew Bender).

37.07[3][b] Single Plaintiff May Make 998 Offer to Multiple Defendants. A plaintiff seeking damages against multiple defendants may make separate 998 offers to each defendant. However, in order for the 998 offer to trigger the penalties for nonacceptance, the offer must be sufficiently specific to determine the exact amount that the plaintiff is seeking from each defendant [ Palmer v. Schindler Elevator Corp. (2003) 108 CA4th 154, 157, 133 CR2d 339 ; Taing v. Johnson Scaffolding Co. (1992) 9 CA4th 579, 586, 11 CR2d 820 ].

Exception:

A 998 offer made to a married couple asserting damage to a singular interest in community property does not have to be allocated between husband and wife [ Vick v. Dacorsi (2003) 110 CA4th 206, 208 ]. However, a requirement of joint acceptance by plaintiffs who are a married couple makes the joint offer impermissibly conditioned upon joint acceptance [ Menees v. Andrews (2004) 122 CA4th 1540, 1544 ].

Warnings:

A plaintiff's lump sum offer to multiple defendants having potentially varying liability will not qualify as a valid 998 offer [ Burch v. Children's Hosp. of Orange County Thrift Stores, Inc. (2003) 109 CA4th

537, 547, 135 CR2d 404 ].

Note that Proposition 51 eliminated joint and several liability for noneconomic damages. In cases involving noneconomic damages (e.g., pain and suffering), multiple defendants will have potentially varying liability for those damages [see CC § 1431.2].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

If there is any possibility that the defendants will have varying liability, either serve separate 998 offers on each defendant or serve a single but apportioned offer on all defendants.

37.07[3][c] Plaintiff May Make 998 Offer to Fewer Than All Defendants. A plaintiff may also make a 998 offer to fewer than all defendants. The offer to a particular defendant may take into account the defendant's liability for the conduct of other defendants due to the principles of vicarious liability [ Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 C4th 644, 658 n9, 25 CR2d 109, 863 P2d 179 ; Bihun v. AT&T Info. Sys., Inc. (1993) 13 CA4th 976, 1000-1001, 16 CR2d 787 (involving 998 offers made to employer based on conduct of both employer and employee for which employer was liable under a vicarious liability theory)].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.08

37.08 Acceptance of 998 Offer Leads to Judgment.

37.08[1] 998 Offer Must Be Filed With Court When Offer Is Accepted. An accepted 998 offer must be filed, with proof of acceptance, with the court in which the action is pending, and the clerk or judge must enter the judgment accordingly [CCP § 998(b)(1)].

Exception:

If the settlement provides for a dismissal terminating the plaintiff's action with prejudice, there will be no "judgment" for the court to enter [see 37.08[4]].

If the matter is an arbitration, the offer with proof of acceptance must be filed with the arbitrator or arbitrators who must promptly render an award accordingly [CCP § 998(b)(1)].

37.08[2] Judgment Entered Pursuant to 998 Offer Operates as Bar. A judgment or award entered pursuant to CCP § 998 operates as a bar to the reopening of the original controversy [ County of Los Angeles v. Law Bldg. Corp. (1967) 254 CA2d 848, 853, 62 CR 542 (compromise agreement resulting in dismissal); Klinker v. Klinker (1955) 132 CA2d 687, 695, 283 P2d 83 (judgment by stipulation)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of judgments operating as a bar to reopening a controversy, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 491, Res Judicata (Matthew Bender).

37.08[3] Acceptance of 998 Offer Must Be Communicated to Offeror.

37.08[3][a] Service of Acceptance Not Required. CCP § 998 does not require service of an acceptance; rather, the acceptance of an offer must be communicated to the offeror to become effective. Consent is deemed to be fully communicated as soon as the party accepting the proposal has put his or her acceptance in the course of transmission to the proposer [CC § 1582; Drouin v. Fleetwood Enters. (1985) 163 CA3d 486, 491, 209 CR 623 ].

37.08[3][b] Written Acceptance Is Required by Statute. Effective January 1, 2006, any acceptance of a 998 offer, whether made on the document containing the offer or on a separate document of acceptance, must be in writing and signed by counsel for the accepting party or, if not represented by counsel, by the accepting party [CCP § 998(b)]. Under prior case decisions applying the general statutes on consent to contract [see CC § 1582], any mode of communicating acceptance was appropriate unless the offer specifies a certain mode [CC § 1582; Hofer v. Young (1995) 38 CA4th 52, 56-57, 45 CR2d 27]. Acceptance must be communicated in a clear and unequivocal fashion [ Gray v. Stewart (2002) 97 CA4th 1394, 1397, 119 CR2d 217; Bias v. Wright (2002) 103 CA4th 811, 817-821, 127 CR2d 137 (a purported oral acceptance evidenced by a written acceptance that includes an additional term not present in the 998 offer is not absolute and unequivocal)].

Cross Reference:

Form of Notice of Acceptance of Offer to Compromise, see 37.64.

37.08[3][c] Local Rules Specifying Methods of Service Are Irrelevant for Purposes of 998 Offer

Acceptances. Because acceptance of a 998 offer is not required to be served, general contract principles govern acceptance of such offers rather than the local rules specifying methods of service [CC § 1582; Drouin v. Fleetwood Enters. (1985) 163 CA3d 486, 491, 209 CR 623].

Example:

In a case where defendants faxed and mailed an acceptance of plaintiff's 998 offer two days before the 35-day time limit and the letter had the wrong zip code and therefore did not arrive in time, the acceptance by fax was still valid despite the fact that service by fax was not allowed in defendants' county. CCP § 998 does not require that an acceptance be served, and therefore it was irrelevant that the county local rules did not permit fax service. Under general principles of contract law, the 998 offer was deemed accepted on dispatch [ Hofer v. Young (1995) 38 CA4th 52, 56-57, 45 CR2d 27 ].

37.08[4] Dismissal With Prejudice May Serve as Equivalent of Judgment. A dismissal with prejudice can serve as the equivalent of a judgment against the defendant for purposes of CCP § 998 [ Goodstein v. Bank of San Pedro (1994) 27 CA4th 899, 905-906, 32 CR2d 740 ].

Example:

A Court of Appeal has upheld the validity of a section 998 offer made with the following terms [ Goodstein v. Bank of San Pedro (1994) 27 CA4th 899, 905-906, 32 CR2d 740 ]:

"In full settlement of this action, [Bank] hereby offers to pay [Goodstein] the total sum of $150,000 in exchange for each of the following: [P] 1. The entry of a Request for Dismissal with prejudice on behalf of the Plaintiff in favor of [Bank]; [P] 2. The execution and transmittal of a General Release by [Goodstein] in favor of [Bank]; [P] 3. Each party is to bear their own respective costs and attorney's fees."

Strategic Point:

While a judgment or award entered pursuant to 998 is deemed to be a "compromised" settlement, it may provide little comfort to the defendant, particularly if the defendant is a professional or for business reasons does not wish to have a judgment entered. One alternative is to serve a section 998 offer providing for entry of dismissal with prejudice, as in the example above. The heading for the offer should indicate that the offer is being made pursuant to the Goodstein v. San Pedro case, and a general release should be attached. Caution should be exercised, however: the addition of too many terms to such a release will likely invalidate the 998 offer.

37.08[5] Statutory Costs and Fees Not Available Only If Accepted 998 Offer Bars Them. A party who secures a recovery by accepting a CCP § 998 offer is entitled to statutory costs and fees unless they are excluded by the offer [

Engle v. Copenbarger & Copenbarger, LLP (2007) 157 CA4th 165, 169, 68 CR3d 461 ]. If an accepted 998 offer is silent on costs and fees, the prevailing party is entitled to costs and, if authorized by statute or contract, fees [ Engle v. Copenbarger & Copenbarger, LLP (2007) 157 CA4th 165, 168, 68 CR3d 461 (denial of costs and fees reversed); Rappenecker v. Sea Land Service, Inc. (1979) 93 CA3d 256, 263, 155 CR 516 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.09

37.09 998 Offer Expires After 30 Days.

If a 998 offer is not accepted prior to trial or within 30 days after it is made, whichever occurs first, it must be deemed withdrawn and cannot be mentioned at trial [CCP § 998(b)(2)]. The 30 day period is extended by five days if the offer is served by mail [CCP § 1013(a); Poster v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1990) 52 C3d 266, 272-275, 276 CR 321, 801 P2d 1072 ].

Absent an unequivocal rejection of a 998 offer, the offer remains effective and may be accepted until it has been revoked or until it expires [ Guzman v. Visalia Cmty. Bank (1999) 71 CA4th 1370, 1378, 84 CR2d 581 (offeree's criticism of a 998 offer does not operate as a rejection that terminates the offer); Nott v. Superior Court (1988) 204 CA3d 1102, 1108-1109, 251 CR 842 (offeree's expression of displeasure at a 998 offer during judicial arbitration does not constitute an express rejection that would terminate a 998 offer and the offer may still be accepted by the offeree following the arbitration)].

Warning:

CCP § 998 does not set any minimum period that must elapse following commencement of suit for service of a valid 998 offer [ Barba v. Perez (2008) 166 CA4th 444, 452, 82 CR3d 715 ]. Thus, the plaintiff may serve a 998 offer with the complaint that is binding on the defendant, even if the deadline for a response expires before the deadline for filing an answer in the action. The defendant therefore must not ignore or overlook any early 998 offer from the plaintiff. However, the discretionary grant of costs is still subject to the requirement of reasonableness [see 37.15[2]]. In a decision enforcing a 998 offer against a defendant who had sufficient information about the reasonableness of the offer when it was made, the court of appeals suggested in dictum that a plaintiff's 998 offer in the absence of sufficient knowledge of the facts on the part of the defendant and the plaintiff's uncooperation with defendant's informal discovery requests for additional information may be grounds for denying costs. The court also suggested that the defendant would be expected to request informal discovery of the facts, if not known by the defendant, and to request additional time in which to evaluate an offer, if time is needed to do so or to undertake the informal discovery [ Barba v. Perez (2008) 166 CA4th 444, 452, 82 CR3d 715 (998 served with complaint was binding after no response by defendant who had full information on plaintiff's damages)].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

An additional consideration in determining defendant's response to the early service of a 998 offer is that interest on the judgment is calculated from the date of the 998 offer in personal injury cases [see CC § 3291], so the earlier the offer is served, the more interest accrues on any subsequent judgment.

II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.10

37.10 Party May Revoke 998 Offer Before Acceptance.

An offeror may make an express revocation of a 998 offer before it expires or before acceptance [ T.M. Cobb Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 C3d 273, 280-282, 204 CR 143, 682 P2d 338 ; see also Estate of Watts (1984) 162 CA3d 1160, 1162-1165, 208 CR 846 ].

Warning:

An offer revoked before the expiration of the period statutorily specified by CCP § 998(b)(2) forfeits its status as a 998 offer subject under the remaining provisions of § 998 to the cost-shifting provisions [ Marcey v. Romero (2007) 148 CA4th 1211, 1216 ].

Additionally, an unexpired but still unaccepted 998 offer is necessarily revoked and superseded by a subsequent different offer [ Distefano v. Hall (1968) 263 CA2d 380, 385, 69 CR 691 ; T.M. Cobb Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 36 C3d 273, 279, 204 CR 143, 682 P2d 338 ]. Even if the subsequent different offer is legally invalid, it will operate to extinguish any earlier offers [ Palmer v. Schindler Elevator Corp. (2003) 108 CA4th 154, 158-159, 133 CR2d 339 (second offer was improperly directed to multiple defendants jointly and severally)].

An offeree's counteroffer does not terminate a 998 offer. The offeree can continue to negotiate regarding the offer during the 30-day period and still accept the original offer unless it is expressly revoked or rejected [ Poster v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit Dist. (1990) 52 C3d 266, 270-272, 276 CR 321, 801 P2d 1072 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.12

37.12 Party Rejecting 998 Offer Must Obtain More Favorable Judgment or Pay Specified Costs of Other Party.

37.12[1] Plaintiff Who Rejects 998 Offer and Fails to Obtain More Favorable Judgment Does Not Recover Postoffer Costs and Must Pay Defendant's Postoffer Costs.

37.12[1][a] Plaintiff Does Not Recover Postoffer Costs. A plaintiff who does not accept a defendant's 998 offer and fails to obtain a more favorable award or judgment does not recover his or her postoffer costs [CCP § 998(c)(1)].

A specific statutory provision allowing the award of costs does not trump 998 if its language can be reconciled with the provisions of CCP § 998 [see Murillo v. Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc. (1998) 17 C4th 985, 989-990, 73 CR2d 682, 953 P2d 858 (provisions of CC § 1794(d) reconcilable with 998); Duale v. Mercedes-Benz USA, LLC (2007) 148 CA4th 718, 726, 56 CR3d 19 (provisions of CC § 1794(d) reconcilable with 998)].

37.12[1][b] Plaintiff Must Pay Defendant's Postoffer Costs. A plaintiff who does not accept a defendant's 998 offer and fails to obtain a more favorable award or judgment must pay defendant's postoffer costs [CCP § 998(c)(1); Duale v. Mercedes-Benz USA, LLC (2007) 148 CA4th 718, 726, 56 CR3d 19 ]. If the plaintiff prevails, but is awarded an amount less than the defendant's 998 offer, the defendant's costs are deducted from any damages awarded to plaintiff, and if the costs awarded to defendant exceed plaintiff's damages, the net amount is awarded to defendant and judgment is entered accordingly [CCP § 998(e)].

Example:

CCP § 998 does not grant greater rights to attorney's fees than those provided by the underlying statute [ Mangano v. Verity, Inc. (2008) 167 CA4th 944, 951, 84 CR3d 526 ; Ford Motor Credit Co. v. Hunsberger (2008) 163 CA4th 1526, 1530, 78 CR3d 661 (CC § 1717(b)(2) bars award of contractual attorney fees under 998 after voluntary dismissal)]. It instead merely expands the group of those who are treated as prevailing parties and who therefore may be entitled to attorney's fees as prevailing parties under the authorizing statute [ Mangano v. Verity, Inc. (2008) 167 CA4th 944, 951, 84 CR3d 526 ].

➡ Cross References:

Discussion regarding costs, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 24, Costs; California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 174, Costs and Attorney's Fees

37.12[1][c] Postoffer Costs Excluded in Determining Whether Plaintiff Obtained More Favorable Judgment.

In determining whether the plaintiff obtained a more favorable judgment, the court or arbitrator must exclude the postoffer costs [CCP § 998(c)(2)(A)].

37.12[1][d] Before Awarding Costs When There Has Been a Joint Offer, Court Must Be Able to Apportion Offer.

In the case of a joint offer made by or to multiple parties, the court must be able to apportion the offer to determine whether any party obtained a more favorable judgment, and if the court does not have the evidence to do so, it will not award 998 costs or fees [ Hurlbut v. Sonora Cmty. Hosp. (1989) 207 CA3d 388, 409-410, 254 CR 840 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of joint offers, see 37.07.

37.12[1][e] Postoffer Payments Added to Judgment.

A defendant's postoffer payment must be added to the jury's award to determine whether the plaintiff obtained a more favorable judgment than the amount of the defendant's § 998 offer [ Arias v. Katella Townhouse Homeowners Assn., Inc. (2005) 127 CA4th 847, 854 ].

Examples:

- Postoffer payments for property damage added to judgment on tort and contract claims [ Arias v. Katella Townhouse Homeowners Assn., Inc. (2005) 127 CA4th 847, 850 ].

- When a defendant in a contract action on a debt makes a CCP § 998 offer that is not accepted, and subsequently makes a voluntary payment on the debt that is the subject of the action, this payment must be included with any judgment later awarded in plaintiff's favor when determining whether the judgment is less favorable than the settlement offer [ Mesa Forest Prods., Inc. v. St. Paul Mercury Ins. Co. (1999) 73 CA4th 324, 334-335, 86 CR2d 398 ].

37.12[1][f] Nonmonetary Elements Must Be Considered in Calculation of Award.

With respect to an award of costs to the prevailing party, CCP § 1032(a)(4) specifically permits the trial court to determine who is the prevailing party when a party recovers other than monetary relief by putting a monetary value on the nonmonetary relief [ Arias v. Katella Townhouse Homeowners Assn., Inc. (2005) 127 CA4th 847, 856 (injunction)]. When a CCP § 998 offer includes a nonmonetary component, the offer must be evaluated in light of all the terms and conditions attached to it, and not just the monetary component, in order to determine whether the plaintiff has received a more favorable judgment. When the reverse is true, i.e., the offer contains only a monetary offer, but the relief recovered is both monetary and nonmonetary, the trial court must also consider the offer in light of the totality of the recovery [ Arias v. Katella Townhouse Homeowners Assn., Inc. (2005) 127 CA4th 847, 855-856 ].

37.12[2] Defendant Who Rejects 998 Offer and Fails to Obtain More Favorable Judgment May Be Ordered to Pay Plaintiff's Costs. If an offer made by a plaintiff is not accepted and the defendant fails to obtain a more favorable judgment or award, the court or arbitrator has discretion to order the defendant to pay a reasonable sum to cover plaintiff's costs [CCP § 998(d); Pilimai v. Farmers Ins. Exchange Co. (2006) 39 C4th 133, 151 (expert, deposition, and exhibit costs); Arno v. Helinet Corp. (2005) 130 CA4th 1019, 1023-1024 (award upheld); Berg v. Darden (2004) 120 CA4th 721, 726 (denial of award reversed)].

Exception:

This rule does not apply in eminent domain actions [CCP § 998(d)].

Distinguish:

Although a plaintiff who rejects a 998 offer and fails to obtain a more favorable judgment must pay defendant only his or her postoffer costs [see 37.12[2]], CCP § 998(d) does not impose a "postoffer" restriction on recovery of plaintiff's costs upon the defendant's failure to obtain a more favorable judgment than a 998 offer that the defendant has rejected.

When a CCP § 998 offer is withdrawn by a party prior to its statutory expiration, the withdrawing party's right to cost-shifting under CCP § 998 is to be determined by the last rejected § 998 offer [ One Star, Inc. v. STARR Surgical Co. (2009) 179 CA4th 1082, 1094, 102 CR3d 195 ] .

37.12[3] Offeree Has Burden of Showing Any Defect Claimed as Basis for Rejection. The offeree rejecting a 998 offer on the basis of a defect in the offer probably has the burden of proof of the defect, including ambiguities in the legal sufficiency of an offer [see Peterson v. John Crane, Inc. (2007) 154 CA4th 498, 506 n.8, 65 CR3d 185 ("it would be consistent with the settlement purposes of section 998 for an offeree to clarify any perceived ambiguity of an offer with the offeror")].

Strategic Point:

Counsel for an offeree who has questions about an offer that bear on its validity under CCP § 998 should consider seeking a written clarification or stipulation from the offeror as to any ambiguity or legal sufficiency of the offer. If the offeror refuses clarification or stipulation concerning the legal sufficiency or ambiguity of a 998 offer, counsel should seek a ruling from the trial court along with an extension of time to accept or reject the offer until the question is resolved. Otherwise, counsel risks a ruling that an offer rejected as legal insufficient is actually valid [see, e.g., Peterson v. John Crane, Inc. (2007) 154 CA4th 498, 506-512, 65 CR3d 185 ].

37.13 Court May Order Party to Pay Other Party's Expert Costs When 998 Offer Is Not Accepted and Offeree Fails to Obtain More Favorable Judgment.

If either party fails to accept the other party's 998 offer and that party does not obtain a more favorable award or judgment, the court or arbitrator, in its discretion, may require the party to pay a reasonable sum to cover costs of the service of expert witnesses, who are not regular employees of any party, actually incurred and reasonably necessary for preparation and presentation of the offering party's case for trial or arbitration [CCP § 998(c)(1), (d); Santantonio v. Westinghouse Broad. Co. (1994) 25 CA4th 102, 121, 30 CR2d 486 ; Weisman v. Blue Shield of Cal. (1984) 163 CA3d 61, 68, 209 CR 169 ].

Exception:

This rule does not apply in eminent domain actions [CCP § 998(c)(1), (d)].

Exception:

Expert witness fees may not be awarded in action claiming under federal statute barring awards of expert witness fees [ Kinsey v. Union Pacific Rail. Co. (2009) 178 CA4th 201, 205-207, 100 CR3d 253 ; Miller v. Union Pacific Railroad Co. (2007) 147 CA4th 451, 458, 53 CR3d 893 ].

Distinguish:

While the defendant must only pay postoffer costs of plaintiff's expert witnesses [CCP § 998(d)], the corresponding provision concerning the plaintiff's payment of defendant's expert fees does not impose a "postoffer" restriction on recovery of expert witness fees [ Regency Outdoor Advertising, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (2006) 39 C4th 507, 533, 46 CR3d 742 (order directing plaintiff's payment of defendant's expert witness fees may apply to fees incurred before as well as after the 998 offer); see CCP § 998(c)(1)].

The costs for services of expert witnesses may not exceed those specified in Gov Code § 68092.5 [CCP § 998(h)]; see also Evers v. Cornelson (1984) 163 CA3d 310, 314-320, 209 CR 497 ]. Fees may not be assessed with respect to a witness who testifies both as a percipient witness and an expert witness [ Stiles v. Estate of Ryan (1985) 173 CA3d 1057, 1067, 219 CR 647 ].

Distinguish--Split of Authority:

Whether the ability of the assessed party to pay expert witness fees is a proper factor for the court to consider in discerning the reasonableness of the amount of a fee award is the subject of a split in opinion in the Court of Appeals. Division Seven of the Second Appellate District has ruled that when opposing parties possess vastly disparate economic resources, the trial court may "scale" the award to their respective resources [ Seever v. Copley Press, Inc. (2006) 141 CA4th 1550, 1561-1562, 47 CR3d 206 ]. In contrast, Division One of the First Appellate District declined to write such a "judicial gloss" into the statute [ Clark v. Optical Coating Laboratory, Inc. (2008) 165 CA4th 150, 186, 80 CR3d 812 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.14

37.14 Defendant Who Does Not Accept 998 Offer and Fails to Obtain More Favorable Judgment Must Pay Plaintiff Prejudgment Interest in Personal Injury Actions.

37.14[1] CC § 3291 Applies in "Personal Injury" Actions. CC § 3291, which authorizes the award of prejudgment interest to a plaintiff in addition to costs when a defendant fails to accept plaintiff's 998 offer and fails to obtain a more favorable judgment, applies only in actions brought to recover damages for personal injury, whether by negligence or by willful intent and whether the injury was fatal or otherwise [CC § 3291].

37.14[2] Definition of "Personal Injury" Depends on Nature of Action. The definition of "personal injury" for purposes of CC § 3291 depends on the nature of the action but is broader than simply bodily injury [ Holmes v. General Dynamics Corp. (1993) 17 CA4th 1418, 1435-1437, 22 CR2d 172 ].

Examples:

The following are examples of cases in which prejudgment interest has or has not been allowed.

- Not allowed for contractual action against one's own insurance company to recover compensation for a personal injury [ Pilimai v. Farmers Ins. Exchange Co. (2006) 39 C4th 133, 147 ].

- Not allowed in actions that essentially involve invasion of a property right, even though damages for incidental emotional distress may be recoverable [ Gourley v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. (1991) 279 CR 307, 806 P2d 1342 (not allowed for insurance bad-faith claim)].

- Allowed when claims of emotional distress are not merely incidental to an invasion of a property interest, such as defamation claims [ Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 C4th 644, 657 n8, 25 CR2d 109, 863 P2d 179 ; O'Hara v. Storer Communications, Inc. (1991) 231 CA3d 1101, 1117-1119, 282 CR 712 ].

- Allowed in actions brought on a strict products liability theory [ Fortman v. Hemco, Inc. (1989) 211 CA3d 241, 262, 259 CR 311 ].

● Not allowed on claims for wrongful termination of employment in violation of public policy [ Holmes v. General Dynamics Corp. (1993) 17 CA4th 1418, 1435-1437, 22 CR2d 172 ].

37.14[3] Award May Be Allocated Between Personal Injury and Other Injury in Mixed Actions. In actions involving damages for personal injury and other damages, the award must be allocated because prejudgment interest may be awarded only on the personal injury portion [CC § 3291].

The plaintiff bears the burden of proving what portion of the judgment constitutes damages for personal injury [ Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 C4th 644, 661, 25 CR2d 109, 863 P2d 179 ].

Prejudgment interest is not computed on a punitive damages award [ Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 C4th 644, 662-664, 25 CR2d 109, 863 P2d 179 ].

Warning:

In a case of a mixed action, request special jury findings to allocate the damages awarded among the various injuries [ Morin v. ABA Recovery Service, Inc. (1987) 195 CA3d 200, 211-212 ].

37.14[4] [Reserved]

37.14[5] CC § 3291 Does Not Apply to Public Entity or Employee. CC § 3291 does not apply to a public entity or a public employee for an act or omission within the scope of his or her employment [CC § 3291].

37.14[6] Award Is Mandatory If Statutory Conditions Are Met. If a plaintiff makes a CCP § 998 offer that defendant fails to accept within 30 days or prior to trial, whichever occurs first, and then obtains a more favorable judgment, the plaintiff is entitled to prejudgment interest in addition to costs [CC § 3291]. This is so even if defendant ultimately offers to settle for an amount that exceeds the judgment [ Morin v. ABA Recovery Serv., Inc. (1987) 195 CA3d 200, 205-207, 240 CR 509 ].

37.14[7] Complaint Need Not Include Prayer for Prejudgment Interest. Plaintiff's complaint need not include a prayer for prejudgment interest in order for CC § 3291 to be applicable [ Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 C4th 644, 662 n12, 25 CR2d 109, 863 P2d 179 ].

37.14[8] Prejudgment Interest Is Calculated According to the Statute. Prejudgment interest is calculated at the legal rate of 10 percent per annum, calculated from the date of the plaintiff's first CCP § 998 offer that is exceeded by the judgment, and interest accrues until the judgment is satisfied [CC § 3291; Ray v. Goodman (2006) 142 CA4th 83, 91-92, 47 CR3d 659 ]. However, regardless of the number of defendants, plaintiff is entitled to only one assessment of prejudgment interest on the entire judgment [ Cadlo v. Metalclad Insulation Corp., (2009) 172 CA4th 1040, 1046, 1047, 91 CR3d 653 ].

Prejudgment interest accrued under CC § 3291 is not considered part of the judgment, and a plaintiff may not obtain interest on this prejudgment interest [ Hess v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 27 C4th 516, 530-533, 117 CR2d 220, 41 P3d 46 ; Steinfeld v. Foote-Goldman Proctologic Med. Group, Inc. (1997) 60 CA4th 13, 23, 70 CR2d 41 ].

Furthermore, the 10 percent interest rate of CC § 3291 cannot be combined with the 10 percent interest rate of CCP § 685.010(a) (post-judgment interest) [ Mendez v. Kurten (1985) 170 CA3d 481, 487, 215 CR 924 ].

37.14[9] Policy Limits Offer by Insurer Terminates Obligation to Pay Prejudgment Interest. A policy limits offer by an insurer terminates any obligation to pay prejudgment interest assessed against the insured [ State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. v. Crane (1990) 217 CA3d 1127, 1134-1138, 266 CR 422 ].

37.14[10] Prejudgment Interest Excluded in Determining Whether Plaintiff Obtained More Favorable

Judgment. In determining whether plaintiff obtained a more favorable judgment than the defendant's 998 offer, prejudgment interest accruing after the 998 offer has been made is excluded from the judgment [ Bodell Constr. Co. v. Trustees of the Cal. State Univ. (1998) 62 CA4th 1508, 1523-1527, 73 CR2d 450 ].

II. MAKING A SETTLEMENT OFFER PURSUANT TO CCP § 998

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.15

37.15 CCP § 998 Offers Subject to Reasonableness Requirement.

37.15[1] Party May Not Claim Costs After Unreasonable 998 Offer. Because CCP § 998 offers are subject to a good faith or reasonableness requirement, a party may not make an unreasonable settlement offer and then claim costs when the offeree rejects the offer and fails to obtain a more favorable judgment [ Clark v. Optical Coating Laboratory, Inc. (2008) 165 CA4th 150, 185, 80 CR3d 812 (defendant's offer); Arno v. Helinet Corp. (2005) 130 CA4th 1019, 1024-1025 (plaintiff's offer)].

Example:

Plaintiff brings a tort action against Defendants A, B, and C. Defendant A makes a settlement offer of $15,001, which Plaintiff does not accept. Plaintiff then settles the case with B and C. The jury finds that Plaintiff suffered damages exceeding $1,000,000, but after taking into effect Plaintiff's comparative fault and the damages already recovered as a result of the settlements, the net judgment is that Plaintiff take nothing from A. Assuming that Plaintiff can establish that A's offer of $15,001 was a token or nominal offer, A will not be able to claim costs from Plaintiff under CCP § 998, even though Plaintiff failed to obtain a "more favorable judgment" from A [see Elrod v. Oregon Cummins Diesel, Inc. (1987) 195 CA3d 692, 696-698, 241 CR 108 ].

37.15[2] Offer Measured by Objective Tests. In evaluating whether a 998 offer is reasonable, courts consider (1) information that was known or reasonably should have been known by the offeror at the time the offer was made; and (2) information that was known, or should have been known, by offeror. The court evaluates whether, based on the information known, the defendant's offer represented a reasonable prediction of the amount of money, if any, defendant would have to pay plaintiff following a trial [ Arno v. Helinet Corp. (2005) 130 CA4th 1019, 1023-1024 ; Elrod v. Oregon Cummins Diesel, Inc. (1987) 195 CA3d 692, 699, 241 CR 108 ]. In exercising this discretion, the trial court may consider any factor that may impact the reasonableness of a § 998 offer [ Arno v. Helinet Corp. (2005) 130 CA4th 1019, 1026 (may consider existence of insurance policy)].

Although a token offer with no reasonable prospect of acceptance will not meet the reasonableness standard, a defendant's small offer in the face of a large claim can satisfy the reasonableness requirement if the defendant perceives himself or herself to be fault free and has concluded that he or she has a very significant likelihood of prevailing at trial [ Culbertson v. R.D. Werner Co., Inc. (1987) 190 CA3d 704, 710, 235 CR 510 ; see also Jones v. Dumrichob (1998)

63 CA4th 1258, 1263-1264, 74 CR2d 607 (offer for waiver of costs held to be valid 998 offer)].

Strategic Point:

On appeal, the burden is on the party complaining to establish an abuse of discretion in the granting of a fee award under 998 [ Clark v. Optical Coating Laboratory, Inc. (2008) 165 CA4th 150, 185-186, 80 CR3d 812 ].

Cross Reference:

Calculating amount of 998 Offer, see 37.06.

37.15[3] Judgment More Favorable Than Offer Is Prima Facie Evidence of Reasonableness. A judgment that is more favorable than the offer is prima facie evidence that the offer was reasonable. The burden is on the offeree to prove unreasonableness [ Santantonio v. Westinghouse Broad. Co. (1994) 25 CA4th 102, 117, 30 CR2d 486 ].

A court cannot shift costs under CCP § 998 when the offer cannot be evaluated to determine if it is more or less favorable than the judgment, such as under the following circumstances:

- Plaintiff did not present any expert testimony regarding present value of structured settlement [ Hurlbut v. Sonora Comm. Hosp. (1989) 207 CA3d 388, 409-410, 254 CR 840 ].
- Offer required relinquishment of claims not raised in complaint that could not be fairly evaluated [ Chen v. Interinsurance Exch. of the Auto. Club (2008) 164 CA4th 117, 122-123, 78 CR3d 755 ; Valentino v. Elliott Sav-On Gas, Inc. (1988) 201 CA3d 692, 699, 247 CR 483 ].

37.17 CCP § 998 Offers Specifically Not Available in Certain Actions.

37.17[1] CCP § 998 Does Not Apply in Eminent Domain Proceedings. The procedure for offers to compromise does not apply to an offer made by a plaintiff in an eminent domain proceeding [CCP § 998(g)(1)].

37.17[2] CCP § 998 Does Not Apply in Some Inverse Condemnation Actions. The procedure for offers to compromise does not apply in inverse condemnation actions to award costs to a governmental entity when the private plaintiff prevails but is awarded damages that are less than the government's offer [ Orpheum Bldg. Co. v. San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit Dist. (1978) 80 CA3d 863, 878, 146 CR 5 ]. However, CCP § 998 may be used by the government entity when the private plaintiff does not recover any damages for inverse condemnation [ Goebel v. City of Santa Barbara (2001) 92 CA4th 549, 559, 111 CR2d 901 ].

37.17[3] CCP § 998 Does Not Apply in Family Law Matters. The procedure for offers to compromise does not apply in family law matters [ In re Marriage of Green (1989) 213 CA3d 14, 23-24, 261 CR 294 .

37.17[4] CCP § 998 Does Not Apply in Enforcement Actions by Public Prosecutors. The procedure for offers to compromise does not apply to any enforcement action brought in the name of the people of the State of California by the Attorney General, a district attorney, or city attorney, acting as public prosecutor [CCP § 998(g)(2)].

III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

37.19 Attorney Must Have Authority to Enter Into Agreement.

An attorney must be specifically authorized to settle a claim and has no implied or ostensible authority to enter into a settlement simply because the attorney is employed by his or her client [ Navrides v. Zurich Ins. Co. (1971) 5 C3d 698, 702 n1, 97 CR 309, 488 P2d 637 ; Alvarado Cmty. Hosp. v. Superior Court (1985) 173 CA3d 476, 480, 219 CR 52 ]. However, there is a rebuttable presumption that an attorney has the authority to settle his or her client's claim [ Gagnon Co. Inc. v. Nevada Desert Inn (1955) 45 C2d 448, 460-461, 289 P2d 466 ; Ford v. State of Cal. (1981) 116 CA3d 507, 516-517, 172 CR 162 , disapproved on another ground in Duran v. Duran (1983) 150 CA3d 176, 197 CR 497 ].

Exception:

A client is bound by an unauthorized settlement if the client accepts the settlement's benefits or otherwise ratifies the settlement [ Navrides v. Zurich Ins. Co. (1971) 5 C3d 698, 704, 97 CR 309, 488 P2d 637 (client's action to enforce settlement agreement ratified the settlement); *Villa v. 37.20 Attorney Must Communicate All Written Settlement Offers to Client.

An attorney must promptly communicate all written settlement offers to his or her client, including all amounts, terms, and conditions of any offer of settlement made by or on behalf of an opposing party. Oral offers must also be communicated if they constitute a significant development in the case [Cal Rules Prof Conduct, Rules 3-500, 3-510]. For purposes of this rule, a "client" is a person employing the attorney or possessing the authority to accept an offer of settlement or, in a class action, a representative of the class [B&P Code § 6103.5(a)].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.21

37.21 Litigants Permitted to Enter Into Settlements Without Agreement of Attorney.

Litigants may enter into a settlement without the involvement of their attorneys as long as there is no fraud, coercion, or overreaching and both parties understand their rights to the advice of counsel [ In re Marriage of Hasso (1991) 229 CA3d 1174, 1184-1185, 280 CR 919 ].

Warning:

Parties can resolve a claim or dispute without lawyers, but parties that attempt to negotiate a settlement without an attorney run the risk of undervaluing or overvaluing the case and agreeing to a settlement that is not as favorable as would have occurred if they had the advice of experienced counsel. Unrepresented parties also risk being disadvantaged on other settlement terms.

Strategic Point:

While lawyers often can facilitate a resolution, there are times when the parties may be able to reach agreement on certain key points by direct discussion between the parties, with the respective lawyers in a position to give advice when needed. Particularly in commercial disputes involving sophisticated clients, lawyers should take care to promote their clients' interests in achieving a favorable, but early, resolution of litigation. Sometimes that requires a shift in focus from acting primarily as an advocate to placing an increased emphasis on the role of an advisor.

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.22

37.22 Settlement Agreements Governed by Contract Principles.

37.22[1] Parties Should Look to Contract Law in Preparing Settlement Agreements. Settlement agreements are governed by the general principles of contract law [see, e.g., Folsom v. Butte County Assn. of Governments (1982) 32 C3d 668, 677, 186 CR 589, 652 P2d 437 ; Vaillette v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (1994) 18 CA4th 680, 686, 22 CR2d 807, 23 CR2d 807 ; In re Marriage of Hasso (1991) 229 CA3d 1174, 1180, 280 CR 919 ]. Accordingly, a court will not enforce a settlement agreement provision that is illegal, contrary to public policy, or unjust [ California State Auto Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Superior Court (1990) 50 C3d 658, 664, 268 CR 284, 788 P2d 1156 ; Timney v. Lin (2003) 106 CA4th 1121, 1127, 131 CR2d 387 ].

Warning:

Once the parties have reached a settlement, they "may not escape their obligations by refusing to sign a written agreement that conforms to the oral terms" [ Osumi v. Sutton (2007) 151 CA4th 1355, 1360, 60 CR3d 693 ]. At that point, the agreement is enforceable by a motion under CCP § 664.6, which may result in a trial on what the exact terms of the agreement are [see 37.47].

37.22[2] Consideration Is Required for Valid Settlement Agreement. Settlement agreements must be supported by consideration [ Tooley v. Parker (1942) 51 CA2d 542, 549-551, 125 P2d 66 ; Gill v. Southern Pac. Co. (1916) 174 C 84, 88, 161 P 1153 ].

37.22[3] Settlement Agreements Are Subject to Statute of Frauds. Settlement agreements are subject to statute of frauds requirements [ Nicholson v. Barab (1991) 233 CA3d 1671, 1681-1683, 285 CR 441 ; see CC § 1624].

Example:

A settlement agreement that was in writing but agreed to orally and acknowledged in pleading and testimony fell within the exception that there is sufficient evidence that a contract has been made when the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in its pleading, testimony, or otherwise in court that a contract was made [ Pietrobon v. Libarle (2006) 137 CA4th 992, 998, 40 CR3d 718 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of statute of frauds requirements, California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds (Matthew Bender).

37.22[4] Statutes May Provide for Exceptions From General Contract Principles.

37.22[4][a] Cy Pres Distribution of Residue From Settlement Occurs Unless Agreement Disposes of Residue Completely. The cy pres distribution provisions of CCP § 384(b) apply to the distribution of residue resulting from a settlement unless the settlement agreement provides for the complete distribution of the residue on terms that are fair, adequate, and reasonable [ In re Microsoft I-V Cases (2006) 135 CA4th 706, 722, 37 CR3d 660 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of cy pres distribution of residue in class actions, see Ch. 33, Class Actions, 33.37.

37.22[4][b] Signed Written Settlement Agreement Resulting From Mediation May Be Made Not Confidential by Its Terms. The Evidence Code provisions concerning confidentiality of documents submitted in mediation proceedings [see Ch. 24, Pretrial ADR, 24.56[4], [5]] apply to settlement agreements resulting from mediation [ Stewart v. Preston Pipeline (2005) 134 CA4th 1565, 1574, 36 CR3d 901 (without more, agreement would have been confidential under Evid Code § 1119)]. However, those provisions specifically permit disclosure of a signed written settlement agreement prepared in the course of mediation if either of the following conditions, among others, is met [Evid Code § 1123; Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 C4th 570, 588-589, 80 CR3d 83 (evidence from mediation of unrecorded oral agreement to settle and unsigned draft written settlement inadmissible)]:

- The agreement contains words to the effect that it is admissible or subject to disclosure.
- The agreement contains words to the effect that it is enforceable or binding.

For these purposes, a settlement agreement resulting from mediation and signed by counsel is considered to be a signed agreement [ Stewart v. Preston Pipeline (2005) 134 CA4th 1565, 1579-1580, 36 CR3d 901 (agreement's terms rendered it not confidential)]. To qualify as containing "words to that effect," a writing must directly express the parties' agreement to be bound by the document they sign [ Fair v. Bakhtiari (2006) 40 C4th 189, 197, 51 CR3d 871, 147 P3d 653 ]. However, nothing in CCP § 425.16(c) requires that the express agreement in writing permitting disclosure be contained in the settlement agreement; nor is there a requirement that the agreement regarding disclosure be made at or after the time of the settlement [ Estate of Thottam (2008) 165 CA4th 1331, 1336, 81 CR3d 856 ].

Warning:

Counsel should be sure to satisfy Evid Code § 1123 and provide that the mediation privilege is waived as to actions for enforcement of the settlement agreement by securing from the parties a statement of agreement. Absent such a waiver provision, a party may be precluded from presenting evidence of the settlement for subsequent proceedings [see Stewart v. Preston Pipeline (2005) 134 CA4th 1565, 1573, 36 CR3d 901 ]. The trend in case law of strictly upholding the mediation privilege is raising serious questions about the ability to enforce settlements that have been the subject of mediation.

37.22[5] Only Amount of Settlement May Be Confidential Under Agreement Concerning Conduct That May Be Prosecuted as Felony Sexual Offense. A settlement agreement in a civil action the factual foundation for which establishes a cause of action for civil damages for an act that may be prosecuted as a felony sex offense may not be confidential [CCP § 1002(a)].

Exceptions:

There are two exceptions to this restriction on settlement agreements in such actions:

- An agreement may prevent the defendant or a person acting on his or her behalf from disclosing medical information or personal identifying information, as defined in Penal Code § 530.5(b), regarding the victim of the felony sex offense or of any information revealing the nature of the relationship between the victim and the defendant. This exception does not limit the right of a crime victim to disclose this information [CCP § 1002(b)].

- The amount of money paid in settlement of a claim may be confidential [CCP § 1002(c)].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.23

37.23 Plaintiff May Settle With Less Than All Joint Codefendants.

37.23[1] Good-Faith Settlement With Fewer Than All Defendants Does Not Discharge Others From Liability to Plaintiff. A good-faith settlement between the plaintiff and one or more, but fewer than all, tortfeasors claimed to be liable for the same tort or co-obligators mutually subject to contribution rights does not discharge any other party from liability to the plaintiff unless the terms of the settlement so provide [CCP § 877(a)].

Exceptions:

There are some exceptions to the general rule that a release of fewer than all defendants does not release others. Substantive law provides at least two exceptions: (1) a contractor's release of claim against owner releases a claim against the architect to the extent the architect was acting as an agent of the owner [ Huber, Hunt & Nichols, Inc. v. Moore (1977) 67 CA3d 278, 302, 136 CR 603 ]; and (2) release of a principal may also operate to release a surety [CC § 2819].

37.23[2] Good-Faith Settlement With Fewer Than All Defendants Reduces Claims Against Other Parties.

Except as modified by the Fair Responsibility Act of 1986 (Proposition 51) [CC §§ 1431.1-1431.5], a good-faith settlement between the plaintiff and one or more, but fewer than all, tortfeasors claimed to be liable for the same tort or co-obligators mutually subject to contribution rights reduces the claims against other parties in the amount stipulated in the settlement or in the amount of consideration paid for it, whichever is greater [CCP § 877(a)]. Plaintiff's claims against nonsettling tortfeasors, however, are not reduced by costs awarded to the plaintiff as a prevailing party [ Reed v. Wilson (1999) 73 CA4th 439, 443-446, 86 CR2d 510 ]. A stipulation of the amount that the settling defendant actually owes is not the same as a stipulation of the amount of the consideration paid in settlement, nor of the amount to be set off against the claims of the other defendants [ Federal Sav. and Loan Ins. Corp. v. Butler (9th Cir. 1990) 904 F2d 505, 513 ; see Arbuthnot v. Relocation Realty Serv. Corp. (1991) 227 CA3d 682, 688, 278 CR 135 ].

Trap:

If the amount of settlement with fewer than all defendants before judgment exceeds the award in the judgment against remaining defendants, those defendants are deemed the prevailing parties for purposes of attorney fees under CCP § 877 [ Goodman v. Lozano (2010) 47 C4th 1327, 1338-1339, 104 CR3d 219, 223 P3d 77] . Parties to a settlement with fewer than all defendant must therefore structure the fee award in the settlement accordingly.

Distinguish:

At least one court has ruled that the offset of a settlement from liability of other nonsettling parties under CCP § 877(a) only applies to that amount of settlement monies actually paid [see Garcia v. Duro Dyne Corp. (2007) 156 CA4th 92, 100-102, 67 CR3d 100 ].

Strategic Point:

The trial court may retain jurisdiction to reduce an award for damages against a nonsettling defendant by the amount of a settlor's payment of settlement money to the plaintiff [see, e.g., Cadlo v. Metalclad Insulation Corp. (First Dist., Div. Five, 2007) 151 CA4th 1311, 1318, 61 CR3d 104 ]. Counsel for a nonsettling defendant, therefore, should request that the trial court reserve its jurisdiction in that manner in any case reaching final judgment before the payment of settlement money by another settling defendant. In the alternative, the nonsettling defendant may try making an ex parte application for postjudgment setoffs once the settlement is actually paid [see Fortman v. Hemco, Inc. (Second Dist., Div. Four, 1989) 211 CA3d 241, 264, 259 CR 311 (trial court has discretion to deny offset and invite nonsettling defendant to make motion in future)].

If the plaintiff is found to have been contributorily negligent, the total damages must first be reduced by the percentage of fault attributable to the plaintiff before any reduction for a good-faith settlement is made [ Lemos v. Eichel (1978) 83 CA3d 110, 118-119, 147 CR 603 ].

Strategic Point:

The allocation of the settlement amounts is complex and should be analyzed carefully by counsel for the settling plaintiff, as well as counsel for the nonsettling defendants. In essence, the settling defendants are not entitled to an offset of the portion of the settlement that is allocable to the non-economic losses because the defendants are only responsible to pay their own percentage share of those losses. Thus, a plaintiff can obtain a windfall if a settling defendant pays more than its "share" of the non-economic losses, because that amount will not reduce the plaintiff's recovery against the other defendants.

Cross Reference:

For discussion regarding determination of good-faith settlements, see 37.28 et seq.

37.23[3] Reduction May Be Assessed by Jury or Court. The reduction of an award against other tortfeasors under CCP § 877(a) is normally applied in one of two ways: either by the jury after evidence is submitted to it of the settlement with instructions to reduce the award by the amount paid in settlement, or by the court if the settlement is not presented to the jury [ May v. Miller (1991) 228 CA3d 404, 409, 278 CR 341 ]. If the jury is informed of the settlement but not specifically instructed to reduce its judgment against nonsettling tortfeasors, the court has broad discretion to apply Section 877(a) to reduce the judgment by the amount of the settlement [ May v. Miller (1991) 228 CA3d 404, 410-411, 278 CR 341 ].

Strategic Point:

While the court may make the offset from the jury's award, the court is not entitled, absent a stipulation of the parties, to calculate the amount of the settlement allocable to non-economic vs. economic losses in a personal injury action [see 37.24]. One of the parties may want to insure that the jury award does allocate the damages awarded between economic and non-economic losses so that the court may apply the same ratio to settlement amounts.

37.23[4] Good-Faith Settlement With Fewer Than All Defendants Discharges Settling Defendant From Liability for Contribution or Equitable Indemnity. A good-faith settlement between the plaintiff and one or more, but fewer than all, tortfeasors claimed to be liable for the same tort or co-obligors mutually subject to contribution rights discharges the settling defendant from any claim for contribution or comparative or equitable indemnity to any other party [CCP § 877(a); see American Motorcycle Assn. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1978) 20 C3d 578, 604, 146 CR 182, 578 P2d 899 (extending meaning of term "contribution" to encompass judicially created doctrine of comparative or equitable indemnity)].

Exceptions:

CCP § 877 does not apply to co-obligors who have expressly agreed in writing to an apportionment of liability for losses or claims among themselves or to contract debts on contracts entered into prior to January 1, 1988 [CCP § 877(c), (d)].

Express contractual indemnity claims are not barred by a good-faith settlement determination [ C.L. Peck Contractors v. Superior Court (1984) 159 CA3d 828, 833-834, 205 CR 754 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of motion for good-faith settlement, see 37.28 -37.45.

37.23[5] If Settling Tortfeasor Paid More Than Required, Settlor May Be Entitled to Comparative Indemnity. If a settling tortfeasor actually paid more than it would have been required to pay under the trier of fact's ultimate apportionment of fault and finding of damages, the entire amount of the settlement is still deducted from the judgment against the other defendants; the balance of the judgment is apportioned to the other defendants according to the jury's apportionment of comparative fault [ Bracket v. State of Cal. (1986) 180 CA3d 1171, 1175-1177, 226 CR 1 (decided prior to enactment of Proposition 51)]. In such a case, the settling tortfeasor is entitled to comparative indemnity from the nonsettling defendants for the amount of its overpayment [see American Bankers Ins. Co. v. Avco-Lycoming Division (1979) 97 CA3d 732, 736, 159 CR 70 ].

Exception:

In an action for personal injury, the entire amount may not be deducted; only the amount allocable to the economic losses may be deducted from the award for economic loss [see CC § 1431.2].

37.23[6] Future Payments Are Discounted to Present Cash Value. In the case of a structured settlement calling for future periodic payments by a settling tortfeasor, the injured party's award is reduced by the future payments discounted to their present cash value, not by the total dollar amount of the future payments [ Franck v. Polaris E-Z Go Div. of Textron, Inc. (1984) 157 CA3d 1107, 1116-1121, 204 CR 321 ; see Seymour v. Summa Vista Cinema, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 809 F2d 1385, 1389-1390 ].

37.23[7] Nonmonetary Consideration.

37.23[7][a] Must Be Valued and Used to Offset Judgment. If a settlement involves nonmonetary consideration, the consideration must be valued and offset against any judgment against other defendants [ Armstrong World Indus., Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 215 CA3d 951, 955-958, 264 CR 39 ; see Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1128, 10 CR2d 844 ].

Nonmonetary consideration that has been found subject to evaluation and credit includes:

- Assignment of the settling defendant's indemnity rights against the nonsettling defendants [ Regan

Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1711, 27 CR2d 62 ; Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1496, 24 CR2d 156 ];

- Assignment of a settling defendant's rights against its insurer [ Southern Cal. Gas Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 187 CA3d 1030, 1034-1037, 232 CR 320 ];

- Assignment of rights against an employer [ Arbuthnot v. Relocation Realty Serv. Corp. (1991) 227 CA3d 682, 688-690, 278 CR 135 ];

- Waiver of litigation costs [ Garcia v. Duro Dyne Corp. (2007) 156 CA4th 92, 105-106, 67 CR3d 100 ; Armstrong World Indus., Inc. v. Superior Court (1989) 215 CA3d 951, 955-957, 264 CR 39 ].

37.23[7][b] Valuation Must Be Made in Good Faith and Should Be Valued at Time of Settlement. The valuation must be made in good faith, and should be part of the confirmation process [ Arbuthnot v. Relocation Realty Serv. Corp. (1991) 227 CA3d 682, 689-690, 278 CR 135 ]. Valuation generally should take place at the settlement stage, even if the nonmonetary consideration involves an assignment of rights that may eventually be reduced to an exact amount in a judgment. Valuation as of the time of settlement allows the court to evaluate the good faith of the overall settlement as of that time [ Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1498-1499, 24 CR2d 156 ]. Valuation may be deferred if it is not necessary to the good-faith determination [ Aero-Crete, Inc. v. Superior Court (1993) 21 CA4th 203, 209, 25 CR2d 804 ].

37.23[8] Plaintiff May Receive More Than Total Judgment Entered If Settling Defendant Assigns Indemnity Rights. The value placed on a settling defendant's assignment to the plaintiff of indemnity rights against nonsettling defendants is a complex matter. A good-faith value must be credited for offset against any judgment obtained against the nonsettling defendants [ Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1710-1715, 27 CR2d 62 ; Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1502-1505, 24 CR2d 156 ; but see 37.24 (effect of Proposition 51)]. Although a plaintiff under this scenario might ultimately receive more than the total judgment entered, it is not considered a double recovery [ Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1711-1713, 27 CR2d 62 ; Bush v. Superior Court (1992) 10 CA4th 1374, 1385-1387, 13 CR2d 382 ]. Rather the settling defendant is electing to risk paying more than its actual comparative share by surrendering rather than pursuing its indemnity rights. This may be the prudent course if the value of those rights is speculative at the time of settlement [ Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1502-1505, 24 CR2d 156 ].

37.23[9] Parties Must Include a Valuation or Allocation in Agreement If Cash Amount Is Not Determinative. When the cash amount of the settlement is not determinative of the amount of the offset with regard to any remaining defendant, the settling parties must include an allocation or a valuation in their agreement [ Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1124-1125, 10 CR2d 844 ]. This allocation or valuation is then subject to the requirement that it be made in good faith, committed to the discretion of the court in the good-faith settlement approval process [ Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1701, 27 CR2d 62 ; Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1489, 24 CR2d 156 ]. If found to be in good faith, the allocation is effective to determine the amount of setoff available to the nonsettling defendants [see Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1703, 27 CR2d 62 ].

Distinguish:

The failure to include a valuation for the settlement in the agreement will result in the court's finding that the settlement does not meet the good faith test [ Franklin Mint Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 130 CA4th 1550, 1556-1557 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.24

37.24 Proposition 51 Restricts Liability for Noneconomic Damages.

37.24[1] Party Is Only Severally Liable for Own Comparative Share of Noneconomic Damages. In actions covered by Proposition 51, plaintiffs who settle with one joint tortfeasor can no longer make up the difference between the compensable noneconomic damages and settlement amounts from other joint tortfeasors after trial because a party against whom a judgment is entered will only be severally liable for his or her comparative share of noneconomic damages [see CC § 1431.2]. Further, the amount by which a judgment against the nonsettling defendants is reduced on account of a settlement does not include amounts paid on account of the settling defendant's several-only liability for noneconomic damages [ Garcia v. Duro Dyne Corp. (2007) 156 CA4th 92, 102, 67 CR3d 100 ; Espinoza v. Machonga (1992) 9 CA4th 268, 271-277, 11 CR2d 498 ]. Only a joint and several judgment for economic damages may be reduced based on a prior settlement, and then only to the extent that the settlement represents compensation for the plaintiff's economic damages [ Conrad v. Ball Corp. (1994) 24 CA4th 439, 443, 29 CR2d 441 ; Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1705-1708, 27 CR2d 62 ].

Example:

Suppose that P sues A, B, and C, for personal injuries. Before trial, C pays $50,000 to P in a settlement that is confirmed as having been made in good faith, and C is released from all liability. P proceeds to trial against A and B. The jury awards $100,000 economic damages and $100,000 noneconomic damages and apportions fault 25 percent to A, 25% to B, and 50 percent to C. As required by Proposition 51, several judgments are entered against both A and B, each for $25,000 in noneconomic damages (25 percent of $100,000) [see CC § 1431.2(a)]. A joint judgment must also be entered against A and B for P's economic damages, but A and B are entitled to a reduction of the $100,000 amount of economic damages to reflect the settlement [CCP § 877(a)]. The amount of the reduction depends on the amount of the settlement that is allocated to economic damages [ Espinoza v. Machonga (1992) 9 CA4th 268, 271-277, 11 CR2d 498 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

For discussion of possible exceptions to the applicability of Proposition 51, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution, § 300.63[3].

37.24[2] Manner of Apportionment.

37.24[2][a] Parties to Settlement May Agree on Apportionment Scheme. Proposition 51 and CCP § 877 are both silent on the manner of apportionment, and several approaches are possible.

One approach is for the parties to the settlement to agree on an apportionment scheme and include an allocation or valuation of their various claims in the settlement agreement [see Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 21 CA4th 1685, 1706-1708, 27 CR2d 62 ; Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1488, 24 CR2d 156 ; Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1129, 10 CR2d 844 ].

Strategic Point:

A high apportionment to economic damages favors the settling defendant by preserving greater indemnity rights, while a high apportionment to noneconomic damages favors the plaintiff by assuring payment of damages that are not recoverable from other defendants.

37.24[2][b] Settlement May Be Apportioned in Same Ratio as Jury Apportioned Damages. Another possible approach is to defer the question until such time as there is a trial involving the nonsettling defendants, and then to apportion the settlement between economic and noneconomic damages in the same ratio that the jury apportioned its award of damages.

Example:

As in the example above [37.24[1]], the settlement amount of $50,000 would be apportioned in a 1:1 ratio, allocating $25,000 to economic damages and $25,000 to noneconomic damages. The amount allocated to economic damages would be subtracted from the jury's award of economic damages ($100,000 minus $25,000), and a joint and several judgment would be entered against A and B for the balance ($75,000). P could collect from either or both, but under indemnity principles, A and B would each ultimately be responsible for half of this amount [see Sagadin v. Ripper (1985) 175 CA3d 1141, 1173-1174, 221 CR 675 ].

III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.25

37.25 Plaintiff May Enter Into "Sliding Scale" or "Mary Carter" Agreement With One or More Defendants.

37.25[1] "Sliding Scale" Agreement Limits Liability of Agreeing Defendant. A "sliding scale" or "Mary Carter" agreement is an agreement between a plaintiff or plaintiffs and one or more, but not all, alleged tortfeasor defendants that limits the liability of the agreeing tortfeasor defendants to an amount that is dependent on the amount that plaintiff recovers from the nonagreeing defendant or defendants [CCP § 877.5(b)].

Example:

A sliding scale agreement may include an agreement in the form of a loan from the agreeing tortfeasor defendant to the plaintiff that is repayable in whole or in part from the recovery against a nonagreeing tortfeasor defendant [CCP § 877.5(b)]. For example, if defendant A enters a settlement agreement with Plaintiff for a noncontingent $1,000,000 and an interest-free loan of $3,500,000 repayable to A on Plaintiff's recovery from defendant B, the agreement is a sliding scale agreement [see United Services Automobile Assn. v. Superior Court (2001) 93 CA4th 633, 637-638 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of "sliding scale" or "Mary Carter" agreements, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 300, Indemnity and Contribution, Pt. II (Matthew Bender).

37.25[2] "Sliding Scale" Agreement Requires Notice of Intent. In order for a "sliding scale" agreement to be effective, at least 72 hours before entering into the agreement a notice of intent to enter an agreement must be served on all nonsignatory alleged defendant tortfeasors. The court may allow a shorter time on a showing of good cause [CCP § 877.5(c)].

37.25[3] Parties Must Inform Court of Agreement. The parties entering into the agreement must promptly inform the court of the existence of the agreement and its terms and provisions [CCP § 877.5(a)(1)].

37.25[4] Court Must Disclose Agreement to Jury Under Certain Circumstances. If the action is tried before a jury and a defendant who is a party to the agreement is called as a witness at trial, the court must, on motion of a party, disclose to the jury the existence and content of the agreement or covenant, unless the court finds that the disclosure will create substantial danger of undue prejudice, confusing the issue, or misleading the jury. The information disclosed to the jury must be no more than necessary to inform the jury of the possibility that the agreement may bias the testimony of the witness [CCP § 877.5(a)(2)].

III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.26

37.26 Plaintiff or Other Party Seeking Affirmative Relief Must Notify Court of Settlement on Mandatory Judicial Council Form.

When an entire case is settled, the plaintiff or other party seeking affirmative relief must immediately file a written notice of settlement with the court using the Judicial Council form, Notice of Settlement. The party must also serve the notice on any arbitrator or other court-connected ADR neutral involved in the case. If a hearing, conference, or trial is imminent, the plaintiff must give immediate oral notice as well [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(a)(1); Judicial Council Form CM-200].

Warning:

Failure to provide written notice of settlement may be deemed an unlawful interference with the proceedings of the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.30; CCP § 1209(a)(8) (unlawful interference with proceedings of the court is contempt of court)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of contempt of court, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 23, Contempt.

Warning:

Failure to notify the arbitrator or other court-connected ADR neutral at least 2 days before the arbitration hearing may result in the court ordering payment of the arbitrator's hearing fees [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(a)(2)].

Cross References:

Form of notice of settlement, see 37.65 (Judicial Council Form CM-200).

Discussion of procedures when the settlement agreement conditions dismissal on the satisfactory completion of specified terms that are not to be performed within 45 days, see 37.27[2].

Strategic Point:

If a party seeking affirmative relief in a collections case, as defined in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(a), files a notice of settlement under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385, the trial court must vacate all hearing, case management conference, and trial dates [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.741].

III. ENTERING INTO A SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.27

37.27 Plaintiff or Other Party Seeking Affirmative Relief Must Serve and File Request for Dismissal.

37.27[1] Request for Dismissal Is Generally Filed Within 45 Days of Settlement. The plaintiff or other party seeking affirmative relief must file and serve a request for dismissal of the entire case with the court within 45 days after the date of the settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(b)].

If the plaintiff or other party required party does not file the request, the court must dismiss the entire case 45 days after it receives notice of settlement unless good cause is shown why the case should not be dismissed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(b)].

Example:

A party's allegation that no enforceable settlement has been reached constitutes good cause under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(b) and precludes the trial court from dismissing the action [ Irvine v. Regents of University of California (2007) 149 CA4th 994, 1000 , 57 CR3d 500 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Judicial Council Form CIV-110 request for dismissal, see Ch. 39, Voluntary Dismissal, 39.18.

In practice it is relatively rare that the time limit in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(b) becomes operative. Usually a defendant's motivation in entering a settlement is to obtain a release and dismissal, and the defendant makes sure that the written settlement agreement specifies a relatively short period of time for the plaintiff to file a request for dismissal after the pre-conditions, such as a good-faith settlement determination. Rule 3.1385(b) assures that the parties will complete the process so the court can treat the case as closed.

37.27[2] Request for Dismissal May Be Filed Later Under Certain Circumstances.

37.27[2][a] Request May Be Filed After Completion of Settlement Terms Performed More Than 45 Days After Settlement Date. In some cases, a settlement may be conditioned on the satisfactory completion of terms that are not to be performed within 45 days of the date of settlement. In such a case, the notice of settlement must specify the date on which the dismissal will be filed. If the plaintiff does not file a dismissal within 45 days after the dismissal date specified in the notice, the court must dismiss the entire case unless good cause is shown why the case should not be dismissed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(c)].

Distinguish:

A settlement with open material terms is not a conditional settlement. In fact, it is not a settlement at all because, like all contracts, it is not binding because the settling parties have not agreed on all its material terms [ Levitz v. The Warlocks (2007) 148 CA4th 531, 535, 55 CR3d 800 ].

37.27[2][b] Request May Be Filed After Hearing on Motion to Approve Settlement of Claims By Minor or Person With Disability. If the settlement of the case involves the compromise of the claim of a minor or person with a disability, then the court must not hold an order to show cause hearing on dismissal before the court has held a hearing to approve the settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(d)].

Prerequisite:

The parties to a case involves the compromise of the claim of a minor or person with a disability have to have filed appropriate papers to seek court approval of the settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(d)].

37.27[2][c] Request May Be Filed By Deadline Set By Court on Request for Extension of Time to File. The parties may take such additional time beyond the statutory 45-day deadline to complete the settlement as the court has granted upon a showing of good cause by setting a specific future deadline for the filing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(e)].

Prerequisites:

If a party who has served and filed a notice of settlement determines that the case cannot be dismissed within the prescribed 45 days, that party must serve and file a notice and a supporting declaration advising the court of that party's inability to dismiss the case within the prescribed time, showing good cause for its inability to do so, and proposing an alternative date for dismissal. The notice and a supporting declaration must be served and filed at least five court days before the time for requesting dismissal elapses. Upon a showing of good cause, the court must continue the matter to allow additional time to complete the settlement. The court may take such other actions as may be appropriate for the proper management and disposition of the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(e)].

37.27[3] Due Process Requires Notice to Parties Before Entry of Dismissal. If the plaintiff does not file a timely dismissal, both Rule 3.1385(b) and Rule 3.1385(c) authorize parties to show good cause why the case should not be dismissed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(b), (c)]. This creates an implicit notice requirement; prior to Rule 3.1385(b) or Rule 3.1385(c) dismissal, the trial court should provide the parties with notice and an opportunity to make the showing of good cause [see Lee v. Placer Title Co. (1994) 28 CA4th 503, 510, 33 CR2d 572 (construing former Rule 225(b) dismissal)].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
IV. BRINGING MOTION TO DETERMINE GOOD-FAITH SETTLEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.29

37.29 Motion to Determine Good-Faith Settlement.

37.29[1] Any Party May Request a Hearing. Any party to an action in which it is alleged that two or more parties are joint tortfeasors or co-obligors on a contract debt are entitled to a hearing, on noticed motion, regarding the good faith of a settlement entered into by the plaintiff or other claimant and one or more alleged tortfeasors or co-obligors [CCP § 877.6(a)(1)].

"Joint tortfeasor" refers to all tortfeasors joined in a single action, regardless of whether their acts were contemporaneous or successive [ Turcon Constr. Inc. v. Norton-Villiers, Ltd. (1983) 139 CA3d 280, 283, 188 CR 580 ; see CCP § 877]. The fact that a settling tortfeasor neither needs nor seeks protection from claims for contribution or indemnity under CCP § 877.6(c) does not prevent use of the hearing procedure to secure a determination of the good faith of a settlement [ Barth-Wittmore Ins. v. H.R. Murphy Enters., Inc. (1985) 169 CA3d 124, 135, 214 CR 894 ].

Courts are divided whether the language of CCP § 877.6 granting a party the right to a hearing on the issue of good faith extends to settlements entered into among tortfeasors named as cross-complainants and cross-defendants apportioning their own liability [see KAOM, Inc. v. Superior Court (1995) 35 CA4th 549, 553-554, 41 CR2d 310 ; Arizona Pipeline Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 22 CA4th 33, 42, 27 CR2d 118 ; Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1128, 10 CR2d 844 ; see also 37.29[6]].

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Points and Authorities, §§ 115.150-115.162 (Matthew Bender).

37.29[2] Parties Must Be Granted Hearing, If Requested, When Settlement Reached Before Judgment Is Entered. Parties are absolutely entitled to a hearing on the issue of the good faith of their settlement provided the settlement is reached before judgment is entered, even if a summary judgment is entered prior to the court hearing the CCP § 877.6 good-faith motion [ Andruss v. Superior Court (1996) 46 CA4th 1276, 1278-1279, 54 CR2d 466 ]. Postjudgment settlements are not covered by CCP §§ 877 and 877.6 [ Jhaveri v. Teitelbaum (2009) 176 CA4th 740, 750, 98 CR3d 268 ; Be v. Western Truck Exch. (1997) 55 CA4th 1139, 1144, 64 CR2d 527 ].

37.29[3] Motion Applies to Personal Injury Actions and Tort Actions Arising Out of Commercial Transaction. The statutes apply not only to personal injury actions, but to tort actions arising out of commercial transactions as well [ Kohn v. Superior Court (1983) 142 CA3d 323, 332, 191 CR 78 ].

37.29[4] Motion Does Not Apply to Primary Insurers of the Same Risk. "Co-obligors on a contract debt" does not encompass insurers of the same risk because their respective obligations are not joint, but rather arise out of separate contracts. Therefore, a settlement paid by one insurer, whether or not it is determined to be in good faith, cannot defeat the equitable contribution rights of another insurer under insurance law principles [see Herrick Corp. v. Canadian Ins. Co. (1994) 29 CA4th 753, 759-761, 34 CR2d 844 ; Hartford Accident & Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 29 CA4th 435, 440 n4, 34 CR2d 520 ].

37.29[5] Must Be More Than One Tortfeasor or Obligor. Good-faith confirmation under CCP § 877.6 does not come into play if there is only one tortfeasor or obligor. The action must involve two or more parties who are at least alleged to be joint tortfeasors or co-obligors. Also, it is essential that some, but not all of the parties have settled [ Hartford Accident & Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 CA4th 1174, 1178-1179, 44 CR2d 126 ]. Further, even if there are multiple tortfeasors, the statute may not be used as a vehicle to resolve competing claims between two subrogees or assignees of the same party [ Maryland Cas. Co. v. Bailey & Sons, Inc. (1995) 35 CA4th 856, 876-877, 41 CR2d 519 ].

37.29[6] Settlement Must Involve the Plaintiff or Claimant and One or More of the Alleged Tortfeasors. CCP § 877.6 applies to settlements entered into "by the plaintiff or other claimant" and one or more alleged tortfeasors. It does not matter whether the tortfeasors acted in concert to create a single injury, or successively to create distinct and divisible injuries, or whether the injured party filed a single action against the tortfeasors [ Bob Parrett Construction, Inc. v. Superior Court, 140 CA4th 1180, 1188, 45 CR3d 250 ].

Example:

A cross-defendant may enter a good-faith settlement with the plaintiff before trial [see Widson v. International Harvester Co. (1984) 153 CA3d 45, 57-58, 200 CR 136 ]. This will serve to bar a cross-complaint, presuming it is not one for contractual indemnity or other contractual rights.

There is a split of authority as to whether the term "other claimant" in the statute allows one tortfeasor to settle its comparative indemnity rights with other tortfeasors and obtain the effects of a good-faith settlement. In one case, the court held that a settlement entered into among all but one tortfeasor apportioning their own liability is not within the scope of CCP § 877.6; therefore, a judicial determination that such a settlement is in good faith does not bar the indemnity rights of a nonsettling tortfeasor against settling tortfeasors [ Arizona Pipeline Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 22 CA4th 33, 39-47, 27 CR2d 118 ; see also Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1128, 10 CR2d 844 ]. However, a different Division of the same District has reached the opposite conclusion. It found a "tortfeasor only" settlement to be in conformity with the policies behind settling multi-party tort litigation, and refused to require a tortfeasor to settle with the plaintiff before allowing it to escape liability for comparative indemnity under CCP § 877(a) [ KAOM, Inc. v. Superior Court (1995) 35 CA4th 549, 553-555, 41 CR2d 310 ; see also Maryland Cas. Co. v. Bailey & Sons, Inc. (1995) 35 CA4th 856, 878 n24, 41 CR2d 519 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
IV. BRINGING MOTION TO DETERMINE GOOD-FAITH SETTLEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.30

37.30 Test for Good Faith.

37.30[1] Court Ascertains Whether Settlement Is Grossly Disproportionate to Reasonable Estimate of Settlor's Liability. The test to determine if a settlement is made in good faith is whether the settlement is grossly disproportionate to what a reasonable person at the time of settlement would estimate the settlor's liability to be [ City of Grand Terrace v. Superior Court (1987) 192 CA3d 1251, 1262, 238 CR 119 ; see Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ].

37.30[2] Various Factors Considered. The trial court has wide discretion in deciding whether a settlement is in good faith, and in arriving at an allocation of valuation of the various interests involved [ North County Contractor's, Ass'n v. Touchstone Ins. Servs. (1994) 27 CA4th 1085, 1094-1095, 33 CR2d 166 ]. In making the determination, the court must take into account a number of factors. These factors include the following:

- A rough approximation of plaintiff's total recovery and the settlor's proportionate liability for the total amount paid in settlement [ Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499-500, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ; Long Beach Memorial Medical Center v. Superior Court (2009) 172 CA4th 865, 873, 91 CR3d 494] .

Examples:

- Doctors settling for $200,000 in action for $10 million is not in good faith where even their counsel admitted their liability was around $1.5 million [ Long Beach Memorial Medical Center v. Superior Court (March 26, 2009) 172 CA4th 865, 873-874, 91 CR3d 494] .
- If the settlement does not require the more culpable tortfeasor to bear its fair share of the loss, the court can find that it is not in good faith [ Bay Dev., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1990) 50 C3d 1012, 1034-1035, 269 CR 720, 791 P2d 290 ; Far West Fin. Corp. v. D & S Co. (1988) 46 C3d 796, 815, 251 CR 202, 760 P2d 399] .

- The allocation of settlement proceeds among the plaintiffs in multi-plaintiff cases [ Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499-500, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ] .

- A recognition that a settlor should pay less in settlement than the settlor would if found liable after a trial [ Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499-500, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ] .

- The financial conditions and insurance policy limits of settling defendants [ Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499-500, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ] .

Example:

- Doctors settling for $200,000 in action for $10 million in which their insurance coverage had a $2 million cap was not in good faith [ Long Beach Memorial Medical Center v. Superior Court (2009) 172 CA4th 865, 874-875, 91 CR3d 494 ] .

- The liability of the settling defendant to codefendants under a theory of indemnity [ Long Beach Memorial Medical Center v. Superior Court (2009) 172 CA4th 865, 875, 91 CR3d 494 (comparative indemnity); TSI Seismic Tenant Space, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 149 CA4th 159, 167, 56 CR3d 751 (implied indemnity)].

Example:

- Timing of settlement after hospital and medical group settled with plaintiff showed that doctors settling for $200,000 in action for $10 million did not do so in good faith, because it was designed to cut off indemnification rights of the earlier settling codefendants, given that plaintiffs preferred to not go to trial against only remaining defendants, the doctors [ Long Beach Memorial Medical Center v. Superior Court (2009) 172 CA4th 865, 875-876, 91 CR3d 494 ] .

- The existence of any collusion, fraud, or tortious conduct aimed to injure the interests of nonsettling defendants [see Pruyn v. Agricultural Ins. Co. (1995) 36 CA4th 500, 527, 42 CR2d 295 ] .

Example:

- A settlement, to the extent that it is dictated by the tactical advantage of removing a deep-pocket defendant, is not made in "good faith" consideration of the relevant liability of all parties, and where a settlement was tactical and did not reflect the cooperative decisionmaking among all interested parties that is one of the aims of settlements, it was injurious to the interests of codefendants [ Long Beach Memorial Medical Center v. Superior Court (2009) 172 CA4th 865, 875-876, 91 CR3d 494 ] .

37.30[3] Evaluation Made on Basis of Information Available at Time of Settlement. Practical considerations require that the evaluation be made on the basis of information available at the time of settlement. A defendant's settlement figure must not be grossly disproportionate to what a reasonable person would estimate the settling defendant's liability to be at the time of the settlement. The party asserting the lack of good faith has the burden of proof that the settlement is so far "out of the ballpark" in relation to these factors that it is inconsistent with the equitable objectives of § 877.6 [see CCP § 877.6(d)]. That demonstration would establish that the proposed settlement was not a settlement made in "good faith" within the meaning of CCP § 877.6 [ Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499-500, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ].

37.30[4] Gross Disproportionality to Damages Sought in Complaint Not Dispositive. A settlement may be in good faith even if it is for a sum grossly disproportionate to the damages prayed for in the complaint, if it is not disproportionate to what the trial court might have considered the probable recovery of the plaintiff from the settling joint tortfeasor [ Kohn v. Superior Court (1983) 142 CA3d 323, 327-328, 191 CR 78 ]. Even if the claimant's damages are obviously great, and the liability for them is certain, a disproportionately low settlement figure is often reasonable in the case of a relatively insolvent and uninsured or underinsured, joint tortfeasor [ Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ]. Speculation that the tortfeasor may subsequently obtain assets from which a judgment may be satisfied is improper, as the determination must be made on the basis of information available at the time of settlement [ County of Los Angeles v. Guerrero (1989) 209 CA3d 1149, 1158, 257 CR 787 ; see Tech-Bilt, Inc. v. Woodward-Clyde & Assocs. (1985) 38 C3d 488, 499, 213 CR 256, 698 P2d 159 ].

Strategic Point:

It would be rare to have a settlement not be in good faith in a personal injury action now that liability for noneconomic losses is several. It could occur, however, in an extraordinary case with large economic losses.

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
IV. BRINGING MOTION TO DETERMINE GOOD-FAITH SETTLEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.31

37.31 Good-Faith Determination.

37.31[1] By Noticed Motion.

37.31[1][a] Noticed Motion Required If Hearing Requested. A party seeking a determination that a settlement is in good faith may proceed by noticed hearing or, under some circumstances, by notice and application [see CCP § 877.6(a)]. If a hearing is desired or required, written notice must be given [CCP §§ 877.6(a), 1005(a)(5)]. A motion for determination of good-faith settlement may include a request to dismiss a pleading or a portion of a pleading. The notice of motion must list each party and pleading or portion of pleading affected by the settlement and the date on which the affected pleading was filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1382].

37.31[1][b] Moving Papers Must Be Served and Filed at Least 16 Court Days Prior to Hearing. All moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. In addition, if the notice is served by mail, the required 16-day period is increased by 5 calendar days if the place of mailing and the place of address are within the state of California, 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the state of California but within the United States, and 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States. If the notice is served by fax, express mail, or another method of overnight delivery, the 16-day period is increased by two calendar days [CCP § 1005(b)]. An extension of two court days, as opposed to calendar days, may apply in case of electronic service made pursuant to a local rule [see CCP § 1010.6(a)(6)].

➡ Cross Reference:

For form of motion and order, see 37.68, 37.69.

37.31[1][c] Court May Shorten Time for Notice for Good Cause. On a showing of good cause, the court may shorten the time for giving the required notice to permit the determination of the issue to be made before the commencement of the trial of the action, or before the verdict or judgment if settlement is made after the trial has commenced [CCP § 877.6(a)(1); see also CCP § 1005(b)].

➡ Cross Reference:

For discussion on motions to shorten time, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.08-27.13.

37.31[1][d] Opposing Papers Must Be Filed and Served at Least 9 Court Days Prior to Hearing. Opposing papers must be filed and served at least 9 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. There is a two court day extension if served by electronic service pursuant to local rules [CCP § 1010.6(a)(6)]. The provisions extending the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done when service is made by mail, do not apply [CCP § 1005(b)].

37.31[1][e] Reply Papers Must Be Filed and Served at Least Five Court Days Prior to Hearing. Reply papers must be filed and served at least 5 court days before the time appointed for the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. There is a two court day extension if served by electronic service pursuant to local rules [CCP § 1010.6(a)(6)]. The provisions extending the time within which a right may be exercised or an act may be done when service is made by mail, do not apply [CCP § 1005(b)].

37.31[2] By Application.

37.31[2][a] Must Give Notice of Settlement to All Parties and Court and Present with Application and Proposed Order. As an alternative to a noticed hearing, a settling party may give notice of settlement to all parties and to the court, together with an application for determination of good-faith settlement and a proposed order [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)]. An application for determination of good-faith settlement may include a request to dismiss a pleading or a portion of a pleading. The application must list each party and pleading or portion of pleading affected by the settlement and the date on which the affected pleading was filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1382].

Strategic Point:

The application procedure is simpler than the motion procedure. Under the application procedure, no court appearance is required. The application is commonly used when there is not a time deadline and when it appears that no one will object.

Judge's Perspective:

The court will always prefer to have the issue addressed by way of noticed motion. The reason for this preference is that it is easier for the court to keep track of the objections interposed by the opposing party and it safeguards against some party later on saying that it did not have an opportunity to be heard. The application process places the burden on the court to not only calendar the time period for objections to be interposed but then likewise makes it incumbent on the court after the deadline to make sure that it has not missed any papers subsequently filed by an objector. Too often, the proposed order has been signed only for the court to learn that some objecting party's papers did not make it to the file on time.

37.31[2][b] Application Must Indicate Terms of Settlement. The application must indicate the settling parties, and the basis, terms, and amount of the settlement [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)].

Cross Reference:

For form of notice, application, and supporting declaration, see 37.70, 37.71, 37.72.

37.31[2][c] Notice, Application and Order Must Be Sent by Certified Mail. The notice, application, and proposed order must be given by certified mail, return receipt requested, and proof of service must be filed with the court [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)].

37.31[2][d] Within 25 Days of Mailing or 20 Days of Personal Service, Nonsettling Party May File Motion to Contest Good Faith of Settlement. Within 25 days of the mailing of the notice, application, and proposed order, or within 20 days of personal service, a nonsettling party may file a notice of motion to contest the good faith of the settlement [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)]. The notice by a nonsettling party must be given as provided in CCP § 1005(b) [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)].

Cross Reference:

For discussion of service, see 37.31[1][b].

37.31[2][e] If No Parties File Motion, Court May Approve Settlement. If none of the nonsettling parties files a motion, the court may approve the settlement [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)].

37.31[2][f] May Not Use Application Procedure If Settlement Includes Confidentiality Agreement. This procedure is not available if the settlement agreement includes a confidentiality agreement regarding the case or the terms of the settlement [CCP § 877.6(a)(2)].

Strategic Point:

Confidentiality provisions are contained in most settlement agreements. Parties may stipulate to a protective order that will allow disclosure of the settlement agreement to the parties, but require the parties to keep the terms confidential. Absent such a stipulation, most judges are likely to permit the entry of such a protective order to preserve the confidentiality of the settlement terms to the parties in the action. Pursuant to the protective order, the settlement agreement is then attached to the motion for good-faith settlement, but filed under seal. Absent unusual public safety or other concerns, most judges would likely allow the settlement agreement to be filed under seal under Cal Rules Ct, 2.550, 2.551.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Most defendants will require, as a matter of course, that confidentiality be included in a settlement. However, there is frequently no reason to have confidentiality in the settlement agreement, and counsel should not as a pro forma matter accept inclusion of a confidentiality provision.

Warnings:

Remember that if you wish to enforce a settlement agreement that is confidential, it will be difficult to do so while maintaining the confidentiality provisions.

Some courts have local policies of refusing to enforce the confidentiality of settlement agreements [see San Diego Super Ct Rules, Rule 2.48].

A settlement agreement in a civil action the factual foundation for which establishes a cause of action for civil damages for an act that may be prosecuted as a felony sex offense generally may not be confidential [CCP § 1002(a); see 37.22[5]].

37.31[3] Due Process Requires Notice to All Tortfeasors. Counsel for a settling defendant should ensure that all tortfeasors who might conceivably be liable to the plaintiff for the injury alleged are parties to the action by complaint or cross-complaint at the time of settlement, or at least by the time of the good-faith hearing under CCP § 877.6. Due process [see US Const, amend XIV; Cal Const, art I, § 17] requires that a tortfeasor who is not yet a party but whose potential liability is known, or reasonably should have been known, to the settling parties must have an opportunity to be heard on the good faith of a prior settlement [ Singer Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 179 CA3d 875, 881, 890-893, 225 CR 159 ]. Once the tortfeasor is made a party, it is entitled to a new good-faith hearing. The tortfeasor may engage in limited discovery to elicit the evidence relevant to the determination of good faith that was available at the time of settlement, whether or not the evidence was actually presented [ Singer Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 179 CA3d 875, 881, 895, 225 CR 159 ].

37.31[4] Court Does Not Require Jurisdiction Over Tortfeasor. Nothing in Section 877.6 requires that the court have jurisdiction over the joint tortfeasor for the good-faith settlement to apply as long as the joint tortfeasor had notice and an opportunity to challenge the good-faith determination [ Britz, Inc. v. Dow Chem. Co. (1999) 73 CA4th 177, 184, 86 CR2d 188 ].

37.32 Good-Faith Determination Is a Question of Fact.

Whether a settlement is in good faith is a question of fact to be determined by the trial court on the basis of the evidentiary material presented to it [ City of Grand Terrace v. Superior Court (1987) 192 CA3d 1251, 1263-1264, 238 CR 119 ; Barth-Wittmore Ins. v. H.R. Murphy Enters., Inc. (1985) 169 CA3d 124, 131, 214 CR 894 ]. The court will examine the legal theories under which the defendant may be liable, to determine if there is a reasonable likelihood that the settling defendant faces substantial liability [see Gehl Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Superior Court (1986) 183 CA3d 178, 184-186, 228 CR 19 ].

37.33 Burden of Proof to Show Lack of Good Faith Is on Nonsettling Tortfeasor.

The burden of proving the settlement rests on the settling party. Once the settlement is shown, the burden of proof shifts to the nonsettling tortfeasor to show that the settlement was not made in good faith [CCP § 877.6(d); City of Grand Terrace v. Superior Court (1987) 192 CA3d 1251, 1261, 238 CR 119 ].

37.35 Moving Party Must Set Forth Evidentiary Basis of Allocations and Valuations.

A party seeking confirmation must set forth the evidentiary basis of any allocations and valuations made and must demonstrate that the allocation was reached in a sufficiently adversarial manner to justify the presumption that a reasonable valuation was reached [ Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1495-1496, 24 CR2d 156 ].

Example:

A conclusional declaration by plaintiff's counsel that the settling defendant is not liable is insufficient to establish that the settlement represents a good-faith approximation of that defendant's proportionate share of liability [ Greshko v. County of Los Angeles (1987) 194 CA3d 822, 834-835, 239 CR 846 ].

IV. BRINGING MOTION TO DETERMINE GOOD-FAITH SETTLEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.36

37.36 Party Cannot Seek Confirmation of Settlement and Withhold It on Grounds of Confidentiality.

A party may not both seek confirmation of a settlement agreement, and withhold it from nonsettling defendants on grounds of confidentiality. However, there appear to be two different interpretations of whether a settlement agreement must be revealed in its entirety to nonsettling defendants before it may be confirmed.

The Fourth District Court of Appeal held that when a written settlement agreement exists at the time the settling parties seek good-faith confirmation, the settling parties must produce the agreement for a nonsettling party who opposes the motion [ Mediplex of Cal. v. Superior Court (1995) 34 CA4th 748, 754, 40 CR2d 397 ].

However, the First District Court of Appeals held that a settlement agreement need not be executed and presented to the court as long as all of the parties are timely advised of the important terms of the settlement [ Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1127, 10 CR2d 844 ]. The Alcal court held that at a minimum, a party seeking confirmation of a settlement should explain to the court and to all other parties (1) who has settled with whom; (2) the dollar amount of each settlement; (3) if any settlement is allocated and how it is allocated between issues and/or parties; and (4) what nonmonetary consideration has been included and how the parties to the settlement value the nonmonetary consideration [ Alcal Roofing & Insulation v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 1121, 1129, 10 CR2d 844 ].

Strategic Point:

Although there seems to be support for the disclosure of only the important terms of the settlement agreement, the nonsettling parties have a persuasive argument that the entire settlement agreement must be disclosed. If the settling parties want to allow access to only the non-standard provisions, the nonsettling parties should be allowed to require the settling parties to set out what they believe to be the standard provisions of such a settlement. In the end, the nonsettling parties should be allowed, at a minimum, discovery of the complete settlement agreement. Other than with respect to settlements that occur during a mediation and, thus, are protected under Evid Code §§ 1115-1128, documents exchanged in settlement negotiations or communications made during settlement negotiations are not protected from discovery. Often discovery could lead to the discovery of admissible evidence even though the settlement discussions might not be admissible at trial to prove liability [Evid Code § 1152] or to prove the invalidity of the claim [Evid Code § 1154]. Although the public policy promoting settlements almost certainly would allow a trial judge to preclude depositions of persons involved in ongoing negotiations, once the negotiations have concluded in a binding settlement agreement, it seems implausible that some limited discovery of documents exchanged in settlement negotiations would interfere with the settlement process. Documents exchanged across the settlement negotiation table clearly are not within any applicable privilege since the parties exchange such documents to persuade the opposing party, whose interests in the negotiations are clearly adverse. The Evidence Code sections that provide discovery protections regarding mediations lend support to the argument that, absent a mediation, such documents are discoverable. Because the parties that are negotiating a settlement invariably do not wish to have their respective arguments the subject of later discovery by nonsettling parties, it often is desirable to negotiate sensitive settlements only as part of a mediation.

Warning:

Counsel should be sure to satisfy Evid Code § 1123 and provide that the mediation privilege is waived as to actions for enforcement of the settlement agreement by securing from the parties a statement of agreement. Absent such a waiver provision, a party may be precluded from presenting evidence of the settlement for subsequent proceedings [see Stewart v. Preston Pipeline (2005) 134 CA4th 1565 , 1573, 36 CR3d 901 ]. The trend in case law of strictly upholding the mediation privilege is raising serious questions about the ability to enforce settlements that have been the subject of mediation.

37.37 Objecting Party May Move for Continuance.

In many instances the defendant who objects to the settlement does not possess sufficient factual information at the time of the hearing to carry the burden of proof that the settlement was not made in good faith. In such a case, it is appropriate for the objector to move for a continuance of the hearing, if necessary, for the purpose of gathering sufficient facts. The process might include further formal discovery to support the statutory burden of proof regarding all potentially applicable Tech-Bilt factors [CCP § 877.6(d); City of Grand Terrace v. Superior Court (1987) 192 CA3d 1251, 1265, 238 CR 119 ].

37.38 Special Master May Be Used to Allow Court to Make Independent Judgment.

Potential problems arise if the same judge conducts extensive settlement negotiations and then passes on the good faith of the settlement at the confirmation hearing. A judge who hears a settlement proceeding is not automatically barred from hearing a good-faith settlement motion. However, a judge should not preside over extensive settlement negotiations that produce tentative resolutions of complex issues, particularly if not all parties are represented, and then also hear the confirmation motion [ Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1493, 24 CR2d 156 ]. It may be prudent to refer complex settlement negotiations arising out of a settlement conference to a special master. The master is an officer of the court who is assumed to be acting independently. The master makes a report on settlement matters to the court, and the court is then free to exercise its independent judgment by accepting or rejecting it [ Erreca's v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 1475, 1493, 24 CR2d 156 ].

Judge's Perspective:

The use of special masters has become increasingly important in cases where a number of plaintiffs represented by the same counsel settle their case for one global amount. Generally, the special masters assist the court and counsel in the allocation process.

Locating Special Masters Using Online Resources.

Many resources are available online for locating special masters. For example, helpful resources at lexis.com include:

- Legal tab > States Legal--U.S. > California > Access Directories > CA Listings--Martindale Hubbell(R) Law Directory.

- Sample Search: To find a person with prior special master qualifications in California, try a search in the Martindale Hubbell(R) Law Directory such as: special master. If a special master is sought for a particular area of the state, try a search in this type of format: special master /100 los angeles.

- To find articles about or written by a special master once a suitable special master has been located, search the law reviews and other periodicals in Legal tab > Secondary Legal > Law Reviews, CLE,

A good-faith settlement confirmation hearing under CCP § 877.6 is equitable in nature and not an action at law. Therefore, a jury trial is neither authorized by the statute nor constitutionally required [ Widson v. International Harvester Co. (1984) 153 CA3d 45, 56-57, 200 CR 136 ].

37.40 Settling Defendant May Recover Comparative Indemnity From Nonsettling Tortfeasor.

Subject to possible limitations imposed by Proposition 51 [see 37.24], a settling defendant may recover comparative indemnity from a nonsettling tortfeasor [ Bolamperti v. Larco Mfg. (1985) 164 CA3d 249, 251-255, 210 CR 155 ; Teachers Ins. Co. v. Smith (1982) 128 CA3d 862, 866, 180 CR 701 ]. It does not matter whether the settling party was originally sued by the plaintiff or was brought into the action as a cross-defendant for indemnity [ Widson v. International Harvester Co. (1984) 153 CA3d 45, 57, 200 CR 136 ].

The settling defendant is not required to first prove that the amount paid in settlement exceeded the settling defendant's proportionate share as a condition on seeking indemnity [ Gross v. Allen (1994) 22 CA4th 354, 360-361, 27 CR2d 429 ]. Conversely, the proposed indemnitor is not bound by the settlement amount as the measure of the plaintiff's damages, even if the settlement has been found to be in good faith. The indemnitor may attempt to prove that the damages were less than the settlement, and consequently, that its liability for indemnity is less than the amount claimed based on the settlement [ Western S.S. Lines, Inc. v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1994) 8 C4th 100, 118-119, 32 CR2d 263, 876 P2d 1062 ].

If there is a contract that expressly provides for indemnity rights between codefendants, a good-faith settlement by the contract indemnitor does not defeat a nonsettling indemnitee's right to express contractual indemnity [ Bay Dev., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1990) 50 C3d 1012, 1019, 1032, 269 CR 720, 791 P2d 290 ; C. L. Peck Contractors v. Superior Court (1984) 159 CA3d 828, 834, 205 CR 754 ].

IV. BRINGING MOTION TO DETERMINE GOOD-FAITH SETTLEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.41

37.41 Claims for Indemnity Are Barred by Good-Faith Settlement.

A good-faith settlement discharges the settling tortfeasor from all liability for comparative indemnity to any other parties [CCP § 877(b); American Motorcycle Assn. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1978) 20 C3d 578, 604, 146 CR 182, 578 P2d 899; Willdan v. Sialic Contractors Corp. (2007) 158 CA4th 47, 54, 69 CR3d 633]. A determination by the court that the settlement was made in good faith bars any other joint tortfeasor from any further claims against the settling tortfeasor for equitable comparative contribution or partial or comparative indemnity based on comparative negligence or comparative fault [CCP § 877.6(c); see Fullerton Redev. Agency v. S. Cal. Gas Co. (2010) 183 CA4th 428, 432, 107 CR3d 396 (bars contribution and indemnity claims asserted under H&S Code § 25363); Mid-Century Ins. Exch. v. Daimler-Chrysler Corp. (2001) 93 CA4th 310, 315-317, 112 CR2d 880]. This bar extends to both claims for total equitable indemnity and claims for implied contractual indemnity [ Bay Dev., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1990) 50 C3d 1012, 1028-1035, 269 CR 720, 791 P2d 290 (implied contractual immunity); Far West Fin. Corp. v. D & S Co. (1988) 46 C3d 796, 800, 817, 251 CR 202, 760 P2d 399 (total equitable indemnity)].

Exception:

A settlement agreement that expressly excludes specific claims from the agreement preserves both the claims and the right to comparative indemnity from joint tortfeasors [ Willdan v. Sialic Contractors Corp. (2007) 158 CA4th 47, 54-57, 69 CR3d 633 ].

Distinguish:

A claim by a joint tortfeasor seeking neither indemnity nor contribution and that the trial court would not contemplate in determining the proportionate liability of a settling tortfeasor is not a claim for indemnity and hence survives a good faith settlement bar under CCP § 877.6(c) [ In re Heritage Bond Litigation (9th Cir. 2008) 546 F3d 667, 681 ].

Distinguish:

Express contractual indemnity claims are not barred by a good-faith settlement determination [ C.L. Peck Contractors v. Superior Court (1984) 159 CA3d 828, 833-834, 205 CR 754 ].

IV. BRINGING MOTION TO DETERMINE GOOD-FAITH SETTLEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.42

37.42 Sliding Scale Agreements May Be Confirmed as Good-Faith Agreements.

Sliding-scale agreements may be confirmed as in good faith under CCP § 877.6. Confirmation has the same effect for a sliding-scale settlement agreement as it has for a regular settlement agreement [see J. Allen Radford Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 216 CA3d 1418, 1423-1424, 265 CR 535 ].

To meet its burden of proving a lack of good faith, a nonsettling defendant is entitled to discover all of the terms of the settlement agreement [ J. Allen Radford Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 216 CA3d 1418, 1423-1424, 265 CR 535 ].

Strategic Point--Nonsettling Party:

Any sliding scale settlement should be read carefully by the nonsettling party to ensure that it obtains full value for set-off purposes and that there are no provisions within the agreement that unfairly burden the nonsettling party.

Cross References:

37.43 Settling Party May Obtain Discharge From Comparative Indemnity Claims by Requesting Dismissal of Affected Pleading or Portion of Pleading.

CCP §§ 877 and 877.6(c) provide for the discharge of the settling party from comparative indemnity claims once the court has determined that the settlement is in good faith. However, neither statute specifies a procedure by which the discharge or bar may be implemented with regard to the settling and nonsettling tortfeasors. Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.1382, allowing for dismissal of a pleading or a portion of a pleading to be requested at the time of making the good-faith application or motion, affords the best mechanism for obtaining discharge of such claims.

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.44

37.44 Judicial Determination That Settlement Is Not in Good Faith Does Not Necessarily Invalidate Settlement.

A judicial determination that a settlement is not in good faith does not necessarily invalidate the settlement unless the settlement agreement itself so provides [see Killian v. Millard (1991) 228 CA3d 1601, 1607 n2, 279 CR 877 ; Rankin v. Curtis (1986) 183 CA3d 939, 949, 228 CR 753 ]. Rather, the effect is that the settling defendants will not be afforded protection from subsequent indemnity claims by nonsettling defendants [see Killian v. Millard (1991) 228 CA3d 1601, 1607 n2, 279 CR 877 ].

Warning:

If your client presumes that he or she will be protected by a settlement, the settlement agreement must be contingent on a good-faith finding. Otherwise, your client will remain exposed to cross-actions.

37.45 Review of Good-Faith Settlement Determination.

37.45[1] Good-Faith Determination Is Interlocutory and Nonappealable, but Determination May Be Reviewed by Writ. A determination that a settlement was made in good faith is an interlocutory decree and is nonappealable [ Chernett v. Jacques (1988) 202 CA3d 69, 71, 248 CR 63 ; Barth-Wittmore Ins. v. H.R. Murphy Enters., Inc. (1985) 169 CA3d 124, 130, 214 CR 894 ]. However, any party aggrieved by the trial court's determination that a settlement was made with or without good faith may petition the proper court for a writ of mandate to obtain a review of the determination [CCP § 877.6(e); see Abbott Ford, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 43 C3d 858, 868, 239 CR 626, 741 P2d 124 ].

The good-faith determination cannot be reviewed for the first time in an appeal from the final judgment arising out of the trial of the plaintiff's claims against the nonsettling defendants [ Main Fiber Prods., Inc. v. Morgan & Franz Ins. Agency (1999) 73 CA4th 1130, 1136-1137, 87 CR2d 108 ]. A party may, however, challenge the good-faith determination in a post-judgment appeal when its prejudgment writ has been summarily denied [see Maryland Cas. Co. v. Andreini & Co. (2000) 81 CA4th 1413, 1425, 97 CR2d 752 ].

Review by writ may encompass the order or judgment dismissing the indemnity claim because of the good-faith determination, but such review is not compelled by CCP § 877.6(e) [ Housing Group v. Superior Court (1994) 24 CA4th 549, 552, 29 CR2d 460 ].

Warning:

If you wish to challenge the trial court finding on good faith, you must file a writ.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of procedure for writ of mandate, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender).

37.45[2] Writ Petition Must Be Filed Within 20 Days After Service of Written Notice of Determination or as the Court Allows. The writ of mandate petition must be filed within 20 days after service of written notice of the determination, or within such additional time, not exceeding 20 days, as the trial court may allow [CCP § 877.6(e)].

37.45[3] Reviewing Court Must Notify Parties of Decision on Whether to Hear Writ Within 30 Days of Receipt of Materials. The reviewing court must, within 30 days of the receipt of all materials to be filed by the parties, determine whether it will hear the writ and notify the parties of the determination [CCP § 877.6(e)(1)]. If the court grants a hearing on the writ, the hearing must be given special precedence over all other civil matters on the court's calendar except those matters to which equal or greater calendar precedence is granted by law [CCP § 877.6(e)(2)]. The running of any time period after which the action would be subject to dismissal pursuant to CCP §§ 583.110-583.440 is tolled during the review period [CCP § 877.6(e)(3)].

V. ADDRESSING POST-SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT ISSUES

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.46

37.46 Settlement Agreement May Be Enforced by Parties.

37.46[1] Settlement Agreements Are Governed by Contract Principles. Settlement agreements are contracts that may be enforced as any other contract, including by way of an action for specific performance [ Nicholson v. Barab (1991) 233 CA3d 1671, 1681, 285 CR 441 ; Gopal v. Yoshikawa (1983) 147 CA3d 128, 132, 195 CR 36 ; Barndt v. County of Los Angeles (1989) 211 CA3d 397, 403-406, 259 CR 372 ]. However, a court will not enforce a settlement agreement provision that is illegal, contrary to public policy, or unjust [ California State Auto Ass'n Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Superior Court (1990) 50 C3d 658, 664, 268 CR 284, 788 P2d 1156 ; Timney v. Lin (2003) 106 CA4th 1121, 1127, 131 CR2d 387 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of specific performance, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 528, Specific Performance (Matthew Bender).

Strategic Point:

If settlement is not reached in court so that CCP § 664.6 is not applicable, the parties should consider the inclusion of an arbitration clause in the written settlement agreement to address any post-settlement agreement disputes.

37.46[2] Oral Settlements Enforceable Unless Statute of Frauds Applies. Oral settlement agreements are enforceable in the same manner as oral agreements in general, unless the statute of frauds requires a writing [see, e.g., Ryan v. Garcia (1994) 27 CA4th 1006, 1009, 33 CR2d 158 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of statute of frauds requirements, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 530, Statute of Frauds (Matthew Bender).

37.46[3] Settlement May Be Enforced by Summary Judgment Motion. Settlement may be enforced by a motion for summary judgment under CCP § 437c, provided there are no undisputed facts [ Kilpatrick v. Beebe (1990)

219 CA3d 1527, 1529-1530, 269 CR 52 ; Hastings v. Matlock (1980) 107 CA3d 876, 882-883, 166 CR 229 (no summary judgment when facts are disputed)].

➡ Cross Reference:

37.46[4] Settlement May Be Raised as Affirmative Defense. Settlement may be raised as an affirmative defense [ Thompson v. Williams (1989) 211 CA3d 566, 571, 259 CR 518 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

V. ADDRESSING POST-SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT ISSUES

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.47

37.47 Party May Make Motion to Enforce Settlement and Enter Judgment Under CCP § 664.6.

37.47[1] CCP § 664.6 Allows for Judgment by Stipulation. If parties to pending litigation stipulate, either in writing signed by the parties outside the presence of the court or orally before the court, for settlement of the case, the court may entertain a motion to enter judgment pursuant to the terms of the settlement [CCP § 664.6]. The trial court's order must accurately state all terms of the agreed settlement [ Hines v. Lukes (2008) 167 CA4th 1174, 1185, 84 CR3d 689 ].

Strategic Point:

A plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss an action under CCP § 581 in which a motion for enforce settlement under CCP § 664.6 is pending any time before a ruling on the enforcement motion [ Lewis C. Nelson & Sons, Inc. v. Lynx Iron Corp. (2009) 174 CA4th 67, 80, 94 CR3d 468] .

Cross Reference:

Form of Notice of Motion to Enter Judgment Pursuant to CCP § 664.6, see 37.66.

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Points and Authorities, §§ 131.21, 131.25, 131.26 (Matthew Bender).

37.47[2] CCP § 664.6 Inapplicable to Settlements Reached Before Lawsuit Filed or After Judgment. CCP § 664.6 only applies to settlements reached during pending litigation. It does not apply to settlements reached before a lawsuit is filed [ Kirby v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (2000) 78 CA4th 840, 844-846, 93 CR2d 223 ; Housing Group v. United Nat. Ins. Co. (2001) 90 CA4th 1106, 109 CR2d 497 ].

Likewise, CCP § 664.6 does not apply to settlements reached after a cause of action is reduced to judgment [ Walton v. Mueller (2009) 180 CA4th 161, 173, 102 CR3d 605] .

37.47[3] CCP § 664.6 Allows Court to Retain Jurisdiction to Enforce Settlement. The court may, if requested by the parties before dismissal of the suit, retain jurisdiction over the parties to enforce the settlement until performance in full of the terms of the settlement [CCP § 664.6]. The request must be made orally before the court or in a signed writing, and it must be made by the parties, not by their attorneys or agents [ Wackeen v. Malis (2002) 97 CA4th 429, 433, 118 CR2d 502 ]. The request to retain jurisdiction must be made orally or in writing to the court, and merely including the request in the settlement agreement without directly asking the court to retain jurisdiction is insufficient [ Hagan Eng'g, Inc. v. Mills (2003) 115 CA4th 1004, 1010-1011 ].

Warning:

If the parties do not request continuing jurisdiction, the court has no subject matter jurisdiction over the matter once the suit has been dismissed [ Wackeen v. Malis (2002) 97 CA4th 429, 433, 118 CR2d 502 ].

37.47[4] Court Must Determine If Parties Entered Into Binding Settlement. A court may enforce a settlement pursuant to CCP § 664.6 so long as there is a sufficient meeting of the minds between the parties for the settlement to be binding [ In re Marriage of Assemi (1994) 7 C4th 896, 905, 30 CR2d 265, 872 P2d 1190 ; Malouf Bros. v. Dixon (1991) 230 CA3d 280, 283-284, 281 CR 235 ].

Strategic Point:

In a dispute over a 664.6 motion, the trial court acts as the trier of fact, and may consider oral testimony or determine the motion upon declarations alone. When the same judge hears the settlement and the motion to enter judgment on the settlement, he or she may consult his or her memory [ Osumi v. Sutton (2007) 151 CA4th 1355, 1360, 60 CR3d 693 ]. Accordingly, after filing or responding to notice of filing of a 664.6 motion, counsel must prepare declarations covering all issues of fact raised in the motion and be prepared for trial on any or all of them.

Distinguish:

A trial judge may not create the material terms of a settlement, as opposed to deciding what terms the parties themselves have previously agreed upon [ Osumi v. Sutton (2007) 151 CA4th 1355, 1360-1361, 60 CR3d 693 ].

In assessing whether a settlement is binding, the court looks to the following factors [ In re Marriage of Assemi (1994) 7 C4th 896, 911, 30 CR2d 265, 872 P2d 1190 ]:

- Whether the material terms of the settlement were explicitly defined.
- Whether the supervising judicial officer questioned the parties regarding their understanding of the terms.
- Whether the parties expressly acknowledged their understanding of, and agreement to be bound by, those terms.

A settlement agreement, like any other contract, is unenforceable if the parties fail to agree on a material term or if a material term is not reasonably certain. Leaving an unresolved term for future agreement is not invariably fatal, since a settlement may be enforceable if the parties agree the remaining issue will be decided by arbitration [ Lindsay v. Lewandowski (2007) 139 CA4th 1618, 1623, 43 CR3d 846 (court voided stipulation)].

37.47[5] Parties Must Sign Written Settlement Agreements. CCP § 664.6 may only be used to enforce a settlement signed by the parties themselves, not by their attorneys or agents [ Levy v. Superior Court (1995) 10 C4th 578, 580, 586, 41 CR2d 878, 896 P2d 171 (attorney); Gauss v. GAF Corp. (2002) 103 CA4th 1110, 1112, 127 CR2d 370 (agent)]. Additionally, a written settlement agreement must be signed by both parties, not just the party to be charged, in order to be enforced [ Harris v. Rudin, Richman & Appel (1999) 74 CA4th 299, 304-306, 87 CR2d 822 ].

37.47[6] Oral Settlement Must Be Made Before the Court. To be enforceable under CCP § 664.6, an oral settlement must be made before the court, at a judicially supervised proceeding [CCP § 664.6; Skulnick v. Roberts Express, Inc. (1992) 2 CA4th 884, 889, 3 CR2d 597 ].

Example:

It has been held that a settlement made in the course of a binding arbitration before a retired judge qualified as "before the court" within the meaning of CCP § 664.6 [ In re Marriage of Assemi (1994) 7 C4th 896, 906-910, 30 CR2d 265, 872 P2d 1190 ]. A settlement placed on the record at a deposition, however, does not qualify as "before the court" [ City of Fresno v. Maroot (1987) 189 CA3d 755, 762, 234 CR 353 ; Datatronic Sys. Corp. v. Speron, Inc. (1986) 176 CA3d 1168, 1173-1174, 222 CR 658 ].

Distinguish:

CCP § 664.6 does not require that the party to be bound consent to the settlement "on the record," only that the party consent to it "orally before the court." Thus, a party who stipulates orally before the trial court to the settlement by stating in open court that he or she understands the terms of the agreement and accepts them may not challenge the terms of the settlement [ 1538 Cahuenga Partners, LLC v. Turmeko Properties, Inc. (2009) 176 CA4th 139, 143, 97 CR3d 552] .

Courts have split over whether the failure to comply with an applicable statute of frauds bars enforcement of oral settlement agreements, even though they are placed on the record in front of a judicial officer [see, e.g., Kohn v. Jaymar-Ruby, Inc. (1994) 23 CA4th 1530, 1534-1534, 28 CR2d 780 (holding failure to comply with statute of frauds does not bar enforcement); Nicholson v. Barab (1991) 233 CA3d 1671, 1683, 285 CR 441 (court refused to exempt oral settlement agreement from statute of frauds requirement)].

37.47[7] Five-Year Dismissal Deadline Not Applicable. The five-year time period in CCP § 583.310 for bringing an action to trial does not bar a court from enforcing a settlement agreement pursuant to CCP § 664.6 more than five years after the case has been filed [ Canal Street, Ltd. v. Sorich (2000) 77 CA4th 602, 608, 91 CR2d 811 ; Malouf Bros. v. Dixon (1991) 230 CA3d 280, 284-285, 281 CR 235 ; but see Varwig v. Leider (1985) 171 CA3d 312, 315-316, 217 CR 208 (contra, but not followed in subsequent opinions and superseded by statute)].

37.48 Party Can Plead Compromise and Settlement as Affirmative Defense.

37.48[1] Party Must Plead Elements of Compromise. A party may plead the following elements to establish compromise and settlement as a valid defense to an action [ Stub v. Belmont (1942) 20 C2d 208, 215-217, 124 P2d 826 ]:

- A dispute in good faith over a legal claim;
- Offer and acceptance of the compromise; and
- Consideration.

37.48[2] Party May Plead Accord and Satisfaction as Affirmative Defense. A party may plead the following elements to establish accord and satisfaction as a defense to a claim [ Potter v. Pacific Coast Lumber Co. (1951) 37 C2d 592, 597, 234 P2d 16 ; Thompson v. Williams (1989) 211 CA3d 566, 571, 259 CR 518 ]:

- There was a bona fide dispute between the parties;
- The debtor made it clear that acceptance of the amount tendered was subject to the condition that it was to be in full satisfaction of the creditor's claim; and
- The creditor clearly understood, in accepting the amount tendered, that the debtor intended the remittance to constitute payment in full of the claim.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of accord and satisfaction, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 6, Accord and Satisfaction (Matthew Bender).

37.48[3] Defendant May Plead Tender as Defense in Action to Recover Money. In an action for recovery of money, a defendant may plead as an affirmative defense that before commencement of the action he or she tendered to the plaintiff the full amount to which the plaintiff was entitled, and thereon deposit in court, for plaintiff, the amount so tendered. If the defendant prevails on the affirmative defense, the plaintiff cannot recover costs, but must pay costs to the defendant [CCP § 1025].

37.49 Parties May File Supplemental Pleading and Seek Separate Trial When Settlement Reached Following Initial Pleadings.

A party who claims that the dispute at issue in a lawsuit has been settled may file a supplemental complaint or answer [CCP § 464] regarding the settlement and ask the court to bifurcate the trial and try the issue of whether there has been a settlement in advance of any trial on the merits pursuant [CCP § 597; see *Hastings v. 37.51 Parties to Appeal Reaching Settlement Must Inform Appellate Court.

If a civil case settles after a notice of appeal has been filed, either as a whole or as to any party, the appellant who has settled must immediately serve and file a notice of settlement in the Court of Appeal [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(a)(1)].

If the parties have designated a clerk's or a reporter's transcript and the record has not been filed in the Court of Appeal, the appellant must also immediately serve a copy of the notice on the superior court clerk [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(a)(1)].

If the case settles after the appellant receives a notice setting oral argument or a prehearing conference, the appellant must also immediately notify the Court of Appeal of the settlement by telephone or other expeditious method [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(a)(2)].

Within 45 days after filing a notice of settlement, or the end of a longer time period that the court has allowed on a showing of good cause, the appellant who filed the notice of settlement must file either an abandonment [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(b)] if the record has not yet been filed in the Court of Appeal, or a request to dismiss [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(c)] if the record has already been filed in the Court of Appeal [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(a)(3)]. If the appellant does not timely file an abandonment, a request to dismiss, or a letter stating good cause why the appeal should not be dismissed, the court may dismiss the appeal as to that appellant and order each side to bear its own costs on appeal [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(a)(4)].

Warning:

Counsel who fails to notify the Court of Appeals of settlement as required by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244 may be subject to sanction under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.276(a)(4) in the amount of the Court's actual costs [ Huschke v. Slater (2008) 168 CA4th 1153, 1162-1163, 86 CR3d 187 ] .

Exception:

The aforementioned rules do not apply to settlements requiring findings to be made by the Court of Appeal under CCP § 128(a)(8) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.244(a)(5); see 37.51A].

- There is no reasonable possibility that the interests of nonparties or the public will be adversely affected by the reversal, and

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
VI. ENTERING INTO A VALID RELEASE AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.53

37.53 Options and Strategies for Entering Into a Valid Release Agreement.

Counsel should always fully discuss the terms and the effect of a release with the client.

It is also important to determine whether any release will be mutual. Plaintiffs may ask for a release from the defendants, and if this is a term of the settlement, the defendant must be certain that it is willing to waive any and all claims that it may have against the plaintiff.

Strategic Point:

A release arising out of a postjudgment settlement that does not release the plaintiff's attorney from liability arising out of the action and leaves a judgment in favor of defendant intact preserves the defendant's right, if any, to claim status as the prevailing party in the action for purposes of a subsequent suit against the plaintiff's attorney for malicious prosecution [ Siebel v. Mittlesteadt (2007) 41 Cal4th 735, 743, 62 CR3d 155, 161 P3d 527 (court did not resolve issues concerning the enforceability of client-only releases and public policy defenses available to attorneys in malicious prosecution action under such circumstances)]. Accordingly, counsel negotiating a postjudgment release for a prevailing defendant wanting to preserve a possible malicious prosecution case against the plaintiff's attorney should exclude plaintiff's counsel from general release. Similarly, counsel for the plaintiff having any doubt as to the possibility of sustaining a malicious prosecution judgment as a result of the litigation should consider seeking requisite language in the release agreement. However, at that point, the interests of counsel and the client may diverge, creating a conflict of interest that must be handled in accordance with professional ethics rules.

Handling conflict between interests of counsel and client, see Ch. 3, Beginning and Terminating the Attorney-Client Relationship, § 3.03 et seq.

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
VI. ENTERING INTO A VALID RELEASE AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.54

37.54 Release Is Abandonment, Relinquishment, or Surrender of a Known Claim.

37.54[1] Definition of "Releasor" and "Releasee" Is Broader Than "Creditor" and "Debtor." A "creditor" may surrender a claim by giving a release to the "debtor." However, a release may surrender a claim other than one based on a debt. The term "releasor" designates the person who surrenders a claim, and "releasee" designates the person against whom that claim might have been enforced [CC §§ 1541-1543].

37.54[2] Covenant Not to Sue Is Not a Relinquishment but an Agreement Not to Enforce a Cause of Action. A covenant not to sue can be distinguished from a release in that a covenant not to sue is not a present abandonment or relinquishment of a right or claim, but merely an agreement not to enforce an existing cause of action. A covenant not to sue does not extinguish a cause of action [ Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 26 C2d 705, 711, 160 P2d 783 ]. Practically speaking, however, the two types of agreement have the same effect, which is that there can be no further recovery from the settling defendant [ Messler v. Bragg Mgmt. Co. (1985) 39 C3d 290, 298, 216 CR 443, 702 P2d 601 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
VI. ENTERING INTO A VALID RELEASE AGREEMENT

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.55

37.55 Release Operates to Relinquish a Known Right or Claim.

37.55[1] Release Relinquishes Claim by Person in Whom It Exists. A release is the abandonment, relinquishment, or surrender of a known right or claim, by the person in whom it exists or to whom it accrues, to the person against whom it might have been demanded or enforced, operating to extinguish a cause of action [ Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 26 C2d 705, 711, 160 P2d 783 ; Hastings v. Matlock (1980) 107 CA3d 876, 882, 166 CR 229 ; Skrbina v. Fleming Cos. (1996) 45 CA4th 1353, 1366, 53 CR2d 481 ; see also CC § 1541].

37.55[2] Release Estops Parties From Relitigating Claim. A valid release conclusively estops the parties from reviving and relitigating the claim released [ Faye v. Feldman (1954) 128 CA2d 319, 328, 275 P2d 121 ].

Exception:

If it is shown that one of the parties did not assent to the release or that fraud, deception, misrepresentation, duress, or undue influence was involved, the party is not estopped from claiming the release is not binding [ Skrbina v. Fleming Cos. (1996) 45 CA4th 1353, 1366-1367, 53 CR2d 481 ].

37.55[3] Release of One Joint Tortfeasor Does Not Release Others. A release of one or more but not all of a number of joint tortfeasors or co-obligors does not extinguish the cause of action against or discharge the remaining tortfeasors [CC § 1543; CCP § 877]. Pursuant to CCP § 877, such a settlement and release that is in good faith reduces the claims against the remaining tortfeasors by the amount stipulated by the release or by the amount paid in consideration for the release, whichever is greater [CCP § 877(a)]. In the determination of the amount of the setoff, while the nonsettling defendant is entitled to a fair setoff, the injured plaintiff also has a right that the setoff not be excessive [ Franklin Mint Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 130 CA4th 1550, 1556-1557 ]. CCP § 877 does not apply to co-obligors who have expressly agreed in writing to an apportionment of liability among themselves [CCP § 877(b)].

► Cross References:

Discussion of release of fewer than all joint tortfeasors or obligors, see 37.23.

Discussion of CCP § 877.6 motion to determine that a settlement is in good faith, see 37.28 -37.45.

37.55[4] Release Does Not Extend to Unknown Claims. A general release does not extend to claims that the releasor does not know or suspect to exist in his or her favor at the time of executing the release when those claims, if known by the creditor, would have materially affected the settlement with the debtor [CC § 1542].

Whether a later-discovered claim was intended to be covered by a broad release can be a disputable issue of fact [ Butler v. Vons Companies, Inc. (2006) 140 CA4th 943, 950, 45 CR3d 151 ]. If the release unambiguously encompasses all unknown claims, the uncommunicated subjective intent of the releasor that unknown claims were not to be released does not create a triable issue of fact [ Winet v. Price (1992) 4 CA4th 1159, 1167, 1170-1171 n7, 6 CR2d 554 ]. Courts have considered the following factors in determining whether a release of unknown claims was knowingly made [ Casey v. Proctor (1963) 59 C2d 97, 113, 28 CR 307, 378 P2d 579 ]:

- The amount of consideration received compared with the risk of the existence of unknown injuries;
- The presence of bargaining and negotiation leading to the settlement;
- The closeness of the issue of liability;
- Whether the subject of personal injuries was discussed; and
- The reasonableness of the contention that the injuries were, in fact, unknown at the time the release was executed.

Strategic Point:

In practice, most settlement agreements provide an express waiver of CC § 1542 so that there is a release of even unknown claims. The defendant wishes to obtain complete peace. Note that the release of an unknown claim arising from a past event is different from a claim from an event that has not yet occurred. Problems can arise, for example, in the settlement of construction defect litigation when one of the defects is a safety-related defect that could injure third parties after the settlement. If an arguably responsible defendant pays to settle the safety-related defect claim but the homeowners' association has not yet remedied the safety-related defect, the settling defendant could potentially be held liable for future injuries notwithstanding a waiver of CC § 1542. In such cases the settling defendant may need to insist on an indemnity provision or a contractual commitment that the safety-related defect will be remedied within a short period of time.

37.55[5] Exculpatory Release That Exempts Releasor From Fraud, Willful Injury, or Violation of Law Is Invalid. An exculpatory release that attempts to exempt a person from responsibility for his or her own fraud, willful injury to another's person or property, or violation of law violates public policy [CC § 1668]. This rule does not apply to a release from liability for future simple negligence or strict liability, and even a release agreement that is found to be a contract of adhesion is enforceable if it does not defeat the weaker party's reasonable expectations and is not unconscionable [ Hulsey v. Elsinore Parachute Ctr. (1985) 168 CA3d 333, 341-342, 214 CR 194 ].

A release limiting an attorney's liability to his or her client for future malpractice is invalid [see Cal Rules Prof Conduct, Rule 3-400(A); but see Donnelly v. Ayer (1986) 183 CA3d 978, 984, 228 CR 764 (upholding validity of agreement to settle an existing malpractice claim after the attorney-client relationship had been terminated)].

VI. ENTERING INTO A VALID RELEASE AGREEMENT

37.56 Rules Governing Contract Interpretation Apply to Releases.

37.56[1] Parties Generally Held to Express Terms of Release. In the absence of unfair conduct on the part of the releasee, courts have held that the law should hold the parties to the express terms of the release [ Casey v. Proctor (1963) 59 C2d 97, 111, 28 CR 307, 378 P2d 579 ].

37.56[2] Courts Interpret Releases as They Would Any Contract. The general rules governing the interpretation and construction of contracts apply to releases [ Hess v. Ford Motor Co. (2002) 27 C4th 516, 524, 117 CR2d 220, 41 P3d 46 ; Elite Show Servs., Inc. v. Staffpro, Inc. (2004) 119 CA4th 263, 268 ; see also CC § 1635-1662 (rules governing interpretation of contracts)].

Neither the clerk nor the court is authorized to adjudicate a dispute over the terms of § 998 agreements before entering judgment [ Berg v. Darden (2004) 120 CA4th 721, 727 ].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of the rules for interpreting contracts, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 140, Contracts (Matthew Bender).

37.56[3] Court Must Consider Other Documents Referred to in Release. If a release refers to another document or transaction, the court must construe the release together with all referenced documents or transactions to determine the intention of the parties [ Consumers Holding Co. v. County of Los Angeles (1962) 204 CA2d 234, 241, 22 CR 106 ].

37.56[4] Court May Consider Extrinsic Evidence of Parties' Intentions. When the language of a release is fairly susceptible to one of two constructions, extrinsic evidence may be considered, not to vary or modify the terms of the agreement, but to aid the court in ascertaining the true intent of the parties [ Butler v. Vons Companies, Inc. (2006) 140 CA4th 943, 949, 45 CR3d 151 (release ambiguous); Denver D. Darling, Inc. v. Controlled Environments Construction, Inc. (2001) 89 CA4th 1221, 1236, 108 CR2d 213 ; see CCP § 1856].

Prerequisite:

The party claiming a release is ambiguous may have to introduce evidence showing the ambiguity. The test for admissibility of such evidence is whether it is relevant to prove a meaning to which the language of the instrument is reasonably susceptible [ Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. v. G.W. Thomas Drayage etc. Co. (1968) 69 C2d 33, 37, 69 CR 561, 442 P2d 641 ].

Exception:

When there is no ambiguity in the express language of the release, extrinsic evidence is not admissible to prove a contrary intention of a party that was undisclosed during negotiations [see, e.g., Edwards v. Comstock Ins. Co. (1988) 205 CA3d 1164, 1167-1169, 252 CR 807 (in case in which insureds executed "release of all claims" with their insurer, parol evidence of undisclosed intention to retain right to bring bad-faith action was inadmissible) see also Claxton v. Waters (2004) 34 C4th 367, 377, 96 P3d 496 (extrinsic evidence excluded about scope of preprinted workers' compensation release)].

37.56[5] Release Construed Against Drafting Party. Releases are construed against those who draft them and ambiguities are construed against those who cause them to exist [ Berg v. Darden (2004) 120 CA4th 721, 727 ; Estate of O'Donnell (1978) 80 CA3d 514, 519, 145 CR 617 ].

37.57 Valid Release Agreement Must Meet Certain Standards.

37.57[1] Parties Must Assent to Terms of Release. All parties to the release must assent to its terms, or else the release never becomes effective [ Smith v. Occidental etc. S.S. Co. (1893) 99 C 462, 470-471, 34 P 84 ; Wheat v. Morse (1961) 197 CA2d 203, 206, 17 CR 226 ]. A releasor who has no disability preventing him or her from reading a written release is generally bound by its clear provisions [ DuBois v. Sparrow (1979) 92 CA3d 290, 298, 154 CR 717 ]. However, if a misapprehension as to the nature and scope of the release is due to misconduct of the releasee, the release is binding only to the extent actually intended by the releasor [ Casey v. Proctor (1963) 59 C2d 97, 103, 28 CR 307, 378 P2d 579 ; Jordan v. Guerra (1943) 23 C2d 469, 475-476, 144 P2d 349 ].

37.57[2] Release Need Not Be Written Unless Statute of Frauds So Requires. In general, a release need not be in writing unless it is subject to the statute of frauds [CC §§ 1541, 1624; Hastings v. Matlock (1980) 107 CA3d 876, 882, 166 CR 229 ].

Judge's Perspective:

All releases should be in writing.

37.57[3] Oral Release Must Be Supported by Consideration. An oral release must be supported by new consideration [CC § 1541]. A written release may, but need not be, supported by consideration [CC § 1541; Worthington v. State Bd. of Control (1968) 266 CA2d 697, 699-700, 72 CR 449 ].

37.57[4] Written Release Must Expressly Show Intent. A written release that is unsupported by consideration must be plain and explicit and expressly show the releasor's intent to extinguish the obligation [ Sheehan v. Atlanta Int'l Ins. Co. (9th Cir 1987) 812 F2d 465, 470 ; Tenzer v. Superscope, Inc. (1985) 39 C3d 18, 31 n7, 216 CR 130, 702 P2d 212 ].

37.57[5] Release Is Operative Once Delivered. A written release, signed by the releasor, is considered operative once it is delivered, whether consideration is paid at that time or not [ Hofland v. Gustafson (1955) 132 CA 907, 132

CA2d Supp 907, 909, 282 P2d 1039 ].

37.57[6] If Release Contains a Condition Precedent, Release Is Not Operative Until Occurrence of Condition. If a release is subject to a condition precedent, it is not operative until the occurrence of the condition [ Johnson v. Pickwick Stages Sys. (1930) 108 CA 279, 284, 291 P 611 ].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release

VII. ENFORCING OR CHALLENGING A RELEASE AGREEMENT AFTER EXECUTION

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.59

37.59 Methods for Enforcement of Release.

37.59[1] Release May Be Raised as Affirmative Defense to an Action. A release may be pleaded as an affirmative defense to an action based on the obligation that was extinguished by the release [ Pellett v. Sonotone Corp. (1945) 26 C2d 705, 711, 160 P2d 783 ; Landis v. Morrissey (1886) 69 C 83, 86, 10 P 258 ].

Exception:

If the release is subject to a condition precedent that has not occurred, it will not bar a cause of action because it is not operative until the occurrence of the condition [ Johnson v. Pickwick Stages Sys. (1930) 108 CA 279, 284, 291 P 611 ].

37.59[2] Release May Be Enforced as a Specifically Performable Settlement and Release Agreement. A party may also bring an action for specific performance of a settlement and release agreement. The complaint must allege a definite, just, and reasonable contract, adequacy of consideration, and resultant breach [see Hastings v. Matlock (1980) 107 CA3d 876, 882, 166 CR 229 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 528, Specific Performance (Matthew Bender).

37.59[3] Release May Be Enforced by Declaratory Relief Action. In certain circumstances, the releasor or the releasee may bring a declaratory relief action for a declaration of his or her rights under a release [CCP § 1060]. In the declaratory relief action, the court may make a binding declaration of the rights and duties of the parties, including a declaration as to the validity of the release [see, e.g., Union P. R. Co. v. Zimmer (1948) 87 CA2d 524, 528, 197 P2d 363 (releasor attempted to rescind release and releasee believed rescission was invalid)].

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release
VII. ENFORCING OR CHALLENGING A RELEASE AGREEMENT AFTER EXECUTION

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.60

37.60 Party May Oppose Enforcement of Release.

37.60[1] Party May Challenge Validity of Release on Contract Grounds. A party may challenge the validity of the release on the same grounds available for a challenge to the validity of a contract [see, e.g., Union P. R. Co. v. Zimmer (1948) 87 CA2d 524, 528, 197 P2d 363 (mutual mistake); Baird v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1919) 39 CA 512, 514, 179 P 449 (defense of release may be controverted by evidence of fraud, mistake, undue influence, compromise, payment, estoppel, mental incompetency, and like defenses)].

37.60[2] Party May Controvert Affirmative Defense Pleading Release. A releasor may challenge the enforcement of a release by controverting the affirmative defense that a release precludes the claim [see, e.g., Baird v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1919) 39 CA 512, 514, 179 P 449 ].

Strategic Point:

When the releasee pleads the release as an affirmative defense and the releasor controverts this affirmative defense, the releasee may move for a trial of that defense before trial of any other issue in the case [CCP § 597; Hastings v. Matlock (1980) 107 CA3d 876, 881, 166 CR 229 ].

37.60[3] Party May Bring Action to Cancel, Void, Reform, or Rescind a Release. A releasor may bring an action to cancel a void or voidable written release [CC § 3412]. He or she may also bring an action to declare a release void [CC § 1060], reform a release agreement [CC § 3399], or rescind a voidable release [CC § 1692].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of void releases, see 37.62.

37.60[4] Challenging Party Has Burden of Proof. The party challenging the validity of the release generally has the burden of proof on that issue [see, e.g., Myers v. Carter (1963) 215 CA2d 238, 242, 30 CR 91 ; Chung v. Johnston (1954) 128 CA2d 157, 164, 274 P2d 922 ; Castor v. Bernstein (1906) 2 CA 703, 708, 84 P 244 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

Chapter 37 Settlement and Release

VII. ENFORCING OR CHALLENGING A RELEASE AGREEMENT AFTER EXECUTION

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.61

37.61 Release May Be Subject to Rescission.

37.61[1] Release May Be Rescinded in Same Manner as Other Contracts. A release agreement is subject to rescission in the same manner as other contracts are subject to rescission [ Matthews v. A.T. & S.F. Ry. (1942) 54 CA2d 549, 557, 129 P2d 435 ].

37.61[2] Rescission Only Necessary With Respect to Voidable Release. Rescission is only necessary with respect to a voidable release, not an absolutely void release [ Garcia v. California Truck Co. (1920) 183 C 767, 770, 192 P 708 ].

37.61[3] Release May Be Rescinded on Various Grounds.

37.61[3][a] Release May Be Rescinded Mutually by Consent. A release may be rescinded mutually by consent [CC § 1689(a)].

37.61[3][b] Party May Rescind Due to Lack of Consent. A party to a release may rescind the release when the rescinding party, or any party jointly contracting with the rescinding party, has given his or her consent by mistake, or when that consent was obtained by duress, menace, fraud, or undue influence [CC § 1689(b)(1); Carr v. Sacramento P.C. Co. (1917) 35 CA 439, 447, 170 P 446 ].

Exception:

A release may be rescinded for a unilateral mistake concerning its effect only if the mistake arose from an unrectified misrepresentation by one party of which the other was aware [ Larsen v. Johannes (1970) 7 CA3d 491, 503, 86 CR 744 ]. Accordingly, a releasor cannot claim that he or she was mistaken about what was in a release when he or she failed to read it before signing it [ Hoffman v. Sports Car Club of Am. (1986) 180 CA3d 119, 126, 225 CR 359 ].

37.61[3][c] Party May Rescind Due to Mutual Mistake. A party to a release may rescind the release for mutual mistake [see O'Meara v. Haiden (1928) 204 C 354, 358, 268 P 334 ].

Strategic Point:

Standard settlement agreement language prevents rescission based on mutual mistake when the parties are unaware of the full extent of physical injury. In fact, a case may not be ripe for settlement until the plaintiff's lawyer is in a position to obtain a diagnosis/prognosis from the treating physician that there is not much risk that the full extent of the physical injuries are unknown.

37.61[3][d] Party May Rescind Due to Mental Incompetence. Mental incompetence is a ground for rescission of a release when the rescinding party was of unsound mind, but not entirely without understanding, and made the contract before his or her incapacity was judicially determined [CC §§ 39, 1689(b)(7)]. The releasor need not have been incompetent to make any kind of contract; the test, rather, is whether he or she was mentally competent to deal with the particular subject with full understanding of his or her rights, such that he or she actually understood the nature, purpose, and effect of the release [ Carr v. Sacramento P.C. Co. (1917) 35 CA 439, 442, 170 P 446 ].

37.61[3][e] Party May Rescind for Failure of Consideration. A release may be unilaterally rescinded for a substantial failure of consideration [CC § 1689(b)(2)-(4); Hofland v. Gustafson (1955) 132 CA 907, 132 CA2d Supp 907, 909-910, 282 P2d 1039 ].

37.61[4] Rescinding Party Must Give Notice to Other Party. A party who becomes aware of his or her right to rescind, must promptly, on discovering the ground for rescission, give notice of rescission to the other party. The rescinding party must also restore to the other party everything of value that he or she has received from the other party under the contract or offer to make restitution on the condition that the other party do likewise, unless the other party is unable or refuses to do so [CC § 1691].

Exceptions:

The releasor need not restore or offer to restore in any of the following circumstances [ Weger v. Rocha (1934) 138 CA 109, 117-118, 32 P2d 417 ]:

- When the releasor has received only that which has no value to either of the parties.
- When the releasor has merely received a promissory note.
- When the release is absolutely void rather than voidable.
- When it clearly appears that the releasee could not possibly have been injuriously affected by a failure to restore.
- When, without fault of the releasor, there have been peculiar complications that make it impossible for the releasor to offer full restoration.

37.61[5] Release Subject to Rescission May Be Ratified. A release subject to rescission may be ratified by the conduct of the releasor [ Eustace v. Lynch (1941) 43 CA2d 486, 491, 111 P2d 372 (releasor's acceptance of benefits of release agreement subsequent to attempted rescission can amount to waiver of the right to assert the invalidity of the release and constitute a ratification of the terms of the release)].

VII. ENFORCING OR CHALLENGING A RELEASE AGREEMENT AFTER EXECUTION

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.62

37.62 Certain Releases May Be Absolutely Void.

37.62[1] Release Is Void When There Is Fraud in Its Inception. A release is absolutely void when there is fraud in the inception.

Example:

A release is void if the releasor was tricked or deceived into signing a release that was different in terms and object from that which he or she has made and understood that he or she was executing [ Meyer v. Haas (1899) 126 C 560, 563, 58 P 1042 ].

37.62[2] Release Is Void When Releasor Is Mentally Incompetent. A release is also absolutely void when the releasor is mentally incompetent at the time of executing the release [ Backus v. Sessions (1941) 17 C2d 380, 384, 390, 110 P2d 51 ].

37.62[3] Rescission Is Unnecessary When Release Is Absolutely Void. An absolutely void release need not be rescinded because there is no contract to rescind [ Garcia v. California Truck Co. (1920) 183 C 767, 770, 192 P 708 ]. A releasor may controvert an affirmative defense seeking to enforce a void release [ Baird v. Pacific Elec. Ry. Co. (1919) 39 CA 512, 514, 179 P 449 ]. A releasor may also seek affirmative relief opposing a void release's enforcement [CC §§ 1060, 3412].

VIII. FORMS

3-37 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 37.67

37.67 General Release Agreement.

GENERAL RELEASE OF EXISTING CLAIMS

_____[Name of releasor], _____[street address], _____[city and state], hereinafter referred to as "Releasor," and _____[name of releasee], _____[street address], _____[city and state], hereinafter referred to as "Releasee," in consideration of the promises made herein, agree as follows:

1. Releasor has sustained _____[injury and/or damages] arising out of _____[describe transaction, e.g., a contract entered into between Releasor and Releasee] on _____[date], at _____[city and state], a copy of which is marked as Exhibit _____, attached hereto, and incorporated herein by reference.

[OR, if claims arise from tort]

_____[describe occurrence, e.g., an automobile accident] that occurred on _____[date] in _____[city and state].

[ADD, if releasor has commenced an action against releasee based on transaction or occurrence giving rise to claims released]

2. On _____ [date], Releasor filed an action in the _____ Court for the County of _____, California, case number _____, entitled _____. This action arose out of the _____ [occurrence or transaction] described in Paragraph 1.

[CONTINUE]

3. 7. Releasor understands and acknowledges that the significance and consequence of this waiver of section 1542 of the Civil Code is that even if Releasor should eventually suffer additional damages arising out of the above-described _____ [transaction or occurrence] he/she will not be permitted to make any claim for those damages. Furthermore, Releasor acknowledges that he/she intends these consequences even as to claims for _____ [injury and/or damages] that may exist as of the date of this release but which Releasor does not know exist, and which, if known, would materially affect Releasor's decision to execute this release, regardless or whether Releasor's lack of knowledge is the result of ignorance, oversight, error, negligence, or any other cause.

[CONTINUE]

8. Releasor warrants and represents that in executing this release, he/she has relied on legal advice from the attorney of his/her choice, that the terms of this release and its consequences have been completely read and explained to Releasor by that attorney, and that Releasor fully understands the terms of this release.

9. Releasor acknowledges and represents that he/she has been apprised of all relevant information and data furnished by _____ [name of expert] and all other information relevant to his/her claim and this release, including, without limitation, _____ [specify, e.g., future risks, complications, and costs]. Releasor further acknowledges and represents that, in executing this release, he/she has not relied on any inducements, promises, or representations made by Releasee or any party representing or serving Releasee.

10. Releasor acknowledges and warrants that his/her execution of this release is free and voluntary. [Releasor further declares that at the time he/she executed this release, he/she was neither an inpatient nor an outpatient of a medical facility for treatment of the injury that gave rise to the claim to which this release relates.]

11. This release pertains to a disputed claim and does constitute an admission of liability by Releasee for the above-described _____ [transaction or occurrence].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
I. STRATEGY

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.02

38.02 Objective and Strategy.

38.02[1] Expedite Litigation by Avoiding Unnecessary Trials. Summary judgment and summary adjudication are used to expedite litigation and to prevent unnecessary trials. In ruling on a summary judgment or adjudication motion, courts will cut through the parties' pleadings to determine whether a trial is necessary to resolve their dispute [ Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 843, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ]. Summary judgment proceedings are governed by CCP § 437c.

Summary judgment will be granted only if material facts are not in dispute, and judgment can be granted as a matter of law [CCP § 437c(c)].

Similarly, a summary adjudication motion will be granted only if facts are not in dispute, and the motion will completely dispose of a cause of action, an affirmative defense, a claim for damages, or an issue of duty [CCP § 437c(f)(1)].

Summary judgment motions are, of course, critically important because the motion, if granted, will terminate the case. Even if not granted, in some situations the motion may assist in forcing settlement negotiations by causing a party to focus on the weaknesses in the case.

Strategic Point:

Once judgment is entered after the granting of a motion for summary judgment, any motion for reconsideration undetermined at the time of entry of the judgment is effectively denied [ Safeco Ins. Co. of Ill. v. Architectural Facades Unlimited, Inc. (2005) 134 CA4th 1477, 1483, 36 CR3d 754 ]. Any party wishing the trial court to determine a pending motion for reconsideration of a ruling or order after the granting of a motion for summary judgment must request that the court not enter judgment on the summary judgment motion until after considering the motion for reconsideration.

38.02[2] Timing and Discovery Must Be Balanced. Summary judgment is subject to significant statutory and practical time constraints. A party cannot bring the motion until 60 days after the opposing party or parties have made a general appearance in the action, unless the court shortens the time period. The motion must be heard no later than 30 days before trial, unless the court shortens the time period. There is a 75-day notice period for the motion (with extensions depending on the manner of service) that cannot be shortened by the court. Although the court may allow an earlier or later motion for good cause, these statutory constraints frame the timing of the motion [see CCP § 437c(a)].

Strategic Point:

Local court rules may not shorten the 75-day notice period or vary the evidentiary requirements set forth in CCP § 437c(a). If a local court has rules deviating from these provisions, counsel should nonetheless comply with the statutory provisions, in order to avoid the vacation of any subsequent summary judgment or adjudication [see Boyle v. CertainTeed Corp. (2006) 137 CA4th 645, 653-656, 40 CR3d 501 (summary judgment vacated based on impermissible local rules)].

Strategic Point:

As a moving defendant, the 75 day notice period allows the plaintiff to conduct discovery during the approximate 2 month window before the opposition is due. However, if the trial date has been continued without a continuance of the discovery cutoff, that opportunity will be precluded. On the other hand, occasionally, the plaintiff's opposition will contain material for which the defense might want to take a deposition. That would be precluded if the discovery cutoff has passed.

The practical constraints are that discovery must be complete at least as to the central issues that will determine the case. For the moving party, going to the effort and expense of the motion has no point until adequate discovery has been conducted to reveal that the other side cannot raise material issues of fact. For the opposing party, adequate discovery to uncover the disputed facts that will keep the party's action or defense alive is equally crucial.

A successful summary judgment motion or opposition will be greatly facilitated if counsel has adhered to a clear discovery plan that has identified all the relevant issues and every fact that must be established to prove each issue. If discovery was carefully organized to elicit the opposing party's evidence as to those facts, and if the responses have been similarly organized on an ongoing basis, the decision whether to make the motion and the preparation of the motion will be greatly simplified.

There are occasions when a summary judgment motion can force the opposing side to present a declaration from one of its experts. That may provide the opportunity to depose the other side's expert earlier than might occur under the ordinary disclosure rules.

Judge's Perspective:

Over the years, motions for summary adjudication/judgment have gone through an interesting transition. Originally, these motions were brought by the defense when it appeared that there was a clear dispositive affirmative defense that could be successfully pursued. More recently, however, trial courts now see these motions virtually on a uniform basis just prior to trial. It appears that the prevailing trend by the defense is that it is far safer (from a standard of practice standpoint) to bring the motion and lose than not bring the motion at all. Concomitant to an increasing number of these motions is a disturbing trend toward a belief that the trial court can weigh evidence when ruling. This is not the case, and counsel must always keep in mind that "the function of the trial court on a motion for summary judgment is merely to determine whether such issues of fact exist and not to decide the merits of the issues themselves" [see Molko v. Holy Spirit Assn. (1988) 46 C3d 1092, 1107, 252 CR 122, 762 P2d 46]. It should likewise be kept in mind that the recent amendments to CCP § 437c have been designed to make sure that these motions are only brought after discovery has been completed as to the issue(s) involved and the responding party has had sufficient time in which to prepare opposition.

Judge's Perspective:

Notwithstanding a statute and/or California Rule of Court that might permit the motion to be filed much later than the service time period, never wait until the last minute to file the summary judgment motion with the court. All trial courts, and especially those designated as complex litigation courts, like to see the papers as early as possible. The court's research attorneys need as much time as possible to prepare their workups for the court.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.04

38.04 Options and Strategies for Moving Party.

38.04[1] Decide Whether Summary Judgment or Summary Adjudication Is Appropriate. Given the minimum 105 day time limit before trial within which a motion for summary judgment or adjudication must be served (75 days' notice with a hearing date 30 days before trial) [CCP § 437c(a)], a party must give early consideration to determining whether a case is appropriate for a summary motion.

Filing a summary motion may be worthwhile for a plaintiff if, after conducting discovery and researching the elements of the asserted causes of action or defenses, the plaintiff determines that the essential facts supporting one or more of its causes of action or the defendant's defenses are not in dispute and that the plaintiff has a winning case on the law.

Filing a summary motion may be worthwhile for a defendant who determines that the plaintiff cannot prove a cause of action or that the defendant can prove one of its affirmative defenses. Plaintiffs also should not fail to consider the use of motions for summary judgment in certain circumstances. For example, in a malicious prosecution action the absence of probable cause in the underlying action is a matter of law; also, the existence of coverage under a policy during insurance litigation is a matter of law.

To the extent that the plaintiff's claims turn on disputed factual issues, a defendant should weigh the downside of bringing a motion for summary judgment. Such motions are expensive and require defendants to commit to certain positions [see Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's of London v. Superior Court (1997) 56 CA4th 952, 955-962, 65 CR2d 821 (insurer cannot make motion for summary judgment based on asserted policy language without waiving any "missing policy" issues)]. Because motions for summary judgment usually must be made near the close of discovery and shortly before trial, defense counsel should consider whether the effort and expense would be better spent preparing for trial, particularly if the plaintiff can easily show a triable issue of fact. In contrast, when a case turns on the resolution of an unsettled issue of law and the material facts of the case are not in dispute, a motion for summary judgment can provide the least expensive method to reach resolution.

Strategic Point:

Counsel must determine whether to seek summary judgment or adjudication, or one of the following alternatives:

- Motion for judgment on the pleadings [see CCP § 438].
- If there are disputed facts, a trial of special defenses [see CCP § 438].
- If the action is based on a petition for writ of administrative mandate on the administrative record, a motion for judgment on the writ [see CCP § 1094; Dunn v. County of Santa Barbara (2006) 135 CA4th 1281, 1290-1293, 38 CR3d 316 (summary judgment vacated based on impermissible local rules)].

Discussion of petition for writ of administrative mandate, see Ch. 10, Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction, 10.10[2].

Warning--Summary Judgment Available Only on Motion:

Summary judgment is available only to a moving party. The court will not grant summary judgment to a nonmoving party who successfully opposes a motion for summary judgment. If an opposing party believes that summary judgment is warranted, that party must file a cross-motion seeking summary judgment in its favor [CCP § 437c(a); Dvorin v. Appellate Dep't of Superior Court (1975) 15 C3d 648, 650-651, 125 CR 771 (absent a motion, ordering summary judgment denies the opposite party opportunity to allege additional facts justifying trial of factual issues)]. Recognize that the cross-motion will need to follow the same notice period and attempt to resolve the scheduling issues so both motions may be heard at the same time. In cases that involve a dispositive, unresolved legal issue, cross-motions for summary judgment can be the most efficient method to resolve the case. However, if there are any significant fact issued in the case, the filing of a cross-motion might limit the opposing party's ability to oppose the initial motion by arguing that there are triable issues of fact. Rarely can a party argue that it is entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law while also arguing that the opposing party's motion should be denied both because the position is unfounded and because there is a triable issue of fact.

Judge's Perspective--Cross-Motions:

Generally, cross-motions for summary judgment/adjudication are pursued when either the factual record is or has been agreed on or the issue involved is one that lends itself to adjudication as a matter of law. A cross-motion should never be brought if it is simply being used as a vehicle to respond to the original moving papers.

Warning--Summary Adjudication Available Only on Motion:

On a motion for summary judgment, the court cannot grant summary adjudication for the moving party unless he or she makes an alternative motion for that relief [see Jimenez v. Protective Life Ins. Co. (1992) 8 CA4th 528, 534-535, 10 CR2d 326 ].

If the court denies summary adjudication, a party may not later move for summary judgment based on issues asserted in the prior motion for summary adjudication, unless that party establishes newly discovered facts or circumstances, or a change of law supporting the issues reasserted in the summary judgment motion [CCP § 437c(f)(2)].

Strategic Point:

In almost any case in which punitive damages are alleged, they should be attacked by summary adjudication separately, if appropriate, or as an alternative in a summary judgment motion.

38.04[2] Conduct and Evaluate Discovery With View Toward Use for Summary Proceedings. Because summary judgment and summary adjudication proceedings are based on the factual record, a discovery plan should be developed with an eye from the beginning toward using the discovery in a summary motion as well as for trial.

The information gathered during discovery can be incorporated as exhibits to the declarations submitted in support of the motion for summary judgment. In addition, based on the information obtained through discovery, it may be possible for the parties to enter into certain stipulations of fact in connection with the motion to eliminate issues that are not disputed.

From the moving party's perspective, it is important to present focused arguments and evidence, and to present them as simply as possible. The opposing party often will tend to try to make the factual issues seem as complicated as possible. The Statement of Undisputed Material Facts should be used to map out the facts and evidence supporting the motion. Care should be taken to assure that the proponent prepare and present evidence in an admissible form, and conversely, that objections to the opponent's evidence be asserted to avoid waiver.

Strategic Point:

Establish a system to keep track of the responses so that:

- Admissions that will be used in summary judgment papers to establish the facts necessary to prevail on the motion are identified;
- Areas that need further discovery to obtain necessary admissions are pursued.

Judge's Perspective:

While it is always good to have a discovery plan that will enable you to prepare for either moving or opposing the 437c motion, remember that the trial court is not permitted to weigh evidence inclusive of declarations. Moreover, matters going to the weight of the evidence must be disregarded in ruling on the motion [ Binder v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. (1999) 75 CA4th 832, 840, 89 CR2d 540 ]. Even vague ambiguous testimony may raise a triable issue of fact [see Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Aceves (1991) 233 CA3d 544, 558, 284 CR 477 ].

So strong is the prohibition regarding the weighing of evidence that appellate courts have consistently admonished trial courts against the drawing of inferences. Therefore, if an inference is controverted by other evidence, or even by other reasonable inferences, then there is a triable issue of fact and the motion must be denied [see Gigax v. Ralston Purina Co. (1982) 136 CA3d 591, 602, 186 CR 395 ]. Note that a witness's declaration as to one's own intent is admissible as a statement of fact [see Hoover Cmty. Hotel Dev. Corp. v. Thomson (1985) 167 CA3d 1130, 1136-1137, 213 CR 750 ].

38.04[3] Summary Judgment Motion Differs From Other Pretrial Motions.

38.04[3][a] Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Is Used When Pleading Fails to State Facts Sufficient to Constitute Cause of Action or Defense. A motion for judgment on the pleadings is used after the time to demur has expired to challenge an opposing party's pleading on the grounds that the pleading fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action or defense [see CCP § 438].

A motion for summary judgment or adjudication may be treated as a motion for judgment on the pleadings when it seeks judgment on the grounds, for example, that a cause of action fails to allege facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [ Wood v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1994) 25 CA4th 1113, 1119-1120, 31 CR2d 8 (motion for summary judgment on grounds plaintiff failed to allege essential element of cause of action should have been treated by trial court as motion for judgment on the pleadings)]. If it does so, the court may grant the motion with leave to amend, and after the cause of action has been properly pled, the moving party may renew the motion for summary judgment to determine if there are triable issues of fact underlying the cause of action [ Wood v. Riverside Gen. Hosp. (1994) 25 CA4th 1113, 1119-1120, 31 CR2d 8 (affirming summary judgment without requiring two-step procedure because ruling would have been the same after an amended complaint and renewed summary judgment motion); see Hejmadi v. AMFAC, Inc. (1988) 202 CA3d 525, 536 (court granting leave to amend should not summarily adjudicate issues underlying cause of action until after complaint is amended); see also Foreman & Clark Corp. v. Fallon (1971) 3 C3d 875, 889 n. 9, 92 CR 162, 479 P2d 362 (summary adjudication based on a superseded complaint is void), Cal. Concrete Co. v. Beverly Hills Sav. & Loan Assn. (1989) 215 CA3d 260, 272 (failure to plead statutory bar waives defense on motion for summary judgment; amendment denied)].

If extrinsic evidence is needed to establish facts to support a ruling, it is incorrect for a trial court to treat a motion for summary judgment as a motion for judgment on the pleadings [ Taylor v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2000) 78 CA4th 472, 479, 92 CR2d 873 ].

Decision Point:

Before deciding to bring a motion for summary judgment, consider whether the opposing party's pleading is defective so as to support a motion for judgment on the pleadings, a motion that involves considerably less expense and burden.

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

38.04[3][b] Trial of Special Issues Is Used to Resolve Factual Issues Regarding Certain Defenses. If there are disputed issues of fact regarding a defense, and that defense may resolve a case or a cause of action in a defendant's favor, the defendant should move for a trial of special issues, rather than for summary judgment.

A trial of special issues may proceed after a party's motion, or on the court's own motion. The following defenses are subject to a trial of special issues [CCP § 597]:

- The action is barred by the statute of limitations [see also CCP § 597.5 (separate trial of limitations defense in medical malpractice case)].
- The action is barred by a prior judgment.
- Another action is pending on the same cause.

- Another defense exists not involving the merits of the action, but constituting a bar or ground of abatement to its prosecution.

Warning:

Although a trial of special issues is an attractive procedural device to resolve critical factual issues, unless waived by the parties, the same trier of fact must decide all trial phases [see European Beverage, Inc. v. Superior Court (1996) 43 CA4th 1211, 1214, 51 CR2d 147 ]. A trial of special issues is often used when the facts to be disposed of are few.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.05

38.05 Defense Motion for Summary Judgment.

38.05[1] Grounds for Motion. A defendant can move for summary judgment when [CCP § 437c(a), (c)]:

- There are no triable issues of material fact;
- All of the plaintiff's causes of action have no merit; and
- The defendant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

A cause of action has no merit if [CCP § 437c(o)]:

- One or more of the elements of the cause of action cannot be separately established, even if the element is separately pleaded; or
- The defendant establishes an affirmative defense to the cause of action.

38.05[2] Motion May Be Based on Absence of Essential Element of Plaintiff's Case.

38.05[2][a] Moving Defendant Has Initial Burden to Show That Plaintiff's Causes of Action Lack Merit. The defendant may move for summary judgment if the defendant's evidence demonstrates that all of plaintiff's causes of action have no merit [CCP § 437c(a)].

The burden of persuasion remains with the party moving for summary judgment [ Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 850, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ]. When the defendant moves for summary judgment, in those circumstances in which the plaintiff would have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence, the defendant must present evidence that would preclude a reasonable trier of fact from finding that it was more likely than not the material fact was true, or the defendant must establish that an element of the claim cannot be established, by presenting evidence that the plaintiff does not possess and cannot reasonably obtain needed evidence [ Kahn v. East Side Union High School Dist. (2003) 31 C4th 990, 1003, 75 P3d 30 ; Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 851, 854, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.05[2][b] Moving Defendant May Show Lack of Merit by Establishing Absence of Essential Element to Cause of Action. A moving defendant may show that the plaintiff's cause of action has no merit by establishing the absence of at least one essential element to that cause of action [CCP § 437c(o)(1)].

38.05[2][c] Moving Defendant May Establish Absence of Essential Element by Showing Plaintiff Cannot Reasonably Obtain Supporting Evidence. A moving defendant need not support the motion with affirmative evidence conclusively negating an essential element of the plaintiff's case. The defendant need only show that the plaintiff does not possess, and cannot reasonably obtain evidence necessary to support an essential element of plaintiff's cause of action [ Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 853-854, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ; Leslie G. v. Perry & Assocs. (1996) 43 CA4th 472, 482, 50 CR2d 785 ].

38.05[2][d] Moving Defendant Must Actually Present Evidence. The moving defendant must present some evidence in support of its motion, unlike federal law under which argument pointing to the absence of evidence may be sufficient to win a Fed R Civ P, Rule 56 motion [ Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 854-855, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ; Gaggero v. Yura (2003) 108 CA4th 884, 889-890, 134 CR2d 313 ].

Examples:

- Sufficient evidence would be an admission from the plaintiff that after extensive discovery the plaintiff has discovered nothing to support an essential element of plaintiff's case [ Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 855, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ].

Examples of acceptable evidence include:

- Defendant's comprehensive evidence consisting of plaintiff's and plaintiff's witnesses' deposition testimony and plaintiff's responses to special interrogatories showed that the plaintiff could not produce sufficient evidence to make a claim for asbestosis [ Andrews v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2006) 138 CA4th 96, 103, 41 CR3d 229 ].

Distinguish:

Merely pointing out the absence of evidence to support a plaintiff's claim is insufficient to meet the initial burden of production. The defendant must also produce evidence that the plaintiff cannot reasonably obtain evidence to support his or her claim [ Boyle v. CertainTeed Corp. (2006) 137 CA4th 645, 652, 40 CR3d 501 (attorney declaration insufficient); Gaggero v. Yura (2003) 108 CA4th 884, 891, 134 CR2d 313 ].

Example:

In products liability case, plaintiff's responses to questions if he was exposed to product that he could not remember any instances of exposure are insufficient to support summary judgment [ Weber v. John Crane, Inc. (2006) 143 CA4th 1433, 1440-1441, 50 CR3d 71 ].

Strategic Point:

As indicated in the Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. case, if the plaintiff provides factually devoid or vague discovery responses with respect to an essential element, you can seek an admission from the plaintiff that he or she has no evidence supporting the element. You can later use the admission to support your summary judgment motion.

38.05[2][e] Factually Devoid Discovery Response by Plaintiff May Provide Basis for Meeting Burden of Production. Plaintiff's factually devoid discovery response can satisfy the moving defendant's initial burden of production [ Union Bank v. Superior Court (1995) 31 CA4th 573, 590, 592-593, 37 CR2d 653 ].

Example:

In response to an interrogatory requesting all facts that would support a particular element of a claim, plaintiffs stated that they "believed" that a certain series of events occurred. The court held that such a response satisfied the defendant's initial burden of establishing that plaintiffs could not establish an element of their claim [ Union Bank v. Superior Court (1995) 31 CA4th 573, 590, 592-593, 37 CR2d 653 ].

A deposition objection and instruction not to answer are not the equivalent of a factually devoid response, and cannot be used to shift the burden from the moving defendant to the plaintiff [ Gaggero v. Yura (2003) 108 CA4th 884, 893, 134 CR2d 313 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.05[2][f] Discovery Objection Is Not Equivalent of Factually Devoid Response. A plaintiff's discovery objection and instruction not to answer are not the equivalent of a factually devoid response, as no logical inference of an absence of facts can be drawn [ Gaggero v. Yura (2003) 108 CA4th 884, 892-893, 134 CR2d 313 (plaintiff's objection to deposition was based on purported right to privacy in financial records)].

Strategic Point:

If plaintiff's objection is unjustified, defendant should bring a motion to compel answers; any later response indicating that plaintiff had no evidence to support its claims may then be utilized by the defendant to meet the initial burden [see Gaggero v. Yura (2003) 108 CA4th 884, 891-892, 134 CR2d 313 ].

Cross Reference:

Objections based on discovery privileges, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch. 2, Scope of Discovery.

38.05[2][g] Burden Shifts to Opposing Plaintiff to Show a Triable Issue of Material Fact. If the defendant shows that one or more elements of plaintiff's cause of action cannot be established, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to show that a triable issue of one or more material facts exists as that cause of action [CCP § 437c(p)(2); Merrill v. Navegar, Inc. (2001) 26 C4th 465, 476-477, 110 CR2d 370, 28 P3d 116 ; Weseloh Family Ltd. Partnership v. K.L.

Wessel Constr. Co., Inc. (2001) 125 CA4th 152, 162 ].

However, if the defendant's evidence is only factually devoid discovery responses, the court may not shift the burden to the plaintiff unless stringent review of the direct, circumstantial, and inferential evidence confirms the absence of an essential element of plaintiff's cause of action [ Andrews v. Foster Wheeler LLC (2006) 138 CA4th 96, 101, 103, 41 CR3d 229 ].

If the plaintiff cannot meet the burden of proof regarding an essential element of his or her case, all other facts are rendered immaterial [ Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's of London v. Superior Court (1997) 56 CA4th 952, 959, 65 CR2d 821 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of burden shifting, see 38.22.

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.05[2][h] Opposing Plaintiff Must Set Forth Evidence. The plaintiff may not rely on the mere allegations or denials of its pleadings to show that a triable issue of material fact exists. The plaintiff must set forth the specific facts showing that a triable issue of material fact exists as to the element in the challenged cause of action [CCP § 437c(p)(2); Merrill v. Navegar, Inc. (2001) 26 C4th 465, 476-477, 110 CR2d 370, 28 P3d 116 ; Weseloh Family Ltd. Partnership v. K.L. Wessel Constr. Co., Inc. (2001) 125 CA4th 152, 162 ].

Example--Element of Proximate Cause Lacking:

Although a plaintiff attacked by unknown assailants in defendant's apartment complex raised triable issues as to whether the defendants owed her a duty of care and whether the defendants breached that duty by failing to provide additional security guards or functioning, locked security gates, her evidence was insufficient to show causation as a triable factual issue, and summary judgment for the defendant was granted. Because assailants' identity remained unknown and they may have resided in the apartment complex, she was unable to prove that they would not have succeeded in assaulting her even if the defendants had provided additional security precautions, the burden she would have to meet at trial [ Saelzler v. Advanced Group 400 (2001) 25 C4th 763, 780-781, 107 CR2d 617, 23 P3d 1143 ].

Example--Element of Duty Lacking:

A bank has a duty to inspect and remedy defects on property acquired through foreclosure only if it has actual knowledge of the defects and the ability to prevent foreseeable harm. The plaintiffs' opposition to the defendant bank's summary judgment motion created no triable issue of fact regarding whether the bank had actual knowledge of the dangerous condition of the property, or the power to repair defects on the property. Therefore, the bank owed no duty to plaintiffs, whose son died of injuries sustained after he was attacked by a dog owned by the former owners of the property [ Martinez v. Bank of Am. (2000) 82 CA4th 883, 886-887, 98 CR2d 576 ; accord Weseloh Family Ltd. Partnership v. K.L. Wessel Constr. Co., Inc. (2001) 125 CA4th 152, 162 ].

38.05[3] Defense Motion May Be Based on Affirmative Defense.

38.05[3][a] Moving Defendant Has Initial Burden to Show That Undisputed Facts Support Each Element of the Affirmative Defense. The defendant may move for summary judgment based on the existence of an affirmative defense to the plaintiff's cause of action [CCP § 437c(o)(2)].

Prerequisite:

Most affirmative defenses are waived if not pleaded in responsive pleadings [see Ch. 14, Answers, 14.18[1]; Cal. Concrete Co. v. Beverly Hills Sav. & Loan Assn. (1989) 215 CA3d 260, 272 ].

When a defendant's summary judgment motion is based on the assertion of an affirmative defense, the defendant has the initial burden to demonstrate that the undisputed facts support each element of the affirmative defense. If the defendant does not meet this burden, the motion will be denied [ Consumer Cause, Inc. v. SmileCare (2001) 91 CA4th 454, 467-468, 110 CR2d 627 ]. The moving party's burden is unaffected by the strength of the opposition to the motion [ Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1519 ]. The submission of evidence that is equivocal or from which conflicting inferences may be drawn is insufficient to meet the movant's burden [ Anderson v. Metalclad Insulation Corp. (1999) 72 CA4th 284, 297, 85 CR2d 331 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.05[3][b] Burden Shifts to Opposing Plaintiff to Show a Triable Issue of Material Fact. If the defendant meets the burden of showing that there is a complete defense to the action, the burden shifts to plaintiff to show an issue of fact concerning at least one element of the defense [CCP § 437c(p)(2); Anderson v. Metalclad Insulation Corp. (1999) 72 CA4th 284, 289-290, 85 CR2d 331 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.05[3][c] Opposing Plaintiff Must Set Forth Evidence. The plaintiff or cross-complainant may not rely on the mere allegations or denials of its pleadings to show that a triable issue of material fact exists. The plaintiff must set forth the specific facts showing that a triable issue of material fact exists as to the affirmative defense to the challenged cause of action [CCP § 437c(p)(2)].

Cross References:

Discussion of affirmative defenses, see Ch. 14, Answers, 14.18, 14.19.

38.05[4] Defendant Must Show Absence of Triable Issue of Fact for All Theories Pled. If the plaintiff pleads several theories (e.g., that the product at issue in a strict products liability cause of action is defective in different ways), the defendant must demonstrate that there are no material facts requiring trial on any of them [ Wright v. Stang Mfg. Co. (1997) 54 CA4th 1218, 1228, 63 CR2d 422 ].

38.05[5] Summary Judgment for Defendant Is Favored in Actions for Defamation or Invasion of Privacy. Summary judgment is favored in defamation and invasion of privacy cases due to the chilling effect of protracted litigation on First Amendment rights. Courts are inclined to grant the motion absent a showing of high probability that the plaintiff will ultimately prevail in the case [ Alszev v. Home Box Office (1998) 67 CA4th 1456, 1460, 80 CR2d 16 ].

Warning--Clear and Convincing Standard of Proof Applies to Plaintiff:

A plaintiff responding to a defendant's summary judgment motion in a First Amendment defamation case applying the New York Times test must respond with evidence that shows actual malice by a clear and convincing standard [see Reader's Digest Assn. v. Superior Court (1984) 37 C3d 244, 252, 208 CR 137, 690 P2d 610 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.06

38.06 Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment.

38.06[1] Grounds for Motion. A plaintiff may move for summary judgment when [CCP § 437c(a), (c)]:

- There are no triable issues of material fact;
- There is no defense to the plaintiff's action; and
- The plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

38.06[2] Plaintiff Must Show Every Element of Cause of Action. The plaintiff may move for summary judgment on the ground that there is no defense to the action [CCP § 437c(a)].

A plaintiff meets his or her burden of showing that there is no defense to a cause of action if the plaintiff proves each element of the cause of action entitling the plaintiff to judgment on that cause of action [CCP § 437c(p)(1)].

The party moving for summary judgment bears an initial burden of production to make a prima facie showing of the nonexistence of any triable issue of material fact [ Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 850-851, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ].

38.06[3] Plaintiff Must Support Motion With Evidence. The plaintiff must support the motion with evidence including affidavits, declarations, admissions, answers to interrogatories, depositions, and matters of which judicial notice must or may be taken [CCP § 437c(b)(1); Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 843, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of evidence requirements, see 38.15.

38.06[4] If Plaintiff Makes Prima Facie Showing, Burden Shifts to Defendant. Once the plaintiff meets his or her burden, the burden shifts to the defendant to show that a triable issue of one or more material facts exists to that cause of action, or to a defense to it [CCP § 437c(p)(1); Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826,

850-851, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.06[5] Opposing Defendant Must Set Forth Evidence. The defendant or cross-defendant may not rely on the mere allegations or denials of its pleadings to show that a triable issue of material fact exists. The defendant must set forth specific facts showing that a triable issue of fact exists as to at least one of the elements of the plaintiff's cause of action, or to an affirmative defense to that cause of action [CCP § 437c(p)(1)].

38.07 Cross-Motions May Be Made When Parties Agree on Material Facts.

Parties may agree to the material facts and use cross-motions for summary judgment to resolve disputed issues of law [see Dixon v. Salvation Army (1983) 142 CA3d 463, 464, 191 CR 111 ].

Warning--Trial Court Can Make Independent Determination:

The mere fact that both sides move for summary judgment does not preclude the trial court from making an independent determination that there are issues of material fact precluding summary judgment before proceeding to decide any questions of law [ Coast Elevator Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1975) 44 CA3d 576, 583-584, 118 CR 818 (disapproved on another ground in *Culligan Water Conditioning v. II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.08

38.08 Summary Judgment May Not Be Granted When Damages Must Be Determined.

Even if there are no issues of fact regarding liability, summary judgment cannot be granted if issues as to the calculation of damages exist [ Department of Industrial Relations v. UI Video Stores, Inc. (1997) 55 CA4th 1084, 1097, 64 CR2d 457 (summary judgment reversed)].

The correct trial court procedure is a motion to bifurcate the issues of liability and damages under CCP § 598 and try the liability issue on undisputed facts [ Department of Industrial Relations v. UI Video Stores, Inc. (1997) 55 CA4th 1084, 1097, 64 CR2d 457 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.09

38.09 Summary Adjudication Motion Can Dispose of Part of Case.

38.09[1] May Be Used as Alternative to Summary Judgment Motion. A summary adjudication motion may be made by itself, or as an alternative to the summary judgment motion [CCP § 437c(f)(2)] and should be considered, either by itself, or as an alternative to summary judgment when [CCP § 437c(f)(2)]:

- A plaintiff's case consists of multiple causes of action;
- The plaintiff asserts a claim for punitive damages;
- The defendant has asserted more than one affirmative defense; or
- The case raises an issue of duty.

38.09[2] Available Only If Completely Disposes of Matter. A motion for summary adjudication can be granted only if it "completely disposes" of a cause of action, affirmative defense, claim for punitive damages, or issue of duty [CCP § 437c(f)(1); Hindin v. Rust (2004) 118 CA4th 1247, 1258 (distinguishing between count and cause of action)].

Distinguish:

As a result of a 1990 amendment to the statute, "facts" of any kind, whether undisputed, underlying, supporting, or subsidiary, are not subject to summary adjudication [ Raghavan v. The Boeing Co. (2005) 133 CA4th 1120, 1136 ].

38.09[3] Procedurally Same as Motion for Summary Judgment. Motions for summary adjudication proceed in all procedural respects as a motion for summary judgment [CCP § 437c(f)(2)].

38.09[4] Available Only on Motion. Summary adjudication is available only on a motion requesting summary adjudication, either by itself or as an alternative to summary judgment [CCP § 437c(f)(2)]. If counsel moves only for summary judgment, but fails to move for, and give alternative notice of motion for summary adjudication, the court cannot grant summary adjudication [ Motevalli v. Los Angeles Unified Sch. Dist. (2004) 122 CA4th 97, 113 (harmless error); Jimenez v. Protective Life Ins. Co. (1992) 8 CA4th 528, 534-535, 10 CR2d 326 ].

38.09[5] Denial of Motion for Summary Adjudication May Bar Later Motion for Summary Judgment. If the court denies summary adjudication, a party may not later move for summary judgment based on issues asserted in the prior motion for summary adjudication, unless that party establishes newly discovered facts or circumstances, or a change of law supporting the issues reasserted in the summary judgment motion [CCP § 437c(f)(2)].

Example:

Successive motions for summary judgment involving "duty" in a general sense were not the same motion because they involved different legal theories [ Patterson v. Sacramento City Unified School Dist. (2007) 155 CA4th 821, 827, 66 CR3d 337 ].

38.09[6] Motion for Summary Adjudication May Raise Same Issues as Previously Overruled Demurrer. A motion for summary adjudication may revisit issues of law overruled on demurrer without complying with the requirements of a CCP § 1008 motion for reconsideration [ Community Mem'l Hosp. v. County of Ventura (1996) 50 CA4th 199, 205, 56 CR2d 732 (refusing to follow Gilberd v. AC Transit (1995) 32 CA4th 1494, 1502, 38 CR2d 626 , to the extent it may be read to the contrary)].

38.09[7] Denial or Grant of Summary Adjudication Motion May Not Serve as Basis for Comment at Subsequent Trial. In the subsequent trial of an action, neither a party, nor a witness, nor the court may comment to the jury regarding the grant or denial of a motion for summary adjudication [CCP § 437c(n)(3)].

Example:

Not even the subject of the basis for the summary adjudication may be mentioned before the jury, and a trial court's instruction to the jury to consider issues addressed in the summary adjudication proceeding to be established facts is improper [ Raghavan v. The Boeing Co. (2005) 133 CA4th 1120, 1134-1139, 35 CR3d 397 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.10

38.10 Defense Motion for Summary Adjudication.

38.10[1] Grounds for Motion. The defendant can move for summary adjudication when [CCP § 437c(f)(1)]:

- There are no triable issues of fact as to one or more causes of action; and
  - ☐ One or more causes of action within an action has no merit;
  - ☐ One or more defendants either owed or did not owe a duty to the plaintiff or plaintiffs; or
  - ☐ There is no merit to a claim for punitive damages under CC § 3294.
- The defendant is entitled to judgment on that cause of action as a matter of law.

38.10[2] Defense Motion May Be Based on Plaintiff's Inability to Establish Element of One or More Causes of Action. The defendant can move for summary adjudication on the grounds that one or more causes of action within an action has no merit because an essential element cannot be separately established, even if the element is separately pleaded [CCP § 437c(f)(1), (o)(1)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of elements lacking from cause of action, see 38.05[2].

38.10[3] Defense Motion May Be Based on Affirmative Defense. The defendant can move for summary adjudication on the grounds that one or more causes of action within an action has no merit because the defendant has an affirmative defense to that cause of action [CCP § 437c(f)(1), (o)(2)].

Strategic Point:

When preparing the answer to the complaint, it is often helpful to assert affirmative defenses in such a fashion that they can be used as a platform for a motion for summary judgment.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of affirmative defenses, see 38.05[3].

38.10[4] Defense Motion May Be Based on the Ground of Lack of Merit to Claim for Punitive Damages. The defendant may move for summary adjudication on the grounds that there is no merit to a claim for punitive damages as specified in CC § 3294 [CCP § 437c(f)(1)].

Warning--Clear and Convincing Standard of Proof Applies to Plaintiff:

A plaintiff responding to a defendant's motion for summary adjudication with respect to a punitive damages claim must establish malice, oppression, or fraud under the clear and convincing evidence standard applicable at trial [see Basich v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2001) 87 CA4th 1112, 1120-1121, 105 CR2d 153 ].

38.10[5] Plaintiff's Motion or Defense Motion May Be Made to Determine an Issue of Duty. Either party may move for summary adjudication as to an issue of duty within an action [CCP § 437c(f); Linden Partners v. Wilshire Linden Assocs. (1998) 62 CA4th 508, 518-519, 73 CR2d 708 ].

Under recent case authority, summary adjudication is available to dispose completely of an issue of duty alone even if it does not dispose completely of an entire cause of action or defense, or terminate some portion of the action [ Linden Partners v. Wilshire Linden Assocs. (1998) 62 CA4th 508, 519-522, 73 CR2d 708 ; see also Novak v. Low, Ball & Lynch (1999) 77 CA4th 278, 285-286, 91 CR2d 453 ].

Examples--Summary Adjudication on Issue of Duty Alone:

- Trial court should have granted motion for summary adjudication in favor of public utilities commission, because the commission did not control a railroad crossing at which an accident occurred on account of the fact that it could order the railroad to improve safety devices as the crossing [ Pub. Util. Com. v. Superior Court (2010) 181 CA4th 364, 375-381, 105 CR3d 234 ] .

- A trial court properly granted the first issue of plaintiff's motion for summary adjudication that defendant had a duty to deliver an estoppel certificate that accurately stated the amount of rent, while denying summary adjudication on the cause of action as a whole because facts regarding the correct amount of rent were disputed [ Linden Partners v. Wilshire Linden Assocs. (1998) 62 CA4th 508, 519-522, 73 CR2d 708 ].

- A trial court was ordered to grant plaintiff insured's summary adjudication motion that defendant law firm owed him a duty to allow his independent counsel to participate in settlement negotiations, even though plaintiff still needed to prove causation and damages to prevail in the lawsuit [ Novak v. Low, Ball & Lynch (1999) 77 CA4th 278, 285-286, 91 CR2d 453 ].

Warning--Contrary Authority Exists:

There is, however, conflicting authority, that a summary adjudication ruling that determines an issue of duty must dispose of an entire cause of action or affirmative defense, or terminate some portion of an action [ Regan Roofing Co. v. Superior Court (1994) 24 CA4th 425, 436-437, 29 CR2d 413 (summary adjudication regarding insurer duty to defend reversed)]. Linden Partners discussed and specifically rejected Regan Roofing, and Novak did not mention Regan Roofing or Linden Partners.

38.11 Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Adjudication.

The plaintiff may move for summary adjudication when [CCP § 437c(f)(1)]:

- There are no triable issues of fact as to one or more causes of action;
- There is no defense to one or more causes of action within an action and no merit to any affirmative defenses to that or those causes of action [see North Coast Women's Care Medical Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 44 C4th 1145, 1160, 81 CR3d 708 ]; and
- The plaintiff is entitled to judgment on one or more causes of action as a matter of law.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.12

38.12 Particular Actions in Which Summary Proceedings Are Limited or Unavailable.

38.12[1] Limited in Summary Proceedings for Obtaining Possession of Real Property.

38.12[1][a] Parties in Unlawful Detainer, Forcible Entry, or Forcible Detainer Action May Move for Summary Judgment. A motion for summary judgment is available in actions for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer on the same basis as a motion under CCP § 437c [CCP § 1170.7].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of unlawful detainer proceedings, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer.

38.12[1][b] Time Limitations for Notice of Motion Differ. Time limitations set forth in CCP § 437c(a), (b)(2), and (b)(4) are expressly inapplicable to summary proceedings for obtaining possession of real property under CCP §§ 1159-1179a [CCP § 437c(r)].

Timing:

A motion for summary judgment made in summary proceedings for obtaining possession of real property may be made at any time after the answer is filed on giving 5 days' notice [CCP § 1170.7; Cal Rules Court, Rule 3.1351(a)].

38.12[1][c] Time Limitations for Trial Differ. CCP § 437c does not extend the extremely short period for bringing unlawful detainer or forcible entry or detainer cases to trial as provided by CCP § 1170.5 [CCP § 437c(q)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of unlawful detainer proceedings, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer; California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender).

38.12[2] Not Available in Consumer Class Actions. A CCP § 437c motion will not be granted in any action commenced as a class action pursuant to CC § 1781(a) of the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (CC §§ 1750-1784) [CC § 1781(c)(3)]. However, the court can hold a hearing, on motion of any party to the action, to determine if the action is without merit or there is no defense to the action [CC § 1781(c)(3)]. Notice of the time and place of the hearing must be served on the other parties at least 10 days prior to the hearing [CC § 1781]. The motion must be supported by an affidavit of any person or persons having knowledge of the facts [CC § 1781].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of Consumer Class Actions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 504, Sales: Consumers Legal Remedies Act (Matthew Bender).

38.12[3] Not Available in Medical Malpractice Action in Which Defendant Seeks Security. Any defendant who moves for an order requiring the plaintiff to post security for defense costs in a medical malpractice action as provided by CCP § 1029.6(a) cannot afterwards move for summary judgment [CCP § 1029.6(e), (f)].

Similarly, any defendant who moves for summary judgment is thereafter precluded from moving for security under CCP § 1029.6(a) [CCP § 1029.6(e), (f)].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.13

38.13 Timing of Motion Is Restricted.

38.13[1] Lengthy Notice Period and Window for Making Motion Must Be Considered. Because a summary judgment motion must be served at a minimum of 105 days before trial [see CCP § 437c(a)], a party should start thinking about what is needed for the motion early on in the litigation to assure there is time to obtain the necessary discovery.

38.13[2] Motion Is Made on 75 Days' Notice and Must Be Filed 16 Court Days Before the Hearing.

38.13[2][a] Service. Time requirements pertaining to service of notice of the motion and supporting papers for motion for summary judgment and summary adjudication motions are as follows [CCP § 437c(a)]:

- 75 days before the time appointed for the hearing, if personally served.
- 77 days (75 days, plus an additional 2 days) before the time appointed for the hearing if the notice is served by:
  - ☐ Facsimile transmission;
  - ☐ Express mail; or
  - ☐ Another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery.
- 80 days (75 days, plus an additional 5 days) before the time appointed for the hearing if notice is served by regular mail, and the address is within California.
- 85 days (75 days, plus an additional 10 days) before the time appointed for the hearing, if notice is served by regular mail, and the address is outside of California, but within the United States.

- 95 days (75 days, plus an additional 20 days) before the time appointed for the hearing, if the notice is served by regular mail, and the address is outside the United States.

Trap:

The extra court days required for particular aforementioned forms of nonpersonal service are to be added at the end of the 75-day period for service of notice of motion for summary judgment or adjudication, rather than at the beginning of that period [ Barefield v. Washington Mut. Bank (2006) 136 CA4th 299, 302-303, 38 CR3d 858 (overnight service)].

Proof of service of the motion must be filed no later than five court days before the appointed hearing date [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(c)].

Warning--75-Day Notice Period Cannot Be Shortened:

Trial courts cannot shorten the 75-day notice period required for a motion for summary judgment [ McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 115-118, 130 CR2d 407 ]. There is no exception for complex cases, as well [ Hernandez v. Superior Court (2003) 112 CA4th 285, 299 ].

Silence and compelled participation in hearing on summary judgment do not constitute waiver of insufficient notice [ Urshan v. Musicians' Credit Union (2004) 120 CA4th 758, 768 (decided under prior limitation)].

Trap:

A notice of hearing on the motion for summary judgment of less than the requisite number of days is invalid [ Robinson v. Woods (2008) 168 CA4th 1258, 1267, 86 CR3d 241 (reversing grant of summary judgment where notice period was only 76 days by mail service)]. However, some courts may still require the opposing party's response to address the merits of the motion itself [see discussion of authorities in Robinson v. Woods (2008) 168 CA4th 1258, 1262-1267, 86 CR3d 241] . Counsel must therefore consider responding in the opposition papers and at the hearing on the merits as well as on the issue of proper notice. Given that, counsel should ascertain whether the inadequate notice will in fact limit preparation for the hearing on the merits of the motion and, therefore, is worth objecting to.

Strategic Point:

If the defect in fact will limit preparation for the hearing on the motion, the opposition to the hearing on the grounds of inadequate notice should make the prejudice clear [see Robinson v. Woods (2008) 168 CA4th 1258, 1268, 86 CR3d 241] . Counsel should also consider requesting at the hearing a continuance of the hearing (and trial if the 30-day interval between trial and the hearing [see 38.13[4]] is implicated), in order to gain additional time to prepare the opposition on the merits to the motion for summary judgment [see also Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.48]. In addition, counsel should argue the authority for the proposition that the continuance must not be only for the additional days of statutorily required notice on the original hearing, but should be a continuance of trial for a sufficient period as to allow a new motion and full notice of hearing [see Robinson v. Woods (2008) 168 CA4th 1258, 1267-1268, 86 CR3d 241] .

Warning--Service of Motion Does Not Extend Time for Filing Responsive Pleadings:

A defendant cannot extend the time within which the party must otherwise file a responsive pleading by filing a motion for summary judgment [CCP § 437c(a)].

Strategic Point:

Court may exempt general civil case from time disposition goals and continue trial date to provide late added party with sufficient time to bring summary judgment motion; fast track rules must give way to statutory right to bring summary judgment motion [ Polibrid Coatings, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 112 CA4th 920, 923-924 ].

Cross Reference:

Service of noticed motion, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure; Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

38.13[2][b] Filing. The notice of motion and supporting papers must be filed 16 court days before the appointed hearing date, and no later than the close of business of the clerk's office on the day the papers are due [see CCP § 1005(b); Cal Rules Ct, 3.1300(a), (e)].

Papers submitted for filing after the time set forth in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300 will be filed, but the court, in its discretion, may refuse to consider these papers in ruling on the motion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(d)]. If the court refuses to consider the papers, the minutes or order are required to so indicate [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(d)].

Judge's Perspective:

As previously stated, it is best to file and serve the moving papers at the same time.

38.13[3] Motion Made No Sooner Than 60 Days After General Appearance. A party may move for summary judgment any time after 60 days have elapsed since the general appearance of the party against whom the motion is directed [CCP § 437c(a)].

Exception:

With or without notice, if good cause is shown, the court may direct that summary judgment may be made at an earlier time after the general appearance of the party against whom the motion is directed [CCP § 437c(a); McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 115-118, 130 CR2d 407 ].

A party has generally appeared if he or she has filed a complaint [ Brown v. Swickard (1985) 163 CA3d 820, 826-827, 209 CR 844 & n10, 163 CA3d 820, 209 CR 844 ] or done any of the following [CCP § 1014]:

- Answered.
- Demurred.
- Filed a motion to strike.
- Filed a notice of motion to transfer under CCP § 396b.
- Moved for jurisdictional reclassification under CCP § 403.040.
- Given the plaintiff written notice of appearance.

Warning--Above Acts Not Exclusive:

The acts listed above pursuant to CCP § 1014 are not exclusive [ Creed v. Schultz (1983) 148 CA3d 733, 739, 196 CR 252 ]. Any act of a defendant is equivalent to a general appearance when, by the act, the defendant intentionally submits him or herself to the court's jurisdiction for the purpose of obtaining any ruling or order of the court going to merits of the case [ Davenport v. Superior Court (1920) 183 C 506, 511, 191 P 911 ].

The defendant's 60-day waiting period is computed from the time the action is filed [ Saint Mary Med. Ctr. v. Superior Court (1997) 50 CA4th 1531, 1537, 58 CR2d 182 ].

Exception:

At least one court has upheld a plaintiff's filing of a motion for summary adjudication of the issues less than 60 days after the defendant's general appearance when the hearing on the motion occurred after the 60-day period [ Sadlier v. Superior Court (1986) 184 CA3d 1050, 1053-1054, 229 CR 37 ].

38.13[4] Motion Must Be Heard 30 Days Before Trial. A motion for summary judgment must be heard no later than 30 days before the date of trial [CCP § 437c(a)].

Exception:

The court can order a later hearing for good cause [CCP § 437c(a); see McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 115-118, 130 CR2d 407 ; Cooksey v. Alexakis (2004) 123 CA4th 246, 251 n2 (soonest court date as good cause)].

Warning:

A notice of hearing less than 30 days prior to trial is invalid without a prior ruling from the court finding good cause for the lesser interval between trial and the hearing on the motion for summary judgment. Similarly, it is error for the trial court to rule on the motion for summary judgment at the same hearing at which it rules on the request for a hearing on the summary judgment motion less than 30 days prior to trial [ Robinson v. Woods (2008) 168 CA4th 1258, 1268, 86 CR3d 241 ].

The 30-day time period is calculated based on the trial date in existence when the motion is noticed [ Green v. Bristol Myers Co. (1988) 206 CA3d 604, 609 n4, 253 CR 745 ; see also Sentry Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 207 CA3d 526, 529, 255 CR 13 ].

II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.14

38.14 Summary Judgment/Adjudication Is Available Only on Notice.

The party seeking summary judgment or summary adjudication must request the order by a written notice of motion [CCP § 437c(a); Magana Cathcart McCarthy v. CB Richard Ellis, Inc. (2009) 174 Cal. App. 4th 106, 118, 94 Cal. Rptr. 3d 109 (improper for parties to enter into a stipulated judgment that the trial court would have granted summary judgment in the matter for purposes of expediting an appeal)]. Joining in a motion without separate notice is insufficient [ Lerma v. County of Orange (2004) 120 CA4th 709, 718-719 ].

The notice of motion must be accompanied by the following [CCP § 437c(b)(1); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350]:

- Supporting declarations or other evidence [see 38.15];
- A separate statement of material facts [see 38.16];
- A supporting memorandum [see 38.17]; and
- Any additional papers required by a local court rule.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.15

38.15 Moving Party Must Submit Supporting Evidence.

38.15[1] Affidavits and Declarations.

38.15[1][a] Most Common Method. A sworn statement, in the form of either an affidavit or a declaration, is the most common method for providing the necessary evidence in support of a motion for summary judgment [CCP §§ 437c(b)(1), 2003, 2015.5].

Cross Reference:

Form of declaration in support of summary judgment or summary adjudication, see 38.59.

38.15[1][b] Must Be Based on Personal Knowledge. The affidavit or declaration must be based on personal knowledge [CCP § 437c(d); Stockinger v. Feather River Community College (2003) 111 CA4th 1014, 1025-1026 ; Regents of the Univ. of Cal. v. Superior Court (1966) 41 CA4th 1040, 1044, 48 CR2d 922 ].

38.15[1][c] Affiant or Declarant Must Be Competent. The affidavit or declaration must affirmatively allege facts that show that the affiant or declarant is competent to testify to the matters stated within it [CCP § 437c(d); Regents of the Univ. of Cal. v. Superior Court (1966) 41 CA4th 1040, 1044, 48 CR2d 922 ].

38.15[1][d] Must Contain Admissible Evidence. The affidavit or declaration must set forth admissible evidence and be in the form of evidentiary facts [CCP § 437c(d); Stockinger v. Feather River Community College (2003) 111 CA4th 1014, 1025-1026 (transcripts of persons claiming to answer under penalty of perjury do not convert statements into admissible affidavits or declarations for summary judgment purposes); Krantz v. BT Visual Images (2001) 89 CA4th 164, 173-174, 107 CR2d 209 (defendant's conclusory declarations merely stating that the allegations of the complaint were untrue are not a sufficient basis for summary judgment); Regents of the Univ. of Cal. v. Superior Court (1966) 41 CA4th 1040, 1044, 48 CR2d 922 ].

38.15[1][e] Court Generally Cannot Deny Motion Merely on Grounds of Credibility or Want of Cross-Examination. The general rule is that a court cannot deny a motion for summary judgment merely on grounds of credibility or for want of cross-examination of witnesses who furnish affidavits or declarations in support of the motion [CCP § 437c(e)].

Exception--Discretionary Denial Allowed in Certain Instances If Affiant Is Sole Witness:

The court can exercise discretion to deny summary judgment if [CCP § 437c(e)]:

- The only proof a material fact offered in support of a motion for summary judgment is an affidavit or declaration who was the sole witness to that fact; or

- A material fact is an individual's state of mind, or lack thereof, and the moving party seeks to establish that fact solely by the individual's affirmation of that state of mind [ Meighan v. Shore (1995) 34 CA4th 1025, 1046, 40 CR2d 744 (mental process); Times-Mirror Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 198 CA3d 1420, 1430, 244 CR 556 (sole witness); Allen v. McMillion (1978) 82 CA3d 211, 215-216, 147 CR 77 (state of mind)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion, see 38.23[4].

38.15[1][f] May Incorporate Documentary Evidence. All documentary evidence submitted in support of the motion should be incorporated by reference into an affidavit or declaration. Any incorporated documents must satisfy evidentiary rules [ Dugar v. Happy Tiger Records, Inc. (1974) 41 CA3d 811, 815, 116 CR 412 ], including authentication [Evid Code §§ 1400-1454] and the Secondary Evidence Rule [Evid Code §§ 1520-1567].

Matter in the court's file, which is incorporated by reference, must be set forth with specificity. The entire file may not be incorporated [CCP § 437c(b)(7)].

38.15[2] Admissions as Derived From Responses to Requests for Admissions, Depositions, Answers to Interrogatories, Pleadings, and Factual Stipulations.

38.15[2][a] Requests for Admissions. Admissions are derived primarily through the use of requests for admissions, in either of the following ways:

- Matters may be admitted in an answer to a request for admission [CCP § 2033.410];

- Matters may be deemed admitted on the motion of the party who serves a request for admissions, when the party served with the request has failed to provide a timely response. The failure to answer the request for admissions is deemed an admission of the matters contained in such request [CCP § 2033.280(b); see also Jack v. Wood (1968), 258 CA2d 639, 644, 65 CR 856 ]. Summary judgment may be based on such admissions and requests for admissions, and on the moving party's affidavit [see CCP § 437c(b)(1)].

 Cross Reference:

Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery, Ch.12, Requests for Admissions.

38.15[2][b] Depositions and Interrogatories. Admissions derived from deposition testimony or interrogatories may:

- Be incorporated within a declaration; or

- Submitted as a separate exhibit [see 38.15[3]].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of weight given to admissions obtained through discovery, see 38.38[4].

38.15[2][c] Pleadings. Admissions derived from the pleadings of the opposing party may be either expressly pled [see, e.g., Aim Ins. Co. v. Culcasi (1991) 229 CA3d 209, 213 n1, 280 CR 766 (allegations in cross-complaint)], or they may result from an ineffective denial [see, e.g., Oliver v. Swiss Club Tell (1963) 222 CA2d 528, 540, 35 CR 324 (a denial based on information and belief with respect to facts that are presumptively within the knowledge of the defendant is insufficient and such a denial constitutes an admission of the allegation of the complaint)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of weight given to admissions in pleadings, see 38.38[5].

38.15[2][d] Factual Stipulations. Admissions may be derived from factual stipulations entered into with the opposing party [see, e.g., Smith v. Walter E. Heller & Co. (1978) 82 CA3d 259, 269, 147 CR 1 ].

38.15[3] Deposition Testimony and Interrogatories. Depositions and answers to interrogatories may be used to support or oppose a motion for summary judgment by submitting them as an exhibit to a declaration [CCP § 437c(b)(1)].

When deposition testimony is submitted as an exhibit, the following requirements apply [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1116]:

- Other than the title page, the exhibit must contain only the relevant pages of the transcript. The original deposition transcript page number must be clearly visible.
- The relevant portions of any testimony in the deposition must be marked in a manner that calls attention to that testimony.

Interrogatories and their answers should similarly be prepared as exhibits.

Cross References:

Use of discovery responses to meet movant's burden of production, see 38.05[2], 38.06[3].

38.15[4] Supporting Evidence May Include Matters for Which Judicial Notice Is Sought.

38.15[4][a] Select Matters. Matters of which judicial notice must or may be taken can be used to support or oppose a motion for summary judgment or adjudication [CCP § 437c(b)(1)]. Matters subject to judicial notice include:

- Statutes, case law, and court rules of the United States and California [see Evid Code §§ 451(a), (d), 452(a), (e)].
- Court records [see Evid Code § 452(d)].
- Facts and propositions:
  - ☐ Of generalized knowledge that are so universally known that they cannot reasonably be the subject of dispute [see Evid Code § 451(f)].
  - ☐ That are such common knowledge within the territorial jurisdiction of the court that they cannot reasonably be the subject of dispute [see Evid Code § 452(g)].

 That are not reasonably subject to dispute and are capable of immediate and accurate determination by resort to sources of reasonable indisputable accuracy [see Evid Code § 452(h)].

38.15[4][b] List Matters and Provide Copies. A party requesting permissive judicial notice of any matter must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(l), 3.1306(c)]:

- Prepare a separate document listing the specific items for which notice is requested; and
- Provide the court and each party with a copy of the material.

If the material is part of a file in the court in which the motion is being heard, the party must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(c)]:

- Specify in writing the part of the court file sought to be judicially noticed; and
- Arrange with the clerk to have that file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing.

Warning--Local Rules May Impose Additional Requirements:

For example, in Los Angeles County Superior Court, and San Francisco Superior Court, at least five days before the hearing, the party requesting judicial notice of a court file must file a separate document with the clerk of the department in which the motion is to be heard requesting the clerk to order delivery of the file to the department for the hearing. Moreover, the file must be delivered to the department at least two court days before the hearing to give the judge an opportunity to review the file in preparation for the hearing [Los Angeles Co Super Ct Rules, Rule 9.2; San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 8.9B].

Strategic Point:

Matters subject to mandatory judicial notice under Evid Code § 451 should be drawn to the court's attention by appropriate reference in the separate statement of material facts and the supporting memorandum.

Any failure by a court to notice matters subject to mandatory judicial notice under Evid Code § 451 may be deemed harmless or invited error if the matter was not brought to the court's attention [Assembly Committee on Judiciary Comment to Evid Code § 451; Stafford v. Ware (1960) 187 CA2d 227, 231-232, 9 CR 706 ].

Cross References:

Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.17.

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 321, Judicial Notice (Matthew Bender).

38.15[5] Supporting Evidence That Exceeds 25 Pages Must Be Bound and Include a Table of Contents. If the supporting evidence exceeds 25 pages, the evidence must be bound in a separately bound volume, and must include a table of contents [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(g)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 38.58.

38.15[6] Moving Party's Papers Are Strictly Construed. The moving party's papers are strictly construed, accepting as fact only those portions that are not contradicted by opposing papers [ Salazar v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1997) 54 CA4th 1370, 1376, 63 CR2d 522 ].

38.15[7] Motion for Summary Judgment and Accompanying Statement Are Neither Pleadings Nor Judicial Admissions. Neither a motion for summary judgment nor its accompanying statement of undisputed facts is a pleading within the meaning of CCP § 422.10. Thus, the motion and separate statement are not binding judicial admissions [ Myers v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2009) 178 CA4th 735, 747-749, 100 CR3d 658 ] .

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.16

38.16 Moving Party Must Submit Statement of Material Facts.

38.16[1] Facts in Separate Statement Must Refer to Specific Evidence. The supporting papers for a motion for summary judgment must include a separate statement of material facts that:

- Sets forth plainly and concisely all material facts that the moving party contends are undisputed [CCP § 437c(b)(1)].
- Follows each of the material facts stated by a reference to the supporting evidence [CCP § 437c(b)(1)].
  - ☐ References to supporting evidence must be specific and supported by citation to exhibit, title, page, and line numbers [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(d)].
  - ☐ Set forth in numerical sequence the undisputed material facts in the left column, following each material fact with reference to supporting evidence in that same column, leaving the right column blank [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(d), (h)].
- Is provided in an electronic version to any other party or the court within three days of a request to do so [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(i)].

38.16[2] Separate Statement Should Include All Essential Facts. The separate statement must contain each fact that is needed to support a ruling in favor of the moving party. Failure to include an essential fact in the separate statement is grounds for denial of the motion [CCP § 437c(b)(1)]. However, there is a split of authority whether a court may consider a fact not set forth in the separate statement in ruling on the motion [compare King v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (Third Dist., 2007) 152 CA4th 426, 437-438, 60 CR3d 359 (trial court's decision whether to consider evidence in record but not referenced in moving party's separate statement rests is reviewed for abuse of discretion), Zimmerman, Rosenfeld, Gersh & Leeds v. Larson (Second Dist., Fourth Div., 2005) 131 CA4th 1466, 1478 (in exercising its discretion to overlook procedural errors in moving papers, trial court may not consider supplemental evidence submitted in reply to fill glaring omissions and concessions in the original statement), and San Diego

Watercrafts, Inc. v. Wells Fargo Bank N.A. (Fourth Dist., Third Div., 2002) 102 CA4th 308, 315-316, 125 CR2d 499 (court has discretion to consider evidence not referenced in separate statement because CCP § 437c(b) is permissive, not mandatory) with Mills v. Forestex Co. (Fifth Dist., 2003) 108 CA4th 625, 641, 134 CR2d 273 (material facts not set forth in separate statement do not exist, mention in supporting memorandum insufficient) and United Cmty. Church v. Garcin (Second Dist., First Div., 1991) 231 CA3d 327, 337, 282 CR 368 (fact not referenced in separate statement may not be considered by court)].

Warning--Include All Essential Facts:

Do not take a chance that the court will not consider some of your evidence. Make sure the separate statement is complete. It is not enough to rely on evidence contained in a declaration or deposition transcript without stating the facts and referring to the supporting evidence in the separate statement. Conversely, be wary of the risk of having too extensive a list of undisputed material facts in the separate statement because a trial judge may deny the motion on the ground that it only takes one triable issue of material fact, and the moving party acknowledges that the particular fact is material by including it in the statement.

Strategic Point--Highlight Essential Facts:

Some of the facts in the separate statement will be foundational or of lesser importance than others. Counsel may want to highlight the motion's core facts through use of bold typeface or organization to make it easy for the judge to find and focus on them.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment
II. MOVING FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.17

38.17 Moving Party Must Submit Supporting Memorandum.

The motion must be accompanied by a supporting memorandum [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1113(a), 3.1350(c), (e)] that:

- Must not exceed 20 pages in length, exclusive of exhibits declarations, attachments, and a table of contents [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)].
- Must be in type not smaller than 12 points [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.104].
- Must be one and one-half spaced or double-spaced (with exceptions for the description of real property, footnotes, and quotations [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.108].
- Need not cite to the evidence in the record when the statement of undisputed material facts required by CCP § 437c(b)(1) and Cal Rules Court, Rule 3.1350(c) and (d) does so [see Basich v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2001) 87 CA4th 1112, 1118, 105 CR2d 153 ].

Exception:

A longer memorandum may be permitted with court approval [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(e)].

Distinguish--Multiple Parties:

The page limits of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.113(d) apply to all plaintiffs or all defendants on each side of a motion, rather than as separate page limitations as to each plaintiff or defendant (e.g., three co-plaintiffs opposing a single summary judgment motion are limited to a single memorandum of 20 pages instead of an aggregated 60 pages). Should multiple plaintiffs or multiple defendants want to increase the page limit of a memorandum, they must use the application process to file a longer memorandum under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.113(e) [ Collins v. Hertz Corp (2006) 144 CA4th 64, 71, 50 CR3d 149 ].

38.18 Defendant May Move for Defense Costs in Actions for Indemnity or Contribution Under California Tort Claims Act.

38.18[1] Available If Plaintiff's Proceeding Was Brought in Bad Faith. A defendant who is granted summary judgment in any civil action for indemnity or contribution, or in any civil proceeding under the California Tort Claims Act (Gov Code §§ 810-998.3), may move for defense costs as additional sanctions on the grounds that the proceeding was not brought in good faith and with reasonable cause [CCP § 1038(a)].

38.18[2] Available Only on Notice and Motion Made Prior to Judgment. An award of defense costs under CCP § 1038 can be made only:

- On notice contained in a party's papers and an opportunity to be heard [CCP § 1038(a)]; and
- On a motion made prior to judgment [CCP § 1038(c)].

38.18[3] Include Attorney's and Expert Witness Fees. "Defense costs" include [CCP § 1038(b)]:

- Reasonable attorney's fees.
- Expert witness fees.

- ☐ Make motion for sanctions for bad-faith affidavits, if appropriate.

Warning:

The trial court must make specific rulings on a party's objections to evidence and, if the party making the objections does not make a request that the court rule on them at the hearing, the objections are deemed waived and all evidence may be considered by the reviewing court [ Koebke v. Bernardo Heights Country Club (2004) 116 CA4th 791, 817 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.20

38.20 Options and Strategies for Opposing Parties.

38.20[1] Opposing Party May Make Motion for Continuance If Needed and Appropriate.

38.20[1][a] To Obtain Affidavits or Conduct Further Discovery. Opposing counsel may move for a continuance on the grounds that facts essential to support its opposition may exist, but cannot, for reasons stated, yet be presented. The court can order a continuance to permit opposing counsel to obtain affidavits or conduct further discovery [CCP § 437c(h)]. CCP § 437c mandates a continuance of a summary judgment hearing upon a good faith showing by affidavit that a continuance is needed to obtain facts essential to justify opposition to the motion; however, if the facts sought are not material then the continuance may be denied [ Yuzon v. Collins (2004) 116 CA4th 149, 167, 10 CR3d 18 ]. Likewise, a continuance is not automatic where the responsive statement simply is substantively defective [ Oldcastle Precast, Inc. v. Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Co. (2009) 170 CA4th 554, 573-577, 88 CR3d 363 (no automatic second chance at responsive statement)].

Warning:

Merely stating that facts may exist, but cannot yet be presented, is insufficient to meet the requirements for continuance. The supporting declaration must explain why the information in the requested documents is essential to opposing the motion and why additional time is needed [ Combs v. Skyriver Communications, Inc. (2008) 159 CA4th 1242, 1270, 72 CR3d 171 ].

Warning:

The failure to timely seek a continuance of hearing to obtain evidence in opposition to a motion for summary judgment constitutes lack of diligence required for motion for reconsideration of the granting of summary judgment [ New York Times Co. v. Superior Court (2006) 135 CA4th 206, 215, 37 CR3d 338 (party failed to move for continuance to allow completion of deposition transcripts)]. Thus, a party knowing of evidence tending to show a factual controversy warranting denial of a motion for summary judgment must present it at the hearing and, therefore, must properly seek a continuance prior to the hearing if more time is necessary for obtaining it at the time a motion for continuance must be filed.

The motion for the continuance can be made by ex parte motion at any time on or before the date the opposition response to the motion is due [CCP § 437c(h)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of continuances, see Ch. 30, Continuances.

38.20[1][b] Need Must Be Demonstrated. A motion for continuance must be supported by a declaration from the party's attorney [ Wachs v. Curry (1993) 13 CA4th 616, 622-624, 16 CR2d 496 ; Hill v. Physicians & Surgeons Exch. (1990) 225 CA3d 1, 7-8, 274 CR 702 ] showing:

- What efforts were made to take conduct discovery and why they could not have been taken earlier [ Cooksey v. Alexakis (2004) 123 CA4th 246, 257, 19 CR3d 810 (deliberate delay of discovery as lack of diligence); Lerma v. County of Orange (2004) 120 CA4th 709, 716, 15 CR3d 609 (illness of counsel); A & B Painting & Drywall, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 25 CA4th 349, 356-357, 30 CR2d 418 ]; and
- That the proposed discovery could reasonably lead to facts essential to justify opposing to the motion [ Scott v. CIBA Vision Corp. (1995) 38 CA4th 307, 326, 44 CR2d 902 ].

Warning--New 75-Day Notice Period May Cause Court to Deny Continuance:

Because a summary judgment motion is now heard on a minimum of 75 days' notice instead of 28 days' notice as under prior law [see CCP § 437c(a)], an opposing party should have enough time to complete discovery without seeking a continuance to do so. Without a strong showing of diligence and an explanation of the reasons why discovery cannot be completed in the two-month period before the opposition need be filed, a court may deny a motion for a continuance.

Judge's Perspective:

The amendments to CCP § 437c seem to indicate that continuances based on requests to conduct discovery should be granted with more liberality. However, existing case law already made it very clear that a trial court would have no discretion to deny the continuance on a good-faith showing by affidavit that the continuance was needed to obtain facts essential to justify opposition to the motion [see Nazar v. Rodeffer (1986) 184 CA3d 546, 555-556, 229 CR 209 ]. The trial court's experience has shown that most requests for continuances based on a desire to conduct discovery fail to specify what discovery is needed and the time necessary to complete same. While it may be easier to obtain a continuance in light of the recent statutory amendments, counsel would be well advised to be specific in detailing the need for further discovery and both the time and devices needed to complete the requested discovery. General and vague conclusions will not suffice [see, e.g., California Automobile Ins. Co. v. Hogan (2003) 112 CA4th 1292, 1305, 5 CR3d 761 ].

38.20[1][c] If Moving Party Unreasonably Impedes Discovery, Court May Grant Further Continuance or Deny Summary Motion. If, after granting a continuance to allow specified additional discovery, the court determines that the party seeking summary judgment has unreasonably failed to allow the discovery to be conducted, the court can either [CCP § 437c(i)]:

- Grant another continuance to permit the discovery to be completed; or
- Deny the motion for summary judgment.

38.20[2] Plaintiff Cannot Avoid Time Limitations by Moving for Voluntary Dismissal. A plaintiff may not frustrate the summary judgment statute by filing a voluntary dismissal without prejudice in lieu of opposing a defendant's motion. Because the right to dismiss a case is not absolute, the court may ignore the request for dismissal and grant the pending summary judgment motion [ Cravens v. State Bd. Of Equalization (1997) 52 CA4th 253, 255, 257, 60 CR2d 436 (summary judgment for defendant granted because defendant's moving papers met its burden of proof despite plaintiff's last minute request for dismissal)]. The determining factor is fairness, which in turn depends on the plaintiff's motivation and intent in dismissing the complaint [ Tire Distributors, Inc. v. Cobrae (2005) 132 CA4th 538, 546-547, 33 CR3d 761 (request for dismissal without prejudice after date response to summary judgment motion was due but well before summary judgment was granted was motivated only by compliance with settlement agreement)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of voluntary dismissal, see Ch. 39, Voluntary Dismissal.

38.20[3] Plaintiff May Be Denied Delayed Amendment of Complaint. Given that even a good amendment of a complaint proposed in proper form, but presented after unwarranted delay may be denied [ Melican v. Regents of University of California (2007) 151 CA4th 168, 175-177, 59 CR3d 672 (amendment requested three days before summary judgment hearing was properly denied)], counsel should not count on being able to amend a complaint immediately before a hearing on a defendant's motion for summary judgment. Upon receiving the notice of motion, plaintiff's counsel must decide and act to amend a complaint that can be salvaged without delay.

38.20[4] Opposing Party Does Not Have Right to Submit Additional Evidence After Moving Party's Reply. CCP § 437c does not allow for the submission of additional evidence by the opposing party after the moving party's reply. Accordingly, the trial court has discretion whether to permit an opposing party to respond to a moving party's response to the opposing party's response to the moving party's motion [ Hollywood Screentest of America, Inc. v. NBC Universal, Inc. (2007) 151 CA4th 631, 643, 60 CR3d 279 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.21

38.21 Opposition Papers Must Be Served and Filed 14 Days Before Hearing.

38.21[1] Courts Adhere Strictly to 14-Day Requirement. Any opposition to a summary judgment or adjudication motion must be served and filed no less than 14 days preceding the hearing date, unless the court for good cause orders otherwise [CCP § 437c(b)(2)]; but see Teselle v. McLoughlin (2009) 173 CA4th 156, 161-162, 92 CR3d 696 (late filing by one day of statement of disputed material facts did not violate policy of CCP § 437c where moving defendant failed to provide evidence in support of one element of its defense)].

Warning--Late Filed Papers:

Good cause must be shown before late filed papers will be accepted by the court and a showing of diligence is required before a court will consider evidence discovered by the opposing party after the time for filing its opposition papers has passed [see, e.g., Hobson v. Raychem Corp. (1999) 73 CA4th 614, 625, 86 CR2d 497 (appellant did not establish diligence or good cause for submissions filed the day before the hearing but did for submissions filed a week before the hearing)]. If a court allows the opposing party to submit evidence after its opposing papers are due, it should continue the hearing to give the moving party an opportunity to respond to the late submitted evidence [ Hobson v. Raychem Corp. (1999) 73 CA4th 614, 623, 86 CR2d 497 ].

38.21[2] Statute Makes No Provision for Service of Opposing Papers by Mail. Unlike the time requirements for serving the notice of motion under CCP § 437c(a), the statute makes no provision for extending the time period for service by mail [see CCP § 437c(b)(2)].

Warning--Service of Opposing and Reply Papers Must Be Expedited:

All opposition and reply papers to a summary judgment or adjudication motion must be served by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party on the next business day after the papers are filed, as required by CCP § 1005(c) [CCP § 437c(b)(6)].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.22

38.22 If Moving Party Meets Initial Burden, Opposing Party Must Show Triable Issue of Material Fact.

38.22[1] Initial Burden of Proof Remains With Moving Party. The opposing party has no burden to present opposing evidence if the moving party fails to meet its initial burden [ Scheiding v. Dinwiddie Construction Co. (1999) 69 CA4th 64, 83-84, 81 CR2d 360 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.22[2] Burden Shifts to Opposing Party After Moving Party Meets Initial Burden.

38.22[2][a] Defendant as Opposing Party. Once a plaintiff, as a moving party, meets the burden of showing that there is no defense to a cause of action, and has proved each element of that cause of action, the burden shifts to the defendant to show that a triable issue of one or more material facts exists as to that cause of action, or a defense to that cause of action [CCP § 437c(p)(1)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

38.22[2][b] Plaintiff as Opposing Party. Once a defendant has met his or her burden of showing that a cause of action has no merit by showing that one or more elements of the cause of action cannot be established, or that there is a complete defense to that cause of action, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to show that a triable issue of one or more material facts exists as to that cause of action or defense [CCP § 437c(p)(2)].

Strategic Point:

General pleadings are controlled by specific allegations. For that reason, where plaintiff alleges a permissible conclusion of law but also avers specific additional facts that either do not support that conclusion or are inconsistent with it, the specific allegations will control, and a complaint that might have been sufficient with general allegations alone may be rendered defective [ Melican v. Regents of University of California (2007) 151 CA4th 168, 174-175, 59 CR3d 672 ]. Accordingly, upon receiving notice of defendant's summary judgment motion, counsel for plaintiff should immediately evaluate the attack on the complaint for whether the defect can be remedied by amendment to the complaint; and counsel should, where appropriate, move to amend without delay.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.23

38.23 Opposing Party Must Submit Evidentiary Material.

38.23[1] Opposing Evidence May Be Presented Through Affidavits, Admissions, Interrogatories, Depositions, and Matters Subject to Judicial Notice. Evidentiary material must be filed as part of the opposition in order to raise a triable issue of material fact in opposition to a motion for summary judgment [ Arciniega v. Bank of San Bernardino, N.A. (1997) 52 CA4th 213, 224, 60 CR2d 495 (criticized on another point in Rice v. Crow (2000) 81 CA4th 725, 726, 737-741, 97 CR2d 110 )].

Opposing evidence may be presented in any of the following forms [CCP § 437c(b)(2)]:

- Affidavits or declarations [see 38.23[5]].
- Admissions.
- Answers to interrogatories or deposition testimony.
- Matter of which judicial notice should be taken.

38.23[2] Allegations or Denials in Pleadings Insufficient to Show Triable Issue of Material Fact. An opposing party may not rely on the mere allegations or denials of its pleadings to show that a triable issue of material fact exists. The opposing party must set forth the specific facts that show that a triable issue of fact exists as to the elements of the opposing party's cause of action or affirmative defense [CCP § 437c(p)(1), (2)].

38.23[3] If Opposing Affidavits or Declarations Are Not Filed, Court Can Accept Facts Alleged in Moving Party's Affidavits and Declarations as True. If the opposing party does not file opposing affidavits or declarations, the court may accept as true the facts alleged in the moving party's affidavits and declarations, provided they are within the personal knowledge of the affiant or declarant, and are facts to which he or she could competently testify [ Lyons v. Security Pac. Nat. Bank (1995) 40 CA4th 1001, 1014, 48 CR2d 174 ; see CCP § 2015.5 (use of declarations)].

Example--Refuting Expert Affidavit Needed:

During the summary judgment proceedings, plaintiffs were required to submit their own expert declaration to refute the averments contained by the opposing party's expert declaration [ Avivi v. Centro Medico Urgente Medical Center (2008) 159 CA4th 463, 467, 71 CR3d 707 (erroneous exclusion of plaintiff's only expert witness in such a case requires reversal)].

Example--Counsel's Assertions and Allegations Do Not Substitute for Opposing Declarations:

The assertions and allegations of opposing party's attorney, unsupported by declarations or affidavits, did not create a factual issue [ Lyons v. Security Pac. Nat. Bank (1995) 40 CA4th 1001, 1014, 48 CR2d 174 ].

Example--Expert's Opinion Must Be Supported By Admissible Evidence.

Defendant's expert declaration was insufficient when the doctor declared he based his opinion on medical and hospital records to refute a claim of medical malpractice, these records were not in evidence, were not based on personal knowledge, and the records were hearsay because no foundation was made to admit them under the business records exception [ Garibay v. Hemmat (2008) 161 CA4th 735, 742, 74 CR3d 715 ].

38.23[4] If Unopposed, Lack of Credibility of Moving Party's Affidavits and Declarations Is Not Ground for Denying Summary Judgment. In general, summary judgment will not be denied on grounds of credibility of the witnesses furnishing affidavits or declaration in support of the summary judgment [CCP § 437c(e)].

Exception--Summary Judgment May Be Denied Without Opposing Affidavits in Two Instances:

The court may exercise discretion to deny summary judgment to the moving party when [CCP § 437c(e)]:

- Witness Is Sole Witness to Material Fact. If the only proof of a material fact offered in support of the summary judgment is an affidavit or declaration made by an individual who was the sole witness to that material fact; or

- Material Fact Is an Individual's State of Mind. If the material fact is an individual's state of mind, or lack thereof, and the sole means of establishing that fact is the individual's affirmation of that state of mind [ Meighan v. Shore (1995) 34 CA4th 1025, 1046, 40 CR2d 744 (mental process); Times-Mirror Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 198 CA3d 1420, 1430, 244 CR 556 (sole witness); Allen v. McMillion (1978) 82 CA3d 211, 215-216, 147 CR 77 (state of mind)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion, see 38.15[1][e].

38.23[5] Requirements for Opposing Affidavits/Declarations.

38.23[5][a] Must Set Forth Admissible Evidence. Opposing affidavits or declarations must [CCP § 437c(d)]:

- Be made by a person with personal knowledge;
- Set forth admissible evidence; and
- Show affirmatively that the affiant or declarant is competent to testify to the matters stated in the affidavits or declarations [ Regents of the Univ. of Cal. v. Superior Court (1966) 41 CA4th 1040, 1044, 48 CR2d 922 ].

38.23[5][b] Must Disclose Existence of Material Fact. An opposing affidavit or declaration does not have to prove the opposition's case. Even a sole declaration is sufficient if it:

- Discloses the existence of a triable issue of material fact [ McManis v. San Diego Postal Credit Union (1998) 61 CA4th 547, 555, 71 CR2d 617 ]; and
- Is facially credible [ Estate of Housley (1997) 56 CA4th 342, 359-361, 65 CR2d 628 ].

Example--Sole Declaration Can Raise Issue of Fact on Statute of Frauds Defense:

The defendant moved for summary judgment on the grounds that the statute of frauds precluded enforcement of an alleged oral agreement that testator would leave property to plaintiff. The plaintiff's declaration constituted sufficient evidence to make a prima facie case for the application of equitable estoppel to enforce the alleged oral agreement [ Estate of Housley (1997) 56 CA4th 342, 359-361, 65 CR2d 628 ].

38.23[5][c] May Not Be Based on Conjecture or Legal Conclusions. An opposing affidavit is insufficient if it is based on mere speculation, or conjecture, or consists of an expert's conclusory assertions [ Bushling v. Fremont Med. Ctr. (2004) 117 CA4th 493, 510 ; Frank & Freedus v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1996) 45 CA4th 461, 468-469, 52 CR2d 678 ; American Golf Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 CA4th 30, 39, 93 CR2d 683 ; Benavidez v. San Jose Police Dept. (1999) 71 CA4th 853, 865, 84 CR2d 157 ]. However, an expert's opinion is admissible if the opinion rests on matters of a type reasonably relied on, and the basis for the opinion is established [ Sanchez v. Hillerich & Bradsy Co. (2002) 104 CA4th 703, 718, 128 CR2d 529 ].

Example--Expert's Lack of Factual Basis:

An expert's opinion that the shoulder injury medical malpractice plaintiff suffered following abdominal surgery probably resulted from plaintiff being dropped or improperly positioned during the procedure, but not citing any factual basis other than injury itself for believing that either had occurred, was entitled to no weight since it did not provide a factual basis or reasoned explanation for the opinions they contained [ Bushling v. Fremont Med. Ctr. (2004) 117 CA4th 493, 510 ].

Example--Expert's Affidavit Must Be Specific as to Causation:

Because it would always be possible for a plaintiff who suffers a sports injury to obtain expert testimony that the injury would not have occurred if the recreation provider had done something differently, such expert testimony is not sufficient to establish that the recreation provider increased the inherent risks of the sport. An expert's declaration objecting to the location and construction of a yardage marker on a golf course was not sufficient to establish that the recreation provider increased the inherent risks of the sport [ American Golf Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 CA4th 30, 39, 93 CR2d 683 ].

Example--Expert Cannot Draw Legal Conclusions:

The defendant, a police department that was sued for failing to take adequate precautions to protect the plaintiff and her son, moved for summary judgment on the ground that it did not have a duty to the plaintiff. To the extent the plaintiff's expert's declaration drew legal conclusions such as whether a special relationship was created when the officers replied to the 911 call, whether the officers increased the risk to plaintiffs, and whether the officers used plaintiffs as "bait," the declaration was rejected [ Benavidez v. San Jose Police Dept. (1999) 71 CA4th 853, 865, 84 CR2d 157 ].

Example--Expert's Declaration Rejected as Speculative:

The expert's declaration, regarding the possible sudden and accidental release of pollutants due to firefighting techniques, which was offered to establish that the insured's claims fell within the sudden and accidental exception to the pollution exclusion, was no more than speculation and could not create a triable question of fact [ Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 CA4th 1440, 1462, 75

CR2d 54 ].

 Cross Reference:

Form of declaration in opposition to summary judgment or summary adjudication, see 38.67.

38.23[6] Additional Opposing Evidence May Be Presented as Exhibits. The requirements relating to an opposing party's additional opposing evidence, including admissions, depositions, interrogatories, and matters for which judicial notice is sought, are the same as the requirements for preparing the moving party's supporting evidence.

 Cross References:

Discussion of requirements, see 38.15[2] (admissions); 38.15[3] (depositions and interrogatories); 38.15[4] (matters for which judicial notice is sought).

38.23[7] If Opposing Evidence Exceeds 25 Pages, Evidence Must Be Bound and Include a Table of Contents. If the supporting evidence exceeds 25 pages, the evidence must be bound in a separately bound volume, and must include a table of contents [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(g)].

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 38.66.

38.23[8] Opposing Party's Papers Are Liberally Construed. The opposing party's papers are liberally construed, all facts therein being accepted as true [ Salazar v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1997) 54 CA4th 1370, 1376, 63 CR2d 522 ].

38.23[9] Declaration May Not Contradict Witness' Prior Statement Under Oath. Parties cannot create an issue of material fact by submitting a declaration that contradicts previous statements made under oath [ Carson Redevelopment Agency v. Padilla (2006) 140 CA4th 1323, 1328, 44 CR3d 881 (deposition); Tesco Controls, Inc. v. Monterey Mechanical Co. (2004) 124 CA4th 780, 798 (deposition)].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.24

38.24 Opposing Party Must Submit Opposing Statement of Material Facts.

38.24[1] Must Respond to Moving Party's Statement. Opposition papers to a motion for summary judgment or adjudication must include a separate statement of material facts that responds to the moving party's statement of facts, indicating which facts are disputed, and that contains other material facts which the opposing party contends are in dispute [CCP § 437c(b)(3)].

Warning--Failure to Provide Separate Statement May Constitute Grounds for Granting Motion:

The court has discretion to grant a motion for summary judgment if an opposing party fails to comply with the requirement of providing a separate statement [CCP § 437c(b)(3); Whitehead v. Habig (2008) 163 CA4th 896, 902, 77 CR3d 679 ; Kaplan v. LaBarbera (1997) 58 CA4th 175, 179, 67 CR2d 903 ]. Note, however, that some cases hold that the court is required to determine that the moving party has met its initial burden of proof, before the court can exercise its discretion under CCP § 437c(b)(3) to grant summary judgment based solely on the opposing party's failure to file a proper separate statement [ Thatcher v. Lucky Stores, Inc. (2000) 79 CA4th 1081, 1086, 94 CR2d 575 ; Rubenstein v. Rubenstein (2000) 81 CA4th 1131, 1151-1152, 97 CR2d 707 ; Kulesa v. Castleberry (1966) 47 CA4th 103, 111-112 ].

Distinguish:

When the opposing party files a separate statement, but it is procedurally defective (i.e., incorrect format, improper juxtaposition of arguments), the trial court must give the opposing party an opportunity to correct the defects before ruling on the motion, and if the defective statement nonetheless provides notice of the opposing party's allegations and arguments, the trial court cannot ignore the opposing party's evidence in ruling on the motion [ Parkview Villas Assn., Inc. v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (2005) 133 CA4th 1197, 1210-1216 ]. However, in response to a case in which a party filed 2,200 pages of responsive statement containing 764 objections to the motion for summary judgment, the court of appeals stated that [ Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 CA4th 243, 290, 100 CR3d 296 ] :

The deficiencies in summary judgment papers can appear in a variety of places, and the approaches taken by the courts to address the deficiencies can vary as well, limited only by the inspiration or creativity of the particular law and motion judge--and, of course, due process. There is no universal solution, no panacea, and we do not even attempt to offer suggestions. We write here only to confirm the existence of the inherent power, to remind trial courts of it, and to encourage them to use it when appropriate.

38.24[2] Must Adhere to Format Requirements. The separate statement of material facts must [CCP § 437c(b)(3)]:

- Respond to each of the material facts contended by the moving party to be undisputed;
- Indicate whether the opposing party agrees or disagrees that those facts are undisputed; and
- Be provided in an electronic version to any other party or the court within three days of a request to do so [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(i)].

In addition, the special format requirements for preparing the opposing statement are as follows [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(f)]:

- Each material fact claimed by the moving party to be undisputed must be set out verbatim on the left side of the page.
  - ☐ Below each material fact must be the moving party's evidence to establish that fact, complete with the moving party's references to exhibits.
- On the right side of the page, directly opposite the recitation of the moving party's statement of material facts and supporting evidence, the opposing party must unequivocally state whether that fact is "Disputed" or "Undisputed."
  - ☐ An opposing party who contends that a fact is disputed must on the right side of the page directly opposite the fact in dispute:
    - State the nature of the dispute;
    - Describe the evidence that supports the position that the fact is controverted; and
    - Identify the evidence by citation to exhibit, title, page, and line numbers in the evidence submitted.
- Reference objections to specific evidence that are included in the list of evidentiary objections [see 38.26[3]] by putting the objection number in the right column of the statement in opposition, but do not restate or reargue the objections in the statement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(b)].

Warning:

The failure of a separate statement of facts to respond to each of the other party's alleged facts or to indicate whether each fact is undisputed, or to comply with the special format requirements of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1350(f), is grounds for granting the motion for summary judgment [CCP § 437c(b)(3); Collins v. Hertz Corp. (2006) 144 CA4th 64, 72-73, 50 CR3d 149 ].

38.24[3] Must Dispute Material Issue of Fact. The presence of a factual dispute will not defeat a summary judgment motion unless the fact in dispute is "material," i.e., it must relate to some claim or defense in issue under the pleadings, and it must also be essential to the judgment in some way [ Riverside County Community Facilities Dist. v. Bainbridge 17 (1999) 77 CA4th 644, 653 ; Romero v. American President Lines, Ltd. (1995) 38 CA4th 1199, 1203, 45 CR2d 421 ; Los Angeles Nat. Bank v. Canton (1991) 229 CA3d 1267, 1274, 280 CR 831 ]. The materiality of a disputed fact is measured by the pleadings [ Conroy v. Regents of University of California (2009) 45 C4th 1244, 1250, 91 CR3d 532, 203 P3d 1127 (argument in statement of material facts is immaterial to facts set forth in complaint)].

38.24[4] May Not Assert Matters Not Yet Pleaded. If an opposing party wants to raise some factual assertion, legal theory, defense, or claim it has not yet pled, that party should seek leave to amend its pleading before the hearing on the summary judgment motion. The papers filed in response to a motion for summary judgment may not create issues outside the pleadings and are not a substitute for an amendment to the pleadings [ Conroy v. Regents of University of California (2009) 45 C4th 1244, 1250, 91 CR3d 532, 203 P3d 1127 (theory of liability presented in opposition to summary judgment and not contained in complaint was irrelevant); Distefano v. Forester (2001) 85 CA4th 1249, 1264-1265, 102 CR2d 813 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.25

38.25 Opposing Party Must Submit Opposing Memorandum.

38.25[1] Memorandum Should State Opposing Legal Points, Coordinate Opposing Papers, and Make Appropriate Objections. The opposing memorandum is used to:

- State the opposing legal points and authorities;
- Coordinate with the other opposing papers; and
- Make objections to:
  - ☐ Notice [see discussion in 38.13 and 38.26[1]]; and
  - ☐ The sufficiency of supporting declarations.

► Cross References:

Evidence, see 38.15[1] and 38.26[2], [3].

Warning--Objections to Notice and Evidence Can Be Waived:

Objections to notice are waived if not raised at the hearing.

38.25[2] Memorandum Must Adhere to Format Requirements. The memorandum:

- Must not exceed 20 pages in length, exclusive of exhibits declarations, attachments, and a table of contents [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(d)].
- Must be in type not smaller than 12 points [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.104].
- Must be one and one-half spaced or double-spaced (with exceptions for the description of real property, footnotes, and quotations) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.108].

- Need not cite to the evidence in the record as long as the statement of undisputed material facts required by CCP § 437c(b)(3) and Cal Rules Court, Rule 3.1350(c) and (d) does so [see Basich v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2001) 87 CA4th 1112, 1118, 105 CR2d 153 ]. However, better practice is to provide cites to the facts in the memorandum.

Exception:

A longer memorandum may be filed with court approval [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(e)].

Distinguish--Multiple Parties:

The page limits of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.113(d) apply to all plaintiffs or all defendants on each side of a motion, rather than as separate page limitations as to each plaintiff or defendant (e.g., three co-plaintiffs opposing a single summary judgment motion are limited to a single memorandum of 20 pages instead of an aggregated 60 pages). Should multiple plaintiffs or multiple defendants want to increase the page limit of a memorandum, they must use the application process to file a longer memorandum under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.113(e) [ Collins v. Hertz Corp (2006) 144 CA4th 64, 71, 50 CR3d 149 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.26

38.26 Procedural and Evidentiary Objections Will Be Waived If Not Timely Made.

38.26[1] Objections to Proper Notice. Objections to a moving party's failure to give proper notice of a motion for summary judgment or adjudication as required by CCP § 437c(a) will be waived if the responding party appears at the hearing and argues the motion on the merits with no reference to the failure to provide adequate notice [ Carlton v. Quint (2000) 77 CA4th 690, 696-698, 91 CR2d 844 ].

Cross Reference:

Service requirements, see 38.14.

Judge's Perspective--Options When Service Is Improper:

If service of the motion is improper, then counsel may wish to consider the following alternatives:

1. Notify opposing counsel immediately that service is defective and request to be served timely and properly. If this notification (either written or oral) fails to elicit the desired response then proceed with the following:
2. Move ex parte for an order shortening time to have heard a motion to strike the motion for summary adjudication/judgment for its failure to be properly served and in the alternative seek the imposition of sanctions pursuant to CCP § 128.7.

At the very least, improper service can be addressed at the time of the ex parte application, and counsel should ask the court how best the court wishes to handle the issue.

38.26[2] Objections to the Adequacy of Supporting Affidavits or Declarations. Any objection that the moving party's supporting affidavits or declarations do not comply with the requirements of CCP § 437c(d) are waived if not made at the summary judgment hearing [CCP § 437c(d)].

38.26[3] Objecting to Moving Party's Evidence.

38.26[3][a] Evidentiary Objections Must Be Made in Writing or Transcribed at the Summary Hearing. Evidentiary objections not made at the hearing will be waived [CCP § 437c(b)(5)].

Strategic Point:

A party has a right to waive objections, which right the court may not deny by interposing and sustaining its own hearsay objection [ Andrews v. Mobile Aire Estates (2005) 125 CA4th 578, 587 n6 ].

A party who desires to make an evidentiary objection must either submit written objections or arrange for a court reporter to be present at the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1352].

Cross Reference:

Evidentiary objections in opposing statement of fact, see 38.24[2].

38.26[3][b] Written Objections Must Conform to Court Rule and Generally Be Served and Filed With Other Opposition Papers. A party's collected written objections must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(b)]:

- Number each individual objection separately;
- Present the individual objections in one of the two allowed formats; and
- Be served and filed separately from other papers in opposition to the motion.

Timing:

Unless otherwise excused by the court on a showing of good cause, all written objections to evidence in opposition to a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication must be served and filed at the same time as the objecting party's opposition papers are served and filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(a)].

Each individual objection included by a party in its collected written objections must [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(b)(1)-(4)]:

- Identify the name of the document in which the specific material objected to is located;
- State the exhibit, title, page, and line number of the material objected to;
- Quote or set forth the objectionable statement or material; and
- State the grounds for each objection to that statement or material.

Cross Reference:

Form of written objections to evidence on motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication, see 38.69A.

38.26[3][c] Proposed Order on Objections Must Accompany Written Objections to Evidence. A party submitting written objections to evidence before the hearing on a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication must include a proposed order on the objections. The proposed order must provide places for the court to indicate whether it has sustained or overruled each objection and for the signature of the judge. The proposed order must conform to one of two formats permitted by court rule [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(c)].

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.27

38.27 Sanctions for Bad-Faith Affidavits May Be Available on Notice Given in Opposing Papers or on Court's Own Motion.

38.27[1] Available on Notice and Motion. If the opposing party believes that the moving party's affidavits have been presented in bad faith, or solely for purposes of delay, the opposing party may make a motion seeking the amount of the reasonable expenses that the filing of the affidavits caused the opposing party to incur [CCP § 437c(j)]. "Reasonable expenses" does not include the aggrieved party's attorney's fees [ Collins v. Department of Transportation (2003) 114 CA4th 859, 870 ].

A separate noticed motion for sanctions is not required so long as notice is contained in the opposing party's other papers [CCP § 437c(j)].

38.27[2] Memorandum Required. A memorandum must be filed and a copy served with the notice of motion [CCP §§ 1005(b), 1010; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

38.27[3] Parties Must Have Opportunity to Be Heard. Sanctions may not be imposed except after an opportunity to be heard [CCP § 437c(j)].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

III. OPPOSING SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.28

38.28 Cross-Motion Is Required to Obtain Affirmative Relief.

The opposing party must make a cross-motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication to obtain such affirmative relief [CCP § 437c(a), (f); Dvorin v. Appellate Dep't of Superior Court (1975) 15 C3d 648, 650-651, 125 CR 771 (absent a motion, ordering summary judgment denies the opposite party opportunity to allege additional facts justifying trial of factual issues)].

Timing--Cross-Motion Must Comply With Time Requirements:

Any cross-motion for affirmative relief must comply with the 105-day time window [CCP § 437c(a)]:

- Hearing, 30 days before trial; plus
- Service, 75 days before hearing date (plus additional days if service is by mail or facsimile).

Exception:

The court may order a later hearing for good cause [CCP § 437c(a); McMahon v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 112, 115-118, 130 CR2d 407 ].

IV. REPLYING TO OPPOSITION TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT/ADJUDICATION

38.30 Options and Strategies for Replying Party.

A party moving for summary judgment often wishes to keep the motion as simple as possible and to avoid anticipated counter-arguments that may or may not be made. However, judges are wary of the tactic of "sandbagging," by which the moving party waits until the reply to address important arguments that could have been addressed in the moving papers. The moving party needs to strike a balance between keeping the motion simple and fairly raising and briefing all obviously important arguments in the moving papers.

38.31 Reply Papers Must Be Served and Filed Five Days Before Hearing.

38.31[1] Five-Day Requirement. Any reply to the opposition must be served and filed by the moving party no less than five days before the noticed or continued hearing date [CCP § 437c(b)(4)].

Exception:

The court can order otherwise for good cause [CCP § 437c(b)(4)].

38.31[2] No Provision for Service by Mail. Unlike the time requirements for serving the notice of motion under CCP § 437c(a), the statute makes no provision for extending the time period for service by mail [see CCP § 437c(b)(4)].

Timing--Service of Opposing and Reply Papers Must Be Expedited:

CCP § 437c(b)(6) requires that the reply papers must be served by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party on the next business day after the papers are filed, as required by CCP § 1005(c).

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

IV. REPLYING TO OPPOSITION TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT/ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.32

38.32 Moving Party May Reply With Supplementary Evidence.

38.32[1] Reply May Include New Evidence to Rebut Opposition Evidence. CCP § 437c(b)(4) has been interpreted as allowing the inclusion of evidentiary matter, such as supplemental declarations, with the reply [ Weiss v. Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. (1988) 204 CA3d 1094, 1098-1099, 251 CR 727 ; Johnson v. Banducci (1963) 212 CA2d 254, 259-260, 27 CR 764 ]. Supplementary evidentiary papers should include facts explaining why supplementary evidence is necessary [ Johnson v. Banducci (1963) 212 CA2d 254, 259-260, 27 CR 764 ].

If supplementary evidence is submitted, counsel should prepare a supplementary statement of undisputed facts to accompany the supplemental evidence, in the same manner as the statement of material facts supporting the motion [see 38.16].

Strategic Point:

In the supplemental statement of facts, counsel may reference objections to specific evidence that are included in the list of evidentiary objections [see 38.33A] by putting the objection number in the right column of the statement in opposition, but should not restate or reargue the objections in the statement [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(b) ].

38.32[2] Court's Consideration of Supplemental Declaration Is Discretionary. When supplemental evidence is submitted with the reply, the court should give the opposing party an opportunity to respond to that evidence before considering it [ Alliant Ins. Services, Inc. v. Gaddy (2008) 159 CA4th 1292 1308, 72 CR3d 259 ; Weiss v. Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. (1988) 204 CA3d 1094, 1098-1099, 251 CR 727 (hearing was postponed after reply evidence was submitted by defendant but plaintiff refused opportunity to rebut reply evidence; therefore granting summary judgment for defendant was proper); see also San Diego Watercrafts, Inc. v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (2002) 102 CA4th 308, 316, 125 CR2d 499 (court's consideration of evidence in supplementary declaration constituted violation of opposing party's due process rights when opposing party had no opportunity to rebut the evidence)]. However, the trial court does not have discretion to consider supplemental evidence submitted in reply to fill glaring omissions and concessions in the original motion filing [ Zimmerman, Rosenfeld, Gersh & Leeds v. Larson (2005) 131 CA4th 1466, 1478 ].

If supplemental evidence is submitted with the reply, the party opposing the motion should not simply object to the newly submitted evidence; rather, that party should also respond with any additional evidence that supports the party's claims [ Weiss v. Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. (1988) 204 CA3d 1094, 1100-1101, 251 CR 727 ("[p]rocedurally, a party who has the opportunity to place all chips upon the table by augmenting the record, fails to do so and decides to gamble against an unfavorable ruling, cannot complain when the croupier's toss comes up short of expectations")].

38.33 Moving Party May Reply With a Reply Memorandum.

38.33[1] Identify Inaccuracies in the Opposing Memorandum, Make Objections, and Address Facts. The reply memorandum is used to:

- Point out any inaccurate points or authorities raised in the opposing memorandum.
- Object to:
  - ☐ The timeliness of filing or service of the opposing papers.
  - ☐ The form and content of the opposing papers, including objections based on the following defects:
    - Failure to file a responsive statement of facts.
    - Any insufficiency in the responsive statement of facts.
  - ☐ Evidence, including objections to the sufficiency of supporting declarations.

■ Address facts included in the opposing party's papers that the moving party failed to address in its moving papers. If appropriate, the moving party may adopt the opposing party's own evidence to demonstrate that no triable issue of material fact exists [see 216 Sutter Bay Assocs. v. County of Sutter (1997) 58 CA4th 860, 879-881, 68 CR2d 492 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

IV. REPLYING TO OPPOSITION TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT/ADJUDICATION

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.33A

38.33A Reply May Include Written Objections to Opposing Party's Evidence Along With Proposed Order on Objections.

Rather than making oral objections at the hearing on the motion [see 38.26[3][a]], the moving party may submit collected written objections to specific evidence presented in the opposing party's statement of facts [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(a)]. The collected objections must be prepared separately from other reply papers. The objections must conform to the requirements of the applicable court rule [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(b); for discussion, see 38.26[3][b]].

Timing:

Unless otherwise excused by the court on a showing of good cause, all written objections to evidence in support of a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication must be served and filed at the same time as the objecting party's reply papers are served and filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(a); see 38.31].

Warning:

At least two districts of the Court of Appeals have ruled that the failure to obtain rulings on evidentiary objections to opposition evidence in summary judgment proceedings waives the objections [see Swat-Fame, Inc. v. Goldstein (2d Dist. 2002) 101 CA4th 613, 623-624, 124 CR2d 556 ; Vineyard Springs Estates, LLC v. Superior Court (3d Dist. 2004) 120 CA4th 633, 642, 15 CR3d 587 ]. However, this issue is before the Supreme Court in Reid v. Google, 72 CR3d 112, 175 P3d 1170, 2008 Cal. LEXIS 1041 ; see also 38.37[1][c]]. The California Supreme Court in Reid v. Google is considering an important practical issue for trial judges and counsel in summary judgment motions: "Are evidentiary objections not expressly ruled on at the time of decision on a summary judgment motion preserved for appeal?" As discussed above, the current weight of authority holds that the trial court is required to expressly rule on all objections, and if that is not done, the objection is waived. In Reid v. Google, the trial court did not rule on each evidentiary objection, but rather issued a ruling pursuant to Biljac Associates v. First Interstate Bank (1990) 218 CA3d 1410, 1419-1429, 267 CR 819 and opted to rely only on "competent and admissible evidence," and the Court of Appeal found that procedure to be appropriate. One problem with the "waiver rule" is that the objecting party is absolutely barred from raising the evidentiary issue on appeal even though the waiver was not the result of any fault of the objecting party. The other practical problem is that the "waiver rule" expects the trial court to undertake the tremendous burden of expressly ruling on every evidentiary objection. In Reid v. Google, the California Supreme Court will decide whether to adopt the "waiver rule," a "presumed overruled" rule, or a "presumed sustained" rule. The "presumed overruled" test has the advantage that the trial courts would not need to rule on every evidentiary objection, yet all objections properly raised in the trial court would be preserved for renewal on appeal. The California Supreme Court likely will decide the issue in 2009. At least until Reid v. Google is decided, lawyers involved in summary judgment motions should press trial judges to rule on their evidentiary objections or they may risk having an appellate court consider those objections waived.

Strategic Point:

Objections are best presented in writing, although oral objections are permissible under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1352. Written objections must conform to the formats specified in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354. At the hearing, counsel, as discussed above, should orally renew the objections and seek a ruling.

Distinguish:

Where trial court refuses to rule on evidentiary objections, objections are impliedly overruled, and objected-to evidence is subject to appellate review [ Demps v. San Francisco Housing Authority (1st Dist. 2007) 149 CA4th 564, 578, 57 CR3d 204 ].

A party submitting written objections to evidence before the hearing on a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication must include a proposed order on the objections that conforms to the requirements of the court rule [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1354(c); for discussion, see 38.26[3][c]].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

V. HEARING AND DECISION OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTIONS

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.36

38.36 Options and Strategies for Hearing.

The court often will have questions of counsel at the hearing on a motion for summary judgment. Many judges treat these motions with great care and will want to have specific questions answered by counsel. The memoranda will identify the crucial facts that are disputed, and counsel must be prepared to address these issues in court. Avoiding them will only highlight the weaknesses in your position.

The importance of the hearing on the motion is confirmed by case law that emphasizes the right of a party to be heard in open court. Prudent counsel should approach this opportunity to convince the court of the soundness of the party's position, and preparation for the hearing is often similar to the preparation made before a closing argument at trial.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

V. HEARING AND DECISION OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTIONS

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.37

38.37 Court Will Conduct Hearing Before Issuing Ruling.

38.37[1] Purposes of Hearing Are for Oral Argument and to Raise Procedural and Evidentiary Objections.

38.37[1][a] Oral Argument. CCP § 437c has been interpreted as requiring the court to allow litigants an oral hearing on summary judgment and summary adjudication motions prior to ruling [ Brannon v. Superior Court (2004) 114 CA4th 1203, 1211 ; Gwartz v. Superior Court (1999) 71 CA4th 480, 482, 83 CR2d 865 ; Mediterranean Constr. Co. v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. (1998) 66 CA4th 257, 259-260, 77 CR2d 781 ].

The hearing offers litigants the opportunity to [ Mediterranean Constr. Co. v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. (1998) 66 CA4th 257, 264, 77 CR2d 781 ]:

- Argue their case orally; and
- Respond to the court's inquiries through the give-and-take of questioning.

Strategic Point--Oral Argument Should Be Used to Complement Written Argument:

Oral argument allows litigants to speak directly to the decision maker concerning the most essential issues in the case [see Mediterranean Constr. Co. v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. (1998) 66 CA4th 257, 264, 77 CR2d 781 ].

Judge's Perspective:

Presenting oral argument on summary judgment motions is the most difficult skill a trial attorney has to master. If you simply repeat what is in your papers, you run the risk of the trial judge becoming impatient. If you add matters at oral argument that are not in your papers, then you run the risk of the trial judge and your opponent inquiring as to why those points were not contained in your papers and cannot now be addressed.

In essence, be brief and hit only a few of your strong points and hope that your trial judge has read your papers and likes to hear oral argument. Moreover, if the tentative is in your favor then be smart and submit. Do not talk yourself out of a ruling. There is no such thing as a brilliant summary judgment argument, only final arguments before a jury.

38.37[1][b] Procedural and Evidentiary Objections. The following objections are waived if a party proceeds at an oral hearing without raising them:

- Objections to proper notice [CCP § 437c(a)];
- Objections to the adequacy of supporting affidavits or declarations [CCP § 437c(d)]; and
- Evidentiary objections [CCP § 437c(b)(5)].

Warning--Court Stenographer Needed for Evidentiary Objections:

Litigants who raise evidentiary objections at the hearing (as opposed to written objections in advance) must arrange for a court reporter to attend the hearing to record their objections for the record [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1352, 3.1354].

Strategic Point:

A party has a right to waive objections, which right the court may not deny by interposing and sustaining its own hearsay objection [ Andrews v. Mobile Aire Estates (2005) 125 CA4th 578, 587 ].

Cross Reference:

Written evidentiary objections, see 38.26[3].

38.37[1][c] Objecting Party Must Obtain Ruling on Evidentiary Objections. In determining whether the papers submitted show that the moving party is entitled to judgment, the court cannot consider evidence to which objections have been made and sustained. However, if a party raises evidentiary objections, but does not secure rulings on the objections, the objections are treated as waived. An appellate court will then consider all the evidence set forth in the moving party's papers as properly admitted [ PMC, Inc. v. Kadisha (2000) 78 CA4th 1368, 1378, 93 CR2d 663 ].

Exception--Trial Court Fails to Rule on Party's Evidentiary Objection:

If counsel specifically requests a ruling on written evidentiary objections, but the trial court fails to make a ruling, the evidentiary objections will be preserved for appellate review [ City of Long Beach v. Farmers & Merchants Bank (2000) 81 CA4th 780, 783-785, 97 CR2d 140 ].

Example:

In a case in which defense counsel twice orally raised the issue of securing rulings on previously filed written evidentiary objections in court before the trial judge, and the judge still did not rule on the objections, the objections were preserved for review [ City of Long Beach v. Farmers & Merchants Bank (2000) 81 CA4th 780, 783-785, 97 CR2d 140 ].

Judge's Perspective:

It is important for counsel to preserve their evidentiary objections with the trial court at the time of the hearing. The recent trend in the appellate courts has been to indicate that it is the duty of the trial judge to actually rule on the evidentiary objections submitted by either side. Previously, trial judges have relied on the decision rendered by Division 2 of the First Appellate District in Biljac Assocs. v. First Interstate Bank (1990) 218 CA3d 1410 . In that case the appellate court held that a trial judge need not rule on each individual evidentiary objection. The Biljac court felt that it was sufficient for the trial judge to state that only relevant and competent evidence was considered [ Biljac Assocs. v. First Interstate Bank (1990) 218 CA3d 1410, 1419-1420, 267 CR 819 ]. Since Biljac, however, Division 7 of the Second District Court of Appeal in Swat-Fame, Inc. v. Goldstein (2002) 101 CA4th 613 , has held that the trial court judge should rule on the evidentiary objections and that reliance on Biljac is and was inappropriate [ Swat-Fame, Inc. v. Goldstein (2002) 101 CA4th 613, 623-624, 124 CR2d 556 ]. The appellate court's reasoning in Biljac was very simple: because the standard for review on appeal of summary adjudication/judgment is a de novo review there seemed to be no point in forcing the trial court to do that which the court of appeal would have to do anyway. The appellate panel in Swat-Fame does not disagree with the standard for review as set forth in Biljac--it just maintains that the trial judge should undertake this additional task. In 2004, another panel of the Third District Court of Appeal expressly ruled that the trial judge must rule on each evidentiary objection in proper form submitted by the parties. The court relied on the rule that a party's failure to obtain a ruling waives the evidentiary objection for justifying the requirement even where the objecting party repeatedly requests them [ Vineyard Springs Estates, LLC v. Superior Court (2004) 120 CA4th 633, 642, 15 CR3d 587 ; accord, Madden v. Del Taco, Inc. (3d Dist., 2007) 150 CA4th 294, 301, 58 CR3d 313 ]. On January 30, 2008, the Supreme Court granted review in Reid v. Google, 72 CR3d 112, 175 P.3d 1170, 2008 Cal. LEXIS 1041 , on the Biljac issue and whether a trial court must rule individually on evidentiary objections. See 38.33A.

38.37[2] No Right to Present Testimony. Litigants do not have the right to present oral testimony at the hearing [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(a); Mediterranean Constr. Co. v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. (1998) 66 CA4th 257, 263, 265, 77 CR2d 781 ; see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b) (procedure for requesting permission to present oral testimony)].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

V. HEARING AND DECISION OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTIONS

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.38

38.38 Court Will Evaluate Evidence to Determine If Triable Issues of Fact Exist.

38.38[1] Court Will Consider All Evidence Set Forth in Papers. In determining whether a triable issue of material fact exists, the court is required to consider all the evidence set forth in the papers, and all the inferences reasonably deducible from that evidence [CCP § 437c(c); Tchorbadjian v. Western Home Ins. Co. (1995) 39 CA4th 1211, 1217, 46 CR2d 370 ].

Exception--Inadmissible Evidence Not Considered:

The court will not consider evidence to which objections have been made and sustained by the court [CCP § 437c(c)].

Example:

It is error for the trial court to disregard all of a party's testimony, or to select only those parts of the testimony that support the trial court's ruling [ Singleton v. United States Gypsum Co. (2006) 140 CA4th 1547, 1558, 45 CR3d 597 ].

38.38[2] Evidence Is Not Weighed. The trial court may not:

- Weigh evidence, in the manner of a factfinder, as to which version is more likely to be true [ Binder v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. (1999) 75 CA4th 832, 840, 89 CR2d 540 ];
- Evaluate credibility [ Hernandez v. Department of Transportation (2003) 114 CA4th 376, 388 ; Binder v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. (1999) 75 CA4th 832, 840, 89 CR2d 540 ];
- Weigh one inference against another [ Murillo v. Rite Stuff Foods, Inc. (1998) 65 CA4th 833, 841, 77 CR2d 12 ].

38.38[3] Moving Party's Evidence Is Strictly Construed; Opposing Party's Evidence Is Liberally Construed.

The court accepts as undisputed facts only those portions of the moving party's evidence that are not contradicted by the opposing party's evidence [ Leep v. American Ship Management (2005) 126 CA4th 1028, 1039 ; City of Santa Cruz v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2000) 82 CA4th 1167, 1176, 99 CR2d 198 ; Kelsey v. Waste Mgmt. (1999) 76 CA4th 590, 594, 90 CR2d 510 ; Depew v. Crocodile Enters., Inc. (1998) 63 CA4th 480, 485, 73 CR2d 673 ].

General pleadings are controlled by specific allegations. For that reason, where a party alleges a permissible conclusion of law but also avers specific additional facts that either do not support that conclusion or are inconsistent with it, the specific allegations will control, and a pleading that might have been sufficient with general allegations alone may be rendered defective [ Melican v. Regents of University of California (2007) 151 CA4th 168, 174-175, 59 CR3d 672 ].

Any evidentiary doubts are resolved in favor of the opposing party [ City of Santa Cruz v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2000) 82 CA4th 1167, 1176, 99 CR2d 198 ], with all facts contained in the opposing party's papers being accepted as true for the purpose of deciding the motion [ Leep v. American Ship Management (2005) 126 CA4th 1028, 1039 ; Salazar v. Southern Cal. Gas Co. (1997) 54 CA4th 1370, 1376, 63 CR2d 522 ].

The trial court has discretion to overlook procedural errors in the moving and opposition papers, but only if the evidence presented warrants it [ Zimmerman, Rosenfeld, Gersh & Leeds v. Larson (2005) 131 CA4th 1466, 1478 (glaring omissions and concessions could not be overlooked)].

38.38[4] Admissions Against Interest Obtained Through Discovery Are Given Extra Weight, but Not Shielded From Court's Examination. Admissions against interest obtained through discovery are entitled to greater weight than evidentiary allegations in affidavits or declarations [ D'Amico v. Board of Med. Exam'rs (1974) 11 C3d 1, 21-22, 112 CR 786, 520 P2d 10 ]. An opposing party cannot create an issue of fact by offering a declaration contradicting admissions made in the course of that party's deposition [ Benavidez v. San Jose Police Dept. (1999) 71 CA4th 853, 860-861, 84 CR2d 157 ; Barton v. Elexsys Int'l, Inc. (1998) 62 CA4th 1182, 1191-1192, 73 CR2d 212 ; Roth v. Rhodes (1994) 25 CA4th 530, 545, 30 CR2d 706 ].

Such admissions, although given extra weight under the D'Amico rule, are not shielded from careful examination in light of the entire record. A summary judgment should not be based on tacit admissions or fragmentary and equivocal concessions, which are contradicted by other credible evidence [ Price v. Wells Fargo Bank (1989) 213 CA3d 465, 482, 261 CR 735 ]. All admissions elicited in the course of discovery are not created equal under the D'Amico rule; and deposition answers are simply evidence and do not constitute incontrovertible judicial admissions as do concessions in a pleading or answers to requests for admissions [ Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1522 ].

Example:

Opposing party's deposition testimony that he found "nothing wrong" and had no criticisms of moving party's product were not the equivalent of judicial admissions and did not carry the moving party's burden of demonstrating the absence of a factual dispute on express indemnity claim [ Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1523 ].

All admissions elicited in the course of discovery are not created equal under the D'Amico rule; and deposition answers are simply evidence and do not constitute incontrovertible judicial admissions as do concessions in a pleading or answers to requests for admissions [ Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1522 ]. Furthermore, the D'Amico rule applies only where deposition admission is contradicted solely by self-serving affidavit or declaration. The rule bars a party opposing summary judgment from filing a declaration that purports to impeach his or her own prior sworn testimony [ Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1521-1522 (existence of other contradictory evidence precluded summary judgment)]. Deposition testimony that is conclusory or that lacks foundation is insufficient to shift the burden on a summary judgment motion [ Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1521-1522 ].

38.38[5] Admissions Contained in a Party's Pleadings Are Given Less Weight, and May or May Not Be Binding. There is conflicting authority regarding the extent to which a complaint's factual allegations constitute judicial admissions binding on the plaintiff. The weight to be accorded these admissions appears to be determined on a case-by-case basis, depending on the nature of the admissions, whether the complaint is verified, whether the admission is unambiguous, and the contradictory evidence offered by the opposing plaintiff [ Kirby v. Albert D. Seeno Constr. Co. (1992) 11 CA4th 1059, 1066-1067, 14 CR2d 604 ].

Compare:

Example--Plaintiff Bound by Allegations in Complaint:

A defendant moving for summary judgment may rely on the allegations contained in the plaintiff's complaint, which constitute judicial admissions. As such they are conclusive concessions of the truth of a matter and have the effect of removing it from the issues. Contradictory evidence is limited to that which collaterally attacks the prior judicial admission on the basis of mistake, inadvertence, or lack of authority [ Barr v. AcandS, Inc. (1997) 57 CA4th 1038, 1055-1056, 67 CR2d 494 ].

With:

Example--Court Should Not Give Conclusive Effect to Ambiguous Statement in Unverified Complaint:

It would be improper to give conclusive effect to an ambiguous statement in an unverified complaint and to ignore the explanation of the statement contained in deposition testimony taken under oath. When the facts submitted in opposition to a summary judgment motion indicate the existence of a material factual issue, summary judgment should not be entered based on mistaken legal conclusions in the complaint [ Kirby v. Albert D. Seeno Constr. Co. (1992) 11 CA4th 1059, 1066-1067, 14 CR2d 604 ]. This rule usually precludes summary judgment that relies on a superseded pleading [ Deveny v. Entropin, Inc. (2006) 139 CA4th 408, 426, 42 CR3d 807 ].

V. HEARING AND DECISION OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTIONS

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.39

38.39 Court May Grant Motion on Issue Not Raised by Party, But May Not Deny Motion on Grounds Not Pleaded.

Although CCP § 437c does not permit a trial court to enter summary judgment on its own motion [ Scheiding v. Dinwiddie Constr. Co. (1999) 69 CA4th 64, 75, 81 CR2d 360 ; Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's of London v. Superior Court (1997) 56 CA4th 952, 958, 65 CR2d 821 ], the trial court may grant summary judgment on an issue that the moving party has not raised, but only if the trial court [ Bacon v. Southern Cal. Edison Co. (1997) 53 CA4th 854, 860, 62 CR2d 16 ; Gomez v. Acquistapace (1966) 50 CA4th 740, 744, 57 CR2d 821 ]:

- Notifies the opposing party of its intent to do so; and
- Provides an opportunity to respond to the new issue.

In contrast, summary judgment cannot be denied on a ground not raised by the pleadings [ Kendall v. Walker (2009) 181 CA4th 584, 598, 104 CR3d 262 ] .

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

V. HEARING AND DECISION OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTIONS

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.40

38.40 Court Will State Reasons for Decision.

38.40[1] Decision Denying the Motion Must Specify One or More Triable Issues of Material Fact. An order denying a motion for summary judgment or adjudication on the grounds that there is a triable issue as to one or more material facts must, by written or oral order [CCP § 437c(g)]:

- Specify those facts as to which the court has determined a triable controversy exists; and
- Specifically refer to the evidence proffered in support of and in opposition to the motion.

38.40[2] Decision Granting the Motion Must Specify Evidence Supporting and, If Applicable, Opposing Motion. An order granting a motion for summary judgment or adjudication must, by written or oral order [CCP § 437c(g)]:

- Specify the reasons for the determination; and
- Specifically refer to the evidence proffered in support of, and if applicable in opposition to, the motion that indicates that no triable issue exists.

38.40[3] Reasons for Any Other Determination Must Be Stated. The court is required to state its reasons for any other determination made on the grant or denial of a motion for summary judgment [CCP § 437c(g)].

38.40[4] Purpose of Court's Statement of Reasons Is to Allow Meaningful Appellate Review. A key objective for the statement of reasons pursuant to CCP § 437c(g) is to allow for meaningful appellate review [ Wedeck v. Unocal Corp. (1997) 59 CA4th 848, 864, 69 CR2d 501 ].

Some appellate courts have treated the trial court's failure to provide a statement of reasons as harmless error, particularly if the appellate court's independent review establishes the validity of the judgment [ Tahoe Vista Concerned Citizens v. County of Placer (2000) 81 CA4th 577, 594 n7, 96 CR2d 880 ; Goldrich v. Natural Y Surgical Specialties, Inc. (1994) 25 CA4th 772, 782, 31 CR2d 162 ].

However, the failure to provide a statement of reasons may not be regarded as harmless error if the issues are complex [ Santa Barbara Pistachio Ranch v. Chowchilla Water Dist. (2001) 88 CA4th 439, 448-449, 105 CR2d 856 ].

38.40[5] Failure to Provide Statement of Reasons May Provide Basis for Opposing Party to Bring Motion for Clarification. Until judgment is entered, the trial court has the power to change its decision on a motion for clarification [ Bernstein v. Consolidated Am. Ins. Co. (1995) 37 CA4th 763, 774, 43 CR2d 817 disapproved on other grounds in Vandenberg v. Superior Court (1999) 21 C4th 815, 841, n12, 88 CR2d 366, 982 P2d 229 ].

Example--Order Denying Summary Adjudication Corrected on Court's Own Motion When Opposing Party's Proposed Order Did Not Articulate Basis for Ruling:

The minute order denying the moving party's motion for summary adjudication failed to comply with CCP § 437c(g). The opposing party brought a motion for clarification. When the trial court undertook the task of providing reasons, and attempted to identify the disputed factual issues requiring a trial, it was unable to do so. Consequently, it corrected its prior erroneous ruling denying the opposing party's summary adjudication motion. In this situation, the court was not entertaining a motion of the opposing party for reconsideration of the prior ruling, but was correcting an erroneous ruling on its own motion [ Bernstein v. Consolidated Am. Ins. Co. (1995) 37 CA4th 763, 774, 43 CR2d 817 ].

38.41 Court Has Power to Impose Sanctions.

38.41[1] Court May Impose Sanctions If It Determines That Affidavits Have Been Presented in Bad Faith or Solely for Reasons of Delay. If the court determines at any time that any of the affidavits have been presented in bad faith or solely for purposes of delay, the court can order the party presenting the affidavits to pay the other party the amount of reasonable expenses the filing of the affidavits caused the other party to incur [CCP § 437c(j)].

Sanctions cannot be imposed except on a party's motion, or the court's own motion, and only after an opportunity to heard [CCP § 437c(j)].

Cross References:

Discussion of sanctions motion, see 38.27, 38.34.

38.41[2] Court May Impose Sanctions for Bad Faith in Making or Opposing a Motion for Summary Judgment or Adjudication. Parties may seek to recover reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, on the more general ground that the motion for summary judgment or opposition to the motion was made in bad faith in that it was frivolous or solely intended to cause unnecessary delay [CCP § 128.6(a)].

Expenses may not be imposed except on notice contained in a party's moving or responding papers, or the court's own motion, after notice and opportunity to be heard [CCP § 128.6(c)].

An order imposing expenses must be in writing and must recite in detail the conduct or circumstances justifying the order [CCP § 128.6(c)].

V. HEARING AND DECISION OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION MOTIONS

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.42

38.42 Motion for Reconsideration.

38.42[1] Must Be Made Prior to Entry of Judgment. Prior to the entry of judgment, a party may move for reconsideration of the order [CCP § 1008], or make a renewed motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication [CCP § 437c(f)(2)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of motions to reconsider, see Ch. 29, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions.

38.42[2] Must Be Based on New or Different Facts, Circumstances or Law. A motion for reconsideration must be supported by new or different facts, circumstances, or law [CCP §§ 437c(f)(2), 1008]. A summary judgment cannot be based on issues asserted in a prior, losing summary adjudication motion [CCP § 437c(f)(2)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion, see 38.09[5].

38.42[3] Specific Provisions Apply to a Motion for Summary Judgment Based on Issues Asserted in an Earlier Adjudication Motion. The specific requirements of CCP § 437c(f)(2), rather than the general provisions of CCP § 1008, govern a motion for summary judgment based on issues asserted in an earlier adjudication motion that was denied [ Bagley v. TRW, Inc. (1999) 73 CA4th 1092, 1096 n3, 86 CR2d 909 (repackaged motion based on same material facts and law denied)].

Distinguish:

While a party may move for reconsideration of a motion for summary judgment based upon "new or different facts, circumstances, or law within ten days after the motion is denied by complying with the requirements of CCP § 1008, the motion made more than ten days after an original motion is a new motion that must comply with the requirements for motions for summary judgment set out CCP § 437c [ UAS Management, Inc. v. Mater Misericordiae Hospital (2008) 169 CA4th 357, 367-368, 87 CR3d 81 (new motion after more than ten days denied for failure to comply with 75-day notice period of CCP § 437c)].

38.43 Prevailing Party Prepares Order and Submits Judgment for Entry.

38.43[1] Prevailing Party Prepares Order or Judgment, and Notifies Other Parties. The party submitting an order or judgment for entry must prepare and mail a copy of the notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the action or proceeding and file the original with the proof of service by mail [CCP § 664.5(a)].

"Judgment," as used in CCP § 664.5 includes any judgment, decree, or signed order from which an appeal lies [CCP § 664.5(c)].

Warning--Counsel Should Prepare Proposed Order Before Hearing:

Some courts require a party moving for or opposing summary judgment or adjudication to bring to the hearing a proposed form of order that complies with CCP § 437c(g) [see San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 8.11(C)].

Strategic Point--Bring Proposed Order to Hearing:

Whether required or not, bring a proposed order to the hearing because the judge might sign it at the conclusion of the hearing without the other party having a meaningful opportunity to object to the form of order.

Warning:

While a trial court may shift to counsel the burden of preparing a formal order on a motion for summary judgment under CCP § 437c(g), the total abdication of judicial responsibility is error. Thus, granting a summary judgment motion without any specification of the reasons for doing so, then directing counsel for the prevailing party to prepare an order including findings necessary to support the order, without telling the prevailing party what any of those findings should be, is not permitted [ Carnes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 688, 692 ].

Strategic Point--Prepare Combined Order and Judgment:

Unless the court otherwise requires, it would appear to be the better practice to prepare a combined form of order and judgment to avoid unnecessary duplication and any possibility of conflict between the order and the judgment.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 38.63.

38.43[2] Judgment Is Entered in the Court's "Judgment Book." Judgment is entered either in the court's judgment book, or, in certain counties, as provided in CCP § 668.5 [CCP § 668].

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.44

38.44 Losing Party May Move for a New Trial.

A party may seek relief from summary judgment in the trial court by moving for a new trial in accordance with CCP § 659 [Aguilar v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (2001) 25 C4th 826, 858, 107 CR2d 841, 24 P3d 493; Tortorella v. Castro (2006) 140 CA4th 1, 9, 43 CR3d 853 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of motions for new trial, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 21, Motion for New Trial.

However, because technically there was no trial, the net effect of granting the motion is simply denial of the motion for summary judgment. Accordingly, in these circumstances, appellate courts either construe the trial court's order as an appealable order granting new trial or treat the appeal as a petition for mandate [ Waschek v. DMV (1997) 59 CA4th 640, 643 n4, 69 CR2d 296 ].

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.45

38.45 Losing Party May Move to Vacate.

The discretionary provision of CCP § 473(b), that allows a court on any terms as may be just, to relieve a party from a judgment or order taken against him or her through his or her mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect may be applied to summary judgments [CCP § 473(b); Huh v. Wang (6th Dist., 2007) 158 CA4th 1406, 1419, 71 CR3d 65 (request for relief from summary judgment was not made diligently, and attorney's neglect was inexcusable "press of business"); Uriarte v. United States Pipe & Foundry Co. (1996) 51 CA4th 780, 791, 59 CR2d 332 ].

As expressly worded, the mandatory provision of CCP § 473(b) applies only to relief sought in response to defaults, default judgments, or dismissals. While several districts of the California Court of Appeals have ruled that that language allowing a court to vacate a default, default judgment, or dismissal resulting from attorney mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect does not apply to summary judgments, because a summary judgment is neither a "default," a "default judgment," nor a "dismissal" with the meaning of CCP § 473(b) [see Huh v. Wang (6th Dist., 2007) 158 CA4th 1406, 1415, 71 CR3d 65 ; Vandermoon v. Sanwong (3d Dist., 2006) 142 CA4th 315, 320, 47 CR3d 772 ; Prieto v. Loyola Marymount University (2d Dist., Div. 8, 2005) 132 CA4th 290, 294, 33 CR3d 639 (failure to oppose summary judgment motion); Garcia v. Hejmadi (1st Dist., Div. 2, 1997) 58 CA4th 674, 684, 68 CR2d 228 (after trial on the merits)], at least one district has applied it to cases concluded by summary judgment [see Avila v. Chua (2d Dist., Div. 5, 1997) 57 CA4th 860, 868, 67 CR2d 373 ].

38.47 Options and Strategies for Obtaining Appellate Review of Granted Motion.

Case law is replete with decisions overturning rulings on motions for summary judgment. The strict requirements for both procedure and law make for ample opportunity to find a reversible error. To avoid malpractice claims, counsel should carefully document any decision by the client not to pursue appellate review of an adverse ruling on a motion for summary judgment. Verbal agreements should be reduced to writing and indicate that the client was fully informed of the consequences of the decision.

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

VI. OBTAINING APPELLATE REVIEW WHEN SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION IS GRANTED

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.48

38.48 Losing Party May Seek Review of Grant of Summary Judgment.

38.48[1] Appeal After Judgment. A summary judgment entered under CCP § 437c is an appealable judgment as in other cases [CCP § 437c(m)(1)] although the order granting a summary judgment motion is not reviewable by appeal until after a judgment is entered [ Stoltz v. Wong Communications Ltd. P'ship (1994) 25 CA4th 1811, 1816, 31 CR2d 229 ].

No final judgment may be entered on a motion for summary judgment unless [CCP § 437c(k)]:

- It terminates an action; or
- A separate judgment may properly be awarded.

Timing:

Appeal must be taken within the requisite period applicable to the final judgment on the motion for summary judgment [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.104(a)]. A subsequent ruling on attorney fees and costs may amend the final judgment, but unless it amends other terms of the judgment, it does not restart the appeal period for appealing the summary judgment itself [ Torres v. City of San Diego (2007) 154 CA4th 214, 222, 64 CR3d 495 ].

Example--Separate Judgment May Be Awarded Between at Least Two Parties to an Action:

A separate judgment may properly be awarded, and an appeal may lie from an otherwise interlocutory summary judgment, when, for example, the summary judgment disposes of all issues to be determined between at least two parties [ Morehart v. County of Santa Barbara (1994) 7 C4th 725, 740-741, 29 CR2d 804, 872 P2d 143 (dicta)].

Exception--Reviewing Court May Treat an Appeal from an Order as an Appeal from a Final Judgment to Prevent Unnecessary Delay:

Even if the order granting summary judgment is technically nonappealable, a reviewing court may exercise its discretion to consider an appeal directly from that order in the interest of justice and to prevent unnecessary delay [ Zavala v. Arce (1997) 58 CA4th 915, 924 n7, 68 CR2d 571 ; Allabach v. Santa Clara County Fair Assn. (1996) 46 CA4th 1007, 1010-1011, 54 CR2d 330 ].

Strategic Point:

The trial court does not have to exercise its discretion in favor of treating an appeal of an order of summary judgment as an appeal of a subsequent dismissal, and indeed, some courts refuse to "bail out attorneys who ignore the statutory limitations on appealable orders" [e.g., Cohen v. Equitable Life Assurance Society (1987) 196 CA3d 669, 671, 242 CR 84 ]. For that reason, counsel should point out any extenuating circumstances other than error when requesting that the court accept the appeal of an order as the appeal of the dismissal after summary judgment [ Mukthar v. Latin American Security Service (2006) 139 CA4th 284, 288 & n. 4, 42 CR3d 563 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of review of summary proceeding by appeal, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 537, Summary Judgment § 537.43 (Matthew Bender).

38.48[2] Immediate Writ Review of Grant of Summary Judgment Against Some But Not All Defendants.

Immediate writ review of an order granting summary judgment against some but not all of the defendants in a case is appropriate where the trial is proceeding against one or more codefendants. Immediate review is preferable to obviate possible multiple trials in the case [ Johnson v. Superior Court (2006) 143 CA4th 297, 304, 49 CR3d 52 ; Lopez v. Superior Court (1996) 45 CA4th 705, 710 n. 1, 52 CR2d 821 ].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

VI. OBTAINING APPELLATE REVIEW WHEN SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION IS GRANTED

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.49

38.49 Losing Party May Seek Review of Grant of Summary Adjudication by Mandate.

An order granting a summary adjudication is generally not an appealable order [ Canandaigua Wine Co., Inc. v. County of Madera (2009) 177 CA4th 298, 301, 99 CR3d 264 (summary adjudication that does not dispose of all causes of action between the parties is not appealable)]. However, because a trial court has no discretion on a motion for summary adjudication, and must grant the motion if no triable issue of material fact exists, a court that errs has made an error of law. This automatically constitutes an abuse of discretion, making it proper to obtain relief by means of mandate [ Kendall-Jackson Winery, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1999) 76 CA4th 970, 974, 989, 90 CR2d 743 ; City of Oakland v. Superior Court (1966) 45 CA4th 740, 750, 53 CR2d 120 ].

Exception--Grant of Summary Adjudication Is Appealable If Order Effectively Disposes of Case:

If a trial court's order granting summary adjudication as to one cause of action effectively disposes of the case, appeal is proper [ Belio v. Panorama Optics, Inc. (1995) 33 CA4th 1096, 1101-1102, 39 CR2d 737 ].

VI. OBTAINING APPELLATE REVIEW WHEN SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION IS GRANTED

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.50

38.50 Independent Standard of Review Applies to Evidence.

38.50[1] Review Is De Novo. The appellate court conducts a de novo review to determine whether any triable issues exist [ Guz v. Bechtel Nat'l, Inc. (2000) 24 C4th 317, 334, 100 CR2d 352, 8 P3d 1089 ; Republic Indem. Co. v. Schofield (1996) 47 CA4th 220, 225, 54 CR2d 637 ].

38.50[2] Limited to Facts in Submitted Evidentiary Materials. The appellate court is limited to the facts shown in [ Aloha Pacific, Inc. v. California Insurance Guarantee Assn. (2000) 79 CA4th 297, 307, 93 CR2d 148 ; Spray, Gould & Bowers v. Associated Int'l Ins. Co. (1999) 71 CA4th 1260, 1266, 84 CR2d 552 ]:

- Evidentiary material submitted to the trial court; and
- Facts admitted and uncontested in the pleadings.

38.50[3] In Reassessing Legal Significance of Evidentiary Materials, Appellate Court Applies Same Standard as Trial Court. The moving party's affidavits and declarations are strictly construed; the opposing party's affidavits and declarations are liberally construed [ Kelly v. First Astri Corp. (1999) 72 CA4th 462, 471, 84 CR2d 810 ; Bernstein v. Consolidated Am. Ins. Co. (1995) 37 CA4th 763, 769, 43 CR2d 817 ].

The court accepts as undisputed facts only those portions of the moving party's evidence that are not contradicted by the opposing party's evidence [ City of Santa Cruz v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2000) 82 CA4th 1167, 1176, 99 CR2d 198 ; Sutherland v. Barclays Am./Mortgage Corp. (1997) 53 CA4th 299, 309, 61 CR2d 614 ].

38.50[4] Appellate Court Searches for Contradictory Facts and Inferences. The appellate court looks for contradictions in the evidence or in inferences reasonably deducible from the evidence that raise a triable issue of material fact [ Assilzadeh v. California Fed. Bank (2000) 82 CA4th 399, 409, 98 CR2d 176 ].

38.50[5] Appellate Court's Function Is to Issue Finding, Not Issue Determination. The court does not weigh one inference against another or against other evidence [ Murillo v. Rite Stuff Foods, Inc. (1998) 65 CA4th 833, 841, 77 CR2d 12 ] or decide the merits of the factual issues themselves [ Marquez v. Enterprise Rent-A-Car (1997) 53

CA4th 319, 322, 61 CR2d 557 ; City of Santa Cruz v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co. (2000) 82 CA4th 1167, 1188, 99 CR2d 198 ].

38.50[6] Appellate Court Will Disregard Any New Factual Allegations. The appellate court is required to consider only those facts before the trial court, disregarding any new factual allegations made for the first time on appeal [ Ashdown v. Ameron Internat. Corp. (2000) 83 CA4th 868, 874, 100 CR2d 20 ; Monteleone v. Allstate Ins. Co. (1996) 51 CA4th 509, 514, 59 CR2d 48 ].

Example:

When reviewing the granting of a motion for summary judgment, an appellate court may properly decline to take judicial notice under Evid Code §§ 452 and 459 of a matter that should have been presented to the trial court for its consideration in the first instance [ City of Oakland v. Hassey (2008) 163 CA4th 1477, 1489 n5, 78 CR3d 621 ].

38.50[7] Evidentiary Objections Not Raised in Trial Court Are Waived. The appellate court may not consider evidentiary objections not raised in the trial court [CCP § 437c(b)(5), (d); Weil v. Federal Kemper Life Assurance Co. (1994) 7 C4th 125, 149 n9, 27 CR2d 316, 866 P2d 774 ].

Exception:

In reviewing summary judgment, as in any other appeal, if a party's position depends on patently inadmissible evidence admitted over a proper objection, a reviewing court is empowered, and indeed obliged, to acknowledge the error and disregard the evidence [ Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 CA4th 686, 711, 81 CR3d 406 ].

38.51 Independent Standard of Review Applied to Law.

38.51[1] Judgment Can Be Affirmed on Any Applicable Theory of Law. If the facts are undisputed, the appellate court should affirm the trial court's judgment if it is correct on any theory of law applicable to the case, including, but not limited to, the theory the trial court adopted [ Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Maryland Cas. Co. (1994) 21 CA4th 1586, 1595, 26 CR2d 762 ].

Warning--Theory of Law Must Be Supported by Facts Presented to Trial Court:

A reviewing court will not consider an issue of law unsupported by the existing evidence [ Green v. Green (1963) 215 CA2d 37, 46, 30 CR 23 ].

38.51[2] Parties Must Be Given Reasonable Opportunity to Address Any New Legal Issue Considered on Appeal. Before a reviewing court affirms an order granting summary judgment or summary adjudication on a ground not relied on by the trial court, the reviewing court is required to give the parties an opportunity to present their views on the issue by submitting supplemental briefs [CCP § 437c(m)(2)].

A party's supplemental briefing may argue that additional evidence relating to the new ground exists, but that the party has not had an adequate opportunity to [CCP § 437c(m)(2)]:

- Present the evidence; or
- Conduct discovery on that issue.

After supplemental briefing, the reviewing court may CCP § 437c(m)(2):

- Reverse; or
- Remand to allow the parties to present additional evidence or to conduct discovery on that issue.

A party may make a timely petition for a rehearing if the court fails to allow supplemental briefing [CCP § 437c(m)(2)].

VII. OBTAINING APPELLATE REVIEW WHEN SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION IS DENIED

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.53

38.53 Options and Strategies for Obtaining Appellate Review of Denied Motion.

When a motion for summary judgment has been denied, the result is the matter moving forward for trial. If the party making the motion feels the denial of the motion was without legal support, pursuing and securing a peremptory writ will reduce the overall costs of the litigation by ending the action if the writ is issued. However, if the ruling on the motion was a "close call," the writ may well be denied, the parties will be back where they were before the writ was sought, but the overall expense of the case will have gone up. The strength of the motion will be a significant factor in the decision to pursue the writ. Should the matter go to trial and the judgment be against the party who brought the motion, that party will still get the opportunity of reviewing the ruling on the motion if and when the appeal is taken.

VII. OBTAINING APPELLATE REVIEW WHEN SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION IS DENIED

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.54

38.54 Losing Party May Seek Review of Denial of Summary Judgment or Adjudication by Petition for Peremptory Writ.

38.54[1] Petition for Peremptory Writ Is Appropriate Means of Obtaining Review. On entry of any order pursuant to CCP § 437c except the entry of summary judgment, a party may petition the appropriate reviewing court for a peremptory writ [CCP § 437c(m)(1); West Shield Investigations & Security Consultants v. Superior Court (2000) 82 CA4th 935, 946, 98 CR2d 612 ].

38.54[2] Standard of Review. The standard of review on a peremptory writ is the same as that applicable on appeal [ Parsons Mfg. Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 156 CA3d 1151, 1156-1157, 203 CR 419 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of standard of review, see 38.50, 38.51.

Discussion of review of summary proceedings by peremptory writ, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, § 537.44 (Matthew Bender).

38.54[3] Appellate Court May Compel Trial Court to Grant Motion. The appellate court may compel the trial court to issue an order granting a summary judgment or adjudication motion, if it determines that such an order is proper [ Reader's Digest Assn. v. Superior Court (1984) 37 C3d 244, 250 n2, 208 CR 137, 690 P2d 610 , cert. denied, 478 US 1009 (1986) ]. In accordance with CCP § 1086, it is proper to grant the writ if there is no other adequate remedy, the petitioner may suffer irreparable harm, and the matter is of widespread interest [ Starbucks Corp. v. Superior Court, (2008) 168 CA4th 1436, 1453, 86 CR3d 482 (writ granted in class action)].

Chapter 38 Summary Judgment

VII. OBTAINING APPELLATE REVIEW WHEN SUMMARY JUDGMENT OR SUMMARY ADJUDICATION IS DENIED

3-38 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 38.55

38.55 Petition Must Be Filed Within Statutory Time Limits.

38.55[1] Time Limitations Begin After Written Service of Notice of Entry of Order. The time period for filing the petition is triggered by service of notice of entry of the order denying summary judgment [CCP § 437c(m)(1)]. The following methods constitute sufficient service:

- Service by the prevailing party of a copy of the notice of entry of the trial court's order on counsel for the adverse party, or on the party, if the party has no attorney [CCP §§ 1015, 1019.5(a)]; or
- Mailing of a copy of the court's minute order by the court clerk [ Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 207 CA3d 56, 60, 254 CR 827 (decided under prior law, that provided for 10-day, instead of 20-day initial notice period)].

Service by the clerk of an unfiled copy of the order, or any order that does not indicate that it has been entered will not constitute adequate notice so as to trigger the period for petitioning for the writ [see Eldridge v. Superior Court (1989) 208 CA3d 1350, 1355, 256 CR 724 ].

38.55[2] Petition Must Be Filed Within 20 Days of Personal Service, or as Extended, If Notice Is Not Personally Served. A party must petition for a peremptory writ within 20 days of personal service of notice of entry of a summary proceeding order [CCP § 437c(m)(1)].

If the notice of order has not been made by personal service, the following time extensions apply [CCP § 437c(m)(1)]:

- If service is made by mail, the initial period within which to file the petition is increased by:
  - ☐ Five days, if the place of address is within the State of California.
  - ☐ 10 days if the place of address is outside the State of California, but within the United States.

☐ 20 days if the place of address is outside the United States.

● If notice is served by facsimile transmission, Express Mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the initial period within which to file the petition is increased by two court days.

38.55[3] For Good Cause, Superior Court May Extend Time by 10 Days. Prior to the expiration of the initial time period, the superior court may, for good cause, extend the time for one additional period not to exceed 10 days [CCP § 437c(m)(1); Schmidt v. Superior Court (1989) 207 CA3d 56, 61, 254 CR 827 ].

Warning--Limitation Period Mandatory and Jurisdictional:

The limitation period of CCP § 437c(m)(1) is mandatory and jurisdictional [ Eldridge v. Superior Court (1989) 208 CA3d 1350, 1352, 256 CR 724 ].

|               | ) |                                            |

The motion(s) of _____ [specify prevailing party e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] [and _____ (specify opposing party making cross-motion, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones)] for summary judgment was/were heard by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Having considered all the evidence set forth in the papers submitted, and the inferences reasonably deducible therefrom, except that to which objection was sustained, the Court determines that there is no triable issue as to any material fact and that _____ (specify prevailing party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith) is entitled to judgment as a matter of law, for the following reasons:

1. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant], in support of his/her/its motion, proffered evidence that _____ [established each element necessary to sustain judgment in his/her/its favor or (refuted a necessary element of plaintiff's cause of action and/or established an affirmative defense to plaintiff's cause of action)] as follows: _____ [specify material facts claimed by moving party with reference to their location in the supporting papers].

2. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant], in opposition to _____ [defendant's or plaintiff's] motion, _____ [proffered no evidence or preferred evidence as follows: _____ (specify facts claimed by opposing party with reference to their location in the opposing papers)]. [This evidence proffered in opposition to _____ (defendant's or plaintiff's) motion, is not sufficient to raise a triable issue of fact in that _____ (specify, e.g., it constitutes inadmissible hearsay, to which objection at the hearing was duly made and sustained).]

[ADD, if the court is also denying the opposing party's cross-motion(s) for summary judgment and/or adjudication]

The Court further determines that the cross-motion of _____ [specify opposing party making cross-motion, e.g., defendant Mary Jones] for an order granting _____ [summary judgment and/or summary adjudication] should be denied for the following reasons: _____ [state reasons for denial as required under CCP § 437c(g); for examples of reasons, see the form in 38.70].

[The Court further determines that the _____ (declaration(s) and/or affidavit(s)) of _____ (name(s)) presented by _____ (specify opposing party, e.g., defendant) was/were presented _____ (in bad faith and/or solely for the purpose of delay).]

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion of _____ [specify prevailing party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] for summary judgment be, and hereby is, granted and that judgment be entered providing that _____ [specify prevailing party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] _____ [specify judgment, e.g., recover from Defendant the sum of $100,000 with interest thereon at the legal rate from and after August 10, 2003, and his/her costs in the sum of $2700].

[ADD, if the court is also denying an alternative motion for summary adjudication by the prevailing party, and/or is denying the opposing party's cross-motion(s) for summary judgment and/or adjudication]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ [the alternative motion of _____ (specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff John Smith) for an order granting summary adjudication and/or the cross-motion of _____ (specify opposing party making cross-motion, e.g., defendant Mary Jones) for an order granting _____ (summary judgment and/or summary adjudication)] be, and hereby is, denied.

[IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ (specify opposing party, e.g., defendant Mary Jones) pay _____ (specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff John Smith) the sum of $_____ as the amount of reasonable expenses incurred by _____ (specify moving party, e.g., plaintiff John Smith) as a result of the filing of the _____ (declaration(s) and/or affidavit(s)) referred to above.]

ORDER

The motion(s) of _____ [specify moving party e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] for an order granting summary adjudication [and, alternatively, for an order granting summary judgment] [and the motion of _____ (specify opposing party making cross-motion, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones)] for summary judgment and/or summary adjudication) was/were heard by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Having considered all the evidence set forth in the papers submitted, and the inferences reasonably deducible therefrom, except that to which objection was sustained, the Court makes the following determinations for the reasons specified:

1. There is no triable issue as to any material fact and _____ [specify prevailing party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] is entitled as a matter of law to summary adjudication in his/her/its favor and against _____ [specify opposing party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] on _____ [specify first matter on which adjudication is granted, e.g., the First Cause of Action of plaintiff's First Amended Complaint] for the following reasons:

a. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant], in support of his/her/its motion for summary adjudication on this _____ [cause of action or affirmative defense or claim for punitive damages or issue of duty], proffered evidence that established each element of this _____ [cause of action or affirmative defense or claim for punitive damages or issue of duty] as follows:

_____ [specify material facts claimed by the moving party with reference to their location in the supporting papers].

b. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant], in opposition to _____ [defendant's or plaintiff's] motion, _____ [proffered no evidence or proffered evidence as follows: _____ (specify facts claimed by opposing party with reference to their location in the opposing papers)]. [The foregoing evidence proffered in opposition to _____ [defendant's or plaintiff's] motion is not sufficient to raise a triable issue fact in that _____ (specify, e.g., it constitutes inadmissible hearsay, to which objection at the hearing was duly made and sustained)].

[2. Set out any additional matters on which summary adjudication is granted, if any in this and succeeding number paragraphs.]

[ADD, if the court is also denying summary adjudication of additional matters that were included in the prevailing party's motion, and/or is denying an alternative motion for summary judgment by the prevailing party, and/or is denying the opposing party's cross-motion(s) for summary judgment and/or adjudication]

The Court further determines that _____ [the motion of _____ (specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith) for an order granting summary adjudication with respect to _____ (specify additional matter included in the motion, e.g., the claim for punitive damages set out in the Fourth Cause of Action of plaintiff's First Amended Complaint) and/or the alternative motion of _____ (specify moving party e.g., Plaintiff John Smith) for an order granting summary judgment and/or the cross-motion of _____ (specify opposing party making cross-motion, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones) for an order granting _____ (summary judgment or summary adjudication)] should be denied for the following reasons: _____ [state reasons for denial as required under Code Civ. Proc. § 437c(g); for examples of reasons, see the form in 38.70].

[The Court further determines that the _____ (declaration(s) and/or affidavit(s)) of _____ (name(s)) presented by _____ (specify opposing party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones) was/were presented _____ (in bad faith and/or solely for the purpose of delay).]

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion for an order granting summary adjudication be, and hereby is, granted in favor of _____ [specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] and against _____ [specify opposing party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] with respect to _____ [specify matter(s) on which summary adjudication is granted, e.g., the First and Firth Causes of Action of plaintiff's First Amended Complaint], and that this adjudication will be carried into any final judgment subsequently entered in this _____ [action or proceeding].

[ADD, if the court is also denying summary adjudication of additional matters that were included in the prevailing party's motion, and/or is denying an alternative motion for summary judgment by the prevailing party, and/or is denying the opposing party's cross-motion(s) for summary judgment and/or adjudication]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ [the motion of _____ (specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith)] for an order granting summary adjudication with respect to _____ (specify additional matter included in the motion, e.g., the claim for punitive damages set out in the Fourth Cause of Action of plaintiff's First Amended Complaint) and/or the alternative motion of _____ (specify moving party e.g., Plaintiff John Smith) for an order granting summary judgment and/or the cross-motion of _____ (specify opposing party making cross-motion, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones) for an order granting _____ (summary judgment and/or summary adjudication)] be, and hereby is, denied.

[IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ (specify opposing party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones) pay _____ (specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith) the sum of $ _____ (specify amount) as the amount of reasonable expenses incurred by _____ (specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith) as a result of the filing of the _____ (declarations(s) and/or affidavit(s)) referred to above.]

The motion(s) of _____ [specify moving party e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] for an order granting [summary judgment or summary adjudication or summary judgment or, in the alternative, summary adjudication] was heard by the court on _____ [date]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

Having considered all the evidence set forth in the papers submitted, and the inferences reasonably deducible therefrom, except that to which objection was sustained, the Court determines that the motion should be denied for the reason(s) that:

[EITHER]

A triable controversy exists with respect to the following material fact(s), as indicated:

1. _____ [Specify all material fact(s) presenting a triable controversy and refer specifically to supporting and opposing evidence that indicates the existence of such controversy, e.g., Whether the defendant knew, or had reason to know, of defective condition of furnace when she rented the premises to plaintiff. (Declaration of Plaintiff John Smith, pp. 13:23-19:7; Declaration of Defendant Mary Jones, pp. 2:15-8:4).]

[2. Specify additional triable controversies in this and succeeding numbered paragraphs; if denying motion for summary adjudication of cause of action, defendant's duty, punitive damages claim, or affirmative defense in its entirety, specify the matter for which summary adjudication is sought (i.e., cause of action, affirmative defense, claim for punitive damages, or issue of duty) as to which the controversy exists.]

[OR]

The evidence submitted by _____ [specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] in support of the motion is insufficient to show that he/she/it is entitled to judgment as a matter of law in that: _____ [specify insufficiency, e.g., The supporting Declaration of _____ (name) includes no admissible evidence and the remaining Declaration of Plaintiff John Smith alone fails to establish that the defendant proximately caused the injury suffered by plaintiff.]

[OR]

_____ [Specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] failed to comply with the requirement of a separate statement, and the Court exercises its discretion to deny the motion on this ground.

[OR]

It appears from the declaration(s) of _____ [name(s)], submitted in opposition to the motion, that facts essential to justify the opposition may exist but could not, for good cause shown, be presented at the hearing. The Court exercises its discretion to deny the motion on this ground.

[OR]

_____ [Specify any other reasons for the determination, e.g., One of the material facts contended to be undisputed by Plaintiff John Smith is the negligent conduct of defendant estate's decedent, and the only evidence of this fact is stated in the declaration of plaintiff, the sole remaining witness to that fact. The court exercises its discretion to deny the motion on this ground.]

[CONTINUE]

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that the motion of _____ [specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] for an order granting _____ [summary judgment or summary adjudication or summary judgment or, in the] alternative, summary adjudication] be denied.

[OPTIONAL]

The Court further determines that the _____ [declaration(s) and/or affidavit(s)] of _____ [name(s)] presented by _____ [specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] was/were presented _____ [in bad faith and/or solely for the purpose of delay.]

Accordingly,

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that _____ [specify moving party, e.g., Plaintiff John Smith] pay _____ (specify opposing party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones) the sum of $_____ [specify amount] as the amount of reasonable expenses incurred by _____ [specify opposing party, e.g., Defendant Mary Jones] as a result of the filing of the _____ [declarations(s) and/or affidavit(s) referred to above.]

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
I. STRATEGY

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.02

39.02 Objective and Strategy.

Voluntary dismissals provide a plaintiff some freedom to control the course of litigation. Although there are some limitations, plaintiffs have a near absolute right to dismiss before trial commences. After trial commences, plaintiffs may only dismiss with prejudice [see Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 908-909, 84 CR2d 303 ].

A voluntary dismissal is requested by plaintiff or taken with plaintiff's express consent [see CCP § 581(b)(1), (2), (e); Datner v. Mann Theatres Corp. of Cal. (1983) 145 CA3d 768, 770, 193 CR 676 ].

Strategic Point:

A plaintiff should be aware that a voluntary dismissal may leave him or her exposed to malicious prosecution liability if the underlying claim did not have sufficient factual or legal support. On the other hand, a voluntary dismissal filed promptly after learning of or realizing the absence of factual or legal support for the action may minimize or avoid malicious prosecution liability as long as the action was initially brought in good faith, and will minimize the potential attorney's fees damages the defendant may be able to recover in a malicious prosecution action.

Warning:

Voluntarily dismissing an action while a motion for sanctions under CCP § 128.7 is pending will not deprive the court of the authority to impose sanctions [ Eichenbaum v. Alon (2003) 106 CA4th 967, 976, 131 CR2d 296 ].

II. DETERMINING WHETHER TO REQUEST VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.03

39.03 CHECKLIST: Determining Whether to Request Voluntary Dismissal.

☐ Determine whether requesting voluntary dismissal is advantageous:

- ☐ Avoids litigation costs for action likely to be unsuccessful.
- ☐ If currently lacking evidence, dismiss without prejudice before trial to retain ability to bring subsequent action with sufficient evidence.

☐ Determine whether plaintiff may file subsequent action:

- ☐ Dismissal without prejudice does not bar subsequent action.
- ☐ Dismissal with prejudice bars subsequent action.

Discussion:

See 39.04

☐ Determine likelihood of obtaining voluntary dismissal:

- ☐ Trial court delay reduction program will not prevent voluntary dismissal.

Discussion:

See 39.05

- ☐ Voluntary dismissal may not be available in certain circumstances.

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
II. DETERMINING WHETHER TO REQUEST VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.04

39.04 Effect of Voluntary Dismissal Depends on Type of Dismissal.

39.04[1] Without Prejudice. A dismissal without prejudice is not rendered on the merits and does not bar the filing of a subsequent action based on the same facts [ Stephan v. Am. Home Builders (1971) 21 CA3d 402, 406, 98 CR 354 ].

A dismissal made by a clerk's entry is presumed to be without prejudice [ Gagnon Co., Inc. v. Nev. Desert Inn, Inc. (1955) 45 C2d 448, 455, 289 P2d 466 ; Lewis v. Johnson (1939) 12 C2d 558, 563, 86 P2d 99 ].

Warning:

A subsequent action must be filed within the applicable statute of limitations [ Troche v. Daley (1990) 217 CA3d 403, 412, 266 CR 34 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of statutes of limitations, see Ch. 4, Limitation of Actions.

39.04[2] With Prejudice. A dismissal with prejudice bars a subsequent action on the same cause [ Gagnon Co., Inc. v. Nev. Desert Inn (1955) 45 C2d 448, 455, 289 P2d 466 ; Roybal v. Univ. Ford (1989) 207 CA3d 1080, 1085, 255 CR 469 ].

A dismissal with prejudice may occur because [see CCP § 581(d), (e); Goddard v. Security Title Ins. & Guarantee Co. (1939) 14 C2d 47, 55, 92 P2d 804 ; see Torrey Pines Bank v. Superior Court (1989) 216 CA3d 813, 820-821, 265 CR 217 ]:

- There was actually a determination on the merits;
- The parties reached a settlement and the dismissal was intended to act as a final disposition on the merits; or
- There is a statutory requirement for dismissal with prejudice.

A dismissal that fails to specify whether it was with or without prejudice is deemed to be with prejudice unless plaintiff contends otherwise [ Tudor Ranches, Inc. v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1998) 65 CA4th 1422, 1430, 77 CR2d 574 ]. A dismissal entered in open court pursuant to a stipulation or motion addressed to the court is ordinarily considered a final disposition on the merits [ Gagnon Co., Inc. v. Nev. Desert Inn, Inc. (1955) 45 C2d 448, 455, 289 P2d 466 ; Lewis v. Johnson (1939) 12 C2d 558, 563, 86 P2d 99 ].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal

II. DETERMINING WHETHER TO REQUEST VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.05

39.05 Voluntary Dismissal Available Despite Trial Court Delay Reduction Program.

The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act does not impair plaintiff's right to exercise his or her right to voluntarily dismiss an action under CCP § 581(b)(1) [ Harris v. Billings (1993) 16 CA4th 1396, 1404-1405, 20 CR2d 718 ]. The court should allow a dismissal without prejudice, along with an agreement to toll the statute of limitations for a certain time agreed to by the parties to facilitate settlement negotiations [ Harris v. Billings (1993) 16 CA4th 1396, 1400, 1404, 20 CR2d 718 ].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
II. DETERMINING WHETHER TO REQUEST VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.06

39.06 Voluntary Dismissal May Affect Other Parties' Rights.

39.06[1] Parties May Remain After Voluntary Dismissal. Plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss his or her action as to some but not all parties [ Basinger v. Rogers & Wells (1990) 220 CA3d 16, 22-23, 269 CR 332 ].

39.06[2] Court Loses Jurisdiction Over Action. A voluntary dismissal terminates the action against the defendant and deprives the trial court of both personal and subject matter jurisdiction to enter any order against plaintiff sought by defendant or issued sua sponte, except concerning any cross-complaint seeking affirmative relief or motion to transfer venue filed by the defendant, and as to any award of costs and attorney's fees sought by defendant [CCP § 581(i); Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 909, 84 CR2d 303 ].

Example:

Upon the valid voluntary dismissal of an action without prejudice, the court loses jurisdiction to dismiss the action with prejudice for failure to appear at a show-cause hearing after failure to appear at a mandatory settlement conference [ Franklin Capital Corp. v. Wilson (2007) 148 CA4th 187, 194195, 55 CR3d 424 ].

39.06[3] Cross-Complainant's Actions Remain Pending. A voluntary dismissal of the complaint does not affect pending cross-complaints filed by the defendant or by other cross-complainants and cross defendants [ Sanabria v. Embrey (2001) 92 CA4th 422, 425, 111 CR2d 837 ; Carroll v. Import Motors, Inc. (1995) 33 CA4th 1429, 1434, 39 CR2d 791 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of cross-complaints, see Ch. 16, Cross-Complaints.

39.06[4] Other Plaintiffs May Proceed With Separate Complaint. Parties may agree to limit the effect of the voluntary dismissal to the plaintiff dismissing the action. Such an agreement does not preclude another plaintiff who filed a separate complaint involving the same transaction from proceeding with his or her action [see Manning v. Wymer (1969) 273 CA2d 519, 523-527, 78 CR 600 ].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
II. DETERMINING WHETHER TO REQUEST VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.07

39.07 Voluntary Dismissal Cuts Off Most Pending Motions.

39.07[1] Certain Motions May Not Be Heard. Voluntary dismissal precludes the hearing of most pending motions, including:

- Motions for summary judgment unless opposition papers have already been filed [ Zapanta v. Universal Care, Inc. (2003) 107 CA4th 1167, 1173-1174, 132 CR2d 842 ].
- Anti-SLAPP motions [ Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 909, 84 CR2d 303 ].
- Motions to enforce settlement under CCP § 664.6 [ Lewis C. Nelson & Sons, Inc. v. Lynx Iron Corp. (2009) 174 CA4th 67, 80, 94 CR3d 468] .

39.07[2] Court May Still Impose Sanctions on CCP § 128.7 Motion. Voluntarily dismissing an action while a motion for sanctions under CCP § 128.7 is pending does not deprive the court of the authority to impose sanctions [ Eichenbaum v. Alon (2003) 106 CA4th 967, 976, 131 CR2d 296 ].

II. DETERMINING WHETHER TO REQUEST VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.08

A voluntary dismissal generally deprives the court of jurisdiction to enforce the terms of a settlement under CCP § 664.6.

Exception:

The parties may agree to the court's retention of jurisdiction to enforce the settlement terms [ Wackeen v. Malis (2002) 97 CA4th 429, 433, 118 CR2d 502 ].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
III. REQUESTING VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.10

39.10 Requesting Voluntary Dismissal Before Trial.

39.10[1] Voluntary Dismissal Before Trial May Be With or Without Prejudice. Plaintiff may make or file a request for voluntary dismissal without prejudice under CCP § 581(b)(1), for any reason, at any time before actual commencement of trial [see Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 908-909, 84 CR2d 303 ].

"Trial" refers to jury or court trials on the merits, as well as other procedures that effectively dispose of the case [ Wells v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 781, 785, 176 CR 104, 632 P2d 217 ; Groth Bros. Oldsmobile, Inc. v. Gallagher (2002) 97 CA4th 60, 66, 118 CR2d 405 ]. For purposes of CCP § 581, a trial is deemed to commence at the beginning of the opening statement or argument of any party or his or her counsel. If there is no opening statement, a trial begins upon the administering of the oath or affirmation to the first witness, or the introduction of any evidence [CCP § 581(a)(6); see Henderson Receivables Origination LLC v. Tomahawk (2009) 172 CA4th 290, 302, 91 CR3d 232 and Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 908-909, 84 CR2d 303 ]. This language is not necessarily exclusive of the circumstances under which a trial begins [ Gray v. Superior Court (1997) 52 CA4th 165, 171, 60 CR2d 428 ].

39.10[2] Methods of Obtaining Voluntary Dismissal Before Trial.

39.10[2][a] By Request. Plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss an action for any reason, at any time before actual commencement of trial, on plaintiff's written request to the clerk, filed with papers in the case, or by oral or written request to the court at any time before the actual commencement of trial, upon payment of any necessary costs [CCP § 581(b)(1)].

Exceptions:

See 39.10[5].

Warning:

The attorney of for the party or parties applying for dismissal must consent in writing to the dismissal. If the attorney does not consent, dismissal must be by court order after notice to the attorney [CCP § 581(j)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Plaintiff should try to negotiate a waiver of court costs or other rights defendant may have in exchange for a voluntary dismissal.

39.10[2][b] By Consent. Any party may dismiss an action with or without prejudice with the written consent of all other parties [CCP § 581(b)(2)].

Warning:

The attorney of for the party or parties applying for dismissal must consent in writing to the dismissal. If the attorney does not consent, dismissal must be by court order after notice to the attorney [CCP § 581(j)].

39.10[3] Plaintiff Must Have Knowledge of Request. Voluntary dismissal entered by plaintiff's attorney without plaintiff's knowledge and consent is voidable within a reasonable time after plaintiff learns of it [ Romadka v. Hoge (1996) 232 CA3d 1231, 1236, 283 CR 878 ; Whittier Union High Sch. Dist. v. Superior Court (1977) 66 CA3d 504, 507-509, 136 CR 86 ].

39.10[4] Other Parties' Knowledge Not Required. Plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss an action before trial as a matter of right without the knowledge of other parties or the consent of the court [ Roski v. Superior Court (1971) 17 CA3d 841, 845, 95 CR 312 ].

39.10[5] Right to Voluntary Dismissal May Be Limited or Terminated.

39.10[5][a] Affirmative Relief Is Sought. Voluntary dismissal without prejudice before trial is not available if defendant or an intervenor seeks affirmative relief against plaintiff in a cross-complaint or complaint in intervention [CCP § 581(i)].

A pleading seeks affirmative relief if it contains affirmative allegations or introduces new affirmative matter that entitles the pleader to relief [ In re Marriage of Tamraz (1994) 24 CA4th 1740, 1747, 30 CR2d 233 ; In re Mercantile Guaranty Co. (1968) 263 CA2d 346, 351, 69 CR 361 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of effect of voluntary dismissal on cross-complaints, see 39.06[3].

39.10[5][b] Motion to Transfer Is Pending. Voluntary dismissal without prejudice before trial is not available if there is a motion pending for an order transferring the action to another court under CCP § 396b [CCP § 581(i)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of venue, see Ch. 6, Determining Forum, 6.31 et seq.

39.10[5][c] Party Is "Judge Shopping." The expanded provisions in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.300(a), (h) on related cases are intended to prevent "judge shopping" by forcing notice of a newly filed case to be filed with the judge in a voluntarily dismissed case, among others, and by giving the judge of the earliest filed case the power to decide where related cases will be assigned [California Judicial Council Report, "Civil Law: Related Cases ...," at 3 (October 6, 2006)].

Cross Reference:

Related cases, see Ch. 32, Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions, 32. 03 et seq.

Local court rules may prevent a voluntary dismissal and the refile of the action to obtain a different judge.

Example:

Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(d) provides that if a case is dismissed by a party or by the judge prior to judgment and the same or essentially the same claims involving the same or essentially the same parties are alleged in another action, the later action will be assigned to the judge to whom the first case was assigned.

Exception:

A judge to whom a case is assigned may, for good cause, order that the case be assigned to a different judge.

39.10[5][d] Demurrer Is Sustained. A decision sustaining a demurrer to plaintiff's complaint without leave to amend terminates plaintiff's right to a voluntary dismissal without prejudice under CCP § 581(b)(1) [ Mid-Century Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2006) 138 CA4th 769, 776, 41 CR3d 833 ; Groth Bros. Oldsmobile, Inc. v. Gallagher (2002) 97 CA4th 60, 66-67, 118 CR2d 405 ].

After a demurrer has been sustained with leave to amend, a plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss without prejudice if:

- Plaintiff requests the voluntary dismissal before the expiration of the time to amend [ Parsons v. Umansky (1994) 28 CA4th 867, 870-871, 34 CR2d 144 ], or
- A demurrer to an amended complaint is pending decision [ Christensen v. Dewor Devs. (1983) 33 C3d 778, 785, 191 CR 8, 661 P2d 1088 ; see Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 911-912, 84 CR2d 303 ].

Plaintiff may not voluntarily dismiss his or her action without prejudice if a demurrer is sustained with leave to amend and plaintiff fails to amend within the time authorized by the court. Whether the court has entered a judgment of dismissal on the sustained demurrer is irrelevant [ Wells v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 781, 789, 176 CR 104, 632 P2d 217 ; Groth Bros. Oldsmobile, Inc. v. Gallagher (2002) 97 CA4th 60, 66, 118 CR2d 405 ]. The court may dismiss the complaint as to defendant [CCP § 581(f)(2)].

The question of whether the plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss without leave to amend after the court has tentatively granted a demurrer is the subject of a split among districts of the Court of Appeals. While the Second District Court of Appeals allows it [ Datner v. Mann Theatres Corp. (1983) 145 CA3d 768, 770-771, 193 CR 676 (after tentative ruling granting demurrer but before hearing on demurrer)], the First District [ Groth Bros. Oldsmobile, Inc. v. Gallagher (2002) 97 CA4th 60, 66-67, 118 CR2d 405 (trial court erred in refusing to vacate dismissal)] and the Third Division of the Second District [ Mid-Century Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2006) 138 CA4th 769, 776, 41 CR3d 833 ] Courts of Appeals do not.

Distinguish:

Only the sustaining of a demurrer that disposes of all the claims in the case may preclude voluntary dismissal [Gogri v. Jack In The Box Inc. (2008) 166 CA4th 255, 269-273, 82 CR3d 629 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of demurrers, see Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

39.10[5][e] In Lieu of Opposing Summary Judgment. Plaintiff may not employ a voluntary dismissal without prejudice in lieu of following the proper procedures for opposing defendant's motion for summary judgment. If the time for opposing the summary judgment motion has passed, a plaintiff who attempts a voluntary dismissal remains subject to the court's continuing jurisdiction to rule on the motion for summary judgment [ Cravens v. State Bd. of Equalization (1997) 52 CA4th 253, 255, 60 CR2d 436 ]. The determining factor is fairness, which in turn depends on the plaintiff's motivation and intent in dismissing the complaint [ Tire Distributors, Inc. v. Cobrae (2005) 132 CA4th 538, 546-547, 33 CR3d 761 (request for dismissal without prejudice after date response to summary judgment motion was due but well before summary judgment was granted was motivated only by compliance with settlement agreement)]. However, if the request for dismissal is filed before the party's opposition to the motion is due, the court is without jurisdiction to rule on the motion [ Zapanta v. Universal Care, Inc. (2003) 107 CA4th 1167, 1173-1174, 132 CR2d 842 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of summary judgment, see Ch. 38, Summary Judgment.

39.10[5][f] Commencement of Evidentiary Proceedings Before Referee or Other Finder of Fact. Plaintiff's right to voluntarily dismiss his or her complaint at any time before commencement of trial may be terminated by the commencement of evidentiary proceedings before a finder of fact such as a referee appointed to make an advisory opinion to the court. In this circumstance, it may be deemed that a trial commences when the parties appear and present evidence before the referee [ Gray v. Superior Court (1997) 52 CA4th 165, 167, 173, 60 CR2d 428 (evidentiary hearing before referee in partition action was trial within the meaning of CCP § 581)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

A plaintiff with a weak case may want to consider dismissal before an evidentiary hearing where adverse findings of fact may preclude his or her right to dismiss a case without prejudice.

Strategic Point--Defendant:

If an evidentiary hearing has taken place and findings of fact made adverse to the plaintiff, the defendant may be able to prevent a voluntary dismissal without prejudice by asserting that the trial has commenced.

39.10[5][g] Motion for Sanction Is Pending. If defendant files a motion for a terminating discovery sanction, plaintiff may not defeat such motion by filing a voluntary dismissal just before the sanction hearing [ Hartbrodt v. Burke (1996) 42 CA4th 168, 175-176, 49 CR2d 562 ].

39.10[5][h] Plaintiff Is Not Real Party in Interest. A plaintiff who is not the real party in interest does not have the absolute right to terminate an action. If plaintiff is not the real party in interest and has a fiduciary duty to the real party in interest, the court must approve a voluntary dismissal. Plaintiff must demonstrate that the rights of the real party in interest have been adequately protected [see Marcarelli v. Cabell (1976) 58 CA3d 51, 55, 129 CR 509 ]. This rule applies in the following proceedings:

- Probate proceedings [see Malibu Outrigger Bd. of Governors v. Superior Court (1980) 103 CA3d 573, 579, 165 CR 1 ].
- Child custody matters [ Ford v. Superior Court (1959) 171 CA2d 228, 230, 340 P2d 296 ].
- Guardianship matters [see Malibu Outrigger Bd. of Governors v. Superior Court (1980) 103 CA3d 573, 579, 165 CR 1 ].
- Shareholder derivative suits [see Marcarelli v. Cabell (1976) 58 CA3d 51, 55, 129 CR 509 ].

- Class actions [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of restrictions in class actions, see 39.10[5][k].

39.10[5][i] After Demanding Trial De Novo Following Arbitration Award. Plaintiff may not be entitled to a voluntary dismissal requested after demanding a trial de novo following a judicial arbitration award in defendant's favor. Plaintiff's request for voluntary dismissal repudiates the demand for a trial de novo and reinstates the arbitration award [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1825-1826, 53 CR2d 536 ; Herbert Hawkins Realtors, Inc. v. Milheiser (1983) 140 CA3d 334, 337-340, 189 CR 450 ].

39.10[5][j] After Involuntary Dismissal. Plaintiff may not voluntarily dismiss an action after defendant has obtained a ruling dismissing the same action involuntarily, but before the order for involuntary dismissal has been filed [ M & R Properties v. Thomson (1992) 11 CA4th 899, 900-901, 14 CR2d 579 ]. Defendant's right to a mandatory dismissal prevails over plaintiff's right to voluntary dismissal [ M & R Properties v. Thomson (1992) 11 CA4th 899, 905, 14 CR2d 579 ].

39.10[5][k] Class Actions. Plaintiff may not voluntarily dismiss an action that has been certified as a class action until adequate notice has been given to the class and the court orders dismissal [CCP § 581(k); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.770; La Sala v. American Sav. & Loan Assn. (1971) 5 C3d 864, 868, 871, 97 CR 849, 489 P2d 1113 ].

Exception:

A court may not enter an order dismissing a class action at the same time as, or after, entry of judgment following final approval of a settlement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.769(h), 3.770(a)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of dismissal in class actions, see Ch. 33, Class Actions, 33.29[2] et seq.

39.10[6] No Right to New Action If Compulsory Cross-Complaint Is Pending. The compulsory cross-complaint statute, CCP § 426.30, precludes plaintiff from bringing a new action after having dismissed an earlier complaint without prejudice under CCP § 581(c) if the new action is based on claims arising from the same transaction that formed the basis of a cross-complaint that is pending in the first action. [ Carroll v. Import Motors, Inc. (1995) 33 CA4th 1429, 1435-1436, 39 CR2d 791 ].

If this issue arises, the proper course is to request leave to file a late compulsory cross-complaint in the first action [ Carroll v. Import Motors, Inc. (1995) 33 CA4th 1429, 1436, 39 CR2d 791 ; see CCP § 426.50].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
III. REQUESTING VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.11

39.11 Requesting Voluntary Dismissal After Commencement of Trial.

39.11[1] Voluntary Dismissal After Commencement of Trial Is Generally With Prejudice. Under CCP § 581(d), plaintiff's complaint or any cause of action may be voluntarily dismissed in its entirety or as to any defendant with prejudice after commencement of trial. A "trial" is deemed to commence at the beginning of the opening statement or argument of any party or his or her counsel. If there is no opening statement, a trial begins at the time of the administering of the oath or affirmation to the first witness, or the introduction of any evidence [CCP § 581(a)(6)].

Exceptions:

CCP § 581(e) provides for voluntary dismissal without prejudice after commencement of trial:

- If all affected parties consent to voluntary dismissal without prejudice, or
- By order of the court based on a showing of good cause.

➤ Cross References:

Additional discussion of voluntary dismissal after commencement of trial, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 12.27 et seq.

Setting aside judgment after voluntary dismissal, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 29, Setting Aside Judgments and Orders.

39.11[2] Methods of Obtaining Voluntary Dismissal After Commencement of Trial.

39.11[2][a] By Request. After commencement of trial, the plaintiff may request voluntary dismissal with prejudice of the complaint or any of the causes of action asserted in it [CCP § 581(e)]. The dismissal can be without prejudice if the court so orders on a showing of good cause [CCP § 581(e)].

CCP § 581(e) does not affect plaintiff's right, prior to the entry of judgment, to dismiss one or more counts of the complaint that set forth alternative remedies to the counts on which plaintiff elects to stand [see Steele v. Litton Indus., Inc. (1968) 260 CA2d 157, 171-172, 68 CR 680 ].

39.11[2][b] By Consent. After commencement of trial, the plaintiff may dismiss an action without prejudice if all other parties give their the written consent [CCP § 581(e)].

Warning:

The attorney of for the party or parties applying for dismissal must consent in writing to the dismissal. If the attorney does not consent, dismissal must be by court order after notice to the attorney [CCP § 581(b)(2), (j)].

Warning:

Failure to object to dismissal without prejudice establishes consent under CCP § 581(e) [ Davis v. Pine Mountain Lumber Co. (1969) 273 CA2d 218, 227, 77 CR 825 ].

39.11[2][c] By Abandonment. During the period between the commencement of trial to the submission of the case, the court shall dismiss with prejudice plaintiff's complaint or any cause of action asserted in it, in its entirety or as to any defendant, if plaintiff abandons it [CCP § 581(d)].

Plaintiff's intent to abandon a case, sufficient to support a § 581(d) voluntary dismissal, must be clear, unequivocal, and express. Plaintiff's intent may be shown by a motion to dismiss, stipulation of the parties, or some other form of express intent on the record [ Kaufman & Broad Building Co. v. City & Suburban Mortgage Co. (1970) 10 CA3d 206, 212-213, 88 CR 858 ; D & J, Inc. v. Ferro Corp. (1986) 176 CA3d 1191, 1195, 222 CR 656 ].

Example:

If plaintiff makes an insufficient showing of just cause on a motion for dismissal after commencement of trial under CCP § 581(e), the court may treat plaintiff's voluntary dismissal attempt as an abandonment if defendant wishes to proceed with trial [see Burnett v. Burnett (1948) 88 CA2d 805, 807, 199 P2d 685 ].

39.11[3] Cross-Complaint Is Not Affected by Voluntary Dismissal After Commencement of Trial. Plaintiff's voluntary dismissal with prejudice after commencement of trial does not dismiss a cross-complaint filed in the same action [see CCP § 581(e)].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
IV. RECOVERING COSTS AND FEES

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.13

39.13 Costs and Statutory Attorney Fees May Be Awarded.

A trial court may award costs and statutory attorney fees incurred up to the date of the voluntary dismissal [ Maxwell v. Cooltech, Inc. (1997) 57 CA4th 629, 632 n2, 67 CR2d 293 ; Bell v. Hummel (1982) 136 CA3d 1009, 1015, 186 CR 688 (overruled on other grounds in Laird v. Blacker (1992) 2 C4th 606, 617, 7 CR2d 550, 828 P2d 691 ); see Townzen v. County of El Dorado (1998) 64 CA4th 1350, 1358, 76 CR2d 281 ].

Plaintiff's payment of defendant's costs or attorney fees is not a prerequisite to obtaining a voluntary dismissal [see Hopkins v. Superior Court (1902) 136 C 552, 553-554, 69 P 299 ; Eddings v. White (1964) 229 CA2d 579, 585, 40 CR 453 ].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

A defendant seeking recovery of costs should have a formal judgment of dismissal entered ordering payment of court costs [see CCP § 1032(b)].

Warning:

Service of a notice of entry of a voluntary dismissal by the plaintiff starts the running of the 15-day period within which a defendant seeking costs must serve and file a memorandum of costs under Cal Rules Court, Rule 3.1700(a), and the 60-day period within which a defendant seeking attorney's fees must serve and file a motion to claim attorney's fees under Cal Rules Court, Rule 3.1702(b), even when cross-complaints among other parties are still pending [ Sanabria v. Embrey (2001) 92 CA4th 422, 425 430, 111 CR2d 837 ; Fries v. Rite Aid Corp. (2009) 173 CA4th 182, 188, 92 CR3d 523 (nothing in Rule 3.1700 or its predecessor suggests a defendant must file a proposed judgment along with a memorandum of costs in order to recover its costs after a voluntary dismissal)].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
IV. RECOVERING COSTS AND FEES

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.14

39.14 Contractual Attorney Fees Generally Are Not Recoverable.

Contractually authorized attorney fees are not recoverable following voluntary dismissal because there is no prevailing party for the purpose of a fee award [CC § 1717(b)(2); Santisas v. Goodin (1998) 17 C4th 599, 602, 617, 71 CR2d 830, 951 P2d 399; Ford Motor Credit Co. v. Hunsberger (2008) 163 CA4th 1526, 1530, 78 CR3d 661 (CC § 1717(b)(2) bars award of contractual attorney fees under CCP § 998 after voluntary dismissal)].

Exception:

CC § 1717 does not bar recovery of attorney fees incurred in defending tort or other noncontract claims arising from a contract with a broad attorney fee provision. A court will examine the contractual fee provision to determine whether attorney fees incurred in defending tort or other noncontract claims are recoverable [ Santisas v. Goodin (1998) 17 C4th 599, 602, 617, 71 CR2d 830, 951 P2d 399 (holding that International Industries, Inc. v. Olen (1978) 21 C3d 218, 145 CR 691, 577 P2d 1031 does not bar recovery)].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
V. APPEALING AFTER VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.16

39.16 Appeal Is Generally Not Permitted.

Generally, neither the plaintiff nor the defendant has any right to appeal after a voluntary dismissal [ Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 CA4th 1006, 1012, 105 CR2d 115 (defendant); Yancey v. Fink (1991) 226 CA3d 1334, 1342-1343, 277 CR 415 (plaintiff)].

Exception:

The denial of a defendant's motion to vacate a voluntary dismissal may be reviewed by a petition for a writ of mandate [ H. D. Arnaiz, Ltd. v. County of San Joaquin (2002) 96 CA4th 1357, 1366, 118 CR2d 71 ; Gray v. Superior Court (1997) 52 CA4th 165, 171-172, 60 CR2d 428 ].

Once plaintiff voluntarily dismisses without prejudice, a court may not vacate the dismissal or enter a new order dismissing the action with prejudice [ Harris v. Billings (1993) 16 CA4th 1396, 1400, 1404, 20 CR2d 718 ].

Chapter 39 Voluntary Dismissal
V. APPEALING AFTER VOLUNTARY DISMISSAL

3-39 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 39.17

39.17 Appeal May Lie in Certain Circumstances.

39.17[1] Voluntary Dismissal Is Not True Relinquishment. An appeal may lie if a voluntary dismissal after an adverse ruling by the trial court is intended to expedite appeal and is not truly a voluntary relinquishment of the action [ Stewart v. Colonial W. Agency, Inc. (2001) 87 CA4th 1006, 1012, 105 CR2d 115 ; Casey v. Overhead Door Corp. (1999) 74 CA4th 112, 116 n2, 87 CR2d 603 (overruled in part on other grounds in Jimenez v. Superior Court (2002) 29 C4th 473, 478, 127 CR2d 614, 58 P3d 450 )]. The voluntary dismissal operates as a request for an entry of judgment based on the adverse ruling [ Denney v. Lawrence (1994) 22 CA4th 927, 930 n1, 27 CR2d 556 ].

39.17[2] Consent Judgments. B&P Code § 16750(g) impliedly defines a "consent judgment" as a settlement of an action. The general rule is that a party may not appeal a consent judgment [ Norgart v. Upjohn Co. (1999) 21 C4th 383, 400, 87 CR2d 453, 981 P2d 79 ]. If, however, consent was given merely to facilitate an appeal following adverse determination of a critical issue, the party will not lose the right to appeal [ Building Industry Assn. v. City of Camarillo (1986) 41 C3d 810, 817, 226 CR 81, 718 P2d 68 ; Norgart v. Upjohn Co. (1999) 21 C4th 383, 400-402, 87 CR2d 453, 981 P2d 79 ].

39.17[3] Stipulated Dismissals of Fewer Than All Causes of Action. If the parties stipulate to judgment on fewer than all causes of action and plaintiff voluntarily dismisses the remaining causes of action with prejudice, the judgment may be appealable [ Tudor Ranches, Inc. v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1998) 65 CA4th 1422, 1429-1431, 77 CR2d 574 ]. However, if plaintiff voluntarily dismisses the remaining causes of action without prejudice, the judgment does not dispose of all the causes of action and there is no appealable judgment [ Hill v. City of Clovis (1998) 63 CA4th 434, 442-446, 73 CR2d 638 ; see Tudor Ranches, Inc. v. State Comp. Ins. Fund (1998) 65 CA4th 1422, 1429-1431, 77 CR2d 574 ].

Cross References:

Discussion of judgments on stipulations, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 318, Judgments (Matthew Bender).

Discussion of stipulations, see Ch. 28, Stipulations.

39.17[4] Plaintiff's Mistake, Inadvertence, Surprise, or Excusable Neglect. A voluntary dismissal entered as a result of plaintiff's mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect may be vacated under CCP § 473(b) [ Zamora v. Clayborn Contracting Group, Inc. (2002) 28 C4th 249, 254-255, 121 CR2d 187, 47 P3d 1056 ; Basinger v. Rogers & Wells (1990) 220 CA3d 16, 21-23, 269 CR 332 ].

Example:

Plaintiff settles a case and dismisses under a mistake of fact [see Palace Hardware Co. v. Smith (1901) 134 C 381, 66 P 474 (misconception of the amount owed to plaintiff)].

Chapter 40 Dismissal for Delay in Bringing to Trial
I. STRATEGY

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.02

40.02 Objective and Strategy.

A dismissal of an action is a termination of the court's consideration of a case prior to completion of a full trial of the issues of fact [ Schisler v. Mitchell (1959) 174 CA2d 27, 29, 344 P2d 61 ]. A voluntary dismissal is one entered at the request of the party filing the action [see CCP § 581(b)(1), (2), (e)]; an involuntary dismissal is a dismissal by the court [see CCP §§ 581(b)(3)-(5), (d), (f), (g), (l), 583.110 et seq.]. The dismissal for failure to bring to trial is an involuntary dismissal which can be either mandatory or discretionary.

The policies favoring the parties' right to stipulate in their own interests and favoring a disposition on the merits are generally to be preferred over the policy requiring dismissal for failure to proceed with reasonable diligence, except as otherwise expressly provided by statute or court rule adopted pursuant to statute [CCP § 583.130; see also Denham v. Superior Court (1970) 2 C3d 557, 566, 86 CR 65, 468 P2d 193 (decided under prior law)].

The aim of the requirement "is to 'promote the trial of cases before evidence is lost or destroyed, or the memory of witnesses becomes dimmed, and to protect defendants from being subjected to the annoyance of an unmeritorious action remaining undecided for an indefinite period of time' (citations omitted)" [ Moran v. Superior Court (1983) 35 C3d 229, 237, 197 CR 546, 673 P2d 216 ].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

Check timing to make sure all exclusionary time is eliminated from date calculations.

40.04 Statutes for Dismissal Apply to Civil Actions.

CCP § 583.110 et seq. apply to civil actions but not to special proceedings except to the extent that these statutes are incorporated by reference in the special proceeding [CCP § 583.120(a)]. However, a court may, by rule or otherwise under its inherent authority, apply CCP § 583.110 et seq. to all or part of a special proceeding, unless to do so would be inconsistent with the character of the special proceeding or the statute governing the proceeding [CCP § 583.120(b); *Oskooi v. The stricter requirements of trial court delaying reduction programs [Gov Code §§ 68600-68620] have lessened the impact of the mandatory five-year period of CCP § 583.310. Case disposition time standards promulgated by the Judicial Council direct superior courts to dispose of 90 percent of general civil cases within 12 months, 98 percent of general civil cases within 18 months, and 100 percent of general civil cases within 24 months [Cal Rules Ct, Stnds Jud Admin, Stnd 2.2(c), (f); but see Cal Rules Ct, Stnds Jud Admin, Stnd 2.2(g) (superior court case involving "exceptional circumstances" or requiring "continuing review" is exempt from time standards)].

II. MANDATORY DISMISSAL FOR DELAY IN BRINGING TO TRIAL

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.09

40.09 New Trial.

40.09[1] If New Trial Is Granted, Time to Bring to Trial Is Three Years. If a new trial is granted, the action must again be brought to trial [CCP § 583.320(a)]:

- In actions when a trial is commenced but no judgment is entered due to a mistrial or the jury is unable to reach a verdict, within three years after the order of the court declaring a mistrial or the disagreement of the jury is entered.
- In actions when a new trial is granted after judgment and no appeal is taken, within three years after the order granting the new trial is entered.
- In actions when, on appeal, an order granting a new trial is affirmed or a judgment is reversed and the action is remanded for a new trial, within three years after the remittitur is filed by the clerk of the trial court.

However, if the three-year period expires before the end of the initial five-year period under CCP § 583.310, the action need not be brought to trial again before expiration of the five-year period of CCP § 583.310 [CCP § 583.320(b)].

Exception:

The time requirements for bringing an action again to trial do not apply to ancillary or collateral proceedings subsequent to the original trial, such as a motion for attorney's fees [ No Oil, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 153 CA3d 998, 1003-1006, 200 CR 768 ].

40.09[2] Order Vacating Appointment in Binding Arbitration Is Equivalent to Declaration of Mistrial.

When the parties stipulate to binding arbitration without a right to a trial de novo, the binding arbitration is equivalent to a trial. In such a case, when the arbitration hearing is abruptly terminated and arbitrator's appointment vacated, the order vacating the appointment is equivalent to an order declaring a mistrial within the meaning of former CCP § 583 (now see CCP § 583.320(a)(1)) [ Dodd v. Ford (1984) 153 CA3d 426, 429-431, 200 CR 256 ].

40.09[3] Order Setting Aside Default Judgment Does Not Qualify as a New Trial Order. If a default judgment has been obtained under CCP § 585, an order setting aside the default judgment does not qualify as a new trial order for the purposes of CCP § 583.320 [ Misic v. Segars (1995) 37 CA4th 1149, 44 CR2d 100 ].

40.09[4] Order Vacating Default Judgment for Failure to Answer Does Not Qualify as an Order for a New Trial. An order vacating a default judgment for the defendant's failure to answer is not equivalent to an order for a new trial, since a default judgment results from a non-adversarial hearing rather than a trial [ Tiholiz v. Superior Court (1980) 104 CA3d 201, 205, 163 CR 452 (decided under prior law); see Misic v. Segars (1995) 37 CA4th 1149, 1154, 44 CR2d 100 ].

40.09[5] Order Setting Aside Judgment When Trial Held in Defendant's Absence Is Equivalent to Order for New Trial. An action is "brought to trial" when a plaintiff proceeds to try the action under CCP § 594 in the defendant's absence, so that an order setting aside the judgment in the plaintiff's favor is equivalent to an order granting a new trial [ Briley v. Sukoff (1979) 98 CA3d 405, 408-410, 159 CR 452 (decided under prior law)].

II. MANDATORY DISMISSAL FOR DELAY IN BRINGING TO TRIAL

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.10

40.10 When Action Commences.

40.10[1] Action Commences on Date Original Complaint Is Filed or Date New Party Is Added. An action commences on the date the original complaint is filed, as to any defendant named in that complaint either expressly or by a fictitious name. However, when a new party defendant is added to the action, the action commences as to that defendant on the date of the order adding him or her as a party or on the date the pleading naming him or her as a new party is filed [ Gray v. Firthe (1987) 194 CA3d 202, 209, 239 CR 389 ; see also CCP §§ 350 (action commences when complaint is filed), 583.310 (five-year period begins when action commences against defendant)]. Similarly, the relation-back doctrine applies in the context of CCP § 583.310, so that claims added to an action that do not relate back to the claims filed in the original pleading commenced as of the date that they were added by amendment of pleadings [ Brumley v. FDCC California, Inc. (2007) 156 CA4th 312, 320, 67 CR3d 292 ].

Cross Reference:

Relation back doctrine, see 4.44[1].

40.10[2] Contractual Arbitration Cases Commence at Time Court Files Order Compelling Arbitration.

Several courts interpreting prior law have ruled that, when an action is subject to contractual arbitration, the five-year period for bringing the action to an arbitration hearing commences at the time the court files the order compelling arbitration [ Gainey v. Occidental Land Research (1986) 186 CA3d 1051, 1054, 231 CR 249 ; Preston v. Kaiser Found. Hospitals (1981) 126 CA3d 402, 408-410, 178 CR 882 ; but see Lockhart-Mummery v. Kaiser Found. Hospitals (1980) 103 CA3d 891, 896, 163 CR 325 (five-year period is measured from date of filing the complaint)]. It is uncertain whether courts will follow this approach under CCP § 583.310.

Chapter 40 Dismissal for Delay in Bringing to Trial
II. MANDATORY DISMISSAL FOR DELAY IN BRINGING TO TRIAL

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.11

40.11 Commencement of Trial.

40.11[1] Jury Case Commences When Jury Impaneled. An action is "brought to trial" when the jury is impaneled [ Hartman v. Santamarina (1982) 30 C3d 762, 765-767, 765 n3, 180 CR 337, 639 P2d 979 (decided under prior law)].

However, one court of appeal has held that a party can put a jury trial beyond the bar of the dismissal statute by commencing the jury selection process, as a contrary rule may invite an unscrupulous party to delay or prolong voir dire examination of prospective jurors until the expiration of the five-year period [ Hilliard v. A.H. Robins Co. (1983) 148 CA3d 374, 389-390, 196 CR 117 ].

40.11[2] Non-Jury Case Commences When First Witness Is Sworn and Gives Some Testimony. An action is "brought to trial" in a nonjury case if one witness has been sworn and gives some testimony relevant to the issues [ Weeks v. Roberts (1968) 68 C2d 802, 805, 69 CR 305, 442 P2d 361 (decided under prior law); Blue Chip Enterprises, Inc. v. Brentwood Sav. & Loan Assn. (1977) 71 CA3d 706, 711-712, 139 CR 651 (decided under prior law)].

Alternatively, an action may be brought to trial if the plaintiff requests leave to present his or her first witness, but is denied [ Clements v. Ragghianti (1957) 155 CA2d 188, 191, 317 P2d 706 (decided under prior law)].

40.11[3] Judicially Arbitrated Case Considered Commenced Only When Parties Stipulated to Binding Arbitration Without Right to Trial De Novo. Usually, submission of an action to judicial arbitration [see CCP §§ 1141.10-1141.31] is not considered bringing the action to trial, since a trial de novo may be subsequently demanded. However, commencement of a judicial arbitration hearing was held equivalent to commencement of a trial when the parties had stipulated to binding arbitration without a right to trial de novo [ Dodd v. Ford (1984) 153 CA3d 426, 429-431, 200 CR 256 (decided under prior law)].

40.11[4] Action May Be Brought to Trial When Judgment Which Determines an Issue of Law or Fact Is Rendered Pursuant to Pretrial Order. An action may be "brought to trial" when a judgment is rendered pursuant to a pretrial order which determines an issue of law or fact [ McDonough Power Equipment Co. v. Superior Court (1972) 8 C3d 527, 532, 105 CR 330, 503 P2d 1338 (decided under prior law)].

Examples:

Examples of situations in which an action is "brought to trial" include the following:

- When the court dismisses an action with prejudice following the sustaining of a demurrer [ Berri v. Superior Court (1955) 43 C2d 856, 858-860, 279 P2d 8 (decided under prior law)].
- When the court enters a judgment following a motion for summary judgment [ S. Pac. Co. v. Seaboard Mills (1962) 207 CA2d 97, 104, 24 CR 236 (decided under prior law)].
- When a case is submitted on stipulated facts for final determination of legal questions [ Ryerson v. Riverside Cement Co. (1968) 266 CA2d 789, 795, 72 CR 595 (decided under prior law)].

Examples of situations in which an action is not "brought to trial" include the following:

- When cases brought together are bifurcated and then severed in such a manner that the trial of one cause of action decides no element of the other causes of action, those other causes of action have not been "brought to trial" [ Sagi Plumbing v. Chartered Construction Corp. (2004) 123 CA4th 443, 449 ].
- When a court grants discretionary dismissal of an action for delay in prosecution [ Fannin Corp. v. Superior Court (1974) 36 CA3d 745, 751, 111 CR 920 (decided under prior law)].
- When a court grants a motion for partial summary judgment or summary adjudication of issues [ King v. California (1970) 11 CA3d 307, 310-312, 89 CR 715 (decided under prior law)].
- When a court sets a trial date for a date after the expiration of the applicable period [ Tunis v. Superior Court (1963) 59 C2d 465, 467, 30 CR 135, 380 P2d 823 (decided under prior law)].

40.13 Stipulation to Extend Time to Bring Case to Trial.

40.13[1] Stipulation May Be Written or Oral Agreement Made in Court. The parties may extend the time within which an action must be brought to trial under CCP §§ 583.310 and 583.320 by:

- A written stipulation, which need not be filed, but if not filed, must be brought to the court's attention if relevant to a motion for dismissal [CCP § 583.330(a)].
- An oral agreement made in open court, if entered in the minutes of the court or if a transcript is made [CCP § 583.330(b)].

40.13[2] Stipulation May Be Made After Expiration of Time. A stipulation may be made after the expiration of the applicable time period, so long as dismissal of the action has not yet been ordered [ General Ins. Co. of Am. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 C3d 449, 454-455, 124 CR 745, 541 P2d 289 ]. However, a stipulation entered into after the five-year period has expired will extend the five-year term only if it expressly waives the right to dismissal or extends the time of trial to a date beyond the five-year period [ Miles v. Speidel (1989) 211 CA3d 879, 883-885, 259 CR 582 ].

40.13[3] Must Expressly Waive Right to Dismissal or Extend Time of Trial. A stipulation is effective under CCP § 583.330 if it expressly waives the right to mandatory dismissal for failure to satisfy the requirements of CCP § 583.310 or 583.320, or if it expressly permits the plaintiff to bring the action to trial or retrial at some date beyond the applicable time period [ General Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1975) 15 C3d 449, 455, 124 CR 745, 541 P2d 289 (decided under prior law); J.C. Penney Co. v. Superior Court (1959) 52 C2d 666, 669, 343 P2d 919 (decided under prior law)].

A stipulation may also be effective if it shows intent to extend the applicable time period by indefinitely extending the time for performance of some other act that is a necessary prerequisite to bringing the action to trial [ Regan Distributors, Inc. v. Yurosek & Son, Inc. (1979) 88 CA3d 924, 928-929, 152 CR 127 (decided under prior law)]. However, the mere granting of an open extension of time to answer, which is exercised within the statutory period, may not extend the period under circumstances that do not preclude the plaintiff from bringing the case to trial within the prescribed time [ Gentry v. Nielsen (1981) 123 CA3d 27, 33, 176 CR 385 (decided under prior law)].

If the stipulation extends the applicable period for an indefinite period of time, a court may construe it to include an implied condition that the extension be for a reasonable period of time [ Chapin v. Superior Court (1965) 234 CA2d 571, 576, 44 CR 496 (decided under prior law; court opined that additional five years was maximum boundary for "reasonable time")].

40.14 Statutory Exclusions From Five-Year Time Computation.

40.14[1] Suspension of Court's Jurisdiction. Any time during which the court's jurisdiction to try the action was suspended is excluded when computing the time within which an action must be brought to trial or retrial under CCP §§ 583.310-583.350 [CCP § 583.420(a)].

Suspension of jurisdiction under CCP § 583.340(a) must be an entire absence of power to hear or determine the case [ White v. Renck (1980) 108 CA3d 835, 840-841, 166 CR 701 (decided under prior law)].

The suspension of jurisdiction exclusion is an express statutory exception to the five-year or three-year bar, separate and distinct from exceptions based upon impossibility or impracticability. Thus, where lack of jurisdiction is asserted, plaintiff's diligence, or lack thereof, is irrelevant [ Spanair S.A. v. McDonnell Douglas Corp. (2009) 172 CA4th 348, 358, 90 CR3d 864] .

40.14[2] Stay or Injunction of Prosecution of Action. Any time during which the prosecution of the trial of the action is stayed or enjoined is excluded in computing the time within which an action must be brought to trial or retrial under CCP §§ 583.310-583.350; see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.515 (stay pending coordination of actions as excluded from calculation of time periods under CCP § 583.110 et seq.) [CCP § 583.420(b)].

For purposes of CCP § 583.340(b), a "stay" is a temporary suspension of a case, or some proceeding in it, until the happening of a defined contingency [ Holland v. Dave Altman's R.V. Ctr. (1990) 222 CA3d 477, 482, 271 CR 706 ].

Example:

That a stay of certain types of proceedings within an action--a partial stay of an action--is a stay of prosecution under 583.340(b) is consistent with the general policy favoring trial over dismissal for failure to prosecute an action. Thus, a stay of all discovery tolls the five-year period in which to prosecute an action [ Bruns v. E-Commerce Exchange, Inc., 172 CA4th 488, 499, 90 CR3d 889 (reversing trial court order failing to toll for three discovery stays)].

40.14[3] Impossibility, Impracticability, or Futility.

40.14[3][a] Plaintiff Has Burden of Proof of Entitlement to Tolling. Any time during which it was impossible, impracticable, or futile to bring an action to trial is excluded in computing the time within which an action must be brought to trial or retrial under CCP §§ 583.310-583.350. The plaintiff has a duty to use reasonable diligence in prosecuting his or her action [ Lauriton v. Carnation Co. (1989) 215 CA3d 161, 164, 263 CR 476 ].

Examples of Impossibility, Impracticability or Futility:

- When, as a matter of law or fact, it would not be possible to commence trial [ Christin v. Superior Court (1937) 9 C2d 526, 532-533, 71 P2d 205 ].
- When, although proceeding to trial is neither legally nor factually impossible, it would involve excessive and unreasonable difficulty in light of the circumstances of the individual case, including the acts and conduct of the parties and the nature of the proceedings [ Brunzell Constr. Co., Inc. v. Wagner (1970) 2 C3d 545, 554, 86 CR 297, 468 P2d 553 (decided under prior law)].
- A period of court congestion when the congestion causes unusual or abnormal delays beyond the plaintiff's control [ Lazelle v. Lovelady (1985) 171 CA3d 34, 38-42, 217 CR 145 (decided under prior law); Bennett v. Bennett Cement Contractors, Inc. (1981) 125 CA3d 673, 677-678, 178 CR 633 (decided under prior law); see also Chin v. Meier (1991) 235 CA3d 1473, 1477-1478, 1 CR2d 499 ].
- Delay in bringing a case to trial attributable to the sickness or death of counsel. The existence of impracticability is determined in light of all the circumstances of the individual case, including acts and conduct of the parties and nature of the proceedings themselves. The critical factor in applying the exception to a given factual situation is whether plaintiff exercised reasonable diligence in prosecuting his or her case [ Him v. Superior Court (1986) 184 CA3d 35, 39, 228 CR 839 ]. The death or illness of a plaintiff's attorney may result in a period of time when prosecution of the case is impracticable and beyond the plaintiff's control; however, the death or illness of defense counsel does not create the same impediment to a plaintiff's prosecution of his or her case [ Sanchez v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 109 CA4th 1262, 1273, 135 CR2d 869 ].
- Delay in discovery caused by court orders that nullify prior discovery efforts and require their repetition [ Bruns v. E-Commerce Exchange, Inc., 172 CA4th 488, 505-506, 90 CR3d 889 (reversing trial court order failing to toll for court-induced repetition in discovery)].
- Delay in the court's transfer of files for purposes of coordination proceedings [ Bruns v. E-Commerce Exchange, Inc., 172 CA4th 488, 506-508, 90 CR3d 889 (reversing trial court order failing to toll for court delay in file transfer)].
- An unavoidable delay in proceeding to trial against one defendant (caused, for example, by intervening injunctions and appeals) that results in plaintiff delaying proceedings against the other defendants in the action if it would have been impracticable and futile for plaintiff to sever the causes of action and proceed separately against the co-defendants [ Brunzell Constr. Co., Inc. v. Wagner (1970) 2 C3d 545, 554-556, 86 CR 297, 468 P2d 553 (decided under prior law)].
- If another action is pending that arose out of the same incident or involves some of the same issues. One example is if the outcome in the pending case would resolve a legal issue unsettled or essential to plaintiff's case and the interests of judicial economy would be promoted by delaying trial [see Rose v. Knapp (1951) 38 C2d 114, 117-118, 237 P2d 981 (decided under prior law); Stella v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1970) 13 CA3d 732, 737-739, 91 CR 771 (decided under prior law)].

■ The period between the time defendant defaulted and the time the default judgment was ultimately set aside because there is no adversary against whom the plaintiff may reasonably prosecute the action [ Bruns v. E-Commerce Exchange, Inc., 172 CA4th 488, 508-509, 90 CR3d 889 (reversing trial court order failing to toll for court delay until default judgments set aside); see Misic v. Segars (1995) 37 CA4th 1149, 1156, 44 CR2d 100 ; see, e.g., Dale v. ITT Life Ins. Corp. (1989) 207 CA3d 495, 498-499, 255 CR 8 ].

40.14[3][b] Courts of Appeal Split Three Ways on How to Determine Impossibility, Impracticability, or Futility. Prior to the 1984 amendment of CCP § 583.340, a plaintiff who failed to exercise reasonable diligence in bringing a case to trial after some event had made it for a period impossible to do so could not add the period of impossibility to the five-year period for bringing the case to trial. The 1984 amendment of CCP § 583.340(c) inserted language making the tolling mandatory [ Chin v. Meier (1991) 235 CA3d 1473, 1477, 1 CR2d 499 ; Rose v. Scott (First Dist., Div. Three 1991) 233 CA3d 537, 542, 284 CR 487 ; Sierra Nevada Memorial-Miners Hospital, Inc. v. Superior Court (Hudson) (1990) 217 CA3d 464, 470-471, 266 CR 50 (citing 17 Cal. Law Revision Com. Rep at 936)]. The Cal. Law Revision Commission's Comment to that amendment states the following [17 Cal. Law Revision Com. Rep at 936]]:

Under Section 583.340 the time within which an action must be brought to trial is tolled for the period of the excuse, regardless whether a reasonable time remained at the end of the period of the excuse to bring the action to trial. This overrules cases such as State of California v. Superior Court, 98 Cal. App.3d 643, 159 Cal. Rptr. 650 (1979) , and Brown v. Superior Court, 62 Cal. App.3d 197, 132 Cal. Rptr. 916 (1976) .

The courts of appeal are of three views on the effect of the amendment in light of the Comment [see De Santiago v. D & G Plumbing, Inc. (Fourth Dist., Div. Two 2007) 155 CA4th 365, 376, 65 CR3d 882 ]. Under one view, if the trial court concludes there was a period of impossibility, impracticability, or futility over which plaintiff had no control, it must toll the running of the five-year period for that amount of time, even if there is ample time after the tolling period for the plaintiff to bring the case to trial [ Brown & Bryant, Inc. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (Fifth Dist. 1994) 24 CA4th 247, 257, 29 CR2d 144 ; Rose v. Scott (First Dist., Div. Three 1991) 233 CA3d 537, 542, 284 CR 487 ]. Under this view, the plaintiff need not show that he or she would have brought the case to trial within the five-year period but for the period of impracticability [ New West Fed. Savings & Loan Assn. v. Superior Court (Fifth Dist. 1990) 223 CA3d 1145, 1155, 273 CR 37 ].

Strategic Point:

The requirement of the aforementioned view of impossibility, impracticability, or futility requires that the event causing the disability must have been beyond the control of the plaintiff, which may have a similar function as a requirement of reasonable diligence. However, it applies only to the event causing the period of impossibility, impracticability, or futility, and does not apply to the period after the end of that period. In that respect, it seems to follow the model of tolling of statutes of limitation. The remaining two views, in contrast, apply diligence to the period after the end of the period of impossibility, impracticability, or futility that remains in the original five-year period in which to bring the case to trial.

Other cases espouse the view that the plaintiff has a duty to use reasonable diligence in prosecuting his or her action in order to be entitled to the tolling for an event creating an impossibility, impracticability, or futility [see, e.g., Jordan v. Superstar Sandcars (Fourth Dist., Div. Two 2010) 182 CA4th 1416, 1420, 107 CR3d 5 (critical factor of due diligence increases as five-year deadline approaches); De Santiago v. D & G Plumbing, Inc. (Fourth Dist., Div. Two 2007) 155 CA4th 365, 65 CR3d 882 ; Tamburina v. Combined Ins. Co. of America (Third Dist. 2007) 147 CA4th 323, 336, 54 CR3d 175 (diligence is critical factor in applying exception); Moss v. Stockdale, Peckham & Werner (Second Dist.

1996) 47 CA4th 494, 502, 54 CR2d 805 (legal malpractice action); Lauriton v. Carnation Co. (Fifth Dist. 1989) 215 CA3d 161, 164, 263 CR 476 ]. Under this view, the exclusion of CCP § 583.340(c) does not apply when a plaintiff fails to take reasonable steps to expedite the proceedings in the remaining time in the original five-year period after the disability from the event ceases [see Schwenke v. J & P Scott, Inc. (1988) 205 CA3d 71, 79-80, 252 CR 91 ]. In determining whether the impracticability exception applies under this view, the court must find the following three factors [ Tamburina v. Combined Ins. Co. of America (Third Dist. 2007) 147 CA4th 323, 328, 54 CR3d 175 ]:

- A circumstance of impracticability.
- A causal connection between that circumstance and the plaintiff's failure to move the case to trial.
- The plaintiff was reasonably diligent in moving the case to trial.

Under what might be described as a third view [see De Santiago v. D & G Plumbing, Inc. (Fourth Dist., Div. Two 2007) 155 CA4th 365, 375, 65 CR3d 882 ], the plaintiff must show a causal connection between the circumstances on which plaintiff relies and the failure to satisfy the five-year requirement [ Sanchez v. City of Los Angeles (Second Dist., Div. Three 2003) 109 CA4th 1262, 1271, 135 CR2d 869 ; Sierra Nevada Mem'l-Miners Hosp., Inc. v. Superior Court (1990) 217 CA3d 464, 473, 266 CR 50 ]. Further, at least one case pursuing the causal connection also considered the notion of the plaintiff's control of the cause, but unlike the first view above, applied it to the period after the end of the event causing the impossibility, impracticability, or futility [see Sanchez v. City of Los Angeles (Second Dist., Div. Three 2003) 109 CA4th 1262, 1273, 135 CR2d 869 ]. The causal connection operates like the reasonable diligence requirement noted in the second view discussed above [see De Santiago v. D & G Plumbing, Inc. (Fourth Dist., Div. Two 2007) 155 CA4th 365, 375, 65 CR3d 882 ].

40.14[4] Submission to Arbitration. Submission of an action to judicial arbitration under CCP § 1141.10 et seq. suspends the running of the time periods specified in CCP § 583.110 et seq. if an action is or remains submitted to arbitration more than four years and six months after the plaintiff has filed the action [see CCP § 1141.17(a)]. The time beginning on the date four years and six months after the plaintiff has filed the action and ending on the date on which a request for a de novo trial is filed under CCP § 1141.20 is not included in computing the five-year period specified in CCP § 583.310 [CCP § 1141.17(b)].

Section 1141.17 is the exclusive ground for tolling based on the submission of a case to judicial arbitration [ Howard v. Thrifty Drug & Discount Stores (1995) 10 C4th 424, 434, 41 CR2d 362, 895 P2d 469 ]. There is no further tolling to prevent dismissal under CCP § 583.310 if a request for a trial de novo is filed, the court selects a trial date beyond the five-year statutory period taking into account the tolling under CCP § 1141.17(b), and plaintiff fails to object to the trial date and to inform the court of the statutory period. It is plaintiff's obligation to exercise reasonable diligence in calculating the mandatory dismissal date under CCP § 583.310 and to request a trial date within the statutory period [ Lee v. Park (1996) 43 CA4th 305, 308-309, 50 CR2d 511 ]. The plaintiff must inform the court of the impending five-year deadline at the time of or shortly after the request for trial de novo [ Howard v. Thrifty Drug & Discount Stores (1995) 10 C4th 424, 434-435, 41 CR2d 362, 895 P2d 469 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of tolling by judicial order for mediation of limitation on bringing action to trial, see 24.61.

40.14[5] Military Service of Party. Federal law may suspend statutory limitation periods during the time that a party is in active military service.

Example:

50 USC app § 525 tolls the time period for bringing an action to trial or retrial [ Buttler v. City of Los Angeles (1984) 153 CA3d 520, 524-525, 200 CR 372 (decided under prior law)].

40.14[6] Review of Determination of Good-Faith Settlement. When a trial court has determined that a plaintiff's settlement with a joint tortfeasor or co-obligor on a contract debt was made in good faith, the determination is subject to review by petition for writ of mandate, and the periods for bringing an action to trial are tolled during the period of the review [CCP § 877.6(e)(3)].

40.14[7] Extension After Statutory Tolling. If the time within which an action must be brought to trial or retrial under CCP § 583.310 et seq. is tolled or extended by statute and at the end of the tolling or extension period less than six months remain in the applicable time period, the action is not subject to mandatory dismissal under CCP § 583.310 et seq. if it is brought to trial or retrial within six months after the end of the tolling or extension period [CCP § 583.350].

40.15 Plaintiff May Move for Trial Preference.

As a means of expediting the trial when the time limit for bringing an action to trial is approaching, a plaintiff may move for trial preference [CCP § 36]. A court may grant a motion for trial preference in a civil case, on a showing of cause by the movant that satisfies the court that the interests of justice will be served by granting the preference [CCP § 36(e)]. The court, however, has discretion to grant or deny such a motion, even when it is made to avoid dismissal under CCP § 583.310 et seq., on an evaluation of the totality of the circumstances [ Salas v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1986) 42 C3d 342, 344-349, 228 CR 504, 721 P2d 590 ]. However, an order of dismissal has been upheld even though it was made before the mandatory expiration date, on the ground that the time remaining to bring the action to trial was grossly inadequate under the circumstances [ Massey v. Bank of America (1976) 56 CA3d 29, 33, 128 CR 144 (decided under prior law)].

40.16 Types of Defenses.

40.16[1] Waiver May Be Available. The requirements of CCP §§ 583.310-583.360 are mandatory and not subject to extension, excuse, or exception except as expressly provided by statute [CCP § 583.360(b)]. Thus, aside from the extensions under CCP §§ 583.330 (stipulation) and 583.350 (special extension after statutory tolling and exclusions from computation, there is generally no defense to a motion for mandatory dismissal under CCP § 583.360(a) other than that of waiver or estoppel [CCP § 583.140]. Nothing in CCP § 583.110 et seq. affects the principles of waiver [CCP § 583.140].

Examples Which Did Not Constitute Waiver:

- Mere presence at a trial setting conference at which the trial date is set beyond the time required for bringing an action to trial [ Central Mutual Ins. Co. v. Executive Motor Home Sales, Inc. (1983) 143 CA3d 791, 796, 192 CR 169 (decided under prior law); Singelyn v. Superior Court (1976) 62 CA3d 972, 974, 133 CR 486 (decided under prior law)].
- A request for a continuance made by the defendant after expiration of the applicable time period [ Balboa Ins. Co. v. Aguirre (1983) 149 CA3d 1002, 1008-1009, 197 CR 250 (decided under prior law)].

40.16[2] Estoppel.

40.16[2][a] Estoppel May Be Available. Nothing in CCP § 583.110 et seq. affects the principles of estoppel [CCP § 583.140; Greene v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1990) 224 CA3d 1583, 1590, 274 CR 736 ].

The doctrine of equitable estoppel is founded on concepts of equity and fair dealing. It provides that a person may not deny the existence of a state of facts if he or she intentionally led another to believe a particular circumstance and to rely on such belief to his or her detriment. The elements of the doctrine are as follows [ Greene v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1990) 224 CA3d 1583, 1590, 274 CR 736 (quoting Strong v. County of Santa Cruz (1975) 15 C3d 720, 725, 125 CR 896, 543 P2d 264 )]:

- The party to be estopped must be apprised of the facts and must intend that his or her conduct will be acted on, or must so act that the party asserting the estoppel has a right to believe it was so intended.
- The party must be ignorant of the true state of facts and must rely on the conduct to his or her injury.

Conduct of the defendant that reasonably induces the plaintiff to take no action to bring the action to trial within the time required may give rise to the defense of estoppel [ Borglund v. Bombardier, Ltd. (1981) 121 CA3d 276, 280-281, 175 CR 150 (decided under prior law)].

Examples of Conduct by the Defendant That May Give Rise to Estoppel:

- Submitting documents that indicate a willingness to proceed to a disposition on the merits [ City of Los Angeles v. Gleneagle Dev. Co. (1976) 62 CA3d 543, 562-564, 133 CR 212 ; Mustalo v. Mustalo (1974) 37 CA3d 580, 584-585, 112 CR 594 (decided under prior law)].
- Actively seeking a postponement [ Woley v. Turkus (1958) 51 C2d 402, 408-409, 334 P2d 12 (decided under prior law); Breacher v. Breacher (1983) 141 CA3d 89, 92-93, 190 CR 112 (decided under prior law)].

Examples of Conduct Not Giving Rise to Estoppel:

- A defendant's mere presence at a trial-setting conference at which the trial date is set beyond the time required for bringing an action to trial [ Central Mutual Ins. Co. v. Executive Motor Home Sales, Inc. (1983) 143 CA3d 791, 796, 192 CR 169 (decided under prior law); Singelyn v. Superior Court (1976) 62 CA3d 972, 974, 133 CR 486 (decided under prior law)].
- A defendant's request for a continuance made after expiration of the applicable time period [ Balboa Ins. Co. v. Aguirre (1983) 149 CA3d 1002, 1008-1009, 197 CR 250 (decided under prior law)].
- A defendant's agreement to trail a matter until after the expiration of the applicable time period, when plaintiff should have used due diligence in preventing the matter from being off calendar when the date expired [ Hoffman v. California (1985) 171 CA3d 1100, 1107-1108, 217 CR 867 (decided under prior law)].
- A defendant's failure to appear voluntarily for a deposition, combined with efforts to seek a continuance of an arbitration hearing and assurances by defendant that defendant will be available for such a hearing before the statutory period expires [ Tejada v. Blas (1987) 196 CA3d 1335, 1341-1342, 242 CR 53 ]].
- Plaintiff's assumption that defense counsel's declaration of unavailability until after the expiration of the five-year period meant that defendant would agree to an extension does not support equitable estoppel [ Jordan v. Superstar Sandcars (2010) 182 CA4th 1416, 1423, 107 CR3d 5] .

40.16[2][b] Estoppel Inapplicable If Plaintiff Causes Additional Delay. Facts that might otherwise give rise to a defense of estoppel may not prevent dismissal if there is additional delay after the period of postponement that can be attributed to plaintiff [ Andre v. Gen. Dynamics, Inc. (1974) 43 CA3d 839, 844, 118 CR 95 (decided under prior law); Smith v. El Centro Lodge (1969) 271 CA2d 713, 717-718 (decided under prior law)].

40.16[2][c] Estoppel May Be Used Against the Court. The conflicting interests of a trial court in expeditiously clearing its calendar of old cases and a plaintiff in having a full trial on the merits may result in a situation in which equitable estoppel may be applied against the court to prevent it from pursuing its interest to the detriment of the plaintiff [ Greene v. State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. (1990) 224 CA3d 1583, 1590, 274 CR 736 ].

40.16[3] Settlement Agreement May Be a Defense. The courts of appeal are in conflict as to whether another exception to mandatory dismissal exists when the parties have entered into a settlement agreement. Under one view, the settlement agreement renders the five-year statutory limitation legally irrelevant, since an action settled by agreement will not proceed to trial [ Gorman v. Holte (1985) 164 CA3d 984, 987-988, 211 CR 34 ]. At least one court of appeal taking this view has ruled that judgment does not have to be entered on the settlement agreement [ Brown & Bryant, Inc. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (Fifth Dist. 1994) 24 CA4th 247, 254-255, 29 CR2d 144 (unenforced settlement tolled five-year dismissal period)]. However, the contrary view holds that an action must be dismissed under the five-year rule, regardless of whether the parties had entered into a settlement agreement [ Varwig v. Leider (1985) 171 CA3d 312, 315-316, 217 CR 208 (decided under prior law)]. Varwig has been criticized as having the potential to prevent settlements on the eve of trial shortly before the five-year deadline or settlements that enable the defendant to avoid a court judgment [ Malouf Bros. v. Dixon (1991) 230 CA3d 280, 285, 281 CR 235 ]. One court noted that since Varwig the five-year statute has been amended to incorporate what had been simply a judicially created exception to the mandatory five-year dismissal. The computation of the five-year period now specifically excludes the time during which bringing the action to trial was impossible, impracticable, or futile. Thus, the time during which a settlement agreement is in effect tolls the five-year period because attempting to bring an action to trial when all issues have been resolved through settlement would be futile [ Canal Street, Ltd. v. Sorich (2000) 77 CA4th 602, 608-609, 91 CR2d 811 ]. Another court of appeals has read the First District's Varwig as simply requiring entry of judgment on the settlement agreement as a prerequisite for the settlement to preclude mandatory dismissal [ Brown & Bryant, Inc. v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. (Fifth Dist. 1994) 24 CA4th 247, 253, 29 CR2d 144 ].

Chapter 40 Dismissal for Delay in Bringing to Trial
III. DISCRETIONARY DISMISSAL FOR DELAY IN BRINGING TO TRIAL

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.20

40.20 Discretionary Dismissal Available for Two-Year Delay.

A trial court may, in its discretion, dismiss an action for delay in prosecution under the provisions of CCP §§ 583.410-583.430, either on its own motion or on the defendant's motion, if it appears appropriate to the court under the circumstances of the case [CCP § 583.410(a)]. The case must not have been brought to trial or "conditionally settled" within two years after it was commenced against the defendant [CCP § 583.420(a)(2); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1340(a)].

Example:

California's interest in assuring an adequate forum for a California plaintiff is not absolute, and can be overcome when the plaintiff is unreasonably dilatory in prosecuting the action in the convenient forum [ Van Keulen v. Cathay Pacific Airways, Ltd. (2008) 162 CA4th 122, 130, 75 CR3d 471 (plaintiff's lack of reasonable diligence lost California's interest in providing an adequate forum)].

A case is "conditionally settled" if both of the following are true [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1340(c)]:

- A settlement agreement conditions dismissal on satisfactory completion of specified terms not to be fully performed within two years after filing of the case.
- Notice of the settlement is filed with the court under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385.

The court has no discretion to dismiss under CCP §§ 583.410-583.430 for failure to bring to trial if the delay is for a period shorter than two years [ General Motors Corp. v. Superior Court (1966) 65 C2d 88, 98, 52 CR 460, 416 P2d 492 (decided under prior law); see Roman v. Usary Tire & Service Center (1994) 29 CA4th 1422, 1430-1431, 35 CR2d 329; but see Vernon v. Great W. Bank (1996) 51 CA4th 1007, 1011-1013, 59 CR2d 350 (order of dismissal with prejudice five months after mistrial proper, whether viewed as dismissal for failure to diligently prosecute, or as dismissal for failure to appear on day of trial under CCP § 581(b)(5), when there was a pattern of conduct showing a failure to prosecute diligently and a total disregard of the court's orders, including failing to appear on the date ordered for retrial knowing continuance had already been denied, but instead sending another attorney to make a special appearance to report that plaintiff's counsel was at that moment ready for another trial in another court)].

40.22 Discretionary Dismissal After Two Years for New Trial.

If a new trial has been granted, the court has discretion to dismiss the action if it is not brought again to trial within two years after one of the following [CCP § 583.420(a)(3)]:

- Entry of an order of the court declaring a mistrial or the disagreement of the jury if a trial is commenced but no judgment is entered because of a mistrial or because a jury is unable to reach a decision.
- Entry of an order granting a new trial if after judgment a new trial is granted and no appeal is taken.
- Filing of the remittitur by the clerk of the trial court if on appeal an order granting a new trial is affirmed or a judgment is reversed and the action is remanded for a new trial.

40.23 Court Must Consider All Relevant Matters in Making Its Decision.

In ruling on the motion, the court is required to consider all matters relevant to a proper determination of the motion, including [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(e)]:

- The court's file in the case.
- The affidavits and declarations and supporting data submitted by the parties.
- The extent to which the parties engaged in any settlement negotiations or discussions.
- The diligence of the parties in pursuing discovery or other pretrial proceedings, including any extraordinary relief sought by either party.
- The nature and complexity of the case.
- The law applicable to the case, including pendency of other litigation under a common set of facts or determinative of the legal or factual issues in the case.
- The nature of any extensions of time or other delay attributable to either party.
- The condition of the court's calendar and the availability of an earlier trial date if the matter was ready for trial.
- Whether the interests of justice are best served by dismissal or trial of the case.
- Any other fact or circumstance relevant to a fair determination of the issue.

40.24 Dismissal by Court Will Be Upheld Absent Miscarriage of Justice or Decision Exceeds the Bounds of Justice.

The discretion of the trial court is broad and will not be disturbed unless there has been a miscarriage of justice or the trial court exceeded the bounds of reason [ Luti v. Graco, Inc. (1985) 170 CA3d 228, 232, 215 CR 902 (decided under prior law); see Landry v. Berryessa Union Sch. Dist. (1995) 39 CA4th 691, 698, 46 CR2d 119 ].

The court's order will be deemed an abuse of the court's discretion if the record affirmatively shows the court failed to consider all relevant factors as required by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(e) [ Visco v. Abatti (1983) 144 CA3d 904, 907, 192 CR 833 (decided under prior law); Tannatt v. Joblin (1982) 130 CA3d 1063, 1066-1070, 182 CR 112 (decided under prior law)]. However, the court is presumed to have considered all relevant factors when ruling on a motion for discretionary dismissal, and need not recite the fact that it complied with this rule or enumerate the specific basis for its ruling in its order [ Wilson v. Sunshine Meat & Liquor Co. (1983) 34 C3d 554, 562-563, 194 CR 773, 669 P2d 9 (decided under prior law)].

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.26

40.26 Court Setting Case for Trial Does Not Preclude Motion for Dismissal.

When a trial court routinely sets a matter for trial, it does so without regard to a motion to dismiss for failure to prosecute. The issue of whether the criteria for dismissal is present is not before the court at that time unless it is expressly brought to the court's and counsel's attention. Although a trial court has power under CCP § 583.410 to dismiss on its own motion, the court need not exercise it at any particular time, nor is the court forced to address the issue at routine case management conferences. Thus, a trial court does not pass on those issues in a routine trial setting context, and when a trial date has been routinely set, the court is not prevented from subsequently ruling on a motion to dismiss and granting discretionary dismissal [ Lopez v. California (1996) 49 CA4th 1292, 1296-1297, 57 CR2d 266 ].

40.27 Party Seeking Dismissal Must Serve and File Motion 45 Days Before Hearing Generally.

A party seeking discretionary dismissal must generally serve and file a notice of motion at least 45 days before the date set for hearing of the motion. The moving party may serve and file an affidavit or declaration stating facts in support of the motion together with the supporting memorandum [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(a)]. A court may reduce the 45-day notice period, pursuant to CCP § 1005(b), which permits a court to prescribe a shortened notice period with respect to motions [see Kunzler v. Karde (1980) 109 CA3d 683, 688, 167 CR 425 (decided under prior law)].

3-40 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 40.28

40.28 If Court Seeks Dismissal, It Must Give 20 Days' Notice.

If the court seeks to dismiss an action sua sponte under CCP § 584.420(a)(2)(B), for failure to bring the action to trial or conditionally settle it within two years after commencement, the clerk must set a hearing on the dismissal and mail notice to all parties at least 20 days before the hearing date [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1340(b); Sakhai v. Zipora (2009) 180 CA4th 593, 598-600, 102 CR3d 691 (Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342 inapplicable to motion by court)].

The notice provision of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1340(b) does not appear to apply to court-originated discretionary dismissal motions other than those under CCP § 583.420(a)(2)(B). Thus, there is no express notice requirement for court-originated motions for discretionary dismissal for delay in bringing action to retrial under CCP § 583.420(a)(3).

40.30 Filing of Notice of Motion to Dismiss Does Not Preclude Efforts to Bring to Trial.

The filing of the notice of motion does not preclude the opposing party from further prosecution of the case to bring it to trial [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(a)]. In fact, the lengthy 45-day notice period of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(a), is intended to provide the plaintiff with ample time within which to complete any necessary preparation and move to set his or her case for trial, if so inclined. Thus, if plaintiff moves to set the case specially for trial and defendant then files a motion for discretionary dismissal, plaintiff cannot complain that he or she was prejudiced by the fact that the court shortened the notice period for the dismissal motion to hear the motions together [ Farrar v. McCormick (1972) 25 CA3d 701, 705, 102 CR 190 (decided under prior law)].

40.35A Plaintiff May Move for a New Trial.

The plaintiff may seek relief from judgment of dismissal for delay in bringing the case to trial by moving for a new trial in accordance with CCP § 659 if the plaintiff has grounds therefor [see Finnie v District No. 1--Pacific Coast Dist. etc. Ass'n (1992) 9 CA4th 1311, 1315-1317, 12 CR2d 348 (motion for new trial after mandatory dismissal under CCP § 583.320(a))].

40.36 Party May Appeal Dismissal Order.

A dismissal order is appealable [ Hydrotech Systems, Ltd. v. Oasis Waterpark (1991) 52 C3d 988, 993 n3, 277 CR 517, 803 P2d 370 ]. Counsel intending to seek review by appeal of the dismissal of an action should take care to perfect the appeal by obtaining an order of dismissal and judgment. A mere "notice of ruling" of dismissal is not appealable, and courts of appeal are increasingly reluctant to save erroneous appeals by permitting appellant to obtain an appealable order or judgment after the fact [ Shpiller v. Harry C's Redlands (1993) 13 CA4th 1177, 1180, 16 CR2d 814 ].

40.37 Party May Not Directly Appeal Denial of Dismissal.

A denial of a dismissal motion is not directly appealable. It may, however, be challenged either by a petition for a writ of mandate or on appeal from a final judgment [ Oskooi v. Fountain Valley Reg'l Hosp & Med. Ctr. (1996) 42 CA4th 233, 237, 49 CR2d 769 ]. If defendant does not exercise the option of seeking pretrial review by a writ of mandate, however, and waits to raise the issue on appeal after trial, the court may be not be inclined to disturb plaintiff's victory on the merits after the judicial resources have already been expended on the trial [see Reid v. Balter (1993) 14 CA4th 1186, 1195-1196, 18 CR2d 287 ].

40.38 Reviewing Court Will Not Overturn Dismissal on Appeal Unless Clear Case of Abuse Is Shown.

The reviewing court will not substitute its opinion for that of the trial court unless a clear case of abuse is shown and there has been a miscarriage of justice [ Blank v. Kirwan (1985) 39 C3d 311, 331, 216 CR 718, 703 P2d 58 ], the trial court is able to assess credibility and resolve any conflicts in the evidence, and its factual findings are entitled to great weight [see Shamblin v. Brattain (1988) 44 C3d 474, 479, 243 CR 902, 749 P2d 339 ]. However, a grant of dismissal is subject to closer appellate scrutiny, with doubts resolved in favor of the plaintiff, if the circumstances indicate a reasonable excuse for the delay and there is an absence of actual prejudice to the defendants [ City of Los Angeles v. Gleneagle Dev. Co. (1976) 62 CA3d 543, 561-563, 133 CR 212 (decided under prior law)].

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____

I, _____, declare:

1. I am _____ [declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for Defendant Mary Jones in the action described above].

2. _____ [State facts showing that the applicable discretionary period for bringing the action to trial has elapsed, even when taking into account any known stipulated extensions of time or time excluded from calculation, e.g., This action was commenced against defendant in the above-entitled court on January 2, 2001. This court lacked jurisdiction to proceed with this action from March 8, 2001, until November 8, 2001, pending plaintiff's appeal from the order of February 12, 2001, sustaining defendant's demurrer without leave to amend. The action was not brought to trial on or before August 3, 2003, a period of more than two years from the date that the action was commenced, excluding the period of time during which the court lacked jurisdiction over the action. No stipulation to continue this action beyond that time has been filed].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.
