17.10[3] Diversity Must Exist When the State Action Is Filed and When the Defendant Petitions for Removal. For a diversity case to be removed, diversity of citizenship must exist both when the action is filed in state court and at the time defendant petitions for removal [ Miller v. Grgurich (9th Cir 1985) 763 F2d 372, 373 ; Strasser v. KLM Royal Dutch Airlines (CD Cal 1986) 631 F Supp 1254, 1256 ].

Exception:

There is an important exception to this rule known as the "voluntary-involuntary" rule. This exception provides that federal jurisdiction still lies when dismissal of a nondiverse defendant results from plaintiff's voluntary act, even though diversity was lacking when the action was originally filed in state court [ Strasser v. KLM Royal Dutch Airlines (CD Cal 1986) 631 F Supp 1254, 1256 ; Schmidt v. Capitol Life Ins. Co. (ND Cal 1986) 626 F Supp 1315, 1318 ]. This exception is meant to prevent a situation where plaintiff files suit against a nondiverse defendant solely to defeat federal jurisdiction and then dismisses that defendant at a later time. An "involuntary" termination of the case against a defendant, such as a summary judgment over the plaintiff's objection does not qualify [ Strasser v. KLM Royal Dutch Airlines (CD Cal 1986) 631 F Supp 1254, 1256 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of diversity requirements, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.10; or
Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.14[2][d] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.10[4] Citizenship of Fictitious Defendant Is Irrelevant. For purposes of removal, the citizenship of "Doe" defendants sued under fictitious names is disregarded [28 USC § 1441(a)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of fictitious defendants, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.10[2][a]; or Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.14[2][c][iii] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.10[5] Fraudulent Joinder of Parties to Defeat Diversity May Preclude Removal. If a defendant raises a claim that plaintiff has "fraudulently" joined a defendant solely to defeat diversity of citizenship and preclude removal, the court may look beyond the pleadings to determine whether to disregard the joinder. If the court finds that no cause of action is stated against the nondiverse defendant or that no cause of action exists against that defendant, the district court may disregard the joinder and retain jurisdiction [ Morris v. Princess Cruises, Inc., (9th Cir 2001) 236 F3d 1061, 1067 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of fraudulent joinder, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil

Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.14[2][c][iv] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.10[6] Minimal Diversity Jurisdiction Is Basis for Removal. The Multiparty, Multiforum Trial Jurisdiction Act of 2002 provides special jurisdictional and procedural provisions for civil cases arising from accidents that result in at least 75 deaths [see 28 USC §§ 1369, 1391(g), 1441(e), (f), 1697, 1785; Pub L 107-273, § 11020 (effective Nov. 2, 2002)]. Under the modified requirements for diversity jurisdiction, the district courts have original jurisdiction of any civil action involving minimal diversity between adverse parties that arises from a single, sudden accident (including a natural event culminating in an accident), if at least 75 natural persons have died in the accident at a discrete location [see 28 USC § 1369(c)(4)], and if one of the following circumstances exists [28 USC § 1369(a)]:

- A defendant resides in one state and a substantial part of the accident took place in another state or other location, regardless of whether that defendant is also a resident of the state where a substantial part of the accident took place;
- Any two defendants reside in different states, regardless of whether those defendants are also residents of the same state or states; or
- Substantial parts of the accident took place in different states.

For purposes of these provisions, "minimal diversity" exists between adverse parties if any party is a citizen of one state and at least one adverse party is diverse [28 USC § 1369(c)(1)].

A minimal diversity action may be brought in any district in which any defendant resides or in which a substantial part of the accident giving rise to the action took place [28 USC § 1391(g)].

The district court in which the action is filed must promptly notify the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation of the pendency of the action [28 USC § 1369(e)].

Warning:

A district court must abstain from hearing a minimal diversity action if [28 USC § 1369(b)]:

- The substantial majority of all plaintiffs are citizens of a single state of which the primary defendants are also citizens; and
- The claims asserted will be governed primarily by the laws of that state.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of minimal diversity requirements, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.10[4]; or
Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.11[4] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.10[7] Class Actions With Diversity of Plaintiffs and Involving More Than $5,000,000 May Be Removable.

17.10[7][a] Removal Statute Authorizes Removal of All Class Actions, Regardless of Whether A Defendant Is Citizen of State in Which Action Is Brought. Under the main removal provision enacted by the federal Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 [Pub L 109-2], applicable to any action commenced on or after the date of its enactment, February 18, 2005 [119 Stat. 4, § 9 (2005)], a single defendant may remove any class action [28 USC § 1453(a); see 28 USC § 1332(d)(1)] from state court to federal court regardless of whether any defendant is a citizen of the state in which the action is brought [28 USC § 1453(b)]. General removal procedures [28 USC § 1446] apply except as provided [28 USC § 1453(b)].

Warning:

The scope of authorized removal of class actions is much broader than the actual diversity jurisdiction of federal courts to hear class actions. While this breadth ensures that a defendant can obtain a federal court ruling on its jurisdiction over a given class action, counsel for defendants should be careful that their justification for requesting removal is sufficiently valid under the jurisdiction provisions so as to avoid actions under federal law and rules.

Exceptions:

The provisions on removal of class actions do not apply to class actions concerning covered securities under the Securities Act and the Securities Exchange Act, state law on internal affairs or corporate governance of business enterprises, or rights, duties, or obligations regarding specified securities under the Securities Act [28 USC § 1453(d)].

Distinguish:

An action commences for purposes of the applicability of federal Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 when the original complaint is filed in state court, not when it is removed to federal court [ Bush v. Cheaptickets, Inc. (9th Cir 2005) 425 F3d 683, 685 ].

Cross Reference:

Detailed discussion, see Cabraser, California Class Actions Practice and Procedure, Ch. 11, Removal and Remand of Class Actions Filed in State Court (Matthew Bender).

17.10[7][b] Federal Courts Have Jurisdiction of Class Actions Involving A Minimum of Diversity and More Than $5,000,000. Under the Class Action Fairness Act of 2005, federal district courts have jurisdiction of class actions involving an aggregated amount in controversy by all class members [28 USC § 1332(d)(6)] of more than $5,000,000, excluding interest and costs, and a minimum level of diversity among the parties. The necessary diversity consists of [28 USC § 1332(d)(2)]:

- A class member who is a citizen of a different state than a defendant;
- A class members that is a foreign state or a citizen of a foreign state and a defendant is a citizen of a state; or
- A class member is a citizen of a state and a defendant is a foreign state or citizen of a foreign state.

Exceptions:

Federal district court jurisdiction of class actions is precluded against primary defendants that are a state, state officials, or other governmental entities [28 USC § 1332(d)(5)(A)], and class actions by a class of fewer than 100 members [28 USC § 1332(d)(5)(B)].

The provisions on removal of class actions also do not apply to class actions concerning covered securities under the Securities Act and the Securities Exchange Act, state law on internal affairs or corporate governance of business enterprises, or rights, duties, or obligations regarding specified securities under the Securities Act [28 USC § 1332(d)(9)].

Distinguish:

First, the class does not have to be certified before jurisdiction attaches to an action in state court [28

USC § 1332(d)(8)]. Second, the class member establishing diversity does not have to be a plaintiff under the definition of "class members" [see 28 USC § 1332(d)(1)(D)].

17.10[7][c] Federal Courts Have Jurisdiction of Mass Actions Constituting Class Actions. A "mass action" is removable as a class action if it otherwise meets the requirements for a class action. For these purposes, unless excluded by a statutory exception, a "mass action" is a civil action in which 100 or more persons claim at least $75,000 in damages in an action tried jointly because the claims all involve common question of law or fact [28 USC § 1332(d)(11)].

17.10[7][d] Federal Jurisdiction Is Excepted for Certain Cases Where Two-Thirds of Class Members and Certain Defendants Are In-State. A federal district court's jurisdiction over class actions does not extend to those in which all primary defendants and two-thirds or more of the class members are citizens of the state in which the action is filed [28 USC § 1332(d)(4)(B)]. In addition, it does not extend to cases in which more than two-thirds of the plaintiffs and one defendant from whom significant relief is sought and whose alleged conduct forms a significant basis for the class claims are citizen of the state in which the class action is filed, and in which no class action was filed during the preceding 3-year period on similar factual allegations against any of the defendants on behalf of the same or other persons [28 USC § 1332(d)(4)(A)].

17.10[7][e] Federal District Court Has Discretion to Decline Jurisdiction If More Than One-Third But Less Than Two-Thirds of Class Members and All Primary Defendants Are In-State. In class actions in which more than one-third but less than two-thirds of class members and all primary defendants are citizens of the state in which the action is filed, the federal district court has discretion to decline jurisdiction. The court must exercise its discretion in the interests of justice and in light of the totality of the circumstances, based on consideration of [28 USC § 1332(d)(3)]:

- Whether claims involve matters of national or interstate interest;
- Which state's law will govern;
- Whether the matter was pleaded to avoid federal jurisdiction;
- Whether the forum in which the action was brought has a distinct nexus with the class members, the harm, or the defendants;
- The proportion of class members in each state in which class members are citizens; and
- Whether other similar class actions have been filed in the past three years.

17.10[7][f] Determination of Citizenship of Class Members. The citizenship of members of proposed plaintiff classes is determined as of the date of the filing of the complaint or amended complaint. However, if federal jurisdiction attaches subsequent to initial pleadings, citizenship is determined on the date of service of an amended pleading or other paper indicating federal jurisdiction [28 USC § 1332(d)(7)].

Chapter 17 Removal to Federal Court
II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

1-17 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 17.11

17.11 Action May Be Removable Under Special Removal Statute.

17.11[1] Removal Available If Defendant Is United States or Its Agencies or Officers. Removal to federal court is available in civil actions brought against the United States or any of its agencies or any officer of the United States sued in either official or individual capacity for any act under color of office. Removal is also available in a civil action against a property holder whose title is derived from a federal officer. In the above cases, removal is available when the action affects the validity of a federal law, an officer of the federal judiciary, or a member of Congress [28 USC § 1442(a)].

Removal to federal court is also available in an action commenced in state court by an alien against a federal civil officer who is not a resident of that state where the state's jurisdiction was obtained by personal service [28 USC § 1442(b)].

► Cross Reference:

Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.15[1] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.11[2] Removal of Certain Civil Rights Actions Available. Removal is available of (1) actions in which the defendant is denied or cannot enforce his or her civil rights in the state court, or (2) actions in which the defendant is being sued for an act he or she committed under color of authority derived from a law providing for equal rights, or for refusing to do an act on the ground that it would be inconsistent with such law [28 USC § 1443].

Discussion of civil rights actions, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.13[3]; or Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.15[3] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.11[3] Removal Available if Defendant Is Foreign State. Removal to federal court is available in civil actions brought in a state court against a foreign state [28 USC § 1441(d)]. In multiple-defendant actions, a foreign state defendant may remove the entire action without the consent or joinder of other defendants [ Chuidian v. Philippine Nat'l Bank (9th Cir 1990) 912 F2d 1095, 1098-1099 ].

17.11[4] Removal Available in Foreclosure Actions Against the United States. A state court action brought against the United States seeking to quiet title to, foreclose a mortgage or other lien on, or partition or condemn real or personal property on which the United States claims a mortgage or other lien may be removed by the United States [28 USC § 1444; see 28 USC § 2410; *Hood v. 17.11[5] Involvement of Certain Federal Agencies Is Basis for Removal. Removal to federal court is available in actions involving specific federal agencies as provided by statute [see, e.g., 12 USC § 1441a(a)(1) (Resolution Trust Corporation); 12 USC § 1819(b)(2)(B) (Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation)].

17.11[6] Removal Available in Claims Related to Bankruptcy Cases. Any party to a state court claim or cause of action that falls within bankruptcy jurisdiction may remove that claim or cause of action, but not the entire civil action (unless the district court has independent jurisdiction over the other claims) to the district court where the related bankruptcy is pending [28 USC § 1452(a); see 28 USC § 1334(b)]. All civil proceedings arising under the Bankruptcy Code and all claims and causes of action arising in or related to such proceedings fall within bankruptcy jurisdiction [28 USC § 1334(b)].

Chapter 17 Removal to Federal Court
II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

17.12 When Federal Question Claim Is Joined With a State Claim, the Entire Case Is Removable.

A case is removable in its entirety when a separate and independent claim based on a federal question is joined with one or more otherwise non removable claims. The district court has the option of determining all the claims or remanding the state claims back to state court [28 USC §§ 1331,1441(c)].

Distinguish:

Conversely, a separate and independent claim based on diversity jurisdiction does not allow the entire action to be removed to federal court. The entire action must be "anchored" by a federal question claim rather than a diversity claim in order to be removable in its entirety [28 USC §§ 1331,1441(c)].

By definition, when an action is premised on a single wrong to the plaintiff arising from an interlocked series of transactions, there is no separate and independent claim under 28 USC § 1441(c) [ American Fire & Cas. Co. v. Finn (1951) 341 US 6, 13-14, 71 S Ct 534, 95 L Ed 702 ; Motor Vehicle Cas. Co. v. Russian River County Sanitation Dist. (ND Cal 1981) 538 F Supp 488, 494 ].

Examples:

A negligence claim against a driver and a bad faith claim against an insurer were considered separate and independent claims [ Boggs v. Lewis (9th Cir 1988) 863 F2d 662, 664-665 ]. Conversely, an appeal is not a separate and independent claim [ Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bayside Developers (9th Cir 1994) 43 F3d 1230, 1240 ].

II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

17.13 Party Must File Notice of Removal.

17.13[1] Party Must File Notice in District Court. The notice of removal must be filed in the district court of the United States for the district and division within which the action is pending [28 USC § 1446(a); Fed R Civ P 11].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of notice to district court, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.17, 3.19[1]; or

17.13[2] Notice Must Contain Statement of Grounds for Removal. The notice of removal must contain a short and plain statement of the grounds for removal, together with a copy of all process, pleadings, and orders served on the party in the action [28 USC § 1446(a)]. The party is not required to serve copies of discovery documents such as interrogatories and notices of deposition [ Visicorp v. Software Arts, Inc. (ND Cal 1983) 575 F Supp 1528, 1531 ].

Additional forms, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.34 -3.37.

17.13[3] Notice Must Be Filed Within 30 Days of Defendant Receiving Initial Pleading. The notice of removal must be filed within 30 days after the receipt by the defendant of a copy of the initial pleading setting forth plaintiff's claim for relief, or within 30 days after the service of summons on the defendant if that initial pleading has been filed in court and is not required to be served on defendant, whichever period is shorter [28 USC § 1446(b); see Blankenberg v. Commercial Ins. Co. of Newark, N.J. (ND Cal 1987) 655 F Supp 223, 225 ].

Exceptions:

- In some instances, the statute authorizing removal to federal court may specify its own time period for filing a notice of removal [see, e.g., 12 USC § 1441a(1)(3)(A); 12 USC § 1819(b)(2)(B)].
- When the fraudulence of a defendant's joinder makes that defendant irrelevant for purposes of determining diversity, then the date of service on that defendant does not commence the 30-day removal period [ United Computer Sys., Inc. v. AT&T Corp. (9th Cir 2002) 298 F3d 756, 762-763 ].
- In an action removed under 28 USC § 1441(e)(1) the notice of removal may also be filed before trial of the state court within 30 days after the defendant first becomes a party to a federal minimal diversity action under 28 USC § 1369 that arises from the same accident as the state court action, or at a later time with leave of the district court [28 USC § 1441(e)(1)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of timely notice, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.20; or Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.30[3][a] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.13[4] Removing Party Must Notify All Adverse Parties and File Copy of Notice With State Court. The defendant seeking removal must give written notice of the removal to all adverse parties and must file a copy of the notice of removal with the clerk of the state court. The state court clerk must then effect the removal and the state court must proceed no further in the case [28 USC § 1446(d)].

Trap:

Although the Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 did not amend 28 USC § 1446(d) to make clear that it is required, counsel for the defendant(s) removing a class action to federal court should assume that "adverse party" includes other defendants not consenting to the removal and give them the same notice as other adverse parties to eliminate any due process concerns with respect to the other defendants.

 Cross Reference:

Where there is more than one defendant, all defendants must file or join in a notice of removal [ Parker v. DOT, California Hwy. Patrol (ND Cal 1999) 1999 US Dist LEXIS 2260, at *4 ; Varney v. Johns-Manville Corp. (ND Cal 1987) 653 F Supp 839, 840 n1 ].

Exceptions:

A single defendant may remove any class action [see 28 USC § 1332(d)(1)] to federal court without the consent of any other defendant in the action [28 USC § 1453(b)]. The "rule of unanimity" does not apply to nominal, unknown or fraudulently joined parties [ Emrich v. Touche Ross & Co. (9th Cir 1988) 846 F2d 1190, 1193 n1 ].

Distinguish:

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals does not require a defendant who has not been served to join in removal [ Salveson v. Western States Bankcard Ass'n (9th Cir 1984) 731 F2d 1423, 1429 ].

17.15 Party May File Notice of Removal If Amended Pleading or Motion Renders Case Removable.

In some instances, a case may become removable by virtue of an amended pleading, motion, order, or other paper despite the fact that it was not removable based on the initial pleading. In this situation, a notice of removal may be filed within 30 days after receipt by the defendant, through service or otherwise, of a copy of the paper from which it was ascertained that the case was removable [28 USC § 1446(b); see Ruston v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (CD Cal 1985) 618 F Supp 210, 211 n1 ].

Warning:

A case removed on the basis of diversity jurisdiction pursuant to 28 USC § 1332 may not be removed more than one year after commencement of the action [28 USC §§ 1332, 1446(b)].

Exception:

The rule limiting removal to one year after commencement of the action does not apply to class actions [28 USC § 1453(b)].

Trap:

When there is more than one defendant, and the defendants receive notice of the removability of the case at different times, the 30-day filing requirement of 28 USC § 1446(b) begins when the first defendant receives notice that the case has become removable [ *Varney v. 17.17 Plaintiff May Waive Objection to Notice of Removal by Appearing in District Court.

A plaintiff who appears repeatedly in the district court before raising an objection to the timeliness of defendant's notice of removal waives the right to object on that ground [ Meadows v. Bicrodyne Corp. (9th Cir 1986) 785 F2d 670, 672 ].

Chapter 17 Removal to Federal Court
II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

17.18 Removal Provides District Court With Immediate Jurisdiction.

17.18[1] Filing of Notice of Removal and Notice to Adverse Parties Effects Removal. The filing of the notice of the removal with the district court, along with the filing of the copy of the notice with the state court and the provision of written notice to adverse parties effects removal to the federal district court immediately [28 USC § 1446(d)].

► Cross References:

Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.21; or Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.31 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.18[2] District Court May Determine Whether It Has Jurisdiction After Removal Is Effected. The district court has the power to determine whether federal jurisdiction is properly invoked [ Schroeder v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir 1983) 702 F2d 189, 191 ]. In making this determination, the district court may consider the pleadings at the time of removal, a plaintiff's subsequent attempt to amend the complaint, the notice of removal, and supporting affidavits [ Bright v. Bechtel Petroleum, Inc. (9th Cir 1986) 780 F2d 766, 769, 769 n3 ; Schroeder v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir 1983) 702 F2d 189, 191 ; Green v. Mutual of Omaha (ND Cal 1982) 550 F Supp 815, 818 ].

The party seeking removal has the burden of establishing federal jurisdiction [ Sullivan v. FirstAffiliated Sec., Inc. (9th Cir 1987) 813 F2d 1368, 1371 ].

17.18[3] Changes in Case Ordinarily Do Not Defeat Federal Jurisdiction. Changes occurring subsequent to removal ordinarily do not defeat federal jurisdiction. For example, changes in citizenship, parties, the amount involved, or the cause of action pleaded will not defeat federal jurisdiction [ Lopez v. General Motors Corp. (9th Cir 1983) 697 F2d 1328, 1332 ].

Exception:

When an indispensable party is joined and that party destroys diversity of citizenship, the case may be remanded back to state court [ Takeda v. N.W. Nat'l Life Ins. Co. (9th Cir 1985) 765 F2d 815, 819-821 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion, see 17.24 -17.33.

17.18[4] Federal Court May Exercise Supplemental Jurisdiction to Hear State Law Claims. After removal, the federal district court may hear the entire case, including state law claims sharing a common nucleus of operative facts with the federal law claims. The federal court exercises what is known as supplemental jurisdiction over the state law claims [28 USC § 1367].

The federal court's supplemental jurisdiction is discretionary, and the federal court may decline to exercise it if the court determines that the state law claims properly belong in state court. In such a situation, the federal court will either dismiss the state law claims without prejudice or remand the state law claims back to state court [ Carnegie-Mellon Univ. v. Cohill (1988) 484 US 343, 350-351, 357, 108 S Ct 614, 98 L Ed2d 720 ; Milt v. Oakland Hous. Auth. (ND Cal 2002) 2002 US Dist LEXIS 2581, at *3 ].

17.18[5] Federal Rules of Civil Procedure Apply to Removed Action. Following removal, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure apply to the action [Fed R Civ P 81(c)].

17.18[6] Federal Court May Issue Orders and Process. Following removal, the federal district court may issue all necessary orders and process in order to bring all proper parties to the case, including completing incomplete process or issuing new process if prior process or service was defective or incomplete [28 USC §§ 1447(a), 1448]. The court may also require the party seeking removal to file in the federal court copies of all records and proceedings in the state court [28 USC § 1447(b)].

Chapter 17 Removal to Federal Court
II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

17.19 Removal Terminates State Court's Jurisdiction.

After removal is effected, the federal court has exclusive jurisdiction of the matter and the state court may not resume jurisdiction unless the federal court remands the case back to state court. If the federal court dismisses the action, the state court may not resume jurisdiction [ Sugimoto v. Exportadorade Sal, S.A. de C.V. (1991) 233 CA3d 165, 168-169, 284 CR 275 ; Allstate Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 132 CA3d 670, 674-676, 183 CR 330 ; see 28 USC § 1446(d)].

Warning:

A plaintiff may not attempt to circumvent the federal court's jurisdiction by re-filing a second state law action alleging the same claims as a federal law action after an unsuccessful attempt to remand a case back to state court [see Takeda v. N.W. Nat'l Life Ins. Co. (9th Cir 1985) 765 F2d 815, 817-818 ].

II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

17.20 Federal Court Takes Removed Case As It Finds It.

After removal, everything that transpired in the case prior to removal is treated as though it occurred in federal court [ Butner v. Neustadter (9th Cir 1963) 324 F2d 783, 785 ; Sun Forest Corp. v. Shvili (SDNY 2001) 152 F Supp2d 367, 387 ; Salveson v. Western States Bankcard Ass'n (ND Cal 1981) 525 F Supp 566, 578 , aff'd in part, 731 F2d 1423 (9th Cir 1984) ; see Fed R Civ P 81(c)].

Examples:

- A default judgment entered in state court must be regarded by the federal court as valid until the federal court sets it aside [ Butner v. Neustadter (9th Cir 1963) 324 F2d 783, 785-786 ].
- All bonds, undertakings, or securities given by a party prior to removal remain valid and effectual following removal [28 USC § 1450].
- All injunctions and orders had in the action prior to removal remain in full force and effect after removal [28 USC § 1450].

II. REMOVING ACTION TO FEDERAL COURT

1-17 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 17.21

17.21 Court Has Several Options When Plaintiff Joins New Defendant After Removal.

Plaintiff must obtain leave of the court or written consent of the defendant before joining an additional defendant subsequent to removal [ Desert Empire Bank v. Insurance Co. of N. Am. (9th Cir 1980) 623 F2d 1371, 1374-1375 ; see Fed R Civ P 15, 20]. If plaintiff seeks to join a necessary, non-diverse party after an action requiring complete diversity has been removed, the federal district court has the following three options [28 USC § 1447(e); Fed R Civ P 19; Yniques v. Cabral (9th Cir 1993) 985 F2d 1031, 1034-1035 ]:

- The court may deem the party indispensable and dismiss the case.
- The court may deem the party not indispensable and continue its jurisdiction over the case without joinder.
- The court may allow the joinder and remand the case back to state court due to the destruction of diversity.

A defendant who did not answer the complaint or cross-complaint prior to removal of the action must do so within the longest of [Fed R Civ P 81(c)]:

- Twenty days after the receipt through service or otherwise of a copy of the initial pleading;
- Twenty days after the service of summons on the initial pleading, then filed; or

17.23 Party May Demand Jury Trial After Removal.

If the party demanding a jury trial is the defendant, he or she must demand a jury trial within 10 days after the notice of removal is filed. If the party demanding a jury trial is not the defendant, the demand must be served within 10 days after service on the party of the notice of filing the notice of removal [Fed R Civ P 81(c)]. If the party made a demand for a jury trial prior to removal, he or she need not make a demand after removal. If the applicable state law does not require a demand for jury trial, the parties need not make a demand for jury trial unless the district court directs that they do so [Fed R Civ P 81(c)].

17.24[1] Checklist for Party Making Motion to Remand.

☐ Determine if there are grounds for making motion to remand:

☐ Federal district court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

☐ Defect in removal procedure.

Authority:

28 USC § 1447(c)

Discussion:

See 17.26[1], [2]

Determine timing for motion to remand:

☐ Motion to remand on basis other than lack of subject matter jurisdiction must be made within 30 days of filing of notice of removal.

Authority:

28 USC § 1447(c)

Discussion:

See 17.27[2]

☐ Remand on basis of lack of subject matter jurisdiction may be made at any time before final judgment.

Authority:

28 USC § 1447(c)

Discussion:

See 17.26[1]

- ☐ Prepare, file, and serve notice of motion and memorandum of points and authorities in support of motion to remand.

Authority:

28 USC § 1447(c); Fed R Civ P 5, 7(b), 11

Chapter 17 Removal to Federal Court

III. MOVING TO REMAND ACTION AND SEEKING APPELLATE REVIEW OF REMOVAL

17.25 Options and Strategies for Party Moving to Remand and Seeking Appellate Review of Removal.

It is generally more expensive to litigate in the federal courts and an action of de minimis value is probably better off in state court. If the matter has been removed on the basis of diversity jurisdiction and the plaintiff genuinely believes that the amount in controversy is less than $75,000, the plaintiff should consider stipulating that recovery in excess of that amount will not be sought.

The federal court rules and procedures are generally viewed to be more favorable to defendants. Many plaintiffs with legitimate grounds will move for remand. However, this view is not universally held, and may not be accurate for certain kinds of cases.

The parties should carefully consider any circumstances in which there is a potential that the action may proceed in part in state court and in part in the federal court due to lack of diversity and only partial subject matter jurisdiction in the federal court. If the federal court declines to exercise its jurisdiction over the remainder of the claims, the parties must evaluate whether (1) it is rational to litigate in both forums simultaneously; (2) one of the actions should be stayed; or (3) there should be a stipulation to remand the entire action to the state court in order to allow all of the proceedings to remain in the same forum.

17.26 Grounds for Remand.

17.26[1] Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction Is Basis for Remand. If it appears, at any time before the final judgment, that the district court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, the case will be remanded back to state court [28 USC § 1447(c)].

► Cross Reference:

Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.41[1][c][i] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.26[2] Defect in Removal Procedure Is Basis for Remand. A case may also be remanded back to state court due to a defect in the removal procedure [28 USC § 1447(c)].

Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.41[1][c][ii] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.26[3] Federal Court May Not Remand for Discretionary Reasons. A district court may not remand a properly removed action for discretionary reasons; for example, because the federal docket is too crowded [ Thermtron Prods., Inc. v. Hermansdorfer (1976) 423 US 336, 344-345, 96 S Ct 584, 46 L Ed2d 542 ].

1-17 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 17.27

17.27 Party May Challenge Removal by Making Motion to Remand.

17.27[1] Any Party May Move for Remand. Generally, the party who brought the action in state court will be the one moving for remand. However, the party who filed the notice of removal may also move for remand [ American Fire & Cas. Co. v. Finn (1951) 341 US 6, 17-18, 71 S Ct 534, 95 L Ed 702 ].

Warning:

The Ninth Circuit has held that a plaintiff's failure to contest facts alleged on removal constitutes an admission of those facts and bars the plaintiff from challenging removal on appeal on the basis of those facts [ Schnabel v. Lui (9th Cir 2002) 302 F3d 1023, 1031-1032 ].

17.27[2] Motion to Remand Must Generally Be Made Within 30 Days of Filing Notice of Removal. A motion to remand made on any other basis except subject matter jurisdiction must be made within 30 days of the filing of the notice of removal in federal court [28 USC § 1447(c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of timeliness of motion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.27; or
Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.41[1][d] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.27[3] District Court May Remand Action on its Own Motion. A federal district court has an immediate and continuing duty to remand an action on its own motion when it does not have jurisdiction over the action [28 USC § 1447(c); Strasser v. KLM Royal Dutch Airlines (CD Cal 1986) 631 F Supp 1254, 1258 ].

A district court may also remand a case on the basis of a procedural defect, but may not do so after the 30-day period to remand based on procedural grounds has expired [ Maniar v. F.D.I.C. (9th Cir 1992) 979 F2d 782, 785-786 , but see Page v. City of Southfield (6th Cir 1995) 45 F3d 128, 132-134 (recognizing circuit court split)].

1-17 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 17.29

17.29 Court May Award Remanding Party Costs and Attorney's Fees Incurred Due to Removal.

Upon remand, the federal district court has discretion to award costs and any actual expenses, including attorney's fees, incurred by plaintiff as a result of removal [28 USC § 1447(c)]. The court has discretion as to whether to award attorney's fees, and a finding of bad faith is not required [ Moore v. Permanente Med. Group, Inc. (9th Cir 1992) 981 F2d 443, 446, 448 ].

The standard for reviewing an award of attorney's fees on appeal is whether the district court abused its discretion [ Moore v. Permanente Med. Group, Inc. (9th Cir 1992) 981 F2d 443, 447 ].

17.30[1] Order Is Reviewable by Interlocutory Appeal or Appeal From Final Judgment. A district court's order denying a motion to remand is reviewable either by an interlocutory appeal of the order or by an appeal after the final judgment [see, e.g., 28 USC § 1292; O'Halloran v. University of Washington (9th Cir 1988) 856 F2d 1375, 1378-1379 ; Sullivan v. First Affiliated Sec., Inc. (9th Cir 1987) 813 F2d 1368, 1371 (interlocutory appeal); Carpenters S. Cal. Admin. Corp. v. Majestic Hous. (9th Cir 1984) 743 F2d 1341, 1343 (review after summary judgment); Salveson v. WesternStates Bankcard Ass'n (9th Cir 1984) 731 F2d 1423, 1426 (review after dismissal)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of appellate review, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: Federal Pretrial Civil Procedure in California, 3.33; or Moore's Federal Practice, § 107.44 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

17.30[2] Appellate Court Will Review Whether Removal Was Proper. On appeal, the standard of review for an order denying remand is whether removal was proper in the first place. The court is to strictly construe the removal statute against removal jurisdiction [ Clinton v. Acequia, Inc. (9th Cir 1996) 94 F3d 568, 573 ; Takeda v. Northwestern Nat'l Life Ins. Co., (9th Cir 1985) 765 F2d 815, 818 ; Salveson v. Western States Bankcard Asso. (9th Cir 1984) 731 F2d 1423, 1426 ].

III. MOVING TO REMAND ACTION AND SEEKING APPELLATE REVIEW OF REMOVAL

17.31 District Court Order Remanding Action Is Generally Not Reviewable.

An order remanding an action based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction or a defect in the removal procedure is not reviewable on appeal or otherwise [28 USC § 1447(d); see Powerex Corp. v. Reliant Energy Servs., Inc. (2007) ____ US ____, 127 S Ct 2411, 168 L Ed 2d 112, 121, 2007 US LEXIS 7898 at 16] .

Exceptions:

Remand orders based on grounds other than lack of subject matter jurisdiction or a defect in the removal procedure maybe reviewable by appeal. For example:

- Actions removed pursuant to 28 USC § 1443 (civil rights cases) are reviewable by appeal or otherwise [28 USC § 1447(d)];
- A remand based on the overcrowded federal dockets was reviewable by appeal [ Thermtron Prods., Inc. v. Hermansdorfer (1976) 423 US 336, 344-345, 96 S Ct 584, 46 L Ed2d 542 ]; or
- Review is possible when a district court reaches the merits of the case in ruling on a motion to remand [see, e.g., Pelleport Investors, Inc. v. Budco Quality Theatres (9th Cir 1984) 741 F2d 273, 276-277 (remand based on forum selection clause)].

If an order granting remand is reviewable, the standard of review on appeal is whether the district court's order was erroneous as a matter of law [ Survival Sys. Division of Whittaker Corp. v. U.S. Dist. Court (9th Cir 1987) 825 F2d 1416, 1419 n2 ].

17.31A Interlocutory Review of Grant or Denial of Remand of Class Action.

While 28 USC § 1447 applies generally to removal of a class action to federal court, the federal court of appeals may accept the interlocutory appeal of a district court order granting or denying a motion to remand a class action. The application for appeal must be filed within 7 days after entry of the order [28 USC § 1453(c)(1)]. The appeals court must decide the appeal within 60 days [28 USC § 1453(c)(2)] unless extension of that time is granted by the parties or, for up to 10 days, on good cause shown [28 USC § 1453(c)(3)]. The appeal is automatically denied if the court does not decide it within the time allowed [28 USC § 1453(c)(4)].

17.33 Defendant Has 30 Days to File a Response on Remand.

If the case is remanded for improper removal and the defendant has not generally appeared in either the state or federal court and the original court has not already ruled on a similar motion, the defendant may within 30 days [CCP § 430.90(a)(1)]:

- Move to dismiss the action pursuant to CCP § 583.250; or
- Move to quash service of summons or to stay or dismiss the action pursuant to CCP § 418.10.

If the defendant has not filed an answer in the state court, the defendant may within 30 days [CCP § 430.90(a)(2)]:

- Answer the complaint; or
- Demur or move to strike all or a portion of the complaint if:
  - ☐ An answer was not filed in the federal court; and
  - ☐ A demurrer or motion to strike raising similar issues was not filed and ruled on in either the original court prior to removal or the federal court prior to remand.

The 30-day period is calculated from the date the state court receives the order of remand [CCP § 430.90(b)].

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
I. STRATEGY

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.01

8.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Objectives and strategy for service of a summons [see 8.02].
- Drafting a summons [see 8.03 -8.06; Forms: see 8.43, 8.44].
- Serving a summons [see 8.07 -8.35; Forms: see 8.45 -8.51].
- Electronic filing and service of summons [see 8.09].
- Selecting the person to serve the summons [see 8.13].
- Permissible methods for serving a summons, and when those methods can be used [see 8.14 -8.17].
- Serving a person in a foreign country [see 8.16].
- Serving particular types of defendants [see 8.18 -8.34].
- Return of summons and proof of service [see 8.36, 8.37; Forms: see 8.45, 8.46].
- Responding to service of a summons [see 8.38 -8.42].
- Failure of service of summons [Form: see 8.52].

Core Statutes:

CCP §§ 412.10-418.11

Service of summons within California is generally governed by CCP §§ 413.10-417.40 [CCP § 413.10(a)]. The prefatory phrase of CCP § 413.10, stating that these sections apply "except as otherwise provided by statute," suggests that the methods of service set forth in CCP § 413.10 may be used in all civil actions, even when another statute prescribes a special method of service, unless the other statute expressly prohibits use of the methods set forth in the general statutes or conditions their use on court approval. In any case, many or most of the specialized service statutes [see 8.18 -8.35] expressly validate service under CCP §§ 413.10-417.40.

Service of summons outside of California, but within the United States, also is generally governed by CCP §§ 413.10-417.40, or as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served [CCP § 413.10(b)].

Service of summons outside the United States also is generally governed by CCP §§ 413.10-417.40, or as directed by the court in which the action is pending, or if reasonably calculated to give actual notice, as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served or as directed by the foreign authority. The rules for service of process outside the United States are subject to the provisions of the Hague Service Convention [CCP § 413.10(c); see also 20 UST 361; TIAS 6638 (Hague Convention)]. For discussion, see 8.16.

Various other specialized statutes govern service on specific types of defendants, or in specific situations. For discussion, see 8.18 -8.35.

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
I. STRATEGY

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.02

8.02 Objective and Strategy.

A summons is a form of written notice, typically served with the complaint. Service of a summons is the usual manner by which a court acquires jurisdiction over the person of a defendant and over the subject of an action [see CCP § 410.50; MJS Enters., Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 153 CA3d 555, 557, 200 CR 286 ]. Properly served, the summons fulfills procedural due process requirements, affording the defendant reasonable notice of a claim and an opportunity to be heard [see US Const, amend XIV, § 1; Dresser v. Superior Court (1968) 231 CA2d 68, 76, 41 CR 473 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

It may not always be possible to have a summons issued at the same time the complaint is filed (e.g., because a guardian ad litem has not been appointed for a minor plaintiff). To protect the statute of limitations, consider filing the complaint even though the summons is not issuable.

Warning:

A defendant's knowledge of the existence of a lawsuit does not obviate the need for the plaintiff to properly serve the defendant with summons and complaint in the matter [ Honda Motor Co., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1992) 10 CA4th 1043, 1049, 12 CR2d 861 ].

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
II. DRAFTING A SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.03

8.03 CHECKLIST: Drafting Summons.

☐ Determine whether a Judicial Council Form summons would be applicable (and consequently mandatory) for use in the case:

☐ Summons for General Use (Judicial Council Form SUM-100).

Form:

☐ Summons--Joint Debtor (Judicial Council Form SUM-120).

☐ Summons--Unlawful Detainer--Eviction (Judicial Council Form SUM-130).

☐ Summons--Storage Lien Enforcement (Judicial Council Form SUM-140).

☐ Summons--Enforcement of State Housing Law (Judicial Council Form SUM-145).

☐ Summons--Family Law (Judicial Council Form FL-110).

☐ Joinder (family law proceeding) (Judicial Council Form FL-375).

 Cross Reference:

Summons for serving cross-complaint, see Ch. 16, Cross-Complaints, 16.13, 16.19

☐ Summons must be directed to the defendant.

☐ Summons must be signed by court clerk or judge and issued under the seal of the court in which the action is pending.

Authority:

CCP § 412.20(a); see also CCP § 153(b) (seal)

Discussion:

See 8.04, 8.43 Notes

☐ Fill out summons form, including:

☐ Names of all defendants (including fictitiously named defendants), exactly as they appear in the caption of the complaint.

☐ If there is not enough room on summons to list all the parties, use Judicial Council Form SUM-200(A), Additional Party Attachment Form.

Form:

See 8.44

☐ Title and number of case, which must be inserted after the case is filed.

☐ Title and address of court.

☐ Name, address, and telephone number of plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney.

☐ Face of summons must set forth the capacity or capacities in which defendant is served.

Authority:

CCP §§ 412.20(a)(1), (2), 413.10-416.90

Discussion:

See 8.05, 8.43 Notes

Form:

See 8.43

☐ Determine whether summons should include request for restraining order:

☐ In action for marital dissolution, legal separation, annulment, or to restrain domestic violence.

Authority:

Fam Code §§ 231-235, 2040, 7700

 Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure;
Ch. 293, Harassment and Domestic Violence (Matthew Bender).

- ☐ In actions under the Uniform Parentage Act [see Fam Code §§ 7600-7730].

Authority:

Fam Code § 7700

Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 412, Paternity (Matthew Bender).

- ☐ Determine number of original summons to file with court (normally one original for each defendant named in the action).

Authority:

See CCP § 412.10

Discussion:

See 8.06

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
II. DRAFTING A SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.04

8.04 Judicial Council Summons Forms Mandatory When Applicable.

Use of Judicial Council Form SUM-100, or one of the other summons forms adopted by the Judicial Council [see 8.03], when applicable, is mandatory [CCP § 412.20; Gov Code § 68511; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31].

➡ Cross Reference:

Form of summons (Judicial Council Form SUM-100), see 8.43.

The other summons forms are:

- Summons (Cross-Complaint), used for filing cross-complaint [Judicial Council Form SUM-110; see 16.19].
- Summons (Joint Debtor), used for enforcing a judgment against a joint debtor who was not a party to the action underlying the judgment [Judicial Council Form SUM-120; see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer; California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 254, Executions and Enforcement of Judgments, § 254.340 et seq. (Matthew Bender)].
- Summons--Unlawful Detainer--Eviction, used in unlawful detainer proceedings [Judicial Council Form SUM-130; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 333, Landlord and Tenant: Eviction Actions (Matthew Bender)].
- Summons--Storage Lien Enforcement, used in proceedings to enforce a storage lien [Judicial Council Form SUM-140; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 517, Self-Service Storage Facilities (Matthew Bender)].
- Summons (Enforcement of State Housing Law), used for actions enforcing state housing law [Judicial Council Form SUM-145; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 579, Zoning and Planning, 579.130 et seq. (Matthew Bender)].
- Summons (Family Law), used in proceedings for dissolution of marriage, nullity of marriage, or separation, and in proceedings under the Uniform Parentage Act [Judicial Council Form FL-110; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure (Matthew Bender)].

■ Summons (Joinder), used to bring a third party into a family law proceeding [Judicial Council Form FL-375; see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure (Matthew Bender)].

If there is not enough room on the form to list all parties in the action, use an Additional Parties Attachment to Summons Form, Judicial Council Form 982(a)(9)(A).

Cross Reference:

Additional parties attachment to summons form (Judicial Council Form SUM-200(A)), see 8.44.

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
II. DRAFTING A SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.05

8.05 Information Required in Judicial Council Form Summons.

8.05[1] Names of All Parties. The summons must contain the names of the parties to the action [CCP § 412.20(a)(2)]. Each plaintiff and defendant, including fictitiously named defendants [see CCP § 474], must be named in the title of the case.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

A default or default judgment cannot be taken against a person served as a fictitiously named defendant unless notice of such service appears on the face of the summons [CCP § 474].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the service of fictitiously named defendants, see 8.35.

8.05[2] Title and Case Number, If Available. The title and case number must be inserted in the appropriate box of the Judicial Council Form when assigned on filing of the complaint and issuance of the summons.

8.05[3] Title and Address of Court. The title of the court in which the action is filed must be included on the summons, along with the post office and street address of the court or branch of the court [CCP § 412.20(a)(1)].

8.05[4] Directions, Legends, and Warnings. The Judicial Council summons form provides notice to a defendant that "YOU ARE BEING SUED" by the plaintiff, and a warning that a response is required within 30 days of the service of summons. The form advises the defendant that he or she may seek legal counsel. The directions, legends, and warnings are in English and Spanish [CCP § 412.20(a), (b)].

8.05[5] Name of Plaintiff or Plaintiff's Attorney. The summons must include the name, address, and telephone number of plaintiff's attorney, or plaintiff's name and address, if the plaintiff has no attorney.

8.05[6] Capacity or Capacities of Defendant. The summons must state the capacity or capacities in which the defendant is served [CCP §§ 413.10-416.90].

Warning:

If notice of capacity does not appear on the copy of the summons with which a defendant is served, no default may be taken against the person individually or in its representative capacity [CCP § 412.30].

If a defendant is served in more than one capacity, the notice on the face of the summons must indicate that service is being made in more than one capacity. Absent such notice, a default judgment may not be taken [CCP § 412.20] and service is ineffective [ Tresway Aero, Inc. v. Superior Court (1971) 5 C3d 431, 435, 96 CR 571, 487 P2d 1211 ; Schering Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 52 CA3d 737, 741-742, 125 CR 337 ].

Warning:

A process server's oral statements to the person served of any fact omitted from the face of the summons do not cure the absence of the required notice on the face of the summons [ Schering Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 52 CA3d 737, 741, 125 CR 337 ].

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.07

8.07 CHECKLIST: Serving Summons

Timing: Review applicable local court rules regarding timing and procedure for service of process.

Review and calendar time limits for service of summons:

Warning:

The act of filing the complaint causes the time limits for service of process to begin to run [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(a)]. Penalties for failure to serve the summons within applicable time periods can include sanctions [see Gov Code § 68608(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(f)], and in extreme cases even dismissal of the action [see CCP § 583.150; see also 8.08[1][a], [2], [3]]. Service of process can take time, especially when out of state defendants are involved or substituted service must be made. Attorneys who wait until the last minute run the risk of incurring sanctions or, worse, committing legal malpractice. It is essential to review the applicable time limits at the outset and calendar them so that they are not inadvertently missed.

60-day filing period under trial court delay reduction rules.

Warning:

The 60-day period includes return of service as well as service itself [see 8.36[1]]. Time for return of proof of service must be included in calculating the 60-day period.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110

Discussion:

See 8.08[1][a]

- ☐ Any longer periods or exceptions to 60-day rule may be available by local court rule.

Authority:Gov Code § 68616(a)Discussion:

See 8.08[1][b]

- ☐ Two-year period for discretionary dismissal for delay in prosecution.

Authority:CCP § 583.410Discussion:

See 8.08[2]

- ☐ Three-year mandatory limit for service.

Authority:CCP § 583.210(a)Discussion:

See 8.08[3]

- ☐ File summons with clerk of court.

- ☐ Pay fees.

- ☐ Have clerk of court sign and issue summons and provide copy to serve on defendant.

Authority:CCP §§ 412.10, 412.20(a)Discussion:

See 8.09

- ☐ Review local rules to determine whether electronic filing and service of summons are permitted; if so, local procedure may be utilized [see CCP § 1010.6; Cal Rules of Ct, Rules 2.255 et seq., 2.500 et seq.].

- ☐ An amended summons may be issued when a complaint is amended before service, or when a new party defendant is added.

Authority:CCP § 412.10*

☐ Determine where defendant is located.

☐ Addresses:

☐ Residence address.

☐ Place of employment or business address.

☐ For business entities, location of main office and any California offices.

☐ Jurisdiction:

☐ Within California.

☐ Outside California, but within United States.

☐ Outside United States.

Authority:

CCP §§ 413.10-417.40; see also Hague Service Convention, 20 UST 361, TIAS 6638

Discussion:

See 8.11, 8.14, 8.16

☐ Verify that defendant is not immune from service of process.

Discussion:

See 8.12

☐ Determine who will serve summons, and confirm that the person is legally and professionally qualified.

Authority:

CCP § 414.10; B&P Code §§ 22350-22360; Gov Code § 26665

Discussion:

See 8.13

☐ Determine manner of service:

☐ Personal service (hand delivery).

Authority:

CCP § 415.10

Discussion:

See 8.14[1]

☐ Substituted service, if available:

☐ Determine if defendant has authorized anyone to accept process on defendant's behalf.

☐ Determine whether substituted service is authorized by any statute applicable to that particular defendant.

Authority:

CCP § 416.90

Discussion:

See 8.14[2]. Various forms of substituted service applicable to particular classes of defendants are discussed as appropriate in 8.18-8.34

☐ Make sure that method used is reasonably calculated to provide actual notice.

☐ Combination service:

☐ Combination of substituted service and service by mail.

☐ Can be made on business, public entity, or individual.

Authority:

CCP §§ 416.10-416.90, 415.20, 415.95

Discussion:

See 8.14[3]

☐ Service by mail and acknowledgment of receipt:

☐ Send copy of summons and copy of complaint, together with two copies of notice and acknowledgment of receipt.

☐ Sending to post office box address is sufficient.

☐ Notice and acknowledgment must be substantially in form prescribed by statute or in form approved by the Judicial Council.

Form:

See 8.46

- ☐ Service is completed on date written acknowledgment of receipt is executed by defendant.
- ☐ If defendant refuses to return acknowledgment of service, serve by other means and then petition court for award of reasonable additional cost of serving defendant.

Authority:

CCP § 415.30

Discussion:

See 8.14[4]

- ☐ Service by certified or registered mail for person outside California:

- ☐ Service is deemed completed on 10th day after mailing.
- ☐ No executed acknowledgment of receipt is required.

Authority:

CCP § 415.40

Discussion:

See 8.14[5]

- ☐ Service by publication:

- ☐ Use only as last resort if other methods of service have been unsuccessful.
- ☐ Prepare following documents:
  - ☐ Application for court order authorizing service by publication.
  - ☐ Affidavit in support of application.
  - ☐ Proposed order authorizing service by publication.
- ☐ File application and supporting documents with court.
- ☐ Court order is necessary prior to publication.
- ☐ Publish service in accordance with statutory requirements and court order.

- ☐ Service is deemed complete at end of publication period.

Forms:

See 8.47, 8.48

Authority:

CCP §§ 415.50, 2015.5

Discussion:

See 8.14[6]

- ☐ Service in unlawful detainer proceeding:

- ☐ Procedure is same as in other civil actions.

Authority:

CCP §§ 413.10-417.40, 1167

Discussion:

See 8.14[7]

- ☐ If desired, transmit process by telegraph for service anywhere.

Authority:

CCP § 1017

Discussion:

See 8.14[8]

- ☐ If it appears that no service statute is specifically applicable to defendant or circumstances of case apply to court for order regarding manner of service.

Authority:

CCP § 413.30; see CCP § 187 (implied powers of court)

Discussion:

See 8.15

- ☐ Serve person in foreign country as follows:

- ☐ Determine if Hague Convention is applicable.

- ☐ If Hague Convention governs:

- ☐ Determine foreign country's central authority for service of process.

- ☐ Obtain required forms for Hague Convention service.

☐ Complete forms in appropriate language.

☐ If necessary, have summons and complaint translated into appropriate language.

☐ Deliver forms to processing authority in foreign country, or qualified process server in foreign country to be forwarded to processing authority.

Discussion:

See 8.36[4][d]

☐ Service by publication under CCP § 415.50:

- ☐ Include affidavit or declaration of publisher or printer showing time and place of publication.
- ☐ Attach copy of summons to affidavit.

Discussion:

See 8.36[4][e]

- ☐ Substituted service in accordance with requirements of statute under which substituted service was made.

Discussion:

See 8.18 -8.33, 8.36[4][g]

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

As noted throughout this chapter, numerous statutes provide for substituted service on particular public agencies in specific types of actions. The requirements for service and proof of service vary depending on the statute involved. In most cases, when substituted service is made by serving process on a state agency, the agency is required to provide notification to the plaintiff that service was made. The governing statutes (discussed in the appropriate sections of this chapter) should be consulted for the specific requirements.

- ☐ In unlawful detainer action, service by posting summons on the premises, if party cannot with reasonable diligence be served in a manner other than publication.

Authority:

CCP §§ 415.10, 415.45

Discussion:

See 8.36[4][f]

- ☐ When service is made under another statute, as prescribed by that statute.

Discussion:

See 8.36[4][g]

- ☐ If proof of service is for service of summons outside California, proof of service should reflect requirements for manner of service:

Authority:

CCP §§ 413.10(b), (c), 413.30, 415.40, 415.45, 417.10, 417.20; see also Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 CA4th 984, 1000-1001, 88 CR2d 540 ; Stamps v. Superior Court (1971) 14 CA3d 108, 110, 92 CR 151

Discussion:

See 8.36[5]

- ☐ Proof of service under general California service statutes.

Authority:

CCP §§ 415.40, 417.20(a); see also Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 CA4th 984, 1000-1001, 88 CR2d 540 ; Stamps v. Superior Court (1971) 14 CA3d 108, 110, 92 CR 151

Discussion:

See 8.36[5][b]

- ☐ Strict compliance with statute is required if service is made by certified or registered mail.

- ☐ If service is made pursuant to court order, in manner prescribed in that order.

Authority:

CCP §§ 413.30, 417.20(b)

Discussion:

See 8.36[5][c]

- ☐ In manner prescribed by the law of the place where the person was served, subject to any additional requirements imposed by court in which action is pending.

Authority:

CCP §§ 413.10(b), 417.20(c)

Discussion:

See 8.36[5][d]

- ☐ In unlawful detainer action, by affidavit or declaration of person who posted the premises.

Authority:

CCP §§ 415.45, 417.20(e)

Discussion:

See 8.36[5][e]

- ☐ By written permission of the party served.

- ☐ Include registered process server's county and registration number.

Authority:

B&P Code § 22360; CCP § 417.40

Discussion:

See 8.36[6]

☐ Once summons is served, file timely proof of service of summons.

☐ File proof of service of summons within applicable time limits.

Discussion:

See 8.36[1], [2]; see 8.08

☐ Proof of service of summons need not be filed if defendant has already made a general appearance.

Authority:

CCP § 413.20-417.40

Discussion:

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.08

8.08 Reviewing Applicable Time Limits for Service of Summons.

8.08[1] 60-Day Filing Period.

8.08[1][a] 60-Day Filing Period Generally Applicable. Under trial court delay reduction rules, the complaint generally must be served on all named defendants, and proof of service must be filed with the court, within 60 days after the complaint is filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110].

Exception:

The time limit in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110 does not apply to unlawful detainer proceedings, proceedings under the Family Code, and any other proceedings for which different service requirements are prescribed by law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(a)].

Warning:

Sanctions are the ordinary remedy for failure to file documents within the time permitted by the trial court delay reduction rules, and judges are "encouraged" by statute to impose sanctions to achieve the purposes of the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [Gov Code § 68608(b); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(f)]. Courts also have the authority to dismiss an action to enforce delay reduction programs if less severe sanctions would be ineffective, after taking into account the effect of previous sanctions or previous lack of compliance in the case [see CCP § 583.150 (authority of court to dismiss action pursuant to local rule); Gov Code § 68608(b); see also Intel Corp. v. USAIR, Inc. (1991) 228 CA3d 1559, 1566, 279 CR 569 (dismissal of fast-track case under former Gov Code § 68609(d) upheld in light of previous lack of compliance in case and ineffectiveness of previous sanctions)]. Therefore, if the plaintiff has failed to meet the local deadline for service of the complaint, the action may be dismissed for failure to complete service, even if the three-year or two-year period of CCP §§ 583.210 or 583.420 for mandatory or discretionary dismissal (discussed below) has not yet elapsed [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.7(a), (c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of service of summons in unlawful detainer proceedings, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Landlord-Tenant Litigation, Ch. 5, Unlawful Detainer.

8.08[1][b] Local Rules May Impact Filing Period. Local trial court delay reduction rules cannot require that service of a complaint be made within less than 60 days after filing, but may provide for granting exceptions for longer periods of time by local rule [Gov Code § 68616(a)]. Inquiry should be made to determine whether any such rules apply. Local court rules most commonly track Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110.

Examples:

- Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.7(a)(1) (complaint must be served and proof of service returned within 60 days of filing date unless appearance is made within that time).
- San Diego Super Ct Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.5 (certificate of service must be filed within 60 days of filing of complaint, unless certificate of progress has been filed indicating why service was not effected).
- San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 3.3 (simply requiring compliance with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110).

8.08[1][c] Application for Extension of Time. The court has authority to extend or otherwise modify the 60-day filing period on its own motion or on application of a party. Extensions must be granted on a showing that service could not reasonably be achieved within the time required with the exercise of due diligence consistent with the amount in controversy [Gov Code § 68616(a)]. Such an application must be filed before the 60-day period has elapsed. The application must be accompanied by a declaration showing why service was not effected, documenting the efforts that have been made to effect service, and specifying the date by which service is proposed to be effected [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(e)]. Local trial court rules also may provide for exceptions to the 60-day filing period [Gov Code § 68616(a)].

8.08[2] Discretionary Dismissal After Two Years for Delay in Prosecution. If service is not made within two years after the complaint is filed, the action may be dismissed on motion of the court or defendant, if it appears appropriate under the circumstances [CCP § 583.410; see CCP § 583.210 (action is commenced at time complaint is filed)].

➤ Cross References:

Motion seeking discretionary dismissal--time requirements and factors considered by court, see Ch. 9, Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction, 9.42[2].

8.08[3] Three-Year Mandatory Limit.

8.08[3][a] Mandatory Dismissal. The summons and complaint must be served on the defendant within three year limit after an action is commenced [CCP § 583.210(a); see CCP § 583.240 (computation of three year period)]. Failure to adhere to this three-year time limit for service of summons results in mandatory dismissal on motion of the court or any person interested in the action, whether or not a party [CCP § 583.250].

➤ Cross Reference:

Motion seeking mandatory dismissal for delay in prosecution, see 8.39[2][b].

8.08[3][b] Exceptions to Three-Year Limit. The three-year limit does not apply if the defendant enters into a stipulation in writing or makes a general appearance in the action. A stipulation extending the time within which service must be made [see CCP § 583.230], a motion to dismiss for delay in prosecution, or an extension of time to plead after a motion to dismiss for delay in prosecution, do not constitute a general appearance for this purpose [CCP § 583.220].

8.08[3][c] Extensions of Three-Year Limit. The three-year limit is not subject to exception, excuse, or exception except as expressly provided by statute [CCP § 583.250(b)]. By statute, the three-year limit may be extended by either of the following methods [CCP § 583.230]:

- Written stipulation, which need not be filed but must be brought to the a court's attention if relevant to a motion for dismissal.
- Oral agreement in open court, if entered in the minutes of the court or a transcript is made.

In addition, the computation of time within which service must be made does not include periods during which any of the following conditions existed [CCP § 583.240]:

- The defendant was not amenable to the process of the court.
- The prosecution of the action or proceedings in the action was stayed and the stay affected service.
- The validity of service was the subject of litigation by the parties.
- Service, for any other reason, was impossible, impracticable, or futile due to causes beyond the plaintiff's control. Failure to discover relevant facts or evidence is not a cause beyond the plaintiff's control for this purpose.

8.08[3][d] Equitable Estoppel Applicable to Three-Year Limit. The doctrine of equitable estoppel is applicable to motions to dismiss for failure to effectuate service within three years [ Tresway Aero, Inc. v. Superior Court (1971) 5 C3d 431, 437-439, 96 CR 571, 487 P2d 1211 ; Brookview Condominium Owners' Assn. v. Heltzer Enterprises-Brookview (1990) 218 CA3d 502, 267 CR 76 ]. If a trial court finds statements or conduct by a defendant that lulls the plaintiff into a false sense of security resulting in inaction, and there is reasonable reliance, estoppel is available to prevent the defendant from profiting from his or her own deception [ Brookview Condominium Owners' Assn. v. Heltzer Enterprises-Brookview (1990) 218 CA3d 502, 267 CR 76 ; Tejada v. Blas (1987) 196 CA3d 1335, 1341, 242 CR 538 ].

8.08[4] When Action Is "Commenced." For purposes of the discretionary two-year and mandatory three-year rules discussed in 8.08[2] and 8.08[3], an action is "commenced" at the time the complaint is filed [CCP §§ 583.210(a), 583.420(b); see also CCP § 411.10; Warren v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. (1971) 19 CA3d 24, 38, 96 CR 317 (decided under predecessor statute)] and generally is not extended by an amendment to the original complaint [ Rhode v. National Medical Hosp. of Monterey Park, Inc. (1979, 2nd Dist) 93 CA3d 528, 537, 155 CR 797 (decided under predecessor statute)]. The same rule applies when the defendant was named in the original complaint by fictitious name. When a new party is added to the action, however, the action commences as to that party on the date of the order, or the date of filing of the pleading, naming that party as a new party [ Warren v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. (1971) 19 CA3d 24, 38, 96 CR 317 (decided under predecessor statute); Elling Corp. v. Superior Court (1975) 48 CA3d 89, 94, 123 CR 734 (decided under predecessor statute)]. One court has held that an alter ego defendant added as a new defendant in an amended complaint must be served with the amended complaint and summons within three years after the filing of the amended complaint first naming that defendant, as opposed to three years from the date the original complaint was filed [ Hennessey's Tavern, Inc., v. American Air Filter Company, Inc. (1988) 204 CA3d 1351, 1360, 251 CR 859 ].

8.09 Obtaining Summons From Clerk.

After the plaintiff or cross-complainant pays the applicable fees [see CCP § 412.10; Gov Code §§ 70611-70614], the court clerk will sign the original summons [see CCP § 412.20(a)], will keep the original summons for court records, and will provide a copy of each summons to the plaintiff to be used in serving the defendant [CCP § 412.10; see Maginn v. City of Glendale (1999) 72 CA4th 1102, 85 CR2d 639 ]. Any number of summonses may be issued [CCP § 412.10]. The seal of the court must be affixed to the summons [CCP § 153(b)].

8.10 Checking Local Rules on Electronic Filing and Service of Summons.

Courts may adopt local rules that allow for electronic filing and service of summons, subject to Judicial Council rules and other conditions [CCP § 1010.6; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(f); see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 18.0(g)]. On adoption of local rules, when an electronic complaint is filed, the trial court must issue at the plaintiff's request a summons bearing the court seal and the case number to be kept in its records and may electronically transmit a copy of the summons to the party filing the complaint [CCP § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(f)(2)].

If the court electronically transmits a summons to a party, the court must notify the party of its intent to electronically transmit the summons to the address provided on filing the complaint [CCP § 1010.6(a)(5); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(f)(1)]. The printed electronic summons may be served personally, and has the same legal effect as personal service of an original summons [CCP § 1010.6(a)(5); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.259(f)(3)].

Filing a document electronically does not alter any filing deadline [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.252(e)(2)].

8.11 Determining Where Defendant Is Located.

Before determining the best way to serve the summons on defendant, an effort should be made to obtain basic information about the defendant. This information will determine how to go about serving the defendant, and may assist the process server in locating the defendant if personal service is used:

- Defendant's residence address.
- Defendant's place of employment or business address.
- Where defendant is physically located at the time of service.
- If defendant is an entity rather than an individual, location of defendant's headquarters or main office, and any offices in California.

➡ Locating Parties Using Online Resources.

Many resources are available online for investigating whether individuals have died and, if not, the location of living persons. For example, helpful resources at lexis.com include:

- Public Records tab > Public Records > Person Locator > Person Locator by State > CA Person Locator.

Sample Search: To find a possible Los Angeles address of an individual, try a NAME and ADDRESS segment search in the People Locator databases such as: name (first name /3 last name) and address (los angeles).

- Public Records tab > Public Records > Find a Person > Locate a Person (Nationwide).

Sample Search: To find a possible California address of an individual, try a NAME and ADDRESS segment search in the People Locator databases such as: name (first name

/3 last name) and address (ca).

■ Public Records tab > Public Records > Marriage, Divorce & Death Records > Social Security Death Records.

○ Sample Search: To determine whether a potential party or witness is deceased, use a NAME segment search in the Social Security Death Records, such as: name (first name /3 last name).

Note: Social Security Numbers can be searched and displayed in this source.

8.12 Verifying That Defendant Is Not Immune From Service.

Certain people are immune from the effect of service of summons, including heads of foreign diplomatic mission, members of the California legislature during a legislative session [see Cal Const, art IV, § 14; Harmer v. Superior Court (1969) 275 CA2d 345, 348, 79 CR 855 ], people who come to California to testify pursuant to court order or subpoena [see Pen Code §§ 1334.4, 1334.5], and people who are brought into California on or after waiver of extradition [see Pen Code § 1555].

III. SERVING SUMMONS

8.13 Selecting Person to Serve Summons.

8.13[1] Meeting Basic Legal Qualifications. Generally, any person may serve the summons as long as he or she [CCP § 414.10]:

- Is at least 18 years of age; and
- Is not a party to the action.

Warning:

Some code provisions expressly require service by specified persons, such as a sheriff or marshal.

Cross Reference:

Persons who may serve process, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 518, Service of Summons and Papers, § 518.20 (Matthew Bender).

8.13[2] Sheriff or Marshal May Serve Summons. Any duly qualified and acting marshal or sheriff of any county in California may serve process [Gov Code § 26665; see Gov Code §§ 26608 (duty of sheriff), 71265 (marshals)]. The sheriff's or marshal's office charges a statutory fee (currently $30) for serving process (including substituted service) [Gov Code §§ 26720.9, 26721, 71265; see also Gov Code § 26736 (cancellation fee)].

8.13[3] Registered Process Servers. Summons may also be served by registered process servers licensed under B&P Code §§ 22350-22360.

Decision Point--Selecting Process Server:

Most attorneys prefer to have either a sheriff or a registered process server serve the summons when personal service will be made. Service by a sheriff is generally less expensive than service by a process server because the fee is set by statute, but is often slower because it may not be given top priority by the sheriff's department. Service by a registered process server is often faster but can be more expensive, especially if multiple attempts at service are required or the defendant is trying to avoid service. Registered process servers are likely to be more persistent when service is difficult.

If the attorney does not have a pre-existing relationship with a registered process server in the locale where service is to be attempted, attorneys practicing law in that locale may be good sources for a recommendation as to a reliable process server. Process servers in the attorney's home area may also be able to recommend reliable counterparts in the geographic area where service is to be made.

8.13[4] When Using Method Other Than Personal Service. If service will be made by some method other than personal service (e.g., substituted service, or service by mail or publication), use of a sheriff or registered process server is not necessary. Service normally will be made by the attorney or some other law office personnel.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

For obvious reasons, it is rare for attorneys to personally serve summons. However, when some method other than personal service is used, it may be advantageous to have the attorney's office handle the service to assure that the procedures required for substituted service are properly followed.

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.14

8.14 Selecting Method for Service of Summons.

8.14[1] Personal Delivery. A summons may be served by personally delivering a copy of the summons and complaint to the person to be served. Service is complete at the time of delivery [CCP § 415.10]. In some situations (discussed in the appropriate sections of this chapter), a good-faith attempt to effect personal service is a prerequisite to using other methods of service.

Personal service of a printed form of an electronic summons issued pursuant to local rules has the same legal effect as personal service of an original summons [CCP § 1010.6(a)(5); see 8.10].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of electronic filing, see 8.10.

Warning--Defendant:

If it is reasonably obvious that a person is making an attempt at personal service, the defendant cannot later deny that personal service was had due to lack of delivery just because the defendant declined or refused to accept service. In this instance, the server can effect service by leaving the summons in a place likely to come to the attention of the person on whom service was attempted [ Crescendo Corp. v. Shelton, Inc. (1968) 267 CA2d 209, 213, 72 CR 776 (default judgment upheld)].

8.14[2] Substituted Service. Substituted service may be accomplished by delivery of the summons and complaint to a person whom the defendant or the law has authorized to receive service on the defendant's behalf [see CCP § 416.90]. Various California statutes permit particular methods of substituted service. Examples of substituted service include service on an agent for service of process [see Warner Bros. Records, Inc. v. Golden W. Music Sales (1974) 36 CA3d 1012, 1017-1019, 112 CR 71 ; see also Corp Code § 1701], the California Secretary of State [CCP § 416.10; Corp Code §§ 1702, 2111], or the director of the Department of Motor Vehicles [Veh Code §§ 17451, 17454, 17455].

Cross Reference:

See 8.18 -8.34 (specific forms of permissible substituted service are discussed with respect to particular classes of defendants).

The form of substituted service used must be reasonably calculated to give the party actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard to satisfy traditional notices of fair play and substantial justice [ Bein v. Brechtel-Jochim Group, Inc. (1992) 6 CA4th 1387, 1392, 8 CR2d 351 ; see also Warner Bros. Records, Inc. v. Golden W. Music Sales (1974) 36 CA3d 1012, 1017, 112 CR 71 ].

Warning:

To obtain personal jurisdiction by substituted service, maintain strict compliance with statutory procedures [ Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 CA3d 1407, 1416, 232 CR 653 ; but see Summers v. McClanahan (2006) 140 CA4th 403, 411, 44 CR3d 338 (liberal construction recognized but inapplicable where complete failure to comply with statutes) and Stafford v. Mach (1998) 64 CA4th 1174, 1182-1183, 75 CR2d 809 (pre-1969 service of process statutes requiring strict compliance are now more liberally construed to find service if actual notice was received by defendant)].

8.14[3] Combination Service.

8.14[3][a] Combines Physical Service on Responsible Person and Service by Mail. Combination service is a form of service that includes a good faith attempt at physical service on a responsible person, in addition to notice of the action by mail [ Khourie, Crew & Jaeger v. Sabek, Inc. (1990) 220 CA3d 1009, 1013-1014, 269 CR 687 ].

8.14[3][b] May Be Used to Serve Businesses and Public Entities in Lieu of Personal Service. Combination service on businesses and public entities may be made by: (1) leaving a copy of the summons and complaint in the office of the person to be served during normal business hours and left with the person who is apparently in charge of the office, or if no physical address is known, at the business or entity's usual mailing address, other than a United States Postal Service post office box; followed by (2) mailing a copy of the summons and complaint by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to the person to be served at the business address where the summons and complaint were left [CCP § 415.20(a)]. If service is effected by leaving a copy of the summons and complaint at a mailing address, the papers being served must be left with a person at least 18 years of age, who must be informed of the contents of the served papers [CCP § 415.20(a)]. As to business and public entities, combination service may be used in lieu of personal service; no prior attempt to effect personal service is required [see CCP § 415.20(a)]. Combination service is also permitted when the form of the business organization is unknown [CCP § 415.95(a)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of service of summons on business organization, form unknown, see 8.22A.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

When a business does not have a physical address but does have a business address with a commercial mail facility instead of a U.S. postal box, CCP § 415.20(b) permits service of summons by leaving the summons and complaint with the person apparently in charge of the commercial mail facility, with subsequent mailing of the summons and complaint to that address.

8.14[3][c] May Be Used to Serve Individual Defendant After Personal Service Unsuccessful. After the unsuccessful exercise of reasonable diligence to effect personal service on an individual defendant, a plaintiff may use combination service to complete service by leaving a copy of the summons at the person's dwelling house, usual place of abode, usual place of business, or usual mailing address (other than a United States Postal Service post office box) as follows [CCP § 415.20(b)]:

- The papers must be left in the presence of a competent member of the household or a person apparently in charge of the office, place of business or usual mailing address of the defendant, who is at least 18 years of age.
- The server must advise the person with whom the summons is left of the contents of the served papers.
- Thereafter, the plaintiff must mail the summons and complaint by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to the person to be served at the place where the copies were left.

Warnings:

- Combination service on an individual defendant is permitted only after the plaintiff exercised reasonable diligence in attempting to effect personal service [CCP § 415.20(b); Evartt v. Superior Court (1979) 89 CA3d 795, 799, 152 CR 836 ; see also Stafford v. Mach (1988) 64 CA4th 1174, 1182-1183, 75 CR2d 809 (reasonable diligence was satisfied after three attempts at personal service)]. If the defendant received actual notice, the issue of whether there has been reasonable diligence is liberally construed to effectuate service and uphold the court's jurisdiction [ Espindola v. Nunez (1988) 199 CA3d 1389, 1391-1393, 245 CR 596 ].
- The individual defendant's usual mailing address cannot be a United States Postal Service post office box [CCP § 415.20(b)], but may include a private or commercial post office box [ Ellard v. Conway (2001) 94 CA4th 540, 546, 114 CR2d 399 ].

8.14[3][d] Service Deemed Complete on 10th Day After Mailing. Whether made on a business, public entity, or individual defendant, combination service is deemed completed on the 10th day after mailing [CCP § 415.20].

8.14[4] Service by Mail and Acknowledgment of Receipt.

8.14[4][a] Mailing Requirements for Service by Mail. A party may serve a copy of the summons by mail by sending a copy of the summons and complaint, along with two copies of the notice and acknowledgment of receipt, with a return envelope addressed to the sender, postage prepaid, by first-class or airmail to the person to be served [CCP § 415.30(a)].

Decision Point:

Service by mail may be used in lieu of personal service. The statutes do not require that an attempt at personal service precede service by mail. However, service by mail may delay prosecution of the action if the defendant does not accept service by refusing to execute and return the acknowledgment of receipt.

Strategic Points--Plaintiff:

- When the party being served is a party who, under the circumstances of the case, will not object to the service of the summons and complaint, it is common to seek an agreement that service can be made by mail with a return receipt of the summons and complaint. Obviously, this is a far less expensive alternative, and can expedite service of the complaint.

- A post office box is a sufficient address for mail service under CCP § 415.30 if the plaintiff knows that the person to be served receives mail at that address. In fact, if the plaintiff knows that the defendant uses a post office box and does not first attempt service by mail, service by publication may not be permitted [see Transamerica Title Ins. Co. v. Hendrix (1995) 34 CA4th 740, 745, 40 CR2d 614 ].

8.14[4][b] Form of Notice of Acknowledgment--Judicial Council Form. The notice and acknowledgment of receipt of summons sent by mail must substantially comply with a prescribed statutory form [see CCP § 415.30(b)]. Judicial Council Form POS-015, Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt--Civil is mandatory for this purpose.

Cross References:

Discussion of proof of service requirements for mail service, see 8.36[4][d].
Judicial Council Form POS-015, see 8.46.

8.14[4][c] Service Is Complete on the Date Written Acknowledgment of Receipt Is Executed. The person being served is supposed to sign the acknowledgment of service and return it to the sender within 20 days from the date of mailing. Service is deemed complete on the date the acknowledgment is received [see CCP § 415.30(c), (d)].

Warning: Drawback--Defendant:

Failure to respond to service by mail in an attempt to delay or avoid service can backfire on the defendant. A defendant who fails to complete and return the acknowledgment of service by mail is liable for reasonable expenses incurred in obtaining service by another method, whether or not the plaintiff is otherwise entitled to recover costs in the action [CCP § 415.30(d)].

8.14[5] Certified or Registered Mail to Person Outside California.

8.14[5][a] Copy of Summons and Complaint May Be Mailed by Return Receipt Mail. A summons may be served on a person outside California by sending a copy of the summons and complaint by return receipt first class prepaid mail to the person to be served [CCP § 415.40]. CCP §§ 415.40 and 417.20 when read together permit completion of service by mail when the return receipt is signed by a person so authorized by the defendant, and the personal signature of the defendant is not required [ Cruz v. Fagor America, Inc. (2007) 146 CA4th 488, 498, 502, 52 CR3d 862 ]. Unlike mail service within California [see 8.14[4] for discussion], an executed acknowledgment of receipt is not required to validate this method of service [ Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 CA4th 984, 1000, 88 CR2d 540 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

A summons may be served on a person outside California by any of the means that may be used to serve someone in California [CCP § 415.40]. This method of mail service is in addition to the other methods specified by law. This method of mail service may be used to deliver process only to a person who is outside California [see CCP § 415.40].

Warning: Impact of Hague Convention.

Before attempting any type of service on a defendant in a foreign country, counsel must consider the preemptive impact of the Hague Service Convention. The Convention provides detailed procedures for notice and service. If the foreign country where the defendant can be served is a signatory to the Convention, the Convention's procedures may be the only means of service available [CCP § 413.10(c); Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 CA4th 1126, 1135-1136, 53 CR2d 215 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of service on a person outside the United States, see 8.16.

8.14[5][b] Service Complete on 10th Day After Mailing. Service by mail on a person outside California under CCP § 415.40 is deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing [CCP § 415.40].

 Warning--Defendant:

The time by which a responsive pleading must be filed (30 days) is not extended when the summons is served by mail, and the 5-day extension of time set forth in CCP § 1013 is inapplicable to service of summons by mail [CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 413.20].

8.14[6] Service by Publication.

8.14[6][a] Used Only When Party Cannot Be Otherwise Served. A party who cannot be served with reasonable diligence in any other manner can be served by publication in a newspaper [CCP § 415.50].

8.14[6][b] Preparing Affidavit or Declaration. Filing an affidavit or declaration is a prerequisite to obtaining an order for service by publication [CCP §§ 415.50, 2015.5]. The affidavit or declaration must state that:

- In the pending action, after reasonable diligence, service was not possible by hand delivery, combination service, mail, acknowledgment service, or certified or registered mail [CCP § 415.50(a); see Watts v. Crawford (1995) 10 C4th 743, 748-749, 42 CR2d 81, 896 P2d 807 ].
- Either (1) a cause of action exists against the party on whom service is sought or the party is a necessary party to the action; or (2) the party served has or claims an interest in real or personal property in California that is subject to the court's jurisdiction or the relief demanded in the action consists wholly or in part in excluding the party from any interest in the property [CCP § 415.50(a)].

Discussion of the format for affidavits and declarations, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 15, Affidavits, Certificates, and Declarations (Matthew Bender).

8.14[6][c] Preparing Ex Parte Application. An application to the court for an order authorizing publication must be prepared to accompany the affidavit or declaration.

 Cross Reference:

8.14[6][d] Preparing Proposed Court Order Authorizing Publication. A proposed court order authorizing publication must also be prepared.

 Cross References:

Discussion of the preparation of proposed orders, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 372, Motions and Orders (Matthew Bender).

8.14[6][e] Filing Application. The affidavit, application, and proposed order must be filed with the court in which the action is pending [see CCP § 415.50(a)].

8.14[6][f] Issuance of Court Order for Publication. If the court is satisfied that the party to be served cannot with reasonable diligence be served in any other permissible manner and that the requirements specified in 8.14[6][b] are met, it must order the summons to be published in a designated newspaper published in California that is most likely to provide the party to be served with actual notice. Additionally, if the party to be served resides or is located out of California, that court may also order the summons be published in an out of state newspaper that is most likely to give actual notice to that party [CCP § 415.50(b)].

8.14[6][g] Manner and Frequency of Publication. Except as provided by statute or ordered by the court [CCP § 415.50(b)], publication is made once a week for four consecutive weeks. Four publications in a newspaper regularly published at least once a week, with at least five days intervening between the respective publication dates (not counting the publication dates) will suffice. The period of notice commences with the first day of publication and terminates at the end of the 28th day, including the first day [Gov Code § 6064].

8.14[6][h] Mailing If Address Is Subsequently Ascertained. The court order must include a direction that if the address of the party to be served is discovered prior to publication, the summons and complaint be mailed to that address [CCP § 415.50(b)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Notwithstanding an order for publication, a summons may be served in another manner authorized by the general service of summons statutes (CCP §§ 413.10-417.40). That service supersedes service by publication [CCP § 415.50(d)].

8.14[6][i] Service Complete at End of Publication Period. Service of summons by publication is deemed complete following completion of the statutory publication period [CCP § 415.50(c); see Gov Code § 6064].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the rules governing return of service when service is made by publication, see 8.36[4][e].

8.14[7] Service in Unlawful Detainer Proceeding. The plaintiff in an unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer proceeding must serve the summons in the same manner as a summons in other civil actions [CCP § 1167; see CCP §§ 413.10-417.40], including by a combination of posting on premises and mailing [CCP § 415.45] or by certified mail [CCP § 415.47].

Cross References:

8.14[8] Service by Telegraph. A summons may be transmitted by telegraph service for service at any location [CCP § 1017]. The telegraphic copy may be served or executed by the officer or person to whom it is sent for that purpose, and returned by that person in the same manner and with the same effect as an original, which had been delivered by personal service. The person serving the telegraphic summons has the same authority and is subject to the same liabilities as if the telegraphic copy were the original. There is no need to include a description of the court seal [CCP § 153(b); see 8.04] in the telegram, but the seal may be expressed in the telegraphic copy by the letters "L.S." or the word "seal" [CCP § 1017].

8.15 Obtaining Court Order If No Statutory Methods Apply.

If no particular statute regarding manner of service of summons applies to a case, the court in which the action is pending may direct that summons be served in a manner reasonably calculated to provide the party to be served with actual notice [CCP § 413.30; see also CCP § 187].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Given the comprehensive and sometimes overlapping nature of the service statutes, it is difficult to conceive of a situation in which none of the service statutes would apply. However, plaintiffs' attorneys should be aware of the availability of this procedure.

8.16 Serving Person in Foreign Country.

8.16[1] Determining If Hague Convention Applies.

8.16[1][a] Scope of Hague Convention. The California rules governing service of process are subject to the Hague Service Convention [20 UST 361; TIAS 6638], an international treaty [CCP § 413.10(c)]. The Hague Service Convention applies in all cases, in civil or commercial matters, when there is occasion to transmit a judicial or extrajudicial document for service abroad. It does not apply when the address of the person to be served with the document is not known.

The Hague Service Convention is formally entitled "Convention on the Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents in Civil or Commercial Matters." The full text is available on lexis.com at 1969 UST LEXIS 152, and it is reprinted in the International Agreements volume of the United States Code Service.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of requirements for service under the Hague Convention, see 8.16[2].

8.16[1][b] Participating Nations. Most of the Western European countries, Canada, Japan, and many other nations have ratified the convention. If uncertainty exists as to whether or not the country of defendant's residence is a current signatory to the treaty, the embassy or consulate of the country in question should be contacted.

Cross Reference:

A current list of the nations that have ratified the Hague Convention may be found on the website of the U.S. State Department, Bureau of Consular Affairs at www.travel.state.gov/hague\_service.html.

8.16[1][c] State Laws Preempted. In the United States, the Hague Convention is binding on the states and, by virtue of the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution, preempts inconsistent methods of service prescribed by state law in all cases to which it applies [US Const art VI, cl 2; Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Schlunk (1988) 486 US 694, 699, 108 S Ct 2104, 100 LE2d 722; Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 CA4th 1126, 1133, 53 CR2d 215 ].

Warning:

A state court may not assume jurisdiction in a case if doing so would violate the Hague Convention [ Shoei Kako Co. v. Superior Court (1973) 33 CA3d 808, 819, 109 CR 402 ; see also CCP § 413.10(c)]. Failure to comply with the Hague Convention when it is applicable renders the service void, even if the defendant had actual notice of the lawsuit [ Floveyor Int'l, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 CA4th 789, 69 CR2d 457 ].

8.16[1][d] Inapplicable If Address Is Unknown. If the plaintiff does not know the address of the person to be served, the Hague Convention is inapplicable and service by publication is appropriate [ People v. Parcel No. 056-500-09 (1997) 58 CA4th 120, 125, 68 CR2d 51 ]. However, service by publication may not be upheld if the plaintiff fails to exercise due diligence in attempting to ascertain the address of the party to be served [ Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 CA4th 1126, 1137-1138, 53 CR2d 215 ; see also CCP § 415.50].

8.16[1][e] Inapplicable If Document Is Not Transferred Abroad. If service on a foreign entity is made in a manner that does not require transmission of a document abroad, the Hague Convention is inapplicable. For example, it does not apply when process is served on a foreign corporation by serving its domestic subsidiary which, under state law, is the foreign corporation's involuntary agent for service of process [ Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Schlunk (1988) 486 US 694, 706-708, 108 S Ct 2104, 100 L Ed2d 722 ; Yamaha Motor Co., LTD v. Superior Ct. (2009) 174 CA4th 264, 269-270, 94 CR3d 494] .

8.16[2] Effecting Service Under Hague Convention.

8.16[2][a] Determining Country's Central Authority for Service of Process. The Hague Convention requires that each signatory nation designate a central authority through which service of process may be effected. That authority receives documents and serves them in accordance with either the internal law of the receiving state or a compatible method requested by the sender. A nation may allow other methods of service within its boundaries, and may also object to the use of a particular method of transmission [see Kott v. Superior Court (1996) 45 CA4th 1126, 1134, 53 CR2d 215 ] .

Example:

Mexico has in fact objected to service through the alternative methods specified in the Hague Convention, Art. 10. Therefore, service through Mexico's Central Authority is the exclusive method by which a plaintiff can serve a defendant in Mexico [ OGM, Inc. v. Televisa, S.A. de C.V. (C.D. Cal., April 15, 2009), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 33409 at 10 (citing Restatement (Third) of Foreign Relations Law § 471 cmt. (1987))].

To determine the central authority of the country in question, contact that country's embassy or consulate. In some cases this information may be determined from the Internet through the country's government website, or from the website of the U.S. State Department, Bureau of Consular Affairs at www.travel.state.gov/judicial\_assistance.html.

8.16[2][b] Obtaining Required Forms. The attorney must obtain three or more copies of the following documents which are prescribed by and appended to the Hague Convention:

- Request for Service Abroad of Judicial or Extrajudicial Documents.
- Summary of the Documents to be Served.

These documents can be obtained from any office of a United States Marshal. The text of the forms can also be found on the website of the Hague Conference on Private International Law at www.hcch.net/e/index.html.

8.16[2][c] Completing Forms in Appropriate Languages. The forms must be completed in triplicate. If English is not an official language of the country where the summons will be served, one complete set of forms must be prepared in English and another set in the appropriate foreign language, with each labeled accordingly [ Julen v. Larson (1972) 25 CA3d 325, 328, 101 CR 796 ]. The identity and address of the applicant and the identity of the receiving authority in the foreign country must be set forth on the request form.

8.16[2][d] Translating Summons and Complaint If Required. If English is not the official language of the country, the attorney must have two copies of the summons and complaint translated into the appropriate foreign language [see Julen v. Larson (1972) 25 CA3d 325, 101 CR 796 ].

8.16[2][e] Delivering Forms to Authority in Foreign Country. The forms, summons, complaint, and translations must be delivered to the appropriate receiving authority in the foreign country [see 8.16[2][a]] or to the local process server to be forwarded to the receiving authority.

8.16[2][f] Return of Certificate Following Completion or Failure of Service. The process server in the foreign country completes the certificate on the reverse side of the request form. The certificate on the reverse side of the request form will be returned by the receiving authority, showing whether service was effected. The completed certificate should be filed as proof of service [Hague Convention, Art. 6; OGM, Inc. v. Televisa, S.A. de C.V. (C.D. Cal., April 15, 2009), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 33409 at 5 (service not complete where certificate not returned from central authority)].

Exception:

A California court may hold that service is complete even if the foreign country's central authority has not returned a certificate under the Hague Convention, Art. 6, if the following three conditions are satisfied [Hague Convention, Art. 15; OGM, Inc. v. Televisa, S.A. de C.V. (C.D. Cal., April 15, 2009), 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 33409 at 11 n2 (requirements of Hague Convention, Art. 15 not met)]:

- The document was transmitted by one of the methods provided for in the Hague Convention.
- A period of time of not less than six months, considered adequate by the judge in the particular case, has elapsed since the date of the transmission of the document.
- No certificate of any kind has been received, even though every reasonable effort has been made to obtain it through the competent authorities of the State addressed.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of proof of service requirements when service is made outside California, see 8.36[5][a].

8.16[3] Other Means of Service. If the Hague Convention is inapplicable, or if the country in question has authorized service by other means, process may be served on an individual outside the United States as follows [CCP § 413.10(c)]:

- In the same manner as would be appropriate for a similar summons served in California; or
- As directed by the court in which the action is pending; or
- If the court, before or after service, finds that the service is reasonably calculated to give actual notice, as prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served or as directed by the foreign authority in response to a letter rogatory.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

If the country of destination does not object, it is permissible to use alternatives to service as prescribed by the Hague Convention. Alternatives include sending the summons by postal channels directly to the person to be served, service of summons through judicial officers, officials, or other competent persons of the country by any interested person or by judicial officers, officials, and other competent persons of origin country [see Honda Motor Co. v. Superior Court (1992) 10 CA4th 1043, 1045, 12 CR2d 861 ].

Trap:

The danger in serving a defendant in another country under California law is that the judgment may not be recognized (and therefore would be unenforceable) in that country if the service does not meet that country's requirements. Some countries recognize foreign judgments only if service was made in accordance with the countries' own laws. Thus, even if service under California law would be valid in California courts under CCP § 413.10(c), any resulting judgment may not be enforceable outside California (or the United States). The importance of this depends in any particular case in whether the defendant has sufficient assets in California (or the United States) on which a judgment could be executed.

8.16[4] Serving Summons on Foreign Government. Service on a foreign state or its subdivisions, agencies, and instrumentalities, may be made only under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act [see 28 USC §§ 1602-1611], and service of process on a sovereign state must strictly comply with the requirements of the Act [ Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 CA4th 984, 88 CR2d 540 ].

8.17 Serving Class Not Otherwise Provided for in Service Statutes.

A person not otherwise specified in the service statutes [see CCP §§ 416.10-416.80] may be served by delivering a copy of the summons to that person, or anyone authorized by that person to receive service of summons on the person's behalf [CCP § 416.90]. In this instance it is not necessary that the agent be specifically appointed to receive service of process. However, the principal-agent relationship must be such that it is highly probable that a defendant will receive actual notice if the agent is served [ Warner Bros. Records, Inc. v. Golden W. Music Sales (1974) 36 CA3d 1012, 1017, 112 CR 71 ].

III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.18

8.18 Serving Active Corporations.

8.18[1] Delivery to Agent for Service of Process. A summons on an active corporation may be served by delivering a copy of the summons and complaint to the person designated as the corporation's statutory agent for service of process [CCP § 416.10(a); see Corp Code §§ 202, 1502, 2105, 2107].

The name and address of the agent for service of process of a corporation can be found by contacting the California Secretary of State or by going to the Secretary of State's website at www.ss.ca.gov and looking under business filings.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Personal service of summons on the agent for service of process is not required, and combination service [CCP § 415.20(a) (leaving a copy of the summons and complaint during usual business hours with a person apparently in charge of the business, followed by mailing the documents to the agent)] is a common alternative practice.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of combination service, see 8.14[3].

8.18[2] Delivery to Officer of Corporation. A summons on an active corporation may also be served on any of the following corporate officers: the president, chief executive officer, or other head of an active corporation, a vice president, a secretary or assistant secretary, a treasurer or assistant treasurer, a controller or chief financial officer, a general manager, or another person authorized by the corporation to receive service of process [CCP § 416.10(b); see also Pasadena Medi-Center Associates v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1973) 9 C3d 773, 779 n4, 108 CR 828, 511 P2d 1180 ; Gibble v. Car-Lene Research, Inc. (1998) 67 CA4th 295, 303, 78 CR2d 892 ].

Example:

A sales representative with regular contact with the corporation may constitute a "general manager" [ Yamaha Motor Co., LTD v. Superior Ct. (2009) 174 CA4th 264, 273-275, 94 CR3d 494 ] .

8.18[3] Delivery to Bank Cashier, or Assistant Cashier, or Other Authorized Person. If a corporation is a bank, a summons may also be served by delivering the summons to a cashier, assistant cashier, or other authorized person [CCP § 416.10(c); see CCP § 416.10(a), (b) (authorized persons)].

8.18[4] Hand Delivery to Designated Agent. A corporation may be served by hand delivering a copy of the summons to a natural person designated by it as agent, or to any person named in the latest certificate of the corporate agent, at the corporate agent's office [Corp Code § 1701; see Corp Code § 1505].

8.18[5] Substituted Service on Secretary of State If No Corporate Agent.

8.18[5][a] When Substituted Service May Be Made. Substituted service on a domestic corporation may be made by hand delivery to the Secretary of State, or an assistant Secretary of State in the following situations [Corp Code § 1702(a)]:

- If the corporation's agent for service has resigned and not been replaced;
- The agent could not be found at the address designated after the exercise of reasonable diligence; or
- No agent has been designated.

8.18[5][b] Court Order Required for Substituted Service. A party must obtain a court order to make substituted service on the Secretary of State on behalf of a domestic corporation [Corp Code § 1702(a)]. If the action has been filed in a court of another state or in a federal court, the order may be obtained from that court [Corp Code § 1702(d)].

Cross Reference:

Forms, see 8.50, 8.51.

8.18[5][c] Secretary of State Will Notify Corporation. Following substituted service on the Secretary of State, the Secretary of State provides notice of service to the corporation by forwarding the summons to the corporation's principal executive office by registered or certified return-receipt mail. If the Secretary of State does not have an address for the corporation's principal executive office, notification is made by forwarding the summons in the same manner to the last designated agent for service of process. If the agent for service of process has resigned and has not been replaced, and the records of the Secretary of State do not give an address for its principal executive office, the Secretary of State may take no action [Corp Code § 1702(b)].

8.18[5][d] Service Deemed Complete on 10th Day. Substituted service on the Secretary of State is deemed completed on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 1702(a)].

8.18[6] Serving Foreign Corporation. A summons may be served on a foreign corporation in any of the following ways:

- Any method authorized under CCP §§ 413.10-417.40 [Corp Code § 2110.1].
- Hand delivery of the summons to any of the following [Corp Code § 2110]:
  - ☐ An officer or general manager of the corporation in California.
  - ☐ If corporation is a bank, to a cashier or assistant cashier.
  - ☐ Any natural person the corporation has designated as an agent for service of process. A copy of the corporation's statement and designation, or a copy of the latest statement filed under Corp Code § 2117, is sufficient evidence of the appointment of an agent for service of process.

- ☐ If the corporation has designated a corporate agent, to any person named as a corporate agent in the most recent certificate filed under Corp Code § 1505.

The name and address of a foreign corporation's agent for service of process can be obtained online from the Corporate Records pages of the Secretary of State's website at www.ss.ca.gov.

- If other methods of service have been unsuccessful, substituted service by delivery to the Secretary of State [see Corp Code § 2111]. A court order must be obtained for service in this manner [Corp Code § 2111(a)].

- If foreign corporation has surrendered its right to transact business in California, summons may be served in any action on a liability or obligation incurred in California before the surrender by delivery of the process to the Secretary of State as described above. No court order is required for this type of service [Corp Code § 2114(b)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

A corporation actually doing business in California is subject to service in California regardless of whether it is registered to do business in the state or whether the extent of its contacts require it to register [ Raynolds v. Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft (1969) 275 CA2d 997, 1001, 80 CR 610 ; see also Watts v. Crawford (1995) 10 C4th 743, 42 CR2d 81, 896 P2d 807 ]. A foreign corporation that has transacted intrastate business in California and later withdraws from California may nevertheless be served with process [see Corp Code §§ 2110, 2111] in an action brought in California arising out of that business, even if the corporation never complied with California statutes governing foreign corporations [Corp Code § 2114(a); see Corp Code §§ 2100-2117.1].

8.19 Serving Defunct Corporation.

A defunct corporation, a corporation that has forfeited its charter or its right to do business, or one that has dissolved, may be served by delivering a copy of the summons and complaint to any of the following [CCP § 416.20(a); Corp Code § 2114(c)]:

- A trustee of the corporation and its stockholders or members; or
- As authorized on an officer, director, person having charge of the assets, or agent, or by serving the Secretary of State, as authorized by law for domestic and foreign corporations [CCP § 416.20(b); see Corp Code §§ 2011 (domestic corporation), 2114 (foreign corporation)].

A foreign corporation that has had its right to do business in California forfeited by the Franchise Tax Board under the Corporation Tax Law may also be served by hand delivery to an officer or agent of the corporation, or to the Secretary of State [see Corp Code §§ 2110, 2111], as if the right to transact business had not been forfeited [Corp Code § 2114(c)].

A joint stock company or association may be served by delivering a copy of the summons and complaint to the following [CCP § 416.30]:

- For an active company or association, to its agent, president, or other officer [see CCP § 416.10].
- For a company or association that has forfeited its charter or its right to do business, to a person who is a trustee of the corporation and of its stockholders or members; or to others authorized to receive service by Corp Code §§ 2011, 2114 [see CCP § 416.20].

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.21

8.21 Serving Unincorporated Association or Partnership.

8.21[1] Serving General or Limited Partnership by Delivery to Agent, General Partner, or General Manager. Service is made on a general or limited partnership or other association by serving a copy of the summons and complaint on the designated agent (if any), general partner, or general manager of the partnership [CCP § 416.40(a); Corp Code § 16310; see Corp Code §§ 15627, 15901.16, (service on limited partnerships)]. Service may be by personal service under CCP § 415.10(a), combination service under CCP § 415.20(a), or mail service under CCP § 415.30(a).

Cross References:

Personal service, see 8.14[1].
Combination service, see 8.14[3].
Service by mail, see 8.14[4].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Domestic general partnerships may designate an agent by filing a Statement of Partnership Authority (Form GP-1) [see Corp Code § 16310] with the Secretary of State's office. Filing Form GP-1 is optional under Corp Code § 16303. At this time, general partnership records cannot be searched online. They are obtainable from the Secretary of State's office by mail on written request (the Secretary of State's office advises that this may take 2 to 3 week processing time), or over the counter at the Secretary of State's Sacramento office.

Domestic limited partnerships must designate an agent on the Certificate of Limited Partnership (Form LP-1) they are required to file with the Secretary of State's office [see Corp Code §§ 15614(b), 15621(a)(4), 15901.14(a)(2), 15901.16(d)(1)]. Limited partnership records may be checked online at the business filings section of the California Secretary of State's website.

8.21[2] Serving Unincorporated Association Other Than General or Limited Partnership by Delivery to Designated Agent, Officer or Other Representative. Service is made on an unincorporated association that is not a general or limited partnership by serving a copy of the summons and complaint on the designated agent (if any), officer, or other authorized representative [see CCP § 416.40(b); Corp Code § 18200].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Filing a statement designating an agent (Form UNA-100) is optional for domestic unincorporated associations other than partnerships [see Corp Code § 18055] under Corp Code § 18200. At this time, records of unincorporated associations (other than limited partnerships) cannot be searched online. They are obtainable from the Secretary of State's office by mail on written request (the Secretary of State's office advises that such requests may take two to three weeks processing time), or over the counter at the Secretary of State's Sacramento office.

8.21[3] Serving Foreign Unincorporated Association or Partnership.

8.21[3][a] Delivery to Designated Agent or Person Named in Corporate Agent's Last Certificate. A foreign unincorporated association or partnership may be served by hand delivery of a copy of the summons and complaint to the designated agent or at the corporate agent's office [Corp Code §§ 16310(b), 18200(e)].

Exception:

Foreign unincorporated associations and partnerships (other than limited partnerships and commercial or banking partnerships) having no regular place of business in California must file a statement with the Secretary of State designating a natural person or corporation as an agent for purposes of service of process [Corp Code § 15800]. Foreign limited partnerships are separately required to register with the Secretary of State (Form LP-5) and designate agents for service of process [Corp Code §§ 15627, 15692(c), 15901.16(a), (b), 16953].

Warning--Defendant:

A partnership must appear within 30 days after service on the person designated for service under the above procedure [see Corp Code § 15800(c)].

8.21[3][b] Serving Secretary of State If Agent Cannot Be Found. If a foreign partnership has not designated an agent, if the person designated as the agent cannot be found, if after due diligence delivery to a corporate agent [see Corp Code § 16310] cannot be made, or if the agent is no longer authorized to act, a copy of the summons and complaint may be served by personal delivery on the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 15800]. Corp Code § 15800 does not require that a court order authorizing this method of service be obtained.

Alternatively, if the agent of a partnership has resigned and has not been replaced, or the agent cannot be found after reasonable diligence [see Corp Code § 16310(d)(1)], a plaintiff can obtain a court order on an affidavit or declaration [see CCP § 2015.5] satisfactory to the court that the association cannot be served in a manner provided by CCP §§ 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30. The court order permits personal service on the partnership by delivering one copy of the process for each defendant to be served, together with a copy of the order authorizing the service, by hand to the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 16310(d)(1)].

The party seeking service must pay a $50 service fee [Gov Code § 12197] and provide a signed statement to the Secretary of State, setting forth the last known address of the partnership. The Secretary of State will forward the summons to the partnership by registered or certified [see Corp Code § 8], return-receipt mail, to the address provided in the statement [Corp Code §§ 15800(b), 16310(d)(2)].

Warning--Defendant:

Under § 15800, a partnership must appear within 30 days after delivery of process to the Secretary of State [see Corp Code § 15800(c)]. Service under § 16310 is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery of the process to the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 16310(d)(1)].

8.21[3][c] Court Order Can Permit Service of Summons on Members of Unincorporated Association Other Than a Partnership. If an unincorporated association other than a partnership [see Corp Code § 18055] has not designated an agent to receive service of process, or the agent cannot be found after reasonable diligence [see Corp Code § 18220], a plaintiff can obtain a court order on an affidavit or declaration [see CCP § 2015.5] satisfactory to the court that the association cannot be served in a manner provided by CCP §§ 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30. The court order permits personal service on the association by delivery of a copy of the process to one or more of the association's members designated in the order and by mailing a copy of the process to the association at its last known address [Corp Code § 18220].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Although not required, it is best to include a copy of the court order with each copy of the summons and complaint mailed to association members.

8.21[4] Serving Domestic or Foreign Limited Liability Partnership by Delivery to Agent or Secretary of State. A domestic or foreign registered limited liability partnership may be served as follows:

- To a general partner or general manager of the partnership [CCP § 416.40(a); see Corp Code § 16310].
- By hand delivery of a copy of the summons to the designated agent [Corp Code § 16962(b)].
- If the designated agent is a corporate agent, to any person named on the latest certificate of the corporate agent [see Corp Code § 1505] at the office of the corporate agent [Corp Code § 16962(b)].
- If the designated agent resigned or cannot be found after reasonable diligence, or if no agent was designated, and if other methods of service have been unsuccessful, by substituted service by delivery to the Secretary of State. A court order must be obtained for service in this manner [Corp Code § 16962(c)]. Service is made by hand delivery of a copy of the summons and complaint to the Secretary of State, along with a copy of the order authorizing service, and the $50 fee [Corp Code § 16962(c); see Gov Code § 12197(b) (fee)]. Service is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery to the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 16962(c)]. The certificate of the Secretary of State, under seal, certifying receipt of process, notice, and forwarding the process [see Corp Code § 16962] is competent and prima facie evidence of receipt [Corp Code § 16962(e)]. A foreign court, federal court, or a court of another state may make the court order permitting service on the Secretary of State if the action has been filed in one of those courts [Corp Code § 16962(f)].

8.22 Serving Limited Liability Company.

A limited liability company (LLC) may be served by any of the following [Corp Code § 17061]:

- Any method of service provided by CCP §§ 413.10-417.40.
- Personal service of a copy of the summons and complaint on the LLC's designated agent. If the designated agent is a corporate agent, service may be made on any person named in the most recently filed certificate of the corporate agent under Corp Code § 1505.
- In the case of a foreign LLP that has transacted business in California without registering in California, by service on the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 17061(b); see Corp Code § 17456(d)]. In this situation, service on the Secretary of State is made by hand delivery of the summons, along with the court order permitting service, and by paying the fee [Corp Code § 17061(b)].
- If the foreign LLC has registered and if the designated agent resigned or cannot be found after reasonable diligence, and if other methods of service have been unsuccessful, by substituted service by delivery to the Secretary of State. A court order must be obtained for service in this manner [Corp Code § 17061(c)(1)]. Service is made by hand delivery of a copy of the summons and complaint to the Secretary of State, along with a copy of the order authorizing service [Corp Code § 17061(c)(1)]. Service is deemed complete on the 10th day after delivery to the Secretary of State [Corp Code § 17061(c)(1)]. The certificate of the Secretary of State, under seal, certifying receipt of process, notice, and forwarding the process [see Corp Code § 17061(c)(2)] is competent and prima facie evidence of service of process [Corp Code § 17061(c)(3)].

Strategic Points--Plaintiff:

- Every LLC, domestic or foreign, is required to appoint an agent for service of process in its articles of organization (for domestic LLCs) [Form LLC-1] and its application for registration in California (for foreign LLCs) [Corp Code § 17061(d)(1); Form LLC-5]. LLC records may be checked online at the Business Search Page on the California Secretary of State's website to determine the identity of a LLC's agent for service of process.

■ A foreign LLC that conducts business in California without having registered is deemed to have appointed the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process with respect to any causes of action arising out of the transaction of business in California [Corp Code § 17456(d)]. A court order is not required for service in this situation.

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.22A

8.22A Serving Business Organization When Form Unknown.

When the defendant is a "business organization, form unknown," summons may be served by [CCP § 415.95(a)]:

- Leaving a copy of the summons and complaint, during usual office hours, with the person who is apparently in charge of the office of that business organization; and
- Thereafter mailing a copy of the summons and complaint by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to the person served at the place where a copy of the summons and complaint was left.

Service of summons in this manner is complete on the 10th day after mailing.

Warning--Plaintiff:

Service of summons under CCP § 415.95(a) is not valid for a corporation with a registered agent for service of process listed with the Secretary of State [CCP § 415.95(b)]. Service of summons on these corporations must follow statutes directing personal or combination service [see CCP §§ 415.20, 416.10, 416.20].

Cross References:

Combination service, see 8.14[3]; serving active corporations, see 8.18.

Strategic Points--Plaintiff:

- This method for serving summons may be used in those instances where a business has not completed the formalities of operating as a business entity or where a business has not identified, or is refusing to identify, its owners.
- This method for serving summons requires the defendant to be a "business organization, form unknown." The term is not defined by CCP § 415.95 or the Code of Civil Procedure, and the degree to which the plaintiff must make inquiries about the business organization before making this type of service may be subject to future judicial interpretation. As a precaution, plaintiff should conduct a thorough search of the Secretary of State's database and keep a record of the results before attempting this method of service. Additional precaution would be to search county fictitious business statements.

III. SERVING SUMMONS

8.23 Serving Public Entities.

8.23[1] Delivery of Process to Clerk, Officer, or Other Head of Entity. A public entity [see CCP § 416.50(b) ("public entity" defined)] may be served by delivering a copy of the summons and complaint to the clerk, officer, or other head of the governing body [CCP § 416.50(a)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Personal service of summons on the clerk, officer, or other head of the governing body is not required, and combination service [CCP § 415.20(a) (leaving a copy of the summons and complaint during usual business hours with a person apparently in charge of the business, followed by mailing the documents to the clerk, officer, or other head of the governing body)] is a common alternative practice.

Cross Reference:

Combination service, see 8.14[3].

8.23[2] Locating Appropriate Official to Serve. Service of process in an action or proceeding against a public agency may be made in conformity with the information contained in the statement in the Roster of Public Agencies pertaining to that public agency which is on file at the time of service. Service in this manner constitutes personal service upon the public agency if it otherwise complies with law [Gov Code § 960.8].

The Roster of Public Agencies (also known as the California Roster) is maintained by the Secretary of State's office [see Gov Code § 53051(c)]. The roster can be viewed online in.pdf format, or obtained in print by contacting the Sacramento office of the Secretary of State. The roster is issued annually. The latest roster can be accessed on the Internet at: www.ss.ca.gov/executive/ca\_roster/ca\_roster.htm. County clerks are also required to establish and maintain a roster [see Gov Code § 53051(c)].

8.23[3] Substituted Service If No Appropriate Officer Can Be Found. If an appropriate officer cannot be located, the plaintiff must file an affidavit with the court stating that service of summons cannot be made pursuant to

CCP § 416.50(a). The court may then order that service of summons be made on the public entity by either of the following methods [Gov Code § 960.3(b)]:

- Leaving two copies of the process for each public agency defendant to be served, together with two copies of the order authorizing the service, at the Secretary of State's Sacramento office; or
- Mailing two copies of the process for each public agency defendant to be served, together with two copies of the order authorizing the service, to the office of the Secretary of State in Sacramento by certified or registered mail, addressee only, return receipt requested.

A $50 fee is charged for each public agency served in this manner [Gov Code § 960.3(d)]. Service is effective as of the day the return receipt is received from the Secretary of State [Gov Code § 960.3(b)(2)].

Exceptions:

The summons and complaint in claims, particularly tort claims, against the State of California must be served on the Attorney General [Gov Code § 955.4; House v. State of California (1981) 119 CA3d 861, 873, 174 CR 279 ]. The summons and complaint in actions for inverse condemnation against the Department of Transportation or the Department of Water Resources must be served on either the Director of those departments or the Attorney General [Gov Code §§ 955.6, 955.8].

8.24[1] Serving Minor's Parent, Guardian, Conservator, or Similar Fiduciary. Service on a minor must be made on the minor's parent, guardian, conservator, or similar fiduciary if it can be accomplished with reasonable diligence, and on the minor if the minor is at least 12 years old [CCP § 416.60].

8.24[2] Serving Person Having Care or Control of Minor, With Whom Minor Resides, or by Whom Minor Is Employed. If the minor's parent, guardian, conservator, or other fiduciary cannot be served with reasonable diligence, service may be made by delivering a copy of the summons and complaint to any of the following [CCP § 416.60]:

- Any person having care or control of the minor.
- Any person with whom the minor resides.
- Any person by whom the minor is employed.

In addition, a copy of the summons must be given to the minor if he or she is at least 12 years of age [CCP § 416.60; see also Miller v. Superior Court (1961) 56 C2d 49, 51, 13 CR 673, 362 P2d 497 (decided under prior law)].

8.26[2] Substituted Service on Secretary of State or County Elections Official. A candidate for public office appoints the Secretary of State, or the county elections official with whom the candidate filed for election, as agent for service of process [Elec Code § 12]. Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.27

8.27 Serving Owner or Operator of Motor Vehicle--California Resident.

8.27[1] Statutory Consent to Service of Process. A California resident who accepts a certificate of ownership or a certificate of registration of any motor vehicle (or any renewal) thereby consents to service of process either within or outside California, whether or not the person is then a California resident, in any action brought in a California court arising out of the ownership or operation of the vehicle [Veh Code § 17459]. A California resident who accepts or retains a California driver's license similarly consents to service of process in any action brought in California court arising out of the person's operation of a motor vehicle anywhere in California [Veh Code § 17460].

8.27[2] Methods of Service on California Resident Outside California. In an action regarding the ownership or operation of a motor vehicle, if the defendant is a California resident who has owned or registered the motor vehicle in California, or has accepted or retained a California driver's license, the defendant may be served outside California by either of the following methods [Veh Code § 17461]:

- As provided in the general service provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure [CCP §§ 413.10-417.40]; or
- Substituted service on the Department of Motor vehicles as specified in Veh Code §§ 17454, 17455, and 17456.

Service may be made on a person outside California under either CCP §§ 415.10-415.50 or Veh Code §§ 17454-17456. If made under the Code of Civil Procedure, the defendant has 30 days to respond [CCP § 412.20(a)(3)]. If service is made under the Vehicle Code, the defendant has 60 days to respond [Veh Code § 17462].

Decision Point--Plaintiff:

The plaintiff has a choice between these methods. Attempted personal service is not a prerequisite to substituted service with the DMV, nor is a court order required.

Cross References:

General service provisions, see 8.14.

Substituted service on DMV, see 8.27[3].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Personal service on the nonresident, wherever found outside California, is the equivalent of service by mail [Veh Code § 17455].

8.27[3] Substituted Service on Department of Motor Vehicles. Substituted service on the DMV for a California resident outside California is made by doing either of the following [Veh Code § 17454]:

- Leaving one copy of the summons and complaint at the office of the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles at the Director's office in Sacramento served, together with two copies of the order authorizing the service, at the Secretary of State's Sacramento office; or
- Mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the Director's office in Sacramento by certified or registered mail, addressee only, return receipt requested.

A $2.00 fee must be paid to the DMV at the time of service [Veh Code § 17454]. The plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney thereafter must "forthwith" send the defendant a notice of service and a copy of the summons and complaint by registered mail [Gov Code § 17455]. Service is effective as of the day the return receipt is received from the DMV office [Veh Code § 17454].

An affidavit by the plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney showing the mailing, together with the return receipt of the U.S. Postal Service bearing the defendant's signature, must be appended to the original summons when it is filed with the court. The summons must be returned "within such time as the court may allow" [Veh Code § 17456].

8.27[4] Proof of Personal Service Outside California. If personal service was made outside California, compliance with Veh Code § 17455 may be proved by the return of any duly constituted public officer, qualified to serve like process of and in the state or jurisdiction where the defendant is found, showing that service was made. The return must be appended to the original summons when it is filed with the court [Veh Code § 17456].

Cross Reference:

Proof of service requirements generally, see 8.36.

Warning--Defendant:

A resident motorist served outside California has 60 days in which to appear in the action in which the summons was issued [Veh Code § 17462].

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.28

8.28 Serving Owner or Operator of Motor Vehicle--Nonresident.

8.28[1] Nonresident's Statutory Consent to Service of Process. A nonresident [see Veh Code § 17450 (definition)] of California who operates a motor vehicle anywhere in California, whose agent operates a vehicle in the state, who otherwise accepts the rights and privileges conferred by the Vehicle Code, or who owns a motor vehicle that is operated by anyone in California with the owner's express or implied permission, thereby appoints the director of the Department of Motor Vehicles as agent for service of process for any action against the nonresident owner or operator growing out of any accident or collision resulting from operation of the motor vehicle in California [Veh Code § 17451; see also Miller v. Superior Court (1961) 195 CA2d 779, 16 CR 36]. This appointment is irrevocable, and is binding on the nonresident's executor or administrator [Veh Code §§ 17451-17453].

8.28[2] Methods of Service on California Resident Outside California. In an action against a nonresident arising out of the operation of a motor vehicle in California, the nonresident defendant may be served outside California by either of the following methods:

- As provided in CCP § 415.40, which generally governs service on persons outside California [see 8.14[5] for discussion of service under this statute]; or
- Substitute service on the Department of Motor vehicles as specified in Veh Code §§ 17454, 17455, and 17456 [see 8.28[3], see also 8.27[2]].

Decision Point--Plaintiff:

If service is made under the Vehicle Code, the defendant has 60 days to respond [Veh Code § 17462]. When service is made pursuant to CCP § 415.40, the defendant has 30 days to respond [CCP § 412.20(a)(3); see Anderson v. Sherman (1981) 125 CA3d 228, 234-237, 178 CR 38 (upholding shorter period under Code of Civil Procedure)].

8.28[3] Substituted Service on Department of Motor Vehicles. Substituted service on the DMV for nonresident of California is made under Veh Code § 17454 [see Veh Code § 17454]. A copy of the summons and complaint must also be sent "forthwith" to the defendant by registered mail [Veh Code § 17455].

 Cross Reference:

Substituted service on DMV pursuant to Veh Code § 17454, see 8.27[3].

8.28[4] Proof of Personal Service Outside California. Compliance with Veh Code § 17455 may be proved by the return of any duly constituted public officer, qualified to serve like process of and in the state or jurisdiction where the defendant is found, showing that service was made. Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.29

8.29 Serving Nonresident Executor or Administrator.

8.29[1] Appointment Constitutes Consent to Secretary of State as Agent for Service of Process. A nonresident who accepts appointment as a personal representative thereby irrevocably appoints the Secretary of States as agent for service of process. The appointment of the nonresident personal representative also extends to any personal representative of a deceased nonresident personal representative [Prob Code § 8572(a); see Prob Code § 58 (personal representative defined)].

8.29[2] Substituted Service on Secretary of State. Summons against a nonresident personal representative may be served on the Secretary of State if the action or proceeding (1) is with respect to the estate, or (2) is founded on or arises out of the acts or omissions of the nonresident personal representative in that capacity [Prob Code § 8572(b); see Prob Code § 8576(a) (effect of service)].

Service on a nonresident personal representative is made by delivering to and leaving with the Secretary of State two copies of the summons and complaint or notice of motion and either of the following [Prob Code § 8574(a)]:

- A copy of the statement of address filed by the nonresident personal representative with the court that appointed the personal representative [see Prob Code § 8573]; or
- If the nonresident personal representative has not filed a statement of address, a copy of the letters issued to the nonresident personal representative, together with a written statement signed by the party or attorney of the party seeking service that sets forth an address for use by the Secretary of State.

Strategic Points--Plaintiff:

- Although personal service is also valid [Prob Code § 8574(c)], there is no requirement that personal service be attempted before using substituted service through the Secretary of State.

- Every California superior court has its own website. Some counties, such as San Francisco, have all court papers and filings available online. Others do not. In the latter counties, it may be necessary to contact the probate clerk and have the clerk research the court records to obtain the statement of address of the nonresident personal representative. The clerk may charge a fee for this research. Information on how to contact the clerk for this information is usually available on the court's website.

After receiving the process, the Secretary of State will promptly mail by registered mail one copy of the summons and complaint or notice of motion to the nonresident personal representative at the address shown on the statement delivered to the Secretary of State [Prob Code § 8574(b)].

8.29[3] Personal Service Also Valid. Personal service of process on the nonresident personal representative, wherever found, is the equivalent of service on the Secretary of State [Prob Code § 8574(c)].

8.29[4] Proof of Service. Special proof of service is applicable when service is made on a nonresident personal representative [Prob Code § 8575]:

- If the Secretary of State made service by mail, the certificate of the Secretary of State showing the mailing must be filed with the court.
- If personal service was made outside California, the return of service by a duly constituted public officer qualified to serve the process in the jurisdiction where the nonresident personal representative is found must be included. The return must be attached to the original summons and filed with the court.

A nonresident personal representative served under Prob Code § 8574 "may" appear and answer the complaint within 30 days from the date of service [Prob Code § 8576(b)].

8.29[5] Service Under Code of Civil Procedure Also Valid. Notwithstanding the provisions of the Probate Code, the general provisions in the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to service of persons outside California also apparently applies to service on an out-of-state personal representative [see CCP § 415.40]. This provision permits service in any manner specified in CCP §§ 415.10-415.50.

8.30 Serving Out-of-State Insurers, Agents, and Brokers.

8.30[1] Substituted Service on Insurance Commissioner Authorized. Service of process can be made on the California Insurance Commissioner in specified situations involving out-of-state insurance companies, agents and brokers [Ins Code § 12931(b); see Ins Code §§ 1452 (reciprocal insurance exchanges), 1605 (admitted foreign or alien insurers), 1612 (nonadmitted insurers), 11105 (admitted and formerly admitted fraternal benefit societies)]. The text of Ins Code § 12931(b) should be consulted in appropriate cases to determine the details regarding which insurers are subject to these provisions.

8.30[2] Serving Insurance Commissioner. Service on the Insurance Commissioner is made by delivering to the commissioner or a deputy two copies of the summons and complaining, for each person or party defendant so served, accompanied by a fee of $12 for each person or party being served [Ins Code § 12931(a)]. The Commissioner's office will then mail one of the copies to the person being served by certified or registered mail [Ins Code § 12931(c)].

8.30[3] Notifying Defendant of Service by Registered or Certified Mail. Within 10 days after process is delivered to the Insurance Commissioner, the plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney must notify the defendant by certified or registered return-receipt mail of service on the Commissioner, and provide a copy of the complaint with the notification. The plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney must then file an affidavit showing compliance with the notification requirement with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending on or before the date the defendant is required to appear [Ins Code § 12931(d)].

Cross Reference:

8.30[4] Service Under Code of Civil Procedure Also Valid. An out-of-state insurer also may be served under the general provisions in the Code of Civil Procedure [CCP §§ 415.10-415.50], or by sending a copy of the summons and complaint by first-class mail, postage prepaid with return receipt, to the person to be served [CCP § 415.40]. Chapter 8 Service of Summons
III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.31

8.31 Serving Nonresident Real Estate Licensee or Subdivider

8.31[1] Attempt Personal Service First. When serving a nonresident real estate licensee or subdivider, personal service must be attempted first, before attempting substituted service on the Department of Real Estate (for real estate licensees) or Secretary of State (for subdividers) [B&P Code §§ 10151.5(c) (real estate licensees), 11007 (subdividers)].

8.31[2] Nonresident Licensees--Substituted Service on Department of Real Estate Authorized. If service of process cannot be made in California on a nonresident holder of a California real estate license, service may be made on the Department of Real Estate. Every nonresident applicant for a real estate license, must file an irrevocable consent to service on the Department of Real Estate if service of process cannot be made in California after exercise of due diligence [B&P Code § 10151.5(c)].

The statute does not specify any detailed requirements or procedures for service on the Department of Real Estate. It specifies only that valid service can be made by "delivering the process" to the Department of Real Estate [B&P Code § 10151.5(c)].

8.31[3] Nonresident Subdividers--Substituted Service on Secretary of State. If service of process cannot be made in California on a nonresident subdivider after the exercise of due diligence, service may be made on the Secretary of State. Every nonresident applicant for a real estate license, and every nonresident subdivider, must file an irrevocable consent to service on the Secretary of State if service of process cannot be made in California after exercise of due diligence [see B&P Code § 11007].

The statute does not specify any detailed requirements or procedures for service on the Secretary of State. It specifies only that the provisions of former CCP § 1018 (repealed 1999) are applicable insofar as possible [B&P Code § 11007].

8.31[4] Serving Nonresident Real Estate Licensees or Subdividers as Authorized by Code of Civil Procedure or by Return-Receipt Mail. A nonresident real estate licensee or subdivider, like any other person or entity being served outside California, can also be served in any manner provided by CCP §§ 415.10-415.50, or by sending, by first-class mail, postage prepaid with return receipt, a copy of the summons and complaint to the person to be served. Service in this form is deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing [CCP § 415.40].

8.32 Serving Defendant Under Corporate Securities and Franchise Investment Laws.

8.32[1] Who Must Designate Corporations Commissioner as Agent for Service of Process. Persons attempting to qualify to sell securities in California, or filing a request for or notice of an exemption from qualification, or applying for a certificate as an agent, broker-dealer, or investment adviser, must irrevocably consent to the appointment of the Commissioner of Corporations as their attorney to receive service of process in noncriminal actions or proceedings arising under the Corporate Securities Law. Service on the Commissioner has the same force and validity as if personally served on the person who filed the consent [Corp Code §§ 25165 (securities qualification or exemption), 25240 (agents, broker-dealers, and investment advisers); see Corp Code §§ 25102(h)(4) (designation of agent under California "small offering" securities exemption), 25211(a), (b)(3) (agent, broker-dealer), 25231(a) (investment adviser)]. A similar provision applies to applicants (other than California corporations, limited partnerships, and limited liability companies), for registration of an offer to sell franchises under the Franchise Investment Law [Corp Code § 31155].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the general Corporations Code sections applicable to service of process on foreign corporations, see 8.18[6] (the provisions discussed in this section apply specifically to actions under the Corporate Securities Law and the Franchise Investment Law).

8.32[2] Prohibited Conduct Constitutes Implied Appointment of Commissioner as Agent. In addition to the express appointments of the Corporations Commissioner as agent for service of process, Corp Code § 25550 provides that if any person, including a nonresident, engages in any conduct prohibited under the Corporate Securities Law, if personal jurisdiction cannot otherwise be obtained over that person in California, that person's conduct will be considered equivalent to that person's appointment of the Commissioner as the person's agent for service of process in any action or proceeding growing out of that conduct and brought under any law, rule, or order under the Corporate Securities Law. Corp Code § 31420 contains similar provisions for service in actions or proceedings arising out of a violation of the Franchise Investment Law.

8.32[3] Making Substituted Service on Commissioner of Corporations. Substituted service on the Corporations Commissioner may be made by leaving a copy of the process in the Commissioner's office [Corp Code §§ 25102(h)(4), 25165, 25240, 25550, 31155, 31420].

Service is effective only if the plaintiff then "forthwith" sends notice of service along with a copy of the summons and complaint by registered or certified mail to the defendant at the defendant's last address on file with the Commissioner [Corp Code §§ 25102(h)(4), 25165, 25240, 25550, 31155, 31420 (notice to defendant's "last known address" or "other steps which are reasonably calculated to give actual notice")].

Lastly, the plaintiff must file an affidavit of compliance with the foregoing requirements on or before the day for return of the process, or within the time allowed by the court in which the action is pending [Corp Code §§ 25102(h)(4), 25165, 25240, 25550, 31155, 31420].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the proof of service requirements generally, see 8.36.

8.32[4] Serving Process Under Corporate Securities Law and Franchise Investment Law as Authorized by Code of Civil Procedure or by Return-Receipt Mail. Service of process pursuant to CCP §§ 413.10-417.40 is not prohibited by the other methods for service of process under the Securities and Franchise Investment Laws. Therefore, a summons under these laws can also be served in any manner provided by CCP §§ 415.10-415.50, or by sending, by first class mail, postage prepaid with return receipt, a copy of the summons and complaint to the person to be served. Service in this form deemed complete on the 10th day after mailing [CCP § 415.40].

8.33 Serving Person in Gated Community.

8.33[1] Process Servers May Access Gated Communities for Reasonable Time to Effect Service. Process servers must be granted access to gated communities for a reasonable period of time for the purpose of performing lawful service of process or service of a subpoena, provided the gated community in question is staffed by a guard or other security personnel at the time service of process is attempted [CCP § 415.21]. The process server must identify to the guard the person or persons to be served, and display a current driver's license or other identification and one of the following [CCP § 415.21(a)]:

- A badge or other confirmation that the individual is acting in his or her capacity as a representative of a county sheriff or marshal.
- Evidence of current registration as a process server.

8.33[2] Making Substituted Service on Guard. A residential gate guard who denies a process server access to a gated community in which the person to be served resides is considered a competent member of the household of the person to be served, permitting substituted service on the guard [ Bein v. Brechtel-Jochim Group, Inc. (1992) 6 CA4th 1387, 1393-1394, 8 CR2d 351 ; see also CCP § 415.20].

8.34 Serving Person in Military.

The law does not impose any special requirements or limitations on serving persons in active military service. Thus, such individuals should be served by the same methods applicable to other categories of defendants. Older cases have clearly rejected the existence of any immunity from service by military personnel either on public policy grounds [ Murrey v. Murrey (1932) 216 C 707, 714, 16 P2d 741 ; Tulley v. Superior Court (1941) 45 CA2d 24, 27, 113 P2d 477 ] or under the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [ McFadden v. Shore (ED Pa 1945) 60 F Supp 8, 9 ; see 50 USC app §§ 501-594].

Note, however, that the federal Servicemembers Civil Relief Act [50 USC app §§ 501-594] and comparable California legislation [M&V Code §§ 400-420] provide for the temporary suspension of various legal proceedings, obligations, and liabilities for persons in military service.

8.35 Serving Fictitious Defendants.

Although fictitious defendants must be listed in their fictitious capacities on the summons, it is obviously impossible to effect service on a fictitious defendant until that person has been identified.

When a fictitious defendant is ultimately identified, the plaintiff amends the complaint or files an amendment to the complaint to name the newly identified party in place of one of the fictitious defendants. Service of the summons and complaint then is made as in any other case, although proof of service is subject to special requirements. The summons or other process (or, if there is no summons or other process, the copy of the first pleading or other notice served on the defendant) must contain on its face a notice stating: "To the person served: You are hereby served in the within action (or proceedings) as (or on behalf of) the person sued under the fictitious name of (designating it)." If that notice does not appear, no default judgment may be taken against the defendant so designated [CCP § 474].

III. SERVING SUMMONS

8.36 Complying With Proof of Service Requirements.

8.36[1] Basic 60-Day Time Limit. Proof of service generally must be filed within 60 days after the filing (not the service) of the complaint [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(b)].

Exceptions:

The time limit in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110 does not apply to unlawful detainer proceedings, proceedings under the Family Code, and any other proceedings for which different service requirements are prescribed by law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(a)]. Similarly, the 60-day rule does not apply to collections cases as defined in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(a) [Cal Rules Ct, Rules, 3.110(a), 3.740(c)(1)]. Instead, the complaint must be served and proof of service filed, or an order for summons obtained, within 180 days of the filing of the complaint in those cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(d)].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of "collections case" as defined in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(a), see Ch. 23, Case Management, 23.04[1][i].

Distinguish:

The requirement of CCP § 583.210(b) that proof of service of the summons must be filed within 60 days after the time defendant is served with the summons and complaint is enforced by mandatory dismissal of an action on the motion of the court or any party [see CCP § 583.250; see also 8.39[2][b]], whereas the requirements of Gov Code § 68616(a) that the complaint must be served within 60 days of its filing, plus any extension, and of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(b) that the proof of service of the summons must be filed within 60 days after the time the complaint is filed are enforced by discretionary sanctions that may include dismissal under specified circumstances [see Gov Code § 68608(b); see also 8.08[1][a]].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of the various time periods applicable to service of the summons and complaint, see 8.08.

8.36[2] Local Rules May Affect Actual Time Available. Local rules generally track Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(b).

For example:

- Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.7(a)(1) (complaint must be served and proof of service returned within 60 days of filing date unless appearance is made within that time).
- San Diego Super Ct Rules, Div. II, Rule 2.5 (certificate of service must be filed within 60 days of filing of complaint, unless certificate of progress has been filed indicating why service was not effected).
- San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 3.3 (simply requiring compliance with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110).

Because the requirements of local rules are not identical, however, they should be reviewed at the time the complaint is filed.

8.36[3] Completing Proof of Service. The person who has served the defendant must complete a valid proof of service in order for service of the summons to be effective [CCP § 417.10(a)]. Proofs of personal service must be made on forms approved by the Judicial Council [CCP § 417.10(f)]. Accordingly, the proof of service must be one of the following:

- Judicial Council Form POS-010, the Judicial Council's proof of service of summons form. This form is designated as mandatory in all civil actions [see CCP § 417.10(f)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 8.45.

- Drafted Form. In addition, it is permissible to use a form prepared entirely by word processor, typewriter, or similar process, if the following format requirements are followed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.150]:

- ☐ The general format requirements for court papers prescribed by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.100 et seq. apply except as noted below. Numbered lines are not required.
- ☐ The left, right, and bottom margins must be at least one-half inch. The top margin shall be at least three-quarters of an inch. The typeface must be Times, Courier, Arial, or an equivalent typeface not smaller than 9 points. Text must be single spaced and a blank line must precede each main numbered item.
- ☐ The title and all text of Judicial Council Form POS-010 not accompanied by a check box must be copied word for word, except for instructions, which need not be copied. The optional text describing the particular method of service used must be copied word for word, except that the check boxes must not be copied. Any optional text not describing the method of service used need not be included. The Judicial Council number of the Proof of Service of Summons form must be typed as follows either in the left margin of the first page opposite the last line of text or at the bottom of each page: "Judicial Council Form form POS-010."
- ☐ The text of form Judicial Council Form POS-010 must be copied in the same order as it appears on the printed form using the same item numbers. A declaration of diligence may be attached to the proof of service or inserted as item 5b(5). Areas marked "For Court Use" must be copied in the same general locations and occupy approximately the same amount of space as on the printed form.

- ☐ The telephone number of the attorney or party must appear flush with the left margin and below the attorney's or party's address.
- ☐ The name of the court must be flush with the left margin. The address of the court is not required.
- ☐ Material that would have been typed onto the printed form must be typed with each line indented three inches from the left margin.

8.36[4] Content of Proof of Service.

8.36[4][a] Manner of Showing Proof of Service. The proof of service must comply with the requirements listed in 8.36[4][b]-[f], depending on the manner of service [see CCP § 417.10]. The attorney should verify that the proof of service is properly completed before filing it, to avoid problems later.

8.36[4][b] Proof of Service: Personal Delivery. When service was by personal delivery under CCP § 415.10 [see 8.14 (personal service)], the proof of service must state [CCP § 417.10(a)]:

- The time, place, and manner of service;
- Facts indicating that the summons was lawfully served;
- The name of the person served;
- If the defendant was originally named as a fictitious defendant, the affidavit must state the fictitious name under which the defendant was served and that the fact that notice of identity was given by endorsement on the document served as required under CCP § 474 [see 8.35];
- The person's title and capacity; and
- If applicable, that the notice required by CCP § 412.30 in actions against corporations, unincorporated associations, and partnerships [see 8.18, 8.21] appeared on the copy of the summons served.

8.36[4][c] Proof of Service: Combination Service. For combination service under CCP § 415.20, the affidavit must show, in addition to the items noted in 8.36[4][b], the mailing of an additional copy of the complaint to person or entity served [CCP §§ 415.20, 417.10(a)]. If combination service was made on an individual, the affidavit or declaration must show that personal service could not have been made with reasonable diligence [CCP §§ 415.20(b), 417.10(a)].

Cross Reference:

See 8.14[3].

8.36[4][d] Proof of Service: Service by Mail. For service by mail under CCP § 415.30 [see 8.14[4] (service by mail)], the proof of service must specify the time and place of mailing, type of mailing used, and the address to which the mail was sent. The acknowledgment of receipt of summons contained in CCP § 415.30 [Judicial Council Form POS-015; Form, see 8.46], or other written acknowledgment of receipt of summons satisfactory to the court, must be attached [CCP § 417.10(a)].

Cross References:

See 8.14[4] (service by mail).

Form, see 8.46 (Notice and Acknowledgment of Receipt--Civil).

8.36[4][e] Proof of Service: Service by Publication. If service was made by publication [see CCP § 415.50], the publisher, printer, or the publisher's or printer's foreman or principal clerk, may make proof of service by affidavit or declaration, showing the time and place of publication [CCP § 417.10(b); see CCP § 2010]. A copy of the summons should be attached [CCP § 2010].

If the summons is also mailed, an affidavit showing the time and place a copy of the summons and complaint were mailed to the party to be served must also be filed.

Cross Reference:

See 8.14[6] (service by publication).

8.36[4][f] Proof of Service: Service by Posting on Premises (Unlawful Detainer Action). If the proceeding is an unlawful detainer action and service was made by posting [see CCP § 415.45], the person who posted the premises makes proof of service by affidavit or declaration, showing the time and place of posting [CCP § 417.10(e)].

If the summons is also mailed, an affidavit showing the time and place a copy of the summons and complaint were mailed to the party to be served must also be filed [CCP § 417.10(e)].

8.36[4][g] Proof of Service: Service Requirements of Specific Statutes. If another California statute imposes its own proof of service requirements in specified situations, proof of service must be made in accordance with those statutory requirements. Otherwise, the requirements of CCP § 417.10 control [CCP § 417.10(c)].

8.36[5] Proof of Service Outside California.

8.36[5][a] Proof of Service Requirements Outside California. If the summons was served outside California, proof of service must be made in by one of the methods specified in CCP § 417.20. Use of the word "or" in that section implies that when more than one method of proof of service applies in a particular transaction, any of the applicable methods can be used.

8.36[5][b] Proof of Service Under California Statute. If summons was served outside California in a manner specified by a California statute, the proof of service must be made in the manner prescribed in CCP § 417.10 [CCP § 417.20(a)]. If service is made by mail pursuant to CCP § 415.30, proof of service must include the acknowledgment of receipt of summons in the form provided by that section or other written acknowledgment of receipt of summons satisfactory to the court [CCP § 417.20(a)].

Cross References:

See 8.36[4][d].

Form, see 8.46.

Warning:

If service is made outside California by certified or registered mail [CCP § 415.40; see also 8.14[5]], proof of service must strictly comply with the requirements of CCP § 417.20(a) [ Bolkiah v. Superior Court (1999) 74 CA4th 984, 1000, 88 CR2d 540 ]. The proof of service must include evidence satisfactory to the court establishing actual delivery to the person to be served, either by a signed return receipt or other evidence [CCP § 417.20(a); see also Stamps v. Superior Court (1971) 14 CA3d 108, 110, 92 CR 151 ].

8.36[5][c] Proof of Service When Summons Was by Court Order. If service was made outside California pursuant to court order [see CCP §§ 413.10(b), (c), 413.30], proof of service must be made in the manner prescribed in the order [CCP §§ 413.30, 417.20(b)].

8.36[5][d] Proof of Service Under Law of Place of Service. Subject to any additional requirements that may be imposed by the court in which the action is pending, proof of service may be made in the manner prescribed by the law of the place where the person is served for proof of service in an action in its courts of general jurisdiction [CCP § 417.20(c); see CCP § 413.10(b) (service outside California but within the United States), (c) (service outside United States)].

8.36[5][e] Proof of Service: Service by Posting on Premises (Unlawful Detainer Action). If the proceeding is an unlawful detainer action and service was made by posting [see CCP § 415.45], the person who posted the premises makes proof of service by affidavit, showing the time and place of posting [CCP § 417.20(e)].

If the summons is also mailed, an affidavit showing the time and place a copy of the summons and complaint were mailed to the party to be served must also be filed [CCP § 417.20(e)].

8.36[6] Include Registered Process Server's County and Registration Number. A proof of service signed by a registered process server or a registered process server's employee or independent contractor must indicate the county in which he or she is registered, and the applicable registration number. Any proof of service signed by a registered process server, the process server's employee, or an independent contractor must provide registration information [CCP § 417.40; B&P Code § 22360].

8.36[7] Proof of Service by Admission of Party. Under CCP §§ 417.10(d) (applicable to service within California) and 417.20(d) (service outside California), in addition to the usual methods for making proof of service, proof of service may be shown by the written admission of a party served. Such a written admission of service is equivalent to filing a formal proof of service as required by CCP § 417.10(a), (b), or (c) [CCP §§ 417.10(d), 417.20(d), Judicial Council Comment; see Shirran v. Dallas (1913) 21 CA 405, 411, 132 P 454 ; but see Tsakos Shipping & Trading, S.A. v. Juniper Garden Town Homes, Ltd. (1993) 12 CA 4th 74, 85, 15 CR 2d 585 (although defendant's pleadings and the declarations of its general partners indicated that defendant had actual knowledge of entry of sister state judgment, they did not constitute an admission that the notice was served on them)]].

Strategic Point:

Plaintiffs' attorneys should be aware of this alternative method of proving service, and defense counsel should bear in mind that written statements admitting that the summons was served may constitute proof of service under this statute.

III. SERVING SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.37

8.37 Proof of Service Must Be Filed Unless Defendant Has Made General Appearance.

After a summons has been served, proof of service of summons, as provided in CCP § 417.10 or CCP § 417.20, must be filed unless the defendant has previously made a general appearance [CCP § 417.30].

► Cross Reference:

Timely filing of proof of service of summons, see 8.36[1], [2].

Distinguish:

Amendments to CCP § 417.30 effective January 1, 2006 require only proof of service being filed, and have eliminated the requirement of returning the original summons after service, or of filing an affidavit if the summons was lost after service [Stats 2005, ch 300, § 3]. The original summons is now kept in the court's file and copies are issued to the plaintiff for service on the defendant [CCP § 412.10].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Once the proof of service is filed, a rebuttable presumption that service was proper is created if the proof of service complies with applicable statutory requirements [Evid Code § 647; see also Floveyor Int'l, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 CA4th 789, 795, 69 CR2d 457 ].

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
IV. RESPONDING TO SERVICE OF SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.38

8.38 CHECKLIST: Responding to Service of Summons.

- ☐ Determine following facts:
  - ☐ Date, time, place and manner in which summons was served on client.
  - ☐ Facts necessary to determine:
    - ☐ Veracity of the allegations.
    - ☐ Affirmative defenses.
    - ☐ Cross actions.
- ☐ Determine whether court has jurisdiction over defendant by service of summons.
  - ☐ Was service properly effected on defendant under applicable statute?
  - ☐ Was there proper basis for personal jurisdiction existing between defendant and state?
- ☐ Determine whether the action should be dismissed or stayed on the ground of forum non conveniens.
- ☐ Determine whether the action was filed in a proper venue.
- ☐ Determine whether the action is subject to dismissal for delay in prosecution.

Discussion:

See 8.39[2][b]; see also 8.08 (time limits for service of summons)

- ☐ Determine whether other actions are pending between same parties for same cause, and whether and how issue can be raised by demurrer.

Discussion:

See 8.39[2][c]

- ☐ Determine whether action is barred by doctrine of res judicata and whether to raise issue by demurrer, affirmative defense in the answer, or by motion for summary judgment.

Authority:

CCP §§ 396b(a), 410.10, 418.10(a)(2), 430.10(c), (e), 430.30(b), 437c, 583.110-583.430

Discussion:

See 8.39[2][d]

- ☐ Determine when defendant must file a responsive pleading or motion extending time to plead to avoid default.

- ☐ Determine when defendant must respond to complaint based on service of summons:

- ☐ Personal service: 30 days from date a copy of summons and complaint were served.
- ☐ Substituted service: within 40 days from date copy of summons and complaint were mailed.
- ☐ Service by mail and acknowledgment of receipt: within 30 days from date the acknowledgment of service is executed if returned to sender.
- ☐ Service by publication: within 30 days after the last date of publication.
- ☐ Service by other statute, pursuant to guidelines set forth in statute.
- ☐ Extension of time within which to appear or respond.

Authority:

CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 415.10-415.50, 430.40; see Gov Code § 6064

Discussion:

See 8.40

- ☐ Determine what type of responsive pleading to file:

- ☐ Answer or Demurrer:

☐ Must file original and serve copy on plaintiff.

☐ If demurrer is filed, it requires supporting memorandum.

☐ Cross-Complaints.

☐ Motions and Supporting Affidavits:

☐ To strike.

☐ To change venue.

☐ To quash.

☐ To dismiss for inconvenient forum.

☐ To dismiss for delay in prosecution.

Chapter 8 Service of Summons
IV. RESPONDING TO SERVICE OF SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.39

8.39 Evaluating the Complaint and Deciding on Course of Action.

8.39[1] Determining Whether Court Properly Obtained Jurisdiction Through Service of Summons. The circumstances of service should be evaluated to determine whether service was properly effected under the applicable statute, and whether there was a proper basis for jurisdiction. If service was not proper, the defendant can file a motion to quash service on the grounds of lack of personal jurisdiction [CCP § 418.10(a)(1)].

Warning:

A defendant waives the right to challenge the personal jurisdiction of the court over the defendant or the inadequacy of service, inconvenience of the forum, or delay in service of summons if the defendant files any other responsive pleading before filing a motion to quash or dismiss under CCP § 418.10 [CCP § 418.10(e)(3)]. A defendant may, however, file an answer, demurrer, or motion to strike concurrently with filing a motion to quash or dismiss [CCP § 418.10(e)].

Exception:

A defendant may appear at a hearing to challenge any ex parte relief sought by the defendant, without waiving the right to later file a motion to quash under CCP § 418.10 [CCP § 418.11].

8.39[2] Determining Whether Grounds Exist to Seek Dismissal of Action.

8.39[2][a] Seeking Dismissal Based on Forum Non Conveniens. A defendant, on or before the last day of his or her time to plead or within any further time that the court may allow for good cause, may serve and file a notice of motion to stay or dismiss the action on the ground of inconvenient forum [CCP § 418.10(a)(2)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the basis for a motion to stay or dismiss under the doctrine of inconvenient forum, see Ch. 9, Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction.

8.39[2][b] Seeking Dismissal Based on Delay of Prosecution. A defendant may bring a motion to dismiss pursuant to CCP § 418.10(a)(3) for delay in prosecution [CCP §§ 583.110-583.430] based, on any of the following grounds relating to service:

- Failure to serve the summons and complaint within three years after the action is commenced against the defendant [CCP § 583.210(a)]. The court, after notice to the parties, must dismiss the action upon its own motion or the motion of any interested person, whether or not a party to the action, if service is not made within that time [CCP § 583.230(a)], unless the defendant enters into a written stipulation or does another act that constitutes a general appearance [CCP § 583.220; see CCP § 583.250(b) (limits not subject to extension or excuse except as expressly provided)].

- Failure to file proof of service within 60 days after the time when the summons and complaint must be served on the defendant [CCP § 583.210(b)]. The court, after notice to the parties, must dismiss the action upon its own motion or the motion of any interested person, whether or not a party to the action, if service is not made within that time [CCP § 583.230(a)], unless the defendant enters into a written stipulation or does another act that constitutes a general appearance [CCP § 583.220; see CCP § 583.250(b) (limits not subject to extension or excuse except as expressly provided)].

- Failure to make service within two years after the action is commenced against the defendant [CCP § 583.420(a)(1)]. Dismissal on this basis is discretionary. The court may dismiss on its own motion or on motion of the defendant if dismissal appears appropriate to the court under the circumstances of the case [CCP § 583.410(a)]. The court may grant or deny the motion or, if the facts warrant, continue or defer its ruling on the matter pending performance by either party of any conditions relating to trial or dismissal of the case that may be required by the court to effectuate substantial justice [Cal Rules Ct. Rule 3.1342(f)].

8.39[2][c] Seeking Dismissal on Ground That Other Actions Are Pending. The action may be dismissed if there is another action pending between the same parties on the same cause of action [CCP § 430.10(c)].

Decision Point:

If other actions are pending between the parties, it is necessary to consider whether to raise this issue by demurrer pursuant to CCP § 430.10(c) seeking judicial notice of the pending action [CCP §§ 430.30(a), 430.70], or by affirmative defense in the answer [CCP §§ 430.10(c), 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)].

 Cross Reference:

Grounds for res judicata, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 491, Res Judicata (Matthew Bender).

 Decision Point:

In asserting that the action is barred by res judicata [see CCP § 1908], the defendant must determine whether to raise the issue by demurrer [CCP § 430.10(e)], invoking judicial notice [CCP §§ 430.30(a), 430.70] of a prior action [Evid Code § 452(d)], by affirmative defense in an answer [CCP §§ 430.10(e), 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)], or by motion for summary judgment [CCP § 437c].

IV. RESPONDING TO SERVICE OF SUMMONS

1-8 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 8.40

8.40 Time for Filing Response Is Based Upon Manner of Service.

The time within which a response must be filed is based on the manner in which the summons and complaint were served. The following response times apply:

- If personal service was made on defendant, response is required 30 days from date of service [see CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 415.10, 430.40].
- If substituted service was made, response is required within 40 days from date copy of summons and complaint were mailed [see CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 415.20, 430.40].
- If service was by mail with notice of acknowledgment of receipt, response is required within 30 days from the date the acknowledgment of service is executed, if returned [see CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 415.30, 430.40].
- If service by publication, response is required within 30 days of the last date of publication [see CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 415.50, 430.40; Gov Code § 6064].
- If service is made by first class mail outside state, response is required within 40 days after mailing [see CCP §§ 412.20(a)(3), 415.40, 430.40].
- If service is made pursuant to another statute or court order, response is required in accord with guidelines of statute or as directed by the court.

8.41 Preparing Responsive Pleading.

8.41[1] Preparing Answer or Demurrer and Accompanying Papers. Three copies of the responsive pleading (original for filing, copy for service on plaintiff, and office copy) must be prepared. A demurrer requires a supporting memorandum and the notice of a hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1100, 3.1113(a), 3.1320(c)].

8.41[2] Preparing Responsive Motions. Motions (to strike, transfer, quash service, stay or dismiss action for inconvenience or prosecutorial delay [CCP §§ 396b, 418.10(a), (d), 435]) must be prepared and filed with a supporting affidavit [CCP § 2009] or declaration [CCP § 2015.5], if any, and a supporting memorandum [see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1100, 3.1113].

Application is hereby made for an order directing that process in this action be served on defendant Smith Enterprises, hereinafter referred to as "Defendant," by personally delivering to the Secretary of State of California, or to an assistant or deputy Secretary of State, _____ [one copy or two copies] of the summons and complaint, together with _____ [one copy or two copies] of the order herein requested. In support of this application, the undersigned states:

1. The complaint in this action, which is for _____ [specify], was filed on _____ [date], and summons was duly issued on _____ [date].
2. Defendant _____ [is or was] a corporation organized and existing under the laws of _____ [state or country] [and authorized to do business in California (if applicable: as a bank)], with its principal place of business in California located at _____ [address]. _____ [If defendant has forfeited its charter or right to do business in California or has dissolved, specify in detail the circumstances of these events. If appropriate, incorporate relevant documents (e.g., court judgment) by reference as exhibits.]

[EITHER]

3. As shown by the Certificate of the Secretary of State of California, which is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference, _____ [Defendant has failed to designate an agent for service of process or Defendant's designated agent for service of process, _____ (name), has resigned and has not been replaced or Defendant's designated agent for service of process, _____ (name), is no longer authorized to act for the defendant].

[OR]

3. As shown by the Certificate of the Secretary of State of California, which is attached as Exhibit C and incorporated by reference, Defendant has designated _____ [name], a _____ [natural person, whose designated _____ (business or residence) address is _____ (specify) or a corporation], as its agent for service of process. [If agent is a corporation, add: The corporate agent's certificate on file in the Secretary of State's office, a certified copy of which is attached as Exhibit D and incorporated by reference, sets forth as the address(es) of its office(s) in California where any corporation designating it as agent for service of process may be served. It designates the following named employees at (each) office to whom the corporate agent authorizes delivery of a copy of any such process: _____ (specify). The agent's certificate contains its consent that delivery of process to any such person at the office where the person is employed will constitute delivery of any such copy to it, as agent.]

[CONTINUE]

4. Plaintiff has been unable to effect service of process on defendant by delivery of a copy of the summons and complaint [to defendant's designated agent for service of process in any manner specified by Sections 415.10, 415.20(a), or 415.30(a), of the Code of Civil Procedure or] to any of the _____ [other] persons listed in Section _____ [416.10(a) and (b) of the Code of Civil Procedure or 416.20(a) of the Code of Civil Procedure or 2110 of the California Corporations Code], although plaintiff has made diligent efforts to do so as follows: _____ [specify efforts made and results within personal knowledge of person signing this application; if any such efforts or results are not within that person's personal knowledge, an affidavit or declaration of the person having that knowledge should be executed, attached to this application, and incorporated in this application by reference].

[5. The (name and title of the person to whom and) address to which the process is to be sent by the Secretary of State is/are as follows: _____ (specify).]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

9.05[3] Trial Court Has Jurisdiction to Determine Personal Jurisdiction.

9.05[4] Actions Are Classified As in Personam, in Rem, or Quasi in Rem.

9.05[4][a] In Personam Actions Have Authority Over Person.

9.05[4][b] In Rem Actions Have Authority Over Property.

9.05[4][c] Quasi in Rem Actions Affect Interests of Persons in Property.

9.05[5] Personal Jurisdiction Is Either General or Limited.

9.05[5][a] General Jurisdiction Confers Jurisdiction for All Causes of Action Against Defendant.

9.05[5][b] Limited Jurisdiction Is Specific to Cause of Action.

9.05[6] No Personal Jurisdiction If Due Process Violated.

9.05[6][a] Judgment Rendered in Violation of Due Process Is Void.

9.05[6][b] Defendant Must Be Given Reasonable Notice and Opportunity for Hearing.

9.05[6][c] Nonresident Defendant Must Have Minimum Contacts With State.

9.06 Time for Making Motion.

9.06[1] Motion Must Be Served and Filed on or Before Last Day to Plead.

9.06[2] Time to Plead May Be Extended by Stipulation or Motion.

9.06[3] Hearing on Motion Must Be Within 30 Days After Filing of Notice.

9.06[4] Motion Extends Defendant's Time to Plead After Denial of Motion.

9.07 General Appearance May Waive Personal Jurisdiction and Other Objections.

9.07[1] California Adopts Federal Practice for Appearances.

9.07[2] Special Appearance Limits Appearance to Jurisdictional Issue.

9.07[3] Effect of Waiver by General Appearance.

9.07[3][a] Trial Court Gains Personal Jurisdiction Over Entire Case.

9.07[3][b] The Issue of Personal Jurisdiction May Not Be Appealed.

9.07[4] General Appearance Made When Defendant Takes Action That Recognizes Court's Authority to Proceed With Case.

9.07[5] General Appearance Made When Raising Issue of Subject Matter Jurisdiction.

9.07[6] Bringing and Reviewing a CCP § 418.10 Motion Is Not General Appearance.

9.07[7] Applying for or Stipulating to Extension of Time to Plead Is Not General Appearance.

9.08[1][b] Summons Is Defective.

9.08[1][c] Service of Summons Was Defective.

9.08[1][d] Substituted Service Was Defective.

9.08[1][e] Summons Served Was Not One Authorized for Civil Actions.

9.08[2] No Limited Personal Jurisdiction Over Nonresident If Minimum Contacts Absent and Jurisdiction Unreasonable.

9.08[2][a] California's Long-Arm Statute Confers Broadest Possible Jurisdiction.

9.08[2][b] Judicial Council Comments to Long-Arm Statute Elaborate Bases for Limited Personal Jurisdiction.

9.08[2][c] Fourteenth Amendment Protects Nonresident Defendants.

9.08[2][d] Due Process Requires Nonresident Defendants to Have Minimum Contacts With Forum State.

9.08[2][e] Mechanical Tests Are Inappropriate to Determine Minimum Contacts.

9.08[2][f] Nonphysical Entry Into Forum State Requires Purposeful Availment to Satisfy Minimum Contacts.

9.08[2][f1] Limited Personal Jurisdiction Requires Cause of Action Derived from Forum Activities.

9.08[2][g] No Jurisdiction Despite Minimum Contacts If Limited Jurisdiction Offends Traditional Notions of Fair Play and Substantial Justice.

9.08[2][h] Foreign National Defendants Afforded Extra Consideration.

9.08[3] No Personal Jurisdiction If Defendant Is Immune to Service or Suit.

9.08[3][a] Diplomats, Legislators, and Members of Congress Are Immune to Civil Actions.

9.08[3][b] Witnesses in Criminal Proceedings Not Subject to Service of Process.

9.08[3][d] Other Parties and Witnesses Not Protected.

9.08[3][e] National Banks Without a Branch Office in California Not Subject to Suit.

9.09 Burden of Proof on Motion to Quash.

9.09[1] Plaintiff Must Prove Jurisdictional Elements by Preponderance of Evidence.

9.09[2] Once Plaintiff Shows Minimum Contacts, Burden Shifts to Defendant to Show Jurisdiction Unreasonable.

9.09[3] Evidence Must Consist of Specific Evidentiary Facts.

9.09[3][a] Evidence Must Be Supported by Affidavit or Declaration.

9.09[3][b] Vague Assertions of Ultimate Facts Are Insufficient.

9.09[3][c] Verified Complaint May Serve As Counter-Declaration.

9.09[3][d] Unverified Complaint Is Insufficient.

9.09[4] Plaintiff May Conduct Discovery for Motion.

9.10 Contents of Motion to Quash.

9.11 Serving and Filing Papers.

9.12 Responding to Opposing Party's Papers and Request for Discovery.

9.13 Order and Notice of Ruling.

9.13[1] Prevailing Party Prepares Order.

9.13[2] Prevailing Party Must Follow Notice Requirements.

9.13[3] Defendant May Be Entitled to Contractual Costs.

9.14 CHECKLIST: Opposing a Motion to Quash.

9.15 Options and Strategies for Opposing Party.

9.15[1] Consider Whether to Oppose Motion.

9.15[2] Consider How Other Pleadings May Defeat Motion to Quash.

9.15[3] Consider Stipulation or Motion to Extend Time to File Opposition.

9.16 Opposition Papers Must Be Filed and Served at Least Nine Court Days Before Hearing.

9.17 Grounds for Proving Personal Jurisdiction Over Defendant.

9.17[1] Defendant Can Waive Challenge to Court's Personal Jurisdiction.

9.17[1][a] Failure to Bring Timely Motion to Quash Waives Lack of Personal Jurisdiction Defense.

9.17[1][b] Failure to File Motion to Quash at Time of Filing Demurrer or Motion to Strike Waives Lack of Personal Jurisdiction and Related Defenses.

9.17[1][c] Defendant Waives Personal Jurisdiction Objection by General Appearance.

9.17[2] Court Has Jurisdiction Over Defendant From Time Summons Served.

9.17[3] Defendant Is Within the Reach of California's Long-Arm Statute.

9.17[3][a] Long-Arm Statute Confers Broadest Possible Jurisdiction.

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
I. STRATEGY

9.02 Objective and Strategy.

Motions to quash and motions to stay or dismiss the action brought under CCP § 418.10 provide the defendant with an opportunity to end an action immediately without making a general appearance, which would have the effect of submitting to the court's jurisdiction to proceed with the case [see CCP §§ 418.10, 1014]. The objections that can be raised are:

- Lack of personal jurisdiction (via motion to quash service of summons).
- Inconvenient forum (via motion to stay or dismiss the action).
- Dismissal for delay in serving summons (via motion to stay or dismiss the action).

These issues must be the first ones to be raised. Making another response before doing so will constitute a general appearance submitting to the court's jurisdiction and waiving any claim of lack of personal jurisdiction [see CCP § 1014].

Trap:

Failure to make a 418.10 motion at the time of filing a demurrer or motion to strike constitutes a waiver of the issues of lack of personal jurisdiction, inadequacy of process, inadequacy of service of process, inconvenient forum, and delay in serving summons [CCP § 418.10(e)(3)].

Until January 1, 2003, if a party moving to quash responded to the complaint beyond making a CCP § 418.10 motion, the party would have made a general appearance and waived the grounds for the 418.10 motion. However, CCP § 418.10(e), as amended by Stats 2002, ch 69 (effective January 1, 2003), allows a party making a 418.10 motion to simultaneously answer, demur, or move to strike the complaint or cross-complaint. It provides: "Notwithstanding [CCP] Section 1014 [appearance by defendant], no act by a party who makes a motion under this section, including filing an answer, demurrer, or motion to strike constitutes an appearance, unless the court denies the motion made under this section. If the court denies the motion made under this section, the defendant or cross-defendant is not deemed to have generally appeared until entry of the order denying the motion" [CCP § 418.10(e)(1); see CCP § 418.10(e)(2) (general appearance further postponed until any proceedings on writ of mandate are concluded)].

This new language significantly reduces, and given the "no act ... including" language, may even eliminate, the danger of inadvertently making a general appearance by asking too much at the time of making a 418.10 motion. Thus, the amendment appears to have abrogated the strict rule that failure to limit the motion to the jurisdictional issue may result in a general appearance, which in essence waived the claim of lack of personal jurisdiction [see, e.g., Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036-1037, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ]. When adding CCP § 418.10(e), the Legislature expressly provided: "It is the intent of the Legislature in enacting this act to conform California practice with respect to challenging personal jurisdiction to the practice under Rule 12(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure" [Stats 2002, ch 69, § 2]. Fed R Civ P, Rule 12 includes several provisions designed to prevent a litigant from using a series of motions as a dilatory tactic and when read together, the consolidation and waiver provisions make clear that to avoid waiving most available Rule 12 defenses or objections, a party must raise them in one initial motion or, if none is filed, in the first responsive pleading [see Moore's Federal Practice, § 12.20 (3d ed. Matthew Bender)].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

The past procedure can have a substantial effect on the manner in which these disputes are litigated since lawyers, of course, must be extremely sensitive about waiving through appearances, discovery, or briefing what may be the most significant defense the out-of-state party has. Real problems can arise if the substantive defense and the jurisdictional defense overlap. Two examples are: (1) a breach of contract case in which the out-of-state defendant argues that no contract was formed and there was no minimum contact sufficient for jurisdiction (e.g., when the negotiations/sale involved an agent); (2) a product liability case in which the defendant argues that the product to which the plaintiff was exposed (e.g. asbestos) was not its product and that its products were never sold in state. (Although the latter situation is usually litigated as a product identification issue, not as a jurisdictional issue.) In those situations, the plaintiff can argue that the defendant was arguing the merits and not limiting its arguments to the jurisdictional issues.

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.03

9.03 CHECKLIST: Making a Motion to Quash.

Examine relevant timing issues:

- ☐ Motion must be filed and served on or before last day to plead, i.e., 30 days after service of summons.
- ☐ Determine whether to apply for extension of time to plead or seek stipulation extending time.
  - ☐ Stipulated extension is limited to 15 days.
  - ☐ Court-ordered extension is limited to 30 days without adverse party's consent.

Authority:

CCP §§ 418.10(a), (b), 1054; Gov Code § 68616(b); Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.110(d)

Discussion:

See 9.06

☐ Examine grounds for proving lack of jurisdiction:

- ☐ Defects in summons and service of summons:
  - ☐ Failure to serve summons.
  - ☐ If the defendant did not receive a copy of the summons and complaint, determine how he or she found out about the case.

☐ Summons was defective.

☐ Service of summons was defective.

☐ Examine when, where, and how the summons and complaint were served; obtain the copies served.

☐ Determine whether a proof of service of summons on the defendant has been filed; and if so, obtain a copy.

☐ Substitute service was defective.

☐ Summons served was one not authorized for civil actions.

☐ Absence of specific basis of personal jurisdiction under California's long-arm statute:

☐ Over an individual.

☐ Over a general partnership and the partners.

☐ Over a domestic corporation.

☐ Over a foreign corporation.

☐ Over the plaintiff.

☐ Due process requirements have not been satisfied:

☐ Defendant is not a resident or person served in California.

☐ Defendant has not been afforded reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard.

☐ Nonresident defendant has insufficient minimum contacts with California:

☐ Examine extent of physical and/or nonphysical entry into California.

☐ Apply test of fair play and substantial justice.

- ☐ Consider effect on reasonableness test if defendant is a foreign national.
- ☐ If minimum contacts are inadequate for general jurisdiction, determine if available grounds for exercise of limited jurisdiction.
- ☐ Defendant is immune to service or suit:
  - ☐ Heads of foreign missions and their staffs having diplomatic rank.
  - ☐ California state legislators during, and for five days before and after, a legislative session.
  - ☐ Witnesses in criminal proceedings.
  - ☐ Extradited defendants, if acquitted.
- ☐ Any combination of the above.

Authority:

CCP §§ 410.50, 418.10, 22 USCS § 254d, Cal Const, art IV, § 14

Discussion:

See 9.08

Form:

See 9.51

- ☐ Examine whether contract provisions control jurisdiction.

Discussion:

See 9.27

- ☐ Consider what pleadings to include with motion to quash and effect on general appearance.
  - ☐ Motion to quash, coupled with:
    - ☐ Answer.
    - ☐ Demurrer.
    - ☐ Motion to Strike.
  - ☐ Failure to move to quash at time of filing demurrer or motion to strike waives issues of lack of personal jurisdiction, inadequacy of process and service of process, inconvenient forum, and delay in serving summons.

- ☐ Simultaneous motion to quash and answer, demurrer, or motion to strike the complaint or cross-complaint does not constitute a general appearance by the defendant.
- ☐ A CCP § 473 or 473.5 motion for relief from default may be joined with a motion to quash without constituting a general appearance.

Authority:

CCP § 418.10(d), (e)

Discussion:

See 9.04, 9.07

- ☐ Determine whether appearance by counsel is unauthorized.

Authority:

CCP § 418.10(a)

Discussion:

See 9.07

- ☐ Prepare declarations with specific evidentiary facts.

- ☐ Identify proper declarant.

Authority:

CCP §§ 2009, 2015.5

Discussion:

See 9.09

Form:

See 9.52

- ☐ Prepare notice of motion to quash and accompanying papers:

- ☐ Notice of motion.
- ☐ Supporting declarations.
- ☐ Written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing.
- ☐ Supporting memorandum.

☐ Proof of service.

☐ Proposed order.

☐ File and serve motion:

☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.

Timing:

■ Motion must be filed and served on or before last day to plead, i.e., 30 days after service of summons.

■ Hearing date must be no more than 30 days after filing notice of motion.

■ Service of motion must be with at least 16 court days' notice.

Authority:

CCP §§ 418.10(b), 1005(a)(4), (b)

Discussion:

See 9.10, 9.11

Forms:

See 9.51, 9.52, 9.53

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

☐ Prepare reply if motion opposed:

☐ Prepare any reply declarations and any reply memorandum.

☐ Serve reply papers on opposing party at least five court days before the hearing.

Authority:

CCP §§ 1005, 1015; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300

Discussion:

See 9.12

☐ Prevailing party submits order conforming to judge's ruling.

☐ Prevailing party files and serves notice of ruling.

Authority:

CCP § 1019.5; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1304 et seq.

Discussion:

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.04

9.04 Options and Strategies for Moving Party.

9.04[1] Consider Whether Motion for Inconvenient Forum Is More Appropriate. If the facts of the case show that the defendant will likely come under the personal jurisdiction of a California court, a motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum may be a better choice. Remember that a motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum concedes personal jurisdiction, and seeks to stay or dismiss that action under equitable principles.

Strategic Points--Defendant:

A defendant may make the tactical decision to forego a motion to quash and to focus on an inconvenient forum motion because litigants need to "pick their battles" and focus on the arguments that have the highest probability of success to enhance the party's and lawyer's credibility. On the other hand, the statutory change seems to allow making both motions simultaneously, and there certainly could be cases in which the combination of the arguments might have a synergistic effect and allow the judge to see the merits of both arguments, while providing the judge some options as to how to decide the issues.

9.04[2] Consider Whether to File Additional Pleadings With Motion to Quash. A defendant or cross-defendant who files a demurrer or motion to strike without making a CCP § 418.10 motion at the same time waives the issues of lack of personal jurisdiction, inadequacy of process, inadequacy of service of process, inconvenient forum, and delay in serving summons [CCP § 418.10(e)(3)]. CCP § 418.10(e), in the text preceding (e)(1), allows, but does not require, a defendant or cross-defendant making a 418.10 motion to simultaneously answer, demur, or move to strike the complaint or cross-complaint without it constituting a general appearance.

When adding CCP § 418.10(e), the Legislature expressly provided: "It is the intent of the Legislature in enacting this act to conform California practice with respect to challenging personal jurisdiction to the practice under Rule 12(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure" [Stats 2002, ch 69, § 2].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

Notwithstanding the ability to safely do so, there does not seem to be much point in filing an other pleadings or motion with the motion to quash because if you prevail on the motion to quash, you will not have to incur the time and expense of preparing any other pleading or motion.

Distinguish:

Failure to make a CCP § 418.10 motion does not prevent the same party from filing a CCP § 473(d) motion at any time to vacate on extrinsic evidence a default judgment good on its face that is void for lack of personal jurisdiction [ Strathvale Holdings v. E.B.H. (2005) 126 CA4th 1241, 1248 , 25 CR3d 372 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of relief from default judgments void under CCP § 473(d) and related equitable relief, see Ch. 36, Defaults and Motions for Relief, 36.72 et seq.

9.04[3] Consider Motion to Extend Time to Plead or Stipulation. A defendant may want to consider a motion extending time to plead or a stipulation extending this time if the pleading cut off date is close and/or insufficient facts are needed for the motion and discovery is needed [see 9.06[2]].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.05

9.05 Motion to Quash Objects to Court's Authority Over Persons and Property.

9.05[1] Motion Is Procedure to Assert Court's Lack of Jurisdiction Over Nonresident. A motion to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction objects to a court's power to compel nonresidents to defend suits brought against them in the state's courts [see Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 C3d 143, 147, 127 CR 352, 545 P2d 264 ].

9.05[2] California's Long-Arm Statute Confers Broadest Possible Jurisdiction. California long-arm statute provides: "A court of this state may exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the Constitution of this state or of the United States" [CCP § 410.10; see, e.g., Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 C3d 143, 147, 127 CR 352, 545 P2d 264 ]. California's long-arm statute intends to confer on California courts the broadest possible personal jurisdiction, limited only by constitutional considerations [ Sibley v. Superior Court (1976) 16 C3d 442, 445, 128 CR 34, 546 P2d 322 ; see, e.g., Asahi Metal Indus. Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 US 102, 106, 107 S Ct 1026, 94 L Ed2d 92 ].

9.05[3] Trial Court Has Jurisdiction to Determine Personal Jurisdiction. A trial court's jurisdiction to determine personal jurisdiction, distinct from its general jurisdiction to make a binding determination on the merits, is plenary and may not be terminated or inhibited by other courts until the jurisdictional issues are determined [ Ziller Elecs. Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 CA3d 1222, 1228, 254 CR 410 ].

9.05[4] Actions Are Classified As in Personam, in Rem, or Quasi in Rem.

9.05[4][a] In Personam Actions Have Authority Over Person. In personam actions are based on the court's authority over the defendant's person and the court "can impose a personal obligation on the defendant in favor of the plaintiff" [ Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 US 186, 199, 97 S Ct 2569, 53 L Ed2d 683 ].

Example:

In personam judgments include actions imposing contract or tort liability by awarding the plaintiff a sum of money, and actions to enforce a duty of support or other personal obligation in a parent-child relationship [ Hartford v. Superior Court (1956) 47 C2d 447, 454, 304 P2d 1 ; see also Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 US 84, 91, 98 S Ct 1690, 56 L Ed2d 132 ].

9.05[4][b] In Rem Actions Have Authority Over Property. In rem or quasi in rem actions are based on the court's authority over the property in its territory, and does not impose a personal liability on the property owner since the owner is not before the court; and a judgment in rem affects the interest of all persons in the designated property [ Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 US 186, 199, 97 S Ct 2569, 53 L Ed2d 683 , Title & Document Restoration Co. v. Kerrigan (1906) 150 C 289, 306-308, 88 P 356 ]. Personal jurisdiction over the defendant is ordinarily not required, but the court must have jurisdiction over the res [see Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 CA3d 792, 798, 100 CR 477 ; People v. $6,500 U.S. Currency (1989) 215 CA3d 1542, 1546, 264 CR 294 ].

Example:

In rem actions include real property title actions, actions to determine marital status, and actions to invalidate a redevelopment plan [see, e.g., In re Marriage of Hanley (1988) 199 CA3d 1109, 1119, 245 CR 441 ; see also Bernardi v. City Council (1997) 54 CA4th 426, 436, 63 CR2d 347 ].

9.05[4][c] Quasi in Rem Actions Affect Interests of Persons in Property. A judgment quasi in rem affects the interests of particular persons in designated property found within the territorial jurisdiction of the court [ Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 US 186, 199 n17, 97 S Ct 2569, 53 L Ed2d 683 ; Title & Document Restoration Co. v. Kerrigan (1906) 150 C 289, 308, 88 P 356 ]. There are two types of quasi in rem actions: 1) the plaintiff seeks to secure a preexisting claim in the subject property and to extinguish or establish the nonexistence of similar interests of particular persons [ Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 US 186, 199 n17, 97 S Ct 2569, 53 L Ed2d 683 ], and 2) the plaintiff seeks to apply what he or she concedes to be property of the defendant to the satisfaction of a claim that plaintiff has against the defendant [ Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 US 186, 199 n17, 97 S Ct 2569, 53 L Ed2d 683 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of limitations on quasi in rem actions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances, § 323.12[3][e][iv] (Matthew Bender).

9.05[5] Personal Jurisdiction Is Either General or Limited.

9.05[5][a] General Jurisdiction Confers Jurisdiction for All Causes of Action Against Defendant. General jurisdiction arises when a nonresident defendant's activities in the forum are so substantial and continuous that due process does not require a connection between the cause of action pleaded and the nature of the defendant's activities in the state [ Perkins v. Benguet Consol. Mining Co. (1952) 342 US 437, 446-447, 72 S Ct 413, 96 L Ed 485, 47 Ohio Op. 216, 63 Ohio Law Abs. 146 ; Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 C3d 143, 147, 127 CR 352, 545 P2d 264 ; Hunt v. Erie Ins. Group (9th Cir 1984) 728 F2d 1244, 1246 ]. General jurisdiction confers jurisdiction for all causes of action against the defendant, and it is not necessary that the specific cause of action alleged be connected with the forum [ Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 C3d 143, 147, 127 CR 352, 545 P2d 264 ].

9.05[5][b] Limited Jurisdiction Is Specific to Cause of Action. If the nonresident defendant's activities within the state are not so pervasive as to justify the court's exercise of general jurisdiction, the court may nevertheless, in certain cases, exercise a limited, sometimes referred to as specific, jurisdiction over the defendant with respect to a given cause [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 474-475, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 446, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ]. Three-part test for specific jurisdiction includes [ Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1060-1061, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 ; Pedus Building Services, Inc. v. Allen (2002) 96 CA4th 152, 164, 116 CR2d 542 ]:

- The nonresident defendant must perform some act or consummate some transaction with the forum by which the defendant purposefully avails itself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;
- The claim must be one that arises out of or results from the defendant's forum-related activities; and

- Exercise of jurisdiction must be reasonable.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Specific jurisdiction is usually sufficient to achieve what the plaintiff wants. Making a general jurisdiction argument without sufficient facts may jeopardize the plaintiff's credibility and it certainly will cause the defendant to more vigorously argue at least that part of the argument because it has significance beyond just the one case. On the other hand, a general jurisdiction argument involves somewhat broader and different issues and can dovetail with a specific jurisdiction argument.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of limited personal jurisdiction over nonresident, see 9.08[2].

9.05[6] No Personal Jurisdiction If Due Process Violated.

9.05[6][a] Judgment Rendered in Violation of Due Process Is Void. "A judgment rendered in violation of due process is void in the rendering State and is not entitled to full faith and credit elsewhere" [ World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 US 286, 291, 100 S Ct 559, 62 L Ed2d 490 ]. For a judgment to impose a personal obligation or duty in favor of a plaintiff to be valid, the court must have jurisdiction over the person of the defendant [ Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 US 84, 91, 98 S Ct 1690, 56 L Ed2d 132 ; International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 161 A.L.R. 1057, 326 US 310, 316, 66 S Ct 154, 90 L Ed 95 ; see also CCP § 1917]. A judgment void for lack of personal jurisdiction may be attacked by a CCP § 473(d) motion at any time [ Strathvale Holdings v. E.B.H. (2005) 126 CA4th 1241, 1248 , 25 CR3d 372 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of relief from void judgments under CCP § 473(d) and related equitable relief, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 29.24 et seq.

9.05[6][b] Defendant Must Be Given Reasonable Notice and Opportunity for Hearing. Due process requires notice and opportunity to be heard [see Hanson v. Denckla (1958) 357 US 235, 245, 78 S Ct 1228, 2 L Ed2d 1283 ; In re Raner (1963) 59 C2d 635, 642-643, 30 CR 814, 381 P2d 638 ].

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

9.05[6][c] Nonresident Defendant Must Have Minimum Contacts With State. For a state court to exercise personal jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant, the defendant must have certain minimum contacts with the forum state so that maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [ International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 161 A.L.R. 1057, 326 US 310, 316, 66 S Ct 154, 90 L Ed 95 ; Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 C4th 262, 268, 127 CR2d 329, 58 P3d 2 ].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.06

9.06 Time for Making Motion.

9.06[1] Motion Must Be Served and Filed on or Before Last Day to Plead. A notice of motion to quash service of summons on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court over the defendant must be served and filed on or before the last day of the time to plead, or within any further time that the court may for good cause allow [CCP § 418.10(a)].

Timing:

A responsive pleading to a civil action complaint must be filed within 30 days after service of summons [CCP § 412.20(a)(3)].

No default may be entered against the defendant before expiration of the time to plead [CCP § 418.10(d)].

No motion under CCP § 418.10 or under CCP § 473 or 473.5 for relief from default, when joined with a motion under CCP § 418.10, or application to the court or stipulation of the parties for an extension of the time to plead, constitutes a general appearance by the defendant [CCP § 418.10(d)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearances, see 9.07.

9.06[2] Time to Plead May Be Extended by Stipulation or Motion. The parties may stipulate to one 15-day extension of the time to file a responsive pleading to the complaint [Gov Code § 68616(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(d)]. The court may grant an extension of the time to file a responsive pleading of up to 30 days, or longer if the adverse party does not object [CCP §§ 418.10(a), (b), 1054]. Neither an extension by stipulation nor by court order is considered a general appearance by the defendant [CCP § 418.10(d)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion and forms for extending time, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

9.06[3] Hearing on Motion Must Be Within 30 Days After Filing of Notice. For most causes of action, the notice of motion must designate a hearing date not more than 30 days after the filing of the notice [CCP § 418.10(b)].

Exception:

In a proceeding for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer, the time for making the motion is not less than three days nor more than seven days after the filing of the notice [CCP § 1167.4(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1327(a)].

9.06[4] Motion Extends Defendant's Time to Plead After Denial of Motion. The service and filing of the notice of motion extends the defendant's time to plead until 15 days after service on the defendant of a written notice of entry of an order denying the motion, except that for good cause shown the court may extend the defendant's time to plead for an additional period not exceeding 20 days [CCP § 418.10(b)].

Exception:

In a proceeding for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer, the defendant's time to plead is extended to five days after the defendant is served with a written notice of the entry of an order denying the motion, except that for good cause shown the court may extend a defendant's time to plead for an additional period not exceeding 15 days [CCP § 1167.4(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1327(a)].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.07

9.07 General Appearance May Waive Personal Jurisdiction and Other Objections.

9.07[1] California Adopts Federal Practice for Appearances. A defendant "appears" in an action when the defendant [CCP § 1014]:

- Answers.
- Demurs.
- Files a notice of motion to strike.
- Files a notice of motion to transfer under CCP § 396b (motion to change venue).
- Moves for reclassification under CCP § 403.040.
- Gives the plaintiff written notice of his or her appearance or when an attorney gives notice of appearance for the defendant.

Case law interpreted the words "appear," "appeared," and "appearance," standing alone as usually meaning a "general" rather than a "special" appearance, and answers, demurrers, and motions to strike were considered a general appearance under the language of CCP § 1014 [see Goodwine v. Superior Court (1965) 63 C2d 481, 484, 47 CR 201, 407 P2d 1 ; Chitwood v. County of Los Angeles (1971) 14 CA3d 522, 526, 92 CR 441 ]. However amended CCP § 418.10(e) provides that "[n]otwithstanding Section 1014," a defendant's simultaneous answer, demurrer, and motion to strike filed with a 418.10 motion do not constitute a general appearance until the motion is denied.

The Legislature's express intent in amending CCP § 418.10 effective January 1, 2003, with respect to challenging personal jurisdiction is to conform California practice to federal practice under Fed R Civ P, Rule 12(b). The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure abolished the technical distinction between general and special appearances in all federal courts, including those exercising diversity jurisdiction, the principal method for attacking the court's jurisdiction over the person of a defendant is a Rule 12(b)(2) motion [Moore's Federal Practice, § 12.31 (3d ed. Matthew Bender)]. It remains to be seen just how much federal practice will be used in interpreting CCP § 418.10(e) given the differing language of Section 418.10 and Fed R Civ P, Rule 12(b).

In light of these legislative developments, and given that general and special appearance law is still applicable until case law interprets the new statutory language, the following sections on general and special appearance law are provided. Practitioners may draw on this information for fashioning arguments that will help define the effect of the 2003 amendments to Section 418.10.

9.07[2] Special Appearance Limits Appearance to Jurisdictional Issue. A special appearance is made when a defendant appears in court for the sole purpose of objecting to the court's lack of jurisdiction over the defendant's person, without submitting to the court's jurisdiction [see Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036-1037, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ; Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 CA3d 792, 800-801, 100 CR 477 ; Josephson v. Superior Court (1963) 219 CA2d 354, 361, 33 CR 196 ].

9.07[3] Effect of Waiver by General Appearance.

9.07[3][a] Trial Court Gains Personal Jurisdiction Over Entire Case. A general appearance in an action waives any objection to personal jurisdiction, and the defendant submits to the personal jurisdiction of the court [see, e.g., Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 CA3d 792, 800-801, 100 CR 477 ; Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036-1037, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ]. A general appearance is equivalent to personal service of summons on that party [CCP § 410.50(a); see also Harrington v. Superior Court (1924) 194 C 185, 189, 228 P 15 ; S. Pac. Transp. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization (1985) 175 CA3d 438, 442, 221 CR 12 ; Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1147, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 ].

9.07[3][b] The Issue of Personal Jurisdiction May Not Be Appealed. Waiver of lack of personal jurisdiction by a general appearance of the defendant waives the right to raise the jurisdictional question on appeal [ State Farm General Ins. Co. v. JT's Frames, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 429, 437, 104 CR3d 573 ].

9.07[4] General Appearance Made When Defendant Takes Action That Recognizes Court's Authority to Proceed With Case. A general appearance is made when a defendant either enters an appearance in an action without limiting the purpose of the appearance or, except as otherwise provided by statute, when the defendant asks for relief that only a court with personal jurisdiction over the defendant can give or recognizes the authority of the court to proceed [see Davenport v. Superior Court (1920) 183 C 506, 511, 191 P 911 ; Hamilton v. Asbestos Corp. (2000) 22 C4th 1127, 1147, 95 CR2d 701, 998 P2d 403 (defendant's participation in consolidated action constituted appearance in one of the actions in which defendant had not been served)].

Warning:

Even if moving party designates motion to quash as a "special appearance," if the moving party seeks relief on any basis other than lack of personal jurisdiction, the party makes a general appearance [ Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036-1037, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ; see also Goodwine v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1965) 63 C2d 481, 484, 47, CR201, 63 C2d 481, 47 CR 201, 407 P2d 1 ].

A party waives an otherwise available jurisdictional defense by arguing defenses on the merits [ Mansour v. Superior Court (1995) 38 CA4th 1750, 1756 (if defendant raises any other question, or asks for any relief that can only be granted on the hypothesis that the court has jurisdiction of the person, the appearance is general)]. Any arguments that go beyond jurisdictional issues, to the substance and/or the procedural aspects of the claims constitute a general appearance and waive any personal jurisdictional objections [ Geary St., L.P. v. Superior Court (1990) 219 CA3d 1186, 1194 ]. A request for discovery constitutes a general appearance [ Factor Health Mgmt. v. Superior Court (2005) 132 CA4th 246, 250 , 33 CR3d 599 ]. A party who seeks relief independent and apart from the plea to the jurisdiction of the person, that, if successful, would work a dismissal of the action on an entirely distinct legal ground waives the question of jurisdiction and submits to the jurisdiction of the court [ Olcese v. Justice's Court of First Judicial Township (1909) 156 C 82, 88, 103 P 317 ; see Zobel v. Zobel (1907) 151 C 98, 101 (defendant who appears and asks for relief that can only be granted on the hypothesis that the court has jurisdiction submits to the jurisdiction of the court)].

Warning:

Even a nonparty that is not named in the pleadings makes a general appearance and submits to the court's personal jurisdiction by participating in the proceedings in an aforementioned manner [ Serrano v. Stefan Merli Plastering Company, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 1014, 1029, 76 CR3d 559 (nonparty found to have entered general appearance by agreeing that trial court would determine validity and reasonableness of expedited transcript fees and opposing on the merits a party's motion for relief from those fees)].

Distinguish:

A general appearance is entered when the court can grant any affirmative relief on the merits of the defendant's papers. This is distinguished from a mere request for a dismissal based on a statutory provision, which is not a general appearance [ Dial 800 v. Fesbinder (2004) 118 CA4th 32, 53 ; Berard Construction Co., Inc. v. Municipal Court (1975) 49 CA3d 710, 713-720, 122 CR 825 (statutory motion to dismiss on ground of inconvenient forum); Brock v. Fouchy (1946) 76 CA2d 363, 370, 172 P2d 945 ].

Warning:

A motion for contractual attorney fees premised on the theory that a defendant is the prevailing party in an action on a contract that is dismissed on grounds other than lack of personal jurisdiction is an affirmative request for relief sufficient for a general appearance [ Dial 800 v. Fesbinder (2004) 118 CA4th 32, 54 ].

There are, however, situations in which the merits of the personal jurisdictional challenge are so intertwined with other issues, that no waiver has been found. It has been stated that when in personam jurisdiction is claimed on the basis of a foreign defendant's alleged forum-related activities in connection with the cause of action pleaded, facts relevant to the question of jurisdiction often bear on the basic merits of the complaint. If in personam jurisdiction depends on the validity of the substantive claim against the foreign defendant, it is to be expected that the defendant's showing on the motion to quash may also negate the existence of the claim [ Regents of Univ. of N.M. v. Superior Court (1975) 52 CA3d 964, 970 n7 ; Malone v. Equitas Reinsurance (2000) 84 CA4th 1430, 1441 ].

Example:

A plaintiff sues within the four year written contract statute of limitations period and alleges that there is a written contract, but fails to attach the contract or to plead "in hac verba." The defendant alleges that there was an exchange of correspondence but nothing sufficient to establish that a contract was formed, by writing or otherwise. The defendant might decide to challenge jurisdiction on the ground that the exchange of mere negotiation correspondence was not sufficient to allow personal jurisdiction, and that the plaintiff had failed to sufficiently plead the existence of a written contract by failing to plead its terms.

Warning:

Seeking review by writ of the denial of a motion to quash does not grant defendant immunity from making a general appearance in the litigation; and initiating discovery unrelated to the issue of jurisdiction and participating in an evaluation conference pursuant to local court rules waives jurisdictional objection and appeal of denial of motion to quash [see Mansour v. Superior Court (1995) 38 CA4th 1750, 1757, 46 CR2d 191 ]. However, the Mansour decision predates the addition of CCP §

418.10(e)(3) which provides, in part that the defendant is not deemed to have generally appeared until the proceedings on the writ petition have finally concluded. Whether Mansour remains valid given the statute's amendment remains to be seen.

9.07[5] General Appearance Made When Raising Issue of Subject Matter Jurisdiction. Challenging the court's subject matter jurisdiction constitutes a general appearance and cannot be raised in a motion to quash service of summons [ Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036-1037, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 (court ultimately found there was no subject matter jurisdiction)].

Exceptions:

- The issue of lack of subject matter jurisdiction may be raised on a motion to quash in an unlawful detainer action, in which a demurrer is not available [ Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ].

- A general appearance made after the mandatory period for service of summons has run [see CCP § 583.210] does not give the court jurisdiction over the defendant when the summons has not been timely served [ Dale v. ITT Life Ins. Corp. (1989) 207 CA3d 495, 499, 255 CR 8 ].

9.07[6] Bringing and Reviewing a CCP § 418.10 Motion Is Not General Appearance. No motion, made by a defendant within the time to respond to a complaint, to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction, to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum, or to dismiss for delay in serving summons under CCP § 583.110 et seq. is to be deemed a general appearance by the defendant [CCP § 418.10(d)].

An answer, demurrer, motion to strike simultaneously filed with a 418.10 motion does not constitute a general appearance until the court denies the motion, and the defendant is not deemed to have generally appeared until entry of the order denying the motion [CCP § 418.10(e)(1)]. If the denial of the motion is taken up by a writ of mandate, the defendant is not deemed to have generally appeared until the proceedings on the writ petition have finally concluded [CCP § 418.10(e)(2)].

An objection to interrogatories on the ground that they are oppressive, made during the pendency of a motion to quash service of summons, does not constitute a general appearance [ 1880 Corp. v. Superior Court (1962) 57 C2d 840, 843, 22 CR 209, 371 P2d 985 ].

A motion to reconsider the denial of a CCP § 418.10 motion does not constitute a general appearance, so long as it is limited to the same grounds as the original motion [see Josephson v. Superior Court (1963) 219 CA2d 354, 358, 362, 33 CR 196 (reconsideration of denial of motion to quash service of summons on cross-complaint)].

9.07[7] Applying for or Stipulating to Extension of Time to Plead Is Not General Appearance. No application to the court or stipulation of the parties for an extension of time to plead is a general appearance by the defendant [CCP § 418.10(d)].

9.07[8] Appearing at Hearing for Ex Parte Relief Is Not General Appearance. An appearance at a hearing at which ex parte relief is sought or an appearance at a hearing for which an ex parte application for a provisional remedy is made, is not a general appearance and does not constitute a waiver of the right to make a motion under CCP § 418.10 [CCP § 418.11].

Warning:

An ex parte application for discovery in response to petition for preliminary injunction is not an ex parte application for a provisional remedy under CCP § 418.11 and constitutes a general appearance [ Factor Health Mgmt. v. Superior Court (2005) 132 CA4th 246, 250-251 , 33 CR3d 599 ].

9.07[9] Motion for Relief From Default or Hybrid Motion Are Not General Appearances. A motion under CCP § 473 or 473.5 when joined with a CCP § 418.10 motion does not constitute a general appearance [CCP § 418.10(d); see Floveyor Int'l, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 CA4th 789, 792, 69 CR2d 457 ]. A hybrid motion to quash/dismiss concerning a claim of Indian sovereign immunity and federal preemption is not construed as a general appearance [ Great W. Casinos, Inc. v. Morongo Band of Mission Indians (1999) 74 CA4th 1407, 1415-1418, 88 CR2d 828 ].

9.07[10] Party May Appear by Attorney.

9.07[10][a] Attorney Is Presumed to Have Authority to Appear but Presumption Rebuttable. In the absence of any statutory requirement that the authority of an attorney be evidenced by a writing, the act of an attorney in entering the appearance of a defendant carries with it a presumption of due authority to do so [see Gagnon Co., Inc. v. Nevada Desert Inn (1955) 45 C2d 448, 459, 289 P2d 466 ]. However, the presumption is rebuttable [ Sullivan v. Dunne (1926) 198 C 183, 190, 244 P 343 ; see also Milrot v. Stamper Med. Corp. (1996) 44 CA4th 182, 187, 51 CR2d 424 ].

9.07[10][b] Appearance by Unauthorized Attorney Does Not Bind Party. When an attorney, having no authority to do so, enters the appearance of a defendant who has not been served with process, the entry of an appearance is void for that defendant [ Garrison v. McGowan (1874) 48 C 592, 599-600 ]. When the only basis for jurisdiction of the person in a particular case is appearance, the purported appearance by an unauthorized attorney cannot confer jurisdiction [ Neihaus v. Superior Court (1977) 69 CA3d 340, 346, 137 CR 905 ; also Milrot v. Stamper Med. Corp. (1996) 44 CA4th 182, 186, 51 CR2d 424 ].

Warning:

The fact that an attorney may possess the necessary authority to represent a client in one case is not evidence of the attorney's authority to represent the client in another and distinct proceeding [ Sullivan v. Dunne (1926) 198 C 183, 190, 244 P 343 ].

9.07[10][c] Defendant May Attack Unauthorized Appearance Before Judgment. Any dispute as to the authority of the counsel of record to act for the party he or she purports to represent may be raised in the trial court [ Abeles v. State Bar (1973) 9 C3d 603, 609, 108 CR 359, 510 P2d 719 .

A defendant seeking to raise the issue of an unauthorized appearance by an attorney must do so promptly after discovery [ Parkside Realty Co. v. MacDonald (1914) 167 C 342, 347, 139 P 805 ; Machado v. Machado (1944) 66 CA2d 401, 406, 152 P2d 457 ].

The issue as to an attorney's lack of authority may be raised by a motion to withdraw the appearance [see Omega Video Inc. v. Superior Court (1983) 146 CA3d 470, 476, 194 CR 574 ; Neihaus v. Superior Court (1977) 69 CA3d 340, 346, 137 CR 905 ].

Additionally or alternatively, if the attorney's unauthorized appearance was made by the filing of a demurrer, answer, or other paper constituting an appearance [see CCP § 1014], the defendant may move to strike the pleading or paper [see CCP § 436(b); Sullivan v. Dunne (1926) 198 C 183, 186-187, 244 P 343 (motion to strike demurrer); Kellar v. Hendey (1961) 189 CA2d 86, 87-88, 10 CR 748 (motion to strike answer)].

If the motion to strike is granted, the defendant will be required to file a responsive pleading to avoid a default if the court has otherwise obtained jurisdiction over the defendant by service of the summons and complaint [see CCP § 585]. If service was not valid, the defendant may wish to combine the motion to strike with a motion to quash service of summons on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court over the defendant [CCP § 418.10(a)(1)].

A motion for relief from default [CCP §§ 473(b), 473.5] is proper when a defendant not served with summons has had a judgment taken against him or her in an action in which the defendant was represented by an attorney who had no authority to do so [see Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 CA3d 1407, 1412-1413, 232 CR 653]. The motion may be combined with a motion to strike the pleading or paper that constitutes the unauthorized appearance [CCP § 436(b)]. The motion may also be combined with a motion to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction or to stay or dismiss the action for inconvenient forum [CCP § 418.10(d)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of relief from default judgments under CCP § 473(b) and related equitable relief, see Ch. 36, Defaults and Motions for Relief, 36.66 et seq.

9.07[10][d] Defendant May Set Aside Void Judgment Based on Unauthorized Appearance and Use Against Defense of Res Judicata. A void judgment may be set aside on the motion of either party [CCP § 473(d)]. Once an appeal has been taken, the issue of an unauthorized appearance by the attorney in the trial court and in taking the appeal must be raised in the appellate court [ Parkside Realty Co. v. MacDonald (1914) 167 C 342, 346, 139 P 805 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of relief from judgments and orders under CCP § 473(d) and related equitable relief, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 29.24 et seq.

When the action is based on a foreign judgment, the lack of authority of an attorney to appear for the defendant in an action in another state may be alleged in a California state court in an answer to a complaint to establish the judgment of the other state as a California judgment [ Slack v. Slack (1966) 241 CA2d 530, 539, 50 CR 763 ].

The issue as to the authority of an attorney to appear for a party in an action in another state may also be raised in a California action against the defense of res judicata based on the sister-state judgment [ Gagnon Co., Inc. v. Nevada Desert Inn (1955) 45 C2d 448, 457, 289 P2d 466 ].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.08

9.08 Grounds for Proving Lack of Personal Jurisdiction.

9.08[1] No Personal Jurisdiction If Summons or Service Was Defective.

9.08[1][a] Failure to Serve Summons. A court does not have personal jurisdiction when the plaintiff fails to serve the summons on a defendant who has not made a general appearance in the action [CCP § 410.50(a)].

9.08[1][b] Summons Is Defective. A court does not have personal jurisdiction when the summons is defective [see, e.g., Tresway Aero, Inc. v. Superior Court (1971) 5 C3d 431, 435, 96 CR 571, 487 P2d 1211 ; see also Ch. 8, Service of Summons, 8.03 et seq.].

9.08[1][c] Service of Summons Was Defective. A court does not have personal jurisdiction when service of the summons was defective [see, e.g., Eagle Elec. Mfg. Co. v. Keener (1966) 247 CA2d 246, 250, 55 CR 444 ; see also Ch. 8, Service of Summons, 8.07 et seq.].

9.08[1][d] Substituted Service Was Defective. A court does not have personal jurisdiction if the plaintiff did not serve the defendant with a copy of the summons and the substituted service was not reasonably calculated to give the defendant actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard [see Zirbes v. Stratton (1986) 187 CA3d 1407, 1416, 232 CR 653 ].

9.08[1][e] Summons Served Was Not One Authorized for Civil Actions. A court does not have personal jurisdiction if the summons served on the defendant was not the one authorized for civil actions and provides a shorter period for response than that required by statute for civil actions [see Delta Imp., Inc. v. Mun. Court (1983) 146 CA3d 1033, 1035-1036, 194 CR 685 (use of five-day unlawful detainer summons was improper because complaint did not state a cause of action for forcible entry or forcible or unlawful detainer)].

9.08[2] No Limited Personal Jurisdiction Over Nonresident If Minimum Contacts Absent and Jurisdiction Unreasonable.

9.08[2][a] California's Long-Arm Statute Confers Broadest Possible Jurisdiction. California long-arm statute provides: "A court of this state may exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the Constitution of this state or of the United States" [CCP § 410.10].

California's long-arm statute [CCP § 410.10; see, e.g., Asahi Metal Indus. Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 US 102, 106, 107 S Ct 1026, 94 L Ed2d 92] intends to confer on California courts the broadest possible personal jurisdiction, limited only by constitutional considerations [ Sibley v. Superior Court (1976) 16 C3d 442, 445, 128 CR 34, 546 P2d 322 ].

9.08[2][b] Judicial Council Comments to Long-Arm Statute Elaborate Bases for Limited Personal

Jurisdiction. While California's long-arm statute is very short, there is a lengthy Judicial Council Comment that was issued when the statute was added to the Code in 1970, and includes multiple bases for establishing personal jurisdiction [see Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction--1969 Report of the Judicial Council of California to the Governor and the Legislature]. The complete text of the Comments follows CCP § 410.10 in Deering's California Code Annotated.

Strategic Point--Defendant:

When making a motion to quash, the defendant needs to review the Judicial Council Comments and determine if any of the bases for jurisdiction are present, and to assert the reasons why certain bases are inapplicable under the due process inquiry for minimum contacts.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of personal jurisdiction factors based on Judicial Council Comments, see 9.17[3]-[9].

9.08[2][c] Fourteenth Amendment Protects Nonresident Defendants. The due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment [US Const, amend 14] operates as a limitation on the jurisdiction of state courts to enter judgments affecting rights or interests of nonresident defendants [see Shaffer v. Heitner (1977) 433 US 186, 198-200, 97 S Ct 2569, 53 L Ed2d 683 ].

Distinguish:

The fact that the plaintiff is a nonresident who acquired rights to intellectual property at issue in an action involving defendants dealing directly with a California corporation at the time of the contacts giving rise to jurisdiction for services to be performed entirely in California showed that none of the defendants had any reason to anticipate that a dispute under the agreement would be adjudicated anywhere but in California [ Epic Communications, Inc. v. Richwave Technology, Inc. (2009) 179 CA4th 314, 337, 101 CR3d 572 ].

9.08[2][d] Due Process Requires Nonresident Defendants to Have Minimum Contacts With Forum State.

For a state to exercise personal jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant, the defendant must have certain minimum contacts with the forum state so that maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [ International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 161 A.L.R. 1057, 326 US 310, 316, 66 S Ct 154, 90 L Ed 95 ; Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 C4th 262, 268, 127 CR2d 329, 58 P3d 2 ]. A state may not make binding a personal judgment against an individual or a corporate defendant with which the state has no contacts, ties, or relations [ World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 US 286, 294, 100 S Ct 559, 62 L Ed2d 490 ; Haisten v. Grass Med. Reimbursement (9th Cir 1986) 784 F2d 1392, 1396 ].

The key to whether a particular exercise of personal jurisdiction comports with constitutional due process is whether the defendant purposefully established minimum contacts in the forum state [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 474, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; see also World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 US 286, 291, 100 S Ct 559, 62 L Ed2d 490 ]. The rule applies to individual defendants as well as to corporate defendants [ Arnesen v. Raymond Lee Org., Inc. (1973) 31 CA3d 991, 996, 107 CR 744 ].

In determining whether a particular exercise of a state court's jurisdiction is consistent with due process, the inquiry must focus on the relationship among the defendant, the forum, and the litigation [ Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 US 770, 775, 104 S Ct 1473, 79 L Ed2d 790 ; Secrest Mach. Corp. v. Superior Court (1983) 33 C3d 664, 668, 190 CR 175, 660 P2d 399 ].

Distinguish:

The Supreme Court has not required a plaintiff to have minimum contacts with the forum state before permitting that state to assert personal jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant [see Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 US 770, 779, 104 S Ct 1473, 79 L Ed2d 790 ].

Jurisdiction over an out-of-state corporation does not necessarily mean that the court may also assert jurisdiction over its employees, nor does jurisdiction over a parent corporation automatically establish jurisdiction over a wholly owned subsidiary. Each individual's contacts with the forum state must be assessed individually [ Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 US 770, 781, 104 S Ct 1473, 79 L Ed2d 790 ; see also Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 CA4th 70, 78, 80 CR2d 159 ].

Example:

Allegations of conspiracy do not establish as a matter of law that if one conspirator comes within the personal jurisdiction of California's courts, then California may exercise jurisdiction over other nonresident defendants alleged to be part of that same conspiracy [ In re Automobile Antitrust Cases I & II (2005) 135 CA4th 100, 113, 118-119, 37 CR3d 258 (grant of motion to quash upheld where no evidence linked defendant's acts in California to conspiracy)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of jurisdiction over foreign corporation on basis other than direct acts by its employees, see 9.17[7].

Prerequisite:

Minimum contacts must be found before moving to the second part of the analysis: Whether personal jurisdiction comports with fair play and substantial justice [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 476, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 C3d 143, 147-148, 127 CR 352, 545 P2d 264 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of the fair play and substantial justice standard, see 9.08[2][g].

 Warning:

Sufficient minimum contacts are not required when a nonresident is served with a summons while in the forum state [see Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 CA3d 145, 150, 249 CR 724 ]. However, the court may still conclude that California is an inconvenient forum and decline to exercise jurisdiction on that ground.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of the doctrine of inconvenient forum, see 9.25.

9.08[2][e] Mechanical Tests Are Inappropriate to Determine Minimum Contacts. The minimum contacts test is not susceptible of mechanical application; rather the facts of each case must be weighed to determine whether the requisite affiliating circumstances are present [ Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 US 84, 92, 98 S Ct 1690, 56 L Ed2d 132 ; Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1061, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 ].

9.08[2][f] Nonphysical Entry Into Forum State Requires Purposeful Availment to Satisfy Minimum

Contacts. A nonresident defendant may not avoid personal jurisdiction merely because the defendant did not physically enter the forum state. So long as a commercial actor's efforts are purposefully directed toward residents of another state, the absence of physical contacts cannot defeat personal jurisdiction there [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 476, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ]. "Purposeful availment" occurs when the nonresident defendant reaches out with its business activities beyond one state to create continuing relationships and obligations between the nonresident defendant and residents of the forum, purposefully directs its activities at residents of the forum, purposefully derives benefit from its activities in the forum, creates a substantial connection with the forum, or deliberately has engaged in significant activities within the forum [ Anglo Irish Bank Corp., PLC v. Superior Court (2008) 165 CA4th 969, 978-979, 81 CR3d 535 ; Boschetto v. Hansing (9th Cir. 2008) 539 F.3d 1011, 1017 , cert. denied, Boschetto v. Hansing (2009) 129 S. Ct. 1318, 173 L. Ed. 2d 585 ].

A forum state does not exceed its powers under the due process clause if it asserts personal jurisdiction over a corporation that delivers its products into the stream of commerce with the expectation that the products will be purchased by consumers in the forum state [ World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 US 286, 297-298, 100 S Ct 559, 62 L Ed2d 490 ]. If the sale of a product of a manufacturer or distributor, for example, is not simply an isolated occurrence, but arises from the efforts of the manufacturer or distributor to serve, directly or indirectly, the market for its product in other states, it is not unreasonable to subject the manufacturer or distributor to suit in one of those states if its allegedly defective merchandise has there been the source of injury to its owners or to others [ World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 US 286, 297, 100 S Ct 559, 62 L Ed2d 490 ].

A manufacturer's placement of goods in the stream of commerce with the expectation that the goods will be purchased or used by consumers in California constitutes purposeful availment if the income earned by the manufacturer from the sale or use of its product in California is substantial [ Luberski, Inc. v. Oleificio F.LLI Amato S.R.L. (2009) 171 CA4th 409, 419, 89 CR3d 774 ; Bridgestone Corp. v. Superior Court (2002) 99 CA4th 767, 774-775, 121 CR 2d 673 ]. However, "foreseeability" that a manufacturer's product would enter or cause injury in California, alone, has never been a sufficient benchmark for personal jurisdiction; rather, it is the defendant's conduct and connection with California that is the main element, not the mere likelihood that a product will find its way into the state [ Carretti v. Italpast (2002) 101 CA4th 1236, 1253-1254, 125 CR2d 126 ].

The requisite minimum contacts may be electronic [ Luberski, Inc. v. Oleificio F.LLI Amato S.R.L. (2009) 171 CA4th 409, 419, 89 CR3d 774 (negotiations via long-distance communications were minimum contacts); see Hall v. LaRonde (1997) 56 CA4th 1342, 1344, 66 CR2d 399 (use of electronic mail and telephone by party in another state may establish sufficient minimum contacts with California to support personal jurisdiction)].

With respect to whether an Internet website constitutes minimum contacts, "[a]t one end of the spectrum are situations where a defendant clearly does business over the Internet. If the defendant enters into contracts with residents of a foreign jurisdiction that involve the knowing and repeated transmission of computer files over the Internet, personal jurisdiction is proper. At the opposite end are situations where a defendant has simply posted information on an Internet website that is accessible to users in foreign jurisdictions. A passive website that does little more than make information available to those who are interested in it is not grounds for the exercise of personal jurisdiction. The middle ground is occupied by interactive websites where a user can exchange information with the host computer. In these cases, the exercise of jurisdiction is determined by examining the level of interactivity and commercial nature of the exchange of information that occurs on the website" [ Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1063, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 (website allowing hotel reservations falls in middle ground and constitutes purposeful availment) quoting Zippo Mfg. Co. v. Zippo Dot Com, Inc. (WDPA 1997) 952 F Supp 1119, 1124 ].

Judicial Perspective:

It should be noted that in Snowney, the Supreme Court has now distanced itself from the precedent previously set forth in Circus Circus Hotels, Inc. v. Superior Court (1981) 120 CA3d 546 (advertising activities targeted at forum residents can never establish purposeful availment). While attempting to adopt some middle ground for interactive internet solicitations and advertising, the reality of the holding is to now make subject to California jurisdiction any and all businesses that advertise and have interactive websites. Specifically, in Snowney the issue involved a Las Vegas Casino that had a website that was interactive such that it permitted the taking of room reservations. The allegations concerned alleged violations of B&P § 17200 for an energy surcharge. Having written and issued the lower court opinion in Snowney that eventually made its way to the Supreme Court, this jurist feels he is in a unique position to comment on the effect of the California Supreme Court's ruling. The trial court opinion relied heavily on the analysis set forth in Circus Circus, and naturally the internet has come along way since 1981. However, the opinion in Snowney would appear to now subject every casino in Las Vegas that has an interactive website to California B&P § 17200 claims. As a final note, Harrah's Casino sought review by the U. S. Supreme Court, and the writ of certiorari was denied [ Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. v. Snowney (2005) 126 S Ct 659 ].

A random and fortuitous contact, by itself, does not establish a concerted effort by a party to interject itself into California commerce and benefit from the forum [ Aquila, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 148 CA4th 556, 573-574, 55 CR3d 803 (randomness demonstrated by fact that insurance policy for California property of subsidiary also provided coverage for 37 properties outside California); see Dorel Inds., Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 134 CA4th 1267, 1276, 36 CR3d 742 ]. A contract alone does not automatically establish minimum contacts in the plaintiff's home forum [ Boschetto v. Hansing (9th Cir. 2008) 539 F.3d 1011, 1017, cert. denied, Boschetto v. Hansing (2009) 129 S. Ct. 1318, 173 L. Ed. 2d 585 (transaction was a "one-shot affair" for the seller in California, contract for the sale did not establish minimum contacts)].

An attorney's mere physical presence or absence in California is not determinative of jurisdiction over the attorney and the attorney's firm when the practice of law in the state occurs by the attorney advising a California client on California law in connection with a California legal dispute by telephone, fax, computer, or other modern technological means [ Birbrower, Montalbano, Condon & Frank v. Superior Court (1998) 17 C4th 119, 128-129, 70 CR2d 304, 949 P2d 1 ; cf. Simons v. Steverson (2001) 88 CA4th 693, 713, 106 CR2d 193 (sufficient minimum contacts existed for jurisdiction over out-of-state attorney and firm, because attorney, licensed in California, performed legal services for California residents and therefore practiced law in state)].

Traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice do not allow the exercise of jurisdiction over a defendant who merely maintains a web site advertisement in one state and has no contacts with the forum state other than maintaining an essentially passive home page that is accessible to citizens of the forum state, and everyone else, over the Internet [ Cybersell, Inc. v. Cybersell, Inc. (9th Cir 1997) 130 F3d 414, 415-420 (distinguishing cases involving interactive web sites and greater levels of actual contact)].

Example:

Selling a car as the result of a Californian contacting the out-of-state seller who viewed the seller's noninteractive website containing a credit application listing California did not constitute grounds for special jurisdiction over claim arising from condition of car where no files were exchanged via the Web site or that any business was actually conducted via the site [ Shisler v. Sanfer Sports Cars, Inc. (2006) 146 CA4th 1254, 1261-1262, 53 CR3d 335 ].

Nor may California assert jurisdiction over nonresident defendants based on their contracting with one or more Internet service providers who happen to maintain offices in California, so as to permit defendants to operate a passive website from their New York residence when the Internet providers were engaged by a corporate defendant from its computer in New York [see Jewish Def. Org., Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 1045, 1057-1062, 85 CR2d 611 (defamation action)].

If a defendant's personal jurisdiction is based on Internet use, and the defendant's sole contact with California is the posting of source code on an Internet website accessible to any person with Internet access, and the defendant owns no property, has no telephone listing, and conducts no business in California, jurisdiction does not exist even though it may be foreseeable that the defendant's tortious conduct would cause injury in California [ Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 C4th 262 CR2 329, 58 P3d 2 (test was whether the defendant could reasonably anticipate being hauled into court in California); see also Nam Tai Elecs., Inc. v. Titzer (2001) 93 CA4th 1301, 1311-1313, 113 CR2d 769 (registering a nickname or alias with Yahoo!, a California-based Internet message board, agreeing to Yahoo!'s terms of service, and posting allegedly defamatory messages on Yahoo! do not justify, without more, subjecting a nonresident defendant to California jurisdiction for purposes of a lawsuit brought by a third party allegedly defamed by the messages) (disapproved to the extent it is contrary to the holding in Pavlovich)].

A case for specific jurisdiction resting in part on defendant's payment of a nonemployee's seminary expenses in California, and in part on defendant's alleged assignment of the nonemployee to a California parish with knowledge of his propensity to molest children did not establish sufficient availment to confer jurisdiction for claims of molestation by the nonemployee in California [ Doe v. The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cashel & Emly (2009) 177 CA4th 209, 219-221, 99 CR3d 158 (personal jurisdiction over archbishop who sent priest to California denied)].

9.08[2][f1] Limited Personal Jurisdiction Requires Cause of Action Derived from Forum Activities. The second requirement for limited or specific personal jurisdiction is that there must be a substantial connection between the dispute and the defendant's forum activities [ Anglo Irish Bank Corp., PLC v. Superior Court (2008) 165 CA4th 969, 985, 81 CR3d 535 ; Roman v. Liberty University, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 670, 679-680, 75 CR3d 828 ], so that the defendants could reasonably anticipate being subject to litigation in California in the event their forum activities caused an injury to a California resident [ Anglo Irish Bank Corp., PLC v. Superior Court (2008) 165 CA4th 969, 985, 81 CR3d 535 ].

Example:

Plaintiffs' six counts for intentional misrepresentation, fraudulent concealment, securities fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, negligent misrepresentation, and an accounting all were based on alleged misrepresentations in or omissions from statements made to them in California by defendant's agents in an effort to solicit business from California residents. The fact that the alleged harm related directly to defendant's activities in California established a substantial connection between the dispute and defendant's forum activities [ Anglo Irish Bank Corp., PLC v. Superior Court (2008) 165 CA4th 969, 985, 81 CR3d 535 ].

Distinguish:

Plaintiff's claims for personal injuries off campus arising from activities with his college roommate in Virginia were not substantially connected to the defendant-university's very limited recruitment-related activities in California [ Roman v. Liberty University, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 670, 680-681, 75 CR3d 828 ].

9.08[2][g] No Jurisdiction Despite Minimum Contacts If Limited Jurisdiction Offends Traditional Notions of Fair Play and Substantial Justice. The due process clause forbids a state from exercising personal jurisdiction over a defendant under circumstances that would offend "traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice" [ Asahi Metal Indus. Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 US 102, 113, 107 S Ct 1026, 94 L Ed2d 92 ; Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 444, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ]. Once it has been decided that a defendant purposefully established minimum contacts with the forum state, these contacts may be considered in light of other factors to determine whether the assertion of personal jurisdiction comports with fair play and substantial justice [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 476, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; Cornelison v. Chaney (1976) 16 C3d 143, 147-148, 127 CR 352, 545 P2d 264 ]. Due process requires that the quality and nature of the defendant's activity be such that it is reasonable and fair to require the defendant to conduct a defense in the state [ Kulko v. Superior Court (1978) 436 US 84, 92, 98 S Ct 1690, 56 L Ed2d 132 ; Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc.

(2005) 35 C4th 1054, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of minimum contacts standard, see 9.08[2][d]-[f].

The minimum requirements of "fair play and substantial justice" may defeat the reasonableness of jurisdiction even if the defendant has purposefully engaged in forum activities [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 477, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Medical Reimbursement (9th Cir 1986) 784 F2d 1392, 1397 ].

The facts of each case must always be weighed in determining whether personal jurisdiction would comport with fair play and substantial justice [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 486-487, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 475, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ].

To determine whether personal jurisdiction would comport with fair play and substantial justice, the courts may consider [ Asahi Metal Indus. Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 US 102, 113, 107 S Ct 1026, 94 L Ed2d 92 ; Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 476-477, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson (1980) 444 US 286, 292, 100 S Ct 559, 62 L Ed2d 490 ; Jewish Def. Org., Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 1045, 1054, 85 CR2d 611 ; Great-West Life Assurance Co. v. Guarantee Co. of N. Am. (1988) 205 CA3d 199, 209, 252 CR 363 ]:

- The burden on the defendant.
- The forum state's interest in adjudicating the dispute.
- The plaintiff's interest in obtaining convenient and effective relief.
- The interstate judicial system's interest in obtaining the most efficient resolution of controversies.
- The shared interest of the several states in furthering fundamental substantive social policies.

These considerations sometimes serve to establish the reasonableness of jurisdiction on a lesser showing of minimum contacts than would otherwise be required [ Burger King Corp. v. Rudzewicz (1985) 471 US 462, 476-477, 105 S Ct 2174, 85 L Ed2d 528 ; Haisten v. Grass Valley Med. Reimbursement (9th Cir 1986) 784 F2d 1392, 1397 ; Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 448, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ].

Example:

When the offending events occur outside California and there are insufficient contacts between the nonresident defendant and California to justify the exercise of general jurisdiction, limited jurisdiction may nevertheless be invoked when there exists a substantial nexus between the plaintiff's cause of action and the defendant's activities in California [ Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1068, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 (cause of action for false advertising and fraud regarding cost of hotel room directly arose from contacts consisting of advertisements and website); Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 448, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ; see Keeton v. Hustler Magazine, Inc. (1984) 465 US 770, 773-774, 104 S Ct 1473, 79 L Ed2d 790 (corporation's regular circulation of magazines in forum state was sufficient to support assertion of jurisdiction in libel action by nonresident plaintiff based on contents of magazine)].

9.08[2][h] Foreign National Defendants Afforded Extra Consideration. The unique burdens placed on a foreign national to defend itself in a foreign legal system should have significant weight in assessing the reasonableness of stretching the long arm of personal jurisdiction over national borders; however, when minimum contacts have been established, often the interests of the plaintiff and the forum in the exercise of jurisdiction will justify even the serious burdens placed on the alien defendant [ Asahi Metal Indus. Co. v. Superior Court (1987) 480 US 102, 114, 107 S Ct 1026, 94 L Ed2d 92 (jurisdiction was not justified in the case, which involved a claim for indemnification by a Taiwanese corporation against a Japanese company); Doe v. The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cashel & Emly (2009) 177 CA4th 209, 221, 99 CR3d 158 (personal jurisdiction denied over archbishop who sent priest to California)].

9.08[3] No Personal Jurisdiction If Defendant Is Immune to Service or Suit.

9.08[3][a] Diplomats, Legislators, and Members of Congress Are Immune to Civil Actions. Heads of foreign diplomatic missions and members of their staffs having diplomatic rank are immune to civil actions and proceedings; this immunity does not extend to consular officers who are mainly concerned with the commercial interests of their nationals [see 22 USCS § 254d; Restatement (Second) of Foreign Relations Law of the United States §§ 73, 74, 81].

Members of the California legislature are immune to civil process during, and for five days before and after, a legislative session [Cal Const, art IV, § 14; see Harmer v. Superior Court (1969) 275 CA2d 345, 348, 79 CR 855 ].

Members of the United States Congress are subject to civil process [see Long v. Ansell (1934) 293 US 76, 81-83, 55 S Ct 21, 79 L Ed 208 ].

9.08[3][b] Witnesses in Criminal Proceedings Not Subject to Service of Process. A person who comes into California in obedience to a subpoena directing the person to attend and testify in this state is not, while in California pursuant to the subpoena or order, subject to arrest or the service or process, civil or criminal, in connection with matters that arose before the person's entrance into this state under the subpoena [Pen Code § 1334.4].

A similar exemption exists in favor of a person passing through California while going to or returning from another state in obedience to a subpoena or order to attend and testify in that state [Pen Code § 1334.5].

9.08[3][c] Extradited Criminal Defendants Not Subject to Service of Process for Specified Period. A person brought into California on or after waiver of extradition based on a criminal charge is not subject to service of process in civil actions arising out of the same facts as the criminal proceedings for which the person is returned until the person has been convicted in the criminal proceeding or, if acquitted, until the person has had reasonable opportunity to return to the state from which the person was extradited [Pen Code § 1555].

9.08[3][d] Other Parties and Witnesses Not Protected. In light of California's long-arm statutes [CCP §§ 410.10, 413.10, 415.10], a person subject to the personal jurisdiction of the California courts may properly be served with process while under a subpoena, because the person could have been properly served at his or her place of domicile [ Severn v. Adidas Sportschuhfabriken (1973) 33 CA3d 754, 757-762, 109 CR 328 (foreign individual was served with California summons while attending trial in Florida)].

Likewise, nonresident parties may also be served with process while in California [ Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 CA3d 145, 149, 249 CR 724 ].

Exception:

If this rule would result in the unfairness of an inconvenient forum, the defendant may seek to stay or dismiss the action [CCP § 410.30].

9.08[3][e] National Banks Without a Branch Office in California Not Subject to Suit. A national bank coming within the provisions of 12 USCS § 94 and having no branch in California is not subject to suit in California [see Citizens & S. Nat'l Bank v. Bougas (1977) 434 US 35, 38, 98 S Ct 88, 54 L Ed2d 218 ; Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 CA3d 896, 899, 150 CR 615 ].

A national bank may be subject to suit in California when it intentionally does an act elsewhere knowing that the effect of that act will be experienced in California [ United Cal. Bank v. First Bank of Oak Park (1979) 98 CA3d 439, 442-444, 159 CR 607 ].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.09

9.09 Burden of Proof on Motion to Quash.

9.09[1] Plaintiff Must Prove Jurisdictional Elements by Preponderance of Evidence. The burden is on the plaintiff to establish the facts of jurisdiction [ Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1062, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 ] by a preponderance of the evidence [ Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 449, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ].

The plaintiff must prove:

- The validity of service of process [ Floveyor Int'l, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 CA4th 789, 793, 69 CR2d 457 ].
- That minimum contacts exist between the defendant and the forum state to justify imposition of personal jurisdiction [ Taylor-Rush v. Multitech Corp. (1990) 217 CA3d 103, 110, 265 CR 672 ].
- For specific jurisdiction rather than general jurisdiction, the controversy is related to or arises out of the defendant's contacts with the forum [ Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1062, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

9.09[2] Once Plaintiff Shows Minimum Contacts, Burden Shifts to Defendant to Show Jurisdiction Unreasonable. Once the plaintiff has established facts showing minimum contacts (e.g., that the defendant has purposely directed activity at forum residents), the burden then shifts to the defendant to supply facts demonstrating that the assumption of jurisdiction would be unreasonable [ Snowney v. Harrah's Entertainment, Inc. (2005) 35 C4th 1054, 1062, 35 C4th 1054, 112 P3d 28 ; Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 449, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

9.09[3] Evidence Must Consist of Specific Evidentiary Facts.

9.09[3][a] Evidence Must Be Supported by Affidavit or Declaration. The defendant serves and files affidavits or declarations supporting the motion, and the plaintiff ordinarily serves and files opposing affidavits or declarations, setting forth the facts establishing jurisdiction [see CCP §§ 2009, 2015.5].

9.09[3][b] Vague Assertions of Ultimate Facts Are Insufficient. Declarations are insufficient to support the assertions for which they are offered if they consist primarily of vague assertions of ultimate facts rather than specific evidentiary facts permitting the court to form an independent conclusion on the issue [ Jewish Def. Org., Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 1045, 1055, 85 CR2d 611 ].

9.09[3][c] Verified Complaint May Serve As Counter-Declaration. A verified complaint may serve as a counter-affidavit or counter-declaration, if the complaint alleges the essential probative facts establishing jurisdiction [ Arnesen v. Raymond Lee Org., Inc. (1973) 31 CA3d 991, 995, 107 CR 744 ; see Crea v. Busby (1996) 48 CA4th 509, 514, 55 CR2d 513 ].

Exception:

A complaint that alleges only ultimate facts, which is normally the case, and that omits any allegation of probative facts may not be used as a substitute for a counter-affidavit or counter-declaration [ Thomas J. Palmer, Inc. v. Turkiye Is Bankasi A.S. (1980) 105 CA3d 135, 148-149, 164 CR 181 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

It is almost always better practice to draft and file a new declaration explaining the factual basis for jurisdiction than to rely on a verified complaint, where the issue is likely to have been treated in a more cursory fashion, and which might not contain all the facts to make the showing necessary to defeat the motion.

9.09[3][d] Unverified Complaint Is Insufficient. Allegations in an unverified complaint may not be used to establish jurisdiction [ Jewish Def. Org., Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 1045, 1055, 85 CR2d 611 ; Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 894, 908-909, 73 CR2d 105 ].

9.09[4] Plaintiff May Conduct Discovery for Motion. The plaintiff generally has the right to conduct discovery with regard to the issue of jurisdiction to develop the facts necessary to sustain the burden of proof [ Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co., Ltd. (1989) 209 CA3d 526, 533, 257 CR 278 ; Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 894, 911, 73 CR2d 105 ].

Strategic Point:

While it is clear that the plaintiff is entitled to conduct discovery, there are issues as to how much discovery the court will allow. Because more discovery usually makes the plaintiff's case stronger, the plaintiff will want to conduct, subject to economic constraints, considerable discovery, while the defendant will argue that it should not be put through the burden of extensive discovery when the point of the jurisdictional defense is that it would be unfair for the court to exercise jurisdiction over the out of state or foreign party. Often there will be a motion for a protective order and court-imposed limits regarding the extent of discovery that the court will allow.

II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.10

9.10 Contents of Motion to Quash.

A motion to quash includes the following elements:

- A notice of motion to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction [see 9.51 for form].
- Supporting declarations [see 9.52 for form].
- Written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing [see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure].
- Supporting memorandum.
- Proof of service.
- Proposed order, if desired [see 9.53 for form].

9.11 Serving and Filing Papers.

Serve and file the papers by:

- Serving a conformed copy of the notice of motion, proof of service, and accompanying papers on the other party's attorney, or on the other party if he or she has no attorney in accordance with CCP §§ 1005, 1010.6, 1013, 1015 and Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1103, 3.1300 at least 16 court days before the hearing date.
- Delivering the originals of the notice of motion and accompanying papers to the court clerk's office for filing at least 16 court days (but not more than 30 days), plus any applicable additional period, before the hearing and pay the required fee [CCP §§ 418.10(b), 1005]. If not filed with the original papers, deliver the proof of service of the moving papers for filing no later than five court days before the time appointed for the hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300].
- If there is a statement regarding oral testimony, file it no later than three days before the hearing; and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, serve a conformed copy of it on the opposing party in a manner to assure delivery no later than two days before the hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

9.12 Responding to Opposing Party's Papers and Request for Discovery.

When responding to opposition's papers:

- Prepare any reply declarations and any reply memorandum in response to any counter-declarations and opposing memorandum filed by the opposing party.
- Serve a conformed copy of each declaration and reply memorandum on opposing counsel and file the originals at least five court days before the hearing [CCP §§ 1005, 1015; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(a)].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

While any party is permitted to request discovery to help determine a motion [CCP § 1017(a)], inspect the scope of the plaintiff's discovery requests to ensure they are relevant to the motion to quash and not an attempt to explore discovery avenues prior to the full exchange of information later in the action. If necessary, file a motion to quash discovery or move for a protective order.

Judge's Perspective:

Motions that challenge jurisdictional issues frequently give rise to requests for discovery by the plaintiff. Counsel who wish to request jurisdictional discovery must be circumspect in the requests concerning not only the types of discovery devices to be utilized but also the issues to be encompassed in the discovery. For purposes of the motion, counsel would be well advised to limit the nature of the discovery to actual jurisdictional questions and nothing else.

II. MAKING A MOTION TO QUASH

9.13 Order and Notice of Ruling.

9.13[1] Prevailing Party Prepares Order. When the court grants the motion to quash service of summons or to stay or dismiss the action, counsel for the defendant ordinarily prepares the formal order for the judge's signature. When the court denies the motion to quash service of summons or to stay or dismiss the action, counsel for the plaintiff usually prepares the formal order for the judge's signature.

9.13[2] Prevailing Party Must Follow Notice Requirements. The prevailing party must give to all other parties or their attorneys [see CCP § 1015] the notice required by CCP § 1019.5(a) in the manner provided in CCP §§ 1010-1020, unless the court otherwise orders or unless notice is waived by all parties in open court and is entered in the minutes [CCP § 1019.5(a)]. The prevailing party must, pursuant to CCP § 1019.5:

- Prepare a notice of the court's order and a proof of service;
- Serve the ruling on opposing counsel; and,
- File the original of the notice and proof of service with the court.

Cross Reference:

Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

9.13[3] Defendant May Be Entitled to Contractual Costs. Where the result of a grant of a motion to quash for lack of personal jurisdiction is that the complaint was dismissed in its entirety and the plaintiff obtained nothing, the defendant may be entitled to an award of contractual costs as the prevailing party under CC § 1717 and CCP § 1032 [see Profit Concepts Mgmt., Inc. v. Griffith (2008) 162 CA4th 950, 955-956, 76 CR3d 396 ].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
III. OPPOSING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.14

9.14 CHECKLIST: Opposing a Motion to Quash.

☐ Consider alternatives to opposing motion:

☐ If the motion is timely and its supporting papers establish a solid ground for relief, consider whether to stipulate that the motion be granted to avoid sanctions for opposing a motion in bad faith.

☐ If the motion is timely and its supporting papers establish an arguable ground for relief, consider time and expense in opposing motion and options for filing action in another jurisdiction.

Authority:

CCP §§ 283, 2009, 2015.5

Discussion:

See 9.15

☐ Determine if defendant has waived objections to personal jurisdiction:

☐ Failure to bring timely motion.

☐ Failure to file motion at time of answer, demurrer, or motion to strike.

☐ General appearance.

Authority:

CCP § 418.10

Discussion:

See 9.17[1]

Evaluate relevant timing issues:

- ☐ Motion must be filed and served on or before the last day of the defendant's time to plead; or within any further time the court allowed.
- ☐ Hearing date must be within 30 days of filing motion.
- ☐ Opposition papers must be filed and served at least 9 court days before hearing.

Evaluate need for extensions:

- ☐ Consider whether to request an extension of time to file opposing papers due to:
  - ☐ Necessity of discovery in regard to the issue of jurisdiction to develop the facts necessary to sustain the burden of proof.
  - ☐ Any other circumstance that would require extra time to respond to motion.
- ☐ Consider whether to extend time for pleading by:
  - ☐ Application to court for extension of time to plead, and whether to make application ex parte.
  - ☐ Stipulation between parties.

Authority:

CCP § 418.10(b)

Discussion:

See 9.16

Evaluate grounds for proving personal jurisdiction:

- ☐ No defects in summons and service of summons:
  - ☐ Summons served.

- ☐ Summons not defective.
- ☐ Service of summons properly made.
- ☐ Substitute service complied with statutory requirements.
- ☐ Summons served is one authorized for civil actions.
- ☐ Specific basis for personal jurisdiction under California's long-arm statute:
  - ☐ Over an individual.
  - ☐ Over a general partnership and the partners.
  - ☐ Over a domestic corporation.
  - ☐ Over a foreign corporation.
- ☐ Due process requirements have been satisfied:
  - ☐ Defendant is a resident or person served in California.
  - ☐ Defendant has been afforded reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard.
  - ☐ Nonresident defendant has sufficient minimum contacts with California:
    - ☐ Consider extent of physical and/or nonphysical entry into California.
    - ☐ Apply test of fair play and substantial justice.
    - ☐ Consider effect on reasonableness test if defendant is a foreign national.
    - ☐ If minimum contacts are not adequate for general jurisdiction, is action related to available grounds for exercise of limited jurisdiction.
- ☐ Defendant is not immune to service or suit:
  - ☐ Defendant is not a head of foreign missions or their staffs having diplomatic rank.
  - ☐ Defendant is not a California state legislator and service not during, and for five days before and after, a legislative session.

☐ Witnesses is not in criminal proceedings.

☐ Defendant is not extradited and acquitted.

Authority:

CCP §§ 418.10, 418.50 22 USCS § 254d, Cal Const, art IV, § 14

Discussion:

See 9.17[2]-[11]

☐ Prepare declarations with specific evidentiary facts.

☐ Identify proper declarant.

☐ Verified complaint may serve as counter-declaration.

Authority:

CCP §§ 2009, 2015.5

Discussion:

See 9.18

☐ Prepare opposition papers:

☐ Supporting counter-declarations.

☐ Written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing.

☐ Opposing memorandum.

☐ Proof of service.

☐ Proposed order.

☐ File and serve response:

☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.

Authority:

CCP §§ 418.10(b), 1005(b)

Discussion:

See 9.20, 9.21

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.46

- ☐ Prevailing party submits order conforming to judge's ruling.
- ☐ Prevailing party notices ruling.

Authority:

CCP § 1019.5; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1304 et seq.

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
III. OPPOSING A MOTION TO QUASH

9.15 Options and Strategies for Opposing Party.

9.15[1] Consider Whether to Oppose Motion. If the facts of the case show that the defendant has a high probability of succeeding on the motion to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction, consider whether to stipulate that the motion be granted [see CCP § 283]. Sanctions may be imposed for bad-faith actions or tactics, which include both the making and opposing of motions [see CCP § 128.6].

Warning:

Defendant does not forfeit a collateral right to attorney fees by choosing to assert the right to challenge the court's in personam jurisdiction [ Shisler v. Sanfer Sports Cars, Inc. (2008) 167 CA4th 1, 7, 83 CR3d 771 (assessing attorney fees under Florida statute on California plaintiff who lost motion to quash)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

If the case involves a suit against a U.S. subsidiary and foreign parent, it might make sense to investigate to try to determine the subsidiary's ability to satisfy any likely judgment and to consider dismissing the parent with prejudice while preserving the option to amend a judgment to add the parent under an alter ego or Abbey of the Chimes argument post-judgment. In Mirabito v. San Francisco Dairy, a judgment was amended to add the parent corporation well after there had been judgment entered against the subsidiary and, in fact, after the subsidiary had appealed the case to the California Supreme Court. The Court of Appeal affirmed the amendment of the judgment [ Mirabito v. San Francisco Dairy (1935) 8 CA2d 54 ].

9.15[2] Consider How Other Pleadings May Defeat Motion to Quash. CCP § 418.10(e) allows a defendant or cross-defendant making a 418.10 motion to simultaneously answer, demur, or move to strike the complaint or cross-complaint. Review these pleadings to determine if the defendant has made factual admissions in them that may be used to defeat the motion to quash.

9.15[3] Consider Stipulation or Motion to Extend Time to File Opposition. A plaintiff may want to consider a stipulation or motion extending the time to file opposing papers if the filing deadline is close, or to conduct discovery to uncover additional facts to establish personal jurisdiction.

Cross Reference:

Extending time, see 9.06[2].

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
III. OPPOSING A MOTION TO QUASH

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.17

9.17 Grounds for Proving Personal Jurisdiction Over Defendant.

9.17[1] Defendant Can Waive Challenge to Court's Personal Jurisdiction.

9.17[1][a] Failure to Bring Timely Motion to Quash Waives Lack of Personal Jurisdiction Defense. A notice of motion to quash service of summons on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court over the defendant must be served and filed on or before the last day of the time to plead, or within any further time that the court may for good cause allow [CCP § 418.10(a)].

9.17[1][b] Failure to File Motion to Quash at Time of Filing Demurrer or Motion to Strike Waives Lack of Personal Jurisdiction and Related Defenses. Failure to make a motion under CCP § 418.10 at the time of filing a demurrer or motion to strike constitutes a waiver of the issues of lack of personal jurisdiction, inadequacy of process, inadequacy of service of process, inconvenient forum, and delay in serving summons [CCP § 418.10(e)(3)].

9.17[1][c] Defendant Waives Personal Jurisdiction Objection by General Appearance. A general appearance in an action waives any objection to personal jurisdiction, and the defendant submits to the personal jurisdiction of the court [see, e.g., Titus v. Superior Court (1972) 23 CA3d 792, 800-801, 100 CR 477 ; Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036-1037, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of general appearance waiving personal jurisdiction and other objections, see 9.07.

9.17[2] Court Has Jurisdiction Over Defendant From Time Summons Served. Except as otherwise provided by statute, the court in which the action is pending has jurisdiction over a party from the time the summons is properly served [CCP § 410.50(a)].

The plaintiff must prove the validity of summons and service [ Floveyor Int'l, Ltd. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 CA4th 789, 793, 69 CR2d 457 ]. Facts to be proven include:

- Summons was served.

- Summons was proper and not defective.
- Service of summons conformed to statutory requirements.
- Substitute service conformed to statutory requirements.
- Summons was one authorized for civil actions.

Cross References:

Discussion of defective service of process to defeat personal jurisdiction, see 9.08[1].

Discussion of service of process, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons, 8.07 et seq.

9.17[3] Defendant Is Within the Reach of California's Long-Arm Statute.

9.17[3][a] Long-Arm Statute Confers Broadest Possible Jurisdiction. California's Long-Arm Statute states: "A court of this state may exercise jurisdiction on any basis not inconsistent with the Constitution of this state or of the United States" [CCP § 410.10]. This statute intends to confer on California courts the broadest possible personal jurisdiction, limited only by constitutional considerations [ Sibley v. Superior Court (1976) 16 C3d 442, 445, 128 CR 34, 546 P2d 322 ].

9.17[3][b] Judicial Council Comments to Long-Arm Statute Elaborate Bases for Personal Jurisdiction. The Judicial Council Comment that was issued when CCP § 410.10 was promulgated includes multiple bases for establishing personal jurisdiction [see Bases of Judicial Jurisdiction--1969 Report of the Judicial Council of California to the Governor and the Legislature]. The Comment is examined below. The complete text of the Comment follows CCP § 410.10 in Deering's California Code Annotated.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

When opposing a motion to quash, the plaintiff needs to review the Judicial Council Comment discussed below and determine if any of the bases for jurisdiction are present, and to assert the reasons why certain bases are applicable or constitutional under the due process inquiry for minimum contacts.

9.17[4] Long-Arm Statute Provides Personal Jurisdiction Over Individuals.

9.17[4][a] Voluntary Presence in State Confers Jurisdiction. A state has power to exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is physically present within its territory, whether permanently or temporarily, if at that time the individual is properly served with process [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see also Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 CA3d 145, 150, 249 CR 724 ].

The presence in the state must usually be voluntary, and the court may decline to exercise jurisdiction if force or fraud was used to effect the presence [see Guardianship of Smith (1957) 147 CA2d 686, 691, 306 P2d 86 ].

Warning:

Temporary presence in the state when summons is served may not be sufficient in and of itself to give the forum state personal jurisdiction over the person of a nonresident defendant for all causes of action [see Burnham v. Superior Court (1990) 495 US 604, 621, 110 S Ct 2105, 109 L Ed2d 631 (only four justices held that presence alone is a sufficient contact with state to support exercise of personal jurisdiction over nonresident defendant by California court in any cause of action)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of immunity from judicial jurisdiction while present in the state, see 9.08[3].

9.17[4][b] Person Domiciled in California Is Subject to Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is domiciled in the state but may be absent from the state. A person's domicile is usually the place where the person has his or her home, and no person has more than one domicile at a time [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see also Milliken v. Meyer (1940) 132 A.L.R. 1357, 311 US 457, 462-464, 61 S Ct 339, 85 L Ed 278 ; Allen v. Superior Court (1953) 41 C2d 306, 310-311, 259 P2d 905 ].

9.17[4][c] California Resident Is Subject to Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is a resident of the state unless the individual's relationship to the state is so attenuated as to make the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; but see Muckle v. Superior Court (2002) 102 CA4th 218, 229-230, 125 CR2d 303 (past residency found insufficient for personal jurisdiction)].

9.17[4][d] Citizenship May Confer Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who is a citizen of the state unless the individual's relationship to the state is so attenuated as to make the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

9.17[4][e] Party Who Consents Is Subject to Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a competent individual who has consented either by words or conduct [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see Nat'l Equip. Rental v. Szukhent (1964) 375 US 311, 316-316, 84 S Ct 411, 11 L Ed2d 354 ].

Exception:

A party's consent to the exercise of state jurisdiction may not enlarge the competency of the court to include a type of case that a court is not authorized to hear [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

9.17[4][f] General Appearance Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who has entered a general appearance as a defendant in the action [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

9.17[4][g] Doing Business in State As Individual Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who (1) does business in the state with respect to causes of action arising out of that business; (2) did business in the state, before the action was brought, with respect to causes of action arising out of that business; or (3) does business in the state with respect to causes of action that do not arise from that business, if the business is so continuous and substantial as to make the exercise of jurisdiction reasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

9.17[4][h] Doing Act in State As Individual Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who has done, or has caused to be done, an act in the state (1) with respect to any cause of action in tort arising from the act; and (2) with respect to any cause of action not in tort arising from the act unless the nature of the act and of the individual's relationship to the state and to other states make the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see also Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 CA3d 896, 900, 150 CR 615 (tort action); Floyd J. Harkness Co. v. Amezcua (1976) 60 CA3d 687, 691, 131 CR 667 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of minimum contacts and reasonableness tests, see 9.08[2][d]-[g].

9.17[4][i] Causing Effect in State by Act Done Elsewhere As Individual Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who causes effects in the state by an act done elsewhere with respect to any cause of action arising from these effects, unless the nature of the effects and of the individual's relationship to the state makes the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see Calder v. Jones (1984) 465 US 783, 788-790, aff'd Jones v. Calder (1982), 138 CA3d 128, 132, 187 CR 825; Jewish Def. Org., Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 1045, 1057, 85 CR2d 611 ].

When the act was done with the intention of causing effects in the state, the state may exercise the same judicial jurisdiction over the defendant as to any cause of action arising from the effects as the state could have exercised had the effects resulted from an act done within its territory [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see also Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 CA3d 896, 904, 150 CR 615 ].

When the act was not done with the intention of causing effects in the state and could not reasonably have been expected to do so, the state may not exercise jurisdiction over the defendant unless the defendant is found to have an extensive relationship with the state [see Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 CA3d 896, 904, 150 CR 615; see also CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

When the act, although not done with the intention of causing effects in the state, could reasonably have been expected to do so, the mere causing of an effect in the forum is not sufficient, without more, to afford a constitutional basis for jurisdiction [ Mansour v. Superior Court (1995) 38 CA4th 1750, 1761, 46 CR2d 191; Kaiser Aetna v. Deal (1978) 86 CA3d 896 ]. The forum state's exercise of personal jurisdiction depends on several factors, including the extent of the relationship of the state to the defendant and to the plaintiff, the nature and quality of the effects resulting from the act, and the degree of inconvenience that would result to the defendant from being forced to stand suit in the state on the particular cause of action. Personal jurisdiction based on a defendant's out-of-state acts requires more than the mere foreseeability that the tortious conduct might have an effect in California [ Pavlovich v. Superior Court (2002) 29 C4 262, 277 ].

 Cross Reference:

9.17[4][j] Individual Ownership, Use, or Possession of Thing in State Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual who has owned, used, or possessed (1) an immovable thing in the state with respect to any cause of action arising from the thing while it was owned, used, or possessed by the individual or (2) a chattel in the state with respect to any cause of action arising from the chattel while it was in the state and was so, owned, used, or possessed, unless the nature of the chattel and of the individual's relationship to the state makes the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see Ind. Ins. Co. v. Pettigrew (1981) 115 CA3d 862, 864-868, 171 CR 770 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of minimum contacts and reasonableness tests, see 9.08[2][d]-[g].

9.17[4][k] Other Individual Relationships May Confer Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual in other situations, not specifically enumerated, when the individual has such a relationship to the state that it is reasonable for the state to exercise jurisdiction [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 39 (1971); see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

9.17[5] Long-Arm Statute Provides Personal Jurisdiction Over General Partnership and Partners.

Jurisdiction over a partnership does not necessarily permit a court to assume jurisdiction over the individual partners; even though individual partners are jointly and severally liable for torts of the partnership, jurisdiction over each defendant must be established individually. A California court has jurisdiction over only those individual partners who personally established minimum contacts with California [ Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 894, 904-905, 73 CR2d 105 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of minimum contacts and reasonableness tests, see 9.08[2][d]-[g].

9.17[6] Long-Arm Statute Provides Personal Jurisdiction Over Domestic Corporations. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a domestic corporation [Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 41 (1971)], even though the corporation does no business in the state. Incorporation in the state gives the state a basis for exercising judicial jurisdiction over the corporation in any action that may be brought against the corporation in the state [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

9.17[7] Long-Arm Statute Provides Personal Jurisdiction Over Foreign Corporations.

9.17[7][a] Consent Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that has consented to the exercise of jurisdiction [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; see, e.g., CCP § 410.40 (providing for jurisdiction over a foreign corporation or nonresident person based on consent to jurisdiction as expressed in specified contracts)].

9.17[7][b] Appointment of Agent for Service or Jurisdiction Over Agent or Representative May Confer Jurisdiction Over Principal-Foreign Corporation. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that has authorized an agent or public official to accept service of process in actions brought against the corporation in the state as well as to all causes of action to which the authority of the agent or official to accept service extends [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment].

The Courts of Appeal have utilized several tests for determining when a parent corporation is subject to personal jurisdiction due to activities of a subsidiary in California. If it were up to the Second District, Division Three Court of Appeals, the only test of whether a parent company purposefully avails itself of forum benefits through the activities of its subsidiary, as required to justify the exercise of specific personal jurisdiction, would be if and only if the parent deliberately directs the subsidiary's activities in, or having a substantial connection with, the forum state [ HealthMarkets, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 171 CA4th 1160, 1169, 90 CR3d 527 (finding less than minimum contacts)]. But as this court noted, there are at least three other tests used by other Courts of Appeal to find minimum contacts by a parent corporation through the activities of its subsidiary: subsidiary as agent, alter ego, and representative services [see HealthMarkets, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 171 CA4th 1160, 1166, 90 CR3d 527 ].

While an ordinary domestic subsidiary formed by a parent foreign corporation does not confer jurisdiction over a foreign corporation, agency principles will confer general jurisdiction under the long-arm statute over a parent foreign corporation that exercises control over the day-to-day operations of the domestic subsidiary whose actions are the subject of suit [ Dorel Inds., Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 134 CA4th 1267, 1275-1277, 36 CR3d 742 (no jurisdiction because control was not extensive enough)].

On the other hand, an out-of-state corporation may be subject to specific jurisdiction if they have minimum contacts within the state even while operating through a subsidiary [ Anglo Irish Bank Corp., PLC v. Superior Court (2008) 165 CA4th 969, 982, 81 CR3d 535 ].

Strategic Point:

The court need not decide whether the parent corporation is the alter ego of its subsidiary. Thus, a parent corporation's purposefully causing its subsidiary to engage in forum contacts may constitute purposeful availment by the parent even if the separateness of the corporations is maintained and alter ego is not established [ Anglo Irish Bank Corp., PLC v. Superior Court (2008) 165 CA4th 969, 982, 81 CR3d 535 ].

The representative services doctrine, a variant of agency principles, confers general jurisdiction under the long-arm statute over a parent foreign corporation that uses its subsidiary in the forum state as its representative to provide services beyond mere solicitation and these services are sufficiently important to the foreign corporation that if it did not have a representative to perform them, the foreign corporation's own officials would undertake to perform substantially similar services [ Dorel Inds., Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 134 CA4th 1267, 1277-1280, 36 CR3d 742 ]. Accordingly, the control of the subsidiary must be so pervasive and continual that the local subsidiary functions as an agent or instrumentality of the parent corporation, despite the maintenance of separate corporate structures [ Aquila, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 148 CA4th 556, 577, 55 CR3d 803 ].

Example:

Where parent corporation imported and sold products manufactured by subsidiary, which sold its own products in California, foreign corporation was subject to general jurisdiction of California courts under representative services doctrine, because the evidence showed that the subsidiary manufactured products for parent that parent had previously manufactured itself for sale to non-California customers and that subsidiary performed a function that was compatible with and assisted parent in the pursuit of parent's own business, even though parent never sold its products in California before acquiring subsidiary [ Dorel Inds., Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 134 CA4th 1267, 1277-1280, 36 CR3d 742 ].

Distinguish:

The representative services doctrine does not support general jurisdiction over a subsidiary held by a true holding company, the business of which is not operations but passive investment in a subsidiary company [ In re Automobile Antitrust Cases I & II (2005) 135 CA4th 100, 121, 37 CR3d 258 ].

9.17[7][c] Appearance Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that enters an appearance as defendant in the action [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws, § 45].

9.17[7][d] Doing Business in State As Corporation Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that does business in the state with respect to causes of action arising from the business done in the state, and with respect to causes of action that do not arise from the business done in the state if the business is so continuous and substantial as to make it reasonable for the state to exercise jurisdiction [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 47].

A state may also exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that did business in the state before the action is brought, with respect to causes of action arising from the business done in the state [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 48].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of minimum contacts and reasonableness tests, see 9.08[2][d]-[g].

9.17[7][e] Doing Act in State As Corporation Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that has done, or has caused to be done, an act in the state with respect to any cause of action in tort arising from the act, and any cause of action not in tort arising from the act, unless the nature of the act and of the corporation's relationship to the state makes the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 49].

9.17[7][f] Causing Effect in State by Act Done Elsewhere As Corporation Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that causes effects in the state by an act done elsewhere with respect to any cause of action arising from the effects, unless the nature of the effects and of the corporation's relationship to the state makes the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 50; Secrest Mach. Corp. v. Superior Court (1983) 33 C3d 664, 669, 190 CR 175, 660 P2d 399 ].

9.17[7][g] Corporate Ownership, Use, or Possession of Tangible Thing in State Confers Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that has owned, used, or possessed an immovable thing or a chattel in the state, with respect to any cause of action arising from the immovable thing while it was owned, used, or possessed by the corporation or arising from the chattel while it was in the state and was so owned, used, or possessed, unless the nature of the chattel and of the corporation's relationship to the state make the exercise of jurisdiction unreasonable [CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 51].

9.17[7][h] Other Corporate Relationships May Confer Jurisdiction. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over a foreign corporation in other situations, not specifically enumerated, if the foreign corporation has such a relationship to the state that it is reasonable for the state to exercise jurisdiction [see CCP § 410.10 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws § 52].

9.17[8] Long-Arm Statute Provides Personal Jurisdiction Over Plaintiff. A state may exercise judicial jurisdiction over an individual or a foreign corporation who brings an action in the state, in that action and in any other action that the defendant may bring against the individual or corporation by way of cross-complaint to the extent that the local law of the state provides at the bringing of the action [see CCP §§ 410.10, 428.80 Judicial Council Comment; Restatement (Second) of Conflict of Laws §§ 34, 46].

9.17[9] Contractual Provisions May Provide Personal Jurisdiction. Parties may agree contractually, in advance, on the forum for resolving disputes between them, assuming that jurisdiction in that forum would, in any case, be proper. Courts generally give effect to forum-selection clauses, unless the clauses are unfair or unreasonable [ The Bremen et al. v. Zapata Off-Shore Co. (1972) 407 US 1, 15, 92 S Ct 1907, 32 L Ed2d 513 ; Smith Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 C3d 491, 495-496, 131 CR 374, 551 P2d 1206 ; Hunt v. Superior Court (2000) 81 CA4th 901, 908, 97 CR2d 215 ].

Cross Reference:

9.17[10] Court May Exercise Personal Jurisdiction When Defendant Has Minimum Contacts With State and Jurisdiction Is Reasonable. For a state to exercise personal jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant, the defendant must have certain minimum contacts with the forum state so that maintenance of the suit does not offend traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice [ International Shoe Co. v. Washington (1945) 161 A.L.R. 1057, 326 US 310, 316, 66 S Ct 154, 90 L Ed 95 see Jewish Def. Org. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 1045, 1054, 85 CR2d 611 ].

9.17[11] Defendant Who Is Not Immune From Service Is Subject to Personal Jurisdiction. Certain defendants may assert immunity from service of summons to defeat personal jurisdiction. These defendants include:

- Diplomats, legislators, and members of congress.

- Witnesses in criminal proceedings.
- Extradited defendants.
- Other parties and witnesses.
- National banks.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of immunity from service, see 9.08[3].

9.17[12] Prior Judgment Retains Personal Jurisdiction for Enforcement Action. Courts have continuing personal jurisdiction over a judgment debtor to renew the judgment via the statutory procedure [ Goldman v. Simpson (2008) 160 CA4th 255, 262, 72 CR3d 729] . The passage of time between an original California litigation and a subsequent revival action, during which the nonresident defendant has had no additional contacts with the State of California, does not defeat limited or specific personal jurisdiction as concerns the enforcement of the original judgment [ The Cadle Company II, Inc. v. Fiscus (2008) 163 CA4th 1232, 1241, 78 CR3d 238] .

9.18 Burden of Proof.

The burden is on the plaintiff to establish the facts of jurisdiction by a preponderance of the evidence [ Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 449, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ; Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 CA4th 70, 77, 80 CR2d 159 ; Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 CA3d 526, 533, 257 CR 278 ; Felix v. Bomoro Kommanditgesellschaft (1987) 196 CA3d 106, 110, 241 CR 670 ].

Topics to be reviewed are:

- Plaintiff must prove service of process.
- Plaintiff must prove minimum contacts exist between defendant and California.
- Evidence must consist of specific evidentiary facts:
  - ☐ Vague assertions of ultimate facts are insufficient.
  - ☐ Verified complaint may serve as a counter-declaration.
  - ☐ Unverified complaint is insufficient.
- Plaintiff may conduct discovery before court issues ruling.
- Once plaintiff establishes facts supporting burden of proof by a preponderance, burden shifts to the defendant to supply facts demonstrating that the assumption of jurisdiction would be unreasonable.

9.19 Discovery for Purposes of Motion.

The plaintiff generally has the right to conduct discovery with regard to the issue of jurisdiction to develop the facts necessary to sustain the burden of proof [ Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co., Ltd. (1989) 209 CA3d 526, 533, 257 CR 278 ; Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 894, 911, 73 CR2d 105 ].

Discovery methods may include oral or written depositions, interrogatories, inspections of documents, things, and places, physical and mental examinations, and requests for admissions [CCP § 2019.010].

Warning--Plaintiff:

If additional facts are needed to oppose the motion to quash, consider the amount of time required for the discovery and the impact it will have on the time requirements. Because the hearing of a motion to quash cannot be set more than 30 days after the date the motion is filed, a plaintiff wishing to take jurisdictional discovery to oppose the motion will usually have to seek orders shortening the usual time allowed for responding to discovery, and may also have to obtain a stipulation or seek an order continuing the hearing date until after the discovery is completed and the plaintiff has time to prepare its opposition papers containing any new information discovered. Consider how the discovery held at this point can be used to more fully develop later discovery while remaining within the relevance requirements for discovery pertinent to the motion.

- Serving a conformed copy of the above described papers on the other party's attorney, or on the other party if he or she has no attorney, at least nine court days before the hearing [see CCP §§ 418.10(b), 1005(a)(4), (b) and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(a)].
- Attach a copy of proof of service to the papers.
- Delivering the originals of the notice of motion and accompanying papers to the court clerk's office for filing at least nine court days before the hearing and pay the required fee.
- If there is a statement regarding oral testimony, file it no later than three days before the hearing; and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, serve a conformed copy of it on the opposing party in a manner to assure delivery no later than two days before the hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

IV. MOVING TO STAY OR DISMISS UNDER DOCTRINE OF INCONVENIENT FORUM

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.23

9.23 CHECKLIST: Making a Motion to Stay or Dismiss Under Doctrine of Inconvenient Forum.

- ☐ Consider whether the doctrine of inconvenient forum applies:
  - ☐ Motion to stay or dismiss the action is the proper means for a non-California resident to object on the ground of inconvenient forum.
  - ☐ Consider whether action may be more appropriately and justly tried elsewhere because:
    - ☐ Action possesses no substantial connection with a defendant's activities in California.
    - ☐ California cannot provide an adequate forum.
    - ☐ California has no interest in fostering the litigation.
- ☐ Apply the doctrine to a contractual forum-selection clause:
  - ☐ Clause is enforceable unless unreasonable.
  - ☐ Consider whether the clause is void by statute.

Authority:
CCP § 418.10(a)(2)

Discussion:

See 9.23-9.30

Forms:

See 9.50, 9.51, 9.52

☐ Determine whether alternative forum is a suitable place for trial:

- ☐ Consider private versus public interests.
- ☐ Weigh the advantage to the plaintiff's choice of forum.
- ☐ Weigh the advantage to the plaintiff as California resident.

Authority:

CCP § 410.30.

Discussion:

See 9.28

☐ Prepare notice of motion to stay or dismiss the action and accompanying papers:

- ☐ Notice of motion.
- ☐ Supporting declarations.
  - ☐ Consider who is proper declarant for evidentiary facts.
- ☐ Written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing.
- ☐ Supporting memorandum.
- ☐ Proof of service.
- ☐ Proposed order.

☐ Serve and file motion on or before last day for pleading:

- ☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.

Authority:

CCP § 418.10(b)

Discussion:

See 9.29, 9.30

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

Forms:

See 9.54, 9.55

- ☐ Prepare reply if motion opposed:
  - ☐ Prepare any reply declarations and any reply memorandum.
  - ☐ Serve reply papers on opposing party at least five court days before the hearing.

Authority:

CCP § 1005; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300

Discussion:

See 9.31

- ☐ Prevailing party submits order conforming to judge's ruling.
- ☐ Prevailing party prepares and serves notice of ruling.

Authority:

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
IV. MOVING TO STAY OR DISMISS UNDER DOCTRINE OF INCONVENIENT FORUM

9.24 Options and Strategies.

A motion to stay or dismiss for inconvenient forum may be brought by a non-California resident who does not want to be hauled into a California court to litigate a dispute that has little connection to California other than the residence of the plaintiff. The motion concedes the court's jurisdiction [ Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 CA3d 1424, 1430, 249 CR 559 ]. Before filing a motion based on inconvenient forum, perform a thorough analysis of whether a motion to quash service of summons might be granted and the expense involved in filing the motion.

Although an inconvenient forum claim may be raised by special appearance on a CCP § 418.10 motion to stay or dismiss, the issue may also be raised by a motion to stay or dismiss after a general appearance [CCP §§ 410.30(b), 418.10]. If raised after a general appearance, the motion is made under CCP § 410.30 not CCP § 418.10 [see CCP § 410.30(b)].

Strategic Point:

To preserve the protections of a special appearance, the motion under CCP § 418.10 must be made in compliance within the specific time deadlines for doing so [see 9.26[1]]. After the expiration of those deadlines, the motion may only be made under CCP § 410.30, but at any time after making a general appearance [ Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 127, 133-134, 62 CR3d 487 ].

A motion based on inconvenient forum may seek alternative relief of either dismissing or staying the action. While it is almost always preferable to a moving defendant to have the action dismissed, dismissal will rarely be granted if the plaintiff is a California resident.

Chapter 9 Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction
IV. MOVING TO STAY OR DISMISS UNDER DOCTRINE OF INCONVENIENT FORUM

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.25

9.25 Inconvenient Forum Concedes Personal Jurisdiction but Seeks Stay or Dismissal on Equitable Grounds.

9.25[1] Inconvenient Forum Is an Equitable Doctrine. The doctrine of inconvenient forum, otherwise referred to as forum non conveniens [see CCP §§ 410.30(a), 418.10(a)(2)], is an equitable doctrine permitting a court to decline to exercise jurisdiction over a cause of action, because the action may be more appropriately and justly tried elsewhere [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 751, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].

The doctrine authorizes the dismissal or stay of an action filed in California if the action possesses no substantial connection with a defendant's activities in California, when California cannot provide an adequate forum, and when California has no interest in fostering the litigation [CCP §§ 410.30, 418.10; see Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 CA3d 583, 588, 142 CR 478 ]. The inquiry on the motion is not whether another forum is better than California, but whether California is a seriously inconvenient forum for the defendant [ Ford Motor Co. v. Ins. Co. of N. Am. (1995) 35 CA4th 604, 611 CR2 342].

The doctrine permits a court to stay or dismiss an action even when jurisdiction and venue are technically proper [see Outboard Marine Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 CA3d 434, 437, 130 CR 642 ]. The normal remedy when the plaintiff is a California resident is to stay rather than dismiss the action [ Berg v. MTC Elecs. Technologies Co., Ltd. (1998) 61 CA4th 349, 356, 71 CR2d 523 ]. Dismissal of an action is appropriate only in the exceptional case in which neither party resides in or has any connection with California [see Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 CA3d 583, 598, 142 CR 478 ].

An example of a situation in which there is no personal jurisdiction argument is a "service of suit" clause found in many insurance policies, by which the insurer consent to jurisdiction in any of the courts of the United States. Notwithstanding this clause, California may not be the appropriate forum to try the case, and it is subject to a motion to stay or dismiss under the doctrine of inconvenient forum [See, e.g., Appalachian Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 162 CA3d 427 (service of suit clause was not intended to give plaintiff the right to sue in a state bearing no relationship to the claim)].

9.25[2] Doctrine Concedes Jurisdiction, Which May Be Limited by Special Appearance. An argument that a court is an inconvenient forum concedes the court's jurisdiction [ Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland, N.V. v. Manatt, Phelps, Rothenberg & Tunney (1988) 202 CA3d 1424, 1430-1431, 249 CR 559 ].

Although an inconvenient forum claim may be raised by special appearance on a CCP § 418.10 motion to stay or dismiss, the issue may also be raised by a CCP § 410.30(b) motion to stay or dismiss after a general appearance [CCP §§ 410.30(b), 418.10].

Timing:

To preserve the protections of a special appearance, the motion under CCP § 418.10 must be made in compliance within the specific time deadlines for doing so [see 9.26[1]]. After the expiration of those deadlines and after making a general appearance, the motion may only be made under CCP § 410.30. A forum non conveniens motion under CCP § 410.30 should be used when it is "necessary to conduct discovery to develop the factual underpinnings of a forum non conveniens motion." Although the motion can be brought under that section after a general appearance, the court may deny the motion if it finds that the defendant has unreasonably delayed bringing the motion [ Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 127, 133-134, 62 CR3d 487 ].

9.25[3] Defendant May Seek Alternative Relief to Stay or Dismiss Action. A defendant may seek alternative relief either to stay the action or to dismiss the action [CCP § 418.10(a)(2)]. When a court finds, on motion by a party or on its own motion, that in the interest of substantial justice an action should be heard in a forum outside California, it must stay or dismiss the action in whole or in part on any conditions that may be just [CCP § 410.30].

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.26

9.26 Time for Motion.

9.26[1] Motion Under CCP § 418.10.

9.26[1][a] Motion Must Be Served and Filed on or Before Last Day to Plead. A notice of motion under CCP § 418.10(a) to stay or dismiss on the ground of inconvenient forum must be served and filed on or before the last day of the time to plead, or within any further time that the court may for good cause allow [CCP § 418.10(a)]. The motion does not constitute a general appearance in the action by the defendant [CCP § 418.10(d)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearances, see 9.19-9.21.

9.26[1][b] Hearing on Motion Must Be Within 30 days After Filing of Notice. The notice of motion must designate a hearing date not more than 30 days after the filing of the notice [CCP § 418.10(b)].

Exception:

In a proceeding for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer, the time for making the motion is not less than three days nor more than seven days after the filing of the notice [CCP § 1167.4(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1327(a)].

9.26[1][c] Party May Apply for an Extension of Time to Plead for Good Cause. For purposes of a CCP § 418.10 motion, the court may grant an extension of time to plead for good cause shown [CCP § 418.10(a); see CCP § 1054]. An extension of time may be made by application to the court or by stipulation, and neither act is deemed a general appearance by the defendant [CCP § 418.10(d)].

Example:

Plaintiff's letter extending time for defendant "to answer or otherwise respond to Complaint" allowed motion for inconvenient forum that would have otherwise been untimely [ Olinick v. BMG Entertainment (2006) 138 CA4th 1286, 1295, 42 CR3d 268 ].

Application for an extension of time may be made ex parte, and an appearance at a hearing for ex parte extension of time does not constitute a general appearance or a waiver of the right to make a 418.10 motion [CCP § 418.11].

Warning:

An extension of time must be requested during the period in which the act must be done, and the extension cannot exceed 30 days without the consent of the adverse party [see CCP § 1054].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of extending time, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.14 et seq.

9.26[1][d] Motion Extends Defendant's Time to Plead After Denial of Motion. The service and filing of the notice of motion extends the defendant's time to plead until 15 days after service on the defendant of a written notice of entry of an order denying the motion, except that for good cause shown the court may extend the defendant's time to plead for an additional period not exceeding 20 days [CCP § 418.10(b)].

Exception--Extended pleading times are shorter for some causes:

In a proceeding for unlawful detainer, forcible entry, or forcible detainer, the defendant's time to plead is extended to five days after the defendant is served with a written notice of the entry of an order denying the motion, except that for good cause shown the court may extend a defendant's time to plead for an additional period not exceeding 15 days [CCP § 1167.4(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1327(a)].

9.26[2] Motion Under CCP § 410.30 May Be Made At Any Time. A defendant who has generally appeared without filing a demurrer or motion to strike may later make a forum non conveniens motion under CCP § 410.30 at any time, not only on or before the last day to plead [ Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 127, 133, 62 CR3d 487 ] (waiver under CCP § 418.10(e)(3) applies only if the defendant files a demurrer or motion to strike and does not raise forum non conveniens). A forum non conveniens motion under CCP § 410.30 should be used when it is "necessary to conduct discovery to develop the factual underpinnings of a forum non conveniens motion." That does not mean that defendants can unreasonably delay bringing forum non conveniens motions with impunity. Any delay would be relevant to whether the motion should be granted [ Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 127, 135, 62 CR3d 487 ].

9.26[3] Even If Forum Non Conveniens Motion Under CCP § 418.10 Was Denied, Court May Dismiss or Stay on Forum Non Conveniens Grounds On Its Own Motion Under CCP § 410.30. The failure to make a motion under CCP § 418.10 at the time of filing a demurrer or motion to strike constitutes a waiver of personal jurisdiction, inadequacy of process, inadequacy of service of process, and delay in prosecution and inconvenient forum [CCP § 418.10(e)(3); Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 127, 133, 62 CR3d 487 ]. If the issue has been waived by failing to raise forum non conveniens when filing a demurrer or motion to strike, then the defendant may not raise forum non conveniens later in the litigation, even after general appearance under CCP § 410.30(b). However, if forum non conveniens was raised by a motion under both CCP § 418.10(2) and CCP § 410.30 and the motion was denied, the court still can grant a motion under CCP § 410.30 on its own motion, whether or not the motion that brought the issue to the court's attention satisfied the requirements of a motion for reconsideration under CCP § 1008 [ Britton v. Dallas Airmotive, Inc. (2007) 153 CA4th 127, 134, 62 CR3d 487 ].

IV. MOVING TO STAY OR DISMISS UNDER DOCTRINE OF INCONVENIENT FORUM

9.27 Asserting a Forum Selection Clause.

9.27[1] Clause Enforced Unless Unreasonable. A forum-selection clause, by which parties agree contractually in advance on the forum for resolving disputes, is generally given effect unless unfair or unreasonable [ The Bremen et al. v. Zapata Off-Shore Co. (1972) 407 US 1, 15, 92 S Ct 1907, 32 L Ed2d 513 ; Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 C3d 491, 495-496, 131 CR 374, 551 P2d 1206 ; cf. Nam Tai Elecs., Inc. v. Titzer (2001) 93 CA4th 1301, 1311-1313, 113 CR2d 769 (nonnegotiable forum clause was contract of adhesion and unenforceable)]. Courts generally apply the normal forum non conveniens analysis to permissive forum selection clauses, i.e. clauses that merely provide submission to jurisdiction but do not expressly mandate litigation exclusively in a particular forum [ Berg v. MTC Electronics Technologies Co. (1998) 61 CA4th 349, 358-360, 71 CR2d 523 ]. However, mandatory forum selection that expressly mandate litigation in a particular forum will ordinarily be given effect without any analysis of convenience; the only question is whether enforcement of the clause would be unreasonable [ Intershop Communications AG v. Superior Court (2002) 104 CA4th 191, 196, 127 CR2d 847 ].

9.27[2] Clause May Apply to Both Contract and Tort Actions. A forum-selection clause may apply to both contractual and tort causes of action [ Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 CA4th 1450, 1461, 52 CR2d 435 ].

9.27[3] Clause May Be Reciprocal. A forum-selection clause may be reciprocal [ Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 C3d 491, 494, 131 CR 374, 551 P2d 1206 (plaintiff agreed to bring all actions arising out of agreement only in Pennsylvania, home state of defendant corporation, and defendant agreed to bring all actions arising out of agreement only in Los Angeles, plaintiff's place of business)].

9.27[4] Clause Enforced by Motion to Stay or Dismiss. A defendant seeking to challenge the plaintiff's choice of forum on the basis of a forum-selection clause may move to stay or dismiss the action on the grounds of inconvenient forum [see CCP §§ 410.30(a), 418.10(a)(2)].

A court must stay or dismiss an action under any conditions that may be just if the court finds in the interest of substantial justice that the action should be heard in a forum outside California [CCP § 410.30(a)].

The factors that generally apply to a forum non conveniens motion do not control in a case involving a mandatory forum selection clause [ Berg v. MTC Electronics Technologies Co. (1998) 61 CA4th 349, 358-359, 71 CR2d 523 ].

9.27[5] Defendant Not a Party to Agreement Lacks Standing Unless Third-Party Beneficiary or Closely Related to Parties. A defendant that is not a party to an agreement containing a forum-selection clause lacks standing to assert the clause unless the defendant is a third-party beneficiary to the agreement or is closely related to the contractual relationship between the parties to the agreement [ Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 CA4th 1450, 1458-1461, 52 CR2d 435 ; see also Berclain America Latina v. Baan Co. (1999) 74 CA4th 401, 403, 405-408, 87 CR2d 745 ].

To establish that it was closely related to the contractual relationship, a defendant must show one of the following by specific conduct or express agreement [ Bancomer, S.A. v. Superior Court (1996) 44 CA4th 1450, 1461, 52 CR2d 435 ; accord Bugna v. Fike (2000) 80 CA4th 229, 233, 95 CR2d 161 ]:

- The defendant agreed to be bound by the terms of the agreement.
- The contracting parties intended the defendant to benefit from the agreement.
- There is sufficient evidence of a defined and intertwining business relationship with a contracting party.

A plaintiff also may be closely related to the contractual relationship of the parties if the plaintiff stands in the shoes of those whom it purports to represent, such as a consumer group representing customers in an unfair business practice action [ Net2phone v. Superior Court (2003) 109 CA4th 583, 589 ].

9.27[6] Clause Must Be Enforced Unless Unreasonable. A court must enforce a forum-selection clause unless it would be unreasonable to do so on the facts of the case [ Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 C3d 491, 495-496, 131 CR 374, 551 P2d 1206 ; Cal-State Business Prods. & Servs., Inc. v. Ricoh (1993) 12 CA4th 1666, 1679, 16 CR2d 417 ].

Enforcement of a non-negotiated forum-selection clause in a form contract is reasonable when [ Carnival Cruise Lines, Inc. v. Shute (1991) 499 US 585, 593-595, 111 S Ct 1522, 113 L Ed2d 622 (court enforced clause in cruise ticket selecting Florida as forum against plaintiffs from Washington)]:

- There was no indication that the defendant had chosen the forum to discourage legitimate claims;
- There was no evidence that the plaintiffs' accession to the clause was obtained through fraud or overreaching; and
- Plaintiffs conceded they had received notice of the clause and therefore presumably had the option of rejecting the contract with impunity.

If, however, the plaintiff did not have sufficient notice of the clause prior to entering into the contract, the requisite mutual consent to that contractual term is lacking and there is no valid contract with respect to that clause [ Carnival Cruise Lines, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 234 CA3d 1019, 1025, 1027, 286 CR 323 ; see Hunt v. Superior Court (2000) 81 CA4th 901, 908-909, 97 CR2d 215 ].

9.27[7] Some Clauses Are Void by Statute. The following forum-selection clauses are void by statute:

- A provision in a franchise agreement restricting venue to a forum outside California, with respect to any claim arising under or relating to a franchise agreement involving a franchise business operating within California [ Bus & Prof Code § 20040.5].

- A provision in any contract or agreement with a supplier that requires jurisdiction or venue outside California, with respect to a claim otherwise enforceable under Bus & Prof Code § 22900 et seq., relating to equipment dealers [Bus & Prof Code § 22927].
- A provision in an agreement between a beer manufacturer and a beer wholesaler for the sale and distribution of beer in California, which restricts venue to a forum outside California, with respect to a claim arising under or relating to the agreement involving a beer wholesaler operating within California [Bus & Prof Code § 25000.6].
- Provisions in a contract between a contractor and a subcontractor with principal offices in California, for the construction of a public or private work of improvement in California, requiring any dispute to be litigated, arbitrated, or otherwise determined outside California or precluding a party from commencing a proceeding or obtaining a judgment or other resolution in California or the courts of California [CCP § 410.42].

9.28 Burden of Proof and Factors for Decision.

9.28[1] Burden of Proof Depends on Whether Forum Selection Clause Exists.

9.28[1][a] Defendant Has Burden When No Forum Selection Clause Exists. The defendant, as the moving party, bears the burden of proof on an inconvenient forum motion [ Stangvik v. Shiley, Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 751, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ; Chong v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1032, 1036, 68 CR2d 427 ].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

9.28[1][b] Plaintiff Has Burden When Opposing Enforcement of Forum Selection Clause. When the forum non conveniens motion is based on a forum-selection clause in a contract, the party opposing enforcement of the forum-selection clause (generally, the plaintiff) bears the burden of proof and must demonstrate that enforcement of the clause would be unreasonable under the circumstances of the case, that is, that the selected forum would be unavailable or unable to accomplish substantial justice [ Intershop Communications AG v. Superior Court (2002) 104 CA4th 191, 198, 127 CR2d 847 ; Nam Tai Elecs., Inc. v. Titzer (2001) 93 CA4th 1301, 1311-1313, 113 CR2d 769 ].

The choice-of-law requirement must have some rational basis in light of the facts underlying the transaction to be reasonable. Neither inconvenience nor additional expense is part of the test of unreasonability. However, a forum-selection clause will not be enforced if enforcement will bring about a result that is contrary to the forum's public policy [ CQL Original Prods., Inc. v. Nat'l Hockey League Players' Ass'n (1995) 39 CA4th 1347, 1353-1354, 46 CR2d 412 (court enforced forum-selection clause; difference in law in two competing forums pertaining to forfeitures in license agreements did not amount to conflict involving fundamental policy in California)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

9.28[2] Trial Court Has Discretion to Apply Doctrine. Other than the nondiscretionary threshold for determination whether the alternative forum is a place suitable for trial [ Am. Cemwood Corp. v. Am. Home Assurance Co. (2001) 87 CA4th 431, 436, 104 CR2d 670 ], the question whether the doctrine of inconvenient forum should be applied in a particular case rests in the discretion of the trial court. The case law is in conflict on the standard of appellate review of a motion to enforce a forum selection clause, one line of cases stating that the trial court must act in a particular way if the court finds sufficient evidence to invalidate a binding contract and review is limited to the substantial evidence standard, while the other line of cases states review is subject to the abuse of discretion standard [ Intershop Communications AG v. Superior Court (2002) 104 CA4th 191, 198-199, 127 CR2d 847, citing Smith, Valentino & Smith, Inc. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 C3d 491, 496, 131 CR 374 for proposition that trial court retains measure of discretion].

A court has exercised discretion appropriately when it acts within the range of options available under governing legal criteria in light of the evidence before it [ Hansen v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1996) 51 CA4th 753, 758, 59 CR2d 229 ]. For the moving party to prevail, there must be evidence, not merely bald assertions, to support the trial court's determination [ Ford Motor Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America (1995) 35 CA4th 604, 610, 41 CR2d 342 ].

The trial court's discretion may not be arbitrary; the discretion must be exercised in conformity with the spirit of the law and in a manner to subserve and not to impede the ends of substantial justice [ Corrigan v. Bjork Shiley Corp. (1986) 182 CA3d 166, 173, 176, 227 CR 247, disapproved on other grounds in Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ]. If the balance weighs heavily in a defendant's favor, it becomes the trial court's duty to apply the doctrine [ Outboard Marine Corp. v. Superior Court (1976) 59 CA3d 434, 439, 130 CR 642 (issuing writ of mandate directing trial court to dismiss action for inconvenient forum)].

9.28[3] Court Must Determine Whether Alternate Forum Available. In deciding whether to grant a forum non conveniens motion, a court must first determine whether the alternate forum is a "suitable" place for trial [ Stangvik v. Shiley, Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 751, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14; Morris v. AGFA Corp. (2006) 144 CA4th 1452, 1464, 51 CR3d 301 ("suitable alternative forum ... is critical"). This is a nondiscretionary determination [ Am. Cemwood Corp. v. Am. Home Assurance Co. (2001) 87 CA4th 431, 436, 104 CR2d 670; Chong v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1032, 1036, 68 CR2d 427 ].

The threshold evidentiary showing required is that the alternate forum is a suitable place for trial [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 751, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ]. A forum is suitable if the action can be brought, although not necessarily won, in the alternative forum [ Roman v. Liberty University, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 670, 683, 75 CR3d 828; Morris v. AGFA Corp. (2006) 144 CA4th 1452, 1464, 51 CR3d 301 ].

Distinguish:

Comparative law questions are irrelevant to a forum non conveniens analysis, except when the alternate forum provides no remedy at all [see Roman v. Liberty University, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 670, 683, 75 CR3d 828 ]. The "no remedy at all" exception applies only in rare circumstances, such as where the alternative forum is a foreign country whose courts are ruled by a dictatorship, so that there is no independent judiciary or due process of law. Plaintiffs must show more than general allegations of corruption, lack of due process, or other factors making an alternative forum unsuitable [ Guimei v. General Electric Co. (2009) 172 CA4th 689, 697, 91 CR3d 178 (general allegation's that China's courts are "sub-par" insufficient to deny inconvenient forum)].

It is sufficient that there is jurisdiction and no statute of limitations bar to the action [ Roman v. Liberty University, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 670, 682-683, 75 CR3d 828; Morris v. AGFA Corp. (2006) 144 CA4th 1452, 1464, 51 CR3d 301 ].

Accordingly, a court will not dismiss a case on the basis of inconvenient forum when the statute of limitations has run in the other jurisdiction and the result would be that the claims would never be litigated [ Delfosse v. C.A.C.I.,

Inc.-Federal (1990) 218 CA3d 683, 688-689, 690-691, 267 CR 224 (conditional dismissal subject to agreement to waive statute of limitations may provide appropriate remedy in such situations)].

Exception:

A suitable alternate forum is available to the plaintiff if the court is willing to accept the defendant's stipulation that he or she will not raise the defense of statute of limitations in the alternate forum [ Roman v. Liberty University, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 670, 682-683, 75 CR3d 828 (court accepted defendant's stipulation that statute of limitation in alternate forum did not bar action in that forum as stipulation that defense would not be raised in alternate forum)].

9.28[4] Relevant Factors After Determining Availability of Alternate Forum.

9.28[4][a] Court Must Weigh Private Versus Public Interests. After determining that the alternate forum is a suitable place for trial, the court must then consider the private interests of the litigants and the interests of the public in retaining the action in California [ Guimei v. General Electric Co. (2009) 172 CA4th 689, 702, 91 CR3d 178] .

Public interest factors make trial and the enforcement of any judgment expeditious and relatively inexpensive and include the ease of access to sources of proof, the cost of obtaining attendance of witnesses, and the availability of compulsory process for attendance of unwilling witnesses. Public interest factors include avoidance of overburdening local courts with congested calendars, protecting the interests of potential jurors so that jurors are not called on to decide cases of little concern to the local community, and weighing the competing interests of California and the alternate jurisdiction [ Stangvik v. Shiley, Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 752, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ; Guimei v. General Electric Co. (2009) 172 CA4th 689, 702, 91 CR3d 178 (courts of China were more convenient forum); Chong v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1032, 1037, 68 CR2d 427 ].

The court may take into account any consideration that legitimately bears on the relative suitability or convenience of the alternate forum [ Delfosse v. C.A.C.I., Inc.-Federal (1990) 218 CA3d 683, 687-688, 267 CR 224 ].

California courts have considered the following factors [ Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Superior Court (1970) 12 CA3d 105, 113-115, 90 CR 461 (listing factors below); see Henderson v. Superior Court, (1978) 77 CA3d 583, 595-597, 142 CR 478 (applying Great Northern list of factors); Jagger v. Superior Court (1979) 96 CA3d 579, 585-586, 158 CR 163 (listing 11 factors)]:

- Amenability of defendant to personal jurisdiction in alternative forum.
- Relative convenience to parties and witnesses to trial in alternative forum.
- Choice of law (difference between California's conflict-of-law rules and those in alternative forum).
- Defendant's principal place of business and inconvenience to defend in local forum.
- Extent to which situation, transaction, or events out of which action arose occurred in or had substantial relationship to California [see, e.g., Jagger v. Superior Court (1979) 96 CA3d 579, 585-586, 158 CR 163 (California marital dissolution action by wife of British rock star stayed to allow action in England to proceed when parties were international residents with limited relationship to California)].
- Substantial disadvantage to any party by having to try action in California or alternative forum.
- Inconvenience to witnesses by having action heard in California or alternative forum.

- Relative expense to parties of proceeding in California or alternative forum.
- Necessity or helpfulness in viewing of premises by trier of fact.
- Burden placed on California's judicial resources that is unfair, inequitable, or disproportionate to the relationship of the parties or cause of action to California.
- Obligation of any party, due to relationship to California, to participate in judicial proceedings in California state courts.
- Interest of California in providing a forum for some or all of the parties to the action [see MagnecompCorp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 CA3d 526, 539, 257 CR 278 (when tortious acts are committed against California citizens, California courts should liberally construe and interpret jurisdictional principles to accomplish substantial justice for California citizens)].
- Interest of California in regulating the situation or conduct involved [see MagnecompCorp. v. Athene Co. (1989) 209 CA3d 526, 538-539, 257 CR 278 (rejecting personal jurisdiction under facts of case would suggest that foreign corporation could continually avoid liability for tortious conduct against California residents merely by acting through its agents)].
- Avoidance of multiplicity of suits and inconsistent adjudications.
- Relative availability and access to sources of evidence and proof.
- Availability of compulsory process to secure the attendance of witnesses in California and the alternative forum [see Hemmelgarn v. Boeing Co. (1980) 106 CA3d 576, 586, 165 CR 190, disapproved on other grounds in Stangvik v. Shiley, Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].
- Relative advantages and obstacles to a fair trial in California and the alternative forum.
- Imposition of jury duty on community having no relation to litigation.
- Injustice to and burden on local courts and taxpayers.
- Difficulties and inconvenience--to moving party, the court, and jurors hearing the case--attending presentation of evidence by deposition.
- Other practical considerations that make trial of a case convenient, expeditious, and inexpensive.

It is important to bear in mind, however, that courts are not limited to the above factors. In ruling on a forum non conveniens motion, courts examine all of the circumstances, balance the private and public interests and look to the relative convenience and fairness to the parties, the witnesses, and the courts [ Delfosse v. C.A.C.I., Inc.-Federal (1990) 218 CA3d 683, 688, 267 CR 224 ].

If the action is against a California manufacturer by a foreign plaintiff for an injury sustained outside the country, the court must consider: (1) the competitive disadvantage to California business that would result if California manufacturers were called on to defend lawsuits involving extraterritorial injuries and (2) the interests and policy concerns in the litigation of the countries of residence of the foreign plaintiffs [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 760, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].

Finally, the relative financial condition of the parties is a factor that the court must take into account to some degree in determining the convenience or inconvenience of the forum [ Allison v. Superior Court (1979) 99 CA3d 993, 1001, 160 CR 309 ].

9.28[4][b] No Undue Emphasis to Any One Element. The court must apply the private and public interests flexibly, without giving undue emphasis to any one element [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 753, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].

9.28[4][c] Plaintiff's Choice of Forum Presumed Convenient. If the plaintiff is a resident of the jurisdiction in which the suit is filed, the plaintiff's choice of forum is presumed to be convenient [ Piper Aircraft Co. v. Reyno (1981) 454 US 235, 255-256 ; Thomson v. Continental Ins. Co. (1967) 66 C2d 738, 744-745, 59 CR 101, 427 P2d 765 ].

If the plaintiff is a resident of the jurisdiction in which the suit is filed, the state has a strong interest in assuring its own residents an adequate forum for the redress of grievances [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 754-755, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ; Archibald v. Cinerama Hotels (1976) 15 C3d 853, 859, 126 CR 811, 544 P2d 947 ].

In California, the plaintiff's choice of forum is entitled to great weight even when the plaintiff is a nonresident [ Hansen v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1996) 51 CA4th 753, 760, 59 CR2d 229 ; Ford Motor Co. v. Ins. Co. of N. Am. (1995) 35 CA4th 604, 610, 41 CR2d 342 ].

Exception:

When the plaintiff is a citizen of a foreign country, the plaintiff's choice of forum is much less reasonable and is not entitled to the same preference as a resident of the state in which the action was filed [ Piper Aircraft Co. v. Reyno (1981) 454 US 235, 259-261, 102 S Ct 252, 70 L Ed2d 419 ; Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 755, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ; Campbell v. Parker-Hannifin Corp. (1999) 69 CA4th 1534, 1543, 82 CR2d 202 ]. The fact that an alternate jurisdiction's law is less favorable to a litigant than the law of the forum state should not be accorded any weight, as long as some remedy is afforded in the foreign jurisdiction [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 753 n5, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ; Campbell v. Parker-Hannifin Corp. (1999) 69 CA4th 1534, 1541, 1543-1544, 82 CR2d 202 ]. It is a relevant consideration only if the remedy in the alternative forum "is so clearly inadequate or unsatisfactory that it is no remedy at all" [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 753, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 , quoting Piper Aircraft Co. v. Reyno (1981) 454 US 235 LEd 2d 419, 102 SC 25 ]. When a remedy is found to exist in the alternate forum, the fact that California law would likely provide the plaintiff with certain advantages of procedural or substantive law cannot be considered as a factor in plaintiff's favor for forum non conveniens purposes [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 754, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].

9.28[4][d] Stay or Dismissal of Action Filed by California Resident Rare. The doctrine of forum non conveniens ordinarily may not be invoked to deprive a resident plaintiff of access to the California courts [ Gould, Inc. v. Health Sciences, Inc. (1976) 54 CA3d 687, 693, 126 CR 726 ; Hadler v. Western Greyhound Racing Circuit (1973) 34 CA3d 1, 5-6, 109 CR 502 ]. Thus, the court ordinarily may not dismiss an action if a party is a California resident, although it may stay an action involving a California resident if it concludes that the controversy can be better resolved in a foreign forum [ Archibald v. Cinerama Hotels (1976) 15 C3d 853, 857-858, 126 CR 811, 544 P2d 947 ; Ferreira v. Ferreira (1973) 9 C3d 824, 838-839, 109 CR 80, 512 P2d 304 ; see Hansen v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. (1996) 51 CA4th 753, 761, 59 CR2d 229 ]. However, it has been stated that a stay of an action filed by a California resident is rare [ Berg v. MTC Elecs. Technologies Co., Ltd. (1998) 61 CA4th 349, 362, 71 CR2d 523 (finding stay was justified under circumstances of case)].

Warning:

A 1986 amendment to CCP § 410.30 [see Cal Stats 1986, ch 968, § 4, urgency eff. Sept. 22, 1986] stated "[t]he domicile or residence in this state of any party to the action shall not preclude the court from staying or dismissing the action" [italics added]. Following that amendment, a line of cases developed stating that the court has the power to stay or dismiss an action even if the sole plaintiff is a California resident [for discussion of the effect of the 1986 amendment, see Northrop Corp. v. American Motorists Ins. Co. (1990) 220 CA3d 1553, 1561-1562, 270 CR 233 ]. However, that amendment expired by its own terms on Jan. 1, 1992 [see Cal Stats 1986, ch 968, § 7] and cases decided under that amendment therefore should be viewed with caution.

Judge's Perspective:

The better practice is for the trial judge to stay the action. The reason for this is to enable the plaintiff to have a safe harbor should the alternative forum decide to dismiss based on other grounds, i.e. statute of limitations.

The defendant's residence is also a factor to be considered in the balance of convenience. There is a presumption that a California state forum is convenient to a defendant who is a resident of California. If a corporation is the defendant, the state of its incorporation and the place where its principal business is located is presumptively a convenient forum [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 755, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ]. This presumption, however, is not conclusive, and a resident defendant may overcome this presumption by evidence that the alternate jurisdiction is a more convenient place for trial of the action, even if the defendant is a corporation that has its principal place of business in California and the tort was allegedly committed in California [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 756, 760-761, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ; Campbell v. Parker-Hannifin Corp. (1999) 69 CA4th 1534, 1541, 82 CR2d 202 ].

9.28[4][e] Forum Law More Favorable to Plaintiff Not Accorded Any Weight. The fact that the foreign plaintiff chose to file the complaint in California is not a substantial factor in favor of retaining California jurisdiction [ Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 755, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 , citing Piper Aircraft Co. v. Reyno (1981) 454 US 235, 70 LEd 2d 419, 102 S Ct 252 ; Guimei v. General Electric Co. (2009) 172 CA4th 689, 702-703, 91 CR3d 178 (trial court properly disregarded foreign plaintiff's choice of forum)].

Exception:

The fact that a large national corporation conducts some business in California does not bring it within the favored position, for forum non conveniens purposes, of a plaintiff residing solely in California [ Appalachian Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 162 CA3d 427, 436, 208 CR 627 ; Gould, Inc. v. Health Sciences, Inc. (1976) 54 CA3d 687, 693, 126 CR 726 ]. For example, in a case in which 22 of the 25 criteria listed in 9.28[4][a] weighed in favor of dismissal of a California action, the fact that both parties maintained substantial business operations in California did not automatically provide California with an interest in the dispute [ Appalachian Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1984) 162 CA3d 427, 436, 208 CR 627 ].

A forum in which an action may be brought, although not necessarily won, is a suitable forum, provided that [ Boaz v. Boyle & Co., Inc. (1995) 40 CA4th 700, 711, 46 CR2d 888 ]:

- Defendant is amenable to process there;
- There is no procedural bar that would prevent the foreign court from reaching the issues on their merits; and
- Adjudication in the alternative forum is by an independent judiciary applying what is generally regarded by American courts as due process of law.

9.28[5] Determining Whether to Grant or Stay on Finding of Inconvenient Forum. Once the court determines that a forum other than California would be more convenient, the court may either dismiss or stay the action [CCP § 410.30(a)].

A stay is the usual remedy so that, if obstacles to litigation develop in the convenient forum, the parties may resume litigation in the California court [ Jagger v. Superior Court (1979) 96 CA3d 579, 589, 158 CR 163 ; see, e.g., Chong v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1032, 1035, 68 CR2d 427 (court stayed California proceedings; real party would have opportunity to apply to lift the stay if it could show a breakdown of the rule of law in Hong Kong)].

In dismissing the suit, the court loses jurisdiction and thereby deprives itself of the power to protect the interests of the plaintiff [see Archibald v. Cinerama Hotels (1976) 15 C3d 853, 857-858, 126 CR 811, 544 P2d 947 ]. Therefore, dismissal is an exceptional remedy, which is usually not available unless neither party resides in or has any connection to California [ Henderson v. Superior Court (1978) 77 CA3d 583, 597-598, 142 CR 478 ].

9.28[6] Conditions on Grant or Stay of Dismissal. The court may stay or dismiss the action in whole or in part on any conditions that may be just [CCP § 410.30(a); Stangvik v. Shiley Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 750, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].

9.29 Contents of Motion to Stay or Dismiss for Inconvenient Forum.

A motion to stay or dismiss and action on the grounds of inconvenient forum includes the following elements:

- A notice of motion to stay or dismiss and action on the grounds of inconvenient forum [see 9.54 for form].
- Supporting declarations [see 9.55 for form].
- Written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing.
- Supporting memorandum.
- Proof of service.
- Proposed order, if desired [see 9.56 for form].

9.30 Serving and Filing Papers.

A motion to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient forum is served and filed by:

- Serving a conformed copy of the notice of motion, proof or service, and accompanying papers on the other party's attorney, or on the other party if he or she has no attorney in accordance with CCP §§ 1005, 1010.6, 1013, 1015 and Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1103, 3.1300.
- Delivering the originals of the notice of motion and accompanying papers to the court clerk's office for filing at least 16 court days, plus any applicable additional period, before the hearing and pay the required fee. If not filed with the original papers, deliver the proof of service of the moving papers for filing no later than five court days before the time appointed for the hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300].
- If there is a statement regarding oral testimony, file it no later than three days before the hearing; and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, serve a conformed copy of it on the opposing party in a manner to assure delivery no later than two days before the hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

9.32 Order and Notice of Ruling.

A hearing on a motion to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient forum is procedurally the same as a motion to quash service of summons. Issues to be considered are:

- Order and notice of ruling:
  - ☐ Prevailing party prepares order conforming to judge's ruling.
  - ☐ Prevailing party prepares and serves notice of ruling.

9.33 CHECKLIST: Opposing a Motion to Stay or Dismiss Under Doctrine of Inconvenient Forum.

- ☐ Consider whether the doctrine of inconvenient forum applies:
  - ☐ Consider whether action may be more appropriately and justly tried elsewhere because:
    - ☐ Action possesses no substantial connection with a defendant's activities in California.
    - ☐ California cannot provide an adequate forum.
    - ☐ California has no interest in fostering the litigation.
  - ☐ Apply the doctrine to a contractual forum-selection clause:
    - ☐ Clause is enforceable unless unreasonable.
    - ☐ Consider whether the clause is void by statute.
- ☐ Consider whether alternative forum is a suitable place for trial:
  - ☐ Consider private versus public interests.
  - ☐ Weigh the advantage to the plaintiff's choice of forum.

- ☐ Weigh the advantage to the plaintiff as California resident.

Authority:

CCP § 410.30

Discussion:

See 9.34, 9.36

- ☐ Prepare opposition papers:

V. OPPOSING A MOTION TO STAY OR DISMISS UNDER DOCTRINE OF INCONVENIENT FORUM

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.34

9.34 Options and Strategies.

If a court determines the equitable remedy of inconvenient forum should be applied, a stay is the usual remedy so that, if obstacles to litigation develop in the convenient forum (for example, the statute of limitations may have run), the parties may resume litigation in the California court. If the suit is dismissed, the court loses jurisdiction and deprives itself of the power to protect the interests of the plaintiff. Therefore, dismissal is rarely granted unless neither party resides in or has any connection to California.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Assert in the opposition papers that the doctrine does not apply, but provide in the alternative that the most appropriate remedy is a stay rather than a dismissal should the court grant the motion.

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.35

9.35 Time for Opposition Papers.

Papers opposing a motion to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient forum must be served and filed at least nine court days before the hearing [see CCP §§ 418.10(b), 1005(a)(4), (b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(a)].

Warning--Opposing Party:

Although there does not appear to be specific California authority for granting a continuance of a hearing so the plaintiff can conduct discovery on forum non conveniens issues, because there is authority for doing so to enable the plaintiff to conduct discovery on jurisdictional issues to oppose a motion to quash under CCP § 418.10 [ Goehring v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 894, 911, 73 CR2d 105 ], a plaintiff should ask for a continuance (by stipulation, if possible) if he or she has a reasonable basis for doing so. The plaintiff may also need to seek orders shortening the usual time allowed for responding to discovery. Consider how the discovery held at this point can be used to more fully develop later discovery while remaining within the relevance requirements for discovery pertinent to the motion.

9.36 Proving Forum Selection Clause and Jurisdiction Are Fair and Reasonable.

9.36[1] Forum Selection Clauses Upheld Unless Unfair or Unreasonable. A forum-selection clause, by which parties agree contractually in advance on the forum for resolving disputes, is generally given effect unless unfair or unreasonable [ The Bremen et al. v. Zapata Off-Shore Co. (1972) 407 US 1, 15, 92 S Ct 1907, 32 L Ed2d 513 ] and courts generally enforce mandatory forum-selection clauses and apply the normal forum non conveniens analysis to permissive forum-selection clauses [ Berg v. MTC Elecs. Technologies Co., Ltd. (1998) 61 CA4th 349, 358-359, 71 CR2d 523 ].

► Cross Reference:

Asserting forum selection clause, see 9.27.

9.36[2] Burdens of Proof and Factors for Decision. The plaintiff will want to set forth in the counter-declaration all those factors that militate in favor of the court's retention of jurisdiction [see, e.g., Corrigan v. Bjork Shiley Corp. (1986) 182 CA3d 166, 173-174, 176, 227 CR 247, disapproved on other grounds in Stangvik v. Shiley, Inc. (1991) 54 C3d 744, 764, 1 CR2d 556, 819 P2d 14 ].

9.37 Contents of Opposing Papers.

Papers to be served and filed when opposing a motion to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient forum include:

- Counter-declarations.
- Written statement setting forth the nature and extent of any oral evidence proposed to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for the hearing.
- Opposing memorandum.
- Proof of service.
- Proposed order, if desired.

Serve and file the papers by:

- Serving a conformed copy of the above described papers on the other party's attorney, or on the other party if he or she has no attorney, at least nine court days before the hearing [see CCP §§ 418.10(b), 1005(a)(4), (b) and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1300(a)].
- Attach a copy of proof of service to the papers.
- Delivering the originals of the notice of motion and accompanying papers to the court clerk's office for filing at least nine court days before the hearing and pay the required fee.
- If there is a statement regarding oral testimony, file it no later than three days before the hearing; and if it is filed less than five court days before the hearing, serve a conformed copy of it on the opposing party in a manner to assure delivery no later than two days before the hearing [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

9.39 Order and Notice of Ruling.

A hearing on a motion to stay or dismiss an action for inconvenient forum is procedurally the same as a motion to quash service of summons. Issues to be considered are:

■ Order and notice of ruling:

- ☐ Prevailing party prepares order conforming to judge's ruling
- ☐ Prevailing party prepares and serves notice of ruling.

☐ Did plaintiff serve summons and complaint within three years of filing complaint?

Exception:

Take into account time excluded from computation of the three-year period.

☐ Did plaintiff file proof of service within 60 days after the time limit for serving summons and complaint?

Authority:

CCP §§ 418.10(a)(3), 583.210-583.240

Discussion:

See 9.42

☐ Consider whether there are grounds for a discretionary dismissal under CCP § 583.420:

☐ Did plaintiff serve summons and complaint within two years after filing the complaint?

Exception:

Take into account time excluded from computation of the three-year period.

Authority:

CCP §§ 418.10(a)(3), 583.420, 583.430

Discussion:

☐ Motion to dismiss the action is the proper means to object on the ground of delay in prosecution.

- ☐ May be by special appearance.
- ☐ May be brought after general appearance.

Exception:

If grounds for the motion exist at the time of filing an answer, a demurrer, or motion to strike, failure to raise the issue of delay in service of summons by a CCP § 418.10 motions waives the issue.

VI. MAKING A MOTION TO DISMISS FOR DELAY IN SERVING SUMMONS

9.41 Options, Strategy, and Effect of Trial Court Delay Reduction.

The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [Gov Code § 68600 et seq.] and the Differential Case Management rules [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.710 et seq.] provide oversight of civil cases and impose strict time lines. Under these rules, the summons and complaint must be served within 60 days after the complaint is filed, unless a longer period is set by local rule [Gov Code § 68616(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(b)] or an extension is obtained prior to the expiration of the 60-day period [Gov Code § 68616(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(e)]. Well before the statutes on discretionary and mandatory dismissal for delay in serving summons come into play, failure to abide by the 60-day requirement may result in having to file a certificate or the court issuing an order to show cause why a specific service has not been made [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.110(f) (order to show cause); San Diego Super Ct Rules, Rule 2.5 (certificate of progress)].

VI. MAKING A MOTION TO DISMISS FOR DELAY IN SERVING SUMMONS

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.42

9.42 Dismissal for Delay in Serving Summons.

9.42[1] Dismissal Mandatory for Failure to Serve Summons and Complaint Within Three Years of Commencing Action. If service of the summons and complaint is not made within three years after action commenced, or if there is a failure to file proof of service within 60 days after the time when the summons and complaint must be served on the defendant, the action must be dismissed, either on the court's own motion or on motion of any person interested in the action, whether named as a party or not, after notice to the parties [CCP §§ 583.210, 583.250].

Exception:

Specified periods of time are excluded from the computation of the three-year service of summons period. This includes time when [CCP § 583.240]:

- Defendant is not amenable to process.
- A stay of the action affects service.
- Validity of service is being litigated.
- Service would be impossible, impracticable, or futile for reasons beyond plaintiff's control, not including plaintiff's failure to discover facts or evidence.

➡ Cross References:

Discussion of time limits, exceptions, and when action is "commenced" for purposes of computing of three year period, see 8.08.

Discussion/Forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 212, Dismissal (Matthew Bender).

9.42[2] Dismissal Discretionary for Failure to Serve Summons and Complaint Within Two Years of Commencing Action.

9.42[2][a] Court Has Discretion to Dismiss If Summons Is Not Served Within Two Years. If service of summons and complaint is not made in an action within two years after action commenced, the court may dismiss an action for delay in prosecution on its own motion or on motion of the defendant [CCP §§ 583.410, 583.420(a)].

Computation of the two-year period is subject to the same rules as in the case of mandatory dismissal [CCP § 583.420(b)].

Cross References:

When action "commences" for purpose of serving summons, see 8.08[4].

Discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 212, Dismissal (Matthew Bender).

9.42[2][b] Serving and Filing Notice of Motion--Time Limits. A party seeking dismissal of a case under the discretionary two-year rule must serve and file a notice of motion at least 45 days before the date set for hearing of the motion. With the memorandum, the moving party may serve and file an affidavit or declaration stating facts in support of the motion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(a)].

Strategic Point--Opposing Party:

The filing of the notice of motion does not preclude the opposing party from further prosecution of the case to bring it to trial [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(a)].

9.42[2][c] Filing Written Opposition--Time Limits. Within 15 days after service of the notice of motion, the opposing party may serve and file a written opposition [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(b)].

Warning:

The court may construe a failure by the opposing party to serve and file written opposition as an admission that the motion is meritorious, and in such a case may grant the motion without a hearing on the merits [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(b)].

9.42[2][d] Filing Moving Party's Response to Written Opposition; Reply--Time Limits. Within 15 days after service of the written opposition, if any, the moving party may serve and file a response [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(c)]. Within five days after service of the response, if any, the opposing party may serve and file a reply [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(d)].

9.42[2][e] Factors Court Must Consider in Ruling on Motion. In ruling on a motion for discretionary dismissal, the court must consider all matters relevant to a proper determination of the motion, including [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(e)]:

- The court's file in the case.
- The affidavits, declarations, and supporting data submitted by the parties.
- When applicable, the availability of the moving party and other essential parties for service of process.
- The diligence in seeking to effect service of process.
- The extent to which the parties engaged in any settlement negotiations or discussions.

- The diligence of the parties in pursuing discovery or other pretrial proceedings, including any extraordinary relief sought by either party.
- The nature and complexity of the case.
- The law applicable to the case, including the pendency of other litigation under a common set of facts or determinative of the legal or factual issues in the case.
- The nature of any extensions of time or other delay attributable to either party.
- The condition of the court's calendar and the availability of an earlier trial date if the matter was ready for trial.
- Whether the interests of justice are best served by dismissal or trial of the case; and any other fact or circumstance relevant to a fair determination of the issue.

9.42[2][f] Court May Dismiss, Grant, or Deny Motion. The court may dismiss on its own motion or on motion of the defendant if dismissal appears appropriate to the court under the circumstances of the case [CCP § 583.410(a)]. The court may grant or deny the motion or, if the facts warrant, continue or defer its ruling on the matter pending performance by either party of any conditions relating to trial or dismissal of the case that may be required by the court to effectuate substantial justice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1342(f)].

VI. MAKING A MOTION TO DISMISS FOR DELAY IN SERVING SUMMONS

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.43

9.43 Motion to Dismiss Must Be Made on or Before Last Day of Time to Plead.

A notice of motion to dismiss for delay in prosecution must be served and filed on or before the last day of the time to plead, or within any further time that the court may for good cause allow [CCP §§ 418.10(a)(3), 583.250(a)(2)]. A defendant may move to dismiss an action on the ground of delay in prosecution without making a general appearance. Failure to raise the issue of delay of service of summons at that time waives it [CCP § 418.10(e)(3)]. Of course, if the case is not brought to trial in a timely fashion, a motion for delay in prosecution may be brought at the appropriate time [CCP §§ 583.310, 583.420(a)(2)].

VIII. REVIEWING AN ORDER GRANTING OR DENYING A CCP § 418.10 MOTION

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.49

9.49 When Trial Court Grants Motion.

9.49[1] Plaintiff May Appeal When Motion Granted. A plaintiff may appeal from the granting of a motion to quash service of summons or to stay an action for inconvenient forum or from a written order of dismissal under CCP § 581d following issuance of an order granting a motion to dismiss for inconvenient forum [CCP §§ 904.1(a)(3), 904.2(d); Strathvale Holdings v. E.B.H. (2005) 126 CA4th 1241, 1248 , 25 CR3d 372 ; Thomas J. Palmer, Inc. v. Turkiye Is Bankasi A.S. (1980) 105 CA3d 135, 138, 164 CR 181 ]. The entry date of an appealable order is the date it is entered in the permanent minutes of the court unless the minute order directs the preparation of a written order [ Strathvale Holdings v. E.B.H. (2005) 126 CA4th 1241, 1248 , 25 CR3d 372 ].

9.49[2] Reviewing Grant of Motion to Quash.

9.49[2][a] Plaintiff Has Initial Burden of Proof As to Jurisdiction; Substantial Evidence Rule Applies. The principles guiding review on appeal relating to the issue of minimum contacts are [ Vons Cos., Inc. v. Seabest Foods, Inc. (1996) 14 C4th 434, 449, 58 CR2d 899, 926 P2d 1085 ; Serafini v. Superior Court (1998) 68 CA4th 70, 77, 80 CR2d 159 ]:

- When a defendant properly moves to quash out-of-state service of process for lack of jurisdiction, the plaintiff has the initial burden to demonstrate facts justifying the exercise of jurisdiction.
- If those facts are established, the burden shifts to the defendant to show that the exercise of jurisdiction would be unreasonable.
- If the evidence conflicts, the trial court's factual determinations will not be disturbed if they are supported substantial evidence.
- If the evidence does not conflict, the question is purely one of law and the appellate court will engage in an independent review of the record.

Substantial evidence is not synonymous with any evidence, but is evidence of ponderable legal significance, that is, evidence that is reasonable in nature, credible, and of solid value [ Magnecomp Corp. v. Athene Co., Ltd. (1989) 209

CA3d 526, 533, 257 CR 278 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

9.49[2][b] Evidence Not Properly Before Trial Court May Not Be Considered on Appeal. The appellate court may not consider any evidence not properly before the trial court [ Crea v. Busby (1996) 48 CA4th 509, 514, 55 CR2d 513 ].

9.49[3] Direct Estoppel Applies If Plaintiff Fails to Seek Appellate Review. If the plaintiff fails to seek reconsideration or appellate review of the granting of a motion to quash service of summons for lack of personal jurisdiction, the plaintiff may be barred from relitigating the issue by direct estoppel [ Sabek, Inc. v. Engelhard Corp. (1998) 65 CA4th 992, 997, 76 CR2d 882 ].

9.49[4] Defendant May Be Entitled to Contractual Costs. On review of a grant of a motion to quash for lack of personal jurisdiction, the defendant may be entitled to an award of contractual costs under CC § 1717 and CCP § 1032 [see Profit Concepts Mgmt., Inc. v. Griffith (2008) 162 CA4th 950, 957, 76 CR3d 396 (defendant prevailing at trial and on appeal awarded costs on appeal)].

VIII. REVIEWING AN ORDER GRANTING OR DENYING A CCP § 418.10 MOTION

1-9 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 9.50

9.50 When Trial Court Denies Motion.

9.50[1] Defendant May Not Appeal Denial of Motion. A defendant may not appeal an order denying a motion to quash service of summons [ Varra v. Superior Court (1960) 181 CA2d 12, 14, 4 CR 920 ; Kneeland v. Ethicon Suture Labs. (1952) 113 CA2d 335, 337-338, 248 P2d 447 ].

9.50[2] Defendant May Petition for Writ of Mandate.

9.50[2][a] Petition Must Be Filed Within 10 Days After Being Served With Notice of Entry of Court's Order. If the trial court denies a CCP § 418.10 motion, the defendant, within 10 days after being served with a written notice of entry of the court's order, or within further time not exceeding 20 days that the trial court may for good cause allow, and before pleading, may petition an appropriate reviewing court for a writ of mandate to require the trial court to enter its order quashing the service of summons or staying or dismissing the action [CCP § 418.10(c)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 323, Jurisdiction: Personal Jurisdiction, Inconvenient Forum, and Appearances, § 323.155 (Matthew Bender).

9.50[2][b] Time for Petition May Be Extended. The initial 10-day period is extended when service is by mail [see CCP § 1013(a); Shearer v. Superior Court (1977) 70 CA3d 424, 426, 138 CR 824 ].

CCP § 418.10(c) is not, however, jurisdictional in the sense that it deprives the trial court of the power to grant relief under CCP § 473(b), from a default judgment or order when the defendant failed to apply for an extension of time within the original 10-day period. Rather, during the period within which time could have been extended, the trial court may, on a proper showing, grant relief from default in the form of an extension of time. When the trial court would have been authorized to grant relief from default under equitable principles or under CCP § 473, a reviewing court may grant similar relief [ Cornell Univ. Med. College v. Superior Court (1974) 38 CA3d 311, 314-315, 113 CR 291 ; see also Quattrone v. Superior Court (1975) 44 CA3d 296, 301, 118 CR 548 ].

9.50[2][c] Petition Extends Time for Defendant to Plead. The defendant must file or enter a responsive pleading in the reviewing court within the time prescribed by CCP § 418.10(b) unless, on or before the last day of the time to plead, the defendant serves on the adverse party and files with the court a notice that the defendant has petitioned for a writ of mandate.

The service and filing of the notice extends the defendant's time to plead until 10 days after the defendant is served with a written notice of the final judgment in the mandate proceeding. The time to plead may, however, for good cause shown, be extended by the trial court for an additional period not exceeding 20 days [CCP § 418.10(c); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.491 (extension until 10 days after Supreme Court files order denying petition seeking review of court of appeal's denial of writ of mandate)].

9.50[2][d] Defendant Does Not Make General Appearance Until Writ Concluded. If a CCP § 418.10 motion is denied and the defendant or cross-defendant petitions for a writ of mandate pursuant to CCP § 418.10(c), that defendant or cross-defendant is not deemed to have generally appeared until the proceeding on the writ petition is finally concluded [CCP § 418.10(e)(2)].

I, _____ [name] declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., the defendant in this action or an attorney at law duly authorized to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record for the defendant], and I make this declaration in support of _____ [specify my or defendant's] motion to stay or dismiss the action for inconvenient forum [and to quash service of summons for lack of jurisdiction]. [My authority in this case is limited to appearing on behalf of defendant _____ (name) on this motion and for no other purpose].

2. _____ [Set forth specific evidentiary or probative facts and, if appropriate, reference to the court's record and file in the case, that establish the ground of the motion to stay or dismiss the action, e.g., As shown by the complaint, this action arose out of a vehicle collision in Colorado between a car owned and being driven by plaintiff,

then a resident of Nevada and now a resident of California, and a car owned and being driven by defendant. As shown by defendant's declaration, defendant now is, and at the time of the collision was, a resident of Colorado and was _____ (served with process in this action in that state or and is amenable to service of process in that state). 3. [On _____ (date), I phoned the _____ (law enforcement investigative agency) in Colorado and in response to my inquiry was informed that an accident report covering the subject collision had been prepared and filed by _____ (name of investigating officer), a _____ (title or rank) assigned to _____ (investigating agency) and whose unit address and phone number were _____. On the same day, I phoned the investigating officer who confirmed that he/she had prepared and filed an accident report and that he/she would send me a verified copy of it. Thereafter, on or about _____ (date), I received a copy of the accident report verified by the affidavit of _____ (name), the investigating officer. A copy of this report and affidavit are attached as Exhibit A and made a part hereof. This report concludes that the collision was caused by plaintiff's (describe negligent act). In his/her cover letter accompanying the report and affidavit, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit B and made a part hereof, the investigating officer expresses a desire to furnish me with whatever information he/she has and a willingness to testify as a witness in any trial held in Colorado, but specifically declines to attend any trial in California. As further shown by the report, the names of the witnesses to the collision, all of whom gave a Colorado address, are as follows: _____ (set forth names of witnesses).]

4. [On _____ (date), I phoned each of these witnesses at his or her home in Colorado and ascertained from each facts from which I concluded that each was a percipient witness to the collision and that the testimony of each would be required at the trial of this action. Of these witnesses, _____ (name(s)) categorically stated that they would not come to California for trial or for any other purpose. Witness _____ (name) told me that he/she would come to California only if he/she could bring his/her spouse and children and all their expenses were paid by defendant. On the other hand, each of these witnesses would, if the action were filed in Colorado, either testify willingly or be subject to subpoena in that state.]

Chapter 10 Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction
I. STRATEGY

10.02 Objective and Strategy.

The term "jurisdiction," used continuously in a variety of situations, has so many different meanings that no single statement entirely suffices as a definition. Essentially, jurisdictional errors are of two types: unfortunately, even California courts have not always maintained the distinction nor properly applied the very different rules applying to the two types [see People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 660 ; Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 287, 109 P2d 942 ].

The type of subject matter jurisdiction often referred to as "fundamental" is the authority of the court over causes, parties, and objects [see 10.04[6], [8]]. In contrast, the exercise of "excess jurisdiction" consists of an act or decision of the court that exceeds its power granted over those causes, parties, and objects [see 10.04[7], [8]].

Warning:

The distinction between fundamental subject matter jurisdiction and excess jurisdiction is crucial to proper application of rules for challenging lack of subject matter jurisdiction [see 10.04[8], [9]].

As a lack of authority to make any decision concerning the particular causes, parties, and objects subject to suit, a lack of subject matter jurisdiction in the fundamental sense renders a decision void. On the other hand, the exercise of excess jurisdiction, being only the rendering of a disposition of causes, parties, or objects over which the court has fundamental jurisdiction, merely renders the particular erroneous disposition voidable [see 10.04[8]].

Warning:

The voidability of decisions in excess of jurisdiction require action on the part of the aggrieved party in order to effect the avoidance of the error. The right to effect avoidance is time limited. The mistaken perception that an error of jurisdiction is fundamental, and thus automatically void, rather than merely in excess of jurisdiction and requiring timely action, can result in a party missing the deadline for obtaining avoidance of the error.

Timing:

A judgment made without fundamental subject matter jurisdiction is subject to collateral attack at any time. In sharp contrast, an judgment in excess of jurisdiction that becomes final is res judicata, and therefore must be attacked as error in a timely manner after judgment or on appeal, if not during trial [see 10.04[8][b]].

While a lack of fundamental subject matter jurisdiction cannot be waived, the right to raise excess jurisdiction is subject to preclusion by, in addition to res judicata, estoppel and disfavor of collateral attack [see 10.04[9]].

Warning:

Because estoppel, the disfavor of collateral attack, and res judicata can limit the ability to challenge decisions in excess of jurisdiction, such decisions should receive the immediate attention of the aggrieved party in order to preserve the party's right to obtain avoidance and perhaps to prevent other sanctions or imposition of costs. The party should seek dismissal during an action, or vacation or appeal of order or judgment, as appropriate, as soon as possible upon discovering the action exceeded the court's jurisdiction.

Strategic Point:

Even though fundamental subject matter jurisdiction cannot be waived, the issue should be raised at the earliest opportunity. If the issue is not raised and a party prevails on an issue, the opposing party can render the success meaningless. Taking the gamble that the lack of subject matter jurisdiction will not be raised is rarely worth the risk. If the opposing party does not recognize the defect, it is highly likely that the court--particularly an appellate court--will identify the issue [see, e.g., Indiana Gas Co. v. Home Ins. Co. (7th Cir 1998) 141 F3d 314, 316 ]. The dissent in that case notes that "one of the country's premier appellate litigators" was hit 45 seconds into his oral argument in the Court of Appeals with a subject matter jurisdiction issue that had never been briefed and that ultimately resulted in dismissal of the appeal and the case [ Indiana Gas Co., Inc. v. Home Ins. Co. (7th Cir 1998) 141 F3d 314, 320, n1 ].

Chapter 10 Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction
II. DETERMINING IF THE COURT HAS SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION

1-10 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 10.04

10.04 Fundamentals of Subject Matter Jurisdiction.

10.04[1] Subject Matter Jurisdiction Is the Power of the Court Over a Cause of Action. Jurisdiction, in its broadest sense, is the power to hear and determine causes [ Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 288, 109 P2d 942 ; People v. Nat'l Auto. & Cas. Ins. Co. (2000) 82 CA4th 120, 125-126, 97 CR2d 858 (defining lack of jurisdiction)]. Subject matter jurisdiction is one of the two principal categories of jurisdiction: subject matter jurisdiction and personal jurisdiction.

➡ Cross Reference:

For discussion of personal jurisdiction, see Ch. 9, Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction.

Subject matter jurisdiction is "the power of the court over a cause of action or to act in a particular way" [ Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1035, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ]. It is the authority of a court to try actions of the type or class to which the suit belongs.

Drawback:

A question of subject matter jurisdiction may involve a choice of forum. Because all legally cognizable grievances may be considered in some forum, a claim that a particular court does not have authority to adjudicate such a grievance implies that another court or agency does have such power [ Hughes v. Blue Cross of N. Cal. (1989) 215 CA3d 832, 849, 263 CR 850 ].

Counter-Attack:

A formal motion to dismiss may be used to dismiss a cause that is not legally cognizable and preclude its transfer to another court.

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion, see 10.08[3].

10.04[2] Subject Matter Jurisdiction of the California Supreme Court. The California Supreme Court has jurisdiction in the following matters:

- Original jurisdiction in habeas corpus proceedings, and proceedings for extraordinary relief in the nature of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition [Cal Const, art VI, § 10].
- Appellate jurisdiction when judgment of death has been pronounced [Cal Const, art VI, § 11; see Pen Code § 1506; see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.600(a) (authorizing appeal to Supreme Court from superior court order in certain habeas corpus proceedings involving a defendant sentenced to death)].
- Appellate jurisdiction through transfer to itself of a cause in a court of appeal, or transfer to itself of one or more issues in a case pending in the court of appeal [Cal Const, art VI, § 12(a); see Cal Rules Ct, Rules 8.268, 8.500, 8.512, 8.516, 8.528, 8.552].
- Acceptance of certified questions of state law from the United States Supreme Court, a United States Court of Appeals, or the court of last resort in any state, territory, or commonwealth [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.548].
- Appellate jurisdiction to review the decision of a court of appeal in any cause [Cal Const, art VI, § 12(b); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.500 et seq.].
- Appellate jurisdiction to review, reverse, correct, or annul orders of administrative agencies [see PU Code §§ 1756(a), (f), (g), 1759 (Public Utilities Commission); Lab Code § 5955 (Workers' Compensation Appeals Board); B&P Code § 23090 (Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control)].
- Jurisdiction over petitions for review of determinations of the Commission on Judicial Performance to retire, remove, censure, admonish, or disqualify a judge or former judge [Cal Const, art VI, § 18(d)].
- The power to admit attorneys to practice and to suspend or disbar attorneys, and to review State Bar proceedings relating to attorneys [see B&P Code §§ 6060, 6062, 6081-6084, 6100, 6102; see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 9.13].

10.04[3] Subject Matter Jurisdiction of the California Courts of Appeal. The California courts of appeal have jurisdiction in the following matters:

- Original jurisdiction in habeas corpus proceedings, and proceedings for extraordinary relief in the nature of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition [Cal Const, art VI, § 10].
- Except for criminal cases in which a death penalty has been imposed, appellate jurisdiction over all cases of which the superior courts have original jurisdiction [Cal Const, art VI, § 11].
- Appellate jurisdiction over certain causes as prescribed by statute, including certification to a court of appeal of cases on appeal to the superior court [see CCP § 911; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 8.268, 8.1000 et seq.], when a court of appeal, in its discretion, has transferred to itself a case from the appellate department of the superior court to secure uniformity of decision or to settle important questions of law [see CCP § 911; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 8.1005, 8.1008, 8.1018].

- Appellate jurisdiction to review, reverse, correct, or annul orders of administrative agencies [see PU Code §§ 1756(a), (f), (g), 1759 (Public Utilities Commission); Lab Code § 5955 (Workers' Compensation Appeals Board); B&P Code § 23090 (Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control)].

10.04[4] Subject Matter Jurisdiction of the California Superior Courts.

10.04[4][a] Original Jurisdiction. Superior courts have original jurisdiction in the following matters:

- Habeas corpus proceedings and proceedings for extraordinary relief in the nature of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition [Cal Const, art VI, § 10]. These matters are examples of concurrent subject matter jurisdiction of the California Supreme Court, Court of Appeal, and Superior Court.

- All causes except those given by statute to other trial courts [Cal Const, art VI, § 10; Walker v. Superior Court (1991) 53 C3d 257, 264, 279 CR 576, 807 P2d 418 ] or to the Public Utilities Commission [Cal Const, art XII, § 8; City of Anaheim v. Pacific Bell Tel. Co. (2004) 119 CA4th 838, 842 ]. In other words, superior courts are courts of general jurisdiction.

Example:

As of February 2001, all counties have elected to unify their trial courts and there are no more municipal courts in the state. The superior court has jurisdiction over all causes which had been in the jurisdiction of the municipal court. These are called limited civil cases [see Cal Const, art VI, § 23; CCP § 86].

Exception:

The perfecting of an appeal of denial of a motion appealable under CCP § 916(a) automatically stays all further trial court proceedings on the merits of the causes of action affected by the motion. The appeal divests the trial court of subject matter jurisdiction over the matters embraced by the motion during the pendency of the appeal [ Varian Medical Systems, Inc. v. Delfino (2005) 35 C4th 180, 193-197 (anti-SLAPP)].

Cross Reference:

For detailed discussion of limited and unlimited civil cases, see Ch. 15, Reclassification of Cases.

10.04[4][b] Appellate Jurisdiction. Superior courts have appellate jurisdiction in the following matters:

- The superior court's appellate division has original jurisdiction of proceedings for extraordinary relief in the nature of mandamus, certiorari, and prohibition directed to the superior court in limited civil cases [Cal Const, art VI, § 10; CCP §§ 77(e), 85.1, 1068(b), 1085(b), 1103(b)].

- Except for the cases placed in the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and courts of appeal by

Cal Const, art VI, § 11(a), the appellate divisions of superior court have appellate jurisdiction in causes prescribed by statute [Cal Const, art VI, § 11(b)].

- Appeals in limited civil cases [see CCP § 77(e); see also CCP § 904.2 (list of appealable judgments and orders in limited civil cases)].

- Appeals filed by defendants from small claims court judgments [CCP § 116.710].

➤ Cross Reference:

Transfer of petition or appeal improperly filed in superior court to court of appeals or supreme court, see 10.06.

10.04[4][c] Jurisdictional Classification of Civil Cases. Within the superior court, civil cases must be classified as unlimited or limited civil cases depending on the amount of damages pled and the nature of the relief sought. For limited civil cases, the amount in controversy cannot exceed $25,000 [CCP § 85(a)].

➤ Cross Reference:

Detailed discussion of classifying and reclassifying cases as limited or unlimited civil cases, see Ch. 15, Reclassification of Cases.

10.04[4][d] Jurisdiction Over Native Americans. Congress has given California courts jurisdiction over civil causes of action arising in Native American tribal territory and between individual Native Americans or to which Native Americans are parties, to the same extent that those courts have jurisdiction over other civil causes of action.

Exception:

This jurisdiction extends only over individuals and not over the Native American tribes [see 28 USC § 1360].

➤ Cross Reference:

For detailed discussion of jurisdiction over Native Americans, the immunity of Native American tribes, and waiver of that immunity, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction (Matthew Bender).

10.04[5] Subject Matter Jurisdiction of the California Small Claims Courts.

10.04[5][a] Jurisdictional Limit of Amount in Controversy. The small claims courts, which are divisions of the superior courts [CCP § 116.210], were established to resolve minor civil disputes expeditiously and inexpensively [see CCP § 116.120]. The small claims courts have jurisdiction in actions when the amount of the demand or the property to be recovered does not exceed $5,000 [see CCP § 116.220(a)] or, if the action is brought by a natural person, $7,500 [CCP § 116.221].

10.04[5][b] Equitable Relief Available. In any action seeking relief within that jurisdictional limit, the small claims court also may grant equitable relief in the form of rescission, restitution, reformation, and specific performance, in lieu of, or in addition to, money damages [CCP § 116.220(b)].

10.04[6] A Court Lacks Fundamental Subject Matter Jurisdiction When It Has No Authority to Act. "Lack of jurisdiction" means a court is without authority to act [ In re Jody R. (1990) 218 CA3d 1615, 1622, 267 CR 746 ; see Barnick v. Longs Drug Stores, Inc., 203 CA3d 377, 379, 250 CR 10 (1988) (without subject matter jurisdiction, a court has no authority to determine a case)]. In its most fundamental sense, lack of jurisdiction signifies an entire absence of power to hear or determine the particular subject matter of the case [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co.

(2004) 33 C4th 653, 660 ; Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 288 ].

10.04[7] Excess Jurisdiction Occurs When Court Acts Outside Its Defined Powers. Although a court may have jurisdiction, in the fundamental sense, over the subject matter and the parties, its power may be limited to acting only in a particular manner, to giving only certain kinds of relief, or to act without the occurrence of certain procedural prerequisites. Acts that exceed the defined power of the court are described as acts in "excess of jurisdiction" [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661, 93 P3d 1020 ; Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 287, 109 P2d 942 .

10.04[8] Lack of Fundamental Jurisdiction Renders Judgment Void, While Excess Jurisdiction Renders Judgment Merely Voidable.

10.04[8][a] No Time Bar to Relief Against Lack of Fundamental Subject Matter Jurisdiction. The jurisdiction sufficient to sustain a court record is jurisdiction over the cause, over the parties, and over any object that is the subject of the judgment [CCP § 1917]. Accordingly, when a court lacks jurisdiction in this fundamental sense, its decision is void [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 660 ; Barquis v. Merchants Collection Assn. (1972) 7 C3d 94, 119, 101 CR 745, 496 P2d 817 ].

Timing:

A judgment void on its face because it was rendered by a court without fundamental subject matter jurisdiction is subject to collateral attack at any time [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661 ; Barquis v. Merchants Collection Assn. (1972) 7 C3d 94, 119, 101 CR 745, 496 P2d 817 ].

Cross Reference:

Challenging lack of fundamental subject matter jurisdiction, see 10.10 et seq.

10.04[8][b] Voidable Judgment Must Be Challenged While the Trial Court or Court of Appeal Can Still Correct the Mistake. When a statute authorizes a prescribed procedure, and the court acts contrary to the authority thus conferred, it exceeds its jurisdiction [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661 ; Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 287, 109 P2d 942 ]. When a court has fundamental subject matter jurisdiction, but acts in excess of its jurisdiction, its act or judgment is merely voidable [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661 ; In re Marriage of Goddard (2004) 33 C4th 49, 55 ].

Timing:

A voidable judgment in excess of the court's jurisdiction is valid until it is set aside. A party may be precluded from setting it aside by disfavor of collateral attack or res judicata [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661 ]. Errors in excess of jurisdiction must be challenged directly, such as by motion to dismiss or to vacate the judgment, or on appeal. They are not subject to collateral attack once the judgment is final, unless unusual circumstances are present that prevent an earlier and more appropriate attack [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661 ; Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. McConnell (1955) 44 C2d 715, 727, 285 P2d 636 ]. A voidable judgment must be challenged while the trial court or court of appeal can still correct the mistake [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 665 ].

Warning:

The inexcusable failure to challenge the exercise of excess jurisdiction will result in the loss of that right [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 665 (failure until after summary judgment became final to challenge court's entry of summary judgment before last day in which to set aside forfeiture of bail bond was res judicata)].

Cross Reference:

Challenging excess jurisdiction, see 10.10 et seq.

Effect of agreement to arbitrate on extent of court's power, see Ch. 6, Determining Forum, 6.06[3], 6.10[2].

10.04[9] Applicability of Waiver or Estoppel Depends on Type of Lack of Jurisdiction. The lack of subject matter jurisdiction in a fundamental sense is such a basic defect that it is not subject to waiver or estoppel [ Miranda v. 21st Century Ins. Co. (2004) 117 CA4th 913, 920 ; Parrott v. Mooring Townhomes Ass'n, Inc. (2003) 112 CA4th 873, 876 ].

Warning:

Fundamental subject matter jurisdiction cannot be conferred on a court by consent [ Housing Group v. United Nat'l Ins. Co. (2001) 90 CA4th 1106, 1113, 109 CR2d 497 ].

In contrast, a party may be precluded from setting aside a voidable judgment in excess of jurisdiction by estoppel or collateral attack [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 665, 16 CR3d 76, 93 P3d 1020 ; People v. Bankers Ins. Co. (2010) 182 CA4th 1377, 1382, 106 CR3d 680 ]. Whether the party will be estopped depends on the importance of the irregularity not only to the parties but to the functioning of the courts and in some instances on other considerations of public policy. A litigant who has stipulated to a procedure in excess of jurisdiction may be estopped to contest jurisdiction when "to hold otherwise would permit the parties to trifle with the courts" [ Mt. Holyoke Homes, LP v. California Coastal Com. (2008) 167 CA4th 830, 842, 84 CR3d 452 ].

Distinguish:

Do not confuse equitable estoppel with estoppel to contest jurisdiction. A valid claim for equitable estoppel requires [ Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 C4th 570, 584, 80 CR3d 83, 187 P3d 934 ; Mt. Holyoke Homes, LP v. California Coastal Com. (2008) 167 CA4th 830, 843, 84 CR3d 452 ]:

- A representation or concealment of material facts,

- made with knowledge, actual or virtual, of the facts,
- to a party ignorant, actually and permissibly, of the truth,
- with the intention, actual or virtual, that the ignorant party act on it, and
- that party was induced to act on it.

The doctrine of estoppel to contest jurisdiction, however, "provides that when a court has subject matter jurisdiction over an action, a party who seeks or consents to action beyond the court's power as defined by statute or decisional rule may be estopped to complain of the ensuing action in excess of jurisdiction," and does not require reliance or ignorance by the party seeking to assert estoppel [ Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 C4th 570, 584, 80 CR3d 83, 187 P3d 934 ; Mt. Holyoke Homes, LP v. California Coastal Com. (2008) 167 CA4th 830, 843, 84 CR3d 452 ].

Warning:

Given the applicability of estoppel to the right to avoidance of decisions in excess of jurisdiction, a party should seek to obtain avoidance of the order or decision as soon as possible after the discovery of the error.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of equitable estoppel, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 251, Equity, 251.161.

10.04[10] Court Has Jurisdiction to Determine Jurisdiction. Although a court may not act in a matter over which it has no jurisdiction, it has jurisdiction to determine its own jurisdiction [ Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 302-303, 109 P2d 942 ; Ziller Elecs. Lab GmbH v. Superior Court (1988) 206 CA3d 1222, 1228, 254 CR 410 ]. Thus, a court has inherent power to inquire into its jurisdiction of a matter on its own motion, regardless of whether the issue is raised by the litigants.

Warning:

The exercise of jurisdiction to determine jurisdiction is a preliminary step, not a final one, and no interference in the tribunal's inquiry is permitted [ Abelleira v. District Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 302-303 ].

Strategic Point:

Once a court decides that it has jurisdiction, any subsequent act is subject to inquiry by a higher court [ Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 302-303, 109 P2d 942 ; see Bernardi v. City Council (1997) 53 CA4th 718, 61 CR2d 895 .

10.04[11] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Is a Jurisdictional Requirement, Where Applicable.

10.04[11][a] Move to Dismiss Action for Failure to Exhaust Administrative Remedies. If a claim is cognizable in the first instance by an agency alone, the doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies applies. When an administrative remedy has been provided by statute, it must be exhausted before a court can act [ Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 C4th 917, 930, 94 P3d 1055 ; American Employers Group, Inc. v. Employment Development Dept. (2007) 154 CA4th 836, 843, 65 CR3d 233 ]. This exhaustion of administrative remedies requirement is jurisdictional; accordingly, petitioner has the burden of showing that the exact issue must have been presented to the administrative agency [ Sierra Club v. City of Orange (2008) 163 CA4th 523, 535-536, 78 CR3d 1 ]. However, the extent of administrative relief that must be sought extends only to the specific requirements of the statute [ State Bd. of Chiropractic Examiners v. Superior Court (2009) 45 C4th 963, 972-974, 89 CR3d 576, 201 P3d 457 (exhaustion of remedies under Gov Code § 8547.8(c) limited to rendering of findings by California Personnel Board)].

Warning:

In an action filed on a claim that was heard by an administrative agency with jurisdiction to render a final civil judgment, the complaint or cross-complaint generally must also establish that the plaintiff exhausted his or her judicial remedies for review of the agency's decision [ Miller v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 169 CA4th 1373, 1382-1383, 87 CR3d 510 (plaintiff's Fair Employment and Housing Act claim was collaterally estopped by his dismissal of judicial appeal of civil service commission decision); compare State Bd. of Chiropractic Examiners v. Superior Court (2009) 45 C4th 963, 975-976, 89 CR3d 576, 201 P3d 457 (exhaustion of judicial remedies not required where decision not final under governing statute)].

Distinguish:

The doctrine does not apply if the administrative agency lacks jurisdiction to make the determination that is the subject of the dispute [ Coachella Valley Mosquito & Vector Control Dist. v. California Public Employment Relations Bd. (2005) 35 C4th 1072, 1081-1082, 29 CR3d 234, 112 P3d 623 (tribunal lacked jurisdiction)], including when the agency loses jurisdiction while the action is pending [see, e.g., County of Los Angeles Dept. of Health Services v. Civil Service Com. of County of Los Angeles (2009) 180 CA4th 391, 401, 102 CR3d 684 (Los Angeles Civil Service Commission lost jurisdiction of action when petitioning employee retired); Brand v. Regents of University of California (2008) 159 CA4th 1349, 1365-1367, 72 CR3d 419 (administrative tribunal lost jurisdiction under Gov. Code, § 8547.10 by failing to decide within statutory time for decision)].

Administrative procedures created by a collective bargaining agreement, rather than statute, and culminating in an arbitration do not have to be exhausted before filing for judicial relief [ Ortega v. Contra Costa Community College Dist. (2007) 156 CA4th 1073, 1084-1086, 67 CR3d 832 (community college district's internal grievance procedures did not bar coach's claim)].

A plaintiff need not exhaust administrative remedies provided by statute if the agency has already rejected the claim, announced its position on the claim, or made clear it will not consider the plaintiff's evidence [ Farahani v. San Diego Community College Dist. (2009) 175 CA4th 1486, 1497, 96 CR3d 900 (showing of exhaustion of remedies not required)].

10.04[11][b] Consider Moving to Stay Action When Court May Defer to an Administrative Agency. Even when not required, some issues may be determined by administrative agencies. In such instances, the primary jurisdiction doctrine applies, rather than the exhaustion of administrative remedies [ Econ. Empowerment Found. v. Quackenbush (1997) 57 CA4th 677, 683-684, 67 CR2d 323 ].

Under the primary jurisdiction doctrine, a court has discretion to defer ruling on a claim within its original jurisdiction pending an administrative determination of the claim if the interests of justice so require. In exercising this discretion, the court may consider various factors, including [Jonathan Neil & Assocs., Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 C4th 917, 932-934, 16 CR3d 849, 94 P3d 1055; Wise v. Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (1999) 77 CA4th 287, 295-296, 91 CR2d 479 ]:

- The need for administrative expertise; and
- The promotion of uniformity in applying regulatory law.

Strategic Point:

The proper procedure in applying the doctrine of primary jurisdiction is not to dismiss the action, but to stay it pending resolution of the issues within the administrative body's expertise [ South Bay Creditors Trust v. General Motors Acceptance Corp. (1999) 69 CA4th 1068, 1081, 82 CR2d 1 ]. Thus, the primary jurisdiction doctrine creates a timing issue, not a jurisdictional issue [ Piscioneri v. City of Ontario (2002) 95 CA4th 1037, 1052, 116 CR2d 38 ].

Distinguish:

The trial court does not abuse its discretion by refusing to defer litigation that presents issues that are within the conventional competence of the courts if the judgment of a technically expert body would not aid judicial decisionmaking [ Blue Cross of California, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 180 CA4th 138, 102 CR3d 615 ].

10.04[11][c] Scope of Court's Review Depends on Applicable Doctrine. In the case of the doctrine of exhaustion of remedies, the administrative agency must initially decide the "entire controversy." However, under the primary jurisdiction doctrine, the court makes its own decision that is based in part on the agency's decision on an issue or issues within the case [ Jonathan Neil & Associates, Inc. v. Jones (2004) 33 C4th 917, 932-934, 16 CR3d 849, 94 P3d 1055 ].

10.04[12] Court May Refuse to Exercise Equitable Jurisdiction Under Abstention Doctrine. A court may abstain from adjudicating a suit that seeks equitable remedies if [ Arce v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc. (2010) 181 CA4th 471, 496, 104 CR3d 545 (reversing abstention from claims under Unfair Competition Law for injunctive relief); Blue Cross of California, Inc. v. Superior Court (2009) 180 CA4th 138, 102 CR3d 615 (affirming refusal to abstain on any of the three possible grounds); Alvarado v. Selma Convalescent Hospital (2007) 153 CA4th 1292, 1298, 64 CR3d 250 (abstention from determining complex economic policy under the Unfair Competition Law and from burdensome injunctive relief) ]:

- Granting the requested relief would require a trial court to assume the functions of an administrative agency, or to interfere with the functions of an administrative agency.
- The lawsuit involves determining complex economic policy, which is best handled by the Legislature or an administrative agency.
- Granting injunctive relief would be unnecessarily burdensome for the trial court to monitor and enforce given the availability of more effective means of redress.

Chapter 10 Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction
II. DETERMINING IF THE COURT HAS SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION

1-10 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 10.05

10.05 Concurrent Jurisdiction Issues.

10.05[1] Between State and Federal Courts.

10.05[1][a] State Courts Generally May Assume Subject Matter Jurisdiction Over Federal Causes of Action.

Some federal statutes creating a right of action expressly give the state and federal courts concurrent jurisdiction to enforce the right [see, e.g., 8 USC § 1421(b)(5)(B) (naturalization proceedings); 28 USC § 1352 (action on a bond executed under any law of the United States except matters within the jurisdiction of the Court of International Trade); 45 USC § 56 (claims under the Federal Employers' Liability Act)].

The general rule is that state courts may assume subject matter jurisdiction over a federal cause of action, absent a provision by Congress to the contrary or a disabling incompatibility between the federal and state court adjudication [ Tafflin v. Levitt (1990) 493 US 455, 459, 110 S Ct 792, 107 L Ed2d 887 ].

The presumption of concurrency also may be defeated when a state court refuses jurisdiction because of a neutral state rule regarding the administration of the courts [ Haywood v. Drown (2009) ___ US ___, 129 S Ct 2108, 173 L Ed2d 920, 928].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

Notwithstanding concurrent jurisdiction, a defendant may, in certain cases, have an action removed from state to federal courts [see 28 USC §§ 1441-1452].

Cross Reference:

For further discussion of removal, see Ch. 17, Removal to Federal Court.

10.05[1][b] Federal Courts or Agencies Have Exclusive Subject Matter Jurisdiction Where Federal Law So Provides. California courts lack jurisdiction over the subject matter of a cause of action when jurisdiction is vested by federal law exclusively in a federal court or agency [see, e.g., 46 USC § 688 (Jones Act claims, see Donaldson v. National Marine (2005) 35 C4th 503, 509 ; 46 USC § 761 (Death on the High Seas Act claim; see also Donaldson v.

National Marine (2005) 35 C4th 503, 509, 25 CR3d, 107 P3d 254 ; Holiday Matinee, Inc. v. Rambus, Inc. (2004) 118 CA4th 1413, 1422 ; Kingston Constructors, Inc. v. Wash. Metro. Area Transit Auth. (1997) 14 C4th 939, 943-947, 59 CR2d 866, 928 P2d 581 ].

10.05[2] Between California Courts When Parties and Issues Are Identical.

10.05[2][a] Once a Court Acquires Jurisdiction of the Parties, the Other Court Ordinarily Must Abate on Demand. When two California courts have concurrent jurisdiction over the same parties and subject matter, the tribunal that first acquires jurisdiction of the parties is entitled to retain it exclusively, and the other court ordinarily must abate its proceedings on demand [ Mission Imports, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 31 C3d 921, 926 n.3, 184 CR 296, 647 P2d 1075 ; see County of San Diego v. State of California (1997) 15 C4th 68, 87-88, 61 CR2d 134, 931 P2d 312 ].

Timing:

In applying this rule, it is the tribunal where process is served first that has priority, regardless of which action was filed first [ Mungia v. Superior Court (1964) 225 CA2d 280, 283, 37 CR 285 ].

Prerequisite:

In determining whether the causes of action are the same for purposes of pleas in abatement, the rule is that such a plea may be maintained when a judgment in the first action would be a complete bar to the second action [ Plant Insulation Co. v. Fibreboard Corp. (1990) 224 CA3d 781, 787-788, 274 CR 147 ].

10.05[2][b] A Plea in Abatement May Be Made by Demurrer. If there is another action pending between the same parties on the same cause of action, a plea in abatement may be made by demurrer [see CCP § 430.10(c)].

Warning:

If a demurrer is sustained on the ground of another action pending, the proper order is not dismissal, but abatement of further proceedings pending termination of the first action [ Plant Insulation Co. v. Fibreboard Corp. (1990) 224 CA3d 781, 788, 274 CR 147 ].

Cross References:

Detailed discussion of Demurrers, see Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

Further discussion of abatement, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions, § 3.50 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

10.05[3] Between California Courts When Parties and Issues Are Not Identical.

10.05[3][a] Rule of Exclusive Concurrent Jurisdiction May Apply If First Court to Acquire Jurisdiction Can Litigate All Issues and Grant All Relief to Which Parties May Be Entitled. Under the rule of exclusive concurrent jurisdiction, if two trial courts of equal jurisdiction have concurrent jurisdiction over the subject matter and all parties involved in litigation, the first to assume jurisdiction has exclusive and continuing jurisdiction over the subject matter and all parties involved until all necessarily related matters have been resolved [ Plant Insulation Co. v. Fibreboard Corp. (1990) 224 CA3d 781, 786-787, 274 CR 147 ; see Franklin & Franklin v. 7-Eleven Owners for Fair Franchising (2000) 85 CA4th 1168, 1175 ].

Distinguish:

Unlike the statutory plea of abatement [see 10.05[2][a]], the rule of exclusive concurrent jurisdiction does not require absolute identity of parties, causes of action, or remedies sought in the initial and subsequent actions [ California Attorneys, etc. v. Schwarzenegger (2010) 182 CA4th 1424, 1430, 106 CR3d 702 ].

Examples:

The first and second action must arise from the same transaction. The rule of exclusive concurrent jurisdiction may apply [ Plant Insulation Co. v. Fibreboard Corp. (1990) 224 CA3d 781, 788-789, 274 CR 147 ]:

- Where the parties in the second action are not identical, if the court exercising original jurisdiction has the power to bring before it all the necessary parties;
- Where the remedies sought in the separate actions are not identical, if the court exercising original jurisdiction has the power to litigate all the issues and to grant all the relief to which any of the parties might be entitled under the pleadings; or
- Where the judgment rendered in the first action is not res judicata in the second.

Distinguish:

The exclusive jurisdiction rule does not apply where the parties and legal issues are so different that both [ California Attorneys, etc. v. Schwarzenegger (2010) 182 CA4th 1424, 1432, 106 CR3d 702 (nonapplication of rule affirmed)]:

- Judgment in the first case is not binding on the parties as to the issues in the second case.
- The second case does not threaten or produce a conclusion that is irreconcilable with the judgment in the first case.

10.05[3][b] Issue of Exclusive Concurrent Jurisdiction Should Be Raised by Demurrer. The assertion that exclusive concurrent jurisdiction applies should be raised by demurrer if the issue appears on the face of the complaint and by answer if factual issues must be resolved. The ruling may constitute a ground of abatement of the subsequent action [ People ex rel. Garamendi v. American Autoplan, Inc. (1993) 20 CA4th 760, 770-772, 25 CR2d 192 ].

Distinguish:

The rule of exclusive concurrent jurisdiction does not present a ground for dismissal. A court's erroneous refusal to stay further proceedings on the grounds of exclusive concurrent jurisdiction does not render those further proceedings void for lack of jurisdiction [ County of San Diego v. State of California (1997) 15 C4th 68, 88, 61 CR2d 134, 931 P2d 312 ; People ex rel. Garamendi v. American Autoplan, Inc. (1993) 20 CA4th 760, 772, 25 CR2d 192 ].

 Cross Reference:

Form of demurrer on the ground of exclusive concurrent jurisdiction, see 10.15.

10.05[4] Between Departments of a Superior Court.

10.05[4][a] Principle of Priority of Jurisdiction Applies in Multi-Department Superior Court. The principle of priority of jurisdiction has been applied in cases in which two departments of the superior court attempt to exercise jurisdiction over the same case. As a general rule, the first department to validly assume and exercise control over the matter acquires exclusive jurisdiction over it [ People v. Madrigal (1995) 37 CA4th 791, 796, 43 CR2d 498 ; Silverman v. Superior Court (1988) 203 CA3d 145, 151, 249 CR 724 ].

Prerequisites:

The principle provides that no other department can interfere with a department's power over a proceeding if [ Wozniak v. Lucutz (2002) 102 CA4th 1031, 1040-1041, 126 CR2d 310 ]:

- It has been duly assigned for hearing and determination,
- By the presiding justice of the court,
- In conformity with the court rules, and
- The proceeding has not been finally disposed of.

Even though a superior court is divided into branches or departments, there is only one superior court in a county, and jurisdiction is vested in that court, rather than in any particular judge or department [see Cal Const, art VI, § 4; Glade v. Glade (1995) 38 CA4th 1441, 1449, 45 CR2d 695 ].

Distinguish:

Because jurisdiction is vested in the court as a whole, if a department to which a matter was not assigned exercises authority in a matter, this does not amount to a defect in jurisdiction [ Wozniak v. Lucutz (2002) 102 CA4th 1031, 1041, 126 CR2d 310 ].

10.05[4][b] Principle of Priority Also Applies to Departments That Exercise Distinct Subject Matter

Jurisdiction. The principle of priority of jurisdiction applies not only to ordinary departments, but also to departments that exercise subject matter jurisdiction that is distinct [ Glade v. Glade (1995) 38 CA4th 1441, 1450, 45 CR2d 695 ].

Example:

When a dissolution proceeding is pending in the family court, another department of the superior court may not interfere with the family court's exercise of its power in that proceeding [ Dale v. Dale (1998) 66 CA4th 1172, 1183, 78 CR2d 513 ]. Accordingly, it was proper for a family law court in which a marital dissolution action was pending, which vested it with jurisdiction over alleged community property, to stay a later commenced foreclosure action pending in another superior court department concerning a community property residence. The family law court had priority of jurisdiction [ Glade v. Glade (1995) 38 CA4th 1441, 1456, 45 CR2d 695 ].

10.05[5] Between Courts of Different States.

10.05[5][a] Abatement Is Discretionary. Abatement is only mandatory if the multiple actions are pending in courts of the same state. If the actions are pending in courts of different states, the determination whether to stay the later-filed action is discretionary. [ Leadford v. Leadford (1992) 6 CA4th 571, 575, 8 CR2d 9 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of abatement, see 10.05[2][a].

10.05[5][b] Abatement Should Be Raised by a Motion to Stay the Proceedings. Because the determination is discretionary, it should be raised by a motion to stay the proceedings, not by demurrer [ Leadford v. Leadford (1992) 6 CA4th 571, 574, 8 CR2d 9 ].

10.05[5][c] Injunction to Enjoin Party From Proceeding in Another State Is Not Available. A California trial court may not enjoin a party from proceeding in another state even when the California action was filed first [see Advanced Bionics Corp. v. Medtronic, Inc. (2002) 29 C4th 697, 706-708, 128 CR2d 172, 59 P3d 231 (California Supreme Court seems to have rejected a "first to file" rule in favor of a "first to judgment" rule); Biosense Webster, Inc. v. Superior Court (2006) 135 CA4th 827, 836-838, 37 CR3d 759 (rule applies whether or not action in other state is actually pending)].

Discussion of motions to transfer, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction (Matthew Bender).

10.06[2] Transfer of Petition or Appeal to Court With Jurisdiction. If the superior court lacks jurisdiction of an appeal or petition, and a court of appeal or the supreme court would have jurisdiction, the appeal or petition must be transferred to the court having jurisdiction. The transfer may be made upon terms as to costs or otherwise as may be just. The court having jurisdiction is to proceed with the petition or appeal as if it had originally been regularly filed in that court [CCP § 396(b)].

IV. MOVING TO DISMISS FOR LACK OF SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION

1-10 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 10.07

10.07 CHECKLIST: Moving to Dismiss for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction.

- ☐ Determine legal basis for lack of subject matter jurisdiction:
  - ☐ California or federal constitution or statute or ordinance, of which the court must take judicial notice [see Evid Code § 451(a)].
  - ☐ Records of another court, of which the court where the action is pending may be requested to take judicial notice [see Evid Code §§ 452(d), 453].
  - ☐ Case law.
- ☐ Determine evidence from which lack of jurisdiction will be established:
  - ☐ Face of complaint or other pleading.
  - ☐ Matters of which court must or may take judicial notice.
  - ☐ Extrinsic evidence and who can provide that evidence.
- ☐ Determine manner of raising issue of lack of subject matter jurisdiction:
  - ☐ By demurrer if lack of jurisdiction appears from the face of the complaint or other pleading.

Authority:

CCP § 430.30(a)

- ☐ By affirmative defense in answer.
- ☐ By statutory motion to transfer to a California court having subject matter jurisdiction.

Authority:

CCP § 396(b)

Discussion:

See 10.06[2]

- ☐ By a nonstatutory motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction if no California court has subject matter jurisdiction:

- ☐ Draft motion and notice of motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.
- ☐ Draft proposed order.
- ☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure for serving and filing motion.

10.08 Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction.

10.08[1] Raised by Demurrer to Complaint. A challenge to subject matter jurisdiction may be properly brought by demurrer to the complaint [ Greener v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 6 C4th 1028, 1036, 25 CR2d 539, 863 P2d 784 ]. A demurrer may be used only if the lack of jurisdiction appears from the face of the complaint or other pleading or from matter subject to judicial notice [see CCP §§ 430.10(a), 430.30(a), 430.70].

Distinguish:

Dismissal under CCP § 430.10(a) on the basis of a forum selection clause is error. The court may only decline jurisdiction based on such a clause in accordance with CCP § 410.30(a) or CCP § 418.10(e)(3) [ Miller-Leigh LLC v. Henson (2007) 152 CA4th 1143, 1149, 1150, 62 CR3d 83 ; for discussion of forum selection, see 9.23 et seq.].

Chapter 10 Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction

V. CHALLENGING LACK OF SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION LATER IN PROCEEDING OR ON APPEAL

10.10 Challenge Judicial or Administrative Acts in Excess of Jurisdiction by Writ.

10.10[1] Judicial Acts May Be Restrained by Writ of Prohibition or Annulled on Certiorari. Judicial acts made in excess of a court's jurisdiction may be challenged on petition for a writ of certiorari [CCP § 1068(a)] or prohibition [CCP §§ 1102, 1103]. A writ of prohibition will issue to review or prohibit acts in excess of jurisdiction when there is no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law [see Crittenden v. Superior Court (1964) 61 C2d 565, 567, 39 CR 380, 393 P2d 692 ]. A writ of certiorari, also called a writ of review, will issue when there is no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy [see Times Mirror Co. v. Superior Court (1991) 53 C3d 1325, 1333, 283 CR 893, 813 P2d 240 ; Auto Equity Sales, Inc. v. Superior Court (1962) 57 C2d 450, 454-455, 20 CR 321, 369 P2d 937 ].

Generally, any act that exceeds the defined power of a court, whether that power be defined by constitutional provision, express statutory declaration, or rules developed by the courts and followed under the doctrine of stare decisis, are in excess of jurisdiction and may be restrained by prohibition or annulled on certiorari [ Abelleira v. Dist. Court of Appeal (1941) 17 C2d 280, 291, 109 P2d 942 ].

10.10[2] Administrative Acts May Be Invalidated by Writ of Mandate. Mandate is the appropriate remedy to inquire into the validity of any final administrative order or decision made without or in excess of jurisdiction [CCP § 1094.5(b); see CCP § 1094.5(a)].

Chapter 10 Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction

V. CHALLENGING LACK OF SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION LATER IN PROCEEDING OR ON APPEAL

1-10 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 10.11

10.11 Motion to Vacate or Set Aside Void Judgment.

A judgment void on its face because it was rendered by a court without fundamental subject matter jurisdiction is subject to collateral attack at any time. On the other hand, judgments in excess of jurisdiction must be challenged before they become final, unless unusual circumstances are present that prevent an earlier and more appropriate attack [ People v. American Contractors Indem. Co. (2004) 33 C4th 653, 661, 16 CR3d 76, 93 P3d 1020 ]. A court may set aside any void judgment or order on motion of either party after notice to the other party [CCP § 473(d)].

10.12 Appeal of Motion to Set Aside Judgment.

If the judgment is void, it is subject to collateral attack in the first instance by a motion to vacate or set aside. An order denying a motion to vacate or set aside is a special order made after entry of judgment that may be directly attacked on appeal. Appeal is allowed because an order giving effect to a void judgment is also void and appealable. This rule constitutes an exception to the ordinary rule precluding an appeal from an order denying a motion to vacate a judgment in order to prevent an appellant from having two opportunities to appeal [ Residents for Adequate Water v. Redwood Valley County Water Dist. (1995) 34 CA4th 1801, 1805, 41 CR2d 123 ].

11.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Objectives and strategies for demurrers and motions for judgment on the pleadings [see 11.02].
- General principles relating to demurrers and when they are appropriate [see 11.05 -11.07].
- Appropriate grounds for filing a demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint [see 11.03, 11.04, 11.08, 11.09; Forms: see 11.51 -11.55].
- Appropriate grounds for filing a demurrer to an answer [see 11.10; Forms: see 11.56, 11.57].
- Appropriate grounds for filing a demurrer to a complaint in intervention [see 11.11].
- Rules for drafting, filing, and serving demurrers and related papers [see 11.03, 11.04, 11.12-11.19; Forms: see 11.49 -11.57].
- Responses to demurrers [see 11.20, 11.21, 11.22-11.25].
- Adjudication and appellate review of demurrers and demurrer orders [see 11.26 -11.37; Forms: see 11.58 -11.62].
- Grounds for, drafting of, response to, adjudication of, and appellate review of motions for judgment on the pleadings [see 11.38 -11.48; Forms: see 11.63 -11.67].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
I. STRATEGY

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.02

11.02 Objective and Strategy.

Demurrers and motions for judgment on the pleadings are both means of testing the pleadings based on matters that appear on the face of those pleadings. A court ruling on a demurrer or a motion for judgment on the pleading may not consider any extrinsic evidence other than matters subject to judicial notice.

A demurrer is a pleading filed in response to another pleading; demurrers are governed by CCP §§ 430.10-430.90. A motion for judgment on the pleadings challenges the sufficiency of the pleadings and requests that the court enter judgment solely based on the matter stated in those pleadings. Motions for judgment on the pleadings are governed by CCP § 438.

Timing:

Demurrers must be filed within 30 days after service of a complaint or cross-complaint, or within 10 days after service of an answer [CCP § 430.40]. This 30-day period may, however, be extended by the court, and the parties may stipulate to an additional 15 days [CCP §§ 1054, 1054.1; Gov Code § 68616(b)]. Motions for judgment on the pleadings cannot be filed until after the time to demurrer has expired [CCP § 438(f)].

Distinguish:

The list of grounds for challenging the sufficiency of the pleadings by demurrer is larger than the grounds available for a motion for judgment on the pleadings. Demurrers may include objections to the pleadings on the following grounds [CCP § 430.10]:

- Lack of subject matter jurisdiction.
- Lack of legal capacity to sue.
- Another action is pending between the same parties on the same cause of action.
- Defect or misjoinder of parties.

- Insufficient facts to constitute a cause of action.
- Uncertain, ambiguous, or unintelligible pleadings.
- Inability to determine whether contract is written, oral, or implied by conduct.
- No certificate filed for professional negligence action.

Motions for judgment on the pleadings, however, may include objections to the pleadings only on the following grounds [CCP § 438(c)]:

- For plaintiffs, the answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense to the complaint.
- For defendants:
  - ☐ Lack of subject matter jurisdiction.
  - ☐ The complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against the defendant.

The limited scope of motions for judgment on the pleadings means a party would waive several valuable objections if not presented by demurrer. A party could wait to raise the one objection available to both sides under both procedures (insufficient facts to state a cause of action or defense), but this would mean litigating on a defective complaint, and all the uncertainties associated with that cause of action, including the difficulty of having an unclear pleading as the basis for any later dispositive motion. Nevertheless, there are circumstances in which one may wish to delay educating the opponent of certain defects in its pleading until a later point in the case.

Warning--Only One Bite at the Apple:

A motion for judgment on the pleadings cannot raise the same grounds objected to and overruled on demurrer. However, there is one exception to this rule: it does not apply if there has been a material change in applicable case law or statute since the ruling on the demurrer [see CCP § 438(g)].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.03

11.03 CHECKLIST: Demurring to a Pleading.

Determine timing for serving and filing demurrer:

Defendant or cross-defendant generally has 30 days after service of complaint or cross-complaint to serve and file a demurrer.

Plaintiff or cross-complainant generally has 10 days after service of answer to file demurrer to answer.

Exception:

The court may extend the time for service and filing of demurrers, and parties may stipulate to an additional 15 days.

Authority:

CCP §§ 430.40(a), (b), 432.10; Gov Code § 68616(b)

Discussion:

See 11.12

Determine timing of hearing date for demurrer:

Demurrer must be set for hearing not more than 35 days following the filing of the demurrer, or the first date available to the court thereafter.

Exception:

The court may set an earlier or later hearing date for good cause.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(d)

Discussion:

See 11.16[1]

Forms:

See 11.49, 11.50

- ☐ Following a motion to transfer, a defendant has 30 calendar days after the decision on the motion to demur or otherwise plead.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1326

Discussion:

See 11.12[4]

Timing may vary in forcible or unlawful detainer actions or forcible entry actions.

Authority:

CCP §§ 1167, 1167.3, 1170 (five days to demur)

Discussion:

See 11.12[5]

- ☐ If demurring to a complaint or cross-complaint, determine whether general or special demurrer is appropriate.

☐ General demurrer challenges complaint or cross-complaint on ground that pleading fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, i.e., any of the following:

- ☐ Essential element of claim omitted.
- ☐ Failure to state cause of action on any theory.
- ☐ Action is premature.
- ☐ Pleader lacks standing to sue.
- ☐ Action is barred by affirmative defense that is apparent on the face of the pleading or from judicially noticeable facts.

☐ Special demurrer is based on one of the many grounds enumerated by statute:

- ☐ Court has no subject matter jurisdiction.
- ☐ Pleader does not have legal capacity to sue.
- ☐ Another action is pending between the same parties on the same cause of action.
- ☐ There is a defect or misjoinder of parties.
- ☐ The pleading is uncertain, ambiguous, or unintelligible.
- ☐ In a contract case, it cannot be ascertained from the complaint or cross-complaint whether the contract is written, oral, or implied by conduct.
- ☐ In a professional negligence case involving an architect, engineer, or land surveyor, the certificate required by CCP § 411.35 has not been filed.
- ☐ There is a purely legal issue of federal preemption on the face of the complaint or cross-complaint.

Authority:
CCP § 430.10

Discussion:
See 11.08, 11.09

Forms:
See 11.51 -11.56

- ☐ If demurring to an answer, determine the ground for demurrer:
  - ☐ The answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense.
  - ☐ The answer is uncertain.
  - ☐ If the answer pleads a contract, it is uncertain whether the contract is written or oral.

Authority:
CCP § 430.20

Discussion:
See 11.10[2] -[4]

Form:
See 11.56, 11.57

☐ If demurring to complaint in intervention, determine whether intervening party is regarded as plaintiff or defendant:

☐ If intervening party is regarded as plaintiff, a demurrer may be made on any of the grounds available for demurrers to complaints or cross-complaints.

☐ If intervening party is regarded as defendant, a demurrer may be made on any of the grounds available for demurrers to answers.

Authority:

CCP §§ 430.10, 430.20; Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 879-880, 150 CR 606

Discussion:

See 11.11

☐ Determine whether all or a portion of complaint or cross-complaint will be demurred to.

☐ A demurrer may not be taken to a partial cause of action.

Authority:

CCP § 430.50

Discussion:

See 11.13

☐ In the case of demurrer to an answer, determine whether the demurrer will be taken to the whole answer or to one or more of the defenses stated in the answer.

Authority:

CCP § 430.50(b)

Discussion:

See 11.13

☐ Determine whether other defendants or cross-defendants will jointly demur.

Authority:

Wise v. S. Pac. Co. (1963) 223 CA2d 50, 76, 35 CR 652 (overruled on other grounds in Applied Equip. Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 C4th 503, 510, 521, 28 CR2d 475, 869 P2d 454 )

Discussion:

See 11.14

☐ Determine whether demurrer will be filed concurrently with a motion to strike and/or an answer.

- ☐ If filed jointly with motion to strike, motion to strike and demurrer must be heard at the same time.

Authority:

CCP § 430.30; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 1.5(b), 3.1100, 3.1103(b), 3.1322(b)

Discussion:

See 11.17

- ☐ Draft demurrer.

- ☐ Demurrer must specify which causes of action are being demurred to.
- ☐ Demurrer must specify grounds for demurrer and the pleading or portion of the pleading against which objection is made.
- ☐ Demurrer papers must meet requirements specified by Rules of Court.

Authority:

CCP § 430.60; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.100 et seq., 3.1110, 3.1112

Discussion:

See 11.11[1], 11.15[1]-[3], 11.16[1]

Forms:

See 11.51 -11.57

- ☐ Prepare notice of hearing.

- ☐ A notice period of 16 court days is required, increased by the applicable provisions for mailing, etc.

Authority:

CCP § 1005(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1112, 3.1320

Discussion:

See 11.16[1]

Form:

See 11.49

- ☐ Prepare accompanying papers to be served and filed with demurrer.

- ☐ Notice of hearing.
- ☐ Supporting memorandum.

- ☐ Request for judicial notice, if applicable.
- ☐ Separate request for judicial notice is required in cases of permissive but not mandatory judicial notice.
- ☐ Proof of service.

Authority:

CCP § 1013a; Evid Code §§ 451-453; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1113(a), 3.1306

Discussion:

See 11.16[1] -[4]

- ☐ Serve copies of demurrer and accompanying papers on the opposing party and all other parties who have appeared in the action.

- ☐ Personal service must normally be made 16 court days before the hearing date; this period is extended depending on whether the service is by mail, fax transmission, express mail, or another method of overnight delivery.

Authority:

CCP §§ 465, 1005, 1011, 1012, 1010.5, 1015; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 1.6(15), (19), 1.21(a), 3.1100, 3.1103(b), 3.1320(c), 2.300 et seq.

Discussion:

See 11.16[1]

- ☐ File originals of demurrer and accompanying papers with the court at least 16 court days before the scheduled hearing date.

- ☐ Pay filing fee, and initial filing fee if demurrer is the first paper filed by the party.

Authority:

CCP § 1014; Gov Code §§ 70611, 70614

Discussion:

See 11.16[5]

- ☐ If opposition papers are filed, draft, serve, and file reply to opposition.

- ☐ Reply must be served and filed at least five court days before the scheduled hearing.
- ☐ Service must be made by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the opposing papers are filed.

Authority:

CCP § 1005(b), (c)

Discussion:

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.04

11.04 Options and Strategies for Demurring Party.

Demurrers are the primary means of objecting to actions based on improper subject matter jurisdiction, parties without the capacity to sue, improper parties, redundant litigation, and the very common malady of poorly drafted complaints, cross-complaints, and answers. Demurrers force the pleading parties to nail down their position before subjecting other parties and the court to the time and expense of the litigation.

Equally important, demurrers challenge new causes of action and defenses being brought before the court. Plaintiffs are often in search of new causes of action when they cannot find an existing cause of action to support their perceived wrong. Plaintiffs also will plead novel remedies to existing causes of action when recognized, permissible remedies do not allow for the relief sought. Defendants are equally as innovative in pleading new defenses when available defenses do not provide the protection they seek. Demurrers are the method to challenge these pleadings as a matter of law and obtain a ruling before undertaking any further litigation. In cases in which the appellate courts develop new areas of law, a demurrer is often the procedural starting point of the matter on review.

Judge's Perspective:

Demurrers for uncertainty are disfavored. Moreover, demurrers that are interposed to resolve ambiguities as to the nature of plaintiff's case are likewise not well received. Too often, demurrers have been interposed unnecessarily. Because amendments to pleadings are liberally granted, the frequent use of the demurrer serves only to assist the plaintiff in how to better plead his or her case. It is always best to preserve by way of affirmative defense those matters that need to be preserved and then proceed with a judgment on the pleadings at a time wherein prejudice would occur if leave to amend was requested by the plaintiff.

Warning:

On demurrer, the Court of Appeal accepts all the facts pled as true. Caution should be used in disposing of a case with "bad facts" by demurrer. The adage that "bad facts" make "bad law" has been frequently proven on appeals from demurrers that have been sustained without leave to amend.

A motion to strike is filed in connection with a demurrer when it is necessary to strike a portion of a cause of action. A motion to strike is the only pleading that allows an attack on a part of a cause of action, or particular language contained in the pleading [see CCP §§ 435-437]. Demurrers, motions for judgment on the pleadings, and motions for summary judgment, all require the disposition of an entire cause of action in order to be granted [see CCP §§ 430.50, 437c(a), (f), 438(c)(2)]. Thus, a motion to strike is typically filed with a demurrer when the moving party wishes to eliminate a claim for damages. For example, it may be used for emotional distress damages that are not recoverable in a legal malpractice action, scurrilous or inflammatory allegations, or language supporting a claim for punitive damages when a demurrer is filed on the basis that punitives are not recoverable.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.05

11.05 Demurrer Is Used to Object to Another Pleading.

11.05[1] Demurrer Is One of Four Types of Pleadings. There are four types of pleadings used in civil procedure: complaints, cross-complaints, demurrers, and answers [CCP § 422.10]. A demurrer can be used to object to any of the other three pleadings [CCP §§ 430.10, 430.20].

11.05[2] Demurrer Objects to Complaint, Cross-Complaint, or Answer. A demurrer is used to object to a complaint, a cross-complaint, or an answer on the ground that the pleading contains a defect that appears from examination of the pleading itself or from examination of the pleading together with judicially noticed facts [CCP § 430.30].

11.05[3] Allegations in Challenged Pleading Generally Taken As True, but Demurrer Can Allege or Deny Facts by Reference to Judicial Notice. Unlike the other types of pleadings, demurrers may not allege or deny facts or otherwise refer to extrinsic evidence other than evidence subject to judicial notice [see, e.g., Cook v. De La Guerra (1864) 24 C 237, 239 ; Hayward v. Henderson (1979) 88 CA3d 64, 71, 151 CR 505 ; see also Gould v. Maryland Sound Indus., Inc. (1995) 31 CA4th 1137, 1144, 37 CR2d 718 ].

11.05[4] Demurrer Only Raises Issues of Law. A demurrer's function is to test the legal sufficiency of the factual allegations in the complaint, cross-complaint, or answer, not to determine the truth of disputed facts [see, e.g., Boyle v. City of Redondo Beach (1999) 70 CA4th 1109, 1114 n2, 83 CR2d 164 (demurrer tests legal sufficiency of factual allegations in complaint); accord Stevens v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 594, 608-609, 89 CR2d 370 ; see also Ball v. GTE Mobilnet of Cal. (2000) 81 CA4th 529, 534-535, 96 CR2d 801 (demurrer only used to challenge legal sufficiency of complaint, not truth of plaintiff's factual allegations or plaintiff's ability to prove those allegations); CrossTalk Prods., Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 CA4th 631, 635, 76 CR2d 615 (demurrer not appropriate for determining truth of disputed facts or what inferences should be drawn when competing inferences are possible)].

Exception:

Questions of fact may be resolved on demurrer only when there is only one legitimate inference to be drawn from the allegations of the complaint. [ Tracfone Wireless, Inc. v. County Of Los Angeles (2008) 163 CA4th 1359, 1368, 78 CR3d 466 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.06

11.06 Courts and Attorneys Distinguish Between "General" and "Special" Demurrers.

A "general" demurrer challenges a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that the pleading fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [CCP § 430.10(e)]. Similarly, it challenges an answer on the ground that the answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense [CCP § 430.20(a)].

A "special" demurrer challenges a pleading based on one of the other grounds enumerated by statute [CCP §§ 430.10, 430.20; see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 879-880, 150 CR 606 (demurrer to answer); Buss v. J.O. Martin Co. (1966) 241 CA2d 123, 133, 50 CR 206 (demurrer to complaint or cross-complaint)].

Distinguish:

The terms "general" and "special" demurrer are commonly used by the courts and attorneys, but they do not appear in the statutes governing demurrers. One exception is in the statute governing limited civil cases [CCP § 92 (special demurrers are not allowed in limited civil cases)].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.07

11.07 Type of Action Determines Whether Demurrer Is Permissible.

11.07[1] Demurrer Permissible in Civil Action. A demurrer is one of the four pleadings allowed in a civil action [CCP § 422.10]. A civil action is distinguished from a criminal action and a special proceeding [CCP §§ 21-32].

11.07[2] Special Demurrers Not Permissible in Limited Civil Cases. Special demurrers are not allowed in limited civil cases [CCP §§ 91(a), 92(c)].

Exception:

This rule does not apply to small claims actions or to unlawful detainer, forcible entry, and forcible detainer actions [CCP § 91(b)]. Special demurrers are permissible in those actions.

Cross Reference:

Classification of case as limited civil case, see Ch. 15, Reclassification of Cases, 15.05.

11.07[3] Special Proceedings Entail Separate Demurrer Rules.

11.07[3][a] Demurrer Expressly Permitted in Certain Proceedings. For special proceedings of a civil nature, many of the statutes pertaining to the special proceeding state whether demurrers are permissible. The following are examples of special proceedings and their corresponding statutes permitting demurrers:

- Certiorari [CCP § 1069.1];
- Mandate [CCP § 1089];
- Prohibition [CCP § 1105];
- Unlawful or forcible detainer or forcible entry [CCP § 1170]; and
- Eminent domain [CCP § 1250.350].

11.07[3][b] Demurrer Impliedly Permitted in Certain Proceedings. In some cases, special proceeding statutes will incorporate the provisions of Part 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which includes the demurrer statutes [see CCP §§ 422.10, 430.10-430.80, 472a-472d, 581, 591]. In this case, a demurrer is permissible in such a special proceeding.

11.07[3][c] Demurrer Not Permitted in Certain Proceedings. In some proceedings, demurrers are specifically prohibited by statute [see, e.g., Cal Rules Ct, Rule 5.108 (prohibiting demurrers in proceedings under Family Law Act)].

11.07[4] Common Counts Generally Not Subject to Demurrer. Claims alleging common counts are generally not subject to general or special demurrer [ Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerin (1997) 53 CA4th 445, 460, 61 CR2d 707 ].

Exception:

There may be an exception to the common count rule in cases in which a complaint pleads a single cause of action in different counts [ Farmers Ins. Exchange v. Zerin (1997) 53 CA4th 445, 460, 61 CR2d 707 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.08

11.08 General Demurrer to Complaint or Cross-Complaint.

11.08[1] Use When Complaint or Cross-Complaint Fails to State Cause of Action. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [CCP § 430.10(e)]. This is known as a "general" demurrer, while all other grounds for demurrer listed under CCP § 430.10 are referred to as "special" demurrers [see 11.06].

Cross Reference:

Form of general demurrer to complaint or cross-complaint--no cause of action stated, see 11.51.

11.08[2] Grounds for General Demurrer Are Generally Not Waivable. The objection that the complaint or cross-complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action is not waived by failure to raise it by demurrer or answer [CCP § 430.80(a); see Wilson v. Sharp (1954) 42 C2d 675, 677, 268 P2d 1062; Andrews v. Mobile Aire Estates (2005) 125 CA4th 578, 585; Wilson v. Houston Funeral Home (1996) 42 CA4th 1124, 1132, 50 CR2d 169]. For example, the objection can later be made by motion for judgment on the pleadings, by motion for summary judgment, by an objection at trial to the introduction of evidence, or on appeal [CCP § 438 (motion for judgment on the pleadings); see, e.g., Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 C2d 344, 349-350, 254 P2d 6 (by objection at trial); Andrews v. Mobile Aire Estates (2005) 125 CA4th 578, 585 (on appeal); Bowden v. Robinson (1977) 67 CA3d 705, 710, 136 CR 871 (motion for summary judgment)].

11.08[3] Substantive Law of State Where Action Arose Governs Demurrer Determination. In determining whether a complaint or cross-complaint states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, the court must review the substantive law that governs the action in question. For example, if the events in question occurred in a state other than California, the substantive law of that state may govern the determination of whether the complaint states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [see, e.g., Pac. Diamond Co. v. Superior Court (1978) 85 CA3d 871, 875-878, 149 CR 813 (Colorado law governs issue of whether innkeeper is liable on account of theft of diamonds from guest in guest's room at innkeeper's Denver hotel)].

11.08[4] Specific Grounds for Failing to State a Cause of Action.

11.08[4][a] When Complaint or Cross-Complaint Omits Essential Element. A general demurrer is proper if a complaint or cross-complaint omits an essential element of a cause of action.

Examples:

- In a negligence action, a complaint or cross-complaint fails to state a cause of action if it fails to allege facts showing the existence of a legal duty, the breach of a legal duty, or proximate cause [see, e.g., Beauchene v. Synanon Found., Inc. (1979) 88 CA3d 342, 348, 151 CR 796 (existence of legal duty); Marsiglia v. Dozier (1911) 161 C 403, 405, 119 P 505 (breach of duty); Potter v. Richards (1955) 132 CA2d 380, 384-385, 282 P2d 113 (proximate cause of damage)].

- If the action stated in the complaint or cross-complaint requires an exhaustion of administrative or contract remedies as a prerequisite to a lawsuit, then failure to allege exhaustion of these remedies in the complaint or cross-complaint is a ground for demurrer [see, e.g., State v. Superior Court (2004) 32 C4th 1234, 1242-1243, 90 P3d 116 (Tort Claims Act); Hood v. Hacienda La Puente Unified Sch. Dist. (1998) 65 CA4th 435, 439-441, 76 CR2d 448 (administrative remedies)].

11.08[4][b] When Complaint or Cross-Complaint Fails to State Cause of Action on Any Theory. If a complaint or cross-complaint fails to state a cause of action on any of the theories stated, a general demurrer is proper [see, e.g., Otworth v. S. Pac. Transp. Co. (1985) 166 CA3d 452, 461, 212 CR 743 (complaint failed to allege essential facts for any of causes of action alleged, including conversion, breach of contract, unjust enrichment, and violation of due process)].

11.08[4][c] When Complaint or Cross-Complaint Shows Action Is Premature. If a complaint or cross-complaint shows on its face that the action is premature, a general demurrer is proper [see, e.g., Breneric Assocs. v. City of Del Mar (1998) 69 CA4th 166, 188, 81 CR2d 324 ]. Accordingly, a general demurrer will not be granted when the ripeness of the controversy cannot be determined on the face of the complaint [ County of Santa Clara v. Superior Court (2009) 171 CA4th 119, 131, 89 CR3d 520] .

11.08[4][d] When Complaint or Cross-Complaint Shows Pleader Lacks Standing to Sue. If a complaint or cross-complaint shows on its face that the plaintiff or cross-complainant lacks standing to sue, a general demurrer is proper [CCP § 367; see Parker v. Bowron (1953) 40 C2d 344, 351, 254 P2d 6 ; Peterson v. Cellico Partnership (2008) 164 CA4th 1583, 1589-1590, 80 CR3d 316 ].

Distinguish:

The ground that the pleader lacks standing to sue, which is a basis for general demurrer, is distinguishable from the ground that the pleader lacks legal capacity to sue, which is a ground for special demurrer [see 11.09[4] regarding demurrers based on the ground that the pleader lacks legal capacity to sue].

11.08[4][e] When Complaint or Cross-Complaint Shows Action Is Barred by Affirmative Defense. If a complaint or cross-complaint shows on its face or from judicially noticeable facts that it is barred by an affirmative defense, a general demurrer is proper [ McKenney v. Purepac Pharmaceutical Co. (2008) 167 CA4th 72, 78, 83 CR3d 810 ; Halvorsen v. Aramark Unif. Servs., Inc. (1998) 65 CA4th 1383, 1391, 77 CR2d 383 ]. The affirmative defense must appear clearly on the face of the complaint or cross-complaint [ McKenney v. Purepac Pharmaceutical Co. (2008) 167 CA4th 72, 79, 83 CR3d 810 ; CrossTalk Prods., Inc. v. Jacobson (1998) 65 CA4th 631, 635, 76 CR2d 615 ]. Examples are as follows:

- A general demurrer to a wrongful death complaint was proper because the complaint showed on its face that the action was barred by the decedent's willful misconduct [ Sissle v. Stefenoni (1979) 88

CA3d 633, 635-636, 152 CR 56 ].

- A general demurrer on the ground that the action was time-barred was proper because the complaint alleged every fact defendant would be required to prove if defendant were to plead the statute of limitations as an affirmative defense [ Lockley v. Law Office of Cantrell, Green, Pekich, Cruz & McCort (2001) 91 CA4th 875, 881, 110 CR2d 877 ].

- A general demurrer is proper if, the allegations of the complaint, in conjunction with other matters that may be judicially noticed, demonstrate that all possible recovery is barred by the defense of federal preemption [ McKenney v. Purepac Pharmaceutical Co. (2008) 167 CA4th 72, 79, 83 CR3d 810 ].

- A general demurrer is proper if, on its face, a complaint or cross-complaint pleads facts constituting a statute of frauds defense [ Gressley v. Williams (1961) 193 CA2d 636, 640-641, 14 CR 496 ].

- A general demurrer is proper if, on its face, a complaint or cross-complaint pleads facts showing a res judicata defense [ Weil v. Barthel (1955) 45 C2d 835, 837, 291 P2d 30 ; cf. Ferraro v. Camarlinghi (2008) 161 CA4th 509, 529, 75 CR3d 19 ].

- A general demurrer is proper on grounds of collateral estoppel in an action filed on a claim that was heard by an administrative agency with jurisdiction, but the complaint or cross-complaint fails to establish that the plaintiff exhausted his or her judicial remedies for review of the agency's decision [ Miller v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 169 CA4th 1373, 1382-1383, 87 CR3d 510 ].

- A general demurrer is proper in a defamation action if it is apparent from the face of the complaint and from judicially noticeable facts that the speech was protected by absolute privilege [ Goodley v. Sullivan (1973) 32 CA3d 619, 625-626, 108 CR 451 (disapproved on other grounds in Hackethal v. Weissbein (1979) 24 C3d 55, 61 ); Donnell v. Linforth (1935) 11 CA2d 25, 29, 52 P2d 937 ].

- A general demurrer is proper if it appears from the face of the complaint that a governmental immunity is available [ Universal By-Products, Inc. v. City of Modesto (1974) 43 CA3d 145, 154, 117 CR 525 ].

- A general demurrer is proper if it appears from the face of the complaint that the only issue being litigated is covered by an arbitration clause and it is apparent from the face of the complaint and judicially noticeable facts that the pleader has not exhausted the arbitration remedy [ Charles J. Rounds Co. v. Joint Council of Teamsters No. 42 (1971) 4 C3d 888, 899, 95 CR 53, 484 P2d 1397 ].

Strategic Point--Defendant or Cross-Defendant:

If one of the affirmative defenses discussed above is apparent but does not appear on the face of the complaint or cross-complaint or by matters that are subject to judicial notice, the proper tactic is to plead the defense in the answer [CCP §§ 430.30(b), 431.30(b)(2)].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.09

11.09 Special Demurrer to Complaint or Cross-Complaint.

11.09[1] Special Demurrers Specified by Statute. Objecting to a complaint or cross-complaint on the grounds of CCP § 430.10(e) that the pleading does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action is a "general" demurrer [see 11.08[1]]. All other grounds for demurrer listed under CCP § 430.10 are referred to as "special" demurrers [see 11.06]. Special demurrers include:

- Court has no jurisdiction of the subject matter of the cause of action [CCP § 430.10(a)].
- Person who filed the pleading lacks legal capacity to sue [CCP § 430.10(b)].
- Another action is pending between the same parties on the same cause of action [CCP § 430.10(c)].
- Defect or misjoinder of parties [CCP § 430.10(d)].
- Pleading is uncertain, ambiguous, or unintelligible [CCP § 430.10(f)].
- If action founded on contract, cannot ascertain from pleadings whether contract is written, oral, or implied by conduct [CCP § 430.10(g)].
- No certificate for professional negligence action filed [CCP § 430.10(h)].

11.09[2] Federal Preemption Is a Basis for Special Demurrer. A purely legal issue of federal preemption is properly addressed by special demurrer [see, e.g., Ross v. Universal Studios Credit Union (2002) 95 CA4th 537, 539, 115 CR2d 712 (preemption by federal bankruptcy law)].

11.09[3] Use When Court Has No Jurisdiction of the Subject of the Cause of Action.

11.09[3][a] Limited to Subject Matter Jurisdiction. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that the court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the cause of action alleged in the pleading [CCP § 430.10(a); Landmark Screens, LLC v. Morgan, Lewis & Bockius, LLP (2010) 183 CA4th 238, 244, 107 CR3d 373 (patent law)].

Distinguish:

Lack of subject matter jurisdiction is the only jurisdictional objection that may be properly raised by demurrer. The appropriate response to a lack of jurisdiction over the person (personal jurisdiction) is a motion to quash pursuant to CCP § 418.10(a).

Cross References:

Form of special demurrer to complaint or cross-complaint--no subject matter jurisdiction, see 11.52.

Motions to quash, see Ch. 9, Motions to Quash and Other Objections to Personal Jurisdiction.

Discussion of subject matter jurisdiction, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction (Matthew Bender).

11.09[3][b] Subject Matter Jurisdiction Is Not Waivable. The objection to a pleading based on subject matter jurisdiction is not waived by failure to raise it in a demurrer or answer [CCP § 430.80(a)]. This objection may be raised at any time [ People v. Coit Ranch, Inc. (1962) 204 CA2d 52, 57, 21 CR 875 ].

11.09[3][c] Court Must Transfer Action to Court Having Jurisdiction. If a court sustains a demurrer on the ground of lack of subject matter jurisdiction, it must transfer the case to a court that does have subject matter jurisdiction, or if no such court exists in California, it may dismiss the action [CCP §§ 396, 399].

11.09[4] Use When Person Who Filed Pleading Does Not Have Legal Capacity to Sue.

11.09[4][a] Lack of Capacity to Sue Distinguished From Lack of Standing to Sue. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that the person who filed the pleading does not have the legal capacity to sue [CCP § 430.10(b)]. Incapacity is merely a legal disability, which deprives a party of the right to come into court to assert a cause of action, and is a special plea in abatement. Lack of standing to sue means the pleader has the capacity to bring a court action but has no right to the relief sought, and this is a ground for general demurrer [see CCP § 430.10(e)].

Example:

Incapacity to sue would include a minor who is not represented by a guardian ad litem [see CCP § 372(a)].

Cross References:

Discussion of lack of standing to sue as a ground for general demurrer, see 11.08[4][d].

Form of special demurrer to complaint or cross-complaint--no legal capacity to sue, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings, § 206.124 (Matthew Bender).

11.09[4][b] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Answer. If the party responding to the complaint or cross-complaint does not raise the objection of lack of capacity to sue by demurrer or answer, the objection is waived [CCP § 430.80].

11.09[5] Use When Another Action Is Pending Between Same Parties on Same Cause of Action.

11.09[5][a] Same Cause of Action Arises from Same Primary Right: This ground for demurrer depends on a showing that the two actions are based on the same primary right of the plaintiff and the defendant's breach of corresponding primary duty [ Pitts v. City of Sacramento (2006) 138 CA4th 853, 855-857, 41 CR3d 838 ].

Distinguish:

Causes of action that are not based on the same evidentiary focus do not involve the defendant's breach of the same primary duty to the plaintiff [ Pitts v. City of Sacramento (2006) 138 CA4th 853, 855-856, 41 CR3d 838 (trial court grant of demurrer was improper because second action involved primary right different from primary right underlying first action)].

11.09[5][b] Ground Generally Appears From Judicially Noticeable Facts. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that there is another action pending between the same parties on the same cause of action [CCP § 430.10(c)]. Although the ground of special demurrer that another action is pending between the parties is not generally evident on the face of the complaint, it is normally based on matters of which the court can take judicial notice [CCP §§ 430.30(a), 430.70].

 Cross Reference:

Form of special demurrer to complaint or cross-complaint--another action pending, see 11.53.

11.09[5][c] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Answer. The ground of special demurrer that there is another action pending between the parties is deemed waived if it is not raised by demurrer or answer [CCP § 430.80(a); but see CCP §§ 472 (answer may be amended), 473 (relief from failure to raise objection in answer), 576 (judge may allow amendment of pleading before trial)].

11.09[5][d] Interlocutory Judgment Issued If Demurrer Sustained. If a demurrer based on the ground that another action is pending between the same parties on the same cause of action is sustained, the court will enter an interlocutory judgment to the effect that no trial will be had until final determination of the action [CCP § 597]. The other action is considered completed after final determination for appeal, or after time for appeal has passed or judgment is satisfied [CCP § 1049].

11.09[5][e] Writ of Prohibition May Be Sought If Demurrer Overruled. If the demurrer is overruled and as a result there are two actions pending between the same parties on the same cause of action, the defendant or cross-defendant has a ground of abatement in the second cause of action and may seek a writ of prohibition to restrain the court from proceeding with the case [CCP §§ 1102-1105; see Browne v. Superior Court (1940) 16 C2d 593, 597, 107 P2d 1 ; Kresteller v. Superior Court (1967) 248 CA2d 545, 549, 56 CR 771 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 3, Abatement of Actions; Ch. 324, Jurisdiction: Subject Matter Jurisdiction (Matthew Bender).

11.09[6] Use When There Is Defect of Parties.

11.09[6][a] Defect of Parties Must Be Evident From Pleadings. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that there is a defect of parties [CCP § 430.10(d)]. A defendant may not make allegations of defect of parties in the demurrer if the pleadings do not disclose the existence of the matter relied on; that objection must be taken by plea or answer [ Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 CA4th 426, 429, 73 CR2d 646 ].

 Cross Reference:

Form of Special Demurrer--Defect of Parties, see 11.54.

11.09[6][b] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Answer. If the party objecting to the complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that there is a defect of parties does not raise this objection by demurrer or answer, it is deemed waived [CCP § 430.80(a); but see CCP §§ 472 (answer may be amended), 473 (relief from failure to raise objection in answer), 576 (judge may allow amendment of pleading before trial)].

Exception:

If the defect in parties is the nonjoinder of an indispensable party, the defect is considered jurisdictional and is therefore not waivable [ Bank of Cal. v. Superior Court (1940) 16 C2d 516, 522-523, 106 P2d 879 ; Vanoni v. County of Sonoma (1974) 40 CA3d 743, 746, 115 CR 485 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of joinder of parties, see Ch. 5, Parties.

11.09[7] Use When There Is Misjoinder of Parties.

11.09[7][a] Generally Only Available to Misjoined Defendant or Cross-Defendant. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that there is a misjoinder of parties [CCP § 430.10(d)]. This ground is generally only available to a defendant or cross-defendant who is misjoined because a defendant or cross-defendant's interests are not normally prejudiced by the misjoinder of another defendant [see, e.g., Wuest v. Wuest (1942) 53 CA2d 339, 344, 127 P2d 934 (misjoinder of parties defendant); Div. of Labor Law Enforcement v. Barnes (1962) 205 CA2d 337, 345, 23 CR 55 (misjoinder of parties cross-defendant; disapproved on another ground in White Lighting Co. v. Wolfson (1968) 68 C2d 336, 351 n9, 66 CR 697, 438 P2d 345 ]. A defendant may not make allegations of misjoinder of parties in the demurrer if the pleadings do not disclose the existence of the matter relied on; that objection must be taken by plea or answer [ Harboring Villas Homeowners Assn. v. Superior Court (1998) 63 CA4th 426, 429, 73 CR2d 646 ].

 Cross Reference:

Form of special demurrer--misjoinder of parties, California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings, § 206.127 (Matthew Bender).

11.09[7][b] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Answer. The objection of misjoinder of parties is waived if it is not raised by demurrer or answer [CCP § 430.80(a); but see CCP §§ 472 (answer may be amended), 473 (relief from failure to raise objection in answer), 576 (judge may allow amendment of pleading before trial)].

11.09[8] Use When Pleading Is Uncertain.

11.09[8][a] Uncertainty Includes Ambiguous and Unintelligible Pleadings. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint on the ground that the pleading is uncertain, which includes ambiguous and unintelligible pleadings [CCP § 430.10(f); see, e.g., Gonzales v. State of California (1977) 68 CA3d 621, 631, 137 CR 681 ].

 Cross Reference:

Form of special demurrer used if pleading is uncertain, see 11.55.

11.09[8][b] Uncertain Facts Must Be Material or Not Within Demurring Party's Knowledge. A party may not demur on the ground of uncertainty if the facts alleged to be uncertain are immaterial or presumptively within the knowledge of the demurring party [ Dumm v. Pac. Valves (1956) 146 CA2d 792, 799, 304 P2d 738 ]. If the allegations are sufficiently clear to apprise the party of the issues in the case, a demurrer for uncertain pleading is improper [ Gonzales v. State of Cal. (1977) 68 CA3d 621, 631, 137 CR 681 ].

11.09[8][c] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Answer. The objection of uncertain, ambiguous, or unintelligible pleading is waived if not raised by demurrer or answer [CCP § 430.80(a); but see CCP §§ 472 (answer may be amended), 473 (relief from failure to raise objection in answer), 576 (judge may allow amendment of pleading before trial)].

11.09[8][d] Demurrer Should Specify Which Portion of Pleading Is Uncertain. A demurrer on the ground that a pleading is uncertain should identify the specific portions of the pleading that are uncertain [see Jones v. Iverson (1900) 131 C 101, 103-104, 63 P 135 ].

11.09[9] Use When Unable to Ascertain Type of Contract.

11.09[9][a] Pleading Must State Whether Contract Is Written, Oral, or Implied by Conduct. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint, in an action founded on a contract, on the ground that it cannot be ascertained from the pleading whether the contract is written, oral, or implied by conduct [CCP § 430.10(g)].

Cross Reference:

Form of special demurrer if unable to ascertain type of contract, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings, § 206.129 (Matthew Bender).

Strategic Point--Defendant or Cross-Defendant:

If a written contract has not been attached to the complaint or not pled with specificity, counsel should contact the opponent and determine whether it will agree to amend to attach the contract, or stipulate to the use of the contract in a demurrer if the contract is necessary for purposes of raising the demurrable issue.

11.09[9][b] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Answer. The objection of ambiguous pleading of a contract is waived if not raised by demurrer or answer [CCP § 430.80(a); but see CCP §§ 472 (answer may be amended), 473 (relief from failure to raise objection in answer), 576 (judge may allow amendment of pleading before trial)].

11.09[10] Use When Certificate in Specified Professional Negligence Cases Not Filed.

11.09[10][a] Certificate Is Prerequisite for Professional Negligence Action Against Architect, Professional Engineer, or Land Surveyor. A party may demur to a complaint or cross-complaint, in an action for professional negligence of a certified architect, registered professional engineer, or licensed land surveyor, on the ground that the certificate required by CCP § 411.35 has not been filed [CCP §§ 430.10(h), 411.35(g)]. This includes actions for equitable indemnity arising out of the rendition of professional services.

Cross Reference:

Form of special demurrer used if no certificate filed in professional negligence action, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings, § 206.130 (Matthew Bender).

Warning:

At least one court of appeal has held that it is error for a trial court to sustain a demurrer on this ground without leave to amend if it is "reasonably possible" for the plaintiff to cure the defect of failing to properly file the certificate required by CCP § 411.35 [ Price v. Dames & Moore (2001) 92 CA4th 355, 359, 112 CR2d 65 ].

11.09[10][b] Failure to File Certificate May Not Be Raised by Answer. CCP § 411.35, which provides that the failure to file a certificate may be raised by demurrer or motion to strike, does not mention raising this objection by answer. Therefore, it appears that this objection may not be raised by answer.

11.09[10][c] Waived If Not Raised by Demurrer or Motion to Strike. The objection of failure to file a certificate pursuant to CCP § 411.35 is waived if not raised by demurrer or motion to strike [CCP § 430.80(a)].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.10

11.10 Demurrer to Answer.

11.10[1] Demurrer Is Only Pleading Available to Respond to Answer. Any objection to an answer must be raised by demurrer, because it is the only available responsive pleading for an answer [CCP §§ 422.10, 430.20, 430.30]. The three grounds for demurring to an answer are [CCP § 430.20]:

- The answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense.
- The answer is uncertain, ambiguous, or unintelligible.
- If the answer pleads a contract, one is unable to ascertain whether that contract is written or oral.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff or Cross-Complainant:

As a practical matter, demurrers to answers are rarely seen, and unless there is a strategic necessity for such a demurrer, a court may not look favorably upon it. If utilized, a demurrer to an answer should only be filed in the event that one of the three grounds specified in CCP § 430.20 is met. In other cases, any new matter alleged in the answer is automatically deemed to be controverted by the opposing party, so no response is necessary [CCP § 431.20(b)].

11.10[2] Party May File General Demurrer to Answer on Ground Insufficient Facts Stated to Constitute a Defense. A party may demur to an answer on the ground that the answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense [CCP § 430.20(a)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of general demurrers, see 11.08.

11.10[3] Party May Demur on Ground That Answer Is Uncertain. A party may demur to an answer on the ground that the answer is uncertain, which includes ambiguous and unintelligible answers [CCP § 430.20(b)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of ground that a pleading is uncertain, see 11.09[8].

11.10[4] Party May Demur on Ground That It Is Uncertain Whether Contract Is Written or Oral. If an answer pleads a contract, a party may demur to the answer on the ground that it cannot be ascertained from the answer whether the contract is written or oral [CCP § 430.20(c)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of ground that it cannot be ascertained whether a contract is written or oral, see 11.09[9].

11.11 Demurrer to Complaint in Intervention.

11.11[1] Available When Intervening Party Is Regarded As Plaintiff. If an intervening party joins with a plaintiff or is otherwise in the role of a plaintiff in an action, a demurrer to the complaint in intervention may be made on the grounds specified in CCP § 430.10, pertaining to demurrers to complaints and cross-complaints [see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 879-880, 150 CR 606 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of grounds for demurrer under CCP § 430.10, see 11.08, 11.09.

11.11[2] Available When Intervening Party Is Regarded As Defendant. If an intervening party is regarding as or unites with a defendant, a demurrer to a complaint in intervention has the legal effect of a demurrer to an answer. In this situation, the grounds for demurrer to answer outlined in CCP § 430.20 apply [see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 879-880, 150 CR 606 ].

II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

11.12 Timing of Demurrer.

11.12[1] Demurrer to Complaint or Cross-Complaint Must Generally Be Filed and Served Within 30 Days After Service of Complaint or Cross-Complaint. A demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint must be served and filed with the court within 30 days after service of the complaint or cross-complaint [CCP §§ 430.40(a), 432.10].

Exception:

The court may extend the time for service and filing of demurrers [CCP §§ 1054, 1054.1] and the parties may stipulate to an additional 15 days [see Gov Code § 68616(b)].

► Cross References:

Discussion of notice requirements for serving demurrer papers, see 11.16[1].

Discussion of extensions of time, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.14 et seq.

11.12[2] Demurrer to Answer Must Generally Be Filed and Served Within 10 Days After Service of Complaint or Cross-Complaint. A demurrer to an answer to a complaint or cross-complaint must be served and filed with the court within 10 days after service of the answer [CCP § 430.40(b)].

Exception:

The court may extend the time for service and filing of demurrers [CCP §§ 1054, 1054.1] and the parties may stipulate to an additional 15 days [see Gov Code § 68616(b)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of extensions of time, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.14 et seq.

11.12[3] Defendant Has 10 Days to Respond to Causes of Action Not Demurred to Following Overruling of Demurrer, Amendment of Complaint, or Sustaining of Demurrer Without Leave to Amend. Unless otherwise ordered, a defendant has 10 days to move to strike, demur, or otherwise plead to the complaint or the remaining causes of action after any of the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(j)]:

- The overruling of the demurrer.
  - Amendment of the complaint or the expiration of the time to amend, if the demurrer was sustained with leave to amend [see Berg & Berg Enterprises, LLC v. Boyle (2009) 178 CA4th 1020, 1035-1036, 100 CR3d 875 (when plaintiff files amended pleading in response to order sustaining prior demurrer to cause of action with leave to amend, amended cause of action is treated as new pleading and defendant is free to respond with demurrer on any ground)].
- The sustaining of the demurrer, if the demurrer was sustained without leave to amend.

Distinguish:

It is possible for a party to demur to one cause of action in the complaint, have that demurrer be overruled, and subsequently serve and file a second demurrer to a different cause of action within the 10 day time period discussed above [see, e.g., Skrbina v. Fleming Cos. (1996) 45 CA4th 1353, 1363-1365, 53 CR2d 481 (second demurrer to complaint containing two causes of action was not procedurally improper because first cause of action actually pled three causes of action, defendants' first demurrer was only directed to one of three and was overruled without trial court ordering defendants to answer complaint, and second demurrer was timely pursuant to 10 day rule)].

Warning:

Some courts may not look favorably on a second demurrer on issues that could have been addressed in the first demurrer [see, e.g., Bennett v. Suncloud (1997) 56 CA4th 91, 96-97, 65 CR2d 80 (where a prior demurrer was sustained as to some causes of action but overruled as to others, a defendant may not demur again on the same grounds to those portions of an amended pleading as to which the prior demurrer was overruled)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of a demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint not directed to all causes of action, see 11.13.

11.12[4] Defendant Has 30 Days to Demur or Otherwise Plead Following Ruling on Motion to Transfer. If a defendant has made an unsuccessful motion to transfer a case pursuant to CCP § 396b, the defendant has 30 calendar days to move to strike, demur, or otherwise plead if the defendant has not previously filed a response [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1326].

If the motion to transfer was successful, the defendant has 30 calendar days to demur or otherwise plead after the date the receiving court mails notice of receipt of the case and its new case number [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1326].

11.12[5] Timing of Demurrer Differs in Certain Special Proceedings. Statutes authorizing demurrer in forcible or unlawful detainer actions or forcible entry actions contain timelines different from those applicable in other civil proceedings. In those actions, a party has five days to demur [CCP §§ 1167, 1167.3, 1170].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of demurrers in special proceedings, see 11.07[3].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.13

11.13 Demurrer Must Be Taken Either to Entire Pleading or to Entire Cause of Action.

11.13[1] Entire Pleading or Entire Cause of Action Rule Is Statutory. A demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint may be taken to the whole complaint or cross-complaint or to any of the causes of action stated therein [CCP § 430.50(a)].

A demurrer to an answer may be taken to the whole answer or to any one or more of the several defenses set up in the answer [CCP § 430.50(b)].

11.13[2] "Cause of Action" Defined As Set of Facts Giving Rise to Basis for Relief. A "cause of action" is a set of facts giving rise to a basis for relief [ California Ass'n of Psychology Providers v. Rank (1990) 51 C3d 1, 7 n3, 270 CR 796, 793 P2d 2 ]. A "cause of action" for purposes of demurrer rules has also been defined as the following:

- A primary right of the plaintiff;
- A corresponding primary duty imposed on the defendant; and
- The defendant's delict or wrongful act that constitutes a breach of that primary right and duty. [ Skrbina v. Fleming Cos. (1996) 45 CA4th 1353, 1363-1365, 53 CR2d 481 (cause of action is based on plaintiff's injuries); Miranda v. Shell Oil Co. (1993) 17 CA4th 1651, 1658, 26 CR2d 655; Crowley v. Katleman (1994) 8 C4th 666, 681-683, 34 CR2d 386, 881 P2d 1083 (violation of one primary right gives rise to one cause of action)].

Distinguish:

A "count," as distinguished from a "cause of action," is a separate theory of entitlement to a remedy based on the same cause of action [ Eichler Homes of San Mateo, Inc. v. Superior Court (1961) 55 C2d 845, 847-848, 13 CR 194, 361 P2d 914 ]. A single "count" can state more than one cause of action if two different primary rights are involved [ Skrbina v. Fleming Cos. (1996) 45 CA4th 1353, 1364, 53 CR2d 481 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of the terms "cause of action" and "count," see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 123, Complaints and Cross Complaints (Matthew Bender).

11.13[3] Demurrer Goes to Entire Pleading When Complaint or Cross-Complaint States Only One Cause of Action. If a complaint or cross-complaint states a single cause of action, the demurrer necessarily goes to the whole pleading, because a party may not demur to a part of a cause of action [see Campbell v. Genshlea (1919) 180 C 213, 217, 180 P 336 ; Fin. Corp. of Am. v. Wilburn (1987) 189 CA3d 764, 778, 234 CR 653 ].

11.13[4] When Complaint or Cross-Complaint States Multiple Causes of Action, Demurrer Must Specify Causes of Action Being Challenged. A demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint that states more than one cause of action must specify the particular cause of action or count that is being challenged [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(d)(4)]. This rule applies to general as well as special demurrers [see, e.g., Jones v. Iverson (1900) 131 C 101, 104, 63 P 135 (special demurrer), Warren v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. (1971) 19 CA3d 24, 29, 96 CR 317 (general demurrer), W. Title Ins. Co. v. Bartolacelli (1954) 124 CA2d 690, 694, 269 P2d 165 (general demurrer)].

11.13[5] Separate Causes of Action Must Stand Alone. Each cause of action or count stated in a complaint is severable from the others and therefore must stand on its own as far as being subject to demurrer [ W. Title Ins. Co. v. Bartolacelli (1954) 124 CA2d 690, 694, 269 P2d 165 ]. In a complaint pleading a single cause of action in different counts (i.e. separately stated theories of relief for the same cause of action or injury), a count premised on detailed factual allegations made in another count must stand or fall with the other count [ Lambert v. S. Counties Gas Co. (1959) 52 C2d 347, 353, 340 P2d 608 ].

This contrasts with the motion to strike, which can attack a portion of a cause of action [see CCP §§ 435, 436]

11.13[6] Judicial Council Form Complaint Equally Subject to Demurrer. A Judicial Council form complaint must still state the necessary ultimate facts essential to a cause of action, and therefore the form complaint is equally subject to demurrer [ People ex rel. Dep't of Transp. v. Superior Court (1992) 5 CA4th 1480, 1486, 7 CR2d 498 ; see also Setliff v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (1995) 32 CA4th 1525, 1529-1538, 38 CR2d 763 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.14

11.14 Joint Demurrers by Multiple Defendants Are Permissible.

Two or more defendants may demur jointly to a complaint or cross-complaint; however, in the case of a special demurrer, if the complaint is good as to any of the defendants, the demurrer must be overruled [ Wise v. S. Pac. Co. (1963) 223 CA2d 50, 76, 35 CR 652 (overruled on other grounds in Applied Equip. Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd. (1994) 7 C4th 503, 510, 521, 28 CR2d 475, 869 P2d 454 )].

Distinguish:

The rule regarding overruling complaints that are good as to any defendant does not apply to a general demurrer, because a defendant may raise at any time the defect that a plaintiff has not stated facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [ Majestic Realty Co. v. Pac. Lighting Corp. (1974) 37 CA3d 641, 642-643, 112 CR 423 ].

Warning:

The joint demurrer is rarely used. It should be considered very carefully from a strategic standpoint, as the defeat as to another defendant defeats one's own rights.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.15

11.15 Format Requirements for Demurrer.

11.15[1] Cause of Action Demurred to Must Be Specified in Demurrer. If the complaint or cross-complaint states more than one cause of action, the demurrer must specify which cause of action or causes of action are being challenged [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(d)(4)].

► Cross References:

Discussion, see 11.13.

Forms demonstrating specification of cause of action demurred to, see 11.51 -11.55.

Additional forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings (Matthew Bender).

11.15[2] Demurrer Must Specify Grounds for Demurrer. A demurrer must distinctly specify the grounds upon which any of the objections to the complaint, cross-complaint, or answer are taken; otherwise, it may be disregarded [CCP § 430.60].

► Cross References:

Forms demonstrating different grounds for demurrers, see 11.51 -11.55.

Additional forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 206, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings (Matthew Bender).

11.15[3] Format Requirements Must Conform to Rules of Court. Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.100 et seq. sets out the rules for form of papers filed with the court. Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1110, 3.1112 provide additional requirements.

A demurrer must state on the first page immediately below the number of the case the name of the party filing the demurrer and the name of the party whose pleading is the subject of the demurrer [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(e)].

Strategic Point--Defendant or Cross-Defendant:

Be sure to check local rules for the appropriate jurisdiction as well. Although local rules concerning demurrers and the form or format of papers are generally preempted by the California Rules of Court, there may be an exception for local rules adopted under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.20].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.16

11.16 Accompanying Papers to Be Served and Filed With Demurrer.

11.16[1] Notice of Hearing Must Be Served and Filed 16 Court Days Prior to Hearing. A party must accompany a demurrer with a notice of hearing that specifies a hearing date within the notice period required by CCP § 1005(b) [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1112(a), 3.1320(c)]. The written notice of motion and accompanying papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing.

The 16-day service period is increased for nonpersonal service depending on the type of service and location of the person served [CCP § 1005(b)]:

- 5 calendar days if the papers are served by mail and the place of mailing and address are in California.
- 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the address is outside of California, but within the United States.
- 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or address is outside the United States.
- 2 calendar days if served by fax, express mail, or other method of overnight delivery.

A two court day extension may apply to electronic service, subject to local rules authorizing this type of service [CCP § 1010.6].

Exception:

The court may prescribe a shorter time [CCP § 1005(b)].

Timing--Hearing:

A demurrer must be set for hearing not more than 35 days following the filing of the demurrer, or on the first date available to the court thereafter, unless good cause is shown for an earlier or later hearing date [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(d)].

 Cross References:

Form of stipulation postponing hearing on demurrer, see 11.50.

Discussion of service requirements, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

11.16[2] Supporting Memorandum Must Be Served and Filed. A party filing a demurrer must serve and file a supporting memorandum to be relied on [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)]. The court may construe the absence of the memorandum as an admission that the demurrer is not meritorious, as cause for its denial, and as a waiver of all grounds not supported [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

 Cross References:

Discussion and forms of memoranda, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

Specific memoranda in support of and in opposition to demurrers, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 71, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings (Matthew Bender).

11.16[3] Request for Judicial Notice Must Be Served and Filed.

11.16[3][a] No Request Necessary for Mandatory Judicial Notice. If a party is relying on matters subject to mandatory judicial notice, no separate request for judicial notice need be made [Evid Code § 451; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(c)].

11.16[3][b] Request Required for Matters Subject to Permissive Judicial Notice. If a party is relying on matters subject to permissive judicial notice, the party must specify the matter in the demurrer or in the supporting memorandum [CCP § 430.70; see StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 C4th 449, 456 n9, 84 CR2d 843, 976 P2d 214].

The party must also make a separate request that the court take notice of these matters [Evid Code §§ 452, 453; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1113(l), 3.1306(c)].

11.16[3][c] Request to Be Made in Separate Document. When a request for judicial notice is required, it must be made in a separate document listing the specific matters for which judicial notice is requested. The party must also provide the court and the other parties with a copy of the material. If the material is part of a court file, the party must specify in writing the part of the court file referenced and the party must make arrangements with the clerk to have the court file in the courtroom at the time of the hearing on the demurrer [CCP § 430.70; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306].

Trap:

It is important to make the arrangements to have the file in the courtroom in advance. This requirements is often ignored, and it can be a trap for the unwary.

Warning:

The California Courts of Appeal have utilized three different approaches at the demurrer stage as to accepting the accuracy of the contents of judicially noticed documents [ C.R. v. Tenet Healthcare Corp (2009) 169 CA4th 1094, 1103, 87 CR3d 424 ] .

Strategic Point--Defendant or Cross-Defendant:

It is always wise to check the appropriate county's local rules for further judicial notice requirements.

Cross References:

Discussion of judicial notice, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

Detailed discussion of judicial notice, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 321, Judicial Notice (Matthew Bender).

11.16[4] Proof of Service Must Be Filed. A proof of prior service on the adverse party or adverse party's attorney must be attached to the originals of the demurrer papers and presented to the court clerk for filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 1.21, 3.1100, 3.1103(b)].

11.16[5] Filing Fee May Include First Filing Fee. When a demurrer is the first paper filed by the party, the normal filing fee must be paid along with the filing of the demurrer [CCP § 1014; Gov Code §§ 70611, 70614].

11.16[6] Reply to Opposition Must Be Filed and Served at Least Five Court Days Before Hearing. All reply papers to papers opposing a demurrer must be filed with the court and a copy served on each party at least 5 court days before the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. Service on the opposing party must be made by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the opposition papers are filed [CCP § 1005(c)].

Exception:

The court may prescribe a shorter time [CCP § 1005(b)].

Warning:

The time extensions of CCP § 1013 to exercise a right or an act may be done to not apply to reply papers on a demurrer [see CCP § 1005(b)].

A trial court may properly allow an amendment to a demurrer under CCP §§ 472, 473 [see Baxter v. Boston-Pac. Oil Co. (1927) 81 CA 187, 189, 253 P 185 ].

II. DEMURRING TO A PLEADING

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.19

11.19 Party May Waive Demurrer by Failing to Prosecute.

Failure on the part of any person filing a demurrer to prosecute the demurrer may be construed as a waiver of the demurrer [CCP § 591].

Exceptions:

The grounds of failure to state a cause of action and lack of subject matter jurisdiction may not be waived [CCP § 430.80].

III. RESPONDING TO DEMURRER

11.20 CHECKLIST: Responding to Demurrer.

☐ Review the demurrer and accompanying papers for any defects:

☐ Is demurrer timely?

☐ Demurrer and accompanying papers must be filed within 30 days after service of complaint or cross-complaint, or within 10 days after service of answer.

☐ Demurrer and accompanying papers must be served at least 16 court days prior to hearing date (this is extended by 5 calendar days for mailing within California and by 2 calendar days for fax or express mail).

Authority:

CCP §§ 430.40(a), (b), 432.10, 1005(b)

Discussion:

See 11.12, 11.16[1]

☐ Does the demurrer specify grounds for objection to the pleading as well as which causes of action are demurred to?

Authority:

CCP § 430.60; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1112(d)(4)

Discussion:

See 11.15

☐ Choose from three options for opposing party when its pleading has been demurred to:

☐ Party may voluntarily amend pleading to correct the alleged defect.

☐ Party must serve and file amended pleading prior to date set for hearing, or else seek stipulation for continuance of hearing.

☐ In this situation, demurrer will normally be taken off calendar.

☐ If demurrer is untimely or otherwise improper, opposing party may move to strike the demurrer.

☐ Party may serve and file a memorandum in opposition to demurrer.

☐ Opposition must be served and filed at least nine court days before the scheduled hearing.

☐ Service must be made by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the opposing papers are filed.

Authority:

CCP §§ 422.10, 472, 1005(b), (c)

Discussion:

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
III. RESPONDING TO DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.21

11.21 Options and Strategy for Responding to Demurrer.

Consider whether the demurrer is well taken and whether a defect on the face of the pleading may indeed exist. If the defect is quite obvious, consider amending the pleading to avoid sanctions for frivolously opposing the demurrer. If the demurrer is not timely filed, consider a motion to strike the pleading. If the demurrer is properly filed, but reasonable questions exist about the propriety of the pleading challenged, oppose the demurrer.

Demurrers can involve novel questions of law and challenges to new causes of action or defenses. Be prepared to support new causes of action or defenses with appropriate legal precedent and assert how the law has progressed to the point where the court should recognize the new developments.

Judge's Perspective:

If a demurrer challenges the pleading in such a way that an amendment would be required, then counsel against whom the demurrer has been interposed should consider filing an amended pleading rather than forcing a hearing before the court.

III. RESPONDING TO DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.22

11.22 Alternatives to Opposition and Adjudication.

11.22[1] Party May Amend Challenged Pleading.

11.22[1][a] Demurrer Will Generally Be Taken Off Calendar When Pleading Is Amended. A party may amend the challenged pleading one time to correct the alleged defects and serve and file the amended pleading prior to the time of the hearing on the demurrer [CCP § 472]. In this situation, the demurrer is usually taken off the calendar.

Cross Reference:

Form of stipulation that demurrer be dropped off calendar, see 11.50.

Distinguish:

One defendant's filing of an answer does not divest plaintiff of the right to amend the complaint with respect to the causes of action brought against other demurring defendants [ Barton v. Khan (2007) 157 CA4th 1216, 1220-1221, 69 CR3d 238 ].

11.22[1][b] Party May Not Amend Pleading Simply by Omitting Objectionable Matters or Contradicting Original Allegations. A party may not amend an objectionable pleading by simply omitting the allegations that undermine the cause of action without explanation [see Reichert v. Gen. Ins. Co. (1968) 68 C2d 822, 836, 69 CR 321, 442 P2d 377 ; see also Freeman v. San Diego Assn. of Realtors (1999) 77 CA4th 171, 178 n3, 91 CR2d 534 ].

A plaintiff may not avoid a demurrer by pleading facts or positions in an amended complaint that are inconsistent with [ Freeman v. San Diego Assn. of Realtors (1999) 77 CA4th 171, 178 n3, 91 CR2d 534 ] or contradict the facts pleaded in the earlier pleadings [ McClain v. Octagon Plaza, LLC (2008) 159 CA4th 784, 799, 71 CR3d 885 ; Cont'l Ins. Co. v. Lexington Ins. Co. (1997) 55 CA4th 637, 646, 64 CR2d 116 ] or by suppressing facts that prove previously pleaded facts false [ McClain v. Octagon Plaza, LLC (2008) 159 CA4th 784, 799, 71 CR3d 885 ]. Likewise, the plaintiff may not plead facts that contradict the facts or positions that the plaintiff pleaded in earlier actions or suppress facts that prove the facts pleaded in those actions false [ McClain v. Octagon Plaza, LLC (2008) 159 CA4th 784, 799, 71 CR3d 885 ].

Distinguish:

It is permissible for a party to change the legal theory of recovery and in the process omit factual allegations that are irrelevant and immaterial to the new legal theory asserted [see, e.g., Berman v. Bromberg (1997) 56 CA4th 936, 948-949, 65 CR2d 777 ].

11.22[2] Party May Seek Stipulation to Continue Demurrer Hearing. If a party wishes to amend the challenged pleading, the party may seek a stipulation to continue the demurrer hearing to allow more time for amendment of the pleading.

Cross References:

Discussion of continuances, see Ch. 30, Continuances.

Be sure to check local rules for any restrictions on continuances.

11.23 Opposing Party May Serve and File Opposing Memorandum Nine Court Days Before Hearing.

Although not expressly authorized by statute or the California Rules of Court, practice permits counsel for the adverse party to oppose the demurrer by filing a memorandum in opposition to the demurrer.

Warning:

Failure to oppose a motion results in a waiver on appeal of any objection to the resulting order [ Bell v. Am. Title Ins. Co. (1991) 226 CA3d 1589, 1602, 277 CR 583 (party neither filed opposition nor objected at hearing)].

Timing:

The opposition must be served and filed at least nine court days before the scheduled hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. Service on the opposing party must be made by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the opposing papers are filed [CCP § 1005(c)]. Service of opposition papers must also conform to the requirements of CCP §§ 1010-1013 [CCP § 1005(c)].

III. RESPONDING TO DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.24

11.24 Object to Judicial Notice If Request Improperly Made or Overreaching.

When a demurring party is relying on matters subject to permissive judicial notice, the party must make a separate request that the court take notice of these matters and party must also provide the court and the other parties with a copy of the material [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1113(l), 3.1306(c)]. Judicial notice of the matters sought may well be the heart of the demurrer, such as when the demurrer is based on another action pending between the parties on the same cause of action. Be sure the request is properly made and vigorously oppose any requests for documents that are not subject to permissive notice under Evid Code § 452.

Trap:

Evid Code §§ 452, 453 permit the trial court to take judicial notice of the existence of judicial opinions and court documents, along with the truth of the results reached--in the documents such as orders, statements of decision, and judgments. The court cannot, however, take judicial notice of the truth of hearsay statements in decisions or court files, including pleadings, affidavits, testimony, or statements of fact [ People v. Woodell (1998) 17 C4th 448, 455, 71 CR2d 241 ; see also Weiner v. Mitchell, Silberberg & Knupp (1980) 114 CA3d 39, 45-47, 170 CR 533 (allowing judicial notice of facts within appellate court opinion)]. The truthfulness and proper interpretation of a judicially noticed document are disputable [ StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 C4th 449, 457 n9, 84 CR2d 843, 976 P2d 214 ; *Aquila, Inc. v. Discussion:

See 11.29

☐ Parties' options when court sustains demurrer to complaint, cross-complaint, or answer:

- ☐ Court will generally grant leave to amend the pleading within a specified time, and party may amend the pleading.

- ☐ Parties' options when demurrer is sustained with leave to amend:

☐ Party may refuse to amend the pleading and appeal from the resulting judgment of dismissal or default.

☐ Move for default if opposing party fails to file new pleading.

- ☐ Parties' options when demurrer is sustained without leave to amend:

☐ Party may file a motion for reconsideration of the order sustaining the demurrer.

☐ Party may seek appellate review of the judgment resulting from the order sustaining the demurrer.

☐ Either party may move for dismissal as long as no motion for reconsideration has been filed.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.27

11.27 Court's Hearing on Demurrer.

11.27[1] Trial Courts May Have Tentative Ruling Systems. A superior court adopting one of the permitted tentative ruling procedures allowed by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1308(a) must include the procedure in its local rules of court. The court must describe the procedure and set forth the telephone number and time for obtaining the ruling [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1308(c)].

Warning:

All jurisdictions have different local rules pertaining to tentative rulings. Be sure to check the pertinent local rules carefully. Tentative ruling systems can also vary from courtroom to courtroom, necessitating inquiry into the individual judge's practices.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of tentative ruling procedures, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.52 et seq.

11.27[2] Parties May Generally Appear by Telephone. The parties may generally appear at a law and motion hearing by telephone. If an attorney wishes to do so, he or she must place the phrase "Telephone Appearance" below the title of the moving, opposing, or reply papers or else notify the court and all other parties of the intent to appear by telephone at least three court days before the appearance. This can be done orally or by a written notice entitled "Notice of Intent to Appear by Telephone." This document generally must be filed with the court at least three court days before the hearing and the notice must be served on all other parties by means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the parties no later than the close of the next business day [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(1)].

Exception:

The court does have discretion to require a personal appearance on a case by case basis [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(f)].

Warning:

If an attorney or party who has given notice of a telephone appearance subsequently decides to appear in person, the attorney or party must notify the court and all other parties by telephone at least two court days before the scheduled hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(g)(3)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearance by telephone, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.18 et seq.

11.27[3] When Party Fails to Appear at Hearing.

11.27[3][a] Court Has Discretion to Rule on Merits When Moving Party Fails to Appear at Hearing. When the party who has filed the demurrer fails to appear at the hearing, the demurrer may be disposed of on the merits unless the hearing is continued for good cause. In the case of a special demurrer, the court may construe the failure to appear as an admission that the demurrer is not meritorious and as a waiver of all the demurrer's grounds [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(f); see CCP § 591].

11.27[3][b] Court Should Dispose of Demurrer on Merits When Opposing Party Fails to Appear at Hearing. When the party opposing the demurrer fails to appear at the hearing, the demurrer should be disposed of on the merits at the request of the demurring party unless the hearing is continued for good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(f)].

11.27[3][c] Court Has Discretion When Both Parties Fail to Appear at Hearing. The court has several options in a case when neither party appears at a scheduled demurrer hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(f)]:

- Dispose of the demurrer on its merits.
- Drop the demurrer from the calendar and restore it on notice or on other terms of the court's choosing.
- Continue the hearing to a date ordered by the court.

11.27[4] Court Has Discretion When Demurrer and Motion to Strike Filed Concurrently. When a demurrer and motion to strike are filed concurrently, the court has the discretion to place the motion to strike off calendar if it sustains the demurrer and to place the demurrer off calendar if it grants the motion to strike. The same holds true when general and special demurrers are filed concurrently: the court may sustain a general demurrer, for example, and take the special demurrers off calendar.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of filing demurrer and motion to strike concurrently, see 11.17.

11.27[5] Court Must Allow Oral Argument. Because a demurrer is considered a "critical pretrial matter," the court must provide the opportunity for oral argument at the hearing on the demurrer [ Medix Ambulance Serv., Inc. v. Superior Court (2002) 97 CA4th 109, 117, 118 CR2d 249 (local court procedure where court's ruling was accessible via the Internet and there was no procedure for oral argument was improper)].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

11.28 Standards Used by Court in Ruling on Demurrer.

11.28[1] Court May Consider Only Challenged Pleading and Matters Subject to Judicial Notice. Normally, the court may take into account only the challenged pleading and matters subject to judicial notice under Evid Code §§ 451, 452 in ruling on a demurrer [see CCP §§ 430.30(a), 430.70; see also Gould v. Maryland Sound Indus., Inc. (1995) 31 CA4th 1137, 1144, 37 CR2d 718 ]. A demurrer is not the appropriate procedure for determining the truth of disputed facts in documents presented through judicial notice [ Unruh-Haxton v. Regents of University of California (2008) 162 CA4th 343, 365, 73 CR3d 146 ; Fremont Indemnity Co. v. Fremont General Corp. (2007) 148 CA4th 97, 113, 55 CR3d 621 ].

Warning:

The California Courts of Appeal have utilized three different approaches at the demurrer stage as to accepting the accuracy of the contents of judicially noticed documents [ C.R. v. Tenet Healthcare Corp (2009) 169 CA4th 1094, 1103, 87 CR3d 424 ] .

Exception:

Case law indicates that the court may consider admissions contained in the plaintiff's complaint and in the plaintiff's opposition papers in order to negate the plaintiff's ability to state a cause of action [see, e.g., Casterson v. Superior Court (2002) 101 CA4th 177, 181, 123 CR2d 637 (statutory affirmative defense was evident on face of complaint); Rodas v. Spiegel (2001) 87 CA4th 513, 517, 104 CR2d 439 (court took judicial notice of admissions in plaintiff's opposition to demurrer); Setliff v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (1995) 32 CA4th 1525, 1534, 1536-1537, 38 CR2d 763 ; Knoell v. Petrovich (1999) 76 CA4th 164, 168-169, 90 CR2d 162 ].

11.28[2] Court Will Consider Allegations of Pleading As True. When a party files a general demurrer, the court will treat the allegations of the challenged pleading as true for purposes of the demurrer [see, e.g., Blank v. Kirwan (1985) 39 C3d 311, 318, 216 CR 718, 703 P2d 58 ; Martinez v. Socoma Cos., Inc. (1974) 11 C3d 394, 399, 113 CR 585, 521 P2d 841 ; StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 C4th 449, 453 n3, 84 CR2d 843, 976 P2d 214 (court assumes truth of well-pled allegations in complaint); Roskind v. Morgan, Stanley Dean Witter & Co. (2000) 80 CA4th 345, 349, 95 CR2d 258 (ability of plaintiff to prove allegations of complaint not at issue in demurrer); Gervase v.

Superior Court (1995) 31 CA4th 1218, 1224, 37 CR2d 875 (for purposes of testing pleading, demurrer admits all material facts that are properly pled); Marshall v. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher (1995) 37 CA4th 1397, 1403, 44 CR2d 339; Rodas v. Spiegel (2001) 87 CA4th 513, 517, 104 CR2d 439; Wilner v. Sunset Life Ins. Co. (2000) 78 CA4th 952, 958, 93 CR2d 413 ].

Distinguish:

This rule also means that the court accepts as true facts appearing in the exhibits attached to the complaint, although if the facts in the exhibits contradict the facts in the complaint, the facts stated in the exhibits take precedence [ Mead v. Sanwa Bank Cal. (1998) 61 CA4th 561, 567-568, 71 CR2d 625; Breneric Assocs. v. City of Del Mar (1998) 69 CA4th 166, 180, 81 CR2d 324; Software Design & Application, Ltd. v. Hoefer & Arnett, Inc. (1996) 49 CA4th 472, 484, 56 CR2d 756; Holland v. Morse Diesel Int'l, Inc. (2001) 86 CA4th 1443, 1447, 104 CR2d 239 ].

11.28[3] General Demurrer Does Not Admit Contentions or Conclusions. A general demurrer does not admit the following [ Blank v. Kirwan (1985) 39 C3d 311, 318, 216 CR 718, 703 P2d 58; Martinez v. Socoma Cos., Inc. (1974) 11 C3d 394, 399, 113 CR 585, 521 P2d 841; William S. Hart Union High Sch. Dist. v. Reg'l Planning Comm'n (1991) 226 CA3d 1612, 1616 n2, 277 CR 645 ]:

- Contentions;
- Deductions;
- Conclusions of fact or law;
- Facts impossible in law;
- Allegations contrary to facts of which a court may take judicial notice.

11.28[4] Court Must Construe Challenged Pleading Liberally. In considering a demurrer, the court must construe the challenged pleading's allegations liberally and draw reasonable inferences from the facts pled [see Wilner v. Sunset Life Ins. Co. (2000) 78 CA4th 952, 958, 93 CR2d 413; see also CCP § 452; Chazen v. Centennial Bank (1998) 61 CA4th 532, 542, 71 CR2d 462; C & H Foods Co. v. Hartford Ins. Co. (1984) 163 CA3d 1055, 1062, 211 CR 765 ].

Exception:

A plaintiff's complaint need not be construed liberally if (1) the plaintiff has filed a defective complaint, (2) the defect is pointed out by demurrer, (3) the demurrer is sustained with leave to amend, and (4) the plaintiff is unwilling or unable to remove the defect [see Truta v. Avis Rent A Car System, Inc. (1987) 238 CR 806 ].

11.28[5] Court Must Disregard Errors Not Affecting Rights of Parties. In considering the challenged pleading, the court must disregard any error or defect in the pleading that does not affect the substantial rights of the parties [CCP § 475].

11.28[6] Court May Sustain General Demurrer Without Leave to Amend Only If Complaint Shows No Basis for Relief. A general demurrer may be sustained without leave to amend only if the complaint lacks any sufficient allegations to entitle the plaintiff to relief [see Chazen v. Centennial Bank (1998) 61 CA4th 532, 542, 71 CR2d 462 ].

Strategic Point:

In considering whether there is a reasonable probability a defect in the complaint can be cured by amendment, courts may consider counsel's statements at oral argument [ Bassett v. Lakeside Inn, Inc. (2006) 140 CA4th 863, 870, 44 CR3d 827 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.29

11.29 Court May "Sustain" or "Overrule" Demurrer.

11.29[1] Overruled Demurrer.

11.29[1][a] When Court Overrules Demurrer to Complaint or Cross-Complaint, Leave to Answer Is Deemed Granted. When a court overrules a demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint, leave to answer the complaint or cross-complaint within 10 days will be deemed granted [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(g)].

Exception:

In forcible entry, forcible detainer, or unlawful detainer actions, only 5 calendar days to answer will be deemed granted after the overruling of a demurrer to a complaint or cross-complaint [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(g)].

11.29[1][b] When Court Overrules Demurrer to Answer, Action Proceeds As If No Demurrer. When a court overrules a demurrer to an answer, the action must proceed as if there had been no demurrer, and any new matter alleged in the answer is considered denied [CCP §§ 431.20(b), 472a(b)].

11.29[2] When Court Sustains Demurrer, Leave to Amend Is Generally Granted.

11.29[2][a] Court Must Specify Ground for Sustaining Demurrer. When a court sustains a demurrer, the court must include in its decision or order a statement of the specific ground or grounds upon which the decision or order is based. This may be by reference to appropriate pages and/or paragraphs or the demurrer [CCP § 472d]. The party against whom the demurrer has been sustained may waive these requirements [CCP § 472d; see Krawitz v. Rusch (1989) 209 CA3d 957, 962, 257 CR 610].

Distinguish:

Generally, a mere reference to the moving paper's memorandum does not satisfy the requirement of CCP § 472d. However, if the court is sustaining a demurrer on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, the court may simply state that it appears from the memorandum that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action [Mautner v. Peralta (1989) 215 CA3d 796, 801-802, 263 CR 535].

11.29[2][b] Court May Grant Leave to Amend Pleading. It is in the court's discretion whether to grant leave to amend the pleading when the court sustains a demurrer [CCP § 472a(c); see Baldwin v. Daniels (1955) 132 CA2d 560, 563, 282 P2d 522 ]. However, it is considered an abuse of discretion for a court to sustain a demurrer without leave to amend unless it is clear that the pleading cannot be amended to correct the defect [see, e.g., Schwarz v. Regents of University of California (1990) 226 CA3d 149, 153, 276 CR 470 ; Murray v. Wright (1958) 166 CA2d 589, 591, 333 P2d 111 ; Kadota Fig Ass'n v. Case-Swayne Co. (1946) 73 CA2d 796, 804, 167 P2d 518 ; Angie M. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 CA4th 1217, 1227, 44 CR2d 197 ].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

The burden is on the plaintiff to show how the complaint can be amended and how the amendment will change the legal effect of its pleading [ McKelvey v. Boeing N. Am., Inc. (1999) 74 CA4th 151, 163, 86 CR2d 645 , superseded by statute as stated in Bonds v. Nicoletti Oil, Inc. (2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47054 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of amending pleadings, see 11.22[1].

11.29[2][c] Court May Specify Time Limits for Amending Pleading. When the court sustains a demurrer with leave to amend, the court will often specify the time within which the amendment or amended pleading must be filed [CCP § 472a(c)].

If the court fails to specify the time limits for amendments, leave to amend within 10 days is granted, except in the case of forcible entry, forcible detainer, or unlawful detainer actions, in which 5 calendar days to amend is deemed granted [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1320(g)].

The time for filing the amended pleading runs from the service of the notice of order, unless the notice is waived, in which case it runs from the hearing date [CCP § 472b].

11.29[3] Court Need Not Issue Statement of Decision. Because a demurrer ruling does not involve factual questions, the court is not required to prepare a statement of decision under CCP § 632 [see Hayward v. Henderson (1979) 88 CA3d 64, 70-71, 151 CR 505 ].

11.29[4] When Court Takes Demurrer Under Advisement, Clerk Notifies Parties of Ruling. When the court takes a demurrer under advisement, the clerk must notify the parties of the ruling when it is made. The notification must meet the following requirements [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1109]:

- Specifically identify the matter ruled on.
- If the case has multiple parties, it must name the moving party and the party against whom relief was requested and specifically identify the demurrer ruled on.
- The notification may be given by mail.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.30

11.30 Parties' Options After Ruling on Demurrer.

11.30[1] When Demurrer Is Sustained With Leave to Amend, Party Can Amend Complaint or Suffer Dismissal or Default Judgment. When a demurrer is sustained with leave to amend, the party whose pleading was objected to has the following options:

- Refuse to amend the pleading, in which case a dismissal or default judgment will occur. The party may then appeal from the judgment [see, e.g., Stowe v. Fritzie Hotels, Inc. (1955) 44 C2d 416, 420, 282 P2d 890].
- Amend the pleading.
- Amend a multi-count pleading against which a demurrer was sustained with leave to amend by deleting one or more pleadings and amending one or more others, appeal the grant of demurrer against the deleted pleadings, and proceed on the other counts as amended [ National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh, PA v. Cambridge Integrated Servs. Group, Inc. (2009) 171 CA4th 35, 44-45, 89 CR3d 473 ] .
- When a plaintiff amends a complaint after a demurrer is sustained with leave to amend, that plaintiff may add a new cause of action that supports recovery on the original obligation sued on under a different legal theory [ Datig v. Dove Books, Inc. (1999) 73 CA4th 964, 983 n19, 87 CR2d 719 ].

Distinguish:

When a pleading is amended subsequent to a demurrer, the court's order sustaining the demurrer is deemed "open on appeal" when the order did not sustain the demurrer as to the entire complaint or cross-complaint or as to the entire answer. This, in practical terms, means that the party aggrieved by the order may challenge the order on appeal from the final judgment [CCP § 472c].

11.30[2] When Demurrer Is Sustained Without Leave to Amend, Party Can File Motion for Reconsideration or Seek Appellate Review of Judgment. When the court sustains a demurrer without leave to amend, the party whose pleading was objected to has the following options:

- File a motion for reconsideration of the order sustaining the demurrer [CCP § 1008; see also Rains v. Superior Court (1984) 150 CA3d 933, 943, 198 CR 249 ].

- Seek appellate review of the judgment resulting from the order sustaining the demurrer [CCP § 472c; see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 878, 150 CR 606 ; see also McKelvey v. Boeing N. Am., Inc. (1999) 74 CA4th 151, 157 n8, 86 CR2d 645 , superseded by statute as stated in Bonds v. Nicoletti Oil, Inc. (2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47054 ].

In addition, a plaintiff may bring a motion for a new trial from a judgment of dismissal resulting from the sustaining of a demurrer [ Carney v. Simmonds (1957) 49 C2d 84, 88, 90-91, 315 P2d 305 ; 20th Century Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2001) 90 CA4th 1247, 1261 ].

IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

11.31 Motion for Reconsideration May Be Made When Demurrer Sustained Without Leave to Amend.

A party against whom a demurrer was sustained without leave to amend may file a motion to reconsider the matter. The motion must be supported by a proposed pleading containing new allegations or facts not previously included [CCP § 1008; see also Rains v. Superior Court (1984) 150 CA3d 933, 943, 198 CR 249 ].

Prerequisite:

A party who files a motion for reconsideration must provide the trial court with a satisfactory explanation as to why the party failed to produce the evidence at an earlier time. The party may face sanctions as a result of the failure to do so [CCP § 1008; see Lucas v. Santa Maria Pub. Airport Dist. (1995) 39 CA4th 1017, 1027-1028, 46 CR2d 177 ].

Warning:

A motion for reconsideration should be carefully considered before it is filed. Courts generally disfavor these motions, and some judges may be inclined to award sanctions on this type of motion.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

11.32 Plaintiff's Voluntary Dismissal of Complaint After Demurrer.

11.32[1] Plaintiff May Voluntarily Dismiss Complaint Before Ruling Made on Demurrer. A plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss a complaint without prejudice at any time before a demurrer is heard and submitted for decision. This applies even when the trial court has issued a tentative ruling but has not yet heard oral argument and made a final decision [ Datner v. Mann Theatres Corp. (1983) 145 CA3d 768, 770-771, 193 CR 676 ].

Strategic Point:

Case law suggests that a voluntary dismissal may be made after the demurrer has been submitted for decision but before the final decision is made [see Wells v. Marina City Props., Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 781, 789-790, 176 CR 104, 632 P2d 217 (dictum); Kyle v. Carmon (1999) 71 CA4th 901, 909-910, 84 CR2d 303 (applying Wells dictum to CCP § 425.16 motion)].

11.32[2] Plaintiff May Voluntarily Dismiss Complaint Before Time to Amend Expires. When a demurrer is sustained with leave to amend, a plaintiff may obtain a voluntary dismissal without prejudice before the time to amend expires [ Christensen v. Dewor Devs. (1983) 33 C3d 778, 785, 191 CR 8, 661 P2d 1088 ; see also Parsons v. Umansky (1994) 28 CA4th 867, 870-871, 34 CR2d 144 ].

11.32[3] Plaintiff May Not Dismiss Complaint After Demurrer Sustained. Once a general demurrer is sustained, a plaintiff can no longer voluntarily dismiss the action without prejudice. The reason for this is that a "trial" has taken place within the meaning of CCP § 581 [see Wells v. Marina City Properties, Inc. (1981) 29 C3d 781, 789, 176 CR 104, 632 P2d 217 ; Berri v. Superior Court (1955) 43 C2d 856, 859, 279 P2d 8 ; Tokerud v. CapitolBank Sacramento (1995) 38 CA4th 775, 781, 45 CR2d 345 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
IV. HEARING ON DEMURRER AND REACTING TO ORDERS ON DEMURRER

11.33 Judgment After Ruling on Demurrer.

11.33[1] Court May Dismiss Complaint After Demurrer Sustained Without Leave to Amend. After a demurrer is sustained without leave to amend, either party may move for dismissal under CCP § 581(f)(1). An informal request is sufficient as long as there has been no motion for reconsideration [ Berri v. Superior Court (1955) 43 C2d 856, 860, 279 P2d 8 ; Rudolph v. Fulton (1960) 178 CA2d 339, 343, 2 CR 807 ].

Warning--Demurring Party:

The demurring party should not neglect to follow up and obtain an order of dismissal after the demurrer has been sustained.

Once dismissal is ordered, the entry of judgment follows. When the dismissal is in the form of a written order signed by the court and filed, the order constitutes the judgment [CCP § 581d].

11.33[2] Court May Dismiss Complaint When Party Fails to Amend. If a demurrer to a complaint is sustained with leave to amend and the plaintiff fails to amend the complaint within the time allotted, the court may dismiss the complaint on the motion of either party or on its own motion [CCP § 581(f)(2); Sousa v. Capital Co. (1963) 220 CA2d 744, 755, 34 CR 71 (court may dismiss action on its own motion when plaintiff fails to amend complaint)]. Dismissal under CCP § 581(f)(2) may even be granted after the plaintiff files amended pleadings that do not correct the defect found on demurrer [see Cano v. Glover (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 326, 329-330, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871 ].

Strategic Point:

If the party amends the pleading in an untimely fashion, the demurring party should file a noticed motion to strike the amendment before moving to dismiss the action [ Gitmed v. Gen. Motors Corp. (1994) 26 CA4th 824, 827-828, 31 CR2d 625 ].

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 12, Motions to Strike.

The trial court has discretion to grant or deny defendant's motion if plaintiff opposes the motion and promptly submits an amended complaint [ Cano v. Glover (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 326, 329, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871 ; Contreras v. Blue Cross of Cal. (1988) 199 CA3d 945, 948, 245 CR 258 (applying former CCP § 581(f)(2))]. However, if it grants dismissal, the dismissal is with prejudice [ Cano v. Glover (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 326, 329-330, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871 ] and the defendant is entitled to costs [ Cano v. Glover (2006) 143 Cal. App. 4th 326, 331, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 871 ].

Cross References:

Form of ex parte motion to dismiss the action and order granting motion, see 11.61.

Form of notice of motion to strike an amended complaint as untimely and to dismiss the action, see 11.60.

11.33[3] Default Judgment May Be Appropriate in Certain Circumstances.

11.33[3][a] Default Judgment May Be Appropriate After Demurrer Sustained With Leave to Amend. When a demurrer to a complaint is sustained with leave to amend and the plaintiff amends, files, and serves the complaint but the defendant fails to answer or demur to the amended complaint, a default judgment may be entered against the defendant within 30 days after the complaint was served on the defendant [see CCP § 586(a)(1)].

Cross Reference:

Detailed coverage of default judgments, see Ch. 36, Defaults and Motions for Relief.

11.33[3][b] Default Judgment May Be Appropriate After Demurrer Overruled. When a defendant demurs to a complaint without answering and the demurrer is overruled, the court may enter a default judgment against defendant when defendant fails to answer the complaint after the demurrer is overruled [CCP § 586(a)(2)].

11.33[3][c] Default Judgment May Be Appropriate After Demurrer to Answer Sustained. If a plaintiff's demurrer to an answer was sustained and the defendant fails to amend the answer within the time established by the court, the court may enter a default judgment against the defendant [CCP § 586(a)(5)].

11.33[3][d] Default Judgment May Be Appropriate in Unlawful Detainer, Forcible Detainer, and Forcible Entry Proceedings. In unlawful detainer, forcible detainer, and forcible entry proceedings, a defendant has only five days to answer the complaint after a demurrer is overruled or after a demurrer to an answer is sustained. Otherwise, a defendant may be subject to a default hearing [CCP §§ 586(a)(2), 586(a)(5), 1167.3].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
V. APPELLATE REVIEW OF DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.35

11.35 Aggrieved Party Seeks Appellate Review of Judgment of Dismissal After Demurrer Sustained, Not the Order on Demurrer.

11.35[1] Order Sustaining or Overruling Demurrer Is Generally Not Appealable. Orders sustaining or overruling demurrers are not appealable [see San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 13 C4th 893, 912-913, 55 CR2d 724, 920 P2d 669 (order overruling demurrer); Youngblood v. Bd. of Supervisors (1978) 22 C3d 644, 651, 150 CR 242, 586 P2d 556 (order sustaining demurrer without leave to amend); Jones v. H.F. Ahmanson & Co. (1969) 1 C3d 93, 119, 81 CR 592, 460 P2d 464 (order overruling demurrer); see also People ex rel. Lungren v. Superior Court (1996) 14 C4th 294, 299-300, 58 CR2d 855, 926 P2d 1042 ].

Exception--Class Action:

In a class action, an order sustaining a demurrer without leave to amend has been held to have the legal effect of a final judgment [ Kennedy v. Baxter Healthcare Corp. (1995) 43 CA4th 799, 807, 50 CR2d 736 ].

Warning:

Some appellate courts have treated an appeal from an order sustaining a demurrer as an appeal from the judgment of dismissal subsequently entered. The court simply deems the order sustaining the demurrer to contain a judgment of dismissal and therefore reviews the order on that basis [see Beazell v. Schrader (1963) 59 C2d 577, 579-580, 30 CR 534, 381 P2d 390 ; Conley v. Roman Catholic Archbishop (2000) 85 CA4th 1126, 1130 ; Thaler v. Household Fin. Corp. (2000) 80 CA4th 1093, 1098, 95 CR2d 779 ; Lumpkin v. Jordan (1996) 49 CA4th 1223, 1226 n1, 57 CR2d 303 ]. Other appellate courts have declined to be so lenient and have refused to treat nonappealable orders as appealable [see, e.g., Jordan v. Malone (1992) 5 CA4th 18, 22-23, 6 CR2d 454 (appeal from tentative written decision not permitted); Munoz v. Florentine Gardens (1991) 235 CA3d 1730, 1731, 1 CR2d 609 (case involving appeal from minute order granting motion to dismiss for failure to prosecute); Cohen v. Equitable Life Assurance Soc'y (1987) 196 CA3d 669, 671, 242 CR 84 (court allowed appeal from order sustaining demurrer but stated it would not "bail out" careless attorneys in the future)].

11.35[2] Proper Procedure Is to Appeal From Subsequent Judgment or Order of Dismissal. A ruling on a demurrer may properly be reviewed on appeal from a subsequent judgment or order of dismissal [CCP § 472c; see Timberidge Enters., Inc. v. City of Santa Rosa (1978) 86 CA3d 873, 878, 150 CR 606 ; see also McKelvey v. Boeing N. Am., Inc. (1999) 74 CA4th 151, 157 n8, 86 CR2d 645 , superseded by statute as stated in Bonds v. Nicoletti Oil, Inc. (2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47054 ]. A judgment of dismissal entered after a demurrer to a complaint has been sustained, either without leave to amend or after plaintiff failed to amend the complaint, is appealable [see CCP §§ 904.1(a)(1), 904.2(a); see also Irwin v. City of Manhattan Beach (1966) 65 C2d 13, 16, 51 CR 881, 415 P2d 769 ; Battle v. Kessler (1983) 149 CA3d 853, 855, 197 CR 170 ].

This rule applies equally to a situation where a judgment applies only to certain defendants, and plaintiff's case continues against other defendants [ Tinsley v. Palo Alto Unified Sch. Dist. (1979) 91 CA3d 871, 880, 154 CR 591 (judgment dismissing the complaint as to some, but not all, defendants is appealable)].

11.35[3] Orders May Be Reviewable by Extraordinary Writ.

11.35[3][a] Order Sustaining Demurrer May Be Reviewable by Writ. In certain situations, an order sustaining a demurrer may be reviewable by extraordinary writ. When a demurrer is granted as to part of a case but does not dispose of the entire case, review by mandate may be available [ Vasquez v. Superior Court (1971) 4 C3d 800, 806-807, 94 CR 796, 484 P2d 964 ; see also N. Am. Chem. Co. v. Superior Court (1997) 59 CA4th 764, 773, 69 CR2d 466 ].

11.35[3][b] Order Overruling Demurrer Generally Not Reviewable by Writ. An order overruling a demurrer is not generally reviewable by extraordinary writ. However, in certain cases it may be appropriate. Examples include:

- When an issue is purely legal in nature and of significant legal import and the facts are undisputed [ City of Huntington Park v. Superior Court (1995) 34 CA4th 1293, 1297, 41 CR2d 68 ].
- When there is a significant issue of law and resolution of the issue in petitioner's favor would result in final disposition as to that party [ Curry v. Superior Court (1993) 20 CA4th 180, 183, 24 CR2d 495 ].
- When the issue raised is considered jurisdictional [ County of Santa Barbara v. Superior Court (1971) 15 CA3d 751, 754-755, 93 CR 406 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
V. APPELLATE REVIEW OF DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.36

11.36 Standard of Review on Appeal.

11.36[1] Appellate Court Makes Several Determinations When Reviewing Demurrer Sustained Without Leave to Amend.

11.36[1][a] Court Has Two-Step Analysis for Demurrer Sustained Without Leave to Amend. When an appellate court reviews a trial court's ruling sustaining a demurrer without leave to amend, the court goes through two different determinations [see, e.g., Filet Menu, Inc. v. Cheng (1999) 71 CA4th 1276, 1279-1280, 84 CR2d 384 ; Hernandez v. City of Pomona (1996) 49 CA4th 1492, 1497-1498, 57 CR2d 406 ; G.L. Mezzetta, Inc. v. City of Am. Canyon (2000) 78 CA4th 1087, 1091-1092, 93 CR2d 292 ; Lazar v. Hertz Corp. (1999) 69 CA4th 1494, 1501, 82 CR2d 368 ]:

- A de novo review of the complaint to determine if it contains facts sufficient to state a cause of action, i.e., whether the trial court erred in sustaining the demurrer.
- A determination of whether the trial court abused its discretion in sustaining the demurrer without leave to amend.

11.36[1][b] Appellate Court Should Find Abuse of Discretion If There Is a Reasonable Possibility That Defect Can Be Cured by Amendment. A trial court has abused its discretion in sustaining a demurrer without leave to amend if there is a reasonable possibility that the defect can be cured by amendment [ Minsky v. City of Los Angeles (1974) 11 C3d 113, 118, 113 CR 102, 520 P2d 726 ; Schulz v. Neovi Data Corp. (2007) 152 CA4th 86, 91-92, 60 CR3d 810 ].

A plaintiff has the burden of proving there is a reasonable possibility that the defect can be cured by amendment. This includes showing how the plaintiff can amend its complaint and how the amendment will change the complaint's legal effect [ Palm Springs Tennis Club v. Rangel (1999) 73 CA4th 1, 7-8, 86 CR2d 73 ; see McKelvey v. Boeing N. Am., Inc. (1999) 74 CA4th 151, 163, 86 CR2d 645 , superseded by statute as stated in Bonds v. Nicoletti Oil, Inc. (2008) 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 47054 ]. Plaintiff must set forth the applicable substantive law and the legal basis for amendment as well as factual allegations that correspond to all required elements of the cause of action [ Rakestraw v. Cal. Physicians' Serv. (2000) 81 CA4th 39, 43-44, 96 CR2d 354 ].

Distinguish:

When a plaintiff's previous attempts to mend a defective complaint have failed, it may not be abuse of discretion for a trial court to sustain a subsequent demurrer without leave to amend [see, e.g., Wilner v. Sunset Life Ins. Co. (2000) 78 CA4th 952, 958-959, 93 CR2d 413 ; Lee v. Interinsurance Exch. (1996) 50 CA4th 694, 724, 57 CR2d 798 ; Alexandria S. v. Pac. Fertility Med. Ctr., Inc. (1997) 55 CA4th 110, 115, 64 CR2d 23 ].

11.36[2] Appellate Court Must Review Complaint to Determine If It States a Cause of Action. On appeal, the reviewing court must examine the complaint and deem its allegations true in order to determine whether the complaint states a viable cause of action [ Stevenson v. Superior Court (1997) 16 C4th 880, 885, 66 CR2d 888, 941 P2d 1157 ; Snyder v. Michael's Stores, Inc. (1997) 16 C4th 991, 995, 68 CR2d 476, 945 P2d 781 ]. The court should construe the complaint liberally to determine whether a cause of action is stated [ Biles v. Richter (1988) 206 CA3d 325, 328-329, 253 CR 414 ; Picton v. Anderson Union High Sch. Dist. (1996) 50 CA4th 726, 730, 733, 57 CR2d 829 ].

11.36[3] Appellate Court Must Reverse Ruling Sustaining Demurrer When Plaintiff Has Stated Cause of Action Under Any Theory. If the complaint shows entitlement to relief on any possible legal theory, the appellate court must reverse the trial court's ruling sustaining the demurrer [ Hernandez v. City of Pomona (1996) 49 CA4th 1492, 1497, 57 CR2d 406 ; Tafoya v. Hastings Coll. (1987) 191 CA3d 437, 440, 236 CR 395 ; Terhell v. Am. Commonwealth Assocs. (1985) 172 CA3d 434, 438, 218 CR 256 ; Thaler v. Household Fin. Corp. (2000) 80 CA4th 1093, 1098, 95 CR2d 779 ; Cellular Plus, Inc. v. Superior Court (1993) 14 CA4th 1224, 1231, 18 CR2d 308 ].

11.36[4] Appellate Court Must Affirm Trial Court's Correct Ruling Regardless of Grounds Stated by Trial Court. CCP § 472d requires that when a demurrer is sustained, the trial court must include in its decision or order a statement of the ground or grounds upon which the decision is based [CCP § 472d]. A reviewing court may properly affirm the sustaining of a demurrer as long as grounds for sustaining the demurrer exist, regardless of the reasons stated by the trial court [see, e.g., Weinstock v. Eissler (1964) 224 CA2d 212, 224-225, 36 CR 537 ; Zappas v. King Williams Press, Inc. (1970) 10 CA3d 768, 771, 89 CR 307 ; California State Employees' Assn. v. Williams (1970) 7 CA3d 390, 395, 86 CR 305 ; CAMSI IV v. Hunter Tech. Corp. (1991) 230 CA3d 1525, 1533, 282 CR 80 ].

11.36[5] Demurring Party May Present New Theories on Appeal. On appeal, a demurring party is not limited to the reasons and arguments advanced in the trial court. The party may present any and all reasons in support of the trial court's order sustaining the demurrer [see Sanchez v. Truck Ins. Exch. (1994) 21 CA4th 1778, 1787, 26 CR2d 812 ; Zumbrun v. Univ. of S. Cal. (1972) 25 CA3d 1, 8-9, 101 CR 499 ; see also Zappas v. King Williams Press, Inc. (1970) 10 CA3d 768, 771, 89 CR 307 ].

11.36[6] Appellate Court May Consider Any Facts Subject to Judicial Notice. In reviewing a ruling on a demurrer, an appellate court may consider both facts judicially noticed by the trial court and those which the trial court could have properly noticed [ StorMedia Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 20 C4th 449, 456 n9, 84 CR2d 843, 976 P2d 214 ; see also Cantu v. Resolution Trust Corp. (1992) 4 CA4th 857, 877, 6 CR2d 151 ; City of Chula Vista v. County of San Diego (1994) 23 CA4th 1713, 1719, 29 CR2d 89 ].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
V. APPELLATE REVIEW OF DEMURRER

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.37

11.37 When Order Sustaining Demurrer Is Reversed on Appeal, Amended Complaint Must Be Filed Within 30 Days.

When an order sustaining a demurrer without leave to amend is reversed or remanded by an appellate court, any amended complaint must be filed within 30 days after the clerk of the appellate court mails notice of the issuance of the remittitur [CCP § 472b; Pagarigan v. Aetna U.S. Healthcare of California, Inc. (2007) 158 CA4th 38, 42-43, 69 CR3d 627 ].

Strategic Point:

Even if a matter calls for compulsory notice, or is appropriate for optional notice, and the appellant fully complies with the procedural requirements, refusal to take notice is merely error. Whether it is reversible error depends on the state of the record, and also involves considerations of estoppel and waiver. Likewise, the improper taking of notice is subject to harmless error analysis [ Aquila, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 148 CA4th 556, 569, 55 CR3d 803 ].

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.38

11.38 CHECKLIST: Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

11.38[1] Moving Party.

☐ Moving party:

☐ If plaintiff:

☐ Assert complaint states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, and the answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense.

☐ If defendant:

☐ Assert court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the cause of action against that defendant.

☐ Assert the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against that defendant.

Authority:

CCP § 438(c)(1)

Discussion:

See 11.44[1], [2]

Determine timing for bringing motion for judgment on the pleadings:

- ☐ Motion for judgment on the pleadings may not be brought after a pretrial conference order or within 30 days of the date initially set for trial, whichever is later.
- ☐ Plaintiff must wait until time to demur to answer has expired before bringing motion for judgment on the pleadings.
- ☐ Defendant must wait until time to demur to complaint has expired before bringing motion for judgment on the pleadings.

Authority:

CCP § 438(e), (f)

Discussion:

See 11.45[1] -[3]

- ☐ Prepare, serve, and file notice of motion.

Timing:

The moving papers must be filed and served 16 court days prior to the date of the hearing, with time extensions based on method of service and address of person served.

Authority:

CCP §§ 438(d), 1005(b)

Discussion:

See 11.45[4]

- ☐ Prepare, serve, and file motion and accompanying papers:

- ☐ Memorandum in support of motion.
- ☐ Request for judicial notice, if applicable.
- ☐ Proof of service.

Authority:

CCP §§ 465, 1013a; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113

Discussion:

See 11.45[4]

- ☐ If opposition papers are filed, draft, serve, and file reply to opposition.
  - ☐ Reply must be served and filed at least five court days before the scheduled hearing.

☐ Service must be made by a method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the opposing papers are filed.

Authority:

CCP § 1005(b)

Discussion:

See 11.45[4]

☐ If court grants motion with leave to amend, the court will allow 30 days to the party against whom the motion was granted to file an amended complaint or answer.

Authority:

CCP § 438(h)(2)

Discussion:

See 11.47[3]

☐ If amended pleading is filed after the time specified or otherwise violates the court's ruling on the motion, move to strike the amended pleading and move for entry of judgment.

Authority:

CCP §§ 435(b)(1), (e), 438(h)(4)(A), (B), (i)(1)(A)

Discussion:

See 11.47[4]

☐ If opposing party fails to file an amended pleading, move for entry of judgment.

Authority:

CCP § 438(h)(4)(C), (i)(1)(B)

Discussion:

See 11.47[4]

☐ If judgment is entered, anticipate that opposing party may seek appellate review of the judgment.

Authority:

CCP §§ 904.1(a)(1), 904.2(a); Cream v. Wheatcraft (1953) 115 CA2d 517, 522, 252 P2d 637

Discussion:

See 11.48

☐ If court denies motion for judgment on the pleadings and the issue is purely legal and of significant legal import, seek review by writ of mandate if available.

Authority:

Am. Int'l Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 234 CA3d 749, 755, 285 CR 765

Discussion:

See 11.48[6]

11.38[2] Opposing Party.

- ☐ Serve and file memorandum in opposition to motion.
- ☐ Serve and file at least nine court days before the scheduled hearing.
- ☐ Serve by method reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the opposing papers are filed.

Authority:

CCP § 1005(b)

Discussion:

See 11.45[4]

- ☐ If the court grants the motion with leave to amend, file amended complaint or answer within 30 days.

Authority:

CCP § 438(h)(2)

Discussion:

See 11.47[3]

- ☐ If the court grants the motion without leave to amend, appeal judgment of dismissal.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
VI. MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

11.39 Options and Strategy for Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

Motions for judgment on the pleadings challenge the sufficiency of the pleadings after the time for filing a demurrer has run. The grounds for judgment on the pleadings, which are a subset of the grounds for demurring to a pleading, are lack of subject matter jurisdiction and insufficient facts to constitute a cause or action or defense. In either case, the grounds must appear from the face of the pleadings or from facts subject to judicial notice [CCP § 438(d)].

A party must decide whether to raise either of these two objections by demurrer or by a motion for judgment on the pleadings. The logical and cost saving decision is to raise the issues by demurrer rather than litigating on a defective pleading or in a court without subject matter jurisdiction. There is one caveat to this approach. A motion for judgment on the pleading cannot raise the same grounds objected to and overruled on demurrer unless there has been a material change in applicable case law or statute since the ruling on the demurrer [see CCP § 438(g)]. If for some reason a party does not have the time, facts, or resources to file a complete and well reasoned demurrer, a motion for judgment on the pleadings can be used as a back up plan. A motion for judgment on the pleadings is also a back up procedure when, for whatever reason, a defect in the pleadings was not discovered and a demurrer was not filed on time. A motion for judgment on the pleadings is also a method to protect your client when substituting in as counsel mid-litigation and discovering that prior counsel did not file a demurrer to pleadings that fail to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause or action or defense.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
VI. MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.40

11.40 Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Can Be Comparable to General or Special Demurrer.

11.40[1] Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Comparable to General Demurrer. A motion for judgment on the pleadings may be based on the same grounds as a general demurrer, i.e., insufficient facts stated to constitute a cause of action or defense [CCP § 438(c)(1)(A), (B)(ii)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of grounds for general demurrer, see 11.08.

11.40[2] Special Demurrer Based on Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction Available for Defendant. A motion for judgment on the pleadings may also be made on the ground of lack of subject matter jurisdiction (sometimes referred to a special demurrer), but may be raised only by the defendant [see CCP § 438(c)(1)(B)(i); see also CCP § 430.10(a)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of special demurrer on the ground of lack of subject matter jurisdiction, see 11.09[3].

11.40[3] Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Cannot Be Brought Until Time for Demurrer Has Expired. If the moving party is a plaintiff and the defendant has filed his or her answer to the complaint, a motion for judgment on the pleadings cannot be brought until the time for plaintiff to demur to the answer has expired [CCP § 438(f)(1)].

If the moving party is a defendant, a motion for judgment on the pleadings cannot be brought until the time for the defendant to demur to the complaint has expired [CCP § 438(f)(2)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of time limitations on filing demurrers, see 11.12.

11.40[4] Party May Not Demur and File Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings on the Same Grounds Without Change in Law. A party may not demur to a complaint or answer and subsequently file a motion for judgment on the pleadings on the same grounds unless there has been a material change in applicable case law or statute since the ruling on the demurrer [CCP § 438(g)(1)].

11.40[5] Party May Make Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings If No Demurrer Filed on Same Grounds.

A party may make a motion for judgment on the pleadings if the party did not demur to the complaint or answer on the same grounds as the motion for judgment on the pleadings [CCP § 438(g)(2); see Yancey v. Superior Court (1994) 28 CA4th 558, 562, 33 CR2d 777 ].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

It is therefore possible to demur to a complaint on one ground, and if the demurrer is overruled, file a motion for judgment on the pleadings on a separate ground, as long as the ground has not been waived by failure to assert it in the demurrer.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of grounds for demurrer that may be waived, see 11.09.

11.40[6] Court Will Consider Allegations of Pleading As True. A motion for judgment on the pleadings is analogous to a demurrer in that the court will consider of all material facts pled to be true unless contrary to law or facts of which the court may take judicial notice [see Parnell v. Adventist Health System/West (2005) 35 C4th 595, 598 ; CD Investment Co. v. California Insurance Guarantee Assn. (2000) 84 CA4th 1410, 1417, 101 CR2d 806 ; Consolidated Fire Protection Dist. v. Howard Jarvis Taxpayers' Assn. (1998) 63 CA4th 211, 219, 73 CR2d 586 ; Mechanical Contractors Assn. v. Greater Bay Area Assn. (1998) 66 CA4th 672, 677, 78 CR2d 225 ].

11.40[7] Court May Consider Matters Only on Face of Pleadings and Matters Subject to Judicial Notice. As with a demurrer, the grounds for a motion for judgment on the pleadings must appear on the face of the challenged pleading or from any matter of which the court may take judicial notice [CCP § 438(d)]. Matters of which the court must take judicial notice under Evid Code § 451 or may take judicial notice under Evid Code § 452 may be considered by the court in ruling on a motion for judgment on the pleadings as long as the matter to be noticed is specified in the notice of motion or memorandum [CCP § 438(d)].

Exceptions:

- The court may consider other facts when the parties enter into a written stipulation concerning those facts and authorize the court to consider that stipulation for purposes of the motion [see North Side Prop. Owners' Ass'n v. Hillside Mem'l Park (1945) 70 CA2d 609, 613-614, 161 P2d 618 ].
- If a motion for summary judgment is treated as a motion for judgment on the pleadings, the court may properly consider the parties' statements of undisputed facts [see Ponderosa Homes, Inc. v. City of San Ramon (1994) 23 CA4th 1761, 1768, 29 CR2d 26 ].
- The court may be able to consider judicial admissions contained in a party's pleadings and in a party's opposition papers [see Setliff v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (1995) 32 CA4th 1525, 1534, 1536-1537, 38 CR2d 763 (court held judicial admissions in plaintiff's amended complaint negated plaintiff's ability to state a cause of action for negligence and products liability under traditional theories and admissions contained in plaintiff's opposition to demurrer also negated plaintiff's ability to state cause of action for products liability under certain theories)].

Trap:

Evid Code §§ 452, 453 permit trial court to take judicial notice of the existence of judicial opinions and court documents, along with the truth of the results reached--in the documents such as orders, statements of decision, and judgments--but the court cannot take judicial notice of the truth of hearsay statements in decisions or court files, including pleadings, affidavits, testimony, or statements of fact [ People v. Woodell (1998) 17 C4th 448, 455, 71 CR2d 241 ; see also Weiner v. Mitchell, Silberberg & Knupp (1980) 114 CA3d 39, 45-47, 170 CR 533 (allowing judicial notice of facts within appellate court opinion)].

11.43 Court May Treat Other Motions As Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings.

A court may treat a motion for summary judgment as a motion for judgment on the pleadings when a motion for summary judgment challenges the sufficiency of the pleadings rather than the evidence supporting the pleadings [see Taylor v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2000) 78 CA4th 472, 479, 92 CR2d 873 ; see also Am. Airlines, Inc. v. County of San Mateo (1996) 12 C4th 1110, 1117-1118, 51 CR2d 251, 912 P2d 1198 ].

A court has also treated a motion to dismiss as a motion for judgment on the pleadings [see Saltarelli & Steronovich v. Douglas (1995) 40 CA4th 1, 4-5, 46 CR2d 683 ].

11.44 Grounds for Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings.

11.44[1] Plaintiff May File Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings Only When the Answer Does Not State Facts Sufficient to Constitute a Defense. When the moving party is a plaintiff, the following ground is the only one available for a motion for judgment on the pleadings [CCP § 438(c)(1)(A)]:

- The complaint states facts sufficient to constitute a cause or causes of action against the defendant and that the answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense to the complaint. This is analogous to a general demurrer.

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of the grounds for general demurrer, see 11.08.

11.44[2] Defendant May File Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings on Two Different Grounds. When the moving party is a defendant, the following grounds are available for a motion for judgment on the pleadings [CCP § 438(c)(1)(B)]:

- The court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the cause of action against that defendant. This is analogous to a ground of special demurrer.
- The complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against that defendant. This is analogous to a general demurrer.

► Cross References:

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
VI. MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.45

11.45 Timing and Format Requirements for Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

11.45[1] Defendant May Make Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings After Time to Demur to Complaint Has Expired. A defendant may make a motion for judgment on the pleadings only after the defendant has filed an answer and the time to demur to the complaint has expired [CCP § 438(f)(2)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of time limitations for demurring to a complaint, see 11.12[1].

11.45[2] Plaintiff May Make Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings After Time to Demur to Answer Has Expired. A plaintiff may make a motion for judgment on the pleadings only after the defendant has filed an answer and the time to demur to the answer has expired [CCP § 438(f)(1)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of time limitations for demurring to an answer, see 11.12[2].

11.45[3] Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings May Not Be Brought After Pretrial Conference Order or Within 30 Days of Date Initially Set for Trial. A motion for judgment on the pleadings may not be brought after a pretrial conference order has been entered pursuant to CCP § 575 or within 30 days of the date the action is initially set for trial, whichever is later, unless the court orders otherwise [CCP § 438(e)]. Good cause is not statutorily required for a court to accept a motion filed late [ Burnett v. Chimney Sweep LLC (2004) 123 CA4th 1057, 1063 ].

11.45[4] Noticed Motion Inferred From Statute, Provides 16 Court Days' Notice of Motion. While CCP § 438 does not specifically state that a noticed motion is required, it refers to a noticed motion in requiring that judicially noticed matters be specified in the notice of motion or memorandum [CCP § 438(d)]. Additionally, a motion to strike an amended pleading filed after a motion for judgment on the pleading is granted with leave to amend must be made under CCP § 1010 requiring written notice [CCP § 438(i)]. Because of the catch-all language of CCP § 1005(a)(13) prescribing notice for proceedings not specified by law or court, provide 16 court days' notice for the motion and include time extensions based on method of service [see CCP § 1005(b)].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
VI. MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.46

11.46 Hearing on and Court's Determination of Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings.

11.46[1] Opposing Party Is Entitled to Hearing. The party whose pleading is being challenged by the motion is entitled to a hearing [see CCP § 1005.5; McDonald v. Severy (1936) 6 C2d 629, 631, 59 P2d 98 ].

11.46[2] Court Must Treat All Allegations in Pleadings As True. In ruling on a motion for judgment on the pleadings, the court must treat all allegations stated in the pleadings as true, unless contrary to law or fact of which the court may take judicial notice [see Sullivan v. County Los Angeles (1974) 12 C3d 710, 714-715 n3, 117 CR 241, 527 P2d 865 ; IMO Dev. Corp. v. Dow Corning Corp. (1982) 135 CA3d 451, 457, 185 CR 341 ; Mechanical Contractors Assn. v. Greater Bay Area Assn. (1998) 66 CA4th 672, 677, 78 CR2d 225 ]. Therefore, the court's determination is strictly one of law [ Ludgate Ins. Co. v. Lockheed Martin Corp. (2000) 82 CA4th 592, 603, 98 CR2d 277 ].

11.46[3] When Plaintiff Brings Motion, Court Considers Allegations of Complaint and Defenses Stated in Answer. When a court rules on a plaintiff's motion for judgment on the pleadings, the court considers the following:

- Whether or not the complaint states a cause of action, and if it does;
- Whether or not the answer states facts sufficient to constitute a defense.

If the complaint states a cause of action, and the answer does not state a defense, the motion is properly granted [CCP § 438(c)(1)(A); see MacIsaac v. Pozzo (1945) 26 C2d 809, 812-813, 161 P2d 449 ; Adjustment Corp. v. Hollywood etc. Co. (1939) 35 CA2d 566, 569, 96 P2d 161 ].

11.46[4] When Defendant Brings Motion, Court Considers Whether Complaint States a Cause of Action or Whether There Is Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction. The court must grant defendant's motion for judgment on the pleadings if it finds either of the following [CCP § 438(c)(1)(B)]:

- The complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against the defendant [see Hibernia S. & L. Soc. v. Thornton (1897) 117 C 481, 482-483, 49 P 573 (failure to state cause of action); Trewin v. State of Cal. (1984) 150 CA3d 975, 981, 198 CR 263 (failure to state cause of action)].

- The court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the cause of action alleged in the complaint.

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
VI. MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.47

11.47 Court's Order on Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings.

11.47[1] Court May Grant Motion With or Without Leave to Amend. The court may grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings with or without leave to amend the complaint or answer [CCP § 438(h)(1)].

11.47[2] Court Must Grant Motion With Leave to Amend If Curing Defect Is Possible. A court must grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings with leave to amend if an amendment curing the defect is possible [see Beverage v. Canton Placer Mining Co. (1955) 43 C2d 769, 778, 278 P2d 694 ; Smiley v. Citibank (1995) 11 C4th 138, 164 n18, 44 CR2d 441, 900 P2d 690 ; Cloud v. Northrop Grumman Corp. (1998) 67 CA4th 995, 1011, 79 CR2d 544 ]. It has been held an abuse of discretion for a court to grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings as to an original complaint without leave to amend when the pleading did not show on its face that it was incapable of amendment [see, e.g., Consolidated Fire Protection Dist. v. Howard Jarvis Taxpayers' Assn. (1998) 63 CA4th 211, 219, 73 CR2d 586 ; Virginia G. v. ABC Unified Sch. Dist. (1993) 15 CA4th 1848, 1852, 19 CR2d 671 ; Schonfeldt v. State of Cal. (1998) 61 CA4th 1462, 1465, 72 CR2d 464 ].

Strategic Point--Opposing Party:

The burden of proving there is a reasonable possibility the defect can be cured by amendment rests with the party whose pleading is attacked [see La Jolla Village Homeowners' Assn. v. Superior Court (1989) 212 CA3d 1131, 1141, 261 CR 146 ]. A plaintiff should indicate the nature of the proposed amendment or the manner in which he or she would amend the complaint [see Tiffany v. Sierra Sands Unified Sch. Dist. (1980) 103 CA3d 218, 226, 162 CR 669 ].

Cross References:

Form of order on a motion for judgment on the pleadings, see 11.64.

Form of judgment for a motion for judgment on the pleadings, see 11.67.

11.47[3] If Motion Is Granted With Leave to Amend, Court Must Allow 30 Days to Amend. When a motion for judgment on the pleadings is granted with leave to file an amended complaint or answer, the court will grant 30 days to the party against whom the motion was granted to file an amended complaint or answer [CCP § 438(h)(2)].

11.47[4] If Party Does Not Amend in a Timely or Proper Fashion, Moving Party May Move for Judgment. If the amended pleading is filed after the time specified in the court's order, the moving party may file a motion to strike the amended pleading and move for entry of judgment in the moving party's favor [CCP §§ 435(b)(1), (e), 438(h)(4)(A), (B), (i)(1)(A)]. The moving party may also move for entry of judgment if the amended pleading violates the court's prior ruling on the motion [CCP §§ 435(b)(1), (e), 438(i)(1)(A)]. If the opposing party fails to file an amended pleading, the moving party must move for entry of judgment in its favor and judgment will be entered [CCP § 438(h)(4)(C), (i)(1)(B)].

All motions for judgment pursuant to CCP § 438(i) must be made pursuant to CCP § 1010 [CCP § 438(i)(2)].

Form of judgment on the pleadings after motion was granted with leave to amend and party failed to amend, see 11.67.

11.47[5] If Motion Is Granted Without Leave to Amend, Court Will Enter Judgment. If a motion for judgment on the pleadings is granted with respect to the entire complaint or answer, without leave to amend, judgment will be entered forthwith in accordance with the motion granting judgment to the moving party [CCP § 438(h)(3)].

A party may seek review of the trial court's determination that leave to amend should not be granted. Denial of leave to amend constitutes an abuse of discretion if the pleading on its face does not show that it is incapable of amendment [see Consolidated Fire Protection Dist. v. Howard Jarvis Taxpayers' Assn. (1998) 63 CA4th 211, 219, 73 CR2d 586 ].

11.47[6] Losing Party May Move for a New Trial. A party may seek relief from judgment on the pleadings in the trial court by moving for a new trial in accordance with CCP § 659 [Carney v. Simmonds (1957) 49 C2d 84, 88-90, 315 P2d 305; Olson v County of Sacramento (1969) 274 CA2d 316, 322, 79 CR 140].

Chapter 11 Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings
VI. MOTIONS FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

1-11 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 11.48

11.48 Obtaining Review of Ruling on Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings.

11.48[1] Order Itself Is Not Reviewable; Subsequent Judgment Is. An order on a motion for judgment on the pleadings is not itself reviewable. The proper procedure is to appeal from the subsequent judgment [ Cream v. Wheatcraft (1953) 115 CA2d 517, 522, 252 P2d 637 ].

11.48[2] Standard of Review on Appeal Is Identical to Demurrer. A judgment on the pleadings is equivalent to a judgment entered after a demurrer is sustained. Therefore, the standard of review of the two judgments on appeal is identical [see Kempton v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 165 CA4th 1344, 1347-1348, 81 CR3d 852 ; Pardee Constr. Co. v. Ins. Co. of the West (2000) 77 CA4th 1340, 1361 n25, 92 CR2d 443 ]. The standard of review when a motion for judgment on the pleadings is denied is the same as the standard for reviewing an overruled demurrer [ McCutchen v. City of Montclair (1999) 73 CA4th 1138, 1144, 87 CR2d 95 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of appellate review of demurrers, see 11.34 -11.36.

11.48[3] Appellate Court Must Accept As True All Well Pled Allegations and Facts. In reviewing a ruling on a motion for judgment on the pleadings, an appellate court must accept as true all well pled allegations and facts [see, e.g., Hong Soo Shin v. Oyoung Kong (2000) 80 CA4th 498, 502 (court accepts as true all well pled allegations in complaint); Sebago, Inc. v. City of Alameda (1989) 211 CA3d 1372, 1379-1380, 259 CR 918 (court accepts as true all properly pled facts in answer and cross-complaint and disregards controverted allegations in complaint); Lumbermens Mut. Cas. Co. v. Vaughn (1988) 199 CA3d 171, 178, 244 CR 567 (facts alleged in attacked pleading accepted as true)].

11.48[4] Reviewing Court May Consider Facts Subject to Judicial Notice As Well As Admissions. In addition to the pleadings, the appellate court may take into account the following:

- Any matter of which a trial court may take judicial notice, even if the trial court refused to take judicial notice of the matter [see CCP § 459; Sebago, Inc. v. City of Alameda (1989) 211 CA3d 1372, 1380, 259 CR 918 ].
- A party's admissions or concessions that cannot reasonably be controverted [ Pang v. Beverly

Hosp., Inc. (2000) 79 CA4th 986, 989-990, 94 CR2d 643 ].

- Judicial admissions contained in a plaintiff's pleading or opposition papers [see Setliff v. E.I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (1995) 32 CA4th 1525, 1534, 1536-1537, 38 CR2d 763 ].

11.48[5] Appellate Court May Also Review Decision to Grant Motion Without Leave to Amend. If a trial court grants a motion for judgment on the pleadings without leave to amend, the decision to not allow amendment is reviewable. It has been held an abuse of discretion for a court to grant a motion for judgment on the pleadings as to an original complaint without leave to amend when the pleading did not show on its face that it was incapable of amendment [see Kempton v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 165 CA4th 1344, 1347-1348, 81 CR3d 852 ; Consolidated Fire Protection Dist. v. Howard Jarvis Taxpayers' Assn. (1998) 63 CA4th 211, 219, 73 CR2d 586 ].

11.48[6] Review of Ruling May Be Available by Mandate. Review by mandate may be appropriate in the following situations:

- When an order grants a motion for judgment on the pleadings and disposes to one or more causes of action, parties, or defenses, but does not dispose of the entire case [see, e.g., La Jolla Village Homeowners' Assn. v. Superior Court (1989) 212 CA3d 1131, 1140-1141, 261 CR 146 ].
- When a motion for judgment on the pleadings is denied and the issue is purely legal in nature and if significant legal import [ Am. Int'l Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (1991) 234 CA3d 749, 755, 285 CR 765 ].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
I. STRATEGY

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.01

18.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Objectives and strategy for injunctions [see 18.02].
- Situations subject to injunctive relief [see 18.05 -18.06].
- Seeking injunctive relief [see 18.03, 18.04, 18.07-18.11; Forms: see 18.26 -18.30] and opposing injunctive relief [see 18.12 -18.14; Forms: see 18.31 -18.33].
- Dissolving or modifying an injunction [see 18.15 -18.18; Forms: see 18.34, 18.35].
- Enforcing an injunction [see 18.19, 18.20], including filing a motion for contempt [see 18.21].
- Appealing the grant or denial of injunctive relief [see 18.22 -18.25].

This chapter does not discuss permanent injunctions. For discussion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions (Matthew Bender).

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
I. STRATEGY

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.02

18.02 Objective and Strategy.

An injunction is an equitable remedy used to prevent a party from committing a particular act (prohibitory injunction) or to compel a party to do an affirmative act (mandatory injunction).

A temporary restraining order (TRO) is issued to preserve the status quo for a very short period pending a determination of whether a party is entitled to a preliminary injunction. A TRO may be issued ex parte. A preliminary injunction is issued to preserve the status quo during litigation pending a decision on the merits.

Strategic Point--Review Local Court Rules:

Although Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.20 preempts most local court rules governing provisional remedies, some local rules remain concerning certain procedural matters. You should consult those local rules.

Strategic Point:

Counsel need to make sure that the act or acts sought to be restrained or prohibited are imminent. Even if the harm threatened is irreparable it must still be imminent. Specifically, notwithstanding the scheduled destruction of an object if that destruction is not going to take place for a number of months--do not show up requesting an immediate TRO. These are extraordinary remedies that require not only the court's immediate attention but caution in fashioning the appropriate remedy so that there is no interference with someone's rights and due process.

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions (Matthew Bender).

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
II. SEEKING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.03

18.03 CHECKLIST: Seeking Injunctive Relief.

☐ Determine nature of relief sought:

- ☐ Mandatory injunction;
- ☐ Prohibitory injunction; or
- ☐ Mixture of both.

Discussion:

See 18.07

☐ Decide whether to seek TRO.

Authority:

CCP § 527(c)

Discussion:

See 18.10[3][b]

☐ Determine whom to enjoin, what class of parties to enjoin, or both.

Discussion:

See 18.08

☐ Decide whether to also seek damages.

Discussion:

See 18.04[2]

☐ If seeking TRO:

☐ Prepare and file:

☐ Complaint, verified if it is to be used to prove facts.

☐ Ex parte application, supporting declaration, and supporting memorandum for TRO and order to show cause, and supporting declaration re advance notification.

Authority:

CCP § 527(c); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1150(e), 3.1201

Content Note:

The application must state the fact and result of any previous application to a judicial officer for similar relief.

Discussion:

See 18.10[3][a], [b]

Forms:

See 18.26 (complaint), 18.27 (application)

☐ Proposed order to show cause and TRO.

Prerequisite:

If the action is initiated on the same day as the order to show cause is sought, complaint must be filed first. If the action was initiated earlier, request that court file be made available to the judge hearing the application.

Timing:

The hearing on the order to show cause must be held not later than 15 days or, if good cause appears to the court, 22 days after the date that the TRO is issued.

Authority:

CCP § 527(d)(1); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1150(b), 3.1200 et seq.

Discussion:

See 18.10[3][b]; 18.10[4][g]

Form:

See 18.28

☐ Appear at TRO hearing.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(d)

Discussion:

See 18.10[3][c]

- ☐ If TRO is granted ex parte, serve on opposing party:
- ☐ Order to show cause on opposing party as to why preliminary injunction should not be granted.

Authority:

CCP § 527(d)(1), (2); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1150(a)

Discussion:

See 18.10[4][a]

- ☐ All affidavits or declarations and memorandum in support of application.

Authority:

CCP § 527(d)(2)

Discussion:

See 18.10[4][c]

- ☐ Complaint, if not previously served.

Timing:

The opposing party must be served with the order to show cause, verified complaint, declarations or affidavits, and supporting memorandum within five days after the date that the TRO was issued or two days prior to the hearing, whichever is earlier, or the TRO will be dissolved.

Authority:

CCP § 527(d)(2)

Discussion:

See 18.10[4][c], [d]

- ☐ If unable to serve the opposing party within the required time period, file an affidavit stating that the opposing party could not be served within the time required and ask the court to reissue the order to show cause and the TRO.

Authority:

CCP § 572(d)(5)

Discussion:

See 18.10[4][e]

- ☐ If TRO granted with notice to opposing party, serve motion and notice of motion for preliminary injunction, supporting declaration, and supporting memorandum.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)

Discussion:

See 18.10[4][b]

Form:

See 18.29

- ☐ File an undertaking if required by the court.

Discussion:

See 18.10[4][f], 18.11[6]

- ☐ If TRO is not granted:

- ☐ Appeal decision, or

Checklist for Appealing Denial of TRO:

See 18.22[2]

Authority:

CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases)

Discussion:

See 18.10[5][a]

- ☐ Follow procedure to obtain preliminary injunction.

Discussion:

See 18.10[5][b]

- ☐ If only preliminary injunction is sought:

- ☐ Prepare and file:

☐ If not previously filed, complaint for preliminary injunction, and damages (if damages are also sought).

☐ Supporting affidavits or declarations and a supporting memorandum.

Discussion:

See 18.11[3][a]

Form:

See 18.26 (complaint)

- ☐ Order to show cause as to why preliminary injunction should not be granted.

Exception:

If opposing party has already appeared in the action, an order to show cause is not needed. You can seek a preliminary injunction by motion with CCP § 1005 notice. You must file a motion and notice of motion for preliminary injunction, including affidavits or declarations and supporting memorandum.

Form:

See 18.29

Prerequisite:

If the action is initiated on the same day that an order to show cause is filed, complaint must be filed first.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a), (b)

Discussion:

See 18.11[3][a], [4][a]

Form:

See 18.28

- ☐ Obtain judge's signature on order to show cause.

- ☐ Serve on opposing party:

- ☐ If not previously served, verified complaint.
- ☐ Affidavits or declarations and a memorandum in support of the application.
- ☐ Order to show cause.

Exception:

If opposing party has already appeared in the action, instead of serving an order to show cause, serve the motion and notice of motion for preliminary injunction, including affidavits or declarations and supporting memorandum, following standard noticed motion procedure.

Form:

See 18.29

Authority:

CCP § 527(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)

Discussion:

See 18.11[3][b], [4][b]

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

☐ If preliminary injunction is granted:

☐ Obtain undertaking in amount ordered by court.

Exception:

Undertaking requirement not applicable to:

- Either spouse against the other in a proceeding for legal separation or dissolution of marriage.
- The applicant for an order under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [see Fam Code §§ 6200-6219].
- The federal or California state government, counties, cities, districts or other political subdivisions of the state or officers of those public entities acting in their official capacity [see CCP § 995.220].
- A poor or indigent applicant.
- Waiver by defendant.

Timing:

The undertaking must be presented to the judge with the proposed preliminary injunction order within one court day after the granting of the injunction, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

Authority:

CCP § 529(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(f)

Discussion:

See 18.11[5][a], [6]

☐ Present order to the judge for signature.

Content Note:

The terms of the order must not be vague or so uncertain or ambiguous that the opposing party cannot determine from the order what that party may or may not do.

Timing:

The order must be presented to the judge within one court day after the granting of the injunction, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(f)

Discussion:

See 18.11[5][b], [c]

Form:

See 18.30

- ☐ Serve preliminary injunction order signed by judge on opposing party.

Discussion:

See 18.11[5][d]

- ☐ If preliminary injunction is not granted:

- ☐ Appeal decision, or
- ☐ Proceed to trial on the merits of the underlying action.

Authority:

18.04 Options and Strategies for Applicant.

18.04[1] TRO Allows Prompt Action to Maintain Endangered Status Quo. Unlike a preliminary injunction, a TRO may be granted on shortened or no notice. This requires the recital of specific facts tending to show that great or irreparable injury will result to the applicant before the matter could be heard on notice [see CCP § 527(c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of procedure for obtaining a TRO, see 18.10.

18.04[2] Injunction and Monetary Damages Can Be Sought in Same Action. Although an injunction is an equitable remedy, an action can seek both injunctive relief and money damages.

Example:

A construction company sought damages in a breach of contract action against a sewer district and also sought an injunction to prevent the district from expending any monies for the construction from a specified fund. The court granted a preliminary injunction on the grounds that the district's alleged insolvency was a proper matter for consideration when contemplating an injunction because otherwise the district could have stripped itself of all assets and made it impossible to pay any judgment that might be secured [ West Coast Constr. Co. v. Oceano Sanitary Dist. (1971) 17 CA3d 693, 700, 95 CR 169 ].

18.04[3] Injunctive Relief Can Be Sought in a Class Action. A TRO or a preliminary injunction, or both, may be granted in a class action, in which one or more of the parties sues or defends for the benefit of numerous parties on the same grounds as in other actions, whether or not the class has been certified [CCP § 527(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion, see Ch. 33, Class Actions, 33.35.

18.04[4] Decide Whether to Seek Mandatory or Prohibitory Injunction. Whether the injunction sought is mandatory or prohibitory largely depends on what remedy is sought. If you seek to restrain a party from a course of conduct or to stop a particular condition, then the injunction is likely prohibitory. If you seek to compel a party to perform a certain act, then the injunction is likely mandatory. An injunction can contain both mandatory and prohibitory features. Although only mandatory injunctions are automatically stayed on appeal, courts are reluctant to grant them absent of a clear finding of irreparable injury if the injunction is not granted.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Whenever possible, frame the injunctive relief as prohibitory rather than mandatory so that it is clear that the relief is prohibitory. For example, to retain the status quo in a dispute over the right to cut trees, rather than seeking an injunction ordering defendant to maintain the trees, seek an order that defendant refrain from cutting them. Although there is no real difference and analytically either injunction would be prohibitory, the latter phrasing makes this immediately apparent.

Cross References:

Discussion of mandatory versus prohibitory injunctions, see 18.07.

Examples of mandatory injunctions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions, § 303.11[4] (Matthew Bender).

18.04[5] Automatic Stay Upon Appeal of Special Motion to Strike Does Not Preclude Granting Preliminary Injunction. While the appeal of the trial court's decision on an anti-SLAPP special motion to strike removes the trial court's jurisdiction over the merits of the case, it does not preclude the trial court from granting a preliminary injunction based on the court's evaluation of the controversy on the record before it at the time of its ruling [ Novartis Vaccines & Diagnostics, Inc. v. Stop Huntingdon Animal Cruelty USA, Inc. (2006) 143 CA4th 1284, 1302, 50 CR3d 27 ].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
II. SEEKING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.07

18.07 Mandatory v. Prohibitory Injunction.

18.07[1] Courts Look to Substance, Not Form, As Determining Factor. An injunction is mandatory if it compels performance of an affirmative act that changes the position of the parties and prohibitory if it requires a person to refrain from a particular act [ People ex rel. Brown v. iMergent, Inc. (2009) 170 CA4th 333, 343, 87 CR3d 844 (injunction compelling parties to abide by their agreement and to maintain the status quo that was established when they stipulated to final judgment and permanent injunction in prior action was prohibitory); Davenport v. Blue Cross of Cal. (1997) 52 CA4th 435, 446, 60 CR2d 641 ]. In deciding whether an injunction is mandatory or prohibitory, courts will look to the substance and not the form of the injunction as the determining factor [ People ex rel. Brown v. iMergent, Inc. (2009) 170 CA4th 333, 343, 87 CR3d 844 ; Davenport v. Blue Cross of Cal. (1997) 52 CA4th 435, 447, 60 CR2d 641 ].

18.07[2] Courts Rarely Grant Mandatory Injunctions. A preliminary mandatory injunction is rarely granted, and it is not permitted except in extreme cases in which the right is clearly established and it appears that irreparable injury will flow from its refusal [ Board of Supervisors v. McMahon (1990) 219 CA3d 286, 295, 268 CR 219 ].

18.07[3] Mandatory Injunction Is Automatically Stayed Pending Appeal. The question of whether the injunction is mandatory or prohibitory becomes important on appeal because only mandatory injunctions are automatically stayed on appeal [ Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Tex-Cal Land Mgmt., Inc. (1987) 43 C3d 696, 706, 238 CR 780, 739 P2d 140 ].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
II. SEEKING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.08

18.08 Injunction May Extend to Nonparties.

Any person, even one who was not a party to the original action, may be enjoined and held guilty of contempt for noncompliance. An injunction can run to classes of persons through whom the enjoined person may act, such as agents, servants, employees, aiders, and abettors [ People ex rel. Gallo v. Acuna (1997) 14 C4th 1090, 1124-1125, 60 CR2d 277, 929 P2d 596 ; Berger v. Superior Court (1917) 175 C 719, 721, 167 P 143 ].

Strategic Point--Applicant:

To be able to enforce an injunction against a person, it is necessary that the person either be included in the injunction order or have been acting in concert with an enjoined person [ Berger v. Superior Court (1917) 175 C 719, 722, 167 P 143 ("there can be no disobedience of an injunction by a person who is not included in the mandate of the court, either by name or as a member of a class of persons which is properly included, and who is not acting as an aider and abettor of one so included in the assertion of his [or her] claims")]. Therefore, the injunction order should include the classes of persons through whom the enjoined person may act.

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
II. SEEKING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.09

18.09 Where to File Complaint or Application.

18.09[1] Jurisdiction Is in Superior Court. An injunction must be sought in superior court because the Supreme Court and the courts of appeals lack jurisdiction to issue injunctions [ Modern Barber Coll., Inc. v. Cal. Employment Stabilization Comm'n (1948) 31 C2d 720, 730, 192 P2d 916 ]. A TRO or a preliminary injunction may be granted by the court in which the action is brought or by a judge of that court, and when granted by a judge, it may be enforced as an order of the court [see CCP § 525].

18.09[2] Action Seeking Permanent Injunction Must Be Filed As Unlimited Civil Case. An action seeking permanent injunctive relief must be filed as an unlimited civil case, except as otherwise authorized by statute [CCP §§ 88, 580(b)(2)].

18.09[3] TROs and Preliminary Injunctions May Be Issued in Limited As Well As Unlimited Civil Cases. In a limited civil case, superior courts have jurisdiction to grant only TROs and preliminary injunctions, but not permanent injunctions, except as otherwise authorized by statute [CCP §§ 86(a)(8), 580(b)(2)].

18.09[4] No Special Venue Rules Apply to Injunctive Relief. To grant an injunction the court must have personal jurisdiction over the person enjoined [ Rothschild v. Erda (1968) 258 CA2d 750, 753, 66 CR 209 ]. Venue is generally proper in the county in which the opposing party resides at the time of commencement of the action [CCP § 395(a)]. If the opposing party is a corporation, the provisions on venue for corporations apply [CCP §§ 392-395.5].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
II. SEEKING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.10

18.10 TRO.

18.10[1] When Permitted. A TRO may be granted in the same situations as a preliminary injunction may be granted.

➡ Cross Reference:

See 18.11[1].

18.10[2] When Not Permitted. A TRO may not be granted in the same situations as a preliminary injunction may not be granted.

➡ Cross Reference:

See 18.11[2].

18.10[3] Procedure to Obtain TRO.

18.10[3][a] Based on Verified Complaint, Declarations or Affidavits, With Supporting Memorandum and Proposed Order. A TRO can be obtained by filing a verified complaint or affidavits or declarations and a proposed order. If the TRO is sought ex parte, a supporting memorandum is required [CCP §§ 527(d)(2)(a), 2015.5; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201]. If the action is initiated on the same day that a TRO or order to show cause is sought, the complaint must be filed first [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(b)]. If an application for a TRO is made in an existing action, the applicant must request that the court file be made available to the judge hearing the application. [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(b)]. An application for a TRO must state the fact and result of any previous application to a judicial officer for similar relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(e)].

Exception:

Unless otherwise ordered by the court, a memorandum is not required in order to obtain a TRO under CCP § 527.6 (harassment) or CCP § 527.8 (workplace violence) [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1152(b)].

Warning--Criminal Penalties for Perjury:

Because injunctive relief may be issued only on a satisfactory showing of sufficient facts under oath, the declarants are subject to criminal sanctions for perjury [ Ancora-Citronelle Corp. v. Green (1974) 41 CA3d 146, 148-149, 115 CR 879 ].

Strategic Points--Applicant:

Although declarations or affidavits are not required, it is advisable not to rely solely on a verified complaint because CCP § 446 limits the evidentiary value of a verified complaint. In addition, an ex parte TRO will not be granted solely on statements made on information and belief [ Low v. Low (1956) 143 CA2d 650, 654, 299 P2d 1022 ].

If declarations or affidavits are filed, the complaint need not be verified.

Strategic Point--Supporting Memorandum:

Although a memorandum is not required in support of a TRO, unless sought ex parte [CCP § 527(d)(2); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201], citation to any authority supporting the issuance of the TRO is advisable to bolster the request for a TRO.

Cross References:

Form, see 18.26. Format of citations to legal sources, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.06[9]. Exclusion or redaction of social security and financial account numbers from documents filed in the court's public file, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.06[10].

Memoranda supporting the issuance of injunctions, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions (Matthew Bender).

18.10[3][b] TRO May Be Issued Ex Parte. A TRO may be obtained ex parte if, in the judge's discretion, it appears from facts shown by affidavit or declaration, or by the verified complaint, that great or irreparable injury will result to the applicant before the matter could be heard on notice [CCP § 527(c)(1)]. The affidavit, declaration, or verified complaint must state the specific facts on which relief is sought [ Low v. Low (1956) 143 CA2d 650, 654, 299 P2d 1022 ]. The applicant or the party's attorney must certify, under oath or by declaration under penalty of perjury, one of the following [CCP § 527(c)(2); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1150(g), 3.1204(b)]:

- No later than 10:00 a.m. on the court day prior to the application, the applicant informed the opposing party or the party's attorney of the time and place that the application would be made and that, within the applicable time under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1203, the applicant informed the opposing party where and when the application would be made.
- The applicant in good faith attempted to inform the opposing party or the party's attorney of the time and place that the application would be made, but was unable to do so, specifying the efforts made.
- For reasons specified, the applicant should not be required to inform the opposing party or the opposing party's attorney of the time and place that the application would be made.

The ex parte application must also include a proposed TRO [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1201(5)].

Exceptions:

- The certification requirement does not apply to orders issued under the Family Code [CCP § 527(g)].
- Notice later than 10:00 a.m. on the court day before the ex parte appearance can be given if the declaration regarding notice explains the exceptional circumstances that justify the shorter notice, or in unlawful detainer proceedings, explains why the notice given is reasonable [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1204(c)].
- An injunction may not be allowed after the defendant has answered, unless on notice or on an order to show cause [CCP § 528].

Cross References:

Form, see 18.27, Ex Parte Application for TRO.

Form, see 18.28, Order to Show Cause Re Preliminary Injunction and TRO.

18.10[3][c] Personal Presence at Hearing Is Required. A TRO will not be granted unless the applicant or counsel is personally present at the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(d)].

18.10[4] If TRO Is Granted.

18.10[4][a] If TRO Granted Without Notice, Order to Show Cause As to Why Preliminary Injunction Should Not Be Granted Must Be Served on Opposing Party. If the TRO was granted without notice in the manner described in 18.10[3][b], the order served on the opposing party must be accompanied by an order to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be granted [CCP § 527(d)(1); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)]. Although the two orders can be in the same document, the order to show cause and the TRO must be stated separately, with the order to show cause stated first [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(c)]. The restraining language sought in an order to show cause and the TRO must be separately stated in the order to show cause and the TRO and may not be incorporated by reference. The order to show cause must describe the injunction to be sought at the hearing. The TRO must describe the activities to be enjoined pending the preliminary injunction hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(c)].

Warning:

If the TRO was granted ex parte, the order to show cause is necessary even if the opposing party has actual notice of the action [ Chrysler Credit Corp. v. Waegle (1972) 29 CA3d 681, 688, 105 CR 914 ("until legal service of process has been made, the court has no jurisdiction to render judgment, even though the defendant may have actual knowledge of the pendency of the action")].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 18.28.

18.10[4][b] If TRO Granted After Appearance of Opposing Party, Motion and Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction on Opposing Party, Including Supporting Declarations, and Supporting Memorandum, May Be Served. If the TRO was granted after the opposing party had already appeared in the action, the order need not be accompanied by an order to show cause. Instead, a motion and notice of motion for preliminary injunction is served on the opposing party, including supporting declarations or affidavits and a supporting memorandum [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)].

Cross References:

Form, see 18.29.

For memoranda supporting the issuance of injunctions, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 116, Injunctions (Matthew Bender).

18.10[4][c] If Not Previously Served, Verified Complaint, Declarations or Affidavits, and Supporting Memorandum, Must Be Served on Opposing Party. If the TRO was granted without notice in the manner described in 18.10[3][b], and if not previously served, you must serve the opposing party with the verified complaint, declarations or affidavits, and supporting memorandum filed with the court pursuant to discussion in 18.10[3][a] [CCP § 527(d)(2)].

18.10[4][d] Timing of Service of Papers, If TRO Granted Without Notice. If the TRO was granted without notice in the manner described in 18.10[3][b], the opposing party must be served with the order to show cause, complaint, declarations or affidavits, and supporting memorandum within five days after the date that the TRO was issued or two days prior to the hearing, whichever is earlier [CCP § 527(d)(2)]. The court may for good cause, on motion of the applicant or on its own motion, shorten the time required for service on the opposing party [CCP § 527(d)(2)].

Warning:

If copies of the order to show cause, complaint, declarations or affidavits, and supporting memorandum are not served within the required time period, the court must dissolve the TRO [CCP § 527(d)(3)].

18.10[4][e] TRO Can Be Reissued If Notice Could Not Be Served Within Required Time. If the opposing party could not be served within the time required by CCP § 527(d)(2), the court, on the filing of an affidavit by the applicant that the opposing party could not be served within the time required, may reissue any TRO previously issued. The time for hearing is measured from the date of reissuance. No fees are charged for reissuing the order [CCP § 527(d)(5)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions, § 303.142 (Matthew Bender).

18.10[4][f] Court Has the Authority to Require an Undertaking. Although an undertaking is not absolutely required for the issuance of a TRO, the court does have the authority to require an undertaking [ Biasca v. Superior Court (1924) 194 C 366, 367, 228 P 861 ].

Strategic Point--Make Arrangements for Undertaking in Advance:

Because an undertaking may be required during the duration of a TRO and is absolutely required for a preliminary injunction (subject to certain specific exceptions), you should obtain financial information from the client and make arrangements from a bonding company for a bond in advance of seeking injunctive relief, subject only to the amount.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the requirement for an undertaking and exemptions, see 18.11[6].

18.10[4][g] Deadline for Preliminary Injunction Hearing. The hearing on the order to show cause must be held not later than 15 days or, if good cause appears to the court, 22 days after the date that the TRO is issued [CCP § 527(d)(1)].

Warning:

If the applicant is not ready to proceed at the time of the preliminary injunction hearing, the court must dissolve the TRO [CCP § 527(d)(3)].

18.10[4][h] TRO Limited in Duration. A TRO expires under any of the following circumstances:

- After the expiration of the 15-day or 22-day time period in which to hold a hearing on the order to show cause, if no action is taken [CCP § 527(d)(1)].
- If a preliminary injunction is denied [ Landmark Holding Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 193 CA3d 525, 529, 238 CR 475 ].
- If a preliminary injunction is granted, after the required undertaking is obtained and the necessary notice is given [ Houser v. Superior Court (1932) 121 CA 31, 35, 8 P2d 483 ].

18.10[5] If TRO Not Granted.

18.10[5][a] Decision to Deny TRO Is Separately Appealable. The decision to deny a TRO is separately appealable [CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases); McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 CA3d 343, 357, 100 CR 258 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of the aspects of appealing the denial of a TRO, see 18.23[1].

18.10[5][b] Preliminary Injunction Can Be Sought. Instead of appealing the denial of a TRO, the applicant can file an application for a preliminary injunction, if one was not sought in the original complaint for a TRO. Even if the TRO was originally granted, but later expired without the grant or denial of a preliminary injunction, the applicant can still seek and obtain a preliminary injunction [ McDonald v. Superior Court (1937) 18 CA2d 652, 656, 64 P2d 738 ].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
II. SEEKING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.11

18.11 Preliminary Injunction.

18.11[1] When Permitted.

18.11[1][a] Applicant Likely to Prevail on Merits and Harm to Opposing Party Outweighed by Harm to Applicant. An injunction may be granted when it appears by the complaint that the applicant is entitled to the relief demanded and that the relief, or any part of it, consists of restraining the commission or continuance of the act complained of (or commanding certain conduct), either for a limited period or perpetually [CCP § 526(a)(1)]. In deciding whether an injunction should issue, the trial court must evaluate two interrelated factors: (1) the likelihood that the applicant will prevail on the merits at trial; and (2) the interim harm that the applicant is likely to sustain if the injunction were denied, as compared to the harm that the opposing party is likely to suffer if the preliminary injunction were issued [ Langford v. Superior Court (1987) 43 C3d 21, 28, 233 CR 387, 729 P2d 822 ; IT Corp. v. County of Imperial (1983) 35 C3d 63, 69-70, 196 CR 715, 672 P2d 121 ].

Warning:

The more likely it is that plaintiffs will ultimately prevail, the less severe must be the harm that they allege will occur if the injunction does not issue. This is especially true when the requested injunction maintains, rather than alters, the status quo. The presence or absence of these interrelated factors is usually a matter of degree, and if the party seeking the injunction can make a sufficiently strong showing of likelihood of success on the merits, the trial court has discretion to issue the injunction notwithstanding that party's inability to show that the balance of harms tips in his or her favor [ Right Site Coalition v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (2008) 160 CA4th 336, 342, 72 CR3d 678 ]. At the same time, be sure the court considers both elements and is reflected in the order. Even if the applicant makes a sufficiently strong showing of the likelihood of success on the merits, the preliminary injunction will not be upheld if the court failed to consider the relative balance of hardships [ White v. Davis (2003) 30 C4th 528, 560-561, 133 CR2d 648 ]. Likewise, a trial court's denial of a preliminary injunction, without any consideration of the "likelihood of prevailing on the merits" factor, is clearly erroneous [ Right Site Coalition v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (2008) 160 CA4th 336, 344, 72 CR3d 678 (remanded for determination)].

18.11[1][b] To Prevent Waste or Irreparable Injury. An injunction may be granted if it appears by the complaint or affidavits that the commission or continuance of some act during the litigation would produce waste, or great or irreparable injury, to a party to the action [CCP § 526(a)(2); City of Torrance v. Transitional Living Ctrs. for Los Angeles, Inc. (1982) 30 C3d 516, 526, 179 CR 907, 638 P2d 1304 ].

18.11[1][c] To Prevent Violation of Rights. An injunction may be granted if it appears during the litigation that a party to the action is doing, threatens, is about to do, or is procuring or suffering to be done, some act in violation of the rights of another party to the action respecting the subject of the action and tending to render the judgment ineffectual [CCP § 526(a)(3)].

18.11[1][d] Legal Remedy Inadequate. An injunction may be granted if pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief [CCP § 526(a)(4)]. This basis for granting injunctive relief factually overlaps with the irreparable injury basis [ Jessen v. Keystone Savings & Loan Assn. (1983) 142 CA3d 454, 457, 191 CR 104 (irreparable injury is one not susceptible to monetary valuation or one involving item so unique that its loss deprives possessor of intrinsic values not replaceable by money or in kind)].

Warning:

"Pecuniary compensation" is not limited to monetary damages. Other legal remedies may be adequate and preclude the issuance of a preliminary injunction, such as an administrative remedy that has not been exhausted [ Teeter v. City of Los Angeles (1930) 209 C 685, 687, 290 P 11 ], quo warranto [ Hallinan v. Mellon (1963) 218 CA2d 342, 344-348, 32 CR 446 ], a writ of mandate [ Moore v. Superior Court (1936) 6 C2d 421, 423-424, 57 P2d 1314 ], or the availability of an appeal, a motion to vacate, or a motion to modify a court's judgment [ Lezama v. Justice Court (1987) 190 CA3d 15, 21, 235 CR 238 ].

18.11[1][e] Monetary Damages Difficult to Ascertain. An injunction may be granted if it would be extremely difficult to ascertain the amount of compensation that would afford adequate relief [CCP § 526(a)(5)].

Distinguish:

The orientation of an action for injunctive relief is prospective, not retrospective. If a plaintiff can show that defendant's conduct threatens him with unlawful injury, plaintiff's inability to quantify the harm already suffered, or likely to be suffered, is not a ground for denying injunctive relief. On the contrary, extreme difficulty in ascertaining damages is a factor favoring injunctive relief. The fact that a party is not prepared to provide a precise calculation of damages at a preliminary stage of litigation does not preclude a court from determining that the party will be able, at trial, to prove damages with sufficient certainty to support compensatory relief [ Huong Que, Inc. v. Luu (2007) 150 CA4th 400, 418, 58 CR3d 527 ].

18.11[1][f] To Avoid Multiplicity of Suits. An injunction may be granted if it is necessary to prevent a multiplicity of judicial proceedings [CCP § 526(a)(6)]. There are two classes of cases in which injunctions are issued to prevent a multiplicity of actions: (1) cases in which many claims that have not been adjudicated are brought into equity to be made the subject of a single trial and decree; and (2) cases that are shown to be vexatious suits on causes of action that have been settled by former adjudication [ Verdier v. Verdier (1962) 203 CA2d 724, 735, 22 CR 93 ].

18.11[1][g] To Enforce Trust Obligation. An injunction may be granted if the obligation involved arises from a trust [CCP § 526(a)(7)].

18.11[1][h] If Authorized Specifically by Statute. If a statute authorizes the granting of a preliminary injunction for its violation and if the statutory conditions for the injunction's issuance are met, the applicant need not show irreparable injury or inadequacy of a remedy at law [ In re Marriage of Van Hook (1983) 147 CA3d 970, 984-985, 195 CR 541 ].

Cross Reference:

Listing of statutes authorizing the grant of an injunction without a showing of irreparable injury and inadequacy of a remedy at law, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions, § 303.40[8] (Matthew Bender).

18.11[2] When Not Permitted.

18.11[2][a] To Stay Pending Judicial Proceeding, Unless Necessary to Prevent Multiplicity of Suits. An injunction may not be granted to stay a judicial proceeding pending at the commencement of the action in which the injunction is demanded, unless the restraint is necessary to prevent a multiplicity of proceedings [CC § 3423(a); CCP § 526(b)(1)].

18.11[2][b] To Stay Judicial Proceeding in Federal Court. An injunction may not be granted to stay proceedings in federal court [CC § 3423(b); CCP § 526(b)(2)].

18.11[2][c] To Stay Judicial Proceeding in Another State on Judgment of Court of That State. An injunction may not be granted to stay proceedings in another state on a judgment of a court of that state [CC § 3423(c); CCP § 526(b)(3)].

18.11[2][d] To Prevent the Execution of a Public Statute for Public Benefit by Officers of Law. An injunction may not be granted to prevent the execution of a public statute or ordinance, for the public benefit, by officers of the law [CC § 3423(d); CCP § 526(b)(4); Agric. Labor Relations Bd. v. Superior Court (1976) 16 C3d 392, 401, 128 CR 183, 546 P2d 687 ].

Exceptions:

An injunction against the execution of a statute or ordinance may be permitted if [ Alfaro v. Terhune (2002) 98 CA4th 492, 501, 120 CR2d 197 ]:

- The statute is unconstitutional or invalid, and the applicant shows irreparable harm pending a trial on the merits [ Leach v. City of San Marcos (1989) 213 CA3d 648, 660-661, 261 CR 805 ].

- The statute or ordinance is valid, but is enforced in an unconstitutional manner [ Brock v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County (1939) 12 C2d 605, 605-609, 610, 86 P2d 805 ]. The presumption is that of good faith on the part of the public official, and the burden of proof is on the complaining party [ City of Banning v. Desert Outdoor Advert., Inc. (1962) 209 CA2d 152, 155, 25 CR 621 ].

- The statute is valid but, as construed, does not apply to the conduct sought to be enjoined [ City of San Jose v. Dep't of Health Servs. (1998) 66 CA4th 35, 47, 77 CR2d 609 ].

- The public official's action exceeds his or her authority [ Fin. Indem. Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 45 C2d 395, 402, 289 P2d 233 ].

18.11[2][e] To Prevent Breach of Contract Not Specifically Enforceable. An injunction may not be granted to prevent the breach of a contract, if the performance of that contract could not be specifically enforced [CC § 3423(e); CCP § 526(b)(5)].

Exception:

A court may order an injunction to prevent the breach of a contract if the contract meets all of the following requirements [CC § 3423(e); CCP § 526(b)(5)]:

- The contract is in writing.
- The contract is for the rendition or furnishing of personal services from one person to another.
- The contract is for a certain specified minimum annual compensation.
- The contract is one in which the promised services are of a special, unique, unusual, extraordinary, or intellectual character, which gives the contract peculiar value, the loss of which could not be reasonably or adequately compensated in damages in an action at law.

18.11[2][f] To Enjoin the Lawful Exercise of Public or Private Office by Officeholder. An injunction may not be granted to prevent the exercise of a public or private office, in a lawful manner, by the person in possession of that office [CC § 3423(f); CCP § 526(b)(6)].

18.11[2][g] To Prevent Legislative Act by Municipal Corporation. An injunction may not be granted to prevent a legislative act by a municipal corporation [CC § 3423(g); CCP § 526(b)(7)].

18.11[2][h] Where an Injunction Would Cause Injury to Public Interest for Which Bond Could Not Compensate. An injunction may not be granted if it would cause injury to a public interest for which a bond could not compensate.

Example:

A communist organization campaign committee sought an injunction to prevent disclosure of its contributor list to the state under campaign finance laws. The court denied an injunction on the basis that the state had a compelling interest in fair disclosure of campaign financing [ Socialist Workers 1974 Cal. Campaign Comm. v. Brown (1975) 53 CA3d 879, 889 ].

18.11[3] Procedure to Obtain Preliminary Injunction Against Party Who Has Not Appeared in Action.

18.11[3][a] Based on Verified Complaint for Preliminary Injunction, Including Order to Show Cause, Affidavits or Declarations, and Supporting Memorandum. If it has not been filed previously, you must file the complaint for preliminary injunction, including affidavits or declarations and a supporting memorandum. In addition, an order to show cause must be filed that, when served on the opposing party, will serve as a notice of the preliminary injunction hearing and a summons giving the court personal jurisdiction over the opposing party. If the action is initiated on the same day that the order to show cause is sought, the complaint must be filed first [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(b)]. If the action was initiated prior to the day that the order to show cause is filed, you must request that the court file be made available to the judge hearing the request for injunctive relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(b)]. A request for an injunction must state the fact and result of any previous request to a judicial officer for similar relief [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(e)].

Warning:

Because injunctive relief may be issued only on a satisfactory showing of sufficient facts under oath, the declarants are subject to criminal sanctions for perjury [ Ancora-Citronelle Corp. v. Green (1974) 41 CA3d 146, 148, 115 CR 879 ].

Strategic Point:

Although a supporting memorandum is not required in support of a preliminary injunction, citation to any authority supporting the issuance of the injunction is advisable to bolster the request.

18.11[3][b] All Papers Must Be Served on Opposing Party. A preliminary injunction may not be granted without notice to the opposing party [CCP § 527(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)]. The verified complaint, order to show cause, affidavits or declaration, and supporting memorandum must be served on the opposing party.

 Cross Reference:

Detailed discussion of the procedures for notice, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

18.11[4] Procedure to Obtain Preliminary Injunction Against Party Who Has Appeared in Action.

18.11[4][a] Based on Motion and Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction, Including Affidavits or Declarations and Supporting Memorandum. If the opposing party has already appeared in the action, it is not necessary to have an order to show cause issued. You can seek a preliminary injunction by the noticed--motion procedure under CCP § 1005 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)]. You must file a motion and notice of motion for preliminary injunction, including affidavits or declarations and a supporting memorandum.

Warning--Criminal Penalties for Perjury:

Because injunctive relief may be issued only on a satisfactory showing of sufficient facts under oath, the declarants are subject to criminal sanctions for perjury [ Ancora-Citronelle Corp. v. Green (1974) 41 CA3d 146, 148, 115 CR 879 ].

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 18.29.

18.11[4][b] All Papers Must Be Served on Opposing Party. A preliminary injunction may not be granted without notice to the opposing party [CCP § 527(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(a)]. The motion and notice of motion, affidavits or declaration, and supporting memorandum must be served on the opposing party.

 Cross Reference:

Detailed discussion of the procedures for notice, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

18.11[5] If Preliminary Injunction Is Granted.

18.11[5][a] Obtain Undertaking As Ordered by Court. On granting a preliminary injunction, the court or judge must require a bond or undertaking on the part of the applicant to the effect that the applicant will pay to the party enjoined any damages, not exceeding an amount to be specified, that the party may sustain by reason of the injunction, if the court finally decides that the applicant was not entitled to the injunction [CCP § 529(a)]. A deposit may be made in lieu of a bond or undertaking [CCP § 995.710(a)]. A preliminary injunction is not operative until an undertaking is furnished. Furthermore, the undertaking in the amount ordered by the court must be presented to the court with the proposed preliminary injunction order within one court day after the granting of the injunction, unless otherwise ordered by the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(f)]. The general requirements for bonds and undertakings are set forth in CCP §§ 995.010-996.560 and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1130.

Strategic Point--Make Arrangements for Undertaking in Advance:

Because of the importance of and timing for obtaining an undertaking, you should obtain financial information from the client and make arrangements from a bonding company for a bond in advance of seeking injunctive relief, subject only to the amount.

Cross Reference:

For more detail on the requirement for an undertaking and certain exemptions, see 18.11[6].

18.11[5][b] Terms of Injunction Order Must Not Be Vague, Ambiguous, or Overbroad. The terms of the injunction order must not be so vague that people of common intelligence must guess at its meaning and differ as to its application [ Pitchess v. Superior Court (1969) 2 CA3d 644, 651, 83 CR 35 ]. In addition, an injunctive order should be limited in scope to the subject of the litigation and must not be so uncertain or ambiguous that the enjoined person cannot determine from the order what that person may and may not do [ City of Redlands v. County of San Bernardino (2001) 96 CA4th 398, 415, 117 CR2d 582 ].

18.11[5][c] Injunction Order Must Be Presented to Judge for Signature Within One Day After Injunction Was Granted. A draft preliminary injunction order must be presented to the judge for signature within one court day after the injunction was granted, unless otherwise ordered by the court [ Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1150(f) ].

Strategic Point--Prepare Draft Order in Advance:

Because of the time limit within which a draft of the preliminary injunction must be presented to the judge for signature, you should prepare a draft in advance of the hearing.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 18.30.

18.11[5][d] If No Actual Notice, Serve Preliminary Injunction Order on All Enjoined Parties. The party enjoined must have notice of the preliminary injunction [ Golden Gate Consol. Hydraulic Mining Co. v. Superior Court (1884) 65 C 187, 190, 3 P 628 ]. Although the notice requirement may be satisfied by actual notice [ Mattos v. Superior Court (1939) 30 CA2d 641, 647, 86 P2d 1056 ], the notice requirement may also be satisfied by service in the same manner as service of a summons [ Golden Gate Consol. Hydraulic Mining Co. v. Superior Court (1884) 65 C 187, 190, 3 P 628 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of methods for service of summons, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

18.11[6] Undertaking.

18.11[6][a] Amount of Bond Based on Damages to Opposing Party If Injunction Is Later Found Not Appropriate. The amount of the bond is fixed on the basis of the amount of damages the opposing party will probably sustain if the court subsequently determines that the applicant was not entitled to an injunction [ CCP § 529(a) ]. All bonds and undertakings must comply with CCP §§ 995.010-996.560 and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1130.

18.11[6][b] Exemptions. The requirement for an undertaking does not apply to any of the following situations:

- Either spouse against the other in a proceeding for legal separation or dissolution of marriage [ CCP § 529(b)(1) ].

- The applicant for an order under the Domestic Violence Prevention Act [CCP § 529(b)(2); see Fam Code §§ 6200-6219].

- A public entity or officer described in CCP § 995.220 [CCP § 529(b)(3)].

18.11[6][c] Undertaking for Construction Project Injunction. There are specific procedures for requiring an undertaking by any party who seeks to enjoin a construction project that has received all legally required licenses and permits. These specific procedures provide the maximum liability for the applicant and a nonexclusive list of what a construction project includes [CCP § 529.1].

18.11[6][d] Undertaking for Housing Project Injunction. There are specific procedures for requiring an undertaking by any party who seeks an injunction against the construction of certain housing projects. These specific procedures include the grounds on which the requirement of an undertaking must be based and the maximum liability for the applicant [CCP § 529.2].

18.11[6][e] Undertaking Requirement May Be Waived for Poor or Indigent Applicant. The court has the authority to waive the requirement of an undertaking if the applicant is poor or indigent [CCP § 995.240; Conover v. Hall (1974) 11 C3d 842, 850-852, 114 CR 642, 523 P2d 682 ].

18.11[6][f] Defendant May Waive or Forfeit Requirement of Undertaking. The duty to require an injunction bond does not apply where the bond requirement has been waived or forfeited [ City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1940) 15 C2d 16, 23, 98 P.2d 207 (undertaking deemed waived); Smith v. Adventist Health System/West, 182 CA4th 729, 740, 744, 106 CR3d 318] .

Waiver of the right to plaintiff's undertaking is a question of fact, and a finding of waiver requires the defendant's showing the intentional relinquishment or abandonment of the right to plaintiff's undertaking. The intent to waive may be expressed in words, either oral or written, or implied by a party's conduct [ Smith v. Adventist Health System/West, 182 CA4th 729, 745, 106 CR3d 318 (inferring intent from defendant's conduct)].

The right to require plaintiff to post an undertaking on a preliminary injunction may be forfeited by the untimeliness of the request [ Smith v. Adventist Health System/West, 182 CA4th 729, 748, 106 CR3d 318 (undertaking forfeited)].

18.11[7] Permanent Injunction Usually May Not Be Granted at Preliminary Injunction Hearing. In determining the propriety of preliminary injunctive relief, neither the trial court nor the appellate court may undertake a final adjudication of the lawsuit [ Hunt v. Superior Court (1999) 21 C4th 984, 999, 90 CR2d 236, 987 P2d 705 ].

A permanent injunction granted at the preliminary injunction hearing under any other circumstance is void [ Paul v. Allied Dairymen, Inc. (1962) 209 CA2d 112, 122, 25 CR 595 ; Anderson v. Joseph (1956) 146 CA2d 450, 454, 303 P2d 1053 ].

Exception:

The court may grant a permanent injunction at the preliminary injunction hearing based on a stipulation or other satisfactory showing that warrants submitting the cause on the merits [ Camp v. Board of Supervisors (1981) 123 CA3d 334, 357-358, 176 CR 620 (properly granted when only issue was question of law without reference to extrinsic evidence and hearing constituted full trial on merits)].

18.11[8] If Preliminary Injunction Is Not Granted.

18.11[8][a] Decision to Deny Preliminary Injunction Is Immediately Appealable. The decision to deny a preliminary injunction is immediately appealable [CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases)]. A reviewing court will not disturb a trial court's decision to grant or deny a motion for a preliminary injunction absent a showing that the trial court abused its discretion [ Association for Los Angeles Deputy Sheriffs v. County of Los Angeles (2008) 166 CA4th 1625, 1634, 83 CR3d 494 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion appealing the denial of a preliminary injunction, see 18.23[2].

18.11[8][b] Can Proceed to Trial on the Merits. Instead of filing an appeal of the denial of a preliminary injunction, the applicant can proceed to a trial on the merits and obtain a permanent injunction.

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
III. OPPOSING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.13

18.13 Options and Strategies for Opposing Party.

18.13[1] Before TRO Granted.

18.13[1][a] Attend Hearing and Oppose Request for Order. Assuming that some notice is given, even shortened notice, you could attend the hearing and oppose the request for a TRO. The options available to oppose the order are the same as those available to oppose a grant of a preliminary injunction. Because the notice could be less than 24 hours, it might be difficult to assemble the facts necessary to make a meaningful defense. However, if, for example, the injunctive relief sought is, on its face, prohibited by statute or not permitted under case law, an appearance to challenge on these grounds would be advantageous.

18.13[1][b] Do Not Attend Hearing and Wait for Outcome. If the notice does not afford any time to present a meaningful defense and there are no apparent defects in the complaint, one could choose not to attend the hearing. If a TRO is granted, the order can be challenged at or prior to the preliminary injunction hearing.

18.13[2] After TRO Has Been Granted but Before Preliminary Injunction Hearing.

18.13[2][a] File Demurrer to Complaint. A cause of action must exist before injunctive relief can be granted [ Camp v. Bd. of Supervisors (1981) 123 CA3d 334, 356, 176 CR 620 ]. Facts concerning the irreparable injury that will result to the applicant unless injunctive relief is granted must be pleaded [ City of Torrance v. Transitional Living Ctrs. for Los Angeles, Inc. (1982) 30 C3d 516, 526, 179 CR 907, 638 P2d 1304 ; E.H. Renzel Co. v. Warehousemen's Union (1940) 16 C2d 369, 373, 106 P2d 1 ; Willis v. Lauridson (1911) 161 C 106, 117, 118 P 530 (complaint for an injunction that does not state facts sufficient to determine how plaintiff's property will be permanently injured by the acts complained of ... does not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action for equitable relief to enjoin acts complained of)].

Exception:

A court may grant a preliminary injunction based on a complaint that is subject to general or special demurrer if any defects in the complaint could be corrected by the filing of an amended complaint showing good grounds for the injunction [ Handyspot Co. v. Buegeleisen (1954) 128 CA2d 191, 194, 274 P2d 938 ].

 Cross References:

Form, see 18.32.

Discussion and forms for demurrers, see Ch. 11, Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings.

18.13[2][b] Answer Complaint. A preliminary injunction should not be granted on a complaint alone if a verified answer is filed explicitly and unequivocally denying the allegations of the complaint [ Martin v. Danziger (1913) 21 CA 563, 564-565, 132 P 284 ]. The answer should also include any affirmative defenses.

Exception--Strong Case for Injunctive Relief:

If the allegations of the complaint make out a strong case for injunctive relief, the opposing party cannot deprive the court of its power and discretion to issue the injunction merely by filing an answer and denials or an affidavit [ Garner v. Journeyman Barbers', Hairdressers', Cosmetologists' and Proprietors' Int'l Union of Am. (1963) 223 CA2d 101, 104, 35 CR 693 ; Lutz v. W. Iron & Metal Co. (1923) 190 C 554, 560, 213 P 962 (peculiar circumstances in case may justify temporary injunction even in face of absolute denials in answer)].

Discussion of available affirmative defenses, see 18.14.

18.13[2][c] Oppose Application for Preliminary Injunction. The application for a preliminary injunction can be opposed by filing declarations or affidavits and a supporting memorandum. If the declarations or affidavits are served on the applicant at least two days before the hearing on the order to show cause, the applicant will not be entitled to a continuance [CCP § 527(e)].

18.13[2][d] Seek to Modify or Dissolve TRO. A court may modify or dissolve a TRO on certain grounds [CCP § 533].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of the grounds for dissolving or modifying a TRO, see 18.16.

18.13[2][e] Request a Continuance. A continuance can be sought by the opposing party for a reasonable period of not less than 15 days, or any shorter period requested by the applicant, to enable the opposing party to meet the application for a preliminary injunction [CCP § 527(d)(4)]. If the opposing party obtains a continuance, the TRO remains in effect until the date of the continued hearing [CCP § 527(d)(4)].

Strategic Point:

Although a request for a continuance may be more appropriate if a TRO was not granted, see 18.13[3], there may be circumstances in which a continuance is advisable even if a TRO is in effect.

➡ Cross Reference:

More detail on obtaining continuances, see Ch. 30, Continuances.

18.13[2][f] Petition for Removal to Federal Court. As with any action, there may be strategic reasons for removing the case to federal court.

➡ Cross Reference:

More detail on removals of causes of action to federal court, see Ch. 17, Removal to Federal Court.

18.13[2][g] Make a Motion for Change of Venue. If the applicant has filed the action in the wrong county, a motion can be made for a change of venue.

➡ Cross Reference:

More detail on a change of venue of causes of action, see Ch. 6, Determining Forum, 6.45 et seq.

18.13[2][h] Request Undertaking or Bond. Although an undertaking is not absolutely required for a TRO, the court does have the power to require one for the period the TRO is in effect [ Biasca v. Superior Court (1924) 194 C 366, 367, 228 P 861 ].

Strategic Point:

Counsel should seek to have the applicant immediately obtain an undertaking or bond prior to a determination of the preliminary injunction application, particularly if a good case can be made that the costs and damages of an improperly obtained injunction are very high.

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of the requirements for obtaining an undertaking, see 18.11[6].

18.13[2][i] Appeal Grant of TRO and Obtain a Stay Pending Appeal. A decision granting a TRO is immediately appealable [CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases)]. If all or a portion of the injunction order has mandatory features, an appeal will automatically stay the operation of the mandatory features pending appeal [ Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Tex-Cal Land Mgmt., Inc. (1987) 43 C3d 696, 706 n9, 238 CR 780, 739 P2d 140 ]. The court does have the authority to stay a prohibitory injunction [ City of San Diego v. S. Cal. Tel. Corp. (1954) 42 C2d 110, 120, 266 P2d 14 ].

➡ Cross References:

Discussion of mandatory versus prohibitory injunctions, see 18.07.

Detail on stays pending appeal, see 18.24.

18.13[2][j] Decide Not to Comply and Challenge Validity of Injunction After an Adjudication of Contempt. The opposing party could elect to disobey the TRO and challenge its validity after having been adjudicated in contempt by seeking a writ of habeas corpus, certiorari, or prohibition [ In re De Silva (1948) 33 C2d 76, 79-80, 199 P2d 6 (habeas corpus); Brady v. Superior Court (1962) 200 CA2d 69, 72, 19 CR 242 (certiorari); Harlan v. Superior Court (1949) 94 CA2d 902, 905-906, 211 P2d 942 (prohibition)]. In a challenge, the opposing party may not only attack the validity of the injunction, but may also raise defects in the contempt proceeding.

Strategic Point:

Although willful disobedience is an option, because a contempt proceeding is a quasi-criminal procedure with potentially serious ramifications, it is not an advisable strategy. [ Mason v. U.S. Fid. & Guar. Co. (1943) 60 CA2d 587, 591, 141 P2d 475 (orderly procedure suggests that if party served believes order is invalid, that party should take proper steps to have order dissolved rather than resort to self help)].

Strategic Point:

The options set forth in 18.13[2] are not mutually exclusive. For example, you could request an undertaking and oppose the application for a preliminary injunction. In addition, you could file a demurrer and an answer at the same time [CCP § 430.30(c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of indirect contempt of court generally, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 23.18 et seq.

18.13[3] Before Preliminary Injunction Hearing If No TRO Was Issued or Sought. The options available for the opposing party are much the same in opposing preliminary injunctive relief when no TRO was issued or sought as the options available when a TRO was issued. The opposing party can:

- File a demurrer [see 18.13[2][a]].
- Answer the complaint [see 18.13[2][b]].
- Oppose the application for preliminary injunction [see 18.13[3][c]].
- Request a continuance [see 18.13[3][e]].
- Petition for removal to federal court [see 18.13[3][f]].
- Make a motion for a change of venue [see 18.13[3][g]].

Strategic Point:

These options are not mutually exclusive. Regardless of the options chosen, you should always seek a continuance. Because there is no TRO in effect, there is no disadvantage to delaying the date of the preliminary injunction hearing.

18.13[4] After Preliminary Injunction Has Been Granted.

18.13[4][a] Seek to Modify or Dissolve Injunction. A court may modify or dissolve a preliminary injunction on certain grounds [CCP § 533].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the grounds for dissolving or modifying a preliminary injunction, see 18.16.

18.13[4][b] Appeal and Attempt to Obtain Stay Pending Appeal. A decision granting a preliminary injunction is immediately appealable [CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases)]. If all or a portion of the injunction order has mandatory features, an appeal will automatically stay the operation of the mandatory features pending appeal [ Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Tex-Cal Land Mgmt., Inc. (1987) 43 C3d 696, 706, 238 CR 780, 739 P2d 140 ]. The court does have the authority to stay a prohibitory injunction [ City of San Diego v. Southern Cal. Tel. Corp. (1954) 42 C2d 110, 120, 266 P2d 14 ].

Cross References:

18.13[4][c] Seek Writ of Prohibition. A right of appeal does not bar the right to a writ of prohibition if an appeal is not an adequate remedy [ Bd. of Police Comm'rs v. Superior Court (1985) 168 CA3d 420, 434, 214 CR 493 ]. An appellate court will issue a writ of prohibition to restrain a trial court from enforcing an injunction if the trial court has acted in excess of its jurisdiction [ City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1959) 51 C2d 423, 429, 333 P2d 745 ].

Example:

An appeal is not an adequate remedy to review an injunction order restraining a municipality from enforcing ordinances the validity of which have not yet been determined. [ City of Santa Monica v. Superior Court (1964) 231 CA2d 223, 225, 41 CR 824 ].

18.13[4][d] Decide Not to Comply and Challenge Validity of Injunction After Adjudication of Contempt. For a discussion of the option of willful non-compliance with the injunction order, see 18.13[2][j].

18.13[4][e] Object to Undertaking or Bond. The person enjoined can object to the undertaking within five days after service of the preliminary injunction order and, if the court determines that the undertaking is insufficient and a sufficient one is not filed within the time required, the order granting the injunction must be dissolved [CCP § 529(a)]. The determination of sufficiency must be based on the damages the party may proximately sustain by reason of the injunction if the court finally decides that the applicant was not entitled to the injunction [ ABBA Rubber Co. v. Seaquist (1991) 235 CA3d 1, 14, 286 CR 518 ]. The damages must be reasonably foreseeable and can include the amount of attorney's fees necessary for the enjoined party to prosecute an appeal of the injunction or to defend at trial the causes of action on which the injunction was granted [ ABBA Rubber Co. v. Seaquist (1991) 235 CA3d 1, 14-16, 286 CR 518 ].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
III. OPPOSING INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.14

18.14 Affirmative Defenses.

18.14[1] Changed Circumstances. The denial of an injunction is justified if a change in circumstances has rendered injunctive relief moot or unnecessary [ Paul v. Milk Depots, Inc. (1964) 62 C2d 129, 133, 41 CR 468, 396 P2d 924 ; Donald v. Cafe Royale, Inc. (1990) 218 CA3d 168, 184 ]. In addition, injunctive relief will be denied if the opposing party has voluntarily discontinued the wrongful conduct [ Cisneros v. U.D. Registry, Inc. (1995) 39 CA4th 548, 574, 46 CR2d 233 ]. Whether there is a reasonable probability that the complained of acts will recur lies in the discretion of the court [ City of Vernon v. Cent. Basin Mun. Water Dist. (1999) 69 CA4th 508, 517-518, 81 CR2d 650 ].

18.14[2] Completed Acts. Because the purpose of an injunction is to prevent future harm to the applicant by ordering the opposing party to refrain from doing a particular act, [see CCP § 525], injunctive relief is available only to prevent threatened injury and has no application to wrongful acts that have been completed [ Scripps Health v. Marin (1999) 72 CA4th 324, 332, 85 CR2d 86 ; Gold v. Los Angeles Democratic League (1975) 49 CA3d 365, 372, 122 CR 732 ].

Example:

A preliminary injunction to prevent the construction of a radio transmitting tower was denied because the tower had been erected prior to service of a TRO [ McManus v. KPAL Broad. Corp. (1960) 182 CA2d 558, 563, 6 CR 441 ].

18.14[3] Balancing of Conveniences or Hardships. The doctrine of balancing of conveniences may be invoked as a defense to an injunction when the applicant, seeking to vindicate a technical and unsubstantial right, would impose an unusual hardship on the public or the opposing party [ Fairrington v. Dyke Water Co. (1958) 50 C2d 198, 200, 323 P2d 1001 ]. The doctrine, also called the doctrine of relative hardships, is often applied to the construction of expensive structures that overhang adjoining property or trespass to a minor degree. If the injunction to remove them were granted as of right, the applicant would be encouraged to engage in what amounted to legal extortion [ Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 CA2d 554, 560, 250 P2d 660 ]. To deny an injunction on this basis, the following factors must be considered [ Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 CA2d 554, 563, 250 P2d 660 ]:

- The opposing party must be innocent: the encroachment must not be the result of the opposing party's willful act, and perhaps not the result of the opposing party's negligence. The court must weigh the applicant's conduct to ascertain if that party is in any way responsible for the situation.

- If the applicant will suffer irreparable injury because of the encroachment, the injunction must be granted regardless of the injury to the opposing party, except, perhaps, if the rights of the public would be adversely affected.
- The hardship to the opposing party by the granting of the injunction must be greatly disproportionate to the hardship caused the applicant by the continuance of the encroachment, and this must clearly appear in the evidence and must be proved by the opposing party.

Warning--Opposing Party:

The denial of an injunction does not prevent the applicant from receiving damages for the encroachment [ Christensen v. Tucker (1952) 114 CA2d 554, 559, 250 P2d 660 ].

18.14[4] First Amendment Rights Infringed. An injunction will not be granted if the restraint interferes with freedom of speech [ Rosicrucian Fellowship v. Rosicrucian Fellowship Non-Sectarian Church (1952) 39 C2d 121, 145, 245 P2d 481 ].

Exception:

If the court finds the expression to be unlawful, the court may enjoin it without violating the prohibition against prior restraint [ Aguilar v. Avis Rent-A-Car Sys., Inc. (1999) 21 C4th 121, 140, 87 CR2d 132, 980 P2d 846 (after jury found that defendant had engaged in employment discrimination in part by permitting plaintiffs to be target of repeated racial epithets of fellow employee, injunction prohibiting employee from using such epithets in future was properly granted)]. That includes a statement judicially found to be defamatory [ Balboa Island Village Inn, Inc. v. Lemen (2007) 40 C4th 1141, 1155-1156, 57 CR3d 320, 156 P3d 339 ]. The injunction in the case of defamatory statements may not be broader than necessary to provide relief to plaintiff while minimizing the restriction of expression [ Balboa Island Village Inn, Inc. v. Lemen (2007) 40 C4th 1141, 1160, 57 CR3d 320, 156 P3d 339 ; Evans v. Evans (2008) 162 CA4th 1157, 1164, 76 CR3d 859 ].

Example:

An injunction against defendant's repetition of defamatory statements was overly broad to the extent that it [ Balboa Island Village Inn, Inc. v. Lemen (2007) 40 C4th 1141, 1160-1161, 57 CR3d 320, 156 P3d 339 ]:

- Extended to defendant's "agents, all persons acting on her behalf or purporting to act on her behalf and all other persons in active concert and participation with her" in the absence of evidence that anyone other than defendant had defamed plaintiff;
- Prevented defendant from presenting her grievances to government officials with relevant enforcement responsibilities; and
- Prohibited defendant from initiating contact with individuals known to defendant to be employees of plaintiff at any time regarding any subject, because there were no restrictions of time, place, and manner.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of opposing motion for gag order, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, § 2.30 et seq.

18.14[5] Laches. Laches may be asserted as an affirmative defense to an action for injunctive relief [ Vesper v. Forest Lawn Cemetery Ass'n (1937) 20 CA2d 157, 165, 67 P2d 368 ]. The party seeking to invoke the defense of laches must show not only delay, but prejudice proximately caused by that delay [ Laing v. Occidental Life Ins. Co. (1966) 244 CA2d 811, 821, 53 CR 681 ]. There is no rule as to the length of time that gives rise to laches [ Lusk v. Krejci (1960) 187 CA2d 553, 556, 9 CR 703 ]. The following are factors that the courts have used to deny an injunction on the basis of laches [ Tustin Cmty. Hosp., Inc. v. Santa Ana Cmty. Hosp. Ass'n (1979) 89 CA3d 889, 905, 153 CR 76 ]:

- The length of the delay.
- Excuses for the delay.
- The applicant's knowledge, in advance, that the opposing party had committed the wrongful act.
- Any actual fraud in the opposing party's conduct.
- The applicant's acquiescence or consent, or the appearance thereof, regarding the opposing party's conduct.
- Any prejudice to, or reliance by, the opposing party.
- Possible changes in conditions during the delay.
- The effect of the delay on the availability of evidence.
- Alternatives to injunctive relief.
- The effect on the opposing party of granting injunctive relief versus the effect on the applicant of a denial.
- The effect on the public interest of the parties' conduct and of the ultimate judgment to be rendered.

18.14[6] Other Legal Remedy Adequate. An injunction may be denied if the applicant has an adequate legal remedy [ Wilkison v. Wiederkehr (2002) 101 CA4th 822, 832, 124 CR2d 631 ; Thayer Plymouth Ctr. v. Chrysler Motors Corp. (1967) 255 CA2d 300, 306, 63 CR 148 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of adequacy of legal remedy, including examples of adequate legal remedies other than monetary damages, see 18.11[1][d].

18.14[7] Public Interest. Public policy denies an injunction and permits only the recovery of damages if private property has been put to a public use by a public service corporation and the public interest has intervened [ Loma Portal Civic Club v. Am. Airlines, Inc. (1964) 61 C2d 582, 588-589, 39 CR 708, 394 P2d 548 ]. The importance of public policy interests has been embodied in CCP § 731, which prohibits private injunctive relief against certain manufacturing, commercial, or airport operations if the operation is permitted by law and is being carried out in a reasonable and necessary manner.

Example:

The public interest in safe and reliable air service prevented an injunction by adjoining landowners to prohibit airlines from flying over their property [ Loma Portal Civic Club v. American Airlines, Inc. (1964) 61 C2d 582, 588-589, 39 CR 708, 394 P2d 548 ].

18.14[8] Terms Contrary to Law. An injunction will not be granted if the relief would be contrary to law. Courts do not have the power to disregard or set aside express terms of legislation [ People ex rel. Dept. of Transportation v. Maldonado (2001) 86 CA4th 1225, 1234, 104 CR2d 66 ; Armstrong v. Picquelle (1984) 157 CA3d 122, 129, 203 CR 552 ].

18.14[9] Unclean Hands. A opposing party can challenge an action for injunctive relief by asserting that the applicant had unclean hands [ London v. Marco (1951) 103 CA2d 450, 453, 229 P2d 401 ]. The conduct by the applicant must relate directly to the transaction concerning which the complaint was made--that is, it must pertain to the very subject matter involved and affect the equitable relations between the parties [ Jay Bharat Developers, Inc. v. Minidis (2008) 167 CA4th 437, 445-446, 84 CR3d 267 (fraud claims did not preclude injunctive relief by infecting the cause of action involved and affecting "the equitable relations between the litigants"); Nutro Prods., Inc. v. Cole Grain Co. (1992) 3 CA4th 860, 869, 5 CR2d 41 ].

Strategic Point--Applicant:

The applicant may also assert unclean hands as a defense against the opposing party [ Hernandez v. Stabach (1983) 145 CA3d 309, 315, 193 CR 350 (in action by tenants to prevent landlord from maintaining retaliatory unlawful detainer actions, unclean hands precluded defendant from raising overcrowding as defense because landlord had rented to tenants knowing that overcrowding would occur)].

Cross Reference:

Doctrine of unclean hands generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 251, Equity, § 251.141 (Matthew Bender).

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.15

18.15 CHECKLIST: Dissolving or Modifying TRO or Injunction.

- ☐ Prepare and file motion and notice of motion for order dissolving or modifying TRO or injunction.

Grounds:

See 18.16

Authority:

CCP §§ 532, 533

Form:

See 18.34

- ☐ Serve motion and notice of motion on applicant.

Authority:

CCP § 533 (TRO or preliminary injunction)

- ☐ If TRO or injunction is modified or dissolved:

- ☐ Obtain signature of judge on order.

Form:

See 18.35

- ☐ Serve order on applicant.

- ☐ If TRO or injunction is dissolved, decide whether to:

- ☐ File a motion against the principal and surety to enforce the undertaking; or

Authority:

CCP § 996.440

Discussion:

See 18.18

Timing:

The motion may not be made until after entry of the final judgment in the action or proceeding in which the undertaking is given and the time for appeal has expired or, if an appeal is taken, until the appeal is finally determined. The motion may not be made or notice of motion served more than one year after the later of these dates.

- ☐ If no undertaking was filed, initiate an action against the applicant for abuse of process or malicious prosecution.

Authority:

Wallace v. Miller (1983) 140 CA3d 636, 642-645, 189 CR 637 (decided under former CCP §§ 535, 1054(a))

Discussion:

See 18.18[6]

- ☐ If motion to enforce undertaking is made, make sure to seek recovery of attorney's fees incurred in successfully procuring a final decision dissolving the TRO or preliminary injunction.

Authority:

ABBA Rubber Co. v. Seaquist (1991) 235 CA3d 1, 15-16, 286 CR 518 ; Russell v. United Pac. Ins. Co. (1963) 214 CA2d 78, 85-89, 29 CR 346

Discussion:

See 18.18[4]

- ☐ If TRO is not dissolved or modified:

- ☐ Appeal decision; or
- ☐ Follow steps to oppose application for a preliminary injunction.

Checklist for Opposing Application for Preliminary Injunction:

See 18.12

- ☐ If preliminary injunction is not dissolved or modified:

- ☐ Appeal decision; or

- ☐ Proceed to trial on the merits of the action.

Checklist for Appealing the Refusal to Modify or Dissolve a TRO or Injunction:

See 18.22[1].

Chapter 18 TROs and Preliminary Injunctions
IV. DISSOLVING OR MODIFYING TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER OR INJUNCTION

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.16

18.16 Grounds for Dissolving or Modifying TRO or Preliminary Injunction.

18.16[1] Material Change in Facts or Law or to Serve Ends of Justice. The court may on notice modify or dissolve a TRO or preliminary injunction on a showing that [CCP § 533]:

- There has been a material change in the facts on which the TRO or preliminary injunction was granted;
- The law on which the TRO or preliminary injunction was granted has changed; or
- The ends of justice would be served by the modification or dissolution of the TRO or preliminary injunction.

Exception:

Although an injunction granted by an arbitrator is subject to modification or dissolution on a showing of changed circumstances, any assertion of such a change must be raised and presented through arbitration, not in superior court [ Swan Magnetics v. Superior Court (1997) 56 CA4th 1504, 1510, 1512, 66 CR2d 541 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Forms, see 18.34, 18.35.

18.16[2] Injunction Granted Without Notice. If the injunction was granted without notice to the person enjoined, that person may apply, on reasonable notice to the judge who granted the injunction, or to the court in which the action was brought, to dissolve or modify the injunction [CCP § 532(a)]. The application may be made on the complaint or the affidavit on which the injunction was granted, or on affidavit on the part of the person enjoined, with or without the answer. If the application is made on affidavits on the part of the person enjoined, but not otherwise, the person against whom the application is made may oppose the application by affidavits or other evidence in addition to that on which the injunction was granted [CCP § 532(a)].

18.16[3] Overbroad, Vague, or Ambiguous Injunction. An injunctive order must be limited in scope to the subject of the litigation and must not be so uncertain or ambiguous that the enjoined person cannot determine from the order what that person may and may not do [ City of Redlands v. County of San Bernardino (2001) 96 CA4th 398, 415, 117 CR2d 582 (injunction prohibiting county from readopting general plan amendment or any "similar amendment" not overbroad, vague, or ambiguous)].

18.16[4] No Undertaking or Insufficient Undertaking. A preliminary injunction issued without an undertaking must be dissolved [ Neumann v. Moretti (1905) 146 C 31, 32-33, 79 P 512 ; Casitas Inv. Co. v. Charles L. Harney, Inc. (1962) 203 CA2d 811, 816, 21 CR 821 ]. In addition, if the court, on objection by the opposing party, determines that the undertaking is insufficient and a sufficient one is not filed within the time required, the order granting the injunction must be dissolved [CCP § 529(a)]. For the procedures for challenging the sufficiency of an undertaking, see 18.13[4][e].

18.18 Enforcement of Undertaking.

18.18[1] Liability on Injunction Undertaking Does Not Require Wrongful Act or Bad Motive. The liability of a surety on an injunction undertaking depends simply on proof that the injunction was issued, that the enjoined party suffered damage thereby, and that the court has decided that the applicant was not entitled to the injunction. No element of wrongful act or bad motive is necessary [ Russell v. United Pac. Ins. Co. (1963) 214 CA2d 78, 87, 29 CR 346 ].

Warning:

If an injunction is dissolved by mutual agreement, the dissolution is not a confession by the applicant that the applicant had no right to the injunction granted, nor does the dissolution operate as a judgment to that effect [ Wilshire Mortgage Corp. v. O.A. Graybeal Co. (1940) 41 CA2d 1, 6-7, 105 P2d 996 (under terms of bond, surety obligated only if court decided that plaintiff was not entitled to injunction)].

18.18[2] Requires Final Determination of Main Action. The liability on an injunction undertaking may be enforced on motion made in court without the necessity of an independent action [CCP § 996.440(a)]. The motion may not be made until after entry of the final judgment in the action or proceeding in which the undertaking is given and the time for appeal has expired or, if an appeal is taken, until the appeal is finally determined. The motion may not be made or notice of motion served more than one year after the later of these dates [CCP § 996.440(b)].

Cross Reference:

Forms, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 303, Injunctions, §§ 303.140, 303.141 (Matthew Bender).

18.18[3] Measure of Damages. Damages recoverable on an injunction undertaking are those that appear with reasonable certainty to be the necessary and proximate result of the injunction, not exceeding the penal sum of the bond [ Allen v. Pitchess (1973) 36 CA3d 321, 327, 111 CR 658 ]. The amount recoverable is not limited to damages accruing during the time the injunction was operative, but instead includes all damages flowing directly from the wrongful injunction for a period of time beyond the date of its dissolution [ Russell v. United Pac. Ins. Co. (1963) 214 CA2d 78, 88, 29 CR 346 ].

18.18[4] Recovery of Attorney's Fees Permitted. Reasonable attorney's fees and expenses incurred in successfully procuring a final decision dissolving an injunction are recoverable as damages, to the extent that the fees were for services that related to the dissolution. In addition, a successful appeal from an order granting an injunction, after notice and hearing, gives rise to liability on the bond for damages in the amount of the attorney's fees incurred in prosecuting that appeal. If the preliminary injunction is valid and regular on its face, requiring the opposing party to defend against the main action in order to demonstrate that the injunction was wrongfully issued, the opposing party may recover that portion of attorney's fees attributable to defending against those causes of action on which the issuance of the injunction had been based [ ABBA Rubber Co. v. Seaquist (1991) 235 CA3d 1, 15-16, 286 CR 518 ; Russell v. United Pac. Ins. Co. (1963) 214 CA2d 78, 85-89, 29 CR 346 ].

Exception:

If a TRO is dissolved because of the denial of a preliminary injunction, attorney's fees incurred in defending the main action after the dissolution are not recoverable [ Allen v. Pitchess (1973) 36 CA3d 321, 328, 111 CR 658 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of recovery of attorney's fees, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 25, Attorney's Fees.

18.18[5] Principal's Liability Not Limited to Terms of Bond. Although the liability of a surety is limited to the amount of the bond, the principal's liability is not so limited (except as otherwise provided by statute) [CCP § 996.470(a)].

18.18[6] If No Undertaking Was Obtained, Action for Abuse of Process or Malicious Prosecution May Be Available. If no undertaking is obtained and it is later determined that the applicant was not entitled to an injunction, the statutory remedy under CCP § 996.440(a) may be unavailable. However, the opposing party may be able to file an action for abuse of process or for malicious prosecution [ Wallace v. Miller (1983) 140 CA3d 636, 642-645, 189 CR 637 (decided under former CCP §§ 535, 1054(a))].

2-18 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 18.20

18.20 Enjoined Party Must Have Notice of Injunction.

18.20[1] Service of Notice. The party enjoined must have notice of the injunction order, which may be satisfied by service in the same manner as service of a summons [ Golden Gate Consol. Hydraulic Mining Co. v. Superior Court (1884) 65 C 187, 190, 3 P 628 ].

Cross Reference:

Detailed discussion of the procedures for notice, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons.

18.20[2] Actual Notice. A party with actual notice of an injunction is bound by the injunction even though it was not served [ Golden Gate Consol. Hydraulic Mining Co. v. Superior Court (1884) 65 C 187, 190, 3 P 628 ]. A party who appeared in court or was represented by counsel at the preliminary injunction hearing is deemed to have actual notice [ Mattos v. Superior Court (1939) 30 CA2d 641, 647, 86 P2d 1056 ; but see Mossman v. Superior Court (1972) 22 CA3d 706, 711, 99 CR 638 ("disputable" presumption of notice arises if contempt order served on alleged contemnor's attorney, but not on contemnor)].

18.21 Filing Motion for Contempt.

18.21[1] Elements to Establish Contempt. A person is subject to contempt if he or she refuses to comply with a court's valid injunctive order [see CCP § 1209(a)(5)]. The four elements necessary to establish contempt are [ Conn v. Superior Court (1987) 196 CA3d 774, 784, 242 CR 148 ]:

- The rendition of a valid order.
- Actual knowledge of the order.
- Ability to comply with the order.
- Willful disobedience of the order.

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of indirect contempt of court generally, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 23.18 et seq.

18.21[2] Contempt Must Be Proved Beyond Reasonable Doubt. Because a contempt proceeding is quasi-criminal in nature, an accused contemnor is entitled to a presumption of innocence and cannot be compelled to testify. Also, the contempt must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt [ In re Martin (1977) 71 CA3d 472, 480, 139 CR 451 ].

➤ Cross Reference:

18.21[3] Penalty for Contempt. For each act of contempt, the court may impose a fine not exceeding $1,000, a jail term of up to five days, or both [CCP § 1218(a)]. In addition, a person who is subject to a court order as a party to the action, or any agent of that person, who is adjudged guilty of contempt for violating that court order may be ordered to pay to the party initiating the contempt proceeding the reasonable attorney's fees and costs incurred by that party in connection with the contempt proceeding [CCP § 1218(a)].

➤ Cross Reference:

Additional discussion of penalties for indirect contempt of court, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 23.24.

18.21[4] Injunction Must Be Unambiguous. To find a person guilty of contempt for violating an injunction, the acts constituting the contempt must be clearly and specifically prohibited by the terms of the injunction [ Brunton v. Superior Court (1942) 20 C2d 202, 205, 124 P2d 831 ]. The terms of the injunction order must not be so vague that people of common intelligence must guess at its meaning and differ as to its application [ Pitchess v. Superior Court (1969) 2 CA3d 644, 651, 83 CR 35 ]. Any ambiguity in the injunction must be resolved in favor of the enjoined party [ Gottlieb v. Superior Court (1959) 168 CA2d 309, 313, 335 P2d 714 ].

VI. APPEAL OF GRANT, DENIAL, DISSOLUTION, OR REFUSAL TO DISSOLVE TRO OR INJUNCTION

18.23 Appeal.

18.23[1] TRO.

18.23[1][a] Appeal May Be Taken From Order Granting, Denying, Dissolving, or Refusing to Dissolve TRO.

An order granting, denying, dissolving, or refusing to dissolve a TRO is immediately appealable [CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases); McLellan v. McLellan (1972) 23 CA3d 343, 357, 100 CR 258 ]. The intent of CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (former CCP § 963(2)) is that all orders granting or refusing injunctions, whether temporary or permanent or provisional pending appeal, are appealable [ Brydon v. City of Hermosa Beach (1928) 93 CA 615, 620, 270 P 255 ].

18.23[1][b] Standard of Review Is Abuse of Discretion. An order granting, denying, dissolving, or refusing to dissolve a TRO will be overturned only on a showing of an abuse of discretion [ Gen. Distillers, Ltd. v. Wholesale Liquor Drivers-Salesmen Union, Local 109 (1943) 57 CA2d 908, 909 ].

18.23[2] Preliminary Injunction.

18.23[2][a] Appeal May Be Taken From Order Granting, Denying, Dissolving, or Refusing to Dissolve Preliminary Injunction. An order granting, denying, dissolving, or refusing to dissolve a preliminary injunction is immediately appealable [CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (unlimited civil cases); CCP § 904.2(g) (limited civil cases)]. The intent of CCP § 904.1(a)(6) (former CCP § 963(2)) is that all orders granting or refusing injunctions, whether temporary or permanent or provisional pending appeal, are appealable [ Brydon v. City of Hermosa Beach (1928) 93 CA 615, 620, 270 P 255 ].

18.23[2][b] Standard of Review Is Abuse of Discretion. An order granting, denying, dissolving, or refusing to dissolve a preliminary injunction will be overturned only on a showing of an abuse of discretion [ Professional Engineers v. Department of Transp. (1997) 15 C4th 543, 562, 63 CR2d 467, 936 P2d 473 , superseded by statute as stated in Consulting Engineers & Land Surveyors of California v. Department of Transportation, 167 Cal. App. 4th 1457, 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 900 ]. A trial court has abused its discretion only if it has exceeded the bounds of reason or contravened the uncontradicted evidence [ Continental Baking Co. v. Katz (1968) 68 C2d 512, 527, 67 CR 761, 439 P2d 889 ]. An appeal from an order granting or denying a preliminary injunction involves a limited review of two factors [ Teachers Ins. & Annuity Ass'n v. Furlotti (1999) 70 CA4th 1487, 1493, 83 CR2d 455 ; Shoemaker v. County of Los Angeles (1995) 37 CA4th 618, 624-625, 43 CR2d 774 ]:

- The reasonable probability that the applicant will prevail on the merits.
- The interim harm that the applicant is likely to sustain if the injunction were denied as compared to the harm that the opposing party is likely to suffer if the preliminary injunction were issued.

If the trial court denied a preliminary injunction, the appellate court will affirm if it finds that the trial court correctly determined at least one of these two factors [ CBS, Inc. v. Block (1986) 42 C3d 646, 650 n3, 230 CR 362, 725 P2d 470 ; Cohen v. Bd. of Supervisors (1985) 40 C3d 277, 286-287, 219 CR 467, 707 P2d 840 ]. However, if the trial court granted a preliminary injunction, the appellate court will reverse if the trial court abused its discretion as to either factor [ Millennium Rock Mtg., Inc. v. T.D. Serv. Co., (2009) 179 CA4th 804, 812, 102 CR3d 544 (if the party that sought the preliminary injunction has no likelihood of prevailing on the merits at trial, then the trial court committed an error of law); City of Corona v. Naulls (2008) 166 CA4th 418, 427, 83 CR3d 1 ; Teachers Ins. & Annuity Ass'n v. Furlotti (1999) 70 CA4th 1487, 1493, 83 CR2d 455 ].

Exception:

If review of a decision on a preliminary injunction involves solely a question of a violation of law, the standard of review is not abuse of discretion, but instead an independent review of whether statutory or constitutional law was correctly interpreted and applied by the trial court [ San Diego Unified Port Dist. v. U.S. Citizens Patrol (1998) 63 CA4th 964, 969, 74 CR2d 364 ].

Exception:

If the trial court has refused to consider the "likelihood of prevailing on the merits" factor, the appellate review of the trial court's ruling is under the deferential abuse of discretion standard [ Right Site Coalition v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (2008) 160 CA4th 336, 345, 72 CR3d 678 ].

18.23[2][c] Appellate Court Will Not Reweigh Evidence. If the evidence before the trial court was in conflict, an appellate court will not reweigh it or determine the credibility of witnesses on appeal [ City of Corona v. Naulls (2008) 166 CA4th 418, 427, 83 CR3d 1 ; Shoemaker v. County of Los Angeles (1995) 37 CA4th 618, 625, 43 CR2d 774 ]. The substantial evidence rule applies, and the appellate court will interpret the facts in the light most favorable to the prevailing party and indulge in all reasonable inferences in support of the trial court's order [ City of Corona v. Naulls (2008) 166 CA4th 418, 427, 83 CR3d 1 ; Volpicelli v. Jared Sydney Torrance Mem'l Hosp. (1980) 109 CA3d 242, 247, 167 CR 610 ].

18.23[2][d] Grant of Mandatory Injunction Given More Scrutiny on Appeal. If a preliminary injunction mandates an affirmative act that changes the status quo, the appellate court will scrutinize it even more closely for abuse of discretion [ Shoemaker v. County of Los Angeles (1995) 37 CA4th 618, 625, 43 CR2d 774 ].

18.23[2][e] Burden of Proof Is on Appellant. The burden rests with the appellant to make a clear showing of an abuse of discretion [ IT Corp. v. County of Imperial (1983) 35 C3d 63, 69-70, 196 CR 715, 672 P2d 121 ; Socialist Workers 1974 Cal. Campaign Comm. v. Brown (1975) 53 CA3d 879, 889, 125 CR 915 ].

18.23[2][f] Grant or Denial of Preliminary Injunction Is Not Final Adjudication of Lawsuit. The granting or denial of a preliminary injunction does not constitute an adjudication of the ultimate rights in the controversy [ Cohen v. Board of Supervisors (1985) 40 C3d 277, 286, 219 CR 467, 707 P2d 840 ]. In determining the propriety of preliminary relief, neither the trial court nor an appellate court may undertake a final adjudication of the lawsuit [ Hunt v. Superior Court (1999) 21 C4th 984, 999, 90 CR2d 236, 987 P2d 705 (appellate court erred in directing entry of judgment for appellant after appellant challenged issuance of preliminary injunction)].

18.23[3] No Separate Appeal by Opposing Party From Order Fixing Amount of Bond. An order fixing the amount of an undertaking is not separately appealable [ County of Los Angeles v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 76 CA4th 1025, 1026, 90 CR2d 799 ].

18.23[4] Law at Time of Appellate Decision Applicable. The trial court decision concerning an injunction is reviewed under the law in effect at the time the appellate court renders its opinion [ Hunt v. Superior Court (1999) 21 CA4th 984, 999, 90 CR2d 236, 987 P2d 705 ].

18.23[5] Effect of Reversal on Appeal. If a preliminary injunction is dissolved because of a judgment on the merits of the underlying action in favor of the opposing party and that judgment is reversed on appeal, the applicant is entitled to the protection that the applicant had earlier secured by the preliminary injunction. However, this reinstatement is not automatic, and an evidentiary hearing is required [ City of Oakland v. Superior Court (1982) 136 CA3d 565, 569-570, 186 CR 326 ].

18.24 Stay.

18.24[1] Stay of Injunction Pending Appeal.

18.24[1][a] Stay Automatic for Mandatory Injunction. If all or a portion of the injunction order has mandatory features, an appeal will automatically stay the operation of the mandatory features pending appeal [ Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. v. Tex-Cal Land Mgmt., Inc. (1987) 43 C3d 696, 706, 238 CR 780, 739 P2d 140 ].

18.24[1][b] Stay Discretionary for Prohibitory Injunction. Although there is no automatic stay of a prohibitory injunction, the court does have the authority to stay a prohibitory injunction [ City of San Diego v. Southern Calif. Tel. Corp. (1954) 42 C2d 110, 120, 266 P2d 14 (trial court may protect parties on appeal by providing that its injunction order is stayed, under conditions that protect appellant by preserving subject matter of appeal pending outcome of appeal and at same time protect respondent by saving benefits of the judgment in event of affirmance)].

18.24[2] Injunctive Order to Preserve Status Quo After Denial of Injunction. If an applicant is denied injunctive relief, the trial court has the authority to issue an injunction to preserve the status quo pending a motion for a new trial or an appeal [ Pierce v. City of Los Angeles (1911) 159 C 516, 517-520, 114 P 818 (motion for new trial); Eisenberg v. Superior Court (1924) 193 C 575, 577-579, 226 P 617 (appeal)].

18.24[3] Writ of Supersedeas. An appellant is entitled as a matter of right to issuance of a writ of supersedeas if the trial court mistakenly attempts to enforce a mandatory injunction that should have been automatically stayed on appeal [ Rubin v. American Sportsmen Television Equity Soc'y (1951) 102 CA2d 288, 290, 227 P2d 303 ]. If the injunction order is prohibitory, the appellate court has the inherent power to issue the writ if such action is necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction [ Wilkman v. Banks (1953) 120 CA2d 521, 523, 261 P2d 299 ]. Whether appellate jurisdiction will be safeguarded is based on a consideration of the respective rights of the litigants, which contemplates the possibility of affirmance as well as of reversal [ Board of Dental Exam'rs v. Jameson (1944) 23 C2d 689, 690, 145 P2d 905 ].

VI. APPEAL OF GRANT, DENIAL, DISSOLUTION, OR REFUSAL TO DISSOLVE TRO OR INJUNCTION

18.25 Writ of Prohibition.

A right of appeal does not bar the right to a writ of prohibition if an appeal is not an adequate remedy [ Board of Police Comm'rs v. Superior Court (1985) 168 CA3d 420, 434, 214 CR 493 ; City of Santa Monica v. Superior Court (1964) 231 CA2d 223, 225, 41 CR 824 (appeal not adequate remedy to review injunction order restraining municipality from enforcing ordinances whose validity have not yet been determined)]. An appellate court will also issue a writ of prohibition to restrain a trial court from enforcing an injunction if the trial court has acted in excess of its jurisdiction [ City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (1959) 51 C2d 423, 429, 333 P2d 745 ; Biosense Webster, Inc. v. Superior Court (2006) 135 CA4th 827, 834, 836-838, 37 CR3d 759 (prohibition against injunction against possible action in another state)].

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff is, and at all times mentioned in this complaint was, _____ [identify plaintiff and allege capacity in which plaintiff is suing defendants if that capacity is other than as an individual].

2. _____ [Allege facts showing that plaintiff has a personal or property right or interest of the kind that injunctive relief is available to protect, such as the ownership or possession of real property, the possession of an occupational or political status or position, or the right to conduct an established business].

3. Defendants _____ [name] and _____ [name] are, and at all times mentioned in this complaint were, _____ [allege status, capacity, and relationship to the subject matter of the controversy of defendants, showing the nature of the duties, if any, owed by defendants to plaintiff].

[4. Defendants Doe I through Doe _____, inclusive, are sued in this complaint under fictitious names. Their true names and capacities are unknown to plaintiff. When their true names and capacities are ascertained, plaintiff will amend this complaint by inserting their true names and capacities herein. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges, that each of the fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences alleged in this complaint, and that plaintiff's damages as alleged in this complaint were proximately caused by those defendants.)]

5. Beginning on or about _____[date], [and continuing to the present time,] defendants, and each of them, wrongfully and unlawfully _____[allege specific facts showing particularly what defendants are doing, threatening to do, refusing to do, or causing or permitting to be done that constitutes the invasion of, infringement on, or interference with plaintiff's protectable rights and interests] .

[6. Allege, if appropriate, plaintiff's demand that defendants stop their (threatened) conduct, defendants refusal, and resulting necessity for prompt judicial action to protect plaintiff, e.g., On or about July 1, 2003, (and a number of times since then,) plaintiff has demanded that defendants stop their wrongful (threatened) conduct described above. Defendants, and each of them, have refused and still refuse to refrain from their (threatened) conduct.]

7. Defendants' [threatened] wrongful conduct, unless and until enjoined and restrained by order of this court, will cause great and irreparable injury to plaintiff as _____[specify particular facts indicating how defendants' actions will constitute great and irreparable injury].

8. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the injuries _____ [currently being suffered or that are threatened] as _____ [specify facts in addition to those previously alleged that tend to show the inadequacy of any legal remedy, especially monetary damages, that plaintiff might pursue, e.g., it will be impossible for plaintiff to determine the precise amount of damage that plaintiff will suffer if defendants' conduct is not restrained].

[9. Allege damages, if any, that have been and may be incurred, e.g., As a proximate result of defendants' wrongful conduct, plaintiff's business has been damaged in the sum of $87,438. Plaintiff will be further damaged in like manner so long as defendants' conduct continues. The full amount of this damage is not now known to plaintiff, and plaintiff will amend this complaint to state this amount when it becomes known to plaintiff or on proof of the damages.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays judgment against defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For an order requiring defendants to show cause, if any they have, why they should not be enjoined as set forth in this complaint, during the pendency of this action;

2. For a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, and a permanent injunction, all enjoining defendants, and each of them, and their agents, servants, and employees, and all persons acting under, in concert with, or for them:

a. From _____ [specify each of the acts, courses of conduct, and conditions defendants are to be prohibited from doing, commencing, continuing, maintaining, failing to do, etc.];

b. To _____ [specify each of the acts, courses of conduct, and conditions defendants are to be commanded to do, undertake, etc.];

3. For damages in the sum of $ _____, plus damages in such further sums as may be sustained and as are ascertained before final judgment in this action;

4. For costs of suit incurred in this action; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

|                              | ) | Trial Date: _____                    |

On reading the [verified] complaint of plaintiff on file in the above-entitled action [and the _____ (declaration(s) or affidavit(s))] [and the memorandum submitted therewith], it appears to the satisfaction of the court that this is a proper case for granting an order to show cause for a preliminary injunction [and a temporary restraining order, and that unless the temporary restraining order prayed for be granted, great or irreparable injury will result to plaintiff before the matter can be heard on notice].

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named defendants, and each of them, appear in [_____ (Department or Division) _____ of] this court, located at _____ [address], _____ [city], on _____ [date], at _____ [time], or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, then and there to show cause, if any they have, why they and their agents, servants, employees, and representatives, and all persons acting in concert or participating with them, should not be enjoined and restrained during the pendency of this action from engaging in, committing, or performing, directly or indirectly, any and all of the following acts:

- a. _____ [Specify the various acts and lines of conduct or threatened acts and conduct sought to be prohibited, as far as practicable use the same terms as those used in the prayer of the complaint];
- b. _____ [Continue with such specifications if more than one].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the above-named defendants, and each of them, appear at the same time and place and show cause, if any they have, why they should not be commanded by order of this court and required [during the pendency of this action] to:

- a. _____ [Specify each of the acts or courses of conduct defendants are to be commanded to do, commence, or continue, and each of the conditions they are to maintain];
- b. _____ [Continue with such specifications if more than one].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that:

- a. Plaintiff shall serve this order to show cause on defendants in the following time and manner:
_____.
- b. Proof of service must be delivered to the court hearing the order to show cause on: _____.
- c. The parties shall adhere to the following briefing schedule: _____.
- [d. The temporary restraining order shall expire on: _____.]

[IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, pending the hearing and determination of the order to show cause, the above-named defendants, and each of them, and their officers, agents, employees, representatives, and all persons acting in concert or participating with them, are restrained and enjoined from engaging in or performing, directly or indirectly, any and all of the following acts:]

- [a. _____ (Specify acts or conduct to be prohibited pending the order to show cause hearing. Frequently these acts will be merely a repetition of the preceding prohibitory specifications, but counsel may seek a restraining order that is different (usually less extensive) from the preliminary injunction that he or she seeks);]
- [b. _____ (Continue with such specifications if more than one).]

[IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, pending the hearing and determination of the above order to show cause, the above-named defendants, and each of them, are required and ordered to:]

- [a. _____ (Specify each of the acts or courses of conduct defendants are to be commanded to do, commence, or continue, and each of the conditions they are to maintain pending the order to show cause hearing. Frequently these acts will be merely a repetition of the preceding mandatory specifications, but counsel may seek a restraining order that is different (usually less extensive) from the preliminary injunction he or she seeks);]
- [b. _____ (Continue with such specifications if more than one).]

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that copies of the complaint [, _____ (declaration(s) or affidavits(s)),] [memorandum,] and this order to show cause [and temporary restraining order] be served on _____ [defendants or the party against whom this order is made] not later than _____ [date].

[Include order fixing bond if counsel for plaintiff knows that same will be required by court e.g., Bond on this temporary restraining order is fixed in the sum of $_____.]

Let the above order issue [on plaintiff's filing a bond in the sum of $_____].

Dated: _____.

_____ [signature]

Judge of the Superior Court

[If counsel for plaintiff does not know in advance that the court will require a bond before issuing a temporary restraining order, he or she should not include any reference to a bond in the body of the order. Rather, reference to it may be added to the order later, as follows, e.g., Bond on the above temporary restraining order is fixed in the sum of $_____. The above temporary restraining order may not issue until plaintiff has filed a bond in the above-specified sum.]

The _____ [application or motion] of plaintiff for the preliminary injunction came on regularly for hearing by the court this date in accordance with _____ [an order to show cause issued by this court on May 15, 2003, or plaintiff's motion for a preliminary injunction]. Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

On proof made to the court's satisfaction, and good cause appearing:

IT IS ORDERED that during the pendency of this action the above-named defendants, and each of them, and their officers, agents, employees, representatives, and all persons acting in concert or participating with them, are enjoined and restrained from engaging in, committing, or performing, directly or indirectly, by any means whatsoever, any of the following acts:

a. _____ [Specify the various acts and types of conduct that are prohibited with sufficient clarity to apprise all of the persons enjoined of what they are prohibited from doing];

b. _____[Continue with such specifications if more than one].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the above-named defendants are required and ordered to:

a. _____[Specify each of the acts or courses of conduct defendants are required to do, commence, or continue, and each of the conditions they are to maintain];

b. _____[Continue with such specifications if more than one].

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, before this order shall take effect, plaintiff must file a written undertaking in the sum of $_____, as required by Code of Civil Procedure Section 529, for the purpose of indemnifying defendants for the damages as they may sustain by reason of this preliminary injunction if the court finally decides that plaintiff is not entitled to it.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the preliminary injunction as set forth above shall issue on plaintiff filing a written undertaking in the sum specified above. The court reserves jurisdiction to modify this injunction as the ends of justice may require.

Dated: _____.

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am one of the defendants in this action. This declaration is made in opposition to plaintiff's application for a preliminary injunction.

2. I have read plaintiff's complaint in the above-entitled action that seeks a preliminary injunction against me. Except as admitted below, [and except as to those allegations of which I have no information or belief,] each and all of the allegations in that complaint [and in the supporting declaration(s) of _____ (name) (and _____ (name))] are false.

3. I admit that _____ [set forth admissions of allegations in complaint].

[4. I further admit that _____ (set forth admissions of allegations in declaration(s) supporting complaint).]

5. It is particularly not true that _____ [set forth allegations in complaint that are not true and state true facts].

[6. It is also not true that _____ (set forth allegations in declaration(s) that are not true and state true facts).]

[7. I have no information or belief as to the truth or falsity of the allegations in the complaint that state that _____ (set forth allegations in complaint of which defendant has no information or belief).]

[8. I have no information or belief as to the truth or falsity of the allegations in the declaration(s) of _____ (name) (and _____ (name)), which state that _____ (set forth allegations in declaration(s) of which defendant has no information or belief).]

[9. A temporary restraining order was served on defendants in this action on _____ (date). Defendants have complied with the order by _____ (state facts showing compliance with order). Compliance with this order is, however, causing defendants damage by _____ (state facts indicating ways in which temporary restraining order is damaging defendants).]

10. If the court grants plaintiff a preliminary injunction against defendants, defendants will suffer great harm, in that _____ [allege specific facts showing manner in which defendants will be injured if a preliminary injunction is issued].

11. It is not true that plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law and will suffer great or irreparable injury by defendants' conduct unless a preliminary injunction is granted because _____ [specify facts showing an adequate remedy at law and lack of any such injury, e.g., defendant is solvent and is capable of responding to any judgment for damages caused to plaintiff by defendants' conduct in an action for _____ (specify type of legal action that plaintiff might bring to obtain relief for any damages caused by defendants)].

WHEREFORE, declarant prays that this court deny plaintiff's application for a preliminary injunction [against this declarant] [if a temporary restraining order has been issued, add: and that the temporary restraining order previously issued in this action be dissolved].

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

Chapter 19 Attachment
I. STRATEGY

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.02

19.02 Objective and Strategy.

Attachment is a prejudgment remedy limited to cases arising out of commercial transactions, and prohibited in consumer transactions [CCP § 483.010; Kadison, Phaelzer, Woodard, Quinn & Rossi v. Wilson (1987), 197 CA3d 1, 4, 242 CR 595 ]. The procedure requires a court to make a preliminary determination of the merits of a dispute involving a creditor and a debtor.

Attachment is governed by Attachment Law, Title 6.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, CCP §§ 481.010-493.060. The statutes are strictly construed [ Pacific Decision Sciences Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 1100, 1106, 18 CR3d 104 ; Bank of America v. Salinas Nissan, Inc. (1989) 207 CA3d 260, 270, 254 CR 748 ].

An attachment allows a creditor, who has followed the statutory requirements and who has established a prima facie claim, to have a lien recorded against real property and/or the debtor's assets seized and held until final adjudication at trial [ Lorber Indus. of Cal. v. Turbulence, Inc. (1985) 175 CA3d 532, 535, 221 CR 233 ].

Strategic Point:

Attachment can be a very powerful litigation procedure particularly where the case is strong and there is a real risk that the opposing party may attempt to transfer or conceal assets. Precisely because it is a very powerful litigation procedure, the attachment statutes provide a relatively complex procedure to conform to Constitutional Due Process requirements. Attachment can be an expensive procedure to undertake without some confidence that it is necessary and appropriate. In addition to legal expense, there is a bond requirement that will require the payment of a bond premium and can create a difficult hurdle since the surety may require that the indemnity agreement protecting the surety be collateralized. There also are risks associated with potential liability for abuse of process or malicious prosecution arising from a wrongful attachment.

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.04

19.04 Options and Strategies for Plaintiff.

19.04[1] Determine That Claim Meets Statutory Requirements.

19.04[1][a] Claim Must Be Monetary and Based on Contract. An attachment may be issued only in actions [CCP § 483.010(a)]:

- On a claim or claims for money; and
- Based on a contract, express or implied.

19.04[1][b] Claim Must Equal or Exceed $500.00 and Be Fixed or Readily Ascertainable. The total amount of the claim or claims must be a fixed or readily ascertainable amount, not less than five hundred dollars ($500), exclusive of costs, interest and attorney's fees [CCP § 483.010(a)].

19.04[1][c] Claim Must Be Commercial. If the claim is against a defendant who is a natural person, an attachment may be issued only on a claim arising from the defendant's trade, business, or profession [CCP § 483.010(c)].

19.04[1][d] Claim Cannot Be Secured by Real Property. An attachment may not be issued on a claim that is secured by any interest in real property arising from agreement, statute, or other rule of law (including any mortgage or deed of trust, but excluding any security interest in fixtures subject to Com Code § 9101 et seq. [CCP § 483.010(b)]).

Example:

A guarantee on which the guarantor expressly waives the right to require the creditor to proceed first against the real property security for the loan is not secured by real property. Consequently, the creditor is entitled to a writ of attachment against the guarantor's property if it satisfies statutory requirements [ United Central Bank v. Superior Ct. (2009) 179 CA4th 212, 215, 101 CR3d 395 ] .

Exception:

An attachment may be issued where the claim was originally secured by an interest in real property, but, without any act of the plaintiff, the security has become valueless, or has decreased in value to less than the amount owing on the claim [CCP § 483.010(b)].

19.04[2] Calculate Amount to Be Secured by Attachment.

19.04[2][a] How to Compute Amount. In general, the amount to be secured by an attachment is the sum of [CCP § 483.015(a)]:

- The amount of the defendant's alleged indebtedness; plus
- Any additional amount included under CCP § 482.110 (providing for costs and attorney's fees).

The above total must be reduced by the sum of [CCP § 483.015(b)]:

- The amount of any money judgment in favor of the defendant and against the plaintiff that remains unsatisfied and is enforceable;
- The amount of any indebtedness of the plaintiff that the defendant has claimed in a cross-complaint filed in the action, if the defendant's claim is one on which an attachment could be issued;
- The amount of any claim of the defendant asserted as a defense in the answer pursuant to CCP § 431.70, if the defendant's claim is one on which an attachment could be issued had an action been brought on the claim when it was not barred by the statute of limitations; and
- The value of any security interest in the property of the defendant held by the plaintiff to secure the defendant's indebtedness claimed by the plaintiff.

Distinguish:

The fact that the damages are unliquidated is not determinative. It is not necessary that the amount owed appear on the face of the contract. The contract sued on must only furnish a standard by which the amount due may be clearly ascertained, and there must exist a basis upon which the damages can be determined by proof [ CIT Group/Equipment Financing, Inc. v. Super DVD, Inc. (2004) 115 CA4th 537, 540, 8 CR3d 927 ].

19.04[2][b] Different Computation for Unlawful Detainer Proceedings. In unlawful detainer proceedings, the amount to be secured by an attachment is the sum of [CCP § 483.020]:

- The amount of the rent due and unpaid as of the date of filing the complaint in the unlawful detainer proceeding [CCP § 483.020(a)(1)];
- An additional amount included at the discretion of the court, equal to the amount of rent for the period from the date the complaint is filed until the estimated date of judgment, or such earlier estimated date as possession is likely to be delivered to the plaintiff, such amount to be computed at the rate provided in the lease [CCP § 483.020(a)(2), (c)]; and
- Any additional amount included under CCP § 482.110 (providing for costs and attorney's fees) [CCP § 483.020(a)(3)];

The above total must be reduced by the sum of:

- The amount of all of the defendant's claims that would diminish the amount of the plaintiff's recovery [CCP § 483.020(d)]; and

- The amount of any payment or deposit that the plaintiff has received or holds solely to secure the payment of rent [CCP § 483.020(e)].

19.04[3] Be Aware of Specified Exempt Property. The following property is exempt from attachment [CCP § 487.020]:

- All property exempt from enforcement of a money judgment.
- Property that is necessary for the support of a defendant who is natural person or the defendant's family supported in whole or in part by the defendant.
- "Earnings," as defined by CCP § 706.011 (compensation pay able by an employer to an employee for personal services performed by the employee, whether wages, salary, commission, bonus or otherwise).
- All property that cannot be attached pursuant to CCP § 487.010 [see 19.04[4]].

In addition, other than that portion of benefits subject to child and spousal support enforcement, federal disability benefits awarded to veterans for service-connected disabilities pursuant to 38 USCS § 1101 et seq. are exempt from attachment, levy, or seizure by or under any legal or equitable process [CCP § 483.013].

19.04[4] Check Statutory Definitions of Property Subject to Attachment.

19.04[4][a] All Property Subject to Levy Belonging to Corporation, Partnership, or Association May Be Attached. If the defendant is a corporation, partnership, or other unincorporated association, all corporate, partnership or association property for which a method of levy is provided by CCP §§ 488.300-488.485 may be attached [CCP § 487.010(a), (b)].

19.04[4][b] Specified Property of Natural Person May Be Attached. If the defendant is a natural person, all of the following property is subject to attachment [CCP § 487.010(c)]:

- Interests in real property, except leasehold estates with unexpired terms of less than one year.
- Accounts receivable, chattel paper, and general intangibles arising out of the conduct by the defendant of a trade, business, or profession, equal to or exceeding one hundred fifty dollars ($150).
- Equipment.
- Farm products.
- Inventory.
- Final money judgments arising out of the conduct by the defendant of a trade, business, or profession.
- Money on the premises where the defendant conducts a trade, business, or profession.
- Except for the first one thousand dollars ($1,000), money located elsewhere than on such premises and in deposit accounts.

- Negotiable documents of title.
- Instruments.
- Securities.
- Minerals or the like (including oil and gas) to be extracted.

19.04[4][c] Specified Community Property of Natural Person May Be Attached. If the following property is community property, it may also be attached if it would be subject to enforcement of a judgment obtained in the action in which an attachment is sought [CCP § 487.010(d)]:

- Interests in real property, except leasehold estates with unexpired terms of less than one year.
- Accounts receivable, chattel paper, and general intangibles arising out of the conduct by the defendant of a trade, business, or profession, equal to or exceeding one hundred fifty dollars ($150).
- Equipment.
- Farm products.
- Inventory.
- Final money judgments arising out of the conduct by the defendant of a trade, business, or profession.
- Money on the premises where the defendant conducts a trade, business, or profession.
- Except for the first one thousand dollars ($1,000), money located elsewhere than on such premises and in deposit accounts.
- Negotiable documents of title.
- Instruments.
- Securities.
- Minerals or the like (including oil and gas) to be extracted.

19.04[4][d] Homestead Property: Special Rules Apply. Recording of a homestead declaration has no effect on the right to record an attachment lien, regardless of when the homestead was recorded [CCP § 487.025(a)].

Exception:

A defendant may protect a homestead by claiming an exemption for necessities pursuant to CCP § 487.020(b) [CCP § 487.025(c)].

19.04[4][e] Attachment of Property Subject to Pending Action or Special Proceeding Is Restricted. If property is subject to a pending action or special proceeding, only the following property can be attached [CCP § 488.475(a)]:

- Real property.

- Growing crops, timber to be cut, or minerals or accounts receivable resulting from their sales.
- Tangible personal property in the possession or control of the defendant or in the custody of a levying officer.
- The interest of a defendant in personal property in the estate of a decedent.

Attachment of property subject to a pending action or special proceeding, other than those types of property listed above, is not effective [CCP § 488.475(b)].

However, if the defendant is a party in the pending action or proceeding, the plaintiff may nonetheless obtain a lien to secure the amount to be secured by attachment [CCP § 488.475(e)].

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.05

19.05 Applying for Right to Attach Order (RTAO) and Writ of Attachment.

19.05[1] Available on Filing Complaint or Any Time After. A plaintiff may apply for a right to attach order (RTAO) and a writ of attachment, on filing a complaint or any time thereafter, by filing an application for the order and writ with the court in which the action is brought [CCP § 484.010].

Consider:

If the property to be attached is or may be in the possession of the defendant, apply for a turnover order under CCP § 482.080(a), which orders the defendant to relinquish possession to the levying officer, at the same time as the order for attachment [see Pacific Decision Sciences Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 1100, 1106, 18 CR3d 104 ].

19.05[2] Application Must Be Executed Under Oath and Include Specific Information. The application must be executed under oath and must include all of the following information [CCP § 484.020]:

- A statement showing that the attachment is sought to secure the recovery on a claim on which an attachment may be issued.
- A statement of the amount to be secured by the attachment.
- A statement that the attachment is not sought for a purpose other than the recovery on the claim on which the attachment is based.
- A statement that the applicant has no information or belief that the claim is discharged in a USC Title 11 bankruptcy proceeding or that the prosecution of the action is stayed in a Title 11 proceeding.
- A description of the property to be attached and a statement that the plaintiff is informed and believes that the property is subject to attachment.

Concerning the description [CCP § 484.020(e)]:

- If the defendant is a corporation, a reference to "all corporate property, which is subject to attachment pursuant to CCP § 487.010(a)," is sufficient.
- If the defendant is a partnership or other unincorporated association, a reference to "all property of the partnership or other unincorporated association which is subject to attachment pursuant to CCP § 487.010(b)," is sufficient.
- If the defendant is a natural person, however, the description of the property must be reasonably adequate to permit the defendant to identify the specific property to be attached.

Cross Reference:

Form of application, see 19.41.

19.05[3] Affidavits or Declarations Are Required.

19.05[3][a] Show That Plaintiff Would Be Entitled to Judgment on the Claim. The application must be supported by an affidavit (or a declaration pursuant to CCP § 2015.5) showing that on the facts presented, the plaintiff would be entitled to a judgment on the claim on which the attachment is based [CCP § 484.030].

19.05[3][b] Set Forth Facts With Particularity. Facts stated in each affidavit must be set forth with particularity [CCP § 482.040].

19.05[3][c] Affiant or Declarant Must Be Competent, and Have Personal Knowledge of Facts. Each affidavit must show affirmatively that the affiant, if sworn as a witness, can testify competently to the facts stated in the affidavit [CCP § 482.040].

The affiant may be any person, whether or not a party to the action, who has knowledge of the facts [CCP § 482.040].

19.05[4] Specific Notice Is Required.

19.05[4][a] Time and Place of Hearing. The notice must inform the defendant of the time and place of the hearing on plaintiff's application for a right to attach order and a writ of attachment [CCP § 484.050(a)].

19.05[4][b] RTAO Will Be Issued. The notice must inform the defendant that the RTAO will be issued if the court finds that [CCP § 484.050(b)]:

- The plaintiff's claim is probably valid; and
- The other requirements for issuing the order are established.

The notice must also inform the defendant that the hearing [CCP § 484.050(b)]:

- Is not for the purpose of determining whether the claim is actually valid;
- That the determination of the actual validity of the claim will be made in subsequent proceedings in the action; and that
- The determination of the actual validity will not be affected by the decisions at the hearing on the application for the order.

19.05[4][c] Amount to Be Secured. The notice of application must inform the defendant that the amount to be secured by the attachment is determined by CCP § 482.110 (amount for costs and attorney's fees), CCP § 483.010 (cases where attachment is authorized), CCP § 483.015 (amount to be secured by attachment), and CCP § 483.020 (amount to be secured in unlawful detainer proceeding), and these statutes must be summarized in the notice [CCP § 484.050(c)].

19.05[4][d] Writ of Attachment Will Be Issued. The notice must inform the defendant that if the RTAO is issued, a writ of attachment will be issued to attach the property described in the plaintiff's application, unless the court determines that [CCP § 484.050(d)]:

- The property is exempt from attachment; or
- That the property's value clearly exceeds the amount necessary to satisfy the amount to be secured by the attachment.

The defendant must also be informed that additional writs of attachment may be issued to attach other nonexempt property of the defendant on the basis of the RTAO [CCP § 484.050(d)].

19.05[4][e] Procedures for Opposing Issuance of RTAO. The notice must inform the defendant that if the defendant desires to oppose the issuance of the RTAO, the defendant must file with the court and serve on the plaintiff a notice of opposition and supporting affidavit as required by CCP § 484.060 not later than five (5) court days prior to the date set for the hearing [CCP § 484.050(e)].

Cross References:

See 19.15[2], 19.16.

19.05[4][f] Defendant Must Designate Exempt Personal Property. The notice must inform the defendant that if the defendant claims that the personal property described in the application, or a portion thereof, is exempt from attachment, the defendant must include that claim in the notice of opposition filed and served pursuant to CCP § 484.060, or must file and serve a separate claim of exemption with respect to the property as provided in CCP § 484.070 [CCP § 484.050(f)].

The defendant must be informed that if an exemption for described property is not claimed, the claim of exemption will be barred in the absence of a showing of a change in circumstances occurring after the expiration of the time for claiming exemptions [CCP § 484.050(f)].

Cross References:

See 19.16[3], 19.17.

19.05[4][g] Defendant Is Entitled to Determination of Exemption. The notice must inform the defendant that the defendant may obtain a determination at the hearing whether real or personal property not described in the application or real property described in the application is exempt from attachment [CCP § 484.050(g)]:

- By including the claim of exemption in the notice of opposition filed and served pursuant to CCP § 484.060; or
- By filing and serving a separate claim of exemption with respect to the property as provided in CCP § 484.070.

The defendant must also be informed that the failure to claim an exemption for real or personal property not described in the application or for real property will not preclude the defendant from making a claim of exemption with respect to the property at a later time [CCP § 484.050(h)].

 Cross References:

See 19.16[3], 19.17.

19.05[4][h] Defendant and/or Attorney May Be Present at Hearing. The notice must inform the defendant that either the defendant or the defendant's attorney, or both, may be present at the hearing [CCP § 484.050(g)].

19.05[4][i] Required Notice: Consult Attorney. The notice must contain the following statement [CCP § 484.050(g)]: "You may seek the advice of an attorney as to any matter connected with the plaintiff's application. The attorney should be consulted promptly so that the attorney may assist you before the time set for hearing."

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.06

19.06 Complying With Service Requirements.

19.06[1] Defendant Must Be Served With All Necessary Papers. The defendant must be served with all of the following [CCP § 484.040]:

- A copy of the summons and complaint.
- A notice of the application and hearing [see 19.05].
- A copy of the application and any affidavit or declaration in support of the application.
- A copy of the temporary protective order, if one has been granted [CCP § 486.080; see 19.12[5]].

19.06[2] Required Methods of Service.

19.06[2][a] If Defendant Has Not Appeared. If the defendant has not appeared in the action, all required documents must be personally served in the same manner as a summons is served [CCP § 482.070(d)].

19.06[2][b] If Defendant Has Appeared. If the defendant has appeared in the action, the required documents can be served personally or by mail [CCP § 482.070(a)].

19.06[3] Service At Least 16 Court Days Before Hearing. All moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing [CCP § 1005(b)]. If notice is served by mail or fax, the 16-day notice period must be increased as follows [CCP § 1005(b)]:

- Two (2) calendar days, if notice is served by fax transmission, express mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery.
- Five (5) calendar days, if the place of mailing and the place of address are within the state of California.

- Ten (10) calendar days, if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the State of California, but within the United States.
- Twenty (20) calendar days, if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States.

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.07

19.07 Hearing Must Be Held Before Writ Issues.

19.07[1] Plaintiff Must Be Ready to Proceed. The plaintiff must be ready to proceed at the time set for the hearing [CCP § 484.080(a)]. If the plaintiff is not ready, or if he or she has failed to comply with the service requirements of CCP § 484.040 [see 19.06], the court may either [CCP § 484.080(a)]:

- Deny the application for the RTAO; or
- Grant the plaintiff a continuance if good cause is shown.

19.07[2] Defendant May Apply for Continuance. The court may, in its discretion and for good cause, grant the defendant a continuance for a reasonable period to enable him or her to oppose the issuance of the right to attach order [CCP § 484.080(b)].

19.07[3] Court Will Issue RTAO If Statutory Requirements Are Satisfied. At the hearing, the court will issue an RTAO if it finds all of the following [CCP § 484.090(a)]:

- The claim is one on which an attachment may be issued.
- The plaintiff has established the probable validity of the claim.
- The attachment is not sought for a purpose other than the recovery on the claim.
- The amount to be secured by the attachment is greater than zero.

19.07[4] Court Must State Amount to Be Secured by Attachment. If the order is issued, the court must state the amount to be secured by the attachment [CCP § 484.090(a); see 19.04[2]].

19.07[5] Court Must Determine Existence of Exempt Property. If the court determines that all or part of the defendant's property is exempt from attachment, the RTAO must describe the exempt property and prohibit its attachment [CCP § 484.090(c)].

► Cross References:

See 19.04[4], 19.15[1].

19.07[6] Writ of Attachment Will Be Issued After Plaintiff Files Undertaking. If the court finds that the statutory requirements for attachment are met, pursuant to CCP § 484.090(a) [see 19.07[3]], it must order a writ of attachment on the filing of an undertaking as provided by CCP §§ 489.210, 489.220 [see 19.13].

► Cross References:

Form of RTAO after hearing, see 19.43.

Form of undertaking, see 19.46.

19.07[7] Court May Issue Turnover Order with Attachment Order. The court may issue a turnover order along with the attachment order [CCP § 482.080(a)]. The turnover order is issued in aid of a writ, and not as an independent order; it compels the defendant to cooperate with the levying officer when the levy must be made by taking possession from defendant of the property or documentary evidence of title to property or of a debt [CCP § 482.080(a); Pacific Decision Sciences Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 1100, 1108, 18 CR3d 104 ].

The turnover order must be directed to a levying officer in the county in which the property of the defendant described in the writ may be located; and an order to a levying officer outside of California is void [CCP § 488.020(a); Pacific Decision Sciences Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 1100, 1108, 18 CR3d 104 ].

Distinguish:

CCP § 482.080(a)(2) does not authorize a turnover order for an account receivable and a deposit account [ Pacific Decision Sciences Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 1100, 1108, 18 CR3d 104 ].

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.08

19.08 Applying for Additional Writs.

19.08[1] Available by Application. Any time an RTAO has been issued following a noticed hearing under the Attachment Law, CCP §§ 484.010-484.110, or after the court has found pursuant to CCP § 485.240 that the plaintiff is entitled to an RTAO, the plaintiff may apply for a writ of attachment by filing an application with the court in which the action is brought [CCP § 484.310].

19.08[2] Application Must Be Executed Under Oath and Contain Specific Information. The application for additional writs must be executed under oath and must contain all of the following information [CCP § 484.320]:

- A statement that the plaintiff has been issued an RTAO under the noticed hearing procedure [CCP § 484.010 et seq.; see 19.05 -19.07] or that the court has found pursuant to the ex parte hearing procedure [CCP § 485.240; see 19.09 -19.12] that the plaintiff is entitled to an RTAO.
- A statement of the amount to be secured by the attachment.
- A description of the property to be attached under the writ of attachment and a statement that the plaintiff is informed and believes that the property is subject to attachment. The description must be reasonably adequate to permit the defendant to identify the specific property sought to be attached as required by CCP § 484.020(e) [see 19.05[2]].
- A statement that the applicant has no information or belief that the claim is discharged in a proceeding under Title 11 of the USC (Bankruptcy) or that the prosecution of the action is stayed in a proceeding under Title 11 of the USC.

19.08[3] Notice and Hearing Are Required. An additional writ of attachment may be issued only after a hearing. At least 15 days prior to the hearing, the defendant must be served with both of the following [CCP § 484.330]:

- A notice of application and hearing.
- A copy of the application.

19.08[4] Informing Defendant of Specific Information.

19.08[4][a] Plaintiff Has Applied for a Writ of Attachment. The notice must inform the defendant that the plaintiff has applied for a writ of attachment to attach the property described in the application [CCP § 484.340(a)].

19.08[4][b] Time and Place of Hearing. The notice must inform the defendant of the time and place of the hearing [CCP § 484.340(b)].

19.08[4][c] Writ May Be Issued. The notice must inform the defendant that a writ of attachment will be issued to attach the property described in the plaintiff's application, unless the court determines that [CCP § 484.340(c)]:

- The property is exempt from attachment; or
- The property's value clearly exceeds the amount necessary to satisfy the amount to be secured by the attachment.

19.08[4][d] Exemptions May Be Claimed. The notice must inform the defendant that if the defendant claims that any of the property described in the application is exempt from attachment the defendant may file with the court, and serve on the plaintiff a claim of exemption with respect to the property as provided in CCP § 484.350 not later than five (5) days prior to the date set for hearing [CCP § 484.340(d)].

The defendant must also be informed that if the defendant fails to make such a claim with respect to personal property, the defendant may not later claim the exemption in the absence of a showing of a change in circumstances occurring after the expiration of the time for claiming exemptions [CCP § 484.340(d)].

19.08[4][e] Defendant and/or Attorney May Be Present. The notice must inform the defendant that the defendant or the defendant's attorney, or both may be present at the hearing [CCP § 484.340(e)].

19.08[4][f] Defendant Should Consult Attorney. The notice must contain the following statement [CCP § 484.340(f)]: "You may seek the advice of an attorney as to any matter connected with the plaintiff's application. The attorney should be consulted promptly so that the attorney may assist you before the time set for hearing."

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.09

19.09 Obtaining Ex Parte Writ of Attachment: Great or Irreparable Injury Required.

19.09[1] Affidavit or Declaration Required. An RTAO or writ of attachment may be issued ex parte only if the plaintiff shows facts by affidavit or declaration that he or she would suffer great or irreparable injury if the order were delayed until the matter could be heard on notice [CCP § 485.010(a)].

Exception:

Some statutes expressly permit an ex parte attachment without such a showing [see, e.g., CCP §§ 492.010-492.090; H&N Code § 495.1; H&S Code § 11501; R&T Code §§ 6713, 8972, 11473, 12680, 19373, 30302, 32352].

19.09[2] Defining Great or Irreparable Injury.

19.09[2][a] Property May Become Unavailable. The requirement of great or irreparable injury is satisfied if the plaintiff shows that under the circumstances of the case, it may be inferred that there is a danger that the property sought to be attached would be [CCP § 485.010(b)(1)]:

- Concealed;
- Substantially impaired in value; or
- Otherwise made unavailable to levy if the order were delayed until the matter could be heard on notice.

19.09[2][b] Defendant Has Failed to Pay Debts. The requirement of great or irreparable injury is also satisfied if the plaintiff shows that under the circumstances of the case, it may be inferred that the defendant has failed to pay the debt underlying the requested attachment and the defendant is insolvent [CCP § 485.010(b)(2)].

Warning:

If the plaintiff bases the writ solely on this ground, the defendant may ask the court to review the issuance of the writ, and the court must conduct a hearing within five (5) court days after the plaintiff is served with notice of the defendant's request [CCP § 485.010(c)].

19.09[2][c] Bulk Sales Notice. The requirement of great or irreparable injury is also satisfied if a bulk sales notice has been recorded and published pursuant to Division 6 of the Commercial Code [Com Code §§ 6101-6111] with respect to a bulk transfer by the defendant [CCP § 485.010(b)(3)].

Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 270, Fraudulent Conveyances (Matthew Bender).

19.09[2][d] Escrow Opened Concerning the Sale of Liquor License. The requirement of great or irreparable injury is also satisfied if an escrow has been opened pursuant to the provisions of B&P Code § 24074 with respect to the sale by the defendant of a liquor license [CCP § 485.010(b)(4)].

19.09[2][e] Any Other Circumstance Showing Great or Irreparable Injury. The requirement of great or irreparable injury is satisfied if the plaintiff shows any other circumstance indicating that great or irreparable injury would result to the plaintiff if issuance of the order were delayed until the matter could be heard on notice [CCP § 485.010(b)(5)].

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.10

19.10 Applying for Ex Parte Writ of Attachment.

19.10[1] Filing Application at Time of Complaint or After. A plaintiff may apply for a right to attach order (RTAO), on filing a complaint or any time thereafter, by filing an application for the order and writ with the court in which the action is brought [CCP § 485.210(a)].

19.10[2] Application Requirements.

19.10[2][a] Application Must Be Executed Under Oath and Include Specific Information. The plaintiff's application for an ex parte RTAO and writ of attachment must be executed under oath and must include all of the following information [CCP § 485.210(b); CCP § 484.020]:

- A statement showing that the attachment is sought to secure the recovery on a claim on which an attachment may be issued.
- A statement of the amount to be secured by the attachment.
- A statement that the attachment is not sought for a purpose other than the recovery on the claim on which the attachment is based.
- A statement that the applicant has no information or belief that the claim is discharged in a USC Title 11 bankruptcy proceeding or that the prosecution of the action is stayed in a Title 11 proceeding.
- A description of the property to be attached and a statement that the plaintiff is informed and believes that the property is subject to attachment.

Concerning the description [CCP § 484.020(e)]:

- If the defendant is a corporation, a reference to "all corporate property, which is subject to attachment pursuant to CCP § 487.010(a)," is sufficient.

- If the defendant is a partnership or other unincorporated association, a reference to "all property of the partnership or other unincorporated association which is subject to attachment pursuant to CCP § 487.010(b)," is sufficient.

- If the defendant is a natural person, however, the description of the property must be reasonably adequate to permit the defendant to identify the specific property to be attached.

19.10[2][b] Application Must Show Great and Irreparable Injury. The plaintiff's ex parte application must include a statement showing that the great and irreparable injury requirement of CCP § 485.010 is satisfied [see 19.09].

19.10[3] Affidavit or Declaration Required. The plaintiff's ex parte application must be supported by an affidavit or declaration showing all of the following [CCP § 485.210(c)]:

- The plaintiff on the facts presented would be entitled to a judgment on the claim on which the attachment is based.
- The plaintiff would suffer "great or irreparable injury" [see 19.09] if issuance of the order were delayed until the matter could be heard on notice.
- The property sought to be attached is not exempt [see 19.04[4], 19.15[1]] from attachment.

When the ex parte attachment is sought on the ground of the defendant's alleged failure to pay debts, the plaintiff's affidavit filed in support of the ex parte attachment must also state [CCP § 485.010(b)(2)]:

- The known undisputed debts of the defendant;
- That the debts are not subject to bona fide dispute; and
- The basis for plaintiff's determination that the defendant's debts are undisputed.

Cross Reference:

Form of application, see 19.41.

19.10[4] Statutory Requirements Must Be Met. The court will issue the RTAO and writ if the following statutory requirements are met [CCP § 485.220(a)]:

- The claim is one on which an attachment may be issued.
- The plaintiff has established the probable validity of the claim.
- The attachment is not sought for a purpose other than the recovery of the claim.
- The property sought to be attached is not exempt [see 19.04[4], 19.15[1]].
- The plaintiff will suffer "great or irreparable injury" [see 19.09] if the RTAO is delayed until the matter can be heard on notice.
- The amount sought to be secured is greater than zero.

Prerequisite--Undertaking Required:

Before the RTAO and writ are issued, the plaintiff must file an undertaking [CCP § 485.220(a)].

Cross References:

Discussion of undertaking, see 19.13.

Form of ex parte RTAO, see 19.44.

Form of undertaking, see 19.46.

19.10[5] If Great and Irreparable Injury Requirement Is Not Met. The court will deny the order if the statutory requirements are not met. If the order is denied solely on the ground that the "great and irreparable injury" [see 19.09] is not met, the plaintiff can apply for an RTAO and writ under the noticed procedure [see 19.05] using the same affidavits and supporting papers [CCP § 485.220(b)].

19.11 Applying for Additional Writs After Ex Parte Procedure.

19.11[1] Available Ex Parte or on Notice. Any time after an RTAO and a writ of attachment have been issued under the ex parte procedure, the plaintiff may:

- Apply for additional writs of attachment by filing an application with the court in which the action is brought [CCP § 485.510]; or
- Apply for a new order and writ under the noticed procedure [CCP §§ 484.010-484.110; see 19.05].

19.11[2] Ex Parte Application Must Be Executed Under Oath and Contain Specific Information. The application for an additional writ must be executed under oath and must include all of the following [CCP § 485.520]:

- A statement that the plaintiff has been issued an RTAO and a writ of attachment;
- A statement of the amount to be secured by that attachment under the RTAO.
- A description [see 19.05[2]] of the property to be attached under the writ, and a statement that the plaintiff is informed and believes that the property is not exempt [see 19.04[4], 19.15[1]].
- A statement showing that the "great and irreparable injury requirement" [see 19.09] has been satisfied [see CCP § 485.010].

19.11[3] Affidavit or Declaration Is Required. The plaintiff's ex parte application must be supported by an affidavit or declaration stating both of the following [CCP § 485.530(a)]:

- The plaintiff would suffer great or irreparable injury [see 19.09] if issuance of the order were delayed until the matter could be heard on notice.
- The property sought to be attached is not exempt [see 19.05[4], 19.15[1]] from attachment.

Chapter 19 Attachment

II. OBTAINING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.12

19.12 Obtaining Temporary Protective Order on Notice or Ex Parte.

19.12[1] Noticed Hearing Procedure.

19.12[1][a] Application May Be Filed When RTAO Is Sought. At the time of applying for an RTAO under the noticed hearing procedure, the plaintiff may apply in the alternative for a temporary protective order by filing an application for an order with the court in which the action is brought [CCP § 486.010(a)].

19.12[1][b] Application Must Specify Relief Requested and Be Supported by Affidavit or Declaration. The application must specify the relief requested and must be supported by an affidavit or declaration that shows that the plaintiff would suffer "great or irreparable injury" [see 19.09] if the temporary order were not issued [CCP § 486.010(b)].

Cross Reference:

Form of application for temporary protective order, see 19.41.

19.12[2] Court May Issue Temporary Protective Order Instead of RTAO. After a plaintiff has applied for an RTAO and a writ of attachment under the ex parte hearing procedure, the court may in its discretion deny the RTAO and the writ if it determines that although the statutory requirements [see 19.04[1]] are satisfied, a temporary protective order would be just and equitable to the parties [CCP § 486.030(a)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Always ask the court and prepare orders for both a RTAO and a temporary protective order. Courts will usually preserve the status quo by issuing a temporary protective order instead of a RTAO, particularly when the RTAO is sought ex parte.

19.12[3] Court Must Issue Temporary Protective Order If Statutory Grounds Are Satisfied. After examining the application, the supporting affidavit, and the other papers on record, the court must issue a temporary protective order, which states the amount sought to be secured by the attachment if it finds all of the following [CCP § 486.020]:

- The claim is one on which an attachment may be issued.
- The plaintiff has established the probable validity of the claim.
- The order is not sought for a purpose other than the recovery on the claim.
- The plaintiff will suffer "great or irreparable injury" [see 19.09] if the temporary protective order is not issued [see CCP § 485.010].

Prerequisite--Undertaking Required:

Before a temporary protective order is granted, the plaintiff must file an undertaking as provided by CCP §§ 489.210, 489.220 [CCP § 486.020].

 Cross References:

Discussion of undertaking, see 19.13.

Form of undertaking, see 19.46.

19.12[4] Drafting Temporary Protective Order.

19.12[4][a] General Scope Should Reflect Interests of Justice and Equity. The temporary protective order must be just and equitable and take into account the circumstances of both parties [CCP § 486.040].

19.12[4][b] May Prohibit Transfer of Property. The temporary protective order may prohibit transfer of any of the defendant's property in California that is subject to the writ of attachment. The temporary protective order must describe the property in a manner adequate to permit the defendant to identify the property [CCP § 486.050(a)].

Exception:

If the property subject to the temporary protective order is farm products held for sale or is inventory, the temporary protective order may not prohibit the defendant from transferring property in the ordinary course of business, but may impose appropriate restrictions on the disposition of the proceeds from such transfer [CCP § 486.050(b)].

19.12[4][c] May Not Prohibit Defendant From Issuing Checks for Specified Purposes. A temporary protective order cannot prohibit the defendant from issuing checks for any amount of any of the following purposes [CCP § 486.060(b)]:

- Payment of any payroll expense (including fringe benefits and taxes and premiums for workers' compensation and unemployment insurance) falling due in the ordinary course of business prior to the levy of a writ of attachment.
- Payment for goods delivered to the defendant C.O.D. for use in the defendant's trade, business, or profession.
- Payment of taxes if payment is necessary to avoid penalties.
- Payment of reasonable legal fees and reasonable costs and expenses required for the representation of the defendant in the action.

19.12[4][d] May Not Prohibit Defendant From Issuing Checks With Proscribed Monetary Limits. In addition to the checks permitted to be issued for the purposes specified, the defendant may also issue any number of checks for any purpose, if the total amount of the checks does not exceed the greater of the following [CCP § 486.060(c)]:

- The amount by which the total amount on deposit exceeds the sum of the amounts sought to be secured by the attachment and the amounts of the specifically permitted to be paid pursuant to CCP § 486.060(b) [see 19.12[4][c]]; or
- $1000.00

Cross Reference:

Form of temporary protective order, see 19.45.

19.12[5] Personal Service on Defendant Is Required. The temporary protective order must be personally served on the defendant together with the following documents [CCP §§ 484.040, 486.080]:

- A copy of the summons and complaint.
- A notice of plaintiff's application for a RTAO and the place and time of the hearing.
- A copy of the application and of any affidavit or declaration in support of the application.

19.12[6] Only Defendant Is Bound by Temporary Protective Order. In general, a temporary protective order binds only the defendant, whether or not any other person knows of or is served with a copy of it [CCP § 486.070].

19.12[7] Temporary Protective Order Creates Lien.

19.12[7][a] Lien Is Created on Service. The service of a temporary protective order creates a lien on any property, or the proceeds of that property, that is described in the order [CCP § 486.110(a)].

19.12[7][b] Lien Terminates on Expiration of Temporary Protective Order. The lien terminates on the date of expiration of the temporary protective order except on that has been property levied on under a noticed writ of attachment [CCP § 486.110(b)].

19.12[8] Expiration of Temporary Protective Order. Except as otherwise provided in the Attachment Law, the temporary protective order expires at the earlier of the following times [CCP § 486.090]:

- Forty (40) days after the issuance of the order or on an earlier date if the court so orders.
- When a levy of attachment on specific property is made by the plaintiff.

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.13

19.13 Filing Undertaking.

19.13[1] Undertaking Must Be Filed Before Writ, Temporary Protective Order, or Lien Order Is Issued.

Before a writ of attachment, temporary protective order, or order permitting a creation of lien is issued, the plaintiff must file an undertaking to pay the defendant any amount the defendant may recover for wrongful attachment [CCP § 489.210; Vershow v. Reiner (1991) 231 CA3d 879, 882-883, 282 CR 684 ].

19.13[2] Approval and Filing of Undertaking. Unless the surety on the undertaking is an admitted surety insurer, all undertakings must be presented to a proper court for approval. On approval, the undertaking must be filed with the court in which the action is pending [CCP § 489.060(a), (b)].

19.13[3] Amount of Undertaking. Unless otherwise ordered, an undertaking filed pursuant to the Attachment Law is ten thousand dollars ($10,000) [CCP § 489.220(a)].

If, on objection to the undertaking, the court determines that the probable recovery for wrongful attachment exceeds $10,000, the court must increase the undertaking to the amount determined to be the probable recovery for the wrongful attachment [CCP § 489.220(b)].

III. OPPOSING ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.15

19.15 Options and Strategies for Defendant.

19.15[1] Opposing Attachment of Property That Is Exempt. The following property is exempt from attachment [CCP § 487.020]:

- All property exempt from enforcement of a money judgment [see CCP § 704.010, et seq.].
- Property that is necessary for the support of a defendant who is natural person or the defendant's family supported in whole or in part by the defendant.
- "Earnings" (compensation payable by an employer to an employee for personal services performed by the employee, whether wages, salary, commission, bonus or otherwise) [CCP § 706.011].
- All property not subject to attachment pursuant to CCP § 487.010 [see 19.04[3]].

➤ Cross Reference:

See 19.04[4].

19.15[2] Filing Notice of Opposition. To oppose the issuance of the RTAO sought by plaintiff, or to object to the amount sought to be secured by the attachment, the defendant must file and serve on the plaintiff no later than five (5) court days prior to the date set for the hearing a notice of opposition [CCP § 484.060(a)].

➤ Cross Reference:

See 19.16.

19.15[3] Applying to Terminate Ex Parte Order and Writ. Any defendant whose property has been attached by a writ issued ex parte may apply for an order [CCP § 485.240(a)]:

- To set aside the RTAO.

- To quash the writ of attachment.
- To release any property levied on.
- To reduce the amount secured by the attachment.

 Cross Reference:

See 19.18.

19.15[4] Applying to Terminate, Modify, or Vacate Temporary Protective Order.

19.15[4][a] Interests of Justice and Equity. On the defendant's ex parte application, or, if the court so orders, after a noticed hearing, the court may modify or vacate a temporary protective order if the court determines that such action would be in the interests of justice and equity to the parties, taking into account the following factors [CCP § 486.100]:

- The effect on the defendant of the continuance of the original order.
- The effect on the plaintiff of modifying or vacating the order.
- Any other factors.

19.15[4][b] Filing an Undertaking. Alternatively, a defendant who has appeared in the action and who been served with a temporary protective order may file an undertaking and apply by noticed motion to the court in which the action is pending for an order terminating the temporary protective order [CCP § 489.320].

The undertaking must equal the amount sought to be secured by the attachment. The court must issue the order terminating the temporary protective order on condition that a sufficient undertaking is filed [CCP § 489.320(b)].

 Cross References:

Form of application to terminate, modify, or vacate temporary protective order, see 19.50.
Form of order, see 19.51.

19.15[5] Applying for Substitution of Undertaking for Attached Property. After a writ of attachment is issued, a defendant may apply for an order permitting the defendant to substitute an undertaking for any property in California that has been or is subject to being attached [CCP § 489.310(a)].

 Cross Reference:

See 19.19.

19.15[6] Applying for Release of Attachment on Excess Property. The defendant may apply for an order releasing the attachment to the extent that the value of the defendant's interest clearly exceeds the amount to be secured by the attachment [CCP § 488.720(a)].

 Cross Reference:

See 19.20.

19.15[7] Seeking Relief for Wrongful Attachment. At the conclusion of plaintiff's action, a defendant may recover damages for wrongful attachment by a motion to enforce liability on the bond. The motion may be made in the trial court, without the necessity of an independent action [CCP § 996.440(a)].

Chapter 19 Attachment

III. OPPOSING ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.16

19.16 Requirements for Notice of Opposition.

19.16[1] File and Serve Notice on Plaintiff No Later Than Five Days Before Hearing. If a defendant desires to oppose the issuance of an RTAO, or objects to the amount to be secured by the attachment, the defendant must file and serve notice on the plaintiff no later than five court days prior to the date set for the hearing a notice of opposition [CCP § 484.060(a)].

19.16[2] Notice Must State Grounds, and Be Supported Factually and Legally. The notice of opposition must [CCP § 484.060(a)]:

- State the grounds on which the defendant opposes the issuance of the order or objects to the amount sought to be secured by the attachment;
- Be accompanied by an affidavit supporting any factual issues raised; and
- Be accompanied by a memorandum supporting any legal issues raised.

19.16[3] Notice May Include Claim of Exemption.

19.16[3][a] Exemption for Personal Property Described in Plaintiff's Application Will Be Lost If Not Claimed. If a defendant filing a notice of opposition claims that the personal property described in the plaintiff's application, or a portion of such property, is exempt from attachment, the defendant may include that claim in the notice of opposition [CCP §§ 484.060(b), 484.070(a)].

If the defendant files a notice of opposition and:

- Fails to make a claim of exemption; or
- Makes the claim but fails to prove that the personal property is exempt, the defendant may not later claim the exemption unless there is a change of circumstances [CCP §§ 482.100, 484.070(a)].

19.16[3][b] Exemption Claim for Personal Property Not Described in the Plaintiff's Application or Real Property Described in the Plaintiff's Application Is Optional. If a defendant filing a notice of opposition desires to claim at the hearing that real or personal property not described in the plaintiff's application, or real property described in the plaintiff's application is exempt from attachment, the defendant may include that claim in the notice of opposition [CCP §§ 484.060(b), 484.070(b)].

Failure to make the claim does not preclude the defendant from later claiming the exemption [CCP § 484.070(b)].

Warning:

If the defendant makes a claim, but fails to prove that the property is exempt from attachment, the defendant may not later claim that the property, or a portion thereof, is exempt unless there is a change of circumstances [CCP § 484.070(b), see CCP § 482.100].

19.16[3][c] Claim of Exemption Must Cite to Statutory Authority. The claim of exemption must [CCP § 484.070(c)]:

- Describe the property claimed to be exempt.
- Specify the specific statute supporting the claim.

Cross Reference:

Form for notice of opposition and claim of exemption, see 19.47.

19.16[3][d] Affidavit or Declaration Required. The claim of exemption must be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration supporting any factual issues raised by the claim and by a memorandum supporting any legal issues raised [CCP § 484.070(d)].

Cross Reference:

Form of declaration, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 62, Attachment (Matthew Bender).

19.16[3][e] Claim Must Be Served On Plaintiff Not Less Than Five Days Before Hearing. The claim of exemption, together with any supporting affidavit and memorandum must be filed and served on the plaintiff not less than five (5) days before the date set for the hearing [CCP § 484.070(e)].

19.16[3][f] Plaintiff May Respond to Defendant's Claim of Exemption. To oppose the claim of exemption, the plaintiff must file and serve on the defendant, not less than two (2) days before the date set for the hearing, a notice of opposition to the claim [CCP § 484.070(f)].

The plaintiff's notice of opposition must be accompanied by [CCP § 484.070(f)]:

- An affidavit supporting any factual issues raised; and
- A memorandum supporting any legal issues.

If all of the property described in the plaintiff's application is claimed to be exempt and the plaintiff does not file and serve a notice of opposition, no hearing will be held and no right to attach order or writ of attachment will issue, and any temporary protective order issued immediately expires [CCP § 484.070(f)].

19.16[3][g] If Plaintiff Opposes Exemption, Defendant Has Burden of Proof. If the plaintiff files and serves a notice of opposition to a defendant's claim of exemption, the defendant has the burden of proving that the property is exempt from attachment [CCP § 484.070(g)].

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.17

19.17 Claiming Exemption After Levy Has Been Made.

19.17[1] Make Claim Within 30 Days of Levy. When real or personal property has been levied on pursuant to a writ of attachment issued on an ex parte application, a claim of exemption must be made within 30 days after the levying officer serves the defendant with the notice of attachment describing the property [CCP § 485.610; Bank of America v. Salinas Nissan, Inc. (1989) 207 CA3d 260, 269-270, 254 CR 748 ].

A claim of exemption as to real property levied on pursuant to a writ of attachment may be claimed at any time prior to the entry of judgment [CCP §§ 485.610(a), 487.030].

An exemption for family necessities must be claimed not later than 30 days of the service of the notice of attachment [CCP § 485.610(b), see CCP § 482.100]:

III. OPPOSING ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.18

19.18 Applying to Set Aside Order and Quash Writ.

19.18[1] Filing Notice of Motion to Set Aside RTAO and Quash Writ. Any defendant whose property has been attached under a writ issued ex parte may apply for an order to set aside the RTAO, to quash the writ of attachment, to release any property levied on, or reduce the amount to be secured by the attachment [CCP § 485.240(a)].

The application must be made by filing a notice of motion with the court and serving it on the plaintiff [CCP § 485.240(a)].

19.18[2] Stating Grounds and Supporting Facts and Law. The notice of motion must [CCP § 485.240(b)]:

- State the grounds on which the motion is based;
- Be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration supporting any factual issues raised;
- Be accompanied by a memorandum supporting any legal issues raised.

Warning:

An assertion that the plaintiff would not have suffered "great or irreparable injury" if issuance or the order had been delayed until the matter could have been heard on notice [see 19.09] is not an allowable ground to set aside an order [CCP § 485.240(b)].

Cross Reference:

Form of application and notice of hearing for order to set aside RTAO, see 19.48.

19.18[3] Hearing to Determine Plaintiff's Right to RTAO and Amount to Be Secured. At the hearing on the motion, the court must determine [CCP § 485.240(c)]:

- Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the RTAO; or

- Whether the amount to be secured by the attachment should be reduced.

If the court finds that the plaintiff is not entitled to the RTAO, it will order the RTAO set aside, the writ of attachment quashed, and any property levied on pursuant to the writ released [CCP § 485.240(c)].

Warning:

If the court finds that the plaintiff is entitled to the RTAO, the plaintiff may apply for additional writs [CCP § 485.240(c)].

19.18[4] Court Will Consider All Relevant Evidence and Legal Argument. The court's determinations must be made on the basis of the pleadings and other papers in the record. However, on good cause, the court may receive and consider at the hearing additional evidence, and additional memoranda, or it may continue the hearing for the production of such additional evidence or memoranda [CCP § 485.240(d)].

III. OPPOSING ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.19

19.19 Applying to Substitute Undertaking for Attached Property.

19.19[1] Application Must Be by Noticed Motion. Whenever a writ of attachment is issued, a defendant may apply by noticed motion to the court in which the action is pending for an order permitting the defendant to substitute an undertaking for any property in California that has been or is subject to being attached [CCP § 489.310(a)].

19.19[2] Application May Require Additional Statement. The defendant's application must include a statement, executed under oath, describing the property to be released or protected from attachment if [CCP § 489.310(b)]:

- The defendant is applying for an order to release a portion of the property that has been attached; or
- The defendant is applying for an order preventing the attachment of property and the amount of the undertaking to be given is less than the amount to be secured by the attachment.

19.19[3] Amount of Undertaking Must Equal Amount of Attached Property, Not Exceeding Amount of Anticipated Judgment. The defendant must file an undertaking to pay the plaintiff the value of the property released, not exceeding the amount of any judgment that may be recovered by the plaintiff in the action against the defendant [CCP § 489.310(c)].

Cross Reference:

Form of undertaking by personal sureties, see 19.46.

19.19[4] Special Rules Apply to Actions Against Multiple Defendants.

19.19[4][a] Any Defendant May Make Application. Where an action is against more than one defendant, any defendant may make the application to file an undertaking [CCP § 489.310(d)].

19.19[4][b] When All Defendants Do Not Join Application, Statement Is Required. Where all the defendants do not join in the application, the application must include a statement, executed under oath, that [CCP § 489.310(d)]:

- Describes the character of the defendant's title to the property;

- Describes the manner in which the defendant acquired such title; and
- States whether any other defendant who has not joined in the application has an interest in the property.

19.19[4][c] Joint Application and Undertaking Required for Two or More Defendants. If two or more defendants have an interest in the same property, a joint application and undertaking must be filed to secure the release of the property [CCP § 489.310(d)].

III. OPPOSING ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.20

19.20 Applying for Release of Attachment on Excess Property.

19.20[1] Applying by Noticed Motion. The defendant may apply for an order releasing the attachment to the extent that the value of the defendant's interest clearly exceeds the amount to be secured by the attachment. The application must be made by noticed motion to the court in which the action is pending or in which the judgment in the action was entered [CCP § 488.720(a)].

19.20[2] Motion Must State Grounds and Be Supported Factually and Legally. The notice of motion [CCP § 488.720(b)]:

- Must contain a statement of the grounds on which the motion is based;
- Be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration supporting any factual issues; and
- Be accompanied by a memorandum supporting any legal issues raised.

➡ Cross Reference:

Form of application and notice of hearing for order to set aside RTAO, see 19.48.

19.20[3] Court Must Determine Value of Interest in Attached Property.

19.20[3][a] Applying Before Judgment. At the hearing on the motion, the court must determine the value of the defendant's interest in the attached property. The court must order the release of the attachment to the extent that the value of the defendant's interest in the property clearly exceeds the amount necessary to satisfy the amount secured by the attachment [CCP § 488.720(c)].

19.20[3][b] Applying After Judgment. If the application is made after judgment, the court must also consider the value of any property not attached in the action in determining whether the attachment is clearly excessive [CCP § 488.720(c)].

19.20[3][c] Requesting Consideration of Additional Evidence for Good Cause. The court's determinations must be made on the basis of the pleadings and other papers in the record. On good cause shown, however, the court may receive and consider additional oral or documentary evidence, and additional memoranda. The court may also continue the hearing for the production of additional evidence or memoranda [CCP § 488.720(d)].

III. OPPOSING ATTACHMENT OR TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE ORDER

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.22

19.22 Moving for Damages for Wrongful Attachment at Conclusion of Plaintiff's Action.

19.22[1] Wrongful Attachment Defined.

19.22[1][a] Action Where Attachment Is Not Authorized. It is a wrongful attachment if the levy under a writ of attachment or the service of temporary protective order was made in an action in which attachment is not authorized [CCP § 490.010].

Exception:

It is not a wrongful attachment if both of the following are established [CCP § 490.010]:

- The levy was not authorized solely because the claim did not arise out of the defendant's conduct of trade, business, or profession [CCP § 483.010(c); see 19.04[1][c]]; and
- The person who sold or leased, or licensed for use, the property, furnished the services, or loaned the money reasonably believed that it would not be used primarily for personal, family, or household use.

19.22[1][b] No Recovery of Judgment in Action. It is wrongful attachment if the levy under a writ of attachment or the service of a temporary protective order is in an action in which the plaintiff does not recover judgment [CCP § 490.010].

19.22[1][c] Property Is Exempt and Attachment Is Obtained Ex Parte. It is wrongful attachment when property is exempt from attachment and the levy under a writ of attachment is obtained [CCP § 490.010]:

- Pursuant to the ex parte procedure for obtaining additional writs after the noticed hearing procedure [CCP § 484.510 et seq.; see 19.10]; or
- Pursuant to the ex parte hearing procedure for obtaining a writ of attachment [CCP § 485.010 et seq.; see 19.08].

Exception:

It is not wrongful attachment if the plaintiff shows that he or she reasonably believed that the property attached was not exempt from attachment [CCP § 490.010(c)].

 Cross Reference:

Forms of complaints for damages on attachment undertaking, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 62, Attachment (Matthew Bender).

19.22[2] Moving to Enforce Liability on Bond.

19.22[2][a] Independent Action Not Necessary. The defendant may recover damages for wrongful attachment by a motion to enforce liability on the bond. The motion may be made in the trial court without the necessity of an independent action [CCP § 996.440(a)].

 Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 538, Suretyships, Bonds, and Undertakings, § 538.40 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

19.22[2][b] Motion Must Be Made Within One Year After Conclusion of Action. The motion for damages for wrongful attachment may not be filed or notice served on the plaintiff until after [CCP § 996.440(b)]:

- Entry of the final judgment in the action for which damages are sought; or
- Either of the following:
  - ☐ The time for appeal from the judgment has expired.
  - ☐ If an appeal is filed, until the appeal is finally determined.

The motion may not be filed or notice served more than one year after the later of the preceding dates [CCP § 996.440(b)].

19.22[2][c] Sureties Must Be Joined. The defendant must join the sureties on an undertaking for wrongful attachment liability, and any liability binds the plaintiff and sureties jointly and severally. However, the liability of a surety is limited to the amount of the undertaking [CCP §§ 996.430(a), 996.470].

19.22[3] Plaintiff's Liability for Wrongful Attachment.

19.22[3][a] Damages Limited by Amount of Undertaking. The plaintiff's liability for causing a wrongful attachment includes both [CCP § 490.020(a)]:

- All damages proximately caused to the defendant by the wrongful attachment; and
- All costs and expenses, including attorney's fees, reasonably expended in defeating the attachment.

The plaintiff's liability for wrongful attachment is limited by the amount of the undertaking [CCP § 490.020(b)].

19.22[3][b] Damages Offset Against Plaintiff's Unsatisfied Judgment. The amount of any recovery for wrongful attachment is offset, insofar as possible, against any unsatisfied amounts owed to the plaintiff by the defendant on the judgment in the action for which wrongful attachment damages are awarded [CCP § 490.040].

19.22[3][c] Common Law Remedies Are Available. The defendant may recover for damages caused by an attachment or protective order on any common law theory of recovery [CCP § 490.060].

IV. LEVY PROCEDURES

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.24

19.24 Levy on Writ of Attachment.

19.24[1] Direct Writ to Levying Officer. A "levying officer" is a sheriff, or marshal who is authorized to execute a writ under the Attachment Law [CCP § 481.140]. A writ of attachment must be directed to a levying officer in the county in which property of the defendant described in the writ is located and to any registered process server [CCP § 488.020(a)].

Distinguish:

A levy turnover order under CCP § 482.080(a) from a California court cannot be directed to either a levying officer outside the county in which the property is located or outside the state [ Pacific Decision Sciences Corp. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 1100, 1108, 18 CR3d 104 ].

19.24[2] Include Required Information. The writ must include the following information [CCP § 488.010]:

- The date of issuance.
- The title of the court that issued the writ and the cause and number of the action.
- The name and address of the plaintiff and the name and last known address of the defendant.
- The amount to be secured by the attachment.
- A description of the property to be levied on.

➡ Cross Reference:

Form of writ, see 19.52.

19.24[3] Give Instructions to Levying Officer.

19.24[3][a] Written Instructions Required. The plaintiff must give the levying officer written instructions containing the information needed or requested by the levying officer to comply with the provisions of the Attachment

Law, including but not limited to the following [CCP § 488.030(a)]:

- An adequate description of any property to be levied on.
- A statement as to whether or not the property is a dwelling.
- If the property is a dwelling, whether or not it is real or personal property.

19.24[3][b] Signature Required. The instructions must be signed by the plaintiff's attorney of record or by the plaintiff, if he or she does not have an attorney of record [CCP § 488.030(a)].

19.24[3][c] Include Correct Names and Addresses. If the levying officer is required under the Attachment Law to serve a writ, order, notice or other paper on any person, the plaintiff also must include in the instructions to the levying officer the correct name and address of the person. The plaintiff must use reasonable diligence to ascertain the correct name and address [CCP § 488.040].

19.26 Comply With Service Requirements.

19.26[1] Service of Copy of Summons and Complaint. If a copy of the summons and complaint has not previously been served on the defendant, the levying officer must be instructed to serve the summons and complaint at the same time as the writ of attachment [CCP § 488.020(c)].

19.26[2] Service of Copies of Writ and Notice. On, or promptly after the time of levy, the levying officer must serve a copy of the writ of attachment and notice of attachment on the defendant [CCP § 488.305].

19.26[3] Service of Notice of Attachment. A notice of attachment must inform the person who is served with the attachment of all of the following [CCP § 488.060]:

- The capacity in which the person is notified.
- The specific property sought to be attached.
- The person's rights under attachment, including the right to make a third-party claim pursuant to CCP § 720.010 et seq.
- The person's duties under the attachment.

- The sureties are insufficient.
- The amount is insufficient.
- The bond is insufficient for any other cause.

A temporary protective order must include a comparable statement [CCP § 489.230(b)].

IV. LEVY PROCEDURES

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.27

19.27 Levying Officer Must Execute Writ in Accordance With Statutory Requirements.

19.27[1] Must Act Without Delay. On receipt of written instructions from the plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney, the levying officer must levy the writ without delay on the property described in the writ, or so much of that property as is clearly sufficient to satisfy the amount to be secured by the attachment. [CCP § 488.020(b)].

19.27[2] Must Follow Instructions. The levying officer must act in accordance with the written instructions to the extent the actions are taken in conformance with the provisions of the Attachment Law [CCP § 488.030(b)].

Exception:

If the levying officer has actual knowledge that the information is incorrect, the levying officer may not rely on the information contained in the written instructions [CCP § 488.030(c)].

Strategic Point:

Although levying officer must follow instructions, it is advisable for the party seeking to levy on a writ of attachment to coordinate closely with the sheriff or marshal's office to assure that any individual requirements of the office are satisfied.

19.27[3] Must Take Custody of Property. Where the method of levy on property requires that property be taken into custody, the levying officer may do so by [CCP § 488.090]:

- Removing the property to a place of safekeeping.
- Installing a keeper.
- Otherwise obtaining possession or control of the property.

19.30 Levy Creates Attachment Lien.

19.30[1] Lien Begins at Time of Levy. A levy on property under a writ of attachment creates an attachment lien on the property from the time of the levy until the attachment expires [CCP § 488.500(a)].

19.30[2] Lien Expires After Three Years. Unless released or discharged sooner, an attachment ceases to be of any force or effect and the property levied on must be released no later than three years from the date of issuance of the writ of attachment [CCP § 488.510(a)].

19.30[3] Plaintiff May Move to Extend Lien for One Year. To extend a lien, the plaintiff must present a motion showing good cause for the extension not less than 10 nor more than 60 days before the three-year limit expires [CCP § 488.510(b)].

Prerequisite:

The plaintiff must give the defendant at least five days' notice of the motion [CCP § 488.510(b)].

19.30[4] Eight-Year Maximum Period. An attachment may be extended from time to time for one-year periods, but the maximum period, including extensions, may not exceed eight years from the date the writ of attachment was issued [CCP § 488.510(d)].

V. OBTAINING A LIEN AGAINST DEFENDANT'S POTENTIAL RECOVERY IN ANOTHER PENDING ACTION OR PROCEEDING

19.33 Obtaining Lien on Pending Actions or Rights Under Judgment.

19.33[1] Money or Property Must Be Subject to Attachment. If the defendant is a party to a pending action or special proceeding other than the action between the plaintiff and defendant, the plaintiff may obtain an attachment lien on both of the following [CCP § 491.410(a)]:

- Any cause of action of the defendant for money or property if the money or property would be subject to attachment should the defendant prevail.
- The rights of the defendant to money or property under any judgment subsequently obtained in the action or proceeding if the money or property would be subject to attachment.

19.33[2] Applying for Order Creating Lien. The plaintiff may apply for the order permitting creation of the lien in a pending action or special proceeding at the same time the plaintiff applies for an RTAO [CCP § 491.415(b)].

If the plaintiff has already obtained an RTAO, an application for an order permitting creation of the lien may be applied for in the same manner as a writ of attachment [CCP § 491.415(b)].

Prerequisite--Undertaking Required:

As a prerequisite to obtaining an order, the plaintiff must also file an undertaking pursuant to CCP §§ 489.210, 482.220 [CCP § 491.415(b)].

➤ Cross References:

Discussion of undertaking, see 19.13.

Form of undertaking, see 19.46.

Forms of notice of order and order permitting creation of lien, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 62, Attachment (Matthew Bender).

19.33[3] Making Required Filings Including Undertaking. To obtain a lien, the plaintiff must file all of the following in the pending action or special proceeding [CCP § 491.410(b)]:

- A notice of lien [see 19.33[4]].
- A copy of the RTAO.
- A copy of the order permitting creation of a lien in the pending action or special proceeding made by the court that issued the RTAO.

Prerequisite--Undertaking Required:

Before an order permitting a creation of lien is issued, the plaintiff must file an undertaking [CCP § 489.210].

 Cross References:

Discussion of undertaking, see 19.13.

Form of undertaking, see 19.46.

19.33[4] Notice of Lien Must Contain Required Information, and Be Served on All Parties.

19.33[4][a] Contents. The notice of lien must contain all of the following information [CCP § 491.420]:

- A statement that a lien has been created under CCP §§ 491.410-491.470, and the title of the court and the cause and number of the pending action or proceeding in which the notice of lien is filed.
- The name and last known address of the defendant.
- The name and address of the plaintiff.
- The title of the court where the plaintiff's action against the defendant is pending and the cause and number of the action.
- The amount required to secure the amount to be secured by the attachment at the time the notice of lien is filed in the action or proceeding.
- A statement that the lien attaches to any cause of action of the defendant in the pending action or proceeding and to the defendant's rights to money or property under any judgment procured in the action or proceeding.
- A statement that no compromise, dismissal, settlement or satisfaction of the pending action or proceeding or any of the defendant's rights to money or property under any judgment procured may be entered into by or on behalf of the defendant.
- A statement that the defendant may not enforce the defendant's rights to money or property under any judgment procured in the pending action or proceeding by writ or otherwise, unless one of the following requirements is satisfied:
  - The prior approval of the court in which the action or proceeding is pending has been obtained; or

☐ The written consent of the plaintiff has been obtained or the plaintiff has released the lien.

➡ Cross Reference:

Form of notice of lien in pending action, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 62, Attachment, § 62.193 (Judicial Council Form AT-180) (Matthew Bender).

19.33[4][b] Service. On, or promptly after the filing of the notice of lien and RTAO, the plaintiff must serve on all parties who have made an appearance in the action or special proceeding [CCP § 491.410(c)]:

- A copy of the notice of lien; and
- The date when the notice of lien was filed.

19.34 Claiming Exemption.

19.34[1] Exemption in Opposition to Creation of Lien. The defendant may claim an exemption if the money or property sought by the defendant would be exempt from attachment should the defendant prevail in the other action or proceeding [CCP § 491.415(c)].

The exemption must be claimed and determined in the same manner as an exemption is claimed and determined on application for a writ of attachment [CCP § 491.415(c)].

➡ Cross References:

See 19.16[3], 19.17.

19.34[2] Exemption After Creation of Lien.

19.34[2][a] Filing Noticed Motion. If a lien has already been created, the defendant may claim that all or any portion of the money or property that the defendant may recover in the action or special proceedings is exempt from attachment. The application must be filed and served on the plaintiff not later than 30 days after the defendant has notice of the creation of the lien [CCP § 491.470(a)].

Warning:

The failure of the defendant to make a claim of exemption constitutes a waiver of the exemption [CCP § 491.470(a)].

Cross Reference:

Form of notice of motion, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 62, Attachment (Matthew Bender).

19.34[2][b] Opposing Exemption. The plaintiff may file a notice of opposition to the exemption not less than two days before the date set for hearing [CCP § 484.070(f)].

19.34[2][c] Court's Determination of Exemption Claim. The court may determine the exemption claim at any time prior to the entry of judgment in the action or special proceeding, or it may consolidate the exemption hearing with the hearing on a motion to satisfy the lien after judgment [CCP § 491.470(b), see CCP § 491.460].

VI. OBTAINING EXAMINATION OF THIRD PERSONS

19.38 Applying for Court Order.

19.38[1] Ex Parte Application. The plaintiff may apply ex parte for a court order directing a third person to appear at a specified time and place to answer questions concerning the property of the defendant or a debt owed to the defendant [CCP § 491.110(a)].

19.38[2] Affidavit Required. The plaintiff must prove by affidavit, which may be based on the affiant's information and belief, that [CCP § 491.110(a)]:

- The third person has possession or control of property in which the defendant has an interest or that the third person is indebted to the defendant in an amount exceeding $250.00.
- The plaintiff has an RTAO.

On such proof, the court will make an order directing the third person to appear before the court or a referee appointed by the court to provide information concerning the property or debt [CCP § 491.110(a)].

19.38[3] Serving Copy of Order on Third Person and Defendant. Not less than 10 days prior to the date set for the examination, the plaintiff must serve a copy of the order [CCP § 491.110(b)]:

- Personally on the third person.
- Personally or by mail on the defendant.

19.38[4] Service of Order Creates Lien on Defendant's Interest in Third Person's Property.

19.38[4][a] Property Must Be Identifiable. If the property or the debt is described in a manner reasonably adequate to permit it to be identified, service of the order on the third person creates a lien on the defendant's interest in the property in the third person's possession or control or on the debt owed to the defendant [CCP § 491.110(c)].

19.38[4][b] Lien Continues for One Year. The lien continues for one year from the date of the order unless the court extends it or terminates it earlier [CCP § 491.110(c)].

The lien generally continues even if the property is transferred or encumbered [CCP § 491.200].

19.38[5] Order Must Notify Third Person of Potential Sanctions. The order must contain the following statement in 14-point boldface type if printed or in capital letters if typed [CCP § 491.110(d)]:

"NOTICE TO PERSON SERVED. If you fail to appear at the time and place specified in this order, you may be subject to arrest and punishment for contempt of court and the court may make an order requiring you to pay the reasonable attorney's fees incurred by the plaintiff in this proceeding."

Cross Reference:

Form of application and order, see 19.55.

19.38[6] Plaintiff Must Tender Mileage Fees to Third Person. When the order is served, the person serving the order must tender mileage fees to the third person [CCP § 491.110(e)].

VI. OBTAINING EXAMINATION OF THIRD PERSONS

2-19 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 19.40

19.40 Applying for Order Forbidding Transfer or Payment of Property.

19.40[1] Ex Parte Application to Forbid Transfer to Defendant. The plaintiff may apply ex parte for the court to make an order forbidding transfer of the property to the defendant or payment of the debt to the defendant until the interests in the property or the existence of the debt is determined [CCP § 491.170(c)].

Consider:

The court may require an undertaking [CCP § 491.170(c)].

► Cross References:

Discussion of Undertaking, see 19.13.

Form of Undertaking, see 19.46.

19.40[2] Noticed Application to Forbid Transfer to Any Person. On the plaintiff's application on noticed motion, if the court determines that:

- The defendant probably owns an interest in the property; or
- The debt probably is owed to the defendant,

the court may forbid the transfer or other disposition of the property to any person or forbid payment of the debt until the interests in the property or the existence of the debt are determined [CCP § 491.170(d)].

Prerequisite:

The court will require the plaintiff to furnish an undertaking [CCP § 491.170(d)].

I. STRATEGY

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.01

20.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Applying for a writ of possession [see 20.03 -20.12, 20.14; Forms: see 20.27 -20.30, 20.35].
- Filing an undertaking for the writ of possession [see 20.13; Form: see 20.31].
- Ex parte application for a writ of possession [see 20.15; Forms: see 20.33, 20.35].
- Turnover orders and searches of private places not listed in the writ [see 20.16, 20.17].
- Execution of the writ [see 20.18].
- Applying for a temporary restraining order protecting rights in property [see 20.19; Forms: see 20.36, 20.37].
- Opposing writs of possession [ see 20.20 -20.24; Form: see 20.33].
- Filing an undertaking to keep or recover possession of property [see 20.25].
- Seeking relief from the writ following plaintiff's failure to recover judgment in the underlying action [see 20.26; Form: see 20.34].

Core Statute:

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
I. STRATEGY

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.02

20.02 Objective and Strategy.

"Claim and delivery" is a provisional remedy that may be used by the plaintiff in any action seeking recovery of particular personal property to obtain immediate temporary possession of that property from the defendant until such time as a final judgment in the action determines the rights to title and possession of that property [see Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 CA4th 233, 241-244, 134 CR2d 557 ; Ananda Church of Self-Realization v. Massachusetts Bay Ins. Co. (2002) 95 CA4th 1273, 1281-1282, 116 CR2d 370 ; Lueter v. State of California (2002) 94 CA4th 1285, 1300, 115 CR2d 68 ; Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 C3d 258, 264-265, 96 CR 42, 486 P2d 1242 ]. The remedy is invoked by applying to the court for a "writ of possession" [see CCP § 512.010]. It cannot be employed independently of an underlying action [ McFaddin v. H.S. Crocker Co. (1963) 219 CA2d 585, 590, 33 CR 389 ].

One strategic use of claim and delivery is to deprive the defendant of possession of the subject property and thereby hope to stimulate a settlement. However, counsel should be sure the writ of possession is valid and satisfies the statutory criteria and is not used for an ulterior purpose because case opinions have found the improper use of a writ of possession will support an abuse of process action [see Spellens v. Spellens (1957) 49 C2d 210, 229-230, 317 P2d 613 (husband's use of claim and delivery for sheriff to come and seal personal property followed by husband's offer to drop claim and delivery in return for wife dropping main suit upheld as abuse of process); Tranchina v. Arcinas (1947) 78 CA2d 522, 524, 178 P2d 65 (abuse of process for defendants to use writ of possession to evict plaintiffs from home on the ulterior purpose of circumventing wartime housing regulations)]. A defendant facing such a situation may file a counter-claim asserting abuse of process [see Spellens v. Spellens (1957) 49 C2d 210, 229-230, 317 P2d 613 ].

A party seeking a writ of possession should be prepared to answer the court's inquiries about why it is equitable to relieve the defendant of possession of the property before the resolution of the underlying action. Courts have a natural reluctance against changing the position of the parties before complete resolution of the action, recognizing that a provisional remedy later reversed causes more harm than good. Claim and delivery is subject to careful judicial scrutiny, and the former statutory scheme was declared unconstitutional in 1971 on Fourth and Fifth Amendment grounds and was subsequently rewritten by the Legislature [see Blair v. Pitchess (1971) 5 C3d 258, 283, 96 CR 42, 486 P2d 1242 (former claim and delivery statutes violated search and seizure laws and seizure of property without due process)].

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
II. APPLYING FOR WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.03

20.03 CHECKLIST: Applying for Writ of Possession.

☐ Determine whether or not immediate possession of subject property would be advantageous to plaintiff.

- ☐ May help preserve and protect property against loss, damage, or sale by defendant.
- ☐ May help stimulate settlement of action.
- ☐ Conversely, will generate additional time and expense of legal fees, expenses of obtaining undertaking, and fees for execution of writ and storage of property.
- ☐ Potential liability for plaintiff if plaintiff ultimately loses in underlying action [see CCP § 512.120].

☐ Determine likelihood of success in obtaining possession of subject property.

- ☐ Is defendant in possession of property?
- ☐ Can plaintiff identify property with sufficient particularity?
- ☐ Can plaintiff make showing of probable validity of plaintiff's claim to possession of property?
- ☐ Does plaintiff have probable cause to believe property is located in a specific place?

Authority:

CCP §§ 512.010(b), 512.060, 512.080

Discussion:

See 20.05[3]

- ☐ Determine best time to apply for writ of possession.
- ☐ Upon filing underlying complaint.
  - ☐ At some later time prior to entry of final judgment.

Authority:

CCP § 512.010(a)

Discussion:

See 20.05[6]

- ☐ Determine whether to apply for a writ of possession ex parte or by noticed motion.
- ☐ Notice and hearing on motion normally is required.
  - ☐ Ex parte application may be made under limited circumstances.

Authority:

CCP § 512.020

Discussion:

See 20.05[7]

- ☐ Determine whether to apply for temporary restraining order in addition to writ of possession.

Authority:

CCP §§ 513.010, 513.020, 516.050

Discussion:

See 20.19

- ☐ Draft application for writ of possession and supporting documents:
- ☐ Notice of Application for Writ of Possession and Hearing.

Content Note:

The application must be executed under oath [CCP § 512.010(a)].

- ☐ Application for writ of Possession and for temporary Restraining Order (if latter is applicable).

- ☐ Order for Writ of Possession.
- ☐ Writ of Possession.
- ☐ Temporary Restraining Order, if applicable.
- ☐ Declaration for Ex Parte writ of Possession, if applicable.
- ☐ Affidavits satisfying requirements of CCP § 512.010(b), if any.
- ☐ Affidavits satisfying additional requirements for ex parte motion under CCP § 512.020(b), if applicable.

Authority:

CCP §§ 511.010, 512.020

Discussion:

See 20.06

Form:

See 20.28

- ☐ If basis of plaintiff's claim is written instrument, attach copy of instrument to application.

Authority:

CCP § 512.010(a)

Discussion:

See 20.06[3]

- ☐ File application and supporting documents with court in which underlying action was brought.
- ☐ Serve on defendant prior to hearing:

Exceptions:

In the case of ex parte applications, these documents must be served on the defendant if a writ of possession is issued following the ex parte application [CCP § 512.020(b)]. If the defendant has not appeared in the action, service must be made in the same manner as a summons.

- ☐ Copy of summons and complaint.
- ☐ Notice of Application and Hearing.

- ☐ Copy of application and any supporting affidavits.

Authority:

CCP § 512.030; see CCP § 512.040 (notice of application and hearing)

Discussion:

See 20.11 (noticed application), 20.15[9] (ex parte application)

 Cross Reference:

8.07 et seq. (service of summons)

- ☐ File with court and serve on defendant any affidavits and memoranda intended to be relied on at hearing.

Authority:

CCP § 512.050

Discussion:

See 20.12[1]

- ☐ Appear at hearing.

- ☐ Present further evidence or memoranda as necessary and as permitted by court.
- ☐ Establish probable validity of claim of possession.
- ☐ If necessary, show probable cause to enter private place to obtain property sought to be recovered.

Authority:

CCP § 512.050

Discussion:

See 20.12[3]

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
II. APPLYING FOR WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.04

20.04 Options and Strategies for Party Applying for Writ.

Claim and delivery, commonly referred to as a writ of possession, is a provisional remedy used to secure personal property pending the outcome of an action. The purpose of this remedy is to prevent the property from being lost or destroyed during the time it takes to resolve a dispute. Plaintiffs seeking this remedy must be mindful that the court will not grant the writ unless the plaintiff can establish the probable validity of the underlying claim and the plaintiff has provided a sufficient undertaking to cover at least twice the value of the property. The monetary aspects of this remedy may be prohibitive for some plaintiffs.

Before seeking this remedy by writ of possession, determine if the less formal method of a "turnover" order may be used, or if the plaintiff wants to use the turnover order in addition to the writ of possession. The turnover order follows the method of a noticed motion instead of the writ procedure, and carries the penalty of contempt for failure to comply. Also, the plaintiff, in addition to applying for the writ, may opt for injunctive relief in the form of a temporary restraining order that prevents the defendant from disposing of, concealing, or impairing the property. The exigency of the situation and the nature of property, such as perishable goods, may dictate the methods used to protect the property.

Be mindful that the defendant may defeat attempts to gain possession of the property by filing a comparable undertaking. When presented with this situation, object to the sufficiency of the defendant's undertaking using the same grounds that the defendant may use in objecting to the plaintiff's undertaking.

Warning:

Do not attempt to recover possession by using a preliminary injunction or by the terms of a contract or lease. Claim and delivery is the proper judicial remedy to secure possession of personal property pending the outcome of an action [ Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 CA4th 233, 243, 134 CR2d 557 ].

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
II. APPLYING FOR WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.05

20.05 Plaintiff May Use Writ of Possession to Recover Possession of Personal Property Prior to Entry of Final Judgment.

20.05[1] Nature of Remedy. The provisional remedy of claim and delivery may be asserted to secure possession of personal property pending the outcome of an action [see Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 CA4th 233, 241, 134 CR2d 557; Sea Rail Truckloads, Inc. v. Pullman, Inc. (1982) 131 CA3d 511, 514-515, 182 CR 560; CCP § 512.010(a)]. Courts, practitioners, and the Code of Civil Procedure commonly refer to this remedy as one for a writ of possession.

20.05[2] Property Must Be in Defendant's Possession. In order to invoke the claim and delivery statutes, the property must be in the possession of the defendant, because the purpose of the claim and delivery statutes is the recovery of actual possession of property. If the property has been lost or destroyed before an action is brought, the appropriate remedy is a cause of action for damages, such as are available in a cause of action for conversion [ Lueter v. State of California (2002) 94 CA4th 1285, 1300-1302, 115 CR2d 68 ].

20.05[3] Basic Prerequisites for Obtaining Remedy. To obtain provisional possession of personal property, the plaintiff generally must provide an undertaking [see 20.13] and establish the probable validity of his or her claim to that property [see CCP §§ 512.010, 512.060, 512.080, 515.010]. Possession of the property is obtained by levying execution of a writ of possession [see 20.18] or, alternatively, by obtaining a "turnover" order from the court [see 20.16].

20.05[4] Who May Seek Writ of Possession. The plaintiff may apply for a writ of possession [CCP § 512.010(a)]. For this purpose, "plaintiff" means a person who files a complaint or cross-complaint [CCP § 511.080]. A writ of possession cannot be employed independently of an underlying action [ McFaddin v. H.S. Crocker Co. (1963) 219 CA2d 585, 590, 33 CR 389 ].

20.05[5] Application to Court in Which Action Is Brought. A plaintiff may apply for a writ of possession by filing a written application for the writ with the court in which the action is brought [CCP § 512.010(a)].

20.05[6] Timing of Application. An application for a writ of possession may be filed [CCP § 512.010(a)]:

- At the time the complaint is filed.

- At any later time.

Since claim and delivery is a provisional remedy, it is no longer appropriate once final judgment had been entered determining the rights to title and possession of that property [see Ananda Church of Self-Realization v. Massachusetts Bay Ins. Co. (2002) 95 CA4th 1273, 1281-1282, 116 CR2d 370 ; CCP § 512.120 (return of property if plaintiff fails to obtain final judgment)].

20.05[7] Noticed Motion Is Usually Required, but May Proceed Ex Parte in Limited Circumstances. Plaintiff ordinarily must apply for a writ of possession by noticed motion [CCP §§ 511.020, 512.020(a)]. Under some circumstances, however, an ex parte application may be made [see CC § 512.020(b)].

II. APPLYING FOR WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.06

20.06 Preparing Application for Writ of Possession.

20.06[1] Statements Must Be in Writing and Executed Under Oath. Application for a writ of possession must be made in writing [CCP § 512.010(a)] and must be executed under oath [CCP § 512.010(b)].

20.06[2] Use Judicial Council Form CD-100. Judicial Council Form CD-100, Application for Writ of Possession, may be used to apply for the writ of possession, either after a hearing or ex parte. It must be used to request a temporary restraining order, if desired. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

➡ Cross References:

See 20.19 (temporary restraining order). Form, see 20.27.

20.06[3] Required Contents of Application for Writ. The application must include all of the following [CCP § 512.010(b)]:

- A showing of the basis of the plaintiff's claim and that the plaintiff is entitled to possession of the property claimed. If the basis of the plaintiff's claim is a written instrument, a copy of the instrument must be attached.
- A showing that the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant.
- The manner in which the defendant came into possession of the property.
- The reason for the detention according to plaintiff's best knowledge, information, and belief.
- A particular description of the property and a statement of its value.
- A statement of the property's location, according to plaintiff's best knowledge, information, and belief.

- If the property, or some part of it, is within a private place which may have to be entered to take possession, a showing that there is probable cause to believe that the property is located there.
- A statement that the property has not been taken for a tax, assessment, or fine, pursuant to a statute; or seized under an execution against the property of the plaintiff; or, if so seized, that it is exempt by statute from such seizure.

20.06[4] Must Show Basis for Statements Made on Knowledge, Information or Belief. When making statements based on knowledge, information and belief, the application must state [Law Revision Commission Comment to CCP § 516.030]:

- The facts on which belief is based.
- The nature of the information.
- The reliability of the informants, if any.

20.06[5] Statements May Be in Supporting Affidavits or Verified Complaint. The application may be supported by one or more separate affidavits or by a verified complaint. This is not required, however, if the application itself satisfies the statutory requirements [CCP §§ 512.010(c), 516.030; Legislative Committee Comment to CCP § 512.010].

20.08[2] Contents of Proposed Writ of Possession. In drafting the proposed writ of possession, plaintiff must do all of the following [CCP §§ 512.080, 515.010]:

- Direct the proposed writ of possession to the levying officer within whose jurisdiction the property is located.
- Describe the specific property to be seized.
- Specify any private place that may need to be entered to take possession of the property of some part of it.
- Direct the levying officer to levy on the property if found and to retain it in custody until released or sold.
- Inform defendant of the right to object to plaintiff's undertaking or to obtain redelivery of the property by filing an undertaking.

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.09

20.09 Preparing Notice of Application for Writ of Possession and Hearing.

20.09[1] Use Judicial Council Form CD-110. Judicial Council Form CD-110, Notice of Application for Writ of Possession and Hearing, must be used. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.35; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.28.

20.09[2] Contents of Notice of Application and Hearing. The Notice of Application and Hearing must inform the defendant of all of the following [CCP § 512.040]:

- A hearing will be held at a place and at a time, to be specified in the notice, on plaintiff's application for a writ of possession.
- The writ will be issued if the court finds that the plaintiff's claim is probably valid and the other requirements for issuing the writ are established. The hearing is not for the purpose of determining whether the claim is actually valid. The determination of the actual validity of the claim will be made in subsequent proceedings in the action and will not be affected by the decision at the hearing on the application for the writ.
- If the defendant desires to oppose the issuance of the writ, the defendant must file with the court either an affidavit providing evidence sufficient to defeat the plaintiff's right to issuance of the writ or an undertaking to stay the delivery of the property in accordance with CCP § 515.020.

The notice also must contain the following statement: "If you believe the plaintiff may not be entitled to possession of the property claimed, you may wish to seek the advice of an attorney. Such attorney should be consulted promptly so that he may assist you before the time set for the hearing" [CCP § 512.040(d)].

20.10 Preparing Supporting Affidavits or Declarations.

20.10[1] Form of Affidavit or Declaration. Affidavits must be filed and served in support of the writ of possession [CCP §§ 512.030, 512.050]. Matters required to be supported by affidavit CCP § 2003 may also be supported by a declaration under penalty of perjury [CCP § 2015.5(a)]. Although either will satisfy the statutory requirements, the common practice is to use a declaration under penalty of perjury.

20.10[2] Content of Affidavit. Except when matters are specifically permitted to be shown by information and belief, each affidavit must show affirmatively that the affiant, if sworn as a witness, can testify competently to the facts stated in the affidavit. The affiant may be any person, whether or not a party to the action, who has knowledge of the facts [CCP § 516.030].

"Person" includes an individual, a corporation, a partnership or other unincorporated association, a limited liability company, and a public entity [CCP § 511.070]. A "public entity" includes the state, the Regents of the University of California, a county, city, district, public authority, public agency, and any other political subdivision or public corporation in the state. - A copy of the summons and complaint.
- A notice of application and hearing.
- A copy of the application and any supporting affidavit.
- A proposed order for writ of possession.
- A proposed writ of possession.

If the defendant has not appeared in the action, service must be made in the same manner as a summons [CCP § 512.030(b)].

20.11[3] Time Requirements for Service. Time requirements for serving an application for a writ of possession are governed by the general requirements for written motions specified in CCP § 1005(b) [CCP § 1005(a)(2) (specific application to claim and delivery statutes)].

➤ Cross Reference:

See Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

All moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing unless the court orders otherwise. If the notice is served by mail and both the place of mailing and place of address are in California, the period is 16 court days plus 5 calendar days. The period is 16 court days plus 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside California but within the United States, and 16 court days plus 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States. If the notice is served by fax, express mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the notice period is 16 court days plus 2 calendar days [CCP § 1005(b)].

20.12[2] Court Rules Based on Pleadings, Papers of Record, and Additional Evidence and Authorities Presented at Hearing. At the hearing on plaintiff's motion for a writ of possession, the court makes its determination based on the pleadings and all other papers of record [CCP § 512.050].

20.12[3] Presentation of Additional Evidence, Memoranda at Hearing. At the hearing, either party may present additional evidence and authority and show good cause why that evidence must be received. On a showing of good cause, the court may receive and consider that additional evidence and authority; or continue the hearing for the production of additional evidence and authority [CCP § 512.050].

20.12[4] Plaintiff Must Establish Probable Validity of Claim. At the hearing, plaintiff must establish the following [CCP § 512.060].

- The probable validity of his or her claim to possession of the property. "Probable validity" means that it is "more likely than not" that the plaintiff will obtain a judgment against the defendant under the underlying claim [CCP § 511.090; see, e.g., RCA Service Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 137 CA3d 1, 3, 187 CR 602 (probable validity established by fact that lessee's right to damages for alleged defects in equipment could not possibly defeat lessor's ownership rights and right to reclaim equipment)]. Plaintiff will fail to establish probable validity if defendant shows there is a reasonable probability defendant can assert a successful defense to the action [CCP § 512.060; Legislative Committee Comment/Law Revision Commission comment to CCP § 512.060].

- That plaintiff has satisfied the applicable requirements for an undertaking.

- If writ will direct levying officer to enter any private place to take possession of the property, establish that there is probable cause to believe that the property is located there.

20.13 Undertaking Required.

20.13[1] Plaintiff Must File Undertaking Before Writ Can Be Granted. Plaintiff must file an undertaking with the court before the court can grant a writ of possession [CCP § 515.010; Law Revision Commission comment to CCP § 515.010].

Exception:

If the court finds that the defendant has no interest in the property, it must waive the requirement of the plaintiff's undertaking and include in the order for the issuance of the writ the amount of the defendant's undertaking sufficient to satisfy CCP § 515.020(b) [CCP § 515.010(b)].

20.13[2] Sureties Bound for Return of Property and Any Sums Awarded to Defendant. Plaintiff's undertaking must provide that the sureties are bound to the defendant for [CCP § 515.010]:

- The return of the property to the defendant, if return of the property is ordered; and
- For the payment to defendant of any sum recovered against plaintiff.

20.13[3] Undertaking Must Not Be Less Than Twice Value of Defendant's Interest in Property. The amount of plaintiff's undertaking may not be less than twice the value of defendant's interest in the property. It may be in a greater amount [CCP § 515.010]. Plaintiff may, if desired, set the amount of the undertaking at a level sufficient to protect his/her interest in the property should defendant give a release undertaking [Law Revision Commission Comment to CCP § 515.010].

Plaintiff must determine the value of defendant's interest in the property by considering all factors necessary to determine that interest, including but not limited to [CCP § 515.010]:

- The market value of the property less the amount due and owing on any conditional sales contract or security agreement; and
- All liens and encumbrances on the property.

20.13[4] Use Judicial Council Form CD-140. Judicial Council Form CD-140, Undertaking by Personal Sureties, must be used for giving a statutory undertaking by personal sureties in a claim and delivery action. The form may be used for either a plaintiff's or a defendant's undertaking. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

20.15 Ex Parte Applications.

20.15[1] Ex Parte Application Proper If Property Was Stolen, Is Credit Card, or Was Obtained in Course of Trade for Commercial Purposes. Plaintiff may apply for a writ of possession ex parte if one of the following conditions exists [CCP § 512.020(b); Legislative Committee comment to CCP § 512.020]:

- Defendant (including a cross-defendant) feloniously took the property from plaintiff and still has possession of it.

Exception:

Plaintiff must apply by noticed motion, not ex parte, if the property was taken by fraud or embezzlement. [see CCP § 512.020(b)(1)].

- The property sought to be recovered is a credit card.
- Defendant obtained possession in the ordinary course of defendant's trade or business for commercial purposes, but only if all of the following prerequisites are satisfied [CCP § 512.020(b)]:
  - ☐ The property is not necessary for the support of defendant or defendant's family.
  - ☐ There is an immediate danger that the property will become unavailable to levy by reason of being either (1) transferred, concealed, or removed from the state; or (2) substantially impaired in value by acts of destruction or by failure to take care of the property in a reasonable manner [see Sea Rail Truckloads, Inc. v. Pullman, Inc. (1982) 131 CA3d 511, 515, 182 CR 560 (repossession of leased vans with future intent to sell them did not demonstrate "immediate danger" required for issuance of ex parte writ of possession; "less drastic" remedy of temporary restraining order would have been adequate)].

○ Ex parte issuance of a writ of possession is necessary to protect the property. This has been interpreted to mean that CCP § 512.020(b), permits transfer of possession of property only when less intrusive remedies would be ineffective [see Sea Rail Truckloads, Inc. v. Pullman, Inc. (1982) 131 CA3d 511, 515, 182 CR 560 ].

20.15[2] Preparing Ex Parte Application.

20.15[2][a] Content of Ex Parte Application. Ex parte applications must satisfy all the basic requirements for a writ of prohibition noted in 20.08[2] and, in addition, must include facts showing that one of the conditions for ex parte relief has been satisfied [CCP § 512.020(b); see 20.15[1]].

20.15[2][b] Use Judicial Council Form CD-100. Judicial Council Form CD-100, Application for Writ of Possession, must be used for an application for a writ of possession, either after a hearing or ex parte. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.27.

20.15[3] Preparing Proposed Order for Writ of Possession.

20.15[3][a] Contents of Order for Writ of Possession. For the contents of the proposed order for writ of possession, see 20.07.

20.15[3][b] Use Judicial Council Form CD-120. Judicial Council Form CD-120, Order for Writ of Possession, must be used for an order for a writ of possession, either after a hearing or ex parte. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

Cross References:

See 20.07. Form, see 20.29.

20.15[4] Preparing Proposed Writ of Possession.

20.15[4][a] Contents of Writ of Possession. For the contents of the proposed writ, see 20.08.

20.15[4][b] Use Judicial Council Form CD-130. Judicial Council Form CD-130, Writ of Possession, must be used for a proposed writ of possession, either after a hearing or ex parte. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

Cross References:

See 20.08. Form, see 20.30.

20.15[5] Preparing Affidavits or Declarations.

20.15[5][a] Basic Requirements. General discussion relating to preparation of affidavits and declarations in support of an application for a writ of possession is contained in 20.10.

20.15[5][b] Use Judicial Council Form CD-180. Judicial Council Form CD-180, Declaration for Ex Parte Writ of Possession, must be used to satisfy the special requirements applicable to ex parte declarations, as discussed in 20.15[1]. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.35.

20.15[6] Filing Documents With Court. When proceeding ex parte, plaintiff must file the following with the court in which the action is underlying action is brought [see CCP §§ 512.010, 512.020(b)]:

- The application and any supporting affidavits.
- A proposed order for writ of possession.
- A proposed writ of possession.

20.15[7] Undertaking Required for Ex Parte Application. Plaintiff seeking a writ of application ex parte must file an undertaking [CCP §§ 511.090, 512.020(b), 512.060].

 Cross Reference:

Requirements for undertaking, see 20.13.

20.15[8] Court May Issue Writ of Possession Upon Ex Parte Application If It Finds All Required Facts to Be True. If plaintiff files the required application and undertaking, the court, in its discretion, may issue the requested writ of possession, if it finds the facts stated in the application to be true [CCP §§ 512.020(b), 512.060].

20.15[9] Defendant Must Be Served After Issuance of Writ. After writ has issued, defendant must be served with all of the following [CCP § 512.020(b)]:

- A copy of the summons and complaint.
- A copy of the application and any supporting affidavits.
- A notice [CCP § 512.040(c), (d)]:
  - ☐ Informing the defendant that if the defendant desires to oppose the issuance of the writ, he must file with the court either (1) an affidavit providing evidence sufficient to defeat the plaintiff's right to issuance of the writ, or (2) an undertaking to stay the delivery of the property in accordance with CCP § 515.020.
  - ☐ Containing the following statement: "If you believe the plaintiff may not be entitled to possession of the property claimed, you may wish to seek the advice of an attorney. Such attorney should be consulted promptly so that he may assist you before the time set for the hearing."
  - ☐ Of his or her rights under CCP § 515.020(b).

20.15[10] Defendant May Appear for Order to Quash Writ. Any defendant whose property has been taken pursuant to a writ of possession issued under this subdivision may apply for an order that the writ be quashed and any property levied on pursuant to the writ be released [CCP § 515.020(b)].

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.16

20.16 Seeking "Turnover" Order.

20.16[1] Plaintiff May Seek "Turnover" Order. In addition to seeking a writ of possession, and in aid of it, plaintiff may also seek an order directing defendant to transfer possession of the property sought to be recovered to plaintiff [CCP § 512.070]. A "turnover" order is not a separate remedy but rather an alternative means of enforcing a writ of possession, permitting the defendant to select a more informal and less expensive method of enforcement than levy of the writ [ Edwards v. Superior Court (1991) 230 CA3d 173, 178, 281 CR 30 (defendants who posted bond could not be held in contempt for violation of "turnover" order); citing Law Revision Commission comment to CCP § 512.070].

20.16[2] Draft, File and Serve Notice and Motion for Turnover Order. If plaintiff seeks a "turnover" order, plaintiff should draft a notice and motion for such an order, file the notice and motion with the court and serve both on defendant before the hearing on the noticed motion for the writ [CCP § 512.070].

20.16[3] Turnover Order Must Give Notice Regarding Contempt. The proposed order must contain a notice to defendant that failure to turn possession of the property to plaintiff may subject defendant to being held in contempt [CCP § 512.070].

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.17

20.17 Endorsement for Search of Private Place Not Listed in Writ of Possession.

20.17[1] Plaintiff May Seek Endorsement Ex Parte. If plaintiff wishes the levying officer to seize property at a private place not specified in the writ, after the writ has been issued, plaintiff should draft and file with the court ex parte a written application for an endorsement on the writ directing the levying officer to seize the property at a private place not specific in the writ [CCP § 512.090].

20.17[2] Affidavit of Probable Cause. In addition to the application for an endorsement, plaintiff must also draft and file with the court an affidavit establishing probable cause to believe the property (or some part of it) sought to be recovered may be found at that private place [CCP § 512.090].

20.17[3] Court Must Issue Endorsement If Required Showing Made. The court is required to make the requested endorsement if plaintiff makes the above showing of probable cause [CCP § 512.090].

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
II. APPLYING FOR WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.18

20.18 Execution of Writ.

20.18[1] Sheriff or Marshal Responsible for Executing Writ. The writ will be directed to the "levying officer" within whose jurisdiction the property is located. It will direct the officer to levy on the property pursuant to CCP § 514.010 if found, and to retain it in custody until released or sold pursuant to CCP § 514.030 [CCP § 512.080(b), (d)]. The "levying officer" is the sheriff or marshal who is directed to execute the writ [CCP § 511.060].

20.18[2] Levying Officer Will Search for and Take Possession of Property. Upon receipt of the writ of possession the levying officer will search for and take custody of the specified property if it is in the possession of the defendant or defendant's agent, either by removing the property to a place of safekeeping or by installing a keeper [CCP § 514.010(a); see also CCP § 514.010(b) (special procedure for mobilehome, boat, or other property used as dwelling), (c) (forcible entry on private property)].

Exception:

If levying officer reasonably believes that entry and seizure of the property will involve a substantial risk of death or serious bodily harm to any person, he or she must refrain from seizing the property and promptly make a return to the court from which the writ issued setting forth the reasons for his or her belief that the risk exists. In such case, the court must make such orders as may be appropriate [CCP § 514.010(c)].

20.18[3] Levying Officer Must Deliver Writ to Person in Possession. At the time of levy, the levying officer must deliver all of the following to the person in possession of the property [CCP § 514.020(a)]:

- A copy of the writ of possession.
- A copy of the plaintiff's undertaking, if any.
- A copy of the order for issuance of the writ.

If no one is in possession of the property at the time of levy, the levying officer must subsequently serve the writ and attached undertaking on the defendant [CCP § 514.020(b) (manner of service)].

20.18[4] Delivery or Redelivery of Property. Ordinarily, after the levying officer takes possession pursuant to a writ of possession, the levying officer is required to keep the property in a secure place. If the levying officer does not receive either (1) notice of the filing of an undertaking for redelivery [see 20.25]; or (2) notice of objection to the plaintiff's undertaking [see 20.24] within 10 days after levy of the writ of possession, the levying officer must deliver the property to plaintiff, upon receiving the levying officer's fees for taking and necessary expenses for keeping the property [CCP § 514.030(a)].

Cross Reference:

Procedures if a notice of undertaking for redelivery or a notice of objection to plaintiff's undertaking is filed, see 20.24 (objection), 20.25 (defendant's undertaking).

20.18[5] Sale of Perishable Property. On a showing that the property is perishable, or will greatly deteriorate or depreciate in value, or for some other reason in the best interests of the parties, the court may order that the property be sold and the proceeds deposited in the court until the judgment in the action, if not otherwise provided by contract and if an undertaking for redelivery has not been filed [CCP § 514.030(b)].

20.18[6] Return of Writ to Court. The levying officer must return the writ of possession to the court in which the action is pending within 30 days after levy, but in no event more than 60 days after the writ is issued [CCP § 514.040].

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
II. APPLYING FOR WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.19

20.19 Applying for Injunctive Relief Protecting Plaintiff's Rights in Property.

20.19[1] Plaintiff May Apply for a Temporary Restraining Order. In conjunction with application for a writ of possession, plaintiff may apply for a temporary restraining order prohibiting the defendant from disposing of, concealing, or impairing the value of the property [CCP §§ 513.010(a), 513.020].

Injunction Statutes Applicable:

Except when a specific provision of the Claim and Delivery statute applies, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure governing injunctive relief generally [CCP § 525 et seq.] apply to injunctive relief issued under the Claim and Delivery statute [CCP §§ 513.010, 516.050]. Nothing in the Claim and Delivery Statute precludes the granting of injunctive relief pursuant to the general rules governing such relief. The provisions of the Claim And Delivery Statute are not exclusive regarding such relief [CCP § 516.050; Legislative Committee Commission comment to CCP § 513.010]. While injunction statutes may apply, the use of a preliminary injunction instead of a writ of possession is not permitted [ Simms v. NPCK Enterprises, Inc. (2003) 109 CA4th 233, 243, 134 CR2d 557 ].

20.19[2] Timing for Application for Temporary Restraining Order. Plaintiff may apply for a temporary restraining order at or after the time plaintiff files the application for a writ of possession [CCP § 513.020(b)].

20.19[3] Preparing Application for Temporary Restraining Order.

20.19[3][a] Use Judicial Council Form CD-100 for Application. Judicial Council Form CD-100, Application for Writ of Possession, must be used to request a temporary restraining order, if desired. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)]. If the application for a temporary restraining order is filed concurrently with the application for a writ of possession, both may be requested on the same form.

➡ Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.27.

20.19[3][b] Use Judicial Council Form CD-190 for Declaration. Judicial Council Form CD-190, Declaration for Temporary Restraining Order, provides additional information not in Form CD-100 and required in connection with an application for a temporary restraining order under the claim and delivery statutes. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.35; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.36.

20.19[3][c] Contents of Application. The application should show grounds justifying issuance of the order [CCP § 513.020(b)]:

- The probable validity of plaintiff's claim to possession of the property sought to be recovered.
- That plaintiff has filed an undertaking as required by the claim and delivery statutes.
- The probability that there is an immediate danger that the property claimed may become unavailable to levy by reason of being transferred, concealed, or removed, or may become substantially impaired in value.

 Cross Reference:

Undertaking requirements, see 20.13.

20.19[4] Preparing Proposed Temporary Restraining Order.

20.19[4][a] Use Judicial Council Form CD-200. Judicial Council Form CD-200, Temporary Restraining Order, must be used to prepare a proposed temporary restraining order. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.35; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.37.

20.19[4][b] Specifying Acts Prohibited by Order. The temporary restraining order, in the discretion of the court, may prohibit the defendant from doing any or all of the following [CCP § 513.020]:

- Transferring any interest in the property by sale, pledge, or grant of security interest, or otherwise disposing of, or encumbering, the property.

Exception:

If the property is farm products held for sale or lease [see CCP § 511.040 (definition)] or is inventory [see CCP § 511.050 (definition)], the order may not prohibit the defendant from transferring the property in the ordinary course of business, but may impose appropriate restrictions on the disposition of the proceeds from such a transfer [CCP § 513.020(a)].

- Concealing or otherwise removing the property in such a manner as to make it less available to seizure by the levying officer.
- Impairing the value of the property either by acts of destruction or by failure to care for the property in a reasonable manner [CCP § 513.020(c)]. If the property will perish or deteriorate if not taken care of properly, the court may order defendant to take whatever precautions are necessary to preserve the property until the time of the hearing [Legislative Committee Comment to CCP § 513.020].

20.19[5] Temporary Restraining Order May Be Issued Ex Parte upon Proper Showing. A temporary restraining order may be issued ex parte if the statutory requirements are met [see 20.19[3][c], above, for statutory grounds; see also CCP § 513.030(b)].

20.19[6] Dissolution of Temporary Restraining Order or Grant of Preliminary Injunction. If the court determines at the hearing on issuance of the writ of possession [see 20.12 (hearing)] that the plaintiff is not entitled to a writ of possession, the court must dissolve any temporary restraining order. Conversely, if the court determines at the hearing on the application for a writ of possession, that plaintiff is entitled to the writ, the court may issue a preliminary injunction to remain in effect until the property claimed is seized pursuant to the writ of possession. [CCP § 513.010(c)].

Strategic Point:

Denial of a writ of possession (when denial is due to a close factual case on liability) should not prejudice an application for injunctive relief when an injunction will provide less drastic relief than repossession [Law Revision Commission comment and Legislative Committee Comment to CCP § 513.010].

Discussion:

See 20.24[4]

- ☐ File notice of objection and supporting documents with court within 10 days after levy of writ of possession.

- ☐ Serve notice of objection and supporting documents on plaintiff.

- ☐ Mail notice of objection to levying officer.

Authority:

CCP §§ 515.030, 1005(c)

Discussion:

See 20.24[5]

- ☐ Appear at hearing to assert objection to plaintiff's undertaking.

- ☐ If court determines that plaintiff's undertaking is insufficient and a sufficient undertaking is not filed within time required by statute:

☐ Court must vacate temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, if any, and writ of possession.

☐ If levy has occurred, court must order levying officer or plaintiff to return the property to defendant.

- ☐ If court determines that plaintiff's undertaking is sufficient, it must order levying officer to deliver the property to plaintiff.

Authority:

CCP § 515.030(c); see CCP § 514.030(a)(3)

Discussion:

See 20.24[6]

- ☐ Filing Defendant's Undertaking to Obtain Redelivery of Property.

Authority:

CCP § 515.020; see CCP § 514.030(a)(2).

Discussion:

See 20.25

- ☐ Determine whether to file defendant's undertaking to [CCP § 515.020(a)]:
- ☐ Prevent plaintiff from taking possession of property pursuant to writ of possession, or
  - ☐ Regain possession of property so taken.
- ☐ Obtain defendant's undertaking in an amount equal to [CCP § 515.020(a)]:
- ☐ Amount of plaintiff's undertaking [see CCP § 515.010(a)]; or
  - ☐ Amount determined by court, if court has found that defendant has no interest in the property and waived requirement of a plaintiff's undertaking [see CCP § 515.010(b)].
  - ☐ Undertaking must provide that if plaintiff recovers judgment, defendant will pay all costs awarded to plaintiff and all damages that plaintiff may sustain by reason of loss of possession of the property, including all damages proximately caused by plaintiff's failure to gain or retain possession [CCP § 515.020(b)].
- ☐ File defendant's undertaking with court in which the action was brought [CCP § 515.020(a)].
- ☐ Defendant's undertaking may be filed at any time before or after levy of writ of possession [CCP § 515.020(c)].
  - ☐ However, undertaking should be filed before levy of writ, or within 10 days after levy of writ, if possible, to avoid having to obtain recovery from plaintiff.

Strategic Point--Defendant:

Once a levy has been made, the levying officer must hold custody of the property for 10 days before turning it over to the plaintiff. After that time, the officer must turn it over to plaintiff unless a defendant's undertaking or objection to plaintiff's undertaking has been filed [CCP § 514.030(a)(2), (3)]. If a notice of defendant's undertaking is filed within that time, and plaintiff does not object to that undertaking, the officer must simply redeliver the property to the plaintiff [CCP §§ 514.030(a)(2), 515.020(d)]. Obviously, from the defendant's point of view, it is likely to be preferable to obtain redelivery from the levying officer rather than from the plaintiff.

- ☐ Serve copy of undertaking on plaintiff.
- ☐ Mail copy of undertaking to levying officer.

Authority:

20.21 Options and Strategies for Party Contesting Writ of Possession.

Courts are mindful that changing possession of property before the final determination of a dispute may well cause more harm than good. Consequently, defendants should consider the maxim of jurisprudence that between those who are equally in the right, or equally in the wrong, the law does not interpose. If the action is not clear cut, assert that keeping the status quo until the final judgment is a more prudent course of action. However, if the plaintiff is clearly entitled to possession, consider releasing possession to the court or a levying officer.

Oppose writs of possession on both procedural and substantive grounds. The writ procedural requirements are fairly extensive, and the plaintiff bears the burden of satisfying all elements. The plaintiff has the burden of proving the probable validity of the underlying claim. Opposing the writ on substantive grounds at the outset of the action may be easier when there are less evidentiary facts available. However, be mindful that the writ may be made later in the proceedings when the plaintiff has the facts to support his or her position. A party opposing a writ of possession can always assert that the plaintiff's undertaking is insufficient to cover the value of the property. As a fallback position if the writ is valid, a party opposing the writ may file their own undertaking to secure the value of the property and retain its possession.

Do not forget that the nature of the property will be a significant factor in the determination of the writ and the procedures sought. Perishable goods or other property that is subject to deterioration or depreciation will more likely be subject to ex parte applications or temporary restraining orders.

III. OPPOSING WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.22

20.22 Contesting Noticed Application for Writ of Possession.

20.22[1] Procedural Grounds for Contesting Application.

20.22[1][a] Failure to Properly Serve Defendant With Application and Supporting Papers. In a noticed application, the defendant must be served with all of the following prior to the hearing [CCP § 512.030(a)]:

- A copy of the summons and complaint.
- A Notice of Application and Hearing.
- A copy of the application and any supporting affidavits.

If the defendant has not appeared in the action, service must be made in the same manner as a summons [CCP § 512.030(b)].

Cross Reference:

For service of summons, see Ch. 8, Service of Summons, 8.07 et seq.

20.22[1][b] Notice Must Contain All Required Information. The Notice of Application and Hearing must inform the defendant of all of the following [CCP § 512.040(a)-(c)]:

- That a hearing will be held at a place and at a time, specified in the notice, on plaintiff's application for a writ of possession.
- That a writ of possession will be issued if the court finds that the plaintiff's claim is probably valid and the other requirements for issuing the writ are established.
- That if the defendant desires to oppose the issuance of the writ, the defendant must file with the court either an affidavit providing evidence sufficient to defeat the plaintiff's right to issuance of the writ or an undertaking to stay the delivery of the property.

➤ Cross References:

Defendant's objection to plaintiff's undertaking, see 20.24. Defendant's undertaking, see 20.25.

The notice also must contain the following statement: "If you believe the plaintiff may not be entitled to possession of the property claimed, you may wish to seek the advice of an attorney. Such attorney should be consulted promptly so that he may assist you before the time set for the hearing" [CCP § 512.040(a)-(c)].

20.22[1][c] Notice Must Be Served in Timely Manner. Plaintiff must have served and filed all moving and supporting papers at least 16 court days prior to the hearing. If notice is served by mail, the period is 16 court days plus 5 calendar days if both the place of mailing and place of address are in California, 16 court days plus 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside California but within the United States, and 16 court days plus 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States. If the notice is served by fax, express mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the notice period is 16 court days plus 2 calendar days. However, the court may prescribe a shorter time [CCP § 1005(a)(2), (b)].

➤ Cross Reference:

See Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

20.22[1][d] Plaintiff Cannot File for Writ Until Complaint Has Been Filed. Plaintiff may apply for a writ of possession "upon the filing of the complaint or at any time thereafter" [CCP § 512.010(a)]. An application filed prior to filing a complaint therefore would be premature.

20.22[1][e] Application Must Be Made to Court in Which Underlying Action Is Pending. Plaintiff's application must be made in the court in which the underlying action was brought [CCP § 512.010(a)]. Thus, for example, if the property was physically located in a different county, plaintiff could not seek a writ of possession in that county, but rather would be required to proceed in the county where suit was originally filed.

20.22[1][f] Application Must Be Made Under Oath. Plaintiff must execute the application under oath [CCP § 512.010(b)].

20.22[2] Substantive Grounds for Contesting Application.

20.22[2][a] Showings Required to Be Made in Application or Accompanying Affidavit. By statute, all the following showings must be made in the application [CCP § 512.010(b)] or in affidavits filed with the application [CCP § 512.010(d)]. Presumably, therefore, a failure to include any of these showings in the application or accompanying affidavits would render the application insufficient on its face and preclude subsequent consideration of additional information establishing these requirements after the application is filed. However, the plaintiff presumably could file a second application correcting the deficiencies if they can in fact be corrected and the court permits this.

The following showings are required [CCP § 512.010(b)]:

- Showing of the basis of plaintiff's claim.
- Showing that plaintiff is entitled to possession of the property claimed.
- Showing that the property is wrongfully detained by defendant.
- The manner in which defendant came into possession of the property.

- The reason for the detention of the property according to plaintiff's best knowledge and belief.
- A particular statement of the property.
- A statement of the property's value.
- A statement, according to plaintiff's best knowledge and belief, of the location of the property.
- If the property is within a private place that may have to be entered, a showing that there is probable cause to believe that the property is located there.
- A statement that property has not been taken for a tax, assessment, or fine, or pursuant to a statute, or seized under an execution against the property of the plaintiff or, if the property was so seized, that it is exempt from such a seizure by statute.

20.22[2][b] Written Instrument Must Be Attached. If the underlying claim is based on a written instrument, plaintiff is required to attach a copy of that instrument to the application for a writ of possession [CCP § 512.010(b)(1)].

20.22[2][c] Plaintiff Must Show "Probable Validity" of Recovery in Underlying Action. Plaintiff must establish the "probable validity" of plaintiff's claim in the underlying action in order to be entitled to a writ of possession [CCP § 512.060(a)(1)]. A claim has "probable validity" if it is more likely than not that the plaintiff will obtain a judgment against the defendant on that claim [CCP § 511.090]. Thus, defendant should assert that any evidence or defenses that defendant has asserted or intends to assert in the underlying action are sufficiently meritorious as to raise at least a 50-50 chance that defendant will prevail.

20.22[2][d] Plaintiff Must Have Obtained Undertaking Prior to Issuance of Writ. Plaintiff must have obtained an undertaking complying with the requirements of CCP § 515.050 before a writ of possession can be issued. If plaintiff does not supply a copy of the undertaking, defendant should argue that the requirements for issuance of a writ have not been met [CCP § 512.060(a)(2)].

20.22[2][e] Plaintiff Must Show Probable Cause If Authorizing Entry to Private Place. If the proposed writ directs the levying officer to enter a private place to take possession of the property, the plaintiff must establish probable cause to believe that the property is located there [CCP § 512.060(b)]. In appropriate cases, defendant may wish to argue that the requisite showing has not been made.

20.22[3] Preparing and Filing Documents Opposing Writ.

20.22[3][a] Preparing Documents Opposing Writ. Defendant should prepare following documents in opposition to plaintiff's motion for writ of possession [CCP § 512.050]:

- Affidavit(s) providing sufficient evidence to defeat plaintiff's right to issuance of writ [CCP §§ 512.040(c), 512.050].
- Memorandum in support of argument against issuance of writ [CCP § 512.050; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

20.22[3][b] Filing and Serving Documents Opposing Writ. Defendant must file the opposing documents with the court and serve them on the defendant [CCP §§ 512.050, 1005(c)]. Service must be by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the papers are filed [CCP § 1005(c)].

➡ Cross Reference:

See Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

20.22[4] Appearing at Hearing. Defendant may appear at the hearing to contest plaintiff's right to issuance of writ, and argue that plaintiff has failed to establish one or more grounds for issuance of writ [CCP §§ 512.020, 512.060].

III. OPPOSING WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.23

20.23 Applying for Order to Quash a Writ Issued Ex Parte.

20.23[1] Noticed Motion Used. The defendant may apply by noticed motion to quash a writ of possession that has been issued ex parte [CCP § 512.020(b)].

20.23[2] Use Judicial Council Form CD-160. Judicial Council Form CD-160, Application and Notice of Application and Hearing for Order to Quash Ex Parte Writ of Possession, may be used to apply for an order to quash a writ of possession issued ex parte. Use of the judicial council form is optional [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)]. However, although the Judicial Council claim and delivery forms were approved for optional use, their use is standard.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.33.

20.23[3] Asserting Grounds for Quashing Writ. In the application to quash the writ, defendant should assert the grounds for defendant's argument that the ex parte writ should be quashed [CCP § 512.020(b)], such as:

- That one or more general procedural and/or substantive requirements for the application for a writ of possession were not met [CCP §§ 512.010(b), 512.020(b)].

Cross Reference:

For a list of these requirements, see 20.22[1], [2].

- That none of the special conditions for issuance of a writ of possession ex parte have been met [CCP § 512.020(b)].

Cross Reference:

For a list of the conditions under which a plaintiff can apply for ex parte relief, see 20.15[1].

- That plaintiff failed to comply with the procedural requirements for an ex parte writ; specifically, that copies of the summons and complaint, application and supporting affidavits, and notice satisfying statutory requirements and informing defendant of defendant's rights were not served on defendant or another person required by statute to be served with a writ of possession [CCP §§ 512.020(b), 512.040].

20.23[4] Preparing Proposed Order for Release and Redelivery.

20.23[4][a] Preparing Proposed Order. Defendant should prepare a proposed order for the release and delivery to defendant of the property subject to the ex parte writ of attachment [see CCP § 512.020(b)].

20.23[4][b] Use Judicial Council Form CD-170. Judicial Council Form CD-170, Order for Release and Redelivery of Property, must be used in drafting the order. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)]. Form CD-170 includes space for the specification and award of damages resulting proximately caused by the levy.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.34.

20.23[5] Preparing Supporting Documents. Defendant should prepare the following documents in opposition to plaintiff's motion for writ of possession [CCP §§ 512.020(b), 512.050]:

- Affidavit(s) providing sufficient evidence to support defendant's application to quash writ [CCP §§ 512.020(b), 512.050].

Strategic Point--Defendant:

Since a prevailing defendant is entitled to an award of damages [see 20.23[8]], defendant should show in the supporting documents the amount of any damages proximately caused by the levy of the writ of possession and the loss of the property as a result of the levy [see CCP § 512.020(b)].

- Memorandum in support of argument to quash writ [CCP § 512.050; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

20.23[6] Filing and Serving Application and Supporting Documents. Defendant must file the opposing documents with the court and serve them on the defendant [CCP §§ 512.050, 1005(c)]. Service must be by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the papers are filed [CCP § 1005(c)].

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

Distinguish:

Pending the hearing on the defendant's application, the court may order that delivery pursuant any property previously levied upon be stayed [CCP § 512.020(b); see CCP § 514.030].

20.23[7] Appearing at Hearing. Defendant may appear at the hearing to argue that the writ should be quashed [

CCP §§ 512.020(b), 512.060].

20.23[8] Prevailing Defendant to Receive Damages. If the court determines that the plaintiff is not entitled to a writ of possession, the court will quash the writ of possession and order the release and redelivery of any property previously levied upon. The court must also award the defendant any damages sustained by the defendant that were proximately caused by the levy of the writ of possession and the loss of possession of the property due to the levy [CCP § 512.020(b)].

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
III. OPPOSING WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.24

20.24 Objecting to Plaintiff's Undertaking.

20.24[1] Defendant May Object to Plaintiff's Undertaking. The defendant may object to the plaintiff's undertaking [CCP § 515.030(a)]. The defendant should consider raising such an objection if, for example, concerns exist that the amount of defendant's undertaking is insufficient to protect defendant against loss or damage to the property. A collateral effect of a timely objection ordinarily is to delay or avoid a transfer of possession of the property to the plaintiff [see CCP §§ 514.030(a), 515.030(c); see also discussion in 20.25[4]]. The governing statutes do not specify whether or not such an objection may be made ex parte or whether a hearing is required.

20.24[2] Objection Not Later Than 10 Days After Levy. Any objection to plaintiff's undertaking must be made not later than 10 days after levy of the writ of possession [CCP § 515.030(a)]. Apparently there is no bar to defendant raising such an objection before the levy occurs.

20.24[3] Preparing Supporting Documents. Defendant should prepare the following documents in opposition to plaintiff's motion for writ of possession [CCP § 512.050]:

- Affidavit(s) providing evidence in support of defendant's objection [CCP §§ 512.050, 515.030].
- Memorandum in support of defendant's objection [CCP § 512.050; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

Cross Reference:

Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

20.24[4] Filing and Serving Objection and Supporting Documents. Defendant must file the objection with the court within the prescribed period [CCP § 515.030(a); see 20.24[2]]. The defendant must also mail notice of the objection to the levying officer CCP § 515.030(a)].

The claim and delivery statutes do not expressly require service on the defendant, but it appears that the general civil procedure statutes operate to require such service [CCP § 1005(c)]. Service must be by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the papers are filed [CCP § 1005(c)].

20.24[5] Writ Vacated If Undertaking Determined Insufficient. If the court determines that the plaintiff's undertaking is insufficient and a sufficient undertaking is not filed within the time required by statute, the court must do all of the following [CCP § 515.030(c); see CCP § 514.030(a)(3)]:

- Vacate the temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, if any.
- Vacate the writ of possession.
- If levy has occurred, order the levying officer or plaintiff to return the property to the defendant.

Conversely, if the court determines that the plaintiff's undertaking is sufficient, the court must order the levying officer to deliver the property to the plaintiff [CCP § 515.030(c)].

Chapter 20 Claim and Delivery
III. OPPOSING WRIT OF POSSESSION

2-20 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 20.25

20.25 Filing Defendant's Undertaking to Keep or Recover Possession of Property.

20.25[1] Use Defendant's Undertaking to Keep or Recover Possession. A defendant who does not wish to give up possession of the property under a writ of possession pending the outcome of the underlying action, or who wishes to regain possession from the plaintiff following levy of a writ of possession, may prevent plaintiff from taking possession of property pursuant to a writ of possession, or regain possession of property so taken, by filing an undertaking in an amount equal to the amount of plaintiff's undertaking [CCP § 515.020(a)]. This undertaking is referred to in the claim and delivery statutes as a "defendant's undertaking" [see CCP § 515.020(c)].

Because the filing of a defendant's bond pursuant to CCP § 515.020 prevents the seizure of property by writ of possession, it also excuses compliance with a "turnover" order issued in aid of a writ of possession [ Edwards v. Superior Court (1991) 230 CA3d 173, 178, 281 CR 30 (defendants who posted bond could not be held in contempt for violation of "turnover" order)].

20.25[2] Required Amount and Terms of Defendant's Undertaking. The defendant's undertaking must be in an amount equal to the amount of plaintiff's undertaking [CCP § 515.020(a)]. If the court has found that defendant has no interest in the property and has waived requirement of a plaintiff's undertaking [see CCP § 515.010(b)], the amount of the defendant's undertaking will be specified by the court in the order for issuance of the writ [CCP §§ 515.010(b), 515.020(a)].

The undertaking must provide that if plaintiff recovers judgment on the action, the defendant must [CCP § 515.020(b)]:

- Pay all costs awarded to plaintiff, and
- All damages plaintiff may sustain by reason of the loss of possession of the property, including, but not limited to, all damages proximately caused by plaintiff's failure to gain or retain possession.

Cross Reference:

See 20.13 (discussion of undertaking requirements).

20.25[3] Use Judicial Council Form CD-140. Judicial Council Form CD-140, Undertaking by Personal Sureties, must be used for giving a statutory undertaking by personal sureties in a claim and delivery action. The form may be used for either a plaintiff's or a defendant's undertaking. Use of the judicial council form is mandatory [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.31; see also CCP § 516.020 (Judicial Council required to promulgate forms)].

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 20.31.

20.25[4] Time for Filing of Defendant's Undertaking. A defendant's undertaking may be filed at any time before or after levy of the writ of possession [CCP § 515.020(c)].

However, the defendant's undertaking should be filed before levy of the writ, or within 10 days after levy of writ, if possible, to avoid having to recover the property from plaintiff. This is because, once a levy has been made, the levying officer must hold custody of the property for 10 days before turning it over to the plaintiff. After that time, the officer must turn it over to plaintiff unless a defendant's undertaking or objection to plaintiff's undertaking has been filed [CCP § 514.030(a)(2), (3)]. If a notice of defendant's undertaking is filed within that time, and plaintiff does not object to that undertaking, the officer must simply redeliver the property to the plaintiff [CCP §§ 514.030(a)(2), 515.020(d)]. Obviously, from the defendant's point of view, it is likely to be preferable to obtain redelivery from the levying officer rather than from the plaintiff.

20.25[5] Filing and Serving Defendant's Undertaking. The defendant must file the defendant's undertaking with the court [CCP § 515.020(a)]. The defendant must also mail a copy of the defendant's undertaking to the levying officer [CCP § 515.020(c)].

The claim and delivery statutes do not expressly require service on the defendant, but it appears that the general civil procedure statutes operate to require such service [see CCP § 1005(c)]. Service must be by personal delivery, facsimile transmission, express mail, or other means reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the papers are filed [see CCP § 1005(c)].

20.25[6] Plaintiff May Object to Defendant's Undertaking. Plaintiff may object to defendant's undertaking. Plaintiff's objection must be raised not later than 10 days after defendant files its undertaking [CCP § 515.030(b)]. The process of objecting to a defendant's undertaking is basically the same as for objecting to a plaintiff's undertaking [see CCP § 515.030(d)]. If the court determines that defendant's undertaking is insufficient, defendant may file a sufficient undertaking within the time required by statute [CCP § 515.030(d)].

 Cross Reference:

See 20.24 (procedure for objection to plaintiff's undertaking).

20.25[7] Redelivery of Property to Defendant. If defendant files an undertaking for redelivery and plaintiff does not object to defendant's undertaking, the levying officer must deliver the property to the defendant [CCP §§ 514.030(a)(2), 515.020(d)]. If plaintiff previously has been given possession of the property, plaintiff must deliver that property to the defendant [CCP § 515.020(c)].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
I. STRATEGY

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.01

21.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Filing and serving a notice of lis pendens [see 21.03 -21.09; Form: see 21.38].
- Expunging a lis pendens notice by noticed motion [see 21.10 -21.15; Forms: see 21.39 -21.40].
- Opposing a motion to expunge a lis pendens notice [ see 21.16 -21.21].
- Appealing an order granting or denying expungement of lis pendens [ see 21.22 -21.23].
- Withdrawing a lis pendens notice [see 21.24 -21.26; Form: see 21.43].
- Requiring a claimant to give an undertaking as a condition of maintaining notice in record title [see 21.27 -21.34; Forms: see 21.41 -21.42].
- Exonerating or modifying an undertaking [see 21.35 -21.37].

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 348, Lis Pendens; California Points and Authorities, Ch. 145, Lis Pendens (Matthew Bender).

Core Statutes:

CCP §§ 405-405.61

Note that the current statutes became operative on January 1, 1993. Cases construing former lis pendens statutes are still persuasive authority when the case does not address an aspect of the former law that has been abrogated or altered [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 955, 89 CR2d 693 ].

Distinguish:

The statutes refer to the lis pendens notice as a "notice of pendency of action" or simply "notice" [CCP §

405.2]. Since the term "lis pendens" is still generally used and understood, this chapter uses the traditional term.

Exception:

In eminent domain proceedings, lis pendens is governed by CCP § 1250.150, and the general lis pendens statutes [CCP § 405 et seq.] are inapplicable. CCP § 1250.150 simply requires the plaintiff (public agency), at the time of the commencement of the proceeding, to record a notice of the pendency of the proceeding in the office of the county recorder of any county in which property described in the complaint is located. A copy of that notice must be served with the summons and complaint.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
I. STRATEGY

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.02

21.02 Objective and Strategy.

21.02[1] Preserves Plaintiff's Right to Specific Real Property. A lis pendens is a recorded document giving constructive notice that an action has been filed affecting title or right to possession of the real property described in the notice [ Palmer v. Zaklama (2003) 109 CA4th 1367, 1375 ; BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 966, 89 CR2d 693 ]. A lis pendens notice is filed in order to preserve the plaintiff/claimant's rights to specific real estate until the dispute with the owner is resolved. A lis pendens typically is filed when the plaintiff/claimant alleges a right to the title or possession of the real estate specified in the notice. If a lis pendens is not recorded, the plaintiff/claimant runs the risk that the defendant/owner will encumber or convey the property to a third party who is unaware of the dispute. By filing and recording (with proper indexing) a lis pendens notice, any subsequent takers or creditors who take a security interest in the real property, acquire their interest subject to any judgment rendered in the underlying dispute [ Palmer v. Zaklama (2003) 109 CA4th 1367, 1375 ]. This consequence clouds the property's title and makes the property generally unmarketable or difficult to secure financing on the property [see, e.g., Palmer v. Zaklama (2003) 109 CA4th 1367, 1372-1374 ].

21.02[2] Provides Constructive Notice of Pending Action. A notice of lis pendens gives constructive notice that an action has been filed affecting title or right to possession of the real property described in the notice. Any taker of a subsequently created interest in that property takes his or her interest subject to the outcome of that litigation [ Arrow Sand & Gravel, Inc. v. Superior Court (1985) 38 C3d 884, 888, 215 CR 288, 700 P2d 1290 ; Bishop Creek Lodge v. Scira (1996) 46 CA4th 1721, 1733-1734, 54 CR2d 745 ].

Strategic Point--Third Party Bound by Judgment:

The effect of a lis pendens is that anyone acquiring an interest in the property after the action was filed will be bound by the judgment [ Palmer v. Zaklama (2003) 109 CA4th 1367, 1375 ; BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 966, 89 CR2d 693 ]. The lis pendens remains effective as long as the underlying action is pending unless the notice is withdrawn or expunged.

Warning--Avoid Doe Defendants:

The recording of a lis pendens provides constructive notice of the noticed action and its pendency against parties who are not fictitiously named [CCP § 405.24]. The constructive notice given extends only to the pendency of the action against named parties other than those fictitiously named pursuant to California's "Doe" pleading practice [CCP § 405.24, comment 2]. A lis pendens against a fictitiously named defendant will not be effective against that defendant or the defendant's successors. For this reason, Doe defendants should not be used in a lis pendens or the underlying action.

21.02[3] Effectively Precludes Sale of Property During Pendency of Litigation. The nearly universal use of title insurance means that the recordation of a lis pendens gives a claimant a de facto, if not a de jure, provisional remedy. The cloud created on title generally precludes either sale or encumbrance of the affected property for the duration of the action [CCP § 405.32, comment 2].

21.02[4] Has Been Used to Force Settlement of Action. Since the recording of a lis pendens places a cloud upon the title of real property until the pending action is resolved, it has been used to coerce defendants to settle [ Hilberg v. Superior Court (1989) 215 CA3d 539, 542, 263 CR 675 ; Ranchito Ownership Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 130 CA3d 764, 769, 182 CR 54 ]. Courts recognize that the lis pendens procedure is susceptible to serious abuse, providing unscrupulous plaintiffs with a powerful lever to force the settlement of groundless or malicious suits [ Malcolm v. Superior Court (1981) 29 C3d 518, 523 n2, 524, 174 CR 694, 629 P2d 495 , superseded by CCP §§ 405-405.61, Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 318, 130 CR2d 641 ]. Though a lis pendens protects the plaintiff against a transfer of the property in derogation of the plaintiff's claim in the property, a lis pendens can also be used as an instrument of oppression [ Ranchito Ownership Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 130 CA3d 764, 769, 182 CR 54 ].

Strategic Point:

Before filing a lis pendens, careful consideration of the procedure should be given because an improperly recorded lis pendens could give rise to abuse of process and/or slander of title claims, sanctions, or an award of attorney's fees [see Palmer v. Zaklama (2003) 109 CA4th 1367, 1378-1380 ]. An improperly recorded lis pendens also can undermine the strength of a legitimate case if the court expunges it early in the action because the claimant cannot prove that the matter involves a "real property claim" or because the plaintiff cannot establish probable validity.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
II. FILING AND SERVING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.03

21.03 CHECKLIST: Filing and Serving a Lis Pendens Notice.

☐ Determine whether filing lis pendens would be advantageous.

☐ Does party in question wish to protect his or her rights to title or possession of specific real property?

Discussion:

See 21.02[1]

☐ Does party in question wish to put third parties on notice of pending action, so that any third party acquiring an interest in the property after the action was filed will be bound by judgment?

Discussion:

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
II. FILING AND SERVING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.04

21.04 Determining Whether Lis Pendens Is Available.

21.04[1] Lis Pendens Is Pretrial Remedy. Lis pendens is a pretrial remedy designed to protect third parties [ Paglia v. Superior Court (1989) 215 CA3d 1322, 1326-1327, 264 CR 63 ].

21.04[2] Underlying Complaint Must Involve Real Property Claim.

21.04[2][a] Action Must Involve "Real Property Claim." A lis pendens may be filed only if the underlying action involves a "real property claim" [CCP § 405.20].

Prerequisite:

The complaint must state a cause of action affecting the title or right of possession of the specific real property described in the lis pendens [CCP §§ 405.2 and 405.4]. If it does not do so the lis pendens becomes a nullity [ Brownlee v. Vang (1962) 206 CA2d 814, 817, 24 CR 158 ].

Distinguish:

An action does not pertain to specific real property if it is a general claim for an interest in a community estate [ Gale v. Superior Court (2004) 122 CA4th 1388, 1390, 19 CR3d 554 (divorce action did not list specific property)].

 Cross Reference:

Grounds for expunging lis pendens, see 21.12.

21.04[2][b] What Constitutes "Real Property Claim." To be a "real property claim" for lis pendens purposes, a claim must be a cause or causes of action in a pleading which would, if meritorious, affect one of the following [CCP § 405.4]:

- Title to specific real property.
- The right to possession of specific real property.

- The use of an easement identified in the pleading, other than an easement obtained pursuant to statute by any regulated public utility.

Case law has determined that certain types of actions do or do not affect title or possession [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 967, 89 CR2d 693 ].

21.04[2][c] Available in Specific Performance Actions. Lis pendens is available in an action for specific performance of a real estate sales contract [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 967, 89 CR2d 693 ].

Warning:

CCP § 405.33 addresses undertakings when the lis pendens will be expunged on the basis that adequate relief can be secured by such an undertaking. CCP § 405.33 provides that the presumption of CC § 3387 that real property is unique applies only in the case of real property improved with a single family dwelling which the claimant intends to occupy.

21.04[2][d] Not Available in Action for Monetary Damages. An action for monetary damages only will not support a lis pendens [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 967, 89 CR2d 693 ; Ziello v. Superior Court (1995) 36 CA4th 321, 332, 42 CR2d 251 ].

21.04[2][e] Not Available in Dispute Over Insurance Proceeds. The determination of who is entitled to receive earthquake insurance proceeds does not involve the real property itself, but is instead strictly a matter of contract. Such a case would not support the filing of a lis pendens [ Ziello v. Superior Court (1995) 36 CA4th 321, 332, 42 CR2d 251 ].

21.04[2][f] Available in Actions Involving Easements. CCP § 405.4 expressly includes cases affecting the use of easements within the definition of "real property claim." The lis pendens procedure is available in cases which affect the use of an easement (other than one obtained pursuant to statute by a regulated public utility) upon or appurtenant to the property affected by the action [CCP § 405.4, comment 4].

Strategic Point:

Prior statutory law was unclear regarding the availability of the lis pendens procedure in cases involving easements, since an easement does not technically affect title in the sense of changing it, nor does the existence of an easement oust the title holder of possession [CCP § 405.5, comment 5]. However, California title insurance practice treats an easement as both an insurable interest and an exception to title [CCP § 405.4, comment 4]. The conflict between statutory law and title insurance practice created confusion regarding the availability of the lis pendens procedure in cases involving easements [CCP § 405.4, comment 4, citing Kendall-Brief Co. v. Superior Court (1976) 60 CA3d 462, 131 CR 515 ; Woodcourt II Limited v. McDonald Co. (1981) 119 CA3d 245, 173 CR 836 ].

21.04[2][g] Unclear If Available in Actions Involving Constructive Trusts or Equitable Liens. The law is in conflict regarding the availability of the lis pendens procedure in cases claiming a constructive trust or equitable lien [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 968-970, 89 CR2d 693 ]. The statutory definition of real property claim neither includes nor excludes claims of constructive trust or equitable lien [CCP § 405.4 and comment 5], and the law in this area is left for judicial development [CCP § 405.4, comment 5; BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 956, 89 CR2d 693 ].

Cases in which the plaintiff seeks a constructive trust relating to real property have been troublesome, in part because of the wide variety of circumstances in which a constructive trust may be an appropriate remedy [ BGJ Associates v.

Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 967, 89 CR2d 693 ]. Two early cases held that an action in which the plaintiff seeks a constructive trust on specific real property affects title to or the right to possession of such property, and therefore supports a lis pendens [ Coppinger v. Superior Court (1982) 134 CA3d 883, 890-891, 185 CR 24 ; Okuda v. Superior Court (1983) 144 CA3d 135, 141, 192 CR 388 ]. Subsequent cases have rejected this broad interpretation of whether a constructive trust affects real property for purposes of a lis pendens [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 968, 89 CR2d 693 ]. It has been held that lis pendens should be narrowly interpreted in constructive trust cases in order to prevent abuse [ BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 955, 89 CR2d 693 ].

A claim for an equitable lien may be treated as other remedies [see 21.04[2][h]], in that they do not support a lis pendens, because they seek an interest in the property for the purpose of securing a claim for money damages [ Campbell v. Superior Court (2005) 132 CA4th 904, 919, 34 CR3d 68 ].

21.04[2][h] Not Available in Action Seeking Equitable Remedies As Collateral Means of Collecting Money Damages. Allegations of equitable remedies, even if colorable, will not support a lis pendens if, ultimately, those allegations act only as a collateral means to collect money damages [ Urez Corp v. Superior Court (1987) 190 CA3d 1141, 1149, 235 CR 837 ; see also BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 89 CR2d 693 (courts must consider whether substance of dispute is essentially a fraud action seeking money damages, with constructive trust allegations appended)].

21.04[2][i] Available in Actions on Fraudulent Conveyances. An action for fraudulent conveyance of the real property under the Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act [CC § 3439 et seq.] supports a lis pendens [ Kirkeby v. Superior Court (2004) 33 C4th 642, 649 , 15 CR3d 805 , 93 P3d 395 ].

21.04[2][j] Not Available in Action in Foreign Court. California lis pendens statutes do not authorize recording a notice of litigation that is pending in the courts of another state [ The Formula Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 CA4th 1455, 1457, 1458, 1460, 86 CR3d 341] .

21.04[3] Must Be Filed by Party Asserting Real Property Claim. In order to file a valid lis pendens, the filing party must be a party to an underlying action and must be asserting a real property claim in that action [CCP § 405.20].

21.04[4] Available in Both State and Federal Court. A lis pendens may be filed in an action in United States District Court, as well as California state courts [CCP § 405.5].

21.04[5] Probable Validity Not Required to File Notice. The statutes do not require that the claimant be able to demonstrate the "probable validity" of the claim as a prerequisite to filing the lis pendens notice [see CCP § 405.20]. However, the claimant will be required to make such showing at a later time if someone with an interest in the property seeks to have the lis pendens notice expunged [see CCP § 405.32]. "Probable validity," with respect to a real property claim, means that it is more likely than not that the claimant will obtain a judgment against the defendant on the claim [CCP § 405.3].

Strategic Point--Claimant:

Before filing a lis pendens, the claimant should consider the likelihood of whether or not such a showing can be made if one of the parties subsequently seeks to have the order expunged. Another thing to consider is that the claimant will bear the burden of proof on this issue in any subsequent expungement proceeding, not the party seeking to have the notice expunged [CCP § 405.30]. Also, remember that filing a lis pendens claim without adequate justification could give rise to claims of abuse of process and/or slander of title claims, sanctions, and/or an award of attorney's fees [].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
II. FILING AND SERVING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.05

21.05 Drafting Lis Pendens Notice.

21.05[1] Parties Must Be Named. The notice must contain the names of all parties to the action [CCP § 405.20].

Warning:

Parties and their counsel should ensure that the names of the parties are spelled correctly. If the names of the property owners are misspelled, the lis pendens may effectively be rendered void and invalid since the doctrine of idem sonans may not apply to a lis pendens. The doctrine of idem sonans (having the same sound) provides that though a person's name has been inaccurately written, the identity of that person will be presumed from the similarity of sounds between the correct pronunciation and the pronunciation as written. Under this doctrine, absolute accuracy in spelling names is not required in legal proceedings. However, this rule does not apply when the written name is material. Since the law of notice by record is addressed to the eye and not the ear, this rule has been held not to apply to an abstract of judgment containing a misspelled name [see Orr v. Byers (1988) 198 CA3d 666, 244 CR 13].

21.05[2] Property Must Be Described. The notice must contain a description of the property affected by the action [CCP § 405.20]. Standard practice is to include a full legal description, as well as the address of the property if applicable.

Warning:

The description must be clear enough that it will be picked up on a preliminary title report issued by a title company. For this reason, a street address by itself is probably insufficient.

Cross Reference:

California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 81, Drafting Legal Descriptions (Matthew Bender).

21.05[3] Lis Pendens Notice Need Not State Object of the Action. Prior law had required that the lis pendens document contain a statement of the object of the action. This requirement was not included in the current law as it served little purpose since the object or purpose of the action was best determined by a review of the pleading supporting the lis pendens [CCP § 405.20, comment 2].

21.05[4] Acknowledgment Should Be Included. Gov Code § 27287 provides generally that before an instrument can be recorded, its execution must be acknowledged by the person executing it. Though the Lis Pendens Law does not specifically require that the lis pendens be acknowledged, it is prudent to include this acknowledgment even if the county recorder's practice is to accept documents that have not been acknowledged.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens

II. FILING AND SERVING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.06

21.06 Signature Requirements for Lis Pendens Notice.

21.06[1] Notice Must Be Properly Signed Before Recordation. A notice of pendency of action cannot be recorded unless it meets one of the applicable signature requirements [CCP § 405.21]:

- It has been signed by the attorney of record;
- It is signed by a party acting in propria persona and approved by a judge of the court in which an action that includes a real property claim is pending; or
- The action is subject to CCP § 405.6 (eminent domain actions).

21.06[2] Attorney of Record May Sign Notice. An attorney of record in an action may sign a lis pendens notice [CCP § 405.21].

21.06[3] Judge May Approve Notice. A judge of the court in which an action that includes a real property claim is pending may, upon request of a party to the action, approve a lis pendens notice [CCP § 405.21].

Strategic Point:

The literal language of CCP § 405.21 contains an arguable inconsistency as to whether or not a party who is represented by an attorney could nevertheless seek judicial approval of a lis pendens notice, rather than simply having the attorney sign it. The second sentence of CCP § 405.21 merely says that as an alternative to signature by an attorney of record, the judge may approve a lis pendens notice on request of a party to the action. Under this sentence, a party apparently could seek judicial approval of a lis pendens notice even if that party is represented by an attorney, if for some reason the attorney of record was unavailable or reluctant to sign. However, the third sentence of CCP § 405.21 makes either (1) signature by an attorney; or (2) signature by a party acting in propria persona and approval by a judge, a prerequisite for recording. This sentence appears to require signature by an attorney of record if there is one. In practice, since signature by the attorney of record is simpler than going before a judge to get a lis pendens notice approved, it is unlikely that there would be any reason to seek judicial approval when there is an attorney of record who can sign.

21.06[4] Party Appearing in Propria Persona Must Sign Notice and Obtain Court Approval. A claimant appearing propria persona must sign the lis pendens [CCP § 405.21]. When a party appears in propria persona to request approval of a lis pendens, it is the court's duty pursuant to CCP § 405.21 to confirm that an action containing a real property claim, as defined by CCP § 405.4, is pending, and to approve a lis pendens proper in form if such a claim is pending [CCP § 405.21, comment 2].

Strategic Point:

The procedures for hearing and ruling upon such requests, and for establishing a record of approval or rejection, are left to determination by the courts [CCP § 405.21, comment 2]. Inquiry should be made to the court regarding the exact procedure to be used.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
II. FILING AND SERVING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.07

21.07 Serving Lis Pendens.

21.07[1] Lis Pendens Usually Must Be Served Prior to Recordation. Before the lis pendens is recorded, the claimant must cause a copy of the notice to be mailed, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to [CCP § 405.22]:

- All known addresses of the parties to whom the real property claim is adverse; and
- All owners of record of the real property affected by the real property claim as shown by the latest county assessment roll.

Exception:

The above requirement does not apply in eminent domain actions governed by CCP § 405.6 [CCP § 405.22].

Warning:

A lis pendens notice is void and invalid as to any adverse party or owner of record unless the service requirements have been met for that party or owner and a proof of service in the form and content specified in CCP § 1013a has been recorded with the lis pendens [CCP § 405.23].

Distinguish--Effect of Actual Notice:

The lis pendens law does not affect existing law regarding the effect of actual notice [CCP § 405.24, comment 4]. Thus, a technical defect in service should not void or invalidate a lis pendens when the affected persons have received actual notice of the action [ Biddle v. Superior Court (1985) 170 CA3d 135, 138, 215 CR 848 ].

21.07[2] Declaration Required If Service Is Not Possible. If there is no known address for service on an adverse party or owner, service on that party or owner is not required. However, as to that party or owner, a declaration under penalty of perjury to that effect may be recorded instead of the proof of service described in 21.07[3] [CCP § 405.22].

21.07[3] Proof of Service. The claimant must prepare and execute a proof of service that complies with CCP §

1013a [CCP § 405.23].

Cross Reference:

For the proof of service requirements of CCP § 1013a, see Ch. 27, Service of Papers, 27.29 -27.35.

21.07[4] Serving Adverse Parties Later Joined in the Action. The lis pendens must be served immediately, and in the same manner described above, upon each adverse party later joined in the action [CCP § 405.22].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
II. FILING AND SERVING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.08

21.08 Filing and Recording Lis Pendens Notice.

21.08[1] Obtaining Court Approval Prior to Recording Second Lis Pendens If Prior Lis Pendens Was Expunged. If a lis pendens was previously filed against the property in the same action and was subsequently expunged, the claimant must obtain leave of the court in which the action is pending before another lis pendens is filed as to the affected property [CCP § 405.36; Ranchito Ownership Co. v. Superior Court (1981) 130 CA3d 764, 766, 182 CR 54 ].

21.08[2] Recording Notice With County Recorder. The lis pendens notice may be recorded in the office of the recorder of each county in which all or part of the real property is situated [CCP § 405.20].

 Cross Reference:

For detailed discussion of recording procedures, see California Real Estate Law and Practice, Ch. 82, Recording of Instruments (Matthew Bender).

 Warning:

A lis pendens may not be recorded unless it is signed by an attorney of record or has been preapproved by the court [CCP § 405.21, comment 3].

 Cross Reference:

Signing requirements, see 21.06.

 Warning:

Gov Code § 27287 provides generally that before an instrument can be recorded, its execution must be acknowledged by the person executing it. Though the Lis Pendens Law does not specifically require that the lis pendens be acknowledged, it would be prudent to include this acknowledgment even if the county recorder's practice is to accept documents which have not been acknowledged.

 Cross Reference:

Acknowledgment, see 21.05[4].

Strategic Point:

The claimant should not delay in recording the lis pendens notice. The constructive notice provided by a lis pendens runs from the time of recording the lis pendens notice, not from the time the underlying action is brought. The rights and interest of the claimant in the property, as ultimately determined in the pending noticed action, relate back to the date of the recording of the lis pendens notice [CCP § 405.24]. A bona fide purchaser for value who acquires an interest in real property is not charged with constructive notice of a claimant's interest if the recorder's office had not properly indexed the document delivered to it reflecting that interest [ Dyer v. Martinez (2007) 147 CA4th 1240, 1246-1247, 54 CR3d 907 ].

21.08[3] Recording Proof of Service or Declaration Along With Lis Pendens Notice. Proof of service on each person required to be served, or a declaration under penalty of perjury that there is no known address for service on such a person, must be recorded with the lis pendens notice [CCP § 405.23].

Warning:

A lis pendens notice is void and invalid as to any adverse party or owner of record unless the service requirements have been met for that party or owner and a proof of service in the form and content specified in CCP § 1013a has been recorded with the lis pendens [CCP § 405.23].

21.08[4] Filing Copy of Lis Pendens With Court. Immediately following recordation, a copy of the lis pendens must also be filed with the court in which the action is pending [CCP § 405.22].

The Lis Pendens Law does not preclude any party from seeking an attachment, an injunction, or other relief in connection with a real property claim [CCP § 405.8].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
III. EXPUNGING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.10

21.10 CHECKLIST: Expunging a Lis Pendens Notice.

☐ Decide whether practical advantages of expungement would outweigh additional expense and effort of obtaining expungement order.

☐ Successful expungement enables record owner to deal with property as though no notice of lis pendens had been filed.

☐ Conversely, will require additional time and effort, and generate additional costs and attorney's fees.

Discussion:

See 21.11

Authority:

CCP §§ 405.60, 405.61

☐ Determine whether one or more of following grounds exist for expunging lis pendens:

Warning:

The court has the power to award sanctions pursuant to CCP § 128.5 and attorney's fees under CCP § 405.38 for frivolous motions to expunge designed to harass the claimant [see CCP § 405.30, comment 4]. The moving party's attorney should make certain that a legitimate ground for a motion to expunge exists before filing such a motion.

☐ Lis pendens notice is void and invalid because it was not properly served.

Authority:

CCP § 405.23; CCP § 405.30, comment 2

Discussion:

See 21.12; 21.07 (service requirements)

- ☐ Pleading on which lis pendens notice is based does not contain a real property claim.

Authority:

CCP § 405.31

Discussion:

See 21.12; 21.04[2]

- ☐ Claimant cannot establish by a preponderance of the evidence the "probable validity" of the real property claim.

Authority:

CCP § 405.32; see CCP § 405.3 (definition of "probable validity")

Discussion:

See 21.12

- ☐ An undertaking will provide adequate relief to claimant.

Authority:

CCP § 405.33

Discussion:

See 21.12

- ☐ Determine when motion will be filed.

- ☐ Motion may be filed at any time after the notice has been recorded.

Authority:

CCP § 405.30

Discussion:

See 21.13[1]

- ☐ Determine status of party who wants to file motion:

- ☐ Any party to action may file motion upon application to court.

- ☐ Nonparty with an interest in real property affected by the action may file motion only if party obtains leave of court to intervene at or before the time the party brings the motion to expunge the notice [CCP § 405.30].

- ☐ Motion to intervene should be separate from motion to expunge.

Authority:
CCP § 405.30

Discussion:
See 21.13[2]

- ☐ Prepare application (motion) to expunge.

Form:
See 21.39

- ☐ Prepare proposed expungement order.

Form:
See 21.40

- ☐ Prepare any supporting declaration and other evidence to be filed along with motion.

- ☐ Decide whether or not supporting evidence will be presented.

Authority:
See CCP § 405.30

Discussion:
See 21.13[5]

- ☐ Filing evidence is not mandatory unless moving party has burden of proof.

- ☐ Submission of supporting evidence ordinarily is not necessary to determine existence of a real property claim under CCP § 405.31.

- ☐ If motion seeks expungement for lack of probable validity of claim under CCP § 405.32:

- ☐ Moving party need not present evidence until claimant has initially met its burden of proof.

Authority:
CCP § 405.30, comment 4; see Evid Code §§ 500, 550

Discussion:
See 21.13[5][b], [c]

☐ Moving party may choose to present evidence with moving papers in anticipation of claimant's response.

☐ If motion seeks expungement conditioned on undertaking under CCP § 405.33, moving party has burden of showing that pecuniary relief in the form of an undertaking will suffice and must file supporting evidence with moving papers.

Authority:

CCP § 405.30, comment 4; see Evid Code §§ 500, 550]

Discussion:

See 21.13[5][e]

☐ If motion seeks expungement for procedural invalidity under CCP § 405.22:

☐ Moving party need not present evidence until claimant has initially met its burden of proof.

Authority:

Evid Code §§ 500, 550

Discussion:

See 21.13[5][f]

☐ Moving party may choose to present evidence with moving papers in anticipation of claimant's response.

☐ Prepare any supporting evidence, including any affidavits and declarations to be submitted in support of motion.

☐ File motion and supporting documents with court in which underlying action affecting the real property is pending.

Discussion:

See 21.13[6]

Authority:

CCP § 405.30

☐ Serve motion and supporting documents on opposing party. Consider whether it is in your party's interest to serve the motion on non-parties affected by the lis pendens who might decide to intervene and assist in the motion.

Discussion:

See 21.13[7]

Authority:

See CCP § 1005(a)(11), (b)

Timing:

- ☐ At least 16 court days before the hearing unless court orders otherwise.
  - ☐ At least 16 court plus 5 days before the hearing if notice is served by mail and both place of mailing and place of address are in California.
  - ☐ At least 16 court plus 10 calendar days before the hearing if notice is served by mail and either place of mailing or place of address is outside California but within United States.
  - ☐ At least 16 court plus 20 days before the hearing if notice is served by mail and either place of mailing or place of address is outside United States.
  - ☐ If notice is served by fax, express mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the 16-day notice period is extended by 2 court days.
- ☐ If discovery is needed in connection with motion, request discovery order from court.

Authority:

CCP § 405.30

- ☐ If continuance is necessary to complete discovery, request continuance for discovery from court.

Authority:

CCP § 405.30, comment 4

- ☐ If hearing will be held on motion, appear at hearing.

☐ Hearing ordinarily will be required to determine probable validity of claim if probable validity is at issue.

Authority:

CCP § 405.32, comment 4

Discussion:

See 21.13[11]

- ☐ If probable validity is not at issue, hearing apparently is at court's discretion.
- ☐ If hearing is held, present any oral testimony in support of claim, if court permits that evidence to be received.

Authority:

CCP § 405.30

Discussion:

See 21.13[10]

- ☐ Court will issue order if it is satisfied that one of the grounds for expungement has been met.

Authority:

CCP §§ 405.31, 405.32, 405.33

Discussion:

See 21.14

- ☐ If court finds that real property claim has probable validity, but that an undertaking will be adequate to protect the claimant:

Authority:

CCP § 405.33

Discussion:

See 21.14[3]

- ☐ Arrange for undertaking in amount set by court.
- ☐ File undertaking with court on or before return day set by court.

- ☐ Record certified copy of court's expungement order.

- ☐ Record order in office where lis pendens was originally recorded.

Authority:

See CCP § 405.60

Discussion:

See 21.15[1]

- ☐ Record expungement order when period for filing petition for writ of mandate has expired, if no such petition is filed.

Timing:

- ☐ Petition must be filed within 20 days of service of written notice by court or any party.

- ☐ Court has the power to extend this 20-day period for an additional 10 days [CCP § 405.39].

Authority:

CCP §§ 405.35, 405.39

Discussion:

See 21.15[2]

☐ If a petition for writ of mandate is filed within that period, record order when proceeding commenced by that petition has been finally adjudicated.

Authority:

CCP § 405.35

Discussion:

See 21.15[2]; see 21.22, 21.23 (appellate review of expungement order)

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
III. EXPUNGING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.11

21.11 Purpose and Advantage of Bringing Motion to Expunge Lis Pendens.

21.11[1] Expungement Order Removes the Lis Pendens Encumbrance. An order expunging the notice is intended to remove an encumbrance, and to enable the record owner to deal with his property as though no notice of lis pendens had been filed [ Ranchito Ownership Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 130 CA3d 764, 770, 182 CR 54 ].

Decision Point:

In general, the advantage of obtaining an expungement order is that it clears record title to the property pending the outcome of the litigation. Therefore, if the property owner wants to encumber, lease, dispose of, or otherwise deal with the property during the pendency of the litigation, expunging the lis pendens may be extremely advantageous. For example, if the owner wants to use the property as security for a loan, removing the lis pendens may be critical. In some cases, the added financial flexibility that may result from expunging the lis pendens may enable the property owner to continue the litigation rather than being forced into an unfavorable settlement for unrelated financial reasons. Conversely, if the property owner has no plans to deal with the property while the underlying claim is being resolved, the added time and expense of obtaining an expungement order may not be worthwhile.

21.11[2] Constructive Notice Eliminated. Upon recordation of a certified copy of an order expunging a notice of pendency of action, neither the notice nor any information derived from it, prior to the recording of a certified copy of the judgment or decree issued in the action, constitute actual or constructive notice of any of the matters contained, claimed, alleged, or contended therein, or of any of the matters related to the action, or create a duty of inquiry in any person thereafter dealing with the affected property [CCP § 405.60; see Knapp Development & Design v. Pal-Mal Properties (1987) 195 CA3d 786, 790, 240 CR 920 ; see CCP §§ 405.60, 405.61 for the effect of an expunged or withdrawn lis pendens].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
III. EXPUNGING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.12

21.12 Grounds for Expunging Lis Pendens.

A lis pendens notice may be expunged if any of the following grounds are found to exist:

- The lis pendens notice is void and invalid because it was not properly served [CCP § 405.23; CCP § 405.30, comment 2; see CCP § 405.22 (filing and service requirements)].

► Cross Reference:

See 21.07 (service requirements).

- The pleading on which the lis pendens notice is based does not contain a real property claim [CCP § 405.31].

► Cross Reference:

See 21.04[2] (determining if real property claim).

- The claimant is unable to establish by a preponderance of the evidence the probable validity of the real property claim [CCP § 405.32]. "Probable validity," with respect to a real property claim, means that it is more likely than not that the claimant will obtain a judgment against the defendant on the claim [CCP § 405.3].

- The claimant is able to demonstrate that the real property claim has probable validity, but adequate relief can be secured to the claimant by the giving of an undertaking [CCP § 405.33].

- The lis pendens was not filed under authority of California lis pendens statutes [ The Formula Inc. v. Superior Court (2008) 168 CA4th 1455, 1465, 86 CR3d 341 (expunged for being filed in action in foreign court)].

Warning:

The court has the power to award sanctions pursuant to CCP § 128.5 and attorney's fees under CCP § 405.38 for frivolous motions to expunge designed to harass the claimant [see CCP § 405.30, comment 4]. The moving party's attorney should make certain that a legitimate ground for a motion to expunge exists before filing such a motion.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
III. EXPUNGING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.13

21.13 Making Motion to Expunge a Lis Pendens.

21.13[1] When Motion May Be Filed. A motion to expunge a lis pendens notice may be filed at any time after the notice has been recorded [CCP § 405.30].

21.13[2] Who May File Motion.

21.13[2][a] Any Party, or Nonparty With Interest in Subject Property, May File Motion. Any party, or any nonparty with an interest in the real property affected by the action, may apply to the court in which the action is pending to expunge the notice [CCP § 405.30].

21.13[2][b] Nonparty Must Obtain Leave to Intervene. A person who is not a party to the action must obtain leave to intervene from the court at or before the time the party brings the motion to expunge the notice [CCP § 405.30].

Strategic Point:

A nonparty who seeks to expunge a lis pendens must file a motion to intervene. This motion should be separate from the motion to expunge since local rules may prevent the combination of motions in one pleading document.

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 31, Intervention.

21.13[3] Contents of Application (Motion) to Expunge. The lis pendens statutes do not require any specific contents for a motion to expunge a lis pendens. Presumably, however, such a motion should meet the requirements applicable to motions generally and, at a minimum, contain the following:

Cross Reference:

Form, see 21.39.

- Statement of purpose of motion; i.e., to expunge lis pendens.
- Location, date, and reference information relating to recordation of lis pendens.
- Identity of claimant who filed lis pendens notice.
- Description of real property as to which notice was filed.
- Grounds for seeking expungement.

21.13[4] Preparing Accompanying Documents. The following documents should also be prepared for submission with the motion to expunge:

- Proposed order.

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 21.40.

- Supporting memorandum.

Warning:

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this notice of motion [see CCP §§ 1005, 1010; Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

 Cross Reference:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.43[5] (memoranda).

21.13[5] Preparation of Supporting Declarations and Evidence.

21.13[5][a] Evidence or Declarations May Accompany Motions. Evidence or declarations may accompany the motion to expunge [CCP § 405.30].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of evidentiary support for motions and applications, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.12 et seq.

21.13[5][b] Filing Evidence Is Not Mandatory Unless Moving Party Has Burden of Proof. The party moving to expunge may, but is not necessarily required to, file evidence with the moving papers. Whether the moving party is required to file evidence with the moving papers depends upon which party bears the burden of proof on the motion, as noted below [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of burdens of proof and persuasion, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 9, Burden of Proof and Persuasion.

21.13[5][c] Submission of Supporting Evidence Ordinarily Not Needed to Determine Existence of a Real Property Claim Under CCP § 405.31. A motion to expunge on the basis that the action does not contain a real property claim [CCP § 405.31] involves only a review of the adequacy of the pleading and normally should not involve evidence from either side, other than possibly that which may be judicially noticed as on a demurrer [CCP § 405.30, comment 4; BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 956-957, 89 CR2d 693 ].

Strategic Point:

Addressing whether or not a pleading contains a real property claim concerns judicial examination of allegations only [CCP § 405.31, comment 1; BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 957, 89 CR2d 693 ]. The analysis required of a pleading necessary to support the lis pendens is analogous to, but more limited than, the analysis undertaken by a court on a demurrer. Rather than analyzing whether the pleading states any claim at all, as on a general demurrer, the court must undertake the more limited analysis of whether the pleading states a real property claim [CCP § 405.32; CCP § 405.31, comment 2; BGJ Associates v. Superior Court (1999) 75 CA4th 952, 956, 89 CR2d 693 ].

21.13[5][d] Submission of Supporting Evidence When Motion Seeks Expungement for Lack of Probable Validity of Claim Under CCP § 405.32. A motion to expunge on the basis that the claim has no probable validity [CCP § 405.32] requires the court to conduct a judicial evaluation of the merits of the underlying claim [CCP § 405.32; Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 319, 130 CR2d 641 ], and places the burden of proof on the claimant. The moving party hence need not present evidence until the claimant has initially met its burden [see Evid Code §§ 500, 550]. Nevertheless, the moving party may choose to present evidence with the moving papers in anticipation of the claimant's response [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

21.13[5][e] Submission of Supporting Evidence When Motion Seeks Expungement Conditioned on Undertaking Under CCP § 405.33. A motion to expunge on the basis that pecuniary relief in the form of an undertaking will suffice [CCP § 405.33] places the burden of proof upon the moving party by operation of Evid Code §§ 500 and 550. Unless the court can find that an undertaking would secure adequate relief, the motion to expunge must be denied. The moving party therefore must file supporting evidence with the moving papers [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

21.13[5][f] Submission of Supporting Evidence When Motion Seeks Expungement for Procedural Invalidity Under CCP § 405.22. A motion to expunge a void and invalid lis pendens places the burden of proof upon the claimant [see Evid Code §§ 500, 550]. Unless the court finds that the requirements of CCP § 405.22 have been met, the lis pendens is void and invalid and must be expunged [CCP § 405.30, comment 4]. The moving party hence need not present evidence until the claimant has initially met its burden [see Evid Code §§ 500, 550], but, as in the case of a "probable validity" claim, presumably may choose to present evidence with the moving papers in anticipation of the claimant's response [see CCP § 405.30].

21.13[6] Filing Motion and Supporting Documents. The motion to expunge the lis pendens, together with any supporting documents, must be filed with the court in which the action affecting the real property is pending [CCP § 405.30].

21.13[7] Serving Motion and Supporting Documents.

21.13[7][a] Service on Opposing Party. A copy of the moving and supporting papers filed with the court must be served on the opposing party [see CCP § 1005(b)].

Strategic Point:

Consider whether it is advantageous to serve non-parties affected by the filing of the lis pendens who would tend to favor having the lis pendens expunged and might decide to intervene to assist in that effort.

21.13[7][b] Time Requirements for Service. Time requirements for serving a motion for expungement of a lis pendens notice are governed by the general requirements for written motions specified in CCP § 1005(b) [CCP § 1005(a)(11) (specific application to actions seeking expungement of lis pendens), (b) (time requirements)]:

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 27, Service of Papers.

- All moving and supporting papers must be served and filed at least 16 court days before the hearing unless the court orders otherwise.

- If the notice is served by mail and both the place of mailing and place of address are in California, the period is 16 court days plus 5 calendar days.

- The period is 16 court days plus 10 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside California but within the United States, and 16 court plus 20 calendar days if either the place of mailing or the place of address is outside the United States.

- If the notice is served by fax, express mail, or another method of delivery providing for overnight delivery, the 16-day notice period is extended by 2 court days.

21.13[8] Requesting Discovery Orders. The court may make any orders it deems just to provide for discovery by any party affected by a motion to expunge a lis pendens notice [CCP § 405.30].

Cross Reference:

See Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

21.13[9] Requesting Continuance for Discovery. The court retains discretion to continue the motion for further evidence [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

Strategic Point:

The party who moves to expunge the lis pendens is more likely to have a continuance request granted, and the court might freely allow it. However, the party that recorded the lis pendens is less likely to have a continuance request granted because the property remains encumbered until resolution of the motion, and a continuance under these circumstances will most likely require a significant showing of good cause. The court may grant a continuance on the condition that the lis pendens be withdrawn pending the outcome of the discovery and expungement hearing.

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 30, Continuances.

21.13[10] Court May Consider Oral Evidence. The court may permit evidence to be received in the form of oral testimony, but is not required to do so [CCP § 405.30].

Strategic Point:

Since it is in the court's discretion as to whether or not the court will hear oral testimony, the parties should consider filing written declarations to present any desired evidence--the court may choose not to hear oral testimony.

21.13[11] Hearing Required to Determine Probable Validity of Claim. A determination of the probable validity of a claimant's real property claim require a hearing on the merits of the same type as those conducted in attachment and claim and delivery proceedings [CCP § 405.32, comment 4].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
III. EXPUNGING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.14

21.14 Issuance of Order Expunging Lis Pendens.

21.14[1] Expungement on Ground That Pleading Does Not Contain a Real Property Claim. The court must order the lis pendens expunged if the courts finds that the pleading on which the written notice is based does not state a real property claim [CCP § 405.31]. Expungement is mandated in this situation [CCP § 405.31, comment 2]. The court cannot order an undertaking to be given as a condition of expunging the notice if the court finds that the pleading does not contain a real property claim [CCP § 405.31].

21.14[2] Expungement on Ground That Claimant Cannot Establish the Probable Validity of Claim. The court must order the list expunged if it finds that the claimant has not established by a preponderance of the evidence the probable validity of the real property claim [CCP § 405.32; Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 318, 130 CR2d 641 ]. The statute requires the court to conduct a judicial evaluation of the merits of the underlying claim [CCP § 405.32; Mix v. Superior Court (2004) 124 CA4th 987, 993 ; Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 319, 130 CR2d 641 ]. The court cannot order an undertaking to be given as a condition of expunging the notice if it finds that the claimant has not established the probable validity of the real property claim [CCP § 405.32; see CCP § 405.32, comment 5].

Under the standards of CCP § 405.32, if the claimant who filed the lis pendens loses at trial, the lis pendens must be expunged [ Mix v. Superior Court (2004) 124 CA4th 987, 996 ].

Strategic Point:

The Legislature's intent was to make the standard on a motion to expunge a notice of lis pendens equivalent to the "probable validity standard" applicable under The Attachment Law [CCP § 484.090] and other provisions for pretrial judicial evaluation [e.g., CCP § 512.060 (writ of possession); CCP § 564 (appointment of receiver); Corp Code § 800(c)(1) (shareholder derivative action)] [CCP § 405.32; Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 320, 130 CR2d 641 ].

The Lis Pendens Law requires that the claimant objectively establish the probable validity of the real property claim. The court should not consider the claimant's subjective state of mind (e.g., for a proper purpose and in good faith) [CCP § 405.32, comment 6].

21.14[3] Expungement on Ground That Adequate Relief Can Be Secured to the Claimant by an Undertaking.

21.14[3][a] Circumstances Requiring Expungement Conditioned Upon an Undertaking to Secure Claimant's Relief. If the court finds that the real property claim has probable validity, but adequate relief can be secured to the claimant by the giving of an undertaking, the court must order that the notice be expunged on condition that an undertaking be given [CCP § 405.33].

Warning:

Establishment of probable validity does not constitute a meritorious opposition to a motion to provide an undertaking in lieu of the lis pendens. The focus is whether monetary damages will fully compensate the claimant [CCP § 405.33, comment 2].

21.14[3][b] Amount of Undertaking. The undertaking must be of such a nature and in such an amount as will indemnify the claimant for all damages proximately resulting from the expungement which the claimant may incur if the claimant prevails upon the real property claim [CCP § 405.33].

21.14[3][c] Return Date for Undertaking. In its order conditionally expunging the notice, the court must set a return date for the moving party to show fulfillment of the condition. If the moving party fails to show fulfillment of the condition on the return day, the court shall deny the motion to expunge without further notice or hearing [CCP § 405.33].

21.14[3][d] No Expungement If Monetary Relief Would Be Inadequate. Unless the court can find that an undertaking would secure adequate relief, the motion to expunge must be denied [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

III. EXPUNGING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.15

21.15 Recording Expungement Order.

21.15[1] Where to Record. A certified copy of the court order expunging a lis pendens should be recorded in the office where the lis pendens was originally recorded [see CCP § 405.60].

21.15[2] When to Record. The notice may not be recorded until the period for filing a petition for writ of mandate under CCP § 405.39 has expired; or, if a petition for writ of mandate has been filed within that period, until the proceeding commenced by that petition has been finally adjudicated [CCP § 405.35]. A petition must be filed within 20 days of service of written notice by the court or any party. The court has the power to extend this 20-day period for an additional 10 days [CCP § 405.39]. The expungement order may be recorded upon expiration of this period unless a petition has been filed [CCP § 405.35].

21.15[3] Importance of Recording. Upon recordation of a certified copy of an order expunging a lis pendens, neither the notice nor any information derived from it, prior to the recording of a certified copy of the judgment or decree issued in the action, constitutes actual or constructive notice of any of the matters contained, claimed, alleged, or contended the action, or of any of the matters related to the action, or creates a duty of inquiry in any person thereafter dealing with the affected property [CCP § 405.60]. Recordation of an expungement order eliminates binding knowledge of the pendency of an action to any non-party to the action who becomes a purchaser, transferee, mortgagee or other encumbrancer for value of any interest in the subject real property prior to recordation of judgment in the action [ Knapp Development & Design v. Pal-Mal Properties (1987) 195 CA3d 786, 790, 240 CR 920 ]. The record owner can then deal with his property as though no notice of lis pendens had been filed [ Ranchito Ownership Co. v. Superior Court (1982) 130 CA3d 764, 770, 182 CR 54 ].

IV. OPPOSING A MOTION TO EXPUNGE A LIS PENDENS NOTICE.

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.17

21.17 Determining Grounds for Motion to Expunge.

Upon receipt of a motion to expunge a lis pendens the claimant should first determine the grounds for the motion, in order to identify possible grounds for opposing it. If none of the grounds noted in 21.18 can be reasonably asserted, then ordinarily the lis pendens cannot be expunged.

IV. OPPOSING A MOTION TO EXPUNGE A LIS PENDENS NOTICE.

21.18 Determining Grounds for Opposition to Motion.

21.18[1] Evaluating Existence of Grounds for Opposing Motion. Before deciding whether to oppose a motion to expunge a lis pendens, the claimant should evaluate the grounds for the motion to determine whether or not any legitimate grounds exist for opposing the motion. This evaluation should be made with specific reference to the grounds asserted in the motion by the moving party.

21.18[2] Basic Sufficiency of Motion. For all motions, the following grounds should be considered:

- Procedural Requirements: Was the motion filed and served in accordance with the proper procedural requirements?
- Substantive Sufficiency: Does the motion assert one of the grounds authorized by statute? If it is based on some other ground, is that ground a legitimate basis for bringing such a motion?

21.18[3] Opposition When Motion Is Based on Procedural Grounds (CCP § 405.22). If the motion seeks to expunge the lis pendens based on the claimant's alleged noncompliance with procedural requirements of CCP § 405.22:

- Is moving party's assertion of a procedural defect correct?
- If it is correct, can the procedural defect be cured?

➡ Cross Reference:

See 21.13 (making a motion to expunge lis pendens).

21.18[4] Opposition When Motion Is Based on Lack of Real Property Claim (CCP § 405.31). If the motion to expunge the lis pendens is based on the assertion that the underlying pleading contains no real property claim, a successful opposition must demonstrate the existence of such a claim.

➡ Cross Reference:

See 21.04[2] for discussion of what does or does not constitute a "real property claim" for purposes of CCP § 405.4.

21.18[5] Opposition When Motion Is Based on Lack of Probable Validity of Real Property Claim (CCP § 405.32). If the motion to expunge the lis pendens is based on the assertion that the probable validity of the real property claim has not been established, the motion may be opposed on the ground that probable validity does exist.

 Cross References:

See 21.35[d]. See 21.12[2] for the meaning of "probable validity" as defined in CCP § 405.3.

21.18[6] Opposition When Motion Is Based on Adequacy of Undertaking in Lieu of Lis Pendens (CCP § 405.33). If the motion to expunge the lis pendens is based on the assertion that the posting of an undertaking by the moving party would provide the claimant with adequate relief, the motion may be opposed on the ground that monetary relief is inadequate.

 Cross Reference:

See 21.27 et seq. (undertaking requirements).

21.19 Preparation and Filing of Supporting Declarations and Evidence.

21.19[1] Determine Whether to Submit Supporting Evidence. Evidence or declarations may accompany the motion to expunge [CCP § 405.30]. Whether or not the claimant must file supporting evidence depends on who bears the burden of proof on the motion [see CCP § 405.30, comment 4]:

- Submission of supporting evidence ordinarily is not needed to determine existence of a real property claim under CCP § 405.31 [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

➡ Cross Reference:

See 21.13[5][c].

- The claimant must submit supporting evidence when the motion seeks expungement for lack of probable validity of the claim under CCP § 405.32 [see CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

➡ Cross Reference:

See 21.13[5][d].

- The claimant may submit supporting evidence when the motion the seeks expungement conditioned on an undertaking under CCP § 405.33, and must submit such evidence if the moving party has met its burden of proof under Evid Code §§ 500 and 550 [see CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

➡ Cross Reference:

See 21.13[5][e].

- The claimant must submit supporting evidence when the motion seeks expungement based on procedural invalidity under CCP § 405.22 [see CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

 Cross Reference:

See 21.13[5][f].

21.19[2] Preparing Additional Evidence. Additional evidence in the form of affidavits, declarations, and documentary evidence should be prepared for submission to the court.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of evidentiary support for motions and applications, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.12 et seq.

21.19[3] Filing Additional Evidence. Any supporting documents prepared by the claimant must be filed with the court in which the action affecting the real property is pending [see CCP § 405.30].

21.19[4] Serving Additional Evidence.

21.19[4][a] Service on Moving Party. A copy of all papers filed with the court must be served on the moving party [see CCP § 1005(b), (c)].

21.19[4][b] Time Requirements for Service. Time requirements for serving reply papers relating to a motion for expungement of a lis pendens notice are governed by the general requirements for papers opposing a written motion specified in CCP § 1005(c) [CCP § 1005(a)(11) (specific application to actions seeking expungement of lis pendens)].

Reply papers must be filed five court days before the hearing [CCP § 1005(b), (c)]. All papers opposing a motion and all reply papers must be served by personal delivery, FAX, express mail, or other means consistent with CCP §§ 1010-1013, and reasonably calculated to ensure delivery to the other party or parties not later than the close of the next business day after the time the opposing papers or reply papers are filed [CCP § 1005(c)].

IV. OPPOSING A MOTION TO EXPUNGE A LIS PENDENS NOTICE.

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.20

21.20 Discovery.

21.20[1] Requesting Discovery Orders. The court may make any orders it deems just to provide for discovery by any party affected by a motion to expunge a lis pendens notice [CCP § 405.30].

Cross Reference:

Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

21.20[2] Requesting Continuance for Discovery. The court retains discretion to continue the motion for further evidence [CCP § 405.30, comment 4].

Strategic Point:

The party who moves to expunge the lis pendens is more likely to have a continuance request granted, and the court might freely allow it. However, the party that recorded the lis pendens is less likely to have a continuance request granted because the property remains encumbered until resolution of the motion, and a continuance under these circumstances will most likely require a significant showing of good cause. The court may grant a continuance on the condition that the lis pendens be withdrawn pending the outcome of the discovery and expungement hearing.

IV. OPPOSING A MOTION TO EXPUNGE A LIS PENDENS NOTICE.

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.21

21.21 Hearing.

21.21[1] Court May Consider Oral Evidence. The court may permit evidence to be received in the form of oral testimony, but is not required to do so [CCP § 405.30].

Strategic Point--Importance of Written Declarations:

Since it is in the court's discretion as to whether or not the court will hear oral testimony, the parties should consider filing written declarations to present any desired evidence--the court may choose not to hear oral testimony.

21.21[2] Hearing Required to Determine Probable Validity of Claim. A determination of the probable validity of a claimant's real property claim require a hearing on the merits of the same type as those conducted in attachment and claim and delivery proceedings [CCP § 405.32, comment 4].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens

V. APPEALING AN ORDER GRANTING OR DENYING EXPUNGEMENT OF LIS PENDENS

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.23

21.23 Procedure for Appellate Review.

21.23[1] Expungement Order May Be Reviewed on Petition for Writ of Mandate. An order expunging (or not expunging) a notice of lis pendens may be reviewed on a petition for writ of mandate. Such an order is not otherwise appealable [CCP § 405.39; Mix v. Superior Court (2004) 124 CA4th 987, 996 ; Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 318, 130 CR2d 641 ].

Strategic Point:

In reviewing an expungement motion, one court has applied a standard of review based upon the standards applicable to the grant or denial of a preliminary injunction [ Howard S. Wright Construction Co. v. Superior Court (2003) 106 CA4th 314, 319-320, 130 CR2d 641 ].

21.23[1A] Include Request for Immediate Stay of Trial Court Order. Petitioner may request an immediate stay of the court's order to maintain the status quo pending the decision on the writ of mandate; and necessary documentation under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 8.486(a), (b) to support the stay must accompany the request [ Mix v. Superior Court (2004) 124 CA4th 987, 996-997, 21 CR3d 826 (decided under former rule)].

21.23[2] Time for Filing Petition for a Writ of Mandate. The petition for writ of mandate must be filed and served within 20 days of service of written notice of the order by the court or any party [CCP § 405.39].

21.23[3] Extension of Time. The court that issued the order may, within the initial 20-day period, extend the initial 20-day period for one additional period not to exceed 10 days [CCP § 405.39].

21.23[4] Copy of the Petition Must Be Filed With Court Clerk. A copy of the petition for writ of mandate must be delivered to the clerk of the court which issued the order with a request that it be placed in the court file [CCP § 405.39].

Strategic Point:

An order expunging a lis pendens is not effective, nor can it be recorded in the office of any county recorder, after a petition for writ of mandate has been filed, until the proceeding commenced by the petition has been finally adjudicated. However, when an expungement order is presented, the county recorder has no duty to determine whether such a petition has been filed [CCP § 405.35].

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens
VI. WITHDRAWING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.25

21.25 Effect of Withdrawing Lis Pendens.

Withdrawal means that the claimant has voluntarily chosen not to assert his or her interest against subsequent purchasers [ Bishop Creek Lodge v. Scira (1996) 46 CA4th 1721, 1734-1735, 54 CR2d 745 (decided under prior law)]. Upon the withdrawal of a notice of pendency of action, neither the notice nor any information derived from it, constitute actual or constructive notice of any of the matters contained, claimed, alleged, or contended therein, or of any of the matters related to the action, or create a duty of inquiry in any person thereafter dealing with the affected property [CCP § 405.60].

Strategic Point:

Voluntary withdrawal would minimize exposure from an inappropriately recorded lis pendens. Although the lis pendens after withdrawal would not create a duty of inquiry, the prior recording would still appear on the title report and alert prospective purchasers to make prudent inquiries.

Warning:

Withdrawing a lis pendens does not automatically preclude an award of attorney fees for an improperly filed lis pendens under CCP § 405.38. The court must still determine which party is the prevailing party based on the trial court's determination of which party realized its objectives in the proceeding [ Castro v. Superior Court (2004) 116 CA4th 1010, 1019 , 10 CR3d 865 ].

VI. WITHDRAWING A LIS PENDENS NOTICE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.26

21.26 Preparing and Filing Notice of Withdrawal.

21.26[1] Preparing Notice. The governing statute does not specify the contents of a notice of withdrawal, but logic suggests that it should contain the following:

- The date the original lis pendens was filed.
- The name of the party who filed it.
- A description of the property affected
- The fact that the notice is being withdrawn.
- Signature block.
- Space for notarial acknowledgment (required by CCP § 405.50).

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 21.43.

21.26[2] Execution Requirements.

21.26[2][a] Person Who Recorded Lis Pendens Must Sign. The document withdrawing the lis pendens must be executed by the party who recorded the notice of pendency of action or by the party's successor in interest [CCP § 405.50].

21.26[2][b] Acknowledgment Must Be Executed. In order to be valid, the notice of withdrawal must be acknowledged [CCP § 405.50].

21.26[3] Notice May Be Filed at Any Time. A notice of withdrawal may be filed at any time after the lis pendens has been recorded [CCP § 405.50].

21.26[4] Notice Must Be Recorded. The notice of withdrawal must be recorded in the office of the recorder in which the lis pendens was originally recorded [CCP § 405.50]. Note that there is no requirement that the notice of withdrawal be filed or served on any other party, or on the court in which the underlying action is pending.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens

VII. REQUIRING CLAIMANT TO GIVE UNDERTAKING AS CONDITION OF MAINTAINING NOTICE IN RECORD TITLE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.28

21.28 Requiring Claimant to Give Undertaking.

Subject to CCP § 405.31 (expungement for failure of pleading to contain a real property claim) and CCP § 405.32 (expungement for failure to establish the probable validity of the real property claim), at any time after a notice of pendency of action has been recorded, and regardless of whether a motion to expunge has been filed, the court, upon motion by any person with an interest in the property, may require the claimant to give the moving party an undertaking as a condition of maintaining the notice in the record title [CCP § 405.34]. The court has authority to require an undertaking when appropriate even if the claimant meets the statutory tests imposed on a claimant's lis pendens [CCP § 405.34, comment 1].

Strategic Point--Moving Party:

Requiring a claimant to give an undertaking may be used as a device to discourage the claimant from maintaining the lis pendens in some cases in which grounds for expunging the lis pendens would not exist. Also, when making the motion for expungement, the moving party usually should request alternative relief that the party who recorded the lis pendens be required to post a bond. In cases involving "close calls," the lis pendens may not be expunged but a bond may be ordered. In this way, the court can protect the interests of both parties regardless of which party ultimately prevails.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens

VII. REQUIRING CLAIMANT TO GIVE UNDERTAKING AS CONDITION OF MAINTAINING NOTICE IN RECORD TITLE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.29

21.29 Preparing and Filing Motion.

21.29[1] When Motion May Be Filed. A motion requiring a claimant to give an undertaking as a condition of maintaining a notice in the record title may be filed at any time after the notice has been recorded, regardless of whether or not a motion to expunge has been filed [CCP § 405.34].

21.29[2] Who May File Motion.

21.29[2][a] Any Person With Interest in Subject Property May Make Motion. Any person with an interest in the real property may move to require the claimant to give an undertaking [CCP § 405.34].

21.29[2][b] Nonparty Must Obtain Leave to Intervene. A person who is not a party to the action must obtain leave to intervene from the court at or before the time the person moves to require an undertaking [CCP § 405.34].

Strategic Point:

A nonparty who seeks to require a claimant to give an undertaking must file a motion to intervene. This motion should be separate from the motion to give an undertaking, since local rules may prevent the combination of motions in one pleading document.

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 31, Intervention.

21.29[3] Contents of Application (Motion) to Require Undertaking. The governing statute does not require any specific contents for a motion to require a lis pendens claimant to give an undertaking. Presumably, however, such a motion should meet the requirements applicable to motions generally and, at a minimum, contain the following:

- Statement of purpose of motion; i.e., to require claimant to provide undertaking.

- Location and date of recordation of lis pendens.
- Identity of claimant who filed lis pendens notice.
- Description of real property as to which notice was filed.
- Relationship of person seeking undertaking to real property (i.e., owner or other status).

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 21.41.

Basic content requirements for motions generally, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure.

21.29[4] Preparing Accompanying Documents. The following documents should also be prepared for submission with the motion to require the claimant to post an undertaking:

- Proposed order.

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 21.42.

- Supporting memorandum.

 Warning:

A supporting memorandum is required to be served and filed with this notice of motion [see CCP §§ 1005, 1010; Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.1113(a)].

 Cross Reference:

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 145, Lis Pendens (Matthew Bender).

21.29[5] Filing and Serving Motion. Filing and service of the motion is governed by CCP § 1005(a)(13). Follow standard motions practice.

Chapter 21 Lis Pendens

VII. REQUIRING CLAIMANT TO GIVE UNDERTAKING AS CONDITION OF MAINTAINING NOTICE IN RECORD TITLE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.30

21.30 Proceedings on Motion.

21.30[1] Introducing Oral Testimony. The court may permit evidence to be received in the form of oral testimony and may make any orders it deems just to provide for discovery by any affected party [CCP § 405.34]. Presumably, although the statute does not specify, such evidence would need to address the issues of the necessity and amount of an undertaking.

Warning:

The governing statute [CCP § 405.34] does not expressly authorize the court to receive written evidence. This is in contrast to the statute governing motions to expunge [CCP § 405.30], which does expressly grant the parties the right to file written declarations or evidence along with the latter type of motion. Although the statute refers to oral testimony and not to "evidence or declarations," the statute's intent appears to be to alert the party seeking the bond and the court to the appropriateness of oral testimony, which presumably would address the harm caused by the lis pendens. As a practical matter, a motion to require the party recording the lis pendens to post an undertaking would almost always be accompanied with, and be an alternative to, a motion to expunge.

Prerequisite:

A written statement setting forth the nature and the extent of the evidence sought to be introduced and a reasonable time estimate for presentation of such evidence at the hearing must be filed at least three days prior to the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1306(b)].

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.15.

21.30[2] Requesting Order for Discovery. The court may make any orders it deems just to provide for discovery on a motion to require the claimant to give an undertaking [CCP § 405.34].

Strategic Point:

The court may grant a continuance on the condition that the lis pendens be withdrawn pending the outcome of the discovery and expungement hearing.

VII. REQUIRING CLAIMANT TO GIVE UNDERTAKING AS CONDITION OF MAINTAINING NOTICE IN RECORD TITLE

2-21 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 21.33

21.33 Recovery on a Claimant's Undertaking.

21.33[1] Recovery Following Termination of Underlying Proceeding. Once the underlying proceeding has been resolved, a party may recover on the undertaking on a showing that [CCP § 405.34]:

- The claimant did not prevail on the real property claim; and
- The person seeking recovery suffered damages as a result of the maintenance of the notice.

Cross Reference:

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 538, Suretyship, Bonds, and Undertakings, § 528.40 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

21.33[2] Amount of Recovery. Recovery may be had up to the amount of the undertaking, but may not exceed that amount [CCP § 405.34]. In assessing damages, the court does not consider the claimant's intent or the presence or absence of probable cause [CCP § 405.34; CCP § 405.32, comment 6]. The property owner cannot recover on a claimant's undertaking for damages unrelated to the filing of the lis pendens [ On v. Cow Hollow Properties (1990) 222 CA3d 1568, 1573, 272 CR 535 (prior law)].

21.33[3] Procedure for Recovery. Recovery on a claimant's undertaking is made on motion following entry of final judgment in the underlying action, in the manner specified in CCP § 996.440. An independent action for recovery is not required [CCP § 996.440].

After notice and hearing, for good cause and on such terms as are just, the court may exonerate or modify any undertaking required of the claimant or pursuant to a stipulation made in lieu of such an order [CCP § 405.37]. An order of the court exonerating or modifying a claimant's undertaking may be made conditional upon the giving of a new undertaking [CCP § 405.37].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
I. STRATEGY

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.01

22.01 Scope.

This chapter covers:

- Objectives and strategy for a party seeking to disqualify a judge, either for cause or due to alleged prejudice against the party or his or her attorney [see 22.02].
- Procedures for, timing of and implications of a party's peremptory challenge of a judge on the grounds of prejudice [see 22.03 22.14-22.14; Forms: see 22.40-22.42].
- The grounds on which a judge may or may not be disqualified for cause [see 22.18, 22.19].
- The implications of a judge's recusal or refusal to recuse himself or herself and the judge's powers after a disqualification, as well as the potential for sanctions [see 22.20-22.22, 22.25- 22.26; Form: see 22.38].
- The procedures for and timing of a party's attempt to have a judge disqualified for cause [see 22.23-22.24; Form: see 22.37].
- The possibility of the parties' waiver of the disqualification of a judge [see 22.27-22.32; Form: see 22.39].
- Procedures for seeking appellate review of orders regarding disqualification for cause and peremptory challenges [see 22.33-22.36].

Core Statutes:

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
I. STRATEGY

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.02

22.02 Objective and Strategy.

The procedures for disqualification of judges allow a party to remove an assigned judge from a case.

There are two methods for disqualifying a judge, for cause or by peremptory challenge:

- Disqualification for cause requires a party to set forth a written, verified statement setting forth facts demonstrating that a judge should be disqualified for cause based on one of the grounds enumerated in CCP § 170.1 [CCP § 170.3(c)(1); see CCP §§ 170.1-170.5].
- Disqualification by peremptory challenge requires only that a party or the party's attorney file a motion supported by an affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury or an oral statement under oath that the judge is prejudiced against a party or the party's attorney so that the party cannot have a fair and impartial hearing or trial [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)]. A party (or side) may only make one peremptory challenge in case with very limited exceptions [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

Decision Point:

You may use disqualification to remove a judge you would rather not have hear the case, but particularly before using your one shot at peremptory disqualification, consider the uncertainty of who may next be assigned (in larger courts) or who is likely to be assigned (in smaller courts). If being assigned from a master calendar, wait until you know who the trial judge will be.

Warning:

The fewer the judges the greater care that must be exercised. Remember that judges eat lunch together, discuss pending cases together, and when a challenge is issued, take these challenges to heart.

Judge's Perspective:

The peremptory challenge, as most judges prefer to call it, bears other names and in common parlance among judges it is likewise known as a "170.6" or "Paper." The peremptory challenge, unlike the challenge for cause, is automatic if filed and executed in a timely manner. The challenge for cause, on the other hand, requires a verified statement of disqualification by counsel. This, in turn, requires the challenged judge to file a timely but verified answer. Moreover, the challenge for cause must be ruled on by another judge (of either the same or different county) unless the judge challenged decides to strike the pleading pursuant to CCP § 170.4.

Counsel should exercise caution when considering either procedure. First, if the challenge for cause is unsuccessful the matter is returned to the very same judge that you have just accused of bias, prejudice, or some other disqualifying act.

Second, with respect to peremptory challenges counsel should carefully assess the risk that they will not be worse off.

The use of either of these procedures must be exercised with great thought. These are not procedures that should be invoked simply because counsel disagree with a judge's ruling.

Distinguish:

Peremptory challenges under CCP § 170.6 do not require any factual showing. However, only one challenge per side is permitted under CCP § 170.6(a)(3) [see 22.10].

Peremptory challenges and disqualification for cause are cumulative remedies, meaning a party can use both within the course of the same action [see 22.07].

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 317, Judges (Matthew Bender).

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 130, Judges (Matthew Bender).

Investigating Judges Using Online Resources:

Many resources are available online for investigating judges. These resources can help you find information and cases pertaining to your assigned judge. For example, helpful resources at lexis.com include:

- For written opinions or decisions by a particular judge and relating to a particular topic, search in Legal tab > States Legal--U.S. > California > Find Cases > CA State Cases, Combined.

☐ Sample search: Using the HISTORY segment and the judge's name, try a search in this format: history (first name /3 last name).

- To find biographical information about a federal judge, search the biographies in Legal tab > Reference > Law > Judicial Staff Directory.

☐ Sample search: For a particular judge, try: name (first name /3 last name).

- To find news articles about a judge, search in the California news files Legal tab > States Legal--U.S. > California > Search News > General News > California News Publications.

☐ Sample search: For articles on a particular judge, try a simple search: first name /3 last name.

- To find articles about a judge or legal articles written by the judge both before and after the judge took the bench, search the law reviews and other periodicals in Legal tab > Secondary Legal > Law Reviews, CLE, Legal Journals & Periodicals, Combined.

 Sample search: For legal articles written by a particular judge, try a simple search:
first name /3 last name.

Certain bar organizations provide access to unpublished information about judges. For example the Consumer Attorney of Los Angeles maintains a database of anecdotal experiences from members or access to members with specific experiences with a particular judge. These and similar resources including the Los Angeles County Bar Association should be consulted when performing your investigation.

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.03

22.03 CHECKLIST: Peremptory Challenge to Judge.

☐ Determine whether peremptory challenge is appropriate:

☐ Peremptory challenge available if judge, court commissioner, or referee is alleged to be prejudiced against:

☐ A party.

☐ A party's attorney.

☐ The interest of any party or attorney appearing in the action or proceeding.

Authority:

CCP § 170.6(a)(1)

Discussion:

See 22.06

☐ Determine deadline for making peremptory challenge:

☐ If case that is ready for trial is assigned to court that is ready and able to hear it, master calendar rule applies and motion must be made immediately on the announcement of assignment of judge.

☐ If case is assigned to judge for all purposes, motion must be made within 10 days after:

☐ Notice of assignment; or

☐ A party's appearance if the party has not yet appeared at the time of the assignment.

☐ If neither of above rules applies, 10-day/5-day rule may apply, and if judge is known at least 10 days before date set for trial, motion must be made at least five days before trial date.

☐ If trial or hearing judge is not known with reasonable certainty prior to trial or hearing, motion must be made before trial or hearing commences.

☐ Trial commences after name of first juror is drawn, or in non-jury trial, after opening statement by plaintiff's counsel or if none, after any evidence is given.

☐ If case is subject to Trial Court Delay Reduction Act, party must make motion within 15 days of party's first appearance in direct calendar court.

☐ In master calendar court, master calendar rule applies rather than special rule for Trial Court Delay Reduction Act cases.

Authority:

CCP § 170.6(a)(2); Gov Code § 68616(i); People v. Superior Court (1993) 4 C4th 1164, 1175, 1179, 17 CR2d 815, 847 P2d 1031

Discussion:

See 22.09

☐ Verify peremptory challenge is not precluded by judge having determined contested fact issue relating to merits of case during pretrial phase.

Authority:

CCP § 170.6(a)(2)

Discussion:

See 22.09[10]

☐ If proceedings are continuation of previous proceedings, verify proceedings are separate and independent from the previous proceedings.

Exception:

If, on remand for new trial after reversal by appellate court, case is assigned to the same judge who heard the previous trial, a party may move to disqualify if function on remand is actual retrial and not ministerial.

Authority:

CCP § 170.6(a)(2); McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 C2d 677, 681, 36 CR 459, 388 P2d 691 ; Spector v. Superior Court (1961) 55 C2d 839, 843, 13 CR 189, 361 P2d 909

Discussion:

See 22.09[11], 22.11

☐ If multiple plaintiffs or defendants are involved, determine:

- ☐ Who on each side will exercise the side's one peremptory challenge.
- ☐ Whether co-plaintiffs or co-defendants have adverse interests.

Authority:

CCP § 170.6(a)(2), (3); The Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 C4th 1025, 1033 ; Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 C2d 350, 353-354, 5 CR 703, 353 P2d 311 ; Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 C2d 693, 700, 329 P2d 5 ; Welch v. Superior Court (1974) 41 CA3d 50, 52-53, 115 CR 729

Discussion:

See 22.10

☐ If making peremptory challenge:

- ☐ Make by oral or written motion without notice,
- ☐ Support with one of the following in substantially the form or with the same content set forth in CCP § 170.6(a)(3):

- ☐ Affidavit (same form).
- ☐ Declaration (same content).
- ☐ Oral statement under oath (same content).

Ground:

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.04

22.04 Options and Strategy for Peremptory Challenge.

Counsel opting to pursue a peremptory challenge to a judge must be sure to act in a timely fashion. If the challenge fails because it was not timely, counsel will be left in the uncomfortable position of litigating in front of a judge he or she has just challenged.

Particularly in smaller counties, consider the extent to which you may alienate the entire bench by pursuing a peremptory challenge.

Counsel may wish to confer with his or her client before exercising a peremptory challenge so that the client understands the reasons for the challenge.

In a case with multiple parties on one side, if counsel for one party with relatively little at stake wants to exercise a peremptory challenge, he or she should coordinate with other counsel to maintain a cooperative atmosphere for other issues during the litigation.

II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.05

22.05 Peremptory Challenge Statute Applies to Judges, Court Commissioners, and Referees but Not to Appellate Justices.

The statute governing peremptory challenges of judges governs peremptory challenges to court commissioners and referees as well [CCP § 170.6(a)(1)].

CCP § 170.6 does not apply to appellate justices, including judges sitting on the appellate division of a superior court [CCP § 170.7].

II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.06

22.06 Grounds for Peremptory Challenge.

The peremptory challenge statute permits a party to disqualify a judge who is alleged to be prejudiced against any party, attorney, or interest of any party or attorney by bringing an oral or written motion without notice supported by a simple affidavit, declaration under penalty of perjury, or oral statement under oath [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

22.07 Peremptory Challenge Can Be Used in Addition to Disqualification for Cause or Change in Place of Trial.

The peremptory challenge remedy is cumulative to the disqualification for cause remedy and to the provisions pertaining to place of trial under CCP § 392 et seq., which include change of venue and transfer for lack of jurisdiction [CCP § 170.6(b)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.08

22.08 Procedure for Making Peremptory Challenge to Judge.

22.08[1] Challenge by Oral or Written Motion Without Notice. A party to or attorney appearing in a proceeding or action may establish a judge's prejudice by an oral or written motion without notice, supported by an affidavit, declaration, or oral statement under oath [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

Strategic Point:

Consider an oral peremptory challenge only if trial is being assigned by a master calendar department, or the trial is otherwise going to be in a different department other than the one making the assignment. You do not want to be in the very awkward position of making an oral peremptory challenge in front of the judge you are challenging.

Judge's Perspective:

On the rare occasion that the peremptory challenge is made orally, most judges will ask the attorney to fill out the proper form and file it.

Cross Reference:

Form of written notice, see 22.40.

22.08[2] Motion to Be Supported by Affidavit, Declaration Under Penalty of Perjury, or Oral Statement Under Oath. The oral or written motion making the peremptory challenge must be supported by an affidavit, declaration under penalty of perjury, or an oral statement under oath [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

The affidavit, declaration, or statement must be to the effect that the judge, court commissioner, or referee before whom the action or proceeding is pending or to whom it is assigned is prejudiced against a party to or attorney appearing in the action or proceeding so that the party or attorney cannot, or believes that he or she cannot, have a fair and impartial trial or hearing before the judge, court commissioner, or referee [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

Any affidavit of prejudice must be in substantially the form set forth in CCP § 170.6(a)(5). A declaration under penalty of perjury or an oral statement under oath must include substantially the same contents as the statutory affidavit form [CCP § 170.6(a)(5)].

 Cross Reference:

Form of affidavit, see 22.41. Form of declaration, see 22.42.

22.08[3] Good-Faith Belief of Prejudice Sufficient. If the motion is duly presented and the affidavit, declaration, or statement under oath is duly made, on that basis and without any further act or proof, a new judge shall be assigned pursuant to the statutory provisions [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

As long as an affidavit (or declaration or statement under oath) is timely and properly made, immediate disqualification is mandatory [ McCartney v. Commission on Judicial Qualifications (1974) 12 C3d 512, 532 ]. The law assumes that a party who makes a motion for peremptory challenge does so in good faith [ Brown v. Superior Court (1981) 124 CA3d 1059, 1061, 177 CR 756 ].

Exception:

If a prima facie showing is made that the peremptory challenge was exercised on the ground of an unconstitutional group bias, inquiry into the challenging party's good faith is warranted. If the opposing party makes a prima facie showing that the peremptory challenge was exercised solely on the ground of group bias, the party exercising the challenge has the burden to prove a neutral basis for the challenge. The trial court will then determine whether or not the opposing party has established purposeful discrimination [ People v. Superior Court (1992) 8 CA4th 688, 707-713, 10 CR2d 873 ].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.09

22.09 Timing of Peremptory Challenge Depends on Court's Method of Assigning Cases.

22.09[1] Ten-Day/Five-Day Rule.

22.09[1][a] If Judge Is Known 10 Days Before Trial or Hearing Date Challenge Five Days Before That Date.

If the judge is known at least 10 days before the date set for trial or hearing, the peremptory challenge must be made at least five days before that date [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

22.09[1][b] When Trial Is Postponed. When a trial is postponed, a motion filed five days before the postponed date may be timely [ Eagle Maint. & Supply Co. v. Superior Court (1961) 196 CA2d 692, 695, 16 CR 745 (trial was postponed for 97 days, but motion presented at least five days before last scheduled date for trial was timely)].

22.09[1][c] When Matter Is Assigned to Department and Not Specific Judge. Courts seem to have split over the degree of certainty that is required as to who the judge will be in order for the 10-day/5-day rule to apply. The rule has been held inapplicable when the matter was assigned to a department and not a judge by name [ Moreira v. Superior Court (1989) 215 CA3d 42, 45, 265 CR 437, Bouchard v. Insona (1980) 105 CA3d 768, 772, 164 CR 505 (10-day/5-day rule does not apply when matter is assigned to a department and not a particular judge), but see People v. Superior Court (1993) 4 C4th 1164, 1183-1185, 17 CR2d 815, 847 P2d 1031 (dicta; judge must only be known with reasonable certainty) and Lawrence v. Superior Court (1988) 206 CA3d 611, 617, 253 CR 748 (actual knowledge of judge not required; rule applies if judge's identity can be learned with further investigation or inquiry)].

22.09[1][d] Tentative Rulings. In jurisdictions with tentative ruling systems, a party who has already received a tentative ruling may not make a peremptory challenge to the judge at the time of the hearing unless the regularly assigned judge did not rule on the motion or if the regularly assigned judge has been changed without sufficient notice to the parties [ Kaiser Found. Hospitals v. Superior Court (1987) 190 CA3d 721, 725-726, 235 CR 630 ].

22.09[1][e] Calculation of Five Days. In counting the five days for purposes of the 10-day/5-day rule, the first day is excluded and the last day is included, unless the last day is a holiday, and then it is also excluded [CCP § 12]. For example, when a hearing was scheduled for June 30, a motion to disqualify filed on June 25 was timely [ Pamela H. v. Superior Court (1977) 68 CA3d 916, 919, 137 CR 612 ].

22.09[1][f] Intervening Party. When an intervener seeks to disqualify a judge, the time the intervener has to make the motion runs from the date of the court's order authorizing the intervention, not from the later date of filing a formal petition in intervention [ Hosp. Council of N. Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 CA3d 331, 339, 106 CR 247 ].

22.09[1][g] Discovery Referees. If a referee is appointed for all discovery purposes, a party seeking to disqualify the referee must make the motion to disqualify within 10 days after notice of the appointment, unless the party has not yet appeared in the action, in which case the motion must be made within 10 days after the appearance. If the referee is assigned only for limited discovery purposes, the motion must be made at least five days before the date set for hearing if the referee is known at least 10 days before the date set for hearing [CCP § 639(b)].

22.09[2] Master Calendar Rule. In a court that has a master calendar system for handling cases, a motion to disqualify must be made to the judge supervising the master calendar not later than the time the cause is assigned for trial [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

Thus, if a master calendar department assigns a trial-ready case to a department ready for immediate trial, the motion to disqualify must be made immediately on the announcement of the assignment [ People v. Superior Court (1993) 4 C4th 1164, 1175, 17 CR2d 815, 847 P2d 1031 ].

Distinguish:

In the absence of official designation or even informal notification that a court is a master calendar for purposes of CCP § 170.6 motions, that a court assigns trial-ready cases to ready courts on the direction of the assistant supervising judge does not make the master calendar rule applicable to cases it assigns [ Ruiz v. Appellate Division (2004) 119 CA4th 282, 291 ].

22.09[3] All-Purpose Assignment Provision.

22.09[3][a] Motion 10 Days After Notice of Assignment or Later Appearance. If a cause is assigned to a judge for all purposes, a peremptory challenge under CCP § 170.6 must be made within 10 days after the notice of the all-purpose assignment or, if the party has not yet appeared in the action, within 10 days after the party's appearance [CCP § 170.6(a)(2); see also Sch. Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1126, 1129, 1134-1135, 68 CR2d 612 (Doe defendant served over three years after litigation commenced)].

When the notice of all-purpose assignment is served by mail, the 10-day period is extended by five days [ Cal. Bus. Council For Equal Opportunity v. Superior Court (1997) 52 CA4th 1100, 1102, 1106, 62 CR2d 7 (citing CCP § 1013(a))].

For the all-purpose assignment rule to apply, a case assignment must instantly identify the judge who is reasonably certain to preside over substantial remaining matters from that point forward, including the trial [ People v. Superior Court (1993) 4 C4th 1164, 1175, 1179, 17 CR2d 815, 847 P2d 1031 ].

Example:

Proceedings with different bases of jurisdiction trigger separate filing 10-day deadlines after the appearance of a party [ Manuel C. v. Superior Court (2010) 181 CA4th 382, 386, 104 CR3d 787 ].

22.09[3][b] Late Appearing Party May Be Precluded From Challenge. Even though a late appearing party has 10 days in which to move for disqualification under CCP § 170.6(a)(2), there are three potential obstacles:

- If another defendant on the same side has already used the side's challenge, the new party may not exercise a peremptory challenge [ Sch. Dist. of Okaloosa County v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1126, 1134-1135, 68 CR2d 612 ].

■ If judge assigned for all purposes has already decided a contested issue of fact relating to the merits, the late appearing party may not exercise a preemptory challenge [ Guardado v. Superior Court (2008) 163 CA4th 91, 93, 99, 77 CR3d 149 (ruling under CC § 3295(c) that plaintiff demonstrated substantial probability that he or she will prevail on claim for punitive damages is not a "determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits" under § 170.6(a)(2)); Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 CA4th 54, 64, 116 CR2d 616 ].

■ If the later appearing party has "an identity of interest "with a party appearing in a timely manner, the late appearing party may be held to the deadline for filing a preemptory challenge applicable to the party appearing in a timely manner [see Guardado v. Superior Court (2008) 163 CA4th 91, 99, 77 CR3d 149 (denying challenge to preemptory challenge, because partner in partnership that was partner in timely appearing partnership did not have identity of interest)].

Warning:

A late appearing party must get all previous papers in the case to be positive there was no prior 170.6. If a late appearing party makes a 170.6 motion that is barred by a prior motion, they will be faced with the awkwardness of having to try the case before a judge they unsuccessfully tried to disqualify.

Strategic Point:

If the late appearing party can frame a viable cross-complaint, they can get the opportunity to bring a 170.6 motion. This may undo a case that is well under way, and the late appearing party should consult with counsel for any parties with whom they are naturally aligned before upsetting the case.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of disqualification on cross-complaint, see 22.13[5].

22.09[4] Cases Subject to Trial Court Delay Reduction Act.

22.09[4][a] Motion Within 15 Days of Appearance in Direct Calendar Court. In a case subject to the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act, a party must exercise his or her preemptory challenge to a judge within 15 days of the party's first appearance in a direct calendar court [Gov Code § 68616(i)].

A "direct calendar court" is one where a case is assigned to one judge for all purposes, including trial, and where the judge who would try the case is instantly pinpointed [ Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 CA4th 1309, 1321, 104 CR2d 173 ].

Distinguish:

If a court is a master calendar court, the provisions of CCP § 170.6 always apply [Gov Code § 68616(i)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of master calendar rule, see 22.09[2].

22.09[4][b] Commencement of 15-Day Period. When a direct calendar assignment is made more than 15 days after the complaint was filed, plaintiff's first appearance, or defendant's first appearance when defendant already responded to the complaint in direct calendar court, coincides with the direct calendar assignment so that the parties still have their preemptory challenge rights [ Fight for the Rams v. Superior Court (1996) 41 CA4th 953, 955-958, 48 CR2d 851 ].

If the assigned judge is changed after a party has appeared, the party has 15 days from receiving notice of the change to challenge the judge [ Cybermedia, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 72 CA4th 910, 913, 82 CR2d 126 ].

If a direct calendar assignment is made more than 15 days after a party's appearance, the time limits run from the date that the party receives notice of the assignment [ Motion Picture & Television Fund Hosp. v. Superior Court (2001) 88 CA4th 488, 492-494, 105 CR2d 872 ].

The 15-day time limit of Gov Code § 68616(i) does not apply when a judgment has been reversed on appeal and returned to the trial court for retrial [ Stubblefield Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 CA4th 762, 769, 97 CR2d 121 ].

22.09[5] No Challenge Once Trial Has Commenced.

22.09[5][a] Commencement of Trial Cuts Off Right to Peremptory Challenge. A peremptory challenge to a judge may not be made after trial of a cause is commenced [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

22.09[5][b] When Trial Commences. A jury trial commences after the drawing of the name of the first juror and no challenge may be made once this is done [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

In a non-jury trial, the motion for peremptory challenge may not be made after the making of an opening statement by counsel for the plaintiff, or if there is no opening statement, after the giving of any evidence [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

22.09[6] No Challenge After Hearing Has Commenced. In the case of a hearing (as opposed to a trial), a peremptory challenge must be made no later than the commencement of the hearing [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

22.09[7] When Proceedings Are Consolidated. When two or more cases are consolidated, a party may bring a separate peremptory challenge against a judge even though the judge was not challenged before consolidation. The challenge, however, unless it is otherwise timely as to the judge, is limited to the cases that were pending before the other judges [ Nissan Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 6 CA4th 150, 154-156, 7 CR2d 801 ].

Example:

When three cases against the same defendant were consolidated for trial before one of the three judges, and the defendant had 10 days after notice of the consolidation to make a timely peremptory challenge against the judge as to the two transferred cases even though the challenge would be untimely as to the third case, which had already been pending before the judge [ Nissan Motor Corp. v. Superior Court (1992) 6 CA4th 150, 154-156, 7 CR2d 801 ].

22.09[8] Coordinated Proceedings. For coordinated actions, a peremptory challenge shall be submitted in writing to the assigned judge within 20 days after service of the order assigning the judge to the coordination proceeding. All plaintiffs or similar parties in the included or coordinated actions constitute a side and all defendants or similar parties in the actions constitute a side [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516].

The assignments to be the coordination motion judge and the coordination trial judge are distinct and each is subject to challenge. If the same judge is assigned to each role, the side challenging the judge has 20 days after each specific assignment to file a peremptory challenge [ Stone v. Superior Court (1994) 25 CA4th 1144, 1146-1147, 31 CR2d 56 (challenge to coordination trial judge was timely even though more than 20 days after same judge was appointed coordination motions judge)].

An earlier CCP § 170.6 challenge in one of the independent actions before coordination does not restrict the opportunity to make a challenge in the coordinated action [ Philip Morris Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 71 CA4th 116, 122-123, 83 CR2d 671 ].

An add-on party who is joined to the coordinated actions after the 20-day window does not have any right to make a challenge [ Indus. Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 214 CA3d 259, 263-264, 262 CR 544 ].

22.09[9] Motion Must Be Made Before Hearing on Contested Issue. A motion to disqualify under CCP § 170.6 must be made before a hearing is commenced on a contested issue [see CCP § 170.6(a)(2); see, e.g., Doty v. Doty (1975) 52 CA3d 672, 677-679, 125 CR 153 (judge's entry of order finding that real property in dispute was not divisible and should be sold as a whole was resolution of contested issue; any peremptory challenge filed thereafter was not timely)].

22.09[10] Challenge Allowed After Pretrial Proceeding If Determination of Contested Fact Issues Relating to Merits of Case Was Not Involved.

22.09[10][a] Party May Challenge Judge Who Has Not Determined Contested Issue of Fact Relating to Merits. The fact that a judge, court commissioner, or referee has presided at or acted in connection with a pretrial conference or other hearing, proceeding, or motion prior to a trial and not involving a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits does not preclude the later making of a peremptory challenge [CCP § 170.6(a)(2); Miller v. Miller (1970) 11 CA3d 197, 202, 89 CR 643 ].

Examples:

In addition to motions discussed in 22.09[10][b] -[d], pre-trial actions without a determination of contested facts related to the merits of the case for purposes of § 170.6(a)(2) include:

- Motions to compel discovery that involve deciding only issues relating to the scope of permissible discovery [ Swift v. Superior Court (2009) 172 CA4th 878, 883-885, 91 CR3d 504 ] .
- A ruling under Civ Code § 3295(c) that a plaintiff has demonstrated a substantial probability that he or she will prevail on a claim for punitive damages [ Guardado v. Superior Court (2008) 163 CA4th 91, 93, 99, 77 CR3d 149 ] .

22.09[10][b] Demurrers and Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings. At least one court has held that a ruling on a demurrer is not a determination of a contested fact issue going to the merits [ Fight for the Rams v. Superior Court (1996) 41 CA4th 953, 958-959, 48 CR2d 851 ; but see Appl v. Lee Swett Livestock Co. (1987) 192 CA3d 466, 469, 237 CR 433 (disqualification denied when judge earlier sustained demurrer without leave to amend and CCP § 170.6(a)(2) motion was made after entry of judgment; court noted 170.6 motion was surely untimely when made after judge's ruling)].

A ruling on a motion for judgment on the pleadings was also not a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits of the case [ Hosp. Council of N. Cal. v. Superior Court (1973) 30 CA3d 331, 337, 106 CR 247 ]; nor was a judge's issuance of a temporary restraining order at an ex parte proceeding [ Landmark Holding Group, Inc. v. Superior Court (1987) 193 CA3d 525, 527-529, 238 CR 475 ].

22.09[10][c] Summary Judgment Motions. A judge's ruling on a summary judgment has been held not to involve a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits within the meaning of CCP § 170.6 [ Bambula v. Superior Court (1985) 174 CA3d 653, 655, 657, 220 CR 223 ; see also Zilog Inc. v. Superior Court (2001) 86 CA4th 1309, 1322, 104 CR2d 173 ].

In a complex case involving contract interpretation, an appellate court held that the judge's ruling on summary adjudication did constitute a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits [ California Fed. Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Superior Court (1987) 189 CA3d 267, 270-271, 234 CR 413 ].

22.09[10][d] Motion to Quash. A judge's ruling on a motion to quash service of summons has been held not to be a determination of contested fact issues relating to the merits of the case within CCP § 170.6(a)(2) [ Sch. Dist. of Okaloosa v. Superior Court (1997) 58 CA4th 1126, 1131-1134, 68 CR2d 612 ].

22.09[10][e] Judge May Not Waive Timeliness Requirement. If a judge has ruled on the merits of the case within the meaning of CCP § 170.6, and a peremptory challenge is untimely for that reason, the judge may not waive the timeliness requirement and accept the disqualification [ Briggs v. Superior Court (2001) 87 CA4th 312, 318, 104 CR2d 445 ].

22.09[11] Continued Proceedings.

22.09[11][a] Party May Challenge Judge in Subsequent Proceeding That Is Not Continuation of Prior Proceedings. A party may make a peremptory challenge to a judge in a proceeding subsequent to a trial or hearing if the subsequent proceeding is separate and independent from the principal trial or hearing rather than a continuation of the previous proceedings [ McClenny v. Superior Court (1964) 60 C2d 677, 681, 36 CR 459, 388 P2d 691 (contempt orders in domestic relations case were continuation); Stephens v. Superior Court (2002) 96 CA4th 54, 62-63, 116 CR2d 616 (successive petitions relating to management of trust were continuation)].

22.09[11][b] Proceeding Is a Continuation of Initial Action If It Involves Substantially the Same Issues. Matters raised in a subsequent proceeding that are necessarily relevant and material to the issues involved in the original action are "substantially the same" so that the proceeding is considered to be a continuation of the original action for peremptory challenge purposes [ Bravo v. Superior Court (2007) 149 CA4th 1489, 1494, 57 CR3d 910 ; Oak Grove Sch. Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 CA2d 678, 700, 703, 32 CR 288 ].

Distinguish:

In a supplemental or continued hearing on matters involved in the original proceeding, an application under CCP § 170.6 for disqualification of the same judge who heard the original proceeding is not proper or timely. The underlying principles of the continuation rule are that [ Nutrigenetics, LLC v. Superior Ct. (2009) 179 CA4th 243, 251-261, 101 CR3d 657 ] :

- The second proceeding involves the same parties on both sides of the case as the first proceeding, and
- The second proceeding arises out of the first proceeding, not just out of the same set of facts that gave rise to the first proceeding.

For the continuation rule to apply, the second proceeding must arise out of the first proceeding, not merely out of the same incidents or events that gave rise to the first proceeding [ Nutrigenetics, LLC v. Superior Ct. (2009) 179 CA4th 243, 257, 101 CR3d 657 (standard for continuation rule is different than for related cases)]. Accordingly, a lawsuit against a different albeit related defendant alleging additional and different bases of liability as to that defendant is not, without more, a "continuation" [ Nutrigenetics, LLC v. Superior Ct. (2009) 179 CA4th 243, 260, 101 CR3d 657 (transfer of arbitration to judge hearing cause of action between the parties was not continuation barring preemptory challenge to judge)].

Even if a subsequent proceeding has a subject matter connection to the prior proceeding, it is not a continued proceeding for purposes of the peremptory challenge rules if it [ City of Hanford v. Superior Court (1989) 208 CA3d 580, 592-593, 256 CR 274 ]:

- Does not affect the validity or enforceability of any order made by the judge in the original action, or

- Raises distinct legal issues, seeks different relief, includes new parties, and is broader in scope than the original action.

Example:

An order by a judge vacating a prior ruling on a motion and later, in the same order, disqualifying himself constitutes the vacatur of the ruling on the motion prior to the judge's disqualification [ Bates v. Rubio's Restaurants, Inc. (2009) 179 CA4th 1125, 1134, 102 CR3d 206] .

Examples--Continued Proceedings:

- Issues presented by a motion to modify a custody order were held to be substantially the same as those presented in a prior proceeding involving guardianship and custody [ Jacobs v. Superior Court (1959) 53 C2d 187, 191, 1 CR 9, 347 P2d 9 ].

- A contempt hearing to determine whether an injunction has been violated by the original defendant (among others) is a continuation of the proceeding in which the injunction was granted [ Astourian v. Superior Court (1990) 226 CA3d 720, 726, 276 CR 657 ].

- A hearing on attorney's fees and sanctions has been held to be a continuation of a contested proceeding for the appointment of a conservator [ Conservatorship of Durham (1988) 205 CA3d 548, 553-555, 252 CR 414 ].

- A proceeding to obtain modification of an order for arbitration has been held a continuation of the original proceeding [ Andrews v. Joint Clerks Port Labor Relations Committee (1966) 239 CA2d 285, 294, 48 CR 646 ].

- A claim for costs and disbursements has been held to be a continuation of an original eminent domain proceeding [ Oak Grove Sch. Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 CA2d 678, 699, 32 CR 288 ].

- A hearing to determine attorney's fees has been held a continuation of the original divorce action [ Haldane v. Haldane (1962) 210 CA2d 587, 596, 26 CR 670 ].

- A hearing on a motion to continue an injunction in effect pending appeal has been held a continuation of the original action [ Dennis v. Overholtzer (1960) 179 CA2d 110, 111-112, 3 CR 458 ].

Example--Not a Continued Proceeding:

- A motion to vacate an ex parte order made after judgment in case by one who was never party to action was not continuation of or supplement to anything previously done in action [ Oksner v. Superior Court (1964) 229 CA2d 672, 689-690, 40 CR 621 ].

- Action based on new alleged conduct was not a continued proceeding of a prior action involving the same parties but based on other previous, distinct conduct [ Bravo v. Superior Court (2007) 149 CA4th 1489, 1494, 57 CR3d 910 ].

22.09[11][c] Challenge Is Allowed in Continued Proceeding If Judge Is Different. If a party has not previously filed a peremptory challenge against a judge, the party may challenge the judge in a continued proceeding if the judge is not the one who heard the previous phase of the matter and provided that the challenge is made before the commencement of the hearing of the supplemental proceedings and within the time limitations specified [ Spector v. Superior Court (1961) 55 C2d 839, 843, 13 CR 189, 361 P2d 909 (judicial dissolution of corporation); Thompson v. Superior Court (1962) 206 CA2d 702, 706-707, 23 CR 841 (child custody hearing)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.10

22.10 Number of Peremptory Challenges Is Limited.

22.10[1] Party or Attorney May Make Only One Challenge. No party or attorney may make more than one duly filed CCP § 170.6 motion to disqualify a judge in any one action or proceeding [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

Warning:

The peremptory challenge of a discovery referee is included within the rule limiting each side to one peremptory challenge [ Baugh v. Garl (2006) 137 CA4th 737, 746, 40 CR3d 539 ].

An untimely motion is not "duly filed." Therefore a party whose motion is dismissed as untimely still has the right to exercise a peremptory challenge should a new judge be assigned in the proceeding [ Truck Ins. Exchange v. Superior Court (1998) 67 CA4th 142, 148-149, 78 CR2d 721 (judge initially assigned retired)].

Exception:

There is an exception to the one challenge rule for motions made after reversal on appeal [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of exception, see 22.11.

22.10[2] Only One Motion Per Side Where There Are Multiple Plaintiffs or Defendants. In actions or special proceedings where there may be more than one plaintiff or similar party or more than one defendant or similar party appearing in the action or special proceeding, only one motion for each side may be made in any one action or special proceeding [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

22.10[3] Exception to One Motion Per Side Rule When Parties on Same Side Have Adverse Interests.

22.10[3][a] Parties on Same Side Treated As Separate Parties. If parties on the same side have adverse interests, they may be treated as separate parties for purposes of peremptory challenges under CCP § 170.6 [ Johnson v. Superior Court (1958) 50 C2d 693, 700, 329 P2d 5 (two drivers' automobiles collided and injured plaintiff)].

22.10[3][b] Burden of Establishing Adverse Interest. The burden is on the party seeking an exception to the one side rule to establish the adverse interest--substantially adverse interests are not presumed [ The Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 C4th 1025, 1035, 103 P3d 283 , 22 CR3d 885 , 34 C4th 1025, 103 P3d 283 ; Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 C2d 350, 354, 5 CR 703, 353 P2d 311 (defendant in criminal case found not to have adverse interest to co-defendant who had already exercised challenge)].

The party seeking to establish adverse interest must present a specific factual showing of adverse interest; a mere form declaration is insufficient [ Welch v. Superior Court (1974) 41 CA3d 50, 53, 115 CR 729 ]. The mere fact that parties are represented by separate counsel does not necessarily establish that their interests are adverse [ Pappa v. Superior Court (1960) 54 C2d 350, 355, 5 CR 703, 353 P2d 311 ].

When a plaintiff belatedly names a party as a defendant, that circumstance alone does not establish that the party's interests are substantially adverse to earlier named defendants [ The Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 C4th 1025, 1037 ]. The mere likelihood of, or potential for, a conflict in lieu of a factually sufficient demonstration of substantially adverse interests is insufficient to show the parties are on different sides [ The Home Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 34 C4th 1025, 1037 (no adverse interest shown between primary insurer and late-added excess insurer)].

Strategic Point:

A party may be estopped from claiming a unity of interest by having previously taken the contrary position before the court [see Baugh v. Garl (2006) 137 CA4th 737, 746, 40 CR3d 539 ]. Counsel should oppose a party's claim to that effect where the opposing party opposes a peremptory challenge on the basis that the "side" has already exercised its right to one peremptory challenge in the case.

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.11

22.11 Peremptory Challenge After Reversal on Appeal and Remand for New Trial.

22.11[1] Challenge Authorized If Case Is Assigned to Trial Judge Assigned to Prior Proceeding. If a trial court's decision or final judgment is reversed on appeal and remanded for a new trial, a party can move to disqualify the trial judge in the prior proceeding if that judge is assigned to the new trial [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)].

Timing:

The motion must be made within 60 days after the party or the party's attorney is notified of the assignment [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)]. This 60-day limit applies even if the case is subject to Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [ Stubblefield Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 CA4th 762, 769, 97 CR2d 121 ].

This rule applies regardless of whether the judgment originated from a judge's decision or a jury verdict, and regardless of whether the new trial was granted as a result of an appeal or as part of writ relief [ Pandazos v. Superior Court (1997) 60 CA4th 324, 326, 70 CR2d 669 (applies regardless of whether judgment was judge's decision or jury verdict); Overton v. Superior Court (1994) 22 CA4th 112, 115, 27 CR2d 274 (writ relief)]. There is no inconsistency between allowing a peremptory challenge after initial assignment of the coordination judge under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.516 and again under CCP § 170.6(a)(2) after a reversal on appeal, at least where a new trial must be held [ Paterno v. Superior Court (2004) 123 CA4th 548, 555 ].

22.11[2] Reverse and Remand Scenario Is Exception to One Motion Per Case Restriction for Successful Appellant. Ordinarily, a party may only make one peremptory challenge motion per case [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)]. However, the party who filed the appeal that resulted in the reversal of a final judgment of a trial court may make a motion for peremptory challenge in the new proceedings regardless of whether that party had previously done so [CCP § 170.6(a)(2)]. The party who unsuccessfully responded to the appeal may also exercise a peremptory challenge to the judge on remand, but not if that party has previously exercised a peremptory challenge [ Pfeiffer Venice Properties v. Superior Court (2003) 107 CA4th 761, 764-767, 132 CR2d 400 ].

22.11[3] Disqualification Applies Only If a New Trial on Remand. What constitutes a new trial for civil cases is not necessarily the same as that for criminal cases [ Peracchi v. Superior Court (2003) 30 C4th 1245, 1253, 135 CR2d

639, 70 P3d 1054 (applying Penal Code definition of new trial to peremptory challenge in criminal case)]. CCP § 656 defines "new trial" as "a re-examination of an issue of fact in the same court after a trial and decision by a jury, court, or referee" [ Paterno v. Superior Court (2004) 123 CA4th 548, 557 ; Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 CA4th 860, 865, 24 CR2d 645 ]. The reexamination consists of the revisitation of some factual or legal issue that was in controversy in the prior proceeding [ Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 417, 424 ; Paterno v. Superior Court (2004) 123 CA4th 548, 560 ]. Consistent with this requirement, the following cases have involved a new trial permitting a CCP § 170.6(a)(2) peremptory challenge:

- Consideration of attorney fee award [ First Federal Bank of California v. Superior Court (2006) 143 CA4th 310, 313-315, 49 CR3d 296 ; Pfeiffer Venice Properties v. Superior Court (2003) 107 CA4th 761, 767, 132 CR2d 400 ].
- Retrial after reversal of summary judgment on the merits [ Jane Doe 8015 v. Superior Court (2007) 148 CA4th 489, 494-495 ; Stubblefield Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 CA4th 762, 765, 97 CR2d 121 ].
- Consideration of post-judgment restitution [ Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 CA4th 860, 864, 24 CR2d 645 ].
- Retrial of evidentiary ruling [ Stegs Investments v. Superior Court (1991) 233 CA3d 572, 574, 284 CR 495 ].

Distinguish:

A party does not have the right to a peremptory challenge following an appeal that does not compel a new trial [ State Farm Mutual Automobile Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 490, 499 ].

Examples:

- Order compelling trial court to issue statement of decision is not grounds for new peremptory challenge [ Karlsen v. Superior Court (2006) 139 CA4th 1526, 1530, 43 CR3d 738 ].
- Appeal of motion to determine applicable law, equivalent to motion in limine, does not compel new trial or arise from judgment terminating appealed action [ State Farm Mutual Automobile Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2004) 121 CA4th 490, 502 ].
- Determination of damages on remand after reversal on legal grounds of judgment of no liability is not new trial giving rise to right to § 170.6(a)(2) challenge [ Paterno v. Superior Court (2004) 123 CA4th 548, 559-563 ].
- Reversal of grant of summary judgment on procedural grounds [ Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 417, 424 ].

While the Courts of Appeal for the Second District [see Hendershot v. Superior Court (1993) 20 CA4th 860, 864, 24 CR2d 645 (Division 4) ; Pfeiffer Venice Properties v. Superior Court (2003) 107 CA4th 761, 767, 132 CR2d 400 and Stegs Investments v. Superior Court (1991) 233 CA3d 572, 576, 284 CR 495 (Division 5) ; Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 417, 424 n4 ], Fourth District [see Stubblefield Constr. Co. v. Superior Court (2000) 81 CA4th 762, 765, 97 CR2d 121 (Division 2) ], and Fifth District [see People v. Superior Court (2001) 91 CA4th 391, 398, 109 CR2d 897 ] find a new trial state does not arise when the court on remand is to undertake only a ministerial function, the Third District, in a ruling finding no new trial and no right to § 170.6(a)(2) challenge, has rejected that analysis [see Paterno

v. Superior Court (2004) 123 CA4th 548, 561 ].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.12

22.12 Judge Lacks Jurisdiction to Proceed After Proper Peremptory Challenge.

22.12[1] Judge's Orders or Judgment After Challenge Are Void or Voidable. When a peremptory disqualification motion is timely made and supported by a sufficient affidavit, declaration, or oral statement, the judge against whom the motion is directed is without jurisdiction to proceed [CCP § 170.6(a)(1); Hemingway v. Superior Court (2004) 122 CA4th 1148, 1157 ]. Any subsequent order or judgment entered by that judge is null and void [ Louisiana-Pacific Corp. v. Philo Lumber Co. (1985) 163 CA3d 1212, 1222, 210 CR 368 ].

Example:

An order by a judge vacating a prior ruling on a motion and later, in the same order, disqualifying himself constitutes the vacatur of the ruling on the motion prior to the judge's disqualification [ Bates v. Rubio's Restaurants, Inc. (2009) 179 CA4th 1125, 1134, 102 CR3d 206 ] .

Example:

A disqualified judge may not reconsider the judge's own order disqualifying himself or herself. The new judge assigned to the case hears the motion for reconsideration on the basis that the disqualified judge is "unavailable." If the new judge finds the disqualification is erroneous, the disqualified judge's authority to rule on the matter is reinstated [ Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 417, 425-426 ].

Warning:

Orders or judgments of a disqualified judge are more accurately described as voidable rather than void. A party who consents to proceed with a disqualified judge without objection may not later attack the judgment as void due to the judge's disqualification [ Guedalia v. Superior Court (1989) 211 CA3d 1156, 1161-1163, 260 CR 99 ; Stebbins v. White (1987) 190 CA3d 769, 782-783, 235 CR 656 ; In re Christian J. (1984) 155 CA3d 276, 279-280, 202 CR 54 ].

22.12[2] Judge May Rule on Timeliness of Motion. A judge challenged by a peremptory disqualification motion may still rule on the timeliness of the motion and reject the motion if it is not timely [ Micro/Vest Corp. v. Superior Court (1984) 150 CA3d 1085, 1089, 198 CR 404 ; Andrews v. Joint Clerks Port Labor Relations Committee (1966) 239 CA2d 285, 294, 48 CR 646 ].

22.12[3] Judge May Still Conduct Proceedings Not Involving Contested Issue of Law or Fact. A judge disqualified under the peremptory challenge statute is barred from trying the case or hearing any matter involving a disputed issue of law or fact, but this does not extend to such proceedings as settlement conferences, which do not involve contested issues of law or fact [ Mezzetti v. Superior Court (1979) 94 CA3d 987, 990, 993, 156 CR 802 ].

II. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE TO JUDGE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.13

22.13 Reassignment After Peremptory Challenge.

22.13[1] In Court With Master Calendar. In a court with a master calendar, once a peremptory challenge motion is duly presented with a proper affidavit, declaration or oral statement, the supervising judge must assign another judge, court commissioner, or referee to hear the case [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

22.13[2] In Court Without Master Calendar. In a court without a master calendar, the trial or hearing must be assigned to another judge, court commissioner, or referee of the court in which the trial or matter is pending [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Form of order of transfer, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 317, Judges, § 317.213 (Matthew Bender).

22.13[3] In Court With No Other Judge to Hear Matter. If the court in which the trial or matter is pending has no other judge, court commissioner or referee to hear the matter, the Chair of the Judicial Council must assign some other judge, commissioner or referee to hear the matter as promptly as possible [CCP § 170.6(a)(3)].

22.13[4] Period of Time Without Judge Disregarded for Motion to Dismiss for Delay. The time between the judge's disqualification and the assignment of the matter to another judge is to be disregarded for purposes of any motion to dismiss for delay in bringing the action to trial [CCP § 583.340; see also Nail v. Osterholm (1970) 13 CA3d 682, 686, 91 CR 908 ].

22.13[5] No Severance of Cross Action Permitted Due to Disqualification. When a cross-defendant makes a motion for peremptory challenge, the entire case must be assigned to another judge rather than simply the cross action [ Sunkyoung Trading (H.K.) Ltd. v. Superior Court (1992) 9 CA4th 282, 287-290, 11 CR2d 504 ].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.15

22.15 CHECKLIST: Disqualifying Judge for Cause.

- ☐ Determine if ground exists to disqualify judge for cause:
  - ☐ Judge has personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning proceeding.
    - ☐ Includes knowledge of judge's spouse or person within third degree of relationship.
  - ☐ Judge has:
    - ☐ Served as a lawyer in the proceeding, or
    - ☐ Served as a lawyer in another proceeding for any party to the present proceeding that involved the same issues as the present proceeding.
    - ☐ Given advice to any party in the present proceeding on any matter involved in the present proceeding.
  - ☐ Judge was associated in private practice with a lawyer in the proceeding within the past two years.
  - ☐ Party in the proceeding was a client of the judge or of a lawyer associated in practice with the judge within the past two years.
  - ☐ Judge has a financial interest in a party to or the subject matter of the proceeding.
    - ☐ Includes financial interest of judge's spouse or minor child living in the household.

- ☐ Includes financial interest of judge or judge's spouse as a fiduciary.
- ☐ Judge is a party to the proceeding or an officer, director, or trustee of a party.
  - ☐ Includes status of judge's spouse or person within third degree of relationship to either of them.
- ☐ A lawyer or spouse of a lawyer in the proceeding:
  - ☐ Is the spouse, former spouse, child, sibling, or parent of the judge or the judge's spouse, or
  - ☐ Is associated in the practice of law with the spouse, former spouse, child, sibling, or parent of the judge or the judge's spouse.
- ☐ Judge is unable to be impartial.
- ☐ Judge has physical impairment rendering judge unable to perceive evidence or properly conduct the proceeding.
- ☐ Judge has arrangement for, or has within last two years discussed, future employment or service as a dispute resolution neutral, or has engaged in such employment or service, and:
  - ☐ The arrangement is, or the prior employment or discussion was, with a party to the proceeding;
  - ☐ The matter before the judge relates to the enforcement of either an agreement to submit a dispute to an alternative dispute resolution process or a final decision by a dispute resolution neutral;
  - ☐ The judge directs the parties to participate in an alternative dispute resolution process in which the dispute resolution neutral will be an individual or entity with whom the judge has the arrangement, has previously been employed or served, or is discussing or has discussed the employment or service; or
  - ☐ The judge will select a dispute resolution neutral or entity to conduct an alternative dispute resolution process in the matter before the judge, and among those available for selection is an individual or entity with whom the judge has the arrangement, with whom the judge has previously been employed or served, or with whom the judge is discussing or has discussed the employment or service.
- ☐ Court-appointed temporary judge must disqualify himself or herself if required to do so under

Code of Judicial Ethics, or be disqualified if:

- ☐ The attorney, in any type of case, is appearing on the same day in the same courthouse as an attorney or as a party;
- ☐ The attorney, in the same type of case, is presently a party to any action or proceeding in the court; or
- ☐ In a family law or unlawful detainer case, one party is self-represented and the other party is represented by an attorney or is an attorney.

Authority:

CCP § 170.1(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.818

Discussion:

See 22.18

☐ Verify the ground for disqualification is not specifically excluded by the Code of Civil Procedure as improper:

- ☐ Judge is a member of a racial, ethnic, religious, sexual, or similar group and the proceeding involves the rights of such a group.
- ☐ Judge has, in any capacity, expressed a view on a legal or factual issue presented in the proceeding.
- ☐ Judge has participated in the drafting of laws or in the effort to pass or defeat laws, the meaning, effect or application of which is in issue in the proceeding.

Authority:

CCP § 170.2

Discussion:

See 22.19

☐ Determine whether judge will voluntarily recuse himself or herself.

Authority:

CCP § 170.3(a)(1)

Discussion:

See 22.20

☐ If judge will not recuse himself or herself, file a written verified statement with the clerk setting forth the facts constituting the grounds for disqualification.

Timing:

Statement must be filed at "earliest practicable opportunity" after discovery of facts. If a party knows of facts regarding disqualification but waits until the judge makes an unfavorable ruling to file a statement of disqualification, then the party has delayed unnecessarily.

- ☐ Set forth facts, not conclusions, in statement.
- ☐ Serve copy on each party and personally serve copy on the judge's clerk when the judge is present in the courthouse or in chambers. (Although service on the judge is authorized, it is uniformly made on the clerk.)

Authority:

CCP § 170.3(c)

Discussion:

See 22.23

Forms:

See 22.37 (general form for written statement of disqualification)

☐ If court-appointed temporary judge will not disqualify himself or herself as required by Judicial Code of Ethics, apply to Presiding Judge for withdrawal of stipulation to temporary judge:

- ☐ Draft declaration of facts establishing good cause to withdraw stipulation.
- ☐ Serve and file notice of application or motion, and mail or deliver copy to presiding judge.
- ☐ Schedule hearing with presiding judge or designated judge.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.816(e), 2.818(f)

Discussion:

See 22.22A

☐ If temporary judge requested by the parties will not disqualify himself or herself as required by Judicial Code of Ethics, bring motion to withdraw stipulation of appointment:

- ☐ Draft declaration of facts establishing good cause to withdraw stipulation.
- ☐ Serve and file notice of motion, and mail or deliver copy to temporary judge.
- ☐ Schedule hearing with presiding judge or designated judge.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.831(f)

Discussion:

See 22.22A

☐ Judge must file consent or answer within 10 days of filing or service of statement (whichever is later).

☐ Consent to disqualification:

☐ Judge must notify presiding judge of his or her recusal and presiding judge will appoint a replacement.

☐ Written verified answer by judge:

☐ Judge must admit or deny allegations in the statement of disqualification.

☐ Clerk must provide a copy to each party.

☐ Parties must agree on another judge to determine disqualification within five days of notification of judge's answer.

Exception:

If the parties cannot agree on a judge to make the determination, the chairperson of the Judicial Council shall select a judge [CCP § 170.3(c)(5)].

☐ Hearing may be ordered, in which case the parties and judge can argue and present evidence if good cause is shown.

☐ If judge fails to file consent or answer within 10 days, he or she is deemed to have consented to disqualification.

☐ In this situation, the clerk shall notify the presiding judge to appoint a replacement.

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.16

22.16 Options and Strategies in Evaluating Disqualification for Cause.

The judge may recognize a ground for disqualification and recuse himself or herself in accordance with CCP § 170.3(a) or ask the parties to waive the disqualification, as authorized by CCP § 170.3(b). At that point, one must weigh the disqualification against the judge's reputation and, to the extent it is predictable, the identity of the next judge likely to be assigned.

Warning:

Disqualification for cause is to be used only when a party or attorney for the party has very specific facts that constitute one of the grounds for disqualification under CCP § 170.1.

In many instances counsel will be familiar with the judge and aware of potential grounds for disqualification. For example, counsel may be well aware that the recently appointed judge was a member of the firm now representing the opposition.

Strategic Point:

Doing your due diligence on the selected judge is critical. The best source of information is from those who have litigated before a particular judge. If you are a member of a bar organization, such as the Consumer Attorneys of Los Angeles, or the Association of Southern California Defense Counsel you can easily obtain names of attorneys who have appeared before the selected judge. Other organizations sponsor online list services in which valuable information can be obtained in a short time span to provide some additional information. Using the California Courts and Judges Handbook (James Publishing), Daily Journal's Judicial Profiles, or doing online research can also provide another level of data.

III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.17

22.17 Disqualification for Cause Statutes Apply to Trial Judges, Commissioners, Referees, and Temporary Judges.

The statutes governing disqualification of judges for cause [CCP §§ 170-170.5] apply to superior court judges, court commissioners, and referees [CCP § 170.5(a)].

Rules of Court require a court appointed temporary judge, or a temporary judge requested by the parties, to disqualify himself or herself as provided under the Code of Judicial Ethics [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.818(a), 2.831(e); see 22.18[10], 22.22A].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.18

22.18 Grounds for Disqualification for Cause.

22.18[1] Disqualification Is Mandatory If Ground Is Established. CCP § 170.1(a) states that a judge "shall be disqualified" if any of the grounds listed is true. Therefore, the statute is mandatory in nature and the judge must be disqualified unless the ground is waived.

Cross Reference:

For a discussion of waiver, see 22.27 et seq.

22.18[2] Judge Has Personal Knowledge of Disputed Evidentiary Facts.

22.18[2][a] General Rule. A judge is disqualified if he or she "has personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding" [CCP § 170.1(a)(1)(A)].

22.18[2][b] Judge Is Deemed to Have Personal Knowledge If Judge or Close Relative Is Likely to Be Material Witness. A judge is deemed to have personal knowledge of facts if the judge or the judge's spouse or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them or that person's spouse is, to the judge's knowledge, likely to be a material witness in the proceeding [CCP § 170.1(a)(1)(B)].

22.18[2][c] Calculating Third Degree of Relationship. The "third degree of relationship" is calculated according to the civil law system [CCP § 170.5(d); see People v. Williams (1997) 16 C4th 635, 652-653, 66 CR2d 573, 941 P2d 752 (discussing calculation and finding judge was not disqualified because witness was related, if at all, in fifth degree)].

22.18[2][d] Material Witness Is One With Important Testimony That Only One or Few Can Give. A material witness is someone "who can give testimony ... no one else, or at least very few, can give" [ People v. Williams (1997) 16 C4th 635, 653, 66 CR2d 573, 941 P2d 752 ]. The witness' testimony must also be "important," "more or less necessary," "going to the merits," or have some likelihood of affecting the outcome of the case [ People v. Williams (1997) 16 C4th 635, 653, 66 CR2d 573, 941 P2d 752 (quoting from Black's Law Dict. (6th ed. 1990) p. 976, col.2)].

22.18[3] Judge Served As Lawyer in the Proceeding.

22.18[3][a] General Rule. A judge is disqualified for cause if one of the following is true [CCP § 170.1(a)(2)(A)]:

- The judge served as a lawyer in the proceeding;
- In any other proceeding involving the same issues, the judge served as a lawyer for a party in the present proceeding; or
- The judge gave advice to any party in the present proceeding upon any matter involved in the action or proceeding.

22.18[3][b] Judge's Former Public Service. A judge who served as a lawyer for or officer of a public agency that is a party to the proceeding is deemed to have served as a lawyer in the proceeding if the judge personally advised or otherwise represented the public agency concerning the factual or legal issues in the proceeding [CCP § 170.1(a)(2)(C)].

22.18[3][c] Judge's Advice to Nonparty Does Not Disqualify. The disqualification for having given advice does not extend to a situation where the judge gave advice to someone who is not a party to the proceeding but has a similar cause of action [ Lassen Irrigation Co. v. Superior Court (1907) 151 C 357, 362-363, 90 P 709 (dictum)].

22.18[3][d] Judge's Former Private Practice of Law. A judge is deemed to have served as a lawyer in the proceeding, and is therefore disqualified, if within the past two years [CCP § 170.1(a)(2)(B)]:

- A party to the proceeding or an officer, director, or trustee of a party was a client of the judge when the judge was in private practice, or a client of a lawyer with whom the judge was in practice; or
- The judge was formerly associated in private practice with one of the lawyers in the proceeding.

"Private practice of law" includes a fee for service, retainer, or salaried representation of private clients or public agencies. It excludes lawyers who are full-time employees of public agencies and lawyers working exclusively for legal aid offices, public defender offices, or similar nonprofit entities whose clientele is restricted to the indigent [CCP § 170.5(e)].

Courts should liberally construe this provision to insure both actual impartiality and public confidence [ People v. Thomas (1972) 8 C3d 518, 520, 105 CR 366, 503 P2d 1374 (judge's former employment as assistant district attorney within two years of prosecution did not disqualify him when crime was committed after his appointment to bench; clearly no personal knowledge and not disqualified from all cases brought in name of the People)].

Distinguish:

The judge is disqualified regardless of when the former representation took place if the judge served as a lawyer in the current proceeding or in a proceeding involving the same issues or if the judge gave advice to one of the parties in the current proceeding regarding any matter at issue in the current proceeding. The "within two years" rule for deeming the judge to have served as a lawyer in the proceeding applies if the judge served as a lawyer for one of the parties in the present proceeding on an unrelated matter, if the judge's former law partner served as one of the parties' lawyers within the last two years, or if the judge was formerly in private practice with one of the lawyers in the proceeding. [CCP § 170.1(a)(2)(B); see also Reeve v. Jahn (1937) 9 C2d 244, 250, 70 P2d 610 (judge was not disqualified when at least 30 years before he had acted as an attorney and guardian ad litem for minor children of deceased wife in partition proceeding but that property was not in question in subsequent quiet title action)].

22.18[3][e] Not Subject to Waiver. The parties cannot waive disqualification for having served as an attorney in the proceeding in controversy [CCP § 170.3(b)(2)(B)].

22.18[4] Judge Has Financial Interest in Subject Matter or Party.

22.18[4][a] General Rule. A judge is disqualified if the judge, his or her spouse, or his or her minor child living in the household has a financial interest in the subject matter or party, or if the judge or the judge's spouse is a fiduciary who has a financial interest [CCP § 170.1(a)(3)(C)].

"Fiduciary" includes any executor, trustee, guardian, or administrator [CCP § 170.5(g)].

22.18[4][b] Financial Interest Defined. "Financial interest" means [CCP § 170.5(b)]:

- Ownership of more than a one percent legal or equitable interest in a party,
- A legal or equitable interest in a party of a fair market value in excess of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500), or
- A relationship as director, advisor, or other active participant in the affairs of a party.

Exceptions:

There are three exceptions [CCP § 170.5(b)]:

- Ownership in a mutual or common investment fund that holds securities is not a financial interest in those securities unless the judge participates in the management of the fund.
- An office in an educational, religious, charitable, fraternal, or civic organization is not a financial interest in securities held by the organization.
- The proprietary interest of a policyholder in a mutual insurance company, or a depositor in a mutual savings association, or a similar proprietary interest, is a financial interest in the organization only if the outcome of the proceeding could substantially affect the value of the interest.

Strategic Point:

CCP § 170.1(a)(3) refers to a financial interest in the subject matter of the proceeding or in a party to the proceeding. However, the definition of "financial interest" in CCP § 170.5(b) refers only to a financial interest in a party. Since "financial interest in the subject matter of the proceeding" is not defined anywhere, it may be helpful to analyze such an interest under CCP § 170(a)(6) (interests of justice require recusal or judge has substantial doubt in his or her ability to be impartial). Such an analysis would be helpful, for example, in a case where the validity of a special property tax that will affect the judge's property is being litigated [ Central & West Basin Water Replenishment Dist. v. Wong (1976) 55 CA3d 191, 194-195, 127 CR 448 (validity of special property tax affecting judge's property); Meyer v. City of San Diego (1898) 121 C 102, 110-111, 53 P 434 (same)].

22.18[4][c] Judge Has Duty to Inform Himself or Herself. A judge has a duty to make reasonable efforts to inform himself or herself about his or her personal and fiduciary interests and those of his or her spouse and minor children living in the household [CCP § 170.1(a)(3)].

22.18[4][d] Disqualification May Occur Even After Judgment. A judge should still be disqualified even if the judge discovers his or her interest after judgment is rendered [ Tatum v. S. Pac. Co. (1967) 250 CA2d 40, 43, 58 CR 238 (judgment vacated and new trial ordered after judge discovered forgotten shares of stock in defendant)].

If a judge disposes of his or her stock after hearing evidence in the case but before rendering judgment, he or she is still disqualified [ Adams v. Minor (1898) 121 C 372, 375, 53 P 815 ].

22.18[5] Judge Is a Party to the Proceeding. A judge is disqualified if the judge or the judge's spouse, or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them, or the spouse of someone within the third degree of relationship to either of them, is a party to the proceeding or an officer, director, or trustee of a party [CCP § 170.1(a)(4)].

The "third degree of relationship" is calculated according to the civil law system [CCP § 170.5(d); see People v. Williams (1997) 16 C4th 635, 652-653, 66 CR2d 573, 941 P2d 752 (discussing calculation and finding judge was not disqualified because witness was related, if at all, in fifth degree)].

This disqualification includes cases in which the judge or his or her relative is not a party of record, but nonetheless a real party in interest [see Lynip v. Alturas Sch. Dist. (1915) 29 CA 158, 160-161, 155 P 109 (judge's brother is director of bank that is real party in interest, although suit was brought in name of private individual)].

22.18[6] Judge Has Relationship to Lawyer in Proceeding. A judge is disqualified if a lawyer or a spouse of a lawyer in the proceeding is the spouse, former spouse, child, sibling, or parent of the judge or the judge's spouse or if such a person is associated in the private practice of law with a lawyer in the proceeding [CCP § 170.1(a)(5)].

22.18[7] Judge Is Biased or Prejudiced.

22.18[7][a] General Rule. A judge is disqualified if, for any reason, one of the following is true:

- The judge believes his or her recusal would further the interests of justice [CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(A)(i)];
- The judge believes there is a substantial doubt as to his or her capacity to be impartial [CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(A)(ii)]; or
- A person aware of the facts might reasonably entertain a doubt that the judge would be able to be impartial [CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(A)(iii)].

Bias or prejudice toward a lawyer in the proceeding may be grounds for disqualification under this section [CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(B)].

22.18[7][b] Bias Is Determined by Objective Test; Actual Bias Is Not Required. The test for bias under CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(B) is an objective test, not a question of actual bias. The test is whether a reasonable member of the public at large, aware of all the facts, would fairly entertain doubts as to the judge's impartiality [ Briggs v. Superior Court (2001) 87 CA4th 312, 318-319, 104 CR2d 445 (judge not disqualified based merely on rumors that would not cause a reasonable member of the public at large to doubt the judge's impartiality); Ng v. Superior Court (1997) 52 CA4th 1010, 1024, 61 CR2d 49 (derogatory and unfounded statements concerning counsel and court's unusual and inappropriate desire to keep the case were enough to make a person aware of the facts entertain doubts as to the judge's ability to remain impartial)].

Warning:

The disqualification statutes were revised in 1984 and now provide for a broader definition of bias. Therefore, cite any cases prior to 1984 with caution.

Example:

CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(C) requires the disqualification of a judge from an appellate panel reviewing a judgment where that same judge heard a pretrial matter involving a contested factual or legal issue related to the merits, or made a procedural determination that had a substantial effect on the ultimate outcome, or where the determination, though not directly appealable, is related to an issue on appeal from the final judgment. Disqualification under these circumstances is required under CCP § 170.1(a)(6)(C), even though the pretrial "proceeding" heard by the judge is not the one on appeal [ Housing Authority of Monterrey County v. Jones (2005) 130 CA4th 1029, 1042 ].

22.18[7][c] Judge Who Believes Party Is Lying. Because it is a judge's duty to determine credibility of witnesses, the mere fact that a judge believes a party is not telling the truth is not grounds for disqualification for bias [ Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 C2d 440, 444, 289 P2d 209 ]. However, if the judge states he or she believes a party has willfully sworn falsely, the judge may be disqualified in a retrial of the case [ Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 C2d 440, 444, 289 P2d 209 (judge stated he believed party had willfully sworn falsely); Evans v. Superior Court (1930) 107 CA 372, 382-383, 290 P 662 (judge believed party had willfully misstated the facts)].

22.18[7][d] Judge's "Fixed Opinion". When a judge has expressed a fixed opinion regarding a characteristic of a party to the extent that the judge is prevented from deciding the case based on the evidence, the judge must be disqualified [ Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 CA2d 222, 232-233, 59 CR 323 ].

Also, a judge who offered a gratuitous opinion on a matter not yet pending before him showed bias or prejudice against a party [ Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church v. Superior Court (1978) 82 CA3d 72, 84, 147 CR 44 (in ruling on pretrial motion judge offered opinion on merits of case in statement suggesting prejudgment of case)].

Example:

A judge who had indicated that he would not approve an adoption of a normal child by deaf-mutes under any circumstances was disqualified from hearing a case in which deaf-mute parents wished to adopt a child who could see and hear [ Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 CA2d 222, 232, 59 CR 323 ].

22.18[7][e] Examples of Insufficient Grounds for Bias Disqualification. Generally, courts have held the following alleged grounds to be insufficient to disqualify a judge for bias or prejudice:

- Erroneous rulings against a litigant; for example, rulings regarding admission of evidence [ McEwen v. Occidental Life Ins. Co. (1916) 172 C 6, 10-11, 155 P 86 ; Shakin v. Board of Med. Examiners (1967) 254 CA2d 102, 116, 62 CR 274 ].
- A judge's expression of his or her opinion, when the expression is made in the discharge of official duties [ People v. Brown (1993) 6 C4th 322, 336-337, 24 CR2d 710, 862 P2d 710 (judge expressed frustration with counsel's investigation of irrelevant matters in conversations with juror, defense investigator, and defense counsel but this did not rise to level requiring disqualification); Taliaferro v. Taliaferro (1962) 203 CA2d 642, 646-647 (judge stated he "thought of" referring defendant to district attorney for perjury but later apologized and did not refer matter)].
- Erroneous rulings on a question of law [ In re Morelli (1970) 11 CA3d 819, 849, 91 CR 72 (judge erroneously would not shorten or extend time for court procedures); Ryan v. Welte (1948) 87 CA2d 888, 895, 198 P2d 351 (judge ruled plaintiff could not state a cause of action)].
- A judge's state of mind that at times appears adverse to a party, but is based on the judge's actual observance of witnesses and evidence [ People v. Yeager (1961) 55 C2d 374, 391, 10 CR 829, 359 P2d 261 ; Haldane v. Haldane (1965) 232 CA2d 393, 395, 42 CR 828 ].

■ A judge who has prior knowledge or opinions regarding a party or the case's background, as long as there is no indication of hostility in the judge's knowledge or opinions [ In re Morelli (1970) 11 CA3d 819, 845-846, 91 CR 72 ; Rohr v. Johnson (1944) 65 CA2d 208, 211, 150 P2d 5 ].

22.18[8] Judge Has Physical Impairment. A judge is disqualified if, by reason of permanent or temporary physical impairment, the judge is unable to properly perceive the evidence or is unable to properly conduct the proceeding [CCP § 170.1(a)(7)].

22.18[9] Judge's Prospective Employment As Dispute Resolution Neutral. A judge is disqualified for certain dealings relating to employment as a dispute resolution neutral. Specifically, a judge is disqualified if [CCP § 170.1(a)(8)(A)]:

■ The judge has a current arrangement concerning prospective employment or other compensated service as a dispute resolution neutral or is participating in, or, within the last two years has participated in, discussions regarding prospective employment or service as a dispute resolution neutral, or has been engaged in such employment or service, and

■ Any of the following apply:

- ☐ The arrangement is, or the prior employment or discussion was, with a party to the proceeding.
- ☐ The proceeding includes issues relating to the enforcement of either an agreement to submit a dispute to an alternative dispute resolution process or a final decision by a dispute resolution neutral.
- ☐ The judge directs the parties to participate in an alternative dispute resolution process in which the dispute resolution neutral will be an individual or entity with whom the judge has the arrangement, has previously been employed or served, or is discussing or has discussed the employment or service.
- ☐ The judge will select a dispute resolution neutral or entity to conduct an alternative dispute resolution process in the matter before the judge, and among those available for selection is an individual or entity with whom the judge has the arrangement, with whom the judge has previously been employed or served, or with whom the judge is discussing or has discussed the employment or service.

Distinguish:

The Legislature's 2005 amendments to CCP § 170.1(a)(8), concerning among other things prior employment or service of the judge and adding the last two paragraphs above, are intended to construe and clarify the meaning and effect of existing law and to reject the interpretation given to the law in Hartford Casualty Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2004) 125 CA4th 250 , 22 CR3d 507 (superseded by grant of review) [Stats 2005, ch 332, § 2].

Strategic Point:

It seems logical that a ruling on the fees of a neutral would fall within this ground for disqualification. However, there is no authority specifically so holding.

In this context, "participating in discussions" or "has participated in discussion" means that the judge [CCP § 170.1(a)(8)(B)(i)]:

- Solicited or otherwise indicated an interest in accepting or negotiating possible employment or service as an alternative dispute resolution neutral, or
- Responded to an unsolicited statement regarding, or an offer of, such employment or service by:
  - ☐ Expressing an interest in that employment or service,
  - ☐ Making any inquiry regarding the employment or service, or
  - ☐ Encouraging the person making the statement or offer to provide additional information about that possible employment or service.

If a judge's response to an unsolicited statement regarding, a question about, or offer of, prospective employment or other compensated service as a dispute resolution neutral is limited to responding negatively, declining the offer, or declining to discuss such employment or service, that response does not constitute participating in discussions [CCP § 170.1(a)(8)(B)(i)].

Distinguish:

The Legislature's 2005 amendments to § 170.1(a)(8), adding among other things the definitions above, are intended to construe and clarify the meaning and effect of existing law and to reject the interpretation given to the law in Hartford Casualty Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (2004) 125 CA4th 250 , 22 CR3d 507 (superseded by grant of review) [Stats 2005, ch 332, § 2].

A "party" includes the parent, subsidiary, or other legal affiliate of any entity that is a party and is involved in the transaction, contract, or facts that gave rise to the issues subject to the proceeding [CCP § 170.1(a)(8)(B)(ii)].

A "dispute resolution neutral" refers to any of the following [CCP § 170.1(a)(8)(B)(iii)]:

- Arbitrator.
- Mediator.
- Temporary judge appointed under Cal Const, art VI, § 21.
- Referee appointed under CCP § 638 or 639.
- Special master.
- Neutral evaluator.
- Settlement officer.
- Settlement facilitator.

22.18[10] Court-Appointed Temporary Judge Has Too Close a Connection to Case or Courthouse. In addition to being required to disqualify himself or herself if required to do so under Code of Judicial Ethics, a court-appointed temporary judge, in contrast to a temporary judge requested by the parties, is disqualified from being a temporary judge if [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.818(b)]:

- The attorney, in any type of case, is appearing on the same day in the same courthouse as an attorney or as a party;
- The attorney, in the same type of case, is presently a party to any action or proceeding in the court; or
- In a family law or unlawful detainer case, one party is self-represented and the other party is represented by an attorney or is an attorney.

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.19

22.19 Factors That Are Not Grounds for Disqualification Under CCP § 170.2.

22.19[1] Judge Is Member of Group Whose Rights Are Affected By Proceeding. It is not grounds for disqualification that a judge is a member of a certain racial, ethnic, religious, sexual, or similar group and the proceeding involves the rights of such a group [CCP § 170.2(a)].

Examples:

- In a case involving the rights of leafletters spreading gospel in a parking lot, the judge was not disqualified on the basis he was a Roman Catholic [ Savage v. Trammell Crow Co. (1990) 223 CA3d 1562, 1570, 1581, 273 CR 302 ].
- In a case in which appellate justices were members of a judges' group that had filed an amicus curiae brief in support of the trial court's ruling, the justices' membership did not disqualify them from hearing the case [ People v. Superior Court (1997) 54 CA4th 407, 410, 62 CR2d 721 ].

22.19[2] Judge Has Expressed View on Legal or Factual Issue in Proceeding. It is not grounds for disqualification that a judge has in any capacity expressed a view on a legal or factual issue presented in the proceeding, except as provided in CCP § 170.1(a)(2), (b), or (c) [CCP § 170.2(b)]. Those provisions relate to:

- Having served as a lawyer in the proceeding [CCP § 170.1(a)(2)].
- Disqualification from participating in appellate review after hearing case [CCP § 170.1(b)].
- Order by appellate court that matter be heard by different judge in interests of justice [CCP § 170.1(c)].

Under CCP § 170.2(b) a judge who participated in settlement discussions is not disqualified from hearing the matter [ Roth v. Parker (1997) 57 CA4th 542, 549, 67 CR2d 250 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of CCP § 170.1(a)(2), see 22.06[3][b].

22.19[3] Judge Has Participated in Efforts to Pass or Defeat Relevant Laws. A judge cannot be disqualified on the basis that he or she has, as a lawyer or public official, participated in the drafting of laws or in the effort to pass or defeat laws, the meaning, effect, or application of which is in issue in the proceeding unless the judge believes that his or her prior involvement was so well known as to raise a reasonable doubt in the public mind as to his or her capacity to be impartial [CCP § 170.2(c)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.20

22.20 Judge May Recuse Himself or Herself.

In some circumstances a judge will voluntarily recuse himself or herself from hearing a case. This procedure is governed by CCP §§ 170.3-170.4. CCP § 170.3 provides that whenever a judge determines himself or herself to be disqualified, the judge shall notify the presiding judge of the court of his or her recusal and shall not participate in the proceeding, except as provided in CCP § 170.4, unless the parties waive the disqualification [CCP § 170.4(a)(1)].

Strategic Point:

The disqualification issue may arise at an early hearing or conference. It is preferable to raise issue and escalate rather than immediately bringing a motion. The judge may well be the one to raise the issue and may recuse himself or herself or suggest that the issue does not rise to level of recusal.

Judge's Perspective:

Contrary to popular folklore, judges are very cognizant of disqualifying factors and absent an oversight regarding financial holdings, judges regularly recuse themselves when the situation dictates. From a judicial administrative perspective the court is concerned that the recusal is appropriate and not simply the product of not wanting to preside over a difficult or high profile matter.

Case law has carved out an exception to the disqualification rules when no other judge is available to hear and decide the case [ *Olson v. 22.22 Party May File for Disqualification If Judge Refuses to Recuse Himself or Herself.

If a judge who should recuse himself or herself fails to do so or refuses to do so, a party may file a statement of disqualification [CCP § 170.3(c)].

If a judge who should disqualify himself or herself refuses or fails to do so, any party may file with the clerk a written verified statement objecting to the hearing or trial before the judge and setting forth the facts constituting the ground for disqualification [CCP § 170.3(c)(1)].

Warning:

A party may not file more than one statement of disqualification unless new facts emerge or are first learned of after the initial statement. Make certain to include all facts currently known in the initial statement of disqualification [CCP § 170.4(c)(3)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.22A

22.22A Disqualification of Temporary Judge Uses a Different Procedure.

Unlike the procedures under for disqualifying a judge, commissioner, or referee under CCP § 170.3, disqualification of a temporary judge involves the application or motion to withdraw the stipulation for the temporary judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.816(e), 2.818(f), 2.831(f)].

Whether court-appointed or requested by the parties, a temporary judge must disqualify himself or herself if required to do so under the Code of Judicial Ethics, or as required by any other law [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.818(a), 2.831(e)]. Court-appointed temporary judges are also disqualified if the attorney is appearing in any type of case on the same day, is presently a party to any action with the same type of case, or one party is self-represented in an unlawful detainer case; however the presiding judge may waive these restrictions for good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.818(b)]. The temporary judge must notify the presiding judge of the disqualification and stop participation in the proceedings unless the disqualification is waived [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.818(b)].

For court-appointed temporary judges, the parties may waive in writing a disqualification based on the Code of Judicial Ethics; however, the waiver is not permitted if the temporary judge has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, has served as an attorney in the matter, or has been a material witness in the controversy [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.818(c)].

For court-appointed temporary judges, the party asserting disqualification may request the presiding judge to withdraw the stipulation to the temporary judge, and must bring an application or motion supported by declaration with facts establishing good cause to withdraw the stipulation [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.816(e), 2.818(f)]. The presiding judge or designated judge must hear the application or motion, it must be served and filed, and the moving party must mail or deliver a copy to the presiding judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.816(e)]. A declaration that a temporary judge's ruling is based on error of fact or law does not establish good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.816(e)(2)]. If the application or motion is first learned after the temporary judge has made one or more rulings, but before the proceeding is completed, the temporary judge must disqualify himself or herself, and the prior rulings will not be disturbed by a later judicial officer absent good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.816(e)(4)].

For temporary judges requested by the parties, the party asserting disqualification may request the presiding judge to withdraw the stipulation to the temporary judge, and must bring an application or motion supported by declaration with facts establishing good cause to withdraw the stipulation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.831(f)]. The presiding judge or designated judge must hear the application or motion, it must be served and filed, and the moving party must mail or deliver a copy to the temporary judge [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.831(f)]. A declaration that a temporary judge's ruling is based on error of fact or law does not establish good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.831(f)]. If the application or motion is first learned after the temporary judge has made one or more rulings, but before the proceeding is completed, the temporary judge must disqualify himself or herself, and the prior rulings will not be disturbed by a later judicial officer absent good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.831(f)]. If the motion to withdraw the stipulation is granted, the presiding judge must assign the case for hearing or trial as promptly as possible [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.831(f)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.23

22.23 Statement of Disqualification by Party.

22.23[1] Must Be Made at Earliest Practicable Opportunity. The statement must be presented at the earliest practicable opportunity after discovery of the facts constituting the ground for disqualification [CCP § 170.3(c)(1)].

If the statement is not presented at the earliest practicable opportunity after discovery of such facts, the party risks having the ground waived [see, e.g., Develop-Amatic Eng'g v. Republic Mortgage Co. (1970) 12 CA3d 143, 150, 91 CR 193 ; Shakin v. Bd. of Med. Examiners (1967) 254 CA2d 102, 115, 62 CR 274 (earliest practicable opportunity rule to prevent dishonest litigants or lawyers from deliberately withholding disqualification statement until they know that filing of statement would disrupt orderly processes of court)].

Timing:

Most of the appellate opinions regarding timeliness of a disqualification statement focus on whether the party knew of the disqualifying facts yet failed to raise them until an unfavorable judgment or ruling by the judge. Examples of untimely attempts to disqualify a judge include:

- An oral motion to disqualify a judge at the time of argument on demurrer to second amended complaint when the judge had ruled on a demurrer to the first amended complaint two months before [ Reichert v. Gen. Ins. Co. (1968) 68 C2d 822, 838, 69 CR 321, 442 P2d 377 ].
- If a party is aware of grounds for disqualification of a judge but waits until after a pending motion is decided to present the statement of objection, the statement may be stricken as untimely [ Tri Counties Bank v. Superior Court (2008) 167 CA4th 1332, 1338, 84 CR3d 835 ].
- Plaintiff learned of facts forming basis for disqualification before hearing on demurrer, yet did not urge disqualification until after judge had sustained demurrer [ Lagies v. Copley (1981) 110 CA3d 958, 965-966, 168 CR 368 , overruled on other grounds in Brown v. Kelly Broad. Co. (1989) 48 C3d 711, 738 n23, 257 CR 708, 771 P2d 406 ].

If a ground for disqualification is not known until after judgment, disqualification may be urged even at that time [ Keating v. Superior Court (1955) 45 C2d 440, 446-447, 289 P2d 209 (case assigned to same judge on remand after appeal); Adoption of Richardson (1967) 251 CA2d 222, 229, 233-234, 59 CR 323 (motion for new trial and to vacate judgment based on disqualification); Oak Grove Sch. Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 CA2d 678, 704, 32 CR 288 (statement made immediately after prior order of disqualification under CCP 170.6 was set aside)]. However, the statutory procedure for disqualification of judges for cause does not apply to statements filed after final judgment [ North Beverly Park Homeowners Assn. v. Bisno (2007) 147 CA4th 762, 772, 54 CR3d 644 ].

22.23[2] Statement Must Be Verified and State Facts Showing Grounds. The statement must set forth the facts constituting the ground for disqualification [CCP § 170.3(c)(1)]. The disqualification statement should set forth specific facts on which the charges are predicated [ Mackie v. Dyer (1957) 154 CA2d 395, 399, 316 P2d 366 ]. In addition, the facts should make the bias appear probable as to the issue or issues to be tried [ Calhoun v. Superior Court (1958) 51 C2d 257, 260, 331 P2d 648 ; Shakin v. Bd. of Med. Examiners (1967) 254 CA2d 102, 117, 62 CR 274 ].

The statement must be in writing and verified [CCP § 170.3(c)(1)].

Cross References:

General Form of Written Statement of Disqualification, see 22.37. Discussion of legally insufficient statements, see 22.23[4][a].

22.23[3] Statement Must Be Served on Parties and Judge. The statement must be served on each party who has appeared or his or her attorney. It must also be served personally on the judge alleged to be disqualified or on his or her clerk if the judge is present in the courthouse or in chambers [CCP § 170.3(c)(1)].

Strategic Point:

Service is made on the clerk. However, since the judge must be present in the courthouse, counsel may want to verify that the judge is present before making service. For example, counsel may want to check with the court to make sure that the judge is not on vacation when service is contemplated. Ensuring effective service is important, because the later of filing or service starts the period within which the judge must file a consent or answer, or be deemed to have consented to disqualification under CCP § 170.3(c)(4).

22.23[4] Judge's Response to Disqualification Statement.

22.23[4][a] Judge May Strike Legally Insufficient Statement. The judge against whom a statement of disqualification is filed may order it stricken if [CCP § 170.4(b)]:

- It was untimely filed; or
- On its face it discloses no legal grounds for disqualification.

A judge may also strike a repetitive statement of disqualification not alleging facts suggesting new grounds for disqualification [CCP § 170.4(c)(3)].

A statement may be stricken when it contains, for example [ In re Morelli (1970) 11 CA3d 819, 843, 91 CR 72 ; see also In re Marriage of Lemen (1980) 113 CA3d 769, 789-791, 170 CR 642 ]:

- Conclusions.

- References to copious transcripts without citation to specific excerpts.
- Allegations of facts not pertinent or appropriate to the issues to be determined in the hearing.
- Material not legally indicative of bias or prejudice, such as:
  - ☐ Judicial opinions expressed in discharge of litigation and judicial ruling;
  - ☐ Judicial reactions based on actual observations in legal proceedings; or
  - ☐ References to circumstances so inconsequential as to be no indication whatsoever of hostility and nonprobative of any bias or prejudice.

Judge's Perspective:

More and more judges are invoking the motion to strike procedure when there is no disqualifying basis other than displeasure with a court's prior ruling. When the challenge for cause is made subsequent in time to some prior ruling or case management order and the basis made simply invokes an overall contention of bias or prejudice counsel can expect to be met with the judge striking the challenge pursuant to CCP § 170.4. There are advantages and disadvantages to this striking order. For the court, the striking order removes the necessity of staying the action pending a hearing on the challenge. For the challenging party, the only remedy available is writ review. The order striking the challenge is non-appealable and can only be reviewed by way of a writ of mandamus. However, for the court this procedure is not without risks. If the reviewing court believes that the striking order was improper and the challenged Judge did not alternatively answer the petition in a verified format then a writ of mandamus will almost assuredly be granted.

22.23[4][b] Judge May Consent to Disqualification Statement. A judge may file a consent to the disqualification within 10 days after the statement of disqualification is filed or served, whichever is later [CCP § 170.3(c)(3)].

If the judge files a consent, he or she must also notify the presiding judge or the person authorized to appoint a replacement of his or her recusal [CCP § 170.3(c)(3)].

22.23[4][c] Judge May Request Another Judge Act in His or Her Place. A judge, without conceding his or her disqualification, also has the option of requesting any other judge agreed on by the parties to act in his or her place [CCP § 170.3(c)(2)].

22.23[4][d] Judge May Make Written Answer. The judge may respond to the party's disqualification statement by filing a written verified answer admitting or denying any or all of the allegations contained in the party's statement and setting forth any additional facts material or relevant to the question of disqualification. The clerk transmits a copy of the judge's answer to each party or his or her attorney [CCP § 170.3(c)(3)].

If a judge files a written verified answer, the determination of disqualification must be decided by another judge [CCP § 170.3(c)(5)].

Exception:

A judge may strike a statement of disqualification after initially filing an answer to the statement so long as the judge does so within the 10-day time limit allowed for the judge's response to the statement [ PBA, LLC v. KPOD, Ltd. (2003) 112 CA4th 965, 972-973 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of procedure for other judge to determine disqualification, see 22.24.

22.23[4][e] Judge Is Deemed to Consent to Disqualification for Failure to Timely Respond. A judge who fails to file a consent or answer within the time allowed is deemed to have consented to disqualification. The clerk notifies the presiding judge or person authorized to appoint a replacement of the recusal [CCP § 170.3(c)(4)].

The automatic disqualification for failure to answer applies even if the party's statement of disqualification is legally insufficient or untimely [ Urias v. Harris Farms, Inc. (1991) 234 CA3d 415, 421, 285 CR 659 ].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.24

22.24 Determination Regarding Disqualification by Another Judge.

22.24[1] Selection of Judge to Hear Disqualification Question. A judge may not pass on the question of his or her own disqualification [CCP § 170.3(c)(5)]. Once a judge files an answer to a party's statement of disqualification, the parties have five days from the time of notification of the judge's answer to agree on a judge to determine disqualification [CCP § 170.3(c)(5)]. The parties do not need to select a judge from the same court; but the judge must be active, as opposed to retired, and qualified [ 62 Ops. Cal Att'y Gen 295 (1979) ].

If the parties are unable to agree within five days on a judge to hear the disqualification question, the chairperson of the Judicial Council is to select a judge to hear the question as expeditiously as possible. If the chairperson is unable to act, the vice chairperson selects the judge [CCP § 170.3(c)(5)]. The Assigned Judges Program of the Administrative Office of the Courts performs this function on behalf of the Chief Justice.

Strategic Point:

Make every effort to arrive at a timely stipulation to determine the judge to hear the matter and avoid having to go to Judicial Council. This will afford the parties some control over who will hear the question [see CCP § 170.3(c)(5) (cannot disqualify the judge selected to hear disqualification question for cause and by peremptory challenge)]. Stipulating to the judge may also avoid some delay.

Consult local practice on the assignment of judges to hear disqualification challenges for cause. For example, in Los Angeles, counsel rarely stipulate and the bulk of challenges for cause are heard by Orange County judges. Conversely, Los Angeles County judges hear the challenges to Orange County judges.

It commonly takes four to six weeks to hear a challenge for cause.

Cross Reference:

Form, see 22.38.

22.24[2] Judge Has Discretion to Decide Issue on Papers or by Hearing. CCP § 170.3(c)(6) gives the judge determining disqualification discretion over how the issue will be decided. The judge may decide the question solely on the basis of the disqualification statements and answer. The judge may also request written arguments or set the matter for hearing as promptly as practicable [CCP § 170.3(c)(6)].

If a hearing is ordered, the judge may request representation by the county counsel [Gov Code § 27647].

At a hearing on disqualification, the judge deciding the question must permit the parties and the judge to argue the question of disqualification and must for good cause shown hear evidence on any disputed issue of fact [CCP § 170.3(c)(6)].

22.24[3] Selection of New Judge to Hear Matter. If the judge deciding the question of disqualification determines that the judge is disqualified, he or she shall notify the presiding judge or the person having authority to appoint a replacement of the disqualified judge [CCP § 170.3(c)(6)].

If the disqualified judge is the only judge of the court or there is no judge of the court who is qualified to hear the matter, the chairperson or vice chairperson of the Judicial Council assigns a judge to hear the matter [CCP § 170.3(a)(2), (c)(6)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.25

22.25 Disqualified Judge Has Very Limited Powers to Rule in Case.

22.25[1] Judge's Power to Rule Is Restricted After Disqualification or After Statement of Disqualification Is Filed Until Determination Is Made. In general, a disqualified judge has no power to act in any proceeding after the filing of a statement of disqualification, until the question of disqualification has been determined. A judge who has been disqualified has no power to take further action in the proceeding [CCP § 170.4(d)]. Any order made by a judge after disqualification or after a statement of disqualification has been filed are null and void [ Noorthoek v. Superior Court (1969) 269 CA2d 600, 607, 75 CR 61 (judge had disqualified himself)].

22.25[2] Judge Retains Enumerated Powers. A disqualified judge may do any of the following [CCP § 170.4(a)]:

- Take any action or issue any order necessary to maintain the jurisdiction of the court pending the assignment of a judge not disqualified.
- Request any other judge agreed on by the parties to sit and act in his or her place.
- Hear and determine purely default matters.
- Issue an order for possession prior to judgment in eminent domain proceedings.
- Set proceedings for trial or hearing.
- Conduct settlement conferences.

A judge may also order a statement of disqualification stricken if it is untimely or on its face discloses no legal grounds for disqualification [CCP § 170.4(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of striking statement of disqualification, see 22.23[4][a].

22.25[3] Trial Judge's Powers If Statement of Disqualification Filed After Trial or Hearing Begins. If a party files a statement of disqualification after a trial or hearing begins by the start of voir dire, the swearing of the first witness or the submission of a motion for decision, the judge may order the trial or hearing to continue notwithstanding the statement of disqualification [CCP § 170.4(c)(1)]. In at least one case, a court has held that a trial commences for purposes of CCP § 170.4(c)(1) when the judge has heard and ruled on motions in limine [ Eckert v. Superior Court (1999) 69 CA4th 262, 266, 81 CR2d 467 ].

In the meantime, the issue of disqualification must be referred to another judge for decision [CCP § 170.4(c)(1)].

If the judge alleged to be disqualified is determined to be disqualified, all orders and rulings of the judge found to be disqualified made after the filing of the statement will be vacated [CCP § 170.4(c)(1)].

Judge's Perspective:

In almost all instances where a challenge for cause is filed during trial the court proceeds with the trial and does not issue any stay. To do otherwise would be tantamount to the granting of a continuance where none could otherwise be obtained on a valid basis.

Strategic Point:

Have a clear and substantial ground for seeking disqualification during trial. If you challenge, you must win. In addition to the potential for sanctions, you may encounter subtle forms of retribution (although should that occur, it might help build the case for reversal on appeal based on bias).

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
III. DISQUALIFYING JUDGE FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.26

22.26 Effect of Disqualification on Rulings Made Prior to Disqualification.

22.26[1] If Judge Has Not Completed Action. If the grounds for disqualification are first learned of or arise after the judge has made one or more rulings in a proceeding but before the judge has completed his or her action in the proceeding, the rulings made up until that time are not to be set aside absent good cause [CCP § 170.3(b)(4); Hernandez v. Vitamin Shoppe Industries Inc. (2009) 174 CA4th 1441, 1450-1451, 95 CR3d 734].

Distinguish:

By its terms, CCP § 170.3(b)(4) applies only to rulings made prior to the time the grounds for disqualification are first learned of or arise--not rulings made prior to the time the judge became aware of controlling law [ Rossco Holdings, Inc. v. Bank of America (2007) 149 CA4th 1353, 1363-1364, 58 CR3d 141 (order compelling contractual arbitration was void)].

22.26[2] If Judge Has Completed Action. The disqualification statutes do not address a situation where a party discovers disqualifying facts after the judge has completed the action. When disqualifying facts are learned after the judgment has been entered but before judgment was final, the judgment is voidable [ Urias v. Harris Farms, Inc. (1991) 234 CA3d 415, 422-423, 285 CR 659 (discussing earlier California Supreme Court cases that suggest judgment is void)].

Distinguish:

Disqualification occurs when the facts creating disqualification arise--not when disqualification is established. Relief is available to a party who, with due diligence, discovers the grounds for disqualification only after judgment is entered or appeal is filed [ Christie v. City of El Centro (2006) 135 CA4th 767, 776, 37 CR3d 718 ].

22.26[3] Arbitration Ordered by Disqualified Judge Is Not Necessarily Tainted. While an order compelling contractual arbitration by a judge whose disqualification is subsequently determined to have existed at the time the order was issued is void, an award resulting from completed arbitration between the parties as a result of the void order is not necessarily tainted. Only if the arbitration itself is tainted, or the order itself was unjustified, is the award itself properly vacated [ Rossco Holdings, Inc. v. Bank of America (2007) 149 CA4th 1353, 1364-1365, 58 CR3d 141 (subsequent judge's vacating of arbitration award without consideration of taint was premature)].

IV. WAIVING DISQUALIFICATION FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.27

22.27 CHECKLIST: Waiving Disqualification for Cause.

☐ Verify the ground for disqualification is waivable. One may not waive the following grounds:

- ☐ Judge has personal bias or prejudice concerning a party.
- ☐ Judge has served as an attorney in the matter.
- ☐ Judge has been a material witness in the matter.

Authority:

CCP § 170.3(b)(2)

Discussion:

See 22.29

☐ Determine whether disqualification has been waived by delay in filing disqualification statement.

Authority:

CCP § 170.3(c)(1)

Discussion:

See 22.23[1], 22.30

☐ Decide whether the ground for disqualification should be affirmatively waived.

Authority:

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
IV. WAIVING DISQUALIFICATION FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.28

22.28 Disqualification May Be Waived Affirmatively or by Failure to Timely Request Disqualification.

A judge who determines himself or herself to be disqualified may, after disclosing the basis for disqualification, ask the parties if they wish to waive the disqualification [CCP § 170.3(b)(1)].

A party may also waive a ground for disqualification if the party fails to present the statement of disqualification at the "earliest practicable opportunity" [CCP § 170.3(c)(1)]. See 22.23[1], 22.30.

Exception:

Certain grounds for disqualification may not be waived [CCP § 170.3(b)(2); discussion, see 22.29].

Judge's Perspective:

This situation usually arises when the judge is aware of something that rises to the level of disclosure but not for disqualification. In that instance, the judge and counsel work out a stipulation that permits the judge to continue with the matter without having to worry that the disclosure will come back to haunt the bench officer. The disclosure and discussion should be on the record in open court. Usually counsel then draft the stipulation and submit to the court later.

22.29[1] Judge Has Personal Bias or Prejudice Concerning a Party. The parties cannot waive disqualification if the basis for disqualification is that the judge has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party [CCP § 170.3(b)(2)(A)].

► Cross Reference:

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of having served as a lawyer in the proceeding ground, see 22.18[3].

22.29[3] Judge Has Been a Material Witness in the Matter. The parties cannot waive disqualification if the basis for disqualification is that the judge has been a material witness concerning the matter [CCP § 170.3(b)(2)(B)].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
IV. WAIVING DISQUALIFICATION FOR CAUSE

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.31

22.31 Waiver Must Be Written and on Record.

To waive of grounds for disqualification [CCP § 170.3(b)(1)]:

- The judge must state the ground for disqualification on the record, and
- The waiver of disqualification must recite the basis for disqualification, be signed by all parties and their attorneys, and be filed in the record.

Strategic Point:

Before agreeing to waive any ground for disqualification, ask the judge for full disclosure. Consider asking for time to consider whether or not to waive a disqualifying factor in order to consult with your client or to do further research to determine whether the court has made full disclosure.

V. OBTAINING REVIEW OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.33

22.33 CHECKLIST: Obtaining Review of Disqualification Orders.

- ☐ Consider whether there are grounds for reconsideration of the disqualification.

Authority:

CCP § 1008

See 22.36A

 Cross Reference:

See Ch. 29, Motions to Reconsider and Renewed Motions

- ☐ Consider whether to seek review of disqualification for cause or peremptory challenge order.

Authority:

Discussion:

See 22.34

- ☐ If review is desired, file and serve a petition for writ of mandate.

 Timing:

The petition for writ of mandate must be filed and served within 10 days of the date of service of the notice of entry of decision on disqualification, unless that time is extended for service by mail under CCP § 1013.

Authority:

CCP § 170.3(d)

V. OBTAINING REVIEW OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.34

22.34 Options and Strategy for Review of Orders.

Unless the likelihood of success on appellate review is very high, do not seek review. If appellate review is not successful, you will be back before the same judge with a heightened level of tension and alienation.

Also consider that even if the denial of disqualification is overturned on review, the case may end up being assigned to a close colleague, and possibly friend, of the challenged judge.

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
V. OBTAINING REVIEW OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.35

22.35 Review of Orders Pertaining to Disqualification for Cause.

22.35[1] Disqualification Order Is Not Appealable. A determination of a judge's disqualification is not an appealable order [CCP § 170.3(d)]. Section 170.3(d) also bars review of the issue on appeal after the final judgment [ People v. Williams (1997) 16 C4th 635, 652, 66 CR2d 573, 941 P2d 752 (CCP § 170.1 disqualification claim was not properly raised on appeal because of defendant's failure to pursue CCP § 170.3(d) writ of mandate procedure); Fink v. Shemtov (2010) 180 CA4th 1160, 1176, 103 CR3d 509 (denying appeal of disqualification order in appeal on other grounds); but see Christie v. City of El Centro (2006) 135 CA4th 767, 775, 37 CR3d 718 (appeal of dismissal voidable because it was made by judge disqualified at time of order of dismissal and did not constitute appeal of disqualification of judge)].

Exception:

Courts have held that CCP § 170.3(d) does not preclude an appellate challenge, after the final judgment, to a disqualification order based on a constitutional due process claim that the judge was biased [ People v. Freeman (2010) 47 C4th 993, 999-1000, 103 CR3d 723, 222 P3d 177 (denying consideration of relief under CCP § 170.3(d) on appeal, while considering but denying relief on the merits of claim of due process violation); People v. Williams (1997) 16 C4th 635, 652 n5, 66 CR2d 573, 941 P2d 752 ; People v. Brown (1993) 6 C4th 322, 336, 24 CR2d 710, 862 P2d 710 ]. However, a party can forfeit the later constitutional due process claim by failing to follow the statutory procedure for challenging disqualification orders [ Roth v. Parker (1997) 57 CA4th 542, 549, 67 CR2d 250 ].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of due process claims arising from judicial bias, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 317, Judges (Matthew Bender(R)).

22.35[2] Disqualification Order May Be Reviewed by Writ of Mandate. A determination of a judge's disqualification may be reviewed by writ of mandate from the appropriate court of appeal [CCP § 170.3(d); People v. Freeman (2010) 47 C4th 993, 1000, 103 CR3d 723, 222 P3d 177 (writ is exclusive avenue for review)].

Warning:

Defendant's failure to seek writ review pursuant to CCP § 170.3(d), of the denial of his or her statutory disqualification motions forfeits the potential statutory claims that the trial judge should have been disqualified for cause and, having once recused himself, was statutorily precluded from subsequently accepting reassignment of the case [ People v. Freeman (2010) 47 C4th 993, 999-1000, 103 CR3d 723, 222 P3d 177] .

Cross Reference:

Discussion of mandate in general, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 358, Mandate and Prohibition (Matthew Bender).

22.35[3] Writ Petition Generally Must Be Filed and Served Within 10 Days of Service of Notice of Decision.

The petition for writ of mandate must be filed and served within 10 days of the date of service of the notice of entry of decision on disqualification, unless that time is extended for service by mail under CCP § 1013 [CCP § 170.3(d)].

Example:

A notice of unavailability was not a proper document under the California Rules of Court and did not extend either the time for the trial court to respond to a statement of disqualification or the time for filing a petition for writ of mandate under CCP § 170.3(d), so petition for writ filed two months after statement was struck was untimely [ Carl v. Superior Court (2007) 157 CA4th 73, 77, 68 CR3d 566 ].

22.35[4] Writ May Only Be Sought by Parties to the Proceeding. The writ of mandate may only be sought by the parties to the proceeding [CCP § 170.3(d)].

A disqualified judge is not a "party to the proceeding" and may not seek a writ of mandate challenging a disqualification order [ Curle v. Superior Court (2001) 24 C4th 1057, 1062-1066, 103 CR2d 751 ].

Chapter 22 Disqualification of Judge
V. OBTAINING REVIEW OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.36

22.36 Review of Orders Pertaining to Peremptory Challenge.

An order on a peremptory challenge to a judge is not appealable and may be reviewed only by writ of mandate filed and served within 10 days of the date of service of the notice of entry of decision on disqualification, unless that time is extended for service by mail under CCP § 1013 [CCP § 170.3(d)].

CCP § 170.3(d) applies to peremptory challenges as well as challenges for cause [ People v. Hull (1991) 1 C4th 266, 276, 2 CR2d 526, 820 P2d 1036 ; Guedalia v. Superior Court (1989) 211 CA3d 1156, 1160-1163, 260 CR 99 ].

Exception:

The appellate court has the discretion to treat an appeal of a decision on a peremptory challenge as a petition for writ of mandate under extraordinary circumstances. Relief will not be granted where the appealing party has not asked the appellate court to do so, the opposing party contests whether writ relief is appropriate, the appealing party's obligation to instead seek writ relief is clear, and as a result of the appealing party's failure to seek writ relief, further proceedings were held and a final resolution was long-delayed, thereby defeating the policy of judicial economy [ Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh (2005) 131 CA4th 1342, 1349 , 32 CR3d 717 ].

V. OBTAINING REVIEW OF DISQUALIFICATION ORDERS

2-22 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 22.36A

22.36A Disqualification Orders May Be Reconsidered by the Assigned Judge.

A judge's order disqualifying himself or herself may be reconsidered under CCP § 1008. Given that the disqualified judge has no authority to act on substantive matters, the new judge assigned to the case hears the motion for reconsideration on the basis that the disqualified judge is "unavailable." If the new judge finds the disqualification is erroneous, the disqualified judge's authority to rule on the matter is reinstated [ Geddes v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 417, 425-426 , 23 CR3d 857 (peremptory challenge)].

TO THE HONORABLE _____ [name], _____ [e.g., PRESIDING JUDGE OF THE ABOVE-ENTITLED COURT or THE JUDGE OF THE MASTER CALENDAR DEPARTMENT OF THE CIVIL DIVISION OF THE ABOVE-ENTITLED COURT or other appropriate statement]:

The attorney for the _____ [plaintiff or defendant] in the above-entitled matter hereby moves that _____ [specify matter to be heard, e.g., trial of the this matter or other appropriate statement], which involves a contested issue of law or fact, and which has been assigned to the Honorable _____ [name], _____ [Judge or Court Commissioner or Referee] of the above-entitled Court, be reassigned from that _____ [Judge or Court Commissioner or Referee], and that no matters hereinafter arising in this cause be heard by or assigned to the Honorable _____ [name], on the ground that the _____ [Judge or Court Commissioner or Referee] is prejudiced against the _____ [plaintiff or defendant or attorney for the plaintiff or attorney for the defendant or interest of the _____ (specify, e.g., plaintiff or defendant or attorney for the plaintiff or attorney for the defendant)] in this action.

This motion is based on the matters contained herein, on Code of Civil Procedure Section 170.6, and on the supporting _____ [Affidavit or Declaration Under Penalty of Perjury] of _____ [name] attached hereto and filed herewith.

WHEREFORE, _____ [plaintiff or defendant] prays that the relief herein requested be granted.

Chapter 23 Case Management

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.syn

§ 23.syn Synopsis to Chapter 23: Case Management

23.01 Scope.

23.02 Objective and Strategy.

23.03 CHECKLIST: Determining Assignment to Differential Case Management Program.

23.04 General Civil Cases Are Evaluated for One of Three Options: Assignment to Case Management Program, Exemption From Time Goals, or Assignment to Expedited Plan.

23.04[1] Evaluation of Case Occurs at Time of Filing or Shortly Thereafter.

23.04[1][a] Each Case Must Be Evaluated on Its Own Merits to Determine Which Option Applies.

23.04[1][b] Probate, Family Law, Juvenile Court, Unlawful Detainer, and Small Claims and "Other Civil Petitions" Are Not General Civil Cases.

23.04[1][c] Cases Assigned to Case Management Program Have Different Time Disposition Goals Based on Unlimited or Limited Civil Case Status.

23.04[1][d] Courts May Establish Additional Plan for Faster Disposition of Uncomplicated Cases.

23.04[1][e] Short Cause Cases Assigned to Case Management Program May Be Exempted From Case Review.

23.04[1][f] Complex Cases and Others May Be Exempt Based on Exceptional Circumstances.

23.04[1][g] If Coordination Petition Is Granted, Coordination Judge Assigns or Exempts Case.

23.04[1][h] Delayed Application of Case Management Rules to Cases Designated As Uninsured Motorist.

23.04[1][i] Certain Collections Cases Exempt If Defendant Does Not File Responsive Pleading.

23.04[2] Cases Removed From Court's Control Excluded From Computation of Time Goals.

23.04[3] Judicial Council Form of Case Cover Sheet Provides Information to Assist in Classification.

23.04[4] Presiding Judge May Assign Judge for All Purposes or Limited Purposes.

23.05 Court Considers Specific Factors in Evaluating Assignment to Case Management Program, Exemption From Time Goals, or Assignment to Expedited Plan.

23.06 CHECKLIST: Participating in Case Management Conferences.

23.07 Options and Strategies for Parties in Case Management Conference.

23.08 Court Evaluates Nonexempt General Civil Cases at Case Management Conference.

23.08[1] Conference Is Held Within 180 Days After Complaint Filed.

23.08[2] Notice of Case Management Conference Must Be Given No Later Than 45 Days Before Conference Date.

23.08[3] Each Party Must File a Case Management Statement No Later Than 15 Days Before Conference.

23.08[3][a] Use of Judicial Council Form CM-110 Is Mandatory.

23.08[3][b] [Reserved]

23.08[3][c] Signature of Attorney and/or Party Is Required.

23.08[3][d] Statement Must Contain Representation That Parties Have Met and Conferred.

23.08[4] Parties Must Meet Not Later Than 30 Days Before Conference.

23.08[5] Parties Are Generally Permitted to Appear by Telephone.

23.08[6] Court May Determine That Appearance Is Not Necessary.

23.08[7] Counsel Must Be Familiar With Case and Prepared to Commit to the Party's Position on the Issues Presented at the Conference.

23.08[8] Additional Case Management Conference May Be Held at Any Time.

23.09 Court and Parties Must Address Specific Issues During Case Management Conference.

23.10 Court Issues Case Management Order.

23.10[1] Case Management Order Governs Conduct of Case.

23.10[2] Case Management Order Sets Pretrial Deadlines and Trial Date.

23.10[3] Case Management Order May Be Modified.

23.11 Trial Setting Process Differs Depending on Whether Case Is a General Civil Case.

23.11[1] Exempt and Non-Exempt Cases May Be Set for Trial at Case Management Conference Using Various Criteria.

23.11[2] Short Cause and Simple Cases May Be Set for Trial on the Court's Own Initiative.

23.11[3] Complex Cases May Be Set for Trial by Case Management Judge or a Presiding Judge.

23.11[4] In Counties With a Master Calendar, Each Case Must Be Tried, Ordered Off Calendar, Dismissed, or Reassigned.

23.12 Special Rules Apply For Complex Cases.

23.12[1] Party or Court May Designate a Case As Complex.

23.12[2] Complex Cases Should Be Assigned to One Judge.

23.12[2A] Initial Case Management Conference.

23.12[2A][a] Initial Case Management Conference in Complex Cases Should Be Held at Earliest Practical Date to Expose Essential Issues.

23.12[2A][b] Initial Case Management Conference Must Consider Required Subjects.

23.12[2A][c] Court May Order Counsel to Meet and Confer Before Initial Case Management Conference.

23.12[3] Complex Cases Are Frequently Exempted From Time Standards Under Trial Court Delay Reduction Act But Are Subject to a Case Progression Plan.

23.13 Sanctions May Be Imposed For Failure to Comply With Trial Court Delay Reduction Act and Local Rules.

23.14 CHECKLIST: Participating in Settlement Conferences.

23.15 CHECKLIST: Making Offer to Compromise.

23.16 Options and Strategies for Parties in Settlement Conferences.

23.17 Court May Set Mandatory Settlement Conferences.

23.17[1] Each Party Must Submit a Settlement Conference Statement No Later Than Five Days Before Date Set for Initial Settlement Conference.

23.17[2] Counsel, Parties, and Persons With Full Authority to Settle Must Attend Conference.

23.17[3] Sanctions May Be Imposed for Failure to Comply With California Rules of Court Concerning Settlement Conferences.

23.17[4] Plaintiff Must File Written Notice of Any Settlement.

23.18 Not Less Than 10 Days Before Trial, Any Party May Make a Written Offer to Compromise.

23.18[1] Offer to Compromise Deemed Withdrawn If Not Accepted Within 30 Days or at Start of Trial, Whichever Occurs First.

23.18[2] When Not Accepted, Offers to Compromise Result in the Shifting of Costs.

23.19 Parties May Settle Case by Stipulation.

23.20 CHECKLIST: Moving for Bifurcation of Trial.

23.20[1] Moving Party's Checklist.

23.20[2] Opposing Party's Checklist.

23.21 Options and Strategies Relating to Bifurcation of Trial.

23.22 Case Management Statement Must Indicate Intent to Bifurcate.

23.23 Court Has Discretion to Order Separate Trial of a Special Defense.

23.23[1] Party May Move for Separate Trial of a Special Defense or It May Be Ordered Sua Sponte.

23.23[2] Separate Defenses Include Statute of Limitations, Prior Judgment, or Other Pending Actions.

23.23[3] How Motion Can Be Made.

23.23[4] Sustaining of Special Defense May End the Action.

23.24 Court Has Discretion to Order Separate Trial of Issues.

23.24[1] Party May Move for Separate Trial of Issues or It May Be Ordered Sua Sponte.

23.24[2] In Inverse Condemnation Action, Party Has Right to Bifurcated Trial of Liability and Damages.

23.24[3] Decision That No Liability Exists Ends Action.

23.24[4] In Punitive Damage Cases, Trial on Evidence of Net Worth of Defendant Is Bifurcated.

23.25 CHECKLIST: Moving for Precedence or Preference.

23.25[1] Moving Party's Checklist.

23.25[2] Opposing Party's Checklist.

23.26 CHECKLIST: Moving to Advance, Reset, or Specially Set Trial.

23.26[1] Moving Party's Checklist.

23.26[2] Opposing Party's Checklist.

23.27 Options and Strategies Relating to Setting Trial Date.

- 23.28 Statutory Precedence Is Granted for Certain Actions.

Chapter 23 Case Management
I. STRATEGY

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.02

23.02 Objective and Strategy.

The Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [Gov Code §§ 68600-68620], along with 2002 changes to the California Rules of Court, has made significant changes to the way that a case moves through the judicial system. Previously, attorneys for civil litigants set the pace at which the case moved through the system. Under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act, the court uses a system of case management to determine the pace at which each case moves through the judicial system. Pretrial procedure is governed by CCP §§ 575.1, 575.2, Gov Code §§ 68612, 68616, and Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.1 et seq., 3.1 et seq.

Warning:

The case management process is not uniform statewide. Consequently, it is very important for counsel to check and comply with the local rules on the subject, which vary significantly.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

When drafting a complaint, counsel should present claims in a way that will aid in having the case assigned to the time plan that counsel finds most desirable. This should be remembered when completing mandatory California Judicial Council Form CM-010 Civil Case Cover Sheet because the information on this form will be used by the court in classifying the case and assigning it to a differential time goal.

Judge's Perspective:

Counsel who participate in the conference should be well versed as to the case in question. Decisions are made at these conferences that effect the overall structure and phasing of the case. These conferences should not be considered an appearance that is simply to be covered.

Detailed Discussion/Forms:

See California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 322, Juries and Jury Selection; Ch. 373, Motions In Limine; Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings (Matthew Bender).

California Points and Authorities, Ch. 180, Pretrial Proceedings (Matthew Bender).

Chapter 23 Case Management

II. DETERMINING ASSIGNMENT TO DIFFERENTIAL CASE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.03

23.03 CHECKLIST: Determining Assignment to Differential Case Management Program.

- ☐ File initial complaint and mandatory California Judicial Council Form CM-010 Civil Case Cover Sheet.

Discussion:

See Ch. 7, Complaints

- ☐ Determine if case is a "general" civil case:
- ☐ Civil cases are classified as "general" unless they are specific type excluded by Rule 1.6(4) (e.g., unlawful detainer proceedings).
  - ☐ General civil cases are subject to case management review and will be classified into one of three time goals depending on whether it is an unlimited or limited civil case.
  - ☐ Case that is not general civil case will be exempt from this case management review.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.712, 3.714(b), 3.720, 3.734

Discussion:

See 23.04[1]

- ☐ Determine if case is a "collections case" under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(a).
- ☐ Collections case must seek recovery of not more than $25,000 arising from a credit transaction for property, services, or money and must not seek other specified relief.

- ☐ Collections case in which defendant has not filed responsive pleading is exempt from differential case management rules.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.712(a), (d), 3.740(a), (c)(1)

Discussion:

23.04[1][i]

- ☐ Calendar any case management conference or status conference date assigned by the court. Many courts have the clerk assign the date and stamp it on the filed complaint and require the plaintiff to notify all parties of the date.

Authority:

See, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(c) (status conference date); San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 3.4(A) (case management conference date)

- ☐ Unless the case is exempt from case management review, calendar the date that is 180 days from the date that the complaint was filed. The court will review the case and assign it to a time goal within those 180 days.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.721

Discussion:

See 23.04

- ☐ Decide whether to file a noticed motion to have the case assigned to one judge for all purposes or for limited purposes.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.734

Discussion:

See 23.04[4]

Warning:

Check the local court rules. Although some courts automatically assign some cases to a single judge, others proscribe limited periods within which to request assignment to a single judge.

- ☐ If case is exempt from case management review, determine whether other case management requirements apply, such as local rules for uncomplicated cases and case progression goals for complex cases.

Discussion:

See 23.04[1][d]-[i]

Chapter 23 Case Management
II. DETERMINING ASSIGNMENT TO DIFFERENTIAL CASE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.04

23.04 General Civil Cases Are Evaluated for One of Three Options: Assignment to Case Management Program, Exemption From Time Goals, or Assignment to Expedited Plan.

23.04[1] Evaluation of Case Occurs at Time of Filing or Shortly Thereafter.

23.04[1][a] Each Case Must Be Evaluated on Its Own Merits to Determine Which Option Applies. Each court must adopt a case management and calendar system for general civil cases [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.712(a), 3.720, 10.900]. Civil cases that are not general civil cases are exempt from differential case management [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 1.6(4), 3.712(a)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of cases that are not general civil cases, see 23.04[1][b].

The court must evaluate each general civil case on its own merits and, using the case evaluation factors of Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.715, must decide whether to [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(a)]:

- Assign the case to the case management program, which results in a review of the case under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.720 et seq. (case management conference) within 180 days of the date of filing to determine how the case will be managed to meet disposition time goals;
- Exempt the case from the case disposition time goals because it is an exceptional case under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(c), and monitor it with the goal of disposing of it within three years; or
- Assign the case to a local rule case management plan for expedited case disposition within six to nine months after filing, if the court has adopted such local rules.

 Timing:

Typically, the court will evaluate a case at the time of filing or shortly thereafter. Check local rules to determine when this evaluation takes place, how the court notifies the party of the assignment or exemption, and whether there are local rules for expedited case disposition.

23.04[1][b] Probate, Family Law, Juvenile Court, Unlawful Detainer, and Small Claims and "Other Civil Petitions" Are Not General Civil Cases. A "general civil case" includes all civil cases except the following [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.6(4)]:

- Probate;
- Guardianship;
- Conservatorship;
- Family law, including:
  - ☐ Proceedings under the Family Law Act, Uniform Parentage Act, and Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act;
  - ☐ Freedom from parental custody and control proceedings;
  - ☐ Adoption proceedings;
- Juvenile court proceedings;
- Small claims proceedings;
- Unlawful detainer proceedings; and
- "Other civil petitions" [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 1.6(5) (definition of "civil petitions")].

► Cross References:

23.04[1][c] Cases Assigned to Case Management Program Have Different Time Disposition Goals Based on Unlimited or Limited Civil Case Status. If a general civil case is assigned to the case management program for review under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.720 et seq., these cases are managed to achieve the following time goals from the date of filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(b)(1), (2)]:

- Unlimited civil cases:

- ☐ 75% disposed of within 12 months.
- ☐ 85% disposed of within 18 months.
- ☐ 100% disposed of within 24 months.

- Limited civil cases:

- ☐ 90% disposed of within 12 months.
- ☐ 98% disposed of within 18 months.
- ☐ 100% disposed of within 24 months.

These goals are the guidelines for all unlimited and limited civil cases filed in that court. In managing individual cases, the court must consider each case on its merits; and, to enable the fair and efficient resolution of civil cases, each case should be set for trial as soon as appropriate for that individual case consistent with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.720 et seq. [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(b)(3)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of factors for setting trial date, see 23.11[1].

The classification is almost always accomplished before or during the case management conference [see 23.06-23.09].

Timing:

Classification of a case may affect the court's willingness to grant continuances or extend pretrial deadlines. If you are assigned to the fastest time goal, you must be very diligent in moving discovery along and leaving enough time to file any pretrial motions that may assist your case. For example, keep in mind that a summary judgment motion generally must be served at least 105 days before the scheduled trial date [CCP § 437c(a)].

23.04[1][d] Courts May Establish Additional Plan for Faster Disposition of Uncomplicated Cases. Under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act court rules, a court may adopt a case management plan for disposing of uncomplicated cases within six to nine months after filing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(d)(1)]. The court, by local rule, must establish a procedure for designating cases as uncomplicated or simple [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(d)(1)]. The plan can be used only for uncomplicated cases that do not need a case management conference because no case management conference is held to guide these cases to resolution [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(d)(2)].

23.04[1][e] Short Cause Cases Assigned to Case Management Program May Be Exempted From Case Review. A short cause case is a civil case in which the time estimated for trial by all parties or the court is five hours or less [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.735(a)].

After a general civil case is assigned to the case management program, on the stipulation of all parties or on the court's own motion, the court may order that a case is a short cause case exempted from the requirements of case management review. The court will set the short cause case for trial within six to nine months [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.735(b)]. Short cause cases are managed without conferences.

Warning:

If a short cause case is not completely tried within five hours, the judge may declare a mistrial or, in the judge's discretion, may complete the trial. In the event of a mistrial, the case will be treated as a long cause case and must promptly be set either for a new trial or for a case management conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.735(c)]. Thus, plaintiff's counsel may want to consider trying to limit the issues or the evidence presented in order to avoid the expense of further litigation.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of moving for mistrial, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 22, Mistrial.

23.04[1][f] Complex Cases and Others May Be Exempt Based on Exceptional Circumstances. In the interest of justice, the court may exempt a general civil case from the case disposition time goals if it finds that the case involves exceptional circumstances that will prevent the court and the parties from meeting the goals and deadlines imposed by the case disposition program. In making the determination, the court is guided by the case evaluation factors and definitions in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.715 (case evaluation factors) and in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400 et seq. (definition and provisional designation of complex cases). If a case is exempted from the case disposition time goals, the court will establish a case progression plan and monitor the case to ensure timely disposition, with the goal of disposing the case within three years [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(d)].

Example:

Court may exempt general civil case from time disposition goals and continue trial date to provide late added party with sufficient time to bring summary judgment motion; fast track rules must give way to statutory right to bring summary judgment motion [ Polibrid Coatings, Inc. v. Superior Court (2003) 112 CA4th 920, 923-924 ].

A complex case under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400 must be assigned to a single judge for all purposes or, if not possible for law and motion and discovery matters [Cal Rules Ct, Stds Jud Admin, Std 3.10(b)].

If your case is complex you should ask for that designation on the Civil Case Cover Sheet, California Judicial Council Form CM-010 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.402].

Cross References:

Discussion on the use of California Judicial Council Form CM-010, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.20.

Discussion of complex case management, see Judicial Council of California Deskbook on The Management of Complex Civil Litigation.

23.04[1][g] If Coordination Petition Is Granted, Coordination Judge Assigns or Exempts Case. Coordination involves the assignment of civil actions sharing common questions of law or fact that have been filed in different counties to a single judge for trial [see CCP §§ 404-404.9]. The judge then coordinates pretrial procedures and may try the cases in one or more courts. If a petition for coordination is granted, the coordination judge then assigns the case to one of the time goals or exempts the case from the case management program.

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of case management of coordinated complex cases, see Ch. 32, Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions, 32.22.

Discussion of coordination of actions, see Ch. 32, Notice of Related Cases, Consolidation, Coordination, and Severance of Actions, 32.15.

23.04[1][h] Delayed Application of Case Management Rules to Cases Designated As Uninsured Motorist. To allow for arbitration of the plaintiff's claim, case management rules do not apply to a case designated by the court as "uninsured motorist" until 180 days after that designation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.712(b)].

23.04[1][i] Certain Collections Cases Exempt If Defendant Does Not File Responsive Pleading. Collections cases, as defined in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(a), and in which the defendant does not file a responsive pleading, are exempt from differential case management rules [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.712(d), 3.740(c)(1)].

Distinguish:

A "collections case" is an action for recovery of not more than $25,000, exclusive of interest and attorney fees, arising from a credit transaction for property, services, or money. The action may not seek [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.740(a)]:

- Tort damages.
- Punitive damages.
- Recovery of real property.
- Recovery of personal property.
- Prejudgment writ of attachment.

 Cross Reference:

Exemption of "collections case" from 60-day service of summons requirement, see 7.29.

23.04[2] Cases Removed From Court's Control Excluded From Computation of Time Goals. If a case is removed from the court's control, the period of time until the case is restored to court control is excluded from the case disposition time standards; and includes such events as [Cal Rules Ct, Stds Jud Admin, Std 2.2(n)]:

- The filing of a notice of conditional settlement under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385.
- An automatic stay resulting from the filing of an action in a federal bankruptcy court.
- The removal of the case to federal court.
- An order of a federal court or higher state court staying the case.
- An order staying the case based on proceedings in a court of equal standing in another jurisdiction.
- The pendency of contractual arbitration under CCP § 1281.4.

- The pendency of attorney fee arbitration under B&P Code § 6201.
- A stay by the reporting court for active military duty or incarceration.
- For 180 days, the exemption for uninsured motorist cases under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.712(b).

23.04[3] Judicial Council Form of Case Cover Sheet Provides Information to Assist in Classification.

California Judicial Council Form CM-010 consists of a Civil Case Cover Sheet, which provides information for the court's use in classifying the case. The information required in the case cover sheet includes the type of case, whether the case is limited or unlimited, whether the case is complex, the types of remedies sought, the number of causes of action, and whether the case is a class action.

Warning--Plaintiff:

Use of California Judicial Council Form CM-010 is mandatory in most civil actions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.220(b)]. Failure to use Form CM-010 may result in the imposition of sanctions under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.30 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.220(c)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion on the use of California Judicial Council Form CM-010, see Ch. 7, Complaints, 7.20.

23.04[4] Presiding Judge May Assign Judge for All Purposes or Limited Purposes. On the noticed motion of a party or on the court's own motion, the presiding judge may order the assignment of any case to one judge for all or such limited purposes as will promote the efficient administration of justice [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.734]. Some courts automatically assign a pro rata share of all cases to a single judge [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.3(a), (i)].

Chapter 23 Case Management
II. DETERMINING ASSIGNMENT TO DIFFERENTIAL CASE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.05

23.05 Court Considers Specific Factors in Evaluating Assignment to Case Management Program, Exemption From Time Goals, or Assignment to Expedited Plan.

When deciding whether to assign a case to the case management program, declare it exempt, or assign it to an expedited plan, the court will estimate the maximum time that will reasonably be required to dispose of each case in a just and effective manner [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.715(a)]. The court will consider the following factors and any other information it deems relevant, understanding that no one factor or set of factors is controlling and that cases may have unique characteristics incapable of precise definition [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.715(a)(1)-(18)]:

- Type and subject matter of the action;
- Number of causes of action or affirmative defenses alleged;
- Number of parties with separate interests;
- Number of cross-complaints and the subject matter;
- Complexity of issues, including issues of first impression;
- Difficulty in identifying, locating, and serving parties;
- Nature and extent of discovery anticipated;
- Number and location of percipient and expert witnesses;
- Estimated length of trial;
- Whether some or all issues can be arbitrated or resolved through other dispute resolution methods;
- Statutory priority for the issues;
- Likelihood of review by writ or appeal;

- Amount in controversy and the type of remedy sought, including measures of damages;
- Pendency of other actions or proceedings that may affect the case;
- Nature and extent of law and motion proceedings anticipated;
- Nature and extent of the injuries and damages;
- Pendency of underinsured claims; and
- Any other factor that would affect the time for disposition of the case.

Chapter 23 Case Management
III. PARTICIPATING IN CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.06

23.06 CHECKLIST: Participating in Case Management Conferences.

- ☐ Calendar date set by court for case management conference, which may be stamped on face of complaint by clerk.

Timing:

Court will give notice of case management conference at least 45 days before conference is scheduled to occur.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(b)

Discussion:

See 23.08[2]

- ☐ Meet and confer with other parties to determine the issues to be discussed at case management conference.

Timing:

Meet and confer must occur at least 30 days prior to the date set for the case management conference.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.724

Discussion:

See 23.08[4]

- ☐ File and serve on all other parties a case management statement in the form of mandatory

California Judicial Council Form CM-110 or file joint case management statement if possible.

Timing:

Case management statement must be filed and served at least 15 days before the date set for the case management conference.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725

Discussion:

See 23.08[3]

Form:

See 23.58

- ☐ Consider appearance at case management conference.
- ☐ Determine whether court will be requiring appearance.
- ☐ If appearance required, consider appearing by telephone, if court has not required appearance in person and if client has:
- ☐ Made a good faith effort to meet and confer and
- ☐ Timely served and filed a case management statement before the conference date.
- ☐ If appearing by telephone, provide proper notice of intention to do so.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.722(c)-(e), 3.670(c), (e)(2), (g)

Discussion:

See 23.08[5], [6]

Cross Reference:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.18 et seq. (appearance by telephone)

- ☐ Review case management order and calendar the deadlines and other important dates set forth therein.

Discussion:

See 23.10, 23.11

- ☐ If strategically important and in the furtherance of justice, and the opposing party will not stipulate to amendment, make motion to amend case management order.

Timing:

No time constraints on motion to amend, and motion can be made orally at trial.

Discussion:

See 23.10[3]

Forms:

See 23.60 (notice of motion and supporting declaration), 23.61 (order)

Chapter 23 Case Management
III. PARTICIPATING IN CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.07

23.07 Options and Strategies for Parties in Case Management Conference.

Counsel should answer fully and completely all questions in the case management statement, using the mandatory California Judicial Council Form CM-110. Counsel should analyze the case thoroughly before committing to positions on the case management statement because the case management order will control subsequent conduct of the case unless modified [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.730] and the parties may be held to positions taken at the conference. Counsel should use the meet and confer process to discuss and resolve as many issues as possible so that the parties can pinpoint disputed issues and propose solutions during the case management conference.

Judge's Perspective:

Once decisions have been made at the conference, it is not easy to change the overall posture of the case at a later conference. The degree of difficulty or success will depend on whether or not the issue is one that was not anticipated and/or one that both counsel agree no longer are in issue or can be handled in another manner.

Consider--Developing Strengths and Weaknesses of Case:

It is important when attempting to complete the case management statement that all parties work together in an attempt to provide the court with the most accurate information possible. Preparing the case management order provides counsel with an opportunity to begin discussing the relative strengths and weaknesses of the client's legal position as well as beginning the development of a professional relationship that will continue throughout the litigation of the action.

Chapter 23 Case Management
III. PARTICIPATING IN CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.08

23.08 Court Evaluates Nonexempt General Civil Cases at Case Management Conference.

23.08[1] Conference Is Held Within 180 Days After Complaint Filed. For nonexempt general cases, the court will set a case management conference within 180 days after the complaint is filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.721]. Case management conferences are governed by CCP §§ 575-576, Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.720 et seq. and by local rules [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728].

Warning:

Penalties may be imposed for failure to comply with local rules [CCP § 575.2].

Cross Reference:

Initial evaluation and assignment of cases, see 23.04, 23.05.

23.08[2] Notice of Case Management Conference Must Be Given No Later Than 45 Days Before Conference Date. For each general case, the court will give notice of the case management conference no later than 45 days before the date on which the conference is scheduled [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(b)]. The court may provide by local rule the time and manner of giving notice to the parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(b)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of additional case management conference after initial conference, see 23.08[8].

23.08[3] Each Party Must File a Case Management Statement No Later Than 15 Days Before Conference.

23.08[3][a] Use of Judicial Council Form CM-110 Is Mandatory. Each party must file and serve on all other parties a case management statement no later than 15 days prior to the date set for the case management conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(a)]. The case management statement must be in the form of California Judicial Council Form CM-110 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(c)]. All applicable items on the form must be completed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(c)].

Two or more parties may file a joint statement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(b)].

Judge's Perspective:

In the complex litigation program for the Los Angeles Superior Court, counsel are ordered to file a joint initial status conference statement. The joint statement is most helpful and even if counsel are unable to agree as to certain issues at least those issues are framed in one document.

Consider--Filing Joint Statement:

Depending upon the complexity of the litigation and the parties working relationship, it could send a very powerful message to the court if the parties were able to file a joint case management statement.

 Cross Reference:

Form, see 23.58.

23.08[3][b] [Reserved]

23.08[3][c] Signature of Attorney and/or Party Is Required. The signature of the attorney or a party on a case management statement is required and represents that counsel or the party is familiar with the case and fully prepared to discuss the status of discovery, pretrial alternative dispute resolution, and any other issues raised by the statement. The signatures also represent that the signator possesses the authority to enter into written stipulations on the issues raised by the statement [see California Judicial Council Form CM-110].

23.08[3][d] Statement Must Contain Representation That Parties Have Met and Conferred. The case management statement must include a representation that the parties have met and conferred as required by Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.724 or a statement explaining why the meet and confer has not yet taken place [see California Judicial Council Form CM-110, Item 20].

23.08[4] Parties Must Meet Not Later Than 30 Days Before Conference. Not later than 30 days prior to the date set for the case management conference, the parties must meet and confer to determine the issues to be discussed at the case management conference [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.727; for discussion, see § 23.09], as well as the following issues [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.724]:

- Resolution of discovery disputes and the setting of a discovery timetable.
- Identification and possible resolution of anticipated motions.
- Identification of uncontested facts and issues.
- Identifying facts and issues that are in dispute.
- Determination of whether any issues can be narrowed.
- The possibility of settlement.
- Identify availability of parties and counsel for trial, including reasons for unavailability.
- Any issues relating to discovery of electronically stored information.
- Any other relevant matters.

 Cross Reference:

Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California E-Discovery and Evidence.

23.08[5] Parties Are Generally Permitted to Appear by Telephone. Upon proper notice, a party to an action may appear by telephone at case management conferences, provided the party has made a good faith effort to meet and confer and has timely served and filed a case management statement before the conference date [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(c)(1); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(c)].

Exception:

The trial court may order a personal appearance if it determines that appearance in person would materially assist in the effective management of the particular case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)(2)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of appearance by telephone, including notice of intent to appear by telephone, see Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.18 et seq.

23.08[6] Court May Determine That Appearance Is Not Necessary. If the court determines that appearances at the case management conference are not necessary, it may issue a case management order and notify the parties that no appearance is required [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(d)]. Similarly, a court may provide by local rule that parties need not attend a case management conference in limited civil cases, unless ordered to do so by the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.670(e)].

23.08[7] Counsel Must Be Familiar With Case and Prepared to Commit to the Party's Position on the Issues Presented at the Conference. At the case management conference, counsel must be familiar with the case and be prepared to discuss and commit to the party's position on the issues listed in Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.724, 3.727 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(c)].

 Cross References:

Issues listed in Rule 3.727, see 23.09. Issues listed in Rule 3.724, see 23.08[4].

23.08[8] Additional Case Management Conference May Be Held at Any Time. The court on its own motion, or the parties may request that an additional case management conference be held at any time; and in determining whether to hold an additional conference, the court must consider each case individually on its own merits [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.723].

A party is required to appear at the additional conference only if an appearance is necessary for the effective management of the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.723].

Chapter 23 Case Management
III. PARTICIPATING IN CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.09

23.09 Court and Parties Must Address Specific Issues During Case Management Conference.

The initial case management conference is generally the first case management event conducted by court order in each case, except for orders to show cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(a)]. At the case management conference, the court must review the case comprehensively and [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(a)]:

- Decide whether to assign the case to an alternative dispute resolution process.
- Decide whether to set the case for trial.
- Review the requirements of Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.727, 3.728.

At the Case Management Conference, the parties must address, and the court will take appropriate action on, the following issues applicable to the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.727]:

- The existence of related cases.
- Whether all named parties have been served, have appeared, or have been dismissed.
- Whether additional parties will be added or the pleadings amended.
- In a limited civil case, whether the economic litigation procedures of CCP §§ 90-100 will apply to the case.
- Whether there are any other matters, such as bankruptcy of a party that might affect the court's jurisdiction.
- Whether the case should be referred to any form of alternate dispute resolution.
- Whether an early settlement conference should be scheduled [see 23.14 -23.17].
- The status of discovery and the potential for discovery disputes.

- Whether any portion of the case should be bifurcated or a hearing should be set for a motion to bifurcate under CCP § 598 [see 23.20 -23.24].
- Whether there are any cross-complaints that should be severed because they are not ready for trial.
- Whether the case is entitled to any statutory preference [see 23.25 -23.36].
- Whether any party has requested a jury trial [see 23.37 -23.49].
- Setting of a trial date, if not previously set.
- The estimated length of trial.
- The nature of the injuries, the amount of damages and any additional relief being sought.
- Insurance coverage issues.
- Any other matters the court feels should be addressed in its case management order.

Chapter 23 Case Management
III. PARTICIPATING IN CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.10

23.10 Court Issues Case Management Order.

23.10[1] Case Management Order Governs Conduct of Case. The court issues a case management order after it conducts its case review, either at or after the case management conference, or if no case management conference is held, before the date the conference would have been held. Unless modified by a subsequent order, the case management order controls all later action in the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.730].

23.10[2] Case Management Order Sets Pretrial Deadlines and Trial Date. The case management order addresses the following issues [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728]:

- Referral to and, if referred, a date for completion of alternate dispute resolution.
- The trial date, its estimated length, the identity of trial counsel and whether a jury trial has been demanded.

➤ Cross Reference:

Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 3, Notice of Trial.

- The date, time and place for any mandatory settlement conferences under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380, and any further or final case management conference if required by the court.
- Whether all necessary parties have been served or have appeared and whether any unserved defendants should be dismissed or severed.
- Any additional orders that may be appropriate, including orders regarding any of the matters listed in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.727, 3.728 (subjects considered at case management conference and parties meet-and-confer discussions) such as discovery issues and pretrial motions.

➤ Cross References:

Matters listed in Rule 3.727, see 23.09. Issues listed in Rule 3.728, see 23.08[4].

23.10[3] Case Management Order May Be Modified. To prevent injustice, the court has the discretion to modify a case management order on any party's oral motion, or without a motion, provided that the adverse party is not prejudiced by the modification [ Robinson v. Thornton (1969) 271 CA2d 605, 615, 76 CR 835 ; Fresno Air Serv. v. Wood (1965) 232 CA2d 801, 804, 43 CR 276 (both decided under former Rule 216 concerning pretrial conference orders)].

Memoranda in support of and opposition to motion to amend, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 180, Pretrial Proceedings, §§ 180.10, 180.20 (Matthew Bender).

Consider--Agreement:

The degree of success concerning modification of the case management conference is directly dependent on the facts and circumstances that give rise to the modification. Naturally, it is helpful if both counsel concur with respect to the modification.

23.11 Trial Setting Process Differs Depending on Whether Case Is a General Civil Case.

23.11[1] Exempt and Non-Exempt Cases May Be Set for Trial at Case Management Conference Using Various Criteria. Both exempt and non-exempt civil cases may be set for trial at the case management conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(a)].

In setting a case for trial, the court must consider [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.722(a)]:

- Type and subject matter of the action to be tried.
- Whether the case has statutory priority.
- Number of causes of action, cross-actions, and affirmative defenses that will be tried.
- Whether any significant amendments to the pleadings have been made recently or are likely to be made before trial.
- Whether the plaintiff intends to bring a motion to amend the complaint to seek punitive damages under CCP § 425.13.
- Number of parties with separate interests who will be involved in the trial.
- The complexity of the issues to be tried, including issues of first impression.
- Any difficulties in identifying, locating, or serving parties.
- Whether all parties have been served and, if so, the date by which they were served.
- Whether all parties have appeared in the action and, if so, the date by which they appeared.

- How long the attorneys who will try the case have been involved in the action.
- The trial date or dates proposed by the parties and their attorneys.
- The professional and personal schedules of the parties and their attorneys, including any conflicts with previously assigned trial dates or other significant events.
- The amount of discovery, if any, that remains to be conducted in the case.
- The nature and extent of law and motion proceedings anticipated, including whether any motions for summary judgment will be filed.
- Whether any other actions or proceedings that are pending may affect the case.
- The amount in controversy and the type of remedy sought.
- The nature and extent of the injuries or damages, including whether these are ready for determination.
- The court's trial calendar, including the pendency of other trial dates.
- Whether the trial will be a jury or a nonjury trial.
- The anticipated length of trial.
- The number, availability, and locations of witnesses, including witnesses who reside outside the county, state, or country.
- Whether there have been any previous continuances of the trial or delays in setting the case for trial.
- The achievement of a fair, timely, and efficient disposition of the case.
- Any other factor that would significantly affect the determination of the appropriate date of trial.

Warning:

Local rules usually provide the specific procedures for setting a case for trial [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.20] and must be consulted [see, e.g., San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 6.1].

Cross References:

Classification of cases as exempt and non-exempt, see 23.04.

23.11[2] Short Cause and Simple Cases May Be Set for Trial on the Court's Own Initiative. The court may elect to exempt a short cause case from case management review and set it for trial based on its review of the civil case cover sheet or case management conference statement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.735(b)]. The procedure for setting short cause and simple cases for trial varies from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.

23.11[4] In Counties With a Master Calendar, Each Case Must Be Tried, Ordered Off Calendar, Dismissed, or Reassigned. In any county that uses a master calendar, each case that is transferred to a courtroom for trial must be tried, ordered off the calendar, or dismissed, unless good cause arises after the commencement of trial for the court to continue the case, or with the consent of the judge supervising the master calendar, the court reassigns the case to the master calendar judge for further disposition [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 10.910(a)].

Chapter 23 Case Management
III. PARTICIPATING IN CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.12

23.12 Special Rules Apply For Complex Cases.

23.12[1] Party or Court May Designate a Case As Complex. A plaintiff may designate a case as complex on the mandatory civil case cover sheet form [California Judicial Council Form CM-010] filed with the initial complaint [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.401]. The court will then decide as soon as is reasonably practicable whether the action is a complex case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.403(a)]. The court may also decide on its own motion or on that of a party that an action is a complex case or that an action previously designated as a complex case is not a complex case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.403(b)].

Factors considered by the court in deciding whether a case is complex and the types of cases provisionally designated as complex are listed in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.400.

► Cross References:

Discussion of characterization of case as "complex," see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 425, Pretrial Proceedings, § 425.52 (Matthew Bender).

Discussion of complex case management, see Judicial Council of California Deskbook on The Management of Complex Civil Litigation.

❓ Decision Point--Defendant:

A defendant may join the plaintiff in designating the action as a complex case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.402(c)] or may file and serve no later than its first appearance a counter civil case cover sheet counterdesignating the action as not complex. The court then has 30 days after the counterdesignation is filed to determine whether the case is complex [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.402(a)]. Similarly, if the plaintiff has not designated the case as complex, the defendant may do so on the counter civil case cover sheet [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.402(b)].

23.12[2] Complex Cases Should Be Assigned to One Judge. Complex cases should be assigned to one judge for all purposes. If such an assignment is not possible, a single judge should be assigned to hear law and motion matters and discovery matters [Cal Rules Ct, Stds Jud Admin, Std 3.10(b)]. No phase of complex litigation should be assigned to a commissioner, except under the judge's direct supervision to assist in the management of the case [Cal Rules Ct, Stds Jud Admin, Std 3.10(c); Lu v. Superior Court (1997) 55 CA4th 1264, 1267, 1269-1271, 64 CR2d 561 ].

23.12[2A] Initial Case Management Conference.

23.12[2A][a] Initial Case Management Conference in Complex Cases Should Be Held at Earliest Practical Date to Expose Essential Issues. The principal objects of the initial case management conference in complex cases are [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.750(c)]:

- Exposing at an early date the essential issues in the litigation, and
- Avoiding unnecessary and burdensome discovery in the course of preparing for trial of those issues.

Timing:

In a complex case, the court should hold an initial case management conference with all parties represented at the earliest practical date [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.750(a)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of discovery procedures, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

23.12[2A][b] Initial Case Management Conference Must Consider Required Subjects. The initial case management conference in a complex case should consider the following subjects [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.750(a)]:

- Whether all parties named in the complaint or cross-complaint have been served, have appeared, or have been dismissed;
- Whether any additional parties may be added or the pleadings may be amended;
- The deadline for the filing of remaining pleadings and service of additional parties;
- Whether severance, consolidation, or coordination with other actions is desirable;
- The schedule for discovery proceedings to avoid duplication and whether discovery should be stayed until all parties have been brought into the case;
- The schedule for settlement conferences or alternative dispute resolution;
- Whether to appoint liaison or lead counsel;
- The date for the filing of any dispositive motions;
- The creation of preliminary and updated lists of the persons to be deposed and the subjects to be addressed in each deposition;
- The exchange of documents and whether to establish an electronic document depository [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.751];
- Whether a special master should be appointed and the purposes for such appointment;
- Whether to establish a case-based Web site and other means to provide a current master list of addresses and telephone numbers of counsel; and

- The schedule for further conferences.

Cross References:

Discovery procedures, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Civil Discovery.

23.12[2A][c] Court May Order Counsel to Meet and Confer Before Initial Case Management Conference.

The court may order counsel to meet privately before the initial case management conference to discuss the items to be considered in the initial case management conference and to prepare [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.750(d)]:

- A joint statement of matters agreed upon and matters on which the court must rule at the conference, and
- A description of the major legal and factual issues involved in the litigation.

Strategic Point--Electronically Stored Information:

Counsel should schedule early in the litigation process a meet and confer for the purpose of preserving electronically stored information (ESI). The Judicial Council is currently considering whether to require this meet and confer for ESI, and the matter has already been addressed at the federal level [see Fed R Civ P, Rule 26(f)(3)]. If there is no discussion between the parties regarding ESI, a requesting party may not obtain certain ESI that is destroyed by routine computer systems operations. Sanctions also may occur for failing to put a litigation hold in place. If the parties meet and confer on these issues early on, the scope of the litigation may be agreed upon by the parties and ESI can be preserved in the agreed form. For example, the parties could agree on key witnesses in order to preserve specific email accounts.

23.12[3] Complex Cases Are Frequently Exempted From Time Standards Under Trial Court Delay Reduction Act But Are Subject to a Case Progression Plan. Complex cases are often exempted from the time standards imposed by the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act [ Lu v. Superior Court (1997) 55 CA4th 1264, 1268, 64 CR2d 561 ]. When a complex case is exempted, the court will establish a case progression plan and monitor the case with a goal of disposition of three years [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.714(c)(2)]. A detailed case management order may satisfy the requirement for a case progression plan [ Lu v. Superior Court (1997) 55 CA4th 1264, 1268-1269, 64 CR2d 561 (listing items typically covered in a complex case management order)].

Attorneys and parties may be sanctioned for failing to comply with local rules. The sanctions may be authorized by local rule [CCP § 575.2(a)], under the Trial Court Delay Reduction Act by Gov Code § 68608(b), or under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.30 for unlawful interference with the proceedings of the court.

23.14 CHECKLIST: Participating in Settlement Conferences.

- ☐ Decide whether to request any mandatory settlement conferences, or calendar the dates for conferences set by court on its own motion.

Timing:

Make your request at or prior to case management conference because dates for mandatory settlement conference will be set in case management order [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728(10)]. The request can be made on the case management statement form [California Judicial Council Form CM-110, Item 11].

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(a)

Discussion:

See 23.17

Form:

See 23.58

- ☐ File and serve on each party a settlement conference statement.

Timing:

A settlement conference statement must be filed at least five days prior to the date set for the initial settlement conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(c)].

Chapter 23 Case Management

IV. PARTICIPATING IN SETTLEMENT CONFERENCES AND OFFERS TO COMPROMISE

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.16

23.16 Options and Strategies for Parties in Settlement Conferences.

Settlement conferences are governed by Cal Rules Ct, Rules 2.30, 3.1380, 3.1385 and by local court rules [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.9(d), (e)].

Strategic Point:

Even if a mandatory settlement conference is not set in the case management order, counsel may want to consider requesting an early settlement conference. Settlement conferences often act as a "mini trial," allowing counsel to:

- Obtain an idea of the strengths and weaknesses of the opponent's case in a confidential atmosphere;
- Demonstrate the strength of his or her own client's case to the opposing party; and
- Gauge a judge's reaction to each side of the case.

Judge's Perspective:

Timing as to when the case is ready for settlement is the key to success in most instances. The trial judge should discuss settlement with counsel when it is felt that it would be productive. Each case is different. Some cases are ripe for settlement before discovery some can't even come close to settlement until all discovery is completed. Moreover, some judges like settlement, other judges believe that counsel should handle that aspect on their own. It must be remembered that in Fast Track most judges do not have the time to handle their own settlements. In complex litigation it is just the opposite. Virtually all complex litigation judges handle their own settlements.

Consider--ADR:

Counsel will generally be asked, at the initial status conference, whether the parties are willing to enter into a settlement conference or other type of alternative dispute resolution. At the time of the initial status conference counsel should be prepared to consider whether the matter would be appropriate for the court's alternative dispute resolution program or, in the appropriate case, a stipulation reached between the parties to have the matter placed in private mediation. Counsel must be prepared to discuss issues of alternative dispute resolution and should explore them with opposing counsel before the initial status conference.

Chapter 23 Case Management
IV. PARTICIPATING IN SETTLEMENT CONFERENCES AND OFFERS TO COMPROMISE

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.17

23.17 Court May Set Mandatory Settlement Conferences.

23.17[1] Each Party Must Submit a Settlement Conference Statement No Later Than Five Days Before Date Set for Initial Settlement Conference. On the court's own motion or at the request of any party, the court may set mandatory settlement conferences [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(a)]. If mandatory case conferences are scheduled, the court will assign the dates in the case management order [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728(10)].

No later than five court days before the date set for the initial settlement conference, each party must submit to the court and serve on each party a settlement conference statement containing a good faith settlement demand and an itemization of economic and noneconomic damages by each plaintiff and a good faith offer of settlement by each defendant. The statement must identify and discuss in detail all facts and law pertinent to the issues of liability and damages involved in the case as to that party and comply with any additional requirements imposed by local rule [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(c)].

➡ Cross Reference:

Form, see 23.63.

The court may not [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(d)]:

- Appoint a person to conduct a settlement conference under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380 at the same time as that person is serving as a mediator in the same action, or
- Appoint a person to conduct a mediation under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380.

This rules does not prevent the court from appointing a person who has previously served as a mediator in a case to conduct a settlement conference in that case following the conclusion of the mediation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380, Advisory Committee Comment].

23.17[2] Counsel, Parties, and Persons With Full Authority to Settle Must Attend Conference. Trial counsel, parties, and persons with full authority to settle the case must personally attend the conference, unless excused by the court for good cause. If any consent to settle is required for any reason, the party with that consensual authority must be personally present at the conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(b)]. The court may by local rule provide more specific requirements concerning the presence of others at the settlement conference [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.9(d)].

23.17[3] Sanctions May Be Imposed for Failure to Comply With California Rules of Court Concerning Settlement Conferences. Although the court cannot mandate that the parties settle the matter, it may impose sanctions for failure to comply with Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380 [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 2.30].

23.17[4] Plaintiff Must File Written Notice of Any Settlement. If an entire case is settled or otherwise disposed of, the plaintiff or other party seeking affirmative relief must immediately file written notice of the settlement or other disposition with the court and serve the notice on any arbitrator or other court-connected alternative dispute resolution neutral involved in the case. The plaintiff or other party seeking affirmative relief must also immediately give oral notice to all of the above if a hearing, conference, or trial is scheduled to take place within 10 days [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(a)].

Chapter 23 Case Management
IV. PARTICIPATING IN SETTLEMENT CONFERENCES AND OFFERS TO COMPROMISE

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.18

23.18 Not Less Than 10 Days Before Trial, Any Party May Make a Written Offer to Compromise.

23.18[1] Offer to Compromise Deemed Withdrawn If Not Accepted Within 30 Days or at Start of Trial, Whichever Occurs First. Not less than 10 days before trial, any party may serve on any other party a written offer to compromise [CCP § 998(b)]. The offer, if accepted, allows judgment to be taken or an award to be entered in accordance with the terms and conditions stated at that time [CCP § 998(b)]. If the offer is not accepted prior to trial or arbitration or within 30 days after it is made, whichever occurs first, the offer is considered to have been withdrawn [CCP § 998(b)(2)].

Warning:

The party making the offer to compromise should cite to CCP § 998 within the offer so as to place the opposing party on notice that it may be subjected to a statutory cost award if the offer is not accepted. Failure to do so may cause the court to refuse to award costs to the offering party to which costs would otherwise be entitled under CCP § 998 [ Stell v. Jay Hales Dev. Co. (1992) 11 CA4th 1214, 1231-1232, 15 CR2d 220 (settlement proposal making no reference to CCP § 998 and requiring an immediate response not a statutory CCP § 998 offer entitling party to expert witness fees as costs)].

Exceptions:

CCP § 998 does not apply to:

- Offers made by plaintiffs in eminent domain actions [CCP § 998(g)(1)].
- Offers made in any enforcement actions brought by a public prosecutor in the name of the people of the State of California [CCP § 998(g)(2)].
- Offers in labor arbitrations filed pursuant to memoranda of understanding under the Ralph C. Dills Act (Gov Code §§ 3512-3524) [CCP § 998(i)].

Cross Reference:

Detailed coverage of CCP § 998, see Ch. 37, Settlement and Release, 37.03.

23.18[2] When Not Accepted, Offers to Compromise Result in the Shifting of Costs. If an offer made by a defendant is not accepted and the plaintiff fails to obtain a more favorable judgment or award [CCP § 998(c), (e)]:

- The plaintiff cannot recover his or her post offer costs.
- The plaintiff must pay the defendant's costs from the time of the offer.
- Except in eminent domain actions, the court may require the plaintiff to pay the fees of experts used by the defendant.
- The defendant's CCP § 998 costs will be deducted from any damages awarded to the plaintiff.
- If the costs awarded exceed the amount of the damages awarded to the plaintiff, the net amount will be awarded to the defendant and judgment or award will be entered accordingly.

If an offer made by a plaintiff is not accepted and the defendant fails to obtain a more favorable judgment or award in any action or proceeding other than an eminent domain action, the court may require the defendant to pay the plaintiff's costs, including the postoffer fees of experts prepared for and/or used in trial or arbitration [CCP § 998(d)].

Warning:

Counsel should always communicate a CCP § 998 offer to the client immediately with a letter explaining the cost-shifting implications, which can be substantial. Failure to do so may result in malpractice exposure if your client is hit with a large cost bill from the opposing party.

23.19 Parties May Settle Case by Stipulation.

The parties may stipulate in writing or orally before the court for the settlement of the case or part thereof [CCP § 664.6]. The five-year period for bringing a case to trial under CCP § 583.310 is tolled during the time which the settlement agreement is in effect [ Canal Street, Ltd. v. Sorich (2000) 77 CA4th 602, 608, 91 CR2d 811 ].

Strategic Point:

A CCP § 664.6 stipulated settlement is advantageous because its terms can be enforced by noticed motion and the court may retain jurisdiction to enforce the settlement if the parties request [CCP § 664.6].

Chapter 23 Case Management
V. SEEKING AND RESISTING BIFURCATION OF TRIAL

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.20

23.20 CHECKLIST: Moving for Bifurcation of Trial.

23.20[1] Moving Party's Checklist.

- ☐ Determine whether bifurcated trial of special defenses or issues is appropriate:
  - ☐ For a bifurcated trial of special defenses, the answer to the complaint or cross-complaint must do one of the following:
    - ☐ State that the action is barred by the statute of limitations or a prior judgment.
    - ☐ State that another action is pending on the same cause.
    - ☐ Set up a defense not involving the merits of the case but constituting a bar to prosecution.
  - ☐ For a bifurcated trial of certain issues, the convenience of the witnesses, the ends of justice, or the economy and efficiency of handling the litigation must be promoted by the bifurcation.

Timing:

The determination as to whether bifurcated trial of special defenses or issues is appropriate should be made before meeting and conferring with the opposing counsel regarding the case management conference.

Authority:

CCP §§ 597, 597.5, 598, 1048

Discussion:

See 23.23[2], 23.24[1]

- ☐ Meet and confer regarding possible bifurcation as part of case management conference process.

Timing:

The parties must meet and confer at least 30 days before conference.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.724; California Judicial Council Form CM-110, Item 20

Discussion:

See 23.08[4]

- ☐ Indicate intent to request bifurcation of special defenses or issues in case management statement.

Timing:

Case management statement must be filed and served at least 15 days before conference.

Authority:

Discussion:

See 23.22

- ☐ If court does not order bifurcation at case management conference, file motion requesting bifurcation of special defenses or issues. Moving papers should include:

- ☐ Notice of motion.
- ☐ Supporting declaration.
- ☐ Supporting memorandum.
- ☐ Proposed order.
- ☐ Proof of service.

Content Note:

Declaration supporting motion for bifurcation of issues must contain facts showing why the convenience of the witnesses, the ends of justice, or the economy and efficiency of handling the litigation will be promoted by the bifurcation.

Timing:

A motion for a separate trial of defenses may be brought at any time or as a motion in limine at trial. A motion for a separate trial of issues must be heard no later than the pretrial conference (or its equivalent under the court's local rules), or no later than 30 days before trial in cases where no pretrial conference is held [CCP § 598].

Authority:

CCP §§ 597, 597.5, 598, 1048

Discussion:

See 23.23[3], 23.24[1]

Form:

See 23.64 (notice of motion and declaration for separate trial of issues); 23.65 (order)

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

23.20[2] Opposing Party's Checklist.

☐ Review moving party's motion papers and determine whether opposition is appropriate or desirable.

☐ For a bifurcated trial of a special defense, the answer to the complaint or cross-complaint must do one of the following:

☐ State that the action is barred by the statute of limitations or a prior judgment.

☐ State that another action is pending on the same cause.

☐ Set up a defense not involving the merits of the case but constituting a bar to prosecution.

☐ For a bifurcated trial of certain issues, the convenience of the witnesses, the ends of justice, or the economy and efficiency of handling the litigation must be promoted by the bifurcation.

Authority:

CCP §§ 597, 597.5, 598, 1048

Discussion:

See 23.23[3], 23.24[1]

Chapter 23 Case Management
V. SEEKING AND RESISTING BIFURCATION OF TRIAL

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.21

23.21 Options and Strategies Relating to Bifurcation of Trial.

Counsel may wish to move for a bifurcated trial to present evidence in an expeditious and simplified manner, particularly:

- When the court believes a separate trial on liability prior to a trial on damages may obviate the need for a trial on damages because it will lead to a judgment or settlement [ Foreman & Clark Corp. v. Fallon (1971) 3 C3d 875, 888 & n.8];
- To protect the defendant from a needless trial when he or she has a special defense [ People v. Rath Packing Co. (1978) 85 CA3d 308, 337, 149 CR 431 ]; or
- To avoid prejudice to the defendant in a case involving a claim for punitive damages [CC § 3295(d); Las Palmas Associates v. Las Palmas Center Associates (1991) 235 CA3d 1220, 1241, 1 CR2d 301 ].

Decision Point:

In deciding whether to move for a bifurcated trial, counsel should consider not only the efficiency that results from separate trials, but also the effect of bifurcation on the introduction of evidence before a particular audience. For example, in a personal injury case involving a particularly gruesome injury, bifurcation of the liability issue may allow defense counsel to exclude testimony regarding the plaintiff's pain and suffering, which though only relevant to a damage award, would likely be viewed sympathetically by the jury.

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

It is very rare for a plaintiff to seek to bifurcate a trial. Typically the defendants want to bifurcate liability from damages in order to avoid the jury from being "swayed" by the significant injuries the plaintiff may have suffered. Occasionally a plaintiff may, where the medical testimony is extensive, and liability is truly the only issue in dispute, agree to bifurcation as a way of avoiding the costs of a damages presentation at trial. However, this tactic should be used with extreme caution.

Judge's Perspective:

Generally, the decision to bifurcate is based on the potential of early case disposition. But trial judges generally speaking have no predisposition as to particular cases that call out for bifurcation.

V. SEEKING AND RESISTING BIFURCATION OF TRIAL

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.22

23.22 Case Management Statement Must Indicate Intent to Bifurcate.

The case management rules require a party to state whether he or she intends to file a motion for an order bifurcating, severing, or coordinating issues or causes of action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(c); see California Judicial Council Form CM-10] so counsel must consider early in the case whether bifurcation is desirable.

Chapter 23 Case Management
V. SEEKING AND RESISTING BIFURCATION OF TRIAL

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.23

23.23 Court Has Discretion to Order Separate Trial of a Special Defense.

23.23[1] Party May Move for Separate Trial of a Special Defense or It May Be Ordered Sua Sponte. On motion of a party or on its own motion, the court may try any special defenses separately, before other issues in the case are tried [CCP § 597]. The primary purpose for doing so is to protect a defendant from a needless trial when he or she has a special defense [ People v. Rath Packing Co. (1978) 85 CA3d 308, 337, 149 CR 431 ].

23.23[2] Separate Defenses Include Statute of Limitations, Prior Judgment, or Other Pending Actions. If the answer to a complaint or cross-complaint pleads that the action is barred by the statute of limitations or a prior judgment, or that another action is pending on the same cause, or sets up any other defense not involving the merits of the case but constituting a bar to prosecution, the court may proceed to trial on the defense before trying any other issue in the case [CCP § 597].

There is no right to a jury trial on affirmative defenses that can be separately tried. Any factual issues relating to those defenses are tried to the court [ Windsor Square Homeowners Assn. v. Citation Homes (1997) 54 CA4th 547, 558, 62 CR2d 818 (res judicata defense tried to court)].

Strategic Point:

Even when the court denies a motion to bifurcate the trial of a defense because the criteria of CCP § 597 are not met, the party may secure a separate trial of the defense under the court's authority to order the separate trial of issues under CCP § 1048(b) or in accordance with the court's authority under Evid Code § 320 to regulate the order of proof [ Finley v. Superior Court (2000) 80 CA4th 1152, 1162, 96 CR2d 128 ].

Distinguish:

The court's authority under CCP §§ 597, 1048(b) and Evid Code § 320 is discretionary. In contrast, in a medical malpractice action, the court will order a prior, separate trial on a statute of limitations defense raised by a defendant if requested to do so [CCP § 597.5].

Decision Point:

Bifurcation may be advantageous when your client has a strong chance of prevailing on a procedural defense, such as the statute of limitations, or on a substantive defense that requires minimal fact finding, such as agency or duty. These same types of issues lend themselves to resolution by summary judgment or adjudication, which should be considered.

Cross Reference:

Detailed coverage of summary judgment, see Ch. 38, Summary Judgment.

23.23[3] How Motion Can Be Made. CCP § 597 does not provide a particular procedure for making a motion for a separate trial on defenses that do not relate to the merits of the action. Three different practices can be utilized:

- Make a motion on written notice before trial.
- Make a motion in limine before the trial judge [see 23.51 et seq.].
- The court, on its own motion, may order a separate trial in accordance with its discretionary authority to regulate the order of proof under Evid Code § 320 [ Meyer Koulisch Co. v. Cannon (1963) 213 CA2d 419, 429-430, 28 CR 757 ] or pursuant to its power to order a separate trial of the issues under CCP § 598.

Cross References:

Memoranda supporting and opposing motion, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 10, Abatement and Survival of Actions, § 10.30 et seq. (Matthew Bender).

23.23[4] Sustaining of Special Defense May End the Action. When the defense that is separately tried is that another action is pending on the same cause [CCP § 430.10(c)], and only that special defense is sustained, the court enters an interlocutory judgment suspending the trial of all other issues in the case until judgment is entered in the pending action [CCP § 597].

In all other bifurcated cases involving special defenses, a decision in favor of the defendant on the special defense ends the action by the entering of a judgment in the defendant's favor [CCP § 597].

If the decision on the special defense is in the plaintiff's favor, the case will proceed to trial [CCP § 597; see also CCP § 597.5 (in professional negligence action against health care provider, remaining issues will be tried if plaintiff prevails on statute of limitations defense)]. Any judgment at the trial on the merits of the action is entered as though all issues had been tried at the same time [CCP § 597].

Chapter 23 Case Management
V. SEEKING AND RESISTING BIFURCATION OF TRIAL

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.24

23.24 Court Has Discretion to Order Separate Trial of Issues.

23.24[1] Party May Move for Separate Trial of Issues or It May Be Ordered Sua Sponte. Under CCP § 598, the court, on the motion of a party or on its own motion, may also allow a bifurcated trial of any issues when the convenience of witnesses, the ends of justice, or the economy of and efficiency of handling the litigation would be promoted thereby. The court is also authorized by CCP § 1048(b) to order the separate trials of issues or causes of action when doing so promotes convenience, avoids prejudice, or is conducive to expedition and economy [ Finley v. Superior Court (2000) 80 CA4th 1152, 1162, 96 CR2d 128 ]. Finally, the court has the discretion to bifurcate issues on its own motion based on its authority under Evid Code § 320 to regulate the order of proof at trial [ Grappo v. Coventry Fin. Corp. (1991) 235 CA3d 496, 504, 286 CR 714 ].

Timing:

A motion for bifurcation of issues must be heard no later than the pretrial conference in cases in which a pretrial conference is held, or, in other cases, no later than 30 days before trial [CCP § 598]. The court, acting on its own motion, may make the order at any time [CCP § 598].

Cross Reference:

CCP § 598 notice of motion and order for obtaining separate trial of issues, see 23.64, 23.65.

Warning:

Because very few, if any, local rules currently refer to the final conference before trial as a "pretrial conference," counsel should file and serve a bifurcation of issues motion in time to be heard on statutory notice at the conference designated in the local rules as the final conference before trial. If the local rules do not provide for any such conference, counsel should comply with the 30-days-before-trial deadline.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of separate trials of child support and child custody issues [Fam Code §§ 3023, 4003], see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 221, Dissolution of Marriage: Procedure (Matthew Bender).

23.24[2] In Inverse Condemnation Action, Party Has Right to Bifurcated Trial of Liability and Damages. In an inverse condemnation action where the issue is whether private property has been taken or damaged for public use without just compensation [Cal Const, art I, § 19], either party has the right to have the issue of liability bifurcated from the issue of just compensation [ Marshall v. Department of Water & Power (1990) 219 CA3d 1124, 1139-1141, 268 CR 559 ]. In a bifurcated inverse condemnation trial, the issue of liability is tried to the court and a jury determines the amount of damages to be awarded if the plaintiff prevails on liability [ Marshall v. Department of Water & Power (1990) 219 CA3d 1124, 1139-1141, 268 CR 559 ]. Factual liability issues may be submitted to a jury if the parties and the court agree to do so [ Marshall v. Department of Water & Power (1990) 219 CA3d 1124, 1141, 268 CR 559 ].

23.24[3] Decision That No Liability Exists Ends Action. When the issue of liability is tried separately and the issue is decided in favor of the defendant, a judgment is entered in favor of the defendant and the action is finished [CCP § 598].

If the decision on the liability issue is rendered in favor of the plaintiff, trial on the other issues is then held before the same or another jury. Judgment is thereafter entered as though the issues had been tried together [CCP § 598].

23.24[4] In Punitive Damage Cases, Trial on Evidence of Net Worth of Defendant Is Bifurcated. When a defendant against whom punitive damages are sought moves to preclude evidence of its net worth or financial condition, the court will bifurcate the trial so that a trial occurs first on the issues of liability, plaintiff's actual damages, and whether the defendant acted with oppression, malice, or fraud [CC § 3295(d)].

If the jury finds for the plaintiff and the plaintiff proves oppression, malice or, fraud by clear and convincing evidence, a trial will then be held to the same jury to determine the amount of punitive damages to be awarded to the plaintiff, and evidence of the defendant's net worth or financial condition may then be considered by the jury [CC § 3295(d); El Monte v. Superior Court (1994) 29 CA4th 272, 276, 34 CR2d 490 (same jury required unless defendant agrees otherwise); Westrec Marina Management v. Jardine Ins. Brokers Orange County (2000) 85 CA4th 1042, 1049, 102 CR2d 673 (clear and convincing evidence required)].

Distinguish:

In the liability portion of a non-punitive damage trial, most or all evidence relating to damages would be excluded. In the case of a punitive damages trial, the only evidence excluded relates to the financial condition of the defendant [CC § 3295(d)].

 Cross Reference:

SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.25

23.25 CHECKLIST: Moving for Precedence or Preference.

23.25[1] Moving Party's Checklist.

- ☐ Determine whether any statute grants precedence for the type of action involved.

Discussion:

See 23.28

Timing:

Counsel should make this determination prior to filing the case management statement because information regarding precedence must be included therein.

- ☐ Determine whether any grounds exist for preference. Grounds include:
- ☐ Party 70 years of age or older and in poor health.
  - ☐ Party under age 14 in wrongful death or personal injury action.
  - ☐ Party terminally ill or injured.
  - ☐ Preference warranted by the interests of justice.
  - ☐ Plaintiff is victim of felony crime seeking damages from a defendant who has been convicted of perpetrating that crime.

Timing:

Counsel should make this determination prior to filing the case management statement because information regarding preference must be included therein.

Authority:

CCP §§ 36, 37

Discussion:

See 23.29 -23.33

- ☐ If basis for preference exists, request preference on case management statement. Be prepared to submit supporting declaration or medical documentation at case management conference if opposing party will not stipulate to preference.

Authority:

California Judicial Council Form CM-110

Discussion:

See 23.34

Form:

See 23.58

- ☐ Prepare motion for preference. Moving papers should include:

- ☐ Notice of motion.
- ☐ Supporting declaration.
- ☐ Supporting memorandum.
- ☐ Proposed order.
- ☐ Proof of service.

- ☐ File and serve motion and supporting papers.

Timing:

Serve and file a motion for preference at least 16 court days before the first status conference or case management conference that is required under local rules or the date of other hearing on the motion. If party turns 70 years of age during pendency, serve and file motion at any time.

Authority:

VI. MOTIONS FOR PRECEDENCE OR PREFERENCE AND MOTIONS TO ADVANCE, RESET, OR SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.27

23.27 Options and Strategies Relating to Setting Trial Date.

Counsel should determine early on whether the action involved is entitled to precedence or preference, and whether an earlier trial date is advantageous, considering the effect that such precedence or preference will have on the timing of each aspect of the case. If a case is entitled to preference and counsel wants an early trial date, indicate the request and basis for preference on the case management statement [California Judicial Council Form CM-110, Item 9]. In counties that still use at-issue memoranda or memoranda to set, a motion for preference must be served with those filings, unless the court otherwise allows [CCP § 36(c)].

Even if entitled to preference or precedence, a party may not wish to have an early trial date set because it might not leave time for all the discovery counsel wishes to undertake and might not leave time for pretrial motions such as a summary judgment motion, which must be served 105 days before the trial date [CCP § 437c(a)].

Strategic Point--Plaintiff:

Where damages have not yet fully developed counsel may not wish to go to trial until the full nature and extent of the injury suffered by plaintiff is understood. However, typically, the sooner you get trial the better and, therefore, motions for preference should be considered.

Counsel should be ready to try the case at the time set for trial in the case management order because trial dates are firm and all parties and counsel must regard the trial date as certain [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1332(a)].

VI. MOTIONS FOR PRECEDENCE OR PREFERENCE AND MOTIONS TO ADVANCE, RESET, OR SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.28

23.28 Statutory Precedence Is Granted for Certain Actions.

Various statutes give precedence to specific actions and proceedings. Because cases entitled to precedence as a matter of law are covered by the specific statutes, counsel should check the statutes that govern the particular action being filed to determine if a statutory precedence applies. Some examples include:

- B&P Code § 2337 (decision revoking, suspending, or restricting a license to practice medicine).
- CCP § 35 (cases involving voter registration and elections).
- CCP § 527(e) (cases in which preliminary injunction granted (and possibly even when motion is denied)).
- CCP § 1062.3(a) (actions solely for declaratory relief).
- CCP § 1179a (unlawful detainer, forcible entry or detainer actions).
- CCP § 1260.010 (eminent domain proceedings).
- CCP §§ 1141.20(b), 1775.9(b) (after judicial arbitration or an unsuccessful mediation, trial receives same place on active list that it would have occupied but for the arbitration or mediation).
- Gov Code § 66499.37 (actions to review decision of agency or legislative body under the Subdivision Map Act).
- R&T Code § 5149 (actions for refund of property taxes or assessments).

Cross References:

VI. MOTIONS FOR PRECEDENCE OR PREFERENCE AND MOTIONS TO ADVANCE, RESET, OR SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.29

23.29 Preference May Be Granted When Party Is Over 70.

A civil action is entitled to preference on the petition of a party who is over the age of 70 when that party has a substantial interest in the action as a whole and the health of that party is such that preference is necessary to prevent prejudicing the party's interest in the litigation [CCP § 36(a)]. When the court finds that those conditions are met, it must give preference to the case [ Miller v. Superior Court (1990) 221 CA3d 1200, 1204, 270 CR 766 ]. CCP § 36(a) preference is mandatory when its conditions are met [ Swaithes v. Superior Court (1989) 212 CA3d 1082, 1086, 261 CR 41 ].

The preference granted by CCP § 36(a) controls over CCP § 1141.11(a), which mandates arbitration in civil actions involving $50,000 or less. Thus, a matter will not be referred to judicial arbitration if a CCP § 36(a) motion is granted [ Vinokur v. Superior Court (1988) 198 CA3d 500, 503, 243 CR 683 ].

SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.30

23.30 Preference May Be Granted for Wrongful Death or Personal Injury Cases When Party Is Under 14.

A civil action to recover damages for wrongful death or personal injury is entitled to preference on the motion of a party who is under the age of 14 unless the court finds that the party does not have a substantial interest in the case as a whole [CCP § 36(b)]. CCP § 36(b) preference is mandatory when its conditions are met [ Peters v. Superior Court (1989) 212 CA3d 218, 224-226, 260 CR 426 ].

Warning--Plaintiff:

Counsel cannot let a case languish for years and then expect to obtain trial preference by filing a CCP § 36(b) motion. CCP § 36(b) does not affect the court's discretion to dismiss an action for a delay in prosecution under CCP §§ 583.410, 583.420(a)(2) when the plaintiff has been dilatory in moving the case to trial [ Landry v. Berryessa Union Sch. Dist. (1995) 39 CA4th 691, 695-697, 46 CR2d 119 ].

SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.31

23.31 Preference May Be Granted When Party Is Terminally Ill or Injured.

The court may grant a motion for preference that is accompanied by clear and convincing medical documentation concluding that one of the parties suffers from an illness or condition that raises substantial medical doubt of that party surviving beyond six months, and that satisfies the court that the interests of justice will be served by granting the preference [CCP § 36(d)].

A party may move for preference based on the ill health of another party [ Heda v. Superior Court (1990) 225 CA3d 525, 527-528, 275 CR 136 ].

Distinguish:

A declaration from the moving party's counsel based on his or her information and belief as to the medical diagnosis and prognosis of a party over the age of 70 is sufficient for a CCP § 36(a) preference motion [CCP § 36.5]. However, a CCP § 36(d) motion should be supported by a physician's declaration explaining the party's terminal medical condition and authenticating the supporting medical documentation.

23.33 Court May Give Preference for Cases in Which It Determines That Doing So Is in Interest of Justice.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the court may grant a motion for preference that is supported by a showing of cause that satisfies the court that the interests of justice will be served by granting the preference [CCP § 36(e)].

Warning--Plaintiff:

"Cause" justifying a grant of preference under CCP § 36(e) is not established simply by the fact that the preference is necessary to avoid mandatory dismissal, particularly for failure to bring the action to trial within five years of its commencement [ Howard v. Thrifty Drug & Discount Stores (1995) 10 C4th 424, 440, 41 CR2d 362, 895 P2d 469 ]. The trial court will consider all of the circumstances, including the condition of the court calendar, dilatory conduct by plaintiff, prejudice to defendant of an accelerated trial date, and the likelihood of eventual mandatory dismissal if an early trial date is not granted [ Howard v. Thrifty Drug & Discount Stores (1995) 10 C4th 424, 441, 41 CR2d 362, 895 P2d 469 ].

VI. MOTIONS FOR PRECEDENCE OR PREFERENCE AND MOTIONS TO ADVANCE, RESET, OR SPECIALLY SET

23.34 Motion for Preference Must Be Served With Declaration.

Unless the court otherwise orders, a party may file and serve a motion for preference supported by a declaration of the moving party that all essential parties have been served with process or have appeared [CCP § 36(c)]. When supporting documentation regarding a party's medical condition is required [see CCP §§ 36(d), 36.5], counsel must make sure the necessary evidence is before the court by submitting with the notice of motion at least one supporting affidavit or declaration from a physician.

Timing:

Counsel should serve and file a motion for preference in time for it to be heard at the first status conference or case management conference that is required under local rules [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725], in addition to requesting preference on the mandatory case management statement form [see California Judicial Council Form CM-110, Item 9]. Doing so will help to avoid the possible loss of trial preference. The motion and supporting papers must be filed at least 16 court days before the hearing on the motion [CCP § 1005(a)(13), (b)].

Exception:

A motion for preference under CCP § 36(a) may be filed and served at any time by a party who reaches the age of 70 during the pendency of the action [CCP § 36(c)].

Cross Reference:

Making and opposing motions for precedence or preference and motions to advance, reset, or specially set, see California Points and Authorities, Ch. 180, Pretrial Proceedings, §§ 180.50 -180.81 (Matthew Bender).

VI. MOTIONS FOR PRECEDENCE OR PREFERENCE AND MOTIONS TO ADVANCE, RESET, OR SPECIALLY SET

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.35

23.35 If Motion for Preference Is Granted, Trial Must Start Within 120 Days.

When a motion for preference is granted, the court must set the matter for trial not more than 120 days from the date that the motion is granted [CCP § 36(f)]. Continuances may be granted only for physical disability of a party or a party's attorney or for good cause. No continuance may exceed 15 days, and only one continuance for disability will be granted to any party [CCP § 36(f)]. These time limits are compulsory [ Sprowl v. Superior Court (1990) 219 CA3d 777, 781, 268 CR 592 ].

The grant of trial preference may make it impossible for a party to comply with time limits set in other statutes. A court will balance the competing goals of the applicable preference statute and any other statute specifying time limits, so as to give recognition to both while achieving a just result [ Looney v. Superior Court (1993) 16 CA4th 521, 535-536, 20 CR2d 182 ].

Example:

A summary judgment motion must be filed 105 days before the trial date [CCP § 437c(a)]. Counsel will not have time to procure discovery for the motion if preference is granted and the case is set for trial within 120 days pursuant to CCP § 36(f).

23.36 Court May Advance, Reset, or Specially Set Cases When Case Is Entitled to Statutory Precedence or Five-Year Period for Mandatory Dismissal Is About to Expire.

The court may advance, reset, or specially set cases when a case is entitled to statutory precedence [see 23.28].

In addition, the court may advance, reset, or specially set a case when the five-year statutory period for mandatory dismissal under CCP §§ 583.310, 583.360 is close to expiring. A motion to specially set a case to avoid the bar or the five-year statute requires a showing of good cause, diligence and excusable delay [*Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.1335(b), 3.1342(e); Howard v. 23.37 CHECKLIST: Demanding Jury Trial.

23.37[1] Demanding Party's Checklist.

- ☐ Determine whether right to a trial by jury exists for the action involved.
- ☐ Right to trial by jury exists for:
  - ☐ Actions for which a trial by jury is granted by statute, e.g., actions for the recovery of property and breach of contract actions.
  - ☐ Actions for which a trial by jury existed when the California Constitution was adopted in 1850.
  - ☐ Actions for which a trial by jury did not exist in 1850, if the "gist of the action" is one that would have been triable at law if it had existed in 1850.
- ☐ No right to trial by jury exists for equitable actions and some "special proceedings," such as probate and guardianship proceedings.

Authority:

Cal Const, art I, § 16; CCP § 592

Discussion:

See 23.38 -23.42

- ☐ Make demand in case management statement.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(c)

Form:

See 23.58

- ☐ Check local rules to determine whether they contain additional requirements for making a jury trial demand.

Authority:

CCP § 575.1(a)

- ☐ Demand for jury trial will be granted or denied in case management order.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728(4)

Discussion:

See 23.43

- ☐ When party has right to jury trial but does not request it in case management statement, it can file and serve a demand for jury trial if trial date not yet set.

Timing:

Demand must be filed at the time the case is set for trial, or within five days if case was set without notice or stipulation.

Authority:

CCP § 631(d)(4)

Discussion:

See 23.43

- ☐ Party seeking jury trial for entire action or certain factual issues in type of action where jury trial not guaranteed, should file motion demanding jury trial. Moving papers should include:

- ☐ Notice of motion.
- ☐ Supporting declaration.
- ☐ Memorandum of points and authorities.
- ☐ Proposed order.
- ☐ Proof of service.

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

23.37[2] Opposing Party's Checklist.

- ☐ Determine whether a jury trial is authorized by statute or by the California Constitution.

Authority:

Cal Const, art I, § 16; CCP § 592

Discussion:

See 23.38 -23.42

- ☐ Determine whether the moving party has waived a trial by jury by:

- ☐ Contract;
- ☐ Written consent with the clerk or trial judge;
- ☐ Oral consent, in open court, entered into the minutes;
- ☐ Violating local rules for making jury demands.

Authority:

CCP §§ 575.1(a), 631(d)

Discussion:

See 23.48, 23.49

- ☐ If the opposing party feels that a trial by jury is not clearly authorized or that the party has made a waiver, the opposing party should include this in his or her case management statement and be thoroughly prepared to discuss the issue at the case management conference.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.725(c), 3.727(13)

- ☐ If demand for trial by jury is granted, be aware that the demanding party can later waive trial by jury by:

- ☐ Failing to appear at trial;
- ☐ Filing waiver with court;
- ☐ Failing to deposit advance jury fees; or
- ☐ Failing to deposit continuing jury fees and mileage sums.

Authority:CCP § 631(d)Form:See 23.71Discussion:See 23.48[2]*

☐ If jury trial granted without notice in case where jury trial not guaranteed, file motion to vacate setting for jury trial. Motion papers should include:

- ☐ Notice of motion.
- ☐ Supporting declaration.
- ☐ Supporting memorandum.
- ☐ Proposed order.
- ☐ Proof of service.

Chapter 23 Case Management
VII. JURY TRIAL DEMANDS

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.38

23.38 California Constitution Guarantees Right to Trial by Jury When Right Existed at Common Law.

23.38[1] Common Law Right Is Measured at Time California Constitution Was Adopted. The California Constitution guarantees the right to trial by jury when one existed at common law at the time when the California Constitution was adopted in 1850 [Cal Const, art I, § 16; Cornette v. Department of Trans. (2001) 26 C4th 63, 75-76, 109 CR2d 1, 26 P3d 332 ]. Whether the common law in 1850 entitled a certain action to a jury trial is a historical question that is to be determined like any other social, political, or legal fact [ People v. One 1941 Chevrolet Coupe (1951) 37 C2d 283, 286-287 ; County of Sutter v. Davis (1991) 234 CA3d 319, 322-323, 285 CR 736 ].

23.38[2] Right Exists Only for Legal, Not Equitable, Actions. If the "gist of an action," as determined from the pleadings, raises issues that would have been triable at law in 1850, a trial by jury is a matter of right [ Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 1546, 1551, 73 CR2d 462 ; Ripling v. Superior Court (1952) 112 CA2d 399, 402, 247 P2d 117 ]. A cause of action seeking damages is usually legal, allowing a jury trial [ Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1974) 10 C3d 665, 671, 111 CR 693, 517 P2d 1157 ]. However, a party is not entitled to a jury trial in an equitable action [ Interactive Multimedia Artists, Inc. v. Superior Court (1998) 62 CA4th 1546, 1551, 73 CR2d 462 (breach of fiduciary duty by controlling shareholder); C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 C3d 1, 9, 151 CR 323, 587 P2d 1136 (promissory estoppel)]. The "gist of the action" refers to the nature of the rights involved and the facts of the particular case [ C & K Eng'g Contractors v. Amber Steel Co. (1978) 23 C3d 1, 9, 151 CR 323, 587 P2d 1136 ].

When the action presents a mix of legal and equitable issues, the parties are usually entitled to a jury trial on the legal issues [ Arciero Ranches v. Meza (1993) 17 CA4th 114, 124, 21 CR2d 127 ]. The court may elect to try the equitable issues first, without a jury. This is especially true when the equitable issue may dispose of the legal issues [ Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Ass'n (1974) 10 C3d 665, 671, 111 CR 693, 517 P2d 1157 ].

Chapter 23 Case Management
VII. JURY TRIAL DEMANDS

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.39

23.39 Options and Strategies for Jury Trial Demands.

For cases in which the right to trial by jury is guaranteed by statute or by the California Constitution, counsel may elect to demand a jury trial or have the action heard by the court. In deciding whether to demand a jury trial, counsel should balance the expenses of a jury trial, including jury fees, as well as the extra time needed for a jury trial, with the potential benefits of having the action heard and decided by a jury.

Decision Point:

The decision as to whether a jury trial will be demanded must be made fairly early on in the process, as the court will decide whether a jury trial will be allowed when it issues the case management order. The extra costs of a jury trial include the time drafting jury instructions and battling with opposing counsel as to which instructions will be read to the jury, drafting motions in limine to exclude prejudicial evidence, preparing verdict forms, and conducting voir dire of potential jurors.

Judge's Perspective:

The issue of whether or not to proceed with a jury depends in large part on the attorney's comfort level with the trial judge and the type of case. Generally, in complex business cases the trend is to waive jury and proceed with a bench trial.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of deciding whether to request jury or non-jury trial, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 5.03 et seq.

The right to a jury trial in inverse condemnation actions under Cal Const, art I, § 19 is limited solely to the issue of damages. The question of whether the public entity is liable for a taking is decided by the court unless the parties and the court agree otherwise [ *San Diego Gas & Elec. Co. v. ### 23.42 No Right to Jury Trial Exists for Special Proceedings.

Special proceedings are neither actions at law nor suits at equity and are typically established by statute [CCP § 23; People v. Superior Court (2001) 25 C4th 703, 725, 107 CR2d 323, 23 P3d 563 ; Tide Water Assoc. Oil Co. v. Superior Court (1955) 43 C2d 815, 822, 279 P2d 35 ]. Special proceedings are typically initiated by petition or motion to obtain special relief [ People v. Superior Court (2001) 94 CA4th 980, 988, 114 CR2d 760 ; Oak Grove Sch. Dist. v. City Title Ins. Co. (1963) 217 CA2d 678, 710, 32 CR 288 ]. There is no right to a jury trial in special proceedings unless the right is granted by statute [ Cornette v. Department of Transp. (2001) 26 C4th 63, 76, 109 CR2d 1, 26 P3d 332 ].

Special proceedings with no right to a jury trial include probate proceedings and guardianship and conservatorship proceedings [Prob Code §§ 825, 1452].

Exceptions:

Special proceedings in which the right to trial by jury is guaranteed by statute include forcible entry and detainer proceedings [CCP § 1171] and prescriptive easement issues in quiet title actions [CCP § 592].

23.43 Jury Demand Should Be Made In Case Management Statement.

A demand for a jury trial should be made in the case management statement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(c)]. The demand is one of the issues that the court will consider during the case management conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.727(13)]. The court's determination concerning the demand should be stated in the case management order [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728(4)].

If a party has a right to a jury trial but fails to request a jury trial in its case management statement, it should file a demand for jury trial at the at the time the case is first set for trial, if it is set by notice or stipulation, or within five days after notice of setting if it is set without notice or stipulation [CCP § 631(d)(4)].

23.44 Party May Move for Advisory Jury.

In a case in which the right to jury trial is not guaranteed by law (e.g., an equitable action), a party desiring a jury trial may request, and the court in its discretion may approve, the use of an advisory jury [see Advisory Committee Comment (2003) to repealed Cal Rules Ct, Rule 377; Saks v. Charity Mission Baptist Church (2001) 90 CA4th 1116, 1147, 110 CR2d 45 ].

Judge's Perspective:

The use of an advisory jury is rare and its implementation is, for the most part, invoked by the court on its own motion. However, if counsel wish to address that issue it is best to bring it to the court's attention as soon as possible so the trial judge can continually evaluate its use as the issues of the case develop.

23.46 Party Demanding a Trial by Jury Must Deposit Other Jury Fees and Expenses.

Any party requesting a jury trial must deposit with the court, at the beginning of the second and each succeeding day's session, a sum equal to that day's jury fees and mileage, including the fees and mileage for the jury panel if the trial jury has not yet been selected and sworn. If more than one party has demanded a jury trial, the respective amount to be paid daily by each party demanding a jury will be determined by stipulation of the parties or by order of the court [CCP § 631(c)].

Except for government workers receiving their normal compensation during jury duty, who therefore are not entitled to a jury fee [CCP § 215(b)], juror fees are $15 a day for each day's attendance as a juror after the first day [CCP § 215(a)]. Mileage reimbursement is $0.34 per mile actually traveled in going to court as a juror after the first day [CCP § 215(c)].

23.48 Right to Trial by Jury May Be Waived.

23.48[1] Waiver of Jury Trial May Be Contractual. A waiver of a trial by jury may occur prior to litigation via contract [ Powers v. Dickson, Carlson & Campillo (1997) 54 CA4th 1102, 1109, 63 CR2d 261 ; Madden v. Kaiser Found. Hosps. (1976) 17 C3d 699, 712-713, 131 CR 882, 552 P2d 1178 ]. The waiver must be clearly apparent in the contract and in unambiguous and unequivocal language.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of requesting non-jury trial and waiver of right to jury trial, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 5.12 et seq.

23.48[2] Trial by Jury May Be Waived on Statutory Grounds. A party waives the right to a trial by jury [CCP § 631(d)]:

- By failing to appear at the trial.
- By written consent filed with the clerk or judge.
- By oral consent, in open court, entered in the minutes.
- By failing to announce that a jury is required, at the time the cause is first set for trial, if it is set on notice or stipulation, or within five days after notice of setting if it is set without notice or stipulation.
- By failing to deposit with the clerk, or judge, advance jury fees as provided in CCP § 631(b) [see 23.45].
- By failing to deposit with the clerk or judge, at the beginning of the second and each succeeding day's session, the sum provided in CCP § 631(c) [see 23.46].

Cross References:

Form of written consent to waiver, see 23.71.

Discussion of requesting non-jury trial and waiver of right to jury trial, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 5.12 et seq.

23.48[3] Waiver May Survive Reversal on Appeal. If a judgment is reversed for a trial de novo, a party is not bound by its waiver of a jury at the first trial [ Frankel v. Four Star Int'l, Inc. (1980) 104 CA3d 897, 904, 163 CR 902 ]. However, if the cause is remanded on appeal for further proceedings and determination of issues that could have been decided originally, a waiver of jury trial is binding as to the proceedings on remand [ Frankel v. Four Star Int'l, Inc. (1980) 104 CA3d 897, 904, 163 CR 902 ].

VII. JURY TRIAL DEMANDS

23.49 Court Has Discretion to Allow Trial by Jury in Spite of a Waiver.

The court may, in its discretion, on just terms, allow a trial by jury although there may have been a waiver of a trial by jury [CCP § 631(e)]. In deciding whether to allow a trial by jury after a waiver, the court may consider the following factors [ Day v. Rosenthal (1985) 170 CA3d 1125, 1176, 217 CR 89 ]:

- Delay in rescheduling the trial for jury.
- Lack of funds.
- Timeliness of the request.
- Prejudice to the litigants.
- Prejudice to the court or its calendar.
- Reason for the request.
- Whether the other parties desire a jury trial.

When there is doubt as to whether there has been a waiver of the right to a jury trial and doubt as to whether relief from the waiver should be granted, the matter should be resolved in favor of the party who requested a jury trial [ Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 CA4th 405, 411, 5 CR2d 654 ; Oakes v. McCarthy Co. (1968) 267 CA2d 231, 264-265, 73 CR 127 ]. Because public policy favors trials by jury, the trial court should grant relief from a jury waiver, except when to do so would work serious hardship to the objecting party [ Boal v. Price Waterhouse & Co. (1985) 165 CA3d 806, 809, 212 CR 42 ; Wharton v. Superior Court (1991) 231 CA3d 100, 103, 282 CR 349 ]. The objecting party must show some prejudice other than that which may result because of the actual jury trial [ Massie v. AAR W. Skyways, Inc. (1992) 4 CA4th 405, 411, 5 CR2d 654 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.50

23.50 CHECKLIST: Pretrial Conference Preparation.

- ☐ Review local rules to determine whether court holds a pretrial conference, final status conference, final case management conference, or trial readiness conference.

Discussion:

See 23.52

- ☐ Calendar date of or deadline for conference and determine when materials for conference need to be served on other parties and filed or lodged with court.

Discussion:

See 23.52

- ☐ Prepare materials for conference which may include:

- ☐ Motions in limine.
- ☐ Jury instructions.
- ☐ Witness list.
- ☐ Exhibit list.
- ☐ Statement of the case.

Prerequisite:

Many courts require submission of joint exhibit lists and jury instructions so counsel must leave time for meeting and conferring on these issues prior to their submittal to the court.

Timing:

Some courts require all motions, including motions in limine to be heard on CCP § 1005(b) 16-court-day notice before the pretrial conference, so counsel must have desired motions prepared in time [see Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.9(h)].

Discussion:

See 23.53

☐ Determine scope of motion in limine.

☐ Motions in limine may be used to:

☐ Preclude the admission of specific evidence.

☐ Preclude reference by counsel or witnesses to certain matters that may be prejudicial.

☐ Obtain favorable rulings in advance on the admissibility of certain evidence; or ☐ Dismiss all or part of the action based on the exclusion of evidence necessary to support the opposing party's case.

Authority:

☐ Review local rules to determine when motion may be made.

☐ Motions in limine are usually heard and ruled on:

☐ At the final conference before trial; or

☐ On the day trial is scheduled to begin, before the jury is selected.

Discussion:

See 23.54

Timing:

Some courts require motions in limine to be heard on CCP § 1005(b) 16-court-day notice before the final status conference for cases assigned to judges on an individual or all purpose calendar, or 5-days' notice before the final status conference for cases assigned to judges who handle cases on assignment from a Master calendar court [see, e.g., Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.9(h)].

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

☐ If local rules do not specify particular method, decide whether to make the motion in limine orally or with advance written notice.

Discussion:

See 23.54

☐ Make the motion on the record, with all counsel present.

Discussion:

23.51[2] Opposing Party's Checklist.

☐ If motion in limine is written:

☐ Review moving party's motion papers and determine whether opposition is appropriate or desirable.

☐ Prepare and file papers in opposition to the motion, including an opposing memorandum.

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.46

☐ If motion in limine is oral:

- ☐ Indicate opposition and make argument supporting opposing viewpoints.
- ☐ If it seems that court will grant the motion, suggest that the court only grant it subject to an offer of proof at trial.

Chapter 23 Case Management
VIII. PRETRIAL CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.52

23.52 Courts May Hold Pretrial Conferences.

Local rules typically require counsel to attend a final pretrial or status conference on a date between 30 days and five court days before trial. The conference has different names in different counties. The purpose of the conference is to resolve outstanding issues so the parties are ready to proceed to trial on the scheduled trial date. Among the issues that may be addressed are jury instructions, special verdict forms, witness and exhibit lists, motions in limine and major evidentiary issues that may arise, and the expected length of the trial.

Example:

In Los Angeles County Superior Court, counsel attend a final status conference no more than 10 days prior to the trial date. At least five days before the conference, the parties exchange and file lists of prenumbered trial exhibits, witness lists, jury instruction requests and a short statement of the case to be read to the jury. In addition, motions in limine, bifurcation motions and any other trial preparation or dispositive motions, other than summary judgment motions, will be heard at the conference. If the case has been assigned to a single judge ("I/C cases"), all motions, including motions in limine, must be filed and served with statutory notice; i.e., 16 court days before the conference (adding the appropriate number of days if not personally served). In cases not yet assigned to a judge ("M/C cases"), the motions must be filed and served 5 court days before the conference and will be set for hearing on the first day of trial [CCP § 1005(b); Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.9(h)].

Warning:

The court may refuse to consider late-filed motions, which may be critical to the case, if, for example, prejudicial evidence is admitted that could have been excluded by a motion in limine.

Cross Reference:

Discussion of motions in limine, see 23.53, 23.54.

VIII. PRETRIAL CONFERENCES

2-23 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 23.53

23.53 Motions in Limine May Be Used to Exclude Inadmissible or Prejudicial Evidence.

Motions in limine are typically used to exclude certain evidence from introduction before a jury. A motion in limine may be used to exclude evidence either because it is irrelevant or because it is unduly prejudicial [ Pellegrini v. Weiss (2008) 165 CA4th 515, 530, 81 CR3d 387 ; Schweitzer v. Westminster Investments, Inc. (2007) 157 CA4th 1195, 1214, 69 CR3d 472 ; Lucas v. County of Los Angeles (1996) 47 CA4th 277, 284-285, 54 CR2d 655 ]. A typical order granting a motion in limine excludes the evidence and forbids counsel, the parties and witnesses from mentioning it in the presence of the jury [ People v. Morris (1991) 53 C3d 152, 188, 279 CR 720, 807 P2d 949 ].

Motions in limine may also be used to request favorable pretrial rulings on the admissibility of certain evidence, which is useful to a party desiring to introduce a voluminous amount of documentary evidence.

Finally, motions in limine may be used to dismiss the entire action when the effect of granting the motion in limine results in the exclusion of all or the most critical pieces of evidence so that the plaintiff fails to state a cause of action. No separate motion for a judgment on the pleadings is necessary in such a situation [ Coshov v. City of Escondido (2005) 132 CA4th 687, 701-702 ; Clemens v. American Warranty Corp. (1987) 193 CA3d 444, 451, 238 CR 339 ].

Strategic Point:

Although appellate courts have expressed concern about the use of a motion in limine as a substitute for a motion for summary adjudication [ Amtower v. Photon Dynamics, Inc. (2008) 158 CA4th 1582, 1592-1597, 71 CR3d 361 ], such use may be appropriate and strategically desirable. Motions for summary adjudication are usually expensive to prepare and are frequently denied due to caution by the trial court and concern about the risk of reversal on appeal. Because the summary adjudication process occurs in written form with an extended notice period that involves written oppositions supported by lawyer-prepared factual declarations, the procedure is far less likely to elicit spontaneous, honest admissions than might occur in a outside-the-presence of the jury hearing under Evid Code § 402. Although the Court of Appeal in Amtower criticized the use of motions in limine to dispose of a claim, it also stated that "trial courts do have the inherent power to use them in this way." In fact, while the Court of Appeal criticized the procedure it found that any procedural irregularity was harmless because of a concession that the plaintiff made during the pretrial "mini-trial" proceeding [ Amtower v. Photon Dynamics, Inc. (2008) 158 CA4th 1582, 1592-1597, 71 CR3d 361 ]. In contrast to the successful use of the concession in Amtower, the Court of Appeal in Scalf v. D.B. Log Homes, Inc. (2005) 128 CA4th 1510, 1522, 27 CR3d 826 reversed a summary judgment on the ground that a concession that was made in a deposition answer was "simply evidence" and not a "judicial admission" entitled to "conclusive effect to the truth of the matter asserted." Trial testimony is likely to be treated as more conclusive than deposition testimony precisely because the courts assume that by the time of trial the parties and witnesses are prepared for trial and have a reasonably good understanding of the issues.

Example:

The fact that a motion in limine filed after the denial of motion for judgment on the pleadings has the effect of a motion for judgment on the pleadings, in that it has the cumulative effect of an objection to all evidence on the ground that the plaintiff failed to state any cause of action, does not require the defendant to file a renewed motion for judgment on the pleadings under CCP § 1008 [ Coshow v. City of Escondido (2005) 132 CA4th 687, 701-702 ].

23.54 Local Rules Usually Govern Motion in Limine Procedure.

California law does not specify any procedure for making a motion in limine. Local rules usually specify a procedure. Depending on the applicable local rules, motions in limine may be made orally or must be in writing. The notice required for written motions also varies from county to county. In some jurisdictions, a party may make a motion in limine on the day that trial is scheduled to begin, while in others, longer notice is required. Motions in limine are never made before the jury.

Examples:

Los Angeles County requires 16 court days' notice before the final status conference for motions in limine when the case is assigned to a judge on an individual or all purpose calendar, or 5-days' notice before the final status conference for a case assigned to judges who handle cases on assignment from a Master calendar court [Los Angeles Super Ct Rules, Rule 7.9(h); see also CCP § 1005(b)]. San Francisco County requires that motions in limine be personally served five days before the trial date (or ten days if served by mail) [San Francisco Super Ct Rules, Rule 6.2]. Orange County requires the parties to exchange motions in limine at an "issue conference," which must be held at least ten days before trial [Orange Super Ct Rules, Rule 450].

23.55 Motions in Limine May Be Granted Subject to Offer of Proof.

A court may conditionally grant a motion in limine to prevent mention of prejudicial evidence subject to offers of proof at trial. If the probative value of the evidence offered at trial outweighs its prejudicial effect, the trial court may reconsider its prior decision to grant the motion in limine [see Lemer v. Boise Cascade, Inc. (1980) 107 CA3d 1, 9-12, 165 CR 555 ].

23.56 Violation of Order Granting Motion in Limine May Result in Contempt Citation.

If an attorney violates an order granting a motion in limine by referring to the excluded evidence in front of the jury, the attorney may be cited for contempt [CCP § 1209(a)(5); see Charbonneau v. Superior Court (1974) 42 CA3d 505, 507, 116 CR 153 ].

Warning:

The court may grant a motion for a new trial or a declare a mistrial if the violation of the order causes serious prejudice to the opposing party's claims or defenses [CCP § 616; Grimshaw v. Ford Motor Co. (1981) 119 CA3d 757, 793-795, 174 CR 348 ].

Distinguish:

A trial court may not award attorney fees under CCP §§ 128(a)(4), 128.5, 128.7, or 187 for repeated violations of an order in limine [ Clark v. Optical Coating Laboratory, Inc. (2008) 165 CA4th 150, 164-165, 80 CR3d 812 ].

SUPPORTING DECLARATION OF _____ [name]

I, _____ [name], declare:

1. I am _____ [identify declarant, e.g., an attorney at law duly admitted to practice before all the courts of the State of California and the attorney of record herein for _____ (moving party) or other statement as appropriate]. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth herein, and if called to testify, would and could testify competently thereto.

[SET FORTH, in successively numbered paragraphs, facts within declarant's personal knowledge establishing that granting the motion would promote the convenience of witnesses, the ends of justice, or the economy and efficiency of handling the litigation, or any combination of these, e.g.:]

2. Plaintiff's complaint prays judgment against defendant in the sum of $_____ for _____ [specify, e.g., personal injuries therein alleged to have been sustained by plaintiff as the proximate result of defendant's negligence].

3. Defendant has filed an answer in which he/she has _____ [specify, e.g., denied he/she was negligent, denied his/her alleged actions were the proximate cause of plaintiff's alleged injuries, alleged plaintiff was negligent and that such negligence was the proximate cause of plaintiff's injuries, and denied that plaintiff's alleged injuries are of the nature and extent alleged in the complaint].

4. _____ [Plaintiff or Defendant] has demanded a jury trial.

5. The cause is now at issue and ready for _____ [pretrial conference or trial], and _____ [e.g., two] major issues of fact remain to be tried as follows: _____ [specify,

e.g., (a) whether defendant is liable for plaintiff's alleged injuries, and (b) if defendant is liable, the amount of damages recoverable by plaintiff].

6. The _____ [specify ground of motion, e.g., convenience of the witnesses] will be promoted by trying the issue of _____ [e.g., liability] before the issue of _____ [e.g., damages] for these reasons:

[SPECIFY, e.g.]

a. I estimate the trial of this action will take approximately _____ days.

b. I estimate trial of the issue of _____ [e.g., liability] will take approximately _____ days.

c. I estimate trial of the issue of _____ [e.g., damages] will take approximately _____ days.

d. I know of no witnesses who are competent to testify as to _____ [specify, e.g., defendant's alleged negligence or plaintiff's negligence] who are also competent to testify as to _____ [specify, e.g., the nature or extent of plaintiff's alleged injuries].

e. I anticipate that _____ [number] witnesses will be called to testify as to the issue of _____ [specify, e.g., the nature and extent of plaintiff's alleged injuries], none of whom is competent to testify as to _____ [specify, e.g., defendant's alleged negligence or plaintiff's negligence].

f. I know of no special defense herein that is entitled to be tried pursuant to _____ [Code of Civil Procedure Section 597 or Code of Civil Procedure Section 597.5] before trial of the issue of _____ [e.g., liability] herein.

[CONTINUE]

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

The motion of _____ [identify party, e.g., plaintiff] for an order _____ [establishing that this case is entitled to precedence or granting this case a preference] and setting it for _____ [a case management conference or trial] came on regularly for hearing by the court on _____ [date].
Plaintiff appeared by counsel _____ [name]; defendant appeared by counsel _____ [name].

[EITHER, without findings]

On proof made to the satisfaction of the court that the motion ought to be granted,

[OR, with findings (see Code Civ. Proc. § 36(a))]

The Court, having considered the _____ [affidavit(s) or declaration(s)] and other documents in support of and in opposition to the motion, having heard the arguments of counsel, and being fully advised in the matter, finds as follows:

[SET OUT specific findings in as many paragraphs as appropriate, e.g.:]

1. _____ (Identify party, e.g., Plaintiff) has a substantial interest in this action as a whole; and
2. _____'s (Identify party, e.g., Plaintiff's) health is such that a preference is necessary to prevent prejudicing his/her interest in this litigation.

Therefore,

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
I. STRATEGY

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.02

24.02 Objective and Strategy.

24.02[1] Basic Objective Is to Ease Court's Case Load by Providing Prompt, Equitable Resolution of Civil Cases. Judicial arbitration is a mandatory step in pretrial procedure for many cases valued at $50,000 or less. The objective is to use a court-appointed arbitrator in a simplified and economical procedure to obtain prompt and equitable resolution of civil cases, while lightening the court's caseload [see CCP §§ 1141.10, 1141.11(a); Zatkin v. Cesare (1988) 199 CA3d 756, 761, 245 CR 222 ]. Judicial arbitration is nonbinding, but to encourage acceptance, a party who elects trial de novo after arbitration is open to liability for costs and fees if he or she does not obtain a more favorable result after trial [CCP § 1141.20].

24.02[2] Judicial Arbitration Is Distinct From Contractual Arbitration. Judicial arbitration and contractual arbitration are completely different. Significant differences are:

- Contractual arbitration is binding, while a party dissatisfied with a judicial arbitration award may request a trial de novo [ Heenan v. Sobati (2002) 96 CA4th 995, 1000-1001, 117 CR2d 532 ].
- Contractual arbitration takes place outside of court, with judicial involvement limited to enforcement of the award [ Heenan v. Sobati (2002) 96 CA4th 995, 1001, 117 CR2d 532 ].
- CCP §§ 1280-1294.2, governing contractual arbitration, do not apply to judicial arbitration [CCP § 1141.30; Heenan v. Sobati (2002) 96 CA4th 995, 1000, 117 CR2d 532 ].

24.02[3] Parties May Stipulate to Binding Judicial Arbitration. The parties may stipulate to binding judicial arbitration, as an even more inexpensive and efficient method of resolving their dispute [see Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 402 ]. The judicial arbitration statutes and rules will apply, except that the parties will not have the right to request a trial de novo [see Porreco v. Red Top RV Center (1989) 216 CA3d 113, 119, 264 CR 609 ; see also Pratt v. Gursey, Schneider & Co. (2000) 80 CA4th 1105, 1110, 95 CR2d 695 (parties may waive right to appeal arbitrator's decision, making arbitration completely binding)].

Warning:

The client must consent to the agreement [ Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 402-408 ]. Thus, the attorney should obtain the client's signature on the stipulation and confirm that the opposing party, not just opposing counsel, has also signed the stipulation [ Sanker v. Brown (1985) 167 CA3d 1144, 1146-1147, 213 CR 768 (adding party's signature line to stipulation is "an obvious preventive measure")].

A binding judicial arbitration is merely a bench trial in which the parties waive their right to a court reporter and to appeal, and the judge acts as a judicial officer [ Heenan v. Sobati (2002) 96 CA4th 995, 1003, 117 CR2d 532 ]. Any post-trial proceedings, including the entry of judgment and the determination of any award of costs and attorney's fees, must be conducted by the judge who conducted the arbitration, and may not be assigned to another judge for confirmation of the arbitration award [ Heenan v. Sobati (2002) 96 CA4th 995, 1004-1006, 117 CR2d 532 ].

Warning:

If the parties attempt to stipulate to binding judicial arbitration subject to confirmation under the California Arbitration Act [CCP §§ 1280-1294.2], a sitting superior court judge cannot properly conduct the arbitration [ Heenan v. Sobati (2002) 96 CA4th 995, 997, 1000, 117 CR2d 532 ].

Cross Reference:

Form of stipulation, see 24.64.

24.02[4] Judicial Arbitration and Court Mediation Program Are Mutually Exclusive Alternatives.

"Mediation" means a process in which a neutral person or persons facilitate communication between the disputants to assist them in reaching a mutually acceptable agreement [CCP § 1775.1(a)]. It is available as an alternative to judicially mandated arbitration in Los Angeles County as well as other counties that have adopted the mediation program established under CCP §§ 1775-1775.15. Cases referred to mediation cannot later be ordered into judicial arbitration, and cases previously referred to judicial arbitration cannot be ordered into mediation [CCP § 1775.4].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR

II. DETERMINING WHEN ACTIONS ARE SUBJECT TO JUDICIAL ARBITRATION

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.03

24.03 CHECKLIST: Determining When Actions Are Subject to Judicial Arbitration.

24.03[1] Plaintiff's Checklist.

- ☐ Determine if action is subject to mandatory judicial arbitration:
- ☐ Is amount in controversy likely to be $50,000 or less for each plaintiff?
  - ☐ If case is a limited civil case, is judicial arbitration required by local rule?
  - ☐ Is action exempt from arbitration?

Authority:

CCP § 1141.11; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(1)-(3)

Discussion:

See 24.04, 24.06

- ☐ Consider submitting case to judicial arbitration to obtain inexpensive and expeditious determination of claim:
- ☐ If plaintiff agrees to limit any recovery to $50,000:
    - ☐ Prepare, file, and serve plaintiff's election to arbitrate.
  - ☐ If plaintiff does not agree to limit any recovery to $50,000:

- ☐ Attempt to secure defendant's stipulation to submit case to arbitration.

Authority:

CCP § 1141.11(a), (b); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.811(a)(4), (5), 3.812(a)

Discussion:

See 24.05[1], [2][a]

Form:

See 24.64 (stipulation)

- ☐ Prepare for case management conference at which court will determine if action is subject to mandatory judicial arbitration:

- ☐ To postpone conference:

- ☐ File and serve motion for postponement.

- ☐ If arbitration not desired, be prepared to make offer of proof of damages exceeding $50,000 at conference.

- ☐ If all plaintiffs agree to submit case to arbitration:

- ☐ Consider filing election to arbitrate before conference.

- ☐ If election is not filed:

- ☐ At least 30 days before conference, meet and confer with defendant to consider, among other things, whether defendant will stipulate to judicial arbitration or some other form of alternative dispute resolution.

- ☐ If defendant will not stipulate to judicial arbitration, reconsider election waiving damages in excess of $50,000.

- ☐ File and serve mandatory case management statement at least 15 days prior to case management conference.

Authority:

CCP §§ 1141.11(a), (b), 1141.16; Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.724, 3.725, 3.727(6), 3.811(a)(1)-(3)

Discussion:

See 24.04[1][b], [c]

24.03[2] Defendant's Checklist.

☐ Determine if action is subject to mandatory judicial arbitration:

- ☐ Is amount in controversy likely to be $50,000 or less for each plaintiff?
- ☐ If case is a limited civil case, is judicial arbitration of case required by local rule?
- ☐ Is action exempt from arbitration?

Authority:

CCP § 1141.11; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(1)-(3)

Discussion:

See 24.04, 24.06

☐ Prepare for case management conference at which court will determine if action is subject to mandatory judicial arbitration:

- ☐ To postpone conference:
  - ☐ File and serve motion for postponement.
- ☐ If plaintiff has filed election to arbitrate before conference, to postpone arbitration hearing, e.g., to allow time to complete discovery, file and serve motion to delay hearing:
  - ☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.
- ☐ If plaintiff has not filed election and arbitration is desired:
  - ☐ At least 30 days before conference, meet and confer with plaintiff to consider, among other things, whether plaintiff will stipulate to judicial arbitration or some other form of alternative dispute resolution.
- ☐ If plaintiff will not stipulate to judicial arbitration and arbitration is desired:
  - ☐ Prepare to show at conference damages are less than $50,000.
- ☐ File and serve mandatory case management statement at least 15 days prior to case management conference.

Authority:

CCP §§ 1141.11(a), (b), 1141.12(a), (b)(i), 1141.16(c); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.724, 3.725, 3.727(6), 3.811(a)(4), 3.812(a), (b), (d)

Discussion:

See 24.04[1][b], [c], 24.05[1], [2][b]

Form:

See 24.64 (stipulation)

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

- ☐ If defendant has filed cross-complaint:
- ☐ And plaintiff has filed election to arbitrate,
  - ☐ And amount in controversy on cross-complaint is more than $50,000,
  - ☐ File and serve motion to remove case from judicial arbitration.
- ☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.811(b)(8), 3.812(c)

Discussion:

See 24.05[2][c]

Forms:

See 24.65 and 24.66 (motion and order to remove case from hearing list)

Standard Procedure Checklist:

See Ch. 26, Law and Motion Procedure, 26.39

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR

II. DETERMINING WHEN ACTIONS ARE SUBJECT TO JUDICIAL ARBITRATION

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.04

24.04 Mandatory Judicial Arbitration.

24.04[1] Unlimited Civil Cases.

24.04[1][a] Judicial Arbitration Is Required When Amount in Controversy Does Not Exceed $50,000. In a superior court with 18 or more judges, all nonexempt unlimited civil cases in which the amount in controversy does not exceed $50,000 for each plaintiff must be assigned to judicial arbitration [CCP § 1141.11(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(1)]. Superior courts with fewer than 18 judges may provide for mandatory judicial arbitration in these cases by local rule [CCP § 1141.11(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(2)].

Exceptions:

Certain types of actions are exempt from judicial arbitration [see 24.06].

24.04[1][b] Judge Determines Amount in Controversy. A judge determines whether the amount in controversy is $50,000 or less for each plaintiff. The determination of the amount in controversy must be made at a case management conference or based upon review of the written submissions of the parties [CCP § 1141.16(a)]. This determination, and whether any prayer for equitable relief is frivolous or insubstantial is not appealable [CCP § 1141.16(a)].

In determining the amount in controversy, the judge:

- Must base the determination on the total amount of damages, without considering questions of liability or comparative negligence or other defenses [CCP § 1141.16(a)].
- Is not required to accept the plaintiff's demand for damages as the measure of the amount in controversy [ Sharples v. Chole (1994) 29 CA4th 1213, 1218, 35 CR2d 208 ].
- Has the discretion to make a practical assessment of the maximum damages recoverable at trial, presuming liability and disregarding defenses.

Before assigning a case to judicial arbitration, a judge must have some factual basis for determining that the damages the plaintiff claims are significantly inflated and can be discounted below the $50,000 level. If the parties dispute the amount in controversy, they are entitled to the opportunity to make an offer of proof of damages [see Sharples v. Chole (1994) 29 CA4th 1213, 1220, 35 CR2d 208 ].

24.04[1][c] Suitability of Case for Judicial Arbitration Is Determined at Case Management Conference or on the Written Submissions of the Parties. The determination whether a case is suitable for arbitration must be made at the initial case management conference or after all of the parties have appeared or defaulted [CCP § 1141.16(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.727(6), 3.811(d)].

At least 30 days before the conference, the parties must meet and confer, in person or by phone, to consider, among other things, whether the parties wish to stipulate to, or the case should be referred to, judicial arbitration [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.724]. If the parties agree to judicial arbitration, they must jointly complete an ADR stipulation and file it with the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.221, 3.726].

The court's case management order must include any order referring the case to judicial arbitration and the date for completion of the arbitration process [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.728(1), (2)].

Cross References:

Discussion of election to arbitrate, see 24.05[2]. Form of stipulation, see 24.64.

Forms to postpone conference or arbitration hearing, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration, §§ 36.72, 36.73 (Matthew Bender).

24.04[1][d] Judge's Determination of Amount in Controversy Does Not Prevent Arbitrator From Awarding More Than $50,000. A judge's determination that the amount in controversy does not exceed $50,000 does not preclude the arbitrator from awarding more than $50,000 [CCP § 1141.16(b)]. This determination is not admissible in any trial de novo following arbitration [CCP § 1141.16(b)].

Cross References:

Discussion of amount of arbitrator's award, see 24.27. Discussion of what is inadmissible at trial de novo, see 24.41.

24.04[2] Limited Civil Cases.

24.04[2][a] Local Rules May Provide for Submission to Judicial Arbitration. Courts may provide by local rule that all nonexempt limited civil cases must be submitted to mandatory judicial arbitration [CCP § 1141.11(c); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.810(e); see CCP § 85 et seq. (defining "limited civil case")].

Exceptions:

Local rules requiring mandatory judicial arbitration in limited civil cases may not be applied to small claims court actions, unlawful detainer actions, and actions under the Consumers Legal Remedies Act (CC §§ 1750-1784) [CCP § 1141.11(c)]. Other types of actions are also exempt from judicial arbitration [see 24.06].

24.04[2][b] Certain Motor Vehicle Accident Cases Must Be Submitted to Judicial Arbitration. In those courts that have adopted judicial arbitration for limited civil cases, all such cases that involve a claim for money damages against a single defendant resulting from a motor vehicle collision, except those heard in the small claims division, must be submitted to judicial arbitration [CCP § 1141.11(d)(1)].

The term "single defendant" means [CCP § 1141.11(d)(3)]:

- An individual or an entity,
- Two or more persons covered by the same insurance policy, or
- Two or more persons residing in the same household who are uninsured.

Exception:

Mandatory arbitration does not apply if the defendant cross-complains against a third party [CCP § 1141.11(d)(4)].

Timing:

Motor vehicle accident cases against a single defendant must be submitted to arbitration within 120 days after the defendant files an answer to the complaint. The court may extend this time period for good cause [CCP § 1141.11(d)(1)].

A court may provide by local rule for the voluntary or mandatory use of case questionnaires in single-defendant, motor vehicle cases. In this event, the parties must exchange the questionnaires when the defendant answers, and must complete and return them within 60 days [CCP §§ 93, 1141.11(d)(2)].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR

II. DETERMINING WHEN ACTIONS ARE SUBJECT TO JUDICIAL ARBITRATION

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.05

24.05 Voluntary Judicial Arbitration.

24.05[1] Parties May Stipulate to Judicial Arbitration of Civil Case Involving Any Amount. Any civil case may be submitted to judicial arbitration on the parties' stipulation, regardless of the amount in controversy [CCP § 1141.12(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(4)]; although the court may only order a case to judicial arbitration in which the amount in controversy is $50,000 or less [CCP § 1141.11(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)].

The parties may also stipulate to binding arbitration [see Blanton v. Womancare, Inc. (1985) 38 C3d 396, 402] and to the person who will act as the arbitrator [CCP § 1141.18(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812]. The parties to a stipulated arbitration must pay the arbitrator's fee, unlike court-ordered arbitration in which the court pays the fee [CCP § 1141.28]. The limits on post-arbitration discovery that apply to court-ordered arbitration do not apply to arbitration on the parties' stipulation [CCP § 1141.24].

Timing:

The stipulation must be filed no later than the time the initial case management statement is filed, unless a judge orders otherwise, and the case must be set for arbitration forthwith [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812(a)].

Cross References:

Form of stipulation, see 24.64; discussion of binding arbitration, see 24.02[3]; stipulating to arbitrator, see 24.08[1]; payment of arbitrator's fee, see 24.23[3]; post-arbitration discovery, see 24.32.

24.05[2] On Plaintiff's Election.

24.05[2][a] Plaintiff May File Election for Judicial Arbitration. Any civil case may be submitted to judicial arbitration if the plaintiff files an election to arbitrate and agrees that the arbitration award may not exceed $50,000 [see CCP § 1141.12(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812(b)].

Timing:

The plaintiff must file the request no later than the time the initial case management statement is filed, unless a judge orders otherwise [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812(b)].

Warning:

One appellate court has held that a plaintiff who receives the maximum allowable arbitration award of $50,000 is not entitled to request a trial de novo even if the plaintiff concludes that the case is worth more than $50,000 [see Robinson v. Superior Court (1984) 158 CA3d 98, 102-108, 204 CR 366]. Therefore, counsel for the plaintiff should evaluate the case fully before making the decision to limit the amount of the plaintiff's recovery to $50,000. After filing the election to arbitrate, if counsel realizes that the plaintiff's damages may exceed $50,000, a motion to withdraw from arbitration should immediately be filed [ Robinson v. Superior Court (1984) 158 CA3d 98, 106 n12, 108, 204 CR 366 ; see Invicta Plastics, U.S.A., Ltd. v. Superior Court (1981) 120 CA3d 190, 192, n195, 174 CR 476 (withdrawal from arbitration on amendment of complaint to increase amount of damages)].

Cross Reference:

Form of election, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration, § 36.71 (Matthew Bender).

24.05[2][b] Defendant May Move to Delay Arbitration Hearing for Good Cause. On the plaintiff's timely filing of an election to arbitrate, the court must set the case for arbitration forthwith, unless the defendant files a motion to delay the arbitration hearing for good cause [CCP § 1141.16(c); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812(b)].

Cross Reference:

Form of motion and order to delay arbitration hearing, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration, § 36.73 (Matthew Bender).

24.05[2][c] Cross-Complainant May Move for Determination of Amount in Controversy and Removal of Case From Arbitration Hearing List. A cross-complainant may file a motion within 15 days after notice of the plaintiff's election to arbitrate requesting a judicial determination that the amount in controversy relating to the cross-complaint exceeds $50,000; and, on a determination that the cross-complaint does exceed $50,000, the case must be removed from the list of cases assigned to arbitration [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812(c); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(8)].

Cross References:

Forms of motion and order to determine amount in controversy on cross-complaint and remove case from arbitration list, see 24.65 and 24.66.

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR

II. DETERMINING WHEN ACTIONS ARE SUBJECT TO JUDICIAL ARBITRATION

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.06

24.06 Certain Actions Are Exempt From Judicial Arbitration.

A number of actions are exempt from judicial arbitration. They are:

- Actions in which the court determines that the amount in controversy exceeds $50,000 [CCP § 1141.11(a), (b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(a)(1), (2)].
- Actions in which the parties stipulate that the amount in controversy exceeds $50,000 [CCP § 1141.16(a)]. Although the court may not order such a case to judicial arbitration, the parties may stipulate to arbitrate the case [CCP § 1141.12(a), (b)].
- Actions that include a prayer for equitable relief that is not frivolous or insubstantial [CCP § 1141.13; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(1)]. A judge must determine whether the prayer is frivolous or insubstantial at the initial case management conference, and this determination is not appealable [CCP § 1141.16(a)].
- Class actions [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(2)].
- Small claims actions or trials de novo on appeal from the small claims court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(3)].
- Unlawful detainer proceedings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(4)].
- Family Law Act proceedings [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(5)].
- Any action otherwise subject to arbitration that the court finds is not amenable to arbitration because arbitration would not reduce the probable time and expense necessary to resolve the litigation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(6)].
- Any category of actions otherwise subject to arbitration that is excluded by local rule as not amenable to arbitration because, under circumstances relating to the particular court, arbitration of these actions would not reduce the probable time and expense necessary to resolve the litigation [Cal Rules Ct,

Rule 3.811(b)(7)].

- Actions involving multiple causes of action or a cross-complaint if a judge determines that the amount in controversy as to any cause of action or cross-complaint exceeds $50,000 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.811(b)(8)].

III. OBTAINING ASSIGNMENT OF ARBITRATOR

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.07

24.07 CHECKLIST: Obtaining Assignment of Arbitrator.

- ☐ Obtain assignment of arbitrator by:
- ☐ Obtaining other party's stipulation to arbitrator and arbitrator's consent; or
  - ☐ Accepting assignment of arbitrator from court's panel of arbitrators.
  - ☐ To reject any individual, file and serve notice of rejection.

Authority:

CCP § 1141.18(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.814, 3.815(a)

Discussion:

See 24.08

Forms:

See 24.64 (stipulation); 24.67 (rejection)

- ☐ If arbitrator declines to serve, request ADR administrator to appoint new arbitrator.

Authority:

Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(d)

Discussion:

See 24.09

- ☐ If grounds exist for disqualification of arbitrator for cause:

- ☐ Demand arbitrator's disqualification.
- ☐ File and serve motion for disqualification if arbitrator refuses to be disqualified.
- ☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
III. OBTAINING ASSIGNMENT OF ARBITRATOR

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.08

24.08 Method of Assignment.

24.08[1] Parties May Designate Arbitrator by Stipulation. The parties may designate, by stipulation, any person to serve as the arbitrator, including a non-attorney [CCP § 1141.18(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.812]. The stipulation may specify the maximum amount of the arbitrator's award [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(a)].

If the parties select a person who is not on the court's arbitration panel, the stipulation will be effective only if the selected person completes a written consent to serve and the oath required of panel arbitrators, and both the consent and the oath are attached to the stipulation [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(a)].

A stipulation may specify the maximum amount of the arbitrator's award [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(a)].

Timing:

The stipulation must be filed immediately and oral notice of it given no later than 10 days before the case has been set for arbitration [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1385(a)(1)].

Cross Reference:

Form of stipulation, see 24.64.

24.08[2] Assigning Arbitrator From Panel.

24.08[2][a] Each Court Must Have Panel of Available Arbitrators. Each court is required to have a panel of arbitrators who are available to hear cases that have been assigned to judicial arbitration. These arbitrators must be active or inactive members of the State Bar, retired judges, or retired court commissioners [see CCP § 1141.18(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.814].

Finding and Investigating Arbitrators Using Online Resources:

Many resources are available online for finding and investigating potential arbitrators. These resources can help in selecting your preferred arbitrator and in assessing the strengths and weaknesses of the opponent's suggested arbitrator. For example, helpful resources at lexis.com include:

- Legal tab > Reference > Biographies > Biographies.

☐ Sample Search: To find biographical information about an arbitrator, try this NAME segment search of the Biographies file: name (last name /3 first name).

- Legal tab > Area of Law--By Topic > Alternative Dispute Resolution > Access Directories > Martindale-Hubbell(R) Dispute Resolution Directory.

☐ Sample Search: To find basic professional information about dispute resolution practitioners in a particular county, do COUNTY segment search of the Martindale-Hubbell Dispute Resolution Directory in this format: name (last name /3 first name) and geo-scope (ca).

- Legal tab > States Legal--U.S. > California > Search News > General News > California News Publications.

☐ Sample Search: To find news articles about a California arbitrator, search the California News Publications file using this format: first name /3 last name.

- To find articles about or written by an arbitrator, search the law reviews and other periodical articles in Legal tab > Secondary Legal > Law Reviews, CLE, Legal Journals & Periodicals, Combined.

☐ Sample search: For legal articles written by a particular arbitrator, try a simple search: first name /3 last name.

24.08[2][b] Selection Procedure Is Governed by Strict Time Limits. Within 15 days after the case is set for arbitration, the ADR administrator determines the number of clearly adverse sides and selects a random number of names equal to the number of sides, plus one. Each party (or side) has 10 days to reject, in writing, an equal number of names, so that if each party (or side) rejects the maximum number of names permitted, a single name will remain and that arbitrator will be appointed to hear the case. If at the end of 10 days two or more names have not been rejected, the arbitration administrator must appoint one of these persons as the arbitrator [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b)]. Cases submitted to arbitration by stipulation or election must be assigned an arbitrator within 30 days of the time of the submission [CCP § 1141.16(c)].

Cross Reference:

Form for rejection, see 24.67.

24.08[2][c] Selection Procedure in Multi-Party Case Requires Determining Number of Adverse Sides. In a multi-party case, the ADR administrator must determine the number of clearly adverse sides. The ADR administrator may assume there are two sides, unless there is a cross-complaint that brings in a new party. The presiding judge must decide any dispute as to the number or identity of sides in the same manner as a judge determines the number of sides entitled to peremptory challenges of prospective jurors [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b)(1)]. The ADR administrator must select a number of names of potential arbitrators equal to the number of sides, plus one, and must mail a list of these names to counsel for the parties. Counsel have 10 days from the date of mailing to file a written rejection of one name on the list [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b)(2), (3)]. If there are two or more parties on a side, they must join in the rejection [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b)(3)]. On expiration of the 10 day period, the ADR administrator must appoint one of the persons on the list whose name was not rejected [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b)(4)].

Cross Reference:

Form for rejection, see 24.67.

24.08[2][d] Case Must Be Assigned to Appointed Arbitrator. The ADR administrator must assign the case to the appointed arbitrator, and give notice of the appointment to the arbitrator and all parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b)(5)].

24.08[2][e] Local Procedures May Replace Regular Assignment Procedures. Instead of using the procedure set out in Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815, a court may adopt its own procedure for assigning a case to an arbitrator [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(c)].

Strategic Point:

It is not uncommon for the parties to select a mutually agreeable, more experienced arbitrator than one of the court appointed arbitrators. A more experienced and well-known arbitrator will almost always charge much higher fees, which must be paid by the parties, than a court appointed office.

III. OBTAINING ASSIGNMENT OF ARBITRATOR

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.09

24.09 Appointing New Arbitrator.

24.09[1] Required When Arbitrator Declines to Serve or Fails to Hold Timely Hearing. If the arbitrator declines to serve, the ADR administrator must either return the case to the top of the arbitration hearing list and appoint a new arbitrator or certify the case to court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(d)].

24.09[2] Administrator May Certify Case to Court Upon Return From First Assignment; Must Certify Case Upon Second Return. If the second arbitrator selected declines to serve or if the arbitrator does not complete the hearing within 90 days after being assigned the case, including any time for continuances granted under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.818, the ADR administrator must certify the case to court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(e)]. If the inability to hold a hearing was due to the neglect or lack of cooperation of a party who elected or stipulated to arbitration, the case may set the case for trial and make other appropriate orders. Other cases may be ordered reassigned for arbitration, or the court may make other appropriate orders to expedite resolution of the case [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(f)].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
III. OBTAINING ASSIGNMENT OF ARBITRATOR

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.10

24.10 Disqualifying Arbitrator.

24.10[1] Arbitrator May Be Disqualified for Cause.

24.10[1][a] Grounds for Disqualification Are Set Forth in Statute. Any party may request the disqualification of the arbitrator for cause on the grounds and by the procedures specified in CCP § 170.1 for disqualification of a judge for cause [CCP § 1141.18(d)].

The arbitrator is disqualified if any member of the arbitrator's law firm would be disqualified under CCP § 170.1(a)(4), which applies when the member or the member's spouse, or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them, or the spouse of such a person, is a party to the proceeding or an officer, director, or trustee of a party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(a)].

Distinguish:

The arbitrator's failure to hold the arbitration hearing within 90 days from time of appointment under former Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(b) [see now Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.815(e) (90 days from appointment of second arbitrator)] is not a ground for disqualification of the arbitrator or a basis for vacating the judgment entered on the arbitration award. The parties' remedy is to request the ADR administrator to appoint a new arbitrator [ Cabrera v. Plager (1987) 195 CA3d 606, 612, 241 CR 731 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Related discussion pertaining to judges, see Ch. 22, Disqualification of Judge.

24.10[1][b] Arbitrator Must Disqualify Himself If Any Ground for Disqualification Exists. An arbitrator must disqualify himself or herself on the demand of any party made before the conclusion of the arbitration proceedings on any of the grounds specified in CCP § 170.1 [CCP § 1141.18(d)]. An arbitrator has a duty to determine whether any of these grounds for disqualification exists. The arbitrator must promptly notify the ADR administrator of any known ground for disqualification and another arbitrator must be appointed, unless the parties waive the disqualification in writing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(a)].

An arbitrator's failure to disclose a potential cause for disqualification is grounds for vacating the arbitration award [

Kaiser Foundation Hospitals v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 513, 517, 23 CR2d 431 ].

24.10[1][c] If Arbitrator Does Not Disqualify Himself, Party May Move to Vacate Appointment. On motion of any party, made as promptly as possible before the conclusion of the arbitration proceedings, the court must vacate the arbitrator's appointment if the court finds that the moving party demanded the arbitrator's disqualification, the arbitrator failed to disqualify himself or herself, and any of the grounds for disqualification specified in CCP § 170.1 exists. If the appointment is vacated, the ADR administrator must return the case to the top of the arbitration hearing list and appoint a new arbitrator. The court may also order review of the circumstances of the disqualification by the administrative committee, or the presiding judge for appropriate action [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(d)].

Cross References:

Form for request for disqualification, 24.68.

Forms for noticed motion to vacate appointment, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 36, Judicial Arbitration, § 36.77 (Matthew Bender).

24.10[2] Party May Peremptorily Challenge Arbitrator. A party may peremptorily challenge an arbitrator in the same manner as a party may peremptorily challenge a judge under CCP § 170.6 [CCP § 1141.18(d)].

Timing:

Any peremptory challenge must be made within five days after the arbitrator is named [CCP § 1141.18(d)].

Warning:

A party is only entitled to one peremptory challenge per case. A party who exercises this challenge against the arbitrator may not subsequently exercise a peremptory challenge against the judge assigned to hear the trial de novo [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1827, 53 CR2d 536 ].

Cross Reference:

Related discussion pertaining to judges, see Ch. 22, Disqualification of Judge.

24.10[3] Arbitrator Must Make Certain Disclosures. In addition to any other disclosures required by law, an arbitrator must disclose to the parties:

- Any information the arbitrator believes the parties might consider relevant to the question of disqualification, even if the arbitrator believes there is no actual basis for disqualification [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(b)(1); Cal Rules Ct, Code Jud Ethics, Canon 6(D)(5)(a); Roitz v. Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage Co. (1998) 62 CA4th 716, 723, 73 CR2d 85 (arbitrator must use objective standard in deciding whether person aware of facts might doubt his or her impartiality)].
- His or her membership in any organization that practices discrimination [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(b)(1); Cal Rules Ct, Code Jud Ethics, Canon 6(D)(5)(b)].
- Any significant personal or professional relationship he or she has or has had with a party, attorney, or law firm in the case, including the number and nature of any other proceedings in the past 24 months in which the arbitrator has been compensated privately by a party, attorney, law firm, or insurance company in the case for any services, including, but not limited to, service as an attorney, expert witness, or consultant, or as a judge, referee, arbitrator, mediator, settlement facilitator, or other alternative dispute resolution neutral [see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(b)(2); Ceriale v. AMCO Ins. Co. (1996) 48

CA4th 500, 505-506, 55 CR2d 685 (arbitrator must disclose fact that he or she has case assigned for arbitration before attorney involved in case arbitrator is to decide)].

Timing:

The arbitrator must make these disclosures no later than five days before the deadline for the parties to exercise a peremptory challenge against the arbitrator or, if the arbitrator is unaware of his or her appointment or of a matter subject to disclosure at that time, as soon as practicable thereafter [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.816(b)].

IV. PARTICIPATING IN ARBITRATION HEARING

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.12

24.12 Hearing Must Occur Within Specific Timeframe.

The arbitration hearing may not be held until 210 days after the filing of the complaint, or 240 days if the parties stipulated to a one time 30 day continuance [CCP § 1141.16(c)].

Exception:

An arbitration hearing may be held earlier upon any of the following [CCP § 1141.16(c)]:

- The parties stipulate to an earlier date.
- The written consent of all plaintiffs, subject to a motion by a defendant to delay the earlier date for good cause.
- An order of the court if the parties have stipulated, or the court has ordered under CCP § 1141.24, that discovery will be permitted after the arbitration award is rendered.

The hearing must be scheduled to be completed within 90 days from the date the case was assigned to the arbitrator [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.817(c)].

24.13 Arbitrator Provides Notice of Arbitration Hearing.

The arbitrator must notify each party and the ADR administrator, in writing, of the date, time, and place of the hearing, and must do so within 15 days after appointment [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.817(a)].

The arbitrator cannot set the hearing for a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, except on the agreement of all parties and the arbitrator; and at least 30 days notice must be given to all parties of the hearing date [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.817(b)].

24.14 Obtaining Continuance of Hearing.

24.14[1] Parties May Stipulate to Continuance With Arbitrator's Consent. The parties may stipulate to a continuance of the arbitration hearing with the arbitrator's consent, which must be granted on a showing of good cause. Notice of the continuance must be given to the ADR administrator [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.818(a)].

24.14[2] Absent Arbitrator's Consent, Continuance May Be Granted by Court. If the arbitrator does not consent, the court may grant a continuance on a party's motion, for good cause shown [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.818(b)]. If the court grants the motion, the moving party must notify the arbitrator, and the arbitrator must reschedule the hearing, giving notice to all parties [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.818(b)].

An arbitration hearing may not be continued to a date more than 90 days after assignment of the case to the arbitrator, except by court order on a party's motion [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.818(c)].

IV. PARTICIPATING IN ARBITRATION HEARING

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.15

24.15 Limitations on Discovery.

24.15[1] Discovery Is Allowed Up to 15 Days Before Hearing. The parties have a right to conduct discovery up to 15 days before the date of the arbitration hearing. The court may grant an extension of this time on a showing of good cause [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.822].

If the hearing date is continued, the parties have a right to conduct discovery up to 15 days before the new hearing date [see Zinn v. Superior Court (1980) 108 CA3d 583, 588, 166 CR 640 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of the right to conduct discovery after an arbitration award is made, see 24.32.

24.15[2] No Discovery of Defendant's Financial Condition When Punitive Damages Are Sought Unless Court So Orders. At the arbitration hearing, the plaintiff may not compel the defendant to produce evidence of the defendant's financial condition or the profits the defendant has gained by the alleged wrongful conduct, unless the court has entered an order permitting pretrial discovery of this evidence [CCP § 1141.19.5].

Strategic Point:

After judicial arbitration, all discovery is cut off with the exception of expert discover [see 24.32]. This is an important consideration when determining whether to agree to arbitration or mediation. Because mediation does not eliminate the ability to do post-mediation discovery, and post-arbitration discovery is restricted, this factor may make judicial arbitration a less attractive alternative.

24.16[1] Ex Parte Communications Are Not Allowed. Ex parte communications by counsel or the parties with the arbitrator or a potential arbitrator are prohibited, except to set the time and place of the hearing or make other arrangements to conduct the proceedings, as long as the arbitrator reasonably believes that communication will not result in procedural or tactical advantage for any party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.820(b)(1)]. An arbitrator may initiate or consider an ex parte communication when expressly authorized by law to do so [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.820(b)(2)].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
IV. PARTICIPATING IN ARBITRATION HEARING

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.20

24.20 Presenting Evidence at Hearing.

24.20[1] General Rules of Evidence Apply. The rules of evidence governing civil actions apply to an arbitration hearing, except as discussed below [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)].

24.20[2] Documentary Evidence.

24.20[2][a] Documentary Evidence Is Admissible. A wide range of documentary evidence is admissible at the arbitration hearing. Any party may offer the following documentary evidence [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(1)]:

- Written reports of expert witnesses.
- Medical records and bills.
- Documentary evidence of loss of income.
- Property damage repair bills or estimates. Repair estimates must be accompanied (1) by a statement indicating whether the property was repaired and, if so, whether the estimated repairs were in full or in part, and (2) by a copy of the receipted bill showing the items of repair made and the amount paid.
- Police reports about the accident giving rise to the case. The arbitrator may not, however, consider any opinion as to ultimate fault expressed in these reports.
- Other bills and invoices, purchase orders, checks, written contracts, and similar documents prepared and maintained in the ordinary course of business.

24.20[2][b] To Be Admitted, Copies Must Be Delivered to Opposing Party. The arbitrator must receive these documents in evidence if copies have been personally delivered to all opposing parties at least 20 days before the hearing, or if copies have been mailed to all opposing parties at least 25 days before the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(1), (d)].

24.20[2][c] Author or Custodian of Document May Be Subpoenaed. Any other party may subpoena the author or the custodian of the document as a witness, and may examine the witness as if under cross-examination [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(1)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of issuing subpoena, see 24.20[5][a].

24.20[3] Witness Statements.

24.20[3][a] Witness Statements Are Admissible If Certain Requirements Are Met. Written witness statements may be received in evidence at the arbitration hearing if certain requirements are met. The statements are admissible if [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(2)]:

- They are made by affidavit or declaration under penalty of perjury.
- Copies have been personally delivered to all opposing parties at least 20 days before the hearing, or mailed to all opposing parties at least 25 days before the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(d)].
- No opposing party has, at least 10 days before the hearing, delivered to the proponent of the evidence a written demand that the witness be produced in person to testify at the hearing.

 Cross Reference:

Form of demand, see 24.70.

24.20[3][b] Arbitrator Must Disregard Inadmissible Matter. The arbitrator must disregard any portion of a witness's statement that would be inadmissible if the witness were testifying in person. The inclusion of inadmissible matter does not, however, make the entire statement inadmissible [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(2)].

24.20[4] Depositions.

24.20[4][a] Witnesses' Depositions Are Admissible If Certain Requirements Are Met. The deposition of a witness may be offered by any party and must be received in evidence at the arbitration hearing, subject to the objections available under CCP § 2025.410, even if the witness is not unavailable as a witness and no exceptional circumstances exist, if the deposition was taken by stipulation of the parties or in the manner provided for by law, and within the time limits for discovery in an arbitration proceeding [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(3)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of time limits for discovery, see 24.15[1].

24.20[4][b] Proponent Must Notify Opposing Parties of Intention to Offer Deposition. The proponent of the deposition must personally deliver to all opposing parties notice of intention to offer the deposition in evidence at least 20 days before the hearing, or give the opposing parties such notice by mail at least 25 days before the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(d); see 24.69 (form of notice of intention)].

24.20[4][c] Opposing Party May Subpoena Deponent. On receiving notice, the opposing party may subpoena the deponent. Unless the deposition is admissible under CCP § 2025.620, the arbitrator has the discretion to exclude the deposition from evidence or to admit it subject to further cross-examination of the deponent by the subpoenaing party [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(b)(3)].

 Cross Reference:

Discussion of issuing subpoena, see 24.20[5][a].

24.20[5] Compelling Attendance of Witnesses.

24.20[5][a] Witnesses May Be Subpoenaed to Appear at Hearing. Subpoenas may be issued for the attendance of witnesses at the arbitration hearing. The party must modify the subpoena to show that the appearance is before an arbitrator, and must give the time and place of the arbitration hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(c)]. Judicial Council Form SUBP-001 may be used.

24.20[5][b] If Subpoenaed Witness Fails to Appear, Arbitrator May Adjourn or Continue Hearing. The arbitrator has the discretion to adjourn or continue the arbitration hearing on the nonappearance of a properly subpoenaed witness. If a subpoenaed witness refuses to appear, to be sworn or to answer, proceedings to compel compliance with the subpoena on penalty of contempt may be brought in the superior court under CCP § 1991 [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.823(c)].

24.21 Arbitrator's Powers at Hearing

24.21[1] Arbitrator Given Specific Powers to Conduct Hearing. In conducting the arbitration hearing, the arbitrator has specific powers that he or she may exercise. These are [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.824(a)]:

- Administer oaths or affirmation to witnesses.
- Take adjournments on a party's request or on the arbitrator's own initiative when deemed necessary.
- Rule on the admissibility and relevance of offered evidence.
- Examine any site or object relevant to the case.
- Invite the parties, on reasonable notice, to submit trial briefs.
- Decide the law and facts of the case, and make an award accordingly.
- Award costs not exceeding the statutory costs of suit.

All other questions arising out of the case are reserved to the court [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.824(a)].

Example:

An arbitrator does not have the authority to award a plaintiff prejudgment interest under CC § 3291 and CCP § 998; this is a matter for the court to determine [ Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 CA4th 1, 8-10, 29 CR2d 48 ].

Strategic Point--Challenging Arbitrator's Award of Costs:

A party may challenge an arbitrator's award of costs only by filing a request for a trial de novo [see Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 CA4th 1, 6-8, 29 CR2d 48 ]. A party has no right to appeal this award; review by appeal is only available with respect to the court's judgment on the trial de novo [ Dickens v. Lee (1991) 230 CA3d 985, 987-988, 281 CR 783 ].

 Cross References:

Discussion of subsequent court orders, see 24.30. Discussion of trial de novo, see 24.34-24.37.

Discussion of requesting court to order fees if award is silent, see 24.30[2].

24.21[2] Arbitrator May Award Contractual Attorney's Fees. The arbitrator may award attorney's fees under CC § 1717 to a party prevailing in an arbitration proceeding on a contract that provides for attorney's fees. The arbitrator's award of fees or determination of the amount of fees is not appealable, but may be challenged by a request for a trial de novo [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1823-1824, 53 CR2d 536 ].

 Cross References:

Discussion of subsequent court orders, see 24.30. Discussion of trial de novo, see 24.34-24.37.

24.22 Arbitrator May Make Record of Hearing.

An arbitrator may, but is not required to, make a record of the hearing. Any records of the hearing are deemed the arbitrator's personal notes and are not subject to discovery. The arbitrator need not deliver the records to any party or to any other person, except to an employee using the records under the arbitrator's supervision or pursuant to a subpoena issued in a criminal investigation or prosecution for perjury. No other record may be made. The arbitrator may not permit the presence of a stenographer or court reporter or the use of any recording device at the hearing [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.824(b)].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
IV. PARTICIPATING IN ARBITRATION HEARING

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.23

24.23 Arbitrator's Compensation.

24.23[1] Arbitrator Must Submit Fee Statement to Arbitration Administrator. The arbitrator must submit a fee statement to the arbitration administrator promptly on the completion of his or her duties, setting forth the title and number of the case, the date of the arbitration hearing, and the date the arbitration award or notice of settlement was filed with the court [Cal Rules of Ct, Rule 3.819].

An arbitrator may waive compensation in whole or part. If compensation is sought, no compensation may be paid before the arbitrator files the award or before the parties settle the case [CCP § 1141.18(b)].

24.23[2] Payment Is by Case or by Day, Whichever Is Greater. Arbitrators are paid $150 per case or $150 per day, whichever is greater, unless compensation is waived in whole or in part, or unless a higher level of compensation is set by the county board of supervisors [CCP § 1141.18(b)].

24.23[3] Responsibility for Paying Compensation.

24.23[3][a] Mandatory Arbitration Costs Are Paid by Court. In cases subject to mandatory judicial arbitration, all administrative costs of the arbitration, including the arbitrator's compensation, must be paid by the court [CCP § 1141.28(a)].

Strategic Point:

Despite the provisions of CCP § 1141.28(a), in almost all jurisdictions, the courts are no longer paying arbitrators because of budgetary constraints. Typically, the arbitrator agrees to provide up to three hours of hearing time at no charge. Should the hearing go beyond 3 hours, arbitrators request the parties pay for the arbitrator's time, although the parties are not required to agree to do so.

24.23[3][b] Arbitration Costs on Parties' Stipulation Are Shared Equally. In cases referred to judicial arbitration on the parties' stipulation that are not subject to mandatory arbitration, the arbitrator's compensation must be paid in equal shares by the parties [CCP § 1141.28(b)].

Exception:

If the arbitrator determines that imposition of the costs of the arbitration, including the arbitrator's compensation, would create a substantial hardship for a party, then that party's share of the arbitrator's compensation must be paid by the court. The court may review the arbitrator's determination of substantial hardship [CCP § 1141.28(b)].

24.23[4] Payment Is Made Upon Filing Arbitration Award or Settlement Notice. No compensation may be paid to the arbitrator before the timely filing of the arbitration award or notice of settlement of the case [CCP § 1141.18(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.819(a)].

Exceptions:

On the arbitrator's verified ex parte application, the court may, for good cause, authorize payment of compensation when the arbitrator has devoted a substantial amount of time to a case that settled without a hearing or when the award was not timely filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.819(b)].

24.24 Arbitrator May Not Testify in Subsequent Civil Proceedings.

An arbitrator is not competent to testify in any subsequent civil proceedings regarding any statement, conduct, decision, or ruling occurring at or in conjunction with the arbitration proceedings [Evid Code § 703.5]. Thus, the arbitrator may not testify about the arbitration proceedings in any subsequent trial de novo.

Exceptions:

The arbitrator is competent to testify about statements or conduct that could give rise to civil or criminal contempt, constitute a crime, be the subject of an investigation by the State Bar or Commission on Judicial Performance, or give rise to a disqualification proceeding under CCP § 170.1(a)(6) [Evid Code § 703.5].

Discussion:

See 24.26-24.28

☐ Request the court to award the following, as appropriate:

- ☐ Prejudgment interest on the award.
- ☐ Costs, if not awarded by arbitrator.

- ☐ Attorney's fees, if not awarded by arbitrator.
- ☐ Sanctions against opposing party for abuse of arbitration process.

Discussion:

See 24.30

- ☐ Determine if any grounds exist to vacate judgment on award.

- ☐ If so, file and serve motion to vacate within six months after entry of judgment.

Authority:

V. OBTAINING JUDGMENT ON ARBITRATION AWARD

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.26

24.26 Award Must Be in Writing, Signed, and Determine All Issues.

The arbitration award must be in writing and signed by the arbitrator, and must contain a determination of all issues properly raised by the pleadings, including a determination of any damages and an award of costs if appropriate [CCP § 1141.23; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.825(a); see Espinoza v. Machonga (1992) 9 CA4th 268, 270, 11 CR2d 498 (parties may not reserve any issue for decision by court)].

The arbitrator may also award contractual attorney's fees to the prevailing party in an action on a contract that provides for such an award [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1823-1824, 53 CR2d 536 ], but may not award prejudgment interest; this is a matter for the court [ Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 CA4th 1, 8-10, 29 CR2d 48 ].

The arbitrator is not required to issue findings of fact and conclusions of law [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.825(a)].

V. OBTAINING JUDGMENT ON ARBITRATION AWARD

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.28

24.28 Award Must Be Filed and Served Within 10 Days of Hearing's Conclusion.

The arbitrator must file the award with the clerk of the court, with proof of service on each party, within 10 days after the conclusion of the arbitration hearing [CCP § 1141.23; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.825(b)]. The court may allow 20 additional days for the arbitrator to file and serve the award in cases of unusual length or complexity. The arbitrator may file and serve an amended award within the time for filing the award [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.825(b)].

Consider:

The 10-day filing rule is directory only, not jurisdictional and, as a result, the arbitrator does not lose jurisdiction to file the award after the 10-day period [ Koll Hancock Torrey Pines v. Biophysica Foundation, Inc. (1989) 215 CA3d 883, 885-886, 264 CR 36 (arbitration award filed five days late was not invalid); see Lopes v. Millsap (1992) 6 CA4th 1679, 1685-1687, 8 CR2d 814 (same rule applied to amended award filed after 10-day period)].

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.29

24.29 Entering Award As Judgment.

24.29[1] Absent Timely Request for Trial De Novo, Clerk Must Enter Award As Judgment. If a request for a trial de novo is not filed and served within 30 days after the award is filed, the clerk of the court must enter the award as a judgment and mail notice of entry of judgment to all parties who have appeared in the case [CCP § 1141.23; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.827(a), (b)].

► Cross Reference:

Discussion of time for requesting trial de novo, see 24.37.

24.29[2] Judgment May Be Enforced As If Rendered by Court. A judgment on an arbitration award may be enforced as if it had been rendered by the court in which it is entered [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.827(c)].

24.29[3] Parties Have No Right to Appeal. The parties do not have a right to appeal from a judgment entered on a judicial arbitration award [CCP § 1141.23; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.827(c)].

Exceptions:

The parties may appeal from certain postjudgment orders, such as an order striking a request for a trial de novo as untimely [ Mentzer v. Hardoin (1994) 28 CA4th 1365, 1368 n2, 34 CR2d 214 ] and an order denying a motion to vacate or set aside the judgment [ Hughey v. City of Hayward (1994) 24 CA4th 206, 208, 30 CR2d 678 ]. The parties may also appeal from pre-arbitration judicial rulings on claims not submitted to arbitration [see Jennings v. Marralle (1994) 8 C4th 121, 129, 32 CR2d 275, 876 P2d 1074 (appeal from judge's order denying leave to amend complaint to assert additional cause of action)].

► Cross References:

Discussion of appeal from denial of request for trial de novo as untimely, see 24.38[2]. Discussion of appeal from denial of motion to vacate, see 24.31[3].

24.29[4] Award Is Res Judicata in Subsequent Proceeding. A final judicial arbitration award, if clear and unambiguous, is res judicata in any subsequent proceeding on the same cause of action [ Flynn v. Gorton (1989) 207 CA3d 1550, 1555, 255 CR 768 ].

24.29[5] Collateral Estoppel Effect of Award Is Not Clear. It is not clear whether collateral estoppel effect may be given to a judgment based on a judicial arbitration award [see Flynn v. Gorton (1989) 207 CA3d 1550, 1555-1556, 255 CR 768 (collateral estoppel effect should not be given; no record is made of arbitration, and findings of fact and conclusions of law are not required, so that it is difficult to determine what issues were actually determined); see also Vandenberg v. Superior Court (1999) 21 C4th 815, 824 n2, 88 CR2d 366, 982 P2d 229 (holding contractual arbitration award not to have collateral estoppel effect absent agreement, but declining to address effect of judicial arbitration award); but see State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Superior Court (1989) 211 CA3d 5, 12-15 (collateral estoppel effect may be given in an appropriate case)].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
V. OBTAINING JUDGMENT ON ARBITRATION AWARD

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.30

24.30 Subsequent Orders by Court.

24.30[1] Prejudgment Interest May Be Awarded. Prejudgment interest under CC § 3291 and CCP § 998 is recoverable in a judicial arbitration proceeding, but may be awarded only by the court after entry of judgment on the arbitration award [ Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 CA4th 1, 8-10, 29 CR2d 48 ; see Joyce v. Black (1990) 217 CA3d 318, 320 ].

24.30[2] Costs May Be Awarded If Award Silent. Following entry of judgment on an arbitration award, the court may award costs to the prevailing party if the arbitration award is silent as to costs. A prevailing party has a right to recover costs under CCP § 1032(b), and may do so by filing with the court a memorandum of costs under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1700 [ Guevara v. Brand (1992) 8 CA4th 995, 997-998, 10 CR2d 780 ]. A party may appeal a judge's order awarding costs, but a party may not appeal an arbitrator's award of costs [see Dickens v. Lee (1991) 230 CA3d 985, 989, 281 CR 783 ].

24.30[3] Attorney's Fees May Be Awarded. A court may award attorney's fees under CC § 1717 to a party prevailing in the arbitration proceeding based on a contract provision for attorney's fees [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1823-1824, 1831-1834, 53 CR2d 536 ]. If the arbitration award provides that the prevailing party is entitled to recover attorney's fees but does not specify the amount of those fees, a judge may determine the amount on the prevailing party's motion for attorney's fees and entry of judgment on the award. This determination is appealable [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1823-1824, 53 CR2d 536 ].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of recovery of attorney's fees, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 25, Attorney's Fees.

24.30[4] Sanctions May Be Imposed. A court may order a party or a party's attorney to pay monetary sanctions to the opposing party for a failure to participate in judicial arbitration or for an abuse of the arbitration process [see Rietveld v. Rosebud Storage Partners, L.P. (2004) 121 CA4th 250, 255 (violation of local rule); Lyons v. Wickhorst (1986) 42 C3d 911, 918-919, 231 CR 738, 727 P2d 1019 ; Zatkin v. Cesare (1988) 199 CA3d 756, 759, 245 CR 222 ].

Exceptions:

A court may not dismiss the action as a sanction for the plaintiff's misuse of the arbitration process [see Zatkin v. Cesare (1988) 199 CA3d 756, 758, 760-761, 245 CR 222 (rule applies even if plaintiff elects arbitration)], or deny a party's request for a trial de novo for that party's failure to participate in the arbitration process [ Lyons v. Wickhorst (1986) 42 C3d 911, 915, 231 CR 738, 727 P2d 1019 ].

24.30[5] Setoff Is Not Allowed. A court does not have jurisdiction to modify an arbitration award in the plaintiff's favor by granting a setoff against it [see Schumacher v. Ayerve (1992) 9 CA4th 1860, 1863-1865, 12 CR2d 417 ; Pierson v. Honda (1987) 194 CA3d 1411, 1414, 240 CR 148 ].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
V. OBTAINING JUDGMENT ON ARBITRATION AWARD

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.31

24.31 Motion to Vacate Judgment Entered on Award.

24.31[1] Grounds for Motion Are Set Out in Statute. A party against whom a judgment is entered on an arbitration award may file a motion to vacate the judgment. The motion may be made on the following grounds [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)]:

- The arbitrator was subject to a disqualification not disclosed before the hearing and of which the arbitrator was then aware [see Kaiser Foundation Hospitals v. Superior Court (1993) 19 CA4th 513, 517, 23 CR2d 431 ; compare Cabrera v. Plager (1987) 195 CA3d 606, 612, 241 CR 731 (arbitrator's failure to hold hearing within 90 days of appointment does not subject arbitrator to "disqualification" and is not basis for vacating judgment)].
- The judgment was a result of mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [see CCP §§ 473(b), 1141.23; Yeap v. Leake (1997) 60 CA4th 591, 601-602, 70 CR2d 680 (plaintiff entitled to mandatory relief from judgment based on failure of plaintiff's attorney to appear at arbitration hearing and to file and serve timely request for trial de novo); Mentzer v. Hardoin (1994) 28 CA4th 1365, 1369-1372, 34 CR2d 214 (motion based on confusion about deadline for requesting trial de novo resulting from court's procedure of not immediately filing arbitration awards). Relief on this ground is almost invariably sought after the court has rejected a request for a trial de novo as untimely.]
- The award was procured by corruption, fraud, or other undue means [see CCP § 1286.2(a)(1)].
- The arbitrator was corrupt [see CCP § 1286.2(a)(2)].
- The party's rights were substantially prejudiced by the arbitrator's misconduct [see CCP § 1286.2(a)(3)].
- The arbitrator making the award failed to disclose within the time required for disclosure a ground for disqualification of which the arbitrator was then aware [CCP § 1286.2(a)(6); Luce, Forward, Hamilton & Scripps, LLP v. Koch (2008) 162 CA4th 720, 735-736, 75 CR3d 869 (disqualification not required where disclosure not required); Casden Park La Brea Retail LLC v. Ross Dress for Less, Inc. (2008) 162 CA4th 468, 478, 75 CR3d 763 (disqualification not required where disclosure not required); Fininen v. Barlow (2006) 142 CA4th 185, 190, 47 CR3d 687 ].

Exception:

A party to an arbitration agreement may waive the right to have a court vacate an arbitration award on particular grounds otherwise authorized by statute [see Fininen v. Barlow (2006) 142 CA4th 185, 190, 47 CR3d 687 (finding of waiver of right under CCP § 1286.2(a)(6) affirmed)].

These are the only grounds on which the judgment may be vacated [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)]; see, e.g., Koll Hancock Torrey Pines v. Biophysica Foundation, Inc. (1989) 215 CA3d 883, 885-888, 264 CR 36 (arbitrator's failure to file award within 10 days after hearing is not grounds for vacating judgment)].

Cross References:

Form of motion to vacate and order, see 24.71 and 24.72. Discussion of grounds for disqualifying arbitrator for cause, see 24.10[1].

Discussion of relief from judgments and orders under CCP § 473(b) and related equitable relief, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 29.10 et seq.

24.31[2] Motion Must Be Made Within Six Months After Judgment Entered. Any motion to vacate must be filed and served on the adverse parties and the arbitrator within six months after the entry of judgment [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)]. A court lacks jurisdiction to hear a motion filed after this six-month period [ Pierson v. Honda (1987) 194 CA3d 1411, 1415-1416, 240 CR 148 ].

24.31[3] Ruling Is Made by the Court. The motion must be heard and determined by the court, not the arbitrator [ Merritt v. Marks (1985) 175 CA3d 825, 828, 221 CR 88 ].

The court may grant the motion only on clear and convincing evidence that the alleged grounds are true and that the motion was made as soon as practicable after the moving party learned of the existence of the grounds [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(b)].

An order denying the motion is appealable [ Hughey v. City of Hayward (1994) 24 CA4th 206, 208, 30 CR2d 678 ].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
V. OBTAINING JUDGMENT ON ARBITRATION AWARD

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.32

24.32 Discovery Is Generally Not Permitted After Award.

In cases ordered to arbitration after the court has determined that the amount in controversy will not exceed $50,000, discovery is generally not permitted after an arbitration award, other than expert witness discovery under CCP §§ 2034.010-2034.730 [see CCP § 1141.24].

Exceptions:

Discovery is permitted on the parties' stipulation, on a court's order for good cause shown [CCP § 1141.24; see Regan v. Lanet (1987) 197 CA3d 353, 359-361, 243 CR 20 (factors to be considered in determining good cause for discovery); McCormick v. Sentinel Life Ins. Co. (1984) 153 CA3d 1030, 1051-1052, 200 CR 732 (insufficient showing of good cause)]. The limitation on post-award discovery does not apply if the case was submitted to arbitration on the plaintiff's election [ McMillan v. Superior Court (1983) 146 CA3d 1014, 1016-1018, 194 CR 670 ].

VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.33

24.33 CHECKLIST: Requesting Trial de Novo.

- ☐ If dissatisfied with any provision of arbitration award, file and serve request for trial de novo.

Authority:

CCP § 1141.20; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(a)

Discussion:

See 24.34-24.36

Form:

See 24.73

Timing:

Must be filed and served within 30 days after the date the arbitrator filed the award with the court.

- ☐ If 30-day period has expired, file and serve CCP § 473(b) motion for relief from judgment.

Authority:

CCP § 1141.23; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)

Discussion:

See 24.38[1]

Timing:

Must be filed within a reasonable time, but no later than 6 months after entry of judgment.

Authority:

CCP § 473(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)

- ☐ If plaintiff, ensure that case is set for trial before expiration of five-year period.

Authority:

CCP § 1141.17

Discussion:

See 24.40[1]

- ☐ To avoid imposition of costs and fees for failure to obtain a judgment in the trial de novo that is more favorable than the arbitration award, file and serve motion for relief from costs and fees based on substantial economic hardship.

- ☐ Follow standard noticed motion procedure.

Authority:

CCP § 1141.21(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(d)

Discussion:

See 24.42[2][c]

Forms:

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.34

24.34 Make Request to Challenge Award.

24.34[1] Absent Request for Trial De Novo, Award Is Final. An arbitration award is final unless a party files a request for a trial de novo with the clerk of the court [CCP § 1141.20(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(a)].

Warning:

Filing the request with the arbitration administrator is not sufficient [ Usher v. Soltz (1981) 123 CA3d 692, 176 CR 746 ].

Drawback:

The Legislature, seeking to encourage the finality of judicial arbitration awards, has enacted disincentives to requesting a trial de novo, e.g., a party requesting a trial de novo who does not obtain a more favorable judgment is liable for significant costs and fees [CCP § 1141.21(a); see also Bhullar v. Tayyab (1996) 46 CA4th 582, 589, 54 CR2d 17 (discouraging trial de novo is essential to proper functioning of judicial arbitration system, which is intended to ease court case loads as well as to provide means of resolving small claims efficiently and affordably)].

Cross Reference:

Discussion of post-trial liability for costs and attorney's fees, see 24.42[2], [3].

24.34[2] Request Is Only Way to Challenge Orders Included in Award. A request for a trial de novo is the sole method for challenging any order included in an arbitration award. A party waives a challenge to any portion of the award by failing to request a trial de novo [ Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 CA4th 1, 6-8, 29 CR2d 48 (party waives right to challenge arbitrator's cost order by failing to request trial de novo and may not challenge order by appeal from judgment on arbitration award)].

24.34[3] Request Cannot Be Denied for Failure to Participate in Arbitration Proceedings. A court does not have authority under the arbitration statutes or rules, or inherent authority, to deny a party's request for a trial de novo as a sanction for the party's failure to participate in the arbitration proceedings [ Lyons v. Wickhorst (1986) 42 C3d 911, 915, 231 CR 738, 727 P2d 1019 ; Salowitz Organization, Inc. v. Traditional Industries, Inc. (1990) 219 CA3d 797, 802-806, 268 CR 493 ]. The right to a trial de novo is unconditional [ Hebert v. Harn (1982) 133 CA3d 465, 467-470, 184 CR 83 (court cannot impose "good cause" requirement)]. The court may, however, order a party or a party's attorney to pay monetary sanctions to the opposing party for a failure to participate in the arbitration proceeding [see Lyons v. Wickhorst (1986) 42 C3d 911, 918-919, 231 CR 738, 727 P2d 1019 ].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.35

24.35 No Prescribed Form Is Required to Make Request.

The judicial arbitration statutes and rules do not prescribe any particular form for a request for a trial de novo. Parties may use Judicial Council Form ADR-102 to request a trial de novo.

The request must be accompanied by proof of service of the request on all other parties appearing in the case [CCP § 1141.20(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(a)].

In cases decided before the Judicial Council adopted Form ADR-102, the courts held that any form of notice that, in substance, informs both the court and the opposing party of the intent to request a trial de novo is sufficient, and that if the clerk refuses to file such a notice and enters judgment on the arbitration award, the party attempting to file the notice is entitled to relief from the judgment under CCP § 473(b) [see Hanf v. Sunnyview Development, Inc. (1982) 128 CA3d 909, 916, 180 CR 718 (form entitled "Rejection of Arbitrator's Award" was sufficient request); see also Fox Industrial Realty v. Dio Dix, Inc. (1982) 136 CA3d 787, 792, 186 CR 449 (filing at-issue memorandum was sufficient request)].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.36

24.36 Scope and Effect of Request.

24.36[1] Award Is Vacated As to All Issues. A party may request a court or jury trial, both as to law and facts [CCP § 1141.20(b)]. However, a party may not request a trial de novo on some issues and accept the arbitration award on other issues. A request for a trial de novo vacates the arbitration award in its entirety and puts the case at issue as though the arbitration proceedings had not occurred [ Wagy v. Brown (1994) 24 CA4th 1, 7, 29 CR2d 48 ].

24.36[2] Award Is Vacated As to All Plaintiffs. A request for a trial de novo ordinarily vacates the award as to all parties and requires trial of the entire case. One plaintiff's request for a trial de novo precludes the court from entering judgment in favor of another plaintiff who has not joined in the request, when both plaintiffs' claims arise from the same set of circumstances and involve common issues of liability. The only cases excepted from this general rule are those in which the plaintiffs' claims are based on facts and law entirely independent of each other [ Lewco Iron Metals, Inc. v. Superior Court (1999) 76 CA4th 837, 841-845, 90 CR2d 671 ; Demirgian v. Superior Court (1986) 187 CA3d 372, 374-378, 231 CR 698 ].

24.36[3] Award Is Vacated As to All Defendants. A plaintiff's request for a partial trial de novo against one of two defendants is ineffective if the plaintiff's claims against the defendants arise from a single set of facts. In such a case, the plaintiff's request vacates the arbitration award in its entirety. A partial trial de novo against one defendant is permitted only when the plaintiff's claims against the defendants are totally unrelated, both legally and factually [ Muega v. Menocal (1996) 50 CA4th 868, 876-877, 57 CR2d 697 ].

24.36[4] Award Is Vacated As to Cross-Complaint. When a party files a request for a trial de novo, the arbitration award is vacated as to any factually and legally related cross-complaint [ Southern Pacific Transportation Co. v. Mendez Trucking, Inc. (1998) 66 CA4th 691, 694-696, 78 CR2d 236 ].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.37

24.37 Time for Filing and Serving Request.

24.37[1] File and Serve Request Within 30 Days After Award Is Filed. Any request for a trial de novo must be filed with the court and served on all other parties within 30 days after the date the arbitrator files the award with the clerk of the court [CCP § 1141.20(a); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(a)]. A request filed after the parties have been served with a copy of the arbitration award, but before the award is filed with the clerk, is deemed valid and timely filed [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(a)].

24.37[2] 30-Day Period May Not Be Extended or Shortened. The 30-day period within which to file a request for a trial de novo may not be extended [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(a)].

A court may not shorten the time for filing a request for a trial de novo to less than the 30-day period provided by CCP § 1141.20(a) [ Karamzai v. Digitcom (1996) 51 CA4th 547, 550-551, 59 CR2d 139 ].

24.37[3] 30-Day Period Runs From Date Award Is Filed, Not From Date Parties Receive Copy of Award. The 30-day period runs from the date the arbitrator's award is filed, not from the date the parties receive a copy of the award. The time for filing the request is not extended by five days under CCP § 1013(a) when the arbitrator serves the award by mail [ Hanf v. Sunnyview Development, Inc. (1982) 128 CA3d 909, 913 n5, 180 CR 718 ]. However, if the arbitrator fails to serve a party with a copy of the award properly, that party's 30-day time limit for requesting a trial de novo does not begin to run until the party receives actual notice of the award [ Domingo v. Los Angeles County Metro. Transportation Auth. (1999) 74 CA4th 550, 553-556, 88 CR2d 224 ].

24.37[4] Judgment Should Not Be Entered Prior to Expiration of 30-Day Period. When the clerk erroneously enters judgment on an arbitration award before the expiration of the 30-day period, a party seeking a trial de novo is entitled to relief from the judgment under CCP § 473(b) on the ground of "surprise" [see Oats v. Oats (1983) 148 CA3d 416, 421, 196 CR 20 ].

➡ Cross Reference:

Discussion of relief from judgments and orders under CCP § 473(b) and related equitable relief, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 29.10 et seq.

24.37[5] Judgment Should Not Be Entered After Timely Request Is Filed. When the clerk erroneously enters judgment on the arbitration award after a party has timely filed a request for a trial de novo, the party is entitled to relief from the judgment and an order restoring the case to the trial list [see *Fox Industrial Realty v. ## 24.38 Obtaining Relief From Late Filing of Request.

24.38[1] File CCP § 473(b) Motion. A party desiring a trial de novo who fails to file and serve a timely request may seek relief by filing a motion under CCP § 473(b) to vacate the judgment, based on mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect [see CCP § 1141.23; Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)].

Timing:

The motion must be filed within a reasonable time, but no later than six months after entry of the judgment [CCP § 473(b); Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.828(a)].

Consider--Discretionary or Mandatory Relief:

When the requesting party has appeared at the arbitration hearing (in person or through his or her attorney), this party has had his or her "day in court" and thus is only entitled to discretionary, not mandatory, relief under CCP § 473(b) from the failure of the party's attorney to timely file a request for a trial de novo [ Brown v. Williams (2000) 78 CA4th 182, 188-189, 92 CR2d 634 (analogizing party's right to relief in this situation to plaintiff's right to relief from judgment of dismissal following hearing on defendant's motion to dismiss)]. When the party's attorney failed to appear at the hearing and also failed to file a timely request for a trial de novo, the party is entitled to mandatory relief [ Yeap v. Leake (1997) 60 CA4th 591, 598-602, 70 CR2d 680 ]. Mandatory relief will only be granted, however, when the attorney's declaration explains why a timely request for a trial de novo was not filed [ Ayala v. Southwest Leasing & Rental, Inc. (1992) 7 CA4th 40, 44-45, 8 CR2d 637 ].

Discussion of relief from judgments and orders under CCP § 473(b) and related equitable relief, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, 29.10 et seq.

24.38[2] Appeal From Final Judgment. An order striking a party's request for a trial de novo on the ground that it is untimely may also be reviewed on appeal from the final judgment [ Mentzer v. Hardoin (1994) 28 CA4th 1365,

1368 n2, 34 CR2d 214 ].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.39

24.39 Dismissing or Withdrawing Request.

24.39[1] Party May Dismiss or Withdraw Request. A party may dismiss or withdraw a request for a trial de novo before the 30-day period has run, as long as the opposing party's rights are not prejudiced. The parties are restored to their previous positions, and the arbitration award is reinstated [see Miller v. Foremost Motors, Inc. (1993) 16 CA4th 1271, 1275, 20 CR2d 503 ].

When a party dismisses or withdraws a request for a trial de novo after the 30-day period has run, the court may reinstate the arbitration award or, on a showing of prejudice to the opposing party, vacate the dismissal of the request and require the parties to proceed with a trial de novo [ Calderon v. Kane (1995) 36 CA4th 1663, 1668, 43 CR2d 480 ].

24.39[2] Best Practice Is to Make Motion. Although the judicial arbitration statutes and rules do not prescribe any particular procedure for dismissal of a request for a trial de novo, the preferable procedure is to require a party to seek dismissal by a noticed motion since a dismissal affects the opposing party's rights. The judge should grant the motion if it is unopposed and enter judgment on the arbitration award. The judge should deny the motion if the opposing party demonstrates prejudice by having justifiably relied on the other party's request for a trial de novo [ Calderon v. Kane (1995) 36 CA4th 1663, 1668, 43 CR2d 480 ].

24.39[3] Liability for Fee Award Cannot Be Avoided by Dismissal. A plaintiff may not avoid liability for an award of attorney's fees and costs to the defendant as the prevailing party in the arbitration proceeding by dismissing the action. A request for dismissal, with or without prejudice, reinstates the arbitration award, and also repudiates any request by the plaintiff for a trial de novo [ Kelley v. Bredelis (1996) 45 CA4th 1819, 1824-1832, 53 CR2d 536 ; Harris v. Billings (1993) 16 CA4th 1396, 1402, 20 CR2d 718 ].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.40

24.40 Setting Case for Trial de Novo.

24.40[1] Trial Must Be Set for Earliest Possible Date. If a party makes a timely request for a trial after arbitration, the case must proceed as provided under an applicable case management order. If no pending order provides for the prosecution of the case after a request for trial after arbitration, the court must promptly schedule a case management conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826[b]; see CCP § 1141.20(b)].

Warning--Running of Five-Year Statute:

The plaintiff should ensure the case is set for trial before the expiration of the five-year period for bringing the case to trial under CCP § 583.110, because submission of the case to judicial arbitration does not ordinarily toll this five-year period [CCP § 1141.17(a)]. The plaintiff is responsible for informing the court of the date on which the five-year period will expire and requesting a trial date before this date [ Howard v. Thrifty Drug & Discount Stores (1995) 10 C4th 424, 436, 41 CR2d 362, 895 P2d 469 ]. The five-year statute stops running automatically for arbitrations beginning or continuing into the last six months of the five-year period, until the date on which a trial de novo is requested [CCP § 1141.17(b); see Jackson v. Garmon (1990) 217 CA3d 860, 862-866, 266 CR 201 (this tolling provision applies to both voluntary and mandatory judicial arbitration)].

24.40[2] Court May Dismiss Case for Lack Prosecution. Because a case that is submitted to judicial arbitration "is only on a sabbatical from the courthouse," the court retains jurisdiction to dismiss the case for lack of diligent prosecution before, during, and after the arbitration [ Nanfito v. Superior Court (1991) 2 CA4th 315, 319, 2 CR2d 876 ].

VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.41

24.41 Case Tried As If No Arbitration Occurred; Any Reference to Arbitration Is Forbidden.

The case must be tried as if no arbitration proceeding had occurred. No reference may be made during trial to the fact that an arbitration proceeding has been held, to the evidence presented at the arbitration hearing, to the arbitration award, or to any other aspect of the arbitration. None of these matters may be used as affirmative evidence, for purposes of impeachment, or for any other purpose at trial [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(c); see Jimena v. Alesso (1995) 36 CA4th 1028, 1030-1031, 43 CR2d 18 (witness's testimony in judicial arbitration hearing is not admissible to impeach witness's testimony at trial)].

Warning:

Any reference to the arbitration proceeding or award during trial is an irregularity in the proceedings of the trial under CCP § 657 for the purposes of vacating the judgment entered after trial or for granting a new trial [CCP § 1141.25].

Chapter 24 Pretrial ADR
VI. REQUESTING TRIAL DE NOVO

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.42

24.42 Judgment After Trial.

24.42[1] Judgment Must Be Based on Judge's Own Findings. The judge presiding over a trial de novo must make his or her own findings of fact and may not merely adopt the arbitrator's findings. For the judgment to be upheld, the judge's independent decision must be clearly shown by the record [ Weber v. Kessler (1981) 126 CA3d 1033, 1036-1037, 179 CR 299 ].

24.42[2] Award of Costs.

24.42[2][a] Party Who Fails to Obtain More Favorable Judgment Must Pay Costs. If the judgment on the trial de novo is not more favorable than the arbitration award in either the amount of damages awarded or the type of relief granted to the party requesting the trial, the court must order that party to pay to the court the compensation it paid to the arbitrator, and to pay to the opposing parties (1) their allowable costs as specified in CCP § 1033.5, (2) their reasonable costs of expert witnesses (who are not regularly employees of any party) actually incurred or reasonably necessary in the preparation or trial of the case, and (3) any compensation they paid to the arbitrator. These costs are limited to those incurred from the time of the request of the trial de novo, except for the arbitrator's compensation [CCP § 1141.21(a)].

The purpose of this statute is to encourage litigants to accept the arbitrator's decision and to discourage requests for a trial de novo [ Suman v. BMW of North Am., Inc. (1994) 23 CA4th 1, 13, 28 CR2d 133 ].

Exception--Judgment That Exceeds Amount in Controversy:

A party who requests a trial de novo after an arbitration award that exceeds the "amount in controversy" as determined by the court in referring the case to judicial arbitration is not subject to the imposition of these costs if the judgment on the trial de novo also exceeds the amount in controversy [CCP § 1141.26].

➤ Cross Reference:

Discussion of recovery of costs, see Matthew Bender(R) Practice Guide: California Trial and Post-Trial Civil Procedure, Ch. 24, Costs.

24.42[2][b] Unsuccessful Multiple Parties Are Each Liable for Costs. When two or more parties have requested a trial de novo, each is liable for these costs if unsuccessful in the trial de novo [ Boyd v. Oscar Fisher Co. (1989) 210 CA3d 368, 382, 258 CR 473 ].

Distinguish:

A plaintiff who requests a trial de novo as to only one of two defendants may be ordered to pay the costs of the other defendant who also requests a trial de novo and prevails at trial [see Muega v. Menocal (1996) 50 CA4th 868, 875, 57 CR2d 697 (fact that plaintiff did not seek trial de novo against this defendant does not preclude liability)].

24.42[2][c] Costs May Not Be Imposed If Results in Substantial Economic Hardship. The court may refuse to impose costs if finding that doing so would create such a substantial economic hardship for the unsuccessful party as not to be in the interest of justice [CCP § 1141.21(a)(1); see Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.826(d)].

 Cross Reference:

Forms of motion and order that imposing costs will cause substantial economic hardship, see 24.74 and 24.75.

24.42[2][d] Costs May Be Imposed Against Party Proceeding in Forma Pauperis Only As Offset Against Award. If the party requesting the trial de novo has proceeded in forma pauperis, the opposing party's costs under CCP § 1033.5 and costs of expert witnesses may be imposed only as an offset against any damages awarded in the requesting party's favor [CCP § 1141.21(b)]. The party may be required to pay to the court the compensation it paid to the arbitrator only to the extent there remains a sufficient amount in the judgment after the amounts offset for the opposing party's costs have been deducted from the judgment [CCP § 1141.21(c)].

24.42[3] Unsuccessful Party Liable for Authorized Attorney's Fees. Under CCP § 1141.21, the court must award costs, including attorney's fees if authorized by contract, statute, or law, when the party requesting the trial de novo does not obtain a judgment that is more favorable than the arbitration award [ Bhullar v. Tayyab (1996) 46 CA4th 582, 587-591, 54 CR2d 17 (such fees are recoverable as costs under CCP § 1033.5(a)(10))].

2-24 MB Practice Guide: CA Pretrial Civil Procedure 24.44

24.44 Civil Action Mediation Act Applies in Los Angeles, but Any Other County May Elect to Apply the Program.

The Civil Action Mediation Act establishes a procedure in Los Angeles County, under which the court may refer cases to appropriate dispute resolution processes such as judicial arbitration and mediation as an alternative to trial, consistent with the parties' right to obtain a trial if a dispute is not resolved through an alternative process [CCP §§ 1775(e), 1775.2]. Any other county may elect to apply the program [CCP §§ 1775(e), 1775.2(b)].

24.45 Court Must Have Case Management Conference to Determine Suitability for ADR.

All general civil cases, unless excepted by local rule, must have a case management conference at which the court must determine whether the case should be referred to an alternative dispute resolution process and, if so, the date by which the process is to be completed [Cal Rules Ct, Rules 3.721, 3.722(a), 3.727(6)].

Strategic Point:

Although trial courts may try to cajole the parties in complex actions into stipulating to private mediation, a trial court does not have the inherent authority under CCP §§ 128(a)(3), 187 to order parties in a complex civil action to attend and pay for private mediation because the Civil Action Mediation Program, CCP § 1775 et seq. emphasizes the voluntary nature of mediation and Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.853(2) allows a party to withdraw from mediation at any time [ Jeld-Wen, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 146 CA4th 536, 540-543, 53 CR3d 115 ].

- Whether the parties wish to stipulate to or the case should be referred to mediation or any other form of alternative dispute resolution,
- The date by which the ADR must be completed, and
- Settlement.

The parties must file and serve a mandatory case management statement 15 calendar days before the date set for the case management conference [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.725(a)]. The court may not [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380(d)]:

- Appoint a person to conduct a mandatory settlement conference under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380 at the same time as that person is serving as a mediator in the same action, or
- Appoint a person to conduct a mediation under Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380.

Strategic Point:

The Advisory Committee Comment to Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.1380 explains that subdivision (d) is not intended to discourage settlement conferences or mediations. However, problems have arisen in several cases, such as Jeld-Wen, Inc. v. Superior Court (2007) 146 CA4th 536, 53 CR3d 115, when distinctions between different ADR processes have been blurred. To prevent confusion about the confidentiality of the proceedings, it is important to clearly distinguish between settlement conferences held under this rule and mediations. The special confidentiality requirements for mediations established by Evid Code §§ 1115-1128 expressly do not apply to settlement conferences under this rule. This provision is not intended to prohibit a court from appointing a person who has previously served as a mediator in a case to conduct a settlement conference in that case following the conclusion of the mediation.

Under Cal Rules Ct effective January 1, 2011, courts that supply lists of mediators to parties or that recommend, select, appoint, or compensate mediators to mediate general civil cases pending in the court must establish minimum qualifications for those mediators [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 10.781, as amended effective January 1, 2011].

24.54 Court-Appointed Mediators Are Paid $150 per Case or per Day.

Court-appointed mediators are paid $150 per case or per day, whichever is greater, except that no compensation shall be paid before the mediator files a statement of nonagreement or the parties settle the action [CCP § 1775.8(a)]. Higher rates may be set in a county or city and county by the board of supervisors [CCP § 1775.8(a)]. Volunteers may also be available who will serve without compensation.

Strategic Point:

It is quite common for the parties to select a mutually agreeable and more experienced mediator than the one who would be appointed by the court. Mediation is an art form and having an appropriate mediator is essential to the potential resolution of a case. A more well-known mediator will typically charge a much higher fee than the $150 paid to court-appointed mediators.

Under Cal Rules Ct effective January 1, 2011, courts that supply lists of mediators to parties or that recommend, select, appoint, or compensate mediators to mediate general civil cases pending in the court must establish minimum qualifications for those mediators [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 10.781, as amended effective January 1, 2011].

24.56 Mediation Hearing.

24.56[1] Attendance by Parties and Counsel of Record, and Participant Lists.

24.56[1][a] Parties and Counsel of Record Are Required to Attend Mediation Sessions, Unless Excused. All parties who are natural persons and their counsel of record, and the representative of a party that is not a natural person, must attend all mediation sessions, unless excused. The representative of a party that is not a natural person must have authority to resolve the dispute or, if the party is a governmental entity that requires an agreement to be approved by an elected official or legislative body, authority to recommend such an agreement [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(1); see also Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(2) (attendance by representatives of insurers)].

Exception:

The mediator may excuse a party, counsel of record, or representative of a party from attending a mediation session. The excused person must promptly send a letter or electronic communication to the mediator and all parties confirming the excused absence [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(3)].

24.56[1][b] Attendance by Parties, Counsel, and Representatives Must Be In Person, Unless Mediator Permits Attendance by Telephone. The mandatory attendance of parties and counsel and representatives of parties at mediation sessions must be in person [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(1)].

Exception:

Parties and counsel and representatives of parties may attend by telephone if permitted to do so [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(1)]. The mediator may allow a party, counsel of record, or representative of a party to attend a mediation session by telephone. The person allowed to attend by telephone must promptly send a letter or electronic communication to the mediator and all parties confirming permission to attend by telephone [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(3)].

24.56[1][c] Each Party Must Serve List of Participants At Least Court Five Days Before First Mediation Session, and Whenever Supplements Is Needed Thereafter. Each party must serve a list of its mediation participants on the mediator and all other parties. The list must include the names of all [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(b)(1)]:

- Parties to the action;
- Attorneys of record;
- Representatives of parties not natural persons;
- Insurance representatives; and
- Other persons who will attend mediation with or on behalf of the party.

Timing:

Each party must serve [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(b)(1)]:

- An initial list of its participants at least five court days before the first mediation session, and
- A supplemental list promptly after whenever the party subsequently determines that other persons will attend the mediation with or on behalf of the party.

24.56[2] Attorney May Not Be Excluded From Mediation. Some mediators attempt to require the parties to participate in mediation sessions without their counsel present; however, each party is entitled to have counsel present at all mediation sessions that concern it [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(4)].

24.56[3] Statements Made in Mediation Are Generally Excluded From Evidence. All statements made by the parties during the mediation are subject to Evid Code §§ 703.5, 1115-1128, and 1152, which limit the admission in evidence of offers to compromise and generally exclude from evidence statements and admissions made in mediation [CCP § 1775.10; Simmons v. Ghaderi (2008) 44 C4th 570, 588-589, 80 CR3d 83, 187 P3d 934 (evidence of unrecorded oral agreement to settle inadmissible); Travelers Casualty & Surety Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 1131, 1145, 24 CR3d 751 (applying CCP § 1119(a))].

Any reference to the mediation or the statement during any subsequent trial shall constitute an irregularity in the proceedings of the trial for the purposes of granting a new trial [CCP § 1775.12; Travelers Casualty & Surety Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 1131, 1145, 24 CR3d 751 (applying CCP § 1119(a))].

24.56[4] Writings in Mediation.

24.56[4][a] Mediator May Request Statement of Mediation Issues. A mediator may request each party to submit a short mediation statement. The statement must provide requested information about [Cal Rules Ct, Rule 3.874(a)(1)]:

- The issues in dispute;
- Possible resolutions of the issues in dispute; and
- Other information or documents that may appear helpful to resolve the dispute.

24.56[4][b] Writings Prepared for Mediation Are Inadmissible. A writing prepared for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to, a mediation or a mediation consultation is inadmissible and not subject to discovery. The disclosure of the writing cannot be compelled in an arbitration, administrative adjudication, civil action, or other noncriminal proceeding in which testimony can be compelled to be given [Evid Code § 1119(b); Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 C4th 407, 418, 15 CR3d 643, 93 P3d 260, 93 P3d 260 ]. For these purposes, a "writing" includes handwriting, typewriting, printing, photostating, photographing, photocopying, transmitting by electronic mail or facsimile, and every other means of recording upon any tangible thing, any form of communication or representation, including letters, words, pictures, sounds, or symbols, or combinations thereof, and any record thereby created, regardless of the manner in which the record has been stored [Evid Code §§ 250, 1119(b)].

Examples:

- A settlement agreement arising from mediation that was not effective unless all parties signed was inadmissible because one party was not present to sign and had not signed it [ Rael v. Davis (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1608, 1621, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 745 ] .
- Mediation briefs and emails between counsel and the party discussing the mediation briefs prior to the mediation are writings that may not be disclosed; however, the party seeking to assert mediation confidentiality has the burden of showing that communications and writings are materially related to, and foster, the mediation [ Wimsatt v. Superior Court (2007) 152 CA4th 137, 159, 61 CR3d 200 (protective order granted)].
- Photographs, videotapes, written witness statements, and the reports on analysis of physical samples qualify as writings so long as they are prepared for the purpose of, in the course of, or pursuant to, a mediation, while actual physical samples collected at a site, either from the air or from destructive testing, are not writings [ Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 C4th 407, 422-423, 15 CR3d 643, 93 P3d 260 ].
- Valuation order prepared by mediator in an attempt to value various sexual abuse claims, where a potentially liable party refused to waive the confidentiality privilege is a writing [ Travelers Casualty & Surety Co. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 CA4th 1131, 1145, 24 CR3d 751 ].

Distinguish:

Evidence otherwise admissible or subject to discovery outside of a mediation does not become inadmissible or protected from disclosure solely by reason of its introduction or use in a mediation [Evid Code § 1120(a)]. Thus, the facts conveyed by statements, to the extent that they can be evidenced by other means, are subject to admission into evidence [ Rojas v. Superior Court (2004) 33 C4th 407, 423 n.8, 424, 15 CR3d 643, 93 P3d 260, 93 P3d 260 ]. Also, a mediation settlement agreement containing a confidentiality waiver is admissible as evidence of a settlement [ Stewart v. Preston Pipeline Inc. (2005) 134 CA4th 1565 ].

Example:

A statement iterating a reduced settlement offer given the evening before mediation session may be disclosed if there is no showing that the statement was made for the purpose of, or pursuant to, the mediation [ Wimsatt v. Superior Court (2007) 152 CA4th 137, 160-161, 61 CR3d 200 (protective order denied)].
