(n16)Footnote 15. Retired Chicago Police Ass'n v. City of Chicago, 7 F.3d 584, 594-595 (7th Cir. 1993) (stating that unsuccessful movants for interven tion may appeal only order denying intervention).

(n17)Footnote 16. SEC v. Forex Asset Mgmt., LLC, 242 F.3d 325, 328-330 (5th Cir. 2001) .

(n18)Footnote 17. Commercial Sec. Bank v. Walker Bank & Trust Co., 456 F.2d 1352, 1354 (10th Cir. 1972) (nonparty against whom injunction was issued permitted to appeal jurisdiction).

(n19)Footnote 18. Reynolds v. Beneficial Nat'l Bank, 288 F.3d 277, 287 (7th Cir. 2002) (lawyer need not be made party at trial level before lawyer may be ordered to disgorge fee wrongfully retained, and though not party, lawyer may appeal such order); Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Alla Med. Serv., Inc., 855 F.2d 1470 (9th Cir. 1988) (sanction orders issued solely against nonparty attorneys are immediately appealable).

(n20)Footnote 19. Gooden v. Neal, 17 F.3d 925, 935 (7th Cir. 1994) , cert. denied, 115 S. Ct. 73 (1994) (cross-appeal deemed neither necessary nor appropriate); Armotek Indus. v. Employers Ins. of Wausau, 952 F.2d 756, 759 n.3 (3d Cir. 1991) (nonaggrieved party with no stake in outcome of appeal lacks standing to participate in appeal).

(n21)Footnote 20. Grinnell Mut. Reinsurance Co. v. Reinke, 43 F.3d 1152 (7th Cir. 1995) (victims of automobile accident did not have standing to appeal declaratory judgment holding that insurer did not have duty to defend alleged tortfeasor, because victims' contingent expectancy in cash value of duty to defend was not legal interest adversely affected by judgment).

(n22)Footnote 21. In re DES Litig., 7 F.3d 20, 23 (2d Cir. 1993) (appeal by prevailing party is possible where party is aggrieved by collateral estoppel effect of district court's rulings).

(n23)Footnote 22. In re DES Litig., 7 F.3d 20, 24 (2d Cir. 1993) (because personal jurisdiction and choice of law rulings did not appear on face of judgment, appellant was not aggrieved by judgment itself).

(n24)Footnote 23. See, e.g., Deposit Guar. Nat'l Bank v. Roper, 445 U.S. 326, 334, 100 S. Ct. 1166, 63 L. Ed. 2d 427 (1980) .

(n25)Footnote 24. Justice v. CSX Transp., Inc., 908 F.2d 119, 125 (7th Cir. 1990) (party may not appeal judgment after settlement).

(n26)Footnote 25. Donovan v. Penn Shipping Co., 429 U.S. 648, 649-650, 97 S. Ct. 835, 51 L. Ed. 2d 112 (1977) (plaintiff cannot protest remittitur accepted in attempt to challenge appeal).

(n27)Footnote 26. Westerman v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 577 F.2d 873, 883 (5th Cir. 1978) (plaintiff did not properly reserve right to appeal by accepting remittitur under protest).

(n28)Footnote 27. Ohio-Sealy Mattress Mfg. Co. v. Sealy, Inc., 585 F.2d 821, 840-843 (7th Cir. 1978) , cert. denied, 440 U.S. 930 (1979) (defendant was not prejudiced by disposition of new-trial motion where jury verdict was "unnecessarily halved" and remitted award of damages affirmed).

(n29)Footnote 28. Dale M. v. Board of Educ., 237 F.3d 813, 815 (7th Cir. 2001) .

(n30)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n31)Footnote 29. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1); see also Smith v. Half Hollow Hills Cent. Sch. Dist., 298 F.3d 168, 172 (2d Cir. 2002) (noting that premature notice of appeal from nonfinal order may ripen into a valid notice of appeal of right, provided final judgment has been entered by time appeal is heard and appellee suffers no prejudice).

(n32)Footnote 30. 28 U.S.C. § 1291. For a discussion of this final judgment rule, see Ch. 27, General Appeal Principles.

(n33)Footnote 31. For additional discussion of interlocutory orders, see Ch. 27, General Appeal Principles.

(n34)Footnote 32. 28 U.S.C. § 1292(a)(1).

(n35)Footnote 33. 28 U.S.C. § 1291(a)(2).

(n36)Footnote 34. 28 U.S.C. § 1291(a)(3).

(n37)Footnote 35. 28 U.S.C. § 1292(c)(2).

(n38)Footnote 36. See 28 U.S.C. § 1292.

(n39)Footnote 37. 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), (d)(1),(2).

(n40)Footnote 38. See § 28.11.

(n41)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.20 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n42)Footnote 39. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(A); see [ii], below.

(n43)Footnote 40. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(B); see [iii], below.

(n44)Footnote 41. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(C); see [iv], below.

(n45)Footnote 42. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(5).

(n46)Footnote 43. Draper v. Coombs, 792 F.2d 915, 918 n.3 (9th Cir. 1986) (notice of appeal need not specify precise issues raised on appeal).

(n47)Footnote 44. Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(a).

(n48)Footnote 45. Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 766-768, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) (even though typed name on notice of appeal did not satisfy Civil Rule 11 signature requirement, appellant's failure to sign otherwise complete and timely notice of appeal did not deprive court of appeals of jurisdiction, and case could proceed if appellant promptly supplied required signature once its omission was noted).

(n49)Footnote 46. Greer v St. Louis Reg'l Med. Ctr., 258 F.3d 843, 846 (8th Cir. 2001) .

(n50)Footnote 47. United States v. Michelle's Lounge, 39 F.3d 684, 691-692 (7th Cir. 1994) (technical variance with letter requirements of notice allowed where party's action is functional equivalent).

(n51)Footnote 48. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(4).

(n52)Footnote 49. Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 482-483, 120 S. Ct. 1595, 1604, 146 L. Ed. 2d 542 (2000) .

(n53)Footnote 50. Torres v. Oakland Scavenger Co., 487 U.S. 312, 315-316, 108 S. Ct. 2405, 101 L. Ed. 2d 285 (1988) (court may not enlarge time within which notice is to be filed).

(n54)Footnote 51. Smith v. Barry, 502 U.S. 244, 248, 112 S. Ct. 678, 116 L. Ed. 2d 678 (1992) .

(n55)Footnote 52. Sinclair Broadcast Group, Inc. v. FCC, 284 F.3d 148, 157 (D.C. Cir. 2002) .

(n56)Footnote 53. Smith v. Barry, 502 U.S. 244, 248, 112 S. Ct. 678, 116 L. Ed. 2d 678 (1992) .

(n57)Footnote 54. Smith v. Barry, 502 U.S. 244, 248, 112 S. Ct. 678, 116 L. Ed. 2d 678 (1992) (document met requirements, and party's motivation for filing is irrelevant).

(n58)Footnote 55. Intel Corp. v. Terabyte Int'l., Inc., 6 F.3d 614, 618 (9th Cir. 1993) (appellant's opening brief designating parties and judgment appealed from and naming court served as notice of appeal required by Appellate Rule 3).

(n59)Footnote 56. Andrade v. Attorney General, 270 F.3d 743 751-752 (9th Cir. 2001) .

(n60)Footnote 57. Grimsley v. MacKay, 93 F.3d 676, 678 (10th Cir. 1996) (statement in docketing statement served as functional equivalent of notice of appeal, thereby curing defect in naming defendant).

(n61)Footnote 58. In re Paoli R.R. Yard PCB Litigation, 916 F.2d 829, 837-838 (3d Cir. 1990) (any possible impediment in notice of appeal was removed by appellants' counsel's letter, sent to court within period allowed for appeal and with copies sent to all other counsel, identifying in detail parties to appeal).

(n62)Footnote 59. Hindes v. FDIC, 137 F.3d 148, 155-157 (3d Cir. 1998) (appellants' motion to certify district court's order for immediate appeal, together with reply to appellees' opposition, notified parties and district court of appellants' specific intention to seek appellate review of two orders of district court and therefore was functional equivalent of notice of appeal).

(n63)Footnote 60. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(A)

(n64)Footnote 61. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(4).

(n65)Footnote 62. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(3)

(n66)Footnote 63. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(2)

(n67)Footnote 64. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1), (4), Committee Note to 1993 Amendments; see also In re Continental Airlines, 125 F.3d 120, 128-129 (3d Cir. 1997) (term "LPP Claimants" was understood by all parties and court to refer to identifiable group of individual plaintiffs who chose not to participate in settlement of claims).

(n68)Footnote 65. Billino v. Citibank, N.A., 123 F.3d 723, 725-726 (2d Cir. 1997) (dismissing appeal of denial of motion to substitute parties, where notice of appeal named deceased plaintiff as sole appellant, even though party in interest was personal representative, whose substitution motion had been denied).

(n69)Footnote 66. Torres v. Oakland Scavenger Company, 487 U.S. 312, 314, 108 S. Ct. 2405, 101 L. Ed. 2d 285 (1988) .

(n70)Footnote 67. Thomas v. Gunter, 32 F.3d 1258, 1262 (8th Cir. 1994) (Appellate Rule 3(c) does not require naming of all appellees).

(n71)Footnote 68. Weiss v. Cooley, 230 F.3d 1027, 1031 (7th Cir. 2000) .

(n72)Footnote 69. Yuen Jung v. Barber, 184 F.2d 491, 497 (9th Cir. 1950) .

(n73)Footnote 70. Chathas v. Smith, 848 F.2d 93, 94 (7th Cir. 1988) (court noted that if appellant named all but one defendant, and omitted defendant reasonably believed he was not subject of appeal, court could entertain motion to dismiss appeal against him); Osterneck v. E.T. Barwick Indus., Inc., 825 F.2d 1521, 1528 (11th Cir. 1987) , aff'd on other grounds, 489 U.S. 169 (1989) (when notice of appeal expressly named some opponents but failed to name one other, party not named would be unfairly prejudiced by inclusion because of lost opportunity to interpose cross-appeal).

(n74)Footnote 71. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(B)

(n75)Footnote 72. Bach v. Coughlin, 508 F.2d 303, 307 (7th Cir. 1974) (because defendant's carefully drafted notice of appeal clearly limited appeal to only part of judgment, court considered only part designated).

(n76)Footnote 73. Sinclair Broadcast Group, Inc. v. FCC, 284 F.3d 148, 156-157 (D.C. Cir. 2002) (mistake in designating judgment appealed does not result in loss of appeal, provided that intent to appeal from particular judgment can be fairly inferred from notice, and appellee is not misled by the mistake; court may find that party has complied with Appellate Rule if party's action is functional equivalent of what rule requires).

(n77)Footnote 74. Ortiz v. John O. Butler Co., 94 F.3d 1121, 1125 (7th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 117 S. Ct. 957 (1997) .

(n78)Footnote 75. Haberthur v. City of Raymore, Missouri, 119 F.3d 720, 722-723 (8th Cir. 1997) .

(n79)Footnote 76. United States v. McGlory, 202 F.3d 664, 668 (3d Cir. 2000) .

(n80)Footnote 77. Town of Norwood v. New England Power Co., 202 F.3d 408, 415 (1st Cir. 2000) .

(n81)Footnote 78. Malone v. Vasquez, 138 F.3d 711, 715 (8th Cir. 1998) (circuit court may waive strict requirements of Appellate Rule 3(c) if language of notice makes clear which orders appellant intends to appeal); cf. Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 766-768, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) (signature requirement not jurisdictional).

(n82)Footnote 79. Torres v. Oakland Scavenger Co., 487 U.S. 312, 316, 108 S. Ct. 2405, 101 L. Ed. 2d 285 (1988) (mere technicalities should not stand in the way of consideration of the case on its merits); Smith v. National Steel & Shipbuilding Co., 125 F.3d 751, 753-754 (9th Cir. 1997) , cert. denied, 118 S. Ct. 1559 (1998) (circuit court exercised jurisdiction over appeal from judgment on pleadings, even though notice of appeal incorrectly identified judgment as summary judgment); Hartsell v. Duplex Prods., Inc., 123 F.3d 766, 771 (4th Cir. 1997) (although notice of appeal did not specify all orders appealed from, appellant's brief provided appellees with full notice of issues being appealed, and appellees addressed those issues fully in their brief).

(n83)Footnote 80. SEC v. Van Waeyenberghe, 990 F.2d 845, 847-848 n.3 (5th Cir. 1993) (appellant's notice of appeal referenced first court order and not later order, but court liberally construed notice of appeal to cover both where appellant's intent was apparent from whole record).

(n84)Footnote 81. Reed v. AMAX Coal Co., 971 F.2d 1295, 1301 (7th Cir. 1992) (notice of appeal from final judgment was not sufficient to support review of order denying postjudgment motion to vacate under Civil Rule 60(b)).

(n85)Footnote 82. Garcia v. City of Chicago, 24 F.3d 966, 969 n.4 (7th Cir. 1994) , cert. denied, 514 U.S. 1003 (1995) (court refused to consider certain of plaintiff's claims that had not been specified in notice of appeal in matter involving several defendants, several claims, and partial settlement).

(n86)Footnote 83. Huston v. Mitchell, 908 F.2d 275, 277-278 (8th Cir. 1990) (although generally construed liberally, plaintiff's failure to file motion of appeal in one of two consolidated cases left no jurisdiction when both docket numbers were used to caption other motions).

(n87)Footnote 84. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(C)

(n88)Footnote 85. Cf. Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 766-768, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) (only absolute requirement is timely filing of notice of appeal with contents that may be determined from intent of filing party).

(n89)Footnote 86. Donovan v. Richland County Ass'n for Retarded Citizens, 454 U.S. 389, 390, 102 S. Ct. 713, 70 L. Ed. 2d 570 (1982) (circuit court lacked jurisdiction because appellee was prejudiced by failure to properly designate court); see United States v. Treto-Haro, 287 F.3d 1000, 1002, n.1 (10th Cir. 2002) (noting that when only one avenue of appeal exists, Appellate Rule 3(c)(1)(C) is satisfied even if notice of appeal does not name appellate court).

(n90)Footnote 87. Ortiz v. John O. Butler Company, 94 F.3d 1121, 1125 (7th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 117 S. Ct. 957 (1997) .

(n91)Footnote 88. See 28 U.S.C. § 1631.

(n92)Footnote 89. Ramey v. Bowsher, 9 F.3d 133, 136-137 (D.C. Cir. 1993) (transfer to Federal Circuit warranted in interests of justice in appeal in employment discrimination case).

(n93)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.30 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n94)Footnote 90. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1).

(n95)Footnote 91. Smith v. Barry, 502 U.S. 244, 245, 112 S. Ct. 678, 116 L. Ed. 2d 678 (1992) .

(n96)Footnote 92. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(A).

(n97)Footnote 93. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1).

(n98)Footnote 94. Fed. R. App. P. 4(d).

(n99)Footnote 95. Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(a); see Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 766-768, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) .

(n100)Footnote 96. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1).

(n101)Footnote 97. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(2).

(n102)Footnote 98. Oliver v. Michigan State Bd. of Educ., 519 F.2d 619, 622 (6th Cir. 1975) (court assessed costs against appellant for unnecessary exceeding of page limit by printing appendix).

(n103)Footnote 99. Blount v. State Bank & Trust Co., 425 F.2d 266, 266 (4th Cir. 1970) (court assessed costs against appellant's attorney for incurring unnecessary expenses caused by failure to comply with rules).

(n104)Footnote 100. Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(a); see Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 766-768, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) ; see also Duran v. Carris, 238 F.3d 1268, 1271-1273 (10th Cir. 2001) (appellate court strongly disapproved of practice of attorney ghost writing brief and providing substantial assistance to pro se appellant without acknowledging attorney's contribution by signing brief).

(n105)Footnote 101. Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 766-768, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) .

(n106)Footnote 102. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(2).

(n107)Footnote 103. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1).

(n108)Footnote 104. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(2).

(n109)Footnote 105. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(A).

(n110)Footnote 106. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1).

(n111)Footnote 107. Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 767, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) .

(n112)Footnote 108. International Paper Co. v. Whitson, 595 F.2d 559, 561-562 (10th Cir. 1979) .

(n113)Footnote 109. Masalosalo v. Stonewall Ins. Co., 718 F.2d 955, 956 (9th Cir. 1983) .

(n114)Footnote 110. See May v. Sheahan, 226 F.3d 876, 879-880 (7th Cir. 2000) ; Rutherford v. Harris County, 197 F.3d 173, 189-190 (5th Cir. 1999) .

(n115)Footnote 111. United States v. Black, 543 F.2d 35 (7th Cir. 1976) (Appellate Rule 7 and Appellate Rule 8, related to bond on appeal and orders suspending, modifying, restoring, or granting an injunction during pendency of appeal, expressly direct district court to act in assistance of appeal); see Natural Resources Defense Council, Inc. v. Southwest Marine, Inc., 242 F.3d 1163, 1166-1168 (9th Cir. 2001) (district court has jurisdiction to modify injunction while appeal is pending provided that modification preserves status quo and does not significantly alter status of case on appeal).

(n116)Footnote 112. Gillis v. Hoechst Celanese Corp., 4 F.3d 1137, 1139 n.1 (3d Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1004 (1994) (clerical errors made after filing of notice of appeal did not affect finality of judgment and did not require filing of new notice of appeal).

(n117)Footnote 113. National Serv. Indus., Inc. v. Vafla Corp. 694 F.2d 246, 250 (11th Cir. 1982) (discovery in aid of execution of judgment is not precluded by filing of appeal).

(n118)Footnote 114. Rains v. Flinn, 428 F.3d 893, 903-904 (9th Cir. 2005) .

(n119)Footnote 114.1. See McCauley v. Halliburton Energy Servs., 413 F.3d 1158, 1161 (10th Cir. 2005) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n120)Footnote 115. Taylor v. Sterrett, 640 F.2d 663, 668 (5th Cir. 1981) .

(n121)Footnote 116. Ex parte National Enameling & Stamping Co., 201 U.S. 156, 26 S. Ct. 404, 50 L. Ed. 707 (1906) .

(n122)Footnote 117. Gaudiosi v. Mellon, 269 F.2d 873, 878 (3d Cir. 1959) .

(n123)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.50 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n124)Footnote 118. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(d)(1); Smith v. White, 857 F.2d 1042, 1043 (5th Cir. 1988) .

(n125)Footnote 119. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1).

(n126)Footnote 120. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(d)(1).

(n127)Footnote 121. Fed. R. App. P. 3(d)(1); see United States ex rel. McAllan v. City of New York, 248 F.3d 48, 53 (2d Cir. 2001) .

(n128)Footnote 122. Fed. R. App. P. 3(d)(3).

(n129)Footnote 123. Fed. R. App. P. 3(d)(2).

(n130)Footnote 124. Fed. R. App. P. 3(d)(3).

(n131)Footnote 125. Pike v. Ruby Foo's Den, Inc., 232 F.2d 683, 684 (D.C. Cir. 1956) (notice of appeal was not mailed to appellee, so court advised appellee of situation and invited action necessary to preserve appellee's interests); Beecher v. Leavenworth State Bank, 184 F.2d 498, 501 (9th Cir. 1950) (when clerk failed to serve notice on one appellee, court reserved jurisdiction until appellee could be properly served).

(n132)Footnote 126. Caspar v. Devine, 257 F.2d 197 (D.C. Cir. 1958) (although notice of appeal was not served on appellee, appellant's brief and motion to expand time to docket record were mailed to appellee).

(n133)Footnote 127. Fed. R. App. P. 4(d)(3).

(n134)Footnote 128. Fed. R. App. P. 4(d)(3).

(n135)Footnote 129. See Fed. R. App. P. 43.

(n136)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.51 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n137)Footnote 130. Fed. R. App. P. 3(e).

(n138)Footnote 131. 28 U.S.C. § 1914.

(n139)Footnote 132. 28 U.S.C. § 1913; see Fed. R. App. P. 3(e).

(n140)Footnote 133. See Hart v. Knox County, 171 F.2d 45, 45 (6th Cir. 1948) .

(n141)Footnote 134. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(a); see also Olympic Ins. Co. v. H. D. Harrison, Inc., 413 F.2d 973, 974 (5th Cir. 1969) (when appellant did not receive customary notice that fee was due, court postponed decision on motion for rehearing and called for brief on merits, noting that appeal could be dismissed if appeal was not meritorious and was taken for purpose of delay).

(n142)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.40, 303.41 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n143)Footnote 135. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(b)(1).

(n144)Footnote 136. Fed. R. App. P. 3(b)(1); see United States v. Suarez, 880 F.2d 626, 629 (2d Cir. 1989) (counsel for one defendant filed joint notice for own client and other defendants, and because issues were same as to all defendants, notice of appeal was effective as to all).

(n145)Footnote 137. Fed. R. App. P. 3(b)(2).

(n146)Footnote 138. Cook & Sons Equip., Inc. v. Killen, 277 F.2d 607, 609 (9th Cir. 1960) (when only timely notice of appeal contained name of corporate defendant, individual defendants could not add names to appeal after time for appeal had run because it constituted failure to appeal); see Browning v. Navarro, 894 F.2d 99, 100 (5th Cir. 1990) (failure to name party in notice of appeal was found to be jurisdictional defect, and the party who failed to appeal could not share the benefit of the plaintiff's partial victory); Farley Transp. Co. v. Santa Fe Trail Transp. Co., 778 F.2d 1365, 1369 (9th Cir. 1985) (where only one party filed notice of appeal, another party, although related company, could not join in appeal).

(n147)Footnote 139. See Rabin v. Cohen, 570 F.2d 864, 866 (9th Cir. 1978) .

(n148)Footnote 140. Fed. R. App. P. 10(b).

(n149)Footnote 141. Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1).

(n150)Footnote 142. See Fed. R. App. P. 12(b).

(n151)Footnote 143. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(b)(1).

(n152)Footnote 144. Fed. R. App. P. 10(b).

(n153)Footnote 145. Fed. R. App. P. 11(a), 12(a).

(n154)Footnote 146. Fed. R. App. P. 11(g).

(n155)Footnote 147. Cf. Fed. R. App. P. 34(b) (allotting fixed time for argument to each side; parties who join in appeal constitute single side).

(n156)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 303.41 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n157)Footnote 148. Fed. R. App. P. 3(b)(2).

(n158)Footnote 149. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(b)(2), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n159)Footnote 150. Weaver v. University of Cincinnati, 970 F.2d 1523, 1528-1529 (6th Cir. 1992) .

(n160)Footnote 150.1. Northeast Ohio Coalition for the Homeless v. Blackwell, 467 F.3d 999, 1005 (6th Cir. 2006) .

(n161)Footnote 151. Fuller Brush Co. v. Northern States Power Co., 261 F.2d 340, 342 (8th Cir. 1958) .

(n162)Footnote 152. United States v. Ford Motor Co., 574 F.2d 534, 543 (D.C. Cir. 1978) (court consolidated appeals of similarly situated appellants with respect to issuance of defect notification for vehicle).

(n163)Footnote 153. Terket v. Lund, 623 F.2d 29, 33-34 (7th Cir. 1980) (if appeal of order is properly filed before pending appeal is fully briefed and argued, two appeals may be consolidated in circuit court).

(n164)Footnote 154. Weaver v. University of Cincinnati, 970 F.2d 1523, 1528-1529 (6th Cir. 1992) (in interest of judicial economy, appeals should have been consolidated when district court entered final decision on merits while interlocutory appeal was pending).

(n165)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 304.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n166)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(A).

(n167)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(7)(A).

(n168)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 58(a).

(n169)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(7)(A)(i); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 79(a).

(n170)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 58(a).

(n171)Footnote 6. See Solis v. Los Angeles, 514 F.3d 946, 951 (9th Cir. 2008) .

(n172)Footnote 7. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 79(a)(2)(C).

(n173)Footnote 8. See Chambers v. City of Fordyce, 508 F.3d 878, 881 (8th Cir. 2007) .

(n174)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(7)(A)(ii); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 79(a)(2)(C).

(n175)Footnote 10. Nguyen v. Southwest Leasing and Rental, Inc., 282 F.3d 1061, 1066 (9th Cir. 2002) .

(n176)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1); see [1][d], above.

(n177)Footnote 12. See Fed. R. App. P. 4(d).

(n178)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 304.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n179)Footnote 13. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(1), (c); see also [1], above.

(n180)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(A).

(n181)Footnote 15. Impounded, 277 F.3d 407, 410-411 (3d Cir. 2002) .

(n182)Footnote 16. Impounded, 277 F.3d 407, 410-411 (3d Cir. 2002) (proceeding that is essentially civil in nature is deemed to be civil case, even though case may have arisen from prior criminal prosecution).

(n183)Footnote 17. United States v. Lavin, 942 F.2d 177, 181 (3d Cir. 1991) .

(n184)Footnote 18. See Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(B); [c], below.

(n185)Footnote 19. See Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4); [d], below.

(n186)Footnote 20. See Fed. R. App. P. 4(c); [e], below.

(n187)Footnote 21. See Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(A); [h], below.

(n188)Footnote 22. Graphic Communications International Union v. Quebecor Printing Providence, Inc, 270 F.3d 1, 3-4 (1st Cir. 2001) .

(n189)Footnote 23. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(B); see Cohen v. Empire Blue Cross & Blue Shield, 176 F.3d 35, 41-42 (2d Cir. 1999) (agency defined for purposes of this rule).

(n190)Footnote 24. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(1)(B) (notice of appeal may be filed by any party within 60 days); see Cheney v. United States Dist. Court, 542 U.S. 367, 378-379, 124 S. Ct. 2576, 159 L. Ed. 2d 459 (2004) .

(n191)Footnote 25. United States ex rel. Eisenstein v. City of New York, ___U.S. ___, ___, 129 S. Ct. 2230, 173 L. Ed. 2d 1255, 1261-1263 (2009) (when United States declined to intervene in a privately initiated False Claims Act action, it was not "party" to litigation for purposes of Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 4, consequently notice of appeal was untimely).

(n192)Footnote 26. United States ex rel. Petrofsky v. Van Cott, Bagley, Cornwall, McCarthy, 588 F.2d 1327, 1329 (10th Cir. 1978) , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 839 (1979) .

(n193)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 304.13 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n194)Footnote 27. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A); see Hodge v. Hodge, 269 F.3d 155, 157-158 (2d Cir. 2001) (timely filing of any of these postjudgment motions resets clock until district court enters order disposing of last such remaining motion, at which point a new 30-day period begins; noting also that untimely motion ineffective to delay running of time for filing notice of appeal).

(n195)Footnote 28. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(i); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 50(b).

(n196)Footnote 29. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(ii); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 52(b).

(n197)Footnote 30. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(iii); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(d)(2); Fed. R. Civ. P. 58(e).

(n198)Footnote 31. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(iv); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(e).

(n199)Footnote 32. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(v); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(a)-(c).

(n200)Footnote 33. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(vi); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 60.

(n201)Footnote 34. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(B)(i).

(n202)Footnote 35. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(B)(ii).

(n203)Footnote 36. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(B)(iii).

(n204)Footnote 37. Sante Fe Snyder Corp. v. Norton, 385 F.3d 884, 887-888 (5th Cir. 2004) .

(n205)Footnote 38. See Ametex Fabrics, Inc. v. Just In Materials, Inc., 140 F.3d 101, 106 (2d Cir. 1998) (construing former time periods).

(n206)Footnote 39. Scola v. Beaulieu Wielsbeke, N.V., 131 F.3d 1073, 1074-1075 (1st Cir. 1997) (untimely Civil Rule 59(e) motion does not toll time for filing appeal, and district court had no power to extend time for filing Civil Rule 59(e) motion; construing former time periods).

(n207)Footnote 40. Riley v. Northwestern Bell Tel. Co., 1 F.3d 725, 727 (8th Cir. 1993) (no grounds set forth for motion).

(n208)Footnote 41. Werth v. Makita Electric Works, Ltd., 950 F.2d 643, 647 (10th Cir. 1991) (although plaintiff's assignments of error were made in general terms, they clearly stated the particular grounds relied on).

(n209)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 304.40 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n210)Footnote 42. Fed. R. App. P. 4(c)(1).

(n211)Footnote 43. Ingram v. Jones, 507 F.3d 640, 643 (7th Cir. 2007) .

(n212)Footnote 44. Fed. R. App. P. 4(c)(1).

(n213)Footnote 45. United States v. Ceballos-Martinez, 371 F.3d 713, 716-717 (10th Cir. 2004) (citing Moore's Federal Practice); see also Grady v. United States, 269 F.3d 913, 918 (8th Cir. 2001) .

(n214)Footnote 46. United States v. Craig, 368 F.3d 738, 740 (7th Cir. 2004) .

(n215)Footnote 47. Fed. R. App. P. 4(c)(1).

(n216)Footnote 48. Houston v. Lack, 487 U.S. 266, 270, 108 S. Ct. 2379, 101 L. Ed. 2d 245 (1988) .

(n217)Footnote 49. Porchia v. Norris, 251 F.3d 1196, 1198 (8th Cir. 2001) (appellant has burden to prove that preconditions to the exercise of appellate jurisdiction have been met, including timely filing of notice of appeal).

(n218)Footnote 50. See, e.g., Oliver v. Commissioner of Mass. Dep't of Corrections, 30 F.3d 270, 272 (1st Cir. 1994).

(n219)Footnote 51. Fed. R. App. P. 4(c)(2).

(n220)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 304.12 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n221)Footnote 52. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(2).

(n222)Footnote 53. DeJohn v. Temple Univ., 537 F.3d 301, 307 (3d Cir. 2008) .

(n223)Footnote 54. FirsTier Mortgage Co. v. Investors Mortgage Ins. Co., 498 U.S. 269, 275-276, 111 S. Ct. 648, 112 L. Ed. 2d 743 (1991) ; see DeJohn v. Temple Univ., 537 F.3d 301, 307 (3d Cir. 2008) .

(n224)Footnote 55. In re Jack Raley Constr., Inc., 17 F.3d 291, 294 (9th Cir. 1994) .

(n225)Footnote 56. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(3); In re Julien Co., 146 F.3d 420, 423 (6th Cir. 1998) (Appellate Rule 4(a)(3) provides extra 14 days for filing additional appeals when first notice of appeal has been filed by any party, and rule does not specify that first appeal must have been "valid" appeal).

(n226)Footnote 57. Jackson Jordan, Inc. v. Plasser Am. Corp., 725 F.2d 1373, 1374-1376 (Fed. Cir. 1984) (plaintiff's appeal was timely, even though not filed within 30 days of entry of judgment, when it was filed within 14 days of defendant's appeal).

(n227)Footnote 58. Kurdziel v. Pittsburgh Tube Co., 416 F.2d 882, 885, 51 Ohio Op. 2d 85 (6th Cir. 1969) .

(n228)Footnote 59. In re Julien Co., 146 F.3d 420, 423 (6th Cir. 1998) .

(n229)Footnote 60. Duriso v. K-Mart No. 4195, Div. of S. S. Kresge Co. No. 4195, 559 F.2d 1274, 1278 (5th Cir. 1977) .

(n230)Footnote 61. See United States v. American Ry. Express Co., 265 U.S. 425, 435, 44 S. Ct. 560, 564, 68 L. Ed. 1087 (1924) .

(n231)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 304.14 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n232)Footnote 62. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(A)(i); Alva v. Teen Help, 469 F.3d 946, 949-950 (10th Cir. 2006) (motion must be directed to and decided in discretion of district court).

(n233)Footnote 63. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(A)(i); see McCarty v. Astrue, 528 F.3d 541, 544-545 (7th Cir. 2008) (discretion of district court to determine excusable neglect); Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(A), Committee Note to 2002 Amendments.

(n234)Footnote 64. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(B).

(n235)Footnote 65. Pioneer Inv. Serv. Co. v. Brunswick Assocs. Ltd. Partnership, 507 U.S. 380, 391-392, 395, 113 S. Ct. 1489, 123 L. Ed. 2d 74 (1993) .

(n236)Footnote 66. Marquez v. Mineta, 424 F.3d 539, 541 (7th Cir. 2005) .

(n237)Footnote 67. Gibbons v. United States, 317 F.3d 852, 854 (8th Cir. 2003) .

(n238)Footnote 68. Graphic Communications International Union v. Quebecor Printing Providence, Inc., 270 F.3d 1, 5-6 (1st Cir. 2001) .

(n239)Footnote 69. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(A)(ii); see Asbestos Pers. Injury Plaintiffs v. Travelers Indem. Co. (In re Johns-Manville Corp.), 476 F.3d 118, 124 (2d Cir. 2007) (further extension allowed for either excusable neglect or good cause).

(n240)Footnote 70. See Haus v. Bechtel Jacobs Co., 347 F. Supp. 2d 402, 403 (W.D. Ky. 2004) .

(n241)Footnote 71. Bishop v. Corsentino, 371 F.3d 1203, 1206-1207 (10th Cir. 2004) .

(n242)Footnote 72. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(5)(C).

(n243)Footnote 73. See Certain Underwriters at Lloyds of London v. Evans, 896 F.2d 1255, 1256-1258 (10th Cir. 1990) (construing former time periods).

(n244)Footnote 74. 28 U.S.C. § 2107(c); Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(a)(6)(A)-(C).

(n245)Footnote 75. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 77(d)(1).

(n246)Footnote 76. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(6)(A); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 77(d)(2).

(n247)Footnote 77. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 77(d)(1).

(n248)Footnote 78. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(6)(B); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 77(d)(2).

(n249)Footnote 79. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(6)(C).

(n250)Footnote 80. Cordon v. Greiner, 274 F. Supp. 2d 434, 441 (S.D.N.Y. 2003) .

(n251)Footnote 81. American Boat Co. v. Unknown Sunken Barge, 418 F.3d 910, 913 (8th Cir. 2005) .

(n252)Footnote 82. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(6).

(n253)Footnote 83. See 28 U.S.C. § 2107(c).

(n254)Footnote 84. Bowles v. Russell, 551 U.S. 205, 127 S. Ct. 2360, 2363-2364, 168 L. Ed. 2d 96 (2007) (court erred by reopening time to appeal for 17 days).

(n255)Footnote 85. Vencor Hosps. v. Std. Life & Accident Ins. Co., 279 F.3d 1306, 1309 (11th Cir. 2002) .

(n256)Footnote 86. Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(6), Committee Note to 2005 Amendments; see Fed. R. Civ. P. 5(b) (formal service of written document); Fed. R. Civ. P. 77(d)(1).

(n257)Footnote 87. American Boat Co. v. Unknown Sunken Barge, 418 F.3d 910, 913-914 (8th Cir. 2005) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.11

§ 28.11 Appeal By Permissionn*

[1] Introduction

The purpose of Appellate Rule 5 is to regulate the procedure for a party to follow in seeking the permission of the circuit court to appeal when the appeal is within the court of appeals' discretion. Appellate Rule 5 governs all discretionary appeals from a district court's or magistrate judge's order, judgment, or decree. n1 Appellate Rule 5 therefore covers appeal by permission from a district court under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), (c), and (d). n2 Appellate Rule 5 was also promulgated to cover any new statutes or rules authorizing discretionary interlocutory appeals. n3 The rule does not apply to interlocutory appeals under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(a), which may be taken as of right; the appeal taken as of right must be taken in the manner and within the time provided by Appellate Rules 3 and 4. n4

[2] Procedure to File Petition for Permission to Appeal

When an appeal is within the court of appeals' discretion, a party may request permission to appeal only by filing a written petition for permission to appeal. The petition must be filed with the circuit clerk with proof of service on all other parties to the district-court action. n1 The appellant must file an original petition and three copies unless the court requires a different number by local rule or by order in the particular case. n2 The petition must be filed within the time specified by the statute or rule authorizing the appeal or, if no such time is specified, within the time provided by Appellate Rule 4(a) for filing a notice of appeal as of right. n3 It is mandatory that the appellant file a petition because the petition informs the circuit court of appellant's desire to appeal in a manner that allows the circuit court to respond promptly. n4 Consequently, for a permissive appeal, filing a notice of appeal instead of an Appellate Rule 5 petition will not preserve a party's right to seek appellate review, nor will a notice of appeal preserve appellate jurisdiction if an Appellate Rule 5 petition is not filed or is untimely filed. n5

If a party cannot petition for appeal unless the district court first enters an order granting permission to do so or stating that the necessary conditions are met, the district court may amend its order, either on its own or in response to a party's motion, to include the required permission or statement. In that event, the time to petition runs from entry of the amended order. n6 Appellate Rule 5(a)(3) does not specify a time limit within which a district court may amend an interlocutory order to include the required permission or statement. n7 However, if a party takes an excessive delay in seeking an amendment, the district court may deny a motion to amend. n8 Similarly, the circuit court may deny a petition when the interlocutory order on which it is based was amended after an excessive delay. n9

[3] Contents of the Petition

A petition for permission to file an appeal must include all of the following five elements:

1. The facts necessary to understand the question presented on appeal. n1

2. The question itself. n2

3. The relief sought. n3

4. The reasons why the appeal should be allowed and is authorized by a statute or rule. n4

5. An attached copy of the order, decree, or judgment complained of and any related opinion or memorandum, and any order stating the district court's permission to appeal or finding that the necessary conditions are met. n5

In addition to the five required items specified above, counsel may want to include in the petition a statement regarding any exceptional circumstances, n6 because some circuits have stated that appeals of interlocutory orders should be granted only in exceptional circumstances in which an immediate appeal would avoid protracted and expensive litigation. n7

The contents of the petition must not exceed 20 pages except by the court's permission; this length limitation is exclusive of the disclosure statement, the proof of service, and the accompanying documents required by Appellate Rule 5(b)(1)(E). n8 The latter include attached copies of the order, decree, or judgment being appealed, and any order stating the district court's permission to appeal. n9 Additionally, all papers must conform to Appellate Rule 32(a)(1), n10 which specifies requirements such as printing, copying processes, typeface, paper requirements and binding requirements. n11

[4] Response to Petition

A party may file an answer in opposition or a cross-petition within 10 days after the petition is served. n1 Service of the answer is not specifically required by Appellate Rule 5. However, Appellate Rule 25(b) requires service on all parties of all papers required to be filed, and Appellate Rule 25(d) requires proof of service to be filed. n2 If a party wants to make a cross-appeal, the petition must be filed within 10 days of entry of the district court's certified order. Failure to file within this time will bar review by the circuit court for lack of jurisdiction over the cross-appeal. n3

The court or appeals will consider the petition and answer without oral argument, unless the court orders otherwise. n4

[5] Procedure on Circuit Court's Grant of Permission to Appeal

If the circuit court enters an order pursuant to Appellate Rule 5 that grants permission for the petitioner to appeal an order, within 14 days of the entry of appeal the moving party must (1) pay to the district clerk required fees, n1 and (2) file a bond for any costs required under Appellate Rule 7. n2 The district court clerk must notify the circuit court clerk once the petitioner has paid the fees. On receiving this notice, the circuit clerk must enter the appeal on the docket. The district clerk then must forward and file the record in accordance with Appellate Rules 11 and 12(c). n3

A notice of appeal need not be filed for a permissive appeal. The date when the order granting permission to appeal is entered serves as the date of the notice of appeal for calculating time under the Appellate Rules. n4 When a circuit court grants permission for an appeal, the court is allowing appeal from the interlocutory order of the district court. It is the order that is appealable and not necessarily the controlling question identified by the district court. Therefore, the appeal is not limited to the particular questions or issues specified in the district court's certification, and the circuit court may address any issue necessary to decide the appeal. n5 In addition, the circuit court is not bound by the district court's formulation of the questions of law as presented in its order. n6

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 305.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 5(a)(1); see also Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(3) (appeal from judgment by magistrate judge in civil case is taken in the same way as appeal from any other district court judgment).

(n3)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b)-(d); see Ch. 27, General Appeal Principles.

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 5(a), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n5)Footnote 4. See § 28.10.

(n6)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 5(a)(1).

(n7)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 5(c).

(n8)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 5(a)(2); see § 28.10[2].

(n9)Footnote 4. Aucoin v. Matador Servs., Inc., 749 F.2d 1180, 1181 (5th Cir. 1985) .

(n10)Footnote 5. Anthuis v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 971 F.2d 999, 1003 (3d Cir. 1992) (untimely notice of appeal not effective to vest jurisdiction in appellate court); Myles v. Laffitte, 881 F.2d 125, 127 (4th Cir. 1989) (late filing deprives appellate court of jurisdiction to consider appeal).

(n11)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 5(a)(3).

(n12)Footnote 7. International Union, United Auto. Workers v. Midland Steel Prods., Co., 771 F. Supp. 860, 861 (N.D. Ohio 1991) .

(n13)Footnote 8. Ferraro v. United States Dep't of Health & Human Servs., 780 F. Supp. 978, 979 (E.D.N.Y. 1992) (motion to amend denied by district court after two and a half month delay without justification).

(n14)Footnote 9. Weir v. Propst, 915 F.2d 283, 287 (7th Cir. 1990) (amendment after two month delay was ruled abuse of district court's discretion).

(n15)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(1)(A).

(n16)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(1)(B).

(n17)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(1)(C).

(n18)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(1)(D).

(n19)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(1)(E).

(n20)Footnote 6. See Durant v. Servicemaster Co. Trugreen, Inc., 147 F. Supp. 2d 744, 752 (E.D. Mich. 2001) .

(n21)Footnote 7. See United States Rubber Co. v. Wright, 359 F.2d 784, 785 (9th Cir. 1966) (order granting interlocutory appeal vacated in contract litigation that was not exceptional); Mateo v. M/S KISO, 805 F. Supp. 792, 799-801 (N.D. Cal. 1992) (plaintiffs failed to meet their burden of showing that exceptional circumstances existed for interlocutory appeal).

(n22)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 5(c).

(n23)Footnote 9. See Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(1)(E).

(n24)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 5(c).

(n25)Footnote 11. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(1).

(n26)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(2).

(n27)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 25.

(n28)Footnote 3. Tranello v. Frey, 962 F.2d 244, 247-248 (2d Cir. 1992) (cross appeal dismissed for lack of appellate jurisdiction when not filed in timely manner; construing former time periods).

(n29)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 5(b)(3).

(n30)Footnote 1. Fed R. App. P. 5(d)(1)(A).

(n31)Footnote 2. Fed R. App. P. 5(d)(1)(B); see Fed R. App. P. 7.

(n32)Footnote 3. Fed R. App. P. 5(d)(3); see Fed R. App. P. 11, 12.

(n33)Footnote 4. Fed R. App. P. 5(d)(2).

(n34)Footnote 5. Dailey v. National Hockey League, 987 F.2d 172, 175 (3d Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 510 U.S. 816 (1993) .

(n35)Footnote 6. Yamaha Motor Corp., U.S.A. v. Calhoun, 516 U.S. 199, 204-205, 116 S. Ct. 619, 623, 133 L. Ed. 2d 578 (1996) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that circuit court may exercise jurisdiction over any question fairly included within certified order).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.12

§ 28.12 Appeal In Bankruptcy Casesn*

[1] Appeal From Decision of District Court Exercising Original Jurisdiction in Bankruptcy Case

An appeal to a court of appeals from a final judgment, order, or decree of a district court exercising jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1334 is taken as any other civil appeal under the Appellate Rules. n1

The district courts have original but not exclusive jurisdiction in bankruptcy matters. n2 District courts have authority to refer bankruptcy cases to the bankruptcy court of each district, n3 and each district has made this reference automatic by local rule. n4 However, a district court exercises original jurisdiction in a bankruptcy case in three situations, and decisions in these situations are subject to appeal: when it enters an order or judgment in a noncore proceeding; n5 when it reviews a bankruptcy judge's proposed findings and conclusions in a noncore proceeding; n6 and when it makes a decision after it has withdrawn a case referred to a bankruptcy judge. n7

[2] Appeal From Decision of District Court or Bankruptcy Appellate Panel Exercising Appellate Jurisdiction in Bankruptcy Case

[a] Applicability of General Appellate Rules

Most of the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure that are applicable to appeals in general also apply to an appeal to a court of appeals under 28 U.S.C. § 158(d) from a final judgment, order, or decree of a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel exercising appellate jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 158(a) or (b). n1 However, there are 3 exceptions:

1. Rules 4(a)(4), 4(b), 9, 10, 11, 12(b), 13-20, 22-23, and 24(b) do not apply; n2

2. The reference in Appellate Rule 3(c) to "Form 1 in the Appendix of Forms" must be read as a reference to Form 5; n3 and

3. when the appeal is from a bankruptcy appellate panel, the term "district court," as used in any applicable rule, means "appellate panel." n4

[b] Additional Applicable Rules

[i] Additional Rules Applicable to Appeals from Courts Exercising Appellate Jurisdiction in Bankruptcy Case

In addition to the general rules made applicable by Appellate Rule 6(b)(1), special rules apply to an appeal to a court of appeals from a final judgment, order, or decree of a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel exercising appellate jurisdiction. n5 These additional rules contain regulations regarding motions for rehearing n6 and requirements for the record on appeal. n7

[ii] Motion for Rehearing

If a party files a timely motion for rehearing under Bankruptcy Rule 8015, n8 the time to appeal for all parties runs from the entry of the order disposing of the motion. A notice of appeal filed after the district court or bankruptcy appellate panel announces or enters a judgment, order, or decree, but before disposition of the motion for rehearing, becomes effective when the order disposing of the motion for rehearing is entered. n9 Appellate review of the order disposing of the motion requires the party, in compliance with Rules 3(c) and 6(b)(1)(B), to amend a previously filed notice of appeal. A party that intends to challenge an altered or amended judgment, order, or decree must file a notice of appeal or amended notice of appeal within the time prescribed by Appellate Rule 4, excluding Rules 4(a)(4) and 4(b), measured from the entry of the order disposing of the motion. n10 No additional fee is required to file an amended notice. n11

[iii] Record on Appeal

When a party takes an appeal to a court of appeals from a final judgment, order, or decree of a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel exercising appellate jurisdiction, three special rules apply regarding the record on appeal:

1. Filing of Record On Appeal. Within 14 days after filing the notice of appeal, the appellant must file with the clerk possessing the record assembled in accordance with Bankruptcy Rule 8006, and serve on the appellee, a statement of the issues to be presented on appeal and a designation of the record to be certified and sent to the circuit clerk. n12 If an appellee believes that other parts of the record are necessary, the appellee must, within 14 days after being served with the appellant's designation, file with the clerk and serve on the appellant a designation of additional parts to be included. n13 The record on appeal consists of the redesignated record as specified in the previous sentence; the proceedings in the district court or bankruptcy appellate panel; and a certified copy of the docket entries prepared by the clerk under Appellate Rule 3(d). n14

2. Forwarding the Record. When the record is complete, the district clerk or bankruptcy appellate panel clerk must number the documents constituting the record and send them promptly to the circuit clerk together with a list of the documents correspondingly numbered and reasonably identified. Unless directed to do so by a party or the circuit clerk, the clerk will not send to the court of appeals documents of unusual bulk or weight, physical exhibits other than documents, or other parts of the record designated for omission by local rule of the court of appeals. If the exhibits are unusually bulky or heavy, a party must arrange with the clerks in advance for their transportation and receipt. n15 All parties must do whatever else is necessary to enable the clerk to assemble and forward the record. The court of appeals may provide by rule or order that a certified copy of the docket entries be sent in place of the redesignated record, but any party may request at any time during the pendency of the appeal that the redesignated record be sent. n16

3. Filing the Record. When the circuit court clerk receives the record, or a certified copy of the docket entries sent in place of the redesignated record, the clerk must file it and immediately notify all parties of the filing date. n17

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Bankruptcy LawPractice & ProceedingsAppealsGeneral OverviewBankruptcy LawPractice & ProceedingsAppealsJurisdictionBankruptcy LawPractice & ProceedingsAppealsProcedures

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 306.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed R. App. P. 6(a); see 28 U.S.C. § 1334 (district court may exercise original jurisdiction in a bankruptcy case).

(n3)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1334.

(n4)Footnote 3. See 28 U.S.C. § 157(a).

(n5)Footnote 4. See 1 Collier on Bankruptcy, Ch. 3, Jurisdiction and Powers of District Courts and Bankruptcy Courts (Matthew Bender 16th ed.).

(n6)Footnote 5. 28 U.S.C. § 1334. Noncore matters are specified in 28 U.S.C. § 157.

(n7)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 157(c)(1).

(n8)Footnote 7. 28 U.S.C. § 157(d).

(n9)Footnote 1. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(1).

(n10)Footnote 2. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(1)(A).

(n11)Footnote 3. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(1)(B).

(n12)Footnote 4. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(1)(C).

(n13)Footnote 5. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2).

(n14)Footnote 6. See [ii], below.

(n15)Footnote 7. See [iii], below.

(n16)Footnote 8. See Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8015.

(n17)Footnote 9. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(A)(i).

(n18)Footnote 10. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(A)(ii).

(n19)Footnote 11. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(A)(iii).

(n20)Footnote 12. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(B)(i).

(n21)Footnote 13. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(B)(ii). Thus, the responsibility for any omissions or gaps in the appellate record is on the party whose claim of error depends for its support on any portion of the record of the proceedings below that was omitted from designation of record on appeal. In re Abijoe Realty Corp., 943 F.2d 121, 123-124 (1st Cir. 1991) .

(n22)Footnote 14. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(B)(iii).

(n23)Footnote 15. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(C)(i).

(n24)Footnote 16. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(C)(ii).

(n25)Footnote 17. Fed R. App. P. 6(b)(2)(D).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.13

§ 28.13 Bond for Costs on Appealn*

[1] District Court May Require Bond in Civil Case

Under the terms of Appellate Rule 7, the district court may require that the appellant in a civil case file a bond or provide other security in any form and amount necessary to ensure payment of costs on appeal. n1 The purpose of the bond is to give the appellee security for the payment of such costs as may be awarded under the provisions of Appellate Rule 39 in the event that the appellant is unsuccessful in the appeal. n2 This bond for costs under Appellate Rule 7 is prospective, and must be distinguished from the supersedeas bond under Appellate Rule 8, which is a retrospective bond filed to obtain a stay of execution of the judgment, and which must normally be in a sum sufficient to pay the underlying judgment and all costs, interest, and damages for delay. n3 The filing of a supersedeas bond is never mandatory. n4

The district court generally may require the appellant in any civil case to file a bond to ensure the payment of costs on appeal. n5 However, certain persons are exempt by statute from giving security for costs. A person proceeding in forma pauperis does not need to post a bond for costs, n6 provided that a party who will proceed in forma pauperis must make an affidavit that he or she is unable to pay costs or give security. n7 Seamen who institute and prosecute appeals in their own names and for their own benefit for wages or the enforcement of laws enacted for their health or safety are also exempt by statute from furnishing security. n8 Additionally, the United States government and United states entities are exempt from posting a bond for costs n9

[2] Amount of Bond

The district court has considerable discretion in the determination of the amount and nature of the bond for costs on appeal. n1 Thus, the district court may allow an alternative method of security, such as a deed to an interest in land. The circuit court will overrule the nature or amount of the bond set by the district court only if it finds that the district court abused its discretion in requiring too large a bond. n2 The amount of the bond imposed may be in any amount necessary to cover the costs of defending the appeal. n3 Thus, bonds of $5000 are commonly imposed. n4 If the amount of the bond fixed by the district court exceeds the estimated costs to defend the appeal, the circuit court will reduce the bond. n5

An appellee may make a motion to the district court requesting that it require the appellant to file a bond that will cover the anticipated costs of appeal. n6 If the court does not believe that the appellee has justified the amount of the bond requested, the court will require a bond only in the amount it determines appropriate. n7 A district court may not require an extremely large bond merely because it believes the appeal is frivolous. n8 In such cases, Appellate Rule 38, which authorizes the circuit court to award damages for a frivolous appeal, is the appropriate remedy. n9 However, a court may consider the costs of anticipated sanctions in an appeal in its determination of the amount of bond it will impose to cover an appeal that it implicitly deems frivolous. n10

[3] Bond Generally Need Not Cover Attorney's Fees

The court should generally not consider attorney's fees in determining the amount of a bond, because fees are not considered to be costs under Appellate Rule 7. n1 However, a district court may make a bond larger in cases in which the applicable substantive law makes an attorney's fee recoverable as part of the costs of suit. For example, the Copyright Act allows attorney's fees to be levied "as part of the costs." n2 Therefore, in a copyright infringement case, the amount of the appeal bond may be set to cover the appellee's attorney's fees as well as other standard cost items on appeal. n3 Another statute imposing attorney's fees as costs is the civil rights statute. n4

[4] Effect of Failure to File Bond

If the appellant fails to post the required bond, the circuit court may dismiss the appeal. n1 However, such failure does not automatically result in a dismissal, based on the court's discretion. n2 Thus, a circuit court may determine the merits of an appeal despite failure to comply with an order to post bond. n3 In one case, the circuit court reached the merits of the appeal and rejected it as frivolous; it also held that the attorney who filed the appeal without posting the required $3000 bond was personally liable for costs. n4

[5] Filing of Bond Submits Surety to Jurisdiction of Court

The final sentence of Appellate Rule 7 provides that the provisions of Appellate Rule 8(b) apply to a surety on a bond given pursuant to the rule. n1 This sentence in effect adds to Appellate Rule 7 the provisions of Appellate Rule 8(b) dealing with enforcement of a surety's liability on the bond, a procedure identical to that found in Civil Rule 65.1. Thus, the surety on a bond for costs filed with a district court is subject to that court's jurisdiction. n2 Furthermore, by giving bond to secure the payment of the costs on appeal, the surety irrevocably appoints the clerk of the district court as the agent on whom any papers affecting the liability on the bond may be served and agrees that the liability may be determined on motion filed in the district court without the necessity of an independent action. That practice provides a simple, expeditious, and inexpensive manner of determining the liability of the surety. All that the party who elects to proceed against a surety for unpaid costs need do is to file a motion for an order directing the surety to pay the costs, accompanied by such affidavits in support of the motion as are necessary. Service of the motion and accompanying affidavits and such notice of the motion as the court prescribes gives the district court jurisdiction. Motion and notice may be served on the clerk of the district court, who is required to mail copies to the sureties if their addresses are known. Counsel should ensure that the surety receives actual notice, because it has been held that a judgment against the surety may not stand where notice has not been given. n3 Although Rules 7 and 8 refer only to enforcement of the surety's liability on a cost bond, the principal's liability may also be enforced in a summary proceeding on motion and notice. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsCosts & Attorney Fees

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 307.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed R. App. P. 7.

(n3)Footnote 2. Lundy v. Union Carbide Corp., 598 F. Supp. 451, 452 (D. Or. 1984) (when appellees made no attempt to estimate costs of transcription of portions of record they requested, and did not attempt to justify their request for bond in the amount of $2500, bond in the amount of $500 was appropriate).

(n4)Footnote 3. Adsani v. Miller, 139 F.3d 67, 70-71 (2d Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 875, 119 S. Ct. 176, 142 L. Ed. 2d 144 (1998) .

(n5)Footnote 4. The Astoria, 1 F.R.D. 742, 743 (E.D.N.Y. 1941) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed R. App. P. 7.

(n7)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 1915; Cruz v. Hauck, 404 U.S. 59, 65-66, 92 S. Ct. 313, 30 L. Ed. 2d 217 (1971) .

(n8)Footnote 7. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a).

(n9)Footnote 8. 28 U.S.C. § 1916.

(n10)Footnote 9. 28 U.S.C. § 2408.

(n11)Footnote 1. Terry Inv. Co. v. United Funding & Investors Inc., 800 F. Supp. 879, 882 (E.D. Cal. 1992) ; Sckolnick v. Harlow, 820 F.2d 13, 15 (1st Cir. 1987) .

(n12)Footnote 2. Sckolnick v. Harlow, 820 F.2d 13, 15 (1st Cir. 1987) (district court did not abuse discretion in ordering plaintiff to post $5,000 bond for costs).

(n13)Footnote 3. In re American President Lines, Inc., 779 F.2d 714, 716 (D.C. Cir. 1985) .

(n14)Footnote 4. See, e.g., Westinghouse Credit Corp. v. Bader & Dufty, 627 F.2d 221, 224 (10th Cir. 1980) .

(n15)Footnote 5. In re American President Lines, Inc., 779 F.2d 714, 718 (D.C. Cir. 1985) .

(n16)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 8.

(n17)Footnote 7. Lundy v. Union Carbide Corp., 598 F. Supp. 451, 452 (D. Or. 1984) (court awarded $500 bond because appellees made no attempt to estimate transcription costs of record or justify request for $2500 bond).

(n18)Footnote 8. In re American President Lines, Inc., 779 F.2d 714, 718 (D.C. Cir. 1985) (excessive bond amount is not acceptable control against frivolous appeal).

(n19)Footnote 9. In re American President Lines, Inc., 779 F.2d 714, 717 n.23 (D.C. Cir. 1985) .

(n20)Footnote 10. Sckolnick v. Harlow, 820 F.2d 13, 15 (1st Cir. 1987) ($5,000 bond amount upheld based on anticipation of sanctions for appeal that could be frivolous).

(n21)Footnote 1. Terry Inv. Co. v. United Funding & Investors Inc., 800 F. Supp. 879, 882 (E.D. Cal. 1992) (bond under Appellate Rule 7 may not include attorney's fees).

(n22)Footnote 2. 15 U.S.C. § 505.

(n23)Footnote 3. Adsani v. Miller, 139 F.3d 67, 71-79 (2d Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 875 (1998) (district court did not abuse its discretion in copyright case in imposing appeal bond of $35,000).

(n24)Footnote 4. See 42 U.S.C. § 1988.

(n25)Footnote 1. Sckolnick v. Harlow, 820 F.2d 13, 15 (1st Cir. 1987) (court upheld order requiring cost bond under Appellate Rule 7 and informing appellant that failure to comply would result in dismissal of appeal).

(n26)Footnote 2. Carr v. Grace, 516 F.2d 502, 504 (5th Cir. 1975) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that failure to effect timely filing of the bond does not, without more, result in dismissal).

(n27)Footnote 3. Perry v. Pogemiller, 16 F.3d 138, 139 n.1 (7th Cir. 1993) (motion to dismiss case for failure to post cost bond denied as moot since court had already reached merits).

(n28)Footnote 4. Buffington v. First Serv. Corp., 672 F.2d 687, 690 n.5 (8th Cir. 1982) (attorney personally liable for double costs for filing repetitious and frivolous appeal).

(n29)Footnote 1. Fed R. App. P. 7.

(n30)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 7.

(n31)Footnote 3. The Astoria, 1 F.R.D. 742, 743 (E.D.N.Y. 1941) .

(n32)Footnote 4. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Hurley, 151 F.2d 751, 754 (1st Cir. 1945) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.14

§ 28.14 Stay or Injunction Pending Appealn*

[1] Introduction

When a party files an appeal, the filing itself does not act to suspend execution or enforcement of a judgment or injunction; a party must make a motion for a stay and it must be granted before the judgment is suspended. Appellate Rule 8 regulates the procedure in civil matters for an application for a stay of the judgment or order of a district court pending appeal. n1 It also governs approval of a supersedeas bond, n2 or for an order suspending, modifying, restoring, or granting an injunction pending an appeal. n3 The relief sought under Appellate Rule 8 may be conditioned on the giving of a bond by the party requesting the relief. n4 A stay from an agency order is governed by Appellate Rule 18. n5 Appellate Rule 8 must be read in conjunction with Civil Rule 62, n6 which governs the power of a district court to grant stays and injunctions, because under Appellate Rule 8, these applications must first be brought in the district court. n7 In this regard, Appellate Rule 8 provides the procedure to be followed in the circuit court if relief is denied by the district court. A motion for a stay or injunctive relief may be brought in the circuit court only on a showing that an application to the district court is not practicable or has been denied. n8

[2] Initial Motion for Stay Must Be In District Court

A party must ordinarily move first in the district court for any of the following three types of relief: n1

1. A stay of the judgment or order of a district court pending appeal. n2

2. Approval of a supersedeas bond. n3

3. An order suspending, modifying, restoring, or granting an injunction while an appeal is pending. n4

Even though the circuits ordinarily require that a party seek a stay pending appeal first in the district court, the circuit court may dispense with this requirement when an application to the district court would be futile or serve little purpose. n5

An appeal from a judgment does not automatically suspend operation or execution of the judgment until the determination of the appeal. n6 Therefore, unless a judgment awarding money or property is stayed, the judgment may be executed on despite the fact that an appeal is pending. n7 If the judgment grants an injunction, the injunction is effective as ordered unless stayed. n8 If the district court has denied an injunction, the prevailing party may engage in the conduct sought to be restrained unless an injunction pending appeal is obtained. n9 If the judgment denies a declaration of rights, the prevailing party may behave as if the rights do not exist unless a stay is entered. n10

In order to obtain a stay of a district court order pending appeal, the moving party is required to show the district court: its strong position on the merits of the appeal; irreparable injury if a stay is denied; that a stay would not substantially harm other parties to the litigation; and that public interests favor the stay. n11

Ordinarily, a stay of the judgment of the district court pending appeal may be obtained as of right by offering a supersedeas bond with sufficient surety in an amount adequate to protect the interests of the appellee. n12 On the entry of an ordinary judgment awarding money or property its effect is automatically stayed until expiration of 14 days after its entry. n13 The reason for the automatic stay is to give the losing party time to determine what steps, if any, are available to attack the judgment. If an appeal is taken, Civil Rule 62(d) provides that an appellant may obtain a stay by giving a supersedeas bond, and that the stay is effective when the supersedeas bond is approved by the court. The amount and conditions of the bond are subject to the district court's determination. n14 The appellant should then present the supersedeas bond to the court for its approval. n15 As provided in Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(a) and 62(c), three kinds of judgments are excepted from the general rule that a party may obtain a stay as of right by filing a sufficient supersedeas bond: (1) an interlocutory or final judgment in an action for an injunction; (2) an interlocutory or final judgment in a receivership action; (3) a judgment or order directing an accounting in an action for patent infringement. Such judgments are not subject to the automatic 14-day stay provision of Fed. R. Civ. P. 62, and a stay or injunction pending appeal from them is discretionary with the district court. n16 Stays or injunctions pending appeals from such judgments must be sought on motion and notice. n17

[3] Motion for Stay In Appellate Court

If the motion in the district court for stay pending appeal, supersedeas bond, or order suspending, modifying, restoring, or granting an injunction while an appeal is pending is unsuccessful in the district court, a motion for such relief may be made to the court of appeals or to one of its judges. n1 The motion to the court of appeals must meet the following requirements:

1. The motion must show that moving first in the district court would be impracticable, n2 or state that a motion was made in the district court, that the district court denied the motion or failed to afford the relief requested, and state any reasons given by the district court for its action. n3 A showing of impracticability may be made by a showing that the district judge is unavailable, or that, to be effective, relief must be immediate, and that based on the proceedings in the district court, relief from it was improbable. n4

2. The motion must state the reasons for granting the relief requested and the facts relied on. n5

3. The motion must include originals or copies of affidavits or other sworn statements supporting facts subject to dispute. n6

4. The motion must contain relevant parts of the record. n7

5. The moving party must give reasonable notice of the motion to all parties. n8

6. The motion must be filed with the circuit court clerk. n9

The motion will be considered by a panel of the circuit court of appeals, but in an exceptional case in which time requirements make that procedure impracticable, the motion may be made to and considered by a single judge. n10

[4] Security for Stay or Other Relief

The court may condition a stay or an order regarding injunctive relief on a party's filing a bond or other appropriate security in the district court. n1 This type of bond is known as a supersedeas bond, and the bond is retrospective in nature because it covers sums related to the merits of the underlying judgment and the stay of its execution. In contrast, the bond under Appellate Rule 7 n2 is prospective in nature, relating to potential expenses of litigating the appeal. n3 Therefore, under Appellate Rule 8, questions respecting liability under the bond are to be submitted in the first instance to the district court. n4 The district court is the more convenient forum to determine these issues, because the amount of damages sustained by reason of a stay or injunction often depends on evidence, and the district court is in a better position to hear the evidence and make findings of fact. The determination of the district court is reviewable in the circuit court as a final decision. n5

The scope of a surety's liability under a supersedeas bond is determined by the language of the bond and the intent of the parties. n6 If the bond is conditioned to secure satisfaction of the judgment in full with costs, interest, and damages for delay, and the judgment is entirely affirmed, the surety is liable for the payment of those items to the extent of the amount of the bond. n7 If, after an appeal, there remains a question of whether any compensable harm was done, the bond may lapse. If, however, an appellee has proven that damages are due and the court remands merely to determine the amount of the injury, the surety remains liable. n8

If a party gives security in the form of a bond or stipulation or other undertaking with one or more sureties, each surety submits to the jurisdiction of the district court and irrevocably appoints the district clerk as the surety's agent who must receive service of any papers affecting the surety's liability on the bond or undertaking. On motion, a surety's liability may be enforced in the district court without the necessity of an independent action. The motion and any notice that the district court prescribes may be served on the district clerk, who must promptly mail a copy to each surety whose address is known. n9 If no notice is given, a judgment against the surety will not be entered. n10

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsStays Pending AppealsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsEntry of JudgmentsStays Pending AppealsSupersedeas BondsCivil ProcedureAppealsMotions on Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 308.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(A); see [2], below.

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(B).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(C).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(E).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 18.

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. Civ. P. 62.

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1).

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2); see [3], below.

(n10)Footnote 1. A.C.L.U. of Ohio Foundation, Inc. v. Robert Ashbrook, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14096 , 3, n.1 (N.D. Ohio 2002) (although notice of appeal filed with circuit court would ordinarily divest district court of jurisdiction, Appellate Rules 8(a)(1)(A) and (C) require party requesting stay to first seek stay in district court under Civil Rule 62(c) before party may apply for stay with circuit court).

(n11)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(A).

(n12)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(B).

(n13)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(C).

(n14)Footnote 5. Homans v City of Albuquerque, 264 F.3d 1240, 1243 (10th Cir. 2001) .

(n15)Footnote 6. NLRB v. Cincinnati Bronze, Inc., 829 F.2d 585, 588 (6th Cir. 1987) (district court may take steps to enforce order in absence of stay pending appeal).

(n16)Footnote 7. C.H. Sanders Co. v. BHAP Housing Dev. Fund Co., 750 F. Supp. 67, 69 (E.D.N.Y.) , rev'd in part on other grounds, 903 F.2d 114 (2d Cir. 1990) .

(n17)Footnote 8. See In re Montes, 677 F.2d 415, 417 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n18)Footnote 9. Fink v. Continental Foundry & Mach. Co., 240 F.2d 369, 373-374 (7th Cir. 1957) , cert. denied, 354 U.S. 938 (1957) (sale of assets consummated when minority shareholders' application for permanent injunction was denied).

(n19)Footnote 10. Heikkila v. Barber, 164 F. Supp. 587, 591 (N.D. Cal. 1958) (in absence of stay, filing of motion to amend decision after final judgment was entered did not operate to prevent plaintiff's deportation).

(n20)Footnote 11. Securities Investor Protection Corp. v. Blinder, Robinson & Co., Inc., 962 F.2d 960, 963 (10th Cir. 1992) .

(n21)Footnote 12. Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(d).

(n22)Footnote 13. Fed. R. Civ. P. 62(a).

(n23)Footnote 14. Lightfoot v. Walker, 797 F.2d 505, 507 (7th Cir. 1986) (court of appeals refused to overturn district court's requirement of bond, stating that responsibility for the decision is granted initially to district court, and its decision should not be reversed absent abuse of discretion).

(n24)Footnote 15. Poplar Grove v. Bache Halsey Stuart, Inc., 600 F.2d 1189, 1192 (5th Cir. 1979) .

(n25)Footnote 16. See Beaver Cloth Cutting Machs., Inc. v. H. Maimin Co., 37 F.R.D. 47 (S.D.N.Y. 1964) , rev'd on other grounds, 343 F.2d 442 (2d Cir. 1965) (construing former time periods).

(n26)Footnote 17. See Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(1)(A).

(n27)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2).

(n28)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(A)(i).

(n29)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(A)(ii).

(n30)Footnote 4. Chemical Weapons Working Group v. Department of the Army, 101 F.3d 1360, 1363 (10th Cir. 1996) ; Tape Head Co. v. RCA Corp., 452 F.2d 816, 818 (10th Cir. 1971) ; Bulluck v. Washington, 452 F.2d 1385, 1386 n.6 (D.C. Cir. 1971) .

(n31)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(B)(i).

(n32)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(B)(ii).

(n33)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(B)(iii).

(n34)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(C).

(n35)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(D).

(n36)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(D).

(n37)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 8(a)(2)(E).

(n38)Footnote 2. See § 28.13.

(n39)Footnote 3. Adsani v. Miller, 139 F.3d 67, 70 (2d Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 875, 119 S. Ct. 176, 142 L. Ed. 2d 144 (1998) .

(n40)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 8(b).

(n41)Footnote 5. Neeley v. Bankers Trust Co., 848 F.2d 658, 659 (5th Cir. 1988) (affirming district court's order releasing intervenor from liability as surety on supersedeas bond).

(n42)Footnote 6. Aviation Credit Corp. v. Conner Air Lines, Inc., 307 F.2d 685, 688 (5th Cir. 1962) , cert. denied, 371 U.S. 954 (1963) .

(n43)Footnote 7. Rector v. Massachusetts Bonding & Ins. Co., 191 F.2d 329, 331-333 (D.C. Cir. 1951) (liability on supersedeas bond depends on retrospective evaluation of extent to which judgment has been affected by appeal).

(n44)Footnote 8. Beatrice Foods Co. v. New England Printing and Lithographing Co., 930 F.2d 1572, 1576 (Fed. Cir. 1991) (remand regarding damages in patent infringement action).

(n45)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 8(b).

(n46)Footnote 10. The Astoria, 1 F.R.D. 742, 743 (E.D.N.Y. 1941) (motion to vacate judgment against surety granted because of failure to give notice).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.15

§ 28.15 Record on Appeal

[1] Purpose of Record on Appeal

The "record on appeal" is the official compilation for appellate purposes of the documents, evidence, and transcript of proceedings as they were presented to the district court. n1 While the trial record includes all the material and documentation generated or filed in the district court, the record on appeal includes only that which is needed for review of the issues to be presented on appeal. n2 For example, the record on appeal may consist of the original papers and exhibits filed in the district court, the transcript of proceedings, and a certified copy of the districts court's docket entries. n3 A record on appeal is required not only for appeal of cases in which a final judgment has been rendered but also for interlocutory appeals. n4

The contents of the record as it is presented to the circuit court determine and limit the issues that may be addressed on appeal. Because the function of the circuit court is to review district court decisions, the record on appeal is generally limited to material that was presented to the district court. n5 Failure to include portions of the record that are necessary to review any particular issue raised on appeal may result in the circuit court's refusing to address that issue, n6 or even dismissing the appeal. n7

[2] Composition of Record on Appeal n*

[a] Items Included in Record

All of the following items that have any bearing on the appellate issues n1 are included in the record on appeal:

1. The original papers n2 and exhibits n3 filed in the district court; n4

2. The transcript of proceedings, if any; n5 and

3. A certified copy of the docket entries prepared by the district clerk. n6

[b] Original Papers

"Original papers" include all documents filed with, and presented to, the district court for filing. n7 Thus, the term includes all documents presented and filed with the court, whether by a party or by the district judge. n8 Although filing is defined in Civil Rule 5, cases addressing this issue in an appeal context are usually resolved on a factual, case-by-case basis. n9 The following nonexhaustive list contains examples of documents that are classified as original papers:

1. Pleadings. n10

2. Process and proof of service. n11

3. Pretrial orders. n12

4. Court memoranda. n13

5. Affidavits. n14

While the definition of original papers is broad enough to include documentary evidence, an evidentiary document does not become part of the record merely by being filed; it must also have been offered into evidence. n15 Original papers also do not include documents filed with the district court after the proceedings at issue have been completed or documents related to proceedings other than the one being appealed. n16 However, some documents may become part of the record with circuit court approval, even though they were not presented to the district court, and therefore not original papers. n17

[c] Exhibits

The record on appeal includes exhibits filed in the district court and offered into evidence. n18 This category includes all documentary and physical exhibits filed and offered in evidence whether ultimately admitted in evidence or not. n19 Like testimony of witnesses, the exhibits are necessary to allow the circuit court to review the rulings in the district court. If exhibits relevant to an issue on appeal are not included in the record, the circuit court may refuse to address that issue. n20 An exhibit offered into evidence, but excluded by the court, is a necessary part of the record if the circuit court will be called on to rule regarding its admissibility, n21 and must be placed in the district clerk's custody to facilitate transmission to the circuit court. n22 Exhibits offered but excluded by the district court are part of the record on appeal. n23 While excluded evidence is by definition not considered by the district court in its decision, if its admissibility is in issue, it must be included in the record to allow review of the issue. n24

Attorneys must ensure that all exhibits are properly identified and offered at trial, notwithstanding any exhibit's exclusion as evidence. Appellate Rule 10 seems to assume that all exhibits at a trial are automatically retained on file with the district court clerk. In many district courts, however, at the end of a trial the exhibits are returned to the parties. Counsel should exercise care with the exhibits, because when an appeal is taken, counsel are expected then to file the exhibits with the district clerk. n25 If an exhibit is offered into evidence and viewed by the district court, but inadvertently not filed with the district clerk, it may still be included in the record by filing and transmitting a supplemental record. The rationale for inclusion is that the exhibit, even if not officially made part of the record, was in fact a part of the record because it was reviewed by the district court and could have contributed to the decision. n26

[d] Transcript of Proceedings

[i] Transcript in Existence is Included in Record

If there is a transcript of the district court proceedings, the transcript is included in the record on appeal. n27 The court reporter is required by statute to create a report of the district court proceedings, unless the parties agree with the approval of the district court not to have all proceedings reported. n28 The court reporter's verbatim report of the entire proceedings is normally not transcribed, that is, converted from stenographic notes or tapes into a typed document, unless a party or the court requests a transcript, as discussed below. Under Appellate Rule 10(b), the parties must designate those parts of the transcript they will need, so that the court reporter can prepare them and file them with the district clerk. When parts of the transcript that are necessary for review of the issues are omitted from the record, one alternative is for the circuit court to order the transcript to be filed. n29

[ii] Duty of Appellant to Order Transcript

The appellant is responsible for providing the necessary transcripts to the court of appeals, and if the appellant does not, the court of appeals may dismiss an either the entire appeal or some of the issues on appeal when the failure to provide the transcripts prevents meaningful appellate review. However, dismissal is not mandatory, and the circuit court may consider issues on appeal if appellate review is possible without the use of transcripts. n30

Within 14 days after filing the notice of appeal or entry of an order disposing of the last timely remaining motion of a type specified in Appellate Rule 4(a)(4)(A), whichever is later, the appellant must either order a transcript n31 or file a certificate stating that no transcript will be ordered. n32 If the appellant elects to order a transcript, the appellant must order from the reporter a transcript of such parts of the proceedings not already on file as the appellant considers necessary, subject to any local rule of the court of appeals and with the following qualifications:

1. The order must be in writing. n33

2. If the cost of the transcript is to be paid by the United States under the Criminal Justice Act, the order must state so. n34

3. The appellant must, within the same period, file a copy of the order with the district clerk. n35

[iii] Appellant Urging Unsupported Finding or Conclusion

If the appellant intends to argue on appeal that a finding or conclusion is unsupported by the evidence or is contrary to the evidence, the appellant must include in the record a transcript of all evidence relevant to that finding or conclusion. n36 Therefore, if a party contends on appeal that a district court's finding was unsupported by the evidence, the party has the burden of including in the record a transcript of evidence pertinent to that finding, and a mere statement of issues does not adequately substitute for a transcript in this regard. n37

[iv] Partial Transcript

The appellant has the option to order a partial transcript. To order a partial transcript, the appellant must, within the 14 days provided in Appellate Rule 10(b)(1), file a statement of the issues that the appellant intends to present on the appeal. The appellant must also serve on the appellee a copy of both the order of transcript, or certificate that it will not be ordered, and the statement of issues. n38 If the entire transcript is not ordered, and the appellee considers it necessary to have a transcript of other parts of the proceedings, the appellee must, within 10 days after the service of the order or certificate and the statement of the issues, file and serve on the appellant a designation of additional parts to be ordered. n39 Finally, unless within 14 days after service of that designation the appellant has ordered all such parts, and has so notified the appellee, the appellee may, within the following 14 days, either order the parts or move in the district court for an order requiring the appellant to do so. n40

[v] Payment for Transcript

When a party orders a transcript, the ordering party must make satisfactory arrangements with the reporter to pay the cost of the transcript. n41 By statute, the reporter may require any party requesting a transcript to prepay the estimated fee. n42 This requirement and an agreement to pay any balance, is the satisfactory arrangement for payment that is referred to in Appellate Rule 10(b)(4). Additionally, on the request of any party to any proceeding which has been recorded who has agreed to pay the fee, or of a judge of the court, the reporter or other individual designated to produce the record must promptly transcribe the original records of the requested parts of the proceedings and attach to the transcript his or her official certificate, and deliver the transcription to the party or judge making the request. n43

Thus, once the requesting party pays the estimated cost and obligates himself or herself to pay the balance, the reporter may not refuse to deliver a certified copy to the clerk for inclusion in the record simply because the appellant has not paid the balance. n44 After completing the transcript, the reporter is required to provide the district court with a certified copy. The fee paid for preparation of a transcript prepared for appeal is taxable as a cost of litigation. n45 However, the cost of the transcript is regarded as a cost incurred in the district court, rather than in the circuit court. n46 This means that the prevailing party must make a separate application for this expenditure in the district court after the mandate has been issued by the circuit court. n47

[vi] Statement of Evidence When Transcript Unavailable

If a transcript of a hearing or trial is not available, for example, when the proceedings were not recorded, the appellant may prepare a statement of the evidence or proceedings from the best available means, including the appellant's recollection. The statement must be served on the appellee, who may serve objections or proposed amendments within 14 days after being served. The statement and any objections or proposed amendments must then be submitted to the district court for settlement and approval. As settled and approved, the statement must be included by the district clerk in the record on appeal. n48

The term "unavailable" is not defined in the rule but includes the failure to record portions of a trial, n49 and inadvertent destruction of reporter's notes before transcription. n50 When an appellant prepares a statement of the evidence or proceedings using the "best available means, including the appellant's recollection," the appellant may draw on any reasonable source to prepare a statement. However, a mere oral recounting of proceedings is not sufficient. n51 Use of affidavits by persons with knowledge of the material is an example of an acceptable means of preparing a statement. n52

After a statement is settled and approved by the district court, n53 the statement is filed with the district clerk and becomes part of the record. If the statement is not approved, although it is still technically part of the record, it will not be considered by the circuit court in determining the issues on appeal, n54 unless the failure to approve the statement was the result of judicial error on the part of the district judge. n55 Alternatively, the proponent of the statement may petition the court of appeals for writ of mandamus asking the circuit court to direct the district court to approve a proffered statement, which the court of appeals may grant provided that the proponent shows a special risk of irreparable harm, and a clear demonstration of entitlement to the relief requested, i.e., that the district court's order was erroneous. n56 Once the record is reconstructed and approved by the district court, the circuit court must accept the accuracy of the reconstruction unless the court finds it to be intentionally falsified or obviously unreasonable. n57

[e] Certified Copy of Docket Entries

The last part of the record on appeal is a certified copy of the docket entries prepared by the district clerk. n58 Docket entries include, in chronological order, brief descriptions of all of the following: n59

1. All documents filed with the clerk;

2. Oral and written orders made by the district court;

3. Processes issued and returned;

4. Appearances; and

5. Verdicts and judgments rendered.

The primary purpose of this rule is to establish those entries that were actually docketed by the district clerk and to prevent parties from attempting to argue that entries were included in the docket when such entries were not docketed by the clerk. n60 However, even though purported entries may not be considered when they are not included in certified copies of the docket entries prepared by the district clerk, the court may open the record on appeal to include the extra-record docket entries if a party files a formal motion to supplement the record with such entries, under Appellate Rule 10(e) and the circuit court's inherent equitable power to supplement the record on appeal. n61

[3] Agreed Statement of Record on Appeal n*

In lieu of presenting a record on appeal as defined in Appellate Rule 10(a), n1 the parties may prepare, sign, and submit to the district court a statement of the case showing how the issues presented by the appeal arose and were decided in the district court. The statement must set forth only those facts averred and proved or sought to be proved that are essential to the court's resolution of the issues. If the statement is truthful, the statement (and any additions that the district court may consider necessary to a full presentation of the issues on appeal) must be approved by the district court and must then be certified to the court of appeals as the record on appeal. The district clerk must then send it to the circuit clerk within the time provided by Appellate Rule 11. A copy of the agreed statement may be filed in place of the appendix required by Appellate Rule 30. n2

The purpose of an agreed statement of record is to provide an inexpensive method of bringing the record before the circuit court in cases where the only questions presented depend on facts or evidence that is not in dispute. n3 An agreed statement may make unnecessary an expensive transcription. n4 Thus, as an alternative to proceeding in the circuit court on the record of the district court described in Appellate Rule 10(a), the parties may prepare an agreed statement under Appellate Rule 10(d), establishing their version of the basis of the questions presented by the appeal, and how they were decided in the district court, setting forth only that information that is essential to a decision on appeal. The agreed statement should include the essential facts of the case and address the crux of the issues on appeal and their resolution in the district court. Once the agreed statement is approved by the district court it becomes the record on appeal. n5

[4] Correction or Modification of the Record n*

Any dispute as to whether the record on appeal truly discloses what occurred in the district court must be submitted to and settled by the district court, and the record on appeal conformed accordingly. n1 Because parties have this procedure available in the district court, a party may not attack the accuracy of the record on appeal by submitting a brief or an oral argument directly to the circuit court of appeals; in other words, Appellate Rule 10(e) provides the exclusive method for settling disputes concerning the accuracy of the district court record. n2

A district court's disposition of the dispute about the record is conclusive, n3 unless a party can establish that the district court misrepresented the contents of the record. n4 The purpose of Appellate Rule 10(e) is to ensure that the record on appeal accurately reflects proceedings in the trial court, and therefore to facilitate the appellate court's ability to review the trial court decision in light of information that was actually before the trial court, and not to enable the losing party to merely add new material to the record in order to collaterally attack the trial court's decision. n5

If anything material to either party is omitted from or misstated in the record by error or accident, the omission or misstatement may be corrected, and a supplemental record may be certified and forwarded in any one of the following three ways:

1. By stipulation of the parties. n6 The parties may thus stipulate to correct or include matters in the record without involving the district or circuit court. n7 However, the parties may not use the stipulation procedure as a means of introducing any matter that was not before the trial court. n8

2. By the district court before or after the record has been forwarded. n9 This power of the district court is an exception to the general rule that the district court ceases to have jurisdiction once a case has been appealed. n10

3. By the court of appeals. n11

All other questions as to the form and content of the record must be presented to the court of appeals. n12 Thus, the circuit court may order the certification and transmittal of a supplemental record in order to rectify an error or omission in the record. n13 The circuit court also may remand the case to the district court for supplementation of the record. n14

Any questions other than about the form and content of the record, other than omissions or misstatements, must be presented directly to the court of appeals. n15 This authority of the circuit court is broader in scope than that granted to the district court, because the circuit court must depend on a second-hand version of the proceedings in the district court. The authority allows the circuit court to view material necessary to decide the appeal. Nevertheless, the general principle of restricting the record on appeal to material presented to the district court limits the circuit court's power to supplement the record with new material except in exceptional circumstances. n16

[5] Forwarding the Record n*

[a] Appellant's Duties

At the time an appellant files a notice of appeal, the appellant has the responsibility to order a transcript for appeal, to perform other duties specified in Appellate Rule 10(b), and to do whatever else is necessary to enable the clerk to assemble and forward the record. n1 Thus, the appellant is responsible for relevant portions of the transcript of the proceedings in the district court and relevant exhibits introduced in the district court. The appellant may complete its duty in this regard by arranging with the court reporter to produce a transcript pursuant to Appellate Rule 10(b) and taking steps necessary to see that all necessary papers, including exhibits that may have been returned to the parties, are provided to the district clerk for inclusion in the record on appeal. n2 The appellant should exercise care in evaluating the issues on appeal and determining what portions of the transcript, exhibits, and documents are necessary to present the appeal because omissions of relevant material from the record on appeal will place the appellant at a disadvantage. n3. For example, the circuit court may decline to reach the merits of an appellant's claim if the appellant fails to include relevant material on the issue. n4 While the circuit court may request from the district clerk docketed material that was not transmitted, the circuit court is not obligated to make such a request. n5

[b] Reporter's Duties

A reporter of proceedings has several duties with regard to the preparation and filing of a transcript. When the reporter receives an order for a transcript, the reporter must enter at the foot of the order the date of its receipt and the expected completion date and send a copy with those endorsements to the circuit clerk. n6 If the transcript cannot be completed within 30 days of the reporter's receipt of the order, the reporter may request the circuit clerk to grant additional time to complete it. The circuit clerk must note on the docket the action taken and notify the parties. n7 When the transcript is complete, the reporter must file it with the district clerk and notify the circuit clerk of the filing. n8 If the reporter fails to file the transcript on time, the circuit clerk must notify the district judge and take any other action that the court of appeals directs. n9 The appellant may also request that the district court or circuit court take steps to compel the production of the transcript, including imposing sanctions or monetary penalties on the reporter. n10

[c] District Clerk's Duties

After assembly of the record is complete, the district clerk must number the documents constituting the record and send them promptly to the circuit clerk with a list of the documents correspondingly numbered and reasonably identified. n11 If there are multiple appeals from a judgment or order, the clerk must forward a single record. n12

Unless directed to do so by a party or the circuit court clerk, the district court clerk will not send to the court of appeals documents of unusual bulk or weight, physical exhibits other than documents, or other parts of the record designated for omission by local rule of the court of appeals. If the exhibits are unusually bulky or heavy, the party with responsibility for the exhibits must arrange with the clerks in advance for their transportation and receipt. n13

[d] Record Retained Temporarily in District Court for Use by Parties in Preparing Appeal

If the parties need the record to prepare their papers on appeal, the parties may stipulate, or the district court on motion may order, that the district clerk retain the record temporarily for the parties to use. In that event, the district clerk must certify to the circuit clerk that the record on appeal is complete. On receipt of the appellee's brief, or earlier if the district court orders or the parties agree, the appellant must request the district clerk to forward the record. n14

[e] Record Copied or Retained by Order of Court

The court of appeals may by order or local rule provide that a certified copy of the docket entries be forwarded instead of the entire record; however, a party may at any time during the appeal request that designated parts of the record be forwarded. n15 The district court may order the record or some part of it retained if the court needs it while the appeal is pending; however, the retention by the district court is subject to request for forwarding by the court of appeals. n16 If part or all of the record is ordered retained, the district clerk must send to the court of appeals a copy of the order and the docket entries together with the parts of the original record allowed by the district court and copies of any parts of the record designated by the parties. n17

[f] Record Retained by Stipulation of the Parties

The parties may agree by written stipulation filed in the district court that designated parts of the record be retained in the district court subject to call by the court of appeals or request by a party. The parts of the record so designated remain a part of the record on appeal. n18

[g] Portion of Record Forwarded for Use in Court of Appeals

When certain motions are made by either party to the appeal, the district court may be required to send a portion of the record to the court of appeals before the time that the entire record is sent. The district clerk must send the court of appeals any parts of the record designated by a party before the entire record is required to be forwarded, if any party makes any of the following motions in the court of appeals: motion for dismissal; motion for release; motion for a stay pending appeal; motion for additional security on the bond on appeal or on a supersedeas bond; or motion for any other intermediate order. n19

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsRecords on Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. Controlled Demolition, Inc. v. F.A. Wilhelm Constr. Co., 84 F.3d 263, 269 (7th Cir. 1996) .

(n3)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a); see [2], below.

(n4)Footnote 4. In re All Maine Asbestos Litigation (PNS Cases), 772 F.2d 1023, 1026 n.5 (1st Cir. 1985) (parties must comply with responsibilities under Appellate Rule 10 by filing and assembling record for interlocutory appeal).

(n5)Footnote 5. McClendon v. Indiana Sugars, Inc., 108 F.3d 789, 795 (7th Cir. 1997) (evidence not admitted in district court is not part of record and may not be included in appellate brief); Dakota Indus. v. Dakota Sportswear Inc., 988 F.2d 61, 63-64 (8th Cir. 1993) (generally, appellate court may consider only record made before district court).

(n6)Footnote 6. Hotaling v. Chubb Sovereign Life Ins. Co., 241 F.3d 572, 581, n.5 (7th Cir. 2001) (appellant's failure to file trial transcript from bench trial results in forfeiture of any argument that district court's factual findings were against weight of evidence); Carter v. Jacobsen, 748 F.2d 487, 488-89 (8th Cir. 1984) (when trial transcript was not included in record, claim that district court erred in admitting certain evidence could not be reviewed).

(n7)Footnote 7. LaFollette v. Savage, 63 F.3d 540, 545 (7th Cir. 1995) (failure of appellant to abide by Appellate Rule 10 may result in dismissal of appeal).

(n8)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 310.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n9)Footnote 1. Controlled Demolition, Inc. v. F.A. Wilhelm Constr. Co., 84 F.3d 263, 269 (7th Cir. 1996) .

(n10)Footnote 2. See [b], below.

(n11)Footnote 3. See [c], below.

(n12)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(1).

(n13)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(2); see [d], below.

(n14)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(3); see [e], below.

(n15)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(1).

(n16)Footnote 8. In re Arthur Andersen & Co., 621 F.2d 37, 39 (1st Cir. 1980) ("original papers" refers to all papers presented to and filed by district court).

(n17)Footnote 9. In re Arthur Andersen & Co., 621 F.2d 37, 39 (1st Cir. 1980) .

(n18)Footnote 10. United States v. Gilbertson, 111 F.2d 978 (7th Cir. 1940) (material pleadings required to be included as part of record).

(n19)Footnote 11. United States v. IBM Corp., 67 F.R.D. 618, 619 (S.D.N.Y. 1975) (original papers including proof of service must be filed in clerk's office).

(n20)Footnote 12. Kori Corp. v. Wilco Marsh Buggies and Draglines, Inc., 761 F.2d 649, 653 (Fed. Cir. 1985) , cert. denied, 474 U.S. 902 (1985) (record on appeal includes all original papers filed in district court including pretrial orders).

(n21)Footnote 13. Brown v. United States, 277 F.2d 201, 202 (8th Cir. 1960) (memorandum of judge considered part of original papers).

(n22)Footnote 14. United States v. Sclafani, 487 F.2d 245, 253 n.7 (2d Cir. 1973) , cert. denied, 414 U.S. 1023 (1974) (affidavit certified and transmitted to court pursuant to Appellate Rule 10(e) was part of record on appeal).

(n23)Footnote 15. Fleming v. Gulf Oil Corp., 547 F.2d 908, 911 (10th Cir. 1977) (appellee was not allowed to create new evidence to supplement record, because only evidence that had been before trial court may be considered on appeal); see [c], below.

(n24)Footnote 16. Tonry v. Security Experts, Inc., 20 F.3d 967, 974 (9th Cir. 1994) (appellant violated Appellate Rule 10 by citing unfiled arbitration award and underlying proceeding challenging factual findings of district court).

(n25)Footnote 17. United States v. Marren, 890 F.2d 924, 934 (7th Cir. 1989) (judicial notice taken of indictment and transcript of sentencing proceeding to aid court in reviewing claim); see [3],[4], below.

(n26)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(1).

(n27)Footnote 19. United States v. Burke, 781 F.2d 1234, 1242 (7th Cir. 1985) (excluded transcripts of taped conversations marked as exhibits allowed as part of record).

(n28)Footnote 20. Lakedreams v. Taylor, 932 F.2d 1103, 1109 (5th Cir. 1991)) (circuit court would not rule on whether district court's grant of preliminary injunction was clearly erroneous because relevant exhibits were not presented).

(n29)Footnote 21. Texas & Pacific Ry. v. Buckles, 232 F.2d 257, 261 (5th Cir. 1956) , cert. denied, 351 U.S. 984 (1956) (hospital record offered in evidence but not brought forward in record on appeal was not reviewable by court).

(n30)Footnote 22. United States v. Ross, 321 F.2d 61, 65 n.2 (2d Cir. 1963) (exhibits pertinent to appeal should be placed with district court clerk to be forwarded with transcript).

(n31)Footnote 23. United States v. Hubbard, 650 F.2d 293, 299 (D.C. Cir. 1980) (materials offered but excluded on evidentiary grounds are part of record on appeal); Zenith Radio Corp. v. Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. Ltd., 529 F. Supp. 866, 899 (E.D. Pa. 1981) (all materials found to be admissible or not, are part of record on appeal).

(n32)Footnote 24. Texas and Pac. Ry. Co. v. Buckles, 232 F.2d 257, 261 (5th Cir. 1956) (hospital record at issue but not included in record on appeal was not reviewable by court).

(n33)Footnote 25. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(1).

(n34)Footnote 26. Hastings v. Reynolds Metals Co., 165 F.2d 484, 486 (7th Cir. 1947) (copy of contract that was presented to district court but inadvertently never filed was included in record on appeal as supplemental record).

(n35)Footnote 27. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(2).

(n36)Footnote 28. 28 U.S.C. § 753(b).

(n37)Footnote 29. Rodriguez v. Anderson, 973 F.2d 550, 551 (7th Cir. 1992) (transcript omitted from record was ordered to be submitted by appellant); Garnes v. Gulf & Western Mfg. Co., 789 F.2d 637, 640 n.3 (8th Cir. 1986) (if partial transcript is deemed inadequate, complete transcript may be ordered by court for comparison).

(n38)Footnote 30. See Wrighten v. Glowski, 232 F.3d 119, 120 (2d Cir. 2000) .

(n39)Footnote 31. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(1)(A).

(n40)Footnote 32. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(1)(B).

(n41)Footnote 33. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(1)(A)(i).

(n42)Footnote 34. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(1)(A)(ii).

(n43)Footnote 35. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(1)(A)(iii).

(n44)Footnote 36. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(2); Hotaling v. Chubb Sovereign Life Ins. Co., 241 F.3d 572, 581, n.5 (7th Cir. 2001) (appellant's failure to file trial transcript from bench trial results in forfeiture of any argument that district court's factual findings were against weight of evidence).

(n45)Footnote 37. Alizadeh v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 910 F.2d 234, 237 (5th Cir. 1990) .

(n46)Footnote 38. Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(3)(A).

(n47)Footnote 39. Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(3)(B).

(n48)Footnote 40. Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(3)(C).

(n49)Footnote 41. Fed. R. App. P. 10(b)(4).

(n50)Footnote 42. 28 U.S.C. § 753(f).

(n51)Footnote 43. 28 U.S.C. § 753(b).

(n52)Footnote 44. Murphy v. L & J Press Corp., 577 F.2d 27, 29-30 (8th Cir. 1978) .

(n53)Footnote 45. Fed. R. App. P. 39.

(n54)Footnote 46. Fed. R. App. P. 39(e).

(n55)Footnote 47. Waterman Steamship Corp., v. Gay Cotton, 419 F.2d 372, 373 (9th Cir. 1969) .

(n56)Footnote 48. Fed. R. App. P. 10(c).

(n57)Footnote 49. Cameo Convalescent Ctr., Inc. v. Senn, 738 F.2d 836, 842 (7th Cir. 1984) , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 1106 (1985) (failure to record conference where plaintiffs objected to court's instructions rendered transcripts unavailable).

(n58)Footnote 50. Murphy v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 314 F.2d 30, 31 (5th Cir. 1963) (transcript unavailable when disks in possession of court reporter were destroyed before they were transcribed).

(n59)Footnote 51. Bilmar Drilling, Inc. v. IFG Leasing Co., 795 F.2d 1194, 1200 (5th Cir. 1986) (oral recitation of proceedings by appellant's counsel did not satisfy Appellate Rule 10(c)).

(n60)Footnote 52. Bergerco, U.S.A. v. Shipping Corp. of India, 896 F.2d 1210, 1217 (9th Cir. 1990) (when transcript was unavailable, affidavits could be used to provide accounts of testimony given at trial).

(n61)Footnote 53. Fed. R. App. P. 10(c).

(n62)Footnote 54. Hawkins v. Missouri P. R. Co., 188 F.2d 348, 349-350 (8th Cir. 1951) (affidavits not reviewed where trial court refused to incorporate affidavits in record as unreported proceedings).

(n63)Footnote 55. Bergerco, U.S.A. v. Shipping Corp. of In dia Ltd., 896 F.2d 1210, 1214 (9th Cir. 1990) (statement reviewable where unavailable transcript resulted in reconstruction based on memories of parties and district court).

(n64)Footnote 56. In re Cambridge Literary Props. Ltd., 271 F.3d 348, 348 (1st Cir. 2001) .

(n65)Footnote 57. United States v. Garcia, 997 F.2d 1273, 1278 (9th Cir. 1993) .

(n66)Footnote 58. Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(3).

(n67)Footnote 59. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 79(a).

(n68)Footnote 60. Waldorf v. Shuta, 142 F.3d 601, 620 (3d Cir.(1998) .

(n69)Footnote 61. In re Capital Cities/ABC, Inc.'s Application for Access to Sealed Transcripts, 913 F.2d 89, 96-97 (3d Cir. 1990) ; see [4], below.

(n70)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 310.31 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n71)Footnote 1. See [2], above.

(N72)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 10(d).

(n73)Footnote 3. Ocasio v. Bryan, 374 F.2d 11, 13-14 (3d Cir. 1967) (appeal to circuit court on certification from district court on agreed statement).

(n74)Footnote 4. See, e.g., Daiflon, Inc. v. Bohanon, 612 F.2d 1249, 1251 n.1 (10th Cir. 1979) , rev'd on other grounds, Allied Chemical Corp. v. Daiflon, Inc., 449 U.S. 33, 101 S. Ct. 188, 66 L. Ed. 2d 193 (1980) .

(n75)Footnote 5. United States v. Anderson, 481 F.2d 685 (4th Cir. 1973) , aff'd, 417 U.S. 211 (1974) .

(n76)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 310.40 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n77)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 10(e)(1). This method of correction of the record on appeal may only be utilized by a distict court to correct its own record on appeal. Therefore, Appellate Rule 10(e) may not be used by a district court acting in an appellate court capacity reviewing an agency decision to require that agency to correct the agency's record of the agency proceedings. Gooden v. Barnhart, 191 F. Supp. 2d 150, 152 (D.D.C. 2002) .

(n78)Footnote 2. Lothschuetz v. Carpenter, 898 F.2d 1200, 1208 (6th Cir. 1990) (defendants must challenge accuracy of record before district court rather than attack accuracy of transcripts in appellate briefs).

(n79)Footnote 3. United States v. Franklin, 250 F.3d 653, 663 (8th Cir. 2001) (appellate courts must accept district court's reconstruction of record under Appellate Rule 10(e) unless it was intentionally falsified or plainly unreasonable).

(n80)Footnote 4. United States v. Mori, 444 F.2d 240, 246 (5th Cir. 1971) , cert. denied, 404 U.S. 913 (1971) (determination of trial judge in correcting record is conclusive absent showing of intentional misrepresentation of contents of record).

(n81)Footnote 5. United States v. Elizalde-Adame, 262 F.3d 637, 641 (7th Cir. 2001) .

(n82)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 10(e)(2)(A).

(n83)Footnote 7. Ashcroft v. Paper Mate Mfg. Co., 434 F.2d 910, 915-916 (9th Cir. 1970) (trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to hear further arguments on exhibits where parties stipulated entering exhibits into record on appeal).

(n84)Footnote 8. Panaview Door & Window Co. v. Reynolds, 255 F.2d 920, 922 (9th Cir. 1958) (matters not before trial court must be stricken even if included in record on appeal by stipulation of parties).

(n85)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 10(e)(2)(B).

(n86)Footnote 10. Arundar v. DeKalb County Sch. Dist., 522 F. Supp. 677, 678 (N.D. Ga. 1981) (when appeal is taken from decision of district court, district court has no jurisdiction except to aid appeal or correct clerical errors); see Eyerman v. Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc., 967 F.2d 213, 216 (6th Cir. 1992) (district court decides whether disputed item is in record on appeal and may direct that omission be corrected).

(n87)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 10(e)(2)(C).

(n88)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 10(e)(3).

(n89)Footnote 13. Townsend v. Columbia Operations, 667 F.2d 844, 848-849 (9th Cir. 1982) (circuit court allowed supplementation of record with documents that were presented to district court but never stamped as "filed").

(n90)Footnote 14. Salinger v. Random House, Inc., 818 F.2d 252, 253 (2d Cir. 1987) , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 890 (1987) .

(n91)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 10(e)(3).

(n92)Footnote 16. Allen v. Minnstar, Inc., 8 F.3d 1470, 1474 (10th Cir. 1993) (circuit court must review decision made in district court on basis of record made before district court that truly discloses what occurred in district court).

(n93)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 311.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n94)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 11(a); see Horsey v. Mack Trucks, Inc., 882 F.2d 844, 849 (3d Cir. 1989) (appellant bears burden of ensuring all necessary materials are part of record on appeal).

(n95)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 11(a); see Fed. R. App. P. 10(b); Willhauck v. Halpin, 953 F.2d 689, 704 n.13 (1st Cir. 1991) (appellant has duty to order portion of district court transcript relevant to issues on appeal).

(n96)Footnote 3. Hotaling v. Chubb Sovereign Life Ins. Co., 241 F.3d 572, 581, n.5 (7th Cir. 2001) (appellant's failure to file trial transcript from bench trial resulted in forfeiture of any argument that district court's factual findings were against weight of evidence)

(n97)Footnote 4. United States v. Gomez, 810 F.2d 947, 959 (10th Cir. 1987) , cert. denied, 482 U.S. 908 (1987) .

(n98)Footnote 5. Murray v. Stuckey's, Inc., 939 F.2d 614, 622 n.3 (8th Cir. 1991) , cert. denied, 116 S. Ct. 174 (1995) (circuit court prefers to consider appeal as prepared, and rarely requests material omitted from record on appeal).

(n99)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(1)(A).

(n100)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(1)(B).

(n101)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(1)(C).

(n102)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(1)(D).

(n103)Footnote 10. Antoine v. Byers & Anderson, 950 F.2d 1471, 1477 (9th Cir. 1991) , rev'd, on other grounds, 508 U.S. 429 (1993) (party aggrieved by failure of court reporter to produce transcript has remedy of compelled production); Matter of Bjella, 806 F.2d 211, 216 (10th Cir. 1986) (court reporter ordered to file transcript, refund fee for transcript, and forego attempt to collect fee because of failures to provide transcript).

(n104)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(2).

(n105)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 11(a).

(n106)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(2).

(n107)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 11(c).

(n108)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 11(e)(1).

(n109)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 11(e)(2).

(n110)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 11(e)(3).

(n111)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 11(f).

(n112)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 11(g).

106 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.16

§ 28.16 Docketing Appeal and Filing Record In Court of Appealsn*

[1] Docketing Appeal

At the time the circuit court clerk receives a copy of a notice of appeal and the docket entries from the district clerk pursuant to Appellate Rule 3(d), n1 the circuit court clerk must docket the appeal under the title of the district court action and must identify the appellant, adding the appellant's name if necessary. n2 However, this is not a rigid rule, and the circuit court of appeals has discretion to waive formalities of the Appellate Rules and any local rules of court concerning the docketing of a case, and the filing of the record, and to permit the cause to be docketed despite irregularities. n3

[2] Filing Representation Statement

Within 14 days after filing a notice of appeal, the attorney who filed the notice must file a statement with the circuit clerk naming the parties that the attorney represents on appeal, unless the court of appeals designates a longer time for the attorney to file the statement. n1 This statement of representation allows the circuit court to identify the individual appellants when the notice of appeal uses a description, such as "all plaintiffs," "the defendants," "the plaintiffs A, B, et al.," or "all defendants except X," to specify the parties bringing the appeal. n2

[3] Filing Record

When the circuit court clerk receives the complete record, partial record, or district clerk's certificate as provided in Appellate Rule 11, n1 the circuit clerk must file it and immediately notify all parties of the filing date. n2 The notice of the filing of the record is necessary because the date on which the record, partial record, or certificate is filed in the circuit court commences the 40-day deadline for the filing of the appellant's brief. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsRecords on AppealCivil ProcedureAppealsReviewabilityNotice of AppealCivil

ProcedureAppealsReviewabilityTime Limitations

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 312.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 3(d).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 12(a); Parke-Chapley Constr. Co. v. Cherrington, 865 F.2d 907, 910 (7th Cir. 1989) (appeal must be entered on docket as soon as circuit clerk receives copy of notice of appeal and copy of district court docket entries).

(n4)Footnote 3. United States v. Bowen, 306 F.2d 620, 621 (5th Cir. 1962) .

(n5)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 12(b).

(n6)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c).

(n7)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(2),(c), (e), (f), (g).

(n8)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 12(c).

(n9)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 31(a)(1).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.17

§ 28.17 Remand to District Court on Indicative Ruling

[1] Circumstances for Use of Indicative Ruling

[a] Pending Appeal May Preclude Grant of Motion for Relief by District Court

If a party files a timely notice of appeal of a judgment on a claim or claims, the general rule is that the notice of appeal divests the district court of jurisdiction over the claims. n Thus, a court may not grant a Rule 60(b) motion for relief from judgment on the grounds of mistake, newly discovered evidence, fraud and similar grounds, unless the Rule 60(b) motion is filed within 28 days of the judgment. n2 However, case law has developed which gives the district court the option to either deny such a motion or to indicate its belief that the arguments raised are meritorious. If the district court selects to grant the motion, the moving party may then petition the court of appeals to remand the matter to give the district court jurisdiction to grant the motion. n3 The procedure for such an motion and "indicative ruling" in the district court has been formalized in the federal rules. n4

[b] Federal Rules Codify Procedure for Indicative Ruling

After an appeal has been docketed, and during the time it is pending, the district court cannot grant a Rule 60(b) motion without a remand from the court of appeals. n5 However, it can entertain the motion and deny it, defer considering the motion, state that it creates a substantial issue, or state that it would grant the motion if the court of appeals remands for that purpose. n6 Attorneys and courts have referred to the court's suggestion that it would grant the motion as an "indicative ruling." n7

Appellate Rule 12.1 and Civil Rule 62.1, n8 codify, clarify, and formalize this "indicative ruling" practice which has been developed in case law when a postjudgment motion, usually the Rule 60(b) motion for relief from judgment in the district court, is made at a time when a pending appeal prevents the district from granting the motion. The appellate rule and the civil rule are coordinated to implementation the procedure between the two courts. n9 Neither Rule 12.1 nor Rule 62.1 specifies the circumstances in which a pending appeal limits or defeats the district court's authority to act in the face of a pending appeal, because the principles that govern the relationship between the district courts and appellate courts may be complex, depending in part on the nature of the order and the source of appellate jurisdiction. Appellate

Rule 12.1 applies only when the determination has already been made that the district court is divested of jurisdiction to entertain the motion. n10 If the district court correctly concludes that it has authority to grant relief without appellate permission, it can act without resorting to the indicative ruling procedure. n11

[c] Coordination of Procedure Between District Court and Court of Appeals

Appellate Rule 12.1 and Civil Rule 62.1, which control the indicative ruling procedure, are coordinated to facilitate implementation of the procedure between the two courts. In summary, the district court first indicates whether the motion it would grant the motion or that it creates a substantial issue to be determined, n12 and the moving party notifies the court of appeals. n13 Then, the court of appeals has discretion to determine whether the appeal or the motion should be decided first, and remands if the court of appeals finds that the district court should determine the motion. n14 The coordinated procedure under the two rules therefore avoids requiring the court of appeals to make unnecessary determinations on matters that would be more suitable for resolution by the district court, or that would be mooted by the district court's determination of the postjudgment motion. n15

[2] Indicative Ruling Procedure in Appellate Court

[a] Notification of Court of Appeals That District Court Would Grant Motion or that Motion Creates Substantial Issue

If the district court states that it would grant the motion, or that the motion raises a substantial issue, the moving party may request the court of appeals to remand so that the district court can make its final ruling on the motion. n1 Pursuant to Appellate Rule 47(a)(1), n2 each court of appeals may enact a local rule that specifies the format that litigants must use to make a notification, and the format for the district court's statement. Notification is necessary because the court of appeals may wish to proceed to hear the appeal even after the district court has granted relief on remand. n3

[b] Determination by Court of Appeals Whether to Remand

If the district court states that it would grant the motion or that the motion raises a substantial issue, the court of appeals may remand for further proceedings. The court of appeals has considerable discretion whether to remand, n4 and if so, the scope of the remand. n5 If the court of appeals remands, it retains jurisdiction unless it expressly dismisses the entire appeal. n6 Thus, the court of appeals may remand all proceedings and dismiss the appeal. If the court of appeals dismisses the appeal, and the district court then denies the relief requested in the motion, the time for appealing the initial judgment will have run out, and a court might rule that the appellant is limited to appealing the denial of the postjudgment motion. Consequently, the court of appeals should exercise caution in delimiting the scope of the remand. n7

The alternative to terminating the entire appeal is to remand for the sole purpose of a ruling on the motion, while retaining jurisdiction to proceed with the appeal after the district court rules on the motion. n8

[c] Procedures After Remand

If the court of appeals remands for the purpose of deciding the motion, the district court may then determine the motion. n9 If the court of appeals has remanded but retained jurisdiction, the parties must promptly notify the circuit clerk when the district court has decided the motion on remand. n10 This notification is a joint obligation of all parties, and it is fulfilled when the required notice is given by any litigant involved in the motion in the district court. n11

When the court of appeals has remanded for the sole purpose of a ruling on the motion, the court of appeals has retained jurisdiction, n12 and proceeds with the appeal after the district court rules on the motion, assuming the appeal is not moot after the ruling and that any party requests to proceed with the appeal. n13

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsRelief From JudgmentCivil ProcedureAppealsRemands

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote . Dexia Credit Local v. Rogan, 604 F. Supp. 2d 1180, 1184 .

(n2)Footnote 2. Fed. R. Civ. P. 62.1, Committee Note to Original Rule; see Fed. R. App. P. 4(a)(4)(A)(vi) (after 28 days, motion of relief no longer suspends notice of appeal).

(n3)Footnote 3. Mahone v. Ray, 326 F.3d 1176, 1180 (11th Cir. 2003) ; see § 26.63.

(n4)Footnote 4. See [b], below.

(n5)Footnote 5. See [a], above.

(n6)Footnote 6. See Fed. R. App. P. 12.1, Committee Note to Original Rule.

(n7)Footnote 7. Cal. ex rel. Lockyer v. United States Dep't of Agriculture, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 100053, at *4 (N.D. Cal. 2008) ; United States ex rel. Phillips v. Pediatric Servs. of Am., Inc., 223 F. Supp. 2d 763, 766 (W.D.N.C. 2002) .

(n8)Footnote 8. See Fed. R. Civ. p. 62.1; see § 26.63.

(n9)Footnote 9. See Fed. R. App. P. 12.1, Committee Note to Original Rule; see also [c] below.

(n10)Footnote 10. See Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(a).

(n11)Footnote 11. See Fed. R. App. P. 12.1, Committee Note to Original Rule.

(n12)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(a); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 62.1(a)(3).

(n13)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(a); see Fed. R. App. P. 62.1(b).

(n14)Footnote 14. See Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b).

(n15)Footnote 15. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 62.1, Committee Note to Original Rule; see also [2] below (complete appellate court procedure).

(n16)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(a).

(n17)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P.47(a)(1).

(n18)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(a), Committee Note to Original Rule.

(n19)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b); see Ameritech Corp. v. IBEW, Local 21, 543 F.3d 414, 419 (7th Cir. 2008) .

(n20)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b), Committee Note to Original Rule (even when district court states that it would grant motion for relief, court of appeals may in appropriate circumstances choose limited rather than unlimited remand).

(n21)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b).

(n22)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b), Committee Note to Original Rule.

(n23)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b); see [c], below; see also Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b), Committee Note to Original Rule.

(n24)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 62.1(c).

(n25)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b).

(n26)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b), Committee Note to Original Rule.

(n27)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b) (court of appeals retains jurisdiction unless it has expressly dismissed the appeal).

(n28)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 12.1(b), Committee Note to Original Rule.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
A. APPEAL FROM DISTRICT COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 28.18through 28.29

[Reserved]

§§ 28.18[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
B. APPEAL FROM DECISION OF TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.30

§ 28.30 Applicability of Rules Governing Procedure in Court of Appeals for Review of Tax Court Decisionn*

Appellate Rule 13 explicitly governs the appellate procedure for review of a decision by the tax court. n1 Additionally, all other provisions of the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure apply to the review of a Tax Court decision by a circuit court of appeals, except for the following rules: n2

1. Appellate Rules 4-9, which govern the time for appeal generally.

2. Appellate Rules 15-20, which govern appeals from orders in administrative proceedings.

3. Appellate Rules 22-23, which govern habeas corpus proceedings.

Thus, Appellate Rule 14 codified the prior uniform practice of the circuit courts, which regulated review of decisions of the Tax Court by the general rules applicable to appeals from judgments of the district courts. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Courts of ReviewGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Notice of AppealTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Standards of ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 314.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 13.

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 14.

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 14, Committee Note.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
B. APPEAL FROM DECISION OF TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.31

§ 28.31 Procedure for Appealing Decision of Tax Courtn*

[1] Timely Filing of Notice of Appeal Required to Commence Appeal

A party may initiate an appeal of a decision of the United States Tax Court only if the party files a notice of appeal with the Tax Court clerk within 90 days after the entry of the Tax Court's decision. When a timely notice of appeal is filed by one party, any other party may also appeal by filing a notice of appeal within 120 days after the entry of the Tax Court's decision. n1

If a party does not file a timely notice of appeal, the court of appeals does not have jurisdiction over the case, and the decision of the Tax Court will be final. n2 Furthermore, after the time for appeal has expired, the Tax Court may not consider a motion to vacate the decision and enter an appealable order. n3 However, after the time for appeal has run, the Tax Court may still vacate a decision for fraud on the court n4 or when the Tax Court did not have jurisdiction to make the decision in question. n5

The court may not extend the time for filing a notice of appeal in tax cases, even when good cause is shown. n6 However, if a party makes a timely motion to vacate or revise the Tax Court's decision according to Tax Court rules, the time to file a notice of appeal runs from the entry of the order disposing of the motion or from the entry of a new decision, whichever is later. n7 There are limits to the use of this tolling provision. Thus, motions that terminate the running of the period for filing an appeal of a Tax Court decision may not be tacked together to extend further the prescribed time for appeal. n8 Furthermore, a motion to revise a Tax Court decision in one case will not terminate the time for appeal in a consolidated case based on separate facts. n9 Finally, modification of a Tax Court order may not be construed to extend the time to appeal where the order specifically states that it does not affect the finality of the judgment. n10

[2] Method of Filing Notice of Appeal

A party may file a notice of appeal from the tax court either by personal delivery to the Tax Court clerk's office in the District of Columbia or by mail addressed to the clerk. If sent by mail, the notice is considered filed on the postmark date, subject to Section 7502 of the Internal Revenue Code, n11 and the applicable regulations. n12 To complete filing of the notice of appeal, the appellant of a Tax Court decision must furnish the clerk of the Tax Court with sufficient copies of the notice of appeal to enable the clerk to comply with the requirements of Appellate Rule 3(d), which means that the appellant must provide the clerk with sufficient copies of the notice of appeal to serve the circuit clerk, counsel of record for each of the other parties, and any other party that is not represented by counsel. n13

For purposes of notice of an appeal from a Tax Court decision, each reference in Appellate Rule 3 to the district court or the clerk of the district court is read as a reference to the Tax Court and the clerk of the Tax Court. n14

[3] Service of Notice of Appeal

An appellant need not serve a notice of appeal from a Tax Court decision, because service of such notice must be as prescribed by Appellate Rule 3, which provides that it is the clerk of the Tax Court who must give notice of the filing of the appeal by serving a copy of the notice of appeal, with a notation of the date it was filed, on the circuit clerk, on each party's attorney of record (other than appellant's attorney), and on any party that is not represented by counsel. n15 For purposes of service of notice of an appeal from a Tax Court decision, each reference in Appellate Rule 3 to the district court or the clerk of the district court is read as a reference to the Tax Court and the clerk of the Tax Court. n16

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Courts of ReviewGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Notice of AppealTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Rules of Evidence, Practice & Procedure

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 313.10 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 13(a)(1); see 26 U.S.C. § 7483.

(n3)Footnote 2. Spencer Med. Assocs. v. Commissioner, 155 F.3d 268, 269-270 (4th Cir. 1998) (if party does not file notice of appeal from tax court's decision in timely manner, appellate court lacks jurisdiction to hear appeal); Harbold v. Commissioner, 51 F.3d 618, 621 (6th Cir. 1995) (failure to file timely appeal deprived court of jurisdiction); Abatti v. Commissioner, 859 F.2d 115, 117-118 (9th Cir. 1988) (timely filing is jurisdictional).

(n4)Footnote 3. Webbe v. Commissioner, 902 F.2d 688, 689 (8th Cir. 1990) (when time for appeal has expired, additional motions may not be considered because Tax Court decision becomes final).

(n5)Footnote 4. Kenner v. Commissioner, 387 F.2d 689, 691 (7th Cir. 1968) , cert. denied, 393 U.S. 841 (1968) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Billingsley v. Commissioner, 868 F.2d 1081, 1084 (9th Cir. 1989) (decision that never becomes final subject to motion to vacate even after expiration of time for appeal).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b)(1); see Fed. R. App. P. 14.

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 13(a)(2); see Buchine v. Commissioner, 20 F.3d 173, 180 (5th Cir. 1994) (filing of motions terminated running of time for appeal until order denying motions was entered).

(n9)Footnote 8. Okon v. Commissioner, 26 F.3d 1025, 1026 (10th Cir. 1994) , cert. denied, 115 S. Ct. 583 (1994) (principle that tolling motions may not be tacked together to further extend prescribed time for appeal is appropriate in tax context).

(n10)Footnote 9. Page v. Commissioner, 823 F.2d 1263, 1268-1269 (8th Cir. 1987) , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 1043

(1988) (motion for reconsideration of decision in tax deficiency case with respect to one year did not terminate limitation period for filing appeal of decision concerning another year, even though cases were consolidated for trial).

(n11)Footnote 10. Haley v. Commissioner, 805 F. Supp. 834, 836-837 (E.D. Cal. 1992) (equivocal order by court in ruling on motion did not serve to extend time for appeal).

(n12)Footnote 11. See I.R.C. § 7502.

(n13)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 13(b).

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 13(a)(1); see Fed. R. App. P. 3(d); see also § 28.10[1][f].

(n15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

(n16)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 13(c); Fed. R. App. P. 3; see also § 28.10[1][g].

(n17)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
B. APPEAL FROM DECISION OF TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.32

§ 28.32 Content of Notice of Appeal From Tax Courtn*

The content of a notice of appeal from a decision of the Tax Court is controlled by Appellate Rule 3, n1 which basically requires that the notice of appeal specify the party or parties taking the appeal, n2 a designation of the judgment, order, or part of the judgment or order appealed from, n3 and the name of the court to which the appeal is taken. n4 For purposes of the content of the notice of appeal from a Tax Court decision, each reference in Appellate Rule 3 to the district court or the clerk of the district court is read as a reference to the Tax Court and the clerk of the Tax Court. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Courts of ReviewGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Notice of Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 313.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 13(c).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(A); see also § 28.10[1][e][ii].

(n4)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(B); see also § 28.10[1][e][iii].

(n5)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(C); see also § 28.10[1][e][iv].

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
B. APPEAL FROM DECISION OF TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.33

§ 28.33 Record on Appeal From Tax Courtn*

[1] Composition of Tax Court Record

The composition of the record on appeal from a Tax Court decision is controlled by Appellate Rule 10. n1 Therefore, the appellate record in tax cases includes the original papers n2 and exhibits filed in the Tax Court, n3 any transcript taken of the proceedings, n4 and a certified copy of the docket entries prepared by the clerk of the Tax Court. n5 For purposes of the record on appeal from a Tax Court decision, each reference in Appellate Rule 10 to the district court or the clerk of the district court must be read as a reference to the Tax Court and the clerk of the Tax Court. n6

Pursuant to the rules of the Tax Court, n7 when the parties and the court have settled or agreed on the contents of the record, the Tax Court clerk notifies the appellant of the costs and charges allowable by statute. n8 The clerk will not certify the transcript until these costs are paid. n9

[2] Transmittal of Record from Tax Court to Appellate Court

The procedure for transmitting the record to the circuit court on appeal from a Tax Court decision is governed by Appellate Rule 11, n10 which sets out the responsibilities of the appellant, n11 the court reporter, n12 and the clerk of the Tax Court. n13 For purposes of transmittal of the record on appeal from a Tax Court decision, each reference in Appellate Rule 11 to the district court or the clerk of the district court is read as a reference to the Tax Court and the clerk of the Tax Court. n14

If an appeal from a Tax Court decision is taken to more than one court of appeals, the original record must be sent to the court named in the first notice of appeal filed. In an appeal to any other court of appeals, the appellant must apply to that other court to make provision for the record. n15

[3] Filing Tax Court Record in Appellate Court

The filing of the record on appeal from a Tax Court decision is governed by Appellate Rule 12, n16 which gives the circuit clerk the duties of filing the record immediately on its receipt from the Tax Court clerk and of providing all parties with notice of the filing date. n17 For purposes of the filing of the record on appeal from a Tax Court decision, each reference in Appellate Rule 12 to the district court or the clerk of the district court is read as a reference to the Tax Court and the clerk of the Tax Court. n18

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Courts of ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 313.12-313.14 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(1); see also § 28.15[2][b].

(n4)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(1); see also § 28.15[2][c].

(n5)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(2); see also § 28.15[2][d].

(n6)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(a)(3); see also § 28.15[2][e].

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

(n8)Footnote 7. Tax Ct. R. 52(b).

(n9)Footnote 8. See 26 U.S.C. § 7474.

(n10)Footnote 9. Tax Ct. R. 52(b).

(n11)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

(n12)Footnote 11. See Fed. R. App. P. 11(a); see also § 28.15[5][a].

(n13)Footnote 12. See Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(1); see also § 28.15[5][b].

(n14)Footnote 13. See Fed. R. App. P. 11(b)(2); see also § 28.15[5][c].

(n15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

(n16)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(2).

(n17)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

(n18)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 12(c); see also § 28.16[3].

(n19)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 13(d)(1).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
B. APPEAL FROM DECISION OF TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.34

§ 28.34 Standard of Review for Tax Court Decisionsn*

The regional circuit court of appeals must review Tax Court decisions in the same manner, and to the same extent, as decisions of the district courts in civil actions tried without a jury. n1 Thus, the circuit court reviews factual questions for clear error, legal questions de novo, and mixed questions of law and fact either for clear error or de novo, depending on whether the question is primarily factual or legal. For example, the appropriate legal standard for determining whether an organization operates for a "charitable" purpose is a legal question, which the circuit court reviews de novo. However, whether an organization in fact operates exclusively for a charitable purpose is a question of fact, which the circuit court reviews for clear error. n2 In other words, if the court of appeals is considering a decision of the tax court that constitutes an ultimate legal conclusion, the review is de novo. n3

The district courts do not have any appellate jurisdiction over tax court decisions. Rather, the regional circuit courts of appeals' appellate jurisdiction is exclusive, with final review in the Supreme Court. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Tax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Standards of ReviewGeneral OverviewTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Standards of ReviewAbuse of DiscretionTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Standards of ReviewClearly Erroneous ReviewTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureTax Court (IRC secs. 7441-7491)Standards of ReviewDe Novo Review

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 9 Moore's Federal Practice, § 52.34[7] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.); 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 313.16 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.)

(n2)Footnote 1. 26 U.S.C. § 7482(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. IHC Health Plans, Inc. v. Commissioner, 325 F.3d 1188 , 10-*11 (10th Cir. 2003).

(n4)Footnote 3. American Elec. Power Co. v. United States, 326 F.3d 737, 741 (6th Cir. 2003) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Freytag v. Commissioner, 501 U.S. 868, 889, 111 S. Ct. 2631, 115 L. Ed. 2d 764 (1991) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
B. APPEAL FROM DECISION OF TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 28.35through 28.39

[Reserved]

§§ 28.35[Reserved]

115 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.40

§ 28.40 Rules Governing Procedure for Review or Enforcement of Administrative Ordern*

The procedure for the review or enforcement by a circuit court of an order of an agency, board, commission, or officer is controlled specifically by Appellate Rules 15-20. n1 Additionally, all other provisions of the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure apply to the review or enforcement of an administrative order by a Circuit court of Appeals, except for the following rules: n2

1. Appellate Rules 3-14, which govern appeals from a judgment or order of the district courts and appeals from decisions of the Tax Court. n2.1

2. Appellate Rules 22-23, which govern habeas corpus proceedings.

Thus, Appellate Rule 20 has codified the prior uniform practice of the circuit courts of appeal, which regulated agency review or enforcement proceedings by the general rules applicable to appeals from judgments of the district courts, n3 except for those circumstances when an appeal from an agency ruling is covered by a particular statute or Appellate Rule. n4

When applying the general Appellate Rules in administrative law cases, the courts use the term "appellant" to include a petitioner or applicant, and the term "appellee" to include a respondent. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 315.10, 315.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. LaRouche's Comm. for a New Bretton Woods v. FEC, 439 F.3d 733, 739 (D.C. Cir. 2006) (failure to substantially comply with procedure specified in Appellate Rules 15-20 will be fatal to challenge agency decision); see Fed. R. App. P. 15.

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 20.

(n4)Footnote 2.1. See Lucaj v. Gonzales, 425 F.3d 203, 204 n.1 (2d Cir. 2005) (for review of agency decision, Appellate Rule 4 does not apply; Rule 4 only governs appeals from district court and tax court orders).

(n5)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 20, Committee Note.

(n6)Footnote 4. See Malvoisin v. INS, 268 F.3d 74, 76 (2d Cir. 2001) (time for filing petition for review of final order of removal issued by Board of Immigration Appeals controlled by 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(1), and could not be extended by Circuit Court for any reason); Reich v. Trinity Indus., 16 F.3d 1149, 1155 (11th Cir. 1994) (time for filing petition to contest Occupational Safety and Health Commission order not controlled by Appellate Rule 4, but by 29 U.S.C. § 660(a)).

(n7)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 20.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.41

§ 28.41 Nature of Proceedings for Review or Enforcement of Administrative Order

[1] Types of Agency Orders Subject to Review

There are two general types of proceedings governed by Appellate Rules 15-20. n1 The first type is a petition for review of an agency order, which is filed by an entity or individual in order to challenge an agency's decision or finding. n2 The second type is an application for enforcement of an order, which is filed by a federal government agency to obtain the circuit court's assistance in enforcing that agency's order. n3 Appellate Rule 15 governs only the procedure for these two types of appeals and does not provide the source of circuit court jurisdiction to review or enforce an agency decision. n4 Rather, jurisdiction for review of enforcement of administrative proceedings must be provided by a particular statute which governs the powers of each individual agency. n5 Under the Judicial Review Act, the federal courts of appeals have exclusive jurisdiction to enjoin, set aside, suspend, or determine the validity of final orders of several agencies, such as the Federal Communications Commission, Federal Maritime Commission or Maritime Administration, Atomic Energy Commission, and the Interstate Commerce Commission. n6 In the absence of a statutory provision granting jurisdiction to the courts of appeals to review particular administrative proceedings, district courts have jurisdiction to review agency decisions. n7

[2] Standard of Judicial Review of Agency Order

Unless the particular statute establishing an administrative process explicitly establishes a standard for judicial review of the administrative agency, the reviewing court must apply the standard of review from the Administrative Procedure Act. n8 This default standard requires the reviewing court to reverse the agency's decision or action if it was arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law. n9 The court must also reverse the agency decision if the agency does not explain its decision sufficiently for a person to reasonably discern the path the agency has taken. n10

However, under the doctrine of "primary jurisdiction," courts normally should accord particular deference to an agency interpretation of longstanding duration, recognizing that well-reasoned views of an expert administrator are based on experience and informed judgment that the courts and litigants may resort to for guidance. n11 The doctrine of "primary jurisdiction" permits a court to refer a question to the secretary of an agency and to use the secretary's answer in the court's determination.

If the reviewing court concludes that an issue raised in an action before the court is within the primary jurisdiction of a federal agency, the court will defer any decision in the action before it until the agency has addressed the issue. The court retains jurisdiction over the dispute itself and all other issues raised by the dispute, but it will not resolve the dispute until the agency has resolved the issue that is in its primary jurisdiction. n12 The doctrine of primary jurisdiction seeks to produce better informed and uniform legal rulings by allowing courts to take advantage of an agency's specialized knowledge, expertise, and central position within a regulatory regime. n13 Typically, courts apply primary jurisdiction to cases involving technical and intricate questions of fact and policy that Congress has assigned to a specific agency. n14

[3] Reversal of Agency Order Generally Requires Remand to Agency

When the court of appeals reverses a decision of a federal agency, the court of appeals may not merely supplant the agency's order with its own. n15 Under the "ordinary remand" rule promulgated by the Supreme Court, a court of appeals must generally remand a reversed case to an agency for decision of any matter that the particular statute places primarily in agency hands. n16 However, in special circumstances, such as when the agency has already decided an issue, but has done so in a clearly erroneous manner, the court of appeals may decide the issue de novo, and enter an order without remanding to the agency. n17 The ordinary remand rule is based on the acknowledgment that the agency is in the best position to bring its expertise to bear and make an initial determination on the issue. Through the agency's initial evaluation of the evidence, and informed discussion and analysis, the agency helps a court later to determine whether the agency's decision exceeds the leeway that the law provides. n18

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewReviewabilityFactual Determinations

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 15.

(n2)Footnote 2. See, e.g., Alaska Dep't of Envtl. Conservation v. EPA, 540 U.S. 461, 468-470, 124 S. Ct. 983, 157 L. Ed. 2d 967 (2004) (petition by state environmental agency to challenge orders of federal Environmental Protection Agency).

(n3)Footnote 3. See, e.g., EEOC v. Neches Butane Products Co., 704 F.2d 144, 147 (5th Cir. 1983) .

(n4)Footnote 4. Office of Governor v. Department of Health & Human Servs., 997 F.2d 1290, 1292 (9th Cir. 1993) .

(n5)Footnote 5. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 160(e), (f) (providing courts of appeals with jurisdiction to review or enforce orders of National Labor Relations Board); Mills v. Apfel, 244 F.3d 1, 5 (1st Cir. 2001) , cert. denied, Mills v. Barnhart, 534 U.S. 1085 (2002) .

(n6)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 2342.

(n7)Footnote 7. See 28 U.S.C. § 1331; see also La Voz Radio de la Communidad v. FCC, 223 F.3d 313, 318-319 (6th Cir. 2000) .

(n8)Footnote 8. Alaska Dep't of Envtl. Conservation v. EPA, 540 U.S. 461, 496-497, 124 S. Ct. 983, 157 L. Ed.

2d 967 (2004) .

(n9)Footnote 9. 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A).

(n10)Footnote 10. Alaska Dep't of Envtl. Conservation v. EPA, 540 U.S. 461, 496-497, 124 S. Ct. 983, 157 L. Ed. 2d 967 (2004) .

(n11)Footnote 11. Alaska Dep't of Envtl. Conservation v. EPA, 540 U.S. 461, 496-497, 124 S. Ct. 983, 157 L. Ed. 2d 967 (2004) .

(n12)Footnote 12. Association of Int'l Auto. Mfr., Inc. v. Commissioner, Mass. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 196 F.3d 302, 304 (1st Cir. 1999) .

(n13)Footnote 13. Pharmaceutical Research & Mfrs. of Am. v. Walsh, 538 U.S. 644, 123 S. Ct. 1855, 155 L. Ed. 2d 889, 896 (2003) .

(n14)Footnote 14. National Communs. Ass'n, Inc. v. AT & T, 46 F.3d 220, 223 (2d Cir. 1995) .

(n15)Footnote 15. *Gonzales v. Thomas, 547 U.S. 183, 126 S. Ct. 1613, 164 L. Ed. 2d 358, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 3268, *5-6 (2006) (judicial judgment may not be made to do service for an administrative judgment).

(n16)Footnote 16. INS v. Ventura, 537 U.S. 12, 16-17, 123 S. Ct. 353, 154 L. Ed. 2d 272 (2002) .

(n17)Footnote 17. See Zhao v. Gonzales, 404 F.3d 295, 310-311 (5th Cir. 2005) .

(n18)Footnote 18. *Gonzales v. Thomas, 547 U.S. 183, 126 S. Ct. 1613, 164 L. Ed. 2d 358, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 3268, *6-7 (2006) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.42

§ 28.42 Petition for Review of Administrative Agency Ordern*

[1] Filing Petition to Commence Review

A person may initiate review of an agency order by filing a petition for review. n1 The person may file the petition for review with respect to an order of an agency, board, commission, or officer. The petition may be denominated as a petition to enjoin, a petition to suspend, a petition to modify, or a notice of appeal, whichever form is indicated by the applicable statute. n2 The person requesting review must file the petition with the clerk of a court of appeals authorized to review the agency order. Two or more persons may join in a petition to the same court to review the same order, provided that their interests make joinder practicable. n3

The petitioner must file the petition with the clerk of the circuit court to review the order within the time specified by the statute that controls the appeal. n4 The statute may provide a specific time limit for filing the petition. n5 When the applicable statute does not specify an applicable time limit, the time for filing a petition seeking review is subject only to the doctrine of laches. n6 A petitioner should not file a petition prematurely, which is before the time an agency order, action, or decision becomes final because the circuit court does not have jurisdiction to accept a premature petition. n7

The time limit for filing a review petition is jurisdictional, which means that the circuit court has no jurisdiction over an untimely petition, nor may the circuit court extend the time for any reason, even under a theory of excusable neglect. n7.1 However, if papers contain all of the information required in a petition for review of agency determination, n7.2 the papers will be considered as a timely petition, even if they are not filed all at the same time, or denominated as a petition for review. For example, one circuit court accepted a "motion for an extension of time to file a petition for review" as an actual, proper petition for review when it contained all the information required in a petition and was filed within the time for filing the petition. n7.3

[2] Contents of Petition

The Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure suggest that Form 3 in the Appendix of Forms be used as a petition for review. n8

The petition must contain all three of the following items: n8.1

1. The petition must name each party requesting review, either in the caption or the body of the petition. The use of terms such as "et al.," "petitioners," or "respondents" does not effectively name the parties. n9 This requirement is more strict than that of Appellate Rule 3, n9.1 which permits the appellants to be described more generally in the notice of appeal. n10 The reason this designation is more strict is because a petition for review of an agency decision is analogous to a complaint, in that the petition is the first filing in any court. n11

2. The petition must name the agency as a respondent. Even though not named in the petition, the United States is a respondent if required by statute. n12 Note that if an agency such as the Department of Labor has a sub-agency charged with exercising the adjudicatory functions of the primary agency, it is the primary agency that is the respondent "agency" for purposes of Appellate Rule 15(a). However, the primary agency may designate a sub-agency to be its voice before the court of appeals. n13

3. The petition must specify the order or the part of the order to be reviewed. n14 If the correct order is not specified in the petition, the circuit court lacks jurisdiction to review the order. Because this requirement is jurisdictional, it may not be waived. n15 However, as in the case of the review of non-agency decisions, n16 the rule is interpreted liberally. Thus, even if the petition fails to specify the agency order or mistakenly specifies the agency order, the appellate court may review if the order can be determined from the intent of the petition. In other words, a mistaken or inexact specification of the order to be reviewed does not invalidate the petition if the petitioner's intent to seek review of a particular order can be fairly inferred from the petition for review or from other contemporaneous filings, and the respondent is not misled by the mistake. n17

Some circuit courts by local rule impose additional requirements with regard to specification of the order to be reviewed. For example, the Eleventh Circuit requires that a copy of the order sought to be reviewed or enforced be attached to each petition or application. n18

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 315.20, 315.21 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(4).

(n4)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(1).

(n5)Footnote 4. Reich v. Trinity Indus., 16 F.3d 1149, 1155 (11th Cir. 1993) (time for filing petition to contest Occupational Safety and Health Commission order controlled by statute).

(n6)Footnote 5. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 660(a) (60-day period for filing petition to challenge Occupational Safety and Health Commission order).

(n7)Footnote 6. Griffith Co. v. NLRB, 545 F.2d 1194, 1197 n.3 (9th Cir. 1976) , cert. denied sub nom. Waggoner

v. Griffith, 434 U.S. 854 (1977) (petition to review NLRB order was timely filed under doctrine of laches).

(n8)Footnote 7. Consumer Elecs. Ass'n v. FCC, 347 F.3d 291, 296-297 (D.C. Cir. 2003) .

(n9)Footnote 7.1. Midway Indus. Contractors, Inc. v. Occupational Safety & Health Review Comm'n, 616 F.2d 346, 347 (7th Cir. 1980) (no procedure by which circuit court may excuse late filing).

(n10)Footnote 7.2. See [2], below.

(n11)Footnote 7.3. Paul v. INS, 348 F.3d 43, 46-47 (2d Cir. 2003) .

(n12)Footnote 8. See Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(3). Form 3 is set forth in the appendix reprinted at the end of this chapter.

(n13)Footnote 8.1. Paul v. INS, 348 F.3d 43, 46 (2d Cir. 2004) .

(n14)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(2)(A).

(n15)Footnote 9.1. Miljkovic v. Ashcroft, 366 F.3d 580, 582-583 (7th Cir. 2004) .

(n16)Footnote 10. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c).

(n17)Footnote 11. See Fed. R. App. P. 15, Committee Note to 1993 Amendments.

(n18)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(2)(B); see Arnow v. United States Nuclear Regulatory Comm'n, 868 F.2d 223, 225 n.1 (7th Cir. 1989) , cert. denied, 493 U.S. 813 (1989) (failure to name United States as party respondent is not fatal defect to appeal).

(n19)Footnote 13. Ingalls Shipbuilding, Inc. v. Director, OWCP, 519 U.S. 248, 117 S. Ct. 796, 808, 136 L. Ed. 2d 736 (1997) .

(n20)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 15(a)(2)(C).

(n21)Footnote 15. City of Benton v. Nuclear Regulatory Comm'n, 136 F.3d 824, 825-826 (D.C. Cir. 1998) (failure to designate order sought to be reviewed deprives circuit court of jurisdiction to review order, even if opposition party actually understood from another source which order petitioner intended to challenge).

(n22)Footnote 16. See Fed. R. App. P. 3(c)(1)(B).

(n23)Footnote 17. LaRouche's Comm. for a New Bretton Woods v. FEC, 439 F.3d 733, 739 (D.C. Cir. 2006) .

(n24)Footnote 18. 11th Cir. Ct. R. 15-2.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.43

§ 28.43 Application for Enforcement of Administrative Agency Ordern*

[1] Filing Application for Enforcement and Answer

To initiate enforcement of a federal agency order by a circuit court, a party must file an application to enforce the order with the clerk of any court of appeals authorized to enforce the order. It should be noted that if a person files a petition to review an agency order that the circuit court may enforce, a party opposing the petition may file a cross-application for enforcement. n1 Although neither Appellate Rule 15 nor any of the statutes governing the agencies specifies a time limit for filing an application for enforcement, the doctrine of laches applies. n2 Within 21 days after an application is filed, the respondent must serve an answer on the petitioner and file it with the clerk. If the respondent fails to answer within this time, judgment will be awarded for the relief sought. n3

[2] Contents of Application for Enforcement

An application for enforcement must contain the following information: n1

1. A concise statement of the proceedings in which the order was entered.

2. The facts on which venue is based. Venue is generally provided for in the statutes governing the particular agency involved. Many statutes governing the powers and procedures of the individual agencies indicate that an application for enforcement of an agency decision may be brought in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in addition to whichever circuit court has personal and subject matter jurisdiction over the matter. n2

3. The relief requested.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 315.22 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 15(b)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. NLRB v. Searle Auto Glass, Inc., 762 F.2d 769, 772 (9th Cir. 1985) (in absence of statutory time limit, party asserting that application is untimely must establish that more time has elapsed than was necessary, and that party was prejudiced by delay).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 15(b)(2).

(n5)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 15(b)(3).

(n6)Footnote 2. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 160(e) and (f).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.44

§ 28.44 Service of Petition or Applicationn*

The circuit clerk must serve a copy of a petition for review, or an application or cross-application to enforce an agency order, on each respondent as prescribed by Appellate Rule 3(d), unless a different manner of service is prescribed by the statute involved. n1

At the time of the filing of the petition or application, the petitioner or applicant must complete each of the following tasks:

1. The petitioner or applicant must serve, or have served, a copy on each party admitted to participate in the agency proceedings, except for the respondents (who must be served by the clerk). n2 Provided that the respondent has been served by the clerk, it is not necessarily a fatal defect for the applicant to fail to serve all parties, because the requirement is not jurisdictional in nature. n3

2. The petitioner or applicant must file with the clerk a list of those so served. n4

3. The petitioner or applicant must give the clerk enough copies of the petition or application to serve each respondent. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 315.23 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 15(c).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 15(c)(1).

(n4)Footnote 3. Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Local Union No. 6-418, AFL-CIO v. NLRB, 694 F.2d 1289, 1292 (D.C. Cir 1982) (failure of union to serve employers with copies of its petitions for review on or before the time of filing those petitions, when employers were parties to unfair labor practice proceedings before Board, was defect that was not jurisdictional in nature and therefore did not render invalid union's filing).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 15(c)(2); see Oil, Chemical & Atomic Workers Local Union No. 6-418, AFL-CIO v. NLRB, 694 F.2d 1289, 1292 (D.C. Cir 1982) (failure of union to provide clerk with a list of those served was defect that was not jurisdictional in nature, and therefore did not render invalid union's filing).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 15(c)(3).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.45

§ 28.45 Interventionn*

A person may intervene at the appellate stage in the review of an administrative order, n1 provided that there are extraordinary circumstances or other for substantial reasons. n2 Unless the statute providing for administrative order review specifies another method, a person who requests to intervene in a proceeding under Appellate Rule 15 must file a motion for leave to intervene with the circuit clerk and serve a copy on all parties. The motion or other notice of intervention authorized by statute must be filed within 30 days after the petition for review is filed. It must contain a concise statement of the interest of the moving party and the grounds for intervention. n3 A circuit court does not have jurisdiction to consider an issue raised by an intervenor unless the issue is raised in the petition for review. n4 In determining the propriety of an intervention in an administrative appeal, the circuit court should consider the statutory design of the relevant statute and the policies underlying intervention in trial courts. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 315.24 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 15(d).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Local Joint Exec. Bd. of Las Vegas v. NLRB, 540 F.3d 1072, 1075 n. 2 (9th Cir. 2008) (circuit court granted intervention to party's successor in interest).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 15(d).

(n5)Footnote 4. United Gas Pipe Line Co. v. FERC, 824 F.2d 417, 435 (5th Cir. 1987) (no jurisdiction over issues other than those raised in petition for review); Platte River Whooping Crane Critical Habitat Maintenance Trust v.

FERC, 962 F.2d 27, 32 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (absent extraordinary circumstances, court would not address claim asserted by intervenor that had not been brought before court by party).

(n6)Footnote 5. State of Texas v. United States Dep't of Energy, 754 F.2d 550, 553 (5th Cir. 1985) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.46

§ 28.46 Payment of Feesn*

The petitioners must pay the circuit clerk all required fees when filing either a separate or joint petition for review in a court of appeals. n1 This provision parallels Appellate Rule 3(e), which requires the payment of fees when filing a notice of appeal. n2 The omission of such a requirement from Appellate Rule 15 was an apparent oversight until the 1993 Amendments to the rule. n3 Circuit courts also typically have local rules requiring the payment of fees. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 310.25 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 15(e).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 15(e), Committee Note to 1993 Amendments; see Fed. R. App. P. 3(e), discussed in § 28.10[1][h].

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 15(e), Committee Note to 1993 Amendments.

(n5)Footnote 4. See, e.g., 5th Cir. Ct. R. 15.1; Fed. Cir. Ct. R. 15(a)(2).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.47

§ 28.47 Record on Review or Enforcement of Agency Ordern*

[1] Composition of Record

The record on review or enforcement of an agency order consists of all of the following:

1. The order involved. n1

2. Any findings or report on which it is based. n2

3. The pleadings, evidence, and other parts of the proceedings before the agency. n3

There is no distinction between the record compiled in the agency proceeding and the record on review--they are identical. The record in agency cases is thus the same as that in appeals from the district court: the original papers, transcripts and exhibits in the agency proceeding. n4 Furthermore, the record need not include evidence that was not submitted to or considered by the agency in making the order under review. n5 However, to protect the process by which an agency reaches a decision when a formal opinion is issued, agency deliberations during the process prior to decision are not part of the record on review. Therefore, transcripts of meetings, intra-agency memoranda, and documents recording the deliberations are excluded from the record. n6

The composition of the record on review is important because the circuit court's review of an agency's action is limited to evidence in the record. n7 However, a petitioner or applicant may be able to submit additional evidence not originally in the record when the circuit court of appeals considers the review. The Supreme Court has stated that the proper course in such circumstances is to remand the matter to the agency for additional information or findings of facts, if more evidence is needed. n8 The statute providing for agency order review may itself provide a basis for augmenting the record. For example, a provision in the Social Security Act permits the reviewing court to consider additional evidence for the limited purpose of persuading the court to remand the action to the agency for further findings. n9

[2] Omissions From or Misstatements in Record

If there has been an omission from the record or if the record contains a misstatement, the parties may at any time by stipulation supply the omitted material or correct the misstatement, or the court may order the correction. If necessary, the court may order that a supplemental record be prepared and filed. n1 However, a court will deny a motion to supplement the record if the material sought to be added is neither material nor complete. n2

[3] Filing of Record

[a] Agency Responsible for Filing Record

In either administrative order review proceedings or enforcement proceedings, the agency is responsible for filing the record. n1 The agency must file the record with the circuit court clerk within 40 days after being served with a petition for review, unless the statute authorizing review provides otherwise, or within 40 days after the agency files an application for enforcement, unless the respondent fails to answer or the court orders otherwise. The court may shorten or extend the time to file the record. The clerk must notify all parties of the date when the record is filed. n2

[b] Documents Required to be Filed

Unless the parties stipulate in writing that no record or list be filed, the agency must file one of the following two categories of documents: n3

1. The original or a certified copy of the entire record or the parts designated by the parties. n4 This provision allows the agency to file either the entire record or only the parts designated by the parties, even if the parties do not agree on which parts should be filed, because each party may individually designate the parts that it wants filed. The agency can then forward the parts designated by each party. n5

2. A certified list adequately describing all documents, transcripts of testimony, exhibits, and other material constituting the record, or describing those parts designated by the parties. n6 The court has the power to correct or supplement the certified list of materials that is submitted in lieu of the record under this provision. n7

If the parties stipulate in writing that no record or certified list be filed, the date when the stipulation is filed with the circuit clerk is treated as the date when the record is filed. n8

In the event that less than the entire record is filed because a party has designated only a part to be filed, or the parties have stipulated that no record be filed, or if only a certified list is filed, the agency must retain the rest of the record. The agency must retain any portion of the record not filed with the clerk. All parts of the record retained by the agency are a part of the record on review for all purposes and, if the court or a party so requests, must be sent to the court regardless of any prior stipulation. n9

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewAdministrative RecordGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewAdministrative RecordDisclosure & Discovery

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 316.11, 316.12, 317.11, 317.12 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 16(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 16(a)(2).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 16(a)(3).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 16(a), Committee Note.

(n6)Footnote 5. MD Pharm., Inc. v. DEA, 133 F.3d 8, 15 (D.C. Cir. 1998) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Kansas State Network, Inc. v. FCC, 720 F.2d 185, 191 (D.C. Cir. 1983) (striking transcript from record on review on grounds that transcripts of agency's deliberations may not be used to impeach agency's opinion).

(n8)Footnote 7. Panhandle Coop. Ass'n v. EPA, 771 F.2d 1149, 1152 (8th Cir. 1985) (evidence in record did not support claims that EPA acted in dilatory fashion); see [2], below.

(n9)Footnote 8. Florida Power & Light Co. v. Lorion, 470 U.S. 729, 744, 105 S. Ct. 1598, 84 L. Ed. 2d 643 (1985) (proper course if court cannot reach decision on basis of record before it is to remand for investigation or explanation); see Abrams v. Federal Deposit Ins. Corp., 938 F.2d 22, 26 (2d Cir. 1991) , overruled on other grounds, 78 F.3d 97 (2d Cir. 1996) (remand to FDIC was warranted for full, written explanation as to why it had failed to follow federal regulatory scheme in making its decision).

(n10)Footnote 9. 42 U.S.C. § 405(g).

(n11)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 16(b); see Consumers Union of United States, Inc. v. Federal Power, 510 F.2d 656, 661-662 (D.C. Cir. 1975) (Appellate Rule 16(b) provides appellate courts with wide latitude to correct errors and omissions from agency record under review); see also Bethlehem Steel Corp. v. United States EPA, 638 F.2d 994, 1000 (7th Cir. 1980) (court ordered supplementation of record to include internal communications of agency to enable effective review of agency's actions).

(n12)Footnote 2. Alabama Tissue Ctr. v. Sullivan, 975 F.2d 373, 376 (7th Cir. 1992) (court denied motion to supplement when party moved to supplement record with items that court deemed not material, and other items were deemed not within definition of "record" on review).

(n13)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 17. This requirement differs from the procedure in appeals from judgments of the district courts and decisions of the Tax Court. In such proceedings, the party seeking review must order the record, make arrangements with the reporter to pay the costs of reproducing the transcript of proceedings, and do whatever else is necessary to enable the district clerk to assemble and transmit the record. See Fed. R. App. P. 10(b), 11; see also Milwaukee County, Wis. v. Donovan, 771 F.2d 983, 991 n.6 (7th Cir. 1985) , cert. denied, 476 U.S. 1140 (1986) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that Appellate Rule 17 is departure from general principle that party seeking review is responsible for assembling record).

(n14)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 17(a).

(n15)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(1).

(n16)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(1)(A).

(n17)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(1)(A), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n18)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(1)(B).

(n19)Footnote 7. MD Pharm., Inc. v. DEA, 133 F.3d 8, 15 (D.C. Cir. 1998) .

(n20)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(2); see Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(2), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments

(while no stipulation is necessary for party to designate part of record to be included on appeal, stipulation is necessary for no filing or filing of list).

(n21)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 17(b)(3).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.48

§ 28.48 Stay of Order Pending Reviewn*

[1] Motion Must Initially be Made to Agency

If a petitioner requests suspension of the implementation of a decision or order of an agency pending review to the circuit court, the petitioner must ordinarily move first to the agency for a stay of the order. n1 This means that a person should not apply directly to the circuit court for a stay unless application to the agency is not practicable, or unless relief has been sought but been denied by the agency. n2 For example, unlike the ordinary administrative review case, in review proceedings from immigration deportation orders, the petitioner has no obligation to try to persuade the INS to stay the order before filing a motion with the court, because nothing in the immigration statutes or regulations confer authority on the INS to grant a stay of deportation pending the outcome of review in the court of appeals. n3

The same considerations that justify the requirement of an initial application to the district court for a stay pending appeal under Appellate Rule 8 support the requirement of an initial application to the agency pending review. n4 If a statute creating an agency and giving it the power to make orders expressly covers the conditions under which an agency will grant a stay, those conditions control. n5 However, absent any specific statutory regulation, a general statute governs stays of administrative orders pending review and provides that an agency may postpone the effective date of an action taken by it when required by justice. n6

[2] Subsequent Motion to Court of Appeal

[a] Contents of Motion

After a petitioner has first made a motion for a stay to the agency and the motion has been unsuccessful, or if a motion to the agency would be impracticable, n1 the petitioner may make a motion for a stay to the court of appeals or one of its judges. The motion must comply with all of the following requirements:

1. The motion must show either how a motion first made to the agency would be impracticable n2 or that a motion was made to the agency and the agency denied the motion or failed to afford the relief requested. The motion must also state any reasons given by the agency for its action. n3

2. The motion must state the reasons for granting the relief requested and the facts relied on. n4

3. The motion must include originals or copies of affidavits or other sworn statements supporting facts subject to dispute. n5

4. The motion must include relevant parts of the record. n6

[b] Filing and Consideration of Motion

A petitioner must file the motion for a stay with the circuit clerk n7 and must give reasonable notice of the motion to all parties. n8 The motion ordinarily will be considered by a panel of the court, but in an exceptional case in which time requirements make that procedure impracticable, the motion may be made to and considered by a single judge. n9

The circuit court must consider several factors in its determination of whether to grant a stay: the likelihood that the agency erred in issuing its order; whether irreparable injury would result without the stay; whether the stay would substantially harm other parties interested in the proceedings, and whether the stay would promote, or at least not adversely affect, the public interest. n10

[c] Filing of Bond or Other Security

The court of appeals may condition the grant of a stay on the filing of a bond or other appropriate security. n11 A bond is also required in an appeal of district court proceedings. However, unlike proceedings originating in the district court, there is no automatic entitlement to a stay on the filing of a supersedeas bond in the review of administrative proceedings. Also, because there is no underlying proceeding in the district court in which a motion to enforce the bond may be made, a plenary action is required in order to recover on the bond. n12

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawJudicial ReviewRemediesGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 318.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(1); see Superior Trucking Co. v. United States, 614 F.2d 481, 485 (5th Cir. 1980) (applicant must ordinarily apply to agency first).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a), Committee Note.

(n4)Footnote 3. Sofinet v. INS, 188 F.3d 703, 706-707(7th Cir. 1999) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a), Committee Note (Appellate Rule 18 merely assimilates procedure for obtaining stays in agency proceedings with that for obtaining stays in appeals from district courts; same considerations which justify requirement of initial application to district court for stay pending appeal support requirement of initial application to the agency pending review); see § 28.14[2].

(n6)Footnote 5. Superior Trucking Co. v. United States, 614 F.2d 481, 485 (5th Cir. 1980) .

(n7)Footnote 6. 5 U.S.C. § 705.

(n8)Footnote 1. See [1], above.

(n9)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(A)(i); see Sofinet v. INS, 188 F.3d 703, 706-707(7th Cir. 1999) (immigration statutory scheme does not contemplate motion for stay to INS). This requirement illustrates the fact that formal agency action on the merits is generally necessary prior to seeking a stay from the appellate court pursuant to Appellate Rule 18. North Carolina, Environmental Policy Institute v. Environmental Protection Agency, 881 F.2d 1250 (4th Cir. 1989) (court should not exercise power of review until agency has given some indication of determination of substantive rights of parties).

(n10)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(A)(ii).

(n11)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(B)(i).

(n12)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(B)(ii); Superior Trucking Co. v. United States, 614 F.2d 481, 485 (5th Cir. 1980) (if facts are in dispute, motion must be supported by affidavits or other sworn statements regarding those facts).

(n13)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(B)(iii).

(n14)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(D).

(n15)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(C).

(n16)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 18(a)(2)(D).

(n17)Footnote 10. Washington Metro Area Transit Comm'n v. Holiday Tours, Inc., 559 F.2d 841, 843 (D.C. Cir. 1977) ; see American Cyanamid Co. v. Richardson, 456 F.2d 509, 514 (1st Cir. 1971) (stay denied because success on merits was not likely); Associated Sec. Corp. v. SEC, 283 F.2d 773, 774-775 (10th Cir. 1960) (consideration of factors of public interest, irreparable injury, and harm to others).

(n18)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 18(b).

(n19)Footnote 12. Compare Fed. R. App. P. 18(b) with Fed. R. App. P. 7, discussed in § 28.13.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.49

§ 28.49 Judgment Enforcing an Agency Order in Partn*

If a court of appeals has either enforced completely or denied completely the enforcement of an agency order, the clerk automatically enters the judgment according to Appellate Rule 36, n1 unless the court orders settlement of the judgment. n2 However, when the court files an opinion directing entry of judgment enforcing only a part of the agency's order, the agency must within 14 days file with the clerk and serve on each other party a proposed judgment conforming to the opinion. n3 A party who disagrees with the agency's proposed judgment must within 10 days file with the clerk and serve the agency with a proposed judgment that the party believes conforms to the opinion. n4 The court will settle the judgment and direct entry without further hearing or argument. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawJudicial ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 319.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 36 (entry of judgment).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 19, Committee Note (in such clear cut situation, it serves no useful purpose to delay issuance of the judgment until proposed judgment is submitted by agency).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 19; see, e.g., Trans World Accounts, Inc. v. FTC, 594 F.2d 212, 217 (9th Cir. 1979) (FTC required to serve and file proposed judgment pursuant to Appellate Rule 19).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 19; see, e.g., NLRB v. Harrah's Club, 408 F.2d 1006, 1007 (9th Cir. 1969) (respondent objected that judgment was premature and over broad; construing former time periods).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 19.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
C. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF ORDER OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES, BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND OFFICERS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 28.50through 28.59

[Reserved]

§§ 28.50[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
D. EXTRAORDINARY WRITS INCLUDING MANDAMUS AND PROHIBITION

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.60

§ 28.60 Introduction to Extraordinary Writsn*

A writ of mandamus or prohibition is an order from a higher court directing that a lower court take action or an order prohibiting a court from taking a particular action. n1 Appellate Rule 21 governs petitions for a writ of mandamus or prohibition and petitions for other extraordinary writs. It describes the content requirements for a petition and the procedures for filing, serving, and docketing a petition, as well as the procedures for responding to a petition. n2 A petition for a writ of mandamus or prohibition seeks review of the intrinsic merits of a judge's action, and thus is in reality an adversary proceeding between the parties; a writ of mandamus or prohibition is not actually directed to a judge in any more personal way than is an order reversing a court's judgment. Consequently, in 1996 Appellate Rule 21 was amended to change the tenor of the rule and of mandamus proceedings generally, so that the judge is no longer treated as a respondent. Under the new rule, the caption and subdivision (a) no longer refer to the writs as being "directed to a judge or judges," but rather to the court. n3 A proceeding to determine a writ of prohibition or mandamus is given preference over ordinary civil cases. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsAll Writs ActCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 321.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See Quackenbush v. Allstate Ins. Co., 517 U.S. 706, 714-715, 116 S. Ct. 1712, 135 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1996) ; see also In re Special March 1974 Grand Jury, 541 F.2d 166, 171 (7th Cir. 1976) (for purposes of Appellate Rule 21, mandamus is extraordinary remedy traditionally employed to confine lower court to lawful exercise of its prescribed jurisdiction, or to compel lower to exercise lower court's authority when it has duty to do so).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 21.

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 21, Committee Note to 1996 Amendments.

(n5)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(6).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
D. EXTRAORDINARY WRITS INCLUDING MANDAMUS AND PROHIBITION

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.61

§ 28.61 Petition for Writ of Mandamus or Prohibitionn*

[1] Procedure for Filing Petition

A party requesting that the circuit court issue a writ of mandamus or prohibition directed to the trial court must file a petition with the circuit clerk and provide proof of service on all parties to the proceeding in the trial court. The party must also provide a copy to the trial court judge. All parties to the proceeding in the trial court other than the petitioner are considered respondents for all purposes. n1 After he or she receives the prescribed docket fee, the clerk must docket the petition and submit it to the court. n2 There is no express time limit on filing a petition. n3 However, failure to seek prompt relief may result in denial of the relief sought. n4 However, the factual and legal circumstances of the subject matter of the petition for writ may involve acts or occurrences that occurred significantly in the past. n4.1 particularly when the petitioner first attempted to obtain other types of relief. n5 Provided that the requirements for extraordinary writ are met, the circuit court may treat an appeal as a petition for mandamus relief. n6 Thus, the circuit court may deem an attempted appeal from an unappealable order as a petition for a writ of mandamus. n7

The petitioner must file an original and three copies of all papers unless the court requires the filing of a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case. n8

[2] Contents of Petition

A petition for a writ of mandamus or prohibition must meet all of the following requirements:

1. The petition must be titled "In re _____ [name of petitioner]." n9

2. The petition must state the relief sought. n10

3. The petition must relate the issues presented. n11

4. The petition must aver the facts necessary to understand the issue presented by the petition. n12

5. The petition must state the reasons why the writ should issue. n13 A writ of mandamus will not be issued when the petitioner could obtain relief through an ordinary appeal. Therefore, the petitioner must show that a novel and significant question of law is present, that other available remedies are inadequate, that an actual legal issue is present such that its resolution will aid in the administration of justice; and that the petitioner's right to the writ is clear. n14

6. The petition must include a copy of any order or opinion or parts of the record that may be essential to understand the matters set forth in the petition. n15

All papers of the petition must conform to Appellate Rule 32(a)(1), n16 which specifies requirements such as printing, copying processes, typeface, paper requirements and binding requirements. n17 The contents of the petition must not exceed 30 pages except by the court's permission; this length limitation is exclusive of the disclosure statement, the proof of service, and the accompanying documents required by Appellate Rule 21(a)(2)(C), n18 which include attached copies of any order or opinion or parts of the record that may be essential to understand the matters set forth in the petition. n19

[3] Answer to Petition

The court has the discretion to deny the petition outright without requiring an answer. Otherwise, it must order a person referred to as the respondent to answer within a specified fixed time. n20 The clerk must serve the order to respond on all persons directed to respond. n21 If there are two or more respondents, they may answer jointly. n22 The court of appeals may invite or order the trial court judge to address the petition or may invite an amicus curiae to do so. The trial court judge may request permission to address the petition but may not do so unless invited or ordered to do so by the court of appeals. n23

[4] Proceedings

The circuit court has the option whether to require oral argument or briefing, and the court will direct the clerk to advise the parties of the dates and requirements for argument and briefs, and when appropriate, the clerk should also give that information to the trial court judge or amicus curiae. n24 Any proceeding for argument required by the court must be given preference over ordinary civil cases. n25 The parties should ensure that their briefs address the issue of whether or not the petitioner's right to relief is clear and indisputable, the primary consideration of whether the writ should issue. n26 For a discussion of the other factors that the court will consider in the determination of whether to issue the writ, see [5], below.

[5] Decision on Petition for Writ

The Supreme Court has stated that a petitioner seeking a writ of mandamus must satisfy three conditions: n26.1

1. The party seeking of the writ must have no other adequate means to attain the relief he or she desires.

2. The petitioner must satisfy the burden of showing that the right to issuance of the writ is clear and indisputable.

3. Even if the above conditions are met, the issuing court, in the exercise of discretion, must be satisfied that the writ is appropriate under the circumstances.

Prior to the Cheney decision, the courts of appeals developed variations on the above test. The primary requirement for a writ of mandamus or prohibition to issue is that the petitioner's right to relief must be clear and indisputable. n27 Otherwise, the various circuit courts of appeals have their own criteria for determining whether a writ of mandamus or prohibition should issue. Several circuits consider all five of the following factors: n28

1. Whether the party seeking the writ has available any alternative means, such as direct appeal, to obtain relief.

2. Whether the petitioner will be damaged or prejudiced in a way not correctable on appeal.

3. Whether the district court's order is clearly erroneous as a matter of law.

4. Whether the district court's order is an error that is routinely repeated or manifests disregard of the federal rules.

5. Whether the district court's order raises new and important problems, or issues of law of first impression.

The other circuits have tests that are a variation on the theme, with similar principles applied to the decision. In the Fifth Circuit, for example, the petitioner must show that (1) he or she lacks adequate alternative means to obtain the relief sought, and (2) that the right to issuance of the writ is clear and indisputable; thus, a writ will issue only if the district court has committed a clear abuse of discretion or has engaged in conduct amounting to a usurpation of power. n29 Similarly, the Second Circuit applies a three-part test to determine whether a writ should issue: (1) whether a novel and important question of law is present; (2) whether other available remedies are adequate; and (3) whether a legal issue is present whose resolution will aid in the administration of justice. n30

When the circuit court makes its decision, the circuit clerk must send a copy of the final disposition to the trial court judge. n31

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsMandamusCivil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsProhibitionCivil ProcedureAppealsMotions on Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 321.10-321.14 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(3).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(1).

(n5)Footnote 4. In re Rappaport, 558 F.2d 87, 90 (2d Cir. 1977) (delay in seeking mandamus may itself provide grounds to deny petition).

(n6)Footnote 4.1. In re IBM Corp., 45 F.3d 641, 643 (2d Cir. 1995) (petition for writ to mandate that district judge recuse himself from ruling on motion was timely even though case had been dormant for 24 years).

(n7)Footnote 5. In re IBM Corp., 45 F.3d 641 (2d Cir. 1995) (petition for writ directing district judge to recuse himself from ruling on motion to terminate consent degree was timely when case had been dormant for 24 years).

(n8)Footnote 6. Jamison v. Wiley, 14 F.3d 222, 234 (4th Cir. 1994) .

(n9)Footnote 7. United States v. Horn, 29 F.3d 754, 769 (1st Cir. 1994) .

(n10)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 21(d).

(n11)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(A).

(n12)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(B)(i).

(n13)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(B)(ii).

(n14)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(B)(iii).

(n15)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(B)(iv).

(n16)Footnote 14. In re Parker, 49 F.3d 204, 206 (6th Cir. 1995) (petitioner could show clear right to issuance of writ by demonstrating clear abuse of discretion by trial court amounting to usurpation of judicial power); see [5], below.

(n17)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(C).

(n18)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 21(d).

(n19)Footnote 17. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(1).

(n20)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 21(d).

(n21)Footnote 19. See Fed. R. App. P. 21(a)(2)(C).

(n22)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(1).

(n23)Footnote 21. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(2).

(n24)Footnote 22. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(3).

(n25)Footnote 23. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(4).

(n26)Footnote 24. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(5).

(n27)Footnote 25. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(6).

(n28)Footnote 26. In re FCC, 217 F.3d 125, 134 (2d Cir. 2000) .

(n29)Footnote 26.1. Cheney v. United States Dist. Ct., 542 U.S. 367, 124 S. Ct. 2576, 159 L. Ed. 2d 459, 2004 U.S. LEXIS 4576, 72 U.S.L.W. 4567; (June 24, 2004) .

(n30)Footnote 27. In re Special March 1974 Grand Jury, 541 F.2d 166, 171 (7th Cir. 1976).

(n31)Footnote 28. See, e.g. Credit Suisse v. United States Dist. Court, 130 F.3d 1342, 1345 (9th Cir. 1997) (although all five guidelines are considered, all need not be satisfied for issuance of writ, because in many cases some guidelines will not be relevant or applicable).

(n32)Footnote 29. Ozee v. American Council on Gift Annuities, Inc., 110 F.3d 1082, 1093 (5th Cir. 1997) (mandamus is extraordinary remedy that is not justified merely because hardship may result from delay or unnecessary trial).

(n33)Footnote 30. In re United States, 903 F.2d 88, 89 (2d Cir. 1990) .

(n34)Footnote 31. Fed. R. App. P. 21(b)(7).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
D. EXTRAORDINARY WRITS INCLUDING MANDAMUS AND PROHIBITION

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.62

§ 28.62 n* Application for Extraordinary Writ Other Than Mandamus or Prohibition

Most of the extraordinary-writ applications in federal court request mandamus or prohibition to a court. A circuit court may, however, issue other extraordinary writs, such as a writ of mandamus to an administrative agency or federal official. An application for an extraordinary writ other than one of mandamus or prohibition to a court must be made by filing a petition with the circuit clerk with proof of service on the respondents. Proceedings on the application must conform, to the extent practicable, to the procedures prescribed in Appellate Rule 21(a) and (b), as discussed above in § 28.61. n1

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureRemediesWritsCommon Law WritsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 321.15 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 21(c).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
D. EXTRAORDINARY WRITS INCLUDING MANDAMUS AND PROHIBITION

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 28.63through 28.69

[Reserved]

§§ 28.63[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
E. PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.70

§ 28.70 Introduction to Proceedings on Appeal in Forma Pauperisn*

[1] Nature of Proceeding

A person's right to proceed in federal court in forma pauperis is governed by 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a), which specifies the procedures for determining whether in forma pauperis status should be granted and how fees are to be collected from the person. n1 Significantly, an appeal may not be taken in forma pauperis if the trial court certifies in writing that the appeal is not taken in good faith. n2 It is generally held that 28 U.S.C. Section 1915(a), as well as Section 1915(b), applies to prisoners seeking to proceed in forma pauperis. n3 Appellate Rule 24 provides the procedure for a petitioner to request leave of court to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal. n4 Appellate Rule 24(a) governs applications seeking leave to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal from district court orders. The rule provides content and procedural requirements for requesting leave in the district court and, when leave is denied by the district court, in the circuit court. n5 Appellate Rule 24(b) concerns applications for leave to appeal from decisions of administrative agencies and from the Tax Court. n6

In the event Appellate Rule 24 conflicts with 28 U.S.C. Section 1915(a), the statute controls. At one time, there was a conflict because the statute required prisoners who were unable to pay the full amount of the filing fee to pay part of the fee and then to pay the remainder of the fee in installments, but Appellate rule 24(a)(2) provided that an in forma pauperis appellant could proceed without prepaying or giving security. In 2002, Appellate Rule 24(a)(2) was amended to clarify that the rule is not meant to conflict with anything required by statute. n7

[2] Restrictions on Certain Prisoners

A prisoner n8 who has on three or more occasions, while incarcerated or detained in any facility, brought an action or appeal in a federal court that was dismissed on grounds that it was frivolous, malicious, or failed to state a claim on which relief may be granted, may not proceed in forma pauperis in a civil action, unless the prisoner is in imminent danger of serious physical injury. n9 In addition to filing the affidavit required for in forma pauperis status, a prisoner requesting to appeal a judgment in a civil action or proceeding without prepayment of fees or security must submit a certified copy of the trust fund account statement (or institutional equivalent) for the prisoner for the 6-month period immediately preceding the filing of the complaint or notice of appeal, obtained from the appropriate official of each prison at which the prisoner is or was confined. n10

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsComplaintsFiling FeesCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsProceedings in Forma PauperisGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsProceedings in Forma PauperisPrisonersPetitionsCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsProceedings in Forma PauperisPrisonersThree Strikes ProvisionCivil ProcedureAppealsAppeals in Forma Pauperis

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 324.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(3).

(n4)Footnote 3. Henderson v. Norris, 129 F.3d 481, 483-484 (8th Cir. 1997) .

(n5)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 24.

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a).

(n7)Footnote 6. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(a).

(n8)Footnote 7. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(2),(3)(b); Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(2),(3), Committee Notes to 2002 Amendments.

(n9)Footnote 8. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(h) (in this context, a prisoner means any person incarcerated or detained in any facility who is accused of, convicted of, sentenced for, or adjudicated delinquent for, violations of criminal law or terms and conditions of parole, probation, pretrial release, or diversionary program).

(n10)Footnote 9. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(g); see Abdul-Akbar v. McKelvie, 239 F.3d 307, 313-319 (3d Cir. 2001) ("imminent danger" must be measured at time complaint is filed); see also Kinnell v. Graves, 265 F.3d 1125, 1128-1129 (10th Cir. 2001) (this "three strikes" provision is not an unconstitutional denial of equal protection).

(n11)Footnote 10. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(2).

131 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
E. PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.71

§ 28.71 Prior Approval of Status In District Court Obviates Need for Motion on Appealn*

If a party was granted in forma pauperis status in a district court civil action, or was determined to be financially unable to obtain an adequate defense in a criminal case, that party may proceed on appeal in forma pauperis without further authorization. n1 However, if the district court, before or after the notice of appeal is filed, certifies that the appeal is not taken in good faith or finds that the party is not otherwise entitled to proceed in forma pauperis, the party must move to obtain in forma pauperis status. n2 Furthermore, a district court's dismissal of a case as frivolous under 28 U.S.C. Section 1915 n3 is equivalent to a certification that an appeal was not taken in good faith, and authorization for in forma pauperis status from the circuit court is necessary. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsAppeals in Forma PauperisCivil ProcedureAppealsMotions on Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 324.10 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(c); McGann v. United States, 362 U.S. 309, 309, 80 S. Ct. 725, 4 L. Ed. 2d 734 (1960) (when district court grants leave to proceed in forma pauperis, motion in circuit court is unnecessary); Dixon v. Pitchford, 843 F.2d 268, 270 (7th Cir. 1988) (district court order granting leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis on one issue confers in forma pauperis status on all issues).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(c) (district court must state in writing its reasons for certification or finding).

(n4)Footnote 3. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(d).

(n5)Footnote 4. Oatess v. Sobolevitch, 914 F.2d 428, 430 n.4 (3d Cir. 1990) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
E. PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.72

§ 28.72 District Court Motion for In Forma Pauperis Status for Appealn*

[1] Filing Motion

Except when a party has prior approval for in forma pauperis status in the district court, as stated in Appellate Rule 24(a)(3), n1 a party to a district court action who desires to appeal a decision of the district court in forma pauperis must file a motion in the district court. n2 Appellate Rule 24 does not specify a time for filing a motion in the district court for leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis. n3 However, the moving party should file promptly, because a motion to file in forma pauperis does not affect the obligation of a party to file a timely notice of appeal. n4

[2] Requirements for Motion

A party making a motion in the district court for in froma pauperis status on appeal must attach an affidavit to the motion that:

1. Shows in the detail prescribed by Form 4 of the Appendix of Forms, the party's inability to pay or to give security for fees and costs; n5

2. Claims an entitlement to redress; n6 and

3. States the issues that the party intends to present on appeal. n7

A prisoner moving for leave to proceed in forma pauperis in a civil action must also submit a certified copy of his or her trust fund account statement (or institutional equivalent) for the six-month period immediately preceding the filing of the complaint or notice of appeal. This certified copy must be obtained from the appropriate official of each prison at which the prisoner is or was confined. n8

[3] Decision on Motion

[a] Factors Considered in Determination of Motion

A district court will grant leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis if a party shows the requisite financial eligibility and that the appeal is not frivolous. The party need not show probable success on the merits. The existence of any non-frivolous issue on appeal and financial eligibility requires that the court grant the motion for leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis. n9 On the other hand, the court will dismiss the case if at any time the court determines that the allegation of poverty is untrue, or the action or appeal is frivolous, malicious, fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted, or seeks monetary relief against a defendant who is immune from such relief. n10

[b] Effects of Determination

If the district court grants the motion, the moving party may proceed on appeal without prepaying or giving security for fees and costs. n11 A party allowed to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis may request that the appeal be heard on the original record without reproducing any part. n12

If the district court denies the motion, it must state its reasons in writing. n13 The district clerk must immediately notify the parties and the court of appeals when the district court denies a motion to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis. n14 The district court also must notify the parties and the court of appeals when the district court certifies that the appeal is not taken in good faith n15 or finds that the party is not otherwise entitled to proceed in forma pauperis. n16 After the district court enters a denial, the party may proceed to appeal the denial in the circuit court. n17

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsProceedings in Forma PauperisGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedurePleading & PracticePleadingsProceedings in Forma PauperisAffidavits of PovertyCivil ProcedureAppealsAppeals in Forma Pauperis

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 324.12 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See § 28.71

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1); 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(1),(2); Stockmeier v. Angelone, 62 F.3d 287, 287 (9th Cir. 1995) (party was required to file new in forma pauperis motion in district court, because prior district court order granting party permission to file partial filing fee is not tantamount to order granting leave to proceed in forma pauperis).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1).

(n5)Footnote 4. United States v. Boutwell, 896 F.2d 884, 888-889 (5th Cir. 1990) (in forma pauperis status does not confer any special rights to appeal).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1)(A).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1)(B).

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1)(C).

(n9)Footnote 8. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(2). This requirement is not applicable in habeas corpus proceedings because such proceedings are not deemed "civil actions" for this purpose. Naddi v. Hill, 106 F.3d 275, 277 (9th Cir. 1997) .

(n10)Footnote 9. Jackson v. Dallas Police Dep't, 811 F.2d 260, 261 (5th Cir. 1986) (provided that party can show financial eligibility and arguable legal issue, party need not show probable success on merits).

(n11)Footnote 10. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2); Mathis v. New York Life Ins. Co., 133 F.3d 546, 547-548 (7th Cir. 1998) (district court has discretion to dismiss complaint with prejudice as sanction for party's intentionally providing inaccurate financial information).

(n12)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(2).

(n13)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 24(c).

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(2).

(n15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(4)(A).

(n16)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(4)(B).

(n17)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(4)(C).

(n18)Footnote 17. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(5); see also § 28.73.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
E. PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.73

§ 28.73 Motion in Court of Appeals for In Forma Pauperis Statusn*

[1] After Denial of Motion for In Forma Pauperis Status in District Court

If a motion for in forma pauperis status is denied in the district court, a party may file a motion to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis in the court of appeals within 30 days after service of the notice from the district court prescribed in Appellate Rule 24(a)(4). n1 Under this provision, the circuit court has express authority to override the district court's denial of the motion. n2 Thus, when a district court has denied a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal, the proper procedure for the moving party to obtain review of that denial is to refile the motion in circuit court, rather than merely appealing from district court's order. n3

The motion in the circuit court must include: n4

1. A copy of the affidavit filed in the district court; n5 and

2. The district court's statement of reasons for its action. n6

[2] Motion to Proceed in Forma Pauperis on Appeal or Review of Administrative Order or Tax Court Decision

When an appeal or review of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer, or before the United States Tax Court proceeds directly in a court of appeals, a party may file in the court of appeals a motion for leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis with an affidavit prescribed by Appellate Rule 24(a)(1). n7 This affidavit must contain the details showing the party's inability to pay or to give security for fees and costs; a claim for entitlement to redress; and a statement of the issues that the party intends to present on appeal n8

[3] Decision on Motion

The circuit court will weigh the same factors in making its determination as used by the district court. n9 If the circuit court grants the motion, the moving party may proceed on appeal without prepaying or giving security for fees and costs. n10 A party allowed to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis may also request that the appeal be heard on the original record without reproducing any part. n11

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsAppeals in Forma PauperisCivil ProcedureAppealsMotions on Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20 Moore's Federal Practice, § 324.12 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(5); see § 28.72.

(n3)Footnote 2. Tolefree v. Cudahy, 49 F.3d 1243, 1244 (7th Cir. 1995) ; United States v. Sorrells, 145 F.3d 744, 748 n.1 (5th Cir. 1998) .

(n4)Footnote 3. United States v. Sorrells, 145 F.3d 744, 748 n.1 (5th Cir. 1998) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(5); see § 28.72.

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(5); see Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1)(A)-(C); see also § 28.72[2]. If no affidavit was filed in the district court, the party must include an original the affidavit prescribed by Appellate Rule 24(a)(1).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(5); see Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(2); see also § 28.72[3][b].

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 24(b)

(n9)Footnote 8. See Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(1)(A)-(C); see also § 28.72[2].

(n10)Footnote 9. Denton v. Hernandez, 504 U.S. 25, 31-33, 112 S. Ct. 1728, 118 L. Ed. 2d 340 (1992) ; see § 28.72[3][a].

(n11)Footnote 10. Cf. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(2).

(n12)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 24(c).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART II. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF APPEAL FROM PARTICULAR TYPES OF ADJUDICATIONS
E. PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 28.74through 28.79

[Reserved]

§§ 28.74[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.80

§ 28.80 Filing and Servicen*

[1] Filing Papers

[a] General Method of Filing with Clerk

When filing a paper required or permitted to be filed in a court of appeals, an appellant must file the paper with the circuit court clerk. n1 The appellant may accomplish filing by mail addressed to the clerk, but filing is not timely unless the clerk actually receives the papers within the time specified for filing. n2 Therefore, mailing within the applicable time period is insufficient if not actually received by court within that period. n3 In other words, by requiring that the clerk "receive" the filing, Appellate Rule 25(a)(2)(A) generally rejects the "mailbox rule," which states that a paper is timely if sent within the deadline. n4

[b] Filing Brief or Appendix

A separate rule is applicable to the filing of a brief or appendix. Such documents are timely filed if on or before the last day for filing one of the following is accomplished: n5

1. The brief or appendix is mailed to the clerk by First-Class Mail, or other class of mail that is at least as expeditious, postage prepaid; n6 or

2. The brief or appendix is dispatched to a third-party commercial carrier for delivery to the clerk within three days. n7

The effect of this separate "mailbox rule" for briefs and appendices is that while such documents are timely if "mailed" within the applicable time period, any other documents are timely only if received by the circuit court clerk within the applicable time period. n8

[c] Filing by Inmate

If a party is an inmate who is confined in an institution, a paper filed by the inmate is timely if deposited in the institution's internal mailing system on or before the last day for filing. n9 If an institution has a system designed for legal mail, n10 the inmate must use that system to receive the benefit of this rule. n11 Timely filing may be shown by a declaration in compliance with 28 U.S.C. Section 1746 n12 or by a notarized statement, either of which must set forth the date of deposit and state that first-class postage has been prepaid. n13

[d] Filing by Electronic Means

A court of appeals may by local rule permit or require papers to be filed, signed, or verified by electronic means, provided that the means are consistent with any technical standards that have been established by the Judicial Conference of the United States. n14 If a paper is filed by electronic means in compliance with a local rule, the electronic transmission constitutes filing of a written paper for the purpose of applying the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure. n15 In other words, an electronic filing that complies with the local rule satisfies all requirements for filing on paper, signature, or verification, and need not be separately made in writing unless a local rule requires that the party file both electronic and hard copies. n16 If a local rule does not expressly allow electronic filing, a party may not electronically file unless the party obtains a court order to do so. n17

A local rule may require, as opposed to permit, filing by electronic means only if reasonable exceptions are allowed. n18 Several courts of appeals require electronic filings, and all courts that have done so must make exceptions when electronic filing would impose a hardship on a party, such as when a party does not have technological capability to make an electronic filing. n19

[e] Filing Motion With Individual Judge

Some motions made in the circuit court may be decided by a single judge, although some motions require a panel decision. If a party's motion requests relief that may be granted by a single circuit judge, the circuit judge may permit the motion to be filed with the judge personally; the judge must note the filing date on the motion and give it to the circuit court clerk. n20

[f] Clerk May Not Refuse Filing of Documents

A circuit court clerk may not refuse to accept for filing any paper presented for that purpose solely because it is not presented in proper form as required by the Appellate Rules or by any local rule or practice. n21 However, this provision prohibiting a clerk from refusing a document does not mean that a clerk may not review documents to determine whether they comply with the rules. The court may instruct that the clerk must inform parties whenever a filing fails to comply with the rules. n22 If a party refuses to take the steps recommended by the clerk or if in the clerk's judgment, the party fails to correct the filing, the clerk must refer the matter to the court for a ruling. n23

[g] Privacy Protection for Electronic Filings on Appeal

To protect against privacy and security concerns relating to electronic filing of documents, and the public availability of documents when they are filed electronically, the Appellate Rules make provisions for the Court of Appeals to protect such filings, and also to protect similar filings in paper form. n24 Consequently, Appellate Rule 25(a)(5) requires that, in cases that arise on appeal from a district court, bankruptcy appellate panel, or bankruptcy court, the special privacy protection rule that applied to the case in the lower court will continue to apply to the case on appeal. n25

Therefore, in appeals from the district court in civil cases, privacy protections for filings in the appeal include: (1) redaction of filings to protect social-security numbers, taxpayer-identification numbers, an individual's birth date, the minor's initials, and financial-account numbers; n26 (2) limitations on remote access to electronic files; n27 (3) an authorization for the court of appeals to order that filings be made under seal; n28 and (4) the discretion for the court of appeals to make any other appropriate order regarding redaction and limitations on electronic access. n29

For a further discussion of these protections for filing, see Ch. 9, Pleadings and Motions in General.

[2] Service of Papers

[a] Methods of Service

Unless a particular rule requires service by the clerk, a party must serve a copy of all papers on the other parties to the appeal or review at or before the time of filing a paper. If a party is represented by counsel, the server must make the service on the party's counsel. n1 Service may be made in any of the following ways:

1. Personal service, including delivery to a responsible person at the office of the party's attorney. n2

2. Service by mail. n3

3. Service by third-party commercial carrier for delivery within three days. n4

4. Service by electronic means, such as e-mail or fax, if the party being served consents in writing. n5 If authorized by local rule, a party may use the court's transmission equipment to make this electronic service. n6 A court of appeals may not by local rule completely forbid the use of electronic service on a party that has consented to its use. However, courts have considerable discretion to use local rules to regulate electronic service. Parties also have the flexibility to define the terms of their consent; for example, a party may consent to service by facsimile transmission, but not by electronic mail; or a party may consent to electronic service of only documents that were created with Corel WordPerfect. n7

[b] Completion of Service

Service by mail or by commercial carrier is complete on mailing or delivery to the carrier. Service by electronic means is complete on transmission, unless the party making service is notified that the paper was not received by the party served. n8 When reasonable, considering such factors as the immediacy of the relief sought, distance, and cost, service on a party must be by a manner at least as expeditious as the manner used to file the paper with the court. n9 Thus, when a brief or motion is filed with the court by hand delivering the paper to the clerk's office, or by overnight courier, the copies should be served on the other parties by an equally expeditious manner, meaning either by personal service if distance permits, or by overnight courier, if mail delivery to the party is not ordinarily accomplished overnight. The reasonableness standard has been included in the rule so that if a paper is hand delivered to the clerk's office for filing but the other parties must be served in a different city, state, or region, personal service on them ordinarily will not be expected. n10

[c] Proof of Service

A paper presented for filing must contain either of the following:

1. An acknowledgment of service by the person served; n11 or

2. Proof of service consisting of a statement by the person who made service, certifying: n12 (a) the date and manner of service; n13 (b) the names of the persons served; n14 and (c) their mailing addresses or the addresses of the places of delivery; when a paper is served electronically, the proof of service of that paper must include the electronic address appropriate for the type of service, such as e-mail address or facsimile number to which the paper was transmitted. n15

When a brief or appendix is filed by mailing or dispatch in accordance with Rule 25(a)(2)(B), n16 the proof of service must also state the date and manner by which the document was mailed or dispatched to the clerk. n17 Proof of service may appear on or be affixed to the papers filed. n18

Intentional violations of the service requirements of Rule 25(d) may subject the violating party or attorney to sanctions

by the circuit court. n19

[3] Number of Copies Required by Local Rule or Court Order

For particular matters, the Appellate Rules require the filing or furnishing of a number of copies; n1 however, a circuit court may require a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case. n2 The purpose of this rule is that the number of copies a court of appeals needs may vary depending on the way in which the court conducts business. The internal operation of the courts of appeals necessarily varies from circuit to circuit because of differences in the number of judges, the geographic area included within the circuit, and other such factors. Therefore, a party must consult local rules to determine whether the court requires a different number than that specified in the national Appellate Rules. n3 However, if a party fails to file the required number of copies, the failure does not create a jurisdictional defect. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 325.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(A).

(n4)Footnote 3. Thompson v. E.I. Dupont de Nemours & Co., 76 F.3d 530, 532 (4th Cir. 1996) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Sheviakov v. INS, 237 F.3d 1144, 1147 (9th Cir. 2001) ; see [b], [c], below (mailbox rule still applies in particular situations); Price v. Philpot, 420 F.3d 1158, 1164 (10th Cir. 2005) (special prison mailbox rule still applies to filings by inmates).

(n6)Footnote 5. Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association v. Hinson, 102 F.3d 1421, 1423 (7th Cir. 1996) (sanctions were imposed where party failed to meet deadline for filing response when its brief was not delivered in accordance with requirements).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(B)(i).

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(B)(ii).

(n9)Footnote 8. Sheviakov v. INS, 237 F.3d 1144, 1147-1148 (9th Cir. 2001) .

(n10)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(C).

(n11)Footnote 10. Some institutions have special internal mail systems for handling legal mail; such systems often record the date of deposit of mail by an inmate, the date of delivery of mail to an inmate, and so forth. Appellate rule 25 was amended in 1998 to require an inmate to use the system designed for legal mail, if there is one, in order to receive the benefit of this subparagraph. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(C), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n12)Footnote 11. Knickerbocker v. Artuz, 271 F.3d 35, 37 (2d Cir. 2001) (this mailbox rule did not apply when prisoner delivers notice of appeal to someone outside prison system for forwarding to court clerk).

(n13)Footnote 12. See 28 U.S.C. § 1746 (requirements for unsworn declarations).

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(C).

(N15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(D); see Phansalkar v. Andersen, Weinroth & Co., L.P., 356 F.3d 188, 190 (2d Cir. 2004) (in Second Circuit, submission of electronic format briefs is permitted and encouraged, provided that all parties have consented or a motion to file electronically has been granted); see, e.g., 1st Cir. R. 32; 7th Cir. R. 31(e); 8th Cir. R. 28A(d).

(n16)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(D).

(n17)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(D), Committee Note to 2006 Amendments.

(n18)Footnote 17. Yukiyo, Ltd. v. Watanabe, 111 F.3d 883, 886 (Fed. Cir. 1997) (noting that local rule may permit electronic filing via Internet, computer e-mail system, computer disk, and CD-ROM).

(n19)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(D).

(n20)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(2)(D), Committee Note to 2006 Amendments.

(n21)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(3).

(n22)Footnote 21. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(4).

(n23)Footnote 22. See In re McBryde, 120 F.3d 519, 521-522 (5th Cir. 1997) (court may order clerk to strike nonconforming pleading).

(n24)Footnote 23. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(4); United States v. Sosa, 55 F.3d 278, 278-279 (7th Cir. 1995) (clerk accepted nonconforming brief, but mailed notice to filing party to file corrected brief within seven days).

(n25)Footnote 24. See Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(5), Committee Note to 2007 Amendments.

(n26)Footnote 25. Fed. R. App. P. 25(a)(5); see Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9037; Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2; Fed. R. Crim. P. 49.1.

(n27)Footnote 26. Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2(a), (b).

(n28)Footnote 27. Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2(c).

(n29)Footnote 28. Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2(d).

(n30)Footnote 29. Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2(e).

(n31)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 25(b).

(n32)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(1)(A).

(n33)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(1)(B).

(n34)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(1)(C).

(n35)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(1)(D).

(n36)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(2).

(n37)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(1)(D), Committee Notes to 2002 Amendments.

(n38)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(4); see Zhong Guang Sun v. United States DOJ, 421 F.3d 105, 108 (2d Cir.

2005) (note that while service on parties by mail or by commercial carrier is complete under Rule 25(c)(4) on mailing or delivery to the carrier, filing with court under Rule 25(a)(2)(B) is not complete until clerk receives papers within time fixed for filing).

(n39)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c)(3).

(n40)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 25(c), Committee Note to 1994 Amendment.

(n41)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(1)(A).

(n42)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(1)(B).

(n43)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(1)(B)(i).

(n44)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(1)(B)(ii).

(n45)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(1)(B)(iii).

(n46)Footnote 16. See [1][b], above.

(n47)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(2); Fed. R. App. P. 25(d), Committee Note to 1996 Amendment (including such information in certificate of service avoids necessity for separate certificate concerning date and manner of filing).

(n48)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 25(d)(3).

(n49)Footnote 19. *In re Bagdade, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 12613, at *13-15 (7th Cir. Jan. 13, 2003) , sanctions allowed, 334 F.3d 568 (7th Cir. 2003) .

(n50)Footnote 1. See, e.g., Fed. R. App. P. 5(c) (party applying to circuit court for permissive appeal must file an original petition and three copies).

(n51)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 25(e).

(n52)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 25(e), Committee Note to 1994 Amendment).

(n53)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 3(a)(2).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.81

§ 28.81 Computation and Extension of Time Periodsn*

[1] Introduction

The Appellate Rules, local rules, orders of court, or a controlling statute may specify time periods for parties to complete specified aspects of the appeal. Unless specified in the particular rule, order, or statute, Appellate Rule 26 specifies the method for computing time periods related to the appeal. n1 Appellate Rule 26 also permits a court to extend a prescribed time for good cause n2 and allows additional time after service of papers on a party required or permitted to act within a prescribed period. n3 Finally, Appellate Rule 26 describes circumstances when a court may not extend a particular prescribed period of time. n4 Appellate Rule 26 applies to all time periods prescribed or allowed by the Appellate Rules, by order of the court, or by an applicable statute. It applies only in procedures governed by the Appellate Rules. n5

Appellate Rule 26 controls the computation of any time period found in a statute that does not specify a method of computing time, in any Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure, in a local rule, or in a court order. n6 However, a local rule may not direct that a deadline be computed in a manner inconsistent with Rule 26. n7 Rule 26 was amended in 2009 to simplify and clarify the provisions that describe how deadlines are computed for appellate procedures. n8

The time computation provisions of Rule 26 apply only when a time period must be computed. They do not apply when a fixed time or date to act is specified. For example, if the court were to state that the date for filing a document is on November 1, 2007, Rule 26(a) does not govern. However if a rule or order specifies that a party must file a document "within 10 days" or "within 72 hours," subdivision (a) specifies the manner for calculating the deadline. n9

[2] Computation of Time Periods

[a] Terminology Used in Calculation of Deadlines

The following is the meaning of terms as used in the calculation of time periods for appellate practice: n1

"Last Day"--Except as otherwise specified by a statute, local rule, or court order, the last day ends:

- for electronic filing in the district court, at midnight in the court's time zone; n2

- for electronic filing in the court of appeals, at midnight in the time zone of the circuit clerk's principal office; n3

- for filing under Rule 4(c)(1) (inmate filing of notice of appeal), Rule 25(a)(2)(B) (filing of brief or appendix), Rule 25(a)(2)(C) (inmate filing of document), and filing by mail under Rule 13(b), at the latest time for the method chosen for delivery to the post office, third party commercial carrier, or prison mailing system; n4

- for filing by other means, when the clerk's office is scheduled to close. n5

"Next Day"--The next day is determined by continuing to count forward if the period is measured after an event and backward when measured before an event. n6

"Legal Holiday"--legal holidays include all of the following:

- the day set aside by statute for observing New Year's Day, Martin Luther King Jr.'s Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, or Christmas Day; n7

- any day declared a holiday by the President or Congress; n8

- for periods that are measured after an event, any other day declared a holiday by the state where either of the following is located: the district court that rendered the challenged judgment or order, or the circuit clerk's principal office. n9 For determination of holidays under the appellate rules, the word "state" encompasses all of the states of the Union, the District of Columbia, and all federal territories, commonwealths, and possessions. n10

[b] Deadline Calculation For Period Stated in Days or Longer Unit

When a time period is stated in days or a longer unit of time, calculate the due date by taking the following steps:

1. Exclude the day of the event that triggers the period. n11

2. Count every day, including intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. n12

3. Include the last day of the period, but if the last day is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period continues to run until the end of the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. n13

[c] Deadline Calculation For Period Stated in Hours

When a time period is stated in hours, calculate the due date by taking the following steps:

1. Begin counting immediately on the occurrence of the event that triggers the period. n14

2. Count every hour, including hours during intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. n15

3. If the period would end on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period continues to run until the same time on the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. n16

[d] Effect of Inaccessibility of the Clerk's Office

Inaccessibility of the clerk's office generally delays the due date under a time period. n17 Whether an office is "inaccessible" is not defined in Rule 26, but is developed through case law. n18 It generally means that the party does not have access to the clerk's office, and that such access is not in the control of the party. n19 While Appellate Rule 26 previously stated that inclement weather or conditions made an office inaccessible, that specific reference has been deleted because bad weather is only one example of inaccessibility. n20 Other examples include an outage of the electronic filing system, and the possibility of the spread of disease. n21

Unless the court orders otherwise, there are two rules applied to the calculation of time periods when the clerk's office is inaccessible, depending on the unit of time stated in the period, as follows:

- Period Stated in Days or Longer Unit. If the clerk's office is inaccessible on the last day for filing under Rule 26(a)(1), n22 then the time for filing is extended to the first accessible day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. n23

- Period Stated in Days or Longer Unit. If the clerk's office is inaccessible during the last hour for filing under Rule 26(a)(2), n24 then the time for filing is extended to the same time on the first accessible day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. n25

[3] Court Ordered Extension of Time Period for Good Cause

Except in two situations, n1 an appellate court may for good cause extend the time prescribed by the Appellate Rules or by the court's order to perform any act, n2 or the court may permit an act to be done after that time expires. n3 For example, the circuit court may extend the time period for a party to file the record on appeal to the appellate court, n4 or to consider a petition for rehearing even though the time for rehearing has passed. n5 A circuit court may specify by local rule factors it considers sufficient to establish "good cause" for enlargement of time. n6

[4] Circumstances in Which Court May Not Grant Extension

Even if good cause is shown, a court may not extend time in two situations: n1

1. To file a notice of appeal n2 (except as authorized in Appellate Rule 4) or a petition for permission to appeal. n3 This prohibition is jurisdictional and strictly applied. n4 Furthermore, this prohibition may not be circumvented by procedural technicalities, such as the district court reentering a certification for appeal of interlocutory order for the sole purpose of extending the time for filing the appellate petition. n5

2. To file a notice of appeal from or a petition to enjoin, set aside, suspend, modify, enforce, or otherwise review an order of an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer of the United States, unless specifically authorized by law. n6

[5] Additional Time Based on Service Date

When a party may or must act within a specified time after service, three days are added after the period would otherwise expire under Rule 26(a), unless the document is delivered on the date of service stated in the proof of service. For purposes of this three-day provision, a paper that is served electronically is never treated as delivered on the date of service stated in the proof of service. n1 Note that this rule adds three additional days for the opposition to act only if the prescribed period runs from date of service of a document. If the prescribed period is measured from the date of filing or from some other date specified by court, rather than from date of service, then the 3 day addition of time under is inapplicable. n2 It should also be noted that the 3-day addition is calculated only after the due date for the time period is first calculated according to the other provisions of Rule 26. Thus, after the party has calculated the date on which the prescribed period would expire but for the operation of Rule 26(c), the party should add three days. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 326.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 26(a); Slinger Drainage, Inc. v. EPA, 237 F.3d 681, 682-683 (D.C. Cir. 2001), cert. denied, 534 U.S. 972 (2001) (Appellate Rule 26 does not apply when Congress has specified a different method of counting days in statute governing a particular procedure).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b); see NLRB v. IBEW, Local Union 16, 425 F.3d 1035, 1039 (7th Cir. 2005) (power of appellate court to excuse late filing).

(n4)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 26(c).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b)(1), (2); see, e.g., Delta Airlines v. Butler, 383 F.3d 1143, 1145 (10th Cir. 2004) (appellate court has no power to grant extension specifically prohibitted by Rule 26(b)(1)).

(n6)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. App. P. 1.

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a).

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments; see [2], below.

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments.

(n10)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments; see [2], below.

(n11)Footnote 1. See [b]-[d], below.

(n12)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(4)(A).

(n13)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(4)(B).

(n14)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(4)(C).

(n15)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(4)(D).

(n16)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(5).

(n17)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(6)(A).

(n18)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(6)(B).

(n19)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(6)(C); see Yepremyan v. Holder, 614 F.3d 1042, 1044 (9th Cir. 2010) (state law may control to determine holiday status of specific days, such as day after Thanksgiving).

(n20)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 1(b).

(n21)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(1)(A).

(n22)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(1)(B).

(n23)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(1)(C); see Harrington v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 563 F.3d 141, 146 (5th Cir. 2009) (when prescribed 30 day period ended on Saturday, last day was deemed to fall on following Monday).

(n24)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(2)(A).

(n25)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(2)(B).

(n26)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(2)(C).

(n27)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(3).

(n28)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(3), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments; see, e.g., Yepremyan v. Holder, 614 F.3d 1042, 1044 (9th Cir. 2010) .

(n29)Footnote 19. Tummino v. Hamburg, 260 F.R.D. 27, 38 (E.D.N.Y. 2009) .

(n30)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(3), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments; see Salvador-Calleros v. Ashcroft, 389 F.3d 959, 964 (9th Cir. 2004) .

(n31)Footnote 21. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(3), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments.

(n32)Footnote 22. See [b], above.

(n33)Footnote 23. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(3)(A).

(n34)Footnote 24. See [c], above.

(n35)Footnote 25. Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(3)(B).

(n36)Footnote 1. See [4], below.

(n37)Footnote 2. Gross v. Town of Cicero, 528 F.3d 498, 500 (7th Cir. 2008) (whether to extend should, at least in part, be based on degree of fault).

(n38)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b).

(n39)Footnote 4. NLRB v. IBEW, Local Union 16, 425 F.3d 1035, 1038-1039 (7th Cir. 2005) .

(n40)Footnote 5. Aircraft Owners and Pilots Ass'n v. Hinson, 102 F.3d 1421, 1428-1429 (7th Cir. 1996) (court allowed party to file brief on emergency motion to stay after deadline set by court, but imposed fine for party's failure to request extension until after deadline had passed).

(n41)Footnote 6. See, e.g., 7th Cir. Ct. R. 26.

(n42)Footnote 1. Delta Airlines v. Butler, 383 F.3d 1143, 1145 (10th Cir. 2004) (court may grant extension of time to file notice of appeal only as specifically authorized by Appellate Rule 4 or, in cases of administrative ruling, as specifically authorized by statute).

(n43)Footnote 2. See United States v. Detrich, 940 F.2d 37, 38 (2d Cir. 1991) (circuit court may not enlarge time for filing notice of appeal).

(n44)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b)(1); see Aparicio v. Swan Lake, 643 F.2d 1109, 1111-1112 (5th Cir. 1981) .

(n45)Footnote 4. Herzberg v. Indiana, 429 F.3d 651, 651 (7th Cir. 2005) ; see Stone v. INS, 514 U.S. 386, 405, 115 S. Ct. 1537, 131 L. Ed. 2d 465 (1995) (judicial review provisions are jurisdictional in nature).

(n46)Footnote 5. Welcome Ctr. v. Brown, 466 U.S. 147, 162, 104 S. Ct. 1723, 80 L. Ed. 2d 196 (1984) (concurring opinion).

(n47)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b)(2); see Lucaj v. Gonzales, 425 F.3d 203, 204 n.1 (2d Cir. 2005) (appellate court may not extend time to file petition for review of order of administrative agency, board, or commission, unless specifically authorized by statute).

(n48)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 26(c).

(n49)Footnote 2. Delta Airlines v. Butler, 383 F.3d 1143, 1145 (10th Cir. 2004) .

(n50)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 26(c), Committee Note to 2009 Amendments.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.82

§ 28.82 Corporate Disclosure Statementn*

[1] Required Disclosure Statement

Each nongovernmental corporate party to a proceeding in a court of appeals must file a disclosure statement regarding any relationships it has with other corporations. In the statement the corporation (1) must identify any of its parent corporations, (2) must list any publicly held company that owns 10 percent or more of the party's stock, or (3) must state that the corporation does not have any parent corporations and that no publicly held corporation owns at least 10 percent of the corporation's stock. n1 The purpose of a disclosure statement is to assist a circuit judge in ascertaining whether or not the judge has an interest that should cause the judge to recuse himself or herself from the case. n2 The disclosure statement may also be used by the court to determine the status of the corporation for any other federal litigation purpose, n3 for example, its status as a nongovernmental unit. n4 The filing of the corporate disclosure statement is an absolute minimal requirement to assert or defend against an appeal, and a party's failure to file the statement may result in dismissal or the striking of a brief. n5

[2] Time for Filing

A corporate party must file its disclosure statement with the principal brief or on filing a motion, response, petition, or answer in the court of appeals, whichever occurs first, unless a local rule requires earlier filing. Furthermore, a party must supplement its statement whenever the information that must be disclosed under Rule 26.1(a) changes. Even if the disclosure statement has already been filed, the party's principal brief must include the disclosure statement before the table of contents. n1

[3] Filing of Original and Copies

If a party's disclosure statement is filed before the principal brief, the party must file an original and three copies unless the court requires a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case. n1 Because the statement must be included in each copy of the party's brief, there is no need to require the filing of additional copies at that time. n2 If a party is required to file a supplemental disclosure statement because the party's required statement information has changed, the party must file an original and three copies, unless a local rule or an order entered in a particular case provides otherwise. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 326.1.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 26.1(a).

(n3)Footnote 2. See In re Bernard, 31 F.3d 842, 843 (9th Cir. 1994) (Fed. R. App. P. 26.1 works as assistance to judges in determining their impartiality with respect to case); Fed. R. App. P. 26.1(a), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n4)Footnote 3. See, e.g., Price v. Wyeth Holdings Corp., 505 F.3d 624, 628 (7th Cir. 2007) (disclosure statement used to identify correct parties in interest).

(n5)Footnote 4. See Affordable Bail Bonds, Inc. v. Sandoval (In re Sandoval), 541 F.3d 997, 1001 (10th Cir. 2008) .

(n6)Footnote 5. See Sekiya v. Gates, 508 F.3d 1198, 1200 (9th Cir. 2007) (per curiam).

(n7)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 26.1(b).

(n8)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 26.1(c).

(n9)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 26.1(c), Committee Note to 1994 Amendments.

(n10)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 26.1(c), Committee Notes to 2002 Amendments.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.83

§ 28.83 Motionsn*

[1] Motion Consists of Written Application for Relief

An application for an order or other relief must be made by motion, unless the Appellate Rules prescribe some other form. A motion must be in writing unless the court permits otherwise. n1 The most common instance in which the court would allow an oral motion would be during oral argument in the presence of opposing counsel. For example, an oral motion may be a request for permission to submit a supplemental brief on an issue raised by the court for the first time at oral argument. However, the court has discretion to allow oral motions at other times but may also prohibit oral motions during oral argument, for example, when the motion is extremely complex. n2

[2] Contents of a Motion

[a] Required Contents

A motion must contain the following:

1. A statement, with particularity, of the grounds for the motion, the relief sought, and the legal argument necessary to support it. n1 When a motion fails to state the specific grounds for a motion and the legal argument supporting the grounds, or the relief requested, the court may order that those grounds or request for relief have been waived. n2

2. An affidavit or other paper, if necessary to support the motion. n3 Supporting "other papers" include documentation such as the underlying trial court decisions. Any supporting affidavit must be served and filed with the motion and must contain only factual information, not legal argument. n4

3. A copy of the trial court's opinion or agency's decision as a separate exhibit, if the motion seeks substantive relief. n5

[b] Documents Prohibited or Not Required

A party may not file a separate brief supporting or responding to a motion. n6 A notice of motion is not required. n7 A proposed order is also not required. n8 Although common in the district court, in the courts of appeals a proposed order is not expected or desired. n9

[3] Response

[a] Time to File

Any party that wants to file a response to any motion must file that response within 10 days after service of the motion unless the court shortens or extends the time. n1 The contents of a response are the same as an original motion, as stated in Appellate Rule 27(a)(2). n2 If a party fails to make the required filing within the time period, the court will deem the motion unopposed. n3

Because the time period for a response is triggered by service, three days are added to the 10 day deadline (making a total of 13 days), unless service of the motion was actually delivered on the date of service stated in its proof of service. For purposes of this rule, a motion that is served electronically is not treated as delivered on the date of service stated in the proof of service. n4 Also, if the last day or the period would end on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period continues to run until the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. n5

A motion authorized by Appellate Rules 8, 9, 18, or 41 may be granted before the 10 day period runs only if the court gives reasonable notice to the parties that it intends to act sooner. n6

[b] Request for Affirmative Relief

A response may include a motion for affirmative relief. n7 It is permissible to combine the response and the new motion in the same document, and because there may be substantial overlap of arguments in the response and in the request for affirmative relief, a combined document may be preferable. If a request for relief is combined with a response, the caption of the document must alert the court to the request for relief. n8 The time for a response to such a new request and for reply to that response are governed by the general rules regulating responses in Appellate Rule 27(a)(3)(A) and (a)(4). The title of the response must alert the court to the request for relief. n9

[4] Reply to Response

A counter to a response is referred to as a "reply." Any reply to a response must be filed within seven days after service of the response, unless that time is shortened or extended by the court. n1

Because the time period for a response is triggered by service, three days are added to the seven-day deadline (making a total of 10 days), unless service of the response was actually delivered on the date of service stated in its proof of service. For purposes of this rule, a response that is served electronically is not treated as delivered on the date of service stated in the proof of service. n2 Also, if the last day or the period would end on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period continues to run until the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. n3

A reply must not present matters that do not relate to the response. n4 This means that a reply should not reargue issues or assertions presented by the original motion, or that could have been presented in the original motion. Furthermore, the reply should not argue matters that do not involve the issues or assertions presented by the response. However, if matters relevant to the original motion arise after the motion is filed, the court may consider argument on such matters in the reply if the court deems it appropriate, even though strictly speaking the matters do not directly relate to the response. n5

[5] Disposition of Motion for Procedural Order

The court may act on a motion for a procedural order, including a motion to extend time for good cause under Appellate Rule 26(b), at any time without awaiting a response, and may, by rule or by order in a particular case, authorize its clerk to act on specified types of procedural motions. A party adversely affected by the court's or the clerk's action may file a motion to reconsider, vacate, or modify that action. Timely opposition filed after the motion is granted in whole or in part does not constitute a request to reconsider, vacate, or modify the disposition; a motion requesting that relief must be filed. n1 Thus, a party wishing to have the court reconsider, vacate, or modify the disposition must file an entirely new motion that specifically addresses the order which granted the earlier motion. Although the rule does not expressly require the court to do so, whenever a motion is disposed of before receipt of any response from the opposing party, it would be helpful if the court in its ruling indicate that it was issued without awaiting a response. Such a statement will aid the opposing party in deciding whether to request reconsideration. n2

[6] Power of Single Judge to Entertain Motion

A single circuit judge may act alone on any motion. n1 For example, a single judge has the power to decide an emergency petition for a stay pending appeal. n2 However, a single judge may not dismiss or otherwise determine an appeal or other proceeding. A court of appeals may provide by rule or by order in a particular case that only the court may act on any motion or class of motions. Furthermore, the court may review the action of a single judge. n3

[7] Format

[a] Physical Requirements

A motion, response, or reply may be reproduced by any process that yields a clear black image on light paper. The paper must be opaque and unglazed. Only one side of the paper may be used. n1 A cover is not required on a motion, response, or a reply. However, if a cover is used on any such a paper, the cover must be white. All motions, responses, and replies must contain a caption that includes the case number, the name of the court, the title of the case, and a brief descriptive title indicating the purpose of the motion and identifying the party or parties for whom it is filed. n2 The document must be bound in any manner that is secure, does not obscure the text, and permits the document to lie reasonably flat when open. n3 For example, a party may use spiral binding or secure stapling at the upper left-hand corner to satisfy the binding requirement, but these are not the exclusive methods of binding. n4

[b] Page Layout

The document must be on 81/2 by 11 inch paper. The text must be double-spaced, but quotations more than two lines long may be indented and single-spaced. Headings and footnotes may be single-spaced. Margins must be at least one inch on all four sides. Page numbers may be placed in the margins, but no text may appear there. n5

[c] Typeface and Typestyle Requirements

A motion to an appellate court must comply with the typeface requirements that are applicable to briefs as specified in Appellate Rule 32(a)(5) and with the typestyle requirements as specified in Appellate Rule 32(a)(6). n6 These typeface and typestyle restrictions are discussed in § 28.84[7] and have been applied to motion papers in the same manner as to briefs to prevent abuses such as litigants using very small typeface to fit as many words as possible into the page limitations for motions. n7

[8] Page Limits

A motion or a response to a motion must not exceed 20 pages, exclusive of the corporate disclosure statement and accompanying documents authorized by Appellate Rule 27(a)(2)(B), unless the court permits or directs otherwise. A reply to a response must not exceed 10 pages. n1 Some circuits have developed local rules regarding page limits and criteria for permission to exceed page limits. n2

Appellate Rule 27(d)(2) does not establish special page limits for those instances in which a party combines a response to a motion with a new request for affirmative relief; because a combined document most often will be used when there is substantial overlap in the argument in opposition to the motion and in the argument for the affirmative relief, 20 pages will be sufficient in most instances. If it is not sufficient, the party may request additional pages. If 10 pages is insufficient for the original movant to both reply to the response, and respond to the new request for affirmative relief, two separate documents may be used or a request for additional pages may be made. n3

[9] Number of Copies

An original and three copies must be filed unless the court requires a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case. n1 The copies may be created by any process that yields a clear black image on light paper. The paper must be opaque and unglazed, and only one side of the paper may be used. n2

[10] Oral Argument

The court will decide a motion without oral argument unless the court determines that it should hear oral argument and orders that a hearing be held. n1 This provision has been included in the Appellate Rules to make it clear that a party does not have an automatic right to oral argument on a motion. Several circuits already have local rules stating that oral argument of motions will not be held unless the court orders it. n2

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsMotions on Appeal

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 327.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(1), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n4)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(A).

(n5)Footnote 2. Jones v. Sec'y, 607 F.3d 1346, 1354 (11th Cir. 2010) .

(n6)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(B)(i).

(n7)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(B)(ii).

(n8)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(B)(iii).

(n9)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(C)(i).

(n10)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(C)(ii).

(n11)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2)(C)(iii).

(n12)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n13)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(A).

(n14)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(A); see Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(2); see § 28.83[2][a], above.

(n15)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(A), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n16)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 26(c).

(n17)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(1)(C), 26(a)(2)(C); see § 28.81[2][b],[c].

(n18)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(A).

(n19)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(B).

(n20)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n21)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(B).

(n22)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(3)(A).

(n23)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 26(c); see § 28.81[5].

(n24)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 26(a)(1)(C), 26(a)(2)(C); see § 28.81[2][b],[c].

(n25)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(4).

(n26)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 27(a)(4), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments; see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 327.13 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n27)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(b).

(n28)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 27(b), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n29)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(c).

(n30)Footnote 2. McClendon v. City of Albuquerque, 79 F.3d 1014, 1019 (10th Cir. 1996) .

(n31)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 27(c); see McClendon v. City of Albuquerque, 79 F.3d 1014, 1019 (10th Cir. 1996) (action of single judge to decide emergency petition for stay pending appeal was reviewable by court of appeals).

(n32)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(A).

(n33)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(B).

(n34)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(C).

(n35)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n36)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(D).

(n37)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(E).

(n38)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(E), Committee Note to 2005 Amendments.

(n39)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(2).

(n40)Footnote 2. See, e.g., D.C. Ct. App. R. 27(h)(3) (motion to exceed page limits may be granted only for extraordinarily compelling reasons).

(n41)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(2) Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n42)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(3).

(n43)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 27(d)(1)(A).

(n44)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 27(e); see, e.g., Cubic Defense Sys. v. United States, 45 Fed. Cl. 450, 467 (Ct Cl. 2000) (although court of appeals may liberally allow oral argument on dispositive motions, the entitlement to and scope of oral argument is within discretion of court, and no party has right to oral argument).

(n45)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 27(e), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.84

§ 28.84 Briefsn*

[1] Contents of Appellant's Brief

An appellant's brief must contain all of the following items, under appropriate headings and in the order indicated:

1. A corporate disclosure statement, if required by Appellate Rule 26.1. n1

2. A table of contents, with page references. n2

3. A table of authorities, with cases alphabetically arranged, statutes, and other authorities. Each item must have references to the pages of the brief where it is cited. n3

4. A jurisdictional statement, including each of the following:

a. The basis for the district court's or agency's subject-matter jurisdiction, with citations to applicable statutory provisions and stating relevant facts establishing jurisdiction. n4

b. The basis for the court of appeals' jurisdiction, with citations to applicable statutory provisions and stating relevant facts establishing jurisdiction. n5

c. The filing dates establishing the timeliness of the appeal or petition for review. n6

d. An assertion that the appeal is from a final order or judgment that disposes of all parties' claims, or information establishing the court of appeals' jurisdiction on some other basis. n7

5. A statement of the issues presented for review. n8 Issues that are not raised in the appellant's brief are deemed abandoned. n9 For example, if the appellant fails to assert in its brief grounds for reversal of the challenged orders, the failure results in a waiver of those issues. n10 Furthermore, if the appellant fails to raise an issue for the first time until the reply brief, the issue is waived. n11

6. A statement of the case, briefly indicating the nature of the case, the course of proceedings, and the disposition below. n12

7. A statement of facts relevant to the issues submitted for review with appropriate references to the record (see Appellate Rule 28(e)). n13

8. A summary of the argument, which must contain a succinct, clear, and accurate statement of the arguments made in the body of the brief, and which must not merely repeat the argument headings. n14

9. The argument, which must contain the appellant's contentions and the reasons for them, with citations to the authorities and parts of the record on which the appellant relies, n15 and for each issue, a concise statement of the applicable standard of review, which may appear in the discussion of the issue or under a separate heading placed before the discussion of the issues. n16 A common failure with respect to the argument, which may result in waiver, is to make conclusory statements that are not supported by authority. n17 The requirement of legal argument applies both to represented and pro se appellants. n18

10. A short conclusion stating the precise relief sought. n19

11. A certificate of compliance with type-volume and page limitations, if required by Appellate Rule 32(a)(7). n20

12. The signature of the party filing the brief or, if the party is represented, by one of the party's attorneys. n21 By requiring a signature, subdivision (d) ensures that a readily identifiable attorney or party takes responsibility for every paper. n22

[2] Contents of Appellee's Brief

An appellee's brief must conform to the requirements of Appellate Rule 28(a)(1)-(9) and (11), except that none of the following need appear unless the appellee is dissatisfied with the appellant's statement:

1. The jurisdictional statement in Appellate Rule 28(a)(4). n1

2. The statement of the issues on appeal in Appellate Rule 28(a)(5). n2

3. The statement of the case in Appellate Rule 28(a)(6). n3

4. The statement of the facts in Appellate Rule 28(a)(7). n4

5. The statement of the standard of review in Appellate Rule 28(a)(9)(B). n5

As is the case with the appellant, an appellee that fails to provide in its brief sufficient argument on a particular issue waives its right to have the appellate court consider that issue. n6

[3] Reply Brief

An appellant has the right to file a brief in reply to the appellee's brief. n1 Unless the court permits, no further briefs may be filed. A reply brief must contain: (1) a table of contents with page references; and (2) a table of authorities with references to the pages of the reply brief of citations, including alphabetically arranged cases, statutes, and other authorities. n2 If an issue is raised for the first time in a reply brief, that issue will not be considered by the court. n3

[4] [Reserved]

[5] Briefs in Case Involving Multiple Appellants or Appellees

If a case involves more than one appellant or appellee, including consolidated cases, any number of appellants or appellees may join in a brief, and any party may adopt by reference a part of another's brief. Parties may also join in reply briefs. n1 This rule is construed liberally. For example, in a case in which the appellate court determined that appellants intended to proceed under Appellate Rule 28(i), the court did not dismiss their appeal for failure to file any brief, especially when the issues raised on appeal were identical to those of other appellants. n2 However, this rule applies only if the appellants' cases are consolidated for appeal, and neither appellant may adopt the other's arguments from another case by reference. n3

[6] References and Citations

[a] References to Parties

In briefs and at oral argument, the drafting or arguing attorney should minimize use of the terms "appellant" and "appellee." To make briefs and arguments clear, counsel should use the parties' actual names or the designations used in the lower court or agency proceeding, or such descriptive terms as "the employee," "the injured person," "the taxpayer," "the ship," "the stevedore." n1

[b] References to Record

When applicable, the parties must refer specifically to those parts of the record that support the facts and arguments relied on. n2 A party that fails to do so may suffer consequences such as waiver of the argument. n3 When a party makes references to the parts of the record contained in the appendix filed with the appellant's brief, the references must be to the pages of the appendix. If the appendix is prepared after the briefs are filed, a party referring to the record must follow one of the methods detailed in Appellate Rule 30(c). If the original record is used under Appellate Rule 30(f) and is not consecutively paginated, or if the brief refers to an unreproduced part of the record, any reference must be to the page of the original document. n4 For example, a party may refer to "Answer p. 7," "Motion for Judgment p. 2," or "Transcript p. 231." Only clear abbreviations may be used. A party referring to evidence whose admissibility is in controversy must cite the pages of the appendix or of the transcript at which the evidence was identified, offered, and received or rejected. n5

[c] Reproduction of Statutes, Rules, Regulations and Other Laws

If the court's determination of the issues presented requires the analysis of statutes, rules, regulations, etc., the relevant parts must be set out in the brief or in an addendum, or may be supplied to the court in pamphlet form. n6 If a party fails to provide the court with requested copies of rules and regulations, or reference to locations in the appendix, the party could be subject to sanctions for non-compliance with Appellate Rule 28(f). n7

[d] Citation of Supplemental Authorities

If a party becomes aware of pertinent and significant authorities after the party's brief has been filed, or after oral argument but before decision, the party may promptly advise the circuit clerk by letter, with a copy to all other parties, setting forth the citations. n8 This filing of a "notice of supplemental authority" under Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 28(j) is particularly important when relevant retroactive legislation has been enacted, or when directly relevant caselaw precedent has been decided. n9 The letter must state the reasons for the supplemental citations indicating the issue in question by referring either to the page of the brief or to the issue argued orally. The body of the letter must not exceed 350 words. Any response letter must be made promptly, and is also limited to 350 words. n10 However, a party may not supplement the record using this rule, which relates only to legal authorities such as statutes, cases, regulations, rulings, while supplementation of the record is designed to present to the appellate court an accurate representation of the proceedings that occurred in the trial court. Therefore, a circuit court will reject a motion to supplement authorities if the party attempts to provide new evidence or new issues not presented in the proceedings below. n11

[7] Form of Briefs n*

[a] Conformance to Format Requirements

Appellate Rule 32 controls the technical requirements for the format of briefs. It is important to follow these guidelines to ensure that the brief is accepted by the circuit court. If a party does not conform a brief to the requirements of Appellate Rule 32 or pertinent local rules, the court may impose appropriate sanctions, such as dismissal of the appeal, n1 rejection of the brief, or the imposition of a monetary sanction. n2 An attorney wishing to file a brief that does not comply with Appellate Rule 32 should first file a motion requesting permission to do so. n3

Every court of appeals must accept a brief that complies with the form requirements discussed in [b]-[h], below. By local rule or order in a particular case, a court of appeals may accept a brief that does not meet all of the form requirements listed in [b]-[h], below. n4

[b] Reproduction

A party may reproduce a brief by any process that yields a clear black image on light paper. The paper must be opaque and unglazed. Only one side of the paper may be used. n5 Text must be reproduced with a clarity that equals or exceeds the output of a laser printer. n6 Photographs, illustrations, and tables may be reproduced by any method that results in a good copy of the original; a glossy finish is acceptable if the original is glossy. n7

[c] Cover

Except for filings by unrepresented parties, the cover of the appellant's brief must be blue; the appellee's, red; an intervenor's or amicus curiae's, green; any reply brief, gray; and any supplemental brief, tan. n8 The front cover of a brief must contain:

1. The number of the case centered at the top. n9

2. The name of the court. n10

3. The title of the case (see Appellate Rule 12(a)). n11

4. The nature of the proceeding (e.g., Appeal or Petition for Review) and the name of the court, agency, or board below. n12

5. The title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed. n13 and

6. The name, office address, and telephone number of counsel representing the party for whom the brief is filed. n14

[d] Binding

A party may bind the brief in any manner that is secure, does not obscure the text, and permits the brief to lie reasonably flat when open. n15 Many judges and most court employees do much of their work at computer keyboards and a brief that lies flat when open is significantly more convenient. Thus, a spiral binding or secure stapling at the upper left-hand corner satisfy the binding requirement, but they are not the exclusive methods of binding. n16

[e] Page Layout

The brief must be on 81/2 by 11 inch paper. The text must be double-spaced, but quotations more than two lines long may be indented and single-spaced. Headings and footnotes may be single-spaced. Margins must be at least one inch on all four sides. Page numbers may be placed in the margins, but no text may appear there. n17

[f] Typeface

A drafter of a brief may use either a proportionally spaced or a monospaced face may be used. A proportionally spaced face must include serifs, but sans-serif type may be used in headings and captions. A proportionally spaced face must be 14-point or larger. n18 A monospaced face may not contain more than 101/2 characters per inch. n19 This rule recognizes that today few briefs are produced by commercial printers or by typewriters; most are produced on and printed by computer. The availability of computer fonts in a variety of sizes and styles has given rise to local rules limiting type styles. Therefore, the rule has been drafted to ensure that the standards will enable all parties to have an equal opportunity to present their material and to ensure that the briefs are easily legible. n20

[g] Type Styles

A brief must be set in a plain, roman style, although italics or boldface may be used for emphasis. Case names must be italicized or underlined. n21 Italicizing case names is preferred but underlining may be used. n22

[h] Length Limitation

[i] Page Limitation

Appellate Rule 32 restricts the length of any brief on appeal. The rule provides that a brief may meet this limitation either by meeting an absolute length limit, or by complying with a type-volume limitation. Thus, a principal brief may not exceed 30 pages, or a reply brief 15 pages, unless it complies with the type-volume limit of Appellate Rule 32(a)(7)(B) and (C). n23 In effect, Appellate Rule 32(a)(7)(A) is a "safe-harbor" provision that any principal brief which does not exceed 30 pages complies with the type-volume limitation without further question or certification. A reply brief that does not exceed 15 pages is also given that safe-harbor. n24

All attorneys for parties must note that an amicus brief may not be used to circumvent the page limitation imposed on the brief of each party. In this regard, any corporate amicus curiae filing a brief must also file a disclosure statement stating its ownership, n25 which will indicate whether that amicus is related to any party. n26 All amicus curiae must also make disclosures indicating whether a party's counsel authored the amicus curiae brief, and the identity of any party, attorney, or other person who contributed money for a brief. n27

The widespread use of personal computers has made a multitude of printing options available to practitioners. Use of a proportional typeface alone can greatly increase the amount of material per page as compared with use of a monospaced typeface. Even though the rule requires use of 14-point proportional type, there is great variation in the x-height of different 14-point typefaces. Selection of a typeface with a small x-height increases the amount of text per page. Computers also make possible fine gradations in spacing between lines and tight tracking between letters and words. All of this has made the 50-page limit virtually meaningless. Establishing a safe-harbor of 50 pages would permit a person who makes use of the multitude of printing "tricks" available with most personal computers to file a brief far longer than the "old" 50-page brief. Therefore, as to those briefs not subject to any other volume control than a page limit, a 30-page limit is imposed. n28

[ii] Type-Volume Limitation

A principal brief is acceptable if it contains no more than 14,000 words or if it uses a monospaced face and contains no more than 1,300 lines of text. n29 A reply brief is acceptable if it contains no more than half of the type volume specified in Appellate Rule 32(a)(7)(B)(i). n30 Headings, footnotes, and quotations count toward the word and line limitations. The corporate disclosure statement, table of contents, table of citations, statement with respect to oral argument, any addendum containing statutes, rules or regulations, and any certificates of counsel do not count toward the limitation. n31

[iii] Certificate of Compliance

A brief submitted under the type-volume limitation of Appellate Rule 32(a)(7)(B) n32 must include a certificate by the attorney, or an unrepresented party, that the brief complies with the type-volume limitation. n33 The person preparing the certificate may rely on the word or line count of the word-processing system used to prepare the brief. The certificate must state either the number of words in the brief or the number of lines of monospaced type in the brief. n34 Form 6 in the Appendix of Forms has been the strongly suggested form of a certificate of compliance. Use of Form 6 must be regarded as sufficient to meet these certification requirements. n35

[7A] Contents and Format of Briefs in Cross-Appeals n*

[a] Unique Briefing Rule Controls

Appellate Rule 28.1 has been added to provide special provisions that control the format, content, length, and timing of briefs in cases of cross-appeals. n1 A "cross-appeal" is an appeal which is initiated by a party to an already existing appeal (usually referred to as the "direct appeal"), n2 on an appellate issue which differs in some way from the original appellate issue. n3 For some appeals, it may not be obvious which party is the original appellant. Consequently, Rule 28.1 contains a provision to determine and designate the appellant and appellee in cases of cross-appeal. n4

Rule 28.1 makes clear that in any case involving a cross-appeal, briefs are governed by new Rule 28.1, and not by Rules 28(a), 28(b), 28(c), 31(a)(1), 32(a)(2), 32(a)(7)(A), and 32(a)(7)(B), except to the extent that Rule 28.1 specifically incorporates those rules by reference. n5 In other words, only when Appellate Rule 28.1 contains a provision which specifies that a cross-appeal is governed by a rule that applies to appellate briefs generally does that general rule also apply to cross-appeal briefs. For example, an appellant's principal brief in a cross-appeal must comply with Rule 28(a), n6 which is the general rule which specifies the required contents for an appellant's principal brief. n7

[b] Designation of Parties in Cross-Appeals

When a cross-appeal is filed, the party who files a notice of appeal first is designated the "appellant" for purposes of the rules governing the preparation of briefs, appendices to briefs, and oral argument. n8 The party filing a cross-appeal is designated the "appellee." n9 If parties to an appeal have filed their notices on the same day, the party that was plaintiff in the lower court proceeding is the "appellant." n10 The parties' may agree or the court by order may modify these designations. n11 Appellate Rule 28.1, which governs the preparation of briefs in cases involving cross-appeals, refers simply to the "appellant" and the "appellee." n12 However the appellate rules sometimes use the term "cross-appellant" to refer to the party filing a cross-appeal, and to the opposition as the "cross-appellee," n13 as do the courts of appeals in case law under the former Rule 28(h). n14

[c] Types of Briefs in Cross-Appeals

The following is a list of briefs as they are required to be used in a cross-appeal:

- Appellant's Principal Brief. The appellant must file a principal brief in its direct appeal, n15 which is the document that is required to specify the contentions that the appellant has regarding the issues raised in the direct appeal by the appellant. n16

- Appellee's Principal and Response Brief. In this brief, the appellee must specify the contentions that the appellee has regarding the issues raised by the appellee's cross-appeal, and in the same brief must respond to the appellant's direct appeal contentions. n17

- Appellant's Response and Reply Brief. In this brief, the appellant may respond regarding the contentions made by the appellee in the cross-appeal, and in the same brief reply to the appellee's response to the appellant's direct appeal. n18

- Appellee's Reply Brief. In this brief, the appellee may reply to the appellant's response to the appellee's cross-appeal. n19

Other than the four briefs listed above, no briefs may be filed in a cross-appeal unless the court expressly permits, n20 such as:

- Intervenor's or Amicus Curiae Brief. The court has discretion to allow an intervenor or amicus curiae to file briefs in cross-appeals in appropriate circumstances. n21

- Supplemental Brief. A supplemental brief is a brief which the court of appeals allows the parties to file in order to augment the parties' initial principal, reply, or response brief. The appellate court has discretion to order a supplemental brief when circumstances or legal precedent has changed related to issues already raised. n22 The cross-appeal brief rule expressly recognizes that a party may file a supplemental brief in cases of cross-appeal. n23

[d] Contents of Briefs in Cross-Appeals

The following is a list of the contents required in the various types of briefs in a case involving a cross-appeal:

- Appellant's Principal Brief. The appellant must file a principal brief that complies with all of the usual requirements for an appellant's principal brief generally. n24 The brief must contain a corporate disclosure statement, if applicable; n25 a table of contents, with page references; a table of authorities listing cases alphabetically arranged, statutes, and other authorities, with references to the pages in the brief at which they are cited; a jurisdictional statement; a statement of the issues presented for review in the appeal; a statement of the case that briefly indicates the type of case, the course of proceedings, and the disposition in the lower court proceeding; a statement of facts relevant to the issues submitted for review, with appropriate references to the record, n26 a summary of the appellant's argument in the appeal, containing a succinct, clear, and accurate statement of the arguments; the argument, including the appellant's contentions and the reasons for them, with citations to the authorities and the record, and for each issue, a concise statement of the applicable standard of review; a short conclusion stating the precise relief sought in the appeal; and any required certificate establishing compliance with the applicable type-volume limitations on the size of the brief: n27

- Appellee's Principal and Response Brief. In this brief, the appellee must file a principal brief in the cross-appeal. In addition, this same brief must respond to all of the issues and contentions set out in the appellant's principal brief in the appeal. n28 Because this brief serves as the appellee's principal brief on the merits of the cross-appeal, it must comply with all of the usual requirements for an appellant's principal brief, as listed above, n29 except that it need not include a statement of the case or a statement of the facts unless the appellee is dissatisfied with the appellant's statement. n30

- Appellant's Response and Reply Brief. In this brief, the appellant must file a brief that responds to the appellee's contentions that the appellee set out in its principal brief on cross-appeal and may, in the same brief, reply to the appellee's response to the appellants direct appeal. n31 Because it responds to the appellee's principal brief in the cross-appeal, the appellant's response and reply brief must contain most of the elements required of a response brief in the ordinary case that does not have a cross-appeal, except that a corporate disclosure statement is unnecessary because it has already been provided in the appellant's principal brief. n32 Thus, the appellant's response and reply brief must contain: a table of contents, with page references; a table of authorities listing cases alphabetically arranged, statutes, and other authorities, with references to the pages in the brief at which they are cited; a jurisdictional statement except that this statement need not be included if the appellant is satisfied with the statement in the appellee's principal brief in the cross-appeal; a statement of the issues presented for review in the cross-appeal, except that this statement need not be included if the appellant is satisfied with the statement in the appellee's principal brief in the cross-appeal; a statement of the case that briefly indicates the type of case, except that this statement need not be included if the appellant is satisfied with the statement in the appellee's principal brief in the cross-appeal; a statement of facts except that this statement need not be included if the appellant is satisfied with the statement in the appellee's principal brief in the cross-appeal; a summary of the appellant's argument in the response and reply, containing a succinct, clear, and accurate statement of the arguments; the argument itself, including the appellant's contentions and the reasons for them, with citations to the authorities and the record, and for each issue, a concise statement of the applicable standard of review; and any required certificate establishing compliance with the applicable type-volume limitations on the size of the brief: n33

- Appellee's Reply Brief. In this brief, the appellee may file a reply to the appellant's response brief to the appellee's principal brief in the cross-appeal. n34 The appellee's reply brief must include the following: n35 A table of contents, with page references; a table of authorities listing cases alphabetically arranged, statutes, and other authorities, with references to the pages in the brief of the citations; and when required, a certificate establishing compliance with the applicable type-volume limitations on the size of the brief. n36

- Intervenor's or Amicus Curiae Brief. When permitted by the court, this brief must contain all of the contents ordinarily required in briefs of intervenors or amici. n37

- Supplemental Brief. When permitted by the court, this brief must contain argument that augments the argument presented in the appellant's or appellee's initial principal, response, or reply brief. Ordinarily, the supplemental brief may not contain argument or contentions that were not raised by issues resented in the initial brief. n38

[e] Colors and Contents of Covers in Cross-Appeals

Brief covers must be of a particular color and content; the court has discretion to order corrections in a brief cover, if erroneous. n39 The following is a list of the particular color and content requirements for the cover of a brief filed in a case in which a cross-appeal has been filed:

- Appellant's Principal Brief. The cover of an appellant's principal brief must be blue when the appellant is represented by an attorney. The front cover of the brief must contain the number of the case centered at the top; the name of the appellate court; the title of the case; the type of the proceeding and the name of the lower court, agency, or board; the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and the name, office address, and telephone number of any attorneys representing the party for whom the brief is filed. n40

- Appellee's Principal and Response Brief. The cover of an appellee's principal and response brief must be red when the appellee is represented by an attorney. The front cover of the brief must contain the number of the case centered at the top; the name of the appellate court; the title of the case; the type of proceeding and the name of the lower court, agency, or board; the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and the name, office address, and telephone number of any attorneys representing the party for whom the brief is filed. n41

- Appellant's Response and Reply Brief. The cover of the appellant's response and reply brief must be yellow when the appellant is represented by an attorney. The front cover of the brief must contain the number of the case centered at the top; the name of the appellate court; the title of the case; the type of proceeding and the name of the lower court, agency, or board; the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and the name, office address, and telephone number of any attorneys representing a party on whose behalf a brief is filed. n42

- Appellee's Reply Brief. The cover of the appellee's reply brief must be gray when the appellee is represented by an attorney. The front cover of the brief must contain the number of the case centered at the top; the name of the appellate court; the title of the case; the type of proceeding and the name of the lower court, agency, or board; the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and the name, office address, and telephone number of counsel representing the party for whom the brief is filed. n43

- Intervenor's or Amicus Curiae Brief. The cover of an intervenor's or amicus curiae's brief must be green when filed by a party represented by an attorney. The front cover of an intervenor's or amicus curiae's brief must contain the number of the case centered at the top; the name of the court; the title of the case; the type of proceeding and the name of the lower court, agency, or board; the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and the name, office address, and telephone number of any attorneys representing the party for whom the brief is filed. n44

- Supplemental Brief. Unless filed by a party not represented by an attorney, the cover of any supplemental brief must be tan. n45 The front cover of a supplemental brief must contain the number of the case centered at the top; the name of the court; the title of the case; the type of proceeding and the name of the court, agency, or board below; the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and the name, office address, and telephone number of counsel representing the party for whom the brief is filed. n46

[f] Length of Briefs in Cross-Appeals

The appellate rules set length limitations on the parties' briefs. A brief may comply with the length limitation in either of two ways: n47 (1) the brief is less than the specified number of pages or (2) the brief is less than the specified volume of type, as certified by the attorney or party. The certificate by the attorney or unrepresented appellant must certify that the brief complies with the type-volume limitation, n48 by stating either the number of words in the brief or the number of lines of monospaced type in the brief. n49 The person preparing the certificate may rely on the word or line count of the word-processing system used to prepare the brief. n50

The following is a list of the length and volume limitations for each type of brief in cases with a cross-appeal:

- Appellant's Principal Brief.

Page Limitation. The appellant's principal brief must not exceed 30 pages; n51

OR

Type-volume Limitation. If certified by the attorney or an unrepresented party, n52 the brief may contain no more than 14,000 words or, if the brief uses monospaced typeface, may contain no more than 1,300 lines of text. n53

- Appellee's Principal and Response Brief.

Page Limitation. The appellee's principal and response brief must not exceed 35 pages; n54

OR

Type-volume Limitation. If certified by the attorney or an unrepresented party, n55 the brief may contain no more than 16,500 words or, if the brief uses monospaced typeface, may contain no more than 1,500 lines of text. n56

- Appellant's Response and Reply Brief.

Page Limitation. The appellant's response and reply brief must not exceed 30 pages; n57

OR

Type-volume Limitation. If certified by the attorney or an unrepresented party, n58 the brief may contain no more than 14,000 words or, if the brief uses monospaced typeface, may contain no more than 1,300 lines of text. n59

- Appellee's Reply Brief.

Page Limitation. The appellee's reply brief must not exceed 15 pages; n60

OR

Type-volume Limitation. If certified by the attorney or an unrepresented party, n61 the brief may contain no more than 7,000 words or, if the brief uses monospaced typeface, may contain no more than 650 lines of text. n62

- Amicus Curiae Brief.

All attorneys for parties must note that an amicus brief may not be used to circumvent the page limitations imposed on the briefs of any parties; consequently any amicus must file a disclosure statement stating its ownership, n63 and also disclose the author of the brief and who paid for the brief. n64

Page Limitation. In a case involving a cross-appeal, an amicus brief must not exceed 15 pages, which is half the maximum length authorized by the appellate rules for an appellant's principal brief, unless the court allows otherwise; n65

OR

Type-volume Limitation. If certified by the attorney or an unrepresented party, n66 an amicus brief may contain no more than 7,000 words or, if the brief uses monospaced typeface, may contain no more than 650 lines of text, which is half the type volume limitation authorized by the appellate rules for an appellant's principal brief. n67

- Supplemental Brief. Depending on the need to brief issues due to a change in legal precedent or circumstances, the court will order a specific maximum of page length or type-volume. Ordinarily, this maximum will be less than the length of the initial brief. n68

[g] Deadlines for Service and Filing Briefs in Cross-Appeals

In cases when a cross-appeal has been filed, the time of service of a brief is the same as the time of filing. n69 The following is a list of the deadlines for service and filing of each type of brief in cases with a cross-appeal:

- Appellant's Principal Brief. The appellant's principal brief must be served and filed within 40 days after the record is filed. n70

- Appellee's Principal and Response Brief. The appellee's principal and response brief must be served and filed within 30 days after the appellant's principal brief is served. n71

- Appellant's Response and Reply Brief. The appellant's response and reply brief must be served and filed within 30 days after the appellee's principal and response brief is served. n72 Therefore, the appellant has the same amount of time to respond to the appellee's principal brief as the appellee had to respond to the appellant's principal brief.

- Appellee's Reply Brief. The appellee's reply brief generally must be served and filed within 14 days after the appellant's response and reply brief is served, but at least seven days before argument unless the court permits a later filing for good cause. n73

- Supplemental Brief. Depending on the length of time needed to brief issues due to a change in legal precedent or circumstances, the court will order a specific date that supplemental briefs must be filed. n74

[8] Brief of Amicus Curiae n*

[a] Leave of Court Required Except for Government Entities

The expression "amicus curiae" means "friend of the court," and has traditionally been used to describe one who assists the court by providing information on some matter of law. n1 The traditional function of an amicus curiae is to assist in cases of general public interest by supplementing the efforts of private counsel and by drawing the court's attention to law that might otherwise escape consideration; governmental entities often file as amicus curiae. n2 Because more than one amicus curiae may be permitted or encouraged to present more than one viewpoint, amicus curiae need not be impartial concerning the outcome of the issues in a case. n3

However, it should be noted that an amicus brief may not be used to circumvent the page limitations imposed on the briefs of any parties. n4 Whether to allow a person to file a amicus curiae brief is generally matter of judicial accommodation. n5

The United States or its officer or agency, or a state, territory, commonwealth, or the District of Columbia may file an amicus-curiae brief without the consent of the parties or leave of court. Any other amicus curiae may file a brief only by leave of court or if the brief states that all parties have consented to its filing. n6 In 1998, this provision was amended to provide that it is no longer necessary to obtain the parties' written consent and to file the consents with the brief. It is sufficient to obtain the parties' oral consent and to state in the brief that all parties have consented. It is sometimes difficult to obtain all the written consents by the filing deadline and it is not unusual for counsel to represent that parties have consented; for example, in a motion for extension of time to file a brief it is not unusual for the movant to state that the other parties have been consulted and they do not object to the extension. If a party's consent has been misrepresented, the party will be able to take action before the court considers the amicus brief. n7

[b] Motion for Leave to File

A motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief must be accompanied by the proposed brief and state the movant's interest. n8 and the reason why an amicus brief is desirable and why the matters asserted are relevant to the disposition of the case. n9 Permission to file a brief as an amicus is within the sound discretion of the circuit court. n10 Traditionally, a court would grant amicus curiae status to a nonparty when the nonparty could aid the court in resolving complex issues of law that may not have necessarily been presented by the parties. Formerly, courts usually did not grant that status to nonparties who advocated a point of view so that a claim for relief could be won by one party or another. n11 If a nonparty has a strong adversarial interest or a partisan view of the facts, the party should intervene in the case, rather than see amicus curiae status. n12

However, at the appellate level, courts have recognized that an amicus need not be completely impartial, and may contribute a limited adversary support for particular issues, provided that the amicus is not advocating for a particular outcome on the merits. n13 For example, the grant of amicus curiae status is appropriate when a party is not represented competently or not represented at all; the amicus has an interest that may be affected by the decision in the present case, but the interest is not sufficient to entitle the amicus to intervene; or the amicus has unique information or a unique perspective that would aid the court beyond the presentation provided by the parties' attorneys. n14

[c] Contents and Form

An amicus brief must comply with Appellate Rule 32. n15 In addition to the requirements of Appellate Rule 32, the cover must identify the party or parties supported and indicate whether the brief supports affirmance or reversal. n16 Rather than the general requirements for briefs of the appellants and appellees specified in Rule 28, the particular requirements for amicus curiae briefs are specified in Rule 29; thus, amicus briefs require all of the following:

1. If the amicus curiae is a corporation, a disclosure statement like that required of parties by Rule 26.1; n17

2. A table of contents, with page references; n18

3. A table of authorities, including cases alphabetically arranged, statutes, and other authorities, all with references to the pages of the brief where they are cited; n19

4. A concise statement of the identity of the amicus curiae, its interest in the case, and the source of its authority to file; n20

5. Unless the amicus curiae is a governmental entity listed in the first sentence of Rule 29(a), a statement that indicates: n21

A. whether a party's counsel authored the brief in whole or in part; n22

B. whether a party or a party's counsel contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief; n23 and

C. the identity of any person who has contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief other than the amicus curiae, its members, or its counsel. n24

6. An argument, which may be preceded by a summary and which need not include a statement of the applicable standard of review;

7. A certificate of compliance, if required by Rule 32(a)(7); n25

8. A signature of the party filing the brief or, if the party is represented, by one of the party's attorneys. n26 By requiring a signature, subdivision (d) ensures that a readily identifiable attorney or party takes responsibility for every brief. n27

[d] Length

Except by the court's permission, an amicus brief may be no more than one-half the maximum length authorized by the appellate rules for a party's principal brief. n28 If the court grants a party permission to file a longer brief, that extension does not affect the length of an amicus brief. n29

The attorneys for parties should recognize that an amicus curiae brief may not be used to circumvent the page limitations imposed on the briefs of any parties. n30 Consequently, any corporate party filing a brief must file a disclosure statement stating its ownership, n31 which will indicate whether it is related to any amicus curiae. n32 Furthermore, except for governmental entities, all amicus curiae filing briefs must file a statement that indicates whether a party's counsel authored the amicus curiae brief, whether a party or a party's counsel contributed money intended to submit a brief, and the identity of any other person who contributed money to submit a brief. n33

[e] Time for Filing

An amicus curiae must file its brief, accompanied by a motion for filing when necessary, no later than seven days after the principal brief of the party being supported is filed. An amicus curiae that does not support either party must file its brief no later than seven days after the appellant's or petitioner's principal brief is filed. A court may grant leave for later filing, specifying the time within which an opposing party may answer. n34 It is advised that a party making a late filing show good cause for doing so. n35

[f] Court's Permission Required to File Reply Brief or Participate in Oral Argument

Except by the court's permission, an amicus curiae may not file a reply brief, n99 because the role of an amicus does not require the use of a reply brief. n100 Furthermore, an amicus curiae may participate in oral argument only with the court's permission. n101 This provision was amended to delete the former language stating that an amicus would be granted permission to participate in oral argument "only for extraordinary reasons." The deletion was made to reflect more accurately the current practice in which it is not unusual for a court to permit an amicus to argue when a party is willing to share its argument time with the amicus. n102

[9] Appendix to Brief n*

[a] Appellant's Responsibility

[i] Contents of the Appendix

The appellant must prepare and file an appendix to the briefs containing all of the following:

1. The relevant docket entries in the proceeding below. n103

2. The relevant portions of the pleadings, charge, findings, or opinion. n104

3. The judgment, order, or decision in question. n105

4. Other parts of the record to which the parties wish to direct the court's attention. n106

If an appellant in a civil case fails to comply with the appellant's responsibilities to provide an appendix with the required contents, the failure may result in dismissal of the appeal. n107

[ii] Excluded Material

The appellant should not include memoranda of law in the district court in the appendix unless they have independent relevance. n108 However, exhibits not entered into evidence should be included as part of the appendix if their admissibility is at issue. n109 Parts of the record may be relied on by the court or the parties even though not included in the appendix. n110

[iii] Time to File Required Number of Copies

Unless filing is deferred under Appellate Rule 30(c), n111 the appellant must file 10 copies of the appendix with the brief and must serve one copy on counsel for each party separately represented. An unrepresented party proceeding in forma pauperis must file 4 legible copies with the clerk, and one copy must be served on counsel for each separately represented party. The court may by local rule or by order in a particular case require the filing or service of a different number. n112

[b] Responsibilities of All Parties

[i] Determining Contents of Appendix

The court must encourage the parties to agree on the contents of the appendix. However, if they cannot agree, the appellant must within 14 days after the record is filed serve on the appellee a designation of the parts of the record the appellant intends to include in the appendix, and a statement of the issues the appellant intends to present for review. Within 14 days after receiving the designation, the appellee may serve on the appellant a designation of additional parts to which it wishes to direct the court's attention. The appellant must include the designated parts in the appendix. The parties must not engage in unnecessary designation of parts of the record, because the entire record is available to the court. This paragraph applies also to a cross-appellant and a cross-appellee. n113

[ii] Costs of Appendix

Unless the parties agree otherwise, the appellant must pay the cost of the appendix. If the appellant considers parts of the record designated by the appellee to be unnecessary, the appellant may advise the appellee, who must then advance the cost of including those parts. The cost of the appendix is a taxable cost. But if any party causes unnecessary parts of the record to be included in the appendix, the court may impose the cost of those parts on that party. Each circuit must, by local rule, provide for sanctions against attorneys who unreasonably and vexatiously increase litigation costs by including unnecessary material in the appendix. n114

[c] Deferred Appendix

[i] Deferral Until After Briefs Are Filed

The court may provide by rule for classes of cases or by order in a particular case that preparation of the appendix may be deferred until after the briefs have been filed and that the appendix may be filed 21 days after the appellee's brief is served. Even though the filing of the appendix may be deferred, Appellate Rule 30(b) applies; except that a party must designate the parts of the record it wants included in the appendix when it serves its brief and need not include a statement of the issues presented. n115

[ii] References to the Record

If a deferred appendix is used, the parties may cite in their briefs the pertinent pages of the record. When the appendix is prepared, the record pages cited in the briefs must be indicated by inserting record page numbers, in brackets, at places in the appendix where those pages of the record appear. n116 When a deferred appendix is used, a brief must make reference to the original record rather than to the appendix, because the appendix does not exist when the briefs are prepared. Unless a party later files an amended brief with direct references to the pages of the appendix (as provided in Appellate Rule (c)(2)(B), and discussed in the next paragraph, below), the material in the appendix must indicate the pages of the original record from which it was drawn so that a reader of the brief can make meaningful use of the appendix. n117

A party who wants to refer directly to pages of the appendix may serve and file copies of the brief within the time required by Appellate Rule 31(a), containing appropriate references to pertinent pages of the record. In that event, within 14 days after the appendix is filed, the party must serve and file copies of the brief, containing references to the pages of the appendix in place of or in addition to the references to the pertinent pages of the record. Except for the correction of typographical errors, no other changes may be made to the brief. n118

[d] Format of the Appendix

The appendix must begin with a table of contents identifying the page at which each part begins. Next, the relevant docket entries must follow the table of contents. Other parts of the record must follow chronologically. When pages from the transcript of proceedings are placed in the appendix, the transcript page numbers must be shown in brackets immediately before the included pages. Omissions in the text of papers or of the transcript must be indicated by asterisks. Immaterial formal matters, such as captions, subscriptions, and acknowledgments should be omitted. n119

[e] Reproduction of Exhibits

Exhibits designated for inclusion in the appendix may be reproduced in a separate volume, or volumes, suitably indexed. Four copies must be filed with the appendix, and one copy must be served on counsel for each separately represented party. If a transcript of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer was used in a district-court action and has been designated for inclusion in the appendix, the transcript must be placed in the appendix as an exhibit. n120

[f] Appeal on the Original Record Without an Appendix

The court may, either by rule for all cases or classes of cases or by order in a particular case, dispense with the appendix and permit an appeal to proceed on the original record with any copies of the record, or relevant parts, that the court may order the parties to file. n121

[g] Form of Appendix to Brief n*

An appendix must comply with the form for a brief, as specified in Appellate Rule 32(a)(1), (2), (3), and (4), n122 with the following exceptions:

1. The cover of a separately bound appendix must be white. n123

2. An appendix may include a legible photocopy of any document found in the record or of a printed judicial or agency decision. n124

3. When necessary to facilitate inclusion of odd-sized documents such as technical drawings, an appendix may be a size other than 81/2 by 11 inches and need not lie reasonably flat when opened. n125

Every court of appeals must accept an appendix to a brief that complies with the form requirements listed above. By local rule or order in a particular case a court of appeals may accept an appendix to a brief that does not meet all of the form requirements listed above. n126

[10] Serving and Filing Brief n*

[a] Time to Serve and File Brief

The appellant must serve and file a brief within 40 days after the record is filed. n127 If the proceeding is for enforcement or review of an order of the National Labor Relations Board or an officer of the board, the party adverse to the National Labor Relations Board is considered the appellant and proceeds first on briefing, unless the court orders otherwise. n128

After the appellant files and serves a brief, the appellee must serve and file a brief within 30 days after the appellant's brief is served. The appellant may serve and file a reply brief within 14 days after service of the appellee's brief but a reply brief must be filed at least seven days before argument, unless the court, for good cause, allows a later filing. n129 However, a court will not consider a party's conduct as excusable neglect, for example, if the party's brief is 80 days late, and the party shows no good cause shown for delay. n130

A court of appeals that routinely considers cases on the merits promptly after the briefs are filed may shorten the time to serve and file briefs, either by local rule or by order in a particular case. n131

[b] Number of Copies

An appellant must file with the clerk 25 copies of each brief and serve two copies on each unrepresented party and on counsel for each separately represented party. An unrepresented party proceeding in forma pauperis must file four legible copies with the clerk, and one copy must be served on each unrepresented party and on counsel for each separately represented party. The court may by local rule or by order in a particular case require the filing or service of a different number. n132

[c] Consequence of Failure to File Brief

If an appellant fails to file a brief within the time provided by this rule, or within an extended time, an appellee may move to dismiss the appeal. n133 However, the circuit court is not required to dismiss the appeal. n134 The circuit court may hear the appeal even if a brief has not been filed, n135 it may extend the appellant's time to file, n136 or it may permit the party to show cause why the appeal should not be dismissed. n137 An appellee who fails to file a brief will not be heard at oral argument unless the court grants permission. n138

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsBriefs

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 328.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(1); see § 28.82.

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(2).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(3).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(4)(A).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(4)(B).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(4)(C).

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(4)(D).

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(5).

(n10)Footnote 9. Regional Economic Community Action Program v. City of Middletown, 281 F.3d 333, 343 (2d Cir. 2002) (plaintiffs did not in brief dispute merits of trial court's summary judgment decision on appeal and thus waived any appeal of that decision).

(n11)Footnote 10. Harris v. Folk Constr. Co., 138 F.3d 365, 367 n.1 (8th Cir. 1998) .

(n12)Footnote 11. McMillan v. United States, 112 F.3d 1040, 1047 (9th Cir. 1997) .

(n13)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(6).

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(7).

(n15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(8).

(n16)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(9)(A); see Jeseritz v. Potter, 282 F.3d 542, 548 (8th Cir. 2002) (appellant's argument failed when he failed to cite relevant case law or record evidence in support of his argument).

(n17)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(9)(B); see Harris v. Folk Constr. Co., 138 F.3d 365, 367 n.1 (8th Cir. 1998) (if appellant fails to assert in its brief grounds for reversal of challenged orders, it waives those grounds).

(n18)Footnote 17. Pitsonbarger v. Gramley, 141 F.3d 728, 740 (7th Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 984 (1998) (Appellate Rule 28(a) does not permit appellant to incorporate by reference arguments presented to district court); Adler v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 144 F.3d 664, 679 (10th Cir. 1998) (arguments inadequately addressed in opening brief are waived, such as bald assertions that there were genuine issues of material fact, with no references to authority or record); Pitsonbarger v. Gramley, 141 F.3d 728, 740 (7th Cir. 1998) (Appellate Rule 28(a) does not permit appellant to incorporate by reference arguments presented to district court); LINC Fin. Corp. v. Onwuteaka, 129 F.3d 917, 921-922 (7th Cir. 1997) (failure to cite any authority in appellant's brief to support nonjurisdictional argument constituted waiver of issue, and appellate court had no duty to research and construct legal arguments available to party).

(n19)Footnote 18. Anderson v. Hardman, 241 F.3d 544, 545-546 (7th Cir. 2001) (although circuit court may more liberally construe requirements for pro se litigants, court may not fill gaps by formulating argument and performing necessary legal research).

(n20)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(10).

(n21)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 28(11).

(n22)Footnote 21. Fed. R. App. P. 32(d).

(n23)Footnote 22. Fed. R. App. P. 32(d), Committee Notes to 2002 Amendments.

(n24)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 28(b)(1).

(n25)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 28(b)(2).

(n26)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 28(b)(3).

(n27)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 28(b)(4).

(n28)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 28(b)(5).

(n29)Footnote 6. Norton v. Sam's Club, 145 F.3d 114, 117-118 (2d Cir. 1998) .

(n30)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 28(c). Note that an appellee who has cross-appealed may file a brief in reply to the appellant's response to the issues presented by the cross-appeal. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(4); see [7A], below.

(n31)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 28(c).

(n32)Footnote 3. N.Y. State Teamsters Conf. Pension & Ret. Fund v. Express Servs., 426 F.3d 640, 649 (2d Cir. 2005) .

(n33)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 28(i).

(n34)Footnote 2. Marcaida v. Rascoe, 569 F.2d 828, 831 (5th Cir. 1978) .

(n35)Footnote 3. United States v. McDougal, 133 F.3d 1110, 1114 (8th Cir. 1998) .

(n36)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 28(d).

(n37)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(9)(A).

(n38)Footnote 3. McGoldrick Oil Co. v. Campbell, Athey & Zukowski, 793 F.2d 649, 653 (5th Cir. 1986) (appellant's argument in brief stricken when not supported by references to evidence in record).

(n39)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 28(e).

(n40)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 28(e).

(n41)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 28(f).

(n42)Footnote 7. Sands v. Runyon, 28 F.3d 1323, 1332 n.2 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n43)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 28(j); see United States v. Thomas, 274 F.3d 655, 668 (2d Cir. 2001) .

(n44)Footnote 9. See Dobbs v. Anthem Blue Cross & Blue Shield, 600 F.3d 1275, 1288 n.2 (10th Cir. 2010) (concurring opinion).

(n45)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 28(j); see, e.g., In re McClean Indus. v. United States, 30 F.3d 385, 387 (2d Cir. 1994) (party supplemented its authorities with decision by circuit court that was decided days after opening brief was submitted).

(n46)Footnote 11. Trans-Sterling v. Bible, 804 F.2d 525, 528 (9th Cir. 1986) (Appellate Rule 28(j) permits party to bring new authorities to court's attention, and is not designed to allow party to bring new evidence through the back door).

(n47)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 332.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n48)Footnote 1. Mitchell v. Union Pac. R.R. Co., 501 F.3d 794, 795-796 (7th Cir. 2007) (court dismissed appeal after party filed oversized brief despite warnings).

(n49)Footnote 2. Doyle v. Hasbro, Inc., 103 F.3d 186, 196 (1st Cir. 1996) (because appellants' brief violated Appellate Rule 32(a) court awarded double costs).

(n50)Footnote 3. Fleming v. County of Kane, 855 F.2d 496, 498 (7th Cir. 1988) (parties should file motion rather than attempt to conceal excessive length of text in appendix or footnotes).

(n51)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 32(e).

(n52)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(1)(A).

(n53)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(1)(B).

(n54)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(1)(C).

(n55)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2).

(n56)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2)(A).

(n57)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2)(B).

(n58)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2)(C).

(n59)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2)(D).

(n60)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2)(E).

(n61)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2)(F).

(n62)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(3).

(n63)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(3), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n64)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(4); see Doyle v. Hasbro, Inc., 103 F.3d 186, 196 (1st Cir. 1996) (appellants' single-spaced brief violated Appellate Rule 32(a) and flouted page limit imposed by Appellate Rule 28(g); therefore, court awarded double costs).

(n65)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(5)(A).

(n66)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(5)(B).

(n67)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(5).

(n68)Footnote 21. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(6).

(n69)Footnote 22. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(6), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n70)Footnote 23. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(A); see [ii], [iii], below.

(n71)Footnote 24. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n72)Footnote 25. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1).

(n73)Footnote 26. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1), Committee Note to 2010 Amendments.

(n74)Footnote 27. See Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5), Committee Note to 2010 Amendments; see § 28.84[8][c], [d], below.

(n75)Footnote 28. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(A), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n76)Footnote 29. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(B)(i).

(n77)Footnote 30. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(B)(ii).

(n78)Footnote 31. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(B)(iii).

(n79)Footnote 32. See [ii], above.

(n80)Footnote 33. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(C).

(n81)Footnote 34. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(C)(i).

(n82)Footnote 35. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(C)(ii); see the appendix of forms, at the end of this chapter.

(n83)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion of cross-appeal briefs, see Moore's Federal Practice, Ch. 328.1, Cross-Appeals (Matthew Bender 3d ed.)

(n84)Footnote 1. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(a).

(n85)Footnote 2. DiSorbo v. Hoy, 343 F.3d 172, 189 (2d Cir. 2003) .

(n86)Footnote 3. See, e.g., D'Angelo v. Conagra Foods, 422 F.3d 1220, 1229 n.5 (noting that cross-appeal by party is proper only when party wants to change district court's judgment, and not when district court has entered judgment entirely in favor of party).

(n87)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(b); see also [b], below.

(n88)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(a), Committee Note.

(n89)Footnote 6. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(1).

(n90)Footnote 7. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a).

(n91)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(b).

(n92)Footnote 9. See, e.g., Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(2).

(n93)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(b).

(n94)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(b).

(n95)Footnote 12. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c).

(n96)Footnote 13. See Fed. R. App. P. 30(b)(1).

(n97)Footnote 14. See Capon v. Eshhar, 418 F.3d 1349, 1351 n.1 (Fed. Cir. 2005) .

(n98)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(1).

(n99)Footnote 16. Rothe Dev. Corp. v. DOD, 413 F.3d 1327, 1339 (Fed. Cir. 2005) .

(n100)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(2).

(n101)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(3).

(n102)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(4).

(n103)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(5).

(n104)Footnote 21. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d), 29, 32(a)(2).

(n105)Footnote 22. See In re Fowlkes, 326 F.3d 542, 544 (4th Cir. 2003) .

(n106)Footnote 23. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d); see Fort Knox Music, Inc. v. Baptiste, 257 F.3d 108, 110 (2d Cir. 2001) .

(n107)Footnote 24. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(1); see Fed. R. App. P. 28(a); see also [1], above.

(n108)Footnote 25. See Fed. R. App. P. 26.1.

(n109)Footnote 26. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(e).

(n110)Footnote 27. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C); see also [f], below).

(n111)Footnote 28. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(2).

(n112)Footnote 29. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a); see also [2], above.

(n113)Footnote 30. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(2).

(n114)Footnote 31. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(3).

(n115)Footnote 32. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c), Committee Note; see also Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(1),(b); [3], above.

(n116)Footnote 33. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C); see also [f], below).

(n117)Footnote 34. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(c)(4).

(n118)Footnote 35. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(2),(3), (11), 28.1(c)(4); see Fed. R. App. P. 28(c) (almost identical requirements for reply brief in case with no cross-appeal).

(n119)Footnote 36. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n120)Footnote 37. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a), 29(c), 32; see also [1], above (intervenor's brief), [8], below (amicus curiae's brief).

(n121)Footnote 38. See Greene v. Lambert, 288 F.3d 1081, 1097 (9th Cir. 2002) ; see also [c], above.

(n122)Footnote 39. Lester v. DOJ, 232 F.3d 910 (Fed. Cir. 2000) .

(n123)Footnote 40. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d); see Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2).

(n124)Footnote 41. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d); see Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2).

(n125)Footnote 42. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d), 32(a)(2).

(n126)Footnote 43. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d), 32(a)(2).

(n127)Footnote 44. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d), 32(a)(2).

(n128)Footnote 45. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d).

(n129)Footnote 46. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(d), 32(a)(2).

(n130)Footnote 47. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e).

(n131)Footnote 48. Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(11), 28.1(c)(1),(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n132)Footnote 49. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(C); see Fed. R. App. P., Form 6.

(n133)Footnote 50. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(C). But see DeSilva v. DiLeonardi, 185 F.3d 815, 816-817 (7th Cir. 1999) (alerting counsel that operation of word counting function in certain word-processing software programs may result in underestimation of number of words in appellate briefs).

(n134)Footnote 51. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(1).

(n135)Footnote 52. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(11), 28.1(c)(1),(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n136)Footnote 53. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(2)(A).

(n137)Footnote 54. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(1); see Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e), Committee Note (this brief may be longer than appellant's principal brief because it is combination of principal and response brief).

(n138)Footnote 55. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(11), 28.1(c)(1),(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n139)Footnote 56. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(2)(B); see Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e), Committee Note (this brief may contain more words or lines than appellant's principal brief because it is combination of principal and response brief).

(n140)Footnote 57. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(1).

(n141)Footnote 58. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(11), 28.1(c)(1),(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n142)Footnote 59. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(2)(A).

(n143)Footnote 60. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(1).

(n144)Footnote 61. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(11), 28.1(c)(1),(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n145)Footnote 62. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(2)(A), (C).

(n146)Footnote 63. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1).

(n147)Footnote 64. See Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5), Committee Note to 2010 Amendments; see § 28.84[8][c], [d], below.

(n148)Footnote 65. Fed. R. App. P. 29(d); see Fed. R. App. P. 28.1, Committee Note of 2005.

(n149)Footnote 66. See Fed. R. App. P. 28(a)(11), 28.1(c)(1),(e)(3), 32(a)(7)(C).

(n150)Footnote 67. Fed. R. App. P. 29(d); see Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(e)(2)(A); Fed. R. App. P. 28.1, Committee Note of 2005.

(n151)Footnote 68. See, e.g., Toney v. L'Oreal U.S.A., Inc., 400 F.3d 964, 965 (7th Cir. 2005) (court ordered that supplemental briefs were limited to 15 pages).

(n152)Footnote 69. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(f).

(n153)Footnote 70. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(f)(1).

(n154)Footnote 71. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(f)(2).

(n155)Footnote 72. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(f)(3).

(n156)Footnote 73. Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(f)(4).

(n157)Footnote 74. See, e.g., Toney v. L'Oreal U.S.A., Inc., 400 F.3d 964, 965 (7th Cir. 2005) .

(n158)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 329.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n159)Footnote 1. Leigh v. Engle, 535 F. Supp. 418, 419-420 (N.D. Ill. 1982) .

(n160)Footnote 2. See, e.g., Am. Legacy Found., RP v. Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co., 623 F.3d 135, 140 n.3 (3d Cir. 2010) .

(n161)Footnote 3. Waste Mgmt., Inc. v. City of York, 162 F.R.D. 34, 36 (M.D. Pa. 1995) ; see Miller-Wohl Co. v. Commissioner of Labor & Industry, 694 F.2d 203, 204 (9th Cir. 1982) .

(n162)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1), (5), Committee Note to 2010 Amendments; see § 28.84[8][c], [d], below.

(n163)Footnote 5. NOW, Inc. v. Scheidler, 223 F.3d 615, 616-617 (7th Cir. 2000) (permission denied because proposed amicus brief would merely duplicate arguments made in party's brief).

(n164)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(1).

(n165)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(1), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n166)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 29(b)(1).

(n167)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 29(b)(2).

(n168)Footnote 10. United States v. Michigan, 940 F.2d 143, 165 (6th Cir. 1991) , cert. denied, 513 U.S. 925 (1994) .

(n169)Footnote 11. See New England Patriots Football Club, Inc. v. University of Colorado, 592 F.2d 1196, 1198 n.3 (1st Cir. 1979) ; Community Ass'n for Restoration of the Env't v. Deruyter Bros. Dairy, 54 F. Supp. 2d 974, 975 (E.D. Wash. 1999) .

(n170)Footnote 12. Ryan v. CFTC, 125 F.3d 1062, 1063-1064 (7th Cir. 1997) .

(n171)Footnote 13. Waste Mgmt., Inc. v. City of York, 162 F.R.D. 34, 36 (M.D. Pa. 1995) .

(n172)Footnote 14. Ryan v. CFTC, 125 F.3d 1062, 1063-1064 (7th Cir. 1997) .

(n173)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c); see Fed. R. App. P. 32.

(n174)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c); see Fed. R. App. P. 26.1; see also § 28.82.

(n175)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1); see Fed. R. App. P. 26.1; see also § 28.82.

(n176)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(2).

(n177)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(3).

(n178)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(4).

(n179)Footnote 21. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5); see Fed. R. App. P. 29(a).

(n180)Footnote 22. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5)(A).

(n181)Footnote 23. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5)(B).

(n182)Footnote 24. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5)(C).

(n183)Footnote 25. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(7); see Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(C); see also § 28.84[7][h][iii], above.

(n184)Footnote 26. Fed. R. App. P. 32(d).

(n185)Footnote 27. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(d), Committee Note to 2002 Amendments.

(n186)Footnote 28. See [7][f], above.

(n187)Footnote 29. Fed. R. App. P. 29(d).

(n188)Footnote 30. See Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5), Committee Note to 2010 Amendments.

(n189)Footnote 31. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1); see § 28.84[8][c], above (item 1).

(n190)Footnote 32. Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(1), Committee Note to 2010 Amendments.

(n191)Footnote 33. See Fed. R. App. P. 29(c)(5); see § 28.84[8][c], above (item 5).

(n192)Footnote 34. Fed. R. App. P. 29(e).

(n193)Footnote 35. See Marbled Murrelet v. Babbitt, 83 F.3d 1060, 1062 n.1 (9th Cir. 1996) (court rejected late petition, because no attempt to show good cause for late filing was made).

(n194)Footnote 99. Fed. R. App. P. 29(f).

(n195)Footnote 100. Fed. R. App. P. 29(f), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n196)Footnote 101. Fed. R. App. P. 29(g).

(n197)Footnote 102. Fed. R. App. P. 29(g), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n198)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 330.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n199)Footnote 103. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(1)(A).

(n200)Footnote 104. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(1)(B).

(n201)Footnote 105. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(1)(C).

(n202)Footnote 106. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(1)(D).

(n203)Footnote 107. United States v. Rogers, 270 F.3d 1076, 1084-1085 (7th Cir. 2001) .

(n204)Footnote 108. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(2); United States v. Noall, 587 F.2d 123, 125 n.1 (2d Cir. 1978) .

(n205)Footnote 109. United States v. Burke, 781 F.2d 1234, 1245-1246 (7th Cir. 1985) (motion to strike appendix was denied because if rule limited record to items admitted into evidence, party could not show appellate court material it contends was incorrectly excluded).

(n206)Footnote 110. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(2).

(n207)Footnote 111. See [c], below.

(n208)Footnote 112. Fed. R. App. P. 30(a)(3).

(n209)Footnote 113. Fed. R. App. P. 30(b)(1).

(n210)Footnote 114. Fed. R. App. P. 30(b)(2); see U.S.A., Inc. v. Ozak Trading, Inc., 952 F.2d 44, 50 n.4 (3d Cir. 1991) (appellant required to pay costs because relevant parts of record were omitted, appendix was missing 13 pages, and appellant failed to contact appellee about contents of appendix before submission).

(n211)Footnote 115. Fed. R. App. P. 30(c)(1); *see also Cont'l Cas. Co. v. Adamo, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 13979, at 2 (11th Cir. 2008) (court should dispense with deferred appendix if appendix is not necessary to resolve issue on appeal).

(n212)Footnote 116. Fed. R. App. P. 30(c)(2)(A).

(n213)Footnote 117. Fed. R. App. P. 30(c)(2), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n214)Footnote 118. Fed. R. App. P. 30(c)(2)(B).

(n215)Footnote 119. Fed. R. App. P. 30(d).

(n216)Footnote 120. Fed. R. App. P. 30(e).

(n217)Footnote 121. Fed. R. App. P. 30(f).

(n218)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 332.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n219)Footnote 122. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(1)-(4); see also § 28.84[7][a]-[d].

(n220)Footnote 123. Fed. R. App. P. 32(b)(1).

(n221)Footnote 124. Fed. R. App. P. 32(b)(2).

(n222)Footnote 125. Fed. R. App. P. 32(b)(3).

(n223)Footnote 126. Fed. R. App. P. 32(e).

(n224)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 331.11 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n225)Footnote 127. Fed. R. App. P. 31(a)(1).

(n226)Footnote 128. Fed. R. App. P. 15.1 (this rule is a codification of the existing practice that has already been in effect in most circuits).

(n227)Footnote 129. Fed. R. App. P. 31(a)(1).

(n228)Footnote 130. Meza v. Washington State Dep't of Social and Health Servs., 683 F.2d 314, 316 (9th Cir. 1982) .

(n229)Footnote 131. Fed. R. App. P. 31(a)(2).

(n230)Footnote 132. Fed. R. App. P. 31(b).

(n231)Footnote 133. Fed. R. App. P. 31(c).

(n232)Footnote 134. Bartell v. Aurora Pub. Schs., 263 F.3d 1143, 1146 (10th Cir. 2001) (failure to file appellate brief on time is not jurisdictional defect, and court has discretion to permit late filing for good cause).

(n233)Footnote 135. Gerritsen v. Shirai, 979 F.2d 1524, 1527 (Fed. Cir. 1992) .

(n234)Footnote 136. Fed. R. App. P. 26(b).

(n235)Footnote 137. Campos v. New England Oyster House, 711 F.2d 158, 159 (11th Cir. 1983) .

(n236)Footnote 138. Fed. R. App. P. 31(c); see Chao v. Russell P. Le Frois Builder, Inc. 291 F.3d 219, 226 (2d Cir. 2002) (noting that this is sole sanction for appellee failing to file brief).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.85

§ 28.85 Form of Papers Other Than Motion, Brief, or Appendixn*

Not all appellate papers are required to have the same form. The form of a motion is governed by Appellate Rule 27(d). n1 The form of a brief is governed by Appellate Rule 32(a). n2 The form of an appendix to a brief is governed by Appellate Rule 32(b). n3 Any other paper, including a petition for rehearing and a petition for rehearing en banc, and any response to such a petition, must be reproduced in the manner prescribed by Appellate Rule 32(a), with the following two exceptions:

1. A cover is not necessary if the caption and signature page of the paper together contain the information required by Appellate Rule 32(a)(2); however, if an optional cover is used, it must be white. n4

2. The length limitation of Appellate Rule 32(a)(7) does not apply. n5

Every court of appeals must accept documents that comply with the form requirements stated above. By local rule or order in a particular case, a court of appeals may accept documents that do not meet all of the form requirements of this rule. n6 Every paper filed with the court must be signed by the party filing the paper or, if the party is represented, by one of the party's attorneys. n7 By requiring a signature, subdivision (d) ensures that a readily identifiable attorney or party takes responsibility for every paper. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 332.12 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 32(c)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(a).

(n4)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(b).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 32(c)(2)(A).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 32(c)(2)(B).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 32(e).

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 32(d).

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 32(d), Committee Notes to 2002 Amendments.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.85A

§ 28.85A Citation Permitted to Unpublished or Non-precedential Opinions and Other Written Judicial Dispositions

[1] Courts May Not Prohibit Citation to Unpublished or Non-precedential Judicial Dispositions

By appellate rule, a federal court may not limit citation to any federal judicial opinion, order, judgment, or other written judicial disposition on or after January 1, 2007. This rule applies to any opinions or other dispositions that have been designated as "unpublished," "not for publication," "non-precedential," "not precedent," or in a similar manner. n1 A court may continue to designate a judicial disposition as unpublished, non-precedential, or the like. Each circuit is free to determine whether such a written judicial disposition has any precedential value and the extent of the persuasive authority of such a disposition. n2 Several circuits have local rules that specify whether a judicial disposition has precedential value. n3

Rule 32.1(a) is intended to replace the inconsistent standards that circuits have previously applied to citations of unpublished and nonprecedential opinions and judicial dispositions with one uniform rule. n4 Rule 32.1(a) provides that a court may not place any conditions on the citation of such opinions or dispositions; for example, a court may not instruct parties that the citation of unpublished opinions is discouraged. n5

[2] Party Must Provide Copies When Citing to Unavailable Opinions or Judicial Dispositions

If a party cites a federal judicial opinion, order, judgment, or other written disposition that is not available in a publicly accessible electronic database, the party must file and serve a copy of that opinion, order, judgment, or disposition with the brief or other paper that cites to the unavailable disposition. n6 Thus, a citing party must provide copies unless the cited opinion or other disposition is available in a publicly accessible electronic database, such as a database maintained by a commercial legal research service or a database maintained by a court. To meet its obligation, the citing party must file and serve on all other parties a copy of the opinion or other judicial disposition with the brief or other paper in which the opinion is cited. n7

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See, e.g., Abdul-Muhammad v. Kempker, 450 F.3d 350, 351-352 (8th Cir. 2006) .

(n3)Footnote 3. See, e.g., Ninth Circuit Local Rule 36-3.

(n4)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a), Committee Note.

(n5)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a), Committee Note.

(n6)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a), Committee Note.

142 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.86

§ 28.86 Appeal Conferencesn*

The circuit court may direct the attorneys, and also the parties if appropriate, to participate in one or more conferences to address any matter that may aid in disposing of the appellate proceedings, including simplifying the issues and discussing settlement. n1 A judge or other person designated by the court may preside over the conference, n2 which may be conducted in person or by telephone. Before a settlement conference, the attorneys must consult with their clients and obtain as much authority as feasible to settle the case. The court may, as a result of the conference, enter an order controlling the course of the proceedings or implementing any settlement agreement. n3 To order implementation of a settlement while the case is on appeal, the appellate court must first examine and then approve the terms of the settlement agreement as written by the parties. n4

Courts have held that use of an Appellate Rule 33 conference convened under a local rule or case management plan does not deprive a party of the party's right to appeal, provided that the conference mechanism is not used to pressure parties to settle or withdraw an appeal. n5 Thus, a court may adopt a case management plan pursuant to Appellate Rule 33 to increase efficiency of appellate resolution or to preserve confidentiality of a process such as mediation. n5.1 On the other hand, a court may dismiss an appeal as a result of information learned during an appeal conference. n6

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 333.11, 333.12 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 33; see Beazer E., Inc. v. Mead Corp., 412 F.3d 429, 434 & n.4 (3d Cir. 2005) (under Rule 33, appellate court has power to order conference to mediate or settle dispute and to implement any settlement agreement reached as result of conference).

(n3)Footnote 2. Northwest Env't Advocates v. United States EPA, 340 F.3d 853, 854 (9th Cir. 2003) (rather than have appellate court judges directly involved in settlement process, it may be preferable to refer process to permanent master); In re Young, 253 F.3d 926, 928 (7th Cir. 2001) (circuit court designated mediator to preside over appeal conference).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 33.

(n5)Footnote 4. Herrnreiter v. Chi. Hous. Auth., 281 F.3d 634, 637-638 (7th Cir. 2002) (only if parties have reached written agreement calling for dismissal of appeal will circuit court order implementation of agreement under Appellate Rule 33).

(n6)Footnote 5. Bell v. A-Leet Leasing Corp., 863 F.2d 257, 259 (2d Cir. 1988) .

(n7)Footnote 5.1. In re Anonymous, 283 F.3d 627, 634 (4th Cir. 2002) .

(n8)Footnote 6. Motorola, Inc. v. Computer Displays Int'l, Inc., 739 F.2d 1149, 1153 n.6 (7th Cir. 1984) (following conference court dismissed second appeal as duplicating appeal previously filed).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.87

§ 28.87 Oral Argumentn*

[1] Right to Oral Argument

Oral argument must be allowed on the merits of every appeal unless a panel of three judges of the appellate court who have examined the briefs and record unanimously agree that oral argument is unnecessary because of any of the following reasons: n1

- The appeal is frivolous; n2
- The dispositive issue or issues have been authoritatively decided; n3 or
- The facts and legal arguments are adequately presented in the briefs and record, and the decisional process would not be significantly aided by oral argument. n4

To assist the court in its determination, any party may file a statement explaining why oral argument on the merits of the appeal should or need not be permitted, or the court may require such a statement by local rule. n5 The parties may also agree to submit a case for decision without oral argument, but the court is not bound by the parties' agreement. If the court does not unanimously concur with the stipulation, the case must be argued orally. n6 When the court determines not to hear oral argument, the court decides the appeal on the briefs and appellate record. n7

[2] Oral Argument Procedure

The circuit clerk must advise all parties whether oral argument will be scheduled, and, if so, the date, time, and place for it, and the time allowed for each side. A motion to postpone the argument or to allow longer argument must be filed reasonably in advance of the hearing date. n8 If the appellee fails to appear for argument, the court must hear appellant's argument. If the appellant fails to appear for argument, the court may hear the appellee's argument. If neither party appears, the case will be decided on the briefs, unless the court orders otherwise. n9 The court has the ultimate authority by unanimous decision of its three judge panel to determine whether or not to hear oral argument. n10

The appellant opens and concludes the argument. Counsel must not read at length from briefs, records, or authorities.

n11 If there is a cross-appeal, Appellate Rule 28.1(b) n12 determines which party is the appellant and which is the appellee for purposes of oral argument. Unless the court directs otherwise, a cross-appeal or separate appeal must be argued when the initial appeal is argued. Separate parties should avoid duplicative argument. n13 If an attorney intends to use physical exhibits other than documents at the argument, he or she must arrange to place them in the courtroom on the day of the argument before the court convenes. After the argument, counsel must remove the exhibits from the courtroom, unless the court directs otherwise. The clerk may destroy or dispose of the exhibits if counsel does not reclaim them within a reasonable time after the clerk gives notice to remove them. n14

If the proceeding is for enforcement or review of an order of the National Labor Relations Board or an officer of the board, a party adverse to the National Labor Relations Board is considered the appellant, and proceeds first on oral argument, unless the court orders otherwise. n15

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 334.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2)(A).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2)(B).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2)(C); see, e.g., Evancho v. Fisher, 423 F.3d 347, 349 (10th Cir. 2005) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(1).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 34(f); see Blunk v. Arizona DOT, 177 F.3d 879, 879 (9th Cir. 1999) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Hunt v. Lamb, 427 F.3d 725 (10th Cir. 2005) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 34(b).

(n10)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 34(e).

(n11)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(2); see [1], above.

(n12)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 34(c).

(n13)Footnote 12. See Fed. R. App. P. 28.1(b) ("appellant" is generally party who files notice of appeal first, or if notices are filed on same day, party who is plaintiff in lower court proceeding).

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 34(d).

(n15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 34(g).

(n16)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 15.1 (this rule is codification of existing practice that has already been in effect in most circuits).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.88

§ 28.88 En Banc Determinationn*

[1] Order for Hearing or Rehearing En Banc

A majority of the circuit judges who are in regular active service and who are not disqualified may order that an appeal or other proceeding be heard or reheard by the court of appeals en banc. n0.1 An en banc hearing or rehearing is not favored and ordinarily will not be ordered unless either an en banc consideration is necessary to secure or maintain uniformity of the court's decisions, n1 or the proceeding involves a question of exceptional importance. n2 The majority of a circuit court may on its own initiative order a hearing or rehearing in banc. Thus, a party need not have filed a motion for circuit court to order hearing or rehearing in banc, n3 although a party may do so. n4 Generally, the en banc court is composed of all of the judges of a circuit in regular active service. n5 However, several circuits provide that a senior circuit judge who sat as a member of the panel deciding the case being reviewed is eligible to participate on the en banc court. n6

[2] Petition for Hearing or Rehearing En Banc

[a] Contents of Petition

A party may petition the court for a hearing or rehearing en banc. The petition must begin with a statement that either:

1. The panel decision conflicts with a decision of the United States Supreme Court or of the court to which the petition is addressed with citation to the conflicting case or cases and consideration by the full court is therefore necessary to secure and maintain uniformity of the court's decisions; n7 or

2. The proceeding involves one or more questions of exceptional importance, each of which must be concisely stated. n8

The drafter of a petition should take care to focus on the narrow grounds that support en banc consideration and to realize that a petition should not be filed unless the case meets those rigid standards. n9 Except by the court's permission, a petition for an en banc hearing or rehearing must not exceed 15 pages, excluding material not counted under Appellate Rule 32. n10 For purposes of the page limit in Appellate Rule 35(b)(2), if a party files both a petition for panel rehearing and a petition for rehearing en banc, they are considered a single document even if they are filed separately, unless separate filing is required by local rule. n11

[b] Petition Procedures

A party may petition for either an original hearing en banc or rehearing en banc. n12 To petition to have an appeal heard initially en banc, a party must file the petition by the date when the appellee's brief is due. A petition for a rehearing en banc must be filed within the time prescribed by Appellate Rule 40 for filing a petition for rehearing. n13 The number of copies to be filed must be prescribed by local rule, and may be altered by court order in a particular case. n13.1 No response may be filed to a petition for en banc consideration unless the court orders a response. n14 A vote need not be taken to determine whether the case will be heard or reheard en banc unless a judge calls for a vote. n15 It is necessary, however, that each court of appeals develop a procedure for disposing of such petitions, because the petitions will suspend the finality of the court's judgment and toll the time for filing a petition for certiorari. n16

An amendment to Rule 35 that substituted, the term "petition" for the term "suggestion" has made clear that the deadlines are the same for a petition for a rehearing by a court panel and a petition for a rehearing en banc. The terminology change also has made clear that if a timely filing of a petition for rehearing has been made in the lower court by any party, the time to file the petition for a writ of certiorari for all parties runs from the date of the denial of the petition for rehearing or, if the petition for rehearing is granted, the subsequent entry of judgment. n17

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsEn Banc Determinations

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 335.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 0.1. Fed. R. App. P. 35(a); see Fed. R. App. P. 35(a), Committee Note to 2005 Amendments (Rule 35(a) amended to make clear that disqualified judges may not vote to determine whether to hold en banc hearing or rehearing).

(n3)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 35(a)(1); see Popovich v. Cuyahoga County Court of Common Pleas, 276 F.3d 808, 823 (6th Cir. 2005) (rehearing en banc is an extraordinary procedure which is limited to cases when precedent-setting error of exceptional public importance has occurred or when opinion directly conflicts with prior Supreme Court or circuit precedent).

(n4)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 35(a)(2); see Landell v. Sorrell, 406 F.3d 159, 166 (2d Cir. 2005) (concurring opinion, discussing whether issue presented by appeal is of "exceptional importance").

(n5)Footnote 3. Sparks v. Duval County Ranch Co., 604 F.2d 976, 979 (5th Cir. 1979) .

(n6)Footnote 4. See [2], below.

(n7)Footnote 5. Moody v. Albemarle Paper Co., 417 U.S. 622, 626, 94 S. Ct. 2513, 41 L. Ed. 2d 358 (1974) (authority to order hearing or rehearing en banc confined to judges in regular active service).

(n8)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 46(c); 5th Cir. Ct. R. 35.6.

(n9)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b)(1)(A).

(n10)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b)(1)(B); see Grutter v. Bollinger, 288 F.3d 732, 811 (6th Cir. 2005) .

(n11)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments; see Landell v. Sorrell, 406 F.3d 159, 165 (2d Cir. 2005) (mere disagreement about correctness of panel decision is not sufficient for en banc rehearing).

(n12)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b)(2).

(n13)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b)(3).

(n14)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b); see also MedImmune, Inc. v. Centocor, Inc., 409 F.3d 1376, 1381-1382 (Fed. Cir. 2005) (panel of court of appeals may on its own intitiate request that en banc court consider whether to overule prior panel decision).

(n15)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 35(c).

(n16)Footnote 13.1. Fed. R. App. P. 35(d).

(n17)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 35(e).

(n18)Footnote 15. Fed. R. App. P. 35(f); Squaw Valley Dev. Co. v. Goldberg, 395 F.3d 1062, 1064 (9th Cir. 2005) (after entire court has been informed of petition, no vote is required unless requested by one or more judges).

(n19)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 35(f), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n20)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 35(b), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments 35(c); see Hibbs v. Winn, 542 U.S. 88, 97-98, 124 S. Ct. 2276, 159 L. Ed. 2d 172 (2004) (petition by party or court of appeals order that requires parties to brief question whether case should be reheard en banc delays time period for filing writ of certiorari).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.89

§ 28.89 Entry and Notice of Judgmentn*

[1] Entry of Judgment

The judgment of a circuit court is entered when it is noted on the docket. The circuit clerk must prepare, sign, and enter the judgment in either of two circumstances:

1. After receiving the court's opinion; but if settlement of the judgment's form is required, after final settlement. n1 or

2. If a judgment is rendered without an opinion, as the court instructs. n2

Appellate Rule 36 clarifies what constitutes an opinion of the circuit court of appeals to avoid confusion of what constitutes a "judgment," rather than merely an "opinion," for purposes of other rules that are based on the date of entry of a "judgment," such as the date that commences the time for filing a petition for certiorari. n3

[2] Notice of Judgment

On the date judgment is entered, the clerk must serve on all parties a copy of the opinion, or the judgment, if no opinion was written, and a notice of the date when the judgment was entered. n4 Appellate Rule 36(b) was most recently amended to delete the requirement that the clerk "mail" the opinion or judgment to the parties, in recognition of the rule that the clerk may now use either electronic means or mail to "serve" a copy of the opinion or judgment or to "serve" notice of the date when judgment was entered on parties who have consented to electronic service. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsPublication of Opinions

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 336.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 36(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 36(a)(2).

(n4)Footnote 3. See CIR v. Bedford's Estate, 325 U.S. 283, 291, 65 S. Ct. 1157, 89 L. Ed. 1611 (1945) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 36(b); NLRB v. Amalgamated Clothing Workers, 430 F.2d 966, 971-972 (5th Cir. 1970) (entry of judgments without opinions allowed especially with respect to summary affirmances).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 45(a), Committee Notes to 2002 Amendments.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.90

§ 28.90 Interest on Judgmentn*

[1] Interest Accrual When Court Affirms Judgment

If the circuit court affirms a money judgment in a civil case, whatever interest is allowed by law is payable from the date when the district court's judgment was entered, unless the law provides otherwise. n1 The term "judgment" in Appellate Rule 37 refers to a final, appealable judgment, and not to an intermediate order. n2 The circuits are in disagreement about the time when a judgment occurs regarding attorney's fees, and thus accrual of interest on attorney's fees. Some circuits hold that postjudgment interest on an attorney's fee award begins to accrue from the time of entry of the judgment that unconditionally entitles the prevailing party to reasonable attorney's fees, even if the amount of those fees has not yet been stated. n3 Other circuits hold that the unconditional judgment does not occur until the date on which the court actually sets the amount of the fee award, and therefore postjudgment interest on an attorney's fee award does not accrue from the date the court initially orders that the plaintiff is entitled to recover attorney fees. n4

[2] Interest Accrual When Court Reverses

If the court modifies or reverses a judgment with a direction that a money judgment be entered in the district court, the mandate must contain instructions about the allowance of interest. n5 The mandate may direct the district court to exercise its discretion to determine the date from which postjudgment interest is to be calculated. n6 Alternatively, the mandate may direct that interest accrue either from the date judgment is entered on remand, n7 or from the date of the first judgment. n8 In its determination of which date to begin accrual of interest, the circuit court will consider whether the original judgment was basically upheld but nominally reversed, for example, with a liability reapportionment, n9 or whether it entirely lacked an evidentiary or legal basis. n10

[3] Rate of Interest

Appellate Rule 37 by its terms applies only to postjudgment interest. n11 Prejudgment interest is controlled by federal and state statutes as well as by common law. Appellate Rule 37 applies to all judgments for money in civil cases that are affirmed and to those judgments that are modified or reversed by a circuit court with a direction to enter a money judgment in the district court. Thus, the circuit court, not the district court, controls the accrual of interest on a verdict that is reinstated. n12 When postjudgment interest is awarded, Appellate Rule 37 provides that it is to be interest

"allowed by law," n13 a phrase that refers to federal law. n14 The rate of interest on federal judgments is fixed generally by 28 U.S.C. § 1961 at a rate equal to the coupon issue yield equivalent as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury of the average accepted auction price for the last auction of fifty-two week United States Treasury bills settled immediately prior to the date of the judgment. n15

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 337.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 37(a); Magee v. United States Lines, Inc., 976 F.2d 821, 823 (2d Cir. 1992) (postjudgment interest runs from judgment date, not verdict date).

(n3)Footnote 2. Dishman v. Unum Life Ins. Co. of Am., 269 F.3d 974, 989-991 (9th Cir. 2001) (judgment must be final and appealable before postjudgment interest begins to run).

(n4)Footnote 3. See, e.g., Associated Gen. Contractors of Ohio, Inc. v. Drabik, 250 F.3d 482, 485-495 (6th Cir. 2001) .

(n5)Footnote 4. See, e.g., Eaves v. County of Cape May, 239 F.3d 527, 529-542 (3d Cir. 2001) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 37(b).

(n7)Footnote 6. Swope v. Siegel-Robert, Inc., 270 F.3d 742, 743 (8th Cir. 2001) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Riha v. International Tel. & Tel. Corp., 533 F.2d 1053, 1054 (8th Cir. 1976) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Perkins v. Standard Oil Co., 487 F.2d 672, 675 (9th Cir. 1973) .

(n10)Footnote 9. Brooks v. United States, 757 F.2d 734, 741 (5th Cir. 1985) .

(n11)Footnote 10. Adkins v. Asbestos Corp., 18 F.3d 1349, 1351-1352 (6th Cir. 1994) .

(n12)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 37(a).

(n13)Footnote 12. See Fed. R. App. P. 37, Committee Note; Graefenhain v. Pabst Brewing Co., 870 F.2d 1198, 1211 (7th Cir. 1989) .

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 37(a).

(n15)Footnote 14. James B. Lansing Sound, Inc. v. National Union Fire Ins. Co., 801 F.2d 1560, 1570 (9th Cir. 1986) .

(n16)Footnote 15. 28 U.S.C. § 1961(a).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.91

§ 28.91 Sanctions for Frivolous Appealn*

[1] Award of Damages and Costs to Appellee

On motion or its own initiative, n1 a court of appeals that determines that an appeal is frivolous may award just damages and single or double costs to the appellee. Sanctions for a frivolous appeal may be imposed only after a separately filed motion or notice from the court, and reasonable opportunity for the appellant to respond. n2 By its terms, Appellate Rule 38 may be used only by appellees; thus, there is no such thing as a frivolous response to an appeal, and the rule may not be used by an appellant to recover damages and either single or double costs from an appellee. n3 In most cases, an assertion that an appeal is frivolous is raised by a motion for sanctions filed by the appellee. However, the court may raise the issue sua sponte. In either case, there must be notice and an opportunity to respond. n4 A statement or request in a brief does not constitute adequate notice. Only a separately filed, timely motion is sufficient. n5 Absent such a motion, notice must be sent to the appellant by the circuit court. n6

The imposition of sanctions under Appellate Rule 38 is a two-step process. n7 First, the court must determine whether the appeal was frivolous; n8 second, the court should determine whether sanctions are justified. n9 The purpose of Appellate Rule 38 is to penalize the appellant who files a frivolous appeal, n10 and to compensate the injured appellee for the delay and expense of defending the appeal. n11

[2] Determination of Frivolousness

A court may impose sanctions under Appellate Rule 38 only if it determines that the appeal is frivolous. There is no precise formula for determining whether an appeal is frivolous. Generally, the circuit court will determine first if the argument advanced on appeal has any merit. n12 If the result of the appeal is obvious, and the arguments advanced are entirely without merit, then the appeal is frivolous. n13 If the appellant's brief and oral argument fail to address the issues presented on appeal, the court will also find the appeal frivolous. n14 On the other hand, if an appeal raises an issue of first impression, n15 or an issue on which there is very little case law directly on point, the appeal is less likely to be deemed frivolous. n16

Appellate Rule 38 governs sanctions imposed by the circuit court for frivolous appeals, while Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 governs the standard for sanctions for frivolous actions filed in the district court. n17 Although Civil Rule

11 does not apply directly to the circuit court, some circuits have relied on it to provide guidance in interpreting the rules. n18

[3] Imposition of Sanctions

Once it has determined that an appeal is frivolous, n19 the circuit court may impose just damages and single or double costs as sanctions. n20 Damages may be either in the form of a lump-sum monetary penalty or attorney's fees. The court should award damages in an amount that reflects the duty of the appellee to mitigate the harm caused by the frivolous appeal. n21 Single or double costs are calculated under the provisions of Appellate Rule 39. n22 If the court awards attorney's fees, the court may remand the action for determination of the fees in the district court or may make an award itself based on a submission by the appellee. n23 An award of sanctions for a frivolous appeal is payable only to the appellee. n24

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsCosts & Attorney FeesCivil ProcedureAppealsFrivolous Appeals

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 338.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Abbs v. Principi, 237 F.3d 1342, 1350 (Fed. Cir. 2001) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 38.

(n4)Footnote 3. Reynolds v. Roberts, 207 F.3d 1288, 1301 (11th Cir. 2000) ; Walker v. City of Bogalusa, 168 F.3d 237, 240 (5th Cir. 1999) .

(n5)Footnote 4. See Hill v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, 814 F.2d 1192, 1200 (7th Cir. 1987) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Sims v. Great-West Life Assurance Co., 941 F.2d 368, 371 (5th Cir. 1991) .

(n7)Footnote 6. See In re Bero, 110 F.3d 462, 466-467 (7th Cir. 1997) (even though appellee's brief on merits requested sanctions for frivolous appeal, and appellant's brief replied to that request, circuit court was required to send appellant notice of probable sanctions and opportunity to respond because no separate motion for sanctions was made).

(n8)Footnote 7. Etter v. Pease Constr. Co., 963 F.2d 1005, 1008 (7th Cir. 1992) .

(n9)Footnote 8. See [2], below.

(n10)Footnote 9. Lorentzen v. Anderson Pest Control, 64 F.3d 327, 331 (7th Cir. 1995) ; see [3], below.

(n11)Footnote 10. Burlington N. R. Co. v. Woods, 480 U.S. 1, 7, 107 S. Ct. 967, 94 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1987) (purposes of Appellate Rule 38 are to penalize appellant and compensate appellee); Coastal Transfer Co. v. Toyota Motor Sales, 833 F.2d 208, 212 (9th Cir. 1987) .

(n12)Footnote 11. Coghlan v. Starkey, 852 F.2d 806, 815 (5th Cir. 1988) (compensation for damages suffered by parties is justification for sanctions).

(n13)Footnote 12. Grove Fresh Distribs., Inc. v. John Labatt, Ltd., 299 F.3d 635, 642 (7th Cir. 2002) (sanctions were appropriate when party was merely repackaging prior appeals; given that appellant's claims had been unsuccessfully litigated numerous times in both circuit and district court, appellant could not have believed in good faith that he might be successful).

(n14)Footnote 13. Evanow v. M/V Neptune, 163 F.3d 1108, 1119 (9th Cir. 1998) .

(n15)Footnote 14. Kurzweg v. Marple, 841 F.2d 635, 641 (5th Cir. 1988) .

(n16)Footnote 15. Walker v. City of Bogalusa, 168 F.3d 237, 240 (5th Cir. 1999) .

(n17)Footnote 16. International Bhd. of Teamsters, Local 631 v. Silver State Disposal Serv., Inc., 109 F.3d 1409, 1412 (9th Cir. 1997) .

(n18)Footnote 17. Fed. R. Civ. P. 11; United States v. Carley, 783 F.2d 341, 344 (2d Cir. 1986) , cert. denied, 476 U.S. 1142 (1986) (circuit court relied on Civil Rule 11 to impose sanctions rather than Appellate Rule 38 to award attorney's fees, because conduct at issue included proceedings in district court as well as circuit court).

(n19)Footnote 18. Walker v. City of Bogalusa, 168 F.3d 237, 240 (5th Cir. 1999) .

(n20)Footnote 19. See [2], above.

(n21)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 38.

(n22)Footnote 21. Berwick Grain Co. v. Illinois Dep't of Agric., 217 F.3d 502, 505 (7th Cir. 2000) .

(n23)Footnote 22. Fed. R. App. P. 39; see § 28.92.

(n24)Footnote 23. Gipson v. Rosenberg, 797 F.2d 224, 226 (5th Cir. 1986) , cert. denied, 481 U.S. 1007 (1987) (circuit court granted appellee's motion and awarded double costs and attorney's fees).

(n25)Footnote 24. Fed. R. App. P. 38; Walker v. City of Bogalusa, 168 F.3d 237, 240 (5th Cir. 1999) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.92

§ 28.92 Costsn*

[1] Persons Subject to Assessment of Costs

After an appeal is decided, the circuit court generally has the responsibility to determine who will pay costs. n1 The following rules apply with respect to the assessment of costs against the parties, unless the law provides or the court orders otherwise:

1. If an appeal is dismissed, costs are taxed against the appellant, unless the parties agree otherwise. n2

2. If a judgment is affirmed, costs are taxed against the appellant. n3

3. If a judgment is reversed, costs are taxed against the appellee. n4

4. If a judgment is affirmed in part, reversed in part, modified, or vacated, costs are taxed only as the court orders. n5

5. A court may assess costs for or against the United States, its agency, or officer under Appellate Rule 39(a) only if authorized by law. n6 Under the Equal Access to Justice Act n7 costs may be awarded in any civil action brought by or against the United States, unless otherwise provided by statute. If such costs are awarded, then the provisions of Appellate Rule 39(a) apply. n8 It is important to note that, except for item 5 relating to the United States as a party, the assessment of costs is discretionary with the court in all of the above situations. n9

[2] Costs of Document Duplication

Each circuit court of appeals must have a local rule of court that specifies the maximum rate for taxing the cost of producing necessary copies of a brief or appendix, or copies of records authorized by Appellate Rule 30(f). The rate must not exceed that generally charged for such work in the area where the clerk's office is located and should encourage economical methods of copying. n1 Litigants are not required to use the least expensive method of reproduction, if quality can be improved; methods that provide sharper and clearer image than typing may be utilized, and reproduction expenses are recoverable when incurred through any in-house method. n2 However, under this provision, only marginal costs of reproduction may be taxed against the party's adversary, not the costs of producing originals. n3

[3] Bill of Costs

To request the appellate court to tax costs, a party must file with the circuit clerk within 14 days after entry of judgment an itemized and verified bill of costs, along with proof of service of that bill on the other parties. n1 The court has discretion to allow late filing of a bill of costs under Appellate Rule 26(b), n2 and will consider each case on its own merits to determine whether good cause has been shown for the delay. n3

The opponent must file objections to the bill of costs within 14 days after service of the bill of costs, unless the court extends the time. n4 Then the clerk must prepare and certify an itemized statement of costs for insertion in the mandate, but issuance of the mandate must not be delayed for taxing costs. If the mandate issues before costs are finally determined, the district clerk must on request of the circuit clerk add the statement of costs, or any amendment of it, to the mandate. n5

[4] Costs on Appeal Taxable in the District Court

The district court, rather than the appellate court may tax the following costs on appeal, for the benefit of the party entitled to costs under Appellate Rule 39: n1

1. The preparation and transmission of the record. n2

2. The reporter's transcript, if needed to determine the appeal. n3

3. The premiums paid for a supersedeas bond or other bond to preserve rights pending appeal. n4 and

4. The fee for filing the notice of appeal. n5

The district court has discretion to award costs for trial under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54(d). n6 but it may not award costs on appeal that are not authorized by Appellate Rule 39. n7 However, if the parties agree to less expensive substitutes for costs explicitly authorized by Appellate Rule 39(e), they may be taxed by the district court. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsCosts & Attorney Fees

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 339.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Whitfield v. Scully, 241 F.3d 264, 274-275 (2d Cir. 2001) (circuit court allocates appellate costs, except as specified in Appellate Rule 39(e) to be under responsibility of district court).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 39(a)(1).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 39(a)(2).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 39(a)(3).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 39(a)(4); see Lahoti v. VeriCheck, Inc., 586 F.3d 1190, 1204 (9th Cir. 2009) (courts commonly order each party to bear its own costs based on Rule 39, local rule, or general order).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 39(b).

(n8)Footnote 7. 28 U.S.C. § 2412.

(n9)Footnote 8. See Baez v. United States Dep't of Justice, 684 F.2d 999, 1006 (D.C. Cir. 1982) (government awarded costs after prevailing on appeal).

(n10)Footnote 9. McDonald v. McCarthy, 966 F.2d 112, 115 (3d Cir. 1992) (circuit court may require each party to bear its own costs).

(n11)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 39(c); see Fed. R. App. P. 30(f).

(n12)Footnote 2. Pepsico, Inc. v. Swan, 720 F.2d 746, 747 (2d Cir. 1983) .

(n13)Footnote 3. Martin v. United States, 931 F.2d 453, 455-456 (7th Cir. 1991) .

(n14)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 39(d)(1); Haroco, Inc. v. American Nat'l Bank and Trust Co., 38 F.3d 1429, 1440 (7th Cir. 1994) (party that filed first requests for costs incurred on appeal years after judgment not entitled to costs).

(n15)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 26(b).

(n16)Footnote 3. Denofre v. Transportation Ins. Rating Bureau, 560 F.2d 859, 861 (7th Cir. 1977) .

(n17)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 39(d)(2); McGill v. Faulkner, 18 F.3d 456, 458-459 (7th Cir. 1994) (appellant who failed to file objections to bill of costs waived right to challenge order for payment of costs).

(n18)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 39(d)(3).

(n19)Footnote 1. See Whitfield v. Scully, 241 F.3d 264, 274-275 (2d Cir. 2001) (these are only appellate costs that are taxable in district court).

(n20)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 39(e)(1).

(n21)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 39(e)(2).

(n22)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 39(e)(3).

(n23)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 39(e)(4).

(n24)Footnote 6. Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(d).

(n25)Footnote 7. Johnson v. Pacific Lighting Land Co., 878 F.2d 297, 298 (9th Cir. 1989) , cert. denied, 493 U.S. 965 (1989) .

(n26)Footnote 8. Lerman v. Flynt Distrib. Co., 789 F.2d 164, 166 (2d Cir. 1986) , cert. denied, 479 U.S. 932 (1989) ; see Johnson v. Pacific Lighting Land Co., 878 F.2d 297, 298 (9th Cir. 1989) , cert. denied, 493 U.S. 965 (1989) (district court could grant costs if there were agreement by parties).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.93

§ 28.93 Petition for Panel Rehearingn*

[1] Time to File Petition

To petition for a panel rehearing, a party must generally file the petition within 14 days after entry of judgment, unless the time is shortened or extended by circuit court order or local rule. However, the exception is that in a civil case in which the United States or its officer or agency is a party, a party may file a petition for a panel rehearing within 45 days after entry of judgment, unless an order shortens or extends the time. n1

If a party files a late petition for rehearing, the circuit court need not consider it. However, a party may file a motion to enlarge the time to file the petition, and the circuit court has the authority to extend the time by order. n2 Generally, such a motion must be made during the 14-day period and before the mandate issues. The circuit court has discretion to allow or disallow an extension of time, but the motion is usually granted if filed within the 14-day period. Once the mandate issues, however, the court will usually deny the motion. n3 However, in the event a motion for rehearing is not filed or is filed late, the court may elect to treat another pleading filed within the 14-day time period as a motion for rehearing. n4

[2] Contents and Length of Petition

A petition for panel rehearing must state with particularity each point of law or fact that the petitioner believes the court has overlooked or misapprehended and must argue in support of the petition. n1 The purpose of a petition for rehearing is to ensure that the panel properly considers all relevant information before rendering its decision. This purpose is a limited one, and the panel need not consider points of fact that occur subsequent to the initial decision. On the other hand, subsequent controlling legal opinions may be considered, because they may reveal that the panel misconstrued the law when rendering the original opinion. n2 However, the circuit court will not address legal theories raised for the first time in a petition for rehearing. n3 Oral argument is not permitted on the petition. n4

A petition for rehearing must comply in form with Appellate Rule 32. n5 Copies must be served and filed as Appellate Rule 31 prescribes. Unless the court permits or a local rule provides otherwise, a petition for panel rehearing must not exceed 15 pages. n6

[3] Answer

No answer to a petition for panel rehearing is permitted unless the court requests an answer. Because very few rehearings are granted, a rehearing ordinarily will not be granted in the absence of a request by the circuit court for an answer to the petition. n1 However, in some clear-cut situations the petition will be granted without the necessity of an answer, for example, when the Supreme Court decides in an opinion that states that the circuit court adopted the wrong rule. n2

[4] Action by Court Granting Petition

If the court panel grants a petition for panel rehearing, the court may take any of the following actions:

1. Make a final disposition of the case without reargument. n1

2. Restore the case to the calendar for reargument or resubmission. n2 or

3. Issue any other appropriate order. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsRehearings

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 340.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(1).

(n4)Footnote 3. Marino v. Ortiz, 888 F.2d 12, 13 (2d Cir. 1989) , cert. denied, 495 U.S. 931 (1990) (motion for extension filed after issuance of mandate denied because such motion is granted only in compelling circumstances).

(n5)Footnote 4. Elliott v. Tilton, 69 F.3d 35, 36 (5th Cir. 1995) (motion to dismiss party was filed within 14 days of entry of judgment and considered timely as motion for rehearing).

(n6)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(2).

(n7)Footnote 2. Armster v. United States Dist. Court for the Dist. of Alaska, 806 F.2d 1347, 1356-1357 (9th Cir. 1986) (while subsequent points of law may be considered, subsequent points of fact may not be considered).

(n8)Footnote 3. Pentax Corp. v. Robison, 135 F.3d 760, 762 (Fed. Cir. 1998) .

(n9)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(2).

(n10)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. App. P. 32(a), (c); see also § 28.85.

(n11)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 40(b).

(n12)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(3).

(n13)Footnote 2. United States v. Allegheny-Ludlum Industries, 568 F.2d 1073, 1074 (5th Cir. 1978) (answer to petition for rehearing not required because Supreme Court rendered opinion that squarely and unequivocally determined standard to be applied).

(n14)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(4)(A).

(n15)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(4)(B).

(n16)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(4)(C).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.94

§ 28.94 Mandate Issued by Court of Appealsn*

[1] Contents of Mandate

A mandate is the appellate court's directions to the lower court following the determination of the appeal. n1 The court may, but need not, issue a formal mandate. Unless the court directs that a formal mandate issue, the mandate consists only of a certified copy of the judgment, a copy of the court's opinion if one was written, and any direction about costs. n2 For purposes of a mandate, the term judgment refers to the final judgment on appeal and not to an intermediate order. n3

[2] Mandate Effective When Issued

A circuit court must issue its mandate within seven calendar days after the time to file a petition for rehearing expires, or seven calendar days after entry of an order denying a timely petition for panel rehearing, rehearing en banc, or motion for stay of mandate, whichever is later. The court may shorten or extend the time for issuance of the mandate. n1 Thus, the circuit court may direct the mandate to issue immediately on judgment, prior to the time to file a petition for rehearing expires, and then later entertain a petition for rehearing or rehearing en banc. n2

However, the Supreme Court has held that the court of appeals does not have unlimited discretion regarding the length of time it may postpone a mandate nor may the court of appeals "withhold" the mandate indefinitely (by failing to issue a mandate), which, in effect, constitutes an indefinite stay of the mandate. n3

A mandate is effective at the time it is issued, n4 except when the court of appeals orders a stay of the mandate. n5 A court of appeals' judgment becomes final and effective on the issuance of the mandate, and at that time the parties' obligations under the judgment become fixed. n6 Thus, the effectiveness of the mandate is not delayed until the mandate is received by the district court or agency or until the trial court or agency acts on the mandate. n7 Once the mandate is issued, the circuit court's appellate jurisdiction formally ends. The circuit court does have inherent power within a reasonable time to recall the mandate and cancel its effectiveness, and to restore its appellate jurisdiction, but only in very exceptional circumstances. n8

Following the issuance of the appellate mandate, the district court is required to take any action that is consistent with the mandate, as stated in the judgment entered in the circuit court, and any written opinion of circuit court. n9 Conversely, the district court may not reconsider issues the parties failed to raise on appeal. It must attempt to implement the spirit of the mandate, and the court may not alter rulings impliedly made by the appellate court. n10

[3] Stay of Mandate

[a] Stay on Petition for Rehearing or Motion

Unless the circuit court orders otherwise, the timely filing of the following papers stays the mandate until disposition of the petition or motion: a petition for panel rehearing, a petition for rehearing en banc, or a motion for stay of mandate. n1 Thus, a rehearing en banc is treated exactly like a petition for panel rehearing, so that a request for either rehearing will suspend the finality of the court of appeals' judgment, and delay the running of the period for filing a petition for writ of certiorari. n2 Because the filing of a petition for rehearing en banc will stay the mandate, a court of appeals will need to take final action on the petition. n3 The procedure for doing so is left to local practice. n4 If the court of appeals denies the motion for a stay, the court must issue the mandate seven days after entering the order denying the motion. If the court grants the motion, the mandate is stayed according to the terms of the order granting the stay. By delaying issuance of a mandate, the court of appeals may eliminate the need to recall the mandate if the motion for a stay is granted. n5 However, the court of appeals has discretion to order that the mandate issue immediately if it determines that it would be inappropriate to delay issuance until disposition of the motion for a stay. n6

When the circuit court does order a stay of mandate, it has two effects during the period of the stay: first, the lower court's and the parties' obligations under the mandate do not become effective; and second, other courts may not rely on the decision for precedent. n7

[b] Pending Petition for Certiorari

An appellate party may move to stay the mandate pending the filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari in the Supreme Court. The motion must be served on all parties and must show that the certiorari petition would present a substantial question and that there is good cause for a stay. n8 The circuit court should grant a stay pending the filing and disposition of a petition for a writ of certiorari only if an applicant establishes: (1) a reasonable probability that four Justices will consider the issue sufficiently meritorious to grant certiorari; (2) a fair prospect that a majority of the Court will vote to reverse the judgment below; and (3) a likelihood that irreparable harm will result from the denial of a stay. In close cases the circuit court should balance the equities and weigh the relative harms to the applicant and to the respondent. n9

Any stay of mandate pending the filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari must not exceed 90 days, unless the period is extended for good cause or unless the party who obtained the stay files a petition for the writ and so notifies the circuit clerk in writing within the period of the stay. In that case, the stay continues until the Supreme Court's final disposition. n10 The court may require a bond or other security as a condition to granting or continuing a stay of the mandate. n11 The court of appeals must issue the mandate immediately when a copy of a Supreme Court order denying the petition for writ of certiorari is filed. n12 However, in extremely unusual circumstances in the interests of justice, it is possible that the court of appeals may stay its mandate, pursuant to Appellate Rule 41(b), even after the Supreme Court has denied a petition for writ of certiorari. n13

The maximum period for a stay of mandate, absent the court of appeals granting an extension for cause, is 90 days, because Supreme Court Rule 13.1 now provides that a party has 90 days after entry of judgment by a court of appeals to file a petition for a writ of certiorari, whether the case is civil or criminal. However, the court of appeals is not required to grant a stay of mandate that is coextensive with the period granted for filing a petition for a writ of certiorari. The granting of a stay and the length of the stay remain within the discretion of the court of appeals. The amendment means only that a 90-day stay may be granted without a need to show cause for a stay longer than 30 days. n14

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 341.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal Co. v. Milliken, 200 F.3d 942, 950-951 (6th Cir. 1999) , cert. denied, 531 U.S. 818 (2000) ; South Atl. Ltd. P'ship v. Riese, 356 F.3d 576, 582-584 (4th Cir. 2004) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 41(a); see United States v. Rivera, 844 F.2d 916, 920 (2d Cir. 1988) (explaining nature of mandate and how it is issued and used).

(n4)Footnote 3. York Int'l Bldg., Inc. v. Chaney, 527 F.2d 1061, 1066 (9th Cir. 1975) .

(n5)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 41(b).

(n6)Footnote 2. N. Cal. Power Agency v. NRC, 393 F.3d 223, 224 (D.C. Cir. 2004) .

(n7)Footnote 3. Bell v. Thompson, 545 U.S. 794, 803-804, 125 S. Ct. 2825, 162 L. Ed. 2d 693 (2005) .

(n8)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 41(c).

(n9)Footnote 5. See [3], below.

(n10)Footnote 6. Heartland By-Products, Inc. v. United States, 223 F. Supp. 2d 1317, 1333 (Ct. Intl. Tr. 2002) .

(n11)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 41(c), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n12)Footnote 8. N. Cal. Power Agency v. NRC, 393 F.3d 223, 225-226 (D.C. Cir. 2004) (one of exceptional circumstances is clerical error); see Kashner Davidson Sec. Corp. v. Mscisz, 601 F.3d 19, 22 n.3 (1st Cir. 2010) (party should request by motion that court recall mandate; citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n13)Footnote 9. Exxon Chem. Patents, Inc. v. Lubrizol Corp., 137 F.3d 1475, 1483-1484 (Fed. Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 877 (1998) .

(n14)Footnote 10. South Atl. Ltd. P'ship v. Riese, 356 F.3d 576, 584 (4th Cir. 2004) .

(n15)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(1); Brumfield v. Pioneer Credit Co., 291 F. Supp. 2d 462, 467 (E.D. Miss. 2003) ; see Robinson v. United States, 416 F.3d 645, 648 (7th Cir. 2005) (stay is automatic on filing of motion).

(n16)Footnote 2. See Tool Box, Inc. v. Ogden City Corp., 419 F.3d 1084, 1088 (10th Cir. 2005) (effect of any such motion is as if no mandate has been issued, unless motion is ultimately denied).

(n17)Footnote 3. See Tool Box, Inc. v. Ogden City Corp., 419 F.3d 1084, 1088 n.2 (10th Cir. 2005) .

(n18)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(1), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n19)Footnote 5. See Ellis v. United States Dist. Court, 360 F.3d 1022, 1023 (9th Cir. 2005) .

(n20)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(1), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

(n21)Footnote 7. Smith v. Union Nat'l Life Ins. Co., 286 F. Supp. 2d 782, 786 (S.D. Miss. 2003) .

(n22)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(2)(A); see United States v. Sears, 411 F.3d 1240, 1242 (11th Cir. 2005) (party must make motion for stay of mandate; stay does not automatically issue on filing of petition for certiorari with Supreme Court).

(n23)Footnote 9. Hollingsworth v. Perry, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 705, 175 L. Ed. 2d 657, 663 (2010) .

(n24)Footnote 10. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(2)(B).

(n25)Footnote 11. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(2)(C).

(n26)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(2)(D).

(n27)Footnote 13. Bell v. Thompson, 545 U.S. 794, 125 S. Ct. 2825, 2832, 162 L. Ed. 2d 693 (2005) .

(n28)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 41(d)(2), Committee Note to 1998 Amendments.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.95

§ 28.95 Voluntary Dismissaln*

[1] Voluntary Dismissal in District Court

If all of the parties sign a stipulation of dismissal and file it with the court, or if the appellant moves the court and gives notice to all parties, the district court may dismiss an appeal provided that the filing or motion occurs before the appeal has been docketed by the circuit clerk. n1 However, once an appeal has been docketed, the district court may not dismiss it, and the parties must seek dismissal in the circuit court. n2

[2] Voluntary Dismissal in Court of Appeals

The circuit clerk may dismiss a docketed appeal if the parties file a signed dismissal agreement specifying how costs are to be paid and pay any fees that are due; however, no mandate or other process may issue without the court's order. An appeal may be dismissed on the appellant's motion on terms agreed to by the parties or fixed by the court. n3 When a stipulation of dismissal is made pursuant to Appellate Rule 42(b), it is not effective if it is not filed, even if it has been signed by all of the parties. n4

The ultimate power to approve or disapprove a voluntary dismissal is with the circuit court, and the circuit court is not bound by the terms of the parties' agreement to dismiss the matter if the parties seek a mandate or other process. If the relief sought by the parties involves a substantive disposition, the court must determine if the requested action is proper on the merits. n5 The court of appeals has broad discretion to grant voluntary motions to dismiss; such motions are generally granted but may be denied in the interest of justice or fairness. n6

The circuit court's discretion includes the authority to attach conditions to a voluntary dismissal, such as making the dismissal with prejudice. n7 However, the power to dismiss an appeal subject to conditions fixed by the circuit court does not include a general power to condition dismissal on the appellant's reimbursement of appellee's expenses. n8 Similarly, because awards of attorney's fees are exceptional in the American legal system and will not be presumed from the general language of Appellate Rule 42(b), the Rule does not allow the appellate court to condition a voluntary dismissal of an appeal on the condition of the appellant's payment of appellee's reasonable attorney's fees, absent exceptional circumstances. n9

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsDismissals of AppealsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureAppealsDismissals of AppealsVoluntary Dismissals

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 342.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 42(a); see Rivera v. Ciccone, 311 F. Supp. 373, 374 (W.D. Mo. 1969) .

(n3)Footnote 2. United States v. Clark, 917 F.2d 177, 179 (5th Cir. 1990) ; United States v. Hitchmon, 602 F.2d 689, 692 (5th Cir. 1979) ; see [2], below.

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 42(b); see Greenlaw v. United States, 554 U.S. 237, 128 S. Ct. 2559, 171 L. Ed. 2d 399, 413 (2008) (noting that Appellate Rule 42(b) voluntary dismissal is effective way for parties to settle appeals and cross appeals before positions become hardened during hours invested in preparing the case for appellate court consideration).

(n5)Footnote 4. Totalplan Corp. of Am. v. Colborne, 14 F.3d 824, 828 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Clarendon Ltd. v. Nu-West Indus., Inc., 936 F.2d 127, 129 (3d Cir. 1991) (court not bound by settlement agreement).

(n7)Footnote 6. American Auto. Mfrs. Ass'n, v. Commissioner, Mass. Dep't of Envtl. Protection, 31 F.3d 18, 22 (1st Cir. 1994) .

(n8)Footnote 7. NLRB v. Brooke Indus., Inc., 873 F.2d 165, 166 (7th Cir. 1989) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Ormsby Motors, Inc. v. General Motors Corp., 32 F.3d 240, 241-242 (7th Cir. 1994) (only in exceptional cases will court sanction voluntary dismissals on reimbursement of expenses).

(n10)Footnote 9. Overseas Cosmos, Inc. v. NR Vessel Corp., 148 F.3d 51, 52 (2d Cir. 1998) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.96

§ 28.96 Substitutionn*

[1] Substitution on Death of Party

[a] After Notice of Appeal Is Filed

In the event a party to an appeal dies after a notice of appeal has been filed or while a proceeding is pending in the court of appeals, the decedent's personal representative may be substituted as a party on motion filed with the circuit clerk by the representative or by any party. A party's motion must be served on the representative in accordance with Appellate Rule 25. n1 When substituted, the personal representative stands in the place of the deceased party and acquires only the rights and defenses of that party. n2

If the decedent has no representative, any party may suggest the death on the record, and the court of appeals may then direct appropriate proceedings. n3 For example, the circuit court may direct that the case be continued until a representative is appointed, n4 or may dismiss the appeal if there is no request for substitution. n5

[b] Before Notice of Appeal Is Filed

[i] Substitution of Potential Appellant Before Notice of Appeal Is Filed

If a party entitled to appeal dies before filing a notice of appeal, the decedent's personal representative, or if there is no personal representative, the decedent's attorney of record, may file a notice of appeal within the time prescribed by the Appellate Rules. n6 After the notice of appeal is filed, the substitution must be made in accordance with Appellate Rule 43(a)(1). n7

[ii] Substitution of Potential Appellee Before Notice of Appeal Is Filed

If a party against whom an appeal may be taken dies after entry of a judgment or order in the district court, but before a notice of appeal is filed, an appellant may proceed as if the death had not occurred. After the notice of appeal is filed, substitution must be made in accordance with Appellate Rule 43(a)(2). n8

[2] Substitution for Reason Other Than Death

If a party needs to be substituted for any reason other than death, the same procedure applies as that for substitution on death as prescribed in Appellate Rule 43(a). n9 Thus, if an individual was acting only as an agent for a business entity, the circuit court may substitute the entity for the individual. n10 The court may also make substitution when a party is incapable of continuing the suit. For example, the court may substitute when a party has become incompetent, when a transfer of interest in the company or property involved in the suit has occurred, or when the focus of the litigation has shifted, making another entity the real party in interest. n11

[3] Public Officers

[a] Identification of Party

A public officer who is a party to an appeal or other proceeding in an official capacity may be described as a party by the public officer's official title rather than by name. n12 But the court may require the public officer's name to be added. n13

[b] Automatic Substitution of Officeholder

If a public officer who is a party to an appeal or other proceeding in an official capacity dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate. The public officer's successor is automatically substituted as a party. n14 Proceedings following the substitution are to be in the name of the substituted party, n15 but any misnomer that does not affect the substantial rights of the parties may be disregarded. An order of substitution may be entered at any time but failure to enter an order does not affect the substitution. n16 This provision prevents suits involving public officials from becoming moot due to personnel changes. n17 However, substitution of parties is only a procedural device and does not control the question of mootness, based on the type of relief requested. n18

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 343.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 43(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Kowaleski v. Director, Office of Workers' Compensation Programs, USDOL, 879 F.2d 1173, 1177 n.4 (3d Cir. 1989) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 43(a)(1).

(n5)Footnote 4. Ward v. Edgeton, 59 F.3d 652, 653-654 (7th Cir. 1995) (motion to dismiss appeal by deceased person was denied, and court ordered that next of kin be notified and offered chance to be substituted as party).

(n6)Footnote 5. Crowder v. Housing Auth., 908 F.2d 843, 846 (11th Cir. 1990) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 43(a)(2); see Slade v. United States Postal Serv., 952 F.2d 357, 359-360 (10th Cir. 1991) (deceased plaintiff's attorney made timely filing of appeal and wife was substituted at later date).

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 43(a)(2); see [a], above.

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 43(a)(3); see [a], above.

(n10)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 43(b); see [1], above.

(n11)Footnote 10. United Transp. Union v. ICC, 891 F.2d 908, 909 n.1 (D.C. Cir. 1989) , cert. denied, 497 U.S. 1024 (1990) .

(n12)Footnote 11. Alabama Power Co. v. ICC, 852 F.2d 1361, 1366-1367 (D.C. Cir. 1988) .

(n13)Footnote 12. Fed. R. App. P. 43(c)(1); see Karcher v. May, 484 U.S. 72, 108 S. Ct. 388, 98 L. Ed. 2d 327 (1987) (in suit involving official capacity of public official, real party in interest is entity represented and not individual officeholder).

(n14)Footnote 13. Fed. R. App. P. 43(c)(1).

(n15)Footnote 14. Fed. R. App. P. 43(c)(2).

(n16)Footnote 15. Chao v. Russell P. Le Frois Builder, Inc. 291 F.3d 219, 221 n.1 (2d Cir. 2002) .

(n17)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 43(c)(2).

(n18)Footnote 17. Karcher v. May, 484 U.S. 72, 83, 108 S. Ct. 388, 98 L. Ed. 2d 327 (1987) .

(n19)Footnote 18. Kincaid v. Rusk, 670 F.2d 737, 741 (7th Cir. 1982) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.97

§ 28.97 Constitutional Cases Not Involving United States as Partyn*

There are two special appellate notice provisions that apply when a party is litigating the constitutionality of either a federal or state statute and the applicable federal or state government is not already a party to the case. n1 Thus, if a party challenges the constitutionality of a federal statute or other Act of Congress in any proceeding in which the United States or its agency, officer, or employee is not a party in an official capacity, the questioning party must give written notice to the circuit clerk immediately at the filing of the record, or as soon as the question is raised in the court of appeals. The clerk must then certify that fact to the Attorney General. n2

In the same way, a party must give notice when the party is challenging the constitutionality of the statute of any state, n3 which includes the District of Columbia and federal territories, commonwealths, and possessions. n4 For such a challenge, the party must give written notice to the circuit clerk immediately on the filing of the record or as soon as the constitutional question is raised in the court of appeals. The clerk must then certify that fact to the attorney general of the State. n5

The purpose of these provisions is to ensure that the executive branch of the applicable government has notice of the proceeding and an opportunity to intervene and present its views and later appeal the case to the Supreme Court if the federal circuit court of appeals determines that the federal statute is unconstitutional. n6 In any proceeding in a federal court in which the United States or any federal agency, officer, or employee is not a party, and which raises the constitutionality of a federal law affecting the public interest, the court must certify that fact to the United States Attorney General and permit the United States to intervene for argument on the question of constitutionality. n7 Another subsection of that same statute contains virtually identical language imposing on the federal court the duty to notify the attorney general of a state of any constitutional challenge to any statute of that state. n8

If a party fails to provide the required notice for a constitutional challenge to either a federal statute n9 or a state statute, n10 the court may deem the constitutional issue waived. n11 Because the purpose of Appellate Rule 44 is to notify the appropriate federal or state official or agency of a constitutional challenge to one of its laws, there is authority to the effect that if the government has actual notice from another source, the circuit court may proceed despite lack of the formal notice required by the rule. n12

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 344.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 44(a), (b).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 44(a).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 44(b).

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 1(b).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 44(b).

(n7)Footnote 6. Tonya K. v. Board of Educ., 847 F.2d 1243, 1247 (7th Cir. 1988) .

(n8)Footnote 7. See 28 U.S.C. § 2403(a).

(n9)Footnote 8. See 28 U.S.C. § 2403(a).

(n10)Footnote 9. See Fed. R. App. P. 44(a).

(n11)Footnote 10. See Fed. R. App. P. 44(a).

(n12)Footnote 11. See Noonan v. Staples, Inc., 561 F.3d 4, 6 (1st Cir. 2009) (waiver of constitutional challenge to state statute); see also Insurance Corp. of Ireland, Ltd. v. Compagnie des Bauxites de Guinee, 456 U.S. 694, 703, 102 S. Ct. 2099, 72 L. Ed. 2d 492 (1982) (because personal jurisdiction is individual [due process] right, it can be waived like other individual rights).

(n13)Footnote 12. Gosselin v. Commonwealth of Mass. Dep't of Revenue, 276 F.3d 70 (1st Cir. 2002) ; Zehner v. Trigg, 133 F.3d 459, 461 (7th Cir. 1997) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.98

§ 28.98 Clerk's Dutiesn*

[1] Qualifications of Clerk

The circuit clerk must take the oath and post any bond required by law. Neither the clerk nor any deputy clerk may practice as an attorney or counselor in any court while in office as a clerk in the circuit court of appeals. n1

[2] Time Court Is Open

The court of appeals is always open for filing any paper, issuing and returning process, making a motion, and entering an order. The clerk's office with the clerk or a deputy in attendance must be open during business hours on all days except Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. A court may provide by local rule or by order that the clerk's office be open for specified hours on Saturdays or on legal holidays other than New Year's Day, Martin Luther King, Jr.'s Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas Day. n2

[3] Duties With Respect to Records

The circuit clerk must maintain a docket and an index of all docketed cases in the manner prescribed by the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts. The clerk must record all papers filed with the clerk and all process, orders, and judgments. n1

The formal docket entries are the official record that the parties and court can utilize to definitively ascertain the determinations and actions that have been made in the appellate case. n2 By direction of the circuit court, the clerk must also prepare a calendar of cases awaiting argument. When placing cases on the calendar for argument, the clerk must give preference to appeals in criminal cases and to other proceedings and appeals entitled to preference by law. n3 Finally, the clerk must keep other books and records required by the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, with the approval of the Judicial Conference of the United States, or by the court. n4

The circuit clerk has custody of the court's records and papers. Unless the court orders or instructs otherwise, the clerk must not permit an original record or paper to be taken from the clerk's office. On disposition of the case, original papers constituting the record on appeal or review must be returned to the court or agency from which they were received. The clerk must preserve a copy of any brief, appendix, or other paper that has been filed. n5

[4] Notice of Order or Judgment

When the circuit court enters an order or judgment, the circuit clerk must immediately serve a notice of entry on each party to the proceeding, with a copy of any opinion, and must note the date of service on the docket. Service on a party represented by counsel must be made on counsel. n1 Although the clerk may serve the parties with the notice of an order or judgment by mail, the clerk is no longer required to do so. Thus, the clerk may now serve the parties by electronic means, such as email. n2

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsClerks of Court

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 345.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 45(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 45(a)(2).

(n4)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 45(b)(1); see, e.g., In re Capitol Hill Group, 330 B.R. 1, 2 (D.D.C. 2005) (appellate court does not issue its mandate until it has been recorded on docket by clerk).

(n5)Footnote 2. See Bell v. Thompson, 545 U.S. 794, 805, 125 S. Ct. 2825, 162 L. Ed. 2d 693 (2005) .

(n6)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 45(b)(2).

(n7)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 45(b)(3).

(n8)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 45(d); Crystal Grower's Corp. v. Dobbins, 616 F.2d 458, 461 (10th Cir. 1980) .

(n9)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 45(c).

(n10)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. App. P. 45(c); Molski v. Mandarin Touch Rest., 385 F. Supp. 2d 1042, 1048 (C.D. Cal. 2005) .

155 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.99

§ 28.99 Attorneys' Federal Appellate Practicen*

[1] Admission to Bar of Court of Appeals

[a] Eligibility

An attorney is eligible for admission to the bar of a court of appeals if that attorney is of good moral and professional character and is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, the highest court of a state, another United States court of appeals, or a United States district court (including the district courts for Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Virgin Islands). n1

Under the Appellate Rules, the highest court of a "state" includes the courts of the states of the Union, the District of Columbia, and all federal territories, commonwealths, and possessions. n2 In addition to the requirement of prior bar membership, an attorney must have the sponsorship of a current member of the court of appeals. n3 If a person does not have admission to practice in the specified federal courts, admission to practice before the highest court of the state, or membership in a state bar, the federal circuit court is without authority to grant bar membership to an applicant. n4

However, the converse is not necessarily true. Even though a person's eligibility for admission to the bar of the court of appeals must be based on other bar membership, membership in the circuit court bar is not automatic. Thus, any prospective member must nevertheless apply for circuit court membership on the official application form n5 even though the person has membership in one of the courts listed in Rule 46(a). n6

[b] Application

To be admitted to practice in a circuit court, an attorney must file an application for admission, on a form approved by the court that contains the attorney's personal statement showing eligibility for membership. The applicant must also subscribe to the following oath or affirmation: "I, _____ [name], do solemnly _____ [swear or affirm] that I will conduct myself as an attorney and counselor of this court, uprightly and according to law; and that I will support the Constitution of the United States." n7

[c] Admission Procedures

On written or oral motion of a current member of the circuit court's bar, n8 the court will act on the application. An applicant may be admitted by oral motion in open court. But, unless the court orders otherwise, an applicant need not appear before the court to be admitted. On admission, an applicant must pay the clerk the fee prescribed by local rule or court order. n9

[2] Suspension or Disbarment

A member of the court's bar is subject to suspension or disbarment by the court if the member has been either suspended or disbarred from practice in any other court, n1 or found guilty of conduct unbecoming a member of the court's bar. n2 The court must give the member an opportunity to show good cause, within the time prescribed by the court, why the member should not be suspended or disbarred. n3 The court must enter an appropriate order regarding discipline after the member responds and a hearing is held, if requested, or after the time prescribed for a response expires, if no response is made. n4

Before a circuit bar member is disbarred or suspended, the member whose conduct is in question must be given an opportunity to show good cause why the member should not be disciplined. n5 The member may have a hearing if requested; however, a court is not absolutely required to grant a hearing if the hearing will not assist the circuit court in its decision. n6 Disbarment or suspension based on action taken by state bar or another jurisdiction requires that procedural due process was met before the state discipline was imposed. Similarly, the right to notice and the opportunity for a hearing in a current circuit court discipline proceeding are controlled by the standard of procedural due process. n7

Specific guidelines of whether conduct constitutes "conduct unbecoming a member of the court's bar" is provided by case law, court rules, and codes of professional conduct. n8 Examples of conduct justifying suspension of an attorney include: failure to file a jurisdictional statement required by the court's rules until after several orders threatening sanctions, failure to file a brief as required by a scheduling order without requesting an extension until after a show-cause order requiring a response and a brief, and other acts of unprofessional preparation. n9 An example of conduct justifying disbarment occurred when an attorney had exhibited a long history of ignoring court deadlines and judicial orders, including failing to prosecute four cases on appeal. n10 On the other hand, taking an unreasonable position in litigation is not in itself conduct unbecoming a member of the bar, even though it could be sanctionable under various jurisdiction's rules designed to protect courts and parties from frivolous and vexatious litigation and other abuses of judicial process. n11

[3] Other Discipline

If a court of appeals finds that an attorney has engaged in conduct unbecoming a member of the bar, but that suspension or disbarment is too harsh a penalty, the court may impose a lesser penalty. n1 The court may also impose discipline less than disbarment for a failure to comply with any court rule. n2 However, as in the case with disbarment, the court must first provide the attorney with reasonable notice, an opportunity to show cause to the contrary, and a hearing, if requested by the attorney. n3 The existence of a violation, and the severity of the punishment, for conduct unbecoming an attorney, is based on case law, court rules, and codes of professional conduct. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsPractice Qualifications

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 346.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 46(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 1(b).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 46(a)(3); see, e.g., Second Circuit, Local Rule 46.1(a)(1)(c); see § 28.99[1][c], below.

(n5)Footnote 4. In re Martin 120 F.3d 256, 258-259 (Fed. Cir. 1997) (membership in bar of circuit court of appeals was premised on attorney's status as member of state bar, and because attorney was not actually admitted to any state bar, attorney's admission in circuit court was granted in error and had to be revoked).

(n6)Footnote 5. See § 28.99[1][b], [c], below.

(n7)Footnote 6. See Stoner v. Santa Clara County Office of Educ., 502 F.3d 1116, 1119 (9th Cir. 2007) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 46(a)(2).

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. App. P. 46(a)(3); see, e.g., Second Circuit, Local Rule 46.1(a)(1)(c).

(n10)Footnote 9. Fed. R. App. P. 46(a)(3).

(n11)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 46(b)(1)(A); see In re Fallin, 255 F.3d 195, 197 (4th Cir. 2001) .

(n12)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 46(b)(1)(B).

(n13)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 46(b)(2).

(n14)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 46(b)(3).

(n15)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 46(b)(2).

(n16)Footnote 6. Mays v. Chicago Sun-Times, 865 F.2d 134, 139 (7th Cir. 1989) (hearing not necessary to impose sanctions because attorney filed brief containing false statements).

(n17)Footnote 7. In re Barach, 540 F.3d 82, 85 (1st Cir. 2008) .

(n18)Footnote 8. In re Snyder, 472 U.S. 634, 645, 105 S. Ct. 2874, 86 L. Ed. 2d 504 (1985) .

(n19)Footnote 9. In re John Millard Beck, 902 F.2d 5, 6 (7th Cir. 1990) .

(n20)Footnote 10. In re Riggs, 240 F.3d 668, 670-671 (7th Cir. 2001) .

(n21)Footnote 11. In re Lightfoot, 217 F.3d 914, 915-918 (7th Cir. 2000) (poor judgment in applying legal principles to facts is not professional misconduct for purposes of Appellate Rule 46(c)).

(n22)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 46(c); see In re Harte, 701 F.2d 62, 62 (7th Cir. 1983) (for example, court may impose public reprimand or a fine).

(n23)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 46(c).

(n24)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 46(c).

(n25)Footnote 4. Thomas v. Girardi, 611 F.3d 1027, 1035 (9th Cir. 2010) .

156 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.100

§ 28.100 Promulgation of Local Rules by Courts of Appealsn*

[1] Enactment of Local Rules

Each circuit court by vote of a majority of its judges in regular active service may make and amend "local rules" governing its practice; the court may enact local rules only after giving appropriate public notice and opportunity for comment. Under the Appellate Rules, if a circuit court is enacting a generally applicable directive to parties or lawyers regarding practice before the court, the directive must be in the form of a local rule rather than an internal operating procedure or standing order. A local rule must be consistent with (but not duplicative of) Acts of Congress and rules adopted under 28 U.S.C. § 2072, and must conform to any uniform numbering system prescribed by the Judicial Conference of the United States. n1 Each circuit clerk must send the Administrative Office of the United States Courts a copy of each local rule and internal operating procedure when it is promulgated or amended. n2

A local rule imposing a requirement of form must not be enforced in a manner that causes a party to lose rights because of a nonwillful failure to comply with the requirement. n3 In other words, a court will not dismiss an appeal with regard to a failure to comply with a format requirement unless the failure is deliberate. n4

[2] Regulation of Procedure When There Is No Controlling Law

A court of appeals may regulate practice in a particular case in any manner consistent with federal law, the Appellate Rules, and the local rules of the circuit. n1 In other words, in circumstances when there is no specific Appellate Rule, Civil Rule, or statute controlling procedural law, a court of appeals has the discretion to regulate practice in any manner consistent with federal statutes, federal rules, and local rules of the circuit. For example, the fact that no appellate or local rule addresses class-action certification does not mean that an appellate court must refuse to hear a request for class certification in the circuit court. n2

However, a circuit court may not impose any sanction or other disadvantage for noncompliance with any requirement not in federal law, federal rules, or the local circuit rules unless the alleged violator has been furnished in the particular case with prior actual notice of the requirement. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 347.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 47(a)(1); Horner Equip. Int'l Inc. v. Seascape Pool Ctr. Inc., 884 F.2d 89, 94 (3d Cir. 1989) (circuit court guidelines which required transcripts to be ordered through district court clerk were not effective when not adopted in accordance with requirements of local rulemaking).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 47(a)(1).

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 47(a)(2).

(n5)Footnote 4. See United States ex rel. Jimenez v. Health Net, Inc., 400 F.3d 853, 855 (10th Cir. 2005) .

(n6)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 47(b).

(n7)Footnote 2. Burns v. United States R.R. Retirement Bd., 701 F.2d 189, 191 (D.C. Cir. 1983) (court declined to rule on class certification because in case at hand appellate proceeding was not compatible with designation and management of class).

(n8)Footnote 3. Fed. R. App. P. 47(b).

157 of 157 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 28 APPEAL TO COURT OF APPEALS
PART III. GENERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE CONTROLLING ALL APPEALS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 28.101

§ 28.101 Mastersn*

[1] Appointment and Powers of Master

A court of appeals may appoint a special master to hold hearings, if necessary, and to recommend factual findings and disposition in matters ancillary to proceedings in the court. n1 Ordinarily, when a factual issue is unresolved, a court of appeals remands the case to the district court or agency that originally heard the case. However, when a factual issue arises in the first instance in the court of appeals, it may be useful to refer such determinations to a master for a recommendation. n2 Another example of the use of a master is for ongoing enforcement of an order of the court. n3

Unless the order referring a matter to a master specifies or limits the master's powers, those powers include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. The power to regulate all aspects of a hearing. n4

2. The power to take all appropriate action for the efficient performance of the master's duties under the order. n5

3. The power to require the production of evidence on all matters embraced in the reference. n6

4. The power to administer oaths and examine witnesses and parties. n7

It has been suggested that a party may directly move a circuit court of appeals to appoint a special master when the court does not do so on its own motion. n8

[2] Compensation

After appointment, the circuit court of appeals must determine and specify the master's compensation if the master is not a judge or court employee and whether the cost is to be charged to any party. n1 For a discussion of the analogous situation in which a district court determines the amount of compensation for a special master, and specifies the party that has the obligation for payment of compensation and the time and procedures for payment of compensation, see Chapter 21, Masters and Magistrate Judges.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureAppealsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 20A Moore's Federal Practice, § 348.11 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 48(a).

(n3)Footnote 2. Fed. R. App. P. 48(a), Committee Notes to 1994 Amendments; see Rafaelano v. Wilson, 471 F.3d 1091, 1099 (9th Cir. 2006) (dissenting opinion).

(n4)Footnote 3. Polish Nat'l Alliance v. NLRB, 159 F.2d 38, 38 (7th Cir. 1946) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Fed. R. App. P. 48(a)(1).

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. App. P. 48(a)(2).

(n7)Footnote 6. Fed. R. App. P. 48(a)(3); see, e.g., Reich v. Sea Sprite Boat Co., 50 F.3d 413, 414-415 (7th Cir. 1995) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Fed. R. App. P. 48(a)(4).

(n9)Footnote 8. In Re Byrd, 269 F.3d 585, 595-596 (6th Cir. 2001) (electronic publication only) (dissenting opinion).

(n10)Footnote 1. Fed. R. App. P. 48(b). Cf. Rafaelano v. Wilson, 471 F.3d 1091, 1099 (9th Cir. 2006) (dissenting opinion noting that referral may be to magistrate judge).

1 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure .syn

§ Synopsis to Appendix 28: APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

Rule 1. Scope of Rules; Title

Rule 2. Suspension of Rules

Rule 3. Appeal as of Right--How Taken

Rule 3.1. Appeal from a Judgment of a Magistrate Judge in a Civil Case

Rule 4. Appeal as of Right--When Taken

Rule 5. Appeal by Permission

Rule 5.1. Appeal by Leave under 28 U.S.C. § 636(c)(5)

Rule 6. Appeal in a Bankruptcy Case from a Final Judgment, Order, or Decree of a District Court or Bankruptcy Appellate Panel

Rule 7. Bond for Costs on Appeal in a Civil Case

Rule 8. Stay or Injunction Pending Appeal

Rule 9. Release in a Criminal Case

Rule 10. The Record on Appeal

Rule 11. Forwarding the Record

Rule 12. Docketing the Appeal; Filing a Representation Statement; Filing the Record

Rule 12.1. Remand After an Indicative Ruling by the District Court on a Motion for Relief That Is Barred by a Pending Appeal

Rule 13. Review of a Decision of the Tax Court

Rule 14. Applicability of Other Rules to the Review of a Tax Court Decision

Rule 15. Review or Enforcement of an Agency Order--How Obtained; Intervention

Rule 15.1. Briefs and Oral Argument in a National Labor Relations Board Proceeding

Rule 16. The Record on Review or Enforcement

Rule 17. Filing the Record

Rule 18. Stay Pending Review

Rule 19. Settlement of a Judgment Enforcing an Agency Order in Part

Rule 20. Applicability of Rules to the Review or Enforcement of an Agency Order

Rule 21. Writs of Mandamus and Prohibition, and Other Extraordinary Writs

Rule 22. Habeas Corpus and Section 2255 Proceedings

Rule 23. Custody or Release of a Prisoner in a Habeas Corpus Proceeding

Rule 24. Proceeding in Forma Pauperis

Rule 25. Filing and Service.

Rule 26. Computing and Extending Time

Rule 26.1. Corporate Disclosure Statement

Rule 27. Motions

Rule 28. Briefs

Rule 28.1. Cross-Appeals

Rule 29. Brief of an Amicus Curiae

Rule 30. Appendix to the Briefs

Rule 31. Serving and Filing Briefs

Rule 32. Form of Briefs, Appendices, and Other Papers

Rule 32.1. Citing Judicial Dispositions

Rule 33. Appeal Conferences

Rule 34. Oral Argument

Rule 35. En Banc Determination

Rule 36. Entry of Judgment; Notice

Rule 37. Interest on Judgment

Rule 38. Frivolous Appeal--Damages and Costs

Rule 39. Costs

Rule 40. Petition for Panel Rehearing

Rule 41. Mandate: Contents; Issuance and Effective Date; Stay

Rule 42. Voluntary Dismissal

Rule 43. Substitution of Parties

Rule 44. Case Involving a Constitutional Question When the United States Is Not a Party

Rule 45. Clerk's Duties

Rule 46. Attorneys

Rule 47. Local Rules by Courts of Appeals

Rule 48. Masters

APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

Form 1 Notice of Appeal to a Court of Appeals From a Judgment or Order of a District Court

Form 2 Notice of Appeal to a Court of Appeals From a Decision of the United States Tax Court

Form 3 Petition for Review of Order of an Agency, Board, Commission or Officer

Form 4 Affidavit Accompanying Motion for Permission to Appeal In Forma Pauperis

Form 5 Notice of Appeal to a Court of Appeals from a Judgment or Order of a District Court or a Bankruptcy Appellate Panel

Form 6 Certificate of Compliance With Rule 32(a)

2 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE I. APPLICABILITY OF RULES

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 1

Rule 1. Scope of Rules; Title

(a) Scope of Rules.

(1) These rules govern procedure in the United States courts of appeals.

(2) When these rules provide for filing a motion or other document in the district court, the procedure must comply with the practice of the district court.

(b) Definition. In these rules, "state" includes the District of Columbia and any United States commonwealth or territory.

(c) Title. These rules are to be known as the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective, Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 28, 2010; effective Dec. 1, 2010.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE I. APPLICABILITY OF RULES

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 2

Rule 2. Suspension of Rules

On its own or a party's motion, a court of appeals may--to expedite its decision or for other good cause--suspend any provision of these rules in a particular case and order proceedings as it directs, except as otherwise provided in Rule 26(b).

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 3

Rule 3. Appeal as of Right--How Taken

(a) Filing the Notice of Appeal.

(1) An appeal permitted by law as of right from a district court to a court of appeals may be taken only by filing a notice of appeal with the district clerk within the time allowed by Rule 4. At the time of filing, the appellant must furnish the clerk with enough copies of the notice to enable the clerk to comply with Rule 3(d).

(2) An appellant's failure to take any step other than the timely filing of a notice of appeal does not affect the validity of the appeal, but is ground only for the court of appeals to act as it considers appropriate, including dismissing the appeal.

(3) An appeal from a judgment by a magistrate judge in a civil case is taken in the same way as an appeal from any other district court judgment.

(4) An appeal by permission under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b) or an appeal in a bankruptcy case may be taken only in the manner prescribed by Rules 5 and 6, respectively.

(b) Joint or Consolidated Appeals.

(1) When two or more parties are entitled to appeal from a district-court judgment or order, and their interests make joinder practicable, they may file a joint notice of appeal. They may then proceed on appeal as a single appellant.

(2) When the parties have filed separate timely notices of appeal, the appeals may be joined or consolidated by the court of appeals.

(c) Contents of the Notice of Appeal.

(1) The notice of appeal must:

(A) specify the party or parties taking the appeal by naming each one in the caption or body of the notice, but an attorney representing more than one party may describe those parties with such terms as "all plaintiffs," "the defendants," "the plaintiffs A, B, et al.," or "all defendants except X";

(B) designate the judgment, order, or part thereof being appealed; and

(C) name the court to which the appeal is taken.

(2) A pro se notice of appeal is considered filed on behalf of the signer and the signer's spouse and minor children (if they are parties), unless the notice clearly indicates otherwise.

(3) In a class action, whether or not the class has been certified, the notice of appeal is sufficient if it names one person qualified to bring the appeal as representative of the class.

(4) An appeal must not be dismissed for informality of form or title of the notice of appeal, or for failure to name a party whose intent to appeal is otherwise clear from the notice.

(5) Form 1 in the Appendix of Forms is a suggested form of a notice of appeal.

(d) Serving the Notice of Appeal.

(1) The district clerk must serve notice of the filing of a notice of appeal by mailing a copy to each party's counsel of record--excluding the appellant's--or, if a party is proceeding pro se, to the party's last known address. When a defendant in a criminal case appeals, the clerk must also serve a copy of the notice of appeal on the defendant, either by personal service or by mail addressed to the defendant. The clerk must promptly send a copy of the notice of appeal and of the docket entries--and any later docket entries--to the clerk of the court of appeals named in the notice. The district clerk must note, on each copy, the date when the notice of appeal was filed.

(2) If an inmate confined in an institution files a notice of appeal in the manner provided by Rule 4(c), the district clerk must also note the date when the clerk docketed the notice.

(3) The district clerk's failure to serve notice does not affect the validity of the appeal. The clerk must note on the docket the names of the parties to whom the clerk mails copies, with the date of mailing. Service is sufficient despite the death of a party or the party's counsel.

(e) Payment of Fees. Upon filing a notice of appeal, the appellant must pay the district clerk all required fees. The district clerk receives the appellate docket fee on behalf of the court of appeals.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

5 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 3.1

Rule 3.1. Appeal from a Judgment of a Magistrate Judge in a Civil Case

Legislative History

[Abrogated Dec. 1, 1998]

6 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 4

Rule 4. Appeal as of Right--When Taken

(a) Appeal in a Civil Case.

(1) Time for Filing a Notice of Appeal.

(A) In a civil case, except as provided in Rules 4(a)(1)(B), 4(a)(4), and 4(c), the notice of appeal required by Rule 3 must be filed with the district clerk within 30 days after the judgment or order appealed from is entered.

(B) When the United States or its officer or agency is a party, the notice of appeal may be filed by any party within 60 days after the judgment or order appealed from is entered.

(C) An appeal from an order granting or denying an application for a writ of error coram nobis is an appeal in a civil case for purposes of Rule 4(a).

(2) Filing Before Entry of Judgment. A notice of appeal filed after the court announces a decision or order--but before the entry of the judgment or order--is treated as filed on the date of and after the entry.

(3) Multiple Appeals. If one party timely files a notice of appeal, any other party may file a notice of appeal within 14 days after the date when the first notice was filed, or within the time otherwise prescribed by this Rule 4(a), whichever period ends later.

(4) Effect of a Motion on a Notice of Appeal.

(A) If a party timely files in the district court any of the following motions under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the time to file an appeal runs for all parties from the entry of the order disposing of the last such remaining motion:

(i) for judgment under Rule 50(b);

(ii) to amend or make additional factual findings under Rule 52(b), whether or not granting the motion would alter the judgment;

(iii) for attorney's fees under Rule 54 if the district court extends the time to appeal under Rule 58;

(iv) to alter or amend the judgment under Rule 59;

(v) for a new trial under Rule 59; or

(vi) for relief under Rule 60 if the motion is filed no later than 28 days after the judgment is entered.

(B)

(i) If a party files a notice of appeal after the court announces or enters a judgment--but before it disposes of any motion listed in Rule 4(a)(4)(A)--the notice becomes effective to appeal a judgment or order, in whole or in part, when the order disposing of the last such remaining motion is entered.

(ii) A party intending to challenge an order disposing of any motion listed in Rule 4(a)(4)(A), or a judgment's alteration or amendment upon such a motion, must file a notice of appeal, or an amended notice of appeal--in compliance with Rule 3(c)--within the time prescribed by this Rule measured from the entry of the order disposing of the last such remaining motion.

(5) Motion for Extension of Time.

(A) The district court may extend the time to file a notice of appeal if:

(i) a party so moves no later than 30 days after the time prescribed by this Rule 4(a) expires; and

(ii) regardless of whether its motion is filed before or during the 30 days after the time prescribed by this Rule 4(a) expires, that party shows excusable neglect or good cause.

(B) A motion filed before the expiration of the time prescribed in Rule 4(a)(1) or (3) may be ex parte unless the court requires otherwise. If the motion is filed after the expiration of the prescribed time, notice must be given to the other parties in accordance with local rules.

(C) No extension under this Rule 4(a)(5) may exceed 30 days after the prescribed time or 14 days after the date when the order granting the motion is entered, whichever is later.

(6) Reopening the Time to File an Appeal. The district court may reopen the time to file an appeal for a period of 14 days after the date when its order to reopen is entered, but only if all the following conditions are satisfied:

(A) the court finds that the moving party did not receive notice under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 77(d) of the entry of the judgment or order sought to be appealed within 21 days after entry;

(B) the motion is filed within 180 days after the judgment or order is entered or within 14 days after the moving party receives notice under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 77(d) of the entry, whichever is earlier; and

(C) the court finds that no party would be prejudiced.

(7) Entry Defined.

(A) A judgment or order is entered for purposes of this Rule 4(a):

(i) if Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 58(a) does not require a separate document, when the judgment or order is entered in the civil docket under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 79(a); or

(ii) if Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 58(a) requires a separate document, when the judgment or order is entered in the civil docket under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 79(a) and when the earlier of these events occurs:

- the judgment or order is set forth on a separate document, or
- 150 days have run from entry of the judgment or order in the civil docket under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 79(a).

(B) A failure to set forth a judgment or order on a separate document when required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 58(a) does not affect the validity of an appeal from that judgment or order.

(b) Appeal in a Criminal Case.

(1) Time for Filing a Notice of Appeal.

(A) In a criminal case, a defendant's notice of appeal must be filed in the district court within 14 days after the later of:

(i) the entry of either the judgment or the order being appealed; or

(ii) the filing of the government's notice of appeal.

(B) When the government is entitled to appeal, its notice of appeal must be filed in the district court within 30 days after the later of:

(i) the entry of the judgment or order being appealed; or

(ii) the filing of a notice of appeal by any defendant.

(2) Filing Before Entry of Judgment. A notice of appeal filed after the court announces a decision, sentence, or order--but before the entry of the judgment or order--is treated as filed on the date of and after the entry.

(3) Effect of a Motion on a Notice of Appeal.

(A) If a defendant timely makes any of the following motions under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, the notice of appeal from a judgment of conviction must be filed within 14 days after the entry of the order disposing of the last such remaining motion, or within 14 days after the entry of the judgment of conviction, whichever period ends later. This provision applies to a timely motion:

(i) for judgment of acquittal under Rule 29;

(ii) for a new trial under Rule 33, but if based on newly discovered evidence, only if the motion is made no later than 14 days after the entry of the judgment; or

(iii) for arrest of judgment under Rule 34.

(B) A notice of appeal filed after the court announces a decision, sentence, or order--but before it disposes of any of the motions referred to in Rule 4(b)(3)(A)--becomes effective upon the later of the following:

(i) the entry of the order disposing of the last such remaining motion; or

(ii) the entry of the judgment of conviction.

(C) A valid notice of appeal is effective--without amendment--to appeal from an order disposing of any of the motions referred to in Rule 4(b)(3)(A).

(4) Motion for Extension of Time. Upon a finding of excusable neglect or good cause, the district court may--before or after the time has expired, with or without motion and notice--extend the time to file a notice of appeal for a period not to exceed 30 days from the expiration of the time otherwise prescribed by this Rule 4(b).

(5) Jurisdiction. The filing of a notice of appeal under this Rule 4(b) does not divest a district court of jurisdiction to correct a sentence under Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 35(a), nor does the filing of a motion under 35(a) affect the validity of a notice of appeal filed before entry of the order disposing of the motion. The filing of a motion under Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 35(a) does not suspend the time for filing a notice of appeal from a judgment of conviction.

(6) Entry Defined. A judgment or order is entered for purposes of this Rule 4(b) when it is entered on the criminal docket.

(c) Appeal by an Inmate Confined in an Institution.

(1) If an inmate confined in an institution files a notice of appeal in either a civil or a criminal case, the notice is timely if it is deposited in the institution's internal mail system on or before the last day for filing. If an institution has a system designed for legal mail, the inmate must use that system to receive the benefit of this rule. Timely filing may be shown by a declaration in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746 or by a notarized statement, either of which must set forth the date of deposit and state that first-class postage has been prepaid.

(2) If an inmate files the first notice of appeal in a civil case under this Rule 4(c), the 14-day period provided in Rule 4(a)(3) for another party to file a notice of appeal runs from the date when the district court dockets the first notice.

(3) When a defendant in a criminal case files a notice of appeal under this Rule 4(c), the 30-day period for the government to file its notice of appeal runs from the entry of the judgment or order appealed from or from the district court's docketing of the defendant's notice of appeal, whichever is later.

(d) Mistaken Filing in the Court of Appeals. If a notice of appeal in either a civil or a criminal case is mistakenly filed in the court of appeals, the clerk of that court must note on the notice the date when it was received and send it to the district clerk. The notice is then considered filed in the district court on the date so noted.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1 1979; Nov. 18, 1988; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 27, 1995, effective Dec. 1, 1995; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29,2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009; Apr. 28, 2010; effective Dec. 1, 2010.]

7 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 5

Rule 5. Appeal by Permission

(a) Petition for Permission to Appeal.

(1) To request permission to appeal when an appeal is within the court of appeals' discretion, a party must file a petition for permission to appeal. The petition must be filed with the circuit clerk with proof of service on all other parties to the district-court action.

(2) The petition must be filed within the time specified by the statute or rule authorizing the appeal or, if no such time is specified, within the time provided by Rule 4(a) for filing a notice of appeal.

(3) If a party cannot petition for appeal unless the district court first enters an order granting permission to do so or stating that the necessary conditions are met, the district court may amend its order, either on its own or in response to a party's motion, to include the required permission or statement. In that event, the time to petition runs from entry of the amended order.

(b) Contents of the Petition; Answer or Cross-Petition; Oral Argument.

(1) The petition must include the following:

(A) the facts necessary to understand the question presented;

(B) the question itself;

(C) the relief sought;

(D) the reasons why the appeal should be allowed and is authorized by a statute or rule; and

(E) an attached copy of:

(i) the order, decree, or judgment complained of and any related opinion or memorandum, and

(ii) any order stating the district court's permission to appeal or finding that the necessary conditions are met.

(2) A party may file an answer in opposition or a cross-petition within 10 days after the petition is served.

(3) The petition and answer will be submitted without oral argument unless the court of appeals orders otherwise.

(c) Form of Papers; Number of Copies. All papers must conform to Rule 32(c)(2). Except by the court's permission, a paper must not exceed 20 pages, exclusive of the disclosure statement, the proof of service, and the accompanying documents required by Rule 5(b)(1)(E). An original and 3 copies must be filed unless the court requires a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case.

(d) Grant of Permission; Fees; Cost Bond; Filing the Record.

(1) Within 14 days after the entry of the order granting permission to appeal, the appellant must:

(A) pay the district clerk all required fees; and

(B) file a cost bond if required under Rule 7.

(2) A notice of appeal need not be filed. The date when the order granting permission to appeal is entered serves as the date of the notice of appeal for calculating time under these rules.

(3) The district clerk must notify the circuit clerk once the petitioner has paid the fees. Upon receiving this notice, the circuit clerk must enter the appeal on the docket. The record must be forwarded and filed in accordance with Rules 11 and 12(c).

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

8 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 5.1

Rule 5.1. Appeal by Leave under 28 U.S.C. § 636(c)(5)

Legislative History

[Abrogated Dec. 1, 1998]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 6

Rule 6. Appeal in a Bankruptcy Case from a Final Judgment, Order, or Decree of a District Court or Bankruptcy Appellate Panel

(a) Appeal From a Judgment, Order, or Decree of a District Court Exercising Original Jurisdiction in a Bankruptcy Case.

An appeal to a court of appeals from a final judgment, order, or decree of a district court exercising jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1334 is taken as any other civil appeal under these rules.

(b) Appeal From a Judgment, Order, or Decree of a District Court or Bankruptcy Appellate Panel Exercising Appellate Jurisdiction in a Bankruptcy Case.

(1) Applicability of Other Rules. These rules apply to an appeal to a court of appeals under 28 U.S.C. § 158(d) from a final judgment, order, or decree of a district court or bankruptcy appellate panel exercising appellate jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 158(a) or (b). But there are 3 exceptions:

(A) Rules 4(a)(4), 4(b), 9, 10, 11, 12(b), 13-20, 22-23, and 24(b) do not apply;

(B) the reference in Rule 3(c) to "Form 1 in the Appendix of Forms" must be read as a reference to Form 5; and

(C) when the appeal is from a bankruptcy appellate panel, the term "district court," as used in any applicable rule, means "appellate panel."

(2) Additional Rules. In addition to the rules made applicable by Rule 6(b)(1), the following rules apply:

(A) Motion for rehearing.

(i) If a timely motion for rehearing under Bankruptcy Rule 8015 is filed, the time to appeal for all parties runs from the entry of the order disposing of the motion. A notice of appeal filed after the district court or bankruptcy appellate panel announces or enters a judgment, order, or decree--but before disposition of the motion for rehearing--becomes effective when the order disposing of the motion for rehearing is entered.

(ii) Appellate review of the order disposing of the motion requires the party, in compliance with Rules 3(c) and 6(b)(1)(B), to amend a previously filed notice of appeal. A party intending to challenge an altered or amended judgment, order, or decree must file a notice of appeal or amended notice of appeal within the time prescribed by Rule 4--excluding Rules 4(a)(4) and 4(b)--measured from the entry of the order disposing of the motion.

(iii) No additional fee is required to file an amended notice.

(B) The record on appeal.

(i) Within 14 days after filing the notice of appeal, the appellant must file with the clerk possessing the record assembled in accordance with Bankruptcy Rule 8006--and serve on the appellee--a statement of the issues to be presented on appeal and a designation of the record to be certified and sent to the circuit clerk.

(ii) An appellee who believes that other parts of the record are necessary must, within 14 days after being served with the appellant's designation, file with the clerk and serve on the appellant a designation of additional parts to be included.

(iii) The record on appeal consists of:

- the redesignated record as provided above;

- the proceedings in the district court or bankruptcy appellate panel; and
- a certified copy of the docket entries prepared by the clerk under Rule 3(d).

(C) Forwarding the record.

(i) When the record is complete, the district clerk or bankruptcy appellate panel clerk must number the documents constituting the record and send them promptly to the circuit clerk together with a list of the documents correspondingly numbered and reasonably identified. Unless directed to do so by a party or the circuit clerk, the clerk will not send to the court of appeals documents of unusual bulk or weight, physical exhibits other than documents, or other parts of the record designated for omission by local rule of the court of appeals. If the exhibits are unusually bulky or heavy, a party must arrange with the clerks in advance for their transportation and receipt.

(ii) All parties must do whatever else is necessary to enable the clerk to assemble and forward the record. The court of appeals may provide by rule or order that a certified copy of the docket entries be sent in place of the redesignated record, but any party may request at any time during the pendency of the appeal that the redesignated record be sent.

(D) Filing the record. Upon receiving the record--or a certified copy of the docket entries sent in place of the redesignated record--the circuit clerk must file it and immediately notify all parties of the filing date.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

10 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 7

Rule 7. Bond for Costs on Appeal in a Civil Case

In a civil case, the district court may require an appellant to file a bond or provide other security in any form and amount necessary to ensure payment of costs on appeal. Rule 8(b) applies to a surety on a bond given under this rule.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 8

Rule 8. Stay or Injunction Pending Appeal

(a) Motion for Stay.

(1) Initial Motion in the District Court. A party must ordinarily move first in the district court for the following relief:

(A) a stay of the judgment or order of a district court pending appeal;

(B) approval of a supersedeas bond; or

(C) an order suspending, modifying, restoring, or granting an injunction while an appeal is pending.

(2) Motion in the Court of Appeals; Conditions on Relief. A motion for the relief mentioned in Rule 8(a)(1) may be made to the court of appeals or to one of its judges.

(A) The motion must:

(i) show that moving first in the district court would be impracticable; or

(ii) state that, a motion having been made, the district court denied the motion or failed to afford the relief requested and state any reasons given by the district court for its action.

(B) The motion must also include:

(i) the reasons for granting the relief requested and the facts relied on;

(ii) originals or copies of affidavits or other sworn statements supporting facts subject to dispute; and

(iii) relevant parts of the record.

(C) The moving party must give reasonable notice of the motion to all parties.

(D) A motion under this Rule 8(a)(2) must be filed with the circuit clerk and normally will be considered by a panel of the court. But in an exceptional case in which time requirements make that procedure impracticable, the motion may be made to and considered by a single judge.

(E) The court may condition relief on a party's filing a bond or other appropriate security in the district court.

(b) Proceeding Against a Surety. If a party gives security in the form of a bond or stipulation or other undertaking with one or more sureties, each surety submits to the jurisdiction of the district court and irrevocably appoints the district clerk as the surety's agent on whom any papers affecting the surety's liability on the bond or undertaking may be served. On motion, a surety's liability may be enforced in the district court without the necessity of an independent action. The motion and any notice that the district court prescribes may be served on the district clerk, who must promptly mail a copy to each surety whose address is known.

(c) Stay in a Criminal Case. Rule 38 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure governs a stay in a criminal case.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 27, 1995, effective Dec. 1, 1995; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 9

Rule 9. Release in a Criminal Case

(a) Release Before Judgment of Conviction.

(1) The district court must state in writing, or orally on the record, the reasons for an order regarding the release or detention of a defendant in a criminal case. A party appealing from the order must file with the court of appeals a copy of the district court's order and the court's statement of reasons as soon as practicable after filing the notice of appeal. An appellant who questions the factual basis for the district court's order must file a transcript of the release proceedings or an explanation of why a transcript was not obtained.

(2) After reasonable notice to the appellee, the court of appeals must promptly determine the appeal on the basis of the papers, affidavits, and parts of the record that the parties present or the court requires. Unless the court so orders, briefs need not be filed.

(3) The court of appeals or one of its judges may order the defendant's release pending the disposition of the appeal.

(b) Release After Judgment of Conviction. A party entitled to do so may obtain review of a district-court order regarding release after a judgment of conviction by filing a notice of appeal from that order in the district court, or by filing a motion in the court of appeals if the party has already filed a notice of appeal from the judgment of conviction. Both the order and the review are subject to Rule 9(a). The papers filed by the party seeking review must include a copy of the judgment of conviction.

(c) Criteria for Release. The court must make its decision regarding release in accordance with the applicable provisions of 18 U.S.C. §§ 3142, 3143, and 3145(c).

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1972, effective Oct. 1,1972; Oct. 12, 1984; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

13 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 10

Rule 10. The Record on Appeal

(a) Composition of the Record on Appeal. The following items constitute the record on appeal:

(1) the original papers and exhibits filed in the district court;

(2) the transcript of proceedings, if any; and

(3) a certified copy of the docket entries prepared by the district clerk.

(b) The Transcript of Proceedings.

(1) Appellant's Duty to Order. Within 14 days after filing the notice of appeal or entry of an order disposing of the last timely remaining motion of a type specified in Rule 4(a)(4)(A), whichever is later, the appellant must do either of the following:

(A) order from the reporter a transcript of such parts of the proceedings not already on file as the appellant considers necessary, subject to a local rule of the court of appeals and with the following qualifications:

(i) the order must be in writing;

(ii) if the cost of the transcript is to be paid by the United States under the Criminal Justice Act, the order must so state; and

(iii) the appellant must, within the same period, file a copy of the order with the district clerk; or

(B) file a certificate stating that no transcript will be ordered.

(2) Unsupported Finding or Conclusion. If the appellant intends to urge on appeal that a finding or conclusion is unsupported by the evidence or is contrary to the evidence, the appellant must include in the record a transcript of all evidence relevant to that finding or conclusion.

(3) Partial Transcript. Unless the entire transcript is ordered:

(A) the appellant must--within the 14 days provided in Rule 10(b)(1)--file a statement of the issues that the appellant intends to present on the appeal and must serve on the appellee a copy of both the order or certificate and the statement;

(B) if the appellee considers it necessary to have a transcript of other parts of the proceedings, the appellee must, within 14 days after the service of the order or certificate and the statement of the issues, file and serve on the appellant a designation of additional parts to be ordered; and

(C) unless within 14 days after service of that designation the appellant has ordered all such parts, and has so notified the appellee, the appellee may within the following 14 days either order the parts or move in the district court for an order requiring the appellant to do so.

(4) Payment. At the time of ordering, a party must make satisfactory arrangements with the reporter for paying the cost of the transcript.

(c) Statement of the Evidence When the Proceedings Were Not Recorded or When a Transcript Is Unavailable. If the transcript of a hearing or trial is unavailable, the appellant may prepare a statement of the evidence or proceedings from the best available means, including the appellant's recollection. The statement must be served on the appellee, who may serve objections or proposed amendments within 14 days after being served. The statement and any objections or proposed amendments must then be submitted to the district court for settlement and approval. As settled and approved, the statement must be included by the district clerk in the record on appeal.

(d) Agreed Statement as the Record on Appeal. In place of the record on appeal as defined in Rule 10(a), the parties may prepare, sign, and submit to the district court a statement of the case showing how the issues presented by the appeal arose and were decided in the district court. The statement must set forth only those facts averred and proved or sought to be proved that are essential to the court's resolution of the issues. If the statement is truthful, it--together with any additions that the district court may consider necessary to a full presentation of the issues on appeal--must be approved by the district court and must then be certified to the court of appeals as the record on appeal. The district clerk must then send it to the circuit clerk within the time provided by Rule 11. A copy of the agreed statement may be filed in place of the appendix required by Rule 30.

(e) Correction or Modification of the Record.

(1) If any difference arises about whether the record truly discloses what occurred in the district court, the difference must be submitted to and settled by that court and the record conformed accordingly.

(2) If anything material to either party is omitted from or misstated in the record by error or accident, the omission or misstatement may be corrected and a supplemental record may be certified and forwarded:

(A) on stipulation of the parties;

(B) by the district court before or after the record has been forwarded; or

(C) by the court of appeals.

(3) All other questions as to the form and content of the record must be presented to the court of appeals.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 0, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 27, 1995, effective Dec. 1, 1995; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 11

Rule 11. Forwarding the Record

(a) Appellant's Duty. An appellant filing a notice of appeal must comply with Rule 10(b) and must do whatever else is necessary to enable the clerk to assemble and forward the record. If there are multiple appeals from a judgment or order, the clerk must forward a single record.

(b) Duties of Reporter and District Clerk.

(1) Reporter's Duty to Prepare and File a Transcript. The reporter must prepare and file a transcript as follows:

(A) Upon receiving an order for a transcript, the reporter must enter at the foot of the order the date of its receipt and the expected completion date and send a copy, so endorsed, to the circuit clerk.

(B) If the transcript cannot be completed within 30 days of the reporter's receipt of the order, the reporter may request the circuit clerk to grant additional time to complete it. The clerk must note on the docket the action taken and notify the parties.

(C) When a transcript is complete, the reporter must file it with the district clerk and notify the circuit clerk of the filing.

(D) If the reporter fails to file the transcript on time, the circuit clerk must notify the district judge and do whatever else the court of appeals directs.

(2) District Clerk's Duty to Forward. When the record is complete, the district clerk must number the documents constituting the record and send them promptly to the circuit clerk together with a list of the documents correspondingly numbered and reasonably identified. Unless directed to do so by a party or the circuit clerk, the district clerk will not send to the court of appeals documents of unusual bulk or weight, physical exhibits other than documents, or other parts of the record designated for omission by local rule of the court of appeals. If the exhibits are unusually bulky or heavy, a party must arrange with the clerks in advance for their transportation and receipt.

(c) Retaining the Record Temporarily in the District Court for Use in Preparing the Appeal. The parties may stipulate, or the district court on motion may order, that the district clerk retain the record temporarily for the parties to use in preparing the papers on appeal. In that event the district clerk must certify to the circuit clerk that the record on appeal is complete. Upon receipt of the appellee's brief, or earlier if the court orders or the parties agree, the appellant must request the district clerk to forward the record.

(d) [Abrogated]

(e) Retaining the Record by Court Order.

(1) The court of appeals may, by order or local rule, provide that a certified copy of the docket entries be forwarded instead of the entire record. But a party may at any time during the appeal request that designated parts of the record be forwarded.

(2) The district court may order the record or some part of it retained if the court needs it while the appeal is pending, subject, however, to call by the court of appeals.

(3) If part or all of the record is ordered retained, the district clerk must send to the court of appeals a copy of the order and the docket entries together with the parts of the original record allowed by the district court and copies of any parts of the record designated by the parties.

(f) Retaining Parts of the Record in the District Court by Stipulation of the Parties. The parties may agree by written stipulation filed in the district court that designated parts of the record be retained in the district court subject to call by the court of appeals or request by a party. The parts of the record so designated remain a part of the record on appeal.

(g) Record for a Preliminary Motion in the Court of Appeals. If, before the record is forwarded, a party makes any of the following motions in the court of appeals:

- for dismissal;
- for release;
- for a stay pending appeal;
- for additional security on the bond on appeal or on a supersedeas bond; or
- for any other intermediate order--

the district clerk must send the court of appeals any parts of the record designated by any party.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

15 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 12

Rule 12. Docketing the Appeal; Filing a Representation Statement; Filing the Record

(a) Docketing the Appeal. Upon receiving the copy of the notice of appeal and the docket entries from the district clerk under Rule 3(d), the circuit clerk must docket the appeal under the title of the district-court action and must identify the appellant, adding the appellant's name if necessary.

(b) Filing a Representation Statement. Unless the court of appeals designates another time, the attorney who filed the notice of appeal must, within 14 days after filing the notice, file a statement with the circuit clerk naming the parties that the attorney represents on appeal.

(c) Filing the Record, Partial Record, or Certificate. Upon receiving the record, partial record, or district clerk's certificate as provided in Rule 11, the circuit clerk must file it and immediately notify all parties of the filing date.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 1, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

16 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE II. APPEAL FROM A JUDGMENT OR ORDER OF A DISTRICT COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 12.1

Rule 12.1. Remand After an Indicative Ruling by the District Court on a Motion for Relief That Is Barred by a Pending Appeal

(a) Notice to the Court of Appeals. If a timely motion is made in the district court for relief that it lacks authority to grant because of an appeal that has been docketed and is pending, the movant must promptly notify the circuit clerk if the district court states either that it would grant the motion or that the motion raises a substantial issue.

(b) Remand After an Indicative Ruling. If the district court states that it would grant the motion or that the motion raises a substantial issue, the court of appeals may remand for further proceedings but retains jurisdiction unless it expressly dismisses the appeal. If the court of appeals remands but retains jurisdiction, the parties must promptly notify the circuit clerk when the district court has decided the motion on remand.

Legislative History

[Adopted Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

17 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE III. REVIEW OF A DECISION OF THE UNITED STATES TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 13

Rule 13. Review of a Decision of the Tax Court

(a) How Obtained; Time for Filing Notice of Appeal.

(1) Review of a decision of the United States Tax Court is commenced by filing a notice of appeal with the Tax Court clerk within 90 days after the entry of the Tax Court's decision. At the time of filing, the appellant must furnish the clerk with enough copies of the notice to enable the clerk to comply with Rule 3(d). If one party files a timely notice of appeal, any other party may file a notice of appeal within 120 days after the Tax Court's decision is entered.

(2) If, under Tax Court rules, a party makes a timely motion to vacate or revise the Tax Court's decision, the time to file a notice of appeal runs from the entry of the order disposing of the motion or from the entry of a new decision, whichever is later.

(b) Notice of Appeal; How Filed. The notice of appeal may be filed either at the Tax Court clerk's office in the District of Columbia or by mail addressed to the clerk. If sent by mail the notice is considered filed on the postmark date, subject to § 7502 of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, and the applicable regulations.

(c) Contents of the Notice of Appeal; Service; Effect of Filing and Service. Rule 3 prescribes the contents of a notice of appeal, the manner of service, and the effect of its filing and service. Form 2 in the Appendix of Forms is a suggested form of a notice of appeal.

(d) The Record on Appeal; Forwarding; Filing.

(1) An appeal from the Tax Court is governed by the parts of Rules 10, 11, and 12 regarding the record on appeal from a district court, the time and manner of forwarding and filing, and the docketing in the court of appeals. References in those rules and in Rule 3 to the district court and district clerk are to be read as referring to the Tax Court and its clerk.

(2) If an appeal from a Tax Court decision is taken to more than one court of appeals, the original record must be sent to the court named in the first notice of appeal filed. In an appeal to any other court of appeals, the appellant must apply to that other court to make provision for the record.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 1, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE III. REVIEW OF A DECISION OF THE UNITED STATES TAX COURT

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 14

Rule 14. Applicability of Other Rules to the Review of a Tax Court Decision

All provisions of these rules, except Rules 4-9, 15-20, and 22-23, apply to the review of a Tax Court decision.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 15

Rule 15. Review or Enforcement of an Agency Order--How Obtained; Intervention

(a) Petition for Review; Joint Petition.

(1) Review of an agency order is commenced by filing, within the time prescribed by law, a petition for review with the clerk of a court of appeals authorized to review the agency order. If their interests make joinder practicable, two or more persons may join in a petition to the same court to review the same order.

(2) The petition must:

(A) name each party seeking review either in the caption or the body of the petition--using such terms as "et al.," "petitioners," or "respondents" does not effectively name the parties;

(B) name the agency as a respondent (even though not named in the petition, the United States is a respondent if required by statute); and

(C) specify the order or part thereof to be reviewed.

(3) Form 3 in the Appendix of Forms is a suggested form of a petition for review.

(4) In this rule "agency" includes an agency, board, commission, or officer; "petition for review" includes a petition to enjoin, suspend, modify, or otherwise review, or a notice of appeal, whichever form is indicated by the applicable statute.

(b) Application or Cross-Application to Enforce an Order; Answer; Default.

(1) An application to enforce an agency order must be filed with the clerk of a court of appeals authorized to enforce the order. If a petition is filed to review an agency order that the court may enforce, a party opposing the petition may file a cross-application for enforcement.

(2) Within 20 days after the application for enforcement is filed, the respondent must serve on the applicant an answer to the application and file it with the clerk. If the respondent fails to answer in time, the court will enter judgment for the relief requested.

(3) The application must contain a concise statement of the proceedings in which the order was entered, the facts upon which venue is based, and the relief requested.

(c) Service of the Petition or Application. The circuit clerk must serve a copy of the petition for review, or an application or cross-application to enforce an agency order, on each respondent as prescribed by Rule 3(d), unless a different manner of service is prescribed by statute. At the time of filing, the petitioner must:

(1) serve, or have served, a copy on each party admitted to participate in the agency proceedings, except for the respondents;

(2) file with the clerk a list of those so served; and

(3) give the clerk enough copies of the petition or application to serve each respondent.

(d) Intervention. Unless a statute provides another method, a person who wants to intervene in a proceeding under this rule must file a motion for leave to intervene with the circuit clerk and serve a copy on all parties. The motion--or other notice of intervention authorized by statute--must be filed within 30 days after the petition for review is filed and must contain a concise statement of the interest of the moving party and the grounds for intervention.

(e) Payment of Fees. When filing any separate or joint petition for review in a court of appeals, the petitioner must pay the circuit clerk all required fees.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

20 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 15.1

Rule 15.1. Briefs and Oral Argument in a National Labor Relations Board Proceeding

In either an enforcement or a review proceeding, a party adverse to the National Labor Relations Board proceeds first on briefing and at oral argument, unless the court orders otherwise.

Legislative History

[Adopted Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

21 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 16

Rule 16. The Record on Review or Enforcement

(a) Composition of the Record. The record on review or enforcement of an agency order consists of:

(1) the order involved;

(2) any findings or report on which it is based; and

(3) the pleadings, evidence, and other parts of the proceedings before the agency.

(b) Omissions From or Misstatements in the Record. The parties may at any time, by stipulation, supply any omission from the record or correct a misstatement, or the court may so direct. If necessary, the court may direct that a supplemental record be prepared and filed.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

22 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 17

Rule 17. Filing the Record

(a) Agency to File; Time for Filing; Notice of Filing. The agency must file the record with the circuit clerk within 40 days after being served with a petition for review, unless the statute authorizing review provides otherwise, or within 40 days after it files an application for enforcement unless the respondent fails to answer or the court orders otherwise. The court may shorten or extend the time to file the record. The clerk must notify all parties of the date when the record is filed.

(b) Filing--What Constitutes.

(1) The agency must file:

(A) the original or a certified copy of the entire record or parts designated by the parties; or

(B) a certified list adequately describing all documents, transcripts of testimony, exhibits, and other material constituting the record, or describing those parts designated by the parties.

(2) The parties may stipulate in writing that no record or certified list be filed. The date when the stipulation is filed with the circuit clerk is treated as the date when the record is filed.

(3) The agency must retain any portion of the record not filed with the clerk. All parts of the record retained by the agency are a part of the record on review for all purposes and, if the court or a party so requests, must be sent to the court regardless of any prior stipulation.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24,1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 18

Rule 18. Stay Pending Review

(a) Motion for a Stay.

(1) Initial Motion Before the Agency. A petitioner must ordinarily move first before the agency for a stay pending review of its decision or order.

(2) Motion in the Court of Appeals. A motion for a stay may be made to the court of appeals or one of its judges.

(A) The motion must:

(i) show that moving first before the agency would be impracticable; or

(ii) state that, a motion having been made, the agency denied the motion or failed to afford the relief requested and state any reasons given by the agency for its action.

(B) The motion must also include:

(i) the reasons for granting the relief requested and the facts relied on;

(ii) originals or copies of affidavits or other sworn statements supporting facts subject to dispute; and

(iii) relevant parts of the record.

(C) The moving party must give reasonable notice of the motion to all parties.

(D) The motion must be filed with the circuit clerk and normally will be considered by a panel of the court. But in an exceptional case in which time requirements make that procedure impracticable, the motion may be made to and considered by a single judge.

(b) Bond. The court may condition relief on the filing of a bond or other appropriate security.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 19

Rule 19. Settlement of a Judgment Enforcing an Agency Order in Part

When the court files an opinion directing entry of judgment enforcing the agency's order in part, the agency must within 14 days file with the clerk and serve on each other party a proposed judgment conforming to the opinion. A party who disagrees with the agency's proposed judgment must within 10 days file with the clerk and serve the agency with a proposed judgment that the party believes conforms to the opinion. The court will settle the judgment and direct entry without further hearing or argument.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1,1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

25 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE IV. REVIEW OR ENFORCEMENT OF AN ORDER OF AN ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCY, BOARD, COMMISSION, OR OFFICER

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 20

Rule 20. Applicability of Rules to the Review or Enforcement of an Agency Order

All provisions of these rules, except Rules 3-14 and 22-23, apply to the review or enforcement of an agency order. In these rules, "appellant" includes a petitioner or applicant, and "appellee" includes a respondent.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1,1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE V. EXTRAORDINARY WRITS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 21

Rule 21. Writs of Mandamus and Prohibition, and Other Extraordinary Writs

(a) Mandamus or Prohibition to a Court: Petition, Filing, Service, and Docketing.

(1) A party petitioning for a writ of mandamus or prohibition directed to a court must file a petition with the circuit clerk with proof of service on all parties to the proceeding in the trial court. The party must also provide a copy to the trial-court judge. All parties to the proceeding in the trial court other than the petitioner are respondents for all purposes.

(2)

(A) The petition must be titled "In re [name of petitioner]."

(B) The petition must state:

(i) the relief sought;

(ii) the issues presented;

(iii) the facts necessary to understand the issue presented by the petition; and

(iv) the reasons why the writ should issue.

(C) The petition must include a copy of any order or opinion or parts of the record that may be essential to understand the matters set forth in the petition.

(3) Upon receiving the prescribed docket fee, the clerk must docket the petition and submit it to the court.

(b) Denial; Order Directing Answer; Briefs; Precedence.

(1) The court may deny the petition without an answer. Otherwise, it must order the respondent, if any, to answer within a fixed time.

(2) The clerk must serve the order to respond on all persons directed to respond.

(3) Two or more respondents may answer jointly.

(4) The court of appeals may invite or order the trial-court judge to address the petition or may invite an amicus curiae to do so. The trial-court judge may request permission to address the petition but may not do so unless invited or ordered to do so by the court of appeals.

(5) If briefing or oral argument is required, the clerk must advise the parties, and when appropriate, the trial-court judge or amicus curiae.

(6) The proceeding must be given preference over ordinary civil cases.

(7) The circuit clerk must send a copy of the final disposition to the trial-court judge.

(c) Other Extraordinary Writs. An application for an extraordinary writ other than one provided for in Rule 21(a) must be made by filing a petition with the circuit clerk with proof of service on the respondents. Proceedings on the application must conform, so far as is practicable, to the procedures prescribed in Rule 21(a) and (b).

(d) Form of Papers; Number of Copies. All papers must conform to Rule 32(c)(2). Except by the court's permission, a paper must not exceed 30 pages, exclusive of the disclosure statement, the proof of service, and the accompanying documents required by Rule 21(a)(2)(C). An original and 3 copies must be filed unless the court requires the filing of a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 23, 1996, effective Dec. 1, 1996; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VI. HABEAS CORPUS; PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 22

Rule 22. Habeas Corpus and Section 2255 Proceedings

(a) Application for the Original Writ. An application for a writ of habeas corpus must be made to the appropriate district court. If made to a circuit judge, the application must be transferred to the appropriate district court. If a district court denies an application made or transferred to it, renewal of the application before a circuit judge is not permitted. The applicant may, under 28 U.S.C. § 2253, appeal to the court of appeals from the district court's order denying the application.

(b) Certificate of Appealability.

(1) In a habeas corpus proceeding in which the detention complained of arises from process issued by a state court, or in a 28 U.S.C. § 2255 proceeding, the applicant cannot take an appeal unless a circuit justice or a circuit or district judge issues a certificate of appealability under 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c). If an applicant files a notice of appeal, the district clerk must send to the court of appeals the certificate (if any) and the statement described in Rule 11(a) of the Rules Governing Proceedings Under 28 U.S.C. § 2254 or § 2255 (if any), along with the notice of appeal and the file of the district-court proceedings. If the district judge has denied the certificate, the applicant may request a circuit judge to issue it.

(2) A request addressed to the court of appeals may be considered by a circuit judge or judges, as the court prescribes. If no express request for a certificate is filed, the notice of appeal constitutes a request addressed to the judges of the court of appeals.

(3) A certificate of appealability is not required when a state or its representative or the United States or its representative appeals.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1996; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VI. HABEAS CORPUS; PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 23

Rule 23. Custody or Release of a Prisoner in a Habeas Corpus Proceeding

(a) Transfer of Custody Pending Review. Pending review of a decision in a habeas corpus proceeding commenced before a court, justice, or judge of the United States for the release of a prisoner, the person having custody of the prisoner must not transfer custody to another unless a transfer is directed in accordance with this rule. When, upon application, a custodian shows the need for a transfer, the court, justice, or judge rendering the decision under review may authorize the transfer and substitute the successor custodian as a party.

(b) Detention or Release Pending Review of Decision Not to Release. While a decision not to release a prisoner is under review, the court or judge rendering the decision, or the court of appeals, or the Supreme Court, or a judge or justice of either court, may order that the prisoner be:

(1) detained in the custody from which release is sought;

(2) detained in other appropriate custody; or

(3) released on personal recognizance, with or without surety.

(c) Release Pending Review of Decision Ordering Release. While a decision ordering the release of a prisoner is under review, the prisoner must--unless the court or judge rendering the decision, or the court of appeals, or the Supreme Court, or a judge or justice of either court orders otherwise--be released on personal recognizance, with or without surety.

(d) Modification of the Initial Order on Custody. An initial order governing the prisoner's custody or release, including any recognizance or surety, continues in effect pending review unless for special reasons shown to the court of appeals or the Supreme Court, or to a judge or justice of either court, the order is modified or an independent order regarding custody, release, or surety is issued.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VI. HABEAS CORPUS; PROCEEDINGS IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 24

Rule 24. Proceeding in Forma Pauperis

(a) Leave to Proceed in Forma Pauperis.

(1) Motion in the District Court. Except as stated in Rule 24(a)(3), a party to a district-court action who desires to appeal in forma pauperis must file a motion in the district court. The party must attach an affidavit that:

(A) shows in the detail prescribed by Form 4 of the Appendix of Forms the party's inability to pay or to give security for fees and costs;

(B) claims an entitlement to redress; and

(C) states the issues that the party intends to present on appeal.

(2) Action on the Motion. If the district court grants the motion, the party may proceed on appeal without prepaying or giving security for fees and costs, unless a statute provides otherwise. If the district court denies the motion, it must state its reasons in writing.

(3) Prior Approval. A party who was permitted to proceed in forma pauperis in the district-court action, or who was determined to be financially unable to obtain an adequate defense in a criminal case, may proceed on appeal in forma pauperis without further authorization, unless:

(A) the district court--before or after the notice of appeal is filed--certifies that the appeal is not taken in good faith or finds that the party is not otherwise entitled to proceed in forma pauperis and states in writing its reasons for the certification or finding; or

(B) a statute provides otherwise.

(4) Notice of District Court's Denial. The district clerk must immediately notify the parties and the court of appeals when the district court does any of the following:

(A) denies a motion to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis;

(B) certifies that the appeal is not taken in good faith; or

(C) finds that the party is not otherwise entitled to proceed in forma pauperis.

(5) Motion in the Court of Appeals. A party may file a motion to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis in the court of appeals within 30 days after service of the notice prescribed in Rule 24(a)(4). The motion must include a copy of the affidavit filed in the district court and the district court's statement of reasons for its action. If no affidavit was filed in the district court, the party must include the affidavit prescribed by Rule 24(a)(1).

(b) Leave to Proceed in Forma Pauperis on Appeal or Review of an Administrative Agency Proceeding. When an appeal or review of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer (including for the purpose of this rule the United States Tax Court) proceeds directly in a court of appeals, a party may file in the court of appeals a motion for leave to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis with an affidavit prescribed by Rule 24(a)(1).

(c) Leave to Use Original Record. A party allowed to proceed on appeal in forma pauperis may request that the appeal be heard on the original record without reproducing any part.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002.]

30 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 25

Rule 25. Filing and Service.

(a) Filing.

(1) Filing with the Clerk. A paper required or permitted to be filed in a court of appeals must be filed with the clerk.

(2) Filing: Method and Timeliness.

(A) In General. Filing may be accomplished by mail addressed to the clerk, but filing is not timely unless the clerk receives the papers within the time fixed for filing.

(B) A Brief or Appendix. A brief or appendix is timely filed, however, if on or before the last day for filing, it is:

(i) mailed to the clerk by First-Class Mail, or other class of mail that is at least as expeditious, postage prepaid; or

(ii) dispatched to a third-party commercial carrier for delivery to the clerk within 3 days.

(C) Inmate Filing. A paper filed by an inmate confined in an institution is timely if deposited in the institution's internal mailing system on or before the last day for filing. If an institution has a system designed for legal mail, the inmate must use that system to receive the benefit of this rule. Timely filing may be shown by a declaration in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746 or by a notarized statement, either of which must set forth the date of deposit and state that first-class postage has been prepaid.

(D) Electronic Filing. A court of appeals may by local rule permit or require papers to be filed, signed, or verified by electronic means that are consistent with technical standards, if any, that the Judicial Conference of the United States establishes. A local rule may require filing by electronic means only if reasonable exceptions are allowed. A paper filed by electronic means in compliance with a local rule constitutes a written paper for the purpose of applying these rules.

(3) Filing a Motion with a Judge. If a motion requests relief that may be granted by a single judge, the judge may permit the motion to be filed with the judge; the judge must note the filing date on the motion and give it to the clerk.

(4) Clerk's Refusal of Documents. The clerk must not refuse to accept for filing any paper presented for that purpose solely because it is not presented in proper form as required by these rules or by any local rule or practice.

(5) Privacy Protection. An appeal in a case whose privacy protection was governed by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9037, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 5.2, or Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 49.1 is governed by the same rule on appeal. In all other proceedings, privacy protection is governed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 5.2, except that Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 49.1 governs when an extraordinary writ is sought in a criminal case.

(b) Service of All Papers Required. Unless a rule requires service by the clerk, a party must, at or before the time of filing a paper, serve a copy on the other parties to the appeal or review. Service on a party represented by counsel must be made on the party's counsel.

(c) Manner of Service.

(1) Service may be any of the following:

(A) personal, including delivery to a responsible person at the office of counsel;

(B) by mail;

(C) by third-party commercial carrier for delivery within 3 days; or

(D) by electronic means, if the party being served consents in writing.

(2) If authorized by local rule, a party may use the court's transmission equipment to make electronic service under Rule 25(c)(1)(D).

(3) When reasonable considering such factors as the immediacy of the relief sought, distance, and cost, service on a party must be by a manner at least as expeditious as the manner used to file the paper with the court.

(4) Service by mail or by commercial carrier is complete on mailing or delivery to the carrier. Service by electronic means is complete on transmission, unless the party making service is notified that the paper was not received by the party served.

(d) Proof of Service.

(1) A paper presented for filing must contain either of the following:

(A) an acknowledgment of service by the person served; or

(B) proof of service consisting of a statement by the person who made service certifying:

(i) the date and manner of service;

(ii) the names of the persons served; and

(iii) their mail or electronic addresses, facsimile numbers, or the addresses of the places of delivery, as appropriate for the manner of service.

(2) When a brief or appendix is filed by mailing or dispatch in accordance with Rule 25(a)(2)(B), the proof of service must also state the date and manner by which the document was mailed or dispatched to the clerk.

(3) Proof of service may appear on or be affixed to the papers filed.

(e) Number of Copies. When these rules require the filing or furnishing of a number of copies, a court may require a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 23, 1996, effective Dec. 1, 1996; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; April 12, 2006, effective December 1, 2006; April 30, 2007, effective December 1, 2007; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 26

Rule 26. Computing and Extending Time

(a) Computing Time. The following rules apply in computing any time period specified in these rules, in any local rule or court order, or in any statute that does not specify a method of computing time.

(1) Period Stated in Days or a Longer Unit. When the period is stated in days or a longer unit of time:

(A) exclude the day of the event that triggers the period;

(B) count every day, including intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays; and

(C) include the last day of the period, but if the last day is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period continues to run until the end of the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday.

(2) Period Stated in Hours. When the period is stated in hours:

(A) begin counting immediately on the occurrence of the event that triggers the period;

(B) count every hour, including hours during intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays; and

(C) if the period would end on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the period continues to run until the same time on the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday.

(3) Inaccessibility of the Clerk's Office. Unless the court orders otherwise, if the clerk's office is inaccessible:

(A) on the last day for filing under Rule 26(a)(1), then the time for filing is extended to the first accessible day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday; or

(B) during the last hour for filing under Rule 26(a)(2), then the time for filing is extended to the same time on the first accessible day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday.

(4) "Last Day" Defined. Unless a different time is set by a statute, local rule, or court order, the last day ends:

(A) for electronic filing in the district court, at midnight in the court's time zone;

(B) for electronic filing in the court of appeals, at midnight in the time zone of the circuit clerk's principal office;

(C) for filing under Rules 4(c)(1), 25(a)(2)(B), and 25(a)(2)(C)--and filing by mail under Rule 13(b)--at the latest time for the method chosen for delivery to the post office, third-party commercial carrier, or prison mailing system; and

(D) for filing by other means, when the clerk's office is scheduled to close.

(5) "Next Day" Defined. The "next day" is determined by continuing to count forward when the period is measured after an event and backward when measured before an event.

(6) "Legal Holiday" Defined. "Legal holiday" means:

(A) the day set aside by statute for observing New Year's Day, Martin Luther King Jr.'s Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, or Christmas Day;

(B) any day declared a holiday by the President or Congress; and

(C) for periods that are measured after an event, any other day declared a holiday by the state where either of the following is located: the district court that rendered the challenged judgment or order, or the circuit clerk's principal office.

(b) Extending Time. For good cause, the court may extend the time prescribed by these rules or by its order to perform any act, or may permit an act to be done after that time expires. But the court may not extend the time to file:

(1) a notice of appeal (except as authorized in Rule 4) or a petition for permission to appeal; or

(2) a notice of appeal from or a petition to enjoin, set aside, suspend, modify, enforce, or otherwise review an order of an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer of the United States, unless specifically authorized by law.

(c) Additional Time after Service. When a party may or must act within a specified time after service, 3 days are added after the period would otherwise expire under Rule 26(a), unless the paper is delivered on the date of service stated in the proof of service. For purposes of this Rule 26(c), a paper that is served electronically is not treated as delivered on the date of service stated in the proof of service.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 1, 1971, effective July 1, 1971; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 23, 1996, effective Dec. 1, 1996; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 25,2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 26.1

Rule 26.1. Corporate Disclosure Statement

(a) Who Must File. Any nongovernmental corporate party to a proceeding in a court of appeals must file a statement that identifies any parent corporation and any publicly held corporation that owns 10% or more of its stock or states that there is no such corporation.

(b) Time for Filing; Supplemental Filing. A party must file the Rule 26.1(a) statement with the principal brief or upon filing a motion, response, petition, or answer in the court of appeals, whichever occurs first, unless a local rule requires earlier filing. Even if the statement has already been filed, the party's principal brief must include the statement before the table of contents. A party must supplement its statement whenever the information that must be disclosed under Rule 26.1(a) changes.

(c) Number of Copies. If the Rule 26.1(a) statement is filed before the principal brief, or if a supplemental statement is filed, the party must file an original and 3 copies unless the court requires a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case.

Legislative History

[Adopted Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; amended Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 27

Rule 27. Motions

(a) In General.

(1) Application for Relief. An application for an order or other relief is made by motion unless these rules prescribe another form. A motion must be in writing unless the court permits otherwise.

(2) Contents of a Motion.

(A) Grounds and relief sought. A motion must state with particularity the grounds for the motion, the relief sought, and the legal argument necessary to support it.

(B) Accompanying documents.

(i) Any affidavit or other paper necessary to support a motion must be served and filed with the motion.

(ii) An affidavit must contain only factual information, not legal argument.

(iii) A motion seeking substantive relief must include a copy of the trial court's opinion or agency's decision as a separate exhibit.

(C) Documents barred or not required.

(i) A separate brief supporting or responding to a motion must not be filed.

(ii) A notice of motion is not required.

(iii) A proposed order is not required.

(3) Response.

(A) Time to file. Any party may file a response to a motion; Rule 27(a)(2) governs its contents. The response must be filed within 10 days after service of the motion unless the court shortens or extends the time. A motion authorized by Rules 8, 9, 18, or 41 may be granted before the 10-day period runs only if the court gives reasonable notice to the parties that it intends to act sooner.

(B) Request for affirmative relief. A response may include a motion for affirmative relief. The time to respond to the new motion, and to reply to that response, are governed by Rule 27(a)(3)(A) and (a)(4). The title of the response must alert the court to the request for relief.

(4) Reply to Response. Any reply to a response must be filed within 7 days after service of the response. A reply must not present matters that do not relate to the response.

(b) Disposition of a Motion for a Procedural Order. The court may act on a motion for a procedural order--including a motion under Rule 26(b)--at any time without awaiting a response, and may, by rule or by order in a particular case, authorize its clerk to act on specified types of procedural motions. A party adversely affected by the court's, or the clerk's, action may file a motion to reconsider, vacate, or modify that action. Timely opposition filed after the motion is granted in whole or in part does not constitute a request to reconsider, vacate, or modify the disposition; a motion requesting that relief must be filed.

(c) Power of a Single Judge to Entertain a Motion. A circuit judge may act alone on any motion, but may not dismiss or otherwise determine an appeal or other proceeding. A court of appeals may provide by rule or by order in a particular case that only the court may act on any motion or class of motions. The court may review the action of a single judge.

(d) Form of Papers; Page Limits; and Number of Copies.

(1) Format.

(A) Reproduction. A motion, response, or reply may be reproduced by any process that yields a clear black image on light paper. The paper must be opaque and unglazed. Only one side of the paper may be used.

(B) Cover. A cover is not required, but there must be a caption that includes the case number, the name of the court, the title of the case, and a brief descriptive title indicating the purpose of the motion and identifying the party or parties for whom it is filed. If a cover is used, it must be white.

(C) Binding. The document must be bound in any manner that is secure, does not obscure the text, and permits the document to lie reasonably flat when open.

(D) Paper size, line spacing, and margins. The document must be on 81/2 by 11 inch paper. The text must be double-spaced, but quotations more than two lines long may be indented and single-spaced. Headings and footnotes may be single-spaced. Margins must be at least one inch on all four sides. Page numbers may be placed in the margins, but no text may appear there.

(E) Typeface and type styles. The document must comply with the typeface requirements of Rule 32(a)(5) and the type-style requirements of Rule 32(a)(6).

(2) Page Limits. A motion or a response to a motion must not exceed 20 pages, exclusive of the corporate disclosure statement and accompanying documents authorized by Rule 27(a)(2)(B), unless the court permits or directs otherwise. A reply to a response must not exceed 10 pages.

(3) Number of Copies. An original and 3 copies must be filed unless the court requires a different number by local rule or by order in a particular case.

(e) Oral Argument. A motion will be decided without oral argument unless the court orders otherwise.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 1, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 28

Rule 28. Briefs

(a) Appellant's Brief. The appellant's brief must contain, under appropriate headings and in the order indicated:

(1) a corporate disclosure statement if required by Rule 26.1;

(2) a table of contents, with page references;

(3) a table of authorities--cases (alphabetically arranged), statutes, and other authorities--with references to the pages of the brief where they are cited;

(4) a jurisdictional statement, including:

(A) the basis for the district court's or agency's subject-matter jurisdiction, with citations to applicable statutory provisions and stating relevant facts establishing jurisdiction;

(B) the basis for the court of appeals' jurisdiction, with citations to applicable statutory provisions and stating relevant facts establishing jurisdiction;

(C) the filing dates establishing the timeliness of the appeal or petition for review; and

(D) an assertion that the appeal is from a final order or judgment that disposes of all parties' claims, or information establishing the court of appeals' jurisdiction on some other basis;

(5) a statement of the issues presented for review;

(6) a statement of the case briefly indicating the nature of the case, the course of proceedings, and the disposition below;

(7) a statement of facts relevant to the issues submitted for review with appropriate references to the record (see Rule 28(e));

(8) a summary of the argument, which must contain a succinct, clear, and accurate statement of the arguments made in the body of the brief, and which must not merely repeat the argument headings;

(9) the argument, which must contain:

(A) appellant's contentions and the reasons for them, with citations to the authorities and parts of the record on which the appellant relies; and

(B) or each issue, a concise statement of the applicable standard of review (which may appear in the discussion of the issue or under a separate heading placed before the discussion of the issues);

(10) a short conclusion stating the precise relief sought; and

(11) the certificate of compliance, if required by Rule 32(a)(7).

(b) Appellee's Brief. The appellee's brief must conform to the requirements of Rule 28(a)(1)-(9) and (11), except that none of the following need appear unless the appellee is dissatisfied with the appellant's statement:

(1) the jurisdictional statement;

(2) the statement of the issues;

(3) the statement of the case;

(4) the statement of the facts; and

(5) the statement of the standard of review.

(c) Reply Brief. The appellant may file a brief in reply to the appellee's brief. Unless the court permits, no further briefs may be filed. A reply brief must contain a table of contents, with page references, and a table of authorities--cases (alphabetically arranged), statutes, and other authorities--with references to the pages of the reply brief where they are cited.

(d) References to Parties. In briefs and at oral argument, counsel should minimize use of the terms "appellant" and "appellee." To make briefs clear, counsel should use the parties' actual names or the designations used in the lower court or agency proceeding, or such descriptive terms as "the employee," "the injured person," "the taxpayer," "the ship," "the stevedore."

(e) References to the Record. References to the parts of the record contained in the appendix filed with the appellant's brief must be to the pages of the appendix. If the appendix is prepared after the briefs are filed, a party referring to the record must follow one of the methods detailed in Rule 30(c). If the original record is used under Rule 30(f) and is not consecutively paginated, or if the brief refers to an unreproduced part of the record, any reference must be to the page of the original document. or example:

- Answer p. 7;
- Motion for Judgment p. 2;

- Transcript p. 231.

Only clear abbreviations may be used. A party referring to evidence whose admissibility is in controversy must cite the pages of the appendix or of the transcript at which the evidence was identified, offered, and received or rejected.

(f) Reproduction of Statutes, Rules, Regulations, etc. If the court's determination of the issues presented requires the study of statutes, rules, regulations, etc., the relevant parts must be set out in the brief or in an addendum at the end, or may be supplied to the court in pamphlet form.

(g) [Reserved]

(h) [Reserved]

(i) Briefs in a Case Involving Multiple Appellants or Appellees. In a case involving more than one appellant or appellee, including consolidated cases, any number of appellants or appellees may join in a brief, and any party may adopt by reference a part of another's brief. Parties may also join in reply briefs.

(j) Citation of Supplemental Authorities. If pertinent and significant authorities come to a party's attention after the party's brief has been filed--or after oral argument but before decision--a party may promptly advise the circuit clerk by letter, with a copy to all other parties, setting forth the citations. The letter must state the reasons for the supplemental citations, referring either to the page of the brief or to a point argued orally. The body of the letter must not exceed 350 words. Any response must be made promptly and must be similarly limited.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 25, 1989, effective Dec. 1, 1989; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 28.1

Rule 28.1. Cross-Appeals

(a) Applicability. This rule applies to a case in which a cross-appeal is filed. Rules 28(a)-(c), 31(a)(1), 32(a)(2), and 32(a)(7)(A)-(B) do not apply to such a case, except as otherwise provided in this rule.

(b) Designation of Appellant. The party who files a notice of appeal first is the appellant for the purposes of this rule and Rules 30 and 34. If notices are filed on the same day, the plaintiff in the proceeding below is the appellant. These designations may be modified by the parties' agreement or by court order.

(c) Briefs. In a case involving a cross-appeal:

(1) Appellant's Principal Brief. The appellant must file a principal brief in the appeal. That brief must comply with Rule 28(a).

(2) Appellee's Principal and Response Brief. The appellee must file a principal brief in the cross-appeal and must, in the same brief, respond to the principal brief in the appeal. That appellee's brief must comply with Rule 28(a), except that the brief need not include a statement of the case or a statement of the facts unless the appellee is dissatisfied with the appellant's statement.

(3) Appellant's Response and Reply Brief. The appellant must file a brief that responds to the principal brief in the cross-appeal and may, in the same brief, reply to the response in the appeal. That brief must comply with Rule 28(a)(2)-(9) and (11), except that none of the following need appear unless the appellant is dissatisfied with the appellee's statement in the cross-appeal:

(A) the jurisdictional statement;

(B) the statement of the issues;

(C) the statement of the case;

(D) the statement of the facts; and

(E) the statement of the standard of review.

(4) Appellee's Reply Brief. The appellee may file a brief in reply to the response in the cross-appeal. That brief must comply with Rule 28(a)(2)-(3) and (11) and must be limited to the issues presented by the cross-appeal.

(5) No Further Briefs. Unless the court permits, no further briefs may be filed in a case involving a cross-appeal.

(d) Cover. Except for filings by unrepresented parties, the cover of the appellant's principal brief must be blue; the appellee's principal and response brief, red; the appellant's response and reply brief, yellow; the appellee's reply brief, gray; an intervenor's or amicus curiae's brief, green; and any supplemental brief, tan. The front cover of a brief must contain the information required by Rule 32(a)(2).

(e) Length.

(1) Page Limitation. Unless it complies with Rule 28.1(e)(2) and (3), the appellant's principal brief must not exceed 30 pages; the appellee's principal and response brief, 35 pages; the appellant's response and reply brief, 30 pages; and the appellee's reply brief, 15 pages.

(2) Type-Volume Limitation.

(A) The appellant's principal brief or the appellant's response and reply brief is acceptable if:

(i) it contains no more than 14,000 words; or

(ii) it uses a monospaced face and contains no more than 1,300 lines of text.

(B) The appellee's principal and response brief is acceptable if:

(i) it contains no more than 16,500 words; or

(ii) it uses a monospaced face and contains no more than 1,500 lines of text.

(C) The appellee's reply brief is acceptable if it contains no more than half of the type volume specified in Rule 28.1(e)(2)(A).

(3) Certificate of Compliance. A brief submitted under Rule 28.1(e)(2) must comply with Rule 32(a)(7)(C).

(f) Time to Serve and File a Brief. Briefs must be served and filed as follows:

(1) the appellant's principal brief, within 40 days after the record is filed;

(2) the appellee's principal and response brief, within 30 days after the appellant's principal brief is served;

(3) the appellant's response and reply brief, within 30 days after the appellee's principal and response brief is served;

and

(4) the appellee's reply brief, within 14 days after the appellant's response and reply brief is served, but at least 7 days before argument unless the court, for good cause, allows a later filing.

Legislative History

[Adopted Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 29

Rule 29. Brief of an Amicus Curiae

(a) When Permitted. The United States or its officer or agency or a state may file an amicus-curiae brief without the consent of the parties or leave of court. Any other amicus curiae may file a brief only by leave of court or if the brief states that all parties have consented to its filing.

(b) Motion for Leave to File. The motion must be accompanied by the proposed brief and state:

(1) the movant's interest; and

(2) the reason why an amicus brief is desirable and why the matters asserted are relevant to the disposition of the case.

(c) Contents and Form. An amicus brief must comply with Rule 32. In addition to the requirements of Rule 32, the cover must identify the party or parties supported and indicate whether the brief supports affirmance or reversal. An amicus brief need not comply with Rule 28, but must include the following:

(1) if the amicus curiae is a corporation, a disclosure statement like that required of parties by Rule 26.1;

(2) a table of contents, with page references;

(3) a table of authorities--cases (alphabetically arranged), statutes, and other authorities--with references to the pages of the brief where they are cited;

(4) a concise statement of the identity of the amicus curiae, its interest in the case, and the source of its authority to file;

(5) unless the amicus curiae is one listed in the first sentence of Rule 29(a), a statement that indicates whether:

(A) a party's counsel authored the brief in whole or in part;

(B) a party or a party's counsel contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief; and

(C) a person--other than the amicus curiae, its members, or its counsel--contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief and, if so, identifies each such person;

(6) an argument, which may be preceded by a summary and which need not include a statement of the applicable standard of review; and

(7) a certificate of compliance, if required by Rule 32(a)(7).

(d) Length. Except by the court's permission, an amicus brief may be no more than one-half the maximum length authorized by these rules for a party's principal brief. If the court grants a party permission to file a longer brief, that extension does not affect the length of an amicus brief.

(e) Time for Filing. An amicus curiae must file its brief, accompanied by a motion for filing when necessary, no later than 7 days after the principal brief of the party being supported is filed. An amicus curiae that does not support either party must file its brief no later than 7 days after the appellant's or petitioner's principal brief is filed. A court may grant leave for later filing, specifying the time within which an opposing party may answer.

(f) Reply Brief. Except by the court's permission, an amicus curiae may not file a reply brief.

(g) Oral Argument. An amicus curiae may participate in oral argument only with the court's permission.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 4, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 28, 2010, effective Dec. 1, 2010.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 30

Rule 30. Appendix to the Briefs

(a) Appellant's Responsibility.

(1) Contents of the Appendix. The appellant must prepare and file an appendix to the briefs containing:

(A) the relevant docket entries in the proceeding below;

(B) the relevant portions of the pleadings, charge, findings, or opinion;

(C) the judgment, order, or decision in question; and

(D) other parts of the record to which the parties wish to direct the court's attention.

(2) Excluded Material. Memoranda of law in the district court should not be included in the appendix unless they have independent relevance. Parts of the record may be relied on by the court or the parties even though not included in the appendix.

(3) Time to File; Number of Copies. Unless filing is deferred under Rule 30(c), the appellant must file 10 copies of the appendix with the brief and must serve one copy on counsel for each party separately represented. An unrepresented party proceeding in forma pauperis must file 4 legible copies with the clerk, and one copy must be served on counsel for each separately represented party. The court may by local rule or by order in a particular case require the filing or service of a different number.

(b) All Parties' Responsibilities.

(1) Determining the Contents of the Appendix. The parties are encouraged to agree on the contents of the appendix. In the absence of an agreement, the appellant must, within 14 days after the record is filed, serve on the appellee a designation of the parts of the record the appellant intends to include in the appendix and a statement of the issues the appellant intends to present for review. The appellee may, within 14 days after receiving the designation, serve on the appellant a designation of additional parts to which it wishes to direct the court's attention. The appellant must include the designated parts in the appendix. The parties must not engage in unnecessary designation of parts of the record, because the entire record is available to the court. This paragraph applies also to a cross-appellant and a cross-appellee.

(2) Costs of Appendix. Unless the parties agree otherwise, the appellant must pay the cost of the appendix. If the appellant considers parts of the record designated by the appellee to be unnecessary, the appellant may advise the appellee, who must then advance the cost of including those parts. The cost of the appendix is a taxable cost. But if any party causes unnecessary parts of the record to be included in the appendix, the court may impose the cost of those parts on that party. Each circuit must, by local rule, provide for sanctions against attorneys who unreasonably and vexatiously increase litigation costs by including unnecessary material in the appendix.

(c) Deferred Appendix.

(1) Deferral Until After Briefs Are Filed. The court may provide by rule for classes of cases or by order in a particular case that preparation of the appendix may be deferred until after the briefs have been filed and that the appendix may be filed 21 days after the appellee's brief is served. Even though the filing of the appendix may be deferred, Rule 30(b) applies; except that a party must designate the parts of the record it wants included in the appendix when it serves its brief, and need not include a statement of the issues presented.

(2) References to the Record.

(A) If the deferred appendix is used, the parties may cite in their briefs the pertinent pages of the record. When the appendix is prepared, the record pages cited in the briefs must be indicated by inserting record page numbers, in brackets, at places in the appendix where those pages of the record appear.

(B) A party who wants to refer directly to pages of the appendix may serve and file copies of the brief within the time required by Rule 31(a), containing appropriate references to pertinent pages of the record. In that event, within 14 days after the appendix is filed, the party must serve and file copies of the brief, containing references to the pages of the appendix in place of or in addition to the references to the pertinent pages of the record. Except for the correction of typographical errors, no other changes may be made to the brief.

(d) Format of the Appendix. The appendix must begin with a table of contents identifying the page at which each part begins. The relevant docket entries must follow the table of contents. Other parts of the record must follow chronologically. When pages from the transcript of proceedings are placed in the appendix, the transcript page numbers must be shown in brackets immediately before the included pages. Omissions in the text of papers or of the transcript must be indicated by asterisks. Immaterial formal matters (captions, subscriptions, acknowledgments, etc.) should be omitted.

(e) Reproduction of Exhibits. Exhibits designated for inclusion in the appendix may be reproduced in a separate volume, or volumes, suitably indexed. Four copies must be filed with the appendix, and one copy must be served on counsel for each separately represented party. If a transcript of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer was used in a district-court action and has been designated for inclusion in the appendix, the transcript must be placed in the appendix as an exhibit.

(f) Appeal on the Original Record Without an Appendix. The court may, either by rule for all cases or classes of cases or by order in a particular case, dispense with the appendix and permit an appeal to proceed on the original record with any copies of the record, or relevant parts, that the court may order the parties to file.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 30, 1970, effective July 1, 1970; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

38 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 31

Rule 31. Serving and Filing Briefs

(a) Time to Serve and File a Brief.

(1) The appellant must serve and file a brief within 40 days after the record is filed. The appellee must serve and file a brief within 30 days after the appellant's brief is served. The appellant may serve and file a reply brief within 14 days after service of the appellee's brief but a reply brief must be filed at least 7 days before argument, unless the court, for good cause, allows a later filing.

(2) A court of appeals that routinely considers cases on the merits promptly after the briefs are filed may shorten the time to serve and file briefs, either by local rule or by order in a particular case.

(b) Number of Copies. Twenty-five copies of each brief must be filed with the clerk and 2 copies must be served on each unrepresented party and on counsel for each separately represented party. An unrepresented party proceeding in forma pauperis must file 4 legible copies with the clerk, and one copy must be served on each unrepresented party and on counsel for each separately represented party. The court may by local rule or by order in a particular case require the filing or service of a different number.

(c) Consequence of Failure to File. If an appellant fails to file a brief within the time provided by this rule, or within an extended time, an appellee may move to dismiss the appeal. An appellee who fails to file a brief will not be heard at oral argument unless the court grants permission.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 30, 1970, effective July 1, 1970; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 32

Rule 32. Form of Briefs, Appendices, and Other Papers

(a) Form of a Brief.

(1) Reproduction.

(A) A brief may be reproduced by any process that yields a clear black image on light paper. The paper must be opaque and unglazed. Only one side of the paper may be used.

(B) Text must be reproduced with a clarity that equals or exceeds the output of a laser printer.

(C) Photographs, illustrations, and tables may be reproduced by any method that results in a good copy of the original; a glossy finish is acceptable if the original is glossy.

(2) Cover. Except for filings by unrepresented parties, the cover of the appellant's brief must be blue; the appellee's, red; an intervenor's or amicus curiae's, green; and any reply brief, gray; and any supplemental brief, tan. The front cover of a brief must contain:

(A) the number of the case centered at the top;

(B) the name of the court;

(C) the title of the case (see Rule 12(a));

(D) the nature of the proceeding (e.g., Appeal, Petition for Review) and the name of the court, agency, or board below;

(E) the title of the brief, identifying the party or parties for whom the brief is filed; and

(F) the name, office address, and telephone number of counsel representing the party for whom the brief is filed.

(3) Binding. The brief must be bound in any manner that is secure, does not obscure the text, and permits the brief to lie reasonably flat when open.

(4) Paper Size, Line Spacing, and Margins. The brief must be on 81/2 by 11 inch paper. The text must be double-spaced, but quotations more than two lines long may be indented and single-spaced. Headings and footnotes may be single-spaced. Margins must be at least one inch on all four sides. Page numbers may be placed in the margins, but no text may appear there.

(5) Typeface. Either a proportionally spaced or a monospaced face may be used.

(A) A proportionally spaced face must include serifs, but sans-serif type may be used in headings and captions. A proportionally spaced face must be 14-point or larger.

(B) A monospaced face may not contain more than 10 1/2 characters per inch.

(6) Type Styles. A brief must be set in a plain, roman style, although italics or boldface may be used for emphasis. Case names must be italicized or underlined.

(7) Length.

(A) Page limitation. A principal brief may not exceed 30 pages, or a reply brief 15 pages, unless it complies with Rule 32(a)(7)(B) and (C).

(B) Type-volume limitation.

(i) A principal brief is acceptable if:

- it contains no more than 14,000 words; or
- it uses a monospaced face and contains no more than 1,300 lines of text.

(ii) A reply brief is acceptable if it contains no more than half of the type volume specified in Rule 32(a)(7)(B)(i).

(iii) Headings, footnotes, and quotations count toward the word and line limitations. The corporate disclosure statement, table of contents, table of citations, statement with respect to oral argument, any addendum containing statutes, rules or regulations, and any certificates of counsel do not count toward the limitation.

(C) Certificate of compliance.

(i) A brief submitted under Rules 28.1(e)(2) or 32(a)(7)(B) must include a certificate by the attorney, or an unrepresented party, that the brief complies with the type-volume limitation. The person preparing the certificate may rely on the word or line count of the word-processing system used to prepare the brief. The certificate must state either:

- the number of words in the brief; or
- the number of lines of monospaced type in the brief.

(ii) Form 6 in the Appendix of Forms is a suggested form of a certificate of compliance. Use of Form 6 must be regarded as sufficient to meet the requirements of Rules 28.1(e)(3) and 32(a)(7)(C)(i).

(b) Form of an Appendix. An appendix must comply with Rule 32(a)(1), (2), (3), and (4), with the following exceptions:

(1) The cover of a separately bound appendix must be white.

(2) An appendix may include a legible photocopy of any document found in the record or of a printed judicial or agency decision.

(3) When necessary to facilitate inclusion of odd-sized documents such as technical drawings, an appendix may be a size other than 81/2 by 11 inches, and need not lie reasonably flat when opened.

(c) Form of Other Papers.

(1) Motion. The form of a motion is governed by Rule 27(d).

(2) Other Papers. Any other paper, including a petition for panel rehearing and a petition for hearing or rehearing en banc, and any response to such a petition, must be reproduced in the manner prescribed by Rule 32(a), with the following exceptions:

(A) A cover is not necessary if the caption and signature page of the paper together contain the information required by Rule 32(a)(2). If a cover is used, it must be white.

(B) Rule 32(a)(7) does not apply.

(d) Signature. Every brief, motion, or other paper filed with the court must be signed by the party filing the paper or, if the party is represented, by one of the party's attorneys.

(e) Local Variation. Every court of appeals must accept documents that comply with the form requirements of this rule. By local rule or order in a particular case a court of appeals may accept documents that do not meet all of the form requirements of this rule.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 32.1

Rule 32.1. Citing Judicial Dispositions

(a) Citation Permitted. A court may not prohibit or restrict the citation of federal judicial opinions, orders, judgments, or other written dispositions that have been:

(i) designated as "unpublished," "not for publication," "non-precedential," "not precedent," or the like; and

(ii) issued on or after January 1, 2007.

(b) Copies Required. If a party cites a federal judicial opinion, order, judgment, or other written disposition that is not available in a publicly accessible electronic database, the party must file and serve a copy of that opinion, order, judgment, or disposition with the brief or other paper in which it is cited.

Legislative History

[Adopted Apr. 12, 2006, effective Dec. 1, 2006.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 33

Rule 33. Appeal Conferences

The court may direct the attorneys--and, when appropriate, the parties--to participate in one or more conferences to address any matter that may aid in disposing of the proceedings, including simplifying the issues and discussing settlement. A judge or other person designated by the court may preside over the conference, which may be conducted in person or by telephone. Before a settlement conference, the attorneys must consult with their clients and obtain as much authority as feasible to settle the case. The court may, as a result of the conference, enter an order controlling the course of the proceedings or implementing any settlement agreement.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 34

Rule 34. Oral Argument

(a) In General.

(1) Party's Statement. Any party may file, or a court may require by local rule, a statement explaining why oral argument should, or need not, be permitted.

(2) Standards. Oral argument must be allowed in every case unless a panel of three judges who have examined the briefs and record unanimously agrees that oral argument is unnecessary for any of the following reasons:

(A) the appeal is frivolous;

(B) the dispositive issue or issues have been authoritatively decided; or

(C) the facts and legal arguments are adequately presented in the briefs and record, and the decisional process would not be significantly aided by oral argument.

(b) Notice of Argument; Postponement. The clerk must advise all parties whether oral argument will be scheduled, and, if so, the date, time, and place for it, and the time allowed for each side. A motion to postpone the argument or to allow longer argument must be filed reasonably in advance of the hearing date.

(c) Order and Contents of Argument. The appellant opens and concludes the argument. Counsel must not read at length from briefs, records, or authorities.

(d) Cross-Appeals and Separate Appeals. If there is a cross-appeal, Rule 28.1(b) determines which party is the appellant and which is the appellee for purposes of oral argument. Unless the court directs otherwise, a cross-appeal or separate appeal must be argued when the initial appeal is argued. Separate parties should avoid duplicative argument.

(e) Nonappearance of a Party. If the appellee fails to appear for argument, the court must hear appellant's argument. If the appellant fails to appear for argument, the court may hear the appellee's argument. If neither party appears, the case will be decided on the briefs, unless the court orders otherwise.

(f) Submission on Briefs. The parties may agree to submit a case for decision on the briefs, but the court may direct that the case be argued.

(g) Use of Physical Exhibits at Argument; Removal. Counsel intending to use physical exhibits other than documents at the argument must arrange to place them in the courtroom on the day of the argument before the court convenes. After the argument, counsel must remove the exhibits from the courtroom, unless the court directs otherwise. The clerk may destroy or dispose of the exhibits if counsel does not reclaim them within a reasonable time after the clerk gives notice to remove them.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 1, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 30, 1991, effective Dec. 1, 1991; Apr. 22, 1993, effective Dec. 1, 1993; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 35

Rule 35. En Banc Determination

(a) When Hearing or Rehearing En Banc May Be Ordered. A majority of the circuit judges who are in regular active service and who are not disqualified may order that an appeal or other proceeding be heard or reheard by the court of appeals en banc. An en banc hearing or rehearing is not favored and ordinarily will not be ordered unless:

(1) en banc consideration is necessary to secure or maintain uniformity of the court's decisions; or

(2) the proceeding involves a question of exceptional importance.

(b) Petition for Hearing or Rehearing En Banc. A party may petition for a hearing or rehearing en banc.

(1) The petition must begin with a statement that either:

(A) the panel decision conflicts with a decision of the United States Supreme Court or of the court to which the petition is addressed (with citation to the conflicting case or cases) and consideration by the full court is therefore necessary to secure and maintain uniformity of the court's decisions; or

(B) the proceeding involves one or more questions of exceptional importance, each of which must be concisely stated; for example, a petition may assert that a proceeding presents a question of exceptional importance if it involves an issue on which the panel decision conflicts with the authoritative decisions of other United States Courts of Appeals that have addressed the issue.

(2) Except by the court's permission, a petition for an en banc hearing or rehearing must not exceed 15 pages, excluding material not counted under Rule 32.

(3) For purposes of the page limit in Rule 35(b)(2), if a party files both a petition for panel rehearing and a petition for rehearing en banc, they are considered a single document even if they are filed separately, unless separate filing is required by local rule.

(c) Time for Petition for Hearing or Rehearing En Banc. A petition that an appeal be heard initially en banc must be filed by the date when the appellee's brief is due. A petition for a rehearing en banc must be filed within the time prescribed by Rule 40 for filing a petition for rehearing.

(d) Number of Copies. The number of copies to be filed must be prescribed by local rule and may be altered by order in a particular case.

(e) Response. No response may be filed to a petition for an en banc consideration unless the court orders a response.

(f) Call for a Vote. A vote need not be taken to determine whether the case will be heard or reheard en banc unless a judge calls for a vote.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 1, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 36

Rule 36. Entry of Judgment; Notice

(a) Entry. A judgment is entered when it is noted on the docket. The clerk must prepare, sign, and enter the judgment:

(1) after receiving the court's opinion--but if settlement of the judgment's form is required, after final settlement; or

(2) if a judgment is rendered without an opinion, as the court instructs.

(b) Notice. On the date when judgment is entered, the clerk must serve on all parties a copy of the opinion--or the judgment, if no opinion was written--and a notice of the date when the judgment was entered.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 37

Rule 37. Interest on Judgment

(a) When the Court Affirms. Unless the law provides otherwise, if a money judgment in a civil case is affirmed, whatever interest is allowed by law is payable from the date when the district court's judgment was entered.

(b) When the Court Reverses. If the court modifies or reverses a judgment with a direction that a money judgment be entered in the district court, the mandate must contain instructions about the allowance of interest.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 38

Rule 38. Frivolous Appeal--Damages and Costs

If a court of appeals determines that an appeal is frivolous, it may, after a separately filed motion or notice from the court and reasonable opportunity to respond, award just damages and single or double costs to the appellee.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 39

Rule 39. Costs

(a) Against Whom Assessed. The following rules apply unless the law provides or the court orders otherwise:

(1) if an appeal is dismissed, costs are taxed against the appellant, unless the parties agree otherwise;

(2) if a judgment is affirmed, costs are taxed against the appellant;

(3) if a judgment is reversed, costs are taxed against the appellee;

(4) if a judgment is affirmed in part, reversed in part, modified, or vacated, costs are taxed only as the court orders.

(b) Costs For and Against the United States. Costs for or against the United States, its agency, or officer will be assessed under Rule 39(a) only if authorized by law.

(c) Costs of Copies. Each court of appeals must, by local rule, fix the maximum rate for taxing the cost of producing necessary copies of a brief or appendix, or copies of records authorized by Rule 30(f). The rate must not exceed that generally charged for such work in the area where the clerk's office is located and should encourage economical methods of copying.

(d) Bill of Costs: Objections; Insertion in Mandate.

(1) A party who wants costs taxed must--within 14 days after entry of judgment--file with the circuit clerk, with proof of service, an itemized and verified bill of costs.

(2) Objections must be filed within 14 days after service of the bill of costs, unless the court extends the time.

(3) The clerk must prepare and certify an itemized statement of costs for insertion in the mandate, but issuance of the mandate must not be delayed for taxing costs. If the mandate issues before costs are finally determined, the district clerk must--upon the circuit clerk's request--add the statement of costs, or any amendment of it, to the mandate.

(e) Costs on Appeal Taxable in the District Court. The following costs on appeal are taxable in the district court for the benefit of the party entitled to costs under this rule:

(1) the preparation and transmission of the record;

(2) the reporter's transcript, if needed to determine the appeal;

(3) premiums paid for a supersedeas bond or other bond to preserve rights pending appeal; and

(4) the fee for filing the notice of appeal.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1, 1979; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

48 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 40

Rule 40. Petition for Panel Rehearing

(a) Time to File; Contents; Answer; Action by the Court if Granted.

(1) Time. Unless the time is shortened or extended by order or local rule, a petition for panel rehearing may be filed within 14 days after entry of judgment. But in a civil case, if the United States or its officer or agency is a party, the time within which any party may seek rehearing is 45 days after entry of judgment, unless an order shortens or extends the time.

(2) Contents. The petition must state with particularity each point of law or fact that the petitioner believes the court has overlooked or misapprehended and must argue in support of the petition. Oral argument is not permitted.

(3) Answer. Unless the court requests, no answer to a petition for panel rehearing is permitted. But ordinarily rehearing will not be granted in the absence of such a request.

(4) Action by the Court. If a petition for panel rehearing is granted, the court may do any of the following:

(A) make a final disposition of the case without reargument;

(B) restore the case to the calendar for reargument or resubmission; or

(C) issue any other appropriate order.

(b) Form of Petition; Length. The petition must comply in form with Rule 32. Copies must be served and filed as Rule 31 prescribes. Unless the court permits or a local rule provides otherwise, a petition for panel rehearing must not exceed 15 pages.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 30, 1979, effective Aug. 1,1979; Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 41

Rule 41. Mandate: Contents; Issuance and Effective Date; Stay

(a) Contents. Unless the court directs that a formal mandate issue, the mandate consists of a certified copy of the judgment, a copy of the court's opinion, if any, and any direction about costs.

(b) When Issued. The court's mandate must issue 7 days after the time to file a petition for rehearing expires, or 7 days after entry of an order denying a timely petition for panel rehearing, petition for rehearing en banc, or motion for stay of mandate, whichever is later. The court may shorten or extend the time.

(c) Effective Date. The mandate is effective when issued.

(d) Staying the Mandate.

(1) On Petition for Rehearing or Motion. The timely filing of a petition for panel rehearing, petition for rehearing en banc, or motion for stay of mandate, stays the mandate until disposition of the petition or motion, unless the court orders otherwise.

(2) Pending Petition for Certiorari.

(A) A party may move to stay the mandate pending the filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari in the Supreme Court. The motion must be served on all parties and must show that the certiorari petition would present a substantial question and that there is good cause for a stay.

(B) The stay must not exceed 90 days, unless the period is extended for good cause or unless the party who obtained the stay files a petition for the writ and so notifies the circuit clerk in writing within the period of the stay. In that case, the stay continues until the Supreme Court's final disposition.

(C) The court may require a bond or other security as a condition to granting or continuing a stay of the mandate.

(D) The court of appeals must issue the mandate immediately when a copy of a Supreme Court order denying the petition for writ of certiorari is filed.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Mar. 26, 2009, effective Dec. 1, 2009.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 42

Rule 42. Voluntary Dismissal

(a) Dismissal in the District Court. Before an appeal has been docketed by the circuit clerk, the district court may dismiss the appeal on the filing of a stipulation signed by all parties or on the appellant's motion with notice to all parties.

(b) Dismissal in the Court of Appeals. The circuit clerk may dismiss a docketed appeal if the parties file a signed dismissal agreement specifying how costs are to be paid and pay any fees that are due. But no mandate or other process may issue without a court order. An appeal may be dismissed on the appellant's motion on terms agreed to by the parties or fixed by the court.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 43

Rule 43. Substitution of Parties

(a) Death of a Party.

(1) After Notice of Appeal Is Filed. If a party dies after a notice of appeal has been filed or while a proceeding is pending in the court of appeals, the decedent's personal representative may be substituted as a party on motion filed with the circuit clerk by the representative or by any party. A party's motion must be served on the representative in accordance with Rule 25. If the decedent has no representative, any party may suggest the death on the record, and the court of appeals may then direct appropriate proceedings.

(2) Before Notice of Appeal Is Filed--Potential Appellant. If a party entitled to appeal dies before filing a notice of appeal, the decedent's personal representative--or, if there is no personal representative, the decedent's attorney of record--may file a notice of appeal within the time prescribed by these rules. After the notice of appeal is filed, substitution must be in accordance with Rule 43(a)(1).

(3) Before Notice of Appeal Is Filed--Potential Appellee. If a party against whom an appeal may be taken dies after entry of a judgment or order in the district court, but before a notice of appeal is filed, an appellant may proceed as if the death had not occurred. After the notice of appeal is filed, substitution must be in accordance with Rule 43(a)(1).

(b) Substitution for a Reason Other Than Death. If a party needs to be substituted for any reason other than death, the procedure prescribed in Rule 43(a) applies.

(c) Public Officer: Identification; Substitution.

(1) Identification of Party. A public officer who is a party to an appeal or other proceeding in an official capacity may be described as a party by the public officer's official title rather than by name. But the court may require the public officer's name to be added.

(2) Automatic Substitution of Officeholder. When a public officer who is a party to an appeal or other proceeding in an official capacity dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate. The public officer's successor is automatically substituted as a party. Proceedings following the substitution are to be in the name of the substituted party, but any misnomer that does not affect the substantial rights of the parties may be disregarded. An order of substitution may be entered at any time, but failure to enter an order does not affect the substitution.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1,1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

52 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 44

Rule 44. Case Involving a Constitutional Question When the United States Is Not a Party

(a) Constitutional Challenge to Federal Statute. If a party questions the constitutionality of an Act of Congress in a proceeding in which the United States or its agency, officer, or employee is not a party in an official capacity, the questioning party must give written notice to the circuit clerk immediately upon the filing of the record or as soon as the question is raised in the court of appeals. The clerk must then certify that fact to the Attorney General.

(b) Constitutional Challenge to State Statute. If a party questions the constitutionality of a statute of a State in a proceeding in which that State or its agency, officer, or employee is not a party in an official capacity, the questioning party must give written notice to the circuit clerk immediately upon the filing of the record or as soon as the question is raised in the court of appeals. The clerk must then certify that fact to the attorney general of the State.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 45

Rule 45. Clerk's Duties

(a) General Provisions.

(1) Qualifications. The circuit clerk must take the oath and post any bond required by law. Neither the clerk nor any deputy clerk may practice as an attorney or counselor in any court while in office.

(2) When Court Is Open. The court of appeals is always open for filing any paper, issuing and returning process, making a motion, and entering an order. The clerk's office with the clerk or a deputy in attendance must be open during business hours on all days except Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. A court may provide by local rule or by order that the clerk's office be open for specified hours on Saturdays or on legal holidays other than New Year's Day, Martin Luther King, Jr.'s Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas Day.

(b) Records.

(1) The Docket. The circuit clerk must maintain a docket and an index of all docketed cases in the manner prescribed by the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts. The clerk must record all papers filed with the clerk and all process, orders, and judgments.

(2) Calendar. Under the court's direction, the clerk must prepare a calendar of cases awaiting argument. In placing cases on the calendar for argument, the clerk must give preference to appeals in criminal cases and to other proceedings and appeals entitled to preference by law.

(3) Other Records. The clerk must keep other books and records required by the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, with the approval of the Judicial Conference of the United States, or by the court.

(c) Notice of an Order or Judgment. Upon the entry of an order or judgment, the circuit clerk must immediately serve a notice of entry on each party, with a copy of any opinion, and must note the date of service on the docket. Service on a party represented by counsel must be made on counsel.

(d) Custody of Records and Papers. The circuit clerk has custody of the court's records and papers. Unless the court orders or instructs otherwise, the clerk must not permit an original record or paper to be taken from the clerk's office. Upon disposition of the case, original papers constituting the record on appeal or review must be returned to the court or agency from which they were received. The clerk must preserve a copy of any brief, appendix, or other paper that has been filed.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 1, 1971, effective July 1, 1971; Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998; Apr. 29, 2002, effective Dec. 1, 2002; Apr. 25, 2005, effective Dec. 1, 2005.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 46

Rule 46. Attorneys

(a) Admission to the Bar.

(1) Eligibility. An attorney is eligible for admission to the bar of a court of appeals if that attorney is of good moral and professional character and is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, the highest court of a state, another United States court of appeals, or a United States district court (including the district courts for Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Virgin Islands).

(2) Application. An applicant must file an application for admission, on a form approved by the court that contains the applicant's personal statement showing eligibility for membership. The applicant must subscribe to the following oath or affirmation:

"I, _____, do solemnly swear [or affirm] that I will conduct myself as an attorney and counselor of this court, uprightly and according to law; and that I will support the Constitution of the United States."

(3) Admission Procedures. On written or oral motion of a member of the court's bar, the court will act on the application. An applicant may be admitted by oral motion in open court. But, unless the court orders otherwise, an applicant need not appear before the court to be admitted. Upon admission, an applicant must pay the clerk the fee prescribed by local rule or court order.

(b) Suspension or Disbarment.

(1) Standard. A member of the court's bar is subject to suspension or disbarment by the court if the member:

(A) has been suspended or disbarred from practice in any other court; or

(B) is guilty of conduct unbecoming a member of the court's bar.

(2) Procedure. The member must be given an opportunity to show good cause, within the time prescribed by the court, why the member should not be suspended or disbarred.

(3) Order. The court must enter an appropriate order after the member responds and a hearing is held, if requested, or after the time prescribed for a response expires, if no response is made.

(c) Discipline. A court of appeals may discipline an attorney who practices before it for conduct unbecoming a member of the bar or for failure to comply with any court rule. First, however, the court must afford the attorney reasonable notice, an opportunity to show cause to the contrary, and, if requested, a hearing.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4,1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Mar. 10, 1986, effective July 1, 1986; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 47

Rule 47. Local Rules by Courts of Appeals

(a) Local Rules.

(1) Each court of appeals acting by a majority of its judges in regular active service may, after giving appropriate public notice and opportunity for comment, make and amend rules governing its practice. A generally applicable direction to parties or lawyers regarding practice before a court must be in a local rule rather than an internal operating procedure or standing order. A local rule must be consistent with--but not duplicative of--Acts of Congress and rules adopted under 28 U.S.C. § 2072 and must conform to any uniform numbering system prescribed by the Judicial Conference of the United States. Each circuit clerk must send the Administrative Office of the United States Courts a copy of each local rule and internal operating procedure when it is promulgated or amended.

(2) A local rule imposing a requirement of form must not be enforced in a manner that causes a party to lose rights because of a nonwillful failure to comply with the requirement.

(b) Procedure When There Is No Controlling Law. A court of appeals may regulate practice in a particular case in any manner consistent with federal law, these rules, and local rules of the circuit. No sanction or other disadvantage may be imposed for noncompliance with any requirement not in federal law, federal rules, or the local circuit rules unless the alleged violator has been furnished in the particular case with actual notice of the requirement.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 27, 1995, effective Dec. 1, 1995; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
TITLE VII. GENERAL PROVISIONS

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Rule 48

Rule 48. Masters

(a) Appointment; Powers. A court of appeals may appoint a special master to hold hearings, if necessary, and to recommend factual findings and disposition in matters ancillary to proceedings in the court. Unless the order referring a matter to a master specifies or limits the master's powers, those powers include, but are not limited to, the following:

(1) regulating all aspects of a hearing;

(2) taking all appropriate action for the efficient performance of the master's duties under the order;

(3) requiring the production of evidence on all matters embraced in the reference; and

(4) administering oaths and examining witnesses and parties.

(b) Compensation. If the master is not a judge or court employee, the court must determine the master's compensation and whether the cost is to be charged to any party.

Legislative History

[Adopted Dec. 4, 1967, effective July 1, 1968; amended Apr. 29, 1994, effective Dec. 1, 1994; Apr. 24, 1998, effective Dec. 1, 1998.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

3-28 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Scope

APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3- Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Form 1

Form 1 Notice of Appeal to a Court of Appeals From a Judgment or Order of a District Court

United States District Court for the _____ District of _____

A. B., Plaintiff	)
v.	)
	)	File Number _____
C. D., Defendant	)
	)
	)

Notice of Appeal

Notice is hereby given that _____ (here name all parties taking the appeal), _____ (plaintiffs) (defendants) in the above named case,1)_and_footnotes(n1);.vk n* hereby appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the _____ Circuit (from the final judgment) (from an order (describing it)) entered in this action on the _____ day of _____, 20_____.

(s) _____

Attorney for _____

Address: _____

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. See Rule 3(c) for permissible ways of identifying appellants.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3- Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Form 2

Form 2 Notice of Appeal to a Court of Appeals From a Decision of the United States Tax Court

UNITED STATES TAX COURT
Washington, D.C.

A. B., Petitioner v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Respondent	)))	Docket No. _____

Notice of Appeal

Notice is hereby given that _____ (here name all parties taking the appeal)2)_and_footnotes(n1);.vk n* hereby appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the _____ Circuit from (that part of) the decision of this court entered in the above captioned proceeding on the _____ day of _____, 20_____ (relating to _____).

(s) _____

Counsel for _____

Address: _____

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. See Rule 3(c) for permissible ways of identifying appellants.

60 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3- Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Form 3

Form 3 Petition for Review of Order of an Agency, Board, Commission or Officer

United States Court of Appeals for the _____ Circuit

A. B., Petitioner	)
v.	)
	)	Petition for Review
XYZ Commission, Respondent	)
	)
	)

_____ (here name all parties bringing the petition)3)_and_footnotes(n1);.vk n* hereby petition the court for review of the Order of the XYZ Commission (describe the order) entered on _____, 20_____.

(s) _____

Attorney for Petitioners

Address: _____

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. See Rule 15.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3- Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Form 4

Form 4 Affidavit Accompanying Motion for Permission to Appeal In Forma Pauperis

United States District Court for the _____ District of _____

A.B., Plaintiff	)
v.	)	Case No. _____
C.D., Defendant	)
	)
	)

Affidavit in Support of Motion	Instructions
I swear or affirm under penalty of perjury that, because of my poverty, I cannot prepay the docket fees of my appeal or post a bond for them. I believe I am entitled to redress. I swear or affirm under penalty of perjury under United States laws that my answers on this form are true and correct. (28 U.S.C. § 1746; 18 U.S.C. § 1621.)	Complete all questions in this application and then sign it. Do not leave any blanks: if the answer to a question is "O," "none," or "not applicable (N/A)," write in that response. If you need more space to answer a question or to explain your answer, attach a separate sheet of paper identified with your name, your case's docket number, and the question number.
Signed: _____	Date: _____

My issues on appeal are:

1. For both you and your spouse estimate the average amount of money received from each of the following sources during the past 12 months. Adjust any amount that was received weekly, biweekly, quarterly, semiannually, or annually to show the monthly rate. Use gross amounts, that is, amounts before any deductions for taxes or otherwise.

Income source	Average monthly amount during the past 12 months		Amount expected next month
	You	Spouse	You	Spouse
Employment	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Self-employment	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Income from real property (such as rental income)	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Interest and dividends	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Gifts	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Alimony	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Child support	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Retirement (such as social security, pensions, annuities, insurance)	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Disability (such as social security, insurance payments)	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Unemployment payments	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Public-assistance (such as welfare)	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Other (specify): _____	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____
Total monthly income:	$_____	$_____	$_____	$_____

2. List your employment history for the past two years, most recent employer first. (Gross monthly pay is before taxes or other deductions.)

Employer	Address	Date of employment	Gross monthly pay
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

3. List your spouse's employment history for the past two years, most recent employer first. (Gross monthly pay is before taxes or other deductions.)

Employer	Address	Date of employment	Gross monthly pay
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

4. How much cash do you and your spouse have? $_____

Below, state any money you or your spouse have in bank accounts or in any other financial institution.

Financial Institution	Type of account	Amount you have	Amount your spouse has
_____	_____	$_____	$_____
_____	_____	$_____	$_____
_____	_____	$_____	$_____

If you are a prisoner seeking to appeal a judgment in a civil action or proceeding, you must attach a statement certified by the appropriate institutional officer showing all receipts, expenditures, and balances during the last six months in your institutional accounts. If you have multiple accounts, perhaps because you have been in multiple institutions, attach one certified statement of each account.

5. List the assets, and their values, which you own or your spouse owns. Do not list clothing and ordinary household furnishings.

Home .....(Value)	Other real estate .....(Value)	Motor vehicle #1 .....(Value)
_____	_____	Make & year:

		_____
_____	_____	Model: _____
_____	_____	Registration #: _____

Motor vehicle #2 .....(Value)	Other assets .....(Value)	Other assets .....(Value)
Make & Year: _____	_____	_____
Model:_____	_____	_____
Registration #: _____	_____	_____

6. State every person, business, or organization owing you or your spouse money, and the amount owed.

Person owing you or your spouse money	Amount owed to you	Amount owed to your spouse
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

7. State the persons who rely on you or your spouse for support.

Name [or, if under 18, initials only]	Relationship	Age
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

8. Estimate the average monthly expenses of you and your family. Show separately the amounts paid by your spouse. Adjust any payments that are made weekly, biweekly, quarterly, semiannually, or annually to show the monthly rate.

	You	Your spouse
Rent or home-mortgage payment (include lot rented for mobile home)	$_____	$_____

Are real estate taxes included? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Is property insurance included? ☐ Yes ☐ No

Utilities (electricity, heating fuel, water, sewer, and telephone)	$_____	$_____
Home maintenance (repairs and upkeep)	$_____	$_____
Food	$_____	$_____
Clothing	$_____	$_____
Laundry and dry-cleaning	$_____	$_____
Medical and dental expenses	$_____	$_____
Transportation (not including motor vehicle payments)	$_____	$_____
Recreation, entertainment, newspapers, magazines, etc.	$_____	$_____
Insurance (not deducted from wages or included in mortgage payments)	$_____	$_____
Homeowner's or renter's	$_____	$_____
Life	$_____	$_____
Health	$_____	$_____
Motor Vehicle	$_____	$_____
Other: _____	$_____	$_____
Taxes (not deducted from wages or included in mortgage payments) (specify):_____	$_____	$_____
Installment payments	$_____	$_____
Motor Vehicle	$_____	$_____
Credit card (name): _____	$_____	$_____
Department store (name): _____	$_____	$_____
Other: _____	$_____	$_____

Alimony, maintenance, and support paid to others	$_____	$_____
Regular expenses for operation of business, profession, or farm (attach detailed statement)	$_____	$_____
Other (specify): _____	$_____	$_____
Total monthly expenses:	$_____	$_____

9. Do you expect any major changes to your monthly income or expenses or in your assets or liabilities during the next 12 months?

☐ Yes ☐ No If yes, describe on an attached sheet.

10. Have you paid--or will you be paying--an attorney any money for services in connection with this case, including the completion of this form?

☐ Yes ☐ No

If yes, how much? $_____

If yes, state the attorney's name, address, and telephone number:

_____

_____

_____

11. Have you paid--or will you be paying--anyone other than an attorney (such as a paralegal or a typist) any money for services in connection with this case, including the completion of this form?

☐ Yes ☐ No

If yes, how much? $_____

If yes, state the person's name, address, and telephone number:

_____

_____

_____

12. Provide any other information that will help explain why you cannot pay the docket fees for your appeal.

13. State the city and state of your legal residence.

Your daytime phone number: (_____) _____

Your age:_____ Your years of schooling: _____

Your social-security number: _____

62 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3- Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Form 5

Form 5 Notice of Appeal to a Court of Appeals from a Judgment or Order of a District Court or a Bankruptcy Appellate Panel

United States District Court for the _____ District of _____

In re	)
_____,	)
Debtor	)	File No. _____
_____, Plaintiff	)
v. _____, Defendant	)
	)
	)

Notice of Appeal to United States Court of Appeals for the _____ Circuit

_____, the plaintiff [or defendant or other party] appeals to the United States Court of Appeals for the _____ Circuit from the final judgment [or order or decree] of the district court for the district of _____ [or bankruptcy appellate panel of the _____ circuit], entered in this case on _____, 20_____ [here describe the judgment, order, or decree] _____.

The parties to the judgment [or order or decree] appealed from and the names and addresses of their respective attorneys are as follows:

Dated _____

Signed _____

Attorney for Appellant

Address: _____

_____

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 28: FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE
APPENDIX OF FORMS, FEDERAL RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

3- Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Form 6

Form 6 Certificate of Compliance With Rule 32(a)

Certificate of Compliance With Type-Volume Limitation, Typeface Requirements, and Type Style Requirements

1. This brief complies with the type-volume limitation of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(B) because:

☐ this brief contains [state the number of] words, excluding the parts of the brief exempted by Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(B)(iii), or

☐ this brief uses a monospaced typeface and contains [state the number of] lines of text, excluding the parts of the brief exempted by Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(7)(B)(iii).

2. This brief complies with the typeface requirements of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(5) and the type style requirements of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(6) because:

☐ this brief has been prepared in a proportionally spaced typeface using [state name and version of word processing program] in [state font size and name of type style], or

☐ this brief has been prepared in a monospaced typeface using [state name and version of word processing program] with [state number of characters per inch and name of type style].

(s) _____

Attorney for _____

Dated: _____

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
1 SPECIAL ALERT FOR CHAPTER 29 AND APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29

3-1 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure Scope

Scope

Editor's Note:
On January 12, 2010, the United States Supreme Court ordered the revision of the Supreme Court Rules, effective February 16, 2010. The revised rules govern all proceedings in cases commenced on or after February 16 and, to the extent feasible and just, cases then pending. Set forth below are the amended rules with new matter boldfaced and matter to be omitted lined through. For more information, visit www.supremecourtus.gov. These changes will be fully incorporated into the text of Moore's Manual: Federal Practice and Procedure in Release 90.

REVISIONS TO RULES OF THE
SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES ADOPTED January 12, 2010 EFFECTIVE February 16, 2010
The Clerk's Comments that accompany the revisions to the Rules are not part of the Rules. They are furnished solely to assist readers in understanding the revisions.

Revised Rule 25. Briefs on the Merits: Number of Copies and Time to File

1.

1. The petitioner or appellant shall file 40 copies of the brief on the merits within 45 days of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction. Any respondent or appellee who supports the petitioner or appellant shall meet the petitioner's or appellant's time schedule for filing documents.

2. The respondent or appellee shall file 40 copies of the brief on the merits within 30 days after the brief for the petitioner or appellant is filed.

3. The petitioner or appellant shall file 40 copies of the reply brief, if any, within 30 days after the brief for the respondent or appellee is filed, but any reply brief must actually be received by the Clerk not later than 2 p.m. one week before the date of oral argument. Any respondent or appellee supporting the petitioner or appellant may file a reply brief.

4. If cross-petitions or cross-appeals have been consolidated for argument, the Clerk, upon request of the parties, may designate one of the parties to file an initial brief and reply brief as provided in paragraphs 1 and 3 of this Rule (as if the party were petitioner or appellant), and may designate the other party to file an initial brief as provided in paragraph 2 of this Rule and, to the extent appropriate, a supplemental brief following the submission of the reply brief. In such a case, the Clerk may establish the time for the submission of the briefs and alter the otherwise applicable word limits. Except as approved by the Court or a Justice, the total number of words permitted for the briefs of the parties cumulatively shall not exceed the maximum that would have been allowed in the absence of an order under this paragraph.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [4.] 5. The time periods stated in paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of this Rule may be extended as provided in Rule 30. An application to extend the time to file a brief on the merits is not favored. If a case is advanced for hearing, the time to file briefs on the merits may be abridged as circumstances require pursuant to an order of the Court on its own motion or that of a party.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [5.] 6. A party wishing to present late authorities, newly enacted legislation, or other intervening matter that was not available in time to be included in a brief may file 40 copies of a supplemental brief, restricted to such new matter and otherwise presented in conformity with these Rules, up to the time the case is called for oral argument or by leave of the Court thereafter.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [6.] 7. After a case has been argued or submitted, the Clerk will not file any brief, except that of a party filed by leave of the Court.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [7.] 8. The Clerk will not file any brief that is not accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [8.] 9. An electronic version of every brief on the merits shall be transmitted to the Clerk of Court and to opposing counsel of record at the time the brief is filed in accordance with guidelines established by the Clerk. The electronic transmission requirement is in addition to the requirement that booklet-format briefs be timely filed.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: The Revised Rule allows for the adoption of a briefing schedule for consolidated cross-petitions or cross-appeals (whether or not they were filed under Rule 12.5 or Rule 18.4) using a four-brief format like the briefing structure set out in Rule 28.1 of the Federal Rules of

Appellate Procedure. The Rule also allows the briefing schedule to be approved by the Clerk without need for a motion to the Court. The total number of words contained in the four briefs filed under this paragraph cannot exceed the total number of words that otherwise would have been allowed under Rule 33.1(g)--i.e., if both sides were to file opening briefs, responses, and replies--unless approved by the Court or a Justice.]

Revised Rule 26. Joint Appendix

1. Unless the Clerk has allowed the parties to use the deferred method described in paragraph 4 of this Rule, the petitioner or appellant, within 45 days after entry of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction, shall file 40 copies of a joint appendix, prepared as required by Rule 33.1. The joint appendix shall contain: (1) the relevant docket entries in all the courts below; (2) any relevant pleadings, jury instructions, findings, conclusions, or opinions; (3) the judgment, order, or decision under review; and (4) any other parts of the record that the parties particularly wish to bring to the Court's attention. Any of the foregoing items already reproduced in a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, brief in opposition to a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion to dismiss or affirm, or any appendix to the foregoing, that was prepared as required by Rule 33.1, need not be reproduced again in the joint appendix. The petitioner or appellant shall serve three copies of the joint appendix on each of the other parties to the proceeding as required by Rule 29.

2. The parties are encouraged to agree on the contents of the joint appendix. In the absence of agreement, the petitioner or appellant, within 10 days after entry of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction, shall serve on the respondent or appellee a designation of parts of the record to be included in the joint appendix. Within 10 days after receiving the designation, a respondent or appellee who considers the parts of the record so designated insufficient shall serve on the petitioner or appellant a designation of additional parts to be included in the joint appendix, and the petitioner or appellant shall include the parts so designated. If the Court has permitted the respondent or appellee to proceed in forma pauperis, the petitioner or appellant may seek by motion to be excused from printing portions of the record the petitioner or appellant considers unnecessary. In making these designations, counsel should include only those materials the Court should examine; unnecessary designations should be avoided. The record is on file with the Clerk and available to the Justices, and counsel may refer in briefs and in oral argument to relevant portions of the record not included in the joint appendix.

3. When the joint appendix is filed, the petitioner or appellant immediately shall file with the Clerk a statement of the cost of printing 50 copies and shall serve a copy of the statement on each of the other parties as required by Rule 29. Unless the parties agree otherwise, the cost of producing the joint appendix shall be paid initially by the petitioner or appellant; but a petitioner or appellant who considers that parts of the record designated by the respondent or appellee are unnecessary for the determination of the issues presented may so advise the respondent or appellee, who then shall advance the cost of printing the additional parts, unless the Court or a Justice otherwise fixes the initial allocation of the costs. The cost of printing the joint appendix is taxed as a cost in the case, but if a party unnecessarily causes matter to be included in the joint appendix or prints excessive copies, the Court may impose these costs on that party.

4.

(a) On the parties' request, the Clerk may allow preparation of the joint appendix to be deferred until after the briefs

have been filed. In that event, the petitioner or appellant shall file the joint appendix no more than 14 days after receiving the brief for the respondent or appellee. The provisions of paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of this Rule shall be followed, except that the designations referred to therein shall be made by each party when that party's brief is served. Deferral of the joint appendix is not favored.

(b) If the deferred method is used, the briefs on the merits may refer to the pages of the record. In that event, the joint appendix shall include in brackets on each page thereof the page number of the record where that material may be found. A party wishing to refer directly to the pages of the joint appendix may serve and file copies of its brief prepared as required by Rule 33.2 within the time provided by Rule 25, with appropriate references to the pages of the record. In that event, within 10 days after the joint appendix is filed, copies of the brief prepared as required by Rule 33.1 containing references to the pages of the joint appendix in place of, or in addition to, the initial references to the pages of the record, shall be served and filed. No other change may be made in the brief as initially served and filed, except that typographical errors may be corrected.

5. The joint appendix shall be prefaced by a table of contents showing the parts of the record that it contains, in the order in which the parts are set out, with references to the pages of the joint appendix at which each part begins. The relevant docket entries shall be set out after the table of contents, followed by the other parts of the record in chronological order. When testimony contained in the reporter's transcript of proceedings is set out in the joint appendix, the page of the transcript at which the testimony appears shall be indicated in brackets immediately before the statement that is set out. Omissions in the transcript or in any other document printed in the joint appendix shall be indicated by asterisks. Immaterial formal matters (e. g., captions, subscriptions, acknowledgments) shall be omitted. A question and its answer may be contained in a single paragraph.

6. Two lines must appear at the bottom of the cover of the joint appendix: (1) The first line must indicate the date the petition for the writ of certiorari was filed or the date the appeal was docketed; (2) the second line must indicate the date certiorari was granted or the date jurisdiction of the appeal was noted or postponed.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [6.] 7. Exhibits designated for inclusion in the joint appendix may be contained in a separate volume or volumes suitably indexed. The transcript of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer used in an action in a district court or court of appeals is regarded as an exhibit for the purposes of this paragraph.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [7.] 8. The Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may dispense with the requirement of a joint appendix and may permit a case to be heard on the original record (with such copies of the record, or relevant parts thereof, as the Court may require) or on the appendix used in the court below, if it conforms to the requirements of this Rule.

The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [8.] 9. For good cause, the time limits specified in this Rule may be shortened or extended by the Court or a Justice, or by the Clerk under Rule 30.4.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: The Revised Rule incorporates into the Rule instructions provided separately by the Clerk's Office.]

Revised Rule 33.1

(g) Word limits and cover colors for booklet-format documents are as follows:

Type of Document	Word Limits	Color of Cover
(vii) Reply Brief on the Merits (Rule 24.4)	The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [7,500] 6,000	yellow

[CLERK'S COMMENT: The Revised Rule restores the volume limit in effect for reply briefs on the merits prior to the 2007 Rule revisions. Experience has shown that the increased volume limit has allowed for the filing of some briefs that repeat previous arguments rather than address only new material presented in intervening briefs.]

Revised Rule 34. Document Preparation: General Requirements

Every document, whether prepared under Rule 33.1 or Rule 33.2, shall comply with the following provisions:

1. Each document shall bear on its cover, in the order indicated, from the top of the page:

(a) the docket number of the case or, if there is none, a space for one;

(b) the name of this Court;

(c) the caption of the case as appropriate in this Court;

(d) the nature of the proceeding and the name of the court from which the action is brought (e. g., "On Petition for Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit"; or, for a merits brief, "On Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit");

(e) the title of the document (e. g., "Petition for Writ of Certiorari," "Brief for Respondent," "Joint Appendix");

(f) the name of the attorney who is counsel of record for the party concerned (who must be a member of the Bar of this Court except as provided in Rule 9.1) and on whom service is to be made, with a notation directly thereunder identifying the attorney as counsel of record and setting out counsel's office address, e-mail address, and telephone number. Only one counsel of record may be noted on a single document, except that counsel of record for each party must be listed on the cover of a joint appendix. The names of other members of the Bar of this Court or of the bar of the highest court of State acting as counsel, and, if desired, their addresses, may be added, but counsel of record shall be clearly identified. Names of persons other than attorneys admitted to a state bar may not be listed, unless the party is appearing pro se, in which case the party's name, address, and telephone number shall appear.

(g) The foregoing shall be displayed in an appropriate typographical manner and, except for identification of counsel, may not be set in type smaller than standard 11-point, if the document is prepared as required by Rule 33.1.

2. Every document exceeding five pages (other than a joint appendix), whether prepared under Rule 33.1 or Rule 33.2, shall contain a table of contents and a table of cited authorities (i. e., cases alphabetically arranged, constitutional provisions, statutes, treatises, and other materials) with references to the pages in the document where such authorities are cited.

3. The body of every document shall bear at its close the name of counsel of record and such other counsel, identified on the cover of the document in conformity with subparagraph 1(f) of this Rule, as may be desired.

4. Every appendix to a document must be preceded by a table of contents that provides a description of each document in the appendix.

5. All references to a provision of federal statutory law should ordinarily be cited to the United States Code, if the provision has been codified therein. In the event the provision has not been classified to the United States Code, citation should be to the Statutes at Large. Additional or alternative citations should be provided only if there is a particular reason why those citations are relevant or necessary to the argument.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: For ease of reference, the changes require a descriptive index of appendices and citations to the United States Code, whenever available. The e-mail address of counsel of record is now required on the cover of a document. The requirement for listing counsel on the cover of the joint appendix is clarified.]

Revised Rule 37.1. Brief for an Amicus Curiae

1. An amicus curiae brief that brings to the attention of the Court relevant matter not already brought to its attention by the parties may be of considerable help to the Court. An amicus curiae brief that does not serve this purpose burdens the Court, and its filing is not favored. An amicus curiae brief may be filed only by an attorney admitted to practice before this Court as provided in Rule 5.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: The change incorporates a longstanding practice of the Court into the Rule.]

Revised Rule 37.3(a). Brief for an Amicus Curiae

3.

(a) An amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument may be filed if accompanied by the written consent of all parties, or if the Court grants leave to file under subparagraph 3(b) of this Rule. The brief shall be submitted within 7 days after the brief for the party supported is filed, or if in support of neither party, within 7 days after the time allowed for filing the petitioner's or appellant's brief. Motions to extend the time for filing an amicus curiae brief will not be entertained. The 10-day notice requirement of subparagraph 2(a) of this Rule does not apply to an amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument. An electronic version of every amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument shall be transmitted to the Clerk of Court and to counsel for the parties at the time the brief is filed in accordance with guidelines established by the Clerk. The electronic transmission requirement is in addition to the requirement that booklet-format briefs be timely filed. The amicus curiae brief shall specify whether consent was granted, and its cover shall identify the party supported or indicate whether it suggests affirmance or reversal. The Clerk will not file a reply brief for an amicus curiae, or a brief for an amicus curiae in support of, or in opposition to, a petition for rehearing.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: The changes clarify that as with amicus curiae briefs at the petition stage, a motion to extend the time for filing an amicus curiae brief at the merits stage will not be entertained, and that the notice requirement applies only to petition-stage amicus curiae briefs.]

Revised Rule 42.1. Interest and Damages

1. If a judgment for money in a civil case is affirmed, any interest allowed by law is payable from the date the judgment under review was entered. If a judgment is modified or reversed with a direction that a judgment for money be entered below, The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [the mandate will contain instructions with respect to the allowance of interest] the courts below may award interest to the extent permitted by law. Interest in cases arising in a state court is allowed at the same rate that similar judgments bear interest in the courts of the State in which judgment is directed to be entered. Interest in cases arising in a court of the United States is allowed at the interest rate authorized by law.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: The Revised Rule recognizes that questions of allowance of interest are best left to the lower courts in the first instance.]

Revised Rule 48. Effective Date of Rules

1. These Rules, adopted The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [July 17, 2007] January 12, 2010, will be effective The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [October 1, 2007] February 16, 2010.

2. The Rules govern all proceedings after their effective date except to the extent that, in the opinion of the Court, their application to a pending matter would not be feasible or would work an injustice, in which event the former procedure applies.

3. The material within the following brackets is overstruck in the original. [In any case in which a petition for a writ of certiorari or appeal has been filed before the effective date of these revised Rules, but in which the respondent or appellee has not filed its response prior to that date, all remaining briefs submitted in that case prior to the Court's decision whether to grant review may comply with the May 2, 2005 version of the Rules of the Supreme Court of the United States rather than with these revised Rules. Similarly,]In any case in which a petitioner or appellant has filed its brief on the merits prior to the effective date of these revised Rules, all remaining briefs in that case may comply with the May 2, 2005 October 1, 2007, version of the Rules of the Supreme Court of the United States rather than with these revised Rules.

[CLERK'S COMMENT: A provision specifically applicable to the 2007 Rules changes has been deleted.]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure 29.syn

§ 29.syn Synopsis to Chapter 29: Appeal to Supreme Court

§ 29.01 Supreme Court Jurisdiction

[1] Both Original and Appellate Jurisdiction

[2] Original Jurisdiction

[a] Constitutional and Statutory Basis of Original Jurisdiction

[b] Supreme Court Has Exclusive Original Jurisdiction Over Actions Between Two or More States

[c] Supreme Court's Concurrent Original Jurisdiction Shared With Other Federal Courts

[d] Original Jurisdiction Practice

[i] Leave to File Original Jurisdiction Action

[ii] Procedure in Original Jurisdiction Action

[3] Appellate Jurisdiction

[a] In General

[b] Review of Decisions of Federal Courts of Appeals

[i] Decisions Reviewable

[ii] Writ of Certiorari

[c] Review on Certification of Question by Court of Appeals

[d] Review of Order Granting or Denying Injunction by Three-Judge District Court

[e] Review of State High Court Decisions

[i] Highest State Court Decision on Federal Question

[ii] State Court Decision Must Be Final

[iii] Federal Question Must be Substantial

[f] Review of Decisions of Specialized Courts

[i] Military Courts

[ii] Puerto Rico Supreme Court

§ 29.02 Applicability of Procedural Rules of Supreme Court

§ 29.03 Composition and Function of Supreme Court

[1] Quorum of Supreme Court

[2] Term and Sessions of Supreme Court

[3] Clerk of Supreme Court

[a] Receipt of Filings

[b] Custody of Records

[c] Notification and Supervisory Duties

[d] Clerk's Office Hours

[4] Library

§ 29.04 Practice of Attorneys Before Supreme Court

[1] Admission to Bar of Supreme Court

[a] Application for Admission

[b] Admission Fees

[c] Acceptance for Admission

[2] Argument For One Particular Occasion

[3] Prohibition Against Employee's Practice Before Court

[4] Disbarment and Other Disciplinary Action

[5] Appearance of Attorneys Before Court

§ 29.05 Procedures When Jurisdiction Not Based on Certiorari

[1] Procedure in an Original Action

[a] Rules Applicable to Original Action

[b] Initiation of Original Action in Supreme Court

[c] Response by Adverse Party

[d] Action by Court on Motion for Leave

[2] Procedure for Appeal Direct from United States District Court

[a] Commencement of Appeal

[b] Parties to Appeal

[c] Appellant Required to File Jurisdictional Statement

[i] Time for Filing

[ii] Contents and Notice

[iii] Extension of Time to File Jurisdictional Statement

[d] Cross-Appeal By Appellee

[e] Dismissal of Appeal Before Docketing

[i] Voluntary Dismissal

[ii] Involuntary Dismissal

[f] Appellee's Motion After Docketing to Dismiss or Affirm

[i] Motion by Appellee

[ii] Responsive Brief By Appellant

[g] Clerk's Duty to Distribute Documents

[h] Supplemental Briefs

[i] Duty of District Court Clerk Regarding Record

[j] Action By Supreme Court

[3] Procedure for Certified Question

[a] Certification By Court of Appeals

[b] Certification Procedure in Supreme Court

[4] Procedure on Petition for Extraordinary Writ

[a] Supreme Court's Discretion to Issue Writ

[b] General Requirements for Petition

[c] Petition Seeking Writ of Prohibition or Mandamus

[d] Petition Seeking Writ of Habeas Corpus

[e] Petition Documentation

§ 29.06 Procedures Regarding Writ of Certiorari

[1] Considerations Governing Whether Court Will Grant Writ

[2] Certiorari Before Judgment in United States Court of Appeals

[3] Method of Petitioning for Writ

[a] Filing of Writ

[b] Requirements of All Writs

[c] Multiple Petitioners

[d] Respondent's Cross Petition

[e] Persons Deemed Parties to Petition

[f] Maintenance and Transmission of Record

[4] Time for Petition

[a] Time from Judgment

[b] Late Filing Rejected by Clerk

[c] When Time to File Begins to Run

[d] Time to File Cross Petition

[e] Extension of Time for Good Cause

[5] Requirements of Petition

[a] Contents of Petition

[b] Presentations of Contentions

[c] Limitations on Petition

[d] Clerk's Request that Nonconforming Petition be Corrected

[6] Opposition and Reply Briefs

[a] When Opposition Brief Required

[b] Required Arguments and Waiver

[c] Time for Filing and Format of Opposition Briefs

[d] Clerk's Duty to Distribute Documents

[e] Reply Brief

[7] Disposition of a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari

§ 29.07 Motions and Applications

[1] Motions to Entire Supreme Court

[a] Motion Contents

[b] Motion Format

[c] Filing Motion

[d] Filing Response to Motion

[2] Applications to Individual Justices

[a] Procedure for Making Application

[b] Procedure for Renewal in Event of Denial

[3] Application for Stay

[a] Availability of Stay

[b] Requirements for Application

[c] Requirement of Bond

§ 29.08 Brief on Merits

[1] General Requirements of Brief

[a] Required Contents of Brief for Petitioner or Appellant

[b] Required Contents of Brief for Respondent or Appellee

[c] Required Contents of Reply Brief

[d] Limitations

[e] Cross references

[f] Striking of Inappropriate Material

[2] Timely Filing of Required Number of Copies

[a] Time for Filing by Petitioner or Appellant or Parties in Support

[b] Time for Filing by Respondent or Appellee

[c] Time for Filing Reply

[d] Extensions of Time

[e] Supplemental Brief

[f] Refusal of Filings by Clerk

[g] Electronic Submission of All Briefs on Merits

[h] Brief in Cross-Petition or Cross-Appeal

[3] Filing of Joint Appendix

[a] Requirement of Joint Appendix

[b] Contents of Joint Appendix

[c] Designation in Absence of Agreement

[d] Costs

[e] Deferred Method of Filing

[f] Preface of Joint Appendix

[g] Exhibits

[h] Indication of Dates on Cover

§ 29.09 Calendar and Oral Argument

[1] Calendar

[2] Oral Argument

[a] Nature of Oral Argument

[b] Order of Oral Argument

[c] Oral Argument by Attorney for Amicus Curiae

§ 29.10 General Supreme Court Practice and Procedures

[1] Filing, Service, and Notice

[a] Filing of Documents

[b] Service of Documents

[i] In General

[ii] Service on United States Entity

[iii] Service in Case Involving Constitutionality of Act of Congress

[iv] Service in Case Involving Constitutionality of Statute of State

[c] Proof Service of Documents

[d] Corporate Disclosure Statement

[2] Computation and Extension of Time

[a] Computation of Time

[b] Application for Extension of Time

[c] General Format of Application

[d] Certain Applications Must be Submitted to Individual Justice

[3] Translations

[4] Demonstrative Evidence and Material Provided for Inspection of Court

[5] Document Formats

[a] General Requirement that Documents Conform to Booklet Format

[i] Required Booklet

[ii] Text of Booklet

[iii] Paper and Binding

[iv] Word Count Limitation

[v] Cover Specifications

[vi] Number of Copies

[vii] Color of Cover

[viii] Certification of Compliance With Word Limits

[b] Filing of Paper Format Document

[i] Text of 8 1/2 by 11-Inch Paper Format

[ii] Page Limits

[6] Requirements For Both Document Formats

[a] Items Listed on Cover

[b] Table of Contents and Table of Authorities

[c] Body of Document

[d] Table of Contents of Appendices

[e] Citation to Federal Statutory Law

[7] Substitution

[a] Substitution of Parties

[b] Prohibition Against Revival in Lower Court

[c] Public Officer Who Ceases to Hold Office

[8] Habeas Corpus Proceedings

[a] Transfer of Prisoner

[b] Enlargement of Prisoner Pending Review of Order Regarding Release

[c] Enlargement of Prisoner Pending Review of Initial Order

[9] Brief for Amicus Curiae

[a] Nature of Amicus Curiae Brief

[b] Amicus Curiae Brief Submitted Before Consideration of Issue by Court

[c] Amicus Curiae Brief Submitted on Oral Argument

[d] Amicus Curiae Brief Filed on Behalf of Public Entity

[e] Requirements for Amicus Curiae Brief

[f] Identification of Author of Amicus Curiae Brief

[10] Fees

[11] Proceedings in Forma Pauperis

[a] Motion to Proceed in Forma Pauperis

[b] Motion to File Document in Forma Pauperis

[c] Documents Prepared by Party Proceeding in Forma Pauperis

[d] No Fee Required

[e] Response to Party Proceeding in Forma Pauperis

[f] Document Preparation by Counsel for Indigent Party

[g] Appointment of Counsel

[h] Sanctions for Filing Frivolous or Malicious Petition

[12] Cases Involving Veterans, Seamen, and Military

§ 29.11 Court's Disposition of Cases

[1] Supreme Court Opinions

[2] Interest and Damages

[a] Interest

[b] Damages

[3] Costs

[a] Party Required to Pay Costs

[b] Taxable Costs

[c] Costs For or Against United States

[d] Costs Included in Mandate

[4] Rehearing

[a] Petition for Rehearing of Judgment or Decision on Merits

[b] Petition for Rehearing of Denial of Petition for Writ

[c] Clerk Screens for Prohibited Petitions

[5] Process and Mandate

[6] Dismissal of Case

[a] Dismissal on Agreement of Parties

[b] Motion to Dismiss by Petitioner or Appellant

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.01

§ 29.01 Supreme Court Jurisdiction

[1] Both Original and Appellate Jurisdiction

Article III of the Constitution gives the United States Supreme Court both original and appellate jurisdiction. n1 "Original jurisdiction" is the authority of a court to act as a trial court and to hear and adjudicate claims for relief by considering testimony and evidence in an original action. n2 By contrast, "appellate jurisdiction" means the authority of a court to review the judgment of another court which has decided a claim for relief as a trial court, or to review the judgment made by a lower appellate court. n3 In exercising its original and appellate jurisdiction in civil cases, the Court is bound by the Seventh Amendment, which requires the court to recognize the parties' right to a jury trial in civil common law actions. n4 Additionally, the Eleventh Amendment prohibition against certain suits against an individual state, n4.1 and the underlying principles, sovereign immunity and justiciability, limit the scope of the Court's original and appellate jurisdiction. n5 The Supreme Court's original jurisdiction is explicit in the Constitution, n6 while the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court is subject to exceptions and regulations made by Congress. n6.1

[2] Original Jurisdiction n*

[a] Constitutional and Statutory Basis of Original Jurisdiction

As specified in the Constitution, the United States Supreme Court has the power in certain circumstances to act as a trial court and to hear and decide claims for relief and defenses against such claims; in other words, it has original jurisdiction. n7 The Constitution gives the Supreme Court original jurisdiction over two types of cases: the first type is cases that affect ambassadors and other representatives of foreign states. The second type consists of cases in which one of the United States is a party. n8 Neither of these constitutional grants is exclusive; however, by statute, Congress has given the Supreme Court exclusive original jurisdiction over controversies between two or more states. n9 Also by statute, Congress has given the Supreme Court original jurisdiction concurrent with the district courts over actions to which ambassadors, other public ministers, consuls, and vice consuls of foreign states are parties, n10 controversies between the United States and a state, n11 and actions by a state against the citizens of another state or against aliens. n12

While Article III expressly states that Congress can regulate the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction, Congress cannot restrict the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction. n13 Article III's grant of original jurisdiction to the Supreme Court is self-executing, which means that the Supreme Court does not need Congress's approval to exercise such jurisdiction. n14 Congress has the option, however, to give concurrent original jurisdiction to other courts. n14.1

The Supreme Court has held that its original jurisdiction is limited to civil actions and not criminal proceedings. n15 The Court has stated that it will not exercise original jurisdiction in such cases because of their local nature and because it is inappropriate for one jurisdiction to enforce another's criminal law. n16 The exclusion of criminal cases from the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction includes any case in which a state is seeking to recover a penalty for an offense against its own laws. In one case, for example, the Court would not decide an original action to compel the defendant to pay to the state of Wisconsin a sum of money in satisfaction of the judgment for a fine imposed under Wisconsin law. n17

[b] Supreme Court Has Exclusive Original Jurisdiction Over Actions Between Two or More States

Although Congress may not limit the Supreme Court's jurisdiction over actions between states, the exclusivity of the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction is a matter subject to Congressional control; Congress has the power to give the lower federal courts concurrent jurisdiction over such actions. However, Congress has declined to do so, and the current statute gives the Supreme Court original and exclusive jurisdiction over all controversies between two or more states. n17.1 In addition, the Court has stated that because of the nature of such disputes, litigation between states should be within the Supreme Court's exclusive jurisdiction. n18 The Court has held that a state's express consent is not a prerequisite for its being sued by another state or other states; the states are deemed to have consented to such suits by ratifying the Constitution. n19 The Supreme Court has also noted that the states' ability to file suits against each other in court is an essential element of American federalism because states cannot resort to force for the redress of any grievance. Many of the early cases between states involved disputes over state boundaries. n20 However, the Court has exercised its original jurisdiction in many types of state versus state controversies, including pollution control n21 and interstate tax issues. n22

The Supreme Court is not obligated to hear every state versus state action, because its exercise of original jurisdiction is discretionary, not mandatory. n23 The Court has stated that it believes its original jurisdiction should be invoked sparingly, n24 and in determining whether a state versus state case is an appropriate instance for the exercise of its original jurisdiction, the Court considers two factors: first, the nature and seriousness of the interest of the complaining state, and second, the availability of an alternative forum in which the issue tendered could be resolved. n25 For example, when the state of Wyoming made a commerce clause challenge to Oklahoma legislation which required that Oklahoma coal-fired electric generating plants producing power for sale in Oklahoma burn a mixture of coal containing at least 10 percent Oklahoma mined coal, the case was an appropriate one for the exercise of the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction because the case implicated serious and important concerns of federalism, Wyoming had a significant interest at issue, and there was no pending action to which the adjudication could be deferred. n26

Under the exclusive jurisdiction statute, n27 a political subdivision of a state does not constitute a "state" and therefore, the case is not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States Supreme Court. n28 This principle also applies to state officials. Thus, a controversy between one state and the governor of another state, challenging the creation of a regional airport authority by one city in each state, did not present a controversy between two states that was within exclusive jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. n29

[c] Supreme Court's Concurrent Original Jurisdiction Shared With Other Federal Courts

By statute, the Supreme Court has original but not exclusive jurisdiction of the following three types of actions:

1. All actions or proceedings to which ambassadors, other public ministers, consuls, or vice consuls of foreign states are parties. n30 The Supreme Court's jurisdiction is concurrent because, by statute, the district courts have original jurisdiction exclusive of the courts of the states over civil actions commenced against (1) consuls or vice consuls of foreign states, (2) members of a diplomatic mission, or (3) family members of persons serving in a diplomatic mission. n31 The Supreme Court has only rarely invoked its original jurisdiction over actions involving ambassadors and other representatives of foreign states, because of the immunity given to most ambassadors and other diplomatic personnel. The Court almost always rejects attempts to invoke this aspect of its original jurisdiction. n32

2. All controversies between the United States and a state. n33 Another statute also gives federal district courts original jurisdiction of all civil actions, suits or proceedings commenced by the United States, n34 and it has been held that this statute applies to all justiciable actions brought by the United States against a state. n35 The Supreme Court's jurisdiction is original whenever a State is a party. n35.1 Furthermore, a state's consent is not a prerequisite for such an action, because the states implicitly consented to such suits by ratifying the Constitution. n36

3. All actions by a state against the citizens of another state or against citizens of a foreign state. n37 However, Congress has passed no statute that gives similar jurisdiction to other federal courts. Therefore, the Supreme Court effectively has exclusive jurisdiction over such actions. n38

[d] Original Jurisdiction Practice

[i] Leave to File Original Jurisdiction Action

The Supreme Court has stated that due to the serious and important character of its original jurisdiction, it interprets Article III of the United States Constitution and the original jurisdiction statute as giving it substantial discretion to make case-by-case judgments as to the practical necessity of providing an original forum in the Supreme Court. n39 Because the Court's exercise of original jurisdiction is discretionary, a pleading that invokes the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction must be preceded by a motion for leave to file an original action in the Supreme Court. n40 This motion is known as a motion for leave to file a bill of complaint, n41 and the Court has explained that it serves the important gatekeeping function of allowing the Court to maintain control over the cases it hears under its original jurisdiction. n42

A party that is filing a motion for leave to file a bill of complaint to invoke original jurisdiction in the Supreme Court may, but is not required to, file a brief in support of the motion for leave to file the action. n43 Persons opposing the motion may also file briefs in opposition to the motion. n44 The party filing a motion for leave to file a bill of complaint must file 40 copies of the motion, and any brief in support of the motion. The motion and brief, if any, must be served either personally or by mail. n45 When the opposition party is one of the United States, the motion and brief must be served on both the governor and the attorney general of that state. n46 If the United States is a party, service must be made on the Solicitor General or attorney general, as appropriate. n47 Proof of service must be included with the motion and brief, if any. n47.1 For a further discussion of filing and service of documents under Supreme Court Rule 29, see § 29.10[1].

When the motion for leave to file and the initial pleading are filed with the clerk, the clerk will place the prospective original jurisdiction action on the Court's docket. n48 The opposition party has up to 60 days in which to file 40 copies of its brief in opposition to the motion, and must include proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n49 The Supreme Court Clerk must distribute the motion and accompanying briefs to the members of the Court at the earliest of the following: no less than 10 days after the opposing parties have filed a brief in opposition, when the clerk receives an express waiver from all opposing parties of their right to file a brief in opposition or, if no waiver of the right to file an opposing brief is filed, on the expiration of the time allowed for filing a brief in opposition to the motion. n50 The party requesting leave to file the original action may file a reply brief, but the Court will not defer consideration of the matter pending its filing. n51

After it considers the filings, the Supreme Court may either grant or deny the motion for leave to file the bill of complaint, n52 set the motion for oral argument, n53 direct that additional documents be filed, or order that other proceedings be conducted. n54 If the Court denies a party's motion for leave to file a bill of complaint, the party may seek reconsideration of the denial. n55 A party may also file a renewed motion for leave to file the bill of complaint, n56 or in proper circumstances other proper parties may file a motion for leave. n56.1 If the Court grants leave and the movant files an original action with the Court, the party may voluntarily dismiss the action without obtaining leave from the Court if all the parties file an agreement to that effect with the Supreme Court Clerk; the agreement must specify the terms for payment of costs and the parties must pay the costs as specified to the Court Clerk. n57 For a complete discussion of procedures under Supreme Court Rule 17, see § 29.05.

[ii] Procedure in Original Jurisdiction Action

The rules of procedure and evidence that the Supreme Court uses in an action brought under the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction are set forth in Supreme Court Rule 17. n58 In original jurisdiction actions, the general form of pleadings and motions prescribed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure is followed by the Supreme Court. For other procedural matters, the Supreme Court takes the other Federal Rules of Civil Procedure as guides. Additionally, for evidentiary matters, the Supreme Court uses the Federal Rules of Evidence as guides for trials under the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction. n59 Thus, all pleadings in a Supreme Court original jurisdiction trial must conform to Federal Rules 7 through 11. Because the Supreme Court takes the remainder of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and all of the Federal Rules of Evidence as guides, the Court is not technically bound by those rules, but may utilize them in a manner appropriate for the particular original jurisdiction trial. For example, the Court has used Rule 56 to apply the principle that summary judgment is appropriate when there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. n60 In another example, the Court has stated that the concern for liberal amendment of the pleadings pervasive in the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15 n61 does not suit cases within the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction. The need for a more strict standard regarding amendment of pleadings follows from the Court's traditional reluctance to exercise original jurisdiction in any but serious circumstances even when the Court's jurisdiction is exclusive, as in cases between two or more states. Consequently, the Court has a requirement that requested pleading amendments are to be scrutinized closely to see whether they would take the litigation beyond what the Court reasonably anticipated when it granted leave to file the initial pleadings. n62

There is also another important difference between the process of instituting an action in a federal district court under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and one in the Supreme Court pursuant to its original jurisdiction. Because, the Supreme Court's exercise of its original jurisdiction is discretionary, and not mandatory, the Court requires that an initial pleading filed to invoke an original action be preceded by a motion for leave to file, which may be accompanied by a brief in support of the motion. n63

During the trial of an action, the Court itself does not sit as a trial court but appoints a master n64 who conducts the fact-finding process, n65 employing the procedure authorized by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. n66 The Supreme Court will appoint a master with authority to establish the time and conditions for the filing of additional pleadings, to direct subsequent proceedings, and to summon witnesses, issue subpoenas, and take evidence that the litigants may introduce. The master is directed to submit any reports he or she may deem appropriate. n67

The parties to the original proceeding may assert legal or factual exceptions to the report submitted by the master. n68 The Court may accept or reject those exceptions, just as the Court may adopt or reject all or part of a master's report. n69 Before it makes its final order, the Court may also remand an action to a master for further proceedings. n70

In its adjudication of an original jurisdiction trial the law that the Supreme Court will apply depends on the nature of the action. If the claim between two or more states is a matter that may not be heard by a state court, the Court may not utilize the law applied by any of the states that are parties to the litigation, because that application may give unfair advantage to that state. However, the nature of these types of disputes also makes it unlikely that the Court will be able to rely on the provisions of the Constitution or on a federal statute. Consequently, in this situation the Court will typically apply federal common law, also referred to as interstate federal common law. n71 This is a flexible principle, however, and although interstate federal common law applies in such cases, the Court has discretion to consider any state standards that may be appropriate and relevant in deciding a specific claim. n71.1 In cases affecting ambassadors and other representatives of foreign governments, the Court will also apply federal, state, and international law, as it deems appropriate. n72

[3] Appellate Jurisdiction

[a] In General n*

Because it limits its original jurisdiction to relatively few serious disputes, n73 the Supreme Court typically functions as a court of appellate review, n73.1 which means that the Court is exercising its authority to review the judgment of another court which has decided a claim for relief as a trial court, or to review the judgment made by a lower appellate court. n73.2 The Court's appellate jurisdiction is specified in Article III of the U.S. Constitution, which prescribes the general limitations of federal judicial power. Under the first clause of Article III, Section 2, the federal judicial power is defined as extending to all of the following cases: n74

1. Cases in law and equity, arising under the Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made under authority of the Constitution or such laws.

2. Cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls.

3. Cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction.

4. Cases to which the United States is a party.

5. Cases between two or more states; between a state and citizens of another state; between citizens of different states; between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states; and between a state, or the citizens of a state, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.

The second clause of Article III, Section 2, allocates this power to the Supreme Court, giving it original jurisdiction over cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and cases in which a state is a party, n75 and appellate jurisdiction over all of the other cases in the first clause of Section 2 that are listed above. n76 The second clause is not an independent grant of jurisdiction; it merely distributes the power conferred by the first clause. n77

The second clause of Article III, Section 2, also includes two provisions that qualify its grant of appellate jurisdiction. One provision states that the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction exists both with respect to law and to fact; the other provision states that appellate jurisdiction exists with any exceptions and under any regulations that may be made by Congress. n78 Unlike the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction, n79 its appellate jurisdiction is not limited to civil actions, but includes the power to hear appeals in both civil and criminal cases. n80

Under the statutory scheme of the United States Code, Congress has specified the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction in a series of discrete statutes, all of which are codified in Title 28 of the Code. One of the Supreme Court's primary responsibilities is to exercise the authority given by Congress to review decisions of the federal courts of appeals, n80.1 whether entered in a civil or criminal case. n81 The Court has absolute discretion to review such a decision, and consequently, a litigant must seek a writ of certiorari from the Court to obtain review. n82 The statute also gives the Court jurisdiction over questions of law which a federal court of appeals certifies for Supreme Court review. n83 A certified question may arise in either a civil or criminal case. The certification procedure provides courts of appeals an opportunity to obtain instructions from the Supreme Court for the proper decision of cases pending before them. n84

Like review pursuant to a writ of certiorari, the Court's review of a certified question is discretionary, not mandatory. The Supreme Court has stated that certification must be reserved for exceptional cases when certification may be advisable in the proper administration and expedition of judicial business, for example, when the pendency of another case before the Court raises the same issue. n85

The Supreme Court also has jurisdiction to review an order granting or denying an interlocutory or permanent injunction in any civil action, suit, or proceeding required by any act of Congress to be heard and determined by a district court of three judges. n86 The Supreme Court views its jurisdiction over three-judge decisions narrowly. n87

Another statute gives the Supreme Court the authority to review state court decisions. n88 Under this statute, the Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review certain final judgments or decrees rendered by a state's highest court. Congress substantially revised this statute in 1988, and substituted discretionary review pursuant to a writ of certiorari for provisions that had given the Court mandatory appellate jurisdiction over the highest state court decisions. n89

Lastly, Congress has also given discretionary review to the Supreme Court to review decisions of specialized courts, including review of judgments or decrees rendered by the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, n90 and for review of decisions rendered by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. n91 To obtain review from both of these types of decisions, a litigant must seek a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court. n92

[b] Review of Decisions of Federal Courts of Appeals n*

[i] Decisions Reviewable

Congress has given the Supreme Court jurisdiction to review decisions entered in a civil or criminal case by any of the eleven numbered circuit courts of appeals, the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals and the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. n93 Review of the court of appeals decisions is a matter within the Court's discretion; consequently, a litigant seeking Supreme Court review of such a decision must petition the Supreme Court for review, n94 through the device known as a writ of certiorari. n95 The Supreme Court can grant a writ of certiorari before or after the court of appeals renders its judgment in a case that is before the court of appeals.

The Supreme Court has imposed restrictions on the circumstances under which it will issue a petition for a writ of certiorari to review a case pending in a court of appeals before judgment is entered. Such a petition will be granted only if the litigant shows that the case is of such imperative public importance that it justifies deviation from normal appellate practice, and that it requires immediate determination by the Supreme Court. n96

[ii] Writ of Certiorari

The primary method of obtaining appellate review from the Supreme Court is through a writ of certiorari. The statutory writ of certiorari is created by the jurisdictional statutes that authorize the Supreme Court to use the writ to exercise its discretionary appellate review over certain types of cases. The certiorari procedure is the primary means of seeking review of decisions issued by a federal court of appeals. n97 Thus, the Supreme Court uses certiorari jurisdiction for the principal purpose of resolving conflicts among the circuit courts of appeals regarding the meaning of provisions of federal law. n98

Review under a writ of certiorari is discretionary, not obligatory and will be granted only for compelling reasons. n99 Supreme Court Rule 10 specifies the factors that the Court considers in making a decision, including if the court of appeals: (1) has entered a decision in conflict with the decision of another United States court of appeals on the same important matter; (2) has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with a decision by a state court of last resort; (3) has so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings, or sanctioned such a departure by a lower court, that the decision calls for an exercise of the Supreme Court's supervisory power; n100(4) has decided an important question of federal law that has not been, but should be, settled by the Supreme Court; or (5) has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with relevant decisions of the Supreme Court. n101

The Supreme Court also has authority to issue a "common-law writ of certiorari," which is used to review cases that do not fall within the provisions of the statutes which specifically define its appellate jurisdiction. n102 The Supreme Court derives this power through the All Writs Act, which provides that the Supreme Court may issue all writs necessary or appropriate in aid of its jurisdiction, provided the writ is in agreement with the usages and principles of the law. n103 The Supreme Court has stated that, under the Act, the Court has power, in the aid of its appellate jurisdiction, to review judgments and orders by resort to the common-law writs of certiorari, mandamus, and prohibition, and that the writs may be granted or denied in the sound discretion of the Supreme Court. n104

For a complete discussion of the procedural considerations applicable to the grant or denial of writs of certiorari, see § 29.05.

[c] Review on Certification of Question by Court of Appeals n*

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction over questions of law that a federal court of appeals has certified for Supreme Court review. n105 The Supreme Court may review a certified question whether it arises in a civil case or a criminal case, provided that the appellate court requests instructions from the Supreme Court on how the appellate court is to proceed. n106 Like its review pursuant to a writ of certiorari, n107 the Court's review of a certified question is discretionary. The Supreme Court has stated that it will accept jurisdiction based on certification only in exceptional cases, for example, when the pendency of another case before the Supreme Court raises the same issue, and therefore certification would be advisable in the proper administration and expedition of judicial business. n108 In considering a certified question, the Supreme Court may either give binding instructions to the circuit court, or have the record below transmitted to the Supreme Court, which would then decide the entire matter in controversy. n109

[d] Review of Order Granting or Denying Injunction by Three-Judge District Court n*

The Supreme Court has very restricted jurisdiction to directly review decisions of district courts. It has jurisdiction to review an order granting or denying, after notice and hearing, an interlocutory or permanent injunction in any civil action, suit or proceeding required by any Act of Congress to be heard and determined by a district court of three judges. n110 This type of appeal may be brought by any party to the action. n111 The Supreme Court has construed its jurisdiction over three-judge decisions pursuant to 28 U.S.C.§ 1253 narrowly. n112 The Court has stated that the three-judge-court legislation is not a measure of broad social policy to be construed with great liberality but is rather to be applied in a technical sense. n113

An example of this narrow construction is the Court's interpretation of the Section 1253 provision authorizing direct appeal to the Supreme Court from an order granting or denying an injunction in cases requiring a three-judge district court. The fact that an otherwise qualifying order is issued by a three-judge court does not by itself satisfy the statute. The case must be one that requires a three-judge court. If the court has been improperly convened, its decision is not appealable to the Supreme Court and must be taken to the court of appeals. n114 The Supreme Court has also declined to review the actions of a single judge sitting on a three-judge court n115 and has dismissed an appeal of a temporary restraining order entered by a single judge of a three-judge court on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction. n116

Section 1253 provides for direct, exclusive appeal to the Supreme Court from any order granting or denying any interlocutory or permanent injunction in any action requiring a three-judge court, except as otherwise provided by law. It is clear that Section 1253 governs appeals in actions seeking an injunction under Section 2284, which governs only legislative and congressional reapportionment cases. n117 However, there are several statutes in addition to Section 2284 that independently authorize the formation of three-judge district courts. These include, for example, various provisions relating to voting rights violations n118 and discrimination in employment. n119 These statutes create direct, nonexclusive Supreme Court appellate jurisdiction independent of Section 1253. Several of the statutes broadly provide that any appeal may be taken to the Supreme Court. n120 Others provide that any appeal from a final judgment of the three-judge district court will lie to the Supreme Court. n121

[e] Review of State High Court Decisions n*

[i] Highest State Court Decision on Federal Question

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review certain final judgments or decrees rendered by a state's highest court that may render a decision on a particular question. n122 The term "highest court of the state" includes the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. n123 An intermediate appellate court is the "highest court" for purposes of 28 U.S.C. § 1257 if its decision in question is not reviewable by another state court. A trial court is the "highest court in which a decision can be had" if under state practice its judgment is final and not reviewable in any state appellate court. n124

A trial court may also be considered the "highest state court" for purposes of United States Supreme Court certiorari jurisdiction when state appellate review procedures applicable to the federal issue would delay review to the detriment of a party's important constitutional rights. For example, when a trial court entered an order restraining potential First Amendment rights, and the state supreme court under state rules delayed consideration of the issue, the United States Supreme Court concluded that the trial court's order was final and unreviewable by any other state court. Therefore, the final judgment of the trial court was subject to appellate review by the United States Supreme Court. n125

The Supreme Court has stated that the final judgment requirement of Section 1257 should not be mechanically construed. Thus, Supreme Court jurisdiction is not destroyed by the mere fact that the highest state court did not enter the final judgment with the requisite formalities under state law. A judgment is generally "final" for purposes of Supreme Court review if the judgment effectively determines the litigation of the federal issue, leaving nothing to be judicially decided on that issue. n126

The Supreme Court's jurisdiction over appeals from a state's highest court is discretionary. n127 Therefore, to obtain review of the highest court of a state, a litigant must seek a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court. n128 The Supreme Court has held that it will exercise jurisdiction to review a state court judgment or decision only if at least one of the following criteria specified in the statute exists: n128.1

1. The judgment or decision calls into question the validity of a federal statute or treaty.

2. The judgment or decision finds a state statute repugnant to the Constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States. n128.2

3. The judgment or decision addresses a contention that a title, right, privilege, or immunity is asserted or claimed under the Constitution or the treaties or statutes of the United States, or any commission held or authority exercised under the United States.

Federal court jurisdiction to review the judgments of state courts lies exclusively in the United States Supreme Court. Consequently, if a state court misinterprets or erroneously determines a federal question, the litigant may not obtain review in the United States District Court or the United States Courts of Appeals. Similarly, a litigant may not obtain declaratory relief to have a lower federal court control a state court's decision on federal law. n129

[ii] State Court Decision Must Be Final

The statutory authorization for certiorari review of a decision of a state's highest court provides that the Supreme Court may not review a judgment or decision of a state court unless the judgment or decision is final. n130 The finality requirement of this statute has several purposes: it avoids piecemeal review of state court decisions; it avoids giving advisory opinions in cases where there may be no real "case or controversy;" and it limits review of state court determinations of federal constitutional issues to minimize federal intrusion into state affairs. n131 The Supreme Court has stated that the finality requirement is a strict prerequisite to the Court's deciding the merits of an appeal of a state court decision. Thus, the Court may dismiss an appeal of a state court decision on grounds of lack of finality even if the issue is not raised by any party. n132

Whether a state court judgment or decision is final is determined by federal law as stated in Supreme Court precedent, irrespective of state law relating to finality. n133 Generally, a state court decision is final for the purpose of Supreme Court appeal if the judgment effectively determines the litigation of the federal issue, leaving nothing to be judicially decided. On the other hand, a judgment or decree is not final if it merely determines interlocutory or intermediate steps or issues in the case. n134

There are exceptions to the strict finality rule. If the state court decision determines the federal litigation, the decision may be considered final even if further state court proceedings have been ordered to be held on remand from the state's highest court. In this regard, the Supreme Court has specified four exceptional categories of cases to be regarded as"final" on the federal issue despite the ordering of further proceedings in the lower state courts by the state's highest court: n135

1. When the federal issue is conclusive or the outcome of any further proceedings in the state courts is preordained n136

2. When the federal issue will survive any possible outcome of the future state court proceedings and will require resolution by the Supreme Court. n137

3. When the federal claim has been finally decided but later review of the federal issue will be impossible whatever the ultimate outcome of the state court proceedings. n138

4. When the federal issue has been finally decided by the state high court, but the party seeking review of the federal issue in the United States Supreme Court might prevail on the merits on nonfederal grounds in the subsequent lower state court proceedings, provided that a refusal by the Supreme Court to immediately review the state court decision might seriously erode federal policy. n139

[iii] Federal Question Must be Substantial

In addition to the requirement of finality, United States Supreme Court will not review a decision unless the federal question is substantial. n140 This rule is not based on statute but is imposed by the Supreme Court itself based on its discretion to grant or dismiss a petition for certiorari; thus, whenever it appears that the federal question is insubstantial, the Supreme Court will dismiss the writ of certiorari as improvidently granted, n141 even if the lack of a substantial federal question is not apparent until after the Court has heard oral argument. n142

With respect to the requirement of substantiality of the federal issue, the United States Supreme Court has determined that it may not review a state court judgment or decision unless resolution of the federal issue would affect the validity of the judgment or decision of the state court. n143 Therefore, the United States Supreme Court has promulgated a self-imposed restriction that the Supreme court will not review a state court decision if the state court decision is based on state law that is "independent" of federal law and is "adequate" to support the state court decision, regardless of how the federal issue would be resolved in the case. In other words, the United States Supreme Court will not review a state court decision if a reversal of the state court's federal law ruling would not change the outcome of the case. n143.1 In such circumstances, a United States Supreme Court opinion on the federal issue would amount to an impermissible advisory opinion, because the federal issue determination would not affect the outcome of the case. n143.2

[f] Review of Decisions of Specialized Courts

[i] Military Courts n*

Congress has given the Supreme Court jurisdiction to review decisions rendered by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. n144 To obtain such review, a litigant must seek a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court. n145 Because its review of these decisions is discretionary, rather than mandatory, n146 the Court often refuses to grant a writ of certiorari. n147 The Supreme Court may exercise direct review jurisdiction in any of four types of military cases:

1. Capital cases reviewed by the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces under 10 U.S.C. Section 867(a)(1). n148

2. Cases certified to the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces by the Judge Advocate General under 10 U.S.C. Section 867(a)(2). n149

3. Cases in which the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces granted a petition for review under 10 U.S.C. Section 867(a)(3). n150

4. Cases that do not fall within any of these categories, in which the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces granted relief. n151

[ii] Puerto Rico Supreme Court n*

Congress has given the Supreme Court jurisdiction to review decisions rendered by the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. n152 Because review is discretionary, and not mandatory, a litigant must apply for review by petition for a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court of the United States. n153 For the Court to exercise jurisdiction to review such a judgment or decree, the judgment or decree must do any one of the following: n154

1. Call into question the validity of a federal statute or treaty.

2. Indicate that a Puerto Rican statute is repugnant to the Constitution, treaties, or laws of the United States. n155

3. Address a contention that a title, right, privilege, or immunity is specially set up or claimed under the Constitution.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJurisdictionJurisdictional SourcesConstitutional SourcesCivil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryJurisdictionGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote 1. U.S. Const., Art. III.

(n2)Footnote 2. South Carolina v. North Carolina, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 854, 175 L. Ed. 2d 713, 718, 730 (2010) .

(n3)Footnote 3. Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 174, 2 L. Ed. 60 (1803) ; see Britt v. Garcia, 457 F.3d 264, 266-267 (2nd Cir. 2006) .

(n4)Footnote 4. U.S. Const. Amend. VII.

(n5)Footnote 4.1. U.S. Const. Amend. XI.

(n6)Footnote 5. See Flast v. Cohen, 392 U.S. 83, 94-97, 101, 88 S. Ct. 1942, 20 L. Ed. 2d 947 (1968) ; see also Ch. 1, Federal Courts.

(n7)Footnote 6. See [2], below.

(n8)Footnote 6.1. U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, Cl. 2; see [3], below.

(n9)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 402.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n10)Footnote 7. See U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, cl. 2; Kansas v. Colorado, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1294, 173 L. Ed. 2d 245, 249-250 (2009) (court's original jurisdiction as trial court to hear case by one state against another state).

(n11)Footnote 8. See U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, cl. 2.

(n12)Footnote 9. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(a).

(n13)Footnote 10. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(1).

(n14)Footnote 11. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(2).

(n15)Footnote 12. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(3).

(n16)Footnote 13. See U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, cl. 2; see Kansas v. Colorado, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1294, 173 L. Ed. 2d 245, 250 (2009) (concurring opinion).

(n17)Footnote 14. California v. Arizona, 440 U.S. 59, 65, 99 S. Ct. 919, 59 L. Ed. 2d 144 (1979) (original jurisdiction requires no legislative implementation).

(n18)Footnote 14.1. See [b], below.

(n19)Footnote 15. Georgia v. Pennsylvania R.R., 324 U.S. 439, 446, 65 S. Ct. 716, 89 L. Ed. 1051 (1945) (original jurisdiction does not include enforcement of state penal statutes).

(n20)Footnote 16. Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. 419, 432, 1 L. Ed. 440 (1793) (criminal cases are of local nature and to be decided by local laws).

(n21)Footnote 17. Wisconsin v. Pelican Ins. Co., 127 U.S. 265, 299-300, 8 S. Ct. 1370, 32 L. Ed. 239 (1888) (statute assessing penalties against out-of-state insurance companies that failed to meet certain reporting requirements construed as criminal).

(n22)Footnote 17.1. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(3); see Hood ex rel Mississippi v. City of Memphis, 570 F.3d 625, 631 (5th Cir. 2009) .

(n23)Footnote 18. See Kansas v. Colorado, 185 U.S. 125, 139, 22 S. Ct. 552, 46 L. Ed. 838 (1902) .

(n24)Footnote 19. Principality of Monaco v. Mississippi, 292 U.S. 313, 328-330, 54 S. Ct. 745, 78 L. Ed. 1282 (1934) .

(n25)Footnote 20. Mississippi v. Louisiana, 506 U.S. 73, 74, 113 S. Ct. 549, 553, 121 L. Ed. 2d 466 (1992) .

(n26)Footnote 21. See Alabama v. North Carolina, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 2295, 176 L. Ed. 2d 1070, 1081 (2010) .

(n27)Footnote 22. Maryland v. Louisiana, 451 U.S. 725, 735-736, 101 S. Ct. 2114, 68 L. Ed. 2d 576 (1981) .

(n28)Footnote 23. Texas v. New Mexico, 462 U.S. 554, 570, 103 S. Ct. 2558, 77 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1983) (substantial discretion to determine practical necessity of exercising original jurisdiction).

(n29)Footnote 24. Utah v. United States, 394 U.S. 89, 95, 89 S. Ct. 761, 22 L. Ed. 2d 99 (1969) .

(n30)Footnote 25. Illinois v. City of Milwaukee, 406 U.S. 91, 93, 92 S. Ct. 1385, 31 L. Ed. 2d 712 (1972) .

(n31)Footnote 26. Wyoming v. Oklahoma, 502 U.S. 437, 451, 112 S. Ct. 789, 117 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1992) .

(n32)Footnote 27. 28 U.S.C. § 1251.

(n33)Footnote 28. Illinois v. City of Milwaukee, 406 U.S. 91, 98, 92 S. Ct. 1385, 31 L. Ed. 2d 712 (1972) (political subdivisions deemed citizens of states, rather than states).

(n34)Footnote 29. Edgar v. City of Chicago, 942 F. Supp. 366, 369-370, (N.D. Ill. 1996) , vacated on other grounds, 137 F.3d 474 (1998) .

(n35)Footnote 30. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(1).

(n36)Footnote 31. 28 U.S.C. § 1351 (note that § 1351 includes only those persons on some type of diplomatic mission; it does not include mere employees of foreign nations).

(n37)Footnote 32. Cf. In re Republic of Suriname ex rel. Boerenveen, 484 U.S. 961, 108 S. Ct. 447, 98 L. Ed. 2d 388 (1987) (court declined to exercise original jurisdiction).

(n38)Footnote 33. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(2); see, e.g., United States v. Maine, 469 U.S. 504, 505-506, 105 S. Ct. 992, 83 L. Ed. 2d 998 (1985) (action by United States to determine rights to seabed and subsoil off coast of eastern seaboard states)

(n39)Footnote 34. 28 U.S.C. § 1345.

(n40)Footnote 35. United States v. Illinois, 454 F.2d 297, 301 (7th Cir. 1971) , cert. denied, 406 U.S. 918 (1972) .

(n41)Footnote 35.1. U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, cl. 2.

(n42)Footnote 36. See United States v. Texas, 143 U.S. 621, 643-646, 12 S. Ct. 488, 36 L. Ed. 285 (1892) .

(n43)Footnote 37. 28 U.S.C. § 1251(b)(3).

(n44)Footnote 38. Cf. Ohio v. Wyandotte Chem. Corp., 401 U.S. 493, 499 n.3, 91 S. Ct. 1005, 28 L. Ed. 2d 256, 57 Ohio Op. 2d 351 (1971) .

(n45)Footnote 39. Mississippi v. Louisiana, 506 U.S. 73, 76, 113 S. Ct. 549, 552, 121 L. Ed. 2d 466 (1992) (original jurisdiction is to be exercised only sparingly); Wyoming v. Oklahoma, 502 U.S. 437, 450, 112 S. Ct. 789, 117 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1992) (Court applied discretion even when its jurisdiction was exclusive).

(n46)Footnote 40. Wyoming v. Oklahoma, 502 U.S. 437, 440, 112 S. Ct. 789, 117 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1992) (leave to file granted over Oklahoma's objections).

(n47)Footnote 41. Louisiana v. Mississippi, 516 U.S. 22, 23, 116 S. Ct. 290, 292, 133 L. Ed. 2d 265 (1995) .

(n48)Footnote 42. Nebraska v. Wyoming, 515 U.S. 1, 8, 115 S. Ct. 1933, 1938, 132 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1995) .

(n49)Footnote 43. Sup. Ct. R. 17.3.

(n50)Footnote 44. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5; Alabama v. North Carolina, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 2295, 176 L. Ed. 2d 1070, 1078 (2010) .

(n51)Footnote 45. Sup. Ct. R. 29.3.

(n52)Footnote 46. Sup. Ct. R. 17.3.

(n53)Footnote 47. See Sup. Ct. R. 29.4.

(n54)Footnote 47.1. Sup. Ct. R. 29.5.

(n55)Footnote 48. Sup. Ct. R. 17.4.

(n56)Footnote 49. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5; see Sup. Ct. R. 29.5.

(n57)Footnote 50. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5.

(n58)Footnote 51. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5.

(n59)Footnote 52. Corrinet v. Ghali, 516 U.S. 1039, 116 S. Ct. 694, 133 L. Ed. 2d 653 (1996) (denial of motion); New Jersey v. New York, 511 U.S. 1080, 114 S. Ct. 1828, 128 L. Ed. 2d 458 (1994) (grant of motion).

(n60)Footnote 53. South Carolina v. Regan, 462 U.S. 1114, 103 S. Ct. 3080, 77 L. Ed. 2d 1344 (1983) (motion for leave to file bill is set for oral argument).

(n61)Footnote 54. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5.

(n62)Footnote 55. See, e.g., Rettig v. Ohio, 510 U.S. 1007, 114 S. Ct. 594, 126 L. Ed. 2d 560 (1993) (motion for reconsideration denied).

(n63)Footnote 56. Louisiana v. Mississippi, 516 U.S. 22, 24, 116 S. Ct. 290, 292, 133 L. Ed. 2d 265 (1995) .

(n64)Footnote 56.1. Alabama v. North Carolina, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 2295, 176 L. Ed. 2d 1070, 1078 (2010) .

(n65)Footnote 57. Sup. Ct. R. 46.1.

(n66)Footnote 58. Sup. Ct. R. 17.1; see § 29.05[1].

(n67)Footnote 59. Sup. Ct. R. 17.2.

(n68)Footnote 60. Alabama v. North Carolina, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 2295, 176 L. Ed. 2d 1070, 1082 (2010) .

(n69)Footnote 61. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a).

(n70)Footnote 62. Nebraska v. Wyoming, 515 U.S. 1, 8-9, 115 S. Ct. 1933, 1938, 132 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1995) .

(n71)Footnote 63. Louisiana v. Mississippi, 516 U.S. 22, 23, 116 S. Ct. 290, 292, 133 L. Ed. 2d 265 (1995) ; see [i], above.

(n72)Footnote 64. Mississippi v. Arkansas, 415 U.S. 289, 298 n.1, 94 S. Ct. 1046, 39 L. Ed. 2d 333 (1974) .

(n73)Footnote 65. United States v. Raddatz, 447 U.S. 667, 683 n.11, 100 S. Ct. 2406, 65 L. Ed. 2d 424 (1980) .

(n74)Footnote 66. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 53(a).

(n75)Footnote 67. Delaware v. New York, 488 U.S. 990, 990, 109 S. Ct. 550, 102 L. Ed. 2d 578 (1988) .

(n76)Footnote 68. Colorado v. New Mexico, 467 U.S. 310, 313, 104 S. Ct. 2433, 81 L. Ed. 2d 247 (1984) .

(n77)Footnote 69. California v. Nevada, 447 U.S. 125, 133, 100 S. Ct. 2064, 65 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1980) .

(n78)Footnote 70. Texas v. New Mexico, 482 U.S. 124, 132, 107 S. Ct. 2279, 96 L. Ed. 2d 105 (1987) .

(n79)Footnote 71. See Virginia v. Maryland, 540 U.S. 56, 124 S. Ct. 598, 157 L. Ed. 2d 461 (2003) .

(n80)Footnote 71.1. Illinois v. City of Milwaukee, 406 U.S. 91, 105-107, 92 S. Ct. 1385, 31 L. Ed. 2d 712 (1972) ; see Colorado v. New Mexico, 459 U.S. 176, 183, 103 S. Ct. 539, 74 L. Ed. 2d 348 (1982) (application of law to establish justice between states).

(n81)Footnote 72. First National City Bank v. Banco Para el Comercio Exterior de Cuba, 462 U.S. 611, 621-623, 103 S. Ct. 2591, 77 L. Ed. 2d 46 (1983) .

(n82)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 403.01 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n83)Footnote 73. See [2], above.

(n84)Footnote 73.1. See Hohn v. United States, 524 U.S. 236, 251, 118 S. Ct. 1969, 141 L. Ed. 2d 242 (1998) (normal function of Supreme Court is to review possible misapplications of law by the courts of appeals).

(n85)Footnote 73.2. Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 174, 2 L. Ed. 60 (1803) ; see Britt v. Garcia, 457 F.3d 264, 266-267 (2nd Cir. 2006) .

(n86)Footnote 74. U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, Cl. 1.

(n87)Footnote 75. See [2], above.

(n88)Footnote 76. See U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, Cl. 2.

(n89)Footnote 77. Georgia v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 324 U.S. 439, 464, 65 S. Ct. 716, 89 L. Ed. 1051 (1945) .

(n90)Footnote 78. See U.S. Const., Art. III, § 2, Cl. 2.

(n91)Footnote 79. See [2], above.

(n92)Footnote 80. Hiatt v. Brown, 339 U.S. 103, 106 n.1, 70 S. Ct. 495, 94 L. Ed. 691 (1950) .

(n93)Footnote 80.1. Hohn v. United States, 524 U.S. 236, 251, 118 S. Ct. 1969, 141 L. Ed. 2d 242 (1998) .

(n94)Footnote 81. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(1); see 28 U.S.C. § 2350(a); see also [b], below.

(n95)Footnote 82. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(1); see, e.g., Padilla v. Hanft, 547 U.S. 1062, 1062, 126 S. Ct. 1649, 164 L. Ed. 2d 409 (2006) .

(n96)Footnote 83. 28 U.S.C. §§ 1254(2), 2350(b); see [c], below.

(n97)Footnote 84. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(2); see Sup. Ct. R. 19.

(n98)Footnote 85. Wisniewski v. United States, 353 U.S. 901, 902, 77 S. Ct. 633, 1 L. Ed. 2d 658 (1957) .

(n99)Footnote 86. 28 U.S.C. § 1253; see [d], below.

(n100)Footnote 87. In re Slagle, 504 U.S. 952, 112 S. Ct. 2296, 119 L. Ed. 2d 220 (1992) (White, J., dissenting).

(n101)Footnote 88. 28 U.S.C. § 1257; see [e], below.

(n102)Footnote 89. 28 U.S.C. § 1257(a).

(n103)Footnote 90. 28 U.S.C. § 1258.

(n104)Footnote 91. 28 U.S.C. § 1259.

(n105)Footnote 92. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1258, 1259; see [f], below.

(n106)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 405.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n107)Footnote 93. 28 U.S.C. §§ 1254, 2350(a).

(n108)Footnote 94. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(1).

(n109)Footnote 95. See [ii], below.

(n110)Footnote 96. Sup. Ct. R. 11; see also 28 U.S.C. § 2101(e). For a complete discussion of procedures under Supreme Court Rule 11, see § 29.06[2].

(n111)Footnote 97. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(1).

(n112)Footnote 98. Braxton v. United States, 500 U.S. 344, 347, 111 S. Ct. 1854, 114 L. Ed. 2d 385 (1991) (review regarding meaning of federal sentencing guidelines).

(n113)Footnote 99. Sup. Ct. R. 10.

(n114)Footnote 100. Sup. Ct. R. 10(a).

(n115)Footnote 101. Sup. Ct. R. 10(c).

(n116)Footnote 102. Davis v. Jacobs, 454 U.S. 911, 913, 917, 102 S. Ct. 417, 70 L. Ed. 2d 226 (1981) (Rehnquist, J., dissenting).

(n117)Footnote 103. 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a).

(n118)Footnote 104. La Buy v. Howes Leather Co., 352 U.S. 249, 255, 77 S. Ct. 309, 1 L. Ed. 2d 290 (1957) (common-law writs available at Court's discretion).

(n119)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 405.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n120)Footnote 105. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(2).

(n121)Footnote 106. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(2); see Sup. Ct. R. 19; United States v. Barnett, 376 U.S. 681, 689 n.6, 84 S. Ct. 984, 12 L. Ed. 2d 23 (1964) .

(n122)Footnote 107. See [b][ii], above.

(n123)Footnote 108. Wisniewski v. United States, 353 U.S. 901, 902, 77 S. Ct. 633, 1 L. Ed. 2d 658 (1957) .

(n124)Footnote 109. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(2).

(n125)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 404.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n126)Footnote 110. 28 U.S.C. § 1253.

(n127)Footnote 111. 28 U.S.C. § 1253.

(n128)Footnote 112. In re Slagle, 504 U.S. 952, 112 S. Ct. 2296, 119 L. Ed. 2d 220 (1992) (White, J., dissenting).

(n129)Footnote 113. Mitchell v. Donovan, 398 U.S. 427, 431, 90 S. Ct. 1763, 26 L. Ed. 2d 378 (1970) .

(n130)Footnote 114. Moody v. Flowers, 387 U.S. 97, 104, 87 S. Ct. 1544, 18 L. Ed. 2d 643 (1967) (judgment vacated and case remanded for entry of new decree that would allow appeal properly taken to court of appeals).

(n131)Footnote 115. Gonzalez v. Automatic Employees Credit Union, 419 U.S. 90, 96 n.14, 95 S. Ct. 289, 42 L. Ed. 2d 249 (1974) .

(n132)Footnote 116. Hicks v. Pleasure House, Inc., 404 U.S. 1, 2, 92 S. Ct. 5, 30 L. Ed. 2d 1 (1971) .

(n133)Footnote 117. 28 U.S.C. § 2284.

(n134)Footnote 118. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 1971, 1973b, 1973c, 1973h.

(n135)Footnote 119. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6.

(n136)Footnote 120. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 1973b, 1973c, 1973h.

(n137)Footnote 121. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6.

(n138)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 406.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n139)Footnote 122. 28 U.S.C. § 1257.

(n140)Footnote 123. 28 U.S.C. § 1257(b).

(n141)Footnote 124. Nash v. Florida Indus. Comm'n, 389 U.S. 235, 237, 88 S. Ct. 362, 19 L. Ed. 2d 438 (1967) .

(n142)Footnote 125. Nebraska Press Ass'n v. Stuart, 423 U.S. 1327, 1329-1330, 96 S. Ct. 251, 46 L. Ed. 2d 237 (1975) .

(n143)Footnote 126. Nike, Inc. v. Kasky, 539 U.S. 654, 123 S. Ct. 2554, 156 L. Ed. 2d 580, 581-583 (2003) ; see [ii], below.

(n144)Footnote 127. Hammerstein v. Superior Court, 341 U.S. 491, 492, 71 S. Ct. 820, 95 L. Ed. 1135 (1951) .

(n145)Footnote 128. 28 U.S.C. § 1257(a); see Nike, Inc. v. Kasky, 539 U.S. 654, 123 S. Ct. 2554, 156 L. Ed. 2d 580, 581-583 (2003) ; see also [b][ii], above (discussion of certiorari jurisdiction).

(n146)Footnote 128.1. *Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696, 2004 U.S. LEXIS 3380, 4 (2004) ; see 28 U.S.C. § 1257(a).

(n147)Footnote 128.2. See Virginia v. Hicks, 539 U.S. 113, 120-121, 123 S. Ct. 2191, 156 L. Ed. 2d 148 (2003) (United States Supreme Court had appellate jurisdiction to review Virginia Supreme Court decision that state trespass statute was unconstitutionally overbroad because it authorized the prohibition of speech and conduct protected by the First Amendment).

(n148)Footnote 129. Exxon Shipping Co., v. Airport Depot Diner, Inc., 120 F.3d 166, 169-170 (9th Cir. 1997) (district court abused its discretion in granting declaratory relief to preempt ruling on federal law issues by state court).

(n149)Footnote 130. 28 U.S.C. 1257(a).

(n150)Footnote 131. Jefferson v. City of Tarrant, 522 U.S. 75, 80, 118 S. Ct. 481, 139 L. Ed. 2d 433 (1997) .

(n151)Footnote 132. *Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696, 2004 U.S. LEXIS 3380, 4 (2004) .

(n152)Footnote 133. Gotthilf v. Sills, 375 U.S. 79, 80, 84 S. Ct. 187, 11 L. Ed. 2d 159 (1963) .

(n153)Footnote 134. Pierce County v. Guillen, 537 U.S. 129, 140-141, 123 S. Ct. 720, 154 L. Ed. 2d 610 (2003) .

(n154)Footnote 135. Cox Broadcasting Corp. v. Cohn, 420 U.S. 469, 479-483, 95 S. Ct. 1029, 43 L. Ed. 2d 328 (1975) .

(n155)Footnote 136. Pierce County v. Guillen, 537 U.S. 129, 140-142, 123 S. Ct. 720, 154 L. Ed. 2d 610 (2003) .

(n156)Footnote 137. Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 85 n.1, 83 S. Ct. 1194, 10 L. Ed. 2d 215 (1963) .

(n157)Footnote 138. *Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696, 2004 U.S. LEXIS 3380, 3 (2004) .

(n158)Footnote 139. *Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696, 2004 U.S. LEXIS 3380, 3 (2004) .

(n159)Footnote 140. Zucht v. King, 260 U.S. 174, 176, 43 S. Ct. 24, 67 L. Ed. 194 (1922) .

(n160)Footnote 141. Duncan v. Tennessee, 405 U.S. 127, 127, 92 S. Ct. 785, 31 L. Ed. 2d 86 (1972) .

(n161)Footnote 142. Rice v. Sioux City Memorial Park Cemetery, Inc., 349 U.S. 70, 75-77, 75 S. Ct. 614, 99 L. Ed. 897 (1955) .

(n162)Footnote 143. Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 730, 111 S. Ct. 2546, 115 L. Ed. 2d 640 (1991) .

(n163)Footnote 143.1. Fitzgerald v. Racing Ass'n, 539 U.S. 103, 123 S. Ct. 2156, 2158-2159, 156 L. Ed. 2d 97 (2003) ; see Michigan v. Long, 463 U.S. 1032, 1041-1042, 103 S. Ct. 3469, 77 L. Ed. 2d 1201 (1983) .

(n164)Footnote 143.2. Herb v. Pitcairn, 324 U.S. 117, 126, 65 S. Ct. 459, 89 L. Ed. 789 (1945) .

(n165)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 407.01 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n166)Footnote 144. 28 U.S.C. § 1259.

(n167)Footnote 145. 28 U.S.C. § 1259.

(n168)Footnote 146. 28 U.S.C. § 1259; see [b][ii], above.

(n169)Footnote 147. Huet-Vaughn v. United States, 516 U.S. 1117, 116 S. Ct. 922, 133 L. Ed. 2d 851 (1996) (writ of certiorari to United States Court of Appeals for Armed Forces denied).

(n170)Footnote 148. 28 U.S.C. § 1259(1); see 10 U.S.C. § 867(a)(1); see, e.g., Loving v. United States, 517 U.S. 748, 751-752, 116 S. Ct. 1737, 1740, 135 L. Ed. 2d 36 (1996) .

(n171)Footnote 149. 28 U.S.C. § 1259(2); see 10 U.S.C. § 867(a)(2).

(n172)Footnote 150. 28 U.S.C. § 1259(3); see 10 U.S.C. § 867(a)(3).

(n173)Footnote 151. 28 U.S.C. § 1259(4).

(n174)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 406.04 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n175)Footnote 152. 28 U.S.C. § 1258.

(n176)Footnote 153. 28 U.S.C. § 1258; see [b][ii], above.

(n177)Footnote 154. 28 U.S.C. § 1258.

(n178)Footnote 155. See, e.g., Posadas de P.R. Assocs. v. Tourism Co., 478 U.S. 328, 331, 106 S. Ct. 2968, 92 L. Ed. 2d 266 (1986) (Supreme Court had jurisdiction to review decision concerning constitutionality of Puerto Rican statute).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.02

§ 29.02 n* Applicability of Procedural Rules of Supreme Court

The Judicial Code gives the Supreme Court power to prescribe rules for the procedures to conduct of its own business n1 and also the power to prescribe uniform rules for the lower federal courts. n2 Rules promulgated by the Supreme Court are subject to public notice and comment when they have been proposed for the Supreme Court's consideration by the Judicial Conference under the authority of Judicial Code. n3

The Judicial Code also requires the Supreme Court to submit proposed rules to Congress, and gives Congress several months to consider them. If Congress fails to act, the rules become effective at the prescribed time after submission, except for rules that create, abolish, or modify an evidentiary privilege, which require explicit congressional approval before they become effective. n4 The latest amendments to the Supreme Court Rules became effective May 3, 1999. The last complete revision of the Supreme Court Rules were adopted January 16, 1997, and became effective May 1, 1997. n5 The Supreme Court Rules may not abridge, enlarge, or modify any substantive right. However, once Supreme Court Rules become effective, all other procedural laws in conflict with the Supreme Court Rules have no further force or effect. n6

With respect to retroactivity, the court promulgating new or amended rules is authorized to determine the effect of the new or amended rules on pending proceedings. n7 The Supreme Court has generally provided that newly enacted Supreme Court Rules govern all proceedings after their effective date except to the extent that, in the opinion of the Supreme Court, the application of the new procedural rules to a pending matter would not be feasible or would work an injustice, in which event the former procedure applies. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 22 Moore's Federal Practice, § 408.01 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. 28 U.S.C. § 2071(a).

(n3)Footnote 2. See, e.g., 28 U.S.C. § 2072 (Supreme Court power to prescribe general rules of practice and procedure and rules of evidence for cases in United States district courts and courts of appeals).

(n4)Footnote 3. 28 U.S.C. § 2073(a).

(n5)Footnote 4. 28 U.S.C. § 2074.

(n6)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 48.1.

(n7)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 2072(b); see Sup. Ct. R. 48.2.

(n8)Footnote 7. 28 U.S.C. § 2071(b).

(n9)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 48.2.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.03

§ 29.03 Composition and Function of Supreme Court

[1] Quorum of Supreme Court n*

The Supreme Court of the United States consists of nine total justices, the Chief Justice of the United States and eight associate justices. n1 Any six justices of the Supreme Court constitute a quorum. In the absence of a quorum on any day appointed for holding a session of the Court, the Justices attending--or if no Justice is present, the Clerk or a Deputy Clerk--may announce that the Court will not meet until there is a quorum. n2 With the exception of authorized direct appeals from a district court, if there is no quorum, the case will ordinarily be heard and determined at the next ensuing term. For direct appeals from a district court, the Chief Justice may order it remitted to the court of appeals for the circuit including the district in which the case arose, to be heard and determined by that court either sitting in banc or specially constituted and composed of the three circuit judges. n3

[2] Term and Sessions of Supreme Court n*

The Supreme Court holds a continuous annual Term commencing on the first Monday in October and ending on the day before the first Monday in October of the following year. n4 At the end of each Term, all cases pending on the docket are continued to the next Term. n5 Open sessions of the Court are held beginning at 10 a.m. on the first Monday in October of each year, and after that Monday as announced by the Court. Unless it orders otherwise, the Court sits to hear arguments from 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. n6 When appropriate, the Court will direct the Clerk or the Marshal to announce recesses. n7

[3] Clerk of Supreme Court n*

[a] Receipt of Filings

The clerk is responsible for receipt of all documents filed with the Court. n8 However, the clerk has authority to reject any submitted filing that does not comply with the Supreme Court Rules. n9 No single Supreme Court Rule specifies all of the items that the clerk must reject, which are specified throughout the individual rules. For example the clerk must reject a petition for writ of certiorari jurisdictionally filed late; n10 a brief filed after the submission or argument of a case, unless the party has leave of the Court; n11 and consecutive or late petitions for rehearing; n12

[b] Custody of Records

The Clerk has responsibility to maintain the Court's records, and will not permit any of them to be removed from the Court building except when authorized by the Court. Any document filed with the Clerk and made a part of the Court's records may not be withdrawn after the time of filing from the official Court files. After the conclusion of proceedings in the Supreme Court, original records and documents transmitted to the Supreme Court by any other court will be returned to the court from which they were received. n13

[c] Notification and Supervisory Duties

In addition to filing and recordkeeping duties, the individual Supreme Court Rules also give the clerk responsibility to notify parties in certain situations. For example, the clerk must notify the court below and counsel of record of the denial of a petition for writ of certiorari; n14 must notify the parties when the Court orders a certified case briefed or set for argument; n15 and must notify attorneys when they must be present for oral argument. n16 In certain circumstances, other Supreme Court Rules give the clerk authority to grant an extension of time to file a document, n17 or to dismiss a case, as when the parties file a written agreement that the case be dismissed and pay the Clerk any fees that are due. n18 All of these duties of the clerk are discussed in this chapter in the individual sections that pertain to the particular subject matter.

[d] Clerk's Office Hours

Unless the Court or the Chief Justice orders otherwise, the Clerk's office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except on the following legal holidays: n19 New Year's Day, Martin Luther King Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. n20

[4] Library n*

The Supreme Court has a library that is available for use by personnel of the Supreme Court, members of the Bar of the Supreme Court, Members of Congress and their legal staffs, and attorneys for the United States and for federal departments and agencies. n21 The library's hours are governed by regulations made by the Librarian with the approval of the Chief Justice or the Court. n22 Library books may not be removed from the Court building, except by a Justice or a member of a Justice's staff. n23

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawThe JudiciaryGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsCreation & Organization

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 504.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. 28 U.S.C. § 1.

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 4.2.

(n4)Footnote 3. 28 U.S.C. § 2109.

(n5)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 503.02, 504.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n6)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 3; see 28 U.S.C. § 2.

(n7)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 3.

(n8)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 4.1.

(n9)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 4.3.

(n10)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 501.02, 501.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n11)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 1.1.

(n12)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 1.1; see Sup. Ct. R. 29.1.

(n13)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 13.2.

(n14)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 25.6.

(n15)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 44.4.

(n16)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 1.2.

(n17)Footnote 14. Sup. Ct. R. 16.3.

(n18)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 19.4.

(n19)Footnote 16. Sup. Ct. R. 27.2.

(n20)Footnote 17. See Sup. Ct. R. 30.3.

(n21)Footnote 18. See Sup. Ct. R. 46.1.

(n22)Footnote 19. Sup. Ct. R. 1.3.

(n23)Footnote 20. 5 U.S.C. § 6103.

(n24)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 502.01 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n25)Footnote 21. Sup. Ct. R. 2.1.

(n26)Footnote 22. Sup. Ct. R. 2.2.

(n27)Footnote 23. Sup. Ct. R. 2.3.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.04

§ 29.04 Practice of Attorneys Before Supreme Court

[1] Admission to Bar of Supreme Court n*

[a] Application for Admission

Not all licensed attorneys may practice before the Supreme Court. To qualify for admission to the Bar of the Supreme Court, an applicant must have been admitted to practice in the highest court of a state, commonwealth, territory or possession, or the District of Columbia for a period of three or more years immediately before the date of application, must not have been the subject of any adverse disciplinary action during that three-year period, and must appear to the Court to be of good moral and professional character. n1 Each applicant must file with the Clerk (1) a certificate from his or her court evidencing the applicant's admission to practice there and the applicant's current good standing, and (2) a completely executed copy of the form approved by the Supreme Court and furnished by the Clerk containing (a) the applicant's personal statement, and (b) the statement of two sponsors endorsing the correctness of the applicant's statement, stating that the applicant possesses all the qualifications required for admission, and affirming that the applicant is of good moral and professional character. Both sponsors must be members of the Bar of the Supreme Court who personally know, but are not related to, the applicant. n2

[b] Admission Fees

Prior to admission, the applicant must pay the fee for admission to the Bar, which is $ 200 payable to the United States Supreme Court. For this fee, the applicant also receives a certificate bearing the seal of the Supreme Court. The fees are applied to the costs of admission and for the benefit of the Court and its Bar, and for related purposes. n3 The fee for a duplicate certificate of admission to the Bar bearing the seal of the Court is $15, and the fee for a certificate of good standing is $10, payable to the United States Supreme Court. n4

[c] Acceptance for Admission

If the documents submitted to the Supreme Court demonstrate that the applicant possesses the necessary qualifications, and if the applicant has signed the oath or affirmation n5 and paid the required fee, n6 the Clerk will notify the applicant of acceptance by the Court as a member of the Bar and issue a certificate of admission. If an applicant wishes to, the applicant may be admitted in open court on oral motion by a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court, provided that all other requirements for admission have been satisfied. n7 On admission, each applicant must sign the following oath or affirmation: I, _____, do solemnly _____ [swear or affirm] that as an attorney and as a counselor of this Court, I will conduct myself uprightly and according to law, and that I will support the Constitution of the United States. n8

[2] Argument For One Particular Occasion n*

The Supreme Court Rules make provision for argument by an attorney not admitted to practice for the requisite three years, provided that the attorney is otherwise eligible for admission to practice in the Supreme Court under Supreme Court Rule 5.1. The Court may allow such an attorney to argue pro hac vice, which means that the attorney may argue only in the particular proceeding specified by the Court. n9 The Court may also allow pro hac vice argument by an attorney qualified to practice in the courts of a foreign state. n10 The Court will allow oral argument pro hac vice only on motion of the counsel of record for the party on whose behalf leave is requested. The motion must state concisely the qualifications of the attorney who is to argue pro hac vice. It must be filed with the Clerk, no later than the date on which the respondent's or appellee's brief on the merits is due to be filed. The motion must be in the form required by Supreme Court Rule 21, and it must be accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n11

[3] Prohibition Against Employee's Practice Before Court n*

As long as an attorney is employed by the Supreme Court, the attorney may not practice as an attorney or counselor in any court or before any agency of government; furthermore, after any person leaves employment with the Supreme Court, the person may not participate in any professional capacity in any case pending before the Supreme Court or in any case being considered for filing in the Supreme Court until two years have elapsed after separation. Finally, a former employee of the Supreme Court may never participate in any professional capacity in any case that was pending in the Supreme Court during the employee's tenure. n12

[4] Disbarment and Other Disciplinary Action n*

If an attorney member of the Bar of the Supreme Court is disbarred or suspended from practice in any court of record, or has engaged in conduct unbecoming a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court, the Court may enter an order suspending that member from practice before the Supreme Court. n12.1 The Supreme court has never directly construed this "conduct unbecoming" language. However, because membership in the bar of the country's highest Court is a privilege and a responsibility, such unbecoming conduct exists whenever an attorney fails to comport with good moral and professional character. n12.2 After the Supreme Court has entered an order of suspension, the Court will give the member 40 days to show cause why the court should not enter a disbarment order. The Court will enter an appropriate order on the attorney's response, or at the end of the 40 days if no response is filed. n13 The Supreme Court may also take any other appropriate disciplinary action against any attorney for conduct unbecoming a member of the Bar, or for failure to comply with the Supreme Court Rules or any order of the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court will take such action after reasonable notice and an opportunity for the attorney to show cause why disciplinary action should not be taken, and a hearing if material facts are in dispute. n14

[5] Appearance of Attorneys Before Court n*

Before an attorney attempts in a representative capacity to file any document in the Supreme Court, the attorney must first be admitted to practice before the Supreme Court as provided in Supreme Court Rule 5 n15 except that admission to the Bar of the Supreme Court is not required for an attorney appointed under the Criminal Justice Act, n16 or under any other applicable federal statute. n17 In appropriate circumstances, n18 a non-member attorney may appear pro hac vice. n18.1

If filing a document with the court, an attorney need not file a separate notice of appearance because the filing constitutes appearance as counsel of record by the attorney whose name, address, and telephone number is designated on the cover of the document presented for filing. n18.2 Attorneys who are not members of the bar of the Supreme Court may also be listed on a brief along with the counsel of record; n18.3 if so, the cover must identify clearly the attorney who is counsel of record. n18.4

If an attorney will be representing a party who will not be filing a document, the attorney must enter a separate notice of appearance as counsel of record indicating the name of the party represented. A separate notice of appearance must also be entered whenever an attorney is substituted as counsel of record in a particular case. n19

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewLegal EthicsPractice Qualifications

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 505.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 5.1.

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 5.2.

(n4)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 5.5.

(n5)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 5.6.

(n6)Footnote 5. See [a], above.

(n7)Footnote 6. See [b], above.

(n8)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 5.3.

(n9)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 5.4.

(n10)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 506.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n11)Footnote 9. See CareFirst of Md., Inc. v. First Care, P.C., 422 F. Supp. 2d 592, 597-598 (E.D. Va. 2006) .

(n12)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 6.2.

(n13)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 6.3.

(n14)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 507.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n15)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 7.

(n16)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 508.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n17)Footnote 12.1. Sup. Ct. R. 8.1.

(n18)Footnote 12.2. See Gadda v. Ashcroft, 377 F.3d 934, 947 n.7 (9th Cir. 2004) .

(n19)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 8.1.

(n20)Footnote 14. Sup. Ct. R. 8.2.

(n21)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 509.02, 509.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n22)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 9.1; see [1], above.

(n23)Footnote 16. See 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6).

(n24)Footnote 17. Sup. Ct. R. 9.1.

(n25)Footnote 18. See [2], above.

(n26)Footnote 18.1. See Sup. Ct. R. 6.1.

(n27)Footnote 18.2. Sup. Ct. R. 9.1.

(n28)Footnote 18.3. Sup. Ct. R. 9.1; see Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(f).

(n29)Footnote 18.4. Sup. Ct. R. 9.1.

(n30)Footnote 19. Sup. Ct. R. 9.2.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.05

§ 29.05 Procedures When Jurisdiction Not Based on Certiorari

[1] Procedure in an Original Action n*

[a] Rules Applicable to Original Action

The Supreme Court has promulgated Supreme Court Rule 17 to apply exclusively only to an action invoking the Court's original jurisdiction under Article III of the Constitution of the United States. n1 In an original action, the litigants must follow the form of pleadings and motions prescribed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. In other respects, the Supreme Court will take the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Federal Rules of Evidence as guides. n2

[b] Initiation of Original Action in Supreme Court

The initial pleading must be preceded by a motion for leave to file, and may be accompanied by a brief in support of the motion. The litigant bringing the action must file 40 copies of each document with proof of service. Service must be accomplished as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, except that when an adverse party is a state, service must be made on both the governor and the attorney general of that state. n3 When a litigant files with the Clerk the motion for leave to file and the initial pleading, the clerk will place the case on the docket. The Supreme Court Rule 38(a) docket fee must be paid at that time. n4

[c] Response by Adverse Party

An adverse party must file 40 copies of any brief in opposition to the motion for leave to file and the initial pleading no more than 60 days after receiving the motion, with proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, or may expressly waive the right to file such a brief. The Clerk has the duty to distribute the filed documents to the Court for its consideration on receiving an express waiver of the right to file a brief or, if no waiver or brief is filed, on the expiration of the time allowed for filing. If a brief in opposition is timely filed, the Clerk will distribute the filed documents to the Court for its consideration no less than 10 days after the brief in opposition is filed. A reply brief may be filed, but the Court will not defer its consideration of the case for a reply to be received. n5

[d] Action by Court on Motion for Leave

After it receives the initial motion and any brief in response, the Court may grant or deny the motion for leave to file, set it for oral argument, direct that additional documents be filed, or require that other proceedings be conducted. n6 If the Court grants the motion for leave to file the complaint, a summons issued out of the Supreme Court must be served on the defendant 60 days before the return day specified in the summons. n7 Service of the summons must comply with Supreme Court Rule 29. n8 If the defendant does not respond by the return day, the plaintiff may proceed ex parte. n9 Process against a state must be served on both the governor and the attorney general of that state. n10

[2] Procedure for Appeal Direct from United States District Court n*

[a] Commencement of Appeal

When authorized by law, a party may commence a direct appeal from a decision of a United States District Court by filing a notice of appeal with the clerk of the district court within the time provided by law after entry of the judgment sought to be reviewed. The time to file may not be extended. n11 The notice of appeal must specify the parties taking the appeal, designate the judgment or partial judgment appealed from and the date of its entry, and specify the statute or statutes under which the appeal is taken. n12 However, the notice of appeal need not state the issues involved. n13 A copy of the notice of appeal must be served on all parties to the proceeding as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, and proof of service must be filed in the district court together with the notice of appeal. n14

[b] Parties to Appeal

All parties to the proceeding in the district court are generally deemed parties to the appeal and are entitled to file documents in the Supreme Court. However, parties that have no interest in the outcome of the appeal may notify the Clerk of their election not to participate in the appeal to the Supreme Court and must serve a copy of the notice on all other parties. Parties interested jointly, severally, or otherwise in the judgment may appeal separately, or any two or more may join in an appeal. When two or more judgments involving identical or closely related questions are sought to be reviewed on appeal from the same court, the litigants must file a notice of appeal for each judgment with the clerk of the district court, but a single jurisdictional statement covering all the judgments suffices. Parties who file no documents will not qualify for any relief from the Supreme Court. n15

[c] Appellant Required to File Jurisdictional Statement

[i] Time for Filing

To perfect the direct appeal, the appellant must file 40 copies of a jurisdictional statement and must pay the Supreme Court Rule 38 docket fee no more than 60 days after filing the notice of appeal in the district court. However, an appellant proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which must precede and be attached to each copy of the jurisdictional statement. n16

[ii] Contents and Notice

The jurisdictional statement must follow to the extent possible the form for a petition for a writ of certiorari prescribed by Supreme Court Rule 14 and must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. The clerk will then place the case on the docket. The appellant has the duty to notify all appellees promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the case was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the case. The notice must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. Furthermore, the appendix must include a copy of the notice of appeal showing the date it was filed in the district court. n17

If the Supreme Court Clerk determines that a jurisdictional statement, submitted timely and in good faith, is in a form that does not comply with Supreme Court Rule 18, or with Supreme Court Rules 33 or 34, the Clerk will return it with a letter indicating the deficiency. If the litigant submits a corrected jurisdictional statement in accordance with Rule 29.2, n17.1 no more than 60 days after the date of the Clerk's letter, its filing will be deemed timely. n18

[iii] Extension of Time to File Jurisdictional Statement

For good cause, a Justice may extend the time to file a jurisdictional statement for a period not exceeding 60 days; however, the application to extend the time to file a jurisdictional statement is not favored. n19 An application to extend the time to file a jurisdictional statement must specify the basis for jurisdiction in the Supreme Court, identify the judgment sought to be reviewed, and include a copy of the opinion, any order respecting rehearing, and the notice of appeal, and set out specific reasons why an extension of time is justified. The time and format for presenting the application is specified in Rules 21, 22, and 30. n20

[d] Cross-Appeal By Appellee

An appellee may file a conditional cross-appeal no more than 30 days after a case has been placed on the docket. The time to file a cross-appeal will not be extended. A conditional cross-appeal is a cross-appeal that would have been untimely if filed as a notice of appeal under the rules governing the time for filing a notice of appeal. An appellee filing a conditional cross-appeal must file, with proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, a jurisdictional statement that complies in all respects (including number of copies filed) with Supreme Court Rule 18.3, except that material already reproduced in the appendix to the opening jurisdictional statement need not be reproduced again, n21 and must pay the Supreme Court Rule 38 docket fee n22 or submit a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis. The cover of the cross-appeal must indicate clearly that it is a conditional cross-appeal. After filing, the cross-appeal will be placed on the docket, and it is the cross-appellant's duty to notify all cross-appellees promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the cross-appeal was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the cross-appeal. The notice must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. A cross-appeal may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis must be attached. n23

[e] Dismissal of Appeal Before Docketing

[i] Voluntary Dismissal

After a notice of appeal has been filed in the district court, but before the case is placed on the Supreme Court's docket, the parties may dismiss the appeal by stipulation filed in the district court. Alternatively, the district court may dismiss the appeal on the appellant's motion with notice to all parties. n24

[ii] Involuntary Dismissal

If a notice of appeal has been filed, but the case has not been placed on the Supreme Court's docket within the time prescribed for docketing, the district court may dismiss the appeal on the appellee's motion, with notice to all parties, and may make any just order with respect to costs. If the district court has denied the appellee's motion to dismiss the appeal, the appellee may move the Supreme Court to docket and dismiss the appeal by filing an original and 10 copies of a motion presented in conformity with Rules 21 and 33.2. The motion must be accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, and by a certificate from the clerk of the district court, certifying that a notice of appeal was filed and that the appellee's motion to dismiss was denied. Once an appellee has filed a motion to dismiss an appeal, the appellant may not then file a jurisdictional statement without special leave of the Supreme Court, and the Court may allow costs against the appellant. n25

[f] Appellee's Motion After Docketing to Dismiss or Affirm

[i] Motion by Appellee

Within 30 days after the case is placed on the Supreme Court's docket, the appellee may file a motion to dismiss, to affirm, or in the alternative to affirm or dismiss. Forty copies of the motion must be filed, except that an appellee proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which must precede and be attached to each copy of the motion. The motion must follow, insofar as applicable, the form for a brief in opposition prescribed by Supreme Court Rule 15 and must comply in all respects with Supreme Court Rule 21. n26

[ii] Responsive Brief By Appellant

Any appellant may file a brief opposing a motion to dismiss or to affirm, but distribution and consideration by the Court under Supreme Court Rule 18.7 n27 will not be deferred pending its receipt. Forty copies must be filed, except that an appellant proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2. The brief must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n28

[g] Clerk's Duty to Distribute Documents

The Supreme Court Clerk will distribute the jurisdictional statement to the Court for its consideration on receiving an express waiver of the right to file a motion to dismiss or to affirm or, if no waiver or motion is filed, on the expiration of the time allowed for filing. If a motion to dismiss or to affirm is timely filed, the clerk will distribute the jurisdictional statement, motion, and any brief opposing the motion to the Court for its consideration no less than 10 days after the motion is filed. n29 If a cross-appeal has been docketed, distribution of both jurisdictional statements will be deferred until the cross-appeal is due for distribution under Supreme Court Rule 18. n30

[h] Supplemental Briefs

Any party may file a supplemental brief at any time while a jurisdictional statement is pending, calling attention to new cases, new legislation, or other intervening matter not available at the time of the party's last filing. A supplemental brief may argue only new matter, and must follow, to the extent applicable, the form for a brief in opposition prescribed by Supreme Court Rule 15. A party must file 40 copies of a supplemental brief, except that a party proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2. The supplemental brief must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n31

[i] Duty of District Court Clerk Regarding Record

The clerk of the district court must retain possession of the record until notified by the Clerk of the Supreme Court to certify and transmit it. It must be certified and transmitted in the same manner as cases being reviewed on certiorari. n32

[j] Action By Supreme Court

The Supreme Court has several choices after considering the jurisdictional statement, motions, and briefs distributed under Supreme Court Rule 18. The Court may dispose summarily of the appeal on the merits, note probable jurisdiction, or postpone consideration of jurisdiction until a hearing of the case on the merits. If not disposed of summarily, the case stands for briefing and oral argument on the merits. If consideration of jurisdiction is postponed, the attorneys at the outset of their briefs and at oral argument, must address the question of jurisdiction. If the record has not previously been filed in the Supreme Court, the Clerk of the Supreme Court will request the clerk of the court in possession of the record to certify and transmit it. n33

[3] Procedure for Certified Question n*

[a] Certification By Court of Appeals

If a United States Court of Appeals desires instruction for the proper decision of a case, the court may certify to the Supreme Court a question or proposition of law. n34 The certificate must contain a statement of the nature of the case and the facts on which the question or proposition of law arises. Only questions or propositions of law may be certified, and they must be stated separately and with precision. The certificate must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2 and must be signed by the clerk of the court of appeals. n35 When a question is certified by a court of appeals, the Supreme Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may consider and decide the entire matter in controversy. n36

[b] Certification Procedure in Supreme Court

When a question is certified, the Supreme Court Clerk must notify the parties and docket the case, and the attorneys must then enter their appearances. After docketing, the Supreme Court Clerk will submit the certificate to the Court for a preliminary examination to determine whether the case should be briefed, set for argument, or dismissed. No brief may be filed until the preliminary examination of the certificate is completed. n37 If the Court orders the case briefed or set for argument, the Supreme Court Clerk will notify the parties, who are then permitted to file briefs. The Clerk of the Supreme Court then will request the clerk of the court in possession of the record to certify and transmit it. If the parties wish to direct the Court's particular attention to any portion of the record, it should be printed in a joint appendix, prepared in conformity with Supreme Court Rule 26, by the appellant or petitioner in the court of appeals. However, if any part of the record has not been printed, that fact will not prevent the parties or the Court from relying on it. n38 Any brief on the merits in a case involving a certified question must comply with Rules 24, 25, and 33.1, except that the brief for the party who is the appellant or petitioner below must be filed within 45 days of the order requiring briefs or setting the case for argument. n39

[4] Procedure on Petition for Extraordinary Writ n*

[a] Supreme Court's Discretion to Issue Writ

Under the All Writs Act, the Supreme Court has discretion to issue an extraordinary writ authorized by the Judicial Code. n40 Such a writ is not issued as a matter of right in any case but is entirely within the discretion of the Court. n41 For example, the Supreme Court may issue an injunction against the enforcement of a statute that is unconstitutional. However, issuance of relief under the All Writs Act must be used sparingly, only in the most critical and exigent circumstances, and only if the legal rights at issue are indisputably clear. n42 Thus, to justify the granting of an extraordinary writ by the Supreme Court, the petitioner must show: that (1) no other adequate means exist to attain the relief sought, (2) the party's right to issuance of the writ is clear and indisputable, and (3) the writ is appropriate under the circumstances. n43 With respect to unavailability of other available "adequate relief," the Supreme Court has held that if any statute or rule specifically addresses the particular issue under consideration, it is that statutory authority or rule that governs the procedure which must be followed, and the Court may not supersede that procedure by issuing an extraordinary writ under the All Writs Act. n44

[b] General Requirements for Petition

A petition seeking a writ authorized by the All Writs Statute n45 or a writ of habeas corpus n46 must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rules 33 and 34. The petition must be captioned "In re _____ [name of petitioner]" and must follow, to the extent applicable, the form of a petition for a writ of certiorari prescribed by Supreme Court Rule 14. The petitioner must include all of the petitioner's supporting contentions. Before the case is docketed, the petitioner generally must file 40 copies with the Clerk and pay the docket fee; however, a petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39 need only file the number of copies required for a petition under Supreme Court Rule 12.2, and must attach a copy of the motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis preceding each petition. The petition must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29 and is subject to Supreme Court Rule 20.4(b) regarding ex parte habeas corpus procedures. n47

[c] Petition Seeking Writ of Prohibition or Mandamus

A petition seeking a writ of prohibition, a writ of mandamus, or both in the alternative, must state the name and office or function of every person against whom relief is sought and must set out with particularity why the relief sought is not available in any other court. A copy of the judgment with respect to which the writ is sought, n47.1 including any related opinion, must be appended to the petition together with any other document essential to understanding the petition. n48 A petitioner may obtain a stay pending the filing and disposition of a petition for a writ of mandamus by showing a fair prospect that a majority of the Court will vote to grant mandamus and the likelihood that irreparable harm will result from the denial of a stay. n48.1

The petitioner must serve the petition on every party to the proceeding with respect to which relief is sought. Within 30 days after the petition is placed on the docket, a party must file 40 copies of any brief or briefs in opposition to the petition, which must comply fully with Supreme Court Rule 15. If a party named as a respondent does not wish to respond to the petition, that party may so advise the Clerk and all other parties by letter. All persons served are deemed respondents for all purposes in the proceedings in the Supreme Court. n49

[d] Petition Seeking Writ of Habeas Corpus

A petition seeking a writ of habeas corpus must comply with the requirements of Judicial Code Sections 2241 and 2242, n50 and, in particular, with the provision in the last paragraph of Section 2242, which requires a statement of the reasons for not making application to the district court of the district in which the applicant is held. n51 A petition for habeas corpus is rarely granted. n52

When the habeas relief sought is from a judgment of a state court, the petition must set out specifically how and where the petitioner has exhausted available remedies in the state courts or otherwise comes within the provisions of Judicial Code Section 2254(b). n53 The petitioner must also show that exceptional circumstances warrant the exercise of the Court's discretion, and that adequate relief cannot be obtained in any other form or from any other court. n53.1 However, the state court judgment or opinion that is the subject of the habeas petition need not necessarily state explicitly the federal habeas grounds that formed the satisfaction of the exhaustion requirement. n53.2

Except in capital cases, habeas corpus proceedings are ex parte, unless the Court requires the respondent to show cause why the petition for a writ of habeas corpus should not be granted. If it is a capital case or if the Court orders a response, the response must comply fully with Supreme Court Rule 15. Neither the denial of the petition, without more, nor an order of transfer to a district court under the authority of Judicial Code Section 2241(b), n54 is an adjudication on the merits, and therefore does not preclude further application to another court for the relief sought. n55

[e] Petition Documentation

The Supreme Court Clerk must distribute the documents to the Court for its consideration when a brief in opposition under Supreme Court Rule 20.3(b) has been filed, n56 when a response under Supreme Court Rule 20.4(b) has been ordered and filed, n57 when the time to file has expired, or when the right to file has been expressly waived. n58 If the Court orders the case set for argument, the Clerk will notify the parties whether additional briefs are required, when they must be filed, and, if the case involves a petition for a common-law writ of certiorari, that the parties must prepare a joint appendix in accordance with Supreme Court Rule 26. n59

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsRule Application & Interpretation

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 517.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 17.1; see § 29.01[2] (discussion of jurisdiction for original action in Supreme Court); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1251.

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 17.2.

(n4)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 17.3, 17.7.

(n5)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 17.4.

(n6)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5.

(n7)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 17.5.

(n8)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 17.6.

(n9)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 29.3.

(n10)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 17.6.

(n11)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 17.7.

(n12)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 518.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n13)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 18.1; Territo v. United States, 358 U.S. 279, 279, 79 S. Ct. 312, 3 L. Ed. 2d 298 (1959) (time for appeal jurisdictional; appeal dismissed because it was not timely filed).

(n14)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 18.1.

(n15)Footnote 13. See Sup. Ct. R. 18.3 (issues may be stated in jurisdictional statement).

(n16)Footnote 14. Sup. Ct. R. 18.1.

(n17)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 18.2.

(n18)Footnote 16. Sup. Ct. R. 18.3.

(n19)Footnote 17. Sup. Ct. R. 18.3.

(n20)Footnote 17.1. See § 29.10[1][a].

(n21)Footnote 18. Sup. Ct. R. 18.13; see [i], above.

(n22)Footnote 19. Sup. Ct. R. 18.3; see Pittsburgh Towing Co. v. Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co., 385 U.S. 32, 32-33, 87 S. Ct. 195, 17 L. Ed. 2d 31 (1966) ("misunderstanding between counsel" did not excuse late filing).

(n23)Footnote 20. Sup. Ct. R. 18.3.

(n24)Footnote 21. Sup. Ct. R. 18.4.

(n25)Footnote 22. See Sup. Ct. R. 38(a).

(n26)Footnote 23. Sup. Ct. R. 18.4.

(n27)Footnote 24. Sup. Ct. R. 18.5.

(n28)Footnote 25. Sup. Ct. R. 18.5.

(n29)Footnote 26. Sup. Ct. R. 18.6.

(n30)Footnote 27. See [f], below.

(n31)Footnote 28. Sup. Ct. R. 18.8.

(n32)Footnote 29. Sup. Ct. R. 18.7.

(n33)Footnote 30. Sup. Ct. R. 18.9.

(n34)Footnote 31. Sup. Ct. R. 18.10.

(n35)Footnote 32. Sup. Ct. R. 18.11; see Sup. Ct. R. 12.7.

(n36)Footnote 33. Sup. Ct. R. 18.12.

(n37)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 519.02, 519.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n38)Footnote 34. Sup. Ct. R. 19.1; 28 U.S.C. § 1254(2) (this process is know as certification).

(n39)Footnote 35. Sup. Ct. R. 19.1.

(n40)Footnote 36. Sup. Ct. R. 19.2.

(n41)Footnote 37. Sup. Ct. R. 19.3.

(n42)Footnote 38. Sup. Ct. R. 19.4.

(n43)Footnote 39. Sup. Ct. R. 19.5.

(n44)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 520.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n45)Footnote 40. See 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a).

(n46)Footnote 41. Sup. Ct. R. 20.1.

(n47)Footnote 42. Wis. Right to Life, Inc. v. FEC, 542 U.S. 1305, 1305-1306, 125 S. Ct. 2, 159 L. Ed. 2d 805 (2004) ; Brown v. Gilmore, 533 U.S. 1301, 1303, 122 S. Ct. 1, 150 L. Ed. 2d 782 (2001) (closely contested claims were not indisputably clear).

(n48)Footnote 43. Hollingsworth v. Perry, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 705, 175 L. Ed. 2d 657, 663 (2010) ; see Sup. Ct. R. 20.1.

(n49)Footnote 44. Syngenta Crop Prot., Inc. v. Henson, 537 U.S. 28, 32, 123 S. Ct. 366, 154 L. Ed. 2d 368 (2002) .

(n50)Footnote 45. See 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a).

(n51)Footnote 46. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241, 2254.

(n52)Footnote 47. Sup. Ct. R. 20.2.

(n53)Footnote 47.1. See Cheney v. United States Dist. Court, 542 U.S. 367, 124 S. Ct. 2576, 2586-2587, 159 L. Ed. 2d 459 (2004) (writ of mandamus is typically issued by higher court against lower court).

(n54)Footnote 48. Sup. Ct. R. 20.3(a).

(n55)Footnote 48.1. Hollingsworth v. Perry, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 705, 175 L. Ed. 2d 657, 663-664 (2010) .

(n56)Footnote 49. Sup. Ct. R. 20.3(b).

(n57)Footnote 50. Sup. Ct. R. 20.4(a); see 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241, 2242.

(n58)Footnote 51. Sup. Ct. R. 20.4(a); see 28 U.S.C. § 2242.

(n59)Footnote 52. Sup. Ct. R. 20.4(b).

(n60)Footnote 53. 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241, 2254.

(n61)Footnote 53.1. Sup. Ct. R. 20.4(a).

(n62)Footnote 53.2. Dye v. Hofbauer, 546 U.S. 1, 126 S. Ct. 5, 163 L. Ed. 2d 1 (2005) (discussing exhaustion of state remedy requirement).

(n63)Footnote 54. See 28 U.S.C. § 2241(b).

(n64)Footnote 55. Sup. Ct. R. 20.4(b).

(n65)Footnote 56. See [c], above.

(n66)Footnote 57. See [d], above.

(n67)Footnote 58. Sup. Ct. R. 20.5.

(n68)Footnote 59. Sup. Ct. R. 20.6.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.06

§ 29.06 Procedures Regarding Writ of Certiorari

[1] Considerations Governing Whether Court Will Grant Writ n*

A litigant does not have a right to review the Supreme Court's decision regarding a writ of certiorari; the Supreme Court has complete judicial discretion on whether to issue the writ. The Court will grant a petition for a writ of certiorari only for compelling reasons. Furthermore, a petition for a writ of certiorari is rarely granted when the asserted error consists of erroneous factual findings or the misapplication of a properly stated rule of law. The following list, although neither controlling nor fully measuring the Court's discretion, indicate the character of the reasons the Court will grant a writ of certiorari:

> 1. A United States court of appeals has entered a decision in conflict with the decision of another United States court of appeals on the same important matter; has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with a decision by a state court of last resort; or has so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings, or sanctioned such a departure by a lower court, as to call for an exercise of the Supreme Court's supervisory power. n1
>
> 2. A state court of last resort has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with the decision of another state court of last resort or of a United States court of appeals. n2
>
> 3. A state court or a United States court of appeals has decided an important question of federal law that has not been, but should be, settled by the Supreme Court, or has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with relevant decisions of the Supreme Court. n3

A "state court" subject to Supreme Court review includes the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the courts of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the local courts of Guam. Also, "state laws" include the statutes of the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Territory of Guam. n3.1

[2] Certiorari Before Judgment in United States Court of Appeals n*

The Supreme Court may consider a petition for a writ of certiorari to review a case pending in a United States court of appeals, even before judgment is entered in the court of appeals. n4 Certiorari will be granted, however, only on a showing that the case is of such imperative public importance as to justify deviation from normal appellate practice and to require immediate determination in the Supreme Court. n5 An application to the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari to review a case before judgment has been rendered in the court of appeals may be made at any time before judgment. n6 One area in which this type of writ of certiorari is granted is for labor disputes with significant public importance. n7

[3] Method of Petitioning for Writ n*

[a] Filing of Writ

Except when proceeding in forma pauperis, a petitioner for writ of certiorari must file 40 copies of a petition for a writ of certiorari, prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1 and must pay the Supreme Court Rule 38(a) docket fee. n8 A petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39 must file an original and 10 copies of a petition for a writ of certiorari prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2, together with an original and 10 copies of the motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis. A copy of the motion must precede and be attached to each copy of the petition. An inmate confined in an institution, if proceeding in forma pauperis and not represented by counsel, need file only an original petition and motion. n9

[b] Requirements of All Writs

Whether the petitioner is in forma pauperis or not, the petition must comply in all respects with Supreme Court Rule 14 and must be submitted with proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. The Clerk will then place the case on the docket. It is the petitioner's duty to notify all respondents promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the case was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the case. The notice must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n10

[c] Multiple Petitioners

Parties interested jointly, severally, or otherwise in a judgment may petition separately for a writ of certiorari; or any two or more may join in a petition. A party not shown on the petition as joined in the petition at the time the petition is filed may not later join in that petition. When two or more judgments are sought to be reviewed on a writ of certiorari to the same court and involve identical or closely related questions, a single petition for a writ of certiorari covering all the judgments suffices. A petition for a writ of certiorari may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis must be attached. n11

[d] Respondent's Cross Petition

A respondent may file a conditional cross-petition no more than 30 days after a case has been placed on the docket. The time to file a conditional cross-petition will not be extended. A conditional cross-petition is a cross-petition that would have been untimely if filed under the rules governing the time for filing a certiorari petition. A respondent filing a conditional cross-petition must file, with proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, 40 copies of the cross-petition prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1, except that a cross-petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39 must comply with Supreme Court Rule 12.2. The cross-petition must comply in all respects with Supreme Court Rule 12 and Supreme Court Rule 14, except that material already reproduced in the appendix to the opening petition need not be reproduced again.

A cross-petitioning respondent must pay the Supreme Court Rule 38(a) docket fee or submit a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis. The cover of the cross-petition must indicate clearly that it is a conditional cross-petition. The cross-petition then will be placed on the docket, subject to the provisions of Supreme Court Rule 13.4. It is the cross-petitioner's duty to notify all cross-respondents promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the cross-petition was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the cross-petition. The notice must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. A cross-petition for a writ of certiorari may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis must be attached. n12

[e] Persons Deemed Parties to Petition

All parties to the proceeding in the court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed are deemed parties entitled to file documents in the Supreme Court, unless the petitioner notifies the Clerk of the Supreme Court in writing of the petitioner's belief that one or more of the parties below has no interest in the outcome of the petition. A copy of such notice must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29 on all parties to the proceeding below. A party noted as no longer interested may remain a party by notifying the Clerk promptly, with service on the other parties, of an intention to remain a party. All parties other than the petitioner are considered respondents, but any respondent who supports the position of a petitioner must meet the petitioner's time schedule for filing documents, except that a response supporting the petition must be filed within 20 days after the case is placed on the docket, and that time will not be extended. Parties who file no documents will not qualify for any relief from the Supreme Court. n13

[f] Maintenance and Transmission of Record

In any document filed with the Supreme Court, a party may cite or quote from the record, even if it has not been transmitted to the Supreme Court. n14 The Supreme Court Rules provide a means to obtain the record from the lower court. The clerk of the court having possession of the record must keep the record until notified by the Clerk of the Supreme Court to certify and transmit it. When requested by the Clerk of the Supreme Court to certify and transmit the record, or any part of it, the clerk of the court having possession of the record must number the documents to be certified and must transmit with the record a numbered list specifically identifying each document transmitted. If the record, or stipulated portions, have been printed for the use of the court below, that printed record, plus the proceedings in the court below, may be certified as the record unless one of the parties or the Clerk of the Supreme Court requests otherwise. n15

The record may consist of certified copies, but if the lower court is of the view that original documents of any kind should be seen by the Supreme Court, that court may provide by order for the transport, safekeeping, and return of such originals. n16

[4] Time for Petition n*

[a] Time from Judgment

A petition for a writ of certiorari to review a judgment in any case, civil or criminal, entered by a state court of last resort or a United States court of appeals is generally timely when it is filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court within 90 days after entry of the judgment. n16.1 A petition for a writ of certiorari seeking review of a judgment of a lower state court that is subject to discretionary review by the state court of last resort is timely when it is filed with the Clerk within 90 days after entry of the order denying discretionary review. n17 Different times may otherwise be provided by law. For example, when the Court may issue a writ of certiorari to review an interlocutory order, such as under Judicial Code Section 2350, n18 Supreme Court Rule 13 does not apply. Judicial Code Section 2350 provides that certiorari is available to review the grant or denial of an interlocutory injunction entered under Section 2349(b), but the application for the writ must be made within 45 days of the entry of the order. This statutory provision controls the question of the applicable time period. n19

[b] Late Filing Rejected by Clerk

The Clerk is instructed to reject for filing any petition for a writ of certiorari that is jurisdictionally out of time. n20 Thus, for a civil case, the clerk must reject any petition for writ of certiorari intended to bring any judgment or decree that is taken or applied for later than 90 days after the entry of the judgment or decree. n21 A justice of the Supreme Court, for good cause shown, may extend the time for applying for a writ of certiorari for a period not exceeding 60 days. n22

[c] When Time to File Begins to Run

The time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari runs from the date of entry of the judgment or order sought to be reviewed and not from the issuance date of the mandate or the equivalent of mandate under local practice. n23 However, if a petition for rehearing is timely filed in the lower court by any party, or if the lower court appropriately entertains an untimely petition for rehearing or sua sponte considers rehearing, the time to file the petition for a writ of certiorari for all parties (whether or not they requested rehearing or joined in the petition for rehearing) runs from the date of the denial of rehearing or, if rehearing is granted, the subsequent entry of judgment. n24

[d] Time to File Cross Petition

A cross-petition for a writ of certiorari is timely when it is filed with the Clerk as provided in Supreme Court Rule 13.1, 13.3, and 13.5, or in Supreme Court Rule 12.5. However, a conditional cross-petition, which except for Supreme Court Rule 12.5 would be untimely, will not be granted unless another party's timely petition for a writ of certiorari is granted. n25

[e] Extension of Time for Good Cause

For good cause, a Justice may extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari for a period not exceeding 60 days. n26 An application to extend the time to file must set out the basis for jurisdiction in the Supreme Court, identify the judgment sought to be reviewed, include a copy of the opinion and any order respecting rehearing, and set out specific reasons why an extension of time is justified. The application must be filed with the Clerk at least 10 days before the date the petition is due, except in extraordinary circumstances. The time and manner of presenting the application is prescribed in Supreme Court Rules 21, 22, 30, and 33.2. n27

An application to extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari is not favored. n28 In making its determination of whether good cause exists for an extension, the Court will consider all of the circumstances, but takes the rule of disfavor seriously. For example, the Court held that good cause did not exist despite the voluminous record in the lower court, the breadth of errors for which review was sought, and the attorney's absence for a period, because the attorney's familiarity with the record was demonstrated by the 375-page brief filed in the state appellate court, the attorney had six months to review the record while seeking rehearing below, and the attorney's absences did not affect orderly administration of deadlines. n29 Thus, the petitioner seeking an extension of time should establish that, but for the reasons specified in the application why an extension of time is justified, the applicant would have filed a timely application for an extension. n30

[5] Requirements of Petition n*

[a] Contents of Petition

A petition for a writ of certiorari must contain all of the following, in the order listed (if the material required is voluminous, it may be presented in a separate volume or volumes with appropriate covers): n31

1. The questions presented for review. The litigant must express the questions concisely in relation to the circumstances of the case, without unnecessary detail. The questions should be short and should not be argumentative or repetitive. If the petitioner or respondent is under a death sentence that may be affected by the disposition of the petition, the notation "capital case" must precede the questions presented. The questions must be set out on the first page following the cover, and no other information may appear on that page. The statement of any question presented is deemed to comprise every subsidiary question fairly included in the question. n32 The Court will consideronly the questions that are set out in the petition, and those considerations that are fairly included in such questions. n33

2. A list of all parties to the proceeding in the court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed (unless the caption of the case contains the names of all the parties), and a list of parent companies and nonwholly owned subsidiaries as required by Supreme Court Rule 29.6. n34

3. If the petition exceeds five pages or 1,500 words, a table of contents and a table of cited authorities. The table of contents shall include the items contained in the appendix. n35

4. Citations of the official and unofficial reports of the opinions and orders entered in the case by courts or administrative agencies. n36

5. A concise statement of the basis for jurisdiction in the Supreme Court, showing: n37

> a. The date the judgment or order sought to be reviewed was entered (and, if applicable, a statement that the petition is filed under Supreme Court Rule 11); n38
>
> b. The date of any order respecting rehearing, and the date and terms of any order granting an extension of time to file the petition for a writ of certiorari; n39
>
> c. Express reliance on Supreme Court Rule 12.5, when a cross-petition for a writ of certiorari is filed under that rule, and the date of docketing of the petition for a writ of certiorari in connection with which the cross-petition is filed; n40
>
> d. The statutory provision believed to confer on the Supreme Court jurisdiction to review, on a writ of certiorari, the judgment or order in question; n41 and
>
> e. If applicable, a statement that the notifications required by Supreme Court Rule 29.4(b) or (c) have been made. n42

6. The constitutional provisions, treaties, statutes, ordinances, and regulations involved in the case, set out verbatim with appropriate citations. If the provisions involved are lengthy, their citation alone suffices at this point, and their pertinent text must be set out in the appendix referred to in Supreme Court Rule 14.1(i). n43

7. A concise statement of the case setting out the facts material to the consideration of the questions presented and also containing the following: n44

> a. If review of a state-court judgment is sought, the specification of the stage in the proceedings, both in the court of first instance and in the appellate courts, when the federal questions sought to be reviewed were raised; the method or manner of raising them and the way in which they were passed on by those courts; and pertinent quotations of specific portions of the record or summary of the record, with specific references to the places in the record where the matter appears (e.g., the court's opinion, rulings on exceptions, portions of court's charge and exceptions to the charge, or assignments of error), so as to show that the federal question was timely and properly raised and that the Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review the judgment on a writ of certiorari. When the portions of the record relied on under this subparagraph are voluminous, they must be included in the appendix. n45

b. If review of a judgment of a United States court of appeals is sought, the basis for federal jurisdiction in the court of first instance. n46

8. A direct and concise argument amplifying the reasons relied on for allowance of the writ, as discussed in Supreme Court Rule 10. n47

9. An appendix containing, in the following order:

a. The opinions, orders, findings of fact, and conclusions of law, whether written or orally given and transcribed, entered in conjunction with the judgment sought to be reviewed; n48

b. Any other relevant opinions, orders, findings of fact, and conclusions oflaw entered in the case by courts or administrative agencies, and, if reference to them is necessary to ascertain the grounds of the judgment, any opinions, orders, findings of fact, and conclusions of law entered in companion cases (each document must include the caption showing the name of the issuing court or agency, the title and number of the case, and the date of entry); n49

c. Any order on rehearing, including the caption, showing the name of the issuing court, the title and number of the case, and the date of entry; n50

d. The judgment sought to be reviewed if the date of its entry is different from the date of the opinion or order required in (a), above; n51

e. Material required by Supreme Court Rules 14.1(f) or 14.1(g)(i); n52 and

f. Any other material the petitioner believes essential to understand the petition. n53

[b] Presentations of Contentions

All contentions in support of a petition for a writ of certiorari must be set out in the body of the petition, as provided in Supreme Court Rule 14.1(h), which requires a direct and concise argument amplifying the reasons relied on for allowance of the writ. No separate brief in support of a petition for a writ of certiorari may be filed, and the Clerk will not file any petition for a writ of certiorari to which any supporting brief is annexed or appended. n54

[c] Limitations on Petition

A petition for a writ of certiorari should be stated briefly and in plain terms and may not exceed the word or page limitations specified in Supreme Court Rule 33. n55 The failure of a petitioner to present with accuracy, brevity, and clarity whatever is essential to a ready and adequate understanding of the points requiring consideration is sufficient reason for the Court to deny a petition. n56

[d] Clerk's Request that Nonconforming Petition be Corrected

If the Clerk determines that a petition that has been submitted in a timely manner and in good faith is, however, in a form that does not comply with Supreme Court Rules 14, 33, or 34, the Clerk will return it with a letter indicating the deficiency. If the litigant submits a corrected petition in accordance with Rule 29.2, n57 no more than 60 days after the date of the Clerk's letter, the petition will be deemed timely. n58

[6] Opposition and Reply Briefs n*

[a] When Opposition Brief Required

A brief in opposition to a petition for a writ of certiorari may be filed by the respondent in any case but is not mandatory except in a capital case n59 or when ordered by the Court. n60 A failure to file a brief constitutes a waiver of any opposition to the petition for certiorari. n61

[b] Required Arguments and Waiver

A brief in opposition should be stated briefly and in plain terms and may not exceed the word or page limitations specified in Supreme Court Rule 33. In addition to presenting other arguments for denying the petition, the brief in opposition should address any perceived misstatement of fact or law in the petition that bears on what issues properly would be before the Court if certiorari were granted. n62

A significant new question or argument raised by the respondent must be raised in the opposition to the petition, because the Court will ordinarily not entertain such a question raised for the first time in a merits brief. The Court expects notice of an intent to make a far reaching argument in the respondent's opposition to a petition for certiorari, in order to assure adequate preparation time for those likely affected and wishing to participate. n63 The rules do not allow a respondent to file a motion to dismiss a petition for a writ of certiorari. Consequently, any objections to the jurisdiction of the Court to grant a petition for a writ of certiorari must be included in the brief in opposition. n64

Supreme Court Rule 15.2 specifically admonishes attorneys that they have an obligation to the Court to point out in the brief in opposition, and not later, anyperceived misstatement made in the petition. n65 Any objection to consideration of a question presented based on what occurred in the proceedings below, if the objection does not go to jurisdiction, may be deemed waived unless called to the Court's attention in the brief in opposition. n66 Consequently, an argument is waived if either the litigant did not seek consideration of the argument in the lower court or the litigant does not address the argument in its brief in opposition to the petition. n67

However, the Court has discretion regarding waiver, and it will be especially inclined to hear an issue, even if the issue is not jurisdictional and even if it was not called to the Court's attention in the brief in opposition, if the issue could be "fairly included" within the question that was actually presented to the Court. n68

[c] Time for Filing and Format of Opposition Briefs

If any party desires or is required to file a brief in opposition, n69 it must be filed within 30 days after the case is placed on the docket, unless the time is extended by the Court or a Justice, or by the Clerk under Supreme Court Rule 30.4. The opposition party must file 40 copies of the brief, except that a respondent proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which must precede and be attached to each copy of the brief in opposition. n70 If the respondent wants, or is required, to file a brief in opposition to a petition filed in forma pauperis, the respondent must prepare its brief in opposition as required by Rule 33.2, n71 and must file an original and 10 copies of that brief. n72

Whether prepared under Supreme Court Rules 33.1 or 33.2, the brief in opposition must comply with the requirements of Supreme Court Rule 24 governing a respondent's brief, except that no summary of the argument is required. A brief in opposition may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis must be attached. The brief in opposition must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n73

[d] Clerk's Duty to Distribute Documents

Once the time for filing a brief in opposition has passed, or earlier on receiving an express waiver of the right to file a brief in opposition, the Supreme Court Clerk must distribute the petition to the Court for its consideration. If a brief in opposition is timely filed, the Clerk will distribute the petition, brief in opposition, and any reply brief to the Court for its consideration no less than 10 days after the brief in opposition is filed. n74 If a cross-petition for a writ of certiorari has been docketed, distribution of the original and cross petitions will be deferred until the cross-petition is due for distribution under Supreme Court Rule 15. n75

[e] Reply Brief

Any petitioner may file a reply brief addressed to new points raised in the brief in opposition. However, distribution and consideration by the Court under Supreme Court Rule 15.5 will not be deferred pending its receipt. The litigant must file 40 copies of the brief, except that a petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2. The reply brief must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n76

Any party may file a supplemental brief at any time while a petition for a writ of certiorari is pending, calling attention to new cases, new legislation, or other intervening matters not available at the time of the party's last filing. A supplemental brief must be restricted to new matter and must follow, insofar as applicable, the form for a brief in opposition prescribed by Supreme Court Rule 15. Forty copies must be filed, except that a party proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2. A supplemental brief must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n77

[7] Disposition of a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari n*

After the Supreme Court considers the documents distributed under Supreme Court Rule 15, the Court will enter an appropriate order which may be a summary disposition on the merits. n78 If the Court decides to grant a petition for a writ of certiorari, the Clerk will prepare, sign, and enter an order to that effect and will immediately notify counsel of record and the court whose judgment is to be reviewed. The case then will be scheduled for briefing and oral argument. If the record has not previously been filed in the Supreme Court, the Clerk will request the clerk of the court having possession of the record to certify and transmit it. The Clerk will not issue a formal writ unlessspecially directed. n79 If the Court decides to deny a petition for a writ of certiorari, the Clerk will prepare, sign, and enter an order to that effect and will immediately notify counsel of record and the court whose judgment was sought to be reviewed. An order denying a petition for a writ of certiorari will not be suspended pending disposition of a petition for rehearing except by order of the Court or a Justice. n80 A suspension of an order of denial constitutes "most extraordinary relief," and a Justice or the Supreme Court will not grant a suspension unless there is a reasonable likelihood of the Court's reversing its previous position and granting certiorari. n81

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewFederal Court DecisionsCivil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewState Court Decisions

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 510.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 10(a); see United States v. Dionisio, 410 U.S. 1, 5, 93 S. Ct. 764, 35 L. Ed. 2d 67

(1973) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 10(b); see Cuyler v. Adams, 449 U.S. 433, 435-436, 101 S. Ct. 703, 66 L. Ed. 2d 641 (1981) (certiorari granted to resolve conflict among circuits and state courts over interpretation of interstate agreement on detainers).

(n4)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 10(c); Chemical Waste Management, Inc. v. Hunt, 504 U.S. 334, 339, 112 S. Ct. 2009, 119 L. Ed. 2d 121, 130 (1992) (certiorari granted because of importance of federal question and likelihood that it had been decided in way conflicting with applicable decisions of Supreme Court).

(n5)Footnote 3.1. Sup. Ct. R. 47.

(n6)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 511.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n7)Footnote 4. 28 U.S.C. § 1254(1).

(n8)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 11.

(n9)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 2101(e).

(n10)Footnote 7. United States v. United Mine Workers of Am., 330 U.S. 258, 269, 67 S. Ct. 677, 91 L. Ed. 884 (1947) (Supreme Court granted certiorari to review action of district court only four days after defendants had taken appeal to court of appeals).

(n11)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 512.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n12)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 12.1.

(n13)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 12.2.

(n14)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 12.3.

(n15)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 12.4.

(n16)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 12.5.

(n17)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 12.6.

(n18)Footnote 14. Sup. Ct. R. 12.7.

(n19)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 12.7.

(n20)Footnote 16. Sup. Ct. R. 12.7.

(n21)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 513.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n22)Footnote 16.1. Sup. Ct. R. 13.1; see Hibbs v. Winn, 542 U.S. 88, 124 S. Ct. 2276, 159 L. Ed. 2d 172, 183 (2004) ; see also [c], below.

(n23)Footnote 17. Sup. Ct. R. 13.1.

(n24)Footnote 18. 28 U.S.C. § 2350.

(n25)Footnote 19. 28 U.S.C. §§ 2349, 2350.

(n26)Footnote 20. Sup. Ct. R. 13.2.

(n27)Footnote 21. See Bowles v. Russell, 551 U.S. 205, 127 S. Ct. 2360, 168 L. Ed. 2d 96, 103 (2007) (stating that 90 day time limit for filing petition is jurisdictional and mandatory in civil cases, but may be relaxed in criminal cases).

(n28)Footnote 22. 28 U.S.C. § 2101(c); see [e], below.

(n29)Footnote 23. Sup. Ct. R. 13.3.

(n30)Footnote 24. Sup. Ct. R. 13.3; see Hibbs v. Winn, 542 U.S. 88, 97-99, 124 S. Ct. 2276, 159 L. Ed. 2d 172 (2004) (time period for filing petition for writ is suspended by any order of lower court that suspends finality of its judgment); Cochran v. Holder, 564 F.3d 318, 324 (4th Cir. 2009) (motion for rehearing or rehearing en banc in Courts of Appeals delays running of period to file petition for writ of certiorari in Supreme Court).

(n31)Footnote 25. Sup. Ct. R. 13.4.

(n32)Footnote 26. Sup. Ct. R. 13.5; see 28 U.S.C. § 2101(c).

(n33)Footnote 27. Sup. Ct. R. 13.5; see Boumediene v. Bush, 550 U.S. 1301, 127 S. Ct. 1725, 167 L. Ed. 2d 757, 758-759 (2007) (express provisions of rules control extensions of time in which to file a petition for writ of certiorari, but do not allow request for extension of time in which to file a petition for rehearing of an order denying certiorari).

(n34)Footnote 28. Sup. Ct. R. 13.5.

(n35)Footnote 29. Penry v. Texas, 515 U.S. 1304, 1304-1306, 116 S. Ct. 2, 3, 132 L. Ed. 2d 887 (1995) .

(n36)Footnote 30. See Davis v. Bruce, 215 F.R.D. 612, 620 (D. Kan. 2003) .

(n37)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 514.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n38)Footnote 31. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1.

(n39)Footnote 32. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(a); see Richlin Sec. Serv. Co. v. Chertoff, 553 U.S. 571, 128 S. Ct. 2007, 170 L. Ed. 2d 960, 968 n.4 (2008) (when question presented could not genuinely be answered without addressingsubsidiary question, court concluded that subsidiary question was fairly included within presented question).

(n40)Footnote 33. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(a); see 14 Penn Plaza LLC v. Pyett, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1456, 173 L. Ed. 2d 398, 420 (2009) (Court would not consider question that was not encompassed within question presented to court); City of Sherrill v. Oneida Indian Nation, 544 U.S. 197, 214-215, 125 S. Ct. 1478, 161 L. Ed. 2d 386 (2005) (Court may consider all matters inextricably linked to questions actually presented in petition).

(n41)Footnote 34. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(b).

(n42)Footnote 35. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(c).

(n43)Footnote 36. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(d).

(n44)Footnote 37. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e).

(n45)Footnote 38. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e)(i).

(n46)Footnote 39. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e)(ii).

(n47)Footnote 40. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e)(iii).

(n48)Footnote 41. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(a); cf. Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 431, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696 (2004) (attorneys should have stated compliance with statutory requirements for jurisdiction).

(n49)Footnote 42. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e)(v).

(n50)Footnote 43. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(f).

(n51)Footnote 44. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(g).

(n52)Footnote 45. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(g)(i); see Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 431-432, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696 (2004) (petition for certiorari must demonstrate to Supreme Court that Court has jurisdiction to review judgment).

(n53)Footnote 46. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(g)(ii).

(n54)Footnote 47. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(h).

(n55)Footnote 48. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(i)(i).

(n56)Footnote 49. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(i)(ii); see Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 431-432, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696 (2004) (demonstrating that petitioner should include complete versions of all opinions and decisions that could possibly affect Supreme Court determination).

(n57)Footnote 50. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(i)(iii).

(N58)Footnote 51. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(i)(iv).

(n59)Footnote 52. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(i)(v); see Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(g)(i); see also Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 431, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696 (2004) (attorneys should have included opinions of lower court bearing on jurisdictional grounds of Supreme Court).

(n60)Footnote 53. Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(i)(vi).

(n61)Footnote 54. Sup. Ct. R. 14.2.

(n62)Footnote 55. Sup. Ct. R. 14.3.

(n63)Footnote 56. Sup. Ct. R. 14.4.

(n64)Footnote 57. See § 29.10[1][a].

(n65)Footnote 58. Sup. Ct. R. 14.5; cf. Becker v. Montgomery, 532 U.S. 757, 767, 121 S. Ct. 1801, 149 L. Ed. 2d 983 (2001) (Supreme Court indicating errors in form or title of petition or name party could be corrected under Rule 14.5).

(n66)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 515.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n67)Footnote 59. See Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(a).

(n68)Footnote 60. Sup. Ct. R. 15.1.

(n69)Footnote 61. *Deal v. Hamilton County Dep't of Educ., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 76324, at 50 (E.D. Tenn. 2006) .

(n70)Footnote 62. Sup. Ct. R. 15.2.

(n71)Footnote 63. Gross v. FBL Fin. Servs., ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 2343, 174 L. Ed. 2d 119, 132 (2009) .

(n72)Footnote 64. Sup. Ct. R. 15.4.

(n73)Footnote 65. Carcieri v. Salazar, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1058, 172 L. Ed. 2d 791, 804 (2009) (Court may accept as fact any matter asserted in petition that is not contested in opposition to petition).

(n74)Footnote 66. Sup. Ct. R. 15.2.

(n75)Footnote 67. Baldwin v. Reese, 541 U.S. 27, 33-34, 124 S. Ct. 1347, 158 L. Ed. 2d 64 (2004) .

(n76)Footnote 68. See Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(a); see also City of Sherrill v. Oneida Indian Nation, 544 U.S. 197, 214-215, 125 S. Ct. 1478, 161 L. Ed. 2d 386 (2005) .

(n77)Footnote 69. See [a], above.

(n78)Footnote 70. Sup. Ct. R. 15.3.

(n79)Footnote 71. See Sup. Ct. R. 33.2 (requiring brief on 8 1/2- by 11-inch paper).

(n80)Footnote 72. Sup. Ct. R. 15.3.

(n81)Footnote 73. Sup. Ct. R. 15.3.

(n82)Footnote 74. Sup. Ct. R. 15.5.

(n83)Footnote 75. Sup. Ct. R. 15.7.

(n84)Footnote 76. Sup. Ct. R. 15.6; see, e.g., Colburn v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 1016, 123 S. Ct. 517, 154 L. Ed. 2d 422 (2002) (court may dispense with filing requirements of Rule 29).

(n85)Footnote 77. Sup. Ct. R. 15.8.

(n86)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 516.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n87)Footnote 78. Sup. Ct. R. 16.1.

(n88)Footnote 79. Sup. Ct. R. 16.2.

(n89)Footnote 80. Sup. Ct. R. 16.3; see In re Smith, 436 F.3d 9, 10-11 (1st Cir. 2006) (unless suspended, denial will start to run certain time limitations, such as one year period for prisoner to seek habeas corpus relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2255.

(n90)Footnote 81. Boumediene v. Bush, 550 U.S. 1301, 127 S. Ct. 1725, 1727, 167 L. Ed. 2d 757, 759 (2007)

(possible grant of certiorari based on activity in lower courts not sufficient).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.07

§ 29.07 Motions and Applications

[1] Motions to Entire Supreme Court n*

[a] Motion Contents

Whenever any party makes a motion to the Supreme Court, the motion must clearly state its purpose and the facts on which it is based, and may present legal argument in support of the motion. Motions must not be accompanied by separate briefs and no separate brief may be filed. A motion should be concise and must comply with any applicable word or page limits. n1 In contrast to a motion to the entire court under Supreme Court Rule 21, Supreme Court Rule 22 governs an application addressed to a single Justice. n2

[b] Motion Format

The format of a motion depends on the type of action in which the motion is made, or the particular type of motion, as follows:

1. If a motion is to be filed in any action within the Court's original jurisdiction, the motion must comply with Supreme Court Rule 17.3. n3

2. A motion to dismiss as moot, a motion for leave to file a brief as amicus curiae, and any motion the granting of which would dispose of the entire case or would affect the final judgment to be entered (other than a motion to docket and dismiss under Supreme Court Rule 18.5 or a motion for voluntary dismissal under Supreme Court Rule 46) must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1, and 40 copies must be filed, except that a movant proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file a motion prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2, and must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2. The motion must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n4

3. Any motion to the Court other than those described in items 1 and 2 must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2; the moving party must file an original and 10 copies. The Court subsequently may order the moving party to prepare the motion as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1, and in that event the party must file 40 copies. n5

[c] Filing Motion

A motion to the Court must be filed with the Clerk and must be accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. A litigant may not present a motion in open Court except when the proceeding to which it refers is being argued, and except for a motion for admission to the Bar. Oral argument on a motion will not be permitted unless the Court directs oral argument. n6

[d] Filing Response to Motion

A party who desires to file a response to a motion, must file the response as promptly as possible considering the nature of the relief sought and any asserted need for emergency action, and in any event, within 10 days of receipt of a motion. However, the Court or a Justice or the Clerk under Supreme Court Rule 30.4, may set a different time. A response to a motion prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1 must be prepared in the same manner if time permits. In an appropriate case, the Court may act on a motion without waiting for a response. n7

[2] Applications to Individual Justices n*

[a] Procedure for Making Application

Each Supreme Court Justice has authority to individually grant or deny certain types of relief, n8 typically related to injunctive relief or a stay of proceedings. n9 When an individual Justice does have such authority, a party may make an application to the individual Justice by filing the application to the Clerk, who must transmit it promptlyto the appropriate Justice. n10 The original and two copies of any application addressed to an individual Justice must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2 and must be accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n11 An application must be addressed to the Justice allotted to the circuit from which the case arises, except that an application arising from the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces must be addressed to the Chief Justice. When the Justice allotted to a circuit is unavailable for any reason, an application addressed to that Justice will be distributed to the Justice then available who is next junior to the Circuit Justice; the turn of the Chief Justice follows that of the most junior Justice. n12

When an application for a stay or for bail is submitted to an individual Justice, that justice has discretion to refer it to the entire Court for determination. n13 Alternatively, the individual Justice may deny the application without referring it to the court if appropriate in the circumstances, for example, if time is of the essence. n14

When an individual Justice denies or grants an application, the Clerk must promptly advise all parties concerned of the disposition made of the application. n15

[b] Procedure for Renewal in Event of Denial

If an individual Justice denies an application made to the Justice, he or she will note the denial on the application. Thereafter, unless action on the application is restricted by law to the Circuit Justice or is untimely under Supreme Court Rule 30.2, the party making an application, except in the case of an application for an extension of time, may renew it to any other Justice, subject to the provisions of Supreme Court Rule 22. Except when the denial is without prejudice, a renewed application is not favored. Renewed application is made by a letter to the Clerk, designating the Justice to whom the application is to be directed and must be accompanied by 10 copies of the original application and proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n16

[3] Application for Stay n*

[a] Availability of Stay

A stay may be granted by a Justice as permitted by law. n1 Thus, when a final judgment or decree of any court is subject to review by the Supreme Court on writ of certiorari, the execution and enforcement of such judgment or decree may be stayed for a reasonable time to enable the losing party to obtain a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court. The stay may be granted by a justice of the Supreme Court or by the court rendering the judgment or decree. n2

The Supreme Court will stay execution of a lower court judgment, such as an appellate mandate, only in extraordinary cases. The court has developed a test whether to grant a stay. As a threshold, the applicant must demonstrate three conditions: (1) a reasonable probability that four Justices of the U.S. Supreme Court will consider the issue sufficiently meritorious to grant certiorari or to note probable jurisdiction; (2) a significant prospect that a majority of the Court will conclude that the lower court decision was erroneous and will be reversed; and (3) a likelihood that irreparable harm will result from a denial of a stay. n3 With respect to the third condition, irreparable harm, the amount of money, time, and energy lost in the absence of a stay are not controlling. Irreparable harm exists only when no adequate compensatory or other corrective relief will be available at a later date in the ordinary course of the litigation, as through an appeal. n4

All of these three threshold factors must be present under the circumstances of the particular situation, and no one factor controls. n5 However, a stay will not issue simply because the necessary threshold conditions are satisfied. Rather, the Court must next exercise equitable discretion to determine whether a stay should be denied because a balance of the equities weighs against a stay. n6 This balance of equities is an analysis of the relative harms to the applicant and respondent, as well as the interests of the public at large. n7

[b] Requirements for Application

Any party to a judgment sought to be reviewed in the Supreme Court may present to a Justice an application to stay the enforcement of that judgment. n8 An application for a stay must set out with particularity why the relief sought is not available from any other court or judge. Except in the most extraordinary circumstances, an application for a stay will not be entertained unless the relief requested was first sought in the appropriate court or courts below or from a judge or judges of the court or courts. An application for a stay must identify the judgment sought to be reviewed and have appended to the stay a copy of the order and opinion, if any, and a copy of the order, if any, of the court or judge below denying the relief sought, and must set out specific reasons why a stay is justified. The form and content of an application for a stay are governed by Supreme Court Rules 22 and 33.2. n9

[c] Requirement of Bond

When an appeal of a judgment is pending before the Supreme Court, a Justice of the Supreme Court or the lower court judge may condition its grant of an application for stay of execution of the judgment on the applicant's posting of a bond. n10 This bond to obtain a stay of judgment pending appeal is known as a supersedeas bond. n11

When required by the court granting the stay, the applicant must post a supersedeas bond having an approved surety or sureties in an amount sufficient to satisfy the judgment in full, and also any costs, interest, and damages for delay that may be awarded for prosecution of the appeal. n12 In this regard, the Supreme Court Justice or lower court judge may require a bond covering the expenses of the applicant's failure to file a petition writ of certiorari within the time period allotted, failure to obtain an order granting his or her petition for writ of certiorari, failure to prevail in Supreme Court, and all other damages and costs that the other party incurs on account of the stay. n13 If a part of the judgment sought to be reviewed has already been satisfied, or is otherwise secured, the bond may be conditioned on the satisfaction of the part of the judgment not otherwise secured or satisfied, together with costs, interest, and damages. n14

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewFederal Court DecisionsCivil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewState Court Decisions

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 521.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 21.1.

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 21.1; see [2], below.

(n4)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 21.2(a); see § 29.05[1][b].

(n5)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 21.2(b).

(n6)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 21.2(c).

(n7)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 21.3.

(n8)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 21.4.

(n9)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 522.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n10)Footnote 8. See 28 U.S.C. § 42 (each Supreme Court justice may be allotted to hear matters from each circuit); see, e.g., Democratic Nat'l Comm. v. Republican Nat'l Comm., 543 U.S. 1304, 1304, 125 S. Ct. 306, 160 L. Ed. 2d 216 (2004) .

(n11)Footnote 9. See [3], below; see also 28 U.S.C. § 2101(f).

(n12)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 22.1.

(n13)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 22.2.

(n14)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 22.3.

(n15)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 22.5; see Brunner v. Ohio Republican Party, 555 U.S. 5, 129 S. Ct. 5, 172 L. Ed. 2d 4, 5 (2008) .

(n16)Footnote 14. See Spencer v. Pugh, 543 U.S. 1301, 1302-1303, 125 S. Ct. 305, 160 L. Ed. 2d 213 (2004) .

(n17)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 22.6.

(n18)Footnote 16. Sup. Ct. R. 22.4.

(n19)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 523.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n20)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 23.1.

(n21)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 2101(f); see Sup. Ct. R. 23.2.

(n22)Footnote 3. Philip Morris USA Inc. v. Scott, ___ U.S. ___, 131 S. Ct. 1, 177 L. Ed. 2d 1040, 1042 (2010) .

(n23)Footnote 4. Conkright v. Frommert, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1861, 173 L. Ed. 2d 865, 867 (2009) .

(n24)Footnote 5. Ind. State Police Pension Trust v. Chrysler LLC, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 2275, 173 L. Ed. 2d 1285, 1287 (2009) (stay is not a matter of right, even if irreparable injury would otherwise result).

(n25)Footnote 6. Philip Morris USA Inc. v. Scott, ___ U.S. ___, 131 S. Ct. 1, 177 L. Ed. 2d 1040, 1043-1044 (2010) .

(n26)Footnote 7. Conkright v. Frommert, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 1861, 173 L. Ed. 2d 865, 867 (2009) .

(n27)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 23.2; see 28 U.S.C. § 2101(f) (execution and enforcement of judgment or decree may be stayed for reasonable time to enable party aggrieved to obtain writ of certiorari from Supreme Court).

(n28)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 23.3.

(n29)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 23.4.

(n30)Footnote 11. See State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell, 538 U.S. 408, 413, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585 (2003) .

(n31)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 23.4.

(n32)Footnote 13. 28 U.S.C. § 2101(f).

(n33)Footnote 14. Sup. Ct. R. 23.4.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.08

§ 29.08 Brief on Merits

[1] General Requirements of Brief n*

[a] Required Contents of Brief for Petitioner or Appellant

A brief on the merits for a petitioner or an appellant must comply in all respects with Supreme Court Rules 33.1 and 34, and must contain in the following order: n1

1. The questions presented for review under Supreme Court Rule 14.1(a). The questions must be set out on the first page following the cover, and no other information may appear on that page. The phrasing of the questions presented need not be identical with that in the petition for a writ of certiorari or the jurisdictional statement; however, the brief may not raise any additional questions or issues, nor may the brief modify the substance of the questions already presented in those documents. n2 The court does have discretion, on the other hand, to consider a plain error even if the error is not among the issues presented, provided that the error is otherwise evident from the record and otherwise within its jurisdiction to decide. n3

2. A list of all parties to the proceeding in the court whose judgment is under review, unless the caption of the case in the Supreme Court contains the names of all parties. Any amended list of parent companies and nonwholly owned subsidiaries as required by Supreme Court Rule 29.6 must be placed here. n4

3. If the brief exceeds five pages, a table of contents and a table of cited authorities. n5

4. Citations of the official and unofficial reports of the opinions and orders entered in the case by courts and administrative agencies. n6

5. A concise statement of the basis for jurisdiction in the Supreme Court, including the statutory provisions and time factors on which jurisdiction rests. n7 The parties must include an accurate jurisdictional statement in the briefs on the merits because the Supreme Court must ensure that it has jurisdiction to review a judgment at all stages of the appellate process. The court will rely on the statements in the brief on the merits, as well as all other materials required to be submitted to the Court, such as opinions of lower courts, to verify its jurisdiction at all stages of the proceedings. n8

6. The constitutional provisions, treaties, statutes, ordinances, and regulations involved in the case, set out verbatim with appropriate citation. If the provisions involved are lengthy, their citation alone suffices at this point, and their pertinent text, if not already set out in the petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, or an appendix to either document, must be set out in an appendix to the brief. n9

7. A concise statement of the case, setting out the facts material to the consideration of the questions presented, with appropriate references to the joint appendix, e.g., App. 12, or to the record, e.g., Record 12. n10

8. A summary of the argument in suitable paragraph format. The summary must be a clear and concise condensation of the argument made in the body of the brief; mere repetition of the headings under which the argument is arranged is not sufficient. n11

9. The argument, stating clearly the points of fact and of law presented and citing the authorities and statutes relied on. n12

10. A conclusion specifying with particularity the relief the party seeks. n13

[b] Required Contents of Brief for Respondent or Appellee

A brief on the merits for a respondent or an appellee must conform to the requirements specified for a petitioner or appellant, n14 except that items required by Supreme Court Rule 24.1(a), (b), (d), (e), (f), and (g) need not be included unless the respondent or appellee is dissatisfied with their presentation by the opposing party. n15

[c] Required Contents of Reply Brief

A reply brief must conform to those portions of Supreme Court Rule 24 applicable to the brief for a respondent or an appellee, n16 but if appropriately divided by topical headings, need not contain a summary of the argument. n17

[d] Limitations

A brief on the merits may not exceed the word limitations specified in Supreme Court Rule 33.1(g). Thus, the reply brief is limited to 6,000 words. n18 An appendix to a brief may include only relevant material; it may not contain arguments or citations that properly belong in the body of the brief. n19

[e] Cross references

A reference to the joint appendix or to the record set out in any brief must indicate the appropriate page number. If the reference is to an exhibit, the page numbers at which the exhibit appears, at which it was offered in evidence, and at which it was ruled on by the judge must be indicated, e.g., Pl. Exh. 14, Record 199, 2134. n20

[f] Striking of Inappropriate Material

A brief must be concise, logically arranged with proper headings, and free of irrelevant, immaterial, or scandalous matter. The Court may disregard or strike a brief that does not comply with this requirement. n21

[2] Timely Filing of Required Number of Copies n*

[a] Time for Filing by Petitioner or Appellant or Parties in Support

The petitioner or appellant must file 40 copies of the brief on the merits within 45 days of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction. Any respondent or appellee who supports the petitioner or appellant must meet the petitioner's or appellant's time schedule for filing documents. n1

[b] Time for Filing by Respondent or Appellee

The respondent or appellee must file 40 copies of the brief on the merits within 30 days after the brief for the petitioner or appellant is filed. n2

[c] Time for Filing Reply

The petitioner or appellant must file 40 copies of the reply brief, if any, within 30 days after the brief for the respondent or appellee is filed, but any reply brief must actually be received by the Clerk not later than 2 p.m. one week before the date of oral argument. Any respondent or appellee supporting the petitioner or appellant may file a reply brief. n3 Additionally, the Supreme Court may allow amicus curiae leave to file briefs, with reply briefs to be filed within the 35-day time period specified in Rule 25.3. n4

[d] Extensions of Time

The time periods for filing a brief may be extended as provided in Supreme Court Rule 30. An application to extend the time to file a brief on the merits is not favored. If a case is advanced for hearing, the time to file briefs on the merits may be abridged as circumstances require pursuant to an order of the Court on its own motion or that of a party. n5

[e] Supplemental Brief

A party wishing to present late authorities, newly enacted legislation, or other intervening matter that was not available in time to be included in a brief may file 40 copies of a supplemental brief, restricted to such new matter and otherwise presented in conformity with the Supreme Court Rules, up to the time the case is called for oral argument or by leave of the Court after that time. n6

[f] Refusal of Filings by Clerk

After a case has been argued or submitted, the Supreme Court Clerk will not file any brief, except that of a party filed by leave of the Court. n7 The Clerk also will not file any brief that is not accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. n8

[g] Electronic Submission of All Briefs on Merits

At the time any party files a brief on the merits, the party must also transmit an electronic version of the brief to the Clerk of Court and to opposing counsel of record at the time the brief is filed in accordance with guidelines established by the Clerk. This electronic transmission requirement is in addition to, and does not obviate, the requirement that the parties timely file booklet-format briefs. n9

[h] Brief in Cross-Petition or Cross-Appeal

If a cross-petition or cross-appeal has been consolidated for argument, and if requested by the parties, the Clerk may designate the parties to assume the roles of appellant and appellee. n10 Thus, the clerk designates one of the parties to file an initial brief and reply brief as if the party were petitioner or appellant, n11 and designates the other party to file an initial response brief as provided in Rule 25.2 and, to the extent appropriate, a supplemental brief following the submission of the reply brief. n12 In such a case, the Clerk also establishes the time for the submission of the briefs and alter the otherwise applicable word limits. Except as approved by the Court or a Justice, the total number of words permitted for the briefs of the parties cumulatively shall not exceed the maximum that would have been allowed in the absence of a cross-petition or cross-appeal brief. n13

[3] Filing of Joint Appendix n*

[a] Requirement of Joint Appendix

Unless the Clerk has allowed the parties to use the deferred method described in Supreme Court Rule 26.4, the petitioner or appellant, within 45 days after entry of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction, must file 40 copies of a joint appendix, prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1. n1 For good cause, the time limits regarding the filing of an appendix may be shortened or extended by the Court or a Justice, or by the Clerk under Supreme Court Rule 30.4. n2

The Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may dispense with the requirement of a joint appendix, and may permit a case to be heard on the original record (with such copies of the record, or relevant parts of the record, as the Court may require) or on the appendix used in the court below, if it conforms to the requirements of Supreme Court Rule 26. n3

[b] Contents of Joint Appendix

The joint appendix generally must contain all four of the following:

1. The relevant docket entries in all the courts below;

2. Any relevant pleadings, jury instructions, findings, conclusions, or opinions.

3. The judgment, order, or decision under review.

4. Any other parts of the record that the parties particularly wish to bring to the Court's attention.

However, any of the four above items already reproduced in a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, brief in opposition to a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion to dismiss or affirm, or any appendix to the foregoing, that was prepared as required by Rule 33.1, need not be reproduced again in the joint appendix. The petitioner or appellant must serve three copies of the joint appendix on each of the other parties to the proceeding as required by Rule 29. n4

[c] Designation in Absence of Agreement

The Supreme Court encourages parties to agree on the contents of the joint appendix. In the absence of agreement, the petitioner or appellant, within 10 days after entry of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction, must serve on the respondent or appellee a designation of parts of the record to be included in the joint appendix. Within 10 days after receiving the designation, a respondent or appellee who considers the parts of the record designated by the opposition insufficient must serve on the petitioner or appellant a designation of additional parts to be included in the joint appendix, and the petitioner or appellant must include the parts so designated.

If the Court has permitted the respondent or appellee to proceed in forma pauperis, the petitioner or appellant may seek by motion to be excused from printing portions of the record the petitioner or appellant considers unnecessary. In making these designations, counsel should include only those materials the Court should examine and must avoid unnecessary designations. The record is on file with the Clerk and available to the Justices, and counsel may refer in briefs and in oral argument to relevant portions of the record not included in the joint appendix. n5

[d] Costs

When filing the joint appendix, the petitioner or appellant also must immediately file with the Clerk a statement of the cost of printing 50 copies and must serve a copy of the statement on each of the other parties as required by Rule 29. Unless the parties agree otherwise, the cost of producing the joint appendix must be paid initially by the petitioner or appellant; but a petitioner or appellant who considers that parts of the record designated by the respondent or appellee are unnecessary for the determination of the issues presented may so advise the respondent or appellee, who then must advance the cost of printing the additional parts, unless the Court or a Justice otherwise establishes the initial allocation of the costs. The cost of printing the joint appendix is taxed as a cost in the case, but if a party unnecessarily causes matter to be included in the joint appendix or prints excessive copies, the Court may impose these costs on that party. n6

[e] Deferred Method of Filing

The Supreme Court Clerk may allow deferral of preparation of the joint appendix until after the briefs have been filed, if the parties request deferral. In that event, the petitioner or appellant must file the joint appendix no more than 14 days after receiving the brief for the respondent or appellee. The provisions of Supreme Court Rule 26.1, 26.2, and 26.3 must be followed, except that the designations referred to in those provisions must be made by each party when that party's brief is served. Deferral of the joint appendix is not favored. n7

If the deferred method is used, the briefs on the merits may refer to the pages of the record. In that event, the joint appendix must include in brackets on each page of the appendix the page number of the record where that material may be found. A party wishing to refer directly to the pages of the joint appendix may serve and file copies of its brief prepared as required by Rule 33.2 within the time provided by Supreme Court Rule 25, with appropriate references to the pages of the record. In that event, within 10 days after the joint appendix is filed, copies of the brief prepared as required by Rule 33.1 containing references to the pages of the joint appendix in place of, or in addition to, the initial references to the pages of the record, must be served and filed. No other change may be made in the brief as initially served and filed, except that typographical errors may be corrected. n8

[f] Preface of Joint Appendix

The joint appendix must be prefaced by a table of contents showing the parts of the record that it contains, in the order in which the parts are set out, with references to the pages of the joint appendix at which each part begins. The relevant docket entries must be set out after the table of contents, followed by the other parts of the record in chronological order. When testimony contained in the reporter's transcript of proceedings is set out in the joint appendix, the page of the transcript at which the testimony appears must be indicated in brackets immediately before the statement that is set out. Omissions in the transcript or in any other document printed in the joint appendix must be indicated by asterisks. Immaterial formal matters must be omitted, for example, unnecessary captions, subscriptions, acknowledgments. A question and its answer may be included in a single paragraph. n9

[g] Exhibits

Exhibits designated for inclusion in the joint appendix may be contained in a separate volume or volumes suitably indexed. The transcript of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer used in an action in a district court or court of appeals is regarded as an exhibit for the purposes of this paragraph. n10

[h] Indication of Dates on Cover

The parties must place two lines at the bottom of the cover of the joint appendix: (1) The first line must indicate the date the petition for the writ of certiorari was filed or the date the appeal was docketed; (2) The second line must indicate the date certiorari was granted or the date jurisdiction of the appeal was noted or postponed. n11

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 524.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1.

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(a); see Board of Trustees v. Garrett, 531 U.S. 356, 360 n.1, 121 S. Ct. 955, 148 L. Ed. 2d 866 (2001) (Court not required to decide issues not briefed by parties, even if certiorari was granted on issue); Chandris, Inc. v. Latsis, 515 U.S. 347, 353 n.*, 115 S. Ct. 2172, 132 L. Ed. 2d 314 (1995) (because issue was not specified in petition for certiorari, Court would not consider argument concerning issue).

(n4)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(a); see Board of Trustees v. Garrett, 531 U.S. 356, 360 n.1, 121 S. Ct. 955, 148 L. Ed. 2d 866 (2001) (even if Court grants certiorari on particular issue not presented by parties, court is not required to decide issue); Taylor v. Freeland & Kronz, 503 U.S. 638, 646, 112 S. Ct. 1644, 118 L. Ed. 2d 280 (1992) (Court should only consider additional issues in unusual circumstances).

(n5)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(b).

(n6)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(c).

(n7)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(d).

(n8)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(e).

(n9)Footnote 8. Johnson v. California, 541 U.S. 428, 431-432, 124 S. Ct. 1833, 158 L. Ed. 2d 696 (2004) (Supreme Court dismissed case for lack of jurisdiction once court determined, after briefs on merits were filed, that highest state court judgment was not "final").

(n10)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(f).

(n11)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(g).

(n12)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(h).

(n13)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(i).

(n14)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 24.1(j).

(n15)Footnote 14. See [a], above.

(n16)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 24.2.

(n17)Footnote 16. See [a], above.

(n18)Footnote 17. Sup. Ct. R. 24.4.

(n19)Footnote 18. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(g)(vii).

(n20)Footnote 19. Sup. Ct. R. 24.3.

(n21)Footnote 20. Sup. Ct. R. 24.5.

(n22)Footnote 21. Sup. Ct. R. 24.6.

(n23)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 525.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n24)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 25.1.

(n25)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 25.2.

(n26)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 25.3.

(n27)Footnote 4. See Metro-North Commuter R.R. v. Buckley, 519 U.S. 958, 958, 117 S. Ct. 379, 136 L. Ed. 2d 297 (1996) .

(n28)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 25.5.

(n29)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 25.6.

(n30)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 25.7.

(n31)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 25.8.

(n32)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 25.9.

(n33)Footnote 10. See Sup. Ct. R. 25.4.

(n34)Footnote 11. See Sup. Ct. R. 25.1, 25.3.

(n35)Footnote 12. See Sup. Ct. R. 25.2, 25.5.

(n36)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 25.4.

(n37)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 526.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n38)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 26.1.

(n39)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 26.9.

(n40)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 26.8.

(n41)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 26.1.

(n42)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 26.2.

(n43)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 26.3.

(n44)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 26.4(a).

(n45)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 26.4(b).

(n46)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 26.5.

(n47)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 26.7.

(n48)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 26.6.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.09

§ 29.09 Calendar and Oral Argument

[1] Calendar n*

The Clerk must periodically prepare a calendar of cases ready for argument. A case ordinarily will not be called for argument less than two weeks after the brief on the merits for the respondent or appellee is due. n1 The Clerk will advise the attorneys when they are required to appear for oral argument and will publish a hearing list in advance of each argument session for the convenience of counsel and the information of the public. n2 The Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may order that two or more cases involving the same or related questions be argued together as one case or on such other terms as the Court may prescribe. n3

[2] Oral Argument n*

[a] Nature of Oral Argument

In their oral argument, the attorneys should emphasize and clarify the written arguments in the briefs on the merits. The attorneys should assume that all Justices have read the briefs before oral argument. Oral argument read from a prepared text is not favored. n4

[b] Order of Oral Argument

The petitioner or appellant must open and may conclude the argument. A cross-writ of certiorari or cross-appeal will be argued with the initial writ of certiorari or appeal as one case in the time allowed for that one case, and the Court will advise the parties who must open and close. n5 Unless the Court directs otherwise, each side is allowed one-half hour for argument. Attorneys are not required to use all their allotted time. To make a request for additional time to argue, the litigant must make a motion under Rule 21 in time to be considered at a scheduled conference prior to the date of oral argument and no later than 7 days after the respondent's or appellee's brief on the merits is filed. The motion must set out specifically and concisely why the case cannot be presented within the half-hour limitation. The Supreme Court will rarely accord additional time. n6

Generally, the Court will hear only one attorney each side. However, the court may hear more than one attorney, in a procedure know as divided argument, by granting leave of the Court on motion filed by a litigant. The motion must be filed in time to be considered at a scheduled conference prior to the date of oral argument and no later than 7 days after the respondent's or appellee's brief on the merits is filed. The motion must meet the requirements of Supreme Court Rule 21 and must set out specifically and concisely why more than one attorney should be allowed to argue. Divided argument is not favored. n7

Regardless of the number of counsel participating in oral argument, counsel making the opening argument must present the case fairly and completely and not reserve points of substance for rebuttal. n8 Oral argument will not be allowed on behalf of any party for whom a brief has not been filed. n9

[c] Oral Argument by Attorney for Amicus Curiae

Subject to leave of the Court and the usual requirements of oral argument under Supreme Court Rule 28.4, n10 counsel for an amicus curiae whose brief has been filed as provided in Supreme Court Rule 37 may argue orally on the side of a party with the consent of that party. In the absence of consent, counsel for an amicus curiae may seek leave of the Court to argue orally by a motion setting out specifically and concisely why oral argument would provide assistance to the Court not otherwise available. Such a motion will be granted only in the most extraordinary circumstances. n11

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 527.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 27.1.

(n3)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 27.2.

(n4)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 27.3.

(n5)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 528.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n6)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 28.1.

(n7)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 28.2.

(n8)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 28.3.

(n9)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 28.4.

(n10)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 28.5.

(n11)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 28.6.

(n12)Footnote 10. See [b], above.

(n13)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 28.7.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.10

§ 29.10 General Supreme Court Practice and Procedures

[1] Filing, Service, and Notice n*

[a] Filing of Documents

If a litigant is required or permitted to present any document to the Court or to an individual Justice, the document must be filed with the Clerk. n1 A document is timely filed if it is received by the Clerk within the time specified for filing; or if it is sent to the Clerk through the United States Postal Service by first-class mail (including express or priority mail), postage prepaid, and bears a postmark, other than a commercial postage meter label, showing that the document was mailed on or before the last day for filing; or if it is delivered on or before the last day for filing to a third-party commercial carrier for delivery to the Clerk within three calendar days. n1.1 It is significant to note that a document is considered filed as of the time it is placed in authorized mail; it is not necessarily that it be received by the clerk. n1.2

If submitted by an inmate confined in an institution, a document is timely filed if it is deposited in the institution's internal mail system on or before the last day for filing and is accompanied by a notarized statement or declaration in compliance with Judicial Code Section 1746, n2 setting out the date of deposit and stating that first-class postage has been prepaid. If the postmark is missing or not legible, or if the third-party commercial carrier does not provide the date the document was received by the carrier, the Clerk will require the person who mailed the document to submit a notarized statement or declaration in compliance with Judicial Code Section 1746, n3 setting out the details of the mailing and stating that the mailing took place on a particular date within the permitted time. n3.1

A document also is timely filed if it is forwarded through a private delivery or courier service and is actually received by the Clerk within the time permitted for filing. n4

[b] Service of Documents

[i] In General

When the Supreme Court Rules require a document to be served, the document may be served personally, by mail, or by third-party commercial carrier for delivery within three calendar days on each party to the proceeding at or before the time of filing. n5 Ordinarily, service on a party must be by a manner at least as expeditious as the manner used to file the document with the Court. If a party makes personal service, service must consist of delivery at the office of the counsel of record, either to counsel or to an employee in the office. If service is by mail or third-party commercial carrier, it must consist of depositing the document with the United States Postal Service, with no less than first-class postage prepaid, or delivery to the carrier for delivery within three calendar days, addressed to counsel of record at the proper address. When a party is not represented by counsel, service must be made on the party, personally, by mail, or by commercial carrier.

The number of copies required to be served depends on the type of document. If the document has been prepared in booklet style, as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1, n5.1 three copies must be served on each other party separately represented in the proceeding. If the document has been prepared in standard sized paper format, as required by Rule 33.2, n5.2 service of a single copy on each other separately represented party is sufficient. n5.3

[ii] Service on United States Entity

If the United States or any federal department, office, agency, officer, or employee is a party to be served, service must be made on the Solicitor General of the United States, Room 5614, Department of Justice, 10th St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20530. When an agency of the United States that is a party is authorized by law to appear before the Supreme Court on its own behalf, or when an officer or employee of the United States is a party, the agency, officer, or employee must be served in addition to the Solicitor General. n6

[iii] Service in Case Involving Constitutionality of Act of Congress

In any proceeding in the Supreme Court in which the constitutionality of an act of Congress is drawn into question, and neither the United States nor any federal department, office, agency, officer, or employee is a party, the initial document filed in the Supreme Court must recite that 28 U.S.C. Section 2403(a) n7 may apply and must be served on the Solicitor General of the United States, Room 5614, Department of Justice, 10th St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20530. n8

[iv] Service in Case Involving Constitutionality of Statute of State

In any proceeding in the Supreme Court in which the constitutionality of any statute of a state is drawn into question, and neither the state nor any agency, officer, or employee of the state is a party, the initial document filed in the Supreme Court must recite that 28 U.S.C. Section 2403(b) may apply and must be served on the attorney general of that state. n9

[c] Proof Service of Documents

When required by a Supreme Court rule, proof of service must accompany the document when it is presented to the Clerk for filing, but must be separate from and not included in the document. Proof of service must contain, or be accompanied by, a statement that all parties required to be served have been served, together with a list of the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of counsel indicating the name of the party or parties each counsel represents. It is not necessary that service on each party required to be served be made in the same manner or evidenced by the same proof. Proof of service may consist of any one of the following three documents:

1. An acknowledgment of service signed by the attorney of record for the party served and bearing the address and telephone number of the attorney. n10

2. A certificate of service that recites the facts and circumstances of service in compliance with the appropriate paragraph or paragraphs of Supreme Court Rule 29, and which is signed by a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court representing the party on whose behalf service is made or by an attorney appointed to represent that party under the Criminal Justice Act n11 or under any other applicable federal statute. n12

3. A notarized affidavit or declaration in compliance with the Judicial Code, n13 reciting the facts and circumstances of service in accordance with the appropriate paragraph or paragraphs of Supreme Court Rule 29, whenever service is made by any person not a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court and not an attorney appointed to represent a party under the Criminal Justice Act, n14 or under any other applicable federal statute. n15

[d] Corporate Disclosure Statement

When an attorney files any document, except a joint appendix or amicus curiae brief, on behalf of a nongovernmental corporation, the document must contain a corporate disclosure statement that identifies the parent corporations and lists any publicly held company that owns 10 percent or more of the corporation's stock. n16 The purpose of a disclosure statement is to assist the Justices in ascertaining whether any Justice has an interest that should cause the Justice to recuse himself or herself from the case. n17 If there is no parent or publicly held company owning 10 percent or more of the corporation's stock, a notation to this effect must be included in the document. If a statement has been included in a document filed earlier in the case, reference may be made to the earlier document, except when the earlier statement appeared in a document prepared under Supreme Court Rule 33.2, and only amendments to the statement to make it current need be included in the document being filed. n18

[2] Computation and Extension of Time n*

[a] Computation of Time

In the computation of any period of time prescribed or allowed by the Supreme Court Rules, by order of the Supreme Court, or by an applicable statute, the day of the act, event, or default from which the designated period begins to run is not included. The last day of the period must be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, or federal legal holiday, n19 or day on which the Court building is closed by order of the Court or the Chief Justice, in which event the period must extend until the end of the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, federal legal holiday, or day on which the Court building is closed. n20

[b] Application for Extension of Time

Whenever a Justice or the Clerk is empowered by law or the Supreme Court Rules to extend the time to file any document, the litigant requesting the extension must file an application within the period sought to be extended. An application to extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari or to file a jurisdictional statement must be filed at least 10 days before the specified final filing date as computed under the Supreme Court Rules; if filed less than 10 days before the final filing date, the application will not be granted except in the most extraordinary circumstances. n21 In addition to showing extraordinary circumstances, the petitioner should establish that, but for such circumstances, the applicant would have filed the application more than 10 days before the final filing date. n21.1

[c] General Format of Application

For an application to extend the time to file a document or paper other than those that must be submitted to an individual justice, n22 the application may be presented in the form of a letter to the Clerk setting out specific reasons why an extension of time is justified. The letter must be served on all other parties as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. The application may be acted on by the Clerk in the first instance, and any party aggrieved by the Clerk's action may request that the application be submitted to a Justice or to the Court. The Clerk will report action under this paragraph to the Court as instructed. n23

[d] Certain Applications Must be Submitted to Individual Justice

If a litigant makes an application to extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari, to file a jurisdictional statement, to file a reply brief on the merits, or to file a petition for rehearing, the application must be made to an individual Justice and presented and served on all other parties as provided by Supreme Court Rule 22. Once denied, such an application may not be renewed. n24

[3] Translations n*

Whenever a court clerk is required to transmit a record to the Supreme Court that contains material written in a foreign language without a translation made under the authority of the lower court, or admitted to be correct, the clerk of the court transmitting the record must advise the Clerk of the Supreme Court immediately, so that the Supreme Court may order that a translation be supplied and, if necessary, printed as part of the joint appendix. n25

[4] Demonstrative Evidence and Material Provided for Inspection of Court n*

Models, diagrams, and exhibits of material that form a part of the evidence taken in a case and that are brought to the Supreme Court for its inspection must be placed in the custody of the Clerk at least two weeks before the case is to be heard or submitted. n26 All models, diagrams, exhibits, and other items placed in the custody of the Clerk must be removed by the parties no more than 40 days after the case is decided. If this is not done, the Clerk will notify counsel to immediately remove the articles. If they are not removed within a reasonable time after the case is decided, the Clerk will destroy them or dispose of them in any other appropriate way. n27

If a party or amicus curiae desires to lodge non-record material with the Clerk, the requesting party must set out in a letter, served on all parties, a description of the material proposed for lodging and the reasons why it would be proper for the Supreme Court to consider the non-record material. The requesting party may not submit material proposed for lodging until and unless requested by the Clerk. n27.1 As used in the federal courts, the term "lodge," is commonly understood as referring to the temporary acceptance of a document by the clerk pending a determination whether the court will consider it, while the term file means that a document is officially deposited with the court as part of the record. n27.2

This requirement has been added to the Supreme Court Rules because the practice of lodging non-record materials has increased in recent years to the extent that parties and amici curiae have deluged the court with all types of materials, such as, reports, magazine articles, photographs, video and cassette tapes, and DVDs. This new requirement places the burden on the party or amicus curiae wishing to submit the non-record material to show why the Court should consider the material. The requirement also eliminates the need for the court to be the depository of materials that may not be relevant or properly considered. n27.3

[5] Document Formats n*

[a] General Requirement that Documents Conform to Booklet Format

[i] Required Booklet

Except for a document expressly permitted by the Supreme Court Rules to be submitted on 8 1/2- by 11-inch paper, n28 every document filed with the Court must be prepared in a 6 1/8- by 9 1/4-inch booklet format using a standard typesetting process, such as hot metal, photocomposition, or computer typesetting, to produce text printed in typographic (as opposed to typewriter) characters. The process used must produce a clear, black image on white paper. The text must be reproduced with a clarity that equals or exceeds the output of a laser printer. n29

[ii] Text of Booklet

The text of every booklet-format document, including any appendix to the document, must be typeset in a Century family (e. g., Century Expanded, New Century Schoolbook, or Century Schoolbook) 12-point type 2-point or more leading between lines. The typeface must be similar to that used in current volumes of the United States Reports. Increasing the amount of text by using condensed or thinner typefaces, or by reducing the space between letters, is strictly prohibited. Type size and face must be consistent throughout. Quotations in excess of 50 words must be indented. The typeface of footnotes must be 10-point with 2-point or more leading between lines. The text of the document must appear on both sides of the page. n30

[iii] Paper and Binding

Every booklet-format document must be produced on paper that is opaque, unglazed, and not less than 60 pounds in weight and must have margins of at least three-fourths of an inch on all sides. The text field, including footnotes, may not exceed 4 1/8 by 7 1/8 inches. The document must be bound firmly in at least two places along the left margin (saddle stitch or perfect binding preferred) so as to permit easy opening, and no part of the text should be obscured by the binding. Spiral, plastic, metal, or string bindings may not be used. Copies of patent documents, except opinions, may be duplicated in such size as is necessary in a separate appendix. n31

[iv] Word Count Limitation

Every booklet-format document must comply with the word limits shown on the chart in subparagraph 1(g) of Supreme Court Rule 33. n32 The word limits do not include the questions presented, the list of parties and the corporate disclosure statement, the table of contents, the table of cited authorities, the listing of counsel at the end of the document, or any appendix. Verbatim quotations required under Supreme Court Rule 14.1(f), if set out in the text of a brief rather than in the appendix, are also excluded. On the other hand, the word limits do include footnotes. For good cause, the Court or a Justice may grant leave to file a document in excess of the word limits, but application for such leave is not favored. An application to exceed word limits must comply with Supreme Court Rule 22 and must be received by the Clerk at least 15 days before the filing date of the document in question, except in the most extraordinary circumstances. n33

[v] Cover Specifications

Every booklet-format document must have a suitable cover consisting of 65-pound weight paper in the color indicated on the chart in Supreme Court Rule 33.1(g). If a separate appendix to any document is filed, the color of its cover must be the same as that of the cover of the document it supports. The Clerk will furnish a color chart on request. Counsel must ensure that there is adequate contrast between the printing and the color of the cover. A document filed by the United States, or by any other federal party represented by the Solicitor General, must have a gray cover. A joint appendix, answer to a bill of complaint, motion for leave to intervene, and any other document not listed in Supreme Court Rule 33.1(g) must have a tan cover. n34

[vi] Number of Copies

When a booklet-format document is required, 40 copies of the booklet must be filed. n35

[vii] Color of Cover

Supreme Court Rule 33.1 also specifies the color required for each type of booklet. For example, a petition for certiorari booklet must have a white cover, and a brief in opposition to a petition must have an orange cover. n36 For a list of these limits and colors, see the Appendix of Supreme Court Rules following this Chapter.

[viii] Certification of Compliance With Word Limits

For each booklet format document, the attorney, an unrepresented party, or the preparer of the booklet must also file a signed certificate stating that the booklet complies with the word limitations. The certificate must state the precise number of words in the document. The person preparing the certificate may rely on the word count of the word-processing system used to prepare the booklet, provided that the word-processing system is set to include footnotes in the word count. The certificate must accompany the booklet when it is presented to the Clerk for filing and must be separate from the booklet. n37 If the certificate is signed by a person other than a member of the Supreme Court Bar, the counsel of record, or the unrepresented party, it must contain a notarized affidavit or declaration in compliance with the Judiciary Code. n38

[b] Filing of Paper Format Document

[i] Text of 8 1/2 by 11-Inch Paper Format

The text of every document, including any appendix to the document, expressly permitted by the Supreme Court Rules to be presented to the Court on 8 1/2 by 11-inch paper must appear double spaced, except for indented quotations, which must be single spaced, on opaque, unglazed, white paper. The document must be stapled or bound at the upper left-hand corner. Any copies that are required, must be produced on the same type of paper and must be legible. The original of any such document, except a motion to dismiss or affirm under Supreme Court Rule 18.6 must be signed by the party proceeding pro se or by counsel of record who must be a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court or an attorney appointed under the Criminal Justice Act or under any other applicable federal statute. The cover requirement of Supreme Court Rule 33.1(g) does not apply to documents prepared under Supreme Court Rule 33.2. n39

[ii] Page Limits

Page limits for documents presented on 8 1/2- by 11-inch paper are: 40 pages for a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, petition for an extraordinary writ, brief in opposition, or motion to dismiss or affirm; and 15 pages for a reply to a brief in opposition, brief opposing a motion to dismiss or affirm, supplemental brief, or petition for rehearing. The page limits do not include the questions presented, the list of parties and the corporate disclosure statement, the table of contents, the table of cited authorities, the listing of counsel at the end of the document, any appendix, and verbatim quotations required under Rule 14.1(f). n40

[6] Requirements For Both Document Formats n*

[a] Items Listed on Cover

Each document must list all of the following items on its cover, in the order indicated from the top of the page:

1. The docket number of the case or, if there is none, a space for one. n1

2. The name of the Supreme Court. n2

3. The caption of the case as appropriate in the Supreme Court. n3

4. The nature of the proceeding and the name of the court from which the action is brought (e.g., "On Petition for Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit"); or, for a merits brief, "On Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit"). n4

5. The title of the document (e.g., "Petition for Writ of Certiorari," "Brief for Respondent," "Joint Appendix"). n5

6. The name of the attorney who is counsel of record for the party concerned, and on whom service is to > be made; that attorney must be a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court except as provided in Rule 9.1. Directly under the attorney's name, a notation must identify the attorney as counsel of record and must set out the counsel's office address, e-mail address, and telephone number. The names of other members of the Bar of the Supreme Court or of the bar of the highest court of a state acting as counsel, and, if desired, their addresses, may be added, but counsel of record must be clearly identified. Names of persons other than attorneys admitted to a state bar may not be listed, unless the party is appearing pro se, in which case the party's name, address, and telephone number must appear. n6

All of the six items above must be displayed in an appropriate typographical manner and, except for identification of counsel (item 6), may not be set in type smaller than standard 11-point, if the document is prepared as required by Rule 33.1. n7

[b] Table of Contents and Table of Authorities

Every document exceeding five pages (other than a joint appendix), whether prepared under Supreme Court Rule 33.1 or 33.2, must contain a table of contents and a table of cited authorities, that is, cases alphabetically arranged, constitutional provisions, statutes, treatises, and other materials; references must be made to the pages in the document where such authorities are cited. n8

[c] Body of Document

The body of every document must state at its close the name of the attorney of record and any other attorneys that are desired, identified on the cover of the document in conformity with Supreme Court Rule 34.1(g). n9

[d] Table of Contents of Appendices

Whenever a party includes an appendix to a document, the party must precede the appendix by a table of contents that provides a description of each document in the appendix. n10

[e] Citation to Federal Statutory Law

All references to a provision of federal statutory law should ordinarily be cited to the United States Code, if the provision has been codified in the Code. If the provision has not been classified to the United States Code, citation should be to the Statutes at Large. Additional or alternative citations should be provided only if there is a particular reason why those citations are relevant or necessary to the argument. n11

[7] Substitution n*

[a] Substitution of Parties

If a party dies after the filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari, or after the filing of a notice of appeal, the authorized representative of the deceased party may appear and, on motion, be substituted as a party. If the representative does not voluntarily become a party, any other party may suggest the death on the record and, on motion, seek an order requiring the representative to become a party within a designated time. If the representative then fails to become a party, the party so moving, if a respondent or appellee, is entitled to have the petition for a writ of certiorari or the appeal dismissed, and if a petitioner or appellant, is entitled to proceed as in any other case of nonappearance by a respondent or appellee. If the substitution of a representative of the deceased is not made within six months after the death of the party, the case abates. n1

[b] Prohibition Against Revival in Lower Court

Whenever review is sought in the Supreme Court and the case cannot be revived in the court whose judgment is being reviewed because the deceased party's authorized representative is not subject to that court's jurisdiction, the Supreme Court will direct how the proceedings will be conducted. n2

[c] Public Officer Who Ceases to Hold Office

When a public officer who is a party to a proceeding in the Supreme Court in an official capacity dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate and any successor in office is automatically substituted as a party. The parties must notify the Clerk in writing of any such successions. Proceedings following the substitution must be in the name of the substituted party, but any misnomer not affecting substantial rights of the parties will be disregarded. n3 A public officer who is a party to a proceeding in the Supreme Court in an official capacity may be described as a party by the officer's official title rather than by name, but the Court may require the name to be added. n4

[8] Habeas Corpus Proceedings n*

[a] Transfer of Prisoner

Pending review in the Supreme Court of a decision in a habeas corpus proceeding commenced before a court, Justice, or judge of the United States, the person having custody of the prisoner may not transfer custody to another person unless the transfer is authorized under Supreme Court Rule 36. n1 On application by a custodian, the court, Justice, or judge who entered the decision under review may authorize transfer and the substitution of a successor custodian as a party. n2

[b] Enlargement of Prisoner Pending Review of Order Regarding Release

Pending review of a decision failing or refusing to release a prisoner, the prisoner may be detained in the custody from which release is sought, or in other appropriate custody, or may be enlarged on personal recognizance or bail, as may appear appropriate to the court, Justice, or judge who entered the decision, or to the court of appeals, the Supreme Court, or a judge or Justice of either court. n3 Pending review of a decision ordering release, the prisoner must be enlarged on personal recognizance or bail, unless the court, Justice, or judge who entered the decision, or the court of appeals, the Supreme Court, or a judge or Justice of either court, orders otherwise. n4

[c] Enlargement of Prisoner Pending Review of Initial Order

An initial order respecting the custody or enlargement of the prisoner, and any recognizance or surety taken, must continue in effect pending review in the court of appeals and in the Supreme Court unless, for reasons shown to the court of appeals, the Supreme Court, or a judge or Justice of either court, the order is modified or an independent order respecting custody, enlargement, or surety is entered. n5

[9] Brief for Amicus Curiae n*

[a] Nature of Amicus Curiae Brief

An amicus curiae brief is a brief that brings to the attention of the Court relevant matter that would not have already brought to its attention by the parties. n1 An amicus curiae brief may be of considerable help to the Court. However, an amicus curiae brief that does not serve this purpose burdens the Court and its filing is not favored. An amicus curiae brief may be filed only by an attorney admitted to practice before this Court as provided in Rule 5. n2

[b] Amicus Curiae Brief Submitted Before Consideration of Issue by Court

An amicus curiae brief submitted before the Court's consideration of a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion for leave to file a bill of complaint, jurisdictional statement, or petition for an extraordinary writ, may be filed if accompanied by the written consent of all parties, or if the Court grants leave to file, as discussed below. An amicus curiae brief in support of a petitioner or appellant must be filed within 30 days after the case is placed on the docket or a response is called for by the Court, whichever is later, and that time will not be extended. An amicus curiae brief in support of a motion of a plaintiff for leave to file a bill of complaint in an original action shall be filed within 60 days after the case is placed on the docket, and that time will not be extended. An amicus curiae brief in support of a respondent, an appellee, or a defendant shall be submitted within the time allowed for filing a brief in opposition or a motion to dismiss or affirm.

An amicus curiae must ensure that the counsel of record for all parties receive notice of its intention to file an amicus curiae brief at least 10 days prior to the due date for the amicus curiae brief, unless the amicus curiae brief is filed earlier than 10 days before the due date. Only one signatory to any amicus curiae brief filed jointly by more than one amicus curiae must make the notice of intent to file that brief. The amicus curiae brief shall indicate that counsel of record received timely notice of the intent to file the brief under this Rule and shall specify whether consent was granted, and its cover must identify the party supported. n3

When a party to the case has withheld consent, a motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief before the Court's consideration of a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion for leave to file a bill of complaint, jurisdictional statement, or petition for an extraordinary writ may be presented to the Court. The motion, prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1 and as one document with the brief sought to be filed, must be submitted within the time allowed for filing an amicus curiae brief and must indicate the party or parties who have withheld consent and state the nature of the movant's interest. Such a motion is not favored. n4

[c] Amicus Curiae Brief Submitted on Oral Argument

An amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument may be filed if accompanied by the written consent of all parties, or if the Court grants leave to file. The brief must be submitted within 7 days after the brief for the party supported is filed, or if in support of neither party, within 7 days after the time allowed for filing the petitioner's or appellant's brief. The Supreme Court will not entertain motions to extend the time for filing an amicus curiae brief. The 10-day notice requirement of Rule 37.2(a) does not apply to an amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument. n5

An electronic version of the amicus brief must be transmitted to the Clerk of Court and to counsel for the parties at the time the brief is filed in accordance with guidelines established by the Clerk. The electronic transmission requirement is in addition to the requirement that booklet-format briefs be timely filed. The amicus curiae brief must specify whether consent was granted, and its cover must identify the party supported or indicate whether it suggests affirmance or reversal. The Clerk will not file a reply brief for an amicus curiae, or a brief for an amicus curiae in support of, or in opposition to, a petition for rehearing. n6

When a party to a case before the Court for oral argument has withheld consent, a motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief may be presented to the Court. The motion, prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1 and as one document with the brief sought to be filed, must be submitted within the time allowed for filing an amicus curiae brief, and must indicate the party or parties who have withheld consent and state the nature of the movant's interest. n7

[d] Amicus Curiae Brief Filed on Behalf of Public Entity

No motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief is necessary if the brief is presented on behalf of the United States by the Solicitor General; on behalf of any agency of the United States allowed by law to appear before the Supreme Court when submitted by the agency's authorized legal representative; on behalf of a state, commonwealth, territory, or possession when submitted by its attorney general; or on behalf of a city, county, town, or similar entity when submitted by its authorized law officer. n8

[e] Requirements for Amicus Curiae Brief

A brief or motion filed regarding a brief must be accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, and must comply with the applicable provisions of Supreme Court Rules 21, 24, and 33.1 (except that it is sufficient to set out in the brief the interest of the amicus curiae, the summary of the argument, the argument, and the conclusion). A motion for leave to file may not exceed 1,500 words. A party served with the motion may file an objection to the motion, stating concisely the reasons for withholding consent; the objection must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2. n9

[f] Identification of Author of Amicus Curiae Brief

Except for briefs presented on behalf of a public entity listed in Supreme Court Rule 37.4, n10 an amicus brief must indicate whether any party authored the brief in whole or in part and whether such counsel or a party made a monetary contribution intended to fund the preparation or submission of the brief. The brief must also identify every person other than the amicus curiae, its members, or its counsel who made such a monetary contribution. The disclosure must be made in the first footnote on the first page of text. n11

[10] Fees n*

Under Judicial Code Section 1911, n1 the fees charged by the Supreme Court Clerk are:

1. For docketing a case on a petition for a writ of certiorari or on appeal or for docketing any other proceeding, except a certified question or a motion to docket and dismiss an appeal under Supreme Court Rule 18.5, $300. n2

2. For filing a petition for rehearing or a motion for leave to file a petition for rehearing, $200. n3

3. For reproducing and certifying any record or paper, $1 per page; and for comparing with the original of any record or paper any photographic reproduction of any record or paper, when furnished by the person requesting its certification, $.50 per page. n4

4. For a certificate bearing the seal of the Court, $10. n5

5. For a check paid to the Court, Clerk, or Marshal that is returned for lack of funds, $35. n6

[11] Proceedings in Forma Pauperis n*

[a] Motion to Proceed in Forma Pauperis

A party that seeks to proceed in the Supreme Court in forma pauperis must file a motion for leave to do so, together with the party's notarized affidavit or declaration n1 in the form prescribed by the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, Form 4. The motion must state whether leave to proceed in forma pauperis was sought in any other court and, if so, whether leave was granted. n2 The requirement of the filing of a declaration or affidavit is dispensed with only if the United States district court or the United States court of appeals has appointed counsel under the Criminal Justice Act n3 or some other applicable federal statute, provided that the motion cites the statute under which counsel was appointed. n4

[b] Motion to File Document in Forma Pauperis

If leave to proceed in forma pauperis is sought for the purpose of filing a document, the motion, and an affidavit or declaration, if required, must be filed together with that document and must comply in every respect with Supreme Court Rule 21. As provided in that rule, n5 it suffices to file an original and 10 copies, unless the party is an inmate confined in an institution and is not represented by counsel, in which case the original, alone, suffices. A copy of the motion, and affidavit or declaration, if required, must precede and be attached to each copy of the accompanying document. n6

[c] Documents Prepared by Party Proceeding in Forma Pauperis

Except when the Supreme Court Rules expressly provide that a document must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.1, every document presented by a party proceeding under Supreme Court Rule 39 must be prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2 (unless such preparation is impossible). Every document must be legible. While making due allowance for any case presented under Supreme Court Rule 39 by a person appearing pro se, the Clerk will not file any document if it does not comply with the substance of the Supreme Court Rules or is jurisdictionally out of time. n7

[d] No Fee Required

When the documents required by Supreme Court Rules 39.1 and 39.2 are presented to the Clerk, accompanied by proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, they will be placed on the docket without the payment of a docket fee or any other fee. n8

[e] Response to Party Proceeding in Forma Pauperis

The respondent or appellee in a case filed in forma pauperis must respond in the same manner and within the same time as in any other case of the same nature, except that the filing of an original and 10 copies of a response prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2, with proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, suffices. The respondent or appellee may challenge the grounds for the motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis in a separate document or in the response itself. n9

[f] Document Preparation by Counsel for Indigent Party

Whenever the Court appoints counsel for an indigent party in a case set for oral argument, the briefs on the merits submitted by that counsel, unless otherwise requested, must be prepared under the Clerk's supervision. The Clerk also will reimburse appointed counsel for any necessary travel expenses to Washington, D.C., and return, in connection with the argument. n10

[g] Appointment of Counsel

In a case in which certiorari has been granted, probable jurisdiction noted, or consideration of jurisdiction postponed, the Supreme Court may appoint counsel to represent a party financially unable to afford an attorney, to the extent authorized by the Criminal Justice Act, n11 or by any other applicable federal statute. n12

[h] Sanctions for Filing Frivolous or Malicious Petition

If satisfied that a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, or petition for an extraordinary writ is frivolous or malicious, the Court may deny leave to proceed in forma pauperis. n13 Furthermore, if a petitioner has a history or record of filing numerous frivolous or malicious petitions the court may prospectively deny leave to proceed in forma pauperis, or may set conditions on the filing. n14 Thus, if a petitioner has filed numerous frivolous civil petitions, the Supreme Court will deny the petitioner's current petition to proceed in forma pauperis, and also has the option to direct the Clerk not to accept any further petitions for any type of writs from the petitioner in noncriminal matters. n15 For example the court may require the petitioner to pay the docketing fee required by Supreme Court Rule 38 and to submit the petition in formal compliance with Supreme Court Rule 33.1, requiring documents in booklet format. n16

[12] Cases Involving Veterans, Seamen, and Military n*

A veteran suing to establish reemployment rights under any provision of law exempting veterans from the payment of fees or court costs, may proceed without prepayment of fees or costs or furnishing security for the fees or costs and may file a motion for leave to proceed on papers prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2. The motion must ask leave to proceed as a veteran and be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration setting out the moving party's veteran status. A copy of the motion must precede and be attached to each copy of the petition for a writ of certiorari or other substantive document filed by the veteran. n1

A seaman suing under Judicial Code Section 1916 n2 may proceed without prepayment of fees or costs or furnishing security for fees or costs and may file a motion for leave to proceed on non-booklet format papers prepared as allowed under by Rule 33.2. The motion must request leave to proceed as a seaman and be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration setting out the movant's seaman status. The seaman must attach a copy of the motion to each copy of the petition for a writ of certiorari or other substantive document filed by the seaman. n3

An accused person petitioning for a writ of certiorari to review a decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces under Judicial Code Section 1259 n4 may proceed without prepayment of fees or costs or furnishing security for fees or costs and without filing an affidavit of indigency, but is not entitled to proceed on papers prepared as required by Supreme Court Rule 33.2, except as authorized by the Court on separate motion under Supreme Court Rule 39. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 529.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 29.1.

(n3)Footnote 1.1. Sup. Ct. R. 29.2.

(n4)Footnote 1.2. See Evans v. Principi, 17 Vet. App. 41, 49 n.1 (2003) .

(n5)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1746.

(n6)Footnote 3. 28 U.S.C. § 1746.

(n7)Footnote 3.1. Sup. Ct. R. 29.2.

(n8)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 29.2.

(n9)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 29.3.

(n10)Footnote 5.1. See Sup. Ct. R. 33.1; see also [5], below.

(n11)Footnote 5.2. See Sup. Ct. R. 33.2.

(n12)Footnote 5.3. Sup. Ct. R. 29.3; see also [5], below.

(n13)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 29.4(a).

(n14)Footnote 7. 28 U.S.C. § 2403(a).

(n15)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 29.4(b); see Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e)(v).

(n16)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 29.4(c); see Sup. Ct. R. 14.1(e)(v).

(n17)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 29.5(a).

(n18)Footnote 11. See 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6).

(n19)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 29.5(b).

(n20)Footnote 13. 28 U.S.C. § 1746.

(n21)Footnote 14. 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6).

(n22)Footnote 15. Sup. Ct. R. 29.5(c).

(n23)Footnote 16. Sup. Ct. R. 29.6.

(n24)Footnote 17. Cf In re Bernard, 31 F.3d 842, 843 (9th Cir. 1994) (similar Appellate Procedure Rule applied to circuit justices).

(n25)Footnote 18. Sup. Ct. R. 29.6.

(n26)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 530.02, 530.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n27)Footnote 19. 5 U.S.C. § 6103(a) (holidays are New Year's Day, Martin Luther King Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas).

(n28)Footnote 20. Sup. Ct. R. 30.1.

(n29)Footnote 21. Sup. Ct. R. 30.2.

(n30)Footnote 21.1. See Davis v. Bruce, 215 F.R.D. 612, 620 (D. Kan. 2003) .

(n31)Footnote 22. Sup. Ct. R. 30.4; see [d], below.

(n32)Footnote 23. Sup. Ct. R. 30.4.

(n33)Footnote 24. Sup. Ct. R. 30.3.

(n34)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 531.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n35)Footnote 25. Sup. Ct. R. 31.

(n36)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 532.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n37)Footnote 26. Sup. Ct. R. 32.1.

(n38)Footnote 27. Sup. Ct. R. 32.2.

(n39)Footnote 27.1. See Sup. Ct. R. 32.3.

(n40)Footnote 27.2. See Boudette v. Barnette, 923 F.2d 754, 755, 756 n.4 (9th Cir. 1991) .

(n41)Footnote 27.3. See Sup. Ct. R. 32, Comment of Clerk to 2003 Amendment.

(n42)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 533.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n43)Footnote 28. See, e.g., Sup. Ct. R. 21, 22, 39.

(n44)Footnote 29. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(a).

(n45)Footnote 30. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(b).

(n46)Footnote 31. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(c).

(n47)Footnote 32. See Appendix to this Chapter.

(n48)Footnote 33. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(d).

(n49)Footnote 34. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(e).

(n50)Footnote 35. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(f).

(n51)Footnote 36. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(g).

(n52)Footnote 37. See Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(h).

(n53)Footnote 38. Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(h); see 28 U.S.C. § 1746.

(n54)Footnote 39. Sup. Ct. R. 33.2(a).

(n55)Footnote 40. Sup. Ct. R. 33.2(b); see Sup. Ct. R. 33.1(d).

(n56)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 534.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n57)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(a).

(n58)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(b).

(n59)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(c).

(n60)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(d).

(n61)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(e).

(n62)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(f).

(n63)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 34.1(g).

(n64)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 34.2.

(n65)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 34.3.

(n66)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 34.4.

(n67)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 34.5.

(n68)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 535.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n69)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 35.1.

(n70)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 35.2.

(n71)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 35.3.

(n72)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 35.4.

(n73)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 536.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n74)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 36.1.

(n75)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 36.2.

(n76)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 36.3(a).

(n77)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 36.3(b).

(n78)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 36.4.

(n79)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 537.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n80)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 37.1; see generally Am. Legacy Found., RP v. Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co., 623 F.3d 135, 139-140 (3d Cir. 2010) .

(n81)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 37.1; see Sup. Ct. R. 5.1-5.3.

(n82)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 37.2(a).

(n83)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 37.2(b).

(n84)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 37.3(a).

(n85)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 37.3(a).

(n86)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 37.3(b).

(n87)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 37.4.

(n88)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 37.5.

(n89)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 37.4; see [d], above.

(n90)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 37.6.

(n91)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 538.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n92)Footnote 1. 28 U.S.C. § 1911.

(n93)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 38(a).

(n94)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 38(b).

(n95)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 38(c).

(n96)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 38(d).

(n97)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 38(e).

(n98)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 539.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n99)Footnote 1. See 28 U.S.C. § 1746.

(n100)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 39.1.

(n101)Footnote 3. 18 U.S.C. § 3006A.

(n102)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 39.1; see P. S. v. Franklin County Children Servs., ___ U.S. ___, 130 S. Ct. 1117, 175 L. Ed. 2d 878 (2010) (granting motion without affidavit).

(n103)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 21.

(n104)Footnote 6. Sup. Ct. R. 39.2.

(n105)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 39.3.

(n106)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 39.4.

(n107)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 39.5.

(n108)Footnote 10. Sup. Ct. R. 39.6.

(n109)Footnote 11. 18 U.S.C. § 3006A.

(n110)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 39.7.

(n111)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 39.8.

(n112)Footnote 14. Judd v. United States Dist. Court, 528 U.S. 5, 120 S. Ct. 1, 145 L. Ed. 2d 7 (1999)

(n113)Footnote 15. Schwarz v. NSA, 526 U.S. 122, 122-123, 119 S. Ct. 1109, 143 L. Ed. 2d 203 (1999) .

(n114)Footnote 16. See, e.g., Lowe v. Pogue, 526 U.S. 273, 273, 119 S. Ct. 1238, 143 L. Ed. 2d 384 (1999) ; Rivera v. Florida Dep't of Corrections, 526 U.S. 135, 135, 119 S. Ct. 1166, 143 L. Ed. 2d 235 (1999) .

(n115)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 540.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n116)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 40.1.

(n117)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1916.

(n118)Footnote 3. See 28 U.S.C. § 1916; Sup. Ct. R. 40.2(a); see also Howard v. United States, 74 Fed. Cl. 676, 679 (Fed. Cl. 2006) (Section 1916 and Rule 40 are only procedural devices, and neither creates substantive rights against United States entitling claimant to monetary relief).

(n119)Footnote 4. 28 U.S.C. § 1259.

(n120)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 40.3.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
CHAPTER 29 Appeal to Supreme Court

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 29.11

§ 29.11 Court's Disposition of Cases

[1] Supreme Court Opinions n*

The Supreme Court Clerk must release opinions of the Supreme Court immediately on their announcement from the bench, or as the Court otherwise directs. Thereafter, the Clerk must cause the opinions to be issued in slip form, and the Reporter of Decisions will prepare them for publication in the preliminary prints and bound volumes of the United States Reports. n1

[2] Interest and Damages n*

[a] Interest

If a judgment for money in a civil case is affirmed, any interest allowed by law is payable from the date the judgment under review was entered. If a judgment is modified or reversed with a direction that a judgment for money be entered below, the courts below may award interest to the extent permitted by law. Interest in cases arising in a state court is allowed at the same rate that similar judgments bear interest in the courts of the state in which judgment is directed to be entered. Interest in cases arising in a court of the United States is allowed at the interest rate authorized by law. n1

[b] Damages

When a petition for a writ of certiorari, an appeal, or an application for other relief is frivolous, the Supreme Court may award the respondent or appellee just damages, and single or double costs under Supreme Court Rule 43. Damages or costs may be awarded against the petitioner, appellant, or applicant, against the party's counsel, or against both party and counsel. n2

[3] Costs n*

[a] Party Required to Pay Costs

If the Court affirms a judgment, the petitioner or appellant must pay costs unless the Court otherwise orders. n1 If the Court reverses or vacates a judgment, the respondent or appellee must pay costs unless the Court otherwise orders. n2 In a case involving a certified question, costs are equally divided unless the Court otherwise orders, except that if the Court decides the whole matter in controversy, as permitted by Supreme Court Rule 19.2, costs are allowed as provided in Supreme Court Rules 43.1 and 43.2. n3

These provisions of Rule 43 specifying a particular allocation for the payment of costs "unless the Court orders otherwise" means that there is presumption that the court allocate costs in the manner specified. The court in its discretion may modify that allocation when warranted by the particular circumstances of the case. n4

[b] Taxable Costs

The Clerk's fees and the cost of printing the joint appendix are the only taxable items in the Supreme Court. The cost of the transcript of the record from the court below is also a taxable item, but will be taxable in that court as costs in the case. The expenses of printing briefs, motions, petitions, or jurisdictional statements are not taxable. n5

[c] Costs For or Against United States

To the extent permitted by Judicial Code Section 2412, n6 any costs specified in Supreme Court Rule 43 are allowed for or against the United States or an officer or agent of the United States, unless expressly waived, or unless the Court otherwise orders. n7

[d] Costs Included in Mandate

When costs are allowed in the Supreme Court, the Clerk will insert an itemization of the costs in the body of the mandate or judgment sent to the court below. The prevailing side may not submit a bill of costs. n8 In extraordinary circumstances the Court may adjudge double costs. n9

[4] Rehearing n*

[a] Petition for Rehearing of Judgment or Decision on Merits

A petition for rehearing of any judgment or decision of the Supreme Court on the merits must be filed within 25 days after entry of the judgment or decision, unless the Court or a Justice shortens or extends the time. n1 If the petition for rehearing is for any decision not a judgment or decision on the merits, Rule 44 is not applicable, and the petitioner must proceed under the more rigorous standards of Rule 16.3. n2

To complete a petition for extension of time, the petitioner must file 40 copies of the rehearing petition and must pay the filing fee prescribed by Supreme Court Rule 38(b), except that a petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Supreme Court Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, must file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Supreme Court Rule 12.2. The petition must state its grounds briefly and distinctly and must be served as required by Supreme Court Rule 29. The petition must be presented together with the certification of counsel, or of a party unrepresented by counsel, that it is presented in good faith and not for delay; one copy of the certificate must bear the signature of counsel or of a party unrepresented by counsel. A copy of the certificate must follow and be attached to each copy of the petition. A petition for rehearing is not subject to oral argument and will not be granted except by a majority of the Court, at the instance of a Justice who concurred in the judgment or decision. n3

[b] Petition for Rehearing of Denial of Petition for Writ

A petition for the rehearing of an order denying a petition for a writ of certiorari or extraordinary writ must be filed within 25 days after the date of the order of denial and must comply with all the form and filing requirements of Supreme Court Rule 44.1, n4 including the payment of any required filing fee. n5 On of the strict requirements for the application of Rule 44.1 is that the subject of the petition must be either a judgment or decision of the Court on the merits, and not any preliminary, collateral, or subsequent decision, such as a decision to deny a writ of certiorari, n6 counsel or of a party unrepresented by counsel, that it is restricted to the grounds specified in Supreme Court Rule 44.2 and is presented in good faith and not for delay. One copy of the certificate must bear the signature of counsel, or of a party unrepresented by counsel. The certificate must be bound with each copy of the petition. The Clerk will not file a petition without a certificate. The petition is not subject to oral argument. n7

If the Clerk determines that a petition for rehearing has been submitted in a timely manner and in good faith but is not in a form required under the provisions of Rule 44 n8 or in the proper booklet format required under Rule 33 or standard sized paper format of Rule 34, n9 the Clerk must return it to the petitioner for correction, with a letter indicating the deficiency. If the petitioner submits the corrected petition for rehearing in accordance with Rule 29.2 no more than 15 days after the date of the Clerk's letter, the court will deem that the corrected petition has been timely filed. n10

[c] Clerk Screens for Prohibited Petitions

The Clerk may not file any response to a petition for rehearing unless the Court requests a response. In the absence of extraordinary circumstances, the Court will not grant a petition for rehearing without first requesting a response. n11 The Clerk will not file consecutive petitions and petitions that are out of time under Supreme Court Rule 44. n12 Furthermore the Clerk will not file any brief for an amicus curiae in support of, or in opposition to, a petition for rehearing. n13

[5] Process and Mandate n*

All process of the Supreme Court issues in the name of the President of the United States. n1 The term "process" in an appellate context means a stay, or a mandate, which is a direction to a lower court to proceed in the manner specified in the reviewing court's judgment. Process also means an act or declaration made to have a legal effect, and includes a summons in an original action, n2 a statement to procure attendance, such as a subpoena, and any order or decree of the judiciary. n3

When the United States Supreme Court reviews a state court judgment, the mandate to the state court issues 25 days after entry of the judgment, unless the Supreme Court or a Justice shortens or extends the time, or unless the parties stipulate that it issue sooner. If a party files a timely petition for rehearing, the filing stays the mandate until disposition of the petition unless the Court orders otherwise. If the petition is denied, the mandate issues forth immediately on that denial. n4

When the United States Supreme Court reviews a federal court judgment or decree, a formal mandate does not issue unless specially directed by the Supreme Court. n5 A "formal mandate" is an express direction from the higher court to the lower court to take some action or refrain from taking action. n6 The Supreme Court rarely issues a formal mandate, and does only if there is a particular reason for doing so. n7 Rather than issue a formal mandate, the Clerk of the Supreme Court will send the clerk of the lower court a copy of the opinion or order and a certified copy of the judgment, which together constitute the mandate. The certified copy of the judgment, prepared and signed by the Supreme Court Clerk, will provide for costs if any are awarded. n8 The mandate issues 25 days after entry of the judgment, unless the Supreme Court or a Justice shortens or extends the time, or unless the parties stipulate that it issue sooner. The filing of a petition for rehearing stays the mandate until disposition of the petition, unless the Court orders otherwise. If the petition is denied, the mandate issues at the time of the denial. n9

During the period of the stay of a Supreme Court mandate, the lower court's and parties' obligations under the mandate do not become effective and other courts must refrain from relying on the opinion of Supreme Court judgment for precedential value. n10

[6] Dismissal of Case n*

[a] Dismissal on Agreement of Parties

At any stage of the proceedings, whenever all parties file with the Clerk an agreement in writing that a case be dismissed, specifying the terms for payment of costs, and pay to the Clerk any fees then due, the Clerk without further reference to the Court, will enter an order of dismissal. n1

[b] Motion to Dismiss by Petitioner or Appellant

A petitioner or appellant may file a motion to dismiss the case, with proof of service as required by Supreme Court Rule 29, tendering to the Clerk any fees due and costs payable. No more than 15 days after service of the motion to dismiss, an adverse party may file an objection, limited to the amount of damages and costs in the Supreme Court alleged to be payable or to showing that the moving party does not represent all petitioners or appellants. The Clerk will not file any objection not so limited. n2 When the objection asserts that the moving party does not represent all the petitioners or appellants, the party moving for dismissal may file a reply within 10 days, after which time the matter will be submitted to the Court for its determination. n3

If no objection is filed or if one is filed going only to the amount of damages and costs in the Supreme Court and the party moving for dismissal tenders the additional damages and costs in full within 10 days of the demand for additional damages and costs, the Clerk will enter an order of dismissal without further reference to the Court. If, after objection as to the amount of damages and costs in the Supreme Court, the moving party does not respond by a tender within 10 days, the Clerk will report the matter to the Court for its determination. n4

When the Supreme Court dismisses under Supreme Court Rule 46, no mandate or other process will issue without an express order of the Court. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureU.S. Supreme Court ReviewGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 541.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 41.

(n3)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 542.02, 542.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n4)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 42.1.

(n5)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 42.2.

(n6)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 543.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n7)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 43.1.

(n8)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 43.2.

(n9)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 43.4.

(n10)Footnote 4. See Buckhannon Bd. & Care Home, Inc. v. W. Va. Dep't of Health & Human Res., 532 U.S.

598, 606 n.8, 121 S. Ct. 1835, 149 L. Ed. 2d 855 (2001) .

(n11)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 43.3.

(n12)Footnote 6. 28 U.S.C. § 2412.

(n13)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 43.5.

(n14)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 43.6.

(n15)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 43.7.

(n16)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 544.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n17)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 44.1.

(n18)Footnote 2. Boumediene v. Bush, 550 U.S. 1301, 1301-1302, 127 S. Ct. 1725, 167 L. Ed. 2d 757 (2007) (Rule 44.2 does not apply to application for extension of time to file petition for rehearing of order denying certiorari).

(n19)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 44.1.

(n20)Footnote 4. See [a], above.

(n21)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 44.2.

(n22)Footnote 6. Boumediene v. Bush, 550 U.S. 1301, 1301-1302, 127 S. Ct. 1725, 167 L. Ed. 2d 757 (2007) (Rule 44 does not apply to petition for rehearing of order denying certiorari).

(n23)Footnote 7. Sup. Ct. R. 44.2.

(n24)Footnote 8. See [a], [b], above.

(n25)Footnote 9. See Sup. Ct. R. 33, 34.

(n26)Footnote 10. See Sup. Ct. R. 44.6.

(n27)Footnote 11. Sup. Ct. R. 44.3.

(n28)Footnote 12. Sup. Ct. R. 44.4.

(n29)Footnote 13. Sup. Ct. R. 44.5.

(n30)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 545.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n31)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 45.1.

(n32)Footnote 2. See In re Urban, 262 B.R. 865, 869 (D. Kan. 2001) .

(n33)Footnote 3. See, e.g., First Va. Bank v. Randolph, 110 F.3d 75, 79 (D.C. Cir. 2004) .

(n34)Footnote 4. See Sup. Ct. R. 45.2; see Bush v. Palm Beach County Canvassing Bd., 531 U.S. 70, 78, 121 S. Ct. 471, 475, 148 L. Ed. 2d 366 (2000) .

(n35)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 45.3.

(n36)Footnote 6. South Atl. Ltd. P'ship v. Riese, 356 F.3d 576, 582-584 (4th Cir. 2004) .

(n37)Footnote 7. Crowley v. L.L. Bean, Inc., 361 F.3d 22, 26 (1st Cir. 2004) .

(n38)Footnote 8. Sup. Ct. R. 45.3.

(n39)Footnote 9. Sup. Ct. R. 45.3; see Sup. Ct. R. 45.2.

(n40)Footnote 10. See Smith v. Union Nat'l Life Ins. Co., 286 F. Supp. 2d 782, 786 (S.D. Miss. 2003) .

(n41)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 23 Moore's Federal Practice, § 546.02 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n42)Footnote 1. Sup. Ct. R. 46.1; see South Carolina v. North Carolina, ___ U.S. ___, 131 S. Ct. 855, 178 L. Ed. 2d 586 (2010) (bill of complaint in case of original jurisdiction dismissed pursuant to Rule 46.1).

(n43)Footnote 2. Sup. Ct. R. 46.2(a).

(n44)Footnote 3. Sup. Ct. R. 46.2(b).

(n45)Footnote 4. Sup. Ct. R. 46.2(c).

(n46)Footnote 5. Sup. Ct. R. 46.3.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29:.syn

§ 29.syn Synopsis to Appendix 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

§ Rule 1. Clerk.

§ Rule 2. Library.

§ Rule 3. Term.

§ Rule 4. Sessions and Quorum.

§ Rule 5. Admission to the Bar.

§ Rule 6. Argument Pro Hac Vice.

§ Rule 7. Prohibition Against Practice.

§ Rule 8. Disbarment and Disciplinary Action.

§ Rule 9. Appearance of Counsel.

§ Rule 10. Considerations Governing Review on Certiorari.

§ Rule 11. Certiorari to a United States Court of Appeals Before Judgment.

§ Rule 12. Review on Certiorari; How Sought; Parties.

§ Rule 13. Review on Certiorari; Time for Petitioning.

§ Rule 14. Content of a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari.

§ Rule 15. Briefs in Opposition; Reply Briefs; Supplemental Briefs.

§ Rule 16. Disposition of a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari.

§ Rule 17. Procedure in an Original Action.

§ Rule 18. Appeal From a United States District Court.

§ Rule 19. Procedure on a Certified Question.

§ Rule 20. Procedure on a Petition for an Extraordinary Writ.

§ Rule 21. Motions to the Court.

§ Rule 22. Applications to Individual Justices.

§ Rule 23. Stays.

§ Rule 24. Briefs on the Merits: In General.

§ Rule 25. Briefs on the Merits: Number of Copies and Time to File.

§ Rule 26. Joint Appendix.

§ Rule 27. Calendar.

§ Rule 28. Oral Argument.

§ Rule 29. Filing and Service of Documents; Special Notifications; Corporate Listing.

§ Rule 30. Computation and Extension of Time.

§ Rule 31. Translations.

§ Rule 32. Models, Diagrams, Exhibits, and Lodgings

§ Rule 33. Document Preparation: Booklet Format; 8.5 by 11-Inch Paper Format.

§ Rule 34. Document Preparation: General Requirements.

§ Rule 35. Death, Substitution, and Revivor; Public Officers.

§ Rule 36. Custody of Prisoners in Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

§ Rule 37. Brief for an Amicus Curiae.

§ Rule 38. Fees.

§ Rule 39. Proceedings In Forma Pauperis.

§ Rule 40. Veterans, Seamen, and Military Cases.

§ Rule 41. Opinions of the Court.

§ Rule 42. Interest and Damages.

§ Rule 43. Costs.

§ Rule 44. Rehearing.

§ Rule 45. Process; Mandates.

§ Rule 46. Dismissing Cases.

§ Rule 47. Reference to "State Court" and "State Law".

§ Rule 48. Effective Date of Rules.

78 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART I. THE COURT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 1

§ Rule 1. Clerk.

1. The Clerk receives documents for filing with the Court and has authority to reject any submitted filing that does not comply with these Rules.

2. The Clerk maintains the Court's records and will not permit any of them to be removed from the Court building except as authorized by the Court. Any document filed with the Clerk and made a part of the Court's records may not thereafter be withdrawn from the official Court files. After the conclusion of proceedings in this Court, original records and documents transmitted to this Court by any other court will be returned to the court from which they were received.

3. Unless the Court or the Chief Justice orders otherwise, the Clerk's office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except on federal legal holidays listed in 5 U.S.C. § 6103.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 501 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART I. THE COURT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 2

§ Rule 2. Library.

1. This Court's library is available for use by appropriate personnel of this Court, members of the Bar of this Court, Members of Congress and their legal staffs, and attorneys for the United States and for federal departments and agencies.

2. The library's hours are governed by regulations made by the Librarian with the approval of the Chief Justice or the Court.

3. Library books may not be removed from the Court building, except by a Justice or a member of a Justice's staff.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 502 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART I. THE COURT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 3

§ Rule 3. Term.

The Court holds a continuous annual Term commencing on the first Monday in October and ending on the day before the first Monday in October of the following year. See 28 U.S.C. § 2. At the end of each Term, all cases pending on the docket are continued to the next Term.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 503 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART I. THE COURT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 4

§ Rule 4. Sessions and Quorum.

1. Open sessions of the Court are held beginning at 10 a.m. on the first Monday in October of each year, and thereafter as announced by the Court. Unless it orders otherwise, the Court sits to hear arguments from 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

2. Six Members of the Court constitute a quorum. See 28 U.S.C. § 1. In the absence of a quorum on any day appointed for holding a session of the Court, the Justices attending--or if no Justice is present, the Clerk or a Deputy Clerk--may announce that the Court will not meet until there is a quorum.

3. When appropriate, the Court will direct the Clerk or the Marshal to announce recesses.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 504 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART II. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 5

§ Rule 5. Admission to the Bar.

1. To qualify for admission to the Bar of this Court, an applicant must have been admitted to practice in the highest court of a State, Commonwealth, Territory or Possession, or the District of Columbia for a period of at least three years immediately before the date of application; must not have been the subject of any adverse disciplinary action pronounced or in effect during that 3-year period; and must appear to the Court to be of good moral and professional character.

2. Each applicant shall file with the Clerk (1) a certificate from the presiding judge, clerk, or other authorized official of that court evidencing the applicant's admission to practice there and the applicant's current good standing, and (2) a completely executed copy of the form approved by this Court and furnished by the Clerk containing (a) the applicant's personal statement, and (b) the statement of two sponsors endorsing the correctness of the applicant's statement, stating that the applicant possesses all the qualifications required for admission, and affirming that the applicant is of good moral and professional character. Both sponsors must be members of the Bar of this Court who personally know, but are not related to, the applicant.

3. If the documents submitted demonstrate that the applicant possesses the necessary qualifications, and if the applicant has signed the oath or affirmation and paid the required fee, the Clerk will notify the applicant of acceptance by the Court as a member of the Bar and issue a certificate of admission. An applicant who so wishes may be admitted in open court on oral motion by a member of the Bar of this Court, provided that all other requirements for admission have been satisfied.

4. Each applicant shall sign the following oath or affirmation: I, _____ , do solemnly swear (or affirm) that as an attorney and as a counselor of this Court, I will conduct myself uprightly and according to law, and that I will support the Constitution of the United States.

5. The fee for admission to the Bar and a certificate bearing the seal of the Court is $ 200, payable to the United States Supreme Court. The Marshal will deposit such fees in a separate fund to be disbursed by the Marshal at the direction of the Chief Justice for the costs of admissions, for the benefit of the Court and its Bar, and for related purposes.

6. The fee for a duplicate certificate of admission to the Bar bearing the seal of the Court is $15, and the fee for a certificate of good standing is $10, payable to the United States Supreme Court. The proceeds will be maintained by the Marshal as provided in paragraph 5 of this Rule.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 505 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART II. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 6

§ Rule 6. Argument Pro Hac Vice.

1. An attorney not admitted to practice in the highest court of a State, Commonwealth, Territory or Possession, or the District of Columbia for the requisite three years, but otherwise eligible for admission to practice in this Court under Rule 5.1, may be permitted to argue pro hac vice.

2. An attorney qualified to practice in the courts of a foreign state may be permitted to argue pro hac vice.

3. Oral argument pro hac vice is allowed only on motion of the counsel of record for the party on whose behalf leave is requested. The motion shall state concisely the qualifications of the attorney who is to argue pro hac vice. It shall be filed with the Clerk, in the form required by Rule 21, no later than the date on which the respondent's or appellee's brief on the merits is due to be filed, and it shall be accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 506 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

84 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART II. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 7

§ Rule 7. Prohibition Against Practice.

No employee of this Court shall practice as an attorney or counselor in any court or before any agency of government while employed by the Court; nor shall any person after leaving such employment participate in any professional capacity in any case pending before this Court or in any case being considered for filing in this Court, until two years have elapsed after separation; nor shall a former employee ever participate in any professional capacity in any case that was pending in this Court during the employee's tenure.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 507 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART II. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 8

§ Rule 8. Disbarment and Disciplinary Action.

1. Whenever a member of the Bar of this Court has been disbarred or suspended from practice in any court of record, or has engaged in conduct unbecoming a member of the Bar of this Court, the Court will enter an ordersuspending that member from practice before this Court and affording the member an opportunity to show cause, within 40 days, why a disbarment order should not be entered. Upon response, or if no response is timely filed, the Court will enter an appropriate order.

2. After reasonable notice and an opportunity to show cause why disciplinary action should not be taken, and after a hearing if material facts are in dispute, the Court may take any appropriate disciplinary action against any attorney who is admitted to practice before it for conduct unbecoming a member of the Bar or for failure to comply with these Rules or any Rule or order of the Court.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 508 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART II. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 9

§ Rule 9. Appearance of Counsel.

1. An attorney seeking to file a document in this Court in a representative capacity must first be admitted to practice before this Court as provided in Rule 5, except that admission to the Bar of this Court is not required for an attorney appointed under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, see 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6), or under any other applicable federal statute. The attorney whose name, address, and telephone number appear on the cover of a document presented for filing is considered counsel of record, and a separate notice of appearance need not be filed. If the name of more than one attorney is shown on the cover of the document, the attorney who is counsel of record shall be clearly identified. See Rule 34.1(f).

2. An attorney representing a party who will not be filing a document shall enter a separate notice of appearance as counsel of record indicating the name of the party represented. A separate notice of appearance shall also be entered whenever an attorney is substituted as counsel of record in a particular case.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 509 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 10

§ Rule 10. Considerations Governing Review on Certiorari.

Review on a writ of certiorari is not a matter of right, but of judicial discretion. A petition for a writ of certiorari will be granted only for compelling reasons. The following, although neither controlling nor fully measuring the Court's discretion, indicate the character of the reasons the Court considers:

(a) a United States court of appeals has entered a decision in conflict with the decision of another United States court of appeals on the same important matter; has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with a decision by a state court of last resort; or has so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings, or sanctioned such a departure by a lower court, as to call for an exercise of this Court's supervisory power;

(b) a state court of last resort has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with the decision of another state court of last resort or of a United States court of appeals;

(c) a state court or a United States court of appeals has decided an important question of federal law that has not been, but should be, settled by this Court, or has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with relevant decisions of this Court.

A petition for a writ of certiorari is rarely granted when the asserted error consists of erroneous factual findings or the misapplication of a properly stated rule of law.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 510 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 11

§ Rule 11. Certiorari to a United States Court of Appeals Before Judgment.

A petition for a writ of certiorari to review a case pending in a United States court of appeals, before judgment is entered in that court, will be granted only upon a showing that the case is of such imperative public importance as to justify deviation from normal appellate practice and to require immediate determination in this Court. See 28 U.S.C. § 2101(e).

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 511 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 12

§ Rule 12. Review on Certiorari; How Sought; Parties.

1. Except as provided in paragraph 2 of this Rule, the petitioner shall file 40 copies of a petition for a writ of certiorari, prepared as required by Rule 33.1, and shall pay the Rule 38(a) docket fee.

2. A petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39 shall file an original and 10 copies of a petition for writ of certiorari prepared as required by Rule 33.2, together with an original and 10 copies of the motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis. A copy of the motion shall precede and be attached to each copy of the petition. An inmate confined in an institution, if proceeding in forma pauperis and not represented by counsel, need file only an original petition and motion.

3. Whether prepared under Rule 33.1 or Rule 33.2, the petition shall comply in all respects with Rule 14 and shall be submitted with proof of service as required by Rule 29. The case then will be placed on the docket. It is the petitioner's duty to notify all respondents promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the case was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the case. The notice shall be served as required by Rule 29.

4. Parties interested jointly, severally, or otherwise in a judgment may petition separately for a writ of certiorari; or any two or more may join in a petition. A party not shown on the petition as joined therein at the time the petition is filed may not later join in that petition. When two or more judgments are sought to be reviewed on a writ of certiorari to the same court and involve identical or closely related questions, a single petition for a writ of certiorari covering all the judgments suffices. A petition for a writ of certiorari may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis shall be attached.

5. No more than 30 days after a case has been placed on the docket, a respondent seeking to file a conditional cross-petition (i.e., a cross-petition that otherwise would be untimely) shall file, with proof of service as required by Rule 29, 40 copies of the cross-petition prepared as required by Rule 33.1, except that a cross-petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39 shall comply with Rule 12.2. The cross-petition shall comply in all respects with this Rule and Rule 14, except that material already reproduced in the appendix to the opening petition need not be reproduced again. A cross-petitioning respondent shall pay the Rule 38(a) docket fee or submit a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis. The cover of the cross-petition shall indicate clearly that it is a conditional cross-petition. The cross-petition then will be placed on the docket, subject to the provisions of Rule 13.4. It is the cross-petitioner's duty to notify all cross-respondents promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the cross-petition was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the cross-petition. The notice shall be served as required by Rule 29. A cross-petition for a writ of certiorari may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leaveto proceed in forma pauperis. The cover of the cross-petition shall indicate clearly that it is a conditional cross-petition. The cross-petition then will be placed on the docket, subject to the provisions of Rule 13.4. It is the cross-petitioner's duty to notify all cross-respondents promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the cross-petition was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the cross-petition. The notice shall be served as required by Rule 29. A cross-petition for a writ of certiorari may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis shall be attached. The time to file a conditional cross-petition will not be extended.

6. All parties to the proceeding in the court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed are deemed parties entitled to file documents in this Court, unless the petitioner notifies the Clerk of this Court in writing of the petitioner's belief that one or more of the parties below has no interest in the outcome of the petition. A copy of such notice shall be served as required by Rule 29 on all parties to the proceeding below. A party noted as no longer interested may remain a party by notifying the Clerk promptly, with service on the other parties, of an intention to remain a party. All parties other than the petitioner are considered respondents, but any respondent who supports the position of a petitioner shall meet the petitioner's time schedule for filing documents, except that a response supporting the petition shall be filed within 20 days after the case is placed on the docket, and that time will not be extended. Parties who file no documents will not qualify for any relief from this Court.

7. The clerk of the court having possession of the record shall keep it until notified by the Clerk of this Court to certify and transmit it. In any document filed with this Court, a party may cite or quote from the record, even if it has not been transmitted to this Court. When requested by the Clerk of this Court to certify and transmit the record, or any part of it, the clerk of the court having possession of the record shall number the documents to be certified and shall transmit therewith a numbered list specifically identifying each document transmitted. It the record, or stipulated portions, have been printed for the use of the court below, that printed record, plus the proceedings in the court below, may be certified as the record unless one of the parties or the Clerk of this Court requests otherwise. The record may consist of certified copies, but if the lower court is of the view that original documents of any kind should be seen by this Court, that court may provide by order for the transport, safekeeping, and return of such originals.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 512 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 13

§ Rule 13. Review on Certiorari; Time for Petitioning.

1. Unless otherwise provided by law, a petition for a writ of certiorari to review a judgment in any case, civil or criminal, entered by a state court of last resort or a United States court of appeals (including the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces) is timely when it is filed with the Clerk of this Court within 90 days after entry of the judgment. A petition for a writ of certiorari seeking review of a judgment of a lower state court that is subject to discretionary review by the state court of last resort is timely when it is filed with the Clerk within 90 days after entry of the order denying discretionary review.

2. The Clerk will not file any petition for a writ of certiorari that is jurisdictionally out of time. See, e.g., 28 U.S.C. § 2101(c).

3. The time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari runs from the date of entry of the judgment or order sought to be reviewed, and not from the issuance date of the mandate (or its equivalent under local practice). But if a petition for rehearing is timely filed in the lower court by any party, or if the lower court appropriately entertains an untimely petition for rehearing or sua sponte considers rehearing, the time to file the petition for a writ of certiorari for all parties (whether or not they requested rehearing or joined in the petition for rehearing) runs from the date of the denial of rehearing or, if rehearing is granted, the subsequent entry of judgment.

4. A cross-petition for a writ of certiorari is timely when it is filed with the Clerk as provided in paragraphs 1, 3, and 5 of this Rule, or in Rule 12.5. However, a conditional cross-petition (which except for Rule 12.5 would be untimely) will not be granted unless another party's timely petition for a writ of certiorari is granted.

5. For good cause, a Justice may extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari for a period not exceeding 60 days. An application to extend the time to file shall set out the basis for jurisdiction in this Court, identify the judgment sought to be reviewed, include a copy of the opinion and any order respecting rehearing, and set out specific reasons why an extension of time is justified. The application must be filed with the Clerk at least 10 days before the date the petition is due, except in extraordinary circumstances. For the time and manner of presenting the application, see Rules 21, 22, 30, and 33.2. An application to extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari is not favored.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 513 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 14

§ Rule 14. Content of a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari.

1. A petition for a writ of certiorari shall contain, in the order indicated:

(a) The questions presented for review, expressed concisely in relation to the circumstances of the case, without unnecessary detail. The questions should be short and should not be argumentative or repetitive. If the petitioner or respondent is under a death sentence that may be affected by the disposition of the petition, the notation "capital case" shall precede the questions presented. The questions shall be set out on the first page following the cover, and no other information may appear on that page. The statement of any question presented is deemed to comprise every subsidiary question fairly included therein. Only the questions set out in the petition, or fairly included therein, will be considered by the Court.

(b) A list of all parties to the proceeding in the court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed (unless the caption of the case contains the names of all the parties), and a list of parent companies and nonwholly owned subsidiaries as required by Rule 29.6.

(c) If the petition exceeds five pages, or 1,500 words, a table of contents and a table of cited authorities. The table of contents shall include the items contained in the appendix.

(d) Citations of the official and unofficial reports of the opinions and orders entered in the case by courts or administrative agencies.

(e) A concise statement of the basis for jurisdiction in this Court, showing:

(i) the date the judgment or order sought to be reviewed was entered (and, if applicable, a statement that the petition is filed under this Court's Rule 11);

(ii) the date of any order respecting rehearing, and the date and terms of any order granting an extension of time to file the petition for a writ of certiorari;

(iii) express reliance upon Rule 12.5, when a cross-petition for a writ of certiorari is filed under that Rule, and the date of docketing of the petition for a writ of certiorari in connection with which the cross-petition is filed;

(iv) the statutory provision believed to confer on this Court jurisdiction to review on a writ of certiorari the judgment or order in question; and

(v) if applicable, a statement that the notifications required by Rule 29.4(b) or (c) have been made.

(f) The constitutional provisions, treaties, statutes, ordinances, and regulations involved in the case, set out verbatim with appropriate citation. If the provisions involved are lengthy, their citation alone suffices at this point, and their pertinent text shall be set out in the appendix referred to in subparagraph 1(i).

(g) A concise statement of the case setting out the facts material to consideration of the questions presented, and also containing the following:

(i) If review of a state-court judgment is sought, specification of the stage in the proceedings, both in the court of first instance and in the appellate courts, when the federal questions sought to be reviewed were raised; the method or manner of raising them and the way in which they were passed on by those courts; and pertinent quotations of specific portions of the record or summary thereof, with specific reference to the places in the record where the matter appears (e.g., court opinion, ruling on exception, portion of court's charge and exception thereto, assignment of error), so as to show that the federal question was timely and properly raised and that this Court has jurisdiction to review the judgment on a writ of certiorari. When the portions of the record relied upon under this subparagraph are voluminous, they shall be included in the appendix referred to in subparagraph 1(i).

(ii) If review of a judgment of a United States court of appeals is sought, the basis for federal jurisdiction in the court of first instance.

(h) A direct and concise argument amplifying the reasons relied on for allowance of the writ. See Rule 10.

(i) An appendix containing, in the order indicated:

(i) the opinions, orders, findings of fact, and conclusions of law, whether written or orally given and transcribed, entered in conjunction with the judgment sought to be reviewed;

(ii) any other relevant opinions, orders, findings of fact, and conclusions of law entered in the case by courts or administrative agencies, and, if reference thereto is necessary to ascertain the grounds of the judgment, of those in companion cases (each document shall include the caption showing the name of the issuing court or agency, the title and number of the case, and the date of entry);

(iii) any order on rehearing, including the caption showing the name of the issuing court, the title and number of the case, and the date of entry;

(iv) the judgment sought to be reviewed if the date of its entry is different from the date of the opinion or order required in sub-subparagraph (i) of this subparagraph;

(v) material required by subparagraphs 1(f) or 1(g)(i); and

(vi) any other material the petitioner believes essential to understand the petition.

If the material required by this subparagraph is voluminous, it may be presented in a separate volume or volumes with appropriate covers.

2. All contentions in support of a petition for a writ of certiorari shall be set out in the body of the petition, as provided in subparagraph 1(h) of this Rule. No separate brief in support of a petition for a writ of certiorari may be filed, and the Clerk will not file any petition for a writ of certiorari to which any supporting brief is annexed or appended.

3. A petition for a writ of certiorari should be stated briefly and in plain terms and may not exceed the word or page limitations specified in Rule 33.

4. The failure of a petitioner to present with accuracy, brevity, and clarity whatever is essential to ready and adequate understanding of the points requiring consideration is sufficient reason for the Court to deny a petition.

5. If the Clerk determines that a petition submitted timely and in good faith is in a form that does not comply with this Rule or with Rule 33 or Rule 34, the Clerk will return it with a letter indicating the deficiency. A corrected petition submitted in accordance with Rule 29.2 received no more than 60 days after the date of the Clerk's letter will be deemed timely.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 514 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

92 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 15

§ Rule 15. Briefs in Opposition; Reply Briefs; Supplemental Briefs.

1. A brief in opposition to a petition for a writ of certiorari may be filed by the respondent in any case, but is not mandatory except in a capital case, see Rule 14.1(a), or when ordered by the Court.

2. A brief in opposition should be stated briefly and in plain terms and may not exceed the word or page limitations specified in Rule 33. In addition to presenting other arguments for denying the petition, the brief in opposition should address any perceived misstatement of fact or law in the petition that bears on what issues properly would be before the Court if certiorari were granted. Counsel are admonished that they have an obligation to the Court to point out in the brief in opposition, and not later, any perceived misstatement made in the petition. Any objection to consideration of a question presented based on what occurred in the proceedings below, if the objection does not go to jurisdiction, may be deemed waived unless called to the Court's attention in the brief in opposition.

3. Any brief in opposition shall be filed within 30 days after the case is placed on the docket, unless the time is extended by the Court or a Justice, or by the Clerk under Rule 30.4. Forty copies shall be filed, except that a respondent proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which shall precede and be attached to each copy of the brief in opposition. If the petitioner is proceeding in forma pauperis, the respondent shall prepare its brief in opposition, if any, as required by Rule 33.2, and shall file an original and 10 copies of a brief in opposition prepared as required by Rule 33.2. Whether prepared under Rule 33.1 or Rule 33.2, the brief in opposition shall comply with the requirements of Rule 24 governing a respondent's brief, except that no summary of the argument is required. A brief in opposition may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis shall be attached. The brief in opposition shall be served as required by Rule 29.

4. No motion by a respondent to dismiss a petition for a writ of certiorari may be filed. Any objections to the jurisdiction of the Court to grant a petition for a writ of certiorari shall be included in the brief in opposition.

5. The Clerk will distribute the petition to the Court for its consideration upon receiving an express waiver of the right to file a brief in opposition, or, if no waiver or brief in opposition is filed, upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing. If a brief in opposition is timely filed, the Clerk will distribute the petition, brief in opposition, and any reply brief to the Court for its consideration no less than 10 days after the brief in opposition is filed.

6. Any petitioner may file a reply brief addressed to new points raised in the brief in opposition, but distribution and consideration by the Court under paragraph 5 of this Rule will not be deferred pending its receipt. Forty copies shall be filed, except that a petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2. The reply brief shall be served as required by Rule 29.

7. If a cross-petition for a writ of certiorari has been docketed, distribution of both petitions will be deferred until the cross-petition is due for distribution under this Rule.

8. Any party may file a supplemental brief at any time while a petition for a writ of certiorari is pending, calling attention to new cases, new legislation, or other intervening matter not available at the time of the party's last filing. A supplemental brief shall be restricted to new matter and shall follow, insofar as applicable, the form for a brief in opposition prescribed by this Rule. Forty copies shall be filed, except that a party proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2. The supplemental brief shall be served as required by Rule 29.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 515 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART III. JURISDICTION ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 16

§ Rule 16. Disposition of a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari.

1. After considering the documents distributed under Rule 15, the Court will enter an appropriate order. The order may be a summary disposition on the merits.

2. Whenever the Court grants a petition for a writ of certiorari, the Clerk will prepare, sign, and enter an order to that effect and will notify forthwith counsel of record and the court whose judgment is to be reviewed. The case then will be scheduled for briefing and oral argument. If the record has not previously been filed in this Court, the Clerk will request the clerk of the court having possession of the record to certify and transmit it. A formal writ will not issue unless specially directed.

3. Whenever the Court denies a petition for a writ of certiorari, the Clerk will prepare, sign, and enter an order to that effect and will notify forthwith counsel of record and the court whose judgment was sought to be reviewed. The order of denial will not be suspended pending disposition of a petition for rehearing except by order of the Court or a Justice.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 516 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

94 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART IV. Other Jurisdiction

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 17

§ Rule 17. Procedure in an Original Action.

1. This Rule applies only to an action invoking the Court's original jurisdiction under Article III of the Constitution of the United States. See also 28 U.S.C. § 1251 and U.S. Const., Amdt. 11. A petition for an extraordinary writ in aid of the Court's appellate jurisdiction shall be filed as provided in Rule 20.

2. The form of pleadings and motions prescribed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure is followed. In other respects, those Rules and the Federal Rules of Evidence may be taken as guides.

3. The initial pleading shall be preceded by a motion for leave to file, and may be accompanied by a brief in support of the motion. Forty copies of each document shall be filed, with proof of service. Service shall be as required by Rule 29, except that when an adverse party is a State, service shall be made on both the Governor and the Attorney General of that State.

4. The case will be placed on the docket when the motion for leave to file and the initial pleading are filed with the Clerk. The Rule 38(a) docket fee shall be paid at that time.

5. No more than 60 days after receiving the motion for leave to file and the initial pleading, an adverse party shall file 40 copies of any brief in opposition to the motion, with proof of service as required by Rule 29. The Clerk will distribute the filed documents to the Court for its consideration upon receiving an express waiver of the right to file a brief in opposition, or, if no waiver or brief is filed, upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing. If a brief in opposition is timely filed, the Clerk will distribute the filed documents to the Court for its consideration no less than 10 days after the brief in opposition is filed. A reply brief may be filed, but consideration of the case will not be deferred pending its receipt. The Court thereafter may grant or deny the motion, set it for oral argument, direct that additional documents be filed, or require that other proceedings be conducted.

6. A summons issued out of this Court shall be served on the defendant 60 days before the return day specified therein. If the defendant does not respond by the return day, the plaintiff may proceed ex parte.

7. Process against a State issued out of this Court shall be served on both the Governor and the Attorney General of that State.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 517 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

95 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART IV. Other Jurisdiction

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 18

§ Rule 18. Appeal From a United States District Court.

1. When a direct appeal from a decision of a United States district court is authorized by law, the appeal is commenced by filing a notice of appeal with the clerk of the district court within the time provided by law after entry of the judgment sought to be reviewed. The time to file may not be extended. The notice of appeal shall specify the parties taking the appeal, designate the judgment, or part thereof, appealed from and the date of its entry, and specify the statute or statutes under which the appeal is taken. A copy of the notice of appeal shall be served on all parties to the proceeding as required by Rule 29, and proof of service shall be filed in the district court together with the notice of appeal.

2. All parties to the proceeding in the district court are deemed parties entitled to file documents in this Court, but a party having no interest in the outcome of the appeal may so notify the Clerk of this Court and shall serve a copy of the notice on all other parties. Parties interested jointly, severally, or otherwise in the judgment may appeal separately, or any two or more may join in an appeal. When two or more judgments involving identical or closely related questions are sought to be reviewed on appeal from the same court, a notice of appeal for each judgment shall be filed with the clerk of the district court, but a single jurisdictional statement covering all the judgments suffices. Parties who file no document will not qualify for any relief from this Court.

3. No more than 60 days after filing the notice of appeal in the district court, the appellant shall file 40 copies of a jurisdictional statement and shall pay the Rule 38 docket fee, except that an appellant proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which shall precede and be attached to each copy of the jurisdictional statement. The jurisdictional statement shall follow, insofar as applicable, the form for a petition for a writ of certiorari prescribed by Rule 14, and shall be served as required by Rule

29. The case will then be placed on the docket. It is the appellant's duty to notify all appellees promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the case was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the case. The notice shall be served as required by Rule 29. The case will then be placed on the docket. It is the appellant's duty to notify all appellees promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the case was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the case. The notice shall be served as required by Rule 29. The appendixshall include a copy of the notice of appeal showing the date it was filed in the district court. For good cause, a Justice may extend the time to file a jurisdictional statement for a period not exceeding 60 days. An application to extend the time to file a jurisdictional statement shall set out the basis for jurisdiction in this Court; identify the judgment sought to be reviewed; include a copy of the opinion, any order respecting rehearing, and the notice of appeal; and set out specific reasons why an extension of time is justified. For the time and manner of presenting the application, see Rules 21, 22, and 30. An application to extend the time to file a jurisdictional statement is not favored.

4. No more than 30 days after a case has been placed on the docket, an appellee seeking to file a conditional cross-appeal (i.e., a cross-appeal that otherwise would be untimely) shall file, with proof of service as required by Rule 29, a jurisdictional statement that complies in all respects (including number of copies filed) with paragraph 3 of this Rule, except that material already reproduced in the appendix to the opening jurisdictional statement need not be reproduced again. A cross-appealing appellee shall pay the Rule 38 docket fee or submit a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis. The cover of the cross-appeal shall indicate clearly that it is a conditional cross-appeal. The cross-appeal then will be placed on the docket. It is the cross-appellant's duty to notify all cross-appellees promptly, on a form supplied by the Clerk, of the date of filing, the date the cross-appeal was placed on the docket, and the docket number of the cross-appeal. The notice shall be served as required by Rule 29. A cross-appeal may not be joined with any other pleading, except that any motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis shall be attached. The time to file a cross-appeal will not be extended.

5. After a notice of appeal has been filed in the district court, but before the case is placed on this Court's docket, the parties may dismiss the appeal by stipulation filed in the district court, or the district court may dismiss the appeal on the appellant's motion, with notice to all parties. If a notice of appeal has been filed, but the case has not been placed on this Court's docket within the time prescribed for docketing, the district court may dismiss the appeal on the appellee's motion, with notice to all parties, and may make any just order with respect to costs. If the district court has denied the appellee's motion to dismiss the appeal, the appellee may move this Court to docket and dismiss the appeal by filing an original and 10 copies of a motion presented in conformity with Rules 21 and 33.2. The motion shall be accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29, and by a certificate from the clerk of the district court, certifying that a notice of appeal was filed and that the appellee's motion to dismiss was denied. The appellant may not thereafter file a jurisdictional statement without special leave of the Court, and the Court may allow costs against the appellant.

6. Within 30 days after the case is placed on this Court's docket, the appellee may file a motion to dismiss, to affirm, or in the alternative to affirm or dismiss. Forty copies of the motion shall be filed, except that an appellee proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which shall precede and be attached to each copy of the motion to dismiss, to affirm, or in the alternative to affirm or dismiss. The motion shall follow, insofar as applicable, the form for a brief in opposition prescribed by Rule 15, and shall comply in all respects with Rule 21.

7. The Clerk will distribute the jurisdictional statement to the Court for its consideration upon receiving an express waiver of the right to file a motion to dismiss or to affirm or, if no waiver or motion is filed, upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing. If a motion to dismiss or to affirm is timely filed, the Clerk will distribute the jurisdictional statement, motion, and any brief opposing the motion to the Court for its consideration no less than 10 days after the motion is filed.

8. Any appellant may file a brief opposing a motion to dismiss or to affirm, but distribution and consideration by the Court under paragraph 7 of this Rule will not be deferred pending its receipt. Forty copies shall be filed, except that an appellant proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2. The brief shall be served as required by Rule 29.

9. If a cross-appeal has been docketed, distribution of both jurisdictional statements will be deferred until the cross-appeal is due for distribution under this Rule.

10. Any party may file a supplemental brief at any time while a jurisdictional statement is pending, calling attention to new cases, new legislation, or other intervening matter not available at the time of the party's last filing. A supplemental brief shall be restricted to new matter and shall follow, insofar as applicable, the form for a brief in opposition prescribed by Rule 15. Forty copies shall be filed, except that a party proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2. The supplemental brief shall be served as required by Rule 29.

11. The clerk of the district court shall retain possession of the record until notified by the Clerk of this Court to certify and transmit it. See Rule 12.7.

12. After considering the documents distributed under this Rule, the Court may dispose summarily of the appeal on the merits, note probable jurisdiction, or postpone consideration of jurisdiction until a hearing of the case on the merits. If not disposed of summarily, the case stands for briefing and oral argument on the merits. If consideration of jurisdiction is postponed, counsel, at the outset of their briefs and at oral argument, shall address the question of jurisdiction. If the record has not previously been filed in this Court, the Clerk of this Court will request the clerk of the court in possession of the record to certify and transmit it.

13. If the Clerk determines that a jurisdictional statement submitted timely and in good faith is in a form that does not comply with this Rule or with Rule 33 or Rule 34, the Clerk will return it with a letter indicating the deficiency. If a corrected jurisdictional statement is submitted in accordance with Rule 29.2 no more than 60 days after the date of the Clerk's letter, its filing will be deemed timely.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 518 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART IV. Other Jurisdiction

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 19

§ Rule 19. Procedure on a Certified Question.

1. A United States court of appeals may certify to this Court a question or proposition of law on which it seeks instruction for the proper decision of case. The certificate shall contain a statement of the nature of the case and the facts on which the question or proposition of law arises. Only questions or propositions of law may be certified, and they shall be stated separately and with precision. The certificate shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.2 and shall be signed by the clerk of the court of appeals.

2. When a question is certified by a United States court of appeals, this Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may consider and decide the entire matter in controversy. See 28 U.S.C. § 1254(2).

3. When a question is certified, the Clerk will notify the parties and docket the case. Counsel shall then enter their appearances. After docketing, the Clerk will submit the certificate to the Court for a preliminary examination to determine whether the case should be briefed, set for argument, or dismissed. No brief may be filed until the preliminary examination of the certificate is completed.

4. If the Court orders the case briefed or set for argument, the parties will be notified and permitted to file briefs. The Clerk of this Court then will request the clerk of the court in possession of the record to certify and transmit it. Any portion of the record to which the parties wish to direct the Court's particular attention should be printed in a joint appendix, prepared in conformity with Rule 26 by the appellant or petitioner in the court of appeals, but the fact that any part of the record has not been printed does not prevent the parties or the Court from relying on it.

5. A brief on the merits in a case involving a certified question shall comply with Rules 24, 25, and 33.1, except that the brief for the party who is the appellant or petitioner below shall be filed within 45 days of the order requiring briefs or setting the case for argument.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 519 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

97 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART IV. Other Jurisdiction

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 20

§ Rule 20. Procedure on a Petition for an Extraordinary Writ.

1. Issuance by the Court of an extraordinary writ authorized by 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a) is not a matter of right, but of discretion sparingly exercised. To justify the granting of any such writ, the petition must show that the writ will be in aid of the Court's appellate jurisdiction, that exceptional circumstances warrant the exercise of the Court's discretionary powers, and that adequate relief cannot be obtained in any other form or from any other court.

2. A petition seeking a writ authorized by 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a), § 2241, or § 2254(a) shall be prepared in all respects as required by Rules 33 and 34. The petition shall be captioned "In re [name of petitioner]" and shall follow, insofar as applicable, the form of a petition for a writ of certiorari prescribed by Rule 14. All contentions in support of the petition shall be included in the petition. The case will be placed on the docket when 40 copies of the petition are filed with the Clerk and the docket fee is paid, except that a petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2, together with a motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, a copy of which shall precede and be attached to each copy of the petition. The petition shall be served as required by Rule 29 (subject to subparagraph 4(b) of this Rule).

3.

(a) A petition seeking a writ of prohibition, a writ of mandamus, or both in the alternative shall state the name and office or function of every person against whom relief is sought and shall set out with particularity why the relief sought is not available in any other court. A copy of the judgment with respect to which the writ is sought, including any related opinion, shall be appended to the petition together with any other document essential to understanding the petition.

(b) The petition shall be served on every party to the proceeding with respect to which relief is sought. Within 30 days after the petition is placed on the docket, a party shall file 40 copies of any brief or briefs in opposition thereto, which shall comply fully with Rule 15. If a party named as a respondent does not wish to respond to the petition, that party may so advise the Clerk and all other parties by letter. All persons served are deemed respondents for all purposes in the proceedings in this Court.

4.

(a) A petition seeking a writ of habeas corpus shall comply with the requirements of 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241 and 2242, and in particular with the provision in the last paragraph of § 2242, which requires a statement of the "reasons for not making application to the district court of the district in which the applicant is held." If the relief sought is from the judgment of a state court, the petition shall set out specifically how and where the petitioner has exhausted available remedies in the state courts or otherwise comes within the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b). To justify the granting of a writ of habeas corpus, the petitioner must show that exceptional circumstances warrant the exercise of the Court's discretionary powers, and that adequate relief cannot be obtained in any other form or from any other court. This writ is rarely granted.

(b) Habeas corpus proceedings, except in capital cases, are ex parte, unless the Court requires the respondent to show cause why the petition for a writ of habeas corpus should not be granted. A response, if ordered, or in a capital case, shall comply fully with Rule 15. Neither the denial of the petition, without more, nor an order of transfer to a district court under the authority of 28 U.S.C. § 2241(b), is an adjudication on the merits, and therefore does not preclude further application to another court for the relief sought.

5. The Clerk will distribute the documents to the Court for its consideration when a brief in opposition under subparagraph 3(b) of this Rule has been filed, when a response under subparagraph 4(b) has been ordered and filed, when the time to file has expired, or when the right to file has been expressly waived.

6. If the Court orders the case set for argument, the Clerk will notify the parties whether additional briefs are required, when they shall be filed, and, if the case involves a petition for a common-law writ of certiorari, that the parties shall prepare a joint appendix in accordance with Rule 26.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 520 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART V. Motions and Applications

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 21

§ Rule 21. Motions to the Court.

1. Every motion to the Court shall clearly state its purpose and the facts on which it is based and may present legal argument in support thereof. No separate brief may be filed. A motion should be concise and shall comply with any applicable page limits. Rule 22 governs an application addressed to a single Justice.

2.

(a) A motion in any action within the Court's original jurisdiction shall comply with Rule 17.3.

(b) A motion to dismiss as moot (or a suggestion of mootness), a motion for leave to file a brief as amicus curiae, and any motion the granting of which would dispose of the entire case or would affect the final judgment to be entered (other than a motion to docket and dismiss under Rule 18.5 or a motion for voluntary dismissal under Rule 46) shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.1, and 40 copies shall be filed, except that a movant proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file a motion prepared as required by Rule 33.2, and shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2. The motion shall be served as required by Rule 29.

(c) Any other motion to the Court shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.2; the moving party shall file an original and 10 copies. The Court subsequently may order the moving party to prepare the motion as required by Rule 33.1; in that event, the party shall file 40 copies.

3. A motion to the Court shall be filed with the Clerk and shall be accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29. No motion may be presented in open Court, other than a motion for admission to the Bar, except when the proceeding to which it refers is being argued. Oral argument on a motion will not be permitted unless the Court so directs.

4. Any response to a motion shall be filed as promptly as possible considering the nature of the relief sought and any asserted need for emergency action, and, in any event, within 10 days of receipt, unless the Court or a Justice, or the Clerk under Rule 30.4, orders otherwise. A response to a motion prepared as required by Rule 33.1, except a response to a motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief (see Rule 37.5), shall be prepared in the same manner if time permits. In an appropriate case, the Court may act on a motion without waiting for a response.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 521 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART V. Motions and Applications

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 22

§ Rule 22. Applications to Individual Justices.

1. An application addressed to an individual Justice shall be filed with the Clerk, who will transmit it promptly to the Justice concerned if an individual Justice has authority to grant the sought relief.

2. The original and two copies of any application addressed to an individual Justice shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.2, and shall be accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29.

3. An application shall be addressed to the Justice allotted to the Circuit from which the case arises. An application arising from the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces shall be addressed to the Chief Justice. When the Circuit Justice is unavailable for any reason, the application addressed to that Justice will be distributed to the Justice then available who is next junior to the Circuit Justice; the turn of the Chief Justice follows that of the most junior Justice.

4. A Justice denying an application will note the denial thereon. Thereafter, unless action thereon is restricted by law to the Circuit Justice or is untimely under Rule 30.2, the party making an application, except in the case of an application for an extension of time, may renew it to any other Justice, subject to the provisions of this Rule. Except when the denial is without prejudice, a renewed application is not favored. Renewed application is made by a letter to the Clerk, designating the Justice to whom the application is to be directed, and accompanied by 10 copies of the original application and proof of service as required by Rule 29.

5. A Justice to whom an application for a stay or for bail is submitted may refer it to the Court for determination.

6. The Clerk will advise all parties concerned, by appropriately speedy means, of the disposition made of an application.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 522 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART V. Motions and Applications

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 23

§ Rule 23. Stays.

1. A stay may be granted by a Justice as permitted by law.

2. A party to a judgment sought to be reviewed may present to a Justice an application to stay the enforcement of that judgment. See 28 U.S.C. § 2101(f).

3. An application for a stay shall set out with particularity why the relief sought is not available from any other court or judge. Except in the most extraordinary circumstances, an application for a stay will not be entertained unless the relief requested was first sought in the appropriate court or courts below or from a judge or judges thereof. An application for a stay shall identify the judgment sought to be reviewed and have appended thereto a copy of the order and opinion, if any, and a copy of the order, if any, of the court or judge below denying the relief sought, and shall set out specific reasons why a stay is justified. The form and content of an application for a stay are governed by Rules 22 and 33.2.

4. A judge, court, or Justice granting an application for a stay pending review by this Court may condition the stay on the filing of a supersedeas bond having an approved surety or sureties. The bond will be conditioned on the satisfaction of the judgment in full, together with any costs, interest, and damages for delay that may be awarded. If a part of the judgment sought to be reviewed has already been satisfied, or is otherwise secured, the bond may be conditioned on the satisfaction of the part of the judgment not otherwise secured or satisfied, together with costs, interest, and damages.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 523 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VI. BRIEFS ON THE MERITS AND ORAL ARGUMENT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 24

§ Rule 24. Briefs on the Merits: In General.

1. A brief on the merits for a petitioner or an appellant shall comply in all respects with Rules 33.1 and 34 and shall contain in the order here indicated:

(a) The questions presented for review under Rule 14.1(a). The questions shall be set out on the first page following the cover, and no other information may appear on that page. The phrasing of the questions presented need not be identical with that in the petition for a writ of certiorari or the jurisdictional statement, but the brief may not raise additional questions or change the substance of the questions already presented in those documents. At its option, however, the Court may consider a plain error not among the questions presented but evident from the record and otherwise within its jurisdiction to decide.

(b) A list of all parties to the proceeding in the court whose judgment is under review (unless the caption of the case in this Court contains the names of all parties). Any amended listing of parent companies and nonwholly owned subsidiaries as required by Rule 29.6 shall be placed here.

(c) If the brief exceeds five pages, a table of contents and a table of cited authorities.

(d) Citations of the official and unofficial reports of the opinions and orders entered in the case by courts and administrative agencies.

(e) A concise statement of the basis for jurisdiction in this Court, including the statutory provisions and time factors on which jurisdiction rests.

(f) The constitutional provisions, treaties, statutes, ordinances, and regulations involved in the case, set out verbatim with appropriate citation. If the provisions involved are lengthy, their citation alone suffices at this point, and their pertinent text, if not already set out in the petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, or an appendix to either document, shall be set out in an appendix to the brief.

(g) A concise statement of the case, setting out the facts material to the consideration of the questions presented, with appropriate references to the joint appendix, e.g., App. 12, or to the record, e.g., Record 12.

(h) A summary of the argument, suitably paragraphed. The summary should be a clear and concise condensation of the argument made in the body of the brief; mere repetition of the headings under which the argument is arranged is not sufficient.

(i) The argument, exhibiting clearly the points of fact and of law presented and citing the authorities and statutes relied on.

(j) A conclusion specifying with particularity the relief the party seeks.

2. A brief on the merits for a respondent or an appellee shall conform to the foregoing requirements, except that items required by subparagraphs 1(a), (b), (d), (e), (f), and (g) of this Rule need not be included unless the respondent or appellee is dissatisfied with their presentation by the opposing party.

3. A brief on the merits may not exceed the word limitations specified in Rule 33.1(g). An appendix to a brief may include only relevant material, and counsel are cautioned not to include in an appendix arguments or citations that properly belong in the body of the brief.

4. A reply brief shall conform to those portions of this Rule applicable to the brief for a respondent or an appellee, but, if appropriately divided by topical headings, need not contain a summary of the argument.

5. A reference to the joint appendix or to the record set out in any brief shall indicate the appropriate page number. If the reference is to an exhibit, the page numbers at which the exhibit appears, at which it was offered in evidence, and at which it was ruled on by the judge shall be indicated, e.g., Pl. Exh. 14, Record 199, 2134.

6. A brief shall be concise, logically arranged with proper headings, and free of irrelevant, immaterial, or scandalous matter. The Court may disregard or strike a brief that does not comply with this paragraph.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 524 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VI. BRIEFS ON THE MERITS AND ORAL ARGUMENT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 25

§ Rule 25. Briefs on the Merits: Number of Copies and Time to File.

1. The petitioner or appellant shall file 40 copies of the brief on the merits within 45 days of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction. Any respondent or appellee who supports the petitioner or appellant shall meet the petitioner's or appellant's time schedule for filing documents.

2. The respondent or appellee shall file 40 copies of the brief on the merits within 30 days after the brief for the petitioner or appellant is filed.

3. The petitioner or appellant shall file 40 copies of the reply brief, if any, within 30 days after receiving the brief for the respondent or appellee, but any reply brief must actually be received by the Clerk not later than 2 p.m. one week before the date of oral argument. Any respondent or appellee supporting the petitioner or appellant may file a reply brief.

4. If cross-petitions or cross-appeals have been consolidated for argument, the Clerk, upon request of the parties, may designate one of the parties to file an initial brief and reply brief as provided in paragraphs 1 and 3 of this Rule (as if the party were petitioner or appellant), and may designate the other party to file an initial brief as provided in paragraph 2 of this Rule and, to the extent appropriate, a supplemental brief following the submission of the reply brief. In such a case, the Clerk may establish the time for the submission of the briefs and alter the otherwise applicable word limits. Except as approved by the Court or a Justice, the total number of words permitted for the briefs of the parties cumulatively shall not exceed the maximum that would have been allowed in the absence of an order under this paragraph.

5. The time periods stated in paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of this Rule may be extended as provided in Rule 30. An application to extend the time to file a brief on the merits is not favored. If a case is advanced for hearing, the time to file briefs on the merits may be abridged as circumstances require pursuant to an order of the Court on its own motion or that of a party.

6. A party wishing to present late authorities, newly enacted legislation, or other intervening matter that was not available in time to be included in a brief may file 40 copies of a supplemental brief, restricted to such new matter and otherwise presented in conformity with these Rules, up to the time the case is called for oral argument or by leave of the Court thereafter.

7. After a case has been argued or submitted, the Clerk will not file any brief, except that of a party filed by leave of the Court.

8. The Clerk will not file any brief that is not accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29.

9. An electronic version of every brief on the merits shall be transmitted to the Clerk of Court and to opposing counsel of record at the time the brief is filed in accordance with guidelines established by the Clerk. The electronic transmission requirement is in addition to the requirement that booklet-format briefs be timely filed.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 525 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VI. BRIEFS ON THE MERITS AND ORAL ARGUMENT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 26

§ Rule 26. Joint Appendix.

1. Unless the Clerk has allowed the parties to use the deferred method described in paragraph 4 of this Rule, the petitioner or appellant, within 45 days after entry of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction, shall file 40 copies of a joint appendix, prepared as required by Rule 33.1. The joint appendix shall contain: (1) the relevant docket entries in all the courts below; (2) any relevant pleadings, jury instructions, findings, conclusions, or opinions; (3) the judgment, order, or decision under review; and (4) any other parts of the record that the parties particularly wish to bring to the Court's attention. Any of the foregoing items already reproduced in a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, brief in opposition to a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion to dismiss or affirm, or any appendix to the foregoing, that was prepared as required by Rule 33.1, need not be reproduced again in the joint appendix. The petitioner or appellant shall serve three copies of the joint appendix on each of the other parties to the proceeding as required by Rule 29.

2. The parties are encouraged to agree on the contents of the joint appendix. In the absence of agreement, the petitioner or appellant, within 10 days after entry of the order granting the writ of certiorari, noting probable jurisdiction, or postponing consideration of jurisdiction, shall serve on the respondent or appellee a designation of parts of the record to be included in the joint appendix. Within 10 days after receiving the designation, a respondent or appellee who considers the parts of the record so designated insufficient shall serve on the petitioner or appellant a designation of additional parts to be included in the joint appendix, and the petitioner or appellant shall include the parts so designated. If the Court has permitted the respondent or appellee to proceed in forma pauperis, the petitioner or appellant may seek by motion to be excused from printing portions of the record the petitioner or appellant considers unnecessary. In making these designations, counsel should include only those materials the Court should examine; unnecessary designations should be avoided. The record is on file with the Clerk and available to the Justices, and counsel may refer in briefs and in oral argument to relevant portions of the record not included in the joint appendix.

3. When the joint appendix is filed, the petitioner or appellant immediately shall file with the Clerk a statement of the cost of printing 50 copies and shall serve a copy of the statement on each of the other parties as required by Rule 29. Unless the parties agree otherwise, the cost of producing the joint appendix shall be paid initially by the petitioner or appellant; but a petitioner or appellant who considers that parts of the record designated by the respondent or appellee are unnecessary for the determination of the issues presented may so advise the respondent or appellee, who then shall advance the cost of printing the additional parts, unless the Court or a Justice otherwise fixes the initial allocation of the costs. The cost of printing the joint appendix is taxed as a cost in the case, but if a party unnecessarily causes matter to be included in the joint appendix or prints excessive copies, the Court may impose these costs on that party.

4.

(a) On the parties' request, the Clerk may allow preparation of the joint appendix to be deferred until after the briefs have been filed. In that event, the petitioner or appellant shall file the joint appendix no more than 14 days after receiving the brief for the respondent or appellee. The provisions of paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of this Rule shall be followed, except that the designations referred to therein shall be made by each party when that party's brief is served. Deferral of the joint appendix is not favored.

(b) If the deferred method is used, the briefs on the merits may refer to the pages of the record. In that event, the joint appendix shall include in brackets on each page thereof the page number of the record where that material may be found. A party wishing to refer directly to the pages of the joint appendix may serve and file copies of its brief prepared as required by Rule 33.2 within the time provided by Rule 25, with appropriate references to the pages of the record. In that event, within 10 days after the joint appendix is filed, copies of the brief prepared as required by Rule 33.1 containing references to the pages of the joint appendix in place of, or in addition to, the initial references to the pages of the record, shall be served and filed. No other change may be made in the brief as initially served and filed, except that typographical errors may be corrected.

5. The joint appendix shall be prefaced by a table of contents showing the parts of the record that it contains, in the order in which the parts are set out, with references to the pages of the joint appendix at which each part begins. The relevant docket entriesshall be set out after the table of contents, followed by the other parts of the record in chronological order. When testimony contained in the reporter's transcript of proceedings is set out in the joint appendix, the page of the transcript at which the testimony appears shall be indicated in brackets immediately before the statement that is set out. Omissions in the transcript or in any other document printed in the joint appendix shall be indicated by asterisks. Immaterial formal matters (e.g., captions, subscriptions, acknowledgments) shall be omitted. A question and its answer may be contained in a single paragraph.

6. Two lines must appear at the bottom of the cover of the joint appendix: (1) The first line must indicate the date the petition for the writ of certiorari was filed or the date the appeal was docketed; (2) the second line must indicate the date certiorari was granted or the date jurisdiction of the appeal was noted or postponed.

7. Exhibits designated for inclusion in the joint appendix may be contained in a separate volume or volumes suitably indexed. The transcript of a proceeding before an administrative agency, board, commission, or officer used in an action in a district court or court of appeals is regarded as an exhibit for the purposes of this paragraph.

8. The Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may dispense with the requirement of a joint appendix and may permit a case to be heard on the original record (with such copies of the record, or relevant parts thereof, as the Court may require) or on the appendix used in the court below, if it conforms to the requirements of this Rule.

9. For good cause, the time limits specified in this Rule may be shortened or extended by the Court or a Justice, or by the Clerk under Rule 30.4.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 526 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VI. BRIEFS ON THE MERITS AND ORAL ARGUMENT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 27

§ Rule 27. Calendar.

1. From time to time, the Clerk will prepare a calendar of cases ready for argument. A case ordinarily will not be called for argument less than two weeks after the brief on the merits for the respondent or appellee is due.

2. The Clerk will advise counsel when they are required to appear for oral argument and will publish a hearing list in advance of each argument session for the convenience of counsel and the information of the public.

3. The Court, on its own motion or that of a party, may order that two or more cases involving the same or related questions be argued together as one case or on such other terms as the Court may prescribe.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 527 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VI. BRIEFS ON THE MERITS AND ORAL ARGUMENT

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 28

§ Rule 28. Oral Argument.

1. Oral argument should emphasize and clarify the written arguments in the briefs on the merits. Counsel should assume that all Justices have read the briefs before oral argument. Oral argument read from a prepared text is not favored.

2. The petitioner or appellant shall open and may conclude the argument. A cross-writ of certiorari or cross-appeal will be argued with the initial writ of certiorari or appeal as one case in the time allowed for that one case, and the Court will advise the parties who shall open and close.

3. Unless the Court directs otherwise, each side is allowed one-half hour for argument. Counsel is not required to use all the allotted time. Any request for additional time to argue shall be presented by motion under Rule 21 in time to be considered at a scheduled Conference prior to the date of oral argument and no later than 7 days after the respondent's or appellee's brief on the merits is filed, and shall set out specifically and concisely why the case cannot be presented within the half-hour limitation. Additional time is rarely accorded.

4. Only one attorney will be heard for each side, except by leave of the Court on motion filed in time to be considered at a scheduled Conference prior to the date of oral argument and no later than 7 days after the respondent's or appellee's brief on the merits is filed. Any request for divided argument shall be presented by motion under Rule 21 and shall set out specifically and concisely why more than one attorney should be allowed to argue. Divided argument is not favored.

5. Regardless of the number of counsel participating in oral argument, counsel making the opening argument shall present the case fairly and completely and not reserve points of substance for rebuttal.

6. Oral argument will not be allowed on behalf of any party for whom a brief has not been filed.

7. By leave of the Court, and subject to paragraph 4 of this Rule, counsel for an amicus curiae whose brief has been filed as provided in Rule 37 may argue orally on the side of a party, with the consent of that party. In the absence of consent, counsel for an amicus curiae may seek leave of the Court to argue orally by a motion setting out specifically and concisely why oral argument would provide assistance to the Court not otherwise available. Such a motion will be granted only in the most extraordinary circumstances.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 528 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

106 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 29

§ Rule 29. Filing and Service of Documents; Special Notifications; Corporate Listing.

1. Any document required or permitted to be presented to the Court or to a Justice shall be filed with the Clerk.

2. A document is timely filed if it is received by the Clerk within the time specified for filing; or if it is sent to the Clerk through the United States Postal Service by first-class mail (including express or priority mail), postage prepaid, and bears a postmark, other than a commercial postage meter label, showing that the document was mailed on or before the last day for filing; or if it is delivered on or before the last day for filing to a third-party commercial carrier for delivery to the Clerk within 3 calendar days. If submitted by an inmate confined in an institution, a document is timely filed if it is deposited in the institution's internal mail system on or before the last day for filing and is accompanied by a notarized statement or declaration in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746 setting out the date of deposit and stating that first-class postage has been prepaid. If the postmark is missing or not legible, or if the third-party commercial carrier does not provide the date the document was received by the carrier, the Clerk will require the person who mailed the document to submit a notarized statement or declaration in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746 setting out the details of the mailing and stating that the mailing took place on a particular date within the permitted time. A document also is timely filed if it is forwarded through a private delivery or courier service and is actually received by the Clerk within the time permitted for filing.

3. Any document required by these Rules to be served may be served personally, by mail, or by third-party commercial carrier for delivery within 3 calendar days on each party to the proceeding at or before the time of filing. If the document has been prepared as required by Rule 33.1, three copies shall be served on each other party separately represented in the proceeding. If the document has been prepared as required by Rule 33.2, service of a single copy on each other separately represented party suffices. If personal service is made, it shall consist of delivery at the office of counsel of record, either to counsel or to an employee therein. If service is by mail, or third-party commercial carrier, it shall consist of depositing the document with the United States Postal Service, with no less than first-class postage prepaid, or delivery to the carrier for delivery within 3 calendar days, addressed to counsel of record at the proper post office address. When a party is not represented by counsel, service shall be made on the party, personally, by mail, or by commercial carrier. Ordinarily, service on a party must be by a manner at least as expeditious as the manner used to file the document with the Court.

4.

(a) If the United States or any federal department, office, agency, officer, or employee is a party to be served, service shall be made on the Solicitor General of the United States, Room 5614, Department of Justice, 10th St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20530. When an agency of the United States that is a party is authorized by law to appear before this Court on its own behalf, or when an officer or employee of the United States is a party, the agency, officer, or employee shall be served in addition to the Solicitor General.

(b) In any proceeding in this Court in which the constitutionality of an Act of Congress is drawn into question, and neither the United States nor any federal department, office, agency, officer, or employee is a party, the initial document filed in this Court shall recite that 28 U.S.C. § 2403(a) may apply and shall be served on the Solicitor General of the United States, Room 5614, Department of Justice, 10th St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20530. In such a proceeding from any court of the United States, as defined by 28 U.S.C. § 451, the initial document also shall state whether that court, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2403(a), certified to the Attorney General the fact that the constitutionality of an Act of Congress was drawn into question. See Rule 14.1(e)(v).

(c) In any proceeding in this Court in which the constitutionality of any statute of a State is drawn into question, and neither the State nor any agency, officer, or employee thereof is a party, the initial document filed in this Court shall recite that 28 U.S.C. § 2403(b) may apply and shall be served on the Attorney General of that State. In such a proceeding from any court of the United States, as defined by 28 U.S.C. § 451, the initial document also shall state whether that court, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2403(b), certified to the state Attorney General the fact that the constitutionality of a statute of that State was drawn into question. See Rule 14.1(e)(v).

5. Proof of service, when required by these Rules, shall accompany the document when it is presented to the Clerk for filing and shall be separate from it. Proof of service shall contain, or be accompanied by, a statement that all parties required to be served have been served, together with a list of the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of counsel indicating the name of the party or parties each counsel represents. It is not necessary that service on each party required to be served be made in the same manner or evidenced by the same proof. Proof of service may consist of any one of the following:

(a) an acknowledgment of service, signed by counsel of record for the party served, and bearing the address and telephone number of such counsel;

(b) a certificate of service, reciting the facts and circumstances of service in compliance with the appropriate paragraph or paragraphs of this Rule, and signed by a member of the Bar of this Court representing the party on whose behalf service is made or by an attorney appointed to represent that party under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, see 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6), or under any other applicable federal statute; or

(c) a notarized affidavit or declaration in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746, reciting the facts and circumstances of service in accordance with the appropriate paragraph or paragraphs of this Rule, whenever service is made by any person not a member of the Bar of this Court and not an attorney appointed to represent a party under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, see 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6), or under any other applicable federal statute.

6. Every document, except a joint appendix or amicus curiae brief, filed by or on behalf of a nongovernmental corporation shall contain a corporate disclosure statementidentifying the parent corporations and listing any publicly held company that owns 10% or more of the corporation's stock. If there is no parent or publicly held company owning 10% or more of the corporation's stock, a notation to this effect shall be included in the document. If a statement has been included in a document filed earlier in the case, reference may be made to the earlier document (except when the earlier statement appeared in a document prepared under Rule 33.2), and only amendments to the statement to make it current need be included in the document being filed.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 529 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 30

§ Rule 30. Computation and Extension of Time.

1. In the computation of any period of time prescribed or allowed by these Rules, by order of the Court, or by an applicable statute, the day of the act, event, or default from which the designated period begins to run is not included. The last day of the period shall be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, federal legal holiday listed in 5 U.S.C. § 6103, or day on which the Court building is closed by order of the Court or the Chief Justice, in which event the period shall extend until the end of the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, federal legal holiday, or day on which the Court building is closed.

2. Whenever a Justice or the Clerk is empowered by law or these Rules to extend the time to file any document, an application seeking an extension shall be filed within the period sought to be extended. An application to extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari or to file a jurisdictional statement must be filed at least 10 days before the specified final filing date as computed under these Rules; if filed less than 10 days before the final filing date, such application will not be granted except in the most extraordinary circumstances.

3. An application to extend the time to file a petition for a writ of certiorari, to file a jurisdictional statement, to file a reply brief on the merits, or to file a petition for rehearing shall be made to an individual Justice and presented and served on all other parties as provided by Rule 22. Once denied, such an application may not be renewed.

4. An application to extend the time to file any document or paper other than those specified in paragraph 3 of this Rule may be presented in the form of a letter to the Clerk setting out specific reasons why an extension of time is justified. The letter shall be served on all other parties as required by Rule 29. The application may be acted on by the Clerk in the first instance, and any party aggrieved by the Clerk's action may request that the application be submitted to a Justice or to the Court. The Clerk will report action under this paragraph to the Court as instructed.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 530 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 31

§ Rule 31. Translations.

Whenever any record to be transmitted to this Court contains material written in a foreign language without a translation made under the authority of the lower court, or admitted to be correct, the clerk of the court transmitting the record shall advise the Clerk of this Court immediately so that this Court may order that a translation be supplied and, if necessary, printed as part of the joint appendix.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 531 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 32

§ Rule 32. Models, Diagrams, Exhibits, and Lodgings

1. Models, diagrams, and exhibits of material forming part of the evidence taken in a case and brought to this Court for its inspection shall be placed in the custody of the Clerk at least two weeks before the case is to be heard or submitted.

2. All models, diagrams, exhibits, and other items placed in the custody of the Clerk shall be removed by the parties no more than 40 days after the case is decided. If this is not done, the Clerk will notify counsel to remove the articles forthwith. If they are not removed within a reasonable time thereafter, the Clerk will destroy them or dispose of them in any other appropriate way.

3. Any party or amicus curiae desiring to lodge non-record material with the Clerk must set out in a letter, served on all parties, a description of the material proposed for lodging and the reasons why the non-record material may properly be considered by the Court. The material proposed for lodging may not be submitted until and unless requested by the Clerk.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 532 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 33

§ Rule 33. Document Preparation: Booklet Format; 8.5 by 11-Inch Paper Format.

1. Booklet Format:

(a) Except for a document expressly permitted by these Rules to be submitted on 81/2- by 11-inch paper, see, e.g., Rules 21, 22, and 39, every document filed with the Court shall be prepared in a 61/8- by 91/4-inch booklet format using a standard typesetting process (e.g., hot metal, photocomposition, or computer typesetting) to produce text printed in typographic (as opposed to typewriter) characters. The process used must produce a clear, black image on white paper. The text must be reproduced with a clarity that equals or exceeds the output of a laser printer.

(b) The text of every booklet-format document, including any appendix thereto, shall be typeset in a Century family (e. g., Century Expanded, New Century Schoolbook, or Century Schoolbook) 12-point type with 2-point or more leading between lines. The typeface should be similar to that used in current volumes of the United States Reports. Increasing the amount of text by using condensed or thinner typefaces, or by reducing the space between letters, is strictly prohibited. Type size and face shall be consistent throughout. Quotations in excess of 50 words shall be indented. The typeface of footnotes shall be 9-point or larger with 2-point or more leading between lines. The text of the document must appear on both sides of the page.

(c) Every booklet-format document shall be produced on paper that is opaque, unglazed, and not less than 60 pounds in weight, and shall have margins of at least three-fourths of an inch on all sides. The text field, including footnotes, may not exceed 41/8 by 71/8 inches. The document shall be bound firmly in at least two places along the left margin (saddle stitch or perfect binding preferred) so as to permit easy opening, and no part of the text should be obscured by the binding. Spiral, plastic, metal, or string bindings may not be used. Copies of patent documents, except opinions, may be duplicated in such size as is necessary in a separate appendix.

(d) Every booklet-format document shall comply with the word limits shown on the chart in subparagraph 1(g) of this Rule. The word limits do not include the questions presented, the list of parties and the corporate disclosure statement, the table of contents, the table of cited authorities, the listing of counsel at the end of the document, or any appendix. The word limits include footnotes. Verbatim quotations required under Rule 14.1(f), if set out in the text of a brief rather than in the appendix, are also excluded. For good cause, the Court or a Justice may grant leave to file a document in excess of the word limits, but application for such leave is not favored. An application to exceed word limits shall comply with Rule 22 and must be received by the Clerk at least 15 days before the filing date of the document in question, except in the most extraordinary circumstances.

(e) Every booklet-format document shall have a suitable cover consisting of 65-pound weight paper in the color indicated on the chart in subparagraph 1(g) of this Rule. If a separate appendix to any document is filed, the color of its cover shall be the same as that of the cover of the document it supports. The Clerk will furnish a color chart upon request. Counsel shall ensure that there is adequate contrast between the printing and the color of the cover. A document filed by the United States, or by any other federal party represented by the Solicitor General, shall have a gray cover. A joint appendix, answer to a bill of complaint, motion for leave to intervene, and any other document not listed in subparagraph 1(g) of this Rule shall have a tan cover.

(f) Forty copies of a booklet-format document shall be filed.

(g) Word limits and cover colors for booklet-format documents are as follows:

	Type of Document	Word Limits	Color of Cover
(i)	Petition for a Writ of Certiorari (Rule 14); Motion for Leave to File a Bill of Complaint and Brief in Support (Rule 17.3); Jurisdictional Statement (Rule 18.3); Petition for an Extraordinary Writ (Rule 20.2)	9,000	white
(ii)	Brief in Opposition (Rule 15.3); Brief in Opposition to Motion for Leave to File an Original Action (Rule 17.5); Motion to Dismiss or Affirm (Rule 18.6); Brief in Opposition to Mandamus or Prohibition (Rule 20.3(b)); Response to a Petition for Habeas Corpus (Rule 20.4)	9,000	orange
(iii)	Reply to Brief in Opposition (Rules 15.6 and 17.5); Brief Opposing a Motion to Dismiss or Affirm (Rule 18.8)	3,000	tan
(iv)	Supplemental Brief (Rules 15.8, 17, 18.10, and 25.5)	3,000	tan
(v)	Brief on the Merits for Petitioner or Appellant	15,000	light blue

	(Rule 24); Exceptions by Plaintiff to Report of Special Master (Rule 17)
(vi)	Brief on the Merits for Respondent or Appellee (Rule 24.2); Brief on the Merits for Respondent or Appellee Supporting Petitioner or Appellant (Rule 12.6); Exceptions by Party Other Than Plaintiff to Report of Special Master (Rule 17)	15,000	light red
(vii)	Reply Brief on the Merits (Rule 24.4)	6,000	yellow
(viii)	Reply to Plaintiff's Exceptions to Report of Special Master (Rule 17)	15,000	orange
(ix)	Reply to Exceptions by Party Other Than Plaintiff to Report of Special Master (Rule 17)	15,000	yellow
(x)	Brief for an Amicus Curiae at the Petition Stage or pertaining to a Motion for Leave to file a Bill of Complaint (Rule 37.2)	6,000	cream
(xi)	Brief for an Amicus Curiae in Support of the Plaintiff, Petitioner, or Appellant, or in Support of Neither Party, on the Merits or in an Original Action at the Exceptions Stage (Rule 37.3)	9,000	light green
(xii)	Brief for an Amicus Curiae in Support of the Defendant, Respondent, or Appellee, on the Merits or in an Original Action at the Exceptions Stage (Rule 37.3)	9,000	dark green
(xiii)	Petition for Rehearing (Rule 44)	3,000	tan

(h) A document prepared under Rule 33.1 must be accompanied by a certificate signed by the attorney, the unrepresented party, or the preparer of the document stating that the brief complies with the word limitations. The person preparing the certificate may rely on the word count of the word-processing system used to prepare the document. The word-processing system must be set to include footnotes in the word count. The certificate must state the number of words in the document. The certificate shall accompany the document when it is presented to the Clerk for filing and shall be separate from it. If the certificate is signed by a person other than a member of the Bar of this Court, the counsel of record, or the unrepresented party, it must contain a notarized affidavit or declaration in compliance with 28 U. S. C. § 1746.

2. 81/2- by 11-Inch Paper Format:

(a) The text of every document, including any appendix thereto, expressly permitted by these Rules to be presented to the Court on 81/2- by 11-inch paper shall appear double spaced, except for indented quotations, which shall be single spaced, on opaque, unglazed, white paper. The document shall be stapled or bound at the upper left-hand corner. Copies, if required, shall be produced on the same type of paper and shall be legible. The original of any such document (except a motion to dismiss or affirm under Rule 18.6) shall be signed by the party proceeding pro se or by counsel of record who must be a member of the Bar of this Court or an attorney appointed under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, see 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(d)(6), or under any other applicable federal statute. Subparagraph 1(g) of this Rule does not apply to documents prepared under this paragraph.

(b) Page limits for documents presented on 81/2- by 11-inch paper are: 40 pages for a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, petition for an extraordinary writ, brief in opposition, or motion to dismiss or affirm; and 15 pages for a reply to a brief in opposition, brief opposing a motion to dismiss or affirm, supplemental brief, or petition for rehearing. The page exclusions specified in subparagraph 1(d) of this Rule apply. The exclusions specified in subparagraph 1(d) of this Rule apply.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 533 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 34

§ Rule 34. Document Preparation: General Requirements.

Every document, whether prepared under Rule 33.1 or Rule 33.2, shall comply with the following provisions:

1. Each document shall bear on its cover, in the order indicated, from the top of the page:

(a) the docket number of the case or, if there is none, a space for one;

(b) the name of this Court;

(c) the caption of the case as appropriate in this Court;

(d) the nature of the proceeding and the name of the court from which the action is brought (e.g., "On Petition for Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit"; or, for a merits brief, "On Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit");

(e) the title of the document (e.g., "Petition for Writ of Certiorari," "Brief for Respondent," "Joint Appendix");

(f) the name of the attorney who is counsel of record for the party concerned (who must be a member of the Bar of this Court except as provided in Rule 9.1) and on whom service is to be made, with a notation directly thereunder identifying the attorney as counsel of record and setting out counsel's office address, e-mail address, and telephone number. Only one counsel of record may be noted on a single document, except that counsel of record for each party must be listed on the cover of a joint appendix. The names of other members of the Bar of this Court or of the bar of the highest court of State acting as counsel, and, if desired, their addresses, may be added, but counsel of record shall be clearly identified. Names of persons other than attorneys admitted to a state bar may not be listed, unless the party is appearing pro se, in which case the party's name, address, and telephone number shall appear.

(g) The foregoing shall be displayed in an appropriate typographical manner and, except for identification of counsel, may not be set in type smaller than standard 11-point, if the document is prepared as required by Rule 33.1.

2. Every document exceeding five pages (other than a joint appendix), whether prepared under Rule 33.1 or Rule 33.2, shall contain a table of contents and a table of cited authorities (i.e., cases alphabetically arranged, constitutional provisions, statutes, treatises, and other materials) with references to the pages in the document where such authorities are cited.

3. The body of every document shall bear at its close the name of counsel of record and such other counsel, identified on the cover of the document in conformity with subparagraph 1(g) of this Rule, as may be desired.

4. Every appendix to a document must be preceded by a table of contents that provides a description of each document in the appendix.

5. All references to a provision of federal statutory law should ordinarily be cited to the United States Code, if the provision has been codified therein. In the event the provision has not been classified to the United States Code, citation should be to the Statutes at Large. Additional or alternative citations should be provided only if there is a particular reason why those citations are relevant or necessary to the argument.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 534 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 35

§ Rule 35. Death, Substitution, and Revivor; Public Officers.

1. If a party dies after the filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari, or after the filing of a notice of appeal, the authorized representative of the deceased party may appear and, on motion, be substituted as a party. If the representative does not voluntarily become a party, any other party may suggest the death on the record and, on motion, seek an order requiring the representative to become a party within a designated time. If the representative then fails to become a party, the party so moving, if a respondent or appellee, is entitled to have the petition for a writ of certiorari or the appeal dismissed, and if a petitioner or appellant, is entitled to proceed as in any other case of nonappearance by a respondent or appellee. If the substitution of a representative of the deceased is not made within six months after the death of the party, the case shall abate.

2. Whenever a case cannot be revived in the court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed, because the deceased party's authorized representative is not subject to that court's jurisdiction, proceedings will be conducted as this Court may direct.

3. When a public officer who is a party to a proceeding in this Court in an official capacity dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate and any successor in office is automatically substituted as a party. The parties shall notify the Clerk in writing of any such successions. Proceedings following the substitution shall be in the name of the substituted party, but any misnomer not affecting substantial rights of the parties will be disregarded.

4. A public officer who is a party to a proceeding in this Court in an official capacity may be described as a party by the officer's official title rather than by name, but the Court may require the name to be added.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 535 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 36

§ Rule 36. Custody of Prisoners in Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

1. Pending review in this Court of a decision in a habeas corpus proceeding commenced before a court, Justice, or judge of the United States, the person having custody of the prisoner may not transfer custody to another person unless the transfer is authorized under this Rule.

2. Upon application by a custodian, the court, Justice, or judge who entered the decision under review may authorize transfer and the substitution of a successor custodian as a party.

3.

(a) Pending review of a decision failing or refusing to release a prisoner, the prisoner may be detained in the custody from which release is sought or in other appropriate custody or may be enlarged on personal recognizance or bail, as may appear appropriate to the court, Justice, or judge who entered the decision, or to the court of appeals, this Court, or a judge or Justice of either court.

(b) Pending review of a decision ordering release, the prisoner shall be enlarged on personal recognizance or bail, unless the court, Justice, or judge who entered the decision, or the court of appeals, this Court, or a judge or Justice of either court, orders otherwise.

4. An initial order respecting the custody or enlargement of the prisoner, and any recognizance or surety taken, shall continue in effect pending review in the court of appeals and in this Court unless for reasons shown to the court of appeals, this Court, or a judge or Justice of either court, the order is modified or an independent order respecting custody, enlargement, or surety is entered.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 536 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 37

§ Rule 37. Brief for an Amicus Curiae.

1. An amicus curiae brief that brings to the attention of the Court relevant matter not already brought to its attention by the parties may be of considerable help to the Court. An amicus curiae brief that does not serve this purpose burdens the Court, and its filing is not favored. An amicus curiae brief may be filed only by an attorney admitted to practice before this Court as provided in Rule 5.

2.

(a) An amicus curiae brief submitted before the Court's consideration of a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion for leave to file a bill of complaint, jurisdictional statement, or petition for an extraordinary writ, may be filed if accompanied by the written consent of all parties, or if the Court grants leaveto file under subparagraph 2(b) of this Rule. An amicus curiae brief in support of a petitioner or appellant shall be filed within 30 days after the case is placed on the docket or a response is called for by the Court, whichever is later, and that time will not be extended. An amicus curiae brief in support of a motion of a plaintiff for leave to file a bill of complaint in an original action shall be filed within 60 days after the case is placed on the docket, and that time will not be extended. An amicus curiae brief in support of a respondent, an appellee, or a defendant shall be submitted within the time allowed for filing a brief in opposition or a motion to dismiss or affirm. An amicus curiae shall ensure that the counsel of record for all parties receive notice of its intention to file an amicus curiae brief at least 10 days prior to the due date for the amicus curiae brief, unless the amicus curiae brief is filed earlier than 10 days before the due date. Only one signatory to any amicus curiae brief filed jointly by more than one amicus curiae must timely notify the parties of its intent to file that brief. The amicus curiae brief shall indicate that counsel of record received timely notice of the intent to file the brief under this Rule and shall specify whether consent was granted, and its cover shall identify the party supported.

(b) When a party to the case has withheld consent, a motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief before the Court's consideration of a petition for a writ of certiorari, motion for leave to file a bill of complaint, jurisdictional statement, or petition for an extraordinary writ may be presented to the Court. The motion, prepared as required by Rule 33.1 and as one document with the brief sought to be filed, shall be submitted within the time allowed for filing an amicus curiae brief, and shall indicate the party or parties who have withheld consent and state the nature of the movant's interest. Such a motion is not favored.

3.

(a) An amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument may be filed if accompanied by the written consent of all parties, or if the Court grants leave to file under subparagraph 3(b) of this Rule. The brief shall be submitted within 7 days after the brief for the party supported is filed, or if in support of neither party, within 7 days after the time allowed for filing the petitioner's or appellant's brief. Motions to extend the time for filing an amicus curiae brief will not be entertained. The 10-day notice requirement of subparagraph 2(a) of this Rule does not apply to an amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument. An electronic version of every amicus curiae brief in a case before the Court for oral argument shall be transmitted to the Clerk of Court and to counsel for the parties at the time the brief is filed in accordance with guidelines established by the Clerk. The electronic transmission requirement is in addition to the requirement that booklet-format briefs be timely filed. The amicus curiae brief shall specify whether consent was granted, and its cover shall identify the party supported or indicate whether it suggests affirmance or reversal. The Clerk will not file a reply brief for an amicus curiae, or a brief for an amicus curiae in support of, or in opposition to, a petition for rehearing.

(b) When a party to the case before the Court for oral argument has withheld consent, a motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief may be presented to the Court. The motion, prepared as required by Rule 33.1 and as one document with the brief sought to be filed, shall be submitted within the time allowed for filing an amicus curiae brief, and shall indicate the party or parties who have withheld consent and state the nature of the movant's interest.

4. No motion for leave to file an amicus curiae brief is necessary if the brief is presented on behalf of the United States by the Solicitor General; on behalf of any agency of the United States allowed by law to appear before this Court when submitted by the agency's authorized legal representative; on behalf of a State, Commonwealth, Territory, or Possession when submitted by its Attorney General; or on behalf of a city, county, town, or similar entity when submitted by its authorized law officer.

5. A brief or motion filed under this Rule shall be accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29, and shall comply with the applicable provisions of Rules 21, 24, and 33.1 (except that it suffices to set out in the brief the interest of the amicus curiae, the summary of the argument, the argument, and the conclusion). A motion for leave to file may not exceed 1,500 words. A party served with the motion may file an objection thereto, stating concisely the reasons for withholding consent; the objection shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.2.

6. Except for briefs presented on behalf of amicus curiae listed in Rule 37.4, a brief filed under this Rule shall indicate whether counsel for a party authored the brief in whole or in part and whether such counsel or a party made a monetary contribution intended to fund the preparation or submission of the brief, and shall identify every person other than the amicus curiae, its members, or its counsel, who made such a monetary contribution to the preparation or submission of the brief. The disclosure shall be made in the first footnote on the first page of text.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 537 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 38

§ Rule 38. Fees.

Under 28 U.S.C. § 1911, the fees charged by the Clerk are:

(a) for docketing a case on a petition for a writ of certiorari or on appeal or for docketing any other proceeding, except a certified question or a motion to docket and dismiss an appeal under Rule 18.5, $300;

(b) for filing a petition for rehearing or a motion for leave to file a petition for rehearing, $200;

(c) for reproducing and certifying any record or paper, $1 per page; and for comparing with the original thereof any photographic reproduction of any record or paper, when furnished by the person requesting its certification, $.50 per page;

(d) for a certificate bearing the seal of the Court, $10; and

(e) for a check paid to the Court, Clerk, or Marshal that is returned for lack of funds, $35.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 538 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

116 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 39

§ Rule 39. Proceedings In Forma Pauperis.

1. A party seeking to proceed in forma pauperis shall file a motion for leave to do so, together with the party's notarized affidavit or declaration (in compliance with 28 U.S.C. § 1746) in the form prescribed by the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, Form 4. The motion shall state whether leave to proceed in forma pauperis was sought in any other court and, if so, whetherleave was granted. If the United States district court or the United States court of appeals has appointed counsel under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, 18 U.S.C. § 3006A, or under any other applicable federal statute, no affidavit or declaration is required, but the motion shall cite the statute under which counsel was appointed.

2. If leave to proceed in forma pauperis is sought for the purpose of filing a document, the motion, and an affidavit or declaration if required, shall be filed together with that document and shall comply in every respect with Rule 21. As provided in that Rule, it suffices to file an original and 10 copies, unless the party is an inmate confined in an institution and is not represented by counsel, in which case the original, alone, suffices. A copy of the motion, and affidavit or declaration if required, shall precede and be attached to each copy of the accompanying document.

3. Except when these Rules expressly provide that a document shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.1, every document presented by a party proceeding under this Rule shall be prepared as required by Rule 33.2 (unless such preparation is impossible). Every document shall be legible. While making due allowance for any case presented under this Rule by a person appearing pro se, the Clerk will not file any document if it does not comply with the substance of these Rules or is jurisdictionally out of time.

4. When the documents required by paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Rule are presented to the Clerk, accompanied by proof of service as required by Rule 29, they will be placed on the docket without the payment of a docket fee or any other fee.

5. The respondent or appellee in a case filed in forma pauperis shall respond in the same manner and within the same time as in any other case of the same nature, except that the filing of an original and 10 copies of a response prepared as required by Rule 33.2, with proof of service as required by Rule 29, suffices. The respondent or appellee may challenge the grounds for the motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis in a separate document or in the response itself.

6. Whenever the Court appoints counsel for an indigent party in a case set for oral argument, the briefs on the merits submitted by that counsel, unless otherwise requested, shall be prepared under the Clerk's supervision. The Clerk also will reimburse appointed counsel for any necessary travel expenses to Washington, D.C., and return in connection with the argument.

7. In a case in which certiorari has been granted, probable jurisdiction noted, or consideration of jurisdiction postponed, this Court may appoint counsel to represent a party financially unable to afford an attorney to the extent authorized by the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, 18 U.S.C. § 3006A, or by any other applicable federal statute.

8. If satisfied that a petition for a writ of certiorari, jurisdictional statement, or petition for an extraordinary writ is frivolous or malicious, the Court may deny leave to proceed in forma pauperis.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 539 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VII. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 40

§ Rule 40. Veterans, Seamen, and Military Cases.

1. A veteran suing to establish reemployment rights under any provision of law exempting veterans from the payment of fees or court costs, may proceed without prepayment of fees or costs or furnishing security therefor and may file a motion for leave to proceed on papers prepared as required by Rule 33.2. The motion shall ask leave to proceed as a veteran and be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration setting out the moving party's veteran status. A copy of the motion shall precede and be attached to each copy of the petition for a writ of certiorari or other substantive document filed by the veteran.

2. A seaman suing under 28 U.S.C. § 1916 may proceed without prepayment of fees or costs or furnishing security therefor and may file a motion for leave to proceed on papers prepared as required by Rule 33.2. The motion shall ask leave to proceed as a seaman and be accompanied by an affidavit or declaration setting out the moving party's seaman status. A copy of the motion shall precede and be attached to each copy of the petition for a writ of certiorari or other substantive document filed by the seaman.

3. An accused person petitioning for a writ of certiorari to review a decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces under 28 U.S.C. § 1259 may proceed without prepayment of fees or costs or furnishing security therefor and without filing an affidavit of indigency, but is not entitled to proceed on papers prepared as required by Rule 33.2, except as authorized by the Court on separate motion under Rule 39.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 540 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VIII. DISPOSITION OF CASES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 41

§ Rule 41. Opinions of the Court.

Opinions of the Court will be released by the Clerk immediately upon their announcement from the bench, or as the Court otherwise directs. Thereafter, the Clerk will cause the opinions to be issued in slip form, and the Reporter of Decisions will prepare them for publication in the preliminary prints and bound volumes of the United States Reports.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 541 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VIII. DISPOSITION OF CASES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 42

§ Rule 42. Interest and Damages.

1. If a judgment for money in a civil case is affirmed, any interest allowed by law is payable from the date the judgment under review was entered. If a judgment is modified or reversed with a direction that a judgment for money be entered below, the courts below may award interest to the extent permitted by law. Interest in cases arising in a state court is allowed at the same rate that similar judgments bear interest in the courts of the State in which judgment is directed to be entered. Interest in cases arising in a court of the United States is allowed at the interest rate authorized by law.

2. When a petition for a writ of certiorari, an appeal, or an application for other relief is frivolous, the Court may award the respondent or appellee just damages, and single or double costs under Rule 43. Damages or costs may be awarded against the petitioner, appellant, or applicant, against the party's counsel, or against both party and counsel.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 542 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VIII. DISPOSITION OF CASES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 43

§ Rule 43. Costs.

1. If the Court affirms a judgment, the petitioner or appellant shall pay costs unless the Court otherwise orders.

2. If the Court reverses or vacates a judgment, the respondent or appellee shall pay costs unless the Court otherwise orders.

3. The Clerk's fees and the cost of printing the joint appendix are the only taxable items in this Court. The cost of the transcript of the record from the court below is also a taxable item, but shall be taxable in that court as costs in the case. The expenses of printing briefs, motions, petitions, or jurisdictional statements are not taxable.

4. In a case involving a certified question, costs are equally divided unless the Court otherwise orders, except that if the Court decides the whole matter in controversy, as permitted by Rule 19.2, costs are allowed as provided in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Rule.

5. To the extent permitted by 28 U.S.C. § 2412, costs under this Rule are allowed for or against the United States or an officer or agent thereof, unless expressly waived or unless the Court otherwise orders.

6. When costs are allowed in this Court, the Clerk will insert an itemization of the costs in the body of the mandate or judgment sent to the court below. The prevailing side may not submit a bill of costs.

7. In extraordinary circumstances the Court may adjudge double costs.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 543 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VIII. DISPOSITION OF CASES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 44

§ Rule 44. Rehearing.

1. Any petition for the rehearing of any judgment or decision of the Court on the merits shall be filed within 25 days after entry of the judgment or decision, unless the Court or a Justice shortens or extends the time. The petitioner shall file 40 copies of the rehearing petition and shall pay the filing fee prescribed by Rule 38(b), except that a petitioner proceeding in forma pauperis under Rule 39, including an inmate of an institution, shall file the number of copies required for a petition by such a person under Rule 12.2. The petition shall state its grounds briefly and distinctly and shall be served as required by Rule 29. The petition shall be presented together with certification of counsel (or of a party unrepresented by counsel) that it is presented in good faith and not for delay; one copy of the certificate shall bear the signature of counsel (or of a party unrepresented by counsel). A copy of the certificate shall follow and be attached to each copy of the petition. A petition for rehearing is not subject to oral argument and will not be granted except by a majority of the Court, at the instance of a Justice who concurred in the judgment or decision.

2. Any petition for the rehearing of an order denying a petition for a writ of certiorari or extraordinary writ shall be filed within 25 days after the date of the order of denial and shall comply with all the form and filing requirements of paragraph 1 of this Rule, including the payment of the filing fee if required, but its grounds shall be limited to intervening circumstances of a substantial or controlling effect or to other substantial grounds not previously presented. The petition shall be presented together with certification of counsel (or of a party unrepresented by counsel) that it is restricted to the grounds specified in this paragraph and that it is presented in good faith and not for delay; one copy of the certificate shall bear the signature of counsel (or of a party unrepresented by counsel). The certificate shall be bound with each copy of the petition. The Clerk will not file a petition without a certificate. The petition is not subject to oral argument.

3. The Clerk will not file any response to a petition for rehearing unless the Court requests a response. In the absence of extraordinary circumstances, the Court will not grant a petition for rehearing without first requesting a response.

4. The Clerk will not file consecutive petitions and petitions that are out of time under this Rule.

5. The Clerk will not file any brief for an amicus curiae in support of, or in opposition to, a petition for rehearing.

6. If the Clerk determines that a petition for rehearing submitted timely and in good faith is in a form that does not comply with this Rule or with Rule 33 or Rule 34, the Clerk will return it with a letter indicating the deficiency. A corrected petition for rehearing submitted in accordance with Rule 29.2 no more than 15 days after the date of the Clerk's letter will be deemed timely.

Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 544 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VIII. DISPOSITION OF CASES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 45

§ Rule 45. Process; Mandates.

1. All process of this Court issues in the name of the President of the United States.

2. In a case on review from a state court, the mandate issues 25 days after entry of the judgment, unless the Court or a Justice shortens or extends the time, or unless the parties stipulate that it issue sooner. The filing of a petition for rehearing stays the mandate until disposition of the petition, unless the Court orders otherwise. If the petition is denied, the mandate issues forthwith.

3. In a case on review from any court of the United States, as defined by 28 U.S.C. § 451, a formal mandate does not issue unless specially directed; instead, the Clerk of this Court will send the clerk of the lower court a copy of the opinion or order of this Court and a certified copy of the judgment. The certified copy of the judgment, prepared and signed by this Court's Clerk, will provide for costs if any are awarded. In all other respects, the provisions of paragraph 2 of this Rule apply.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 545 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART VIII. DISPOSITION OF CASES

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 46

§ Rule 46. Dismissing Cases.

1. At any stage of the proceedings, whenever all parties file with the Clerk an agreement in writing that a case be dismissed, specifying the terms for payment of costs, and pay to the Clerk any fees then due, the Clerk, without further reference to the Court, will enter an order of dismissal.

2.

(a) A petitioner or appellant may file a motion to dismiss the case, with proof of service as required by Rule 29, tendering to the Clerk any fees due and costs payable. No more than 15 days after service thereof, an adverse party may file an objection, limited to the amount of damages and costs in this Court alleged to be payable or to showing that the moving party does not represent all petitioners or appellants. The Clerk will not file any objection not so limited.

(b) When the objection asserts that the moving party does not represent all the petitioners or appellants, the party moving for dismissal may file a reply within 10 days, after which time the matter will be submitted to the Court for its determination.

(c) If no objection is filed--or if upon objection going only to the amount of damages and costs in this Court, the party moving for dismissal tenders the additional damages and costs in full within 10 days of the demand therefor--the Clerk, without further reference to the Court, will enter an order of dismissal. If, after objection as to the amount of damages and costs in this Court, the moving party does not respond by a tender within 10 days, the Clerk will report the matter to the Court for its determination.

3. No mandate or other process will issue on a dismissal under this Rule without an order of the Court.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 546 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART IX. DEFINITIONS AND EFFECTIVE DATE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 47

§ Rule 47. Reference to "State Court" and "State Law".

The term "state court," when used in these Rules, includes the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the courts of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the local courts of Guam. References in these Rules to the statutes of a State include the statutes of the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Territory of Guam.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 547 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VII Appeal
APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 29: RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
PART IX. DEFINITIONS AND EFFECTIVE DATE

3-29 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § Rule 48

§ Rule 48. Effective Date of Rules.

1. These Rules, adopted January 12, 2010, will be effective February 16, 2010.

2. The Rules govern all proceedings after their effective date except to the extent that, in the opinion of the Court, their application to a pending matter would not be feasible or would work an injustice, in which event the former procedure applies.

3. In any case in which a petitioner or appellant has filed its brief on the merits prior to the effective date of these revised Rules, all remaining briefs in that case may comply with the October 1, 2007, version of the Rules of the Supreme Court of the United States rather than with these revised Rules.
Reference

23 MOORE'S FEDERAL PRACTICE, Ch. 548 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

126 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure 30.syn

§ 30.syn Synopsis to Chapter 30: RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES

§ 30.01 Doctrines of Preclusion

§ 30.02 Attributes of Preclusion Doctrines

[1] Stare Decisis

[2] Law of Case

[3] Claim Preclusion

[4] Issue Preclusion

[5] Judicial Estoppel

§§ 30.03through 30.09 [Reserved]

§ 30.10 Nature of Stare Decisis

[1] Definition of Stare Decisis

[2] Stare Decisis Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

[3] Purposes of Stare Decisis

[4] Limitations of Doctrine

[a] Flexibility of Doctrine

[b] Factors Considered in Overruling Prior Decision

§ 30.11 Determining Applicability of Stare Decisis

[1] Prerequisites to Application of Stare Decisis

[2] Prohibition Against Limitations on Citation of Judicial Dispositions

[3] Copies Required When Citing to Unavailable Opinions or Other Judicial Dispositions

§ 30.12 Effect of Application of Stare Decisis

[1] Determination of Effect by Court

[2] Consistency With Prior Result

[3] Consistency With Prior Holding

[4] Consistency With Prior Reasoning

§ 30.13 Stare Decisis in Federal Court

[1] Stare Decisis Effect of Decisions by Same Court

[2] Stare Decisis Effect of Higher Court Decision on Lower Court

[3] Stare Decisis Effect in Specialized Federal Courts

[4] Stare Decisis Effect in State and Federal Courts

[5] Stare Decisis Regarding Administrative Agency Decisions

§§ 30.14through 30.29 [Reserved]

§ 30.30 Nature of Law of Case

[1] Definition of Law of Case

[2] Mandatory and Discretionary Branches of Doctrine

[a] Two Branches of Doctrine

[b] Mandate Rule

[c] Court's Discretion Regarding Its Own Prior Decisions

[3] Law of Case Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

§ 30.31 Limitations On Doctrine of Law of Case

[1] Court Has Discretion to Reconsider Its Own Decisions

[a] Scope of Court's Discretion to Reconsider Its Own Decisions

[b] Grounds Justifying Reconsideration of Decisions

[2] Limitation of Doctrine to Issues Actually Decided

[3] Inapplicability of Doctrine Because of Change in Law

[a] Decision of Higher Court

[b] Change in Statute

§ 30.32 Specific Applications of Law of the Case Doctrines

[1] Interlocutory Appeals

[2] Doctrine Applicable to Transferred Cases

[3] Applicability of Doctrine at Different Levels of Judiciary

[a] Application of Doctrine at Level of District Court

[b] Application of Doctrine at Level of Court of Appeals

[c] Doctrine Not Applicable to Supreme Court

§§ 30.33through 30.49 [Reserved]

§ 30.50 Nature of Claim Preclusion

[1] Definition of Claim Preclusion

[2] Doctrine Does Not Prohibit Direct Attack

[3] Purposes of Claim Preclusion

[4] Claim Preclusion Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

[a] Relation to Other Preclusive Doctrines

[b] Stare Decisis

[c] Law of the Case

[d] Issue Preclusion

[e] Judicial Estoppel

§ 30.51 Summary of Requirements for Claim Preclusion

§ 30.52 Requirement of Identity of Parties

[1] Statement of Requirement

[2] Opportunity of Party to Litigate

[3] Application of Claim Preclusion to Persons in Privity With Parties

[4] Exception to Application of Doctrine for Certain Parties

§ 30.53 Judgment Required for Claim Preclusion

[1] Valid Judgment

[2] Final Judgment

[a] Finality Required

[b] Effect of Appeal

[3] Judgment on Merits

[a] Nature of Judgment on Merits for Claim Preclusion Purposes

[b] Default Judgment

[c] Dismissals

§ 30.54 Requirement That Claims Be Based on Same Transactional Facts

[1] Statement of Requirement

[2] New Facts or Law Alone Not Sufficient to Establish Different Claim

§ 30.55 Effects of Application of Claim Preclusion

[1] Preclusion of Claims Not Asserted in Prior Action

[2] Preclusion of Claims Not Asserted by Counterclaim in Prior Action

[3] Preclusion of State Law Claims Not Asserted in Prior Action

[4] Remedies That Could Have Been Requested in Prior Action Are Precluded

[5] Defenses That Could Have Been Asserted in Prior Action Are Precluded

[6] Preclusive Effect of Multiple Inconsistent Prior Judgments

§ 30.56 Procedural Considerations for Claim Preclusion

[1] Claim Preclusion Must Be Asserted as Affirmative Defense

[2] Methods of Asserting Claim Preclusion

[3] Court May Initiate Claim Preclusion

[4] Claim Preclusion in Context of Certain Actions

[a] In Rem and Quasi in Rem Judgments

[b] Declaratory Judgment

[c] Administrative Proceedings

[d] Arbitration

[e] Injunction to Enforce Claim Preclusion

§§ 30.57through 30.69 [Reserved]

§ 30.70 Nature of Issue Preclusion

[1] Definition of Issue Preclusion

[2] Purpose of Issue Preclusion Doctrine

[3] Issue Preclusion Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

[a] Stare Decisis

[b] Law of the Case

[c] Claim Preclusion

[d] Judicial Estoppel

§ 30.71 Summary of Requirements for Issue Preclusion

§ 30.72 Identity of Issues

[1] Requirement of Identical Issues in Both Proceedings

[2] Definition of Issue for Issue Preclusion Purposes

[3] Factors Considered in Determination of Issue Identity

[4] Identity of Factual Issues

[5] Identity of Legal Issues

[6] Effect of Length of Time Between Actions

[7] Intervening Change in Law

§ 30.73 Prior Litigation Requirements

[1] Requirement of Actual Litigation of Issues

[a] Nature of Actual Litigation

[b] Methods of Actual Litigation

[c] Sufficiency of Particular Devices as Litigation

[i] Stipulation of Parties

[ii] Consent Judgments

[iii] Summary Judgments

[iv] Default Judgments

[v] Dismissal With Prejudice

[vi] Admission of Factual Issue

[2] Requirement That Issue Was Actually Decided

[a] Statement of Requirement

[b] Ambiguous Decisions on Issue

[c] Implied Decision on Issue

[d] Verdicts

§ 30.74 Full and Fair Opportunity to Litigate Requirement

[1] Party Has Right to Full and Fair Litigation

[2] Factors Considered

§ 30.75 Necessity of Determination of Issue

[1] Statement of Requirement

[2] Determination of Necessity

[3] Issues Not Necessary for Prior Judgment

§ 30.76 Finality of Judgment in First Proceeding

[1] Requirement of Final Judgment

[2] Finality of Justiciability Determinations

§ 30.77 Procedural Considerations Regarding Issue Preclusion

[1] Party Considerations

[a] Requirement of Privity

[b] Virtual Representation

[c] Class Actions

[2] Burden Considerations

[a] Burden of Asserting Issue Preclusion

[b] Burdens Affecting Application of Issue Preclusion

[3] Issue Preclusion Must be Raised as Affirmative Defense

[4] Issue Preclusion May be Raised by Summary Judgment Motion

[5] Preclusive Effect of Administrative Proceedings

[6] Appeal

[a] Raising Issue Preclusion on Appeal

[b] Standard of Review for Issue Preclusion Determinations

[c] Preclusive Effect of Appellate Decision

§§ 30.78through 30.89 [Reserved]

§ 30.90 Nature of Judicial Estoppel

§ 30.91 Purpose of Judicial Estoppel

§ 30.92 Factors Considered in Application of Judicial Estoppel in Discretion of Court

[1] Success in Earlier Contention

[a] Requirement of Success

[b] Definition of Success

[2] Single Civil Action

[3] Bad Faith

[4] Other Requirements

§ 30.93 Procedural Considerations Regarding Judicial Estoppel

[1] Court May Apply Doctrine on Its Own Initiative

[2] Law Applied

§§ 30.94through 30.109 [Reserved]

§ 30.110 Requirement of Full Faith & Credit For State & Federal Judgments

[1] Doctrine Requires Recognition of Judgments

[2] Courts Bound by Doctrine

[3] Authentication of State Court Judgments

§ 30.111 State & Federal Court Judgments Have Preclusive Effect of Judgments of Court Where Rendered

§ 30.112 Requirements for Application of Full Faith and Credit Doctrine

[1] Finality

[2] Validity

[3] Based on Merits

§ 30.113 Exception to Full Faith and Credit Doctrine for Certain Judgments

§ 30.114 Recognition and Enforcement of State Court Judgments

§ 30.115 Recognition and Enforcement of Federal Court Judgments

§ 30.116 Recognition and Enforcement of Judgments of Courts of Foreign Nations

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
A. COMPARISON OF PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.01

§ 30.01 Doctrines of Preclusionn*

As used in federal litigation, the doctrine of "preclusion" generally means that a matter that has been disposed of by a court may not be raised again for consideration. There are several distinct preclusion doctrines that are summarized in this section. These doctrines have different effects depending on the type or stage of litigation involved, the matters that are precluded from reconsideration, and the parties that are affected by the particular doctrine. n1 Thus, stare decisis, law of the case, res judicata (claim preclusion), collateral estoppel (issue preclusion), and judicial estoppel are doctrines that prescribe the limits of reconsideration of judicial decisions. n2 While they are related because they are all preclusive and have as a common general purpose the conservation of judicial resources, they are distinct doctrines and each has other, unique policy considerations. n3 The primary distinctions among these doctrines are discussed in § 30.02. The effects of the doctrines are discussed in the remainder of Part I of this chapter. n4

The doctrine of full faith and credit may be considered to be preclusive, because it requires courts to abide by the decisions of courts of other jurisdictions. However, the doctrine is not strictly a doctrine of preclusion in that it is an explicit constitutional requirement. It is considered separately in Part II of this chapter. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral EstoppelCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelJudicial EstoppelCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsLaw of the CaseCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 130.01 et seq., 131.01 et seq., 132.01 et seq., 134.01 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Compare Rivet v. Regions Bank of Louisiana, 522 U.S. 470, 476, 118 S. Ct. 921, 139 L. Ed. 2d 912 (1998) (claim preclusion means that final judgment on merits of particular action prevents parties or privies from initiating subsequent litigation arising out of same transaction or series of transactions); with Schiro v. Farley, 510 U.S. 222, 232, 114 S. Ct. 783, 127 L. Ed. 2d 47 (1994) (issue preclusion means that when any issue has been determined by valid and final judgment, that issue may not again be litigated between same parties in any future lawsuit).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Devex Corp. v. General Motors Corp., 857 F.2d 197, 200 (3d Cir. 1988) .

(n4)Footnote 3. See Baker v. GMC, 522 U.S. 222, 234, 118 S. Ct. 657, 139 L. Ed. 2d 580 (1998) .

(n5)Footnote 4. See § 30.10 et seq.

(n6)Footnote 5. See § 30.110 et seq.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
A. COMPARISON OF PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.02

§ 30.02 Attributes of Preclusion Doctrinesn*

[1] Stare Decisis

The doctrine of stare decisis provides that a case must be decided in accordance with what has been decided previously in other similar cases. n1 Stare decisis provides that a decision on an issue of law embodied in a final judgment is binding in all future cases on the court that decided it and such other courts as owe obedience to its decisions. n2 For a complete discussion of the doctrine of stare decisis, see § 30.10 et seq.

Stare decisis means that identical facts must receive identical treatment by the court. n3 Therefore, as a general rule, the principle of stare decisis is applicable only where facts in two actions are the same. n4 Under the stare decisis rule, language and general expressions in a court's opinion should be limited to particular facts and issues involved. The language of a court's opinion should not be extended beyond that for any purpose of authority in another or different case. Additionally, a decision depending on its underlying facts is not necessarily controlling precedent under the doctrine of stare decisis with respect to subsequent analysis of the same question on different facts and different records.

The doctrine of stare decisis is an important social policy utilized by courts to provide predictability, continuity, and consistency in the law. n5 The stare decisis doctrine ensures that the law will not merely change erratically, but will develop in a principled and intelligible fashion. The doctrine allows society to presume that societal principles are founded in the law rather than in the proclivities of individuals and contributes to the integrity of our constitutional system of government. However, stare decisis is not an inexorable command but is guidance to ensure that any deviations from its dictates must occur for articulable reasons and only when a court is obliged to bring its opinions into agreement with experience and with newly ascertained facts. n6

[2] Law of Case

The law of the case doctrine provides that when a court decides a rule of law, that decision should continue to govern the same issues in all subsequent stages of the same case. The law of the case doctrine applies only to issues that were either explicitly or implicitly decided by the court. n1 The doctrine also expresses the duty of a lower or another court to follow what has been decided by a higher court at an earlier stage of the case. n2 The law of the case doctrine expresses the general practice of courts to refuse to reopen an issue in the case that already has been decided, but does not limit the power of the court to do so. A court has the power to redetermine prior decisions, although as a general rule courts should not alter a decision except in the absence of extraordinary circumstances, such as when the initial decision was clearly erroneous and would work a manifest injustice. n3 It should be noted that the doctrine applies as much to the decisions of a coordinate court in the same case, as to a court's own decisions. n4 For a complete discussion of the doctrine of law of the case, see § 30.30 et seq.

The law of the case doctrine is a rule of practice that promotes the finality and efficiency of the judicial process by protecting against the disturbance of settled issues. n5 It is thus similar to the doctrine of issue preclusion. However, while the doctrine of issue preclusion forbids relitigation by the same parties in any future lawsuit of an issue determined by a valid and final judgment, n6 the law of the case doctrine provides that the law applied in decisions at one stage of litigation, must be applied as the governing principle in later stages of the same litigation. n7

[3] Claim Preclusion

The doctrine of claim preclusion, also referred to as res judicata, n1 means that a final judgment on the merits of an action prohibits the parties or their privies from initiating subsequent litigation arising out of the same transaction or series of transactions. n2 In other words, when a final judgment is entered, the judgment constitutes a bar that prevents the parties from relitigating the claims for damages or other relief encompassed by the judgment. Thus, when a judgment is rendered for the defendant, the plaintiff's claim is considered extinguished and the judgment acts as a bar to relitigation of that claim. Furthermore, the claim preclusion bar extends to all issues relevant to the same claim between the same parties, whether or not these issues were raised at trial. n3 For a complete discussion of the doctrine of claim preclusion, see § 30.50 et seq.

Claim preclusion differs from stare decisis n4 in that claim preclusion does not apply either to the claims of strangers to the litigation, n5 or to claims for relief between the same parties other than than the claims encompassed by the judgment. n6 Claim preclusion also differs from stare decisis in that claim preclusion prohibits relitigation of the claims regarding issues of either law or fact, if such issues could have been raised and determined. n7 The basic difference between claim preclusion and issue preclusion n8 is that claim preclusion prevents relitigation of entire claims for relief, whether litigated or not, while issue preclusion prevents relitigation of individual issues that have been contested and resolved. Thus, claim preclusion prevents parties and those in privity with them from raising claims for relief or defenses to claims for relief that could have been raised in the prior litigation, even though such claims were never actually litigated in the prior case. n9 Issue preclusion, on the other hand, precludes litigation of issues that were actually litigated and essential to the outcome of the prior case, even if such issues are subsequently presented to support an entirely different claim for relief. n10

As is the case with other preclusion doctrines, claim preclusion is a fundamental rule of law that serves an important public interest by ensuring a definitive end to litigation. n11 The rationale for the doctrine of claim preclusion is that a valid judgment should have the effect of foreclosing litigation of a matter because of a determination that the matter should have been advanced in that earlier suit, even when that matter has never been actually litigated. n12 Thus, the primary purpose of claim preclusion is to prevent a plaintiff from merely relitigating the same facts by using a different legal theory. n13 Additional purposes of claim preclusion are to further judicial economy and to spare parties from wasteful, duplicative litigation of identical obligations, wrongful conduct, or breaches. n14

[4] Issue Preclusion

The doctrine of issue preclusion, also referred to historically as collateral estoppel, n1 essentially provides that when an issue of fact or law has been determined by a valid and final judgment, that issue may not again be litigated between the same parties in any subsequent legal action. n2 Issue preclusion therefore applies to prevent relitigation of the same issues in a subsequent case even on a different claim for relief, if the claim involves a party or privy to the prior litigation. n3 The doctrine of issue preclusion prevents a party from relitigating an issue that the party has already litigated and lost and thus often protects a defendant from the burden of litigating an issue that has been fully and fairly tried in a prior action and decided against the same plaintiff. n4 For a complete discussion of the doctrine of issue preclusion, see § 30.70 et seq.

Issue preclusion differs from claim preclusion because claim preclusion deems that a validly entered judgment is the entire measure of relief to be accorded between the same parties on the same claim for relief, and therefore precludes relitigation of that claim only, n5 while issue preclusion merely bars the relitigation of those issues that were actually adjudicated and essential to a judgment in a prior litigation between the same parties or privies. n6 Thus, claim preclusion may be used to preclude claims or causes of action other than those previously litigated, n6.1 provided that the issue was previously litigated and essential to the prior judgment. n7

Issue preclusion has the dual purpose of protecting litigants from the burden of relitigating an identical issue and of promoting judicial economy by preventing needless litigation. n8 The doctrine also prevents inconsistent decisions and encourages reliance on adjudication by preventing inconsistent decisions. n9

[5] Judicial Estoppel

The doctrine of judicial estoppel is an equitable doctrine n1 which gives the court discretion to reject a claim made by a party in a legal proceeding when that claim is inconsistent with a claim made by that party earlier in the same proceeding or in a previous legal proceeding. n2 Thus, if a party assumes a certain position in a legal proceeding and succeeds in maintaining that position, the court may reject a later contrary position, even though the party's interests have changed. The rule of judicial estoppel is intended to prevent improper use of the judicial process. n3 As an equitable doctrine, judicial estoppel is most appropriately applied when a party's change in position or argument would adversely affect the proceeding or constitute a fraud on the court. n6 It is also typically used when a party intentionally uses self-contradiction in an attempt to obtain unfair advantage. n7 For a complete discussion of the doctrine of judicial estoppel, see § 30.90 et seq.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsStare DecisisCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral EstoppelCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsLaw of the CaseCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes JudicataGovernmentsCourtsJudicial Precedents

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 131.13, 132.01 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U.S. 106, 119, 60 S. Ct. 444, 451, 84 L. Ed. 604 (1940) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Northwest Forest Resource Council v. Dombeck, 107 F.3d 897, 900 (D.C. Cir. 1997) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that, while stare decisis makes each judgment binding precedent in future cases before same court or another court owing obedience to its decisions, court of appeals in one circuit under federal system owes no obedience to decisions of court of appeals in another circuit).

(n4)Footnote 3. Brock v. El Paso Natural Gas Co., 826 F.2d 369, 374 (5th Cir. 1987) .

(n5)Footnote 4. United States v. Nolan, 136 F.3d 265, 269 (2d Cir. 1998) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Premier Elec. Const. Co. v. Nat'l Elect. Contractors Ass'n, Inc., 814 F.2d 358, 367 (7th Cir. 1987)

.

(n7)Footnote 6. Vasquez v. Hillery, 474 U.S. 254, 265, 106 S. Ct. 617, 88 L. Ed. 2d 598 (1986) .

(n8)Footnote 1. Lujan v. Hughes Aircraft Co., 243 F.3d 1181, 1186-1187 (9th Cir. 2001) , cert. denied, 534 U.S. 1040 (2001) .

(n9)Footnote 2. Appointing Indep. Counsels Ethics in Gov't Act of 1978, 925 F.2d 428, 434 (D.C. Cir. 1991) .

(n10)Footnote 3. Arizona v. California, 460 U.S. 605, 618, 103 S. Ct. 1382, 75 L. Ed. 2d 318 (1983) .

(n11)Footnote 4. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) (policies supporting doctrine of law of case apply with even greater force to decisions transferred from coordinate court than to decisions of substantive law).

(n12)Footnote 5. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n13)Footnote 6. See Schiro v. Farley, 510 U.S. 222, 232, 114 S. Ct. 783, 127 L. Ed. 2d 47 (1994) ; see [d], below.

(n14)Footnote 7. Copeland v. Merrill Lynch & Co., 47 F.3d 1415, 1423 (5th Cir. 1995) .

(n15)Footnote 1. Perkins v. Board of Trustees of the Univ. of Illinois, 116 F.3d 235, 236 (7th Cir. 1997) ; Copeland v. Merrill Lynch & Co., 47 F.3d 1415, 1423 (5th Cir. 1995) ; see State of Arizona v. State of California, 530 U.S. 392, 409, 120 S. Ct. 2304, 147 L. Ed. 2d 374 (2000) (defense of claim preclusion is also known as defense of res judicata).

(n16)Footnote 2. Rivet v. Regions Bank of Louisiana, 522 U.S. 470, 476, 118 S. Ct. 921, 139 L. Ed. 2d 912 (1998) .

(n17)Footnote 3. Kaspar Wire Works, Inc. v. Leco Eng'g and Mach., Inc., 575 F.2d 530, 535-536 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n18)Footnote 4. See [1], above.

(n19)Footnote 5. Gately v. Massachusetts, 2 F.3d 1221, 1226 (1st Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1082 (1994) .

(n20)Footnote 6. Kaspar Wire Works, Inc. v. Leco Eng'g and Mach., Inc., 575 F.2d 530, 535 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n21)Footnote 7. See Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 398, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103 (1981) .

(n22)Footnote 8. See [3], below.

(n23)Footnote 9. Brown v. Felsen, 442 U.S. 127, 131, 99 S. Ct. 2205, 60 L. Ed. 2d 767 (1979) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n24)Footnote 10. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 326 n.5, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n25)Footnote 11. Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 401, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103 (1979) .

(n26)Footnote 12. Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 77 n.1, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) .

(n27)Footnote 13. Hiser v. Franklin, 94 F.3d 1287, 1292 (9th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 520 U.S. 1103 (1997) .

(n28)Footnote 14. Kaspar Wire Works, Inc. v. Leco Eng'g and Mach., Inc., 575 F.2d 530, 535 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n29)Footnote 1. See Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Ed., 465 U.S. 75, 77 n.1, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) .

(n30)Footnote 2. San Remo Hotel, L.P. v. City & County of San Francisco, 545 U.S. 323, 125 S. Ct. 2491, 162 L. Ed. 2d 315, 332 (2005) (issue preclusion and other preclusive doctrines are encompassed by Judicial Code Section 1738, which provides that judicial proceedings must be given the same full faith and credit in every court within the United States and its territories and possessions as they have by law or usage in the courts of each state).

(n31)Footnote 3. Freeman United Coal Mining Co. v. Office of Workers' Compensation Program, 20 F.3d 289, 294 (7th Cir. 1994) .

(n32)Footnote 4. Comair Rotron, Inc. v. Nippon Densan Corp., 49 F.3d 1535, 1537 (Fed. Cir. 1995) .

(n33)Footnote 5. McLaughlin v. Bradlee, 803 F.2d 1197, 1201 (D.C. Cir. 1986) .

(n34)Footnote 6. See Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 326 n.5, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) .

(n35)Footnote 6.1. B-S Steel of Kan. v. Tex. Indus., 439 F.3d 653, 662 (10th Cir. 2006) .

(n36)Footnote 7. See Segal v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 606 F.2d 842, 845 (9th Cir. 1979) .

(n37)Footnote 8. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 326, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) .

(n38)Footnote 9. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 153-154, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) .

(n39)Footnote 1. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-750, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n40)Footnote 2. Mintze v. Am. Fin. Servs., Inc. (In re Mintze), 434 F.3d 222, 232 (3d Cir. 2006) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n41)Footnote 3. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-751, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) .

(n42)Footnote 6. In re Baker Hughes, Inc., 215 F.3d 1297, 1302 n.2 (Fed. Cir. 2000) .

(n43)Footnote 7. Lampi Corp. v. American Power Prods., 228 F.3d 1365, 1377 (Fed. Cir. 2000) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
A. COMPARISON OF PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 30.03through 30.09

[Reserved]

§§ 30.03[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
B. STARE DECISIS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.10

§ 30.10 Nature of Stare Decisisn*

[1] Definition of Stare Decisis

The doctrine of stare decisis provides that courts must abide by or adhere to cases that have been previously decided n1 and that a legal decision on an issue of law that is contained in a final judgment is binding in all future cases on the court that made the legal decision and all other courts that owe obedience to that court. n2 In other words, the doctrine of stare decisis incorporates two principles: (1) a court is bound by its own prior legal decisions unless there are substantial reasons to abandon a decision; n3 and (2) a legal decision rendered by a court will be followed by all courts inferior to it in the judicial system. n4 In general, a district court's decisions do not bind another district court; a circuit court's decision binds the district courts sitting within its jurisdiction; and a decision by the United States Supreme Court binds all circuit and district courts. n4.1

[2] Stare Decisis Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

Claim preclusion and stare decisis both provide that a judgment has certain preclusive effects on later court decisions regarding matters contained in that judgment. However, claim preclusion precludes relitigation of the claims as to either issues of law or fact if such issues could have been raised and determined, and is limited to parties or their privies, while stare decisis is not so limited. On the other hand, claim preclusion is broader in its effect because it precludes relitigation of the claims as to either issues of law or fact, while stare decisis applies only to questions of law. n1

The law of the case and stare decisis both provide that a legal decision made by a court affects judicial decisions made at a later time. However, while stare decisis essentially provides that a final judgment establishes a legal principle that is binding as a precedent in other courts which owe obedience to the court that made the decision, n1.1 the law of the case doctrine provides that the law decided at one stage of the same litigation becomes the governing principle in later stages. n2 It should be noted that unlike res judicata, both law of the case and stare decisis allow reconsideration of erroneous decisions by the court that rendered the decision. n3

The doctrines of issue preclusion and stare decisis both make a decision binding after judgment is entered, and like stare decisis, issue preclusion applies only to issues of fact or law that were necessarily decided by a prior court. n4 However, the stare decisis doctrine is not limited to the parties to the original lawsuit or those in privity with the parties, while only a party or privy may be bound by the issue preclusive effect of a prior judgment. n5 Another difference is that while stare decisis applies only to issues of law, n5.1 issue preclusion also applies to issues of fact. n6

[3] Purposes of Stare Decisis

The doctrine of stare decisis has several purposes. Stare decisis promotes evenhanded, predictable, and consistent development of legal principles, fosters reliance on judicial decisions, and contributes to the actual and perceived integrity of the judicial process. The doctrine avoids the instability and unfairness that accompany disruption of settled legal expectations. n1 Stare decisis provides the stability and predictability required for the ordering of personal and business affairs over the course of time and provides a basis for public faith in the judiciary as a source of impersonal and reasoned judgments. n2 The doctrine reflects the central judicial idea that similar cases should be treated similarly absent a reason for not doing so, n3 and thus the doctrine is derived from considerations of stability and equal treatment. n4 The Supreme Court has noted that stare decisis is important because it promotes the evenhanded, predictable, and consistent development of legal principles, fosters reliance on judicial decisions, and contributes to the actual and perceived integrity of the judicial process. n5

[4] Limitations of Doctrine

[a] Flexibility of Doctrine

Stare decisis is a principle of policy rather than a black letter rule or a mechanical formula of adherence to the latest decision. n1 Stare decisis does not require adherence to recent and questionable decisions when such adherence conflicts with a prior doctrine that is more embracing in scope, intrinsically sounder, and verified by experience. n2 Similarly, as it relates to successive decisions in the same court, stare decisis is not a bar to change; rather, it is an important conservative influence. It gives a court the discretion to depart from one of its own prior holdings if a compelling reason to do so exists. n3

A party arguing that a court should dispense with the doctrine of stare decisis, however, has a heavy burden. The Supreme Court has stated that a departure from the doctrine is exceptional and requires a "special justification," especially when the precedent in question has become settled through iteration and reiteration over a long period of time. n3.1 Only when presented with a compelling constitutional attack or dire practical ramifications should a court overturn well-established precedent. Courts must be particularly circumspect in reconsidering decisions interpreting statutes. n4 Thus, a court must be reluctant to overturn its prior decisions construing statutes, doing so only to achieve a uniform interpretation of similar statutory language or to correct a seriously erroneous interpretation of statutory language that would undermine congressional policy. n5 On the other hand, when a court decides a case based on constitutional issues, that decision is largely insulated from legislative disapproval; therefore, the Supreme Court has recognized that the principles of stare decisis should be less rigorously applied in constitutional cases. n6

[b] Factors Considered in Overruling Prior Decision

Stare decisis binds other courts owing obedience to a higher court, and generally binds courts to following their own prior decisions. However, stare decisis is not an inexorable command, and allows courts to overrule their own prior decisions, based on a balancing of the benefit of overruling the decision with the interest in stability. In deciding whether to overrule a precedent, courts should examine all factors, including:

1. Whether the precedent is one of statutory construction or constitutional challenge. n7

2. Whether the precedent has been questioned seriously by the Supreme Court or any court to which the lower court owes obedience. n8

3. Whether the precedent has proven to be impracticable. n9

4. Whether overruling the precedent would create a special hardship. n10

5. Whether the precedent has become outmoded or inconsistent with justice or with public policy. n11

6. Whether subsequent case law has made the precedent a legal anomaly or otherwise undermined its basic legal principles; whether circumstances have changed so radically as to undermine the precedent's critical factual assumptions; or whether the precedent has promoted considerable reliance and overruling the precedent would dramatically undermine this reliance. n12

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsStare DecisisCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsJudicial Precedents

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 134.01, 134.05, 134.06 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. *Randall v. Sorrell, 548 U.S. 230, 126 S. Ct. 2479, 165 L. Ed. 2d 482, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 5161, *25-26 (2006) (stare decisis is basic legal principle that commands judicial respect for Court's earlier decisions and rules of law that those decisions embody); United States IRS v. Osborne (In re Osborne), 76 F.3d 306, 309 (9th Cir. 1996) (because "decisis" means literally and legally "decision," doctrine of stare decisis applies to holding of previous case and not necessarily rationale of court or factual finding).

(n3)Footnote 2. Aves. in Leather, Inc. v. United States, 423 F.3d 1326, 1331 (Fed. Cir. 2005) (citing Moore's Federal Practice; stare decisis deals only with law, because facts of each case must be determined by evidence adduced at trial).

(n4)Footnote 3. Colby v. J.C. Penney Co., 811 F.2d 1119, 1123 (7th Cir. 1987) (stare decisis relationship between court and its own previous decision).

(n5)Footnote 4. Arizonans for Official English v. Arizona, 520 U.S. 43, 68-69, 117 S. Ct. 1055, 137 L. Ed. 2d 170 (1997) .

(n6)Footnote 4.1. McGinley v. Houston, 361 F.3d 1328, 1331 (11th Cir. 2004) .

(n7)Footnote 1. EEOC v. Trabucco, 791 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1986) .

(n8)Footnote 1.1. Midlock v. Apple Vacations West, Inc., 406 F.3d 453, 457-458 (7th Cir. 2005) .

(n9)Footnote 2. Morrow v. Dillard, 580 F.2d 1284, 1289 (5th Cir. 1978) .

(n10)Footnote 3. Thompson v. Sawyer, 678 F.2d 257, 270 (D.C. Cir. 1982) .

(n11)Footnote 4. Compare Hardy v. Johns-Manville Sales Corp., 681 F.2d 334, 345 (5th Cir. 1982) ; with Matter of Ellis, 674 F.2d 1238, 1250 (9th Cir. 1982) .

(n12)Footnote 5. Gately v. Massachusetts, 2 F.3d 1221, 1226 (1st Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1082 (1994) .

(n13)Footnote 5.1. Aves. in Leather, Inc. v. United States, 423 F.3d 1326, 1331 (Fed. Cir. 2005) .

(n14)Footnote 6. Meredith v. Beech Aircraft Corp., 18 F.3d 890, 895 (10th Cir. 1994) .

(n15)Footnote 1. *Randall v. Sorrell, 548 U.S. 230, 126 S. Ct. 2479, 165 L. Ed. 2d 482, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 5161, 26 (2006) .

(n16)Footnote 2. Moragne v. States Marine Lines, Inc., 398 U.S. 375, 403, 90 S. Ct. 1772, 26 L. Ed. 2d 339 (1970) .

(n17)Footnote 3. Brock v. El Paso Natural Gas Co., 826 F.2d 369, 374 (5th Cir.1987) ; Flowers v. United States, 764 F.2d 759, 761 (11th Cir. 1985) .

(n18)Footnote 4. Ute Indian Tribe v. Utah, 935 F. Supp. 1473, 1509 (D. Utah 1996) .

(n19)Footnote 5. Payne v. Tennessee, 501 U.S. 808, 827, 111 S. Ct. 2597, 115 L. Ed. 2d 720 (1991) .

(n20)Footnote 1. Johnson v. DeSoto County Bd. of Comm'rs., 72 F.3d 1556, 1559 (11th Cir. 1996) (in contrast to principle of stare decisis, principle of "binding precedent" requires district courts to follow holdings of their court of appeals and Supreme Court even in compelling circumstances).

(n21)Footnote 2. Helvering v. Hallock, 309 U.S. 106, 119, 60 S. Ct. 444, 84 L. Ed. 604 (1940) .

(n22)Footnote 3. Johnson v. DeSoto County Bd. of Commrs., 72 F.3d 1556, 1559 (11th Cir. 1996) .

(n23)Footnote 3.1. *Randall v. Sorrell, 548 U.S. 230, 126 S. Ct. 2479, 165 L. Ed. 2d 482, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 5161, *26-27 (2006) .

(n24)Footnote 4. Bhandari v. First Nat'l Bank of Commerce, 829 F.2d 1343, 1353 (5th Cir. 1987) ; see Hubbard v. United States, 514 U.S. 695, 711, 115 S. Ct. 1754, 131 L. Ed. 2d 779 (1995) (respect for precedent is strongest in the area of statutory construction, where Congress is free to change Supreme Court's interpretation of its legislation); Patterson v. McLean Credit Union, 491 U.S. 164, 172, 109 S. Ct. 2363, 105 L. Ed. 2d 132 (1989) (burden borne by party advocating abandonment of an established precedent is greater when court is asked to overrule point of statutory construction).

(n25)Footnote 5. Rodriguez De Quijas v. Shearson/Am. Express, Inc., 490 U.S. 477, 484, 109 S. Ct. 1917, 104 L. Ed. 2d 526 (1989) .

(n26)Footnote 6. Arizona v. Rumsey, 467 U.S. 203, 212, 104 S. Ct. 2305, 2311, 81 L. Ed. 2d 164 (1984) ; Joy v. Penn-Harris-Madison Sch. Corp., 212 F.3d 1052, 1065 (7th Cir. 2000) .

(n27)Footnote 7. See [a], above.

(n28)Footnote 8. United States v. Aman, 31 F.3d 550, 554 (7th Cir. 1994) .

(n29)Footnote 9. Critical Mass Energy Project v. NRC, 975 F.2d 871, 875 (D.C. Cir. 1992) .

(n30)Footnote 10. Planned Parenthood of Southeastern Pa. v. Casey, 505 U.S. 833, 854, 112 S. Ct. 2791, 120 L. Ed. 2d 674 (1992) .

(n31)Footnote 11. Patterson v. McLean Credit Union, 491 U.S. 164, 174, 109 S. Ct. 2363, 105 L. Ed. 2d 132 (1989) .

(n32)Footnote 12. Randall v. Sorrell, 548 U.S. 230, 126 S. Ct. 2479, 165 L. Ed. 2d 482, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 5161, *27 (2006) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
B. STARE DECISIS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.11

§ 30.11 Determining Applicability of Stare Decisisn*

[1] Prerequisites to Application of Stare Decisis

All of the following factors must exist before a particular decision has stare decisis effect:

1. The decision must constitute a holding of the majority of the court. n1 If a particular principle or result is adopted by a clear majority of the court, n2 it has absolute precedential effect in substantially identical legal and factual circumstances. n3 Results articulated by less than a clear majority or by dissenting opinions are not entitled to precedential effect. n4 The absence of a clear majority rationale supporting the result may give a lower court some flexibility to formulate a justifying rule; however, the lower court may not adopt a line of reasoning that will lead to a contrary result. n5

2. The decision must involve an issue of law. A decision of a court constitutes a precedent subject to stare decisis only with respect to an issue of law heard and decided by the court. Thus, issues of law are subject to stare decisis, not the entire decision. n6

3. Similar fact situations must be involved. Although only issues of law are subject to stare decisis effect, it should not be assumed that facts are unimportant to stare decisis analysis. On the contrary, the principle of stare decisis is generally applicable only where facts in the two actions are the same. n7 In addition, a decision depending on its underlying facts is not necessarily controlling precedent as to subsequent analysis of the same question on different facts and different records. n8

4. The decision has actually determined an issue. Reasoning that does not form the basis of the holding merely constitutes dictum and is not binding on courts that are obligated to follow precedent. n9 However, although dictum is not binding precedent, it may be persuasive authority. n10 A circuit court panel's implicit holdings are not binding precedent. n11 Furthermore, potential issues that could have been raised on the record, but that were never argued to the court by a party nor ruled on by the court, are not considered as having been decided and do not constitute precedent. n12

5. An opinion or other dispositive order which has been designated by the issuing court as unpublished or non-precedential is generally not considered as having stare decisis effect, although it may be of persuasive value to other courts. n12.1 Each circuit may by local rule specify the effect of such opinions or orders. n12.2

6. The decision must be from the same court that is seeking to apply the stare decisis doctrine, or from a court to which the court applying stare decisis owes obedience. Thus, stare decisis does not apply to the decision of a court when the current court is not under a duty to obey the decisions of that court. n13

[2] Prohibition Against Limitations on Citation of Judicial Dispositions

When it issues an opinion, judgment, order, or other disposition, a circuit court has the option to designate the judicial disposition as "unpublished," "not for publication," "non-precedential," "not precedent," or some similar designation. Each circuit determines whether such a written judicial disposition has precedential value and the extent of the persuasive authority of such a ruling. n14 Furthermore, local rules may specify whether such a judicial disposition is of precedential value. n15

By appellate rule, a federal court may not prohibit or otherwise restrict citation to opinions and other written judicial dispositions, even if they are designated unpublished or non-precedential. n16 Rule 32.1 preserves only the right to cite the unpublished or non-precedential disposition. The rule does not require nor forbid any court from issuing an unpublished or nonprecedential opinion. It leaves for the issuing court to choose when to designate an opinion or other judicial disposition as unpublished or nonprecedential. Furthermore, it does not dictate what effect a court must give to one of own its unpublished or non-precedential judicial dispositions, or those of another court. n17 Rule 32.1(a) is intended to replace the inconsistent standards which circuits have previously applied to citation of unpublished and nonprecedential opinions and judicial dispositions with one uniform rule. n18

[3] Copies Required When Citing to Unavailable Opinions or Other Judicial Dispositions

If a party cites a federal judicial opinion, order, judgment, or other written disposition that is not available in a publicly accessible electronic database, the party must file and serve a copy of that opinion, order, judgment, or disposition with the brief or other paper that cites to the unavailable judicial disposition. n19 Therefore, a citing party must provide copies unless the cited opinion or other disposition is available in a publicly accessible electronic database, such as a database maintained by a commercial legal research service or a database maintained by a court. n20

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsStare DecisisCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsJudicial Precedents

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.04 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. In re Chateaugay Corp., 94 F.3d 772, 782 (2d Cir. 1996) .

(n3)Footnote 2. City of Erie v. Pap's A.M., 529 U.S. 277, 285, 120 S. Ct. 1382, 146 L. Ed. 2d 265 .

(n4)Footnote 3. EEOC v. Trabucco, 791 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1986) .

(n5)Footnote 4. United States v. Ameline, 409 F.3d 1073, 1083 (9th Cir. 2005) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Rappa v. New Castle County, 18 F.3d 1043, 1061 (3d Cir. 1994) .

(n7)Footnote 6. EEOC v. Trabucco, 791 F.2d 1, 4 (1st Cir. 1986) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n8)Footnote 7. United States v. Nolan, 136 F.3d 265, 269 (2d Cir. 1998) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Gately v. Commonwealth of Mass., 2 F.3d 1221, 1226 (1st Cir. 1993) .

(n10)Footnote 9. United States v. Meyers, 200 F.3d 715, 720 (10th Cir. 2000) .

(n11)Footnote 10. Lancaster v. Am. & Foreign Ins. Co., 272 F.3d 1059, 1062 (6th Cir. 2001) .

(n12)Footnote 11. Washington v. Schriver, 255 F.3d 45, 54 & n.3 (2d Cir. 2001) .

(n13)Footnote 12. United States v. L.A. Tucker Truck Lines, Inc., 344 U.S. 33, 38, 73 S. Ct. 67, 97 L. Ed. 54 (1952) .

(n14)Footnote 12.1. Abdul-Muhammad v. Kempker, 450 F.3d 350, 352 (8th Cir. 2005) .

(n15)Footnote 12.2. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a), Committee Note; see [2], below.

(n16)Footnote 13. Northwest Forest Resource Council v. Dombeck, 107 F.3d 897, 900 (D.C. Cir. 1997) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that while stare decisis makes each judgment binding precedent in future cases before same court or another court owing obedience to its decisions, stare decisis does not apply to decision court of appeals in one circuit in federal system for court of appeals in a different circuit); see In re Visness, 57 F.3d 775, 778 (9th Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1099 (1996) (regarding courts of different levels, stare decisis is based on principle that lower court is required to render decisions that are consistent with the results of prior decisions of a higher court to which the lower court owes allegiance).

(n17)Footnote 14. See, e.g., Abdul-Muhammad v. Kempker, 450 F.3d 350, 351-352 (8th Cir. 2006) .

(n18)Footnote 15. See, e.g., Ninth Circuit Local Rule 36-3.

(n19)Footnote 16. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a).

(n20)Footnote 17. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1, Committee Note.

(n21)Footnote 18. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a), Committee Note.

(n22)Footnote 19. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(b).

(n23)Footnote 20. Fed. R. App. P. 32.1(a), Committee Note.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
B. STARE DECISIS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.12

§ 30.12 Effect of Application of Stare Decisisn*

[1] Determination of Effect by Court

As a rule, stare decisis means that the court must abide by the previously decided case. Thus, similar facts in the previous case must receive the same legal treatment in the current case, n1 and the current court should limit the language and general expressions in the prior opinion to the particular facts and issues involved and must construe the prior opinion in light of the issues presented. n2

[2] Consistency With Prior Result

When a court is giving stare decisis effect to an earlier decision of the same court or to another court to which the current court owes allegiance, the current court is required, at a minimum, to render a decision that is consistent with the results of the prior decision. n1 Thus, when precedent has binding effect, the minimum deference required is that the results of the precedent must be applied to the subsequent decision. n2 This principle is "result stare decisis," which mandates that any specific result adopted by a clear majority of the Court should be controlling in substantially identical cases. Adherence to result stare decisis is essential to further the purposes of certainty and uniformity. n3

[3] Consistency With Prior Holding

When the majority of the judges comprising a court have issued a written opinion accompanying a decision, the opinion controls the scope of the effect of the decision. Therefore, when a court is bound by a prior decision, the usual rule is that the court must following the holding of the prior decision. n1 However, it is not always clear what the holding is in a particular case, and holdings may be given broad or narrow interpretations. n2 A characterization of a holding as broad or narrow is important, because reasoning that is found to be mere dicta, and not part of the holding, is not binding on courts that are obligated to follow the decision. n3 However, even though dicta are not absolutely binding authority, they may be considered by the court. n4 Circuit courts must particularly consider the Supreme Court's dicta, because the Supreme Court uses dicta to help control and influence many issues it cannot decide because of its limited docket. n5 Appellate courts that ignore dicta increase disparity among the circuits because other circuit courts will properly be influenced by the Supreme Court's dicta; such procedure frustrates the evenhanded administration of justice.

n6

[4] Consistency With Prior Reasoning

A court that is following the stare decisis effect of another decision may consider the reasoning of the prior decision and is not necessarily limited to following the holding of the previous decision. n1 Some courts have even held that the following court must consider the reasoning of the prior court. n2 Thus, it has been articulated that a circuit court must follow prior precedent, which includes not only the very narrow holdings of prior cases but also the reasoning underlying those holdings, particularly when the reasoning articulates a point of law. n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsStare DecisisCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsJudicial Precedents

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Premier Elec. Const. Co. v. National Elec. Contractors Ass'n, Inc., 814 F.2d 358, 367 (7th Cir. 1987) .

(n3)Footnote 2. See Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 398, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103 (1981) (under principle of stare decisis, inferior or lower courts are bound to follow decisions of superior courts; lower court may not alter results of a prior final judgment, even if that judgment was wrong).

(n4)Footnote 1. Rappa v. New Castle County, 18 F.3d 1043, 1061 (3d Cir. 1994) .

(n5)Footnote 2. In re Hammond, 27 F.3d 52, 55 (3d Cir. 1994) (district court was bound by prior decision of circuit that was on all fours with instant case).

(n6)Footnote 3. Rappa v. New Castle County, 18 F.3d 1043, 1061 (3d Cir. 1994) .

(n7)Footnote 1. Ratliff v. DeKalb County, 62 F.3d 338, 341 (11th Cir. 1995) (binding effect of "holding").

(n8)Footnote 2. Luby v. Teamsters Health, Welfare, and Pension Trust Funds, 944 F.2d 1176, 1183 n.6 (3d Cir. 1991) .

(n9)Footnote 3. Export Group v. Reef Indus., Inc., 54 F.3d 1466, 1472 (9th Cir. 1995) (statements not necessary to decision are dicta and thus are not binding precedent).

(n10)Footnote 4. Cerro Metal Prods. v. Marshall, 620 F.2d 964, 978 n.38 (3d Cir. 1980) (court may consider general expressions in opinion, even though only dictum).

(n11)Footnote 5. Stone Container Corp. v. United States, 229 F.3d 1345, 1350 (Fed. Cir. 2000) , cert. denied, 532 U.S. 971 (2001) (Supreme Court's explicit and carefully considered dicta must be followed).

(n12)Footnote 6. McDonald v. Master Fin., Inc. (In re McDonald), 205 F.3d 606, 612-613 (3d Cir. 2000) , cert. denied, 531 U.S. 822 (2000) .

(n13)Footnote 1. Oncale v. Sundowner Offshore Servs., Inc., 83 F.3d 118, 120 (5th Cir. 1996) , rev'd on other grounds, 523 U.S. 75 (1998) (applying stare decisis to alternative reasoning supporting result in prior decision).

(n14)Footnote 2. CFTC v. Dunn, 58 F.3d 50, 53-54 (2d Cir. 1995) , rev'd on other grounds, 519 U.S. 925 (1997) .

(n15)Footnote 3. United States v. Meyers, 200 F.3d 715, 720 (10th Cir. 2000) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
B. STARE DECISIS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.13

§ 30.13 Stare Decisis in Federal Courtn*

[1] Stare Decisis Effect of Decisions by Same Court

In the federal system, the doctrine of stare decisis has a different effect depending on the relationship between the court rendering the judgment and the court that is considering whether to give the prior judgment stare decisis effect. When the court that made the prior decision is the same as the subsequent court, the general rule is that stare decisis applies, and the court should give great weight to its own prior decision before overruling it. n1 However, the prior decision is not absolutely binding precedent, and the court has discretion to depart from its own prior decisions when a compelling reason to do so exists. n2

While a decision of the same court or a coordinate court at the same level is not absolutely binding, when a lower court is considering giving stare decisis effect to the decision of a higher court to which the lower court owes allegiance, the general rule is the higher court's decision is absolutely binding on the lower court. n3

[2] Stare Decisis Effect of Higher Court Decision on Lower Court

Stare decisis is applicable in two situations. In addition to applying to all future decisions in the same court, n1 the doctrine applies to other courts owing obedience to that court. n2 State and federal courts owe obedience to the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on questions of federal law; thus, a judgment of the Supreme Court provides the rule to be followed in all courts regarding federal law. n3 Similarly, the district courts in a circuit owe obedience to a decision of the court of appeals in that circuit and must follow it until the court of appeals overrules it. n4

A lower court must follow the higher courts binding precedent even if the lower court believes it to be erroneous. The lower court may not conclude that a higher court's recent case has implicitly overruled earlier precedent. In particular, if a Supreme Court precedent has direct application in a case before the circuit court, yet appears to rely on reasoning that has later been rejected in another Supreme Court decision or decisions, the circuit court must follow the case that directly controls, and defer to the Supreme Court the option to overrule its own decisions. n5 Additionally, lower courts must not take statements of the Supreme Court out of context. The Supreme Court's statements must be read in light of the Court's holding and, to the extent possible, in a manner consistent with the Court's intentions as contained in other statements. n6

[3] Stare Decisis Effect in Specialized Federal Courts

There are numerous federal courts that have jurisdiction limited to special subject matter. Jurisdiction of the circuit courts of appeal to review decisions of these courts is defined by district court jurisdiction. n1 Probably the most important examples of specialized courts include the United States Court of Claims and the United States Court of International Trade. These courts owe obedience to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and the Supreme Court, but do not owe obedience to the holdings of the district courts or the regional courts of appeal. The Federal Circuit has jurisdiction over cases from these courts and over cases appealed from a district court whose jurisdiction is based in whole or in part on matters encompassed within the Federal Circuit's special competence, n2 which includes the interpretation and application of intellectual property laws such as patent, trademark, and copyright. n3 With respect to non-specialized issues in a case, the Federal Circuit gives stare decisis effect to the law of the regional circuit from which the case arose. n4

Another category of specialized federal tribunals includes the federal bankruptcy courts and bankruptcy appellate panels. n5 The stare decisis effect of the decisions of the bankruptcy appellate panels is not settled. In this regard, the Ninth Circuit has held that decisions of a bankruptcy appellate panel are not absolutely binding on Article III courts, including the federal circuit and district courts, at least to the extent of the Article III court's own jurisdiction. n6 Another court has held that because a bankruptcy court constitutes a unit of the district, known as the bankruptcy court for that district, a bankruptcy court is not inferior to a district court in its district; it is itself a division of and therefore equal to a district court in its district, and a district court's decisions are not absolutely binding on the bankruptcy court as an inferior court. n7

[4] Stare Decisis Effect in State and Federal Courts

The courts of one state do not owe obedience to the case precedents of the courts of another state, except when following the law of another state under its choice of law rules. n1 State courts also do not owe allegiance to the federal courts of appeal or the federal district courts, n2 but are bound by the decisions of the United States Supreme Court in matters of federal law. n3 However, state courts may deem lower federal court decisions persuasive authority, especially in areas of federal law. n4

In diversity cases and in cases of supplemental jurisdiction, federal courts are required to apply state law. A federal court, in applying the law of a state, is bound by stare decisis to follow the precedent of the state's highest court. n5 Thus, the federal court must follow the final decisions of state's highest court, and when there is no ruling by the state's highest court, the federal court must determine as best it can what the highest court of state would decide in the circumstances at hand. n6 This means that the federal court is bound to follow the precedents of the highest court of the state in exactly the same manner in which an inferior court in the state would be bound. n7

[5] Stare Decisis Regarding Administrative Agency Decisions

The stare decisis purposes of uniformity of treatment, stability, predictability, and convenience generally apply to administrative agency decisions as well as to judicial proceedings. n1 However, because they are departments of the legislative and executive branches of government, and have authority to adjudicate and engage in rule promulgation in response to changing policy goals, administrative agencies must retain the power to consider disputes on a case-by-case basis. Otherwise, the administrative process would become inflexible and incapable of solving the specialized and evolving disputes that may arise. The Supreme Court has indicated that administrative agencies are not required to establish a permanent rule when they first decide an issue, and must have latitude to adapt their rules and policies to changing circumstances. n2 Therefore, the principle of stare decisis is not as rigidly applied in administrative proceedings as it is in purely judicial proceedings. Thus, the following principles guide the application of stare decisis in administrative proceedings:

1. Administrative agencies may establish their rules and policies on a case-by-case basis but should have articulable reasons for changes. n3

2. When acting in a judicial or quasi judicial capacity, an administrative agency as a matter of practice should tend to follow the precedents established by its prior decisions. n4

3. An administrative agency may overrule its prior decisions when based on changed circumstances. n5

4. When an administrative agency makes a new decision that reverses a previous policy or rule decision, the new decision may generally be given retroactive effect, n6 except when the hardship created by the retroactive application of the new decision is great enough to constitute arbitrary and capricious action under the Administrative Procedure Act. n7

5. To facilitate review based on the arbitrary and capricious standard, the agency's report and order should specify the reasons for any deviations from established precedents.

All administrative agency decisions are bound by Supreme Court decisions, and when an agency is subject to review by only the court of appeals, the position of the agency is analogous to that of a lower court. Thus, precedent established by the reviewing court is binding on the agency. n8 On the other hand, the decisions of those administrative agencies that are not limited to review by only one court of appeals must follow the law of the circuit that has jurisdiction over the review. n9

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsStare DecisisCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsGeneral OverviewGovernmentsCourtsJudicial Precedents

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Hubbard v. United States, 514 U.S. 695, 115 S. Ct. 1754, 1764, 131 L. Ed. 2d 779 (1995) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Johnson v. DeSoto County Bd. of Comm'rs, 72 F.3d 1556, 1559 (11th Cir. 1996) (in contrast to principle of stare decisis consideration by district court of its own previous decision, principle of "binding precedent" requires district courts even in compelling circumstances to follow holdings of higher level court, such as their own court of appeals and Supreme Court).

(n4)Footnote 3. In re Visness, 57 F.3d 775, 778 (9th Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1099 (1996) ; see [2], below.

(n5)Footnote 1. See [1], above.

(n6)Footnote 2. Mendenhall v. Cedarapids, Inc., 5 F.3d 1557, 1570 (Fed. Cir. 1993) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n7)Footnote 3. Rodriguez de Quijas v. Shearson/American Express, Inc., 109 S. Ct. 1917, 1921-1922, 104 L. Ed. 2d 526 (1989) ; see Insurance Co. v. United States, 243 F.3d 1367, 1372 (Fed. Cir. 2001) (circuit court must follow Supreme Court's interpretation of its own decisions, even if that interpretation may be dictum).

(n8)Footnote 4. In re Korean Airlines Disaster, 829 F.2d 1171, 1173-1174 (D.C. Cir. 1987) , aff'd on other grounds, 490 U.S. 122 (1989) (circuit court of appeals sets binding precedent for district courts in that circuit).

(n9)Footnote 5. Agostini v. Felton, 521 U.S. 203, 237, 117 S. Ct. 1997, 138 L. Ed. 2d 391 (1997) ; United States v. Weathers, 186 F.3d 948, 957 n.12 (D.C. Cir. 1999) , cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1005 (2000) .

(n10)Footnote 6. Hoffman Plastic Compounds, Inc. v. National Labor Relations Bd., 237 F.3d 639, 642 (D.C. Cir. 2001) , rev'd on other grounds, 535 U.S. 137, 122 S. Ct. 1275, 152 L. Ed. 2d 271 (2002) .

(n11)Footnote 1. Atari, Inc. v. J.S. & A. Group, Inc., 747 F.2d 1422, 1429 (Fed Cir. 1984) (Federal Circuit jurisdiction is defined by district court jurisdiction).

(n12)Footnote 2. Atari, Inc. v. J.S. & A. Group, Inc., 747 F.2d 1422, 1429 (Fed Cir. 1984) (Federal Circuit jurisdiction is defined by district court jurisdiction).

(n13)Footnote 3. 28 U.S.C. § 1295.

(n14)Footnote 4. Registration Control Sys. v. Compusystems, Inc., 922 F.2d 805, 807 (Fed. Cir. 1990) .

(n15)Footnote 5. See 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 201.60 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n16)Footnote 6. Bank of Maui v. Estate Analysis, Inc., 904 F.2d 470, 472 (9th Cir. 1990) .

(n17)Footnote 7. In Re Baker, 264 B.R. 759, 762-763 (M.D. Fla. 2001) .

(n18)Footnote 1. Thomas v. Washington Gas Light Co., 448 U.S. 261, 277, 100 S. Ct. 2647, 65 L. Ed. 2d 757 (1980) .

(n19)Footnote 2. Arizonans for Official English v. Arizona, 520 U.S. 43, 68-69, 117 S. Ct. 1055, 137 L. Ed. 2d 170 (1997) .

(n20)Footnote 3. See Rodriguez de Quijas v. Shearson/American Express, Inc., 109 S. Ct. 1917, 1921-1922, 104 L. Ed. 2d 526 (1989) .

(n21)Footnote 4. In re Korean Air Lines Disaster of Sept. 1, 1983, 829 F.2d 1171, 1176 (D.C. Cir. 1987) , aff'd on other grounds sub nom. Chan v. Korean Air Lines, 490 U.S. 122 (1989) (while state laws vary, there is only single body of federal law).

(n22)Footnote 5. Borman v. Raymark Indus., Inc., 960 F.2d 327, 331 (3d Cir. 1992) .

(n23)Footnote 6. Access Telecom, Inc. v. MCI Telecommunications Corp., 197 F.3d 694, 707 (5th Cir. 1999) , cert. denied, 531 U.S. 917 (2000) .

(n24)Footnote 7. Riley v. Brown & Root, Inc., 896 F.2d 474 (10th Cir. 1990) .

(n25)Footnote 1. NLRB v. Wyman-Gordon Co., 394 U.S. 759, 766, 89 S. Ct. 1426, 22 L. Ed. 2d 709 (1969) (qualified role of stare decisis in administrative process); Independent Petroleum Ass'n of Am. v. Babbitt, 92 F.3d 1248, 1258 (D.C. Cir. 1996) (agency must treat similar cases in similar manner unless it can articulate legitimate reason for failing to do so).

(n26)Footnote 2. Rust v. Sullivan, 500 U.S. 173, 186-187, 111 S. Ct. 1759, 114 L. Ed. 2d 233 (1991) .

(n27)Footnote 3. National Ass'n of Broadcasters v. FCC, 740 F.2d 1190, 1201 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (agency could not depart from its conclusion in prior decision without reasoned explanation).

(n28)Footnote 4. Henry v. INS, 74 F.3d 1, 5 (1st Cir. 1996) (agency may not adopt substantially inconsistent policies or rules that result in the creation of conflicting lines of precedent governing identical situations).

(n29)Footnote 5. See Brock v. Williams Enters. of Ga., Inc., 832 F.2d 567, 574 (11th Cir. 1987) .

(n30)Footnote 6. SEC v. Chenery Corp., 332 U.S. 194, 67 S. Ct. 1575, 91 L. Ed. 1995 (1947) .

(n31)Footnote 7. NLRB v. Guy F. Atkinson Co., 195 F.2d 141 (9th Cir. 1952) ; see 5 U.S.C. § 554.

(n32)Footnote 8. BPS Guard Servs., Inc. v. NLRB, 942 F.2d 519, 523 (8th Cir. 1991) (administrative agencies must follow controlling precedent of superior judicial body).

(n33)Footnote 9. Singh v. Ilchert, 63 F.3d 1501, 1508 (9th Cir. 1995) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
B. STARE DECISIS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 30.14through 30.29

[Reserved]

§§ 30.14[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
C. LAW OF THE CASE

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.30

§ 30.30 Nature of Law of Casen*

[1] Definition of Law of Case

The "law of the case" doctrine provides that when a court decides on a rule of law, that decision should continue to govern the same issues in subsequent stages of the same case. This doctrine promotes the finality and efficiency of the judicial process and protects against the disruption of settled issues n1 by preventing relitigation of those issues in successive stages of a single case once those issues have been decided. n2 At the trial court level, the doctrine of the law of the case is a fundamental management device to permit logical progression toward judgment. Prejudgment orders remain interlocutory and may be reconsidered at any time; but efficient disposition of the case demands that each stage of the litigation build on the last and not afford an opportunity to re-argue every previous ruling. n3

The doctrine of law of the case is based on the public policy consideration that litigation should come to an end at some point. It is predicated on the premise that there would be no end to a suit if every intractable litigant could compel a court to listen to criticisms of their opinions, and that it would be impossible for a court to perform its duties satisfactorily, efficiently, and expeditiously if a question, once considered and decided, were to be litigated anew in the same case. n4 There is no distinction under the law of the case doctrine whether the "law" was established as a result of one party's waiver, agreement, or as a result of briefing, argument, and determination by the court. n5

[2] Mandatory and Discretionary Branches of Doctrine

[a] Two Branches of Doctrine

There are two branches of the law of the case doctrine, one mandatory and one discretionary. n1 Under the first, when an appellate court makes a remand to a lower court, the lower court is required to follow the mandate of the higher court after the remand, under the "mandatory" law of the case doctrine. n2 Under the second, when the law of the case doctrine is applied by a court to its own prior decisions, or to the decisions of a coordinate or equal court that has made a prior determination in the case, the doctrine is "discretionary" in nature. n3

[b] Mandate Rule

The "mandate rule" is the more powerful of the two branches of the law of the case doctrine. n3.1 It requires a lower court to honor the decisions of a superior court in the same judicial system. It essentially prevents lower courts from reconsidering issues that have already been decided in the same case by a higher court. Appellate courts frequently remand a case to a lower court for further proceedings based on the mandate of the superior court. n3.2 Therefore, under the mandate rule, an inferior court has no power or authority to deviate from the mandate issued to the inferior court by the appellate court on remand. n4 Courts consider the term "mandate rule" to be more precise than the phrase "mandatory law of the case." n5 On remand, the law of the case doctrine is rigid; the district court owes obedience to the mandate of the Supreme Court or the court of appeals and must carry the mandate into effect according to its terms. n6

A district court must follow the mandate and, if not, may be compelled to do so by a second appeal n7 or by mandamus. n8 If a party wants to argue that the mandate decision is erroneous, the party should apply to the appellate court to depart from the mandate by a petition for rehearing, by a motion for recall of the mandate, n9 or by an appeal from the judgment rendered after completion of the proceedings for which the case was remanded. n10 A party may also move the district court under Rule 60(b) for relief from judgment without applying to the circuit court of appeals. n11

[c] Court's Discretion Regarding Its Own Prior Decisions

Even though the law of the case doctrine generally prohibits a court from reconsidering issues that have already been decided, the doctrine is not a limit on a court's power to reconsider its own decision on an issue if the court determines that such review is necessary. n12 The Supreme Court has held that although a court has the power to reconsider its own decisions or those of a coordinate court, it should not do so absent extraordinary circumstances showing that the prior decision was clearly wrong and would work a manifest injustice. n13 When a court applies the law of the case doctrine to its own prior decisions or those of a coordinate or equal court, the traditional formulations of the doctrine must be deemed as guidelines and not as rigid rules that would take away the informed discretion and sound practical judgment of the judge. n14 For example, a court may reconsider its own rulings when there has been a change in prevailing law or there is new evidence on the question at issue. n15

[3] Law of Case Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

The basic principle behind the law of the case doctrine bears a close resemblance to the doctrine of stare decisis. Like stare decisis, it serves the dual purposes of: (1) protecting against the disturbance of settled issues; n1 and (2) assuring the obedience of inferior courts to the decisions of superior courts. n2 Also like stare decisis, it is applied with more or less rigidity depending on which interest is served. A court that makes a decision has the power to reconsider it, so long as the case is within its jurisdiction. n3 But after the law of the case is determined by a superior court, the inferior court lacks authority to depart from that determination, and any change must be made by the superior court that established it or by a court to which the superior court itself owes obedience. n4

The law of the case doctrine is similar to claim preclusion in that both prohibit reconsideration of legal issues; however, while claim preclusion applies to claims in other cases between the parties, law of the case technically applies only to a single ongoing case. n5 Furthermore, in contrast to the doctrine of claim preclusion, the law of the case doctrine does not apply to issues or claims that were not actually decided; for this reason, failure to raise an issue on interlocutory appeal does not operate to preclude the issue on a later appeal from a final judgment, n6 even if other issues were raised by the party or an opponent in a permitted interlocutory appeal. n7

The doctrine of law of the case is similar to issue preclusion in that both promote the finality and efficiency of the judicial process by protecting against the disturbance of settled issues. n8 However, while the doctrine of issue preclusion forbids relitigation by the same parties in any future lawsuit of an issue determined by a valid and final judgment, n9 the law of the case doctrine provides that the law applied in decisions at one stage of litigation, must be applied as the governing principle in later stages of the same litigation. Consequently, in contrast to issue preclusion, the law of the case doctrine operates only until a final judgment is obtained, after which it has no relevance, while issue preclusion requires a final judgment as a prerequisite to its application. n10

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsLaw of the CasePatent LawPreclusionLaw of the Case

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.20 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Cohen v. Brown Univ., 101 F.3d 155, 167 (1st Cir. 1996) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Lovett v. General Motors Corp., 975 F.2d 518, 522 (8th Cir. 1992) (even when district court had made earlier interlocutory decision that plaintiff had standing, court did not violate law of case doctrine by granting motion in favor of defendant that same plaintiff lacked standing; when district court has determined that it incorrectly decided a legal question in interlocutory ruling, district court may correct decision and avoid later reversal).

(n5)Footnote 4. Parts and Elec. Motors, Inc. v. Sterling Elec., Inc., 866 F.2d 228, 231 (7th Cir. 1988) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Morris v. American Nat. Can Corp., 988 F.2d 50 (8th Cir. 1993) (when issue became law of case as result of waiver, waiver did not act to contravene application of standard analysis applicable to law of case situations).

(n7)Footnote 1. Conley v. United States, 323 F.3d 7, 12 (1st Cir. 2003) (mandatory branch, referred to as mandate rule, strictly precludes lower court from contravening rulings or directives of higher court made at earlier stage of same controversy; discretionary brand provides that, with exceptions, court must respect and follow its own rulings made at prior stage in same case).

(n8)Footnote 2. Rezzonico v. H & R Block, Inc., 182 F.3d 144, 148-149 (2d Cir. 1999) , cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1189 (2000) ; see [b], below.

(n9)Footnote 3. Perillo v. Johnson, 205 F.3d 775, 780-781 (5th Cir. 2000) (when court is reviewing its own prior decision, law of case doctrine is matter of judicial discretion rather than judicial authority); see [c], below.

(n10)Footnote 3.1. Conley v. United States, 323 F.3d 7, 12 (1st Cir. 2003) .

(n11)Footnote 3.2. Kerman v. New York, 374 F.3d 93, 109-110 (2d Cir. 2004) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n12)Footnote 4. New York v. Microsoft Corp., 209 F. Supp. 2d 132, 141 (D.D.C. 2002) ; United States v. Insurance Co. of N. Am., 131 F.3d 1037, 1041 (D.C. Cir. 1997) ("mandate rule" is application of law of case doctrine which provides that district court is bound by mandate of federal appellate court, and generally may not reconsider issues decided on previous appeal).

(n13)Footnote 5. United States v. Wells, 519 U.S. 482, 117 S. Ct. 921, 926 n.4, 137 L. Ed. 2d 107 (1997) (in this context, law of the case is something of a misnomer).

(n14)Footnote 6. Vendo Co. v. Lektro-Vend Corp., 434 U.S. 425, 427-428, 98 S. Ct. 702, 54 L. Ed. 2d 659 (1978) ; Donohoe v. Consolidated Operating and Prod. Corp., 30 F.3d 907, 910 (7th Cir. 1994) (law of the case requires district court to follow mandate).

(n15)Footnote 7. In re Ivan F. Boesky Sec. Litig., 957 F.2d 65, 69 (2d Cir. 1992) (appellate court retains right to control actions of district court).

(n16)Footnote 8. Vendo Co. v. Lektro-Vend Corp., 434 U.S. 425, 427-428, 98 S. Ct. 702, 54 L. Ed. 2d 659 (1978) .

(n17)Footnote 9. DeWeerth v. Baldinger, 38 F.3d 1266, 1271 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n18)Footnote 10. In re Ivan F. Boesky Sec. Litig., 957 F.2d 65, 69 (2d Cir. 1992) .

(n19)Footnote 11. Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b); see DeWeerth v. Baldinger, 38 F.3d 1266, 1271 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n20)Footnote 12. See § 30.21.

(n21)Footnote 13. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) .

(n22)Footnote 14. Prisco v. A & D Carting Corp., 168 F.3d 593, 607 (2d Cir. 1999) ("second branch" of law of case doctrine, which holds that court should generally adhere to its own prior decisions in same case, is not absolute rule).

(n23)Footnote 15. Conley v. United States, 323 F.3d 7, 13 (1st Cir. 2003) .

(n24)Footnote 1. Cohen v. Brown Univ., 101 F.3d 155, 167 (1st Cir. 1996) .

(n25)Footnote 2. Davis v. United States, 417 U.S. 333, 342, 94 S. Ct. 2298, 41 L. Ed. 2d 109 (1974) (court must apply latest law decided by superior court).

(n26)Footnote 3. Gillig v. Advanced Cardiovascular Sys., Inc., 67 F.3d 586, 589 (6th Cir. 1995) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n27)Footnote 4. See Morrow v. Dillard, 580 F.2d 1284, 1289 (5th Cir. 1978) .

(n28)Footnote 5. State of Arizona v. State of California, 530 U.S. 392, 408-410, 120 S. Ct. 2304, 147 L. Ed. 2d 374 (2000) .

(n29)Footnote 6. Perez-Ruiz v. Crespo-Guillen, 25 F.3d 40, 42 (1st Cir. 1994) (interlocutory orders do not constitute law of the case).

(n30)Footnote 7. Vintilla v. United States, 931 F.2d 1444, 1447 (11th Cir. 1991) (law of the case at district court level becomes binding only when there has been final judgment).

(n31)Footnote 8. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n32)Footnote 9. See Schiro v. Farley, 510 U.S. 222, 232, 114 S. Ct. 783, 127 L. Ed. 2d 47 (1994) .

(n33)Footnote 10. Copeland v. Merrill Lynch & Co., 47 F.3d 1415, 1423 (5th Cir. 1995) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
C. LAW OF THE CASE

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.31

§ 30.31 Limitations On Doctrine of Law of Casen*

[1] Court Has Discretion to Reconsider Its Own Decisions

[a] Scope of Court's Discretion to Reconsider Its Own Decisions

When the law of the case doctrine is applied by a court to its own prior decisions, or to the decisions of a coordinate or equal court that has made a prior determination in the case, the doctrine is not absolute but discretionary. n1 Thus, even though the law of the case doctrine expresses the general rule that courts may not reconsider issues that have already been decided, the doctrine does not limit a court's power to reconsider an issue if the court determines that such review is necessary. n2 The Supreme Court has held that although a court has the power to reconsider its own decisions or those of a coordinate court, it should not do so absent extraordinary circumstances. n3 Therefore, when a court applies the law of the case doctrine to its own prior decisions or those of a coordinate court on the same level of the judiciary, the law of the case is deemed a guideline, rather than a rigid rule that would take away the informed discretion and sound practical judgment of the judge. n4 For example, a court may reconsider its own rulings when there has been a change in prevailing law or there is new evidence on the question at issue. n5

[b] Grounds Justifying Reconsideration of Decisions

One of the primary purposes of adjudication is a correct decision, and if a court is convinced that an earlier decision was clearly wrong, the law of the case doctrine does not preclude correction of the error. n6 The courts of appeals have identified three major grounds justifying reconsideration of issues which would otherwise be foreclosed as the law of the case: n7

1. An intervening change in controlling law. n8

2. The presentation of new evidence. n9

3. The prevention of manifest injustice through implementation of a clearly erroneous decision. n10

[2] Limitation of Doctrine to Issues Actually Decided

The law of the case doctrine applies only to issues that have actually been decided by the court and presumes a hearing and decision on the merits. n1 Thus, the doctrine applies to issues that the court has decided explicitly; and it also applies to everything decided by necessary implication, which means that based on the decision of the case, the particular issue must have also necessarily been decided by the court. n2 The doctrine does not apply to isolated statements by the court or to statements by the court which specify possible alternatives. n3 Furthermore, the law of the case doctrine does not apply to dicta, which is not binding as precedent. n4

[3] Inapplicability of Doctrine Because of Change in Law

[a] Decision of Higher Court

The law of the case doctrine generally binds a court to its own previous decisions on issues arising earlier in the litigation, and also binds a court to decisions entered by a higher court earlier in the litigation. n1 If any higher court to which the lower court owes obedience issues an opinion directly on point and irreconcilable with the earlier decision in the period between the first and second decisions of the lower court, the court may disregard the law of the case effect of the first decision and apply the new precedent. n2 However, for an intervening authority to be controlling, it must both decide the issue under consideration and still remain in effect. n3

[b] Change in Statute

The law of the case doctrine does not limit a court's power to reconsider an issue if the court determines that circumstances makes such review necessary. Therefore, when the law changes in the period between the first and second decision under consideration, the court may not disregard the new law on the grounds of law of the case. n4 When the changed law is statutory and is determined to have retroactive application, the court must reexamine its earlier decision despite the doctrine of law of the case. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsLaw of the Case

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 134.20, 134.21 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Allison v. Bank One-- Denver, 289 F.3d 1223, 1247 (10th Cir. 2002) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that lower court's ability to depart from its own prior decisions is discretionary).

(n3)Footnote 2. Perillo v. Johnson, 205 F.3d 775, 780-781 (5th Cir. 2000) (when court is reviewing its own prior decision, law of case doctrine is matter of judicial discretion rather than judicial power).

(n4)Footnote 3. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) ; see [b], below.

(n5)Footnote 4. Prisco v. A & D Carting Corp., 168 F.3d 593, 607 (2d Cir. 1999) ("second branch" of law of case doctrine, which holds that court should generally adhere to its own prior decisions in same case, is not absolute rule).

(n6)Footnote 5. Conley v. United States, 323 F.3d 7, 13 (1st Cir. 2003) .

(n7)Footnote 6. In re Ford Motor Co., 591 F.3d 406, 411 (5th Cir. 2009) (court has inherent authority to correct its own errors and, in situations of transfer, also errors of transferor court).

(n8)Footnote 7. In re Ford Motor Co., 591 F.3d 406, 411-412 (5th Cir. 2009) .

(n9)Footnote 8. CPC Int'l, Inc. v. Northbrook Excess and Surplus Ins. Co., 46 F.3d 1211, 1215 (1st Cir. 1995) .

(n10)Footnote 9. Virgin Atl. Airways v. National Mediation Bd., 956 F.2d 1245, 1255 (2d Cir. 1992) .

(n11)Footnote 10. FDIC v. McGlamery, 74 F.3d 218, 221 (10th Cir. 1996) .

(n12)Footnote 1. United States v. Hatter, 532 U.S. 557, 566, 121 S. Ct. 1782, 149 L. Ed. 2d 820 (2001) .

(n13)Footnote 2. Office of Thrift Supervision v. Felt (In re Felt), 255 F.3d 220, 225 (5th Cir. 2001) , cert. denied, 151 L. Ed. 2d 693 (2002) ; United States ex rel. Lujan v. Hughes Aircraft Co., 243 F.3d 1181, 1186-1187 (9th Cir. 2001) , cert. denied, 543 U.S. 1040 (2000) .

(n14)Footnote 3. Taylor v. F.D.I.C., 132 F.3d 753, 761 (D.C. Cir. 1997) ; see Wyler Summit Partnership v. Turner Broad. Sys., 235 F.3d 1184, 1193 (9th Cir. 2000) .

(n15)Footnote 4. Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. v. Tanker Robert Watt Miller, 957 F.2d 1575, 1578 (11th Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 981 (1992) .

(n16)Footnote 1. Perillo v. Johnson, 205 F.3d 775, 780-781 (5th Cir. 2000) .

(n17)Footnote 2. Pondexter v. Quarterman, 537 F.3d 511, 523 (5th Cir. 2008) .

(n18)Footnote 3. Athridge v. Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co., 604 F.3d 625, 632-633 (D.C. Cir. 2010) .

(n19)Footnote 4. Bradley v. School Bd. of Richmond, 416 U.S. 696, 715, 94 S. Ct. 2006, 40 L. Ed. 2d 476 (1974) (court should apply law in effect at time of decision).

(n20)Footnote 5. Kirkbride v. Continental Cas. Co., 933 F.2d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 1991) (court of appeals reconsidered issue of removability because of enactment of new legislation).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
C. LAW OF THE CASE

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.32

§ 30.32 Specific Applications of Law of the Case Doctrinesn*

[1] Interlocutory Appeals

Decisions of law that are subject to interlocutory appeals are given law of the case effect. n1 On the other hand, factual determinations made in interlocutory appeals do not generally establish the law of the case. n2 Furthermore, because the law of the case doctrine does not apply to issues or claims that were not actually decided, failure to raise an issue on interlocutory appeal does not operate to preclude the issue on a later appeal from a final judgment, even if other issues were raised in an interlocutory appeal. Interlocutory appeals are optional, not mandatory, and failure to take the appeal does not make the interlocutory order the law of the case for the appellate court on appeal from the final judgment. n3

[2] Doctrine Applicable to Transferred Cases

The doctrine of the law of the case is particularly suited in circumstances of lateral transfer of cases from one court to another in the federal system, because if a transferee court felt free to reconsider decisions of the coordinate transferor court, it would threaten to send litigants into a vicious circle of litigation that the doctrine is precisely designed to prevent. n1 Therefore, when a case has been transferred from one district court to another, any decisions rendered by the transferor court prior to the transfer are part of the record and become the law of the case, and are not subject to reconsideration except in the same manner as a court could reconsider its own decisions. n2 Similarly, when a case is transferred from one circuit court of appeals to another, all orders prior to transfer, including the transfer order itself, constitute the law of the case, and the transferee court has the power to reconsider decisions only when necessary due to extraordinary circumstances. n3 In the same manner that it is applicable to transfers, the doctrine of the law of the case is also applicable when the judge is replaced by a second judge, for example, by a reassignment. The doctrine requires the second judge in the case to conform to the decisions of the first judge, except in the same manner as the first judge could reconsider its own decisions; n4 for example, the second judge could reconsider the first judge's decision if a new development, such as a new appellate decision, convinces the second judge that the predecessor judge's ruling was incorrect. n5

Finally, the law of the case doctrine applies to decisions made by a state court prior to removal to federal court, and the court should apply that doctrine rather than claim preclusion. n6 Thus, the state court decision should be upset only when justified by cogent reasons or exceptional circumstances. n7 Some courts have held that the application of the doctrine is only discretionary and need not be followed when the claim removed to federal court is based on a federal question. n8

[3] Applicability of Doctrine at Different Levels of Judiciary

[a] Application of Doctrine at Level of District Court

To organize their caseloads in an efficient manner, federal district courts have broad authority to dispose of cases in stages; n1 decisions made by a district court during any stage of litigation establish the law of the case. n2 However, the law of the case doctrine does not limit the court's power to reconsider or change its decision, it merely facilitates the ability of the court to build to its final judgment step by step by cumulative rulings. n3 A party that is dissatisfied may obtain review of a lower court decision, either by appeal, n4 by motion for judgment as a matter of law, n5 or by motion for a new trial. n6 Because these procedural devices for review are available, the law of the case doctrine does prevent relitigation of a substantive decision by other, inappropriate procedural attacks. For example, under the law of the case doctrine, a party may not challenge a earlier, substantive decision of the court through an attack on a jury instruction. n7

[b] Application of Doctrine at Level of Court of Appeals

The decision of a district court obviously does not control on appeal or it would defeat the purpose of appellate review. n8 However, the decision of an appellate court on an issue of law governs the issue during subsequent stages of litigation, and on any further appeal. n9 Furthermore, the decision of the appellate court establishes the law of the case that must be followed by the trial court on remand. n10 If there is an appeal from the judgment entered after remand, the decision of the first appeal establishes the law of the case to be followed on the second appeal. n11 However, the law of the case does not serve as an absolute bar to reconsideration of an issue by an appellate court in exceptional circumstances, such as when evidence on a subsequent trial was substantially different or when controlling authority has since made a contrary decision of law applicable to the issues. n12

[c] Doctrine Not Applicable to Supreme Court

The law of the case doctrine does not bind the Supreme Court in reviewing lower court decisions, and a petition for a writ of certiorari puts the entire case up for review by the Supreme Court. n13 However, in a recent case the Supreme Court has indicated that it may choose to apply the law of the case doctrine if it finds good reason to do so, as when the Supreme court has made a decision on the merits earlier in the same case. The Court has also stated that the Court's earlier denial of certiorari for lack of a quorum does not establish the law of the case when the case comes before the Supreme Court at a later stage of the proceedings, because that denial did not constitute a decision on the merits. n14

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureVenueFederal Venue TransfersGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsLaw of the CaseCivil ProcedureAppealsAppellate JurisdictionInterlocutory OrdersPatent LawPreclusionLaw of the Case

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 134.20, 134.22 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Royal Ins. Co. v. Quinn-L Capital Corp., 3 F.3d 877, 881 (5th Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1032 (1994) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n3)Footnote 2. Royal Ins. Co. v. Quinn-L Capital Corp., 3 F.3d 877, 881 (5th Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1032 (1994) .

(n4)Footnote 3. United States v. United States Smelting, Ref. and Mining Co., 339 U.S. 186, 199, 70 S. Ct. 537, 94 L. Ed. 750 (1950) .

(n5)Footnote 1. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816-817, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) (policies supporting doctrine of law of case apply with even greater force to decisions transferred from coordinate court than to decisions of substantive law).

(n6)Footnote 2. In re Ford Motor Co., 591 F.3d 406, 411 (5th Cir. 2009) (multidistrict litigation transfer).

(n7)Footnote 3. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n8)Footnote 4. Minch v. City of Chicago, 486 F.3d 294, 301 (7th Cir. 2007) .

(n9)Footnote 5. Fujisawa Pharm. Co., Ltd. v. Kapoor, 115 F.3d 1332, 1339 (7th Cir. 1997) .

(n10)Footnote 6. Payne v. Churchich, 161 F.3d 1030, 1037-1038 (7th Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 527 U.S. 1004 (1999) .

(n11)Footnote 7. Fairbank v. Wunderman Cato Johnson, 212 F.3d 528, 530-533 (9th Cir. 2000) .

(n12)Footnote 8. Quinn v. Aetna Life & Cas. Co., 616 F.2d 38, 40 (2d Cir. 1980) .

(n13)Footnote 1. See, e.g., Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(b) (separate trials).

(n14)Footnote 2. In re Resyn Corp., 945 F.2d 1279, 1281 (3d Cir. 1991) .

(n15)Footnote 3. Lovett v. General Motors Corp., 975 F.2d 518, 522 (8th Cir. 1992) .

(n16)Footnote 4. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 816, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) .

(n17)Footnote 5. Fed. R. Civ. P. 50(b).

(n18)Footnote 6. Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(b).

(n19)Footnote 7. Seahorse Marine Supplies, Inc. v. P.R. Sun Oil Co., 295 F.3d 68, 76-77 (1st Cir. 2002) .

(n20)Footnote 8. Williams v. Commissioner, 1 F.3d 502, 503 (7th Cir. 1993) .

(n21)Footnote 9. North River Ins. Co. v. Philadelphia Reinsurance Corp., 63 F.3d 160, 164 (2d Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1184 (1996) .

(n22)Footnote 10. Dobbs v. Anthem Blue Cross & Blue Shield, 600 F.3d 1275, 1279-1280 (10th Cir. 2010) .

(n23)Footnote 11. Hegler v. Borg, 50 F.3d 1472, 1475 (9th Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1029 (1995) .

(n24)Footnote 12. See Carnival Leisure Indus. v. Aubin, 53 F.3d 716, 718 (5th Cir. 1995) .

(n25)Footnote 13. Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 817, 108 S. Ct. 2166, 100 L. Ed. 2d 811 (1988) .

(n26)Footnote 14. United States v. Hatter, 532 U.S. 557, 566, 121 S. Ct. 1782, 1789-1790, 149 L. Ed. 2d 820 (2001) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
C. LAW OF THE CASE

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 30.33through 30.49

[Reserved]

§§ 30.33[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.50

§ 30.50 Nature of Claim Preclusionn*

[1] Definition of Claim Preclusion

Claim preclusion in modern federal practice is synonymous with res judicata, n1 which means literally that a matter has been decided or adjudicated. n2 Claim preclusion specifically means the effect of a judgment to preclude the future initiation of a "claim for relief" between parties affected by that judgment because the claim should have been presented in the suit prior to entry of the judgment. n3 The crux of the claim preclusion doctrine is the concept of merger and bar. Merger provides that when a plaintiff succeeds in litigation and recovers a valid and final personal judgment, the plaintiff's judgment on the claim for relief is merged into the judgment, and the original claim for relief and all defenses to it, whether asserted or not, are eliminated. After the judgment becomes final, all of the plaintiff's rights and the defendant's liabilities with respect to each other are determined by the judgment. n4 If the plaintiff loses the litigation, the resultant judgment acts as a bar to any further actions by the plaintiff on the same claim. n5 The purpose of merger and bar is to prohibit claim splitting in a series of successive lawsuits. n6 The theory is that all facts, allegations, and legal theories that support a particular claim, in addition to all possible remedies and defenses, must be presented in one suit or are lost. n7

The doctrine of claim preclusion incorporates the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure expressions of "claim for relief" and "defenses" to describe that which is controlled by the doctrine. n8 Modern cases generally substitute "claim for relief" for the traditional phrase "cause of action" that was previously used to describe the factual connection between a pending case and a prior adjudication to justify application of the claim preclusion doctrine. The doctrine now is described as providing that a valid judgment bars a second suit on the same "claim for relief." n9

[2] Doctrine Does Not Prohibit Direct Attack

The doctrine of claim preclusion does not prevent a direct attack on a judgment, such as a direct appeal or one of the statutory procedures for directly attacking errors or deficiencies in a judgment. n1 However, a party who attempts to assert a new claim in a different proceeding regarding a matter contained in a previous judgment, rather than utilizing the appropriate statutory procedure for direct attack on the judgment, will be barred by the claim preclusion doctrine. n2 Methods of direct attack on a judgment include motions for judgment as a matter of law, n3 for amendment of the judgment, n4 or for a new trial. n5 A party may also move to have the judgment vacated under Rule 60 on the grounds of mistake, inadvertence, excusable neglect, newly discovered evidence, fraud, void judgment, or satisfaction, release, or discharge. n6

[3] Purposes of Claim Preclusion

More than merely a matter of practice or procedure, claim preclusion is a doctrine required to further the public policy that rights once established by the final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction must be recognized by those who are bound by the judgment in every way, and that a claim for relief that the parties had a full and fair opportunity to litigate should forever be established as between those parties after the judgment is rendered. The doctrine thus promotes conclusive resolution of disputes, which is the primary reason civil courts exist. n1 This need for final resolution of litigated claims often takes precedence over concerns of fairness or justice in individual cases. n2 Claim preclusion also relieves parties of the expense of multiple lawsuits, conserves judicial resources, and encourages public reliance on the adjudication process by minimizing inconsistent decisions. n3

The Supreme Court has cautioned against the mechanical application of claim preclusion, because it may govern grounds and defenses not previously litigated and on occasion it may block uninvestigated paths that may lead to truth. The Court noted that for the sake of finality and repose claim preclusion may shield the fraud and the cheat as well as the honest person; therefore, the doctrine must be invoked only after careful inquiry. n4

[4] Claim Preclusion Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

[a] Relation to Other Preclusive Doctrines

This subsection describes the most important similarities and differences between claim preclusion and other related preclusion doctrines, including stare decisis, law of the case, issue preclusion, and judicial estoppel. These preclusion doctrines have different effects depending on the type or stage of litigation under consideration, the matters that are precluded from reconsideration, and the parties that are affected. n1

[b] Stare Decisis

The doctrine of stare decisis is a general rule that requires courts to follow case precedent in their subsequent decisions. It means that a rule of law decided in a prior case should be followed without reconsideration in all subsequent cases within the same jurisdiction, provided the legal issue was actually argued and decided by the court in the prior case. n2 The purpose of stare decisis is to ensure that the law will not change erratically and that fundamental legal principles remain consistent. n3 The doctrine of stare decisis is similar to the doctrine of claim preclusion in that both rely on a similarity of parties, facts, and circumstances in earlier cases with the current case, and both doctrines are not applicable if parties, facts, and circumstances significantly differ. n4 Thus, stare decisis shares with claim preclusion a concern for stability and finality in the judicial system. However, claim preclusion bars relitigation of claims as to either issues of law or fact if such issues could have been raised and determined and is limited to parties or their privies, while stare decisis is not so limited. n5 On the other hand, claim preclusion is broader in its effect because it precludes relitigation of claims as to either issues of law or fact, while stare decisis applies only to questions of law. n6 Additionally, unlike claim preclusion, a court may decline to follow the doctrine of stare decisis in appropriate circumstances when it considers prior decisions to be erroneous or when there are changed circumstances that require reconsideration of the issues decided by the prior case. n7

[c] Law of the Case

The law of the case doctrine requires that when a court decides an issue, that court and any lower courts should continue to follow that determination during the pendency of that particular case. The law of the case doctrine states that a court should not revisit its prior rulings in subsequent stages of the same case absent compelling reasons. n8 However, unlike claim preclusion, the law of the case is a discretionary doctrine and need not be applied if there has been an intervening change in the law, new evidence has been discovered, there has been clear error, or if injustice will result. n9 Thus, in contrast to claim and issue preclusion, the law of the case doctrine operates only until a final judgment is obtained, after which it has no relevance, while claim preclusion requires a final judgment as a prerequisite to its application. n10 Furthermore, in contrast to the doctrine of claim preclusion, the law of the case doctrine does not apply to issues or claims that were not actually decided. n11

[d] Issue Preclusion

The primary difference between claim preclusion and issue preclusion is that claim preclusion applies to entire claims for relief, whether litigated or not, while issue preclusion applies to particular issues that have actually been contested and resolved. Thus, claim preclusion is broader in scope than issue preclusion regarding the claims that are governed, but narrower in scope as to the parties to whom the doctrine may be applied. n12

While claim preclusion and issue preclusion advance the same purpose of finality in judicial proceedings, they do so in substantially different ways. Claim preclusion prevents parties and those in privity with them from raising claims for relief, or defenses that could have been raised in the prior litigation, even though such claims were never actually litigated in the prior case. n13 Issue preclusion, on the other hand, precludes litigation of issues actually litigated and necessary to the outcome of the prior case, even if such issues are subsequently presented as part of a different claim for relief. Claim preclusion operates only between the parties to the prior litigation, while a stranger to the first action may invoke issue preclusion against a party to that action. n14

[e] Judicial Estoppel

The doctrine of judicial estoppel provides that when a party asserts a certain position in a legal proceeding, and succeeds in maintaining that position, that party may not thereafter assert a contrary position simply because his interests have changed, especially if it results in prejudice to another party that has acquiesced in the previously asserted position. n15 Unlike the doctrine of claim preclusion, judicial estoppel is not necessarily concerned with preserving the finality of judgments. Rather, the doctrine is based on considerations of the orderly administration of justice and regard for the propriety of court proceedings. n16 The doctrine of judicial estoppel also bars a party from taking inconsistent positions in the same litigation. n17

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsRes JudicataCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 131.01 et seq., 131.10 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 77 n.1, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Taber Partners I v. Insurance Co. of N. Am., 875 F. Supp. 88, 92 (D.P.R. 1996) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 77 n.1, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) ; Ohio Valley Envtl. Coalition v. Aracoma Coal Co., 556 F.3d 177, 210 (4th Cir. 2009) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n5)Footnote 4. Lundborg v. Phoenix Leasing, Inc., 91 F.3d 265, 272 (1st Cir. 1996) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Kaspar Wire Works, Inc. v. Leco Eng. & Mach., Inc., 575 F.2d 530, 535 (5th Cir. 1978) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. v. Soler Chrysler-Plymouth, 814 F.2d 844, 846 (1st Cir. 1987) (res judicata generally binds parties from litigating or relitigating any issue that was or could have been litigated in prior adjudication and prevents claim splitting).

(n8)Footnote 7. Brown v. Felsen, 442 U.S. 127, 131, 99 S. Ct. 2205, 60 L. Ed. 2d 767 (1979) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8; see Neoplan USA Corp. v. Taylor, 604 F. Supp. 1540, 1545-1546 (D. Del. 1985) .

(n10)Footnote 9. See Jet, Inc. v. Sewage Aeration Systems, 223 F.3d 1360, 1362-1363 (Fed. Cir. 2000) (requirements of claim preclusion described in terms of "claim for relief").

(n11)Footnote 1. Watts v. Pinckney, 752 F.2d 406, 410 (9th Cir. 1985) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n12)Footnote 2. Nasalok Coating Corp. v. Nylok Corp., 522 F.3d 1320, 1328-1329 (Fed. Cir. 2008) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n13)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 50(b).

(n14)Footnote 4. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 52(b); Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(e).

(n15)Footnote 5. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 59.

(n16)Footnote 6. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 60.

(n17)Footnote 1. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 153, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n18)Footnote 2. Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 401, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103 (1981) .

(n19)Footnote 3. Allen v. McCurry, 449 U.S. 90, 94, 101 S. Ct. 411, 66 L. Ed. 2d 308 (1980) .

(n20)Footnote 4. Brown v. Felsen, 442 U.S. 127, 132, 99 S. Ct. 2205, 60 L. Ed. 2d 767 (1979) .

(n21)Footnote 1. Migra v. Warren City School Dist. Bd. of Ed., 465 U.S. 75, 77 n.1, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) ; see § 30.01.

(n22)Footnote 2. Gately v. Massachusetts, 2 F.3d 1221, 1226 (1st Cir. 1993) .

(n23)Footnote 3. Randall v. Sorrell,, 243, 126 S. Ct. 2479; 165 L. Ed. 2d 482 (2006) .

(n24)Footnote 4. Anthony v. Small Tube Mfg. Corp., 580 F. Supp. 2d 409, 415 (E.D. Pa. 2008) .

(n25)Footnote 5. See AASI Creditor Liquidating Trust v. Raymond James & Assocs. (In re All Am. Semiconductor, Inc.), 427 B.R. 559, 565-566 (Bankr. S.D. Fla. 2010) .

(n26)Footnote 6. EEOC v. Trabucco, 791 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1986) .

(n27)Footnote 7. Rodriguez De Quijas v. Shearson/Am. Express, Inc., 490 U.S. 477, 484, 109 S. Ct. 1917, 104 L.

Ed. 2d 526 (1989) .

(n28)Footnote 8. ATSI Communs., Inc. v. Shaar Fund, Ltd., 547 F.3d 109, 112 (2d Cir. 2008) .

(n29)Footnote 9. See Arizona v. California, 460 U.S. 605, 618, 103 S. Ct. 1382, 75 L. Ed. 2d 318 (1983) .

(n30)Footnote 10. State of Arizona v. State of California, 530 U.S. 392, 408-410, 120 S. Ct. 2304, 147 L. Ed. 2d 374 (2000) .

(n31)Footnote 11. See AASI Creditor Liquidating Trust v. Raymond James & Assocs. (In re All Am. Semiconductor, Inc.), 427 B.R. 559, 565-566 (Bankr. S.D. Fla. 2010) .

(n32)Footnote 12. Orca Yachts L.L.C. v. Mollicam, Inc., 287 F.3d 316, 318 (4th Cir. 2002) .

(n33)Footnote 13. Comm'r v. Sunnen, 333 U.S. 591, 597-598, 68 S. Ct. 715, 92 L. Ed. 898 (1948) .

(n34)Footnote 14. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 326, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) .

(n35)Footnote 15. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) ; see § 30.90 et seq.

(n36)Footnote 16. Arizona v. Shamrock Foods Co., 729 F.2d 1208, 1215 (9th Cir. 1984) .

(n37)Footnote 17. Morris v. California, 966 F.2d 448, 452 (9th Cir. 1992) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.51

§ 30.51 Summary of Requirements for Claim Preclusionn*

Claim preclusion bars a second suit on a claim for relief if all of the following three conditions exist: n1 (1) there is identity of parties or their privies; n2 (2) there has been an earlier valid, final judgment on the merits of a claim; n3 and (3) the second claim for relief is based on the same set of transactional facts as the first claim for relief. n4 Claim preclusion is an affirmative defense. n5 Consequently, the burden is on the party asserting claim preclusion to establish all three elements necessary for its application. n6 The party opposing claim preclusion may do so by showing prejudice based on the length of the delay in the opposition asserting the defense. n7

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 131.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Ohio Valley Envtl. Coalition v. Aracoma Coal Co., 556 F.3d 177, 210 (4th Cir. 2009) ; Jet, Inc. v. Sewage Aeration Systems, 223 F.3d 1360, 1362 (Fed. Cir. 2000) .

(n3)Footnote 2. See § 30.52.

(n4)Footnote 3. See § 30.53.

(n5)Footnote 4. See § 30.54.

(n6)Footnote 5. State of Arizona v. State of California, 530 U.S. 392, 408, 409, 120 S. Ct. 2304, 147 L. Ed. 2d 374 (2000) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Allahar v. Zahora, 59 F.3d 693, 696 (7th Cir. 1995) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Hartman v. Wick, 678 F. Supp. 312, 322 (D.D.C. 1988) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.52

§ 30.52 Requirement of Identity of Partiesn*

[1] Statement of Requirement

The doctrine of claim preclusion will not bar a second action requesting the same claim for relief unless the parties to the second action are the same parties, or are in privity with the same parties. n1 The identity of party requirement is one factor that differs between claim preclusion and issue preclusion, in that the identity factor is more strictly applied in the doctrine of claim preclusion. n2

The requirement of identity of parties is based on the rule in American courts that a person may not be bound by a judgment in personam in litigation in which the person is not designated as a party, or to which the person has not been made a party by service of process. n3 Thus, the basis for limiting the operation of the claim preclusion doctrine to the parties involved in the previous litigation is the concept that everyone is entitled to his or her "day in court" before they are bound by an in personam judgment, as protected by the Due Process Clause. n4

[2] Opportunity of Party to Litigate

A party is not considered a "party or privy" for claim preclusion principles if the party or privy against whom the prior judgment is asserted did not have a full and fair opportunity to litigate the claim in the prior proceeding. n1 Under this rule, the prior proceeding need only have provided a full and fair opportunity to litigate; therefore, claim preclusion may be applied if a party has notice of the opportunity but fails to take the opportunity. n2

In addition to the opportunity to litigate, the doctrine of claim preclusion is applicable only if the parties were in an adversarial position, including third parties. n3 The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure make liberal provision for joining parties as plaintiffs. If parties such as a plaintiff and a third-party defendant are not in an adversarial position, a judgment in one action on a claim will not bar a subsequent action on a claim between those parties. n4 This rule also applies when the parties were co-parties. n5

[3] Application of Claim Preclusion to Persons in Privity With Parties

Under the doctrine of claim preclusion, a final judgment on the merits of an action precludes the parties or their privies from relitigating issues that were or could have been raised in that action. n1 Privity for claim preclusion purposes is a relationship between a party to the initial proceeding and a nonparty to that proceeding which establishes a judgment preclusive effect with respect to the nonparty. n2 The Supreme Court has held that there is a general rule against nonparty preclusion. n3 However, the Supreme Court has also held that there are six established exceptions to the general rule against nonparty preclusion. Thus, a nonparty is bound by the preclusive effect of a prior judgment in the following circumstances: n4

1. A nonparty that has agreed to be bound by the judgment on a claim in an action between others is bound by the terms of that agreement.

2. There is a pre existing substantive legal relationship between the nonparty and a party to the prior proceeding judgment. Thus, nonparty preclusion may be established legal relationships such as preceding and succeeding owners of property, bailee and bailor, and assignee and assignor.

3. In certain circumstances, a nonparty may be bound by a judgment because the nonparty was adequately represented by someone with the identical interests who was a party to the prior proceedings. n5 These could include properly conducted class actions, and suits brought by trustees, guardians, and other fiduciaries. One party's representation of a nonparty is "adequate" to impose nonparty preclusion if, at a minimum: the interests of the nonparty and his or her representative are aligned, and either the party understood herself or himself to be acting in a representative capacity or the original court took care to protect the interests of the nonparty; additionally, adequate representation sometimes requires notice of the original suit to the persons alleged to have been represented.

4. A nonparty is bound by a judgment if the nonparty assumed control over the litigation in the prior proceeding in which that judgment was rendered. Such a party has had his or her day in court even though the party was not a formal party to the litigation.

5. Preclusion applies when a nonparty who did not participate in the first proceeding later brings suit as the designated representative of a person who was a party to the first proceeding. Preclusion is also appropriate when a nonparty later brings suit as an agent for a party who is bound by a judgment.

6. Nonparty preclusion may apply under a special statutory scheme if the scheme is otherwise consistent with due process, such as in bankruptcy and probate proceedings.

[4] Exception to Application of Doctrine for Certain Parties

The doctrine of claim preclusion does not apply to certain persons even if they were parties in the previous action. Thus, the following are not subject to claim preclusion:

1. Party appearing in different legal capacity. Such a person may bring or defend multiple actions involving the same transaction or occurrence without being bound by or entitled to the benefits of the claim preclusion doctrine. For example, if a nonparty to a prior proceeding initiates a subsequent proceeding as an agent for a party who is bound by that prior judgment, the agent is also bound by the judgment. n1 But if the nonparty agent initiates the subsequent proceeding on his or her own behalf, claim preclusion is not necessarily applicable. In determining the persons who may benefit from or be subject to the preclusive effect of a judgment, the substance of the claim controls; it is the interests represented rather than the names appearing in the pleadings or on the judgment that control. n2 A government official who sues or is sued in an official capacity is not in privity with himself or herself in an individual capacity for purposes of claim preclusion. n3

2. Nominal party. Another type of party not subject to claim preclusion is a nominal party, who is a person identified as a plaintiff or defendant, but who has no interest in the litigation, and has been included to meet some technical pleading requirement or for other procedural reason. n3.1 One typical example is when an assignee of a claim sues in the name of the assignor in whose favor the claim originally arose. The assignor has no interest in the outcome of the litigation, having assigned his claim to the assignee, and is considered a nominal party. Other nominal parties include next friends, guardians ad litem, the state in a suit on the bond of a public officer, and a husband who is a nominal party to a suit by or against his wife. n4 A judgment is usually not preclusive against a nominal party. n5

3. Party dismissed or severed before judgment. Parties who withdraw or are dismissed from the action, are severed, or settle before judgment, are not bound by the preclusive effects of the final judgment in the action. n6 It is not enough that a party stopped participating in the litigation. The party must formally withdraw from the action. n7 Similarly, a party actually included in a prior judgment may assert the effects of claim preclusion, even if that party initially resisted inclusion in the prior action. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsRes JudicataCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 131.40 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Mullarkey v. Tamboer, 536 F.3d 215, 225 (3d Cir. 2008) ; see [3], below (persons considered to be in privity with party for purposes of claim preclusion).

(n3)Footnote 2. See Phillips/May Corp. v. United States, 524 F.3d 1264, 1268 (Fed. Cir. 2008) (while claim preclusion only applies when parties are identical or in privity, issue preclusion applies when parties of privies have had adequate opportunity to litigate currently disputed issues in prior proceeding).

(n4)Footnote 3. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168 (2008) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Richards v. Jefferson County, 517 U.S. 793, 798, 116 S. Ct. 1761, 135 L. Ed. 2d 76 (1996) .

(n6)Footnote 1. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168 (2008) .

(n7)Footnote 2. Kremer v. Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 485, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 (1982) .

(n8)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 14.

(n9)Footnote 4. Staffer v. Bouchard Transp. Co., 878 F.2d 638, 642-643 (2d Cir. 1989) .

(n10)Footnote 5. American Triticale, Inc. v. Nytco Servs., Inc., 664 F.2d 1136, 1147 & n.21 (9th Cir. 1981) (claim preclusion would not apply in action between parties who were co-defendants in prior action because of plaintiff's failure to assert permissive cross-claim in prior action).

(n11)Footnote 1. San Remo Hotel, L.P. v. City & County of San Francisco, 545 U.S. 323, 336 n. 16, 125 S. Ct. 2491, 162 L. Ed. 2d 315 (2005) .

(n12)Footnote 2. See Transclean Corp. v. Jiffy Lube Int'l, Inc., 474 F.3d 1298, 1305 (Fed. Cir. 2007) .

(n13)Footnote 3. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168 (2008) .

(n14)Footnote 4. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168-170 (2008) .

(n15)Footnote 5. See Muhammad v. Oliver, 547 F.3d 874, 880 (7th Cir. 2008) .

(n16)Footnote 1. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168-170 (2008) .

(n17)Footnote 2. Chicago, Rock Island & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Schendel, 270 U.S. 611, 618, 46 S. Ct. 420, 70 L. Ed. 757 (1926) .

(n18)Footnote 3. Andrews v. Daw, 201 F.3d 521, 525-526 (4th Cir. 2000) .

(n19)Footnote 3.1. See Martin v. JBS Techs., LLC, 443 F. Supp. 2d 962, 966 (S.D. Ohio 2006) (in determination whether privity between parties exists for claim preclusion purposes, nominal parties are not controlling; rather court examines substance of claim for relief to determine real parties in interest.).

(n20)Footnote 4. Blanchard v. Terry & Wright, Inc., 331 F.2d 467 (6th Cir. 1964) .

(n21)Footnote 5. Penda Corp. v. United States, 44 F.3d 967, 972 (Fed. Cir. 1994) .

(n22)Footnote 6. Lynch v. Merrell-National Laboratories, Div. of Richardson-Merrell, Inc., 830 F.2d 1190, 1192-1193 (1st Cir. 1987) .

(n23)Footnote 7. Oglala Sioux Tribe v. Homestake Mining Co., 722 F.2d 1407, 1413-1414 & n.6 (8th Cir. 1983) .

(n24)Footnote 8. U.S. West Fin. Servs., Inc. v. Buhler, Inc., 150 F.3d 929, 932-934 (8th Cir. 1998) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.53

§ 30.53 Judgment Required for Claim Preclusionn*

[1] Valid Judgment

A judgment will have claim preclusive effect only if valid. n1 A judgment by a court of competent jurisdiction is generally presumed valid and not subject to collateral attack. However, a judgment that is void is a judicial nullity and subject to collateral attack at any time and in any proceeding. n2 Consequently, if a judgment is void, it will not support claim preclusion. Under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a party may make a motion to the rendering court for an order vacating a judgment as void. n3 A typical void judgment is a judgment that has been rendered without personal jurisdiction. An in personam judgment entered by a court without personal jurisdiction over a party is void as to that party. n4 Even a defendant who defaults for failure to appear may subsequently attack a judgment in a collateral proceeding based on the lack of personal jurisdiction. n5

On the other hand, the following circumstances do not necessarily strip a valid judgment of its preclusive effect:

1. Lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Provided that it has been properly entered, n6 a judgment does not lose its claim preclusive effect because the court that entered the judgment lacked subject matter jurisdiction. Thus, once a party has been given a fair chance to contest a court's subject matter jurisdiction, the party generally cannot later challenge the judgment by resisting enforcement of the judgment; it should have been attacked by direct appeal. n7 In other words, because the issue of subject matter jurisdiction could have been raised in the prior proceeding, or if it was actually litigated, it may not be the basis of a subsequent action. n8

2. Erroneous judgment. A final, valid judgment is not subject to collateral attack even though it may be erroneous, and the judgment has a binding effect on the parties and their privies under the doctrine of claim preclusion no matter how erroneous it may be on either the facts or the law, until it is properly set aside. n9 A party may correct error in a judgment only by direct review by appeal and not by the filing of a new complaint concerning the same issues. n10

3. Judgment obtained by fraud. A judgment procured by fraud is generally not considered void and may still be the basis for claim preclusion. n11 However, there is authority that if the fraud is extrinsic, it may form the basis for an independent suit for relief from the judgment, and therefore such a judgment would not have a claim preclusive effect. Extrinsic fraud is fraud used in procuring the judgment, n12 as opposed to intrinsic fraud, which is fraud in the transaction or series of transactions that were the basis of the claim resulting in the judgment. n13

[2] Final Judgment

[a] Finality Required

A judgment will have a claim preclusive effect only if the judgment is final. n1 In the federal district courts, a judgment is final and effective on entry in compliance with Rules 54, 58, and 79. n2 In a case involving multiple claims or multiple parties, one or more but fewer than all the claims or the claims by or against fewer than all the parties may be disposed of by final judgment under Rule 54(b), provided that the court determines expressly that there is no just reason for delay, and makes express direction for entry of judgment. n3 Therefore, in a case involving multiple claims or multiple parties, if the court makes the necessary determinations and certification under Rule 54(b), the judgment entered is final, and is entitled to res judicata effect with respect to the claims and parties specified. However, if the court refuses to make a Rule 54(b) certification, its ruling does not have preclusive effect as to any claims or parties until a final judgment disposing of all claims and all parties is entered. n4

[b] Effect of Appeal

Generally, a ruling that is not appealable may not be the basis for claim preclusion; thus, interim rulings, such as the denial of a summary judgment motion may not have claim preclusive effect. n5 Therefore, the concept of a final judgment for purposes of claim preclusion parallels in many respects the statutory requirement that appeals may be taken only from "final decisions" of district courts. n6 However, it is not a rigid rule, and the Supreme Court has construed the term "final decision" to include some collateral orders that are not appealable as final judgments. n7

A final judgment in federal court may be the basis for claim preclusion despite the fact that an appeal is pending, or could be taken in the future. n8 Furthermore, the fact that no appeal of the judgment was authorized by the controlling law does not change its preclusive effect, n9 nor does failure of a party to take an appeal within the time permitted in cases in which the right to appeal or to seek review is in the discretion of the appellate court. n10

When a judgment has been appealed, its preclusive effect remains unchanged during the pendency of the appeal, but may be affected by the appellate court's disposition of the case. n11 Thus, a judgment that has been vacated, reversed, or set aside on an appeal is stripped of claim preclusive effect. n12 However, if an appellate court reverses and remands with instructions to enter judgment for the appellant, the newly entered judgment is given claim preclusive effect. n13

[3] Judgment on Merits

[a] Nature of Judgment on Merits for Claim Preclusion Purposes

A judgment will have a claim preclusive effect only if the judgment is on the merits of a claim for relief. For the purposes of claim preclusion, a judgment is on the merits of a claim for relief when it is one that is based on the legal rights claimed, in contrast to mere matters of practice, procedure, jurisdiction, or form that do not go to the legal or factual sufficiency of the claim to relief. n1 Traditionally, a judgment is on the merits if it completely disposes of the underlying cause of action or determines that the plaintiff has no cause of action. n2

The Supreme Court has discussed the effect of the definition of the expression "operates as an adjudication upon the merits" in Rule 41 as it is applied to claim preclusion. n3 The Court stated that a dismissal that would not be characterized as being "upon the merits" under Rule 41(b) generally does not have claim preclusive effect. Thus, a dismissal for lack of jurisdiction, for improper venue, or for failure to join a party, or any other dismissal that is expressly "without prejudice," ordinarily does not preclude a subsequent action on the same claim. n4 However, a court in which a subsequent action has been filed need not always accept the phrasing of a prior judgment of dismissal at face value, and may make an independent determination of its preclusive effects. The Supreme Court has noted that the primary meaning of "dismissal without prejudice" is dismissal without barring the defendant from returning later, to the same court, with the same underlying claim. Such a dismissal will also ordinarily (though not always) have the consequence of not barring the claim from other courts, but its primary meaning relates to the dismissing court itself. Therefore, the effect of the "adjudication upon the merits" default provision of Rule 41(b) is simply that, unlike a dismissal "without prejudice," the dismissal in the present case bars refiling of the same claim in the dismissing district court. Such an adjudication is a necessary condition, but it is not a sufficient one, for claim-preclusive effect in other courts. n5

[b] Default Judgment

A judgment by default may be the basis for claim preclusion to the same extent as any other valid, final judgment. n6 There are two types of default judgments: default for lack of appearance; and default when the party makes an appearance but defaults in pleading or otherwise fails to comply with the procedural rules of the court. If default was entered for lack of appearance, a party in a subsequent action may assert lack of personal jurisdiction to avoid the preclusive effect of the judgment. n7

[c] Dismissals

There are several types of dismissal of claims in federal court, and depending on the type, a dismissal may be considered on the merits, and claim preclusive, or not on the merits, and not claim preclusive. n8 The following are the rules for claim preclusion for the various types of dismissals:

1. Dismissal with prejudice. A dismissal with prejudice under Rule 12(b)(6) for failure to state a claim for relief constitutes a judgment on the merits, with the same preclusive effects as any valid final judgment. n9 When the court makes the same type of dismissal without prejudice, the judgment is not on the merits and does not have claim preclusive effect. If an action is dismissed for failure to state a claim, but the court does not specify whether or not the dismissal was with prejudice, it is presumed with prejudice, and the judgment has claim preclusive effect. n10

2. Voluntary dismissal. A plaintiff may voluntarily dismiss an action under the federal rules by giving notice prior to service of an answer or motion for summary judgment by the adverse party, n11 and after that time by stipulation signed by all of the parties who have appeared in the action. n12 Unless otherwise stated in the notice or stipulation, the dismissal is considered to be without prejudice and does not have claim preclusive effect. However, a notice of dismissal is deemed to be a judgment on the merits if the plaintiff has previously dismissed any action based on or including the same claim. n13 A dismissal on motion of a party is also considered without prejudice, unless the dismissal specifies otherwise. If the parties intend their resolution to permanently resolve their claims, they may stipulate to a dismissal with prejudice. Such an agreed judgment is considered to be on the merits for purposes of claim preclusion. n14

3. Dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction or improper venue. This type of dismissal is not a determination of the value or efficacy of a claim, but rather a refusal to hear it, and the plaintiff, after such a dismissal, may pursue the claim in a proper forum. n15 Other dismissals in this category include those for failure of the plaintiff to comply with prerequisite to filing suit, such as exhaustion of administrative remedies. n16

4. Dismissal based on statute of limitations. If a district court enters a judgment that dismisses an action based on a federal statute of limitations, the dismissal is a judgment on the merits that has claim preclusive effect, unless it is expressly designated as being without prejudice. n17 However, the claim-preclusive effect of a statute of limitations dismissal in a diversity case is governed by the claim preclusion law of the state in which the federal court is located. n18

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 131.30 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. King v. Union Oil Co., 117 F.3d 443, 445 (10th Cir. 1997) ; see New York v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 344 U.S. 293, 73 S. Ct. 299, 97 L. Ed. 33 (1953) (valid final judgment on merits acts as bar to any future relitigation of claim or cause of action asserted in prior case).

(n3)Footnote 2. Kalb v. Feuerstein, 308 U.S. 433, 438, 60 S. Ct. 343, 84 L. Ed. 370 (1940) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(4).

(n5)Footnote 4. Kremer v. Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 482-483, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 (1982) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Insurance Corp. of Ireland, Ltd. v. Compagnie des Bauxites de Guinee, 456 U.S. 694, 706, 102 S. Ct. 2099, 72 L. Ed. 2d 492 (1982) .

(n7)Footnote 6. See [2], below.

(n8)Footnote 7. Travelers Indem. Co. v. Bailey, 129 S. Ct. 2195, 174 L. Ed. 2d 99 (2009) (noting there are exceptions to prohibition against collateral attack only in exceptional circumstances).

(n9)Footnote 8. Insurance Corp. of Ireland v. Compagnie des Bauxites de Guinee, 456 U.S. 694, 702, n. 9, 102 S. Ct. 2099, 72 L. Ed. 2d 492 (1982) .

(n10)Footnote 9. Hallal v. Hopkins, 947 F. Supp. 978, 987 (S.D. Miss 1995) .

(n11)Footnote 10. Equitable Trust Co. v. Commodity Futures Trading Comm'n, 669 F.2d 269 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n12)Footnote 11. Harris Trust & Sav. Bank v. Ellis, 810 F.2d 700, 706 (7th Cir. 1987) ; Browning v. Navarro, 887 F.2d 553, 563 n.17 (5th Cir. 1989) .

(n13)Footnote 12. Batlan v. Bledsoe (In re Bledsoe), 569 F.3d 1106, 1109 (9th Cir. 2009) (extrinsic fraud consists of acts which involve influence on litigation proceedings, and not acts which involve fact finder's consideration of merits of case).

(n14)Footnote 13. See Browning v. Navarro, 826 F.2d 335, 344 n.11 (5th Cir. 1987) .

(n15)Footnote 1. Continental Airlines, Inc. v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., 819 F.2d 1519, 1525 (9th Cir. 1987) .

(n16)Footnote 2. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 54; Fed. R. Civ. P. 58; Fed. R. Civ. P. 79; see Ch. 25, Judgment.

(n17)Footnote 3. Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(b).

(n18)Footnote 4. United States v. Arkansas, 791 F.2d 1573 (8th Cir. 1986) .

(n19)Footnote 5. Kay-R Elec. Corp. v. Stone & Webster Constr. Co., 23 F.3d 55, 59 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n20)Footnote 6. See 28 U.S.C. § 1291.

(n21)Footnote 7. Cohen v. Beneficial Indus. Loan Corp., 337 U.S. 541, 546-547, 69 S. Ct. 1221, 93 L. Ed. 1528 (1949) .

(n22)Footnote 8. Amcast Indus. Corp. v. Detrex Corp., 45 F.3d 155, 158-160 (7th Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 515 U.S. 1103 (1995) .

(n23)Footnote 9. United States v. Munsingwear, Inc., 340 U.S. 36, 38-39, 71 S. Ct. 104, 95 L. Ed. 36 (1950) .

(n24)Footnote 10. Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 400, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103 (1981) .

(n25)Footnote 11. United States v. 5 Unlabeled Boxes, 572 F.3d 169, 175 (3d Cir. 2009) (if possible, decision on question of preclusion in second action should be postponed until appeal of first judgment has been concluded).

(n26)Footnote 12. P&G v. Amway Corp., 242 F.3d 539, 546 (5th Cir. 2001) , cert. denied, 534 U.S. 945 (2001) (judgment loses its claim preclusive effect when it is reversed and remanded on appeal).

(n27)Footnote 13. Woods Exploration & Producing Co. v. Aluminum Co. of Am., 438 F.2d 1286, 1316 (5th Cir. 1971) .

(n28)Footnote 1. Harper Plastics, Inc. v. Amoco Chems. Corp., 657 F.2d 939, 943 (7th Cir. 1981) .

(n29)Footnote 2. See Baris v. Sulpicio Lines, Inc., 74 F.3d 567, 570 (5th Cir. 1996) .

(n30)Footnote 3. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(b); see Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 505-506, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) .

(n31)Footnote 4. Cooter & Gell v. Hartmarx Corp., 496 U.S. 384, 396, 110 S. Ct. 2447, 110 L. Ed. 2d 359 (1990) .

(n32)Footnote 5. Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 505-506, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) (adjudication "upon merits" under Rule 41(b) is not necessarily claim-preclusive; claim preclusive effect of federal court's dismissal of diversity case on state statute of limitations grounds is determined by federal claim preclusion law, which in turn incorporates claim preclusion law of state in which federal court sits).

(n33)Footnote 6. Dillard v. Security Pac. Brokers, Inc., 835 F.2d 607, 608 (5th Cir. 1988) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1079 (1993) (default judgment entered for failure of defendant to respond to discovery constituted judgment on merits for preclusion purposes).

(n34)Footnote 7. Insurance Corp. of Ireland, Ltd. v. Compagnie Des Bauxites de Guinee, 456 U.S. 694, 706, 102 S. Ct. 2099, 72 L. Ed. 2d 492 (1982) (defendant may take default and then challenge judgment on jurisdictional grounds).

(n35)Footnote 8. Headwaters Inc. v. United States Forest Serv., 399 F.3d 1047, 1052 (9th Cir. 2004) .

(n36)Footnote 9. NAACP v. Hunt, 891 F.2d 1555, 1560 (11th Cir. 1990) .

(n37)Footnote 10. United States ex rel. Karvelas v. Melrose-Wakefield Hosp., 360 F.3d 220, 241 (1st Cir. 2004) .

(n38)Footnote 11. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(1)(A)(i).

(n39)Footnote 12. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(1)(A)(ii).

(n40)Footnote 13. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(1)(B); see Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 508, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) .

(n41)Footnote 14. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(2); see Zagano v. Fordham Univ., 900 F.2d 12, 14 (2d Cir. 1990) .

(n42)Footnote 15. St. Pierre v. Dyer, 208 F.3d 394, 399-401 (2d Cir. 2000) (dismissal for lack of subject-matter jurisdiction is not adjudication of merits and has no claim-preclusive effect).

(n43)Footnote 16. Costello v. United States, 365 U.S. 265, 285, 81 S. Ct. 534, 5 L. Ed. 2d 551 (1961) (dismissal for failure to satisfy prerequisite to determination of matter on merits is to be considered as dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction).

(n44)Footnote 17. Plaut v. Spendthrift Farm, Inc., 514 U.S. 211, 228, 115 S. Ct. 1447, 131 L. Ed. 2d 328 (1995) .

(n45)Footnote 18. Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 508, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.54

§ 30.54 Requirement That Claims Be Based on Same Transactional Factsn*

[1] Statement of Requirement

If a person files a second civil action on a claim for relief, the claim is barred by the claim preclusion doctrine if the second claim is identical to the claim in the first action, n1 and was decided by a valid judgment on the merits. n2 There is no universal test to determine whether claims are identical for claim preclusion purposes. The "transactional test," used by most courts, requires the court to determine in a practical manner whether the claims share the same nucleus of facts. n3 This inquiry requires the court to consider whether the facts are related in time, space, origin, or motivation, whether they form a convenient trial unit, and whether their treatment as a unit conforms to the parties' expectations or business understanding or business usage. n4

The transactional test is not the only test employed by the courts to determine whether there is an identity of claims. Other tests include the "same factual allegations" test, in which the court analyzes the similarity of the allegations set forth in the pleadings, n5 and a hybrid test, which requires the court to consider the similarity of the acts complained of, the material facts alleged as the basis for the suit, and whether the witnesses and documentation necessary to prove the allegations in the actions would be the same. n6

[2] New Facts or Law Alone Not Sufficient to Establish Different Claim

The doctrine of claim preclusion is based on identity of claims, not identity of facts. n1 Consequently, if a claim merely alleges new facts that are part of the same transaction in support of the claim that has gone to judgment in previous litigation, the new claim is still barred under the doctrine of claim preclusion. However, if the new facts in themselves establish a new claim and independent grounds separate and distinct from the previous claim, then claim preclusion is not applicable. n2

A similar analysis applies to changes in the law. Thus, a change in statutory or case law does not extinguish the claim preclusion effect of a prior judgment, n3 unless a new statute or case law provides an independent basis for relief that did not exist at the time of the prior action. In such circumstances, the claimant from the prior adjudication may file a second action based on the new, independent claim for relief. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsRes JudicataCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 131.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Apotex, Inc. v. FDA, 393 F.3d 210, 217-218 (D.C. Cir. 2004) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n3)Footnote 2. Jet, Inc. v. Sewage Aeration Systems, 223 F.3d 1360, 1363 (Fed. Cir. 2000) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Test Masters Educ. Servs. v. Singh, 428 F.3d 559, 571 (5th Cir. 2006) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Apotex, Inc. v. FDA, 393 F.3d 210, 217-218 (D.C. Cir. 2004) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Herrmann v. Cencom Cable Assocs., Inc., 999 F.2d 223, 226 (7th Cir. 1993) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Lubrizol Corp. v. Exxon Corp., 929 F.2d 960, 963 (3d Cir. 1991) .

(n8)Footnote 1. Apotex, Inc. v. FDA, 393 F.3d 210, 217 (D.C. Cir. 2004) ; see also [1], above.

(n9)Footnote 2. Hatch v. Boulder Town Council, 471 F.3d 1142, 1150 (10th Cir. 2006) , citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n10)Footnote 3. Baylor v. United States Dept. of Hous. and Urban Dev., 913 F.2d 223, 225 (5th Cir. 1990) .

(n11)Footnote 4. Sidney Coal Co. v. Massanari, 221 F. Supp. 2d 755, 774 (E.D. Ky. 2002) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.55

§ 30.55 Effects of Application of Claim Preclusionn*

[1] Preclusion of Claims Not Asserted in Prior Action

Under the doctrine of claim preclusion, any claim based on the same transaction or series of transactions will be barred, regardless of the number of different legal theories that may arise as a result of plaintiff's alleged damages. n1 Thus, the judgment in the prior action will preclude another action based on the same facts and asserted injury even though the subsequent action asserts a different legal theory to justify recovery. n2 Furthermore, even a good faith, inadvertent failure by plaintiff's counsel to advance a plausible theory in the first action will also fail to avoid claim preclusion. n3

Generally, an action must include all legal theories that may give rise to relief based on the same transaction or series of transactions, because all such theories comprise a single claim, which may not be split. n4

[2] Preclusion of Claims Not Asserted by Counterclaim in Prior Action

If a defendant to a previous action brings a subsequent action in which claims are asserted that might have been the subject of a counterclaim in the prior action, the application of the claim preclusion doctrine will depend on either of two factors: (1) whether the counterclaim was required to be interposed by a compulsory counterclaim statute or rule of court, n1 or (2) whether the relationship between the counterclaim and the plaintiff's claim in the prior action is such that successful prosecution of the second action would negate the prior judgment or impair rights established by the prior judgment. n2 If either of these factors is present, claim preclusion will prohibit alleging the claim in the second action. n3

The federal compulsory counterclaim provision generally requires that pleaders assert any claim against an opposing party which arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the opposing party's claim and does not require for its adjudication the presence of third parties of whom the court cannot acquire jurisdiction. n4 If the claim should have been asserted as a counterclaim in the prior action pursuant to the applicable compulsory counterclaim statute, it will be precluded in the pending action. n5

[3] Preclusion of State Law Claims Not Asserted in Prior Action

If a plaintiff has litigated a claim in federal court, the federal judgment precludes relitigation of the same claim in state court based on issues that were or could have been raised in the federal action, including any theories of liability based on state law. n1 A state court must apply federal claim-preclusion law in determining the preclusive effect of a prior federal judgment. n2

A case may not be removed to federal court under the well-pleaded complaint rule if the only federal question in the case is raised as a defense to the plaintiff's claim, even if the defense is anticipated in the plaintiff's complaint, and even if both parties acknowledge that the defense is the only issue in the case. n3 Thus, because claim preclusion is a defensive plea, claim preclusion based on a prior federal judgment alone may provide no basis for removal. n4

[4] Remedies That Could Have Been Requested in Prior Action Are Precluded

Under the doctrine of claim preclusion, all available legal and equitable relief resulting from a transaction or series of transactions constitutes a single claim, and as a general rule, the plaintiff must seek all available relief in the first action. Any judgment in that action precludes a second suit requesting additional relief. n1 Furthermore, the merger of law and equity allowed joinder of legal and equitable claims in a single action; therefore, any claims are subject to the claim preclusion doctrine, whether they are legal or equitable. n2

[5] Defenses That Could Have Been Asserted in Prior Action Are Precluded

Under the doctrine of claim preclusion, a claim includes not only all available facts and legal and equitable relief that could have been asserted in the prior action, but also any defenses that could have been asserted against plaintiff's claim in that action. Claim preclusion bars all defenses, even "perfect defenses" for which no proof was offered. n1 A defendant may, for example, attempt to assert a new defense in an action to enforce a judgment. Thus, if a plaintiff obtains a valid judgment against a defendant on a debt or note, a defendant may not raise the defenses to the note in an action to enforce the judgment because those defenses could have been raised in the earlier action. n2

[6] Preclusive Effect of Multiple Inconsistent Prior Judgments

When a claim has been litigated to a valid final judgment on the merits, one party will usually assert claim preclusion in a second action initiated on the same claim between the same parties. However, if claim preclusion is not raised in the second action or is erroneously rejected by the court, the court may proceed to a judgment that is inconsistent with the previous judgment. In such cases of contradictory results, the rule is that preclusive effect is given to the last judgment entered. n1 Furthermore, the last in time rule applies no matter how many prior judgments exist. n2

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsRes JudicataCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 131.21, 131.31 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. In re Teltronics Servs., Inc., 762 F.2d 185, 193 (2d Cir. 1985) (new legal theory does not amount to different or new claim for relief so as to defeat application of principle of claim preclusion).

(n3)Footnote 2. Goldberg v. R.J. Longo Constr. Co., 54 F.3d 243, 246 (5th Cir. 1995) (action to foreclose mechanic's and materialperson's lien precluded by prior action for breach of contract).

(n4)Footnote 3. Lea v. Republic Airlines, Inc., 903 F.2d 624, 634 (9th Cir. 1990) .

(n5)Footnote 4. See Owens v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan, Inc., 244 F.3d 708, 714-715 (9th Cir. 2001) (Title VII claims were not exempt from application of claim preclusion based on prior suit in which plaintiff could have asserted Title VII claims but did not even attempt to amend complaint to include Title VII claims).

(n6)Footnote 1. Burlington N. R. Co. v. Strong, 907 F.2d 707, 711-712 (7th Cir. 1990) .

(n7)Footnote 2. Martino v. McDonald's Sys., Inc., 598 F.2d 1079, 1085 (7th Cir. 1079) , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 966 (1979) .

(n8)Footnote 3. See Critical-Vac Filtration Corp. v. Minuteman Int'l, Inc., 233 F.3d 697, 701-704 (2d Cir. 2000) , cert. denied, 532 U.S. 1019 (2001) (claim alleging attempt to enforce an invalid reissue patent was compulsory counterclaim that was barred because it was not asserted in patent infringement action).

(n9)Footnote 4. Fed. R. Civ. P. 13(a).

(n10)Footnote 5. Cuervo Resources, Inc. v. Claydesta Nat'l Bank, 876 F.2d 436, 436-437 (5th Cir. 1989) .

(n11)Footnote 1. Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 397-399, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103 (1981) .

(n12)Footnote 2. Heck v. Humphrey, 512 U.S. 477, 114 S. Ct. 2364, 2373 n.9, 129 L. Ed. 2d 383 (1994) .

(n13)Footnote 3. Franchise Tax Bd. v. Construction Laborers Vacation Trust, 463 U.S. 1, 14, 103 S. Ct. 2841, 77 L. Ed. 2d 420 (1983) .

(n14)Footnote 4. Rivet v. Regions Bank, 552 U.S. 470, 475-478, 118 S. Ct. 921, 139 L. Ed. 2d 912 (1998) (removal may not be predicated on federal defense; defense of claim preclusion based on prior federal judgment may only be made in state court action).

(n15)Footnote 1. Nilsen v. City of Moss Point, 701 F.2d 556, 560 (5th Cir. 1983) (party that has choice of more than one remedy for particular wrong may not assert them serially in successive actions but must advance all at once or be subject to preclusion for those not asserted).

(n16)Footnote 2. Lubrizol Corp. v. Exxon Corp., 929 F.2d 960, 963-964 (3d Cir. 1991) .

(n17)Footnote 1. In re Hopkins, 146 F.3d 729, 731-732 (9th Cir. 1998) ; see Mercoid Corp. v. Mid-Continent Inv. Co., 320 U.S. 661, 670-671, 64 S. Ct. 268, 88 L. Ed. 376 (1944) (defendant who fails to assert available defense in initial action is precluded from raising it in subsequent action involving same parties and transactions).

(n18)Footnote 2. Cf. Dimock v. Revere Copper Co., 117 U.S. 559, 565, 6 S. Ct. 855, 29 L. Ed. 994 (1886) (defense asserted in enforcement proceeding that debt had been discharged in bankrupcy could not be asserted because bankruptcy decree had been issued before judgment in underlying action but had not been asserted as defense in that action).

(n19)Footnote 1. Robi v. Five Platters, Inc., 838 F.2d 318, 322-323 (9th Cir. 1988) (discussing policy rationale for rule).

(n20)Footnote 2. Americana Fabrics, Inc. v. L & L Textiles, Inc., 754 F.2d 1524, 1530 n.2 (9th Cir. 1985) (rule applicable even when there are three or more prior inconsistent judgments or proceedings).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.56

§ 30.56 Procedural Considerations for Claim Preclusionn*

[1] Claim Preclusion Must Be Asserted as Affirmative Defense

Under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, claim preclusion is an affirmative defense n1 that must be raised in the answer at the first opportunity because the defense may be waived either implicitly n2 or by express agreement. n3 The purpose of the pleading requirement is to give the opposing party notice and a chance to argue why the imposition of claim preclusion would be inappropriate. n4 When the prior judgment that gives rise to the preclusion defense is rendered after the initial pleading stage in the pending litigation, the proper procedure is for the party to file a motion pursuant to Rule 15(d) to file an amended defensive pleading. n5 The standard the court must use to determine whether to grant an amendment for the party to assert an affirmative defense is whether the amendment will result in undue prejudice to the opposing party. n6 Therefore, the court will ordinarily grant a motion to amend if the motion is made early in the litigation. n7

[2] Methods of Asserting Claim Preclusion

In addition to asserting a preclusion defense in the answer, a defendant may raise the defense in any of the following ways:

1. Motion to Dismiss. Under Rule 12(b)(6), a party may file a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim on which relief can be granted to be filed before any answer or other responsive pleading. n1 Courts have discretion to allow defenses based on the preclusion doctrines to be raised and determined in this manner if the grounds for preclusion appear on the face of the complaint or consist of matters of which the court may take judicial notice. n2

2. Motion for Summary Judgment. If the appropriate requirements are met, a party may assert claim preclusion in a motion for summary judgment. n3 Also, if a party has already raised the issue of claim preclusion in the pleadings and asserts that there is no triable issue of fact as to the application of res judicata, a timely summary judgment motion may be made to submit the matter to the court for determination. n4

3. Appeal. If the judgment that is asserted as the basis for claim preclusion is rendered while a case involving the same claim is on appeal, a party may raise the preclusive effect of the judgment directly in the appeal by including it in the appellate briefs. n5 If the judgment that forms the basis for preclusion was entered after the appellate briefs were filed in the pending case, the court may permit a party to raise the assertion of claim preclusion at oral argument. n6 Alternatively, the claim preclusive effect may be raised by a motion to affirm. n7

[3] Court May Initiate Claim Preclusion

Even though the parties to the litigation may waive the claim preclusion defense, the trial court may nevertheless raise the defense on its own motion. This rule have been promulgated because the Supreme Court has decided that judicial power unalterably includes the power to render final judgments for all of the policy reasons that form the basis of the doctrine, and therefore the courts need not always accept waivers of claim preclusion. Thus, trial courts may in appropriate cases raise claim preclusion on their own motion. This rule is known as waiver subject to the control of the courts. n1 Before raising claim preclusion, a court must give the parties reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard. n2

[4] Claim Preclusion in Context of Certain Actions

[a] In Rem and Quasi in Rem Judgments

A judgment in rem may be entered in an action based solely on a court's jurisdiction over tangible or intangible property. A judgment in rem is binding on all persons in the world as to the interests in the property. Similarly, a judgment quasi in rem is a judgment establishing the interests in property with respect to specific persons, by such means as attachment or garnishment. n1 Such a judgment is binding only with respect to the interests in the property (res) that were the subject of the action, and the claim preclusion doctrine will usually not bar subsequent actions brought to establish the personal liability of the parties. n2

[b] Declaratory Judgment

Judgments for declaratory relief in federal courts are governed by the Declaratory Judgments Act, n3 which provides that further necessary or proper relief based on a declaratory judgment or decree may be granted, after reasonable notice and hearing, against any adverse party whose rights have been determined by the judgment. n4 Therefore, the general rule is that, whether or not a prior declaratory relief claim was successful, the doctrine of claim preclusion does not apply to the prior declaratory relief judgment. n5 Such a judgment does not act as a merger or bar, and a party may pursue subsequent actions for additional relief. However, the prior declaratory judgment is subject to application of issue preclusion principles. n5.1 Also, if a party requests in the initial action additional relief such as an injunction or damages, in addition to declaratory relief, the exception does not apply and any future claim is subject to claim preclusion, n6 and to dismissal to the extent the prior action for declaratory relief was dismissed with prejudice. n7

[c] Administrative Proceedings

Generally, preclusion principles apply to a prior administrative adjudication of a claim, n8 provided that minimum necessary procedural safeguards were employed in the proceeding, such as procedures similar to those employed by federal courts. n9 However, claim preclusion does not apply when not intended by Congress or the legislature. In diversity cases, state law and the intent of the state legislature controls the claim preclusive effect of an administrative adjudication. n9.1 When an administrative agency is acting in a judicial capacity and resolves disputed issues of fact properly before it which the parties have had an adequate opportunity to litigate, the courts should apply claim preclusion. n10 Additionally, a judgment by a court on review of an administrative determination has the same preclusive effect as any other judgment of the court. n11

[d] Arbitration

Courts generally favor arbitration of disputed claims as an efficient method of directing appropriate disputes out of the courts and into an alternate forum. n12 The Federal Arbitration Act n13 requires district courts to order parties involved in commercial or admiralty disputes to arbitration with respect to all matters covered by valid arbitration agreements. n14

In general, arbitration awards have the same preclusive effects as court judgments. n14.1 However, an arbitration proceeding is based on contract, n14.2 and the intent of the parties as specified in the contract to arbitrate generally controls the power of the arbitrator to render binding "decisions" that have preclusive effect. n15 Furthermore, the Supreme Court has held that arbitration is not an appropriate forum to adjudicate some claims involving fundamental statutory and constitutional rights, and in such cases, arbitration decisions do not have claim preclusive effect. n16

Thus, an arbitration proceeding is essentially a court of limited jurisdiction, with the jurisdictional limits set by agreement of the parties. n17 With regard to the claim preclusion process of determining whether a claim asserted in a pending action should have been asserted in a prior arbitration proceeding, the scope of the prior claim is determined by the intent of the parties as specified in the agreement. Similarly, the validity of the arbitration award is determined in part by the authority bestowed on the arbitrator by the agreement. An award that exceeds such authority is invalid and thus has no preclusive effect. n18 Because the procedure followed in an arbitration proceeding is subject to agreement by the parties involved, the procedure need not comply with all of the rules of procedure and evidence followed by courts in order for the resulting judgment to have preclusive effect; all that is required is that the parties receive a fundamentally fair hearing. n19

[e] Injunction to Enforce Claim Preclusion

The typical procedure for asserting a claim preclusion defense is to assert it by pleading or motion in the action in which the claim is to be precluded. However, to avoid undue expense or other prejudice to relitigate the claim in the subsequent proceeding, a defendant may ask the initial judgment court to enjoin proceedings involving the same claim in other federal courts. n20 A federal court may also enjoin state proceedings under the All Writs Act, n21 which gives federal district courts authority to issue all writs necessary or appropriate in aid of their respective jurisdictions. The "necessary in aid of" language is generally referred to as the "relitigation exception" to the Anti-Injunction Act, which generally prohibits a federal court from enjoining a pending state court proceeding. n22 This exception recognizes that the concept of claim preclusion is a valid ground for a federal court to enjoin state court actions. n23 The relitigation exception applies only when a preclusive judgment has been made. n24 The statutory scheme gives the district court authority to issue an injunction to prevent or stay proceedings in other courts that would be subject to claim preclusion based on the court's prior judgment, n25 because a district court retains jurisdiction to enforce the judgments it enters. n26

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsRes JudicataCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes Judicata

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 131.24, 131.50 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(c).

(n3)Footnote 2. Exxon Corp. v. Texas Motor Exchange, Inc., 628 F.2d 500, 507 n.3 (5th Cir. 1980) (defendant's failure to raise issue of claim preclusion in trial court prevented consideration by appellate court).

(n4)Footnote 3. Disher v. Information Resources, Inc., 691 F. Supp. 75, 82-83 (N.D. Ill. 1988) , aff'd on other grounds, 873 F.2d 136 (7th Cir. 1989) (agreement to surrender claim preclusion defense made as part of settlement of initial case).

(n5)Footnote 4. Blonder-Tongue Lab., Inc. v. University of Ill., 402 U.S. 313, 350, 91 S. Ct. 1434, 28 L. Ed. 2d 788 (1971) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(d); see, e.g., Hogue v. Royse City, 939 F.2d 1249, 1256 n.10 (5th Cir. 1991) (claim preclusion properly raised by amended answer filed less than three months after state court judgment and one week before defendant's summary judgment motion).

(n7)Footnote 6. Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182, 83 S. Ct. 227, 9 L. Ed. 2d 222 (1962) .

(n8)Footnote 7. See Atiya v. Salt Lake County, 988 F.2d 1013, 1017-1018 (10th Cir. 1993) .

(n9)Footnote 1. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); see Brzostowski v. Laidlaw Waste Sys., 49 F.3d 337, 338 (7th Cir. 1995) (trial court's dismissal on claim preclusion grounds).

(n10)Footnote 2. Thompson v. County of Franklin, 15 F.3d 245, 253 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n11)Footnote 3. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56; see Meshulam v. GMC, 995 F.2d 192, 194-195 (11th Cir. 1993) (summary judgment on basis of res judicata was proper since there were no triable issues of fact).

(n12)Footnote 4. Woods v. Dunlop Tire Corp., 972 F.2d 36, 38-39 (2d Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1053 (1993) .

(n13)Footnote 5. Lesher v. Lavrich, 784 F.2d 193, 195-196 (6th Cir. 1986) (when state court action was on appeal at time district court entered judgment, preclusion claim could be raised on appeal).

(n14)Footnote 6. Cotton States Mut. Ins. Co. v. Anderson, 749 F.2d 663, 665-666 (11th Cir. 1984) .

(n15)Footnote 7. Hart Steel Co. v. Railroad Supply Co., 244 U.S. 294, 298-299, 37 S. Ct. 506, 61 L. Ed. 1148 (1917) .

(n16)Footnote 1. Plaut v. Spendthrift Farm, Inc., 514 U.S. 211, 228, 115 S. Ct. 1447, 1459, 131 L. Ed. 2d 328 (1995) (indicating claim preclusion as significant source for courts' independence).

(n17)Footnote 2. State of Nevada Employees Ass'n, Inc. v. Keating, 903 F.2d 1223, 1225-1226 (9th Cir. 1990) , cert. denied, 498 U.S. 999 (1990) (sua sponte application of preclusion not proper when court did not allow briefing on issue).

(n18)Footnote 1. See Underwriters Nat'l Assurance Co. v. North Carolina Life & Accident & Health Ins. Guar. Ass'n, 455 U.S. 691, 102 S. Ct. 1357, 71 L. Ed. 2d 558 (1982) .

(n19)Footnote 2. Sherman v. Kirshman, 369 F.2d 886, 889 (2d Cir. 1966) .

(n20)Footnote 3. See 28 U.S.C. § 2201 et seq.

(n21)Footnote 4. See 28 U.S.C. § 2202.

(n22)Footnote 5. Harborside Refrigerated Servs., Inc. v. Vogel, 959 F.2d 368, 372 (2d Cir. 1992) .

(n23)Footnote 5.1. Empire Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. J. Transp., Inc., 880 F.2d 1291, 1296 (11th Cir. 1989) ; see Gutherman v. 7-Eleven, Inc., 278 F. Supp. 2d 1374, 1377 (S.D. Fla. 2003) .

(n24)Footnote 6. Minneapolis Auto Parts Co. v. City of Minneapolis, 739 F.2d 408, 410 (8th Cir. 1984) .

(n25)Footnote 7. Gant v. Grand Lodge of Tex., 12 F.3d 998, 1003 (10th Cir. 1993) .

(n26)Footnote 8. Duvall v. AG of the United States, 436 F.3d 382, 389 n.6 (3d Cir. 2006) .

(n27)Footnote 9. Astoria Fed. Sav. and Loan Ass'n v. Solimino, 501 U.S. 104, 107, 111 S. Ct. 2166, 115 L. Ed. 2d 96 (1991) .

(n28)Footnote 9.1. Iowa Network Servs. v. Qwest Corp., 363 F.3d 683, 689 (8th Cir. 2004) .

(n29)Footnote 10. United States v. Utah Constr. & Mining Co., 384 U.S. 394, 422, 86 S. Ct. 1545, 16 L. Ed. 2d 642 (1966) ; see Astoria Fed. Sav. and Loan Ass'n v. Solimino, 501 U.S. 104, 107, 111 S. Ct. 2166, 115 L. Ed. 2d 96 (1991) .

(n30)Footnote 11. Kremer v. Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 484-485, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 (1982) ; see, e.g., Dohmen v. Twin Rivers Pub. Sch., 207 F. Supp. 2d 972, 987 (D. Neb. 2002) (claim and issue preclusion properly apply to administrative determination under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, 20 U.S.C. § 1415(f)).

(n31)Footnote 12. *Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440, 126 S. Ct. 1204, 163 L. Ed. 2d 1038, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 1814, *6-7 (2006) ; United Steelworkers of Am. v. Warrior & Gulf Nav. Co., 363 U.S. 574, 581-582, 80 S. Ct. 1347, 4 L. Ed. 2d 1409 (1960) .

(n32)Footnote 13. 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq.

(n33)Footnote 14. 9 U.S.C. § 2.

(n34)Footnote 14.1. See United States Postal Serv. v. Gregory, 534 U.S. 1, 15-16 122 S. Ct. 431, 151 L. Ed. 2d 323 (2001) ; Anchor Glass Container Corp. v. Buschmeier, 426 F.3d 872, 874 (7th Cir. 2005) .

(n35)Footnote 14.2. *Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440, 126 S. Ct. 1204, 163 L. Ed. 2d 1038, 2006 U.S. LEXIS 1814, 7 (2006) .

(n36)Footnote 15. Volt Info. Sciences, Inc. v. Board of Trustees, 489 U.S. 468, 109 S. Ct. 1248, 103 L. Ed. 2d 488 (1989) .

(n37)Footnote 16. See, e.g., Barrentine v. Arkansas-Best Freight Sys., Inc., 450 U.S. 728, 742-746, 101 S. Ct. 1437, 67 L. Ed. 2d 641 (1981) (Fair Labor Standards Act).

(n38)Footnote 17. Wolf v. Gruntal & Co., 45 F.3d 524, 527 (1st Cir. 1995) .

(n39)Footnote 18. Davis v. Chevy Chase Fin., Ltd., 667 F.2d 160, 172 (D.C. Cir. 1981) .

(n40)Footnote 19. Bell Aerospace Co. Div. of Textron, Inc. v. International Union, United Auto., etc., 500 F.2d 921, 923 (2d Cir. 1974) .

(n41)Footnote 20. Municipal Energy Agency v. Big Rivers Elec. Corp., 804 F.2d 338, 343 (5th Cir. 1986) .

(n42)Footnote 21. 28 U.S.C. § 1651.

(n43)Footnote 22. See 28 U.S.C.S. § 2283.

(n44)Footnote 23. Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon Corp., 486 U.S. 140, 147, 108 S. Ct. 1684, 100 L. Ed. 2d 127

(1988) .

(n45)Footnote 24. In re Diet Drugs Prods. Liab. Litig., 282 F.3d 220, 239 (3d Cir. 2002) (essential prerequisite for applying the relitigation exception is that claims or issues must actually have been decided by the federal court).

(n46)Footnote 25. Wesch v. Folsom, 6 F.3d 1465, 1471 (11th Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 510 U.S. 1046 (1994) .

(n47)Footnote 26. Local Loan Co. v. Hunt, 292 U.S. 234, 239, 54 S. Ct. 695, 78 L. Ed. 1230 (1934) .

146 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
D. CLAIM PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 30.57through 30.69

[Reserved]

§§ 30.57[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.70

§ 30.70 Nature of Issue Preclusionn*

[1] Definition of Issue Preclusion

Issue preclusion, or collateral estoppel as it was previously known, means that an issue, once determined by a valid and final judgment, may not again be litigated by the same parties or privies in a future lawsuit. n1 In other words, issue preclusion applies to preclude relitigation of the same issues in a subsequent case once those issues have already been decided. n2 When an issue of fact or law is actually litigated and determined by a valid and final judgment, and the determination is essential to the judgment, the determination is conclusive in a subsequent action between the parties, whether on the same or a different claim. n3 Issue preclusion deals with the relitigation of issues previously decided, even when those issues arise in a subsequent litigation on a claim not barred by claim preclusion. n4

[2] Purpose of Issue Preclusion Doctrine

The purpose of the issue preclusion doctrine is to conserve judicial resources, relieve litigants of the cost and vexation of multiple lawsuits, prevent inconsistent decisions, and encourage reliance on adjudication by minimizing the possibility of inconsistent decisions. n1 Some courts have noted that issue preclusion also tends to preserve judicial results by preventing inconsistent determinations. n2 The public policy underlying the doctrine is that one fair opportunity to litigate an issue is enough. n3

[3] Issue Preclusion Compared With Other Preclusive Doctrines

[a] Stare Decisis

The doctrine of stare decisis is a general rule that requires courts to follow case precedent in their subsequent decisions. It means that a rule of law decided in a prior case should be followed without reconsideration in all subsequent cases within the same jurisdiction, provided the legal issue was actually argued and decided by the court in the prior case. n1 The purpose of stare decisis is to ensure that fundamental legal principles remain consistent. In this regard, it shares with the issue preclusion doctrine a concern for stability and finality in the judicial system. However, issue preclusion precludes relitigation of issues that were actually decided, while stare decisis is a general doctrine that like circumstances should be decided. Therefore, stare decisis is a more flexible and discretionary concept than issue preclusion. n2 Unlike stare decisis, which applies only to issues of law, issue preclusion also applies to issues of fact. n3 Another important difference between the two doctrines is that stare decisis is not limited to the parties to the original lawsuit or those in privity with the parties, while only a party or privy may be bound by the issue preclusive effect of a prior judgment. n4

[b] Law of the Case

The law of the case doctrine requires that when a court decides an issue, that court and any lower courts should continue to follow that determination during the pendency of that particular case. n5 Unlike issue preclusion, the law of the case is a discretionary doctrine, and need not be applied if there has been an intervening change in the law, new evidence has been discovered, there has been clear error, or if injustice will result. Thus, in contrast to issue preclusion, the law of the case doctrine operates only until a final judgment is obtained, after which it has no relevance, n6 while issue preclusion requires a final judgment as a prerequisite to its application. n7

[c] Claim Preclusion

The primary difference between claim preclusion and issue preclusion is that claim preclusion applies to entire claims for relief, whether litigated or not, while issue preclusion applies only to particular issues that have actually been contested and resolved. n8 Thus, claim preclusion prevents a party from suing on a claim which has been previously litigated to a final judgment by that party or the party's privies and precludes the assertion of any legal theory, cause of action, or defense that could have been asserted in that action. Issue preclusion prevents relitigation of issues actually litigated and necessary for the outcome of the prior suit, even if the current action involves different claims. n9 Additionally, while claim preclusion operates only between the parties to the prior litigation, a stranger to the first action may invoke issue preclusion against a party to that action. n10 Issue preclusion also differs from claim preclusion in that issue preclusion is an equitable doctrine that should be applied only when the alignment of the parties and the legal and factual issues raised warrant it. n11

The doctrine of issue preclusion, unlike claim preclusion, forecloses relitigation of those issues of fact or law that were actually litigated and necessarily decided by a valid and final judgment in a prior action between the parties or their privies, whether on the same or a different claim. n12 On the other hand, issue preclusion does not prohibit a party from litigating issues that were never argued or decided in the prior proceeding. To the extent the cause of action involved in the second proceeding is not "swallowed by the judgment" in the prior suit, the parties under issue preclusion are free to litigate points that were not at issue in the first proceeding, even though those points might have been tendered and decided at that time. n13 This difference allows the application of issue preclusion in some cases when the doctrine of claim preclusion is unavailable. n14

[d] Judicial Estoppel

The doctrine of judicial estoppel generally prohibits a party from asserting a legal or factual position that contradicts or is inconsistent with a prior position taken by the same party. n15 An important similarity between issue preclusion and judicial estoppel is that both doctrines require an identity of issues. Judicial estoppel does not apply if a litigant takes inconsistent positions with respect to issues that are only superficially similar. Thus, apparently inconsistent positions may not be judicially estopped if there is a significant legal difference between the contexts in which the two positions are asserted. n16

However, unlike the doctrine of issue preclusion, judicial estoppel is not concerned with preserving the finality of judgments. Rather, the doctrine of judicial estoppel is intended to prevent improper use of the judicial process, and to promote the orderly administration of justice and regard for the respect owed to judicial proceedings. n16.1 Although judicial estoppel is generally applied to a position taken in a subsequent lawsuit, the doctrine may also bar a party from taking inconsistent positions in the same litigation. n17 Furthermore, judicial estoppel does not require that the issue have been actually litigated in the prior proceeding, while issue preclusion does require that the issue have been actually litigated and decided. Also, federal courts must apply a strict mutuality of parties rule with respect to issue preclusion if the rendering jurisdiction enforces such a rule, but mutuality of parties is not required for judicial estoppel. n18 Therefore, judicial estoppel may apply in a case when neither collateral estoppel nor equitable estoppel would apply. n19

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationDecisionsCollateral EstoppelCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral EstoppelCopyright LawCivil Infringement ActionsCollateral Estoppel & Res JudicataPatent LawPreclusionCollateral EstoppelTax LawFederal Tax Administration & ProcedureCollateral Estoppel & Res JudicataCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.01 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Flaherty v. Lang, 199 F.3d 607, 613 (2d Cir. 1999) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Teamsters Local 282 Pension Trust Fund v. Angelos, 815 F.2d 452, 456 n.3 (7th Cir. 1987) (issues that have been fully and fairly litigated between private parties may not later be relitigated, even though second case involves legal issue fundamentally different from first case).

(n4)Footnote 3. Freeman United Coal Mining Co. v. Office of Workers' Compensation Program, 20 F.3d 289, 293 (7th Cir. 1994) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Pfaff v. Wells Elecs., 5 F.3d 514, 517 (Fed. Cir. 1993) .

(n6)Footnote 1. Allen v. McCurry, 449 U.S. 90, 94, 101 S. Ct. 411, 66 L. Ed. 2d 308 (1980) .

(n7)Footnote 2. Butler v. Pollard, 800 F.2d 223, 225 (10th Cir. 1986) (when trial court erroneously denies preclusion and makes findings inconsistent with earlier findings embarrassment of inconsistent findings occurs).

(n8)Footnote 3. In re Castaneda, 81 B.R. 470, 472 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1988) .

(n9)Footnote 1. Gately v. Massachusetts, 2 F.3d 1221, 1226 (1st Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1082 (1994) .

(n10)Footnote 2. Rodriguez De Quijas v. Shearson/Am. Express, Inc., 490 U.S. 477, 484, 109 S. Ct. 1917, 104 L. Ed. 2d 526 (1989) .

(n11)Footnote 3. Meredith v. Beech Aircraft Corp., 18 F.3d 890, 895 (10th Cir. 1994) .

(n12)Footnote 4. Peregoy v. Amoco Prod. Co., 742 F. Supp. 372, 374 (E.D. Tex. 1990) , aff'd on other grounds, 929 F.2d 196 (5th Cir. 1991) .

(n13)Footnote 5. Arizona v. California, 460 U.S. 605, 618, 103 S. Ct. 1382, 75 L. Ed. 2d 318 (1983) .

(n14)Footnote 6. See Virgin Atl. Airways Ltd. v. National Mediation Bd., 956 F.2d 1245, 1255 (2d Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 820 (1992) .

(n15)Footnote 7. SEC v. Ridenour, 913 F.2d 515, 518 (8th Cir. 1990) .

(n16)Footnote 8. Lawlor v. National Screen Serv. Corp., 349 U.S. 322, 326, 75 S. Ct. 865, 99 L. Ed. 1122 (1955) (unlike claim preclusion, issue preclusion does not depend on whether claim is same as in first action).

(n17)Footnote 9. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 326 n.5, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) (citing Moore's Federal Practice; difference between res judicata (claim preclusion) and collateral estoppel (issue preclusion)).

(n18)Footnote 10. Columbia Steel Fabricators, Inc. v. Ahlstrom Recovery, 44 F.3d 800, 802 (9th Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 864 (1995) (issue preclusion does not require that the party benefitting have been a party to the earlier litigation).

(n19)Footnote 11. Copeland v. Merrill Lynch & Co., 47 F.3d 1415, 1423 (5th Cir. 1995) ; see Olmstead v. Amoco Oil Co., 725 F.2d 627, 632 (11th Cir. 1984) (no equitable exceptions to claim preclusion doctrine).

(n20)Footnote 12. In re Duncan, 713 F.2d 538, 541 (9th Cir. 1983) .

(n21)Footnote 13. Sea-Land Servs. v. Gaudet, 414 U.S. 573, 593, 94 S. Ct. 806, 39 L. Ed. 2d 9 (1974) .

(n22)Footnote 14. North River Ins. Co. v. Allstate Ins. Co., 866 F. Supp. 123, 127 (S.D.N.Y. 1994) (res judicata (claim preclusion) prohibits litigation of matters between parties that they may never have argued, so invoking collateral estoppel (issue preclusion) in given case may be permissible when invoking res judicata is not).

(n23)Footnote 15. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-750, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) ; Mintze v. Am. Fin. Servs., Inc. (In re Mintze), 434 F.3d 222, 232 (3d Cir. 2006) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n24)Footnote 16. Folio v. City of Clarksburg, 134 F.3d 1211, 1217-1218 (4th Cir. 1998) (declining to apply doctrine of judicial estoppel because contentions that assessment was not a tax under state law but was a tax under federal law were not actually inconsistent).

(n25)Footnote 16.1. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-751, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) .

(n26)Footnote 17. Morris v. California, 966 F.2d 448, 452 (9th Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 831 (1992) .

(n27)Footnote 18. Lowery v. Stovall, 92 F.3d 219, 223 n.3 (4th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1113 (1996) .

(n28)Footnote 19. Allen v. Zurich Ins. Co., 667 F.2d 1162, 1166-1167 (4th Cir. 1982) .

148 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.71

§ 30.71 Summary of Requirements for Issue Preclusionn*

Issue preclusion applies if all of the following are true: n1 (1) the issue decided in the prior proceeding is identical with the issue presented in the current proceeding; n2 (2) the issue in the prior proceeding was actually litigated and was necessary to a final adjudication which was determined on the merits; n3 (3) the party against whom the doctrine is invoked was a party to the prior adjudication, or in privity with a party; n4 and (4) the party against whom the doctrine is raised had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in the prior action. n5 It is important to remember that unlike res judicata, issue preclusion does not bar a litigant from subsequently pursuing issues that were not raised in the first proceeding, even though the issue could have been raised. n6

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.01 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. B-S Steel of Kan. v. Tex. Indus., 439 F.3d 653, 662 (10th Cir. 2006) ; see Uzdavines v. Weeks Marine, Inc., 418 F.3d 138, 146 (2d Cir. 2005) .

(n3)Footnote 2. See § 30.72.

(n4)Footnote 3. See §§ 30.73, 30.75, 30.76.

(n5)Footnote 4. See § 30.77[1].

(n6)Footnote 5. See § 30.74.

(n7)Footnote 6. Kaspar Wire Works, Inc. v. Leco Eng. & Mach., Inc., 575 F.2d 530, 535-536 (5th Cir. 1978) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.72

§ 30.72 Identity of Issuesn*

[1] Requirement of Identical Issues in Both Proceedings

The doctrine of issue preclusion provides that a party may not dispute a right, question, or fact in a subsequent suit when the matter has particularly been put in issue in a prior proceeding and directly determined by a court of competent jurisdiction as a ground of recovery. n1 The doctrine applies only when the issues presented in each matter are identical. n2 This requirement means exact identity between the issues in the prior and current litigation n3 and merely similar issues do not qualify. n4 For example, issue preclusion does not require that interpretation of one written agreement be given to another agreement, even when the terms are very similar. n5 Moreover, issue preclusion does not apply when different statutes are applicable to a determination, even though the statutes are very similar in their significant terms. n6 In some instances, a court specifies that it is not deciding a specific issue; this practice may facilitate a later determination of the delineation of an issue for purposes of issue preclusion. n7

An issue decided in a criminal case conviction may form the basis for relitigation of the issue in a subsequent civil proceeding; however, issue preclusion is not appropriate if the issue sought to be precluded was not an element of the offense for which the conviction was obtained. n8

[2] Definition of Issue for Issue Preclusion Purposes

The starting point in a issue preclusion analysis is a determination of the precise issues that were litigated in the first action. n1 An "issue" for purposes of issue preclusion is a single, certain and material point arising out of the allegations and contentions of the parties. n2 An issue may concern only the existence or nonexistence of certain facts, or the legal significance of those facts. n3 Thus, deciding if issue preclusion applies requires a determination of whether there are differences in the two proceedings regarding the issues of facts or issues of law within the context of the specific procedure in which the doctrine of issue preclusion was raised. n4 The reason for categorizing the cases is that although the doctrine is applicable to both issues of fact and issues of law, it is the more readily applied to factual than to legal issues. n5

[3] Factors Considered in Determination of Issue Identity

Some federal courts have adopted guidelines to determine whether there is identity between the issues presented in two proceedings for purposes of issue preclusion, including whether: n1

1. There is a substantial overlap between the evidence or arguments to be advanced in the two proceedings. n2

2. New evidence or argument involves application of the same rule of law as that involved in the prior proceeding. A party may be precluded from relitigating an issue if evidence supporting the party's position on the issue could have been submitted in previously litigation but was not properly raised. n3 A party therefore may not avoid issue preclusion merely by offering evidence in the second proceeding that could have been presented and admitted in the first but was not. n4

3. Pretrial preparation and discovery relating to the matter presented in the first proceeding reasonably could be expected to have encompassed the matter sought to be presented in the second proceeding.

4. The claims involved in the two proceedings are sufficiently related.

[4] Identity of Factual Issues

The general rule that issue preclusion applies only if the issue in the prior litigation is identical to the issue in the subsequent litigation has a corollary which states that if there is a difference in pertinent facts sufficient to substantially change the issue, the doctrine of issue preclusion is inapplicable. This means that if there are differences in facts in the two cases that are essential to a judgment, issue preclusion is inapplicable in a subsequent action raising the same legal issues. n1 Therefore, whether issue preclusion applies depends in part on whether the controlling facts have changed significantly since the earlier judgment. However, a party may not assert a change in controlling facts to avoid issue preclusion when the facts allegedly showing a change in circumstances could have been discovered in the exercise of due diligence. n2

As a practical matter, the determination of whether facts should be considered identical for the purpose of issue preclusion should rely on a number of factors: n3

1. The procedural posture of the factual determination in the prior litigation, such as whether the fact determination was a judicial finding of fact or a jury's answer to an special interrogatory.

2. The discovery, evidence, affidavits, or admissions that supported the factual determination.

3. The relevancy of the factual determination to the substantive law governing the prior litigation, as compared to its relevance in the subsequent litigation.

Thus, the question of whether facts are identical or different is not an abstract inquiry, but rather is always decided in the procedural and legal context of each particular case. n4

[5] Identity of Legal Issues

Issue preclusion does not apply with respect to the determination of a legal issue if the issue presented in the first proceeding significantly differs from that presented in the subsequent proceeding. n1 Thus, the doctrine of issue preclusion does not apply when two relevant statutes under consideration vary in their significant terms. n2 Courts have used slightly differing language to express the principle that legal issues are not "identical" for issue preclusion purposes, including "significantly different," "substantially different," and "demonstrably different." n3 In the same way, if the legal standards governing resolution of issues of fact are significantly different in two cases, issue preclusion does not apply, n4 nor does the doctrine apply if dfferent legal standards involve different burdens of proof, which is a separate ground for denial of issue preclusion. n5

[6] Effect of Length of Time Between Actions

The length of time may be a factor in a determination of whether an issue in a prior case is identical with another issue in a subsequent case. Thus, when an intervening time period has resulted in a factual change which alters the basis on which the earlier judgment depended, issue preclusion will not apply. n1 On the other hand, the mere passage of time, with out factual changes, between a prior and subsequent litigation does not bar issue preclusion. n2 Additionally, even if there is a factual change involved in the two proceedings because the events took place at different times, a court may order an issue precluded if there is a substantial overlap between the evidence or issues. n3

[7] Intervening Change in Law

The general rule that issue preclusion applies only if the issue in the prior litigation is identical to the issue in a subsequent litigation, n1 has a corollary which states that if an intervening change of law creates a change in the controlling legal principles governing a case, issue preclusion is no longer applicable. n2 After a significant change in law, issue preclusion no longer applies, n3 even though the issue has been actually litigated and determined by a valid and final judgment, and the determination was essential to the judgment. n4

The Supreme Court has held that issue preclusion is made inapplicable only if there have been "major changes in the law" relevant to the issue under consideration. n5 Whether issue preclusion applies depends on whether the legal principles have changed significantly since the earlier judgment. n6 The Court's use of the expression "major changes in the law," in this context indicates that a court must consider the significance of the change in the context of facts and in view of the underlying rationale for the issue preclusion doctrine, including judicial economy, finality, and prevention of repetitive litigation. n7 The change in law exception to the issue preclusion principle applies to change in case law precedent as well as revision to statutes. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.02 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Haberer v. Woodbury County, 188 F.3d 957, 961 (8th Cir. 1999) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Brewster of Lynchburg v. Dial Corp., 33 F.3d 355, 364 (4th Cir. 1994) ; Disabled Am. Veterans v. Commissioner, 942 F.2d 309, 313 (6th Cir. 1991) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Victory Highway Village, Inc. v. Weaver, 634 F.2d 1099, 1101 (8th Cir. 1980) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Shapley v. Nevada Bd. of State Prison Comm'rs, 766 F.2d 404, 408 (9th Cir. 1985) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Phipps v. United States, 515 F.2d 1099, 1100 (Ct. Cl. 1975) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Shriners Hosp. for Crippled Children v. United States, 14 Cl. Ct. 51, 55 (1987) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Hydranautics v. FilmTec Corp., 204 F.3d 880, 885-887 (9th Cir. 2000) (in action alleging malicious prosecution of patent infringement case, issue of whether underlying patent had been obtained by fraud was not precluded by judgment in infringement case, because court entering that judgment expressly stated that it was not addressing that specific issue).

(n9)Footnote 8. SEC v. Zandford, 238 F.3d 559, 562 (4th Cir. 2001) , cert. granted, 534 U.S. 1015 (2001) .

(n10)Footnote 1. Flaherty v. Lang, 199 F.3d 607, 613 (2d Cir. 1999) .

(n11)Footnote 2. Paine & Williams Co. v. Baldwin Rubber Co., 113 F.2d 840, 843 (6th Cir. 1940) .

(n12)Footnote 3. Overseas Motors, Inc. v. Import Motors Ltd., 375 F. Supp. 499, 518 n.66 (E.D. Mich. 1974), aff'd on other grounds, 519 F.2d 119 (6th Cir. 1975) , cert. denied, 423 U.S. 987 (1975) .

(n13)Footnote 4. See [4], [5], below.

(n14)Footnote 5. Rekhi v. Wildwood Indus., Inc., 61 F.3d 1313, 1317 (7th Cir. 1995) .

(n15)Footnote 1. Valley Disposal, Inc. v. Central Vt. Solid Waste Mgmt. Dist., 31 F.3d 89, 97-99 (2d Cir. 1994) ; Starker v. United States, 602 F.2d 1341, 1344 (9th Cir. 1979) .

(n16)Footnote 2. See Valley Disposal, Inc. v. Central Vt. Solid Waste Mgmt. Dist., 31 F.3d 89, 97-99 (2d Cir. 1994) .

(n17)Footnote 3. Yamaha Corp. v. United States, 961 F.2d 245, 257 (D.C. Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1078 (1993) .

(n18)Footnote 4. Yamaha Corp. v. United States, 961 F.2d 245, 254-255 (D.C. Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 1078 (1993) .

(n19)Footnote 1. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 159, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n20)Footnote 2. Klein v. Commissioner, 880 F.2d 260, 263 (10th Cir. 1989) .

(n21)Footnote 3. See, e.g., Starker v. United States, 602 F.2d 1341, 1344 (9th Cir. 1979) .

(n22)Footnote 4. In Re Hart, 130 B.R. 817 842 (N.D. Ind. 1991) .

(n23)Footnote 1. Pace v. Bogalusa City Sch. Bd., 403 F.3d 272, 290 (5th Cir. 2005) .

(n24)Footnote 2. Shriners Hosp. for Crippled Children v. United States, 14 Cl. Ct. 51, 55 (1987) .

(n25)Footnote 3. Pace v. Bogalusa City Sch. Bd., 403 F.3d 272, 290 fn 90 (5th Cir. 2005) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n26)Footnote 4. Metromedia Co. v. Fugazy, 983 F.2d 350, 365 (2d Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 508 U.S. 952 (1992) .

(n27)Footnote 5. Zip Dee, Inc. v. Dometic Corp., 886 F. Supp. 1427, 1440 (N.D. Ill. 1995) .

(n28)Footnote 1. Texas Pig Stands, Inc. v. Hard Rock Cafe Int'l, 951 F.2d 684, 691 (5th Cir. 1992) .

(n29)Footnote 2. International Shoe Mach. Corp. v. United Shoe Mach. Corp., 315 F.2d 449, 455 (1st Cir. 1963) , cert. denied, 375 U.S. 820 (1963) .

(n30)Footnote 3. Doschadis v. Anamosa Community School District, 13 F. Supp. 2d 945, 949 (N.D. Iowa 1998) .

(n31)Footnote 1. See [5], above; Pace v. Bogalusa City Sch. Bd., 403 F.3d 272, 290 (5th Cir. 2005) .

(n32)Footnote 2. Burlington N. R.R. v. Hyundai Merchant Marine Co., 63 F.3d 1227, 1238 (3d Cir. 1995) .

(n33)Footnote 3. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 160, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) .

(n34)Footnote 4. Comm'r v. Sunnen, 333 U.S. 591, 599, 68 S. Ct. 715, 92 L. Ed. 898 (1948) .

(n35)Footnote 5. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 161, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) .

(n36)Footnote 6. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 155, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) .

(n37)Footnote 7. Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 161-162, 99 S. Ct. 970, 59 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1979) .

(n38)Footnote 8. Franklin County Convention Facilities Auth. v. American Premier Underwriters, Inc., 240 F.3d 534, 550-552 (6th Cir. 2001) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.73

§ 30.73 Prior Litigation Requirementsn*

[1] Requirement of Actual Litigation of Issues

[a] Nature of Actual Litigation

For issue preclusion to apply, the particular issue in the prior proceeding must have been actually litigated by parties. n1 In other words, the determination of an issue that has not been litigated in one proceeding is not barred in a later proceeding. n2 This is one of the variances of issue preclusion with claim preclusion, in that issue preclusion applies only to issues that were directly litigated and not to those that merely could have been litigated. n3

In determining whether a particular issue was actually litigated, it is controlling if the court in the previous action specified that a particular issue was not considered. n4 If a court cannot ascertain what was actually litigated, the court may not apply issue preclusion. n5 The burden of persuasion to establish the prerequisites of issue preclusion is on the party seeking preclusion. n6 Therefore, if the party seeking preclusion does not produce evidence that an issue was actually litigated in a prior litigation, that party will not have met its burden and issue preclusion should be denied in the second proceeding. n7

[b] Methods of Actual Litigation

A court's express finding on an issue in a valid judgment is enough to satisfy the litigation requirement of issue preclusion. n8 In determining which issues have been actually litigated, the federal court may look beyond the judgment and may consider the pleadings and the evidence in the prior action. n9 However, a court may not take evidence from the judge in the earlier suit to determine the meaning of the written judgment and determinations of the prior court. n10

A question of fact is actually litigated when put in issue by the pleadings, submitted to the trier of fact for its determination, and actually determined by the trier of fact. n11 In the appropriate circumstances, an issue that was clearly litigated may include by implication a connected issue. For example, an inference may be made that a court litigated and determined an issue if the party raising issue preclusion was unsuccessful on the matter based on that issue in the first action, but would have prevailed if the court had decided in its favor on the issue under consideration. In other words, when the issue for which preclusion is sought is the only rational one that the fact finder could have found, then that issue is considered foreclosed by implication, even if no explicit finding of that issue has been made. n12 On the other hand, an issue that was raised by the pleadings but abandoned is deemed not actually litigated for purposes of issue preclusion. n13

[c] Sufficiency of Particular Devices as Litigation

[i] Stipulation of Parties

For issue preclusion purposes, an issue is not deemed to be "actually litigated" if it is the subject of a stipulation between the parties. n14 This means that if an issue has been established in a prior proceeding not by judicial resolution but by stipulation, the issue is deemed as not having been actually litigated, and therefore is the proper subject of proof in a subsequent proceeding. n15 Several courts have recognized, however, that issue preclusion should not necessarily be inapplicable merely because a party has entered into a stipulation. n16 Consequently, the rule has developed that a stipulation may be binding in a subsequent action between the parties provided that the parties have manifested an intention to that effect. n17 However, an intention to be bound to a stipulation may not be merely be inferred. If the evidence does not support a finding of intent, the parties will not be held to an issue included in a stipulation. n18

[ii] Consent Judgments

A consent judgment is treated in a manner similar to a stipulation. n19 Thus, issue preclusion generally does not apply when the issues sought to be precluded in a subsequent proceeding were allegedly determined in a judgment by consent. n20 The rationale for this rule is that, in a judgment entered by consent, none of the issues is actually litigated at a hearing or other determination of the merits by the court itself. n21 Issues that were addressed only in the trial court's adoption of a consent agreement, and were not contested or litigated, may be litigated in a subsequent action. n22

However the judgment may be conclusive with respect to one or more issues, if the parties have entered an agreement manifesting that intention, as is the rule with stipulations n23 This exception to the general rule that a consent judgment is not given issue preclusive effect is effective when the parties to a consent judgment intended to foreclose an issue from future litigation. n24 If the parties to a consent decree express clearly the intention that the decree to be entered does not only terminate the litigation of claims, but also determines finally certain issues, then their intention will be given effect by the courts. n25

The contractual nature of consent judgments dictates that the intent of the settling parties controls the determination whether a consent judgment is given issue preclusive effect. The district court's interpretation of the intent of the parties controls ambiguous passages in a consent judgment. n26 However, a consent judgment may not be given issue preclusive effect unless the party pleading issue preclusion proves from the record of the prior case or through extrinsic evidence that the parties intended the consent judgment to operate as a final adjudication of a particular issue. n27

[iii] Summary Judgments

Issue preclusion generally applies when the prior determination is based on a motion for summary judgment rather than a full-fledged trial. n28 Some courts qualify the application of issue preclusion to those circumstances in which the party currently objecting to issue preclusion had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in question in the previous proceeding. For example, one court applied issue preclusion when a party failed to demonstrate that the party did not have a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in question. The court held that the objections he raised with respect to the issue preclusive effect of the previous determination should have been raised in an earlier appeal. n29 When an issue is raised and determined on a motion for summary judgment, and the trial court's ruling is essential to its decision, the requirements for issue preclusion are met. n30

[iv] Default Judgments

A default judgment is based on the policy that a defaulting defendant is deemed to have admitted plaintiff's allegations with respect to all the issues except damages. However, in the typical default case, none of the issues is actually litigated. Therefore, the general rule is that a default judgment rendered by a federal court will not support the application of issue preclusion. n31 However, there are two circumstances in which a default judgment may be given preclusive effect. The first is when the default judgment results from an agreement by the parties. In such cases, a default judgment may be conclusive with respect to one or more issues, provided that the parties have entered an agreement specifying that intention. The general rule against granting preclusive effect is deemed modified by agreement between the parties. n32

The second exception is when a party defaults not out of a failure to appear but by actively participating in the litigation for a period of time and then failing or refusing to follow court orders. n33 Such a party may be prevented from relitigating the issues that had been in contention during the period of participation in the litigation. In such cases of initial participation and later default, a court may conclude that a party that deliberately precludes resolution of issues through normal adjudicative procedures may be bound by issue preclusion in a subsequent proceeding. If so, the actual litigation requirement is satisfied by substantial participation in an adversary contest in which the party is afforded a reasonable opportunity for defense on the merits but chooses not to do so. n34

[v] Dismissal With Prejudice

Generally, a dismissal is not considered to have issue preclusive, in contrast to, claim preclusive effect. Dismissal without prejudice is not considered an adjudication on the merits of a controversy and therefore is not entitled to issue preclusive effect. n35 Even a dismissal with prejudice, which means the party may not relitigate, is also usually deemed as not an adjudication on the merits, because such a dismissal also usually involves no litigation of any issues; therefore, a dismissal with prejudice has no issue preclusive effect. n36

[vi] Admission of Factual Issue

The general rule is that facts determined by admissions and stipulations ordinarily are not entitled to issue preclusive effect, because such facts have not actually been litigated. However, factual determinations made by judge or jury in a case that is actually litigated are not deprived of issue preclusive effect merely because the determinations rest in part on admissions or stipulations. A contrary rule could discourage the use of admissions and stipulations, because that use would deprive the winning party of a judgment that could be used in a subsequent proceeding to preclude relitigation of the facts that had been determined in that party's favor. Furthermore, because an attorney realizes that failure to properly admit facts will possibly subject the attorney to sanctions under Rule 37(c) ensures their reliability as much as a determination by a judge or a jury. n37

[2] Requirement That Issue Was Actually Decided

[a] Statement of Requirement

For purposes of issue preclusion, a judgment is deemed final regarding only those issues actually decided in a prior suit. n1 Therefore, to have preclusive effect in a later action, an issue must have been distinctly put in issue and directly determined in the prior suit. n2 Conversely, an issue that was not in litigation in one action may not be received as conclusively settled in any subsequent action on a different cause because it might have been determined in the first action. n3

The party seeking to preclude relitigation of an issue has the burden of showing that the same issue was actually decided in the prior litigation. n4 An issue directly raised in the pleadings, addressed by the parties, and decided by the court, is "actually decided"; n5 the mere fact that an issue is raised in a pleading does not establish that the issue was actually litigated and determined. n6

[b] Ambiguous Decisions on Issue

A decision that is ambiguous regarding the issue under consideration or that does not specify the issue will not be given issue preclusive effect because the decision does not decide that issue. n7 If there is no showing with regard to the issues that were actually decided, issue preclusion does not apply. If the basis of a decision is unclear, and it is therefore uncertain whether the issue was actually and necessarily decided in that litigation, then relitigation of the issue is not precluded. n8 The significance of what a court states that it decides is limited by the power and jurisdiction that the court has to decide particular issues. n9

[c] Implied Decision on Issue

A court may deem an issue "actually decided" for issue-preclusion purposes, even if it was not explicitly decided, provided that the issue either logically or practically constituted a necessary component of the decision reached in the prior litigation. n10 Thus, an issue that was necessarily implicit in a larger determination is given issue preclusive effect. n11 An issue that is distinctly presented in the pleadings and necessarily resolved may be reflected in the decision that encompasses that issue, even though the determination of the issue is not expressly stated in the decision. n12

[d] Verdicts

It may be difficult to determine what issues were actually decided when a jury submits a general verdict. n13 Consequently, most courts criticize the use of general verdict forms in large and complex cases involving many legal issues. n14 A better practice is for the court to require special verdicts or the submission of interrogatories to the jury pursuant to Rule 49. n15 In that way, the right to a jury trial of all factual issues is preserved, and the likelihood of a lengthy and expensive retrial is reduced. The court noted that the use of a special verdict form or interrogatories may also ease the task of reviewing a complex case. n16 If the court can determine that an issue was decided in a special verdict, even if the decision was by necessary implication, issue preclusion is applicable. n17 On the other hand, a compromise verdict makes it impracticable to determine whether a particular issue was actually decided, and it has generally been held that this type of verdict is an insufficient basis from which to conclude that an issue involved in compromise was actually decided. n18

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.03 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Arkla, Inc. v. United States, 37 F.3d 621, 624 (Fed. Cir. 1994) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Wu v. Thomas, 863 F.2d 1543, 1548-1549 (11th Cir. 1989) (in second employment discrimination suit under federal law, neither pleadings nor pretrial order in first suit actually raised issue of retaliation, which therefore was not barred in second suit).

(n4)Footnote 3. Lovell v. Mixon, 719 F.2d 1373, 1376 (8th Cir. 1983) (collateral estoppel did not preclude consideration of intentional fraud, which had never been litigate in bankruptcy court).

(n5)Footnote 4. McCluney v. Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., 515 F. Supp. 700, 702 (E.D. Wis. 1981) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Mitchell v. Humana Hosp.-Shoals, 942 F.2d 1581, 1583-1584 (11th Cir. 1991) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Lundborg v. Phoenix Leasing, Inc., 91 F.3d 265, 272 (1st Cir. 1996) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Lundborg v. Phoenix Leasing, Inc., 91 F.3d 265, 272 (1st Cir. 1996) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Grip-Pak, Inc. v. Illinois Tool Works, Inc., 694 F.2d 466, 469 (7th Cir. 1982) , cert. denied, 461 U.S. 958 (1982) .

(n10)Footnote 9. James Talcott, Inc. v. Allahabad Bank, Ltd., 444 F.2d 451, 459 n.7 (5th Cir. 1971) , cert. denied, 404 U.S. 940 (1971) .

(n11)Footnote 10. Grip-Pak, Inc. v. Illinois Tool Works, Inc., 694 F.2d 466, 470 (7th Cir. 1982) , cert. denied, 461 U.S. 958 (1982) .

(n12)Footnote 11. Santopadre v. Pelican Homestead & Sav. Ass'n, 937 F.2d 268, 273 (5th Cir. 1991) .

(n13)Footnote 12. Clark v. Bear Stearns & Co., 966 F.2d 1318, 1321 (9th Cir. 1992) .

(n14)Footnote 13. Adolph Coors Co. v. Commissioner, 519 F.2d 1280, 1283 (10th Cir. 1975) , cert. denied, 423 U.S. 1087 (1975) .

(n15)Footnote 14. Sekaquaptewa v. MacDonald, 575 F.2d 239, 247 (9th Cir. 1978) .

(n16)Footnote 15. Otherson v. Department of Justice, 711 F.2d 267, 274 (D.C. Cir. 1983) .

(n17)Footnote 16. GAF Corp. v. Eastman Kodak Co., 519 F. Supp. 1203, 1213 (S.D.N.Y. 1981) .

(n18)Footnote 17. Green v. Ancora-Citronelle Corp., 577 F.2d 1380, 1383 (9th Cir. 1978) .

(n19)Footnote 18. Red Lake Band v. United States, 607 F.2d 930, 934 (Ct. Cl. 1979) .

(n20)Footnote 19. See [i], above.

(n21)Footnote 20. Gall v. South Branch Nat'l Bank of S.D., 783 F.2d 125, 127 (8th Cir. 1986) .

(n22)Footnote 21. Klingman v. Levinson, 831 F.2d 1292, 1296 (7th Cir. 1987) .

(n23)Footnote 22. People Who Care v. Rockford Bd. of Educ., 68 F.3d 172, 178 (7th Cir. 1995) .

(n24)Footnote 23. See [i], above.

(n25)Footnote 24. Franco v. Selective Ins. Co., 184 F.3d 4, 9-10 (1st Cir. 1999) .

(n26)Footnote 25. Klingman v. Levinson, 831 F.2d 1292, 1296 (7th Cir. 1987) .

(n27)Footnote 26. Ewart v. Y & A Group (In re Y & A Group Sec. Litig.), 38 F.3d 380, 383 (8th Cir. 1994) .

(n28)Footnote 27. Balbirer v. Austin, 790 F.2d 1524, 1528 (11th Cir. 1986) .

(n29)Footnote 28. Scripps Clinic and Research Found. v. Baxter Travenol, 729 F. Supp. 1473, 1475 (D. Del. 1990) .

(n30)Footnote 29. Stevenson v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 713 F.2d 705, 712 (Fed. Cir. 1983) .

(n31)Footnote 30. Jarvis v. Nobel/Sysco Food Serv. Co., 985 F.2d 1419, 1425 (10th Cir. 1993) .

(n32)Footnote 31. United States v. Ringley, 750 F.Supp. 750, 758-759 (W.D. Va. 1990) ; see Kennedy v. Mendoza-Martinez, 372 U.S. 144, 157, 83 S. Ct. 554, 9 L. Ed. 2d 644 (1963) (noting that requirement that issue must be actually litigated and decided applies in default judgment cases).

(n33)Footnote 32. See Barber v. International Bhd. Of Boilermakers, Dist. Lodge No. 57, 778 F.2d 750, 757 (11th Cir. 1985) .

(n34)Footnote 33. Insurance Corp. of Ireland, Ltd. v. Compagnie Des Bauxites de Guinee, 456 U.S. 694, 706, 102 S. Ct. 2099, 72 L. Ed. 2d 492 (1982) (defendant may take default and then challenge judgment on jurisdictional grounds); see, e.g., Wolstein v. Docteroff (In re Docteroff), 133 F.3d 210, 215 (3rd Cir. 1997) .

(n35)Footnote 34. Rally Hill Prods., Inc. v. Bursack (In re Bursack), 65 F.3d 51, 55 (6th Cir. 1995) ; Rountrey v. Lee (In re Lee), 90 B.R. 202, 206 (Bankr. E.D. Va. 1988) .

(n36)Footnote 35. In re Duncan, 713 F.2d 538, 544 (9th Cir. 1983) .

(n37)Footnote 36. Wileman Bros. & Elliott, Inc. v. Giannini, 909 F.2d 332, 336-337 n.8 (9th Cir. 1990) (dismissal for failure to exhaust administrative remedies did not have issue preclusive effect because earlier case was dismissed and issue was never decided); St. Vincent's Hosp. v. Division of Human Rights, 553 F. Supp. 375, 379 (S.D.N.Y. 1982) (when plaintiff requested dismissal with prejudice of state and federal employment discrimination claims in state suit removed to federal court, dismissal did not have issue preclusive effect on state administrative proceeding investigating same issues).

(n38)Footnote 37. Kairys v. INS, 981 F.2d 937, 941 (7th Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 507 U.S. 1024 (1993) (most factual determinations are based on admissions or stipulations).

(n39)Footnote 1. Jim Beam Brands Co. v. Beamish & Crawford Ltd., 937 F.2d 729, 734 (2d Cir. 1991) , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1094 (1991) .

(n40)Footnote 2. Haring v. Prosise, 462 U.S. 306, 315, 103 S. Ct. 2368, 76 L. Ed. 2d 595 (1983) (issue has preclusive effect only if decision or verdict rests on its determination with regard to those matters in issue or points controverted in first proceeding); Haberer v. Woodbury County, 188 F.3d 957, 961 (8th Cir. 1999) (issue has preclusive effect only if particularly put in issue in prior proceeding and directly determined by court of competent jurisdiction as ground of recovery); In re Freeman, 30 F.3d 1459, 1466 (Fed. Cir. 1994) (requirement that issue have been actually decided is satisfied if parties to original action litigated issue and trier of fact decided issue).

(n41)Footnote 3. Del Mar Avionics, Inc. v. Quinton Instrument Co., 836 F.2d 1320, 1324 (Fed. Cir. 1987) .

(n42)Footnote 4. Connors v. Tanoma Mining Co., 953 F.2d 682, 684 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (party did not meet burden of showing that court of appeals actually decided issue in previous case that opposition was raising in present case).

(n43)Footnote 5. Truck Ins. Exch. v. Ashland Oil, Inc., 951 F.2d 787, 792-793 (7th Cir. 1992) ; see Continental Can Co. v. Marshall, 603 F.2d 590, 596 (7th Cir. 1979) (issue was actually litigated despite imbalance in quantity and quality of evidence introduced).

(n44)Footnote 6. Matter of Troy Dodson Constr. Co., 993 F.2d 1211, 1214 (5th Cir. 1993) .

(n45)Footnote 7. Barnes v. Hodel, 819 F.2d 250, 252 (9th Cir. 1987) , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 1005 (1987) .

(n46)Footnote 8. Connors v. Tanoma Mining Co., 953 F.2d 682, 684-685 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (basis of state court decision unclear).

(n47)Footnote 9. Tutt v. Doby, 459 F.2d 1195, 1198 (D.C. Cir. 1972) (court was without jurisdiction to enter judgment for landlord for amount of rent due; therefore amount of rent due was not before court and not "actually decided").

(n48)Footnote 10. Stoehr v. Mohamed Bin Bander Mohamed Bin Abdul Rahman Al Saud, 244 F.3d 206, 208 (1st Cir. 2001) .

(n49)Footnote 11. Church of Scientology Int'l v. Kolts, 846 F. Supp. 873, 885 n.9 (D.C. Cal. 1994) (absence of due process violation was inferred from denial of motion for recusal).

(n50)Footnote 12. Grubb v. Public Utilities Com., 281 U.S. 470, 477-478, 50 S. Ct. 374, 74 L. Ed. 972 (1930) (constitutional validity of prior court order was litigated and necessarily resolved by implication).

(n51)Footnote 13. Lary v. Ansari, 817 F.2d 1521, 1524-1525 (2d Cir. 1987) , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 964 (1987) (if general verdict was rendered in prior action, it may be necessary in present action to determine certain issue).

(n52)Footnote 14. See, e.g., GAF Corp. v. Eastman Kodak Co., 519 F. Supp. 1203, 1214 (S.D.N.Y. 1981) .

(n53)Footnote 15. Fed. R. Civ. P. 49; see Sea-Land Servs. v. Gaudet, 414 U.S. 573, 592 n.30, 94 S. Ct. 806, 39 L. Ed. 2d 9 (1974) .

(n54)Footnote 16. GAF Corp. v. Eastman Kodak Co., 519 F. Supp. 1203, 1214 (S.D.N.Y. 1981) .

(n55)Footnote 17. Biggins v. Hazen Paper Co., 111 F.3d 205, 210 (1st Cir. 1997) (special verdict form and reasonable inference indicated facts that were determined by jury).

(n56)Footnote 18. Harary v. Blumenthal, 555 F.2d 1113, 1116-1117 (2d Cir. 1977) (question of entrapment was not necessarily determined against government because of compromise verdict).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.74

§ 30.74 Full and Fair Opportunity to Litigate Requirementn*

[1] Party Has Right to Full and Fair Litigation

The determination of an issue may have issue preclusive effect in a later proceeding only if the earlier proceeding afforded the party against whom issue preclusion is asserted a hearing on that issue that complies with due process. n1 For example, the party against whom issue preclusion is invoked must have been fully represented in the prior action. n2

A right, question, or fact distinctly put in issue and directly determined as a ground of recovery by a court of competent jurisdiction precludes a party or the party's privy from relitigating the issue in a subsequent action. Therefore, the doctrine of issue preclusion recognizes that a person may not be bound by a judgment unless the person has had reasonable notice of the claim and an opportunity to be heard in opposition to that claim. n3 The rationale for this rule is that because claim preclusion denies a nonparty its day in court in the second proceeding the party must have had due process protection in the first proceeding. n4 Once a party is afforded a hearing on an issue that comports with due process, a court will make additional inquiry into a hearing's fairness for purposes of issue preclusion only in cases in which fairness concerns are pronounced, on the rationale that if the operation of issue preclusion always necessitated a full blown inquiry into fairness of prior proceedings, the value of preclusion would be greatly diminished, in that it would be more time consuming to litigate the quality of the first litigation than to relitigate the issues themselves. n5

[2] Factors Considered

A court may refuse to apply issue preclusion on the grounds of unfairness when any of the following factors exists: n1

1. The proceedings that form the basis for the issue preclusion assertion involve different forums that afforded litigants disparate measures of procedural protection. n2

2. The prevailing party concealed material information in the first proceeding. n3

3. The issue was not patently relevant to the initial proceeding; therefore, the party that is the subject of the current preclusion assertion had no incentive to litigate vigorously the question in the first proceeding. n4

4. The losing party clearly lacked an incentive to litigate the point in the first trial, but the stakes of the second trial are of a vastly greater magnitude. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.04[1] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Avitia v. Metropolitan Club of Chicago, 924 F.2d 689, 691 (7th Cir. 1991) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Thomas v. GSA, 794 F.2d 661, 664 (Fed. Cir. 1986) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Hardy v. Johns-Manville Sales Corp., 681 F.2d 334, 338 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Blonder-Tongue Lab., Inc. v. University of Ill. Found., 402 U.S. 313, 329, 91 S. Ct. 1434, 28 L. Ed. 2d 788 (1971) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Avitia v. Metropolitan Club of Chicago, 924 F.2d 689, 691 (7th Cir. 1991) .

(n7)Footnote 1. Avitia v. Metropolitan Club of Chicago, 924 F.2d 689, 691 (7th Cir. 1991) .

(n8)Footnote 2. See Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore, 439 U.S. 322, 331 n.15, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) .

(n9)Footnote 3. Cf. Advanced Display Sys., Inc. v. Kent State Univ., 212 F.3d 1272, 1284 (Fed. Cir. 2000) , cert. denied, 532 U.S. 904 (2001) (concealing material evidence in proceeding deprives opposition of fair trial).

(n10)Footnote 4. Cohen v. Bucci, 905 F.2d 1111, 1112 (7th Cir. 1990) .

(n11)Footnote 5. Zip Dee, Inc. v. Dometic Corp., 905 F. Supp. 535, 538 (N.D. Ill. 1995) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.75

§ 30.75 Necessity of Determination of Issuen*

[1] Statement of Requirement

Before a court may apply issue preclusion, the party asserting the doctrine must show that the decision of the issue was necessary to a judgment reached on the merits in the prior litigation. n1 In other words, the issue under consideration must have been essential to the decision in the prior proceeding for issue preclusion to apply in the second proceeding. n2 Or stated conversely, relitigation is allowed if the determination of the issue in the first proceeding was not necessary to the judgment in the first proceeding. n3

When the jury or the court makes findings of fact on an issue, but the judgment is not dependent on those findings, the findings on the issue are not conclusive between the parties in a subsequent action based on a different cause of action. n4 In some instances, an issue may be subsumed in an issue that was explicitly determined in the first proceeding. n5 In order for a determination of fact subsumed in an earlier judgment to be preclusive in a later action, the determination of that issue must also have been necessary to the judgment. n6 The purpose of the "necessarily decided" requirement is to prevent the incidental or collateral determination of a nonessential issue from precluding reconsideration of that issue in later litigation. n7

The circuit courts are not settled on the issue preclusive effects of multiple, alternative grounds for the decision in the first case. Some circuits hold that each alternative ground is deemed necessary for purposes of establishing issue preclusion unless the appellate court affirms on only one ground, in which case only that ground is given preclusive effect, n8 while others hold that neither ground is "necessary" unless an appeal is taken on that ground and the appellate court affirms. n9

[2] Determination of Necessity

To determine which issues were necessarily determined by the judgment in a prior proceeding, the court in the second proceeding should consider any applicable matters in addition to the judgment itself, including the pleadings, the evidence, and the record in the prior proceeding. n1 If the rendering court made no express findings on issues raised by the pleadings or the evidence, the court may infer that in the prior action a determination appropriate to the judgment rendered was made as to each issue that was so raised, and the determination of which was necessary to support the judgment. n2

The Supreme Court has stated that when a court is determining whether to give issue preclusive effect to a prior adjudication which resulted in a jury verdict, the court should consider the record of a prior proceeding, the pleadings, the evidence, the charge, and any other relevant matter, and conclude whether a rational jury could have grounded its verdict on an issue other than that which the defendant seeks to preclude from consideration. n3 Thus, a court considering a prior general verdict may determine whether the jury necessarily decided a central issue by evaluating what was "logically and practically" a necessary component of the verdict, based on the entire record in the prior case. n4

[3] Issues Not Necessary for Prior Judgment

Courts have consistently found that determinations of several types of issues are not necessary to judgments. These determinations are listed here:

1. Inconsistent determinations. When there are multiple, irreconcilable determinations that result in an inconsistent determination with regard to an issue, the determinations do not have issue preclusive effect. n1 When two proceedings have resulted in inconsistent final judgments of the same issue, the general rule is that the later, not the earlier, judgment is entitled to preclusive effect. n2

2. Unclear determinations. When the record is so unclear or vague that it is not possible to ascertain whether the resolution of substantive issues was necessary to reach the decision to dismiss a case, issue preclusion is inapplicable. n3

3. Collateral or incidental determinations. When a court has collaterally or incidentally determined an issue that it would have had no jurisdiction to determine in an action brought directly to determine the issue, the judgment is not conclusive in a subsequent action brought to determine the issue directly. n4 The purpose of the "necessarily decided" requirement is to prevent the incidental or collateral determination of a nonessential issue from precluding reconsideration of that issue in later litigation. n5

4. Unappealable determinations. Issue preclusion is not applicable, and relitigation of an issue is not precluded, if the party against whom issue preclusion is sought could not as a matter of law have taken an appeal of the judgment in the initial action. n6 The limitation that a preclusive finding must be necessary to support a judgment is explained at least in part by the difficulty of obtaining appellate review of unnecessary findings. The essential concept behind this requirement is that it is unfair to preclude relitigation if the party who would be bound by the prior determination had no opportunity for appellate review in the first case. n7

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.03[4] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Benjamin v. Coughlin, 905 F.2d 571, 576 (2d Cir. 1990) , cert. denied, 498 U.S. 951 (1990) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Yates v. United States, 354 U.S. 298, 336, 77 S. Ct. 1064, 1 L. Ed. 2d 1356 (1957) ; see Haberer v. Woodbury County, 188 F.3d 957, 961 (8th Cir. 1999) (determination of issue must be essential to judgment in first proceeding to give issue preclusive effect in second).

(n4)Footnote 3. Segal v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 606 F.2d 842, 845 n.2 (9th Cir. 1979) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Red Lake Band v. United States, 607 F.2d 930, 934 (Ct. Cl. 1979) .

(n6)Footnote 5. National Farmers Union Standard Ins. Co. v. Morgan, 966 F.2d 1250, 1253 (8th Cir. 1992) .

(n7)Footnote 6. McLaughlin v. Bradlee, 803 F.2d 1197, 1201 (D.C. Cir. 1986) .

(n8)Footnote 7. In re Freeman, 30 F.3d 1459, 1466 (Fed. Cir. 1994) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Gelb v. Royal Globe Ins. Co., 798 F.2d 38, 45 (2d Cir. 1986) (when court decides case on two grounds, each has preclusive effect).

(n10)Footnote 9. Ritter v. Mount St. Mary's College, 814 F.2d 986, 993-994 (4th Cir. 1987) .

(n11)Footnote 1. Sullivan v. Gagnier, 225 F.3d 161, 166 (2d Cir. 2000) .

(n12)Footnote 2. Gilldorn Sav. Ass'n v. Commerce Sav. Ass'n, 804 F.2d 390, 395 (7th Cir. 1986) .

(n13)Footnote 3. Ashe v. Swenson, 397 U.S. 436, 444, 90 S. Ct. 1189, 1194, 25 L. Ed. 2d 469 (1970) .

(n14)Footnote 4. Hoult v. Hoult, 157 F.3d 29, 32 (1st Cir. 1998) (record of testimony and jury arguments in prior battery case established that implicit jury finding of rape was necessary component of general verdict sufficient to preclude relitigation of that issue in subsequent defamation case).

(n15)Footnote 1. Standefer v. United States, 447 U.S. 10, 22-23 n.17, 100 S. Ct. 1999, 64 L. Ed. 2d 689 (1980) .

(n16)Footnote 2. Metromedia Co. v. Fugazy, 983 F.2d 350, 366 (2d Cir. 1992) .

(n17)Footnote 3. Fay v. South Colonie Cent. Sch. Dist., 802 F.2d 21, 30 (2d Cir. 1986) .

(n18)Footnote 4. Tutt v. Doby, 459 F.2d 1195, 1198 (D.C. Cir. 1972) .

(n19)Footnote 5. In re Freeman, 30 F.3d 1459, 1466 (Fed. Cir. 1994) .

(n20)Footnote 6. Warner/Elektra/Atlantic Corp. v. County of DuPage, 991 F.2d 1280, 1282 (7th Cir. 1993) .

(n21)Footnote 7. Gelb v. Royal Globe Ins. Co., 798 F.2d 38, 44 (2d Cir. 1986) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.76

§ 30.76 Finality of Judgment in First Proceedingn*

[1] Requirement of Final Judgment

Issue preclusion is applicable only if the judgment or decision necessarily deciding the issue in the first proceeding was "final." n1 However, finality for purposes of issue preclusion is not synonymous with finality for purposes of the statutory appealability of a judgment. Thus, there is no requirement that the judgment ends the litigation and leaves nothing for the court to do but execute the judgment. n2 Rather, for purposes of issue preclusion, the term "final judgment" includes any prior adjudication of an issue in another action that is determined to be sufficiently firm to have conclusive effect. n3 Factors to consider in determining whether a decision was adequately firm include whether: the parties were completely heard, the court supported its decision with a reasoned opinion, and the decision was subject to appeal. n4

For example, in the context of a declaratory judgment action, once the trial court has ruled on the issues submitted to it, either granting or denying declaratory relief, the court's grant or denial is deemed final for issue-preclusion purposes. The court's express refusal to decide certain issues does not deprive the declaratory judgment of finality, because the court in a declaratory relief action has discretion to refuse to decide any or all issues. n5 On the other hand, a magistrate judge's order does not qualify as a final judgment sufficient to have issue preclusive effect, because a magistrate judge's order has not been fully litigated and becomes final only if the district court makes it final. n6 A judgment loses its issue-preclusive effect when it is reversed and remanded on appeal. n7

[2] Finality of Justiciability Determinations

If a court enters a final judgment dismissing a claim for lack of jurisdiction or lack of venue, the judgment is not claim preclusive in that a party may subsequently bring the claim in a court of competent jurisdiction or proper venue. n1 However, such a judgment is considered issue preclusive, and bars relitigation of the issues actually litigated and necessarily decided in the judgment. n2 Thus, a dismissal for lack of personal jurisdiction precludes subsequent litigation of issues necessarily decided by the court in dismissing the first action. n3 Although dismissal of a complaint for lack of jurisdiction does not adjudicate the merits and therefore may not be given claim preclusive effect as to the claim that was asserted but dismissed, it does adjudicate the court's jurisdiction, and if a second complaint is filed the court may not reconsider the same jurisdictional issue. n4

Issue preclusion also applies to standing determinations. When a prior action has determined that a plaintiff lacks standing to bring a particular claim, the plaintiff should be bound by the prior determination of the issue in a subsequent action in which the same standing issue arises. The treatment of standing in this regard is similar to that afforded jurisdictional issues. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 132.03[5] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Kosinski v. Comm'r, 541 F.3d 671, 676 (6th Cir. 2008) ; Abbott Labs. v. Andrx Pharms., Inc., 473 F.3d 1196, 1204 (Fed. Cir. 2007) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Metromedia Co. v. Fugazy, 983 F.2d 350, 366 (2d Cir. 1992) ; see 28 U.S.C. § 1291.

(n4)Footnote 3. Martin v. DOJ, 488 F.3d 446, 455 (D.C. Cir. 2007) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Abbott Labs. v. Andrx Pharms., Inc., 473 F.3d 1196, 1204 (Fed. Cir. 2007) (preclusion should be refused if decision in prior proceeding was merely tentative.

(n6)Footnote 5. Henglein v. Colt Indus., 260 F.3d 201, 210-211 (3d Cir. 2001) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Stripling v. Jordan Prod. Co., 234 F.3d 863, 868 (5th Cir. 2000) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Kosinski v. Comm'r, 541 F.3d 671, 676 (6th Cir. 2008) ; P&G v. Amway Corp., 242 F.3d 539, 546 (5th Cir. 2001) .

(n9)Footnote 1. See Haywood v. Drown, ___ U.S. ___, 129 S. Ct. 2108, 173 L. Ed. 2d 920, 947 (2009) ; Coors Brewing Co. v. Mendez Torres, 562 F.3d 3, 9 (1st Cir. 2009) .

(n10)Footnote 2. Nunes v. Ashcroft, 375 F.3d 805, 809-810 (9th Cir. 2004) ; Muniz Cortes v. Intermedics, Inc., 229 F.3d 12, 14-15 (1st Cir. 2000) .

(n11)Footnote 3. Commercial Corp. v. Applebee's Int'l, Inc., 245 F.3d 1203, 1208-1212 (10th Cir. 2001) .

(n12)Footnote 4. North Ga. Elec. Membership Corp. v. City of Calhoun, 989 F.2d 429, 432-433 (11th Cir. 1993) .

(n13)Footnote 5. McCarney v. Ford Motor Co., 657 F.2d 230, 232-234 n.65 (8th Cir. 1981) (standing determination does not reach merits, but involves questions of justiciability and is quasi-jurisdictional in nature).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.77

§ 30.77 Procedural Considerations Regarding Issue Preclusionn*

[1] Party Considerations

[a] Requirement of Privity

Two of the requirements in the four-part test for issue preclusion involve parties to the prior and current proceeding. Thus, the party against whom the doctrine is invoked must have been a party to the prior adjudication or in privity with such a party and the party against whom the doctrine is raised must have had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in the prior action. n1 A party in the second proceeding is in "privity" with a party in the first proceeding if after rendition of the prior judgment, he or she has acquired an interest in the subject matter affected by the judgment through or under one of the initial parties, as by inheritance, succession, or purchase. n2 A judgment in a first proceeding has preclusive effect in a later proceeding only if in the first proceeding the party against whom issue preclusion is asserted actually, fully, and fairly litigated the issue. n3

Based on these two party-related doctrines, the Supreme Court has stated that the doctrine of issue preclusion is generally not applicable to nonparties, and stated that the doctrine should be narrowly applied to nonparties. n4 However, the Court has stated the rule against nonparty preclusion is subject to exceptions, and recognized that the exceptions can be grouped into six nonexhaustive categories. Thus, nonparty preclusion applies in the following limited circumstances: n5

1. A nonparty that has agreed to be bound by the determination of issues in an action between others is bound by the terms of that agreement.

2. There is a pre existing substantive legal relationship between the nonparty and a party to the prior proceeding judgment.

3. In certain limited circumstances, a nonparty may be bound by a judgment because the nonparty was adequately represented by someone with the identical interests who was a party to the prior proceedings. These could include properly conducted class actions, and suits brought by trustees, guardians, and other fiduciaries.

4. A nonparty is bound by a judgment if the nonparty assumed control over the litigation in the prior proceeding in which that judgment was rendered.

5. Preclusion applies when a nonparty who did not participate in the first proceeding later brings suit as the designated representative of a person who was a party to the first proceeding.

6. Nonparty preclusion may apply under a special statutory scheme if the scheme is otherwise consistent with due process, such as in bankruptcy and probate proceedings.

[b] Virtual Representation

The Supreme Court has expressly rejected the "virtual representation" theory, which some lower courts had used to provide for nonparty preclusion for judgments rendered by federal courts in federal question cases. Under that rejected theory, courts had allowed nonparty preclusion in certain cases when there had been "adequate" representation of the interests of the nonparty in the previous proceeding. In rejecting "virtual representation" as a exception to the general rule against nonparty preclusion, the Supreme Court stated that, because of the fundamental general rule against nonparty preclusion, the determination of nonparty preclusion should be governed by consideration of six discrete categories of exception to the general rule that were delineated by the court. n6

[c] Class Actions

The doctrine of issue preclusion applies to class actions, including the requirements for nonparty preclusion. However, the Supreme Court has stated that, in the class action context, the requirements and limitations of adequate representation are implemented by the procedural safeguards of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23 in a properly conducted class action. Otherwise, a party's representation of a nonparty is adequate to impose nonparty preclusion only if, at a minimum: (1) the interests of the nonparty and his or her representative are aligned, and (2) either the party understood herself or himself to be acting in a representative capacity or the original court took care to protect the interests of the nonparty; additionally, (3) adequate representation sometimes requires notice of the original suit to the persons alleged to have been represented. n7

If both the prior and subsequent lawsuits involve class plaintiffs, the question regarding nonparty preclusion is whether the two classes are substantially the same. If the composition of the classes differ, then issue preclusion does not prevent the new class from relitigating the common issue. n8 In some cases, the question as to whether the composition of the two classes is substantially the same may be a close one. Minor differences in class membership do not justify relitigation of the same issue, especially when the nature of the two classes' claims are closely related. As the differences in class membership grow more significant, the courts should look to those subgroups of the class in the subsequent action to determine whether they were adequately represented, such that their interests were fully and fairly considered in the prior action. n9

[2] Burden Considerations

[a] Burden of Asserting Issue Preclusion

The party asserting issue preclusion has the burden of showing with certainty what was determined by the prior judgment. n1 It is generally insufficient that the party introduce the decision of the prior court. Rather, the party must introduce a sufficient record of the prior proceeding to enable the trial court to ascertain the exact issues previously litigated. n2 On the other hand, the burden to show that there was no full and fair opportunity in a prior litigation rests on the party opposing issue preclusion. n3

[b] Burdens Affecting Application of Issue Preclusion

As a general rule, issue preclusion may be defeated by shifts in the burden of persuasion or proof or by changes in the degree of persuasion or proof required in the prior proceeding and the subsequent proceeding. n4 Thus, different standards of proof may make the doctrine of issue preclusion inapplicable in a subsequent case even between the same parties. n5 On the other hand, a final criminal judgment may have issue preclusive effect in a subsequent civil suit involving an identical issue. When a civil trial follows criminal proceedings that were based on the same facts, a different cause of action is involved, and the doctrine of issue preclusion rather than that of claim preclusion may apply. n6

Issue preclusion generally does not apply when the prior action involved a different, more rigorous, standard of proof. n7 In particular, issue preclusion does not apply if the party against whom preclusion is sought faced a significantly greater burden of persuasion in the first action compared with the second. n8 Conversely, issue preclusion does not apply when the party seeking to benefit from preclusion has a significantly heavier burden in the subsequent action than in the prior action. n9

[3] Issue Preclusion Must be Raised as Affirmative Defense

Under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, issue preclusion is an affirmative defense n1 that must be raised in the answer or at the first opportunity because the defense may be waived. n2 The purpose of this pleading requirement is to give the opposing party notice and a chance to argue why the imposition of issue preclusion would be inappropriate. n3 A party may raise an issue preclusion defense by motion rather than by answer if the defense's existence can be judged on the face of the complaint. n4

A party that intends to apply issue preclusion should raise the doctrine before trial if possible. n5 A party that is not aware of the prior determination of the issue before trial should raise the doctrine as soon as possible and may do so in an amended pleading under Rule 15(a), which allows a party to liberally amend before trial, n6 or under Rule 15(b), which allows a party to amend to conform to the evidence when the issues not raised by the pleadings are tried by express or implied consent of the parties. n7 The court may also allow issue preclusion to be raised by motion to dismiss. n8

[4] Issue Preclusion May be Raised by Summary Judgment Motion

A party may raise issue preclusion by a motion for summary judgment. n1 A determination made in a prior judgment is admissible at summary judgment because it is "a thing decided" and therefore conclusively established by the doctrine of issue preclusion. n2 Issue preclusion is properly raised on summary judgment when all the requirements of both issue preclusion and procedure for summary judgment are met, for example, when the party against whom issue preclusion is asserted had an adequate opportunity to respond to the motion. n3 When summary judgment is requested, the defendant raising the issue of issue preclusion has the burden of establishing it. n4

[5] Preclusive Effect of Administrative Proceedings

Issues litigated and decided in a prior administrative proceeding may have issue preclusive effect on issues asserted in a subsequent judicial action. n1 Provided a state administrative proceeding meets the minimum requirements discussed below, federal courts must accord the state administrative adjudications of legal and factual issues the same issue preclusive effect that such adjudications would receive in the state's courts. n2 The requirements for claim preclusion for administrative proceedings are virtually identical to those for a judgment in a civil action. Thus, if an administrative body has acted in a judicial capacity and has issued a valid and final decision on disputed issues of fact properly before it, issue preclusion will apply to preclude relitigation of fact issues provided that: n3

1. There was identity of issues.

2. The issues to be precluded were actually litigated and actually determined in the administrative proceeding.

3. The findings on the issues were necessary to the administrative decision.

4. There was identity of the parties or their privies.

5. The parties had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issues in the administrative proceeding.

[6] Appeal

[a] Raising Issue Preclusion on Appeal

Most appellate courts have generally declined to allow a party to raise issue preclusion for the first time on appeal. n1 However, one circuit has allowed a party to raise issue preclusion for the first time on appeal when the issue related solely to the effect of an unchallenged judgment obtained against one defendant on the plaintiff's right to appeal judgments in favor of other defendants. n2 Furthermore, an appellate court has discretion to raise the doctrine of issue preclusion on its own initiative. n3

[b] Standard of Review for Issue Preclusion Determinations

When an appellate court reviews a trial court's determination that the prerequisites for issue preclusion have been met, that determination is treated as a mixed question of law and fact and is subject to de novo review on appeal. n4 A determination of whether to grant issue preclusive effect to a prior adjudication is reviewed under the abuse of discretion standard. n5

[c] Preclusive Effect of Appellate Decision

When an appellate court has decided a specific issue, the doctrine of issue preclusion generally prevents relitigation of that issue. n6 This principle applies even if the appellate court's finding is made in a summary procedure in which no testimony is taken and no cross examination is permitted. For example, if an appellate court has imposed sanctions on a party based on a summary finding that the party acted in bad faith, that party may not relitigate the question of bad faith when the opposing party files a subsequent suit for damages arising out of the bad faith conduct. n7

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 132.02, 132.04, 132.05 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. See § 30.71.

(n3)Footnote 2. Haberer v. Woodbury County, 188 F.3d 957, 962 (8th Cir. 1999) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Killeen v. OPM, 558 F.3d 1318, 1323 (Fed. Cir. 2009) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168 (2008) (general rule is that person is not bound by judgment in personam based on litigation in which person is not designated as party and has not been made party by service of process).

(n6)Footnote 5. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168-170 (2008) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 172 (2008) ; see [a], above (listing of six exceptions).

(n8)Footnote 7. Taylor v. Sturgell, 553 U.S. 880, 128 S. Ct. 2161, 171 L. Ed. 2d 155, 168, 173 (2008) .

(n9)Footnote 8. Haitian Ctrs. Council, Inc. v. McNary, 969 F.2d 1350, 1355 (2d Cir. 1992) ; see Coleman v. GM Acceptance Corp., 220 F.R.D. 64, 81 (M.D. Tenn. 2004) .

(n10)Footnote 9. Richards v. Jefferson County, 517 U.S. 793, 800-801, 116 S. Ct. 1761, 135 L. Ed. 2d 76 (1996) (because of due process constraints, judgment may bind only parties to litigation and those represented by parties to litigation, even if nonparties share essentially identical interests with those who were joined as parties).

(n11)Footnote 1. Kulak v. City of New York, 88 F.3d 63, 72 (2d Cir. 1996) (burden of showing that issues are identical and were necessarily decided in prior proceeding rests with party seeking to apply issue preclusion).

(n12)Footnote 2. Gruntal & Co. v. Steinberg, 854 F. Supp. 324, 337 (D.N.J. 1994) , aff'd on other grounds, 46 F.3d 1116 (3d Cir. 1994) .

(n13)Footnote 3. Kulak v. City of New York, 88 F.3d 63, 72 (2d Cir. 1996) (issue preclusion does not block plaintiff's claims if plaintiff can show that plaintiff did not have a full and fair opportunity to litigate issues in prior proceeding).

(n14)Footnote 4. Dias v. Elique, 436 F.3d 1125, 1129 (9th Cir. 2006) (by contrast, claim preclusion not affected by such shifts); Cobb v. Pozzi, 363 F.3d 89, 114 (2d Cir. 2004) (party's success in earlier proceeding where it faced lower burden of proof does not mean that, against higher burden of proof in subsequent proceeding, that party would achieve same result).

(n15)Footnote 5. Clark v. Bear Stearns & Co., 966 F.2d 1318, 1322 (9th Cir. 1992) (clear and convincing evidence standard for state law fraud was more stringent than preponderance of evidence standard applicable to fraud claim under federal law).

(n16)Footnote 6. Neaderland v. Commissioner, 424 F.2d 639, 641-642 (2d Cir.1970) .

(n17)Footnote 7. SEC v. Ridenour, 913 F.2d 515, 518 (8th Cir. 1990) .

(n18)Footnote 8. Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. v. Director, 583 F.2d 1273, 1279 (4th Cir. 1978) .

(n19)Footnote 9. F. Buddie Contracting, Inc. v. Seawright, 595 F. Supp. 422, 444 (N.D. Ohio 1984) (issue preclusion did not apply, and antitrust plaintiff was not estopped from challenging decision regarding inadequacy of its bid, in view of differences in burden of persuasion).

(n20)Footnote 1. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(c).

(n21)Footnote 2. State of Arizona v. State of California, 530 U.S. 392, 409, 120 S. Ct. 2304, 147 L. Ed. 2d 374 (2000) (issue preclusion is ordinarily treated as affirmative defense that is lost if not timely raised); Federal Ins. Co. v. United States, 618 F.2d 661, 663 (10th Cir. 1980) (government abandoned reliance on res judicata or collateral estoppel when it failed to advance these issues in any way).

(n22)Footnote 3. Blonder-Tongue Lab., Inc. v. University of Ill., 402 U.S. 313, 350, 91 S. Ct. 1434, 28 L. Ed. 2d 788 (1971) .

(n23)Footnote 4. Concordia v. Bendekovic, 693 F.2d 1073, 1075 & n.2 (11th Cir. 1982) .

(n24)Footnote 5. Federal Ins. Co. v. United States, 618 F.2d 661, 663 (10th Cir. 1980) .

(n25)Footnote 6. Fed. R. Civ. P. 15; see Federal Ins. Co. v. United States, 618 F.2d 661, 663 (10th Cir. 1980) .

(n26)Footnote 7. Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(b); see Radio Corp. of Am. v. Radio Station KYFM, 424 F.2d 14, 17 n.3 (10th Cir. 1970) (rule is applicable only when it clearly appears from record that issue not raised in pleadings and not preserved in pretrial order has in fact been tried and that this procedure has been authorized by express or implied consent of the parties).

(n27)Footnote 8. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); see Terrell v. DeConna, 877 F.2d 1267, 1270 (5th Cir. 1989) (motion to dismiss is sufficient to raise defense of issue preclusion).

(n28)Footnote 1. Stoebner v. Parry, Murray, Ward & Moxley, 91 F.3d 1091, 1093 (8th Cir. 1996) (issue preclusion defense may be raised by summary judgment motion for first time).

(n29)Footnote 2. United States v. "Monkey," United States v. "Monkey", 725 F.2d 1007, 1011 n.4 (5th Cir. 1984) .

(n30)Footnote 3. Tyler v. Harper, 744 F.2d 653, 658 (8th Cir. 1984) , cert. denied, 470 U.S. 1057 (1984) .

(n31)Footnote 4. Havoco of Am., Ltd. v. Freeman, Atkins & Coleman, Ltd., 58 F.3d 303, 308 (7th Cir. 1995) .

(n32)Footnote 1. Electric Workers Local 58 Pension Trust Fund v. Gary's Elec. Serv. Co., 227 F.3d 646, 658-659 (6th Cir. 2000) (decision by National Labor Relations Board in proceeding under National Labor Relations Act preclude relitigation of same issues in subsequent civil action brought under Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act).

(n33)Footnote 2. Skysign Int'l v. City & County of Honolulu, 276 F.3d 1109, 1115 (9th Cir. 2002) .

(n34)Footnote 3. United States v. Utah Constr. & Mining Co., 384 U.S. 394, 421-422, 86 S. Ct. 1545, 16 L. Ed. 2d 642 (1966) .

(n35)Footnote 1. See, e.g., Medtronic, Inc. v. Gibbons, 684 F.2d 565, 569 (8th Cir. 1982) .

(n36)Footnote 2. Chew v. Gates, 27 F.3d 1432, 1437 (9th Cir. 1994) , cert. denied, 513 U.S. 1148 (1994) .

(n37)Footnote 3. Allen v. City of Los Angeles, 92 F.3d 842, 848 n.7 (9th Cir. 1996) .

(n38)Footnote 4. Schiro v. Farley, 510 U.S. 222, 232, 114 S. Ct. 783, 127 L. Ed. 2d 47 (1994) ; Town of North Bonneville v. Callaway (Bonneville), 10 F.3d 1505, 1508 (9th Cir. 1993) .

(n39)Footnote 5. Plaine v. McCabe, 797 F.2d 713, 718 (9th Cir. 1986) .

(n40)Footnote 6. In re Freeman, 30 F.3d 1459, 1465 (Fed. Cir. 1994) (patentee was prohibited from relitigating meaning of term decided by appeals court).

(n41)Footnote 7. Hirschfeld v. Spanakos, 104 F.3d 16, 19-20 (2d Cir. 1997) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
E. ISSUE PRECLUSION

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 30.78through 30.89

[Reserved]

§§ 30.78[Reserved]

156 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
F. JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.90

§ 30.90 Nature of Judicial Estoppeln*

Judicial estoppel is an equitable doctrine which gives the court discretion to reject a claim made by a party in a legal proceeding when that claim is inconsistent with a claim made by that party earlier in the same proceeding or in a previous legal proceeding. n1 Therefore, if a party assumes a certain position in a legal proceeding and succeeds in maintaining that position, the court may reject a later contrary position, even though the party's interests have changed. n2 Judicial estoppel is intended to prevent improper use of the judicial process. Based on its equitable purpose, the court may examine three factors: n3

- The party's later position must be clearly inconsistent with its earlier position.

- The party has succeeded in persuading a court to accept that party's earlier position. If a court in a later proceeding were to accept an inconsistent position, it would create the perception that either the first or the second court was misled.

- If not estopped, the party asserting the inconsistent position would obtain an unfair advantage or impose an unfair detriment on the opposition party.

The Supreme court noted that in enumerating these three factors, it was not establishing inflexible prerequisites nor an exhaustive formula, and that additional equitable considerations should be considered to apply equitable estoppel in specific factual contexts. n5-7 Because the doctrine of judicial estoppel is characterized as equitable and discretionary in nature, the standard of review on appeal of decisions regarding the doctrine is abuse of discretion. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelJudicial EstoppelPatent LawPreclusionJudicial Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, §§ 134.30, 134.32 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-752, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) (citing Moore's Federal Practice; Supreme Court applied doctrine of judicial estoppel to bar state from adopting boundary dispute assertion contrary to assertion state had successfully maintained in earlier litigation).

(n3)Footnote 2. Mintze v. Am. Fin. Servs., Inc. (In re Mintze), 434 F.3d 222, 232 (3d Cir. 2006) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n4)Footnote 3. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-751, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) .

(n5)Footnote 5-7. [Reserved.]

(n6)Footnote 8. Taylor v. Food World, Inc., 133 F.3d 1419, 1422 (11th Cir. 1998) (circuit court reviews district court's application of judicial estoppel for abuse of discretion).

157 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
F. JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.91

§ 30.91 Purpose of Judicial Estoppeln*

The primary purposes of judicial estoppel are to prevent improper use of the judicial process and to promote the orderly administration of justice and regard for the respect owed to judicial proceedings. n1 Because the doctrine is equitable in nature, it is applied flexibly, n2 with the intent to achieve substantial justice. n2.1 Judicial estoppel may not be used as a technicality for defendants to undermine potentially meritorious claims, especially when the alleged inconsistency is insignificant and there is no evidence of intent to manipulate the court. Furthermore, judicial estoppel is not intended as a sword to be wielded by adversaries unless such tactics are necessary to secure substantial equity. n3 The courts should apply the doctrine of judicial estoppel in a manner that will achieve a resolution that is fair, based on the facts of the particular dispute. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelJudicial EstoppelPatent LawPreclusionJudicial Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.31 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. New Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 749-751, 121 S. Ct. 1808, 149 L. Ed. 2d 968 (2001) .

(n3)Footnote 2. See § 30.92.

(n4)Footnote 2.1. See In re Walker, 323 B.R. 188, 195 (S.D. Tex. 2005) .

(n5)Footnote 3. Ryan Operations G.P. v. Santiam-Midwest Lumber Co., 81 F.3d 355, 365 (3d Cir. 1996) (establishing intent of party is required to apply judicial estoppel to party's argument).

(n6)Footnote 4. Lafleur v. Whitman, 300 F.3d 256, 271 (2d Cir. 2002) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
F. JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.92

§ 30.92 Factors Considered in Application of Judicial Estoppel in Discretion of Courtn*

[1] Success in Earlier Contention

[a] Requirement of Success

Many courts applying judicial estoppel have held that the contention in the prior proceeding must have been successful. This requirement has also been expressed as "judicial adoption" of the prior inconsistent contention. The requirement that a court must have accepted the party's prior inconsistent contention ensures that judicial estoppel is applied in narrow circumstances. The prior success rule narrows the scope of judicial estoppel to the point at which the necessity of protecting judicial integrity outweighs the ramifications of that protection on the litigant and the judicial system. n1 However, few cases hold categorically that prior judicial success is absolutely required for application of judicial estoppel. Rather most cases say that judicial estoppel is particularly appropriate when the party succeeded in the prior proceeding but do not require that the doctrine may not be applied absent such prior success. n2 Other courts have gone to the extent of holding that judicial estoppel may apply even if the party was not successful in the prior proceeding if the court finds that its integrity was undermined by the party engaging in behavior designed to mislead or manipulate the court. n3

[b] Definition of Success

Success for purposes of judicial estoppel has been defined as some type of judicial adoption of the contention advanced by the party as part of a final disposition. n4 Settlement of a matter has also been held to constitute success for this purpose. n5 On the other hand, some courts have stated that settlement does not imply judicial approval and therefore does not constitute success. n6 A guilty plea does constitute "judicial acceptance" because the plea is reviewed by the court. n7 On the other hand, if a party prevailed at the trial level on the basis of a particular contention but abandoned that contention on appeal, the party is not deemed to have succeeded on that contention because the contention was not adopted by the appellate court in its final disposition of the case. n8

[2] Single Civil Action

All courts that follow the principle of judicial estoppel preclude the assertion of inconsistent contentions within a single civil action. With respect to a subsequent action involving the same parties, some courts allow the assertion of inconsistent contentions in the subsequent action, and such a court's formulation of the judicial estoppel doctrine states that the doctrine precludes parties from making inconsistent contentions in the same litigation. n1 Other courts hold that judicial estoppel applies to preclude inconsistent contentions asserted in the later of multiple civil actions. n2 Courts that apply the doctrine in subsequent actions use the rationale that judicial estoppel is appropriate when incompatible statements have been made in two different cases because inconsistent contentions in different suits are much harder to justify than inconsistent pleading within one suit. n3

Finally, some courts have held that for judicial estoppel to preclude an inconsistent assertion in a second proceeding, the assertion must have been made under oath in the first proceeding. n4

[3] Bad Faith

Some courts hold that judicial estoppel may be used to preclude a contention only if it is shown that the party seeking to assert an inconsistent contention has made the assertion in bad faith. n1 A similar formulation limits the doctrine of judicial estoppel to situations in which the party asserting an inconsistent contention seeks to gain an unfair advantage. n2 Some courts state that this requirement is the most important factor in the determination whether to apply the doctrine. Thus, if bad faith is required, a change in contentions will not give rise to judicial estoppel if the party making the contention can give a reasonable justification. n3

Some courts have held that a mere failure to disclose a claim does not evidence bad faith supporting imposition of judicial estoppel based on the claim, n4 while other courts have applied the doctrine in these circumstances. n5

[4] Other Requirements

One circuit has held that if the circumstances under which the doctrine of judicial estoppel will be applied are not clear, it may still be applied if the opposing party has relied to his or her detriment on the prior inconsistent contention. n1 Other courts hold that reliance by an opposition party in the subsequent action, or harm to that party, is not required for imposition of the doctrine. n2

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelJudicial EstoppelPatent LawPreclusionJudicial Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.33 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Lowery v. Stovall, 92 F.3d 219, 224 (4th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1113 (1997) (prior inconsistent contention must have been accepted by court).

(n3)Footnote 2. Rissetto v. Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 343, 94 F.3d 597, 601 n.3 (9th Cir. 1996) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Ryan Operations G.P. v. Santiam-Midwest Lumber Co., 81 F.3d 355, 361 (3d Cir. 1996) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Ahrens v. Perot Sys. Corp., 205 F.3d 831, 835-836 (5th Cir. 2000) , cert. denied, 531 U.S. 819 (2000) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Rissetto v. Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 343, 94 F.3d 597, 604 (9th Cir. 1996) .

(n7)Footnote 6. Original Appalachian Artworks, Inc. v. S. Diamond Assocs., 44 F.3d 925, 930 (11th Cir. 1995) , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1045 (1996) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Lowery v. Stovall, 92 F.3d 219, 225 (4th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1113 (1997) .

(n9)Footnote 8. McNamara v. City of Chicago, 138 F.3d 1219, 1225 (7th Cir. 1998) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 981 (1998) .

(n10)Footnote 1. Rissetto v. Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 343, 94 F.3d 597, 605 (9th Cir. 1995) (noting disagreement among courts on question whether judicial estoppel should be limited to assertion of inconsistent positions within single litigation).

(n11)Footnote 2. Allen v. Zurich Ins. Co., 667 F.2d 1162, 1167 (4th Cir. 1982) (judicial estoppel is appropriate when party takes inconsistent positions).

(n12)Footnote 3. Astor Chauffeured Limousine Co. v. Runnfeldt Inv. Corp., 910 F.2d 1540, 1548 (7th Cir. 1990) .

(n13)Footnote 4. Chrysler Credit Corp. v. Rebhan, 842 F.2d 1257, 1261 (11th Cir. 1988) (judicial estoppel is directed against those who would manipulate court system by calculated assertion of divergent sworn positions).

(n14)Footnote 1. Klein v. Stahl GmbH & Co. Maschinefabrik, 185 F.3d 98, 109-111 (3d Cir. 1999) (district court may not impose harsh sanction of judicial estoppel unless it finds that party has acted in bad faith; finding of bad faith must be based on more than inconsistency in factual positions asserted by party).

(n15)Footnote 2. Lowery v. Stovall, 92 F.3d 219, 224 (4th Cir. 1996) , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1113 (1997) .

(n16)Footnote 3. Morris v. California, 966 F.2d 448, 453-454 (9th Cir. 1991) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 831 (1992) (change was justified by ineffective assistance of counsel in earlier litigation).

(n17)Footnote 4. Ryan Operations G.P. v. Santiam-Midwest Lumber Co., 81 F.3d 355, 364 (3d Cir. 1996) .

(n18)Footnote 5. Payless Wholesale Distribs., Inc. v. Alberto Culver, Inc., 989 F.2d 570, 571 (1st Cir. 1993) , cert. denied, 510 U.S. 931 (1993) (when debtor obtains Chapter 11 bankruptcy relief based on his representations that he had no assets other than those scheduled, debtor is judicially estopped from asserting prepetition claims not disclosed during bankruptcy case).

(n19)Footnote 1. Young v. United States Dep't of Justice, 882 F.2d 633, 639 (2d Cir. 1989) .

(n20)Footnote 2. Ryan Operations G.P. v. Santiam-Midwest Lumber Co., 81 F.3d 355, 360 (3d Cir. 1996) (unlike equitable estoppel judicial estoppel does not require that party urging estoppel demonstrate that party believed or relied on oppostion's prior inconsistent contention).

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
F. JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.93

§ 30.93 Procedural Considerations Regarding Judicial Estoppeln*

[1] Court May Apply Doctrine on Its Own Initiative

A court may utilize the doctrine of judicial estoppel without the issue having been raised by a party, because judicial estoppel is discretionary in nature and because its purpose is to protect the courts against fraud and abuse. n1 On the other hand, if a party fails to raise the issue at its first opportunity, the failure may be deemed a waiver. n2 A court may find waiver only when the opposition can demonstrate that the party's failure to raise judicial estoppel at a particular stage of litigation resulted in prejudice to the opposition (the party sought to be estopped). n3

Finally, because the purpose of judicial estoppel is to protect the integrity of the court, a court is not required to accept even a voluntary waiver by a party of the doctrine. The purpose of the doctrine is to protect the judicial system from being plagued with inconsistent arguments, and to discourage the form of fraud that consists of withholding a litigant's best contention in the first of a series of proceedings because it is helpful to an adverse party in that suit, hoping to win that suit on a different contention, and then advancing the inconsistent best contention in a later suit in order to obtain additional relief. Therefore, a court may assert the doctrine on its own initiative regardless of whether any party raises or waives it. n4

[2] Law Applied

Judicial estoppel may arise in a federal diversity or supplemental jurisdiction action governed by the substantive law of a state under the Erie doctrine. Consequently, the issue arises of which law should govern the judicial estoppel issue, state law or federal law. Some circuit courts have held that judicial estoppel is a procedural doctrine to be governed by the law of the court in which the matter is pending. n1 Other circuit courts have held that judicial estoppel is substantive and apply state law regarding the doctrine. n2

In addition to the choice of law issue that arises when judicial estoppel is asserted in federal court in connection with a state law claim, there is also a question as to whether state law should apply when the prior inconsistent contention was originally asserted in state court. n3 One circuit has taken the position that the law of the forum in which the prior inconsistent contention was originally asserted should not control in the subsequent action. The court stated that whether the prior contention was asserted in state or federal proceedings should not be determinative because the integrity problem concerns the court presently confronted with the inconsistent statement; when the prior statement was made, it wasn't inconsistent yet, so the first court is powerless to address the integrity issue. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelJudicial EstoppelPatent LawPreclusionJudicial Estoppel

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 134.34 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Morris v. California, 966 F.2d 448, 453 (9th Cir. 1991) , cert. denied, 506 U.S. 831 (1992) .

(n3)Footnote 2. FDIC v. Houde, 90 F.3d 600, 607 (1st Cir. 1996) (given party's failure to raise matter in timely fashion before district court, and to argue matter on appeal, circuit court regarded doctrine as having been waived).

(n4)Footnote 3. McConathy v. Dr. Pepper/Seven Up Corp., 131 F.3d 558, 562 (5th Cir. 1998) .

(n5)Footnote 4. Bethesda Lutheran Homes & Servs., Inc. v. Born, 238 F.3d 853, 857-858 (7th Cir. 2001) .

(n6)Footnote 1. See, e.g., Guinness PLC v. Ward, 955 F.2d 875, 899 n.20 (4th Cir. 1992) (federal law applies).

(n7)Footnote 2. In re Osborn, 24 F.3d 1199, 1207 & n.11 (l0th Cir. 1994).

(n8)Footnote 3. Kale v. Obuchowski, 985 F.2d 360, 361 (7th Cir. 1993) .

(n9)Footnote 4. Rissetto v. Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 343, 94 F.3d 597, 603 (9th Cir. 1996) .

160 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART I. PRECLUSION PRINCIPLES APPLIED BY FEDERAL COURTS
F. JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 30.94through 30.109

[Reserved]

§§ 30.94[Reserved]

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.110

§ 30.110 Requirement of Full Faith & Credit For State & Federal Judgmentsn*

[1] Doctrine Requires Recognition of Judgments

The Full Faith and Credit Clause of the Constitution, n1 and its statute of implementation in the United States Code, n2 generally require courts in the United States, both federal and state, to recognize and give effect to valid judgments rendered by all other courts in the United States, both federal and state. n3 The full faith and credit clause means that a final judgment in one state, rendered by a federal or state court, which has jurisdiction over the subject matter and persons governed by the judgment, qualifies for recognition by all other federal or state courts throughout the United States. Judgments of courts are thus entitled to nationwide recognition under the full faith and credit doctrine, n4 and that includes the preclusive effects of an adjudication on parties and those "in privity" with the parties: the doctrines of claim preclusion and issue preclusion. n4.1

The United States Supreme Court has emphasized that the full faith and credit doctrine requires recognition of the judgments of other jurisdictions in the United States, but not necessarily the laws of other jurisdictions. The doctrine does not compel a state to substitute the statutes of other states for its own statues dealing with the particular subject matter, provided that the state is competent to legislate regarding that subject matter. n5

[2] Courts Bound by Doctrine

The full faith and credit doctrine requires recognition and enforcement of judgments in four primary situations:

1. State courts must recognize the judgments of other states. n1

2. State courts must recognize the judgments of federal courts. n2

3. Federal courts must recognize the judgments of other federal courts. n3 Federal courts utilize the doctrines of claim preclusion and issue preclusion, as well as the common law, to analyze the preclusive effect of decisions of other federal courts. n4

4. Federal courts must recognize state court judgments. n4.1 When giving preclusive effect to a state court judgment, a federal court must apply the issue preclusion rules of that state. Additionally, when a state issue preclusion rule is modeled on federal doctrine, the court may consult federal law for guidance when interpreting the state preclusion rule. n4.2

The full faith and credit doctrine extends to territories in the same manner as if they were states. n5 However, the full faith and credit doctrine does not apply to judgments rendered by the courts of other nations. A different set of principles applies to the recognition and enforcement of foreign judgments, based on the doctrine of comity. n6 For a summary of the recognition of judgments of foreign nations, see § 30.115.

[3] Authentication of State Court Judgments

Through the full faith and credit statute, Congress has provided for the authentication of state court judgments. n1 A person that wants to prove or have admitted a record or judgment of one court in another jurisdiction may authenticate the record or judgment by obtaining the attestation of the clerk, and any seal of the court annexed to the document, and also a certificate of the judge, chief justice, or presiding magistrate that the attestation is in due form. n2 The method of attestation specified in the full faith and credit statute is not exclusive; for example, a person may also authenticate a judgment in accordance with the rules of evidence of the forum court. n2.1 For example, Rule 902(4) of the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that a copy of an official record is self-authenticating if it bears a seal and attesting signature. n3 Once a judicial record or proceeding is authenticated, it has the faith and credit given to the proceeding in every court within the United States as the record or proceeding has by law or usage in the courts of the state from which the record or proceeding is taken. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditEnforcement of JudgmentsConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & Credit

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 130.01 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. U.S. Const. Art. IV, § 1.

(n3)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1738.

(n4)Footnote 3. See Rimes v. Curb Records, Inc., 129 F. Supp. 2d 984, 987 n.15 (N.D. Tex. 2001) (under full faith and credit statute, federal courts are required to give full effect to final judgments of state courts, subject only to narrowly circumscribed areas of collateral attack).

(n5)Footnote 4. Baker by Thomas v. GMC, 522 U.S. 222, 233, 118 S. Ct. 657, 139 L. Ed. 2d 580 (1998) .

(n6)Footnote 4.1. See Exxon Mobil Corp. v. Saudi Basic Indus. Corp., 544 U.S. 280, 125 S. Ct. 1517, 1527, 161 L. Ed. 2d 454 (2005) .

(n7)Footnote 5. Franchise Tax Bd. v. Hyatt, 538 U.S. 488, 493-494, 123 S. Ct. 1683, 1687, 155 L. Ed. 2d 702,(2003)

(N8)Footnote 1. Underwriters Nat'l Assurance Co. v. North Carolina Life & Accident & Health Ins. Guar. Ass'n, 455 U.S. 691, 704, 102 S. Ct. 1357, 71 L. Ed. 2d 558 (1982) .

(n9)Footnote 2. Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 507-508, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) (while no federal legislation directly addresses claim preclusive effect of federal court judgment in federal question case, states may not give those judgments merely effect they would give their own judgments; rather, state must accord such judgment effect that United States Supreme Court prescribes as matter of federal common law).

(n10)Footnote 3. Williams v. Ocean Transport Lines, Inc., 425 F.2d 1183, 1189 (3d Cir. 1970) .

(n11)Footnote 4. In re Goodman, 25 B.R. 932, 938 (E.D. Ill. 1982) .

(n12)Footnote 4.1. See Exxon Mobil Corp. v. Saudi Basic Indus. Corp., 544 U.S. 280, 125 S. Ct. 1517, 1527, 161 L. Ed. 2d 454 (2005) .

(n13)Footnote 4.2. Raspanti v. Keaty (In re Keaty), 397 F.3d 264, 270-271 (5th Cir. 2005) (citing Moore's Federal Practice).

(n14)Footnote 5. Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 81, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) .

(n15)Footnote 6. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Hague, 449 U.S. 302, 321 n.4, 101 S. Ct. 633, 66 L. Ed. 2d 521 (1981) .

(n16)Footnote 1. See 28 U.S.C. § 1738.

(n17)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1738.

(n18)Footnote 2.1. See Opoka v. INS, 94 F.3d 392, 394 (7th Cir. 1996) (recognizing that court documents from state proceeding may be subject of judicial notice).

(n19)Footnote 3. Fed. R. Evid. 902(4).

(n20)Footnote 4. 28 U.S.C. § 1738.

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.111

§ 30.111 State & Federal Court Judgments Have Preclusive Effect of Judgments of Court Where Rendered

The full faith and credit doctrine requires that courts in the United States give the judgments of state and federal courts the same preclusive effect as would the rendering court. n1 The full faith and credit statute, provides that state and federal courts must afford the decisions of judicial proceeding such faith and credit as the decisions have by law or usage in the courts of the state from which the decisions are taken. n2 The following corollaries result from the full faith and credit doctrine:

1. Judgments rendered by a state court must be given the same preclusive effect as the courts of the rendering state would afford them. n3

2. Judgments rendered by a federal court in a federal question case must be afforded the same preclusive effect as the rendering federal court would afford them. n4

3. The preclusive effect of judgments rendered by a federal court hearing a state law claim, pursuant to the federal court's diversity or supplemental jurisdiction, is governed by federal common law. With respect to some questions, such as the effect of a dismissal on statute of limitations grounds, the content of this federal common law must be borrowed from the law of the state in which the federal court sits, except when there is a federal interest in a uniform federal rule. n5

Therefore, the duty to recognize a judgment includes two interrelated components: (1) the granting of preclusive effect, and (2) the enforcement of the judgment. Thus, if the rendering court would grant the judgment claim preclusive effect, n6 the recognizing court must do so. Similarly, if the rendering court would grant the judgment issue preclusive effect, n7 the recognizing court must do so also. n8

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditEnforcement of JudgmentsCivil

ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditFull Faith & Credit StatuteConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & Credit

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 81, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) .

(n2)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1738.

(n3)Footnote 3. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. v. Byrd, 470 U.S. 213, 222, 105 S. Ct. 1238, 84 L. Ed. 2d 158 (1985) .

(n4)Footnote 4. Heck v. Humphrey, 512 U.S. 477, 488 n.9, 114 S. Ct. 2364, 129 L. Ed. 2d 383 (1994) .

(n5)Footnote 5. Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 507-508, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) .

(n6)Footnote 6. See § 30.50 et seq.

(n7)Footnote 7. See § 30.70 et seq.

(n8)Footnote 8. See Rimes v. Curb Records, Inc. and Leann Rimes Entertainment, Inc., 129 F. Supp. 2d 984, 986-987 (N.D. Tex. 2001) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.112

§ 30.112 Requirements for Application of Full Faith and Credit Doctrinen*

[1] Finality

For full faith and credit to apply to a judgment, the judgment must be final. n1 Thus, in general, nonfinal judgments are not entitled to full faith and credit. n2 For purposes of full faith and credit, a judgment is "final" if it is conclusive of the entire proceeding before the court. A judgment is final if it has no contingencies and if it represents completion of all steps in the adjudication between the parties short of execution or enforcement. n3 On the other hand, a partial judgment, which is a judgment of less than all of the individual claims or issues between the parties, is not final. n4 Similarly, a judgment that is subject to modification is not final. Examples of nonfinal judgments that are subject to modification include equity decrees or judgments for alimony or child support. n5

Finality of a judgment is determined by the law of the jurisdiction in which the judgment was rendered. n6 Furthermore, although there is some overlap in concepts, the test for finality for purposes of full faith and credit is not equivalent to the test of finality for the purpose of determining appealability under federal law. n7

[2] Validity

For full faith and credit to apply to a judgment, the judgment must be valid; n1 conversly, an invalid judgment is not entitled to full faith and credit. n2 For purposes of full faith and credit, a judgment is "valid" if the judgment is not void, based on: a constitutional infirmity, lack of jurisdiction or power of the rendering court, fraud, or some other fundamental reason. n3 Thus, a judgment is valid if all of the following are true:

1. The judgment was rendered by a court that had proper subject matter and personal or in rem jurisdiction; n4

2. The judgment and proceedings in which it was rendered complied with due process requirements; n5

3. The judgment was rendered pursuant to an exercise of power granted to the court that rendered it; n6 and

4. The judgment was not rendered as a result of extrinsic fraud. n7

Courts sometimes analyze the issue of validity with respect to three categories of judgments: valid, voidable, and void. The use of this terminology is best understood as expressing the courts' conclusions as to whether a judgment is subject to direct or collateral attack. Therefore, a valid judgment is subject to neither direct nor collateral attack and is entitled to full faith and credit. n8 A voidable judgment suffers from a defect subject to direct attack but is not subject to collateral attack and is also entitled to full faith and credit. n9 Void judgments are subject to both direct and collateral attack and are not entitled to full faith and credit. n10 A void judgment is subject to both direct and collateral attack, while a judgment that is merely voidable must be corrected through ordinary appellate or other direct procedures. The bottom line for full faith and credit purposes is to determine first whether the particular defect with the prior judgment is subject to collateral attack; if collateral attack is allowed, then the judgment is not entitled to full faith and credit. n11

[3] Based on Merits

A judgment is entitled to full faith and credit only if the judgment is based on the merits of the claims presented in the proceeding. n1 The relative degree of this requirement varies depending on the specific recognition given to the judgment, as stated in the following list:

1. When the recognition issue is whether the prior judgment is to be enforced by a recognizing court, the requirement that the judgment be on the merits is simply the requirement that the prior adjudication have resulted in an enforceable judgment, such as an award of damages; there is no separate requirement that the judgment be based on a trial on the merits or on summary judgment, in contrast to a default judgment or a judgment entered as a result of sanctions for misconduct. n2

2. When the recognition issue is whether the prior judgment is to be given claim preclusive effect, then "on the merits" means that the judgment must be rendered on consideration of the legal claim, as distinguished from consideration of an objection to subject matter jurisdiction, personal jurisdiction, service of process, venue, or any other ground that is not based on the legal or factual sufficiency of the claim to relief. n3

3. If the question is whether the prior judgment is to be given issue preclusive effect, then "on the merits" means that the issue in the prior case was decided on the legal or factual efficacy of the issue rather than on procedural or technical grounds or by consent. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditFull Faith & Credit StatuteConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & Credit

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 130.04 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Barber v. Barber, 323 U.S. 77, 81, 65 S. Ct. 137, 89 L. Ed. 82 (1944) (to be entitled to full faith and credit, judgment must be final and not subject to modification).

(n3)Footnote 2. Aiello v. City of Wilmington, 470 F. Supp. 414, 419 (D. Del. 1979) , aff'd on other grounds, 623 F.2d 845 (3d Cir. 1980) (citing Moore's Federal Practice for proposition that principles of collateral estoppel are not applicable to nonfinal orders or judgments).

(n4)Footnote 3. Stone v. Williams, 970 F.2d 1043, 1055 (2d Cir. 1992) , cert. denied, 508 U.S. 906 (1993) .

(n5)Footnote 4. FDIC v. McFarland, 243 F.3d 876, 892-893 (5th Cir. 2001) (although consent judgment ordinarily becomes final on entry, partial consent judgment, covering fewer than all claims and parties in action, does not become final for purposes of registration until either (1) it is certified as final under Rule 54(b) or (2) judgment is entered disposing of remainder of case).

(n6)Footnote 5. Ingram v. Hayes, 866 F.2d 368, 369 (11th Cir. 1988) .

(n7)Footnote 6. See Conopco, Inc. v. Roll Int'l, 231 F.3d 82, 87 (2d Cir. 2000) ; Johnson Bros. Wholesale Liquor Co. v. Clemmons, 233 Kan. 405, 661 P.2d 1242, 1245 (1983) , cert. denied, 464 U.S. 936 (1983) .

(n8)Footnote 7. Hooks v. Hooks, 771 F.2d 935, 948 (6th Cir. 1985) (finality for full faith and credit purposes is not equivalent to finality for purposes of appeal); Maner v. Maner, 412 F.2d 449, 451 (5th Cir. 1969) (pendency of appeal does not necessarily render nonfinal judgment that would otherwise be enforceable under doctrine of full faith and credit).

(n9)Footnote 1. Shaffer v. Heitner, 433 U.S. 186, 210, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 (1977) .

(n10)Footnote 2. Sun Oil Co. v. Wortman, 486 U.S. 717, 730 n.3, 108 S. Ct. 2117, 100 L. Ed. 2d 743 (1988) .

(n11)Footnote 3. Kremer v. Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 481, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 (1982) (validity requires that rendering court proceeding provided due process of law under Fourteenth Amendment; no court may give effect to constitutionally infirm judgment).

(n12)Footnote 4. Kremer v. Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 481-485, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 (1982) .

(n13)Footnote 5. Kremer v. Chemical Constr. Corp., 456 U.S. 461, 481, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 (1982) (validity requires that rendering court proceeding provide due process of law under Fourteenth Amendment).

(n14)Footnote 6. Fall v. Eastin, 215 U.S. 1, 12-13, 30 S. Ct. 3, 54 L. Ed. 65 (1909) (full faith and credit does not extend jurisdiction of courts of one state to dispose of property in another state).

(n15)Footnote 7. See Stoll v. Gottlieb, 305 U.S. 165, 172, 59 S. Ct. 134, 83 L. Ed. 104 (1938) ; Salvation Army v. Morris, 421 F.2d 805, 807-808 (10th Cir. 1970) .

(n16)Footnote 8. Shaffer v. Heitner, 433 U.S. 186, 210, 97 S. Ct. 2569, 53 L. Ed. 2d 683 (1977) .

(n17)Footnote 9. Combs v. Chambers, 302 F. Supp. 194, 200 (N.D. Okla. 1969) (general rule is that judgments of other states are entitled to full faith and credit even if irregular or erroneous).

(n18)Footnote 10. World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson, 444 U.S. 286, 291, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 (1980) .

(n19)Footnote 11. Sikes v. Global Marine, Inc., 881 F.2d 176, 178 (5th Cir. 1989) ; see See World-Wide Volkswagen Corp. v. Woodson, 444 U.S. 286, 291, 100 S. Ct. 559, 62 L. Ed. 2d 490 (1980) (judgment rendered in violation of due process is void in rendering state and is not entitled to full faith and credit elsewhere).

(n20)Footnote 1. Loudermill v. Cleveland Bd. of Educ., 721 F.2d 550, 559 (6th Cir. 1983) , aff'd on other grounds, 470 U.S. 532 (1983) .

(n21)Footnote 2. See Underwriters Nat'l Assurance v. North Carolina Life & Accident & Health Ins. Guar. Ass'n, 455 U.S. 691, 102 S. Ct. 1357, 71 L. Ed. 2d 558 (1982) .

(n22)Footnote 3. Harper Plastics, Inc. v. Amoco Chems. Corp., 657 F.2d 939, 943 (7th Cir. 1981) .

(n23)Footnote 4. See La Preferida, Inc. v. Cerveceria Modelo, S.A. de C.V., 914 F.2d 900, 905-907 (7th Cir. 1990) .

164 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.113

§ 30.113 Exception to Full Faith and Credit Doctrine for Certain Judgmentsn*

Under the common law, certain types of judgments have been excepted from the full faith and credit requirement and have not been recognized in jurisdictions other than those in which they were rendered. n1 Judgments that are not recognized outside the rendering jurisdiction include penal judgments, n2 and judgments of tribal courts. n3 These exceptions to the requirements of Full Faith and Credit Clause are thus extremely limited and may not be expected to be expanded. Although there may be a basis in public policy for these exceptions, the Supreme Court has frequently held that there is no general public policy exception to the requirements of full faith and credit. Indeed, full faith and credit may not be refused on the ground that the judgment of the rendering court is contrary to the public policy of the recognizing jurisdiction. n4 Formerly, judgments for taxes were excepted from the full faith and credit doctrine. However, this former exception has been abolished. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & Credit

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 130.05 (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Anglo-Am. Provision Co. v. Davis Provision Co., 191 U.S. 373, 374, 24 S. Ct. 92, 48 L. Ed. 225 (1903) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Huntington v. Attrill, 146 U.S. 657, 686, 13 S. Ct. 224, 36 L. Ed. 1123 (1892) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Wilson v. Marchington, 127 F.3d 805, 809 (9th Cir. 1997) , cert. denied, 523 U.S. 1074 (1998) (full faith and credit is not extended to tribal judgments by the Constitution or congressional act, and we decline to extend it judicially).

(n5)Footnote 4. Baker v. GMC, 522 U.S. 222, 233-234, 118 S. Ct. 657, 139 L. Ed. 2d 580 (1998) .

(n6)Footnote 5. Her Majesty, Queen in Right of Province of British Columbia v. Gilbertson, 597 F.2d 1161, 1165 n.8 (9th Cir. 1979) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.114

§ 30.114 Recognition and Enforcement of State Court Judgmentsn*

Under the full faith and credit doctrine, state court judgments are entitled to recognition by all federal and state courts. Thus, a federal court must give full faith and credit to a state court judgment. n1 The Supreme Court has stated that Congress has specifically required all federal courts to give preclusive effect to state court judgments whenever the courts of the state from which the judgments arose would do so. n2 Similarly, each state must give full faith and credit to the judgments of its sister states. n3 The preclusive effect a federal court or a sister state court must give to a prior judgment rendered by a state court is determined by the law of the rendering state, including both state statutory and common law. A final judgment in one state, if rendered by a court with adjudicatory authority over the subject matter and persons governed by the judgment, qualifies for recognition throughout the United States. n4

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditEnforcement of JudgmentsCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditRooker-Feldman DoctrineConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & Credit

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 130.20 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Epstein, 516 U.S. 367, 375, 116 S. Ct. 873, 134 L. Ed. 2d 6 (1996) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Allen v. McCurry, 449 U.S. 90, 96, 101 S. Ct. 411, 66 L. Ed. 2d 308 (1980) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Underwriters Nat'l Assurance Co. v. North Carolina Life & Accident & Health Ins. Guar. Ass'n, 455 U.S. 691, 704, 102 S. Ct. 1357, 71 L. Ed. 2d 558 (1982) (North Carolina court could not disregard Illinois judgment releasing insurance company from financial obligation to North Carolina insurance association).

(n5)Footnote 4. Thomas v. Washington Gas Light Co., 448 U.S. 261, 270, 100 S. Ct. 2647, 65 L. Ed. 2d 757 (1980) .

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.115

§ 30.115 Recognition and Enforcement of Federal Court Judgmentsn*

State courts are bound to recognize the judgments of the federal courts. n1 Likewise, federal courts must recognize the judgments of other federal courts. n2 Both state and federal courts must apply federal law to determine whether judgments in federal question cases are entitled to recognition. n3 Although it is clear that federal law governs the effect of a federal question decision rendered by a federal court, it is not settled whether federal law or state law should govern when a state law claim is heard in federal court, either based on diversity jurisdiction or pursuant to the supplemental jurisdiction statute. The Supreme Court has recently decided a case that provides some guidance in this area. The Court held that federal common law governs the preclusive effect of federal judgments but that federal common law rule should be borrowed from state law, reasoning that any other rule would produce the sort of forum-shopping and inequitable administration of the laws that the Erie doctrine seeks to avoid. n4

With respect to enforcement of federal court judgments, Congress has enacted a statutory registration process to facilitate collection of federal judgments. The statutory registration procedure obviates the need to commence a second action to enforce a money judgment from one district in another district where the judgment debtor's assets are situated. n5 For a discussion of this federal statutory registration and enforcement of judgments, see Ch. 26, Post-Judgment Procedures.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditFull Faith & Credit StatuteConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & Credit

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 130.30 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Pansy v. Borough of Stroudsburg, 23 F.3d 772, 784 n.13 (3d Cir. 1994) .

(n3)Footnote 2. Williams v. Ocean Transp. Lines, Inc., 425 F.2d 1183, 1189 (3d Cir. 1970) .

(n4)Footnote 3. Heck v. Humphrey, 512 U.S. 477, 488 n.9, 114 S. Ct. 2364, 129 L. Ed. 2d 383 (1994) (state courts are bound to apply federal rules in determining effect of federal court judgments on issues of federal law).

(n5)Footnote 4. Semtek Int'l Inc. v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 531 U.S. 497, 507-508, 121 S. Ct. 1021, 149 L. Ed. 2d 32 (2001) ; see Erie R.R. v. Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64, 74-75, 58 S. Ct. 817, 82 L. Ed. 1188, 11 Ohio Op. 246 (1938) .

(n6)Footnote 5. 28 U.S.C. § 1963; see Urban Indus., Inc. v. Thevis, 670 F.2d 981, 985 (11th Cir. 1982) .

167 of 167 DOCUMENTS

Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure

Copyright 2011, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

PART VIII Limits of Judicial Reconsideration
CHAPTER 30 RES JUDICATA AND RELATED DOCTRINES
PART II. RECOGNITION OF JUDGMENTS

3-30 Moore's Manual--Federal Practice and Procedure § 30.116

§ 30.116 Recognition and Enforcement of Judgments of Courts of Foreign Nationsn*

A court in the United States will recognize and enforce judgments rendered by courts in foreign countries, based on principles of comity, provided that the foreign judicial proceeding provided a minimum level of due process of law. n1 Neither the Full Faith and Credit Clause of the United States Constitution nor its facilitating statute n2 requires the recognition of foreign judgments. n3 Comity is a general directive rather than a specified compulsory standard, in favor of recognizing the validity and finality of judicial acts of other countries. n4 Additionally, vestiges of historic principles providing for limited recognition of international judgments remain in some forums, including a requirement of reciprocity. n5

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditGeneral OverviewCivil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsFull Faith & CreditFull Faith & Credit StatuteConstitutional LawRelations Among GovernmentsFull Faith & CreditInternational LawDispute ResolutionComity DoctrineGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:
(n1)Footnote *. For a more complete discussion, see 18 Moore's Federal Practice, § 130.50 et seq. (Matthew Bender 3d ed.).

(n2)Footnote 1. Cunard S.S. Co. v. Salen Reefer Servs. AB, 773 F.2d 452, 457 (2d Cir. 1985) .

(n3)Footnote 2. 28 U.S.C. § 1738.

(n4)Footnote 3. See DeSilva v. DiLeonardi, 125 F.3d 1110, 1114 (7th Cir. 1997) , cert. denied, 525 U.S. 810 (1998) (there is no international doctrine of full faith and credit; "comity" is some distance short of legal obligation established by full faith and credit statute).

(n5)Footnote 4. Cunard S.S. Co. v. Salen Reefer Servs. AB, 773 F.2d 452, 457 (2d Cir. 1985) .

(n6)Footnote 5. McCord v. Jet Spray Int'l Corp., 874 F. Supp. 436, 437, 439 (D. Mass. 1994) (reciprocity is no longer factor under federal law, but remains as factor under some state statutes, and federal court looks to state statute when jurisdiction is based on diversity).