3. Customer preference for employees of one sex;
4. The necessity for providing separate facilities for one sex; or

5. The fact that members of one sex have traditionally been hired to perform the particular type of job.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Age Discrimination Defenses & Exceptions Bona Fide Occupational Qualifications Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 Coverage & Definitions General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 Coverage & Definitions Employees

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e).

(n2)Footnote 2. Knight v. Nassau Cty. Civil Service Com'n (2d Cir. 1981) 649 F.2d 157, 162 ; see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e).

(n3)Footnote 3. Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 200-201, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158, (BFOQ involving gender and fertility) ; Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 334, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 (BFOQ involving gender) ; Weeks v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235 (BFOQ involving gender) ; Kern v. Dynallectron Corp. (N.D. Tex. 1983) 577 F. Supp. 1196, 1199 , aff'd, 746 F.2d 810 (5th Cir. 1984) (BFOQ involving religion); see also 29 C.F.R. §§ 1604.2(a) (sex as BFOQ), 1606.4 (national origin as BFOQ).

(n4)Footnote 4. See Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 674 ; see also discussion in § 41.90.

(n5)Footnote 5. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e); E.E.O.C. v. Fremont Christian School (9th Cir. 1986) 781 F.2d 1362, 1366-1367 (BFOQ defense not available when alleged discrimination consisted of employment policy of providing health insurance only to married men or single persons as heads of household, but not to married women); see also Larson, Employment Discrimination, ch. 4, § 13.00, pp. 4-1-4-2.

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gifford v. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 685 F.2d 1149, 1155 .

(n7)Footnote 7. See Weeks v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235 .

(n8)Footnote 8. Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 197-202, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 202, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158

(n10)Footnote 10. Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 203-204, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158 , see Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 413-415, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 (construing ADEA BFOQ); Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 333, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 (construing Title VII BFOQ).

(n11)Footnote 11. See discussion in § 41.95.

(n12)Footnote 12. See Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Company (5th Cir. 1974) 494 F.2d 211, 244 , cert. denied, 439 U.S. 1115 (1979) .

(n13)Footnote 13. See Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 674 .

(n14)Footnote 14. See Chambers v. Omaha Girls Club, Inc. (8th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 697, 701, 704 (applying business necessity "manifest relationship" standard to BFOQ analysis).

(n15)Footnote 15. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e); see also discussion in [a], above.

(n16)Footnote 16. See Pime v. Loyola University of Chicago (N.D. Ill. 1984) 585 F. Supp. 435, 443 (preferential hiring of Jesuit priests as teachers at Catholic-operated university upheld); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e)(2). For discussion of a religious institution's right to hire members of a certain religion to teach, see § 41.106.

(n17)Footnote 17. Kern v. Dynallectron Corp. (N.D. Tex. 1983) 577 F. Supp. 1196, 1199, 1202 , aff'd without op, 746 F.2d 810 (5th Cir. 1984) .

(n18)Footnote 18. Abrams v. Baylor College of Medicine (5th Cir. 1986) 805 F.2d 528 .

(n19)Footnote 19. See Abrams v. Baylor College of Medicine (5th Cir. 1986) 805 F.2d 528, 533 .

(n20)Footnote 20. EEOC v. Kamehameha Sch./Bishop Estate (9th Cir. 1993) 990 F.2d 458 .

(n21)Footnote 21. EEOC v. Kamehameha Sch./Bishop Estate (9th Cir. 1993) 990 F.2d 458, 465-467 .

(n22)Footnote 22. Dolter v. Wahlert High School (N.D. Iowa 1980) 483 F. Supp. 266, 271 .

(n23)Footnote 23. See 29 C.F.R. § 1604.2(a)(2) (EEOC considers sex to be BFOQ if based on need for authenticity).

(n24)Footnote 24. See Norwood v. Dale Maintenance Sys., Inc. (N.D. Ill. 1984) 590 F. Supp. 1410, 1420-1423 (restroom cleaner); Brooks v. ACF Industries, Inc. (S.D. W. Va. 1982) 537 F. Supp. 1122, 1132 (female janitor in men's bath house); Fesel v. Masonic Home of Delaware, Inc. (D. Del. 1978) 447 F. Supp 1346, 1352-1354 , aff'd without op, 591 F.2d 1334 (3d Cir. 1979) (nursing assistant in home for elderly); see also Larson, Employment Discrimination, ch. 43 (Matthew Bender).

(n25)Footnote 25. See 29 C.F.R. § 1604.2(a)(1)(i)-(iii).

(n26)Footnote 26. See Rosenfeld v. Southern Pacific Co. (9th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1224-1225 .

(n27)Footnote 27. See Weeks v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235 .

(n28)Footnote 28. Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187 202, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158 (Title VII) .

(n29)Footnote 29. Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 .

(n30)Footnote 30. See [iii], below.

(n31)Footnote 31. Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 333-335, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 .

(n32)Footnote 32. Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 335-336, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 .

(n33)Footnote 33. Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 336, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 .

(n34)Footnote 34. See, e.g., Smith v. Fairman (7th Cir. 1982) 678 F.2d 52, 54 ; Gunther v. Iowa State Men's Reform. (8th Cir. 1980) 612 F.2d 1079, 1085-1087 , cert. denied, 446 U.S. 966 (1980) ; see also Torres v. Wis. Dep't of Health & Social Services (7th Cir. 1988) 838 F.2d 944, 950 , cert. denied, 489 U.S. 1017 (1989) (Dothard security rationale did not apply to refusal to employ male correctional officers at prison for women).

(n35)Footnote 35-40. [Reserved]

(n36)Footnote 41. See, e.g., Rosenfeld v. Southern Pacific Co. (9th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1223-1227 (exclusion of women for certain positions because of physical demands of job deemed unsuitable for women); Weeks v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235 (weight lifting restriction for female employees).

(n37)Footnote 42. Weeks v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235 .

(n38)Footnote 43. Rosenfeld v. Southern Pacific Co. (9th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1224 .

(n39)Footnote 44. See 29 C.F.R. § 1604.2.

(n40)Footnote 45. Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 676 .

(n41)Footnote 46. See Arritt v. Grisell (4th Cir. 1977) 567 F.2d 1267, 1271 (dealing with BFOQ under ADEA).

(n42)Footnote 47. Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 676 (citing Usery v. Tamiami Trail Tours, Inc. (5th Cir. 1976) 531 F.2d 224, 236 and Diaz v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc. (5th Cir. 1971) 442 F.2d 385, 388) ; see also Gifford v. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 685 F.2d 1149, 1155 (employer must prove that weight-lifting capability was actually reasonably necessary to particular position).

(n43)Footnote 48. Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 676 (citing Weeks v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235) .

(n44)Footnote 49. Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 677 . For discussion of nonpregnancy as BFOQ, see [v], below.

(n45)Footnote 50. See Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 797, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548 (distinguishing Harriss, in which not all or substantially all class members were shown to be unable to safely and efficiently perform job duties, on basis that Harriss involved common carrier and was thus subject to different standard).

(n46)Footnote 51. Diaz v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc. (5th Cir. 1971) 442 F.2d 385 .

(n47)Footnote 52. Diaz v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc. (5th Cir. 1971) 442 F.2d 385, 388-389 .

(n48)Footnote 53. Diaz v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc. (5th Cir. 1971) 442 F.2d 385, 389 .

(n49)Footnote 54. Diaz v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc. (5th Cir. 1971) 442 F.2d 385, 389 .

(n50)Footnote 55. Fernandez v. Wynn Oil Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 653 F.2d 1273, 1276 (rejecting BFOQ based on claim that South American clients preferred conducting business with male employees); see Blake v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1979) 595 F.2d 1367 .

(n51)Footnote 56. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(k).

(n52)Footnote 57. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e); see also [a], above.

(n53)Footnote 58. See, e.g., California Federal S. & L. Ass'n v. Guerra (1987) 479 U.S. 272, 107 S. Ct. 683, 93 L. Ed. 2d 613 (PDA mandates that pregnant employees must be treated same for all employment-related purposes as nonpregnant employees similarly situated with respect to their ability or inability to work).

(n54)Footnote 59. See Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 204-206, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L.

Ed. 2d 158 ("fetal protection" policy prohibiting employment of fertile women in jobs that expose them to toxic materials that allegedly endanger their unborn children).

(n55)Footnote 60. Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 204-205, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n56)Footnote 61. See, e.g., Levin v. Delta Air Lines (5th Cir. 1984) 730 F.2d 994 ; Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670 ; Condit v. United Air Lines, Inc. (4th Cir. 1977) 558 F.2d 1176 ; In re Nat. Airlines, Inc. (S.D. Fla. 1977) 434 F. Supp. 249, 263 , aff'd, 905 F.2d 1457 (11th Cir. 1990) (no BFOQ until 20th week of pregnancy).

(n57)Footnote 62. See Levin v. Delta Air Lines (5th Cir. 1984) 730 F.2d 994, 997 ; Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 670, 676-677 ; see also Auto Workers v. Johnson Controls (1991) 499 U.S. 187, 202-203, 111 S. Ct. 1196, 113 L. Ed. 2d 158 (citing Harriss application of "safety exception" with approval).

(n58)Footnote 63. Chambers v. Omaha Girls Club, Inc. (8th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 697 .

(n59)Footnote 64. Chambers v. Omaha Girls Club, Inc. (8th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 697, 703 .

(n60)Footnote 65. See Chambers v. Omaha Girls Club, Inc. (8th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 697, 701, 703, 704 .

(n61)Footnote 66. See Chambers v. Omaha Girls Club, Inc. (8th Cir. 1987) 834 F.2d 697, 701, 704 .

(n62)Footnote 67. See 29 C.F.R. § 1606.4.

(n63)Footnote 68. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1).

(n64)Footnote 69. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e). For discussion, see [1], above.

(n65)Footnote 70. Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 412, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 ; see 29 C.F.R. § 1625.6(a).

(n66)Footnote 71. Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 413-415, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 .

(n67)Footnote 72. Usery v. Tamiami Trail Tours, Inc. (5th Cir. 1976) 531 F.2d 224, 235-236 .

(n68)Footnote 73. Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 413-415, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 ; see Usery v. Tamiami Trail Tours, Inc. (5th Cir. 1976) 531 F.2d 224, 235-236 ; see also 29 C.F.R. § 1625.6(b); E.E.O.C. v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 843 F.2d 1213, 1214, 1217-1220 .

(n69)Footnote 74. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 122-124, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 .

(n70)Footnote 75. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 122, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 .

(n71)Footnote 76. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 123, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 .

(n72)Footnote 77. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 801, P 6523.

(n73)Footnote 78. Gov. Code § 12940; Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 19, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769 .

(n74)Footnote 79. See Gov. Code § 12940(a).

(n75)Footnote 80. Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 541, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158; Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 19, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769; see Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 334, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786; see also [1][a], [2], above, respectively.

(n76)Footnote 81. Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 541, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158; Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 19, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769; see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7290.8(c).

(n77)Footnote 81.1. Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 541, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158.

(n78)Footnote 82. Weeks v. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Company (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235.

(n79)Footnote 83. See Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 540-541, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158; Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 19, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769; County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 505-506, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381; Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 796-797, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548.

(n80)Footnote 84. Weeks v. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Company (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 235; see discussion in [1][a], above.

(n81)Footnote 85. Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158.

(n82)Footnote 86. Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 542, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158.

(n83)Footnote 87. Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 796-797, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548.

(n84)Footnote 88. Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769.

(n85)Footnote 89. Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 19-23, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769.

(n86)Footnote 90. Hegwer v. Board of Civil Service Comrs. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1011, 1025, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 389.

(n87)Footnote 91. Hegwer v. Board of Civil Service Comrs. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1011, 1025, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 389; see also McMillen v. Civil Service Com. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 125, 130-131, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 548 (ambulance driver weight limitations upheld based on health and safety concerns, but BFOQ language not used).

(n88)Footnote 92. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7290.8(b)(1)-(3).

(n89)Footnote 93. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7290.8(a)(1)-(5).

94 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.95

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.95 Business Necessity/Job-Relatedness

[1] Generally

As discussed in § 41.21[4], after a plaintiff establishes the elements of a prima facie case of unlawful discrimination under the disparate impact theory of liability, the focus shifts to the business justification the employer offers for its use of a challenged employment practice. At this stage, under Title VII, the employer must either refute the plaintiff's evidence and demonstrate that the employment practice does not have a disparate impact¹ or demonstrate that the challenged practice is "job related for the position in question and consistent with business necessity."² The employer has both the burden of producing evidence and the burden of persuasion regarding this issue.³ Proof that an employment practice is required by business necessity may not be used as a defense against a claim of intentional discrimination (i.e., disparate treatment) under Title VII.⁴

Title VII does not contain express definitions of "business necessity" or "job related," but one of the express purposes of the Civil Rights Act of 1991⁵ was to codify the concepts of "business necessity" and "job related" enunciated by the U.S. Supreme Court in Griggs v. Duke Power Co.,⁶ and in other Supreme Court decisions prior to Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio.⁷ In Wards Cove, the Court had indicated that the an employment practice with a disparate impact was justified under Title VII if it merely "serve[d], in a significant way, the legitimate employment goals of the employer."⁸ By comparison, Griggs and lower federal court decisions prior to Wards Cove had held that an employment practice causing a disparate impact must be justified by "business necessity."⁹ The "business necessity" standard and the concept of "job-relatedness" are generally interrelated. In fact, Ninth Circuit cases use the terms interchangeably.¹⁰ The standard applied by the Ninth Circuit is that the practice passes the business necessity/job-relatedness test if it measures traits that are important to successful job performance; the practice need not be proven necessary to the operation of the business.¹¹

The ADA expressly includes a business necessity defense. Under the ADA, it is a defense to a charge of discrimination based on the use of qualification standards, employment tests, or other selection criteria,¹² that the challenged selection criterion is job-related and consistent with business necessity,^{12.1} and the performance cannot be accomplished with reasonable accommodation required under the ADA.ⁿ¹³ Effective January 1, 2009, an employer must show that qualification standards, employment tests, or other selection criteria based specifically on an individual's uncorrected vision are job-related for the position in question and consistent with business necessity.^{n13.1} The ADA's business necessity defense may be asserted to defend against disparate treatment, disparate impact, and failure to accommodate claims under the ADA.^{n13.2} The ADA's version of the business necessity defense does not incorporate concepts from both the traditional Title VII business necessity defense to disparate impact claims and the BFOQ defense in Title VII and Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) disparate treatment challenges to a proscribed classification.ⁿ¹⁴

Under the ADA's business necessity defense, the employer has the burden of proving that discriminatory qualification standards satisfy the business necessity defense.^{n14.1} The standard is high and requires more of a showing than is needed to excuse an employer from accommodating a specific employee under the undue hardship standard.ⁿ¹⁵

To successfully assert the business necessity defense to an allegedly discriminatory application of a qualification standard, test or selection criteria, an employer bears the burden of showing that the qualification standard is each of the following:^{n15.1}

- Job-related.
- Consistent with business necessity.
- That performance cannot be accomplished by reasonable accommodation.

To show job-relatedness, the employer must demonstrate that the qualification standard fairly and accurately measures the individual's actual ability to perform the essential functions of the job.^{n15.2} When every person excluded by a qualification standard is a member of a protected class, i.e., disabled persons, the employer must demonstrate a predictive or significant correlation between the qualification and performance of the job's essential functions.^{n15.3} To show that the disputed qualification standard is consistent with business necessity, the employer must show that it substantially promotes the business's needs.^{n15.4} To show that performance cannot be accomplished by reasonable accommodation, the employer must demonstrate either that no reasonable accommodation currently available would cure the performance deficiency or that reasonable accommodation poses an undue hardship on the employer.^{n15.5} The ADA does not provide a comprehensive recitation of what is encompassed by a reasonable accommodation, but gives some examples of what its terms may include.^{n15.6} The employer must show that the qualification standard substantially promotes the business's needs, is necessary, and is related to the specific skills and physical requirements of the position to which it applies.ⁿ¹⁶ However, before an employee can challenge an employer's qualification standard, the employee must first prove that he or she is a "qualified individual" within the meaning of the ADA, i.e., one who can perform the job's essential functions with or without reasonable accommodation.^{n16.1} On the other hand, when an employer asserts a blanket safety-based qualification standard beyond the essential job function, which is not mandated by law and which screens out or tends to screen out an individual with a disability, the employer, not the employee, bears the burden of showing the higher qualification standard is job-related and consistent with business necessity, and that performance cannot be achieved through reasonable accommodation.^{n16.2} The fact that the qualification standard was negotiated by the employer and a labor union is not sufficient, by itself, to constitute business necessity.ⁿ¹⁷

It may also be a defense to an employee's charge of a medical examination having been requested for prohibited purposes that the medical examination is job-related and consistent with business necessity for the purpose of determining whether an employee is able to work.ⁿ¹⁸ In addition, it is a defense to a charge of discrimination under the ADA generally that a uniformly applied standard, criterion, or policy has a disparate impact on a disabled individual (or class), that the challenged standard has been shown to be job-related and consistent with business necessity, and the performance cannot be accomplished with reasonable accommodation required under the ADA.ⁿ¹⁹ For discussions relating to employee selection criteria and preemployment testing generally, see §§ 41.42 and 41.45. For a discussion of reasonable accommodation under the ADA, see § 41.51[2][a].

The ADA also declares that the term "qualification standards" may include a requirement that an individual not pose a direct threat to the health or safety of others in the workplace.ⁿ²⁰ Presumably, therefore, an employer with such a requirement may have a business necessity defense if the employer can prove that a disabled individual poses such a threat.ⁿ²¹ For further discussion of the ADA "health or safety" defense, see § 41.97[2].

Courts have held that business necessity is a defense in ADEA disparate impact cases.ⁿ²² However, courts must interpret California statutes prohibiting age discrimination in employment broadly and vigorously, in a manner comparable to prohibitions against sex and race discrimination, with the goal of protecting older workers as individuals and as a group.ⁿ²³

Business necessity is also a defense under the FEHA,ⁿ²⁴ as is job-relatedness.ⁿ²⁵ The California courts also seem to treat the two concepts interchangeably. In City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com.,ⁿ²⁶ the court of appeal stated that once the racially adverse impact of the employment practice is established, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to prove the practice is job-related, and that to meet that burden the defendant must demonstrate a business necessity for its use.

For further discussion of the "business necessity" standard, see § 41.21[4].

[2] Preemployment Tests

The seminal case in the area of business necessity, Griggs v. Duke Power Co.,ⁿ²⁷ arose in the context of an employment examination process that had a discriminatory impact on African-Americans. The test, given to all employees wishing to transfer to a skilled position, required the attainment of the national median score on two general intelligence and comprehension exams. The tests were intended to improve the overall quality of the employer's work force, but there had been no meaningful study of their relationship to job-performance ability. The Supreme Court held that a scored test must measure whether the person is suitable for the particular position and not measure the qualifications of the person in the abstract.ⁿ²⁸

Similarly, in Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody,ⁿ²⁹ the Supreme Court held that discriminatory tests are impermissible unless shown, by professionally acceptable standards, to predict or significantly correlate with job performance. Employers may determine whether their employment tests are job-related by the use of professional validation studies following the standards set forth by the EEOC on the use of such validation studies in its Uniform Guidelines on Employment Selection Procedures or by other professionally acceptable methods of validation.ⁿ³⁰

For further discussion of validity studies, see § 41.45.

[2A] Medical Testing Of Employees

The ADA provides that covered entities shall not require medical examinations of their employees in order to determine whether the employee is an individual with a disability or the nature and severity of a disability unless the examination is job-related and consistent with business necessity.ⁿ³¹ However, according to the Ninth Circuit, if health problems have had a substantial and injurious impact on an employee's job performance, the employer can require the employee to undergo a physical examination designed to determine the employee's ability to work, even if the examination might disclose whether the employee is disabled or the extent of any disability.ⁿ³² Thus, in Yin v. State of Cal.,ⁿ³³ the court found that the employer met the business necessity exception in requiring a medical examination of an employee whose excessive absenteeism and on-the-job illness had taken a serious toll on her productivity and overall job performance.

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Although the Yin casen³⁴ cited in the text involves public employment, the portions of the opinion which concern the ADAⁿ³⁵ are equally applicable to private employers. Section 12112(d)(4)(A) of the ADA prohibits an employer from requiring an employee to have a medical examination or from making medical inquiries regarding an employee, "unless such examination or inquiry is shown to be job-related and consistent with business necessity." The question which arose in Yin from this passage was: Under what circumstances may an employer compel an employee to undergo a medical examination to determine his or her ability to perform the essential functions of his or her job?

The decision of the panel arguably engrafts a judicially-created exception upon Section 12112(d)(4)(A). On first reading, the opinion seems to create a workable rule: "We conclude that when health problems have had a substantial and injurious impact on an employee's job performance, the employer can require the employee to undergo a physical examination designed to determine his or her ability to work, even if the examination might disclose whether the employee is disabled or the extent of any disability." On closer inspection, however, a number of issues arise. For example, many employers require "fitness for duty" examinations at the end of medical leaves of absence. Is a medical condition which has required a leave from work a condition which has had "a substantial and injurious impact on an employee's job performance?" Moreover, some employers require "reasonable suspicion" drug and alcohol testing. Is a person who exhibits signs of impairment from drugs or alcohol someone who has exhibited "a substantial and injurious impact on [his or her] job performance?"

In the final analysis, the ADA permits medical examinations and inquiries which are job-related and consistent with business necessity. The statute does not say anything about the need to prove the degree of impact upon employee job performance ("substantial and injurious") as a precondition to the right to require such examinations. Indeed, the statute contains definitions of "job-related" and "business necessity" which are the product of years of case law and statutory development. Those definitions provide their own safeguards upon cavalier employer decision making. Thus, the holding, while easily satisfied on the facts presented to the court, is potentially more restrictive than is warranted by the ADA itself. It is not clear from the opinion why the imposition of such a limitation was necessary or how it can withstand judicial scrutiny in the long run. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

[3] Experience Requirements

Many cases involving the defense of business necessity have arisen in the context of facially neutral requirements for a certain amount of experience for the position in question. In such cases, the court looks to the amount of skill required for the position and the economic and human risks involved.

If the job requires a small amount of skill, and the consequences of hiring an untrained applicant are insignificant, the court should closely examine the criteria that discriminate and should place a heavy burden on the employer to demonstrate that the criteria are job-related. Conversely, when the job clearly requires a high degree of skill, and the risk involved is great, the employer should bear a correspondingly lighter burden to show the criteria are job-related.ⁿ³⁶

For example, in one casen³⁷ the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals held to be valid the requirements of a college degree and a minimum of 500 flight hours for the position of flight officer because the position required a great degree of skill, and the risks both to safety and to property were great.

However, in E.E.O.C. v. Insurance Co. of North America,ⁿ³⁸ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a refusal to hire on the basis of "overqualification" did not constitute age discrimination in violation of the ADEA. The court cautioned that overqualification is vulnerable to serving as a proxy for age discrimination, but that the employer had demonstrated an objective criterion (danger of undue imposition on customer time) that was not age related.ⁿ³⁹

For additional discussion of experience requirements, see § 41.42[2][i]. For discussion of validation, see § 41.45[2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact Employment Practices General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Treatment General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(B)(ii); See also § 41.21[3] (what constitutes "disparate impact").

(n2)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(A)(i).

(n3)Footnote 3. 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e(m), 2000e-2(k)(1)(A)(i). The provision regarding burden of proof, which was added by the Civil Rights Act of 1991 (Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 104), was intended to overrule the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 659-660, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733, in which the Court had held that the employer had only the burden of producing evidence regarding a business justification for the challenged employment practice and that the burden of persuasion remained at all times with the plaintiff.

(n4)Footnote 4. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(2). For discussion of disparate treatment, see §§ 41.10-41.11.

(n5)Footnote 5. See Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 3(2); see also Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 2(2) (congressional finding that Wards Cove decision had weakened the scope and effectiveness of federal civil rights protection).

(n6)Footnote 6. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158.

(n7)Footnote 7. Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733.

(n8)Footnote 8. Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 659, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733. However, it has been held that the Civil Rights Act of 1991 does not apply retroactively to the Wards Cove case itself, even though the holding in Wards Cove regarding business necessity was effectively reversed by the Civil Rights Act of 1991. See Atonio v. Wards Cove Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 10 F.3d 1485, 1496.

(n9)Footnote 9. See Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 431, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158; see also Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280; Clady v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1421; Contreras v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 1267, 1276, 1278.

(n10)Footnote 10. See Contreras v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 1267, 1276; See also § 41.03[2][d].

(n11)Footnote 11. See Contreras v. City of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 1267, 1275-1280.

(n12)Footnote 12. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(6); see also 29 C.F.R. § 1630.10.

(n13)Footnote 12.1. See, e.g., Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 889-892 (police department could not establish as requirements for desirable specialized assignment the need to perform patrol service during the year preceding and the year following specialized assignment).

(n14)Footnote 13. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(b)(1). See Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 995 (although shorthand reference is "business necessity" defense, defense also incorporates requirements of job-relatedness and reasonable accommodation).

(n15)Footnote 13.1. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(c).

(n16)Footnote 13.2. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 995, n.10, agreeing with Morton v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1249, 1260-1261 (discussing interplay among 42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)'s various definitions of discrimination and § 12113(a)'s provision of business necessity defense). See Raytheon Co. v. Hernandez (2003) 540 U.S. 44, 52-53, 124 S. Ct. 513, 157 L. Ed. 2d 357 (recognizing applicability of business necessity defense to both disparate treatment and disparate impact claims under ADA).

(n17)Footnote 14. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 994-998, overruling Morton v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1249, 1260-1263.

(n18)Footnote 14.1. Morton v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1249, 1257 n.8, 1258, overruled on other grounds in Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 995-998; Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 890.

(n19)Footnote 15. Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 890. For discussion of undue hardship, see § 41.51[4][a].

(n20)Footnote 15.1. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a); Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 995-998 (because district court based its rationale on now-overruled framework, Ninth Circuit vacated finding employer violated rights under ADA, vacated injunction, and remanded for proceedings consistent with its opinion, leaving to district court determination whether additional evidence would be appropriate in light of significant change in legal landscape of case).

(n21)Footnote 15.2. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 996.

(n22)Footnote 15.3. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 996, citing Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 431, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280.

(n23)Footnote 15.4. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 996.

(n24)Footnote 15.5. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 996-997.

(n25)Footnote 15.6. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 996-997. See 42 U.S.C. § 12111(9); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(o)(2); see also 29 C.F.R. §§ 1630.2(o)(1) (defining "reasonable accommodation" to include modifications or adjustments to application processes, work environment, and access to benefits and privileges of employment).

(n26)Footnote 16. Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 890.

(n27)Footnote 16.1. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 989. For discussion of "qualified individual," see § 41.32[2][a], above.

(n28)Footnote 16.2. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 974, 992-993. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a).

(n29)Footnote 17. See Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 891-893.

(n30)Footnote 18. See Yin v. State of Cal. (9th Cir. 1996) 95 F.3d 864, 867-868, cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1114 (1997); see also [2][a], below.

(n31)Footnote 19. 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(c).

(n32)Footnote 20. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(b)(2).

(n33)Footnote 21. Cf. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a), (b).

(n34)Footnote 22. See, e.g., Geller v. Markham (2d Cir. 1980) 635 F.2d 1027, 1032 .

(n35)Footnote 23. Gov. Code § 12941 (statute does not limit affirmative defenses traditionally available in employment discrimination cases, such as those set forth in 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7).

(n36)Footnote 24. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(b).

(n37)Footnote 25. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7286.7(c), 7287.4(e).

(n38)Footnote 26. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n39)Footnote 27. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n40)Footnote 28. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 428, 431, 436, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n41)Footnote 29. Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 431, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 .

(n42)Footnote 30. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1607.1-1607.18 (Uniform Guidelines); Clady v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1421, 1427-1428 . For discussion of Guidelines, see § 41.21[3][b] and ch. 40, pt. C.

(n43)Footnote 31. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112(d)(4)(A); see also Fredenburg v. Contra Costa County Dep't of Health (9th Cir. 1999) 172 F.3d 1176, 1182-1183 (employees need not prove that they are qualified individuals with a disability to challenge scope of medical examinations under ADA; covered entity (employer) has burden to show that examination is job-related and consistent with business necessity).

(n44)Footnote 32. See Yin v. State of Cal. (9th Cir. 1996) 95 F.3d 864, 867-868 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1114 (1997) .

(n45)Footnote 33. Yin v. State of Cal. (9th Cir. 1996) 95 F.3d 864, 867-868 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1114 (1997) .

(n46)Footnote 34. Yin v. State of Cal. (9th Cir. 1996) 95 F.3d 864 , cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1114 (1997) .

(n47)Footnote 35. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.

(n48)Footnote 36. Spurlock v. United Airlines, Inc. (10th Cir. 1972) 475 F.2d 216, 219 ; see E.E.O.C. v. Local 14, Union of Op. Eng. (2d Cir. 1977) 553 F.2d 251, 256 .

(n49)Footnote 37. Spurlock v. United Airlines, Inc. (10th Cir. 1972) 475 F.2d 216, 219 .

(n50)Footnote 38. E.E.O.C. v Insurance Co. of North America (9th Cir. 1995) 49 F.3d 1418 .

(n51)Footnote 39. See E.E.O.C. v Insurance Co. of North America (9th Cir. 1995) 49 F.3d 1418, 1420 .

95 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.96

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.96 Communist Party Affiliation

Title VII provides that the phrase "unlawful employment practice" does not apply to actions taken by an employer with respect to an individual who is a member of the Communist Party or other organization required to register as a Communist front organization.ⁿ¹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964Coverage & DefinitionsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(f).

96 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.97

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.97 Employee's Inability to Perform Job or Danger to Health and Safety

[1] Under FEHA

Under the FEHA, employers may not discriminate against employees or applicants because of physical or mental disability or medical condition.ⁿ¹ However, an employer is justified in refusing to hire or discharging an employee because of a physical or mental disability or a medical condition if the employee cannot perform his or her essential duties at all, or cannot perform those duties in a manner that would not endanger his or her health or safety or that of others, even with reasonable accommodation.ⁿ² The FEHA defines "essential functions" as the fundamental duties of the employment position the individual with a disability holds or desires. "Essential functions" do not include the marginal functions of the position.ⁿ³ The employer has the burden of proving this defense by a preponderance of the evidence.ⁿ⁴

Under the FEHA, a job function may be considered essential for any of several reasons, including, but not limited to, the following:ⁿ⁵

1. The function may be essential because the reason the position exists is to perform the function;
2. The function may be essential because of the limited number of employees available among whom the performance of that job function may be distributed;
3. The function may be highly specialized, so that the incumbent in the position is hired for his or her expertise or ability to perform the particular function.

Evidence of whether a particular function is essential includes, but is not limited to, the following:ⁿ⁶

1. The employer's judgment regarding which functions are essential;

2. Written job descriptions prepared before advertising or interviewing applicants for the job;
3. The amount of time spent on the job performing the function;
4. The consequences of not requiring the incumbent to perform the function;
5. The terms of a collective bargaining agreement;
6. The work experiences of past incumbents in the job; and
7. The current work experiences of incumbents in similar jobs.

The FEHC regulations interpreting the FEHA break this defense down into three elements, as follows: (1) inability to perform (after reasonable accommodation has been made); (2) danger to the health or safety of the disabled individual; and (3) danger to the health and safety of others.ⁿ⁷

The safety defense has a narrow scope.ⁿ⁸ Application of the defense requires more than mere conclusions on the part of the employer.ⁿ⁹ The employer must show that the employee faced an "imminent and substantial degree of risk" in performing the essential functions of the job. If the harm is merely potential, the defense fails.ⁿ¹⁰ Analysis of the defense must be tailored to the individual characteristics of each applicant or employee in relation to specific legitimate job requirements.ⁿ¹¹ For example, in Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com.,ⁿ¹² the employer, applying a policy of not hiring anyone with a back deficiency, refused to hire the plaintiff as a truck driver because he had scoliosis. The plaintiff had never had any job-related back problems and did not have any problems with his back at the time, had performed similar work for 10 years previously, and had worked in the identical position as a temporary worker for defendant for the previous 19 months. The court of appeal held that the defendant's evidence that plaintiff's condition created a possibility of future health problems was not sufficient to justify a refusal to employ the plaintiff, given the strong policy for providing equal employment opportunities for the disabled.ⁿ¹³

In Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc.,ⁿ¹⁴ a federal district court, in an action under the FEHA, applied the Sterling holding to a case involving an employer's refusal to hire the plaintiff because she had asthma. The court stated that although the employer had presented evidence that employment requiring physical exertion and exposure to dust might pose a risk of future injury to some asthmatics, it had failed to show that the plaintiff could not with reasonable accommodation have performed her particular duties without imminent and substantial risk to her health. The court held that the employer's evidence of abstract medical generalizations regarding the possibility of future injury was insufficient as a matter of law to qualify as a defense.ⁿ¹⁵

However, in two cases, one involving a city fire department paramedic,ⁿ¹⁶ and the other involving a city fire department ambulance driver,ⁿ¹⁷ the courts upheld maximum weight requirements on the basis that an obese person would be incapable of performing those jobs without endangering his or her own health or safety or that of others. In each case, the courts relied on statistical studies establishing that excess fat compromises an emergency worker's strength, agility, and ability to do all of the things necessary to perform the job safely and efficiently.ⁿ¹⁸

A federal court interpreting the FEHA held that UPS satisfied the safety-of-others defense in denying driver positions to employees with monocular vision who failed to meet UPS's vision protocol. The failure to meet the protocol was a sufficiently individualized determination to satisfy the safety-of-others defense because each applicant was tested for compliance with specific criteria that were a reasonable means of ensuring the safety of its employees and members of the public. The potential for traffic fatalities was a serious problem, and the potential for endangerment of human life justified safety-based restrictions even when the risk of occurrence was modest.^{n18.1}

In cases in which physical or mental disability or medical condition discrimination is alleged, the employer has the duty to reasonably accommodate the employee, and failure to do so may negate the application of this defense.ⁿ¹⁹ "Reasonable accommodation" refers in this context to ways in which an employer can continue to provide a disabled employee with employment by removing the danger and making the position in question safe.ⁿ²⁰ For full discussion of the duty to accommodate handicaps and disabilities, see § 41.51[1].

[2] Under ADA

[a] Generally

The federal ADA generally prohibits "qualification standards" that discriminate based on disability.ⁿ²¹ However, that statute permits such standards to include a requirement that an individual not pose a direct threat to the individual's own health or to the health or safety of other individuals in the workplace.ⁿ²² A "direct threat" is a significant risk of substantial harm to the health or safety of the individual or others that cannot be eliminated or reduced by reasonable accommodation.ⁿ²³

An employer is not required to defend all safety-related qualification standards under the direct-threat provision.ⁿ²⁴ However, under the ADA, the employer bears the burden of establishing that a challenged standard is job-related and consistent with business necessity.^{n24.1}

The determination that an individual poses a direct threat must be based on an individualized assessment of the person's present ability to perform safely the essential functions of the job, based on current medical knowledge. Relevant factors include the duration of the risk; the nature, severity, and imminence of the potential harm; and the likelihood of its occurrence.ⁿ²⁵ Before excluding an employee as a direct threat, the employer must demonstrate a "particularized enquiry into the harms the employee would probably face."^{n25.1} The mere fact that an employer avoids stereotypes in excluding an employee based on an alleged direct threat does not satisfy the employer's affirmative obligation to make an assessment based on "the most current medical knowledge and/or on the best available objective evidence."^{n25.2} The individualized risk assessment also requires consideration of relevant information about an employee's past work history.^{n25.3}

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Although it may now seem obvious, it is worth noting that the federal judiciary has created both an obligation and a safe harbor for employers by requiring independent medical evidence to support adverse employment actions that are linked to alleged disabilities. Thus, Arline ⁿ²⁶ requires that employers not "play doctor," but instead base any adverse employment actions involving alleged disabilities upon medical records and testimony. Conversely, an employer that predicates adverse employment actions upon competent medical evidence often may offer that evidence as a complete defense to its conduct. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

In the Ninth Circuit, the employer bears the burden of proving that an employee constitutes a direct threat.ⁿ²⁷ Then employer must gather substantial information about an employee's work history and medical status. The employer's decision must be based on particularized facts using the best available objective evidence, as required by the regulations.^{n27.1} The employer must do more than consider generalized statements of potential harm. The employer must consider the severity, imminence, and potential likelihood of harm and, in precluding the employee, demonstrate at least a "significant risk of substantial harm."^{n27.2}

Courts should first consider whether the employer has demonstrated that the employee cannot perform the job without significant risk of harm.ⁿ²⁸ If a significant risk is posed, courts should then inquire whether the employer can make a reasonable accommodation (without undue hardship to the employer) that eliminates or reduces the risk. This analysis necessarily requires employers to gather "substantial information" about the employee's work history and medical status, and disallows reliance on subjective evaluations by the employer.ⁿ²⁹

Qualification standards that discriminate based on disability in order to protect the health or safety of other workers may also fall within the business necessity defense as discussed in § 41.95[1].ⁿ³⁰

[b] Food-Handling

The ADA also provides that if an individual has a specified infectious or communicable disease that is transmitted to others through the handling of food, and if the threat of transmission cannot be eliminated by reasonable accommodation, an employer may refuse to assign or continue to assign that individual to a job involving food handling.ⁿ³¹ Nothing in the ADA, however, may be construed to preempt, modify, or amend any state, county, or local law, ordinance, or regulation applicable to food handling which is designed to protect the public health from individuals who pose a significant risk to the health or safety of others, which cannot be eliminated by reasonable accommodation, because they have such a specified infectious or communicable disease.ⁿ³² As required by the ADA, the Secretary of Health and Human Services has published an interim list of infectious and communicable diseases that may be transmitted through food handling and a description of the methods of such transmission.ⁿ³³ The Secretary has divided the diseases into two categories: (1) pathogens often transmitted by infected food handlers, and (2) pathogens occasionally transmitted by food handlers, but usually transmitted at the source or in food processing or by routes other than through food. The diseases enumerated in the first category are: Hepatitis A virus, Norwalk and Norwalk-like viruses, salmonella typhi, shigella species, staphylococcus aureus, Streptococcus pyogenes. The diseases listed in the second category are: Camphylobacter jejuni, Entamoeba histolytica, Enterohemorrhagic escherichia coli, Enterotoxigenic escherichia coli, Giardia lamblia, Nontyphoidal salmonella, Rotavirus, Vibrio cholerae 01, and Yersinia enterocolitica.ⁿ³⁴

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationActionable DiscriminationLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 12940(a). For discussion of the scope of the terms "physical disability," "mental disability," and "medical condition," see § 41.32.

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12940(a)(1), (2). see discussion of Jimeno v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 66 F.3d 1514 (interpreting FEHA requirements as to "danger to self" defense) under BFOQ; for discussion of BFOQ generally, see § 41.94. For the standard jury instruction for the affirmative defense to a disability discrimination claim under FEHA that the employee was unable to perform essential job duties, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2543 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For the standard jury instruction for the affirmative defense that an employee could not perform the job without being a health or safety risk, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2544 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05.

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12926(f).

(n4)Footnote 4. Raytheon Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1252, 261 Cal. Rptr. 197; DFEH v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. 90-08, p. 9; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 6.

(n5)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12926(f)(1).

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code § 12926(f)(2).

(n7)Footnote 7. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.8(b), (c), (d); DFEH v. Ca. State University-Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 18; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, pp. 6, 8.

(n8)Footnote 8. Jimeno v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 66 F.3d 1514, 1534 ; Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 848 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Jimeno v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 66 F.3d 1514, 1534 .

(n10)Footnote 10. Jimeno v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 66 F.3d 1514, 1534 .

(n11)Footnote 11. Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 798, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548 ; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 7.

(n12)Footnote 12. Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548 .

(n13)Footnote 13. Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 799, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548 ; see Jimeno v. Mobil Oil Corp. (9th Cir. 1995) 66 F.3d 1514, 1533-1535 ; see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.8(e) (stating in part that future risk from disability or medical condition is not a defense so long as there is no present interference with ability to perform job in manner that will not immediately endanger handicapped individual or others); Johnson v. Civil Service Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 585, 590-591, 200 Cal. Rptr. 289 (speculation of possibility of future injury and fiscal restraint held insufficient to justify failure to hire plaintiff as firefighter because of spinal condition).

(n14)Footnote 14. Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 848-851 , aff'd, 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 (9th Cir. 1988) .

(n15)Footnote 15. Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 851 , aff'd, 860 F.2d 1514, 1519-1520 (9th Cir. 1988) ; see DFEH v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. 90-08, pp. 9-11; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Prods., Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 6.

(n16)Footnote 16. Hegwer v. Board of Civil Serv. Comrs. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1011, 1025, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 389 .

(n17)Footnote 17. McMillen v. Civil Serv. Comm'n (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 125, 130-131, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 548 .

(n18)Footnote 18. McMillen v. Civil Serv. Comm'n (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 125, 130-131, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 548 ; Hegwer v. Board of Civil Serv. Comrs. (1992) 5 Cal. App. 4th 1011, 1025, 7 Cal. Rptr. 2d 389 .

(n19)Footnote 18.1. EEOC v. United Parcel Service (9th Cir. 2005) 424 F.3d 1060, 1074-1077 .

(n20)Footnote 19. See Gov. Code § 12940(a)(1), (m); Fisher v. Superior Court (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 779, 783, 223 Cal. Rptr. 203 ; DFEH v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. 90-08, p. 11; DFEH v. California State Univ.-Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08 at p. 19.

(n21)Footnote 20. DFEH v. California State Univ.-Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 20.

(n22)Footnote 21. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(6); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.7. See also § 41.42[1].

(n23)Footnote 22. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(b)(2). See Collings v. Longview Fibre Co. (9th Cir. 1995) 63 F.3d 828 discussed in § 41.94[3]. See also Chevron U.S.A., Inc. v. Echazabal (2002) 536 U.S. 73, 122 S. Ct. 2045, 153 L. Ed. 2d 82 (upholding 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(b)(2) and reversing Ninth Circuit's holding in Echazabal v. Chevron U.S.A., Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 226 F.3d 1063 that regulation was in excess of EEOC's rulemaking authority).

(n24)Footnote 23. 42 U.S.C. § 12111(3) ("significant risk to health of others"); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(r).

(n25)Footnote 24. Morton v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1249, 1258, cert. denied, overruled on other grounds in Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 995-998.

(n26)Footnote 24.1. See also Morton v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1249, 1257 n.8, 1258, overruled on other grounds in Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 995-998; Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 890.

(n27)Footnote 25. 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(r); see Bragdon v. Abbott (1998) 524 U.S. 624, 118 S. Ct. 2196, 2210, 141 L. Ed. 2d 540 (individualized direct threat inquiry must rely on best current medical or other objective evidence); see also School Bd. of Nassau County, Fla. v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 287, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307; Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1031-1032 (while employee conceded duration of his medical condition, he raised material issues of fact about remaining factors, precluding summary judgment for employer that employee posed direct threat to himself); Hutton v. Elf Atochem N. Am. (9th Cir. 2001) 273 F.3d 884, 894-895 (applying individualized assessment of each factor in four-factor test supported conclusion that diabetic would pose direct threat to others by continuing employment as chlorine-finishing operator).

(n28)Footnote 25.1. Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1028, quoting Chevron U.S.A., Inc. v. Echazabal (2002) 536 U.S. 73, 122 S. Ct. 2045, 2053, 153 L. Ed. 2d 82.

(n29)Footnote 25.2. Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1028 n.3.

(n30)Footnote 25.3. Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1032; see Nunes v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 164 F.3d 1243, 1248; Mantolite v. Bolger (9th Cir. 1985) 767 F.2d 1416, 1423.

(n31)Footnote 26. School Board of Nassau County, Florida v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 287, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307.

(n32)Footnote 27. Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1027; Hutton v. Elf Atochem N. Am. (9th Cir. 2001) 273 F.3d 884, 893 (no dispute that plaintiff's continued employment constituted direct threat to others); Nunes v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 164 F.3d 1243, 1247. But see EEOC v. Amego, Inc. (1st Cir. 1997) 110 F.3d 135, 144 (plaintiff bears burden of demonstrating he or she can perform essential job functions so as not to endanger others); Moses v. Am. Nonwovens, Inc. (11th Cir. 1996) 97 F.3d 446, 447 (per curiam) (employee retains at all times burden of persuading jury he or she was not direct threat); see also Emerson v. N. States Power Co. (7th Cir. 2001) 256 F.3d 506, 513 (noting issue without taking clear position); Borgialli v. Thunder Basin Coal Co. (10th Cir. 2000) 235 F.3d 1284, 1294-95 (same); Donahue v. CONRAIL (3d Cir. 2000) 224 F.3d 226, 230-31 (same); Rizzo v. Children's World Learning Ctrs., Inc. (5th Cir.) 213 F.3d 209, 212-13 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 958 (2000) (same).

(n33)Footnote 27.1. Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1028-1030 (employee raised material issue of fact as to whether potential employer's decision was based on reasonable medical judgment relying on most current medical knowledge and/or best available objective evidence, where employer's doctors were not specialists in area, but employee's doctors, who were specialists, offered the unequivocal assessment that employee could work without facing a substantial risk of harm beyond that faced by other workers, and employee presented evidence there was no scientific basis for the contrary opinions of employer's doctors).

(n34)Footnote 27.2. Echazabal v. Chevron USA, Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1023, 1030.

(n35)Footnote 28. See, e.g., Hutton v. Elf Atochem N. Am. (9th Cir. 2001) 273 F.3d 884, 894 (severity and scale of potential harm to others presented by employment of diabetic as chlorine-finishing operator posed significant risk under direct-threat analysis).

(n36)Footnote 29. Nunes v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 164 F.3d 1243, 1247 (record lacked evidence of medical status at termination and any consideration of accommodations to reduce risk; avoiding lifting in cashier position might be reasonable accommodation to ease employer's fear that pregnant employee might drop heavy item lifted over head).

(n37)Footnote 30. Cf. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a), (b).

(n38)Footnote 31. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(e)(2); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.16(e)(1).

(n39)Footnote 32. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(e)(3); 29 C.F.R. § 1630.16(e)(2).

(n40)Footnote 33. See 56 Fed. Reg. 22726 (1991) .

(n41)Footnote 34. See 56 Fed. Reg. 22726-22727 (1991) .

97 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.98

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.98 "Foreign Laws" Defense

[1] Under Title VII and ADA

Title VII generally applies to U.S. citizens who are employed by American corporations (or their subsidiaries) in a foreign country.ⁿ¹ However, Title VII also provides that it is not unlawful for an employer (or a corporation controlled by an employer) or other covered entity to take any action otherwise prohibited by Title VII with respect to an employee in a workplace located in a foreign country if compliance with Title VII would cause the employer (or controlled corporation) or other covered entity to violate the law of the foreign country in which the workplace is located.ⁿ² If an employer controls a corporation whose place of incorporation is a foreign country, any practice prohibited by Title VII that is engaged in by the controlled foreign corporation is presumed to be engaged in by the employer.ⁿ³

The prohibitions of Title VII do not apply to the foreign operations of an employer that is a foreign person not controlled by an American employer.ⁿ⁴

For purposes of the "foreign laws" defense, the determination of whether an employer controls a corporation is based on the interrelation of operations, common management, centralized control of labor relations, and common ownership or financial control, of the employer and the foreign corporation.ⁿ⁵

The ADA contains a "foreign laws" defense that is virtually identical to the Title VII defense described above.ⁿ⁶

[2] Under ADEA

The ADEA provides that age discrimination is not unlawful if it involves an employee in a workplace in a foreign country, and compliance with the ADEA would cause the employer, or a corporation controlled by the employer, to violate the laws of the country in which the workplace is located.ⁿ⁷ Thus, according to an EEOC policy guideline construing this provision, there are three elements that an employer must satisfy in establishing a "foreign laws" defense: (1) the challenged practice involves an employee in a foreign workplace; (2) compliance with the ADEA would cause the employer or its corporation to violate foreign laws; and (3) the law violated is that of the country in which the foreign workplace is located.ⁿ⁸

With respect to the first element (employee in a foreign workplace), the EEOC has stated that the foreign laws defense is unavailable if a challenged practice involves an employee in a workplace in any of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Wake Island, the Canal Zone, or the Outer Continental Shelf Lands as defined by the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act.ⁿ⁹

With respect to the second element (compliance causes violation of foreign law), a "law," although difficult to define, does not include the employer's rules, regulations, or employment policies. Also, whether compliance with the ADEA causes an employer to violate foreign law depends on the nature and substance of the law. The issue is generally whether a practice inconsistent with the foreign law is mandated by the ADEA, or whether it is merely discretionary. Finally, under the third element of the defense (violation of law where foreign workplace is located), compliance with the ADEA must cause the employer to violate foreign law at the situs of the workplace. Thus, an employer's headquarters or place of incorporation is not determinative, unless the subject employee's workplace is also located there.ⁿ¹⁰

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
DiscriminationAge DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationAge DiscriminationDefenses & ExceptionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. 2000e(f); see also ch. 40, pt. C.

(n2)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1(b).

(n3)Footnote 3. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1(c)(1).

(n4)Footnote 4. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1(c)(2).

(n5)Footnote 5. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1(c)(3).

(n6)Footnote 6. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112(c); see also 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(e).

(n7)Footnote 7. 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1).

(n8)Footnote 8. E.E.O.C. Compliance Manual (CCH) § 801, P 6524.

(n9)Footnote 9. E.E.O.C. Compliance Manual (CCH) § 801, P 6524; see 29 U.S.C. § 630(i) ("state" defined); see also 43 U.S.C. § 1331 et seq. (Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act).

(n10)Footnote 10. See E.E.O.C. Compliance Manual (CCH) § 801, P 6524.

98 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.99

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.99 Health Plans Provided by Employers May Provide Greater Benefits for Dependents

Although the FEHA prohibits discrimination on the basis of marital status, the FEHA further provides that an employer is not prohibited from providing, in a bona fide health plan, additional or greater benefits to employees with dependents than to employees without dependents or with fewer dependents.ⁿ¹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
General Overview
Pensions & Benefits Law
Employee Benefit Plans
General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12940(a)(3).

99 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.100

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.100 Indian Preference

Title VII provides that a business or enterprise on or near an Indian reservation may give preferential treatment under a publicly announced employment practice to an individual because he or she is an Indian living on or near a reservation.ⁿ¹ However, the Indian Preferences Exemption does not permit employment preferences based on tribal affiliation.ⁿ² In Dawavendewa v. Salt River Project,ⁿ³ a private employer who operated a facility on a Navaho reservation refused to consider a member of the Hopi tribe for an open position. The employer had a contractual obligation to grant employment preferences first to members of the Navaho tribe living on the reservation and then to other Navahos. The plaintiff brought suit for national origin discrimination in violation of Title VII.ⁿ⁴ Noting that the issue of whether the Indian Preferences Exemption applies to preferences based on tribal affiliation was one of first impression for federal courts, the Ninth Circuit reviewed EEOC guidelines on national origin discrimination, which state that tribal affiliation preferences conflict with the exemption.ⁿ⁵ Agreeing with the EEOC position, the court explained that the purpose of the exemption is to permit employers to favor Native Americans generally over all others to rectify past injustice, but not to favor one tribe over another. Therefore, the plaintiff's complaint alleged national origin discrimination that did not fall within the scope of this exemption.ⁿ⁶

If an Indian tribe is a necessary party to an action by the EEOC against an employer, it may be joined. When the EEOC asserts a cause of action against an employer and seeks no affirmative relief against the tribe, joinder of the tribe under Fed. Rule Civ. Proc. Rule 19 is not prevented by the fact that the EEOC cannot state a cause of action against the tribe. Because the EEOC is an agency of the United States, the tribe cannot object to joinder based on sovereign immunity.^{n6.1}

Title 25, U.S.C. Section 450e(b) provides that any contract, subcontract, grant, or subgrant pursuant to an act authorizing federal contracts with or grants to Indian organizations or for the benefit of Indians, must require that to the greatest extent feasible, preference be given to Indians in the employment and training opportunities connected with the grant. However, this statute does not create a private right of action.ⁿ⁷

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationActionable DiscriminationLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationNational Origin DiscriminationGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(i); Morton v. Mancari (1974) 417 U.S. 535, 547-548, 94 S. Ct. 2474, 41 L. Ed. 2d 290 ; Livingston v. Ewing (10th Cir. 1979) 601 F.2d 1110, 1113-1114 . See Schwarz v. Secretary of Health & Human Servs. (9th Cir. 1995) 73 F.3d 895 (plaintiff unsuccessfully challenged hiring contrary to Indian Preference Act) (25 U.S.C. § 472); Arizona Pub. Serv. Co. v. Aspaas (9th Cir. 1995) 69 F.3d 1026 (application of Title VII anti-nepotism provision to utility operating on Indian land, holding tribal authority had waived jurisdiction as to employment regulations).

(n2)Footnote 2. Dawavendewa v. Salt River Project Agric. Improvement and Power Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1117, 1120-1124 ; Policy Statement on Indian Preference Under Title VII, Fair Empl. Prac. (BNA) 405:6647, 6653 (May 16 1988).

(n3)Footnote 3. Dawavendewa v. Salt River Project Agric. Improvement and Power Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1117 .

(n4)Footnote 4. See § 41.33.

(n5)Footnote 5. Dawavendewa v. Salt River Project Agric. Improvement and Power Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1117, 1120-1124 (level of deference afforded EEOC guidelines depends on EEOC's thoroughness of consideration, validity of reasoning, consistency with other pronouncements, and persuasiveness); Policy Statement on Indian Preference Under Title VII, Fair Empl. Prac. (BNA) 405:6647, 6653 (May 16 1988).

(n6)Footnote 6. Dawavendewa v. Salt River Project Agric. Improvement and Power Dist. (9th Cir. 1998) 154 F.3d 1117, 1120-1124 . See also EEOC v. Peabody W. Coal Co. (9th Cir. 2005) 400 F.3d 774, 777 (without deciding merits, court reiterated interpretation of Indian preference exception of Title VII, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(i), to permit discrimination in favor of Indians living on or near reservation, but not against Indians belonging to other tribes).

(n7)Footnote 6.1. EEOC v. Peabody W. Coal Co. (9th Cir. 2005) 400 F.3d 774, 778 .

(n8)Footnote 7. Solomon v. Interior Reg'l Housing Auth. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 1194, 1196-1201 (no private right of action under 25 U.S.C. § 450e(b) for Native Alaskan who applied unsuccessfully for job with Native Alaskan regional housing authority formed by Native Alaskan associations pursuant to Alaska statute to provide housing services to low-income Native Alaskans).

100 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.101

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.101 Legally Required Action

Administrative regulations promulgated pursuant to the FEHA provide that notwithstanding a showing of discrimination, an employment practice is lawful if required by state or federal law or if done pursuant to order of a state or federal court of proper jurisdiction.ⁿ¹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationActionable Discrimination

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(f).

101 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.102

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.102 Medical Examination or Health Benefit Plan Under ADA

The regulations implementing the ADAⁿ¹ provide that an employer may defend against a charge of discrimination under the ADA if the alleged discriminatory action is specifically permitted by the regulations concerning medical examinations,ⁿ² health insurance,ⁿ³ life insurance, and other benefit plans.ⁿ⁴

These defenses are in addition to those provided by the ADA generally and the regulations that precisely correspond to the statutory provisions.ⁿ⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationCoverage & DefinitionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawPreemployment Practices

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 29 C.F.R. § 1630.14; See also § 41.46 (preemployment medical examinations) and § 41.63 (medical examinations of current employees).

(n3)Footnote 3. See § 41.61.

(n4)Footnote 4. 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(f); see 29 C.F.R. § 1630.16(f) (insurance and other benefits plans).

(n5)Footnote 5. 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(f).

102 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.103

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.103 Nondiscrimination Under ADA

It is a defense to a charge of disparate treatment brought under the ADAⁿ¹ that the challenged action is justified by a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason.ⁿ² However, it is no defense to the denial of a position to a qualified individual with a disability that the employer afforded that individual a position he or she does not desire, if the desired position is available.ⁿ³

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationCoverage & DefinitionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationDefenses & ExceptionsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112; see also 29 C.F.R. §§ 1630.4-1630.8, 1630.11-1630.12.

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 C.F.R. § 1630.15(a); see Collings v. Longview Fibre Co. (9th Cir. 1995) 63 F.3d 828, cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1048 (1996) (employee misconduct using drugs at the workplace and potentially placing others in danger is legitimate reason for discharge and not discrimination against drug addiction disability).

(n3)Footnote 3. Cripe v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 2001) 261 F.3d 877, 893-894 (court did not consider whether offer of comparable position would have been sufficient if desired position were not available); see 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(o) (reassignment may not be used to segregate employees with disabilities by forcing reassignments to undesirable positions or designated offices or facilities).

103 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.104

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.104 Reasonable Factor Other Than Age Defense and Good Cause Defense

[1] Reasonable Factor Other Than Age

Under the ADEA, an employer may defend an age discrimination claim on the ground that the employer made a differentiation based on reasonable factors other than age.ⁿ¹ For example, in Kelly v. American Standard, Inc.,ⁿ² involving the termination of a 57-year-old sales representative, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals explained that if the jury found that the employee was terminated because he was the least effective member of the sales force, and not because of his age, the employee's discharge would have been based on a "reasonable factor other than age."ⁿ³ The court premised its discussion, however, on the observation that age may be one of many "reasonable factors," as long as it is not a determinative one.ⁿ⁴

In another case, the Ninth Circuit held that to make a case of age discrimination, the plaintiff must refute the employer's proffered legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons for certain decisions that plaintiff claimed were made on the basis of age.ⁿ⁵ Plaintiff claimed that (1) coworkers had received more overtime; (2) certain work responsibilities that were originally the plaintiff's had remained with a younger employee after plaintiff returned from sick leave; and (3) the plaintiff had been reclassified to a lower position, all on the basis of her age. The court found reasonable the employer's explanations that (1) a younger coworker had received more overtime because she was responsible for a project in which plaintiff did not ask to assist; (2) the plaintiff had not been given back certain work responsibilities because she had been transferred to a new position on her return to work and also had been suffering from job-related stress; and (3) the plaintiff's reclassification had been based on an across-the-board review of all comparable positions, which had affected others in her position.ⁿ⁶ On these bases, the court found proper a summary judgment against the plaintiff for failing to refute the employer's reasons.ⁿ⁷

In Baker v. Delta Air Lines, Inc.,ⁿ⁸ an airline sought to avoid liability in a class action age discrimination case based on a proffered safety policy. The airline claimed that its policy of refusing to allow pilots to downbid to a lower cockpit position rather than completely retire when they reached age 60 was based on a long-standing safety policy based on the belief that having experienced ex-pilots in the cockpit in nonpilot positions would cause a "backseat driving situation," undermining the authority of the less-senior pilots in the cockpit. The court held that the plaintiffs should have been allowed to present evidence of executive memos written ten years prior to institution of the policy to refute the airline's safety rationale and to instead show that the airline had no such age-neutral rule in place at the time it refused to allow the pilots to downbid to other positions rather than retire.ⁿ⁹

The EEOC guideline on this defense states that no precise and unequivocal determination can be made about the scope of the phrase "differentiation based on reasonable factors other than age," and that whether such differentiations exist must be decided on the basis of all the particular facts and circumstances surrounding each individual situation.ⁿ¹⁰ Consistent with the Kelly rationale, the guideline also provides that when an employment practice uses age as a limiting criterion, the reasonable-factor-other-than-age-defense is unavailable.ⁿ¹¹

An employment practice, including a test, that is claimed as a basis for different treatment on the grounds that it is a factor other than age, but which has an adverse impact on individuals within the age group protected by the ADEA, must be justified under principles of business necessity or business justification.ⁿ¹² For discussion of principles relating to justification of employment tests, see § 41.45. For a discussion of the "disparate impact" theory of liability in general, see § 41.20. For a discussion of the business necessity or business justification defense generally, see § 41.95.

An employer facing a disparate-impact claim bears both the burden of production and the burden of persuasion on the basis of the reasonable-factor-other-than-age defense; thus, the employer must produce evidence raising the defense and persuade the factfinder of its merit.^{n12.1}

Similarly, when the reasonable-factor-other-than-age exception is raised against an individual claim of discriminatory treatment, the employer bears the burden of showing that the reasonable factor exists.ⁿ¹³ Federal regulations state that a differentiation based on the average cost of employing older employees as a group is unlawful except with respect to employee benefit plans that qualify for the exception discussed in § 41.93.ⁿ¹⁴ However, according to the U.S. Supreme Court, there is no disparate treatment under the ADEA when the factor motivating the employer is some feature other than the employee's age.ⁿ¹⁵ Thus, the Court held that an employer that terminated an employee to prevent his pension from vesting, although it might have violated the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA),ⁿ¹⁶ did not violate the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁷ The Court stated that there is an analytical difference between years of service and age, and that employment decisions based on the former do not violate the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁸

Following Supreme Court precedent, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that an employer may refuse to hire an individual because he or she is "overqualified" when that term is defined objectively and is thus not used as a proxy for age. In E.E.O.C. v. Insurance Co. of North America,ⁿ¹⁹ the court affirmed summary judgment for an employer that had rejected an applicant because the applicant was "overqualified" because the employer had demonstrated that the reasons why it perceived overqualification to be a problem were objective and not age-related.ⁿ²⁰ For further discussion, see § 41.67[2][c].

In Marks v. Loral Corp.,ⁿ²¹ after his layoff, the plaintiff filed age discrimination and retaliation claims under the ADEA and state law. The Court of Appeals concluded that price-based business decisions do not constitute illegal age discrimination. Stated differently, employers are entitled to prefer workers with lower salaries, even when that preference falls disproportionately on older, generally higher paid workers.ⁿ²² In discussing the ADEA, the court stated that the statutory purpose is to protect individuals from discrimination because of their age, such as discrimination based on a stereotype about age, not to protect older workers by virtue of their status as older workers. The court focused on the statute's explicit statement that an action based on "reasonable factors other than age" is not illegal age discrimination,ⁿ²³ and concluded that a differential based on salary is as reasonable a criterion as can be imagined in a market economy.ⁿ²⁴ Further, the court stated that disparate impact analysis is fundamentally inapplicable to age discrimination claims based on salary differentials.ⁿ²⁵ However, the Legislature has expressly rejected the Marks v. Loral Corp. opinion,ⁿ²⁶ declaring that it does not affect existing law in any way, including, but not limited to, the law pertaining to disparate treatment. Further, the Legislature stated that the disparate impact theory of proof may be used in claims of age discrimination.ⁿ²⁷

The FEHA provides two analogous defenses to its prohibition of age discrimination. First, the FEHA provides that it does not prohibit an employer from rejecting an applicant or terminating employment if the individual applicant or employee failed to meet bona fide requirements for the job or position sought or held.ⁿ²⁸ Second, the FEHA age discrimination provision does not limit the employer's right to select the better qualified person from among all applicants for a job.ⁿ²⁹ In Marks v. Loral Corp.,ⁿ³⁰ the court analogized the FEHA's "selecting the better qualified person" to the ADEA's "reasonable factors other than age" language. The court concluded that it would be unrealistic to limit the "better qualification" to skills, experience, and ability and to exclude price. Because the FEHA protects against arbitrary and unreasonable discrimination based on age, its provisions do not prevent the use of salary to differentiate between employees, even when it disproportionately affects older workers as a group.ⁿ³¹ The court specifically upheld a jury instruction stating the following: "An employer is entitled to choose employees with lower salaries, even though this may result in choosing younger employees. If the choice is based on salary, there is no age discrimination."ⁿ³² But the Legislature has rejected the Marks v. Loral Corp. opinion,ⁿ³³ declaring that the opinion does not affect existing law in any way, including, but not limited to, the law pertaining to disparate treatment. The use of salary as the basis for differentiating between employees when terminating employment may be found to constitute age discrimination if the use of that criterion adversely impacts older workers as a group.ⁿ³⁴ The Legislature further reaffirmed and declared its intent that the courts interpret the state's statutes prohibiting age discrimination in employment broadly and vigorously, in a manner comparable to prohibitions against sex and race discrimination, and with the goal of not only protecting older workers as individuals, but also older workers as a group because they face unique obstacles in the later phases of their careers.ⁿ³⁵

For a discussion relating to the "disparate treatment" theory of liability, see § 41.10 et seq. For a discussion relating to the "disparate impact" theory of liability, see § 41.20 et seq.

[2] Good Cause

The ADEA provides that it is not unlawful for an employer to discharge or otherwise discipline an individual for good cause.ⁿ³⁶ This defense is closely related to the reasonable factors other than age defense discussed in [1], above.ⁿ³⁷ In one case, for example, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld, on the basis that it was not clearly erroneous, a district court's determination that the employer had not constructively discharged the employee on the basis of age, but rather because of an unfortunate breakdown in intracorporate management relations.ⁿ³⁸ The district court had found that the evidence established that the employee had failed to show that the reasons proffered by the employer for the constructive discharge were pretextual, and that they constituted good cause and reasonable factors other than age.ⁿ³⁹ The appellate court expressed no view on the good-cause defense, but upheld the finding of the district court.ⁿ⁴⁰

In O'Day v. McDonnell Douglas Helicopter Co.,ⁿ⁴¹ a terminated employee claimed he had been terminated because of age discrimination. In response to the employer's showing, based on after-acquired evidence that it had good cause to terminate plaintiff, the Ninth Circuit held that good cause existed but did not completely eclipse plaintiff's right to recover for any age discrimination that preceded his misconduct.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Age Discrimination
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Age Discrimination
Defenses & Exceptions
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Age Discrimination
Defenses & Exceptions
Good Cause Discharges

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1).

(n2)Footnote 2. Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 640 F.2d 974 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 984 .

(n4)Footnote 4. Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 984 .

(N5)Footnote 5. Candelore v. Clark County Sanitation Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 975 F.2d 588 .

(n6)Footnote 6. Candelore v. Clark County Sanitation Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 975 F.2d 588, 590-591 .

(n7)Footnote 7. Candelore v. Clark County Sanitation Dist. (9th Cir. 1992) 975 F.2d 588, 591 .

(n8)Footnote 8. Baker v. Delta Air Lines (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 632 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Baker v. Delta Air Lines (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 632, 641 ; see also Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 406-408, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 (automatically barring 60 year old flight engineers and 60 year old pilots from consideration for reassignment as flight engineers was not valid safety policy).

(n10)Footnote 10. See 29 C.F.R. § 1625.7(b).

(n11)Footnote 11. 29 C.F.R. § 1625.7(c).

(n12)Footnote 12. See 29 C.F.R. § 1625.7(d).

(n13)Footnote 12.1. Meacham v. Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory (2008) 128 S. Ct. 2395, 2400-2407, 171 L. Ed. 2d 283 .

(n14)Footnote 13. See 29 C.F.R. § 1625.7(e).

(n15)Footnote 14. See 29 C.F.R. § 1625.7(f).

(n16)Footnote 15. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 608-609, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338 ; cf E.E.O.C. v. Local 350, Plumbers and Pipefitters (9th Cir. 1993) 998 F.2d 641, 646-647 (policy refusing access to hiring hall to retired members receiving pensions was not based on factor other than age).

(n17)Footnote 16. See 29 U.S.C. § 1140.

(n18)Footnote 17. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 608-611, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338 .

(n19)Footnote 18. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 608-611, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338 .

(n20)Footnote 19. E.E.O.C. v. Insurance Co. of North America (9th Cir. 1995) 49 F.3d 1418 .

(n21)Footnote 20. E.E.O.C. v. Insurance Co. of North America (9th Cir. 1995) 49 F.3d 1418, 1420-1421 .

(N22)Footnote 21. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n23)Footnote 22. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 45-54, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n24)Footnote 23. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 45-51, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 ; see 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1).

(n25)Footnote 24. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 45-51, 54-59, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (disparate impact analysis involves requirements or criteria that lack business justification); see O'Connor v. Consolidated Coin Caterers Corp. (1996) 517 U.S. 308, 116 S. Ct. 1307, 1310, 134 L. Ed. 2d 433 (ADEA protection focuses on discrimination against individuals, not protecting a class); see also Markham v. Geller (1981) 451 U.S. 945, 101 S. Ct. 2028, 68 L. Ed. 2d 332 (Rehnquist dissent) .

(n26)Footnote 25. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 61-64, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 (disparate impact analysis involves requirements or criteria that lack business justification).

(n27)Footnote 26. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n28)Footnote 27. Gov. Code § 12941.

(n29)Footnote 28. See Gov. Code § 12940(a).

(n30)Footnote 29. Gov. Code § 12940(a).

(n31)Footnote 30. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n32)Footnote 31. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 51-54, 59-60, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n33)Footnote 32. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 42-44, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n34)Footnote 33. Marks v. Loral Corp. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 30, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 .

(n35)Footnote 34. Gov. Code § 12941.

(n36)Footnote 35. Gov. Code § 12941 (statute does not limit affirmative defenses traditionally available in employment discrimination cases, including but not limited to those in 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7).

(n37)Footnote 36. 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(3). See O'Day v. McDonnell Douglas Helicopter Co. (9th Cir. 1996) 79 F.3d 756 , where an employer may discharge for sufficient reason but cannot avoid liability for illegal discrimination on the basis of age. There, the employer had after-acquired evidence that the plaintiff could have been fired for a legitimate reason (he searched through his supervisor's private files and shared them with another employee). The plaintiff was not engaged in protected activity under the ADEA and could be legally discharged for his misconduct. But the plaintiff is still entitled to a remedy from the date of his wrongful termination, before the sufficient reason was discovered. After-acquired evidence only affects the remedy.

(n38)Footnote 37. See Larson, Employment Discrimination, ch. 132 (Matthew Bender) (stating that the two provisions overlap considerably and are often found in same cases).

(n39)Footnote 38. See Sutton v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 646 F.2d 407, 410, 412-413 .

(n40)Footnote 39. See Sutton v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 646 F.2d 407, 410, 412 n.6 .

(n41)Footnote 40. See Sutton v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 646 F.2d 407, 412 n.6 .

(n42)Footnote 41. O'Day v. McDonnell Douglas Helicopter Co. (9th Cir. 1996) 79 F.3d 756 .

104 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.105

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.105 Reliance on EEOC Opinion

Although EEOC regulations interpreting Title VII are not binding on the courts, they are entitled to great deference.ⁿ¹ Furthermore, Title VII expressly provides that an employer's reliance on a written interpretation or opinion of the EEOC is a defense to a charge that the employer violated Title VII.ⁿ² The employer must plead and prove that its act or omission was done in good faith, in conformity with, and in reliance on the opinion or interpretation.ⁿ³ The EEOC administrative regulations state that only the following may be relied on as a written interpretation or opinion of the EEOC pursuant to Title 42, United States Code, Section 2000e-12(b):ⁿ⁴

1. A letter entitled "opinion letter" and signed by the legal counsel on behalf of and as approved by the EEOC, or, if issued in the conduct of litigation, by the General Counsel on behalf of and as approved by the EEOC;
2. Matter published and specifically designated as an EEOC interpretation or opinion in the Federal Register, including the EEOC's Guidelines on Affirmative Action;ⁿ⁵ or
3. An EEOC determination of no reasonable cause, issued under the circumstances described in Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, Section 1608.10, a part of the EEOC's Affirmative Action Guidelines,ⁿ⁶ which authorizes reliance on the affirmative action guidelines to be a defense to an action against an employer, if the determination contains a statement that it is a "written interpretation or opinion of the Commission."

The Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals has held that a consent decree entered into by the EEOC does not constitute a written order or opinion by the EEOC that can be relied on as a defense by an employer, and that it was error for the district court to ignore the EEOC guidelines regarding what does constitute such an opinion or order pursuant to Section 2000e-12(b).ⁿ⁷ The Fourth Circuit has held that an EEOC determination of no reasonable cause is not a written interpretation or opinion that may be relied on to establish such immunity.ⁿ⁸

In addition, a showing by an employer that it in good faith, and in conformity with instructions issued by the EEOC, failed to publish and file information required to be published and filed, bars an action for failure to do so.ⁿ⁹ If such a defense is established, the action against the employer is barred even if the opinion or interpretation is subsequently modified or rescinded or determined by judicial authority to be invalid, or if any published or filed description or annual report is determined by judicial authority not to be in conformity with Title VII.ⁿ¹⁰

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
Coverage & Definitions
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Robinson v. Lorillard Corp. (4th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 791, 801 .

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-12(b)(1).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-12(b)(1).

(n4)Footnote 4. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.93(a)-(c).

(n5)Footnote 5. See 29 C.F.R. pt. 1608; see ch. 44.

(n6)Footnote 6. For discussion, see ch. 44, pt. A.

(n7)Footnote 7. Eirhart v. Libbey-Owens Ford Co. (7th Cir. 1980) 616 F.2d 278, 280-282 .

(n8)Footnote 8. Robinson v. Lorillard Corp. (4th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 791, 801 . However, as discussed above, a no reasonable cause determination that states that it is a "written interpretation or opinion of the Commission" would provide such immunity. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.93.

(n9)Footnote 9. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-12(b)(2).

(n10)Footnote 10. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-12(b)(2).

105 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.106

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.106 Religious Exemptions and Exceptions

Title VII does not apply to a religious corporation, association, educational institution, or society with respect to the employment of individuals of a particular religion to perform work connected with the carrying on of the organization's activities.ⁿ¹ This exemption has been construed to allow religious organizations to base employment decisions on religious preferences. They may not, however, make such decisions based on race, sex, or national origin.ⁿ² Also, the sincere religious beliefs of owners and operators of a secular corporation are not enough in themselves to make the corporation "religious" within the meaning of the exemption.ⁿ³

Title VII also provides that it is not an unlawful employment practice for an educational institution to hire employees of a particular religion if the institution is in whole or substantial part owned, supported, controlled, or managed by a particular religion or by a particular religious corporation, association, or society, or if the curriculum of the educational institution is directed toward the propagation of a particular religion.ⁿ⁴

Courts have held that Title VII does not apply to the employment relationship between a church and its ministers, because such application would violate the Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.ⁿ⁵ The test is whether the employee's duties go to the heart of the church's function in the manner of a minister or a seminary teacher. To be considered clergy, an employee's primary duties must consist of teaching, spreading the faith, church governance, supervision of a religious order, or supervision or participation in a religious ritual and worship. In some cases, a court can be certain of the applicability of the ministerial exception as a matter of law based on the very nature of the plaintiff's job, which is unquestionably, inherently or exclusively religious, and the reason for the discharge implicates the religious teachings of the employer.^{n5.1} In essentially the same category are members of religious orders suing in regard to their relationship in the order.^{n5.2} Individuals whose function is essentially liturgical, i.e., connected to the religious or worship service of the organization, also come within the ministerial exception. Music and choir directors in particular come within the liturgical function aspect of the exception.^{n5.3} Those who perform priestly functions that may not seem outwardly liturgical but are inextricably intertwined with the particular religious doctrine of a religious organization may also come within the ministerial exception.^{n5.4} The same is true for individuals whose duties for a church involve traditional public relations and who are functionally paid to actively proselytize on a church's behalf.^{n5.5} Teaching religion for a church, as distinct from a school, comes within the ministerial exception.^{n5.6} When the role of the employee of an academic institution is inherently a religious one, like a campus chaplain, the ministerial exception applies.^{n5.7} When the subject matter is the institution's own religion, the exception applies, regardless of whether the teacher is ordained or a member of a religious order.^{n5.8} When the school itself is a seminary and is exclusively preoccupied with religion and the training of a religion's own clergy as distinct from more general learning, the ministerial exception categorically applies to faculty, whether or not ordained.^{n5.9} However, when neither the role of the employee nor the subject matter taught by the employee is necessarily religious, things are less clear.^{n5.10} Lay teachers of secular subjects at religious or parochial schools have been held not to come within the religious exception at both the high school and elementary school levels.^{n5.11} Teachers of clearly secular subjects have also been held not to be within the exception, even though incidentally the teacher may be a member of a religious order.^{n5.12} Purely secular work performed for a religious institution does not come within the ministerial exception.^{n5.13} For example, cleaning staff do not come within the ministerial exception except possibly at a traditional monastery, where the cleaning staff are the members of the religious order and the cleaning is seen as religious work.

The mere bestowal of a ministerial designation by a religious organization does not, however, control extra-religious legal status.ⁿ⁶ Thus, in one case a seminary argued that all of its employees (i.e., faculty, administrative staff, and support staff) served a ministerial function. The court held that Title VII did not apply to the seminary's faculty, since most of them were ordained and were ministerial role models for students, but it did apply to support personnel not engaged in activities traditionally considered ecclesiastical or religious.ⁿ⁷

Another court has observed that the "ministerial exception" to Title VII does not depend on ordination, but on the function of the position; thus, a court must determine whether a position is important to the spiritual and pastoral mission of the church.ⁿ⁸ The EEOC has stated that it will carefully examine the nature of a relationship between an individual and a church on a case by case basis when determining whether to apply the "ministerial exception."ⁿ⁹

Like Title VII, the ADA does not prohibit a religious corporation, association, educational institution, or society from giving preference in employment to individuals of a particular religion to perform work connected with the carrying on of such an organization's activities.ⁿ¹⁰ Furthermore, a religious organization may require that all applicants and employees conform to its religious tenets.ⁿ¹¹

Generally, a religious association or corporation that is not organized for private profit is not an "employer" under the FEHA.ⁿ¹² However, recent amendments to FEHA have expanded coverage to nonprofit religious corporations and associations. The FEHA now applies to such employers with respect to persons employed to perform duties other than religious duties at a health care facility operated by the association or corporation for the provision of health care that is not restricted to adherents of the religion that established the association or corporation.ⁿ¹³ This religious entity exemption is not limited to entities organized under the Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law;ⁿ¹⁴ it also includes religious entities that are organized under the Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law.ⁿ¹⁵ However, an unrelated business run by a religious organization is subject to the FEHA if it employs five or more persons and is subject to state or federal income taxes.ⁿ¹⁶

The FEHA does not apply to employment disputes between religious organizations and their ministerial employees. Further, the establishment and free exercise clauses of the First Amendment bar judicial review of these employment disputes.ⁿ¹⁷

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Religious Discrimination
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Religious Discrimination
Coverage & Definitions
General Overview
Labor & Employment

LawDiscriminationReligious DiscriminationDefenses & ExceptionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
 LawDiscriminationReligious DiscriminationDefenses & ExceptionsReligious Organization Exemption

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See Kelly v. Methodist Hospital of Southern California (2000) 22 Cal. 4th 1108, 1116-1117, 95 Cal. Rptr. 2d 514, 997 P.2d 1169 (qualified religious association is exempt from the FEHA regardless of the nature of the type of discrimination it allegedly practiced); Phillips v. St. Mary Regional Medical Center (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 218, 233-237, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 (Title VII could serve as basis for wrongful discharge claim against nonprofit religious corporation for retaliation for filing earlier claim of race and sex discrimination); see also Rayburn v. General Conf. of Seventh-Day Adventists (4th Cir. 1985) 772 F.2d 1164, 1166; E.E.O.C. v. Pacific Press Pub. Ass'n (9th Cir. 1982) 676 F.2d 1272, 1277.

(n3)Footnote 3. E.E.O.C. v. Townley Engineering & Mfg. Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 859 F.2d 610, 619.

(n4)Footnote 4. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e)(2).

(n5)Footnote 5. McClure v. Salvation Army (5th Cir. 1972) 460 F.2d 553, 560; Scharon v. St. Luke's Episcopal Presbyterian Hosp. (8th Cir. 1991) 929 F.2d 360, 362 (ministerial exception extends to church-related institutions that have "substantial religious character").

(n6)Footnote 5.1. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 734-735, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Gellington v. Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, Inc. (11th Cir. 2000) 203 F.3d 1299 (minister); Combs v. Central Tex. Annual Conf. of the United Methodist Church (5th Cir. 1999) 173 F.3d 343 (clergy member); Bell v. Presbyterian Church (4th Cir. 1997) 126 F.3d 328 (ordained minister); Young v. N. Ill. Conf. of United Methodist Church (7th Cir. 1994) 21 F.3d 184 (probationary minister); Rayburn v. General Conf. of the Seventh Day Adventists (4th Cir. 1985) 772 F.2d 1164 (applicant for pastoral position at church); Kraft v. Rector, Churchwardens, and Vestry of Grace in New York (S.D.N.Y. 2004) 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4234 (ordained priest); Williams v. Episcopal Diocese of Mass. (Mass. 2002) 436 Mass. 574, 766 N.E.2d 820 (ordained priest); Dunn v. Board of Incorporators African Methodist Episcopal Church (N.D. Tex. 2001) 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20110 (church reverend); Sanchez v. Catholic Foreign Soc. of America (M.D.Fla. 1999) 82 F. Supp. 2d 1338 (ordained priest seeking to be rehired as priest).

(n7)Footnote 5.2. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 735-736, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Rosati v. Toledo, Ohio Catholic Diocese (N.D. Ohio 2002) 233 F. Supp. 2d 917 (novitiate released from order because she got breast cancer); Turner v. Church of Jesus Christ (Tex. Ct. App. 2000) 18 S.W.3d 877 (termination of Mormon missionary because of illness).

(n8)Footnote 5.3. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 736, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing by way of example, E.E.O.C. v. Roman Catholic Diocese of Raleigh NC (4th Cir. 2000) 213 F.3d 795 (director of music ministry and part-time music teacher at cathedral's elementary school); Starkman v. Evans (5th Cir. 1999) 198 F.3d 173 (church choir director); Assemany v. Archdiocese of Detroit (1988) 173 Mich. App. 752, 434 N.W.2d 233 (church organist); Egan v. Hamline United Methodist Church (Minn. Ct. App. 2004) 679 N.W.2d 350 (church music director at church); Miller v. Bay View United Methodist Church (E.D.Wis. 2001) 141 F. Supp. 2d 1174 (music and choir director of church).

(n9)Footnote 5.4. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 736, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing by way of example Shaliehsabou v. Hebrew Home of Greater Washington, Inc. (4th Cir. 2004) 363 F.3d 299 (kosher supervisor at Jewish elderly home).

(n10)Footnote 5.5. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 736, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Alicea-Hernandez v. Catholic Bishop of Chicago (7th Cir. 2003) 320 F.3d 698 (Hispanic communications manager for Archdiocese of Chicago, whose duties included outreach to local Hispanic community, including writing for church publications and translating church materials into Spanish).

(n11)Footnote 5.6. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 737, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Musante v. Notre Dame of Easton Church (D.Conn. 2004) 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5611 (director of religious education and pastoral assistant at Catholic Church); Bryce v. Episcopal Church in Diocese of Colorado (10th Cir. 2002) 289 F.3d 648 (youth minister).

(n12)Footnote 5.7. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 737, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Schmoll v. Chapman Univ. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 1434, 1437, 83 Cal. Rptr. 2d 426 (minister of gospel of Jesus Christ, whose job description included serving total campus community as pastor and performing duties of leading worship).

(n13)Footnote 5.8. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 737, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing E.E.O.C. v. Catholic University of America (4th Cir. 1996) 83 F.3d 455, 317 U.S. App. D.C. 343 (nun who taught canon law); Powell v. Stafford (D. Colo. 1994) 859 F. Supp. 1343 (theology teacher at Catholic school).

(n14)Footnote 5.9. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 737, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing E.E.O.C. v. Southwestern Bap. Theological Seminary (5th Cir. 1981) 651 F.2d 277 (distinguishing faculty from non-faculty).

(n15)Footnote 5.10. See, e.g., Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 738-742, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643 (on motion for summary judgment, court could not say categorically that professors at religious university were within exception, where they were nonordained and taught marriage and family counseling, which was not necessarily religious, and because professors taught students in program to become Christian therapists, court could not say categorically they could not come within exception). See also E.E.O.C. v. Mississippi College (5th Cir. 1980) 626 F.2d 477, 485 (action against religious university by psychology professor for sex discrimination did not violate First Amendment because faculty and staff did not function as ministers, attend to religious needs of faithful, or instruct students in whole of religious doctrine); Hartwig v. Albertus Magnus College (D.Conn. 2000) 93 F. Supp. 2d 200, 212 n. 14 (question of fact whether recently self-declared homosexual professor of religious studies and philosophy at Catholic liberal arts college had primarily religious duties and fit within exception, and remanding case with regard to nature of professor's duties without prejudice so defendant could present additional evidence concerning nature of plaintiff's duties and responsibilities).

(n16)Footnote 5.11. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 737-738, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing DeMarco v. Holy Cross High School (2d Cir. 1993) 4 F.3d 166, 170-171 (math teacher at Catholic school, even though he led students in prayer and took them to mass); Guinan v. Roman Cath. Archdiocese of Indianapolis (S.D.Ind. 1998) 42 F. Supp. 2d 849 (fifth grade teacher at religious school who taught both secular and religious subjects); E.E.O.C. v. First Baptist Church (N.D. Ind. 1992) 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14479 (teachers at religious elementary school); United States Dep't of Labor v. Shenandoah Baptist Church (W.D.Vir. 1989) 707 F. Supp. 1450, 1462 n. 12 (employees of private religious school); see also Geary v. Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (3rd Cir. 1993) 7 F.3d 324 (exception not applied to lay teacher at church-operated school as long as teacher did not challenge validity of religious reason for termination).

(n17)Footnote 5.12. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 738, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Welter v. Seton Hall University (1992) 128 N.J. 279, 608 A.2d 206 (exception did not apply to nuns teaching computer science at religious school).

(n18)Footnote 5.13. Hope Int'l University v. Superior Court (2004) 119 Cal. App. 4th 719, 738, 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 643, citing Smith v. Raleigh Dist. of N. C. Methodist Church (E.D.N.C. 1999) 63 F. Supp. 2d 694 (exception did not apply to church receptionist or pastor's secretary); Lukaszewski v. Nazareth Hosp. (E.D.Pa. 1991) 764 F. Supp. 57

(exception did not apply to director of plant operations at religiously affiliated hospital). See Catholic Charities of Sacramento, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 32 Cal.4th 527, 543-544, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 283, 85 P.3d 67

(religiously-affiliated entity providing immigrant resettlement, elder care, counseling, food, clothing and affording housing to poor and needy and vocational training to developmentally disabled did not attempt to claim its employees had religious duties of ministers and most of employees were not members of affiliated religion).

(n19)Footnote 6. E.E.O.C. v. Southwestern Bap. Theological Seminary (5th Cir. 1981) 651 F.2d 277, 283 .

(n20)Footnote 7. E.E.O.C. v. Southwestern Bap. Theological Seminary (5th Cir. 1981) 651 F.2d 277, 283-284 .

(n21)Footnote 8. Rayburn v. General Conf. of Seventh-Day Adventists (4th Cir. 1985) 772 F.2d 1164, 1168-1169 (failure to promote female nonordained "associate in pastoral care" who taught baptismal and Bible classes, pastored singles group, occasionally preached, and had other evangelical, liturgical, and counseling responsibilities, was not subject to Title VII scrutiny).

(n22)Footnote 9. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 605, P 2166; see Roby v. United States Dep't of Navy (9th Cir. 1996) 76 F.3d 1052 (related issue of considering religious status of person claiming conscientious objector status, where the sincerity and depth of conviction requirements for the religious test were not met).

(n23)Footnote 10. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(d)(1).

(n24)Footnote 11. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(d)(2).

(n25)Footnote 12. Gov. Code § 12926(d); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.5(a)(5); see DFEH v. Bohemian Club (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-01, pp. 12-13 (non-profit social club does not qualify for defense, notwithstanding spiritual value of comradery); Arriaga v. Loma Linda Univ. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1556, 1561, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 619 ; see also Smith v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1996) 12 Cal. 4th 1143, 51 Cal. Rptr. 2d 700, 913 P.2d 909 , (in housing case under FEHA, religious belief in sinful status of unmarried cohabiting couple not available defense).

(n26)Footnote 13. Gov. Code § 12926.2(c).

(n27)Footnote 14. See Corp. Code § 9110 et seq.

(n28)Footnote 15. McKeon v. Mercury Healthcare Sacramento (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 321, 331, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 319, 965 P.2d 1189 ; see Corp. Code § 5110 et seq.

(n29)Footnote 16. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.5(a)(5).

(n30)Footnote 17. Schmoll v. Chapman Univ. (1999) 70 Cal. App. 4th 1434, 1438-1444 (ministerial exception applies equally in Title VII and FEHA cases; employment dispute between religious college and chaplain/director of campus ministry barred from judicial review).

106 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.107

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.107 Same Decision Made Even in Absence of Discrimination

In Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins,ⁿ¹ a Title VII sex discrimination case, the United States Supreme Court held that when an employee proves that gender played a motivating part in an employment decision, the employer may avoid liability only by proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that it would have made the same decision even if it had not taken the employee's gender into account.ⁿ² A plurality of the Court reasoned that the employer's burden is thus tantamount to an affirmative defense.ⁿ³

However, the Civil Rights Act of 1991 also provides that if the employer can demonstrate that it would have taken the same action in the absence of the impermissible motivating factor, the court may grant only declaratory relief, injunctive relief (other than hiring, admission, promotion, or reinstatement), and attorney's fees and costs demonstrated to be directly attributable only to the pursuit of a claim under Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(m).ⁿ⁴ The court may not award damages or issue an order requiring any admission, reinstatement, hiring, promotion, or payment of back pay.ⁿ⁵ For full discussion of remedies for violations of Title VII, see Chapter 43, Part B.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964Coverage & DefinitionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964RemediesGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins (1989) 490 U.S. 228, 109 S. Ct. 1775, 104 L. Ed. 2d 268 .

(n2)Footnote 2. Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins (1989) 490 U.S. 228, 258, 260-261, 109 S. Ct. 1775, 104 L. Ed. 2d 268 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins (1989) 490 U.S. 228, 246, 104 L. Ed. 2d 268, 109 S. Ct. 1775 (Brennan, Marshall, Blackmun, Stevens, JJ.).

(n4)Footnote 4. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

(n5)Footnote 5. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

107 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.108

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.108 Security Regulations

It is not an unlawful employment practice under Title VII for an employer to fail or refuse to hire an individual for a position, or to discharge an individual from a position, if the position, or any part of the premises on which the duties of the position are to be performed, is subject to any requirement imposed in the interest of the national security of the United States and the individual has not fulfilled or has ceased to fulfill that requirement.ⁿ¹ An employer is nevertheless required to observe proper procedures in conducting its security clearance.ⁿ² Similarly, under the FEHA, a discriminatory employment practice that conforms to security regulations established by the United States or the State of California is lawful.ⁿ³

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964Coverage & DefinitionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawPreemployment Practices

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(g).

(n2)Footnote 2. See Doe v. Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (9th Cir. 1995) 65 F.3d 771 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See Gov. Code § 12940; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(d).

108 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.109

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.109 Seniority or Merit System

[1] Generally

Under Title VII, it is not an unlawful employment practice for an employer to apply different standards of compensation, or different terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, pursuant to a bona fide seniority or merit system,ⁿ¹ provided that such differences are not the result of an intention to discriminate.ⁿ² The United States Supreme Court has stated that the Title VII "bona fide seniority system" exemption is not a defense; it is a provision that itself delineates which employment practices are illegal and thereby prohibited, and which are not.ⁿ³

Bona fide seniority systems are exempted from the coverage of Title VII even if they perpetuate the effects of past discrimination.ⁿ⁴ This immunization of bona fide seniority systems applies to systems adopted both before and after the effective date of Title VII.ⁿ⁵ However, a system that is not bona fide and that is the result of an intention to discriminate is not exempted by Title VII.ⁿ⁶ Thus, discriminatory impact is not sufficient to invalidate a seniority system, and actual intent to discriminate must be proved.ⁿ⁷ The plaintiff has the burden of showing the existence of the discriminatory intent or illegal purpose.ⁿ⁸ However, disproportionate impact is relevant in proving this intent.ⁿ⁹

For further discussion relating to bona fide seniority systems, see § 41.68.

[2] Determining Whether System Is "Bona Fide"

In Teamsters v. United States,ⁿ¹⁰ the United States Supreme Court analyzed what constitutes a "bona fide" seniority system. The Court stated that although the seniority system before it did have the effect of perpetuating past discrimination, the system was bona fide because: (1) it applied equally to all races and ethnic groups; (2) the placement of certain employees in a separate bargaining unit from other employees was rational, in accord with industry practice, and consistent with NLRB precedents; (3) the system did not have its genesis in racial discrimination; and (4) it was negotiated and maintained free from any illegal purpose.ⁿ¹¹

After Teamsters, courts that have been presented with the question of whether a seniority system that is facially neutral is bona fide must determine whether there has been purposeful discrimination in connection with the establishment or continuation of the seniority system.ⁿ¹² The totality of the circumstances in the development and maintenance of the system is relevant to the ultimate factual finding of whether the system is bona fide.ⁿ¹³ In James v. Stockham Valves & Fittings Co.,ⁿ¹⁴ the Fifth Circuit approached the facts before it by using the four factors relied on in Teamsters, discussed above, to analyze whether the seniority system was valid. Other courts, including the United States Supreme Court, have followed this analysis.ⁿ¹⁵ In some cases, courts have found that a system is not bona fide, and that it was originated and maintained for an unlawful purpose, therefore precluding application of the seniority system exemption. For example, in one case,ⁿ¹⁶ the court found that the seniority system was not bona fide because it penalized blacks more than whites, the unequal treatment was not attributable to a legitimate division of bargaining units, and it was originated and maintained for a discriminatory purpose. Similarly, in another case,ⁿ¹⁷ the court held that a union's seniority system was not bona fide because it was negotiated and maintained for the illegal purpose of excluding blacks from membership, and with the intent and effect of discriminating against them because of their race.

[3] Determining Whether Practice Is "Seniority System"

Sometimes it is unclear whether or not the employment practice at issue is a seniority system within the meaning of Title VII. In California Brewers Assn. v. Bryant,ⁿ¹⁸ the United States Supreme Court defined such a system as a scheme that alone or in tandem with nonseniority criteria allots to employees ever-improving employment rights and benefits as their relative lengths of pertinent employment increase. The Court further stated that the principal feature of a seniority system is that preferential treatment is dispensed on the basis of some measure of time served in employment.ⁿ¹⁹ In analyzing the employment feature before it, the court applied these definitions and concluded that the collective bargaining agreement provision, which accorded greater benefits to permanent employees than to temporary employees and provided that a temporary employee must work 45 weeks to become a permanent employee, should be viewed as a seniority system.ⁿ²⁰

[4] Applicability of Seniority Exemption to Other Statutes

In addition to its application under Title VII, the seniority exemption has been held by three circuits to be applicable to Title 42 United States Code, section 1981 cases,ⁿ²¹ although one circuit has held that the exemption is not available in section 1981 cases.ⁿ²²

The ADEA contains specific language regarding the seniority exemption. It states that it is not unlawful for an employer to observe the terms of a bona fide seniority system that is not intended to evade the purposes of the ADEA, except that no such seniority system can require or permit involuntary retirement of any individual protected under the ADEA because of the age of the individual.ⁿ²³ The United States Supreme Court analyzed this exemption in a case involving a transfer policy that discriminated against pilots on the basis of age. The Court held that the exemption was inapplicable to the case because under the ADEA, a seniority system may not require or permit the involuntary retirement of a protected individual because of age, and since the seniority plan in the case permitted retirement, the system was not bona fide.ⁿ²⁴

For a full discussion of the seniority system exception to Equal Pay Act requirements, see § 41.56.

The FEHAⁿ²⁵ contains no express general exemption for seniority systems. Its age discrimination provision does, however, provide in part that hiring or promotion on the basis of experience or training, or rehiring on the basis of seniority and prior service with the employer, does not, in itself, constitute unlawful age discrimination under the FEHA.ⁿ²⁶ However, if candidates for hire have the same record of seniority or prior service with the employer, the employer may not refuse to select one of the candidates because he or she is over the age of 40 years.ⁿ²⁷

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964Coverage & DefinitionsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. For discussion of meaning of "bona fide seniority or merit system," see [2] and [3], below.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-(2)(h).

(n3)Footnote 3. Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 908-909, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961 .

(n4)Footnote 4. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 353-354, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n5)Footnote 5. American Tobacco Co. v. Patterson (1982) 456 U.S. 63, 77, 102 S. Ct. 1534, 71 L. Ed. 2d 748 .

(n6)Footnote 6. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 353, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n7)Footnote 7. Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 908-909, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961 ; American Tobacco Co. v. Patterson (1982) 456 U.S. 63, 65, 102 S. Ct. 1534, 71 L. Ed. 2d 748 .

(n8)Footnote 8. See Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 908-909, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961 ; United Air Lines, Inc. v. Evans (1977) 431 U.S. 553, 560, 97 S. Ct. 1885, 52 L. Ed. 2d 571 ; Black Law Enf. Officers Ass'n v. City of Akron (6th Cir. 1987) 824 F.2d 475, 481 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Pullman-Standard v. Swint (1982) 456 U.S. 273, 289, 102 S. Ct. 1781, 72 L. Ed. 2d 66 .

(n10)Footnote 10. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n11)Footnote 11. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 355-356, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n12)Footnote 12. Bernard v. Gulf Oil Corp. (5th Cir. 1988) 841 F.2d 547, 555 ; James v. Stockham Valves & Fittings Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 310, 351-352 .

(n13)Footnote 13. Pullman-Standard v. Swint (1982) 456 U.S. 273, 279, 102 S. Ct. 1781, 72 L. Ed. 2d 66 ; James v. Stockham Valves & Fittings Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 310, 352 .

(n14)Footnote 14. James v. Stockham Valves & Fittings Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 310, 352 .

(n15)Footnote 15. See, e.g., Pullman-Standard v. Swint (1982) 456 U.S. 273, 279-290, 102 S. Ct. 1781, 72 L. Ed. 2d 66 (using James factors, Court upheld district court's finding of no evidence that system was not bona fide); Gantlin v. West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. (4th Cir. 1984) 734 F.2d 980, 990 (these factors have been treated as a nonexclusive list to aid in determination of whether system is bona fide); Firefighters Inc. for Racial Equality v. Bach (10th Cir. 1984) 731 F.2d 664, 668 .

(n16)Footnote 16. United States v. Georgia Power Co. (5th Cir. 1973) 634 F.2d 929 .

(n17)Footnote 17. Wattleton v. Intern. Broth. of Boiler Makers, Etc. (7th Cir. 1982) 686 F.2d 586, 593 .

(n18)Footnote 18. California Brewers Asso. v. Bryant (1980) 444 U.S. 598, 605-606, 100 S. Ct. 814, 63 L. Ed. 2d 55 .

(n19)Footnote 19. California Brewers Asso. v. Bryant (1980) 444 U.S. 598, 606, 100 S. Ct. 814, 63 L. Ed. 2d 55 .

(n20)Footnote 20. California Brewers Asso. v. Bryant (1980) 444 U.S. 598, 606, 100 S. Ct. 814, 63 L. Ed. 2d 55 .

(n21)Footnote 21. See Freeman v. Motor Convoy, Inc. (11th Cir. 1983) 700 F.2d 1339, 1349 ; Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Company (5th Cir. 1978) 576 F.2d 1157, 1191-1192 fn. 37 ; Johnson v. Ryder Truck Lines, Inc. (4th Cir. 1978) 575 F.2d 471, 473-475 .

(n22)Footnote 22. Bolden v. Pennsylvania State Police (3d Cir. 1978) 578 F.2d 912, 921 .

(n23)Footnote 23. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2)(A).

(n24)Footnote 24. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 124-125, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 .

(n25)Footnote 25. See Gov. Code §§ 12900-12996.

(n26)Footnote 26. See Gov. Code § 12940(a)(5); see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7295.7, 7295.8.

(n27)Footnote 27. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7295.7(b).

109 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.110

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.110 Spouses Working Together

The FEHA provides that, notwithstanding its prohibition against discrimination on the basis of marital status, an employer may reasonably regulate, for reasons of supervision, safety, security, or morale, the working of spouses in the same department, division, or facility, consistent with the rules and regulations adopted by the FEHC.ⁿ¹ FEHC regulations provide that an employer may refuse to place other spouses in the same department, division, or facility for business reasons of supervision, security, or morale, if the work involves potential conflicts of interest or other hazards greater for married couples than for other persons.ⁿ² In addition, the regulations provide that, for business reasons of safety, supervision, security, or morale, an employer may refuse to place one spouse under direct supervision of the other spouse.ⁿ³

In DFEH v. Insurance America Sales Agency,ⁿ⁴ the FEHC adopted a standard to determine whether there is a potential conflict of interest or hazard within the meaning of the FEHA and its regulations. The FEHC standard requires that in each case a careful assessment be made of the actual work setting to determine whether that setting would pose, because of the mutual concerns married couples are assumed to bear, a potential conflict of interest or other hazard greater for married couples than for other employees. If the potential conflict or hazard is greater, the employer may regulate the employment. In its efforts to avert the risks, the employer is required to match reasonably the severity of its actions toward one or the other spouse to the degree of risk and the significance of the potential harm involved.ⁿ⁵ The FEHC pointed out that the use of generalizations regarding married couples is unique, and that such use of generalizations is restricted to the same-department defense to marital status discrimination because an individual case-by-case evaluation would present great practical difficulties and be a threat to personal privacy.ⁿ⁶ In Insurance America, the employer had argued that the married couple's working in a common area would cause supervision, security, and morale problems. The FEHC rejected this argument on the ground that the employer had not specified the nature of the problems that could arise or made any showing that such problems had arisen in the past. The employer's second justification was that one spouse could end up supervising the other. The FEHC rejected this argument because it was "a mere possibility," and to ban the couple working together based on a mere possibility would be to vitiate the prohibition of marital status discrimination. However, the FEHC accepted the employer's third argument as establishing the same-department defense. The employer claimed that there was a potential for the spouses to pool their sales, thereby gaining a higher commission for one spouse than either spouse could have received alone. The FEHC stated that the marriage bond gives married couples a greater incentive to jointly promote their interests, and if such pooling occurred, it would amount to employee malfeasance and could significantly injure the employer's interests.ⁿ⁷

For additional discussion of rules relating to an employee's marital status, see §§ 41.36[2][b], 41.42[2][l], and 41.65.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 12940(a)(3).

(n2)Footnote 2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7292.5(a)(2).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7292.5(a)(1).

(n4)Footnote 4. DFEH v. Insurance America Sales Agency (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-07.

(n5)Footnote 5. DFEH v. Insurance America Sales Agency (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-07 at p. 6.

(n6)Footnote 6. DFEH v. Insurance America Sales Agency (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-07 at p. 6 fn. 1.

(n7)Footnote 7. DFEH v. Insurance America Sales Agency (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-07 at pp. 7-8.

110 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.111

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.111 Veterans' Preferences

Title VII provides that it shall not be construed to repeal or modify any federal, state, territorial, or local law creating special rights or preferences for veterans.ⁿ¹ The FEHA has a similar provision stating that nothing in the FEHA relating to discrimination on account of sex shall affect the right of an employer to use veteran status as a factor in employee selection or to give special consideration to Vietnam Era veterans.ⁿ² For discussion of the federal Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act, see Chapter 40, Part C, and Chapter 44. For discussion of veterans' reemployment rights, see Chapter 40, Part C.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General OverviewMilitary & Veterans
LawVeteransBenefitsVietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-11.

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12940(a)(4).

111 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.112

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.112 Written Release of Claims

A written release of claims by an employee may be a valid defense against that employee's later claim of employment discrimination.ⁿ¹ In Skrbina v. Fleming Companies,ⁿ² a California court of appeal held that an employee who had signed a general release of all employment claims at the time of his layoff had extinguished his right to later bring an action against his employer for disability and age discrimination. The court found the language of the release could not have been plainer and that absent fraud, duress, deception, misrepresentation, or undue influence, a plaintiff's assertions that he or she did not intend to relinquish his or her rights to employment discrimination claims does not invalidate the release if the plaintiff had read and willingly signed the release.ⁿ³

In Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority,ⁿ⁴ the California Supreme Court held that a compromise and release executed in a workers' compensation proceeding bars a civil action under FEHA for damages relating to the same events that resulted in the injury, if the compromise and release expressly releases "all claims and causes of action" relating to an injury and includes an attachment establishing the parties' intent to include civil claims within the scope of the release. The Court found two evidentiary points supporting its conclusion: (1) The attachment made clear the parties' intent to settle matters outside the scope of workers' compensation; and (2) plaintiff offered no extrinsic evidence establishing the parties' intent to exclude her FEHA claim from the settlement.ⁿ⁵

When the plaintiff executed the compromise and release covering "all claims and causes of action," she had already filed a complaint with the DFEH. Therefore, she not only contemplated the possibility of FEHA remedies; she was actively pursuing them. When she released all claims and causes of action relating to the injury, she knew, or should have known, that her FEHA claim would fall within the scope of that broad language.ⁿ⁶ The Court declined to discount the language of the release merely because it was on a preprinted form, since the form at issue (although mandatory)ⁿ⁷ did not compel the plaintiff to settle her FEHA action. Instead, the form provided a space in which the parties could enumerate express exceptions to the otherwise broad settlement.ⁿ⁸

The Court then concluded that when an employee has knowledge of a potential claim against the employer at the time of executing a general release in a workers' compensation proceeding, but has not yet initiated litigation of that claim, the employee has the burden of expressly excepting the claim from the release. Absent this exception, and absent contrary extrinsic evidence, a court will enforce general language, such as that found in the compromise and release and attachment in this case, releasing all claims including civil claims.ⁿ⁹

In Kohler v. Interstate Brands Corp.,ⁿ¹⁰ following Jefferson, the court of appeal found a FEHA lawsuit against an employer fell within the scope of the broad release language in the workers' compensation release the employee signed. Having filed her complaint in her FEHA action two weeks before she signed the release, the employee clearly had knowledge of a potential FEHA claim against the employer at the time she executed the general release in the workers' compensation proceeding. Unlike the plaintiff in Jefferson, this plaintiff had initiated litigation of her FEHA action by filing her complaint before she signed the workers' compensation release. However, the court found that this distinction made no difference.ⁿ¹¹

When only the employee knows what claims or causes of action will be pursued, whether or not a civil action has been initiated, the rationale of Jefferson imposes the burden on the employee to expressly except those claims or causes of action from the broad language of the workers' compensation release. Otherwise, absent extrinsic evidence of a contrary intent, the employer is entitled to rely on the broad language of the release as settling all claims and causes of action, including those arising under the FEHA. In Kohler, it was undisputed the employer did not know of the FEHA lawsuit when the parties signed the workers' compensation release. The burden fell to the employee to expressly except her causes of action under the FEHA from the broad language of the release. She did not do so, and there was no extrinsic evidence sufficient to support a finding that the parties did not intend the release to encompass the FEHA lawsuit.ⁿ¹²

In Claxton v. Waters,^{n12.1} the California Supreme Court held that the standard language of the preprinted form used in settling workers' compensation claims releases only those claims that are within the scope of the workers' compensation system, and does not apply to claims asserted in separate civil actions, including, for example, claims of sexual harassment. The court distinguished Jefferson by noting that in Jefferson, the preprinted compromise and release form had an attachment expressing the parties' intent to have the release also apply to the employee's civil action alleging sex discrimination. In Claxton, the court held further that extrinsic evidence is not admissible to show that the standard preprinted workers' compensation release form also applies to claims outside the workers' compensation system.^{n12.2} This rule applies prospectively only, so that for any preprinted workers' compensation settlement form executed before the finality of Claxton v. Waters, extrinsic evidence may be admitted to prove the parties intended to release claims outside the workers' compensation system.^{n12.3} The court disapproved Kohler to the extent it is inconsistent with the view that in further proceedings addressed to the issue of the intent of the parties in entering into the workers' compensation compromise and release for cases involving workers' compensation settlement forms executed before the finality of Claxton, the interpretation of the compromise and release requires consideration of all credible evidence offered to prove the intention of the parties.^{n12.4}

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The holdings in Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority and *Kohler v. Interstate Brands Corp.*ⁿ¹³ make it clear that employers should closely coordinate their resolution of worker's compensation and EEO claims. Broad release language in forms compromising worker's compensation and other claims may extinguish the right to pursue EEO charges and civil lawsuits if a charge or lawsuit is pending at the time of the worker's compensation release or there is proof of a knowing and voluntary waiver of EEO claims not yet filed. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate ImpactDefenses & ExceptionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentDefenses & ExceptionsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of

1964General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Shaw v. City of Sacramento (9th Cir. 2001) 250 F.3d 1289 ; Skrbina v. Fleming Companies (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1366-1367, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 481 .

(n2)Footnote 2. Skrbina v. Fleming Companies (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1366-1367, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 481 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See Skrbina v. Fleming Companies (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 1353, 1366-1367, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 481 . See also Butler v. Vons Companies, Inc. (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 943, 947-951, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 151 (question of fact whether employer intended compromise and release settlement agreement, which was entered into with employee after resolution of altercation employee had with co-employee, to cover employment discrimination action filed by employee less than two years thereafter, where employment discrimination action was entirely distinct from dispute involving co-employee, and release agreement was ambiguous because employee's union was also party to agreement, suggesting agreement was limited to grievance involving altercation with co-employee).

(n4)Footnote 4. Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 299, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391, 48 P.3d 423 .

(n5)Footnote 5. Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 299, 304, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391, 48 P.3d 423 .

(n6)Footnote 6. Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 299, 305-306, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391, 48 P.3d 423 .

(n7)Footnote 7. See 8 Cal. Code Regs. § 10874.

(n8)Footnote 8. Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 299, 306, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391, 48 P.3d 423 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 299, 310, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391, 48 P.3d 423 .

(n10)Footnote 10. Kohler v. Interstate Brands Corp. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366 .

(n11)Footnote 11. Kohler v. Interstate Brands Corp. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1100, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 368 .

(n12)Footnote 12. Kohler v. Interstate Brands Corp. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1101, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 369 .

(n13)Footnote 12.1. Claxton v. Waters (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 367, 372-377, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 246 .

(n14)Footnote 12.2. Claxton v. Waters (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 367, 377-378, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 246 .

(n15)Footnote 12.3. Claxton v. Waters (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 367, 378-379, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 246 . See also Mitchell v. Union Central Life Ins. Co. (2004) 118 Cal. App. 4th 1331, 1338-1342, 13 Cal. Rptr. 3d 732 , overruled on other grounds in Claxton v. Waters (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 367, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 246 (extrinsic evidence was sufficient to create triable issue of material fact concerning parties' intent at time parties settled workers' compensation case, and employer's motion for summary judgment based on workers' compensation compromise and release should have been denied, where employee had two lawyers, one representing her in workers' compensation action and other in civil action for harassment and discrimination, her workers' compensation lawyer had no authority to settle her civil action and did not intend to do so, civil action was not mentioned in compromise and release, and both employer's workers' compensation lawyer and workers' compensation judge conceded civil action was not discussed at any time during their negotiations; and where employee had no intent to include civil action in her settlement of her workers' compensation case).

(n16)Footnote 12.4. Claxton v. Waters (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 367, 379, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 246 .

(n17)Footnote 13. Jefferson v. Department of Youth Authority (2002) 28 Cal. 4th 299, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 391 ;
Kohler v. Interstate Brands Corp. (2002) 103 Cal. App. 4th 1096, 1100, 127 Cal. Rptr. 2d 366, 368 .

112 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART F. SUBSTANTIVE DEFENSES

2-41 California Employment Law §§ 41.113 through 41.129

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 41.113[Reserved]

113 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART G. RETALIATION

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.130

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.130 Governing Law

[1] Generally

Title VII, the ADEA, the ADA, and the FEHA contain substantially similar provisions making it an unlawful employment practice for an employer to discriminate against any person for (1) opposing any practice forbidden or made unlawful under those laws,ⁿ¹ or (2) filing a complaint, making a charge, testifying, assisting, or participating in any investigation, proceeding, hearing, or litigation under those laws.ⁿ² Although the federal-sector provision of the ADEA,^{n2.1} which allows federal employees to sue under the ADEA, does not contain the same explicit protection against retaliation as the private-sector provisions of the ADEA,^{n2.2} a federal employee who is a victim of retaliation due to the filing of a complaint of age discrimination may assert a claim under the federal-sector provision of the ADEA.^{n2.3} Title 42 United States Code, section 1981 also encompasses a complaint of retaliation against a person who has complained about a violation of another person's contract-related right.^{n2.4} Effective January 1, 1988, former Gov. Code § 12940(f)ⁿ³ was amended to apply to any person who retaliates for engaging in protected activities.ⁿ⁴ The ADA also provides that it is unlawful to coerce, intimidate, threaten, or interfere with any individual in the exercise or enjoyment of his or her ADA rights, or because he or she exercised or enjoyed those rights, or because he or she aided or encouraged someone else in the exercise or enjoyment of ADA rights.ⁿ⁵ The United States Constitution,ⁿ⁶ section 1983,ⁿ⁸ the EPA,ⁿ⁹ and Executive Order No. 11246ⁿ¹⁰ may also provide a basis for attacking such "retaliation."

The Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 also contains a similarly worded non-retaliation provision.^{n10.1}

An employer generally can be held liable for the retaliatory actions of its supervisors.^{n10.2} A decision-maker's ignorance does not categorically shield the employer from liability if other substantial contributors to the decision bore the requisite animus.ⁿ¹¹

[1A] Scope of Protection Against "Discrimination"

In Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White, ^{n11.1} the United States Supreme Court considered the meaning of "discriminates against" in the anti-retaliation provision of Title VII to resolve disagreement among the Circuit Courts of Appeal about whether the challenged action had to be employment-related or workplace-related and about how harmful the action or actions must be to constitute retaliation. The Court held that Title VII's substantive provision and its anti-retaliation provision were not coterminous. The scope of the anti-retaliation provision extended beyond workplace-related or employment-related retaliatory acts and harm. The Court rejected standards applied in the federal Courts of Appeals treating the anti-retaliation provision as forbidding the same conduct prohibited by the anti-discrimination provision and limiting actionable retaliation to so-called "ultimate employment decisions."^{11.2}

The Court then considered the scope of protection provided by the anti-retaliation provision, i.e., the level of seriousness to which injury or harm caused by the retaliation must rise before it becomes actionable retaliation. The Court held that a plaintiff must show that a reasonable employee would have found the challenged action materially adverse, which means it well might have dissuaded a reasonable worker from making or supporting a charge of discrimination. The Court used the phrase "material adversity" to separate significant from trivial harms, and referred to a reasonable employee to set an objective standard for judging harm. The Court also emphasized the importance of context, because the significance of a given act of retaliation will often depend on the circumstances.^{11.3}

In Burlington, the Court found there was a sufficient evidentiary basis to support a jury verdict in favor of a female railway company employee on her claim of retaliation.^{11.4} The employee was the only woman working in the employer's maintenance of way department at one of its yards. The employee's supervisor was suspended and ordered to attend sexual-harassment training after the employee complained. Thereafter, she was removed from forklift duty and assigned to perform standard track laborer tasks, reflecting a co-worker's complaints that, in fairness, a "more senior man" should have the "less arduous and cleaner job" of forklift operator. Later, she was suspended without pay for alleged insubordination, but the employer concluded she had not been insubordinate and reinstated her and awarded her backpay for the days she was suspended. The jury found the reassignment from forklift duty to standard track laborer tasks and the suspension without pay amounted to retaliation. The Court found that reassignment of job duties could constitute retaliatory discrimination even when both former and present duties fell within the same job description. There was considerable evidence that track labor duties were more arduous and dirtier; the forklift operator position required more qualifications, which was an indication of prestige; and the forklift operator position was objectively considered a better job and the male employees resented the female employee for occupying it. The suspension without pay also could constitute retaliation even though the employer ultimately reinstated the employee with backpay, since it could well act as a deterrent to a reasonable employee.

Interestingly, the California Supreme Court, in Yanowitz v. L'OrealUSA, Inc.,^{11.5} considered nearly identical language in the FEHA's retaliation provision, but reached the opposite result. The court recognized that although the language of the FEHA's retaliation provision ("or otherwise discriminate") arguably was broader than the discrimination provision, it was more reasonable to conclude that the Legislature intended to extend comparable protection to both discrimination and retaliation plaintiffs.^{11.6} As a result, the court concluded that, to succeed on a theory of unlawful retaliation, an employee must demonstrate that he or she has been subjected to an adverse employment action that materially affects the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, rather than simply that the employee has been subjected to an adverse action or treatment that reasonably would deter an employee from engaging in the protected activity.^{11.7} When an employer retaliates by denying prospects for advancement or promotions to employees because they filed discrimination claims, the employer has engaged in an adverse employment action in violation of FEHA.^{11.8} A long period between an employer's adverse employment action and the employee's earlier protected activity may lead to the inference that the two events are not causally connected.^{11.9} But if between the events the employer engages in a pattern of conduct consistent with a retaliatory intent, there may be a causal connection.^{11.10}

As a result, the analysis of what constitutes actionable retaliatory conduct will depend on whether the analysis is conducted under federal or state law. But while the analysis may be different, the result may be the same. In Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power,^{11.11} the employee's complaint for retaliation in violation of FEHA sufficiently stated a cause of action for retaliation under both what the court termed as the materiality test followed by the California Supreme Court in Yanowitz and the deterrence test adopted by the United States Supreme Court in

Burlington. The employee sufficiently pleaded that he experienced adverse employment action as a result of opposing race discrimination against a fellow employee that he supervised. He alleged that his supervisor engaged in a continuous course of conduct culminating in the employee's low rank on a civil service list for a position he had apparently been groomed to assume prior to assisting his fellow employee with his race discrimination complaints. Under the Yanowitz analysis, it was reasonable to conclude that the events represented adverse employment actions material to the terms, conditions or privileges of his employment.^{n11.12} The court also found that, assuming the truth of the allegations, the employee sufficiently pleaded that he suffered adverse employment action under the deterrence test. The court concluded that a reasonable city engineer with nearly two decades of tenure and similar promotional objectives would be deterred by his supervisor's course of conduct from making or supporting a charge of discrimination.^{n11.13}

In Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board, ^{n11.14} the Court of Appeal held that constructive discharge could serve as adverse employment action sufficient to support a claim of retaliation under the FEHA, and found that substantial evidence supported the jury's finding of an adverse employment action by the employer. The court found that constructive discharge, like actual discharge, is a materially adverse employment action, because a constructive discharge is legally regarded as a firing rather than a resignation.^{n11.15}

[2] Opposition to Employment Discrimination

[a] Scope of Protection

As discussed in [1], above, several equal employment opportunity laws protect persons who "oppose" unlawful employment practices.ⁿ¹² "Opposition" protected from retaliation may include complaints or protests to an employer,ⁿ¹³ meetings to discuss unlawful employment policies,ⁿ¹⁴ refusal to participate in unlawful employment practices and threatening to file a charge of employment discrimination.ⁿ¹⁵ In Iwekaogwu v. City of Los Angeles, the court allowed a jury to infer retaliation against a racial-minority employee who was refused promotions (which promotion in one instance went to a less qualified person), refused overtime, and was subjected to the hostile comments of second-level supervisor after having threatened to file race discrimination action.ⁿ¹⁶

In Crawford v. Metro. Govt. of Nashville & Davidson County,^{n16.1} the United States Supreme Court held that the protection against retaliation in Title VII extends to an employee who speaks out about discrimination not on the employee's own initiative, but in answering questions during an employer's internal investigation. The employer was looking into rumors of sexual harassment by its employee relations director. When one of the employer's human resources officers asked plaintiff, a 30-year employee, whether she had witnessed "inappropriate behavior" by the employee relations director, she described several instances of sexually harassing behavior. Two other employees also reported being sexually harassed by him. The employer took no action against the employee relations director, but fired plaintiff and the two other accusers soon after finishing the investigation, saying in plaintiff's case that it was for embezzlement. The Court held that the statement plaintiff said she gave to the human resources officer was covered by the opposition clause of Title VII, as an ostensibly disapproving account of sexually obnoxious behavior toward her by a fellow employee, which she said antagonized her employer to the point of firing her on a false pretense. Her description of the employee relations director's behavior would certainly qualify in the minds of reasonable jurors as "resistant" or "antagonistic" to his treatment, under an EEOC guideline providing that when an employee communicates to the employer a belief that the employer has engaged in a form of employment discrimination, that communication virtually always constitutes the employee's opposition to the activity.^{n16.2} Although there may be exceptions, such as an employee's description of a supervisor's racist joke as hilarious, these will be eccentric cases, and this case was not one of them. Opposition under Title VII does not demand active, consistent opposing activities to warrant protection against retaliation, and an employee need not instigate or initiate a complaint to be covered. Nothing in Title VII requires a rule protecting an employee who reports discrimination on the employee's own initiative but not one who reports the same discrimination in the same words when the boss asks a question.

Whether particular employee conduct is protected from retaliation as lawful "opposition" is not always easy to ascertain.

In E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp.,ⁿ¹⁷ a case arising under Title VII, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals noted there is no rigorous requirement of specificity in determining what is an act of "opposition" for antiretaliation purposes.ⁿ¹⁸

In the leading case of Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc.,ⁿ¹⁹ also construing Title VII, the First Circuit Court of Appeals focused on the context of an employee's act rather than the nature of the act, and developed a "reasonableness" standard. The court suggested that courts should balance the purpose of equal employment opportunity law in protecting reasonable "opposition" against the legislative desire not to interfere with employer personnel decisions.ⁿ²⁰ The court reasoned that the antiretaliation provision was not intended to provide an employee with immunity from discharge merely by claiming that at all times he or she was "opposing" discriminatory practices.ⁿ²¹ On the other hand, the provision was clearly intended to protect an employee against retaliation for filing complaints in good faith before federal and state agencies and for registering grievances through channels appropriate in the particular employment setting.ⁿ²² The court thus concluded that "[t]he standard can be little more definitive than the rule of reason applied by a judge or other tribunal to given facts."ⁿ²³ It explained that job requirements and "the tolerable limits of conduct in a particular setting must be explored."ⁿ²⁴

In Fielder v. UAL Corp.,ⁿ²⁵ the Ninth Circuit held that an employer could be liable under Title VII for the retaliatory actions of nonsupervisory employees.ⁿ²⁶ The court found that co-worker hostility or retaliatory harassment, if sufficiently severe, may constitute an adverse employment actionⁿ²⁷ for purposes of a retaliation claim.^{n27.1}

[b] Opposition to "Unlawful Practice"

The equal employment opportunity laws discussed in [1], above, protect "opposition" to employment practices made "unlawful" or "forbidden" by those laws.ⁿ²⁸ Thus, in E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp.,ⁿ²⁹ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that an act of "opposition" must refer to some particular practice by an employer that is allegedly unlawful under Title VII.ⁿ³⁰ The court concluded that a letter by minority employees addressed to a school district protesting an affirmative action award to be presented to their employer was a protected expression of "opposition."ⁿ³¹ The letter specifically mentioned a history of unlawful employment charges filed against the employer and stressed that the employer was engaging in a continuing series of discriminatory employment practices.ⁿ³²

The Crown Zellerbach court explained that an employment practice need not be demonstrably unlawful; there need only be a reasonable belief by the objecting person that the employer was engaged in unlawful practices.ⁿ³³ In Sias v. City Demonstration Agency,ⁿ³⁴ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals reasoned that if "opposition" required proof of actual unlawful employment practices, the legitimate assertion of employee rights under equal employment opportunity law would be chilled.ⁿ³⁵ The court concluded that, on the other hand, protecting an employee who reasonably believes that discrimination exists is consistent with liberal construction of equal employment opportunity law in implementing the legislative purpose of eliminating discrimination in employment.ⁿ³⁶

Opposition to an offhand comment or isolated incident will not constitute protected activity if the comment or incident itself does not constitute illegal conduct. If a person has been subjected to only an isolated incident, a complaint about that incident does not constitute protected activity unless a reasonable person would believe that the isolated incident violated Title VII. This reasonable person determination requires looking at all the circumstances, including the frequency of the discriminatory conduct and its severity.^{n36.1} Further, if a person has been subjected to more than one comment, and if those comments, taken together, would be considered by a reasonable person to violate Title VII, that person need not complain specifically about all of the comments to which the person has been subjected. Unreported comments are relevant to the inquiry concerning the reasonableness of the belief that a violation has occurred. In these circumstances, a complaint about one or more of these comments is protected behavior.^{n36.2}

The antiretaliation provision does not protect against alleged retaliation because of opposition to discriminatory conduct by a co-employee, rather than unlawful practices by the employer, unless that conduct can be legally attributed to the employer. In Silver v. KCA, Inc.,ⁿ³⁷ an employee alleged that she was discharged because of her opposition to a co-employee's racial slur. There was no evidence that the employer had authorized or approved the co-employee's remark, either before or after the incident, and the co-employee was reprimanded by the employer on the day that the incident occurred. The court concluded that there was no unlawful employment practice by the employer to which the alleged "opposition" related, and that therefore the opposition was not protected by Title VII.ⁿ³⁸

Under the FEHA, an employee's conduct may constitute protected activity not only when the employee opposes conduct that ultimately is determined to be unlawfully discriminatory under the FEHA, but also when the employee opposes conduct that the employee reasonably and in good faith believes to be discriminatory, whether or not the challenged conduct is ultimately found to violate the FEHA.ⁿ³⁹ Standing alone, an employee's unarticulated belief that an employer is engaging in discrimination will not suffice to establish protected conduct for the purposes of establishing a prima facie case of retaliation, when there is no evidence the employer knew the employee's opposition was based on a reasonable belief the employer was engaging in discrimination. Complaints about personal grievances or vague or conclusory remarks that fail to put an employer on notice as to what conduct it should investigate will not suffice to establish protected conduct. However, an employee need not formally file a charge in order to qualify as being engaged in protected opposing activity or use legal terms or buzzwords when opposing discrimination. The court will find opposing activity if the employee's comments, when read in their totality, oppose discrimination.ⁿ⁴⁰ Thus, an employee's refusal to follow a supervisor's order that the employee reasonably believes to be discriminatory constitutes protected activity under the FEHA. An employer may not retaliate against the employee on the basis of that conduct when the employer, in light of all the circumstances, knows the employee believes the order to be discriminatory, even when the employee does not explicitly state to a supervisor or the employer that the employee believes the order to be discriminatory.ⁿ⁴¹ⁿ⁴²⁻⁴⁴

An employee may bring a retaliation claim based on conduct by someone other than the employer if the employee reasonably believes that the conduct is unlawful and attributable to the employer. Thus, in Trent v. Valley Elec. Ass'n Inc.,ⁿ⁴⁵ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals permitted an employee to bring a retaliation claim against her employer based on sexually offensive remarks made by an outside consultant at an employer-mandated meeting. The Ninth Circuit ruled that it was reasonable for the employee to believe that it was unlawful under Title VII for her to be subject to sexually offensive remarks at a mandatory meeting.ⁿ⁴⁶ In another case, Folkerson v. Circus Circus Enterprises, Inc.,ⁿ⁴⁷ the Ninth Circuit stated that an employer can be held liable for sexual harassment on the part of a private individual only if the employer ratifies or acquiesces in the harassment by not taking immediate corrective action. Although plaintiff sought to establish that when she hit a patron who touched her, she was opposing an unlawful employment practice, the court found she had failed to adduce sufficient facts to show that the employer had ratified or acquiesced in the patron's actions.ⁿ⁴⁸

[3] Participation in Employment Discrimination Proceedings

Under the express provisions of most of the equal employment opportunity laws discussed in [1], above, employers may not retaliate against any employee who has "made a charge, testified, assisted, or participated" in employment discrimination proceedings.ⁿ⁴⁹ The considerations controlling the interpretation of the participation protection are not entirely the same as the opposition protection.ⁿ⁵⁰ The participation protection shields employees who use the tools provided by Congress to protect his or her rights.ⁿ⁵¹ An employee who files a formal discrimination charge is clearly protected,ⁿ⁵² but protection does not necessarily require filing formal charges. In Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Company,ⁿ⁵³ a Title VII charge filed by an employee was dismissed by the EEOC. The employee thereafter wrote a letter to the EEOC complaining about the dismissal. His employer then fired him because the letter contained some allegedly libelous and fraudulent statements.ⁿ⁵⁴ The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals considered the letter to be a "good charge" deserving EEOC investigation, notwithstanding the presence of arguably malicious material.ⁿ⁵⁵ Accordingly, the court held that the employee's discharge was a violation of the antiretaliation provision in Title VII.ⁿ⁵⁶

In Raad v. Fairbanks N. Star Borough,^{n56.1} the Ninth Circuit considered the trial court's grant of summary judgment to a school district on two retaliation claims by a woman of Lebanese origin who was denied a full-time teaching position in a school district. She alleged that the decision to deny her a full-time position, even though four such open positions were filled while she was employed as a substitute teacher, was in retaliation for her complaints to an EEO counselor and that a disciplinary suspension allegedly imposed for a bomb threat was in reprisal for her complaints to the EEO counselor to the state commission for human rights. As to the second claim, the court held that based on evidence regarding the weakness and inconsistency of the district's recounting of the bomb threat incident, the plaintiff had demonstrated a factual dispute as to whether any threat was actually made and whether the district knew or should have known that the accusation was false. However, the first claim was based on four hiring decisions made by two principals at two different high schools after the alleged bomb threat incident. The court held that the plaintiff failed to present any evidence from which a reasonable trier of fact could conclude that the school principals who refused to hire her were aware that she had engaged in protected activity. Further, as a retaliation claim, her action could not be saved by the fact that she was more qualified than applicants who were hired.ⁿ⁵⁷

Even when the allegation of retaliation is based on participation in employment discrimination proceedings, such as by filing a complaint with the EEOC, the plaintiff must still show a causal link between the participation and the adverse action. Thus, where the employee's filing of a complaint with the EEOC and the denial of a promotion were separated by a year and a half, so that the timing alone did not establish a connection, and the employee did not offer any other explanation for the adverse action, summary judgment for the employer on the issue of retaliation was appropriate.^{n57.1}

Under the FEHA, employees who are involved as potential witnesses, which the employer perceives as participation in an activity of the Department of Fair Employment and Housing and the Fair Employment and Housing Commission, are protected against retaliation.^{n57.2}

[4] Protection for Former Employees

Former employees may sue a former employer under Title VII for post-employment retaliation. In Robinson v. Shell Oil Co.,ⁿ⁵⁸ the employer provided a negative employment reference for a discharged employee who had filed a charge of discrimination against the employer. Upholding the former employee's retaliation claim against the employer, the United States Supreme Court found that former employees are covered by Title VII anti-retaliation provisions. The Court stated that excluding such individuals would undermine the statute by allowing the threat of post-employment retaliation to deter employees and former employees from filing charges of discrimination.ⁿ⁵⁹ Further, the dissemination of a negative employment reference may be a violation of Title VII if motivated by discriminatory intent, even when the negative reference does not cause an adverse personnel decision by a prospective employer.ⁿ⁶⁰

[5] Supervisor Liability

Several courts have held that under the FEHA, a supervisor may be individually liable for retaliatory termination. In Winarto v. Toshiba American Electronics Components, Inc.,ⁿ⁶¹ the Ninth Circuit concluded that the plain meaning of FEHA's retaliation provisionⁿ⁶² is susceptible to only one interpretation: supervisors are "persons" and potentially liable for retaliation.ⁿ⁶³ The court distinguished the holding in *Reno v. Baird*ⁿ⁶⁴ that supervisors cannot be personally liable for discrimination under FEHA, since Gov. Code § 12940(a) prohibits only "an employer" from discriminating in hiring and employment decisions.ⁿ⁶⁵

In Jones v. The Lodge at Torrey Pines Partnership,^{n65.1} the California Supreme Court held that non-employer individuals may not be held liable for retaliation under the FEHA. Plaintiff sued his supervisor and his employer for retaliation. In Reno v. Baird,^{n65.2} the Court had held that, although an employer could be liable for unlawful discrimination, individuals working for the employer, including supervisors, could not be personally liable for discrimination. Language differences between the subdivisions of Gov. Code § 12940 governing discrimination, Gov. Code § 12940(a), and retaliation, Gov. Code § 12940(h), did not require a different rule as to retaliation, even though the subdivision governing discrimination makes it an unlawful employment practice for "an employer" to discriminate, while the subdivision governing retaliation makes it an unlawful employment practice for "any employer, labor organization, employment agency, or person" to retaliate.^{n65.3} Whether personal liability exists when the statutes prohibit discrimination by any person acting as an agent of an employer,^{n65.4} and by any person who aids and abets an unlawful employment practice,^{n65.5} resolved in Reno, was similar to the question presented in Jones, as to whether personal liability exists when the statute prohibits retaliation by any employer, labor organization, employment agency, or person.^{n65.6} The Court in Jones held that Reno's rationale for not holding individuals personally liable for discrimination applied equally to retaliation. All of the reasons the Court articulated in Reno for not imposing individual liability for discrimination-- i.e., that supervisors can avoid harassment but cannot avoid personnel decisions, it is incongruous to exempt small employers but to hold individual nonemployers liable, sound policy favors avoiding conflicts of interest and the chilling of effective management, corporate employment decisions are often collective, and it is bad policy to subject supervisors to the threat of a lawsuit every time they make a personnel decision--applied equally to retaliation. Further, the Court's holding in Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc.,^{n65.7} that employment actions that can give rise to a claim for retaliation are identical to actions that can give rise to a claim for discrimination, made it hard to conceive why the Legislature would impose individual liability for actions claimed to be retaliatory but not for the same actions claimed to be discriminatory. The immunity provided to discretionary acts of a governmental official under the Government Tort Claims Actⁿ⁶⁶ applies to claims of retaliation by a supervisor under FEHA only if the decisions in question are properly considered as basic policy decisions made at the planning stage of the governmental entity's operations, rather than routine duties incident to the normal operations of the employee's office or position.ⁿ⁶⁷

[6] Failure to Prevent Retaliation

It is unlawful for an employer, labor organization, employment agency, apprenticeship training program, or any training program leading to employment, to fail to take all reasonable steps necessary to prevent discrimination and harassment from occurring.ⁿ⁶⁸ Gov. Code section 12940(k) permits a claim for failure to prevent or investigate discrimination when the only cause of action at issue is retaliation.ⁿ⁶⁹

The FEHA itself is silent on whether retaliation is a form of discrimination actionable under § 12940(k). In Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power,ⁿ⁷⁰ the Court of Appeal, in concluding that an employer's failure to prevent retaliation is actionable under Gov. Code § 12940(k), found that the California Supreme Court's discussion in *Yanowitz*ⁿ⁷¹ supported the conclusion that retaliation is a form of discrimination. The court also looked to the United States Supreme Court's analogous federal statutory construction in its analysis of retaliation under Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments:ⁿ⁷² the Court announced that retaliation is discrimination on the basis of sex because it is an intentional response to the nature of the complaint of an allegation of sex discrimination.ⁿ⁷³

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationAge DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See discussion in Parts A through F of this chapter.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(d) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) (Title VII); Gov. Code § 12940(h) (FEHA); see Strother v. S. Cal. Permanente Medical Group (9th Cir. 1996) 79 F.3d 859, 865 (medical partner with reasonable belief she was an employee allowed to proceed with retaliation claim arising from having filed DFEH); 42 U.S.C. § 12203(a) (ADA; operative July 26, 1992).

(n3)Footnote 2.1. 29 U.S.C. § 633a(a).

(n4)Footnote 2.2. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(d).

(n5)Footnote 2.3. Gomez-Perez v. Potter (2008) 553 U.S. 474, 128 S. Ct. 1931, 170 L. Ed. 2d 887, 2008 U.S. LEXIS 4518, *10-*32 .

(n6)Footnote 2.4. CBOCS West, Inc. v. Humphries (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1951, 170 L. Ed. 2d 864, 2008 U.S. LEXIS 4516, *7-*26 .

(n7)Footnote 3. Now see Gov. Code § 12940(h).

(n8)Footnote 4. This amendment, however, has been held not to be retroactive. See Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 615-616, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 (holding that pre-1988 retaliation by coworker was not actionable under FEHA). For discussion of administrative enforcement proceedings under equal employment opportunity laws, see ch. 42. For discussion of civil actions under those laws, see ch. 43.

(n9)Footnote 5. See 42 U.S.C. § 12203(b).

(n10)Footnote 6. See Freitag v. Ayers (9th Cir. 2006) 463 F.3d 838, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 23383, *33-*44 (in action by female prison guard against prison for retaliation in violation of her First Amendment rights for protesting sexual misconduct by male inmates, jury properly found each element required to establish First Amendment claim against public employer, i.e., that employee engaged in constitutionally protected speech, employer took adverse employment action against employee, and employee's speech was substantial or motivating factor in adverse action; however, remand was required because instruction permitted jury to consider unprotected speech with speech that was constitutionally protected); Ramirez v. San Mateo County (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1981) 639 F.2d 509, 51542 U.S.C. § 1983 ("retaliation" question properly submitted to jury as First Amendment claim). But see Garcetti v. Ceballos (2006) 547 U.S. 410, 126 S. Ct. 1951, 1957-1962, 164 L. Ed. 2d 689 (First Amendment did not protect deputy district attorney from retaliation based on memo criticizing search warrant and urging dismissal of prosecution made pursuant to his official duties). For a general discussion of the United States Constitution as an equal employment opportunity source, see Chapter 40, Part C.

(n11)Footnote 7. [Reserved]

(n12)Footnote 8. See Title 42 U.S.C., § 1983; see Allen v. Iranon (9th Cir. 2002) 283 F.3d 1070, 1077 (action by prison doctor under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 alleging defendants retaliated against him for exercising his First Amendment right to free speech).

(n13)Footnote 9. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 206(d), 215(a)(3) (discrimination for filing complaint or instituting proceeding is unlawful). For a discussion relating to the scope and application of the federal EPA generally, see Chapter 40, Part C.

(n14)Footnote 10. See Exec. Order No. 11246, 30 Fed. Reg. 12319 (1965) , reprinted in 42 U.S.C.A. § 2000e(West 1981); 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.32 (federal contractors and contract applicants required to ensure that no person intimidates, threatens, coerces, or discriminates against anyone in order to interfere with enforcement of Exec. Order No. 11246 or any other equal employment opportunity law). For discussion of the scope and applicability of Exec. Order No. 11246 generally, see Chapter 40, Part C.

(n15)Footnote 10.1. See 29 U.S.C. § 2615.

(n16)Footnote 10.2. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 420-421, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (supervisor's threat to "crush" managers opposed to employer's plan that would adversely affect older managers showed intent to retaliate against manager who filed age discrimination claim challenging plan). See also Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95, 109, n.9, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717 .

(n17)Footnote 11. Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 686, 723-727, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 406 (employer's claim that employee was fired by management officers, not by supervisors who could have been found to have acted out of impermissible motives, did not support grant of summary judgment, where reasonable inference from evidence was that supervisors consulted with upper management to be sure it was comfortable with their decision to fire him, and where supervisor could have been understood to believe that when he met with employee, he was vested with authority not to fire him if supervisor so decided); Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 421, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (because supervisor who was involved in decision, even though he was not decision-maker, was motivating force in selection of person other than plaintiff, his animus was imputed to employer; further, notwithstanding decision-maker's alleged ignorance, employer must have known plaintiff made EEOC age discrimination claim, which prevented employer from implementing its plan to reduce employee compensation, giving employer motive to retaliate). See also Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95, 110, 16 Cal. Rptr. 3d 717 .

(n18)Footnote 11.1. Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 126 S. Ct. 2405, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 .

(n19)Footnote 11.2. Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 126 S. Ct. 2405, 2410-2414, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 .

(n20)Footnote 11.3. Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 126 S. Ct. 2405, 2414-2416, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 .

(n21)Footnote 11.4. Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 126 S. Ct. 2405, 2416-2418, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 .

(n22)Footnote 11.5. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436, 116 P.3d 1123 .

(n23)Footnote 11.6. Yanowitz, 36 Cal 4th at 1050 ("[W]e believe it is more reasonable to conclude that the Legislature intended to extend a comparable degree of protection both to employees who are subject to the types of basic forms of discrimination at which the FEHA is directed ... and to employees who are discriminated against in retaliation for opposing such discrimination, rather than to interpret the statutory scheme as affording a greater degree of protection against improper retaliation than is afforded against direct discrimination.").

(n24)Footnote 11.7. Yanowitz, 36 Cal 4th at 1051-1052 . See, e.g., Hammond v. County of Los Angeles (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1579, 1602 (FEHA; plaintiff's evidence was sufficient to raise triable issue of fact of actionable retaliation, where supervisor's reduction of plaintiff's teaching assignments was sufficient to constitute adverse employment action against plaintiff, where plaintiff's complaints to supervisor's supervisors about racially motivated mistreatment of plaintiff constituted protected activity under FEHA, and where supervisor's comment to plaintiff after plaintiff's first complaint supported reasonable inference that adverse employment action against plaintiff was in retaliation for plaintiff's complaints; further, defendants provided no legitimate, nonretaliatory reason for the adverse employment action).

(n25)Footnote 11.8. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 420, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (denying employee transfer in retaliation for filing age discrimination claim was adverse employment action because new position involved higher classification within management and offered higher salary).

(n26)Footnote 11.9. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 421, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 .

(n27)Footnote 11.10. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 421-422, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (employee was not invited to serve on management committees or to apply for management positions and was treated with coldness; other evidence also supported jury's findings that employer refused to engage in interactive process to discuss employee's disabilities and that it acted with malice). See also Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 798, 823, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 87, 29 P.3d 175 ; Podkovich v. Glazer's Distributors of Iowa, Inc. (N.D. Iowa 2006) 446 F. Supp. 2d 982, 1009 (employer treating employee with hostility or rudeness); Kim v. Nash Finch Co. (8th Cir. 1997) 123 F.3d 1046, 1061 (excluding employee from discretionary assignments and meetings).

(n28)Footnote 11.11. Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1228-1236, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 .

(n29)Footnote 11.12. Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1231-1233, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 .

(n30)Footnote 11.13. Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1233-1235, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 .

(n31)Footnote 11.14. Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1253-1260, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 .

(n32)Footnote 11.15. Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1253, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 . See also Turner v. Anheuser-Busch (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1244-1245, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022 .

(n33)Footnote 12. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 623(d) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) (Title VII); 42 U.S.C. § 12203(a) (ADA); Gov. Code § 12940(h) (FEHA).

(n34)Footnote 13. See, e.g., Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Go Daddy Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 2009) 581 F.3d 951, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20159, *28-*32 (employee's complaints to member of employer's human resources department two or three times about what he perceived as discriminatory comments was protected activity).

(n35)Footnote 14. See Lindsey v. Miss. Research & Development Center (5th Cir. [Miss.] 1981) 652 F.2d 488, 492 (dictum; organization of minority employees to discuss discriminatory employment practices as "protected expressions").

(n36)Footnote 15. See Iwekaogwu v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 803, 815, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505 .

(n37)Footnote 16. See Iwekaogwu v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 803, 816, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505 .

(n38)Footnote 16.1. Crawford v. Metro. Gov't. of Nashville & Davidson County (2009) 129 S. Ct. 846, 17 L. Ed. 2d 650, 2009 U.S. LEXIS 870, *8-*16 . To view Supreme Court briefs related to the Crawford case that are available on Lexis.com, go to 2006 U.S. Briefs 1595 . To view Supreme Court transcript, go to 2008 U.S. Trans. LEXIS 50 .

(n39)Footnote 16.2. 2 EEOC Compliance Manual §§ 8-II-B(1), (2), p. 614:0003 (Mar. 2003).

(n40)Footnote 17. E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008 .

(n41)Footnote 18. See E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008, 1013 .

(n42)Footnote 19. Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222 .

(n43)Footnote 20. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 231 .

(n44)Footnote 21. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 230 .

(n45)Footnote 22. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 230-231 .

(n46)Footnote 23. Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 231 .

(n47)Footnote 24. Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 231 .

(n48)Footnote 25. Fielder v. UAL Corp. (9th Cir. 2000) 218 F.3d 973.

(n49)Footnote 26. Fielder v. UAL Corp. (9th Cir. 2000) 218 F.3d 973, 984-985 .

(n50)Footnote 27. After the Ninth Circuit decided Fielder, in Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006), 126 S. Ct. 2405, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 , discussed at [1A] above, the United States Supreme Court held that the scope of the anti-retaliation provision of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 extends beyond workplace-related or employment-related retaliatory acts and harm, so that an employee need only allege and prove "adverse action" rather than "adverse employment action" under Title VII's anti-retaliation provision.

(n51)Footnote 27.1. Fielder v. UAL Corp. (9th Cir. 2000) 218 F.3d 973, 984-985 .

(n52)Footnote 28. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 623(d) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) (Title VII); 42 U.S.C. § 12203(a) (ADA); Gov. Code § 12940(h) (FEHA).

(n53)Footnote 29. E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008 .

(n54)Footnote 30. See E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008, 1013 .

(n55)Footnote 31. See E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008, 1014 .

(n56)Footnote 32. See E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008, 1013 .

(n57)Footnote 33. *E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008, 1013 (Title VII). See Freitag v. Ayers (9th Cir. 2006) 463 F.3d 838, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 23383, *29-32 (dispositive question was not whether administrators at prison believed their failure to correct conditions complained of by female prison guard constituted violation of Title VII for actionable sexual harassment, but rather whether they were aware guard had opposed that failure and whether guard's belief that their conduct was unlawful was reasonable); Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 913 (Title VII), as amended on denial of rehearing and rejection of rehearing en banc, 301 F.3d 958, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 882 ; Payne v. McLemore's Wholesale & Retail Stores (5th Cir. 1981) 654 F.2d 1130, 1140 (Title VII); Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F.2d 692, 695 (Title VII).

(n58)Footnote 34. See Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F.2d 692 .

(n59)Footnote 35. See Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F.2d 692, 695 (Title VII).

(n60)Footnote 36. See Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F.2d 692, 695 (Title VII); see also Moyo v. Gomez (9th Cir. 1994) 40 F.3d 982, 985 (correctional officer may bring a Title VII claim for retaliation for protesting employer's practice of permitting white inmates, but not black inmates, to shower because, although this practice may not actually violate Title VII, the correctional officer's belief that it did so was reasonable); but see Clark County Sch. Dist. v. Breeden (2001) 532 U.S. 268, 121 S. Ct. 1508, 149 L. Ed. 2d 509 (U.S. Supreme Court leaves open question as to whether Title VII protects against retaliation for opposing practices employee could reasonably believe were unlawful even if practices did not violate Title VII; employee could not reasonably believe that single, isolated incident constituted sexual harassment).

(n61)Footnote 36.1. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Go Daddy Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 2009) 581

*F.3d 951, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20159, 29 . See Clark County School District v. Breeden (2001) 532 U.S. 268, 270-271, 121 S. Ct. 1508, 149 L. Ed. 2d 509 .

(n62)Footnote 36.2. *Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Go Daddy Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 2009) 581 F.3d 951, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20159, *28-32 (employee's testimony regarding various comments by different co-workers was sufficient evidence supporting reasonable person's conclusion that conduct to which he was subjected at employer went beyond mere offhand comments and isolated incidents, and that his two or three complaints to member of employer's human resources department were therefore protected activity).

(n63)Footnote 37. See Silver v. KCA, Inc. (9th Cir. 1978) 586 F.2d 138, 142 (Title VII).

(n64)Footnote 38. See Silver v. KCA, Inc. (9th Cir. 1978) 586 F.2d 138, 142 (Title VII) .

(n65)Footnote 39. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1043, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 .

(n66)Footnote 40. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1046-1048, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (trier of fact properly could find that supervisor knew employee who objected repeatedly to order that she fire sales associate whom the supervisor found sexually unattractive believed in good faith the order was discriminatory).

(n67)Footnote 41. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1042-1048, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (employee refused to obey supervisor's order to terminate sales associate whom the supervisor found sexually unattractive, because she thought order represented application of different standard for female sales associates than male sales associates; her conduct constituted protected opposition to sex discrimination for which employer could not retaliate).

(n68)Footnote 42-44. [Reserved]

(n69)Footnote 45. Trent v. Valley Elec. Ass'n Inc. (9th Cir. 1994) 41 F.3d 524 .

(n70)Footnote 46. Trent v. Valley Elec. Ass'n Inc. (9th Cir. 1994) 41 F.3d 524, 527 .

(n71)Footnote 47. Folkerson v. Circus Circus Enters., Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 107 F.3d 754 .

(n72)Footnote 48. See Folkerson v. Circus Circus Enters., Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 107 F.3d 754, 756 .

(n73)Footnote 49. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 623(d) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) (Title VII); 42 U.S.C. § 12203(a)(ADA); Gov. Code § 12940(h) (FEHA).

(n74)Footnote 50. See [2], above.

(n75)Footnote 51. Hashimoto v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 118 F.3d 671, 679-680 (quoting Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F.2d 692, 695) (participation in Title VII's enforcement machinery may establish prima facie case of retaliation; visit with EEO counselor constitutes participation in enforcement machinery).

(n76)Footnote 52. See Kauffman v. Sidereal Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 695 F.2d 343, 344-345 (Title VII; retaliation for filing complaint with EEOC); but see Learned v. City of Bellevue (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 928, 932 , cert. denied, 103 L. Ed. 2d 835 (1989) (Title VII; mere fact that employee is participating in investigation or proceeding involving charges of some sort of discrimination does not automatically trigger 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a); employee must reasonably perceive discrimination as violating Title VII, and must at least allege a valid Title VII claim).

(n77)Footnote 53. Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 411 F.2d 998 .

(n78)Footnote 54. See Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 411 F.2d 998, 1001-1002 .

(n79)Footnote 55. See Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 411 F.2d 998, 1007 .

(n80)Footnote 56. See Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 411 F.2d 998, 1007 ; 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a).

(n81)Footnote 56.1. Raad v. Fairbanks N. Star Borough (9th Cir. 2003) 323 F.3d 1185 .

(n82)Footnote 57. Raad v. Fairbanks N. Star Borough (9th Cir. 2003) 323 F.3d 1185, 1196-1198 .

(n83)Footnote 57.1. McGinest v. GTE Service Corp. (9th Cir. 2004) 360 F.3d 1103, 1124 .

(n84)Footnote 57.2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.8(a)(2)(B) (expressly defining "assisted in any proceeding" under FEHA as used in Gov. Code § 12940(h), to include involvement as potential witness that employer perceives as participation in activity of DFEH or FEHC). See, e.g., Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1252, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 (employee was engaged in protected activity, where fellow employee filed complaint with DFEH based, in part, on employer retaliating against fellow employee for her report of kissing incident involving chairman of employer's board and employee, so that employee was "potential witness" in proceeding).

(n85)Footnote 58. Robinson v. Shell Oil Co. (1997) 519 U.S. 337, 117 S. Ct. 843, 136 L. Ed. 2d 808 .

(n86)Footnote 59. See Robinson v. Shell Oil Co. (1997) 519 U.S. 337, 346, 117 S. Ct. 843, 136 L. Ed. 2d 808 .

(n87)Footnote 60. Hashimoto v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 118 F.3d 671, 674-675 (court rejects "no harm, no foul" approach; attorney's fee award to employee on retaliation claim proper when plaintiff partially succeeds, legal relationship between parties is materially altered, and remedial measures benefit community); see Passer v. American Chemical Soc. (D.C. Cir. 1991) 935 F.2d 322, 330 (plaintiff may seek for relief for retaliatory actions taken after employment if alleged discrimination is related to or arises from employment relationship).

(n88)Footnote 61. Winarto v. Toshiba American Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276 .

(n89)Footnote 62. Gov. Code § 12940(h).

(n90)Footnote 63. Winarto v. Toshiba American Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1287-1288 ; see also Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1236-1237, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 (supervisor may be held personally liable for retaliation under the FEHA); Page v. Superior Court (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1206, 1212 (FEHA unambiguously imposes personal liability for harassment or retaliation); Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 615, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 (implying that 1987 amendment of FEHA's retaliation provision adding "person" indicates legislative intent to extend liability to individuals).

(n91)Footnote 64. Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 640, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333 .

(n92)Footnote 65. *Winarto v. Toshiba American Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1288 ; see also Peterson v. Santa Clara Valley Medical Center (N.D. Cal. 2000) 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 953, *9-*10 ; Soo v. UPS (N.D. Cal. 1999) 73 F. Supp. 2d 1126, 1129-1130 ; Liberto-Blanck v. City of Arroyo Grande (C.D. Cal. 1999) 33 F. Supp. 2d 1241, 1243 ; Kaminski v. Target Stores (N.D. Cal. 1998) 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13977, 7 (all holding that Reno does not apply to retaliation).

(n93)Footnote 65.1. Jones v. The Lodge at Torrey Pines Partnership (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1158, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624, 177 P.3d 232 .

(n94)Footnote 65.2. Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 640, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333 .

(n95)Footnote 65.3. Jones v. The Lodge at Torrey Pines Partnership (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1158, 1161-1173, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624, 177 P.3d 232 .

(n96)Footnote 65.4. Gov. Code § 12926(d).

(n97)Footnote 65.5. Gov. Code § 12940(I).

(n98)Footnote 65.6. Gov. Code § 12940(h).

(n99)Footnote 65.7. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436, 116 P.3d 1123 .

(n100)Footnote 66. Gov. Code § 820.2.

(n101)Footnote 67. Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1238-1239, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 , overruled on other grounds in Jones v. The Lodge at Torrey Pines Partnership (2008) 42 Cal. 4th 1158, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 624, 177 P.3d 232 (supervisor was not immune, as public employee, from personal liability for retaliation under FEHA for performing discretionary personnel actions, where acts alleged did not fit within type of policy decisions Supreme Court determined would be immune under Gov. Code § 820.2; because decisions regarding job assignments, training and promotion could not be characterized as quasi-legislative policy-making decision sufficiently sensitive to call for judicial abstention from interference that might affect coordinate body's decision-making process of coordinate branch of government). See Barner v. Leeds (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 676, 685, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 97, 13 P.3d 704 .

(n102)Footnote 68. Gov. Code § 12940(k).

(n103)Footnote 69. Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1239-1240, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 . See also Giovannetti v. Trs. of the Cal. State Univ. (N.D. Cal. 2006) 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 41750, 2006 WL 1626990 (unpub'd dec.).

(n104)Footnote 70. Taylor v. City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water & Power (2006) 144 Cal. App. 4th 1216, 1239-1240, 51 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 .

(n105)Footnote 71. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1050, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (when provisions of Gov. Code § 12940 are viewed as whole, it is more reasonable to conclude Legislature intended to extend comparable degree of protection to employees subject to types of basic forms of discrimination at which the FEHA is directed, e.g., discrimination on basis of race or sex, and to employees discriminated against in retaliation for opposing discrimination, rather than to interpret statutory scheme as affording greater degree of protection against improper retaliation than afforded against direct discrimination).

(n106)Footnote 72. 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq.

(n107)Footnote 73. Jackson v. Birmingham Bd. of Educ. (2005) 544 U.S. 167, 174, 125 S. Ct. 1497, 161 L. Ed. 2d 361 (concluding that funding recipient's retaliation against person because of complaint of sex discrimination constitutes intentional discrimination on basis of sex in violation of Title IX).

114 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART G. RETALIATION

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.131

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.131 Proof

[1] Generally

"Retaliation" actions are generally litigated under the disparate treatment theory,ⁿ¹ which applies when an employer treats an employee or employees differently because of membership in a protected class.ⁿ² Thus, the McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green ⁿ³ rules regarding order and allocation of proof apply to such actions.ⁿ⁴ A plaintiff must initially make out a prima facie case of retaliation.ⁿ⁵ The burden then shifts to the employer to articulate some legitimate, nonretaliatory reason for the adverse action.ⁿ⁶ If the employer adduces a lawful reason for the adverse action, the plaintiff may show that the employer's reason is merely a "pretext" covering up unlawful retaliation through the guise of innocent business planning.ⁿ⁷

However, a claim under § 503(b) of the Americans with Disabilities Act that an employer coerced, intimidated, threatened, or interfered with any individual in the exercise or enjoyment of his or her ADA rights,ⁿ⁸ without alleging retaliation, is not subject to Title VII's burden-shifting or hostile environment frameworks. Given the broad remedial purpose of the ADA,ⁿ⁹ the plain language of § 503(b) clearly prohibits an employer or supervisor from threatening an individual with transfer, demotion, or forced retirement unless the individual foregoes a statutorily protected accommodation. Conclusory allegations, without more, are insufficient to state a violation of § 503(b). An ADA plaintiff must also demonstrate that he or she has suffered a "distinct and palpable injury" as a result of the threat. That injury could consist of the giving up of ADA rights or another injury resulting from the employee's refusal to give up those rights, or from the threat itself.ⁿ¹⁰

[2] Prima Facie Case

According to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, a prima facie case of retaliation may be established by showing (1) that the plaintiff engaged in a protected activity,ⁿ¹¹ (2) that the plaintiff was thereafter subjected to adverse action by his or her employer,ⁿ¹² and (3) that there was a causal link between the two.ⁿ¹³ Given the slightly different standards under Title VII and FEHA for establishing retaliation under each law, the prima facie case under each will be slightly different. Under the United States Supreme Court's holding in Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White, n14 the scope of the anti-retaliation provision of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 extends beyond workplace-related or employment-related retaliatory acts and harm, so that an employee need only allege and prove an "adverse action" rather than an "adverse employment action." On the other hand, in Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc., n15 the California Supreme Court held that under the FEHA, the adverse action must materially affect the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment to be actionable. Thus under the FEHA, the allegedly retaliatory conduct must be workplace-related or employment-related. Employees are not required to elaborate to their employer on the legal theory underlying complaints they are making in order to be protected from retaliation under the FEHA.n16 An employee's mistake of law, as well as mistake of fact, may establish an employee's good faith but mistaken belief that he or she is opposing conduct prohibited by the FEHA.n17 Whether a jury or a court ultimately concludes defendants' conduct constituted sexual harassment, employees reasonably can believe they are making a claim of sexual harassment in violation of the FEHA when they complain of sexual favoritism in their workplace.n18 A prima facie case may be based on direct or circumstantial evidence.n19

The appropriate standard for determining whether an employee has been subjected to an adverse employment action for purposes of a retaliation claim under the FEHA is the "materiality" test, which requires an employer's adverse action to materially affect the terms and conditions of employment, rather than an arguably broader "deterrence" test.n20 However, although an adverse employment action must materially affect the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment to be actionable, the determination of whether a particular action or course of conduct rises to the level of actionable conduct should take into account the unique circumstances of the affected employee as well as the workplace context of the claim.n21

Under FEHA, when an employee alleges a pattern of systematic retaliation, the court need not consider whether each alleged retaliatory act constitutes an adverse employment action in and of itself. There is no requirement that an employer's retaliatory acts constitute one swift blow, rather than a series of subtle, yet damaging, injuries.n22

However, in Thomas v. Department of Corrections,n23 the court found that miscellaneous one-time events, such as delayed check, early job change, and failure to receive one overtime check, did not amount to an employment injury for purposes of a FEHA action.n24

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Thomas v. Department of Correction n25 is one of an emerging number of California cases to adopt the phrase "adverse employment action" when making reference to cognizable wrongs under the FEHA and other statutes.n26 By holding that a number of miscellaneous, one-time events did not constitute employment injury, the appellate panel has joined scores of federal cases in finding that de minimis conduct does not trigger statutory protection. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

An action is cognizable as an adverse action if it is reasonably likely to deter employees from engaging in protected activity. Thus, whether an action is adverse is, at least in part, a subjective standard. However, it is not entirely subjective because the conduct must be reasonably likely to deter the protected activity, even by the charging party.n27

The FEHA does not define "adverse employment action." Under the FEHA, the mere fact that an employee is displeased by an employer's act or omission does not elevate that act or omission to the level of a materially adverse employment action.n28 It is not enough for the plaintiff to show that he or she has been subjected to some form of adverse treatment. The plaintiff must show the employer's retaliatory actions had a detrimental and substantial effect on the plaintiff's employment.n29 A change that is merely contrary to the employee's interests or not to the employee's liking is insufficient. Adverse employment actions include, but are not limited to, a material change in the terms and conditions of employment.n30

In Akers v. County of San Diego, the court found specifically that reduced promotional opportunities are a legally tenable basis to find the employer substantially and materially adversely affected the terms and conditions of the plaintiff's employment on which to base a retaliation claim.ⁿ³¹ A mere oral or written criticism of an employee or a transfer into a comparable position does not meet the definition of an adverse employment action under FEHA. However, an unfavorable evaluation may be actionable if the employee proves the employer used the evaluation as a basis to detrimentally alter the terms or conditions of the recipient's employment.ⁿ³² A temporary employment agency may be liable for retaliation based on a failure to exercise its prerogative to recommend that the client company with whom the agency placed the employee retain the employee rather than terminate him or her, or on the agency's failure to attempt to place the employee in a comparable position elsewhere after his or her discharge.ⁿ³³

For purposes of making a prima facie showing under the McDonnell Douglas test, the causal link element may be established by an inference derived from circumstantial evidence. A plaintiff can satisfy the initial burden under the test by producing evidence of nothing more than the employer's knowledge that the employee engaged in protected activities and the proximity in time between the protected action and the allegedly retaliatory employment decision.ⁿ³⁴ On summary judgment, the court cannot decide factual issues, but only may identify the presence or absence of factual issues related to whether plaintiff has made a prima facie showing.ⁿ³⁵

The causation element is the nexus between the protected activity and the employment action.ⁿ³⁶ Retaliatory motive is proved by a showing that plaintiff engaged in protected activities, the employer was aware of the protected activities, and the adverse action followed within a relatively short time.ⁿ³⁷ The causal link between a protected activity and the alleged retaliatory action can be inferred from timing alone when there is a close proximity between the two.ⁿ³⁸ However, causality is not dependent, as a matter of law, on temporal proximity. Although a lack of temporal proximity may make it more difficult to show causation, circumstantial evidence of a pattern of antagonism following protected conduct can also give rise to the inference.ⁿ³⁹ A specified time period cannot be a mechanically applied criterion.ⁿ⁴⁰ Even if a manager is not the ultimate decision-maker regarding the adverse action, the manager's retaliatory motive may be imputed to the employer if the manager was involved in the decision.ⁿ⁴¹

The issue is whether retaliatory animus was a but-for cause of the employer's adverse action.ⁿ⁴² The plaintiff can establish the element of causation by showing that any of the persons involved in bringing about the adverse action held the requisite animus, provided that such person's animus operated as a "but-for" cause, i.e., a force without which the adverse action would not have happened.ⁿ⁴³ A defendant does not conclusively negate the element of causation by showing only that some responsible actors, but not all, were ignorant of the occasion for retaliation.ⁿ⁴⁴ Thus, for example, a supervisor annoyed by a worker's complaints about sexual harassment might decide to get rid of that worker by, for instance, fabricating a case of misconduct, or exaggerating a minor instance of misconduct into one that will lead to dismissal. Another manager, accepting the fabricated case at face value, may decide, entirely without animus, to discharge the plaintiff. The supervisor's utilization of a complex management structure to achieve the same result would not have the effect of insulating the employer from a liability that would otherwise be imposed.ⁿ⁴⁵ Thus, ignorance of a worker's protected activities or status does not afford a categorical defense unless it extends to all corporate actors who contributed materially to an adverse employment decision.ⁿ⁴⁶ Further, if a supervisor makes another his or her tool for carrying out a discriminatory action, i.e., makes the other a "cat's paw," the original actor's purpose will be imputed to the tool, or through the tool to their common employer.ⁿ⁴⁷

A situation in which a subordinate employee with bias precipitates an investigation that leads to an adverse employment action, but an employee without bias makes the final decision to take the adverse action, raises the question of how involved in the investigation the biased subordinate must be for the subordinate's animus to be imputed to the employer that took the adverse employment action. In the Ninth Circuit, if a subordinate, in response to a plaintiff's protected activity, sets in motion a proceeding by an independent decision maker that leads to an adverse employment action, the subordinate's bias is imputed to the employer if the plaintiff can prove that the allegedly independent adverse employment decision was not actually independent because the biased subordinate influenced or was involved in the decision or decisionmaking process. Thus, if an adverse employment action is the consequence of an entirely independent investigation by an employer, the animus of the retaliating employee is not imputed to the employer. Conversely, even if the biased subordinate was not the principal decisionmaker, the biased subordinate's retaliatory motive will be imputed to the employer if the subordinate influenced, affected, or was involved in the adverse employment decision. Thus, to establish the essential element of causation in a subordinate bias case, in which the investigation that led to the adverse employment decision was initiated by, and would not have happened but for, the biased subordinate, the plaintiff must show that the allegedly independent adverse employment decision was not actually independent because the biased subordinate influenced or was involved in the decision or the investigation leading thereto.ⁿ⁴⁸

The causal link may be established by direct evidence of retaliatory motive,ⁿ⁴⁹ such as an adverse action admittedly based on a letter to the Department of Housing and Urban Development complaining about hiring practices and job conditions.ⁿ⁵⁰ However, such evidence is rarely available,ⁿ⁵¹ and thus causation may be inferred from circumstantial evidence.ⁿ⁵² For example, an employee may show that other employees did not suffer the same consequences for the same conduct,ⁿ⁵³ or that there was a proximity in time between the employer's knowledge of protected activities and the alleged retaliatory adverse action.ⁿ⁵⁴ In Iwekaogwu v. City of Los Angeles, the court allowed a jury to infer retaliation against a racial-minority employee who was refused promotions (which promotion in one instance went to a less qualified person), refused overtime, and was subjected to the hostile comments of second-level supervisor after having threatened to file a race discrimination action.ⁿ⁵⁵

Although retaliation often involves termination, demotion, or financial loss,ⁿ⁵⁶ such actions are not a necessary predicate for a viable retaliation claim. All a plaintiff need show is that an employer took some action in response to the exercise of protected rights. For example, a refusal to transfer may be sufficient.ⁿ⁵⁷ In Valdez v. Clayton Industries, Inc., the court found that plaintiff's complaints of sexual harassment by his supervisor and his temporally proximate layoff raised triable issues regarding causation and pretext, since a reasonable jury could infer that plaintiff's supervisor and his supervisor's supervisor terminated him in retaliation for his complaints, and not because there was an absence of work.ⁿ⁵⁸

Unlawful retaliation may also occur if an employer refuses to hire an individual because he or she engaged in protected activities.ⁿ⁵⁹ For example, in Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State University,ⁿ⁶⁰ a university allegedly retaliated against a part-time instructor who filed an EEOC complaint by eliminating a tenure-track position for which she applied.ⁿ⁶¹ The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals described the case as a "hybrid" that was "part retaliation and part discrimination," explaining that a "failure-to-hire" factual setting usually produces discrimination claims because job applicants seldom have a pre-existing employment relationship that allows for retaliation.ⁿ⁶² The court noted, however, that although discrimination and retaliation claims have different prima facie elements,ⁿ⁶³ the Wrighten retaliation elements discussed in [1], above, are generally applicable,ⁿ⁶⁴ albeit with some modification. Explaining that those elements "had their genesis in termination cases and do not translate literally in the failure-to-hire context," the Ruggles court thus held that in order to satisfy the Wrighten "adverse employment action"ⁿ⁶⁵ element, a "failure-to-hire" plaintiff must show that a position for which he or she applied was eliminated as to him or her because of his or her protected activities.ⁿ⁶⁶

Further, the ADA bars retaliation against or interference with a person who has asserted rights under the ADA.ⁿ⁶⁷

Unlawful retaliation may occur when the employer takes adverse employment action against an employee who refuses to violate the rights of others. For example, in Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc.,ⁿ⁶⁸ an employee of Syrian heritage who was a naturalized citizen presented a prima facie case of unlawful retaliation in violation of the FEHA sufficient to withstand summary judgment by presenting evidence that his supervisor was "unhappy" when the employee initially refused to participate in discriminating against persons on medical leave; that the supervisor nonetheless persisted in seeking to enlist the employee's aid; that when the employee protested and stood fast in his refusal, both his supervisor and a management officer excoriated him for undermining their authority; and that his supervisor was outraged when the employee invoked the employer's "open door policy" to protest to upper management his retaliatory treatment.

[3] Employer's Rebuttal

To satisfy the burden to articulate a legitimate, nonretaliatory explanation for an adverse action, an employer need only produce admissible evidence that would allow the trier of fact to rationally conclude that the action was not motivated by discriminatory animus.ⁿ⁶⁹ For example, an employer may show lack of qualifications or subsequent disqualification, or elimination of the plaintiff's job for other business purposes.ⁿ⁷⁰

An employer that has asserted a facially valid and specific basis for an employment action such as a termination is not required to additionally prove the objective fairness of the employment procedures as part of its burden.ⁿ⁷¹

[4] Proof of Pretext

If the employer produces a legitimate reason for the adverse action, the presumption of retaliation drops out of the picture, and the burden shifts back to the employee to prove intentional retaliation.ⁿ⁷²

If the employer's rebuttal is successful, the plaintiff must carry his or her ultimate burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the evidence, that retaliatory intent motivated the employer's action.ⁿ⁷³

The employee must have the opportunity to attack the employer's proffered reasons as pretexts for discrimination, or to offer any other evidence of discriminatory motive. The plaintiff's burden is to prove, by competent evidence, that the employer's proffered justification is mere pretext, i.e., that the presumptively valid reason for the employer's action was in fact a cover-up.ⁿ⁷⁴ In responding to the employer's showing of a legitimate reason for the complained-of action, the plaintiff cannot simply show the employer's decision was wrong, mistaken, or unwise. The employee must demonstrate weaknesses, implausibilities, inconsistencies, incoherencies, or contradictions in the employer's proffered legitimate reasons for its action that a reasonable factfinder could rationally find them unworthy or credence and thus infer that the employer did not act for the asserted nondiscriminatory reasons.ⁿ⁷⁵ This may be accomplished directly by showing that a retaliatory reason more likely motivated the employer's action,ⁿ⁷⁶ but because an employer's true motivation may be difficult to prove directly,ⁿ⁷⁷ intentional discrimination is most often indirectly established by showing that the employer's proffered reason was a pretext.ⁿ⁷⁸ Thus, for example, when an employer has advanced multiple fundamentally different justifications for its actions, this suggests the possibility that none of the official reasons given was the true reason and that a retaliatory motive was behind the employer's conduct.ⁿ⁷⁹ Further, even when an employer argues that different stated reasons for termination actually form a single basis for termination, a rational trier of fact could determine that the variations reveal fundamental differences and support allegations of pretext.ⁿ⁸⁰

Very little direct evidence of discriminatory motive suffices to establish pretext.ⁿ⁸¹ Circumstantial evidence of pretext must be "specific" and "substantial."ⁿ⁸² An unwarranted reduction in performance review scores can constitute evidence of pretext in retaliation cases.ⁿ⁸³ Pretext may be inferred from the timing of the employer's termination decision, by the identity of the person making the decision, and by the terminated employee's job performance before termination.ⁿ⁸⁴

Evidence that the employer's claimed reason is false, such as that it conflicts with other evidence, or appears to have been contrived after the fact, will tend to suggest that the employer seeks to conceal the real reason for its actions, and this in turn may support an inference that the real reason was unlawful. This does not mean that the fact finder can examine the employer's stated reasons and impose liability solely because they are found wanting. But it can take account of manifest weaknesses in the cited reasons in considering whether those reasons constituted the real motive for the employer's actions, or have instead been asserted to mask a more sinister reality.ⁿ⁸⁵ For example, in Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc.,ⁿ⁸⁶ there was ample evidence to support the inference that the employer's articulated reason for terminating the employee's employment, i.e., that he was stealing from the employer, was false. The employer never rested on a single coherent explanation for its firing of the employee, and several, if not all, of its explanations were questionable. In its official form memorializing the discharge, the precise nature of the asserted misconduct and the policy it supposedly violated remained in serious doubt, and to the extent it could be identified, appeared heavily controverted.

The causal link discussed in [2], above, is most severely contested at the "pretext" stage because a successful employer rebuttal creates a "question of mixed causation-- i.e., retaliation plus legitimate business purpose ...".ⁿ⁸⁷ There is no consensus about the degree of retaliatory animus that must be shown to establish causation. Some courts hold that to prevail at the pretext stage (thereby proving a Title VII violation), a plaintiff must establish that protected activity was the "principal reason" for an adverse action.ⁿ⁸⁸ Others declare that it need only be shown that retaliation contributed, "among other reasons," to cause an adverse action.ⁿ⁸⁹ In Kauffman v. Sidereal Corp.,ⁿ⁹⁰ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals adopted a "but for" test, in which it must be established by a preponderance of the evidence both that protected activity was one of the reasons for an adverse action and that the action would not have been taken in the absence of such activity.ⁿ⁹¹ The "but for" test has also been adopted by other courts.ⁿ⁹²

In Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co.,ⁿ⁹³ the Ninth Circuit discussed "single motive" versus "mixed motive" actions in the context of a retaliation claim under Title VII. The court opined that in mixed motive cases, it does not make sense to ask if the employer's stated reason for terminating an employee was a pretext for retaliation, when the employer has offered more than one reason for the action that it took. Rather, the relevant inquiry in a "mixed motive" case is distinct from that of a "single motive" or pretext case. The proper framework for analyzing a "mixed motive" case is that in cases in which the evidence could support a finding that discrimination is one of two or more reasons for the challenged decision, at least one of which may be legitimate, the jury should be instructed to determine first whether the discriminatory reason was "a motivating factor" in the challenged action. If the jury's answer to this question is in the affirmative, the employer has violated Title VII.ⁿ⁹⁴ In Stegall, the court found that after the employee presented a prima facie case of retaliation, the employer offered two legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons to justify terminating her employment. The court then found that the employee presented circumstantial evidence sufficient to raise a genuine issue of material fact because she demonstrated that an illegitimate reason more likely motivated the employer, or was at least a motivating factor in her dismissal. Furthermore, she raised a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the employer's second reason for firing her, her allegedly negative attitude, was unworthy of credence. The district court had erred by granting the employer summary judgment because although the employee was required to produce evidence to rebut the employer's showing, in addition to evidence sufficient for her prima facie case, it was improper for the district court to ignore the evidence in support of her prima facie case, and the district court erred further by examining each piece of evidence in isolation and failing to consider the timing of her termination in its pretext analysis.ⁿ⁹⁵

The Kauffman approach seems to be indirectly supported by Mt. Healthy City Board of Ed. v. Doyle,ⁿ⁹⁶ in which a school board allegedly refused to rehire an untenured teacher in part because he disclosed the substance of a teacher dress code memorandum to a local radio station. The teacher brought an action under Title 42, United States Code Section 1983 for reinstatement and damages, claiming a violation of his rights under the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution.ⁿ⁹⁷ The United States Supreme Court rejected a "rule of causation which focuses solely on whether protected conduct played a part, 'substantial' or otherwise," in an adverse action.ⁿ⁹⁸ The Court concluded that if the teacher met his burden of showing that constitutionally protected conduct was a "substantial" or "motivating" factor in the adverse action, the burden was on the school board to show, by a preponderance of the evidence, that it would have reached the same decision even in the absence of protected conduct.ⁿ⁹⁹

Although a plaintiff can satisfy the initial burden under the McDonnell Douglas framework by producing evidence of nothing more than the proximity in time between the protected action and the allegedly retaliatory employment decision,ⁿ¹⁰⁰ evidence of a temporal proximity only shifts the burden to the employer to articulate a nondiscriminatory reason for the adverse employment action, and does not, without more, suffice to satisfy the secondary burden borne by the employee to show a triable issue of fact on whether the employer's articulated reason was untrue and pretextual. An employee seeking to avoid summary judgment after the employer has articulated a legitimate business reason for the action taken must adduce substantial additional evidence from which a trier of fact could infer the articulated reasons for the adverse employment action were untrue or pretextual.ⁿ¹⁰¹ Speculation about the employer's reasons for its decision does not create a genuine issue of material fact.ⁿ¹⁰²

If the plaintiff succeeds at the "pretext" stage, a presumption is created that the adverse action was the product of discriminatory intent.ⁿ¹⁰³ The employer may rebut the presumption by showing, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the adverse action would have been taken even in the absence of discriminatory intent.ⁿ¹⁰⁴

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

EvidenceProcedural ConsiderationsBurdens of ProofGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment

LawDiscriminationRetaliationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationRetaliationBurdens of Proof

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Schlei and Grossman, Employment Discrimination Law, ch. 2 (BNA 2d ed. 1983).

(n2)Footnote 2. For a detailed discussion of the disparate treatment theory, see §§ 41.10-41.11.

(n3)Footnote 3. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (Title VII) ; see discussion in § 41.11[1].

(n4)Footnote 4. Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 116, 213 U.S. App. D.C. 345 (Title VII); see Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 498, 504 n.4 (Title VII).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 498, 504 n.4 (Title VII); Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 116, 213 U.S. App. D.C. 345 (Title VII); Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1042, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (FEHA) ; Chen v. County of Orange (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 926, 948, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (FEHA); failure to present facts establishing prima facie case justifies grant of motion for nonsuit).

(n6)Footnote 6. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1066 (Title VII); Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hosps., Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII) ; Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1042, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (FEHA) ; Chen v. County of Orange (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 926, 948, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (FEHA) ; see Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 498, 504 n.4 (Title VII); E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII); see also Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 116, 213 U.S. App. D.C. 345 (Title VII).

(n7)Footnote 7. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1066 (Title VII); Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 116, 213 U.S. App. D.C. 345 (Title VII); Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1042, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (FEHA) ; see Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1989) 885 F.2d 498, 504 n.4 (Title VII); see also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII); plaintiff may also show that retaliatory reason more likely motivated employer's action); discussion in [4], below.

(n8)Footnote 8. 42 U.S.C. § 12203(b).

(n9)Footnote 9. See 42 U.S.C. § 12101(b)(1).

(n10)Footnote 10. Brown v. City of Tucson (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1181, 1189-1193 (employee raised triable issue of material fact with respect to interference claim with allegations that supervisor demanded she stop taking anti-depressant medication and perform night-time call- out work or face demotion or forced retirement, because employee alleged she suffered short-term memory problems and felt extremely stressed, harassed, and pressured by supervisor, especially when viewed alongside employee's assertions that supervisor made unauthorized inquiries to police department's Behavioral Sciences Unit and repeatedly questioned employee herself regarding nature of her disability).

(n11)Footnote 11. See Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1252, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 (employee presented sufficient evidence to show she was engaged in protected activity, where fellow employee filed complaint with DFEH based, in part, on employer retaliating against fellow employee for her report of kissing incident involving chairman of employer's board and employee, so that employee was "potential witness" in proceeding); Villanueva v. City of Colton (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1198-1199, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343 (retaliation claim failed because there is no evidence plaintiff ever engaged in protected activity related to employment practice proscribed by FEHA, where record was devoid of evidence plaintiff ever complained to anyone about alleged racial discrimination or did anything to imply racial discrimination was issue, and neither of two formal grievances lodged through his association representative alleged racial discrimination or harassment based on race); Flait v. North American Watch Corp. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 467, 476-479, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 522 (FEHA; mistaken, but sincere and reasonable, belief that plaintiff was opposing discrimination was sufficient); Cal. Fair Employment & Housing Comm. v. Gemini Aluminum Corp. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1018-1019, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (informal complaints to management about discriminatory employment practices are considered sufficient opposition to trigger prohibition against retaliation; by protesting employer's failure to attempt to accommodate his religious observance and then by complaining to supervisor that suspension was unfair because of his religious needs, plaintiff engaged in protected activities for which employer was forbidden to retaliate; in spite of employee's mistaking name of agency responsible for employment discrimination claims, import of employee's statement of his intention to complain of religious discrimination was brought home to employer's management and was protected activity). See also Thomas v. City of Beaverton (9th Cir. 2004) 379 F.3d 802, 811-812 (Title VII); although evidence was insufficient to show plaintiff opposed discrimination against African American employee on account of employee's race, there was sufficient evidence to create genuine issue of material fact as to whether plaintiff opposed retaliation against employee on account of employee's own Title VII suit to be sufficient evidence that plaintiff engaged in protected opposition activity to satisfy first element of prima facie case); EEOC v. Dinuba Medical Clinic (9th Cir. 2000) 222 F.3d 580, 586 (filing criminal complaint against supervisor for assault and battery qualified as "opposition" activity).

(n12)Footnote 12. See, e.g., Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1253-1260, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 (employee established adverse action by constructive discharge, where employee presented substantial evidence to support jury's finding that employer intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions that were so intolerable or aggravated at time of employee's resignation that reasonable employer would realize that reasonable person in the employee's position would be compelled to resign).

(n13)Footnote 13. Thomas v. City of Beaverton (9th Cir. 2004) 379 F.3d 802, 811 (Title VII); Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1065-1066 (Title VII); Vasquez v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2003) 349 F.3d 634, 646; Brown v. City of Tucson (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1181, 1186-1187 (ADA); Raad v. Fairbanks N. Star Borough (9th Cir. 2003) 323 F.3d 1185, 1196-1197 (Title VII); Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 913 (Title VII), as amended on denial of rehearing and rejection of rehearing en banc, 301 F.3d 958, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 882; EEOC v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1513-1514 (Title VII); Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hosps., Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII); see Scotch v. Art Institute of California (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 986, 1020, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 338 (FEHA); Chen v. County of Orange (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 926, 948, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (FEHA); Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1453, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 (FEHA, Lab. Code § 1102.5); Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 618, 622, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 (FEHA); see also Davis v. Team Electric Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 520 F.3d 1080, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 6476, *28-*31 (temporal proximity between layoff and employee's civil rights claim was sufficient for defeating summary judgment, where she was terminated three days after EEOC dismissed her claim); Hardage v. CBS Broadcasting, Inc. (9th Cir. 2005) 427 F.3d 1177, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 23551, *26-*29 (where employee failed to meet sales goals and was insubordinate by disobeying supervisor's instruction that he return to work after charity event, employee failed to prove causal link between adverse performance memoranda and sexual harassment complaint); Hernandez v. Spacelabs Med., Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 343 F.3d 1107, 1113-1114 (Title VII); undisputed that employee satisfied first two factors by showing he reported superior's sexual harassment of fellow employee to human resources manager and was terminated, and employee provided sufficient evidence from which reasonable jury could infer both that superior either knew or suspected that employee had reported alleged harassment to human resources manager, and that there was causal connection between this knowledge or suspicion and employee's termination); Steele v. Youthful Offender Parole Board (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 1241, 1260-1261, 76 Cal. Rptr. 3d 632 (substantial evidence supported finding of causal link between employee's potential participation as witness in fellow employee's DFEH proceeding and constructive discharge, which was adverse employment action to support finding of retaliation under FEHA); DFEH v. State Univ.-Hayward (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-18, p. 19 (FEHA; plaintiff must prove, by preponderance of evidence, that (1) he or she engaged in protected activity, (2) he or she suffered adverse employment action, and (3) causal connection exists between protected activity and employer's adverse action; plaintiff need not show that retaliatory reason was sole or principal reason for adverse action); DFEH v. Madera County (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-11, pp. 30-31 (same); DFEH v. Ca. State University-Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 24 (same).

(n14)Footnote 14. Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 548 U.S. 53, 126 S. Ct. 2405, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 (2006) , discussed at § 41.130[1A], above.

(n15)Footnote 15. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436, 116 P.3d 1123 , discussed at § 41.130[1A] above.

(n16)Footnote 16. Miller v. Department of Corr. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 446, 474, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 797, 115 P.3d 77 .

(n17)Footnote 17. Miller v. Department of Corr. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 446, 475, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 797, 115 P.3d 77 .

(n18)Footnote 18. Miller v. Department of Corr. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 446, 475, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 797, 115 P.3d 77 (although plaintiffs may not have recited specific words "sexual discrimination" or "sexual harassment," nature of their complaint fell within general purview of FEHA).

(n19)Footnote 19. Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 913 (Title VII), as amended on denial of rehearing and rejection of rehearing en banc, 301 F.3d 958, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 882 ; Moyo v. Gomez (9th Cir. 1994) 40 F.3d 982, 984 .

(n20)Footnote 20. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1049-1055, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 , citing Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1454-1457, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 .

(n21)Footnote 21. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1052, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 .

(n22)Footnote 22. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1055-1056, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 .

(n23)Footnote 23. Thomas v. Department of Corrections (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 507, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 .

(n24)Footnote 24. See Thomas v. Department of Corrections (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 507, 511-512, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 . See also McRae v. Dept. of Corrections & Rehabilitation (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 377, 389-398 (jury's finding that African-American physician was subjected to adverse employment action as result of complaining about race discrimination in promotion decision was not supported by evidence, where actions other than transfer, whether viewed separately or collectively, were not part of process of progressive discipline and did not create abusive work environment; assuming transfer resulted in material change in terms and conditions of physician's employment, physician did not produce substantial evidence from which jury could conclude employer's legitimate reasons for transfer were mere pretexts unworthy of credence).

(n25)Footnote 25. Thomas v. Department of Corrections (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 507, 511-512, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 .

(n26)Footnote 26. See Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1049, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (although term "adverse employment action" does not appear in language of FEHA or Title VII, it has become familiar shorthand expression referring to kind, nature, or degree of adverse action against employee that will support cause of action under relevant provision of employment discrimination statute).

(n27)Footnote 27. Vasquez v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2003) 349 F.3d 634, 646 . see Hardage v. CBS Broadcasting, Inc. (9th Cir. 2005) 427 F.3d 1177, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 23551, *27-*29 (employer's snide remarks and threats were not non-trivial employment actions that would deter reasonable employees from complaining about Title VII violations so as to constitute actionable retaliation; even if remarks collectively created hostile work environment, considering totality of circumstances, comments were insufficiently severe to support retaliation claim).

(n28)Footnote 28. Thomas v. Department of Corrections (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 507, 511, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 .

(n29)Footnote 29. Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1455, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 ; Thomas v. Department of Corrections (2000) 77 Cal. App. 4th 507, 510-511, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 770 . See Robinson v. City of Pittsburgh (3d Cir. 1997) 120 F.3d 1286, 1300 ; Torres v. Pisano (2d Cir. 1997) 116 F.3d 625, 640 . See e.g., Jones v. Dept. of Corrections (2007) 152 Cal. App. 4th 1367, 1380-1382, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 200 (FEHA; former employee failed to provide any evidence disputing employer's claim that she suffered no adverse change in terms and conditions of her employment, where she never experienced loss or reduction in her classification, position, salary, benefits and work hours and her employment was not terminated, and where she failed to make out claim she was constructively discharged, because no evidence showed her employer intentionally created or knowingly permitted working conditions so intolerable or aggravated that reasonable employee in her position would have felt compelled to resign).

(n30)Footnote 30. Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1455, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 .

(n31)Footnote 31. Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1456-1457, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 (taking into account totality of circumstances, including language used in performance evaluation and counseling memorandum labeling deputy district attorney as dishonest, incompetent, and insubordinate, and evidence that top management demonstrated willingness to use information against her in significant employment decisions, was sufficient evidence for jury to find retaliatory actions after complaint of gender/pregnancy discrimination were adverse actions under the FEHA because they would preclude reasonable promotional opportunities). See also Pinero v. Specialty Restaurants Corp. (2005) 130 Cal. App. 4th 635, 639-647, 30 Cal. Rptr. 3d 348 (no adverse employment action shown where employee was not fired, demoted or transferred, did not lose any benefits, bonuses or commissions, did not suffer any wage reduction, and did not experience any change in job duties or responsibilities between time of transfer and his voluntary departure from employment).

(n32)Footnote 32. Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1457, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 .

(n33)Footnote 33. See Mathieu v. Norrell Corp. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1185-1186, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52 (FEHA; summary adjudication properly denied).

(n34)Footnote 34. Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 69, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 . See, e.g., Scotch v. Art Institute of California (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 986, 1020, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 338 (FEHA; employee presented sufficient evidence to show causal link by showing that he suffered adverse employment action weeks after meetings with director of human resources and his supervisor).

(n35)Footnote 35. See, e.g., Loggins v. Kaiser Permanente Intl. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1109-1110, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 45 (although terminated employee's alleged hotline complaint about her supervisor, which allegedly was basis for retaliation against her, was uncorroborated by records, and former employer would have multiple avenues for attacking veracity of her testimony that she made telephone call, her averment raised factual issue of whether she engaged in protected conduct that was temporally close to and preceding adverse employment action, which sufficed to shift burden to former employer).

(n36)Footnote 36. See Larson, Employment Discrimination, ch. 34 (Matthew Bender).

(n37)Footnote 37. California Fair Employment & Housing Com. v. Gemini Aluminum Corp. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1020, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 ; Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 69, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA) ; see, e.g., Coons v. Sec'y of the United States Dep't of the Treasury (9th Cir. 2004) 383 F.3d 879, 887 (Rehabilitation Act; there was no evidence of causal link between protected activity and demotion, where employee's request for reasonable accommodations was made full year before his demotion and distant time sequence was inadequate to show causal link); Thomas v. City of Beaverton (9th Cir. 2004) 379 F.3d 802, 812 (Title VII; plaintiff alleged facts sufficiently proximate to support inference of causation, where plaintiff recommended promoting African American and continued to oppose human resource director's treatment of African American thereafter, and approximately seven weeks after plaintiff first supported promotion, human resource director informed plaintiff that she was being placed on extended probation); Vasquez v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2003) 349 F.3d 634, 647 (retaliation claim failed to show causal link, where protected activity occurred thirteen months prior to alleged adverse action, and plaintiff did not provide evidence of surrounding circumstances showing retaliatory motive or that employer's proffered reason for employment action was pretextual); Bell v. Clackamas County (9th Cir. 2003) 341 F.3d 858, 865-867 (Title VII, §§ 1981, 1983; temporal proximity between plaintiff's complaints and alleged adverse employment actions, together with evidence of superiors' contemporaneous displeasure with plaintiff's complaints regarding racial comments and racial profiling, provided strong circumstantial evidence of retaliation); Brown v. City of Tucson (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1181, 1187 (ADA; supervisor's investigation into detective's conduct began very day he was interviewed regarding her complaint against him regarding her disability, establishing prima facie case); Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 914-915 , as amended on denial of rehearing and rejection of rehearing en banc, 301 F.3d 958, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 882 (Title VII; employee presented prima facie case by showing (1) reasonable belief that by reporting rapes by client to vice president, despite belief it could endanger her career, she was opposing unlawful employment practice because she reasonably believed employer was required to take remedial steps; (2) adverse employment actions of reduction in pay and termination; and (3) adverse employment actions occurring within minutes of reporting rape to company president, who immediately reduced her pay and arguably fired her).

(n38)Footnote 38. Thomas v. City of Beaverton (9th Cir. 2004) 379 F.3d 802, 812 (Title VII) ; Villiarimo v. Aloha Island Air, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 281 F.3d 1054, 1065 .

(n39)Footnote 39. Porter v. Cal. Dep't of Corr. (9th Cir. 2005) 419 F.3d 885, 895 (Title VII; plaintiff sufficiently alleged retaliation where one of employer's agents was not in position to retaliate until after he became in charge of personnel assignment and plaintiff did not rely on mere temporal proximity but offered other evidence to support inference of retaliatory motive). See also Kachmar v. SunGard Data Sys., Inc. (3rd Cir. 1997) 109 F.3d 173, 177 .

(n40)Footnote 40. Porter v. Cal. Dep't of Corr. (9th Cir. 2005) 419 F.3d 885, 895 ; Coszalter v. City of Salem (9th Cir. 2003) 320 F.3d 968, 977-978 .

(n41)Footnote 41. Bergene v. Salt River Project Agricultural Improvement and Power District (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1136, 1141 . See Hernandez v. Spacelabs Med., Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 343 F.3d 1107, 1114-1115 (in reversing grant of summary judgment to employer on retaliation claim, Ninth Circuit concluded that employer did not proffer sufficient evidence to compel conclusion that chain of causation, begun by manager against whom employee registered complaint of sexual harassment of another employee, was broken by involvement of any other decision maker).

(n42)Footnote 42. Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95, 108 (FEHA) ; see Clark v. Claremont University Center (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 639, 665 n.6, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151 , quoting McDonald v. Santa Fe Trail Transp. Co. (1976) 427 U.S. 273, 282 n.10, 96 S. Ct. 2574, 49 L. Ed. 2d 493 (plaintiff need not show action was taken solely on basis of his race; no more is required to be shown than that race was but for cause); Brown v.

Smith (1997) 55 Cal. App. 4th 767, 783, 64 Cal. Rptr. 2d 301 (elements of claim for sexual harassment include that offensive act would not have happened but for plaintiff's sex).

(n43)Footnote 43. See, e.g., Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Go Daddy Software, Inc. (9th Cir. 2009) 581 F.3d 951, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 20159, *32-*36 (plaintiff sufficiently proved causation, where reasonable jury hearing plaintiff's testimony could have concluded that member of employer's human resources department to whom plaintiff complained had ample opportunities to inform plaintiff's supervisor of his complaint and had, in fact, done so; and where nothing in record supported conclusion employer decided to terminate plaintiff before he made complaints, based on evidence that employer's decision to terminate him was made sometime between time he was told he could return to his original sales position and time of termination, both of which occurred after he complained).

(n44)Footnote 44. Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95 (FEHA); see Clark v. Claremont University Center (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th 639, 665-666, 8 Cal. Rptr. 2d 151 .

(n45)Footnote 45. Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95 (FEHA).

(n46)Footnote 46. Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95, 109 (FEHA; employer could not conclusively negate element of causation merely by showing ignorance of plaintiff's protected conduct on part of district manager who fired plaintiff). See Cohen v. Fred Meyer, Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 686 F.2d 793, 797 n.5 (no evidence any company official or employee who had knowledge of plaintiff's protected conduct had any part in adverse policy decision); Gunther v. County of Washington (9th Cir. 1979) 623 F.2d 1303, 1316 (no showing defendants knew plaintiff had sought higher pay for female workers); Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 73, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (all of actual decision makers responsible for failing to rehire appellant affirmatively stated in their declarations they were not aware of appellant's grievance or past complaints); Fisher v. Vassar College (2d Cir. 1997) 114 F.3d 1332, 1338 n.4 (en banc) (fact of multiple decision-makers should not insulate decisions permeated by discrimination of individual participants); Brown v. Sears Automotive Center (M.D.N.C. 2002) 222 F. Supp. 2d 757, 762-764 (supervisor declared she alone made decision to terminate and did not know plaintiff had filed protected complaint); Featherson v. Montgomery County Public Schools (D.Md.1990) 739 F. Supp. 1021, 1025-1026 (mem.) (absolutely no evidence persons involved in any of alleged adverse decisions knew at time decisions were made that plaintiff had filed any EEO claims); Garcia v. American Airlines, Inc. (D.Puerto Rico 1987) 673 F. Supp. 63, 65, 67 (neither supervisor who decided to fire plaintiff nor manager who reviewed decision knew of protected activity); Lihosit v. I & W, Inc. (N.M.App. 1996) 121 N.M. 455, 457, 459, 913 P.2d 262, 264, 266 (no employee of employer, including in particular supervisor who fired plaintiff, knew of plaintiff's claim that statutory work-time limitations precluded compliance with order; employee fails to prove causal connection necessary to sustain claim for retaliatory discharge when there is no evidence that persons responsible for discharge had any knowledge employee engaged in an activity alleged to be protected). But see Hill v. Lockheed Martin Logistics Management, Inc. (4th Cir. 2004) 354 F.3d 277, 290-291 .

(n47)Footnote 47. Reeves v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 95, 113-121 (FEHA; record justified inference that lower level actors engaged in retaliation under circumstances justifying imputation of their conduct and motives to employer). See also Shager v. Upjohn Co. (7th Cir. 1990) 913 F.2d 398, 405-406 .

(n48)Footnote 48. Poland v. Chertoff (9th Cir. 2007) 494 F.3d 1174, 1179-1184 (where supervisor, in retaliation for employee's age discrimination complaints, asked employer to undertake administrative inquiry of employee's performance, initiation of administrative inquiry, on its own, was not sufficient to impute supervisor's animus to employer's decision to transfer employee; however, animus was imputed because inquiry panel was not shielded from supervisor's animus, which had pervasive influence on administrative inquiry leading to adverse employment action, so that inquiry was not sufficiently independent to break causal chain between protected activity and adverse employment decision).

(n49)Footnote 49. Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII).

(n50)Footnote 50. See Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. 1978) 588 F.2d 692, 694, 695 (Title VII) ; see also Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 69-74, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (former employee failed to present direct evidence of retaliatory motive in failure to rehire where each individual who decided not to rehire him disclaimed knowledge of fact that he had previously filed grievance against employer so that they could not have acted in retaliation for filing of grievance).

(n51)Footnote 51. See Gates v. Georgia-Pacific Corp. (9th Cir. 1974) 492 F.2d 292, 296 (Title VII).

(n52)Footnote 52. Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 69, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA) .

(n53)Footnote 53. See Merrick v. Farmers Ins. Group (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1434, 1442 (ADEA; instruction that jury may consider whether defendant treated plaintiff differently than other employees who had not filed age discrimination charge as proper); cf. Acosta v. University of District of Columbia (D.D.C. 1981) 528 F. Supp. 1215, 1224 (Title VII; plaintiff professor did not present prima facie case of retaliation when he did not show that other employees with same or lesser qualifications were given grants).

(n54)Footnote 54. Flait v. North American Watch Corp. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 467, 476-479, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 522 (FEHA) ; Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 69, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA) ; see Villiarimo v. Aloha Island Air, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 281 F.3d 1054, 1065-1066 (Title VII; to support inference of retaliatory motive, adverse action such as termination must have occurred fairly soon after employee's protected expression; nearly 18-month lapse between protected activity and adverse action is simply too long, by itself, to give rise to inference of causation); Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII); Hochstadt v. Worcester Found., Etc. (D. Mass. 1976) 425 F. Supp. 318, 324 , aff'd, 545 F.2d 222 (1st Cir. 1976) (Title VII; prima facie case includes employer knowledge of protected activities together with proximity in time between activities and adverse action); Dfeh v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, p. 17 (FEHA; same); see also Aguirre v. Chula Vista Sanitary Serv. (9th Cir. 1976) 542 F.2d 779, 781 (Title VII; showing that plaintiff was discharged following protected activities that employer was aware of establishes prima facie case of retaliation).

(n55)Footnote 55. See Iwekaogwu v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 803, 816, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505 .

(n56)Footnote 56. See Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State Univ. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 782, 785 (Title VII) ; cf. Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1223 (Title VII); Kortan v. California Youth Authority (9th Cir. 2000) 217 F.3d 1104, 1112-1113 (being forced to take medical leave because of stress of retaliatory actions is not "adverse" employment decision).

(n57)Footnote 57. Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211 (Title VII).

(n58)Footnote 58. Valdez v. Clayton Industries, Inc. (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1162, 1174-1176, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 15 .

(n59)Footnote 59. See, e.g., Nilsson v. City of Mesa (9th Cir. 2007) 503 F.3d 947, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 21912, *12-*14 (Title VII; applicant for job as police officer made prima facie showing of retaliation in police department's alleged refusal to hire her based on her filing of EEOC complaint against former employer).

(n60)Footnote 60. Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State Univ. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 782 (Title VII).

(n61)Footnote 61. See Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State Univ. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 782, 784 .

(n62)Footnote 62. See Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State Univ. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 782, 785 .

(n63)Footnote 63. Compare McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L.

Ed. 2d 668 (Title VII) with Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hosps., Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII) . For a detailed discussion of the McDonnell Douglas prima facie elements for intentional discrimination, see § 41.11[1].

(n64)Footnote 64. See Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State Univ. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 782, 785 .

(n65)Footnote 65. Note: After the Ninth Circuit decided Wrighten, in Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 548 U.S. 53, 126 S. Ct. 2405, 165 L. Ed. 2d 345 (discussed at [1A], above) the United States Supreme Court held that the scope of the anti-retaliation provision of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 extends beyond workplace-related or employment-related retaliatory acts and harm, so that an employee need only allege and prove "adverse action" rather than "adverse employment action" under Title VII's anti-retaliation provision.

(n66)Footnote 66. See Ruggles v. California Polytechnic State Univ. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 782, 785-786 .

(n67)Footnote 67. Barnett v. United States Air, Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 157 F.3d 744, 753-754 (Ninth Circuit applies Title VII retaliation analysis to ADA retaliation claims).

(n68)Footnote 68. Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 686, 714, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 406 .

(n69)Footnote 69. *Winarto v. Toshiba America Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1284 (Title VII and FEHA); Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII) , quoting Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 257, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 ; see also Davis v. Team Electric Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 520 F.3d 1080, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 6476, *31-32 (employer failed to articulate legitimate nonretaliatory reason for plaintiff's layoff, where, although plaintiff was laid off with sixteen other employees, there was no evidence in record as to why plaintiff was laid off; even if economic downturn were valid reason for layoff of some employees, company retained electricians less senior than she, and her supervisors considered her skilled and dedicated worker, creating further questions about why she was laid off despite her seniority); Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1107-1108 (employer presented legitimate, non-retaliatory reason for conducting drug tests on plaintiff who appeared to be in impaired state and was admittedly taking drugs); Trent v. Valley Elec. Ass'n, Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 195 F.3d 534, 537-538 (employer's proffered reason for adverse employment action was credible and therefore must be upheld on appeal, unless clearly erroneous). See California Fair Employment & Housing Com. v. Gemini Aluminum Corp. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1022, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (employer did not show leave request procedure was fairly devised or administered and it was ambiguous and could not serve as legitimate, nonretaliatory explanation for suspending employee and then terminating his employment).

(n70)Footnote 70. See Coons v. Sec'y of the United States Dep't of the Treasury (9th Cir. 2004) 383 F.3d 879, 887 (Rehabilitation Act; to support its decision to demote employee, employer presented ample evidence of employee's misuse of government computers, that employee accessed sex-related sites on those computers, and that employee lied in subsequent investigation of his misuse of government computers, which employee did not dispute, and although misuse occurred two years before demotion, investigation of misuse concluded shortly before employer made decision to demote employee); Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 914 , as amended on denial of rehearing and rejection of rehearing en banc, 301 F.3d 958, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 882 (Title VII; employer's evidence of growing dissatisfaction with employee's performance presented legitimate, non-discriminatory motive for altering employee's pay structure and termination); Loggins v. Kaiser Permanente Intl. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1110-1111, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 45 (FEHA; employer met burden of articulating legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for terminating plaintiff's employment based on her violation of employer's computer usage policies by personal use).

(n71)Footnote 71. Loggins v. Kaiser Permanente Intl. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1111-1112, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 45 .

(n72)Footnote 72. Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 686, 715, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 406 ; Akers v. County of San Diego (2002) 95 Cal. App. 4th 1441, 1453, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 602 .

(n73)Footnote 73. Winarto v. Toshiba America Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1284 (Title VII and FEHA); see Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1108 (employee failed to raise triable issue regarding whether employer's reasons for drug testing her were pretext for retaliation through unsubstantiated statement that she never used drugs or alcohol, where other than unsubstantiated statement, she presented no evidence contradicting results of drug tests, and, even if tests were flawed, employer had ample basis to conduct tests in first place, because employee did not dispute that she appeared impaired and was taking drugs); Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1061-1062, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 (FEHA; record revealed triable issues of fact as to whether employer's heightened response to plaintiff's allegedly poor performance after she refused to follow supervisor's order to fire employee supervisor found sexually unattractive was retaliation for protected activity under FEHA; taking into account all evidence submitted in support of and opposition to summary judgment motion, there existed genuine issue of material fact as to whether employer's articulated, nonretaliatory reasons for its actions were pretextual); Scotch v. Art Institute of California (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 986, 1020-1021, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 338 (after employer articulated legitimate business reason for reducing employee's teaching load from full time to part time, employee failed to submit evidence showing employer's reasons were pretext and decision to reduce his course assignments had retaliatory motive, where employer's response to employee's application for unemployment benefits was incomplete rather than false, and reasonable trier of fact could not have drawn reasonable inference of retaliatory motive from employer's response); Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 75, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA; after employer presents evidence of legitimate, nondiscriminatory factors, employee must offer substantial evidence that employer's stated nondiscriminatory reason for adverse action was untrue or pretextual, or evidence employer acted with discriminatory animus, or combination of the two, such that reasonable trier of fact could conclude employer engaged in intentional discrimination).

(n74)Footnote 74. Perez v. County of Santa Clara (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 671, 676, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867 .

(n75)Footnote 75. Taybron v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2003) 341 F.3d 957, 960-961 (Title VII; employees raised genuine issues of material fact as to whether employer's asserted reasons for actions taken against them were pretextual by testifying that rationales given for changes in shifts continually varied and misrepresented facts, and even when new supervisor requested their hours be shifted back to facilitate efficient use of resources, their manager refused to allow it until their union became involved and record evidence suggested he wanted to forestall implication that his original decision to change their hours had been unjustified); Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 915 as amended on denial of rehearing and rejection of rehearing en banc, 301 F.3d 958, 2002 U.S. App. LEXIS 882 (Title VII; employee tendered sufficient evidence, in addition to proximity of events, to rebut employer's alleged dissatisfaction with her performance as a legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for pay cut and termination after she reported being raped by client, where employee testified that, until pay cut and termination, she had received only positive feedback and presented data showing her superior performance and evidence of her supervisor's surprise and concern at pay cut); California Fair Employment & Housing Com. v. Gemini Aluminum Corp. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1023, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (employer's proffered reason for discharge, i.e., insubordination for refusing to provide documentation for leave to attend religious convention, was unbelievable, because employee was never asked for documentation, either before or after convention, and employee had already been disciplined for same reason); Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 75, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA; after employer offered evidence that individuals who decided not to hire former employee because he lacked specific qualifications and that they were unaware of his earlier grievance against employer alleging racial discrimination, former employee offered no evidence to demonstrate falsity of decision makers' claimed unawareness of grievance or other evidence from which reasonable trier of fact could infer employer's reasons to be pretextual).

(n76)Footnote 76. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1066 (Title VII); Winarto v. Toshiba America Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1284 (Title VII and FEHA) . See Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hosps., Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII); see also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII).

(n77)Footnote 77. See Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII; such factual determinations as generally unsuitable for summary judgment disposition at pretext stage).

(n78)Footnote 78. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1066 (Title VII). See Hernandez v. Spacelabs Med., Inc. (9th Cir. 2003) 343 F.3d 1107, 1115 (Title VII; employee offered evidence sufficient to survive summary judgment which demonstrated that employer's proffered reasons for firing him were pretextual both directly by persuading court that retaliatory reason for decision more likely motivated employer and indirectly by showing that employer's proffered explanation was unworthy of credence); Winarto v. Toshiba Am. Elecs. Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1284 (Title VII and FEHA; showing that proffered explanation unworthy of credence); Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII); see also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII) .

(n79)Footnote 79. Washington v. Garrett (9th Cir. 1993) 10 F.3d 1421, 1434 (fundamentally different justifications give rise to genuine issue of material fact that preclude summary judgment); see Nidds v. Schindler Elevator (9th Cir. 1997) 113 F.3d 912, 919-920 (layoff based on poor performance and economics are not incompatible and are therefore not shifting).

(n80)Footnote 80. Payne v. Norwest Corp. (9th Cir. 1997) 113 F.3d 1079, 1080 (employer's shifting explanations may be acceptable in context but resolution of issue requires weighing of evidence that precludes summary judgment; after establishing prima facie case, plaintiff "need produce very little evidence of discriminatory motive to raise a genuine issue of fact as to pretext").

(n81)Footnote 81. Bergene v. Salt River Project Agricultural Improvement and Power District (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1136, 1142 (evidence of supervisor's direct threat of denial of promotion if plaintiff vigorously pursued her earlier Title VII claim sufficient to create genuine issue of fact that employer's asserted reason that male was more qualified was pretext).

(n82)Footnote 82. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1065-1072 (Title VII; because plaintiff proffered substantial amount of specific circumstantial evidence that employer's reasons for terminating her were motivated by retaliation for complaining of disparity in pay and bonuses between herself and her male counter-parts, district court's grant of summary judgment to employer reversed); Brown v. City of Tucson (9th Cir. 2003) 336 F.3d 1181, 1187-1188 (ADA; after employer adduced non-retaliatory explanation for its investigation and adverse employment action against detective, i.e., detective was suspended for falsifying reports in effort to cover up fact that she failed to timely submit citation in assault case, court properly found detective failed to present evidence sufficient to show explanation was pretextual, because her circumstantial evidence of pretext was neither specific nor substantial); Winarto v. Toshiba Am. Elecs. Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1284 (Title VII and FEHA); Bergene v. Salt River Project Agricultural Improvement and Power District (9th Cir. 2001) 272 F.3d 1136, 1142 (Title VII) ; Little v. Windermere Relocation, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 903, 915 ; Godwin v. Hunt Wesson Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 150 F.3d 1217, 1222 .

(n83)Footnote 83. Winarto v. Toshiba America Electronics Components, Inc. (9th Cir. 2001) 274 F.3d 1276, 1284 (Title VII and FEHA; plaintiff presented sufficient evidence that low scoring performance review that lead to reduction in force was in retaliation for protected complaints and that employer's explanations were pretextual).

(n84)Footnote 84. California Fair Employment & Housing Com. v. Gemini Aluminum Corp. (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1023, 18 Cal. Rptr. 3d 906 (employer's proffered reason for discharge was shown to be pretext, where timing of discharge was suspiciously quick, although committee unanimously made decision, company's founder and president could have made decision alone and he gave inconsistent reasons, and employee had perfect attendance in fifteen months that he worked at employer).

(n85)Footnote 85. Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 686, 715, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 406 .

(n86)Footnote 86. Mamou v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2008) 165 Cal. App. 4th 686, 715-723, 81 Cal. Rptr. 3d 406 .

(n87)Footnote 87. See Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 117, 213 U.S. App. D.C. 345 (Title VII).

(n88)Footnote 88. See Tidwell v. American Oil Co. (D. Utah 1971) 332 F. Supp. 424, 430 .

(n89)Footnote 89. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (D. Mass. 1976) 425 F. Supp. 318, 324 , aff'd, 545 F.2d 222 (1st Cir. 1976) (Title VII).

(n90)Footnote 90. See Kauffman v. Sidereal Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 695 F.2d 343 (Title VII) .

(n91)Footnote 91. See Kauffman v. Sidereal Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 695 F.2d 343, 345 (Title VII); see also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII).

(n92)Footnote 92. See, e.g., Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 117 (rejecting argument that "hint" of retaliation, i.e., adverse impact partially undertaken for lawful purposes and partially for unlawful retaliatory purposes suffices to make showing of pretext, thereby proving Title VII violation).

(n93)Footnote 93. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061 .

(n94)Footnote 94. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1067 , citing Costa v. Desert Palace, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 299 F.3d 838, 856-857 .

(n95)Footnote 95. Stegall v. Citadel Broadcasting Co. (9th Cir. 2003) 350 F.3d 1061, 1068-1072 .

(n96)Footnote 96. Mt. Healthy City Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle (1977) 429 U.S. 274, 97 S. Ct. 568, 50 L. Ed. 2d 471 .

(n97)Footnote 97. Mt. Healthy City Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle (1977) 429 U.S. 274, 282-283, 97 S. Ct. 568, 50 L. Ed. 2d 471 .

(n98)Footnote 98. Mt. Healthy City Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle (1977) 429 U.S. 274, 285-286, 97 S. Ct. 568, 50 L. Ed. 2d 471 (emphasis added). For a discussion of 42 U.S.C. § 1983 as it relates to employment discrimination, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n99)Footnote 99. Mt. Healthy City Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle (1977) 429 U.S. 274, 287, 97 S. Ct. 568, 50 L. Ed. 2d 471 ; see also Allen v. Iranon (9th Cir. 2002) 283 F.3d 1070, 1077 (in retaliation action by prison doctor under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 based on plaintiff's claimed exercise of First Amendment right to speak out on behalf of inmates, trial court properly applied Mt. Healthy test without regard to whether evidence of retaliatory motive was direct or circumstantial).

(n100)Footnote 100. See [2], above.

(n101)Footnote 101. Nadaf-Rahrov v. The Neiman Marcus Group, Inc. (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 952, 990-991 (summary adjudication was properly granted to employer on retaliation cause of action after employer provided legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for employee's termination); Loggins v. Kaiser Permanente Intl. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 1102, 1112-1113, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 45 (although there was evidence other similarly situated employees who also engaged in extracurricular business activities at work did not suffer adverse employment action, there was no evidence that coworkers devoted substantial time and resources to pursuing their own business during work hours, and employer investigated plaintiff's allegations about coworkers' extracurricular business activities and found activities were de minimis and insignificant compared to plaintiff's substantial use of employer's resources to conduct personal business); McRae v. Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (2006) 142 Cal. App. 4th 377, 48 Cal. Rptr. 3d 313

(n102)Footnote 102. Nilsson v. City of Mesa (9th Cir. 2007) - F.3d -, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 21912, *14-*16 .

(n103)Footnote 103. Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hosps., Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII). See also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII).

(n104)Footnote 104. Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hosps., Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII); but see Williams v. Boorstin (D.C. Cir. 1980) 663 F.2d 109, 117 (Title VII; employer must rebut presumption by "clear and convincing evidence"); see also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII).

115 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART G. RETALIATION

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.132

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.132 Defenses

Certain forms of "opposition" conduct, including illegal actsⁿ¹ or unreasonably hostile or aggressive conduct,ⁿ² may provide a legitimate, independent, and nondiscriminatory basis for adverse actions.ⁿ³ In Hochstadt v. Worcester Foundation, Etc.,ⁿ⁴ the First Circuit Court of Appeals concluded that the question is simply "whether [a] plaintiff went 'too far' in [his or] her particular employment setting."ⁿ⁵ Employers are entitled to loyalty and cooperativeness from their employees.ⁿ⁶ However, since employees are entitled to file good-faith discrimination complaints and appropriate grievances,ⁿ⁷ courts must balance the setting in which their conduct arises and the interests and motivations of both employers and employees.ⁿ⁸ For further discussion relating to the Hochstadt balancing test, see § 41.130[2][a].

Some courts have held that an employer's equal employment opportunity (EEO) officers are not protected from retaliation for taking actions against their employers for perceived unlawful employment practices. For example, in Smith v. Singer Co.,ⁿ⁹ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that an EEO officer was not protected by Title VII when he filed discrimination complaints against his employer because he "encountered lack of cooperation and commitment in his efforts to accomplish needed reforms" in the employer's affirmative action program.ⁿ¹⁰ The court declared that its holding was "an extremely narrow one," explaining that the plaintiff's position was unique in that it required him to act on behalf of the employer in an area where normally action against the employer on behalf of employees is protected.ⁿ¹¹ The court reasoned that the plaintiff placed himself in an adversarial position to his employer, thus disabling himself from continuing to represent the employer's interests as its liaison with enforcement agencies, and from continuing to work with the employer in the voluntary development of nondiscriminatory hiring programs.ⁿ¹² Similarly, in Nelson v. Pima Community College,ⁿ¹³ the court again found that an affirmative action officer, as an executive employee of the college, was required to obey reasonable orders and upheld summary judgement against her. In that case there was undisputed evidence that the affirmative action officer repeatedly disobeyed the orders of the college president, who was her supervisor, and that she produced no evidence that she had been terminated for her criticism of the college's affirmative action program.ⁿ¹⁴

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationRetaliationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment

LawDiscriminationRetaliationElementsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment

LawDiscriminationRetaliationRemediesGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 803, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (Title VII does not compel employer to absolve one who has engaged in deliberate unlawful activity against it).

(n2)Footnote 2. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 231 (Title VII; aggressive, hostile complaints, and bitter personal exchanges).

(n3)Footnote 3. E.E.O.C. v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (9th Cir. 1983) 720 F.2d 1008, 1012 (Title VII).

(n4)Footnote 4. Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222 (Title VII).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 231 (Title VII).

(n6)Footnote 6. Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 230 (Title VII).

(n7)Footnote 7. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 231 (Title VII).

(n8)Footnote 8. See Hochstadt v. Worcester Found. (1st Cir. 1976) 545 F.2d 222, 232 (Title VII).

(n9)Footnote 9. Smith v. Singer Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 214 .

(n10)Footnote 10. See Smith v. Singer Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 214, 215, 217 .

(n11)Footnote 11. See Smith v. Singer Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 214, 217 .

(n12)Footnote 12. See Smith v. Singer Co. (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 214, 217 .

(n13)Footnote 13. Nelson v. Pima Community College (9th Cir. 1996) 83 F.3d 1075 .

(n14)Footnote 14. See Nelson v. Pima Community College (9th Cir. 1996) 83 F.3d 1075, 1082 .

116 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART G. RETALIATION

2-41 California Employment Law §§ 41.133 through 41.139

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 41.133[Reserved]

117 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART H. EMPLOYER POSTING AND RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.140

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.140 State Law

[1] Fair Employment and Housing Act

[a] Recordkeeping Requirements, Generally

Pursuant to its statutory authority under the FEHA,ⁿ¹ the FEHC has promulgated regulations requiring employers to maintain certain relevant records of personnel actions.ⁿ² Employers subject to the FEHA must create and maintain the following records:

1. California Employer Information Reports (CEIR),ⁿ³ and
2. Applicant identification records.ⁿ⁴

Only some employers are required to prepare CEIR'S.ⁿ⁵ For discussion of who must prepare a CEIR, see [c], below.

In addition, as discussed in [b], below, employers are required to preserve other personnel and employment records for specified periods of time.ⁿ⁶

[b] Preservation of Records

[i] Generally

Any personnel or other employment records made or kept by an employer dealing with any employment practice and affecting any employment benefit of any applicant or employee must be preserved by the employer for two years after the date that the record was made or two years after the date of the personnel action involved, whichever occurs later.ⁿ⁷ Records that must be preserved, if made or kept, include the following:ⁿ⁸

1. Applications,

2. Personnel records or files,
3. Membership records or files (for labor organizations), and
4. Employment referral records or files.

[ii] Particular Records

Every employer who is required to prepare a CEIRⁿ⁹ must preserve the records used to prepare the CEIR for two years after the date of preparation.ⁿ¹⁰ Every employer who is required to maintain applicant identification recordsⁿ¹¹ must preserve applicant identification information for two years after the date the information was received.ⁿ¹²

Records concerning the sex, race, or national origin of anyone accepted for employment must be kept separately from the employee's main personnel file or other records available to those responsible for personnel decisions.ⁿ¹³ For example, the records could be kept as part of an automatic data processing system in the payroll department.ⁿ¹⁴

[iii] After Filing of Complaint

On notice or knowledge that a complaint has been filed against it under the FEHA, an employer must maintain and preserve all records and files relevant to the complaint until the complaint is fully and finally disposed of and all appeals or related proceedings have terminated.ⁿ¹⁵ This means that the records must be preserved until one of the following occurs:ⁿ¹⁶

1. The statutory period for a complainant or respondent to bring an action in superior court expires;ⁿ¹⁷
2. The parties reach an agreement whereby no further judicial review is available to any of the parties; or
3. The FEHC or a court enters a final order and the time for filing a notice of appeal on that order has expired.

"Related proceedings" include any action brought in superior court under Government Code section 12965.ⁿ¹⁸ Records and files relevant to the complaint" include, but are not limited to, the following:ⁿ¹⁹

1. Personnel or employment records relating to the complaining party;
2. Personnel or employment records relating to all employees at the facility or relevant subdivision where the discriminatory practice allegedly occurred who hold positions similar to that held or sought by the complainant;
3. Applications, forms, or test papers completed by the complainant and by all other candidates for the same position at that facility or subdivision;
4. All relevant records made or kept pursuant to the preparation of a CEIR (or other report prepared in lieu of a CEIR);ⁿ²⁰ and
5. All relevant records made or kept pursuant to the maintenance of applicant identification records.ⁿ²¹

[c] California Employer Information Reports

Employers that regularly employ 100 or more employees and certain apprenticeship programs must prepare a CEIR. The CEIR is an annual personnel report to be prepared in conformity with DFEH guidelines.ⁿ²² An employer may use an appropriate federal report instead of the CEIR. Appropriate federal reports include the EEOC's EEO-1, EEO-2, EEO-3, EEO-4, EEO-5, and EEO-6 reports and appropriate reports filed with the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP).ⁿ²³

If the employer is engaged in activities for which the standard reporting criteria are not appropriate, special reporting procedures may be necessary. If so, the employer should advise the DFEH of this need and submit a specific proposal for an alternative reporting system before the date on which the CEIR should be prepared.ⁿ²⁴ If the preparation of the CEIR would create undue hardship, the employer may apply to the DFEH for an exemption from the requirement.ⁿ²⁵

Sample forms and applicable guidelines are available to an employer from the DFEH's administrative office in Sacramento.ⁿ²⁶

For discussion of the duty to preserve CEIR records, see [b], above.

[d] Applicant Identification Records

Every employer must maintain data on the race, sex, and national origin of each applicant and the job for which he or she applied.ⁿ²⁷ This requirement is for recordkeeping purposes only, and it does not apply when otherwise prohibited by law.ⁿ²⁸ If the data is to be provided on an identification form, this form must be separate or detachable from the application form itself. Employment decisions may not be based on whether an applicant provides this information, nor may the information be used for discriminatory purposes, except pursuant to a bona fide affirmative action or nondiscrimination plan.ⁿ²⁹

For recordkeeping purposes, an "applicant" is any individual who files a formal application or, if an employer does not provide application forms, otherwise indicates to the employer a specific desire to be considered for employment. An individual who makes an informal inquiry or who files an unsolicited resume on which no employment action is taken is not an applicant.ⁿ³⁰

An employer must either keep the original documents used to identify applicants or keep statistical summaries of the collected information.ⁿ³¹ For discussion of the duty to preserve applicant identification records, see [b], above.

[e] Penalties and Remedies

[i] Unlawful Practices and Misdemeanors

It is an unlawful practice for an employer subject to the FEHA to fail to maintain and preserve all applications, personnel records and files, and employment referral records and files for at least two years after the records or files are first created or received.ⁿ³² It is also an unlawful practice for an employer subject to the FEHA to fail to retain personnel files of applicants or terminated employees for at least two years after the date of the employment action taken.ⁿ³³

The willful violation of the recordkeeping requirements of Government Code Section 12946 is a misdemeanor, punishable by up to six months' imprisonment in a county jail, or a fine of up to $1,000, or both.ⁿ³⁴ Willfully making false statements in a CEIR or other required record is a violation of Government Code Section 12976 punishable by the same penalties.ⁿ³⁵

[ii] Enforcing FEHA Recordkeeping and Reporting Requirements

The DFEH may seek temporary or preliminary judicial relief as provided for in Government Code Section 12974.ⁿ³⁶

when judicial relief is necessary to enforce the recordkeeping requirements of Government Code Section 12946 and regulations promulgated under that section.ⁿ³⁷ If an employer fails or refuses to prepare or to make available the CEIR or other required report,ⁿ³⁸ the FEHC or the DFEH may apply to the superior court for judicial relief, and the court may compel the employer to comply with the reporting requirements.ⁿ³⁹

[f] Posting

The FEHA regulations require every employer to post conspicuously on its premises a notice distributed by the DFEH.ⁿ⁴⁰ The required notice contains excerpts from the FEHA and other information deemed necessary by the DFEH to explain the FEHA,ⁿ⁴¹ including information relating to the illegality of sexual harassment.ⁿ⁴² If 10 percent or more of an employer's workers at any facility or establishment do not speak English, that employer must also post the notice in the appropriate foreign language at the facility or establishment. English and foreign language versions of the notice are available from the DFEH.ⁿ⁴³

[g] Dissemination of Information About Sexual Harassment

The FEHA requires every employer to obtain from the DFEH its information sheet on sexual harassment, which the DFEH must make available to employers for reproduction and distribution to employees.ⁿ⁴⁴ The DFEH must also make multiple copies of the information sheet available online.^{n44.1} Employers must either distribute the information sheet to its employees or provide them with equivalent information, which must contain at least the following minimum components:ⁿ⁴⁵

1. The illegality of sexual harassment;
2. The definition of sexual harassment under applicable state and federal law;
3. A description of sexual harassment, utilizing examples;
4. The internal complaint process of the employer that is available to the employee;
5. The legal remedies and complaint process available through the DFEH and FEHC;
6. Directions on how to contact the DFEH and FEHC; and
7. The protection against retaliation provided by FEHC regulationsⁿ⁴⁶ for opposing practices that are prohibited by the FEHA or for filing a complaint with or otherwise participating in an investigation, proceeding, or hearing conducted by, the DFEH or FEHC.

The DFEH information sheet or the above information must be delivered in a manner that ensures distribution to each employee, such as including the information with an employee's pay.ⁿ⁴⁷

The fact that the above information does not reach a particular individual does not in itself impose liability on the employer. However, failure to comply with these requirements could be evidence of an employer's failure to prevent sexual harassment, which is actionable.^{n47.1} Conversely, compliance with the above information requirements does not in itself insulate the employer from liability for sexual harassment.ⁿ⁴⁸

The FEHC can enforce the above requirements by issuing an order requiring the employer to comply.ⁿ⁴⁹

[h] Contractors

[i] Access to Records

Every contractor⁵⁰ must provide the Office of Compliance Programs (OCP) with any relevant information requested and must allow OCP access to its premises, on reasonable notice, during normal business hours to inspect or copy books, records, and other material relevant to an OCP investigation.⁵¹ Any information provided that contains or might reveal a trade secret referred to in Title 18 United States Code, Section 1905 or information that is confidential pursuant to Government Code Sections 6250-6268 will be considered confidential. However, this information may be disclosed to officers or employees of DFEH and may be introduced as evidence in any hearing conducted pursuant to Title 2 California Code of Regulations, Section 8503 or Government Code Section 12967.⁵² The hearing officer or the Director of DFEH will issue appropriate orders to protect the confidentiality of the information.⁵³

[ii] Construction Contracts--Reporting Requirements

Contractors holding state construction contracts of $50,000 or more must submit quarterly utilization reports to OCP on forms to be provided by OCP. The reports must include the following:⁵⁴

1. Identifying information;
2. The number and percentage of journey worker, apprentice, and trainee hours worked in each job classification by sex and ethnic group; and
3. The total number of employees and the total number of minority employees in each classification by sex.

The reports must cover each calendar quarter and must be received by OCP no later than the 15th day of the month following the end of the quarter. Contractors required to submit utilization reports to the federal government may submit a copy of the federal report to the OCP (at the same time they submit the report to the federal government) in lieu of the state report.⁵⁵

[iii] Service and Supply Contracts--Small Contracts

The following requirements apply to all contractors awarded a nonexempt state service and supply contract or subcontract⁵⁶ that is a small contract. A "small contract" is a state contract with a dollar value of $25,000 or less.⁵⁷ Contractors awarded small contracts need not file any information with the OCP after execution of the contract, but must provide the OCP, on request, with access to records required by Title 2 California Code of Regulations, Section 8303.⁵⁸ Each contractor awarded a small contract must compile and maintain for inspection the following records:⁵⁹

1. Information about the contractor:
 - a. Federal employer identification number;
 - b. State contract identification number;
 - c. Legal name of the business organization and of any parent corporation or other outside ownership interest, with business telephone number, street address, city, state, and zip code;
 - d. Mailing address;
 - e. Total number of employees, identified by sex, race, and national origin;

f. Name, business phone, and mailing address of the contractor's EEO/AA officer, if there is one; and

g. Name of the person responsible for maintaining the required information.

2. Information about the contract:

a. Dollar value of the contract,

b. Time for performance of the contract,

c. Date that the contract was awarded,

d. Name of the awarding agency and the awarding officer, and

e. A brief description of the purpose or subject of the contract.

3. A copy, if one was required to be prepared, of the prime contractor's current CEIR or equivalent federal form.ⁿ⁶⁰

For discussion of the possible consequences of failing to comply with these recordkeeping requirements, see [v], below.

[iv] Service and Supply Contracts--Regulated Contracts

The following requirements apply to all contractors awarded a nonexempt state service and supply contract or subcontractⁿ⁶¹ that is a regulated contract. A "regulated contract" is a state contract with a dollar value of more than $25,000.ⁿ⁶² Within 28 days after the execution of a regulated contract, the prime contractor must file the following information with the OCP:ⁿ⁶³

1. Information about the contractor:

a. Federal employer identification number;

b. State contract identification number;

c. Legal name of the business organization, with business telephone number, street address, city, state, and zip code;

d. Mailing address; and

e. Name, business phone, and mailing address of the contractor's EEO/AA officer.

2. Information about the contract:

a. Dollar value of the contract,

b. Date that the contract was awarded,

c. The name of the awarding agency and the awarding officer, and

d. A brief description of the purpose or subject of the contract.

3. A copy of the prime contractor's current CEIR or equivalent federal form (EEO-1). (If the contractor is not otherwise required to prepare a CEIR,ⁿ⁶⁴ it must nonetheless prepare one to comply with these reporting requirements.)

This information must be updated annually for as long as the contractor remains subject to Title 2 California Code of Regulations, sections 8310-8312.ⁿ⁶⁵

If a contractor is awarded more than one state contract in the same year, the contractor need not file the information about the contractor listed in item (1), above,ⁿ⁶⁶ for the second and all subsequent contracts awarded during that year.ⁿ⁶⁷

The OCP and the contract awarding agency will provide the contractor with the forms needed to furnish the required information.ⁿ⁶⁸

For discussion of the possible consequences of failing to comply with these reporting requirements, see [v], below.

[v] Decertification for Failure to Keep Records or Make Reports

Failure to comply with the recordkeeping requirements for small contractsⁿ⁶⁹ or the reporting requirements for regulated contractsⁿ⁷⁰ may result in a determination that the contractor has materially breached the state contract, and the contractor may be decertified from future state contracts.ⁿ⁷¹ "Decertification" means the decision by OCP that an employer's nondiscrimination program does not comply with the requirements of the FEHA or its regulations.ⁿ⁷²

[2] California Equal Pay Act

The California Equal Pay Act requires employers to give equal pay for equal work to persons of both sexes.ⁿ⁷³ To assist the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) in enforcing and administering this requirement,ⁿ⁷⁴ every employer must maintain the following records for all the people employed by that employer:ⁿ⁷⁵

1. Wages and wage rates,
2. Job classifications, and
3. Other terms and conditions of employment.

These records must be kept on file for two years.ⁿ⁷⁶

For discussion of the substantive requirements of the California Equal Pay Act, see § 41.56. For discussion of the scope of coverage of the act, see Chapter 40, Part B.

[3] State-Supported Programs

[a] Discrimination Prohibited

Government Code sections 11135 through 11139.5 prohibit discrimination in state-supported programs.ⁿ⁷⁷ Title 22 of the California Code of Regulations, sections 98000 through 98413, have been adopted to implement those statutes.ⁿ⁷⁸ For additional discussion, see Chapter 40, Part B.

[b] Compliance Reports and Compliance Information

Every recipientⁿ⁷⁹ is required to keep records and submit compliance reports that enable the responsible state agency to determine whether the recipient has complied or is complying with Government Code sections 11135 through 11139.5. At a minimum, recipients must make available data showing the extent to which people of a particular ethnic group, religion, age, sex, or color, or with a particular physical or mental disability are ultimate beneficiariesⁿ⁸⁰ of state-supported programs. Recipients are required to make the reports and maintain the data only when necessary to enforce compliance.ⁿ⁸¹

If a primary recipient transfers state support to another recipient, the other recipient is also required to submit compliance reports to the primary recipient as necessary to enable the primary recipient to comply with its reporting requirements.ⁿ⁸²

If the responsible state agency determines that preexisting records and reports required by another state or federal agency meet reporting and evaluation needs, the agency may accept these reports as a substitute for or, if needed, a complement to the compliance reports otherwise required by Title 22 of the California Code of Regulations, section 98310.ⁿ⁸³

[c] Agency Access to Information

Each recipient is required to allow the responsible state agency access to its records and facilities during normal business hours to ascertain compliance with Government Code sections 11135 through 11139.5. If information required of a recipient is in the hands of a third party who fails or refuses to furnish that information, the recipient is required to so certify and set forth the efforts it has made to get the information and the basis on which the other party is withholding it.ⁿ⁸⁴

[d] Failure to Comply With Reporting or Access Requirements

Failure by a recipient to file timely, complete, and accurate reportsⁿ⁸⁵ or to permit access to compliance informationⁿ⁸⁶ is considered noncompliance with the requirements of Government Code sections 11135 through 11139.5 and grounds for the imposition of sanctions by the responsible state agency.ⁿ⁸⁷

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination General Overview Labor & Employment Law Posting & Recordkeeping

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code §§ 12935(a), 12946.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0.

(n3)Footnote 3. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a). For discussion of CEIR's, see [c], below.

(n4)Footnote 4. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b). For discussion of applicant identification records, see [d], below.

(n5)Footnote 5. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12946; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c).

(n7)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 12946; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c). The State Personnel Board is only required to preserve the records for one year.

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code § 12946; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c).

(n9)Footnote 9. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a); see also discussion in [c], below.

(n10)Footnote 10. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(1).

(n11)Footnote 11. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b); see also discussion in [d], below.

(n12)Footnote 12. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(2).

(n13)Footnote 13. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(3).

(n14)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(3).

(n15)Footnote 15. Gov. Code § 12946; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(4).

(n16)Footnote 16. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(4)(C).

(n17)Footnote 17. For discussion of limitations periods for bringing civil actions under the FEHA, see Chapter 43, Part A.

(n18)Footnote 18. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(4)(A). For discussion of superior court actions under Gov. Code § 12965, see Chapter 43, Part A.

(n19)Footnote 19. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(c)(4)(B).

(n20)Footnote 20. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a) (CEIR's); see also discussion in [c], below.

(n21)Footnote 21. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b) (applicant identification records); see also discussion in [d], below.

(n22)Footnote 22. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a).

(n23)Footnote 23. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a)(1).

(n24)Footnote 24. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a)(3).

(n25)Footnote 25. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a)(3).

(n26)Footnote 26. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a)(2).

(n27)Footnote 27. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b).

(n28)Footnote 28. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b).

(n29)Footnote 29. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b).

(n30)Footnote 30. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b)(1).

(n31)Footnote 31. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(b)(2).

(n32)Footnote 32. Gov. Code § 12946.

(n33)Footnote 33. Gov. Code § 12946.

(n34)Footnote 34. Gov. Code § 12976.

(n35)Footnote 35. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a)(5).

(n36)Footnote 36. For discussion of the power of the DFEH under Gov. Code § 12974 to bring a civil action to enforce the FEHA, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n37)Footnote 37. See Gov. Code § 12946.

(n38)Footnote 38. See discussion in [c], above.

(n39)Footnote 39. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a)(4).

(n40)Footnote 40. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(d).

(n41)Footnote 41. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(d).

(n42)Footnote 42. See Gov. Code § 12950(a).

(n43)Footnote 43. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(d).

(n44)Footnote 44. Gov. Code § 12950(b).

(n45)Footnote 44.1. Gov. Code § 12950(b).

(n46)Footnote 45. Gov. Code § 12950(b).

(n47)Footnote 46. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.8.

(n48)Footnote 47. Gov. Code § 12950(c).

(n49)Footnote 47.1. See, e.g., Myers v. Trendwest Resorts, Inc. (2007) 148 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1425-1426, 56 Cal. Rptr. 3d 501 (summary adjudication for employer on claim that employer failed to prevent sexual harassment was precluded by existence of triable issue as to whether employer complied with its statutory obligation under Gov. Code § 12950 to inform employee of remedies available through DFEH and FEHC).

(n50)Footnote 48. See Gov. Code § 12950(d).

(n51)Footnote 49. Gov. Code § 12950(e).

(n52)Footnote 50. For definition of "contractor," see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102(f); see also discussion in ch. 44, pt. B.

(n53)Footnote 51. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8119(a).

(n54)Footnote 52. For discussion of OCP enforcement hearings under 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8503, see ch. 44, pt. B. For discussion of hearings on accusations as provided for in Gov. Code § 12967, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n55)Footnote 53. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8119(b).

(n56)Footnote 54. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8204.

(n57)Footnote 55. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8204.

(n58)Footnote 56. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8300.

(n59)Footnote 57. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8301.

(n60)Footnote 58. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8302.

(n61)Footnote 59. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8303(a).

(n62)Footnote 60. For discussion of CEIR's and when they must be prepared, see [c], above.

(n63)Footnote 61. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8300.

(n64)Footnote 62. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8310.

(n65)Footnote 63. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(a).

(n66)Footnote 64. For discussion of CEIR's and when they must be prepared, see [c], above.

(n67)Footnote 65. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(a). This apparently means that the information must be updated as long as the contractor is the prime contractor on the regulated state service and supply contract. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8300 (scope of regulations), 8311 (information filing requirements for regulated contracts).

(n68)Footnote 66. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(a)(1).

(n69)Footnote 67. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(b).

(n70)Footnote 68. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(c).

(n71)Footnote 69. See [iii], above.

(n72)Footnote 70. See [iv], above.

(n73)Footnote 71. 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8303(b), 8311(d).

(n74)Footnote 72. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102(i). For discussion of decertification, see Chapter 44, Part B.

(n75)Footnote 73. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n76)Footnote 74. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(c).

(n77)Footnote 75. Lab. Code § 1197.5(d).

(n78)Footnote 76. Lab. Code § 1197.5(d).

(n79)Footnote 77. A "state-supported program" is a program or activity that is funded directly by the state or receives state financial assistance. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98010.

(n80)Footnote 78. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98000.

(n81)Footnote 79. A "recipient" is a person who regularly employs five people or more and who receives more than $10,000 per state fiscal year or more than $1,000 per transaction in state support. "Person" includes associations, groups, and organizations as well as individuals. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98010.

(n82)Footnote 80. An "ultimate beneficiary" is a person identified in Gov. Code § 11135 who receives, applies for, or is unlawfully deterred from receiving or applying for, the benefits of or employment under a state-supported program. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98010.

(n83)Footnote 81. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98310.

(n84)Footnote 82. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98311.

(n85)Footnote 83. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98312.

(n86)Footnote 84. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98313.

(n87)Footnote 85. See [b], above, for discussion of reporting requirements.

(n88)Footnote 86. See [c], above, for discussion of access requirements.

(n89)Footnote 87. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98314; see 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98370 (sanctions for noncompliance).

118 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART H. EMPLOYER POSTING AND RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.141

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.141 Federal Law

[1] Title VII

[a] Records and Reports

[i] General Requirement

Every employer subject to Title VII¹ must keep such records and make such reports as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) may by regulation require.² The EEOC has not yet adopted any rule generally applicable to employers that requires particular records to be made or kept.³ If, however, an employer does make or keep personnel or employment records, the employer must preserve the records for one year after the record is made or the personnel action involved is taken, whichever is later.⁴ If a discrimination charge has been filed, or an action has been brought by the EEOC or the Attorney General against an employer under Title VII of the ADA, the respondent employer must preserve all personnel records relevant to the charge or action until final disposition of the charge or action. Examples of "personnel records relevant to the charge" include the following:⁵

1. Personnel or employment records relating to the aggrieved person;
2. Personnel or employment records relating to all other employees holding positions similar to that held or sought by the aggrieved person; and
3. Application forms or test papers completed by an unsuccessful applicant and by all other candidates for the same position.

The date of final disposition of the charge or action is the date that the statutory period within which the aggrieved person may bring a civil action in federal district court expires. If an action is brought against the employer, the date of final disposition is the date on which the litigation is terminated.⁶ For discussion of limitations periods for bringing civil actions under Title VII, see Chapter 43, Part B.

In addition, certain employers are required to file Employer Information Reports,ⁿ⁷ discussed in [ii], below. There are also special recordkeeping and reporting requirements for apprenticeship programs,ⁿ⁸ state and local governments,ⁿ⁹ and educational institutions.ⁿ¹⁰

[ii] Employer Information Reports (EEO-1)

Every employer subject to Title VII with 100 or more employees must annually file Standard Form 100 (otherwise known as Employer Information Report EEO-1) with the EEOC or its delegate. At each reporting unit, or at company or divisional headquarters, the employer must retain a copy of the most recent EEO-1 filed for each unit and must make that report available if it is asked for by an officer, agent, or employee of the EEOC under the authority of Title 42 United States Code, section 2000e-9.ⁿ¹¹

An employer who knowingly and willfully makes a false statement on Report EEO-1 is guilty of violating Title 18 United States Code, section 1001, and may be punished as provided in that section.ⁿ¹² If an employer who is required to do so fails or refuses to file Report EEO-1, the EEOC may apply for a court order compelling the employer to file the report.ⁿ¹³

If an employer is engaged in activities for which the reporting unit criteria described in the instructions accompanying Report EEO-1 are not readily adaptable, special reporting procedures may be required. The employer should advise the EEOC or its delegate of this situation by submitting a specific proposal for an alternative reporting system before the report is due.ⁿ¹⁴ The employer also should advise the EEOC if it seeks to change the filing date or reporting periods by submitting a written alternative proposal before the report is due. If the preparation or filing of the report would create undue hardship, the employer may apply to the EEOC for an exemption from the reporting requirements.ⁿ¹⁵ If the application is denied, the employer may bring a civil action in the United States district court.ⁿ¹⁶

[iii] Access

When a charge of unlawful employment practices under Title VII has been filed,ⁿ¹⁷ the EEOC or its representative must be allowed access at any reasonable time to examine or copy any evidence of any person being investigated or proceeded against that relates to unlawful employment practices covered by Title VII and is relevant to the charge being investigated.ⁿ¹⁸

[b] Posting

The EEOC has adopted a notice form that every employer must post and keep posted in conspicuous places on its premises in an accessible format.ⁿ¹⁹ A willful violation of this requirement is punishable by a fine of up to $110 for each separate offense.ⁿ²⁰

For the text of the required notice, see Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, Section 1601.30(a).

[c] Uniform Guidelines

[i] Purpose

The EEOC and other federal agencies have adopted uniform guidelines to assist employers in complying with federal laws prohibiting employment discrimination. The guidelines provide a framework for determining the proper use of tests and other selection proceduresⁿ²¹ as a basis for employment decisions.ⁿ²² The guidelines are applied by the OFCCP in enforcing Executive Order 11246,ⁿ²³ as well as by the EEOC in enforcing Title VII.ⁿ²⁴

For discussion of the substantive requirements of the guidelines, see § 41.45[2][b].

[ii] Information on Impact

In order to determine compliance with the uniform guidelines, every user²⁵ should maintain, and have available for inspection, records or other information that will disclose the impact of its selection procedures on the employment opportunities of individuals by identifiable race, sex, or ethnic group. If there are large numbers of applicants and the selection procedures are administered frequently, the information may be retained by using samples, if the sample used is appropriate to the applicant population and adequate in size.²⁶ The records are to be maintained by sex and by the following races and ethnic groups:²⁷

1. Blacks,
2. American Indians,
3. Asians,
4. Hispanics,
5. Whites other than Hispanics, and
6. Totals.

[iii] Documentation of Impact and Validity Evidence

Users of selection procedures who have fewer than 100 employees may use simplified recordkeeping procedures.²⁸ Other users should maintain and have available information on the adverse impact of the selection process for each job.²⁹ When a selection process has an adverse impact, the user should also maintain evidence of the validity of the selection process.³⁰

[2] Americans With Disabilities Act

Every employer, employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee covered by the ADA must post notices in an accessible format to applicants, employees, and members describing the applicable provisions of the ADA, in the manner prescribed by Title VII.³¹ With respect to recordkeeping, the ADA expressly incorporates the Title VII requirement that employers make any report that the EEOC may by regulation require.³² For a detailed discussion of Title VII posting and recordkeeping requirements, see [1], above.

[3] Age Discrimination in Employment Act[a] Recordkeeping Requirement; Form of Records

Under the authority granted it by the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA),³³ the EEOC has adopted rules³⁴ that require employers to keep certain records.³⁵ No particular order or form of record is required, only that the records contain the required information in some form. If the information is available in records kept for other purposes, or can be obtained readily by recomputing or extending data recorded in some other form, no further records need be made or kept.³⁶

[b] Content of Required Records

Every employer must keep the following information on record for each employee:³⁷

1. Name,

2. Address,
3. Date of birth,
4. Occupation,
5. Rate of pay, and
6. Weekly compensation.

The employer must keep this information on record for three years.ⁿ³⁸

[c] Records That Must Be Preserved if Made, Obtained, or Used in the Regular Course of Business

[i] The General Rule

An employer who makes, obtains, or uses in the regular course of business any personnel or employment records related to the following matters must retain those records for one year after the personnel action to which the records relate:ⁿ³⁹

1. Job applications, resumes, or other employment inquiries submitted to the employer in response to an advertisement or other notice of existing or anticipated job openings (including records pertaining to the failure or refusal to hire any individual);
2. The promotion, demotion, transfer, selection for training, layoff, recall, or discharge of any employee;
3. Job orders submitted by the employer to an employment agency or a labor organization to recruit people for job openings;
4. The test papers of applicants or candidates for a position if the papers disclose the results of any employer-administered aptitude or other employment test considered by the employer in connection with any personnel action;
5. The results of any physical examination if considered by the employer in any personnel action; and
6. Any advertisements or notices of job openings, promotions, training programs, or opportunities for overtime work.

Special preservation requirements apply when the records concern employee benefit plans (and seniority systems and merit systems) or temporary positions and when an enforcement action is commenced. These special requirements are discussed in [ii] through [iv], below.

[ii] Employee Benefit Plans, Seniority Systems, and Merit Systems

Every employer must keep on file any employee benefit plans (such as pension and insurance plans) as well as copies of any seniority systems and merit systems that are in writing.ⁿ⁴⁰ These plans or systems must be kept on file for as long as the particular plan or system is in effect and for at least one year after its termination. If the plan or system is not in writing, the employer should keep on file for the required period a memorandum fully outlining the terms of the plan or system and the way in which it has been communicated to the affected employees, along with notations of any changes or revisions.ⁿ⁴¹

[iii] Temporary Positions

Application forms and other preemployment records of applicants for temporary positions are subject to special preservation requirements if the applicant knew that the position was temporary. In that event, every record that must be retained pursuant to Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, § 1627.3(b)(1)ⁿ⁴² must be retained for 90 days after the personnel action to which the record relates.ⁿ⁴³

[iv] After an Enforcement Action Is Commenced

When an enforcement action is commenced regarding a particular applicant or employee,ⁿ⁴⁴ the EEOC or its authorized representative may require the employer to retain any record that must be kept pursuant to Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, § 1627.3(b)(1) or (2)ⁿ⁴⁵ until the final disposition of the enforcement action, if the record relates to the action.ⁿ⁴⁶

[d] Transcriptions and Reports

On written request to do so from the EEOC or its authorized representative, every employer or other entity required to maintain records under the ADEA must do the following:ⁿ⁴⁷

1. Extend, recompute, or transcribe its records;
2. Submit reports on actions taken; and
3. Submit reports on limitations and classifications of individuals set forth in the records.

[e] Posting

Every employer must post and keep posted in conspicuous places on its premises the notice on the applicability of the ADEA prescribed by the EEOC.ⁿ⁴⁸ The notice must be posted in prominent and accessible places where it can readily be observed by employees and applicants.ⁿ⁴⁹

[f] Petitions for Exceptions

An employer may petition the EEOC for relief from its ADEA recordkeeping requirements, if there is good cause for the petition.ⁿ⁵⁰ The employer may petition to keep records in a different way than required by Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 1627 or to be relieved of preserving records for the time required by that Part. The petition to the EEOC must be in writing, and it must include a request for relief, a statement of the reasons for the request, and a proposal of alternative recordkeeping procedures or record retention requirements.ⁿ⁵¹

The EEOC may grant the petition if it finds that the alternative proposed will not hamper or interfere with the enforcement of the ADEA and will be of equivalent usefulness. The grant of the petition may be subject to such conditions as the EEOC deems appropriate. Before any relief so granted is revoked for failure to comply with the conditions set, the affected employer will be given written notice and a chance to achieve or demonstrate compliance.ⁿ⁵²

[4] Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act[a] Regulations Under the Two Acts

Although the Rehabilitation Act of 1973ⁿ⁵³ and the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act (VEVRAA)ⁿ⁵⁴ both have their own implementing regulations,ⁿ⁵⁵ the recordkeeping and posting requirements of the two sets of regulations are identical. These requirements are therefore discussed together in [b] through [d], below.

[b] Recordkeeping

Each federal contractor and subcontractor subject to the Rehabilitation Act and VEVRAA must maintain for at least one year all records regarding complaints and actions taken under those complaints. Similarly, each contractor and subcontractor must maintain for at least one year any employment or other records that the Director of the OFCCPⁿ⁵⁶ requires. The information must be furnished in the form required by the Director.ⁿ⁵⁷ Failing to completely and accurately maintain the required records constitutes noncompliance with the affirmative action clause required by the two actsⁿ⁵⁸ and is grounds for the imposition of appropriate sanctions.ⁿ⁵⁹

[c] Access to Records

Each prime contractor and subcontractor must allow access during normal business hours to its places of business and its books, records, and accounts for purposes of complaint investigations and investigations of performance under the affirmative action clause of the federal contract or subcontract. Information obtained in this way will be used only in connection with the administration of VEVRAAⁿ⁶⁰ or the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.ⁿ⁶¹

[d] Posting

Among the steps that the contractor must take to ensure internal dissemination of the affirmative action policy is the posting of that policy on company bulletin boards. The posting should include a statement that employees and applicants are protected from coercion, intimidation, interference, or discrimination for filing a complaint or assisting in an investigation under VEVRAAⁿ⁶² or under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.ⁿ⁶³

[5] The Equal Pay Act

As discussed in Chapter 40, Part C, the Equal Pay Actⁿ⁶⁴ is part of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA).ⁿ⁶⁵ Employers having employees subject to the Equal Pay Act must therefore keep whatever records they are required to keep under Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 516, which governs records to be kept by employers subject to the FLSA.ⁿ⁶⁶ For discussion of recordkeeping requirements under the FLSA, see Chapter 7. In addition, employers must preserve any records made in the regular course of business that relate to one of the following:ⁿ⁶⁷

1. The payment of wages,
2. Wage rates,
3. Job evaluations or descriptions,
4. Merit systems or seniority systems,
5. Collective bargaining agreements, and
6. A description of practices or other matters that describe or explain the basis for payment of a wage differential to employees of the opposite sex in the same establishment and that may be pertinent to a determination of whether the differential is based on a factor other than sex.

An employer must preserve for at least two years any records made that explain the basis for the payment of any wage differential to employees of the opposite sex in the same establishment.ⁿ⁶⁸

[6] Executive Order 11246

[a] Regulations

Executive Order 11246 forbids discrimination in employment by federal government contractors and subcontractors.ⁿ⁶⁹ The regulations in Title 41 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 60-1 were adopted to implement Executive Order 11246.ⁿ⁷⁰

[b] Reports[i] Prime Contractors and Subcontractors

A prime contractor or subcontractor must file a report on Standard Form 100 (EEO-1) every year on or before March 31 if the prime contractor or subcontractor meets the following requirements:ⁿ⁷¹

1. It is not exempt from the requirements of the regulations.ⁿ⁷²
2. It has 50 or more employees.
3. It is a prime contractor or first tier subcontractor.
4. It has a contract, subcontract, or purchase order amounting to $50,000 or more, or serves as a depository of government funds, or is a financial institution that is an issuing and paying agent for U.S. savings bonds and notes.

A subcontractor that is below the first tier must nonetheless file the required report if it performs construction work at the site of construction and if it meets the other three requirements listed above (items (1), (2), and (4)).ⁿ⁷³

The contractor or subcontractor must file the required report with the contracting or administering agency within 30 days after the award of the contract or subcontract unless the contractor or subcontractor has filed an EEO-1 within 12 months before the award.ⁿ⁷⁴ Failure to file timely, complete, and accurate reports constitutes noncompliance with the contractor's or subcontractor's obligations under the equal opportunity clause of the contract and is grounds for the imposition of sanctions.ⁿ⁷⁵

[ii] Bidders and Prospective Contractors

Federal contracting agencies require each bidder or prospective prime contractor and proposed subcontractor to state the following, when appropriate, in the bid or in writing at the outset of contract negotiations:ⁿ⁷⁶

1. Whether it has developed affirmative action programs and has them on file at each establishment;
2. Whether it has participated in any previous contract or subcontract subject to the equal opportunity clause; and
3. Whether it has filed all reports due under the applicable filing requirements.

[c] Records

The Director of the OFCCP or the applicant for federal assistance involving a construction contract (or other participant in a program involving a construction contract as determined by the regulations of an administering agency)ⁿ⁷⁷ may require a contractor to keep employment or other records. The Director or the applicant may also require the contractor to furnish, in the form requested, within reasonable limits, any information that the Director or the applicant deems necessary for the administration of Executive Order 11246.ⁿ⁷⁸

A prime contractor or subcontractor must allow access during normal business hours for the inspection and copying of books, records, accounts, and other material pursuant to a compliance investigation.ⁿ⁷⁹

[d] Posting

Paragraphs (1) and (3) of the equal opportunity clausesⁿ⁸⁰ contained in federal contracts pursuant to Executive Order 11246 require prime contractors and subcontractors to post notices. Unless the Director prescribes alternative notices, the notices to be posted are those set out in Title 41 Code of Federal Regulations, section 60-1.42(a). The notices will be provided by the contracting or administering agencies.ⁿ⁸¹

The notices must be posted in conspicuous places available to employees, applicants for employment, and labor organization representatives.ⁿ⁸²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. For discussion of which employers are subject to Title VII, see Chapter 40, Part C.

(n2)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(c).

(n3)Footnote 3. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.12.

(n4)Footnote 4. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.14(a).

(n5)Footnote 5. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.14(a).

(n6)Footnote 6. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.14(a).

(n7)Footnote 7. See 29 C.F.R. § 1607.

(n8)Footnote 8. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1602.15-1602.21.

(n9)Footnote 9. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1602.30-1602.38.

(n10)Footnote 10. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1602.39-1602.55.

(n11)Footnote 11. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.7. For discussion of the EEOC's authority to conduct investigations under 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9, see Chapter 42, Part B.

(n12)Footnote 12. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.8. 18 U.S.C. § 1001 makes false statements or entries in any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States punishable by imprisonment for up to five years, a fine, or both.

(n13)Footnote 13. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(c); 29 C.F.R. § 1602.9.

(n14)Footnote 14. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.10.

(n15)Footnote 15. 29 C.F.R. § 1602.10.

(n16)Footnote 16. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(c).

(n17)Footnote 17. For discussion of unlawful employment practice charges under 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5, see ch. 42, pt. C.

(n18)Footnote 18. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(a); see 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16 (EEOC subpoenas for access to or production of records or other evidence). See Univ. of Pennsylvania v. EEOC (1990) 493 U.S. 182, 192, 110 S. Ct. 577, 107 L. Ed. 2d 571 (42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(a) must be read as giving EEOC right to obtain evidence, not mere license to seek it).

(n19)Footnote 19. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-10(a); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.30(a).

(n20)Footnote 20. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-10(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.30(b).

(n21)Footnote 21. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.1.

(n22)Footnote 22. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.2.

(n23)Footnote 23. For discussion of Executive Order 11246, see [6], below.

(n24)Footnote 24. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.2.

(n25)Footnote 25. A "user" is any employer covered by federal equal employment opportunity law that uses a selection procedure as the basis for an employment decision. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.16W.

(n26)Footnote 26. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.4A.

(n27)Footnote 27. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.4B.

(n28)Footnote 28. See 29 C.F.R. § 1607.15A(1) (simplified recordkeeping for users with fewer than 100 employees).

(n29)Footnote 29. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.15A(2).

(n30)Footnote 30. 29 C.F.R. § 1607.15A(3).

(n31)Footnote 31. 42 U.S.C. § 12115 (operative July 26, 1992); see 42 U.S.C. 2000e-10; 29 C.F.R. § 1602.1.

(n32)Footnote 32. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (operative July 26, 1992; procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8 are applicable to ADA).

(n33)Footnote 33. 29 U.S.C. § 626(a); 29 C.F.R. § 1627.1(a); see 29 U.S.C. §§ 621-634.

(n34)Footnote 34. 29 C.F.R. Part 1627.

(n35)Footnote 35. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3.

(n36)Footnote 36. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.2.

(n37)Footnote 37. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(a).

(n38)Footnote 38. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(a).

(n39)Footnote 39. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b).

(n40)Footnote 40. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(2).

(n41)Footnote 41. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(2).

(n42)Footnote 42. For discussion of 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(1) and records that must be retained if made, obtained, or used in the regular course of business, see [i], above.

(n43)Footnote 43. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(3).

(n44)Footnote 44. For discussion of administrative enforcement and civil actions under 29 U.S.C. § 626, see ch. 42, pt. C, and ch. 43, pt. B.

(n45)Footnote 45. For discussion of 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(1) and records that must be retained if made, obtained, or used in the regular course of business, see [i], above. For discussion of 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(2) and records of employee benefit plans and seniority and merit systems, see [ii], above. For discussion of 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(3) and preemployment records of applicants for temporary positions, see [iii], above.

(n46)Footnote 46. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.3(b)(3).

(n47)Footnote 47. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.7.

(n48)Footnote 48. 29 U.S.C. § 627; 29 C.F.R. § 1627.10.

(n49)Footnote 49. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.10.

(n50)Footnote 50. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.11(a).

(n51)Footnote 51. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.11(a).

(n52)Footnote 52. 29 C.F.R. § 1627.11(b).

(n53)Footnote 53. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 701-796i. For discussion of act, see Chapter 40, Part C.

(n54)Footnote 54. See 38 U.S.C. § 2011 et seq. For discussion of VEVRAA, see Chapter 40, Part C.

(n55)Footnote 55. See 41 C.F.R. Parts 60-250, 60-741.

(n56)Footnote 56. For discussion of the OFCCP, see Chapter 44.

(n57)Footnote 57. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.52(a), 60-741.52(a).

(n58)Footnote 58. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.4, 60-741.4 (affirmative action clause); see also 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.27, 60-741.27 (noncompliance with affirmative action clause). For discussion, see Chapter 44.

(n59)Footnote 59. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.52(b), 60-741.52(b). Regarding actions for noncompliance, see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.28, 60-741.28. Regarding formal hearings on a violation of the affirmative action clause, see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.29, 60-741.29.

(n60)Footnote 60. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.53.

(n61)Footnote 61. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.53.

(n62)Footnote 62. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(g)(9).

(n63)Footnote 63. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(g)(9).

(n64)Footnote 64. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d).

(n65)Footnote 65. 29 C.F.R. § 1620.1(a); see 29 U.S.C. §§ 201-219.

(n66)Footnote 66. 29 C.F.R. § 1620.32.

(n67)Footnote 67. 29 C.F.R. § 1620.32(b).

(n68)Footnote 68. 29 C.F.R. § 1620.32(c).

(n69)Footnote 69. For further discussion of Exec. Order No. 11246, see Chapter 40, Part C, and Chapter 44.

(n70)Footnote 70. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.1.

(n71)Footnote 71. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(a)(1).

(n72)Footnote 72. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.5(exemptions).

(n73)Footnote 73. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(a)(1).

(n74)Footnote 74. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(a)(2).

(n75)Footnote 75. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(a)(4); see 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.27 (sanctions and penalties); see also Exec. Order No. 11246, §§ 209-212 (sanctions and penalties).

(n76)Footnote 76. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(b)(1).

(n77)Footnote 77. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.3.

(n78)Footnote 78. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(a)(3).

(n79)Footnote 79. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.43.

(n80)Footnote 80. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.4(equal opportunity clause).

(n81)Footnote 81. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.42(a).

(n82)Footnote 82. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.42(b).

119 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART H. EMPLOYER POSTING AND RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS

2-41 California Employment Law §§ 41.142 through 41.149

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 41.142[Reserved]

120 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART I. BIBLIOGRAPHY

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.150

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.150 Legal Texts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 112, Civil Rights.

Lareau, Labor and Employment Law, Pt. II, Employment Discrimination; Pt. III, Americans With Disabilities Act (Matthew Bender).

Larson, Employment Discrimination.

Achtenberg, Sexual Orientation and the Law.

Advising California Employers (Cal. C.E.B. 1981) Ch. 2, Equal Employment Practices.

Baldus & Cole, Statistical Proof of Discrimination (1980).

California Department of Fair Employment and Housing, Pre-Employment Inquiry Guidelines (1987 pamphlet).

Diedrich, Defense of Equal Employment Claims (1982).

Kalet, Age Discrimination in Employment Law (1986).

Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund, Inc., AIDS Legal Aid Guide (2d ed. 1988).

Morris, ed., The Developing Labor Law (2d ed. 1983).

National Gay Right Advocates, AIDS Practice Manual (2d ed. 1988).

Richey, Manual on Employment Discrimination and Civil Rights Actions (1987).

Schlei and Grossman, Employment Discrimination Law (2d ed. 1983).

United States Commission on Civil Rights, Comparable Worth: Issue for the 80's (June 6-7, 1984).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationAge DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate
TreatmentGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General
OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral Overview

121 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART I. BIBLIOGRAPHY

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.151

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.151 Encyclopedias

15 Am. Jur. 2d, Civil Rights, Part II H, Discrimination in Employment.

45A Am. Jur. 2d, Job Discrimination.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationAge
DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationGeneral
OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General Overview

122 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 41 Substantive Requirements Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
PART I. BIBLIOGRAPHY

2-41 California Employment Law § 41.152

AUTHOR: By Christine Curtis, J.D., Lori A. M. Middlehurst, J.D., and Elizabeth W. Mandel, J.D.

§ 41.152 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

[1] Generally

Reinglass, Johnson v. United Cerebral Palsy/Spastic Children's Foundation of Los Angeles and Ventura Counties, 2009 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 367 (October 2009).

Abell, Reflections on Preparing Alleged Harassers for Mediation, 2009 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 273 (August 2009).

Swe & Sharma, The California Supreme Court Shields Employers from Liability for Adverse Actions Against Marijuana Users, 2008 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 93 (March 2008).

Reinglass, Disabilities: A Review of Recent Cases, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 397 (October/November 2007).

Mook, Ninth Circuit Rules That Misconduct Resulting From a Disability Does Not Constitute Non-Discriminatory Basis for Termination, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 342 (September 2007).

Basrai & Steinke, Better Late Than Never: New Sexual Harassment Awareness Training Regulations Adopted, 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 265 (Sept. 2007).

Day & Howitson, The ADA and the Internet: Is There a Place in Cyberspace? 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 138 (June 2007).

Reinglass, Employers' Duty to Take All Reasonable Steps to Prevent Harassment Requires Properly Conducting Workplace Investigations, 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 95 (April/May 2007).

Robbins & Yanow, Why, How and What Now? The Ramifications of the Duty to Investigate in California Discrimination Actions, 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 91 (April/May 2007).

Copus, Planning Ahead for New EEO- 1 Requirements, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 463 (December 2006).

Mook, Ninth Circuit Upholds Injunction Against UPS in ADA Class Action, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 453 (December 2006).

Tukel, Testing Accommodation: Is a "Level Playing Field" Unfair? 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 335 (September 2006).

Paul, Atmospheres and Environments: Can "Warmed Up" Workplaces Survive the Chill of Correctness? (Reflections on Reconstructing Sexual Harassment and The Sanitized Workplace), 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 100 (March 2006).

Beachboard, How Do You Define "Adverse Employment Action"? 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 51 (February 2006).

Mook, Ninth Circuit Rules That Employer Discriminated Against Former Employee With History of Violence, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 10 (January 2006).

Howitson & Wrobel, Proving Retaliation: An Overview and Recent California Developments, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 409 (November 2005).

Kadue & Saxe, CACI Jury Instructions: A Defense Perspective, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 365 (October 2005).

Winikow, Revisiting CACI Jury Instructions: The Plaintiff's Perspective, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 312 (September 2005).

Abell, California Gives Birth to the "Stealth Whistleblower": State Supreme Court Departs From Federal Law, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 301 (September 2005).

McDonough, Jackson v. Birmingham Board of Education: Supreme Court Expands a Complaining Employee's Private Right of Action Under Title IX, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 134 (April 2005).

Hood, Pre-Employment Medical Inquiries -- Problems and Pitfalls, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 173 (May 2005).

Gray, Individual Supervisor Liability in Employment Discrimination Claims in California, 37 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1997).

Weiss, Ninth Circuit Broadens Reasonableness Standard for Hostile Work Environment Sexual Harassment: Fuller v. City of Oakland, 31 U.S.F. L. Rev. 665 (1997).

Willis, Stress-Related Disability Claims Under the ADA, 43(2) Prac. Law. 73 (1997).

Brown & Shallow, Some FMLA Basics, 42(5) Prac. Law. 23 (1996).

Comment, Same-Gender Sexual Harassment: Is it Sex Discrimination Under Title VII? 36 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517

(1996).

Note, Farmers Insurance Group v. County of Santa Clara: Indemnity and Vicarious Liability in Sexual Harassment Cases, 30 U.S.F. L. Rev. 825 (1996).

Davis, The After-Acquired Defense Doctrine: A Dubious Defense in Employment Discrimination Cases, 22 Pepperdine L. Rev. 365 (1995).

O'Brien, Employment Discrimination Claims Remain Valid Despite After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Wrongdoing, 23 Pepperdine L. Rev. 65 (1995).

Young & Wells, Managing AIDS in the Workplace, 41(3) Prac. Law. 29 (1995).

Levy, Sex, Promotions, and Title VII: Why Sexual Favoritism is Not Sexual Discrimination, 45 Hastings L.J. 667 (1994).

Recent Cases, Employment Discrimination --Sexual Harassment-- New Jersey Supreme Court Adopts a Gender-Specific Reasonableness Standard, 107 Harv. L. Rev. 955 (February 1994).

Kadue & Dritsas, When What You Didn't Know Can Help You-- Employers' Use of After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Conduct to Defend Wrongful Discharge Claims, 27 Bev. Hills. B.A.J. 117 (Summer 1993).

Recent Cases, Employment Law--Gender Discrimination--Third Circuit Rules that Denial of Promotion Based on Equally Applied Legitimate Subjective Criterion is Not Discrimination, 106 Harv. L. Rev. 2039 (June 1993).

Estrich, Sex at Work, 43 Stan. L. Rev. 813 (1991).

Johnson, The Americans With Disabilities Act Offers Important New Coverage for the Physically and Mentally Impaired, 11(6) Cal. Law. 63 (1991).

Kelman, Concepts of Discrimination in "General Ability" Job Testing, 104 Harv. L. Rev. 1157 (1991).

Lancot, The Defendant Lies and the Plaintiff Loses: The Fallacy of "Pretext-Plus" Rule in Employment Discrimination Cases, 43 Hastings L.J. 57 (1991).

Note, Invisible Man: Black and Male Under Title VII, 104 Harv. L. Rev. 749 (1991).

Note, Reasonable Accommodation and Employment Discrimination Under Title I of the Americans with Disabilities Act, 64 S. Cal. L. Rev. 1607 (1991).

Bagby & Gray, How the Americans with Disabilities Act Affects Employers, 36(7) Prac. Law. 17 (1990).

Note, The Death of Comparable Worth: A Critical Analysis of the United States Supreme Court's Decision in Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio, 23 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 1483 (1990).

Note, From Griggs to Wards Cove: The Blurring of Disparate Treatment Under Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, 26 Cal. W.L. Rev. 449 (1989-1990).

Browne, Comparable Worth: An Impermissible Form of Affirmative Action? 22 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 717 (1989).

Note, The Aftermath of Meritor: A Search For Standards in the Law of Sexual Harassment, 98 Yale L.J. 1717 (1989).

Note, Compensating Victims of Preferential Employment Discrimination Remedies, 98 Yale L.J. 1479 (1989).

Note, Conceptualizing Black Women's Employment Experiences, 98 Yale L.J. 1457 (1989).

Comment, The Application of Handicap Discrimination Laws to AIDS Patients, 22 U.S.F. L. Rev. 317 (1988).

Jones, Applying Disparate Impact Theory to Subjective Employee Selection Procedures, 20 Loyola L. Rev. 375 (1987).

Morris, New Light on Racial Affirmative Action, 20 U.C.D. L. Rev. 219 (1987).

Note, Pregnancy and Equality: A Precarious Alliance, 60 So. Cal. L. Rev. 1345 (1987).

Kluger, Sex Discrimination in the Tenure System at American Colleges and Universities: The Judicial Response, 15 J. Law & Educ. 319 (1986).

Vladeck, Is AIDS a Disability? 32 The Practical Lawyer 13 (1986).

Weiler, The Wages of Sex: The Uses and Limits of Comparable Worth, 99 Harv. L. Rev. 1728 (1986).

[2] Age Discrimination in Employment Act

Lipsig & Shea, Eleventh Circuit Brings Clarity to the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act: ADEA Release Disclosures Are Limited to the Decisional Unit, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 351 (September 2006).

Beachboard, More Age Bias Claims on the Horizon? Supreme Court Endorses Limited "Disparate Impact" Claims in Smith v. City of Jackson, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 129 (April 2005).

Gray, Individual Supervisor Liability in Employment Discrimination Claims in California, 37 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1997).

Comment, Disparate Impact Analysis and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 68 Minn. L. Rev. 1038 (May 1984).

[3] California Fair Employment and Housing Act

Huibonhoa, Sherr, Beckstrom, Sharma, Smith, Glick & Anderson, Celebrating the FEHA's 50th Anniversary: A Review of the Most Significant Cases, 2009 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 1 (January 2009).

Huibonhoa & Mitchell, Torrey Pines: Nonemployer Individuals Cannot Be Held Liable for Retaliation Under the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, 2008 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 137 (April 2008).

Falcone, Adverse Employment Action After Yanowitz: What Two Years of Appellate Decisions Tell Us, 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 257 (Sept. 2007).

Heckathorn & Melner, The One With Dirty Talk: The Friends Case Shows That Context Matters When Workplace Environment Harassment Claims Are Asserted, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 215 (June 2006).

Neri & Tigno, Lyle v. Warner Brothers Television Productions: The Intersection of Anti-Harassment Law and Free Speech Rights, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 98 (March 2005).

Survey, Women and California Law: Part IV, Civil Rights Law, 16 Golden Gate L. Rev. 555 (1986).

[4] Title VII

Fochtman & Winikow, Ninth Circuit Affirms That Female Bartender Can Be Fired for Refusing to Wear Makeup, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 56 (February 2005).

Hermle, Bad Action for an Arguably Good Purpose: When Title VII Retaliation Claims Fail the Balancing Test, 2005 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 47 (February 2005).

Weiss, Ninth Circuit Broadens Reasonableness Standard for Hostile Work Environment Sexual Harassment: Fuller v. City of Oakland, 31 U.S.F. L. Rev. 665 (1997).

Comment, Same-Gender Sexual Harassment: Is it Sex Discrimination Under Title VII? 36 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1996).

Davis, The After-Acquired Defense Doctrine: A Dubious Defense in Employment Discrimination Cases, 22 Pepperdine L. Rev. 365 (1995).

O'Brien, Employment Discrimination Claims Remain Valid Despite After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Wrongdoing, 23 Pepperdine L. Rev. 65 (1995).

Levy, Sex, Promotions, and Title VII: Why Sexual Favoritism is Not Sexual Discrimination, 45 Hastings L.J. 667 (1994).

Bayer, Mutable Characteristics and the Definition of Discrimination Under Title VII, 20 U.C.D. L. Rev. 769 (1987).

Biernat, Subjective Criteria in Faculty Employment Decisions Under Title VII: A Camouflage for Discrimination and Sexual Harassment, 20 U.C.D. L. Rev. 501 (1987).

Comment, Constructive Discharge Under Title VII and the ADEA, 53 U. Chi. L. Rev. 561 (1986).

Hernandez, Title VII Seniority: the Supreme Court Giveth and the Supreme Court Taketh Away, 35 Am. U. L. Rev. 339 (1986).

Maney, Application of the Adverse Impact Analysis to Subjective Criteria in Title VII Employment Discrimination Cases, 38 Baylor L. Rev. 363 (1986).

Caldwell, Reaffirming the Disproportionate Effects Standard of Liability in Title VII Litigation, 46 U. Pitt. L. Rev. 555 (1985).

Helfand & Pemberton, The Continuing Vitality of Title VII Disparate Impact Analysis, 36 Mercer L. Rev. 939 (1985).

Lamber, Alternatives to Challenged Employee Selection Criteria: the Significance of Nonstatistical Evidence in Disparate Impact Cases Under Title VII, 1985 Wis. L. Rev. 1 (1985).

Campbell, Regression Analysis in Title VII Cases: Minimum Standard, Comparable Worth, and Other Issues Where Law and Statistics Meet, 36 Stan. L. Rev. 1299 (1984).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability
DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral OverviewLabor
& Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General Overview

123 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws

3-42 California Employment Law 42.syn

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.syn Synopsis to Chapter 42: Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws

§ 42.01 Remedies Available to Complainant

[1] Generally

[2] State Administrative and Judicial Remedies

[a] Fair Employment and Housing Act

[b] Unruh Civil Rights Act, Ralph Civil Rights Act, and Public Access of Disabled Persons

[c] California Equal Pay Act

[3] Federal Administrative and Judicial Remedies

[a] Laws Enforced by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

[b] Prohibitions Against Discrimination by Federal Contractors

[c] Prohibitions Against Discrimination by Programs Receiving Federal Assistance

[d] Other Federal Judicial Remedies

§ 42.02 Factors Influencing Choice of Forum

[1] Generally

[2] Differences in Coverage

[3] Relief Available Under Federal and State Law

[4] Limitations Periods

[5] Time Required for Resolving Cases

[6] Availability of Counsel

§ 42.03 Preclusive Effects of Administrative Adjudications and Court Judgments

[1] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Generally

[2] Preclusive Effect of State Proceedings

[a] On Title VII Proceedings

[i] Unreviewed Administrative Agency Determinations

[ii] State Court Actions

[b] On Reconstruction Era Civil Rights Actions

[i] Unreviewed Administrative Agency Determinations

[ii] State Court Actions

[c] On ADEA Actions

[3] Preclusive Effect of Judgment in Title VII Action on State Court Proceedings

[4] Preclusive Effect of Judgment in Action Brought by EEOC on Action Brought by Private Plaintiff

§§ 42.04 through 42.19 [Reserved]

§ 42.20 Fair Employment and Housing Commission

[1] Authority of Commission

[2] Organizational Structure

§ 42.21 Department of Fair Employment and Housing

[1] Authority to Investigate and Prosecute

[2] Organizational Structure of DFEH

§ 42.22 Overview of Complaint Procedure

§ 42.23 Initiating the Proceeding

[1] Filing of Complaint by Aggrieved Party

[a] Generally

[b] Pre-Complaint Questionnaire

[2] Timeliness of Complaint

[3] Complainant's Request to Rescind Complaint Prior to Service

[4] Service on Respondents

[5] Class Action Complaints

§ 42.24 Deferral to Federal Agencies

§ 42.25 Investigation

[1] Authority to Conduct Investigation

[2] Assignment to Consultant

[3] Predetermination

[a] Generally

[b] Request for Authorization to File a Lawsuit

[c] Issuance of Right-to-Sue Letter

[4] Priority Processing

[5] On-Site Investigation

[6] Case Conference

§ 42.26 Presentation of Defenses

[1] Manner of Presenting Defenses

[a] Generally

[b] Statement of Position

[i] Initial Response

[ii] Subsequent Contacts with Respondent

[2] Procedural Defenses

[a] Jurisdiction

[b] Timeliness of Complaint

[c] Deference to Another Agency's Determination

[d] Consent Decree

[3] Substantive Defenses

§ 42.27 Discovery During Investigation

[1] DFEH's Discovery Powers

[2] [Reserved]

[3] [Reserved]

[4] Obtaining Compliance with Discovery Requests

§ 42.28 Confidentiality of Information Received by DFEH

[1] Statutes Governing Disclosure

[a] In General

[b] Information Practices Act

[2] Information Nondisclosable on Prior Agreement of Confidentiality

[3] Confidentiality of EEOC Charges

[4] Disclosability of Information Sought by Parties in Open DFEH Files

[a] Information Sought by Legal Process

[i] Types of Disclosable Information

[ii] Types of Information Not Disclosable

[b] Information Sought by Written Request

[5] Disclosability of Information Sought by Parties in Closed DFEH Files

[a] Types of Disclosable Information

[b] Types of Information Not Disclosable

[6] Third Party Requests for Information Contained in DFEH Files

[7] Procedures on Disclosure of DFEH Files

§ 42.29 Settlements

- [1] Generally
- [2] Effect of Collective Bargaining Agreement
- [3] Settlement Agreement
- [4] Private Settlements Between Parties

§ 42.30 Determination

- [1] Finding of Cause and Progress Report
- [2] Case Closure
 - [a] Closure Prior to Determination on the Merits
 - [b] Pre-Closure After Adverse Determination on Merits
 - [c] Notice of Case Closure and Right to Sue

§ 42.31 Conciliation

§ 42.32 Accusation

- [1] Procedure
- [2] Service of Accusation
 - [a] On Respondent
 - [b] On Complainant
- [3] Reserved
- [4] Notice of Defense
 - [a] Filing of Notice of Defense by Respondent
 - [b] Contents
- [5] Amended or Supplemental Accusation
- [6] Withdrawal of Accusation
- [7] Election to Transfer Proceedings to Court

§ 42.33 Parties to Proceeding

§ 42.34 Representation of Respondent

§ 42.35 Post-Accusation Discovery

- [1] Generally
- [2] FORM--Post-Accusation Request for Discovery
 - [a] Comment
 - [b] Form

§ 42.36 Pre-Hearing Motions to FEHC

- [1] Types of Motions
- [2] Form and Procedure

§ 42.37 Hearing Before Administrative Law Judge

- [1] Conduct of Hearing
- [2] Hearing Dates and Continuances
- [3] Subpoenas and Depositions of Unavailable Witnesses
 - [a] Subpoenas
 - [b] Deposition of Unavailable Witnesses
- [4] Introduction of Affidavit in Evidence
- [5] Pre-Hearing Statement
- [6] Presentation of Evidence at Hearing
 - [a] In General
 - [b] Applicable Rules of Evidence
 - [c] Evidence Regarding Complainant's Past Sexual Conduct

§ 42.38 Post-Hearing Matters

- [1] Post-Hearing Motions
- [2] Post-Hearing Briefs

§ 42.39 Decision by FEHC

- [1] Preparation and Submission of Proposed Decision
- [2] Adoption or Modification of Proposed Decision

[3] Non-Adoption of Proposed Decision

[4] Form of Decision and Effective Date

[5] Precedential Opinions

[6] Reconsideration of Decision by FEHC

[7] Res Judicata Effect

§ 42.39A Relief Awarded by FEHC

[1] Types of Relief Available

[2] Actual Damages

[3] Administrative Fines

§ 42.40 Judicial Review of FEHC Decision

[1] Procedure

[a] In General

[b] Time Limit and Preparation of Record

[c] Stay of FEHC Decision and Order

[d] Standard of Review

[2] FORM--Petition by Employer for Writ of Mandate to Review Decision of FEHC

[a] Comment

[b] Form

§ 42.41 Enforcement of FEHC Decision

§§ 42.42 through 42.59 [Reserved]

§ 42.60 Structure and Authority of EEOC

[1] Organizational Structure

[2] Statutes Enforced

§ 42.61 Overview of Administrative Complaint Procedure

[1] Title VII and ADA

[a] Overlapping Jurisdiction of Agencies Under ADA and Rehabilitation Act

[b] EEOC Complaint Procedure

[2] ADEA

[3] EPA

[4] Federal Employees

§ 42.62 Initiating the Proceeding

[1] Intake

[a] In General

[b] Intake Questionnaire

[c] Title VII and ADA Charges

[d] ADEA Charges and Complaints

[e] EPA Complaints

[f] Sufficiency of Charges

[g] Confidentiality of Complaining Party

[2] Sample Charge and Sample Complaint

[a] FORM--Sample EEOC Charge (EEOC Form 5)

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[b] FORM--Sample Complaint (EEOC Affidavit--EEOC Form 133)

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[3] Timeliness

[a] Statutory Charge-Filing Periods

[b] Charge-Filing Date

[i] In General

[ii] Amended Charges

[c] Determining When Charge-Filing Period Begins

[d] Continuing Violations

[e] Equitable Tolling of Charge-Filing Period

[4] Service on Respondents

[5] FORM--Sample Notice of Charge of Discrimination (EEOC Form 131)

[a] Comment

[b] Form

§ 42.63 Deferral to State Agencies

[1] In General

[2] Waiver of Deferral to State Agencies and Worksharing Agreements

§ 42.64 Investigation

[1] In General

[2] Charges Warranting Priority Processing

[3] Scope of Investigation

[4] Statement of Position and Requests for Information from Respondent

[a] Generally

[b] Subsequent Opportunities to Present Defenses

[5] On-Site Investigations

[6] Representation by Attorney

[7] Fact-Finding Conference

[8] Subpoena Power

[a] Authority and Scope

[b] Procedure

[c] FORM--Sample EEOC Subpoena (EEOC Form 136)

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[d] Enforcement of Subpoena

[9] Action by EEOC for Temporary Relief Pending Final Disposition of Charge

§ 42.65 Defenses

[1] Procedural Defenses

[a] Jurisdictional Defects

[b] Timeliness

[c] Prior State Court or Quasi-Judicial Decisions

[2] Substantive Defenses

§ 42.66 Predetermination Settlement

§ 42.67 Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination

[1] Generally

[2] Consequences of Withdrawal

[3] FORM--Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination (Title VII or ADEA) (Form 154)

[a] Comment

[b] Form

§ 42.68 Predetermination Conciliation

§ 42.69 Determination

[1] Cause Determinations

[2] No Cause Determinations and Review

§ 42.70 Post-Determination Conciliation

[1] Title VII and ADA Requirements

[2] ADEA Requirements

[3] No Conciliation Requirement Under EPA

[4] Conciliation Procedure

[5] Conciliation Agreement

[a] Generally

[b] Conciliation Agreements Without Approval of a Party

[i] Absence of the Charging Party

[ii] Absence of the Union

[6] Notification of Conciliation Failure

§ 42.71 Notice of Right to Sue

[1] Procedure

[a] Title VII and ADA

[b] EPA

[2] Contents of Right-to-Sue Letter

[3] FORM--Notice of Right to Sue Issued on Request (EEOC Form 161-B)

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[4] FORM--Notice of Right to Sue on Failure of Conciliation (EEOC Form 161-A)

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[5] FORM--Dismissal and Notice of Rights (EEOC Form 161)

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[6] Effect of Private Actions on EEOC's Right to Litigate

§ 42.71A Notice of Dismissal or Termination

§ 42.72 Confidentiality of EEOC Records

[1] Generally

[a] Title VII and ADA

[b] ADEA

[c] EPA

[2] Method for Obtaining Disclosure of Open Files

[a] Disclosure to Parties in Title VII Cases

[b] Disclosure of Information to Nonparties in Title VII Cases and to All Persons in ADEA and EPA Cases

[i] In General

[ii] Disclosable and Nondisclosable Information

[iii] Appeal from Denial of Disclosure

[iv] Production of Documents in Response to Subpoena

§ 42.73 Direct Civil Actions by EEOC

[1] Authority of EEOC to Prosecute Claims of Discrimination

[a] After Failure of Conciliation

[b] In Pattern or Practice Cases

[2] EEOC as Intervenor

[3] EEOC as Plaintiff

[a] Administrative Requirements for Filing Suit

[i] Under Title VII and ADA

[ii] Under ADEA and EPA

[b] Statutes of Limitations

[i] Under Title VII and the ADA

[ii] Under ADEA

[iii] Under EPA

[c] Scope of Litigation Under Title VII and ADA

[i] Class-Wide Actions

[ii] Additional Defendants

[iii] Expanded Bases of Discrimination or Issues

[iv] Expansion to Other Branches or Facilities of Respondent

[c.1] Scope of Litigation Under ADEA and EPA

[d] Intervention by Complainant

[e] EEOC Liability for Attorney's Fees and Costs

[4] Remedies in Suits by EEOC

§§ 42.74 through 42.79 [Reserved]

§ 42.80 Legal Texts

§ 42.81 Encyclopedias

§ 42.82 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D.^{n*} and Beverly Tucker, J.D.^{n}

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. From 1978 to 1983, Ms. Brodsky was a staff attorney with the California Fair Employment and Housing Commission and the Department of Fair Employment and Housing. Since that time, she has been engaged in private practice in Massachusetts and California with an emphasis on employment discrimination and wrongful termination law. She is currently practicing in Oakland, California.

(n2)Footnote . Ms. Tucker was formerly a staff attorney at the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (1979-1983) and a deputy attorney general with the California Department of Justice, Civil Rights Enforcement Unit (1986-1988). She has also lectured on employment discrimination law at the University of California School of Law (Boalt Hall) in Berkeley. Ms. Tucker is currently chief counsel for the California Teachers Association.

Updates to this chapter are prepared by the Publisher's Editorial Staff.

124 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws

3-42 California Employment Law Scope

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

Scope

By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D.^{n*} and Beverly Tucker, J.D.^{n} SCOPE

This chapter discusses the administrative enforcement of California and federal equal employment opportunity laws. The chapter includes a discussion of factors that should be considered before deciding to bring an administrative action, such as the type of administrative and judicial remedies are available, the impact of the choice of forum on those remedies, exhaustion of administrative remedies, and the preclusive effects of administrative remedies on other proceedings. The chapter discusses in detail administrative proceedings under the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA), Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, and the federal Equal Pay Act.

Chapter 40 provides an overview of the state and federal equal employment opportunity laws. Chapter 41 discusses the substantive provisions of the equal employment laws. Chapter 43 covers the procedure for bringing judicial actions under these laws. For discussion of enforcement of anti-discrimination and affirmative action provisions in government contracts under state and federal law, see Chapter 44.

FOOTNOTES:

(n3)Footnote *. From 1978 to 1983, Ms. Brodsky was a staff attorney with the California Fair Employment and Housing Commission and the Department of Fair Employment and Housing. Since that time, she has been engaged in private practice in Massachusetts and California with an emphasis on employment discrimination and wrongful termination law. She is currently practicing in Oakland, California.

(n4)Footnote . Ms. Tucker was formerly a staff attorney at the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (1979-1983) and a deputy attorney general with the California Department of Justice, Civil Rights Enforcement Unit (1986-1988). She has also lectured on employment discrimination law at the University of California School of Law (Boalt Hall) in Berkeley. Ms. Tucker is currently chief counsel for the California Teachers Association.

Updates to this chapter are prepared by the Publisher's Editorial Staff.

125 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. INTRODUCTION

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.01

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.01 Remedies Available to Complainant

[1] Generally

In California, a person who believes that an employer, an employment agency, apprenticeship program, or a labor organization has engaged in discriminatory practices has recourse to state and federal administrative agencies, as well as the courts. The aggrieved person must assess the nature of the alleged unlawful practice, applicable statutes of limitations, the need to exhaust certain administrative remedies, the political climate in which the agencies are operating at the time, and other factors in deciding whether to initiate a state or federal proceeding and whether to seek an administrative or judicial remedy.

California's Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA)ⁿ¹ is administratively enforced under a "two-tier" administrative agency structure, consisting of the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH)ⁿ² and the Fair Employment and Housing Commission (FEHC).ⁿ³ Most federal employment discrimination laws are administratively enforced by the agency created by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964--the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). Because most of the types of discrimination prohibited under California law are also prohibited under federal law, the DFEH and EEOC have entered into a worksharing agreement, under which charges of discrimination that are covered by either or both federal or state laws may be filed with either agency, and each agency acts as the agent of the other for purposes of receiving charges.ⁿ⁴ For discussion of the EEOC's and the DFEH's worksharing agreement, see §§ 42.24 and 42.63[2].

[2] State Administrative and Judicial Remedies

[a] Fair Employment and Housing Act

The FEHC and DFEH are independent administrative entities with different functions. The FEHC is empowered to promulgate substantive and procedural regulationsⁿ⁵ and to conduct hearings on administrative complaints brought by the DFEH,ⁿ⁶ as well as to perform other functions and duties set forth by statute.ⁿ⁷ The DFEH investigates, conciliates, and prosecutes complaints of unlawful discrimination before the FEHC.ⁿ⁸ Together, the two branches provide a quasi-judicial forum, with quasi-legislative remedial powers,ⁿ⁹ to remedy violations of the FEHA. If the FEHC finds a violation of the FEHA, it may order relief such as hiring or reinstatement, with or without backpay, injunctive relief to prevent recurrence of the violation, and, subject to limitations, actual damages for emotional suffering and an administrative fine in cases involving oppression, malice, or fraud.ⁿ¹⁰ An individual or respondent employer whose case is litigated before the FEHC by the DFEH may obtain judicial review in superior court by filing a petition for writ of mandate, but such an individual cannot obtain a trial de novo.ⁿ¹¹ For discussion of judicial review of FEHC decisions, see § 42.40.

As a practical matter, the DFEH prosecutes very few cases before the FEHC.ⁿ¹² In most instances, the aggrieved person obtains a "right-to-sue" letter from the DFEH and litigates his or her case in a California superior court. The FEHA authorizes broad judicial remedies, including compensatory and punitive damages.ⁿ¹³

The FEHA also requires employers who contract with the State of California to comply with certain nondiscrimination and affirmative action requirements.ⁿ¹⁴ These provisions authorize the DFEH to compel reporting by state contractors, and to recommend sanctions against such contractors when prosecuting an accusation before the DFEH.ⁿ¹⁵ However, the FEHC has no authority to order debarment, sanctions, or other relief; the FEHA allows it only to "recommend" such sanctions to the contracting state agency. For discussion of nondiscrimination and affirmative action requirements for state and federal contractors and procedures for enforcing those requirements, see Chapter 44.

[b] Unruh Civil Rights Act, Ralph Civil Rights Act, and Public Access of Disabled Persons

In addition to enforcing the FEHA, the DFEH and FEHC have power to enforce the Unruh Civil Rights Act,ⁿ¹⁶ the Ralph Civil Rights Act,ⁿ¹⁷ and Civil Code sections 54, 54.1, and 54.2, relating to the rights of disabled persons or persons with medical conditions to full and equal access to all public accommodations.ⁿ¹⁸ In contrast to the requirements of the FEHA, neither the Unruh Act nor the Ralph Act require exhaustion of administrative remedies prior to commencing a civil action.ⁿ¹⁹ However, while the Unruh Act prohibits arbitrary discrimination by "business establishments," a term which has been broadly defined by the courts,ⁿ²⁰ the California Supreme Court has held that the Unruh Act does not cover discrimination in the employer-employee relationship.ⁿ²¹ In so holding, the Court reasoned that Civil Code Section 51 was not intended to apply to discrimination by a business establishment other than in the course of furnishing goods, services, or facilities to its clients, patrons, or customers.ⁿ²²

The Ralph Act guarantees all persons the right to be free of violence or intimidation on account of race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, political affiliation, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, or position in a labor dispute, or because another person perceives them to have one or more of those characteristics.ⁿ²³ Although rare in the employment context, a Ralph Act violation could arise in connection with an allegation of discrimination. The DFEH has taken the position that an allegation of harassment that includes an element of physical violence would be actionable under the Ralph Act.ⁿ²⁴

It is also an unlawful practice under the FEHAⁿ²⁵ for a person to deny or to aid, incite, or conspire in the denial of the rights created by Civil Code sections 51.5, relating to prohibited business transactions, and 54, 54.1, or 54.2, relating to the rights of disabled persons to full and equal access to all public accommodations.ⁿ²⁶ Presumably, the same arguments supporting the holdings that the proscriptions of section 51 of the Unruh Actⁿ²⁷ do not apply to employment discrimination cases would also apply to violation of the prohibition against denying equal access to public accommodations to disabled persons. Thus, violations of Civil Code sections 54, 54.1, and 54.2 would not provide grounds for a cause of action in an employment discrimination action.ⁿ²⁸

[c] California Equal Pay Act

An individual who alleges sex discrimination in connection with the payment of wages under the California Equal Pay Actⁿ²⁹ is not required to exhaust administrative remedies before bringing a civil action, and the DFEH has no direct enforcement powers over Equal Pay Act violations.ⁿ³⁰ However, an aggrieved individual may file an administrative complaint with the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE).ⁿ³¹ For further discussion of the administrative process under the Equal Pay Act, see Chapter 5, Part A. For further discussion of civil actions under the Equal Pay Act, see Chapter 43, Part A. For discussion of the scope and substantive requirements of the Equal Pay Act, see Chapter 40, Part B, and Chapter 41, Part D.

[3] Federal Administrative and Judicial Remedies

[a] Laws Enforced by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) is the federal agency charged with administrative enforcement of a number of federal anti-discrimination statutes, including Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII),ⁿ³² the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990,ⁿ³³ the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (ADEA),ⁿ³⁴ the Equal Pay Act of 1963 (EPA),ⁿ³⁵ Section 501 of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (the Rehabilitation Act),ⁿ³⁶ and Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.ⁿ³⁷

Unlike the FEHC, the EEOC performs no quasi-judicatory functions. The EEOC has authority to investigate charges of discrimination on a range of bases;ⁿ³⁸ facilitate conciliation efforts;ⁿ³⁹ intervene in lawsuits brought by private litigants;ⁿ⁴⁰ enact procedural regulations;ⁿ⁴¹ and conduct a variety of technical studies.ⁿ⁴² The EEOC has no authority to order relief on its own.ⁿ⁴³ As a consequence, unless the EEOC has determined to seek preliminary injunctive relief under section 706(f)(2) of Title VII, or to bring a civil action in its own name pursuant to Title VII,ⁿ⁴⁴ the ADEA,ⁿ⁴⁵ the Equal Pay Act,ⁿ⁴⁶ or Section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act,ⁿ⁴⁷ the charging party must initiate a court action in state or federal court in order to obtain relief. Title VII authorizes the Attorney General to bring civil actions against a government, governmental agency or political subdivision.ⁿ⁴⁸

Although some circuit courts of appeal uphold the EEOC's right to bring a Title VII action when the charging party has already filed a private action,ⁿ⁴⁹ the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that the filing of a private suit extinguishes the EEOC's right to litigate.ⁿ⁵⁰ The EEOC may, however, move to intervene in a private Title VII action "upon certification that the case is of general public importance."ⁿ⁵¹ By contrast, when the EEOC has initiated an action under Title VII, the charging party may intervene as a matter of right.ⁿ⁵² Once the EEOC has brought suit under the ADEA,ⁿ⁵³ an aggrieved person is generally prohibited from filing a private action or intervening in the pending EEOC litigation.ⁿ⁵⁴

Historically, the likelihood of the EEOC filing a civil action in federal district court has been as small as the likelihood of the DFEH bringing a case to hearing before the FEHC. In fiscal year 1987, a total of 62,074 charges were filed with the EEOC nationwide. During that same time frame, the EEOC brought 429 civil actions and 94 subpoena enforcement actions in federal district court nationwide.ⁿ⁵⁵ In Northern California, the EEOC instituted 23 court actions and 4 subpoena enforcement actions. For further discussion of the EEOC's authority to file civil actions, see § 42.73.

[b] Prohibitions Against Discrimination by Federal Contractors

A number of federal laws and executive orders impose nondiscrimination and affirmative action requirements on federal contractors. These include (1) Executive Order 11246,ⁿ⁵⁶ which prohibits discrimination by certain federal contractors; (2) the Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act (VRRRA) and Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 (VEVRAA), which protects reemployment rights of certain veterans of the military and requires certain government contractors to take affirmative action in employing veterans;ⁿ⁵⁷ and (3) Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which requires affirmative action and nondiscrimination with regard to certain individuals with disabilities.ⁿ⁵⁸ These provisions are enforced by the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP) of the United States Department of Labor.ⁿ⁵⁹ For discussion of enforcement of these provisions, see Chapter 44.

[c] Prohibitions Against Discrimination by Programs Receiving Federal Assistance

Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964ⁿ⁶⁰ prevents discrimination on the ground of race, color, or national origin by programs and activities receiving federal assistance. Both the EEOC and the agency providing the federal assistance have jurisdiction to accept charges from aggrieved individuals.ⁿ⁶¹ Once the charge is filed, the EEOC may follow the investigatory and conciliatory steps set out in Title VII, issue the individual a right to sue letter, or bring suit on its own if such action is warranted.ⁿ⁶²

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Actⁿ⁶³ prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability in any program or activity receiving federal assistance or conducted by an agency of the federal government. The Department of Justice has issued regulations interpreting Section 504,ⁿ⁶⁴ but each agency that provides federal assistance enforces Section 504 with respect to its recipients.ⁿ⁶⁵ An aggrieved individual with a disability also has a private right of action against an employer-recipient of federal funding.ⁿ⁶⁶

[d] Other Federal Judicial Remedies

The Reconstruction Era Civil Rights Laws,ⁿ⁶⁷ provide no administrative enforcement mechanisms.ⁿ⁶⁸ Causes of action under these laws may be combined with the other statutes mentioned in [a]-[c], above, in employment discrimination litigation. Prior administrative proceedings may, however, in some cases bar subsequent civil actions under the civil rights statutes under the jurisprudential doctrines of issue and claim preclusion (also known as "res judicata" and "collateral estoppel").ⁿ⁶⁹ For further discussion of preclusive effects in connection with the Reconstruction Era Civil Rights Laws, see § 42.03[2][b].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Labor & Employment Law Wage & Hour Laws Remedies General Overview Labor & Employment Law Wage & Hour Laws Statutory Application Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.

(n2)Footnote 2. For discussion of DFEH, see § 42.21.

(n3)Footnote 3. For discussion of FEHC, see § 42.20.

(n4)Footnote 4. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement Between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 5.2, 5.4-5.6.

(n5)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12935(a).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12935(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. See Gov. Code § 12935. For discussion of functions and duties of FEHC, see § 42.20.

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code § 12930(f), (h). For discussion of functions and duties of DFEH, see § 42.21.

(n9)Footnote 9. See Gov. Code § 12920.5 (Legislature conferred its constitutional authority under Cal. Const., art. XIV, § 1 to remedy discrimination under FEHA).

(n10)Footnote 10. See Gov. Code § 12970(a)-(d). For detailed discussion of available relief, see § 42.39A.

(n11)Footnote 11. See Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5; Gov. Code §§ 11523, 12972.

(n12)Footnote 12. For example, in fiscal year 1986-1987, 9,971 complaints ("charges") alleging discriminatory employment practices were filed with the DFEH. see Annual Report of the DFEH, July 1, 1986-June 30, 1987. During that period of time, the DFEH issued 165 accusations, and the FEHC decided 22 cases.

(n13)Footnote 13. See Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 .

(n14)Footnote 14. See Gov. Code § 12990.

(n15)Footnote 15. See Gov. Code § 12990(f).

(n16)Footnote 16. Civ. Code § 51.

(n17)Footnote 17. Civ. Code §§ 51.7, 52(f); Gov. Code § 12948.

(n18)Footnote 18. See Gov. Code § 12948.

(n19)Footnote 19. Civ. Code § 52(e).

(n20)Footnote 20. See, e.g., Isbister v. Boys' Club of Santa Cruz, Inc. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 72, 78-85, 219 Cal. Rptr. 150, 707 P.2d 212 ; see also Marina Point Ltd. v. Wolfson (1982) 30 Cal.3d 721, 730-736, 180 Cal. Rptr. 496, 640 P.2d 115 (Unruh Act's prohibition against arbitrary discrimination includes not only express bases of sex, race, color, religion, ancestry, and national origin, but also discrimination against families with children).

(n21)Footnote 21. Alcorn v. Ambro Engineering, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 497-498, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216 .

(n22)Footnote 22. Alcorn v. Ambro Engineering, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 497-498, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216 (fact that FEPA, precursor to FEHA, and Unruh Act were enacted concurrently and FEPA protects employees further establishes legislative intent that Unruh Act was not meant to apply to employment); see Isbister v. Boys' Club of Santa Cruz, Inc. (1985) 40 Cal. 3d 72, 83 n.12, 219 Cal. Rptr. 150, 707 P.2d 212 . In a subsequent precedential opinion, the FEHC applied the reasoning of Alcorn and Isbister and held that individuals who claimed to be discriminated against in independent contractor relationships had no remedy under either the FEHA or the Unruh Act. see DFEH v. Children's Hospital & Health Center (1987) FEHC Dec. No. 87-24 at pp. 8-9.

(n23)Footnote 23. Civ. Code § 51.7.

(n24)Footnote 24. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 59 (June 1, 1987).

(n25)Footnote 25. Gov. Code § 12940 et seq.

(n26)Footnote 26. See Gov. Code § 12948.

(n27)Footnote 27. Civ. Code § 51.

(n28)Footnote 28. See Alcorn v. Ambro Engineering, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 497-498, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216 .

(n29)Footnote 29. See Lab. Code § 1197.5.

(n30)Footnote 30. Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 770, 773, 130 Cal. Rptr. 123 .

(n31)Footnote 31. See Lab. Code §§ 98.7, 1197.5(c).

(n32)Footnote 32. 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-2000e-17; see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5.

(n33)Footnote 33. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.; see § 12117.

(n34)Footnote 34. 29 U.S.C. §§ 621-634; see 29 U.S.C. § 626(a), (d); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1626.4, 1626.15; see also Pub. Law 98-532 (confirming presidential reorganization giving EEOC authority over enforcement of Act).

(n35)Footnote 35. 29 U.S.C. § 206(d) (part of Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. §§ 201-219); see Pub. Law 98-532 (confirming presidential reorganization giving EEOC authority over enforcement of Act); see also 29 C.F.R. § 1620.30(a).

(n36)Footnote 36. 29 U.S.C. § 791 (requiring affirmative action by the federal government in the employment of individuals with disabilities); see 29 U.S.C. § 794a(a)(1).

(n37)Footnote 37. 42 U.S.C. § 2000d; see also 29 C.F.R. §§ 1691.6-1691.9.

(n38)Footnote 38. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b).

(n39)Footnote 39. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b).

(n40)Footnote 40. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(g)(6).

(n41)Footnote 41. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-12(a).

(n42)Footnote 42. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(g)(5).

(n43)Footnote 43. See, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(g); 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(b), 633a(c); 29 U.S.C. § 206(d); 29 U.S.C. § 794a.

(n44)Footnote 44. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f).

(n45)Footnote 45. See 29 U.S.C. § 626.

(n46)Footnote 46. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1620.33(b).

(n47)Footnote 47. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 791, 794a(a)(1).

(n48)Footnote 48. 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5(f)(2), 2000e-16; see West v. Gibson (1999) 527 U.S. 212, 119 S. Ct. 1906, 1909-1910, 144 L. Ed. 2d 196 (EEOC has authority to require federal agencies to pay compensatory damages when they discriminate in violation of Title VII).

(n49)Footnote 49. Compare EEOC v. North Hills Passavant Hosp. (3d Cir. 1976) 544 F.2d 664, 668-672 (permitting EEOC to bring a private action while a private Title VII suit is pending) with decisions limiting EEOC to permissive intervention once a private action is filed, e.g., EEOC v. Continental Oil Co. (10th Cir. 1977) 548 F.2d 884, 889-90; EEOC v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. (8th Cir. 1974) 493 F.2d 71. Other courts have held that EEOC is not barred from bringing an action if its allegations are based on violations broader than those of the private action. See, e.g., Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Kimberly-Clark Corp. (6th Cir. 1975) 511 F.2d 1352, 1363; EEOC v. Huttig Sash & Door Co. (5th Cir. 1975) 511 F.2d 453, 454-55.

(n50)Footnote 50. EEOC v. Pacific Press Pub. (9th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 1182, 1186.

(n51)Footnote 51. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1).

(n52)Footnote 52. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1).

(n53)Footnote 53. 29 U.S.C. §§ 621-634.

(n54)Footnote 54. 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1); cf. Burns v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. of U.S. (2d Cir. 1982) 696 F.2d 21, 24, cert. denied, 464 U.S. 933 (1983) (pending private action under the ADEA not preempted by later filed EEOC suit).

(n55)Footnote 55. EEOC Office of Communications and Legislative Affairs, Washington, D.C.

(n56)Footnote 56. For general discussion of Order, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n57)Footnote 57. See 38 U.S.C. §§ 2011 et seq. For general discussion, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n58)Footnote 58. See 29 U.S.C. § 793. For general discussion of Act, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n59)Footnote 59. See Exec. Order No. 11246, § 209.

(n60)Footnote 60. 42 U.S.C. § 2000d-2000d-4.

(n61)Footnote 61. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1691.1-1691.13.

(n62)Footnote 62. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1691.6-1691.9.

(n63)Footnote 63. 29 U.S.C. § 794. For further discussion of Section 504, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n64)Footnote 64. See 28 C.F.R. §§ 41.1-41.58.

(n65)Footnote 65. See 29 U.S.C. § 794(a). For discussion, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n66)Footnote 66. See CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 637, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568 .

(n67)Footnote 67. 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981, 1983, 1985. For further discussion, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n68)Footnote 68. See discussion in § 42.03[2].

(n69)Footnote 69. See, e.g., University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 796-799, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; Eilrich v. Remas (9th Cir. 1988) 839 F.2d 630, 632-635 , cert. denied, 488 U.S. 819 (1988) .

126 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. INTRODUCTION

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.02

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.02 Factors Influencing Choice of Forum

[1] Generally

The EEOC and DFEH are parties to a worksharing agreement,ⁿ¹ which provides that if a claim is filed with one agency it will be transmitted to the other agency for filing.ⁿ² The agency that initially receives the claim processes it unless it lacks subject matter jurisdiction.ⁿ³ Because of the dual filing, however, an aggrieved individual may obtain a notice of right to sue from either the EEOC or the DFEH, regardless of which agency received the charge first.ⁿ⁴ An EEOC right-to-sue letter authorizes the charging party to file a Title VII action in either federal or state court.ⁿ⁵ A DFEH right-to-sue letter authorizes the charging party to file an FEHA action either in state court or as a pendant claim to a Title VII action in federal court.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

As a practical matter, if one agency issues a right-to-sue letter, it so notifies the other agency, which then issues its own. However, a charging party who wishes to pursue both FEHA and Title VII claims in state court should be sure that he or she receives right-to-sue letters from both agencies. A DFEH right-to-sue letter is required to sue under the FEHA,ⁿ⁶ and although state courts have concurrent jurisdiction to hear Title VII claims,ⁿ⁷ an EEOC right-to-sue letter is still required for such claims. Counsel should also keep in mind that an EEOC right-to-sue letter is valid only for 90 days,ⁿ⁸ and thus a charging party who wishes to sue under both Title VII and the FEHA in state court must file a complaint within that limitations period, even though a DFEH right-to-sue letter is valid for one year.ⁿ⁹ Commentary by Erica B. Grubb, Kirby Wilcox, and David M. Youngsmith.

[2] Differences in Coverage

In some circumstances, the choice of administrative forums is limited because of differences in coverage between state and federal statutes. For example, state and federal statutes contain different definitions of "employer." The FEHA generally applies to private employers who regularly employ five or more employees and the state and its political or civil subdivisions and cities,ⁿ¹⁰ except that its prohibition of harassment because of race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, or age applies to employers of one or more employees.ⁿ¹¹ Federal government agencies are not subject to the FEHA.ⁿ¹² By contrast, Title VII applies to employers of 15 or more employees, including federal government agencies, except for several specific statutory exclusions.ⁿ¹³ and the ADEA applies to employers of 20 or more employees.ⁿ¹⁴ The ADA applies to employers with 15 or more employees.ⁿ¹⁵

As another example, the pregnancy discrimination provisions of Title VII differ from those of the FEHA. The Pregnancy Discrimination Amendment to Title VII defines sex discrimination to include discrimination on the basis of pregnancy and also provides that women affected by pregnancy or pregnancy-related conditions must be treated, for employment-related purposes, the same as nonpregnant persons with similar inability to work.ⁿ¹⁶ However, Title VII does not require an employer to provide medical disability leave to a pregnant employee unless it is available to nonpregnant employees.ⁿ¹⁷

The FEHA, by contrast, contains a detailed set of prohibitions against pregnancy-based discrimination,ⁿ¹⁸ and includes a requirement that employers provide medical disability leave to pregnant employees for a reasonable period of time, provided the period does not exceed four months.ⁿ¹⁹ The employee is entitled to use any accrued vacation leave during this period of time.ⁿ²⁰ Reasonable period of time means that period during which the female employee is disabled on account of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions.ⁿ²¹

For additionalⁿ²² discussion of provisions relating to pregnancy discrimination and leaves, see Chapter 41, Parts B and D. For full discussion of the scope of coverage of the different equal employment opportunity laws, see Chapter 40.

[3] Relief Available Under Federal and State Law

One of the most significant factors influencing an aggrieved party's choice of forum is the availability of different relief under California and federal law. Punitive damages and compensatory damages (such as damages for mental suffering and emotional distress), are available in FEHA civil actions.ⁿ²³ By contrast, in administrative proceedings before the FEHC, compensatory damages are subject to a statutory limit.ⁿ²⁴ In addition, the FEHC may not award punitive damages to the complaining party,ⁿ²⁵ but may assess an administrative fine against the respondent in cases involving fraud, oppression, or malice, which is deposited in the state's General Fund and is subject to a statutory maximum amount.^{n25.1} For further discussion of the FEHC's remedial power, see § 42.39A.

Compensatory and punitive damages are available only for intentional discriminatory conduct and are limited to a statutory maximum amount under Title VII and the ADA.ⁿ²⁶ Compensatory and punitive damages are unavailable under the federal Equal Pay Actⁿ²⁷ and the ADEA,ⁿ²⁸ which allow recovery of backpay as well as equitable remedies such as declaratory or injunctive relief. Thus, if plaintiff anticipates ultimately pursuing the claim in court, the availability of such relief may influence the plaintiff's decision regarding which administrative agency to file with.

For a complete discussion of judicial remedies under state and federal equal employment opportunity laws, see Chapter 43.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In general, any case in which emotional distress is likely to be a significant factor should be brought under the FEHA (or, if applicable Title 42 United States Code Section 1981) rather than Title VII or the ADEA. This is an especially important consideration in sexual or racial harassment cases alleging hostile work environment in which no loss of tangible job benefits occurs. Although compensatory and punitive damages for intentional discrimination are now permitted in civil actions under Title VII as a result of the Civil Rights Act of 1991,ⁿ²⁹ there is a statutory cap on the amount of such damages.ⁿ³⁰ By contrast, the FEHA has no such cap in civil actions, and compensatory damages in FEHA actions are apparently not limited to cases of intentional discrimination. The damages limit is also inapplicable to civil actions under Section 1981.ⁿ³¹ Commentary by Dale Brodsky, Beverly Tucker, and Steven J. Revell.

[4] Limitations Periods

The FEHA requires that a complaint be filed within one year from the date of the alleged unlawful practice. However, the filing period may be extended for (1) 90 days if a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice first obtained knowledge of the facts of the alleged unlawful practice after the expiration of one year from the date of its occurrence, (2) one year following a rebutted presumption of the identity of the person's employerⁿ³² to allow the person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice to make a substitute identification of the actual employer, (3) one year from the date the person aggrieved by an alleged violation of the Ralph Civil Rights Act--guaranteeing the right to be free from violence because of specific characteristicsⁿ³³--becomes aware of the identity of a person liable for the alleged violation, but in no case exceeding three years from the date of the alleged violation if during that period the aggrieved person is unaware of the identity of any person liable for the alleged violation, or (4) one year from the date that a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice attains the age of majority.ⁿ³⁴ By contrast, Title VII and the ADA require that a charge in California be filed within 300 days after the alleged violation.ⁿ³⁵ Thus, in some cases, the longer state limitations period will determine the forum. In addition to a requirement of timely filing, Title VII and the ADA also require that charges in so-called "deferral states,"ⁿ³⁶ including California, be filed initially with the administrative agency charged with enforcing the state anti-discrimination law.ⁿ³⁷ For discussion of deferral to state agencies, see § 42.63.

Under the FEHA, a complainant may bring suit in state court within one year after receiving a notice of right to sue.ⁿ³⁸ which is subject to tolling during the pendency of administrative proceedings before the EEOC.ⁿ³⁹ The corresponding period under Title VII and the ADA is only 90 days.ⁿ⁴⁰

[5] Time Required for Resolving Cases

The speed of initial processing of a DFEH complaint relative to an EEOC charge could be a strong factor in determining choice of forum. The FEHA provides two limits on the time within which the enforcement agency must complete processing of charges; Title VII provides none. First, the DFEH must complete its investigation, make a determination, attempt conciliation, and issue an accusationⁿ⁴¹ within two years after the filing of "group or class complaints" or a complaint alleging a violation of Civil Code Section 51.7, and within one year for all other complaints.ⁿ⁴² If no accusation issues within the statutory time limits, the DFEH closes its file on a case.ⁿ⁴³ In addition, if the DFEH does not issue an accusation within 150 days, it must notify the person claiming to be aggrieved that on his or her request the DFEH will issue a right-to-sue letter.ⁿ⁴⁴ If the person claiming to be aggrieved does not request the right-to-sue letter, the DFEH must issue the notice on completion of its investigation, and not later than one year after the complaint was filed.ⁿ⁴⁵

In contrast, the EEOC has no time limit for processing charges, and the EEOC may take several years to reach a determination, issue a right to sue notice, or bring a court action.ⁿ⁴⁶ A large "backlog" of old unresolved cases has been a persistent problem for the agency.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In 1988, the average processing time for a charge filed in the Los Angeles office of the EEOC was approximately two years. It is a good practice to inquire about processing time and the hierarchy of processing priorities, and to ascertain if the particular charge is one that is entitled to priority processing.

An alternative available to a complainant who wishes to seek a Title VII judicial remedy but who wishes to avoid extended EEOC processing is to request an early right-to-sue letterⁿ⁴⁷ and to proceed to federal court. Such an option should only be pursued by a complainant who has counsel that is able to immediately prosecute the judicial action. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[6] Availability of Counsel

The availability of legal counsel is another consideration that may influence the choice of forum. An aggrieved party who is not represented by counsel depends on the administrative agency to obtain relief. For such an individual, the possibility of obtaining an award of compensatory damages under the FEHA from the FEHC without the necessity of going to courtⁿ⁴⁸ may be the determining factor in choosing a state rather than a federal remedy.ⁿ⁴⁹ Although an aggrieved party may bring an action in state or federal court without being represented by an attorney, such a litigant faces an uphill battle.

Title VII and the ADA provide for appointment of counsel in certain cases. On application by the complainant and in such circumstances as the court may deem just, the court may appoint an attorney for the complainant and may authorize the commencement of the action without the payment of fees, costs, or security.ⁿ⁵⁰ Appointment of counsel and waiver of fees are at the court's discretion, subject to consideration of efforts made by the aggrieved party to secure counsel, the aggrieved party's financial resources, and whether the aggrieved party's claim is meritorious.ⁿ⁵¹ There is no provision in California law for appointment of counsel in proceedings under the FEHA.

In addition to the Title VII provision for court appointment of counsel, the EEOC has made efforts to develop a private bar skilled in handling Title VII cases. Each EEOC district office is responsible for developing a "panel" of private attorneys who are available to review case files and provide legal assistance to aggrieved parties who may wish to file Title VII actions.ⁿ⁵² To become a member of a panel an attorney must complete EEOC Form 325 and must agree to make a decision to accept or reject a case referred by the EEOC within 10 days.ⁿ⁵³ The EEOC also provides educational materials to panel members and the private bar including draft complaints and interrogatories and a Title VII checklist for preparing a case.ⁿ⁵⁴ The DFEH does not provide assistance to aggrieved parties in securing private counsel.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Although Title VII provides for the appointment of counsel at the discretion of the court, Congress has never appropriated funds to reimburse appointed counsel or to provide for their costs and expenses. Some district courts, such as the Northern District of California, have developed mechanisms for identifying counsel interested in such appointments. Local bar groups and civil rights organizations also may provide referrals. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure
Venue
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Wage & Hour Laws
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Wage & Hour Laws
Statutory Application
Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
Public Health & Welfare Law
Housing & Public Buildings
Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement Between California Department of Fair Employment and Housing and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(3),(4), (b); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.2. For discussion of worksharing agreement, see §§ 42.24, 42.63.

(n3)Footnote 3. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.2.

(n4)Footnote 4. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 6.7. For discussion, see §§ 42.25[3][c] and 42.71.

(n5)Footnote 5. See Yellow Freight Sys. v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 821, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834 .

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. See Yellow Freight Sys. v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 821, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834 .

(n8)Footnote 8. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1).

(n9)Footnote 9. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n10)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12926(d); see Robinson v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 226, 234-243, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 782, 825 P.2d 767 (number of employees on payroll is determinative of whether employer "regularly employs" five or more employees). For general discussion of coverage of FEHA, see Ch. 40, pt. B.

(n11)Footnote 11. Gov. Code § 12940(j).

(n12)Footnote 12. Gov. Code §§ 12926(d), 12940(j).

(n13)Footnote 13. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(b) (employers excluded include the U.S. government or corporations wholly owned by the U.S. government, Indian tribes, certain departments or agencies of the District of Columbia, and certain bona fide private membership clubs). For full discussion of employers covered and exempted under Title VII, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n14)Footnote 14. 29 U.S.C. § 630(b). For discussion of coverage of ADEA, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n15)Footnote 15. 42 U.S.C. § 12111(5)(A).

(n16)Footnote 16. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(k).

(n17)Footnote 17. See 29 C.F.R. § 1604.10(b).

(n18)Footnote 18. See Gov. Code §§ 12926(p), 12945.

(n19)Footnote 19. Gov. Code § 12945(a).

(n20)Footnote 20. Gov. Code § 12945(a).

(n21)Footnote 21. Gov. Code § 12945(a).

(n22)Footnote 22. [Reserved]

(n23)Footnote 23. See Peralta Community College Dist. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 40, 48, 276 Cal. Rptr. 114, 801 P.2d 357 ; Commodore Home Sys., Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 .

(n24)Footnote 24. See Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3).

(n25)Footnote 25. See Gov. Code § 12970(d).

(n26)Footnote 25.1. See Gov. Code § 12970(c), (d).

(n27)Footnote 26. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a), (b)(3); see also Pavon v. Swift Transp. Co (9th Cir. 1999) 192 F.3d

902, 910 (Title VII's damage cap does not limit damages under theories such as 42 U.S.C. § 1981 and state common law claims; excess damages over statutory maximum could be attributed to non-Title VII claims).

(n28)Footnote 27. See Altman v. Stevens Fashion Fabrics (N.D. Cal. 1977) 441 F. Supp. 1318, 1320 ; see also 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n29)Footnote 28. See Hill v. Spiegel, Inc. (6th Cir. 1983) 708 F.2d 233, 236 ; Pfeiffer v. Essex Wire Corp. (7th Cir. 1982) 682 F.2d 684, 688 ; Slatin v. Stanford Research Institute (4th Cir. 1979) 590 F.2d 1292, 1296 ; Vazquez v. Eastern Air Lines, Inc. (1st Cir. 1978) 579 F.2d 107, 112 ; Dean v. American Sec. Ins. Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 1036, 1040 ; Sant v. Mack Trucks, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1976) 424 F. Supp. 621, 622 ; but see Hassan v. Delta Orthopedic Medical Group, Inc. (E.D. Cal. 1979) 476 F. Supp. 1063, 1065 ; Flynn v. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of N.Y. (E.D.N.Y. 1979) 463 F. Supp. 676, 679 ; Combes v. Griffin Television, Inc. (W.D. Okla. 1976) 421 F. Supp. 841, 847 (allowing recovery under ADEA for pain and suffering).

(n30)Footnote 29. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a), (b)(1).

(n31)Footnote 30. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3).

(n32)Footnote 31. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(4).

(n33)Footnote 32. Gov. Code § 12928.

(n34)Footnote 33. Civil Code Section 51.7; see Ch. 40, § 40.12[2].

(n35)Footnote 34. Gov. Code § 12960.

(n36)Footnote 35. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA). For detailed discussion of timeliness of EEOC charges and tolling of limitation periods, see § 42.62[3].

(n37)Footnote 36. State and local agencies are designated as "FEP agencies" or "deferral agencies" if the state anti-discrimination statute provides protection substantially equal to that afforded by Title VII. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.70 (EEOC procedural regulation); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n38)Footnote 37. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (operative July 26, 1992; procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n39)Footnote 38. Gov. Code § 12965(b). See Salgado v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 1322, 1324-1325, disapproved on other grounds, Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 81-82, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 (§ 12695 statute of limitations is not jurisdictional and therefore subject to equitable tolling); Downs v. Department of Water & Power (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1099-1102, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590 (one-year time limit of Gov. Code § 12965(b) may be equitably tolled during pendency of administrative proceedings before EEOC); See also § 43.01[4].

(n40)Footnote 39. See Gov. Code § 12965(d), (e).

(n41)Footnote 40. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA). For discussion, see § 42.23[2].

(n42)Footnote 41. An accusation is equivalent to a complaint in a court proceeding and initiates the process that leads to an administrative hearing. see Gov. Code § 12965(a). For discussion of accusation, see § 42.32.

(n43)Footnote 42. Gov. Code § 12965(a).

(n44)Footnote 43. DFEH Field Operations Directive No. 30(1/23/82).

(n45)Footnote 44. Gov. Code § 12965(b). For discussion of right-to-sue letters, see § 42.25[3][c].

(n46)Footnote 45. Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n47)Footnote 46. See, e.g., Brown v. Continental Can Co. (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 810, 812 (six years from filing of charge until issuance of right to sue letter; Equal Emp. Opportunity Comm'n v. Alioto Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1980) 623 F.2d 86 (suit filed by EEOC five years after charge filed); EEOC v. Indiana Bell Telephone Co. (S.D. Ind. 1986) 641 F. Supp. 115, 117 (suit filed by EEOC nine years after charge filed); Equal Emp. Opportunity Comm'n v. C&D Sportswear Corp. (M.D. Ga. 1975) 398 F. Supp. 300, 302 (suit filed six years after charge filed.)

(n48)Footnote 47. For form of right-to-sue letter issued on request, see § 42.71[3][b].

(n49)Footnote 48. For discussion of available FEHC remedies under FEHA, see § 42.39A.

(n50)Footnote 49. For comparison of relief available under state and federal law, see [3], above.

(n51)Footnote 50. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n52)Footnote 51. Darden v. Illinois Bell Tel. Co. (7th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 497, 501; Bradshaw v. Zoological Soc. of San Diego (9th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 1301, 1318-1320.

(n53)Footnote 52. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 81.1-81.10.

(n54)Footnote 53. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 81.3(a),(e).

(n55)Footnote 54. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 81.6.

127 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. INTRODUCTION

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.03

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.03 Preclusive Effects of Administrative Adjudications and Court Judgments

[1] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Generally

In determining whether to pursue a judicial or administrative remedy for employment discrimination, the complainant should also consider the impact of a determination in that forum on subsequent proceedings. Res judicata and collateral estoppel, or claim and issue preclusion, as they are respectively known,ⁿ¹ dictate the effect that a prior judgment has on a subsequent action. Res judicata precludes parties, or persons "in privity" with a party, from relitigating a cause of action that has been finally determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.ⁿ² Collateral estoppel bars the relitigation of issues rather than claims.ⁿ³ Collateral estoppel, or issue preclusion, has sometimes been referred to as a "secondary aspect" of the res judicata doctrine, and court decisions and commentators often do not distinguish between the two doctrines.ⁿ⁴

Under California law, res judicata precludes a plaintiff from litigating a claim if (1) it relates to the same primary right as a claim in a prior action, (2) the prior judgment was final and on the merits, and (3) the plaintiff was a party or in privity with a party in the prior action.ⁿ⁵ Collateral estoppel precludes a plaintiff from relitigating an issue if (1) the issue in the subsequent action is identical to that decided previously, (2) the prior judgment was final and on the merits, and (3) the plaintiff was a party or in privity with a party in the prior action.ⁿ⁶ In addition, the party against whom either doctrine is asserted must have had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the claim or issue in question.ⁿ⁷ Collateral estoppel also generally applies to prior administrative determinations when the agency acted in a judicial capacity and resolved disputed issues of fact that were properly before it and that the parties had an adequate opportunity to litigate.ⁿ⁸ For discussion of application of preclusion principles to prior administrative findings in the context of Title VII or Reconstruction Era Civil Rights actions, see discussions in [2][a][i] and [2][b][i], below, respectively.

For purposes of the res judicata requirement that the subsequent action be based on the same cause of action as that in the prior suit, the courts look to whether the same "primary right" is involved, not to the particular legal theory or label used in the litigation.ⁿ⁹ Thus, in an employment discrimination case, whether the cause of action relies on federal or state anti-discrimination laws, the alleged injury is the same, and a second action may be precluded if the claim has already been fully litigated in another forum.¹⁰

In Frank v. United Airlines, Inc.,^{10.1} the Ninth Circuit held that a 1979 district court case brought on behalf of the class of past, present, and future flight attendants which had resulted in a finding that weight standards were not facially discriminatory but were discriminatorily applied, did not preclude the claims asserted in Frank.^{10.2} In the 1979 case, Air Line Pilots Ass'n Int'l ("ALPA") v. United Air Lines, Inc.,^{10.3} plaintiffs had claimed on behalf of a class of United flight attendants that United's 1977 weight policy discriminated against female flight attendants, in violation of Title VII. The district court certified a Rule 23(b)(2) class defined as all female flight attendants who are employed by United or who may become so employed in the future, and all former female flight attendants who were employed by United on or after October 14, 1971 and were suspended, removed from service, or terminated by United for failure to meet United's flight attendant weight standards.^{10.4} The district court in ALPA found that United's weight standards were not facially discriminatory, but that United had discriminated in applying those standards.^{10.5} After entry of judgment and while cross-appeals were still available, the parties settled the litigation. Plaintiffs agreed not to appeal the district court's holding that the 1977 weight policy was not facially discriminatory. The terms of the settlement were described in a letter to the district court, but the court was never asked to approve the settlement, as it would have been required to do under Rule 23(e) if the parties had entered into the same settlement prior to entry of judgment.

In Frank, plaintiffs sued United Airlines, Inc., on behalf of a class of female flight attendants to challenge the weight requirements United imposed upon flight attendants from 1980 to 1994, requirements based on sex, height, and age. Failure to maintain weight below the applicable maximum subjected a flight attendant to various forms of discipline, including suspension without pay and termination.^{10.6} The Ninth Circuit held that Frank was not precluded by ALPA because:^{10.7}

- Plaintiffs in Frank asserted claims based on alleged Title VII violations arising after 1980, and a claim arising after the date of an earlier judgment is not barred, even if it arises out of a continuing course of conduct that provided the basis for the earlier claim;^{10.8}
- The criterion in determining whether there is an identity of claims between the first and second adjudications, "whether the two suits arise out of the same transactional nucleus of facts," was not met because plaintiffs' Title VII claim is based on a different weight policy from that challenged in ALPA;^{10.9}
- Notice in ALPA was not sufficient under Rule 23 to preclude monetary claims in later suits, for the class in ALPA was certified and given notice as a Rule 23(b)(2) "injunction" class action, whereas the present suit was a Rule 23(b)(3) "damages" class action, which requires a higher standard of notice to the class that was not met in ALPA;^{10.10}
- The post-judgment settlement in ALPA was not incorporated into a judgment and therefore cannot have preclusive effect,^{10.11} but even if it were a judgment, it cannot be known whether it sufficiently protected the interests of the unnamed class members because a Rule 23(e) proceeding was not held; and
- The terms of the settlement in ALPA appear not to protect the interests of flight attendants, such as plaintiffs in this case, who might later have been subjected to discipline for failing to comply with United's post-settlement weight restrictions because the class representatives in ALPA failed to appeal the district court's decision that United's weight policy did not facially discriminate on the basis of sex, and elected, instead, to accept reinstatement and back pay. Female flight attendants who were then employed and had not previously been adversely affected by the weight limits, but who might have been so affected in the future, had an interest in appealing the district court's order on the legality of United's policy and no interest in obtaining reinstatement and back pay.

Application of the collateral estoppel doctrine frequently turns on whether or not the identical issue was adjudicated in the prior action. In Garrett v. City and County of San Francisco,ⁿ¹¹ for example, the facts involved a plaintiff who was fired from his job with the San Francisco Fire Department for allegedly having stolen property from the scene of a fire. He challenged the termination before the Civil Service Commission, which upheld the termination based on a finding that plaintiff had violated the Fire Department's rules. Plaintiff then sought judicial review, and the court of appeal held that the Civil Service Commission had not abused its discretion. Subsequently, the plaintiff brought a Title VII action in federal court, claiming that white employees who had violated Fire Department rules had not been as severely punished as he had been. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals concluded that the state court's review did not address the issue of race discrimination, and, for that reason, collateral estoppel did not preclude the plaintiff's subsequent federal Title VII action.ⁿ¹²

In another case,ⁿ¹³ the plaintiff challenged her termination before the city's civil service commission and, thereafter, filed an action in superior court alleging intentional infliction of emotional distress, sex discrimination under Title VIIⁿ¹⁴ and the FEHA,^{n14.1} violations of 42 U.S.C. §§ 1983 and 1985, and violation of public policy. The trial court dismissed all of the claims by demurrer and summary judgment. The appellate court sustained the dismissal of the emotional distress and public policy claims on the ground that both derived from the termination of the plaintiff and that the plaintiff had litigated her termination before the civil service commission to a final and binding conclusion. The appellate panel also sustained the dismissal of the Title 42 claims on the ground that they could have been raised before the commission. The appellate panel, however, reinstated the claims for sex discrimination on the grounds, among others, that the sex discrimination predated (and was not part of) the termination and that Congress did not intend unreviewed state administrative proceedings to have preclusive effect on Title VII claims.^{n14.2}

With regard to public employees, if internal remedies such as appeal to the civil service commission are available, a plaintiff must exhaust his or her administrative remedies first, but then proceed immediately to exhaust judicial remedies in order to prevent an administrative adjudication from becoming binding.^{n14.3} If the administrative finding is upheld or never challenged judicially, it may be binding on discrimination claims under the FEHA,^{n14.4} if all other requirements for issue preclusion are met.^{n14.5} For example, in Risam v. County of Los Angeles,^{n14.6} a county employee filed a grievance before the county Civil Service Commission to protest a demotion, allegedly in retaliation for sexual harassment complaints against supervisors. As part of his findings of fact and conclusions of law, the hearing officer decided that plaintiff had failed to present sufficient evidence to prove any violation of the ADA or FEHA. The employee did not file either timely objections or a petition for writ of administrative mandamus to challenge that conclusion. While the administrative hearing was ongoing, the employee filed a discrimination complaint with DFEH, alleging that she was demoted because of her sex, physical disability, and in retaliation for filing a complaint and protesting regarding discriminatory practices. The DFEH issued a right-to-sue letter, and the employee filed an action in state court. The court found that the previous administrative decision resulted in a final decision on the merits of the employee's claim for retaliatory demotion, which she could have--but did not--challenged by a petition for a writ of administrative mandate. The issue had been clearly before the hearing officer, and in light of the hearing officer's conclusion of law that the employee failed to present evidence sufficient to prove any violation of FEHA, it was implicit that he also made the factual finding that such evidence was not presented.^{n14.7}

The "privity" requirement "is a concept not readily susceptible to uniform definition."ⁿ¹⁵ Privity exists when one person's interests are so identified with another as to represent the same legal rightⁿ¹⁶ or when the relationship between the prior unsuccessful litigant is "sufficiently close" to justify application of the doctrine.ⁿ¹⁷ However, a person in privity with a party to a prior action is only bound by the earlier action if his or her interests were adequately represented.ⁿ¹⁸

Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara ⁿ¹⁹ addresses many of the issues that arise concerning res judicata and collateral estoppel in the employment discrimination context. In that case, the plaintiff had filed an administrative complaint with the DFEH, alleging that the County of Santa Clara had unlawfully terminated his employment for failing a discriminatory exam. After a hearing, an administrative law judge found discrimination and awarded the plaintiff back pay through the date of the discharge. The FEHC adopted this order, except that it extended the award of back pay to the time of its decision. It refused to order the reinstatement that plaintiff requested. The County filed a petition for writ of mandate in superior court, and on review that court reversed the FEHC's decision, finding that no discrimination had occurred. The plaintiff did not appeal the superior court decision, but the FEHC did appeal. The court of appeal reversed the trial court's decision but awarded damages in a lower amount than the FEHC had ordered. Neither the County nor the plaintiff appealed this decision. However, before the conclusion of the state court proceedings, the plaintiff filed an action in federal court seeking, among other things, reinstatement, full damages, and attorney's fees under Title VII. The district court granted the County's summary judgment motion on the ground that res judicata barred the plaintiff's federal claims. Affirming the lower court's decision, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals declined to apply res judicata to the Title VII claim because the state court did not have jurisdiction over the Title VII claim,ⁿ²⁰ but held that certain issues in the federal action were precluded by collateral estoppel.ⁿ²¹ The court found privity between the plaintiff and the FEHC because the FEHC was clearly authorized to proceed against the employer on plaintiff's behalf, the plaintiff unquestionably had an interest in the outcome of the administrative proceedings, and the plaintiff was a party to the superior court proceedings because he responded to the petition as the real party in interest and filed a memorandum in support of his objections to both the County's petition and the FEHC's decision.ⁿ²²

■ PRACTICE TIP:

As further discussed in [2], below, res judicata and collateral estoppel apply only if there is an initial determination. Often there is no initial determination because the agency merely closes the files or a right-to-sue letter is issued prior to a determination being made. A complainant who anticipates an adverse determination may consider avoiding the determination by terminating the proceeding prior to an adverse determination (for example, requesting a right-to-sue letter)ⁿ²³ in order to preserve subsequent remedies.

It is also important to bear in mind that most administrative proceedings do not conclude with a determination as such. Most proceedings that reach the merits conclude with a prosecutorial assessment of probable cause to believe or not to believe that the claim is meritorious after an investigation. This is the case with EEOC probable cause finding and DFEH accusation decisions. There is no hearing as such comparable to a judicial proceeding. Such assessments do not constitute initial determinations with possible preclusive effects. Only FEHC adjudications constitute such determinations, and such adjudications are statistically rare. The practical scope of preclusion is, therefore, quite narrow.

Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[2] Preclusive Effect of State Proceedings

[a] On Title VII Proceedings

[i] Unreviewed Administrative Agency Determinations

The doctrines of claim and issue preclusion do not bar a plaintiff from bringing a Title VII action in federal court or an FEHA action in state court after obtaining a nonjudicially reviewed determination by the EEOC or a state administrative agency.ⁿ²⁴ The U.S. Supreme Court held in University of Tennessee v. Elliott ⁿ²⁵ that a prior unreviewed administrative proceeding does not preclude a later Title VII claim because it would not make sense for Congress to provide in Title VII that EEOC investigations must give substantial weight to state or local findings of factⁿ²⁶ if the federal court hearing the subsequent action would have to give preclusive effect to those same findings.ⁿ²⁷ In addition, the legislative history of Title VII clearly reflects Congress' intent to afford complaining parties the right to a trial de novo in federal court.ⁿ²⁸

However, with regard to actions under the Reconstruction civil rights statutes, Title 42 United States Code sections 1981 and 1983, the Supreme Court has held that fact-finding by administrative agencies acting in a judicial capacity may have a preclusive effect, even if the administrative decision is not judicially reviewed.ⁿ²⁹

■ PRACTICE TIP:

A complainant who receives an adverse administrative determination must decide whether to seek judicial review of the determination or to seek an independent Title VII remedy unencumbered by the preclusive effect of the judicially-affirmed administrative determination. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[ii] State Court Actions

Although an unreviewed administrative agency determination has no preclusive effect on a later Title VII court action,ⁿ³⁰ a state court judgment may bar a subsequent federal Title VII action.ⁿ³¹ In Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp.,ⁿ³² the plaintiff had brought an administrative action before the state deferral agency, which concluded that the employer had not discriminated against plaintiff. A state trial court upheld that determination and plaintiff did not seek further review in state court, but instead, brought suit in federal court under Title VII. The Court held that under Title 28 United States Code, Section 1738, federal courts are required to give the same preclusive effect to a state court judgment as that judgment would have in the state in which it was rendered.ⁿ³³

Thus, the preclusive effect of a state court judgment in federal court depends on the law of the state in which the judgment was rendered.ⁿ³⁴ Under California law, superior court review of an FEHC decision, based on a petition for writ of mandate, is a final decision on the merits for purposes of collateral estoppel and res judicata.ⁿ³⁵

[b] On Reconstruction Era Civil Rights Actions

[i] Unreviewed Administrative Agency Determinations

In University of Tennessee v. Elliott,ⁿ³⁶ the U.S. Supreme Court held that, in actions under the Reconstruction Era civil rights statutes,ⁿ³⁷ federal courts must accord a state agency's fact-finding the same preclusive effect to which it would be entitled in state court whenever the agency acts in a judicial capacity and the parties have had an adequate opportunity to litigate the claim.ⁿ³⁸ Applying the principles enunciated in Elliott, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that a plaintiff's Section 1983 civil rights claim brought in federal district court was barred by collateral estoppel because the same issues had been previously resolved in a state administrative proceeding from which the plaintiff could have sought judicial review by writ of mandate.ⁿ³⁹ A California court of appealⁿ⁴⁰ also held that a plaintiff's federal civil rights claims under Title 42 United States Code, sections 1983 and 1985, were precluded by res judicata because she failed to raise the issue at a hearing before the city civil service commission and did not seek administrative mandamus. The court found that the plaintiff was seeking to remedy the same primary right in court that was at stake at the administrative hearing, and her failure to raise the issue at the hearing or to seek administrative review rendered the issue final and binding.ⁿ⁴¹

[ii] State Court Actions

The United States Supreme Court has held that issues litigated in state court under the Reconstruction Era Civil Rights statutes, Title 42, United States Code, Sections 1981, 1983, and 1985, are entitled to the same collateral estoppel effect in a subsequent federal action that they would have been entitled to in courts of that state.ⁿ⁴² In Migra v. Warren City School Dist. Bd. of Ed.,ⁿ⁴³ the Court further held that petitioner's Section 1983 claim, which could have been, but was not actually, litigated in state court, was barred by principles of res judicata and could not be brought in federal court.

[c] On ADEA Actions

Relying on the rationale in University of Tennessee v. Elliott,ⁿ⁴⁴ the United States Supreme Court has held that judicially unreviewed findings of a state administrative agency also do not preclude subsequent ADEA proceedings.ⁿ⁴⁵

[3] Preclusive Effect of Judgment in Title VII Action on State Court Proceedings

A plaintiff who obtains a judgment or court-ordered settlement in a federal Title VII action cannot bring a subsequent FEHA civil action in state court based on the same events.ⁿ⁴⁶ The plaintiff in *Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc.*ⁿ⁴⁷ had been an unnamed class member in a Title VII class action in which a settlement was ordered pursuant to a consent decree. She had previously filed objections to the settlement and did not participate in the pay fund. Nonetheless, the California court of appeal held that res judicata barred her from pursuing a state remedy under the FEHA, explaining that the plaintiff could have challenged the settlement agreement by directly appealing the district court's order.ⁿ⁴⁸

Similarly, a Title VII judgment in federal court is a res judicata bar to a subsequent state-law claim for wrongful termination based on the same facts. Both actions involve the same primary right, namely the right to employment.ⁿ⁴⁹ For discussion of state-law wrongful termination claims, see Chapter 60.

[4] Preclusive Effect of Judgment in Action Brought by EEOC on Action Brought by Private Plaintiff

In actions brought by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ("EEOC") under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 ("Title VII"),ⁿ⁵⁰ the EEOC is not a proxy for private plaintiffs. Thus, EEOC judgments do not automatically have res judicata effect on subsequent actions by private plaintiffs.ⁿ⁵¹ On the other hand, ADEA actions brought by the EEOC may bar subsequent state actions because the ADEA cuts off the aggrieved individual's right to sue once the EEOC brings an action.ⁿ⁵² However, one California court of appeal has held that if plaintiff files a state action before the EEOC files an ADEA action, the private plaintiff's right to sue does not automatically terminate,ⁿ⁵³ and res judicata does not necessarily apply.ⁿ⁵⁴ In Victa v. Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc.,ⁿ⁵⁵ the court held the judgment in the EEOC case did not bar the previously-filed state action because the plaintiff was not in privity with the EEOC. That is, the plaintiff had no control over the EEOC's case and did not participate in it, other than to be available for deposition by the defendant, and the EEOC had pursued its case for the benefit of the public and not for the plaintiff's personal interest.ⁿ⁵⁶

For discussion of the EEOC's authority to bring civil actions for violation of federal discrimination laws, see § 42.73[1], [3].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsEstoppelCollateral EstoppelCivil
ProcedureJudgmentsPreclusion & Effect of JudgmentsRes JudicataLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See, e.g., Allen v. McCurry (1980) 449 U.S. 90, 94 n.5, 101 S. Ct. 411, 66 L. Ed. 2d 308 .

(n2)Footnote 2. Clark v. Leshner (1956) 46 Cal. 2d 874, 880, 299 P.2d 865 ; Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 427, 431, 203 Cal. Rptr. 638 ; see also Victa v. Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 454, 463, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117 (plaintiff was not barred by res judicata from bringing state age discrimination action under FEHA after stipulated judgment against plaintiff in federal action brought by EEOC because no privity existed between plaintiff and EEOC).

(n3)Footnote 3. See, e.g., Lawlor v. National Screen Service Corp. (1955) 349 U.S. 322, 326, 75 S. Ct. 865, 99 L. Ed. 1122 ; Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 874, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 (en banc).

(n4)Footnote 4. People v. Sims (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 468, 477, n.6, 186 Cal. Rptr. 77, 651 P.2d 321 .

(n5)Footnote 5. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1366 ; see Slater v. Blackwood (1975) 15 Cal. 3d 791, 795, 126 Cal. Rptr. 225, 543 P.2d 593 .

(n6)Footnote 6. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1369 ; Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 874, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 .

(n7)Footnote 7. Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 481, n.22, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 ; Allen v. McCurry (1980) 449 U.S. 90, 95, 101 S. Ct. 411, 66 L. Ed. 2d 308 .

(n8)Footnote 8. People v. Sims (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 468, 479, 186 Cal. Rptr. 77, 651 P.2d 321 , citing United States v. Utah Construction and Mining Co. (1966) 384 U.S. 394, 422, 86 S. Ct. 1545, 16 L. Ed. 2d 642 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 427, 432, 203 Cal. Rptr. 638 .

(n10)Footnote 10. Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 427, 432, 203 Cal. Rptr. 638 .

(n11)Footnote 10.1. Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845 .

(n12)Footnote 10.2. Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845, 851 .

(n13)Footnote 10.3. Air Line Pilots Ass'n Int'l v. United Air Lines, Inc., (1979 E.D.N.Y.); 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11790, 26 Fair Empl. Prac. Cas. (BNA) 607 .

(n14)Footnote 10.4. Air Line Pilots Ass'n Int'l v. United Air Lines, Inc., (1979 E.D.N.Y.); 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11790, 26 Fair Empl. Prac. Cas. (BNA) 607, 609 .

(n15)Footnote 10.5. Air Line Pilots Ass'n Int'l v. United Air Lines, Inc. (1979 E.D.N.Y.); 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11790, 26 Fair Empl. Prac. Cas. (BNA) 607, 615, 618, 621-622 .

(n16)Footnote 10.6. Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845, 847 .

(n17)Footnote 10.7. Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845, 851-853 .

(n18)Footnote 10.8. See Lawlor v. Nation Screen Serv. Corp. (1955) 349 U.S. 322, 328, 75 S. Ct. 865, 99 L. Ed. 1122 .

(n19)Footnote 10.9. See Costantini v. Trans World Airlines (9th Cir. 1982) 681 F.2d 1199, 1201-1202 .

(n20)Footnote 10.10. See Eisen v. Carlisle & Jacquelin (1974) 417 U.S. 156, 173, 94 S. Ct. 2140, 40 L. Ed. 2d 732

(n21)Footnote 10.11. See Hydranautics v. Filmtec Corp. (9th Cir. 2000) 204 F.3d 880, 885

(n22)Footnote 11. Garrett v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1987) 818 F.2d 1515 .

(n23)Footnote 12. Garrett v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1987) 818 F.2d 1515, 1519-1520 .

(n24)Footnote 13. See Swartzendruber v. City of San Diego (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 896, 908-911, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 64 .

(n25)Footnote 14. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.

(n26)Footnote 14.1. Gov. Code § 12940 et seq.

(n27)Footnote 14.2. See Swartzendruber v. City of San Diego (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 896, 908-911, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 64 .

(n28)Footnote 14.3. Castillo v. City of Los Angeles (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 477, 486, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 870 ; Swartzendruber v. City of San Diego (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 896, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 64 , disapproved on other grounds, Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 72, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874 .

(n29)Footnote 14.4. Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 76, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874 ; Castillo v. City of Los Angeles (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 477, 486, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 870 .

(n30)Footnote 14.5. See, e.g., Castillo v. City of Los Angeles (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 477, 484-487, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 870 (issue preclusion appropriate because city civil service had mature administrative process providing internal remedies satisfying due process requirements, employee suffered adverse finding in administrative process, and § 1094.5 petition was denied on merits).

(n31)Footnote 14.6. Risam v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 412, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 267 .

(n32)Footnote 14.7. Risam v. County of Los Angeles (2002) 99 Cal. App. 4th 412, 419-423, 121 Cal. Rptr. 2d 267 .

(n33)Footnote 15. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 875, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 .

(n34)Footnote 16. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1367 .

(n35)Footnote 17. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1979) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 875, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 .

(n36)Footnote 18. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1367, 1368 .

(n37)Footnote 19. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1359 .

(n38)Footnote 20. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1366 ; see Valenzuela v. Kraft, Inc. (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1984) 739 F.2d 434, 436 . The United States Supreme Court has since held that state courts have concurrent jurisdiction to hear Title VII claims. see Yellow Freight System v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 821, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834 .

(n39)Footnote 21. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1369 .

(n40)Footnote 22. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1367 .

(n41)Footnote 23. For form of request for right-to-sue letter, see § 42.71 [3][b].

(N42)Footnote 24. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635, 645 ; Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 470, fn. 7, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 . 102 S. Ct. 1883 .

(n43)Footnote 25. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635, 644 .

(n44)Footnote 26. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b).

(n45)Footnote 27. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635, 644 .

(n46)Footnote 28. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635, 644 ; see Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 470, fn. 7, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 ; Chandler v. Roudebush (1976) 425 U.S. 840, 863 n.39, 96 S. Ct. 1949, 48 L. Ed. 2d 416 .

(n47)Footnote 29. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; see discussion in [b][i], below.

(n48)Footnote 30. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d. 635 ; see discussion in [i], above.

(n49)Footnote 31. Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 476-478, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 .

(n50)Footnote 32. Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 .

(n51)Footnote 33. Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 466, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 .

(n52)Footnote 34. Marrese v. American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons (1985) 470 U.S. 373, 380-381, 105 S. Ct. 1327, 84 L. Ed. 2d 274 ; see also Plaine v. McCabe (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 713, 718 .

(n53)Footnote 35. Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1366 ; see Hollywood Circle, Inc. v. Dept. of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1961) 55 Cal. 2d 728, 733, 13 Cal. Rptr. 104, 361 P.2d 712 ; People v. Western Air Lines, Inc. (1954) 42 Cal. 2d 621, 630, 268 P.2d 723 , appeal dismissed, 348 U.S. 859 (per curiam) (1954). See also Takahashi v. Board of Education (1988) 202 Cal. App. 3d 1464, 1473-1842, 249 Cal. Rptr. 578 (final determination on petition for writ of mandate by public school teacher challenging an adverse employment decision by school district's Commission of Professional Competence was res judicata, and thus plaintiff could not bring a subsequent private action under FEHA involving alleged violation of the same primary right).

(n54)Footnote 36. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 .

(n55)Footnote 37. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981, 1983, 1985.

(n56)Footnote 38. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635, 646-647 .

(n57)Footnote 39. See Eilrich v. Remas (9th Cir. 1988) 839 F.2d 630, 632-635 ; cf. Gjellum v. City of Birmingham, Ala. (11th Cir. 1987) 829 F.2d 1056, 1070 (Elliott applies to issue preclusion rather than claim preclusion, and unreviewed state agency decisions do not receive claim preclusive effect in an action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, regardless of whether a state court would bar § 1983 claim; however, issue preclusion may result from state agency fact-finding under Elliott standards); see also Miller v. County of Santa Cruz (9th Cir. 1994) 39 F.3d 1030, 1038 (plaintiff's Section 1983 claims were barred by both res judicata and collateral estoppel because procedures before administrative tribunal met procedural due process requirements and were thus "judicial" in nature and because de novo judicial review was available).

(n58)Footnote 40. See Swartzendruber v. City of San Diego (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 896, 908-910, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 64 .

(n59)Footnote 41. See Swartzendruber v. City of San Diego (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 896, 908-910, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 64 .

(n60)Footnote 42. Allen v. McCurry (1980) 449 U.S. 90, 97 & n.10 .

(n61)Footnote 43. Migra v. Warren City School Dist. Bd. of Ed. (1984) 465 U.S. 75, 83-84, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 .

(n62)Footnote 44. University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; see discussion in [a][i], above.

(n63)Footnote 45. Astoria Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Solimino (1991) 501 U.S. 104, 111 S. Ct. 2166, 115 L. Ed. 2d 96, 103, 105-106 .

(n64)Footnote 46. Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 427, 432-433, 203 Cal. Rptr. 638 .

(n65)Footnote 47. Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 427, 203 Cal. Rptr. 638 .

(n66)Footnote 48. Johnson v. American Airlines, Inc. (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 427, 433, 203 Cal. Rptr. 638 .

(n67)Footnote 49. Acuna v. Regents of University of California (1997) 56 Cal. App. 4th 639, 649-651, 65 Cal. Rptr. 2d 388 (summary judgment on Title VII claims in federal court bars relitigation of same race and ethnicity discrimination claims under FEHA); Gamble v. General Foods Corp. (1991) 229 Cal. App. 3d 893, 896, 898, 901, 280 Cal. Rptr. 457 .

(n68)Footnote 50. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.

(n69)Footnote 51. See General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 326, 333, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n70)Footnote 52. See E.E.O.C. v. U.S. Steel Corp. (3d Cir. 1990) 921 F.2d 489, 494-495 ; 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1).

(n71)Footnote 53. 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1).

(n72)Footnote 54. Victa v. Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 454, 466-467, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117 .

(n73)Footnote 55. Victa v. Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 454, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117 .

(n74)Footnote 56. Victa v. Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 454, 466-467, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 117 .

128 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. INTRODUCTION

3-42 California Employment Law §§ 42.04 through 42.19

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 42.04[Reserved]

129 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.20

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.20 Fair Employment and Housing Commission

[1] Authority of Commission

Government Code Section 12935(a) and (b)ⁿ¹ authorizes the FEHC to hold hearings on accusations issued by the DFEH under the FEHA,ⁿ² the Unruh Civil Rights Act,ⁿ³ the Ralph Act,ⁿ⁴ Civil Code sections 54, 54.1, or 54.2, relating to the rights of disabled persons or persons with medical conditions to full and equal access to all public accommodations, and Civil Code Section 51.5, which prohibits discrimination in business transactions.ⁿ⁵ The FEHC also adjudicates complaints relating to the violation of Government Code Section 11135, which prohibits discrimination by contractors receiving state financial assistance, to the extent that the complaints relate to employment discrimination.ⁿ⁶ In addition, the FEHC has rule-making power to adopt, interpret, implement, and apply the provisions of the FEHA, regulate the conduct of hearings, and carry out all its other functions and duties.ⁿ⁷ These functions and duties include the publication of precedential opinions interpreting the FEHA,ⁿ⁸ the establishment of advisory committees and community outreach programs,ⁿ⁹ and the issuance of publications concerning discrimination.ⁿ¹⁰

The FEHC's quasi-judicial function commences on the filing of an accusation by the DFEH. The FEHC usually retains an administrative hearing officer (employed by the Office of Administrative Hearings) to conduct a hearing on the accusation pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act.ⁿ¹¹ The FEHC has power to subpoena witnesses, compel witnesses' attendance at hearings,ⁿ¹² administer oaths, examine persons who testify, and require the production of any books or papers relating to any matter under investigation or in question before the FEHC.ⁿ¹³ As set forth in its procedural regulations, settlement agreements between the DFEH and a respondent, and the DFEH's withdrawal of an accusation after a case has been submitted to the FEHC for decision, must be approved by the FEHC.ⁿ¹⁴ The FEHC may also entertain a variety of motions before and after a hearing has commenced.ⁿ¹⁵

[2] Organizational Structure

The FEHC is composed of seven members, called commissioners, who are appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate for four-year terms.ⁿ¹⁶ To conduct business, the FEHC must have a quorum of four commissioners.ⁿ¹⁷ A commissioner may serve for an unlimited number of terms, and there is no restriction on the number of commissioners with a particular party affiliation as there is under Title VII.ⁿ¹⁸ A commissioner may not be removed from office before the expiration of his or her term other than for inefficiency, neglect of duty, misconduct, or malfeasance in office, and only after being given a written statement of the charges and an opportunity to be heard.ⁿ¹⁹ The FEHC employs an Executive Legal Affairs Secretary, a staff of attorneys, and other support personnel.ⁿ²⁰

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
General Overview
Public Health & Welfare Law
Housing & Public Buildings
Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See also 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7285.5(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code §§ 12900-12996.

(n3)Footnote 3. Civ. Code § 51; see Gov. Code § 12948.

(n4)Footnote 4. Civ. Code § 51.7; see Gov. Code § 12948.

(n5)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12948. For further discussion, see Ch. 40.

(n6)Footnote 6. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98410.

(n7)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 12935(a); see 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7285.4 (regarding Commission's authority to promulgate rules and regulations).

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code § 12935(h); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7285.5(c).

(n9)Footnote 9. See Gov. Code § 12935(g); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7285.7(b).

(n10)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12935(i).

(n11)Footnote 11. See Gov. Code § 12972(b); see also Gov. Code § 11500 et seq. (Administrative Procedure Act). For discussion of hearings before administrative law judges, see § 42.37. For discussion of the interrelationship between the FEHC and administrative law judges in the decision-making process, see § 42.39.

(n12)Footnote 12. For discussion of subpoenas and depositions of unavailable witnesses at hearing, see § 42.37[3].

(n13)Footnote 13. Gov. Code § 12935(f); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7285.6.

(n14)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7416.

(n15)Footnote 15. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419. For discussion of pre- and post-hearing motions and procedures, see §§ 42.36 and 42.38, respectively.

(n16)Footnote 16. Gov. Code § 12903.

(n17)Footnote 17. Gov. Code § 12904.

(n18)Footnote 18. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(a) (providing that not more than three of the five members on the EEOC can be members of the same political party).

(n19)Footnote 19. Gov. Code § 12906.

(n20)Footnote 20. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7285.3.

130 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.21

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.21 Department of Fair Employment and Housing

[1] Authority to Investigate and Prosecute

Government Code section 12930(f) authorizes the DFEH to receive, investigate, and conciliate complaints alleging practices that are unlawful pursuant to the FEHA,ⁿ¹ the Unruh Civil Rights Act,ⁿ² the Ralph Civil Rights Act,ⁿ³ Civil Code sections 54, 54.1, or 54.2, relating to the rights of disabled persons or persons with medical conditions to full and equal access to all public accommodations, and Civil Code § 51.5, which prohibits discrimination in business transactions.ⁿ⁴ The DFEH also investigates complaints relating to the violation of Government Code section 11135, which prohibits discrimination by contractors receiving state financial assistance, to the extent that the complaints relate to employment discrimination.ⁿ⁵ In order to perform its functions, the DFEH has authority to appoint attorneys, investigators, conciliators, and other employees,ⁿ⁶ to adopt rules and regulations to carry out its duties,ⁿ⁷ and to obtain on request and use the services of all governmental departments and agencies.ⁿ⁸

In connection with the investigation of complaints, the DFEH has authority to do the following: (1) issue subpoenas to require the testimony of witnesses and/or the production of documents, and physical materials;ⁿ⁹ (2) administer oaths, examine witnesses under oath and take evidence, and take depositions and affidavits;ⁿ¹⁰ (3) issue written interrogatories;ⁿ¹¹ (4) request production of books, records, documents, and physical materials for inspection and copying;ⁿ¹² and (5) petition the superior courts to compel the appearance and testimony of witnesses or production of books, records, documents, and physical materials.ⁿ¹³ The DFEH may also issue accusations and prosecute them before the FEHC;ⁿ¹⁴ issue publications and results of investigations if doing so will promote good will and minimize or eliminate unlawful discrimination in employment;ⁿ¹⁵ investigate, approve, certify or decertify, monitor, and enforce nondiscrimination programs proposed by a contractor pursuant to Government Code section 12990;ⁿ¹⁶ and make annual reports to the Legislature of its activities and its recommendations.ⁿ¹⁷

In addition to its other duties, the DFEH may, on request by state or local public bodies or a person directly affected, assist in resolving disputes regarding discriminatory practices that impair rights guaranteed by state or federal laws or constitutions.ⁿ¹⁸ The DFEH may assist in such dispute resolution only when it determines that the dispute threatens peaceful relations among citizens of the community, and its role is limited to investigation, conference, conciliation, and persuasion.ⁿ¹⁹

The DFEH may also use the efforts and experience of the Department of Rehabilitation in developing job opportunities for disabled persons.ⁿ²⁰ Finally, Government Code section 12933 directs the DFEH to maintain liaison with city and county human relations commissions and provide nonconfidential information to them on request.

[2] Organizational Structure of DFEH

The DFEH is a department of the State and Consumer Services Agency.ⁿ²¹ The Director of the DFEH is appointed by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate.ⁿ²²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
General Overview
Public Health & Welfare Law
Housing & Public Buildings
Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code §§ 12900-12996.

(n2)Footnote 2. Civ. Code § 51; see Gov. Code § 12948.

(n3)Footnote 3. Civ. Code § 51.7; see Gov. Code § 12948.

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12948.

(n5)Footnote 5. 22 Cal. Code Reg. § 98410.

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code § 12930(c).

(n7)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 12930(e).

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code § 12930(d).

(n9)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 12930(g)(1). For discussion of pre-hearing discovery, see §§ 42.27, 42.35.

(n10)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12930(g)(2). For discussion of pre-hearing discovery, see §§ 42.27, 42.35.

(n11)Footnote 11. Gov. Code § 12930(g)(3). For discussion of pre-hearing discovery, see §§ 42.27, 42.35.

(n12)Footnote 12. Gov. Code § 12930(g)(4). For discussion of pre-hearing discovery, see §§ 42.27, 42.35.

(n13)Footnote 13. Gov. Code § 12930(g)(5). For discussion of pre-hearing discovery, see §§ 42.27, 42.35.

(n14)Footnote 14. Gov. Code § 12930(h). For discussion of issuance of accusations, see § 42.32.

(n15)Footnote 15. Gov. Code § 12930(i).

(n16)Footnote 16. Gov. Code § 12930(j). For discussion of DFEH contract compliance programs, see Chapter 44.

(n17)Footnote 17. Gov. Code § 12930(k).

(n18)Footnote 18. Gov. Code § 12931.

(n19)Footnote 19. Gov. Code § 12931.

(n20)Footnote 20. See Gov. Code § 12932(a).

(n21)Footnote 21. Gov. Code § 12901.

(n22)Footnote 22. Gov. Code § 12901.

131 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.22

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.22 Overview of Complaint Procedure

FEHA proceedings are commenced by filing a complaint with the DFEH.ⁿ¹ Any person claiming to be aggrieved by a violation of the FEHA may file a complaint, as may the DFEH director or his or her authorized representative.ⁿ² After a complaint is filed, the DFEH, or the aggrieved party's attorney if represented by counsel, serves it on the respondent, accompanied by a notice requesting a response to the allegations and answers to specific questions.ⁿ³

Before beginning to investigate the complaint, a DFEH consultant assesses the case and determines to close it, to undertake predetermination settlement efforts, or to proceed with the investigation.ⁿ⁴ The DFEH may interview witnesses who have knowledge of the allegations in the complaint, either at the work site or elsewhere, and review statements and documents provided by the respondent in response to requests from the DFEH.ⁿ⁵ The DFEH also may use formal discovery procedures during the investigation, including subpoenas to compel the production of documents and/or the testimony of witnesses at a depositionⁿ⁶ and written interrogatories.ⁿ⁷

The complainant, respondent, or the DFEH may initiate settlement discussions at any stage of the investigation.ⁿ⁸ A settlement agreement must be in writing, and the agency has authority to bring a court action to enforce a settlement agreement.ⁿ⁹ The DFEH may close a case prior to completion of the investigation and a determination on the merits for a variety of reasons.ⁿ¹⁰ The DFEH may bring a civil action in court for preliminary relief if it determines, following a preliminary investigation, that prompt judicial action is necessary to carry out the purposes of the FEHA.ⁿ¹¹ If after investigation is completed, the DFEH consultant determines that a complaint lacks merit, the DFEH closes the case and sends the complainant a right-to-sue letter.ⁿ¹² A right-to-sue letter may also be issued on request of the complainant at any time after the complaint is filed.ⁿ¹³ After a consultant determines that a complaint is valid, the DFEH may, but need not, attempt to "eliminate the unlawful employment practice by conference, conciliation, or persuasion."ⁿ¹⁴

If the DFEH finds that a case has merit and no settlement is reached, it is referred to the DFEH's legal staff for issuance of an accusation (the equivalent of a civil complaint), which initiates the administrative proceeding leading to a hearing before the FEHC.ⁿ¹⁵

After issuance of an accusation, the DFEH and the respondent may engage in limited discovery, and a hearing must be scheduled within 90 days after issuance of the accusation.ⁿ¹⁶ After the hearing, the FEHC must issue a written decision,ⁿ¹⁷ and if the FEHC determines that a violation of the FEHA has occurred, it can issue a cease and desist order, require hiring or reinstatement with back pay, award actual damages,ⁿ¹⁸ assess fines,ⁿ¹⁹ and order other relief.ⁿ²⁰ A respondent or complainant may seek judicial review of the FEHC's decision or order by writ of mandate.ⁿ²¹ The DFEH may petition the superior court to enforce the FEHC decision once the time limit for judicial review of the decision has passed.ⁿ²²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Pleading & Practice Pleadings Complaints General Overview Labor & Employment
Law Discrimination General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 12960.

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12960. For discussion of complaint, see § 42.23.

(n3)Footnote 3. See Gov. Code § 12962.

(n4)Footnote 4. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988).

(n5)Footnote 5. For discussion of investigation, see § 42.25[1].

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code § 12963.1.

(n7)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 12963.2(a). For discussion of discovery during investigation, see § 42.27.

(n8)Footnote 8. For discussion of settlements, see § 42.29.

(n9)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 12964.

(n10)Footnote 10. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985) (case-closing categories and procedures). For discussion of case closure, see § 42.30[2].

(n11)Footnote 11. Gov. Code § 12974.

(n12)Footnote 12. Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n13)Footnote 13. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 7 (May 18, 1984). For discussion of right-to-sue letter, see § 42.25[3][c].

(n14)Footnote 14. Gov. Code §§ 12963.7(a), 12965. For discussion of conciliation, see § 42.31.

(n15)Footnote 15. Gov. Code §§ 12965(a), 12967. For discussion of accusation, see § 42.32.

(n16)Footnote 16. Gov. Code § 12968. For discussion of hearing, see § 42.37; see DFEH v. State University--Hayward (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-18, pp. 12-13 (compliance with Gov. Code § 12968 is not jurisdictional prerequisite to administrative adjudication, but is statute of limitations subject to waiver, estoppel, and equitable tolling).

(n17)Footnote 17. See Gov. Code § 11518. For discussion of decision, see § 42.39.

(n18)Footnote 18. See Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3), (b).

(n19)Footnote 19. See Gov. Code § 12970(c), (d).

(n20)Footnote 20. Gov. Code § 12970(a). For detailed discussions of FEHC and judicial remedies available under the FEHA generally, see § 42.01[2][a] and Ch. 43, pt. A.

(n21)Footnote 21. Gov. Code §§ 11523, 12972. For discussion of judicial review, see § 42.40.

(n22)Footnote 22. Gov. Code § 12973(b).

132 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.23

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.23 Initiating the Proceeding

[1] Filing of Complaint by Aggrieved Party

[a] Generally

An aggrieved party initiates a DFEH complaint by contacting one of several DFEH district offices in person, by telephone, or in writing to schedule an intake interview.ⁿ¹ The intake procedure begins with completion of a pre-complaint questionnaire by the aggrieved party,^{n1.1} followed by an interview in person or by telephone with a DFEH consultant, an employee responsible for accepting and investigating complaints. Based on the pre-complaint questionnaire and the intake interviews, the consultant determines whether to accept the complaint for filing by answering the following questions:

1. Is the complaint covered under one of the bases stated in the FEHA?
2. Did the alleged discriminatory act occur within jurisdictional time frames?
3. Did the employer employ the number of employees that would bring it within the jurisdiction of the FEHA?
4. Is the employer an entity other than a religious nonprofit organization?

If the response to any question is no, the consultant will not accept the complaint.ⁿ¹ If the DFEH refuses to accept a complaint for filing, the aggrieved party should request a Notice of Verification of Attempt to File.ⁿ² By making such a request, the aggrieved party may be able later to demonstrate that administrative remedies have been exhausted if he or she wishes to file a civil court action.

If the consultant decides that a complaint should be taken, he or she drafts it and sends it to the aggrieved party to be signed and verified. An attorney may verify a DFEH complaint for a client by subscribing the attorney's own name to the complaint. The attorney may not verify by signing the client's name.^{n2.1} The California Court of Appeal has cautioned attorneys about verifying complaints unless they believe allegations to be true and they are acting in good faith, because attorneys are subject to penalties for perjury if they sign their name to DFEH complaints.^{n2.2}

Although the DFEH generally requires that complaints be filed on its own form, in some circumstances the DFEH will deem a complaint filed that is not on the official form. If timeliness is an issue, and it is likely that the filing period will expire before a complaint can be filed using the DFEH form (for example, if the DFEH receives a letter in the mail on the last day of the one-year complaint filing period), the DFEH may accept a written communication that contains the necessary information and file it as a complaint.ⁿ³ To be accepted as an alternative to the DFEH complaint form, the written communication must contain at a minimum the following information:ⁿ⁴

1. The name and address of the party complained about;
2. A description of the act complained of, including dates, sufficient to establish a presumption that the DFEH has jurisdiction; and
3. The name, address, and signature of the complainant.

If a written communication other than the regular complaint form is accepted to ensure timeliness, the DFEH will amend the complaint as soon as possible to comply with the DFEH's regular complaint procedures.ⁿ⁵

The official form that the DFEH uses for the complaint is the same as the EEOC charge form (EEOC Form 5), which is set forth at § 42.62[2][b].

The allegations of the DFEH complaint must give "fair notice" of the facts supporting the alleged discrimination so as to permit proper investigation of the charge. Therefore, it is critical that the complaint form cover all types of alleged discriminatory conduct and disabilities, as applicable. When alleging failure to accommodate under the FEHA, the DFEH charge must be based on the same disability that forms the basis for any subsequent legal action. Thus, for example, a plaintiff failed to exhaust administrative remedies when she attempted to shift the focus of the charge, which identified her sole physical disability as ulcerative colitis, to some form of mental disability (allegedly the root cause of the colitis) to avoid summary judgment.ⁿ⁶

■ PRACTICE TIP:

It is a good practice for counsel to discuss the nature and, particularly, the scope of a charge with the complainant prior to the complainant's interview at the DFEH, with a view toward subsequent proceedings. In some cases, counsel may wish to draft a complaint to assist DFEH personnel in understanding the nature and scope of the charge. If the charge involves a class claim, it should so state.

Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[b] Pre-Complaint Questionnaire

The pre-complaint questionnaire is a printed form obtainable from any DFEH office, or from the DFEH's website.^{n6.1} It is used by the DFEH to prepare the complaint. The aggrieved party completes the pre-complaint questionnaire, after which a DFEH consultant interviews him or her in person or by telephone.ⁿ⁷ If the interview is in person, the aggrieved party should bring the pre-complaint questionnaire to the interview. The actual complaint is drafted by the DFEH consultant. There is no statutory requirement for a pre-complaint questionnaire; its use is a matter of administrative procedure.

The pre-complaint questionnaire serves two main functions. First, it provides the agency with the information needed to determine whether the aggrieved party has stated an actionable claim under the FEHA and whether it should draft a complaint. Second, the pre-complaint questionnaire provides the information necessary to initiate the investigation and to draft questions to the respondent in the Supplement to Notice of Filing of Employment Discrimination Complaint,ⁿ⁸ which is served with the complaint. Therefore, it is important that the questionnaire be filled out completely and that all available relevant information be provided.

In response to the question that requests the basis for discrimination, more than one item may be checked. For example, the aggrieved party may check both race and sex as bases for the alleged discrimination. Similarly, in response to the item that asks for the discriminatory conduct, more than one action may be checked: for example, fired and refused promotion. The form asks for the date of discrimination. If the discrimination has been continuing in nature, the most recent date should be given. For example, an aggrieved party who complains of unequal pay may state that this occurred "from the date of hire on May 2, 1985 and continuing until the present." The pre-complaint questionnaire need not be verified.

If the DFEH determines that it will file a complaint, the DFEH prepares the complaint based on the pre-complaint questionnaire and the interview with the aggrieved party. At the time they sign the complaint, complainants must file with the DFEH their telephone numbers, mailing addresses and addresses at which they can be personally served with documents and must notify the Department of any changes of addresses and telephone numbers during the investigation and administrative adjudication of the complaint and until payment of any judgment is complete.^{n8.1}

[2] Timeliness of Complaint

An aggrieved party must file a DFEH complaint within one year from the date on which the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred. However, the filing period may be extended for (1) 90 days if a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice first obtained knowledge of the facts of the alleged unlawful practice after the expiration of one year from the date of its occurrence, (2) one year following a rebutted presumption of the identity of the person's employerⁿ⁹ to allow the person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice to make a substitute identification of the actual employer, (3) one year from the date the person aggrieved by an alleged violation of the Ralph Civil Rights Act--guaranteeing the right to be free from violence because of specific characteristics^{n9.1}--becomes aware of the identity of a person liable for the alleged violation, but in no case exceeding three years from the date of the alleged violation if during that period the aggrieved person is unaware of the identity of any person liable for the alleged violation, or (4) one year from the date that a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice attains the age of majority.ⁿ¹⁰ It is not permissible to file a complaint with the DFEH after the foregoing limitations period has expired.ⁿ¹¹ but at least one federal court has held that failing to file a timely complaint with a state agency does not preclude filing a Title VII charge with the EEOC, as long as the EEOC charge is timely under federal law.ⁿ¹² For a discussion relating to the timely filing of EEOC complaints in "deferral states" like California, see §§ 42.24, 42.63[3][a], and 42.63.

When an employee voluntarily pursues an internal administrative remedy prior to filing a complaint under the FEHA, the statute of limitations on the FEHA claim is subject to equitable tolling.ⁿ¹³ Equitable tolling applies even when the plaintiff voluntarily terminates the administrative proceeding.ⁿ¹⁴

The FEHC has held that the time limit for filing a complaint with the DFEH is subject to equitable tolling when the DFEH, through no fault of the complainant, misleads him or her regarding filing obligations, commits errors in processing the complaint, or improperly discourages or prevents the complainant from filing at all.ⁿ¹⁵ In DFEH v. Cairo,ⁿ¹⁶ the complainant and her sister contacted a DFEH district office regarding the complainant's alleged termination from her job because she suffered from epilepsy. Based on these conversations and a letter from complainant's physician, the DFEH consultant made a determination that the case had no merit and decided not to take a complaint from her. The consultant did not tell complainant that she could file a complaint, nor did she schedule an interview for complainant to file a complaint. More than one year following her termination, complainant went to a private attorney who convinced the DFEH to permit complainant to file a complaint. In these circumstances, the FEHC concluded "that the time limit for filing complaints must ... be subject to exception where essential justice demands it" and held that the one-year time limit for filing a complaint should be equitably tolled and the complaint be deemed timely because complainant had done all she could to file a complaint.¹⁷

The FEHC has held that in the case of continuing violations of the FEHA, the one-year time period for filing a DFEH complaint begins to run each time a new violation of the FEHA occurs. For discussion of the continuing violation doctrine as applied in FEHA actions, see § 43.01[4][a][ii].¹⁸⁻¹⁹

[3] Complainant's Request to Rescind Complaint Prior to Service

After the filing of the complaint, but before the DFEH serves it, the complainant may decide not to proceed and request that the respondent not be notified that a charge has been filed. If the complaint has not been served, the DFEH will honor the request and rescind (rather than close) the complaint. When the case was sent for dual filing with the EEOC, the DFEH will contact the EEOC State and Local Coordinator by telephone and request that the EEOC stop processing the complaint as well.²⁰ The rescission of the complaint does not fulfill any exhaustion of administrative remedies requirements.

[4] Service on Respondents

Upon the filing of a complaint,^{20.1} the DFEH must serve on the respondent an "accusation package."^{20.2} The package must include, but is not limited to, the following documents:^{20.3}

- A copy of the accusation.
- A copy of the underlying complaint that is the subject of the accusation.
- A copy of the FEHC's procedural regulations accompanied by a statement that those regulations are the governing procedure for administrative adjudication before the FEHC.
- A copy of a subpoena and a subpoena duces tecum form with instructions for their use.
- A copy of the DFEH's Statement to Respondents.
- A Notice of Defense form.^{20.4}
- A notice of the right to request, as needed, an interpreter or reasonable accommodation.
- If applicable under Gov. Code § 12965(c),^{20.5} a statement regarding respondent's right to elect to transfer the proceedings to court in lieu of administrative adjudication, and a form notice to transfer proceedings to court.
- A notice asking the respondent to consent to electronic, rather than stenographic, reporting of the proceedings at hearing.
- A copy of the DFEH's notice informing respondents and complainants of their obligation to keep the Department informed of any change of mailing address or telephone number.
- A Notice of Hearing or Notice of Impending Hearing.
- A proof of service specifying that all of the above documents have been served.

The DFEH must cause any verified complaint to be served on the employer personally or by certified mail.ⁿ²¹ The DFEH's failure to serve the employer is not a jurisdictional bar to a civil action by the complainant when the complainant is unrepresented by counsel.^{n21.1} However, if the person claiming to be aggrieved by an alleged unlawful practice hires or retains private counsel, the private counsel, not the DFEH, must cause the verified complaint to be served on the employer personally or by certified mail.^{n21.2} The complainant need not serve the administrative complaint on the respondent if the complainant elects a civil action rather than an administrative investigation, and the DFEH issues a right-to-sue letter.^{n21.3}

In either event, service must be made at the time of initial contact with the employer, or within 60 days, whichever first occurs.^{n21.4} The DFEH takes the position that section 12962 requires only that the DFEH initiate service within that time period and not that the service be actually received within that time.ⁿ²²

At the discretion of the director of the DFEH, the complaint may omit the name of the complaining party, unless the complaint is filed by the director or his or her authorized representative.ⁿ²³

When serving a complaint on a respondent, the DFEH must notify the respondent in writing of the following:ⁿ²⁴

- A complaint has been filed against it.
- It is required to file with the DFEH its telephone number, mailing address and address at which it can be personally served documents.
- It must notify the DFEH of any changes of address or telephone number during the investigation and administrative adjudication of the complaint and until payment of any judgment is complete.

[5] Class Action Complaints

Government Code section 12961 provides that a complainant or the DFEHⁿ²⁵⁻²⁹ director may file a complaint on behalf of a group or class alleging a violation of the FEHA. A class action may be brought when an unlawful practice adversely affects, in a similar manner, a group or class of persons of which the complainant is a member.ⁿ³⁰ A class action may also be brought if such an unlawful practice raises questions of law or fact that are common to such a group or class.ⁿ³¹ When a complainant wishes to file a class complaint, the DFEH consultant obtains the following information in addition to that required for other complaints: (1) how or why the respondent's alleged unlawful practice affects others in addition to the complainant; and (2) the names, addresses, telephone numbers, and protected group status of other persons affected by the unlawful employment practice.ⁿ³² Even if the complainant wishes to file a class complaint and includes language alleging injury to a class, the director of the DFEH has discretion to determine whether the agency will investigate and pursue the complaint as a class action complaint.ⁿ³³ The determination to treat a complaint as a group or class complaint must be made and the respondent so notified in writing within one year of filing the complaint.ⁿ³⁴ The DFEH may issue an accusation relating to a group or class complaint within two years of the date of filing the complaint rather than one year, which is the limitation period for individual complaints other than complaints alleging a violation of Civil Code Section 51.7.ⁿ³⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Procedure Pleading & Practice Pleadings Complaints General Overview Labor & Employment
Law Discrimination General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. An overview of the employment complaint process of the DFEH is available on the Internet at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/complaintEmployment.asp>. An employment complaint flowchart is available at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/complaintEmploymentflow.asp>. The DFEH also has a directive specifically for telephone interviews. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 201, § 4(A), Telephone Interviews, October 1, 1998, available on-line at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/e201.pdf>.

(n2)Footnote 1.1. For discussion of the pre-complaint questionnaire, see [b], below.

(n3)Footnote 1. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (May 9, 1986).

(n4)Footnote 2. DFEH Form 100-11 (Jan. 1987).

(n5)Footnote 2.1. Blum v. Superior Court (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 418, 422-428, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 902.

(n6)Footnote 2.2. Blum v. Superior Court (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 418, 428, 45 Cal. Rptr. 3d 902.

(n7)Footnote 3. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 28 (Nov. 8, 1982).

(n8)Footnote 4. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 28 (Nov. 8, 1982).

(n9)Footnote 5. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 28 (Nov. 8, 1982).

(n10)Footnote 6. Hobson v. Raychem Corp. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 614, 626-632, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497 (because plaintiff acknowledged that ulcerative colitis did not prevent her from performing her job, condition was not qualifying disability as matter of law).

(n11)Footnote 6.1. See <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Publications/DFEH%20600-03i.pdf>. The form is also available in Spanish. See <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Publications/DFEH%20600-03S.pdf>.

(n12)Footnote 7. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988).

(n13)Footnote 8. For discussion see [4][c], below.

(n14)Footnote 8.1. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7403.

(n15)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 12928.

(n16)Footnote 9.1. Civil Code Section 51.7; see Ch. 40, § 40.12[2].

(n17)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12960.

(n18)Footnote 11. See International Union etc. Engineers v. Fair Emp. Practice Com. (1969) 276 Cal. App.2d 504, 510, 81 Cal. Rptr. 47 (construing former Lab. Code § 1422 (Fair Employment Practice Act)).

(n19)Footnote 12. See Maurya v. Peabody Coal Co. (6th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 933, 935; see also Mohasco Corp. v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 816 n.19, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532 (Congress included no express requirement under Title VII that state proceedings be initiated by any specific date).

(n20)Footnote 13. McDonald v. Antelope Valley Community College Dist. (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 88; 194 P.3d 1026; 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 734; 2008 Cal. LEXIS 12468, *8-*36.

(n21)Footnote 14. McDonald v. Antelope Valley Community College Dist. (2008) 45 Cal. 4th 88; 194 P.3d 1026; 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 734; 2008 Cal. LEXIS 12468, *36-*44.

(n22)Footnote 15. DFEH v. Cairo (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-04, at pp. 10-11. See also Holland v. Union Pacific Railroad Co. (2007) 154 Cal. App. 4th 940, 945-947, 65 Cal. Rptr. 3d 145 (under established doctrine of equitable estoppel, employee's untimely administrative complaint was not bar to his action at law, because he diligently pursued his administrative remedy and reasonable relied on conduct of administrative officials in believing limitations period was not concern).

(n23)Footnote 16. DFEH v. Cairo (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-04.

(n24)Footnote 17. DFEH v. Cairo (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-04, at pp. 10-11.

(n25)Footnote 18-19. [Reserved]

(n26)Footnote 20. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 500, § 4(E), Rescinded Complaints, May 26, 2006, available on-line at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/500.pdf>.

(n27)Footnote 20.1. Note: A complaint is referred to as "an accusation" in the Cal. Code Regs.

(n28)Footnote 20.2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408(h). The accusation and accusation package must be served on each respondent in accordance with 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7406, 7407. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408(h), (i). The DFEH must also serve the package on the complainant. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408(i).

(n29)Footnote 20.3. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408.

(n30)Footnote 20.4. For discussion of the Notice of Defense, see § 42.32[4], below.

(n31)Footnote 20.5. For discussion, see § 42.32[7], below.

(n32)Footnote 21. Gov. Code § 12962(a).

(n33)Footnote 21.1. See Wasti v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 667, 673-674, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625 (amendment to FEHA requiring service on employer by attorney was not bar to civil action by complainant, where complainant was unrepresented by counsel when she filed administrative complaint with DFEH and elected to pursue civil action rather than administrative action, and DFEH issued right-to-sue letter).

(n34)Footnote 21.2. Gov. Code § 12962(b).

(n35)Footnote 21.3. See Wasti v. Superior Court (2006) 140 Cal. App. 4th 667, 673, 44 Cal. Rptr. 3d 625 (construed in context of FEHA as a whole, 2003 amendments were intended to eliminate service requirement where employee opts to seek right-to-sue letter).

(n36)Footnote 21.4. Gov. Code § 12962(c).

(n37)Footnote 22. Supplemental Memorandum (August 12, 1987) to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 6 (September 23, 1986).

(n38)Footnote 23. Gov. Code § 12962(c). This might be done if the complainant fears retaliation.

(n39)Footnote 24. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7403.

(n40)Footnote 25-29. [Reserved]

(n41)Footnote 30. See Gov. Code § 12961.

(n42)Footnote 31. See Gov. Code § 12961.

(n43)Footnote 32. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 14 (April 20, 1984). See also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 226, October 1, 1998, available on-line at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/e226.pdf>.

(n44)Footnote 33. See Gov. Code §§ 12961, 12965(a).

(n45)Footnote 34. Gov. Code § 12965(a).

(n46)Footnote 35. See Gov. Code § 12965(a).

133 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.24

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.24 Deferral to Federal Agencies

The EEOC and the DFEH are parties to a worksharing agreement pursuant to which copies of all complaints received by one agency are sent to the other for filing.ⁿ¹ The agreement provides that the agency with which the complaint is originally filed must process it if it falls within the jurisdiction of both agencies. If one agency lacks jurisdiction, it will forward the complaint to the other for processing.ⁿ² Complainants and respondents are told which agency will process a complaint.

Because the FEHA's pregnancy discrimination provisions--aside from those involving pregnancy leave and those involving requests by pregnant employees for reasonable accommodation or to transfer to less strenuous or hazardous positions--did not apply to employers of 15 or more employees,ⁿ³ the DFEH had deferred most pregnancy-related complaints to the EEOC for processing under Title VII.ⁿ⁴

The DFEH also defers, for EEOC processing, all Title VII complaints within the jurisdiction of the EEOC that are filed more than 240 days but less than 300 days after the alleged violation.ⁿ⁵ In the absence of this practice, Title VII would prohibit the EEOC from considering such a charge for 60 days, during which the DFEH, as a state "deferral agency" has an exclusive opportunity to process it.ⁿ⁶ However, if the EEOC had to wait those 60 days, the EEOC "filing" would occur more than 300 days after the violation occurred, which is beyond the expiration of the Title VII limitations period.ⁿ⁷ The result of this late filing would be that the EEOC would never obtain jurisdiction, and the complainant would lose his or her right to sue in federal court.ⁿ⁸ However, a complaint filed with the EEOC after 240 days is timely if the state agency terminates its proceedings before the 300-day period expires.ⁿ⁹ Thus, when a complaint over which the EEOC and DFEH have concurrent jurisdiction is filed with the DFEH more than 240 days from the date of the alleged violation, the DFEH waives its rights and transmits the complaint directly to the EEOC in order to preserve the complainant's right to sue in federal court.ⁿ¹⁰ The Supreme Court has held that such a waiver "terminates" the state administrative proceedings for purposes of giving the EEOC jurisdiction over a claim filed within the 300-day period.ⁿ¹¹ For discussion of timeliness of filing of state complaint, see § 42.23 [2]. For discussion of timeliness of filing of federal complaint, see § 42.62 [3], and for coverage of federal deferral to state agencies, see § 42.63.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.2; see Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement Between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC.

(n2)Footnote 2. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.4.

(n3)Footnote 3. See former Gov. Code § 12945(b)(2), (c), (e).

(n4)Footnote 4. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.4.

(n5)Footnote 5. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 16 (Jan. 18, 1982).

(n6)Footnote 6. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c).

(n7)Footnote 7. See Mohasco Corporation v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 816-817, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532 .

(n8)Footnote 8. See Mohasco Corporation v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 817, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532 .

(n9)Footnote 9. See Mohasco Corporation v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 814 n. 16, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532 .

(n10)Footnote 10. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 16 (Jan. 18, 1982).

(n11)Footnote 11. See EEOC v. Commercial Office Products Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 107, 114-122, 108 S. Ct. 1666, 100 L. Ed. 2d 96 (waiver of deferral by Colorado fair employment agency constituted "termination" for purposes of 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c)).

134 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.25

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.25 Investigation

[1] Authority to Conduct Investigation

The DFEH has authority to conduct an investigation under Government Code section 12963, which mandates a prompt investigation after the filing of any complaint alleging facts sufficient to constitute a violation of the FEHA.

[2] Assignment to Consultant

In general, the consultant who interviews the complainant during intake and drafts the complaintⁿ¹ also handles the case through the remainder of the administrative process. This practice is generally followed in DFEH offices statewide, but is not set forth in any written policy of the agency. A complainant or respondent who is dissatisfied with the performance of the consultant assigned to the case may contact the head of each DFEH enforcement office, known as the "district administrator."

[3] Predetermination

[a] Generally

Before the assigned consultant begins an investigation, he or she may make a predetermination to close the case or undertake settlement efforts.ⁿ² Usually within a short time from the service of a complaint, the consultant will contact the respondent by telephone to determine whether a settlement can be obtained.ⁿ³ If settlement efforts are unsuccessful, either because the respondent makes no offer or because the complainant refuses the offer, the investigation continues.ⁿ⁴ At this stage, the case may be closed for the following reasons: (1) the consultant concludes that the DFEH has no jurisdiction over the complaint or that the case should be waived to the EEOC; or (2) the complainant withdraws the complaint, elects court action, refuses to cooperate, cannot be contacted, or provides insufficient evidence for the DFEH to proceed.ⁿ⁵

Prior to closing the case for insufficient evidence, the consultant must inform the complainant of this intention and give the complainant 14 days in which to respond.ⁿ⁶ⁿ⁷

[b] Request for Authorization to File a Lawsuit

After filing a complaint with the DFEH, a complainant may decide to ask the DFEH to discontinue proceedings and issue a right-to-sue letter, allowing the complainant to proceed to court.ⁿ⁸ If the DFEH terminates its proceedings, it must notify the respondent without undue delay.ⁿ⁹

[c] Issuance of Right-to-Sue Letter

Government Code Section 12965(b) provides that if an accusation is not issued within 150 days after a complaint is filed or if the DFEH earlier determines not to issue an accusation, the DFEH must promptly notify in writing the person claiming to be aggrieved that the DFEH will issue on his or her request a right-to-sue notice indicating his or her right to bring a civil action under the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁰ If the person claiming to be aggrieved does not request a right-to-sue notice, the DFEH must in any case issue the notice on completion of its investigation, and not later than one year after the complaint was filed.ⁿ¹¹

If the DFEH issues a right-to-sue letter and then rescinds it, the aggrieved employee's failure to obtain a second right-to-sue letter does not preclude a finding that he or she exhausted her administrative remedies. Thus, in Grant v. Comp USA, Inc.,ⁿ¹² under Gov. Code § 12965(b), a formerⁿ¹³⁻¹⁴ employee's right to sue arose by operation of law when the DFEH failed to resolve the matter within one year from the time she filed her administrative complaint. The former employee's failure to obtain a second right-to-sue letter after the DFEH rescinded the first one in the course of reopening her case did not preclude a finding that she exhausted her administrative remedies.ⁿ¹⁵

[4] Priority Processing

As a general rule, the DFEH processes complaints on a first-come, first-served basis. However, because the administrative process from intake through FEHC decision takes at least two yearsⁿ¹⁶ and the investigation normally does not commence until six to ten months after a complaint is filed, certain types of complaints receive "priority status" to allow for special, expedited handling by the assigned consultant.ⁿ¹⁷

At present, complainants who allege that they have a terminal illness, such as AIDS or cancer,ⁿ¹⁸ or who bring retaliation complaints, receive priority treatment if certain conditions are met.ⁿ¹⁹ Retaliation complaints are designated priority cases if: (1) the retaliation occurred because the complainant previously filed a complaint with the DFEH or participated in an investigation, and (2) the alleged retaliation occurred within 180 days of the filing of the previously-filed complaint or within 180 days of the person's participation in a DFEH investigation.ⁿ²⁰

In addition to these agency-wide priority cases, the district administrator may designate any case a priority case, or may approve processing "out of order." Any exceptions to the DFEH priority procedures must have justification. Some types of complaints that may be appropriate for priority treatment include (1) class action complaints, (2) complaints concerning personnel practices that adversely affect eight or more persons, and (3) complaints that are one of numerous complaints against the same respondent.ⁿ²¹

If the complaint is of a priority nature, the consultant must investigate the allegations and submit an investigative report recommending a determination within 60 days of the filing date.ⁿ²²

■ PRACTICE TIP:

If the complainant's charge is entitled to priority processing, the complainant should bring it to the attention of the DFEH at the earliest opportunity. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[5] On-Site Investigation

During an investigation, the DFEH consultant may find it useful to conduct part of the inquiry at the site of the alleged discriminatory conduct in order to review personnel records of the complainant and other employees and other relevant business records, to interview supervisory and nonsupervisory personnel,ⁿ²³ and to actually view the physical layout of respondent's facility. For example, the consultant may need to tour the place of employment in order to evaluate the merits of respondent's defense that it cannot reasonably accommodate a physically handicapped individual,ⁿ²⁴ or to assess whether respondent has properly invoked a bona fide occupational qualification ("BFOQ") defense that only persons of the same sex can be employed at the workplace.ⁿ²⁵

[6] Case Conference

Prior to making a determination on the merits of the case, the consultant may bring all of the parties together in a case conference, which is similar to a fact-finding conference. Holding a case conference is within the discretion of the individual consultant. The object of the case conference is to define the issues, determine which elements are undisputed, clarify those areas that are unclear, resolve any disputed issues that can be resolved, and ascertain if there is a basis for negotiated settlement of the complaint.ⁿ²⁶ The format of the conference is one in which the consultant questions both the complainant and respondent and allows them to respond to each other's statements in a nonadversarial setting. Usually, the consultant does not allow either party to bring an attorney to the conference.ⁿ²⁷

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See § 42.23[1].

(n2)Footnote 2. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988).

(n3)Footnote 3. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988).

(n4)Footnote 4. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988).

(n5)Footnote 5. DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988). See also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 500, § 4(A), Case Closing Categories, May 26, 2006, available online at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/500.pdf>.

(n6)Footnote 6. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985). See also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 500, § 4(A)(06), Insufficient Evidence to Prove a Violation of the Statute, May 26, 2006; available online at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/500.pdf>.

(n7)Footnote 7. [Reserved]

(n8)Footnote 8. For discussion of issuance of the right-to-sue letter, see [c], below. The DFEH provides guidance on requesting a right-to-sue letter on its website at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/complaintRtoS.asp>.

(n9)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 12971.

(n10)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n11)Footnote 11. Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n12)Footnote 12. Grant v. Comp USA, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 637, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177.

(n13)Footnote 13-14. [Reserved]

(n14)Footnote 15. Grant v. Comp USA, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 637, 640-651, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177 .

(n15)Footnote 16. Supplemental Memorandum to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (June 5, 1987).

(n16)Footnote 17. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (Jan. 18, 1982); Supplemental Memorandum to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (June 5, 1987). See also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 202, October 1, 1998, available online at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/e202.pdf> .

(n17)Footnote 18. Supplemental Memorandum to Enforcement Directive Division Directive No. 4 (June 5, 1987).

(n18)Footnote 19. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (Jan. 18, 1982).

(n19)Footnote 20. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (Jan. 18, 1982).

(n20)Footnote 21. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (Jan. 18, 1982).

(n21)Footnote 22. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (Jan. 18, 1982); Supplemental Memorandum to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 4 (June 5, 1987).

(n22)Footnote 23. The DFEH's general practice is to honor a respondent's request to have a company representative present during interviews of management personnel, but not during interviews of nonmanagement employees. If the respondent denies DFEH the right to interview employees outside the presence of a company representative, the consultant will ordinarily make contact with the witnesses during off-work hours. On occasion, the consultant may consent to allow an affirmative action officer or labor relations representative to sit in during the interview if the company's representative may be helpful in resolving the complaint.

(n23)Footnote 24. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.9. For a detailed discussion of reasonable accommodation in physical handicap discrimination cases, see Ch. 41, pt. D.

(n24)Footnote 25. For full discussion of the BFOQ defense, see Ch. 41, pt. E.

(n25)Footnote 26. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 60 (Dec. 29, 1986).

(n26)Footnote 27. See DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 60 (Dec. 29, 1986).

135 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.26

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.26 Presentation of Defenses

[1] Manner of Presenting Defenses

[a] Generally

At any time during the course of the DFEH's investigation of a complaint of discrimination, an employer-respondent may assert defenses to the allegations in the complaint. Likewise, at any time before the FEHC hearing commences, the DFEH may accept the respondent's defenses and withdraw a previously-issued accusation without the approval of the FEHC, unless the complainant has intervened in the action.ⁿ¹ The DFEH has wide discretion in carrying out its statutory duties and has no obligation to fully investigate or take every case to hearing.ⁿ² When the DFEH issues an accusation, the agency serves a notice of defense on the respondent. The notice of defense is a form that, when signed and returned by the respondent, acknowledges service of an accusation on the respondent.ⁿ³ By returning and filing the notice of defense, the respondent may request a hearing, object to or admit the accusation, and/or present new defenses.ⁿ⁴

[b] Statement of Position

[i] Initial Response

At distinct points in a DFEH investigation, the respondent may provide information concerning the allegations in the complaint. The first opportunity to assert defenses is in the employer's response to the DFEH's complaint.ⁿ⁵⁻⁶ This initial response is due 21 days after receipt of the complaint; however, extensions of time are routinely given. When appropriate, a consultant may also ask the respondent to provide information concerning workforce statistics, i.e., patterns within its current work force and applicant flow data.ⁿ⁷ As discussed in greater detail in [2] and [3], below, the respondent may submit information to rebut the factual allegations in the complaint, as well as to assert procedural defenses to the DFEH proceeding.

Within 21 days after receiving information from the respondent, the consultant will review the documentation to determine whether it sufficiently covers the items enumerated in the supplemental list. If the respondent refuses to provide the requested information within 60 days, DFEH routinely sends a follow-up letter encouraging compliance and informing the respondent of the agency's authority to take depositions, issue interrogatories, and require the production of documents pursuant to Government Code Section 12930(g).ⁿ⁸ If the respondent still does not furnish information, the consultant will apply for the issuance of a subpoena duces tecum.ⁿ⁹ For discussion of pre-accusation discovery, see § 42.27.

The consultant may accept one or more defenses raised and determine that dismissal of the complaint is warranted. For example, if the respondent raises a meritorious defense that the DFEH has no jurisdiction over the complaint,ⁿ¹⁰ the consultant closes the case under a category designated as "no jurisdiction."ⁿ¹¹

[ii] Subsequent Contacts with Respondent

Once the DFEH actually commences its investigation of a complaint, the respondent is expected to provide information in an on-going manner to rebut or clarify the complainant's allegations. Unless the respondent has refused to submit information voluntarily, the DFEH normally does not use its subpoena powers in the course of its investigation.

[2] Procedural Defenses

[a] Jurisdiction

The defense of "lack of jurisdiction" is a recognized basis for dismissing a complaint.ⁿ¹² Closure on this basis is warranted when a "complaint is found to be beyond the DFEH's scope of authority as defined by the laws enforced by DFEH."ⁿ¹³

Jurisdictional defenses that may result in dismissal of a DFEH complaint and that may be raised by the respondent at any time after a complaint has been filed include the following:

1. The employer has fewer than five regularly-employed persons;ⁿ¹⁴
2. The employer is a religious association or corporation not organized for private profit;ⁿ¹⁵
3. The complainant is employed by his or her parents, spouse, or child;ⁿ¹⁶
4. The complainant is employed under a special license in a nonprofit sheltered workshop or rehabilitation facility;ⁿ¹⁷
5. The complainant is an independent contractor rather than an employee;ⁿ¹⁸ⁿ¹⁹ and
6. The asserted basis of discrimination is not covered by the FEHA, such as discrimination on the basis of alcoholism, narcotics addiction, or the unlawful use of controlled substances or other drugs.ⁿ²⁰

For full discussion of the scope of coverage of the FEHA, see Chapter 40, Part B.

[b] Timeliness of Complaint

Pursuant to Government Code Section 12960, a complaint alleging employment discrimination must be filed within one year of the alleged unlawful practice. However, the filing period may be extended for (1) 90 days if a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice first obtained knowledge of the facts of the alleged unlawful practice after the expiration of one year from the date of its occurrence, (2) one year following a rebutted presumption of the identity of the person's employerⁿ²¹ to allow the person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice to make a substitute identification of the actual employer, (3) one year from the date the person aggrieved by an alleged violation of the Ralph Civil Rights Act, guaranteeing the right to be free from violence because of specific characteristics,ⁿ²¹ becomes aware of the identity of a person liable for the alleged violation, but in no case exceeding three years from the date of the alleged violation if during that period the aggrieved person is unaware of the identity of any person liable for the alleged violation, or (4) one year from the date that a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice attains the age of majority. The party asserting the statute of limitations bar has the burden of proving that the complaint was untimely filed based on when the adverse action occurred or when the employee obtained specific knowledge of the action.ⁿ²²

The United States Supreme Court has held that the charge-filing period for EEOC charges begins on the date that an employee is notified of his or her termination, even if he or she continues to work until a later date.ⁿ²³ However, the California Supreme Court has held that because Title VII and the FEHA are distinct statutory schemes, the rules governing computation of the limitations period in claims brought under Title VII do not apply in cases brought under FEHA.ⁿ²⁴ In Romano v. Rockwell International, Inc., the Court reasoned that because the FEHA makes "discharge" for discriminatory reasons an unlawful employment practice, requiring the limitations period to begin upon notification of future discharge, i.e., prior to the unlawful act, would be anomalous.ⁿ²⁵

For discussion of the timeliness of complaints under federal antidiscrimination provisions, see § 42.63[3]. For additional discussion of the timeliness of complaints under the FEHA, see § 42.02[4].

[c] Deference to Another Agency's Determination

If an agency with which DFEH has a worksharing agreement, such as the EEOC,ⁿ²⁶ has rendered a determination or completed an investigative report addressing the same issues raised in a DFEH complaint, the DFEH will dismiss the complaint and notify the complainant of the dismissal.ⁿ²⁷ However, if the plaintiff later files an amended charge with the EEOC, he or she must also notify the DFEH of the amendments in order to exhaust administrative remedies under the FEHA as to the new claims.ⁿ²⁸ For complete discussion of the requisites for exhaustion of administrative remedies under the FEHA, see Chapter 43, Part A.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

A respondent should apprise the DFEH of a relevant agency determination at the earliest opportunity to halt an investigation by the DFEH. Commentary by Dale Brodsky and Beverly Tucker.

[d] Consent Decree

The DFEH will also dismiss a complaint if it is covered by a court-ordered consent decree or if the respondent's allegedly unlawful conduct is required or approved by a consent decree.ⁿ²⁹

■ PRACTICE TIP:

A respondent should provide the DFEH with a copy of the consent decree and request a dismissal on that ground. Commentary by Dale Brodsky and Beverly Tucker.

[3] Substantive Defenses

Respondents may present evidence to rebut the factual allegations in the complaint and the evidence adduced by the DFEH in the course of its investigation, or the respondents may assert affirmative defenses such as bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ) or business necessity. For a detailed discussion of substantive defenses to charges of employment discrimination, including BFOQ and business necessity, see Chapter 41, Part E.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

During a DFEH investigation, the respondent is not required by any law or regulation to present a defense. The respondent is only required to provide information sought by the DFEH. However, if the respondent chooses to assert any defenses that go to the merits of the complaint, it is advisable to present every substantive defense warranted by the facts. A defense that is not advanced at the first opportunity may later be attacked by the complainant as pretextual or fabricated. Commentary by Dale Brodsky and Beverly Tucker.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7415.

(n2)Footnote 2. See, e.g., Mahdavi v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1977) 67 Cal. App. 3d 326, 136 Cal. Rptr. 421. For discussion of DFEH's authority to investigate and prosecute cases, see § 42.21[1].

(n3)Footnote 3. See Gov. Code § 11505(a).

(n4)Footnote 4. See Gov. Code § 11506(a). For complete discussion of notice of defense, see § 42.32[4].

(n5)Footnote 5-6. [Reserved]

(n6)Footnote 7. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 6 (Sept. 23, 1986).

(n7)Footnote 8. [Reserved]

(n8)Footnote 9. See Gov. Code §§ 12930(g)(1), 12963.1.

(n9)Footnote 10. See [2][a], below.

(n10)Footnote 11. Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985).

(n11)Footnote 12. Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985).

(n12)Footnote 13. Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985).

(n13)Footnote 14. See Gov. Code § 12926(d); Robinson v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 226, 234-243, 5 Cal. Rptr. 2d 782, 825 P.2d 767 (number of employees on payroll is determinative of whether employer "regularly employs" five or more employees). In harassment cases, the jurisdictional requirement of five or more employees is reduced to one employee. See Gov. Code § 12940(j)(4).

(n14)Footnote 15. Gov. Code § 12926(d); see McKeon v. Mercury Healthcare Sacramento (1998) 19 Cal. 4th 321, 331, 79 Cal. Rptr. 2d 319, 965 P.2d 1189 (religious entity exemption includes religious entities organized under Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation Law as well as Religious Corporation Law); see also DFEH v. Bohemian Club (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-01, pp. 12-15 (1988-1989 CEB FEHC Decisions) (nonprofit entity must be religious to be exempt from FEHA).

(n15)Footnote 16. Gov. Code § 12926(c).

(n16)Footnote 17. Gov. Code § 12926(c).

(n17)Footnote 18. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.5(b)(1).

(n18)Footnote 19. [Reserved]

(n19)Footnote 20. Gov. Code § 12926(i), (k); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.6(a)(4).

(n20)Footnote 21. Gov. Code § 12928.

(n21)Footnote 21.1. Civil Code Section 51.7; see Ch. 40, § 40.12[2].

(n22)Footnote 22. International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 12 v. Fair Employment Practice Comm'n (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 504, 510, 81 Cal. Rptr. 47 .

(n23)Footnote 23. Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 257, 259, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 (limitations period for EEOC charge began on the date that the plaintiff was notified of the decision to deny him tenure, rather than the date one year later when his employment terminated).

(n24)Footnote 24. Romano v. Rockwell Int'l, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 497, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 .

(n25)Footnote 25. Romano v. Rockwell Int'l, Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 497-501, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 ; see also , Mullins v. Rockwell Internat. Corp. (1997) 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 636 applying Romano reasoning to constructive termination in claims for wrongful termination.

(n26)Footnote 26. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.10(c).

(n27)Footnote 27. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985).

(n28)Footnote 28. Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1718, 1729-1730, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 181 .

(n29)Footnote 29. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985).

136 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.27

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.27 Discovery During Investigation

[1] DFEH's Discovery Powers

After a complaint is filed, the DFEH has a variety of discovery tools to obtain information. Government Code Section 12963.1 authorizes the DFEH to issue and serve on an individual, corporation, partnership, association, public entity, or other organization subpoenas to compel the production of books, records, documents or other physical materials, and attendance and testimony of witnesses at deposition.ⁿ¹ A subpoena must identify with "reasonable particularity" the things to be producedⁿ² or the matters on which testimony is sought.ⁿ³ Subpoenas to compel appearance and production of books, records, documents, and physical materials need not be accompanied by an affidavit showing good cause or the materiality of the things sought to be produced.ⁿ⁴

In addition to taking depositionsⁿ⁵ and issuing and serving requests for production of documents by way of subpoena,ⁿ⁶ the DFEH may also issue and serve written interrogatories in the same manner that it issues and serves subpoenas under Government Code Section 12963.1.ⁿ⁷

These discovery devices may be used to obtain information not only from the respondent named in the complaint, but also from any other individual or entity in possession or control of the information sought.ⁿ⁸ If a notice of deposition is issued to an individual or organization not named in the complaint, the DFEH must also provide written notice of the deposition to each individual or organization alleged in the complaint to have committed an unlawful practice.ⁿ⁹

[2] [Reserved]

[3] [Reserved]

[4] Obtaining Compliance with Discovery Requests

If an individualⁿ¹⁰⁻¹¹ or organization fails to comply with a subpoena, interrogatory, request for production, or deposition examination, the DFEH may petition a superior court for an order compelling compliance.ⁿ¹² Government

Code section 12963.5 sets forth the procedural requirements for petitioning the superior court for an enforcement order and seeking a writ of mandamus in the appropriate court of appeal, if necessary.ⁿ¹³ The filing of a petition to compel compliance with discovery under Government Code section 12963.5 extends the period of time within which the DFEH must file an accusation.ⁿ¹⁴ The extended period is the period between the filing of a petition under section 12963.5 and whichever of the following occurs later: (1) the final effective date, after the exhaustion of any challenges to the original order in higher courts, of an order of the superior court denying the petition, or (2) the filing by the DFEH of a certified statement pursuant to Government Code section 12963.5(e) indicating the respondent's compliance with the superior court order granting the petition.ⁿ¹⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law
Agency Investigations
Scope
General Overview
Public Health & Welfare Law
Housing & Public Buildings
Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12963.1(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12963.1(c).

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12963.1(d).

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12963.1(c).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Gov. Code § 12963.3.

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12963.4.

(n7)Footnote 7. See Gov. Code § 12963.2(a).

(n8)Footnote 8. See Gov. Code § 12963.1(a).

(n9)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 12963.3(a).

(n10)Footnote 10-11. [Reserved]

(n11)Footnote 12. Gov. Code § 12963.5(a).

(n12)Footnote 13. See Gov. Code § 12963.5(d).

(n13)Footnote 14. Gov. Code § 12963.5(f).

(n14)Footnote 15. Gov. Code § 12963.5(f).

137 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.28

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.28 Confidentiality of Information Received by DFEH

[1] Statutes Governing Disclosure

[a] In General

The Information Practices Act,ⁿ¹ the Public Records Act,ⁿ² and a provision of the FEHAⁿ³ govern disclosure of information contained in DFEH investigative files.

[b] Information Practices Act

Under the Information Practices Act (IPA),ⁿ⁴ a public agency such as the DFEH may not disclose any personal information contained in its records in any manner that would link the information to the individual to whom it pertains, except under certain specified circumstances.ⁿ⁵ Such circumstances include the following:

1. When the disclosure is to the individual to whom the information pertains or to the duly appointed guardian or conservator of the individual or a person authorized to represent the individual;ⁿ⁶
2. When the individual has given prior written voluntary consent not more than 30 days before the disclosure, or within the time limit agreed to by the individual in the written consent;ⁿ⁷
3. When disclosure is made to officers, employees, attorneys, agents, or volunteers of the agency that has custody of the information, if the disclosure is relevant and necessary in the ordinary course of their official duties and is related to the purpose for which the information was acquired;ⁿ⁸
4. When disclosure is made to a person or another agency in order for the transferee agency to perform its constitutional or statutory duties, and the use is compatible with a purpose for which the information was collected, and the use or transfer is accounted for in accordance with Civil Code section 1798.25;ⁿ⁹

5. When disclosure is to a governmental entity and is required by state or federal law;ⁿ¹⁰
6. When disclosure is made to a law enforcement or regulatory agency and is required for an investigation of unlawful activity or for licensing, certification, or regulatory purposes, unless the disclosure is otherwise prohibited by law;ⁿ¹¹
7. When disclosure is made pursuant to the California Public Records Act;ⁿ¹² and
8. When disclosure is to another person or governmental organization to the extent necessary to obtain information as necessary for an investigation by the agency of a failure to comply with a specific state law that the agency is responsible for enforcing.ⁿ¹³

Individuals have a right of access to personal information maintained by the DFEH that pertains to them, subject to certain limitations.ⁿ¹⁴ However, under the IPA, the DFEH need not disclose personal information under certain specified circumstances, such as when the information pertains to the investigation of a grievance or complaint or a suspected civil offense, as long as the purpose of withholding the information is to avoid compromising the investigation or a related investigation.ⁿ¹⁵ Furthermore, the identities of individuals who provided information for the investigation may be withheld pursuant to Civil Code section 1798.38.ⁿ¹⁶ Civil Code section 1798.38 provides that if information is received with the promise or understanding that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, and the source is not in a supervisory position with respect to the individual to whom the record pertains, the agency must inform the individual of all personal information about him or her without identifying the source.ⁿ¹⁷

If the DFEH does make a disclosure pursuant to Civil Code section 1798.24(o) or (p) of the IPA (disclosure for investigative purposes), the DFEH must keep an accurate accounting of the date, nature, and purpose of the disclosure.ⁿ¹⁸ If the DFEH makes a disclosure of a record pursuant to Civil Code section 1798.24(e) or (f), the DFEH must make such an accounting or provide notice of the disclosure pursuant to notification requirements provided in Civil Code sections 1798.9 and 1798.10.ⁿ¹⁹

The IPA provides civil remediesⁿ²⁰ and disciplinary and criminal penalties for violations of the IPA.ⁿ²¹

[2] Information Nondisclosable on Prior Agreement of Confidentiality

The DFEH is required to provide conciliation assistanceⁿ²² in confidence and without publicity.ⁿ²³ In addition, Government Code section 12932(b) provides that the DFEH must hold confidential any information acquired in the regular performance of its duties on the understanding that it would be so held.ⁿ²⁴ The DFEH accepts information that is conditioned on confidentiality only when there is no other way to obtain the information, and the information is expected to lead to other information that need not be kept confidential.ⁿ²⁵ A consultant's notes of an oral communication as well as written material may be accepted as confidential.ⁿ²⁶

A directive issued by the DFEH distinguishes between confidential information that the DFEH obtains pursuant to Government Code section 12932(b) and confidential information under the IPA.ⁿ²⁷ Whereas the IPA requires disclosure to an individual to whom the information pertains as long as the source is not revealed (either by providing a summary of the information or by providing the material with appropriate deletions to maintain confidentiality),ⁿ²⁸ the DFEH policy regarding information conditioned on a promise of confidentiality under Government Code section 12932(b) is that the information may not be released for any purpose.ⁿ²⁹ Despite the apparent conflict between Government Code section 12932(b) and the IPA,ⁿ³⁰ which provides that it supersedes any other provision of state law that authorizes an agency to withhold personal information that is otherwise accessible under the IPA,ⁿ³¹ the DFEH policy may be justified by a different section of the IPA, which allows an agency to withhold from disclosure certain information that would compromise the investigation of a grievance, complaint, or suspected civil offense.ⁿ³²

A DFEH or FEHC employee who violates Government Code section 12932(b) is guilty of a misdemeanor.ⁿ³³ In addition, an employee who violates the confidentiality requirements may be subject to discipline pursuant to the Civil Service Act,ⁿ³⁴ although there are no reported cases on point.

[3] Confidentiality of EEOC Charges

Confidentiality provisions in the EEOC's worksharing agreement with the DFEH prohibit the DFEH from revealing the existence of a Title VII charge and any information obtained by the EEOC in the course of its investigation unless a Title VII lawsuit involving that information has already been instituted.ⁿ³⁵

[4] Disclosability of Information Sought by Parties in Open DFEH Files

[a] Information Sought by Legal Process

[i] Types of Disclosable Information

While a complaint is under investigation, either the complainant or respondent may subpoena documents contained in the DFEH's investigative file in the particular case. Discoverable information includes:ⁿ³⁶

1. The complaint;
2. The consultant's case diary or chronicle of contacts made in the course of the investigation;
3. The pre-complaint questionnaire completed by the complainant;
4. The DFEH's service letter;ⁿ³⁷
5. The consultant's notes and the progress report from the consultant to the DFEH chief counsel;ⁿ³⁸
6. Information to and from the complainant and respondent, including that which concerns respondent's financial situation and third parties;
7. Most settlement agreements; and
8. The 14-day closure letter sent to complainant.ⁿ³⁹

[ii] Types of Information Not Disclosable

Information that will not be disclosed, even pursuant to a subpoena, includes:ⁿ⁴⁰

1. All settlement and/or conciliation offers;
2. Medical reports;
3. Notes to and from attorneys on the DFEH's legal staff; and
4. Information obtained on the condition that it be kept confidential.ⁿ⁴¹

[b] Information Sought by Written Request

The complainant making a written request for production of documents is entitled to a copy of (1) the complaint, (2) the pre-complaint questionnaire, (3) information sent to and received from the complainant, and (4) any settlement agreements contained in the DFEH file.ⁿ⁴² By written request, the respondent may obtain a copy of (1) the complaint, (2) the service letter, (3) information sent to and received from the respondent, including general and financial information and information that pertains to third parties, and (4) any settlement agreements.ⁿ⁴³

The consultant's case diary, notes, progress reports, or draft or final closing reports; settlement offers; medical reports; attorney notes; and confidential information from any source may not be obtained by written request.ⁿ⁴⁴

[5] Disclosability of Information Sought by Parties in Closed DFEH Files

[a] Types of Disclosable Information

In cases that have been closed by the DFEH, the complainant and respondent may obtain the following documents pursuant to a subpoena or court order:ⁿ⁴⁵

1. The complaint;
2. The case diary;
3. The service letter;ⁿ⁴⁶⁻⁴⁷
4. The consultant's notes;
5. Information to and from the complainant and respondent, including information regarding the respondent's financial condition and information regarding third parties;
6. Settlement agreements that contain no confidentiality provisions;
7. The DFEH 14-day letter sent to complainant. and
8. The consultant's closing report.

A complainant or respondent may also obtain the above information by written request, but a respondent is not entitled to either the pre-complaint questionnaire filled out by the complainantⁿ⁴⁸ or to information provided by or sent to the complainant after the case is closed, in the absence of a subpoena or court order.ⁿ⁴⁹ Similarly, the complainant must obtain a subpoena or court order to obtain information provided to or received from the respondent concerning third parties.ⁿ⁵⁰

[b] Types of Information Not Disclosable

The DFEH will not release the following information, even pursuant to a subpoena or court order:ⁿ⁵¹

1. Settlement/conciliation negotiation offers;
2. Medical reports;
3. Progress reports;ⁿ⁵²
4. Attorney notes and memoranda;

5. Confidential information from any source; and
6. Draft closing reports prior to final approval by the consultant's supervisor.

[6] Third Party Requests for Information Contained in DFEH Files

A person who is not the complainant or respondent but is named in the investigation may obtain by written request a copy of the complaint and other documents regarding him or her after they are purged of all other personal information.ⁿ⁵³ On written request, third parties who are not involved in the investigation, such as the press, other individuals, and business entities may also obtain a copy of a purged complaint only; however, all affected parties must be notified of the release of information prior to disclosure.ⁿ⁵⁴

[7] Procedures on Disclosure of DFEH Files

All requests for disclosure must be in writing.ⁿ⁵⁵ When the complainant's attorney requests information without legal process, the complainant must provide written verification that the attorney is complainant's attorney-of-record prior to disclosure.ⁿ⁵⁶ Prior to disclosure of documents to either the complainant or respondent, the IPAⁿ⁵⁷ requires that the DFEH purge all information that might identify third persons who provided information in confidence to the agency.ⁿ⁵⁸

Whenever personal or confidential information is disclosed pursuant to a legal process, the IPA requires that a reasonable attempt be made to notify the individual to whom the information pertains before the disclosure is made.ⁿ⁵⁹ To comply with this requirement, the DFEH sends a letter to the individual who will be identified when documents in the case file are disclosed, informing him or her of the impending disclosure.ⁿ⁶⁰

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law
Agency Investigations
General Overview
Public Health & Welfare Law
Housing & Public Buildings
Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Civ. Code §§ 1798-1798.78.

(n2)Footnote 2. See Gov. Code §§ 6250-6267.

(n3)Footnote 3. See Gov. Code § 12963.7(b) (providing that it is misdemeanor for any DFEH staff person to disclose what has transpired in course of any endeavors to eliminate unlawful employment practice through conference, conciliation, and persuasion).

(n4)Footnote 4. See Civ. Code §§ 1798-1798.78.

(n5)Footnote 5. See Civ. Code § 1798.24.

(n6)Footnote 6. See Civ. Code § 1798.24(a), (c).

(n7)Footnote 7. Civ. Code § 1798.24(b).

(n8)Footnote 8. Civ. Code § 1798.24(d).

(n9)Footnote 9. Civ. Code § 1798.24(e). With respect to information transferred from a law enforcement or regulatory agency or to another law enforcement or regulatory agency, a use is compatible if use of the information requested is needed in an investigation of unlawful activity under the jurisdiction of the requesting agency or for licensing, certification, or regulatory purposes by that agency. Civ. Code § 1798.24(e).

(n10)Footnote 10. Civ. Code § 1798.24(f).

(n11)Footnote 11. Civ. Code § 1798.24(o).

(n12)Footnote 12. Civ. Code § 1798.24(g); see Gov. Code §§ 6250-6267.

(n13)Footnote 13. Civ. Code § 1798.24(p).

(n14)Footnote 14. See Civ. Code §§ 1798.30-1798.44.

(n15)Footnote 15. Civ. Code § 1798.40(d).

(n16)Footnote 16. Civ. Code § 1798.40(d).

(n17)Footnote 17. See Civ. Code § 1798.38.

(n18)Footnote 18. See Civ. Code § 1798.25.

(n19)Footnote 19. See Civ. Code § 1798.25.

(n20)Footnote 20. See Civ. Code §§ 1798.45-1798.53.

(n21)Footnote 21. See Civ. Code §§ 1798.55-1798.57.

(n22)Footnote 22. See Gov. Code § 12963.7(a).

(n23)Footnote 23. See Gov. Code § 12932(b). For discussion of conciliation generally, see § 42.31.

(n24)Footnote 24. See Evid. Code § 1040 (public official has privilege to refuse to disclose official information if disclosure would be against public interest).

(n25)Footnote 25. See Enforcement Division Directive No. 38 (June 16, 1983).

(n26)Footnote 26. See Enforcement Division Directive No. 38 (June 16, 1983).

(n27)Footnote 27. See Enforcement Division Directive No. 38 (June 16, 1983).

(n28)Footnote 28. See Civ. Code § 1798.38; see also discussion in [1][b], above.

(n29)Footnote 29. See Enforcement Division Directive No. 38 (June 16, 1983). Written documentation of confidential information is kept in a separately labeled envelope in the case file. Enforcement Division Directive No. 38 (June 16, 1983).

(n30)Footnote 30. Compare Gov. Code § 12932(b) with Civ. Code § 1798.38.

(n31)Footnote 31. See Civ. Code § 1798.70.

(n32)Footnote 32. See Civ. Code § 1798.40(d).

(n33)Footnote 33. Gov. Code § 12932(b).

(n34)Footnote 34. See Cal. Const. Art. VII, § 3; Gov. Code §§ 19570-19588.

(n35)Footnote 35. Supplemental Memorandum (Feb. 28, 1985) to Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n36)Footnote 36. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n37)Footnote 37. [Reserved]

(n38)Footnote 38. The DFEH's position is that progress reports are "attorney-client work products" and are thereby nondisclosable without a subpoena while a case is open. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 49 (March 24, 1986). After an accusation has been issued a party may obtain a copy of the progress report by making a request for production of documents pursuant to Gov. Code § 11507.6. Supplemental Memorandum to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 49 (August 1, 1986). For discussion of progress reports, see § 42.30[1].

(n39)Footnote 39. [Reserved]

(n40)Footnote 40. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n41)Footnote 41. For discussion, see [2], above.

(n42)Footnote 42. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n43)Footnote 43. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n44)Footnote 44. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n45)Footnote 45. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n46)Footnote 46-47. [Reserved]

(n47)Footnote 48. Supplemental Memorandum (August 20, 1986) to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n48)Footnote 49. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n49)Footnote 50. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n50)Footnote 51. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n51)Footnote 52. Progress reports are disclosable to respondents in cases which proceed to accusation before the FEHC. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n52)Footnote 53. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n53)Footnote 54. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n54)Footnote 55. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n55)Footnote 56. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n56)Footnote 57. Civ. Code §§ 1798-1798.78.

(n57)Footnote 58. See Civ. Code § 1798.38; see also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n58)Footnote 59. See Civ. Code § 1798.24(k); see also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

(n59)Footnote 60. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 21 (as amended July 1, 1986).

138 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.29

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.29 Settlements

[1] Generally

The complainant, respondent, or DFEH may initiate efforts to settle a complaint of discrimination at any time during the administrative process. The consultant's first attempt to do so is at the predetermination stage shortly after the complaint has been filed and served on the employer.ⁿ¹ Once the case is actually under investigation, the consultant will again seek to negotiate a settlement. Settlement may also follow formal conciliation effortsⁿ² and prior to the filing of an accusationⁿ³ in a case in which the DFEH has found the allegations in the complaint to be meritorious.ⁿ⁴

[2] Effect of Collective Bargaining Agreement

Relying on judicial decisions concerning the effect of collective bargaining agreements on remedies for discrimination,ⁿ⁵ the DFEH requires that the union be a party to a settlement agreement if there is a collective bargaining agreement in effect covering the workplace, even if the union itself has not violated the law or aided and abetted in discrimination.ⁿ⁶ If the union refuses to accept the agreement voluntarily, the DFEH amends the complaint to name the union as a co-respondent and again attempts to secure a settlement. If the union still refuses to sign the agreement and the case is meritorious, the DFEH issues an accusation in which the union is named as a co-respondent for the purpose of effecting a remedy.ⁿ⁷

[3] Settlement Agreement

The DFEH uses standard settlement agreement forms.ⁿ⁸ If a respondent or respondent's attorney insists on preparing the settlement agreement, the District Administrator must approve it, the agreement must contain specific language from the DFEH's standard form, and the agreement must not contain any waiver language beyond the subject of the complaint being resolved.ⁿ⁹ The DFEH also discourages confidentiality language and overly broad waiver language in settlement agreements.^{n9.1}

The terms of any settlement agreement should be clear, specific and appropriate. All violations discovered in the course of the DFEH's proceedings should be addressed. All agreements must specifically state the parties' intent in terms of dates by which specified acts must be performed; the names, titles, or groups of individuals who are to perform the acts; and, if appropriate, specifically which acts are to be performed.^{n9.2} When affirmative or prospective relief is part of the agreement, the agreement should include monitoring language.^{n9.3}

[4] Private Settlements Between Parties

The DFEH need not be a party to a settlement agreement entered into by the complainant and respondent during the administrative process.ⁿ¹⁰ DFEH may choose to exclude itself from a settlement agreement because it is unwilling to acquiesce to a respondent's insistence on the complainant's broad waiver of future rights or because it is dissatisfied with the proposed confidentiality requirements.ⁿ¹¹ The complainant and respondent may also wish to exclude the DFEH from being a party to a settlement agreement if, for example, the agreement is designed to resolve a complainant's pending or potential civil actions involving issues other than FEHA violations. Although it would be theoretically possible for the DFEH director to file a complaint in the public interest, notwithstanding the complainant's desire to settle with the respondent,ⁿ¹² once the complainant has confirmed that a settlement agreement has been reached, the DFEH will dismiss the complaint.ⁿ¹³

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

DFEH practice contrasts with EEOC practice in these circumstances, because the EEOC may continue investigating a charge--and eventually litigate it--notwithstanding a private settlement agreement between the charging party and the respondents.ⁿ¹⁴ Such an outcome would not allow the charging party to recover any additional monetary or "make-whole" relief, but it could result in injunctive relief or other remedies that the EEOC may seek "in the public interest."ⁿ¹⁵ As a consequence, it is highly important for an employer to reach a conciliation agreement in which the EEOC concurs if the employer wants to eliminate a dispute under Title VII, whereas the employer does not need DFEH concurrence to accomplish this goal under the FEHA. Commentary by Erica B. Grubb and Kirby Wilcox.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication General Overview Civil Procedure Settlements General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988). For discussion of pre-determination procedures generally, see § 42.25[3][a].

(n2)Footnote 2. For discussion of conciliation, see § 42.31.

(n3)Footnote 3. For discussion of accusation, see § 42.32.

(n4)Footnote 4. See Gov. Code § 12964.

(n5)Footnote 5. See, e.g., W.R. Grace & Co. v. Local 759 (1983) 461 U.S. 757, 771, 103 S. Ct. 2177, 76 L. Ed. 2d 298 (holding that absent judicial determination, agreement of EEOC and employer could not alter collective bargaining agreement without union's consent); E.E.O.C. v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (5th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 567, 576-580, cert. denied, 467 U.S. 1204 (1984) (conciliation agreement providing for retroactive seniority in contravention of collective bargaining agreement held unenforceable without union's acceptance unless union has participated in adjudication that discrimination has occurred).

(n6)Footnote 6. Supplemental Memorandum (Jan. 30, 1987) to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 48 (March 19, 1986).

(n7)Footnote 7. Supplemental Memorandum (Jan. 30, 1987) to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 48 (March 19, 1986).

(n8)Footnote 8. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive 400, § 4(A)(1), October 1, 1998, available online at <http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Directives/e400.pdf>.

(n9)Footnote 9. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive 400, § 4(A)(2), October 1, 1998.

(n10)Footnote 9.1. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive 400, § 4(B), (C), October 1, 1998.

(n11)Footnote 9.2. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive 400, § 4(D)(1), (2), October 1, 1998.

(n12)Footnote 9.3. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive 400, § 4(D)(3), October 1, 1998.

(n13)Footnote 10. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 48 (March 19, 1986).

(n14)Footnote 11. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 48 (March 19, 1986).

(n15)Footnote 12. See Gov. Code § 12981(a) (authorization for director's complaint if violation is not eliminated through conference, conciliation, and persuasion).

(n16)Footnote 13. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985)(closing category No. 7).

(n17)Footnote 14. See E.E.O.C. v. Goodyear Aerospace Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1539, 1542-1543.

(n18)Footnote 15. See discussion in § 42.73.

139 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.30

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.30 Determination

[1] Finding of Cause and Progress Report

After completing an investigation, the consultant may determine that there is reasonable cause to believe that one of the statutes enforced by DFEH has been violated.ⁿ¹ In the event of such a "cause" determination, the consultant must prepare a progress report addressed to the DFEH chief counsel setting forth the reasons why he or she believes an accusation should be filed.ⁿ² The consultant prepares a progress report at or near the end of an investigation in which the complaint's allegations appear to be sustained by the evidence. The progress report contains a chronology of events, analysis of the merits of the complaint, and remedy information, including information concerning the complainant's damages and efforts to mitigate damages.ⁿ³

[2] Case Closure

[a] Closure Prior to Determination on the Merits

The consultant may decide to close the case for a number of reasons prior to actually making a determination on the merits of the allegations.ⁿ⁴ For example, a DFEH complaint will be dismissed before the completion of an investigation if:

1. The DFEH decides to waive the case to another agency (such as the EEOC) or another agency requests waiver;ⁿ⁵
2. It is not possible to make a merit determination within the time period specified in Government Code section 12965(a);ⁿ⁶
3. The investigation reveals that the DFEH has no jurisdiction over the complaint;ⁿ⁷
4. A remedy that the DFEH deemed to be equitable was offered to and refused by the complainant;ⁿ⁸

5. No remedy is available;ⁿ⁹ or

6. The parties, with or without DFEH participation, negotiate a settlement agreement.ⁿ¹⁰

[b] Pre-Closure After Adverse Determination on Merits

If, after investigating the complaint, the consultant determines that there is insufficient evidence to prove a violation of the FEHA, he or she sends the complainant a pre-closure letter advising the complainant that the case will be closed at the expiration of 14 days unless additional information is provided to justify a continuation of the investigation.ⁿ¹¹ If the complainant provides no additional information, the consultant prepares a closing report and notifies the complainant and respondent of the final closure of the case.

On occasion, although the specific allegations in the complaint are not sustained by the investigation, the consultant discovers other violations of the FEHA. The consultant may enter into a settlement agreement with the respondent, with or without the participation of the complainant, to resolve other violations identified during the investigation and close the individual's case for lack of sufficient evidence.ⁿ¹²

[c] Notice of Case Closure and Right to Sue

The DFEH sends a printed notice of case closure and right to sue once the DFEH has made a final determination to close a case for insufficient evidence or any other reason discussed in [a], above. The DFEH sends a copy of the form letter to the complainant and the respondent. If the complainant has not previously received a right-to-sue letter,ⁿ¹³ this form constitutes notification of the right to bring a civil action.ⁿ¹⁴

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Investigations General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 10 (March 30, 1983). For various reasons cases are sometimes closed prior to such a determination. For discussion, see [2], below.

(n2)Footnote 2. For discussion of disclosability of consultants' progress reports, see § 42.28[4][a][i].

(n3)Footnote 3. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 49 (March 24, 1986).

(n4)Footnote 4. See DFEH Complaint Process Flow Chart (March 9, 1988).

(n5)Footnote 5. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985)(closing category No. 11).

(n6)Footnote 6. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive Nos. 8 (June 26, 1985) (closing category No. 13), 30 (Nov. 23, 1982).

(n7)Footnote 7. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985)(closing category No. 1).

(n8)Footnote 8. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985)(closing category No. 17).

(n9)Footnote 9. For example, DFEH legal staff may advise the consultant that the respondent has declared bankruptcy and the debt resulting from any monetary remedy would be dischargeable. see DFEH Enforcement

Division Directive No. 40 (May 29, 1986); see also DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985) (closing category Nos. 9, 15).

(n10)Footnote 10. DFEH Enforcement Division Directives No. 48 (March 19, 1986), No. 8 (June 26, 1985) (closing category nos. 7, 16). For discussion of settlement, see § 42.29[1].

(n11)Footnote 11. The DFEH will not permit a complainant to request that the DFEH discontinue its investigation and elect court action in order to avoid an adverse finding after the 14-day pre-closure letter is sent. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 7 (May 18, 1984). For discussion of and form of complainant's request to discontinue investigation of complaint, see § 42.25[3][b].

(n12)Footnote 12. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 8 (June 26, 1985)(closing category No. 21).

(n13)Footnote 13. For discussion of right-to-sue letter and sample form of right-to-sue letter, see § 42.25[3][c] and [d], respectively.

(n14)Footnote 14. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

140 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.31

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.31 Conciliation

The DFEH defines conciliation as any complaint resolution attempt "which occur[s] AFTER the Department has made a merit determination that there is reasonable cause to believe one of the statutes it enforces has been violated."ⁿ¹ Under Government Code Section 12963.7(a), as soon as the DFEH determines that a complaint is valid, it "shall immediately endeavor to eliminate the unlawful employment practice complained of by conference, conciliation, and persuasion."ⁿ² However, the DFEH may issue an accusation without having first engaged in conciliation efforts "if circumstances warrant."ⁿ³

The staff of the DFEH is prohibited from disclosing what has transpired during conciliation efforts.ⁿ⁴ Any staff member who discloses information in violation of the statute is guilty of a misdemeanor, and if employed through the civil service, he or she is also subject to disciplinary action under the State Civil Service Act.ⁿ⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Investigations General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 10 (March 30, 1983) (emphasis in original).

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12963.7(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12965(a); see Motors Ins. Corp. v. Division of Fair Employment Practices (1981) 118 Cal. App. 3d 209, 224, 173 Cal. Rptr. 332 (decision under former Fair Employment Practices Act, precursor to FEHA); see also DFEH v. Hoag Memorial Hospital Presbyterian (1985) FEHC Dec. No. 85-10 at p. 10 (conciliation is not jurisdictional requirement for issuance of accusation).

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12963.7(a).

(n5)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12963.7(b). For discussion of confidentiality of DFEH information generally, see § 42.28.

141 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.32

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.32 Accusation

[1] Procedure

The DFEH may issue a written accusation, which is a pleading analogous to a complaint in a civil action, if conciliation fails or before conciliation, if circumstances warrant it.ⁿ¹ The accusation must contain the name of the respondent-employer; it must be served on the respondent-employern² together with a copy of the verified complaint and any amendment; and it must require the respondent to answer the charges at a hearing.ⁿ³

An accusation must be issued within one year after filing of a complaint, except for a group or class complaint or a complaint alleging a violation of Civil Code Section 51.7, for which the accusation may be issued within two years after the complaint is filed.ⁿ⁴ An accusation is deemed issued on the date it is filed with the FEHC.ⁿ⁵

[2] Service of Accusation

[a] On Respondent

On filing an accusation, the DFEH must serve it on the respondent by any means selected by the agency.ⁿ⁶ The FEHC's regulations require that service on the respondent be by personal service, registered mail, certified mail, or first class mail.ⁿ⁷ Proof of service of the accusation must be as authorized in civil actions.ⁿ⁸ However, no order adversely affecting the rights of the respondent may be made in any case unless the respondent is served personally or by registered mail, or unless the respondent has filed a notice of defense or otherwise appeared.ⁿ⁹

With the accusation, the DFEH must also serve:

1. A copy of the underlying complaint;ⁿ¹⁰
2. A statement that respondent may request a hearing by filing a notice of defense, as provided in Government Code Section 11506, within 15 days after service of the accusation, and that failure to do so will constitute a waiver of the right to a hearing.n11

3. A post card or form entitled "Notice of Defense," which, when signed on behalf of the respondent and returned to the agency, acknowledges service of the accusation and constitutes a notice of defense;n12

4. Copies of Government Code Sections 11507.5, 11507.6, and 11507.7 (relating to discovery under Administrative Procedure Act);n13 and

5. A notice of the right to an interpreter at the hearing.n14

The DFEH may also include any other information that seems appropriate.n15

[b] On Complainant

The DFEH must also serve the accusation on the complainant, or--if the complainant has an attorney or representative of record--on that attorney or representative.n16 Service must be made personally, by first class, certified, or registered United States mail, or by leaving a copy at the principal office or place of business of the attorney, representative, or complainant.n17

[3] Reserved

[4] Notice of Defense

[a] Filing of Notice of Defense by Respondent

Within 15 days after service of an accusation by the DFEH, the respondent may file a written notice of defense in writing signed by or on behalf of the respondent.n18 The notice may be in the form provided by the DFEH in the accusation package or in any substantially equivalent form.n19 The respondent may use to notice to request a hearing and to state any objections to the form or substance of the accusation.n20 As with all papers filed with the Commission, the notice must be served on all parties and on the complainant, or on their attorneys or representatives.n21 Service must be by first class mail, registered or certified mail, overnight or express mail, or any other form of mail delivery or by facsimile transmission or other approved electronic means. If facsimile or electronic service is utilized, the person serving the document must also place a hard copy in the mail within any applicable time limit.n22 Service may also be by personal delivery.n23

The notice must provide the respondent's telephone number, mailing address and an address at which the respondent may be personally served.n24 If the respondent is represented or is a corporation, the notice shall state the attorney's or representative's name, mailing address and telephone number.n25 The notice need not be verified.n26

[b] Contents

The respondent may simply sign and return the notice of defense form that is served by DFEH with the accusation.n27 However, the respondent may also do any of the following in the notice of defense:n28

1. Request a hearing;
2. Object to the accusation on the ground that it does not state acts or omissions on which the agency may proceed;
3. Object to the form of the accusation on the ground that it is so indefinite or uncertain that the respondent cannot identify the transaction or prepare a defense;

4. Admit the accusation in whole or in part;

5. Present new matter by way of defense; or

6. Object to the accusation on the ground that compliance with a regulation would result in a material violation of another department's regulation affecting substantive rights.

The respondent is entitled to a hearing on the merits if he or she files a notice of defense, and is deemed to have denied all parts of the accusation not expressly admitted.ⁿ²⁹ However, all objections to the form of the accusation are deemed waived if not raised in the notice of defense.ⁿ³⁰

Failure to file a notice of defense waives a respondent's right to a hearing, but the FEHC may grant a hearing in its discretion.ⁿ³¹

[5] Amended or Supplemental Accusation

Government Code, section 11507 authorizes the DFEH to file or permit the filing of an amended or supplemental accusation at any time before the matter is submitted for decision. However, the Commission regulations provide that the DFEH may amend an accusation issued pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 12965 and 12948 to pray either for damages for emotional injury or for administrative fines, or both, only within the first thirty days after issuance of the original accusation.ⁿ³² The DFEH may amend with new charges (other than those in §§ 12965 and 12948) any time up to 30 calendar days prior to the original or continued date the hearing is scheduled to commence.ⁿ³³ Thereafter, an accusation may be amended with new charges only upon such terms as the Hearing Officer approves. "New charges" include any amendment which may affect the respondents' liability, such as the addition of a new respondent, substantive new facts, and a new or significantly modified prayer for relief.ⁿ³⁴

Any new charges shall be deemed controverted, and respondent need not file a new notice of defense. Objections to the amended accusation may be made orally and shall be noted on the record.ⁿ³⁵

The DFEH may amend the accusation to make nonsubstantive changes at any time before the matter is submitted to the Hearing Officer.ⁿ³⁶

The first amended accusation must be clearly labeled "First Amended Accusation," and subsequent amended accusations must be labeled consecutively. The DFEH must clearly identify the changes made in each amended accusation, either by highlighting them or through a separate written statement.ⁿ³⁷

Any amended accusations shall be filed with the Commission and served on all parties and the complainant in accordance with 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7406, 7407.ⁿ³⁸

[6] Withdrawal of Accusation

The DFEH may at any time withdraw an accusation issued pursuant to Gov. Code §§ 12965 and 12948. However, if a complainant's right-to-sue notice has expired and that complainant objects to the withdrawal, the Commission shall decide whether to permit the withdrawal and whether to allow the administrative adjudication to proceed without the DFEH, and if so, on what terms.ⁿ³⁹

[7] Election to Transfer Proceedings to Court

The employer may elect to transfer the proceedings to a court in lieu of an administrative hearing pursuant to Government Code Section 12965(a) if an accusation includes a prayer for damages for emotional injuries as a component of actual damages, or for administrative fines, or for both.ⁿ⁴⁰ To do so, the employer must serve a written notice to that effect on the DFEH, the FEHC, and the complainant in the manner prescribed by the FEHC within 30 days after the service of the accusation or amended accusation.ⁿ⁴¹

If the employer makes such an election, the DFEH must dismiss the accusation within 30 days of the notice and file (or elect to have the Attorney General file) an action on behalf of the complainant as the real party in interest in the appropriate court.ⁿ⁴² The rules for venue are the same as those for other civil actions brought pursuant to the FEHA.ⁿ⁴³ Transferred actions are assigned to the court's delay-reduction program or otherwise given priority by the court.ⁿ⁴⁴ The complainant has the right to participate as a party and to be represented by his or her own counsel.ⁿ⁴⁵ The complainant has the same right to relief as in actions filed pursuant to Government Code Section 12965(b), in addition to any other relief that in the court's judgment will effectuate the purpose of the FEHA.ⁿ⁴⁶ For discussion of relief available in FEHA actions generally, see Chapter 43, Part A.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12965(a). see discussion in § 42.31.

(n2)Footnote 2. For discussion of service of accusation, see [2], below.

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12965(a).

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12965(a); see Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1220, cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 (1991) (construing former Lab. Code § 1422.2 (now see Gov. Code § 12965(a)); one-year deadline for DFEH to issue accusation is statute of limitations subject to equitable tolling, not jurisdictional prerequisite that divests courts of jurisdiction to hear claim). For discussion of Civ. Code § 51.7, see § 40.12.

(n5)Footnote 5. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408(b).

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code §§ 11505(a), (c), 12972(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7408(i), 7407.

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code §§ 11505(c), 12972(b).

(n9)Footnote 9. Gov. Code §§ 11505(c), 12972(b).

(n10)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12965(a); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408(i), 7407.

(n11)Footnote 11. Gov. Code §§ 11505(a), 12972(b); see Gov. Code § 11506(b) (setting forth form of required statement).

(n12)Footnote 12. Gov. Code §§ 11505(a), 12972(b). For discussion of notice of defense, see [4], below.

(n13)Footnote 13. Gov. Code § 11505(a).

(n14)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7408.

(n15)Footnote 15. Gov. Code §§ 11505(a), 12972(b); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7436.

(n16)Footnote 16. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7407.

(n17)Footnote 17. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7407(h)(7).

(n18)Footnote 18. Gov. Code §§ 11506(a), (c), 12972(b); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7412(b).

(n19)Footnote 19. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7412(a).

(n20)Footnote 20. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7412(a).

(n21)Footnote 21. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7407.

(n22)Footnote 22. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7407.

(n23)Footnote 23. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7407.

(n24)Footnote 24. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7412(b).

(n25)Footnote 25. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7412(b).

(n26)Footnote 26. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7412(b).

(n27)Footnote 27. See Gov. Code §§ 11505(a), 12972.

(n28)Footnote 28. Gov. Code § 11506(a)(1)-(6).

(n29)Footnote 29. Gov. Code §§ 11506(b), 12972.

(n30)Footnote 30. Gov. Code §§ 11506(b), 12972.

(n31)Footnote 31. Gov. Code §§ 11506(b), 12972.

(n32)Footnote 32. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(a).

(n33)Footnote 33. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(b).

(n34)Footnote 34. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(b).

(n35)Footnote 35. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(c).

(n36)Footnote 36. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(d).

(n37)Footnote 37. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(e).

(n38)Footnote 38. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7409(f).

(n39)Footnote 39. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7415(a).

(n40)Footnote 40. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(1).

(n41)Footnote 41. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(1).

(n42)Footnote 42. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2).

(n43)Footnote 43. Compare Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2) with Gov. Code § 12965(b); see discussion in Ch. 43, pt. A.

(n44)Footnote 44. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2).

(n45)Footnote 45. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2).

(n46)Footnote 46. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(3).

142 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.33

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.33 Parties to Proceeding

The respondent and the DFEH are parties to a proceeding before the FEHC.ⁿ¹ The Administrative Procedure Act (APA), which applies to proceedings before the FEHC,ⁿ² includes in its definition of "party" the agency, the respondent, and any person, other than an officer or an employee of the agency in his official capacity, who has been allowed to appear or participate in the proceeding.ⁿ³ On motion pursuant to 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419, the FEHC may in its discretion permit any person with an interest in the outcome of a matter to intervene as a party.ⁿ⁴ The FEHC has permitted intervention by the complainants and a labor union that was the bargaining representative of the complainants.ⁿ⁵ The FEHC has also ordered joinder of individuals who held positions on a challenged eligibility list, but who did not move for intervention as persons with an interest in the remedy and in the outcome of the proceeding.ⁿ⁶

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawHousing & Public BuildingsFair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 11500(b).

(n2)Footnote 2. See Gov. Code § 12972(b).

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 11500(b).

(n4)Footnote 4. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7425(b).

(n5)Footnote 5. DFEH v. City and County of San Francisco (1982) FEHC Dec. No. 82-11 at p. 8, affirmed sub. nom. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Commission (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n6)Footnote 6. DFEH v. City and County of San Francisco (1982) FEHC Dec. No. 82-11, pp. 8, 10, affirmed sub. nom. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Commission (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

143 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.34

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.34 Representation of Respondent

A respondent may represent himself or herself, or may have legal or nonlegal representation at all stages of administrative adjudication.ⁿ¹ When the respondent is not represented by legal counsel, the FEHC must make every effort to ensure that the respondent's rights are protected.ⁿ²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication General Overview Civil Procedure Counsel General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7405(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7405(b).

144 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.35

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.35 Post-Accusation Discovery

[1] Generally

The discovery rights of the DFEH are more limited after an accusation has been issued than during the investigation of a complaint.ⁿ¹ The DFEH and the respondent may each take only a single deposition in the manner prescribed by law for taking depositions in civil actions in the superior court.ⁿ² However, the FEHC may order a witness to be deposed if he or she will be unavailable at the hearing or cannot be compelled to attend the hearing.ⁿ³

After issuance of an accusation, the DFEH or any other party to an accusation may seek discovery from any party.ⁿ⁴ Within 30 days after service of an accusation or 15 days after service of an amended accusation a party may obtain the names and addresses of witnesses known to the other party, including but not limited to, those intended to be called to testify at the hearing.ⁿ⁵ Within that same time period a party may inspect and copy any of the following items in the possession or custody or under the control of the other party:ⁿ⁶

1. A statement of a person, other than the respondent, named in the accusation or amended accusation, when the DFEH bases its accusation on an act or omission by the respondent toward such person;
2. A statement by any party relating to the subject matter of the proceeding;
3. Statements of proposed witnesses and other persons having personal knowledge of the acts or events that are the basis for the proceeding, which are not included in (1) or (2), above;
4. All writings, including but not limited to, reports of mental, physical, and blood examinations and things that the party then proposes to offer in evidence;
5. Any other writing or thing that is relevant and that would be admissible in evidence; and

6. Investigative reports made by or on behalf of the DFEH or other party relating to the subject matter of the proceeding, to the extent that such reports (a) contain the names and addresses of witnesses or of persons having personal knowledge of the acts, omissions, or events which are the basis for the proceeding; (b) reflect matters perceived by the investigator in the course of his or her investigation; or (c) contain or include by attachment any writing described in paragraphs (1) through (5), above, or a summary thereof.

In the case of an accusation that alleges sexual harassment, sexual assault, or sexual battery, evidence of a complainant's sexual conduct with individuals other than the alleged perpetrator is not discoverable unless it is to be offered at a hearing to attack the complainant's credibility.ⁿ⁷

No party may discover any writing or thing that is privileged from disclosure by law or otherwise made confidential or protected as the attorney's work product.ⁿ⁸

[2] FORM--Post-Accusation Request for Discovery

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a request for discovery from the DFEH following issuance of an accusation. Once an accusation is issued, a party is entitled to discovery.ⁿ⁹ The form can be modified to be used to request discovery from another party.

[b] Form

BEFORE THE FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING COMMISSION OF THE
STATE OF CALIFORNIA

In the Matter of the Accusation of THE DEPART-) MENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING,) vs.)
_____[Name],) Respondent,)
_____[Name],) Complainant.)
)

NO. _____
REQUEST FOR DISCOVERY
[Gov. Code § 11507.6]

TO THE DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING:

Pursuant to Government Code section 11507.6, _____ [name of party requesting discovery] requests the following:

1. The names and addresses of all witnesses to the extent known by you, including, but not limited to, those intended to be called to testify at the hearing.
2. An opportunity to inspect and copy all of the documents set forth in Government Code section 11507.6, subparagraphs (a) through (f), which are in your possession or under your custody and control.

Dated: _____

[signature]

Attorney for _____

[name of party]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication General Overview Administrative Law Agency Investigations General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. For discussion of discovery during the investigation of complaint, see § 42.27.

(n2)Footnote 2. See Gov. Code § 12972(c); Cooper v. Board of Medical Examiners (1975) 49 Cal. App. 3d 931, 945, 123 Cal. Rptr. 563 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See Gov. Code §§ 11511, 12972. For discussion, see § 42.37[3].

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code §§ 11507.6, 12972(b).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Gov. Code §§ 11507.6, 12972(b).

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code §§ 11507.6(a)-(f), 12972(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. Gov. Code §§ 11507.6(g), 12972(b).

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code §§ 11507.6(f), 12972(b). For discussion of confidential information, see § 42.28.

2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7447(d).

(n9)Footnote 9. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7417(a).

145 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.36

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.36 Pre-Hearing Motions to FEHC

[1] Types of Motions

The FEHC's procedural regulations provide that the following non-discovery motions may be made to the FEHC prior to commencement of hearing:n1

1. Intervention;
2. Amicus briefs;
3. Motion compelling deposition of an unavailable witness;
4. Consolidation or severance of matters for hearing;
5. Request for interpreter, in compliance with the rules set forth in 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7418 and Gov. Code §§ 11435.05-11435.65;
6. Motion to amend accusation
7. Motion to withdraw accusation;
9. Motion to change venue;
10. Other motions, on prior approval of the Executive and Legal Affairs Secretary (ELAS).

Pre-hearing motions may not decide substantive matters, including jurisdictional or legal challenges, which must be presented at the hearing on the merits.n2 However, if the parties stipulate in writing that there is a jurisdictional or other threshold dispositive issue which should be decided prior to the merits, the Hearing Officer assigned to the case may take evidence solely on that issue and issue a written ruling limited to that question.ⁿ³ For example, a respondent who, for example, contends that the FEHC lacks jurisdiction because the respondent employs fewer than five employeesⁿ⁴ must present this contention at a hearing and present a defense on the merits, as well, in the event the jurisdictional defense fails.ⁿ⁵

[2] Form and Procedure

Pre-hearing motions must be filed with the Executive and Legal Affairs Secretary (ELAS).ⁿ⁶ No special form of motion is required.ⁿ⁷ With a few specific exceptions, pre-hearing motions shall be filed and served at least 15 calendar days before the date set for commencement of the hearing.ⁿ⁸ Upon written application to, and approval of the ELAS, and for good cause on terms to be determined by the ELAS, motions may be heard on shorter notice.ⁿ⁹ The non-moving party shall have 7 days from the date of service of the motion (or on lesser or greater time in the discretion of the ELAS) to file and serve a response.ⁿ¹⁰

The ELAS or Hearing Officer assigned to the case shall issue an order granting or denying the motion; the order shall be in writing and served by mail on all parties of record.ⁿ¹¹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication Prehearing Activity Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(b)

(n2)Footnote 2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419

(n3)Footnote 3. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(a).

(n4)Footnote 4. See Gov. Code § 12926(d).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Robinson v. Dept. of Fair Employment & Housing (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1414, 1416, 239 Cal. Rptr. 908 .

(n6)Footnote 6. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(c)(1).

(n7)Footnote 7. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(c)(2).

(n8)Footnote 8. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(c)(3).

(n9)Footnote 9. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(c)(3).

(n10)Footnote 10. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(c)(3).

(n11)Footnote 11. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7419(c)(4).

146 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.37

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.37 Hearing Before Administrative Law Judge

[1] Conduct of Hearing

The FEHC conducts hearings on accusations issued by the DFEHⁿ¹ in accordance with its procedural regulations and, if the Commission does not have a procedural regulation on a particular issue, in accordance with pertinent provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), *Government Code Section 11370 et seq.*ⁿ² The Administrative Adjudication Bill of Rights^{n2.1} and the rules for judicial review^{n2.2} apply to the Commission as well.^{n2.3} All hearings are open to the public, unless the interests of justice require otherwise.ⁿ³ Attorneys or agents of the DFEH present the case in support of the accusation.ⁿ⁴ The FEHC may appoint its own hearing officer to hear the case,ⁿ⁵ or it may decide to hear the case along with the hearing officer.ⁿ⁶

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In practice, the commissioners rarely preside over the hearings themselves. Commissioners do not serve full-time, and because they reside in various parts of the state, it is difficult to assemble a quorum to hear cases that typically last several days. Commentary by Dale Brodsky and Beverly Tucker.

If the FEHC hears the case, the hearing officer presides at the hearing, rules on the admission and exclusion of evidence, and advises the FEHC on matters of law.ⁿ⁷ When the FEHC hears a case, it may exercise all other powers relating to the conduct of a hearing, including questioning witnesses, but it may delegate any of its powers to the hearing officer.ⁿ⁸ The proceedings at a hearing are reported by a stenographic reporter, but may be reported electronically if all parties consent.ⁿ⁹

[2] Hearing Dates and Continuances

The FEHA provides that hearings must take place not more than 90 days after the issuance of the accusation by the DFEH.ⁿ¹⁰ The DFEH determines the time, date, and place of the hearing unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.ⁿ¹¹ Requests for continuance must be made in writing and filed with the Executive and Legal Affairs Secretary (ELAS), and served on all parties and the complainant. Before making a request, the moving party must contact all the other parties to determine whether there is opposition. The moving party must state any opposition in its papers to the ELAS.ⁿ¹² Requests for continuance will only be granted for good cause.ⁿ¹³ A continuance beyond the 90-day time limitation after issuance of an accusation will only be granted by written stipulation of the parties, written waiver of the time limit by all respondents, and upon approval of the ELAS.ⁿ¹⁴

Moreover, once a hearing officer has been assigned to the hearing, a continuance may only be granted for good cause by the assigned judge or by the presiding judge of the appropriate regional office of the Office of Administrative Hearings.ⁿ¹⁵ A party must apply for a continuance within 10 working days after discovering the occurrence giving rise to good cause for a continuance.ⁿ¹⁶ However, a continuance may be granted after the 10-day period for good cause if the party is not responsible for the event or condition that established good cause and has made a good faith effort to prevent it.ⁿ¹⁷

If a hearing officer denies a request for a continuance, the party seeking the continuance must seek judicial review in the superior court within 10 working days.ⁿ¹⁸ A party applying for judicial relief from the denial of a continuance must give notice to the FEHC and parties to the action either orally (at the time of the denial) or in writing (at the time the application for judicial review is filed).ⁿ¹⁹ Failure to apply for judicial relief in this manner bars the party from such relief as a matter of jurisdiction.ⁿ²⁰

[3] Subpoenas and Depositions of Unavailable Witnesses

[a] Subpoenas

Before the hearing on the merits has commenced, the DFEH or the assigned administrative law judge, will issue subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum, on the request by any party, for the attendance or production of documents at the hearing.

Subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum must be issued in accordance with Code of Civil Procedure Sections 1985 through 1985.3, which apply generally to all trials of civil actions.ⁿ²¹

Two copies of each subpoena or subpoena duces tecum with proof of service must be filed with the FEHC.ⁿ²² They may be served in person in accordance with Code of Civil Procedure Sections 1987 and 1988.ⁿ²³

[b] Deposition of Unavailable Witnesses

A party may move the FEHC to take a deposition in lieu of testimony of material witnesses residing within or outside California who will be unable to attend or cannot be compelled to attend the hearing.ⁿ²⁴ The motion must set forth the following:ⁿ²⁵

1. The nature of the pending proceeding;
2. The name and address of the witness;
3. A showing of the materiality of the witness' testimony;
4. A showing that the witness is unable or cannot be compelled to attend; and
5. A request for an order requiring the witness to appear and testify before an officer named in the motion for that purpose.

Motions to take depositions of unavailable witnesses must be made by verified petition and filed and served in the same manner as other motions to the FEHC.ⁿ²⁶ That is, the party must serve notice of hearing and a copy of the petition on the other parties at least 10 days before the hearing.ⁿ²⁷

[4] Introduction of Affidavit in Evidence

Ten or more days before a hearing, any party may mail or deliver to all other parties an affidavit the party proposes to introduce in evidence together with a notice so stating.ⁿ²⁸ Unless, within seven days of mailing or delivery, an opposing party mails or delivers a request to cross-examine the affiant, the right to cross-examination is waived, and the affidavit, if introduced into evidence, is given the same effect as oral testimony.ⁿ²⁹ If the opposing party has no opportunity to cross-examine, despite a timely request, the affidavit may be introduced as hearsay evidence.ⁿ³⁰

[5] Pre-Hearing Statement

No later than 5 business days prior to the scheduled hearing (and after a telephone conference in which the parties make best efforts to resolve or define the hearing issues), each party shall file with the Commission a pre-hearing statement signed by the party or his or her representative.ⁿ³¹ The statement shall include, but need not be limited to:ⁿ³²

- A brief summary of any stipulated facts.
- Identification of all operative pleadings by their title and date signed.
- A current estimate from each party of the time necessary to try its case.
- The name of each witness each party may call at hearing, along with a brief statement of the content of expected testimony.
- The name and address of each expert witness to be called at hearing, along with a brief statement of the opinion each expert is expected to give and a copy of the current resume or curriculum vitae of each expert witness.
- A list of documentary exhibits each party intends to present at hearing and a description of any physical or demonstrative evidence.
- The identity of any witness whose testimony will be presented by affidavit or deposition.ⁿ³³
- A concise statement of any significant evidentiary issues.
- A copy of any pre-hearing motion filed by either party, any response filed thereto, and, if applicable, any order from the ELAS or Hearing Officer.
- Any anticipated motions in limine.

A suggested format for the pre-hearing statement is set out in the appendix to 2 Cal. Code Reg. Ch. 4, § 7400 et seq. The Hearing Officer has the discretion to exclude any items excluded from the pre-hearing statement without good cause.ⁿ³⁴ However, the parties are not required to disclose rebuttal or impeachment evidence.ⁿ³⁵

[6] Presentation of Evidence at Hearing

[a] In General

Oral evidence at the hearing must be taken only on oath or affirmation.ⁿ³⁶ Each party may call and examine witnesses, introduce exhibits, cross-examine opposing witnesses on any matter relevant to the issues even though the matter was not covered on direct examination, impeach any witness, regardless of which party called the witness, and rebut evidence against him or her.ⁿ³⁷ If respondent does not testify on his or her behalf, he or she may be called and examined as if under cross-examination.ⁿ³⁸

[b] Applicable Rules of Evidence

Technical rules relating to evidence and witnesses do not apply to FEHA administrative hearings, except as specifically provided in Government Code Section 11513.ⁿ³⁹ Thus, any relevant evidence is admitted if it is the sort of evidence on which responsible persons are accustomed to rely in the conduct of serious affairs, regardless of its inadmissibility under common law or statutory rules of evidence applicable to civil actions.ⁿ⁴⁰ Hearsay evidence may be used to supplement or explain other evidence, but cannot support a finding by itself unless it would be admissible over objection in a civil action.ⁿ⁴¹ Rules of privilege are effective to the extent that they are otherwise prescribed by statute, and irrelevant and unduly repetitious evidence must be excluded.ⁿ⁴²

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In practice, DFEH attorneys often make evidentiary objections based on the Evidence Code, and evidence is frequently held inadmissible by the hearing officer. Attorneys should make hearsay objections to evidence, even though it is admissible, because hearsay evidence may only be used for supplementing or explaining other evidence,ⁿ⁴³ and it may be important for the record to reflect that limitation. Commentary by Dale Brodsky, Esq. and Beverly Tucker, Esq.

The Hearing officer has discretion to exclude evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will necessitate undue consumption of time, or create substantial danger of undue prejudice or of confusing the issues.ⁿ⁴⁴ Judicial review of the hearing is governed by the Administrative Procedure Act, Gov. Code § 11523.ⁿ⁴⁵

[c] Evidence Regarding Complainant's Past Sexual Conduct

In any proceeding under the FEHA alleging conduct that constitutes sexual harassment, sexual assault, or sexual battery, evidence of specific instances of a complainant's sexual conduct with individuals other than the alleged perpetrator is not admissible at hearing unless offered to attack the credibility of the complainant.ⁿ⁴⁶ Any such evidence offered to attack the complainant's credibility is presumed inadmissible absent an offer of proof establishing its relevance and reliability and that its probative value is not substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will create substantial danger of undue prejudice or will confuse the issue.ⁿ⁴⁷

Reputation or opinion evidence regarding the complainant's sexual behavior is not admissible for any purpose.ⁿ⁴⁸

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication Hearings General Overview Administrative Law Agency Adjudication Presiding Officers Administrative Law Judges Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12967.

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12972(b)(1).

(n3)Footnote 2.1. See Gov. Code § 11425.10 et seq.

(n4)Footnote 2.2. See Gov. Code § 11523.

(n5)Footnote 2.3. Gov. Code § 12972(b)(2).

(n6)Footnote 3. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7429(b).

(n7)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12969. In practice, hearings are conducted by DFEH attorneys, frequently with the assistance of law clerks.

(n8)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12935(j).

(n9)Footnote 6. Gov. Code § 11512(a).

(n10)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 11512(b).

(n11)Footnote 8. See Gov. Code § 11512(b).

(n12)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 11512(d).

(n13)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12968; see DFEH v. State Univ.--Hayward (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-18, pp. 12-13 (compliance with Gov. Code § 12968 is not jurisdictional prerequisite to administrative adjudication, but is statute of limitations subject to waiver, estoppel, and equitable tolling).

(n14)Footnote 11. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7429(c).

(n15)Footnote 12. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7414(c).

(n16)Footnote 13. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7414(c)(1).

(n17)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7414(c)(2).

(n18)Footnote 15. Gov. Code § 11524(a).

(n19)Footnote 16. Gov. Code § 11524(b).

(n20)Footnote 17. Gov. Code § 11524(b).

(n21)Footnote 18. Gov. Code § 11524(c).

(n22)Footnote 19. Gov. Code § 11524(c).

(n23)Footnote 20. Gov. Code § 11524(c).

(n24)Footnote 21. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1985-1985.3. The cited Code of Civil Procedure sections are those that apply generally to trial of civil actions. For example, Code Civ. Proc. § 1985 requires that a subpoena duces tecum be accompanied by an affidavit showing good cause for production of the matters and things described, specifying the matters and things to be produced, stating their materiality to the issues in the case, and stating that the witness has the designated matters or things in his or her possession or under his or her control. For discussion of subpoenas in civil cases generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Depositions and Discovery and Subpoenas (Matthew Bender) and DeMeo, California Deposition and Discovery Practice, Ch. 53 (Matthew Bender).

(n25)Footnote 22. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7455.

(n26)Footnote 23. Code Civ. Proc. §§ 1987, 1988.

(n27)Footnote 24. Gov. Code § 11511; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7453(a).

(n28)Footnote 25. Gov. Code § 11511.

(n29)Footnote 26. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7427; see Gov. Code § 11511. For discussion of procedure, see § 42.36[2].

(n30)Footnote 27. Gov. Code § 11511.

(n31)Footnote 28. Gov. Code § 11514(a).

(n32)Footnote 29. Gov. Code § 11514(a).

(n33)Footnote 30. Gov. Code § 11514(a); see discussion in [6][b], below.

(n34)Footnote 31. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7422(a), (b).

(n35)Footnote 32. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7422(b).

(n36)Footnote 33. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7427, 7428.

(n37)Footnote 34. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7422(d).

(n38)Footnote 35. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7422(e).

(n39)Footnote 36. Gov. Code § 11513(a); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7429(f)(1).

(n40)Footnote 37. Gov. Code § 11513(b); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7429(f)(2).

(n41)Footnote 38. Gov. Code § 11513(b).

(n42)Footnote 39. See Gov. Code § 11513(c).

(n43)Footnote 40. See Gov. Code § 11513(c).

(n44)Footnote 41. Gov. Code § 11513(c).

(n45)Footnote 42. Gov. Code § 11513(c).

(n46)Footnote 43. See Gov. Code § 11513(c).

(n47)Footnote 44. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7429(f)(6).

(n48)Footnote 45. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7437.

(n49)Footnote 46. Gov. Code § 11513(c).

(n50)Footnote 47. Gov. Code § 11513(o).

(n51)Footnote 48. Gov. Code § 11440.40(b).

147 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.38

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.38 Post-Hearing Matters

[1] Post-Hearing Motions

As of March 15, 1999, post-hearing motions are no longer authorized by the Commission regulations.n1

[2] Post-Hearing Briefs

The parties shall be given an opportunity to file post-hearing briefs, as directed at the hearing. Copies shall be served on the parties and on the complainants as provided in 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7407.n2

The matter will be deemed submitted to the Hearing officer on the latest of the dates he or she receives the transcripts of the hearing, hears oral argument, or receives the last timely post-hearing brief.n3

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative LawAgency AdjudicationGeneral OverviewAdministrative LawAgency AdjudicationHearingsGeneral OverviewPublic Health & Welfare LawHousing & Public BuildingsFair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Former 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7441 repealed.

(n2)Footnote 2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7432(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7432(b).

148 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.39

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.39 Decision by FEHC

[1] Preparation and Submission of Proposed Decision

A contested case may be originally heard by the FEHC itself, or, at the FEHC's discretion, by an administrative law judge alone.ⁿ¹ If the FEHC originally hears the case, an administrative law judge must be present during the consideration of the case and, on request, assist and advise the FEHC in the conduct of the hearing. The FEHC must issue its decision within 100 days of the submission of the case.ⁿ² No member of the agency who did not hear the evidence may vote on the decision.ⁿ³ The agency's decision must be immediately filed as a public record and copies served on each party and his or her attorney.ⁿ⁴

If a contested case is originally heard by an administrative law judge alone, the judge must prepare a proposed decision within 30 days after the case is submitted in a form that may be adopted by the FEHC as the final decision. If the administrative law judge fails to deliver a decision within the prescribed period, the FEHC's rights are unaffected.ⁿ⁵ The FEHC will file a copy of the proposed decision as a public document within 30 days after receipt of the proposed decision and serve a copy on each party and his or her attorney. This filing and service does not constitute adoption of the proposed decision by the FEHC.ⁿ⁶ Within 100 days of receipt by the FEHC of the proposed decision, the FEHC must take action to adopt, amend, or reject the proposed decision.ⁿ⁷ If the FEHC fails to act within the 100-day period, the proposed decision is deemed adopted by the FEHC.ⁿ⁸

[2] Adoption or Modification of Proposed Decision

The FEHC may adopt the proposed decision in its entirety or reduce or otherwise mitigate the proposed penalty and adopt the balance of the proposed decision. The FEHC may also make technical or other minor changes to the proposed decision and adopt it as the agency's decision; these types of changes are limited to a clarifying change or change of a similar nature that does not affect the factual or legal basis of the proposed decision.ⁿ⁹ If the FEHC fails to act within the 100-day period, the proposed decision is deemed adopted by the FEHC.ⁿ¹⁰

[3] Non-Adoption of Proposed Decision

The FEHC may reject the proposed decision of the administrative law judge and refer the case to that judge, if reasonably available, or to another judge to take additional evidence. The referral judge will then prepare a revised proposed decision, based on the additional evidence, the transcript, and any other papers that are part of the earlier record. A copy of the proposed decision will be furnished to each party and attorney.ⁿ¹¹

Alternatively, the FEHC may reject the proposed decision and decide the case on the record, including the transcript, or on the agreed statement of the parties, with or without taking additional evidence.ⁿ¹² The FEHC has the authority to decide some but not all the issues in the case.ⁿ¹³ A copy of the record must be made available to the parties.ⁿ¹⁴ The FEHC may not itself decide the case without first affording the parties the opportunity to present oral or written argument before the agency. If additional oral evidence is introduced, no agency member may vote unless the member heard the additional oral evidence.ⁿ¹⁵ The FEHC must issue its final decision no later than 100 days after rejecting the proposed decision or, if the FEHC ordered a transcript of the proceedings before the administrative law judge, after receipt of the transcript. If the FEHC finds that special circumstances require further delay, the FEHC will issue an order delaying the decision for no more than 30 days and specifying the reasons for the delay.ⁿ¹⁶ The agency's decision must be immediately filed as a public record and copies served on each party and his or her attorney.ⁿ¹⁷

[4] Form of Decision and Effective Date

The FEHC's decision must be written and must contain findings of fact, a determination of the issues presented, and either an order stating the remedy or an order dismissing the accusation.ⁿ¹⁸ The decision and order must state the identity of the members who participated in the decisionⁿ¹⁹ and must inform parties of their right to appeal.ⁿ²⁰

The FEHC's decision becomes effective 30 days after it is mailed or delivered to the respondent, unless (1) the FEHC orders reconsideration within that time, (2) the FEHC orders an earlier effective date, or (3) the FEHC grants a stay of execution.ⁿ²¹ The FEHC may include a stay of execution in its decision or may grant a stay at any time before its decision becomes effective.ⁿ²²

[5] Precedential Opinions

The FEHC has the authority to establish and publish a system of precedential opinions pertaining to laws under its jurisdiction.ⁿ²³ The Commission's may designate all or part of a decision if it contains a significant legal or policy determination of general application that is likely to recur.ⁿ²⁴ Once designated as precedential, either the Commission or the parties may rely upon a decision in their arguments to the Commission or to the courts.ⁿ²⁵

The Commission must annually publish an index of significant legal and policy determinations made in its precedential decisions and must also annually publish the availability of the index.ⁿ²⁶ This index must be made available to the public in the Commission's office and by subscription.ⁿ²⁷

[6] Reconsideration of Decision by FEHC

The FEHC may order reconsideration of all or part of a decision on its own initiative or by petition of any party.ⁿ²⁸ The FEHC must notify a petitioner of the time limits for petitioning for reconsideration.^{n28.1} The FEHC's power to order reconsideration expires (1) 30 days after service of the decision, (2) on the date set by the FEHC as the effective date if such date occurs earlier, or (3) at the end of a stay, not to exceed 30 days, which the FEHC may grant for the purpose of filing a motion for reconsideration.ⁿ²⁹ A motion for reconsideration is deemed denied if the FEHC takes no action within the time allowed for ordering reconsideration.ⁿ³⁰ The FEHC may itself reconsider the case on the record including such additional evidence and argument as it may permit, or it may assign the case to an administrative law judge subject to the hearing procedure specified in Government Code Section 11517.ⁿ³¹

[7] Res Judicata Effect

Unless a party to an administrative agency proceeding challenges the unfavorable findings made in that proceeding, by means of a mandate action in superior court, those findings are binding in later civil actions.ⁿ³²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication Decisions General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 11517(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See Gov. Code § 11517(b)(1), (3).

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 11517(b)(2).

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 11517(d).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(1); see also DFEH v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, p. 11 (30 day period is directory and noncompliance does not deprive FEHC of jurisdiction).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(1).

(n7)Footnote 7. See [2], [3], below.

(n8)Footnote 8. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2).

(n9)Footnote 9. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(A)-(C).

(n10)Footnote 10. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2); see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7434.

Gov. Code § 11517(d).

(n11)Footnote 11. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(D).

(n12)Footnote 12. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(E). The parties may stipulate that the agency may decide the case on the record without including the transcript.

(n13)Footnote 13. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(E)(iii).

(n14)Footnote 14. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(E)(i) (fee may be required to cover direct copying costs).

(n15)Footnote 15. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(E)(ii); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7434.

(n16)Footnote 16. See Gov. Code § 11517(c)(2)(E)(iv). This order is subject to judicial review pursuant to Government Code § 11523.

(n17)Footnote 17. Gov. Code § 11517(d).

(n18)Footnote 18. See Gov. Code §§ 11518, 12970(a)-(d), (g), (h); see, e.g., DFEH v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. 90-08, p. 12 (dismissal).

(n19)Footnote 19. Gov. Code § 12970(g).

(n20)Footnote 20. Gov. Code § 12970(h); see, e.g., DFEH v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. 90-08, p. 12.

(n21)Footnote 21. Gov. Code § 11519(a); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7465(b).

(n22)Footnote 22. Gov. Code § 11519(b).

(n23)Footnote 23. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7285.5(c).

(n24)Footnote 24. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7435(a).

(n25)Footnote 25. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7435(a).

(n26)Footnote 26. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7435(b).

(n27)Footnote 27. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7435(b).

(n28)Footnote 28. Gov. Code § 11521(a), 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7436.

(n29)Footnote 28.1. Gov. Code § 11521(a).

(n30)Footnote 29. Gov. Code § 11521(a)

(n31)Footnote 30. Gov. Code § 11521(a).

(n32)Footnote 31. Gov. Code § 11521(b). For discussion of procedures under Gov. Code § 11517, see [1]-[3], above.

(n33)Footnote 32. Westlake Community Hosp. v. Superior Court (1976) 17 Cal. 3d 465, 484, 131 Cal. Rptr. 90, 551 P.2d 410 ; see also Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 69-77, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874 (public employee who failed to seek to set aside adverse findings of administrative proceeding is bound by those findings in later civil action under FEHA but not in action under Title VII).

149 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.39A

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.39A Relief Awarded by FEHC

[1] Types of Relief Available

If the FEHC finds that a respondent has engaged in any unlawful practice under the FEHA, it must state its findings of fact and determination and must issue and have served a cease and desist order on the respondent.ⁿ¹ In addition, it may require the respondent to take action including, but not limited to, the following:ⁿ²

1. The hiring, reinstatement, or upgrading of employees, with or without back pay;
2. The admission or restoration to membership in any respondent labor organization;
3. The payment of actual damages as may be available in FEHA civil actions, subject to limitations as discussed in [2], below;
4. Affirmative or prospective relief to prevent the recurrence of the unlawful practice; and
5. A report to the FEHC regarding the manner of compliance with the FEHC's order.

In addition, in certain cases, the FEHC may assess an administrative fine, as further discussed in [3], below. ⁿ³

If the FEHC finds a respondent has engaged in an unlawful practice under the FEHA and is liable for actual damages, an administrative fine, or a civil penalty, any amount due to that respondent by a state agency may be offset to satisfy the FEHC's final order or decision.^{n3.1}

If the respondent is licensed or granted a privilege by a state agency to do business, provide a service, or conduct activities, and the respondent's unlawful practice is determined to have occurred in connection with the exercise of that license or privilege, the FEHC must provide the licensing or privilege-granting agency with a copy of the order.ⁿ⁴

[2] Actual Damages

As noted in [1], above, the FEHC may award a complainant actual damages as may be available in a civil action under the FEHA.ⁿ⁵ Actual damages include, but are not limited to, damages for emotional injuries if the accusation or amended accusation prays for those damages. Actual damages awarded under this provision for emotional pain, suffering, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and other nonpecuniary losses may not exceed, in combination with an administrative fine imposed under Government Code Section 12970(c),ⁿ⁶ a total of $150,000 per aggrieved person per respondent.ⁿ⁷ Notwithstanding this limitation, however, the FEHC may award actual damages of up to $150,000 against a respondent if the unlawful practice involved a violation of Civil Code Section 51.7 (right of persons to be free from violence committed against them because of their race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, political affiliation, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, or position in a labor dispute, or because another person perceives them to have one or more of those characteristics).ⁿ⁸

A finding of an unlawful practice under the FEHA, in and of itself, is not sufficient to sustain an award of actual damages by the FEHC; rather, the DFEH must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the employee sustained "actual injury."ⁿ⁹ In determining whether to award damages for emotional injuries and the amount to award, the FEHC must consider relevant evidence of the effects of discrimination on the aggrieved person with regard to the following factors:ⁿ¹⁰

1. The aggrieved person's physical and mental well-being;
2. The aggrieved person's personal integrity, dignity, and privacy;
3. The aggrieved person's ability to work, earn a living, and advance in his or her career;
4. The aggrieved person's personal and professional reputation;
5. The aggrieved person's family relationships; and
6. The aggrieved person's access to the job and ability to associate with peers and coworkers.

In addition, the FEHC must consider the duration of the emotional injury, and whether the injury was caused or exacerbated by the aggrieved person's knowledge of the employer's failure to respond adequately to, or to correct, the discriminatory practice or by the egregiousness of the discriminatory practice.ⁿ¹¹

[3] Administrative Fines

The FEHC has no authority to award punitive damages to a complainant in an administrative proceeding under the FEHA.ⁿ¹² However, in order to vindicate the purposes and policies of the FEHA, the FEHC may assess an administrative fine against the respondent in an amount that may not exceed, in combination with actual damages awarded for emotional distress, a total of $150,000 per aggrieved person per respondent.ⁿ¹³ Administrative fines assessed against employers are not awarded to the employee, but rather are deposited into the state's General Fund.ⁿ¹⁴

An administrative fine may be assessed only if the accusation or amended accusation prays for assessment of a fine.ⁿ¹⁵ Furthermore, the FEHC may not assess an administrative fine, unless it finds that the respondent has been guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice, express or implied, as required by Civil Code Section 3294 (governing punitive damages in civil actions).ⁿ¹⁶ In making a determination on the amount of a fine, the FEHC must consider relevant evidence, including, but not limited to, the following:ⁿ¹⁷

1. Willful, intentional, or purposeful conduct on the part of the respondent;

2. The respondent's refusal to prevent or eliminate discrimination;
3. The respondent's conscious disregard of its employees' rights;
4. The commission of unlawful conduct by the respondent;
5. Intimidation or harassment on the part of the respondent;
6. Conduct by the respondent that is without just cause or excuse; and
7. Multiple violations of the FEHA by the respondent.

In addition to the administrative fine, the FEHC may assess against the respondent a civil penalty of up to $25,000 if the respondent denied the complainant any right provided for in Civil Code Section 51.7 (right of persons to be free from violence committed against them because of their race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, political affiliation, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, or position in a labor dispute, or because another person perceives them to have one or more of those characteristics).ⁿ¹⁸ Unlike the administrative fine, this civil penalty is awarded to the aggrieved person.ⁿ¹⁹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12970(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 12970(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12970(c), (d).

(n4)Footnote 3.1. Gov. Code § 12973(d).

(n5)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12970(f).

(n6)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3).

(n7)Footnote 6. See [3], below.

(n8)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3). See, e.g., Sasco Electric v. Fair Employment & Housing Commission (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 532, 544-545, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 482 (Commission's award of $85,000 in emotional distress damages to former employee who lost her job due to pregnancy discrimination was supported by substantial evidence, where testimony of employee, her husband, and her father-in-law established employer's actions profoundly affected her and her marriage; Iwekaogwu v. City of Los Angeles (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 803, 812, 821-822, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 505 (award of over $450,000 in emotional distress damages supported by testimony of employee and wife that employer's retaliation impaired employee's relationship with his wife and children and caused him to experience physical symptoms, become withdrawn and weepy, have trouble paying bills, and worry about providing private schooling for his children)).

(n9)Footnote 8. See Gov. Code § 12970(a)(4).

(n10)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 12970(b).

(n11)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12970(b).

(n12)Footnote 11. Gov. Code § 12970(b).

(n13)Footnote 12. Gov. Code § 12970(d); see Dyna-Med, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 1379, 1383, 241 Cal. Rptr. 67, 743 P.2d 1323 (decided prior to legislation authorizing FEHC to assess administrative fine; holding FEHC has no power to award punitive damages).

(n14)Footnote 13. Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3), (c).

(n15)Footnote 14. See Gov. Code § 12970(d).

(n16)Footnote 15. See Gov. Code § 12970(c).

(n17)Footnote 16. Gov. Code § 12970(d). See Sasco Electric v. Fair Employment & Housing Commission (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 532, 546, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 482 (substantial evidence supported Commission's finding of clear and convincing evidence of oppression and malice on employer's part to support imposition of administrative fine, including evidence that employer intentionally discriminated by terminating employment because employee was pregnant and contrived reduction in force to hide its discrimination, which affected only pregnant employee, and that employee suffered significant emotional distress and financial hardship because of employer's conduct). For general discussion of punitive damages in civil actions, see Levy, Golden & Sacks, California Torts, Ch. 54 (Matthew Bender).

(n18)Footnote 17. Gov. Code § 12970(d).

(n19)Footnote 18. See Gov. Code § 12970(e).

(n20)Footnote 19. Compare Gov. Code § 12970(e) with Gov. Code § 12970(d).

150 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.40

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.40 Judicial Review of FEHC Decision

[1] Procedure

[a] In General

Any party to a proceeding before the FEHC may obtain judicial review of the FEHC's decision and order by filing a petition for a writ of mandate in superior court pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 1094.5.ⁿ¹ A party may file a petition for a writ of mandate even if the party did not petition the FEHC for reconsideration of its decision.ⁿ²³ The court hears the case without a jury.ⁿ⁴ The court determines whether the FEHC has proceeded without or in excess of its jurisdiction, whether there was a fair trial, and whether the FEHC committed any prejudicial abuse of discretion.ⁿ⁵ A petitioner establishes abuse of discretion by showing that the FEHC has not proceeded in the manner required by law, that its order or decision is not supported by the findings, or that its findings are not supported by the evidence.ⁿ⁶ For a discussion of the standard of review of evidence, see [d], below. When the reviewing court denies a petition for writ of mandate seeking review of a FEHC order or decision, the court must enter judgment denying the petition and enforcing the FEHC's final order or decision.^{n6.1}

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the FEHC is not liable for attorney's fees of parties to the administrative adjudication of cases brought before the FEHC, including review proceedings pursuant to Government Code Section 11523 and Code of Civil Procedure Section 1094.5.^{n6.2}

[b] Time Limit and Preparation of Record

The petition for writ of mandate generally must be filed within 30 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered.ⁿ⁷ However, if the petitioner requests the FEHC to prepare all or part of the record (as described below) within 10 days after the last day on which reconsideration can be ordered,ⁿ⁸ the time within which a petition may be filed is extended until 30 days after delivery of the record to the requesting party.ⁿ⁹

The complete record of the proceedings or parts of it designated by the requesting party must be prepared by the FEHC or the Office of Administrative Hearings and must be delivered to the requesting party within 30 days after the request is made and the fees paid.^{n9.1} The 30-day time limit for preparation of the record must be extended if good cause is shown.^{n9.2}

The complete record includes the pleadings, all notices and orders issued by the FEHC, any proposed decision by a hearing officer, the final decision, a transcript of all proceedings, the exhibits admitted or rejected, the written evidence, and any other papers in the case.^{n9.3}

The petitioner must pay the costs of preparing the record.ⁿ¹⁰ However, if the petitioner prevails in overturning the administrative decision on judicial review, the FEHC must reimburse the petitioner for the cost of preparing the transcript.ⁿ¹¹

[c] Stay of FEHC Decision and Order

The court may stay the operation of the FEHC's decision and order pending its judgment, or the filing of a notice of appeal from the court's judgment or expiration of the time for filing a notice of appeal, whichever occurs first.ⁿ¹² An application for a stay must be accompanied by proof of service of a copy of the application on the respondent.ⁿ¹³ The court may not impose or continue a stay of the FEHC's decision if it determines that to do so is against the public interest.ⁿ¹⁴ If the writ of mandate is denied and the denial is appealed, the FEHC's decision may not be stayed except by order of the court to which the appeal is taken.ⁿ¹⁵ However, in cases in which a stay is already in effect when the notice of appeal is filed, the stay continues by operation of law for 20 days following filing of the notice of appeal.ⁿ¹⁶ If an appeal is taken from a judgment granting the writ of mandate, the FEHC's order is stayed pending the decision on appeal unless the court to which the appeal is taken orders otherwise.ⁿ¹⁷

■ PRACTICE TIP:

As a practical matter, the FEHC in most cases stipulates to a stay of its decision and order on request by a petitioner for writ of mandate. Commentary by Dale Brodsky, Esq. and Beverly Tucker, Esq.

[d] Standard of Review

With respect to the court's review of administrative decisions, Code of Civil Procedure Section 1094.5(c) provides as follows:

Where it is claimed that the findings are not supported by the evidence, in cases in which the court is authorized by law to exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by the weight of the evidence. In all other cases, abuse of discretion is established if the court determines that the findings are not supported by substantial evidence in the light of the whole record.

Because Code of Civil Procedure section 1094.5 does not specify when each test is applicable, the task of determining which cases require independent judgment review is reserved to the courts.ⁿ¹⁸ The determination of which standard of review applies to administrative agency decisions depends on whether the agency's decision affects a fundamental and vested right.ⁿ¹⁹ If a decision of an administrative agency substantially affects a fundamental, vested right, the trial court not only examines the administrative record for errors of law, but also exercises its independent judgment in reviewing the evidence.ⁿ²⁰ However, if the administrative decision does not affect any fundamental vested right, the trial court reviews the entire administrative record to determine whether the findings are supported by substantial evidence and whether the agency committed any errors of law.ⁿ²¹ In such a case, the court must resolve all reasonable doubts in the agency's favor. The court may reverse the agency only if it determines that a reasonable person could not have reached the conclusion the agency reached.^{n21.1}

Applying the above analysis, courts have consistently held that the substantial evidence standard applies to judicial review of FEHC decisions finding that unlawful discrimination occurred.ⁿ²² In American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com.,ⁿ²³ the California Supreme Court reasoned that an employer's right to establish its employment practices and procedures and to impose conditions of employment is not a fundamental vested right. Thus, the FEHC's findings of fact must be sustained if supported by substantial evidence on the record considered as a whole.ⁿ²⁴

However, in cases in which a complainant seeks judicial review of an adverse FEHC decision, courts have applied the independent judgment test because the right to equal employment opportunity is a fundamental vested right.ⁿ²⁵

■ PRACTICE TIP:

FEHC findings of fact are difficult to upset on review because of the deference courts pay to the FEHC as an expert body, and because of the difficult burden of proof imposed by the substantial evidence test. On the other hand, the independent judgment test permits courts to more easily reverse findings adverse to a complainant. Commentary by William Lann Lee.

[2] FORM--Petition by Employer for Writ of Mandate to Review Decision of FEHC

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below is a petition for a writ of mandate in a superior court to seek review of a decision of the FEHC.ⁿ²⁶ The petition should set forth all grounds for reversing the FEHC's decision, such as the FEHC's actions in excess of or without jurisdiction, the lack of fairness of the hearing, or the FEHC's prejudicial abuse of discretion.ⁿ²⁷ The petition must be verified,ⁿ²⁸ and a memorandum of points and authorities should be filed with it.

This form set forth below has been drafted for use by the respondent-employer, but it may be modified for use by the complainant-employee or applicant.

[b] Form SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

_____)
_____ [Name],)	NO. _____
Petitioner,)	PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE
vs.)	[Gov. Code §§ 11523, 12972; Code Civ. Proc. §
FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING COMMIS-)	1094.5]
SION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA,)	Date: _____
Respondent. _____ [Name of)	Time: _____
Complainant], Real Party in Interest.)	Dept.: _____

Petitioner alleges:

1. Petitioner _____ [name] is _____ [identify petitioner and describe capacity in which the action is being brought, if other than as individual, e.g., a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California] and is the Respondent in the action below before the Fair Employment and Housing Commission.

2. Respondent Fair Employment and Housing Commission of the State of California is an agency established pursuant to the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Government Code Sections 12900 through 12996), which is authorized to hear and determine accusations alleging violations of the Fair Employment and Housing Act.

3. Real party in interest _____ [name] is the complainant in a complaint filed with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (the Department) on _____ [date]. An accusation was issued by the Department in his/her behalf on _____ [date], alleging that respondent violated the Fair Employment and Housing Act by discriminating against complainant on the basis of _____ [specify basis of discrimination alleged, e.g., race]. A copy of the accusation is attached herewith and incorporated as though fully set forth.

4. On _____ [date], an administrative hearing was held before Administrative Law Judge _____ [name]. On _____ [date], Administrative Law Judge _____ [name] rendered his/her proposed decision _____ [summarize findings and order, e.g., finding that Petitioner herein had discriminated against complainant on the basis of his/her race and ordering payment of back wages to complainant].

5. On _____ [date], the Fair Employment and Housing Commission _____ [specify action taken by FEHC, e.g., adopted the proposed decision].

6. Respondent Fair Employment and Housing Commission _____ [specify ground for petition, e.g., acted in excess of its jurisdiction] in the following manner: _____ [summarize in detail defects in decision, e.g., the Commission lacked jurisdiction over the accusation because Petitioner did not regularly employ five or more employees at the time of the alleged violation].

7. Petitioner has exhausted all available administrative remedies.

8. Petitioner has no plain, speedy, and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law.

WHEREFORE Petitioner prays:

1. That the court issue an alternative writ of mandate ordering respondent to set aside its decision in _____ [case name], issued on _____ [date], or to show cause before this court at a time specified by the court why a peremptory writ should not be issued;

2. That on the return of the alternative writ and the hearing of this petition, this court issue a peremptory writ of mandate ordering respondent to set aside said decision; and

3. For costs of this action and such other relief as the court deems just and proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Petitioner

VERIFICATION [Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 1086]

I, _____ [name], am the petitioner in the above-entitled proceeding. I have read the foregoing petition and know the contents thereof. The same is true of my own knowledge, except as to those matters which are therein alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe it to be true.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the foregoing is true and correct.

_____ [date and place]

_____ [signature]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication Decisions General Overview Administrative Law Judicial Review General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code §§ 11523, 12972(b)(2); see DFEH v. General Dynamics, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-08, p. 12.

(n2)Footnote 2. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n3)Footnote 3. [Reserved]

(n4)Footnote 4. See Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a).

(n5)Footnote 5. See Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b).

(n6)Footnote 6. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b).

(n7)Footnote 6.1. Gov. Code § 12973(c). For discussion of enforcement of FEHC's order or decision, see § 42.41.

(n8)Footnote 6.2. Gov. Code § 12973(e).

(n9)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n10)Footnote 8. For discussion of time limit for reconsideration, see § 42.39[6].

(n11)Footnote 9. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n12)Footnote 9.1. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n13)Footnote 9.2. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n14)Footnote 9.3. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n15)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 11523; Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(a).

(n16)Footnote 11. Gov. Code § 11523.

(n17)Footnote 12. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g).

(n18)Footnote 13. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g). Service must be made in the manner provided by Code Civ. Proc. §§ 405 et seq. or 1010 et seq.

(n19)Footnote 14. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g).

(n20)Footnote 15. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g).

(n21)Footnote 16. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g).

(n22)Footnote 17. Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(g)

(n23)Footnote 18. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 140, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 .

(n24)Footnote 19. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143-144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 .

(n25)Footnote 20. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143-144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 .

(n26)Footnote 21. Bixby v. Pierno (1971) 4 Cal. 3d 130, 143-144, 93 Cal. Rptr. 234, 481 P.2d 242 .

(n27)Footnote 21.1. County of Fresno v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1541, 1548, 277 Cal. Rptr. 557 .

(n28)Footnote 22. American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 603, 607, 186 Cal. Rptr. 345, 651 P.2d 1151 ; County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 503, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 ; Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 795, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548 ; Northern Inyo Hosp. v. Fair Emp. Practice Com. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 14, 23, 112 Cal. Rptr. 872 . See also County of Fresno v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1541, 1548, 277 Cal. Rptr. 557 ; Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158 ; Raytheon Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1242, 1250-1251, 261 Cal. Rptr. 197 .

(n29)Footnote 23. American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 603, 607, 186 Cal. Rptr. 345, 651 P.2d 1151 .

(n30)Footnote 24. American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 603, 607, 186 Cal. Rptr. 345, 651 P.2d 1151 .

(n31)Footnote 25. Kerrigan v. Fair Employment Practice Com. (1979) 91 Cal. App. 3d 43, 51-52, 154 Cal. Rptr. 29 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 930 (1979) .

(n32)Footnote 26. See Gov. Code §§ 11523, 12972(b)(2); Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5.

(n33)Footnote 27. See Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5(b).

(n34)Footnote 28. Code Civ. Proc. § 1086.

151 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.41

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.41 Enforcement of FEHC Decision

The DFEH must conduct a compliance review within one year from the effective date of any final FEHC decision or order to determine whether it has been fully implemented and obeyed.ⁿ¹ Once the time for seeking judicial review of a final FEHC decision or order has expired,ⁿ² or if all means of judicial review have been exhausted, the DFEH may petition the superior court to enforce the FEHC's decision or order as issued or as judicially modified.ⁿ³ The court must hold a hearing, but it may not review the merits of the FEHC's decision or order.ⁿ⁴ If the court determines either that the time limits for judicial review of the FEHC's order or decision have lapsed or that the order or decision was upheld in whole or in part on judicial review, the court must issue a judgment enforcing the FEHC's order or decision.ⁿ⁵ The court's judgment is final and nonappealable and has the same force and effect as a judgment in a civil action.ⁿ⁶

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication Decisions General Overview Public Health & Welfare Law Housing & Public Buildings Fair Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12973(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See Gov. Code § 11523; Code Civ. Proc. § 1094.5. For discussion of time limit for judicial review, see § 42.40[1][b].

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12973(b).

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12973(b).

(n5)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12973(b).

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code § 12973(b).

152 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. STATE PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law §§ 42.42 through 42.59

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 42.42 [Reserved]

153 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.60

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.60 Structure and Authority of EEOC

[1] Organizational Structure

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) was established as a result of the passage of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.ⁿ¹ The five members of the EEOC are appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate for terms of five years, and not more than three of the five members may be members of the same political party.ⁿ² The President also appoints for a term of four years a General Counsel, who is responsible for conducting litigation as provided by Title 42, United States Code Sections 2000e-5 and 2000e-6.ⁿ³ The General Counsel must also concur with the Chairperson of the EEOC on the appointment and supervision of regional attorneys,ⁿ⁴ who may appear for and represent the EEOC in any case in court.ⁿ⁵

The EEOC's national headquarters are in Washington, D.C. The agency is organized into district offices each under the leadership of a district director, subunits of districts known as "areas" with "area directors," and subunits of areas known as "local offices" headed by local directors. In the chain of command, the district directors are subject to the supervision of the Program Director, Office of Program Operations, and the General Counsel.ⁿ⁶

[2] Statutes Enforced

The EEOC enforces claims by private employees under the following federal statutes:

1. Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII),ⁿ⁷ prohibiting discrimination in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, and national origin;ⁿ⁸
2. The Equal Pay Act (EPA), prohibiting discrimination in wages on the basis of sex;ⁿ⁹
3. The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (ADEA);ⁿ¹⁰ and
4. The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), which prohibits disability discrimination.ⁿ¹¹

The EEOC also enforces Section 501 of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 501), requiring affirmative action in the employment of individuals with disabilities by the federal government.ⁿ¹²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementInvestigative Authority

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(b)(1).

(n4)Footnote 4. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(b)(1).

(n5)Footnote 5. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(b)(2). However, the Attorney General must conduct any litigation before the United States Supreme Court in which the EEOC is a party. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(b)(2).

(n6)Footnote 6. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.5.

(n7)Footnote 7. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.

(n8)Footnote 8. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5.

(n9)Footnote 9. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d) (part of the Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. §§ 201-219); see also Pub. L. No. 98-532 (confirming presidential reorganization giving EEOC authority over enforcement of Act); 29 C.F.R. 1620.30(a).

(n10)Footnote 10. 29 U.S.C. § 621 et seq.; see 29 U.S.C. § 626(a),(d); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1626.4, 1626.15; see also Pub. L. No. 98-532 (confirming presidential reorganization giving EEOC authority over enforcement of Act).

(n11)Footnote 11. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. (operative July 26, 1992); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.1 et seq.

(n12)Footnote 12. 29 U.S.C. § 791; see 29 U.S.C. § 794a(a)(1).

154 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.61

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.61 Overview of Administrative Complaint Procedure

[1] Title VII and ADA

[a] Overlapping Jurisdiction of Agencies Under ADA and Rehabilitation Act

If a claim involves disability discrimination, the claim is potentially subject to the ADA, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, or both Acts. The EEOC, the Department of Justice ("DOJ"), and the Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs ("OFCCP") have cooperated in implementing regulations to address the processing of disability discrimination claims that potentially fall within their overlapping jurisdictions.ⁿ¹ The EEOC resolves charges under Title I of the ADA, which prohibits discrimination against qualified individuals with disabilities in all aspects of employment.^{n1.1} The DOJ coordinates the resolution of charges filed with individual government agencies under Section 504, which prohibits discrimination against otherwise qualified individuals with disabilities by programs or activities receiving federal financial assistance and programs or activities conducted by executive agencies of the United States Postal Service,^{n1.2} and Title II of the ADA.^{n1.3} The OFCCP processes charges under Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act.^{n1.4} Enforcement of Section 503 is discussed in Chapter 44, Part C.

Under the regulations, if the EEOC receives a charge of employment discrimination, it must first determine whether it has jurisdiction over the charge under Title I of the ADA. If it has jurisdiction, it will generally process the charge itself pursuant to its usual Title I procedures,^{n1.5} as discussed in [b], below. If the EEOC determines that it does not have jurisdiction under Title I of the ADA, the EEOC will refer the charge to the Civil Rights Division of the DOJ to determine if a Section 504 agency has jurisdiction and for referral to the appropriate agency.^{n1.6} Charges retained by the EEOC will be investigated and processed under Title I only and will not be deemed dual-filed under Section 504, except for charges that also fall within the jurisdiction of Section 504 that the EEOC has declined to litigate.^{n1.7} In the latter type of case, the EEOC will refer the Section 504 charges to the appropriate agency, and the charges will be deemed dual-filed as of the date that the complaint was received by the EEOC.^{n1.8}

When charges are first filed with a Section 504 agency, rather than the EEOC, the agency must refer the complaint to the EEOC if the agency determines that it does not have jurisdiction but that the EEOC does have jurisdiction under

Title I of the ADA.^{n1.9} A Section 504 agency must also refer the complaint to the EEOC, even if the Section 504 agency does have jurisdiction, if the EEOC also has jurisdiction and the complaint alleges employment discrimination against an individual (but does not allege discrimination in other practices or services or a pattern or practice of discrimination), unless the complainant specifically requests the Section 504 agency to retain jurisdiction.^{n1.10} Complaints referred to the EEOC by a Section 504 agency having jurisdiction are deemed dual-filed, but the Section 504 agency defers its processing of the complaint to the EEOC pending resolution by the EEOC.^{n1.11}

The EEOC and Section 504 agencies will jointly develop procedures for determining whether charges have been dual-filed.^{n1.12} Under special circumstances, the agencies may elect to reallocate their investigative responsibilities.^{n1.13}

When a Section 504 agency determines that the EEOC should process a dual-filed complaint first, the Section 504 agency defers its action on the complaint until after the EEOC resolves the charge in one of several specified manners.^{n1.14} Similarly, when it is determined that a Section 504 agency should have jurisdiction first over a dual-filed complaint, the EEOC defers its action on the complaint until the charge is resolved by the Section 504 agency.^{n1.15}

[b] EEOC Complaint Procedure

The first step in the administrative process under Title VII and the ADA is for the aggrieved party, or someone acting on his or her behalf, to file a charge with the EEOC. The charging party must file within 180 days after the occurrence of the alleged discrimination, unless the charge was initially filed with a state agency having authority to grant relief, in which case the charging party must file with the EEOC within 300 days after the occurrence, or within 30 days after receiving notice that the state agency has terminated its proceedings, whichever is earlier.^{n1.16} The charging party must sign and verify the charge,ⁿ² but a charging party other than the aggrieved person need not identify by name the person on whose behalf the charge is made.ⁿ³ The EEOC may also file charges if conciliation efforts fail or if the case is one involving a pattern or practice of discrimination.ⁿ⁴

The EEOC must serve a notice of the charge on the respondent employer within ten days after the filing of the charge.ⁿ⁵ In most cases, this notice is accompanied by a request for information and a request for a position statement from the respondent.ⁿ⁶

Following service of the charge or complaint, the EEOC investigator commences an investigation, for which certain charges may be given priority handling.ⁿ⁷ During the investigation, the EEOC has authority to issue subpoenas to obtain testimony, documents, and access to evidence for the purposes of examination and the right to copy.ⁿ⁸

Prior to making a determination whether reasonable cause exists to believe that the alleged discrimination has occurred, the EEOC investigator generally initiates settlement efforts.ⁿ⁹ If no negotiated settlement is reached,ⁿ¹⁰ the investigator ordinarily conducts pre-determination interviews with the charging party and the respondent,ⁿ¹¹ and prepares an investigative memorandum containing the investigator's analysis and recommendations, which is submitted to his or her supervisor for approval.ⁿ¹² The investigator may make one or more of the following recommendations at this point:ⁿ¹³

1. Send appropriate dismissal/approval of withdrawal letters to the parties;
2. Execute a negotiated settlement agreement; or
3. Issue a cause or no-cause letter of determination.

If the supervisor approves an investigator's recommendation, the EEOC issues a letter of determination to all parties, informing them of EEOC's no causeⁿ¹⁴ or reasonable causeⁿ¹⁵ determination. For a discussion of determinations by the EEOC, see § 42.69.

If the EEOC makes a cause determination,ⁿ¹⁶ the agency seeks to resolve the case through the conciliation process mandated by Title VII and the ADA.ⁿ¹⁷ If conciliation efforts fail, the EEOC sends a notice to that effect to the respondent,ⁿ¹⁸ and the regional attorney prepares a legal analysis of the case and recommendation of whether or not the EEOC should litigate. With the district director's concurrence or dissent, the case is forwarded to the General Counsel for litigation review and ultimately for approval or rejection by the full EEOC.ⁿ¹⁹ If the EEOC decides not to sue, it issues a notice of right to sue to the charging party within 90 days.ⁿ²⁰

[2] ADEA

Although the administrative procedures summarized in [1], above, generally apply to investigation of claims brought under the ADEA,ⁿ²¹ there are some differences that are briefly noted here and are more thoroughly discussed throughout this part.

The ADEA authorizes an aggrieved individual to file either a "charge" or a "complaint," which is information received from any source that is not a "charge," alleging a violation of the ADEA.ⁿ²² The EEOC generally does not disclose the source of a "complaint."ⁿ²³

The ADEA requires that a party file a charge with the EEOC within the same time limits as those required by Title VII.ⁿ²⁴ The EEOC notifies the respondent when an ADEA charge is filed,ⁿ²⁵ but not when an ADEA "complaint" is filed.ⁿ²⁶ For a further discussion of service on respondents, see § 42.62[4]. The EEOC then investigates the case.ⁿ²⁷ In ADEA cases, the ADEA must pursue pre-determination conciliation.ⁿ²⁸

Although the ADEA does not require the EEOC to issue formal determinations on the merits of an investigated case, the EEOC, in practice, issues a letter of determination once it has found reasonable cause.ⁿ²⁹

If the EEOC dismisses a charge filed under the ADEA or otherwise terminates its proceedings on the charge, the EEOC must notify the aggrieved person. An ADEA civil action may be brought by the aggrieved person against the respondent named in the charge within 90 days after the date that this notice is received.ⁿ³⁰ⁿ³¹⁻³³

[3] EPA

The administrative procedure for claims brought under the EPA is similar to the claim procedure in Title VII casesⁿ³⁴ and ADEA cases.ⁿ³⁵ Some of the differences in the procedure under EPA cases are noted here.

Under the EPA, there is no distinction between a charge and a "complaint"; only the latter is filed with the EEOC.ⁿ³⁶ Under the EPA, a complainant need not first file with the EEOC before commencing a civil action.ⁿ³⁷ A civil suit under the EPA must be filed within two years of the employer's unlawful conduct, or three years if the cause of action arises out of a willful violation,ⁿ³⁸ and the EEOC will not process an EPA complaint if it does not allege violations occurring within two or three years of the filing.ⁿ³⁹

The EEOC does not notify the respondent when an EPA complaint is filed,ⁿ⁴⁰ nor does it identify the individual who is the source of the EPA complaint.ⁿ⁴¹ For discussion of confidentiality of complaining parties, see §§ 42.62[1][g] and 42.72[1][b] and [c].

The EEOC investigates the EPA case.ⁿ⁴² The EPA does not require the EEOC to issue formal determinations on the merits of an investigated case, but, in practice, the EEOC issues a letter of determination once it has found reasonable cause.ⁿ⁴³ In EPA cases, the parties are notified of the complainant's right to file a private action,ⁿ⁴⁴ and no conciliation is required.ⁿ⁴⁵

[4] Federal Employees

Before bringing an action in federal court under Title VII, aggrieved federal employees must seek relief administratively in the agency that allegedly discriminated against them.ⁿ⁴⁶ Under statutory authorization to issue rules, regulations, orders and instructions as necessary and appropriate for federal employees to seek administrative relief before filing a civil action,ⁿ⁴⁷ the EEOC issued a regulation providing that aggrieved persons must consult a Counselor prior to filing a complaint to try to informally resolve.ⁿ⁴⁸ The aggrieved federal employee must initiate that contact within 45 days of the alleged discrimination.ⁿ⁴⁹

For discussion of the exhaustion requirement for federal employees generally, see § 43.10[4][b].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Disability & Unemployment Insurance Disability Benefits General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disability Discrimination General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disability Discrimination Rehabilitation Act Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Enforcement General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 C.F.R., pt. 1640 (addressing overlapping jurisdiction of Title I and II of ADA and Section 504 of Rehabilitation Act); 29 C.F.R., pt. 1641; 41 C.F.R., pt. 60-742 (addressing overlapping jurisdiction of Title I of ADA and Section 503 of Rehabilitation Act). For discussion of enforcement of Section 503 of Rehabilitation Act by OFCCP, see Ch. 44, pt. C.

(n2)Footnote 1.1. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 12111-12117.

(n3)Footnote 1.2. See 29 U.S.C. § 794(a).

(n4)Footnote 1.3. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 12131-12134.

(n5)Footnote 1.4. See 29 U.S.C. § 793(b).

(n6)Footnote 1.5. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.7(a)(1), (b).

(n7)Footnote 1.6. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.7(a)(2).

(n8)Footnote 1.7. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.7(b)(2).

(n9)Footnote 1.8. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.7(b)(2).

(n10)Footnote 1.9. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.6(c)(1), (3).

(n11)Footnote 1.10. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.6(c)(2).

(n12)Footnote 1.11. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1641.6(c)(4), 1641.8(a)(1).

(n13)Footnote 1.12. 29 C.F.R. § 1641.8(c).

(n14)Footnote 1.13. See 29 C.F.R. § 1641.8(e).

(n15)Footnote 1.14. See 29 C.F.R. § 1641.10(a).

(n16)Footnote 1.15. See 29 C.F.R. § 1641.11(a).

(n17)Footnote 1.16. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b),(e)(1) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA). For discussion of timeliness of filing generally, see § 42.62[3].

(n18)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.9 (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n19)Footnote 3. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.7(a); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c). For discussion of requirements for the charge, see § 42.62 [1]. For discussion of confidentiality of charges and complaints, see §§ 42.62[1][g] and 42.72[1].

(n20)Footnote 4. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5(f)(1), 2000e-6 (Title VII); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5, 2000e-6 apply to ADA).

(n21)Footnote 5. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b),(e)(1) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.14(a); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA); see also EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.1.

(n22)Footnote 6. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.1-14.3. For discussion of service on respondents, see § 42.62 [4]. For discussion of statements of position and requests for information, see § 42.64[4].

(n23)Footnote 7. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8. For discussion of investigation generally, see § 42.64 [1]. For discussion of priority handling of charges, see § 42.64 [2].

(n24)Footnote 8. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9 (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16; see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9 apply to ADA); see also EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24. For discussion of EEOC subpoena power, see § 42.64 [8].

(n25)Footnote 9. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.20. For discussion of settlement, see § 42.66.

(n26)Footnote 10. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15; 29 C.F.R. § 1601.20.

(n27)Footnote 11. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 27. For discussion, see § 42.64[1] and [7].

(n28)Footnote 12. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 29.

(n29)Footnote 13. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 29.2(f); see also 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.18, 1601.19, 1601.21.

(n30)Footnote 14. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.19(a).

(n31)Footnote 15. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.21.

(n32)Footnote 16. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.

(n33)Footnote 17. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. 1601.24; see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (operative July 26, 1992; procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA); see also EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 60-62. For discussion of conciliation, see generally § 42.71.

(n34)Footnote 18. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.25; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.2.

(n35)Footnote 19. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.5; 29 C.F.R. § 1601.27.

(n36)Footnote 20. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(b)(1); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (operative July 26, 1992; procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA); see also EEOC Compliance

Manual (CCH) § 66.6. Notices of right to sue may also be given under other circumstances. see discussion in § 42.71[1].

(n37)Footnote 21. 29 U.S.C. § 621 et seq.

(n38)Footnote 22. See 29 C.F.R. § 1626.3. For discussion of distinction between charges and complaints, see § 42.62[1][d] and [e].

(n39)Footnote 23. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.4; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c).

(n40)Footnote 24. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.7(a). see discussion of Title VII time limits in [1], above.

(n41)Footnote 25. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.11; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.6.

(n42)Footnote 26. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 2.4(f), 3.1.

(n43)Footnote 27. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 14, 22, 22.3(c). For discussion of the EEOC's investigation of charges and complaints generally, see § 42.64.

(n44)Footnote 28. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d). For discussion of pre-determination conciliation under ADEA, see § 42.68.

(n45)Footnote 29. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.1. For discussion of determinations generally, see § 42.69.

(n46)Footnote 30. 29 U.S.C. § 626(e).

(n47)Footnote 31-33. [Reserved]

(n48)Footnote 34. For overview of Title VII administrative procedure, see [1], above.

(n49)Footnote 35. For overview of administrative procedure in ADEA cases, see [2], above.

(n50)Footnote 36. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.1. However, EPA complaints may be brought as concurrent charges in a Title VII case because any violation of the EPA is also a violation of Title VII. see 29 C.F.R. § 1620.27(a).

(n51)Footnote 37. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216, 217; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(g)(3).

(n52)Footnote 38. See 29 U.S.C. § 255; 29 C.F.R. § 1620.33(b).

(n53)Footnote 39. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(d)(3).

(n54)Footnote 40. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(a)(1)(ii), (f).

(n55)Footnote 41. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(a)(1)(ii), (f).

(n56)Footnote 42. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 14, 22, 22.3(c). For discussion of the EEOC's investigation of charges and complaints generally, see § 42.64.

(n57)Footnote 43. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.1. For discussion of determinations generally, see § 42.69.

(n58)Footnote 44. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.5(e).

(n59)Footnote 45. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.1.

(n60)Footnote 46. Brown v. GSA (1976) 425 U.S. 820, 832, 96 S. Ct. 1961, 48 L. Ed. 2d 402 . See also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-16(c).

(n61)Footnote 47. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-16(b).

(n62)Footnote 48. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a).

(n63)Footnote 49. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a)(1).

155 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.62

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.62 Initiating the Proceeding

[1] Intake

[a] In General

The process of filing an EEOC charge generally begins with an intake interview with the charging party either in person or by telephone.ⁿ¹ If a person lives outside the normal commuting area of EEOC regional or area offices, he or she may have a charge/complaint taken by telephone and mailed for verification and signature.ⁿ² An individual who contacts the EEOC is advised of all the options for redress available under the statutes enforced by the agency.ⁿ³ Depending on the facts, an individual may file a charge under Title VIIⁿ⁴ or under the ADEA,ⁿ⁵ or a concurrent Title VII/EPAn⁶ charge or concurrent charge under all three statutes, or he or she may file an ADEA or EPAn⁷ complaint.ⁿ⁸ An individual may also file a charge under the ADA.^{n8.1} If the EEOC is investigating a possible violation of one statute and finds a violation of another statute that it enforces, it may process and seek a remedy pursuant to all applicable statutes.ⁿ⁹ However, any complaining party may advise EEOC that he or she wishes a complaint processed under a particular statute.ⁿ¹⁰

A potential charging party who visits an EEOC office completes a questionnaire,ⁿ¹¹ and participates in an intake interview conducted by an EEO Investigator (EEOI).ⁿ¹² The EEOI obtains as much information as possible regarding the circumstances leading to filing of the charge and information about the employer,ⁿ¹³ and determines whether any statute enforced by the EEOC applies.ⁿ¹⁴ In addition to in-person complaints, the EEOC will accept and process any correspondence that provides sufficient information to identify the parties and that complains of a matter that may constitute employment discrimination prohibited by Title VII or the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁵

The EEOC provides charge forms on request to charging parties or their attorneys, as well as copies of EEOC Compliance Manual section 2.5, which prescribes the format for drafting charges. A charge form (EEOC Form 5) that is completed and mailed to an EEOC office is assigned for investigation if it contains the required information.ⁿ¹⁶

A charge may be filed in person or by mail at any office of the EEOC.ⁿ¹⁷

■ PRACTICE TIP:

It is a good practice for counsel to discuss the nature and, particularly, the scope of a charge with the complainant prior to the complainant's interview at the EEOC with a view toward subsequent proceedings. In some cases, counsel may wish to draft a complaint to assist EEOC personnel in understanding the nature and scope of the charge. If the charge involves a class claim, it should so state.

Commentary by William Lann Lee.

[b] Intake Questionnaire

An intake questionnaire is filled out by the person alleging discrimination to inform the EEOC of the relevant allegations of discrimination and to allow the EEOC to determine whether it has jurisdiction over potential charges or complaints. The intake questionnaire form is available from any EEOC office.^{n17.1} The form is also available in Spanish.

[c] Title VII and ADA Charges

Title VII, the ADA, and EEOC regulations provide that a charge must be in writing under oath or affirmation and must contain such information and be in such form as the EEOC requires.ⁿ¹⁸ Each charge should contain the following:ⁿ¹⁹

1. The full name, address, and telephone number of the person making the charge;ⁿ²⁰
2. The name and address of the person against whom the charge is made (known as the respondent);
3. A clear and concise statement of the facts, including pertinent dates, constituting the alleged unlawful employment practices;ⁿ²¹
4. The approximate number of employees employed by respondent, if known; and
5. A statement disclosing whether proceedings involving this employment practice have been commenced before another fair employment agency, and if so, the name of the agency and the date of commencement of proceedings.

A Title VII or ADA charge may be filed by "any person claiming to be aggrieved,"ⁿ²² that is, any person who has allegedly suffered harm because of alleged unlawful discrimination.ⁿ²³ A Title VII charge may also be filed on behalf of an aggrieved person by another person, agency, or organization.ⁿ²⁴ In such a case, the person or entity who files the charge informs the EEOC of the identity of the person on whose behalf the charge is filed, and if the aggrieved party so requests, the EEOC keeps his or her identity confidential.ⁿ²⁵

An EEOC commissioner may also file a Title VII or ADA charge,ⁿ²⁶ usually at the request of a person or organization.ⁿ²⁷ A commissioner's charge may be filed when there is reason to believe there exists a pattern or practice of unlawful discrimination.ⁿ²⁸ It is also sometimes used when the aggrieved party fears retaliation. For discussion of charges brought by the EEOC, see § 42.73.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Although the EEOC may do so, it is doubtful whether an individual would be able to bring a private Title VII enforcement action if a charge was filed on behalf of an aggrieved person by another person, agency, or organization. The other person, agency, or organization generally would not have standing to sue on its own behalf. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[d] ADEA Charges and Complaints

An aggrieved party initiates proceedings under the ADEA by filing either a charge or a complaint with the EEOC.ⁿ²⁹ A "charge" is a written statement filed with the EEOC by or on behalf of an aggrieved individual that alleges that the named prospective defendant has engaged in or is about to engage in actions in violation of the ADEA.ⁿ³⁰ A "complaint" is information received by the EEOC from any source, other than a charge, that alleges that an employer has violated the ADEA.ⁿ³¹

A charge must be in writing, name the prospective respondent, and generally allege the discriminatory acts.ⁿ³² The charge must conform to the same standards required of charges under Title VII, listed in [c], above.ⁿ³³ Charges and complaints may be submitted in person, by telephone, or by mail to any office of the EEOC, or to any designated representative of the EEOC.ⁿ³⁴ Charges that are received in person or by telephone must be reduced to writing.ⁿ³⁵

The phrase "a charge alleging unlawful discrimination" is used in the ADEA itself,^{n35.1} and the word "charge" appears in the EEOC's implementing regulations.^{n35.2} However, it is not defined in the statute, and, while EEOC regulations gave it some content,^{n35.3} the regulations do not identify all necessary components of a charge; it follows that a document meeting the requirements of 29 C.F.R. § 1626.6 is not a charge in every instance.^{n35.4} In deciding what constituted a charge under the ADEA, the federal Courts of Appeals adopted different definitions, resulting in difficulties in determining when employees could seek relief under the ADEA in courts of competent jurisdiction.^{n35.5} In Federal Express v. Holowecki,^{n35.6} the United States Supreme Court resolved those differences, defining "charge" for the purposes of the ADEA. The Court held that a filing with the EEOC is a charge if the document reasonably can be construed to request EEOC action and appropriate relief on the employee's behalf.^{n35.7} The Court also held that the submission of EEOC Form 283, which the EEOC labels an Intake Questionnaire,^{n35.8} with a signed affidavit describing alleged discriminatory employment practices in greater detail attached, constituted a charge.^{n35.9} The completed intake form contained all of the information required by 29 C.F.R. § 1626.8:

- The employee's name, address, and telephone number, as well as those of her employer.
- An allegation that she and other employees had been the victims of age discrimination.
- The number of employees who worked at facility where she was stationed.
- A statement indicating she had not sought the assistance of any government agency regarding this matter.

By itself, the intake form would not have been sufficient to constitute a charge. However, it was supplemented with a detailed six-page affidavit, and, at the end of the last page, the employee asked the agency to please force the employer to end the age discrimination plan so the employees could finish out their careers absent the unfairness and hostile work environment, which was properly construed as a request for the agency to act.

[e] EPA Complaints

The filing of a confidential affidavit with the EEOC initiates an administrative proceeding under the EPA.ⁿ³⁶ Generally, the EEOC processes a complaint alleging violations of the EPA and Title VII under both statutes unless there is no jurisdiction under one of the statutes.ⁿ³⁷

EPA complaints may be filed either with the EEOC or with any office of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor.ⁿ³⁸

[f] Sufficiency of Charges

The EEOC generally accepts charges that do not contain all of the required information, if they contain statements sufficiently precise to identify the parties and to describe generally the challenged action or practices.ⁿ³⁹ Timeliness affects whether the EEOC will investigate the charge, but not whether the charge meets the minimal requirements.ⁿ⁴⁰ However, the EEOC is likely to dismiss a charge without investigation if it is clearly untimely or if it does not state a violation of Title VII or the ADA.ⁿ⁴¹ If a prospective charging party insists, the EEOC accepts a charge even if there is no apparent jurisdiction under Title VII. In such a circumstance, the EEOC dismisses the charge summarily if it determines there is no jurisdiction.ⁿ⁴²

In Edelman v. Lynchburg College, ^{n42.1} the United States Supreme Court upheld the EEOC regulation allowing a person who has otherwise timely filed an unverified charge to verify the charge after the time for filing has expired.^{n42.2} as an unassailable interpretation of Title VII, § 706.^{n42.3} However, the Court declined to decide whether an unverified letter faxed to the EEOC within the filing period claiming employment discrimination was or was not a charge on the basis of evidence showing that neither the claimant nor the EEOC treated it as one.^{n42.4}

The Ninth Circuit has upheld the sufficiency of an unsigned and unverified intake questionnaire because it adequately identified the parties and the charges, and was amended by the filing of a signed and verified charge.ⁿ⁴³ Other courts have also held that an EEOC charge is sufficient even though it is not sworn or affirmed when received so long as the defect is cured later.ⁿ⁴⁴

[g] Confidentiality of Complainant Party

The EEOC does not disclose the identity of an aggrieved person if a Title VII or ADEA charge is filed on his or her behalf by a third party, nor does the EEOC disclose the identity of ADEA and EPA complainants.ⁿ⁴⁵ For further discussion of the confidentiality of identity of a complaining party, see § 42.72[1][a].

[2] Sample Charge and Sample Complaint

[a] FORM--Sample EEOC Charge (EEOC Form 5)

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is an EEOC charge, which is used by all field offices to take Title VII, ADEA, and concurrent charges.ⁿ⁴⁶ⁿ⁴⁷

The first paragraph in the space provided should outline the alleged harm, the date the practice first occurred and whether it is continuing, the charging party's work history with respondent, and the approximate number of employees. The second paragraph should describe the act, policy, or practice alleged to violate Title VII and how it applies to the charging party. The third paragraph should state why the charging party believes the act complained of is discriminatory. For example, if disparate treatment is alleged, this statement may compare the treatment of the charging party to the treatment of others. Finally, a fourth paragraph may include allegations regarding other aggrieved parties or class allegations.ⁿ⁴⁸

The EEOC may not delete any allegation made by a charging party without the charging party's permission. Consequently, the EEOI includes in the charge all allegations made by the charging party even though the EEOC may not fully investigate them.ⁿ⁴⁹

Although this is the suggested format for a charge, the EEOI need not force the allegations into this exact format if that would make the charge unclear or divert the investigator from the real issues. For example, multi-issue charges may be modified from this four-paragraph format.ⁿ⁵⁰

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Because the EEOI generally drafts a charge for the complainant, the complainant should carefully review the draft charge to ensure that all possible allegations are included. In particular, the draft should be scrutinized for scope of the charge, which may affect the scope of subsequent proceedings, as well as the scope of the EEOC's investigation. Commentary by William Lann Lee.

[ii] Form Sample EEOC Charge (EEOC Form 5)

Click here to view image.

[b] FORM--Sample Complaint (EEOC Affidavit--EEOC Form 133)

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an EEOC affidavit, which is used to file either an ADEA or EPA complaint.ⁿ⁵¹ For discussion of ADEA and EPA complaints, see [1][d] and [e], above, respectively.

[ii] Form Sample Complaint (EEOC Affidavit EEOC Form 133)

Click here to view image.

[3] Timeliness

[a] Statutory Charge-Filing Periods

Because California has a local agency (the DFEH) with authority to remedy discriminatory practices that are illegal under federal law, California is both a "deferral jurisdiction" under Title VII and the ADAn⁵² and a "referral jurisdiction" under the ADEA.ⁿ⁵³ Therefore, in California, Title VII, ADA, and ADEA charges must be filed with the EEOC within 300 days after the alleged unlawful act occurred or within 30 days after the DFEH terminates its processing of a charge, whichever occurs earlier.ⁿ⁵⁴ The purpose of the 300-day charge-filing period is to provide state and local agencies the initial opportunity to resolve claims of unlawful discrimination.ⁿ⁵⁵ However, if a state agency lacks subject matter jurisdiction over a charge,^{n55.1} or if the complainant fails to initiate proceedings with the state agency, the EEOC charge must be filed within 180 days after the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred.ⁿ⁵⁶ A claim is time barred if it is not filed within these time limits.ⁿ⁵⁷

As a practical matter, such a circumstance is unlikely to occur in California because the EEOC and the DFEH are parties to a worksharing agreement under which each agency is the other agency's agent for purposes of filing charges, and complaints and charges filed with one agency are transmitted to the other, as discussed in § 42.63.ⁿ⁵⁸ If the state agency waives its jurisdiction to the EEOC pursuant to a worksharing agreement, the state proceedings are deemed terminated for purposes of giving the EEOC jurisdiction over the claim.ⁿ⁵⁹ Furthermore, the claimant is entitled to the extended 300-day federal filing period even if his or her claim was not filed with the state agency within the applicable state limitations period.ⁿ⁶⁰ In addition, a claimant in a deferral state need not actually file with the state agency first to be entitled to the 300-day extension. If the claimant files with the EEOC first, the EEOC need only defer jurisdiction to the state agency within 300 days to trigger the extension.ⁿ⁶¹

[b] Charge-Filing Date

[i] In General

A Title VII or ADA charge is deemed filed on receipt by the EEOC.ⁿ⁶² The filing date for charges initiated by telephone is the date the signed Title VII charge is received.ⁿ⁶³ For charges received in the mail, the filing date is the date the charge is received by the office.ⁿ⁶⁴

The filing date of ADEA charges received by mail is the postmark date, if legible, or the date of the letter if the postmark is illegible.ⁿ⁶⁵ If both are illegible or cannot be accurately ascertained, the filing date is the date of receipt.ⁿ⁶⁶ The filing date for charges initiated by telephone is the date of the telephone call for ADEA charges.ⁿ⁶⁷

For "complaints" under both the ADEA and the EPA, the filing date is the date the complaint was received by mail, telephone, or in person.ⁿ⁶⁸

[ii] Amended Charges

A Title VII, ADA, or ADEA charge may be amended to cure technical defects or omissions, such as failure to verify the charge or unclear allegations in the original charge.ⁿ⁶⁹ Amendments may also allege additional acts that are directly related to the subject matter of the original charge.ⁿ⁷⁰ For purposes of determining the timeliness of charges, the EEOC deems that the amended charge was filed on the date that the original charge was filed.ⁿ⁷¹

Courts generally permit amended charges to relate back to the filing date of the original charge if the amended charge cures a technical defect (such as correcting the respondent's address) but alleges the same unlawful act as the original charge.ⁿ⁷² Amendments that add another basis of discrimination but leave the actions complained of in the original charge unchanged also have been held to relate back to the original charge.ⁿ⁷³ Similarly, an amendment that simply verified an unsworn original charge was held to relate back to the original charge.ⁿ⁷⁴ However, one court has held that an amended charge does not relate back to the filing date of the original charge when the amendment adds allegations of different unlawful acts based on facts not alleged in the original charge complaint.ⁿ⁷⁵

■ PRACTICE TIP:

If counsel is retained after the initial charge has been filed, he or she should review the charge to ascertain if an amendment should be filed. Commentary by William Lann Lee.

[c] Determining When Charge-Filing Period Begins

Under Title VII, the ADA, and the ADEA, the limitations period begins to run on the date that the alleged unlawful employment practice occurs.ⁿ⁷⁶ Although in some factual situations it is easy to determine when the alleged discriminatory act occurred, in others it is more difficult, especially if multiple events are involved in making an employment decision. Courts have, therefore, made this determination on a case-by-case basis. In Delaware State College v. Ricks,ⁿ⁷⁷ the United States Supreme Court held that determining the timeliness of an EEOC charge requires precise identification of the unlawful employment practice complained of and the date on which the charging party was notified of its occurrence. In Ricks, the Court found that the unlawful employment practice was the decision not to grant plaintiff tenure, rather than the date one year later when his employment terminated, because the eventual termination was an inevitable consequence of the denial of tenure.ⁿ⁷⁸ Thus, the Court held that the limitations period began on the date plaintiff was notified of the decision to deny him tenure.ⁿ⁷⁹

In other termination cases, courts have followed Ricks and held that the charge-filing period begins on the date that an employee is notified of his or her termination, even if he or she continues to work until a later date.ⁿ⁸⁰ In one case, the Supreme Court held that a discharge occurred on the charging party's last day at work and not later when her discharge grievance under a collective bargaining agreement was finally resolved.ⁿ⁸¹

In hiring cases, the charge-filing period begins to run on the date that the respondent fills or decides not to fill the position that the charging party sought.ⁿ⁸²

The analysis is similar in promotion cases. In one case, for example, the court held that the limitations period began to run when an eligibility list containing the plaintiff's name expired, rather than when the list was promulgated. The court distinguished Ricks, explaining that the plaintiff in the case before it was not certain that she would not be promoted until the list expired.ⁿ⁸³

For purposes of determining when the limitations period begins to run on a challenge to an intentionally discriminatory seniority system,ⁿ⁸⁴ an unlawful employment practice is deemed to occur when the seniority system is adopted, when an individual becomes subject to the seniority system, or when a person aggrieved is injured by the application of the seniority system or provision of the system.ⁿ⁸⁵ This rule applies regardless of whether the discriminatory purpose is apparent on the face of the seniority provision.ⁿ⁸⁶

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

There is a question whether the statute of limitations codified in the Civil Rights Act of 1991 for challenges to seniority systems will ultimately be expanded to apply to benefit plans, promotion systems, and other employment programs. If the expansion occurs, the new statute of limitations will have an indirect impact on the law of "continuing violations" by permitting Title VII lawsuits under circumstances in which a time bar defense arguably would have prevailed in the past. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

However, a Title VII charge is not untimely if the charging party had no reason to believe that an unlawful act had occurred until after the charge-filing period expired. In such a case, the charge-filing period begins when the charging party learns of the facts giving rise to a discrimination charge.ⁿ⁸⁷

[d] Continuing Violations

Frequently, unlawful employment practices may be continuing in nature because they consist of a series of related discriminatory acts or maintenance of a discriminatory policy or practice over a period of time.ⁿ⁸⁸ Such unlawful practices or policies are referred to as "continuing violations."

In National Railroad Passenger Corp. v. Morgan,ⁿ⁸⁹ the United States Supreme Court addressed the issue of what constitutes a continuing violation for purposes of the timeliness of an EEOC charge.ⁿ⁹⁰ The Circuit Courts of Appeal have taken various approaches to the question of whether (and when) acts that fall outside of the statutory time period to file charges are actionable under Title VII.ⁿ⁹¹ The determination of what constitutes an unlawful employment practice and when that practice has occurred varies depending on whether the charge alleges discrete discriminatory acts or hostile work environment claims.ⁿ⁹²

A discrete retaliatory or discriminatory act, such as termination, failure to promote, denial of transfer, or refusal to hire, "occurs" on the day that it "happens." Each discrete discriminatory act starts a new clock for filing charges alleging that act.^{n92.1} The existence of past acts and the employee's prior knowledge of their occurrence does not bar employees from filing charges about related discrete acts so long as the acts are independently discriminatory and charges addressing those acts are timely filed. Thus, a party must file the charge within the statutory period starting with the date of the act or lose the ability to recover for it. However, Title VII does not bar an employee from using the prior acts as background evidence in support of a timely claim.ⁿ⁹³ The Court rejected the argument that the EEOC's discussion of continuing violations in its Compliance Manual, which states that certain serial violations and systemic violations constitute continuing violations which allow relief for untimely events, as well as the positions the EEOC has taken in prior briefs before the Court, warranted deference.ⁿ⁹⁴ Furthermore, the time period for filing a charge is subject to equitable doctrines, such as tolling or estoppel.ⁿ⁹⁵ In National Railroad Passenger Corp., the Court reversed the Ninth Circuit's application of the continuing violations doctrine to what the Ninth Circuit termed "serial violations," i.e., the Ninth Circuit's holding that so long as one act falls within the charge-filing period, discriminatory and retaliatory acts plausibly or sufficiently related to that act may also be considered for the purposes of liability.^{n95.1} The Court noted that there may be circumstances under which it will be difficult to determine when the time period should begin to run. One such issue that may arise is whether the time begins to run when the injury occurs as opposed to when the injury reasonably should have been discovered.^{n95.2}

Following Morgan, there was disagreement among the Circuit Courts of Appeal as to the proper application of the limitations period in Title VII disparate-treatment pay cases.^{n95.3} In Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.,^{n95.4} the United States Supreme Court held that because a pay-setting decision is a "discrete act," the period for filing an EEOC charge begins when the act occurs. The Court distinguished Bazemore v. Friday.^{n95.5} In Bazemore, in a concurring opinion by Justice Brennan (in which the entire Court joined), the Court held that when an employer adopts a facially discriminatory pay structure that puts some employees on a lower scale because of race, the employer engages in intentional discrimination whenever it issues a check to one of these disfavored employees. The Court found that Bazemore stands for the proposition that an employer violates Title VII and triggers a new EEOC charging period whenever the employer issues paychecks using a discriminatory pay structure. However, a new Title VII violation does not occur and a new charging period is not triggered when an employer issues paychecks pursuant to a system that is facially nondiscriminatory and neutrally applied.^{n95.6} The fact that precharging period discrimination adversely affects the calculation of a neutral factor such as seniority that is used in determining future pay does not mean that each new paycheck constitutes a new violation and restarts the EEOC charging period.

In response to the Ledbetter decision, Congress enacted the "Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act of 2009,"^{n95.7} amending Title VII to provide that, effective May 28, 2007, and applicable to compensation discrimination claims pending as of that date,^{n95.8} an unlawful employment practice occurs, with respect to discrimination in compensation in violation of Title VII, when a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice is adopted, when an individual becomes subject to a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice, or when an individual is affected by application of a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice, including each time wages, benefits, or other compensation is paid, resulting in whole or in part from such a decision or other practice.^{n95.9} In addition to any relief authorized by 42 U.S.C. § 1981a, liability may accrue and an aggrieved person may obtain relief under Title VII,^{n95.10} including recovery of back pay for up to two years preceding the filing of the charge, when the unlawful employment practices that have occurred during the charge filing period are similar or related to unlawful employment practices with regard to discrimination in compensation that occurred outside the time for filing a charge.^{n95.11} The identical amendment was made to the Age Discrimination in Employment Act,^{n95.12} and Congress specifically applied the amendments to Title VII enacted by the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act of 2009 to claims of compensation discrimination under Title I and § 503 of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990,ⁿ⁹⁶ and under §§ 501 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.^{n96.1} In enacting the Ledbetter Fair Pay Act, Congress found that the Supreme Court in the Ledbetter decision significantly impaired statutory protections against discrimination in compensation that Congress established and that had been bedrock principles of American law for decades. The decision undermined those statutory protections by unduly restricting the time period in which victims of discrimination could challenge and recover for discriminatory compensation decisions or other practices, contrary to the intent of Congress.^{n96.2} Congress found that the limitation imposed by the Court on the filing of discriminatory compensation claims ignored the reality of wage discrimination and was at odds with the robust application of the civil rights laws that Congress intended.^{n96.3} Congress also stated that with regard to any charge of discrimination under any law, nothing in the Lilly Ledbetter Act was intended to preclude or limit an aggrieved person's right to introduce evidence of an unlawful employment practice that had occurred outside the time for filing a charge of discrimination,^{n96.4} and that nothing in the Act was intended to change current law treatment of when pension distributions are considered paid.^{n96.5}

Following Morgan, the Ninth Circuit held that if a plaintiff chooses to bring separate claims based on each discriminatory act, the assertion that this series of discrete acts flows from a company-wide, or systematic, discriminatory practice will not succeed in establishing the employer's liability for acts occurring outside the limitations period. The Supreme Court in Morgan determined that each incident of discrimination constitutes a separate actionable unlawful employment practice.^{n96.6} When a plaintiff alleges a systematic violation, each individual act of discrimination occurring within the limitations period may form the basis of an actionable claim, even if the discriminatory policy was initiated outside the limitations period.^{n96.7} A discriminatory practice, though it may extend over time and involve a series of related acts, remains divisible into a set of discrete acts, legal action on the basis of each of which must be brought within the statutory limitations period.ⁿ⁹⁷

In Morgan, the Court expressly failed to consider the timely filing question with respect to "pattern-or-practice" claims brought by private litigants.ⁿ⁹⁸ The Ninth Circuit has discussed this issue. For example, in Anderson v. Reno,ⁿ⁹⁹ plaintiff offered evidence of antecedent, untimely events that were arguably part of a pattern of discrimination and evidence that the pattern continued into the relevant limitations period.ⁿ¹⁰⁰

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

In Anderson v. Reno ⁿ¹⁰¹ the Ninth Circuit once again addresses the difficult subject of the "continuing violations" doctrine. The law in this area is extremely confused for the sole reason that courts cannot decide whether the plaintiff must: (1) allege sufficient facts to support a prima facie case of discrimination within the applicable limitations period, and only then be able to attach liability to like or related earlier wrongs; or (2) allege only a portion of a prima facie case within the liability period, and be permitted to supply the missing facts from pre-liability period events. While the record is mixed, differing rules appear to be emerging, depending upon whether the plaintiff is alleging discrimination or harassment.

In general, courts are more likely to require a plaintiff to supply all of the facts for his or her prima facie case of discrimination from events occurring within the liability period. Only then, are most courts willing to allow a plaintiff to attempt to impose liability for earlier like or related wrongs. The same rule should apply to harassment claims, but many cases--and Anderson is no exception--fail to clarify the standard they are using.

For example, the appellate panel in Anderson describes the liability conduct of the allegedly harassing supervisor as encompassing "repeated" unwelcome and sexually explicit comments, as well as considerable harassing conduct. The Ninth Circuit could have found this "repeated" conduct sufficient to establish a prima facie case, but it was silent on the issue. The opinion reveals only that the district court had found these facts insufficient to support a sexual harassment claim. The reversal by the Ninth Circuit, therefore, impliedly stands for the proposition that a course of harassing conduct that predates and postdates the liability period may be linked to establish a timely cause of action. Nonetheless, the decision is not conclusive on the matter because the panel may have been influenced by the short (45-day) window of opportunity for government employees to bring Title VII claims. Because private employees in California have a 300-day limitations period under Title VII (and a one-year limitations period under FEHA), it is less compelling for a plaintiff to argue that a claim is viable if no actionable wrong has occurred within that lengthy window, and a prima facie case is available only by resort to earlier facts. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

On the other hand, a hostile-work-environment claim is composed of a series of separate acts that collectively constitute one "unlawful employment practice."ⁿ¹⁰² Hostile-environment claims involve repeated conduct, which occurs over a series of days, or even years, and cannot be said to occur on any particular day. The claims are based on the cumulative effect of individual acts. The timely filing provision requires only that a Title VII plaintiff file a charge within a certain number of days after the unlawful practice occurs. It does not matter that some of the component acts of the hostile work environment fall outside the statutory time period. Thus, provided that an act contributing to the claim occurs within the filing period, the entire time period of the hostile environment may be considered by a court for the purposes of determining liability. To timely bring the charge, the employee need only file it within the statutory period of the occurrence of any act that is part of the hostile work environment. Furthermore, subsequent events may still be part of the one hostile work environment claim, and a charge may be filed at a later date and still encompass the whole.ⁿ¹⁰³ In National Railroad Passenger Corp., the Supreme Court provided the following scenarios:ⁿ¹⁰⁴

1. Acts on days 1-400 create a hostile work environment. The employee files the charge on day 401. Can the employee recover for that part of the hostile work environment that occurred in the first 100 days?

2. Acts contribute to a hostile environment on days 1-100 and on day 401, but there are no acts between days 101-400. Can the act occurring on day 401 pull the other acts in for the purposes of liability?

The Court concluded that because a hostile environment constitutes one unlawful employment practice, it does not matter that nothing occurred within the intervening 301 days, so long as each act is part of the whole. Furthermore, if sufficient activity occurred by day 100 to make out a claim, it does not matter that the employee knows on that day that an actionable claim happened; on day 401 all incidents are still part of the same claim. However, if an act on day 401 had no relation to the acts between days 1-100, or if some other reason, such as certain intervening action by the employer, caused it to no longer be part of the same hostile-environment claim, the employee cannot recover for the previous acts, at least not by reference to the day 401 act. The court's task is to determine whether the acts about which an employee complains are part of the same actionable hostile-work-environment practice, and if so, whether any act falls within the statutory time period.

With respect to hostile-environment claims, however, employers have recourse if a plaintiff unreasonably delays filing a charge. An employer may raise a laches defense, barring a plaintiff from maintaining a suit if the plaintiff unreasonably delays filing a suit and as a result harms the employer. The defense requires proof of lack of diligence by the plaintiff and of prejudice to the employer.ⁿ¹⁰⁵ In National Railroad Passenger Corp., the Court expressly did not consider whether the laches defense may be asserted against the EEOC, even though traditionally the doctrine may not be applied against the sovereign.ⁿ¹⁰⁶

A continuing violation may affect an individual or a class,ⁿ¹⁰⁷ and often involves employment opportunities such as promotions or transfers.ⁿ¹⁰⁸

Courts have held that a continuing violation of Title VII or the EPA occurs each time a charging party receives less pay for performing equal work, and that a denial of equal pay is subject to a discrimination charge even though it occurred before the charge-filing period.ⁿ¹⁰⁹

A "continuing violation" should be distinguished from a claim that the present effect of past discrimination continues to affect an individual adversely. The leading case on this issue is United Air Lines, Inc. v. Evans.ⁿ¹¹⁰ Evans involved a female flight attendant who had been forced to resign in the late 1960s because of her employer's no-marriage policy, which applied only to women. The employee resumed work in 1972 after another lawsuit invalidated the no-marriage policy, but her seniority began accruing anew from her second hiring date. The United States Supreme Court found no Title VII violation based on the airline's refusal to credit her with lost seniority from her prior employment. According to the Court, even though a seniority system gives present effect to a past act of discrimination, if the previous act was not the subject of a timely EEOC charge, "it is merely an unfortunate event in history which has no present legal consequences."ⁿ¹¹¹

To be a continuing violation, the unlawful practice must continue to exist, or at least one instance of it must occur, within the limitation period before filing of the charge.ⁿ¹¹² Thus, the Ninth Circuit has held that a charge filed two years after an allegedly discriminatory failure to promote was untimely in spite of claimed continuing ill effects from the act.ⁿ¹¹³ The court noted that "[a] continuing violation is occasioned by continual unlawful acts, not by continual ill effects from an original violation."ⁿ¹¹⁴ However, these holdings are now questionable in light of the United States Supreme Court's decision in National Railroad Passenger Corp. v. Morgan,ⁿ¹¹⁵ holding that for discrete acts of discrimination, a party must file the charge within the statutory period starting with the date of the act.

[e] Equitable Tolling of Charge-Filing Period

In Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc.,ⁿ¹¹⁶ the Supreme Court held that timely filing of a charge with the EEOC is not a jurisdictional requirement, but rather is akin to a statute of limitations, which is subject to waiver, estoppel, and equitable tolling. The United States Supreme Court cautions that equitable doctrines to toll the timely filing requirements are to be applied sparingly.ⁿ¹¹⁷ Courts have excused untimely filing of an EEOC charge in many different fact situations. For example, one court tolled the charge-filing period because the employer lied to the charging party about the basis for her discharge and whether her position had been filled.ⁿ¹¹⁸ Another court held that although an employee's disability discrimination claim was not filed with the EEOC within 300 days of his termination, an equitable exception applied. He diligently pursued his claim by going to the EEOC office shortly after his termination. He was pro se at the time and was misled by the EEOC representative, who told him that he needed to retain counsel before filing a claim. Following that advice, the employee retained counsel, but by the time the EEOC responded to counsel's inquiries, the time for filing the claim had expired.^{n118.1} Other courts have permitted equitable tolling of the charge-filing period when the respondent or an enforcement agency actively sought to mislead the charging party.ⁿ¹¹⁹

However, courts have generally refused to toll the limitations period merely because a charging party is unaware of a violation, absent concealment or misleading conduct.ⁿ¹²⁰ In Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell,ⁿ¹²¹ the Ninth Circuit refused to equitably estop the employer from asserting a statute of limitations defense because the employee could not show that he had reasonably relied on the employer's misrepresentation.ⁿ¹²²

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell ⁿ¹²³ provides useful analytical clarification of two distinct doctrines: equitable estoppel and equitable tolling. Equitable estoppel "focuses primarily on the actions taken by the defendant in preventing a plaintiff from filing suit." Equitable tolling "focuses on the plaintiff's excusable ignorance of the limitations period and on lack of prejudice to the defendant."ⁿ¹²⁴ The Santa Maria case addresses both doctrines, but its comments upon equitable tolling are tied to the particular facts of the case and, therefore, are not broadly applicable to other matters.

The remarks of the panel regarding equitable estoppel, however, are important. After identifying a non-exhaustive list of factors for determining the applicability of the doctrine (such as deceptive conduct and reasonable reliance), the panel endorses those cases that treat equitable estoppel as involving some form of "fraudulent concealment." That concealment, however, must be separate from the conduct of which the plaintiff complains. For example, if a plaintiff complains of age discrimination in the context of a termination, but files his or her suit after the lapse of the applicable limitations period, he or she cannot assert that the employer fraudulently concealed its age discriminatory intent at the time of the termination. If this were permissible, the doctrines of equitable estoppel and equitable tolling would merge. Thus, to preserve its distinct character, "[f]raudulent concealment necessarily requires active conduct by a defendant, above and beyond the wrongdoing upon which the plaintiff's claim is filed, to prevent the plaintiff from suing in time."ⁿ¹²⁵ Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Courts have consistently held that resort to remedies other than Title VII does not toll the charge-filing period. In Electrical Workers, IUE v. Robbins & Myers,ⁿ¹²⁶ the Supreme Court held that the Title VII charge-filing period is not tolled while the charging party pursues a grievance and arbitration procedure under a collective bargaining agreement. Based on Robbins, courts have declined to toll the charge-filing period when the charging party previously pursued remedies with the National Railroad Adjustment Board,ⁿ¹²⁷ filed a Title VI claim with the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare,ⁿ¹²⁸ and filed a charge with the Department of Labor.ⁿ¹²⁹

Courts will also apply the doctrine of equitable tolling to excuse a failure to comply with time limitations when the claimant had neither actual nor constructive notice of the filing period.^{n129.1} However, in Johnson v. Henderson,^{n129.2} the Ninth Circuit upheld a magistrate judge's refusal to apply equitable estoppel or equitable tolling to a federal postal worker's failure to exhaust administrative remedies before filing suit for sexual harassment. Nothing about either the employee's understanding of the requirements for filing an administrative EEO complaint or the Postal Service's conduct rose to a level sufficient to warrant equitable estoppel or equitable tolling of the 45-day deadline for seeking counseling.^{n129.3} Further, neither equitable tolling nor equitable estoppel applied to the employee's failure to file an administrative complaint within 15 days of her claim.^{n129.4} Equitable tolling was unavailable because the employee was represented by counsel at the relevant time and charged with constructive knowledge of the law's requirements through her attorney. Equitable estoppel was unavailable because nothing in the Postal Service's actions was intended to deceive her, and there was no evidence the Postal Service knew or should have known it would have deceived her.^{n129.5}

[4] Service on Respondents

Title VII and the ADA provide that the EEOC must notify a respondent that a charge has been filed against it within ten days after the EEOC receives the charge.ⁿ¹³⁰ The ADEA requires that respondents be promptly notified of a charge without specifying a time limit.ⁿ¹³¹ If a complaint, rather than a charge, is filed under the ADEA or EPA, the respondent need not be notified.ⁿ¹³² For charges that have been filed first with a state or local fair employment practices agency, the ten-day service period begins to run from the date that the EEOC asserts jurisdiction over the charge.ⁿ¹³³ Under Title VII and the ADA, the notice must include the date, location, and circumstances giving rise to the charge, and the identity of the person or organization that filed the charge.ⁿ¹³⁴ The ADEA does not specify what must be included in the notice.ⁿ¹³⁵ Notices of charges filed by a third party on behalf of another person identify only the charging party and protect the confidentiality of the aggrieved party's identity.ⁿ¹³⁶

Ordinarily, the EEOC includes a copy of the charge when it serves the notice, unless sending the charge will impede the EEOC's law enforcement functions.ⁿ¹³⁷ The EEOC will not serve a copy of the charge in the following circumstances:ⁿ¹³⁸

1. The charge names more than one respondent unless the respondents are named jointly;
2. The charge is made on behalf of an aggrieved person who wishes to remain anonymous and the charge includes identifying information;
3. The charging party expresses concern about the information in the charge being sent to the respondent;
4. The allegations are vague, contradictory, incoherent, or would otherwise not facilitate resolution; or
5. The charge is not on an EEOC charge form.ⁿ¹³⁹

Although Title VII requires that the EEOC notify a respondent that a charge has been filed against it, the Ninth Circuit has held that failure by the EEOC to serve a charge does not extinguish the charging party's right to file a Title VII court action.ⁿ¹⁴⁰ The court reasoned that a Title VII plaintiff should not be penalized by the EEOC's failure to perform its statutory duties.ⁿ¹⁴¹

An employer may request that copies or notices of future charges that may be filed against facilities or affiliated entities also be sent to its headquarters or other specified location.ⁿ¹⁴²

[5] FORM--Sample Notice of Charge of Discrimination (EEOC Form 131)

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a notice of charge of discrimination,ⁿ¹⁴³ which informs the respondent that an EEOC charge has been filed against it and states the statutory basis or bases of the charge. It briefly states the circumstances of the alleged violation. The notice of charge may also request that respondent submit a statement of its position on the allegations of the charge, or the notice may be accompanied by a request for information. The notice also identifies the EEOC representative assigned to the charge. Because the EEOC and the DFEH are parties to a worksharing agreement, certain cases are handled first by the DFEH and others by the EEOC.ⁿ¹⁴⁴ In a case that may be investigated first by the DFEH, the DFEH may file the charge and send a notice of charge to the respondent.ⁿ¹⁴⁵ For discussion of DFEH complaint and form of notice of complaint, see §§ 42.23[1][a] and [4][b], respectively.

[b] Form Sample Notice of Charge of Discrimination (EEOC Form 131)

Click here to view image.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment
Opportunity Commission
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity
Commission
Enforcement
General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 2.3, 2.4.

(n2)Footnote 2. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 1.5.

(n3)Footnote 3. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.1.

(n4)Footnote 4. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b).

(n5)Footnote 5. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d).

(n6)Footnote 6. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1620.27(a).

(n7)Footnote 7. 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1).

(n8)Footnote 8. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.1.

(n9)Footnote 8.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (Title VII enforcement powers, remedies, and procedures apply to ADA); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.1 et seq. (EEOC procedural regulations).

(n10)Footnote 9. See 29 C.F.R. § 1620.23(c)

(n11)Footnote 10. See 29 C.F.R. § 1620.23(b).

(n12)Footnote 11. [Reserved]

(n13)Footnote 12. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4.

(n14)Footnote 13. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4.

(n15)Footnote 14. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 1.7.

(n16)Footnote 15. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.2.

(n17)Footnote 16. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 1.4.

(n18)Footnote 17. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.8.

(n19)Footnote 17.1. For a list of EEOC offices, see <http://www.eeoc.gov/offices.html> . The EEOC also provides guidance on filing a charge and information about its charge processing procedures on its website.

(n20)Footnote 18. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.9; see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n21)Footnote 19. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.12(a)(1)-(5).

(n22)Footnote 20. The person on whose behalf the charge is made need not be identified in the charge itself, but his or her name, address, and telephone number must be provided to the EEOC. see 29 C.F.R. § 1601.7(a).

(n23)Footnote 21. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.15(b).

(n24)Footnote 22. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.7(a); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n25)Footnote 23. Banks v. Heun-Norwood (8th Cir. 1977) 566 F.2d 1073, 1076-1077. For discussion of individuals covered under Title VII, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n26)Footnote 24. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.7(a); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5); see also EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 1.4.

(n27)Footnote 25. 29 CFR § 1601.7(a) (except that identity of aggrieved person may be released to government agencies who agree to keep this confidential); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c).

(n28)Footnote 26. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.11(a); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n29)Footnote 27. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.6(a).

(n30)Footnote 28. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6(e) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6).

(n31)Footnote 29. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 2.3(c), 2.4(a)(3).

(n32)Footnote 30. See 29 C.F.R. § 1626.3. ADEA charges may allege a threatened future violation. For example, an employee may challenge a mandatory retirement requirement before the policy affects the employee, that is, before he or she reaches the mandatory retirement age. see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(a)(2).

(n33)Footnote 31. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.3.

(n34)Footnote 32. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.6.

(n35)Footnote 33. See 29 C.F.R. § 1626.8(a).

(n36)Footnote 34. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.5. The addresses of the EEOC's offices appear at 29 C.F.R. § 1610.4.

(n37)Footnote 35. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.6.

(n38)Footnote 35.1. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d).

(n39)Footnote 35.2. See, e.g., 29 C.F.R. §§ 1626.3 (defining charge as statement filed with EEOC by or on behalf of aggrieved person, which alleges that named prospective defendant has engaged in or is about to engage in actions in violation of ADEA), 1626.6 (defining requirements for charge as being in writing, naming prospective respondent and generally alleging discriminatory acts), 1626.8(a) (identifying five pieces of information charge should contain), (b) (providing that charge is sufficient if it meets requirements of 29 U.S.C. § 1626.6 and generally alleges discriminatory act(s)).

(n40)Footnote 35.3. Fed. Express v. Holowecki (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1147, 1154, 170 L. Ed. 2d 10 . To view briefs related to the Holowecki case that are available on Lexis.com, go to 2006 U.S. Briefs 1322 . To view the U.S. Supreme Court transcript, go to 2007 U.S. Trans. LEXIS 58 .

(n41)Footnote 35.4. Fed. Express v. Holowecki (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1147, 1155, 170 L. Ed. 2d 10 .

(n42)Footnote 35.5. Fed. Express v. Holowecki (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1147, 1152-1153, 170 L. Ed. 2d 10 .

(n43)Footnote 35.6. Fed. Express v. Holowecki (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1147, 1153, 170 L. Ed. 2d 10 .

(n44)Footnote 35.7. Fed. Express v. Holowecki (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1147, 1154-1159, 170 L. Ed. 2d 10 .

(n45)Footnote 35.8. See [b], above.

(n46)Footnote 35.9. Fed. Express v. Holowecki (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1147, 1159-1160, 170 L. Ed. 2d 10 .

(n47)Footnote 36. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.5(c).

(n48)Footnote 37. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.1.

(n49)Footnote 38. 44 Fed. Reg. 38670 (July 2, 1979) .

(n50)Footnote 39. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.12(b); see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 2.2, 2.5(a).

(n51)Footnote 40. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.2. For discussion of timeliness of charge, see [3], below.

(n52)Footnote 41. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.3. For discussion of dismissal, see § 42.69.

(n53)Footnote 42. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.18(a); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.3(a).

(n54)Footnote 42.1. Edelman v. Lynchburg College (2002) 535 U.S. 106, 122 S. Ct. 1145, 152 L. Ed. 2d 188 .

(n55)Footnote 42.2. Edelman v. Lynchburg College (2002) 535 U.S. 106, 122 S. Ct. 1145, 152 L. Ed. 2d 188, 196-197 ; see 29 C.F.R. § 1601.12(b).

(n56)Footnote 42.3. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5.

(n57)Footnote 42.4. Edelman v. Lynchburg College (2002) 535 U.S. 106, 122 S. Ct. 1145, 1152-1153, 152 L. Ed. 2d 188, 200-201 .

(n58)Footnote 43. See Casavantes v. California State Univ. (9th Cir. 1984) 732 F.2d 1441, 1443 ; see also Laquaglia v. Rio Hotel & Casino, Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 186 F.3d 1172, 1175 (subsequent failure to check box on formal charging document to send claim to EEOC does not affect timeliness).

(n59)Footnote 44. See Weeks v. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 228, 231 ; Blue Bell Boots, Inc. v. EEOC (6th Cir. 1969) 418 F.2d 355, 357 ; Choate v. Caterpillar Tractor Co. (7th Cir 1968) 402 F.2d 357, 360 .

(n60)Footnote 45. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c)(1), (2).

(n61)Footnote 46. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.5(a).

(n62)Footnote 47. [Reserved]

(n63)Footnote 48. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.5(b).

(n64)Footnote 49. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.5(a). By including such allegations in the charge, the EEOC preserves the charging party's right to pursue them in court.

(n65)Footnote 50. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.5(a)(1), (d).

(n66)Footnote 51. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.3(b), (c).

(n67)Footnote 52. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.74, 1601.80.

(n68)Footnote 53. See 29 C.F.R. § 1626.9.

(n69)Footnote 54. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(2) (Title VII); 29 U.S.C. 626(d)(2) (ADEA); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA). see AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 109, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, (in state with entity with authority to grant or seek relief with respect to alleged unlawful practice, employee who initially files grievance with that agency must file charge with EEOC within 300 days of employment practice; in all other states, charge must be filed within 180 days).

(n70)Footnote 55. See E.E.O.C. v. Commercial Office Products Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 107, 110-111, 108 S. Ct. 1666, 100 L. Ed. 2d 96; Mohasco Corp. v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532.

(n71)Footnote 55.1. See, e.g., MacDonald v. Grace Church Seattle (9th Cir. 2006) 457 F.3d 1079, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 20582, *7-*28 (although state equal employment opportunity commission generally was considered deferral agency, it did not have subject matter jurisdiction over discrimination charges against nonprofit religious employers under state law; Title VII's 180-day time limit applied, and employee suing religious nonprofit employers was not entitled to longer 300-day filing deadline).

(n72)Footnote 56. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(2); Kocian v. Getty Refining and Marketing Company (3d Cir. 1983) 707 F.2d 748, 752, cert. denied, 464 U.S. 852 (1983). The EEOC takes the position that a deferral agency that lacks subject matter jurisdiction is equivalent to a jurisdiction that does not have a deferral agency. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.4(d); see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1); 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1) (limitations period for jurisdiction with no deferral agency).

(n73)Footnote 57. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 109, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, ("shall" makes act of filing charge within specified time period mandatory).

(n74)Footnote 58. Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement Between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC.

(n75)Footnote 59. E.E.O.C. v. Commercial Office Products Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 107, 114-122, 108 S. Ct. 1666, 100 L. Ed. 2d 96; see E.E.O.C. v. Dinuba Medical Clinic (9th Cir. 2000) 222 F.3d 580, 585 (charge constructively filed with EEOC on date DFEH agreed to waive its exclusive 60-day jurisdiction and relinquished processing responsibility to EEOC); E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1510 (state proceedings may be "initially instituted" within meaning of 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1) notwithstanding state's advance waiver of initial charge processing).

(n76)Footnote 60. E.E.O.C. v. Commercial Office Products Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 107, 123-124, 108 S. Ct. 1666, 100 L. Ed. 2d 96; see Maurya v. Peabody Coal Co. (6th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 933, 935.

(n77)Footnote 61. Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1220 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 (1991) .

(n78)Footnote 62. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a).

(n79)Footnote 63. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.7(a).

(n80)Footnote 64. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.7(a).

(n81)Footnote 65. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.7(b)(1); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.7(a).

(n82)Footnote 66. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.7(b)(1); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.7(a).

(n83)Footnote 67. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.7(b)(3); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.7(a).

(n84)Footnote 68. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.7(b); see 29 C.F.R. § 1626.7(b)(1)-(3).

(n85)Footnote 69. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.12(b), 1626.8(c); see discussion in [1][f], above; see also Edelman v. Lynch-burg College (2002) 535 U.S. 106, 122 S. Ct. 1145, 152 L. Ed. 2d 188 (upholding 29 C.F.R. § 1601.12(b) and allowing charge to be verified after filing period, as unassailable interpretation of Title VII).

(n86)Footnote 70. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.12(b), 1626.8(c).

(n87)Footnote 71. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.12(b), 1626.8(c).

(n88)Footnote 72. Ramirez v. National Distillers & Chemical Corporation (9th Cir. 1978) 586 F.2d 1315, 1318-1319 .

(n89)Footnote 73. Hicks v. ABT Associates, Inc. (3d Cir. 1978) 572 F.2d 960, 964 ; Sanchez v. Standard Brands, Inc. (5th Cir. 1970) 431 F.2d 455, 464 .

(n90)Footnote 74. Blue Bell Boots, Inc. v. E.E.O.C. (6th Cir. 1969) 418 F.2d 355, 357 .

(n91)Footnote 75. See Hornsby v. Conoco, Inc. (5th Cir. 1985) 777 F.2d 243, 247 .

(n92)Footnote 76. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1); 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n93)Footnote 77. Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 257, 259, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 .

(n94)Footnote 78. Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 257, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 .

(n95)Footnote 79. Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 257, 259, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 .

(n96)Footnote 80. See, e.g., Aronsen v. Crown Zellerbach (9th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 584, 593-594 ; Price v. Litton Business Systems (4th Cir. 1982) 694 F.2d 963, 965 .

(n97)Footnote 81. Electrical Workers v. Robbins & Myers, Inc. (1982) 429 U.S. 229, 234-235, 97 S. Ct. 441, 50 L. Ed. 2d 427 .

(n98)Footnote 82. Gates v. Georgia-Pacific Corporation (9th Cir. 1974) 492 F.2d 292, 294-295 . If there is evidence that the charging party knew or should have known that he or she would not be hired for a discriminatory reason before the date that the position is filled, the charge-filing period may begin to run on the date that the charging party acquired or should have acquired such knowledge. see Reeb v. Economic Opportunity Atlanta, Inc. (5th Cir. 1975) 516 F.2d 924, 931 .

(n99)Footnote 83. Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1221 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 (1991) .

(n100)Footnote 84. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(h).

(n101)Footnote 85. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(2). This provision, which was added by the Civil Rights Act of 1991 (Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 112), overrules the U.S. Supreme Court's holding, in Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 911-912, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961 , that the limitations period begins to run on the adoption of the seniority system and not on its later application to a particular individual.

(n102)Footnote 86. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(2).

(n103)Footnote 87. Tucker v. United Parcel Serv. (5th Cir. 1981) 657 F.2d 724, 726 (charge-filing period began when African-American seasonal employees learned that white seasonal employees were being recalled and not when African-American employees were told they would not be recalled).

(n104)Footnote 88. See, e.g., Gifford v. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 685 F.2d 1149, 1153-1154 (ongoing policy of assigning work sites alleged to discriminate on the basis of sex); Roberts v. North Am. Rockwell Corp. (6th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 823, 827 (longstanding hiring system allegedly did not consider women for employment); Jenkins v. Home Ins. Co. (4th Cir. 1980) 635 F.2d 310, 312 (ongoing practice of paying female employees less than male employees constituted "continuing violation" of Title VII/EPA); Clark v. Olinkraft, Inc. (5th Cir. 1977) 556 F.2d 1219, 1221 (continued discrimination in promotion and pay); Rich v. Martin Marietta Corp. (10th Cir. 1975) 522 F.2d 333, 348 (challenge to entire promotion system); Wetzel v. Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. (3d Cir. 1975) 508 F.2d 239, 246 (longstanding practice of assigning female employees to segregated jobs with limited promotional opportunities could be challenged by current employee); Macklin v. Spector Freight Systems, Inc. (D.C. Cir. 1973) 478 F.2d 979, 988-989 (ongoing refusal to hire could be continuing violation); Bartmess v. Drewrys U.S.A., Inc. (7th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1186, 1188 (illegal mandatory retirement plan).

(n105)Footnote 89. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106 .

(n106)Footnote 90. For discussion of the statutory charge filing period, see [a], above.

(n107)Footnote 91. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106 . see Morgan v. AMTRAK (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1008 (in Ninth Circuit, plaintiff can establish continuing violation by showing either series of related acts one or more of which are within the limitations period with evidence indicating that alleged acts of discrimination occurring prior to limitations period are sufficiently related to those within period, or by showing systematic policy or practice of discrimination that operated in part within limitations period); Berry v. Board of Supervisors (5th Cir. 1983) 715 F.2d 971, 981 (Fifth Circuit multi factor test, taking into account, among other things, (1) whether alleged acts involve same type of discrimination; (2) whether incidents are recurring or independent and isolated events; and (3) whether earlier acts have sufficient permanency to trigger employee's awareness of and duty to challenge alleged violation); Galloway v. General Motors Service Parts Operations (7th Cir. 1996) 78 F.3d 1164, 1167 (plaintiff may not base suit on conduct occurring outside limitations period unless it would have been unreasonable to expect plaintiff to sue before statute ran on conduct, such as conduct that could be recognized as actionable harassment only in light of events occurring within limitations period).

(n108)Footnote 92. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 120 .

(n109)Footnote 92.1. See, e.g., Porter v. Cal. Dep't of Corr. (9th Cir. 2005) 419 F.3d 885, 893-894 (bulk of allegedly sexually harassing conduct attributed by female employee to employer and its agents fell into category of discrete acts, which were time barred, including refusing to grant employee's requests for vacation or holidays, requiring employee to be tested for tuberculosis by her own physician, threatening disciplinary action while she was on medical leave, leaving negative performance evaluation in her personnel file, and instructing her to enter work site through back gate; however, sexual propositions, offensive comments, and other offensive behavior, some of which occurred within allowable period, and which became less severe during allowable period, nonetheless were sufficient evidence to permit inference of sexually hostile environment persisting into allowable period).

(n110)Footnote 93. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 120-122 . see Raad v. Fairbanks N. Star Borough (9th Cir. 2003) 323 F.3d 1185, 1192 (evidence about time-barred claims was relevant and admissible insofar as it bore on claim that plaintiff was discriminatorily refused full-time teaching position within statutory period); Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1108-1112 (plaintiffs permitted to offer evidence of pre-limitations scheme in prosecution of timely claims).

(n111)Footnote 94. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 121 .

(n112)Footnote 95. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 122 . For discussion of equitable tolling, see [e], below.

(n113)Footnote 95.1. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 122-123 (while plaintiff alleged that he suffered from numerous discriminatory and retaliatory acts from date he was hired through date he was fired, only incidents that took place within timely filing period are actionable).

(n114)Footnote 95.2. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 123 n.7 (this case presented no occasion to resolve that issue).

(n115)Footnote 95.3. Compare Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Inc. (11th Cir. 2005) 421 F.3d 1169 , cert. gr. (2006) 126 S. Ct. 2965, 165 L. Ed. 2d 949 (Title VII pay discrimination claim cannot be based on pay decision that occurred prior to last pay decision affecting employee's pay during EEOC charging period), with Forsyth v. Federation Employment & Guidance Serv. (2d Cir. 2005) 409 F.3d 565 (discriminatory pay schedule is discrete act, even though it involves repeated conduct, and paycheck given within statute of limitations period would be actionable, even if based on discriminatory pay scale set up outside statutory period; but claimant could only recover damages related to paychecks actually delivered during statute of limitations period); Shea v. Rice (D.C. Cir. 2005) 409 F.3d 448, 366 U.S. App. D.C. 178 (each week's paycheck that delivered less to black than to similarly situated white was actionable wrong under Title VII, regardless of whether fact pattern began prior to limitations period).

(n116)Footnote 95.4. Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Inc. (2007) 2007 U.S. LEXIS 6295, *11-*43 .

(n117)Footnote 95.5. Bazemore v. Friday (1986) 478 U.S. 385, 395, 106 S. Ct. 3000, 92 L. Ed. 2d 315 (1986) .

(n118)Footnote 95.6. Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Inc. (2007) 2007 U.S. LEXIS 6295, *34 , citing Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 911, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961 .

(n119)Footnote 95.7. P.L. 111-2.

(n120)Footnote 95.8. P.L. 111-2, § 6.

(n121)Footnote 95.9. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(3)(A).

(n122)Footnote 95.10. See 42 U.S.C. § 20003-5(g)(1).

(n123)Footnote 95.11. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(3)(B).

(n124)Footnote 95.12. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d) as amended by P.L. 111-2, § 4.

(n125)Footnote 96. P.L. 111-2, § (5)(a). See 42 U.S.C. §§ 12111 et seq., 12203.

(n126)Footnote 96.1. P.L. 111-2, § (5)(b). See 29 U.S.C. §§ 791, 794.

(n127)Footnote 96.2. P.L. 111-2, § (1).

(n128)Footnote 96.3. P.L. 111-2, § (2).

(n129)Footnote 96.4. P.L. 111-2, § (3).

(n130)Footnote 96.5. P.L. 111-2, § (4).

(n131)Footnote 96.6. Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1107 .

(n132)Footnote 96.7. Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1107 n.7 .

(n133)Footnote 97. Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1108 . See also Raad v. Fairbanks N. Star Borough (9th Cir. 2003) 323 F.3d 1185, 1192 (because plaintiff filed her charge with state agency, 300-day limitations period governed her claim and school district could be held liable only for discriminatory acts perpetrated within 300 days of date of filing of charge, counting backward from that date; thus, failure-to-hire claims arising out of applications preceding 300 days back from filing of charge were time-barred, but evidence about those claims was relevant and admissible insofar as it bore on her claim that she was discriminatorily refused full-time teaching position within statutory period).

(n134)Footnote 98. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 123 n.9 .

(n135)Footnote 99. Anderson v. Reno (9th Cir. 1999) 190 F.3d 930 .

(n136)Footnote 100. See Anderson v. Reno (9th Cir. 1999) 190 F.3d 930, 936-937 .

(n137)Footnote 101. Anderson v. Reno (9th Cir. 1999) 190 F.3d 930 .

(n138)Footnote 102. For discussion of hostile-environment claims generally, see Ch. 41, Part E.

(n139)Footnote 103. *AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4214, 27-38 (affirming Ninth Circuit's holding that pre- and post-limitations period incidents involved same type of employment actions, occurred relatively frequently, and were perpetrated by same managers).

(n140)Footnote 104. *AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4214, 33 .

(n141)Footnote 105. *AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4214, 38-40 . (Court does not address how and how much prejudice must be shown or what consequences follow if employer establishes laches).

(n142)Footnote 106. *AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4214, 40 n.14 (noting, however, that in Occidental Life Ins. Co. of Cal. v. EEOC (1977) 432 U.S. 355, 373 , there seemed to be general agreement that courts can provide relief to defendants for inordinate delay by EEOC).

(n143)Footnote 107. Domingo v. New England Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 1429, 1443 , modified, 742 F.2d 520 (1984) .

(n144)Footnote 108. See, e.g., Serpe v. Four-Phase Systems, Inc. (9th Cir. 1983) 718 F.2d 935, 937-938 .

(n145)Footnote 109. Hall v. Ledex, Inc. (6th Cir. [Ohio] 1982) 669 F.2d 397, 398 ; Satz v. ITT Financial Corp. (8th Cir. 1980) 619 F.2d 738, 743-744 .

(n146)Footnote 110. United Air Lines, Inc. v. Evans (1977) 431 U.S. 553, 97 S. Ct. 1885, 52 L. Ed. 2d 571 .

(n147)Footnote 111. See United Air Lines, Inc. v. Evans (1977) 431 U.S. 553, 558, 97 S. Ct. 1885, 52 L. Ed. 2d 571 ; see also Lorange v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 912, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961 .

(n148)Footnote 112. See Roberts v. North Am. Rockwell Corp. (6th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 823, 826-828 (ongoing practice of discriminatory refusal to hire).

(n149)Footnote 113. See Ward v. Caulk (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 1144, 1147 .

(n150)Footnote 114. See Ward v. Caulk (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 1144, 1147 ; accord, Scott v. Pacific Maritime Asso. (9th Cir. 1983) 695 F.2d 1199, 1205-1206 ; Reed v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. (9th Cir. 1980) 613 F.2d 757, 760 . See also E.E.O.C. v. Penton Indus. Pub. Co. (6th Cir. 1988) 851 F.2d 835, 839 (no continuing violation when currently employed female is compensated at different wage than had been previously paid to employed male in similarly situated position).

(n151)Footnote 115. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4214, *19-25 .

(n152)Footnote 116. Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 .

(n153)Footnote 117. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106, 2002 U.S. LEXIS 4214, *24 .

(n154)Footnote 118. Reeb v. Economic Opportunity Atlanta, Inc. (5th Cir. 1975) 516 F.2d 924, 929-930 .

(n155)Footnote 118.1. Josephs v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 2005) 432 F.3d 1006, 1014-1015 (employee's affidavit describing his dealings with EEOC was cognizable and could form basis for equitable tolling, because it stated facts based on personal knowledge and was not too conclusory).

(n156)Footnote 119. See, e.g., Miller v. Marsh (11th Cir. 1985) 766 F.2d 490, 493 ; Martinez v. Orr (10th Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1107, 1110 ; Wolfolk v. Rivera (7th Cir. 1984) 729 F.2d 1114, 1117-1119 .

(n157)Footnote 120. Earnhardt v. Puerto Rico (1st Cir. 1982) 691 F.2d 69, 71 ; Lawson v. Burlington Industries, Inc. (4th Cir. 1982) 683 F.2d 862, 864 ; Wilkerson v. Siegfried Ins. Agency, Inc. (10th Cir. 1982) 683 F.2d 344, 346-347 ; see Morse v. Daily Press, Inc. (4th Cir. 1987) 826 F.2d 1351, 1353 (equitable tolling not available when employer had posted in conspicuous place required notice of employee's rights under ADEA).

(n158)Footnote 121. Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170 .

(n159)Footnote 122. See Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170, 1176-1178 (employer's "misrepresentation" consisted of false assertion of what employee's own physician had recommended).

(n160)Footnote 123. Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170 .

(n161)Footnote 124. See Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170, 1177 ; see also Johnson v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2002) 314 F.3d 409, 414 (equitable tolling and equitable estoppel examined in context of federal employee's failure to exhaust administrative remedies before filing suit).

- (n162)Footnote 125. See Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170, 1177 .
- (n163)Footnote 126. Electrical Workers v. Robbins & Myers, Inc. (1982) 429 U.S. 229, 234-235, 97 S. Ct. 441, 50 L. Ed. 2d 427 .
- (n164)Footnote 127. Harris v. Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. (8th Cir. 1980) 616 F.2d 377, 380 .
- (n165)Footnote 128. Stafford v. Muscogee County Bd. of Educ. (11th Cir. 1982) 688 F.2d 1383, 1388-1389 .
- (n166)Footnote 129. See Bledsoe v. Pilot Life Ins. Co. (4th Cir. 1979) 602 F.2d 652, 652 .
- (n167)Footnote 129.1. Johnson v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2002) 314 F.3d 409, 414 .
- (n168)Footnote 129.2. Johnson v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2002) 314 F.3d 409 .
- (n169)Footnote 129.3. See 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a).
- (n170)Footnote 129.4. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.106.
- (n171)Footnote 129.5. Johnson v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2002) 314 F.3d 409, 414-417 .
- (n172)Footnote 130. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.14; see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.1(EEOC procedural regulations apply to ADA).
- (n173)Footnote 131. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.11.
- (n174)Footnote 132. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.1.
- (n175)Footnote 133. See EEOC v. Western Metal Specialty Inc., Div. of Western Indus. (E.D. Wis. 1976) 422 F. Supp. 49, 51-52 .
- (n176)Footnote 134. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.14(a). See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.1(EEOC procedural regulations apply to ADA).
- (n177)Footnote 135. See 29 C.F.R. § 1626.11.
- (n178)Footnote 136. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.1.
- (n179)Footnote 137. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.14(a); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.6.
- (n180)Footnote 138. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.6(a)-(e).
- (n181)Footnote 139. In such a case the charge is served after the charging party has been counseled and the charge has been redrafted on an EEOC Form 5. For sample of Form 5, see [2][a][ii], above.
- (n182)Footnote 140. Watson v. Gulf and Western Indus. (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 990, 992 .
- (n183)Footnote 141. Watson v. Gulf and Western Indus. (9th Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 990, 992 . For discussion of private civil actions under Title VII, see Ch. 43, pt. B.
- (n184)Footnote 142. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.9.
- (n185)Footnote 143. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.14 (Title VII); 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.11 (ADEA). For discussion of notice of charge, see [4], above.

(n186)Footnote 144. See discussion of deferral to state agencies by EEOC in § 42.63 and discussion of deferral to EEOC by DFEH in § 42.24.

(n187)Footnote 145. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.3(b)(1).

156 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.63

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.63 Deferral to State Agencies

[1] In General

Title VII and the ADA provide that if a state or local law prohibits unlawful employment discrimination and contains provisions for seeking relief, no charge may be filed with the EEOC until 60 days after proceedings have been commenced under the state or local law, unless such proceedings have terminated earlier.ⁿ¹ By contrast, an aggrieved person may file charges based on the ADEA with the state agency and the EEOC simultaneously.^{n1.1}

State fair employment practice agencies are referred to as "FEP agencies."ⁿ² Certified FEP agencies are those whose findings and conclusions the EEOC will generally accept without review.ⁿ³ The DFEH is a certified FEP agency.ⁿ⁴

To comply with the Title VII and ADA requirements of initial processing by a state or local agency, the EEOC has developed a practice of deferring charges to such agencies if they are filed first with the EEOC.ⁿ⁵ The Supreme Court approved this practice in Love v. Pullman Co. ⁿ⁶ Thus, if a charge is subject to the jurisdiction of the DFEH and the DFEH has not waived its right to process the charge,ⁿ⁷ the EEOC will send the charge to the DFEH and notify the charging party that it has done so.ⁿ⁸ On expiration of the 60-day deferral period or when the DFEH has terminated its proceedings, the EEOC automatically asserts jurisdiction over the charge.ⁿ⁹

However, if the DFEH lacks subject matter jurisdiction over a charge, the EEOC treats it as if it were a charge arising in a jurisdiction that has no deferral agency. Such a charge must be filed with the EEOC within 180 days of the alleged violation in order to be timely.ⁿ¹⁰

[2] Waiver of Deferral to State Agencies and Worksharing Agreements

State and local fair employment agencies may waive their right to initial processing of discrimination charges.ⁿ¹¹

The EEOC and the DFEH have entered into a worksharing agreement that allocates responsibility for initial processing of charges, provides for waiver of state processing, and authorizes transmittal of charges between the two agencies.ⁿ¹²

Under the agreement, each agency designates the other as its agent for the purpose of receiving charges and agrees to forward to the other agency copies of all charges within the statutory jurisdiction of the other agency.ⁿ¹³ The agreement further provides that the DFEH will initially process (1) all charges covered by both Title VII and the FEHA received first by the DFEH and filed within 240 days of the alleged violation, and (2) all charges alleging employment discrimination covered by Title VII that also allege a basis covered exclusively by the FEHA, regardless of which agency first received the charge.ⁿ¹⁴

Under the worksharing agreement, the EEOC initially processes (1) charges covered by both Title VII and the FEHA that are received first by an EEOC office in California, (2) Commissioner's charges, (3) charges filed first with the EEOC that contain an allegation of sex-based wage discrimination within the meaning of the EPA, (4) charges filed first with the EEOC that contain an allegation of age discrimination within the meaning of the ADEA, (5) all charges received first by the DFEH between 241 and 300 days after the alleged discrimination that allege violations subject to both Title VII and the FEHA, and (6) all charges referred by other federal agencies against certain respondents who are recipients of federal financial assistance.ⁿ¹⁵ The agreement expressly waives the DFEH's right under Title VIIⁿ¹⁶ to an initial 60-day processing period for charges that are to be initially processed by the EEOC.ⁿ¹⁷

The worksharing agreement only refers to charges covered by both Title VII and the FEHA. However, the ADA expressly incorporates Title VII's "deferral" provision, as well as the provision empowering the EEOC to cooperate with state and local fair employment practices agencies.^{n17.1} In addition, EEOC procedural regulations governing deferral expressly apply to the ADA.^{n17.2} Presumably, therefore, the worksharing agreement will de facto be applied to charges alleging discrimination covered by both the ADA and the FEHA.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disability Discrimination
Rehabilitation Act
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disparate Treatment
Statutory Application
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disparate Treatment
Statutory Application
Americans With Disabilities Act
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(3)(ii). See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.1, 1601.13.

(n2)Footnote 1.1. See Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 756, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 ; cf. 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(d), 633(b).

(n3)Footnote 2. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.3, 1601.70(a); see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.1.

(n4)Footnote 3. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.70(a), 1601.77. The EEOC will, however, review any case closed by a FEP agency for lack of jurisdiction, following unsuccessful conciliation, or when the charge involves an issue identified by the EEOC for priority review.

(n5)Footnote 4. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.80.

(n6)Footnote 5. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(4)(i). See also Josephs v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 2005) 432 F.3d 1006, 1014 (because California is "deferral" state, claim must be filed within 300 days of claimed event of discrimination).

(n7)Footnote 6. Love v. Pullman Co. (1972) 404 U.S. 522, 525, 92 S. Ct. 616, 30 L. Ed. 2d 679 .

(n8)Footnote 7. See discussion in [2], below.

(n9)Footnote 8. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(4)(i).

(n10)Footnote 9. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(3)(ii).

(n11)Footnote 10. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 5.4(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(2). For discussion of differences in jurisdiction between EEOC and DFEH, see § 42.02[2].

(n12)Footnote 11. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(a)(3)(iii); Isaac v. Harvard University (1st Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 817, 827-828 ; Thompson v. Machinists (D.D.C. 1984) 580 F. Supp. 662, 666-667 ; Yeung v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (N.D. Cal. 1980) 504 F. Supp. 422, 424-425 .

(n13)Footnote 12. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC. Worksharing agreements between the EEOC and state agencies are authorized by 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-4(g)(1) and 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.13(c), 1626.10(a).

(n14)Footnote 13. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC, p. 2.

(n15)Footnote 14. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC, p. 4.

(n16)Footnote 15. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC, pp. 4-6.

(n17)Footnote 16. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c),(d).

(n18)Footnote 17. See Fiscal Year 1988 Worksharing Agreement between California DFEH and U.S. EEOC, p. 3.

(n19)Footnote 17.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-4, 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n20)Footnote 17.2. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.1, 1601.13(a)(3).

157 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.64

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.64 Investigation

[1] In General

Title VII, the ADA, and the ADEA require that the EEOC investigate charges.ⁿ¹ The EEOC's investigatory authority under Title VII and the ADA is governed by Title 29, United States Code section 161 (section 11 of the National Labor Relations Act),ⁿ² which provides that the agency may have access to and copy all evidence, require the attendance and testimony of witnesses, and issue subpoenas. The EEOC generally conducts investigations of Title VII, ADEA, and EPA cases according to the same procedural guidelines.ⁿ³ Because the ADA expressly incorporates Title VII's investigation provisions,^{n3.1} presumably the EEOC will conduct ADA investigations using the same procedures. However, because of the EEOC's independent authority under the ADEA, the broader permissible scope of EPA investigations, and the need to preserve the anonymity of ADEA and EPA complainants, the EEOC may expand its investigation beyond the allegations contained in ADEA and EPA complaints.ⁿ⁴

Interviews with the parties, other employees, and various other witnesses, are integral to the beginning of the investigative process,ⁿ⁵ and to the end of the investigation, when the EEOC attorney discusses a proposed determination with the charging party or the respondent.ⁿ⁶

[2] Charges Warranting Priority Processing

Immediately after intake, the EEOC attorney reviews for appropriate action every charge alleging retaliation or otherwise warranting preliminary relief (such as charges alleging racial and/or sexual harassment or cases where imminent destruction of records is likely).ⁿ⁷ Retaliation cases have priority for investigation, as do ADEA, EPA, and concurrent Title VII-EPA cases when the statute of limitations for filing an ADEA or EPA civil actionⁿ⁸ is about to expire.ⁿ⁹

The EEOC gives priority to ADEA charges received within 180 days before expiration of the statute of limitations for filing a civil action, and the EEOC informs those charging parties by written notice of the time limitations and of their rights and options under the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁰ If the EEOC has not filed suit in an ADEA case or a concurrent Title VII-EPA case at least 60 days before the expiration of the limitations period for filing a civil action, the investigative staff must provide written notice of this fact and of the parties' time limits for filing a civil action.ⁿ¹¹ However, if the 180-day notice discussed above has already been given, the 60-day notice need not be sent.ⁿ¹² The investigative staff must also monitor the progress of any ADEA, EPA, and concurrent investigations still pending within 180 days before the statute of limitations expires, to ensure timely handling of the cases.ⁿ¹³ The above written notices need not be given if a charge is filed more than two years after the date of the most recent allegation affecting the charging party and if the investigator has given the charging party the "Information Sheet for Charging Parties and Complainants."ⁿ¹⁴ This information sheet sets out the EEOC's procedures in handling a charge, the charging party's responsibilities, and private suit rights under Title VII, the ADEA, and the EPA.ⁿ¹⁵

[3] Scope of Investigation

The EEOC may investigate any violations that are similar to, related to, or develop from the allegations of a Title VII charge.ⁿ¹⁶ In addition, an investigator may report on violations discovered during the investigation that were not alleged in the charge under investigation.ⁿ¹⁷ Under the ADEA, the EEOC may conduct investigations of potential statutory violations without a charge or complaint being filed.ⁿ¹⁸ Under the EPA, the EEOC may investigate job categories that the EEOC has found in the past to have a high incidence of violations.ⁿ¹⁹ Further, the scope of an investigation of an ADEA or EPA complaint should be broad enough to protect the anonymity of the complainant.ⁿ²⁰

[4] Statement of Position and Requests for Information from Respondent

[a] Generally

A respondent's first opportunity to present its defenses is during the investigation, in response to the EEOC's initial formal request for information, which accompanies the Notice of Charge of Discrimination.ⁿ²¹ Although the EEOC does not always request a position statement addressing the allegations of the complainant, the agency will generally accept one.ⁿ²² A respondent should submit such a statement early in the investigative process to help clarify the issues and to bring favorable evidence to the attention of the investigator. Generally, a statement of position is a letter that presents respondent's version of the facts that gave rise to the charge. It should include (1) a short statement of what the employer believes the charging party is alleging; (2) a statement of any procedural arguments that are clearly dispositive, such as the fact that the respondent is not an employer subject to Title VII or that the charge was not timely filed; (3) a detailed narrative of the facts which are relevant to the allegations of the charge; and (4) a short statement of the respondent's position on the issue of whether a Title VII violation occurred, including citations to case law.

The EEOI generally prepares a request for information based on a set of model questions, as well as additional questions reflecting the particular facts alleged in the charge. The request for information should be broad enough to cover the intended scope of the investigation and the questions should cover the appropriate time period to be addressed by the investigation. In ADEA and EPA investigations, the request for information may also request data pertaining to the issues and/or job categories beyond those specifically described in the charge or complaint.ⁿ²³ In cases in which the documentary evidence is likely to be extensive, the investigator may contact the respondent prior to preparing the request for information in order to ascertain the manner in which records are retainedⁿ²⁴ and to ask the respondent to submit a computerized tape and relevant code books if the respondent maintains data on computer.ⁿ²⁵

[b] Subsequent Opportunities to Present Defenses

If more information is needed by the EEOC investigator, he or she may send the respondent a follow-up request for written information.ⁿ²⁶ and may seek oral responses to additional points raised in the investigation. Moreover, at any time during the investigative process, a respondent should present applicable defenses in order to persuade the investigator to dismiss the charge and to assert, on the record, nonpretextual, legitimate defenses at the earliest opportunity.

[5] On-Site Investigations

The EEOC has authority to conduct on-site investigations.ⁿ²⁷ During the on-site investigation, the investigator may tour the facility to gain an understanding of respondent's operations, observe the charging party's work site, review records, and interview witnesses.ⁿ²⁸ If the respondent refuses to permit an on-site investigation, the EEOC may serve an "access" subpoena to enter and inspect the facility, examine and copy evidence, and interview employees.ⁿ²⁹ The investigator may report other potential Title VII, ADEA, or EPA violations observed during the on-site investigation, which may result in expanding the scope of the investigation or the filing of a Commissioner's charge.ⁿ³⁰

[6] Representation by Attorney

The EEOC requires attorneys for charging parties and respondents to submit a written statement of representation on the attorney's office stationery if they wish to communicate with the agency regarding a charge.ⁿ³¹ On receipt of such a statement, the EEOC does not contact the charging party or respondent without advising counsel of the contact by letter or telephone.ⁿ³² The EEOC determines whether the attorney wishes to be contacted before each communication with the charging party or respondent and notes this in the case file. The EEOC will honor an attorney's request in writing that all contacts, whether oral or written, be made directly with him or her.ⁿ³³

[7] Fact-Finding Conference

The fact-finding conference is intended to define the issues in a case, determine which facts are undisputed, clarify disputed issues and evidence, determine the evidence required to complete an investigation, and ascertain whether there is a basis for negotiated settlement of the charge.ⁿ³⁴ No fact finding conference occurs in the following cases:ⁿ³⁵ (1) when the alleged discrimination in the charge derives from an acknowledged or documented policy; (2) when charges are processed under expedited procedures; (3) when charges are made by a Commissioner; (4) when charges are made on behalf of an aggrieved individual whose identity is being kept confidential; and (5) when an ADEA or EPA complaint is made.

The EEO Investigator (EEOI) normally invites the charging party and the respondent's representatives or witnesses, including a person who has authority to enter a settlement and the person who allegedly committed the unlawful act, to the conference.ⁿ³⁶ If the charging party fails to cooperate in the scheduling of conferences or fails to attend conferences, the EEOI may dismiss the charge.ⁿ³⁷ A respondent who refuses to attend may be subpoenaed to appear and testify regarding disputed facts.ⁿ³⁸

Parties may take notes at the fact-finding conference, but no recording device is permitted.ⁿ³⁹ Both the charging party and the respondent may bring an attorney or other representative to the conference, but the attorney may only serve as an advisor and may not speak for a party or examine any person present.ⁿ⁴⁰ Consequently, the attorneys should thoroughly prepare their clients, and the employer representative and other witnesses should have reviewed the charge and related documents and should be able to articulate the company's position.

At the fact-finding conference, the EEOI reads the charge section by section, and the respondent and charging party state their positions regarding its allegations.ⁿ⁴¹ The EEOI attempts to resolve factual disputes, and may amend the charge during the conference.ⁿ⁴²

Either party may request a recess during the conference to discuss settlement, and the EEOI may conduct settlement discussions separately with each party.ⁿ⁴³ If the parties do not reach a settlement at the fact-finding conference, the case proceeds to predetermination interviews, additional investigative activity, and a determination of cause or no cause.ⁿ⁴⁴

[8] Subpoena Power

[a] Authority and Scope

The EEOC has authority to issue subpoenas to compel the testimony of witnesses, the production of evidence, and access to evidence.ⁿ⁴⁵ The agency prefers to secure voluntary compliance with its requests for information and usually issues subpoenas only after other investigative methods have failed.ⁿ⁴⁶ The EEOC has broad subpoena powers and may obtain any evidence relevant and necessary to the resolution of any issue presented in a charge.ⁿ⁴⁷ Although courts have broadly interpreted the relevance standard and have allowed the EEOC to request information regarding violations not alleged in the charge under investigation,ⁿ⁴⁸ the breadth of some EEOC subpoenas has led employers to seek judicial intervention limiting the scope of such subpoenas.ⁿ⁴⁹ For discussion of enforcement of subpoenas, see [d], below.

Because the EEOC perceived such litigation as an inappropriate drain on its resources, the agency adopted a new investigative compliance policy in 1986, which refined its approach to subpoenas.ⁿ⁵⁰ Under this policy, the EEOC strives for more focused subpoenas that are tailored to the needs of a particular investigation and more expeditious processing of challenges to such subpoenas. In addition, the new policy authorizes direct suit on the merits of a charge if issuance of a subpoena against an uncooperative respondent is not essential to reach a determination of the charge.ⁿ⁵¹

The EEOC may require production of evidence that does not currently exist in documentary form.ⁿ⁵² For example, an employer may be required to create lists including the names, positions, and racial identity of employees, when such information is within the control of the respondent.ⁿ⁵³

The EEOC's subpoena power does not cease when the EEOC issues a right-to-sue letter and the charging party initiates litigation based on that charge. In Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Federal Express Corp.,^{n53.1} the Ninth Circuit read Title VII, the relevant regulations,^{n53.2} and the EEOC's interpretation of those regulations^{n53.3} to mean that the EEOC's investigative mandate is triggered by the filing of a valid charge; the EEOC may bring its own action or may issue a right-to-sue notice to the charging party; and even though the EEOC normally terminates the processing of the charge when it issues the right-to-sue notice, it can, under limited circumstances, continue to investigate the allegations in the charge, which includes the authority to subpoena information relevant to that charge. The employee had filed a charge alleging personal discrimination and discrimination against other similarly-situated African Americans and Latinos. The EEOC, pursuant to his request, issued to him a right-to-sue notice. The EEOC decided, however, to continue investigating the charge because it involved a possible policy or pattern of discrimination affecting others, and there was nothing to suggest that the EEOC exceeded its authority in doing so.

[b] Procedure

An EEOC subpoena may be served in person or by certified mail on an appropriate high-ranking official of the respondent, the person who is expected to comply with the subpoena, or the respondent's attorney, subject to agreement to do so.ⁿ⁵⁴ A respondent who is served with a subpoena in connection with a Title VII charge may, within five days after service, petition to revoke or modify the subpoena on the grounds that it does not relate to the matter under investigation or does not describe with sufficient particularity the evidence required. The respondent must serve the petition on the EEOC's General Counsel in Washington, D.C., and on the person who issued the subpoena.ⁿ⁵⁵ There is no procedure for petitioning to revoke or modify an ADEA or EPA subpoena.ⁿ⁵⁶

[c] FORM--Sample EEOC Subpoena (EEOC Form 136)[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an EEOC subpoena used to require the attendance and testimony of witnesses, the production of evidence, and access to evidence for the purposes of examination and the right to copy.ⁿ⁵⁷ A check mark in an appropriate box on the form indicates whether testimony, evidence, or access to evidence is sought. If only documents or compilations are sought the "mail" box is checked. The form indicates a date and time for production (normally at least 10 days from the date of service); the person to whom the evidence should be given; and the matters to be examined or the evidence to be produced.

[ii] Form Sample EEOC Subpoena (EEOC Form 136)

Click here to view image.

[d] Enforcement of Subpoena

If a respondent refuses to comply with a subpoena, the EEOC may seek federal district court enforcement of it.ⁿ⁵⁸ A federal district court has jurisdiction to determine the enforceability of an administrative subpoena issued by the EEOC pursuant to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.^{n58.1} The federal Circuit Courts of Appeals have jurisdiction over appeals of district court determinations regarding administrative subpoenas issued by the EEOC, because an order of a district court enforcing an administrative subpoena is final and ripe for review.^{n58.2} Although a valid EEOC charge is a prerequisite to enforcement of an EEOC subpoena,ⁿ⁵⁹ courts generally enforce subpoenas in spite of objections to the merits of a charge on the ground that a subpoena enforcement proceeding is not the proper forum to litigate such issues.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that the scope of judicial inquiry in an EEOC subpoena enforcement proceeding is limited to: (1) whether Congress has granted the authority to investigate, (2) whether procedural requirements have been followed, and (3) whether the evidence is relevant and material to the investigation.ⁿ⁶⁰ If these factors are shown, the subpoena should be enforced unless it is unduly broad or burdensome.ⁿ⁶¹ Similarly, in Pacific Maritime Association v. Quinn,ⁿ⁶² the court rejected respondent's attempt to challenge an EEOC subpoena based on untimeliness of the underlying charge. The court found that the EEOC needed the information subpoenaed to make a determination of whether it had jurisdiction, i.e., whether the alleged violation was a continuing one. However, in an en banc decision, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals has declined to enforce a subpoena if it is based on a charge that shows on its face that it is untimely and cannot be pursued.ⁿ⁶³ However, the court said that in a situation in which the EEOC raises the possibility of waiver, estoppel, or other circumstances indicating that the charge may be timely despite its facial invalidity, the district court should consider those claims.ⁿ⁶⁴

In some cases, employers have succeeded in defeating enforcement of a subpoena for information relating to a basis of discrimination not stated in the chargeⁿ⁶⁵ and on the ground that compliance would be unduly burdensome.ⁿ⁶⁶

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In light of the EEOC's new Investigative Compliance Policy, respondents should deliberate carefully before initiating challenges to agency subpoenas. The sanctions for unreasonable resistance are heavy, and the subpoenas themselves are supposed to be "carefully tailored" to the needs of the particular investigation. An employer would expend fewer resources and would be likely to accomplish more by seeking to negotiate a satisfactory response to an investigative request, rather than litigating one.

Commentary by Erica B. Grubb and Kirby Wilcox.

[9] Action by EEOC for Temporary Relief Pending Final Disposition of Charge

Title VII and the ADA authorize the EEOC to seek relief pending final disposition of a charge if the agency concludes on the basis of a preliminary investigation that prompt judicial action is necessary to carry out the purposes of the statute.ⁿ⁶⁷ This procedure is designed to preserve the status quo pending the determination of administrative proceedings, and after that it is no longer proper to obtain injunctive relief under that provision.ⁿ⁶⁸

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact Statutory Application General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact Statutory Application Americans With Disabilities Act Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Treatment Statutory Application Americans With Disabilities Act Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Enforcement Investigative Authority

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(a) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII). See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 apply to ADA).

(n2)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9. see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9 apply to ADA).

(n3)Footnote 3. See, e.g., EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 14, 22 (investigation procedures).

(n4)Footnote 3.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9 apply to ADA).

(n5)Footnote 4. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 22.3(c).

(n6)Footnote 5. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 23.

(n7)Footnote 6. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 27.

(n8)Footnote 7. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8.

(n9)Footnote 8. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c), 255(a), 626(e); see also discussion in Ch. 43, pt. B.

(n10)Footnote 9. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8(a),(b).

(n11)Footnote 10. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8(b)(1).

(n12)Footnote 11. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8(b)(3).

(n13)Footnote 12. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8(b)(3).

(n14)Footnote 13. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8(b)(1).

(n15)Footnote 14. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.8(b)(4).

(n16)Footnote 15. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.6.

(n17)Footnote 16. See General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 326, 333, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n18)Footnote 17. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 25.7.

(n19)Footnote 18. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.4; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 22.3(b).

(n20)Footnote 19. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 22.3(b).

(n21)Footnote 20. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 22.3(b).

(n22)Footnote 21. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.4(b).

- (n23)Footnote 22. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.15(a).
- (n24)Footnote 23. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 26.3(a).
- (n25)Footnote 24. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 26.3(a)(1).
- (n26)Footnote 25. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 26.3(a)(2).
- (n27)Footnote 26. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 26.3(a)(5).
- (n28)Footnote 27. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(a); 29 U.S.C. § 625; see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 25.1. see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8).
- (n29)Footnote 28. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 25.3, 25.4.
- (n30)Footnote 29. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 25.2(b)(2).
- (n31)Footnote 30. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 25.7.
- (n32)Footnote 31. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 82.2.
- (n33)Footnote 32. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 82.2.
- (n34)Footnote 33. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 82.3, 82.4.
- (n35)Footnote 34. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.15(c); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.9(b).
- (n36)Footnote 35. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.9(c)(1)-(5).
- (n37)Footnote 36. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.10(a)(3),(b).
- (n38)Footnote 37. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 4.4, 14.10(e)(3).
- (n39)Footnote 38. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.10(e)(3).
- (n40)Footnote 39. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.11(b)(1),(4).
- (n41)Footnote 40. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.11(b)(2).
- (n42)Footnote 41. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.11(b)(3).
- (n43)Footnote 42. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.11(c),(d).
- (n44)Footnote 43. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.11(e).
- (n45)Footnote 44. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 14.12.
- (n46)Footnote 45. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9 (Title VII; incorporating by reference 29 U.S.C. § 161); 29 U.S.C. § 626(a) (ADEA); 29 U.S.C. § 209 (EPA); see 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16(a); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24.1. See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9).
- (n47)Footnote 46. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 24.1, 24.4.
- (n48)Footnote 47. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24.4. See also University of Pennsylvania v. EEOC (1990) 493 U.S. 182, 183, 110 S. Ct. 577, 107 L. Ed. 2d 571 (unless specifically provided otherwise in Title VII, EEOC may obtain all "relevant" evidence).

(n49)Footnote 48. See Georgia Power Co. v. EEOC (5th Cir. 1969) 412 F.2d 462, 468 (court enforced subpoena requesting information on job performance of all other employees in plant to determine comparable treatment); Graniteville Co. (Sibley Div.) v. EEOC (4th Cir. 1971) 438 F.2d 32, 39-42 (court enforced subpoena seeking class-wide information although case being investigated was individual one); Parliament House Motor Hotel v. EEOC (5th Cir. [Ala.] 1971) 444 F.2d 1335, 1340-1341 (court enforced subpoena seeking information for restaurant not named in charge because of common management); Blue Bell Boots, Inc. v. EEOC (6th Cir. 1969) 418 F.2d 355, 358 (employer required to produce hiring information and records of every employee in every category of employment in investigation of firing charge).

(n50)Footnote 49. See, e.g., Georgia Power Co. v. EEOC (N.D. Ga. 1968) 295 F. Supp. 950, 954-955 (reducing geographic scope and relevant time period of information to be produced); Joslyn Dry Goods Co. v. EEOC (10th Cir. [Colo.] 1973) 483 F.2d 178, 183-184 (refusing to require production of employee records from facilities unrelated to the charge).

(n51)Footnote 50. See EEOC, Investigative Compliance Policy (July 14, 1986), incorporated in EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 632.2.

(n52)Footnote 51. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 22.

(n53)Footnote 52. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24.4(a).

(n54)Footnote 53. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24.4(a); E.E.O.C. v. Bay Shipbuilding Corp. (7th Cir. [Wis.] 1981) 668 F.2d 304, 312 .

(n55)Footnote 53.1. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Federal Express Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 543 F.3d 531, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19242, *12-*31 . To view 9th Circuit briefs available on Lexis.com, go to 2006 U.S. 9th Cir. Briefs 16864 .

(n56)Footnote 53.2. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(a)(3).

(n57)Footnote 53.3. See 1 EEOC Compliance Manual § 6.4(e) (June 2006).

(n58)Footnote 54. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24.7.

(n59)Footnote 55. 29 U.S.C. § 161(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16(b).

(n60)Footnote 56. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 24.11.

(n61)Footnote 57. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16(a)(1)-(3).

(n62)Footnote 58. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9, which incorporates by reference 29 U.S.C. § 161; 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16(c); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-9).

(n63)Footnote 58.1. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Federal Express Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 543 F.3d 531, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19242, *2 . See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5(b) (requiring EEOC to investigate charges of discrimination); 2000e-9 (granting to EEOC investigatory and subpoena powers of National Labor Relations Board by incorporating 29 U.S.C. § 161, which provides that district courts have jurisdiction to determine enforceability of administrative subpoena).

(n64)Footnote 58.2. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Federal Express Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 543 F.3d 531, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19242, *2-*3 . See 28 U.S.C. § 1291.

(n65)Footnote 59. EEOC v. Shell Oil Co. (1984) 466 U.S. 54, 62-64, 104 S. Ct. 1621, 80 L. Ed. 2d 41 .

(n66)Footnote 60. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Federal Express Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 543 F.3d 531, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19242, *12-*13 ; EEOC v. Karuk Tribe Hous. Auth., 260 F.3d 1071, 1076 (9th Cir. 2001) ; EEOC v. Children's Hospital Medical Center of Northern California (9th Cir. 1983) 719 F.2d 1426, 1428 .

(n67)Footnote 61. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Federal Express Corp. (9th Cir. 2008) 543 F.3d 531, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19242, *31-*36 (because evidence requested by EEOC was relevant and material to investigation and request was not overbroad, district court did not err in enforcing EEOC's administrative subpoena); EEOC v. Children's Hospital Medical Center (9th Cir. 1983) 719 F.2d 1426, 1428 . The court rejected the defendant's argument that the EEOC subpoena should not be enforced because the charge was barred by a prior consent decree, stating that this would be a defense to a court action and could not be raised in a subpoena enforcement proceeding. EEOC v. Children's Hospital Medical Center (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1983) 719 F.2d 1426, 1429-1430 .

(n68)Footnote 62. Pacific Maritime Association v. Quinn (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1974) 491 F.2d 1294, 1297 .

(n69)Footnote 63. EEOC v. Ocean City Police Dep't (4th Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 1378, 1380-1381 .

(n70)Footnote 64. EEOC v. Ocean City Police Dep't (4th Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 1378, 1382 .

(n71)Footnote 65. See General Insurance Co. of America v. EEOC (9th Cir. 1974) 491 F.2d 133, 136 .

(n72)Footnote 66. See Pacific Maritime Association v. Quinn (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1974) 491 F.2d 1294, 1297 .

(n73)Footnote 67. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(2); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5); Wagner v. Taylor (9th Cir. 1987) 836 F.2d 566, 572-574 (42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(2) does not foreclose individual claimants from seeking interim injunctive relief to preserve status quo and to prevent retaliation while administrative process is advancing).

(n74)Footnote 68. See Equal Employment Opportunity v. Pacific Press Pub. (9th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 1182, 1187 .

158 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.65

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.65 Defenses

[1] Procedural Defenses

[a] Jurisdictional Defects

The EEOC dismisses a charge for lack of jurisdiction if it finds that the applicable statutory requirements are not met.ⁿ¹ Examples of jurisdictional defects that result in dismissal include the following:

1. The respondent in a Title VII action has fewer than 15 regularly-employed persons,ⁿ² in an ADEA action less than 20 regularly-employed persons engaged in an industry affecting commerce,ⁿ³ or under the EPA less than two employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce;ⁿ⁴
2. The ADEA or EPA charging party or complainant has already filed a lawsuit;ⁿ⁵
3. The respondent is a bona fide private membership club exempt from Title VII coverage;ⁿ⁶
4. The asserted basis of discrimination is not covered by the statute;ⁿ⁷ and
5. The charging party lacks standing under Title VIIⁿ⁸ or the ADEA.ⁿ⁹

For discussion of the scope and coverage of Title VII, the ADEA, and the EPA, see Chapter 40, Part C.

[b] Timeliness

The EEOC dismisses a charge as untimely when it finds that a Title VII, ADEA, or EPA charge or complaint has been filed after the expiration of the applicable limitations period. Time limitations for the filing of charges and administrative complaints under these acts are discussed in § 42.62 [3]. The respective statutes of limitations and exceptions to the limitations periods for bringing judicial actions are discussed in greater detail in Chapter 43, Part B.

Notwithstanding the untimely filing of a charge or complaint, the EEOC may pursue its investigation if:

1. The respondent's acts constituted a continuing violation of the law;ⁿ¹⁰
2. The time limit is subject to equitable tolling;ⁿ¹¹ or
3. The employer, because of its improper actions, should be equitably estopped from asserting that the limitations period commenced on a particular date.ⁿ¹²

[c] Prior State Court or Quasi-Judicial Decisions

The EEOC dismisses all charges when the respondent asserts the existence of a prior decision by a state court, a state or local administrative agency other than a 706 agency, or a judicial body such as a tribal court, if the new charge involves the same parties and issues as those that were raised or could have been raised in the prior proceeding.ⁿ¹³ In cases dismissed on this ground, the EEOC issues a Notice of Right to Sue but makes no determination on the merits.ⁿ¹⁴ For discussion of the preclusive effects of prior decisions, see § 42.03.

[2] Substantive Defenses

In order to obtain a "no cause" determination from the EEOC, a respondent must either present evidence to rebut the specific allegations in the charge or complaint or assert an affirmative defense to the alleged unlawful practice. In the absence of enough evidence to support a determination of cause, EEOC will dismiss the case.ⁿ¹⁵ The affirmative defenses applicable in Title VII, ADEA, and EPA actions are fully discussed in Chapter 41, Part E.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate ImpactStatutory ApplicationAmericans With Disabilities ActLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentStatutory ApplicationAmericans With Disabilities ActLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationTitle VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964General OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.3(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(b).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 29 U.S.C. § 630(b).

(n4)Footnote 4. See 29 U.S.C. § 203(r),(s).

(n5)Footnote 5. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.4(f).

(n6)Footnote 6. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(b)(2); cf. Quijano v. University Federal Credit Union (5th Cir. [Tex.] 1980) 617 F.2d 129, 131-133 (private club exemption to be narrowly construed). The ADEA and the EPA contain no analogous exemptions for private clubs.

(n7)Footnote 7. For example, homosexuals alleging sex discrimination are not covered by Title VII. DeSantis v. Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1979) 608 F.2d 327, 329-330 .

(n8)Footnote 8. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b); see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.3(c).

(n9)Footnote 9. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(c)(1), 626(d); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 4.3(c),(d), 605.3.

(n10)Footnote 10. According to the EEOC, continuing violations are those which "have no definite date on which they end. Thus, while the initial effect of a practice or policy may have been felt more than 180/300 days prior to the date on which the charge was filed, the continued existence of that practice or policy within the 180/300 day period makes it a timely subject of a Title VII charge." EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 605.7(a). For discussion of continuing violations, see § 42.62[3][d].

(n11)Footnote 11. See Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 696 ; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 605.7(d). For discussion of equitable tolling of charge-filing period, see § 42.62[3][e].

(n12)Footnote 12. See Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 696 (factors determining the applicability of equitable estoppel include the plaintiff's actual and reasonable reliance on the respondent's conduct or representations and the respondent's actual or constructive knowledge of the deceptive nature of its conduct).

(n13)Footnote 13. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 4.3(f), 605.17(f).

(N14)Footnote 14. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.3(f); see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 605.17(f)(2).

(n15)Footnote 15. See generally EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 4.5.

159 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.66

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.66 Predetermination Settlement

Prior to making a cause or no cause determination in a Title VII or ADA case,ⁿ¹ the EEOC attempts to secure an informal resolution of the matter.ⁿ² In ADEA and EPA cases, the EEOC may also attempt to negotiate a settlement between the parties before making a formal determination on the merits of the case.ⁿ³ ADEA and EPA complaints in which the aggrieved person is undisclosedⁿ⁴ and will not be a signatory to the agreement may be settled informally by written agreement between the EEOC office director and the respondent.ⁿ⁵

A charging party and respondent may enter into a settlement agreement with or without the EEOC being a signatory.ⁿ⁶ If the EEOC is not a party to the agreement, it does not attempt to enforce the agreement in the event of a breach.ⁿ⁷ Moreover, ADEA and EPA settlement agreements to which EEOC is not a party do not preclude the aggrieved person from later seeking other remedial relief in a civil action.ⁿ⁸

The ADEA, as amended by Title II of the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990 (OWBPA),^{n8.1} provides that an individual may agree to waive ADEA rights in settlement of a charge filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).^{n8.2} The waiver must be knowingly and voluntarily made, and must meet specified minimum requirements.^{n8.3} However, no waiver may be used to justify interfering with the protected right of an employee to file a charge or participate in an investigation or proceeding conducted by the EEOC.^{n8.4}

If the negotiated settlement contains provisions that affect the rights of other employees under respondent's collective bargaining agreement with a labor organization, the EEOC makes every effort to obtain the signature of the union representative.ⁿ⁹ This practice probably is based on the fact that the collective bargaining agreement may affect the remedies available from the employer.ⁿ¹⁰ For example, if the EEOC enters into an agreement with the parties but not the union, and the agreement conflicts with the terms of the collective bargaining agreement, the settlement agreement may not be enforceable.ⁿ¹¹ The EEOC's procedures do allow the EEOC to enter into an agreement with the employer even if the union refuses to sign a negotiated agreement, but the EEOC will first consider alternative forms of relief that do not conflict with the collective bargaining agreement.ⁿ¹²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Administrative Law Agency Adjudication General Overview Civil Procedure Settlements General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Enforcement General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. For discussion of determination, see § 42.69.

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.20(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c) (EPA), 626(d) (ADEA); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.12; see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.3.

(n4)Footnote 4. See §§ 42.61[2], [3], 42.62[1][g], and 42.72[1][b],[c].

(n5)Footnote 5. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.9(b).

(n6)Footnote 6. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.8(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.8(b).

(n8)Footnote 8. See Brooklyn Savings Bank v. O'Neil (1945) 324 U.S. 697, 703-704, 65 S. Ct. 895, 89 L. Ed. 1296 ; Lynn's Food Stores, Inc. v. United States, Etc. (11th Cir. [Ga.] 1982) 679 F.2d 1350, 1352-1353 ; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.8(b). These cases hold that the provisions of the FLSA, the remedial provisions of which apply to ADEA and EPA claims, are mandatory and are not subject to negotiation between employers and employees. The only compromise of FLSA claims that is allowed is a supervised administrative payment under 29 U.S.C. § 216(c) or a stipulated judgment under 29 U.S.C. § 216(b). See also Lynn's Food Stores, Inc. v. United States, Etc. (11th Cir. [Ga.] 1982) 679 F.2d 1350, 1352-1353 .

(n9)Footnote 8.1. See Pub. L. No. 101-433, §§ 201-202.

(n10)Footnote 8.2. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(f)(2).

(n11)Footnote 8.3. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(f)(1), (2).

(n12)Footnote 8.4. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(f)(4).

(n13)Footnote 9. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.13.

(n14)Footnote 10. See, e.g., W.R. Grace & Co. v. Local 759 (1983) 461 U.S. 757, 759-764, 772, 103 S. Ct. 2177, 76 L. Ed. 2d 298 (holding employer liable for backpay damages to male employees who were laid off in violation of collective bargaining agreement while female employees were retained pursuant to terms of a consent decree entered into by employer and EEOC); E.E.O.C. v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (5th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 567, 576-580 , cert. denied, 467 U.S. 1204 (1984) (conciliation agreement providing for retroactive seniority in contravention of collective bargaining agreement held unenforceable without union's acceptance unless union has participated in adjudication that discrimination has occurred). For discussion of DFEH requirement of union involvement in settlement under FEHA, see § 42.29[2].

(n15)Footnote 11. See W.R. Grace & Co. v. Local 759 (1983) 461 U.S. 757, 759-764, 772, 103 S. Ct. 2177, 76 L. Ed. 2d 298 ; E.E.O.C. v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (5th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 567, 576-580 , cert. denied, 467 U.S. 1204 (1984) .

(n16)Footnote 12. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.13.

160 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.67

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.67 Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination

[1] Generally

An individual who wishes to withdraw his or her Title VII or ADA or ADEA charge may do so by making a written request to the EEOC.ⁿ¹ There are no procedures for processing the withdrawal of ADEA or EPA complaints, as there are for Title VII charges.ⁿ²

In most cases, the EEOC will honor the individual's request to withdraw his or her charge,ⁿ³ particularly when the withdrawal is in conjunction with a negotiated settlement or conciliation agreement.ⁿ⁴ However, if a charge is withdrawn as a condition of a negotiated settlement,ⁿ⁵ the EEOC will not be a party to the settlement and will not attempt to enforce it.ⁿ⁶

The EEOC may continue any ADEA investigation and obtain relief for affected persons notwithstanding a request by a charging party to withdraw a charge.ⁿ⁷ The agency may also deny withdrawal requests on the grounds that it is not in the public's interest, such as when (1) the EEOC suspects that retaliation or coercion has been perpetrated by the respondent, (2) there is more than one aggrieved party and the EEOC determines that the charge should be further investigated, or (3) the case is in conciliation and the proposed withdrawal either does not provide a settlement or is part of a settlement that conflicts with the EEOC's conciliation standards.ⁿ⁸

[2] Consequences of Withdrawal

If a person withdraws his or her Title VII charge, the EEOC does not issue a Notice of Right to Sue.ⁿ⁹ In an ADEA case, in which a civil action may not be brought until 60 days after a charge has been filed with the EEOC,ⁿ¹⁰ an early withdrawal of the charge could adversely affect the individual's private suit rights.ⁿ¹¹ This is because some courts hold that the 60-day waiting period is jurisdictional and that conciliation is required before any legal action may be instituted.ⁿ¹² In those courts, failure to comply with these administrative requirements results in dismissal of the complaint.ⁿ¹³ As a practical matter, therefore, the EEOC will generally not authorize withdrawal of an ADEA charge until the 60-day period has expired.

[3] FORM--Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination (Title VII or ADEA) (Form 154)[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is for use by a charging party to withdraw his or her charge under Title VII or the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁴ If the charging party so desires, instead of completing Form 154, set forth below, he or she may provide the equivalent information in correspondence to the EEOC.ⁿ¹⁵

[b] Form Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination (Title VII or ADEA) (Form 154)

Click here to view image.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact Statutory Application Americans With Disabilities Act Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Treatment Statutory Application Americans With Disabilities Act Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Enforcement General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.10, 1626.13; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.3.

(n2)Footnote 2. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.1.

(n3)Footnote 3. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.1(a).

(n4)Footnote 4. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.5.

(n5)Footnote 5. See discussion in § 42.66.

(n6)Footnote 6. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 15.8(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.13.

(n8)Footnote 8. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.3(a).

(n9)Footnote 9. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.2(d).

(n10)Footnote 10. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d).

(n11)Footnote 11. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.2(d).

(n12)Footnote 12. See, e.g., Vance v. Whirlpool Corp. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1983) 707 F.2d 483, 489, cert. denied, 465 U.S. 1102 (1984), 467 U.S. 1226 (1984).

(n13)Footnote 13. See, e.g., Vance v. Whirlpool Corp. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1983) 707 F.2d 483, 489, cert. denied, 465 U.S. 1102 (1984), 467 U.S. 1226 (1984).

(n14)Footnote 14. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.10, 1626.13. For discussion of right to withdraw charge and effect of withdrawal, see [1] and [2], above.

(n15)Footnote 15. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 7.3.

161 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.68

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.68 Predetermination Conciliation

The ADEA is the only statute enforced by the EEOC that mandates conciliation prior to a determination on the merits of the case.ⁿ¹ The EPA contains no provision for pre- or post-determination conciliation, and Title VII and the ADA mandate only post-determination conciliation.ⁿ²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationAge DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.12. For discussion of determination, see § 42.69.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b). See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

162 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.69

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.69 Determination

[1] Cause Determinations

At the conclusion of an investigation in a Title VII or ADA case, if the EEOC has not settled, dismissed, or made a no cause finding as to every allegation in a charge,ⁿ¹ the EEOC must issue a determination that reasonable cause exists to believe that the alleged unlawful employment practice(s) occurred.ⁿ² In contrast, the ADEA and EPA do not specifically require the EEOC to issue formal determinations on the merits of cases.ⁿ³ However, the EEOC has adopted a policy of issuing a cause letter of determination (LOD) under any of the three statutes once the EEOC makes a determination that the case meets the EEOC's "reasonable cause" standard.ⁿ⁴

The EEOC defines a reasonable cause determination as a determination that more likely than not the charging party and/or members of a class were discriminated against because of a basis prohibited by the statutes enforced by the EEOC.ⁿ⁵ The likelihood that discrimination occurred is assessed based on evidence that establishes, under the appropriate legal theory, a prima facie case, and if the respondent has provided a viable defense, it is based on whether there is evidence of pretext.ⁿ⁶

The procedure for issuing a LOD involves four steps. First, the investigator recommends a cause determination. Second, the investigator's unit supervisor must approve the recommendation. Third, the office director and the regional attorney review the entire case file. Fourth, the office director decides whether a LOD is warranted under the reasonable cause standard.ⁿ⁷

The LOD describes the facts and conclusions supporting the cause determination based on the reasonable cause standard described above.ⁿ⁸ In Title VII and ADEA cases, the LOD also informs the parties of the EEOC's statutory mandate to attempt conciliation.ⁿ⁹ A LOD in an EPA case advises the parties of the remedies the respondent must undertake to comply with the EPA, the EEOC's policy of notifying all aggrieved persons of their private right of action, and the EEOC's receptivity to settlement discussions initiated by the respondent.ⁿ¹⁰

The EEOC sends a copy of the LOD to the person claiming to be aggrieved, his or her attorney, the person who filed the charge on behalf of an aggrieved person, the respondent, and the respondent's attorney.ⁿ¹¹ Because of confidentiality considerations surrounding ADEA and EPA complaints,ⁿ¹² the name of the complainant in such cases is deleted from the heading on the LOD.ⁿ¹³

[2] No Cause Determinations and Review

If the EEOC determines that there is no reasonable cause to believe that an unlawful employment practice has occurred, it must issue an LOD indicating that finding. The LOD is the EEOC's final determination. It must also inform the aggrieved person of his or her right to sue in federal district court within 90 days from the date that the LOD is received.ⁿ¹⁴

The EEOC, on its own initiative, or an issuing director, on his or her own initiative, may reconsider the no cause determination. The EEOC must send a notice of intent to reconsider to the parties. If such a notice is issued within 90 days after receipt of the final no cause determination, and the charging party has neither filed suit nor requested and received a notice of right to sue, the notice of intent to reconsider vacates the LOD and revokes the right to sue. If the 90-day suit period has expired, the charging party has already filed suit, or the charging party has requested a right-to-sue letter pursuant to Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations Section 1601.28(a)(1) or (2), the notice of intent to reconsider vacates the LOD but does not revoke the right to sue within 90 days. After reconsideration, the EEOC issues a new determination. If the right to sue was revoked by the notice of reconsideration, the new determination includes notice that a new 90-day right-to-sue period begins on the charging party's receipt of the reconsidered determination.ⁿ¹⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationAge DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate ImpactStatutory ApplicationAmericans With Disabilities ActLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See discussion in [2], below.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.21(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.1.

(n4)Footnote 4. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.1. Until October, 1987, the EEOC distinguished between letters of determination in Title VII cases and letters of violation in ADEA and EPA cases. That distinction no longer exists. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.1.

(n5)Footnote 5. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.2.

(n6)Footnote 6. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.2.

(n7)Footnote 7. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.3.

(n8)Footnote 8. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.4(d).

(n9)Footnote 9. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII). For discussion of conciliation, see §§ 42.68 and 42.70.

(n10)Footnote 10. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.4(e)(3).

(n11)Footnote 11. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.6.

(n12)Footnote 12. For discussion, see §§ 42.61[2], [3] and 42.62[1][g].

(n13)Footnote 13. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 40.6.

(n14)Footnote 14. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.19(a); see 29 U.S.C. § 626(e) (ADEA); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII).

(n15)Footnote 15. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.19(b).

163 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.70

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.70 Post-Determination Conciliation

[1] Title VII and ADA Requirements

After the EEOC has investigated a Title VII or ADA charge and found reasonable cause to believe a violation has occurred, the EEOC must attempt to resolve the matter by conference, conciliation, and persuasion.ⁿ¹ Indeed, if the EEOC fails to attempt conciliation with a party, that party may be dismissed in a subsequent civil action brought by the EEOC to remedy the discrimination.ⁿ² Anything that is said or done in the course of attempting to settle a matter by conference, conciliation, or persuasion is confidential and may not be used as evidence in a subsequent proceeding without the written consent of the persons involved.ⁿ³

The EEOC's obligation to conciliate a case terminates on the respondent's refusal to participate.ⁿ⁴ Once the EEOC determines that conciliation has failed and that further efforts would be futile or nonproductive, it must so notify the respondent in writing.ⁿ⁵

[2] ADEA Requirements

In cases brought under the ADEA, the EEOC must attempt conciliation promptly on the filing of a charge.ⁿ⁶ In addition, after the EEOC determines that a violation of the law has occurred and prior to instituting a civil action, the EEOC must again attempt to eliminate the unlawful practices and obtain voluntary compliance by conciliation.ⁿ⁷

[3] No Conciliation Requirement Under EPA

The EPA contains no provision requiring the EEOC to undertake conciliation efforts.ⁿ⁸

[4] Conciliation Procedure

After the EEOC makes a cause determination,ⁿ⁹ the conciliator attempts to set up a conciliation conference.ⁿ¹⁰ Prior to the conference, the conciliator contacts the charging party or complainantⁿ¹¹ and prepares a draft proposal for obtaining relief from the respondent.ⁿ¹² Participants in the conciliation conference should include the union if it is a co-respondent, if a change in a collective bargaining agreement is contemplated, or if a proposed remedial action affects the rights of employees under a collective bargaining agreement.ⁿ¹³ In some cases it is possible and desirable to carry out conciliation efforts without face-to-face meetings.ⁿ¹⁴

[5] Conciliation Agreement

[a] Generally

Although the terms of a conciliation agreement depend on the facts of each particular case, an agreement ordinarily contains a number of uniform provisions, including the following:ⁿ¹⁵

1. The EEOC and charging party waive their right to sue the respondent based on the subject charge, provided the respondent fulfills its obligations under the terms of the agreement, but reserve the right to sue to enforce the terms of the agreement;
2. The EEOC has the right to proceed with like and related matters not covered by the agreement;
3. The respondent is committed to complying with the requirements of the applicable EEO statutes and guidelines;
4. Retaliation is prohibited;
5. The EEOC has authority to review compliance;
6. The period that the agreement remains in effect and the termination date;
7. Reservation of rights to the relief provided in the agreement for aggrieved persons who cannot be located;
8. The respondent agrees to cease the specific unlawful practices involved in the case;
9. The specific prospective and retroactive relief provided to the charging party and to members of any affected class, and the dates by which such relief must be provided;
10. When appropriate, specification that respondent will post a notice concerning the discriminatory practice and the remedial action taken;
11. Consent for release of public notice concerning the case; and
12. Respondent's timetable for making progress reports in implementing the revised practice.

[b] Conciliation Agreements Without Approval of a Party

[i] Absence of the Charging Party

Under certain circumstances, the EEOC has authority to enter into a conciliation agreement with a respondent without the charging party's approval or participation.ⁿ¹⁶ The EEOC may do so when the charging party cannot be located, when the charging party is recalcitrant about conciliation, or when the EEOC finds no cause with respect to the individual's charge but believes the respondent has otherwise committed unlawful discrimination.ⁿ¹⁷

[ii] Absence of the Union

The EEOC attempts to include the union in the conciliation if the union is named as a co-respondent, if a change in the collective bargaining agreement is involved, or if a proposed remedial action affects the rights of employees under a collective bargaining agreement.ⁿ¹⁸ EEOC policy provides that the union's failure to agree to an otherwise acceptable conciliation agreement does not prevent the EEOC from entering into the agreement with the employer if the conciliation involves revising the terms of a collective bargaining agreement or if the employer's actions were not governed by the specific terms of a collective bargaining agreement. However, if the proposed relief would interfere with the rights of other employees under the collective bargaining agreement, the EEOC will consider alternatives that would not so interfere.ⁿ¹⁹ Notwithstanding the EEOC's position, courts have held that a conciliation agreement may not provide for relief that has an impact on an existing collective bargaining agreement if the union had no opportunity to participate in an adjudication that discrimination occurred.ⁿ²⁰ Thus, in one case, the United States Supreme Court upheld an arbitration award against an employer for violating its collective bargaining agreement, even though the employer was complying with an EEOC conciliation agreement.ⁿ²¹

[6] Notification of Conciliation Failure

The EEOC's procedural regulations under Title VII and the ADA require that the respondent be notified in writing if conciliation efforts fail.ⁿ²² Although ADEA regulations do not require such notification, the EEOC has adopted procedures to send such a notice in ADEA cases.ⁿ²³

Prior to notifying the respondent of conciliation failure, the EEOC must decide whether or not to litigate the case. The decision to litigate rests ultimately with the full EEOC, based on an initial analysis by the regional attorney, followed by the District Director's and the General Counsel's reviews and recommendations.ⁿ²⁴

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact Statutory Application Americans With Disabilities Act Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Enforcement General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.24(a); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n2)Footnote 2. Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 271-272, cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (1976) .

(n3)Footnote 3. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.26.

(n4)Footnote 4. See Equal Employment Opportunity v. Radiator Specialty Co. (4th Cir. 1979) 610 F.2d 178, 183 .

(n5)Footnote 5. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.25; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.2(a).

(n6)Footnote 6. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d).

(n7)Footnote 7. 29 U.S.C. § 626(b).

(n8)Footnote 8. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.1; E.E.O.C. v. Home of Economy, Inc. (8th Cir. 1983) 712 F.2d 356, 357-358 .

(n9)Footnote 9. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.1.

(n10)Footnote 10. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.1.

(n11)Footnote 11. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.2.

(n12)Footnote 12. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.3.

(n13)Footnote 13. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.6(c).

(n14)Footnote 14. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 62.4, 62.5.

(n15)Footnote 15. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 65.2(c)-(i).

(n16)Footnote 16. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 63.1.

(n17)Footnote 17. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 63.1.

(n18)Footnote 18. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.6.

(n19)Footnote 19. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 62.6.

(n20)Footnote 20. W.R. Grace & Co. v. Local 759 (1983) 461 U.S. 757, 771, 103 S. Ct. 2177, 76 L. Ed. 2d 298 ; E.E.O.C. v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (5th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 567, 576-580 , cert. denied, 467 U.S. 1204 (1984) .

(n21)Footnote 21. See W.R. Grace & Co. v. Local 759 (1983) 461 U.S. 757, 771-772, 103 S. Ct. 2177, 76 L. Ed. 2d 298 .

(n22)Footnote 22. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.25; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.2.

(n23)Footnote 23. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.2(b).

(n24)Footnote 24. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.5.

164 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.71

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.71 Notice of Right to Sue

[1] Procedure

[a] Title VII and ADA

If within 180 days of the filing of a Title VII or ADA charge with the EEOC, the EEOC dismisses the charge, has not filed a civil action, or has not entered into a conciliation agreement to which the aggrieved person is a party, the EEOC must notify the charging party that he or she has the right to bring a civil action against the respondent.ⁿ¹ In addition, the EEOC may issue a notice of right to sue on the written request of a charging party if 180 days have elapsed since the charge was filed, or before 180 days have elapsed if the EEOC certifies in writing that it will probably be unable to complete its processing within 180 days from the filing of the charge.ⁿ²

A recipient has 90 days from the date of receipt of the right to sue letter in which to bring a civil action.ⁿ³

For discussion of civil actions under Title VII and the ADA, see Chapter 43, Part B.

[b] EPA

EPA does not require the EEOC to issue a right-to-sue letter before an individual files a civil action. However, the EEOC does notify aggrieved parties of their private rights of action once it becomes apparent that a settlement cannot be reached.ⁿ⁴ⁿ⁵

For discussion of civil actions under the ADEA and the EPA, see Chapter 43, Part B.

[2] Contents of Right-to-Sue Letter

The notice of right to sue under Title VII or the ADA must contain the following:ⁿ⁶

1. Authorization to the aggrieved person to bring a civil action pursuant to Title VII or the ADA within 90 days from receipt of the authorization;
2. Advice concerning the institution of a civil action by the person aggrieved, when appropriate;
3. A copy of the charge; and
4. The EEOC's decision, determination, or dismissal, as appropriate.

[3] FORM--Notice of Right to Sue Issued on Request (EEOC Form 161-B)

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a right-to-sue letter issued by the EEOC on request of the charging party.ⁿ⁷ The form provides places for the EEOC to check whether it is issuing the form after the expiration of 180 days from the filing of the charge, or before that time when an appropriate EEOC official has determined that the EEOC will be unable to complete administrative processing of the charge within 180 days.ⁿ⁸

[b] Form Notice of Right to Sue Issued on Request (EEOC Form 161-B)

Click here to view image.

[4] FORM--Notice of Right to Sue on Failure of Conciliation (EEOC Form 161-A)

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a notice of right to sue issued after conciliation efforts have failed.ⁿ⁹

[b] Form Notice of Right to Sue on Failure of Conciliation (EEOC Form 161-A)

Click here to view image.

[5] FORM--Dismissal and Notice of Rights (EEOC Form 161)

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a notice of the right to sue issued when the EEOC dismisses the charge based on lack of jurisdiction, untimely filing of the charge, the charging party's failure or refusal to cooperate, inability to locate the charging party, the refusal of the charging party to accept a settlement offer by the respondent that would afford full relief to the charging party.ⁿ¹⁰

[b] Form Notice of Right to Sue Issued on Dismissal of Charge

Click here to view image.

[6] Effect of Private Actions on EEOC's Right to Litigate

Once the charging party has filed a private Title VII or ADA action, the EEOC's right to do so is extinguished.ⁿ¹¹ The EEOC may, however, move to intervene in a private Title VII or ADA action "on certification that the case is of general public importance."ⁿ¹² When the EEOC has initiated an action under Title VII or the ADA, the charging party may intervene as a matter of right.ⁿ¹³

If the EEOC has brought suit under the ADEA or the EPA, an aggrieved person may not file a private action or intervene in the pending EEOC litigation,ⁿ¹⁴ but several courts have held that a pending private action brought under the ADEA is not preempted by a later-filed EEOC suit.ⁿ¹⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Disparate Impact Statutory Application Americans With Disabilities Act Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Enforcement General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28; see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(a)(1), (2).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(e)(1); Nelmida v. Shelly Eurocars, Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 112 F.3d 380, 384-385 (90-day period in which to file Title VII action begins when postal service attempts to deliver right-to-sue letter at employee's address of record); Gonzalez v. Stanford Applied Engineering (9th Cir. 1979) 597 F.2d 1298, 1299 (per curiam); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n4)Footnote 4. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.7.

(n5)Footnote 5. [Reserved]

(n6)Footnote 6. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(e)(1)-(4).

(n7)Footnote 7. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(a). For discussion of when the EEOC may issue notice of right to sue, see [1], above.

(n8)Footnote 8. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(a)(1),(2); see also discussion in [1][a], above.

(n9)Footnote 9. See 42 U.S.C. § 5000e-5(f)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(b)(1); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.6; see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117(ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n10)Footnote 10. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.18, 1601.28(b)(3).

(n11)Footnote 11. See Equal Employment Opportunity v. Pacific Press Pub. (9th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 1182, 1186 (Title VII) .

(n12)Footnote 12. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8). For discussion of EEOC intervention in private action, see § 42.73[2].

(n13)Footnote 13. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5). For discussion of intervention by charging party in EEOC action, see § 42.73[3][d].

(n14)Footnote 14. 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b),(c), 217, 626(c)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1620.33(b).

(n15)Footnote 15. See, e.g., Castle v. Sangamo Weston, Inc. (11th Cir. 1984) 744 F.2d 1464, 1465 ; Burns v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. of U.S. (2d Cir. 1982) 696 F.2d 21, 23 , cert. denied, 464 U.S. 933 (1983) ; but see Jones v. City of Janesville, Wis. (W.D. Wis. 1980) 488 F. Supp. 795, 797 (holding that EEOC suit preempts previously maintained private action).

165 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.71A

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.71A Notice of Dismissal or Termination

The ADEA requires that a charge be filed with the EEOC at least 60 days prior to the commencement of a civil action.ⁿ¹ When the EEOC dismisses the charge or the Commission's proceedings are otherwise terminated, the Commission will issue a Notice of Dismissal or Termination on the charge to the person claiming to be aggrieved. If the charge concerns more than one aggrieved person, the Commission will only issue a Notice of Dismissal or Termination when it dismisses the charge or proceedings are otherwise terminated as to all aggrieved persons.ⁿ² When the charge was been filed under the ADEA and Title VII or the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), the Commission will issue a Notice of Dismissal or Termination under the ADEA at the same time it issues the Notice of Right to Sue under Title VII or the ADA.ⁿ³ Notice of conciliation proceedings is not a Notice of Dismissal or Termination.ⁿ⁴

If the Commission becomes aware that the aggrieved person whose claim is the subject of a pending ADEA charge has filed an ADEA lawsuit against the respondent named in the charge, it must terminate further processing of the charge or the portion of the charge affecting that person unless specified persons or their designees determine at that time or at a later time that it would effectuate the purpose of the ADEA to further process the charge.ⁿ⁵ The issuance of a Notice of Dismissal or Termination also does not preclude the Commission from offering assistance to a person receiving the notice as the Commission deems necessary or appropriate. The issuance does not preclude or interfere with the Commission's continuing right to investigate and litigate the same matter or any ADEA matter under its enforcement authority.ⁿ⁶

The Notice of Dismissal or Termination must include each of the following:ⁿ⁷

- (1) A copy of the charge.
- (2) Notification that the charge has been dismissed or the Commission's proceedings have otherwise been terminated.
- (3) Notification that the aggrieved person's right to file a civil action against the respondent on the charge

under the ADEA will expire 90 days after receipt of the notice.ⁿ⁸

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationAge DiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(d). For discussion of exhaustion of administrative remedies under the ADEA, see § 43.11[4].

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.17(a)(1). The Commission has delegated authority to issue notices to Directors of District, Field, Area and Local offices; the Director of the Office of Field Programs; the Director of Field Management Programs, Office of Field Programs; the General Counsel; or their designees. See 29 C.F.R. § 1626.17(b).

(n3)Footnote 3. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.17(a)(2). For discussion of the Notice of Right to Sue under Title VII or the ADA, see § 42.71.

(n4)Footnote 4. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.12. For discussion of conciliation proceedings under the ADEA, see §§ 40.21[2], 42.68.

(n5)Footnote 5. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.18(d).

(n6)Footnote 6. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.17(a)(3).

(n7)Footnote 7. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.17(c).

(n8)Footnote 8. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(e); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1626.17(3), 1626.18(c).

166 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.72

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.72 Confidentiality of EEOC Records

[1] Generally

[a] Title VII and ADA

The EEOC must not make public any Title VII or ADA charges,ⁿ¹ or anything said or done during the EEOC's informal methods of conference, conciliation, and persuasion,ⁿ² or any records or information obtained by the EEOC in the course of investigating charges prior to the institution of court proceedings.ⁿ³ Parties to a Title VII or ADA action are not considered members of the public from whom disclosure is prohibited.ⁿ⁴ Thus, prior to the institution of proceedings under Title VII or the ADA, the EEOC may disclose information to charging parties or their attorneys and respondents or their attorneys, to witnesses when necessary to the investigation, and to governmental authorities in furtherance of the EEOC's efforts. The EEOC may also disclose information in a form that does not reveal the identity of the charging parties, respondents, or persons who provide the information.ⁿ⁵

Public disclosure of information obtained during conciliation is not only prohibited during the administrative process,ⁿ⁶ but also in subsequent proceedings unless the persons involved consent in writing to its evidentiary use.ⁿ⁷ The EEOC may disclose information to certain governmental agencies as necessary to carry out the EEOC's functions, but it may withhold otherwise disclosable information obtained during the conciliation if the agency does not maintain confidentiality or if the disclosure would not serve the purposes of enforcement of Title VII or the ADA.ⁿ⁸ Information obtained during conciliation but available through investigation will be considered to have been obtained during the investigatory process and therefore disclosable.ⁿ⁹ A person who violates the provision prohibiting disclosure of conciliation efforts is subject to a mandatory fine of up to $1,000, imprisonment for up to one year, or both.ⁿ¹⁰

An aggrieved person on whose behalf a Title VII charge is filed may remain anonymous by requesting that his or her identity be kept confidential.ⁿ¹¹ Such a request for confidentiality does not prevent the EEOC from disclosing the person's identity to governmental agencies that agree to keep the information confidential.ⁿ¹² The EEOC makes every effort not to disclose the person's identity, unless required by a court order, without the aggrieved person's prior written consent.ⁿ¹³ If an investigation broad enough to protect the person's identity cannot be made, the EEOC obtains the person's prior written consent before proceeding.ⁿ¹⁴ When the charge is filed and served on the respondent, the EEOC notifies the respondent of the charging party's identity, but not that of the person on whose behalf the charge was filed.ⁿ¹⁵ The person claiming confidentiality may later agree to disclosure of his or her identity during negotiated settlement or conciliation efforts by the EEOC.ⁿ¹⁶

[b] ADEA

During the EEOC's investigation and conciliation efforts, the EEOC may not disclose the identities of persons who provided information in confidence.ⁿ¹⁷ The EEOC may identify such persons only on obtaining their written consent or when necessary in a court proceeding.ⁿ¹⁸

A complainant or an aggrieved person on whose behalf an ADEA charge is filed may also request anonymity. In such a case, the EEOC follows the same procedures for safeguarding anonymity as it uses under Title VII.ⁿ¹⁹

[c] EPA

Since the EPA does not require conciliation, no regulations govern the confidentiality of information obtained in the course of such efforts. The EEOC processes EPA complaints in a manner that does not disclose to the respondent the identity of the complainant or the existence of a particular complaint.ⁿ²⁰ However, the complaining individual may later permit the EEOC to use his or her name in its efforts to negotiate a settlement.ⁿ²¹

[2] Method for Obtaining Disclosure of Open Files

[a] Disclosure to Parties in Title VII Cases

Once a Title VII action is filed, the EEOC discloses information on written request to the following persons: (1) charging parties and their attorneys, (2) aggrieved persons in Commissioner charges and those on whose behalf a charge was filed, (3) persons or organizations filing third-party charges, and (4) respondents and their attorneys, provided the charging party or aggrieved person has already filed a Title VII action against the respondents.ⁿ²²

The EEOC makes such disclosure only for "open" files, which are all case files except those for which a notice of right to sue has expired without suit being filed.ⁿ²³ The EEOC denies disclosure requests for closed files unless the aggrieved person "arguably has a continuing right of judicial action."ⁿ²⁴ To obtain disclosure of information contained in the EEOC's files, the requesting individual must agree in writing not to make the information public except as is necessary in a civil action or other proceeding instituted under Title VII.ⁿ²⁵

The EEOC removes certain confidential information from Title VII case files prior to disclosure. Such nondisclosable information includes:ⁿ²⁶

1. Information concerning the identity of and statements made by any witness who requested confidentiality during the investigation;
2. The cover sheet of any EEOC decision;
3. All memoranda, notes, proposals, and other documents prepared by EEOC staff or received from other government agencies that pertain to legal theories, strategies, settlement postures, and litigation;
4. Information identifying other respondents against whom the charging party may have filed complaints;
5. Information pertaining to settlement or conciliation;ⁿ²⁷ and

6. Material pertaining to ADEA or EPA allegations if an ADEA or EPA charge was filed concurrently with the Title VII charge.

The procedures outlined above for disclosure of information do not apply to disclosures in response to subpoenas and demands or orders of courts.ⁿ²⁸ In those circumstances, the procedures outlined in Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations, Sections 1610.30-1610.36 apply.ⁿ²⁹ For discussion of the applicable procedures, see [b][iv], below.

[b] Disclosure of Information to Nonparties in Title VII Cases and to All Persons in ADEA and EPA Cases

[i] In General

The Freedom of Information Act (FOIA),ⁿ³⁰ the Privacy Act,ⁿ³¹ and regulations promulgated by the EEOC to implement the FOIA and Privacy Actⁿ³² govern disclosability of information to nonparties, as members of the public, in Title VII cases, and to parties and nonparties in ADEA and EPA cases. The Privacy Act assures parties that they will have access by means of the FOIA to information contained in their own case files.ⁿ³³ Under the FOIA, parties must present in person or by mail a written request specifying the information sought.ⁿ³⁴

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Although the EEOC Compliance Manual states that disclosure in ADEA and EPA cases should conform to FOIA regulations,ⁿ³⁵ and the EEOC's FOIA regulationsⁿ³⁶ provide for specific procedures when a party requests disclosure of information in an ADEA or EPA case, as a practical matter, the clerk who receives the request normally treats it in the same manner as he or she does a Title VII disclosure request by a party. Commentary by Dale Brodsky, Esq. and Beverly Tucker, Esq.

[ii] Disclosable and Nondisclosable Information

The EEOC's FOIA regulationsⁿ³⁷ authorize public disclosure of the following matters:ⁿ³⁸

1. Certain industry, area, and other statistical information that does not reveal the identities of the responding entities;
2. All blank EEOC forms;
3. All signed contracts;
4. All final reports that do not contain statutorily confidential information in discernible individual form;
5. Agency correspondence to members of the public or Congress so long as disclosure does not result in an invasion of an individual's privacy;
6. Administrative staff manuals and instructions; and
7. Final votes of each Commissioner.

Pursuant to the same regulations, the EEOC does not disclose to nonparty members of the public the following records:

1. Title VII or ADA investigatory files, information given in confidence, and matters involving personal privacy;ⁿ³⁹
2. Title VII or ADA charges or conciliation efforts;ⁿ⁴⁰

3. Information obtained by the EEOC during its cooperative efforts with other governmental entities;ⁿ⁴¹
4. Statistical reports required under Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations section 1602.1-1602.55, such as the Employer Information Report EEO-1, prior to institution of proceedings;ⁿ⁴²
5. Information pertaining to ADEA or EPA open case files;ⁿ⁴³ and
6. Medical, financial, and personnel files of EEOC employees.ⁿ⁴⁴

The Privacy Act also prohibits the disclosure of records to third parties without the prior written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains,ⁿ⁴⁵ unless the FOIA or another statute expressly requires or permits such disclosure.

[iii] Appeal from Denial of Disclosure

The Legal Counsel's designee or EEOC regional attorney must either grant or deny a FOIA request within 10 working days.ⁿ⁴⁶ If the EEOC initially denies a FOIA request, the person requesting disclosure may appeal the decision by filing a written appeal with the EEOC Legal Counsel or designee within 30 days. The appeal must be clearly identified as an FOIA appeal.ⁿ⁴⁷ The Legal Counsel has 20 working days in which to respond to the appeal, and may obtain an extension of time if the full 10 days for the initial decision is not used.ⁿ⁴⁸ The decision on the appeal must be in writing, and if the appeal is denied the decision must explain the reasons for the denial if those reasons differ from reasons for the initial decision.ⁿ⁴⁹ The decision must also notify the requesting party that he or she may file a civil action if dissatisfied with the decision on appeal.ⁿ⁵⁰

[iv] Production of Documents in Response to Subpoena

The EEOC's FOIA regulations govern disclosure of information pursuant to subpoenas or other judicial authority.ⁿ⁵¹ When a demand is made on an EEOC employee or former employee for the production or disclosure of material in an EEOC file, information related to material contained in an EEOC file, or information obtained by an EEOC employee,ⁿ⁵² the employee must first obtain approval of the Legal Counsel before turning over the materials in question.ⁿ⁵³ If the employee's appearance or response is due before the EEOC Legal Counsel approves the disclosure, the Legal Counsel seeks a stay of the proceedings pending his or her review.ⁿ⁵⁴ However, if the court or other authority denies the request for stay or the Legal Counsel decides that disclosure is improper, the employee must refuse to comply with the court order.ⁿ⁵⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disparate Impact
Statutory Application
Americans With Disabilities Act
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
Enforcement
General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.26; see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-8(e) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.22; see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n4)Footnote 4. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.22; EEOC v. Associated Dry Goods Corp. (1981) 449 U.S. 590, 598, 101 S. Ct. 817, 66 L. Ed. 2d 762 .

(n5)Footnote 5. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.22; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.5.

(n6)Footnote 6. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.26(a); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n7)Footnote 7. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.26(a).

(n8)Footnote 8. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.26(a).

(n9)Footnote 9. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.26(b).

(n10)Footnote 10. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n11)Footnote 11. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.7(a).

(n12)Footnote 12. 29 C.F.R. § 1601.7(a).

(n13)Footnote 13. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c).

(n14)Footnote 14. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c)(1).

(n15)Footnote 15. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.1.

(n16)Footnote 16. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c)(2).

(n17)Footnote 17. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.4.

(n18)Footnote 18. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.4; EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c)(1).

(n19)Footnote 19. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 3.1; see also discussion in [a], above.

(n20)Footnote 20. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(4)(1)(ii), (f).

(n21)Footnote 21. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 2.4(c)(2).

(n22)Footnote 22. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.5.

(n23)Footnote 23. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 83.1, 83.4(a).

(n24)Footnote 24. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.3(d).

(n25)Footnote 25. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.4(c).

(n26)Footnote 26. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.6(b).

(n27)Footnote 27. For discussion of confidentiality of conciliation efforts, see [1][a], above.

(n28)Footnote 28. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.3(a).

(n29)Footnote 29. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.3(a).

(n30)Footnote 30. 5 U.S.C. § 552.

(n31)Footnote 31. 5 U.S.C. § 552a.

(n32)Footnote 32. 29 C.F.R. §§ 1610.1-1610.36 (EEOC FOIA regulations), 1611.1-1611.14 (EEOC Privacy Act regulations); see EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.1.

(n33)Footnote 33. See 29 C.F.R. 1611.13(c).

(n34)Footnote 34. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.5.

(n35)Footnote 35. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.1(a),(b).

(n36)Footnote 36. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1610.1-1610.36.

(n37)Footnote 37. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1610.1-1610.36.

(n38)Footnote 38. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.18.

(n39)Footnote 39. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.17(a).

(n40)Footnote 40. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.17(b).

(n41)Footnote 41. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.17(c).

(n42)Footnote 42. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.17(e).

(n43)Footnote 43. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.17(f) (exempting such open files on the ground that they are investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes).

(n44)Footnote 44. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.17(g).

(n45)Footnote 45. See 5 U.S.C. § 552a(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1611.10.

(n46)Footnote 46. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.9(a).

(n47)Footnote 47. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.11(a).

(n48)Footnote 48. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.11(b); see 29 C.F.R. § 1610.9(a) (time within which response must be made to request for information by Deputy Legal Counsel).

(n49)Footnote 49. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.11(c).

(n50)Footnote 50. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.11(c).

(n51)Footnote 51. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 83.3(a); 29 C.F.R. §§ 1610.30-1610.36.

(n52)Footnote 52. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.30.

(n53)Footnote 53. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.32.

(n54)Footnote 54. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.34(b).

(n55)Footnote 55. See 29 C.F.R. § 1610.36.

167 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.73

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.73 Direct Civil Actions by EEOC

[1] Authority of EEOC to Prosecute Claims of Discrimination

[a] After Failure of Conciliation

Title VII and the ADA authorizes the EEOC to bring a civil action against any nongovernmental respondent if the agency cannot secure a conciliation agreement within 30 days after a charge has been filed.ⁿ¹ In addition, if preliminary investigation of a charge reveals that prompt judicial action is necessary to carry out the purposes of Title VII or the ADA, the EEOC may bring an action for temporary or preliminary relief.ⁿ²

In practice, once a district director concludes that conciliation efforts have failed, he or she refers the case to the regional attorney for review of litigation worthiness. The General Counsel and the Commissioners must approve any court action before it is filed.ⁿ³ If the EEOC decides to file suit, it notifies the charging party and, in Title VII actions, informs him or her of the right to intervene in the lawsuit.ⁿ⁴ If the EEOC does file a Title VII or ADA suit, the aggrieved party may intervene as a matter of right.ⁿ⁵

The EEOC may litigate even if the charging party has independently entered into a settlement agreement with the employer.ⁿ⁶ In such a situation, the EEOC is limited to remedies that serve the public interest and not those that merely benefit the individual, such as back pay.ⁿ⁷

The EEOC may also bring a civil action under the ADEA if conciliation fails.ⁿ⁸ The procedures for such an action, however, differ fundamentally from the procedures for Title VII EEOC actions. The primary difference is that the ADEA, unlike Title VII, incorporates the enforcement provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), which in turn authorize EEOC civil actions.ⁿ⁹ Also, the ADEA expressly provides that once the EEOC commences a civil action, the aggrieved individual's right to bring a private action terminates,ⁿ¹⁰ and it has been held that the ADEA also precludes any right to intervene in an EEOC action.ⁿ¹¹

The federal Equal Pay Act (EPA)ⁿ¹² is part of the FLSA, and thus EEOC EPA civil actions are governed by the FLSA enforcement provisions mentioned above.ⁿ¹³ For a complete discussion of FLSA enforcement procedures, see Chapter 5.

[b] In Pattern or Practice Cases

The EEOC has authority to bring civil actions in United States district courts in "pattern or practice" cases.ⁿ¹⁴ The criterion for bringing such a case is that the EEOC has reasonable cause to believe that a person or group of persons is engaged in a pattern or practice of resistance to the full enjoyment of the rights secured by Title VII or the ADA, and that the pattern or practice is of such a nature and is intended to deny the full exercise of Title VII or ADA rights.ⁿ¹⁵ The EEOC's procedures for identifying and remedying pattern or practice cases, also known as "systemic" cases, are set forth in Section 16 of the EEOC Compliance Manual, and are governed by the EEOC procedural regulations at Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations Sections 1601.6-1601.29.ⁿ¹⁶ "Systemic" cases may be based on Commissioner's charges,ⁿ¹⁷ which identify the most serious patterns of employment discrimination and which, if successfully litigated, would have a significant positive impact on the employment opportunities available to minorities and women.ⁿ¹⁸

For a detailed discussion relating to "pattern of practice" discrimination claims, see Chapter 41, Part A.

[2] EEOC as Intervenor

A court may, in its discretion, permit the EEOC to intervene in a Title VII or ADA action brought by an aggrieved individual, if the EEOC applies for intervention in a timely fashion and certifies that the case is of general public importance.ⁿ¹⁹ This right to intervene is permissive, not absolute,ⁿ²⁰ and is committed to the discretion of the trial court.ⁿ²¹ The EEOC may intervene even if it has not completed administrative processing of a charge,ⁿ²² or conciliation, but a court may require conciliation efforts before allowing the EEOC to expand the scope of its intervention with new issues.ⁿ²³ In some cases, courts have denied intervention by the EEOC because the request was untimelyⁿ²⁴ or would result in undue delay.ⁿ²⁵ The trial court also has discretion to restrict EEOC intervention to the scope of the original action by the private party.ⁿ²⁶

[3] EEOC as Plaintiff

[a] Administrative Requirements for Filing Suit

[i] Under Title VII and ADA

The filing of a charge is a prerequisite to an EEOC court action.ⁿ²⁷ With respect to Commissioner's charges filed prior to civil actions in "pattern or practice" cases,^{n27.1} the United States Supreme Court has set forth the following standard: insofar as possible, the Commissioner should identify the groups of persons that he or she has reason to believe have been discriminated against, the categories of employment positions from which they have been excluded, the methods by which the discrimination may have been effected, and the periods of time in which he or she suspects the discrimination to have been practiced.ⁿ²⁸

With regard to other procedural prerequisites, courts will not necessarily dismiss an EEOC action if the agency failed to notify the respondent within ten days after filing that a charge had been filed.ⁿ²⁹ Courts also have not required the EEOC to conduct an adequate investigation as a prerequisite to filing suit.ⁿ³⁰ However, the Ninth Circuit has required that the EEOC make a reasonable cause finding before it files suit. In Equal Employment Opp. Com'n v. Pierce Packing Co.,ⁿ³¹ the EEOC entered into a settlement agreement and after concluding the agreement had been violated, sued under Title VII. The court dismissed the action on the basis that the EEOC must find cause and attempt conciliation before suing.ⁿ³² Additionally, other courts have held that the scope of an EEOC court action is limited to the scope of its reasonable cause determination.ⁿ³³

Because Title VII and the ADA expressly provide that the EEOC may file suit if the EEOC "has been unable to secure

... a conciliation agreement" that is acceptable,n34 courts have uniformly required the EEOC to make a good-faith effort to conciliate a charge prior to filing suit.n35 However, instead of dismissing an EEOC action because of its failure to conciliate the charge, some courts have issued a stay pending conciliation efforts.n36

[ii] Under ADEA and EPA

Filing a charge with the EEOC is not a prerequisite to the EEOC filing an ADEA action.n37 However, the ADEA does require that the EEOC attempt to eliminate the alleged discrimination and secure voluntary compliance with the act through conference, conciliation, and persuasion before it files suit.n38 The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that this requirement means that the EEOC must conduct an investigation sufficient to make conciliation efforts meaningful and must determine that there is reasonable cause to believe the ADEA has been violated.n39

In contrast, conciliation is not a prerequisite to a suit by the EEOC under the EPA.n40

■ PRACTICE TIP:

A complainant may seek to intervene in an enforcement action brought by the EEOC or may encourage the EEOC to intervene in his or her private enforcement action. In its litigation, the EEOC represents the public interest in addition to the interest of the individual complainant or complainants.n41 Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[b] Statutes of Limitations

[i] Under Title VII and the ADA

The EEOC may bring a Title VII or ADA action against a nongovernmental respondent if conciliation has been achieved within 30 days after filing of the charge.n42 Title VII provides no express limitation period within which the EEOC must commence the action. The United States Supreme Court held in Occidental Life Insurance Co. v. EEOC n43 that state statutes of limitations do not govern the time within which the EEOC may file a court action and that the statutory time limit for filing a charge with the EEOCn44 is not a limitation on the EEOC's right to file an action against the respondent. Although this means that the EEOC may initiate litigation years after a charge is filed, the Court held that its decision did not prejudice defendants because Title VII requires the EEOC to notify respondents promptly when a charge is filed so they may preserve relevant evidence.n45 However, the Court did state that federal courts have the power to provide relief to defendants who are handicapped in defending an action because of an inordinate delay by the EEOC in filing suit.n46

Accordingly, courts have applied the equitable doctrine of laches--unreasonable delay and a showing of prejudice--to bar EEOC actions. In Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Alioto Fish Co., n47 the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal held that an EEOC action was barred by laches when the action was filed five years after the charge was filed and 20 months after the EEOC failed to resolve the charge through conciliation.n48 The court rejected the EEOC's argument that the delay should be excused because of its heavy workload. Defendant proved that the delay had prejudiced its ability to defend because of the destruction of evidence, the death of witnesses, waning memories of witnesses, and increased back pay exposure.n49

[ii] Under ADEA

The limitations period within which the EEOC must file an ADEA civil action is now somewhat unclear. Prior to November 21, 1991, the ADEA incorporated the limitations period for actions under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA),n50 which requires that civil actions be filed within two years after the cause of action accrues, except for "willful" violations, to which a three-year period applies.n51 However, the Civil Rights Act of 1991 amended the limitations provision of the ADEA to delete the reference to the FLSA limitations period and instead provides that an ADEA civil action may be brought by "a person defined in section 11(a)" against the respondent named in the EEOC charge within 90 days after the date that the aggrieved person receives notice from the EEOC that it has dismissed the charge or otherwise terminated its proceedings.^{n51.1} Although the definition of "person" referred to^{n51.2} is arguably broad enough to include the EEOC, the new limitations period only addresses the situation in which the EEOC has dismissed an aggrieved person's charge or otherwise terminated its proceedings, and thus appears to be inapplicable to the situation where the EEOC has decided not to dismiss the charge or terminate proceedings but to instead file its own civil action against the respondent. Thus, while the EEOC still has authority to bring civil actions under the ADEA,^{n51.3} there appears to be no limitations period that is expressly applicable to such actions. It is possible that the principles applicable to EEOC civil actions filed under Title VII, discussed in [i], above, will henceforth apply to ADEA actions.

[iii] Under EPA

Under the EPA, the EEOC must file suit within two years after the cause of action accrued, unless the violation is willful, in which case the limitations period is three years.^{n51.4} "Willful" violations, in the context of the EPA, mean that the employer knew or showed reckless disregard for the matter of whether its conduct was prohibited.ⁿ⁵²

[c] Scope of Litigation Under Title VII and ADA

[i] Class-Wide Actions

The United States Supreme Court has held in a Title VII case that the EEOC may file an action seeking relief for a group of individuals without meeting the requirements of Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure relating to class certification.ⁿ⁵³ The Court relied in part on circuit court decisions holding that EEOC enforcement actions are not limited to the claims of the charging parties, but may encompass violations that the EEOC ascertains in the course of a reasonable investigation of the charge.ⁿ⁵⁴ Thus, the Court approved the EEOC's expansion of a charge to include similar violations against persons in the same protected class as the charging party.ⁿ⁵⁵

[ii] Additional Defendants

Title VII and the ADA state that the EEOC may file a court action against any nongovernmental respondent named in the charge.ⁿ⁵⁶ However, courts have in a few instances permitted the EEOC to sue defendants not named in a charge where the additional defendant was an agent or a successor of the respondent.ⁿ⁵⁷

[iii] Expanded Bases of Discrimination or Issues

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that discrimination different from that alleged in the original charge may be the subject of a civil action by the EEOC, provided that the expanded basis of discrimination arose out of the investigation of the charge originally filed.ⁿ⁵⁸ In one case, for example, although the original charge had alleged discrimination against male employees, the EEOC's investigation disclosed discrimination against females and minority group members, and the court held that the EEOC properly included these allegations in its lawsuit.ⁿ⁵⁹ The EEOC must, however, have investigated the issues raised in the lawsuit, and must have included them as the basis of a reasonable cause determination and conciliation efforts.ⁿ⁶⁰

[iv] Expansion to Other Branches or Facilities of Respondent

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals also allows the EEOC to file actions that include other branches or facilities of the respondent that were not named in the charge, if the respondent has adequate notice of the investigation and the issues raised.ⁿ⁶¹ In Lucky Stores, Inc. v. E.E.O.C.,ⁿ⁶² the EEOC filed suit against one of Lucky's three warehouses, and then amended its complaint to include two other warehouses not named in the original charge. Workers had been transferred from the two other warehouses to the one originally named in the complaint, which had consolidated the operations of the other two warehouses. The district court allowed the EEOC to amend its complaint to include the other two warehouses because Lucky had adequate notice that the EEOC was investigating its general warehouse hiring and firing practices. The Ninth Circuit upheld the district court's decision because the originally named warehouse was a consolidation of the operations at the other two warehouses, and Lucky had adequate notice of the investigation and the issues raised.ⁿ⁶³

[c.1] Scope of Litigation Under ADEA and EPA

As discussed in [1][a], above, the enforcement provisions of the FLSA govern EEOC civil actions under the ADEA and EPA.ⁿ⁶⁴ With respect to EEOC actions that seek class-wide relief, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has relied on the rationale in General Telephone Co. v. EEOC,ⁿ⁶⁵ discussed in [c][i], above, to hold that Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which generally requires class certification and notification, does not apply to FLSA cases.ⁿ⁶⁶ The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has expressly declined to decide the foregoing issue;ⁿ⁶⁷ however, as discussed in [d], below, apparently the EEOC may voluntarily notify noncharging "class" members of an EEOC action.ⁿ⁶⁸

The Ninth Circuit has opined that although noncharging "class" members in Title VII cases might not be bound by remedies or settlements resulting from EEOC civil actions,ⁿ⁶⁹ the same is not true in ADEA cases because the ADEA and the FLSA expressly preclude private actions after the EEOC commences a civil action. The court noted that Title VII has no analogous provision.ⁿ⁷⁰

For a full discussion of FLSA enforcement procedures, see Chapter 5.

[d] Intervention by Complainant

Although the charging party may not sue if the EEOC brings an action under Title VII, the charging party may intervene as a matter of right in an EEOC suit filed on his or her behalf.ⁿ⁷¹

If the EEOC files suit under the ADEA and EPA, aggrieved individuals may not intervene.ⁿ⁷² The EEOC may, however, invite prospective class members to identify themselves and share in the relief sought. Thus, for example, in one ADEA case involving the mandatory retirement of airline pilots at age 60, the EEOC filed suit on behalf of two named pilots and "any other persons who would have remained in the [defendant's] employment past the age of 60 in a Flight Engineer position but for the [defendant's] refusal to employ that person after he reached the age of 60."ⁿ⁷³ The EEOC thereafter mailed letters to 445 former pilots asking them to contact the EEOC if they were members of the foregoing class in order to "ensure that [they were] included in the EEOC's efforts to gain relief" from the defendant.ⁿ⁷⁴

[e] EEOC Liability for Attorney's Fees and Costs

Title VII provides that the court may in its discretion award the prevailing party, other than the EEOC or the United States, a reasonable attorney's fee (including expert fees), and further provides that the EEOC is liable for costs in the same manner as a private person.ⁿ⁷⁵ The leading case on the standards for award of attorney's fees to a prevailing defendant in a Title VII action is Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC.ⁿ⁷⁶ In Christiansburg, the United States Supreme Court held that a district court may award attorney's fees on finding that the EEOC's action was frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation, or that the EEOC continued to litigate after its action clearly became so, even though the case was not brought in subjective bad faith. The Court cautioned against awarding fees to prevailing defendants based on a finding that plaintiff's loss must have meant that the action was unreasonable or without foundation.ⁿ⁷⁷ Such a result would increase the risks of litigation and undercut the efforts of Congress to promote vigorous enforcement of Title VII.ⁿ⁷⁸

In one case, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeal awarded attorney's fees and costs to a prevailing defendant in an action brought by the EEOC because the EEOC failed to comply with the requirements of Title VII and its regulations that the EEOC investigate a charge, make a reasonable cause determination, and attempt conciliation before filing suit.ⁿ⁷⁹

[4] Remedies in Suits by EEOC

With the exception of attorney's fees,ⁿ⁸⁰ all of the remedies that are available to private litigants are available in litigation by the EEOC, since the remedial provisions of the statutes it enforces do not differentiate between relief available in EEOC actions and relief available in actions brought by aggrieved individuals.ⁿ⁸¹ For discussion of the remedies available to private parties in Title VII, ADEA, and EPA actions, see Chapter 43, Part B.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Actionable Discrimination
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
Enforcement
General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(2); Wagner v. Taylor (9th Cir. 1987) 836 F.2d 566, 572-574 (42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(2) does not foreclose individual claimants from seeking interim injunctive relief to preserve status quo and to prevent retaliation while administrative process is advancing). See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5). For further discussion relating to EEOC action for temporary relief, see § 42.64[9].

(n3)Footnote 3. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.5.

(n4)Footnote 4. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 66.8.

(n5)Footnote 5. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); but see McClain v. Wagner Elec. Corp. (8th Cir. 1977) 550 F.2d 1115, 1119 (if EEOC sues first, individual employees are not permitted to sue independently but may intervene in EEOC suit as matter of right). See also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n6)Footnote 6. See E.E.O.C. v. Goodyear Aerospace Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1539, 1542-1543 .

(n7)Footnote 7. See E.E.O.C. v. Goodyear Aerospace Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1539, 1543 (permitting EEOC to seek injunctive relief against employer); see E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1519 .

(n8)Footnote 8. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c), 217, 626(b).

(n9)Footnote 9. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b),(c), 626(b); see also E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1504, 1505 n.3 (noting that although Congress ratified transfer of ADEA enforcement authority from Secretary of Labor to EEOC in 1984, FLSA inexplicably continues to refer only to Secretary of Labor). For further discussion, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n10)Footnote 10. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c), 626(c)(1); see also E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1507-1508 (due process does not require EEOC to notify claimants that they have lost their right to bring private actions). For further discussion, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n11)Footnote 11. See E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1509 . For a discussion relating to intervention in EEOC actions generally, see [3][d], below.

(n12)Footnote 12. 29 U.S.C. § 206(d).

(n13)Footnote 13. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(c). For further discussion, see Ch. 40, pt. C.

(n14)Footnote 14. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6; 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6).

(n15)Footnote 15. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6(a),(c); 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6).

(n16)Footnote 16. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 16.1.

(n17)Footnote 17. See discussion in [3][a][i], below, and in § 42.62[1][c].

(n18)Footnote 18. See EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 16.1.

(n19)Footnote 19. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n20)Footnote 20. See Blowers v. Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Co. (2d Cir. 1975) 527 F.2d 333, 334 .

(n21)Footnote 21. See Van Hoomissen v. Xerox Corporation (9th Cir. 1974) 497 F.2d 180, 181 .

(n22)Footnote 22. See Mills v. Bartenders Local 41 (N.D. Cal. 1975) 21 Fair Empl. Prac. Cas. (B.N.A.) 42, 44.

(n23)Footnote 23. Johnson v. Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. (8th Cir. 1977) 558 F.2d 841, 847-848 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 920 (1977) .

(n24)Footnote 24. See, e.g., Blowers v. Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Co. (2d Cir. 1975) 527 F.2d 333, 334 (EEOC's motion for intervention filed 21 months after action was commenced).

(n25)Footnote 25. Blowers v. Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Co. (2d Cir. 1975) 527 F.2d 333, 334 .

(n26)Footnote 26. Van Hoomissen v. Xerox Corporation (9th Cir. 1974) 497 F.2d 180, 181-182 .

(n27)Footnote 27. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); EEOC v. Shell Oil Co. (1984) 466 U.S. 54, 62-64, 104 S. Ct. 1621, 80 L. Ed. 2d 41 ; Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Container Corp. of Amer. (M.D. Fla. 1972) 352 F. Supp. 262, 265 ; see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117(ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5). For detailed discussions relating to filing Title VII and ADA administrative charges, see §§ 42.61[1] and 42.62.

(n28)Footnote 27.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6(a) (Title VII); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-6). For further discussion, see [1][b], above.

(n29)Footnote 28. EEOC v. Shell Oil Co. (1984) 466 U.S. 54, 73, 104 S. Ct. 1621, 80 L. Ed. 2d 41 .

(n30)Footnote 29. See EEOC v. Burlington Northern, Inc. (8th Cir. 1981) 644 F.2d 717, 720-721 ; see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1) (Title VII); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA, operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5). For further discussion, see § 42.61[1].

(n31)Footnote 30. See, e.g., E.E.O.C. v. St. Anne's Hospital of Chicago, Inc. (7th Cir. 1981) 664 F.2d 128, 131 ; E.E.O.C. v. General Elec. Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 359, 370-371 ; E.E.O.C. v. KECO Industries, Inc. (6th Cir. 1984) 748 F.2d 1097, 1100 .

(n32)Footnote 31. Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Pierce Packing Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 669 F.2d 605 .

(n33)Footnote 32. See Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Pierce Packing Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 669 F.2d 605, 607-608 ; see 29 C.F.R. §§ 1601.19(a), 1601.21(a); see also discussion in § 42.69.

(n34)Footnote 33. See, e.g., Wright v. Olin Corp. (4th Cir. 1982) 697 F.2d 1172, 1176 ; E.E.O.C. v. Upjohn Corp. (N.D. Ga. 1977) 445 F. Supp. 635, 639 .

(n35)Footnote 34. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5). For a discussion of the EEOC's authority to sue after failure of conciliation, see [1][a], above. For a general discussion of conciliation under the Title VII and the ADA, see § 42.70.

(n36)Footnote 35. See Wright v. Olin Corp. (4th Cir. 1982) 697 F.2d 1172, 1176-1177 ; EEOC v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (2d Cir. 1981) 650 F.2d 14, 18-19 ; Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 271-272 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (1976) .

(n37)Footnote 36. See EEOC v. Zia Co. (10th Cir. 1978) 582 F.2d 527, 532-533 .

(n38)Footnote 37. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b); see discussion in § 42.71[1][b].

(n39)Footnote 38. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.15(d); see discussion in § 42.70.

(n40)Footnote 39. See Marshall v. Sun Oil Co. (Delaware) (5th Cir. 1979) 605 F.2d 1331, 1335-1336 .

(n41)Footnote 40. See E.E.O.C. v. Home of Economy, Inc. (8th Cir. 1983) 712 F.2d 356, 357-358 .

(n42)Footnote 41. See General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 326, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n43)Footnote 42. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); see also 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n44)Footnote 43. Occidental Life Insurance Co. v. EEOC (1977) 432 U.S. 355, 366-372, 97 S. Ct. 2447, 53 L. Ed. 2d 402 .

(n45)Footnote 44. See discussion in § 42.62[3][a].

(n46)Footnote 45. See Occidental Life Insurance Co. v. EEOC (1977) 432 U.S. 355, 372, 97 S. Ct. 2447, 53 L. Ed. 2d 402 ; see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1) (Title VII); see also discussion in § 42.61[1].

(n47)Footnote 46. See Occidental Life Insurance Co. v. EEOC (1977) 432 U.S. 355, 373, 97 S. Ct. 2447, 53 L. Ed. 2d 402 .

(n48)Footnote 47. Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Alioto Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1980) 623 F.2d 86 .

(n49)Footnote 48. See Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Alioto Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1980) 623 F.2d 86, 88 .

(n50)Footnote 49. Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Alioto Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1980) 623 F.2d 86, 88-89 .

(n51)Footnote 50. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(e), prior to amendment by Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 115.

(n52)Footnote 51. See 29 U.S.C. § 255(a).

(n53)Footnote 51.1. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(e), as amended by Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 115.

(n54)Footnote 51.2. See 29 U.S.C. § 630(a) (definition of "person" for purposes of ADEA).

(n55)Footnote 51.3. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b),(c)(1).

(n56)Footnote 51.4. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c), 255(a).

(n57)Footnote 52. See McLaughlin v. Richland Shoe Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 128, 133, 108 S. Ct. 1677, 100 L. Ed. 2d 115 ; Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 126-129, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 .

(n58)Footnote 53. General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 324, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n59)Footnote 54. General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 331, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n60)Footnote 55. General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 333-334, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n61)Footnote 56. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1) (Title VII); see 42 U.S.C. § 12117 (ADA; operative July 26, 1992; incorporating procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5).

(n62)Footnote 57. See, e.g., Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. MacMillan Bloedel Containers, Inc. (6th Cir. 1974) 503 F.2d 1086, 1090-1091, 1093 (successor); Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Raymond Metal Prod. Co. (D. Md. 1974) 385 F. Supp. 907, 911 (agent).

(n63)Footnote 58. E.E.O.C. v. Hearst Corp., Seattle Post-Intelligencer (9th Cir. 1976) 553 F.2d 579, 580 .

(n64)Footnote 59. E.E.O.C. v. Hearst Corp., Seattle Post-Intelligencer (9th Cir. 1976) 553 F.2d 579, 580 ; accord EEOC v. Occidental Life Ins. Co. (9th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 533, 541-542 .

(n65)Footnote 60. E.E.O.C. v. Hearst Corp., Seattle Post-Intelligencer (9th Cir. 1976) 553 F.2d 579, 580 ; see E.E.O.C. v. KECO Industries, Inc. (6th Cir. 1984) 748 F.2d 1097, 1100 . For discussion of administrative prerequisites to EEOC court action, see [3][a], above.

(n66)Footnote 61. See Lucky Stores, Inc. v. E.E.O.C. (9th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 911, 912-913 .

(n67)Footnote 62. Lucky Stores, Inc. v. E.E.O.C. (9th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 911, 912-913 .

(n68)Footnote 63. Lucky Stores, Inc. v. E.E.O.C. (9th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 911, 912-913 .

(n69)Footnote 64. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 206(d), 216(c), 217, 626(b).

(n70)Footnote 65. General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 .

(n71)Footnote 66. See Donovan v. University of Texas at El Paso (5th Cir. 1981) 643 F.2d 1201, 1203-1204, 1208 (EEOC action filed under 29 U.S.C. § 217 to enjoin violation of EPA).

(n72)Footnote 67. See E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1508 n.10 .

(n73)Footnote 68. See E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1500-1501, 1507-1508 (finding no due process violation in EEOC's decision to select settlement beneficiaries on basis of responses to notice).

(n74)Footnote 69. See General Telephone Co. v. EEOC (1980) 446 U.S. 318, 333, 100 S. Ct. 1698, 64 L. Ed. 2d 319 (dictum); see also discussion in [c][i], above.

(n75)Footnote 70. E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1508 n.11 .

(n76)Footnote 71. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 24(a),(c); see, e.g., McClain v. Wagner Elec. Corp. (8th Cir. 1977) 550 F.2d 1115, 1119 .

(n77)Footnote 72. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c), 626(c); see also E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1509 (ADEA; permissive intervention under Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 24, which requires basis for jurisdiction independent of court's jurisdiction over underlying action, is not available to charging party after EEOC commences civil action because charging party no longer has any substantive rights over which court would have jurisdiction).

(n78)Footnote 73. See E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1500 .

(n79)Footnote 74. See E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1501 .

(n80)Footnote 75. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k).

(n81)Footnote 76. Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 .

(n82)Footnote 77. See Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 421, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 .

(n83)Footnote 78. See Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 422, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 ; see also Hudson v. Western Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 851 F.2d 261, 267 (mere fact that plaintiff did not prevail is not enough to justify award of attorney's fees to defendant).

(n84)Footnote 79. See Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Pierce Packing Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 669 F.2d 605, 609 .

(n85)Footnote 80. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k) (Title VII); 29 U.S.C. § 216(b),(c) (attorney's fees recoverable in action by aggrieved party under EPA, but not in action by EEOC); see also 29 U.S.C. § 626(b) (provisions of 29 U.S.C. § 216 apply to actions under ADEA).

(n86)Footnote 81. See, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g).

168 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

3-42 California Employment Law §§ 42.74through 42.79

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 42.74[Reserved]

169 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.80

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.80 Legal Texts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice (Matthew Bender).

Lareau, Labor and Employment Law, Pt. II, Employment Discrimination (Matthew Bender).

Larson, Employment Discrimination (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 9A, Title VII Procedures, Part A.

Ch. 10, Other Procedural Matters.

Advising California Employers (CEB 1981), Ch. 2, Equal Employment Practices §§ 2.35-2.86, 2.87-2.89, 2.90-2.115.

California Administrative Mandamus (CEB 1967).

California Administrative Hearing Practice (CEB 1984).

Cal Practice (Bancroft Whitney Co. 1976), Vol. 10, Part Two, Ch. 110, Proceedings to Obtain Redress for Violation of the Fair Employment Practice Act, § 110:1-110:27.

Modjeska, Handling Employment Discrimination Cases (1980) §§ 2.2, 2.10-2.15, 4.15-4.22, 5.17-5.25.

Player, Employment Discrimination Law (1988).

Schlei & Grossman, Employment Discrimination Law (2d Ed. 1983), Ch. 26, EEOC Administrative Process, Ch. 27, Title VII Coverage, Ch. 28, Timeliness, and Ch. 29, Election and Exhaustion of Remedies.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment
Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity
CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

170 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.81

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.81 Encyclopedias

41 Cal. Jur. 3d, Labor, § 5.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment
Opportunity CommissionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity
CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

171 of 171 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 42 Administrative Enforcement of Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-42 California Employment Law § 42.82

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Beverly Tucker, J.D.

§ 42.82 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

Leckman, Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.: Discovery Rule May Limit Impact of Supreme Court's Title VII Decision, 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 181 (July 2007).

Gray, Individual Supervisor Liability in Employment Discrimination Claims in California, 37 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1997).

Weiss, Ninth Circuit Broadens Reasonableness Standard for Hostile Work Environment Sexual Harassment: Fuller v. City of Oakland, 31 U.S.F. L. Rev. 665 (1997).

Willis, Stress-Related Disability Claims Under the ADA, 43(2) Prac. Law. 73 (1997).

Comment, Same-Gender Sexual Harassment: Is it Sex Discrimination Under Title VII? 36 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1996).

Davis, The After-Acquired Defense Doctrine: A Dubious Defense in Employment Discrimination Cases, 22 Pepperdine L. Rev. 365 (1995).

O'Brien, Employment Discrimination Claims Remain Valid Despite After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Wrongdoing, 23 Pepperdine L. Rev. 65 (1995).

Levy, Sex, Promotions, and Title VII: Why Sexual Favoritism is Not Sexual Discrimination, 45 Hastings L.J. 667 (1994).

Recent Cases, Employment Discrimination --Sexual Harassment-- New Jersey Supreme Court Adopts a Gender-Specific Reasonableness Standard, 107 Harv. L. Rev. 955 (February 1994).

Kadue & Dritsas, When What You Didn't Know Can Help You - Employers' Use of After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Conduct to Defend Wrongful Discharge Claims, 27 Bev. Hills. B.A.J. 117 (Summer 1993).

Recent Cases, Employment Law--Gender Discrimination--Third Circuit Rules that Denial of Promotion Based on Equally Applied Legitimate Subjective Criterion is Not Discrimination, 106 Harv. L. Rev. 2039 (June 1993).

Bagby & Gray, How the Americans with Disabilities Act Affects Employers, 36(7) Prac. Law. 17 (1990).

Nierling, The Role of Preclusion Rules in Title VII: An Analysis of Congressional Intent, 71 Iowa L. Rev. 1473 (1986).

Jameson, Attorney's Fees in Title VII Actions: Applying the Christiansburg Standard for Awards Against the EEOC, 5 Cardozo L. Rev. 881 (1984).

Belmonte, Factually or Statistically Based Commissioner's Charge: A New Approach to EEOC Enforcement of Title VII, 63 Boston U. L. Rev. 645 (1983).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment
Opportunity Commission
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity
Commission
Enforcement
General Overview

1 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws

3-43 California Employment Law 43.syn

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.syn Synopsis to Chapter 43: Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws

§ 43.01 California Fair Employment and Housing Act

[1] Right of Action

[2] Proving Employment Discrimination Under FEHA

[a] In General

[b] Disparate Treatment

[c] Disparate Impact

[d] Retaliation

[3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies as Prerequisite to Civil Action

[3A] Proper Party Defendants

[4] Statutes of Limitation

[a] One-Year Statute of Limitation for Filing Charge With DFEH

[i] General Rule

[ii] Effect of Continuing Violation

[b] One-Year Statute of Limitation for Filing of Civil Action

[5] Subject Matter Jurisdiction

[6] Venue

[6A] Forum Selection and Inconvenient Forum

[7] Class Actions Under FEHA

[8] Relief Available

[a] Generally

[b] Back Pay

[c] Front Pay or Future Lost Earnings

[d] Injunctive Relief

[e] Compensatory Damages

[f] Punitive Damages

[g] Prejudgment Interest

[h] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[9] FORM--Complaint for Violation of FEHA--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

[ii] Allegations

[iii] Discriminatory Termination From Employment

[b] Form

[10] Specific Allegations of Policies, Practices, and Actions Constituting Violations of FEHA

[a] FORM--Allegations of Discriminatory Failure or Refusal to Hire

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[b] FORM--Allegations of Discriminatory Failure or Refusal to Promote, Train, or Transfer

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[c] FORM--Allegations of Constructive Discharge Due to Discrimination or Retaliation in Violation of FEHA

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[d] FORM--Allegations of Retaliation in Violation of FEHA

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[e] FORM--Allegations of Refusal to Accommodate Religious Creed

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[f] FORM--Allegations of Refusal to Accommodate Physical or Mental Disability or Medical Condition

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[g] FORM--Allegation of Harassment in Violation of FEHA

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[h] FORM--Allegation of Discrimination on Account of Pregnancy

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[i] FORM--Allegation of Improper Prohibition of Employee From Wearing Pants Based on Employee's Sex

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[11] Common Grounds for Demurrer to FEHA Complaint

[12] FORM--Answer to Complaint for Violation of FEHA--General Form

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[13] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of FEHA

[a] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Failure to Exhaust Administrative Remedies

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Failure to File Within Limitation Period

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Complaint Failed to State Cause of Action

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff's Action Is Barred by Laches

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[e] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Bona Fide Occupational Qualification (BFOQ)

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[f] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Business Necessity

[i] Comment

[ii] Affirmative Defense Based on Business Necessity

[g] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Job-Relatedness

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[h] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Security Regulations Mandate Employment Practice

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[i] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Affirmative Action Plan, Nondiscrimination Plan, Court Order, or Other Legal Mandate

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[j] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employee or Applicant Cannot Perform Duties

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[k] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employee or Applicant Would Endanger Health or Safety

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[l] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Accommodation Would Cause Undue Hardship to Employer

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[m] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff Failed to Mitigate Damages

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[14] Other Procedural Issues Under FEHA

[a] Removal From and Remand to State Court

[b] Pendent Jurisdiction

[c] Preemption of Other Causes of Action by FEHA

[c.1] Preemption of FEHA Claims by Workers' Compensation Exclusivity

[c.2] Barring of Claim by Treaty

[c.3] Governmental Discretionary Immunity

[c.4] Evidentiary Issues

[d] Availability of Jury Trial Under FEHA

[e] Jury Instructions and Special Verdict Forms

§ 43.02 California Equal Pay Act

[1] Right of Action

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

[3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[4] Statutes of Limitations

[5] Subject Matter Jurisdiction and Venue

[6] Parties

[7] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

[b] Injunctive Relief

[c] Liquidated Damages

[d] Prejudgment Interest

[e] Attorney's Fees and Costs

[8] FORM--Complaint for Violation of California Equal Pay Act--General Form

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[9] Allegations of Specific Violations of California Equal Pay Act

[a] FORM--Allegations of Specific Violations of California Equal Pay Act--Unequal Salary, Wage, Bonus, Commission, or Draw

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[b] FORM--Allegations of Specific Violations of California Equal Pay Act--Unequal Fringe Benefits or Allowances

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[10] FORM--General Answer to Complaint for Violation of California Equal Pay Act

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[11] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of California Equal Pay Act

[a] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on Seniority System

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on Merit System

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on System That Measures Earnings by Quantity or Quality of Production

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on Bona Fide Factor Other Than Sex

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[12] Availability of Jury Trial Under California Equal Pay Act

§§ 43.03 through 43.09 [Reserved]

§ 43.10 Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964

[1] Right of Action

[2] Proving Employment Discrimination Under Title VII

[a] In General

[b] Disparate Treatment

[c] Disparate Impact

[d] Retaliation

[3] Subject Matter Jurisdiction and Venue

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies as Prerequisite to Civil Action Under Title VII

[a] In General

[b] Federal Employees

[5] Parties

[a] Standing of Plaintiffs

[i] Individual Plaintiffs

[ii] Class Actions

[iii] Intervention

[iv] Organizational and Union Plaintiffs

[b] Defendants

[6] Statutes of Limitations

[a] Time Periods for Filing EEOC Charge

[i] Filing EEOC Charge

[ii] Effect of Continuing Discrimination on Filing Requirements

[b] Time Period for Filing Civil Action

[c] Tolling Principles for Title VII Filing Limitations Periods

[i] Individual Actions

[ii] Class Actions

[7] EEOC Charge Determines Scope of Suit

[8] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects of Related Administrative and Judicial Proceedings

[a] Judicially Unreviewed State Administrative Proceedings

[b] Judicially Reviewed State Administrative Proceedings

[c] Affirmative Use of Collateral Estoppel

[d] Other Related Judicial Proceedings

[9] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

[i] Definition

[ii] Availability

[iii] Mitigation of Amount of Back Pay Award

[b] Front Pay

[i] Definition

[ii] Availability

[c] Compensatory and Punitive Damages

[c.1] Other Monetary Relief

[d] Injunctive Relief

[i] Generally

[ii] Preliminary Injunctions

[iii] Mandatory Hiring/Reinstatement

[iv] Affirmative Action Remedies Including Quotas, Goals, and Timetables

[v] Retroactive Seniority

[e] Prejudgment Interest

[f] Attorney's and Expert Fees

[i] To Prevailing Plaintiff Other Than United States or EEOC

[ii] To Prevailing Defendant Other than United States or EEOC

[g] Relief to Class of Plaintiffs: Procedural Note

[h] Limitations on Available Relief in "Mixed Motive" Cases

[10] FORM--Complaint for Violation of Title VII--General Form

[a] Comment

- [i] Use of Form
- [ii] Federal Procedural Requirements for Civil Complaints Generally
- [iii] Disparate Treatment and Disparate Impact Claims
- [iv] Allegations
- [v] Discriminatory Denial of Promotion in Violation of Title VII
- [b] Form
- [11] Common Grounds for Motions to Dismiss Title VII Actions
- [12] FORM--General Answer to Complaint for Violation of Title VII
 - [a] Comment
 - [b] Form
- [13] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of Title VII
 - [a] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Complaint Fails to State Claim on Which Relief Can Be Granted
 - [i] Comment
 - [ii] Form
 - [b] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Legitimate, Nondiscriminatory Reason
 - [i] Comment
 - [ii] Form
 - [c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Policy or Practice Is Justified by Bona Fide Seniority or Merit System
 - [i] Comment
 - [ii] Form
 - [d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff Is Member of Communist Party or Other Subversive Organization
 - [i] Comment
 - [ii] Form
 - [e] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Defendant Would Have Made Same Employment Decision Absent Discriminatory Motive
 - [i] Comment

[ii] Form

[f] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Defendant Exercised Reasonable Care to Prevent and Correct Sexually Harassing Behavior and Plaintiff Unreasonably Failed to Utilize Procedure

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[14] Other Procedural Issues Under Title VII

[a] Removal, Preemption, and Pendent Jurisdiction

[i] Removal

[ii] Preemption

[iii] Pendent (Supplemental) Jurisdiction

[b] EEOC Administrative Records

[i] Confidentiality and Access to Records

[ii] Admissibility

[c] Jury Trials

[d] Validity of Waiver

§ 43.10A Americans With Disabilities Act

[1] Rules Governing Civil Actions Under ADA

[2] FORM--Complaint for Violation of ADA--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

[ii] Allegations

[b] Form

[3] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of ADA

[a] Affirmative Defenses Under ADA Generally

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Business Necessity/Job-Relatedness and Undue Hardship

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Individual Poses a Direct Threat to Health and Safety

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employment Action Was Based on Exempted Religious Preference

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[e] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employment Action Was Based on Refusal to Follow Religious Tenet

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[f] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Food Handler Has Specified Communicable Disease

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[g] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff is Not a "Qualified Individual With a Disability"

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

§ 43.11 Age Discrimination in Employment Act

[1] Right of Action

[2] Burden of Proof

[a] Individual Actions

[b] Class Actions

[3] Jurisdiction

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies as Prerequisite to Civil Action Under ADEA

[5] Parties

[a] Standing of Plaintiffs

[i] In General

[ii] Class Actions

[b] Defendants

[i] Employers Covered Under ADEA

[ii] Parties Named in Charge

[iii] Successor Employers

[6] Statutes of Limitation

[a] Time Period for Filing Civil Action

[i] In General

[ii] Accrual of Cause of Action

[iii] Continuing Violations

[iv] Willful Violations

[b] Tolling Principles for ADEA Limitations Periods

[c] Effect of Deficiencies in EEOC/DFEH Proceedings

[7] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel

[8] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

[b] Front Pay

[c] Injunctive Relief

[i] Generally

[ii] Mandatory Hiring, Reinstatement, or Promotion

[iii] Affirmative Action Remedies Including Goals, Quotas, and Timetables

[iv] Retroactive Seniority

[d] Liquidated Damages

[e] Compensatory and Punitive Damages Generally Not Available

[f] Prejudgment Interest

[g] Attorney's Fees

[8A] Admissible Evidence

[9] FORM--Complaint for Violation of ADEA--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

[ii] Allegations

[b] Form

[10] Reserved

[10A] FORM--Allegation That Defendant's Employee Benefit Plan Is Subterfuge for Intentional Discrimination

[a] Comment

[b] Form

[11] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of ADEA

[a] Affirmative Defenses Under ADEA Generally

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differentiation Is Based on Reasonable Factors Other Than Age

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employee is Employed in Workplace in Foreign Country and Compliance With ADEA Would Violate Foreign Laws

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employer Observed the Terms of a Bona Fide Employee Benefit Plan

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[12] EEOC Administrative Records: Confidentiality, Access, and Admissibility

[a] Confidentiality and Access

[b] Admissibility

[13] Availability of Jury Trial

[14] Jury Instructions

§ 43.12 Equal Pay Act of 1963

[1] Right of Action

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

[3] Jurisdiction

[4] Standing to Sue

[5] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Unnecessary

[6] Statutes of Limitation

[a] Time Period for Filing Civil Action Under EPA

[b] Tolling Principles for EPA Filing Periods

[7] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects

[8] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

[b] Front Pay

[c] Injunctive Relief

[d] Prejudgment Interest

[e] Liquidated Damages

[f] Attorney's Fees

[9] Complaint for Violation of Federal Equal Pay Act

[10] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of Federal Equal Pay Act

[11] EEOC Administrative Records: Confidentiality, Access, and Admissibility

[a] Confidentiality and Access

[b] Admissibility

[12] Availability of Jury Trial

§ 43.13 Rehabilitation Act of 1973

[1] Right of Action

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

[3] Jurisdiction

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

[5] Standing

[a] In General

[b] Class Actions

[6] Statutes of Limitation

[a] In General

[b] Tolling Principles for Section 504 Limitations Periods

[c] Continuing Violations

[7] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects

[8] Relief Available

[a] Generally

[b] Attorney's Fees

[9] FORM--Complaint for Violation of Section 504 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

[ii] Allegations

[b] Form

[10] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of Section 504 of Rehabilitation Act

§ 43.14 Civil Rights Act of 1866 (Title 42 United States Code, Section 1981)

- [1] Right of Action
- [2] Order and Burden of Proof
- [3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies
- [4] Jurisdiction
- [5] Statute of Limitations
 - [a] Time Period for Filing Section 1981 Suit
 - [b] Tolling of Section 1981 Limitations Period
 - [c] Equitable Estoppel
- [6] Relief Available
 - [a] Generally
 - [b] Back Pay
 - [c] Front Pay
 - [d] Compensatory Damages
 - [e] Punitive Damages
 - [f] Equitable Remedies
 - [g] Prejudgment Interest
 - [h] Attorney's Fee and Expert Fee Awards
- [7] FORM--Complaint for Violation of Section 1981 of Civil Rights Act of 1866
 - [a] Comment
 - [i] Use of Form
 - [ii] Allegations
 - [b] Form
- [8] Affirmative Defenses to Section 1981 Claim
- [9] Availability of Jury Trial
- [10] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects

§ 43.15 Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act and Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act

[1] Right of Action

[a] Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act

[b] Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994

[2] FORM--Complaint for Damages and Injunctive Relief for Violation of USERRA

[a] Comment

[b] Form

§§ 43.16through 43.19 [Reserved]

§ 43.20 Sources of Potential Insurance Coverage

§ 43.21 Indemnification for Damages Resulting From Discrimination

[1] Potential Coverage Based on Policy Language

[2] Effect of Insurance Code Section 533

[a] General Exclusion for "Wilful" Acts

[b] Application to Discrimination and Related Wrongful Termination Claims

[i] Generally

[ii] Intentional Discrimination and Wrongful Termination

[iii] Sexual Harassment

[iv] Disparate Impact and Other "Non-Intentional" Discrimination Claims

§ 43.22 Insurer's Defense of Discrimination Claims

[1] General Scope of Liability Insurer's Duty to Defend

[2] Duty to Defend Under Workers' Compensation Policies

[3] Effect of "Wilful Acts" Exclusion on Duty to Defend Discrimination and Related Wrongful Termination Claims

§§ 43.23through 43.29 [Reserved]

§ 43.30 Legal Texts

§ 43.31 [Reserved]

§ 43.32 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D.^{n*} and Steven J. Revell, J.D.^{n}

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. Ms. Dunlap is a sole practitioner of civil rights law in San Francisco, California. She teaches as an adjunct faculty member at Golden Gate University Law School and Stanford Law School.

Updates to this chapter are prepared by the Publisher's Editorial Staff.

(n2)Footnote . Publisher's Editorial Staff.

2 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws

3-43 California Employment Law Scope

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

Scope

By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D.n* and Steven J. Revell, J.D.n SCOPE

This chapter discusses judicial remedies for employees, applicants, and other aggrieved persons under California and federal equal employment opportunity laws, including the Fair Employment and Housing Act, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans With Disabilities Act, and the California and federal Equal Pay Acts. The chapter covers such topics as burden of proof, exhaustion of remedies, statutes of limitations, jurisdiction, other procedural issues, and relief available under the various state and federal equal employment opportunity laws. The chapter provides forms of complaints, additional allegations, and affirmative defenses, as appropriate. This chapter also includes discussion of insurance coverage issues pertaining to employment discrimination actions.

An overview of the state and federal equal employment opportunity laws is provided in Chapter 40. Discussion of substantive provisions of the equal employment laws, including detailed discussions of the theories of liability and burdens of proof in employment discrimination cases, can be found in Chapter 41. Chapter 42 covers administrative agency enforcement under these laws. For discussion of enforcement of antidiscrimination and affirmative action provisions in government contracts under state and federal law, see Chapter 44.

FOOTNOTES:

(n3)Footnote *. Ms. Dunlap is a sole practitioner of civil rights law in San Francisco, California. She teaches as an adjunct faculty member at Golden Gate University Law School and Stanford Law School.

Updates to this chapter are prepared by the Publisher's Editorial Staff.

(n4)Footnote . Publisher's Editorial Staff.

3 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. STATE LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.01

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.01 California Fair Employment and Housing Act

[1] Right of Action

The California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA)ⁿ¹ permits a person aggrieved by a violation of the FEHA to file a civil action against the employer, after exhausting certain administrative remedies.ⁿ² The FEHA remedies are available for unlawful discriminatory practices in hiring, training, and promotion,ⁿ³ as well as unlawful discriminatory practices in failure to make a reasonable accommodation of a known physical or mental disability.^{n3.1} The FEHA also authorizes a civil action to be brought on behalf of a person claiming to be aggrieved due to HIV/AIDS discrimination against that person's employer by any city, county, or district attorney in a location having an enforcement unit established on or before March 1, 1991, pursuant to a local ordinance enacted for the purpose of prosecuting HIV/AIDS discrimination claims.ⁿ⁴

The scope of coverage of the FEHA is discussed in full in Chapter 40, Part B. The prohibited bases of discrimination and substantive prohibitions of the FEHA are discussed in Chapter 41. Briefly stated, the FEHA makes it an unlawful employment practice for an employer to discriminate against any person in recruiting, hiring, training, promotion, compensation, discipline or discharge, or any other term, condition, or privilege of employment, because of that person's race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, age, or sexual orientation.ⁿ⁵

The FEHA also prohibits discrimination against female employees because of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions.ⁿ⁶ Finally, the FEHA makes it an "unlawful employment practice" for employers, labor organizations, and employment agencies to discharge, expel, or otherwise discriminate against a person because he or she has opposed any practice made unlawful by the FEHA, or because he or she has filed a complaint, testified, or assisted in any proceeding under the FEHA.ⁿ⁷

■ PRACTICE TIP:

California courts have held that compensatory and punitive damages are available under the FEHA,ⁿ⁸ whereas compensatory and punitive damages in Title VII actions are available only in cases involving intentional discriminatory conduct and are subject to a statutory maximum amount.ⁿ⁹ Therefore, it is usually advantageous for a plaintiff to proceed in state court under the FEHA if that statute is applicable. Because state courts have concurrent jurisdiction with federal courts to hear Title VII claims,ⁿ¹⁰ the plaintiff may also allege Title VII causes of action in state court. Tactically, however, it may not be in the plaintiff's interest to do so, because the defendant may then remove the entire action to federal court based on federal question jurisdiction.ⁿ¹¹ Commentary by David M. Youngsmith.

[2] Proving Employment Discrimination Under FEHA

[a] In General

There are relatively few California cases that discuss proving unlawful discrimination under the FEHA.ⁿ¹² However, FEHA cases that do involve proof issues generally rely on the theories of liability developed under Title VII--"disparate treatment" and "disparate impact."ⁿ¹³ These theories of liability, created by the United States Supreme Court,ⁿ¹⁴ set forth specific orders and allocations of proof that are applicable in most employment discrimination circumstances. However, California courts are not required to follow Title VII precedent,ⁿ¹⁵ and at least one court has suggested that Title VII proof requirements may be rejected in FEHA cases.ⁿ¹⁶ In fact, the FEHC has expressly rejected the Title VII order and allocation of proof for disparate treatment cases.ⁿ¹⁷

The "disparate treatment" and "disparate impact" theories of liability are briefly summarized in [b] and [c], below, but the practitioner should review Chapter 41, Part A, for a comprehensive analysis of these complex theories.

[b] Disparate Treatment

Disparate treatment occurs when an employer treats some people less favorably than others because of their race, color, religion, sex, national origin, or other status protected by the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁸ Under Title VII, the disparate treatment theory has been applied to both individual and class-wide or "pattern and practice" discrimination claims.ⁿ¹⁹ However, the order and allocation of proof developed for individual disparate treatment cases has been held to be inappropriate for class-wide or "pattern or practice" cases, which, unlike individual claims, often turn on statistical evidence of disparity.ⁿ²⁰ For a discussion of the order and allocation of proof in class-wide or "pattern or practice" cases, see Chapter 41, Part A.

As discussed in [a], above, the disparate treatment theory of liability was developed in Title VII cases.ⁿ²¹ California courts construing the FEHA have generally adopted the theory,ⁿ²² but the applicability to the FEHA of the federal standard for the order and allocation of disparate treatment proof is unsettled.ⁿ²³

To prevail under the disparate treatment theory of liability under both the FEHA and Title VII, a plaintiff must prove intentional discrimination.ⁿ²⁴ Discriminatory intent may be proven by direct evidence, such as an express admissionⁿ²⁵ or by a discriminatory employment policy.ⁿ²⁶ However, such direct evidence is often difficult to acquire, and thus intentional discrimination may be inferred from circumstantial evidence.ⁿ²⁷ In McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green,ⁿ²⁸ a landmark Title VII disparate treatment case, the United States Supreme Court formulated a test for establishing a prima facie case of intentional discrimination in most private, nonclass actions when only circumstantial evidence is available.ⁿ²⁹ Thus, a plaintiff must establish, by a preponderance of the evidence,ⁿ³⁰ that (1) he or she belongs to a protected class (i.e., race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, age over 40 years, or pregnancy, childbirth, and related medical conditions);ⁿ³¹ (2) he or she applied and was qualified for an opportunity (or benefit) for which the defendant sought applicants; (3) despite the plaintiff's qualifications, he or she was rejected; and (4) after the plaintiff's rejection, the opportunity (or benefit) remained open and the defendant sought others with similar qualifications for the opportunity (or benefit).ⁿ³² If a plaintiff satisfies the McDonnell Douglas test, there is a rebuttable presumption of unlawful discrimination.ⁿ³³

McDonnell Douglas also established a framework, refined in Texas Dept. of Community Affairs v. Burdine,ⁿ³⁴ for the order and allocation of proof in disparate treatment cases. Thus, once a plaintiff establishes a prima facie case, the defendant must articulate some legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for its action.ⁿ³⁵ Since the plaintiff has the ultimate burden of proof, the defendant need only produce evidence that raises a genuine issue of fact about whether the defendant discriminated.ⁿ³⁶ Once the defendant meets its burden of production, the presumption of discrimination raised by the prima facie case under McDonnell Douglas is no longer relevant, and the plaintiff retains the burden of proving intentional discrimination.ⁿ³⁷

If the employer meets its burden of production, the plaintiff may still prevail by showing, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the defendant's stated reason was in fact a pretext for discrimination.ⁿ³⁸ The plaintiff may prove pretext by showing either that a discriminatory reason more likely than not motivated the defendant, or that the defendant's proffered reason is unworthy of credence.ⁿ³⁹ However, employment decisions are often the product of "mixed motives" that include permissible and impermissible reasons. In such cases, a plaintiff need only prove that an impermissible consideration, such as race, sex, or some other protected classification or characteristic, played a motivating part in an employment decision, even though other factors may have also motivated the decision.ⁿ⁴⁰

Some FEHA cases have closely followed the McDonnell Douglas/Burdine approach,ⁿ⁴¹ while others have held that that approach is only one way of raising an inference of discrimination.ⁿ⁴² The FEHC has rejected the federal approach entirely, stating that it will find discrimination if a preponderance of all the evidence demonstrates a causal connection between a plaintiff's protected status and a defendant's adverse action.ⁿ⁴³ Thus, it is sufficient if the evidence shows that an adverse employment action was caused at least in part by a discriminatory motive.ⁿ⁴⁴

For a more comprehensive and detailed discussion of the "disparate treatment" theory of liability, see Chapter 41, Part A.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Because the showing required of a plaintiff to establish prima facie disparate treatment and the showing required of a defendant to rebut a prima facie case are both minimal, in many cases the crucial issue is pretext. At the pretext stage, the issues are sharpened, and the basic issue is the validity of the justifications that the employer offers to show absence of discriminatory intent. Whether pretext is established is usually a highly fact-intensive inquiry. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[c] Disparate Impact

Disparate impact occurs when a facially neutral employment practice in fact falls more harshly on one group than another.ⁿ⁴⁵ Like the disparate treatment theory,ⁿ⁴⁶ the disparate impact theory of liability was created by the United States Supreme Court in a Title VII case,ⁿ⁴⁷ and FEHA cases have generally adopted the analysis in appropriate circumstances.ⁿ⁴⁸ The theory has been applied to "objective" employment practices such as education requirements,ⁿ⁴⁹ preemployment and promotional testing,ⁿ⁵⁰ and height and weight requirements,ⁿ⁵¹ as well as "subjective" practices such as the use of hiring channels, "word-of-mouth" recruitment, nepotism, rehire policies,ⁿ⁵² and the subjective judgment of supervisors.ⁿ⁵³

The disparate impact plaintiff, unlike the disparate treatment plaintiff,ⁿ⁵⁴ need not prove discriminatory intent.ⁿ⁵⁵ A plaintiff may establish a prima facie case of disparate impact by showing that a specific or particular facially neutral employment practice has a significant adverse impact on members of a protected class.ⁿ⁵⁶ This is usually accomplished by statistical comparisons.ⁿ⁵⁷ For example, a plaintiff may present data showing that the success rate for protected class members on a preemployment or promotional test is lower than the success rate for majority group members.ⁿ⁵⁸ With respect to subjective employment practices or practices with both subjective and objective elements, a plaintiff may present data comparing a defendant's work force with the relevant labor or applicant pool.ⁿ⁵⁹ For a detailed discussion relating to statistical methods used to establish "significant" adverse impact, see Chapter 41, Part A.

California courts interpreting the FEHA have applied a "business necessity" standard under which, after the plaintiff establishes a prima facie case of disparate impact, the burden of proof shifts to the defendant to show that its employment practice is job-related.ⁿ⁶⁰

Title VII cases have held that if the defendant meets its burden of proof, the plaintiff must then show that alternative practices with less adverse impact would also serve the defendant's legitimate interest.ⁿ⁶¹ By contrast, one FEHA case has suggested that the burden is on the defendant to show that there are no less discriminatory alternatives.ⁿ⁶²

For a more comprehensive and detailed discussion of the "disparate impact" theory of liability, see Chapter 41, Part A.

[d] Retaliation

Unlawful retaliation occurs when an employer discriminates against a person because he or she has opposed practices made unlawful by the FEHA, or filed a complaint, testified, or assisted in any proceeding under the FEHA.ⁿ⁶³ Proof of retaliation generally involves the order and allocation of proof for disparate treatment developed in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green,ⁿ⁶⁴ and its progeny. Thus, (1) a plaintiff has the initial burden to establish a prima facie case of retaliation; (2) the defendant then has a burden of production to articulate some legitimate, nonretaliatory reason for its adverse employment action; and (3) if the defendant successfully rebuts, the burden is on the plaintiff to show that the defendant's reason is merely a pretext for discrimination.ⁿ⁶⁵

A prima facie case of retaliation may be established by direct evidence,ⁿ⁶⁶ or by showing that (1) the plaintiff engaged in a protected activity, (2) the plaintiff was thereafter subjected to adverse employment action, and (3) there was a causal link between the two.ⁿ⁶⁷ If plaintiff offers direct evidence of discrimination which is believed by the trier of fact, the defendant can avoid liability only by proving plaintiff would have been subjected to the same employment decision without reference to the unlawful factor.^{n67.1} The FEHC uses the foregoing model, and requires a plaintiff to establish a prima facie case by a preponderance of the evidence.ⁿ⁶⁸

For a complete discussion of the order and allocation of proof in retaliation cases generally, see Chapter 41, Part G.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In retaliation cases, as in disparate treatment cases, the controversy often revolves around pretext. It is at this stage that causation is most severely contested, because the defendant's articulated reason for its adverse action often involves "mixed motives"--i.e., both retaliatory and nonretaliatory. The plaintiff should, therefore, be prepared to present evidence showing that retaliation was at least one of the reasons for an adverse action, and that but for the retaliatory motivation the adverse action would not have been taken.ⁿ⁶⁹ The defendant will then be required to show that the action would have been taken even without retaliatory motivation.ⁿ⁷⁰ Commentary by Bill Lann Lee and David M. Youngsmith.

[3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies as Prerequisite to Civil Action

To bring a civil action pursuant to the FEHA, plaintiff must first do the following:

1. File a timelyⁿ⁷¹ complaint (also commonly referred to as a charge or claim) of discrimination and/or retaliation with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH);ⁿ⁷² and
2. Receive a notice of right of civil action from DFEH (also commonly referred to as a right-to-sue letter or letter-to-sue).ⁿ⁷³

If the plaintiff is a municipal employee, the plaintiff need not exhaust both the administrative remedy provided by the FEHA and any internal administrative remedy provided by the municipality. Receiving a DFEH right-to-sue letter is a sufficient prerequisite to filing an FEHA claim in superior court for a municipal employee.^{n73.1} However, having chosen a forum for discrimination claims, a public employee must exhaust the chosen administrative forum's procedural requirements. If a public employee requested a non-FEHA administrative remedy such as a civil service commission hearing and obtained an adverse decision, the employee must exhaust judicial remedies by filing a petition for writ of mandate in the trial court or the administrative decision will be binding on subsequent FEHA claims.^{n73.2} If a public employee's internal remedies are provided in a collective bargaining agreement, rather than by statute, and the collective bargaining agreement provides for arbitration, the employee is not required to exhaust those remedies even if the employee begins that process, in order to sue under the FEHA.^{n73.3}

If a plaintiff brings an FEHA suit without having filed a timely charge of discrimination with the DFEH and having received a right-to-sue letter from the DFEH, the plaintiff's civil action is subject to summary judgment, demurrer, or reversal of a favorable judgment on appeal.ⁿ⁷⁴ If the DFEH elects not to process the plaintiff's discrimination charge, the court will still consider administrative remedies to have been exhausted.ⁿ⁷⁵ However, if the DFEH defers processing of the charge to the EEOC and the plaintiff later files an amended charge with the EEOC, the plaintiff has not exhausted his or her administrative remedies as to the claims that are the subject of the amended charge unless he or she notifies the DFEH of the amendments and affords it an opportunity to conciliate the new claims.ⁿ⁷⁶ In Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co.,ⁿ⁷⁷ the court of appeal held that the plaintiff did not exhaust administrative remedies under the FEHA when she filed an amended charge with the EEOC and received a right-to-sue letter for that amended charge from the EEOC only.ⁿ⁷⁸

If the employee files an administrative complaint with the DFEH and the DFEH issues a right-to-sue letter, the employee has exhausted his or her administrative remedies, even if the DFEH later rescinds the letter and then fails to resolve the case within one year after the filing of the administrative complaint without issuing a new right-to-sue letter.^{n78.1} The failure by the DFEH to issue a right-to-sue notice after one year, as required by Gov. Code § 12965(b), does not preclude a determination that an employee has exhausted his or her administrative remedies.^{n78.2}

The scope of the administrative complaint defines the permissible scope of the subsequent civil action.^{n78.3} The DFEH complaint satisfies the exhaustion requirement if its allegations are "like or related to" the allegations contained in the civil complaint, so that the DFEH investigation might reasonably have extended to the latter allegations.^{n78.4} Allegations in the civil complaint that fall outside of the scope of the administrative charge are barred for failure to exhaust.^{n78.5}

However, the allegations in the civil complaint need not be identical to those specifically set forth in the DFEH complaint.ⁿ⁷⁹ For example, in one case applying the "like or related to" standard, a California court of appeal held that the failure to include a national origin discrimination claim in the administrative complaint, which did include a race discrimination claim, was not a fatal defect and that the trial court abused its discretion in granting a demurrer without leave to amend.ⁿ⁸⁰ On the other hand, construing California law, the Ninth Circuit held that a DFEH charge alleging that plaintiff was the victim of race discrimination could not be construed to include a claim of disability discrimination, because the race discrimination claim would not reasonably have triggered an investigation into discrimination on the ground of disability. The two claims involved totally different kinds of allegedly improper conduct and the race discrimination charge was very specific, rendering it especially inappropriate to expand the civil action to include other claims.^{n80.1} Furthermore, although oral statements to the DFEH intake officer could provide an equitable excuse for failure to exhaust, they did not cure the legal defects in the charge.^{n80.2}

Stated differently, the allegations of the DFEH complaint must give "fair notice" of the facts supporting the alleged discrimination so as to permit proper investigation of the charge. For example, a plaintiff fails to exhaust administrative remedies when she attempts to shift the focus of the charge, which identifies her sole physical disability as ulcerative colitis, to some form of mental disability (allegedly the root cause of the colitis) to avoid summary judgment.ⁿ⁸¹

However, in a case in which the plaintiff added a retaliation claim to his civil action for race and national origin discrimination without adding it to his DFEH claim, the court reversed a jury verdict for plaintiff on the claim. The court held that the retaliation claim was barred by the exhaustion of remedies doctrine because (1) it was not "like nor reasonably related to" the other allegations; and (2) it would not have likely been uncovered in the course of a DFEH investigation.ⁿ⁸²

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Okoli v. Lockheed Technical Operations Co. ⁿ⁸³ is one of the more significant appellate decisions regarding the exhaustion of administrative remedies under the FEHA. A jury returned a verdict adverse to Charles Okoli upon his claims for race and national origin discrimination in connection with alleged denials of promotional opportunities and alleged derogatory comments. The jury also returned a verdict favorable to Mr. Okoli upon his claims for retaliation. Mr. Okoli, however, had not alleged retaliation in the charge of discrimination that he originally had filed with the DFEH. Nor had he alleged retaliation in any amended charge. The court of appeal therefore ruled that Mr. Okoli had failed to exhaust his administrative remedies, thus depriving the trial court of subject matter jurisdiction over the retaliation claims.

The court of appeal began straightforwardly by stating that Mr. Okoli had raised an exhaustion issue and that exhaustion of remedies was a jurisdictional prerequisite to resort to the courts under the FEHA. The court of appeal then noted that the exhaustion doctrine required the complaining party to identify his or her allegation with specificity so as to place the DFEH on notice of the matter it would be expected to investigate. In the words of the opinion, "to exhaust his or administrative remedies as to a particular act made unlawful by the Fair Employment and Housing Act, the claimant must specify that act in the administrative complaint, " citing Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co., discussed above in the text. Presumably to avoid creating an overly technical rule of administrative pleading, the court made it clear that the determination whether a subsequent complaint is impermissibly broader than the scope of the underlying agency charge is determined not only with reference to the specific content of that charge, but also with reference to two additional considerations. First, a court complaint may contain allegations not found within an agency charge, provided that the new allegations are "like or reasonably related to the allegations" in that charge.ⁿ⁸⁴ Second, a court complaint may contain allegations not found within an agency charge, provided that the new allegations can be said to lie within "the scope of the [agency] investigation which can reasonably be expected to grow out of the charge of discrimination."ⁿ⁸⁵

The reader might then have expected the court of appeal to apply these rules to the facts of the Okoli case. Surprisingly, however, the opinion does not do so. It instead concludes without any reference to the facts: "Okoli's complaint added claims [of retaliation] that were neither like nor reasonably related to his DFEH claim and were not likely to be uncovered in the course of a DFEH investigation." The significance of this holding is in its brevity. Because the decision nowhere articulates the content of Mr. Okoli's retaliation claims, and because the decision indicates that the retaliation occurred "[w]hile DFEH was investigating the charge," the court of appeal can only have intended its holding to require that all retaliation claims be made the subject of agency charge. Presumably, if the "like or reasonably" related rule had any value in the context of a retaliation case, the court would have compared the content of the retaliation claims to the claims contained in the underlying charge. Presumably also, if the "scope of the investigation" rule had any value in the context of a retaliation case, the court would have found it easy to conclude that the DFEH would have found the retaliation which occurred during its investigation during the natural course of talking to the complainant about his case. In short, Okoli seems to declare a blanket rule--retaliation claims not made the subject of timely DFEH charges are lost. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Whether the failure to exhaust an administrative remedy is a jurisdictional, not a procedural, defect,^{n85.1} or should be viewed merely in the nature of a condition precedent or an affirmative defense that can be waived if it is not asserted by the defendant,^{n85.2} appears to be an open question under the FEHA.^{n85.3}

The "relation-back" doctrine is applicable to administrative charges.^{n85.4} Thus, an untimely amendment to a DFEH complaint can relate back to a timely filed charge.^{n85.5} However, the mere acceptance of an amendment by DFEH is not conclusive that the amendment relates back. The court must conduct its own de novo analysis of the amendment. Interpreting California law, the Ninth Circuit found that a timely administrative complaint of race discrimination failed to offer an adequate factual basis to support and warrant relation back of an untimely charge of disability discrimination, even though plaintiff told DFEH he was terminated because of absenteeism. The original charge explicitly stated that plaintiff believed his termination was due to race, and that the employer's reason for terminating him was pretextual because non-Mexican-Americans with more absences and accidents were not terminated. The court found that the allegations of race discrimination were entirely different from the claim that the employer had failed to acknowledge and accommodate a disability. The amended charge added new facts to support its new theory, including allegations that plaintiff had a mental disability, the employer knew he suffered from clinical depression at the time of his termination, and the employer failed to offer him accommodation.^{n85.6}

A plaintiff exhausts administrative remedies for a cause of action based on a violation not mentioned in the administrative charge if he or she notifies the administrative agency of the violation, and the failure to include the violation in the charge is the fault of the administrative agency and not the plaintiff.ⁿ⁸⁶ This is an equitable exception to the exhaustion requirement that is distinct from equitable tolling.^{n86.1} Whether to excuse the failure to include alleged unlawful conduct in an administrative charge requires a balancing of the equities in the particular case.^{n86.2} The equities favor a plaintiff when each of the following is true:^{n86.3}

- The plaintiff diligently pursued the claim;
- The plaintiff was misinformed or misled by the administrative agency responsible for processing the charge;
- The plaintiff relied in fact on the misinformation or misrepresentations of the agency, causing the plaintiff to fail to exhaust administrative remedies; and
- The plaintiff was acting pro se at the time.

In Keiffer v. Bechtel Corp.,ⁿ⁸⁷ a California court of appeal squarely addressed an issue implicit in Okoli and Denney, and expressly addressed elsewhere, that the exhaustion doctrine does not implicate subject matter jurisdiction, which may be raised at any time in the course of litigation. The doctrine is jurisdictional only in the sense that a court's failure to apply the rule when the issue has been properly raised can be corrected by the issuance of a writ of prohibition. Stated differently, a requirement may be jurisdictional, not procedural, and yet not affect the court's fundamental, subject matter jurisdiction.

The notion of jurisdiction encompasses several similar concepts, some fundamental to the nature of any judicial system, some derived from due process requirements, others determined by the constitutional or statutory structure of a particular court, some based on mere procedural rules originally devised for convenience and efficiency, and some made mandatory and jurisdictional by precedent. Thus, describing the FEHA's administrative requirements as "jurisdictional" does not resolve the question of whether those requirements implicate the trial court's fundamental, subject matter jurisdiction. Under Government Code § 12965(b), all that is required for jurisdiction is that the plaintiff file a complaint and receive a right to sue notice.ⁿ⁸⁸ In Keiffer v. Bechtel Corp., the employer argued that the former employee failed to present the allegations to DFEH within one year of the date on which the alleged act of discrimination occurred, and that the jury verdict was based on allegations not encompassed within the right to sue notice. The court determined that although the FEHA contains this and other procedural requirements, these prerequisites do not implicate the court's fundamental, subject matter jurisdiction. Therefore, the employer waived this contention because, at a minimum, the employer failed to raise this issue in its opening brief on appeal. When there is at least facially adequate compliance with the FEHA in the form of a right-to-sue notice, the details with respect to which claims are permitted by the notice is a matter that must be timely raised or forever waived.ⁿ⁸⁹

■ COMMENTARY

Keiffer should be viewed as a case with unusual facts that announces a rule of limited applicability. In an appellate reply brief, the respondent raised the untimeliness of the underlying DFEH charge with respect to certain acts that served as the basis for liability at trial. The appellate court rejected the argument and held that the untimeliness of the charge was not jurisdictional. The court, however, did not reach the opposite conclusion that the timeliness of a DFEH charge is merely a procedural issue. The opinion makes it clear that untimeliness is a substantive defect that will serve as a bar to liability if raised by an employer as an affirmative defense and made the subject of an appropriate motion or trial defense. Thus, equitable tolling may be available to plaintiffs under federal law, but there is nothing in Keiffer which holds that a late filing, if properly preserved and challenged, will be excused. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Although an employee must exhaust the FEHA administrative remedy before bringing a civil action under the FEHA or seeking any remedies provided by the FEHA, exhaustion of the administrative remedy is not required before filing a civil action for damages alleging related, non-FEHA causes of action, such as termination in violation of public policy.ⁿ⁹⁰ For discussion of actions for wrongful termination, see Chapter 60.

For discussion of procedures and requirements for filing a complaint with the DFEH and issuance of right-to-sue letters under the FEHA, see Chapter 42, Part B.

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

The complainant should file his or her complaint with the DFEH promptly after discovering facts leading him or her to believe that discrimination or retaliation has occurred or is occurring. The FEHA requires complaints to be filed within one year of the most recent act of discrimination or retaliation, with a grace period not to exceed 90 days after the one-year period for cases in which the complainant did not learn of the discrimination or retaliation within a year of its last occurrence or within one year of the complainant attaining the age of majority.ⁿ⁹¹ The complainant should include any party in the DFEH complaint that he or she may later wish to sue in a civil action. Government Code Section 12965(b) provides that a civil action may be brought against the person, employer, labor organization, or employment agency named in the verified complaint filed with the DFEH. Thus, if the civil action names parties other than those named in the DFEH charge, such parties probably will succeed in claiming that the court lacks jurisdiction over them as parties in the civil action. For further discussion, see [3A], below.

The complainant also should cooperate as fully as practicable with the DFEH. Even if he or she intends to go to court, and expects no administrative redress, the DFEH retains a number of investigative, conciliatory, and other powers that can be exercised in a manner favorable or detrimental to the interests of the complainant.ⁿ⁹² Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

[3A] Proper Party Defendants

Government Code Section 12965(b) provides that a civil action may be brought against the person, employer, labor organization, or employment agency "named in" the complaint filed with the DFEH.ⁿ⁹³ Some California cases, however, have held that a plaintiff may sue a defendant who was not named in the caption of a FEHA administrative charge, provided that the party was named or sufficiently identified in the body of the charge.ⁿ⁹⁴ Another California case has held that the statutory language of Gov. Code § 12960 requires that an individual defendant must be named in either the caption or the body of a DFEH administrative charge in order for the plaintiff to bring a civil action against that individual.ⁿ⁹⁵ This rule presupposes that the individuals or other parties named are properly subject to liability under the FEHA.

California courts have ruled that individual supervisors may be liable for sexual harassment or retaliation as "persons" under the FEHA if they participate personally in the harassment or retaliation or aid or abet it.ⁿ⁹⁶ However, supervisory employees may not be sued for types of discrimination other than harassment or retaliation.ⁿ⁹⁷ In Janken v. GM Hughes Electronics,ⁿ⁹⁸ the court of appeal noted three reasons for finding that supervisory employees are not individually liable for discrimination even though they may be held individually liable for harassment: (1) the distinction between harassment as a type of conduct not necessary to a supervisor's job performance and a supervisor's unavoidable need to make personnel management decisions without having to face personal liability; (2) the statutory language of the FEHA, which prohibits discrimination by employers, including their agents, but prohibits harassment by "employer[s] ... or any other person"; and (3) the incongruity of holding supervisory employees liable for discrimination when small employers are exempt from such liability.ⁿ⁹⁹ In Reno v. Baird,ⁿ¹⁰⁰ the California Supreme Court approved and adopted the holding in Janken. The Reno court noted that in drafting the FEHA,ⁿ¹⁰¹ the Legislature had clearly distinguished between individual supervisor liability for harassment and liability for other forms of discrimination, allowing the former and proscribing the latter.ⁿ¹⁰² The Court also rejected Reno's individual claim for wrongful discharge in violation of the public policy embodied in the FEHA. The Court found it "absurd to forbid a plaintiff to sue a supervisor under the FEHA, then allow essentially the same action under a different rubric." However, the Court expressed no opinion on the general question of whether discrimination based on a medical condition violates a fundamental public policy that will support a wrongful discharge claim.ⁿ¹⁰³ Following the Reno decision, a California court of appeal has held that supervisory personnel cannot be held individually liable for discrimination under ADA.ⁿ¹⁰⁴

California courts have not addressed whether nonsupervisory employees may be personally liable for harassment or other types of discrimination. Thus, the issue of whether individuals are named in the DFEH charge is only relevant with regard to whether individual supervisory employees unnamed in the charge may be sued for harassment or retaliation.

[4] Statutes of Limitation

[a] One-Year Statute of Limitation for Filing Charge With DFEH

[i] General Rule

The FEHA requires a complainant to file a charge with the DFEH within one year after the date on which the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred; however, the period may be extended for up to 90 days if the complainant first learned about the alleged unlawful employment practice after one year from the date of its occurrence, for up to one year following a rebutted presumption of the identity of the person's employerⁿ¹⁰⁵ to allow the person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice to make a substitute identification of the actual employer, or for up to one year from the date that the person allegedly aggrieved by the unlawful practice attained the age of majority.ⁿ¹⁰⁶ Filing a timely charge of discrimination with the DFEH is a jurisdictional requirement that must be met before the plaintiff may bring an FEHA claim;ⁿ¹⁰⁷ no equitable exception applies to extend the filing period of one year plus 90 days, even when the employee first discovered the alleged discrimination more than 16 months after the occurrence.ⁿ¹⁰⁸

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Williams ⁿ¹⁰⁹ is one of the only reported cases to interpret that portion of the FEHA which deals with the 90-day extension of time to file an administrative complaint for plaintiffs who belatedly uncover evidence of discrimination. In this instance, the plaintiff learned, sixteen months after his denial of employment, that the decision makers who denied him employment may have excluded his application on the basis of his race. He asserted, therefore, that he had properly filed his administrative complaint within one year of his knowledge of alleged wrongdoing, although well beyond one year from the denial of his employment application. The court of appeal concluded, however, that the FEHA already addressed the issue of late administrative filings and limited their availability to the 90-day window expressly provided in the statute--and not more. As a result, despite the potential unfairness, the plaintiff had no viable claim, because he had failed to timely exhaust his administrative remedies. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

By contrast, filing a timely charge of discrimination with the EEOC is not a jurisdictional prerequisite to bringing a Title VII suit in federal court.¹¹⁰

[ii] Effect of Continuing Violation

The "continuing violation" doctrine that has evolved under Title VII¹¹¹ has been applied to actions under the FEHA.¹¹² One California court of appeal has noted that although the United States Supreme Court in National R.R. Passenger Corp. v. Morgan,^{112.1} made a recent pronouncement on the continuing violation doctrine under Title VII, California state courts will not look to federal precedent under Title VII for guidance on FEHA questions. That rule only applies in absence of controlling state authority, and the California Supreme Court set out continuing violation doctrine under FEHA in Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc.^{112.2}

Under the "continuing violation" doctrine, if like or related discriminatory treatment has occurred over a period of months or even years, the entire course of discrimination may be actionable if the DFEH charge properly alleges a "continuing violation" and is filed within one year of the most recent act of discrimination.¹¹³ However, the alleged discriminatory acts must be related closely enough to constitute a continuing violation; the relevant distinction is between the occurrence of isolated, intermittent acts and a persistent, ongoing pattern.^{113.1}

In Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc.,^{113.2} the California Supreme Court held that an employer's persistent failure to reasonably accommodate a disability or to remedy a hostile work environment directed at a disabled employee is a continuing violation if the employer's actions meet the following three-part test:^{113.3}

- The employer's actions are sufficiently similar in kind, although similar kinds of unlawful employer conduct such as acts of harassment or failures to reasonably accommodate disability, may take many forms.
- The employer's actions have occurred with reasonable frequency.
- The employer's actions have not acquired a degree of permanence; "permanence" in the context of an ongoing process of accommodation or harassment is understood to mean that the employer's statements and actions make it clear to a reasonable employee that any further efforts at informal conciliation to obtain reasonable accommodation or end harassment will be futile.

Thus, when an employer engages in a continuing course of unlawful conduct under the FEHA by refusing to reasonably accommodate a disabled employee or by engaging in disability harassment, and the course of conduct does not constitute a constructive discharge, the statute of limitations does not necessarily begin to run when the employee first believes his or her rights may have been violated, but rather when either of the following occurs:^{113.4}

- The course of conduct is brought to an end, e.g., by the employer's cessation of the conduct or the employee's resignation; or

- The employee is on notice that further efforts to end the unlawful conduct will be in vain.

In Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA Inc., n113.5 the California Supreme Court applied the continuing violations doctrine it had articulated in Richards, to a claim of retaliation in violation of the FEHA. Subsequent to the decision in Richards, the United States Supreme Court had decided National Railroad Passenger Corp. v. Morgan, n113.6 in which the United States Supreme Court held that, under Title VII, with regard to the applicability of the continuing violations doctrine, a distinction should be drawn between discrimination and retaliation claims on the one hand, and hostile work environment claims on the other hand. However, in Yanowitz, the California Supreme Court found that a rule categorically barring application of the continuing violation doctrine in retaliation cases would mark a significant departure from the reasoning and underlying policy rationale of previous cases interpreting the FEHA statute of limitations. Thus, in a retaliation case, as in a disability accommodation or harassment case, the FEHA statute of limitations begins to run when an alleged adverse employment action acquires some degree of permanence or finality. Applying the factors outlined in Richards, the Court found that at the summary judgment stage, on the evidence presented, a reasonable trier of fact could have found that the employer's solicitation of negative information from subordinates, criticism of Yanowitz both verbally and in written memos based in part on the negative information obtained from her subordinates, and the subsequent refusal to allow Yanowitz to answer the charges leveled against her, were similar in kind and occurred with sufficient frequency to constitute a continuous and temporally related course of conduct. Moreover, a reasonable trier of fact could have concluded Yanowitz was not on notice that further conciliatory efforts would be futile, until her final attempts to meet with company representatives to discuss the criticism directed at her were finally rebuffed.

In Cucuzza v. City of Santa Clara, n113.7 the court applied Richards in the context of an allegation of sex discrimination and held that the plaintiff failed to allege a continuing violation. In considering the first two prongs of the Richards test, the court first found it difficult to perceive the alleged adverse actions as a continuing course of conduct because on the record they looked much more like a collection of isolated employment decisions. However, even assuming the conduct was sufficiently similar and frequent enough to constitute a single course of conduct, the court applied the third Richards prong to find that the situation had reached permanence well over a year before plaintiff commenced her lawsuit.n113.8

In Alch v. Superior Court, n113.9 the court held that FEHA's one-year statute of limitations did not prevent deterred applicants from prosecuting a claim that, within the statutory period, employers and talent agencies enforced a systemic policy of age discrimination that deterred the writers from applying for positions as television screenwriters. The court noted that the Richards doctrine had no application to a claim of ongoing, company-wide, systematic discrimination against a protected class. Rather, the court applied the doctrine articulated in Valdez v. City of Los Angeles n113.10 and City and County of San Francisco v. FEHC, n113.11 as well as many federal cases, that a continuing violation may be found when a corporate policy is initiated before the limitations period, but continues in effect within that period to the detriment of the employee.

In City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com., n114 the court applied the continuing violation doctrine to an FEHA challenge to a county's failure to promote African-American firefighters because of its reliance on an eligibility list generated by a discriminatory test. The court held that the action was timely filed because promotions continued to be made from the challenged eligibility list during the year preceding the filing of the complaint.n115

In hostile environment harassment claims, the success of the case often depends on proof of a pattern of continuous, pervasive harassment.n116 Accordingly, such claims lend themselves to the "continuing violation" doctrine.n116.1 For example, in Accardi v. Superior Court, n117 the court of appeal applied the continuing violation theory to a sexual harassment case in which an eleven-year pattern of discrimination existed, but no overtly discriminatory acts could be shown during the year prior to filing the complaint. The court held that the plaintiff's allegations concerning her treatment with regard to workers' compensation claims, job assignments, and disability claims could all be related to the employer police department's general desire to rid itself of a female officer and could be shown to be a part of the prior pattern of harassment. These allegations were thus sufficient on demurrer to bring the prior acts within the statute of limitations.ⁿ¹¹⁸ In Birschstein v. New United Motor Manufacturing, Inc.,^{n118.1} the court reversed summary judgment in favor of the employer. The court found that a series of overtly sexual remarks by a coworker that began in the fall of 1995, coupled with the coworker's staring campaign that continued intermittently through 1996 and 1997, constituted a continuing course of unlawful conduct. The acts of staring were frequent and continuous. Their intermittent nature, likely caused by plaintiff's lengthy absence from work for surgery, did not alter the continuing nature of the violation. In Dominguez v. Washington Mutual Bank,^{n118.2} a former employee raised triable issues of fact to avoid summary judgment on whether she had timely filed a DFEH complaint alleging discrimination based on sexual orientation. A coworker made offensive remarks regarding her sexual orientation, but those remarks stopped more than one year before she filed her DFEH complaint. But plaintiff raised triable issues of fact that a continuing violation occurred after the co-worker stopped his sexual-orientation-themed verbal attacks, because despite the employer's attempts to minimize the coworker's conduct, plaintiff's account depicted a months-long, continual campaign to make her work life miserable after the remarks stopped. Thus, a reasonable inference arose that this was just another way for the coworker to harass plaintiff about her sexual orientation without expressly saying so. The court found that the conduct occurring within the limitations period need not have occurred outside the limitations period as well. Instead, the focus was on whether conduct within the limitations period could be viewed as part of a continuing violation, because there was evidence that the former was related to the latter. Further, based on evidence presented by plaintiff, a trier of fact could have found that the harassing conduct was reasonably frequent, and there were triable issues of fact as to when permanency was achieved.

However, if only isolated acts of harassment have occurred within the limitations period, a plaintiff may not be able to plead a timely hostile environment harassment claim.ⁿ¹¹⁹ For a detailed discussion relating to FEHA hostile environment harassment claims, see Chapter 41, Part D.

[b] One-Year Statute of Limitation for Filing of Civil Action

A the person claiming to be aggrieved under FEHA may bring a civil action within one year from the date of the right-to-sue notice.^{n119.1} That one-year period is tolled, however, when a charge is timely filed with the EEOC and DFEH and either (1) investigation of the charge is deferred by the DFEH to the EEOC and the DFEH issues a right-to-sue notice on deferral of the charge,^{n119.2} or (2) investigation is deferred by the EEOC to the DFEH and, after investigation and determination by the DFEH, the EEOC agrees to perform a substantial weight review of the determination by the DFEH or conducts its own investigation of the claim.^{n119.3} The tolling period expires when the federal right-to-sue period to commence a civil action expires, or one year from the date of the right-to-sue notice by the DFEH, whichever is later.^{n119.4}

In Romano v. Rockwell International, Inc.,ⁿ¹²⁰ the California Supreme Court considered when the statute of limitations began to run in a wrongful termination case in which the plaintiff has alleged causes of action sounding in tort and contract as well as violation of the FEHA. The plaintiff, Romano, had been notified of his termination two and one half years before his employment actually terminated. With respect to the FEHA claim, the court found that since the statute expressly lists discriminatory "discharge" as a ground for a claim, and further states that the time to bring administrative claims begins to run "after" the unlawful employment practice has "occurred." Thus, the claim for discriminatory discharge could not accrue until the discharge had actually happened.ⁿ¹²¹ The court expressly declined to follow the United States Supreme Court's decisions in *Delaware State College v. Ricks*ⁿ¹²² and Chardon v. Fernandez,ⁿ¹²³ which state that the cause of action occurs when the discriminatory decision is communicated to the plaintiff. The Court based its analysis on the fact that the FEHA defines "discharge" as a discriminatory act while the federal discrimination laws focus on the discriminatory decision.ⁿ¹²⁴

In reaching its holding, the court discussed the fact that requiring an employee to bring his or her claims while he or she is still employed creates a situation in which the chances for conciliation or correction of the wrongful or discriminatory decision are greatly reduced.¹²⁵ It further expressly disapproved the holding in *Regents of the University of California v. Superior Court*¹²⁶ to the extent that decision suggests that causes of actions for wrongful termination and under the FEHA accrue when the decision to terminate was communicated to the plaintiff.¹²⁷

The FEHA right-to-sue notice must inform the complainant that he or she has one year from the date of that notice to file a civil action.¹²⁸ The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held this one-year filing requirement to be a statute of limitations subject to equitable tolling rather than a jurisdictional requirement;¹²⁹ the Ninth Circuit has also held that when a plaintiff has the choice of pursuing two remedies and chooses to first pursue the remedy accorded by the EEOC, the FEHA statute of limitations is tolled pending resolution of the EEOC investigation.¹³⁰ Similarly, a California court of appeal has held that when a charge of discrimination or harassment is timely filed concurrently with the EEOC and the DFEH, the DFEH defers investigation of the charge to the EEOC under their work-sharing agreement, and the DFEH issues a right-to-sue letter on deferral, then the one-year period to bring a FEHA action is equitably tolled during the pendency of the EEOC investigation until a right-to-sue letter from the EEOC is received.¹³¹ This holding has been codified in Government Code Section 12965(d).^{131.1} The one-year time limit may be tolled by the doctrine of equitable tolling regardless of whether the statute is construed as a procedural statute of limitations¹³² or as a condition on a substantive right which must be fulfilled as a prerequisite to filing an action.¹³³

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Although Downs invokes the doctrine of "equitable tolling" to conclude that the pendency of an EEOC investigation stays the time to exercise a DFEH notice of the right to sue, the rationale of the case is limited. The holding in Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1718, that a plaintiff must file his or her civil action within one year of receipt of a DFEH notice of right to sue, is still good law. Downs addresses the narrow question of the impact on that notice on an ongoing EEOC investigation. Citing to a three-part test set forth in Collier v. City of Pasadena, the panel has concluded that the one year mandate is not applicable to circumstances in which a plaintiff has pursued closely related claims.

There are two flaws, however, in the Downs analysis. First, charges originally filed with the EEOC are not always immediately addressed by that agency. Indeed, after cross-filing a charge with the DFEH, the EEOC (on its own initiative or at the request of a plaintiff) can issue a "no action required at this time" notice to the employer. Thus, if skillfully managed, a plaintiff can now sit on his or her DFEH right to sue (which the state will have issued immediately after receiving the cross-filing) and trigger an EEOC right to sue at his or her discretion—even years later after memories have faded. Second, the express terms of the Downs decision restrict equitable tolling to the period of the EEOC investigation, but the underlying facts seem to indicate that the tolling doctrine applies to the pendency of the EEOC investigation plus three months. That is, if the Downs holding were taken at its word, a plaintiff would have to file his or her DFEH action on the day of (or day after) receipt of an EEOC notice of right to sue. After all, the equitable tolling is only for the period of EEOC investigation—not more. However, the decision seems to contemplate that the tolling period is further extended to permit the filing of a DFEH action within the 90 days applicable to the filing of a Title VII action. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Under California law, equitable tolling is warranted when the defendants have induced the plaintiff to delay filing until after the statute of limitations has run.^{133.1} Further, absent express statutory language, a plaintiff's voluntary dismissal does not entitle the plaintiff to toll the statute of limitations on a subsequently filed action.^{133.2}

The effect of equitable tolling is that the limitations period stops running during the tolling event, and begins to run again only when the tolling event has concluded. The tolled interval is tacked onto the end of the limitations period, extending the deadline for suit by the entire length of time during which the tolling event previously occurred.^{133.3}

One court has applied the "relation back" doctrine to an amended complaint adding FEHA causes of action almost three years after the DFEH issued a right-to-sue letter.ⁿ¹³⁴ The court applied the doctrine because the plaintiff had filed his initial complaint alleging common law causes of action before the DFEH issued the letter. The doctrine states that a statute of limitations does not bar an amended complaint alleging new causes of action if it rests on the same facts as the original complaint and refers to the same accident and same injuries as the original complaint. The court added that, although formerly an exception occurred when an amendment converted a common law cause of action to a statutory one, that exception is no longer recognized.ⁿ¹³⁵

Plaintiffs often assert FEHA causes of action in conjunction with allegations of other employment-related wrongs.ⁿ¹³⁶ The California Supreme Court has observed that a responsible attorney handling an employment discrimination case may have to plead a variety of statutory, tort, and contract causes of action in order to fully protect the interests of the client.ⁿ¹³⁷ However, the attorney should be aware that the statutes of limitations applicable to other claims may be different from the one-year statute of limitation under the FEHA.

The continuing violation doctrine, which courts have applied in the context of the filing of the charge,^{n137.1} may also apply in the context of the filing of the civil action. However, a court does not need to determine whether the continuing violation doctrine applies when the plaintiff submits evidence that within the one-year limitations period actionable conduct occurred.^{n137.2} In National Railroad Passenger Corporation v. Morgan, ^{n137.3} which arose under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII), the United States Supreme Court held that an act within the limitations period in furtherance of racial discrimination or retaliation is a discrete act that is not barred by the statute of limitations, and evidence of conduct outside the limitations period is admissible as relevant background evidence to show a prohibited motivation for the discrete act. In Hammond v. County of Los Angeles, ^{n137.4} the court applied the Morgan methodology and found that a supervisor's decisions concerning the number and type of teaching assignments plaintiff received starting one year before the date she filed her complaint, which were alleged adverse employment actions, could be attributed to plaintiff's race and age based on statements and acts that took place before July of 2003. Therefore, her FEHA claims based on acts that occurred within the limitations period were not barred by the one-year statute of limitations.^{n137.5} The court also noted that the reasoning of the United States Supreme Court decision in Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., ^{n137.6} did not change the conclusion. Ledbetter distinguished for statute of limitations purposes between discriminatory acts occurring within the limitations period and discriminatory acts occurring outside the period that may have had residual adverse effects on the employee within the period. In Ledbetter, the employee claimed that during the course of her employment, her supervisors gave her poor performance evaluations based on her gender, which violated Title VII, because the evaluations resulted in her pay not increasing as it would have if she had been evaluated fairly.^{n137.7} According to the court in Ledbetter, even though the prior discriminatory evaluations and pay adjustments continued to have negative effects on the employee's pay throughout her employment, the cause of action accrued at the time the evaluations and pay adjustments were made, when the employer acted in a discriminatory manner with adverse consequences for the employee. The complaint in Ledbetter, which was a pay discrimination case, was based on acts of discrimination by a supervisor outside the limitations period that adversely affected the employer's nondiscriminatory pay decisions within the period.^{n137.8} In Hammond, unlike in Ledbetter, plaintiff's evidence supported a reasonable inference that the supervisor engaged in acts, including some within the limitations period, each of which was intentionally discriminatory. As a result, the rationale of Ledbetter had no application to a case in which plaintiff's evidence showed discrete acts of discrimination both inside and outside the limitations period. Plaintiff submitted evidence of statements and actions prior to one year before she filed her complaint under the FEHA, suggesting that the reduction in her classroom teaching assignments was based on age and race. But there also was evidence of acts within the limitations period that the supervisor continued to limit the number and types of teaching assignments that plaintiff would receive. In doing so, the supervisor made discrete decisions concerning plaintiff's workload within the limitations period, each of which was arguably a fresh violation of the FEHA.

[5] Subject Matter Jurisdiction

The superior courts of the State of California have jurisdiction over FEHA litigation.ⁿ¹³⁸ The amount in controversy determines which of these courts is the appropriate forum.ⁿ¹³⁹

A plaintiff's failure to comply with the administrative exhaustion requirements of the FEHAⁿ¹⁴⁰ deprives the court of subject matter jurisdiction.ⁿ¹⁴¹ By contrast, federal courts interpreting Title VII have held that failure to exhaust administrative remedies may give rise to an affirmative defense, which is subject to waiver and other exceptions.ⁿ¹⁴²

Cases under Title VII have held that the scope of the civil complaint may not exceed those allegations of discrimination that are made in, or that are reasonably related to the allegations made in, the party's administrative complaint.ⁿ¹⁴³ Relying on Title VII authority, one California court of appeal has held that an FEHA civil complaint is within the court's jurisdiction if its allegations are "like or related to" the allegations contained in the DFEH complaint, so that the DFEH investigation might reasonably have extended to the allegations contained in the civil complaint. The allegations in the civil complaint need not be identical to those specifically set forth in the DFEH complaint.ⁿ¹⁴⁴

[6] Venue

An action under the FEHA may be brought in (1) any county in California in which the unlawful practice is alleged to have been committed, (2) the county in which the records relevant to such practice are maintained and administered, or (3) the county in which the aggrieved person would have worked but for the alleged unlawful practice.ⁿ¹⁴⁵ However, if the defendant is not found within any such county, an action may be brought within the county of defendant's residence or principal office.ⁿ¹⁴⁶ Recently, one court of appeal, applied this rule to find that venue was proper in the Sacramento County where the alleged acts occurred and where all the relevant documents were maintained, even though the plaintiffs filed the action in Los Angeles County where they currently resided.ⁿ¹⁴⁷

FEHA plaintiffs may bring their actions wherever the FEHA venue provision permits, even if they have other causes of action that would establish venue elsewhere.ⁿ¹⁴⁸ The FEHA venue statute, Government Code Section 12965(b), does not preclude the court from granting a change of venue for the convenience of witnesses as authorized by Code of Civil Procedure Section 397(c), the general civil change-of-venue statute.ⁿ¹⁴⁹

[6A] Forum Selection and Inconvenient Forum

An employment agreement that specifies a specific state as the exclusive jurisdiction and venue for the resolution of all disputes arising under the agreement constitutes a mandatory forum selection clause. Actions alleging violations of equal opportunity employment laws, such as FEHA, will be governed by such a clause.^{n149.1} Thus, for example, an action for age discrimination in violation of FEHA was properly stayed on the ground of inconvenient forum.^{n149.2} The parties had entered into an employment agreement providing that New York was the state of exclusive jurisdiction and venue for disputes arising under the agreement. After his employment was terminated, the former employee sued in California, alleging age discrimination in violation of FEHA. The court concluded that the statutory cause of action for age discrimination under the FEHA, as well as a common law cause of action for wrongful discharge in violation of the public policy against age discrimination, were subject to the agreement's forum selection and choice of law provisions, and those provisions did not violate California public policy. Thus, the trial court's order enforcing the forum selection and choice of law provisions and staying the action on the ground of inconvenient forum was proper, since the forum selection and choice of law provisions required the dispute to be tried in New York pursuant to New York law. Further, New York afforded the former employee an adequate forum for his age discrimination claims.^{n149.3}

[7] Class Actions Under FEHA

Class actions concerning employment discrimination under Title VII are subject to the rigors of federal class action rules and procedures.ⁿ¹⁵⁰ Because California state courts have similar procedural rules for class action litigation, and interests similar to the federal courts in controlling complex litigation,ⁿ¹⁵¹ class-wide employment discrimination cases under the FEHA will likely be subject to the full range of state class action requirements. These requirements include showing that (1) there is an ascertainable class, and (2) there is a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law and fact involved that affects the parties to be represented.ⁿ¹⁵²

In McCullah v. Southern California Gas Co. ^{n152.1} the court denied certification to a purported class of disabled plaintiffs because there was not a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law and fact.^{n152.2} If the discrimination claims are based on employees' physical or mental disabilities, the court noted that it is difficult to identify and certify the class because the question of whether the employer must provide reasonable accommodation involves a case-by-case inquiry.^{n152.3} The need for this individualized, fact-driven determination renders FEHA actions ill-suited for class treatment.^{n152.4}

The pendency of a civil class action in a federal court generally precludes the bringing of a class action under the FEHA in state court against the same defendant.ⁿ¹⁵³ However, the statutory proscription on filing or maintaining a FEHA class action in state court when the same persons have filed a class action in federal court alleging a comparable claim proscribes concurrent, not successive, class actions.^{n153.1}

In addition, the DFEH has special procedures for administrative handling of class complaints.ⁿ¹⁵⁴ For discussion of these procedures, see Chapter 42, Part B.

[8] Relief Available

[a] Generally

The remedial goal of the FEHA is to restore an individual who proves discrimination or retaliation in violation of the act to the position or status he or she would have enjoyed but for the defendant's wrongful conduct.ⁿ¹⁵⁵ Although Government Code Section 12970 defines the remedial power of the FEHC in an administrative proceeding under the FEHA,ⁿ¹⁵⁶ Government Code Section 12965(b), governing civil actions under the FEHA, does not specifically address the remedial powers of the courts in such actions, other than to authorize a discretionary award of reasonable attorney's fees and costs, including expert witness fees, to the prevailing party.ⁿ¹⁵⁷ However, courts have considerable discretion to fashion remedies that provide "the most relief possible" to victims of workplace discrimination.ⁿ¹⁵⁸ In Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court, ⁿ¹⁵⁹ the California Supreme Court held that all relief generally available in noncontractual actions, including punitive damages, may be awarded in civil actions under the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁶⁰ In actions in which the employer has elected to transfer the administrative proceeding to court because the accusation prays for actual damages and/or an administrative fine, the statute specifies that the court may grant the same relief to the plaintiff that a court is empowered to grant pursuant to Gov. Code § 12965(b), in addition to any other relief that, in the court's judgment, would effectuate the purpose of the FEHA. This relief may include a requirement that the employer conduct training for employees, supervisors, and management on unlawful business practices, the applicable rights and remedies, and the employer's internal grievance procedures.ⁿ¹⁶¹

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The breadth of available remedies in state court proceedings has made FEHA actions attractive. FEHA remedies may also be available in FEHA actions brought in federal court under pendent jurisdiction. In some areas of California, there is a substantial period of delay before trial. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

However, in FEHA actions, the right to recover damages is qualified by the common law doctrine of avoidable consequences. Under the doctrine of avoidable consequences, a person injured by another's wrongful conduct will not be compensated for damages the injured person could have avoided by reasonable effort or expenditure. The reasonableness of the injured party's efforts must be judged in light of the situation existing at the time and not with the benefit of hindsight.^{n161.1} Thus, for example, the California Supreme Court found that in a FEHA action against an employer for hostile environment sexual harassment by a supervisor, an employer may plead and prove a defense based on the avoidable consequences doctrine. In this context, the defense has three elements:^{n161.2}

- (1) The employer took reasonable steps to prevent and correct workplace sexual harassment. This will most likely include adopting appropriate antiharassment policies and communicating essential information about the policies and the implementing procedures to its employees.^{n161.3}
- (2) The employee unreasonably failed to use the preventive and corrective measures that the employer provided.
- (3) Reasonable use of the employer's procedures would have prevented at least some of the harm that the employee suffered.

The Court also found that because employees may be reluctant to report their supervisors to higher management and may attempt informal negotiation with a supervisor, make efforts to avoid encounters with the supervisor, or resort to other informal strategies, delay resulting from an employee's initial resort to nonconfrontational means of dealing with supervisor harassment will have to be carefully evaluated to determine whether it was reasonable in a particular employment setting. The application of the avoidable consequences doctrine to hostile environment sexual harassment actions does not demand or expect that employees victimized by a supervisor's sexual harassment must always report the conduct immediately to the employer through internal grievance mechanisms. The employer may lack an adequate antiharassment policy or adequate procedures to enforce it, the employer may not have communicated the policy or procedures to the victimized employee, or the employee may reasonably fear reprisal by the harassing supervisor or other employees. In some cases an employee's natural feelings of embarrassment, humiliation, and shame may provide a sufficient excuse for delay in reporting acts of sexual harassment by a supervisor. The employee's conduct is judged against a standard of reasonableness.^{n161.4}

[b] Back Pay

The FEHC has express authority to award back pay in administrative proceedings,ⁿ¹⁶² and courts commonly award back pay in civil actions under the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁶³

Back pay refers to the amount that plaintiff would have earned but for the employer's unlawful conduct, minus the amount that plaintiff did earn or could have earned if he or she had mitigated the loss by seeking or securing other comparable employment.ⁿ¹⁶⁴ Back pay includes pension and profit-sharing contributions,ⁿ¹⁶⁵ vacation pay, sick pay, overtime and shift differential pay,ⁿ¹⁶⁶ fringe benefits (such as medical insurance),ⁿ¹⁶⁷ and all other compensation that would have been obtained but for the discrimination.ⁿ¹⁶⁸ For example, an employer who wrongfully terminated an employee is liable, after the former employee died during the pendency of the suit, for the face value of the employer-provided life insurance policy (with a double indemnity provision) that would have been in effect but for the wrongful termination, less any proceeds received by the estate from the pay-out on the employee's substitute life insurance coverage.ⁿ¹⁶⁹

In circumstances in which an employee has been discriminatorily denied a promotion, many circuits have limited backpay damages to the period between nonselection and voluntary resignation, unless constructive discharge can be shown.^{n169.1} If resolution of the discrimination from within the working relationship is not a viable option, however, there is no reason to require an employee either to stay on the job or to forfeit a right to post-resignation damages.^{n169.2}

If the back pay period involves a period of disability, the employer may still be liable for back pay during that period if the employer would have been required to accommodate the employee's disability.^{n169.3}

The FEHC has held that the burden is on the employer to prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that no pay is due the plaintiff in some or all of the back pay period, and to prove any offsets to plaintiff's expected earnings.ⁿ¹⁷⁰ However, the plaintiff has the burden of demonstrating the amount he or she would have earned had he or she continued to work for the employer.ⁿ¹⁷¹

[c] Front Pay or Future Lost Earnings

If the discrimination or retaliation proximately caused the applicant or employee to have lost earnings that will continue beyond the date of the judgment, courts may award "front pay" or "future lost earnings" under the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁷² In addition, when reinstatement is not feasible, front pay may be awarded.ⁿ¹⁷³ Front pay is an equitable remedy that a court may grant or deny, using its sound discretion. If a court grants front pay, the remedial goal may be (1) to compensate for lost reinstatement rights by allowing discharged employees to find comparable employment, (2) to deter future improper employer action, or (3) to make a discharged employee whole until the employee attains a level of earnings equivalent to what he or she enjoyed at the time of termination.ⁿ¹⁷⁴

Front pay usually reflects a temporary situation that will be remedied by other relief ordered in the judgment. If, for example, the court orders reinstatement of a fired employee or promotion to a job the employee was denied as a result of discrimination, front pay might be awarded to make up a wage differential if there were no vacancy into which the employee could immediately be reinstated or promoted.^{n174.1}

Occasionally, courts have awarded front pay based on a wage differential that will persist over the employee's working life. For example, an employee terminated from a private company that regularly paid year-end bonuses had accepted permanent employment with a government agency that did not pay bonuses and was awarded permanent front pay. There was evidence the employee planned to stay with the private employer for the rest of her career; that she still made less at the government agency after five years than she would have after her next promotion at the private employer; and that she had resigned when, after complaining of sexual harassment by a supervisor, the employer demoted her by two pay levels.^{n174.2} On the other hand, for an employee who testified that he had no intention of remaining employed by the employer beyond the age of 50, there was no basis for a front pay projection on continuous employment through age 55, and two additional years of lost-income damages was appropriate, based on the employee's relatively young age and ability to eliminate any loss of earnings going forward, in addition to the fact that he left his employment voluntarily and was never out of work thereafter.^{n174.3}

[d] Injunctive Relief

The FEHA expressly authorizes the FEHC to grant injunctive relief.ⁿ¹⁷⁵ Although the FEHA does not expressly authorize a court to grant injunctive relief, federal courts' authority to impose injunctive relief in employment discrimination cases supports the comparable power in the state courts by analogy.ⁿ¹⁷⁶

In fact, California courts have awarded various forms of injunctive relief under the FEHA, including hiring, promotion, and reinstatement orders,ⁿ¹⁷⁷ orders granting retroactive seniority,ⁿ¹⁷⁸ orders requiring removal of negative materials from work records and requiring employer to indicate voluntary departure from employment,ⁿ¹⁷⁹ and orders directing employers to cease and desist from policies or practices of discrimination.ⁿ¹⁸⁰

In Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car Sys.,ⁿ¹⁸¹ the California Supreme Court upheld a remedial injunction barring the continued use of racial epithets in the workplace. After the jury awarded damages to the plaintiffs, the trial court issued an injunction against the future use of derogatory racist language. The employers appealed the imposition of the injunction, but did not challenge the finding that the defendants were guilty of unlawful employment discrimination in violation of the FEHA. Starting from the premise that the manager's misconduct created a hostile work environment for which Avis was properly held liable for knowingly failing to prevent the manager's misconduct, the plurality concluded that the injunction did not violate the right to freedom of speech once there had been a judicial determination of the existence of a hostile or abusive work environment and that the use of those epithets would contribute to the continuation of a hostile or abusive work environment and would therefore constitute employment discrimination.ⁿ¹⁸² Aguilar is significant in several respects. First, the plurality opinion acknowledged the First Amendment permits the imposition of civil liability under the FEHA for speech that creates a racially hostile work environment. Second, the issuance of the injunction holds employers accountable even after a trial on the merits and an award of damages.ⁿ¹⁸³ Finally, the plurality opinion found that the injunction was not overbroad despite its injunction against the use of racial epithets, even outside the hearing of the targeted Latino employees. Due to the lack of a record and a transcript, the court had no basis to conclude that, under the circumstances, it would not be necessary to bar the use of racial epithets to prevent an abusive work environment.ⁿ¹⁸⁴

Apparently no reported case has discussed whether and to what extent state courts can order affirmative action (such as goals, timetables, or quotas) to remedy pervasive class-wide discrimination in actions under the FEHA. For discussion of affirmative action as a remedy under Title VII, see § 43.10[9][d][iv] and Chapter 44. For discussion of affirmative action requirements for federal and state contractors, as well as voluntary affirmative action plans, see Ch. 44.

[e] Compensatory Damages

Courts may award compensatory damages to victims of discrimination under the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁸⁵ Plaintiffs may recover damages for mental suffering and emotional distress resulting from discrimination, as well as for other resulting damages that are not included in the formulation of "back pay" and "front pay."ⁿ¹⁸⁶ Actual damages awarded for emotional pain, suffering, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and other nonpecuniary losses may not exceed, in combination with the amounts of any administrative fines imposed,ⁿ¹⁸⁷ $150,000 per aggrieved person per respondent.ⁿ¹⁸⁸ The employee does not have the burden of proving that the employee cannot mitigate damages because of an inability to work. Rather, the employer must show that other employment was comparable, or substantially similar, to that of which the employee was deprived. The employer may not show the employee's rejection of or failure to seek other available employment of a different or inferior kind in order to show a failure to mitigate damages.^{n188.1}

[f] Punitive Damages

The California Supreme Court has held that punitive damages are available in civil actions under the FEHA.ⁿ¹⁸⁹ Such an award is governed by Civil Code § 3294.ⁿ¹⁹⁰ However, such damages are limited to violations of the FEHA that are accompanied by malice, oppression, or fraud.ⁿ¹⁹¹ Specifically, the imposition of punitive damages on an employer is authorized in three situations:ⁿ¹⁹²

- When a managing-agent employee was guilty of oppression, fraud or malice, and the employer with advance knowledge of the unfitness of the employee employed him or her with a conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others.
- When a managing-agent employee was guilty of oppression, fraud or malice, and the employer authorized or ratified the wrongful conduct.
- When the employer was itself guilty of the oppression, fraud or malice.^{n192.1}

In Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie,ⁿ¹⁹³ the court addressed and rejected the employer's argument that punitive damages could not be assessed against the employing law firm absent a showing that the firm itself was guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice. The court concluded that the legislative history does not support this interpretation, but rather establishes an understanding that employers may be found liable in any of these three situations without that additional explicit finding. To hold to the contrary would render the third alternative for employer liability surplusage. Thus, a plaintiff seeking punitive damages from an employer must show not only that an employee acted with oppression, fraud, or malice, but also that the employer itself engaged in any of the three types of misconduct defined above;ⁿ¹⁹⁴ Civil Code § 3294(b) requires only that an employer take reasonable steps to prevent a known harasser from committing future acts of harassment, and does not require that the employer terminate the harasser.ⁿ¹⁹⁵ The court also rejected the argument that the liability for punitive damages is vicarious, and that an employer's liability could not exceed the award assessed against the harassing employee. Rather, the award is assessed against the employer for the employer's own wrongful conduct: the hiring or failing to control the harassing employee, ratifying the misconduct, or the employer's own oppression, fraud, or malice.ⁿ¹⁹⁶

On the other hand, in Mathieu v. Norrell Corp., ^{n196.1} the trial court properly granted summary adjudication as to a former employee's claim for punitive damages against a temporary agency. The employee's counsel conceded that the conduct of a customer service manager at the agency did not rise to the level of oppression, fraud or malice. The court also rejected the argument that the agency's corporate failure to maintain and enforce a policy against sexual harassment was so wrongful as to give rise to punitive damages, declining to create new punitive damages liability without legislative history or case authority justifying such an expansion in the law. Further, the employee presented no evidence that the agency, as opposed to the client company at which the sexual harassment took place, did not have a sexual harassment policy or that it refused to provide her with a copy of its policy.^{n196.2}

In Roby v. McKesson Corp., ^{n196.2.1} the California Supreme Court held that a jury's award of punitive damages against an employer exceeded the amount permitted under the federal constitution. The due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution places constraints on state court awards of punitive damages.^{n196.2.2}

A ratio of one to one might be the federal constitutional maximum in a case involving relatively low reprehensibility and a substantial award of noneconomic damages.^{n196.2.3} Due process permits a higher ratio between punitive damages and a small compensatory award for purely economic damages containing no punitive element than between punitive damages and a substantial compensatory award for emotional distress.^{n196.2.4}

In State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell,^{n196.2.5} the United States Supreme Court articulated "three guideposts" for courts reviewing punitive damages:

1. The degree of reprehensibility of the defendant's misconduct.
2. The disparity between the actual or potential harm suffered by the plaintiff and the punitive damages award.
3. The difference between the punitive damages awarded by the jury and the civil penalties authorized or imposed in comparable cases.^{n196.2.6}

On the question of the degree of the reprehensibility of the defendant's conduct, courts should consider the following:^{n196.2.7}

- Whether the harm caused was physical as opposed to economic.
- Whether the tortious conduct evinced an indifference to or a reckless disregard of the health or safety of others.
- Whether the target of the conduct had financial vulnerability.
- Whether the conduct involved repeated actions or was an isolated incident.
- Whether the harm was the result of intentional malice, trickery, or deceit, or mere accident.

A corporate defendant cannot be punished for harassment merely because one of its employees harassed another employee in the workplace. The focus of the punitive damages inquiry must be on the corporation's institutional responsibility, if any, for the harassment.^{n196.2.8} In Roby v. McKesson Corp., the evidence establishing corporate wrongdoing in regard to a supervisor's unlawful harassment warranted an award of punitive damages, but did not indicate any repeated corporate misconduct or that the supervisor's actions were the product of a corporate culture that encouraged similar supervisory conduct. Rather, they appeared to be the isolated actions of a single supervisor, combined with a one-time failure on the employer's part to take prompt responsive action when these events came to its attention.^{n196.2.9} However, the employer's conduct, although wrongful, did not rise to the kind of oppressive, fraudulent, or malicious conduct that had in the past justified large punitive damages awards.^{n196.2.10} Thus, taking into account all five reprehensibility factors, the Court concluded that the employer acted wrongfully and in a manner warranting civil penalties, but the reprehensibility of the conduct was at the low end of the range of wrongdoing that could support an award of punitive damages under California law, notwithstanding the seriousness of the employee's emotional injury and her financial vulnerability.^{n196.2.11}

It is relevant for a reviewing court to consider the wealth of a defendant when applying federal constitutional limits to an award of punitive damages, thereby ensuring the award has the appropriate deterrent effect. However, the punitive damages award must not punish the defendant simply for being wealthy.^{n196.2.12}

The United States government is immune from civil penalties absent an express and unequivocal waiver of that immunity.^{n196.3} However, the government does not become the conduit of its immunity in suits against its agents or instrumentalities merely because they do its work.^{n196.4} Congress has waived the sovereign immunity of certain federal government agencies and instrumentalities from the time of their inception by including a "sue and be sued" clause in the enabling legislation.^{n196.5} Unlike waivers given by the federal government itself, such a "sue and be sued" waiver is to be given a liberal construction.^{n196.6} notwithstanding the general rule that waivers of sovereign immunity are to be read narrowly in favor of the sovereign.^{n196.7} With three exceptions, "sue-and-be-sued" clauses cannot be limited by implication. Thus, a federal agency or instrumentality is not immune unless it can clearly show one of the following:^{n196.8}

- Certain types of suits are not consistent with the statutory or constitutional scheme.
- An implied restriction of the general authority is necessary to avoid grave interference with the performance of a governmental function.
- For other reasons, it was plainly the purpose of Congress to use the "sue-and-be-sued" clause in a narrow sense.

Civil Code § 3295, which also applies in FEHA proceedings,ⁿ¹⁹⁷ requires trial courts, at the request of a defendant, to bifurcate the proceedings to preclude the admission of evidence of a defendant's profits or financial condition until after the trier of fact has returned a verdict for the plaintiff awarding actual damages and finding the defendant liable for punitive damages.ⁿ¹⁹⁸ For example, in Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie, the trial court bifurcated the proceedings. At the close of the first phase of the trial, the court submitted a special verdict form to the jury asking whether the law firm had advance knowledge of the unfitness of the employee and continued to employ him with a conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others, or ratified the employee's conduct that was found to be oppressive or malicious.ⁿ¹⁹⁹ The court rejected the argument that Civil Code § 3295 supports the position that punitive damage liability is vicarious and limited to the amount assessed against the employee.ⁿ²⁰⁰

There is no fixed mathematical formula for determining punitive damages in FEHA cases.ⁿ²⁰¹ Thus, in one case, the Ninth Circuit upheld an award of punitive damages under the FEHA that was ten times the amount of the compensatory damages awarded.ⁿ²⁰²

Nonetheless, punitive damage awards under FEHA are subject to the same constitutional considerations and limits as in other cases. To determine the constitutional limits of a punitive damages award against an employer, the court looks to three guideposts articulated by the United States Supreme Court:^{202.1}

1. The degree of reprehensibility of the employer's misconduct.
2. The disparity between the actual or potential harm suffered by the employee and the punitive damages award.
3. The difference between the punitive damages awarded by the jury and the civil penalties authorized or imposed in comparable cases.

For example, in Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co., ^{202.2} in reviewing the trial court's awards of punitive damages to multiple plaintiffs in a sexual harassment action, the appellate court focused on the evidence supporting the jury's findings that the employer had advance knowledge of the harasser's unfitness, employed him with a conscious disregard of the rights and safety of others, and failed to take reasonable steps to prevent his gender-based harassment, as relevant to the evaluation of the constitutional limits on the punitive damages awards.^{202.3} The court held that a 6 to 1 ratio of punitive to compensatory damages was sufficient to punish the employer and deter it and others from similar conduct in the future. The ratio was reasonable and proportionate to the amount of harm suffered and to the compensatory damages that the plaintiffs recovered, which already contained a punitive element.^{202.4} The court assessed the degree of the employer's reprehensibility as modest, considering the following factors:^{202.5}

- Whether the harm caused was physical as opposed to economic.
- Whether the tortious conduct evinced an indifference to or a reckless disregard of the health or safety of others.
- Whether the target of the conduct had financial vulnerability.
- Whether the conduct involved repeated actions or was an isolated incident.
- Whether the harm was the result of intentional malice, trickery, or deceit, or mere accident.

In examining the ratio of the punitive damages award to the actual harm inflicted on the plaintiffs, extraordinary factors, such as extreme reprehensibility or unusually small, hard-to-detect or hard-to-measure compensatory damages, may justify punitive damages in excess of a single-digit ratio.^{202.6}

Evidence about an employer's financial condition is necessary to determine punitive damages. However, the trial court has broad discretion to exclude time-consuming evidence of limited probative value that is collateral to the issue of net worth.^{202.7}

For discussion of circumstances under which an employer may be held liable for punitive damages based on the conduct of its managerial employees, see Chapter 30. For general discussion of the standards for awarding punitive damages, see Levy, Golden, and Sacks, California Torts, Chapter 54 (Matthew Bender).

[g] Prejudgment Interest

FEHA plaintiffs may recover prejudgment interest under Civil Code Section 3287(a) on awards of back pay and other tangible, easily ascertainable benefits under the FEHA.²⁰³

In addition, Civil Code Section 3291 provides for recovery of prejudgment interest in "any action to recover damages for personal injury" (if defendant is not a public employee or entity) if plaintiff has made an offer to compromise under

Code of Civil Procedure Section 998, defendant does not accept the offer before trial or within 30 days, and plaintiff obtains a more favorable judgment after trial. The interest runs from the date of the first offer by plaintiff that is exceeded by the amount of the judgment.ⁿ²⁰⁴ One California court of appeal has held that an action for damages for sexual harassment under the FEHA constitutes an action for "personal injury" within the meaning of the statute and that prejudgment interest under Civil Code Section 3291 is therefore recoverable.ⁿ²⁰⁵

[h] Attorney's Fees and Costs

The FEHA provides that in actions brought by private parties, the court, in its discretion, may award to the prevailing party reasonable attorney's fees and costs, including expert witness fees.ⁿ²⁰⁶ Absent an enforceable agreement to the contrary, attorney's fees awarded under Gov. Code § 12965 exceeding fees the client already has paid belong to the attorneys for whose work they are awarded.^{n206.1} The award of attorney's fees will not be overturned on appeal if the appealing party does not provide the court with an adequate record to show that the trial court has abused its discretion.^{n206.2} Attorney's fees and costs are not available if the action is filed by a public agency or a public official acting in an official capacity.ⁿ²⁰⁷

The standard governing the court's discretion to award attorney's fees under the FEHA was discussed by the court of appeal in Cummings v. Benco Building Services.ⁿ²⁰⁸ In Cummings, the court applied the standard used in federal cases under Title VII, as developed by the United States Supreme Court in Christianburg Garment Co. v. EEOC.ⁿ²⁰⁹ Under that standard, courts should ordinarily award attorney's fees to prevailing plaintiffs unless special circumstances would render an award unjust, but a prevailing defendant should recover attorney's fees only if the action is found to be "unreasonable, frivolous, meritless or vexatious."ⁿ²¹⁰

Under the particular facts before it, the Cummings court denied attorney's fees for the defendant employer because the plaintiff employee's action for age discrimination was not frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation, as evidenced by the discussion in the majority and dissenting opinions in a prior appeal of the same case.ⁿ²¹¹ Prior to Cummings, another California court of appeal case, without discussing the standards for awarding attorney's fees to prevailing defendants under the FEHA, had awarded $10,000 in attorney's fees to a prevailing employer after determining that the employee's action was "baseless."ⁿ²¹² In a case decided subsequent to Cummings, the court of appeal found that the trial court had not abused its discretion in denying fees to a defendant because the action was not frivolous, unreasonable, groundless, or in bad faith since the plaintiff could have obtained relief under some theories, even if a proper claim for relief could not have been made under another of plaintiff's theories.ⁿ²¹³ On the other hand, a trial court did not err in awarding an employer attorney's fees where the record reflected overwhelming evidence that the lawsuit was unfounded, unreasonable, and frivolous.^{n213.1} At the same time, even though an award of attorney's fees against plaintiff was justified at the trial, it was not justified for the appeal, because the appeal raised an arguable issue as to whether, and under what circumstances, a trial court is required to consider a plaintiff's ability to pay when awarding fees under Gov. Code § 12965.^{n213.2}

In awarding attorney's fees to a prevailing defendant, the trial court must take plaintiff's financial resources into account.^{n213.3}

In Shaw v. City of Sacramento,^{n213.4} the Ninth Circuit held that California courts have yet to determine whether 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(b), governing an award of attorney's fees in a "mixed motive" case under Title VII, applies to FEHA actions. The court held that whatever the outcome of that inquiry, the mixed motive defense did not apply to plaintiff's FEHA race discrimination claim based on termination of his employment. The defendant had prevailed on its defense that the plaintiff had executed a valid waiver of all claims. It never contended that, absent illegal discrimination, it would have taken the same action.^{n213.5} The court also held that plaintiff was not entitled to an award of attorney's fees, because he was not the prevailing party. On the special verdict form, the jury found that the employer had engaged in unlawful discrimination, but that plaintiff had released all claims by valid agreement. On that basis, the court had entered judgment for the defendant. The court found unpersuasive plaintiff's claim that he was the prevailing party because the suit had restored his reputation and enhanced his future employment opportunities. Finally, citing Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie, the court held that fees under Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5 are not available in a FEHA cause of action.^{n213.6}

An award of attorney's fees to a prevailing defendant under the FEHA may not be permissible if the defendant has prevailed without consideration of the merits of the plaintiff's claims by the court.^{n213.7} "Consideration of the merits by the court" does not require an evidentiary hearing; the determination whether a claim is permissible may be made on the basis of any evidence in the record.^{n213.8} The case, moreover, need not conclude on the merits for the court to award attorney's fees to the defendant. In Linsley v. Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp.,^{n213.9} the court found plaintiff's claim to be frivolous, unreasonable, or groundless without reaching the merits of plaintiff's claim because plaintiff continued to litigate his unlawful discrimination claim after he had executed a release that was directed in part to that claim.^{n213.10}

While a trial court ordinarily should award attorney's fees to a prevailing defendant in a FEHA action when the court finds the plaintiff's action was frivolous, the court has the discretion not to do so if the actual beneficiary of the fee award is a defendant to whom the court could not otherwise make an award. Thus, for example, an individual defendant in a FEHA suit may obtain an award of only nominal attorney's fees as the prevailing party when the employer has defended the individual and the individual has not personally incurred or paid any attorney's fees. In Young v. Exxon Mobil Corp.,^{n213.11} although the trial court found plaintiff's disability discrimination claims brought against a supervisor to be unreasonable, frivolous, meritless and vexatious and the attorney's fees attributable to the defense of the supervisor reasonable in amount, the appellate court affirmed the trial court's award of attorney's fees of only $1 to the supervisor. The FEHA action was not frivolous as to the employer, who incurred, was liable for, and paid all the attorney's fees. The trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to award fees to the supervisor, who did not incur or pay them, when the fee award would redound to the benefit of the employer, who was not entitled to an award of fees. Further, there was no evidence the employer incurred fees on the supervisor's behalf that it would not have incurred had the supervisor not been named as a defendant.

Under the FEHA, a prevailing plaintiff is entitled to recover attorney's fees and costs absent circumstances rendering the award unjust.^{n213.12} While the court is vested with discretion to deny attorney fees to a prevailing plaintiff, its discretion is narrow.^{n213.13} When a plaintiff prevails under the FEHA, the trial court does not have discretion to ignore the FEHA attorney's fees provision and instead exercise its discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 1033(a) to deny costs because plaintiff's recovery was below its jurisdictional minimum. A modest verdict under FEHA itself is insufficient to deny a prevailing plaintiff attorney's fees under the FEHA.^{n213.14}

The standards governing the computation of reasonable attorney's fees under the FEHA derive from California rather than federal law.ⁿ²¹⁴ Under California law, the trial court is best qualified to assess the value of services rendered before the court, and that determination is reviewed for abuse of discretion.^{n214.1} The trial court's discretion is circumscribed by the California Supreme Court's endorsement of the touchstone or lodestar adjustment method of calculating the award.ⁿ²¹⁵

The Court has never required that a trial court use the lodestar adjustment method when calculating a reasonable award pursuant to a statute other than the private attorney general provision.ⁿ²¹⁶ Under the lodestar adjustment method, the trial court determines the lodestar figure based on a careful compilation of the time spent by, and reasonable hourly compensation for, each attorney.^{n216.1} This figure may be increased or decreased by assessing various relevant factors, such as the novelty and difficulty of the issues, the skill displayed, whether the litigation precluded other employment, and the contingent nature of the fee award, based on the uncertainty or prevailing on the merits and of establishing eligibility.ⁿ²¹⁷ In Flannery v. California Highway Patrol, the defendant challenged the amount of the attorney's fee award, arguing that the court should not have applied a multiplier to enhance fees based on recent federal Supreme Court precedent.ⁿ²¹⁸ After reviewing California precedent, although acknowledging the persuasiveness of the federal reasoning against use of a contingency enhancer, the Flannery court declined to hold that a trial court abuses its discretion whenever it applies a multiplier to determine attorney's fees under FEHA.ⁿ²¹⁹ Nonetheless, the court concluded that the trial court applied incorrect standards in determining the amount of the award. When a trial court explicitly uses specific factors in setting the lodestar figure, those factors cannot be used again to enhance or apply a multiplier to that award.ⁿ²²⁰

In Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie,ⁿ²²¹ the court of appeal reviewed an attorney's fees award made pursuant to Gov. Code § 12965(b) and ruled that the trial court erred in enhancing the attorney's fees award by applying a multiplier of 1.7. Although the trial court relied on factors other than those used to set the lodestar figure, the mere existence of specific, enumerated factors does not, in and of itself, justify enhancing an award that already grants the legal professionals a reasonable hourly rate for every hour reasonably devoted to the litigation of the case. The factors must be analyzed not only in light of the policies they seek to advance, but also in light of the policies against litigation of claims for some purpose other than the worthiness of the cause or the need to redress the injury at issue. The Weeks court looked to the Serrano case, discussed above, as a classic example of a fee award deservedly enhanced. It involved litigation related to the public interest; it did not result in a fund of money from which attorney fees might be paid or any monetary recovery by the plaintiffs; the plaintiffs were not obligated to pay their attorneys for their efforts; and an award of fees was uncertain not only because of the complexity and difficulty of the legal issues but also because there was no clear statutory authority for shifting attorney fees to the defendant. In contrast, Weeks was essentially a personal injury case brought by a single plaintiff to recover her own economic damages; the case was not particularly difficult because of the novelty or complexity of the issues, but because of the inherent difficulty in proving sexual harassment. Furthermore, a fee agreement assured the attorneys of a portion of any recovery and, because of the availability of attorney fees under FEHA, the attorneys had no reason to assume that the amount of the plaintiff's recovery would limit the amount of fees they ultimately received.ⁿ²²²

The court can consider contingent risk as a factor in its decision of whether to apply a multiplier.^{n222.1} The purpose of a multiplier is to fix a fee at the fair market value for the particular action. The court in effect determines, retrospectively, whether the litigation involved a contingent risk or required extraordinary legal skill justifying augmentation of the unadorned lodestar in order to approximate the fair market rate for such services.^{n222.2}

One California court of appeal upheld an attorney's fee award in an FEHA action based on an hourly rate of $450, stating that the trial court was entitled to consider "fees customarily charged by that attorney and others in the community for similar work."ⁿ²²³ The court found the hourly rate to be at the "high end," but not "off the scale," in light of the record.ⁿ²²⁴

It is appropriate for the court to reduce a fee award when a plaintiff prevails on only one of his or her causes of action.^{n224.1} The trial court is in the best position to understand the relationship between claims on which the plaintiff prevailed and claims on which he or she did not prevail and to determine whether time spent on a related claim contributed to the plaintiff's objectives at trial.^{n224.2}

Under Gov. Code § 12965(b), the court need not find the action to be frivolous, unreasonable, or groundless before it may exercise that discretion to award costs to a prevailing FEHA defendant. Ordinary litigation costs are recoverable by a prevailing FEHA defendant even if the lawsuit was not frivolous, groundless, or unreasonable.^{n224.3}

If an employer makes a pre-trial settlement offer pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 998, and the plaintiff fails to recover a more favorable judgment at trial, the plaintiff may not recover post-offer costs and must pay the employer's costs from the time of the offer.ⁿ²²⁵ In addition, the court or arbitrator has discretion to require the plaintiff to pay a reasonable sum to cover the costs of the services of expert witnesses who are not regular employees of any party, actually incurred by the defendant and reasonably necessary for preparation for trial or arbitration and/or during trial or arbitration.ⁿ²²⁶ In a tort action, including an FEHA action, the plaintiff will be considered to have obtained a more favorable judgment if the damages award plus the plaintiff's pre-offer attorney's fees and costs exceed the employer's final settlement offer.ⁿ²²⁷ However, Section 998's punitive provisions have no application to an informal settlement offer made during the course of a confidential mediation session. To reduce a plaintiff's request for fees simply because the plaintiff rejected an informal settlement offer would be inconsistent with the incentives provided in FEHA to prosecute discrimination claims.n227.1

If an employer makes a pre-trial settlement offer pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 998, and the employee accepts, the employee will be entitled to an award of attorney's fees as part of the costs award, unless the fees and costs are expressly excluded in the offer to compromise.n227.2

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The attorney should maintain contemporaneous time records to support an application for an award of attorney's fees. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

In deciding whether to award a defendant attorneys' fees when plaintiff in a FEHA action fails to recover a more favorable judgment at trial than that in a settlement offer by defendant under § 998, the court has the same discretion, governed by the same standards, as in any decision as to whether to award the defendant attorneys' fees in a FEHA action regardless of the application of § 998. Section 998 does not grant greater rights to attorney's fees than those provided by the underlying statute; rather, section 998 merely expands the group of those who are treated as prevailing parties and who therefore may be entitled to attorneys' fees as prevailing parties under the relevant statute. Under FEHA, a prevailing defendant is entitled to attorneys' fees only if the action is deemed unreasonable, frivolous, or meritless.n227.3

A prevailing plaintiff is not required to claim expert witness fees under the FEHA within the same time constraints imposed by the California Rules of Court for filing a memorandum of costs.n227.4 In the absence of a specific rule applicable to the discretionary award of expert witness fees, a motion for the expert witness fees permitted under FEHA is timely if filed within the same time constraints as those applicable to a noticed motion for attorney fees.n227.5

For discussion of attorney's fee awards in Title VII actions, see § 43.10[9][f].

[9] FORM--Complaint for Violation of FEHA--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

The form set forth in [b], below, is a complaint for damages and injunctive relief for violation of the FEHA.n228 The form is intended to be a generalized complaint that contains the basic allegations required in any complaint for violation of the FEHA. As an illustration of a factual basis for a complaint for discrimination, the complaint alleges that the plaintiff was terminated from his or her employment because of his or her FEHA-protected characteristic. For examples of allegations of other types of conduct prohibited by the FEHA, see [10], below. In an appropriate case, those allegations may be substituted for Paragraphs 9-12 in the general form below.

Plaintiff must serve a copy of the complaint on the principal offices of the DFEH and the FEHC.n229 If plaintiff fails to do so, he or she may be ordered to comply with this requirement.n230

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

In most cases, plaintiffs plead FEHA as one of several causes of action in tort or contract in order to maximize the availability of remedies. Alternative causes of action may be of particular significance in issues of limitations periods and availability of jury trial. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[ii] Allegations

The complaint must contain certain allegations generally required of a civil complaint, or it is subject to a demurrer under Code of Civil Procedure section 430.10. A civil complaint under the FEHA must allege specific facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action for discrimination or retaliation.ⁿ²³¹

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

It is good practice to append a copy of the FEHA charge and incorporate its details by reference. Plaintiff may also wish to append to the complaint a copy of the DFEH notice of right to sue. Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

Defendants named in the complaint must be employers, employment agencies, labor organizations, or others subject to suit under the FEHA.ⁿ²³² Additionally, the plaintiff may not name as a defendant any person or entity not previously named in the FEHA administrative charge.ⁿ²³³

The complaint under the FEHA must also allege exhaustion of administrative remedies.ⁿ²³⁴ An FEHA complaint that fails to allege the timely filing of the prerequisite DFEH chargeⁿ²³⁵ and issuance of a DFEH right-to-sue notice within one year prior to the date of filing of the civil complaintⁿ²³⁶ is subject to dismissal.ⁿ²³⁷ One line of cases holds that these administrative prerequisites are jurisdictional,ⁿ²³⁸ but another line of cases considers them to operate as statutes of limitation on the right to sue.ⁿ²³⁹ The allegations of the civil complaint need not necessarily be identical to those set forth in the DFEH charge, as long as they are "like or related to" the allegations in the administrative complaint, so that the DFEH investigation could reasonably have extended to the allegations contained in the civil complaint.ⁿ²⁴⁰

However, a right-to-sue notice is not required if the suit is brought pursuant to Gov. Code § 12965(c), which authorizes an employer to elect to transfer an administrative action to court if the accusation contains a prayer for damages for emotional injuries as a component of actual damages, or for administrative fines, or for both.ⁿ²⁴¹ In such a case, the DFEH dismisses the accusation and files, or elects to have the Attorney General file, the action on behalf of the complaining party as the real party in interest.ⁿ²⁴²

The form complaint contains the following allegations: (1) defendant's coverage by the FEHA (Paragraph 1);ⁿ²⁴³ (2) an optional "DOE" allegation (Paragraph 2); (3) an optional agency allegation (Paragraph 3); (4) an allegation establishing venue (Paragraph 4);ⁿ²⁴⁴ (5) residence and capacity of plaintiff to sue (Paragraphs 5 and 6);ⁿ²⁴⁵ (6) specific conduct of defendant that violated the FEHA (example used here is termination of employment because of FEHA-protected characteristic) (Paragraphs 7-11);ⁿ²⁴⁶ (7) defendant's discriminatory actions proximately caused injury and damages to plaintiff (Paragraphs 12-14);ⁿ²⁴⁷ including an optional paragraph requesting punitive damages (Paragraph 15);ⁿ²⁴⁸ (8) a request for injunctive relief, such as reinstatement or retroactive seniority (Paragraph 16);ⁿ²⁴⁹ and (9) exhaustion of administrative remedies by plaintiff (Paragraphs 17 and 18).ⁿ²⁵⁰

[iii] Discriminatory Termination From Employment

As noted in [i] and [ii], above, the factual example set forth in the form in [b], below, is based on the plaintiff's discriminatory termination from employment. This form of discrimination, prohibited by Government Code Section 12940(a), has been the subject of numerous cases under the FEHA.ⁿ²⁵¹

For general discussion of discriminatory termination from employment, see Ch. 41, Pt. D.

[b] Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF _____

_____, [name],
Plaintiff,

)

)

NO. _____

vs. _____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).) COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES AND INJUNCT-) IVE RELIEF FOR EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINA-) TION
) (Fair Employment and Housing Act)
 (Civ. Code §§ 3294, 3333, 3422; Code Civ. Proc. §
 526; Gov. Code §§ 12940, 12965(b))

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Defendant _____ [name] is [a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of _____ and is] an entity subject to suit under the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, Government Code Section 12900 et seq. (hereafter, the FEHA), in that defendant is _____ [specify facts showing that defendant is subject to suit under FEHA (Gov. Code §§ 12926(d), (e), (g), 12940), e.g., an employer who regularly employs five or more persons].

[2. Plaintiff is ignorant of the true names and capacities of defendants sued herein as DOES I-_____, inclusive, and therefore sues these defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiff will amend this complaint to allege their true names and capacities when ascertained. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that each of these fictitiously named defendants is responsible in some manner for the occurrences herein alleged, and that plaintiff's injuries as herein alleged were proximately caused by the aforementioned defendants.)]

[3. (Plaintiff is informed and believes and thereon alleges that) (A)t all times herein mentioned each of the defendants was the agent and employee of each of the remaining defendants and, in doing the things hereinafter alleged, was acting within the course and scope of such agency and employment.]

4. _____ [Allege facts showing proper venue under Gov. Code § 12965(b), e.g., The unlawful employment practice(s) complained of herein occurred in _____ County].

5. Plaintiff _____ [name] is an adult person and a resident of the County of _____, State of California.

6. Plaintiff is a _____ [state plaintiff's membership in group protected by statute against which discrimination is claimed, e.g., black person, female, disabled person, person over age of 40 years, etc.].

[Paragraphs 7-10, below, set forth specific allegations] of discrimination based on termination of employment.
 Other allegations of discrimination based on different grounds may be substituted or added here.
 See Forms set forth in [10], below.]

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff was hired by defendant _____ [name of employer] in the capacity of _____ [specify plaintiff's position, e.g., cook]. On _____ [date], defendant terminated plaintiff's employment.

8. At all times herein mentioned, plaintiff was qualified for the position of _____ [specify] with defendant _____ [name of employer] in that _____ [specify facts indicating plaintiff's qualification for job: positive performance evaluations, merit raises, etc.].

9. The fact that plaintiff is a _____ [specify protected characteristic on which claim of discrimination is based, e.g., black person, female, disabled person, person over age of 40 years, etc.] was a substantial factor in the defendant's decision to terminate plaintiff's employment. Defendant _____ [intentionally] terminated plaintiff because of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected characteristic, e.g., race, sex, etc.]. The facts on which plaintiff bases this conclusion include _____ [specify facts from which conclusion of discrimination is drawn, including, but not limited to, statements of discriminatory intent, statistical evidence showing absence or paucity or disproportionately low number of plaintiff's group in defendant's employ, and/or in position held by plaintiff, evidence of policies or practices of defendant regarding employment of persons having characteristic for which plaintiff claims discrimination, admissions of employer or agents of employer regarding discriminatory attitude or outlook or hostility based on protected characteristic that is directed toward plaintiff or protected group. If case is based on disparate-impact analysis, also set forth facts showing facially neutral policy that had adverse impact on plaintiff, etc.].

[10. Defendant stated that plaintiff's termination of employment was due to _____ (state reason(s)). This/These reason(s) is/are a pretext for discrimination on account of plaintiff's _____ (specify protected characteristic on which discrimination is claimed, e.g., sex), in that _____ (set forth all facts that tend to show that defendant's reason is not real reason for termination or refusal to rehire, including inconsistent explanations provided by defendant for employment decision; others similarly situated to plaintiff were not terminated or were offered rehiring; statements of hostility or bias were made toward plaintiff as a person in a protected group, etc.).]

11. Defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, constituted unlawful discrimination in employment on account of _____ [specify, e.g., sex, race, etc.], in violation of _____ [specify relevant section(s) of FEHA that plaintiff claims were or are being violated, e.g., Government Code Section 12940(a)].

12. As a proximate result of defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered the loss of the wages/salary, benefits, and additional amounts of money plaintiff would have received if _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff had not been terminated from his/her position with defendant _____ (name of employer)]. As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ [in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof].

[13. As a further proximate result of defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered the intangible loss of such employment-related opportunities as _____ (specify, e.g., experience in the position from which plaintiff was terminated). As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[14. As a further proximate result of defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered humiliation, mental anguish, and emotional and physical distress, and has been injured in mind (and body) as follows: _____ (describe injury). As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[15. The above-recited actions of defendant in terminating plaintiff's employment were done with malice, fraud, or oppression, and in reckless disregard of the plaintiff's rights under the FEHA. Specifically, _____ (set forth facts on showing malice, fraud, or oppression, within the meaning of Civ. Code § 3294).]

[16. No adequate remedy exists at law for the injuries suffered by plaintiff herein, insofar as the employment opportunity that defendant has denied to plaintiff cannot be secured absent injunctive relief. If this court does not grant injunctive relief of the type and for the purpose specified below, plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury. Therefore, plaintiff requests the following injunctive relief: _____ (specify nature and extent of injunctive relief sought, e.g., reinstatement to the employment position plaintiff previously held before plaintiff was terminated from employment).]

17. On _____ [date that appears on copy of DFEH charge at bottom of first page of charge], and within one year of the date of discrimination herein alleged against plaintiff by defendant, plaintiff filed a charge of discrimination with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (hereafter, DFEH). A copy of this charge is appended hereto, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth.

18. On _____ [date that appears at head of notice of right of action issued to charging party by DFEH], the DFEH issued to plaintiff a notice of right to bring a civil action based on the charge that is "Exhibit _____" to this complaint. A copy of this notice of right of action is appended hereto, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For back pay, front pay, and other monetary relief _____ [in the sum of $ _____ or according to proof];

[2. For general damages _____ (in the sum of $ _____ or according to proof);]

[3. For punitive damages in an amount appropriate to punish defendant for its wrongful conduct and set an example for others;]

4. For interest on the sum of damages awarded, calculated from _____ [date that discrimination first began] to the date of judgment;

[5. For preliminary and permanent injunctive relief as specified in Paragraph 18, above;]

6. For reasonable attorney's fees and costs, including expert witness fees, pursuant to Government Code Section 12965(b);

7. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

8. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Add verification, if desired
(see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5).]

[10] Specific Allegations of Policies, Practices, and Actions Constituting Violations of FEHA

[a] FORM--Allegations of Discriminatory Failure or Refusal to Hire

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations relating to the discriminatory failure or refusal of an employer to hire a person because of that person's protected characteristic under the FEHA.ⁿ²⁵² In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁵³ set forth in [9][b], above.

Failure or refusal to hire or employ a person because of race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition,ⁿ²⁵⁴ marital status, sex, and sexual orientation, or age over 40 years violates the FEHA.ⁿ²⁵⁵ If the refusal or failure to hire results from a neutral policy that has a disparate impact on plaintiff as a member of a protected group (that is, persons of a particular sex, race, or other characteristic), the elements of disparate impact should be pleaded.ⁿ²⁵⁶

The second alternative to Paragraph 1, below, pertains to a situation in which the plaintiff did not apply for the position, because the alleged discriminatory policy deterred plaintiff from applying for the position. Actual deterrence can be the basis for an action for failure to hire; however, a deterred applicant seeking to establish discriminatory refusal to hire must make a more exacting showing than an actual applicant. A deterred applicant must show that he or she would have applied for the position had it not been for the discriminatory practice.ⁿ²⁵⁷ Individuals who without coercion or intimidation withdraw from the application process before being interviewed, tested, or hired, may not have a cause of action for discriminatory failure to hire under the FEHA.ⁿ²⁵⁸ For discussion of discriminatory preemployment practices, see Chapter 41, Part C.

[ii] Form Allegations of Discriminatory Failure or Refusal to Hire[EITHER]

1. On _____ [date], plaintiff applied for the position of _____ [specify, e.g., cook] with defendant _____ [name of employer].

[OR]

1. On _____ [date], _____ [name of employer] advertised an opening for the position of _____ [specify]. Plaintiff wanted to apply for that position, but he/she did not apply for the position because he/she knew that it would be futile for him/her to do so because he/she is a _____ [specify plaintiff's membership in group protected by statute against which discrimination is claimed, e.g., black person, female, disabled person, person over age of 40 years, etc.]. _____ [Set forth specific reasons why plaintiff knew his/her application for position would be futile because of protected characteristic, including previous rejected applications by plaintiff for positions with defendant, knowledge of rejection of other qualified applicants having same protected characteristic as plaintiff, knowledge that defendant hires only persons of certain background, etc.]

[EITHER]

2. Plaintiff was in all respects fully qualified for the position of _____ [specify] in that _____ [specify qualifications that defendant required, if any, and qualifications that plaintiff possessed for position].

[OR]

2. Defendant imposed the following qualifications for the position of _____ [specify]:
 _____ [list any qualifications for which plaintiff was not qualified because of plaintiff's protected characteristic, including height-weight requirements, etc.]. Plaintiff was not technically qualified for the position, because the aforesaid qualification excluded plaintiff because of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected characteristic, e.g., sex]. The qualification that plaintiff did not possess and that was required by defendant _____ [was intentionally imposed by defendant to exclude plaintiff on account of his/her _____ (specify protected group characteristic) or has a disparate adverse impact on plaintiff and other persons who are _____ (specify membership in protected group)]. Plaintiff was in all other respects fully qualified for the position.

[CONTINUE]

3. [Despite plaintiff's qualifications for the aforesaid position,] [D]efendant failed and refused to hire plaintiff for the position, and defendant _____ [continued to seek persons (of plaintiff's qualifications) for that position or hired another person for the position who was no more qualified than plaintiff].

[b] FORM--Allegations of Discriminatory Failure or Refusal to Promote, Train, or Transfer

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations relating to the discriminatory failure or refusal of an employer to promote, train, transfer, or afford some other discrete, identifiable job opportunity to an employee because of that person's protected characteristic under the FEHA.ⁿ²⁵⁹ Several reported FEHA cases concern this form of discrimination.ⁿ²⁶⁰ In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁶¹ set forth in [9][b], above. For discussion of discrimination based on failure to promote, train, or transfer an employee, see Chapter 41, Part D.

[ii] Form Allegations of Discriminatory Failure or Refusal to Promote, Train, or Transfer

[EITHER]

1. On _____ [date], plaintiff applied to defendant _____ [name of employer] for _____ [specify employment opportunity applied for, e.g., promotion to Laboratory Assistant II position].

[OR]

1. On _____ [date], _____ [name of employer] _____ [specify employment opportunity, e.g., listed an opening for the promotional position of Laboratory Assistant II]. Plaintiff wanted to apply for _____ [specify employment opportunity, e.g., promotion to the position of Laboratory Assistant II], but he/she did not apply, because he/she knew that it would be futile for him/her to do so because he/she is a _____ [specify plaintiff's membership in group protected by statute against which discrimination is claimed, e.g., black person, female, disabled person, person over age of 40 years, etc.].
 _____ [Set forth specific reasons why plaintiff knew his/her application for specific employment opportunity, such as promotion to position, would be futile because of protected characteristic, including previous rejected applications by plaintiff for promotions from defendant, knowledge of rejection of other qualified applicants having same protected characteristic as plaintiff for specific employment opportunity such as promotion, etc.]

[EITHER]

2. Plaintiff was in all respects fully qualified for _____ [specify employment opportunity, e.g., promotion to the position of Laboratory Assistant II] in that _____ [specify qualifications that defendant required, if any, and qualifications that plaintiff possessed for employment opportunity, such as promotion].

[OR]

2. Defendant imposed the following qualifications for _____ [specify employment opportunity, e.g., promotion to the position of Laboratory Assistant II]: _____ [list any qualifications for which plaintiff was not qualified because of plaintiff's protected characteristic, including height-weight requirements, etc.]. Plaintiff was not technically qualified for _____ [specify employment opportunity, e.g., promotion to the position of Laboratory Assistant II], because the aforesaid qualification excluded plaintiff because of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected characteristic, e.g., sex]. This qualification, which plaintiff did not possess and which was required by defendant, _____ [was intentionally imposed by defendant to exclude plaintiff on account of his/her _____ (specify protected group characteristic) or had a disparate adverse impact on plaintiff and other persons of plaintiff's (specify protected group characteristic)]. Plaintiff was in all other respects fully qualified for _____ [specify employment opportunity].

[CONTINUE]

3. [Despite plaintiff's qualifications for _____ (specify employment opportunity, e.g., promotion to the position of Laboratory Assistant II),] [D]efendant failed and refused to _____ [specify, e.g., promote plaintiff to the position sought by Plaintiff] [, and defendant _____ (continued to seek persons (of plaintiff's qualifications) for _____ (specify, e.g., promotion to that position) or selected another person who was no more qualified than plaintiff)].

[c] FORM--Allegations of Constructive Discharge Due to Discrimination or Retaliation in Violation of FEHA

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations relating to the constructive discharge of plaintiff due to the employer's discrimination or retaliation in violation of FEHA.ⁿ²⁶² In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHA set forth in [9][b], above.

The concept of constructive discharge, born in labor relations cases,ⁿ²⁶³ holds that a person who leaves his or her job because working conditions are unbearable to any reasonable person may claim that those conditions forced him or her to resign, and may impose liability on the employer for this outcome. A constructive discharge can occur when discrimination is established, when the employer knows or should know that resignation is likely to result from its treatment of an employee, and when "working conditions have been so difficult or unpleasant that a reasonable person in the employee's shoes would have felt compelled to resign."ⁿ²⁶⁴ The California Fair Employment and Housing Commission in a number of its administrative rulings has used the concept of discriminatory constructive discharge.ⁿ²⁶⁵ The California courts of appeal have also applied the concept in actions alleging employment discrimination.ⁿ²⁶⁶ The California Supreme Court has held that a constructive discharge in violation of a fundamental public policy gives rise to a tort cause of action in favor of the terminated employee.ⁿ²⁶⁷ However, the Court has also held that a constructive discharge requires that the plaintiff show that a reasonable person faced with alleged intolerable working conditions or employer actions would have had no reasonable alternative except to quit and that the employer had actual, rather than merely constructive, knowledge of the intolerable conditions.ⁿ²⁶⁸ For further discussion of constructive discharge due to discrimination, see Chapter 41, Part D.

[ii] Form

1. During the period from _____ [date that intolerable working conditions began], until _____ [date of resignation or other departure from employment], defendant took the following actions regarding plaintiff: _____ [state each circumstance on which plaintiff bases claim that his/her working conditions were rendered intolerable by reason of discrimination, retaliation, or both, in violation of FEHA.]

2. The actions alleged in Paragraph _____, above, caused plaintiff to be constructively discharged from his/her employment, in that defendant _____ [intentionally created and/or knowingly permitted] the above-described working conditions, which were so intolerable or aggravated at the time of plaintiff's resignation that a reasonable employer would have realized that a reasonable person in plaintiff's position would be compelled to resign. As a proximate result of these working conditions, plaintiff did resign from his/her employment on _____ [date].

[d] FORM--Allegations of Retaliation in Violation of FEHA

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations that an employer took retaliatory actions against an employee because the employee opposed unlawful practices under the FEHA or because the employee filed a complaint, testified, or assisted in any proceeding under the FEHA.ⁿ²⁶⁹ In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of, or in addition to, the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁷⁰ set forth in [9][b], above.

A plaintiff must set forth a sufficient factual basis in the complaint to support the legal conclusion of retaliation.ⁿ²⁷¹ For full discussion of unlawful retaliation under equal employment opportunity laws, see Chapter 41, Part F.

[ii] Form Allegations of Retaliation in Violation of FEHA

1. On _____ [date], plaintiff took the following action: _____ [describe action taken by plaintiff for which employer allegedly retaliated, e.g., Plaintiff filed a charge of discrimination with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing].

2. On _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of employer] took the following action(s) against plaintiff: _____ [describe in detail retaliatory action(s) taken by defendant, e.g., defendant denied plaintiff a promotion to _____ (position), a position for which plaintiff was fully qualified]. Defendant's action(s) was/were caused by and was/were in retaliation for the protected activity of plaintiff set forth in Paragraph _____, above, in that _____ [state all facts showing causal link between protected activity of plaintiff and alleged retaliatory action of defendant, including statements of defendant's motives, proximity in time, inconsistent statements or explanations by defendant for actions taken, admissions of causal relationship between defendant's actions and plaintiff's actions, discriminatory nature of treatment of plaintiff vis-a-vis co-workers or others similarly situated, etc.]

[e] FORM--Allegations of Refusal to Accommodate Religious Creed[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations relating to an employer's violation of the FEHA by refusing to accommodate an employee's or applicant's religious creed.ⁿ²⁷² In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of, or in addition to, the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁷³ set forth in [9][b], above. If the employer has otherwise discriminated against the employee on the basis of religion (for example, by failing to promote him or her),ⁿ²⁷⁴ the employee may bring an action based on such discrimination, using the allegations set forth in the general complaint in [9][b], above, as well as any of the allegations set forth in [a][ii], [b][ii], [c][ii], and [d][ii], above, as appropriate.

Employers and labor unions must reasonably accommodate the sincerely held religious beliefs of any applicant or employee.ⁿ²⁷⁵ However, such accommodation cannot impose an undue hardship on the defendant.ⁿ²⁷⁶ Paragraph 3, in the form in [ii], below, is an optional paragraph stating that accommodation of plaintiff's religious beliefs or practices would not constitute an undue hardship on defendant.

For further discussion of religious discrimination and accommodation, see Chapter 41, Parts B and D.

[ii] Form Allegations of Refusal to Accommodate Religious Creed

1. Plaintiff's religious creed requires that _____ [state sincerely held religious belief or creed that defendant failed to accommodate, e.g., plaintiff observe the Sabbath by resting and going to church on Sundays].
2. From _____ [date], until _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of employer] refused to accommodate to plaintiff's religious beliefs and practices in the following manner:
 _____ [state actions taken by defendant or action defendant failed to take that constituted refusal to accommodate religious creed, e.g., defendant insisted that plaintiff work on Sundays and threatened to discharge plaintiff if he/she did not work then].
- [3. Accommodation of plaintiff's religious beliefs and practices would not have imposed an undue hardship on defendant.]

[f] FORM--Allegations of Refusal to Accommodate Physical or Mental Disability or Medical Condition[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations relating to an employer's refusal to accommodate an employee having a disability or medical condition.ⁿ²⁷⁷ In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of, or in addition to, the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁷⁸ set forth in [9][b], above. In addition, if the employer has otherwise discriminated against the employee on the basis of the employee's disability or medical condition,ⁿ²⁷⁹ the employee may bring an action based on such discrimination, using the allegations set forth in the general complaint in [9][b], above, as well as any of the allegations set forth in [a][ii], [b][ii], [c][ii], and [d][ii], above, as appropriate.

Several courts have interpreted the provisions of the FEHA governing nondiscrimination against disabled persons and accommodation of disability.ⁿ²⁸⁰ "Medical condition," as used in the FEHA, includes (1) genetic characteristics and (2) any health impairment related to or associated with a diagnosis of cancer, for which a person has been rehabilitated or cured, on the basis of competent medical evidence.ⁿ²⁸¹ In addition, the term includes a perception that a person has a medical condition, or that a person is associated with someone who has or is perceived to have a medical condition.ⁿ²⁸² For discussion of discrimination on the basis of disability or medical condition, and the requirement of reasonable accommodation, see Chapter 41, Parts B and D.

Paragraph 4, in the form in [ii], below, is an optional paragraph stating that accommodation of plaintiff's physical or mental disability or medical condition would not constitute an undue hardship on defendant. "Undue hardship" is a defense to the duty to accommodate the disability or medical condition of an employee.ⁿ²⁸³

[ii] Form Allegations of Refusal to Accommodate Physical or Mental Disability or Medical Condition

1. Plaintiff has the following _____ [physical disability or mental disability or medical condition]:
_____ [specify disability, mental disability or medical condition that defendant refused to accommodate].

2. From _____ [date], until _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of employer] refused to reasonably accommodate to plaintiff's needs based on his/her _____ [physical disability or mental disability or medical condition] in the following manner: _____ [state actions taken by defendant or action defendant failed to take that constituted refusal to accommodate physical disability, mental disability or medical condition, e.g., Defendant would not accommodate plaintiff's need to leave work when necessary for treatment of plaintiff's medical condition].

3. At all times mentioned herein, plaintiff was willing and able to perform the duties and functions of his/her position if such reasonable accommodation had been made by defendant. At no time would the performance of the functions of the employment position, with a reasonable accommodation for plaintiff's _____ [physical disability or mental disability or medical condition], have been a danger to plaintiff's or any other person's health or safety.

[4. Accommodation of plaintiff's needs based on his/her _____ (physical disability or mental disability or medical condition) would not have imposed an undue hardship on defendant.]

[g] FORM--Allegation of Harassment in Violation of FEHA

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations relating to harassment based on an employee's or applicant's race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, or age over 40 years.ⁿ²⁸⁴ In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of, or in addition to, the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁸⁵ set forth in [9][b], above. It may also be combined with allegations of constructive discharge set forth in [c][ii], above, if appropriate.

An employer is liable for harassment not only by its agents and supervisors, but also by other employees and nonemployees if the employer (or its agents or supervisors) knows or should have known of the harassment and fails to take immediate and appropriate corrective action,ⁿ²⁸⁶ or if it fails to take all reasonable steps to prevent harassment from occurring.ⁿ²⁸⁷ The FEHC had interpreted the FEHA to encompass and to prohibit harassment even before the FEHA expressly prohibited it.ⁿ²⁸⁸ A number of FEHC decisions have addressed this prohibition in the context of sexual harassment.ⁿ²⁸⁹

A person who observes harassing conduct but is not the actual object of harassment may claim environmental harassment as long as he or she establishes that the conduct permeated his or her own direct work environment. A plaintiff must establish that he or she personally witnessed harassing conduct, and that it was in his or her immediate work environment. The plaintiff must plead sufficient facts to establish a nexus between alleged harassment of others, his or her observations of the harassing conduct, and the work context in which it occurred.ⁿ²⁹⁰ In one such case, a court held that a plaintiff did not state facts sufficient to establish a cause of action because her complaint only described in general terms what acts occurred and where they occurred, and only alleged in a conclusory manner that the plaintiff saw the defendant sexually harass others. The complaint was deficient because it did not indicate the frequency or intensity of the acts or the circumstances under which the plaintiff observed them.ⁿ²⁹¹

For full discussion of the prohibition against harassment, see Chapter 41, Part D.

[ii] Form Allegation of Harassment in Violation of FEHA

[EITHER]

1. _____ [Defendant _____ (name of employer) and/or Defendant's agent(s) and supervisor(s) _____ (name(s))] engaged in the following actions with the intent of harassing plaintiff on account of his/her _____ [specify protected group characteristic, e.g., race]:
 _____ [specify in detail actions taken by defendant that constitute harassment].

[AND/OR]

1. Defendant's employee(s) _____ [name(s)] engaged in the following actions with the intent of harassing plaintiff on account of his/her _____ [specify protected group characteristic, e.g., race]:
 _____ [specify in detail actions taken by defendant that constitute harassment].
 _____ [_____ (Defendant and/or Defendant's agent(s) and supervisor(s) _____ (name(s))) knew or should have known of these harassing actions because _____ (state basis of actual or constructive knowledge of defendant, its agents, and/or its supervisors)).
 Despite defendant's _____ (actual or constructive) knowledge of the above-mentioned harassment, (and the knowledge of his/her/its supervisors and agents,) defendant failed to take immediate and appropriate corrective action to stop the harassment and/or Before the harassment occurred, defendant failed to take all reasonable steps to prevent such harassment from occurring].

[h] FORM--Allegation of Discrimination on Account of Pregnancy

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains an allegation relating to discrimination by an employer against a female employee because of pregnancy, childbirth, or any related medical condition.ⁿ²⁹² In an appropriate case, this allegation may be used in place of the allegations in Paragraphs 7-10 of the general complaint for violation of the FEHAⁿ²⁹³ set forth in [9][b], above.

In addition to prohibiting discrimination against female employees because of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical condition,ⁿ²⁹⁴ Government Code Section 12945 requires employers to grant unpaid leave to disabled pregnant employees for a reasonable period of time, not exceeding four months.ⁿ²⁹⁵ The United States Supreme Court held that the FEHA provision requiring unpaid leave and reinstatement is consistent with the nondiscrimination requirements in Title VII.ⁿ²⁹⁶

Government Code Section 12945 also requires that an employer comply with a pregnant employee's request, with the advice of her health care provider, for a reasonable accommodation or a transfer to a less strenuous or hazardous position for the duration of her pregnancy.ⁿ²⁹⁷

In addition, harassment because of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions is a form of prohibited sexual harassment under Government Code Section 12940(j).n298

For full discussion of equal employment opportunity requirements relating to pregnancy and childbirth, see Chapter 41, Parts B and D.

[ii] Form Allegation of Discrimination on Account of Pregnancy

[EITHER]

1. From _____ [date], until _____ [date], defendant _____ [name of employer] engaged in the following actions: _____ [specify each and every act of alleged discrimination or harassment, including such acts as failure to promote, failure to select for training program, discharging plaintiff from employment or from training program, discrimination in compensation or in terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, etc., as a result of plaintiff's pregnancy, child birth, or related medical condition]. The above conduct constituted unlawful _____ [discrimination or harassment] against plaintiff on account of plaintiff's _____ [pregnancy and/or childbirth and/or medical condition related to _____ (pregnancy and/or childbirth)] in violation of Government Code Sections 12490(h)(1), (3)(C), 12945(a).

[AND/OR]

1. On _____ [date], plaintiff informed defendant _____ [name of employer], through his/her/its agent _____ [name] that plaintiff was pregnant, that plaintiff expected to give birth on or about _____ [date], and that plaintiff requested a leave of absence from her duties for a reasonable period of time, not exceeding _____ [specify period not exceeding four months], beginning on _____ [date], on account of such pregnancy and childbirth. _____ [Defendant refused and failed to grant plaintiff permission to take such leave, or any other reasonable leave of absence, in violation of Government Code Section 12945(a) or Defendant purported to grant plaintiff her request for a pregnancy leave of absence. On _____ (date), the date when plaintiff and defendant had agreed that plaintiff's leave would expire, plaintiff reported for work at the appointed time. However, defendant informed plaintiff that her job was no longer available and that no other comparable position for plaintiff was available at that time. Defendant's failure to reinstate plaintiff violated Government Code Section 12945(c)(2)].

[AND/OR]

1. On _____ [date], plaintiff informed defendant _____ [name of employer], through his/her/its agent _____ [name], that plaintiff was pregnant and that plaintiff, with the advice of her health care provider, requested a reasonable accommodation for the duration of her pregnancy: _____ [specify accommodation other than transfer, e.g., to avoid lifting 15 lbs. or more]. Defendant refused to make such an accommodation for the plaintiff, and this refusal violated Government Code Section 12945(b)(1).

[AND/OR]

1. On _____ [date], plaintiff informed defendant _____ [name of employer], through his/her/its agent _____ [name] , that plaintiff was pregnant and that plaintiff, with the advice of her doctor, requested a transfer to a less strenuous/hazardous position with defendant for the duration of her pregnancy because her present position was too strenuous/hazardous to plaintiff during her pregnancy, in that _____ [specify] . Defendant refused to make such a temporary transfer of plaintiff, even though such positions were available. Defendant would not have had to create additional employment that defendant would not otherwise have created, nor would defendant have had to discharge any other employee, transfer any employee with more seniority, or promote any employee who was not qualified to perform his or her job to place plaintiff in such a position. The defendant's refusal to grant plaintiff's request violated Government Code Section 12945(b).

[i] FORM--Allegation of Improper Prohibition of Employee From Wearing Pants Based on Employee's Sex

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains an allegation relating to an employer's violation of the FEHA by prohibiting an employee from wearing pants on account of the employee's sex.ⁿ²⁹⁹ Employers may, however, require employees in a particular occupation to wear a uniform or a costume while the employee is portraying a specific character or dramatic role.ⁿ³⁰⁰ Also, the FEHC may exempt an employer from the requirements of Government Code Section 12947.5 for good cause shown.ⁿ³⁰¹ For discussion of dress codes generally, see Chapter 41, Part D.

[ii] Form

1. On _____ [date], defendant prohibited plaintiff from wearing pants to work for no reason other than the plaintiff's female gender. [Defendant did not and does not similarly prohibit male employees from wearing pants to work.] Defendant's actions are in violation of Government Code Section 12947.5.

[11] Common Grounds for Demurrer to FEHA Complaint

As discussed in [9][a][ii], above, a FEHA complaint may be subject to a demurrer under Code of Civil Procedure Sections 430.10 and 430.30(a).

The most common grounds for demurrers to FEHA complaints include the following:

1. Failure to exhaust administrative remedies;ⁿ³⁰²
2. The naming of a party who was not named in the DFEH charge;ⁿ³⁰³
3. Insufficient facts to constitute a cause of action for violation of the FEHA;ⁿ³⁰⁴ and
4. Failure to file either the DFEH complaint or the civil action complaint within the time periods for filing those complaints under the FEHA.ⁿ³⁰⁵

[12] FORM--Answer to Complaint for Violation of FEHA--General Form

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is an answer to a complaint for damages or injunctive relief for violation of the FEHA, containing the basic admissions, denials, and allegations for use in any answer for violation of the FEHA. For forms of affirmative defenses that may be added to the general form of answer, as appropriate, see [13], below.

The answer must contain (1) general or specific denials of the material allegations of the complaint that are controverted by the defendant, and (2) a statement of any new matter constituting a defense.ⁿ³⁰⁶ⁿ³⁰⁷ If the complaint is verified, the answer must also be verified.ⁿ³⁰⁸ If the complaint is not verified, a general denial is sufficient but only puts in issue the material allegations of the complaint.ⁿ³⁰⁹ If the complaint is verified, the denial of the allegations must be made positively or according to the information and belief of the defendant.ⁿ³¹⁰ If the defendant has no information or belief on the subject sufficient to enable him or her to answer an allegation of the complaint, he or she may so state in his or her answer and place his or her denial on that ground.ⁿ³¹¹ A defendant may deny an allegation by reference to specific paragraphs or by express admission of certain allegations of the complaint, with a general denial of all allegations not so admitted.ⁿ³¹² A defendant also may deny certain allegations on information and belief, or for lack of sufficient information or belief, with a general denial of all allegations not so denied or expressly admitted.ⁿ³¹³ Any material allegation of the complaint that is not controverted by the answer is, for purposes of the action, deemed to be true.ⁿ³¹⁴

For additional general discussion of the format and rules relating to answers in civil actions, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 26, Answers (Matthew Bender).

[b] Form SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF _____

[or other as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	ANSWER TO COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
_____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR EMPLOYMENT
	)	DISCRIMINATION
	)	(Fair Employment and
	)	Housing Act)

Defendant answers the complaint and alleges as follows:

[EITHER, if complaint is unverified (general denial)]

Pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure Section 431.30, defendant _____ [name], in answer to plaintiff's unverified complaint, generally denies each and every allegation of the complaint and further specifically denies that plaintiff has suffered any injury or damages of any kind attributable in any way to an act or omission of defendant.

[OR, alternative answer for verified or unverified complaints]

1. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that it is an employer as defined by the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, Government Code Section 12926(d), as alleged in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of said Paragraph _____.

2. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that plaintiff _____ [was or is] an _____ [employee or applicant for employment], as alleged in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

3. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that plaintiff is a _____ [state plaintiff's membership in group protected by statute against which plaintiff claimed discrimination, e.g., black person, female, disabled person, person over age of 40 years, etc.], as alleged in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

4. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that the events alleged in Paragraph(s) _____ [- _____] of plaintiff's complaint occurred as alleged. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

5. Defendant denies each and every allegation in Paragraph(s) _____ [- _____] of plaintiff's complaint [except that defendant admits that _____ (specify)].

6. Defendant is without sufficient information and belief to admit any of the allegations in Paragraph(s) _____ [- _____] of plaintiff's complaint, and on this basis, defendant denies each such allegation.

[7. Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in plaintiff's complaint that is not expressly admitted herein.]

[Insert affirmative defenses, if any. see [13], below.]

WHEREFORE, defendant prays judgment as follows:

1. That the complaint of plaintiff against defendant herein be dismissed;
2. That plaintiff take nothing by reason of his/her complaint;
3. That plaintiff be granted no relief in this action;
4. That defendant have judgment against plaintiff;
5. That defendant recover costs of suit incurred herein;
6. That defendant recover reasonable attorney's fees and costs, including expert witness fees, incurred herein, pursuant to Government Code Section 12965(b); and
7. For such other relief as this court may deem just and proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Defendant

[Add verification in superior court action, if complaint was verified. see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446, 2015.5.]

[13] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of FEHA

[a] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Failure to Exhaust Administrative Remedies

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the plaintiff failed to exhaust the requisite administrative remedies under the FEHA.ⁿ³¹⁵ If plaintiff's failure to exhaust does not appear on the face of the complaint, defendant may raise this defect by way of an affirmative defense of failure to exhaust administrative remedies.ⁿ³¹⁶ If the defect appears on the face of the complaint, defendant may raise it by way of demurrer.ⁿ³¹⁷

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that plaintiff has failed to exhaust the administrative remedies required under the Fair Employment and Housing Act, in that _____ [plaintiff has failed to file a timely complaint with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing, or for 90 days thereafter if a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice first obtained knowledge of the facts of the alleged unlawful practice after the expiration of one year from the date of its occurrence, or for up to one year following a rebutted presumption of the identity of the person's employer under Government Code Section 12928, or within one year from the date that plaintiff attained the age of majority, as required by Government Code Section 12960 and/or plaintiff has failed to obtain a notice of the right to bring a civil action from the Department of Fair Employment and Housing, as required by Government Code Section 12965(b)].

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Failure to File Within Limitation Period

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense that the plaintiff failed to file his or her complaint within the limitation periods of the FEHA.ⁿ³¹⁸ If the defect appears on the face of the complaint, defendant may raise it by way of demurrer.ⁿ³¹⁹ For discussion of statute of limitations, see [4], above.

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that plaintiff's complaint herein is barred because he/she failed to file his/her _____ [administrative complaint with the Department of Fair Employment and Housing within one year after the date of the alleged unlawful acts complained of, or for 90 days thereafter if a person allegedly aggrieved by an unlawful practice first obtained knowledge of the facts of the alleged unlawful practice after the expiration of one year from the date of its occurrence, or for up to one year following a rebutted presumption of the identity of the person's employer under Government Code Section 12928, or within one year from the date that plaintiff attained the age of majority, as required by Government Code Section 12960 and/or civil complaint in this action within one year after the date of the notice of right to file a civil action issued by the Department of Fair Employment and Housing, as required by Government Code Section 12965(b)].

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Complaint Failed to State Cause of Action

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the complaint fails to state a cause of action under the FEHA. The exact application of this affirmative defense will vary with the nature of the discrimination or retaliation alleged in the complaint. The complaint must set forth facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, and the defect may be raised by demurrer or by affirmative defense in the answer.ⁿ³²⁰

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in that _____ [specify particular deficiencies].

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff's Action Is Barred by Laches[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that plaintiff's action should be barred because of undue delay in bringing the action that has caused prejudice to defendant ("laches"). As with Title VII, the FEHA is an equitable statute that is subject to equitable defenses such as laches. There is authority that lack of diligence may be a defense, where the claimant seeks to come within the concept of equitable tolling of one of the administrative time limitations under the FEHA.ⁿ³²¹ Delays on the part of the FEHC or the DFEH, however, do not give rise to the laches defense.ⁿ³²²

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that [even if plaintiff's action is not barred by the time limitations set forth in Government Code Sections 12960 and 12965(b),] plaintiff's action should be barred by the doctrine of laches because plaintiff unreasonably delayed bringing his/her action against defendant, which substantially prejudiced defendant, in that _____ [specify].

[e] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Bona Fide Occupational Qualification (BFOQ)[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that a bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ) exists.ⁿ³²³ An employer asserting the BFOQ defense can justify its exclusion of a protected group because the individuals in that group would not be able to perform the particular job safely and efficiently, and the business operation would thus be undermined.ⁿ³²⁴ For discussion of the BFOQ defense, see Chapter 41, Part E.

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the practice alleged by plaintiff to be discriminatory is justified by a bona fide occupational qualification, in that _____ [specify, e.g., all or substantially all _____ (specify protected class, e.g., women) could not perform the duties of the position of _____ (specify) in a safe and efficient manner, because _____ (specify reasons), and the essence of defendant's business operation would therefore be undermined if defendant were required to employ _____ (specify protected class, e.g., women) in such positions].

[f] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Business Necessity[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the defense of business necessity exists. This defense applies to a disparate-impact challenge of a facially neutral policy or practice of the defendant,ⁿ³²⁵ if the employer can show that the policy or practice is necessary to the safe and efficient operation of the business and that no other policy with a lesser discriminatory impact would serve as well.ⁿ³²⁶

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above. For further discussion of the business-necessity defense, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[ii] Affirmative Defense Based on Business Necessity

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the practice complained of by plaintiff, namely _____ [specify practice alleged in complaint to be discriminatory], is permissible and is not a violation of the Fair Employment and Housing Act, because an overriding legitimate business purpose exists, namely _____ [specify business purpose], which makes this practice necessary to the safe and efficient operation of defendant's business. This practice fulfills such a business purpose and is the only reasonable practice that could accomplish this purpose [in that _____ (add facts documenting necessity of practice, if desired)].

[g] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Job-Relatedness

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense to a disparate-impact challenge of a facially neutral selection procedure or test. The defense asserts that the challenged procedure or test was "job-related," which means sufficiently related to an essential function of the job in question to warrant its use notwithstanding its disparate impact on the protected class to which plaintiff belongs.ⁿ³²⁷

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above. For discussion of the defense of job-relatedness generally, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant's practice of _____ [specify testing or selection device claimed by plaintiff to have adverse impact on plaintiff] is permissible under the Fair Employment and Housing Act because it is related to an essential function of the job in question, in that _____ [state facts showing relationship of defendant's procedure to job].

[h] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Security Regulations Mandate Employment Practice

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that although the employment practice complained of may operate in a discriminatory manner, it conforms to applicable federal or state security regulations.ⁿ³²⁸

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above. For discussion of security regulations as a defense, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the employment practice that plaintiff alleges operates in a discriminatory manner towards plaintiff is a lawful employment practice because it conforms to the following security regulations established by government of _____ [the United States and/or the State of California]: _____ [cite specific security regulations].

[i] FORM--Affirmative Defense of Affirmative Action Plan, Nondiscrimination Plan, Court Order, or Other Legal Mandate

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the challenged employment practice was implemented pursuant to a lawful affirmative action plan, nondiscrimination plan, court order, or other legal mandate.n329

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above. For discussion of this defense, see Chapter 41, Part E, and Chapter 44.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the employment practice complained of by plaintiff, namely _____ [specify] is lawful notwithstanding any showing of discrimination, because it conforms to _____ [specify, e.g., a lawful affirmative action plan]. A copy of this _____ [specify, e.g., affirmative action plan] is appended hereto, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth.

[j] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employee or Applicant Cannot Perform Duties

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the plaintiff cannot perform the essential functions required of the position.n330 This defense may arise when a plaintiff claims discrimination based on physical or mental disability or medical condition.n331

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above. For discussion of this defense generally, see Chapter 41, Parts B and E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant _____ [refused to hire or discharged] plaintiff because plaintiff, as a result of his/her _____ [disability or medical condition], is unable to perform the essential duties of the position _____ [for which he/she applied or from which he/she was discharged], even with reasonable accommodation.

[k] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employee or Applicant Would Endanger Health or Safety

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the plaintiff, because of a physical or mental disability or a medical condition, cannot perform the essential duties of the position for which he or she applied, or from which he or she was discharged, without endangering the health or safety of plaintiff or others, even with reasonable accommodation.n332

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [12][b], above. For discussion of this defense generally, see Chapter 41, Parts B and F.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant _____ [refused to hire or discharged] plaintiff because plaintiff, as a result of his/her _____ [_____ physical/mental disability or medical condition], is unable to perform the essential duties of the position _____ [for which he/she applied or from which he/she was discharged] in a manner that would not endanger plaintiff's health or safety or the health or safety of others, even with reasonable accommodation.

[I] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Accommodation Would Cause Undue Hardship to Employer

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that it would cause undue hardship for the defendant to accommodate the plaintiff because of the plaintiff's physical or mental disability, medical condition, or religious beliefs.n333

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [13][b], above. For discussion of this defense, see Chapter 41, Parts D and F.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the accommodation sought by plaintiff for his/her _____ [disability or medical condition or religious _____ (belief or observance)] would impose an undue hardship on defendant in that such an accommodation would _____ [be unduly costly or burdensome or so negatively impact the operation of the business in the following manner: _____ (specify)].

[m] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff Failed to Mitigate Damages

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the plaintiff failed to act reasonably to mitigate his or her damages.n334

Where appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [13][b], above. For discussion of mitigation of back-pay awards, see [8][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges upon information and belief that plaintiff has failed to act reasonably to mitigate the damages he/she has alleged in this action.

[14] Other Procedural Issues Under FEHA

[a] Removal From and Remand to State Court

An FEHA case may be removed to federal court if there is federal jurisdiction based on federal question or diversity of citizenship, or if one of the causes of action is totally preempted by a federal statute.n335

For a complete discussion of removal of state actions to federal courts generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal, Part II.

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYER'S PERSPECTIVE:

As a practical matter, it is in the defendant's interest to remove a case to federal court whenever possible. Federal procedure insures that a single judge, with the sustained assistance of law clerks, will adjudicate all aspects of the litigation, from the earliest motions to the end of trial, thereby gaining familiarity through continuity. Such familiarity may enhance the judge's willingness to dispose of a meritless case--or portions of it--before a full-blown trial. In contrast, state court procedure usually involves different judges for different adjudicative functions within the same case: one to hear discovery matters, another for law and motion, another for pretrial settlement conferences, and still another for trial. This makes it harder for the judge to see weaknesses in a case before trial, and the longer a case takes to litigate, the more costly it is. Thus, defendants are likely to press for federal jurisdiction if it enhances the likelihood of speedy resolution. Commentary by Erica B. Grubb.

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

State courts have concurrent jurisdiction with federal courts to hear Title VII claims.ⁿ³³⁶ Thus, a plaintiff may allege Title VII causes of action in state court along with his or her FEHA claims. However, it may not be in the plaintiff's interest to do so, because the defendant may then remove the action to federal court based on federal question jurisdiction.ⁿ³³⁷ Commentary by David M. Youngsmith.

[b] Pendent Jurisdiction

Under the doctrine of pendent jurisdiction, the federal courts may decide certain state-law claims if they share a "common nucleus of operative fact" with claims based on federal law that confer jurisdiction on the federal courts.ⁿ³³⁸ That is, if the plaintiff's claims, considered without regard to their federal or state character, would ordinarily be tried in one judicial proceeding, and if the federal issues are substantial, the federal court has the power to hear the state claims, as well as the federal claims.ⁿ³³⁹ The doctrine of pendent jurisdiction is based on judicial economy, convenience, and fairness to the litigants.ⁿ³⁴⁰ Thus, a FEHA cause of action may be pleaded and determined in federal court under the doctrine of pendent jurisdiction, even if the federal causes have been disposed of.ⁿ³⁴¹ However, if it appears that the state issues substantially predominate over the federal issues in a case, the state claims may be dismissed without prejudice and left for the state court to resolve.ⁿ³⁴²

The common-law doctrine of pendent jurisdiction has essentially been codified by the Judicial Improvements Act of 1990.ⁿ³⁴³

For a discussion of pendant jurisdiction generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal, Part II.

[c] Preemption of Other Causes of Action by FEHA

The FEHA does not preempt other state laws, including the common law, that prohibit or restrict employment discrimination unless those provisions provide less protection to the enumerated classes or persons covered under the FEHA.ⁿ³⁴⁴ Furthermore, although an employee must exhaust the FEHA administrative remedy before bringing a civil action under the FEHA or seeking any remedies provided by the FEHA,ⁿ³⁴⁵ exhaustion of the FEHA administrative remedy is not required before filing a civil action for damages alleging non-FEHA causes of action.ⁿ³⁴⁶

Thus, for example, the California Supreme Court has held that California Constitution, Article I, section 8, which provides that no person may be disqualified from entering or pursuing a business, profession, vocation, or employment because of sex, race, creed, color, or national or ethnic origin,ⁿ³⁴⁷ sets forth a fundamental public policy against employment discrimination on any of those grounds and may be the basis for a tort cause of action for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, independent of the FEHA.ⁿ³⁴⁸ As another example, a court of appeal has held that sexual harassment, if properly pled, may constitute the outrageous behavior element of a tort cause of action for intentional infliction of emotional distress.ⁿ³⁴⁹ For discussion of common-law causes of action for wrongful termination and related causes of action, see Chapters 60 and 63.

[c.1] Preemption of FEHA Claims by Workers' Compensation Exclusivity

Before 1998, it was an open question whether or not a plaintiff could maintain an action for disability discrimination under the FEHA when the disability occurred due to a workplace injury, or whether such claims must be brought under Labor Code Section 132a. While some earlier cases found that such claims were preempted by the exclusivity of the workers' compensation law,ⁿ³⁵⁰ these cases were decided prior to amendments to the FEHA, effective January 1, 1994, to incorporate language to make its disability provisions similar to the ones set forth in the ADA.

Prior to the amendments, Government Code Section 12993(a) stated: "Nothing contained in this part shall be deemed to repeal any of the provisions of the Civil Rights Law or any other law of the state relating to discrimination because of ... physical disability. ..." The amendments added the phrase: "unless those provisions provide less protection to the enumerated classes or persons covered under this part" to this subsection.ⁿ³⁵¹

After the enactment of this amendment, California appellate courts handed down radically differing opinions on whether it implicitly repealed Labor Code 132a.ⁿ³⁵² In City of Moorpark v. Superior Court,ⁿ³⁵³ the California Supreme Court concluded that Labor Code Section 132a does not provide an exclusive remedy precluding an employee from pursuing FEHA and common law wrongful discharge remedies.ⁿ³⁵⁴ Further, the Court expressly disapproved any cases that suggest the contrary.ⁿ³⁵⁵

Rejecting the court of appeal's reasoning, the Court did not base its decision on the effect of the 1993 amendment. Rather, the Court based its decision on two grounds. First, the Court distinguished Section 132a from other workers' compensation remedies: most workers' compensation remedies compensate an employee for a medical injury, whereas Section 132a addresses a breach of an employee's civil rights and applies regardless of whether or not a medical injury results. Because of this distinction, the Court saw no reason to treat Section 132a like other workers' compensation remedies.ⁿ³⁵⁶

Second, the Court noted that the scope of workers' compensation exclusivity depends on the terms of the exclusive remedy provisions, not the existence of the workers' compensation remedy. By their specific language, Labor Code Sections 3600 and 3602(a) are limited to provisions in Division 4. However, Section 132a is in Division 1. Thus, by the plain language of the Labor Code's provisions, exclusivity is limited to Division 4 remedies. Remedies placed in divisions other than Division 4 are simply not subject to the workers' compensation exclusive remedy provisions.ⁿ³⁵⁷

The Court further noted that the "compensation bargain" that forms the underlying basis for the workers' compensation exclusive remedy provisions is inapplicable to a termination in violation of Section 132a because, as in cases of racial and sexual discrimination, such a violation is contrary to public policy.ⁿ³⁵⁸ The Court also emphasized the distinctions between the terminology and definitions in the FEHA and Section 132a, concluding that a decision finding a violation under one does not necessarily establish a violation under the other; however, to the extent that the two overlap, double recovery is precluded.ⁿ³⁵⁹

In concluding that Section 132a does not provide an exclusive remedy, the Court also had to decide whether disability discrimination can form the basis of a common law tort action in violation of public policy. The Court applied a four-part test to determine whether a particular policy can support a common law wrongful discharge tort claim and concluded that the policy must be (1) delineated in either constitutional or statutory provisions; (2) public in the sense that it inures to the benefit of the public, rather than serving merely the interests of the individual; (3) well established at the time of the discharge; and (4) substantial and fundamental.ⁿ³⁶⁰ In Moorpark, the only element in question was whether the policy against disability discrimination was substantial and fundamental. Observing that disability discrimination is in many ways indistinguishable from race or sex discrimination, the Court noted that disability discrimination is distinct from other types of FEHA discrimination in that employers can escape liability if the employee is unable, with reasonable accommodation, to perform essential job functions.ⁿ³⁶¹ Nonetheless, if disabled employees can prove they can perform the job duties as effectively as nondisabled employees, taking into consideration any possibility of change in conditions as well as the employer's short and long term needs, then discrimination based on disability, like sex and age discrimination, violates a "substantial and fundamental" public policy and can form the basis of a common law wrongful discharge claim.ⁿ³⁶²

In Bagatti v. Department of Rehabilitation,ⁿ³⁶³ the court of appeal held that the workers' compensation exclusivity provision in Labor Code Section 3600 did not bar a FEHA action based on an employer's failure to accommodate under Government Code Section 12940(m). The court differentiated this action from the one in City of Moorpark, which was brought under the FEHA's general anti-discrimination provision,ⁿ³⁶⁴ and which held that Labor Code Section 132a was not an exclusive remedy. However, in City of Moorpark, the California Supreme Court had held that disability discrimination falls outside the compensation bargain and workers' compensation is not the exclusive remedy.ⁿ³⁶⁵ Thus, the Bagatti court held that the employer's unlawful practice of failure to accommodate a known disability fell outside the compensation bargain as well, so that workers' compensation was not the exclusive remedy.ⁿ³⁶⁶

[c.2] Barring of Claim by Treaty

An employment discrimination claim brought under state law may be barred by a treaty with a foreign country. However, in Haluck v. Ricoh Electronics, Inc.,^{n366.1} the Japanese Friendship, Commerce and Navigation Treaty of 1953,^{n366.2} particularly article VIII(1), which allows companies of either party to the treaty to engage, within the territories of the other party, accountants and other technical experts, executive personnel, attorneys, agents and other specialists of their choice,^{n366.3} did not bar an employment discrimination action by American employees of a Japanese company's wholly owned subsidiary in California.^{n366.4} In an earlier case, the court had found that the treaty did not apply to a domestically incorporated subsidiary of a Japanese corporation.^{n366.5}

[c.3] Governmental Discretionary Immunity

Governmental discretionary immunity under the Tort Claims Act^{n366.6} does not apply to employment discrimination actions under the FEHA against public entities as employers.^{n366.7} The Tort Claims Act applies to all public entities and their employees, including judges and other employees of the superior courts.^{n366.8} It permits private tort actions against government entities and employees when permitted by statute, but otherwise retains the general concept of immunity for government entities.^{n366.9} Government entities are generally liable for the acts of their employees.^{n366.10} Except as otherwise provided by statute, a public entity is not liable for an injury resulting from an act or omission of an employee of the public entity when the employee is immune from liability.^{n366.11}

Specific public employee immunities are set forth in the Tort Claims Act.^{n366.12} The discretionary act immunity statute^{n366.13} provides that, except as otherwise provided by statute, a public employee is not liable for an injury resulting from the employee's act or omission when the act or omission was the result of the exercise of the discretion vested in the employee, whether or not the employee abused that discretion.

In Caldwell v. Montoya,^{n366.14} a FEHA action was brought against individual school board members who voted to terminate the school district's superintendent. The California Supreme Court concluded that the Tort Claims Act discretionary act immunity prohibited suits under the FEHA against public employees or officials as individuals when the suit challenged a personnel action that amounted to "a basic policy decision," such as the selection or dismissal of the chief operating official of a school district. The trial court ruled correctly in sustaining the school board members' demurrers to the plaintiff's FEHA claims, because the personal immunity for discretionary acts applies even against liabilities imposed by prohibitory state statutes of general application such as FEHA, unless there is a clear indication of legislative intent that immunity be withdrawn in the particular case. There was no indication of a legislative intent that public employees be personally liable for decisions which violated the FEHA, making the individual school board members immune from suit.^{n366.15} Further, the public entity for which the individual public employee defendant works cannot itself be vicariously liable for the employee's actions to the extent the employee is immune from suit.^{n366.16} However, the Court expressly declined to decide whether a government employer as an entity is amenable to suit under FEHA despite the discretionary act immunity and Gov. Code § 815.2(b). The Court emphasized, in dictum, the distinction between the immunity provided by Gov. Code § 820.2, which eliminates any potential vicarious liability of a public entity, and the potential for direct liability of the employer as an entity.^{n366.17}

In DeJung v. Superior Court,^{n366.18} a 64-year-old former court commissioner sued the superior court for age discrimination based on its refusal to hire him for a full-time position as a commissioner, when it instead hired a 43-year old. The court held that the discretionary act immunity for public employees, when read together with Gov. Code § 815.2(b), did not provide the superior court as an entity with immunity from FEHA claims based on the discretionary acts of its judiciary in selecting appointees for commissioner positions. The court found that the inclusion of "the state or any political or civil subdivision of the state" within FEHA's definition of "employer"^{n366.19} constituted an express declaration of the Legislature's intent to subject public entities to liability for violations of FEHA, and was a clear indication of legislative intent that governmental discretionary immunity be withdrawn in the particular case of the FEHA. Although the constitutional and statutory power of courts to select subordinate judicial officers to assist judges in performing their duties^{n366.20} includes the discretion to determine which candidate for such a position was best suited to a court's needs at a given time, courts may not apply invidiously discriminatory criteria upon which other employers, including other government entities, are forbidden to rely.^{n366.21}

[c.4] Evidentiary Issues

In Beyda v. City of Los Angeles,^{n366.22} an action for alleged workplace sexual harassment, the court barred the employee's evidence that some other employees also had been sexually harassed. The court found that the evidence, offered on the theory that an employer was likely to have committed the conduct at issue simply because it did the same thing before, went to propensity and so was inadmissible under Evid. Code § 1101(a).^{n366.23}

In Johnson v. United Cerebral Palsy/Spastic Children's Foundation of Los Angeles and Ventura Counties,^{n366.24} the court found that declarations by other former employees, to which the court referred as "me too" declarations, were admissible under Evid. Code § 1101(b) in an action by a former employee for alleged pregnancy discrimination based on the termination of her employment. The court distinguished Beyda, because Beyda only barred admission of "me too" evidence under Evid. Code § 1101(a) as evidence of propensity, and did not address whether the evidence could be admitted under Evid. Code § 1101(b), which allows evidence that a person committed a crime, civil wrong, or other act when relevant to prove a fact such as motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, absence of mistake or accident, other than the person's disposition to commit the act. The court noted that federal courts in employment discrimination actions have held that "me too" evidence is admissible under Fed. R. Evid. 404(b), which prohibits evidence of other crimes, wrongs, or acts to prove the character of a person to show action in conformity therewith, but provides that such evidence may be admissible for other purposes, such as proof of motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, or absence of mistake or accident, to show intent or motive, for the purpose of casting doubt on an employer's stated reason for an adverse employment action and thereby creating a triable issue of material fact as to whether the stated reason was merely a pretext and the actual reason was wrongful under employment law.^{n366.25} The "me too" evidence was per se admissible under both relevance and Evid. Code § 352 standards. It set out factual scenarios related by former employees sufficiently similar to the one presented by the plaintiff concerning her own discharge to be admissible under Evid. Code § 1101(b), and the probative value of the evidence clearly outweighed any prejudice the employer would suffer by its admission. Dissimilarities between the facts in the declarations and the facts asserted by plaintiff with regard to her own case went to the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility.

[d] Availability of Jury Trial Under FEHA

The FEHA contains no express provision for a jury trial, nor does it prohibit one.ⁿ³⁶⁷ Although the California Constitution provides that "[t]rial by jury is an inviolate right and shall be secured to all,"ⁿ³⁶⁸ courts have interpreted this provision to mean that jury trials are guaranteed in those types of civil cases in which there was a common-law right to a jury in 1850.ⁿ³⁶⁹ Nevertheless, one court of appeal has held that there is a right to a jury trial in civil actions under the FEHA.ⁿ³⁷⁰

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

Although there is no specific authority for jury trials in FEHA cases, requests for jury trials in FEHA actions are frequently not opposed. General procedures for making the demand for jury trial in any civil action should be followed. Failure to do so or to post jury fees may be deemed a waiver of the right.ⁿ³⁷¹ Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

[e] Jury Instructions and Special Verdict Forms

The Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions ("CACI") contain specific instructions for actions under FEHA.ⁿ³⁷² CACI are the official instructions for the State of California, authored and endorsed by the Judicial Council. The California Rules of Court strongly encourage their use.ⁿ³⁷³ The CACI also contain special verdict forms for actions under FEHA.ⁿ³⁷⁴ For discussion of the CACI jury instructions, see § 61.05. For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

The CACI contain general jury instructions on, for example, burden of proof, as "fill-in-the-blank" instructions.ⁿ³⁷⁵ In an age discrimination action alleging a wrongful demotion, the trial court instructed the jury as proposed by the plaintiff, giving the defendant the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence all of the facts necessary to establish that in demoting the plaintiff its conduct was done in good faith and for a proper business purpose. The appellate court held that the instruction as given was wrong, because the defendant does not carry the burden of persuasion in a disparate treatment discrimination case, whether the case is a pretext or mixed motive case. Further, the instruction error was prejudicial because it may have misled the jury.ⁿ³⁷⁶ In an age discrimination retaliation action, the trial court erred in instructing the jury on what the employee had to prove to establish his claim, because the instruction failed to include language that the employer's retaliatory conduct must have had a substantial and material adverse effect on the terms and conditions of employment. However, the employer failed to show that it was reasonably probable that the employer would have obtained a more favorable result, because the instruction required jurors to find that the retaliation was a substantial factor that caused harm to the employee, and the court gave a special instruction advising jurors that they could not interfere with the employer's legitimate exercise of management discretion; they should not judge the employer's managers' reasons for their decisions based on what jurors felt they would have done; and they should defer to the employer's management discretion unless they found the employer was motivated by retaliation. The combined effect of the instructions required jurors to decide the retaliation issue by excluding employer conduct that would be considered trivial. Also, the employer's actions had a substantial and material impact on the conditions of employment, and the jury found the employer's actions were more than retaliatory, they were egregious (as shown by the findings on punitive damages).ⁿ³⁷⁷

Prior to the promulgation of the CACI, courts instructed juries in FEHA actions with instructions from the BAJI, California Jury Instructions, Civil: Book of Approved Jury Instructions, which courts continue to use.ⁿ³⁷⁸

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
General Overview
Labor & Employment Law
U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
Enforcement
General Overview
Public Health & Welfare Law
Housing & Public Buildings
Fair

Housing

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.

(n2)Footnote 2. See Gov. Code § 12965(b), (c)(1). For discussion of administrative procedures under the FEHA, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12940(a).

(n4)Footnote 3.1. Gov. Code § 12940(m); see Bagatti v. Department of Rehabilitation (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 344, 353-357, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 .

(n5)Footnote 4. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n6)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12940(a); see Gov. Code § 12940(c), (d). Discrimination on these bases by labor unions is also prohibited. see Gov. Code § 12940(b).

(n7)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12945.

(n8)Footnote 7. Gov. Code § 12940(h).

(n9)Footnote 8. See Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 ; see also Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 860 F.2d 1514, 1517-1518 (construing FEHA).

(n10)Footnote 9. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a.

(n11)Footnote 10. Yellow Freight Sys. v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834, 838 .

(n12)Footnote 11. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343(a)(4), 1441(a); see also discussion in [14][a], below, and in 43.10[14][a][i].

(n13)Footnote 12. See, e.g., Hersant v. Department of Social Servs. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1002-1004, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (age discrimination); Ibarbia v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1326, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92 .

(n14)Footnote 13. See, e.g., University of Southern California v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1035-1036, 272 Cal. Rptr. 264 (disparate treatment); Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317-1318, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (disparate treatment); Ibarbia v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1327, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92 (disparate treatment); City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 985-987, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (disparate impact); County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 505-506, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 (disparate treatment). Although Title VII and the FEHA differ in some particulars, their objectives are identical, and California courts often rely on federal law to interpret analogous FEHA provisions. see Baker v. Children's Hospital Medical Center (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1062, 257 Cal. Rptr. 768 .

(n15)Footnote 14. See McDonnell Douglas v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (disparate treatment); Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 431-432, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 (disparate impact).

(n16)Footnote 15. See Ibarbia v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1326 n.5, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92 ; see also Price v. Civil Service Comm'n (1980) 26 Cal. 3d 257, 276, 161 Cal. Rptr. 475, 604 P.2d 1365 .

(n17)Footnote 16. See Watson v. Department of Rehabilitation (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1271, 1290, 261 Cal. Rptr. 204 (disparate treatment).

(n18)Footnote 17. See DFEH v. Church's Fried Chicken (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-11 (rejecting McDonnell Douglas disparate treatment framework as "unnecessary and artificial"); see also Watson v. Department of Rehabilitation (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1271, 1290, 261 Cal. Rptr. 204 (citing Church's Fried Chicken with approval). but see Nesbit v. Pepsico, Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 703, 704 (Church's test is restricted to FEHC and is not applicable to California courts).

(n19)Footnote 18. See Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) ; see also Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (Title VII) .

(n20)Footnote 19. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 334-335, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 ; Segar v. Smith (D.C. Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1249, 1265-1266, 238 U.S. App. D.C. 103 . "Pattern or practice" cases involve a pattern of conduct in which an employer has intentionally discriminated against the plaintiff's protected class as a class. see Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n21)Footnote 20. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (Title VII) ; Atonio v. Wards Cove Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 1477, 1480 (en banc), rev'd on other grounds, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 (1989) (Title VII) ; Segar v. Smith (D.C. Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1249, 1265-1266 (Title VII) .

(n22)Footnote 21. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 ; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n23)Footnote 22. See University of Southern California v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1035-1036, 272 Cal. Rptr. 264 ; Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 ; Ibarbia v. Regents of University of California (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1327, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92 .

(n24)Footnote 23. Watson v. Department of Rehabilitation (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1271, 1290, 261 Cal. Rptr. 204 ; see DFEH v. Church's Fried Chicken (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-11.

(n25)Footnote 24. Mixon v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) ; see Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (Title VII; proof of discriminatory motive is critical, although it can in some situations be inferred from mere fact of differences in treatment).

(n26)Footnote 25. See Rosenfeld v. Southern Pac. Co. (9th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1223 (Title VII; woman denied employment assignment on ground that women, considered generically, are not physically or biologically suited for assignment).

(n27)Footnote 26. See Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 121, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 (age-based disqualification of airline captains as violating ADEA).

(n28)Footnote 27. See Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317-1318, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) .

(n29)Footnote 28. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n30)Footnote 29. If direct evidence is available, the McDonnell Douglas test is inapplicable. Trans World

Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 121, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523, 533 (ADEA) .

(n31)Footnote 30. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 252-253, 256, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (Title VII) ; Am. Fed. of S., C., & Mun. Emp. v. State of Wash. (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1401, 1406 (Title VII) .

(n32)Footnote 31. See Gov. Code §§ 12926(b), (h), (i), (k), (o), (p), 12940(a), 12945(a). This protected class includes persons about whom a perception exists that the person has any of these characteristics or that the person is associated with individuals who have (or are perceived to have) any of these characteristics. Gov. Code § 12926(m). For full discussion of the scope of these protected characteristics, see ch. 41, pt. B.

(n33)Footnote 32. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; see Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) . For the standard jury instruction on the essential factual elements of a cause of action for disparate treatment under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2500 (general instruction) (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions; Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2540 (disability discrimination) (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for disparate treatment, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2500 (general) (Matthew Bender); Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2508 (disability discrimination disparate treatment) (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

(n34)Footnote 33. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 254, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (Title VII) ; Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1318, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) ; but see Johnson Controls, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1990) 218 Cal. App. 3d 517, 545, 267 Cal. Rptr. 158 (FEHA; refusing to adopt analysis that holds that "overt, facial discrimination" creates only presumption of discrimination).

(n35)Footnote 34. Texas Dep't. of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (Title VII) .

(n36)Footnote 35. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (Title VII) ; Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1318, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) ; see University of Southern California v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1035, 272 Cal. Rptr. 264 (FEHA) .

(n37)Footnote 36. St. Mary's Honor Ctr. v. Hicks (1993) 509 U.S. 502, 506, 113 S. Ct. 2742, 125 L. Ed. 2d 407 (Title VII) ; see Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 253-254, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (Title VII) ; Hersant v. Department of Social Servs. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1003, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (FEHA age discrimination); Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1318-1319, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) .

(n38)Footnote 37. St. Mary's Honor Ctr. v. Hicks (1993) 509 U.S. 502, 506, 113 S. Ct. 2742, 125 L. Ed. 2d 407 (Title VII) ; Hersant v. Department of Social Servs. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1003, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (FEHA age discrimination; after employer offers evidence justifying adverse action on proper basis, burden shifts back to employee).

(n39)Footnote 38. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 253, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (Title VII) ; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 804, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (Title VII) ; Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1318-1319, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) ; see University of Southern California v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1035, 272 Cal. Rptr. 264 (FEHA) .

(n40)Footnote 39. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 256, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (Title VII); Hersant v. Department of Social Servs. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1004, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (FEHA age discrimination; employee must rebut employer's nondiscriminatory reason with substantial evidence of its falsity, present other evidence suggesting discriminatory basis, or combination of both); Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1318-1319, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA) .

(n41)Footnote 40. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(m) (Title VII); cf. Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1319, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA; plaintiff need not prove racial animus was sole reason behind challenged action, but must prove by preponderance of evidence that there was "causal connection" between plaintiff's protected status and adverse employment decision). Note, however, that under Title VII, if the employer can prove that it would have taken the same action even in the absence of the impermissible motivating factor, the relief that may be awarded is limited. see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B). For further discussion, see § 43.10[9][h], [13][e].

(n42)Footnote 41. See University of Southern California v. Superior Court (1990) 222 Cal. App. 3d 1028, 1035-1036, 272 Cal. Rptr. 264; Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1317-1320, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884; Robinson v. Hewlett-Packard Corp. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1108, 1125-1126, 228 Cal. Rptr. 591; County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 505-506, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 .

(n43)Footnote 42. See Ibarbia v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1328, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92; see also Williams v. Edward Appfels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1488 (construing FEHA; observing that FEHC has stated that "causal connection" may be satisfied by establishing inference of discrimination under McDonnell Douglas, or by other competent evidence).

(n44)Footnote 43. DFEH v. Church's Fried Chicken (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-11; see DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 16; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 5.

(n45)Footnote 44. See Watson v. Department of Rehabilitation (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1271, 1290, 261 Cal. Rptr. 204 (citing Church's Fried Chicken with approval); DFEH v. Church's Fried Chicken (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-11; see also Rose v. Wells Fargo & Co. (9th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 1417, 1425 (discrimination claim fails under test in Church's Fried Chicken when there is no evidence to suggest that age was factor in discharge decisions). but see Nesbit v. Pepsico, Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 994 F.2d 703, 704 (Church's test is restricted to FEHC and is not applicable to California courts).

(n46)Footnote 45. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (Title VII); City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 985-987, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (FEHA) .

(n47)Footnote 46. See [b], above.

(n48)Footnote 47. See Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n49)Footnote 48. See, e.g., Ibarbia v. Regents of University of California (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1327, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92; City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 985-987, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n50)Footnote 49. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 (Title VII) .

(n51)Footnote 50. See Albamarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 (Title VII); Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 (Title VII); see also Harris v. Civil Service Com. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 1356, 1368 (when undisputed evidence showed dramatic disparate impact of employment test--far below invalidity threshold of four-fifths rule--commission refused to use or validate test; courts cannot compel validation study through administrative mandate for benefit of one protected group when agency has properly exercised discretion to cancel test shown to have disparate impact on another protected group); City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (FEHA) .

(n52)Footnote 51. See Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 (Title VII) .

(n53)Footnote 52. See Atonio v. Wards Cove Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 1477 (en banc) , rev'd on other grounds, 490 U.S. 642 (1989) (Title VII).

(n54)Footnote 53. See Watson v. Ft. Worth Bank & Trust (1988) 487 U.S. 977, 989-991, 108 S. Ct. 2777, 101 L. Ed. 2d 827 (Title VII) .

(n55)Footnote 54. See [b], above.

(n56)Footnote 55. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (Title VII) ; Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 432, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 (Title VII) ; Clady v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1421, 1427 (Title VII) ; Ibarbia v. Regents of University of California (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1329, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92(FEHA) ; City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 985, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (FEHA) .

(n57)Footnote 56. Connecticut v. Teal (1982) 457 U.S. 440, 446, 102 S. Ct. 2525, 73 L. Ed. 2d 130 (Title VII) ; Albamarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 (Title VII) ; City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 985, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (FEHA) ; see Ibarbia v. Regents of University of California (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1330, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92 (FEHA) . For the standard jury instruction on the essential factual elements of a cause of action for disparate impact under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2502 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the special verdict form for a claim of disparate impact, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2502 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

(n58)Footnote 57. See Clady v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1421, 1427 (Title VII) .

(n59)Footnote 58. See, e.g., City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 986-987, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716(FEHA) .

(n60)Footnote 59. See Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 650-651, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 (Title VII) ; Ibarbia v. Regents of University of California (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1330, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92(FEHA) .

(n61)Footnote 60. See City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 ; accord, 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(b) (FEHC regulation; defendant must prove (1) overriding legitimate business purpose for challenged employment practice; (2) practice is necessary to safe and efficient operation of business; and (3) challenged practice effectively fulfills business purpose it is supposed to serve); cf. 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e(m), 2000e-2(k)(1)(A)(i) (Title VII; if plaintiff demonstrates disparate impact, defendant must demonstrate that practice is "job related for the position in question and consistent with business necessity"; "demonstrate" means to meet the burdens of production and persuasion).

(n62)Footnote 61. See Connecticut v. Teal (1982) 457 U.S. 440, 447, 102 S. Ct. 2525, 73 L. Ed. 2d 130 ; Albamarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 .

(n63)Footnote 62. See City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 989-990, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n64)Footnote 63. See Gov. Code § 12940(h). For a discussion relating to the types of activities protected from retaliation, see ch. 41, pt. F.

(n65)Footnote 64. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; see [b], above.

(n66)Footnote 65. Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII and FEHA) ; see Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII; after defendant rebuts, plaintiff must be afforded fair opportunity to show that discriminatory intent motivated defendant's action by showing either that defendant's proffered explanation was pretext, or that discriminatory reason more likely motivated employer's action); Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 68, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA) ; see also Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 256-257, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (disparate treatment).

For the standard jury instruction on retaliation under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2505 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the special verdict form for a claim of retaliation under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2504 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

(n67)Footnote 66. Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII and FEHA) .

(n68)Footnote 67. Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 (Title VII and FEHA) ; Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII) ; Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 69, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (FEHA) ; Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hospital (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 614, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 (FEHA) .

(n69)Footnote 67.1. Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 67-68, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 .

(n70)Footnote 68. See DFEH v. Madera County (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-03, pp. 30-31 (FEHA); DFEH v. State University--Hayward (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-18, p. 19 (FEHA); DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 24 (FEHA).

(n71)Footnote 69. See Kauffman v. Sidereal Corp. (9th Cir. 1982) 695 F.2d 343, 345 (Title VII) .

(n72)Footnote 70. See Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 (Title VII) .

(n73)Footnote 71. For discussion of the effects of untimely charges, see [4][a], below.

(n74)Footnote 72. Gov. Code § 12960.

(n75)Footnote 73. Gov. Code § 12965(b). For discussion of right-to-sue letters, see ch. 42, pt. B. A right-to-sue notice is unnecessary if the employer has transferred the action pursuant to Gov. Code § 12965(c), which authorizes an employer to elect to transfer an FEHA administrative proceeding to court if the accusation contains a prayer for damages for emotional injuries as a component of actual damages, or for administrative fines, or for both. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(1). In such a case, the DFEH dismisses the accusation and files, or elects to have the Attorney General file, the action on behalf of the complaining party as the real party in interest. Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2). see Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal.4th 479, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 (under FEHA, employee must exhaust administrative remedy, filing complaint with DFEH and must obtain notice of right to sue to be entitled to file civil action based on violations of FEHA); Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 83, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 (right-to-sue notice is prerequisite to judicial action).

(n76)Footnote 73.1. Schifando v. City of Los Angeles (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1074, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457, 79 P.3d 569 (former employee alleging disability discrimination against city required only to file complaint with DFEH and receive right-to-sue letter, not required to exhaust administrative remedies under Charter of City of Los Angeles by filing demand for reinstatement with Board of Civil Service Commissioners and claim for compensation with City Clerk).

(n77)Footnote 73.2. Johnson v. City of Loma Linda (2000) 24 Cal. 4th 61, 65, 76, 99 Cal. Rptr. 2d 316, 5 P.3d 874 ; Miller v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 1373, 1379-1383, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 510 (having begun city's internal remedy procedure, municipal employee's notice of withdrawal/dismissal had no effect and employee was obligated to exhaust his judicial remedies but failed to do so, including failing to petition for administrative mandamus after administrative decision was rendered; thus, administrative decision was final and on merits, and consequently entitled to collateral estoppel effect; trial court properly sustained employer's demurrer to his complaint without leave to amend); Page v. Los Angeles County Probation Dept. (2004) 123 Cal. App. 4th 1135, 20 Cal. Rptr. 3d 598, 2004 Cal. App. LEXIS 1861, *10-*14 (after choosing civil service commission process and proceeding through three days of hearing over course of four months, resulting in comprehensive decision by hearing officer, municipal employee could not abandon administrative process and proceed to FEHA action for damages, but employee had to await final commission decision and, if adverse, file petition for writ of mandate in trial court to overturn commission decision).

(n78)Footnote 73.3. See Ahmadi-Kashani v. Regents of University of California (2008) 159 Cal. App. 4th 449, 456-461, 71 Cal. Rptr. 3d 556 (plaintiff's initiation of internal grievance process under collective bargaining agreement that provided for arbitration and her participation in process to extent of meeting with representative of employer to discuss her claims did not obligate her to complete process, where, because her participation in grievance process did not include quasi-judicial hearing, she remained free to walk away and pursue her FEHA claim in court); Ortega v. Contra Costa Community College Dist. (2007) 156 Cal. App. 4th 1073, 1080-1086, 67 Cal. Rptr. 3d 832 (where collective bargaining agreement governing plaintiff's employment relationship with community college district provided for multilevel grievance procedure, union exercised significant control over grievance, and collective bargaining agreement provided for arbitration of employee complaints, plaintiff's utilization of grievance process did not bar his state court FEHA actions against district; plaintiff's allegations in both demotion and termination cases that he timely filed complaint with DFEH was sufficient to plead exhaustion).

(n79)Footnote 74. Okoli v. Lockheed Technical Operations Co. (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1607, 1609, 1617, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 57 ; Bennett v. Borden, Inc. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 706, 709-710, 128 Cal. Rptr. 627 ; see Baker v. Children's Hospital Medical Center (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1062, 257 Cal. Rptr. 768 (exhaustion of administrative remedies is a jurisdictional prerequisite to civil action under FEHA); Yurick v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1116, 1121-1123, 257 Cal. Rptr. 665 (failure to exhaust administrative remedies undermines vital FEHA policy interests in resolving disputes and eliminating unlawful employment practices by conciliation); Miller v. United Airlines, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 878, 890, 220 Cal. Rptr. 684 (failure to exhaust administrative remedies is a jurisdictional defect and a ground for summary judgment). see discussion of demurrer to complaint at [11], below.

(n80)Footnote 75. See Hollon v. Pierce (1967) 257 Cal. App. 2d 468, 475-476, 64 Cal. Rptr. 808 (decided under former Fair Employment Practices Act).

(n81)Footnote 76. Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1718, 1729-1730, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 181 .

(n82)Footnote 77. Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1718, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 181 .

(n83)Footnote 78. Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1718, 1724, 1730, 35 Cal.

Rptr. 2d 181 .

(n84)Footnote 78.1. Grant v. Comp USA, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 637, 640-651, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177 .

(n85)Footnote 78.2. Grant v. Comp USA, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 637, 651, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177 .

(n86)Footnote 78.3. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 897 ; Yurick v. Superior Court (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1116, 1121-1123, 257 Cal. Rptr. 665 .

(n87)Footnote 78.4. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 897 . See also Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 243, 264-269 (plaintiff's extensive submission to DFEH was sufficient to create triable issue of fact as to whether he exhausted administrative remedies as to his claim of national-origin based harassment, where in both pre-complaint questionnaires, he expressly claimed to be victim of constant harassment so that thorough DFEH investigation would have uncovered great many particulars of alleged 14 continuous years of harassment and unfair treatment plaintiff received from manager and colleagues and hostile environment in which he worked).

(n88)Footnote 78.5. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 897 .

(n89)Footnote 79. See Baker v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1062-1065, 257 Cal. Rptr. 768 (FEHA; relying on federal cases decided under Title VII).

(n90)Footnote 80. Sandhu v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 26 Cal. App. 4th 846, 858-860, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 617 .

(n91)Footnote 80.1. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 896-898 .

(n92)Footnote 80.2. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 898-900 , citing Cole v. Antelope Valley Union High Sch. Dist. (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1505, 1515, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 .

(n93)Footnote 81. Hobson v. Raychem Corp. (1999) 73 Cal. App. 4th 614, 626-632, 86 Cal. Rptr. 2d 497 (because plaintiff acknowledged that ulcerative colitis did not prevent her from performing her job, condition was not qualifying disability as matter of law). Because the allegation of failure to accommodate must relate to a particular disability to have any significance, caution should be exercised in completing the DFEH charge so that all allegedly discriminatory conduct is covered. For further discussion, see ch. 42.

(n94)Footnote 82. Okoli v. Lockheed Technical Operations Co. (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1607, 1609, 1617, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 57 .

(n95)Footnote 83. Okoli v. Lockheed Technical Operations Co. (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1607, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 57 .

(n96)Footnote 84. See Oubichon v. North Am. Rockwell Corp. (9th Cir. 1973) 482 F.2d 569 .

(n97)Footnote 85. See Sanchez v. Standard Brands, Inc. (5th Cir. 1970) 431 F.2d 455 .

(n98)Footnote 85.1. See Okoli v. Lockheed Technical Operations Co. (1995) 36 Cal. App. 4th 1607, 1613, 43 Cal. Rptr. 2d 57 ; Martin v. Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. (1994) 29 Cal. App. 4th 1718, 1724, 35 Cal. Rptr. 2d 181 ; Miller v. United Airlines, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 878, 890, 220 Cal. Rptr. 684 .

(n99)Footnote 85.2. See Keiffer v. Bechtel Corp. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 893, 900-901, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 827 ; see also Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 ; Temengil v. Trust Territory of Pacific Islands (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 647, 654 ; Womble v. Bhangu (5th Cir. 1989) 864 F.2d

1212, 1213 ; Jackson v. Seaboard Coast Line R. Co. (11th Cir. 1982) 678 F.2d 992, 1005 .

(n100)Footnote 85.3. Grant v. Comp USA, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal. App. 4th 637, 644-645, 135 Cal. Rptr. 2d 177 (exhaustion requirement is at least precondition to bringing civil suit on FEHA claims, and employee's complaint alleged timely complaint to DFEH and receipt of right-to-sue letter; question is whether possession of right-to-sue notice was necessary element of exhaustion given DFEH's rescission of letter, failure to resolve case within one year and failure to issue second letter).

(n101)Footnote 85.4. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 898 ; see Gov. Code § 12920.

(n102)Footnote 85.5. *FEHC v. County of Alameda, Sheriff's Dep't, FEHC Dec. No. 81-13, 1981 CAFEHC LEXIS 12, 22 (Cal. F.E.H.C. July 2, 1981) (adding sex discrimination charge related back to timely-filed race discrimination charge, because all allegations were based on same operative facts).

(n103)Footnote 85.6. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 899-900 .

(n104)Footnote 86. Denney v. Universal City Studios, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1226, 1232-1234, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 170 (equitable exception to exhaustion requirement permitted plaintiff to advance claims not included in administrative charge), disapproved on other grounds, City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1156, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n105)Footnote 86.1. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 902 n.11 .

(n106)Footnote 86.2. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 901 , citing Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 696 & n.5; Addison v. State (1978) 21 Cal. 3d 313, 321, 146 Cal. Rptr. 224, 578 P.2d 941 .

(n107)Footnote 86.3. Rodriguez v. Airborne Express (9th Cir. 2001) 265 F.3d 890, 901-902 , citing Albano v. Schering-Plough Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 912 F.2d 384, 388 ; Denney v. Universal City Studios, Inc. (1992) 10 Cal. App. 4th 1226, 1234, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 170 .

(n108)Footnote 87. Keiffer v. Bechtel Corp. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 893, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 827 .

(n109)Footnote 88. Keiffer v. Bechtel Corp. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 893, 897-899, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 827 .

(n110)Footnote 89. Keiffer v. Bechtel Corp. (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 893, 899-900, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 827 .

(n111)Footnote 90. See Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 88, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 .

(n112)Footnote 91. See Gov. Code § 12960. For discussion of statute of limitations, see [4], below, and ch. 42, pt. A.

(n113)Footnote 92. See Gov. Code §§ 12930, 12963-12964; State Personnel Bd. v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 422, 428, 217 Cal. Rptr. 16, 703 P.2d 354 (DFEH can investigate, issue subpoenas, take depositions, and engage in discovery in furtherance of its fact-finding power, and can issue an accusation and act as prosecutor on complainant's behalf); Marshall v. Fair Employment Practice Commission (1971) 21 Cal. App. 3d 680, 681-685, 98 Cal. Rptr. 698, 701-702 (agency has broad discretion in handling complaints of discrimination). For discussion of authority of DFEH generally, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n114)Footnote 93. See Valdez v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1060-1061, 282 Cal. Rptr. 726 (upholding dismissal of civil action against individual defendants who were not named anywhere in the DFEH complaint).

(n115)Footnote 94. See Saavedra v. Orange County Consolidated Transp. etc. Agency (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 824, 826-828, 14 Cal. Rptr. 2d 282 (permitting civil action against defendant who was not named in the caption or the body of the DFEH charge, but who was identified in the body of the charge as the "man who demoted him"); Martin v. Fisher (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 118, 121-123, 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 922 (defendant not named in caption but who was named in body of administrative charge and who participated in administrative investigation could be sued).

(n116)Footnote 95. See Cole v. Antelope Valley Union High Sch. Dist. (1996) 47 Cal. App. 4th 1505, 1515, 55 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 .

(n117)Footnote 96. Matthews v. Superior Court (1995) 34 Cal. App. 4th 598, 599-600, 605-606, 40 Cal. Rptr. 2d 350 ; Page v. Superior Court (1995) 31 Cal. App. 4th 1206, 1213, 37 Cal. Rptr. 2d 529 .

(n118)Footnote 97. See Janken v. GM Hughes Electronics (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 55, 66, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741 ; see Le Bourgeois v. Fireplace Mfrs., Inc. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1049, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660 (supervisory personnel cannot be held individually liable for discrimination under ADA).

(n119)Footnote 98. Janken v. GM Hughes Electronics (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 55, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741 .

(n120)Footnote 99. See Janken v. GM Hughes Electronics (1996) 46 Cal. App. 4th 55, 64-72, 53 Cal. Rptr. 2d 741 (emphasis added; citing Gov. Code §§ 12940(a), former 12941(a) [now see Gov. Code § 12940(a)], prohibiting age discrimination, other forms of discrimination, 12926(d), definition of employer with regard to discrimination, and former 12940(h)(1), (now see Gov. Code § 12940(j)(1)) prohibiting harassment).

(n121)Footnote 100. Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 640, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333 .

(n122)Footnote 101. Gov. Code § 12940 et seq.

(n123)Footnote 102. Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 640, 657, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333 (supervisor not individually liable for discrimination based on apparent knowledge of plaintiff's cancer disease).

(n124)Footnote 103. Reno v. Baird (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 640, 663, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 499, 957 P.2d 1333 .

(n125)Footnote 104. Le Bourgeois v. Fireplace Mfrs., Inc. (1998) 68 Cal. App. 4th 1049, 80 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660 (Reno rationale mandated result; supervisory personnel cannot be held individually liable for wrongful discharge in violation of fundamental public policy under FEHA).

(n126)Footnote 105. Gov. Code § 12928.

(n127)Footnote 106. See Gov. Code § 12960; see Williams v. City of Belvedere (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 84, 90-93, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 658 (timely filing required even when discrimination first discovered more than 16 months after employee notified that he would not be hired). Gov. Code § 12960 also extends the period for one year for an action under the Ralph Civil Rights Act, Civ. Code 51.7 [see Ch. 40 § 40.12[2], to become aware of the identity of a person liable for the alleged violation.

(n128)Footnote 107. Miller v. United Airlines, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 878, 889-890, 220 Cal. Rptr. 684 ; see discussion at [3], above.

(n129)Footnote 108. Williams v. City of Belvedere (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 84, 90-93, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 658 (timely filing is a prerequisite to litigation; issuance of right to sue notice does not correct untimeliness of DFEH filing).

(n130)Footnote 109. Williams v. City of Belvedere (1999) 72 Cal. App. 4th 84, 84 Cal. Rptr. 2d 658 .

(n131)Footnote 110. Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d

234 .

(n132)Footnote 111. See Serpe v. Four-Phase Systems, Inc. (9th Cir. 1983) 718 F.2d 935, 937 ; Williams v. Owens-Illinois Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 665 F.2d 918, 924 ; Watson v. Department of Rehabilitation (1989) 212 Cal. App. 3d 1271, 1290-1291, 261 Cal. Rptr. 204 ; see also § 43.10[6][a][ii].

(n133)Footnote 112. See Valdez v. Clayton Industries, Inc. (2001) 88 Cal. App. 4th 1162, 1177-1180, 107 Cal. Rptr. 2d 15 ; City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 982-983, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 ; see also Valdez v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1052-1053, 282 Cal. Rptr. 726 .

(n134)Footnote 112.1. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106 .

(n135)Footnote 112.2. Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 798, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 87, 29 P.3d 175 .

(n136)Footnote 113. See Dominguez v. Washington Mutual Bank (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 714, 721-724, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 705 ; Valdez v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1052, 282 Cal. Rptr. 726 ; City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 983, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n137)Footnote 113.1. Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 64-65, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (alleging repeated failure to rehire in retaliation for complaints about racial discrimination, but not alleging systematic policy of discrimination, constituted challenges to series of decisions made by different decision makers in unrelated departments and did not demonstrate continuing violation).

(n138)Footnote 113.2. Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 798, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 87, 29 P.3d 175 .

(n139)Footnote 113.3. Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 798, 823, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 87, 29 P.3d 175 . For discussion of the employer's obligation to accommodate a disabled employee, see § 41.51; for workplace harassment generally, see § 41.80 et seq.

(n140)Footnote 113.4. Richards v. CH2M Hill, Inc. (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 798, 823, 111 Cal. Rptr. 2d 87, 29 P.3d 175 .

(n141)Footnote 113.5. Yanowitz v. L'Oreal USA, Inc. (2005) 36 Cal. 4th 1028, 1055-1061, 32 Cal. Rptr. 3d 436 .

(n142)Footnote 113.6. National Railroad Passenger Corporation v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 136 L. Ed. 2d 106 . For discussion of Morgan, see § 42.62[3][d].

(n143)Footnote 113.7. Cucuzza v. City of Santa Clara (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1031, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660 .

(n144)Footnote 113.8. Cucuzza v. City of Santa Clara (2002) 104 Cal. App. 4th 1031, 1040-1043, 128 Cal. Rptr. 2d 660 .

(n145)Footnote 113.9. Alch v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 339, 367-377, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 29 .

(n146)Footnote 113.10. Valdez v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1052-1054, 282 Cal. Rptr. 726 .

(n147)Footnote 113.11. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 983, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n148)Footnote 114. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n149)Footnote 115. City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 983 , 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 ; see also Valdez v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1052-1053, 282 Cal. Rptr. 726 .

(n150)Footnote 116. See Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 618, 622, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 .

(n151)Footnote 116.1. See Morgan v. Regents of University of California (2000) 88 Cal. App. 4th 52, 65, 105 Cal. Rptr. 2d 652 (cases alleging hostile work environment due to racial or sexual harassment are often found to come within continuing violations framework). See also Nazir v. United Airlines, Inc. (2009) 178 Cal. App. 4th 243, 270-271 (summary adjudication in favor of employer on national-origin based harassment as continuing violation reversed, where plaintiff raised triable issues of fact on all three components: sufficient similarity; reasonable frequency; and conduct had not acquired degree of permanence).

(n152)Footnote 117. Accardi v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 341, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292 .

(n153)Footnote 118. Accardi v. Superior Court (1993) 17 Cal. App. 4th 341, 21 Cal. Rptr. 2d 292 .

(n154)Footnote 118.1. Birschtein v. New United Motor Manufacturing, Inc. (2001) 92 Cal. App. 4th 994, 1003-1007, 112 Cal. Rptr. 2d 347 .

(n155)Footnote 118.2. Dominguez v. Washington Mutual Bank (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 714, 720-724, 85 Cal. Rptr. 3d 705 .

(n156)Footnote 119. See Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 618, 622, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 .

(n157)Footnote 119.1. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n158)Footnote 119.2. Gov. Code § 12965(d)(1). See Gov. Code § 12965(d)(3) (§ 12965(d) intended to codify holding in Downs v. Department of Water and Power of City of Los Angeles (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590).

(n159)Footnote 119.3. Gov. Code § 12965(e)(1).

(n160)Footnote 119.4. Gov. Code § 12965(d)(2), (e)(2).

(n161)Footnote 120. Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 .

(n162)Footnote 121. Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 490-493, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 .

(n163)Footnote 122. Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 .

(n164)Footnote 123. Chardon v. Fernandez (1981) 454 U.S. 6, 102 S. Ct. 28, 70 L. Ed. 2d 6 .

(n165)Footnote 124. Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 497, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 .

(n166)Footnote 125. Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 494, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 .

(n167)Footnote 126. Regents of the Univ. of California v. Superior Court (1995) 33 Cal. App. 4th 1710, 39 Cal. Rptr. 2d 919 .

(n168)Footnote 127. Romano v. Rockwell Internat., Inc. (1996) 14 Cal. 4th 479, 500, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 20, 926 P.2d 1114 .

(n169)Footnote 128. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n170)Footnote 129. See Salgado v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 1322, 1324-1325 , disapproved on other grounds, Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 81-82, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 .

(n171)Footnote 130. E.E.O.C. v. Farmer Bros. Co. (9th Cir. 1994) 31 F.3d 891, 903 (expressly reaffirming Salgado decision on equitable tolling).

(n172)Footnote 131. Downs v. Department of Water & Power (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1099-1102, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590 ; see Collier v. City of Pasadena (1983) 142 Cal. App. 3d 917, 922-926, 191 Cal. Rptr. 681 (three-part test for equitable tolling).

(n173)Footnote 131.1. Gov. Code § 12965(d)(3).

(n174)Footnote 132. Salgado v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (9th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 1322, 1325 , disapproved on other grounds, Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 81-82, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 .

(n175)Footnote 133. Downs v. Department of Water & Power (1997) 58 Cal. App. 4th 1093, 1101 n. 3, 68 Cal. Rptr. 2d 590 ; see Williams v. Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 941, 949, 231 Cal. Rptr. 234 .

(n176)Footnote 133.1. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare System, LP (9th Cir. 2008) 534 F.3d 1116, 1127 (nothing in record suggested defendants' conduct caused plaintiff to voluntarily dismiss his state court action or wait additional 47 days before filing FEHA action in federal court).

(n177)Footnote 133.2. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare System, LP (9th Cir. 2008) 534 F.3d 1116, 1127 (plaintiff's voluntary dismissal of state court action was not event to which equitable tolling applied).

(n178)Footnote 133.3. Johnson v. Riverside Healthcare System, LP (9th Cir. 2008) 534 F.3d 1116, 1127 n.3 (even if plaintiff could have demonstrated he was entitled to equitable tolling, he was not entitled to toll period necessary to render FEHA claim timely, where he filed his state action 25 days before FEHA statute of limitations period expired and voluntarily dismissed state action 41 days later, so that if equitable tolling applied, he would have been entitled to file in federal court within 41 days of his voluntary dismissal, but he delayed filing until 47 days after his voluntary dismissal, 6 days after maximum tolling period would have expired). See Lantzy v. Centex Homes (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 363, 370-71, 2 Cal. Rptr. 3d 655, 73 P.3d 517 (2003) .

(n179)Footnote 134. Goldman v. Wilsey Foods, Inc. (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1094-1095, 265 Cal. Rptr. 294 .

(n180)Footnote 135. Goldman v. Wilsey Foods, Inc. (1989) 216 Cal. App. 3d 1085, 1094, 265 Cal. Rptr. 294 .

(n181)Footnote 136. See, e.g., Robinson v. Hewlett-Packard Corp. (1986) 183 Cal. App. 3d 1108, 1119-1120, 228 Cal. Rptr. 591 , disapproved on other grounds, Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 (asserting claims of FEHA violation, wrongful termination, invasion of privacy and intentional infliction of emotional distress); Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 730-734 (asserting claims of retaliation under Title VII and FEHA, breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1981, and intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress).

(n182)Footnote 137. Brown v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 477, 486, 208 Cal. Rptr. 724, 691 P.2d 272 .

(n183)Footnote 137.1. See [4][b], above.

(n184)Footnote 137.2. Hammond v. County of Los Angeles (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1579, 1594-1598 , reh'g denied by and ordered not published by, 2008 Cal. LEXIS 8820 (Cal. July 16, 2008) . (plaintiff's evidence showed that alleged actionable conduct, reduction in plaintiff's classroom teaching assignments, continued after one year preceding date of filing of complaint).

(n185)Footnote 137.3. National Railroad Passenger Corp. v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 112, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed.2d 106 .

(n186)Footnote 137.4. Hammond v. County of Los Angeles (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1579, 1594-1598 , reh'g denied by and ordered not published by, 2008 Cal. LEXIS 8820 (Cal. July 16, 2008) .

(n187)Footnote 137.5. Gov. Code § 12960(d).

(n188)Footnote 137.6. Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. (2007) 127 S. Ct. 2162, 167 L. Ed.2d 982 , superseded by statute (see footnote 137.8).

(n189)Footnote 137.7. Ledbetter v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. (2007) 127 S. Ct. 2162, 2165-2166, 167 L. Ed.2d 982 , superseded by statute (see footnote 137.8).

(n190)Footnote 137.8. In response to the Ledbetter decision, Congress has enacted the "Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act of 2009" (P.L. 111-2), amending Title VII and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, among other statutes, to provide that, effective May 28, 2007, and applicable to compensation discrimination claims pending as of that date, an unlawful employment practice occurs, with respect to discrimination in compensation in violation of Title VII, when a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice is adopted, when an individual becomes subject to a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice, or when an individual is affected by application of a discriminatory compensation decision or other practice, including each time wages, benefits, or other compensation is paid, resulting in whole or in part from such a decision or other practice. In addition to any relief authorized by 42 U.S.C. § 1981a, liability may accrue and an aggrieved person may obtain relief under Title VII, including recovery of back pay for up to two years preceding the filing of the charge, when the unlawful employment practices that have occurred during the charge-filing period are similar to or related to unlawful employment practices with regard to discrimination in compensation that occurred outside the time for filing a charge. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(3)(A), (B); 29 U.S.C. 626(d). For discussion, see § 42.62[3][d].

(n191)Footnote 138. Gov. Code § 12965(b), (c)(2); see Gov. Code § 70200 (trial court unification).

(n192)Footnote 139. See Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10 (superior courts have jurisdiction over all actions except those in which jurisdiction is assigned to another court by statute); see also Code Civ. Proc. § 86 (have original jurisdiction over limited civil cases, which are generally limited to matters in which amount in controversy does not exceed $25,000).

(n193)Footnote 140. See [3], above.

(n194)Footnote 141. See Miller v. United Airlines, Inc. (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 878, 889-890, 220 Cal. Rptr. 684 ; Bennett v. Borden, Inc. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 706, 710, 128 Cal. Rptr. 627 ; see also Carter v. Smith Food King (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 916, 921 (interpreting exhaustion of FEHA remedies, including filing of charge, as a "jurisdictional prerequisite" to FEHA suit).

(n195)Footnote 142. See Zipes v. Trans World Airlines Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 (timely filing of charge with EEOC under Title VII is not a jurisdictional prerequisite, but is in nature of a statute of limitations requirement, subject to waiver, estoppel and equitable tolling). See also § 43.01[3].

(n196)Footnote 143. See Shah v. Mt. Zion Hosp. & Med. Ctr. (9th Cir. 1981) 642 F.2d 268, 271 (decided under Title VII).

(n197)Footnote 144. Baker v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1062-1065, 257 Cal. Rptr. 768 ; see Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n198)Footnote 145. Gov. Code § 12965(b); Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2).

(n199)Footnote 146. Gov. Code § 12965(b); Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2).

(n200)Footnote 147. Ford Motor Credit Co. v. Superior Court (1996) 50 Cal. App. 4th 306, 308, 57 Cal. Rptr. 2d 682 .

(n201)Footnote 148. See Brown v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal. 3d 477, 488-489, 208 Cal. Rptr. 724, 691 P.2d 272 .

(n202)Footnote 149. Richfield Hotel Management, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 22 Cal. App. 4th 222, 226-227, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 161 .

(n203)Footnote 149.1. See Olinick v. BMG Entertainment (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1286, 1294, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268 .

(n204)Footnote 149.2. See Code Civ. Proc. § 418.10.

(n205)Footnote 149.3. Olinick v. BMG Entertainment (2006) 138 Cal. App. 4th 1286, 1294, 1296-1304, 42 Cal. Rptr. 3d 268 .

(n206)Footnote 150. See, e.g., Gen. Tel. Co. of the Southwest v. Falcon (1982) 457 U.S. 147, 160-161, 102 S. Ct. 2364, 72 L. Ed. 2d 740 ; East Texas Motor Freight v. Rodriguez (1977) 431 U.S. 395, 399-406, 97 S. Ct. 1891, 52 L. Ed. 2d 453 ; Gay v. Waiters' and Dairy Lunchmen's Union (9th Cir. 1977) 549 F.2d 1330, 1331-1334 .

(n207)Footnote 151. See Collins v. Rocha (1972) 7 Cal. 3d 232, 239, 102 Cal. Rptr. 1, 497 P.2d 225 .

(n208)Footnote 152. See, e.g., Alch v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 339, 377-387, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 29 (television screenwriters alleging age discrimination in violation of FEHA properly alleged classwide claims of pattern or practice of age discrimination in violation of FEHA and were not required to plead facts supporting individual prima facie cases of discriminatory refusal to hire as predicate for classwide claims; claims by deterred applicants could not be dismissed on basis of allegedly inconsistent statistics pled in writers' federal complaint). see Code Civ. Proc. § 382; Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 Cal. 2d 695, 704, 63 Cal. Rptr. 724, 433 P.2d 732 ; see generally California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Ch. 120, Class Actions.

(n209)Footnote 152.1. McCullah v. Southern California Gas Co. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 495, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208 .

(n210)Footnote 152.2. McCullah v. Southern California Gas Co. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 495, 500, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208 .

(n211)Footnote 152.3. McCullah v. Southern California Gas Co. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 495, 500, 98 Cal. Rptr. 2d 208 .

(n212)Footnote 152.4. McCullah v. Southern California Gas Co. (2000) 82 Cal. App. 4th 495, 500, 98 Cal. Rptr.

2d 208 .

(n213)Footnote 153. Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n214)Footnote 153.1. Alch v. Superior Court (2004) 122 Cal. App. 4th 339, 362-367, 19 Cal. Rptr. 3d 29 (Gov. Code § 12965(b) did not bar television screenwriters who filed and dismissed claims in federal court class actions from filing FEHA class action in state court).

(n215)Footnote 154. See Gov. Code § 12961.

(n216)Footnote 155. Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 (FEHA) ; see DFEH v. Rosenberg (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-09, p. 10; DFEH v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, p. 21; DFEH v. Madera County (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-03, p. 34 (same); DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, pp. 24-25 (same); DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 9 (same).

(n217)Footnote 156. See generally ch. 42, pt. A.

(n218)Footnote 157. See Gov. Code § 12965(b); Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 ; Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514,1519 ; see also [h], below.

(n219)Footnote 158. Sposato v. Electronic Data Sys., Corp. (9th Cir. 1999) 188 F.3d 1146, 1148 (Title VII) ; see City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 985, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (courts often look to Title VII authority to interpret FEHA provisions).

(n220)Footnote 159. Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 .

(n221)Footnote 160. Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 .

(n222)Footnote 161. See Gov. Code § 12965(c)(3). For discussion of election to transfer generally, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n223)Footnote 161.1. State Dept. of Health Services v. Superior Court (McGinnis) (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1026, 1042-1044, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 441, 79 P.3d 556 .

(n224)Footnote 161.2. State Dept. of Health Services v. Superior Court (McGinnis) (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1026, 1044, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 441, 79 P.3d 556 .

(n225)Footnote 161.3. See State Dept. of Health Services v. Superior Court (McGinnis) (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1026, 1045, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 441, 79 P.3d 556 .

(n226)Footnote 161.4. State Dept. of Health Services v. Superior Court (McGinnis) (2003) 31 Cal. 4th 1026, 1044-1045, 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 441, 79 P.3d 556 .

(n227)Footnote 162. See Gov. Code § 12970(a); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.9(a)(1); DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, pp. 24-25. For further discussion of FEHC remedies, see ch. 42, pt. A.

(n228)Footnote 163. See, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988)860 F.2d 1514, 1519 , (back pay awarded to disabled employee because employer failed to reasonably accommodate employee's asthma);

American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 603, 607, 186 Cal. Rptr. 345, 651 P.2d 1151 (upholding back pay and reinstatement for individual with high blood pressure who was denied employment and accommodation); Northern Inyo Hosp. v. Fair Emp. Practice Com. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 14, 24-26, 112 Cal. Rptr. 872 (upholding award of "lost wages" under former Fair Employment Practices Act for Native American who was denied rehiring because of racial discrimination and retaliation).

(n229)Footnote 164. See DFEH v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, pp. 21-22; DFEH v. Madera County (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-03, pp. 36-37; DFEH v. J.E. Robinson, D.D.S. (1989) FEHC Dec. No. 89-02, p. 14; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 9. Title VII expressly requires a victim of discrimination to mitigate back pay loss by seeking comparable employment. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1); Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC (1982) 458 U.S. 219, 231 n.14, 102 S. Ct. 3057, 73 L. Ed. 2d 721. Although the FEHA contains no similar provision, the courts and the FEHC have imposed a duty to mitigate on prevailing plaintiffs with FEHA back-pay claims. see Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 855 & n. 16, aff'd, 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 (9th Cir. 1988); see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.9(a)(1)(A) (mitigation of back-pay awards by FEHC); DFEH v. Rosenberg (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-09, p. 10; DFEH v. Madera County (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-03, pp. 36-37. Unemployment compensation may not be deducted from an award of back pay under the FEHA. see County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 508, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381. However, disability payments that operate as partial wage replacements may be offset. see DFEH v. Madera County (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-03, pp. 36-37; DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 25.

(n230)Footnote 165. See DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 25; cf. Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269 (Title VII).

(n231)Footnote 166. See DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, p. 25; cf. Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Company (5th Cir. 1974) 494 F.2d 211, 263 (Title VII).

(n232)Footnote 167. See County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 509, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 (stating that majority of courts appear to favor inclusion of fringe benefits as part of award of back pay).

(n233)Footnote 168. cf. Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 418-421, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 (Title VII).

(n234)Footnote 169. Sposato v. Electronic Data Sys., Corp. (9th Cir. 1999) 188 F.3d 1146, 1148. In predicting California law, the Ninth Circuit distinguished a Fourth Circuit holding that the employee's widow was only entitled to the amount of premiums that the employer would have paid due to the widow's failure to obtain substitute coverage. see Fariss v. Lynchburg Foundry (4th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 958, 966. The Sposato court also held that California's survival statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 377.34) did not bar recovery. Sposato v. Electronic Data Sys., Corp. (9th Cir. 1999) 188 F.3d 1146, 1149-1150.

(n235)Footnote 169.1. See Satterwhite v. Smith (9th Cir. 1984) 744 F.2d 1380, 1381 fn.1.

(n236)Footnote 169.2. See Cloud v. Casey (1999) 76 Cal. App. 4th 895, 908, 90 Cal. Rptr. 2d 757 (when position for which plaintiff was denied promotion no longer available and no other positions existed with similar status, plaintiff could not be made whole by staying with company and therefore was entitled to back pay subsequent to voluntary resignation).

(n237)Footnote 169.3. See Sasco Electric v. Fair Employment & Housing Commission (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 532, 543-544, 97 Cal. Rptr. 3d 482 (assuming without deciding former employee became disabled during pregnancy, disability did not preclude Commission from awarding backpay for entire back pay period, where, had employer not unlawfully terminated her employment, it would have been required to reasonably accommodate her disability, including temporarily transferring her to less strenuous or hazardous position, and where employer offered no evidence to show it could not have accommodated her work restrictions).

(n238)Footnote 170. See DFEH v. Rosenberg (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-09, p. 10; DFEH v. Madera County (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-03, p. 36.

(n239)Footnote 171. See DFEH v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, pp. 21-22 (refusing to order pre-hearing back pay because DFEH failed to carry its burden; granting post-hearing back pay up to time complainant was reinstated or declined offer of reinstatement).

(n240)Footnote 172. See, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 .

(n241)Footnote 173. Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 .

(n242)Footnote 174. Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 856 , aff'd, 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 (9th Cir. 1988) ; see also DFEH v. Madera County (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-11, p. 34 (front pay is based on difference between salary plaintiff would have earned had discrimination not occurred, and that which plaintiff is expected to earn at his or her current job until he or she is able to attain equivalent amount of earnings).

(n243)Footnote 174.1. Horsford v. Board of Trustees of Calif. State Univ. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 359, 388-389, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644 . See generally Pollard v. E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. (2001) 532 U.S. 843, 846-850, 121 S. Ct. 1946, 150 L. Ed. 2d 62 .

(n244)Footnote 174.2. See Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 996-997, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 .

(n245)Footnote 174.3. Horsford v. Board of Trustees of Calif. State Univ. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 359, 388-389, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644 .

(n246)Footnote 175. See Gov. Code § 12970(a) (authorizing FEHC to issue cease and desist orders and orders requiring actions such as hiring, reinstatement, or upgrading of employees); DFEH v. Rosenberg (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-09, p. 12-13, 14 (ordering employers to take preventative actions, such as formal written policies and training programs, to assist employers in carrying out their affirmative duty under FEHA to take all reasonable steps necessary to prevent harassment); DFEH v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, pp. 21, 26 (same; also ordering employee reinstated to position that she was deprived of, together with all seniority, status, and other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment that would have accrued to her had she not been unlawfully discriminated against). For further discussion of FEHC remedies, see ch. 42, pt. A.

(n247)Footnote 176. Cf. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g).

(n248)Footnote 177. See, e.g., Johnson v. Civil Service Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 585, 591, 200 Cal. Rptr. 289 (order directing city to employ petitioner as firefighter upheld); Fair Employment Practice Com. v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 322, 323-324, 172 Cal. Rptr. 739 (retroactive promotion order upheld); International Union etc. Engineers v. Fair Emp. Practice Com. (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 504, 510-511, 81 Cal. Rptr. 47 (order to hire African-American business agent upheld).

(n249)Footnote 178. See, e.g., County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 (retroactive seniority granted to African-American female denied position by county as jail cook).

(n250)Footnote 179. See Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1519 .

(n251)Footnote 180. See Northern Inyo Hosp. v. Fair Emp. Practice Com. (1974) 38 Cal. App. 3d 14, 17, 112

Cal. Rptr. 872 (FEPC order to employer to cease and desist from discrimination on account of race upheld by court). cf. Horsford v. Board of Trustees of Calif. State Univ. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 359, 390-393, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644 (although FEHA permits injunctive relief for discriminatory employment practices, plaintiffs failed to establish that trial court abused its discretion in refusing to enjoin implementation of employer's affirmative action plan).

(n252)Footnote 181. Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car Sys. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 121, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132, 980 P.2d 846, cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1138 (2000) .

(n253)Footnote 182. Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car Sys. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 121, 128-131, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132, 980 P.2d 846, cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1138 (2000) (FEHA permits courts to fashion remedies to prevent recurrence of misconduct).

(n254)Footnote 183. Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car Sys. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 121, 128-133, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132, 980 P.2d 846, cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1138 (2000) (fact that defendants refrained from misconduct during trial does not obviate need for prospective relief).

(n255)Footnote 184. Aguilar v. Avis Rent A Car Sys. (1999) 21 Cal. 4th 121, 146, 87 Cal. Rptr. 2d 132, 980 P.2d 846, cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1138 (2000) .

(n256)Footnote 185. See Peralta Community College Dist. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 40, 48, 276 Cal. Rptr. 114, 801 P.2d 357 (reaffirming that compensatory and punitive damages are available in civil actions under FEHA, although FEHC has no power to award them); Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 ; Garcia v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 701, 711, 219 Cal. Rptr. 544 ; see also [a], above. See., e.g., Hope v. California Youth Authority (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 577, 594-596, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154 (in action for sexual orientation harassment, jury properly awarded economic damages based on determination that employee was improperly denied promotion because of his sexual orientation, that employee would have been employed until retirement age, that any performance problems and excessive absences were attributable to unlawful harassment, and that employee, who was HIV-positive, would have had normal life expectancy).

(n257)Footnote 186. Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 ; Garcia v. Los Angeles Unified School Dist. (1985) 173 Cal. App. 3d 701, 711, 219 Cal. Rptr. 544 ; Civ. Code § 3333 (general measure of damages for breach of obligation not arising from contract); see also Alcorn v. Anbro Engineering, Inc. (1970) 2 Cal. 3d 493, 497-498, 86 Cal. Rptr. 88, 468 P.2d 216 (damages for emotional distress due to discriminatory termination of black employee were available under tort theory). cf. Sullivan v. Delta Airlines, Inc. (1997) 15 Cal. 4th 288, 304-305, 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 74, 935 P.2d 781 (no statutory bar to recovery of pain and suffering damages awarded to injured party who died after judgment but during pendency of appeal).

(n258)Footnote 187. See Gov. Code § 12970(c).

(n259)Footnote 188. Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3).

(n260)Footnote 188.1. Hope v. California Youth Authority (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 577, 595, 36 Cal. Rptr. 3d 154 .

(n261)Footnote 189. Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 . By contrast, the FEHC cannot award punitive damages in administrative proceedings under the FEHA, although it can assess administrative fines. See Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3), (c), (d); Dyna-Med, Inc. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 43 Cal. 3d 1379, 1383, 241 Cal. Rptr. 67, 743 P.2d 1323 ; See also ch. 42, pt. B.

(n262)Footnote 190. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1147-1148, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510

(n263)Footnote 191. See Civ. Code § 3294; see, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F.Supp. 836, 857, aff'd, (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514; Monge v. Superior Court (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 503, 511-512, 222 Cal. Rptr. 64 (plaintiffs who pleaded a sexually hostile working environment were entitled to seek punitive damages under FEHA). Public employers are exempt from punitive damage liability. See Gov. Code § 818.

(n264)Footnote 192. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1151, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510; see Civil Code § 3294(b).

(n265)Footnote 192.1. See, e.g., Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 428-429, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (jury properly found employer liable for punitive damages for retaliation, where employer knew its older managers objected to compensation reduction plan and jurors could reasonably infer it used pretexts to deny employee who filed age discrimination claim transfer and created hostile work environment in retaliation for EEOC complaint; conduct of supervisor other than supervisor who made employment decisions was relevant, because jury could find he was managing agent, and jurors could find employer gave him discretion to decide how to punish managers and fostered tolerance of his retaliation by not repudiating his conduct).

(n266)Footnote 193. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510.

(n267)Footnote 194. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1153-1154, 1153 n. 9, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (specific finding of employer oppression, fraud, or malice is not prerequisite for punitive damages award against employer).

(n268)Footnote 195. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1156-1160, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510.

(n269)Footnote 196. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1154-1155, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510.

(n270)Footnote 196.1. Mathieu v. Norrell Corp. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52.

(n271)Footnote 196.2. Mathieu v. Norrell Corp. (2004) 115 Cal. App. 4th 1174, 1190-1191, 10 Cal. Rptr. 3d 52.

(n272)Footnote 196.2.1. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *47-*66.

(n273)Footnote 196.2.2. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *48. See State Farm Mutual Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 416-418, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d. 585; BMW of North America v. Gore (1996) 517 U.S. 559, 568, 116 S. Ct. 1589, 134 L. Ed. 2d 809.

(n274)Footnote 196.2.3. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *62-*63. See State Farm Mutual Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 416-418, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d. 585.

(n275)Footnote 196.2.4. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *62. See Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1189, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379 P.3d 63.

(n276)Footnote 196.2.5. State Farm Mutual Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 416-418, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d. 585. See also Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *63-*64 (after applying State Farm test, Court concluded that one-to-one ratio between compensatory and punitive damages was federal constitutional limit based on specific facts of case, in particular the relatively low degree of reprehensibility on part of the employer and the substantial compensatory damages verdict, which included a substantial award of noneconomic damages).

(n277)Footnote 196.2.6. See Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *63 (if employee had pursued her FEHA claims administratively before the California Fair Employment and Housing Commission, Commission could have assessed fine against employer in addition to awarding compensatory damages [Gov. Code § 12970(a), (c) and (d)], but fine could not have exceeded $150,000 [Gov. Code § 12970(a)(3)], which was tiny by comparison to jury's punitive damages award of $15 million against employer).

(n278)Footnote 196.2.7. State Farm Mutual Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 416-418, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d. 585 .

(n279)Footnote 196.2.8. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *52-*56 (supervisor did not exercise sort of broad authority and was not "managing agent" for purposes of awarding punitive damages against employer under Civ. Code § 3294(b); however, sufficient evidence supported jury's inference that managing agent eventually became aware of supervisor's unlawful harassment, and that employer thereafter continued to employ supervisor without taking any corrective measures indicated conscious disregard of rights or safety of others, warranting punitive damages). See Civ. Code § 3294(b); (employer not liable for punitive damages based upon acts of employee, unless employer had advance knowledge of unfitness of employee and employed him or her with conscious disregard of rights or safety of others or authorized or ratified wrongful conduct; with respect to corporate employer, advance knowledge and conscious disregard, authorization, or ratification must be on part of officer, director, or managing agent of corporation). See also White v. Ultramar, Inc. (1992) 21 Cal. 4th 563, 577, 88 Cal. Rptr. 2d 19, 981 P.2d 944 (officer, director, or managing agent must be someone who exercises substantial discretionary authority over decisions that ultimately determine corporate policy).

(n280)Footnote 196.2.9. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *56 .

(n281)Footnote 196.2.10. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *60-*61 . See, e.g., Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (partner of the defendant law firm put his hand in breast pocket of his secretary's blouse, made grabbing gesture toward her breasts, touched her buttocks, and made sexually harassing statements; defendant law firm was aware of numerous prior incidents of severe sexual harassment involving same partner; punitive damages: $3.5 million).

(n282)Footnote 196.2.11. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *61 .

(n283)Footnote 196.2.12. Roby v. McKesson Corp. (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 686, 101 Cal. Rptr. 3d 773, 219 P.3d 749, 2009 Cal. LEXIS 12374, *64 ; Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1185-86, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63 .

(n284)Footnote 196.3. Missouri Pac. R. R. Co. v. Ault (1921) 256 U.S. 554, 563-564, 41 S. Ct. 593, 65 L. Ed. 1087 .

(n285)Footnote 196.4. Keifer & Keifer v. R. F. C. (1939) 306 U.S. 381, 388, 59 S. Ct. 516, 83 L. Ed. 784 .

(n286)Footnote 196.5. Loeffler v. Frank (1988) 486 U.S. 549, 554, 108 S. Ct. 1965, 100 L. Ed. 2d 549 .

(n287)Footnote 196.6. Postal Service v. Flamingo Industries (USA) Ltd. (2004) 540 U.S. 736, 741, 124 S. Ct. 1321, 158 L. Ed. 2d 19 .

(n288)Footnote 196.7. FDIC v. Meyer (1994) 510 U.S. 471, 480, 114 S. Ct. 996, 127 L. Ed. 2d 308 .

(n289)Footnote 196.8. FDIC v. Meyer (1994) 510 U.S. 471, 480 [114 S. Ct. 996, 127 L. Ed. 2d 308 . Compare McGee v. Tucoemas Federal Credit Union (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1356-1361, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808 ("sue and be sued" clause in federal credit union enabling legislation presumptively waived immunity from punitive damages, and since defendants failed to clearly show applicability of exception to waiver presumption, sovereign immunity did not apply and federal credit union could be liable for punitive damages in employment discrimination action) with Matter of Sparkman (9th Cir. 1983) 703 F.2d 1097, 1101-1102 (two-judge majority holding that, as legislatively declared instrumentality of United States, production credit association was not subject to liability for punitive damages absent express waiver of immunity).

(n290)Footnote 197. See Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1151-1152, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 .

(n291)Footnote 198. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1151-1152, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 .

(n292)Footnote 199. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1153-1156, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (court expressly did not reach issue of whether employer waived right to argue that jury must find that employer engaged in oppression, fraud, or malice by stipulating to special verdict form that did not request jury to make that determination).

(n293)Footnote 200. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1153-1156, 1160-1161, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (stipulation to liability on jury finding of sexual harassment did not render conduct towards other victims inadmissible; evidence was still relevant to firm's potential liability for punitive damages).

(n294)Footnote 201. E.E.O.C. v. Farmer Bros. Co. (9th Cir. 1994) 31 F.3d 891, 903-905 .

(n295)Footnote 202. See E.E.O.C. v. Farmer Bros. Co. (9th Cir. 1994) 31 F.3d 891, 903-905 . See also Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 429, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (punitive damages of $1 million, less than four times greater than compensatory damages of $280,000, fell within range of multipliers commonly used to achieve goals of punitive damages); McGee v. Tucoemas Federal Credit Union (2007) 153 Cal. App. 4th 1351, 1361-1362, 63 Cal. Rptr. 3d 808 (in employment discrimination action, reduction in compensatory damages at trial from $2 million to $750,000 did not require corresponding reduction in punitive damages, where there was no requirement that original ratio between compensatory and punitive damages as measured by jury remain, and it could not be concluded that punitive damages were excessive as matter of law, because defendants' conduct was reprehensible).

(n296)Footnote 202.1. Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 215, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 . See State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 418, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585 , citing BMW of North America, Inc. v. Gore (1996) 517 U.S. 559, 575, 116 S. Ct. 1589, 134 L. Ed. 2d 809 .

(n297)Footnote 202.2. Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 216-223, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 .

(n298)Footnote 202.3. Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 216-218, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 .

(n299)Footnote 202.4. Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 216-223, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 .

(n300)Footnote 202.5. Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 219-222, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 .

. See State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 419, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585 .

(n301)Footnote 202.6. Gober v. Ralph's Grocery Co. (2006) 137 Cal. App. 4th 204, 219-222, 40 Cal. Rptr. 3d 92 , citing State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. v. Campbell (2003) 538 U.S. 408, 425, 123 S. Ct. 1513, 155 L. Ed. 2d 585 ; Simon v. San Paolo U.S. Holding Co., Inc. (2005) 35 Cal. 4th 1159, 1182, 29 Cal. Rptr. 3d 379, 113 P.3d 63 .

(n302)Footnote 202.7. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 429-430, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (employer failed to show trial court abused its discretion by excluding evidence of how employer acquires its wealth, holds it or uses it).

(n303)Footnote 203. DFEH v. Livermore Joe's, Inc. (1990) FEHC Dec. No. 90-07, p. 22 (interest awarded on back pay amount, at rate of 10 percent per year, compounded annually, and running from time of wage loss to date of payment); DFEH v. Ca. State University--Sacramento (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-08, pp. 25-26; DFEH v. Aluminum Precision Products, Inc. (1988) FEHC Dec. No. 88-05, p. 9; see County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 508, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 (upholding without comment interest on back-pay award).

(n304)Footnote 204. Civ. Code § 3291.

(n305)Footnote 205. Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 988-989, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 , disapproved on other grounds, Lakin v. Watkins Associated Indus. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 644, 664 .

(n306)Footnote 206. Gov. Code § 12965(b); Cummings v. Benco Building Services (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 1386-1388, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 ; see Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1520 (FEHA; appropriate for court to disallow hours spent on unrelated claims, including breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing, misrepresentation, and violation of ERISA, on which plaintiff did not prevail); see also Hon v. Marshall (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 470, 476-477, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11 (defendant granted summary judgment based on jurisdictional defect (failure to exhaust administrative remedies) is not prevailing party entitled to attorney's fee award because defendant did not prevail on any issue central to litigation). See also Anthony v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1011, 1016-1017, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 306 (amendment of FEHA by Stats. 1999, ch. 591, § 12 expressly authorizes award of expert witness fees to prevailing party whether or not expert was hired by court).

(n307)Footnote 206.1. Flannery v. Prentice (2001) 26 Cal. 4th 572, 579, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 809, 28 P.3d 860 .

(n308)Footnote 206.2. Vo v. Las Virgenes Municipal Water Dist. (2000) 79 Cal. App. 4th 440, 447, 94 Cal. Rptr. 2d 143 .

(n309)Footnote 207. Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n310)Footnote 208. Cummings v. Benco Building Services (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 .

(n311)Footnote 209. Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 417, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 .

(n312)Footnote 210. Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 417, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 ; see Jersey v. John Muir Medical Center (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 814, 830-832, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 807 (defendant not entitled to award of attorney's fees on plaintiff's dismissed sex discrimination claim under FEHA, because lack of merit was not proper standard for awarding attorney fees against losing plaintiff, trial court failed to make express written findings necessary to support award against plaintiff under FEHA, and plaintiff's action, while ultimately failing, could hardly be considered as frivolous and trial court did not consider it such); Linsley v. Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 762, 767-768, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429 (employer defendant entitled to attorney's fees, including those for defense on appeal, because plaintiff continued to litigate claims of unlawful discrimination after signing general release of all claims related to termination of employment); Guthrey v. State of Cal. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1108, 1126-1127, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 27 (defendants were entitled to attorney's fees in having to defend summary judgment in their favor when plaintiff presented no issue with any arguable merit on appeal; conclusory allegations in appellate briefs citing only legal principles resulted in waiver); see also Cummings v. Benco Building Services (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 1387, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 .

(n313)Footnote 211. Cummings v. Benco Building Services (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 1387, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 .

(n314)Footnote 212. See Gonzales v. Metpath, Inc. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 422, 428, 262 Cal. Rptr. 654 .

(n315)Footnote 213. See Delaney v. Superior Fast Freight (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 590, 600, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 33 ; see also Chen v. County of Orange (2002) 96 Cal. App. 4th 926, 953, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 786 (in action by former deputy district attorney against office and individuals in office, trial court properly denied attorney's fees to prevailing defendants, because marital status claim was one of first impression in state, race and gender claims were strong enough to get to jury, plaintiff had at least some anecdotal evidence to support race and gender discrimination claims, and fees of individual defendants had been paid by county).

(n316)Footnote 213.1. Villanueva v. City of Colton (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1200-1201, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343 .

(n317)Footnote 213.2. Villanueva v. City of Colton (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1204, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343 .

(n318)Footnote 213.3. Villanueva v. City of Colton (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 1188, 1202-1204, 73 Cal. Rptr. 3d 343 (but fee award to prevailing defendant without express finding on plaintiff's ability to pay was not abuse of discretion, where court was privy to plaintiff's salary, as provided by employer along with its fee request, and plaintiff offered no evidence that might have warranted reduced fee award). See also Rosenman v. Christensen, Miller, Fink, Jacobs, Glaser, Weil & Shapiro (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 859, 868 n42, 110 Cal. Rptr. 2d 903 (trial court should make findings as to plaintiff's ability to pay attorney's fees and how large award should be in light of plaintiff's financial situation).

(n319)Footnote 213.4. Shaw v. City of Sacramento (9th Cir. 2001) 250 F.3d 1289 .

(n320)Footnote 213.5. Shaw v. City of Sacramento (9th Cir. 2001) 250 F.3d 1289, 1294 .

(n321)Footnote 213.6. Shaw v. City of Sacramento (9th Cir. 2001) 250 F.3d 1289, 1294-1295 ; see Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1169-1170, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 .

(n322)Footnote 213.7. See Hon v. Marshall (1997) 53 Cal. App. 4th 470, 478, 62 Cal. Rptr. 2d 11 (award of attorney's fees to defendant overturned because grant of summary judgment solely on basis plaintiff neglected to exhaust her administrative remedies required no consideration of the merits of her discrimination and harassment claims). See also EEOC v. United Parcel Service (9th Cir. 2005) 424 F.3d 1060, 1077-1078 (construing FEHA; although trial court erred in awarding attorney fees to defendant under Gov. Code § 12965 as sanction for plaintiffs' failure to voluntarily dismiss claims for which administrative remedies had not been exhausted, it was clear from record that trial court would have awarded the same sanctions under different provision, if one were available, so appellate court would remand).

(n323)Footnote 213.8. See Cummings v. Benco Building Services (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 1388, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53 (review of record and subsequent events provided considerable proof that plaintiff's claim of age discrimination was neither frivolous, nor unreasonable, nor groundless); see also Linsley v. Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 762, 770, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429 (plaintiff had no legal basis to pursue unlawful discrimination cause of action because it was explicitly subject of enforceable release).

(n324)Footnote 213.9. Linsley v. Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 762, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429 .

(n325)Footnote 213.10. Linsley v. Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. (1999) 75 Cal. App. 4th 762, 767-768, 89 Cal. Rptr. 2d 429 .

(n326)Footnote 213.11. Young v. Exxon Mobil Corp. (2008) 168 Cal. App. 4th 1467, 1474-1477, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 507 .

(n327)Footnote 213.12. Gov. Code § 12965(b); Chavez v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 410, 415, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 783 ; Stephens v. Coldwell Banker Commercial Group, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1394, 1406, 245 Cal. Rptr. 606 .

(n328)Footnote 213.13. Chavez v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 410, 415, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 783 ; Stephens v. Coldwell Banker Commercial Group, Inc. (1988) 199 Cal. App. 3d 1394, 1405, 245 Cal. Rptr. 606 .

(n329)Footnote 213.14. Chavez v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 160 Cal. App. 4th 410, 415-421, 72 Cal. Rptr. 3d 783 (in FEHA action, trial court abused its discretion in denying attorney's fees award under Code Civ. Proc. § 1033(a), where court failed to consider Gov. Code § 12965(b) and whether attorney could have competently filed civil rights action as limited jurisdiction case and parties' efforts to settle action short of litigation; where parties participated in five mediation sessions and plaintiff made numerous attempts to settle but defendant flatly resisted all settlement discussions and never made substantive offer, forcing plaintiff to engage in extensive discovery and litigate action for five years through state and federal trial and appellate courts, incurring substantial attorney's fees; and where nothing in record evidenced special circumstances sufficient to render award of fees unjust, apart from modest verdict).

(n330)Footnote 214. Flannery v. California Highway Patrol (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 629, 640, 646, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632 .

(n331)Footnote 214.1. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 430, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 ; Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 422, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 .

(n332)Footnote 215. Serrano v. Priest (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 25, 48-49, 141 Cal. Rptr. 315, 569 P.2d 1303 (Serrano III) . See also Horsford v. Board of Trustees of Calif. State Univ. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 359, 393-401, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 644 (trial court abused its discretion in calculating attorney fees award to prevailing plaintiffs, where trial court failed to use counsels' time records as starting point for its lodestar determination, failed adequately to consider propriety of higher hourly rate for San Francisco attorney, failed to consider relevant factors for awarding enhancement multiplier, and improperly required plaintiffs' counsel to look to clients, under contingency fee agreement, to make up for any undercompensation arising from court's statutory fee award); Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 422, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 (in determining fee award under FEHA, trial court must first determine lodestar or touchstone figure).

(n333)Footnote 216. Flannery v. California Highway Patrol (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 629, 640, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632 (several courts have applied Serrano III to awards based on other statutes); Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1170, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (attorney fees under Private Attorney General statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5) are not authorized in suit brought by individual to redress own economic injury). See also Nichols v. City of Taft (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1233, 2007 Cal. App. LEXIS 1646, *10-*16 (lodestar enhancement is discretionary, not mandatory; trial court erred in concluding multiplier was mandatory to enhance fee award because plaintiff's counsel were from large, out-of-town law firms, in calculating attorney's fees award after settlement of sexual harassment action under FEHA).

(n334)Footnote 216.1. See Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 422, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 (in determining fee award under FEHA, trial court must first determine lodestar or touchstone figure, which is product of number of hours worked by attorneys and reasonable fee per hour).

(n335)Footnote 217. Serrano v. Priest (1977) 20 Cal. 3d 25, 48-49, 141 Cal. Rptr. 315, 569 P.2d 1303 (Serrano III) ; Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 422, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 . See Nichols v. City of Taft (2007) 155 Cal. App. 4th 1233, 2007 Cal. App. LEXIS 1646, *16-*20 (use of fee multiplier to compensate for higher rates of out-of-town counsel required sufficient showing--which plaintiff failed to make--that hiring local counsel was impracticable).

(n336)Footnote 218. Flannery v. California Highway Patrol (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 629, 638, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632 ; see Burlington v. Dague (1992) 505 U.S. 557, 562-565, 112 S. Ct. 2638, 120 L. Ed. 2d 449 (no enhancement of lodestar for contingency permitted under federal fee-shifting statutes); see also Blum v. Stenson (1984) 465 U.S. 886, 899-900, 104 S. Ct. 1541, 79 L. Ed. 2d 891 (product of attorney's fee calculation is presumed to be reasonable when applicant has shown that claim rate and number of hours is reasonable; upward adjustment permitted in rare cases only).

(n337)Footnote 219. Flannery v. California Highway Patrol (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 629, 646-647, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632 ; see State of California v. Meyer (1985) 174 Cal. App. 3d 1061, 1073-1074, 220 Cal. Rptr. 884 (courts are not required to lodestar multiplier as matter of law).

(n338)Footnote 220. Flannery v. California Highway Patrol (1998) 61 Cal. App. 4th 629, 647, 71 Cal. Rptr. 2d 632, 643-644 .

(n339)Footnote 221. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 .

(n340)Footnote 222. Weeks v. Baker & McKenzie (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 1128, 1170-1176, 74 Cal. Rptr. 2d 510 (attorney fees under Private Attorney General statute (Code Civ. Proc. § 1021.5) are not authorized in suit brought by individual to redress own economic injury).

(n341)Footnote 222.1. Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 425-427, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 .

(n342)Footnote 222.2. Ketchum v. Moses (2001) 24 Cal.4th 1122, 1132, 104 Cal. Rptr. 2d 377, 17 P.3d 735 .

(n343)Footnote 223. Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 988-989, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 , citing Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1520 , disapproved on other grounds, Lakin v. Watkins Associated Indus. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 644, 664 .

(n344)Footnote 224. Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 997, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 , disapproved on other grounds, Lakin v. Watkins Associated Indus. (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 644, 664 .

(n345)Footnote 224.1. Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 423, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 (trial court awarded fees not for actual hours billed, but for reduced number of hours, including reductions for time spent on claims on which plaintiff did not prevail).

(n346)Footnote 224.2. Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 423, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 (claims of harassment and retaliation were based on common core of facts that presence of hangman's nooses in workplace, including one with effigy, created hostile work environment; in light of strong interrelationship between claims, court did not err in not further reducing its award of fees). See also Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 430-431, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 (although plaintiff alleged eight causes of action but only prevailed on retaliation cause of action and claim that employer did not engage in disability interactive process, employer failed to show trial court abused its discretion by not reducing attorney's fees award for time spent on unsuccessful claims, where trial court found employee obtained excellent results and apportionment of fees was not appropriate because issues in case were common to one another and intertwined; all claims involved underlying disability and age discrimination issues and were based on paragraphs alleging facts in complaint, which employee alleged were common to all causes of action).

(n347)Footnote 224.3. Knight v. Hayward Unif. Sch. Dist. (2005) 132 Cal. App. 4th 121, 134-136, 33 Cal. Rptr. 3d 287 (FEHA; because plaintiff did not claim cost award to prevailing defendant would be inequitable, and because he did not provide any basis on which court could find cost award abuse of discretion, cost award was proper); Perez v. County of Santa Clara (2003) 111 Cal. App. 4th 671, 679-682, 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 867 (disagreeing with court in Cummings v. Benco Building Services (1992) 11 Cal. App. 4th 1383, 15 Cal. Rptr. 2d 53, extending standard for award of attorney's fees to prevailing defendant as articulated by United States Supreme Court in Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 to ordinary litigation expenses allowed by Code Civ. Proc. § 1033.5).

(n348)Footnote 225. Code Civ. Proc. § 998(c)(1), (e).

(n349)Footnote 226. Code Civ. Proc. § 998(c)(1); see Code Civ. Proc. § 998(h) (expert witness costs subject to limit set forth in Gov. Code § 68092.5). See also Seever v. Copley Press, Inc. (2006) 141 Cal. App. 4th 1550, 47 Cal. Rptr. 3d 206 (in FEHA action, although award of expert witness fees to prevailing employer was proper under Code Civ. Proc. § 998, remand was required because trial court made no inquiry about former employee's financial situation; appellate court could not determine whether amount of cost award represented unduly powerful settlement incentive to litigant of employee's means, given what record revealed about employee's occupation and employment situation).

(n350)Footnote 227. See Code Civ. Proc. § 998(c)(2)(A); see also Wilson v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (1997) 52 Cal. App. 4th 267, 271-274, 60 Cal. Rptr. 2d 532.

(n351)Footnote 227.1. Greene v. Dillingham Construction N.A., Inc. (2002) 101 Cal. App. 4th 418, 425, 124 Cal. Rptr. 2d 250 (trial court properly rejected defendant's request to reduce plaintiff's award by amount of informal postoffer fees).

(n352)Footnote 227.2. Engle v. Copenbarger & Copenbarger (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 165, 168-171, 68 Cal. Rptr. 3d 461 (where employee accepted employer's § 998 offer to compromise, which was silent on costs and attorney's fees, and she prevailed on statutory causes of action for which fees may be recovered by accepting offer, it was abuse of discretion to deny fees on ground it was uncertain whether she prevailed on statutory claims).

(n353)Footnote 227.3. Mangano v. Verity, Inc. (2008) 167 Cal. App. 4th 944; 84 Cal. Rptr. 3d 526; 2008 Cal. App. LEXIS 1672, *4-*12 (trial court was correct to deny defendants' request for attorney's fees on basis that FEHA action was not without any legal or factual foundation).

(n354)Footnote 227.4. See Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 3.1700.

(n355)Footnote 227.5. Anthony v. City of Los Angeles (2008) 166 Cal. App. 4th 1011, 1014-1016, 83 Cal. Rptr. 3d 306 (prevailing plaintiff filed her motion for expert witness fees well within 60-day period allowed for attorneys' fee motion).

(n356)Footnote 228. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n357)Footnote 229. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n358)Footnote 230. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n359)Footnote 231. See Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e), (f); Gray v. Superior Court (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 813, 819-820, 226 Cal. Rptr. 570 (court of appeal upheld demurrer without leave to amend in case in which plaintiff's complaint asserted sex discrimination and retaliatory discharge in violation of FEHA, but provided no factual support for conclusions).

(n360)Footnote 232. See Gov. Code § 12926(d), (e), (g).

(n361)Footnote 233. See Carter v. Smith Food King (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 916, 921 (dismissal upheld regarding union that was not named in FEHA administrative charge, when content of charge provided no notice to union that plaintiff was complaining of discrimination by union); Valdez v. City of Los Angeles (1991) 231 Cal. App. 3d 1043, 1060-1061, 282 Cal. Rptr. 726; see also Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n362)Footnote 234. Note, however, that although an employee must exhaust the FEHA administrative remedy before bringing a civil action under the FEHA or seeking any remedies provided by the FEHA, exhaustion of the FEHA administrative remedy is not required before filing a civil action for damages alleging non-FEHA causes of action. Thus, for example, exhaustion of FEHA administrative remedies is not a prerequisite to filing a civil action alleging a tort cause of action for wrongful termination in violation of public policy, which is independent of the FEHA. see Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 88-91, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373. After the FEHA administrative process is exhausted and plaintiff obtains a "right-to-sue" letter, the plaintiff may then move to amend his or her wrongful termination complaint to add causes of action under the FEHA. see Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373. For discussion of wrongful termination and related causes of action, see chs. 60, 61, and 63.

(n363)Footnote 235. See Gov. Code § 12960. For discussion of exhaustion of administrative remedies, see [3], above.

(n364)Footnote 236. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n365)Footnote 237. See Myers v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1062-1064, 218 Cal. Rptr. 630 (when plaintiff failed to file charge regarding retaliation and failed to file suit within one year after issuance of right-to-sue letter, defendant was granted judgment on pleadings).

(n366)Footnote 238. See Baker v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1062, 257 Cal. Rptr. 768; Stache v. International Union of Bricklayers (9th Cir. 1988) 852 F.2d 1231, 1233; Carter v. Smith Food King (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 916, 921; Bennett v. Borden, Inc. (1976) 56 Cal. App. 3d 706, 710, 128 Cal. Rptr. 627.

(n367)Footnote 239. See Grywczynski v. Shasta Beverages, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1984) 606 F. Supp. 61, 65-66; cf. Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234.

(n368)Footnote 240. See Baker v. Children's Hosp. Med. Ctr. (1989) 209 Cal. App. 3d 1057, 1062-1065, 257 Cal. Rptr. 768 (decided under FEHA; relying on federal cases decided under Title VII).

(n369)Footnote 241. See Gov. Code § 12965(c)(1).

(n370)Footnote 242. See Gov. Code § 12965(c)(2). For discussion of election to transfer, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n371)Footnote 243. See Gov. Code §§ 12926(d), (e), (g), 12940.

(n372)Footnote 244. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n373)Footnote 245. See Gov. Code §§ 12940, 12945.

(n374)Footnote 246. See Gov. Code §§ 12940, 12945.

(n375)Footnote 247. See Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 (compensatory damages); Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 853, 856, aff'd, 860 F.2d 1514 (9th Cir. 1988) (back pay and front pay); see also [8][b], [c], [e], above.

(n376)Footnote 248. See Civ. Code § 3294; Commodore Home Systems, Inc. v. Superior Court (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 211, 213, 216, 185 Cal. Rptr. 270, 649 P.2d 912 ; see also [8][f], above.

(n377)Footnote 249. See Johnson v. Civil Service Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 585, 591, 200 Cal. Rptr. 289 (order directing city to employ petitioner as firefighter upheld); County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 (retroactive seniority granted to black female denied position by county as jail cook); Fair Employment Practice Com. v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 322, 323-324, 172 Cal. Rptr. 739 (retroactive promotion order upheld); International Union etc. Engineers v. Fair Emp. Practice Com. (1969) 276 Cal. App. 2d 504, 510-511, 81 Cal. Rptr. 47 (order to hire black business agent upheld); see also [8][d], above.

(n378)Footnote 250. See Gov. Code §§ 12960, 12965(b).

(n379)Footnote 251. See, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514, 1519-1520 (termination of employment because of asthma-related disability and refusal to rehire her despite competent performance prior to discharge constituted discrimination based on physical handicap under FEHA); American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 603, 607, 186 Cal. Rptr. 345, 651 P.2d 1151 (termination of person from insurance sales agent position because of high blood pressure constituted physical handicap discrimination).

(n380)Footnote 252. See Gov. Code § 12940(a).

(n381)Footnote 253. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n382)Footnote 254. See Gov. Code § 12926(h). "Medical condition" means (1) genetic characteristics and (2) any health impairment related to or associated with a diagnosis of cancer or a record or history of cancer. "Genetic characteristics" means (1) any scientifically or medically identifiable gene or chromosome, or any combination or alteration thereof, that is known to cause a disease or disorder in a person or offspring, or that is determined to be associated with a statistically increased risk of development of a disease or disorder, and that is presently not associated with any symptoms of any disease or disorder or (2) inherited characteristics that may derive from individual or family member, that are known to cause disease or disorder in person or offspring, or that are determined to be associated with statistically increased risk of development of disease or disorder, and that are presently not associated with any symptoms of any disease or disorder.

(n383)Footnote 255. See Gov. Code § 12940(a); see, e.g., Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 6, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769 (refusal of club to hire women was discrimination on account of sex, in violation of FEHA); County of Alameda v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 499, 504-505, 200 Cal. Rptr. 381 (county's employment of white person as cook when black person scored at top of eligibility list and was not hired constituted racially discriminatory refusal to hire, violating FEHA).

(n384)Footnote 256. See, e.g., Hardy v. Stumpf (1974) 37 Cal. App. 3d 958, 962-964, 112 Cal. Rptr. 739 (height and weight requirements for city police officer candidates had disparate impact on female applicants in violation of FEHA and California equal protection guarantee).

(n385)Footnote 257. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 367-368, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n386)Footnote 258. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.5(h); Ibarbia v. Regents of Univ. of Cal. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 1318, 1328-1329, 237 Cal. Rptr. 92 (rejection of Filipino-American for position was not racial or national origin discrimination, because plaintiff failed to complete application process and submit to interview).

(n387)Footnote 259. See Gov. Code § 12940(a), (c).

(n388)Footnote 260. See, e.g., City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Comm'n (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 986-987, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 (denial of promotion to black firefighters to lieutenant positions was based on promotional examination having disparate impact on black candidates); Best v. California Apprenticeship Council (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 626, 633-634, 207 Cal. Rptr. 863, 867-868 (denial of apprenticeship training to employee who had conscientious religious objection to nuclear power plant assignment violated FEHA's proscription of religious discrimination); Fair Employment Practice Comm'n v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 322, 323-324, 172 Cal. Rptr. 739 (denial of promotion to minority consultant constituted prohibited racial discrimination).

(n389)Footnote 261. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n390)Footnote 262. See Gov. Code §§ 12940(a), (h); Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1252, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022 ; Brady v. Elixir Industries (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1299, 1306, 242 Cal. Rptr. 324 (disapproved by Supreme Court in Turner to extent case permits plaintiff to state cause of action for constructive termination based on mere constructive knowledge by employer of intolerable conditions).

(n391)Footnote 263. Muller v. United States Steel Corporation (10th Cir. 1975) 509 F.2d 923, 929 ; Young v. Southwestern Savings and Loan Association (5th Cir. 1975) 509 F.2d 140, 144 .

(n392)Footnote 264. Nolan v. Cleland (9th Cir. 1982) 686 F.2d 806, 813 , quoting Bourque v. Powell Elec. Mfg. Co. (5th Cir. 1980) 617 F.2d 61, 65 ; see Held v. Gulf Oil Co. (6th Cir. 1982) 684 F.2d 427, 432 (three-year denial of promotion to female to marketing representative position, in atmosphere of sexist remarks and attitudes, constituted constructive discharge of plaintiff).

(n393)Footnote 265. See, e.g., DFEH v. Jack's Restaurant (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-08 at p. 10 (constructive discharge turns on whether working conditions were made so intolerable that reasonable person in employee's shoes would have felt compelled to resign); DFEH v. Hart & Starkey Inc. (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-23 at p. 26; DFEH v. Napa Housing Authority (1981) FEHC Dec. No. 81-12 at p. 24; DFEH v. Corcoran Police Department (1980) FEHC Dec. No. 80-31 at p. 13; DFEH v. Xerox Corporation (1980) FEHC Dec. No. 80-26 at p. 11.

(n394)Footnote 266. See, e.g., Brady v. Elixir Industries (1987) 196 Cal. App. 3d 1299, 1306, 242 Cal. Rptr. 324 (disapproved, Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1252, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022 , to extent that it permits plaintiff to state cause of action for constructive termination based on mere constructive knowledge by employer of intolerable conditions).

(n395)Footnote 267. Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1252, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022 ; see discussion in ch. 60.

(n396)Footnote 268. Turner v. Anheuser-Busch, Inc. (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 1238, 1248-1251, 32 Cal. Rptr. 2d 223, 876 P.2d 1022 .

(n397)Footnote 269. See Gov. Code § 12940(h).

(n398)Footnote 270. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n399)Footnote 271. Miller v. Fairchild Indus., Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731-732 (terminations following soon after protected activity was sufficient to establish prima facie case of retaliation that survived motion for summary judgment by employer); Gray v. Superior Court (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 813, 821, 226 Cal. Rptr. 570 (conclusory allegation of retaliatory dismissal was insufficient to withstand demurrer); Fair Employment Practice Comm'n v. State Personnel Bd. (1981) 117 Cal. App. 3d 322, 323-324, 172 Cal. Rptr. 739 (employer's denial of promotion because employee had "ruined his future" by filing charge of discrimination established unlawful retaliation).

(n400)Footnote 272. See Gov. Code § 12940(a), (l); see also Gov. Code § 12926(o) (definition of "religious creed"); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.3 (guidelines regarding reasonable accommodation of religion). For the standard jury instruction on the essential elements of a claim of the employer's failure to accommodate in a cause of action for religious creed discrimination, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2560 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For discussion of the CACI standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for the failure to accommodate, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2511 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms generally, see § 61.06.

(n401)Footnote 273. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n402)Footnote 274. See Gov. Code § 12940(a), (l).

(n403)Footnote 275. Best v. California Apprenticeship Council (1984) 161 Cal. App. 3d 626, 634, 207 Cal. Rptr. 863 (refusal of Joint Apprenticeship Training Council to accommodate sincerely held religious belief of trainee that prevented him from working in a nuclear power plant violated FEHA); cf. Anderson v. General Dynamics Convair, Etc. (9th Cir. 1978) 589 F.2d 397, 401 (employer and union were required by Title VII to accommodate employee's conscientious religious objection to joining union).

(n404)Footnote 276. See Gov. Code § 12940(l); see also Gov. Code § 12926(s) ("undue hardship" defined); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.3.

(n405)Footnote 277. See Gov. Code § 12940(a); see Gov. Code § 12926(n) (definition of "reasonable accommodation"). For the standard jury instruction on the essential factual elements of a claim of the employer's failure to reasonably accommodate a disability under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2541 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For the standard jury instruction defining "reasonable accommodation," see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2542 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of CACI jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for reasonable accommodation, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2509 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of CACI special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

(n406)Footnote 278. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n407)Footnote 279. See Gov. Code § 12940(a); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7293.9.

(n408)Footnote 280. See, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514 ; American National Ins. Co. v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1982) 32 Cal. 3d 603, 607, 186 Cal. Rptr. 345, 651 P.2d 1151 ; Fisher v. Superior Court (1986) 177 Cal. App. 3d 779, 783, 223 Cal. Rptr. 203 ; Johnson v. Civil Service Com. (1984) 153 Cal. App. 3d 585, 588, 200 Cal. Rptr. 289 ; Sterling Transit Co. v. Fair Employment Practice Comm'n (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 791, 794-795, 175 Cal. Rptr. 548 .

(n409)Footnote 281. Gov. Code § 12926(h) ("genetic characteristics" means either (1) any scientifically or medically identifiable gene or chromosome, or any combination or alteration thereof, that is known to cause disease or disorder in person or offspring, or that is determined to be associated with statistically increased risk of development of disease or disorder and that is presently not associated with any symptoms of any disease or disorder or (2) inherited characteristics that may derive from individual or family member, that are known to cause disease or disorder in person or offspring, or that are determined to be associated with statistically increased risk of development of disease or disorder, and that are presently not associated with any symptoms of any disease or disorder).

(n410)Footnote 282. Gov. Code § 12926(m).

(n411)Footnote 283. See Gov. Code § 12940(m); see also Gov. Code § 12926(s) (definition of "undue hardship"); see also Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 860 F.2d 1514 .

(n412)Footnote 284. Gov. Code § 12940(j), (k); see Gov. Code § 12926(b), (j). For the standard jury instructions on the essential factual elements of a claim of sexual harassment under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2520 (quid pro quo) (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions; CACI 2521 (hostile work environment sexual harassment with employer or entity defendant); CACI 2522 (hostile work environment sexual harassment with individual defendant). For the standard jury instruction defining "harassing conduct," see CACI 2523. For the standard jury instruction defining "hostile work environment," see CACI 2524. For the standard jury instruction defining "supervisor" for use in a quid pro quo sexual harassment case under FEHA, see CACI 2525. For discussion of the CACI standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict forms for claims of sexual harassment under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2505 (quid pro quo) (Matthew Bender); CACI VF-2506 (hostile work environment harassment with employer or entity defendant); CACI VF-2507 (hostile work environment harassment with individual defendant). For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

(n413)Footnote 285. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n414)Footnote 286. Gov. Code § 12940(j).

(n415)Footnote 287. Gov. Code § 12940(k); Trujillo v. North County Transit Dist. (1998) 63 Cal. App. 4th 280, 288-289, 73 Cal. Rptr. 2d 596 (no suit may be maintained for violation of affirmative duty to prevent harassment if plaintiffs have not actually suffered any employment discrimination or harassment).

(n416)Footnote 288. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7287.6(b), 7291.1(f)(1).

(n417)Footnote 289. See, e.g., DFEH v. Fresno Hilton Hotel (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-03; DFEH v. Jack's Restaurant (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-08; DFEH v. Bee Hive Answering Service (1984) FEHC Dec. No. 84-16; DFEH v. Ambylou Enterprises, Inc. (1982) FEHC Dec. No. 82-06.

(n418)Footnote 290. See Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 610, 612-613, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842.

(n419)Footnote 291. See Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 610, 613-614, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842.

(n420)Footnote 292. See Gov. Code §§ 12940(j)(1), 12945(a), (b).

(n421)Footnote 293. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n422)Footnote 294. See Gov. Code § 12945(a). Title VII also prohibits discrimination on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions, as an aspect of its prohibition against sex discrimination. see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(k); see also 29 C.F.R. § 1604.10(a) (excluding applicants or employees from employment because of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions is prima facie violation of Title VII).

(n423)Footnote 295. See Gov. Code § 12945(a); see ch. 41, pt. D.

(n424)Footnote 296. California Federal S. & L. Ass'n v. Guerra (1987) 479 U.S. 272, 107 S. Ct. 683, 93 L. Ed. 2d 613; see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(k).

(n425)Footnote 297. Gov. Code § 12945(b) (employer is not required to create additional employment to reasonably accommodate, or to fire, transfer, or promote solely for this purpose); see ch. 41, pt. D.

(n426)Footnote 298. Gov. Code § 12940(j)(1), (4)(C).

(n427)Footnote 299. Gov. Code § 12947.5(a).

(n428)Footnote 300. Gov. Code § 12947.5(b), (c).

(n429)Footnote 301. Gov. Code § 12947.5(d).

(n430)Footnote 302. See Gov. Code §§ 12960, 12965. For discussion of exhaustion of administrative remedies under FEHA generally, see [3], above. For discussion of administrative remedies under FEHA, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n431)Footnote 303. See Carter v. Smith Food King (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 916, 922 (union not named in FEHA charge was properly dismissed from that cause of action in suit).

(n432)Footnote 304. See Code Civ. Proc. § 430.10(e); see, e.g., Gray v. Superior Court (1986) 181 Cal. App. 3d 813, 820, 226 Cal. Rptr. 570 .

(n433)Footnote 305. See Gov. Code §§ 12960, 12965(b); see also [4], above.

(n434)Footnote 306. Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(b).

(n435)Footnote 307. [Reserved]

(n436)Footnote 308. Code Civ. Proc. § 446.

(n437)Footnote 309. See Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d).

(n438)Footnote 310. See Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(d).

(n439)Footnote 311. Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(e).

(n440)Footnote 312. Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(f).

(n441)Footnote 313. Code Civ. Proc. § 431.30(f).

(n442)Footnote 314. Code Civ. Proc. § 431.20(a).

(n443)Footnote 315. See Gov. Code §§ 12960, 12965. For discussion, see [3], above.

(n444)Footnote 316. See Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(b); see also Myers v. Mobil Oil Corp. (1985) 172 Cal. App. 3d 1059, 1062-1064, 218 Cal. Rptr. 630 (when plaintiff failed to file charge of retaliation and failed to file suit within one year after issuance of right-to-sue letter, defendant obtained judgment on pleadings).

(n445)Footnote 317. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a).

(n446)Footnote 318. See Gov. Code §§ 12960 (limitation period for filing complaint with DFEH), 12965(b) (limitation period for filing civil complaint).

(n447)Footnote 319. Code Civ. Proc. § 430.30(a).

(n448)Footnote 320. See Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(e), 430.30.

(n449)Footnote 321. See Williams v. Pacific Mutual Life Ins. Co. (1986) 186 Cal. App. 3d 941, 950-951, 231 Cal. Rptr. 234 .

(n450)Footnote 322. County of Fresno v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1991) 226 Cal. App. 3d 1541, 1556, 277 Cal. Rptr. 557 .

(n451)Footnote 323. See Gov. Code § 12940; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(a). For the standard jury instruction on the affirmative defense of bona fide occupational qualification under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2501 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for the affirmative defense of bona fide occupational qualification to a claim of disparate treatment, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2501 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms, see § 61.06.

(n452)Footnote 324. See Gov. Code § 12940; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(a); Bohemian Club v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1986) 187 Cal. App. 3d 1, 19-23, 231 Cal. Rptr. 769 (exclusion of women from employment by private men's club not justified by BFOQ defense nor by male preference for male employees).

(n453)Footnote 325. For discussion of order and burden of proof under disparate-impact theory, see [2][c], above. For discussion of disparate-impact theory generally, see ch. 41, pt. A.

(n454)Footnote 326. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(b). For the standard jury instruction on the affirmative defense of business necessity under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2503 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For the standard jury instruction on rebuttal to the business necessity defense under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2504 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for the affirmative defense of business necessity and rebuttal to the business necessity defense, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2503 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict form, see § 61.06.

(n455)Footnote 327. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 7286.7(c), 7287.4(e). For the standard jury instruction on the affirmative defense of job relatedness under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2503 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For the standard jury instruction on rebuttal to the job relatedness defense under FEHA, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2504 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for the affirmative defense of job relatedness and rebuttal to the job relatedness defense, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2503 (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict form, see § 61.06.

(n456)Footnote 328. See Gov. Code § 12940; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(d).

(n457)Footnote 329. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.7(e), (f).

(n458)Footnote 330. See Gov. Code § 12940(a)(1), (2); see also Gov. Code § 12926(f) (definition of "essential functions"). For the standard jury instruction for the affirmative defense to a disability discrimination claim under FEHA that the employee was unable to perform essential job duties, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2543 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05.

(n459)Footnote 331. See Gov. Code § 12940(a)(1), (2).

(n460)Footnote 332. See Gov. Code § 12940(a)(1), (2); see also Gov. Code § 12926(f) (definition of "essential functions"); Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514. For the standard jury instruction for the affirmative defense that an employee could not perform the job without being a health or safety risk, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2544 (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions. For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05.

(n461)Footnote 333. See Gov. Code § 12940(l), (m); see also Gov. Code § 12926(s) (definition of "undue hardship"); see also Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514 (discussing undue-hardship defense but holding that employer could not show undue hardship with regard to disability accommodation). For the standard jury instruction for the affirmative defense in a FEHA claim that proposed accommodations would cause the employer undue hardship, see Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2545 (disability discrimination) (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions; Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2561 (religious discrimination) (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the standard jury instructions generally, see § 61.05. For the CACI special verdict form for the affirmative defense of undue hardship, see CACI Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, VF-2510 (disability discrimination) (Matthew Bender); Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2512 (religious discrimination) (Matthew Bender). For discussion of the CACI special verdict forms generally, see § 61.06.

(n462)Footnote 334. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.9(a)(1)(A) (mitigation of back-pay awards in FEHC remedies); see also Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514 .

(n463)Footnote 335. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1332, 1441. see Snead v. Metropolitan Property & Cas. Ins. Co. (9th Cir. 2001) 237 F.3d 1080, 1094 (when entertaining motions for summary judgment in employment discrimination cases arising under state law, federal courts sitting in diversity must apply McDonnell Douglas burden-shifting scheme as federal procedural rule).

(n464)Footnote 336. Yellow Freight System v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834, 838 .

(n465)Footnote 337. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343(a)(4), 1441(a).

(n466)Footnote 338. See United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 722, 725, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 .

(n467)Footnote 339. See United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 725, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 .

(n468)Footnote 340. See United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 726, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 .

(n469)Footnote 341. See, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 841 n.1 , aff'd, 860 F.2d 1514 (9th Cir. 1988) .

(n470)Footnote 342. See United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 726-727, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 .

(n471)Footnote 343. See 28 U.S.C. § 1367, as added by Pub. L. No. 101-650, § 310.

(n472)Footnote 344. Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 73-82, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 ; see Gov. Code § 12993(a).

(n473)Footnote 345. See generally [3], above, and in ch. 42.

(n474)Footnote 346. Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 88, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 .

(n475)Footnote 347. See ch. 40, pt. B.

(n476)Footnote 348. See Rojo v. Kliger (1990) 52 Cal. 3d 65, 89-91, 276 Cal. Rptr. 130, 801 P.2d 373 ; Blom v. N.G.K. Spark Plugs, Inc. (1992) 3 Cal. App. 4th 382, 386-388, 4 Cal. Rptr. 2d 139 .

(n477)Footnote 349. Fisher v. San Pedro Peninsula Hosp. (1989) 214 Cal. App. 3d 590, 618, 622, 262 Cal. Rptr. 842 ; see generally Levy, Golden, & Sacks, California Torts, ch. 44.

(n478)Footnote 350. See Langridge v. Oakland Superior Sch. Dist. (1994) 25 Cal. App. 4th 664, 666, 31 Cal. Rptr. 2d 34 , disapproved on other grounds, City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1156, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 ; Angell v. Peterson Tractor, Inc. (1994) 21 Cal. App. 4th 981, 986-987, 26 Cal. Rptr. 2d 541 ; Usher v. American Airlines Inc. (1993) 20 Cal. App. 4th 1520, 1526, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 335 , disapproved on other grounds, City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n479)Footnote 351. Gov. Code § 12993(a).

(n480)Footnote 352. See City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n481)Footnote 353. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n482)Footnote 354. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1148, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n483)Footnote 355. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court(1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1158, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n484)Footnote 356. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1154, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n485)Footnote 357. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1154-1155, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 (Portillo court erred by ignoring fact that legislature can add remedies to supplement other remedies and holding that workers' compensation was exclusive remedy on ground that Section 132a addressed precise wrong in question); Fretland v. County of Humboldt (1999) 69 Cal. App. 4th 1478, 1483-1487, 1492-1493, 82 Cal. Rptr. 2d 359 (FEHA and emotional distress claims are not barred by workers' compensation exclusive remedy provisions).

(n486)Footnote 358. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1155, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n487)Footnote 359. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1158, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n488)Footnote 360. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1159, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 ; see Stevenson v. Superior Court (1997) 16 Cal. 4th 880, 894, 66 Cal. Rptr. 2d 888, 941 P.2d 1157 .

(n489)Footnote 361. Gov. Code § 12940(a)(1).

(n490)Footnote 362. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal. 4th 1143, 1160-1161, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n491)Footnote 363. Bagatti v. Department of Rehabilitation (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 344, 363-368, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 .

(n492)Footnote 364. Gov. Code § 12940(a).

(n493)Footnote 365. City of Moorpark v. Superior Court (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1143, 1155, 77 Cal. Rptr. 2d 445, 959 P.2d 752 .

(n494)Footnote 366. Bagatti v. Department of Rehabilitation (2002) 97 Cal. App. 4th 344, 366-367, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 443 .

(n495)Footnote 366.1. Haluck v. Ricoh Electronics, Inc. (2007) 151 Cal. App. 4th 994, 60 Cal. Rptr. 3d 542 .

(n496)Footnote 366.2. Apr. 2, 1953, 4 U.S.T. 2063, T.I.A.S. No. 2863.

(n497)Footnote 366.3. 4 U.S.T. 2063, 2070.

(n498)Footnote 366.4. See also Kirmse v. Hotel Nikko (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 311, 317, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 96 (article VIII(1) is intended to give both parties to treaty degree of discretion in staffing enterprises operating in other's country with managerial or technical personnel from home country).

(n499)Footnote 366.5. Kirmse v. Hotel Nikko (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 311, 317, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 96 . See also Sumitomo Shoji America, Inc. v. Avagliano (1982) 457 U.S. 176, 102 S.Ct. 2374, 72 L.Ed.2d 765 (United States branches of Japanese corporation would be subject to treaty, while locally incorporated subsidiaries would not); Fortino v. Quasar Co. (7th Cir. 1991) 950 F.2d 389 (distinguishing Sumitomo on ground that in that case, there was no claim subsidiary's discriminatory conduct had been mandated by Japanese parent), rejected by Kirmse v. Hotel Nikko (1996) 51 Cal. App. 4th 311, 319-321, 59 Cal. Rptr. 2d 96 .

(n500)Footnote 366.6. See Gov. Code §§ 815.2(b), 820.2.

(n501)Footnote 366.7. DeJung v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 533, 542-548, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 99 .

(n502)Footnote 366.8. Gov. Code §§ 811.2, 811.4, 811.9.

(n503)Footnote 366.9. Gov. Code § 815.

(n504)Footnote 366.10. Gov. Code § 815.2(a).

(n505)Footnote 366.11. Gov. Code § 815.2(b).

(n506)Footnote 366.12. See Gov. Code § 820.2 et seq.

(n507)Footnote 366.13. Gov. Code § 820.2.

(n508)Footnote 366.14. Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 .

(n509)Footnote 366.15. Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 988-989, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 .

(n510)Footnote 366.16. Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 988-989, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 .

(n511)Footnote 366.17. Caldwell v. Montoya (1995) 10 Cal. 4th 972, 989 n.9, 42 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 897 P.2d 1320 . See also Farmers Ins. Group v. County of Santa Clara (1995) 11 Cal. 4th 992, 1014-1015 n. 12, 47 Cal. Rptr. 2d 478, 906 P.2d 440 (reiterating in dicta that FEHA provides basis of direct entity liability independent of derivative liabilities addressed in Gov. Code § 815.2).

(n512)Footnote 366.18. DeJung v. Superior Court (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 533, 542-548, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 99 .

(n513)Footnote 366.19. See Gov. Code § 12926(d).

(n514)Footnote 366.20. See Cal. Const., art. VI, § 22; Gov. Code § 71622(a).

(n515)Footnote 366.21. See also Cal. Stds. Jud. Admin. §§ 10.20, 10.21 (courts have duty to refrain from bias in conducting proceedings and not to discriminate in recruiting for court-appointed positions); Cal. Code Jud. Ethics, canon 3C (judges must discharge administrative responsibilities without bias or prejudice; must exercise the power of appointment impartially on the basis of merit; and must not engage in conduct that would reasonably be perceived as bias, including bias based on age).

(n516)Footnote 366.22. Beyda v. City of Los Angeles (1998) 65 Cal. App. 4th 511, 518, 76 Cal. Rptr. 2d 547 .

(n517)Footnote 366.23. See Evid. Code § 1101(a) (except as provided in Evid. Code § 1101, evidence of person's character or trait of character, whether in form of opinion, evidence of reputation, or evidence of specific instances of conduct, is inadmissible when offered to prove person's conduct on specified occasion).

(n518)Footnote 366.24. Johnson v. United Cerebral Palsy/Spastic Children's Foundation of Los Angeles and Ventura Counties (2009) 173 Cal. App. 4th 740, 93 Cal. Rptr. 3d 198, 2009 Cal. App. LEXIS 648, *30-*60 .

(n519)Footnote 366.25. See Obrey v. Johnson (9th Cir. 2005) 400 F.3d 691, 694-699 (in action alleging employer engaged in pattern or practice of racial discrimination in promotions to senior management positions, pattern or practice evidence in form of anecdotal evidence of three fellow employees who believed they had suffered race discrimination was relevant and admissible, where fact that jury had to assess credibility of three fellow employees to determine weight of their testimony did not constitute undue delay or waste of time under Fed. R. Evid. 403); Heyne v. Caruso (9th Cir. 1995) 69 F.3d 1475, 1479-1480 (after plaintiff presented prima facie case of quid pro quo sexual harassment by owner of the restaurant in which she worked and owner asserted legitimate reason for the firing, i.e., that plaintiff was late in opening up restaurant on two consecutive mornings, trial court committed prejudicial error in excluding testimonial evidence of other female employees at restaurant who allegedly were sexually harassed by owner, where employer's conduct tending to demonstrate hostility toward certain group was both relevant and admissible because employer's general hostility toward group was true reason behind firing employee who was member of that group, and where, although employer's alleged harassment of other female employees could not be used by plaintiff to show his character to prove that he acted toward plaintiff in conformity with that character, it was admissible to prove his motive or intent under Fed. R. Evid. 404 in discharging plaintiff). See also Sprint/United Management Co. v. Mendelsohn (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1140, 1144-1147, 170 L.Ed.2d 1 (in action involving alleged age discrimination, relevance of evidence from several former employees who claimed they too were discriminated against by employer because of their age and who had not worked in same department or been supervised by same people as plaintiff was fact based and depended on many factors, including how closely related evidence was to plaintiff's circumstances and theory of case, and similar considerations were involved in balancing probative value of evidence against its prejudicial effect; challenged evidence was neither per se admissible nor inadmissible, and trial court should have been given opportunity to clarify evidentiary ruling it made at trial because basis of ruling was not clear); People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal. 4th 380, 27 Cal. Rptr. 2d 646, 867 P.2d 757 (under Evid. Code § 1101(b), evidence of intent is admissible to prove that defendant committed act alleged with intent comprising element of charged offense; to be admissible to prove intent, evidence of uncharged misconduct must be sufficiently similar to support inference that defendant probably harbored same intent in each instance); Bihun v. AT&T Information Systems, Inc. (1993) 13 Cal. App. 4th 976, 987-988, 990-991, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 787 , disapproved on another point in Lakin v. Watkins Associated Industries (1993) 6 Cal. 4th 644, 664, 25 Cal. Rptr. 2d 109, 863 P.2d 179 (sexual harassment case in which testimony regarding employer's area vice-president's sexual harassment of other employees was admissible to show employer's knowledge of misconduct). For discussion of the requirements for a plaintiff in an employment discrimination action to show pretext, see § 41.41.11[1][d].

(n520)Footnote 367. See Gov. Code § 12965(b).

(n521)Footnote 368. See Cal. Const., Art. I, § 16.

(n522)Footnote 369. See, e.g., Strauss v. Summerhays (1984) 157 Cal. App. 3d 806, 812, 204 Cal. Rptr. 227 ;

Interinsurance Exch. v. Savior (1975) 51 Cal. App. 3d 691, 693, 124 Cal. Rptr. 239 .

(n523)Footnote 370. See Asare v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. (1991) 1 Cal. App. 4th 856, 868-869, 2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 452 .

(n524)Footnote 371. See Code Civ. Proc. § 631. For general discussion of right to jury trial generally and waiver of jury trial, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 322, Juries and Verdicts.

(n525)Footnote 372. See Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 2500 et seq. (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions.

(n526)Footnote 373. Cal. Rules of Ct., Rule 2.1050.

(n527)Footnote 374. See Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI VF-2500 et seq. (Matthew Bender), also available in LexisNexis Automated Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions.

(n528)Footnote 375. See Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions, CACI 260 (Matthew Bender) (Burden of Proof and Preponderance of Evidence).

(n529)Footnote 376. Huffman v. Interstate Brands Corp. (2004) 121 Cal. App. 4th 679, 700-707, 17 Cal. Rptr. 3d 397 . For the defendant's burden of proof in a discrimination case based on disparate treatment, see § 41.11[1][c].

(n530)Footnote 377. Wysinger v. Automobile Club of So. Cal. (2007) 157 Cal. App. 4th 413, 422-424, 69 Cal. Rptr. 3d 1 .

(n531)Footnote 378. See, e.g., Harris v. City of Santa Monica (2010) Cal. App, LEXIS 135 (trial court erred in refusing to instruct jury with BAJI No. 12.26 on city's "mixed-motive" defense).

4 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. STATE LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.02

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.02 California Equal Pay Act

[1] Right of Action

The California Equal Pay Act¹ provides that no employer may employ any person at a wage rate lower than that paid to employees of the opposite sex, in the same establishment, for equal work in jobs that require equal skill, effort, and responsibility and that are performed under similar working conditions.² However, the act does not prohibit a difference in wages that is due to a seniority system, a merit system, a system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production, or any bona fide factor other than sex.³ For full discussion of the substantive requirements of the Equal Pay Act, see Chapter 41, Part D. Any employee who receives less than the wage to which he or she is entitled under the Equal Pay Act may bring a civil action against the employer.⁴

The substantive provisions of the California Equal Pay Act are comparable to the substantive provisions of the federal Equal Pay Act.⁵ Although few reported cases have interpreted the California Equal Pay Act, the similar purpose and nearly identical language of the two statutes make it likely that judicial interpretation of the California Equal Pay Act will follow the federal interpretation of the federal Equal Pay Act, just as judicial interpretation of the FEHA⁶ generally follows interpretation of the parallel provisions of Title VII.⁷ For discussion of the federal Equal Pay Act, see § 43.12.

The California Equal Pay Act, the FEHA, the federal Equal Pay Act, and Title VII overlap considerably in their application to sex discrimination in pay. An employee who alleges that he or she is being paid less on account of sex may choose one or more of these statutory bases for legal challenge to the practice.⁸

■ PRACTICE TIP:--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

The proper choice among the four statutory remedies will vary with the facts of the case. The variables affecting this choice include (1) the effectiveness and helpfulness of the particular administrative agency that enforces the statute; (2) whether the case is a "pure" equal pay case, logically fitting within the California and federal Equal Pay Act(s), or whether it involves elements of "comparable worth," unequal job assignments, long-standing segregation of one sex into lower-paying job categories, or other allegations that fit more appropriately into the framework of either Title VII⁹ or the FEHA;¹⁰ and (3) which defenses are likely to be asserted, and the strength of those defenses. Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

In an equal pay case, plaintiff bears the burden of proving the following:¹¹

1. That the employer¹² has paid or is paying the plaintiff less than the employer paid or pays one or more persons of the other sex;
2. That the male and female employees are working in the same establishment;
3. That the male and female employees are performing substantially equal work,¹³ which does not mean identical work;¹⁴
4. That the work of the employees requires equal skill, effort, and responsibility;¹⁵ and
5. That the work is performed under similar working conditions.¹⁶

If the plaintiff proves each of the elements of the case set forth above, the defendant can justify the wage difference only by proving that the pay difference is due to the following:¹⁷

1. A seniority system;
2. A merit system;
3. A system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production; or
4. Any bona fide factor other than sex.¹⁸

For discussion of defenses under the Equal Pay Act, see Chapter 41, Parts D and E.

[3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

A person seeking redress under the California Equal Pay Act need not file an administrative charge nor exhaust any other administrative remedy before or in lieu of filing a civil action under the act.¹⁹ In Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn.,²⁰ the court of appeal held that a woman claiming that she received a $700 per month advance against her commissions although males in the same sales positions received $800 per month did not have to pursue any administrative remedy in order to bring a civil suit under the California Equal Pay Act, because the act itself sets forth the option of going directly to court,²¹ in contrast to the FEHA,²² which specifically requires exhaustion of administrative remedies.²³

The employee has the option of pursuing an administrative remedy by filing a complaint with the Labor Commissioner within six months after the occurrence of the violation, pursuant to Labor Code Section 98.7.²⁴ If such a claim is filed, the Labor Commissioner must investigate it, and may enforce the claimant's rights by administrative orders, and/or by bringing suit on behalf of the claimant.²⁵ If the employee is dissatisfied with the Labor Commissioner's handling of the complaint, he or she may bring an action or intervene in any action brought by the Commissioner.²⁶ However, the employee's consent to the Labor Commissioner's filing of suit waives the employee's private right of action.²⁷

For discussion of administrative procedure under Labor Code Section 98.7, see Chapter 5, Part A, Subpart 5.

[4] Statutes of Limitations

A civil action under the California Equal Pay Act must be filed not later than two years after the alleged violation of the act, or not later than three years after the alleged violation in a case where the violation is willful.ⁿ²⁸ This statute of limitations marks the beginning point of back pay and damage liability as well; that is, a person claiming unequal pay on account of sex cannot recover back pay (or liquidated damages) for any period more than two or three years, as applicable, before the filing of the complaint.ⁿ²⁹

Claims under the California Equal Pay Act are subject to equitable tolling.ⁿ³⁰ The doctrine of equitable tolling provides, among other things, that if an injured person has several legal remedies, and he or she reasonably and in good faith pursues one, the statute of limitation is tolled for the others.ⁿ³¹ Accordingly, the time limits set forth in Labor Code Section 1197.5(h) may be extended in certain situations. For example, in one case, in which a plaintiff with a California Equal Pay Act claim had pursued her remedy under federal law first under the federal Equal Pay Act, the court applied equitable tolling principles to extend the back-pay liability period to include the time between the federal filing and the state filing.ⁿ³² However, the doctrine, which is subject to judicial discretion, is not likely to rescue many plaintiffs from dismissal due to untimeliness.

[5] Subject Matter Jurisdiction and Venue

Superior or small claims courts have jurisdiction over state Equal Pay Act claims, depending on the amount of money that is at issue.ⁿ³³ When a plaintiff is litigating a federal Equal Pay Act claim, the federal court may adjudicate the state Equal Pay Act claim under the doctrine of pendent jurisdiction.ⁿ³⁴

Because the Equal Pay Act lacks a specific venue provision, venue in an action under the act is established according to the general venue provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.ⁿ³⁵

[6] Parties

The parties to a California Equal Pay Act suit are the individual person(s) aggrieved and/or the State Labor Commissioner as plaintiffs,ⁿ³⁶ and the employer as defendant.ⁿ³⁷

It is unclear whether a party may bring a class action under the California Equal Pay Act. The federal Equal Pay Act prohibits class actions, in that it requires each named plaintiff to give individual written consent to the suit.ⁿ³⁸ The California Equal Pay Act does not contain a provision parallel to the federal law. However, the California statute does seem to allow the Labor Commissioner to bring class actions on behalf of similarly situated employees,ⁿ³⁹ although it leaves unclear the question of whether an employee can bring such an action on behalf of other similarly situated employees.

[7] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

A private plaintiff as well as the Labor Commissioner may recover back pay for proven violations of the California Equal Pay Act.ⁿ⁴⁰ The amount of back pay that is recoverable consists of the wage differential for the period of discrimination, commencing at a time not to exceed two years prior to filing suit, or three years if the violation is willful, and ending with the date of judgment.ⁿ⁴¹ However, if equitable tolling principles apply, it is possible that the time period for recovery of back pay may be extended.ⁿ⁴²

[b] Injunctive Relief

In administrative proceedings before the Labor Commissioner under Labor Code Section 98.7 for violation of the Equal Pay Act, or in a civil action brought by the complainant if the Labor Commissioner dismisses the administrative proceedings, injunctive relief is available, including restraints of violations.ⁿ⁴³ The Equal Pay Act itself does not expressly state whether or not such equitable remedies are available in a civil action under the act when the complainant does not first file an administrative complaint.ⁿ⁴⁴

[c] Liquidated Damages

In addition to back pay, the employee is also entitled to an amount that is equal to the amount of wages owed as "liquidated damages."ⁿ⁴⁵ However, if an employee recovers under Labor Code Section 1197.5(b) and also recovers under the federal Equal Pay Act for the same violation, the employee must return to the employer the amount of the lower recovery.ⁿ⁴⁶

[d] Prejudgment Interest

The California Equal Pay Act expressly declares that an employer who violates its substantive provision is liable for interest on the amount of wages that it owes.ⁿ⁴⁷

[e] Attorney's Fees and Costs

The prevailing plaintiff in a case under the California Equal Pay Act can recover costs of suit and reasonable attorney's fees.ⁿ⁴⁸ In administrative proceedings under the Equal Pay Act, the Labor Commissioner may direct the complainant to pay the employer's reasonable attorney's fees associated with the hearing if the Commissioner finds that the complaint was frivolous, unreasonable, groundless, and in bad faith.ⁿ⁴⁹ However, there is no provision in the Equal Pay Act for an award of attorney's fees to a prevailing employer in a civil action under the act.

[8] FORM--Complaint for Violation of California Equal Pay Act--General Form

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a general complaint for back pay and liquidated damages for violation of the California Equal Pay Act.ⁿ⁵⁰

The complaint contains the following allegations: (1) the capacity and residence of the plaintiff (Paragraph 1); (2) the sex of the plaintiff and the fact that plaintiff was or is an employee of defendant (Paragraph 2); (3) that the employer employs persons of both sexes and the location of the employer's business (Paragraph 3); (4) that plaintiff filed an administrative complaint with the Labor Commissioner, if plaintiff has filed such a complaint (Optional Paragraph 4);ⁿ⁵¹ (5) a description of plaintiff's employment position with defendant and his or her responsibilities in defendant's business (Paragraph 5); (6) that defendant has paid plaintiff at a lower rate than another employee or other employees of the opposite sex (Paragraph 6);ⁿ⁵² (7) that plaintiff and the higher-paid employee or employees of the opposite sex (a) work in the same establishment; (b) perform equal work; (c) perform work requiring equal skill, effort, and responsibilities; and (d) perform their jobs under the same working conditions (Paragraph 7);ⁿ⁵³ (8) that plaintiff is entitled to back pay plus interest, liquidated damages, attorney's fees, and costs for violation of the Equal Pay Act (Paragraph 8);ⁿ⁵⁴ and (9) if appropriate, that defendant's violation of the Equal Pay Act was willful (Optional Paragraph 9).ⁿ⁵⁵

For illustrative forms of allegations of other specific conduct that violates the California Equal Pay Act, see [9], below. Those allegations may be substituted for Paragraph 6 in the general form below.

[b] Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF _____

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	NO. _____
vs.	)	COMPLAINT FOR MONETARY RELIEF FOR
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	UNEQUAL PAY ON ACCOUNT OF SEX
	)	(California Equal Pay Act)
	)	(Lab. Code § 1197.5)

Plaintiff alleges:

1. Plaintiff _____ [name] is an adult person and a resident of the County of _____, State of California.

2. Plaintiff is a _____ [female or male]. From _____ [date commencement of employment], to _____ [date of termination of employment, if any, or current date], plaintiff _____ [was or has been] employed by defendant _____ [name].

[EITHER]

3. Defendant is a(n) _____ [specify nature of defendant/employer, e.g., bank] employing approximately _____ [number] of employees of both sexes. Defendant's establishment is located at _____ [address], _____ [city], California.

[OR]

3. Defendant is a(n) _____ [specify nature of defendant/employer, e.g., bank]. Defendant employs plaintiff and at least one person of the _____ [state sex of employee(s) alleged to be paid more] sex. Defendant's establishment is located at _____ [address], _____ [city], California.

[CONTINUE]

[4. Plaintiff has filed a complaint with the Labor Commissioner pursuant to Labor Code Section 98.7 based on his/her claim of discrimination in payment of wages because of sex. The Labor Commissioner took the following actions with regard to the complaint: _____ (describe actions taken by Labor Commissioner, including investigations and hearings, if any). The outcome of the investigation of charges by the Labor Commissioner is as follows: _____ (specify outcome of action by Labor Commissioner).]

5. Plaintiff is/was employed by defendant in the position of _____ [job title] in defendant's business establishment identified in Paragraph 3, above. In this capacity plaintiff's responsibilities include: _____ [describe nature of plaintiff's job; indicate duties performed and general nature of skill, effort, and responsibility required of plaintiff].

6. [On the basis of plaintiff's information and belief, plaintiff alleges that] [F]rom _____ [identify first date of unequal pay], until _____ [allege date, if any, on which employer ceased paying plaintiff less, due to sex, or, if the practice is continuing, allege current date and state that violation is continuing], defendant [has] paid to plaintiff a lower _____ [wage or salary] rate than that paid to one or more of the employees of defendant of the _____ [specify the sex favored by discrimination] sex. [The amount of the difference between wages paid to plaintiff and wages paid to members of the _____ (specify) sex is $ _____ per _____ (specify unit of time, e.g., hour).]

7. Plaintiff and the other employee(s) of defendant who is/are paid more than plaintiff (1) work in the same establishment; (2) perform equal work; (3) perform work that requires equal skill, effort, and responsibility; and (4) perform their jobs under similar working conditions.

8. [On the basis of plaintiff's information and belief, plaintiff alleges that] [D]efendant has failed or refused to pay to plaintiff the sum of $ _____, which is the difference between the amount plaintiff has earned in the position and the amount paid to the other employee(s) of the _____ [sex favored by the discrimination] sex over the period of time alleged in Paragraph 6, above. Pursuant to the California Equal Pay Act, Labor Code Section 1197.5, defendant owes plaintiff that sum as and for back pay, a sum equal to that amount as and for "liquidated damages," interest on the back pay amount, and attorney's fees and costs of suit.

[9. Defendant employer's violation of plaintiff's rights under the California Equal Pay Act is and has been willful in that _____ (set forth knowledge or information and belief regarding facts giving rise to characterization of willful violation).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For wages owed to plaintiff because of defendant's violation of the Equal Pay Act, in the amount of $ _____ [specify amount or approximate amount based on information and belief], with interest on that amount from _____ [date];
2. For liquidated damages equal to the sum of wages owed to plaintiff because of defendant's violation of the Equal Pay Act, in the amount of $ _____ [specify same amount as that listed in Paragraph 1 of prayer];
3. For reasonable attorney's fees pursuant to Labor Code Section 1197.5(g);
4. For costs of suit incurred herein; and
5. For such other relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Add verification, if desired
(see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 446, 2015.5).]

[9] Allegations of Specific Violations of California Equal Pay Act

[a] FORM--Allegations of Specific Violations of California Equal Pay Act--Unequal Salary, Wage, Bonus, Commission, or Draw

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains allegations of different types of discriminatory pay in violation of the California Equal Pay Act, including sex-differential wages or salaryⁿ⁵⁶ or bonuses, commissions, or draws on commissions.ⁿ⁵⁷

These allegations should be used, as appropriate, to replace, modify, or supplement the allegations in Paragraph 6 of the general complaint for violation of the California Equal Pay Act set forth in [8][b] above.

[ii] Form

1. Plaintiff alleges that from _____ [first date of unequal pay], _____ [until _____ (date) or and continuing to the present time], defendant has paid to plaintiff a lower [rate of] _____ [wage or salary or bonus or commission or draw] than that paid to one or more of the employees of defendant of the _____ [specify sex favored by discriminatory act of employer] sex. [The amount of the difference between the _____ (wage or salary or bonus or commission or draw) paid to plaintiff and that paid to members of the _____ (specify sex favored by discriminatory act of employer) sex is $ _____ per _____ (specify unit of time, e.g., month).]

[b] FORM--Allegations of Specific Violations of California Equal Pay Act--Unequal Fringe Benefits or Allowances

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, contains an allegation of unequal fringe benefits or allowances in violation of the state Equal Pay Act. While no California court has applied the California Equal Pay Act to prohibit sex-differential fringe benefits and allowances, unequal allocation of benefits, such as clothing or travel allowances, on the basis of sex, violates the federal Equal Pay Act, which is similar in language and purpose to the state statute.ⁿ⁵⁸

When the alleged wrong consists of unequal benefits or allowances, this allegation should be used, as appropriate, to replace, modify, or supplement the allegations in Paragraph 6 of the general complaint for violation of the California Equal Pay Act set forth in [7][b] above.

[ii] Form

1. Plaintiff alleges that from _____ [first date of unequal compensation], _____ [until _____ (date) or and continuing to the present time], defendant has paid to plaintiff a lower _____ [allowance for _____ (specify, e.g., travel) or _____ (specify type of benefit, e.g., health insurance) benefit] than that paid to one or more of the employees of defendant of the _____ [specify sex favored by discriminatory act] sex. [The amount of the difference in the _____ (allowance or benefit) provided to plaintiff and that provided to members of the _____ (specify sex favored by discriminatory act of employer) sex is $ _____ (per _____ (specify unit of time, e.g., month)).]

[10] FORM--General Answer to Complaint for Violation of California Equal Pay Act

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is an answer to a complaint for violation of the California Equal Pay Act (Labor Code Section 1197.5).ⁿ⁵⁹ The employer in an action under the California Equal Pay Act may assert specific statutory defenses to an alleged violation of the act.ⁿ⁶⁰ Any answer to a complaint under the Equal Pay Act should either deny that there is any pay or compensation differential or plead one or more of these affirmative defenses, or both. The form in [b], below, sets forth the answer that there is no pay or compensation differential. For forms of affirmative defenses based on the specific defenses listed in the California Equal Pay Act that may be added to the general answer, see [11], below.

For discussion of general requirements for answers under California law, see § 43.01[12][a].

[b] Form

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA

COUNTY OF _____

[or other court as appropriate]

_____ [name],

Plaintiff,

vs.

_____ [name], Defendant.

)

)

)

)

)

)

NO. _____

ANSWER TO COMPLAINT FOR MONETARY

RELIEF FOR DISCRIMINATION IN PAY ON AC-

COUNT OF SEX

(California Equal Pay Act)

(Lab. Code § 1197.5)

Defendant answers the complaint and alleges as follows:

[EITHER, if complaint is unverified (general denial)]

Pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 431.30, defendant _____ [name], in answer to plaintiff's unverified complaint, generally denies each and every allegation of the complaint and further specifically denies that plaintiff has suffered any injury or damages of any kind attributable in any way to an act or omission of defendant.

[OR, if complaint is verified or unverified]

1. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that it is an employer covered by the California Equal Pay Act, Labor Code Section 1197.5, as alleged in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

2. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that plaintiff _____ [is an employee of defendant or was an employee of defendant during the time period specified in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint]. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

3. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that plaintiff was paid less compensation than one or more persons of the _____ [specify the sex other than plaintiff's] sex, as alleged in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

4. Defendant denies each and every one, all and singular, of the allegations in Paragraph(s) _____ [-_____] of plaintiff's complaint [except that defendant admits _____ (specify)].

5. Defendant is without sufficient information and belief to admit any of the allegations in Paragraph(s) _____ [-_____] of plaintiff's complaint, and on this basis, defendant denies each of those allegations. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.

[6. Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in plaintiff's complaint that is not expressly admitted herein.]

[Insert affirmative defenses, if any. see [10], below.]

WHEREFORE, defendant prays judgment as follows:

1. That the complaint of plaintiff against defendant herein be dismissed;
2. That plaintiff take nothing by reason of his/her complaint;
3. That plaintiff be granted no relief in this action;
4. That defendant have judgment against plaintiff;
5. That defendant recover costs of suit incurred herein;
6. That defendant recover reasonable attorney's fees herein; and
7. For such other and further relief as this court may deem just and proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Defendant

[Add verification in superior court, if complaint was verified. See Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446, 2015.5.]

[11] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of California Equal Pay Act

[a] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on Seniority System

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the differential in compensation or pay was made pursuant to a seniority system.⁶¹ Labor Code Section 1197.5(a) provides that a seniority system is a defense to a complaint under the California Equal Pay Act.

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [10][b].

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the payment of which plaintiff complains is made pursuant to a seniority system of defendant. _____ [Provide details of seniority system, as appropriate.]

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on Merit System

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the differential in compensation or pay was made pursuant to a merit system.ⁿ⁶² Labor Code Section 1197.5(a) provides that a payment pursuant to a merit system is a defense to a complaint under the California Equal Pay Act.

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [10][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the payment of which plaintiff complains is made pursuant to a merit system of defendant. _____ [Provide details of merit system, as appropriate.]

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on System That Measures Earnings by Quantity or Quality of Production

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the differential in compensation or pay was made pursuant to a system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production.ⁿ⁶³ Labor Code Section 1197.5(a) provides that such a system is a defense to a complaint under the California Equal Pay Act.

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [10][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the payment of which plaintiff complains is made pursuant to a system of defendant that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production. _____ [Provide details of system, as appropriate.]

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differential Payment Was Based on Bona Fide Factor Other Than Sex

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the differential in compensation or pay is based on a bona fide factor other than sex.ⁿ⁶⁴ Labor Code Section 1197.5(a) provides that a pay differential based on a bona fide factor other than sex does not violate the California Equal Pay Act.

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [10][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the payment of which plaintiff complains is made pursuant to a bona fide factor other than sex. _____ [Set forth details of bona fide factor, as appropriate.]

[12] Availability of Jury Trial Under California Equal Pay Act

The California Equal Pay Act does not expressly provide for a jury trial, although it does authorize both legal and equitable remedies.ⁿ⁶⁵ By comparison, an aggrieved employee is entitled to a jury trial under the federal Equal Pay Act.ⁿ⁶⁶

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawEqual PayGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawEqual PayEqual Pay ActGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawEqual PayFederal & State InterrelationshipsLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Lab. Code § 1197.5.

(n2)Footnote 2. Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n4)Footnote 4. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(g).

(n5)Footnote 5. Compare Lab. Code § 1197.5 with 29 U.S.C. § 206(d).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.

(n7)Footnote 7. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-2000e-17; See also § 43.01[1][a].

(n8)Footnote 8. See De Malherbe v. Intern. U. of Elevator Constructors (N.D. Cal. 1978) 449 F. Supp. 1335, 1348 (in dictum court indicated that victims of sex discrimination in pay in California "have two remedies" for unequal pay, consisting of FEHA and state Equal Pay Act).

(n9)Footnote 9. See County of Wash. v. Gunther (1981) 452 U.S. 161, 177-180, 101 S. Ct. 2242, 68 L. Ed. 2d 751 (Title VII may provide redress to females where a study showed that females' jobs were worth 90 percent of males' jobs, and where females in fact were paid only 70 percent of males' pay, where jobs were similar). For discussion of Title VII actions regarding pay discrimination, see § 43.10.

(n10)Footnote 10. For discussion of FEHA, see § 43.01.

(n11)Footnote 11. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n12)Footnote 12. For discussion of which employers are covered by the Equal Pay Act, see ch. 40, pt. B.

(n13)Footnote 13. cf. Shultz v. Wheaton Glass Co. (3d Cir. 1970) 421 F.2d 259, 266 (paying male selector-packers 10 percent higher wages than female selector-packers, on the basis of occasional heavy lifting done by males violated Equal Pay Act).

(n14)Footnote 14. cf. Brennan v. Prince William Hosp. Corp. (4th Cir. 1974) 503 F.2d 282, 291 (work performed by aides and orderlies in hospital, while not identical, is equal for purposes of federal Equal Pay Act).

(n15)Footnote 15. See Usery v. Columbia Univ. (2d Cir. 1977) 568 F.2d 953, 960-962 (when heavy cleaners were required to exert greater effort than light cleaners, and all heavy cleaners were men, and all light cleaners were women, no violation of federal Equal Pay Act occurred); but see Usery v. Bd. of Educ. of Baltimore Cty (D. Md. 1978) 462 F. Supp. 535, 567-568 (disparity not justified by fact that males, and not females, used heavy power-scrubbers and hauled trash).

(n16)Footnote 16. cf. Corning Glass Works v. Brennan (1974) 417 U.S. 188, 195, 94 S. Ct. 2223, 41 L. Ed. 2d 1 (higher base wage paid to male night-shift inspectors than wage paid to female inspectors who performed same job on day shift violated federal Equal Pay Act when night shift had historically been filled solely by men; but shift differentials may sometimes be justified under Equal Pay Act).

(n17)Footnote 17. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n18)Footnote 18. See, e.g., Hodgson v. Robert Hall Clothes, Inc. (3d Cir. 1973) 473 F.2d 589, 596-597 (men paid more for selling higher-priced merchandise in men's department than women selling lower-priced merchandise in women's department was based on legitimate factor other than sex, i.e., profitability); but cf. Brennan v. City Stores, Inc. (5th Cir. 1973) 479 F.2d 235, 240-241 (employer did not specifically defend on the basis of profitability, but where women selling women's and children's clothing were paid less than men selling men's clothing, court held that differential was not based on factor other than sex).

(n19)Footnote 19. Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 770, 772-773, 130 Cal. Rptr. 123 .

(n20)Footnote 20. Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 770, 772-773, 130 Cal. Rptr. 123 .

(n21)Footnote 21. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(g).

(n22)Footnote 22. See Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.

(n23)Footnote 23. See Gov. Code § 12965.

(n24)Footnote 24. See Lab. Code §§ 98.7(a), 1197.5(e).

(n25)Footnote 25. Lab. Code § 98.7(b)-(c).

(n26)Footnote 26. See Lab. Code § 98.7(c), (f).

(n27)Footnote 27. Lab. Code § 1197.5(f).

(n28)Footnote 28. Lab. Code § 1197.5(h); see Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 107, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 .

(n29)Footnote 29. Hudson v. Moore Business Forms (N.D. Cal. 1985) 609 F. Supp. 467, 470-471 , aff'd in part, vacated in part, and remanded on other grounds, 836 F.2d 1156 (9th Cir. 1988) (plaintiff under California Equal Pay Act is limited to recovering back pay for period commencing two years, or three years if violation is willful, before filing suit and ending at date of judgment); see also Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 107-109, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 (plaintiff who filed complaint with U.S. Department of Labor and then filed suit under California Equal Pay Act may recover back pay from date two years before filing of earlier complaint with U.S. Department of Labor).

(n30)Footnote 30. Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 108-109, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 .

(n31)Footnote 31. Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 108, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 .

(n32)Footnote 32. Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 108-109, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 .

(n33)Footnote 33. See generally Cal. Const. art. I, § 10; Code Civ. Proc. §§ 86, 116.220 (jurisdictional limits of superior and small claims courts); "limited civil case" defined as matter in which amount in controversy does not exceed $25,000.

(n34)Footnote 34. See, e.g., Hudson v. Moore Business Forms (N.D. Cal. 1985) 609 F. Supp. 467, 470-471 , aff'd in part, reversed in part, and remanded on other grounds, 836 F.2d 1156 (9th Cir. 1988) (federal trial court took pendent jurisdiction of California EPA claim), reversed in part on other grounds, 827 F.2d 450 (9th Cir. 1987) ; see generally United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 725-727, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 ; Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 1514 .

(n35)Footnote 35. See generally Code Civ. Proc. §§ 392-402 (venue in civil actions generally).

(n36)Footnote 36. Lab. Code §§ 98.7(c), 1197.5(a), (e), (f).

(n37)Footnote 37. See generally Lab. Code § 1197.5.

(n38)Footnote 38. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b). For discussion of bringing of action under U.S. Equal Pay Act, see § 43.12.

(n39)Footnote 39. Lab. Code § 1197.5(f).

(n40)Footnote 40. See Lab. Code §§ 98.7(c), (d), 1197.5(b), (g).

(n41)Footnote 41. Hudson v. Moore Business Forms, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1985) 609 F. Supp. 467, 470-71 ; Jones v. Tracy School Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 106-109, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 .

(n42)Footnote 42. Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 108-109, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 . For discussion, see [3], above.

(n43)Footnote 43. See Lab. Code § 98.7(c), (d).

(n44)Footnote 44. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(g), (h).

(n45)Footnote 45. Lab. Code § 1197.5(b), (f), (g).

(n46)Footnote 46. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(i).

(n47)Footnote 47. Lab. Code § 1197.5(b), (f), (g).

(n48)Footnote 48. Lab. Code § 1197.5(g); see Jones v. Tracy Sch. Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 109-111, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 (attorney's fees are a mandatory part of relief for prevailing plaintiff in Equal Pay Act case because of language of statute, its legislative history, and relative inability of some employees to bring wage discrimination suits).

(n49)Footnote 49. See Lab. Code § 98.7(d)(1).

(n50)Footnote 50. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(g) (authorizing civil action by employee).

(n51)Footnote 51. It is not necessary to show that administrative remedies have been exhausted under the California Equal Pay Act. Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 770, 772-772, 130 Cal. Rptr. 123 . For discussion, see [2], above.

(n52)Footnote 52. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n53)Footnote 53. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n54)Footnote 54. Lab. Code § 1197.5(b), (g).

(n55)Footnote 55. This will affect the running of the statute of limitations. Statute of limitations for willful violations is three years, as opposed to two years for nonwillful violations. Lab. Code § 1197.5(h).

(n56)Footnote 56. Hudson v. Moore Business Forms, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1985) 609 F. Supp. 467, 470 , rev'd in part on other grounds, 827 F.2d 450 (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1987); Jones v. Tracy School Dist. (1980) 27 Cal. 3d 99, 102, 113, 165 Cal. Rptr. 100, 611 P.2d 441 .

(n57)Footnote 57. Bass v. Great Western Sav. & Loan Assn. (1976) 58 Cal. App. 3d 770, 771-772, 130 Cal. Rptr. 123 ; cf. Kouba v. Allstate Insurance Co. (E.D. Cal. 1981) 523 F. Supp. 148, 151 , rev'd on other grounds, 691 F.2d 873 (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1982).

(n58)Footnote 58. See, e.g., Laffey v. Northwest Airlines, Inc. (D.C. Cir. 1980) 642 F.2d 578, 586-589 .

(n59)Footnote 59. For general form of complaint for violation of the Equal Pay Act and specific allegations for use in the complaint, see [7], above, and [8], above, respectively.

(n60)Footnote 60. Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n61)Footnote 61. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n62)Footnote 62. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n63)Footnote 63. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n64)Footnote 64. See Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n65)Footnote 65. See Lab. Code §§ 98.7(c), (d), 1197.5(b), (g).

(n66)Footnote 66. See, e.g., Altman v. Stevens Fashion Fabrics (N.D. Cal. 1977) 441 F. Supp. 1318, 1323 (jury trial on wage claim, with liquidated damages to be awarded by court). For discussion of actions under the federal Equal Pay Act, see § 43.12.

5 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part A. STATE LAW

3-43 California Employment Law §§ 43.03 through 43.09

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 43.03[Reserved]

6 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.10

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.10 Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964

[1] Right of Action

Title VII of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964ⁿ¹ prohibits various types of discrimination in employment based on an individual's race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.ⁿ² The substantive requirements of Title VII are discussed in Chapter 41. For discussion of the scope of coverage of Title VII, see Chapter 40, Part C.

Title VII expressly permits an individual aggrieved by a violation of its provisions to bring a civil action for specified relief, after fulfilling certain administrative procedural requirements.ⁿ³

[2] Proving Employment Discrimination Under Title VII

[a] In General

There are two theories of liability--"disparate treatment" and "disparate impact"--that may be used in most Title VII employment discrimination cases. The United States Supreme Court created these theories in McDonnell Douglas v. Green,ⁿ⁴ and in Griggs v. Duke Power Co.,ⁿ⁵ respectively, and they have since been developed and refined by the Court and a by plethora of federal intermediate appellate decisions.ⁿ⁶ Unlawful "disparate treatment" occurs when an employer treats some employees less favorably than others because of a characteristic protected by Title VII (i.e., race, color, religion, sex, or national origin).ⁿ⁷ Unlawful "disparate impact" occurs when a facially neutral employment practice in fact falls more harshly on a group protected by Title VII than on another,ⁿ⁸ and when there is no business justification for the practice.ⁿ⁹ The "disparate treatment" and "disparate impact" theories of liability are briefly summarized in § 43.01[2], and in [b] and [c], below, but the practitioner should review Chapter 41, Part A for a comprehensive analysis of these very complex theories.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

If there is any doubt regarding which theory to use, the plaintiff should plead and offer proof based on both theories; otherwise, the courts may apply the evidence according to a theory different from the one on which plaintiff has relied. If this occurs, the court may find that the plaintiff has not proven the elements necessary to establish the prima facie case.ⁿ¹⁰ Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

[b] Disparate Treatment

To establish disparate treatment, a plaintiff must prove intentional discrimination.ⁿ¹¹ Intent may be proven by direct evidence,ⁿ¹² or inferred from circumstantial evidence under the test developed in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green.ⁿ¹³ Under the McDonnell Douglas test, which only applies to private, nonclass (individual) disparate treatment actions,ⁿ¹⁴ a plaintiff may establish a prima facie case of discrimination by showing that (1) he or she belongs to a group protected by Title VII; (2) he or she applied and was qualified for an employment opportunity (or benefit) for which the defendant sought applicants; (3) despite the plaintiff's qualifications, he or she was denied the employment opportunity (or benefit); and (4) after the plaintiff was denied the employment opportunity (or benefit), the defendant continued to seek applicants with plaintiff's qualifications (or provide benefits to other such persons).ⁿ¹⁵ The prima facie case relates to the employee's burden of presenting evidence that raises an inference of discrimination. The requirements for establishing a prima facie case under McDonnell Douglas do not apply to the pleading standard that plaintiffs must satisfy in order to survive a motion to dismiss.^{n15.1}

A McDonnell Douglas prima facie case creates a presumption of unlawful discrimination,ⁿ¹⁶ which the defendant may rebut by articulating some legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for its action.ⁿ¹⁷ Because the ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times with the plaintiff,ⁿ¹⁸ the defendant need only produce evidence sufficient to raise a genuine issue of fact about whether there was discrimination.ⁿ¹⁹ Once the defendant meets its burden of production, the presumption of discrimination raised by the prima facie case under McDonnell Douglas is no longer relevant, and plaintiff retains the burden of proving intentional discrimination. Although the trier of fact is permitted to infer intentional discrimination from its disbelief of the defendant's proffered reasons, together with the elements of the prima facie case, it is not compelled to do so.^{n19.1}

If a defendant meets its burden of production, the plaintiff must have the opportunity to show that the defendant's stated reason was in fact a pretext for discrimination.ⁿ²⁰ The plaintiff may do this either by showing that a discriminatory reason more likely motivated the defendant, or that the defendant's stated reason is not believable.ⁿ²¹ If an employment decision is the result of "mixed motives" (i.e., a combination of permissible and impermissible considerations), the plaintiff need only show that an impermissible consideration, such as race, sex, or some other protected classification or characteristic, played a motivating part in the decision, even though other factors may have also motivated the decision.ⁿ²² However, if the employer can prove that it would have taken the same action even in the absence of the impermissible motivating factor, the relief that may be awarded is limited.ⁿ²³ For further discussion, see [9][h] and [13][e], below.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Because the showing required of a plaintiff to establish prima facie disparate treatment and the showing required of a defendant to rebut a prima facie case are both minimal, in many cases the crucial issue is pretext. At the pretext stage, the issues are sharpened, and the basic issue is the validity of the justifications the employer offers to show absence of discriminatory intent. Whether pretext is established is usually a highly fact-intensive inquiry. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

For discussion of the "disparate treatment" theory of liability as it is applied under the FEHA, see § 43.01[2][b]. For a comprehensive and detailed discussion of the theory, see Chapter 41, Part A.

[c] Disparate Impact

As discussed in [a], above, the disparate impact theory of liability applies to facially neutral employment practices that adversely affect protected group members.ⁿ²⁴ Such practices may be "objective," such as education requirements and preemployment or promotional tests,ⁿ²⁵ or "subjective," such as hiring channels, "word-of-mouth" recruitment, nepotism, rehire policies, or subjective judgments.ⁿ²⁶

A disparate impact plaintiff need not prove discriminatory intent.ⁿ²⁷ Under the theory, a plaintiff may establish a prima facie case by showing that a facially neutral employment practice has a significant adverse impact on protected class members.ⁿ²⁸ This is usually accomplished by various statistical analyses.ⁿ²⁹

Under Title VII, the plaintiff must generally prove that a particular challenged employment practice causes a disparate impact on a protected group.ⁿ³⁰ However, if the plaintiff can demonstrate to the court that the elements of the employer's decisionmaking process are not capable of separation for analysis, the decisionmaking process may be analyzed as one employment practice.ⁿ³¹

If plaintiff establishes a prima facie case of disparate impact, the defendant must either refute the plaintiff's evidence and demonstrate that the employment practice does not have a disparate impactⁿ³² or demonstrate that the challenged practice is "job related for the position in question and consistent with business necessity."ⁿ³³ "Demonstrate," for the above purposes, means meeting the burdens of production of evidence and persuasion.ⁿ³⁴ This definition, which was added by the Civil Rights Act of 1991,ⁿ³⁵ was intended to overrule the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio,ⁿ³⁶ in which the Court had held that the employer had only the burden of producing evidence regarding a business justification for the challenged employment practice and that the burden of persuasion remained at all times with the plaintiff.ⁿ³⁷

Title VII does not contain express definitions of "business necessity" or "job related," but one of the express purposes of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 was to codify the concepts of "business necessity" and "job related" enunciated by the Supreme Court in Griggs v. Duke Power Co.,ⁿ³⁸ and in other Supreme Court decisions prior to Wards Cove.ⁿ³⁹ In Wards Cove, the Court had indicated that an employment practice with a disparate impact was justified under Title VII if it merely "serve [d], in a significant way, the legitimate employment goals of the employer."ⁿ⁴⁰ Furthermore, the Wards Cove Court had held that although "an insubstantial justification ... will not suffice, ... there is no requirement that the challenged practice be 'essential' or 'indispensable' to the employer's business. ..."n41 However, under the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Wards Cove standard is no longer applicable, and the standard for justifying an employment practice will instead be governed by Griggs and other pre-Wards Cove decisions. Under those decisions, the test is one of "business necessity," whereby the defendant is required to prove that the challenged practice has "a manifest relationship to the employment in question" (i.e., the practice is "job-related").ⁿ⁴²

1. Does disparate impact analysis apply to employment practices that do not involve employee selection?
2. Does proof of job relatedness require proof that links a selection criterion to job performance or will a defense based on non-performance related factors be sufficient?
3. Are costs a legitimate factor in analyzing job relatedness?
4. Does the disparate impact standard found in the Civil Rights Act of 1991 apply to ADEA cases?

The Civil Rights Act of 1991 does not resolve a number of questions regarding the meaning of the phrase "job related for the position in question and consistent with business necessity." The lack of resolution was not an oversight. It was the result of an inability to agree. The Senate so heatedly debated the definition question that it added a clause in Section 105(b) of the Act^{n42.1} declaring that no statements other than those found in Volume 137 of the Congressional Record, at page S. 15,276, could be cited as legislative history. The designated portion of the Congressional Record, however, says almost nothing about job relatedness. As a result, at least the following questions must await court determination:

1. Does disparate impact analysis apply to employment practices that do not involve employee selection?
2. Does proof of job relatedness require proof that links a selection criterion to job performance or will a defense based on non-performance related factors be sufficient?
3. Are costs a legitimate factor in analyzing job relatedness?
4. Does the disparate impact standard found in the Civil Rights Act of 1991 apply to ADEA cases?

Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

A defendant may also rebut the plaintiff's prima facie case by challenging the reliability of the statistical data offered by the plaintiff.^{n42.2} A plurality of the Supreme Court, in a recent disparate impact decision, noted that typical examples of defective prima facie showings include small or incomplete data sets and inadequate statistical techniques; statistics based on an unqualified pool of applicants; and facts that failed to demonstrate a causal connection between the challenged employment practice and the statistical disproportion of minority or female employees.^{n42.3} Such efforts to discredit plaintiffs' statistics have generated battles of experts in many Title VII cases, but have probably been more successful than efforts to demonstrate "business necessity." Commentary by Erica B. Grubb.

Under Title VII, as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, an unlawful employment based on disparate impact is also established if "the complaining party makes the demonstration described in Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(k)(1)(C) with respect to an alternative employment practice and the respondent refuses to adopt such alternative employment practice."^{n42.4} Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(k)(1)(C) provides that "[t]he demonstration referred to ... shall be in accordance with the law as it existed on June 4, 1989 [the day before Wards Cove was decided], with respect to the concept of 'alternative employment practice.' "

Under prior cases, if defendant establishes that a practice is justified by business necessity, the plaintiff may still prevail by showing that alternative practices with less adverse impact would also serve the defendant's legitimate interest.^{n42.5}

For discussion of the "disparate impact" theory of liability as it is applied under the FEHA, see § 43.01[2][c]. For a comprehensive and detailed discussion of the theory, see Chapter 41, Part A.

[d] Retaliation

Under Title VII, an employer may not retaliate against a person for opposing an unlawful employment practice or for filing a charge, testifying, assisting, or participating in any Title VII proceeding.^{n42.6} Since retaliation is essentially a form of disparate treatment, courts generally follow the order and allocation of proof developed in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green ^{n42.7} and Texas Dept. of Community Affairs v. Burdine ^{n42.8} (i.e., (1) plaintiff's prima facie case, (2) defendant's rebuttal, and (3) plaintiff's proof of pretext), as set forth in [b], above.^{n42.9} However, the formula for establishing a prima facie case of retaliation is somewhat different from the McDonnell Douglas prima facie disparate treatment formula. A prima facie case of retaliation may of course be established by direct evidence,^{n42.10} but if such evidence is unavailable, the plaintiff may create an inference of retaliation by establishing that (1) he or she engaged in a protected activity, (2) he or she was thereafter subjected to adverse action, and (3) there was a causal link between the two.ⁿ⁴³

For discussion of retaliation as it has been applied under the FEHA, see § 43.01[2][d]. For a complete discussion of the order and allocation of proof in retaliation cases, see Chapter 41, Part G.

[3] Subject Matter Jurisdiction and Venue

Title VII provides that the federal district courts have jurisdiction over civil actions brought under the statute.ⁿ⁴⁴ However, there is a presumption of concurrent state court jurisdiction over federal causes of action. Since Title VII contains no language expressly denying state courts their presumptive jurisdiction, state courts have concurrent jurisdiction over Title VII claims.ⁿ⁴⁵

Title VII places venue of a Title VII action in the judicial district in which (1) the alleged unlawful employment practice was allegedly committed; (2) the employment records relevant to the unlawful practice are located; or (3) the plaintiff would have worked but for the alleged discrimination.ⁿ⁴⁶ However, if the defendant is not found within any of the three districts listed above, the action may be brought within the district in which the defendant has its principal office.ⁿ⁴⁷ The Title VII venue provision governs over the more general federal venue provision of Title 28 United States Code Section 1391.ⁿ⁴⁸

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies as Prerequisite to Civil Action Under Title VII

[a] In General

Prior to filing a civil action under Title VII, the aggrieved employee or applicant must file a timely administrative charge with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) or the DFEH,ⁿ⁴⁹ and obtain a "right-to-sue" letter from the EEOC.ⁿ⁵⁰ The aggrieved individual must pursue the administrative claim with diligence and in good faith, and must cooperate with the investigating agency and provide all relevant, available information. Failure to cooperate in the administrative process precludes exhaustion when it prevents the agency from making a determination on the merits.ⁿ⁵¹ The aggrieved individual exhausts administrative remedies by participating in the investigation sufficiently to permit the agency to examine the discrimination claim, despite a failure to provide a sworn affidavit as requested by the agency, if an agency reaches the merits of the claim, despite the claimant's failure to comply with requests for information.ⁿ⁵²

The right-to-sue letter must be obtained from the EEOC to satisfy the jurisdictional requirements for a claim under Title VII; a right-to-sue notice from the DFEH does not satisfy EEOC requirements.ⁿ⁵³ For discussion of procedures for filing administrative charges under Title VII and issuance of the right-to-sue letter, see Chapter 42, Part C. For discussion of time limits for filing charges and exceptions to those time limits, see [6][a], below.

However, failure to obtain a federal right-to-sue letter does not preclude federal jurisdiction.^{n53.1} Courts typically look to the relative fault of the parties to determine whether the failure to obtain a right-to-sue letter should be excused.^{n53.2} Courts have also concluded that once a plaintiff is entitled to receive a right-to-sue letter, it makes no difference whether the plaintiff actually obtained it.^{n53.3} Courts have reached that conclusion when worksharing agreements exist between the federal and state agencies.^{n53.4} Thus, when plaintiff is entitled to receive a right-to-sue letter from the EEOC, plaintiff may proceed absent such a letter, provided he or she has received a right-to-sue letter from the appropriate state agency.^{n53.5}

Other than the charge-filing and right-to-sue requirements listed above, there is no other administrative prerequisite to the litigation of a private individual Title VII civil action. For example, the EEOC's failure to address a claim asserted in the charge has no bearing on whether the plaintiff has exhausted administrative remedies with regard to that claim.ⁿ⁵⁴ Furthermore, investigation and conciliation by the EEOC are not administrative prerequisites to an individual's Title VII action.ⁿ⁵⁵ Nor is a finding of "reasonable cause" by the EEOC a prerequisite to commencement of a civil action. An individual who has filed a charge with the EEOC is entitled to a de novo judicial determination of his or her Title VII claim, even if the EEOC made no finding of reasonable cause, or found that reasonable cause did not exist.ⁿ⁵⁶ If the EEOC itself sues on behalf of persons aggrieved by alleged discrimination, however, it must satisfy administrative prerequisites, including investigation and conciliation of charges and a finding of reasonable cause to believe that a violation of Title VII has occurred.ⁿ⁵⁷

The exhaustion requirement is satisfied if the civil claim is within the scope of the EEOC charge or any EEOC investigation actually done or that could reasonably have been expected to grow out of the charge.ⁿ⁵⁸ The court construes the language of charges with "utmost liberality" because they are made by people unschooled in the technicalities of formal pleading.ⁿ⁵⁹ In determining whether a plaintiff has exhausted allegations that he or she did not specify in the administrative charge, the court considers the following factors:ⁿ⁶⁰

- The alleged basis of the discrimination;
- Dates of discriminatory acts specified within the charge;
- Perpetrators of discrimination named in the charge; and
- Any locations at which discrimination is alleged to have occurred.

The court should also consider plaintiff's civil claims to be reasonably related to allegations in the charge to the extent that those claims are consistent with the plaintiff's original theory of the case.ⁿ⁶¹ The plaintiff can assert in the civil complaint any claims reasonably related to his or her original theory of the case as made manifest by the factual allegations of the charge. Title VII does not require that the plaintiff separately exhaust additional claims so closely related to the allegations in the charge that agency action would be redundant.ⁿ⁶² Thus, in one case, the Ninth Circuit held that a claim of discriminatory layoff was within the scope of a claim alleging discriminatory failure to rehire since the layoff was an integral part of the discriminatory plan to hire only male employees. Thus, according to the court, the charge gave the employer sufficient notice, and in addition, the EEOC would necessarily have had to investigate the circumstances of the layoff to make a determination with regard to charges of discriminatory failure to recall and rehire.ⁿ⁶³ In another case, plaintiff checked boxes indicating her belief she had been subjected to discrimination based on "race," "sex," and "national origin" and that she believed that she had been subject to "harassment." Her development of the facts supporting the allegations, however, was decidedly spare. She listed what she called allegations of "race and retaliation harassment," including verbal harassment and harassment following her submission of a formal complaint memorandum. The Ninth Circuit held that plaintiff could refer to allegations in her pre-complaint questionnaire to provide additional detail regarding the allegations of harassment (of which the state agency had notice). The court reached this conclusion even though the defendant was not sent the pre-complaint questionnaire, because the failure to include those details was due to the negligence of the agency representative that completed the charge.ⁿ⁶⁴ The court concluded that, in light of the information in the pre-complaint questionnaire, the fact that plaintiff checked boxes indicating a charge of sexual harassment, and an affidavit by the state agency official who assisted plaintiff that the agency intended her right to sue letter to afford her the right to pursue claims of sexual as well as racial harassment, the plaintiff had properly exhausted her Title VII sexual harassment claim.ⁿ⁶⁵

On the other hand, allegations of discrimination not included in the plaintiff's administrative charge may not be considered by a federal court unless the new claims are like or reasonably related to the allegations contained in the charge.ⁿ⁶⁶

Under limited circumstances, complete exhaustion of administrative remedies may not be required prior to seeking judicial relief in a Title VII action. For example, the court has power to grant preliminary injunctive relief, pending the EEOC's determination regarding probable cause and issuance of a right-to-sue letter, if the time required to exhaust those administrative prerequisites would result in irreparable harm and effectively preclude the court from ultimately granting relief.ⁿ⁶⁷

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Because the EEOC has a substantial backlog of cases, plaintiffs and their counsel may want to consider whether to request a right-to-sue letter prior to completion of EEOC proceedings. Considerations include plaintiff's resources, the need for EEOC proceedings as an investigatory device, and the priority EEOC attaches to processing the plaintiff's administrative charge. The generally shorter processing time for charges filed with the DFEH makes it less necessary to pursue this alternative in FEHA cases.ⁿ⁶⁸

Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[b] Federal Employees

Title VII permits aggrieved federal employees to file civil actions in federal district court. However, as a precondition to filing, they must seek relief in the agency that allegedly discriminated against them.^{n68.1} Title VII authorizes the EEOC to issue rules, regulations, orders and instructions as necessary and appropriate for federal employees to seek administrative relief before filing a civil action.^{n68.2} Pursuant to that authority, the EEOC issued a regulation providing that aggrieved persons must consult a Counselor prior to filing a complaint to try to informally resolve the matter.^{n68.3} The aggrieved federal employee must initiate that contact within 45 days of the alleged discrimination.^{n68.4}

Failure to initiate contact with an EEO Counselor within 45 days is grounds for dismissal of the EEO complaint.^{n68.5} However, the time limit is subject to waiver, estoppel and equitable tolling.^{n68.6}

The pre-filing exhaustion requirement for federal employees does not carry the full weight of statutory authority and is not a jurisdictional prerequisite for suit in federal court.^{n68.7} However, absent waiver, estoppel, or equitable tolling, failure to comply will be fatal to a federal employee's discrimination claim in federal court.^{n68.8}

Under EEOC guidelines, a federal complainant may satisfy the criterion of EEO Counselor contact by initiating contact with any agency official logically connected with the EEO process, even if that official is not an EEO Counselor, and by exhibiting an intent to begin the EEO process.^{n68.9} This encompasses EEO personnel in positions with a variety of titles other than "Counselors," including EEO "officers."^{n68.10} Even contact with certain agency officials who are not EEO personnel will be held sufficient to satisfy the "contact with a Counselor" requirement, provided they are "logically connected to the EEO process" within the agency.^{n68.11} The EEOC's decisions interpreting the regulatory exhaustion requirement frequently make no distinction between EEO "officers" and EEO "counselors."^{n68.12}

[5] Parties

[a] Standing of Plaintiffs

[i] Individual Plaintiffs

Title VII provides that after exhaustion of the administrative remedies set forth in Title VII, the person aggrieved by the alleged unlawful employment practice may bring a civil action.ⁿ⁶⁹ The standing of a person to sue under Title VII is as broad as the United States Constitution permits,ⁿ⁷⁰ and requires two elements: (1) the challenged act must have caused the plaintiff injury in fact,^{n70.1} and (2) the interest sought to be protected must be within the zone of interests protected by the statute in question.ⁿ⁷¹

The plaintiff must also show that he or she has a personal stake in the outcome of the case.ⁿ⁷² Thus, a Title VII plaintiff may bring an action based on retaliation against him or her for opposing discrimination against persons not of his or her race or sex,ⁿ⁷³ but persons not themselves directly aggrieved do not generally have standing to sue under Title VII on behalf of others.ⁿ⁷⁴ To maintain standing, plaintiff's stake in the litigation must continue throughout the proceedings, including on appeal.^{n74.1}

A plaintiff seeking prospective injunctive relief will have standing only if he or she can demonstrate that he or she has suffered or is threatened with a concrete and particularized legal harm,^{n74.2} coupled with a sufficient likelihood that he or she will again be wronged in a similar way.^{n74.3} As to the second inquiry, the plaintiff must establish a real and immediate threat of repeated injury.^{n74.4} Past wrongs do not in themselves amount to a real and immediate threat of injury necessary to make out a case or controversy.^{n74.5} However, past wrongs are evidence bearing on whether there is a real and immediate threat of repeated injury.^{n74.6} In addition, the claimed threat of injury must be likely to be redressed by the prospective injunctive relief.^{n74.7}

[ii] Class Actions

There are two prerequisites to a class action under Title VII: (1) at least one individual plaintiff with a cognizable claim who has constitutional standing to raise the claim must have satisfied the procedural requirements of Title VII,ⁿ⁷⁵ and (2) the procedural requirements of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 23 must be fulfilled.ⁿ⁷⁶ The first requirement means that the named plaintiffs must themselves have a direct injury and interest in issues raised on behalf of the class.ⁿ⁷⁷ As in an individual Title VII action, only the claims raised in the underlying EEOC charge, and those like or related to those claims, may be litigated.ⁿ⁷⁸ The second requirement means that each of the following must be true:^{n78.1}

1. The class must be so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.
2. There are questions of law or fact common to the class.ⁿ⁷⁹
3. The claims and defenses of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defenses of the class.
4. The representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.

Without fulfillment of each of these requirements, the action cannot be certified as a class action on behalf of the group of plaintiffs that the named plaintiff(s) seek to represent.^{n79.1}

A class action also must meet one of the classifications set forth in Fed. Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 23(b). Rule 23(b)(1) permits a class action where a plaintiff shows that the prosecution of separate actions would create a risk of inconsistent adjudications that would establish incompatible standards of conduct for the party opposing the class, or would be dispositive of the rights of individuals who were not parties to the adjudication. Rule 23(b)(2) requires that the party or parties seeking class certification show that the party opposing the class has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the class, thereby making final injunctive relief appropriate with respect to the class as a whole.^{n79.2} Rule 23(b)(2) class actions can include claims for monetary damages, so long as those damages are not the predominant relief sought, but instead are secondary to the primary claim for injunctive or declaratory relief.^{n79.3} Rule 23(b)(3) requires the party seeking a class action to show that the questions of law or fact common to the members of the class predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and that a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy.

To proceed as a class action, a class that is large also must be manageable and accord with due process.^{n79.4} The party seeking class certification must present the trial court with a trial plan demonstrating how the court will be able to manage the class action at trial.ⁿ⁸⁰

If one named plaintiff in a Title VII class action has exhausted his or her administrative remedies,ⁿ⁸¹ others who have not filed may be named or unnamed plaintiffs in the suit and may join in the litigation of the action and the remedies, if any, that are secured.ⁿ⁸² The two requirements for this "single-filing rule" are that (1) at least one plaintiff must have timely filed an EEOC complaint that is not otherwise defective, and (2) the claims of the filing and nonfiling plaintiffs must have arisen out of similar discriminatory treatment in the same time frame.ⁿ⁸³

Previously, Title VII class actions entailed across-the-board challenges to alleged employment discrimination, whether or not the class representatives had been personally affected by the challenged practices.ⁿ⁸⁴ However, such across-the-board Title VII class actions are no longer generally feasible,ⁿ⁸⁵ because Title VII class plaintiffs must satisfy the rigorous requirements of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 23.ⁿ⁸⁶

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Class action litigation is often expensive for both the plaintiff and the defendant. Plaintiffs should bring a class action only if they have access to adequate resources and experienced counsel.ⁿ⁸⁷ It should also be noted that all settlements or dismissals of a class action must be approved by a court. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[iii] Intervention

Nonparties may seek to intervene, either as of right or by permission of the court, in an existing class action in accordance with Rule 24.ⁿ⁸⁸

In determining the appropriateness of intervention as of right, an applicant seeking intervention must show that (1) the applicant has a "significant protectable interest" relating to the subject of the action; (2) the disposition may impair or impede the applicant's ability to protect its interest; (3) the application is timely; and (4) the existing parties may not adequately represent the applicant's interest.ⁿ⁸⁹

In Donnelly v. Glickman,ⁿ⁹⁰ male forest service employees sought to intervene in the liability and remedial stages of a Title VII gender discrimination suit brought by female employees; the female plaintiffs expressly waived their right to any affirmative action remedy involving hiring, work assignments, and promotions. The Ninth Circuit panel affirmed the district court's judgment denying intervention as a matter of right because the proposed intervenors lacked a significant protectable interest in the plaintiffs' action. Although the intervenors' claims of gender-based discrimination were also covered by Title VII and the claims were against the same defendants, the claims were nevertheless unrelated to the plaintiffs' claims of hostile work environment discrimination against female employees. Because the plaintiffs' claims focused on a hostile work environment affecting female employees, the court held that resolution of their claims would not affect the intervenors' claims that male employees were subject to discriminatory treatment. The motion to intervene in the remedy phase also lacked a significant protectable interest in any of the plaintiffs' potential remedies because the plaintiffs had expressly waived their right to seek or receive such remedies as affirmative action in hiring, work assignments, and promotions. Furthermore, the court held that additional potential remedies would not inherently create discrimination against male employees and the intervenors' mere desire to obtain similar relief to the kinds of remedies sought by the plaintiffs was insufficient to necessitate intervention. Finally, the intervenors lacked any protectable interest in the plaintiffs' individual remedial requests involving work assignments and promotions because the intervenors had no legally protectable right to benefit from positions they may have obtained due to specific earlier discriminatory employment decisions.ⁿ⁹¹

Permissive intervention is allowable when (1) the applicant shares a common question of law or fact with the main action, (2) the motion is timely, and (3) the court has an independent basis for jurisdiction over the applicant's claims.ⁿ⁹² In light of the discretionary nature of intervention under (b)(2), however, a district court may deny permissive intervention even if these three threshold requirements are met.ⁿ⁹³ In Donnelly v. Glickman,ⁿ⁹⁴ the Ninth Circuit panel concluded that the district court did not abuse its discretion in denying intervention based on the following facts: (1) the proposed intervenors' and plaintiffs' claims shared no common factual proof; (2) the interests of the plaintiffs and the intervenors were in direct opposition, resulting in prejudice to the existing parties; and (3) the main action would be unduly delayed because of the differences in the interests and claims.ⁿ⁹⁵

[iv] Organizational and Union Plaintiffs

Organizations having one or more members who are aggrieved by an alleged Title VII violation may have standing to sue on behalf of those members.ⁿ⁹⁶ Likewise, labor unions have standing to sue under Title VII on behalf of their members.ⁿ⁹⁷

[b] Defendants

The various substantive prohibitions of Title VII apply to employers, employment agencies, labor organizations, and joint labor-management committees controlling apprenticeships.ⁿ⁹⁸ Under Title VII, an "employer" is defined as any person engaged in any industry affecting commerce who has 15 or more employees for each working day in each of 20 or more calendar weeks of the year, and any agent of such a person, but does not include certain specified employers, including the United States government, private clubs that are tax-exempt, and Indian tribes.ⁿ⁹⁹ For full discussion of employers covered and exempted under Title VII, see Chapter 40, Part C.

Because the EEOC charge determines the scope of a Title VII action,ⁿ¹⁰⁰ a party not named in the EEOC charge will be dismissed from the suit.ⁿ¹⁰¹ The Ninth Circuit has held that a Title VII civil action cannot be brought against an employee individually.ⁿ¹⁰² Thus, in the Ninth Circuit, the issue of whether or not an individual employee defendant is named in the caption of the charge is of no relevance. In some other circuits, however, if a defendant in a Title VII action was not named in the caption of the EEOC charge but was named in the body of the charge or was in sufficient privity of interest, that party can be held liable.ⁿ¹⁰³

[6] Statutes of Limitations

[a] Time Periods for Filing EEOC Charge

[i] Filing EEOC Charge

A person who believes he or she has been discriminated or retaliated against in violation of Title VII must file a written charge with the EEOC within 180 days of the date that the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred.ⁿ¹⁰⁴ However, if there is a parallel state fair employment law and a state agency to enforce it (as in California, where the DFEH enforces the FEHA),ⁿ¹⁰⁵ and if the aggrieved person initially instituted proceedings with the state agency,ⁿ¹⁰⁶ the aggrieved person has 300 days from the date of the alleged unlawful practice to file an EEOC charge.ⁿ¹⁰⁷ Under the worksharing agreement between the DFEH and EEOC, charges filed with one agency are automatically sent to the other for filing.ⁿ¹⁰⁸ This type of deferral system has been specifically authorized by the Supreme Court.ⁿ¹⁰⁹

The DFEH also defers for EEOC processing all charges that are filed more than 240 days after the alleged violation. Because the complaint must be filed with the EEOC within 300 days in a deferral state,ⁿ¹¹⁰ and the EEOC can take no action until the state has been given 60 days to make a determination (or terminates its proceedings),ⁿ¹¹¹ a complaint filed after 240 days would normally exceed the 300-day period. If that happens, the EEOC does not obtain jurisdiction, and the aggrieved party cannot sue in federal court,ⁿ¹¹² unless the local agency terminates its proceedings before 300 days, and the aggrieved party then files with the EEOC within the 300-day period.ⁿ¹¹³ In California, however, the DFEH has a policy of waiving its jurisdiction and deferring such cases immediately to the EEOC.ⁿ¹¹⁴ This waiver has the effect of terminating the state proceedings and allowing the EEOC to accept the charge for immediate filing and processing.ⁿ¹¹⁵ For full discussion of time limitations for filing of administrative charges under Title VII and deferral of proceedings between the EEOC and DFEH, see Chapter 42, Part C.

The filing period commences when the facts that would support a charge of discrimination would have been apparent to a person similarly situated to the charging party, with a reasonably prudent regard for his or her rights.ⁿ¹¹⁶ For purposes of determining when the limitations period begins to run on a challenge to an intentionally discriminatory seniority system,ⁿ¹¹⁷ an unlawful employment practice is deemed to occur when the seniority system is adopted, when an individual becomes subject to the seniority system, or when a person aggrieved is injured by the application of the seniority system or provision of the system.ⁿ¹¹⁸ This rule applies regardless of whether the discriminatory purpose is apparent on the face of the seniority provision.ⁿ¹¹⁹

Under federal regulations promulgated by the EEOC, federal employees complaining of discrimination by a governmental agency must consult an EEO Counselor prior to filing a complaint in order to try to informally resolve the matter.ⁿ¹²⁰ They must initiate contact with a counselor within 45 days of the date of the matter alleged to be discriminatory.ⁿ¹²¹ Although it does not carry the full weight of statutory authority, failure to comply with this regulation has been held to be fatal to a federal employee's discrimination claim.ⁿ¹²²

[ii] Effect of Continuing Discrimination on Filing Requirements

Under the doctrine of "continuing violations," if the challenged policy or practice consists not of one discrete event, but of a series of ongoing events, the charge is timely if filed within the statutory period (either 180 or 300 days)ⁿ¹²³ following the most recent act in the series of events.ⁿ¹²⁴ For full discussion of the "continuing violation" rule and exceptions to the rule, see Chapter 42.

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

Because of uncertainties regarding application of the "continuing violation" doctrine,ⁿ¹²⁵ it is inadvisable to rely on the doctrine to justify filings with the EEOC that are not strictly within the limitations period. When the person knows or should know that he or she has been the victim of discrimination or retaliation, he or she should commence the Title VII administrative process by filing a charge.

It may sometimes be appropriate, particularly in urgent cases when there is any potential statute of limitations problem, for counsel to accompany the charging party to the EEOC office or to send written correspondence to the EEOC to urge immediate filing of a charge and to assure that the charge contains the requisite allegations of continuing discrimination, when that doctrine may be applicable. Counsel should also emphasize to potential Title VII claimants that they must file timely charges or risk losing their substantive rights by delays, including those occasioned by overburdened agency employees, who have responsibility for processing hundreds of charges of discrimination every year. Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

[b] Time Period for Filing Civil Action

If the EEOC dismisses a charge, or fails to file a civil action on behalf of a charging party within 180 days after the administrative charge was filed, the aggrieved party may request and the EEOC must issue a notice of right of civil action, entitling the charging party to bring a civil action under Title VII ("right-to-sue letter").ⁿ¹²⁶ A federal regulation also states that the EEOC may issue a right-to-sue letter prior to expiration of the 180-day period if the EEOC determines that it will probably not be able to complete administrative processing of the charge within 180 days of its filing.ⁿ¹²⁷

The aggrieved party must file the civil action within the 90-day time period recited in the right-to-sue letter.ⁿ¹²⁸ A complaint that is filed in compliance with Title VII and the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure is deemed filed for statute of limitations purposes.ⁿ¹²⁹ Ascertaining the date on which the limitations period begins is crucial to determining whether an action was timely filed. The Ninth Circuit measures the start of the limitations period from the date on which a right-to-sue notice letter arrived at the claimant's address of record.^{n129.1} When that date is known, the court deems the claimant to have received notice on that date, regardless of whether the claimant personally saw the right-to-sue letter. When the actual date of receipt is unknown but receipt itself is not disputed, the court does not demand proof of actual receipt, but applies a presumption to approximate receipt. The court estimates that date based on the date of EEOC disposition and issuance of notice, with some compensation for mailing time. The Ninth Circuit applies a three-day mailing presumption to determine notice of a right-to-sue letter, and a presumption that the letter issuance date is also the date on which the letter was mailed. Either presumption may be rebutted by evidence to the contrary.^{n129.2}

Failure to file suit within the 90-day right-to-sue period normally constitutes a basis for dismissal of the underlying Title VII action with prejudice.ⁿ¹³⁰ However, an amended complaint filed after the 90-day limitations period which relates back to an original complaint filed within the limitations period is timely filed.ⁿ¹³¹ⁿ¹³²⁻¹³⁷ Notice of the right of action to the aggrieved person's attorney or other designated representative may constitute satisfactory notice under the statute.ⁿ¹³⁸ Similarly, notice received at the aggrieved person's home by another family member may also constitute satisfactory notice under the statute.^{n138.1}

If an employer goes into bankruptcy proceedings, another time limitation must be considered by employees alleging discrimination claims. Discrimination claims arise in the context of bankruptcy proceedings under the Bankruptcy Code when they are within the employees' "fair contemplation." Thus, for example, in a sex discrimination action against a debtor corporation, the bankruptcy court erred in dismissing female employees' claims as having been discharged by its confirmation of the corporation's reorganization plan, because the claims could not have been in the employees' fair contemplation until after the confirmation, even if they arose before the reorganization took effect.^{n138.2}

A defendant's motion to dismiss based on the statute of limitations may be barred by laches if the plaintiff is prejudiced by the delay. To successfully establish laches, a party must show that: (1) There was inexcusable delay in the assertion of a known right, and (2) the party asserting laches has been prejudiced.^{n138.3}

[c] Tolling Principles for Title VII Filing Limitations Periods

[i] Individual Actions

The time periods for filing of EEOC charges and for filing civil actions under Title VII are not jurisdictional; rather, they are in the nature of statutes of limitation, and are thus subject to waiver, estoppel, and equitable tolling.ⁿ¹³⁹ For example, statutory time limits applicable to public employers are subject to equitable tolling.^{n139.1} and equitable tolling is routinely held to be proper when a claimant files suit in a venue without jurisdiction over the claim.^{n139.2} Further, equitable tolling may apply if a defendant, through wrongful conduct, prevents a plaintiff from asserting a claim or if extraordinary circumstances beyond the plaintiff's control make it impossible to file a claim on time. If such conditions arise, equitable tolling may be available to a represented plaintiff, so long as there is no countervailing prejudice to the defendant.^{n139.3}

Nevertheless, the doctrine of equitable tolling should be applied sparingly; courts are generally unforgiving when a late filing is due to the claimant's failure to exercise due diligence in preserving the claimant's legal rights.^{n139.4} The doctrine of equitable tolling ordinarily applies only when a procedural deficiency, such as the failure to file a timely charge or suit, is directly attributable to the fault of the EEOC (or a third party not within the claimant's control) and is not to attributable to the claimant.ⁿ¹⁴⁰

The time periods under Title VII are not tolled by pursuit of independent remedies. For example, pursuit of remedies under grievance procedures guaranteed by collective bargaining does not toll the Title VII time periods for filing.ⁿ¹⁴¹ Nor does the filing of a Title VII action toll statutes of limitations for actions based on statutes other than Title VII.ⁿ¹⁴² In addition, the time period is not tolled during the period of time that a family member of an aggrieved person has taken receipt of the notice at the aggrieved person's household but the aggrieved person did not know of the receipt.^{n142.1}

When a complaint is timely filed and later dismissed, the timely filing of the complaint does not toll or suspend the limitations period.^{n142.2} Dismissal of the original suit, even though without prejudice, may sound the death knell for the underlying cause of action if the sheer passage of time precludes the prosecution of a new action.^{n142.3} It is irrelevant that dismissal of the first complaint without prejudice was involuntary (such as the result of an automatic stay in bankruptcy) rather than voluntary.^{n142.4}

Equitable tolling is applied in the situation where a bankruptcy petition erects an automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362, which prevents a claimant from taking steps to protect a claim.^{n142.5} Thus, for example, employers created the situation that impeded an employee from pursuing claims under the Equal Pay Act by filing for bankruptcy, which created an automatic stay, and they could not claim to be prejudiced by the application of equitable tolling. Further, nothing in the EPA precluded equitable tolling of the limitations period. Thus, the period of time commencing with the issuance of the automatic stay and ending thirty days after the notice of termination of the stay^{n142.6} had to be excluded from the applicable EPA limitations period, which was two years for a general violation and three years for a willful violation.^{n142.7} Each discriminatory paycheck the plaintiff received constituted a separate violation of the EPA with a cause of action accruing, and the running of the limitations period commencing, on receipt of the discriminatory paycheck.^{n142.8} However, although the EPA violations may have been continuing, the continuing violation doctrine did not permit the plaintiff to recover back pay for discriminatory pay periods outside the applicable statute of limitations period.^{n142.9}

Equitable estoppel focuses primarily on actions taken by a defendant in preventing a plaintiff from filing suit.^{n142.10} A finding of equitable estoppel rests on the consideration of a non-exhaustive list of factors, including the following:^{n142.11}

- Plaintiff's actual and reasonable reliance on defendant's conduct or representations.
- Evidence of improper purpose on the part of the defendant, or of the defendant's actual or constructive knowledge of the deceptive nature of its conduct.
- The extent to which the purposes of the limitations period have been satisfied.

Thus, for example, equitable estoppel was not warranted in a Title VII and ADEA action in which the first complaint, which had been timely filed, was dismissed as a result of an automatic stay resulting from defendant's bankruptcy proceedings. There was no evidence of improper purpose on the part of the defendant, or of the defendant's actual or constructive knowledge of the deceptive nature of its conduct.^{n142.12}

[ii] Class Actions

Title VII limitations periods are tolled for members of a pleaded class action, once the pleading is filed in the United States district court. Such a filing preserves the unnamed class members' rights under Title VII and tolls the time periods for each unnamed class member's claims until the class allegations are dismissed by an order denying class certification.ⁿ¹⁴³ If the class certification motion is denied, the unnamed class members may intervene in the action to appeal the denial of class certification, or they may independently file EEOC charges and civil actions.ⁿ¹⁴⁴ In this situation, an EEOC charge may be filed immediately on notice of dismissal of the class allegations,ⁿ¹⁴⁵ and this administrative filing will preserve the individual's right to file a new civil action under Title VII if intervention and/or appeal from denial of class certification is denied.

[7] EEOC Charge Determines Scope of Suit

The plaintiff in a Title VII civil action may plead all claims that are reasonably related to the contents of his or her underlying EEOC charge.ⁿ¹⁴⁶ If the plaintiff asserts claims that the EEOC could not reasonably have been expected to investigate pursuant to a charge, those claims will be dismissed.ⁿ¹⁴⁷

[8] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects of Related Administrative and Judicial Proceedings

[a] Judicially Unreviewed State Administrative Proceedings

The United States Supreme Court held, in University of Tennessee v. Elliott,ⁿ¹⁴⁸ that unreviewed state administrative proceedings do not bar a subsequent trial de novo under Title VII on the same issuesⁿ¹⁴⁹ because Congress intended to allow an individual to pursue independent remedies under both Title VII and other applicable state and federal laws.ⁿ¹⁵⁰

In Elliott, a state administrative law judge had made findings concerning whether a discharge was motivated by racial prejudice. Such administrative fact-finding could occur in various contexts, such as a determination in an unemployment hearing denying unemployment benefits to a person who claims he or she was discharged due to discrimination.ⁿ¹⁵¹ Elliott clarified that such administrative adjudications do not have a preclusive effect on subsequent Title VII litigation.ⁿ¹⁵²

For further discussion of preclusive effects of prior administrative or state actions on subsequent discrimination claims generally, see Chapter 42, Part A.

[b] Judicially Reviewed State Administrative Proceedings

Under the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel, a state court judgment reviewing an administrative decision on a fair employment claim bars a subsequent Title VII civil action in federal court if the plaintiff had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the claim or issue in state court.ⁿ¹⁵³

■ PRACTICE TIP--EMPLOYEE'S PERSPECTIVE:

If the plaintiff desires to avoid the preclusive effect of possible adverse state judicial orders, he or she should forego state litigation of the administrative determination and proceed to federal court. However, if state remedies are more advantageous to the claimant than Title VII remedies, as in California, where compensatory and punitive damages may be recovered under the FEHA in state court, in contrast to the lack of these remedies under Title VII,ⁿ¹⁵⁴ the plaintiff may make an informed decision to go to state court, knowingly precluding any Title VII action thereafter. Commentary by Mary C. Dunlap.

[c] Affirmative Use of Collateral Estoppel

Plaintiffs may also seek to use collateral estoppel affirmatively in Title VII litigation by attempting to estop a defendant from relitigating issues litigated adversely to the defendant in a previous proceeding, even if the plaintiff was not a party to the previous action.ⁿ¹⁵⁵ Courts will not allow such affirmative estoppel if a plaintiff could easily have joined in the earlier action or if its use would be unfair to a defendant.ⁿ¹⁵⁶

In City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com.,ⁿ¹⁵⁷ a California court of appeal, hearing the case on administrative mandamus, upheld the Fair Employment and Housing Commission's decision that there had been discrimination in testing for promotions of firefighters to the position of lieutenant in the San Francisco Fire Department. However, noting the pendency of a federal Title VII civil action against the city by black and other minority firefighters, the court of appeal deferred all remedial considerations to the federal district court in which the Title VII action was pending. Subsequently, the United States district court granted partial summary judgment to the plaintiffs and gave preclusive effect to the state court decision that the promotional examination was invalid, even though the state court proceeding was brought by parties other than the Title VII plaintiffs.ⁿ¹⁵⁸

[d] Other Related Judicial Proceedings

Res judicata can be raised as a defense to an action for violation of Title VII based on a related state-court proceeding, even if the state-court proceeding takes place before an EEOC right-to-sue letter is issued and even if Title VII was not raised as a claim in the state-court proceeding. In Owens v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan,^{n158.1} African Americans who lost their jobs when Kaiser relocated one of its facilities, filed charges with the EEOC and DFEH alleging racial discrimination and a state-court action alleging common law claims against Kaiser, individual supervisors, and their union. The state-court action was ultimately dismissed with prejudice. After subsequently receiving right-to-sue letters from the EEOC, they then filed a federal court action solely against Kaiser alleging racial discrimination in violation of Title VII. The trial court granted Kaiser's motion for judgment on the pleadings based on res judicata and dismissed the action. The Ninth Circuit affirmed, holding that res judicata could apply even though the plaintiffs were barred from bringing their Title VII claims in the state-court action because they had not yet received their right-to-sue letters from the EEOC. The court held that Title VII claims are not exempt from the doctrine of res judicata if plaintiffs have neither sought a stay from the court for the purpose of pursuing Title VII administrative remedies nor attempted to amend their complaint to include their Title VII claims.^{158,2}

[9] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

[i] Definition

Back pay under Title VII is defined as the amount that the plaintiff would have earned absent discrimination or retaliation, minus the amount he or she earned or should have earned by mitigating his or her losses with reasonable diligence.¹⁵⁹ The period for calculation of a back pay award commences not earlier than two years prior to the filing of a charge with the EEOC and terminates on the date of judgment in the action.¹⁶⁰

All amounts required to make the plaintiff whole from the losses occasioned by the Title VII violation should be included in the back pay award. Thus, back pay includes raises, bonuses, and fringe benefits that plaintiff would have received during the back pay period.¹⁶¹ The amount of back pay awarded is not to be reduced by unemployment insurance paid to the employee during the period of liability.¹⁶²

An award of back pay under Title VII is not excludable from gross income for income tax purposes and is subject to income tax withholding.^{162.1}

[ii] Availability

Although Title VII provides that the court "may" award back pay if it finds a violation,¹⁶³ the United States Supreme Court has held that back pay should be denied only for reasons that, if applied generally, would not frustrate the purposes of Title VII of eradicating discrimination throughout the economy and of making persons whole for injuries suffered through past discrimination.¹⁶⁴ Therefore, a court that does decline to award back pay must carefully articulate its reasons for doing so.¹⁶⁵ Absence of bad faith on the part of the employer does not establish a reason to deny back pay.¹⁶⁶ However, an employer's good-faith reliance on state protective laws (which violate Title VII) generally insulate an employer from back pay liability.¹⁶⁷

Although ordinarily an employee who has been discriminatorily denied an opportunity for a promotion may not collect backpay for periods beyond the employee's resignation unless the employee demonstrates that he or she was constructively discharged, if the employee was "preparing to enter an entirely different career" with the same employer, i.e., the refusal to promote was analogous to a refusal to hire, the employee may collect back pay extending beyond the date that the employee quit.^{167.1}

Back pay is available to undocumented alien employees who are subject to Title VII violations as long as they were not deported during and were available for employment throughout the backpay period.^{167.2}

[iii] Mitigation of Amount of Back Pay Award

Title VII provides that "[i]nterim earnings or amounts earned with reasonable diligence by the person or persons discriminated against operate to reduce the back pay otherwise allowable."¹⁶⁸ This statutory provision imposes on the plaintiff a duty to mitigate his or her losses caused by a Title VII violation, by seeking and, when available, accepting comparable employment.ⁿ¹⁶⁹ This duty includes the plaintiff's obligation to accept the defendant employer's unconditional offer of the job originally sought, with or without retroactive seniority.ⁿ¹⁷⁰ However, the plaintiff does not have to mitigate losses by settling his or her claims with the employer under any circumstances,ⁿ¹⁷¹ or by seeking employment in another community,ⁿ¹⁷² or by accepting an "inferior" position, in terms of pay and status, relative to the position denied the person by defendant.ⁿ¹⁷³ Nor does the duty to mitigate damages require the plaintiff to quit his or her job to seek other employment comparable to a position denied by defendant's refusal to promote.^{n173.1} One court has held that ongoing backpay liability does not end if the plaintiff's rejection of a job offer was reasonable, given the form of the offer and the circumstances surrounding it.^{n173.2} A plaintiff is not entitled to an award of back pay for the period subsequent to his or her decision to voluntarily withdraw from the work force.^{n173.3}

The burden of proving failure of the duty to mitigate is on the defendant, once liability has been established by plaintiff.ⁿ¹⁷⁴

[b] Front Pay

[i] Definition

Courts may award equitable relief for the violation of Title VII.ⁿ¹⁷⁵ Front pay is a monetary remedy that may be awarded in the court's equitable discretion to compensate a prevailing plaintiff for the lost earnings that are reasonably likely to occur between the date of judgment and the time when the employee can assume the position to which he or she would be entitled but for the Title VII violation.ⁿ¹⁷⁶ An award of front pay is analogous to an award of future lost earnings in a tort case.ⁿ¹⁷⁷ Courts also may award front pay as an alternative to hiring or reinstatement when there is no available position or when hiring or reinstatement would be infeasible because of ongoing antagonism at the work place.ⁿ¹⁷⁸ When feasible, however, courts prefer hiring or reinstatement to front pay remedies under Title VII.ⁿ¹⁷⁹

The calculation of front pay depends on prediction of the period in which the employee will continue to be denied the employment opportunity that he or she would have enjoyed, but for the discrimination.ⁿ¹⁸⁰ Front pay, like back pay, is subject to the plaintiff's duty to mitigate, and the right to front pay may be cut off by offering the employee the sought-after job (with or without the requisite seniority) or a comparable opportunity with a competitor.ⁿ¹⁸¹

Front pay does not constitute an element of "compensatory damages" under 42 U.S.C. § 1981a, and thus, it is not subject to the statutory damages cap imposed by 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3).^{n181.1}

[ii] Availability

Front pay is within the trial court's broad discretion, and is generally awarded for one of two purposes: (1) to compensate plaintiffs for delays in full make-whole relief;ⁿ¹⁸² or (2) to compensate plaintiffs for the absence of reinstatement relief, which may be due to ongoing hostility between the parties.ⁿ¹⁸³

Front pay should not be awarded in the absence of specific findings to justify it.ⁿ¹⁸⁴ Because front pay calculations are fact-intensive, there is not uniform approach to the calculation and distribution of this monetary relief.

Thus, when an employer can demonstrate that a prevailing plaintiff would not have been hired even in the absence of discrimination, as for example when the employer had a reduction-in-force or did not contemplate any new vacancies, a court may be justified in denying an award of front pay altogether.ⁿ¹⁸⁵

[c] Compensatory and Punitive Damages

A provision of the Civil Rights Act of 1991ⁿ¹⁸⁶ provides that in a civil action under Title VII against a respondent who has engaged in unlawful intentional discrimination (i.e., not an employment practice that is unlawful because of its disparate impact), the complaining party may recover compensatory and punitive damages, as further discussed below, in addition to any other relief authorized by Title VII.ⁿ¹⁸⁷ Compensatory and punitive damages are available in Title VII actions under this provision only if the complaining party cannot recover under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981.ⁿ¹⁸⁸ discussed in § 43.14, which already provides a civil damages remedy for racial discrimination and discrimination based on certain other ethnic characteristics.ⁿ¹⁸⁹ The "complaining party" for this purpose means the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Attorney General, or a person who may bring an action or proceeding under Title VII.ⁿ¹⁹⁰

A complaining party may recover punitive damages in a Title VII action against a respondent (other than a government, government agency, or political subdivision) if the complaining party demonstrates that the respondent engaged in a discriminatory practice or discriminatory practices with malice or with reckless indifference to the federally protected rights of an aggrieved individual.ⁿ¹⁹¹ Thus, plaintiffs seeking an award of punitive damages under Title VII must make a showing beyond the threshold level of intent required for compensatory liability. The plaintiff must show that the employer had a "subjective consciousness" of the risk of injury or illegality. The employer's conduct need not be shown to be egregious, although evidence of egregious misconduct may be used to meet the plaintiff's burden of proof.ⁿ¹⁹² After a showing of the requisite intent by certain managerial employees, the employee must also show that the requisite mental state can be imputed to the employer.ⁿ¹⁹³ In Title VII cases, in the context of punitive damages, an employer may not be vicariously liable for the discriminatory conduct of its managerial agents when the agents' decisions are contrary to the employer's good faith efforts to comply with Title VII (e.g., institution of a written sexual harassment policy).ⁿ¹⁹⁴ Of course, this higher standard is satisfied if, as an alternative to the reckless indifference standard stated above, the acts of discrimination giving rise to liability are willful and egregious.^{n194.1} In Ngo v. Reno Hilton Resort Corp.,^{n194.2} the record clearly supported the jury's finding of discrimination: the employer acted negligently and perhaps recklessly in denying a medical leave of absence for pregnancy complications and in terminating the employee by erroneously determining the length of service. However, negligent decisionmaking and poor communication among managers, although a proper basis for compensatory damages, does not warrant punishment, and the challenged acts would not be deterred by an award of punitive damages.^{n194.3}

In E.E.O.C. v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., ^{n194.4} the court applied the higher evidentiary standard articulated in Ngo v. Reno Resort Corp., ^{n194.5} and concluded that the district court should have submitted the issue of punitive damages to the jury. Specifically, the evidence established that Wal-Mart recklessly disregarded the plaintiff's right to be free from pregnancy discrimination by informing her that she was ineligible for hire due to her pregnancy and that she should reapply when she was no longer pregnant. The record further indicated that store management almost certainly knew that such conduct was illegal based on training and on prohibitions in handbooks against pregnancy discrimination; it also showed that Wal-Mart officials attempted to cover up its conduct by creating false reasons not to hire the plaintiff and by fabricating an interview during which the applicant allegedly expressed concerns about her pregnancy and ability to do the job.^{n194.6}

In Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc., ^{n194.7} the court held that the evidence was legally sufficient to support an award of punitive damages under the Civil Rights Act of 1991. Jury verdicts of intentional discrimination in the form of retaliation against both plaintiffs and failure to promote one of the plaintiffs were supported by sufficient evidence. Furthermore, the record contained substantial evidence from which a reasonable juror could have concluded that the employer acted with awareness of anti-discrimination laws. There was testimony that the employer hired additional women in store management positions, in part because of its concern about liability for discriminatory practices.^{n194.8} There was also testimony that the employer and its agents excluded plaintiffs from decision-making processes and harassed the plaintiffs after they sent their discrimination complaint. The court had no doubt that discriminatory actions by management officers could be imputed to the employer. The claims of intentional discrimination were based on the conduct of the chief operating officer, the chief executive officer, the chief financial officer, and the grocery supervisor, among others, and the employer did not argue that the actions of management were contrary to the good-faith, non-discriminatory policies of the company.^{n194.9}

In Costa v. Desert Palace, Inc.,^{n194.10} the court held that Kolstad provides the employer with a "good faith" defense, enabling it to escape punitive damages if it can show that the challenged actions were not taken by senior managers and were contrary to the employer's good-faith implementation of an effective antidiscrimination policy. Kolstad also suggests that the court review the type of authority the employer has given the employee, the amount of discretion given the employee in the action taken, and how it is accomplished.^{n194.11}

"Compensatory damages" for purposes of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 do not include backpay, interest on backpay, or any other type of relief authorized under Title VII,ⁿ¹⁹⁵ but do include amounts awarded for future pecuniary losses, emotional pain, suffering, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and other nonpecuniary losses.ⁿ¹⁹⁶ The sum of the amount of such compensatory damages and the amount of punitive damages awarded may not exceed the following amounts for each complaining party:ⁿ¹⁹⁷

1. In the case of a respondent who has more than 14 and fewer than 101 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $50,000;
2. In the case of a respondent who has more than 100 and fewer than 201 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $100,000;
3. In the case of a respondent who has more than 200 and fewer than 501 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $200,000; and
4. In the case of a respondent who has more than 500 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $300,000.

Each aggrieved employee represented by the EEOC in a Title VII action may receive up to the statutory cap without filing a separate suit or intervening in the EEOC's action.^{n197.1} The Title VII caps do not impose a ceiling on a plaintiff's damages for claims under other EEO statutes alleged in the complaint.^{n197.2} Front pay is not considered compensatory damages for purposes of calculating the cap on damages awarded.^{n197.3}

Prior to enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1991, courts had consistently held that compensatory and punitive damages were unavailable in civil actions under Title VII.ⁿ¹⁹⁸ The Civil Rights Act of 1991 took effect immediately on its date of enactment,ⁿ¹⁹⁹ which was November 21, 1991. The United States Supreme Court has held, however, that the expanded damages provisions enacted by the Civil Rights Act of 1991 do not apply retroactively to cases pending at the time of enactment.^{n199.1}

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Although compensatory and punitive damages are now available in Title VII actions, plaintiffs may still find the Title VII monetary remedies inadequate in certain cases because of the limits on the amount of those damages, as discussed above. In those cases, theories of liability other than Title VII may be joined with the Title VII claim, including the FEHA,ⁿ²⁰⁰ Title 42, United States Code Section 1981,ⁿ²⁰¹ and tort and contract liability theories.ⁿ²⁰² Commentary by Steven J. Revell.

The Ninth Circuit has held that a ratio of punitive damages to compensatory damages of 6:5 is not an excessive amount of punitive damages.^{n202.1}

[c.1] Other Monetary Relief

Other monetary relief under Title VII might include differential amounts of benefits or differential contributions to benefit plans that were based on sex, race, or other protected criteria under Title VII. However, if retroactive liability for such benefits could be devastating for the underlying fund, or if the expectations of all employees depending on the fund would be disappointed, or if current employees would be forced to pay for the benefits of past employees, the employer generally may avoid liability for past benefit differentials.ⁿ²⁰³

[d] Injunctive Relief

[i] Generally

Title VII specifically empowers district courts to enjoin the defendant from engaging in an unlawful employment practice, and to order "such affirmative action as may be appropriate, which may include, but is not limited to, reinstatement or hiring of employees ... or any other equitable relief as the court deems appropriate," with specified exceptions for orders that require employment or union membership for persons denied these opportunities for reasons other than discrimination or retaliation.ⁿ²⁰⁴ The purpose of the equitable power granted to courts under Title VII is to fashion appropriate relief, both retrospective and prospective, to make whole the victims of discrimination and retaliation.ⁿ²⁰⁵ Injunctive relief is often ideally suited to that end.ⁿ²⁰⁶

Generally, victims of employment discrimination are entitled to an injunction against future discrimination, unless the employer proves it is unlikely to repeat the practice.^{n206.1} Such relief is appropriate if there are multiple Title VII violations, and if an employer fails to take prompt remedial actions. An employer that takes remedial actions only after it has been sued fails to provide sufficient assurances that the violations will not be repeated.ⁿ²⁰⁷

[ii] Preliminary Injunctions

Preliminary injunctions, which preserve the status quo pending conclusion of the litigation,ⁿ²⁰⁸ may serve a variety of purposes under Title VII, including prevention of retaliatory action by the defendant,ⁿ²⁰⁹ and preservation of employment opportunities pending final relief in the case.ⁿ²¹⁰ Some courts have held that the federal courts have equitable power, beyond the terms of Title VII, to grant preliminary injunctions in order to preserve their ability to do ultimate equity, which enables courts to grant emergency preliminary injunctions, even when the party seeking the preliminary injunction does not yet have the normally required Title VII right-to-sue letter.ⁿ²¹¹

[iii] Mandatory Hiring/Reinstatement

Title VII provides that a court may order hiring or reinstatement of an employee who has been discriminated or retaliated against.ⁿ²¹² Pursuant to this statutory power, courts have ordered hiring as well as reinstatement of victims of Title VII violations.ⁿ²¹³

[iv] Affirmative Action Remedies Including Quotas, Goals, and Timetables

The United States Supreme Court and lower federal courts have held that Title VII permits affirmative action relief, including quotas, goals, and timetables for hiring and promotion, in appropriate cases.ⁿ²¹⁴ A plurality of the United States Supreme Court has stated that court-imposed affirmative action, including race-conscious relief, may be imposed "[w]here an employer ... has engaged in persistent or egregious discrimination, or where necessary to dissipate the lingering effects of pervasive discrimination."ⁿ²¹⁵

For full discussion of affirmative action as a court-imposed remedy for discrimination under Title VII, as well as rules regarding voluntary affirmative action programs, see Chapter 44.

[v] Retroactive Seniority

Retroactive seniority is a remedy designed to put the victim of discrimination under Title VII in the position that he or she would have held but for the discrimination.ⁿ²¹⁶ A court is obliged to grant the make-whole remedy of retroactive seniority unless there are reasons for denying it which, if applied generally, would not frustrate the purposes of Title

VII.n217 The terms "retroactive," "remedial," "constructive," and "synthetic" seniority are used interchangeably in discussion of this remedial concept. All refer to a "make-whole" remedy consisting of a court order reconstructing the date of hire, promotion, or some date relevant to the employee's seniority, for the purpose of restoring the employee to the position he or she would have held but for the discrimination.n218 Because employers and unions use seniority for a variety of purposes and under distinct systems, sometimes the term "seniority" is modified by words referring to those particular purposes or systems. For example, "competitive" seniority or "bidding" seniority date refers to the date that establishes the employee's "relative" seniority for purposes of seeking promotion or "bumping" (displacing) less senior personnel. Normally, courts avoid retroactive seniority remedies that permit "bumping,"n219 or which otherwise have an "unusual adverse impact" on nonvictim incumbent employees.n220 The measure of "unusual adverse impact" includes consideration of the number of victims of discrimination, the number of nonvictims who will be affected by the grant of retroactive seniority, the alternatives available to incumbent employees, and the economic circumstances of the relevant industry.n221 However, retroactive seniority may not be denied simply because it conflicts with the expectations of arguably innocent employees, that is, nonvictims of discrimination.n222

[e] Prejudgment Interest

The federal courts generally have discretion to award prejudgment interest on back pay awards under Title VII.n223 Prejudgment interest has been denied in some cases in which the discrimination was unintentional and the scope of liability or relief was not easily ascertainable.n224 Courts also may use their discretion in calculating prejudgment interest.n225

[f] Attorney's and Expert Fees

[i] To Prevailing Plaintiff Other Than United States or EEOC

In any action or proceeding under Title VII, the court, in its discretion, may allow the prevailing party, other than the EEOC or the United States, a reasonable attorney's fee as part of the costs.n226 Attorney's fees may be awarded against any defendant, including the EEOC, the United States,n227 or state and local governments.n228 The attorney's fee award under Title VII may include expert fees.n229 Deposition costs and costs for preparation of attorney's fees motions are also recoverable under Title VII in certain circumstances.n230

A litigant need not prevail on every issue, or even the central issue of the case, to be considered a "prevailing party;" rather, it is sufficient if the plaintiff succeeds "on any significant claim affording some of the relief sought."n230.1 Thus, if a plaintiff is only partially successful in seeking relief and achieves only some of the benefit sought by the litigation, the plaintiff is still a prevailing party.n230.2 In Hashimoto v. Dalton, n230.3 the plaintiff was entitled to prevailing party status because the EEOC found that the defendant engaged in retaliation and ordered remedial measures. Because these remedial measures effected a "material alteration in the legal relationship between the plaintiff and defendant[.]" the plaintiff was entitled to prevailing party status.n230.4 In Norris v. Sysco Corp.,n230.5 the court held that a plaintiff who prevails on her Title VII claim at trial may be awarded attorney's fees under Title VII, even if the jury does not award damages on the ground that the employer would have taken the same action for nondiscriminatory reasons.n230.6

The United States Supreme Court has stated that because of the strong public interest in having actions brought under Title VII to eradicate discriminatory employment practices, attorney's fees should ordinarily be awarded to the prevailing plaintiff against the losing defendant in all but special circumstances.n231 By contrast, attorney's fees may be awarded to a prevailing plaintiff against unsuccessful intervenors only when the intervenors' action was frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation.n232

Attorney's fees are generally determined by calculating a "lodestar" amount, i.e., the number of hours reasonably expended on litigation, multiplied by a reasonable hourly rate.n232.1 However, when the plaintiff prevails but receives only de minimis relief and achieves only technical success, the court may bypass the general rule requiring calculation of a lodestar and establish a low fee or no fee at all.^{n232.2} Nonetheless, plaintiffs who achieve significant nonmonetary results for the community in general attain more than a technical victory and are entitled to reasonable attorney's fees.^{n232.3}

The amount of attorney's fees to be awarded is guided by a number of factors, including the following:ⁿ²³³

1. The time and labor required;
2. The novelty and difficulty of the issues litigated;
3. The skill required to represent the plaintiff;
4. The preclusion of other employment by the attorney due to obligations of accepting the case;
5. The customary or standard fee for similar work;
6. Whether the fee in the case is fixed or contingent;
7. Time limitations imposed by the case on counsel;
8. The amount at stake in the controversy and the results obtained;
9. The experience, reputation, and ability of counsel;
10. The undesirability or unpopularity of the cause;
11. The nature and length of the professional relationship between counsel and the client; and
12. Awards in similar cases.

In the context of a class action settlement consent decree, attorney's fees are as subject to compromise as the merits provisions. Consequently, the fee amount in a class action settlement agreement can be less than would be awarded by a court.^{n233.1} Because the proper amount of fees is often open to dispute and the parties are compromising to avoid litigation, the court need not inquire into the reasonableness of the fees even at the high end with the same level of scrutiny as when the fee amount is litigated. But there must be some level of scrutiny by the trial court.^{n233.2}

In discrimination actions brought under Title VII, the existence of the statutory attorney's fees provision does not preclude recovery of attorney's fees from a "common fund."^{n233.3} An attorney's fee award in a class action settlement can fall under the common fund doctrine rather than under the Title VII fee-shifting provisions if the parties properly agree, the resulting fee is reasonable, and other requisites applicable to common fund fees are met. If the parties invoke common fund principles, they must follow common fund procedures and standards, designed to protect class members when common fund fees are awarded.^{n233.4}

Under the common fund doctrine, a litigant or a lawyer who recovers a common fund for the benefit of persons other than the litigant or the lawyer's client is entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee from the fund as a whole.^{n233.5} In a common fund case, the trial court can apply the lodestar method to determine the amount of attorney's fees, and can apply a risk multiplier when using the lodestar approach. The risk multiplier is a number by which the base lodestar figure is multiplied to increase or decrease an award of attorneys' fees on the basis of factors including the risk involved and the length of the proceedings. Alternatively, the court can determine the amount of attorney's fees to be awarded from the fund by employing a "percentage" method. Under the percentage method, the court awards the attorneys a percentage of the fund.^{n233.6} The Ninth Circuit has established 25% of the common fund as a benchmark award for attorneys' fees.^{n233.7} However, only when the value of benefits deriving from injunctive relief can be accurately valued and traced to the beneficiaries may courts include such relief as part of the value of a common fund for purposes of applying the percentage method of determining fees.^{n233.8} Contingent fee agreements between counsel and client are valid in cases in which common fund fees are available.^{n233.9}

A court may adjust an attorney's fee rate to compensate for lost interest or inflation resulting from delay in payment.^{n233.10} Although the Ninth Circuit has held that a court may enhance the lodestar amount to account for the risks inherent in contingency fee agreements,^{n233.11} the United States Supreme Court, in a subsequent decision interpreting similar fee-shifting provisions in other federal statutes, has reached a contrary conclusion.^{n233.12}

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Since the amount of time spent by the attorney is one of the primary factors determining the amount of the attorney's fee award, counsel should maintain contemporaneous records of time spent in order to support an application for an award. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

Parties to a class action may not include in a settlement agreement an amount of attorneys' fees measured as a percentage of an actual or putative common fund created for the benefit of the class. To obtain fees justified on a common fund basis, the class's lawyers must ordinarily petition the court for an award of fees, separate from and subsequent to settlement. Further, parties ordinarily may not include an estimated value of undifferentiated injunctive relief in the amount of an actual or putative common fund for purposes of determining an award of attorneys' fees. The fact that counsel obtained injunctive relief in addition to monetary relief for their clients is, however, a relevant circumstance to consider in determining what percentage of the fund is reasonable as fees.^{n233.13}

[ii] To Prevailing Defendant Other than United States or EEOC

Attorney's fees are not awarded to prevailing defendants as a matter of course. Fees are awarded to a defendant in a Title VII action, other than the United States or the EEOC,ⁿ²³⁴ only if the defendant can show that the plaintiff's suit was frivolous, unreasonable, without foundation, or brought in bad faith.ⁿ²³⁵ A hindsight approach, which would interpret a plaintiff's failure to prevail as equivalent to a showing of lack of reasonableness or foundation, does not justify fees for a prevailing defendant.ⁿ²³⁶ In one case, the Ninth Circuit overturned a district court award of attorney's fees against a losing plaintiff because the EEOC's issuance of a reasonable cause determination showed that the plaintiff was reasonable in believing that there was an adequate basis in law and fact to pursue his claim of race discrimination, even though the case had ultimately been dismissed.ⁿ²³⁷

In another case, the Ninth Circuit held that the EEOC's failure to conciliate is not in itself "unreasonable" so as to warrant an award of attorney's fees to a prevailing defendant, at least when the EEOC reasonably believed that its efforts to conciliate were sufficient.^{n237.1} Furthermore, in the same case, the Ninth Circuit held that the district court's finding that the EEOC had failed to present credible evidence of discriminatory conduct was not a sufficient basis to support an award of attorney's fees to the prevailing defendant. In such circumstances, an action is deemed "frivolous, unreasonable, or without foundation" so as to justify an award of attorney's fees only if the plaintiff (in this case, the EEOC) should have anticipated at the outset that none of the plaintiff's evidence of discriminatory conduct was credible.^{n237.2}

In calculating the attorney's fees to be awarded to defendant, the district court considers not only what defendant paid to defend itself successfully in the litigation, but also what is reasonable, considering plaintiff's good faith or lack of it in litigating the action, and plaintiff's ability to pay.ⁿ²³⁸

[g] Relief to Class of Plaintiffs: Procedural Note

All of the remedies discussed in [a]-[f], above, are available to classes of plaintiffs, as well as to individual plaintiffs under Title VII.ⁿ²³⁹ Class actions frequently are tried in a bifurcated proceeding,ⁿ²⁴⁰ with the first stage devoted to determining liability,ⁿ²⁴¹ and the second stage devoted to establishing remedies, if liability is found in the first stage.ⁿ²⁴²

Although the Supreme Court asserted a preference for resolving the remedy phase of Title VII class actions by individual claim hearings,ⁿ²⁴³ this preference can be overcome in appropriate cases when the specific factual circumstances justify class-wide or formula distribution of back pay "to accommodate Title VII's remedial purpose."ⁿ²⁴⁴ These circumstances are present in two situations: (1) when the complexities of a case would force the court into speculation about which class members should be made whole; and (2) when individualized hearings would strain judicial manageability and economy beyond feasible limits.ⁿ²⁴⁵

The Ninth Circuit expressly acknowledged the existence of such circumstances in a case, Domingo v. New England Fish Co.,ⁿ²⁴⁶ in which the district court had ordered an individualized hearing procedure following a Stage I liability determination. In Domingo, the employer's lack of objective hiring criteria and use of word-of-mouth recruitment made it difficult to determine precisely which claimants would have been given a better job absent discrimination. Thus, the Ninth Circuit found that the facts of the case justified "a departure from an individualized remedy for each claimant," although the court recognized that "as a general rule such an approach should be used."ⁿ²⁴⁷ The Ninth Circuit ordered the district court to fashion "class-wide relief," which might consist of a lump sum to be distributed pro rata among the claimants.ⁿ²⁴⁸

[h] Limitations on Available Relief in "Mixed Motive" Cases

Title VII, as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991,ⁿ²⁴⁹ provides that, except as otherwise provided in Title VII, an unlawful employment practice is established when the complaining party demonstrates that race, color, religion, sex, or national origin was a motivating factor for any employment practice, even though other factors also motivated the practice.ⁿ²⁵⁰ However, the Civil Rights Act of 1991 also provides that if the employer can demonstrate that it would have taken the same action even in the absence of the impermissible motivating factor, the court may grant only declaratory relief, injunctive relief (other than hiring, admission, promotion, or reinstatement), and attorney's fees and costs demonstrated to be directly attributable only to the pursuit of a claim under Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(m).ⁿ²⁵¹ However, the plaintiff must allege a claim under Title VII in the complaint and prove a Title VII claim at trial in order to be entitled to an award of attorney's fees.^{n251.1} The court may not award damages or issue an order requiring admission, reinstatement, hiring, promotion, or payment of back pay.ⁿ²⁵²

[10] FORM--Complaint for Violation of Title VII--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

The form set forth in [b], below, is a general complaint for monetary and injunctive relief for violation of Title VII.ⁿ²⁵³ The form is intended for use by an individual aggrieved person and contains the basic allegations required in any complaint for violation of Title VII. As an illustration of conduct violating Title VII, the complaint alleges that defendant failed to promote plaintiff because of his or her sex, race, or other protected characteristic.ⁿ²⁵⁴ Illustrative forms of allegations of other specific practices or policies that violate Title VII can be found in the allegations set forth in § 43.01 [10], following the general complaint for violation of the FEHA.ⁿ²⁵⁵ Those allegations, which are based on parallel provisions of the FEHA, may be modified as appropriate (for example, by replacing the citations to the Government Code in those forms with citations to the appropriate provisions of Title VII and EEOC regulations) and substituted for Paragraphs 7-11 in the general form below. The following is a list of those allegations available for use in a Title VII complaint for which allegations of discrimination under the FEHA may be modified and used with this form:

1. Discriminatory failure or refusal to hire;n256
2. Discriminatory termination from employment;n257
3. Constructive discharge due to discrimination or retaliation;n258
4. Retaliation for filing a complaint, testifying, or participating in Title VII proceedings, or for opposing practices made unlawful under Title VII;n259
5. Refusal to accommodate religious creed;n260 and
6. Harassment.n260.1

[ii] Federal Procedural Requirements for Civil Complaints Generally

Under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 8(a), to state a claim for relief, a complaint must contain each of the following: a short and plain statement of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction, unless the court already has jurisdiction and the claim needs no new jurisdictional support; a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief;n261 and a demand for the relief sought, which may include relief in the alternative or different types of relief. Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 8(d) in pertinent part requires allegations of the complaint to be simple, concise, and direct. Under a notice pleading system, it is not appropriate to require a Title VII plaintiff to plead facts establishing a prima facie case of discrimination under the framework of McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green. n261.1 The McDonnell Douglas framework does not apply in every employment discrimination case, such as when a plaintiff presents evidence of direct discrimination. Furthermore, the precise requirements of a prima facie case can vary depending on the context and were never intended to be rigid, mechanized, or ritualistic.

An employment discrimination complaint need not include specific facts establishing a prima facie case. The complaint need only contain a short and plain statement of the claim, showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.n261.2 Furthermore, a Title VII complaint does not require greater "particularity" in pleading.n261.3 The ordinary rules for assessing the sufficiency of a complaint apply.n261.4

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 10 prescribes the form of the pleadings, including the caption and naming of parties, the setting forth of separate statements of claims in separate paragraphs, and the adoption by reference of prior paragraphs and exhibits in the complaint.

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 11 provides in pertinent part that every pleading of a party represented by an attorney must be signed by an attorney, or if the party is unrepresented, the party must sign the pleading. Such signing certifies that the attorney or party has read the pleading, that after "reasonable inquiry," he or she believes it to be well-grounded in fact and warranted by existing law or by a good-faith argument for extension, modification, or reversal of existing law, and that the pleading is not filed for any improper purpose, such as harassment, unnecessary delay, or to needlessly increase the cost of litigation.n262 Unsigned pleadings may be stricken if not signed within a reasonable time from notice of the deficiency to the pleader, and signing in violation of Rule 11 may expose the person who signed the pleading, the represented party, or both, to sanctions.n263 Because the truthfulness of the complaint is ensured by Rule 11, verification of the complaint is generally not required.n264 The above-cited Federal Rules of Civil Procedure generally govern federal civil complaints, and the general form provided below complies with these rules.n265

District courts generally have local rules governing the contents and order of pleadings, and, in particular, of complaints. The general form set forth in [b], below, also conforms to the Local Rules for Civil Practice of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, Rules 200-1 through 200-5. Because each federal district has its own local civil practice rules, the local rules of other district courts should be consulted for variations on the form used here, before filing Title VII pleadings.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Federal pleading requirements are less stringent than California state pleading requirements. The rationale for the use of federal "notice pleading" is the availability of discovery devices for a defendant to probe a plaintiff's case. Nevertheless, it is a good practice to append a copy of the administrative charge and the right-to-sue letter to the complaint. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[iii] Disparate Treatment and Disparate Impact Claims

The form in [b], below, alleges discrimination based on both disparate treatment and disparate impact theories because a complaint should preserve both theories unless one or the other of them is clearly inapplicable to the allegations of discrimination at issue.ⁿ²⁶⁶ Pleading a prima facie case of discrimination consisting of disparate treatment or of disparate impact, or both, should suffice to overcome a motion to dismiss for alleged failure to state a claim on which relief may be granted.ⁿ²⁶⁷

[iv] Allegations

The complaint in [b], below, contains the following allegations: (1) a preliminary statement of the substance of the complaint (preferred by some United States district courts) (Paragraph 1 (optional)); (2) the identities of the parties plaintiff (Paragraphs 2-4) and defendant (Paragraph 5);ⁿ²⁶⁸ (3) the basis for subject matter jurisdiction and venue (Paragraph 6);ⁿ²⁶⁹ (4) a claim for relief or cause of action for discrimination (Paragraphs 7-11);ⁿ²⁷⁰ (5) the grounds for monetary relief, including back payⁿ²⁷¹ and front pay (Paragraphs 12 and 13),ⁿ²⁷² compensatory damages (Paragraphs 15 and 16),ⁿ²⁷³ and punitive damages (Paragraph 17);ⁿ²⁷⁴ (6) the grounds for injunctive relief (Paragraph 17);ⁿ²⁷⁵ and (7) plaintiff's exhaustion of his or her administrative remedies under Title VII (Paragraphs 18 and 19).ⁿ²⁷⁶ The complaint concludes with a prayer setting forth the relief requested,ⁿ²⁷⁷ including interest, costs, and attorney's fees.ⁿ²⁷⁸

[v] Discriminatory Denial of Promotion in Violation of Title VII

As noted in [i]-[iv], above, the factual example set forth in the form in [b], below, is based on the discriminatory denial of a promotion because of plaintiff's sex, race, or other protected characteristic, in violation of Title VII.ⁿ²⁷⁹ In an action under Title VII for discriminatory denial of promotion, plaintiff must allege that he or she applied for the denied promotion unless plaintiff also alleges that application was not possible or would have been futile, that the employer does not use an application procedure, or that defendant would not accept plaintiff's application.ⁿ²⁸⁰

[b] Form UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

_____	[specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA	)
_____	[name],	)	Civil Case No. _____
Plaintiff,		)	INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT FOR MONETARY
vs.		)	AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR EMPLOYMENT
_____	[name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	DISCRIMINATION
		)	(Title VII of Civil Rights
		)	Act of 1964)
		)	(42 U.S.C. §§ 1981a, 2000e et seq.)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. This is an action brought pursuant to Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e et seq., to obtain relief for plaintiff _____ (name) for alleged discrimination in employment against plaintiff because of plaintiff's _____ (allege prohibited basis for discrimination under Title VII, e.g., sex). Plaintiff _____ (name) alleges that he or she has been _____ (specify discriminatory act of defendant, e.g., denied a promotion) on account of his/her _____ (allege prohibited basis for discrimination under Title VII, e.g., sex), in violation of Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(a)(1) and (2). By this action, plaintiff _____ (name) seeks the following relief, pursuant to Title VII, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(g) and (k): _____ (specify, e.g., monetary relief, including back pay, front pay, compensatory and punitive damages, attorney's fees and costs of suit, and injunctive relief, consisting of an order promoting him/her and granting retroactive seniority), for said discriminatory _____ (specify discriminatory employment practice, e.g., nonpromotion of plaintiff).]

2. Plaintiff _____ [name] is an adult person and is a resident of the County of _____, State of California.

[EITHER]

3. Plaintiff is an employee of defendant _____ [name], and has been employed by defendant _____ [name], in _____ [place of employment] since _____ [date].

[OR]

3. Plaintiff applied for employment with defendant _____ [name] on _____ [date] at _____ [place].

[OR]

3. Plaintiff was employed by defendant _____ [name] at _____ [place of employment] from _____ [date] until _____ [date].

[CONTINUE]

4. Plaintiff is a _____ [state plaintiff's characteristic protected by Title VII, e.g., female.]

5. Defendant _____ [name] is an employer subject to suit under Title VII in that defendant _____ [name] is engaged in an industry affecting commerce who has 15 or more employees for each working day of 20 or more calendar weeks in the year of, or preceding, the filing of this complaint.

6. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court under Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(f)(3). This is the proper venue for this action under Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(f)(3), in that _____ [allege ground establishing venue, e.g., the unlawful employment practice alleged herein was committed within this court's judicial district.]

[Paragraphs 7-11 set forth specific allegations of discrimination based on unlawful failure to promote plaintiff because of her sex, race, or other protected characteristic. Other allegations of discrimination based on different grounds may be substituted here. See Forms set forth in § 43.01 [9] and [10], which can be adapted for use here.]

[EITHER]

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff applied for promotion to the position of _____ [allege job title of promotional opportunity sought by plaintiff].

[OR]

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff attempted to apply for promotion to the position of _____ [allege job title of promotional opportunity sought by plaintiff], but defendant _____ [name] refused to accept plaintiff's application.

[OR]

7. Plaintiff did not apply for the position of _____ [allege job title of promotional opportunity desired by plaintiff] because plaintiff knew that it was futile to apply for the position for the following reasons: _____ [specify].

[CONTINUE]

8. As of _____ [date], and at all times herein mentioned, plaintiff was in all respects qualified for promotion to _____ [allege job title of promotional opportunity sought by plaintiff] in that _____ [specify facts indicating plaintiff's qualifications for job, performance evaluations, etc.]

9. As of _____ [date of denial of promotional opportunity to plaintiff] [and continuing to the present time], defendant denied [and continues to deny] to plaintiff promotion to the position of _____ [job title], and defendant _____ [continued to seek persons of plaintiff's qualifications or selected another person without higher qualifications than plaintiff, who was not of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected characteristic, e.g., sex,] for promotion to that position.

10. Defendant's _____ [specify employment opportunity denied plaintiff, e.g., denial of promotion to plaintiff] constitutes disparate treatment in violation of _____ [specify statutory violation, e.g., Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(a)(1)] in that defendant intentionally denied the employment opportunity to plaintiff because of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected characteristic of plaintiff, e.g., sex].

11. In the alternative, the policy or practice of the employer that caused plaintiff to be _____ [specify loss of employment opportunity, e.g., denied the promotion that he/she desired] consists of _____ [specify policy or practice that caused the denial of the employment opportunity, e.g., a height and weight requirement for the promotional position that plaintiff desired]. This policy or practice has a disparate impact on plaintiff and other persons of his/her _____ [specify protected characteristic, e.g., sex], in that it causes persons of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected characteristic, e.g., sex] to be demonstrably disadvantaged, vis-a-vis _____ [specify group that has advantage because of requirement, e.g., male] candidates seeking that position, in the following manner: _____ [specify numerical disparity or other details concerning disparity caused by defendant's employment policy or practice].

[CONTINUE]

12. Defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, which constitutes an unlawful employment practice in violation of _____ [specify statutory violation, e.g., Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(a)], has caused and will continue to cause plaintiff losses of earnings, from the date of _____ [specify loss of employment opportunity, e.g., denial of promotion] until _____ [specify date on which loss of earnings will cease, e.g., the date on which plaintiff is promoted into that position].

13. Defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, which constituted an unlawful employment practice in violation of _____ [specify statutory violation, e.g., Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(a)] has also caused and will continue to cause plaintiff loss of seniority, and losses of all other benefits accruing to said promotional opportunity, from the date of _____ [specify loss of employment opportunity, e.g., denial of promotion] until _____ [specify date on which loss of earnings will cease, e.g., the date on which plaintiff is promoted into that position].

[14. As a further proximate result of defendant's unlawful and intentional discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered the intangible loss of such employment-related opportunities as _____ (specify, e.g., experience in the position from which plaintiff was terminated). As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[15. As a further proximate result of defendant's unlawful and intentional discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered emotional pain, humiliation, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and emotional distress. As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[16. The above-recited actions of defendant were done _____ (with malice and/or with reckless indifference to plaintiff's rights under Title VII), in that _____ (specify facts showing malice and/or reckless indifference). Defendant's conduct warrants the assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to punish defendant and deter others from engaging in similar misconduct.]

[17. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law to secure relief for the _____ (specify loss of employment opportunity, e.g., deprivation of promotional opportunity to him/her by defendant). If this court does not enter an order _____ (specify injunctive relief needed, e.g., retroactively promoting plaintiff to the position of _____ (title of position), and ordering retroactive seniority for that position, retroactive to _____ (date on which plaintiff maintains he/she would have been promoted, but for discrimination)), plaintiff will be irreparably injured.]

18. On _____ [date], plaintiff filed a charge of discrimination against defendant _____ [name] with the Equal Opportunity Commission (EEOC). A copy of that charge is attached to this complaint, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth. That charge was timely filed, under Title VII of the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Title 42 United States Code

Section 2000e-5(e), as follows: _____ [specify timely filing, e.g., plaintiff filed the charge with the EEOC within 300 days of the occurrence of the violation of Title VII herein alleged]. [Plaintiff also filed a timely charge of discrimination with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing, pursuant to the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, Government Code Section 12900 et seq. On _____ [date], plaintiff received notice that the Department of Fair Employment and Housing had terminated its proceedings on plaintiff's charge.]

19. On _____ [date], plaintiff received notice from the EEOC of his/her right to bring this action, and plaintiff timely filed this action on _____ [date], within _____ [90 days after or the time period specified in] that notice. A copy of that notice of right of action is attached to this form, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For back pay, with prejudgment interest, from _____ [set forth date of first denial of promotion, but not more than two years prior to filing of EEOC charge by plaintiff, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1)] to the date of judgment herein;

[2. For front pay, for the period from the date of judgment to the date at which plaintiff actually is promoted by defendant to the position that he or she has been denied because of discrimination;]

[3. For compensatory damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or according to proof)];

[4. For punitive damages in an amount appropriate to punish defendant and deter others from engaging in similar misconduct;]

[5. For injunctive relief, including but not limited to _____ (specify injunctive relief desired, e.g., retroactive promotion from the date that plaintiff would have been promoted, but for discrimination, including retroactive seniority and all other benefits of said retroactive promotion of plaintiff), and for all other injunctive relief required to make plaintiff whole for the losses caused by the violations of defendants;]

6. For costs of suit, including reasonable attorney's fees and expert fees, pursuant to Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(k) and other applicable laws; and

7. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Insert verification, if desired]

[11] Common Grounds for Motions to Dismiss Title VII Actions

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 12(b) authorizes a defendant to move to dismiss a complaint on various grounds before filing an answer on the merits. Three common grounds that are likely to be asserted in motions for dismissal of Title VII actions are:

1. Failure to exhaust administrative remedies;n281
2. Naming a party in the complaint who was not named in the EEOC charge;n282 or
3. Insufficient allegations to state a claim on which relief may be granted.n283

[12] FORM--General Answer to Complaint for Violation of Title VII

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a general answer to an individual complaint for monetary and injunctive relief for violation of Title VII. The general form of such a complaint, alleging discrimination in denial of promotion, is set forth at [10][b], above. A general denial is permissible under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure if it is filed in good faith, after reasonable inquiry into the matters alleged in the complaint.n284 If a matter in a complaint is not denied in the responsive pleading, it is deemed admitted, unless it concerns the amount of damage.n285

Affirmative defenses may be added to the general form of answer as appropriate. Many of the forms of affirmative defenses to a complaint for violation of the FEHA that are set forth in § 43.01[13] may be adapted for use as affirmative defenses to a Title VII complaint. These affirmative defenses include:

1. Failure to exhaust administrative remedies;n286
2. Failure to file the administrative charge or civil complaint within the relevant limitations periods;n287
3. Laches;n288
4. Bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ) defense to allegation of discrimination based on religion, sex, or national origin;n289
5. Business necessity/job-relatedness;n290
6. Security regulations that mandate the particular employment practice;n291 and
7. Undue hardship resulting from accommodation of plaintiff's religious beliefs.n292

Additional forms of affirmative defenses that are set forth in [12], below, may also be added to the general answer.

[b] Form UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

_____ [specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

_____)	Civil Case No. _____
_____ [name],)	ANSWER TO INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT FOR Plaintiff, vs. _____ [name(s)],)	MONETARY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR Defendant(s).)	EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION
)	(Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended)
)	(42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.; Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules
)	8-11;
	_____ (specify any relevant local
	federal rules, e.g., Local Rules of U.S. Dist. Court for
	Northern California, Rules 200-1 through 200-5)

Defendant answers the complaint and alleges as follows:

1. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that it is an employer, as defined by Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e(b). Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.
2. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that plaintiff _____ [was or is] an _____ [employee or applicant for employment] of defendant. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.
3. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that plaintiff is a _____ [state plaintiff's membership in group protected by Title VII] as specified in Paragraph _____ of plaintiff's complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.
4. Defendant _____ [admits or denies] that the events alleged in Paragraph(s) _____ [- _____] of plaintiff's complaint occurred as stated in said complaint. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph _____.
5. Defendant denies each and every one, all and singular, of the allegations in paragraph(s) _____ [- _____] of plaintiff's complaint [except that defendant admits that _____ (specify)]. Except as specifically admitted herein, defendant denies each and every other averment of Paragraph(s) _____.
6. Defendant is without sufficient information and belief to admit any of the allegations in Paragraph(s) _____ [- _____] of plaintiff's complaint, and on this basis, defendant denies each of said allegations.
- [7. Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in plaintiff's complaint that is not expressly admitted herein.]

[Insert affirmative defenses, if any.

See [12], below; See also discussion in [a], above.]

WHEREFORE, defendant prays judgment as follows:

1. That the complaint of plaintiff against defendant herein be dismissed;
2. That plaintiff take nothing by reason of his/her complaint;
3. That plaintiff be granted no relief in this action;
4. That defendant have judgment against plaintiff;
5. That defendant recover costs of suit incurred herein;
6. That defendant recover reasonable attorney's fees and expert fees pursuant to Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(k); and
7. For such other relief as this court may deem just and proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Defendant

[If complaint was verified, add verification to answer. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 11 and 65.]

[13] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of Title VII

[a] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Complaint Fails to State Claim on Which Relief Can Be Granted

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the complaint fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted. The exact application of this affirmative defense will of course vary with the nature of the discrimination/retaliation at issue. The complaint must set forth a claim on which relief can be granted, and this defect may be raised by motion to dismiss or by way of affirmative defense to the answer.ⁿ²⁹³

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [11][b], above.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Defendant should be wary of asserting an expansive affirmative defense that plaintiff has failed to state any claim on which relief might be granted. If certain claims are defective, the defendant should challenge those defects in a motion under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 12(b), or with an affirmative defense that focuses on the particulars of the defense, rather than by a blanket affirmative defense that may be stricken (or sanctioned) under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 11.
Commentary by Erica B. Grubb.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the complaint fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted [in that _____ (specify particular deficiencies, if desired)].

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Legitimate, Nondiscriminatory Reason

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, alleges that the treatment complained of was based not on discriminatory motive, but on a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason.ⁿ²⁹⁴ This defense is not applicable, however, to a disparate impact claim.ⁿ²⁹⁵

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer provided in [11][b], above. For full discussion of this defense, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the alleged disparity in treatment of which plaintiff complains was not based on plaintiff's _____ [specify protected group characteristic(s) claimed by plaintiff, e.g., race], but was based on one or more legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons [, consisting of the following _____ (allege details, if desired)].

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Policy or Practice Is Justified by Bona Fide Seniority or Merit System[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, alleges that the defendant's action is justified by a bona fide seniority or merit system.ⁿ²⁹⁶

When appropriate, this defense can be added to the general form of answer, set forth in [11][b], above. For a full discussion of seniority systems, see Chapter 41, Parts D and E.

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The Supreme Court in Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. ⁿ²⁹⁷ stated that the "bona fide seniority system" exemption is an exemption, which itself defines employment practices that are illegal and others that are not illegal, rather than a defense. Nonetheless, if an employer or union defendant seeks to rely on this exemption, they must plead it, and they will probably have the burden of establishing that they satisfy it. Accordingly, for purposes of this form, it is characterized as an "affirmative defense." Since notice pleading rules govern federal and California practice, however, the characterization is less important than the inclusion of the substance in some form. Commentary by Erica B. Grubb.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the policy, practice, or action complained of by plaintiff, namely _____ [specify the alleged discriminatory policy, practice, or action], was done pursuant to a bona fide _____ [seniority system or merit system or system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production], and thus is not in violation of Title VII, as provided by Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(h).

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff Is Member of Communist Party or Other Subversive Organization[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that plaintiff was denied an employment opportunity because of membership in the Communist Party or other subversive organization, a statutory defense under Title VII.ⁿ²⁹⁸

When appropriate, this affirmative defense can be added to the general form of answer, set forth in [11][b], above.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the treatment of which plaintiff complains is not an unlawful employment practice, under Title VII, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-2(f), because the action was taken because plaintiff is a member of _____ [the Communist Party of the United States or a subversive organization required to register by the Subversive Activities Control Board, namely _____ (specify)].

[e] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Defendant Would Have Made Same Employment Decision Absent Discriminatory Motive[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that even if a discriminatory reason had been a motivating factor in an employment decision, the defendant would have made the same decision in any case.ⁿ²⁹⁹

Note that the defense set forth in this form is not a complete affirmative defense to a charge of disparate treatment involving "mixed motives."ⁿ³⁰⁰ However, this defense, if established, will limit the relief that may be ordered by the court.ⁿ³⁰¹ For discussion, see [9][h], above.

When appropriate, this affirmative defense may be added to the general form of answer, set forth in [11][b], above. For a complete discussion of "mixed motive" cases, see Chapter 41, Parts A and E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that it would have _____ [specify employment decision, e.g., held plaintiff's promotion for reconsideration] regardless of plaintiff's _____ [specify protected classification alleged by plaintiff, e.g., gender] because of _____ [specify permissible basis for employment decision, e.g., plaintiff's poor performance in his/her former position].

[f] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Defendant Exercised Reasonable Care to Prevent and Correct Sexually Harassing Behavior and Plaintiff Unreasonably Failed to Utilize Procedure

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that defendant employer exercised reasonable care to prevent and correct promptly any sexually harassing behavior and that the plaintiff employee unreasonably failed to take advantage of any preventive or corrective opportunities provided by the employer or to avoid harm otherwise.^{n301.1}

The defense may be used by an employer to defend against allegations of vicarious liability or damages in sexual harassment claims brought under Title VII when no tangible employment action--such as hiring, firing, failing to promote, reassignment with significantly different responsibilities, or a decision causing a significant change in benefits--has been taken against the plaintiff. It may not be used when a supervisor's harassment culminates in such tangible employment actions.^{n301.2}

When appropriate, the defense may be added to the general form of answer, set forth in [11][b], above. For a complete discussion of the antiharassment policy affirmative defense, see §§ 41.81[1], [6][b], [7], and 41.92A.

[ii] Form Affirmative Defense That Defendant Exercised Reasonable Care to Prevent and Correct Sexually Harassing Behavior and Plaintiff Unreasonably Failed to Utilize Procedure

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that it exercised reasonable care to prevent and correct promptly any and all sexually harassing behavior by _____ [specify individual(s) alleged to have caused harassment] in that defendant _____ [specify preventive and corrective action, e.g., at all relevant times had a written antiharassment policy which was communicated to all employees and strictly enforced, etc.]. Defendant also alleges that plaintiff unreasonably failed to take advantage of defendant's antiharassment policy in that _____ [specify plaintiff's failure to utilize policy, e.g., plaintiff never reported the alleged incidents either to her supervisor or to any other person of successively higher authority over plaintiff].

[14] Other Procedural Issues Under Title VII

[a] Removal, Preemption, and Pendent Jurisdiction[i] Removal

Although state and federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction over Title VII claims,ⁿ³⁰² federal district courts have original jurisdiction over such claims on the basis of federal question jurisdiction,ⁿ³⁰³ and thus defendants may remove Title VII actions from state court to federal court.ⁿ³⁰⁴ However, it is not proper to remove a discrimination action based solely on state law to federal court simply because a Title VII action could have been, but was not, pleaded in state court.ⁿ³⁰⁵

For a complete discussion of removal of state actions to federal courts generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal (Matthew Bender).

[ii] Preemption

Title VII expressly disclaims Congressional intent to preempt state and local laws that provide rights of action or remedies for employment discrimination.ⁿ³⁰⁶ Thus, state laws that serve the common purpose of Title VII of eradicating employment discrimination are generally not held to be preempted by Title VII.ⁿ³⁰⁷ State and local laws that require or permit any act that would be an unlawful employment practice under Title VII are, however, preempted.ⁿ³⁰⁸ For additional discussion, see Chapter 40, Parts A and C.

For a discussion of supplemental jurisdiction generally, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, ch. 265, Federal Courts: Jurisdiction and Removal (Matthew Bender).

[iii] Pendent (Supplemental) Jurisdiction

If a complaint alleging both Title VII and state-law causes of action is filed originally in federal court (or is removed from state court to federal court),ⁿ³⁰⁹ the issue of supplemental jurisdiction arises, i.e., whether the federal court will retain jurisdiction over the state-law claims or will decline to do so. Under the United States Supreme Court's decision in United Mine Workers v. Gibbs,ⁿ³¹⁰ district courts were given the authority to retain jurisdiction over pendent state claims if the state and federal claims derived from a common nucleus of operative facts, the claims were such that a plaintiff would ordinarily be expected to try them all in one judicial proceeding, and the federal issues were substantial. However, under Gibbs, courts were given the discretion to decline jurisdiction over state claims if the state claims involved novel or complex issues of state law, trial of the state and federal claims together was likely to cause jury confusion, or retention of the state claims required the expenditure of substantial additional judicial time and effort.ⁿ³¹¹

In 1990, Congress enacted Title 28, United States Code, Section 1367, which now governs "supplemental jurisdiction" of pendent state-law claims. Although Section 1367 codifies many aspects of the pendent jurisdiction doctrine set forth in Gibbs, it has altered the scope of a district court's discretion to remand pendent state-law claims. Section 1367(c) permits a district court to decline supplemental jurisdiction over a state-law claim in any of the following circumstances:ⁿ³¹²

1. The claim raises novel or complex issues of state law;
2. The claim substantially predominates over the claim or claims of which the district court has original jurisdiction (i.e., the federal claims);
3. The district court has dismissed all claims over which it has original jurisdiction; or
4. In exceptional circumstances, there are other compelling reasons for declining jurisdiction.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that Section 1367(c) provides the exclusive means by which a court may decline jurisdiction over supplemental claims if assertion of jurisdiction is permitted by subsections (a) and (b) of Section 1367.ⁿ³¹³ Thus, Section 1367(c) provides the only bases for declining jurisdiction, with the categories set forth in Section 1367(c)(1)-(3) reflecting the categories set forth in Gibbs for declining jurisdiction, and Section 1367(c)(4) providing a more narrow standard for discretionary remand of pendent state-law claims in "exceptional circumstances" when there are "compelling reasons" for declining jurisdiction.^{n313.1}

The statute of limitations for any claims for which the district court lacks original jurisdiction (state law claims), and for any other state law claim asserted in the same action that is voluntarily dismissed at the same time or after the dismissal without prejudice of a state law claim, is tolled while the claim is pending and for a period of 30 days after dismissal unless state law provides for a longer tolling period.^{n313.2}

[b] EEOC Administrative Records

[i] Confidentiality and Access to Records

The EEOC may not disclose certain records prior to the institution of any Title VII proceeding.ⁿ³¹⁴ Title VII imposes criminal penalties and fines on any officer or employee of the EEOC who makes public any confidential information.ⁿ³¹⁵ Other EEOC records are available in accordance with EEOC regulations on the subject.ⁿ³¹⁶ For full discussion of confidentiality of, and access, to EEOC records, see Chapter 42, Part C.

[ii] Admissibility

Under Title VII, the investigative findings of the EEOC are admissible in a subsequent civil action brought pursuant to the act.ⁿ³¹⁷ However, the findings of the EEOC are not binding on the federal court, and the Title VII plaintiff is entitled to a de novo trial on his or her claim of discrimination and/or retaliation, regardless of whether the agency found cause to believe the EEOC charge to be true.ⁿ³¹⁸

[c] Jury Trials

Prior to 1991, courts had held that there was no right to a jury trial in actions under Title VII because the relief in such actions was limited to equitable relief.ⁿ³¹⁹ However, as discussed under [9][c], above, the Civil Rights Act of 1991 now authorizes recovery of limited compensatory and punitive damages in actions under Title VII alleging intentional discrimination.ⁿ³²⁰ If a complaining party seeks compensatory or punitive damages under this provision, any party may demand a jury trial.ⁿ³²¹ Furthermore, if a plaintiff joins a Title VII claim with some other cause of action that entitles a plaintiff to damages, such as a claim under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981,ⁿ³²² he or she is entitled to a jury trial on all issues common to both claims, and the jury must resolve the legal claim before the court resolves the Title VII claim.ⁿ³²³ The United States Supreme Court has held that the jury trial provision of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 does not apply retroactively to cases pending at the time of enactment.ⁿ³²⁴

With regard to jury instructions, so long as the instructions set forth the essential elements the plaintiff must prove, and the plaintiff is free to explain those elements to the jury, a district court does not abuse its discretion in declining to give an instruction explicitly addressing pretext.^{n324.1}

[d] Validity of Waiver

The interpretation and validity of a waiver of a federal claim is governed by federal law. An agreement need not specifically recite the particular claims waived in order to be effective. However, courts closely scrutinize a waiver of rights under Title VII because of their remedial nature.ⁿ³²⁵ In Nilsson v. City of Mesa,ⁿ³²⁶ a waiver that an applicant for a position as a police officer signed did not waive her rights under Title VII, although it did preclude her from asserting any claims that address the defendant-police department's investigation and inquiry, which were claims under the ADA and 42 U.S.C. Section 1983. The waiver encompassed any and all possible causes of legal action against the city, the police department, their officers, agents, and employees for any acts, or omissions in the course of the investigation into the applicant's background, employment history, health, family, personal habits and reputation and all causes of action to the extent that the police department investigation for purposes of evaluating her suitability for employment may violate or infringe upon the "aforementioned legal rights and causes of action." Based on her college-level education and prior work experience as a police officer, the applicant possessed sufficient education and experience to understand the waiver. Although she did not have an attorney read the waiver before signing it, there was no evidence she was discouraged or precluded from doing so. Rather, the waiver expressly advised the applicant in bold capital letters to read the waiver carefully and if not understood to seek competent legal advice. Thus, the waiver precluded her from asserting any claims that address the defendant-police department's investigation and inquiry, which were claims under the ADA and 42 U.S.C. Section 1983, while, the Title VII claim rested on her assertion that she was not hired due to her filing an EEOC complaint against her former employer (not because defendant improperly discovered her EEOC complaint during the course of its investigation). Thus the Title VII claim was not barred by the waiver.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 Coverage & Definitions General Overview Labor & Employment Law Wage & Hour Laws Statutory Application Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2.

(n3)Footnote 3. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1),(g); see also discussion in [4] and [9], below.

(n4)Footnote 4. McDonnell Douglas v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (disparate treatment).

(n5)Footnote 5. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 (disparate impact).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733, superseded by statute on other grounds by amendment of 42 U.S.C. § 1981, see 105 Stat. 1071 (disparate impact); Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins (1989) 490 U.S. 228, 109 S. Ct. 1775, 104 L. Ed. 2d 268, 293, 294, 295, superseded by statute on other grounds by amendment of 42 U.S.C. § 1981, see 105 Stat. 1071. (disparate treatment); Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 (disparate treatment); Dothard v. Rawlinson (1977) 433 U.S. 321, 97 S. Ct. 2720, 53 L. Ed. 2d 786 (disparate impact); Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 (disparate impact).

(n7)Footnote 7. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335-336 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396. Another form of unlawful "disparate treatment" occurs when an employer retaliates against a person for opposing unlawful discrimination or for engaging in an activity protected by Title VII. see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a); see also discussion in [d], below.

(n8)Footnote 8. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396.

(n9)Footnote 9. See Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733, 753 .

(n10)Footnote 10. See, e.g., Watson v. Ft. Worth Bank & Trust (1988) 487 U.S. 977, 108 S. Ct. 2777, 101 L. Ed. 2d 827, 841-843 (challenge of subjective criteria for promotions did not satisfy disparate treatment criteria but should have been evaluated under disparate impact analysis).

(n11)Footnote 11. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335-336 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 ; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802-805, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n12)Footnote 12. See Rosenfeld v. Southern Pacific Co. (9th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1223 (woman denied employment assignment on ground that women, considered generically, are not physically or biologically suited for assignment); see also Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845, 853-854 (uncontroverted evidence showed defendant chose weight maximums for women corresponding to medium frame category and weight maximums for men corresponding to large frame category so weight policy was facially discriminatory) See also Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845, 853-854 (uncontroverted evidence showed defendant chose weight maximums for women corresponding to medium frame category and weight maximums for men corresponding to large frame category so weight policy was facially discriminatory).

(n13)Footnote 13. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 . If direct evidence is available, the McDonnell Douglas test is inapplicable. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 121, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523 (ADEA) ; see Lowe v. City of Monrovia (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 998, 1006-1007 (Title VII) .

(n14)Footnote 14. The disparate treatment theory of liability also applies to class-wide or "pattern and practice" cases involving a pattern of intentional discrimination against the plaintiff's protected class as a class; however, the McDonnell Douglas order and allocation of proof has been held to be inappropriate for such cases. see Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396(Title VII) ; Atonio v. Wards Cove Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 1477, 1480 (en banc), ret'd to panel 827 F.2d 439 , rev'd on other grounds, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 (1989) ; Segar v. Smith (D.C. Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1249, 1265-1266, 238 U.S. App. D.C. 103 , cert. denied, 471 U.S. 1115 (1985) . For a discussion of the order and allocation of proof in class-wide or "pattern or practice" cases, see ch. 41, pt. A.

(n15)Footnote 15. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n16)Footnote 15.1. Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A. (2002) 534 U.S. 506, 122 S. Ct. 992, 152 L. Ed. 2d 1, 8 . For pleading requirements for Title VII actions, see [10][a][ii], below.

(n17)Footnote 16. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 254, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 .

(n18)Footnote 17. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n19)Footnote 18. Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 253, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 .

(n20)Footnote 19. See St. Mary's Honor Ctr. v. Hicks (1993) 509 U.S. 502, 505-506, 113 S. Ct. 2742, 125 L. Ed. 2d 407 ; Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 254, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 .

(n21)Footnote 19.1. St. Mary's Honor Ctr. v. Hicks (1993) 509 U.S. 502, 505-506, 113 S. Ct. 2742, 125 L. Ed. 2d 407 .

(n22)Footnote 20. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 804, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n23)Footnote 21. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 256, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 ; see also Hersant v. Department of Social Servs. (1997) 57 Cal. App. 4th 997, 1004, 67 Cal. Rptr. 2d 483 (FEHA age discrimination; employee must rebut employer's nondiscriminatory reason with substantial evidence of its falsity, present other evidence suggesting discriminatory basis, or combination of both).

(n24)Footnote 22. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(m); cf. Mixon v. Fair Employment & Hous. Comm'n (1987) 192 Cal. App. 3d 1306, 1319, 237 Cal. Rptr. 884 (FEHA; plaintiff need not prove racial animus was sole reason behind challenged action, but must prove by preponderance of evidence that there was "causal connection" between plaintiff's protected status and adverse employment decision).

(n25)Footnote 23. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

(n26)Footnote 24. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n27)Footnote 25. See Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 431, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n28)Footnote 26. See Watson v. Fort Worth Bank & Trust (1988) 487 U.S. 977, 989-991, 108 S. Ct. 2777, 101 L. Ed. 2d 827 ; Atonio v. Wards Cove Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 810 F.2d 1477, 1479 (en banc), ret'd to panel 827 F.2d 439 , rev'd on other grounds, 490 U.S. 642 (1989) .

(n29)Footnote 27. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 ; Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 432, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 ; Clady v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1421, 1427 , cert. denied, 475 U.S. 1109 (1986) .

(n30)Footnote 28. See also Katz v. Regents of the University of California (9th Cir. 2000) 229 F.3d 831, 835 ; Connecticut v. Teal (1982) 457 U.S. 440, 446, 102 S. Ct. 2525, 73 L. Ed. 2d 130 ; Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 .

(n31)Footnote 29. See Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 656-658, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 ; Clady v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1421, 1427 , cert. denied, 475 U.S. 1109 (1986) ; see also , discussions in § 43.01[2][c] and ch. 41, pt. A.

(n32)Footnote 30. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(A)(i), (B)(i); see also Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 656-657, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 .

(n33)Footnote 31. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(B)(i). This provision, which was added by the Civil Rights Act of 1991 (Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 105(a)), relaxes the rule set forth in Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 656-657, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 , in which the Court had held that the plaintiff must demonstrate in all cases that application of a specific or particular employment practice created the disparate impact and that disparate impact may not be proved by showing that the employer's practices created a disparate impact "at the bottom line."

(n34)Footnote 32. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(B)(ii).

(n35)Footnote 33. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(A)(i).

(n36)Footnote 34. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(m).

(n37)Footnote 35. See Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 104.

(n38)Footnote 36. Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 .

(n39)Footnote 37. Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 659-660, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 . It has been held that the Civil Rights Act of 1991 does not apply retroactively to the Wards Cove case itself, even though this holding in Wards Cove was effectively reversed by the Civil Rights Act of 1991. Atonio v. Wards Cove Packing Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 10 F.3d 1485, 1496 .

(n40)Footnote 38. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n41)Footnote 39. Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 3(2); see also Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 2(2) (congressional finding that Wards Cove decision had weakened the scope and effectiveness of federal civil rights protections).

(n42)Footnote 40. Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 659, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 .

(n43)Footnote 41. Wards Cove Packing Co. v. Atonio (1989) 490 U.S. 642, 659, 109 S. Ct. 2115, 104 L. Ed. 2d 733 .

(n44)Footnote 42. See Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 ; Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 432, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n45)Footnote 42.1. Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 105(b).

(n46)Footnote 42.2. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(B)(ii) (if defendant demonstrates that a specific employment practice does not cause the disparate impact, defendant need not demonstrate that practice is required by business necessity).

(n47)Footnote 42.3. See Watson v. Ft. Worth Bank & Trust (1988) 487 U.S. 977, 996-997, 108 S. Ct. 2777, 101 L. Ed. 2d 827 (Title VII) ; see also Katz v. Regents of the University of California (9th Cir. 2000) 229 F.3d 831, 836 (ADEA) ; Rose v. Wells Fargo & Co. (9th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 1417, 1424 (ADEA) .

(n48)Footnote 42.4. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k)(1)(A)(ii).

(n49)Footnote 42.5. Connecticut v. Teal (1982) 457 U.S. 440, 447, 102 S. Ct. 2525, 73 L. Ed. 2d 130 ; Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 .

(n50)Footnote 42.6. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a). For a discussion relating to the types of activities protected from retaliation, see ch. 41, pt. F.

(n51)Footnote 42.7. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n52)Footnote 42.8. Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 .

(n53)Footnote 42.9. See E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1514 (Title VII) ; Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 ; Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1354 ; see also discussion in § 43.01[2][b], [d], and in ch. 41, pts. A and F.

(n54)Footnote 42.10. Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 731 .

(n55)Footnote 43. Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 548 U.S. 53, 26 S.Ct. 2405, 165 L.Ed. 2d 345 .

(n56)Footnote 44. 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-5(f)(3), 2000e-6(b). See Arbaugh v. Y & H Corp. (2006) 126 S. Ct. 1235, 1242-1245, 163 L. Ed. 2d 1097 (numerical qualification in Title VII's definition of "employer" does not affect federal-court subject-matter jurisdiction, but, rather, delineates substantive ingredient of Title VII claim for relief).

(n57)Footnote 45. Yellow Freight System v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 821-822, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834 .

(n58)Footnote 46. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3).

(n59)Footnote 47. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3).

(n60)Footnote 48. Johnson v. Payless Drug Stores Northwest, Inc. (9th Cir. 1991) 950 F.2d 586, 587-588 , cert. denied, 112 S. Ct. 3044 (1992) .

(n61)Footnote 49. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b),(c),(e),(f)(1); Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 ; Sommattino v. United States (9th Cir. 2001) 255 F.3d 704, 709-710 (verbal complaints to EEO counselor and e-mails to supervisor were insufficient to constitute substantial compliance with claim presentment requirements of Title VII, especially because plaintiff's e-mails stated she had not formally filed any complaint); Stache v. International Union of Bricklayers (9th Cir. 1988) 852 F.2d 1231, 1233 ; but see Temengil v. Trust Territory of Pacific Islands (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 647, 654 (requirement that administrative remedies be exhausted is not jurisdictional); see also discussion in [6][a][i], below. The EEOC and DFEH are parties to a worksharing agreement, under which each agency acts as agent of the other for the purpose of receiving charges of discrimination. Under the agreement, each agency forwards to the other agency a copy of all charges it receives. Thus, Title VII charges may be filed with the DFEH, as well as the EEOC. see EEOC Compliance Manual §§ 5.2, 5.4-5.6 (CCH).

(n62)Footnote 50. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); but see Edwards v. Occidental Chemical Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1442, 1445 n.1 (Title VII plaintiff may file civil action prior to receiving EEOC right-to-sue letter, as long as premature filing did not preclude state from performing administrative duties and defendant was not prejudiced); Wrighten v. Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 1346, 1351 (although Title VII action filed before right-to-sue letters issued, subsequent issuance of letters cured any jurisdictional defects).

(n63)Footnote 51. Jasch v. Potter (9th Cir. 2002) 302 F.3d 1092, 1094 .

(n64)Footnote 52. Jasch v. Potter (9th Cir. 2002) 302 F.3d 1092, 1094-1096 (because EEOC issued decision on merits, it necessarily determined that sufficient information existed to permit such decision).

(n65)Footnote 53. Roman v. County of Los Angeles (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 316, 325-326, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 13 .

(n66)Footnote 53.1. Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1104-1105 . See Temengil v. Trust Territory of Pacific Islands (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 647, 654 (pursuit of administrative remedies is condition precedent to Title VII claim, but requirement is not jurisdictional); Karim-Panahi v. Los Angeles Police Dept. (9th Cir. 1988) 839 F.2d 621, 626 (plaintiff must file discrimination charge with EEOC and receive right-to-sue letter, and failure to observe requirements renders suit subject to dismissal in absence of equitable consideration to contrary); Pietras v. Bd. of Fire Comm'rs (2d Cir. 1999) 180 F.3d 468, 474 (every circuit that has faced question has held that plaintiff's failure to obtain notice-of-right-to-sue letter is not jurisdictional bar, but only precondition to bringing Title VII action that can be waived by parties or court).

(n67)Footnote 53.2. Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1105 (employee was specifically notified by State Employment Department that she needed to visit EEOC to obtain federal right-to-sue letter). See, e.g., Pietras v. Bd. of Fire Comm'rs (2d Cir. 1999) 180 F.3d 468, 474 (allowing claim to proceed where EEOC erroneously refused to send right-to-sue letter and plaintiff was diligent in seeking it). See also Roman v. Cty. of Los Angeles (2000) 85 Cal. App. 4th 316, 326, 102 Cal. Rptr. 2d 13 (barring Title VII claim because state right-to-sue notice specifically advised appellant that if he wanted federal right-to-sue notice he had to file complaint with EEOC).

(n68)Footnote 53.3. Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1105 . See, e.g., Moore v. City of Charlotte (4th Cir. 1985) 754 F.2d 1100, 1104 n.1 (entitlement to letter, without actual receipt of it, is sufficient to support federal jurisdiction).

(n69)Footnote 53.4. Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1105 . See Burke v. Cornerstone, No. 07-889, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 76662, at *5-6 (D. Conn. Oct. 12, 2007) (as purposes of exhaustion requirement, to provide notice to parties charged with violations and facilitate voluntary compliance should investigating agency find merit in complaint, were served by state proceeding, court did not view omission of actual right-to-sue letter as grounds for dismissal). But cf. Jones v. Grinnell Corp. (5th Cir. 2001) 235 F.3d 972, 975 (federal-state cooperation does not extend to exhaustion of administrative remedies).

(n70)Footnote 53.5. Surrell v. Cal. Water Service Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 518 F.3d 1097, 1105 .

(n71)Footnote 54. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1099 ; Yamaguchi v. United States Dep't of the Air Force (9th Cir. 1997) 109 F.3d 1475, 1480 .

(n72)Footnote 55. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1099-1100 ; Gamble v. Birmingham Southern R.R. Co. (5th Cir. 1975) 514 F.2d 678, 688-689 ; Danner v. Phillips Petroleum Co. (5th Cir. 1971) 447 F.2d 159, 161 ; Miller v. International Paper Co. (5th Cir. 1969) 408 F.2d 283, 288-291 .

(n73)Footnote 56. See McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 797-798, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed 2d 668 ; cf. Chandler v. Roudebush (1976) 425 U.S. 840, 863 n.39, 96 S. Ct. 1949, 48 L. Ed. 2d 416 (federal sector employees have same right to de novo trial, regardless of administrative findings of no discrimination, that private and nonfederal employees enjoy under Title VII).

(n74)Footnote 57. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b),(d),(f)(1); see, e.g., E.E.O.C. v. General Elec. Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 359, 366 .

(n75)Footnote 58. See B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1100 ; E.E.O.C. v. Farmer Bros. Co. (9th Cir. 1994) 31 F.3d 891, 899 . See also Josephs v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 2005) 432 F.3d 1006, 1015 (refusal-to-reinstate claim was unquestionably related to claim of unlawful termination based on mental disability, where same employer allegedly refused to reinstate for same discriminatory reason that allegedly caused termination, and any administrative investigation of termination claim would have necessarily encompassed grievance proceeding that related to refusal to reinstate).

(n76)Footnote 59. Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1104 ; B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1100, 1103 ; Kaplan v. Int'l Alliance of Theatrical & Stage Employees (9th Cir. 1975) 525 F.2d 1354, 1359 , abrogated on other grounds by Laughon v. Int'l Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (9th Cir. 2001) 248 F.3d 931 ; but see Love v. Pullman Co. (1972) 404 U.S. 522, 527, 92 S. Ct. 616, 30 L. Ed. 2d 679 (technicalities particularly inappropriate in statutory scheme such as Title VII in which lay people, unassisted by trained lawyers, initiate process).

(n77)Footnote 60. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1100 .

(n78)Footnote 61. Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1104 ; B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1100 .

(n79)Footnote 62. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1100, 1102 ; Sosa v. Hiraoka (9th Cir. 1990) 920 F.2d 1451, 1457 n.2 .

(n80)Footnote 63. See E.E.O.C. v. Farmer Bros. Co. (9th Cir. 1994) 31 F.3d 891, 899 .

(n81)Footnote 64. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1101-1102 ; see, e.g., Anthony v. County of Sacramento (E.D. Cal. 1995) 898 F. Supp. 1435, 1443 n.5 (pre-complaint questionnaire can be reviewed to determine scope of EEOC charge because, in preparing complaint, agency falsely abbreviated plaintiff's theory of case by substantially condensing and editing plaintiff's complaint); Sickinger v. Mega Systems, Inc. (N.D. Ind. 1996) 951 F. Supp. 153, 157-58 (plaintiff could rely on allegations in her pre-complaint questionnaire for purposes of exhaustion of remedies because EEOC representative who typed charge failed to include allegations of wrongful retaliation clearly presented on questionnaire); see also Casavantes v. Cal. State Univ., Sacramento (9th Cir. 1984) 732 F.2d 1441, 1443 (permitting plaintiff to exhaust Title VII claims by completing pre-complaint questionnaire within statutory limitations period for filing charge and supplementing complaint with sworn charge after statute of limitations had run); Cheek v. W. & S. Life Ins., Co. (7th Cir. 1994) 31 F.3d 497, 502 (allegations outside body of charge may be considered when it is clear charging party intended agency to investigate allegations); but see Notivsky v. Am. Consulting Eng'rs (7th Cir. 1999) 196 F.3d 699, 701-702 (plaintiff must rely to her detriment on her charge even if EEOC or state agency fulfilling its administrative function).

(n82)Footnote 65. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1103 .

(n83)Footnote 66. B.K.B. v. Maui Police Dep't (9th Cir. 2002) 276 F.3d 1091, 1100 ; Green v. Los Angeles City of Superintendent of Schs. (9th Cir. 1989) 883 F.2d 1472, 1475-1476 , quoting Brown v. Puget Sound Elec. Apprenticeship & Training Trust (9th Cir. 1984) 732 F.2d 726, 729 ; see also Vasquez v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 2002), See also 29 C.F.R. 1626.18(a) (aggrieved person may file civil action against respondent named in charge filed with EEOC in either federal or state court under section 7 of ADEA). (plaintiff did not exhaust his administrative remedies regarding retaliation for filing discrimination charge, which only claimed harassment and different treatment, but did exhaust administrative remedies for filing grievance); Anderson v. Reno (9th Cir. 1999) 190 F.3d 930, 935 ; Sosa v. Hiraoka (9th Cir. 1990) 920 F.2d 1451, 1456 .

(n84)Footnote 67. See, e.g., Berg v. Richmond Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1975) 528 F.2d 1208, 1211-1212 , vacated and remanded on other grounds, 434 U.S. 158 (1977) (district court had jurisdiction to grant preliminary relief to preserve its equitable powers when pregnant schoolteacher sought injunction under Title VII and 42 U.S.C. § 1983); Drew v. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. (5th Cir. 1973) 480 F.2d 69, 72-76 (district court may act to preserve status quo ante, pending EEOC issuance of notice of right of action).

(n85)Footnote 68. Furthermore, a party's request for a right-to-sue letter prior to 150 days after filing of the complaint (or a determination by the DFEH that it will not issue an accusation within that time) may raise issues regarding whether the applicant has exhausted its administrative remedies. see Gov. Code § 12965(b); but see Carter v. Smith Food King (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 916, 922-924 (fact that right-to-sue letter was issued at request of complainant before expiration of 150 days after filing of complaint did not constitute failure to exhaust administrative remedy when there was evidence that DFEH had determined that it would not be able to issue accusation within 150-day period).

(n86)Footnote 68.1. Brown v. GSA (1976) 425 U.S. 820, 832, 96 S. Ct. 1961, 48 L. Ed. 2d 402 . See also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-16(c).

(n87)Footnote 68.2. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-16(b).

(n88)Footnote 68.3. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a).

(n89)Footnote 68.4. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a)(1).

(n90)Footnote 68.5. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.107(a)(2).

(n91)Footnote 68.6. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.604(c).

(n92)Footnote 68.7. Kraus v. Presidio Trust Facilities Division/Residential Mgmt. Branch (9th Cir. 2009) 572 F.3d 1039, 1043 .

(n93)Footnote 68.8. Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1105 . See also Johnson v. U.S. Treasury Dept. (9th Cir. 1994) 27 F.3d 415, 416 (per curiam); Boyd v. U.S. Postal Serv. (9th Cir. 1985) 752 F.2d 410, 414 .

(n94)Footnote 68.9. EEOC Management Directive 110, at ch. 2, § I.A n.1. See also Osuagwu v. Peake, EEOC Dec. 0120081307, 2008 EEOPUB LEXIS 1830, *1 (EEOC May 20, 2008); Kinan v. Cohen, EEOC Dec. 01981121, 1999 EEOPUB LEXIS 2489, *2 (EEOC May 6, 1999); Floyd v. Temple, EEOC Dec. 01882317, *3 (EEOC June 22, 1989).

(n95)Footnote 68.10. Kraus v. Presidio Trust Facilities Division/Residential Mgmt. Branch (9th Cir. 2009) 572 F.3d 1039, 1043-1046 (federal employee exhausted remedies by contacting employing agency's EEO officer).

(n96)Footnote 68.11. Kraus v. Presidio Trust Facilities Division/Residential Mgmt. Branch (9th Cir. 2009) 572 F.3d 1039, 1045-1046 . See Culpepper v. Schafer (8th Cir. 2008) 548 F.3d 1119, 1122-1123 (8th Cir. 2008) (employee of federal Department of Agriculture who sent letters to Director of USDA's Office of Civil Rights satisfied regulation, because Director was logically connected with EEO process). See also Duke v. Slater, EEOC Dec. 01A02129, 2000 EEOPUB LEXIS 3424, *1 (EEOC May 22, 2000) (letter sent to Regional Director of Department of Transportation's Office of Civil Rights qualified as initiating contact).

(n97)Footnote 68.12. Kraus v. Presidio Trust Facilities Division/Residential Mgmt. Branch (9th Cir. 2009) 572 F.3d 1039, 1045 n.6 . See, e.g., Stanley v. Ashcroft, EEOC Dec. 01A31053, 2004 EEOPUB LEXIS 726, *3 (EEOC Feb. 12, 2004) (assuming contact with "EEO Officer" would satisfy exhaustion requirement, but employee had not produced sufficient evidence that he made contact in timely manner); Hardy v. Danzig, EEOC Dec. 01981978, 1999 EEOPUB LEXIS 721, *1 (EEOC Feb. 12, 1999) (if employee's initial contact with "Deputy EEO Officer" occurred as alleged, allegations were timely raised with EEO Counselor). See also Waldrup v. Brownlee, EEOC Dec. 01A43725, 2005 EEOPUB LEXIS 203, *3 (EEOC Jan. 14, 2005) (contact with "EEO Specialist" satisfied exhaustion requirement); Clevenger v. Danzig, EEOC Dec. 01985794, *2 (EEOC Feb. 29, 2000) (former Deputy EEO Director could be considered logically connected to EEO process for purposes of exhaustion requirement).

(n98)Footnote 69. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1).

(n99)Footnote 70. See Senter v. General Motors Corp. (6th Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 511, 517 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 870 ; Rosen v. Public Service Electric and Gas Company (3d Cir. 1973) 477 F.2d 90, 94 .

(n100)Footnote 70.1. See, e.g., Williams v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 517 F.3d 1120, 1126-1128 (in action alleging racial discrimination in compensation, plaintiffs met burden of demonstrating injury in fact, where plaintiffs' allegations that they sustained direct injury in form of less pay as result of employer's discriminatory compensation practices were sufficient on motion to dismiss to establish standing with regard to compensation discrimination claim; however, because one plaintiff affirmatively stated she was not injured by employer's compensation practices, she did not have standing with regard to compensation discrimination claim).

(n101)Footnote 71. Association of Data Processing Service Organizations v. Camp (1970) 397 U.S. 150, 152-153, 90 S. Ct. 827, 25 L. Ed. 2d 184 ; see, e.g., McDonald v. Santa Fe Trail Transp. Co. (1976) 427 U.S. 273, 278, 96 S. Ct. 2574, 49 L. Ed. 2d 493 (Caucasians discriminated against vis-a-vis other race(s) in employment have Title VII standing); Senter v. General Motors Corp. (6th Cir. 1976) 532 F.2d 511, 516-517 ; Hackett v. McGuire Bros., Inc. (3d Cir. 1971) 445 F.2d 442, 446 ; Taylor v. Jones (8th Cir. 1971) 653 F.2d 1193, 1207-1208 .

(n102)Footnote 72. Warth v. Seldin (1975) 422 U.S. 490, 499, 95 S. Ct. 2197, 45 L. Ed. 2d 343 .

(n103)Footnote 73. See Great Am. Fed. Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Novotny (1979) 442 U.S. 366, 99 S. Ct. 2345, 60 L. Ed. 2d 957 (remanding action for trial on question of male's claim that he suffered loss of employment opportunities because of his advocacy for the rights of female employees); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) (employer prohibited from retaliating against any person because he or she has "opposed any practice made unlawful" by Title VII).

(n104)Footnote 74. See, e.g., Feng v. Sandrik (N.D. Ill. 1986) 636 F. Supp. 77, 82 (spouse has no standing under Title VII to sue for discrimination against marital partner, when spouse was never an employee or applicant); Pecorella v. Oak Orchard Community Health Ctr. Inc. (W.D.N.Y. 1982) 559 F. Supp. 147, 149, aff'd without op., 722 F.2d 728 (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1983) (plaintiff male who was paid more than females cannot complain of discriminatory compensation on behalf of females); Chavez v. Tempe U. High Sch. Dist. No. 213 (9th Cir. 1977) 565 F.2d 1087, 1093-1094 (plaintiff who was hired had no standing to complain of hiring discrimination on behalf of others).

(n105)Footnote 74.1. Williams v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 517 F.3d 1120, 1128-1129 (plaintiffs continued to have standing on compensation claims despite voluntary dismissal of individual claims in class action, where judgment in class action determining that employer did not engage in pattern or practice of racial discrimination against certified class of employees, did not preclude individual class members from maintaining subsequent civil actions alleging individual claims of discrimination against the employer; plaintiffs' statement that they were not waiving their right to appeal and district court's recognition of statement could be fairly read as effort to confirm that plaintiffs were not abandoning claims pending on appeal, rather than attempt to create jurisdiction where none existed).

(n106)Footnote 74.2. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985, citing Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife (1992) 504 U.S. 555, 560, 112 S. Ct. 2130, 119 L. Ed. 2d 351.

(n107)Footnote 74.3. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985, citing City of Los Angeles v. Lyons (1983) 461 U.S. 95, 111, 103 S. Ct. 1660, 75 L. Ed. 2d 675.

(n108)Footnote 74.4. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985, citing O'Shea v. Littleton (1974) 414 U.S. 488, 496, 94 S. Ct. 669, 38 L. Ed. 2d 674.

(n109)Footnote 74.5. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985, citing City of Los Angeles v. Lyons (1983) 461 U.S. 95, 103, 103 S. Ct. 1660, 75 L. Ed. 2d 675.

(n110)Footnote 74.6. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985, citing O'Shea v. Littleton (1974) 414 U.S. 488, 496, 94 S. Ct. 669, 38 L. Ed. 2d 674.

(n111)Footnote 74.7. Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985; Graham v. Fed. Emergency Mgmt. Agency (9th Cir. 1998) 149 F.3d 997, 1003 (plaintiffs need not demonstrate there is guarantee their injuries will be redressed by favorable decision, but only that favorable decision is likely to redress their injuries).

(n112)Footnote 75. See [i], above. See also Bates v. United Parcel Service, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 511 F.3d 974, 985-988 (even if employer was correct that named plaintiff's claim was no longer redressable or was moot because he was no longer eligible for position, it was not disputed he had standing at time of class certification and remaining class members were not foreclosed from attaining relief since class was long ago duly certified; further, class member satisfied injury, causation, and redressability requirements and therefore had standing to seek injunctive relief under ADA, so entire federal class had standing).

(n113)Footnote 76. Griffin v. Dugger (11th Cir. [Fla.] 1987) 823 F.2d 1476, 1482; see Larson, Employment Discrimination, vol. 2, ch. 9B, Title VII Procedures: Part B, § 49.51.

(n114)Footnote 77. Jordan v. Swindall (M.D. Ala. 1985) 105 F.R.D. 45, 47-48.

(n115)Footnote 78. Ekanem v. Health & Hosp. Corp. of Marion County, Indiana (7th Cir. [Ind.] 1983) 724 F.2d 563, 572-573; Evans v. U.S. Pipe & Foundry Co. (11th Cir. [Ala.] 1983) 696 F.2d 925, 928-929.

(n116)Footnote 78.1. Fed. R. Civ. Proc., Rule 23(a)(1)-(4). See, e.g., Dukes v. Wal-Mart, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 509 F.3d 1168, 1176-1185 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in certifying sex discrimination class action by class of more than 1.5 million women, where class met Rule 23(a)'s commonality and typicality requirements, and plaintiffs' claims for monetary relief did not predominate over their claims for injunctive or declaratory relief).

(n117)Footnote 79. See, e.g., Parra v. Basha's, Inc. (9th Cir. 2008) 536 F.3d 975, 978-979 (in action based on alleged pay discrimination based on national origin, court abused its discretion in denying certification of class of Hispanic employees, where plaintiffs established commonality even though their individual factual situations differed, because they all sought common legal remedy for common wrong; and where plaintiffs presented evidence of discriminatory pay scales common for all employees and statistical and anecdotal evidence of discrimination; and where class definition sought to reach Hispanic employees who suffered past discrimination under pay scales).

(n118)Footnote 79.1. East Texas Motor Freight v. Rodriguez (1977) 431 U.S. 395, 399-406, 97 S. Ct. 1891, 52 L. Ed. 2d 453 ; Wetzel v. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. (3d Cir. [Pa.] 1975) 508 F.2d 239, 246 ; Oatis v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (5th Cir. [La.] 1968) 398 F.2d 496, 499 ; Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1232 .

(n119)Footnote 79.2. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2).

(n120)Footnote 79.3. Dukes v. Wal-Mart, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 509 F.3d 1168, 1186-1189 (putative class members who were no longer employees at time plaintiffs' complaint was filed lacked standing to seek injunctive relief because they would not stand to benefit from injunction requiring anti-discriminatory policies to cease at their former place of work; however, class certification under Rule 23(b)(2) was appropriate as to putative class members who were employees when plaintiffs' complaint was filed, because they had standing to seek injunctive and declaratory relief requested in complaint, and primary relief sought by these plaintiffs remained declaratory and injunctive in nature notwithstanding their request to also be made whole in monetary sense to full extent provided for under Title VII).

(n121)Footnote 79.4. Dukes v. Wal-Mart, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 509 F.3d 1168, 1190-1193 (there existed at least one method of managing class action alleging gender discrimination and involving more than 1.5 million women that, albeit somewhat imperfect, nonetheless protected due process rights of all involved parties).

(n122)Footnote 80. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(c)(1)(A) ("An increasing number of courts require a party requesting class certification to present a 'trial plan' that describes the issues likely to be presented at trial and tests whether they are susceptible of class-wide proof."); see also Brown v. Fed. Express Corp. (C.D. Cal. 2008) 2008 U.S. DIST. LEXIS 17125, at *8-9 .

(n123)Footnote 81. For discussion of requirement of exhaustion of remedies, see [4], above.

(n124)Footnote 82. Allen v. United States Steel Corp. (5th Cir. [Ala.] 1982) 665 F.2d 689, 695-696 ; Chappell v. Emco Machine Works Co. (5th Cir. 1979) 601 F.2d 1295, 1298 ; Oatis v. Crown Zellerbach Corp. (5th Cir. [La.] 1968) 398 F.2d 496, 499 .

(n125)Footnote 83. Griffin v. Dugger (11th Cir. [Fla.] 1987) 823 F.2d 1476, 1492 ; Jackson v. Seaboard Coast Line RR. (11th Cir. [Ga.] 1982) 678 F.2d 992, 1011-1012 .

(n126)Footnote 84. See, e.g., Rich v. Martin Marietta Corp. (10th Cir. [Colo.] 1975) 522 F.2d 333, 340 ; Johnson v. Georgia Highway Express Co. (5th Cir. [Ga.] 1969) 417 F.2d 1122, 1124 .

(n127)Footnote 85. See General Tel. Co. v. Falcon (1982) 457 U.S. 147, 157-61, 102 S. Ct. 2364, 72 L. Ed. 2d 740 (plaintiffs who bring across-the-board challenges must have near-perfect standing and extremely strong individual substantive claims); East Texas Motor Freight v. Rodriguez (1977) 431 U.S. 395, 399-406, 97 S. Ct. 1891, 52 L. Ed. 2d 453 (class representative must be part of class and possess same interest and suffer same injury as class members).

(n128)Footnote 86. General Tel. Co. v. Falcon (1982) 457 U.S. 147, 157-61, 102 S. Ct. 2364, 72 L. Ed. 2d 740 ; East Texas Motor Freight v. Rodriguez (1977) 431 U.S. 395, 399-406, 97 S. Ct. 1891, 52 L. Ed. 2d 453 ; see, e.g., Dukes v. Wal-Mart, Inc. (9th Cir. 2007) 474 F.3d 1214, 1224-1238 (upholding certification of nationwide class of approximately 1.5 million women, salaried and hourly, with range of positions, currently working or who worked in one or more of defendant's 3,400 stores in 41 regions at any time since 1998, where plaintiffs satisfied numerosity, commonality, typicality, and adequacy requirements, plaintiffs' requests for injunctive and declaratory relief predominated over their request for monetary relief, and district court neither deprived defendant of substantive defenses nor altered substantive law when it certified class); Griffin v. Dugger (11th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 1476, 1490-1492 ; Moore v. Hughes Helicopters, Inc. (9th Cir. 1983) 708 F.2d 475, 480 ; Bowen v. General Motors Corp. AC Spark Plug Div. 685 (6th Cir. 1982) F.2d 160, 162 ; Harris v. Marsh (E.D.N.C. 1983) 100 F.R.D. 315, 324-325 .

(n129)Footnote 87. See Mandujano v. Basic Vegetable Prods., Inc. (9th Cir. 1976) 541 F.2d 832, 835 (counsel to plaintiff class in a Title VII case have "responsibilities to each individual member of the class"); cf. Harriss v. Pan Am. World Airways, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1977) 74 F.R.D. 24, 43 (adequacy of class representation is determined, in part, by gauging the proposed class' attorneys' "zeal, competence and experience").

(n130)Footnote 88. Fed. R. Civ. P. 24.

(n131)Footnote 89. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a)(2); Cabazon Band of Mission Indians v. Wilson (9th Cir. 1997) 124 F.3d 1050, 1061 , cert. denied, 118 S. Ct. 2319 (1998) ; Donnelly v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 405, 409 (denial of motion to intervene as of right subject to immediate appeal; denial is reviewed de novo, with the exception of timeliness issues which are reviewed for abuse of discretion).

(n132)Footnote 90. Donnelly v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 405 .

(n133)Footnote 91. Donnelly v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 405, 409-411 .

(n134)Footnote 92. Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(2); Northwest Forest Resource Council v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1996) 82 F.3d 825, 837 .

(n135)Footnote 93. Donnelly v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 405, 411-412 (appellate court has jurisdiction if district court abused its discretion; absent abuse, appellate court lacks jurisdiction to review).

(n136)Footnote 94. Donnelly v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 405 .

(n137)Footnote 95. Donnelly v. Glickman (9th Cir. 1998) 159 F.3d 405, 411-412 .

(n138)Footnote 96. EEOC v. Nevada Resort Ass'n (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 882, 885-886 ; League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. City of Santa Ana (C.D. Cal. 1976) 410 F. Supp. 873, 886-887 ; NAACP v. Allen (5th Cir. 1974) 493 F.2d 614, 617 .

(n139)Footnote 97. International Woodworkers of Am. v. Chesapeake Bay Plywood Corp. (4th Cir. 1981) 659 F.2d 1259, 1266-1267 ; EEOC v. Printing Indus. of Metropolitan Washington D.C. Inc. (D.D.C. 1981) 92 F.R.D. 51, 53 ; see Social Servs. Union v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1979) 609 F.2d 944, 946 .

(n140)Footnote 98. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-2, 2000e-3.

(n141)Footnote 99. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(b).

(n142)Footnote 100. See [7], below.

(n143)Footnote 101. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); see Sanchez v. Pacific Powder Co. (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 1097, 1101 (relying on Stache v. International Union of Bricklayers and Allied Craftsmen (9th Cir. 1988) 852 F.2d 1231, 1233-1234 ; requirement that EEOC charge name defendant is not jurisdictional; as condition precedent to civil suit, defendant may waive or be estopped from asserting lack of name as defense); see also Shah v. Mt. Zion Hosp. & Med. Ctr. (9th Cir. 1981) 642 F.2d 268, 271-272 ; Smith v. American President Lines (2d Cir. 1978) 571 F.2d 102, 107 n.10 ; Ostapowicz v. Johnson Bronze Co. (3d Cir. 1976) 541 F.2d 394, 399 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1041 (1977) ; see also [7], below.

(n144)Footnote 102. Miller v. Maxwell's Int'l Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 991 F.2d 583, 587-588 , cert. denied, 510 U.S. 1109 (1994) ; Padway v. Palches (9th Cir. 1982) 665 F.2d 965, 968 .

(n145)Footnote 103. See, e.g., Romain v. Kurek (6th Cir. 1985) 772 F.2d 281, 282-283 ; Eggleston v. Chicago Journeymen Plumbers' Local Union 130 (7th Cir. 1981) 657 F.2d 890, 904-905 , cert. denied, 455 U.S. 1017 (1982) ; Keller v. University of Michigan (D. Mich. 1974) 411 F. Supp. 1055, 1058-1059 .

(n146)Footnote 104. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1).

(n147)Footnote 105. See Gov. Code § 12900 et seq. For general discussion of bringing of actions under FEHA, see § 43.01. For discussion of state administrative procedure under FEHA, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n148)Footnote 106. but see Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1220 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 (1991) (only requirement is that EEOC defer and state proceedings be instituted before expiration of 300-day extended filing period, not that state agency actually receive charge before EEOC).

(n149)Footnote 107. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1); see also Maurya v. Peabody Coal Co. (6th Cir. 1987) 823 F.2d 933, 935 , cert. denied, 484 U.S. 1067 (1988) (failure to file complaint with state agency within time period required under state law does not preclude filing Title VII charge with EEOC, as long as EEOC charge is timely under federal law).

(n150)Footnote 108. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.13(b), (c), (e) (deferral to state agencies and procedures for processing of charges); EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) §§ 5.1-5.8 (worksharing and deferral agreements between EEOC and state agencies). For discussion of deferral and worksharing agreement, see ch. 42, pts. B and C.

(n151)Footnote 109. Love v. Pullman Co. (1972) 404 U.S. 522, 525-526, 92 S. Ct. 616, 30 L. Ed. 2d 679 .

(n152)Footnote 110. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1).

(n153)Footnote 111. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(c).

(n154)Footnote 112. See Mohasco Corp. v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 817, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532 .

(n155)Footnote 113. See EEOC v. Commercial Office Prods. Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 107, 114-122, 108 S. Ct. 1666, 100 L. Ed. 2d 96 ; Mohasco Corp. v. Silver (1980) 447 U.S. 807, 814 n.16, 100 S. Ct. 2486, 65 L. Ed. 2d 532 .

(n156)Footnote 114. See DFEH Enforcement Div. Directive No. 16 (Jan. 18, 1982).

(n157)Footnote 115. See EEOC v. Commercial Office Prods. Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 107, 114-122, 108 S. Ct. 1666, 100 L. Ed. 2d 96 .

(n158)Footnote 116. See Boyd v. United States Postal Serv. (9th Cir. 1984) 752 F.2d 410, 414 . but see Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 256-258, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 (limitations period for claim by employee denied tenure commenced on date of notice of denial of tenure, not on date of subsequent termination), discussed in ch. 42.

(n159)Footnote 117. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(h).

(n160)Footnote 118. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(2).

(n161)Footnote 119. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(2).

(n162)Footnote 120. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a).

(n163)Footnote 121. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a)(1).

(n164)Footnote 122. See, e.g., Whitman v. Mineta (9th Cir. 2008) 541 F.3d 929, 932-933 (employee's challenge to employer's denial of extension of work detail was untimely, where employee failed to notify EEO counselor of incident within 45 days of its occurrence); Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1105-1108 (because plaintiffs initially contacted EEO counselor on June 20, 1996, claims arising out of incidents occurring before May 7, 1996 were time-barred); Johnson v. United States Treasury Dep't (9th Cir. 1994) 27 F.3d 415, 416 (affirming summary judgment based on plaintiff's failure to seek counseling before one year after alleged incident of discrimination).

(n165)Footnote 123. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1); see also [i], above.

(n166)Footnote 124. See, e.g., Williams v. Owens-Illinois Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 665 F.2d 918, 923-924 .

(n167)Footnote 125. See, e.g., Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 256-258, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 (doctrine inapplicable when employee who was allegedly denied tenure in violation of Title VII was later discharged for lack of tenure; limitations period commenced when employee was informed of denial of tenure); United Air Lines, Inc. v. Evans (1977) 431 U.S. 553, 559-560, 97 S. Ct. 1885, 52 L. Ed. 2d 571 (current nondiscriminatory policy that has effect of perpetuating past, discontinued discriminatory practices does not constitute a "continuing violation" for purpose of Title VII limitations period).

(n168)Footnote 126. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(a)(1); Occidental Life Ins. Co. v. EEOC (1977) 432 U.S. 355, 366, 97 S. Ct. 2447, 53 L. Ed. 2d 402 .

(n169)Footnote 127. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.28(a)(2).

(n170)Footnote 128. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1).

(n171)Footnote 129. See Gilardi v. Schroeder (7th Cir. 1987) 833 F.2d 1226, 1233 (complaint filed in forma pauperis and rejected by court clerk held to be filed even though sent back to plaintiff by clerk for failure to conform with local court rules); Loya v. Desert Sands Unified Sch. Dist. (9th Cir. 1983) 721 F.2d 279, 281 (district court should regard complaint as being filed on time if complaint arrives in clerk's custody within statutory period but fails to conform with formal requirements in local rules).

(n172)Footnote 129.1. Payan v. Aramark Mgmt. Svcs., L.P. (9th Cir. 2007) 495 F.3d 1119, 1122 . See Nelmda v. Shelly Eurocars, Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 112 F.3d 380, 384 ; Scholar v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 264, 266-67 .

(n173)Footnote 129.2. Payan v. Aramark Mgmt. Svcs., L.P. (9th Cir. 2007) 495 F.3d 1119, 1121-1127 (plaintiff offered insufficient evidence to rebut 3-day presumption resulting in dismissal of her complaint for untimely filing, where she offered no corroborating evidence to conclude right-to-sue letter arrived more than three days after issuance by EEOC).

(n174)Footnote 130. See, e.g., Nelmda v. Shelly Eurocars, Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 112 F.3d 380, 384 , cert. denied, 118 S.Ct. 158 (90-day period in which to file Title VII action begins when postal service attempts to deliver right-to-sue letter at employee's address of record); Gonzalez v. Stanford Applied Eng'g (9th Cir. 1979) 597 F.2d 1298, 1299 . See also O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111 (Title VII and ADEA claims asserted in employee's second complaint, filed after automatic stay in bankruptcy was lifted, were untimely; she filed second complaint more than ninety days after EEOC's issuance of right-to-sue letter, and second complaint did not relate back to first complaint because second complaint was not amendment to first complaint--but, rather, separate filing).

(n175)Footnote 131. See Edwards v. Occidental Chem. Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1442, 1445-1446 . See also O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1112-1113 (employee's Equal Pay Act claims were timely because amendment asserting EPA claims related back to second complaint and equitable tolling applied, making second complaint timely under EPA statute of limitations).

(n176)Footnote 132-137. [Reserved]

(n177)Footnote 138. See Gonzalez v. Stanford Applied Eng'g (9th Cir. 1979) 597 F.2d 1298, 1299 .

(n178)Footnote 138.1. See Scholar v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 264, 267-268 .

(n179)Footnote 138.2. See ZiLOG, Inc. v. Corning (In re ZiLOG, Inc.) (9th Cir. 2006) 450 F.3d 996, 1000-1002 (taking facts in the light most favorable to women, there was substantial possibility their discrimination claims arose post-confirmation, requiring reversal of bankruptcy court's grant of summary judgment on discrimination claims and remanding to bankruptcy court to determine when claims came within women's fair contemplation).

(n180)Footnote 138.3. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111-1112 (defendants' motion to dismiss based on statute of limitations was not barred by laches despite its filing over two years after plaintiff's second complaint; plaintiff was not prejudiced by delay because she had timely notice of statute of limitations defense from defendants' answer and delay was reasonable because it was due to multiple stays entered while parties pursued settlement talks and plaintiff sought attorney).

(n181)Footnote 139. See Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 . See also Schafer v. Board of Pub. Educ. (3rd Cir. 1990) 903 F.2d 243, 251 (equitable tolling appropriate if (1) defendant has actively misled plaintiff, (2) plaintiff has in some extraordinary way been prevented from asserting his or her rights, or (3) plaintiff has timely asserted his or her rights mistakenly in wrong forum).

(n182)Footnote 139.1. Irwin v. Department of Veterans Affairs (1990) 498 U.S. 89, 95-96, 111 S. Ct. 453, 112 L. Ed. 2d 435 .

(n183)Footnote 139.2. See, e.g., Valenzuela v. Kraft, Inc. (9th Cir. [Haw.] 1986) 801 F.2d 1170, 1172 ; Sloan v. West (9th Cir. [Haw.] 1998) 140 F.3d 1255, 1262 (filing of mixed case claim with the Merit System Protection Board equitably tolls statute of limitations for filing with EEO and/or EEOC until appellant receives final jurisdictional determination from Federal Circuit).

(n184)Footnote 139.3. Stoll v. Runyon (9th Cir. 1999) 165 F.3d 1238, 1242 (egregious history of sexual harassment, rape, and abuse by supervisors and coworkers caused "severe psychological impairment" that left plaintiff unable to communicate with counsel or protect her legal rights).

(n185)Footnote 139.4. Irwin v. Department of Veterans Affairs (1990) 498 U.S. 89, 96, 111 S. Ct. 453, 112 L. Ed. 2d 435 ; Scholar v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 264, 268 ; Stoll v. Runyon (9th Cir. 1999) 165 F.3d 1238, 1242 (equitable tolling when "extraordinary circumstances beyond the plaintiff's control" makes it impossible to file claim on time).

(n186)Footnote 140. See, e.g., Nelmida v. Shelly Eurocars, Inc. (9th Cir. 1997) 112 F.3d 380, 384-385 , cert. denied, 118 S.Ct. 158 (1997) (equitable tolling inapplicable when claimant lacked diligence in securing right-to-sue notice, claimant received actual notice from EEOC, and claimant failed to explain delay); Franks v. Bowman Transp. Co. (5th Cir. 1974) 495 F.2d 398, 403-405 , rev'd on other grounds, 424 U.S. 747 (1976) (right-to-sue letter was lost by child, but party was allowed to bring suit when he received actual notice one year later); Jenkins v. Blue Cross Mutual Hosp. Ins., Inc. (7th Cir. 1976) 538 F.2d 164, 167 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 986 (1976) (black female who filled out charge, checking box for race discrimination but not for sex discrimination, without being advised that she needed to check both boxes to claim discrimination on account of race and sex, was not precluded from bringing action on both bases); White v. Dallas Independent Sch. Dist. (5th Cir. 1978) 581 F.2d 556, 562 (en banc); see also Valenzuela v. Kraft, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 801 F.2d 1170, 1172 (equitable tolling allowed because plaintiff originally filed suit in state court at time when it was unclear that state court had no subject matter jurisdiction over Title VII cases). but see Temengil v. Trust Territory of Pacific Islands (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 647, 654, cert. denied, 496 U.S. 925 (1990) (failure of plaintiffs' supervisors to inform them of necessity to file EEOC complaints did not excuse complete failure to file complaints).

(n187)Footnote 141. See International Union of Elec., Radio and Mach. Workers, Local 790 v. Robbins & Myers, Inc. (1976) 429 U.S. 229, 236-237, 97 S. Ct. 441, 50 L. Ed. 2d 427; cf. Alexander v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1974) 415 U.S. 36, 47, 94 S. Ct. 1011, 39 L. Ed. 2d 147 (contract rights and remedies are independent remedy from Title VII). Accord, EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 615, P 3114. In a 1990 policy guideline, the EEOC suggests that in a harassment action, an employee should pursue both an internal grievance procedure and an EEOC charge simultaneously. Not only does an internal grievance not toll the limitations period for filing a Title VII charge, but failure to file a grievance may defeat a constructive discharge claim. EEOC Compliance Manual (CCH) § 615, P 3114.

(n188)Footnote 142. See Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 465-466, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 (one-year statute applicable to 42 U.S.C. § 1981 claim under law of Tennessee is not tolled during pursuit of Title VII administrative remedies).

(n189)Footnote 142.1. See Scholar v. Pacific Bell (9th Cir. 1992) 963 F.2d 264, 267-268, cert. denied, 506 U.S. 868 (1992).

(n190)Footnote 142.2. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111; Minnette v. Time Warner (2d Cir. 1993) 997 F.2d 1023, 1027; see also Wei v. State of Hawaii (9th Cir. 1985) 763 F.2d 370, 372 (per curiam).

(n191)Footnote 142.3. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111; Chico-Velez v. Roche Prods., Inc. (1st Cir. 1998) 139 F.3d 56, 59.

(n192)Footnote 142.4. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111 (equitable tolling could not save Title VII or ADEA claims, where ninety-day limitations period had run before defendants filed for bankruptcy and automatic stay was issued, after which first complaint was dismissed, so at that point, there was no longer time left in ninety-day limitations period to equitably toll).

(n193)Footnote 142.5. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1112-1113. See Young v. United States (2002) 535 U.S. 43, 50-51, 122 S. Ct. 1036, 152 L. Ed. 2d 79.

(n194)Footnote 142.6. See 11 U.S.C. § 108(c)(2).

(n195)Footnote 142.7. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1113. See 29 U.S.C. § 255(a).

(n196)Footnote 142.8. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1113. See Bazemore v. Friday (1986) 478 U.S. 385, 395, 106 S. Ct. 3000, 92 L. Ed. 2d 315 (Brennan, J., concurring in part, joined by all other members of Court); Bartelt v. Berlitz Sch. of Languages of Am., Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 698 F.2d 1003, 1007 (describing 29 U.S.C. § 255 as rendering employer who commits willful violation under EPA liable for back pay for up to three years before suit is filed); Rural Fire Prot. Co. v. Hepp (9th Cir. 1966) 366 F.2d 355, 361-362 (cause of action accrued at end of each pay period when minimum and maximum wage provisions of 29 U.S.C. §§ 206, 207 violated).

(n197)Footnote 142.9. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1113.

(n198)Footnote 142.10. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111; Santa Maria v. Pac. Bell

(9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170, 1176 .

(n199)Footnote 142.11. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111 ; Santa Maria v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170, 1176 .

(n200)Footnote 142.12. O'Donnell v. Vencor Inc. (9th Cir. 2006) 466 F.3d 1104, 1111 .

(n201)Footnote 143. See Satterwhite v. City of Greenville (5th Cir. [Tex.] 1978), 997 (en banc).

(n202)Footnote 144. See United Airlines Inc. v. McDonald (1977) 432 U.S. 385, 391-395, 97 S. Ct. 2464, 53 L. Ed. 2d 423 ; Satterwhite v. City of Greenville (5th Cir. [Tex.] 1978) 578 F.2d 987, 997 (en banc).

(n203)Footnote 145. See Fed. Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 23(e).

(n204)Footnote 146. See Smith v. American President Lines (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1978) 571 F.2d 102, 107 fn. 10 ; Ostapowicz v. Johnson Bronze Co. (3d Cir. [Pa.] 1976) 541 F.2d 394, 399 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 1041 (1977) ; Sanchez v. Standard Brands, Inc. (5th Cir. [Tex.] 1970) 431 F.2d 455, 466 . See also , Stache v. International Union of Bricklayers (9th Cir. 1988) 852 F.2d 1231, 1234 , cert. denied, 493 U.S. 815 .

(n205)Footnote 147. See, e.g., Shah v. Mt. Zion Hospital & Medical Center (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1981) 642 F.2d 268, 271-272 .

(n206)Footnote 148. See University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 .

(n207)Footnote 149. See University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 792, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; see also De Cintio v. Westchester County Medical Center (2d Cir. 1986) 807 F.2d 304, 306 (findings against claimant by state human rights agency did not preclude claimant from relitigating Title VII claim).

(n208)Footnote 150. See University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 792, fn. 5, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; see Alexander v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1974) 415 U.S. 36, 47, 94 S. Ct. 1011, 39 L. Ed. 2d 147 .

(n209)Footnote 151. See generally discussion in Chapter 80.

(n210)Footnote 152. See University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 797, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; see also Mack v. South Bay Beer Distributors, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 798 F.2d 1279, 1283 (state unemployment hearing resulting in finding of just cause for termination of employment does not preclude subsequent age discrimination litigation). cf. Miller v. County of Santa Cruz (9th Cir. 1994) 39 F.3d 1030, 1038 (in Section 1983 action, unreviewed findings of state administrative tribunal are entitled to preclusive effect when procedures before tribunal meet procedural due process requirements and de novo judicial review is available).

(n211)Footnote 153. Kremer v. Chemical Construction Corp. (1982) 456 U.S. 461, 466-468, 480-482, 102 S. Ct. 1883, 72 L. Ed. 2d 262 .

(n212)Footnote 154. For discussion of availability of these state and federal remedies, see § 43.01[8][e], [f], and [8], below, respectively.

(n213)Footnote 155. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore (1979) 439 U.S. 322, 329, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 .

(n214)Footnote 156. Parklane Hosiery Co. v. Shore (1979) 439 U.S. 322, 331, 99 S. Ct. 645, 58 L. Ed. 2d 552 .

(n215)Footnote 157. See City and County of San Francisco v. Fair Employment & Housing Com. (1987) 191 Cal. App. 3d 976, 236 Cal. Rptr. 716 .

(n216)Footnote 158. See unpublished order in Davis v. City and County of San Francisco, Civ. C-84-70B9 MHP.

(n217)Footnote 158.1. Owens v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan (9th Cir. 2001) 244 F.3d 708 .

(n218)Footnote 158.2. Owens v. Kaiser Foundation Health Plan (9th Cir. 2001) 244 F.3d 708, 714-715 .

(n219)Footnote 159. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1); Sias v. City Demonstration Agency (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1978) 588 F.2d 692, 696-697 ; Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. [Va.] 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (1976) . See also E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1518 . For full discussion of mitigation principles, see [iii], below.

(n220)Footnote 160. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1); Stewart v. General Motors Corp. (7th Cir. [Ill.] 1976) 542 F.2d 445, 453 , cert. denied, 433 U.S. 919 (1977) .

(n221)Footnote 161. See, e.g., Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. [Va.] 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 268-269 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (pension and profit-sharing contributions of the employer are part of back pay awards); Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Co. (5th Cir. [Ala.] 1974) 494 F.2d 211, 263 , cert. denied, 439 U.S. 1115 (1979) (sick pay, vacation pay, overtime pay, and shift differential pay are all parts of back pay awards); E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1518 (paid holidays).

(n222)Footnote 162. See, e.g., Kauffman v. Sidereal Corp. (9th Cir. [Or.] 1982) 695 F.2d 343, 346-347 .

(n223)Footnote 162.1. Rivera v. Baker West, Inc. (9th Cir. 2005) 430 F.3d 1253, 1256-1260 (settlement agreement for discrimination and wrongful discharge claim under Title VII encompassed only damages for lost wages, so that district court did not clearly err by classifying settlement proceeds as lost wages not entitled to exclusion from gross income under 26 U.S.C. § 104(a)(2) for damages for personal physical injuries or physical sickness, and settlement proceeds paid to compensate plaintiff for his lost wages were subject to income tax withholding).

(n224)Footnote 163. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1).

(n225)Footnote 164. See Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 ; Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1234 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 .

(n226)Footnote 165. See Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 ; Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1234 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 .

(n227)Footnote 166. See Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 .

(n228)Footnote 167. See, e.g., Williams v. General Foods Corp. (7th Cir. [Ill.] 1974) 492 F.2d 399, 407-408 ; Rosenfeld v. Southern Pacific Company (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1227 .

(n229)Footnote 167.1. See Odima v. Westin Tucson Hotel (9th Cir. 1995) 53 F.3d 1484, 1495-1496 .

(n230)Footnote 167.2. See E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1516-1517 .

(n231)Footnote 168. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1).

(n232)Footnote 169. See Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC (1982) 458 U.S. 219, 231-234, 102 S. Ct. 3057, 73 L. Ed. 2d 721 .

(n233)Footnote 170. See Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC (1982) 458 U.S. 219, 231-234, 102 S. Ct. 3057, 73 L. Ed. 2d 721 ; Odima v. Westin Tucson Hotel (9th Cir. 1995) 53 F.3d 1484, 1496-1497 (plaintiff is not required to accept job offer conditioned on plaintiff's relinquishing discrimination claims against employer); Toledo v. Nobel-Sysco, Inc. (10th Cir. 1989) 892 F.2d 1481, 1493 (Title VII plaintiff's rejection of job offer normally ends defendant's ongoing responsibility for backpay).

(n234)Footnote 171. See Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC (1982) 458 U.S. 219, 232 n.18, 102 S. Ct. 3057, 73 L. Ed. 2d 721. See also Toledo v. Nobel-Sysco, Inc. (10th Cir. 1989) 892 F.2d 1481, 1493 (defendant's responsibility for backpay does not end if job offer is conditioned on dropping Title VII claim).

(n235)Footnote 172. See Hegler v. Board of Ed. of Bearden Sch. Dist., Bearden, Ark. (8th Cir. 1971) 447 F.2d 1078, 1081.

(n236)Footnote 173. See Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC (1982) 458 U.S. 219, 231 n.14, 102 S. Ct. 3057, 73 L. Ed. 2d 721; Kaplan v. Intern. Alliance of Theatrical, Etc. (9th Cir. 1975) 525 F.2d 1354, 1363.

(n237)Footnote 173.1. See Edwards v. Occidental Chemical Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1442, 1448-1449.

(n238)Footnote 173.2. See Toledo v. Nobel-Sysco, Inc. (10th Cir. 1989) 892 F.2d 1481, 1493.

(n239)Footnote 173.3. Caudle v. Bristow Optical Company, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 224 F.3d 1014, 1020-1021.

(n240)Footnote 174. See League of United Latin American Citizens v. City of Salinas (9th Cir. 1981) 654 F.2d 557, 559; Kaplan v. International Alliance of Theatrical & Stage Employees & Motion Picture Machine Operators (9th Cir. 1975) 525 F.2d 1354, 1363; Odima v. Westin Tucson Hotel (9th Cir. 1995) 53 F.3d 1484, 1497; Edwards v. Occidental Chemical Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1442, 1449; Toledo v. Nobel-Sysco, Inc. (10th Cir. 1989) 892 F.2d 1481, 1493.

(n241)Footnote 175. See 42 U.S.C. § 5000e-5(g)(1).

(n242)Footnote 176. See Pollard v. E. I. Du Point de Nemours & Co. (2001) 532 U.S. 843, 121 S. Ct. 1946, 150 L. Ed. 2d 62, 67 (front pay is money awarded for lost compensation during period between judgment and reinstatement or in lieu of reinstatement); Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269, cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (1976); Edwards v. Occidental Chemical Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1442, 1449.

(n243)Footnote 177. See Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269 n.10, cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (1976).

(n244)Footnote 178. Pollard v. E. I. Du Point de Nemours & Co. (2001) 532 U.S. 843, 121 S. Ct. 1946, 150 L. Ed. 2d 62, 67 (front pay appropriate when, for example, appropriate position for plaintiff not immediately available without displacing incumbent employee, because of continuing hostility between plaintiff and employer or workers, or because of psychological injuries suffered by plaintiff as result of discrimination); see Fadhl v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 1163, 1167; Briseno v. Central Technical Community College Area (8th Cir. 1984) 739 F.2d 344, 348.

(n245)Footnote 179. See Goldstein v. Manhattan Industries, Inc. (11th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 1435, 1448, cert. denied, 474 U.S. 1005 (1985).

(n246)Footnote 180. See Thorne v. City of El Segundo (9th Cir. 1987) 802 F.2d 1131, 1136-1137; Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269, cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 (1976).

(n247)Footnote 181. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g); cf. Ford Motor Co. v. EEOC (1982) 458 U.S. 219, 231-232, 102 S. Ct. 3057, 73 L. Ed. 2d 721 (unemployed or underemployed claimant, like all other Title VII claimants, is subject to statutory duty to minimize damages). For discussion of plaintiff's duty to mitigate back pay, see [a][iii], above.

(n248)Footnote 181.1. Pollard v. E. I. Du Point de Nemours & Co. (2001) 532 U.S. 843, 121 S. Ct. 1946, 150 L. Ed. 2d 62, 71 ; Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174 ; for discussion of compensatory damages under 42 U.S.C. § 1981a, see [c], below.

(n249)Footnote 182. See Thompson v. Sawyer (D.C. Cir. 1982) 678 F.2d 257, 292 ; see Thorne v. City of El Segundo (9th Cir. 1987) 802 F.2d 1131, 1137 .

(n250)Footnote 183. See Fadhl v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 1163, 1167 ; James v. Stockham Valves & Fittings Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 310 ; Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269 (front pay is the proper remedy when employees entitled to move up will not be able to do so by date of judgment); cf. Franks v. Bowman Transp. Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 781, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 (separate opinion of Burger, C.J., concurring in part and dissenting in part; front pay award could replace need for competitive-type seniority relief when promotions have been denied because of discriminatory seniority and promotional system).

(n251)Footnote 184. Fadhl v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 1163, 1167 (remanding damages award, which included front pay, for additional findings).

(n252)Footnote 185. See Fadhl v. City and County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1984) 741 F.2d 1163, 1167 ; see also Dillon v. Coles (3d Cir. 1984) 746 F.2d 998, 1006 .

(n253)Footnote 186. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a.

(n254)Footnote 187. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(1).

(n255)Footnote 188. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(1).

(n256)Footnote 189. See generally Saint Francis College v. Al-Khazraji (1987) 481 U.S. 604, 613, 107 S. Ct. 2022, 95 L. Ed. 2d 582 ; Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 ; See also ch. 40, pt. C.

(n257)Footnote 190. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(d)(1)(A).

(n258)Footnote 191. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(1).

(n259)Footnote 192. Kolstad v. American Dental Ass'n. (1999) 527 U.S. 526, 119 S. Ct. 2118, 144 L. Ed. 2d 494, 506-507, 512 .

(n260)Footnote 193. Kolstad v. American Dental Ass'n. (1999) 527 U.S. 526, 119 S. Ct. 2118, 144 L. Ed. 2d 494, 508-512 .

(n261)Footnote 194. Kolstad v. American Dental Ass'n. (1999) 527 U.S. 526, 119 S. Ct. 2118, 144 L. Ed. 2d 494, 512 .

(n262)Footnote 194.1. Ngo v. Reno Hilton Resort Corp. (9th Cir. 1998) 140 F.3d 1299, 1304-1305 .

(n263)Footnote 194.2. Ngo v. Reno Hilton Resort Corp. (9th Cir. 1998) 140 F.3d 1299 .

(n264)Footnote 194.3. Ngo v. Reno Hilton Resort Corp. (9th Cir. 1998) 140 F.3d 1299, 1304-1305 (even considering better treatment toward white employee did not evince evil motive or conscious or deliberate disregard for federally protected right against discrimination).

(n265)Footnote 194.4. E.E.O.C. v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 156 F.3d 989 .

(n266)Footnote 194.5. Ngo v. Reno Hilton Resort Corp., (9th Cir. 1998) 140 F.3d 1299, 1304 , amended 156 F.3d 988 .

(n267)Footnote 194.6. E.E.O.C. v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (9th Cir. 1998) 156 F.3d 989, 992-993 .

(n268)Footnote 194.7. Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174 .

(n269)Footnote 194.8. Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174, 1196-1199 .

(n270)Footnote 194.9. Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174, 1197-1198 .

(n271)Footnote 194.10. Costa v. Desert Palace, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 299 F.3d 838 .

(n272)Footnote 194.11. Costa v. Desert Palace, Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 299 F.3d 838, 864-865 (court could not equate jury's finding of "egregious" misconduct with employer's lack of "good faith" as matter of law).

(n273)Footnote 195. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(2); see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (relief under Title VII).

(n274)Footnote 196. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3). See Lansdale v. Hi-Health Supermart Corp. (9th Cir. 2002) 314 F.3d 355, 357-359 (cap is constitutional); Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174, 1200-1201 (same).

(n275)Footnote 197. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3).

(n276)Footnote 197.1. E.E.O.C. v. Dinuba Medical Clinic (9th Cir. 2000) 222 F.3d 580, 589 .

(n277)Footnote 197.2. See Pavon v. Swift Transp. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 192 F.3d 902, 910-911 (plaintiff who brought claims under Title VII and 42 U.S.C. 1981 was entitled to recover damages in excess of $300,000 under the § 1981 claim).

(n278)Footnote 197.3. Pollard v. E. I. du Point de Nemours & Co. (2001) 532 U.S. 843, 121 S. Ct. 1946, 150 L. Ed. 2d 62, 70 ; Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174 ; see Gotthardt v. AMTRAK (9th Cir. 1999) 191 F.3d 1148, 1153-1155 .

(n279)Footnote 198. See, e.g., Williams v. United States General Servs. Admin. (9th Cir. 1990) 905 F.2d 308, 311 ; Shah v. Mt. Zion Hosp. & Med. Ctr. (9th Cir. 1981) 642 F.2d 268, 272 ; Pearson v. Western Elec. Co. (10th Cir. 1976) 542 F.2d 1150, 1151-1152 .

(n280)Footnote 199. Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 402(a).

(n281)Footnote 199.1. Landgraf v. USI Film Products (1994) 511 U.S. 244, 261, 114 S. Ct. 1483, 128 L. Ed. 2d 229, 241, 265 .

(n282)Footnote 200. See generally § 43.01.

(n283)Footnote 201. The Civil Rights Act of 1991 expressly provides that the damage limits that apply to Title VII actions do not limit the relief available under 42 U.S.C. § 1981. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(4); see also Pavon v. Swift Transp. Co (9th Cir. 1999) 192 F.3d 902 (Title VII's damages cap does not limit damages under theories such as 42 U.S.C. § 1981 and state common law claims; excess damages over statutory maximum could be attributed to non-Title VII claims). For discussion, see § 43.14.

(n284)Footnote 202. For discussion of wrongful termination and related actions, see chs. 60-63.

(n285)Footnote 202.1. See Pavon v. Swift Transp. Co., Inc. (9th Cir. 1999) 192 F.3d 902, 909-910 .

(n286)Footnote 203. City of Los Angeles Department of Water & Power v. Manhart (1978) 435 U.S. 702, 722-723, 98 S. Ct. 1370, 55 L. Ed. 2d 657 (employer's pension system overcharged females on discriminatory and erroneous premise that women live longer than men do, but overcharges could not be repaid to plaintiff class because of threat to pension fund and to other employees' expectations).

(n287)Footnote 204. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1), (2)(A).

(n288)Footnote 205. See Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 418, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 .

(n289)Footnote 206. See, e.g., City of Los Angeles Department of Water & Power v. Manhart (1978) 435 U.S. 702, 721-723, 98 S. Ct. 1370, 55 L. Ed. 2d 657 (while retroactive monetary relief was inappropriate, injunction against sex-differential benefits of municipal entity's pension plan upheld); Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 772, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 (fashioning of appropriate remedies, including retroactive seniority to victims of racial discrimination, invokes the sound equitable discretion of the district courts).

(n290)Footnote 206.1. See, e.g., Freitag v. Ayers (9th Cir. 2006) 463 F.3d 838, 2006 U.S. App. LEXIS 23383, *47-*50 (although prison guard was no longer employed when trial court granted permanent injunction against employer, injunction was proper, because she possessed property interest in her job and sufficient connection to her employment with prison to support issuance of injunction).

(n291)Footnote 207. See E.E.O.C. v. Hacienda Hotel (9th Cir. 1989) 881 F.2d 1504, 1519 ; E.E.O.C. v. Goodyear Aerospace Corp. (9th Cir. 1987) 813 F.2d 1539, 1544 ; Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1233 (curative eleventh-hour action does not prove that employer is unlikely to discriminate again).

(n292)Footnote 208. For the general principles governing issuance of preliminary injunctive relief by federal district courts, see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65; for procedural rules governing motions for preliminary injunctive relief in district courts, see local rules of the various district courts.

(n293)Footnote 209. See, e.g., Garcia v. Lawn (9th Cir. 1986) 805 F.2d 1400, 1404-1406 ; Segar v. Civiletti (D.D.C. 1981) 516 F. Supp. 314, 321 (preliminary injunction against demotion of witness in EEO proceeding).

(n294)Footnote 210. See, e.g., I.M.A.G.E. v. Bailar (N.D. Cal. 1981) 518 F. Supp. 800, 804-805 (preliminary injunction against filling of vacancies by employer to preserve court's ability to grant full final relief).

(n295)Footnote 211. Wagner v. Taylor (9th Cir. 1987) 836 F.2d 566, 572-574 (employees may seek interim injunctive relief to preserve status quo and to prevent retaliation while administrative process is advancing); see, e.g., Berg v. Richmond Unified School Dist. (9th Cir. 1975) 528 F.2d 1208, 1212 , vacated and remanded on other grounds, 434 U.S. 158 (1977) (pregnant schoolteacher entitled to preliminary injunction to prevent mandatory maternity leave, even absent right-to-sue letter); Drew v. Liberty Mutual Insur. Co. (5th Cir. 1973) 480 F.2d 69, 72-76 .

(n296)Footnote 212. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1).

(n297)Footnote 213. See, e.g., Walters v. City of Atlanta (11th Cir. 1986) 803 F.2d 1135, 1148-1150 (upholding order of mandatory hiring of African-American employee unlawfully denied employment, even though order required bumping of already-hired employee); Kunda v. Muhlenberg College (3d Cir. 1980) 621 F.2d 532, 549 (tenure ordered when faculty member was victim of discriminatory denial of job security based on sex); Sebastian v. Texas Dep't of Corrections (S.D. Tex. 1982) 541 F. Supp. 970, 976-979 (court ordered plaintiff reinstated to position in state prison system when she proved she was demoted because of sexist attitudes of prison management).

(n298)Footnote 214. See, e.g., United States v. Paradise (1987) 480 U.S. 149, 166-167, 107 S. Ct. 1053, 94 L. Ed. 2d 203 ; Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 444-445, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92

L. Ed. 2d 344 ; Association against Discrimination in Employment, Inc. v. City of Bridgeport (2d Cir. 1981) 647 F.2d 256, 287-288 ; Guardians Ass'n. of New York City v. Civil Serv. (2d Cir. 1980) 630 F.2d 79, 109 .

(n299)Footnote 215. Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 444-445, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344 .

(n300)Footnote 216. See Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 772, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 .

(n301)Footnote 217. Zipes v. Trans World Airlines Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 398-400, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 ; Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 772, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 ; see, e.g., EEOC v. M.D. Pneumatics, Inc. (8th Cir. 1985) 779 F.2d 21, 23 ; Wilson v. Southwest Airlines (N.D. Tex. 1983) 98 F.R.D. 725, 728-729 (retroactive seniority should not be denied except for compelling reasons).

(n302)Footnote 218. See, e.g., Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 779 n.41, 780, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 (discussing "retroactive" and "rightful-place" seniority); Ass'n Against Discrimination v. City of Bridgeport (2d Cir. 1981) 647 F.2d 256, 287-288 , cert. denied, 455 U.S. 988 (1982) (using term "constructive" seniority); Moseley v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. (5th Cir. 1980) 612 F.2d 187, 191 (stating that "remedial" seniority is a form of affirmative action under Title VII); James v. Stockham Valves & Fittings Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 310, 355-356 (articulating "rightful place" concept of retroactive seniority).

(n303)Footnote 219. See, e.g., Moseley v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. (5th Cir. 1980) 612 F.2d 187, 191 (preference to victims for future vacancies is better remedy when feasible than "bumping"; changes in work schedules of nonvictims does not constitute "bumping"); but see Lander v. Lujan (D.C. Cir. 1989) 888 F.2d 153, 158 (Title VII clearly authorizes bumping of innocent incumbents).

(n304)Footnote 220. Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 779 n.41, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 .

(n305)Footnote 221. Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 376 n.62, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 ; Romasanta v. United Air Lines, Inc. (7th Cir. 1983) 717 F.2d 1140, 1148-1150 ; Moore v. City of San Jose (9th Cir. 1980) 615 F.2d 1265, 1272 .

(n306)Footnote 222. EEOC v. M.D. Pneumatics Inc. (8th Cir. 1985) 779 F.2d 21, 23 ; Wilson v. Southwest Airlines (N.D. Tex. 1983) 98 F.R.D. 725, 728-29 ; Alaniz v. California Processors Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1976) 73 F.R.D. 289, 292-293 , aff'd, 572 F.2d 657, 658-659 (9th Cir. 1978) .

(n307)Footnote 223. See, e.g., Smith v. American Serv. Co. (11th Cir. 1986) 796 F.2d 1430, 1432-1433 (remanded to determine propriety of prejudgment interest on back pay award); Domingo v. New England Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 1429, 1446 ; Green v. United States Steel Corp. (E.D. Pa. 1986) 640 F. Supp. 1521, 1549 .

(n308)Footnote 224. See, e.g., Domingo v. New England Fish Co (9th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 1429, 1446 ; Green v. United States Steel Corp. (E.D. Pa. 1986) 640 F. Supp. 1521, 1549 (relief limited to award for period from establishment of liability forward).

(n309)Footnote 225. Compare Richardson v. Restaurant Marketing Assocs., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1981) 527 F. Supp. 690, 698 ; Priest v. Rotary (N.D. Cal. 1986) 634 F. Supp. 571, 585 ; E.E.O.C. (U.S.A.) v. Pacific Press Pub. Ass'n (N.D. Cal. 1979) 482 F. Supp. 1291, 1319-1320 (court applied interest rate equal to 90 percent of the average prime rate for the relevant year, compounded annually); with Hunter v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (S.D. Ohio 1983) 576 F. Supp. 704, 728 n.21 (8 percent flat rate, compounded annually, was awarded as prejudgment interest); E.E.O.C. v. Wooster Brush Co. Employees Relief Ass'n (6th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 566, 579 (discussing possibility of calculating prejudgment interest using postjudgment rate in 28 U.S.C. § 1961(a)).

(n310)Footnote 226. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k); see also Edwards v. Occidental Chemical Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1442, 1449-1450 (appellate court has discretion to award attorney fees on appeal to prevailing parties).

(n311)Footnote 227. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k).

(n312)Footnote 228. See Fitzpatrick v. Bitzer (1976) 427 U.S. 445, 456-457, 96 S. Ct. 2666, 49 L. Ed. 2d 614 .

(n313)Footnote 229. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k), as amended by Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 113(b) (Civil Rights Act of 1991).

(n314)Footnote 230. Hemmings v. Tidyman's Inc. (9th Cir. 2002) 285 F.3d 1174 (district court did not abuse its discretion by denying costs for depositions or preparation of motion for attorneys fees).

(n315)Footnote 230.1. Texas State Teachers Ass'n v. Garland Independent Sch. Dist. (1989) 489 U.S. 782, 790-791, 109 S. Ct. 1486, 103 L. Ed. 2d 866 .

(n316)Footnote 230.2. Stivers v. Pierce (9th Cir. 1995) 71 F.3d 732, 751 (interpreting 42 U.S.C. § 1988, court concluded that degree of success is irrelevant to determination of prevailing party).

(N317)Footnote 230.3. Hashimoto v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 118 F.3d 671 .

(n318)Footnote 230.4. Hashimoto v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 118 F.3d 671, 676-678 (EEOC's finding that plaintiff was victimized by negative character reference resulted in ordering panoply of remedial measures but not reinstatement or back pay sufficient for prevailing party status); see Smith v. Secretary of Navy (D.C. Cir. 1981) 659 F.2d 1113, 1122 (plaintiff subjected to adverse performance evaluation in retaliation for EEO activities without financial harm is prevailing party even when only proper relief is excising negative reference from personnel file).

(n319)Footnote 230.5. Norris v. Sysco Corp. (9th Cir. 1999) 191 F.3d 1043 , cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1182, 145 L. Ed. 2d 1121 (2000) .

(n320)Footnote 230.6. See Norris v. Sysco Corp. (9th Cir. 1999) 191 F.3d 1043 , cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1182 (2000) (court found award of fees proper because much hard work and valid effort went into case in which employer was found to have discriminated, but no damages were awarded because discrimination was not only motive).

(n321)Footnote 231. See Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 417, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 ; Albamarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 415, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 ; see Flight Attendants v. Zipes (1989) 491 U.S. 754, 758-761, 109 S. Ct. 2732, 105 L. Ed. 2d 639 ; but see Buckhannon Bd. and Care Home, Inc., v. West Virginia Dept. of Health and Human Resources (2001) 532 U.S. 598, 607-609, 121 S. Ct. 1835, 149 L. Ed.2d 855, 865 ("catalyst theory" not permissible basis for award of attorney's fees under Fair Housing Amendments Act and ADA; party is not "prevailing party" under fee-shifting provisions of statutes if it has failed to secure judgment on the merits or court-ordered consent decree but has achieved desired result because lawsuit brought about voluntary change in defendant's conduct).

(n322)Footnote 232. See Flight Attendants v. Zipes (1989) 491 U.S. 754, 761, 109 S. Ct. 2732, 105 L. Ed. 2d 639 .

(n323)Footnote 232.1. See Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1235 .

(n324)Footnote 232.2. Hashimoto v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 118 F.3d 671, 676-678 ; Morales v. City of San Rafael (9th Cir. 1996) 96 F.3d 359, 362-363 (whether plaintiff's success is purely technical or de minimus is determined by examining factors beyond amount of monetary award, such as significance of legal issues on which plaintiff claims to have prevailed and public purpose served by litigation); see Farrar v. Hobby (1992) 506 U.S. 103, 111-112, 113 S. Ct. 566, 121 L. Ed. 2d 494 ("no fee" exception for cases in which relief is de minimus).

(n325)Footnote 232.3. Hashimoto v. Dalton (9th Cir. [Haw.] 1997) 118 F.3d 671, 676-678 (attorney's fee award to employee on retaliation claim proper when plaintiff partially succeeds, legal relationship between parties is materially altered, and remedial measures benefit community).

(n326)Footnote 233. See Johnson v. Georgia Highway Express, Inc. (5th Cir. 1974) 488 F.2d 714, 717-719 ; Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1235 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 (declarations stating hourly rate was prevailing market rate in relevant community were sufficient to establish appropriate rate for lodestar purposes).

(n327)Footnote 233.1. Staton v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 475 , citing Evans v. Jeff D. (1986) 475 U.S. 717, 734-735, 106 S. Ct. 1531, 89 L. Ed. 2d 747 .

(n328)Footnote 233.2. See Staton v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 475 (appellate court could not determine whether fees that defendant agreed to pay in class action settlement decree were reasonable lodestar fees under Title VII's fee-shifting statute, because trial court conducted no such inquiry).

(n329)Footnote 233.3. Staton v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 476, 477 . See Brytus v. Spang & Co. (3d Cir. 2000) 203 F.3d 238, 246-247 (common funds can be appropriate in both settled and litigated cases when statutory fees are available); Cook v. Niedert (7th Cir. 1998) 142 F.3d 1004 (approving fees measured by common fund rather than statutory principles when statutory fees were available); Florin v. Nationsbank (7th Cir. 1994) 34 F.3d 560, 564 (common fund principles properly control case initiated under statute with fee shifting provision but settled with creation of common fund); Skelton v. General Motors Corp. (7th Cir. 1988) 860 F.2d 250, 256 (when settlement fund is created in exchange for release of defendant's liability both for damages and statutory attorneys' fees, equitable fund principles govern court's award of attorneys' fees).

(n330)Footnote 233.4. See Staton v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 478-481 (because parties negotiated amount of attorneys' fees awarded class counsel as a term of settlement agreement and conditioned merits settlement on judicial approval of agreed-upon fees and then attempted to justify fees not as statutory fees but as common fund fees, parties followed irregular and improper procedure).

(n331)Footnote 233.5. Boeing Co. v. Van Gemert (1980) 444 U.S. 472, 478, 100 S. Ct. 745, 62 L. Ed. 2d 676 .

(n332)Footnote 233.6. Staton v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 477 .

(n333)Footnote 233.7. Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp. (9th Cir. 1998) 150 F.3d 1011, 1026 .

(n334)Footnote 233.8. Staton v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 482 .

(n335)Footnote 233.9. Staton v. Williams (9th Cir. 2002) 313 F.3d 447, 478 .

(n336)Footnote 233.10. See Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1235-1236 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 .

(n337)Footnote 233.11. See Bouman v. Block (9th Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d 1211, 1235-1236 , cert. denied, 502 U.S. 1005 .

(n338)Footnote 233.12. See Burlington v. Dague (1992) 505 U.S. 557, 563, 112 S. Ct. 2638, 120 L. Ed. 2d 449, 459 (interpreting attorney's fee provisions of Solid Waste Disposal Act (42 U.S.C. § 6972(e)) and Federal Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. § 1365(d)).

(n339)Footnote 233.13. Staton v. Boeing Co. (2003) 327 F.3d 938, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 8139, *3-5, *59-*92 .

(n340)Footnote 234. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k) explicitly prohibits awards of attorney's fees to the United States and EEOC.

(n341)Footnote 235. See Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 421, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 . This standard is also applicable to the imposition of sanctions against plaintiffs under Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11. Warren v. City of Carlsbad (9th Cir. 1995) 58 F.3d 439, 444-445 , cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1171 (1996) .

(n342)Footnote 236. See Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 421-422, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 ; Hudson v. Western Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 1988) 851 F.2d 261, 267 (mere fact that plaintiff did not prevail is not enough to justify award of attorney's fees to defendant).

(n343)Footnote 237. See Mitchell v. Office of Los Angeles County (9th Cir. 1986) 805 F.2d 844, 847 .

(n344)Footnote 237.1. See E.E.O.C. v. Bruno's Restaurant (9th Cir. 1993) 13 F.3d 285, 288-289 .

(n345)Footnote 237.2. See E.E.O.C. v. Bruno's Restaurant (9th Cir. 1993) 13 F.3d 285, 288-289 .

(n346)Footnote 238. Faraci v. Hickey-Freeman Co., Inc. (2d Cir. 1979) 607 F.2d 1025, 1027-1029 (court reduced defendant's $2,500 fee request to $200 award because plaintiff was unable to pay and had litigated in good faith).

(n347)Footnote 239. See generally 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g),(k).

(n348)Footnote 240. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 42(b) generally permits this approach by motion or in the trier's discretion.

(n349)Footnote 241. See, e.g., Sledge v. J.P. Stevens & Co. (4th Cir. 1978) 585 F.2d 625, 634-635 , cert. denied, 440 U.S. 981 (1979) .

(n350)Footnote 242. See Int'l Bhd. of Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 356-358, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 ; Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 772, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 ; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; see also League of United Latin American Citizens v. City of Salinas (9th Cir. 1981) 654 F.2d 557, 558-559 ; Meadows v. Ford Motor Co. (6th Cir. 1975) 510 F.2d 939, 948 , cert. denied, 425 U.S. 998 (1976) .

(n351)Footnote 243. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 361, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n352)Footnote 244. See Segar v. Smith (D.C. Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1249, 1289-1290, 238 U.S. App. D.C. 103 , cert. denied sub. nom., Meese v. Segar, 471 U.S. 1115 (1985) .

(n353)Footnote 245. See Pettway v. American Cast Iron Pipe Company (5th Cir. 1974) 494 F.2d 211, 261 , cert. denied, 439 U.S. 1115 (1979) ; Segar v. Smith (D.C. Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1249, 1290, 238 U.S. App. D.C. 103 , cert. denied sub. nom. Meese v. Segar 471 U.S. 1115 (1985) ; Hameed v. Intern. Ass'n of Bridge, Etc. (8th Cir. 1980) 637 F.2d 506, 520 ; see also Parker, Escape From the Quagmire: A Reconsideration of the Role of Teamsters Hearings in Title VII Litigation, 10 Indus. Rel. L.J. 171 (1988). The specific circumstances that make class-wide relief more appropriate than individualized claim hearings include large classes of potential discriminatees who are vying for a significantly smaller number of back pay "slots"; long liability periods dating so far back that it is impossible to reconstruct the progress that individuals might have made; incentive-based compensation systems, or other methods of paying employees that yield unpredictable salaries; and lack of objective criteria for individually determining who is an actual victim of discrimination.

(n354)Footnote 246. Domingo v. New England Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 1429 , modified on other grounds, 742 F.2d 520 .

(n355)Footnote 247. Domingo v. New England Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 1429, 1444 .

(n356)Footnote 248. Domingo v. New England Fish Co. (9th Cir. 1984) 727 F.2d 1429, 1444 .

(n357)Footnote 249. See Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 107.

(n358)Footnote 250. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(m); see generally discussion in ch. 41, pt. A.

(n359)Footnote 251. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

(n360)Footnote 251.1. Shaw v. City of Sacramento (9th Cir. 2001) 250 F.3d 1289, 1293-1294 .

(n361)Footnote 252. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

(n362)Footnote 253. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f),(g).

(n363)Footnote 254. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a).

(n364)Footnote 255. See Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.

(n365)Footnote 256. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a)(1). For general discussion of discriminatory preemployment practices under Title VII, see ch. 41, pt. C. see § 43.01[10][a][ii] for form that can be modified for use in a Title VII complaint.

(n366)Footnote 257. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a)(1). For discussion of discriminatory discharge from employment, see ch. 41, pt. D. see § 43.01[9][b], Paragraphs 9-12, for allegations that can be modified for use in a Title VII complaint.

(n367)Footnote 258. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-2(a)(1), 2000e-3(a). For discussion of constructive discharge from employment, see ch. 41, pt. D. see § 43.01[10][c][ii] for allegations that can be modified for use in a Title VII complaint.

(n368)Footnote 259. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a). For discussion of retaliation, see ch. 41, pt. F. see § 43.01[10][d][ii] for allegations that can be modified for use in a Title VII complaint.

(n369)Footnote 260. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e(j), 2000e-2(a). For discussion of requirement of accommodation of an employee's religion, see ch. 41, pt. D. see § 43.01[10][e][ii] for allegations that can be modified for use in a Title VII complaint.

(n370)Footnote 260.1. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 2000e-2(a), 2000e-3. For discussion of harassment, see ch. 41, pt. D. see § 43.01[g][ii] for allegations that can be modified for use in a Title VII complaint.

(n371)Footnote 261. See, e.g., Hearn v. San Bernardino Police Dept. (9th Cir. 2008) 530 F.3d 1124, 1129-1133 (neither plaintiff's complaint nor amended complaint warranted dismissal under Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 8(a)(2), despite the fact that they were 81 pages long, where, although each set forth excessively detailed factual allegations, they were coherent and well-organized, and stated legally viable claims).

(n372)Footnote 261.1. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green, 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (1973) ; see discussion of prima facie case at § [2][b], above.

(n373)Footnote 261.2. See Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A. (2002) 534 U.S. 506, 122 S. Ct. 992, 152 L. Ed. 2d 1, 6-10 , citing Fed. Rule Civ. Proc. 8(a)(2). See also Maduka v. Sunrise Hospital (9th Cir. 2004) 375 F.3d 909, 911-913 (applying Swierkiewicz to action under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981, 1988).

(n374)Footnote 261.3. McDonald v. Santa Fe Trail Transp. Co. (1976) 427 U.S. 273, 283 n. 11, 96 S. Ct. 2574, 49 L. Ed. 2d 493 .

(n375)Footnote 261.4. Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A. (2002) 534 U.S. 506, 122 S. Ct. 992, 152 L. Ed. 2d 1, 9. See Maduka v. Sunrise Hospital (9th Cir. 2004) 375 F.3d 909, 911-913 (in action under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981, 1988, district court erred in not applying ordinary rules for assessing sufficiency of complaint).

(n376)Footnote 262. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11.

(n377)Footnote 263. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11.

(n378)Footnote 264. See Moore's Federal Practice, vol. 2A, ch. 11, P 11.03, p. 11-28. However, a party cannot obtain a temporary restraining order without notice to the adverse party unless it appears from a verified complaint that immediate and irreparable injury will occur. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 65. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 11 is experiencing a burgeoning development in the application of sanctions on parties and counsel for the filing of allegedly meritless pleadings. See, e.g., Hudson v. Moore Business Forms, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 827 F.2d 450, 458 (appellate court upheld sanction of attorney's fee award against defense lawyers in Title VII case, when punitive damages in seven figures had been prayed for without adequate factual or legal basis, in "creative" cross-complaint against Title VII claimant; court noted that use of "offhanded, casual, or retaliatory damage prayers" is one practice that Rule 11 is intended to prohibit).

(n379)Footnote 265. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 8-11.

(n380)Footnote 266. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (stating that either theory may be applied to a particular set of facts). For full discussion of differences between "disparate treatment" and "disparate impact" models, see ch. 41, pt. A, and [2][b] and [c], above.

(n381)Footnote 267. See, e.g., Miller v. Fairchild Industries, Inc. (9th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 727, 730 ; cf. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802-805, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n382)Footnote 268. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(a),(b),(f) (definitions of terms "person," "employer," and "employee" under Title VII). For discussion of parties generally, see [5], above, and for general discussion of employers and employees covered and exempted under Title VII, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n383)Footnote 269. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3); Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a). For discussion of jurisdiction and venue, see [3], above.

(n384)Footnote 270. See generally Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a). As an example, this form alleges discriminatory denial of a promotional opportunity on account of sex, race, or other characteristic protected by Title VII. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a). For discussion of prohibition of discrimination in training, advancement, and promotion on the job, see ch. 41, pt. D.

(n385)Footnote 271. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1); Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 415, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 ; but see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B) (back pay not available in certain "mixed motive" cases if defendant makes specified showing). For discussion of entitlement to back pay, see [9][a],[h], above.

(n386)Footnote 272. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1); Thorne v. City of El Segundo (9th Cir. 1987) 802 F.2d 1131, 1137 ; Patterson v. American Tobacco Co. (4th Cir. 1976) 535 F.2d 257, 269 , cert. denied, 429 U.S. 920 ; but see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B) (back pay not available in certain "mixed motive" cases if defendant makes specified showing). For discussion of entitlement to front pay, see [9][b], [h], above.

(n387)Footnote 273. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(1), (b)(2),(3); but see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B) (damages not available in certain "mixed motive" cases if defendant makes specified showing); see also discussion in [9][c], [h], above.

(n388)Footnote 274. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(1), (b)(1),(3); but see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B) (damages not available in certain "mixed motive" cases if defendant makes specified showing); see also discussion in [9][c], [h], above.

(n389)Footnote 275. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1); Franks v. Bowman Transportation Co. (1976) 424 U.S. 747, 772, 96 S. Ct. 1251, 47 L. Ed. 2d 444 ; see also League of United Latin American Citizens v. City of Salinas (9th Cir. 1981) 654 F.2d 557, 558-559 . As an example, this form requests an injunction granting plaintiff a retroactive promotion with an award of retroactive seniority. For discussion of availability of injunctive relief in Title VII actions, see [9][d], above. Note, however that an order requiring hiring, reinstatement, promotion, or admission is not available in "mixed motive" cases if the defendant makes a specified showing. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B). For discussion, see [9][h], above.

(n390)Footnote 276. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e),(f)(1). For discussion of exhaustion of administrative remedies, see [4], above. For discussion of administrative remedies under Title VII, see ch. 42, pt. C.

(n391)Footnote 277. See generally Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a).

(n392)Footnote 278. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k). For discussion of entitlement to prejudgment interest, see [9][e], above, and for discussion of entitlement to attorney's fees and costs, see [9][f], above.

(n393)Footnote 279. See, e.g., O'Brien v. Sky Chefs, Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 670 F.2d 864, 866-868 ; Williams v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (9th Cir. 1982) 665 F.2d 918, 930 ; Coble v. Hot Springs School District (8th Cir. 1982) 682 F.2d 721, 723 ; Reed v. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. (9th Cir. 1980) 613 F.2d 757, 761-762 .

(n394)Footnote 280. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 367-368, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 . For discussion of discriminatory denial of promotion, see discussion in ch. 41, pt. D.

(n395)Footnote 281. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1). For discussion of exhaustion of administrative remedies under Title VII, see [4], above.

(n396)Footnote 282. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1); Schafer v. Board of Public Educ. (3d Cir. 1990) 903 F.2d 243, 251-253 . For discussion of requirement that defendants named in civil action be limited to those named in EEOC charge, and exceptions to the requirement, see [7], above.

(n397)Footnote 283. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 12(b)(6).

(n398)Footnote 284. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 7(b), 11.

(n399)Footnote 285. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 7(d).

(n400)Footnote 286. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(a)-(f). For discussion of requirement of exhaustion of remedies, see [4], above. See § 43.01[13][a][ii] for allegations that may be modified for use in an answer to a Title VII complaint.

(n401)Footnote 287. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e),(f)(1). For discussion of limitations periods, see [6], above. See § 43.01[13][b][ii] for allegations that may be modified for use in an answer to a Title VII complaint.

(n402)Footnote 288. See, e.g., Cleveland Newspaper Guild v. Plain Dealer Pub. Co. (6th Cir. 1988) 839 F.2d 1147, 1154 ; Boone v. Mechanical Specialties (9th Cir. 1979) 609 F.2d 956, 959 ; but see Brown v. Continental Can Co. (9th Cir. 1985) 765 F.2d 810, 814 (declining to apply laches based on facts of case); Gifford v. Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe Ry. Co. (9th Cir. 1982) 685 F.2d 1149, 1152 (same); Bratton v. Bethlehem Steel Corp. (9th Cir. 1980) 649 F.2d 658, 666-667 (same). See § 43.01[13][d][ii] for allegations that may be modified for use in an answer to a Title VII complaint.

(n403)Footnote 289. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e); see also 29 C.F.R. § 1604.1(a) (BFOQ defense should be construed narrowly). For discussion of BFOQ defense, see ch. 41, pt. E. see § 43.01[13][e][ii] for allegations that may be modified for use in an answer to a Title VII complaint.

(n404)Footnote 290. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(k); Albemarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 425, 430-436, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280; Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 430-436, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158. For discussion of the business justification defense, see ch. 41, pts. A and E.

(n405)Footnote 291. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(g). For discussion of security regulation defense, see ch. 41, pt. E. see § 43.01[13][h][ii] for allegations that may be modified for use in an answer to a Title VII complaint.

(n406)Footnote 292. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e(j); Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Hardison (1977) 432 U.S. 63, 71-75, 97 S. Ct. 2264, 53 L. Ed. 2d 113 (religious accommodation). For discussion of undue hardship as defense to an allegation of failure to accommodate an employee's or applicant's religious beliefs or practices, see ch. 41, pt. D. see § 43.01[13][l][ii] for allegations that may be modified for use in an answer to a Title VII complaint.

(n407)Footnote 293. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 12(b)(6).

(n408)Footnote 294. Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 257-260, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802-803, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668.

(n409)Footnote 295. See, e.g., Nash v. Consolidated City of Jacksonville (11th Cir. 1985) 763 F.2d 1393, 1397.

(n410)Footnote 296. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(h); Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 908, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961; Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 353-355, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396.

(n411)Footnote 297. Lorance v. AT&T Technologies, Inc. (1989) 490 U.S. 900, 908-909, 109 S. Ct. 2261, 104 L. Ed. 2d 961.

(n412)Footnote 298. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(f).

(n413)Footnote 299. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

(n414)Footnote 300. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(m).

(n415)Footnote 301. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(B).

(n416)Footnote 301.1. See Burlington Industries, Inc. v. Ellerth (1998) 524 U.S. 742, 765, 118 S. Ct. 2257, 141 L. Ed. 2d 633; Faragher v. City of Boca Raton (1998) 524 U.S. 775, 807.

(n417)Footnote 301.2. See Burlington Industries, Inc. v. Ellerth (1998) 524 U.S. 742, 765, 118 S. Ct. 2257, 141 L. Ed. 2d 633; Faragher v. City of Boca Raton (1998) 524 U.S. 775, 807, 118 S. Ct. 2275, 141 L. Ed. 2d 662.

(n418)Footnote 302. Yellow Freight Sys., Inc. v. Donnelly (1990) 494 U.S. 820, 110 S. Ct. 1566, 108 L. Ed. 2d 834, 838.

(n419)Footnote 303. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343(a)(4); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3).

(n420)Footnote 304. See 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a).

(n421)Footnote 305. See Ferrell v. Heck's Inc. (S.D. W. Va. 1985) 604 F. Supp. 683, 684.

(n422)Footnote 306. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-7; California Federal S. & L. Ass'n v. Guerra (1987) 479 U.S. 272, 107 S. Ct. 683, 93 L. Ed. 2d 613 (interpreting 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-7 as expressly disclaiming Congressional intent to preempt state laws governing fair employment, in general); Hays v. Potlatch Forests Inc. (8th Cir. 1972) 465 F.2d 1081, 1082 .

(n423)Footnote 307. See, e.g., California Federal S. & L. Ass'n v. Guerra (1987) 479 U.S. 272, 107 S. Ct. 683, 93 L. Ed. 2d 613 (California law granting antidiscriminatory job security and related benefits to pregnant workers held not preempted by Title VII); Rosenfeld v. Southern Pacific Company (9th Cir. 1971) 444 F.2d 1219, 1225-1226 (California's "protective" laws setting maximum amounts of weight to be lifted and maximum hours to be worked by women were preempted by Title VII as conflicting with Title VII's purpose of overcoming, inter alia, sex discrimination).

(n424)Footnote 308. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-7; see California Federal S. & L. Ass'n v. Guerra (1987) 479 U.S. 272, 107 S. Ct. 683, 93 L. Ed. 2d 613 .

(n425)Footnote 309. See [i], above.

(n426)Footnote 310. United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 725, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 .

(n427)Footnote 311. United Mine Workers v. Gibbs (1966) 383 U.S. 715, 726-727, 86 S. Ct. 1130, 16 L. Ed. 2d 218 .

(n428)Footnote 312. 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c).

(n429)Footnote 313. See Executive Software N. Am. v. U.S. Dist. Court (9th Cir. 1994) 24 F.3d 1545, 1555-1557 .

(n430)Footnote 313.1. Executive Software N. Am. v. U.S. Dist. Court (9th Cir. 1994) 24 F.3d 1545, 1557 .

(n431)Footnote 313.2. 28 U.S.C. § 1367(d); Guevara v. Ventura Community College Dist. (2008) 169 Cal. App. 4th 167, 170-174, 87 Cal. Rptr. 3d 50 (trial court erred by finding employee's action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and administrative mandamus was barred by the statute of limitations, where employee timely filed civil rights and administrative mandamus action in federal court, and, after employee's federal civil rights action was dismissed by federal court without prejudice, he timely filed his state court action within 30-day tolling period of 28 U.S.C. § 1367(d); even if employee was incorrect in believing he could file administrative mandamus action in federal court, his conduct was not in bad faith or unreasonable and result he sought was consistent with equitable tolling doctrine); Kolani v. Gluska (1998) 64 Cal. App. 4th 402, 409-410, 75 Cal. Rptr. 2d 257 (because 28 U.S.C. § 1367(d) codifies principles of equitable tolling found in state case law, court looks to California's case law doctrine of equitable tolling before construing statute; unreasonable to file claims in state court much later than 30-day limit).

(n432)Footnote 314. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(e).

(n433)Footnote 315. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(e).

(n434)Footnote 316. See 29 C.F.R. § 1601.16.

(n435)Footnote 317. Chandler v. Roudebush (1976) 425 U.S. 840, 863 n.39, 96 S. Ct. 1949, 48 L. Ed. 2d 416 ; Bradshaw v. Zoological Soc. of San Diego (9th Cir. 1978) 569 F.2d 1066, 1069 .

(n436)Footnote 318. Chandler v. Roudebush (1976) 425 U.S. 840, 863-864, 96 S. Ct. 1949, 48 L. Ed. 2d 416 .

(n437)Footnote 319. See, e.g., Slack v. Havens (9th Cir. 1975) 522 F.2d 1091, 1094 (no right to jury trial under Title VII); cf. Curtis v. Loether (1974) 415 U.S. 189, 192-198, 94 S. Ct. 1005, 39 L. Ed. 2d 260 (right to jury trial under Title VIII, but no right to jury trial where remedies are purely equitable in nature, as in Title VII); see also

Lytle v. Household Manufacturing (1990) 494 U.S. 545, 110 S. Ct. 1331, 108 L. Ed. 2d 504, 513 n.1 (assuming for purposes of opinion that plaintiff had no right to jury trial under Title VII).

(n438)Footnote 320. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(1), (b).

(n439)Footnote 321. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(c)(1). If the case is tried before a jury, the court may not inform the jury of the limitations on the amount of damages set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3), discussed in [9][c], above. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(c)(2).

(n440)Footnote 322. See discussion in § 43.14[6][a], [9]; See also ch. 40, pt. C.

(n441)Footnote 323. Lytle v. Household Mfg. (1990) 494 U.S. 545, 552, 110 S. Ct. 1331, 108 L. Ed. 2d 504 (court may not deprive litigant of right to jury trial by erroneously dismissing legal claim).

(n442)Footnote 324. See Landgraf v. USI Film Prods. (1994) 511 U.S. 244, 249, 114 S. Ct. 1483, 128 L. Ed. 2d 229 .

(n443)Footnote 324.1. Browning v. United States (9th Cir. 2009) 567 F.3d 1038, 1041-1042 . See also Cassino v. Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 817 F.2d 1338 (age discrimination action; no error in refusal to give plaintiff's proposed pretext instruction).

(n444)Footnote 325. Nilsson v. City of Mesa (9th Cir. 2007) 503 F.3d 947, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 21912, *5-*6 ; Stroman v. West Coast Grocery Co. (9th Cir. 1989) 884 F.2d 458, 461 .

(n445)Footnote 326. Nilsson v. City of Mesa (9th Cir. 2007) 503 F.3d 947, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 21912, *6-*9 .

7 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.10A

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.10A Americans With Disabilities Act

[1] Rules Governing Civil Actions Under ADA

The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA),ⁿ¹ which prohibits disability discrimination in employment,ⁿ² expressly incorporates the powers, remedies, and procedures set forth in Title VII's enforcement provisions.ⁿ³ Therefore, individuals aggrieved by violations of the ADA have the same right to file civil actions as they do under Title VII,ⁿ⁴ after they exhaust certain specified administrative requirements, including filing an administrative claim with the EEOC.ⁿ⁵

For discussion of subject matter jurisdiction, parties, statutes of limitations, the appropriate scope of a civil action, and the general procedures for filing a civil action under Title VII, see § 43.10. For a detailed discussion of administrative procedures under the ADA, which are, in fact, the same as those required by Title VII,ⁿ⁶ see Chapter 42, Part C. Chapter 40, Part C contains a comprehensive discussion of the ADA's scope of coverage. Chapter 41 discusses the substantive prohibitions and defenses under the ADA.

To date, there are no cases determining what standards should be applied to alleged ADA violations, but presumably courts will apply the general theories of liability used under most other equal employment opportunity laws--i.e., "disparate treatment" and "disparate impact." In fact, the ADA expressly prohibits practices that have a disparate impact on disabled persons, unless justified by business necessity.ⁿ⁷ The "disparate treatment" and "disparate impact" theories of liability are discussed at length in Chapter 41, Part A and in §§ 43.01[2] and 43.10[2].

Discriminatory failure to reinstate is a separately actionable claim under the ADA, when there are new elements of unfairness, not existing at the time of the original violation, attached to denial of reemployment.^{n7.1}

The remedies available for unlawful discrimination under the ADA include equitable relief, back pay, and front pay, as under Title VII.ⁿ⁸ Attorney's fees may also be available to the prevailing party.ⁿ⁹ Remedies under Title VII are discussed in § 43.10[9].

In addition, pursuant to the Civil Rights Act of 1991, in an action brought by a complaining party under the ADA against a respondent who engaged in unlawful intentional discrimination (i.e., not an employment practice that is unlawful because of its disparate impact), the complaining party may recover compensatory and punitive damages as discussed below, in addition to any relief authorized by Title VII.n9.1 The "complaining party" for this purpose means the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Attorney General, or a person who may bring an action or proceeding under the ADA.n9.2

A complaining party may recover punitive damages in an ADA civil action against a respondent (other than a government, government agency, or political subdivision) if the complaining party demonstrates that the respondent engaged in a discriminatory practice or discriminatory practices with malice or with reckless indifference to the federally protected rights of an aggrieved individual.n9.3

"Compensatory damages" for purposes of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 do not include backpay, interest on backpay, or any other type of relief authorized under Title VII.n9.4 but do include amounts awarded for future pecuniary losses, emotional pain, suffering, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and other nonpecuniary losses.n9.5 The sum of the amount of such compensatory damages and the amount of punitive damages awarded may not exceed the following amounts for each complaining party:n9.6

1. In the case of a respondent who has more than 14 and fewer than 101 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $50,000;
2. In the case of a respondent who has more than 100 and fewer than 201 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $100,000;
3. In the case of a respondent who has more than 200 and fewer than 501 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $200,000; and
4. In the case of a respondent who has more than 500 employees in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year, $300,000.

In cases in which a discriminatory practice involves the failure to provide reasonable accommodation pursuant to the ADA n9.7 or implementing regulations, damages may not be awarded under the Civil Rights Act of 1991 if the covered entity demonstrates good-faith efforts, in consultation with the person with the disability who has informed the covered entity that accommodation is needed, to identify and make a reasonable accommodation that would provide such individual with an equally effective opportunity and would not cause an undue hardship on the operation of the business.n9.8

The ADA sets forth various other affirmative defenses to a disability discrimination claim, namely business necessity/job-relatedness, danger to the health and safety of other employees, a "religious entity" exemption, and specified infectious and communicable diseases that may be transmitted through the handling of food.n10 In addition, the United States Supreme Court has decided three related cases which have significantly affected the determination of whether the plaintiff is actually a "qualified individual with a disability.n10.1 The determination must be made on a case-by-case basis, but these cases should support an affirmative defense in appropriate circumstances. For a form of affirmative defense, see [3][a], below; for further discussion of these defenses, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[2] FORM--Complaint for Violation of ADA--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

The form set forth in [b], below, is a general complaint for use by an aggrieved individual who seeks monetary and injunctive relief under the ADA.ⁿ¹¹ The form contains the basic allegations required in any complaint for a violation of the ADA. It conforms to the procedural requirements of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rules 8 through 11, as well as the Local Rules for Civil Practice of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, Rules 200-1 through 200-5.ⁿ¹² Each district court has its own rules, however, and counsel should consult those rules before filing ADA pleadings.

[ii] Allegations

The complaint in [b], below, contains the following allegations: (1) an optional preliminary statement of the substance of the complaint (preferred by some courts) (Paragraph 1); (2) the identities of the plaintiff (Paragraphs 2-4) and the defendant or defendants (Paragraph 5); (3) the basis for subject matter jurisdiction and venue (Paragraph 6);ⁿ¹³ (4) a cause of action for disability discrimination in violation of the ADA,ⁿ¹⁴ including allegations for disparate treatment and disparate impact (Paragraphs 7 and 8);ⁿ¹⁵ (5) that the plaintiff is a "qualified individual" who can perform the job at issue with or without accommodation by the employer (Paragraph 9);ⁿ¹⁶ (6) the grounds for monetary relief, including back pay and front pay (Paragraph 10),ⁿ¹⁷ compensatory damages (Paragraphs 11 and 12),^{n17.1} and punitive damages (Paragraph 13);^{n17.2} (7) the grounds for injunctive relief (Paragraph 14);ⁿ¹⁸ and (8) that plaintiff exhausted his or her administrative remedies (Paragraphs 15 and 16).ⁿ¹⁹ The complaint also includes a prayer for appropriate remedies,ⁿ²⁰ including interest, costs, and attorney's fees.ⁿ²¹

[b] Form

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT,

_____ [Specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	Civil Case No. _____
vs.	)	INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT FOR MONETARY
_____ [name], Defendant(s).	)	AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR EMPLOYMENT
	)	DISCRIMINATION
	)	(Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990)
	)	[42 U.S.C. §§ 1981a, 12101 et seq.]

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. This action is brought pursuant to the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), Title 42 United States Code Section 12101 et seq., to obtain relief for plaintiff _____ (name) for alleged discrimination in employment by defendant(s) against plaintiff because of plaintiff's disability. Plaintiff _____ (name) alleges that defendant(s) _____ (specify discriminatory act, e.g., refused to hire plaintiff) because of plaintiff's disability, in violation of Title 42 United States Code Section 12112(a). By this action, plaintiff _____ (name) seeks the following relief, pursuant to Title 42 of the United States Code Section 12117(a), which incorporates the remedies set forth in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(g) and (k), for the discriminatory treatment of plaintiff in violation of the ADA: _____ (specify, e.g., monetary relief, including back pay, front pay, compensatory and punitive damages, attorney's fees and costs of suit, and injunctive relief, consisting of an order requiring defendant to hire plaintiff).]

2. Plaintiff _____ (name) is an adult person and is a resident of the County of _____,

State of California.

3. Plaintiff _____ (name) is "disabled" as defined by the ADA, Title 42 United States Code Section 12102(1), in that he/she _____ [has or has a record of or is regarded as having] a _____ [physical or mental] impairment that substantially limits one or more of his or her major life activities, in that [describe manifestation of plaintiff's disability].

[EITHER]

4. Plaintiff is an employee of defendant _____ (name), and has been employed by defendant _____ (name), at [place of employment] since [date].

[OR]

4. Plaintiff applied for employment with defendant [name] at [place] on [date].

[OR]

4. Plaintiff was employed by defendant [name] at [place of employment] from [date] until [date].

[CONTINUE]

5. At all times relevant herein, defendant [name] has been an employer as defined by the ADA, Title 42 United States Code Section 12111(5)(A), in that defendant is engaged in an industry affecting commerce and _____ [if discriminatory practice occurs before July 26, 1994, has had 25 or more employees or, if discriminatory practice occurs on or after July 26, 1994, has had 15 or more employees] for each working day in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in _____ [specify either year during which discriminatory practice occurred or preceding year, as appropriate]

6. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court by the ADA, Title 42 United States Code Section 12117(a), which incorporates the jurisdiction provisions in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(f)(3). This is the proper venue for this action under Title 42 United States Code Sections 2000e-5(f)(3) and 12117(a), in that _____ [allege ground establishing venue, e.g., the discriminatory employment practice alleged herein was committed within this court's judicial district.]

7. On or about [date], defendant(s) intentionally discriminated against plaintiff because of plaintiff's disability as described in Paragraph 3, in that _____ [specify discriminatory acts, e.g., defendant(s) refused to hire plaintiff because of his/her disability], [and defendant(s) continue(s) to discriminate against plaintiff in that _____ (specify continuing discriminatory practice or policy)].

8. In the alternative, the action of defendant(s) as set forth in Paragraph 7, above, was done pursuant to a policy or practice that has a discriminatory effect on plaintiff as a disabled person in the following manner: [set forth factual allegations showing disparate impact of facially neutral policy or practice on plaintiff and other disabled persons].

9. Plaintiff is a "qualified individual" within the meaning of Title 42 United States Code Section 12111(8) because he/she can, _____ [with or without] reasonable accommodation, perform the essential functions of the job that he/she _____ [holds or held or sought or seeks] in the employ of the defendant(s).

10. The discriminatory action of defendant(s) as set forth in Paragraphs 7 and 8, above, has caused and will continue to cause plaintiff to suffer losses of earnings, from _____ [specify date of loss of employment opportunity, e.g., the date of the refusal to hire plaintiff] until _____ [specify date on which loss of earnings will cease, e.g., the date on which plaintiff is hired by defendant(s)].

[11. As a further proximate result of defendant's unlawful and intentional discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered the intangible loss of such employment-related opportunities as _____ (specify, e.g., experience in the position from which plaintiff was terminated). As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[12. As a further proximate result of defendant's unlawful and intentional discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered emotional pain, humiliation, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and emotional distress. As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[13. The above-recited actions of defendant were done _____ (with malice and/or with reckless indifference to plaintiff's rights under the ADA), in that _____ (specify facts showing malice and/or reckless indifference). Defendant's conduct warrants the assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to punish defendant and deter others from engaging in similar misconduct.]

[14. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law to secure relief for the _____ (specify loss of employment opportunity, e.g., failure by defendant(s) to hire plaintiff). If this court does not enter an order _____ (specify injunctive relief needed, e.g., compelling defendant(s) to hire plaintiff to the job plaintiff applied and was qualified for) plaintiff will be irreparably injured in that _____ (set forth in detail facts showing irreparable injury).]

15. On [date], plaintiff filed a discrimination charge against defendant(s) [name] with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). A copy of that charge is attached to this complaint, marked "Exhibit____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth. That charge was timely filed, under the ADA, Title 42 United States Code Section 12117(a), which incorporates the procedures set forth in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(e), as follows: _____ [specify timely filing, e.g., Plaintiff filed the charge with the EEOC on _____ (date), within 300 days of the occurrence of the ADA violation herein alleged]. [Plaintiff also filed a timely discrimination charge with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), pursuant to the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, Government Code Section 12900 et seq. On _____ (date), plaintiff received notice that the DFEH had terminated its proceedings on plaintiff's charge.]

16. On [date], plaintiff received notice from the EEOC of his/her right to bring this action, and plaintiff timely filed this action on [date], within _____ [90 days after or within time period specified in] that notice. A copy of that notice of right of action is attached to this form, marked "Exhibit____," and is incorporated by this reference as though fully set forth.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For back pay, with prejudgment interest, from _____ [set forth date of discriminatory action, but not more than two years prior to filing of EEOC charge by plaintiff, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a), which incorporates the procedures set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1)] to the date of judgment herein;

[2. For front pay and/or future lost earnings, for the period from the date of judgment to _____ (set forth the date at which plaintiff actually is placed in the position that he or she was denied because of discrimination);]

[3. For compensatory damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or according to proof);]

[4. For punitive damages in an amount appropriate to punish defendant and deter others from engaging in similar misconduct;]

[5. For injunctive relief, including but not limited to _____ (specify injunctive relief desired, e.g., an order compelling defendant(s) to hire plaintiff to the job he/she applied for), and for all other injunctive relief required to make plaintiff whole for the losses caused by the violations of defendant(s);]

6. For costs of suit, including reasonable attorney's fees and expert fees, pursuant to Title 42 United States Code Section 12117(a), which incorporates the remedies set forth in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(k); and

7. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[3] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of ADA

[a] Affirmative Defenses Under ADA Generally

The ADA sets forth a few express affirmative defenses that are set out in [b] through [f], below.ⁿ²² However, because the ADA incorporates many of Title VII's operative provisions,ⁿ²³ presumably many of the procedural defenses applicable to Title VII also apply to the ADA. Thus, the defendant may assert that the plaintiff has failed to file an EEOC charge or a civil complaint within the limitations periods,ⁿ²⁴ or that the plaintiff's action is barred by laches.ⁿ²⁵ The ADA does not incorporate Title VII's statutory defenses,ⁿ²⁶ but substantive defenses developed by Title VII case law, such as a legitimate, nondiscriminatory motive for alleged disparate treatment,ⁿ²⁷ may apply in ADA cases. A Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim under the ADA for violations which occurred before discharge of the defendant in bankruptcy is proper. Such pre-discharge claims are held to be discharged in the bankruptcy. However, damages may be recovered for post-discharge ADA violations under two scenarios. If the violation is sufficiently independent of pre-discharge violations so that it does not constitute a continuing violation of the ADA, the employee may recover damages from the date of the violation. If the violation is so related to the pre-discharge violations that the pre- and post-discharge conduct constitutes a continuing violation, the employee may recover damages from the date of the bankruptcy discharge.^{n27.1}

Forms for the foregoing procedural and substantive affirmative defenses appear in §§ 43.01[13] (FEHA affirmative defenses) and 43.10[13] (Title VII affirmative defenses), and may be adapted for use in ADA cases. For a comprehensive discussion of ADA and Title VII substantive defenses, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense Based on Business Necessity/Job-Relatedness and Undue Hardship

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that a qualification standard, test, or selection criteria challenged under the ADA because of its adverse impact on disabled individuals is job-related and consistent with business necessity, and that successful performance of the standard, test, or criteria cannot be accomplished by reasonable accommodation.ⁿ²⁸

Effective January 1, 2009, an employer must show that qualification standards, employment tests, or other selection criteria based specifically on an individual's uncorrected vision are job-related for the position in question and consistent with business necessity.^{n28.1} This form can be modified to indicate that the standard, test or other selection criteria is specifically based on an individual's uncorrected vision.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the _____ [specify standard, test, or selection criteria alleged in complaint to be discriminatory] is permissible and does not violate the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 because it has a manifest relationship to the job in question, in that _____ [specify how standard, test, or selection criteria predicts or correlates with methods of work behavior that comprise, or are relevant to, the job], and thus is necessary to the safe and efficient operation of defendant's business. Defendant also alleges that the successful performance of the _____ [specify challenged standard, test, or criteria] cannot be accomplished by reasonable accommodation, in that _____ [specify how accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the operation of defendant's business].

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Individual Poses a Direct Threat to Health and Safety

[i] Comment

The form of affirmative defense set forth in [ii], below, is based on the ADA's premise that a lawful "qualification standard" for a job may include the requirement that an individual may not pose a direct threat to the health or safety of other individuals in the workplace.ⁿ²⁹

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant _____ [specify alleged discriminatory acts, e.g., refused to hire plaintiff] because plaintiff, by reason of his/her disability, poses a direct threat to the _____ [health or safety] of other individuals in defendant's workplace in that _____ [specify nature of threat to safety or health].

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employment Action Was Based on Exempted Religious Preference

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense that may be used by a religious corporation, association, educational institution, or society that gives employment preferences to individuals of a particular religion to perform work connected with the carrying on of the religious entity's activities.ⁿ³⁰

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant is a religious _____ [corporation or association or educational institution or society], and that when defendant _____ [specify alleged discriminatory acts, e.g., refused to hire plaintiff] it was comporting with an employment policy that, with respect to the carrying on of defendant's activities, gives preference in employment to persons of the particular religion to which defendant, but not plaintiff, subscribes.

[e] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employment Action Was Based on Refusal to Follow Religious Tenet

[i] Comment

The affirmative defense set forth in [ii], below, may also be used by a religious corporation, association, educational institution, or society if a challenged employment action was taken because the plaintiff refused to conform to the organization's religious tenets.ⁿ³¹

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant is a religious _____ [corporation or association or educational institution or society], and that defendant _____ [specify alleged discriminatory acts, e.g., refused to hire plaintiff] because he/she refused to conform to defendant's religious tenets in that _____ [specify].

[f] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Food Handler Has Specified Communicable Disease

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense that may be used by a defendant who makes an adverse employment decision because an individual has a specified infectious or communicable disease that is transmitted to others through the handling of food,ⁿ³² and which cannot be eliminated by reasonable accommodation, in which case the defendant may refuse to assign or to continue to assign that individual to a job involving food handling.ⁿ³³

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that defendant _____ [specify alleged discriminatory acts, e.g., refused to hire plaintiff as a short order cook] because plaintiff _____ [was or is] infected with _____ [specify one of the diseases enumerated by the Secretary of Health and Human Services as being transmitted through the food supply].

[g] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Plaintiff is Not a "Qualified Individual With a Disability"

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense that may be used in cases in which plaintiff's alleged impairment may no longer be considered a substantial impairment due to natural or other mitigating measures which plaintiff uses to correct the impairment.ⁿ³⁴

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that plaintiff is not a qualified individual within the meaning of Title 42 United States Code, Section 12111(8) because _____ [specify mitigating measures taken by plaintiff to ameliorate impairment] thereby causing plaintiff to not be substantially impaired.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Rights LawProtection of Disabled PersonsAmericans With Disabilities ActGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisability DiscriminationGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. (operative July 26, 1992).

(n2)Footnote 2. 42 U.S.C. § 12112(a) (operative July 26, 1992).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 applies to ADA).

(n4)Footnote 4. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(1),(g) (Title VII).

(n5)Footnote 5. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b),(c),(e),(f)(1) (Title VII).

(n6)Footnote 6. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 applies to ADA).

(n7)Footnote 7. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(3) (operative July 26, 1992; employer may not utilize standards, criteria, or methods of administration that have effect of discriminating against persons with disabilities).

(n8)Footnote 7.1. Josephs v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 2005) 432 F.3d 1006, 1013-1014 (plaintiff asserted and jury found that employer's denial of reinstatement was based on new element of unfairness, which was perception that plaintiff was mentally ill).

(n9)Footnote 8. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (Title VII).

(n10)Footnote 9. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k) (Title VII.) but see Buckhannon Board & Care Home, Inc. v. West Virginia Dep't of Health and Human Resources (2001) 532 U.S. 598, 121 S. Ct. 1835, 149 L. Ed. 2d 855, 866 (in nonemployment ADA action, plaintiff not entitled to attorney's fees award as prevailing party, where defendant voluntarily changed conduct after plaintiff filed lawsuit but before plaintiff obtained judicial relief).

(n11)Footnote 9.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(2).

(n12)Footnote 9.2. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(d)(1)(B).

(n13)Footnote 9.3. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(1).

(n14)Footnote 9.4. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(2); see 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (relief under Title VII).

(n15)Footnote 9.5. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3).

(n16)Footnote 9.6. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(3).

(n17)Footnote 9.7. See 42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(5); see also discussion in ch. 41, pt. D.

(n18)Footnote 9.8. 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(3).

(n19)Footnote 10. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113 (operative July 26, 1992.)

(n20)Footnote 10.1. Sutton v. United Air Lines (1999) 527 U.S. 471, 119 S. Ct. 2139, 144 L. Ed. 2d 450, 459-460, overruled by statute on other grounds [see P.L. 110-325, §§ 1, 2]; Murphy v. Service, Inc. (1999) 527 U.S. 516, 119 S. Ct. 2133, 144 L. Ed. 2d 484, 491, overruled by statute on other grounds [see P.L. 110-325, §§ 1, 2]; Albertson's, Inc. v. Kirkingburg (1999) 527 U.S. 555, 119 S. Ct. 2162, 144 L. Ed. 2d 518, 530-533 , overruled by statute on other grounds [see P.L. 110-325, §§ 1, 2].

(n21)Footnote 11. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. (operative July 26, 1992).

(n22)Footnote 12. See discussion in § 43.10[10][a][ii].

(n23)Footnote 13. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; incorporating Title VII powers, remedies, and procedures); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(f)(3) (Title VII); Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a).

(n24)Footnote 14. 42 U.S.C. § 12112(a) (operative July 26, 1992).

(n25)Footnote 15. See generally Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a). For discussions of the disparate treatment and disparate impact theories of liability, see § 43.10[2] and ch. 41, pt. A.

(n26)Footnote 16. 42 U.S.C. § 12111(8); see ch. 40, pt. C and ch. 41, pts. B and D.

(n27)Footnote 17. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; incorporating Title VII powers, remedies, and procedures); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (Title VII). For a discussion of back pay, front pay, and other relief available under Title VII, see § 43.10[9].

(n28)Footnote 17.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(2), (b)(2),(3); see also discussion in [1], above.

(n29)Footnote 17.2. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(a)(2), (b)(1), (3) (Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 102; Rev. Stat. § 1977A(a)(2), (b)(1), (3)); see also discussion in [1], above.

(n30)Footnote 18. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; incorporating Title VII powers, remedies, and procedures); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (Title VII). For a discussion of injunctive relief under Title VII, see § 43.10[9][d].

(n31)Footnote 19. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; incorporating Title VII powers, remedies, and procedures); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(b), (c), (e), (f)(1) (Title VII); ch. 42, pt. C.

(n32)Footnote 20. See generally Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a).

(n33)Footnote 21. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; incorporating Title VII powers, remedies, and procedures); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(k) (Title VII). For discussion relating to interest, costs, and attorney's fees under Title VII, see § 43.10[9][e], [f].

(n34)Footnote 22. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113 (operative July 26, 1992); see also [1], above, and ch. 41, pt. E.

(n35)Footnote 23. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992; 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5 applies to ADA); see also discussion in [1], above.

(n36)Footnote 24. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e) (period for filing Title VII EEOC charge), (f)(1) (period for filing Title VII civil action).

(n37)Footnote 25. See 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (operative July 26, 1992); see also 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (court may order equitable relief for violation of Title VII).

(n38)Footnote 26. See, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(e) (bona fide occupational qualification), (f) (communist party affiliation).

(n39)Footnote 27. See Texas Dep't of Community Affairs v. Burdine (1981) 450 U.S. 248, 254, 101 S. Ct. 1089, 67 L. Ed. 2d 207 .

(n40)Footnote 27.1. O'Loughlin v. County of Orange (9th Cir. 2000) 229 F.3d 871, 876-877 .

(n41)Footnote 28. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(a) (operative July 26, 1992); See also ch. 41, pt. E. For full discussion of reasonable accommodation, see ch. 41, pt. D.

(n42)Footnote 28.1. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(c).

(n43)Footnote 29. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(b) (operative July 26, 1992); See also ch. 41, pt. E.

(n44)Footnote 30. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(d)(1) (operative July 26, 1992); See also ch. 41, pt. E.

(n45)Footnote 31. See 42 U.S.C. § 12113(d)(1) (operative July 26, 1992); See also ch. 41, pt. E.

(n46)Footnote 32. See 56 Fed. Reg. 22726 (1991) (Public Health Service Notice enumerating diseases transmitted through food supply); See also ch. 41, pt. F.

(n47)Footnote 33. 42 U.S.C. § 12113(e)(2)(operative July 26, 1992); See also ch. 41, pt. E. For full discussion of reasonable accommodation, see ch. 41, pt. D.

(n48)Footnote 34. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 12102, 12111(8). For further discussion see §§ 41.32[2][a], 41.42[2][m.1], 41.51[2][a].

8 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.11

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.11 Age Discrimination in Employment Act

[1] Right of Action

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA)ⁿ¹ prohibits employment discrimination based on age against persons who are at least 40 years old.ⁿ² The wording of the substantive prohibitions in the ADEA is very similar to the wording of Title VII.ⁿ³ Like Title VII, the ADEA also prohibits retaliation for opposing ADEA violations, filing charges, or otherwise participating in enforcement of the ADEA.ⁿ⁴ For full discussion of the coverage of the ADEA, see Chapter 40, Part C. For discussion of the substantive provisions of the ADEA, see Chapter 41.

The purpose of the ADEA is to promote employment of older persons based on their ability rather than age, without reliance on age-based stereotypes that tend to restrict employment opportunities of older workers.ⁿ⁵

Any person aggrieved by a violation of the ADEA may bring a civil action for legal and equitable relief, after complying with administrative charge-filing requirements.ⁿ⁶ However, the individual's right of action terminates if the EEOC commences a civil action.^{n6.1}

[2] Burden of Proof

[a] Individual Actions

Both "disparate treatment" and "disparate impact" theories of liability are available to plaintiffs seeking to prove violations of the ADEA.ⁿ⁷ Briefly, unlawful disparate treatment occurs under the ADEA when an individual is treated differently because of his or her age; unlawful disparate impact occurs when a facially neutral employment policy or practice falls more harshly on a group protected by the ADEA than on another.ⁿ⁸ For detailed discussions of these theories, see § 43.10[2] and Chapter 41, Part A.

In Coleman v. Quaker Oats Co.,^{n8.1} the Ninth Circuit held that plaintiffs, whose complaint clearly stated disparate treatment claims under the ADEA but failed to plead disparate impact claims, could not proceed with a disparate impact theory after the close of discovery at the summary judgment stage. According to the court, the late claim would have prejudiced Quaker for lack of time to prepare an adequate defense. The court held that the plaintiffs were required either to plead the disparate impact theory in their complaints or make known their intention to pursue recovery on that theory during discovery, even though it was not pleaded in their complaints. Accordingly, the trial court did not err in dismissing the disparate impact claims.^{n8.2} The Court found that a disparate impact theory does not require proof of intent, focuses on statistical analyses and requires the defendant to develop entirely different defenses from those to a disparate treatment claim, including the job-relatedness of the challenged business practice or its business necessity. After focusing on disparate treatment in their complaints and during discovery, the employees could not turn around and surprise the employer at summary judgment on a theory that an allegation of disparate treatment in the complaints sufficiently encompassed a disparate impact theory as well.^{n8.3}

Under either the disparate treatment theory or the disparate impact theory, the ultimate burden remains with the plaintiff to prove age discrimination.^{n8.4} The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has adopted the "determining factor," or "but for" test, under which the plaintiff has the burden of proving that age was one, but not the sole, reason for an adverse employment action,ⁿ⁹ and that age "made a difference" in determining whether to take the action.^{n9.1} If another factor was determinative, the "reasonable factor other than age" defense discussed below may apply.ⁿ¹⁰

In disparate treatment cases under the ADEA, as under Title VII, a plaintiff must prove that discriminatory treatment was intentional.ⁿ¹¹ The elements of proof of the prima facie case established in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green,ⁿ¹² discussed previously in connection with Title VII,ⁿ¹³ apply to ADEA cases as well.ⁿ¹⁴ Once the plaintiff has made a prima facie case of disparate treatment on account of age, the defendant has the burden of going forward with evidence that a reasonable factor other than age motivated the action.ⁿ¹⁵ The United States Supreme Court has held that there is no disparate treatment under the ADEA when the factor motivating the employer is some feature other than the employee's age, for example, the prevention of the vesting of the employee's pension benefits based on years of service.^{n15.1} Alternatively, the employer may defend its actions based on certain statutory defenses.ⁿ¹⁶ These defenses include (1) that age is a bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ) for the position,ⁿ¹⁷ (2) the employment decision was based on a bona fide seniority or employee benefit plan, provided that such plan is not offered to defend a failure to hire or an involuntary retirement based on age;ⁿ¹⁸ or (3) that the discharge or discipline of the employee was for "good cause."ⁿ¹⁹ For full discussion of defenses under the ADEA, see Chapter 41, Part E.

Once a defendant has adduced evidence that its action was based on a reasonable factor other than age, the plaintiff must prove that the proffered reason was a pretext for discrimination.ⁿ²⁰ If the defendant offers evidence that age is a BFOQ reasonably necessary to the operation of its business, the plaintiff must show that age is not a BFOQ, with evidence aimed at establishing that the age qualification is not necessary to the operation of the business, but is merely "reasonable" or "convenient" for the employer.ⁿ²¹

Under the disparate impact theory, the plaintiff must show that a neutral rule disproportionately affects persons in the protected age group, including the plaintiff.ⁿ²² Such a showing is frequently made by statistical evidence.ⁿ²³

[b] Class Actions

Class actions under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 23, are not available under the ADEA because the ADEA incorporates the Fair Labor Standards Act requirement that individuals opt in and obtain the written consent of the court.ⁿ²⁴ In the Ninth Circuit, similarly-situated plaintiffs may opt in an ADEA case challenging a pattern or practice of discrimination if the named plaintiff timely complied with the ADEA's notice requirements.ⁿ²⁵ In such an opt-in class action, the plaintiffs must establish a causal connection between age and the alleged discriminatory action,ⁿ²⁶ and this link may be established through statistics.ⁿ²⁷

For a discussion of the allocation of proof in class-wide or "pattern or practice" cases generally, see Chapter 41, Part A.

[3] Jurisdiction

State and federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction of ADEA cases.ⁿ²⁸ The ADEA itself states that the aggrieved person may bring an action "in any court of competent jurisdiction."ⁿ²⁹ However, an action under the ADEA initiated in state court is subject to removal to federal court.ⁿ³⁰

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies as Prerequisite to Civil Action Under ADEA

No civil action under the ADEA may be commenced by an individual until 60 days after a charge has been filed with the EEOC.ⁿ³¹ Charges of age discrimination under the ADEA must be filed with the EEOC within 180 days of the violation, except in states, such as California, which have a state agency to enforce a state law prohibiting age discrimination.ⁿ³² If such a state agency exists, the aggrieved person must first commence proceedings with the state agency,ⁿ³³ and then file charges with the EEOC within 300 days of the violation or within 30 days after the aggrieved individual receives notice of termination of state proceedings, whichever occurs earlier.ⁿ³⁴

When the EEOC dismisses a charge or the Commission's proceedings are otherwise terminated, the Commission will issue a Notice of Dismissal or Termination on the charge.^{n34.1} An aggrieved person whose claims are the subject of a timely pending charge may file a civil action at any time after 60 days have elapsed from the filing of the charge with the Commission without waiting for a Notice of Dismissal or Termination to be issued.^{n34.2} The right of an aggrieved person to file suit expires 90 days after receipt of the Notice of Dismissal or Termination or on commencement of an action by the Commission to enforce the right of the person.^{n34.3} In California and other states with age discrimination laws that are enforced by a state agency, the aggrieved party may not commence a civil action under the ADEA before the expiration of 60 days after the state proceedings are commenced.ⁿ³⁵ The aggrieved party is not required to comply with the state-law time limits for commencing the state proceeding in order to proceed with an action under the ADEA; he or she must only file a written, signed complaint with the state agency and then wait the prescribed 60 days.ⁿ³⁶ However, the charge to the state agency must be filed within the 300-day limit to preserve the federal right of action.ⁿ³⁷ For full discussion of administrative proceedings under the ADEA, see Chapter 42, Part C.

Unlike Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the ADEA has no express requirement that a federal employee complainant seek administrative relief.^{n37.1} However, a federal employee who wishes to file suit without pursuing administrative remedies must give the EEOC notice of intent to sue at least 30 days before filing suit.^{n37.2} However, the 30-day waiting period is not jurisdictional, so that filing the civil action before the expiration of the 30 days does not deprive the court of jurisdiction.^{n37.2.1} Federal law does allow an employee the option of pursuing administrative remedies, either through the agency's EEO procedures,^{n37.3} or through the Merit Systems Protection Board.^{n37.4} The federal statute regarding the filing of "mixed cases," 5 U.S.C. § 7702, does not implicitly bar suit under the ADEA when a plaintiff has filed a Merit Systems appeal but failed either to pursue it to an adjudication on the merits or to allow 120 days to elapse without administrative action before filing suit.^{n37.5} In the Ninth Circuit, the ADEA provisions for federal employees,^{n37.6} do not require a federal employee who is under no obligation to exhaust remedies in the first place, but who elects to file an administrative complaint, to pursue that remedy to resolution on the merits before filing suit.^{n37.7}

The right of the EEOC to file a civil action under the ADEA does not depend on the filing of a charge and is not affected by the issuance of a Notice of Dismissal or Termination to any aggrieved person.^{n37.8}

[5] Parties

[a] Standing of Plaintiffs

[i] In General

Any person who is at least 40 years old who is aggrieved by discrimination on account of age in employment has standing to sue under the ADEA.ⁿ³⁸ If an aggrieved person fails to raise any issue in an EEOC charge, he or she has no standing to sue on those issues.ⁿ³⁹ ADEA actions survive the death of the plaintiff.ⁿ⁴⁰

[ii] Class Actions

In class actions under the ADEA, putative class members are not parties to the action unless they give written consent to the suit on their behalf.ⁿ⁴¹ Plaintiffs may notify putative class members of a suit, and the trial court has discretion to facilitate such notice.ⁿ⁴²ⁿ⁴³

In class actions under the ADEA, at least one named plaintiff must have complied with the requirements of exhaustion of administrative remedies and must notify the EEOC of that party's intent to sue on behalf of others.ⁿ⁴⁴ Failure of one named plaintiff to meet these administrative requirements will cause the entire class' suit to be dismissed.ⁿ⁴⁵

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Across the country, litigants in ADEA cases are facing a procedural crisis for which there is no universally satisfactory answer. Simply stated, the question is whether an ADEA trial should involve testimony from some, but not all, opt-in plaintiffs who speak for the whole or whether the defendant may insist that every class member present his or her individual case. The "testimony by all" option is of little consequence if the class is fewer than 10 or 20 persons. The "testimony by all" option, however, creates significant logistical hurdles if the class is much larger, for example, 500 persons. How could a defendant make out a credible case for "testimony by all?" The answer lies in the peculiar remedial structure of the ADEA.

Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which governs Title VII class actions, does not apply to ADEA actions. Instead, the ADEA invokes Section 216(b) of the Fair Labor Standards Act,ⁿ⁴⁶ which permits "representative" actions by individuals who are "similarly situated" and who affirmatively opt-in to the action. All those who take this step become parties to the proceeding. Thus, in an ADEA action, there are no absent class members. Every potential beneficiary of the suit is known.

These seemingly simple differences between a Title VII class action and an ADEA class action are profound. That is, a federal judge who is assigned a 200-person Title VII case and a separate 200-person ADEA case will not necessarily be able to structure the trials in each matter similarly for two reasons.

First, Rule 23 requires that the harms suffered by the named class representatives and the absent members of the class be the same. Thus, Rule 23 contains a due process feature intended to insure that, if a few individuals speak for the whole, the employer is not disadvantaged, because the present and absent class members are asserting the same claims. Under Section 216(b), however, the claims of the class members are only "similar." They are not necessarily the same. Thus, there is no comparable due process assurance that the few who may be allowed to speak for the whole are actually doing so.

Second, absent class members in a Rule 23 action are not parties. In a Section 216(b) class action, all opt-ins are parties. In discrimination actions, liability is usually determined by a testimonial "face-off" between party plaintiffs and defendants. If the plaintiff does not testify, there is no case at all (excepting rare cases brought by estates of deceased plaintiffs). To deprive an employer of its traditional right to cross-examine its plaintiff "accusers" is a grave matter.

In short, one party or the other in an ADEA class action (generally the defendant) can present a strong case for "testimony by all" and seriously challenge a trial structure in which "the few speak for the many." How best to resolve this dispute likely will lie in the character of the underlying claim. The more

"same" the allegations of the opt-ins, the fewer the due process problems. The bottom line is that Rule 23 and Section 216(b) set very different guidelines for representative actions and that courts will be forced to analyze differently the trial structures they develop under each provision. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

[b] Defendants

[i] Employers Covered Under ADEA

The ADEA covers all governmental employers, including the federal government,ⁿ⁴⁷ and all persons (including individuals, partnerships, associations, corporations, and other entities) engaged in industries affecting commerce, who have at least 20 or more employees for 20 or more calendar weeks during the year of or preceding the action.ⁿ⁴⁸ The term "employer" also includes any agent of such a person.ⁿ⁴⁹ For full discussion of employers and employees covered by the ADEA, see Chapter 40, Part C.

[ii] Parties Named in Charge

The ADEA, as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, appears to preclude the filing of a civil action against a defendant who was not named in the EEOC administrative charge.ⁿ⁵⁰ Previously, the ADEA had contained no express requirement that the defendant be named in the EEOC charge, and courts had permitted suits against unnamed parties, provided that they had adequate notice of the pendency of the EEOC charge and its contents.ⁿ⁵¹ However, the requirement that a plaintiff name a defendant in a charge filed under the ADEA is not jurisdictional. Rather, the requirement is a condition precedent to filing an action that a defendant may waive or be estopped from asserting.^{n51.1}

Employees (e.g., supervisors) may not be sued in their individual capacity under the ADEA.ⁿ⁵²

[iii] Successor Employers

In some cases, employers who have succeeded to the operations or ownership of a predecessor business have been held liable for ADEA violations of the predecessor employer or for violation of injunctions against or settlements entered into by the predecessor in ADEA litigation. For example, in Baker v. Delta Air Lines, Inc.,ⁿ⁵³ Delta Air Lines, which acquired and took over the operations of Western Air Lines, was held liable for violating an injunction prohibiting Western from preventing pilots age 60 and over from "downbidding" to the position of second officer or flight engineer.ⁿ⁵⁴ The court stated that the three principal factors justifying successor liability had been met: (1) continuity in operations and work force of the successor and predecessor employers; (2) notice to the successor employer of its predecessor's legal obligation; and (3) ability of the predecessor to provide adequate relief directly.ⁿ⁵⁵ The court held that the date that a successorship claim is to be evaluated for those factors is the day on which the cause of action accrues, and not the date that the action is filed.ⁿ⁵⁶

[6] Statutes of Limitation

[a] Time Period for Filing Civil Action

[i] In General

As discussed in [4], above, an aggrieved person under the ADEA must file a written charge with the EEOC within 180 days after the date the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred,ⁿ⁵⁷ unless there is a parallel state fair employment law and an agency empowered to enforce it.ⁿ⁵⁸ If such a state law and enforcement agency exists, the aggrieved person must file a charge with the EEOC within 300 days after the date of the alleged unlawful employment practice, or within 30 days after notice that the state agency has terminated its proceedings, whichever occurs first.ⁿ⁵⁹ The aggrieved individual must also file a claim with the appropriate state agency before commencing suit under the

ADEA, but any shorter state time limits for filing state charges do not govern timeliness of ADEA charges.ⁿ⁶⁰ A charge to the state agency should, however, be filed within the 300-day limit to preserve the federal right of action.ⁿ⁶¹ The ADEA civil action may not be commenced until 60 days after the EEOC charge has been filedⁿ⁶² and 60 days after the state agency charge is filed, unless the state proceedings terminate sooner.ⁿ⁶³

If the EEOC dismisses the charge or otherwise terminates its proceedings on the charge, the EEOC must notify the aggrieved person. An ADEA civil action may be brought against the respondent named in the charge within 90 days after the date that the aggrieved person receives this notice.ⁿ⁶⁴

A federal employee who believes he has been discriminated against because of age has two options.^{n64.1} The employee may file an administrative action directly with the EEOC, and after exhausting the administrative remedies by waiting 180 days after filing an administrative action with the EEOC, or upon receiving a final agency determination, file a civil action in district court.^{n64.2} Alternatively, a federal employee may bypass administrative proceedings and file directly in district court.^{n64.3} In that case, the employee must file a notice of intent to file a civil action with the EEOC within 180 days from the alleged discriminatory conduct, and then wait 30 days before filing the civil action.^{n64.4} Federal employees are not required to file the civil action within 180 days from the alleged discriminatory conduct.^{n64.5}

[ii] Accrual of Cause of Action

A cause of action under the ADEA does not accrue until the aggrieved person's employment opportunities are adversely affected by the employer's policy or practice.ⁿ⁶⁵ For example, in one case, the court held that the employer's age-discriminatory seniority system could not be challenged until it affected the employees who complained.ⁿ⁶⁶ In the age discrimination context, a cause of action accrues when the adverse employment decision is made and communicated to the employee.ⁿ⁶⁷ Thus, one court held that the cause of action for age discrimination accrued when the employee's supervisor informed the employee of his termination and not on the actual date of termination.ⁿ⁶⁸

[iii] Continuing Violations

The doctrine of "continuing" violations developed under Title VIIⁿ⁶⁹ applies to ADEA cases. Under this doctrine, an action is timely if it is filed within the specified time period after the most recent of an ongoing series of discriminatory or retaliatory acts.ⁿ⁷⁰ The continuing violation doctrine cannot be used to circumvent the limitation period by labelling a completed act, such as a termination, a job transfer, or discontinuance of a particular job assignment, a continuing violation.ⁿ⁷¹ The violation itself must be ongoing for the doctrine to apply, and continuing effects of past discrimination do not trigger the application of the continuing violation doctrine.ⁿ⁷² For further discussion of continuing violations, see Chapter 42, Part A.

[iv] Willful Violations

Prior to the Civil Rights Act of 1991,ⁿ⁷³ the ADEA incorporated the limitations provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act, which includes a three-year statute of limitations for "willful violations."ⁿ⁷⁴ In one case, for example, the court found that because the plaintiff sufficiently alleged a willful violation by alleging that she was verbally harassed in an intentional effort to torment her and that the ADEA violations continued after she filed EEOC charges, the three-year limitations period for willful violations came into play.ⁿ⁷⁵ However, this longer limitations period now appears to be applicable only to actions that were filed before the effective date of the Civil Rights Act of 1991.

[b] Tolling Principles for ADEA Limitations Periods

Limitation periods under the ADEA, like those under Title VII,ⁿ⁷⁶ⁿ⁷⁷⁻⁸⁰ are in the nature of statutes of limitation rather than jurisdictional requirements and are, therefore, subject to waiver, estoppel, and tolling under proper circumstances.ⁿ⁸¹

Equitable tolling under the ADEA may apply, for example, if the employer held out hope of reemployment.ⁿ⁸² However, in one case, the Eighth Circuit held that attempts to provide a new job do not, without more, establish conditions for equitable tolling, and that the plaintiff must show either a deliberate design by the employer or actions by the employer that would unmistakably induce the employee to delay filing the charge.ⁿ⁸³

Equitable tolling also may apply if the plaintiff had no actual knowledge of his or her rights under the ADEA because the employer failed to provide proper notice, such as the posting of legally required notices advising employees of their ADEA rights.ⁿ⁸⁴ However, the cases are split on this issue, with some applying the strict construction that compliance with posting requirements is sufficient to avoid tolling,ⁿ⁸⁵ and others applying an equitable analysis.ⁿ⁸⁶ For discussion of posting and recordkeeping requirements under the ADEA and other equal employment opportunity laws, see Chapter 41, Part G.

Equitable tolling under the ADEA is not available if the party consults an attorney during the statutory filing period, because the attorney's constructive knowledge of the time limits for filing is imputed to the party.ⁿ⁸⁷

[c] Effect of Deficiencies in EEOC/DFEH Proceedings

Deficiencies in the handling of an ADEA charge by the state agency do not preclude federal action on the charge.ⁿ⁸⁸ Likewise, federal agency errors that are not the fault of a party should not preclude that party from proceeding under the ADEA.ⁿ⁸⁹

[7] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel

Normal rules of claim preclusion and issue preclusion apply under the ADEA.ⁿ⁹⁰ If a state court action did not provide a full and fair hearing of the issues in a subsequent federal ADEA action, and if the issues in the state and federal actions are not the same, neither res judicata nor collateral estoppel bars the federal action.ⁿ⁹¹ However, if a party brings a subsequent suit in federal court under the ADEA on the same employment decisions that gave rise to a prior suit in state court, and the parties in both suits were the same, res judicata bars the subsequent suit.ⁿ⁹² Judicially unreviewed findings of a state administrative agency do not preclude subsequent ADEA proceedings.^{n92.1}

[8] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

The remedial power of courts under the ADEA is broad. In a private action brought by the aggrieved party, the ADEA permits the court to grant "such legal or equitable relief as may be appropriate to effectuate the purposes" of the ADEA.ⁿ⁹³ Thus, courts may order back pay in an ADEA case,ⁿ⁹⁴ even when not demanded by the plaintiff, when necessary to make the plaintiff whole.ⁿ⁹⁵

In an ADEA case, back pay is the difference between the value of the compensation to which plaintiff would have been entitled but for discrimination through the date of trial and the total value of plaintiff's benefits and earnings for all other employment from the date when actionable discrimination began through the trial date.ⁿ⁹⁶ This formula applies to cases of termination as well as refusals to hire because of age.ⁿ⁹⁷

Back pay includes accrued unpaid pension benefits and excludes amounts actually paid for pensions and severance and amounts earnable by reasonable diligence by the employee.ⁿ⁹⁸ The plaintiff in an ADEA case has a duty to mitigate his or her economic losses.ⁿ⁹⁹ The question of the employee's compliance with the duty to mitigate losses is a factual one, which may be presented to the jury.ⁿ¹⁰⁰

There is conflict among the federal courts as to whether unemployment compensation should be deducted from the back pay award in an ADEA case. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held that unemployment benefits should be deducted.ⁿ¹⁰¹ Several other circuits have ruled to the contrary.ⁿ¹⁰² The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the amount received in settlement of a claim for back pay and liquidated damages for a violation of the ADEA is taxable income.^{n102.1}

[b] Front Pay

Front pay, or compensation for lost future earnings, may be awarded in the court's discretion in an ADEA case where reinstatement of the employee is an inappropriate remedy.ⁿ¹⁰³ An ADEA plaintiff has a duty to mitigate damages to be entitled to front pay; however, a plaintiff is not required to accept work that is substantially dissimilar to that of the former position, or work that pays a substantially lower salary.^{n103.1} For full discussion of front pay in the context of Title VII cases, see § 43.10[9][b].

[c] Injunctive Relief

[i] Generally

The ADEA empowers courts to fashion appropriate injunctive relief including judgments compelling employment, reinstatement, or promotion.ⁿ¹⁰⁴ Courts hearing ADEA cases thus have the equitable discretion to award whatever injunctive relief will restore victims of ADEA violations to the economic position that they would have held but for those violations.ⁿ¹⁰⁵

The scope of injunctive relief is governed by the scope of the ADEA violation. For example, it was held that a nationwide injunction was inappropriate when no discriminatory company policy or practice reaching outside the immediate jurisdiction was established.ⁿ¹⁰⁶ Similarly, in a case involving discriminatory advertising, the court held that the injunction should be tailored to include all of the advertised jobs.ⁿ¹⁰⁷

[ii] Mandatory Hiring, Reinstatement, or Promotion

As noted in [i], above, the ADEA expressly empowers the courts to order hiring, reinstatement, and promotion of persons whose rights are violated.ⁿ¹⁰⁸ Courts may refuse to order equitable relief under the ADEA only for reasons which, if applied generally, would not frustrate the purposes of the Act.ⁿ¹⁰⁹ For example, if a court does not compel employment after finding an ADEA violation, it must carefully articulate its reason for not doing so.ⁿ¹¹⁰ Reinstatement as a remedy is favored over front pay under the ADEA.ⁿ¹¹¹ If the employer proves that the employer-employee relationship is poisoned by hostility, then reinstatement may be impracticable and other remedies, such as front pay,ⁿ¹¹² may be awarded in lieu of reinstatement.ⁿ¹¹³

[iii] Affirmative Action Remedies Including Goals, Quotas, and Timetables

The ADEA contains no provision for affirmative action remedies.ⁿ¹¹⁴

[iv] Retroactive Seniority

The ADEA has been interpreted to permit awards of retroactive seniority in proper cases.ⁿ¹¹⁵ However, such awards should not cause "bumping" or displacement of incumbent employees.ⁿ¹¹⁶

[d] Liquidated Damages

The ADEA provides for awards of liquidated damages in cases of "willful" violations.ⁿ¹¹⁷ In Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston,ⁿ¹¹⁸ the United States Supreme Court held that a violation of the ADEA is willful, for purposes of the liquidated damages provision, if the employer either knew or showed reckless disregard for the matter of whether its conduct was prohibited by the ADEA. The Court in Thurston stated that knowledge of the existence of the ADEA does not establish a willful violation for purposes of assessing liquidated damages.¹¹⁹

The Court has subsequently clarified a conflict among the federal circuit courts of appeal, a number of which had declined to apply the Thurston willfulness standard to informal disparate treatment cases, in which age had entered into the employment decision on an ad hoc, informal basis rather than through a formal policy. The Court reasoned that it is more logical to hold that an employer's informal policy, which manifests the employer's reluctance to acknowledge its reliance on an illegal factor, should be punished, and that this factor should not cut against imposing a penalty when in fact the employer is more likely under these facts to know that its conduct is illegal.¹²⁰ The Court also disagreed with the assumption that an employer who knowingly relies on age in reaching an employment decision invariably commits a knowing or reckless violation of the ADEA. The Court explained that an employer might incorrectly but in good faith and nonrecklessly believe that it is permitted to make a particular age-based decision, in which case liquidated damages should not be imposed.¹²¹ The Court thus reaffirmed that the Thurston standard applies to all disparate treatment cases under the ADEA, including those in which there was no formal policy behind the employer's action, and that once a "willful" violation is shown, the employee need not additionally show that the employer's conduct was outrageous, provide direct evidence of the employer's motivation, or prove that age was the predominant rather than a determinative factor in the employment decision.¹²²¹²³

Liquidated damages double the amount of unpaid wages and benefits owing to the plaintiff as a result of the defendant's violation of the ADEA.¹²⁶

Damages for independent causes of action (such as state law claims) neither duplicate nor preclude the remedy of liquidated damages under the ADEA.¹²⁷ The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the amount received in settlement of a claim for back pay and liquidated damages for a violation of the ADEA is taxable income.^{127.1}

[e] Compensatory and Punitive Damages Generally Not Available

Most courts have stated that the ADEA is limited to the damages specifically enumerated in the ADEA and that compensatory and punitive damages are therefore not available under the ADEA.¹²⁸ Courts have generally based these holdings on the fact that the remedial provisions of the ADEA are enforced in accordance with the FLSA,¹²⁹ which makes no provision for compensatory and punitive damages, and on the existence of a liquidated damages provision in cases of willful violations¹³⁰ which evidences an intent to preclude additional recovery of punitive damages.¹³¹

[f] Prejudgment Interest

Prejudgment interest is available on ADEA awards of back pay, lost income, and/or lost pension benefits.¹³² However, the courts are divided as to whether prejudgment interest may be awarded in a case if liquidated damages are also awarded. Some courts hold that prejudgment interest and liquidated damages should not both be awarded because to do so would provide a double recovery since liquidated damages compensate plaintiffs for any delays.¹³³ Other courts have held that liquidated damages and prejudgment interest may both be awarded because they serve different purposes in making plaintiffs whole, with the function of the former designed to punish defendants for intentional violations of the ADEA, and the latter designed to compensate the plaintiff for loss of use of the money during the period that payment is withheld.¹³⁴

[g] Attorney's Fees

Prevailing plaintiffs are entitled to attorney's fee awards under the ADEA.¹³⁵ The remedial provisions of the ADEA state that the ADEA is to be enforced in accordance with the remedial provisions of the FLSA,¹³⁶ which entitle prevailing plaintiffs to attorney's fees.¹³⁷ Attorney's fees may be awarded to prevailing defendants only if the losing plaintiff has acted in bad faith in bringing the action.¹³⁸

Awards of attorney's fees to prevailing plaintiffs under the ADEA should neither be unreasonably enhanced,ⁿ¹³⁹ nor necessarily diminished by failure of plaintiff to succeed on all issues or claims.ⁿ¹⁴⁰

Under the ADEA, attorney's fees are available to prevailing plaintiffs, not to plaintiff's counsel.^{n140.1}

[8A] Admissible Evidence

In Sprint/United Management Co. v. Mendelsohn, ^{n140.2} an action brought under the ADEA, plaintiff sought to introduce, and the district court excluded, testimony by nonparties alleging discrimination at the hands of supervisors (of the defendant company) who played no role in the adverse employment decision challenged by the plaintiff. The district court's order excluded evidence of discrimination against employees not similarly situated to plaintiff, clarifying that plaintiff could offer only evidence of discrimination against employees who were similarly situated to her. The Court defined similarly situated employees, for these purposes, as requiring proof that the same management person was the decision-maker in any adverse employment action and that there was temporal proximity. The Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals, concluding that the district court improperly applied a per se rule to exclude the evidence by relying on Aramburu v. Boeing Co. ^{n140.3} to define "similarly situated employee," engaged in its own analysis of the relevant factors under Fed. Rules of Evid. 401 and 403, and remanded with instructions to admit the challenged testimony. The United States Supreme Court concluded that the evidence was neither per se admissible nor per se inadmissible and remanded to the district court with instructions to clarify the basis for its evidentiary ruling under the applicable Rules of Evidence.

The Supreme Court noted first that the Court of Appeals erred in concluding that the district court applied a per se rule, given the circumstances of the case and the unclear basis of the district court's decision.^{n140.4} Had the district court applied a per se rule excluding the evidence, however, the Court of Appeals would have been correct to conclude that it had abused its discretion. Relevance and prejudice under Rules 401 and 403 are determined in the context of the facts and arguments in a particular case, and thus are generally not amenable to broad per se rules.^{n140.5} Whether evidence of discrimination by other supervisors is relevant in an individual ADEA case is fact-based and depends on many factors, including how closely related the evidence is to the plaintiff's circumstances and theory of the case. Applying Rule 403 to determine if evidence is prejudicial also requires a fact-intensive, context-specific inquiry. Rules 401 and 403 do not make such evidence per se admissible or per se inadmissible.^{n140.6}

[9] FORM--Complaint for Violation of ADEA--General Form

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

The form set forth in [b], below, is a general complaint by an individual aggrieved person for monetary and injunctive relief under the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁴¹ A complaint under the ADEA may be filed in either federal or state court.ⁿ¹⁴²

The complaint must conform to the format rules of the federal or state jurisdiction in which it is filed. If the case is brought in federal court, the plaintiff must comply with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and with local federal rules of court. For discussion of some federal procedural requirements for bringing a federal civil complaint, see § 43.10[10][a][ii]. The form in [b], below, is set forth as a complaint to be filed in the federal court, but it may be modified for use in state court.

In addition to the allegations set forth in the complaint in [b], below,ⁿ¹⁴³ illustrative forms of allegations of other specific ADEA violations can be found in the forms set forth in § 43.01 [10], and can be modified for use with this complaint as appropriate.ⁿ¹⁴⁴

[ii] Allegations

The form set forth in [b], below, contains the following allegations: (1) a preliminary statement of the substance of the complaint (preferred by some United States district courts (Optional Paragraph 1); (2) the identities of the parties plaintiff (Paragraphs 2-4)n145 and defendant (Paragraph 5);n146 (3) the basis for jurisdiction of the action (Paragraph 6);n147 (4) a specific claim under the ADEA for age discrimination (Paragraphs 7-9), including alternative paragraphs setting forth claims under disparate treatment and disparate impact theories (Paragraphs 8 and 9, respectively);n148 (5) a statement that plaintiff was qualified for the position for which he or she applied (Paragraph 10); (6) a recital of plaintiff's entitlement to monetary relief, including lost wages and other earnings and benefits, as a consequence of defendant's discriminatory actions (Paragraph 11);n149 (7) an allegation that defendant's discriminatory action was willful and that plaintiff should be awarded liquidated damages (Optional Paragraph 12);n150 (8) a recital of the need for injunctive relief, such as an order compelling defendant to hire plaintiff (Optional Paragraph 13);n151 and (9) a statement that plaintiff has exhausted his or her administrative remedies under the ADEA (Paragraph 14).n152 The complaint also sets forth a prayer requesting relief, including monetary and injunctive relief,n153 prejudgment interest,n154 and costs and attorney's fees.n155n156

[b] Form UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

_____ [specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

[or other, as appropriate]

_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)
vs.	)	Civil Case No. _____
_____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT
	)	FOR MONETARY AND
	)	INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR
	)	EMPLOYMENT
	)	DISCRIMINATION
	)	(Age Discrimination in Employment Act)
	)	(29 U.S.C. §§ 621-634)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. This is an action brought pursuant to the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), Title 29 United States Code, sections 621-634, for alleged discrimination in employment against plaintiff _____ (name) by defendant(s) in that plaintiff alleges that defendant _____ (specify discriminatory act of defendant, e.g., refused to hire plaintiff) because of plaintiff's age. By this action, plaintiff seeks the following relief pursuant to Title 29 United States Code, section 626(b) and (c): _____ (specify, e.g., monetary relief, including back pay, front pay, liquidated damages, prejudgment interest, attorney's fees and costs of suit, and injunctive relief, consisting of an order requiring defendant to hire plaintiff) for said discriminatory treatment of plaintiff in violation of the ADEA.]

2. Plaintiff _____ [name] is an adult person and is a resident of the County of _____, State of California.

3. Plaintiff is an individual protected by the application of the ADEA, Title 29 United States Code, sections 623 and 631(a), in that plaintiff is a person who at all times herein relevant was at least 40 years of age.

[EITHER]

4. Plaintiff is an employee of defendant _____ [name] and has been employed by defendant _____ [name] at _____ [place of employment] since _____ [date].

[OR]

4. Plaintiff applied for employment with defendant _____ [name] at _____ [place] on _____ [date].

[OR]

4. Plaintiff was employed by defendant _____ [name] at _____ [place of employment] from _____ [date] until _____ [date].

[CONTINUE]

5. Defendant _____ [name] is an employer as defined by the ADEA, Title 29 United States Code, section 630(b), in that defendant is engaged in an industry affecting commerce and has had 20 or more employees for each working day in each of 20 or more calendar weeks in the current or preceding calendar year.

6. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court, under the ADEA, Title 29 United States Code, section 626(c)(1), which gives jurisdiction of any action under the ADEA to any court of competent jurisdiction.

[Paragraphs 7-9 set forth specific allegations of discrimination based on unlawful failure to hire plaintiff because of his or her age. Other allegations of discrimination based on different grounds may be substituted here. see Forms set forth in §§ 43.01[9] and [10] and 43.10 [10], which can be adapted for use here.]

7. On _____ [date], defendant discriminated against plaintiff because of plaintiff's age, in that _____ [specify discriminatory acts of defendant, e.g., defendant refused to hire plaintiff] [, and defendant continues to discriminate against plaintiff in that _____ (specify continuing discriminatory practice or policy)].

8. Defendant's _____ [specify discriminatory act of defendant, e.g., failure to hire plaintiff because of plaintiff's age] constituted disparate treatment of plaintiff in violation of the ADEA in that defendant's action was done with intent to discriminate against plaintiff because of plaintiff's age.

9. In the alternative, defendant's discriminatory act of _____ [specify, e.g., failing to hire plaintiff] because of plaintiff's age was based on a policy or practice of defendant having a disparate impact on plaintiff and other persons ages 40 and above, in that it disadvantaged persons in this age group, including plaintiff, as compared to persons not in this age group, in the following manner: _____ [specify how particular policy or requirement, such as test required of potential employees over a certain age, has effect on persons age 40 and above, setting forth statistical disparity or other details].

10. As of _____ [date], and at all times herein mentioned, plaintiff was in all respects qualified for _____ [specify employment opportunity denied, e.g., the position for which he/she applied] in that _____ [specify facts indicating plaintiff's qualifications for employment opportunity.]

11. Defendant's discriminatory action against plaintiff, which violated the ADEA, has caused and will continue to cause plaintiff lost wages, salary, earnings, and other economic benefits of employment, from _____ [date of discriminatory action] until _____ [specify, e.g., such time as defendant shall hire plaintiff to the position refused plaintiff because of his/her age].

[12. Defendant's discriminatory action against plaintiff, which violated the ADEA, was willful, in that _____ (allege facts to show willful nature of alleged discriminatory treatment of plaintiff), and an award of liquidated damages, in an amount equal to the award of monetary damages due to plaintiff from defendant, is appropriate in this case, pursuant to Title 29 United States Code, sections 216(b) and 626(b).]

[13. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law to secure relief for the deprivation of equal employment opportunity to him/her by defendant. If this court does not enter an order _____ (specify injunctive order sought, e.g., compelling defendant to hire plaintiff to the position plaintiff applied and was qualified for) plaintiff will be irreparably injured in that _____ (specify).]

14. On _____ [date], plaintiff filed a timely charge of discrimination against defendant _____ [name] with the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. A copy of that charge is appended hereto, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by reference as though fully set forth. On _____ [date], plaintiff also filed a charge of discrimination with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing pursuant to the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, Government Code Sections 12900-12996. A copy of that charge is appended hereto, marked "Exhibit _____," and is incorporated by reference as though fully set forth. [On _____ (date), plaintiff received notice that the Department of Fair Employment and Housing had terminated its proceedings on plaintiff's charge.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays relief against defendant as follows:

1. For back pay [, with prejudgment interest,] from the first date on which defendant violated plaintiff's rights under the ADEA, to and including the date of judgment in this case;

[2. For front pay, for the period from the date of judgment to the date at which plaintiff actually is placed by defendant in the position that he or she would be in, but for the discrimination;]

[3. For an amount of liquidated damages, equal to the award of back pay and other lost economic benefits, due to the willfulness of defendant's violation of plaintiff's rights under the ADEA;]

[4. For injunctive relief, including but not limited to _____ (specify injunctive relief desired, e.g., an order compelling defendant to hire plaintiff to the position he/she applied for), and all other injunctive relief required to make plaintiff whole for the losses caused by defendant's violation of plaintiff's rights under the ADEA;]

5. For costs of suit herein incurred;

6. For reasonable attorney's fees pursuant to Title 29, United States Code Sections 216(b) and 626(b); and

7. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Add verification, if desired.]

[10] Reserved

[10A] FORM--Allegation That Defendant's Employee Benefit Plan Is Subterfuge for Intentional Discrimination

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, contains allegations stating that the defendant's employee benefit plan is a subterfuge for intentional age discrimination by the defendant with regard to the nonfringe-benefit aspects of the employment relationship, in violation of the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁵⁷ These allegation may be used to challenge age-based distinctions based on plans that were established (and not thereafter modified or otherwise affected) before October 16, 1990.ⁿ¹⁵⁸ With respect to employee benefit plans established, modified, or otherwise affected after that date, the "bona fide employee benefit plan" exemption is an affirmative defense. That is, the burden is on the employer to prove that its age-based distinctions based on such a plan are lawful.ⁿ¹⁵⁹ For a form of affirmative defense for use in such cases, see [11][d], below.

In an appropriate case, these allegations may be used in place of or in addition to the allegations in Paragraphs 7-9 of the general complaint for violation of the ADEA set forth in [8][b], above.

For full discussion of bona fide employee benefit plans, see Chapter 41, Part F.

[b] Form

1. On _____ [date], and continuing until _____ [_____ (date) or the present time], defendant instituted an employee benefit plan that is a subterfuge for defendant's intentional discrimination in violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, in that it discriminated against the plaintiff(s) [and others] on the basis of his/her/their age in the following manner: _____[specify].

[11] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of ADEA

[a] Affirmative Defenses Under ADEA Generally

The following affirmative defenses to the California FEHA and Title VII are also available under the ADEA. The forms for these defenses, cited below, may be modified for use, as appropriate, as affirmative defenses in answers to ADEA complaints:

1. Failure to exhaust administrative remedies;ⁿ¹⁶⁰
2. Failure to file within limitations period;ⁿ¹⁶¹
3. Failure to state cause of action or claim for relief;ⁿ¹⁶²
4. Laches;ⁿ¹⁶³
5. Bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ);ⁿ¹⁶⁴

6. Job-relatedness;ⁿ¹⁶⁵ and

7. Bona fide seniority system.ⁿ¹⁶⁶

For full discussion of these defenses, see Chapter 41, Part F.

If the defendant is a state, it can assert its sovereign immunity to suit under the Eleventh Amendment to deprive the court of jurisdiction under the ADEA.^{n166.1} However, a state may waive its Eleventh Amendment immunity on a case-by-case basis by raising the defense and subjecting itself to suit under the ADEA.^{n166.2}

It is not unlawful under the ADEA for an employer to discharge or otherwise discipline an employee for "good cause."ⁿ¹⁶⁷ However, this defense is not an affirmative defense that must be specifically pleaded, but rather, is a form of denial of plaintiff's cause of action.ⁿ¹⁶⁸ The ADEA specifies other defenses to a complaint of age discrimination under the ADEA. These are listed in the subsections below, with accompanying forms.

[b] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Differentiation Is Based on Reasonable Factors Other Than Age

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the defendant's action is justified because the differentiation was based on reasonable factors other than age, a statutory defense under the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁶⁹ When appropriate, this affirmative defense can be added to a general answer to an ADEA complaint.

For full discussion of this defense, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that the differentiation in treatment complained of by plaintiff, namely _____ [specify practice alleged in complaint to be discriminatory], is permissible and is not a violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act because it was based on reasonable factors other than age, namely _____ [specify].

[c] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employee is Employed in Workplace in Foreign Country and Compliance With ADEA Would Violate Foreign Laws

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the employee is employed in a workplace in a foreign country, and that compliance with the ADEA would violate that country's laws.ⁿ¹⁷⁰ This is a statutory defense under the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁷¹ When appropriate, this affirmative defense can be added to a general answer to an ADEA complaint.

For a complete discussion of the "foreign laws" defense, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that:

1. Plaintiff is employed by defendant in _____ [specify location of workplace], which is located in _____ [specify foreign country].

2. The practices complained of by plaintiff, namely _____ [specify], are required by the laws of _____ [specify foreign country], specifically _____ [specify foreign law requiring the particular employment practice]. Even assuming that such practices violate the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (which defendant does not admit), if defendant were to treat plaintiff otherwise than as alleged in plaintiff's complaint, defendant would be in violation of the laws of _____ [specify foreign country], specifically _____ [specify foreign laws that would be violated].

[d] FORM--Affirmative Defense That Employer Observed the Terms of a Bona Fide Employee Benefit Plan

[i] Comment

The form set forth in [ii], below, is an affirmative defense stating that the defendant's actions were based on a bona fide employee benefit plan, either because (1) cost considerations required the employer's actions,ⁿ¹⁷² or (2) the plan provided incentives for voluntary early retirement which did not violate the ADEA's purposes.ⁿ¹⁷³ This affirmative defense is applicable only to (1) employee benefit plans established or modified on or after October 16, 1990, and (2) other conduct occurring more than 180 days after that date.ⁿ¹⁷⁴ When appropriate, it may be added to a general answer to an ADEA complaint.

[ii] Form

AS A _____ [Specify, e.g., FIRST] AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE, defendant alleges that _____ [its employee benefit plan is bona fide because the actual amount of _____ (payments made or costs incurred) on behalf of the plaintiff was equal to that _____ (made or incurred) on behalf of employees under 40 years of age or the plaintiff retired pursuant to a voluntary early retirement incentive plan that is consistent with the relevant purposes the ADEA].

[12] EEOC Administrative Records: Confidentiality, Access, and Admissibility

[a] Confidentiality and Access

The ADEA, unlike Title VII,ⁿ¹⁷⁵ does not contain specific provisions providing for the confidentiality of records. However, a regulation promulgated by the EEOC pursuant to the ADEA states that the identity of a complainant, confidential witness, or aggrieved person on whose behalf a charge was filed ordinarily is not disclosed without prior written consent, unless necessary in a court proceeding.ⁿ¹⁷⁶

For full discussion of rules relating to confidentiality of and access to EEOC records, see Chapter 42, Part C.

[b] Admissibility

The nonconfidential records of the EEOC relating to an ADEA chargeⁿ¹⁷⁷ may be admissible at trial. For example, EEOC's form letter in an ADEA case stating that probable cause existed for maintaining suit may be admitted and examined by the jury.ⁿ¹⁷⁸ Generally, the admissibility of EEOC findings of discrimination under the ADEA should parallel the admissibility of EEOC findings of discrimination under Title VII, since EEOC's functions under the two laws are essentially identical.ⁿ¹⁷⁹

[13] Availability of Jury Trial

In an action by an aggrieved party under the ADEA, either party is entitled to a jury trial of any factual issue in the action for recovery of monetary relief, regardless of whether equitable relief is sought by any party in the action.ⁿ¹⁸⁰

[14] Jury Instructions

A mixed-motives jury instruction is never proper in an ADEA case, because the burden of persuasion never shifts to the party defending an alleged mixed-motives discrimination claim brought under the ADEA.ⁿ¹⁸¹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Age Discrimination General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Age Discrimination Coverage & Definitions General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Age Discrimination Enforcement Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Age Discrimination Exhaustion of Remedies Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Age Discrimination Proof Burdens of Proof

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 29 U.S.C. § 621 et seq.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 623, 631(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. Compare 29 U.S.C. § 623 (ADEA) with 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2 (Title VII). See also Monce v. City of San Diego (9th Cir. 1990) 895 F.2d 560, 561 (complementary provisions of Title VII and ADEA are construed consistently).

(n4)Footnote 4. Compare 29 U.S.C. § 623(d) (ADEA) with 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a) (Title VII).

(n5)Footnote 5. See 29 U.S.C. § 621(b); Western Airlines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 409-414, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321; EEOC v. County of Santa Barbara (9th Cir. 1982) 666 F.2d 373, 376.

(n6)Footnote 6. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(c), (d); see also discussion in [4], below.

(n7)Footnote 6.1. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1); E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1505; See also ch. 40, pt. C.

(n8)Footnote 7. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 120-125, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523; Katz v. Regents of the University of California (9th Cir. 2000) 229 F.3d 831, 835 (disparate impact); Frank v. United Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 2000) 216 F.3d 845, 855-856; Douglas v. Anderson (9th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 528, 532-533; Loeb v. Textron, Inc. (1st Cir. 1979) 600 F.2d 1003, 1013-1015; but see Laugesen v. Anaconda Co. (6th Cir. 1975) 510 F.2d 307, 312-313.

(n9)Footnote 8. See Goodman v. Heublein, Inc. (2d Cir. 1981) 645 F.2d 127, 131 n.6; see also Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335-336 & n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 (Title VII).

(n10)Footnote 8.1. Coleman v. Quaker Oats Co. (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1271.

(n11)Footnote 8.2. Coleman v. Quaker Oats Co. (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1271, 1291-1294; see also Josey v. John R. Hollingsworth Corp. (3d Cir. 1993) 996 F.2d 632.

(n12)Footnote 8.3. Coleman v. Quaker Oats Co. (9th Cir. 2000) 232 F.3d 1271, 1292-1293.

(n13)Footnote 8.4. See Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 984 (quoting Smith v. Flax (4th Cir. 1980) 618 F.2d 1062, 1066).

(n14)Footnote 9. Note: In Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. v. White (2006) 126 S. Ct. 2405, 165 L.

Ed. 2d 345, discussed at § 41.130[1A], above, the United States Supreme Court held that the scope of the anti-retaliation provision of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 extends beyond workplace-related or employment-related retaliatory acts and harm, so that an employee need only allege and prove "adverse action" rather than "adverse employment action" under Title VII's anti-retaliation provision. No court has yet held that the ADEA and the anti-retaliation provision of Title VII are to be construed coextensively, so case law requiring "adverse employment action" under the ADEA still appears to be good law.

(n15)Footnote 9.1. See Cancellier v. Federated Department Stores (9th Cir. 1982) 672 F.2d 1312, 1318; Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 984.

(n16)Footnote 10. See Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 984; see also discussion in [11][b], below.

(n17)Footnote 11. See Rose v. Wells Fargo & Co. (9th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 1417, 1421; Lovelace v. Sherwin-Williams Co. (4th Cir. 1982) 681 F.2d 230, 240-241.

(n18)Footnote 12. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668.

(n19)Footnote 13. See discussion in § 43.10[2][b][i].

(n20)Footnote 14. See, e.g., Rose v. Wells Fargo & Co. (9th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 1417, 1421; Oxman v. WLS-TV (7th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 448, 452; Loeb v. Textron, Inc. (1st Cir. 1979) 600 F.2d 1003, 1014-1017.

(n21)Footnote 15. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1); Rose v. Wells Fargo & Co. (9th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 1417, 1421 (burden is on employer to produce some evidence that it had legitimate, nondiscriminatory reasons for action); EEOC v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (3d Cir. 1983) 725 F.2d 211, 222-223; Marshall v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (5th Cir. 1978) 576 F.2d 588, 591-592; See also ch. 41, pt. A.

(n22)Footnote 15.1. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 610-613, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338.

(n23)Footnote 16. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f).

(n24)Footnote 17. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1); Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 412-414, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 (BFOQ exception under ADEA is to be narrowly construed); E.E.O.C. v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 1988) 843 F.2d 1213, 1214, 1217-1220 (same).

(n25)Footnote 18. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2). It is not unlawful to observe the terms of bona fide employee benefit plans that are established, modified, or otherwise affected on or after October 16, 1990 (1) in which age-based distinctions are made because of specified cost justifications, or (2) that are voluntary early retirement incentive plans consistent with the ADEA's purposes. see 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2)(B)(i); see also 29 C.F.R. § 1625.10(a)(1) (EEOC "cost-justification rule"). Bona fide employee benefit plans established before October 16, 1990 (and not thereafter modified or otherwise affected) are lawful as long as they are not subterfuge to evade the purposes of the ADEA. see 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2), prior to amendment by Pub. L. No. 101-433. For a full discussion of the ADEA "bona fide employee benefit plan" exemption, see ch. 41, pt. E.

(n26)Footnote 19. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(3); see, e.g., Douglas v. Anderson (9th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 528, 533.

(n27)Footnote 20. See Perez v. Curcio (9th Cir. 1988) 841 F.2d 255, 258 (as long as some evidence of pretext has been introduced, case should go to jury); Coburn v. Pan American World Airways, Inc. (D.C. Cir. 1983) 711 F.2d 339, 342-343; Douglas v. Anderson (9th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 528, 533-535; Marshall v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (5th Cir. 1978) 576 F.2d 588, 591-592 (employer need not prove that the differentiating factors other than age were applied consistently to all similarly situated employees, because burden of proving pretext is on plaintiff).

(n28)Footnote 21. Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 406-406, 414-419, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 .

(n29)Footnote 22. Yartzoff v. State of Or., Emp. Div. (9th Cir. 1984) 745 F.2d 557, 558 .

(n30)Footnote 23. See Yartzoff v. State of Or., Emp. Div. (9th Cir. 1984) 745 F.2d 557, 558 .

(n31)Footnote 24. 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b); see, e.g., Woods v. New York Life Ins. Co. (7th Cir. 1982) 686 F.2d 578, 579-580 .

(n32)Footnote 25. Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 697 ; Bean v. Crocker Nat. Bank (9th Cir. 1979) 600 F.2d 754, 759 .

(n33)Footnote 26. See Cancellier v. Federated Department Stores (9th Cir. 1982) 672 F.2d 1312, 1318, 1315-1316 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 859 .

(n34)Footnote 27. See Haskell v. Kaman Corp. (2d Cir. 1984) 743 F.2d 113, 119 .

(n35)Footnote 28. Chapman v. City of Detroit (6th Cir. 1986) 808 F.2d 459, 463 ; Baldwin v. Sears, Roebuck and Co. (5th Cir. 1982) 667 F.2d 458, 461 ; Jacobi v. High Point Label, Inc. (M.D.N.C. 1977) 442 F. Supp. 518, 520-521 ; cf. Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 756-757, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 (state and federal agencies have concurrent administrative jurisdiction of ADEA charges). See also 29 C.F.R. 1626.18(a) (aggrieved person may file civil action against respondent named in charge filed with EEOC in either federal or state court under section 7 of ADEA).

(n36)Footnote 29. 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1).

(n37)Footnote 30. Baldwin v. Sears, Roebuck and Co. (5th Cir. 1982) 667 F.2d 458, 461 ; Jacobi v. High Point Label, Inc. (M.D.N.C. 1977) 442 F. Supp. 518, 521 .

(n38)Footnote 31. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); see 29 C.F.R. § 1626.18(b) (aggrieved person whose claims are subject of timely pending charge may file civil action at any time after 60 days have elapsed from filing charge with EEOC or as provided in 29 C.F.R. § 1626.12 without waiting for Notice of Dismissal or Termination to be issued); Wilson v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (8th Cir. 1988) 838 F.2d 286, 289 .

(n39)Footnote 32. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); see also 29 U.S.C. § 633(b). In California, age discrimination is prohibited under the FEHA. see Gov. Code §§ 12926(b), 12940. The DFEH and FEHC are empowered to administer the FEHA in California. see Gov. Code §§ 12930, 12935. For discussion of administrative enforcement of state discrimination claims generally, see ch. 42, pt. B.

(n40)Footnote 33. See 29 U.S.C. § 633(b); Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 758, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 .

(n41)Footnote 34. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d).

(n42)Footnote 34.1. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.17(a)(1). For discussion of the Notice of Dismissal or Termination, see § 42.71A.

(n43)Footnote 34.2. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.18(b).

(n44)Footnote 34.3. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.18(c).

(n45)Footnote 35. 29 U.S.C. § 633(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.18(b); see Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 758, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 .

(n46)Footnote 36. See Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 759-762, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 ; 29 U.S.C. § 633(b).

(n47)Footnote 37. Aronsen v. Crown Zellerbach (9th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 584

(n48)Footnote 37.1. Bankston v. White (9th Cir. 2003) 345 F.3d 768, 770 , citing Stevens v. Dep't of Treasury (1991) 500 U.S. 1, 12, 111 S. Ct. 1562, 114 L. Ed. 2d 1 (Stevens, J., concurring and dissenting).

(n49)Footnote 37.2. Bankston v. White (9th Cir. 2003) 345 F.3d 768, 770 . See 29 U.S.C. § 633a(d) (allowing individual to file suit without filing EEOC complaint but requiring notice to EEOC of intent to sue); 29 C.F.R. § 1614.201(a) (as alternative to filing administrative complaint, aggrieved individual may file civil action in United States district court under ADEA).

(n50)Footnote 37.2.1. Forest v. Chertoff (9th Cir. 2007) 500 F.3d 920, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 20632, *9-*21 (time prescriptions in 29 U.S.C. § 633a, including 30-day waiting period, are not jurisdictional and may be forfeited, waived, or equitably modified).

(n51)Footnote 37.3. See 29 U.S.C. § 633a(b); 29 C.F.R. § 1614.106.

(n52)Footnote 37.4. Bankston v. White (9th Cir. 2003) 345 F.3d 768, 770 . See 5 U.S.C. § 7702 (providing procedures for "mixed cases" in which employment action is reviewable by Board and also is basis for discrimination claim).

(n53)Footnote 37.5. Bankston v. White (9th Cir. 2003) 345 F.3d 768, 770-772 .

(n54)Footnote 37.6. 29 U.S.C. § 633a.

(n55)Footnote 37.7. Bankston v. White (9th Cir. 2003) 345 F.3d 768, 772-777 (federal employee's dismissal of his Merit Systems appeal did not bar jurisdiction over his ADEA suit); see also Bak v. Postal Serv. (9th Cir. 1995) 52 F.3d 241 (claimant no longer required to exhaust administrative remedies with regard to age discrimination claim prior to filing civil suit); Adler v. Espy (7th Cir. 1994) 35 F.3d 263 (federal employee may bring lawsuit under ADEA despite having earlier abandoned EEOC proceedings); Bornholdt v. Brady (2d Cir. 1989) 869 F.2d 57, 63 (remarking in dictum that new EEOC regulation altered exhaustion rule); Langford v. United States Army Corps of Engineers (6th Cir. 1988) 839 F.2d 1192, 1194 (ADEA, unlike Civil Rights Act, does not require final agency action prior to filing suit, permitting ADEA case to proceed simultaneously with EEO proceedings). But see Economou v. Caldera (2d Cir.) 286 F.3d 144 , cert. denied, 123 S. Ct. 447 (2002) (reaffirming exhaustion requirement for claimant who abandoned Merit Systems appeal, even though requirement led to forfeiture); McGinty v. United States Dep't of Army (7th Cir. 1990) 900 F.2d 1114, 1116-1118 (dismissing suit filed during pendency of EEOC proceeding, and suit filed after EEOC proceeding dismissed for untimeliness); White v. Frank (5th Cir. 1990) 895 F.2d 243, 244 (per curiam) (ADEA plaintiff who chooses to appeal employer's determination to EEOC must await final action by EEOC before filing action in federal district court); Rivera v. United States Postal Serv. (9th Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1037 (joining courts that found exhaustion rule implied in ADEA for plaintiffs who voluntarily pursued administrative remedies; Castro v. United States (1st Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 399, 404 (per curiam) (barring jurisdiction over ADEA lawsuit where plaintiff dismissed administrative proceeding before filing suit); Purtill v. Harris (3d Cir. 1981) 658 F.2d 134, 138 (federal employee's voluntary election to pursue administrative remedies created exhaustion requirement).

(n56)Footnote 37.8. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.19. For discussion of issuance of a Notice of Dismissal or Termination, see § 42.71A.

(n57)Footnote 38. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(c)(1), 631(a).

(n58)Footnote 39. Blankenship v. Ralston Purina Co. (N.D. Ga. 1973) 62 F.R.D. 35, 40-41 .

(n59)Footnote 40. Asklar v. Honeywell Inc. (D. Conn. 1982) 95 F.R.D. 419, 423-424 .

(n60)Footnote 41. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b) (remedial provisions of Fair Labor Standard Act, requiring class members to give consent to being made parties, apply to civil actions under ADEA); La Chapelle v. Owens-Illinois, Inc. (5th Cir. 1975) 513 F.2d 286, 289 ; Lusardi v. Xerox Corp. (D.N.J. 1983) 99 F.R.D. 89, 92 ; Cooke v. Reynolds Metals Company (E.D. Va. 1975) 65 F.R.D. 539, 540 ; Hull v. Continental Oil Co. (S.D. Tex. 1973) 58 F.R.D. 636, 637 .

(n61)Footnote 42. See Hoffman-La Roche Inc. v. Sperling (1989) 493 U.S. 165, 169, 110 S. Ct. 482, 107 L. Ed. 2d 480 .

(n62)Footnote 43. [Reserved]

(n63)Footnote 44. Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 696-697 .

(n64)Footnote 45. See Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 696-697 .

(n65)Footnote 46. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n66)Footnote 47. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 630(b), 633a(a).

(n67)Footnote 48. 29 U.S.C. § 630(b).

(n68)Footnote 49. 29 U.S.C. § 630(b).

(n69)Footnote 50. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(e) which provides that aggrieved person may bring a civil action "against the respondent named in the charge" within 90 days after receipt of EEOC's notice that it is dismissing charges or otherwise terminating its proceedings.

(n70)Footnote 51. See Barkley v. Carraux (S.D. Tex. 1982) 533 F. Supp. 242, 244 .

(n71)Footnote 51.1. Sanchez v. Pacific Powder Co. (9th Cir. 1998) 147 F.3d 1097, 1100-1101 (analogizing to Title VII, court held that although unnamed defendant asserted noncompliance in answer, failure to raise issue in post-trial motions or opening appellate brief constituted waiver); see Albano v. Schering-Plough Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 912 F.2d 384, 387 (plaintiff's failure to include particular claim in original EEOC charge is not jurisdictional bar to bringing claim as part of future court action).

(n72)Footnote 52. Miller v. Maxwell's Intern. Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 991 F.2d 583, 587-588 .

(n73)Footnote 53. Baker v. Delta Air Lines (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 632 .

(n74)Footnote 54. Baker v. Delta Air Lines (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 632, 639 .

(n75)Footnote 55. Baker v. Delta Air Lines (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 632, 637 .

(n76)Footnote 56. Baker v. Delta Air Lines (9th Cir. 1993) 6 F.3d 632, 638 .

(n77)Footnote 57. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d)(1); see Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 762, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 ; McClinton v. Alabama By-Products Corp. (11th Cir. 1984) 743 F.2d 1483, 1485-1486 .

(n78)Footnote 58. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(d)(2), 633(b).

(n79)Footnote 59. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d)(2).

(n80)Footnote 60. See Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 762, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 ; 29 U.S.C. § 633(b).

(n81)Footnote 61. Aronsen v. Crown Zellerbach (9th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 584

(n82)Footnote 62. 29 U.S.C. § 626(d); see Dempsey v. Pacific Bell Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 789 F.2d 1451, 1452-1453 (action brought sooner than 60 days from filing of EEOC charge is jurisdictionally barred).

(n83)Footnote 63. 29 U.S.C. § 633(b).

(n84)Footnote 64. 29 U.S.C. § 626(e); 29 C.F.R. § 1626.18(c).

(n85)Footnote 64.1. 29 U.S.C. § 633a. For discussion of these options, see [4], above.

(n86)Footnote 64.2. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.201(c).

(n87)Footnote 64.3. 29 U.S.C. § 633a(d); 29 C.F.R. § 1614.201(a).

(n88)Footnote 64.4. 29 U.S.C. § 633a(d).

(n89)Footnote 64.5. Forester v. Chertoff (9th Cir. 2007) 500 F.3d 920, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 20632, *5-*9 . See Stevens v. Department of Treasury (1991) 500 U.S. 1, 7, 111 S. Ct. 1562, 114 L. Ed. 2d 1 (federal employee's filing of notice of intent to sue 176 days after alleged discriminatory action but not filing lawsuit until more than 30 days after giving notice satisfied bypass provision by giving notice of intent to sue within 180 days from the date of alleged discriminatory conduct and filing his civil action more than 30 days after he gave notice of intent to sue).

(n90)Footnote 65. Morelock v. NCR Corp. (6th Cir. 1978) 586 F.2d 1096, 1102-1103 .

(n91)Footnote 66. Morelock v. NCR Corp. (6th Cir. 1978) 586 F.2d 1096 .

(n92)Footnote 67. Clark v. Resistoflex Co. (M.D. La. 1987) 665 F. Supp. 1216, 1219 , rev'd and remanded in part on other grounds, 854 F.2d 762 (5th Cir. 1988) ; cf. Delaware State College v. Ricks (1980) 449 U.S. 250, 259, 101 S. Ct. 498, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431 (accrual of cause of action under Title VII).

(n93)Footnote 68. Clark v. Resistoflex Co. (M.D. La. 1987) 665 F. Supp. 1216, 1219 , rev'd and remanded in part on other grounds, 854 F.2d 762 (5th Cir. 1988) ; see Wilson v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (8th Cir. 1988) 838 F.2d 286, 288 (plaintiff's argument that limitation period began to run at expiration of severance benefits and not at time of termination letter was rejected).

(n94)Footnote 69. For discussion, see § 43.10[6][a][ii].

(n95)Footnote 70. See EEOC v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (3d Cir. 1983) 725 F.2d 211, 219 ; Malarkey v. Texaco, Inc. (S.D.N.Y. 1983) 559 F. Supp. 117, 121 , aff'd, 704 F.2d 674, 675 (2d Cir. 1983) .

(n96)Footnote 71. Malarkey v. Texaco, Inc. (S.D.N.Y. 1983) 704 F.2d 674, 675 (2d Cir. 1983) .

(n97)Footnote 72. See Yokum v. St. Johnsbury Trucking Co., Inc. (D. Conn. 1984) 595 F. Supp. 1532, 1533-1534 (layoffs do not constitute a continuing violation); Goldman v. Sears, Roebuck & Co. (1st Cir. 1979) 607 F.2d 1014, 1018 .

(n98)Footnote 73. See Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 115, amending 29 U.S.C. § 626(e).

(n99)Footnote 74. See 29 U.S.C. § 255(a); Miller v. Maxwell's Intern. Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 991 F.2d 583, 586 .

(n100)Footnote 75. Miller v. Maxwell's Intern. Inc. (9th Cir. 1993) 991 F.2d 583, 586 .

(n101)Footnote 76. cf. Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d 234 . For discussion, see § 43.10[6].

(n102)Footnote 77-80. [Reserved]

(n103)Footnote 81. Ott v. Midland-Ross Corp. (6th Cir. 1975) 523 F.2d 1367, 1370 ; Potter v. Continental Trailways Inc. (D. Colo. 1979) 480 F. Supp. 207 , 210-211; see Kazanzas v. Walt Disney World Co. (11th Cir. 1983) 704 F.2d 1527, 1530 , cert. denied, 464 U.S. 982 (1983) (reviewing cases allowing equitable relief but holding that relief was unavailable under facts).

(n104)Footnote 82. See Potter v. Continental Trailways Inc. (D. Colo. 1979) 480 F. Supp. 207, 210-211 .

(n105)Footnote 83. See Wilson v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (8th Cir. 1988) 838 F.2d 286, 288 ; Funk v. Sperry Corp. (9th Cir. 1988) 842 F.2d 1129, 1134 (equitable estoppel not invoked based on allegation that employer caused delay in filing EEOC claim by concealing reasons for termination and by finding employee new job).

(n106)Footnote 84. See Elliott v. Group Medical and Surgical Service (5th Cir. 1983) 714 F.2d 556, 563 ; see Draeger v. Jockey Intern., Inc. (S.D.N.Y. 1984) 583 F. Supp. 570, 572 , aff'd without op., 751 F.2d 368 (2d Cir. 1984) (equitable tolling not applicable in case at bar because employee knew of rights); but see Kazanzas v. Walt Disney World Co. (11th Cir. 1983) 704 F.2d 1527, 1530 , cert. denied, 464 U.S. 982 (1983) (employer's failure to post notice is not grounds for equitable tolling of filing period).

(n107)Footnote 85. See, e.g., English v. Pabst Brewing Co. (4th Cir. 1987) 828 F.2d 1047, 1050 (posting of notice in conspicuous place meets statutory obligations, even if employee lacks meaningful opportunity to see notice); Morse v. Daily Press, Inc. (4th Cir. 1987) 826 F.2d 1351, 1353 (posting of one notice regarding employees' rights under the ADEA in conspicuous place was sufficient to avoid equitable tolling); see also Clark v. Resistoflex Co. (M.D. La. 1987) 665 F. Supp. 1216, 1222 (holding that posting of notice on cafeteria bulletin board at headquarters but not at local office was sufficient notice because plaintiff had visited headquarters on numerous occasions and had ample opportunity to see notice).

(n108)Footnote 86. See, e.g., Charlier v. S.C. Johnson & Son, Inc. (5th Cir. 1977) 556 F.2d 761, 765 (finding equitable tolling based on fact that employee who worked mostly at home and infrequently visited regional office did not have meaningful opportunity to see notice); Edgeworth v. Fort Howard Paper Co. (N.D. Ill. 1987) 673 F. Supp. 922, 925 (whether or not employer has technically complied with posting requirements, the analysis should be whether the employee had a reasonable opportunity to view the notice).

(n109)Footnote 87. Clark v. Resistoflex Co. (M.D. La. 1987) 665 F. Supp. 1216, 1223 ; Hay v. Wells Cargo, Inc. (D. Nev. 1984) 596 F. Supp. 635, 640 .

(n110)Footnote 88. Oscar Mayer & Co. v. Evans (1979) 441 U.S. 750, 762, 99 S. Ct. 2066, 60 L. Ed. 2d 609 .

(n111)Footnote 89. See, e.g., Holly v. City of Naperville (N.D. Ill. 1983) 571 F. Supp. 668, 671, 672 ; cf. Reeb v. Economic Opportunity Atlanta, Inc. (5th Cir. 1975) 516 F.2d 924, 930-931 (Title VII action).

(n112)Footnote 90. For discussion of general principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel, see ch. 42, pt. A.

(n113)Footnote 91. Whitfield v. City of Knoxville (E.D. Tenn. 1983) 567 F. Supp. 1344, 1346-1347 , aff'd, 756

F.2d 455, 459 (6th Cir. 1985) ; see also Novak v. World Bank (D.C. Cir. 1983) 703 F.2d 1305, 1309-1310 (collateral estoppel and res judicata do not apply if plaintiff's ADEA claim was not previously adjudicated and defendant was not party to prior action).

(n114)Footnote 92. See, e.g., Capraro v. Tilcon Gammino Inc. (1st Cir. [R.I.] 1985) 751 F.2d 56, 58-59 ; see also Morgan v. Department of Offender Rehabilitation (1983) 166 Ga. App. 611, 305 S.E. 2d 130, 133 (res judicata applied where the case had been dismissed by federal court, and where plaintiff could have but did not originally allege discrimination in federal case against same party).

(n115)Footnote 92.1. See Astoria Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Solimino (1991) 501 U.S. 104, 111 S. Ct. 2166, 115 L. Ed. 2d 96, 103, 105-106 .

(n116)Footnote 93. 29 U.S.C. § 626(b),(c)(1).

(n117)Footnote 94. Syvock v. Milwaukee Boiler Mfg. Co., Inc. (7th Cir. [Wis.] 1981) 665 F.2d 149, 160 ; see Marshall v. Arlene Knitwear, Inc. (E.D.N.Y. 1978) 454 F. Supp. 715, 730-731 , aff'd, 608 F.2d 1369 (2d Cir. 1979) .

(n118)Footnote 95. Mizrany v. Texas Rehabilitation Commission (S.D. Tex. 1981) 522 F. Supp. 611, 618 , aff'd, 685 F.2d 1384 (5th Cir. 1982) .

(n119)Footnote 96. Brennan v. Ace Hardware Corp. (8th Cir. 1974) 495 F.2d 368, 373 .

(n120)Footnote 97. Brennan v. Ace Hardware Corp. (8th Cir. [Neb.] 1974) 495 F.2d 368, 373 .

(n121)Footnote 98. Wise v. Olan Mills Inc. of Texas (D. Colo. 1980) 495 F. Supp. 257, 260 ; Marshall v. Arlene Knitwear, Inc. (E.D.N.Y. 1978) 454 F. Supp. 715, 730 , aff'd, 608 F.2d 1369 (2d Cir. 1979) .

(n122)Footnote 99. See, e.g., Fiedler v. Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. (8th Cir. 1982) 670 F.2d 806, 809 ; Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Sandia Corp. (10th Cir. 1980) 639 F.2d 600, 626, 627 ; see also E.E.O.C. v. Pape (9th Cir. 1997) 115 F.3d 676, 682-683 (under circumstances, reasonable efforts to mitigate damages requirement met by searching want ads; EEOC presented evidence that lack of aggressiveness in seeking new work was common among older workers fired from long-term positions). For discussion of the mitigation concept in the Title VII context, see § 43.10[9][a][iii].

(n123)Footnote 100. Wehr v. Burroughs Corp. (3d Cir. [Pa.] 1980) 619 F.2d 276, 278 fn. 3 .

(n124)Footnote 101. Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 699 .

(n125)Footnote 102. See, e.g., McDowell v. Avtex Fibers Inc. (3d Cir. [Pa.] 1984) 740 F.2d 214, 217 ; Equal Emp. Opportunity Com'n v. Sandia Corp. (10th Cir. 1980) 639 F.2d 600, 626, 624-625 .

(n126)Footnote 102.1. See Commissioner v. Schleier (1995) 515 U.S. 323, 115 S. Ct. 2159, 132 L. Ed. 2d 294, 307 .

(n127)Footnote 103. Blum v. Witco Chemical Corp. (3d Cir. 1987) 829 F.2d 367, 373-374 ; Wildman v. Lerner Stores Corp. (1st Cir. [P.R.] 1985) 771 F.2d 605, 614-616 ; EEOC v. Prudential Federal Sav. & Loan Ass'n (10th Cir. 1985) 763 F.2d 1166, 1173 ; Goldstein v. Manhattan Industries, Inc. (11th Cir. [Ala.] 1985) 758 F.2d 1435, 1448-1449 ; Davis v. Combustion Engineering Inc. (6th Cir. 1984) 742 F.2d 916 ; Whittlesey v. Union Carbide Corp. (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1984) 742 F.2d 724, 729 ; Thompson v. Sawyer (D.C. Cir. 1982) 678 F.2d 257, 292 ; Cancellier v. Federated Department Stores (9th Cir. 1982) 672 F.2d 1312, 1318, 1319 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 859 (1982) .

(n128)Footnote 103.1. E.E.O.C. v. Pape (9th Cir. 1997) 115 F.3d 676, 682-683 .

(n129)Footnote 104. 29 U.S.C. § 626(b); see 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1).

(n130)Footnote 105. Duffy v. Wheeling Pittsburgh Steel Corp. (3d Cir. 1984) 738 F.2d 1393, 1398, cert. denied, 469 U.S. 1087 (1984); Gibson v. Mohawk Rubber Co. (8th Cir. [Ark.] 1982) 695 F.2d 1093, 1100.

(n131)Footnote 106. Marshall v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. (5th Cir. [Fla.] 1977) 554 F.2d 730, 733-734.

(n132)Footnote 107. Hodgson v. First Fed. Sav. & L. Ass'n (5th Cir. [Fla.] 1972) 455 F.2d 818, 826-827.

(n133)Footnote 108. 29 U.S.C. § 626(b).

(n134)Footnote 109. Dickerson v. Deluxe Check Printers, Inc. (8th Cir. 1983) 703 F.2d 276, 279-280.

(n135)Footnote 110. Dickerson v. Deluxe Check Printers, Inc. (8th Cir. 1983) 703 F.2d 276, 279-280.

(n136)Footnote 111. Blim v. Western Electric Co., Inc. (10th Cir. [Okla.] 1984) 731 F.2d 1473, 1479, cert. denied, 469 U.S. 874 (1984)

(n137)Footnote 112. For discussion, see [b], above.

(n138)Footnote 113. Merkel v. Scovill, Inc. (S.D. Ohio 1983) 570 F. Supp. 141, 143-144; Spagnuolo v. Whirlpool Corp. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1981) 641 F.2d 1109, 1115, cert. denied, 454 U.S. 860 (1981); Combes v. Griffin Television Inc. (W.D. Okla. 1976) 421 F. Supp. 841, 846-847.

(n139)Footnote 114. 29 U.S.C. § 626(b); cf. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) (Title VII provision for affirmative action). For discussion of affirmative action under Title VII, see § 43.10[9][d][iv].

(n140)Footnote 115. Spagnuolo v. Whirlpool Corp. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1983) 717 F.2d 114, 119-121; Leftwich v. Harris-Stowe State College (8th Cir. [Mo.] 1983) 702 F.2d 686, 693.

(n141)Footnote 116. Spagnuolo v. Whirlpool Corp. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1983) 717 F.2d 114, 119-121.

(n142)Footnote 117. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b); Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 126-129, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523; Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. [Wash.] 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 979; see also E.E.O.C. v. Pape (9th Cir. 1997) 115 F.3d 676, 681-682 (plaintiff may rely on same evidence used to establish underlying ADEA violation to establish willfulness).

(n143)Footnote 118. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 126-129, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523.

(n144)Footnote 119. Trans World Airlines, Inc. v. Thurston (1985) 469 U.S. 111, 127-128, 105 S. Ct. 613, 83 L. Ed. 2d 523.

(n145)Footnote 120. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 610-611, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338, 350-351.

(n146)Footnote 121. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 610-611, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338, 350-351.

(n147)Footnote 122. Hazen Paper Co. v. Biggins (1993) 507 U.S. 604, 610-611, 113 S. Ct. 1701, 123 L. Ed. 2d 338, 350-351.

(n148)Footnote 123. [Reserved]

(n149)Footnote 126. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b); Buchholz v. Symons Mfg. Co. (E.D. Wis. 1978) 445 F. Supp. 706, 713 .

(n150)Footnote 127. See Cancellier v. Federated Department Stores (9th Cir. 1982) 672 F.2d 1312, 1318, 1318 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 859 (1982) .

(n151)Footnote 127.1. See Commissioner v. Schleier (1995) 515 U.S. 323, 115 S. Ct. 2159, 132 L. Ed. 2d 294, 307 .

(n152)Footnote 128. See Haskell v. Kaman Corp. (2d Cir. 1984) 743 F.2d 113, 120-121 (compensatory damages); Perrell v. FinanceAmerica Corp. (10th Cir. 1984) 726 F.2d 654, 657 (compensatory damages); Hill v. Spiegel, Inc. (6th Cir. 1983) 708 F.2d 233, 236 (compensatory damages); Pfeiffer v. Essex Wire Corp. (7th Cir. 1982) 682 F.2d 684, 685 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 1039 (1982) (pain and suffering and punitive damages); Fiedler v. Indianhead Truck Line, Inc. (8th Cir. 1982) 670 F.2d 806, 809-810 (compensatory damages); Naton v. Bank of California (9th Cir. 1981) 649 F.2d 691, 698-699 ; Walker v. Pettit Const. Co., Inc. (4th Cir. 1979) 605 F.2d 128, 129-130 (pain and suffering and punitive damages); Slatin v. Stanford Research Institute (4th Cir. 1979) 590 F.2d 1292, 1294-1296 (compensatory damages); Vazquez v. Eastern Air Lines, Inc. (1st Cir. 1978) 579 F.2d 107, 110-112 (compensatory damages); Murphy v. American Motors Sales Corp. (5th Cir. 1978) 570 F.2d 1226, 1227 (compensatory and punitive damages); Dean v. American Sec. Ins. Co. (5th Cir. 1977) 559 F.2d 1036, 1038-1040 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1066 (1978) (compensatory and punitive damages); Rogers v. Exxon Research & Engineering Co. (3d Cir. [N.J.] 1977) 550 F.2d 834, 841-842 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1022 (1978) (compensatory damages).

(n153)Footnote 129. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b).

(n154)Footnote 130. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b); see also discussion in [d], above.

(n155)Footnote 131. See, e.g., Walker v. Pettit Const. Co., Inc. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1979) 605 F.2d 128, 129-130 .

(n156)Footnote 132. See Blim v. Western Electric Co., Inc. (10th Cir. [Okla.] 1984) 731 F.2d 1473, 1479 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 874 (1984) ; Cline v. Roadway Exp., Inc. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1982) 689 F.2d 481, 489 ; Kelly v. American Standard, Inc. (9th Cir. [Wash.] 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 982 .

(n157)Footnote 133. See, e.g., Blim v. Western Electric Co., Inc. (10th Cir. [Okla.] 1984) 731 F.2d 1473, 1479 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 874 (1984) ; Gibson v. Mohawk Rubber Co. (8th Cir. [Ark.] 1982) 695 F.2d 1093, 1102-1103 ; Spagnuolo v. Whirlpool Corp. (4th Cir. [N.C.] 1981) 641 F.2d 1109, 1114 , cert. denied, 454 U.S. 860 (1981) .

(n158)Footnote 134. See, e.g., Reichman v. Bonsignore, Brignati & Mazzotta P.C. (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1987) 818 F.2d 278, 281-282 ; Criswell v. Western Airlines, Inc. (9th Cir. 1983) 709 F.2d 544, 556-557 , aff'd on other grounds, 472 U.S. 400 (1985) .

(n159)Footnote 135. See Hagelthorn v. Kennecott Corp. (2d Cir. [N.Y.] 1983) 710 F.2d 76, 86 ; Kelly v. American Standard Inc. (9th Cir. [Wash.] 1981) 640 F.2d 974, 986 ; Rogers v. Exxon Research & Engineering Co. (3d Cir. [N.J.] 1977) 550 F.2d 834, 842-843 , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1022 (1978) . See also Merrick v. Farmers Ins. Group (9th Cir. 1990) 892 F.2d 1434, 1442 (attorney fees may be awarded to plaintiffs who successfully prosecute appeals).

(n160)Footnote 136. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b).

(n161)Footnote 137. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b); see also discussion in Chapter 5, Part B, Subpart 2.

(n162)Footnote 138. See Cova v. Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of St. Louis (8th Cir. 1978) 574 F.2d 958, 962 ; cf. Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 417, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 (in Title VII actions fees awarded to prevailing defendants if plaintiff's suit was frivolous, unreasonable, or groundless).

(n163)Footnote 139. See, e.g., Jones v. Central Soya Co., Inc. (11th Cir. [Ala.] 1984) 748 F.2d 586, 589-590 ; Davis v. Combustion Engineering Inc. (6th Cir. 1984) 742 F.2d 916, 923-924 .

(n164)Footnote 140. See, e.g., Syvock v. Milwaukee Boiler Mfg. Co., Inc. (7th Cir. [Wis.] 1981) 665 F.2d 149, 162-165 (failure of plaintiff to succeed on issues of willfulness and mitigation should not diminish amount of attorney's fee award under ADEA); Cleverly v. Western Electric Co. (8th Cir. [Mo.] 1979) 594 F.2d 638, 643 (unsuccessful appeal from denial of reinstatement is not basis for disallowing attorney's fees for remainder of appeal).

(n165)Footnote 140.1. Sinyard v. Comm'r (9th Cir. 2001) 268 F.3d 756, 759 (attorney's fees paid to counsel by settling defendant taxable as income to plaintiffs, offset by deduction).

(n166)Footnote 140.2. Sprint/United Management Co. v. Mendelsohn (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1140, 170 L. Ed. 2d 1 . To view U.S. Supreme Court briefs related to the Sprint case that are available on Lexis.com, go to 2006 U.S. Briefs 1221 . To view the U.S. Supreme Court transcript, go to 2007 U.S. TRANS LEXIS 64 .

(n167)Footnote 140.3. Aramburu v. Boeing Co. (10th Cir. 1997) 112 F.3d 1398 .

(n168)Footnote 140.4. Sprint/United Management Co. v. Mendelsohn (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1140, 1144-1146, 170 L. Ed. 2d 1 .

(n169)Footnote 140.5. Sprint/United Management Co. v. Mendelsohn (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1140, 1147, 170 L. Ed. 2d 1 . See Advisory Committee's Notes on Fed. Rule Evid. 401, 28 U.S.C. App., p. 864 (relevancy is not inherent characteristic of item of evidence, but exists only as relation between item of evidence and matter properly provable in case).

(n170)Footnote 140.6. Sprint/United Management Co. v. Mendelsohn (2008) 128 S. Ct. 1140, 1147, 170 L. Ed. 2d 1 .

(n171)Footnote 141. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 621-634.

(n172)Footnote 142. Chapman v. City of Detroit (6th Cir. 1986) 808 F.2d 459, 463 ; Baldwin v. Sears, Roebuck and Co. (5th Cir. 1982) 667 F.2d 458, 461 ; Jacobi v. High Point Label, Inc. (M.D.N.C. 1977) 442 F. Supp. 518, 520-521 ; see 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1). For discussion of jurisdiction, see [2], above.

(n173)Footnote 143. For discussion of specific allegations, see [ii], below.

(n174)Footnote 144. See discussion regarding modification of allegations in FEHA complaint to Title VII complaint in comment to form at § 43.10 [10][a][i].

(n175)Footnote 145. 29 U.S.C. §§ 623, 631(a) (plaintiff must be 40 years of age or older). For discussion of standing of plaintiffs under ADEA, see [5][a], above.

(n176)Footnote 146. 29 U.S.C. § 630(b) (defining "employer" under ADEA). For discussion, see [5][b], above.

(n177)Footnote 147. See Fed. Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 8(a) (federal civil complaint must include statement of basis for subject matter jurisdiction); 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(1) (ADEA action may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction). For discussion of jurisdiction of ADEA cases, see [3], above.

(n178)Footnote 148. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(a); see Loeb v. Textron, Inc. (1st Cir. [R.I.] 1979) 600 F.2d 1003, 1019 (language in 29 U.S.C. § 623(a) stating that it is unlawful to discriminate "because of" a person's age means that plaintiff must show age was a "determinative factor" in defendant's action). For discussion of proof of disparate impact or disparate treatment under ADEA, see [2][a], above.

(n179)Footnote 149. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b),(c). For discussion of remedies of back pay and front pay under ADEA, see [8][a] and [b], above.

(n180)Footnote 150. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b). For discussion, see [8][d], above.

(n181)Footnote 151. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b),(c). For discussion, see [8][c], above.

(n182)Footnote 152. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(d), 633(b); Vaughn v. Chrysler Corporation (E.D. Mich. 1974) 382 F. Supp. 143, 147-148 . For discussion of exhaustion of remedies under ADEA, see [4], above.

(n183)Footnote 153. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b),(c). For discussion, see [8][a]-[e], above.

(n184)Footnote 154. See Blim v. Western Electric Co., Inc. (10th Cir. [Okla.] 1984) 731 F.2d 1473, 1479 , cert. denied, 469 U.S. 874 (1984) . For discussion of availability of prejudgment interest, see [8][f], above.

(n185)Footnote 155. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 626(b). For discussion of availability of costs and attorney's fees, see [8][g], above.

(n186)Footnote 156. [Reserved]

(n187)Footnote 157. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2), prior to amendment by Pub. L. No. 101-433; Public Employees v. Betts (1989) 492 U.S. 158, 166, 109 S. Ct. 2854, 106 L. Ed. 2d 134 .

(n188)Footnote 158. See Pub. L. No. 101-433, § 105(a).

(n189)Footnote 159. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2)(B).

(n190)Footnote 160. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(c), 633(b). For form, see § 43.01[13][a][ii].

(n191)Footnote 161. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 626(d), 633(b) (period within which to file administrative charge); 29 U.S.C. § 626(e) (period within which to file civil action). For form, see § 43.01[13][b][ii].

(n192)Footnote 162. See Code Civ. Proc. §§ 430.10(e), 430.30; Fed. Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 12(b)(6). For forms, see §§ 43.01[13][c][ii] (state court) and 43.10[12][a][ii] (federal court).

(n193)Footnote 163. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(b) provides for equitable remedies, and, therefore, equitable defenses, such as laches, may be available. For form, see § 43.01[13][d][ii].

(n194)Footnote 164. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1); Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 412-414, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 . For form, see § 43.01[13][e][ii].

(n195)Footnote 165. See Western Air Lines, Inc. v. Criswell (1985) 472 U.S. 400, 407-414, 105 S. Ct. 2743, 86 L. Ed. 2d 321 . For form, see § 43.01[13][g][ii].

(n196)Footnote 166. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2)(A). For form, see § 43.10[13][c][ii].

(n197)Footnote 166.1. See Kimel v. Florida Bd. of Regents (2000) 528 U.S. 62, 120 S. Ct. 631, 145 L. Ed. 2d 522, 535-536 (ADEA's purported abrogation of states' sovereign immunity is invalid).

(n198)Footnote 166.2. Katz v. Regents of the University of California (9th Cir. 2000) 229 F.3d 831, 834 .

(n199)Footnote 167. 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(3).

(n200)Footnote 168. See Marshall v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (5th Cir. 1978) 576 F.2d 588, 591 .

(n201)Footnote 169. See 29 U.S.C. § 626(f)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1625.7.

(n202)Footnote 170. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1).

(n203)Footnote 171. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(1).

(n204)Footnote 172. See 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2)(B)(i); 29 C.F.R. § 1625.10(a)(1).

(n205)Footnote 173. 29 U.S.C. § 623(f)(2)(B)(ii).

(n206)Footnote 174. See Pub. L. No. 101-433, § 105(a).

(n207)Footnote 175. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-8(e).

(n208)Footnote 176. 29 C.F.R. § 1626.4; see Wirtz v. Robinson & Stephens Inc. (5th Cir. 1966) 368 F.2d 114, 116 ; Wirtz v. BAC Steel Products Inc. (4th Cir. 1962) 312 F.2d 14, 16 ; Fleming v. Bernardi (N.D. Ohio 1941) 1 F.R.D. 624, 626 ; see also Donovan v. Forbes (D. Vt. 1985) 614 F. Supp. 124, 126-127 .

(n209)Footnote 177. See [a], above.

(n210)Footnote 178. Strickland v. American Can Co. (N.D. Ga. 1983) 575 F. Supp. 1111, 1112 ; but cf. Coffin v. South Carolina Dep't of Social Services (D.S.C. 1983) 562 F. Supp. 579, 590-591 (state findings of discrimination were not admitted where they could unduly influence jury relative to questions of credibility that are within jury's unique province).

(n211)Footnote 179. See § 43.10[12][b].

(n212)Footnote 180. 29 U.S.C. § 626(c)(2); see Lorillard v. Pons (1978) 434 U.S. 575, 582-583, 98 S. Ct. 866, 55 L. Ed. 2d 40 ; EEOC v. Ford Motor Co. (10th Cir. 1984) 732 F.2d 120, 121 ; EEOC v. Corry Jamestown Corp. (3d Cir. 1983) 719 F.2d 1219, 1223-1226 .

(n213)Footnote 181. Gross v. FBL Fin. Servs. (2009) 129 S. Ct. 2343, 2348-2352, 174 L. Ed. 2d 119 . For discussion of the burden of proof in an ADEA case, see § 41.31.

9 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.12

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.12 Equal Pay Act of 1963

[1] Right of Action

Like the California Equal Pay Act,ⁿ¹ the Federal Equal Pay Act (EPA)ⁿ² specifically addresses the prevention and remedy of sex-based differences in compensation of employees. The EPA is a part of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA),ⁿ³ which also governs overtime and minimum wage compensation of employees.ⁿ⁴ For discussion of employers and employees covered by and exempted from the FLSA generally, see Chapter 1.

The EPA has the same basic coverage as the FLSA. However, unlike the FLSA, the EPA applies to executive, administrative, and professional employees.ⁿ⁵ Coverage of the EPA generally is discussed in Chapter 40, Part C. For discussion of the FLSA exemption for executive, administrative, and professional employees, see Chapter 2.

The FLSA authorizes an aggrieved employee to bring a civil action against an employer for appropriate legal and equitable relief under the EPA.ⁿ⁶

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

In a case brought under the EPA, the parties bear shifting burdens of proof.^{n6.1} First, the plaintiff bears the burden of proving a violation of the statute.ⁿ⁷ The plaintiff's burden is to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the employer pays different wages to employees of opposite sexes within the same "establishment"ⁿ⁸ for equal work on jobs requiring equal skill, effort, and responsibility, and that the jobs are performed under similar working conditions.ⁿ⁹ The EPA requires "substantial equality" of job content, which is tested factually, on a case-by-case basis;ⁿ¹⁰ the prima facie case is limited to a comparison of the jobs in question, and does not involve a comparison of the individuals holding those jobs.^{n10.1} The Ninth Circuit uses a two-step "substantially equal" analysis: first, the plaintiff must establish that the jobs being compared have a common core of tasks, that is, whether a significant portion of the two jobs is identical; second, the court must then determine whether any additional tasks, applicable to one job but not the other make the two jobs "substantially different."^{n10.2} The plaintiff need not show intent to discriminate.ⁿ¹¹

Once plaintiff has set out a prima facie case of an EPA violation, the burden of proof shifts to the employer to show that the wage disparity is justified by one of the following four statutory exceptions to the EPA:¹²

1. A seniority system;
2. A merit system;
3. A system that measures earnings by quantity or quality of production; or
4. A differential based on any factor other than sex.

The burden that shifts to the employer is a "heavy burden."¹³ The exceptions listed above are affirmative defenses on which the employer has both the burden of production and of persuasion.¹⁴ If the defendant's reasons appear to justify its actions, the plaintiff then has an opportunity to show that the employer's justification was pretextual.¹⁵

For full discussion of the substantive provisions and defenses to the prohibitions of the EPA, see Chapter 41, Parts D and E.

[3] Jurisdiction

State and federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction of EPA cases under the FLSA, of which the EPA is a part.¹⁶ For additional discussion of jurisdiction in actions under the FLSA, see Chapter 5, Part B, Subpart 2.

[4] Standing to Sue

Both private persons aggrieved by violations of the EPA and the EEOC, which is the administrative agency in charge of enforcing the EPA since 1978, may bring suits under the EPA to redress violations.¹⁷

Class actions under EPA are not "true" class actions under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 23, but rather require class members to "opt in," as they must do under the ADEA.¹⁸ Members of a plaintiff class in an EPA case must opt in by filing written consent to the suit in the court in which the action is pending.¹⁹

An employee's right to bring an individual or class action against the employer terminates once the EEOC files a complaint to enforce the EPA on behalf of that employee or employees.²⁰

[5] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Unnecessary

A private plaintiff need not exhaust any administrative remedies before filing a civil action under the EPA.²¹ Nor is the private plaintiff obliged to exhaust any state remedies for equal pay violations.²²

[6] Statutes of Limitation

[a] Time Period for Filing Civil Action Under EPA

If the violation of the EPA is willful, the plaintiff has three years from the date of the violation to file a civil action; if the violation is not willful, the civil action must be commenced within two years after its occurrence.²³ A violation is willful under the FLSA if the employer knew or showed reckless disregard for the matter of whether its conduct was prohibited by the FLSA.^{23.1}

[b] Tolling Principles for EPA Filing Periods

The doctrines of estoppel or equitable tolling apply to EPA statutes of limitation, so that affirmative misrepresentations of the employer on which the plaintiff reasonably relies or failure of the employer to publish statutorily required notices as to employees' rights and remedies under the Act may toll the limitations period for filing suit.ⁿ²⁴ When class members file consents to participate in a class action under the EPA, those consents toll the limitations periods for those class members' individual suits.ⁿ²⁵

[7] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects

Because both state and federal laws in California prohibit sex-discriminatory compensation in virtually identical terms,ⁿ²⁶ general principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel normally preclude relitigation of claims under the federal EPA that have already been litigated under the state statute, and vice versa. For discussion of general principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel as applied to equal employment opportunity laws, see Chapter 42, Part A.

[8] Relief Available

[a] Back Pay

The EPA authorizes back pay as a remedy.ⁿ²⁷ Back pay may include sex-based differences in salary, pension payments, lodging and uniform cleaning allowances, or other forms of compensation.ⁿ²⁸ The formula for calculating back pay under the EPA is the difference between plaintiff's base salary and the average base salary of the comparison person/group not of plaintiff's sex.ⁿ²⁹ Factors other than sex that contribute to the greater pay of the opposite-sex employee, for example, greater seniority, should be factored out before calculating the sum of back pay owed.ⁿ³⁰

[b] Front Pay

Front pay is not a prescribed remedy under the EPA,ⁿ³¹ and presumably is not available under it.

[c] Injunctive Relief

The power of courts to order injunctive relief under the EPA appears to be limited to orders effectuating the back pay and liquidated damage provisions of the Act.ⁿ³² If plaintiff is discharged or discriminated against because he or she has filed a complaint under or participated in any proceedings under the FLSA or the EPA,ⁿ³³ the court may also order reinstatement, promotion, or other equitable relief.ⁿ³⁴ However, plaintiffs seeking broad-based injunctive relief for violations of the principle of equal pay should use the California FEHA and Title VII, which clearly empower courts to order such relief.ⁿ³⁵ In one Ninth Circuit case, however, the court considered the merits of an action for a mandatory injunction under the EPA, but affirmed its denial based on the plaintiff's failure to prove her case.^{n35.1}

[d] Prejudgment Interest

As with ADEA actions,ⁿ³⁶ courts generally award prejudgment interest on back pay awards under the EPA,ⁿ³⁷ but they deny prejudgment interest when liquidated damages are awarded.ⁿ³⁸

[e] Liquidated Damages

Liquidated damages are a prescribed remedy under the EPA, consisting of an amount equal to the back pay award.ⁿ³⁹ Liquidated damages are compensatory, not punitive in nature.ⁿ⁴⁰ They must be awarded for EPA violations, unless the employer shows that it committed the violation in good faith and that it had reasonable grounds to believe that its act or omission did not violate the EPA.ⁿ⁴¹ The employer has the burden of making such a showing.ⁿ⁴² If the employer establishes good faith and reasonable grounds for its belief that it was not violating the EPA, the court may, in its discretion, award no liquidated damages or award a lesser amount.ⁿ⁴³ "Good faith" has been defined as "an honest intention to ascertain what the Equal Pay Act requires and [act] in accordance with it."ⁿ⁴⁴ However, conclusory assertions that company officers thought they were in compliance with the EPA have been held to be insufficient to show good faith.ⁿ⁴⁵

For full discussion of "good faith" defenses to actions under the FLSA generally, see Chapter 5, Part B, Subpart 2.

[f] Attorney's Fees

Attorney's fees awards to prevailing plaintiffs under the EPA are mandatory.ⁿ⁴⁶ If plaintiff litigates an EPA case frivolously or in bad faith, a prevailing defendant in federal court may recover an award of attorney's fees in the court's discretion.ⁿ⁴⁷

[9] Complaint for Violation of Federal Equal Pay Act

Because the statutory provisions of the California and federal Equal Pay Acts are virtually identical,ⁿ⁴⁸ the form for a complaint under the California EPA set forth in § 43.02[7][b] may be used for a federal EPA case with the following modifications:

1. The federal EPA case may be brought in either state or federal court,ⁿ⁴⁹ so the caption should reflect the appropriate choice of forum.
2. Citations to the California EPAⁿ⁵⁰ should be changed to citations to the federal EPA.ⁿ⁵¹
3. The optional paragraph referring to exhaustion of administrative state remediesⁿ⁵² should be eliminated because there is no administrative procedure to be exhausted under the federal EPA.ⁿ⁵³
4. If the action is in federal court, and the plaintiff seeks a jury trial, he or she must demand it in writing.ⁿ⁵⁴

For discussion of certain other procedural aspects relevant to federal pleading of employment discrimination complaints, see discussion in the comments to the form to the Title VII complaint, at § 43.10[10][a][ii].

[10] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of Federal Equal Pay Act

Because the affirmative defenses to a complaint for violation of the federal Equal Pay Act are identical to the affirmative defenses to a complaint for violation of the California Equal Pay Act,ⁿ⁵⁵ the forms for affirmative defenses to the California EPAⁿ⁵⁶ can be used in preparing an answer under the federal EPA, except that citations to the California EPA should be changed to citations to the federal EPA.ⁿ⁵⁷

[11] EEOC Administrative Records: Confidentiality, Access, and Admissibility

[a] Confidentiality and Access

The identity or identifying details of persons giving information in confidence to the EEOC as to violations of the EPA cannot be disclosed unless necessary in a court proceeding.ⁿ⁵⁸ This privilege is qualified by the employer's demonstrated need for information to prepare its defense.ⁿ⁵⁹ For discussion of confidentiality of EEOC records generally, see Chapter 42, Part C.

[b] Admissibility

No reported cases under the EPA have concerned the issue of admissibility of EEOC records in a court case, but it is arguable by analogy with other federal anti-discrimination statutes that any findings by the EEOC would be admissible

in EPA litigation.ⁿ⁶⁰

[12] Availability of Jury Trial

Private parties under the EPA have a right to jury trial on the issue of back pay,ⁿ⁶¹ but the question of entitlement to liquidated damages must be tried by the court.ⁿ⁶² If the action is in federal court, the party seeking jury trial must make a written demand for it.ⁿ⁶³

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawEqual PayGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawEqual PayEqual Pay ActGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawEqual PayEqual Pay ActBurdens of ProofLabor & Employment LawEqual PayEqual Pay ActDefenses & ExceptionsLabor & Employment LawEqual PayEqual Pay ActRemedies

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Lab. Code § 1197.5. For discussion, see § 43.02.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d).

(n3)Footnote 3. 29 U.S.C. § 201 et seq.

(n4)Footnote 4. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 206, 207.

(n5)Footnote 5. See 29 U.S.C. § 213(a)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1620.1(a)(1).

(n6)Footnote 6. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b); see also [8], below.

(n7)Footnote 6.1. Stanley v. University of S. Cal. (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1069, 1073-1074, cert. denied, 145 L. Ed. 2d 413 (1999).

(n8)Footnote 7. Corning Glass Works v. Brennan (1974) 417 U.S. 188, 196-197, 94 S. Ct. 2223, 41 L. Ed. 2d 1; Angelo v. Bacharach Instrument Co. (3rd Cir. 1977) 555 F.2d 1164, 1171.

(n9)Footnote 8. For definition of "establishment" under the EPA, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n10)Footnote 9. Corning Glass Works v. Brennan (1974) 417 U.S. 188, 195, 94 S. Ct. 2223, 41 L. Ed. 2d 1; E.E.O.C. v. Maricopa Cty. Community College Dist. (9th Cir. 1984) 736 F.2d 510, 513; EEOC v. Hernando Bank, Inc. (5th Cir. 1984) 724 F.2d 1188, 1196; Brennan v. Inglewood Inc. (S.D. Miss. 1976) 412 F. Supp. 362, 365; see 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1); 29 C.F.R. § 1620.13.

(n11)Footnote 10. See, e.g., Usery v. Columbia Univ. (2d Cir. 1977) 568 F.2d 953, 958; Stanley v. University of S. Cal. (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1069, 1073-1074, cert. denied, 145 L. Ed. 2d 413 (1999); Brennan v. South Davis Community Hosp. (10th Cir. 1976) 538 F.2d 859, 861-863.

(n12)Footnote 10.1. Stanley v. University of S. Cal. (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1069, 1074, cert. denied, 145 L. Ed. 2d 413.

(n13)Footnote 10.2. Stanley v. University of S. California (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1069, 1074, cert. denied, 145 L. Ed. 2d 413 (1999) (Ninth Circuit joins Fourth and Seventh Circuits in adopting this approach in EPA cases; affirming summary judgment on non-gender factor, court did not decide second, disputed issue).

(n14)Footnote 11. Patkus v. Sangamon-Cass Consortium (7th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1251, 1260 n.5.

(n15)Footnote 12. Corning Glass Works v. Brennan (1974) 417 U.S. 188, 196-197, 94 S. Ct. 2223, 41 L. Ed. 2d 1 ; E.E.O.C. v. Maricopa Cty. Community College Dist. (9th Cir. 1984) 736 F.2d 510, 513 ; see 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1) (listing exceptions); see also [10], below.

(n16)Footnote 13. Odomes v. Nucare, Inc. (6th Cir. 1981) 653 F.2d 246, 251 .

(n17)Footnote 14. Plemer v. Parsons-Gilbane (5th Cir. 1983) 713 F.2d 1127, 1136 ; see Corning Glass Works v. Brennan (1974) 417 U.S. 188, 197, 94 S. Ct. 2223, 41 L. Ed. 2d 1 ; Stanley v. University of S. Cal. (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1069, 1076-1077 , cert. denied, 145 L. Ed. 2d 413 (1999) ; see also EEOC Notice No. 915.002 (sex discrimination in compensation of sport coaches at universities).

(n18)Footnote 15. Stanley v. University of S. Cal. (9th Cir. 1999) 178 F.3d 1069, 1076-1077 , cert. denied, 145 L. Ed. 2d 413 (1999) .

(n19)Footnote 16. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n20)Footnote 17. 29 U.S.C. § 216(b), (c); EEOC v. Hernando Bank, Inc. (5th Cir. 1984) 724 F.2d 1188, 1189-1190 ; Reorg. Plan No. 1 (President Carter) (1978); Pub. Law 98-532. Before 1978, the EPA was enforced by the Secretary of Labor. see 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b),(c).

(n21)Footnote 18. See § 43.11[5][a][ii].

(n22)Footnote 19. 29 U.S.C. § 216(b); Stansell v. Sherwin-Williams Co. (N.D. Ga. 1975) 404 F. Supp. 696, 701 .

(n23)Footnote 20. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b),(c) (language actually refers to Secretary of Labor, which preceded EEOC in enforcing Act); Usery v. Board of Public Ed. (W.D. Penn. 1976) 418 F. Supp. 1037, 1039 (same).

(n24)Footnote 21. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b); Ososky v. Wick (D.C. Cir. 1983) 704 F.2d 1264, 1266 .

(n25)Footnote 22. Burkey v. Marshall County Bd. of Education (N.D. Va. 1981) 513 F. Supp. 1084, 1089-1090, 1097-1098 .

(n26)Footnote 23. 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(c), 255(a).

(n27)Footnote 23.1. See McLaughlin v. Richland Shoe Co. (1988) 486 U.S. 128, 130-135, 108 S. Ct. 1677, 100 L. Ed. 2d 115 .

(n28)Footnote 24. See Beamon v. W.B. Saunders Co. (E.D. Pa. 1976) 413 F. Supp. 1167, 1176 ; cf. Kamens v. Summit Stainless, Inc. (D. Pa. 1984) 586 F. Supp. 324, 328 (case brought under FLSA; court stated that equitable tolling is applicable to all federal statutes of limitation); see also discussions of equitable tolling in §§ 43.10[6][c] and 43.11[6][b].

(n29)Footnote 25. cf. Partlow v. Jewish Orphans' Home, Inc. (9th Cir. 1981) 645 F.2d 757, 760-761 , disapproved on other grounds, 493 U.S. 165 (1989) (FLSA) ; King v. Carey (W.D.N.Y. 1975) 405 F. Supp. 41, 44 (FLSA) .

(n30)Footnote 26. Compare 29 U.S.C. § 206(d) (federal EPA) with Lab. Code § 1197.5 (California EPA); see also discussion in § 43.02[1].

(n31)Footnote 27. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 206(d)(3), 216(b).

(n32)Footnote 28. Bullock v. Pizza Hut, Inc. (M.D. La. 1977) 429 F. Supp. 424, 431 ; Laffey v. Northwest Airlines, Inc. (D.D.C. 1974) 374 F. Supp. 1382, 1385-1387 , supplemented on other grounds 392 F. Supp. 1076

(D.D.C. 1975) , aff'd in relevant part, 567 F.2d 429, 455-457 (D.C. Cir. 1976) , cert. denied, 434 U.S. 1086 (1978) .

(n33)Footnote 29. See Melanson v. Rantoul (D.R.I. 1982) 536 F. Supp. 271, 291 (plaintiff entitled to average difference, not to back pay based on base rate of highest paid male performing equal work); Pedreyra v. Cornell Prescription Pharmacies (D. Colo. 1979) 465 F. Supp. 936, 949 ; Hodgson v. J.M. Fields, Inc. (M.D. Fla. 1971) 335 F. Supp. 731, 733 .

(n34)Footnote 30. See, e.g., E.E.O.C. v. Whitin Mach. Works, Inc. (4th Cir. 1983) 699 F.2d 688, 689 .

(n35)Footnote 31. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n36)Footnote 32. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n37)Footnote 33. See 29 U.S.C. § 215(c)(3).

(n38)Footnote 34. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n39)Footnote 35. For discussion of FEHA and Title VII remedies, see §§ 43.01[8] and 43.10[9], respectively; compare 29 U.S.C. § 216(b) with Gov. Code § 12970(a) and 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g). Title VII addresses various forms of sex-based discrimination, in broad language, whereas the EPA addresses simply sex-discriminatory compensation in employment. 29 C.F.R. § 1620.27; see also County of Washington v. Gunther (1981) 452 U.S. 161, 163-181, 101 S. Ct. 2242, 68 L. Ed. 2d 751 (Title VII may provide cause of action for "comparable worth"--type violations of the equal pay principle); but cf. Am. Fed. of S., C., & Mun. Emp. v. State of Wash. (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1401, 1405-08 (no Title VII violation where employer paid women less than men for work of comparable worth).

(n40)Footnote 35.1. See Stanley v. University of Southern California (9th Cir. 1994) 13 F.3d 1313, 1321 .

(n41)Footnote 36. See discussion in § 43.11[8][f].

(n42)Footnote 37. See Hodgson v. Daisy Manufacturing Company (8th Cir. [Ark.] 1971) 445 F.2d 823, 825 ; Usery v. Godwin Hardware, Inc. (W.D. Mich. 1976) 426 F. Supp. 1243, 1269 ; Brennan v. Sterling Seal Company, Inc. (W.D. Pa. 1973) 363 F. Supp. 1230, 1234 ; cf. Brennan v. Board of Education, Jersey City, New Jersey (D.N.J. 1974) 374 F. Supp. 817, 833-834 (interest under FLSA); but see Schulte v. Wilson Industries, Inc. (S.D. Tex. 1982) 547 F. Supp. 324, 343 .

(n43)Footnote 38. See, e.g., Gibson v. Mohawk Rubber Co. (8th Cir. [Ark.] 1982) 695 F.2d 1093, 1101-1103 ; Grove v. Frostburg Nat. Bank (D. Md. 1982) 549 F. Supp. 922, 948 .

(n44)Footnote 39. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

(n45)Footnote 40. E.E.O.C. v. First Citizens Bank of Billings (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 397, 403 ; Marshall v. Brunner (3rd Cir. [Pa.] 1982) 668 F.2d 748, 753 .

(n46)Footnote 41. 29 U.S.C. §§ 216(b), 260; E.E.O.C. v. First Citizens Bank of Billings (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 397, 403 .

(n47)Footnote 42. E.E.O.C. v. First Citizens Bank of Billings (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 397, 403 .

(n48)Footnote 43. See 29 U.S.C. § 260; E.E.O.C. v. First Citizens Bank of Billings (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 397, 403 .

(n49)Footnote 44. E.E.O.C. v. First Citizens Bank of Billings (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 397, 403 .

(n50)Footnote 45. E.E.O.C. v. First Citizens Bank of Billings (9th Cir. 1985) 758 F.2d 397, 403 .

(n51)Footnote 46. 29 U.S.C. 216(b); see Thompson v. Barrett (D.D.C. 1984) 599 F. Supp. 806, 810 ; Weisel v. Singapore Joint Venture, Inc. (5th Cir. [Fla.] 1979) 602 F.2d 1185, 1191 fn. 18 ; Nitterright v. Claytor (D.D.C. 1978) 454 F. Supp. 130, 141 .

(n52)Footnote 47. Kreager v. Solomon & Flanagan, P.A. (11th Cir. [Fla.] 1985) 775 F.2d 1541, 1543-1544 . In an EPA action brought in a California state court, such an award might also be available under Code Civ. Proc. § 128.5.

(n53)Footnote 48. Compare 29 U.S.C. § 206(d) with Lab. Code § 1197.5; see also discussion in §§ 43.02[1] and 43.12 [1].

(n54)Footnote 49. See 29 U.S.C. § 216(b); see also discussion in [2], above.

(n55)Footnote 50. See Lab. Code § 1198.7.

(n56)Footnote 51. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 206(d) and 216(b).

(n57)Footnote 52. See § 43.02[8][b] at Paragraph 4 of the Form.

(n58)Footnote 53. See discussion in § 43.12[5].

(n59)Footnote 54. Fed. Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 38; see Nulf v. International Paper Co. (10th Cir. [Okla.] 1981) 656 F.2d 553, 563 . For discussion of availability of jury trial, see [12], below.

(n60)Footnote 55. Compare 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1) with Lab. Code § 1197.5(a).

(n61)Footnote 56. See § 43.02[11].

(n62)Footnote 57. See 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1)(i)-(iv) (affirmative defenses under federal EPA).

(n63)Footnote 58. 29 C.F.R. § 1620.30(c).

(n64)Footnote 59. Usery v. Ritter (10th Cir. 1977) 547 F.2d 528, 531 ; see also discussion of the privilege under the ADEA, in § 43.11[12].

(n65)Footnote 60. See discussion of this matter under Title VII in § 43.10[13] and under ADEA in § 43.11[12].

(n66)Footnote 61. Nulf v. International Paper Co. (10th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 553, 563 ; Lazarus v. State of Maryland (D. Md. 1978) 79 F.R.D. 633, 635 n.2 (party has right to jury trial, but it must be prayed for).

(n67)Footnote 62. Altman v. Stevens Fashion Fabrics (N.D. Cal. 1977) 441 F. Supp. 1318, 1321-1322 ; Usery v. Venango Diagnostic & Training Center Inc. (W.D. Pa. 1976) 72 F.R.D. 469, 470 .

(n68)Footnote 63. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 38(b); see Nulf v. International Paper Co. (10th Cir. 1981) 656 F.2d 553, 563 .

10 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.13

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.13 Rehabilitation Act of 1973

[1] Right of Action

Section 503ⁿ¹ of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973ⁿ² requires affirmative action by federal contractors as to employment of disabled persons, and Section 504ⁿ³ of the Act prohibits federally funded programs from discriminating against disabled persons in employment. The scope of coverage of these provisions is discussed in Chapter 40, Part C. For discussion of the substantive provisions of the Act, see Chapter 41. For discussion of affirmative action requirements under Section 503, see Chapter 44.

There is no private right of action under Section 503, the affirmative action provision of the Act,ⁿ⁴ but an individual within the protections of section 504 does have such a private right of action.ⁿ⁵

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

In Consolidated Rail Corporation v. Darrone, ⁿ⁶ the Supreme Court had held, among other things, that Section 504 limited "the ban of discrimination to the specific program or activity receiving federal funds,"ⁿ⁷ in the same way that Title IX of the 1972 Educational Amendments limited its nondiscrimination provisions.ⁿ⁸ Subsequently, however, Congress enacted the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1987,ⁿ⁹ which overruled that part of the holding in Darrone and clarified that Section 504, as well as Title IX, the ADEA, and Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, apply to an entire institution or entity receiving federal funds, not just to the particular program or activity receiving them. This legislation will make it easier for private plaintiffs to litigate under section 504 because it considerably broadens the range of covered employees. For further discussion of the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1987, see Chapter 40, Part C. Comme ntary by Erica B. Grubb.

In California, the state FEHA also prohibits discrimination based on mental or physical disability.ⁿ¹⁰ For discussion of civil actions under the FEHA, see § 43.01.

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

The respective burdens of proof of the plaintiff and defendant in a case under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act are similar to the burdens of proof and method of presentation of a case in a Title VII action alleging disparate treatment or disparate impact.ⁿ¹¹ Both disparate treatment and disparate impact theories are available to plaintiff in a Section 504 employment discrimination case.ⁿ¹² It should be noted, however, that if a private action is brought under a disparate impact theory, plaintiff may not be able to obtain compensatory damages.ⁿ¹³ Under either theory, the plaintiff's burden is to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant discriminated against plaintiff on the basis of the plaintiff's disability. The plaintiff may establish a prima facie case of disparate treatment by showing that:

1. Plaintiff is "an individual with a disability," as defined in the Rehabilitation Act of 1973;ⁿ¹⁴
2. Plaintiff sought an employment opportunity for which he or she was qualified or "otherwise qualified";ⁿ¹⁵
3. Defendant rejected plaintiff or denied him or her the employment opportunity under circumstances indicating that it was on the basis of his or her disability.ⁿ¹⁶

Once the plaintiff has established these factors, the burden then shifts to the defendant to rebut the presumption of discrimination by showing, in a disparate treatment case, that its actions were not based on plaintiff's disability but rather on a legitimate nondiscriminatory reason.ⁿ¹⁷ As in Title VII cases, pretext must be proved by plaintiff in a disparate treatment case, if defendant succeeds in establishing a reason other than plaintiff's disability to justify the disparate treatment.ⁿ¹⁸ In proving pretext in a Section 504 case, plaintiff must show that defendant's proffered reason for the treatment complained of is based on misconceptions or unjustified factual conclusions and that the reasons for rejection encompassed unjustified consideration of plaintiff's disability.ⁿ¹⁹

In a disparate impact case, the plaintiff need not prove that the employer acted with discriminatory intent, but rather that the challenged practice disproportionately disadvantaged the protected group, of which plaintiff is a member, and that plaintiff was qualified for the position under all but the challenged criteria.ⁿ²⁰ The burden then shifts to defendant, who must show that its actions were job-related and based on business necessity.ⁿ²¹ If the employer satisfies this standard, the plaintiff has the burden of persuasion to show that he or she could satisfy the job qualifications.ⁿ²²

Section 504 requires that a covered employer must reasonably accommodate those disabled persons who are otherwise qualified for employment.ⁿ²³ However, the authorities are split as to whether the burden of showing inability to accommodate otherwise qualified disabled employees is on the employer,ⁿ²⁴ or whether it is part of the plaintiff's prima facie case that he or she is "otherwise qualified."ⁿ²⁵ If it is the defendant's burden, then the assertion of an inability to accommodate is an alternative to defendant's articulation of a legitimate nondiscriminatory reason in a disparate treatment action. Defendants have attempted to satisfy this burden by claiming that the disability poses a high risk of future injury, but the courts have accepted this defense only when the risk is demonstrably related to the position sought.ⁿ²⁶

If, on the other hand, the feasibility of reasonable accommodation is part of plaintiff's prima facie case, a disabled person is not considered "otherwise qualified" for employment if the record shows that accommodation would "require either a modification of the essential nature of the program, or impose an undue burden on the recipient of federal funds."ⁿ²⁷ Once the employer presents credible evidence that indicates that accommodation would not reasonably be possible, the plaintiff has the burden of bringing forth evidence concerning his or her individual capabilities and suggestions for possible accommodations to rebut the employer's evidence.ⁿ²⁸ For full discussion of the requirement of accommodation, see Chapter 41, Part D.

[3] Jurisdiction

Federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction of Section 504 cases,ⁿ²⁹ because the remedy provision relating to Section 504 incorporates the "remedies, procedures, and rights set forth in Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964,"ⁿ³⁰ which confers jurisdiction exclusively on federal courts.ⁿ³¹

[4] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

The federal courts are divided on the question of whether persons bringing suit under Section 504 against nonfederal employers must exhaust administrative remedies. Some courts hold that the administrative remedies under Section 504 for nonfederal employees are inadequate, and thus need not be exhausted.ⁿ³² Other courts hold that exhaustion is required as to Section 504 nonfederal employment discrimination cases.ⁿ³³

On the other hand, a federal employee must exhaust administrative remedies to bring a claim under the Rehabilitation Act.^{n33.1} Federal regulations require that federal employees who believe they have been discriminated against on the basis of a handicap must consult an EEOC counselor before filing a complaint to try to informally resolve the matter.^{n33.2} The consultation must occur within 45 days of the date of the matter alleged to be discriminatory or within 45 days of the effective date of a personnel action.^{n33.3} Failure to comply with the regulation is fatal to a federal employee's discrimination claim.^{n33.4} Thus, Postal Service employees who did not initiate contact with an EEOC officer within 45 days of the denial of their requests to wear respirators and who also could not point to any discrete, discriminatory act that occurred within the 45-day period failed to exhaust administrative remedies prior to bringing an act under the Rehabilitation Act based on the Postal Service's denial of their requests to wear respirators. Further, their claims were not timely under the continuing violations doctrine, even though the Postal Service denied their requests pursuant to an ongoing discriminatory policy. Claims based on discrete acts are only timely when the acts occurred within the limitations period.^{n33.5}

The jurisdictional scope of the federal employee's court action depends on the scope of the EEOC charge and investigation. The specific claims in district court should be presented to the EEOC. However, the district court has jurisdiction over charges of discrimination that are "like or reasonably related to" the allegations made before the EEOC, as well as charges within the scope of an EEOC investigation that reasonably could be expected to grow out of the allegations.^{n33.6} On the other hand, the district court will properly dismiss an allegation under the Rehabilitation Act the EEOC charge completely failed to include.^{n33.7}

Exhaustion of administrative remedies is not required for a federal employee under the Rehabilitation Act when the employee seeks review of the disposition of an administrative complaint, rather than enforcement of a final action or settlement agreement.^{n33.8} Thus, for example, a federal employee who sued civilly to seek de novo review of his administrative disability discrimination complaint by asking for the relief he was denied during the administrative process, was not required to exhaust administrative remedies.^{n33.9}

The exhaustion requirement for federal employees is akin to a statute of limitations and is subject to waiver, equitable estoppel,^{n33.10} and equitable tolling.^{n33.11}

[5] Standing

[a] In General

Individuals with disabilities, as defined in the Rehabilitation Act,ⁿ³⁴ have standing to bring suits under Section 504.ⁿ³⁵ In addition, organizations of disabled persons have standing to sue under Section 504,ⁿ³⁶ as do parents and guardians of aggrieved disabled individuals,ⁿ³⁷ and survivors of deceased aggrieved disabled individuals.ⁿ³⁸ In one case, in which a school psychologist alleged she was terminated from employment in retaliation for protecting the rights of a disabled student, the court held that the plaintiff had standing to bring a claim under the Rehabilitation Act because she was within the "zone of interests" meant to be protected by Section 504 and the anti-retaliation provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and she had suffered injuries for asserting those interests.ⁿ³⁹

[b] Class Actions

Class actions are available under Section 504.ⁿ⁴⁰ The standing and other requirements for class actions under Section 504 parallel requirements in other federal employment discrimination cases governed by Rule 23.ⁿ⁴¹

[6] Statutes of Limitation

[a] In General

The Rehabilitation Act does not contain any provision establishing time limits for bringing a civil action under the Act. Two cases have held that the forum state's statute of limitations governing those claims that are most closely analogous to the Rehabilitation Act complaint are controlling.ⁿ⁴² Because the defense of laches may be applicable to Section 504 cases,ⁿ⁴³ all plaintiffs should avoid unnecessary delay in bringing suit.

[b] Tolling Principles for Section 504 Limitations Periods

Regardless of which precise limitations period governs Section 504 actions, it appears that equitable tolling principles apply. Tolling principles have been applied when the plaintiff relied on those with apparent power to enforce the law,ⁿ⁴⁴ and when a pending administrative proceeding precluded immediate court action.ⁿ⁴⁵

[c] Continuing Violations

The continuing violations doctrine, which was developed under Title VII case law, applies to claims under the Rehabilitation Act.^{n45.1} Under the United States Supreme Court's analysis of the continuing violations doctrine, claims based on discrete acts, such as termination, failure to promote, denial of transfer, or refusal to hire, are only timely when the acts occurred within the limitations period. Claims based on a hostile environment are only timely when at least one act occurred during the limitations period.^{n45.2}

The Supreme Court expressly reserved the question of timely filing as applied to a pattern-or-practice claim.^{n45.3} However, the Ninth Circuit has held that a discriminatory policy claim does not extend the statute of limitations.^{n45.4}

[7] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects

Normal principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel apply to relitigation of issues and claims under Section 504.ⁿ⁴⁶ For example, in a case in which mentally retarded persons were members of a class in a prior action and secured relief that was identical to the relief sought in the subsequent case, those individuals were precluded from relitigation of their claims of discrimination by res judicata and collateral estoppel.ⁿ⁴⁷

[8] Relief Available

[a] Generally

Section 504 expressly embodies the remedies afforded by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act,ⁿ⁴⁸ but the scope of available remedies under Title VI is unclear. In a Supreme Court case discussing the remedies available under Title VI, a plurality of the court agreed that compensatory relief was not available to a private plaintiff under Title VI absent proof of discriminatory intent.ⁿ⁴⁹ In a subsequent opinion, the Supreme Court held that in a case of intentional discrimination under the Rehabilitation Act, the plaintiff may recover back pay, a form of compensatory damages.ⁿ⁵⁰ With regard to the availability of compensatory damages other than back pay, few cases have been decided. Some district courts have held that equitable monetary damages similar to those recoverable under Title VII should be allowed,ⁿ⁵¹ but have declined to approve damages for mental suffering or humiliation.ⁿ⁵² Other cases would allow compensatory damages for mental anguish and punitive damages.ⁿ⁵³ It should be noted that under the California FEHA,ⁿ⁵⁴ both compensatory and punitive damages are available for discrimination by private employers with five or more employees, as well as harassment in all nonfederal government employment on the basis of disability.ⁿ⁵⁵

Injunctive relief under the Rehabilitation Act is available in the Ninth Circuit under appropriate circumstances.ⁿ⁵⁶

[b] Attorney's Fees

Section 504 empowers the court in its discretion to allow the prevailing party, other than the United States, a reasonable attorney's fee as part of the costs.ⁿ⁵⁷ Case law upholds this availability of attorney's fees to a prevailing plaintiff under Section 504.ⁿ⁵⁸

[9] FORM--Complaint for Violation of Section 504 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

The form set forth in [b], below, is a general complaint by a handicapped individual for monetary and injunctive relief for violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.ⁿ⁵⁹ The extent of monetary relief available to private parties under Section 504 is currently unsettled.ⁿ⁶⁰

Since a case under Section 504 is brought in federal court, the plaintiff must comply with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and with local federal rules of court. For discussion of some of the federal procedural requirements for bringing a federal civil complaint, see § 43.10[10][a][ii].

[ii] Allegations

The complaint in [b], below, contains the following allegations: (1) a preliminary statement of the substance of the complaint (preferred by some United States district courts) (Optional Paragraph 1); (2) the identities of the parties plaintiff and defendant (Paragraphs 2-4);ⁿ⁶¹ (3) the basis for jurisdiction of the subject matter of the action (Paragraph 5);ⁿ⁶² (4) a claim for relief for discrimination against plaintiff on the basis of his or her disability, based on intentional discrimination or disparate treatment (Paragraph 6) or disparate impact (Paragraph 7);ⁿ⁶³ (5) that plaintiff is an "otherwise qualified individual with a disability" who can perform the job despite the disability with reasonable accommodation by the employer (Paragraph 8);ⁿ⁶⁴ (6) an allegation of the need for monetary relief, including back pay (Paragraph 9);ⁿ⁶⁵ (7) an allegation that defendant's discriminatory actions were done with malice, fraud, or reckless disregard for plaintiff's rights and that punitive damages should be awarded to plaintiff (Optional Paragraph 10);ⁿ⁶⁶ and (8) an allegation of the need for injunctive relief (Optional Paragraph 11).ⁿ⁶⁷ In addition, the complaint sets forth a prayer setting forth the relief requested, including back pay, front pay, compensatory damages, interest, costs and attorney's fees.ⁿ⁶⁸ Because the scope of remedies available in a Section 504 case is not entirely clear, plaintiff should request all remedies that seem appropriate to the facts of the case.

[b] Form UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT,

_____ [specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

_____ [name], Plaintiff,) vs.)

_____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).)

Civil Case No. _____

INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT FOR MONETARY
AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR EMPLOYMENT
DISCRIMINATION

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. This is an action brought pursuant to Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title 29 United States Code, Sections 791, 794, and 794a (hereafter referred to as "Section 504") for remedies for plaintiff _____ (name), for alleged discrimination in employment against plaintiff because of his/her disability. Plaintiff alleges that he/she has been discriminated against on account of his/her disability, in violation of Section 504, in that defendant has _____ (specify denial of employment opportunity because of disability, e.g., refused to hire) plaintiff because of plaintiff's disability. By this action, plaintiff _____ (name) seeks the following relief: _____ (specify, e.g., monetary relief, including back pay, compensatory damages, punitive damages, prejudgment interest, attorney's fees and costs of suit, and injunctive relief, consisting of an order requiring defendant to hire plaintiff) pursuant to Section 504.]

2. Plaintiff _____ [name] is an "individual with a disability," as defined in the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title 29 United States Code Section 706(8)(B), in that plaintiff _____ [has or has a record of or is regarded as having] a _____ [physical and/or mental] impairment that substantially limits one or more of plaintiff's major life activities, in that _____ [describe manifestation of disability of plaintiff].

[EITHER]

3. Plaintiff is an employee of defendant _____ [name], and has been employed by defendant _____ [name], at _____ [place of employment] since _____ [date].

[OR]

3. Plaintiff applied for employment with defendant _____ [name] at _____ [place] on _____ [date].

[OR]

3. Plaintiff was employed by defendant _____ [name] at _____ [place of employment] from _____ [date] until _____ [date].

[CONTINUE]

4. Defendant _____ [name] is an employer subject to suit under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act because defendant is a recipient of federal financial assistance within the meaning of that section, in that _____ [specify nature of federal financial assistance received by employer].

5. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court by the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title 29 United States Code Sections 791, 794 and 794a(a)(2), by Title 28 United States Code Section 1331, and by Title 42 United States Code Section 2000d.

6. On _____ [date(s) of violation of plaintiff's rights under Section 504], on the basis of plaintiff's disability described in Paragraph 2, defendant intentionally denied an employment opportunity to plaintiff in the following manner: _____ [specify failure to hire or other violation such as denial of promotion, benefits, seniority, transfer, or demotion, discipline, or discharge].

7. In the alternative, the action of defendant set forth in Paragraph 6, above, was done pursuant to a policy or practice that has a disparate impact on plaintiff as a disabled person in the following manner: _____ [set forth factual allegations showing disparate impact of policy or practice on disabled persons including plaintiff].

8. Plaintiff, although disabled, is an "otherwise qualified disabled individual" within the meaning of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, in that with reasonable accommodation of his or her disability, he/she is able to perform the essential functions of the position that he/she _____ [holds or held or sought or seeks] in the employ of defendant, without endangering the health or safety of himself/herself or others.

9. Defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff as described above have caused and will cause plaintiff to suffer economic losses and damages, including but not limited to lost back pay, front pay/future lost earnings, other economic benefits of employment [such as _____ (specify if known)], emotional distress, embarrassment, harm to career and other losses, from _____ [date of discriminatory action by defendant] to _____ [date on which plaintiff has been or will regain employment right]. The exact amount of lost pay, damages, and other economic benefits to which plaintiff is entitled is unknown to plaintiff at the time of filing this complaint.

[10. Defendant has violated plaintiff's rights under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act oppressively, maliciously, fraudulently, or with reckless disregard for plaintiff's rights, justifying an award of punitive damages against defendant in this action.]

[11. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law to secure relief for the deprivation of equal employment opportunity to him/her complained of herein. If this court does not enter an order requiring defendant to _____ (specify relief desired, such as reinstatement, hiring, promotion, award of retroactive seniority to plaintiff), plaintiff will be irreparably injured by the actions of defendant complained of above.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For back pay, with prejudgment interest, for the period from the first date of discrimination by defendant against plaintiff to the date of judgment in this action;

2. For front pay and/or future lost earnings for the period from the date of judgment to the date at which plaintiff actually is placed in the position that he or she has been denied because of the discrimination;

[3. For compensatory damages;]

[4. For punitive damages;]

[5. For injunctive relief, including but not limited to _____ (specify injunctive relief desired, such as hiring, reinstatement, promotion, transfer, removal of discipline, retroactive seniority, etc.), and for all other injunctive relief required to make plaintiff whole for the losses caused by the violation of defendant;]

6. For costs of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee pursuant to Title 29 United States Code Section 794a(b); and

7. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Add verification, if desired.]

[10] Affirmative Defenses to Complaint for Violation of Section 504 of Rehabilitation Act

Because of the disparate treatment/disparate impact approach to proving cases under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act,⁶⁹ the usual affirmative defenses to Title VII disparate treatment/disparate impact cases are applicable under Section 504. For example, the business necessity defense, which allows a defendant to justify a practice that has a disparate impact on a protected group based on a showing that the particular job requirements are job-related, is an available defense to a Section 504 complaint.⁷⁰ Other defenses that may be stated affirmatively are that the employer has fulfilled its duty to accommodate disabled workers, or that fulfillment of that duty would constitute an undue hardship on the employer.⁷¹

For examples of forms of affirmative defenses to an FEHA complaint based on handicap discrimination, which may be modified for use in an answer to a complaint under Section 504, see § 43.01[13][f], [g], [j], [k], [l].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disability Discrimination
Federal & State Interrelationships
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disability Discrimination
Rehabilitation Act
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Disparate Impact
Defenses & Exceptions
Bona Fide Occupational Qualifications
Labor & Employment Law
Discrimination
Public Contracts
Coverage & Definitions

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 29 U.S.C. § 793, referred to as Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act.

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 U.S.C. § 701 et seq.

(n3)Footnote 3. See 29 U.S.C. § 794, referred to as Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act.

(n4)Footnote 4. Hodges v. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. (10th Cir. 1984) 728 F.2d 414, 416, cert. denied, 469 U.S. 822 (1984); Fisher v. City of Tucson (9th Cir. 1981) 663 F.2d 861, 864-867, cert. denied, 459 U.S. 881 (1982).

(n5)Footnote 5. CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 630-631, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568; Smith v. United States Postal Service (6th Cir. 1985) 766 F.2d 205, 206; Graves v. Methodist Youth Services Inc. (N.D. Ill. 1985) 624 F. Supp. 429, 433-434.

(n6)Footnote 6. CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568.

(n7)Footnote 7. CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 636, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568.

(n8)Footnote 8. See Grove City College v. Bell (1984) 465 U.S. 555, 573, 104 S. Ct. 1211, 79 L. Ed. 2d 516.

(n9)Footnote 9. See Pub. L. No. 100-259.

(n10)Footnote 10. See Gov. Code §§ 12926(i), (k), 12940; see, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 842.

(n11)Footnote 11. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.; McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 93 S.

Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; Doe v. New York University (2d Cir. 1981) 666 F.2d 761, 776 . For discussion of burden of proof in Title VII action, see § 43.10[2].

(n12)Footnote 12. See, e.g., Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 306-307 (disparate impact); Pushkin v. Regents of University of Colorado (10th Cir. 1981) 658 F.2d 1372, 1389-1390 (disparate treatment).

(n13)Footnote 13. See Guardians Ass'n v. Civil Service Comm'n (1983) 463 U.S. 582, 607 n.27, 103 S. Ct. 3221, 77 L. Ed. 2d 866 (majority of justices would not allow compensatory damages in absence of proof of intentional discrimination). For discussion of relief available, see [8], below.

(n14)Footnote 14. See 29 U.S.C. § 706(8)(B). For discussion of persons covered by the Act, see ch. 40, pt. C, and ch. 41, pt. B.

(n15)Footnote 15. See 29 U.S.C. § 794(a); see Norcross v. Sneed (8th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 113, 117 ; Doe v. New York University (2d Cir. 1981) 666 F.2d 761, 766 . An "otherwise qualified" disabled person under 29 U.S.C. § 794(a) is one who can perform the essential functions of the job in question without endangering his or her own health and safety or that of others. Mantolite v. Bolger (D. Ariz. 1982) 96 F.R.D. 179, 182-183 ; see Doe v. Region 13 Mental Health-Mental Retardation Com. (5th Cir. 1983) 704 F.2d 1402, 1410-1412 (psychiatric worker's suicidal tendencies rendered her not an "otherwise qualified" disabled person under Section 504). For further discussion, see ch. 41, pt. B.

(n16)Footnote 16. Norcross v. Sneed (8th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 113, 117 .

(n17)Footnote 17. Norcross v. Sneed (8th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 113, 117 .

(n18)Footnote 18. Norcross v. Sneed (8th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 113, 117 .

(n19)Footnote 19. See Pushkin v. Regents of University of Colorado (10th Cir. 1981) 658 F.2d 1372, 1389-1390 .

(n20)Footnote 20. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 306 .

(n21)Footnote 21. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 306-307 .

(n22)Footnote 22. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 307 .

(n23)Footnote 23. See School Board of Nassau County v. Arline (1987) 480 U.S. 273, 287 n. 17, 107 S. Ct. 1123, 94 L. Ed. 2d 307 ; Lucero v. Hart (9th Cir. 1990) 915 F.2d 1367, 1372 ; see also 28 C.F.R. § 41.53 (Department of Justice coordinating regulation); 45 C.F.R. § 84.3(l) (Department of Health and Human Services regulation).

(n24)Footnote 24. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 307-308 .

(n25)Footnote 25. See Strathie v. Department of Transp. (3d Cir. 1983) 716 F.2d 227, 230 ; Jasany v. United States Postal Service (6th Cir. 1985) 755 F.2d 1244, 1249 n.5 .

(n26)Footnote 26. See Pushkin v. Regents of University of Colorado (10th Cir. 1981) 658 F.2d 1372, 1384-1390 (multiple sclerosis did not pose significant risk of future injury for psychiatric resident); Bentivegna v. United States Dept't of Labor (9th Cir. 1982) 694 F.2d 619, 623 (diabetes did not pose increased risk of injury for construction positions).

(n27)Footnote 27. Strathie v. Department of Transp. (3d Cir. 1983) 716 F.2d 227, 231 .

(n28)Footnote 28. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 308 .

(n29)Footnote 29. See 28 U.S.C. § 1331; Armstead v. Pingree (M.D. Fla. 1986) 629 F. Supp. 273, 276-277 .

(n30)Footnote 30. See 29 U.S.C. § 794a(a)(2).

(n31)Footnote 31. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000d.

(n32)Footnote 32. See, e.g., Great L.A. Co. on Deaf v. Com. Tel. of So. Cal. (9th Cir. 1983) 719 F.2d 1017, 1021 , cert. denied, 467 U.S. 1252 (1984) ; Miener v. Missouri (8th Cir. 1982) 673 F.2d 969, 978 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 909 (1982) ; Kling v. County of Los Angeles (9th Cir. 1980) 633 F.2d 876, 879 , rev'd on other grounds, 474 U.S. 936 (1985) ; Shuttleworth v. Broward County (S.D. Fla. 1986) 639 F. Supp. 654, 657-658 ; Davis v. Modine Mfg. Co. (D. Kan. 1981) 526 F. Supp. 943, 955 ; Whitaker v. Board of Higher Ed. of City of New York (E.D.N.Y. 1978) 461 F. Supp. 99, 108-109 .

(n33)Footnote 33. Doe v. Colautti (E.D. Pa. 1978) 454 F. Supp. 621, 630 , aff'd, 592 F.2d 704, 706 (3d Cir. 1979) .

(n34)Footnote 33.1. See Leong v. Potter (9th Cir. 2003) 347 F.3d 1117, 1121-1122 (although failure to file EEOC complaint is not complete bar to district court jurisdiction over action by federal employee, substantial compliance with exhaustion requirement is jurisdictional pre-requisite).

(n35)Footnote 33.2. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a); see, e.g., Leong v. Potter (9th Cir. 2003) 347 F.3d 1117, 1122 (Postal Service employee was required to consult with EEO counselor before filing action under Rehabilitation Act).

(n36)Footnote 33.3. 29 C.F.R. § 1614.105(a)(1).

(n37)Footnote 33.4. Cherosky v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2003) 330 F.3d 1243, 1245 ; see Lyons v. England (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1092, 1105 (Title VII action) .

(n38)Footnote 33.5. Cherosky v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2003) 330 F.3d 1243, 1245-1248 . For discussion of continuing violations doctrine in Rehabilitation Act actions, see § 43.13[6][c].

(n39)Footnote 33.6. Leong v. Potter (9th Cir. 2003) 347 F.3d 1117, 1122 .

(n40)Footnote 33.7. See, e.g., Leong v. Potter (9th Cir. 2003) 347 F.3d 1117, 1122 (district court properly dismissed Rehabilitation Act claim of discrimination based on mental disability by Postal Service employee, because employee never attempted to amend his EEOC charge to reflect Rehabilitation Act claim, disability claim relied on different theory and different statute than other claims, EEOC did not investigate disability discrimination and investigation could not have been reasonably expected to grow out of charges, nothing in employee's affidavit would have led EEOC to suspect he was disabled or had been subjected to disability discrimination, and charges did not provide Postal Service adequate notice of disability discrimination claim or that voluntary settlement of claim might be possible through reasonable accommodation of his mental illness).

(n41)Footnote 33.8. Farrell v. Principi (9th Cir. 2004) 366 F.3d 1066, 1067 . see 29 C.F.R. § 1614.504(a).

(n42)Footnote 33.9. Farrell v. Principi (9th Cir. 2004) 366 F.3d 1066, 1067-1069 .

(n43)Footnote 33.10. Leong v. Potter (9th Cir. 2003) 347 F.3d 1117, 1123 (there was no triable issue of fact as to whether Postal Service wrongfully prevented terminated employee from meeting with EEO counselor after his termination by not permitting him to enter former work site, because there was no evidence Postal Service refused to let him enter site because he wished to speak with EEO counselor or that meeting with counselor in person would have helped him advance his mental disability claim, which he failed to present in his claim).

(n44)Footnote 33.11. Zipes v. Trans World Airlines, Inc. (1982) 455 U.S. 385, 393, 102 S. Ct. 1127, 71 L. Ed. 2d

234 . see Leong v. Potter (9th Cir. 2003) 347 F.3d 1117, 1123 (equitable tolling would excuse delay, but not Postal Service employee's complete failure to file disability claim with EEOC).

(n45)Footnote 34. See 29 U.S.C. § 706(8) (definition of "individual with a disability"); see also discussion in ch. 41, pt. B.

(n46)Footnote 35. See, e.g., Nodleman v. Aero Mexico (C.D. Cal. 1981) 528 F. Supp. 475, 480-481 .

(n47)Footnote 36. Williams v. United States (9th Cir. 1983) 704 F.2d 1162, 1163 (two disabled individuals and four organizations that had purpose of improving life for disabled persons had standing to sue federal agencies to seek ameliorative regulation under Rehabilitation Act); NAACP v. Wilmington Medical Center, Inc. (D. Del. 1978) 453 F. Supp. 280, 284 n.3 , vacated on other grounds, 599 F.2d 1247 (3d Cir. 1979) .

(n48)Footnote 37. See Hoyt v. St. Mary's Rehabilitation Center (8th Cir. 1983) 711 F.2d 864, 867 (friend and visitor of nursing home patient lacked standing under Rehabilitation Act because they were not relative or guardian); Sanders by Sanders v. Marquette Public Schools (W.D. Mich. 1983) 561 F. Supp. 1361, 1370 (father had standing to sue under Act on behalf of daughter during her minority, but he had no right to sue for derivative injuries allegedly caused to him by discrimination against daughter).

(n49)Footnote 38. CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 630, 637, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568 (widow had standing to recover backpay due to her deceased husband under Section 504).

(n50)Footnote 39. Ross v. Allen (S.D.N.Y. 1981) 515 F. Supp. 972, 976 .

(n51)Footnote 40. See Burka v. New York City Transit Authority (S.D.N.Y. 1986) 110 F.R.D. 595, 600-608 ; Dyer-Neely v. City of Chicago (N.D. Ill. 1984) 101 F.R.D. 83, 86-87 .

(n52)Footnote 41. Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 23(a) requires that named plaintiff(s) in a class action must have claims typical of class members and must adequately represent them, raise claims common to the class, and show that class is too numerous for joinder to be practicable. cf. Mantolet v. Bolger (9th Cir. 1985) 767 F.2d 1416, 1424-1425 (foreclosing discovery to ascertain existence of nationwide class where only three persons were identified as epileptics with complaints of discrimination against employer); Dyer-Neely v. City of Chicago (N.D. Ill. 1984) 101 F.R.D. 83, 86-87 (class certification of otherwise qualified handicapped persons seeking police officer positions and challenging physical requirements claimed not to be sufficiently job-related).

(n53)Footnote 42. Hutchings v. Erie City and County, Etc. (W.D. Pa. 1981) 516 F. Supp. 1265, 1270 ; Marin v. New York State Dep't of Labor (S.D.N.Y. 1981) 512 F. Supp. 353, 355 .

(n54)Footnote 43. See U.S. v. Univ. Hosp. of State Univ. of New York (E.D.N.Y. 1983) 575 F. Supp. 607, 611 , aff'd, 729 F.2d 144 (2d Cir. 1984) ; Wright v. Columbia University (E.D. Pa. 1981) 520 F. Supp. 789, 794-795 .

(n55)Footnote 44. See Curry v. United States Postal Service (S.D. Ohio 1984) 583 F. Supp. 334, 345-346 .

(n56)Footnote 45. See Hutchings v. Erie City and County, Etc. (W.D. Pa. 1981) 516 F. Supp. 1265, 1271 .

(n57)Footnote 45.1. See Cherosky v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2003) 330 F.3d 1243, 1245 n.3 (Supreme Court's analysis of continuing violations doctrine is not limited to Title VII actions, but applies with equal force to Rehabilitation Act and actions arising under other civil rights laws).

(n58)Footnote 45.2. Cherosky v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2003) 330 F.3d 1243, 1245 ; see AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 122, 127, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106 .

(n59)Footnote 45.3. AMTRAK v. Morgan (2002) 536 U.S. 101, 123 n.9, 122 S. Ct. 2061, 153 L. Ed. 2d 106 .

(n60)Footnote 45.4. Cherosky v. Henderson (9th Cir. 2003) 330 F.3d 1243, 1246-1247 .

(n61)Footnote 46. For discussion of general principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel, see ch. 42, pt. A.

(n62)Footnote 47. Daniel B. v. O'Bannon (E.D. Pa. 1984) 588 F. Supp. 1095, 1099-1102 .

(n63)Footnote 48. 29 U.S.C. § 794a(a)(2).

(n64)Footnote 49. Guardians Ass'n v. Civil Service Comm'n (1983) 463 U.S. 582, 607 n.27, 103 S. Ct. 3221, 77 L. Ed. 2d 866 ; see Shuttleworth v. Broward County (S.D. Fla. 1986) 649 F. Supp. 35, 36 .

(n65)Footnote 50. CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 630, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568 .

(n66)Footnote 51. See, e.g., Shuttleworth v. Broward County (S.D. Fla. 1986) 649 F. Supp. 35, 38 ; Gelman v. Department of Education (D. Colo. 1982) 544 F. Supp. 651, 653-654 ; Patton v. Dumpson (S.D.N.Y. 1980) 498 F. Supp. 933, 937-939 . For discussion of remedies available under Title VII, see § 43.10[9].

(n67)Footnote 52. Shuttleworth v. Broward County (S.D. Fla. 1986) 649 F. Supp. 35, 38 ; Martin v. Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children (E.D. Mo. 1984) 599 F. Supp. 284 .

(n68)Footnote 53. See, e.g., Fitzgerald v. Green Valley Area Educ. Agency (S.D. Iowa 1984) 589 F. Supp. 1130, 1138-1139 .

(n69)Footnote 54. Gov. Code § 12900 et seq.

(n70)Footnote 55. Gov. Code § 12940(a), (j); see, e.g., Ackerman v. Western Elec. Co., Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1986) 643 F. Supp. 836, 852-853 .

(n71)Footnote 56. See Chalk v. U.S. Dist. Court Cent. Dist. of California (9th Cir. 1988) 840 F.2d 701, 704 .

(n72)Footnote 57. See 29 U.S.C. § 794a(b).

(n73)Footnote 58. United Handicapped Federation v. Andre (8th Cir. 1980) 622 F.2d 342, 347-348 ; see Disabled in Action of Pennsylvania v. Pierce (3d Cir. 1986) 789 F.2d 1016, 1018-1021 ; Cal. Ass'n of Physically Handicapped v. FCC (9th Cir. 1983) 721 F.2d 667, 671-672 .

(n74)Footnote 59. See 29 U.S.C. § 794.

(n75)Footnote 60. See discussion in [8], above.

(n76)Footnote 61. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 706(8)(B), (F) (definition under Section 504 of "individual with a disability"), 794(a) (employers receiving federal financial assistance may not discriminate against otherwise qualified individual with a disability). For discussion of standing to sue, see [5], above. For discussion of coverage of the Rehabilitation Act, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n77)Footnote 62. See 28 U.S.C. § 1331; 29 U.S.C. §§ 791, 794, 794a(a)(2); 42 U.S.C. § 2000d. For discussion of jurisdiction, see [3], above.

(n78)Footnote 63. See generally 29 U.S.C. § 794(a). It should be noted that if a disparate impact theory is pleaded, rather than disparate treatment, compensatory damages may not be available to plaintiff. see Guardians Ass'n v. Civil Service Comm'n (1983) 463 U.S. 582, 607 n.27, 103 S. Ct. 3221, 77 L. Ed. 2d 866 (majority of justices would not allow compensatory damages in absence of proof of intentional discrimination). For discussion of remedies available under Section 504, see [8][a], above.

(n79)Footnote 64. See 29 U.S.C. § 794(a).

(n80)Footnote 65. See CONRAIL v. Darrone (1984) 465 U.S. 624, 630, 104 S. Ct. 1248, 79 L. Ed. 2d 568 (entitlement to back pay). The question of which remedies are available in an action under 29 U.S.C. § 794 is an uncertain area of the law. For discussion, see [8], above.

(n81)Footnote 66. It is unclear whether punitive damages are available in such an action. Compare Gelman v. Department of Education (D. Colo. 1982) 544 F. Supp. 651, 653-654 (punitive damages not available under Section 504) with Fitzgerald v. Green Valley Area Educ. Agency (S.D. Iowa 1984) 589 F. Supp. 1130, 1138-1139 (punitive damages might be available but were inappropriate under facts presented); see discussion in [8][a], above.

(n82)Footnote 67. See 29 U.S.C. § 794a(a)(2); 42 U.S.C. § 2000d.

(n83)Footnote 68. 29 U.S.C. § 794a(b) provides reasonable attorney's fees may be awarded to plaintiff.

(n84)Footnote 69. For discussion, see [2], above.

(n85)Footnote 70. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 306-307 ; see 29 C.F.R. § 613.704.

(n86)Footnote 71. Prewitt v. United States Postal Service (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 292, 307-309 ; see 29 C.F.R. § 613.704.

11 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.14

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.14 Civil Rights Act of 1866 (Title 42 United States Code, Section 1981)

[1] Right of Action

The Civil Rights Act of 1866 (codified in Title 42 United States Code Section 1981) provides, among other things, that all persons in the United States have the same right as white persons to make and enforce contracts.ⁿ¹ As used in Section 1981, the term "make and enforce contracts" includes the making, performance, modification, and termination of contracts, and the enjoyment of all benefits, privileges, terms, and conditions of the contractual relationship.ⁿ² Courts have held that Section 1981 prohibits purposeful racial discrimination in employment and affords a federal civil judicial remedy against private employers.ⁿ³ Other forms of discrimination that can be characterized as racial in nature, such as distinctions based on ancestry or ethnic characteristics, may also be challenged under Section 1981.ⁿ⁴ Section 1981 does not prohibit discrimination on account of sex,ⁿ⁵ age, or religion.ⁿ⁶

For full discussion of the scope of coverage of Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, see Chapter 40, Part C.

[2] Order and Burden of Proof

To establish a discrimination claim under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, a plaintiff must demonstrate that the defendant engaged in purposeful or intentional discrimination, not merely practices that result in a disproportionate impact.ⁿ⁷ Proof of a violation of Section 1981 may be made by proving disparate treatment, and often claims under Title VII and Section 1981 are established by the same proof.ⁿ⁸ Courts analyze disparate treatment claims under Section 1981 according to the same standard used to analyze disparate treatment claims under Title VII.ⁿ⁹ The McDonnell Douglas ⁿ¹⁰ factors used to establish a Title VII disparate treatment case may be used to establish the order and burden of proof in a Section 1981 case.ⁿ¹¹ The McDonnell Douglas factors require that the plaintiff establish a prima facie case, which shifts the burden to the defendant to articulate a legitimate nondiscriminatory reason for its employment decision.ⁿ¹² If defendant articulates such a reason, the plaintiff must demonstrate that the employer's alleged reason for the adverse employment decision is a pretext for another motive that is discriminatory.

As under the Title VII disparate treatment model, the prima facie case under Section 1981 entails proof that:

1. Plaintiff belongs to a racial minority or to a definable group protected by Section 1981;ⁿ¹³
2. Plaintiff applied for and was qualified for the employment opportunity as to which discrimination was claimed;ⁿ¹⁴
3. Despite his or her qualifications, plaintiff was denied the employment opportunity;ⁿ¹⁵ and
4. After plaintiff was denied the employment opportunity, the employer continued to seek persons of plaintiff's qualifications.ⁿ¹⁶

[3] Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

A plaintiff may bring a civil action under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, without exhausting any administrative remedies.ⁿ¹⁷

[4] Jurisdiction

Federal courts have jurisdiction of Section 1981 actions, regardless of the amount in controversy.ⁿ¹⁸ State courts have concurrent jurisdiction over cases under Section 1981.ⁿ¹⁹

[5] Statute of Limitations

[a] Time Period for Filing Section 1981 Suit

Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, does not contain an express statute of limitations. Before the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1991,^{n19.1} the United States Supreme Court had held that the appropriate statute of limitations for Section 1981 suits is the statute of limitations for personal injury actions in the state in which the cause of action arose.ⁿ²⁰ In California, the statute of limitations that applied to Section 1981 actions is a two-year statute.^{n20.1} However, the United States Supreme Court has now held that causes of action alleging violations of § 1981 as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, are governed by the catchall 4-year statute of limitations for actions arising under federal statutes enacted after December 1, 1990,ⁿ²¹ not by the personal injury statute of limitations of the forum state.^{n21.1} However, actions cognizable under the pre-1990 version of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 are still governed by the applicable state statute of limitations.^{n21.2}

The statute of limitation for § 1981 bars claims for acts of discrimination occurring prior to four years before the complaint is lodged. Thus, for example, in Williams v. Boeing Co.,^{n21.3} plaintiffs' original complaint did not contain a claim of compensation discrimination based on race; thus, the statute of limitation ran from the lodging of the amended complaint six years later. Even though heightened pleading is not required in discrimination cases, the complaint still was required to give the employer fair notice of what the plaintiff's claim was and the grounds on which it rested.^{n21.4} An allegation that plaintiffs were subjected to different terms and conditions of employment was not sufficient to provide the employer with notice that they were asserting a claim of compensation discrimination. Specific references to pay in the original complaint also did not provide notice of a compensation discrimination claim, because the original complaint explicitly referred to plaintiffs having been denied promotions, subjected to a hostile work environment, and retaliated against on the basis of their race, and contained specific factual allegations supporting those claims. The references to pay were related only to pay increases accompanying promotions. Plaintiffs' reliance on the language of a consent decree as proof of what was originally alleged also was unavailing, because the consent decree never became effective and because, although a provision implied that plaintiffs alleged a compensation discrimination claim, the intent of the language used in the decree was to effectuate a broad release of all possible claims, including claims not alleged in the complaint. The allegations of compensation discrimination in the amended complaint also did not relate back to the earlier filings and were barred by the statute of limitation, because there was no common core of operative facts between the compensation discrimination claim and the promotion discrimination, hostile work environment, and retaliation claims, and the amended complaint had to include additional facts to support the compensation discrimination claim.^{n21.5}

Claims under Section 1981 accrue when the plaintiff knows or has reason to know of the injury that is the basis of the action.^{n21.6} The injury is the adverse employment action, not the discovery of the employer's discriminatory intent. Thus, the claim accrues upon plaintiff's awareness of the actual injury, i.e., the adverse employment action, not when the plaintiff suspects a legal wrong.^{n21.7}

[b] Tolling of Section 1981 Limitations Period

Equitable tolling is a doctrine that may apply to extend the limitations period. It focuses on whether there was excusable delay by the plaintiff. If a reasonable plaintiff would not have known of the existence of a possible claim within the limitations period, equitable tolling will serve to extend the statute of limitations for filing suit until the plaintiff can gather what information he or she needs.^{n21.8}

Since deciding that causes of action alleging violations of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991 are governed by federal law, not state law,ⁿ²² the United States Supreme Court has not considered whether questions of tolling under § 1981 are also governed by federal law or state law.^{n22.1} To the extent that state law governs, equitable tolling should apply at least to the extent that California law provides for such tolling.ⁿ²³ The filing period for a Section 1981 suit is not tolled by the process of exhausting administrative remedies under Title VII; therefore, a plaintiff with causes of action under both statutes must file an independent Section 1981 action while awaiting the completion of the administrative process under Title VII.ⁿ²⁴

In Williams v. Boeing Co.,^{n24.1} without referring specifically to either state or federal law, the Ninth Circuit held that the statute of limitation on plaintiff's compensation discrimination claim was not tolled by the filing of a joint motion for approval of a consent decree, the district's approval of the consent decree, and its subsequent reversal on appeal. By its own terms, the consent decree was not in effect while on appeal, and plaintiffs could have filed a compensation discrimination claim while the consent decree was on appeal and the employer could not have asserted an affirmative defense that the claim had been released. Further, the statute of limitation was not tolled from the time the district court certified the settlement class. Commencement of the class action itself, not the class certification decision, suspended the statute of limitation as to all asserted members of the class, even if the class is eventually decertified.^{n24.2} The tolling rule did not leave a plaintiff free to raise different or peripheral claims following denial of class status, and the original complaints did not state a claim for compensation discrimination.

[c] Equitable Estoppel

Equitable estoppel is a doctrine that precludes a defendant from asserting the statute of limitations defense. It focuses primarily on actions taken by the defendant to prevent a plaintiff from filing suit, sometimes referred to as "fraudulent concealment."^{n24.3}

California equitable estoppel is similar to and not inconsistent with federal common law.^{n24.4} Under California law, equitable estoppel requires each of the following:^{n24.5}

- That the party to be estopped be apprised of the facts.
- That the party to be estopped intends that his or her conduct be acted on, or so acts that the party asserting the estoppel has a right to believe it was so intended.
- That the party asserting the estoppel be ignorant of the true state of facts.

- That the party asserting the estoppel reasonably rely on the conduct to his or her injury.

The conduct on which a plaintiff bases the claim of equitable estoppel must be different than the conduct on which the substantive claim is based. Thus, for example, in Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco,^{n24.6} the court found that defendants were not equitably estopped from asserting a statute of limitations defense based on alleged misrepresentations about requiring written verification of qualifying experience, concealing the fact that they were hiring unqualified Asian and Filipino applicants instead. The plaintiffs, however, could not point to fraudulent concealment or active conduct by the defendants above and beyond the wrongdoing upon which the plaintiffs' claim was filed, to prevent the plaintiffs from suing in time. Plaintiffs did not point to any misrepresentation by defendants concealing the composition of the applicant pool or the qualifications of those actually hired, or any promise by which defendants discouraged plaintiffs from timely asserting their rights.^{n24.7}

[6] Relief Available

[a] Generally

The U.S. Supreme Court has held that an individual who establishes a cause of action under Section 1981 is entitled to both equitable and legal relief, including compensatory and, under certain circumstances, punitive damages.ⁿ²⁵ Compensatory and punitive damage awards under Section 1981 are not subject to the statutory limits applicable to such awards under Title VII.^{n25.1}

Because the right to be free from discrimination under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, is "absolute," proof of a Section 1981 violation entitles a plaintiff to nominal damages even without proof of actual damages.^{n25.2} Such nominal damages may support an award of punitive damages if the standard for imposition of punitive damages is met.^{n25.3}

[b] Back Pay

Back pay is available to a person who establishes employment discrimination under Section 1981.ⁿ²⁶ Unlike Title VII,ⁿ²⁷ back pay under Section 1981 is not limited to the period commencing two years prior to the violation giving rise to filing of an EEOC charge.ⁿ²⁸ In recovering back pay under Section 1981, the burden is on the plaintiff to show that he or she has lost earnings due to discrimination.ⁿ²⁹

[c] Front Pay

Because a plaintiff under Section 1981 is entitled to seek compensatory damages,ⁿ³⁰ and because front pay or "future lost earnings" is a form of compensatory damages for employment discrimination,ⁿ³¹ it appears that front pay is an available remedy under Section 1981.

[d] Compensatory Damages

Compensatory damages are available in actions under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981.ⁿ³² Compensatory damages may include recovery for emotional distress due to discrimination.ⁿ³³

[e] Punitive Damages

Punitive damages are available in actions under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981.ⁿ³⁴ In the employment discrimination context, an employer that discriminates risks that its actions will violate federal law and cause it to be liable for punitive damages.ⁿ³⁵ An employer will not be vicariously liable for discriminatory employment decisions of managerial agents that are contrary to the employer's good faith efforts to comply with the law.^{n35.1} An employer may be liable for punitive damages if a supervisor who did not actually perpetrate the harassment but nonetheless was responsible under company policy for receiving and acting on complaints of harassment, failed to take action to remedy the harassment.^{n35.2} Evidence presented by the employer of post-charge remediation does not automatically bar the imposition of punitive damages. However, the trial court, in its discretion, may allow an employer to introduce evidence of remedial conduct undertaken in response to its discovery of discrimination to mitigate punitive damages. Further, if the plaintiff contends punitive damages are necessary to "teach the employer a lesson," post-charge remediation may be relevant and admissible.^{n35.3}

In California, the liability of an employer for punitive damages based on the conduct of an employee is governed by Civil Code Section 3294(b). For discussion of this provision, see Chapter 30. For full discussion of availability of punitive damages under California law, see Levy, Golden, and Sacks, California Torts, Chapter 54.

[f] Equitable Remedies

Injunctive relief is available under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981.ⁿ³⁶ Reinstatement is a form of injunctive relief available under Section 1981.ⁿ³⁷ Affirmative hiring goals and timetables may also be available in some cases to remedy violations of Section 1981.ⁿ³⁸ In addition, awards of retroactive seniority may be made in actions under Section 1981.ⁿ³⁹

[g] Prejudgment Interest

Prejudgment interest on a Section 1981 award is available in the discretion of the court.ⁿ⁴⁰

[h] Attorney's Fee and Expert Fee Awards

Attorney's fees under Section 1981 are governed by Title 42 United States Code Section 1988, the Civil Rights Attorney's Fees Awards Act of 1976. Section 1988 provides in relevant part that "[i]n any action or proceeding to enforce a provision of Section ... 1981, ... the court, in its discretion, may allow the prevailing party, other than the United States, a reasonable attorney's fee as part of the costs." However, costs, including legal fees, may not be awarded in an action against a judicial officer for an act or omission taken in his or her judicial capacity, unless the alleged action clearly exceeds that officer's jurisdiction.ⁿ⁴¹ In awarding an attorney's fee in any action or proceeding to enforce a provision of Section 1981, the court, in its discretion, may include expert fees as part of the attorney's fee.^{n41.1}

In Barjon v. Dalton,^{n41.2} the Ninth Circuit analyzed the discretionary award of reasonable attorney's fees under 42 U.S.C. § 1988(b). These fees must be calculated according to the prevailing rates in the relevant community, regardless of the actual fee charged and whether the plaintiff is represented by private or non-profit counsel.^{n41.3} In general, the "relevant community" is the forum in which the district court sits;^{n41.4} however, rates outside the forum may be used if local counsel is unavailable, either because local counsel is unwilling or is unable to perform for lack of the requisite degree of experience, expertise, or specialization.^{n41.5}

A prevailing plaintiff may obtain attorney's fees against an unsuccessful intervenor, even if the intervenor did not violate the plaintiff's civil rights.ⁿ⁴² In determining whether to award attorney's fees to prevailing defendants under Section 1988, the standard enunciated in a Title VII attorney's fees case, Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC,ⁿ⁴³ applies.ⁿ⁴⁴ That case held that a prevailing defendant may be awarded attorney's fees only if the plaintiff's suit was frivolous, unreasonable, or initiated or maintained in bad faith.ⁿ⁴⁵ For further discussion of the Christiansburg standard, see § 43.10[9][f][ii].

[7] FORM--Complaint for Violation of Section 1981 of Civil Rights Act of 1866

[a] Comment

[i] Use of Form

The form set forth in [b], below, is an individual complaint for monetary and injunctive relief for purposeful racial discrimination in employment in violation of Title 42 United States Code Section 1981.ⁿ⁴⁶ Because intentional discrimination must be shown,ⁿ⁴⁷ the disparate treatment model governs proof of discrimination in such actions, rather than the disparate impact model.ⁿ⁴⁸

The form set forth below is drafted for use in federal court. However, the state and federal courts have concurrent jurisdiction over actions under Section 1981.ⁿ⁴⁹ When an action under Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, is brought in federal court, the plaintiff must comply with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and with local federal rules of court. For discussion of some of the procedural requirements for bringing a civil complaint in federal court, see § 43.10[10][a][ii].

[ii] Allegations

The complaint contains the following allegations: (1) a preliminary statement of the substance of the complaint (preferred by some United States district courts) (Optional Paragraph 1); (2) the identities of the parties plaintiff (Paragraphs 2-4) and defendant (Paragraph 5);ⁿ⁵⁰ (3) the federal court's jurisdiction of the action (Paragraph 6);ⁿ⁵¹ (4) the defendant's discriminatory conduct violating Section 1981 (example used here is failure to hire) (Paragraphs 7-9);ⁿ⁵² (5) the intentional nature of the discrimination (Paragraph 10);ⁿ⁵³ (6) injury and damages to plaintiff proximately caused by defendant's discriminatory actions (Paragraphs 11-13),ⁿ⁵⁴ including emotional distress (Optional Paragraph 13);ⁿ⁵⁵ (7) an optional allegation for punitive damages (Optional Paragraph 14);ⁿ⁵⁶ and (9) a request for injunctive relief (Optional Paragraph 15).ⁿ⁵⁷

Although this form alleges a discriminatory failure or refusal to hire the plaintiff as a factual example of actionable conduct, the protection of Section 1981, as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, extends to "the making, performance, modification, and termination of contracts, and the enjoyment of all benefits, privileges, terms, and conditions of the contractual relationship."^{n57.1} Thus, Section 1981 prohibits racial discrimination in all aspects of employment. For examples of allegations of other types of discrimination that may be adapted for use in actions under Section 1981, see § 43.10 [9], [10][a]-[d], [g] (allegations of discrimination under FEHA).

In addition, the prayer includes requests for prejudgment interestⁿ⁵⁸ and for attorney's fees pursuant to the Civil Rights Attorney's Fees Act of 1976.ⁿ⁵⁹ When costs, including legal fees, are sought in an action against a judicial officer for an act or omission taken in that officer's judicial capacity, they may only be awarded when the alleged action clearly exceeds that officer's jurisdiction.^{n59.1} Therefore, when applicable, sufficient allegations should be included in the complaint to satisfy this standard.

[b] Form Complaint for Violation of Section 1981 of Civil Rights Act of 1866
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

_____ [specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
 [or other, as appropriate]

_____ [name],	)
Plaintiff,	)	Civil Case No. _____
vs.	)	INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT
_____ [name], Defendant.	)	FOR MONETARY AND
	)	INJUNCTIVE RELIEF FOR
	)	EMPLOYMENT
	)	DISCRIMINATION
	)	(42 U.S.C. §§ 1981, 1988)
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. This is an action for racial discrimination in employment brought pursuant to the Civil Rights Act of 1866, Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, for remedies for employment discrimination on account of race by defendant _____ (name). Plaintiff _____ (name) alleges that defendant has intentionally and purposefully _____ (allege adverse employment action, e.g., failed to hire) plaintiff on account of his/her race. By this action, plaintiff _____ (name) seeks all legal and equitable relief to which he or she may be entitled, including but not limited to: back pay, front pay, compensatory and punitive damages, attorney's fees and costs, prejudgment interest, and injunctive relief against defendant _____ (name).]

2. Plaintiff _____ [name] is _____ [specify race].

3. Plaintiff is an adult person who resides in the County of _____, State of California.

[EITHER]

4. Plaintiff is an employee of defendant _____ [name], and plaintiff has been employed by defendant _____ [name], at _____ [specify location of employment] since _____ [date].

[OR]

4. Plaintiff _____ [name] applied for employment with defendant _____ [name] on _____ [date(s)] at _____ [specify place(s) of application for employment].

[OR]

4. Plaintiff _____ [name] was employed by defendant from _____ [date] to _____ [date] at _____ [specify place(s) of employment of plaintiff by defendant].

[CONTINUE]

5. Defendant _____ [name] is _____ [identify type of employer, e.g., a corporation organized and incorporated under the laws of the State of _____, with its principal place of business in _____ (specify location) and engaged in the business of _____ (specify nature of employer's business)].

6. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court by Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, and Title 28 United States Code Section 1343(4).

[EITHER]

7. On _____ [date], plaintiff _____ [applied for or sought] the position of _____ [specify, e.g., cook] with defendant.

[OR]

7. On _____ [date], _____ [name of defendant] advertised an opening for the position of _____ [specify, e.g., cook]. Although qualified, plaintiff did not apply for or seek that position because plaintiff knew that it was futile to apply for the position for the following reasons: _____ [specify].

[CONTINUE]

8. At all times relevant to this action, plaintiff was in all respects qualified for the position of _____ [specify, e.g., cook] in that _____ [specify qualifications that defendant required, if any, and qualifications that plaintiff possessed for position].

9. Despite plaintiff's qualifications for the above-mentioned position, defendant failed and refused, and continues to fail and refuse, to hire plaintiff for the position. Defendant has _____ [continued to seek persons (of plaintiff's qualifications) for that position or hired a person of a different race for the position, who was no more qualified than plaintiff].

10. Defendant's failure to hire plaintiff was intentional on account of plaintiff's race.

11. As a proximate result of defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered the loss of the wages and salary, benefits, and additional amounts of money plaintiff would have received if _____ [specify, e.g., plaintiff had been hired]. As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ [in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof].

[12. As a further proximate result of defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered the intangible loss of such employment-related opportunities as _____ (specify, e.g., experience in the position from which plaintiff was excluded). As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[13. As a further proximate result of defendant's discriminatory action(s) against plaintiff, as alleged above, plaintiff has been harmed in that plaintiff has suffered humiliation, mental anguish, and emotional and physical distress, and has been injured in mind (and body) as follows: _____ (describe injury). As a result of such discrimination and consequent harm, plaintiff has suffered such damages _____ (in the amount of $ _____ or in an amount according to proof).]

[14. The above-recited actions of defendant in _____ (specify, e.g., failing to hire plaintiff) were done with malice, fraud, oppression, or in reckless disregard of the rights of plaintiff under Title 42 United States Code, section 1981. Specifically, _____ (set forth all facts on which the claim of malice, fraud, oppression, or reckless disregard are based).]

[15. No adequate remedy exists at law for the injuries suffered by plaintiff herein, insofar as the employment opportunity that defendant has denied to plaintiff cannot be secured absent injunctive relief. If this court does not grant injunctive relief of the type and for the purpose specified below, plaintiff will suffer irreparable injury. Therefore, plaintiff requests the following injunctive relief: _____ (specify nature and extent of injunctive relief sought, e.g., retroactive placement into the employment position to which plaintiff should have been hired and retroactive seniority).]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For back pay, front pay, and other monetary relief _____ [in the sum of $ _____ or according to proof];

[2. For general damages _____ (in the sum of $ _____ or according to proof);]

[3. For punitive damages in an amount appropriate to punish defendant for its wrongful conduct and set an example for others;]

4. For interest on the sum of damages awarded, calculated from _____ [date that discrimination first began] to _____ [date of judgment];

[5. For injunctive relief as specified in Paragraph 15, above;]

6. For reasonable attorney's fees pursuant to Title 42 United States Code, section 1988;

7. For costs of suit herein incurred; and

8. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

_____ [signature]

Attorney for Plaintiff

[Add verification, if desired. For rules as to verification in federal court, see Fed. R. Civ. P., Rules 11, 65. For rules as to verification in state court, see Code Civ. Proc. §§ 92(b), 446, 2015.5.]

[8] Affirmative Defenses to Section 1981 Claim

Because a substantive cause of action for racial discrimination under Title 42 United States Code, section 1981, is essentially the same as a cause of action for disparate treatment under Title VII,ⁿ⁶⁰ the affirmative defenses developed under Title VII are likely to apply to a section 1981 case. For the affirmative defenses available in Title VII cases, and forms reflecting those affirmative defenses, see § 43.10 [13]. For discussion of defenses in employment discrimination actions generally, see Chapter 41, Part E.

[9] Availability of Jury Trial

Jury trial is available under Title 42 United States Code, section 1981, at least on claims for legal remedies such as damages.ⁿ⁶¹

■ PRACTICE TIP:

A jury demand should be included in the complaint in most cases. The right to jury trial is waived if not pleaded.ⁿ⁶² Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[10] Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel Effects

In some cases, a party may be foreclosed from litigating a race discrimination claim under section 1981 by a prior quasijudicial administrative hearing or a state judicial proceeding based on the same facts or involving the same parties.ⁿ⁶³

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Civil Rights Law Contractual Relations & Housing Civil Rights Act of 1866 Civil Rights Law Contractual Relations & Housing Property Rights (sec. 1982) Protected Rights Labor & Employment Law Discrimination General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination Reconstruction Statutes (secs. 1981, 1983 & 1985)

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981(b). This definition was added by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, Pub. L. No. 102-166, and was intended to overrule the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Patterson v. McLean Credit Union (1989) 491 U.S. 164, 176-182, 109 S. Ct. 2363, 105 L. Ed. 2d 132, which had held that 42 U.S.C. § 1981 was inapplicable to racially discriminatory conduct, such as harassment, that occurred after the employment contract was formed, i.e., after the plaintiff was hired. The U.S. Supreme Court subsequently held that this provision of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 does not apply retroactively to cases pending at the time of its enactment. See also Rivers v. Roadway Express, Inc. (1994) 511 U.S. 298, 306-307, 114 S. Ct. 1510, 128 L. Ed. 2d 274. Thus, for those cases, the issue of whether the particular type of employment practice is actionable under 42 U.S.C. § 1981 must be decided based on the rule in Patterson.

(n3)Footnote 3. See General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 390-391, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835; Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 459-460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295; see also 42 U.S.C. § 1981(c) (rights are protected against infringement by nongovernmental entities and infringement under color of state law).

(n4)Footnote 4. See, e.g., Saint Francis College v. Al-Khazraji (1987) 481 U.S. 604, 613, 107 S. Ct. 2022, 95 L. Ed. 2d 582 (Arabs are protected pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1981 because Arabs were considered distinct, non-Caucasian racial/ethnic group when statute was passed); Gonzalez v. Stanford Applied Engineering (9th Cir. 1979) 597 F.2d 1298, 1300 (discrimination against persons of Hispanic origin is a violation of 42 U.S.C. § 1981); Manzanares v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (10th Cir. 1979) 593 F.2d 968, 971-972; but see Anooya v. Hilton Hotels Corp. (7th Cir. 1984) 733 F.2d 48, 50 (discrimination against Hispanics is national origin, not race, discrimination, and is not encompassed by 42 U.S.C. § 1981).

(n5)Footnote 5. Bobo v. ITT, Continental Baking Co. (5th Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 340, 343-344, cert. denied, 456 U.S. 933 (1982).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Runyon v. McCrary (1976) 427 U.S. 160, 167, 96 S. Ct. 2586, 49 L. Ed. 2d 415.

(n7)Footnote 7. General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 390-391, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835.

(n8)Footnote 8. See, e.g., Cooper v. City of North Olmsted (6th Cir. 1986) 795 F.2d 1265, 1270 n.3; Gibraltar v. City of New York (E.D.N.Y. 1985) 612 F. Supp. 125, 129.

(n9)Footnote 9. Williams v. Edward Appfels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1484.

(n10)Footnote 10. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802-805, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 .

(n11)Footnote 11. See Patterson v. McLean Credit Union (1989) 491 U.S. 164, 186-187, 109 S. Ct. 2363, 105 L. Ed. 2d 132, , superseded by statute on other grounds, by amendment of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 (see 105 Stat. 1071).

(n12)Footnote 12. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802-805, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; Williams v. Edward Apffels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1484 .

(n13)Footnote 13. See Saint Francis College v. Al-Khazraji (1987) 481 U.S. 604, 613, 107 S. Ct. 2022, 95 L. Ed. 2d 582, 592 ; McDonald v. Santa Fe Trail Transp. Co. (1976) 427 U.S. 273, 296, 96 S. Ct. 2574, 49 L. Ed. 2d 493 (42 U.S.C. § 1981 prohibits discrimination between races, including discrimination against Caucasians); see also McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; Williams v. Edward Apffels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1485 .

(n14)Footnote 14. See McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; Williams v. Edward Apffels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1485 .

(n15)Footnote 15. See McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; Williams v. Edward Apffels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1485 .

(n16)Footnote 16. See McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 ; Williams v. Edward Apffels Coffee Co. (9th Cir. 1986) 792 F.2d 1482, 1485 .

(n17)Footnote 17. Gooding v. Warner-Lambert Co (3d Cir. 1984) 744 F.2d 354, 359 ; Grant v. Morgan Guar. Trust Co. (S.D.N.Y. 1982) 548 F. Supp. 1189, 1192 ; see Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 465-466, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 ; Dalton v. Employment Sec. Com. of N.C. (4th Cir. 1982) 671 F.2d 835, 838 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 862 (1982) .

(n18)Footnote 18. 28 U.S.C. § 1343(4); see, e.g., Bowers v. Campbell (9th Cir. 1974) 505 F.2d 1155, 1158-1159 .

(n19)Footnote 19. See Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1366 (state courts have jurisdiction over actions under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981 and 1983); Holmes v. Chicago Transit Authority (N.D. Ill. 1981) 505 F. Supp. 877, 879-880 ; Lakewood Homes, Inc. v. Board of Adjustment (Ohio Ct. Common Pleas 1970) 258 N.E.2d 470, 508-509 (state courts have jurisdiction over actions under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981, 1982, and 1983); cf. Martinez v. California (1980) 444 U.S. 277, 283 n.7, 100 S. Ct. 553, 62 L. Ed. 2d 481 (state courts have jurisdiction over actions under 42 U.S.C. § 1983); Ochoa v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal. 3d 159, 173 n.10, 216 Cal. Rptr. 661, 703 P.2d 1 (same); Williams v. Horvath (1976) 16 Cal. 3d 834, 837, 129 Cal. Rptr. 453, 548 P.2d 1125 (same).

(n20)Footnote 19.1. Pub. L. No. 102-166, 105 Stat. 1071.

(n21)Footnote 20. See Goodman v. Lukens Steel Co. (1987) 482 U.S. 656, 660-661, 107 S. Ct. 2617, 96 L. Ed. 2d 572 (statute of limitations for 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981 and 1983 is same); Wilson v. Garcia (1985) 471 U.S. 261, 278-279, 105 S. Ct. 1938, 85 L. Ed. 2d 254 (applicable to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 cases); Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 462, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 .

(n22)Footnote 20.1. See Code Civ. Proc. § 335.1; Jones v. Bechtel (9th Cir. 1986) 788 F.2d 571, 573-574 ; but see Rodriguez v. General Motors Corp. (9th Cir. 1990) 904 F.2d 531, 535 (holding that three-year statute of limitations under former Code Civ. Proc. § 338(1) (applicable to actions commenced before January 1, 1990) (see now Code Civ. Proc. § 338(a), providing three-year statute of limitations for action upon liability created by statute, other than penalty or forfeiture), which governed actions on liability based on statute, was applicable because Goodman v. Lukens Steel Co. (1987) 482 U.S. 656, 661-663, 107 S. Ct. 2617, 96 L. Ed. 2d 572 was explicitly held not to be retroactive). cf. Gutowsky v. County of Placer (9th Cir. 1997) 108 F.3d 256, 259-260 (continuing violation theory applies in 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action, such that statute of limitations did not begin to run until employee's date of termination).

(n23)Footnote 21. 28 U.S.C. § 1658.

(n24)Footnote 21.1. Jones v. R.R. Donnelley & Sons Co. (2004) 541 U.S. 369, 124 S. Ct. 1836, 158 L. Ed. 2d 645, 2004 U.S. LEXIS 3236, *11-*28 (because hostile work environment, wrongful termination, and failure-to-transfer claims did not allege violation of pre-1990 version of 42 U.S.C. § 1981, but did allege violations of amended statute, claims arose under amendment to § 1981 contained in 1991 Act and were subject to 4-year statute of limitations in § 1658). See also Fonseca v. Sysco Food Services of Arizona, Inc. (9th Cir. 2004) 374 F.3d 840, 845 (although Hispanic employee's Title VII claim alleging disparate treatment with regard to funeral leave was time-barred because he did not file complaint with EEOC within 300 days of discriminatory act, his claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1981 claim was timely under 28 U.S.C. § 1658, providing four-year statute of limitations for claims under federal statutes enacted after December 1, 1990).

(n25)Footnote 21.2. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1048 n.2 .

(n26)Footnote 21.3. Williams v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 517 F.3d 1120, 1130-1132 .

(n27)Footnote 21.4. See Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A. (2002) 534 U.S. 506, 512, 122 S. Ct. 992, 152 L. Ed. 2d 1 .

(n28)Footnote 21.5. Williams v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 517 F.3d 1120, 1132-1134 .

(n29)Footnote 21.6. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1048 .

(n30)Footnote 21.7. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1048-1051 (plaintiffs' claims accrued at point at which they knew they had been injured and by whom, i.e., at point at which they knew they were not hired for positions they sought, even if at that point in time plaintiffs did not know of legal injury, i.e., that there was allegedly discriminatory motive underlying failure to hire).

(n31)Footnote 21.8. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1051 .

(n32)Footnote 22. See [a], above.

(n33)Footnote 22.1. See Wilson v. Garcia (1985) 471 U.S. 261, 269 n.17, 105 S. Ct. 1938, 85 L. Ed. 2d 254 (questions of tolling under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 are governed by state law). For general discussion of tolling of limitations periods under California law, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Limitation of Actions.

(n34)Footnote 23. cf. Wilson v. Garcia (1985) 471 U.S. 261, 269 n.17, 105 S. Ct. 1938, 85 L. Ed. 2d 254 (questions of tolling under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 are to be governed by state law). For general discussion of tolling of limitations periods under California law, see California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Limitation of Actions.

(n35)Footnote 24. See Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 465-466, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 .

(n36)Footnote 24.1. Williams v. Boeing Co. (9th Cir. 2008) 517 F.3d 1120, 1135-1136 .

(n37)Footnote 24.2. See American Pipe & Construction Co. v. Utah (1974) 414 U.S. 538, 554, 94 S. Ct. 756, 38 L. Ed. 2d 713 (1974) ; Crown, Cork & Seal Co., Inc. v. Parker (1983) 462 U.S. 345, 350, 103 S. Ct. 2392, 76 L. Ed. 2d 628 (1983) .

(n38)Footnote 24.3. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1051 .

(n39)Footnote 24.4. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1051 . See Santa Maria v. Pac. Bell (9th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1170, 1176 .

(n40)Footnote 24.5. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1051-1052 ; Honig v. San Francisco Planning Dept. (2005) 127 Cal. App. 4th 520, 529, 25 Cal. Rptr. 3d 649 .

(n41)Footnote 24.6. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1051-1052 .

(n42)Footnote 24.7. Lukovsky v. City & County of San Francisco (9th Cir. 2008) 535 F.3d 1044, 1051-1052 .

(n43)Footnote 25. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 .

(n44)Footnote 25.1. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981a(b)(4).

(n45)Footnote 25.2. Hicks v. Brown Group, Inc. (8th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 630, 652 (relying on Carey v. Phipus (1978) 435 U.S. 247, 266, 98 S. Ct. 1042, 55 L. Ed. 2d 252 , construing 42 U.S.C. § 1983).

(n46)Footnote 25.3. Hicks v. Brown Group, Inc. (8th Cir. 1990) 902 F.2d 630, 653 n.52 ; see discussion in [e], below.

(n47)Footnote 26. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 ; Waters v. Wisconsin Steel Works of International Harvester Co. (7th Cir. 1974) 502 F.2d 1309, 1321 , cert. denied, 425 U.S. 997 (1976) .

(n48)Footnote 27. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1).

(n49)Footnote 28. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 .

(n50)Footnote 29. T & S Service Assocs., Inc. v. Crenson (1st Cir. 1981) 666 F.2d 722, 728 ; see Edwards v. Jewish Hosp. of St. Louis (8th Cir. 1988) 855 F.2d 1345, 1349 (employer may avoid back pay award by demonstrating, by preponderance of evidence, that employee would have been discharged even if unlawful discrimination had not been motivating factor in adverse employment decision).

(n51)Footnote 30. See Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 .

(n52)Footnote 31. Cf. Thorne v. City of El Segundo (9th Cir. 1987) 802 F.2d 1131, 1136-1137 (Title VII) .

(n53)Footnote 32. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 ; see Phiffer v. Proud Parrot Motor Hotel Inc. (9th Cir. 1980) 648 F.2d 548, 552-553 ; Sanders v. Dobbs Houses, Inc. (5th Cir. 1970) 431 F.2d 1097, 1101 , cert. denied, 401 U.S. 948 (1971) .

(n54)Footnote 33. See, e.g., Hunter v. Allis-Chalmers Corp. Engine Div. (7th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 1417, 1421 ; Richardson v. Restaurant Marketing Associates Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1981) 527 F. Supp. 690, 697 .

(n55)Footnote 34. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 ; see 42 U.S.C. § 1988(a); Pavon v. Swift Transp. Co (9th Cir. 1999) 192 F.3d 902 (Title VII's damage cap does not limit damages under 42 U.S.C. § 1981; 6:5 ratio between punitive damages and compensatory damages was reasonable); Mitchell v. Keith (9th Cir. 1985) 752 F.2d 385, 390 ; Hunter v. Allis-Chalmers Corp. Engine Div. (7th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 1417, 1421 ; Jones v. Western Geophysical Co. (5th Cir. 1985) 761 F.2d 1158, 1162 ; Mitchell v. Keith (9th Cir. 1985) 752 F.2d 385, 389 .

(n56)Footnote 35. Swinton v. Potomac Corp. (9th Cir. 2001) 270 F.3d 794, 809-810 (applying standard articulated in Kolstad v. American Dental Ass'n (1999) 527 U.S. 526, 536, 119 S. Ct. 2118, 144 L. Ed. 2d 494 to § 1981 action; 28:1 ratio between punitive and compensatory damages not excessive).

(n57)Footnote 35.1. Swinton v. Potomac Corp. (9th Cir. 2001) 270 F.3d 794, 810, citing Kolstad v. American Dental Ass'n (1999) 527 U.S. 526, 545, 119 S. Ct. 2118, 144 L. Ed. 2d 494.

(n58)Footnote 35.2. Swinton v. Potomac Corp. (9th Cir. 2001) 270 F.3d 794, 810-811; see also Deters v. Equifax Credit Information Servs., Inc. (10th Cir. 2000) 202 F.3d 1262 (plaintiff sexually harassed by co-workers complained to manager designated to receive reports who failed to act; employer could not avail itself of good faith defense because very person company entrusted to act on complaints of harassment failed to do so and acted with malice or reckless disregard to plaintiff's federally protected rights); Cooke v. Stefani Management Servs., Inc. (7th Cir. 2001) 250 F.3d 564, 569 (while institution of written policy against race discrimination may help to dispel claim about employer's reckless or malicious state of mind with respect to racial minorities, policy is not automatic bar to imposition of punitive damages).

(n59)Footnote 35.3. Swinton v. Potomac Corp. (9th Cir. 2001) 270 F.3d 794, 811-815 (trial court did not abuse its discretion by excluding evidence of anti-harassment training undergone by employer's managers and supervisors after plaintiff filed lawsuit where other evidence of remediation was admitted).

(n60)Footnote 36. See Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295.

(n61)Footnote 37. See, e.g., Taylor v. Jones (8th Cir. 1981) 653 F.2d 1193, 1203-1204; but see Edwards v. Jewish Hosp. of St. Louis (8th Cir. 1988) 855 F.2d 1345, 1349 (employer may avoid reinstatement by demonstrating, by preponderance of evidence, that employee would have been discharged even if unlawful discrimination had not been motivating factor in adverse employment decision).

(n62)Footnote 38. See, e.g., Taylor v. Jones (8th Cir. 1981) 653 F.2d 1193, 1203-1204.

(n63)Footnote 39. Johnson v. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. Synthetic Rub. Pl. (5th Cir. 1974) 491 F.2d 1364, 1373-1374.

(n64)Footnote 40. Heritage Homes of Attleboro, Inc. v. Seekonk Water Dist. (1st Cir. 1981) 648 F.2d 761, 764, vacated in part on other grounds, 454 U.S. 807, aff'd in relevant part on remand, 670 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1982).

(n65)Footnote 41. 42 U.S.C. § 1988(b).

(n66)Footnote 41.1. 42 U.S.C. § 1988(c). The provision regarding expert fees was added by the Civil Rights Act of 1991. see Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 113(a). The legislation was intended to overrule West Va. Univ. Hosps. v. Casey (1991) 499 U.S. 83, 111 S. Ct. 1138, 113 L. Ed. 2d 68, 85, in which the U.S. Supreme Court held that expert witness fees could not be included as part of an attorney's fee award under 42 U.S.C. § 1988.

(n67)Footnote 41.2. Barjon v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 132 F.3d 496, cert. denied, 142 L. Ed. 2d 59 (1998).

(n68)Footnote 41.3. Blum v. Stenson (1984) 465 U.S. 886, 895, 104 S. Ct. 1541, 79 L. Ed. 2d 891.

(n69)Footnote 41.4. Davis v. Mason County (9th Cir. 1991) 927 F.2d 1473, 1488; Barjon v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 132 F.3d 496, 500-501, cert. denied, 142 L. Ed. 2d 59 (1998) (trial court correctly applied local forum rates rather than rates in counsel's place of business; parties' argument that geopolitical realities rather than local forum should govern award fails for lack of support; need for civil rights enforcement does not support higher award without evidence that local rates preclude attraction of competent counsel).

(n70)Footnote 41.5. Gates v. Deukmejian (9th Cir. 1992) 987 F.2d 1392, 1405 ; Barjon v. Dalton (9th Cir. 1997) 132 F.3d 496, 500-502 , cert. denied, 142 L. Ed. 2d 59 (1998) (failure to solicit local counsel is not necessarily fatal to establishing unavailability of qualified local counsel; prevailing plaintiff need not show unavailability of counsel outside local forum).

(n71)Footnote 42. Charles v. Daley (7th Cir. 1988) 846 F.2d 1057, 1070 .

(n72)Footnote 43. Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 421-422, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 .

(n73)Footnote 44. See, e.g., Scott v. Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of St. Louis (E.D. Mo. 1984) 583 F. Supp. 191, 196 ; Davidson v. Allis-Chalmers Corp. (W.D. Mo. 1983) 567 F. Supp. 1532, 1537 .

(n74)Footnote 45. Christiansburg Garment Co. v. EEOC (1978) 434 U.S. 412, 421-422, 98 S. Ct. 694, 54 L. Ed. 2d 648 .

(n75)Footnote 46. See General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 391-392, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835 . For discussion of coverage of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 generally, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n76)Footnote 47. See General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 390-391, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835 .

(n77)Footnote 48. See Monroe v. Burlington Indus., Inc. (4th Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 568, 571 ; Lewis v. St. Louis University (E.D. Mo. 1983) 573 F. Supp. 300, 304-305 , aff'd, 744 F.2d 1368, 1370 (8th Cir. 1984) . For discussion of burden of proof under 42 U.S.C. § 1981, see [2], above. For a full discussion of the disparate treatment model under Title VII, see § 43.10[2][b] and ch. 41, pt. A.

(n78)Footnote 49. See Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1366 (state courts have jurisdiction over actions under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1981 and 1983); see also [4], above.

(n79)Footnote 50. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981; General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 391-392, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835 ; Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 459-460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 . For discussion of coverage of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 generally, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n80)Footnote 51. 28 U.S.C. § 1343(4); see Bowers v. Campbell (9th Cir. 1974) 505 F.2d 1155, 1158 ; Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 8(a).

(n81)Footnote 52. See 42 U.S.C. § 1981; General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 391-392, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835 ; Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 459-460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 . For discussion of coverage of § 1981 generally, see [1], above, and ch. 40, pt. C.

(n82)Footnote 53. General Bldg. Contractors v. Pennsylvania (1982) 458 U.S. 375, 392, 102 S. Ct. 3141, 73 L. Ed. 2d 835 . For discussion of proof, see [2], above.

(n83)Footnote 54. See, e.g., Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 459-460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 . For discussion of damages generally and specific types of damages, see [6][a]-[d], above.

(n84)Footnote 55. See Hunter v. Allis-Chalmers Corp. Engine Div. (7th Cir. 1986) 797 F.2d 1417, 1421 ; Richardson v. Restaurant Mktg Assocs. Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1981) 527 F. Supp. 690, 697 . For discussion of availability of damages for emotional distress, see [6][d], above.

(n85)Footnote 56. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 459-460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 . For discussion of availability of punitive damages, see [6][e], above.

(n86)Footnote 57. Johnson v. Railway Express Agency (1975) 421 U.S. 454, 459-460, 95 S. Ct. 1716, 44 L. Ed. 2d 295 . For discussion of availability of equitable relief generally, see [6][f], above.

(n87)Footnote 57.1. 42 U.S.C. § 1981(b), as added by Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 101.

(n88)Footnote 58. See Heritage Homes of Attleboro, Inc. v. Seekonk Water Dist. (1st Cir. 1981) 648 F.2d 761, 764 , vacated in part on other grounds, 454 U.S. 807 (1981) , aff'd in relevant part on remand, 670 F.2d 1, 2 (1st Cir. 1982) . For discussion of prejudgment interest, see [6][g], above.

(n89)Footnote 59. See 42 U.S.C. § 1988(b), (c). For discussion, see [6][h], above.

(n90)Footnote 59.1. 42 U.S.C. § 1988(b).

(n91)Footnote 60. For discussion, see [2], above.

(n92)Footnote 61. See, e.g., Setser v. Novack Inv. Co. (8th Cir. 1981) 638 F.2d 1137, 1142 , cert. denied, 454 U.S. 1064 (1981) ; Thomas v. Resort Health Related Facility (E.D.N.Y.1982) 539 F. Supp. 630, 633-634 (jury trial available on all legal claims under 42 U.S.C. § 1981); Moore v. Sun Oil Co. of Pennsylvania (6th Cir. 1980) 636 F.2d 154, 156 ; Hildebrand v. Bd. of Trustees of Mich. S. Univ. (6th Cir. 1979) 607 F.2d 705, 709-710 . See also Lytle v. Household Mfg. (1990) 494 U.S. 545, 552, 110 S. Ct. 1331, 108 L. Ed. 2d 504 .

(n93)Footnote 62. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 38(d).

(n94)Footnote 63. See University of Tennessee v. Elliott (1986) 478 U.S. 788, 106 S. Ct. 3220, 92 L. Ed. 2d 635 ; Trujillo v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 1985) 775 F.2d 1359, 1364-1365 (prior proceedings under California FEHA have collateral estoppel effect in subsequent 42 U.S.C. § 1981 action regarding issues that were or could have been raised in the prior proceedings).

12 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.15

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.15 Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act and Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act

[1] Right of Action

[a] Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act

The Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act (VEVRAA)ⁿ¹ imposes affirmative action and nondiscrimination requirements on federal employers and federal government contractors.ⁿ² Veterans within the coverage of VEVRAAⁿ³ who believe that federal contractors have violated their rights may file complaints with the Veterans Employment Service or the U.S. Department of Labor.ⁿ⁴ Courts have uniformly held that there is no private right of action under the VEVRAA.ⁿ⁵ A private individual must therefore rely on the administrative remedy provided by VEVRAA,ⁿ⁶ and the action of the administrative agency cannot be overturned except on a showing of abuse of discretion (that is, arbitrary or capricious treatment of the claim).ⁿ⁷

[b] Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994

The Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA)ⁿ⁸ (formerly known as the Veterans' Reemployment Rights Act (VRRA)),ⁿ⁹ provides generally for employment and reemployment of, and nondiscrimination against, persons returning to their jobs after service in the uniformed services.

A person who was in the uniformed services may bring an action in federal district court to enforce his or her rights regarding employment or reemployment under the USERRA without first exhausting his or her administrative requirements.ⁿ¹⁰ The district court can require an employer to comply with the provisions of the USERRA, award compensation for loss of wages or benefits, and award liquidated damages for willful failure to comply.ⁿ¹¹ The court may also use its fully equity powers, including injunctions, temporary restraining orders, and contempt orders to vindicate a person's USERRA rights.ⁿ¹² No fees or court costs may be taxed against any person claiming rights under USERRA,ⁿ¹³ but a person who prevails in a suit on his or her own behalf with the use of private counsel may receive reasonable attorney's fees, expert witness fees, and other litigation expenses, plus prejudgment interest.ⁿ¹⁴

The USERRA does not provide any time limit or statute of limitations, but it does specifically prohibit the use of state statutes of limitations.ⁿ¹⁵ Under the USERRA'S predecessor statute, the VERRA, which also had no statute of limitations and which also prohibited use of state statutes of limitation, the doctrine of laches was available to prevent the plaintiff from obtaining equitable relief if the defendant could show that the plaintiff failed to use diligence in bringing the suit and that the defendant was prejudiced thereby.ⁿ¹⁶ The laches doctrine may, therefore, also be available under the USERRA.

For further discussion of the coverage of the USERRA, see Chapter 40, Part C.

[2] FORM--Complaint for Damages and Injunctive Relief for Violation of USERRA

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a complaint by a plaintiff who was in the uniformed service and was denied employment, reemployment, or another employment benefit in violation of the USERRA.ⁿ¹⁷ The complaint sets forth allegations for compensation for lost wages and benefits, as well as allegations requiring instatement, reinstatement, or other equitable relief, plus a request for liquidated damages in the case of an employer's willful failure to comply with the USERRA, and costs and attorney's fees.ⁿ¹⁸

[b] Form Complaint for Damages and Injunctive Relief for Violation of USERRA

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

_____ [specify, e.g., NORTHERN] DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

_____	)
	)	Civil Case No. _____
_____ [name], Plaintiff,	)	INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINT
vs.	)	FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF AND
_____ [name(s)], Defendant(s).	)	MONETARY COMPENSATION
	)	FOR VIOLATION OF
	)	UNIFORMED SERVICES EMPLOYMENT
	)	AND REEMPLOYMENT RIGHTS ACT
	)

Plaintiff alleges:

[1. This is an action brought under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, Title 38, United States Code, Section 4301 et seq., against defendant _____ (name) for _____ (specify nature of statutory violation, e.g., failure to reemploy plaintiff _____ (name) after he/she completed his/her service in the armed forces), in violation of the Act. By this action, plaintiff seeks the following relief, pursuant to Title 38, United States Code, Section 4323(c): _____ (*specify, e.g., monetary relief, including back pay, and injunctive relief, consisting of an order requiring defendant _____ (name) to employ or reinstate plaintiff to the position he/she was employed in prior to the commencement of his/her uniformed service, with retroactive seniority and other benefits, or, in the alternative, to employ plaintiff in another position with seniority, status, and pay like that of the position that plaintiff occupied prior to his/her military service*).

2. Jurisdiction of the subject matter of this action is established in this court, under Title 38, United States Code, Section 4323. This is the proper venue for this action, under Title 38, United States Code, Section 4323(b), in that defendant _____ [name] maintains a place of business in this district.

3. Plaintiff _____ [name] is an adult person and is a resident of the County of _____, State of California.

4. [Set forth specific allegations of discrimination or failure to employ or reemploy plaintiff because of his or her uniformed service, e.g., Plaintiff was employed by defendant _____ (name) at _____ (place of employment) from _____ (date) to _____ (date), at which time plaintiff gave his/her notice to defendant that he/she was _____ (specify, e.g., being inducted into) uniformed service in the _____ (specify branch of service, e.g., United States Army).]

5. Plaintiff commenced service in the _____ [specify branch of service, e.g., United States Army] on _____ [date] and served until he/she was honorably discharged from service on _____ [date].

6. Plaintiff informed defendant _____ [name] on _____ [date] that plaintiff had been honorably discharged from military service.

[EITHER]

7. At all times herein relevant, plaintiff was qualified [or with reasonable efforts by defendant was able to become requalified] to perform the duties of _____ [specify, e.g., the position for which he/she applied or his/her former position with defendant or the promotion for which he/she applied].

[OR]

7. Although, because of disability sustained during his/her military service, plaintiff is no longer qualified to perform the duties of his/her old position, and is unable to become requalified with reasonable efforts by defendant, he/she is qualified to perform the duties of the following other position(s), for which defendant employs persons, and which would afford plaintiff _____ [the same or similar] seniority, status, and pay as that afforded by his/her old position: _____ [specify positions].

[CONTINUE]

8. Despite plaintiff's request and availability for _____ [specify employment benefit, e.g., employment or reemployment or promotion], defendant _____ [willfully] failed and refused, and continues to _____ [willfully] fail and refuse, to _____ [specify, e.g., employ plaintiff or restore plaintiff to his/her former position with defendant or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay or promote plaintiff to the position for which he/she has applied and is qualified], in violation of Title 38, United States Code, Section _____ [4311 or 4312].

9. Defendant's failure to _____ [specify, e.g., employ plaintiff or restore plaintiff to his/her former position with defendant or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay or promote plaintiff to the position for which he/she has applied and is qualified], in violation of his/her statutory rights, has caused and will continue to cause plaintiff losses of earnings, from the date of _____ [specify date on which plaintiff applied for and was refused employment, reemployment, promotion, or other employment benefit by defendant].

10. Defendant's unlawful failure to _____ [specify, e.g., employ or reemploy or promote] plaintiff, has also caused and will continue to cause plaintiff loss of seniority, and losses of all other benefits accruing thereto, from the date of _____ [specify date on which plaintiff applied for and was refused employment, reemployment, promotion, or other employment benefit by defendant].

[11. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law to secure relief for the loss of employment alleged in this complaint. If this court does not enter an order _____ (specify injunctive relief needed, e.g., reinstating plaintiff to the position of _____ (title of position) or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay, and ordering retroactive seniority for that position, retroactive to _____ (date), plaintiff will be irreparably injured.]

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

1. For back pay, with prejudgment interest, from _____ [date] to the date of judgment herein;

[2. For injunctive relief, including but not limited to _____ (specify injunctive relief desired, e.g., an order reinstating plaintiff to the position of _____ (specify), including retroactive seniority and all other benefits accruing thereto), and for all other injunctive relief required to make plaintiff whole for the losses caused by the violations of defendants;]

[3. For an amount of liquidated damages, equal to the award of back pay and any other lost economic benefits, resulting from the willfulness of defendant's violation of plaintiff's rights under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act.]

4. For reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit herein incurred; and

5. For such other and further relief as the court deems proper.

[Firm name, if any]

By: _____ [signature]

_____ [typed name]

Attorney for Plaintiff _____ [name]

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationPublic ContractsAffirmative ActionLabor & Employment LawLeaves of AbsenceMilitary LeaveMilitary & Veterans LawVeteransBenefitsVietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 38 U.S.C. § 4211 et seq.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 38 U.S.C. §§ 4212, 4214.

(n3)Footnote 3. VEVRAA affords coverage to disabled veterans and Vietnam era veterans generally. see 38 U.S.C. § 4211(1), (2). For discussion of coverage of VEVRAA, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n4)Footnote 4. 38 U.S.C. § 4212(b).

(n5)Footnote 5. See, e.g., Barron v. Nightingale Roofing, Inc. (1st Cir. 1988) 842 F.2d 20, 20-22 ; De Leon Cruz v. Loubriel (D.P.R. 1982) 539 F. Supp. 250, 251 ; Butler v. McDonnell-Douglas Saudi Arabia Corp. (D. Ohio 1981) 93 F.R.D. 384, 387 .

(n6)Footnote 6. See, e.g., De Leon Cruz v. Loubriel (D. P.R. 1982) 539 F. Supp. 250, 252-253 (person must exhaust administrative remedy); Marin v. New York State Dep't of Labor (S.D.N.Y. 1981) 512 F. Supp. 353, 355 (aggrieved person must have filed with DOL or VES).

(n7)Footnote 7. Clementson v. Donovan (D. 1985) 608 F. Supp. 152, 154-158 .

(n8)Footnote 8. 38 U.S.C. § 4301 et seq.

(n9)Footnote 9. Former 38 U.S.C. § 2021 et seq.

(n10)Footnote 10. See 38 U.S.C. § 4323(a)(3).

(n11)Footnote 11. 38 U.S.C. § 4323(c)(1)(A).

(n12)Footnote 12. 38 U.S.C. § 4323(c)(3).

(n13)Footnote 13. 38 U.S.C. § 4323(c)(2)(A).

(n14)Footnote 14. 38 U.S.C. § 4323(c)(2)(B), (7).

(n15)Footnote 15. 38 U.S.C. § 4323(c)(6).

(n16)Footnote 16. See Farries v. Stanadyne/Chicago Div. (7th Cir. 1987) 832 F.2d 374, 378-379 .

(n17)Footnote 17. See 38 U.S.C. §§ 4311, 4312, 4323.

(n18)Footnote 18. See 38 U.S.C. § 4323(c).

13 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part B. FEDERAL LAW

3-43 California Employment Law §§ 43.16through 43.19

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 43.16[Reserved]

14 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. INSURANCE COVERAGE ISSUES

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.20

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.20 Sources of Potential Insurance Coverage

Both plaintiff's and defense counsel in an employment discrimination action should investigate whether or not insurance coverage is potentially available for the discrimination claim. For plaintiff's counsel, the availability or non-availability of insurance coverage for one or more of the defendants should be considered at the outset of the litigation, since it may be relevant in determining whether or not the proposed litigation is economically viable, particularly if the employer or one or more of the individual defendants may not have adequate assets to satisfy the potential judgment in the action.

The employer's attorney responding to a civil action for employment discrimination should also consider whether insurance coverage is available. As discussed in more detail in § 43.22, even if it is ultimately determined that the damages assessed are not covered by insurance, in some cases the insurer may be obligated to furnish a defense to the employer. Thus, even if the employer is ultimately obligated to pay the judgment or settlement without any insurance reimbursement, the insurer may be required to defend the action or at least pay the costs of defense.

Most employers carry one or more of the following types of insurance policies, each of which should be examined for potential coverage of the discrimination claim:

1. Comprehensive general liability policy;
2. Professional liability ("errors and omissions") policy;
3. Employer's liability and workers' compensation policy; or
4. Umbrella and/or excess liability policies.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Insurance Law Claims & Contracts General Overview Labor & Employment Law Discrimination General Overview Labor & Employment Law Employer Liability General Overview

15 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. INSURANCE COVERAGE ISSUES

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.21

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.21 Indemnification for Damages Resulting From Discrimination

[1] Potential Coverage Based on Policy Language

A first step in determining whether insurance coverage exists for a discrimination or related wrongful termination claim is to examine the language of the applicable policy to determine whether the claim is covered either explicitly or implicitly, or whether the claim is explicitly excluded. Even if the policy does not expressly include discrimination or wrongful termination claims among the insured risks,ⁿ¹ in some cases the language of the "insuring clause" (i.e., the provision that lists the covered risks) may be broad enough to arguably cover the claim by implication. For example, the "employer's liability" portion of many workers' compensation policies typically contains a provision under which the insurer agrees to indemnify the insured against any liability for damages assessed in civil actions for injuries sustained by employees as a result of and in the course of their employment by the insured.ⁿ² The language of such insuring clauses may be broad enough to include damages caused by discrimination or wrongful discharge, in the absence of an exclusionary provision. However, many policies now contain express exclusions for such damages. Furthermore, as discussed in [2], below, the statutory exclusion of coverage for any "wilful act of the insured"ⁿ³ may preclude in coverage in many, though not necessarily all, discrimination actions.

[2] Effect of Insurance Code Section 533

[a] General Exclusion for "Wilful" Acts

Insurance Code Section 533 provides that "[a]n insurer is not liable for a loss caused by the wilful act of the insured; but he is not exonerated by the negligence of the insured, or of the insured's agents or others." This statutory provision constitutes an implied exclusionary clause that is to be read into all insurance policies in California, regardless of whether the policy contains an express exclusion for such acts.ⁿ⁴ The purpose of Section 533 is to discourage the commission of wilful torts by prohibiting any attempt to shift liability for those torts from the tortfeasor to an insurer.ⁿ⁵

As implied by the language of Section 533, a "wilful act" requires more than the mere intentional commission of an act constituting ordinary negligence.ⁿ⁶ In Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co.,ⁿ⁷ the California Supreme Court indicated that even an act that is "intentional" or "wilful" within the meaning of traditional tort principles will not exonerate an insurer from liability under Section 533 unless it is done with a "preconceived design to inflict injury."ⁿ⁸ In Clemmer, the insured had shot and killed his employer following an employment-related dispute and was subsequently convicted of second-degree murder. The Court held that insurance coverage was not precluded by Section 533 as a matter of law because there was psychiatric testimony that the insured did not have the mental capacity to know and recognize the nature of his act or to control his conduct and thus may not have acted with the requisite design to injure the employer.ⁿ⁹ Subsequent appellate decisions applying Clemmer held that Section 533 would not bar coverage unless the insured had a specific, subjective intent to cause injury or harm.ⁿ¹⁰

In J.C. Penney Casualty Ins. Co. v M.K.,ⁿ¹¹ however, the Supreme Court retreated somewhat from its earlier holding in Clemmer. Although not expressly overruling Clemmer, the Court held that an insurer need not show a "preconceived design to inflict harm" when the insured seeks coverage for an intentional and wrongful act "if the harm is inherent in the act itself."ⁿ¹² Thus, in J.C. Penney, the Court concluded that Section 533 precluded coverage of acts of child molestation, notwithstanding psychiatric testimony that the insured did not intend to harm the child, because child molestation is inherently harmful, and thus the molestor's subjective intent is irrelevant.ⁿ¹³

The application of the above principles by the courts to discrimination and wrongful termination claims is discussed in [b], below. For further general discussion of the "wilful acts" exclusion of Section 533, see California Insurance Law and Practice, ch. 41, pt. E (Matthew Bender).

[b] Application to Discrimination and Related Wrongful Termination Claims

[i] Generally

At least two court of appeal decisions subsequent to J.C. Penney have addressed the applicability of the Insurance Code Section 533 exclusion to various claims of employment discrimination, sexual harassment, and wrongful termination.ⁿ¹⁴ Although neither case appears to state a per se rule against coverage of all discrimination claims, the cases do suggest that, at least in the case of intentional discrimination and certain forms of sexual harassment, coverage will generally be barred by Section 533. However, as discussed in [iv], below, it appears that there may be a potential for insurance coverage of actions that allege acts of "nonintentional discrimination," i.e., disparate impact claims.ⁿ¹⁵

[ii] Intentional Discrimination and Wrongful Termination

In B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund,ⁿ¹⁶ an employee sued her employer for wrongful termination in violation of public policy and for age, sex, and national origin discrimination in violation of the FEHA. She alleged that she had been fired because she (1) refused to carry out the employer's instructions to interfere with the efforts of a union to organize employees at one of the employer's facilities, and (2) refused the employer's demand that she systematically fire existing employees and replace them with persons of Filipino national origin, who the employer allegedly believed would be less likely than others to vote for the union. She also alleged that she was terminated on the basis of her age, sex, and national origin in that she was a woman of English national origin over 60 years old and was replaced by a younger male of Filipino descent. The employer had a policy with the defendant insurer, which included employer's liability and workers' compensation coverage. The employer tendered defense of the employee's action to the defendant, which refused to provide a defense on the ground that the employee's claims were not covered by the policy. Thereafter, the employer settled with the employee and brought an action against the insurer for declaratory relief, breach of contract, and insurance bad faith. The trial court granted summary judgment for the insurer, and the court of appeal affirmed.

Although the court in B & E addressed the issue of the insurer's duty to defendⁿ¹⁷ rather than its duty to indemnify, the court noted that the former issue is dependent in part on whether there is a potential for coverage under the indemnifying portion of the policy. Thus, the court found it critical to consider the impact of Section 533 on the potential for coverage.ⁿ¹⁸ Relying on J.C. Penney, the court held that the reasoning of that case also applied to an employer who commits a wrongful employment termination in contravention of a fundamental and substantial public policy, including a termination in violation of the FEHA. The court noted that under J.C. Penney, Section 533 precludes indemnification by an insurer for any intentional and wrongful act if the harm is inherent in the act itself.ⁿ¹⁹ The court concluded that a termination of employment in violation of public policy is such an act.ⁿ²⁰ The court supported its conclusion by noting that it is self-evident that the act of terminating employment is an intentional one. Furthermore, the court reasoned, it can hardly be denied that a termination of employment in violation of antidiscrimination statutes or other fundamental and substantial public policies is inherently harmful, in view of the devastating impact of the loss of a job, whether from a financial, psychological, or emotional point of view.ⁿ²¹ Moreover, the court held, a termination in violation of such public policies is wrongful as a matter of law. The court stated that it would be unreasonable, mischievous, and improper if Section 533 "were construed in any way other than to deny insurance coverage in the most certain and unambiguous terms for willful and intentional acts that contravene" fundamental public policy.ⁿ²²

The court in B & E rejected the employer's reliance on Republic Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court,ⁿ²³ an earlier decision in which the court of appeal, relying on the Supreme Court's decision in Clemmer,ⁿ²⁴ had held that Section 533 did not absolve a liability insurer of its duty to defend an employer against an employee's action alleging termination in violation of the FEHA following an unlawful failure to accommodate the employee's medical condition. The court in Republic had reasoned that under Clemmer, the insurer was not exonerated from liability unless the insured subjectively intended to harm another, and that the employee's right to recovery under his failure to accommodate theory could be established by simply proving that the employer acted "unreasonably," i.e., negligently, and not necessarily with a preconceived intent to injure him. Likewise, the employer's termination of the employee, while an intentional act, was not necessarily committed with the intention of injuring the employee.ⁿ²⁵ The court in B & E noted that the situation alleged in that case was distinguishable from that in Republic in that a termination undertaken with the intent to interfere with protected labor union rights or to discriminate on the basis of gender, age, or ethnic origin cannot be the result of negligence.ⁿ²⁶ More fundamentally, the court in B & E noted that Republic was decided prior to, and thus its reliance on Clemmer was undermined by, the Supreme Court's decision in J.C. Penney, in which the Court held that a preconceived intent to injure is not necessary if the harm is inherent in the intentional act itself.ⁿ²⁷ As discussed above, the court in B & E concluded that termination in violation of public policy and antidiscrimination statutes was such an inherently harmful act.ⁿ²⁸

[iii] Sexual Harassment

In Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co.,ⁿ²⁹ a court of appeal concluded that Insurance Code Section 533 (as well as the language of the applicable insurance policy) barred insurance coverage of an employee's sexual harassment claim against her employer.ⁿ³⁰ In that case, a female telephone dispatcher was subjected to continuous sexual harassment from the company president during her two-month period of employment, including unwelcome sexual comments and propositions and an attempted sexual assault, before being terminated, ostensibly as part of a reduction in force due to economic conditions. Evidence indicated that the president had engaged in similar conduct toward other female employees many times in the past and that female employees who did not accede to his demands for sex were terminated. When the employee brought an action against the employer and its president for sexual harassment in violation of the FEHA and other tort causes of action, the employer tendered defense of the lawsuit to its general liability insurer. The insurer declined to defend the action on the grounds that the alleged sexual harassment and wrongful termination were intentional acts and therefore not covered by the policy. The employer settled with the employee and then sued the insurer for breach of contract and of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. The trial court ruled that the insurer had no duty to defend or indemnify against the employee's sexual harassment claims, and the court of appeal affirmed.

The appellate court in Coit Drapery noted that the sexual harassment and wrongful termination involved in this case were clearly intentional and wilful in that one does not try to force an unwilling subordinate employee to the floor for intercourse, or fire her for refusing sexual favors, as a result of mere negligence.ⁿ³¹ Citing J.C. Penney, the court stated that Insurance Code Section 533, and the public policy it represents, bar the attempt to shift liability for intentional sexual harassment and associated employment-related torts to an insurer.ⁿ³² The court concluded that, as in the case of the child molestation involved in J.C. Penney, Section 533 barred coverage of the sexual harassment involved in Coit Drapery because such conduct "is always intentional, it is always wrongful, and it is always harmful."ⁿ³³

Although it appears clear from Coit Drapery that the individual harasser cannot be indemnified for damages caused by sexual harassment, the decision does not appear to entirely foreclose the possibility of insurance coverage being afforded to an employer for acts of harassment by its employees. The court in Coit Drapery repeatedly emphasized that the acts of harassment in that case had been committed by a high managerial agent (i.e., the president) with the apparent knowledge and ratification of the corporation.ⁿ³⁴ The court observed that the sexual abuse of female employees by the corporate president was so widespread, well known, and ratified by the corporation as to constitute intentional corporate policy, which cannot be the subject of insurance coverage.ⁿ³⁵ The court's decision thus appears to leave open the possibility that an employer might be covered in other circumstances. For example, if the harassment was committed by a lower-level supervisor or co-employee in violation of a corporate policy against harassment and in spite of other steps taken to prevent harassment and if the employer took immediate steps to discipline the harasser and avoid any appearance of ratification, the employer may be able to argue that it had not engaged in any intentional wrongful act and that coverage should not be barred by Section 533.

[iv] Disparate Impact and Other "Non-Intentional" Discrimination Claims

Although California law appears to foreclose coverage of intentional acts of discrimination and sexual harassment by an employer, coverage may be available for "unintentional" discrimination, i.e. claims based on "disparate impact" theory. As discussed in more detail elsewhere,ⁿ³⁶ under disparate impact theory, an employer may be held liable for facially neutral employment policies that have a significant adverse impact on a protected group (e.g., women or racial minorities) and that are not justified by business necessity.ⁿ³⁷ A plaintiff proceeding under disparate impact theory need not prove that the defendant acted with discriminatory intent.ⁿ³⁸

In Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters,ⁿ³⁹ a federal district court concluded that Insurance Code Section 533 does not preclude coverage of disparate impact claims.ⁿ⁴⁰ The court in Save Mart interpreted the California Supreme Court's decision in J.C. Penney as precluding coverage if the insured intended to engage in a wrongful act and if that act was inherently harmful.ⁿ⁴¹ The court reasoned that unintentional discrimination may be inherently harmful, but a plaintiff need not establish that the insured intended to commit a wrongful act in order to recover under such a theory. Therefore, the standard set in J.C. Penney would not be met, and the policy of discouraging wilful torts would not be furthered, if coverage for unintentional discrimination were barred by Section 533.ⁿ⁴² The court distinguished B & E Convalescent Center, discussed in [ii], above, on the basis that the factual record in that case clearly indicated that the employer had intended to discriminate against the employee because of her race and her union activities.ⁿ⁴³

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The decisions in B & E Convalescent Center, Coit Drapery, and Save-Mart (discussed above) could be interpreted to be a complete defense to an insurer's duty to defend and indemnify all claims of discrimination based on disparate treatment, because disparate treatment requires proof of intentional misconduct. Any such interpretation, however, would misconstrue the subtleties of the evidentiary burdens in discrimination actions. That is, an employer's liability for disparate treatment is not dependent on direct evidence of animus. A plaintiff may establish a prima facie case of disparate treatment with statistics alone or with circumstantial evidence alone. In Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins,ⁿ⁴⁴ for example, the United States Supreme Court stated that while a plaintiff's burden is to show that the employer actually relied on the plaintiff's gender or race to make an adverse employment decision, that showing can be made with indirect evidence of stereotyped remarks by the employer's decisionmakers.ⁿ⁴⁵ Thus, at the outset of a disparate treatment case, when an insurer's duty to defend first arises, it does not necessarily follow that just because the plaintiff must prove discriminatory animus, the plaintiff also will necessarily establish that the defendant specifically intended the harm that the plaintiff has suffered. Deliberate misconduct may not have occurred. The better course for determining the applicability of the duty to defend, therefore, would be to focus on the known facts of the case at the time that the defense is tendered, rather than to focus on exclusively on labels like treatment or impact. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Insurance Law Claims & Contracts Good Faith & Fair Dealing Indemnification Insurance Law Excess
Insurance Obligations Indemnification Insurance Law General Liability Insurance Obligations Indemnification Labor &
Employment Law Discrimination General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See, e.g., American Motorists Ins. Co. v. Allied-Sysco Food Services, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1347, 1349, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106 (rejecting employer's argument that excess liability policy covering "injury arising out of racial or religious discrimination" also covered damages for sex discrimination in hiring practices).

(n2)Footnote 2. See, e.g., B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 86-87 n.8, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 ; Republic Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 492, 498, 273 Cal. Rptr. 331 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See Ins. Code § 533.

(n4)Footnote 4. J.C. Penney Casualty Ins. Co. v. M.K. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1009, 1019, 278 Cal. Rptr. 64, 804 P.2d 689 ; Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1603, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 ; B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 93, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n5)Footnote 5. See Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1603, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 ; B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 93, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 ; Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 605 .

(n6)Footnote 6. J.C. Penney Casualty Ins. Co. v. M.K. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1009, 1021, 278 Cal. Rptr. 64, 804 P.2d 689 ; B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 94, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n7)Footnote 7. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 .

(n8)Footnote 8. Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 887, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 .

(n9)Footnote 9. See Clemmer v. Hartford Insurance Co. (1978) 22 Cal. 3d 865, 887, 151 Cal. Rptr. 285, 587 P.2d 1098 .

(n10)Footnote 10. See, e.g., Republic Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 492, 501-503, 273 Cal. Rptr. 331 ; Allstate Ins. Co. v. Overton (1984) 160 Cal. App. 3d 843, 848-850, 206 Cal. Rptr. 823 .

(n11)Footnote 11. J.C. Penney Casualty Ins. Co. v. M.K. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1009, 278 Cal. Rptr. 64, 804 P.2d 689 .

(n12)Footnote 12. J.C. Penney Casualty Ins. Co. v. M.K. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1009, 1025, 278 Cal. Rptr. 64, 804 P.2d 689 .

(n13)Footnote 13. J.C. Penney Casualty Ins. Co. v. M.K. (1991) 52 Cal. 3d 1009, 1025, 1028, 278 Cal. Rptr. 64, 804 P.2d 689 .

(n14)Footnote 14. See Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1603-1604, 1612-1614, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 ; B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 86-87 n.8, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n15)Footnote 15. See Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 606 .

(n16)Footnote 16. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n17)Footnote 17. See discussion in § 43.22.

(n18)Footnote 18. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 92-93, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n19)Footnote 19. See discussion in [a], above.

(n20)Footnote 20. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 97-98, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n21)Footnote 21. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 98, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n22)Footnote 22. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 98, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n23)Footnote 23. Republic Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 492, 273 Cal. Rptr. 331 .

(n24)Footnote 24. See discussion in [a], above.

(n25)Footnote 25. See Republic Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court (1990) 224 Cal. App. 3d 492, 501-503, 273 Cal. Rptr. 331 .

(n26)Footnote 26. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 95, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n27)Footnote 27. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 96, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n28)Footnote 28. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 96-97, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n29)Footnote 29. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n30)Footnote 30. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1603-1604, 1612-1614, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n31)Footnote 31. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1602, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n32)Footnote 32. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1603, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n33)Footnote 33. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1613-1614, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n34)Footnote 34. See Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1604, 1606-1606, 1609, 1612-1613, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n35)Footnote 35. See Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1609, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n36)Footnote 36. See discussion in §§ 43.01[2][c], 43.10[2][c], and in ch. 41, pt. A.

(n37)Footnote 37. See Teamsters v. United States (1977) 431 U.S. 324, 335 n.15, 97 S. Ct. 1843, 52 L. Ed. 2d 396 .

(n38)Footnote 38. Griggs v. Duke Power Co. (1971) 401 U.S. 424, 432, 91 S. Ct. 849, 28 L. Ed. 2d 158 .

(n39)Footnote 39. Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597 .

(n40)Footnote 40. Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 606 .

(n41)Footnote 41. See Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 605-606 .

(n42)Footnote 42. Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 606 .

(n43)Footnote 43. Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 606 .

(n44)Footnote 44. Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins (1989) 490 U.S. 228, 109 S. Ct. 1775, 104 L. Ed. 2d 268, superseded by statute on other grounds, by amendment of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 (see 105 Stat. 1071).

(n45)Footnote 45. Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins (1989) 490 U.S. 228, 251, 109 S. Ct. 1775, 104 L. Ed. 2d 268 , superseded by statute on other grounds, by amendment of 42 U.S.C. § 1981 (see 105 Stat. 1071).

16 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. INSURANCE COVERAGE ISSUES

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.22

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.22 Insurer's Defense of Discrimination Claims

[1] General Scope of Liability Insurer's Duty to Defend

A typical liability policy requires the insurer not only to indemnify the insured against covered claims, but also to defend the insured against actions seeking damages covered by the policy, even if the allegations are groundless, false, or fraudulent.

The duty to defend is said to be broader than the duty to indemnify the insured.ⁿ⁴⁶ The greater breadth is due to two factors, both of which result from the fact that the duty to defend arises at the time that the action against the insured is initiated. First, because a liability policy typically requires an insurer to defend the insured against actions alleging conduct covered by the policy, even if the allegations are false or groundless, the insurer may be required to defend an action even though it ultimately results in no liability for indemnification because the insured prevails in the action.ⁿ⁴⁷

Second, at the time the action is commenced, there may be considerable doubt regarding whether the insured will ultimately be found liable for conduct for which there is indemnification coverage.ⁿ⁴⁸ For example, the complaint may allege multiple theories of recovery, only some of which are subject to indemnification. The California courts have therefore held that a liability insurer must defend an action against the insured if (1) the action potentially seeks damages that are covered by the policy, or (2) the policy provisions lead the insured to reasonably expect that the insurer will provide a defense.ⁿ⁴⁹

Whether or not a potential for coverage exists, giving rise to a duty to defend, is determined by both the allegations of the complaint and any other facts available to the insurer at the time that the defense is tendered by the insured.ⁿ⁵⁰ Once a duty to defend has arisen, it does not dissolve merely because the insured is ultimately found liable under facts that preclude indemnification coverage.ⁿ⁵¹ The insurer is obligated to defend all claims, both covered and non-covered, until the insurer produces undeniable evidence supporting an allocation of a specific portion of the defense costs to a noncovered claim.ⁿ⁵²

For further discussion of the general nature and scope of the duty to defend, see California Insurance Law and Practice, ch. 41, pt. D (Matthew Bender).

[2] Duty to Defend Under Workers' Compensation Policies

Workers' compensation policies typically include not only an obligation to pay workers' compensation benefits for which the employer is liable, but also an obligation to defend any contested proceeding by an employee to recover such benefits. In a number of cases, employers have tendered defense of civil damages actions alleging employment discrimination or wrongful termination actions to their workers' compensation insurers.

In La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co.,ⁿ⁵³ the California Supreme Court held that a workers' compensation insurer had no duty to defend the insured employer against a civil damages action alleging race discrimination in violation of the FEHA and related wrongful termination claims.ⁿ⁵⁴ The policy involved in that case included a workers' compensation part, which provided for coverage of benefits payable under workers' compensation law, and an employers' liability part, which provided for coverage of civil damages, but expressly excluded coverage of (1) workers' compensation benefits, and (2) any damages arising out of the discharge, coercion of, or discrimination against any employee in violation of law. The employer apparently conceded that there was no obligation to defend under the employers' liability part of the policy, but sought to require the insurer to defend under the workers' compensation part, which included an obligation to defend "any claim, proceeding or suit against you for benefits payable by this insurance."

The Supreme Court held that there could be no reasonable expectation of coverage because the workers' compensation portion of the policy unambiguously included only payment of workers' compensation benefits, while the employers' liability part excluded workers' compensation benefits from the definition of damages. Thus, the Court concluded that the workers' compensation policy's language was susceptible to no other objective construction than providing coverage solely for workers' compensation benefits, or claims, proceedings, or suits for such benefits, and not for civil suits for damages.ⁿ⁵⁵ The Court also held that civil action involved no potential for damages within the coverage of the policy because the superior court had no jurisdiction to award workers' compensation benefits; the award of such benefits is exclusively within the jurisdiction of the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board.ⁿ⁵⁶ The conclusion that no potential for coverage existed was not altered by the fact that the employee might later file a claim for workers' compensation benefits based on similar facts. The Court stated the test is whether the underlying action for which defense and indemnity is sought potentially seeks relief within the coverage of the policy.ⁿ⁵⁷ The Court disapproved a previous court of appeal decision that had reached a contrary conclusion.ⁿ⁵⁸

[3] Effect of "Wilful Acts" Exclusion on Duty to Defend Discrimination and Related Wrongful Termination Claims

Although acknowledging that the duty to defend is potentially broader than the duty to indemnify, the appellate decisions that have found that Insurance Code Section 533 bars indemnification of damages caused by employment discrimination and related wrongful termination claims have also generally concluded that the insurer owes no duty to defend such claims. For example, in B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund,ⁿ⁵⁹ discussed in § 43.21[2][b][ii], the court of appeal held that the employee's action for wrongful termination in violation of public policy and the FEHA could not be the result of negligence because proof of the underlying action necessarily required proof of wilful and intentional misconduct,ⁿ⁶⁰ coverage of which, the court concluded, was precluded by Insurance Code Section 533. Hence, there was no "potential" for coverage.ⁿ⁶¹

The court in B & E also concluded that the language of the policy in that case could not be construed as providing a basis for a reasonable expectation by the insured employer that the insurer would provide a defense of claims for which indemnification is precluded by Section 533.ⁿ⁶² In reaching that conclusion, the court treated the exclusion of Section 533 as though it were an express exclusion contained in the policyn⁶³ and placed the burden on the insured employer to show that the language of the policy created a reasonable expectation of a defense of the employee's action, notwithstanding the fact that indemnification would be barred by Section 533.ⁿ⁶⁴ The court concluded that the policy in that case merely gave the insurer an option to defend claims for which no indemnification was available and did not create a duty to defend the claims asserted by the employee.ⁿ⁶⁵

In Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co.,ⁿ⁶⁶ discussed in § 43.21[2][b][iii], in which the court of appeal concluded that Insurance Code Section 533 barred coverage of an employee's sexual harassment and wrongful termination claims against the employer arising out of particularly egregious acts of sexual harassment by the company president, the court also concluded that the insurer had no duty to defend the claims.ⁿ⁶⁷ The court acknowledged that the duty to defend is broader than the duty to indemnify and may extend to circumstances in which there is no duty to indemnify, based on the objectively reasonable expectations of the insured. However, the court "fail[ed] to see how any corporation could reasonably expect it would be defended against intentional misconduct claims, where the sexual misconduct in issue was a matter of corporate policy, as here."ⁿ⁶⁸ As discussed previously,ⁿ⁶⁹ the court's repeated emphasis in Coit Drapery of the fact that the harassment in that case was carried on by a high managerial agent and apparently condoned and ratified by the corporation seems to leave open the possibility of coverage, and hence a duty to defend, in cases in which the harassment was done by lower-level supervisors or co-employees and was neither approved nor ratified by corporate management.

One court of appeal case did distinguish Coit in finding a potential duty to defend in a case that involved sexual harassment, among other related causes of action.ⁿ⁷⁰ In that case, a hospital administrator, another employee, and their employer, a convalescent hospital, were sued by several women employees for sexual harassment, as well as false imprisonment, defamation, and negligent supervision, among other things. The court found that a stay of the trial in the plaintiffs' declaratory relief action against their insurers was required since, although the causes of action relating to sexual misconduct might not be within the duty to defend, the other causes of action might have activated that duty, thus making the trial on the issue of the duty to defend inappropriate prior to the main trial.ⁿ⁷¹

As discussed in § 43.21[2][b][iv], one federal district court, applying California law, has concluded that insurance coverage of disparate impact claims is not precluded by Insurance Code Section 533.ⁿ⁷² If this approach is followed by the California courts, an insurer would also have a duty to defend such claims, at least when the policy language does not expressly exclude coverage of such claims.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Insurance LawGeneral Liability InsuranceObligationsGeneral OverviewInsurance LawGeneral Liability InsuranceObligationsDefenseLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawEmployer LiabilityGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 46. See Horace Mann Ins. Co. v. Barbara B. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1076, 1081, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 846 P.2d 792 ; American Motorists Ins. Co. v. Allied-Sysco Food Services, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1353, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106 ; Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1607, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 ; CNA Casualty of California v. Seaboard Surety Co. (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 598, 605 n.1, 222 Cal. Rptr. 276 .

(n2)Footnote 47. Firco, Inc. v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 524, 527, 343 P.2d 311 ; see Horace Mann Ins. Co. v. Barbara B. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1076, 1081, 1085-1086, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 846 P.2d 792 .

(n3)Footnote 48. See Gray v. Zurich Insurance Co. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 263, 271-272, 54 Cal. Rptr. 104, 419 P.2d 168 ; Firco, Inc. v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. (1959) 173 Cal. App. 2d 524, 527, 343 P.2d 311 .

(n4)Footnote 49. Gray v. Zurich Insurance Co. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 263, 274-276, 54 Cal. Rptr. 104, 419 P.2d 168 ; American Motorists Ins. Co. v. Allied-Sysco Food Services, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1353, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106 ; B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 92, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 ; see La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 38, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 .

(n5)Footnote 50. American Motorists Ins. Co. v. Allied-Sysco Food Services, Inc. (1993) 19 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1353, 24 Cal. Rptr. 2d 106 ; B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 92, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 ; CNA Casualty of California v. Seaboard Surety Co. (1986) 176 Cal. App. 3d 598, 605, 610, 222 Cal. Rptr. 276 .

(n6)Footnote 51. Gray v. Zurich Insurance Co. (1966) 65 Cal. 2d 263, 278, 54 Cal. Rptr. 104, 419 P.2d 168 .

(n7)Footnote 52. Horace Mann Ins. Co. v. Barbara B. (1993) 4 Cal. 4th 1076, 1081, 17 Cal. Rptr. 2d 210, 846 P.2d 792 ; Hogan v. Midland National Ins. Co. (1970) 3 Cal. 3d 553, 564, 91 Cal. Rptr. 153, 476 P.2d 825 .

(n8)Footnote 53. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 .

(n9)Footnote 54. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 46, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 .

(n10)Footnote 55. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 42, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 .

(n11)Footnote 56. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 43, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 .

(n12)Footnote 57. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 43-44, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 .

(n13)Footnote 58. La Jolla Beach & Tennis Club, Inc. v. Industrial Indemnity Co. (1994) 9 Cal. 4th 27, 46 n.4, 36 Cal. Rptr. 2d 100, 884 P.2d 1048 (disapproving Wong v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1993) 12 Cal. App. 4th 686, 695-696, 16 Cal. Rptr. 2d 1 to the extent it is inconsistent with La Jolla decision).

(n14)Footnote 59. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n15)Footnote 60. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 95, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n16)Footnote 61. See B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 93-99, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n17)Footnote 62. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 102, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n18)Footnote 63. See B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 100, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n19)Footnote 64. See B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 100-101, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n20)Footnote 65. B & E Convalescent Center v. State Compensation Ins. Fund (1992) 8 Cal. App. 4th 78, 102, 9 Cal. Rptr. 2d 894 .

(n21)Footnote 66. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n22)Footnote 67. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1607, 1613, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n23)Footnote 68. Coit Drapery Cleaners, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. (1993) 14 Cal. App. 4th 1595, 1607, 18 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 .

(n24)Footnote 69. See discussion in § 43.21[2][b][iii].

(n25)Footnote 70. See David Kleis, Inc. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1035, 1049-1050, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 181 .

(n26)Footnote 71. See David Kleis, Inc. v. Superior Court (1995) 37 Cal. App. 4th 1035, 1050-1051, 44 Cal. Rptr. 2d 181 .

(n27)Footnote 72. See Save Mart Supermarkets v. Underwriters (N.D. Cal. 1994) 843 F. Supp. 597, 606 .

17 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part C. INSURANCE COVERAGE ISSUES

3-43 California Employment Law §§ 43.23through 43.29

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 43.23[Reserved]

18 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.30

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.30 Legal Texts

California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Civil Rights, pt. III (Matthew Bender).

Lareau, Labor and Employment Law, Pt. II, Employment Discrimination (Matthew Bender).

Larson, Employment Discrimination, vol. 2, chs. 9A-11 (Matthew Bender).

Schlei and Grossman, Employment Discrimination Law, chs. 28-30, 34-40 (BNA 2d ed. 1983).

Zimmer, Employing the Handicapped (1981).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Insurance LawGeneral Liability InsuranceObligationsGeneral OverviewInsurance LawGeneral Liability
InsuranceObligationsIndemnificationLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawEmployer LiabilityGeneral Overview

19 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

1-43 California Employment Law § 43.31

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

[Reserved]

§ 43.31[Reserved]

20 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 43 Civil Actions Under Equal Employment Opportunity Laws
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-43 California Employment Law § 43.32

AUTHOR: By Mary C. Dunlap, J.D. and Steven J. Revell, J.D.

§ 43.32 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

Reinglass, Johnson v. United Cerebral Palsy/Spastic Children's Foundation of Los Angeles and Ventura Counties, 2009 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 367 (October 2009).

Perkins & Konnersman, A New Era of Paycheck Litigation: The Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act, 2009 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 48 (February 2009).

Robbins & Hanow, Why, How and What Now? Getting Your Expert Testimony Admitted, 2008 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 425 (November/December 2008).

Schau, The Taxability of Settlements: Tax Law Excludes Attorneys' Fees Portion of Recovery From Income to Plaintiff, 2007 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 16 (January/February 2007).

Huibonhoa & Winikow, Constitutional Limits on Punitive Damages, 2006 Bender's Calif. Lab. & Empl. Bull. 94 (March 2006).

Gray, Individual Supervisor Liability in Employment Discrimination Claims in California, 37 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1997).

Weiss, Ninth Circuit Broadens Reasonableness Standard for Hostile Work Environment Sexual Harassment: Fuller v. City of Oakland, 31 U.S.F. L. Rev. 665 (1997).

Willis, Stress-Related Disability Claims Under the ADA, 43(2) Prac. Law. 73 (1997).

Comment, Same-Gender Sexual Harassment: Is it Sex Discrimination Under Title VII? 36 Santa Clara L. Rev. 517 (1996).

Note, Farmers Insurance Group v. County of Santa Clara: Indemnity and Vicarious Liability in Sexual Harassment Cases, 30 U.S.F. L. Rev. 825 (1996).

Davis, The After-Acquired Defense Doctrine: A Dubious Defense in Employment Discrimination Cases, 22 Pepperdine L. Rev. 365 (1995).

O'Brien, Employment Discrimination Claims Remain Valid Despite After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Wrongdoing, 23 Pepperdine L. Rev. 65 (1995).

Young & Wells, Managing AIDS in the Workplace, 41(3) Prac. Law. 29 (1995).

Levy, Sex, Promotions, and Title VII: Why Sexual Favoritism is Not Sexual Discrimination, 45 Hastings L.J. 667 (1994).

Recent Cases, Employment Discrimination --Sexual Harassment-- New Jersey Supreme Court Adopts a Gender-Specific Reasonableness Standard, 107 Harv. L. Rev. 955 (February 1994).

Kadue & Dritsas, When What You Didn't Know Can Help You-- Employers' Use of After-Acquired Evidence of Employee Conduct to Defend Wrongful Discharge Claims, 27 Bev. Hills. B.A.J. 117 (Summer 1993).

Recent Cases, Employment Law--Gender Discrimination--Third Circuit Rules that Denial of Promotion Based on Equally Applied Legitimate Subjective Criterion is Not Discrimination, 106 Harv. L. Rev. 2039 (June 1993).

Comment, Ethical Limitations on Investigating Employment Discrimination Claims: The Prohibition on Ex Parte Contact with a Defendant's Employees, 24 U.C. Davis L. Rev. 1243 (1991).

Comment, Out of Balance: Excluding EEOC Determinations Under Federal Rule of Evidence 403, 24 Loy. L.A.L. Rev. 707 (1991).

Donohue & Siegelman, The Changing Nature of Employment Discrimination Litigation, 43 Stan. L. Rev. 983 (1991).

Johnson, The Americans With Disabilities Act Offers Important New Coverage for the Physically and Mentally Impaired, 11(6) Cal. Law. 63 (1991).

Bagby & Gray, How the Americans with Disabilities Act Affects Employers, 36(7) Prac. Law. 17 (1990).

Franklin, The Civil Rights Act of 1866 Revisited, 41 Hastings L.J. 1135 (1990).

Oppenheimer & Baumgartner, Employment Discrimination and Wrongful Discharge: Does the California Fair Employment and Housing Act Displace Common Law Remedies? 23 U.S.F. L. Rev. 145 (1989).

Schnapper, The Varieties of Numerical Remedies, 39 Stan. L. Rev. 851 (1987).

Caldwell, Reaffirming the Disproportionate Effects Standard of Liability in Title VII Litigation, 46 U. Pitt. L. Rev. 555 (1985).

Comment, Equitable Modification of Title VII Time Limitations to Promote the Statute's Remedial Nature: the Case for Maximum Application of the Zipes Rationale, 18 U.C.D. L. Rev. 749 (1985).

Comment, Front Pay: A Necessary Alternative to Reinstatement Under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 53 Fordham L. Rev. 579 (1984).

Comment, Front Pay as a Remedy Under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, 19 U.S.F. L. Rev. 187 (1985).

Comment, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act: Analyzing Employment Discrimination Claims, 132 U. Pa. L. Rev. 867 (1984).

Comment, The Appropriate Standard: Disparate Impact Under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 68 Minn. L. Rev. 1019 (1984).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Insurance LawGeneral Liability InsuranceObligationsGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment
LawDiscriminationGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationDisparate TreatmentGeneral
OverviewLabor & Employment LawEmployer LiabilityGeneral Overview

21 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

3-44 California Employment Law 44.syn

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.syn Synopsis to Chapter 44: Affirmative Action

§ 44.01 Voluntary Affirmative Action Plans

[1] Generally

[2] Burden of Proof

[3] EEOC Guidelines

§ 44.02 Court-Imposed Affirmative Action Decrees as Remedy for Past Discrimination

§ 44.03 Consent Decrees

[1] Generally

[2] Nonconsenting Parties

[3] Effect of Post-Consent Decree Claims

§§ 44.04through 44.19 [Reserved]

§ 44.20 Contract Compliance Generally

§ 44.21 Coverage and Requirements

[1] Contracts Covered

[2] Requirements for Contracts of More Than $5,000

[a] Nondiscrimination Clause

[b] Forms--Nondiscrimination Clauses, Standardized Forms OCP-1 and OCP-2

[i] Comment

[ii] Forms

[c] Nondiscrimination Program

[i] Generally

[ii] Elements of Nondiscrimination Program

[iii] Affirmative Action Plans

[iv] Contracts Exempt From Nondiscrimination Program Requirement

[v] Effect of Filing of Federal Compliance Program

[3] Additional Requirements for Construction Contracts of More Than $5,000

[4] Additional Requirements for Supplies and Services Contracts of $25,000 or More

[5] Requirements for Contracts Under $5,000

§ 44.22 Statement of Compliance

[1] Generally

[2] FORM--Statement of Compliance

[a] Comment

[b] Form

§ 44.23 Compliance Review Procedures

[1] Generally

[2] Types of Review

[3] Compliance Investigation

§ 44.24 Enforcement Procedures

[1] Refusal of Certification and Decertification

[2] Hearings

[3] Third-Party Complaints

§ 44.25 Coordination of Investigation and Complaint Procedures Among DFEH, OCP, and Contract-Awarding State Agency

§§ 44.26through 44.39 [Reserved]

§ 44.40 Laws Enforced and Authority to Enforce

[1] Executive Order 11246

[2] Section 503 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973

[3] Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974

[4] Executive Order 11141

§ 44.41 Structure of the Agency

§ 44.42 Affirmative Action Program Requirements

[1] Executive Order 11246

[a] Requirements for Nonconstruction Contracts

[b] Construction Contracts

[2] Section 503 and VEVRAA

[3] Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures

§ 44.43 Compliance Reviews

[1] Generally

[2] Selection of Contractors for Compliance Review

[a] Preaward Compliance Reviews

[b] Postaward Compliance Review

[3] Procedures for Compliance Reviews

[a] Generally

[b] Desk Audit

[c] On-Site Review

[d] Off-Site Analysis

[4] Conciliation Agreements

§ 44.44 Complaint Procedures

[1] Executive Order 11246 Complaints

[2] Section 503 Complaints

[3] VEVRAA Complaints

§ 44.45 Enforcement Procedures

[1] When Enforcement May Be Commenced

[2] Order to Show Cause

[a] When Order to Show Cause Is Required

[b] When Order to Show Cause Is Not Required

[3] Administrative Hearings

[4] Judicial Enforcement

[5] Remedies

[a] Sanctions and Penalties Generally

[b] Contract Termination, Cancellation, Suspension, and Debarment

[c] Back Pay

[d] Injunctive Relief

[6] Judicial Review of OFCCP Remedies

[7] Private Right of Action

§ 44.46 Public Disclosure of Information by OFCCP

§§ 44.47 through 44.59 [Reserved]

§ 44.60 Legal Texts

§ 44.61 Encyclopedias

§ 44.62 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote *. *From 1978 to 1983, Ms. Brodsky was a staff attorney with the California Fair Employment and Housing Commission and the Department of Fair Employment and Housing. Since that time, she has been engaged in private practice in Massachusetts and California, with an emphasis on employment-discrimination and wrongful-termination law. She is currently practicing in Oakland, California.

(n2)Footnote . Publisher's Editorial Staff.

22 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

3-44 California Employment Law Scope

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

Scope

By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D.^{n*} and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.^{n} SCOPE

This chapter discusses affirmative action requirements and enforcement under equal employment opportunity laws. The chapter discusses the propriety of court-ordered affirmative action plans as a remedy for employment discrimination, as well as the propriety of court-approved consent decrees. The chapter also discusses the legality of affirmative action programs voluntarily established by employers. Finally, the chapter covers the affirmative action requirements for government contractors under state and federal laws, and the procedures for enforcement of those requirements.

For an overview of equal employment opportunity laws generally, see Chapter 40. Chapter 41 discusses the substantive requirements of equal employment opportunity laws. Chapter 42 covers administrative enforcement, and Chapter 43 covers judicial enforcement of such laws.

FOOTNOTES:

(n3)Footnote *. *From 1978 to 1983, Ms. Brodsky was a staff attorney with the California Fair Employment and Housing Commission and the Department of Fair Employment and Housing. Since that time, she has been engaged in private practice in Massachusetts and California, with an emphasis on employment-discrimination and wrongful-termination law. She is currently practicing in Oakland, California.

(n4)Footnote . Publisher's Editorial Staff.

23 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part A. VOLUNTARY AND COURT-ORDERED AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PLANS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.01

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.01 Voluntary Affirmative Action Plans

[1] Generally

Within limits, Title VII permits employers to adopt voluntary race- or sex-conscious affirmative action plans.ⁿ¹ In Steelworkers v. Weber,ⁿ² the United States Supreme Court held that Title VII's prohibition against racial discriminationⁿ³ does not condemn all private, voluntary, race-conscious affirmative action plans, and that employers and unions in the private sector are free to take such race-conscious steps provided that their actions satisfy certain conditions. The Court upheld a collective bargaining agreement between a union and a company that contained an affirmative action plan giving preference to racial minorities entering into a skilled-craft training program. The Court stated that it would be ironic if a law triggered by concern over racial injustice and intended to improve the employment opportunities of protected minorities constituted a legislative prohibition of all voluntary, private, race-conscious efforts to abolish traditional patterns of racial segregation.ⁿ⁴ The Court declined to define in detail the distinction between permissible and impermissible affirmative action plans but stated that the plan before it was clearly permissible for several reasons: (1) the plan was designed to eliminate manifest imbalance in the work force resulting from past racial segregation, (2) it did not unnecessarily trammel the interests of the white employees because it did not require their discharge and replacement by black employees, and (3) the plan was a temporary measure, not designed to maintain racial balance, that would end when the number of black skilled craftworkers approximated the number of blacks in the labor force.ⁿ⁵ Subsequent cases have generally applied these criteria to determine whether or not a voluntary plan is permissible.ⁿ⁶

The Supreme Court further addressed the first Weber factor, listed above, that is, whether a manifest imbalance existed which would justify taking race or sex into account, in Johnson v. Transportation Agency.ⁿ⁷ Johnson upheld a voluntary affirmative action plan that permitted the agency to use sex as a factor in making promotions to skilled craft positions in which women were significantly underrepresented.ⁿ⁸ The Court stated that the requisite determination of imbalance should be made by comparing the percentage of minorities and women in the employer's work force and the percentage minorities and women in the area's labor market or general population for jobs involving no special expertise. For jobs that require special training, the comparison should be made between the percentage of minorities and women in the work force and the percentage of minorities and women in the labor force who possess the relevant qualifications. The Court added that the degree of manifest imbalance in a Title VII case need not be sufficient to support a prima facie case of employment discrimination against the employer.ⁿ⁹

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Since Weber and Johnson, the lower courts have had difficulty articulating the standards that must be followed when making statistical comparisons to determine the existence of a "manifest imbalance."ⁿ¹⁰
Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

Johnson also addressed the second Weber factor, whether the plan unnecessarily trammels the rights of nonminority or male employees. The Court concluded that the plan did not do so because it did not require the setting aside of any specific number of positions for women but simply allowed an applicant's gender to be a "plus" factor in making the employment determination. Importantly, because the focus in Johnson was on a promotion, and the male plaintiff who challenged his denial of promotion was one of several applicants qualified for the position in question, the Court held that he had no absolute entitlement to promotion and that he was not denied his present position, salary, seniority, or expectations of future promotions.ⁿ¹¹

With respect to the third Weber factor, whether or not a plan is sufficiently "temporary," and is intended to attain rather than maintain racial or gender balance, it appears that there is no requirement that affirmative action plans set fixed deadlines for eliminating race or sex imbalances in the work force.ⁿ¹² A plan that takes a moderate, gradual approach to eliminating the imbalance in the work force and creates realistic guidance for making hiring decisions, but does not seek to maintain a permanent racial and sexual balance, is permissible.ⁿ¹³

[2] Burden of Proof

The burden of proof in establishing the invalidity of an affirmative action plan is the same whether the plan is alleged to violate constitutional equal protection guarantees or Title VII.ⁿ¹⁴ The person allegedly aggrieved by the plan has the burden of demonstrating that the plan is unconstitutional or that it violates Title VII. The aggrieved person must make out a prima facie case that race or sex has been taken into account in the employer's decision. The burden then shifts to the employer to articulate a nondiscriminatory rationale for the decision. An affirmative action plan provides such a rationale. The burden then shifts back to the plaintiff to prove that this justification is a pretext and that the plan is invalid.ⁿ¹⁵

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The Johnson decision's adoption of the Weber criteria has eliminated much of the uncertainty about the ground rules or guidelines for most voluntarily adopted affirmative action plans. Furthermore, Johnson's explication of the burdens of proof, particularly the employer's slight burden of articulating a nondiscriminatory rationale for the plan, has immunized most plans from challenge under Title VII.
Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[3] EEOC Guidelines

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) has promulgated guidelines in Title 29 Code of Federal Regulations Part 1608, for the adoption of voluntary affirmative action plans by employers and labor organizations.ⁿ¹⁶ The California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH) has adopted these guidelines for purposes of enforcing the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA).ⁿ¹⁷ One important effect of the guidelines is that if an employer relies on them, it may invoke the protection of Title 42 United States Code section 2000e-12(b)(1), the Title VII provision stating that an action taken in good faith in conformity with and in reliance on a written interpretation or opinion of the EEOC is a defense to an action or proceeding against the employer for violation of Title VII.ⁿ¹⁸ The guidelines are applicable only to voluntary plans and not to plans set forth as a remedy to discrimination.ⁿ¹⁹ However, they are applicable to plans agreed to as part of a conciliation or settlement agreement approved by the EEOC,ⁿ²⁰ and if a complaint is brought against an employer because of its conformity to such a plan, the EEOC will issue a no-cause determination and advise the employer that it has the right to rely on the agreement as a defense under Title 42 United States Code section 2000e-12(b)(1).ⁿ²¹

The guidelines identify appropriate reasons to adopt affirmative action plans, including (1) avoidance of actual or potential practices having an adverse impact on employees; (2) correction of effects of prior discriminatory practices; and (3) modification of a limited labor pool caused by past restrictions.ⁿ²² The guidelines state that a proper affirmative action plan contains three elements: (1) a reasonable self-analysis, (2) a reasonable basis for concluding action is appropriate, and (3) reasonable action.ⁿ²³ The guidelines set forth some examples of appropriate affirmative action.ⁿ²⁴

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action General Overview Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action Compliance Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action Discrimination Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action Voluntary Plans

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Steelworkers v. Weber (1979) 443 U.S. 193, 197, 208, 99 S. Ct. 2721, 61 L. Ed. 2d 480 .

(n2)Footnote 2. Steelworkers v. Weber (1979) 443 U.S. 193, 197, 208, 99 S. Ct. 2721, 61 L. Ed. 2d 480 .

(n3)Footnote 3. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2.

(n4)Footnote 4. See Steelworkers v. Weber (1979) 443 U.S. 193, 204, 99 S. Ct. 2721, 61 L. Ed. 2d 480 .

(n5)Footnote 5. See Steelworkers v. Weber (1979) 443 U.S. 193, 208-209, 99 S. Ct. 2721, 61 L. Ed. 2d 480 .

(n6)Footnote 6. See, e.g., Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 631-636 (upholding voluntary affirmative action plan by public employer).

(n7)Footnote 7. Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 630-634 .

(n8)Footnote 8. Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 632-633 .

(n9)Footnote 9. Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 631-632 n.11 .

(n10)Footnote 10. See, e.g., Higgins v. City of Vallejo (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1987) 823 F.2d 351, 356 (city established requisite "manifest imbalance"); Hammon v. Barry (D.C. Cir. 1987) 826 F.2d 73, 78 , cert. denied, 108 S. Ct. 2023 (1988) (district fire department failed to establish requisite "manifest imbalance").

(n11)Footnote 11. Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 635 ; see also Hammon v. Barry (D.C. Cir. 1987) 264 U.S. App. D.C. 1 , cert. denied, 108 S. Ct. 2023 (1988) (plan did unnecessarily trammel rights of whites); Higgins v. Vallejo (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1987) 823 F.2d 351, 356-358 (plan did not unnecessarily trammel rights of whites); but see San Francisco Police Off. Ass'n v. San Francisco (9th Cir. 1987) 812 F.2d 1125, 1130-1132 (employer's decision to reweigh discriminatory promotional exam in order to achieve particular racial result unlawfully restricted promotional opportunities of nonminority candidates).

(n12)Footnote 12. See Higgins v. City of Vallejo (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1987) 823 F.2d 351, 357 .

(n13)Footnote 13. See Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 635-636 ; Higgins v. City of Vallejo (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1987) 823 F.2d 351, 357-358 ; Ledoux v. District of Columbia (D.C. Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 1293, 1302 .

(n14)Footnote 14. Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 627 ; see Wygant v. Jackson Board of Education (1986) 476 U.S. 267, 277-278, 106 S. Ct. 1842, 90 L. Ed. 2d 260 .

(n15)Footnote 15. See Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 627 ; see also Higgins v. City of Vallejo (9th Cir. [Cal.] 1987) 823 F.2d 351, 355 (holding that employee did not meet burden of proof in establishing that public employer's affirmative action plan violated Title VII); cf. McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973) 411 U.S. 792, 802, 93 S. Ct. 1817, 36 L. Ed. 2d 668 (order and burden of proof for establishing disparate treatment under Title VII); see also discussion in Chapter 41, Part A, and Chapter 43, Part B.

(n16)Footnote 16. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1608.1-1608.12.

(n17)Footnote 17. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7286.8.

(n18)Footnote 18. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 1608.1(d), 1608.2, 1608.10.

(n19)Footnote 19. See 29 C.F.R. § 1608.11(a).

(n20)Footnote 20. See 29 C.F.R. § 1608.6(a).

(n21)Footnote 21. See 29 C.F.R. § 1608.6(b).

(n22)Footnote 22. See 29 C.F.R. § 1608.3(a)-(c).

(n23)Footnote 23. See 29 C.F.R. § 1608.4.

(n24)Footnote 24. See 29 C.F.R. § 1608.4(c)(1).

24 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part A. VOLUNTARY AND COURT-ORDERED AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PLANS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.02

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.02 Court-Imposed Affirmative Action Decrees as Remedy for Past Discrimination

Within limits, Title VII permits a court to order an employer found liable for Title VII violations to adopt race- or sex-conscious affirmative action remedies, even if such remedies benefit persons who are not identified as actual victims of discrimination. In Sheet Metal Workers v. EEOC, n1 the United States Supreme Court upheld contempt findings against a union that had violated a district court decree establishing both an affirmative action membership quota and a requirement that contempt sanctions be placed in a fund to increase minority membership in the union and in an apprenticeship program. The union had a long history of pervasive Title VII violations and disregard of prior district court decrees. In reaching its decision, the Court ruled that a district court may, in appropriate circumstances, order preferential relief benefiting individuals who are not the actual victims of discrimination as a remedy for violation of Title VII. In the plurality opinion, written by Justice Brennan, four justices agreed, after examining the legislative policy behind Title VII, that Congress did not intend to prohibit a court from exercising its remedial authority by fashioning a system of quotas or preferences as a remedy for a violation of Title VII.n2

The plurality opinion thus distinguished language in the earlier Supreme Court decision in Firefighters v. Stotts, n3 which stated in dicta that court-ordered affirmative action is not available to those who are not actual victims of illegal discrimination. In Stotts, the district court entered a consent decree designed to remedy the hiring and promotion practices of the Memphis Fire Department. Following entry of the decree, the court, in anticipation of departmental layoffs, enjoined the application of a last-hired, first-fired seniority provision within the firefighters' collective bargaining agreement. The Supreme Court reversed the district court injunction order for two reasons: (1) the injunction did not merely enforce the underlying consent decree, because the decree made no mention of demotion or layoffs and the injunction improperly implemented the purposes of the decree by denying innocent nonminorities the benefits of their competitive seniority; and (2) the injunction was not a legitimate modification of an existing decree, because that decree made no departures from the existing seniority system, and a court can award competitive seniority only when the beneficiary of the award is an actual victim of discrimination.n4

Justice Powell provided the swing vote in Sheet Metal Workers by agreeing that a court may order preferential relief to individuals who are not actual victims of discrimination as a remedy for violations of Title VII.n5 Justice Powell emphasized that the district court order and the union membership goal did not violate the Constitution, because they were justified by a compelling state interest of eradicating discrimination and were narrowly tailored to the achievement of that goal.ⁿ⁶

In a concurring and dissenting opinion, Justice O'Connor agreed with portions of the plurality opinion, but dissented from the Court's judgment insofar as it affirmed the use of a membership goal. However, Justice O'Connor agreed with Justice White's dissenting opinion that the particular membership goal and fund order in this case operated as an impermissible racial quotaⁿ⁷ under Title 42 United States Code sections 2000e-5(g) and 2000e-2(j).ⁿ⁸ She specifically criticized the plurality for interpreting section 2000e-2(j) as limiting the substantive liability of employers and unions to grant preferences but not as limiting the remedial powers of courts to do so.ⁿ⁹ Justice O'Connor drew the distinction that an impermissible quota requires rigid adherence to numerical requirements that must be met on pain of imposition of sanctions, without regard to variables such as the number of qualified minority applicants available or the number of new apprentices needed, whereas a permissible goal requires only a good-faith effort on the employer's or union's part to come within a certain range.ⁿ¹⁰

Justice Rehnquist and Chief Justice Burger, in a separate dissenting opinion, disagreed that Title 42 United States Code Section 2000e-5(g) permits the ordering of preferences benefiting nonvictims of discrimination.ⁿ¹¹

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Most affirmative action plans are either voluntarily adopted or the product of a consent decree.ⁿ¹² Thus, as a practical matter, the decisions in Johnson v. Transportation Agency ⁿ¹³ and Firefighters v. Cleveland, ⁿ¹⁴ upholding voluntarily adopted and consent-decree affirmative action measures, have ended the controversy about the validity of most plans. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

A nonparty who wishes to challenge the legality of court-imposed equitable relief under the Constitution or federal civil rights laws is subject to the limitations set forth in Title 42 United States Code, section 2000e-2(n). For further discussion, see § 44.03[2].

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed PlansLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionDiscrimination

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 365-368, 392 .

(n2)Footnote 2. Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 380-381 . The plurality also upheld the court order against claims that it violated equal protection. see Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344 ..

(n3)Footnote 3. Firefighters Local Union No. 1784 v. Stotts (1984) 467 U.S. 561, 104 S. Ct. 2576, 81 L. Ed. 2d 483 .

(n4)Footnote 4. See Firefighters v. Stotts (1984) 467 U.S. 561, 104 S. Ct. 2576, 81 L. Ed. 2d 483 .

(n5)Footnote 5. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 393 .

(n6)Footnote 6. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 393-396 ..

(n7)Footnote 7. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 396-398 (opinion of O'Connor, J.); Sheet Metal Workers v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 403 , (dissenting opinion of White, J.).

(n8)Footnote 8. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 397-398 .

(n9)Footnote 9. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 397-398 .

(n10)Footnote 10. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 400-401 .

(n11)Footnote 11. See Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344, 403-404 .

(n12)Footnote 12. See discussion in § 44.03.

(n13)Footnote 13. Johnson v. Transportation Agency (1987) 480 U.S. 616, 107 S. Ct. 1442, 94 L. Ed. 2d 615, 630-634 .

(n14)Footnote 14. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405, 418-420 .

25 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part A. VOLUNTARY AND COURT-ORDERED AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PLANS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.03

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.03 Consent Decrees

[1] Generally

Affirmative action plans based on consent decrees, which are voluntary agreements between the parties that are confirmed by the court, are a hybrid between purely voluntary plansⁿ¹ and court-ordered plans,ⁿ² having attributes of both contracts and judicial decrees.ⁿ³ In Firefighters v. Cleveland,ⁿ⁴ the United States Supreme Court held that Title VII does not preclude a court from imposing in a consent decree certain forms of race-conscious relief that benefit individuals who are not actual victims of discrimination. Although the case involved a public employer, the issue before the Court was whether any consent decree may order such race-conscious relief. Other issues peculiarly applicable to the voluntary actions of public employers, such as equal protection issues or issues regarding the limits placed on voluntary agreements not embodied in consent decrees, were not presented.ⁿ⁵

The Court stressed that voluntary compliance with Title VII is the preferred means of achieving the objectives of Title VII,ⁿ⁶ and stated that there seemed to be no reason to distinguish between voluntary action taken in a consent decree and voluntary action taken outside the context of litigation. Thus, the Court, having already upheld the validity of certain voluntary race-conscious affirmative action in Steelworkers v. Weber,ⁿ⁷ held the principles of analysis set forth in Weber to be applicable to the analysis of consent decrees.ⁿ⁸

In so ruling, the Court addressed the argument of the petitioner union that Title VII prohibits any order of a court, including a consent decree, from requiring relief that may benefit nonvictims of discrimination.ⁿ⁹ The Court responded that consent decrees have aspects of both voluntary agreements and court orders,ⁿ¹⁰ and added that the wording of Section 706(g) prohibits courts only from requiring certain race- and sex-conscious relief.ⁿ¹¹ The legislative history of Section 706(g) in turn manifests the congressional intent of protecting the managerial prerogatives of employers and unions. The Court, therefore, concluded that because of their voluntary nature, consent decrees do not disrupt these prerogatives and are not "orders," within the meaning of Section 706(g).ⁿ¹² Thus, the fact that a consent decree may be modified by a court and that it is enforceable by contempt citation does not alter the voluntary nature of the agreement.ⁿ¹³ Nor is a consent decree invalid simply because it provides greater relief than the court could have decreed after a trial, as long as the relief granted does not conflict with Title VII.ⁿ¹⁴

In another case, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a city could use the procedure of "banding" of test scores to comply with a consent decree.ⁿ¹⁵ The banding procedure involved the use of a statistically-derived range of scores from which it would be assumed candidates were essentially equivalent, and from which candidates for promotion would be chosen based on race, professional conduct, education, training, and experience. The court found that the banding procedure did not violate Title VII nor the amendment made to it by the Civil Rights Act of 1991 precluding adjustment of test scores based on race.ⁿ¹⁶

[2] Nonconsenting Parties

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Civil Rights Act of 1991ⁿ¹⁷ provides, with certain exceptions discussed below, that an employment practice that implements and is within the scope of a litigated or consent judgment or order that resolves a claim of employment discrimination under the Constitution or federal civil rights laws may not be challenged under the Constitution or federal civil rights laws by either of the following classes of persons:ⁿ¹⁸

1. By a person who, prior to the entry of the judgment or order, had (a) actual notice of the proposed judgment or order sufficient to apprise the person that the judgment or order might adversely affect his or her interests and legal rights and that an opportunity was available to present objections to the judgment or order by a future date certain; and (b) a reasonable opportunity to present objections to the judgment or order; or
2. By a person whose interests were adequately represented by another person who had previously challenged the judgment or order on the same legal grounds and with a similar factual situation, unless there has been an intervening change in law or fact.

The above provisions may not be construed to alter the standards for intervention under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 24, or to apply to the rights of parties who have successfully intervened pursuant to such rule in the proceeding in which the parties intervened.ⁿ¹⁹ Nor do the above provisions apply to the rights of parties to the action in which the litigated or consent judgment or order was entered, of members of a class represented or sought to be represented in the action, or of members of a group on whose behalf relief was sought in such an action by the federal government.ⁿ²⁰ Finally, the above provisions do not prevent challenges to a litigated or consent judgment or order on the ground that the judgment or order was obtained through collusion or fraud, is transparently invalid, or was entered by a court lacking subject matter jurisdiction;ⁿ²¹ or authorize or permit the denial to any person of the due process of law required by the Constitution.ⁿ²²

Any action not precluded under the above provisions that challenges an employment consent judgment or order must be brought in the court, and if possible before the judge, that entered the judgment or order, although a party may seek a transfer of the action pursuant to Title 28 United States Code Section 1404.ⁿ²³

Although the above provisions were included as part of Title VII, the language of the provisions indicates that the rules apply to challenges to judgments or consent decrees issued or approved under any federal civil rights law.ⁿ²⁴ Thus, it appears that challenges to consent decrees under other federal civil rights statutes, such as the ADA, ADEA, Rehabilitation Act, and Title 42 United States Code Section 1981, would also be governed by the above rules.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Despite the limitations on challenges to consent decrees contained in the Civil Rights Act of 1991, employers are advised to include all interested parties in the decree negotiation process before the agreement is fully executed. For example, a union not named in a Title VII complaint should be involved in the decree negotiation process to avoid the potential for the creation of multiple inconsistent obligations: those contained in the decree and those contained in the collective bargaining agreement.

Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

The procedural device of intervention has permitted both opponents and proponents of affirmative action plans to participate in proceedings in which the validity of such plans is in issue. Those seeking to participate in such proceedings should be aware of and comply with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or California Code of Civil Procedure provisions regarding intervention.ⁿ²⁵ Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[3] Effect of Post-Consent Decree Claims

One federal appellate court has held that an action challenging employment policies that were not mandated by a prior consent decree were not collaterally barred.ⁿ²⁶ The action was a reverse discrimination claim brought by white firefighters alleging that the consent decree mandating promotion of minority firefighters should not preclude non-minority plaintiffs from being promoted. The court found that the action was not barred because it did not challenge the terms of the decree, seek to modify it, or seek relief pursuant to it, but rather independently arose after the consent decree went into effect and the plaintiffs' promotions were denied.ⁿ²⁷ However, the court ultimately found the discrimination action baseless since the positions that were not required to be filled pursuant to the consent decree had all been filled by white firefighters.ⁿ²⁸

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action General Overview Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action Consent Decrees

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See discussion in § 44.01.

(n2)Footnote 2. See discussion in § 44.02.

(n3)Footnote 3. See Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405, 421 ; Ledoux v. District of Columbia (D.C. Cir. 1987) 820 F.2d 1293, 1298 n.13 .

(n4)Footnote 4. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405, 418-420 .

(n5)Footnote 5. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405, 420 n.8 . For discussion of constitutional issues, see § 44.04.

(n6)Footnote 6. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405, 419 , citing Albamarle Paper Co. v. Moody (1975) 422 U.S. 405, 417-418, 95 S. Ct. 2362, 45 L. Ed. 2d 280 ; Alexander v. Gardner-Denver Co. (1974) 415 U.S. 36, 47, 94 S. Ct. 1011, 39 L. Ed. 2d 147 .

(n7)Footnote 7. Steelworkers v. Weber (1979) 443 U.S. 193, 204, 99 S. Ct. 2721, 61 L. Ed. 2d 480 . For discussion, see § 44.01[1].

(n8)Footnote 8. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405, 420-421 ; see also San Francisco Police Off. Ass'n v. San Francisco (9th Cir. 1987) 812 F.2d 1125, 1130-1131 .

(n9)Footnote 9. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(2)(A), which provides that no order of the court shall require the hiring, reinstatement, or promotion of an individual as an employee, or the payment to him or her of any back pay, if he or she was refused employment or advancement or was suspended or discharged for any reason other than discrimination on account of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, or discrimination based on retaliation for testifying or participating in an investigation or other enforcement proceeding under Title VII.

(n10)Footnote 10. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 519, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405 .

(n11)Footnote 11. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g)(1), (2)(A).

(n12)Footnote 12. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 519-523, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405 . In Local 28 of Sheet Metal Workers' Int'l Ass'n v. EEOC (1986) 478 U.S. 421, 445-447, 106 S. Ct. 3019, 92 L. Ed. 2d 344 , a majority of the Court held that 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(g) also does not prohibit court-ordered racial preferences as a remedy for Title VII violations. The justices stated that § 2000e-5(g) is meant simply to prohibit court orders from forcing admission or employment of individuals who have been refused admission or employment for reasons unrelated to discrimination. see discussion in § 44.02.

(n13)Footnote 13. See Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 523-524, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405 .

(n14)Footnote 14. Firefighters v. Cleveland (1986) 478 U.S. 501, 524-528, 106 S. Ct. 3063, 92 L. Ed. 2d 405 .

(n15)Footnote 15. Officers for Justice v. Civil Service Com'n (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 721, 724-728 , cert. denied, (1993) 507 U.S. 1004, 113 S. Ct. 1645, 123 L. Ed. 2d 267 .

(n16)Footnote 16. Pub. L. No. 102-166, §§ 106, 107(a), 116, discussed in ch. 41, pt. D; Officers for Justice v. Civil Service Com'n (9th Cir. 1992) 979 F.2d 721, 724-728, cert. denied, 507 U.S. 1004 (1993).

(n17)Footnote 17. See Pub. L. No. 102-166, § 108.

(n18)Footnote 18. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(1)(A), (B).

(n19)Footnote 19. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(2)(A).

(n20)Footnote 20. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(2)(B).

(n21)Footnote 21. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(2)(C).

(n22)Footnote 22. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(2)(C).

(n23)Footnote 23. 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(3).

(n24)Footnote 24. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(n)(1)(A).

(n25)Footnote 25. See Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 24; Code Civ. Proc. § 387; see generally California Forms of Pleading and Practice, Parties, pt. II (Matthew Bender); but see E.E.O.C. v. Pan American World American Airways, Inc. (9th Cir. 1990) 897 F.2d 1499, 1509-1510 (ADEA; permissive intervention under Fed. R. Civ. P., Rule 24, which requires basis for jurisdiction independent of court's jurisdiction over underlying action, is not available to charging party after EEOC commences civil action, because charging party no longer has any substantive rights over which court would have jurisdiction).

(n26)Footnote 26. O'Shea v. City of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1992) 966 F.2d 503, 505-506 .

(n27)Footnote 27. O'Shea v. City of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1992) 966 F.2d 503, 505-506 .

(n28)Footnote 28. O'Shea v. City of San Francisco (9th Cir. 1992) 966 F.2d 503, 506-507 .

26 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part A. VOLUNTARY AND COURT-ORDERED AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PLANS

3-44 California Employment Law §§ 44.04through 44.19

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 44.04[Reserved]

27 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.20

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.20 Contract Compliance Generally

In order to bid for or retain a contract for public works, goods, or services with the state of California, contractors must comply with the nondiscrimination requirements governing contract compliance set forth in the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA),ⁿ¹ and the administrative regulations implementing them.ⁿ² The Fair Employment and Housing Commission (FEHC) has vested the Office of Compliance Programs (OCP), a unit within the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), with the authority to certify that employers who enter or wish to enter into contracts with the state of California comply with these statutory and regulatory provisions.ⁿ³ If the DFEH determines that the contract compliance provisions of the FEHA or the regulations implementing them have been violated, or if the FEHC determines after conducting a hearing pursuant to *Government Code Section 12967*ⁿ⁴ that a contractor or subcontractor is engaging in discriminatory activities in violation of the FEHA, the DFEH or FEHC can recommend sanctions to the awarding state agency.ⁿ⁵ Whenever the DFEH issues an accusation pursuant to Government Code Section 12965(a) charging a violation of the FEHA, the DFEH must inform any state agency with which the employer has entered into a contract for the provision of goods or services.ⁿ⁶

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCompliancePublic Contracts LawPerformanceGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 12990.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8101-8504.

(n3)Footnote 3. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8101.

(n4)Footnote 4. See generally discussion in ch. 42, pt. B.

(n5)Footnote 5. Gov. Code § 12990(f).

(n6)Footnote 6. See Gov. Code § 12966.

28 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.21

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.21 Coverage and Requirements

[1] Contracts Covered

All contracts for public works or goods or services with the state of California are covered by the contract compliance provisions of the FEHAⁿ¹ and applicable regulations,ⁿ² but are subject to differing requirements depending on the type and dollar amount of the contract.ⁿ³ Contracts are broadly defined by the administrative regulations as "all types of agreements, regardless of what they may be called, for the purchase or disposal of supplies, services, or construction to which a contract awarding agency is a party."ⁿ⁴ Covered "contracts" include awards and notices of award; contracts of a fixed-price, cost, cost-plus-a-fixed-fee, or incentive type; and contracts providing for the issuance of job or task orders.ⁿ⁵ The FEHA provisions also apply to supplemental agreements or contract modifications with respect to any of the foregoing types of agreements.ⁿ⁶

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In addition to the FEHA requirements, contractors may also be subject to nondiscrimination and affirmative action requirements under specific public works legislation or under county or municipal ordinances. Federal requirements may also apply if federal funds are used in state-administered programs.ⁿ⁷ Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[2] Requirements for Contracts of More Than $5,000

[a] Nondiscrimination Clause

Each state contract of more than $5,000 is required to include a nondiscrimination clause, unless exempted by regulation.ⁿ⁸ The contract may either contain verbatim one of two nondiscrimination clauses set forth in Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8107, or incorporate the forms provided by the OCP into the contract by reference.ⁿ⁹ The two clauses contain provisions regarding the contractor's or subcontractors' nondiscrimination obligations to applicants for employment and requiring the contractor or subcontractor to give notice of these obligations to any labor organization with which the contractor or subcontractors have a collective bargaining agreement.n10

[b] Forms--Nondiscrimination Clauses, Standardized Forms OCP-1 and OCP-2

[i] Comment

The forms set forth in [ii], below, are standardized forms of the nondiscrimination clauses required in state contracts for more than $5,000 for public works or goods or services.n11 Depending on the state agency involved in the contract, either one or the other clause is used. The first form, OCP-1, contains provisions concerning nondiscrimination and compliance with Government Code section 12900. The second form, OCP-2, contains, among other things, nondiscrimination and compliance provisions relating to Government Code section 12990 and to Government Code section 11135, which proscribes discrimination in any program that receives state financing.n12

[ii] Forms

NONDISCRIMINATION CLAUSE
(OCP - 1)

1. During the performance of this contract, contractor and its subcontractors shall not unlawfully discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, physical handicap, medical condition, marital status, age (over 40) or sex, contractors and subcontractors shall insure that the evaluation and treatment of their employees and applicants for employment are free of such discrimination. Contractors and subcontractors shall comply with the provisions of the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Government Code, Section 12900 et seq.) and the applicable regulations promulgated thereunder (California Administrative Code, Title 2, Section 7285.0 et seq.). The applicable regulations of the Fair Employment and Housing Commission implementing Government Code, Section 12990, set forth in chapter 5 of Division 4 of Title 2 of the California Administrative Code are incorporated into this contract by reference and made a part hereof as if set forth in full. Contractor and its subcontractors shall give written notice of their obligations under this clause to labor organizations with which they have a collective bargaining or other agreement.
2. This contractor shall include the nondiscrimination and compliance provisions of this clause in all subcontracts to perform work under the contract.
1. During the performance of this contract, the recipient, contractor and its subcontractors shall not deny the contract's benefits to any person on the basis of religion, color, ethnic group identification, sex, age, physical or mental disability, nor shall they discriminate unlawfully against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, physical handicap, mental disability, medical condition, marital status, age or sex, contractor shall insure that the evaluation and treatment of employee and applicants for employment are free of such discrimination.
2. Contractor shall comply with the provision of the Fair Employment and Housing Act (Government Code, Section 12900 et seq.), the regulations promulgated thereunder (California Administrative Code, Title 2, Section 7285.0 et seq.), the provisions of Article 9.5, Chapter 1, Part 1, Division 3, Title 2 of the Government Code (Government Code, Section 11135-11139.5) and the regulations or standards adopted by the awarding State agency to implement such article.
3. Recipient, contractor and its subcontractors shall give written notice of their obligations under this clause to labor organizations with which they have a collective bargaining or other contract.

4. The contractor shall include the nondiscrimination and compliance provisions of this clause in all subcontracts to perform work under the contract.

[c] Nondiscrimination Program

[i] Generally

All employers who are, or wish to become, contractors with the state of California must develop and implement a nondiscrimination program for approval and certification by the OCP unless they are specifically exempted pursuant to Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8115.ⁿ¹³ Among other exemptions, section 8115 exempts contracts of less than $5,000 from this requirement.ⁿ¹⁴ A "nondiscrimination program" is defined as "a set of specific and result-oriented procedures to which a contractor or subcontractor commits itself for the purpose of insuring equal employment opportunity for all employees or applicants for employment."ⁿ¹⁵ A nondiscrimination program "may include an affirmative action component which establishes goals and timetables to remedy any underutilization of minorities and/or women which is identified."ⁿ¹⁶

[ii] Elements of Nondiscrimination Program

According to the regulations interpreting Government Code section 12990, a nondiscrimination program must contain certain elements, including the following:

1. Development of an equal employment opportunity policy;ⁿ¹⁷
2. Dissemination of the policy;ⁿ¹⁸
3. Establishment of responsibilities for implementation of the contractor's program;ⁿ¹⁹
4. Annual identification of practices that have resulted indisproportionately inhibiting the employment, promotion, or retention of persons protected by the FEHA;ⁿ²⁰
5. Development of programs designed to correct problems and attain equal employment opportunity;ⁿ²¹ and
6. Design and implementation of internal audit and reporting systems to measure the effectiveness of the nondiscrimination program.ⁿ²²

With respect to the fourth requirement listed above, that contractors annually identify employment practices that disproportionately inhibit the employment of minorities and women, the regulations set forth three additional required elements for nondiscrimination plans:

1. An analysis of employment selection procedures for promotional and entry-level opportunities;ⁿ²³
2. A work force analysis;ⁿ²⁴ and
3. A utilization analysis for employers employing 250 or more employees.ⁿ²⁵

[iii] Affirmative Action Plans

An employer whose employment practices have an adverse impact on one or more groups protected by the FEHA may include an affirmative action component in its nondiscrimination program.ⁿ²⁶ Affirmative action may be required of employers who are found to have violated the FEHA.ⁿ²⁷ Such an affirmative action component may include, but is not limited to, the following:ⁿ²⁸

1. Supporting community action programs designed to improve employment opportunities for women and minorities;
2. Providing training for promotion to positions as they become available;
3. Encouraging women and minorities to seek and accept transfers and promotions that improve their future opportunities;
4. Recruiting of women and minorities;
5. Establishing training programs for entry-level positions; and
6. Establishing goals and timetables.

[iv] Contracts Exempt From Nondiscrimination Program Requirement

Licensed rehabilitation workshops are exempt from all requirements concerning nondiscrimination under the administrative regulations implementing Government Code section 12990.ⁿ²⁹ Employers who enter into a contract with the state pursuant to a declaration of emergency are also exempt from the requirement of developing and implementing a nondiscrimination programⁿ³⁰ and are exempt from the requirement of containing a written nondiscrimination clause within a contract, but remain subject to the requirements of the clause as an implied term of the contract.ⁿ³¹ These two exemptions may be granted only on application to the state awarding agency prior to the date the contract is awarded and only on proof of satisfaction of these exemption conditions.ⁿ³²

In addition, the OCP may exempt a contractor with fewer than 50 employees in its entire work force from the regulatory requirements pertaining to work-force analysis and utilization analysisⁿ³³ by allowing the potential contractor to file a California Employer Information Report (CEIR) annually.ⁿ³⁴ Construction contractors with fewer than 50 permanent employees may also obtain an exemption from the regulatory requirements pertaining to work-force and utilization analyses by annually filing a CEIRⁿ³⁵ with the OCP.ⁿ³⁶

Contracts for less than $5,000 are automatically exempt.ⁿ³⁷ For further discussion of requirements for contracts under $5,000, see [5], below.

[v] Effect of Filing of Federal Compliance Program

An affirmative action plan prepared voluntarily or for approval by a federal compliance agency, such as the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP)ⁿ³⁸ or the EEOC, may be filed with the OCP instead of a nondiscrimination program required by Government Code section 12990 or its implementing regulations.ⁿ³⁹ Such a program creates a prima facie demonstration of compliance with section 12990 and the regulations.ⁿ⁴⁰ The OCP may rebut this presumption by showing, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the contractor's policies do not comply with the requirements of section 12990 and the implementing regulations.ⁿ⁴¹

[3] Additional Requirements for Construction Contracts of More Than $5,000

Employers with state construction contracts of $5,000 or more must fulfill a number of additional requirements.ⁿ⁴² "Construction" is defined under the regulations as "the process of building, altering, repairing, improving, or demolishing any public structure or building, or other public improvements of any kind to any State of California real property. It does not include the routine operation, routine repair, or routine maintenance of existing structures, buildings, or real property."ⁿ⁴³ The additional nondiscrimination program requirements for construction contractors include, but are not limited to (1) maintaining a work environment free of harassment by, for example, assigning two or more women to each construction project whenever possible; (2) advising the DFEH when a union's referral process has not referred to the contractor a minority person or woman sent by the contractor or has otherwise impeded the contractor's efforts; and (3) monitoring all personnel actions to make sure that seniority, job classifications, and work assignments do not have a discriminatory effect.ⁿ⁴⁴

A construction contractor's nondiscrimination program applies to its temporary, as well as its permanent, work force.ⁿ⁴⁵ Furthermore, a construction contractor may not transfer women and minority employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's nondiscrimination obligations.ⁿ⁴⁶

If a construction contractor holds a contract of $50,000 or more with the state, the contractor must submit quarterly reports to the OCP concerning the number of minority and female employees in its work force.ⁿ⁴⁷ Reports prepared for a federal agency may be submitted in lieu of the state quarterly utilization report.ⁿ⁴⁸

[4] Additional Requirements for Supplies and Services Contracts of $25,000 or More

Contractors who are awarded supplies and service contracts with a value of less than $25,000 are not required to file any information with the OCP after execution of the contract, but must provide the OCP on request access to certain information required to be compiled and maintained.ⁿ⁴⁹ By contrast, contractors granted contracts valued at more than $25,000, which are known as "regulated" contracts,ⁿ⁵⁰ are required to submit to the OCP, within 28 days of execution, background information regarding the contractor,ⁿ⁵¹ certain information concerning the contract,ⁿ⁵² and a copy of the prime contractor's CEIR.ⁿ⁵³

[5] Requirements for Contracts Under $5,000

Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8107, states that all state contracts must contain a nondiscrimination clause unless specifically exempted under Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8115. Section 8115 states that contracts for less than $5,000 are automatically exempt from the requirements of section 8107, but are subject to Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8102.5. Section 8102.5 states that state contracts exempt from the requirements of section 8107 must include "as an express or implied term, the term set out in either Section 8107 Clause (a) or Clause (b)." In actual practice, this means that contracts for less than $5,000, which are often informal and sometimes consist of order forms or even oral agreements, are exempt from the requirement of formally providing a written nondiscrimination clause, but such a clause is nevertheless an implied term in every contract covered under Government Code section 12990. In addition, employers holding contracts valued at less than $5,000 are not required to establish nondiscrimination programs as required of employers with larger contracts.ⁿ⁵⁴ For a discussion of nondiscrimination programs, see [2], above.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCompliancePublic Contracts LawPerformanceGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code §§ 12966, 12990.

(n2)Footnote 2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8101-8504.

(n3)Footnote 3. See Gov. Code § 12990(d)(2).

(n4)Footnote 4. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102(d).

(n5)Footnote 5. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102(d).

(n6)Footnote 6. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102(d).

(n7)Footnote 7. See discussion in pt. C, below.

(n8)Footnote 8. Gov. Code § 12990(c); 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8102.5, 8107, 8115(b). For discussion of requirements for contracts for less than $5,000, see [5], below.

(n9)Footnote 9. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8107.

(n10)Footnote 10. See Gov. Code § 12990(c); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8107.

(n11)Footnote 11. See Gov. Code § 12990; 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8107. For discussion of requirement of clauses, see [a], above.

(n12)Footnote 12. For discussion of Gov. Code § 11135, see Chapter 40, Part B.

(n13)Footnote 13. See Gov. Code § 12990(b); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8103.

(n14)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(b). For discussion of other exemptions, see [iv], below.

(n15)Footnote 15. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a).

(n16)Footnote 16. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a).

(n17)Footnote 17. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(1).

(n18)Footnote 18. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(2).

(n19)Footnote 19. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(3).

(n20)Footnote 20. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(4).

(n21)Footnote 21. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(5).

(n22)Footnote 22. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(6).

(n23)Footnote 23. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(4)(A) (requiring contractor to eliminate any practices that "disproportionately inhibit" employment of minorities or women unless justified by "business necessity upon a demonstration that no reasonable alternatives to such practice exist").

(n24)Footnote 24. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(4)(B) (requiring, for each job title, the numbers of employees by race, sex, and national origin; the wage and salary ranges for each job title; and other listed data).

(n25)Footnote 25. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(4)(C) (requiring analysis of major job groups at facility in order to determine whether women and minorities are underutilized when compared to their availability in labor force).

(n26)Footnote 26. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(b).

(n27)Footnote 27. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(b).

(n28)Footnote 28. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(b)(1)-(6).

(n29)Footnote 29. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(a).

(n30)Footnote 30. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8103 (requiring nondiscrimination programs).

(n31)Footnote 31. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(d); see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102.5.

(n32)Footnote 32. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(f).

(n33)Footnote 33. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104(a)(4)(B)-(C).

(n34)Footnote 34. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(c).

(n35)Footnote 35. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a) (recordkeeping requirements). For discussion of recordkeeping requirements, see Chapter 41, Part G.

(n36)Footnote 36. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(e). For a further discussion of construction contracts, see [3], below.

(n37)Footnote 37. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(b).

(n38)Footnote 38. For discussion of compliance programs under OFCCP, see § 44.80.

(n39)Footnote 39. Gov. Code § 12990(e).

(n40)Footnote 40. Gov. Code § 12990(e); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8106.

(n41)Footnote 41. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8106.

(n42)Footnote 42. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8203.

(n43)Footnote 43. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8102(c).

(n44)Footnote 44. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8203(6)(a)-(e).

(n45)Footnote 45. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8202. However, work-force and utilization analyses required under 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104 need be prepared only for permanent employees. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8104.

(n46)Footnote 46. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8202.5.

(n47)Footnote 47. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8204.

(n48)Footnote 48. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8204. For additional discussion of recordkeeping requirements under the FEHA, see Chapter 41, Part G.

(n49)Footnote 49. 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8301-8303.

(n50)Footnote 50. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8310.

(n51)Footnote 51. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(a)(1).

(n52)Footnote 52. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(a)(2).

(n53)Footnote 53. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8311(a)(4); see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 7287.0(a) (regarding CEIRs and recordkeeping requirements under FEHA generally).

(n54)Footnote 54. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115(b).

29 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.22

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.22 Statement of Compliance

[1] Generally

Every bid or proposal for a contract with the state must contain a statement of compliance with Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8103, which requires a nondiscrimination program unless otherwise exempted.ⁿ¹ If a statement of compliance is not included in the bid, the awarding agency may not accept the bid.ⁿ² No contract may be awarded to a contractor who has not filed a statement of compliance as part of its bid with the state agency, unless the contractor is exempt.ⁿ³

[2] FORM--Statement of Compliance

[a] Comment

The form set forth in [b], below, is a statement of compliance with nondiscrimination provisions required of state contractors.ⁿ⁴ The statement, which is made under penalty of perjury to the awarding state agency, declares that the contractor has complied with Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8103, requiring the adoption of nondiscrimination programs.ⁿ⁵ Such a statement is required for all bids and contracts of nonexempt contractors with state agencies.ⁿ⁶

[b] Form STATEMENT OF COMPLIANCE

_____(hereinafter referred to as (Company Name)

"prospective contractors") hereby certifies, unless specifically exempted, compliance with Government Code Section 12990 and California Administrative Code, Title II, Division 4, Chapter 5 in matters relating to the development, implementation and maintenance of a nondiscrimination programs. Prospective contractors agrees not to unlawfully discriminate against any employee or applicants for employment because of race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, physical handicap, medical condition, marital status, sex or age (over forty).

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.22

I _____ hereby swear that I am

(Name of Official)

dule authorized to legally bind the prospective contractor to the above described certification. I an fully aware that this certification executed on _____ in the country of _____ is made under the penalty of prejury

(Date)

(Country)

under the laws of the State of California.

Title

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionComplianceLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed Plans

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8113(a). see § 44.21[2][c] for a description of the nondiscrimination program requirement.

(n2)Footnote 2. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8112(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8113(b); see 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8115 (exemptions). For discussion of exemptions under § 8115, see § 44.21[2][c][iv] and [5].

(n4)Footnote 4. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8113.

(n5)Footnote 5. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8113. For discussion, see [1], above.

(n6)Footnote 6. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8112, 8113.

30 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.23

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.23 Compliance Review Procedures

[1] Generally

The OCP may monitor the compliance of state contractors with FEHA nondiscrimination requirements.ⁿ¹ The review process commences when the awarding agency gives written notice to the OCP of the award within 10 days of execution of a contract.ⁿ² The notice serves to identify the contractor and state the purpose or subject of the contract.ⁿ³ When the OCP receives written notice from the awarding agency, it sends to each contractor a blank CEIR form for completion and submission. Identifying information and work force statistics taken from the CEIRs are then entered into the OCP's central computer.

[2] Types of Review

Contracts may be subject to two types of review: desk review or field review.ⁿ⁴ Although the OCP is authorized to conduct desk reviews on all contracts,ⁿ⁵ the OCP presently exercises its discretion to conduct a desk review only when a contractor's work force appears to have an underrepresentation of minorities or women in comparison to the proportion of minorities or women available in the work force.ⁿ⁶

A desk review consists of, among other things, a review of the applicable contract(s), information concerning the contractor's nondiscrimination program, and any other information required by the OCP.ⁿ⁷ The OCP may also review current and past personnel practices of a contractor.ⁿ⁸ In addition, the OCP may conduct a field review of the work place during the contractor's regular business hours and by prior arrangement.ⁿ⁹ If a contractor has been chosen for a routine desk or field review within the preceding 24 months and was found to be in compliance, it is not selected for another routine check.ⁿ¹⁰

[3] Compliance Investigation

If it appears that a contractor has engaged in a pattern of unlawful discrimination that has taken place within the past 12 months or is ongoing, the OCP conducts a compliance investigation of the contractor's employment practices, which is more extensive than a desk or field review.ⁿ¹¹ The OCP decides, on the basis of the following factors, whether to conduct such an investigation: (1) the filing of a complaint by a contract-awarding agency; (2) the results of a regular compliance review by the OCP; (3) a notice of a complaint of employment discrimination filed pursuant to Government Code section 12960 or Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8120; or (4) the failure of a contractor to provide compliance information to the OCP.ⁿ¹² Compliance investigations involve a detailed review of the contractor's entire employment practices and procedures.ⁿ¹³

If the OCP determines during the course of its compliance investigation that a contractor has violated the applicable regulations, the OCP and the contractor may agree to a "letter of commitment" setting forth the contractor's deficiencies, actions the contractor intends to take to resolve the deficiencies, and a timetable for taking corrective action.ⁿ¹⁴ The letter of commitment is the last chance for a contractor to informally resolve an alleged violation of the contract compliance provisions before the OCP's issuance of a show-cause notice.ⁿ¹⁵

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCompliancePublic Contracts LawPerformanceGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401.

(n2)Footnote 2. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8117.5.

(n3)Footnote 3. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8117.5.

(n4)Footnote 4. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401(b), (c).

(n5)Footnote 5. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401(a).

(n6)Footnote 6. According to figures obtained from the OCP, from July 1, 1986, through June 30, 1987, the OCP staff conducted approximately 230 desk and field reviews.

(n7)Footnote 7. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401(a).

(n8)Footnote 8. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401(a).

(n9)Footnote 9. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401(b); see also 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8119(a) (regarding OCP's access to contractor's work place).

(n10)Footnote 10. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8401(c).

(n11)Footnote 11. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8402(a).

(n12)Footnote 12. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8402(a).

(n13)Footnote 13. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8402(a).

(n14)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8403.

(n15)Footnote 15. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8501(a).

31 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.24

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.24 Enforcement Procedures

[1] Refusal of Certification and Decertification

Prospective contractors who have never before contracted with the state, as well as those who have previously held state contracts, must obtain from the OCP certification of compliance with the nondiscrimination provisions of Government Code section 12990 and its implementing regulations under Title 2 California Code of Regulations sections 8101-8504.ⁿ¹ The OCP may withhold certification when there is a refusal to (1) provide a CEIR when submission has been requested by the OCP, (2) cooperate in a desk review, or (3) submit a letter of commitment or correct the deficiencies as promised in a letter of commitment.ⁿ²

The administrator of the OCP may recommend to the deputy director of the DFEH that a contractor or proposed contractor be denied certification. If the deputy director approves the recommendation to refuse certification, the OCP notifies the contractor and sends a copy of the notice to any agency with which the contractor has a current contract. Following notification, the OCP compiles a list of contractors who have been denied certification and sends the list to all contracting state agencies on a quarterly basis.ⁿ³

A contractor who is refused certification may request that the OCP conduct a review to determine compliance with Government Code section 12990.ⁿ⁴ If the contractor is found to be in compliance, the OCP restores the contractor's eligibility to submit bids for state contracts and removes the contractor's name from the quarterly listing of contractors denied certification.ⁿ⁵

Under certain circumstances, a hearing is held to determine if a contractor is in violation of Government Code section 12990 or Title 2 California Code of Regulations sections 8101-8504, its implementing regulations.ⁿ⁶ At such a hearing, the hearing officer may decertify the contractor's nondiscrimination program and recommend to the contracting agency that the existing contract be terminated.ⁿ⁷ A state awarding agency must declare unresponsive any bid on a state contract submitted by a contractor on the list of decertified contractors.ⁿ⁸

[2] Hearings

If the OCP has reasonable cause to believe that a contractor performing under a state contract is violating either Government Code section 12990 or the compliance requirements of the implementing regulations,ⁿ⁹ the OCP may issue a notice requiring the contractor to show cause before a hearing officer why actions should not be taken to ensure compliance.ⁿ¹⁰

The show-cause notice must specifically state the incidents of noncompliance and the sanctions recommended by the OCP.ⁿ¹¹ During the 30-day show-cause period, the contractor and the OCP must attempt to resolve the deficiencies by conciliation, mediation, and persuasion.ⁿ¹² A written conciliation agreement providing for certain remedial action may be used to resolve the deficiencies.ⁿ¹³ If the OCP and the contractor are unable to resolve the deficiencies through informal means within 30 days, the Director of the DFEH appoints a hearing officer to conduct a hearing.ⁿ¹⁴ The contractor is entitled to a full evidentiary hearing conducted in accordance with applicable provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act.ⁿ¹⁵

As discussed in [1], above, decertification is one of the remedies authorized if a hearing officer finds the contractor has violated Title 2 California Code of Regulations sections 8101-8504.ⁿ¹⁶ Other remedies may include the imposition of periodic reporting requirements and the withdrawal of exemptions under Title 2 California Code of Regulations section 8115.ⁿ¹⁷

[3] Third-Party Complaints

Interested persons may lodge written complaints with either the DFEH or the contract-awarding state agency, alleging noncompliance by a contractor with its nondiscrimination obligations. Such written complaint must be made within one year from the date of the alleged noncompliance.ⁿ¹⁸ On receipt of a complaint, the OCP commences a review, which may include a show-cause hearing.ⁿ¹⁹

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:
 Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
 ActionEnforcementPublic Contracts LawPerformanceGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See Gov. Code § 12990(b); DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 61 (Feb. 23, 1987).

(n2)Footnote 2. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 61 (Feb. 23, 1987). For discussion of letter of commitment, see § 44.23[3].

(n3)Footnote 3. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 61 (Feb. 23, 1987). From April 1987 through October 1987, there were 15 contractors who were refused certification by the OCP.

(n4)Footnote 4. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 61 (Feb. 23, 1987).

(n5)Footnote 5. DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 61 (Feb. 23, 1987).

(n6)Footnote 6. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8501. For discussion, see [2], below.

(n7)Footnote 7. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8504.

(n8)Footnote 8. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8112(b).

(n9)Footnote 9. 2 Cal. Code Reg. §§ 8101-8504.

(n10)Footnote 10. Gov. Code § 12990(d)(1); 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8501(a).

(n11)Footnote 11. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8501(a).

(n12)Footnote 12. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8501(b).

(n13)Footnote 13. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8502.

(n14)Footnote 14. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8503.

(n15)Footnote 15. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8503 (specifically incorporating Gov. Code §§ 11507.6, 11507.7, 11508, 11510, 11512(c), (d), 11513, 11514, 11520, 11523, 11518).

(n16)Footnote 16. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8504.

(n17)Footnote 17. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8504.

(n18)Footnote 18. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8120.

(n19)Footnote 19. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8501(a).

32 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.25

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.25 Coordination of Investigation and Complaint Procedures Among DFEH, OCP, and Contract-Awarding State Agency

In its questions posed to respondents in individual complaints of discrimination under the FEHA, the DFEH routinely requests information seeking to identify whether the respondent is a state contractor, for purposes of determining whether the respondent has complied with the nondiscrimination provisions required of state contractors.ⁿ¹ Thus, the respondent in a discrimination case is asked as a matter of course to supply the name of the awarding agency, the contract number, and dollar amount of any contract the respondent has had within the past year for the provision of goods, services, or public works with the state of California.ⁿ² If the DFEH issues an FEHA accusation against a state contractor, it must inform the awarding state agency of its determination.ⁿ³ The DFEH also requests that the state agency report to the DFEH any action the agency takes in response to this notice and issuance of accusation.ⁿ⁴ Government Code Section 12990(f) further requires the DFEH to recommend sanctions to the awarding state agency if it finds that the contractor has violated the law or implementing regulationsⁿ⁵ or if the FEHC finds a contractor in violation of the FEHA after conducting a hearing on an accusation.ⁿ⁶ The issuance of an accusation may also result, in certain cases, in the DFEH's recommendation to the OCP that the OCP conduct a full compliance review.ⁿ⁷

When a contractor is the subject of both a compliance investigation by the OCP and an investigation by the DFEH in connection with an individual complaint of employment discrimination pursuant to Government Code section 12960, the OCP and DFEH attempt to coordinate their investigations in order to avoid a duplication of efforts and burdensome inquiries.ⁿ⁸

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed PlansPublic Contracts LawContract ProvisionsGeneral OverviewPublic Contracts LawPerformanceGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See discussion in Chapter 42, Part B.

(n2)Footnote 2. Supplemental Memorandum to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 10 (June 26, 1985).

(n3)Footnote 3. Gov. Code § 12966.

(n4)Footnote 4. Gov. Code § 12966.

(n5)Footnote 5. 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8101 et seq.

(n6)Footnote 6. Gov. Code § 12990(f).

(n7)Footnote 7. Supplemental Memorandum to DFEH Enforcement Division Directive No. 10 (June 26, 1985).
For discussion of compliance review procedures, see § 44.23.

(n8)Footnote 8. See 2 Cal. Code Reg. § 8402(b).

33 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action

Part B. DEPARTMENT OF FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law §§ 44.26through 44.39

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 44.26[Reserved]

34 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.40

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.40 Laws Enforced and Authority to Enforce

[1] Executive Order 11246

Executive Order 11246 requires all federal government contracting agencies to include in every government contract, not exempted by the order, an agreement by the contractor not to discriminate against applicants and employees on the bases of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, and obligating the contractor to take affirmative action to ensure the availability of employment opportunities without regard to such factors.ⁿ¹ Executive Order 11246 is enforced by the United States Department of Labor through its Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP).ⁿ² For a more detailed description of the substance of Executive Order 11246, see Chapter 40, Part C.

Pursuant to Executive Order 11246, the OFCCP is empowered to adopt rules, regulations, and orders to achieve the purposes of the Executive Order.ⁿ³ The OFCCP also has authority to do the following:

1. Require a covered contractor to submit compliance reports containing information regarding the contractor's practices, policies, programs, and statistics in accordance with the OFCCP's prescribed form;ⁿ⁴
2. Require the inclusion of an equal opportunity clause in every covered government contract or subcontract;ⁿ⁵
3. Cancel, suspend, or terminate existing contracts or debar a contractor from future government contracts;ⁿ⁶
4. Direct contracting agencies not to enter into contracts with any bidder or prospective contractor unless it has complied with the provisions of the order and submits an acceptable compliance program to the OFCCP;ⁿ⁷

5. Exempt certain contracting agencies from including in contracts provisions otherwise required by the order when special circumstances in the national interest so require, or exempt certain classes of contracts when the work is performed outside the United States, when the contract involves less than a specified amount of money or workers, when the contract is for standard commercial supplies or raw materials, or when a subcontract is below a specified tier;ⁿ⁸
6. Investigate the employment practices of any government contractor or subcontractor and investigate complaints filed by applicants and employees alleging discrimination in violation of the order;ⁿ⁹
7. Hold public and private hearings for compliance, enforcement, or educational purposes;ⁿ¹⁰ and
8. Issue or revoke certificates that exempt compliant employers, unions, and agencies from any reporting requirements.ⁿ¹¹

Pursuant to its authority,ⁿ¹² the OFCCP has promulgated regulations to interpret Executive Order 11246.ⁿ¹³ In 1981, the OFCCP proposed a new set of regulations implementing Executive Order 11246, which were scheduled for publication on January 29, 1981. However, the proposed regulations were suspended indefinitely, and those last promulgated in 1978 continue in force.ⁿ¹⁴

[2] Section 503 of Rehabilitation Act of 1973

The OFCCP has enforcement authority over Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 503),ⁿ¹⁵ which prohibits federal contractors from discriminating against disabled workers and which requires federal contractors to take affirmative action with respect to such disabled workers.ⁿ¹⁶ For a full discussion of the scope of Section 503, see Chapter 40, Part C.

Under Section 503, any federal contract exceeding $10,000 must include a provision requiring the contractor to take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment qualified disabled individuals,ⁿ¹⁷ and the Secretary of Labor must accept, investigate, and take action on complaints from qualified disabled individuals alleging violations of Section 503 and its regulations.ⁿ¹⁸ Section 503 authorizes waiver of certain contracts or classes of contracts when special circumstances or the national security so requires.ⁿ¹⁹ Section 503 also authorizes the promulgation of regulations implementing the section,ⁿ²⁰ and the OFCCP has adopted such regulations,ⁿ²¹ which provide in part that each covered contractor or subcontractorⁿ²² prepare and maintain an affirmative action program,ⁿ²³ and which establish hearing procedures conforming to the hearing procedures set forth for Executive Order 11246.ⁿ²⁴

[3] Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974

The OFCCP has enforcement authority over section 402 of the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 (VEVRAA).ⁿ²⁵ VEVRAA prohibits federal contractors from discriminating against certain veterans and requires federal contractors to take affirmative action with respect to such veterans.ⁿ²⁶ For discussion of the scope of VEVRAA, see Chapter 40, Part C.

The President and Secretary of Labor have delegated to the OFCCP the authority to require that every federal contract in an amount of $10,000ⁿ²⁷ or more contain a provision obligating the contractor or subcontractor to take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment certain qualified disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam Era.ⁿ²⁸ The OFCCP is also authorized to promulgate regulations requiring that (1) covered contractorsⁿ²⁹ list job openings with the appropriate employment service office;ⁿ³⁰ (2) the OFCCP accept, investigate, and take action on complaints from aggrieved veterans;ⁿ³¹ and (3) covered contractors report on employment practices regarding veterans.ⁿ³²

Regulations issued by the Department of Labor authorize the OFCCP to (1) require each covered contractor or subcontractor to include an affirmative action clause in every contract;n33 (2) require each covered contractor or subcontractor to prepare and maintain an affirmative action program;n34 (3) enforce the statute by following the hearing procedures established under Executive Order 11246;n35 and (4) notify all heads of federal agencies that they may not issue a waiver to any noncomplying contractor without the prior approval of the director of OFCCP.n36

[4] Executive Order 11141

Executive Order 11141, issued in 1964, prohibits federal contractors and subcontractors from discriminating on the basis of age.n37 However, the OFCCP has enacted no regulations to implement Executive Order 11141. For additional discussion of Executive Order No. 11141, see Chapter 40, Part C.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionDiscriminationLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationPublic ContractsAffirmative ActionPublic Contracts LawContract ProvisionsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. Exec. Order No. 11246 § 202 (Sept. 24, 1965); 3 C.F.R. § 339 (1964-1965 Compilation), reprinted as amended in note following 42 U.S.C.A. § 2000e (West 1981).

(n2)Footnote 2. Exec. Order No. 11246 § 202 (Sept. 24, 1965), 3 C.F.R. § 339 (1964-1965 Compilation); 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.2; see also Exec. Order No. 12086 (amending Exec. Order No. 11246), reprinted in note following 42 U.S.C.A. § 2000e (West 1981). Some independent agencies that are not under the authority of the OFCCP have their own contract compliance regulatory schemes, including the following: the Tennessee Valley Authority (18 C.F.R. pt. 1304); Federal Procurement (48 C.F.R. pt. 9903); and the Veterans Administration (48 C.F.R. pt. 800).

(n3)Footnote 3. Exec. Order No. 11246, §§ 201, 205.

(n4)Footnote 4. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 203(a).

(n5)Footnote 5. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 202; 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.4.

(n6)Footnote 6. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 209(a)(5), (6).

(n7)Footnote 7. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 211.

(n8)Footnote 8. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 204.

(n9)Footnote 9. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 206.

(n10)Footnote 10. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 208(a).

(n11)Footnote 11. Exec. Order No. 11246, §§ 213-215.

(n12)Footnote 12. See Exec. Order No. 11246, § 201.

(n13)Footnote 13. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.1-60-1.47.

(n14)Footnote 14. See 41 C.F.R., pt. 60; 46 Fed. Reg. 42865 (Aug. 25, 1981) .

(n15)Footnote 15. 29 U.S.C. § 793.

- (n16)Footnote 16. See Exec. Order No. 11758 (Jan. 15, 1974); 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.1.
- (n17)Footnote 17. 29 U.S.C. § 793(a); see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.4, 60-741.20.
- (n18)Footnote 18. 29 U.S.C. § 793(b).
- (n19)Footnote 19. 29 U.S.C. § 793(c); see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.3(b), 60-741.30.
- (n20)Footnote 20. 29 U.S.C. § 793(a).
- (n21)Footnote 21. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.1-60-741.54.
- (n22)Footnote 22. For description of covered contractors and subcontractors, see ch. 40, pt. C.
- (n23)Footnote 23. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.5.
- (n24)Footnote 24. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.29(b)(1), (2). For discussion of administrative hearings, see § 44.45[3].
- (n25)Footnote 25. See 38 U.S.C. § 4212; Exec. Order No. 11758 (Jan. 15, 1974).
- (n26)Footnote 26. See generally 38 U.S.C. §§ 4211 et seq.
- (n27)Footnote 27. With respect to contracts entered into on or after Nov. 7, 2003, the amount is increased to $100,000. see P.L. 107-288, § 2(b)(3).
- (n28)Footnote 28. See 38 U.S.C. § 4212(a); Exec. Order No. 11701; 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.1-60-250.54.
- (n29)Footnote 29. See ch. 40, pt. C, for a description of covered contractors and subcontractors.
- (n30)Footnote 30. 38 U.S.C. § 4012(a).
- (n31)Footnote 31. See 38 U.S.C. § 4212(b).
- (n32)Footnote 32. See 38 U.S.C. § 4212(d).
- (n33)Footnote 33. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.4, 60-250.20.
- (n34)Footnote 34. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.5.
- (n35)Footnote 35. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.29(b)(1), (2).
- (n36)Footnote 36. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.30; see also 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.3(b)(1).
- (n37)Footnote 37. Exec. Order No. 11141 (Feb. 12, 1964), 3 C.F.R. § 179 (1964-1965 Compilation), reprinted in note following 5 U.S.C.A. § 3301 (West 1977).

35 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.41

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.41 Structure of the Agency

The OFCCP is a part of the United States Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration.ⁿ¹ The OFCCP is headed by a Director, who is appointed by the Secretary of Laborⁿ² and reports to the Deputy Under Secretary of Labor for Employment Standards Administration. The OFCCP has a headquarters office, regional offices, and area offices. The headquarters office develops policy, rules, regulations, and procedures, evaluates regional performance, and directs improvements in the program. The regional offices plan, direct, and administer the program in the region. The area offices, where most of the OFCCP's staff is located, conduct compliance reviews, receive and investigate complaints, and maintain daily contact with contractors, government agencies, and organizations representing minorities, women, the disabled, and veterans.ⁿ³

If the OFCCP is unable to obtain voluntary compliance by a contractor found to be in violation of the law, the case is transmitted to the regional office for review and to the Department of Labor's Solicitor of Labor for further review and enforcement.ⁿ⁴ In addition to conducting enforcement proceedings, the Office of the Solicitor also provides legal review of regulations, internal documents, and external communications that pertain to the setting of policy.ⁿ⁵

Administrative enforcement hearings are held before a Department of Labor administrative law judge (ALJ).ⁿ⁶ If the ALJ determines that there was a violation, the Administrative Review Board, United States Department of Labor, issues an order enjoining the violations and requiring an appropriate remedy.ⁿ⁷ For a further discussion of remedies for violations, see § 44.45[5], below.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionComplianceLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationPublic ContractsAffirmative ActionPublic Contracts LawContract ProvisionsGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.2.

(n2)Footnote 2. See Exec. Order No. 11246 § 401; 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.2.

(n3)Footnote 3. U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Federal Enforcement of Equal Employment Requirements (Clearinghouse Pub. 93, July 1987), p. 68.

(n4)Footnote 4. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.26(a)(2), 60-30.5. For discussion of compliance review, see § 44.43. For discussion of enforcement procedures, see § 44.45.

(n5)Footnote 5. U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Federal Enforcement of Equal Employment Requirements (Clearinghouse Pub. 93, July 1987), p. 68.

(n6)Footnote 6. 41 C.F.R. § 60-30.14.

(n7)Footnote 7. See 41 C.F.R. § 1.26; see also 41 C.F.R. § 60-30.27.

36 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.42

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.42 Affirmative Action Program Requirements

[1] Executive Order 11246

[a] Requirements for Nonconstruction Contracts

The OFCCP has promulgated regulations setting forth separate affirmative action requirements for construction and nonconstruction contractors.ⁿ¹ Regulations known as Revised Order No. 4 establish affirmative action requirements for nonconstruction contractors.ⁿ² Any such contractor or subcontractor with 50 or more employees and a contract with a federal agency valued at $50,000 or more is subject to the affirmative action requirements set forth at Title 41, Code of Federal Regulations, Sections 60-2.1-60-2.32.ⁿ³ Also subject to the OFCCP's affirmative action regulations for nonconstruction contractors are contractors or subcontractors having 50 or more employees and having government bills of lading expected to total at least $50,000 in a 12-month period, or those who serve as depositories of government funds in any amount, or those that are financial institutions that are issuing and paying agents for United States savings bonds and notes in any amount.ⁿ⁴ Each of these contractors must develop a written affirmative action compliance program for each of its establishments within 120 days from the commencement of the contract.ⁿ⁵

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The OFCCP Compliance Manual further extends the coverage of Executive Order 11246 beyond the limits set forth in Revised Order 4. Thus, for example, covered financial institutions include not only those that are depositories for federal funds and issuing and paying agents for United States savings bonds, but also those that accept federal depository insurance. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

An affirmative action program is defined as "a set of specific and result-oriented procedures to which a contractor commits itself to apply every good faith effort."ⁿ⁶ An acceptable affirmative action program must include an analysis of areas within which a contractor is deficient in the utilization of minorities and women. The program must also include goals and timetables to correct whatever deficiencies may exist in the contractor's work force and to achieve prompt and full utilization of minorities and women at all levels and segments of the work force where deficiencies exist.ⁿ⁷ To meet these objectives, the affirmative action program must specifically include two types of analyses. The first is a work-force analysis consisting of a listing of each job title ranked from the lowest paid to the highest paid within each department or organizational unit in order to show each line of progression or career path by which an employee can move to the top of the line.ⁿ⁸ The second is a utilization analysis of all job groups at the facility and an explanation if minorities are being underutilized, that is, if there are fewer minorities and women in a job group than would reasonably be expected given their availability in the relevant labor market.ⁿ⁹ To determine underutilization in relation to the availability of minorities and women, contractors are directed to "consider" each of eight listed factors.ⁿ¹⁰

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Although the Supreme Court has not evaluated the validity of Executive Order 11246 in the context of a reverse discrimination claim, it is arguable that the Executive Order could survive such a challenge for at least two reasons. First, affirmative action plans are arguably not mandatory. They can be viewed as voluntary commitments made by employers who choose to do business with the government. Second, if carefully constructed, affirmative action plans can be made to comply with the *Steelworkers v. Weber*ⁿ¹¹ guidelines. That is, goals should be set only if comparisons between "utilization" and "availability" statistics reveal "manifest imbalances" in the employment practice under scrutiny (e.g., hiring or promotion). Care should be taken not to set a goal so high as to "unnecessarily trammel" the rights of nonminority employees, and the goal should be a temporary measure, designed to remedy the statistical imbalance, not to maintain racial balance in the work force. Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

In developing the required goals and timetables,ⁿ¹² the contractor should consider the results that could reasonably be expected from its putting forth every good-faith effort to make its overall affirmative action program work. In determining levels of goals, the contractor should consider the same factors set forth in the regulations for determining underutilization.ⁿ¹³ The purpose of using goals is to insure that the contractor meets its affirmative action obligations; goals are not intended and should not be used to discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.ⁿ¹⁴ If a contractor does not establish a goal, it must provide a detailed explanation for its failure to do so in the written affirmative action program.ⁿ¹⁵

By its regulations, the OFCCP also mandates a number of additional components of a contractor's affirmative action program and methods by which the requirements are to be implemented.ⁿ¹⁶ These include the following:

1. Development or reaffirmation of the contractor's equal employment policy;ⁿ¹⁷
2. Formal internal and external dissemination of the policy;ⁿ¹⁸
3. Establishment of responsibilities for implementing the contractor's equal employment policy;ⁿ¹⁹
4. Identification of problem areas by organizational units and job groups;ⁿ²⁰
5. Development and execution of action-oriented programs, designed to eliminate problems and attain established goals and objectives, including the validation of worker specifications using job performance criteria and the observance of the Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures;ⁿ²¹
6. Design and implementation of an internal reporting and auditing system to measure the effectiveness of the affirmative action program;ⁿ²²
7. Compliance of personnel policies and practices with sex discrimination guidelines under the regulations;ⁿ²³
8. Consideration of recruiting of skilled minorities and women not currently in the work force;ⁿ²⁴ and

9. Support of community action and service programs designed to improve employment opportunities for minorities and women.ⁿ²⁵

[b] Construction Contracts

Construction contractors and subcontractors with federal or federally assisted contracts of $10,000 or more are also subject to Executive Order 11246.ⁿ²⁶ⁿ²⁷ In the construction industry, contractors generally rely on a more transient work force than in other areas of employment, often rely on the use of union hiring halls and referral lists to select their workers, and in some cases have improperly excluded minorities and women from employment. For these reasons, the Department of Labor developed a somewhat different approach in its enforcement of Executive Order 11246 affirmative action requirements for construction contractors. OFCCP regulations set forth construction contractors' affirmative action requirements, which differ from those set forth for nonconstruction contractors.ⁿ²⁸ Among these is the requirement that all federal contracting officers and all applicants for federal construction contracts include, in solicitations and bids for contracts to be performed within certain specified geographic areas designated by the Director of the OFCCP, a Notice of Requirement for Affirmative Action to Ensure Equal Employment Opportunity (Executive Order 11246), which acknowledges the contractor's affirmative action obligations and includes goals and timetables for utilizing minorities and women.ⁿ²⁹ All federal or federally assisted construction contracts must include an equal opportunity clause, unless the contract is exempt.ⁿ³⁰ In addition, construction contracts in excess of $10,000 to be performed in geographical areas designated by the OFCCP Director must include a notice of specifications, entitled "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications (Executive Order 11246)."ⁿ³¹ Whether or not these forms are physically incorporated in bids or contracts, they are deemed incorporated by reference in them.ⁿ³²

Whereas nonconstruction contractors are required to set their own goals and timetables for the utilization of minorities and women,ⁿ³³ construction contractors must incorporate into their affirmative action programs goals and timetables that have previously been published by the Director of the OFCCPⁿ³⁴ or those that have already been approved by the OFCCP.ⁿ³⁵ For example, the goal for the utilization of women in the construction industry has been set by the OFCCP at 6.9 percent.ⁿ³⁶ If goals and timetables have not been issued by the Director of the OFCCP, the contractor may use a "hometown plan" or "imposed plan" or "special bid condition" approved by the OFCCP to meet OFCCP minority utilization requirements.ⁿ³⁷

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Very few hometown plans are currently in operation. As a result, most construction contractors and subcontractors rely on goals and timetables established by the OFCCP. Commentary by Dale Brodsky.

Construction contractors are subject to somewhat more stringent reporting requirements than nonconstruction contractors.ⁿ³⁸ For a discussion of reporting requirements of contractors, see Chapter 41, Part G.

[2] Section 503 and VEVRAA

Except as noted below, the OFCCP's affirmative action requirements are identical for individuals with disabilities under Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973ⁿ³⁹ and disabled veterans under the VEVRAA.ⁿ⁴⁰ Contractors and subcontractors with 50 or more employees and holding contracts valued at $50,000 or more must prepare and maintain an affirmative action program within 120 days of the commencement of the contract.ⁿ⁴¹ However, under regulations implementing amendments to the affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by the Jobs for Veterans Act ("JVA") enacted in 2002, every government contractor that has 50 or more employees and a contract of $100,000 or more must, within 120 days of the commencement of a contract, prepare and maintain an affirmative action program at each establishment.^{n41.1} Unlike affirmative action programs under Executive Order 11246, programs under Section 503 and VEVRAA do not require the establishment of goals and timetables or statistical or other types of analyses. Moreover, contractors and subcontractors must "invite" qualified persons with disabilities and disabled and Vietnam era veterans, as well as recently separated veterans, other protected veterans, and Armed Forces service medal veterans, to identify themselves to the contractor.ⁿ⁴²

To comply with the affirmative action requirements imposed by the regulations implementing these statutes, a contractor must do the following:

1. Take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment qualified persons with disabilities and disabled and Vietnam era veterans and recently separated veterans, other protected veterans, and Armed Forces service medal veterans, at all levels of employment;ⁿ⁴³
2. Review present procedures and develop new procedures to assure the selection of known qualified persons with disabilities and disabled and Vietnam Era veterans and recently separated veterans, other protected veterans, and Armed Forces service medal veterans;ⁿ⁴⁴
3. Provide in the affirmative action program a schedule for the review of all physical or mental job qualification requirements to insure that they are job-related and consistent with business necessity and the safe performance of the job;ⁿ⁴⁵
4. Make reasonable accommodation to the physical and mental limitations of a disabled person, unless the contractor can demonstrate that the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the conduct of its business as determined by, among other things, business necessity and the financial costs and expenses incurred in making the accommodation;ⁿ⁴⁶
5. Not reduce the compensation offered to an applicant or employee because of any disability income, pension, or other benefit he or she receives from another source;ⁿ⁴⁷
6. Provide outreach and positive recruitment activities internally and to groups of persons with disabilities and veterans organizations;ⁿ⁴⁸
7. Disseminate internally the affirmative action program;ⁿ⁴⁹ and
8. Designate an executive to be the manager of the affirmative action program and to direct and implement the program.ⁿ⁵⁰

[3] Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures

The Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures (Guidelines) were adopted in 1978 by the EEOC, the Civil Service Commission, the Department of Labor, and the Department of Justice as a way to standardize tests and selection procedures used by the federal government.ⁿ⁵¹ The Guidelines were designed to assist employers and other entities to comply with federal laws prohibiting discrimination on the bases of race, color, religion, sex, and national origin.ⁿ⁵² The OFCCP applies these guidelines in the enforcement of Executive Order 11246.ⁿ⁵³ The Guidelines are discussed in detail in Chapter 40, Part C, and Chapter 41, Part C.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationPublic ContractsAffirmative Action

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.1-60-2.32 (nonconstruction contracts), 60-4.1-60-4.9 (construction contracts). For discussion of regulations applicable to construction contractors, see [b], below.

(n2)Footnote 2. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.1(a).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.1(a). For full discussion of coverage of Exec. Order No. 11246, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n4)Footnote 4. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.1.

(n5)Footnote 5. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.1.

(n6)Footnote 6. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.10.

(n7)Footnote 7. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.10.

(n8)Footnote 8. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.11(a).

(n9)Footnote 9. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.11(b).

(n10)Footnote 10. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.11(b)(1), (2).

(n11)Footnote 11. Steelworkers v. Weber (1979) 443 U.S. 193, 197, 208-209, 99 S. Ct. 2721, 61 L. Ed. 2d 480; for discussion, see § 44.01[1].

(n12)Footnote 12. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.10, 60-2.12, 60-2.13(e).

(n13)Footnote 13. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.12(a).

(n14)Footnote 14. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.30.

(n15)Footnote 15. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.12(k).

(n16)Footnote 16. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13, 60-2.20-60-2.26.

(n17)Footnote 17. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13(a), 60-2.20.

(n18)Footnote 18. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13(b), 60-2.21.

(n19)Footnote 19. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13(c), 60-2.22.

(n20)Footnote 20. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13(d), 60-2.23.

(n21)Footnote 21. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13(f), 60-2.24. For discussion of job validation in the context of the Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures, see [3], below.

(n22)Footnote 22. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13(g), 60-2.25.

(n23)Footnote 23. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.13(h); see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-20.1-60-20.6 (sex discrimination guidelines).

(n24)Footnote 24. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.13(j).

(n25)Footnote 25. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.13, (i) 60-2.26.

(n26)Footnote 26. See Exec. Order No. 11246 § 202. For full discussion of coverage of Exec. Order No. 11246, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n27)Footnote 27. [Reserved]

(n28)Footnote 28. Compare 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.1-60-2.32 (nonconstruction contract affirmative action requirements) with 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-4.1-60-4.9 (construction contract affirmative action requirements). For discussion of affirmative action requirements for nonconstruction contracts, see [a], above.

(n29)Footnote 29. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-4.2, 60-4.6.

(n30)Footnote 30. 41 C.F.R. § 60-4.3(a); see 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.4(b) (setting out form).

(n31)Footnote 31. 41 C.F.R. § 60-4.3(a).

(n32)Footnote 32. 41 C.F.R. § 60-4.9.

(n33)Footnote 33. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.10, 60-2.12. For discussion, see [a], above.

(n34)Footnote 34. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-4.4, 60-4.6.

(n35)Footnote 35. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-4.4-60-4.6.

(n36)Footnote 36. 45 Fed. Reg. 85750 (Dec. 30, 1980) .

(n37)Footnote 37. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-4.4(a); see also 41 C.F.R. § 60-4.5 (describing participation in hometown plans). A hometown plan is an affirmative action plan that has been developed and implemented by local construction contractors, unions, and community organizations.

(n38)Footnote 38. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.7(a) (requiring construction subcontractors below first tier to file Standard Form 100 (EEO-1), whereas nonconstruction contractors below first tier need not file that form).

(n39)Footnote 39. See 29 U.S.C. § 793.

(n40)Footnote 40. See 38 U.S.C. § 4212; compare 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.1-60-250.54 (VEVRAA affirmative action regulations), 41 C.F.R. § 300.1-60-300.84 (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by Jobs for Veterans Act or "JVA"--enacted in 2002) with 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.1-60-741.54 (Section 503 affirmative action regulations).

(n41)Footnote 41. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.5(a) (Section 503), 60-250.5(a) (VEVRAA). For complete discussion of coverage of Section 503 and of VEVRAA, see ch. 40, pt. C.

(n42)Footnote 41.1. 41 C.F.R. 60-300.40.

(n43)Footnote 42. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.5(d) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.42 (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 60-741.5(c)(1) (Section 503).

(n44)Footnote 43. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(a) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.43 (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(a) (Section 503).

(n45)Footnote 44. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(b) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(b) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(b) (Section 503).

(n46)Footnote 45. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(c)(1) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(c)(1) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(c)(1) (Section 503). The burden is on the contractor to demonstrate compliance with this requirement. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(c)(2) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(c)(2) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(c)(2) (Section 503).

(n47)Footnote 46. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(d) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(d) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(d) (Section 503).

(n48)Footnote 47. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(e) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.21(i) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(e) (Section 503).

(n49)Footnote 48. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(f) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(f) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(f) (Section 503).

(n50)Footnote 49. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(g) (VEVRAA), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(g) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.6(g) (Section 503).

(n51)Footnote 50. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.6(h) (VEVRAA), § 60-741.6(h) (Section 503), 41 C.F.R. § 60-300.44(i) (regulations implementing amendments to affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA, enacted in 2002), (n52)Footnote 51. 41 C.F.R. § 60-3.1A. The Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures do not apply to 38 U.S.C. § 4212 or to the amendments to the affirmative action provisions of VEVRAA made by JVA. 41 CFR 60-300.21(g)(2).

(n53)Footnote 52. 41 C.F.R. § 60-3.1B.

(n54)Footnote 53. 41 C.F.R. § 60-3.2A; see also 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-3.1-60-3.18; 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.24(d)(2) (requiring nonconstruction contractors to observe Guidelines), 60-4.3(a), Standard Contract Specifications, P k (requiring construction contractors to observe Guidelines).

37 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.43

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.43 Compliance Reviews

[1] Generally

The purpose of a compliance review under Executive Order 11246 is to determine if the contractor or subcontractor maintains nondiscriminatory practices, policies, and conditions of employment and takes affirmative action to ensure that applicants and employees are treated without regard to race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.ⁿ¹ The compliance review also includes a review of employment practices under Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973ⁿ² and the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment and Assistance Act, as amended.ⁿ³ⁿ⁴

If the OFCCP finds deficiencies in a contractor's or subcontractor's actions, the OFCCP makes reasonable efforts to secure compliance through conciliation and persuasion, and the contractor must make a specific commitment to correct the problems.ⁿ⁵ If the contractor fails to correct the deficiencies, the OFCCP may recommend that sanctions be imposed.ⁿ⁶

Although there are specific procedures set forth in the OFCCP's regulations governing evaluation procedures for the conduct of compliance reviews for supplies and services contractors,ⁿ⁷ there are no similarly detailed rules applying to the construction industry.ⁿ⁸

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In Section 4.5 of its now out-of-date Compliance Manual, the OFCCP delineated standards for conducting compliance reviews of construction contractors and subcontractors. In practice, the procedures are approximately the same as those described in [b], below, for service and supply contractors, except that a desk audit of a construction contractor's operation is usually not conducted.

Commentary by Dale Brodsky.

[2] Selection of Contractors for Compliance Review

[a] Preaward Compliance Reviews

The OFCCP typically commences a preaward compliance review under one of three circumstances. First, the Director of the OFCCP may request that an awarding agency not enter into a contract or subcontract with a prospective contractor until a compliance review has been conducted and a determination made that the prospective contractor will be able to comply with the required equal opportunity clause.ⁿ⁹ Second, nonconstruction contracts of $1 million or more are subject to mandatory preaward compliance reviews, which may precede the award by no more than 12 months.ⁿ¹⁰ The awarding agency triggers the preaward review for contracts in excess of $1 million by notifying the OFCCP of the contract application. The OFCCP in turn must, by regulation, complete the review within 30 days of the request.ⁿ¹¹ Third, if it comes to the attention of the government contracting officer through sources within his or her own agency, the OFCCP, or any other governmental agency that the prospective contractor does not have an acceptable affirmative action program or has substantially deviated from the program, the contractor must be declared "nonresponsible." The prospective contractor may then request the Director to determine, in his or her discretion, if there are sufficient issues of law or fact to warrant a hearing.ⁿ¹² Alternatively, the Director may require the investigation or compliance review to be developed further or additional conciliation to be conducted, provided that every effort is made to develop during any preaward conference an acceptable affirmative action program through conciliation, mediation, and persuasion.ⁿ¹³ A prospective contractor may not be declared nonresponsible more than twice without receiving prior notice and the opportunity for a hearing.ⁿ¹⁴

Preaward reviews are excepted from the requirement of conducting a complete desk audit; an abbreviated desk audit and an immediate on-site review may be performed instead.ⁿ¹⁵

Notwithstanding the preaward compliance procedures set forth in the regulations, a number of federal appellate and district courts have ruled that the OFCCP cannot delay an award or instruct a contracting agency to pass over a prospective contractor without a hearing.ⁿ¹⁶ Furthermore, 30 days is seldom long enough for the OFCCP to fulfill its review and enforcement obligations. Thus, the OFCCP has implemented a policy that when a prospective contractor is found to be in noncompliance at the preaward stage, the contract will be let and review will continue until compliance is achieved or enforcement proceedings commenced.ⁿ¹⁷

[b] Postaward Compliance Review

After a contract has been awarded, any nonconstruction contractor or subcontractor subject to Executive Order 11246 may be selected for a compliance review according to "approved methods of priority selection."ⁿ¹⁸ In the past, some courts have upheld challenges to the OFCCP's methods of selecting contractors for compliance review, calling the methods unreasonable and impermissible searches within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment because they were not based on neutral or neutrally applied criteria.ⁿ¹⁹

Currently, the OFCCP employs a computerized data system for selecting nonconstruction contractors for compliance reviews, other than preaward reviews and those requested by the Director of the OFCCP.ⁿ²⁰ The method is known as the Equal Employment Data System (EEDS), and actual selections are made by the directors of the OFCCP area and field offices where the contractors' establishments are located.ⁿ²¹ The EEDS is a compilation of information about contractors and subcontractors derived solely from EEO-1 reports previously submitted. The computer printout produced by the system identifies the contractors and subcontractors and provides equal employment data about them. In addition, the system (1) lists contractors according to their utilization of minorities and women in the specific industry and geographical area, and (2) compares each establishment to itself by measuring trends in the distribution of minorities and women in highest to lowest job categories during a 12-month period.ⁿ²²

Each area and field office has a fiscal year program plan that fixes the number of supply and service contractors and subcontractors to be reviewed. Eliminated from the pool are contractors and subcontractors who have been reviewed during the past two years, who are signatories to the National Self-Monitoring and Reporting System,ⁿ²³ who are subject to a consent decree, or who are not currently government contractors. A certain proportion of the remaining contractors and subcontractors are chosen for review at random by the OFCCP national office. The largest grouping of establishments chosen for compliance review by the area and field office directors are those flagged by the EEDS as having the lowest utilization of minorities or women. In addition to EEDS rankings, the OFCCP takes into account other factors in choosing contractors for compliance review. Factors that may cause the OFCCP to select a particular contractor for review (in descending order of importance) include (1) a small number of facilities reviewed in the past; (2) an unsatisfactory equal employment opportunity profile based on input from community organizations and the number of individual complaints; (3) a large facility (more than 1,000 employees) showing employment growth, especially because of a large federal contract award; and (4) a small facility showing growth because of a large federal contract. The OFCCP may also select up to 15 percent of the total number of supply and service contractors using these factors from sources other than the EEDS, such as the federal Procurement Data System, which provides year-to-date information on supply and service prime contracts and direct federal construction contracts valued at $25,000 or more.²⁴

[3] Procedures for Compliance Reviews

[a] Generally

Procedures for compliance reviews of supplies and services contractors are set forth in detailed regulations.²⁵ No such analogous regulations exist for construction contractors. The basic procedures for evaluation of contractor compliance consist of the following:²⁶

1. A desk audit of the contractor's affirmative action program;
2. An on-site review of matters that are not fully or satisfactorily addressed in the affirmative action program and work-force analysis; and
3. When necessary, an off-site analysis of information supplied by the contractor during or pursuant to the on-site review.

These procedures are discussed in [b]-[d], below.

[b] Desk Audit

The first step the OFCCP takes in conducting a compliance review is to request that the contractor or subcontractor under review provide the OFCCP with information concerning the affirmative action program and supporting documentation, including a work-force analysis and supporting data for audit.²⁷ A work-force analysis is a listing of all job titles as they appear in applicable collective bargaining agreements or payroll records ranked from lowest paid to highest paid within each department, including separate lists for any lines of progression indicating the order of jobs through which an employee could move within the line. If there are no formal lines of progression or usual promotional sequences, the work-force analysis must list job titles by department, job families, or discipline, in order of wage rates or salary ranges. Each job title must be broken down into lists of the total number of incumbents, and further broken down by sex and certain racial or ethnic groups.²⁸ Contractors who are concerned with maintaining the confidentiality of such information as lists of employees, names of employees, reasons for termination, and pay data, may substitute alphabetic or numeric coding or an index of pay and pay ranges.²⁹

■ PRACTICE TIP:

As a matter of practice, the OFCCP does not conduct desk audits of construction contractors, but proceeds immediately to the on-site visit, which is discussed in [c], below. Commentary by Dale Brodsky

[c] On-Site Review

An on-site review of a contractor's establishment is carried out unless the desk audit demonstrates that either the contractor's affirmative action program is acceptable or that enforcement proceedings are warranted in light of the contractor's failure to make reasonable efforts to meet the OFCCP's affirmative action requirements.ⁿ³⁰ In determining that the affirmative action program is acceptable and on-site review is unnecessary, the OFCCP must have conducted an on-site review within the preceding 24 months and have concluded that circumstances of the previous on-site review did not substantially change.ⁿ³¹

Before the on-site review, the OFCCP officer requests the contractor to make available specific information that is necessary to carry out its review and to complete its compliance review report and that is not contained in or derived from information already submitted by the contractor.ⁿ³² The contractor must also provide full access to additional relevant information sought by the OFCCP at the time of the on-site visit.ⁿ³³

During the on-site review of a contractor's employment practices, the OFCCP compliance officer is expected to interview a reasonable number of employees.ⁿ³⁴ The OFCCP's policy is to interview nonmanagement and nonsupervisory employees in private but to allow the contractor's attorney or other representative to be present during interviews with management and supervisory personnel, who are then considered as spokespersons for the contractor.ⁿ³⁵

1. Desk Audits

- a. Verify Coverage. Determine whether the company has contracts or subcontracts that trigger Executive Order coverage.
- b. Request Extensions of Time to Submit AAP Data Only Under Exceptional Circumstances. The OFCCP routinely denies requests for extensions of time to submit affirmative action plan (AAP) and other data, and such requests may lead the OFCCP to believe that these documents were not in existence at the time of the request.
- c. Designate One OFCCP Liaison. Employers should "speak" to the OFCCP with "one voice," and therefore should designate one person to handle all communications with the OFCCP throughout the review process.
- d. Keep a Communications Log. The employer's OFCCP liaison should log, in chronological order, all written and oral communications with the OFCCP.
- e. Keep a Documents File. The employer's OFCCP liaison should keep a file, in chronological order, of all documents received from or sent to the OFCCP.
- f. Prepare for the On-Site Review. Counsel should (i) review AAP commitments that the employer has not fulfilled; (ii) review facts pertaining to unfavorable statistical comparisons (e.g., where impact ratios for hires, promotions, and terminations fall below .80); (iii) review all outstanding EEO agency charges; and (iv) prepare the necessary salary roster.

2. On-Site Reviews

- a. Prepare for the Entrance Conference. The employer liaison should be fully conversant with the company's AAP and should be prepared to stress the positive and explain the negative aspects of it.

b. Plan for Interviews. The employer should expect the OFCCP to request (before or during the on-site review) interviews with management and rank-and-file employees. Those interviewed typically include managers of departments with significant underutilization of females and minorities; female and minority employees in "leader" jobs if promotions from such jobs are awarded disproportionately to males; employees identified as disabled; employees who have pending charges of discrimination; and employees who have EEO responsibilities.

c. Establish Ground Rules for Interviews. The OFCCP generally will not object to (i) a requirement that it give 24, or, preferably, 48 hours' notice of each interview to avoid work disruption; and (ii) the presence of a company representative at the interviews of all managers and supervisors. Employers are advised not to force the OFCCP to conduct employee interviews on nonwork time. All employees interviewed should be told that the choice of speaking with the OFCCP is theirs and that they will not be favored or disfavored for participating in the interview process.

d. Establish Ground Rules for OFCCP Access to Records. The OFCCP generally will not object to (i) a requirement that it give 24, or, preferably, 48 hours' notice of requests for specific documents to permit the company time to collect them; and (ii) a requirement that all documents be returned at the end of each day so that they may be properly secured. Because the OFCCP routinely requests documents for use during off-site review proceedings, the employer should decide in advance how it will handle requests for trade-secret or other confidential documents. At the least, the employer should not release original documents and should ask the OFCCP not to copy (and to return) all trade-secret documents.

e. Special Reports. Although employers are not required to prepare special reports for the OFCCP, such reports are frequently requested and can be useful tools in assisting the favorable outcome of the review.

f. Exit Conference. The exit conference provides an opportunity to learn the OFCCP's conclusions before they are reduced to writing. The employer should be prepared to offer additional data and/or argument regarding any perceived deficiencies.

Because the OFCCP Compliance Manual does not set a rigid structure for the conduct of desk audits and on-site reviews, individual compliance officers may follow divergent investigative procedures. Employers, therefore, are advised to consider the guidelines set forth below when planning for and dealing with OFCCP compliance investigations.

1. Desk Audits

a. Verify Coverage. Determine whether the company has contracts or subcontracts that trigger Executive Order coverage.

b. Request Extensions of Time to Submit AAP Data Only Under Exceptional Circumstances. The OFCCP routinely denies requests for extensions of time to submit affirmative action plan (AAP) and other data, and such requests may lead the OFCCP to believe that these documents were not in existence at the time of the request.

c. Designate One OFCCP Liaison. Employers should "speak" to the OFCCP with "one voice," and therefore should designate one person to handle all communications with the OFCCP throughout the review process.

d. Keep a Communications Log. The employer's OFCCP liaison should log, in chronological order, all written and oral communications with the OFCCP.

e. Keep a Documents File. The employer's OFCCP liaison should keep a file, in chronological order, of all documents received from or sent to the OFCCP.

f. Prepare for the On-Site Review. Counsel should (i) review AAP commitments that the employer has not fulfilled; (ii) review facts pertaining to unfavorable statistical comparisons (e.g., where impact ratios for hires, promotions, and terminations fall below .80); (iii) review all outstanding EEO agency charges; and (iv) prepare the necessary salary roster.

2. On-Site Reviews

a. Prepare for the Entrance Conference. The employer liaison should be fully conversant with the company's AAP and should be prepared to stress the positive and explain the negative aspects of it.

b. Plan for Interviews. The employer should expect the OFCCP to request (before or during the on-site review) interviews with management and rank-and-file employees. Those interviewed typically include managers of departments with significant underutilization of females and minorities; female and minority employees in "leader" jobs if promotions from such jobs are awarded disproportionately to males; employees identified as disabled; employees who have pending charges of discrimination; and employees who have EEO responsibilities.

c. Establish Ground Rules for Interviews. The OFCCP generally will not object to (i) a requirement that it give 24, or, preferably, 48 hours' notice of each interview to avoid work disruption; and (ii) the presence of a company representative at the interviews of all managers and supervisors. Employers are advised not to force the OFCCP to conduct employee interviews on nonwork time. All employees interviewed should be told that the choice of speaking with the OFCCP is theirs and that they will not be favored or disfavored for participating in the interview process.

d. Establish Ground Rules for OFCCP Access to Records. The OFCCP generally will not object to (i) a requirement that it give 24, or, preferably, 48 hours' notice of requests for specific documents to permit the company time to collect them; and (ii) a requirement that all documents be returned at the end of each day so that they may be properly secured. Because the OFCCP routinely requests documents for use during off-site review proceedings, the employer should decide in advance how it will handle requests for trade-secret or other confidential documents. At the least, the employer should not release original documents and should ask the OFCCP not to copy (and to return) all trade-secret documents.

e. Special Reports. Although employers are not required to prepare special reports for the OFCCP, such reports are frequently requested and can be useful tools in assisting the favorable outcome of the review.

f. Exit Conference. The exit conference provides an opportunity to learn the OFCCP's conclusions before they are reduced to writing. The employer should be prepared to offer additional data and/or argument regarding any perceived deficiencies.

Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

[d] Off-Site Analysis

Following the on-site review, the OFCCP compliance officer may find it necessary to conduct a further, off-site analysis of the information uncovered during the earlier two phases of the review before making a final determination.ⁿ³⁶ During the off-site analysis, the contractor may also be requested to provide additional data, which may be coded only if the contractor makes the code available to the compliance officer.ⁿ³⁷ If the contractor believes that the information sought by the OFCCP is not relevant, the contractor may request a ruling by the OFCCP Area Director, who must issue a ruling within 10 days of the request.ⁿ³⁸ The contractor may appeal that ruling to the Assistant Regional Administrator within 10 days, and a final ruling must be issued within 10 days.ⁿ³⁹ During the pendency of the appeals, the contractor must make the requested information available to the compliance officer, but the information is maintained in an investigatory file, which cannot be disclosed to the public and is accessible only to the compliance officer and the OFCCP personnel involved in the relevancy determination.ⁿ⁴⁰ Data determined to be not relevant to the investigation must be returned to the contractor immediately.ⁿ⁴¹

[4] Conciliation Agreements

If the compliance review reveals a "material violation" of the equal opportunity clause, and if the contractor, subcontractor, or bidder is willing to correct the violations or deficiencies and the OFCCP determines that settlement is appropriate, the parties may enter into a conciliation agreement.ⁿ⁴² The agreement provides for whatever remedial action is necessary to correct the violations or deficiencies and may include remedies such as back pay and retroactive seniority.ⁿ⁴³

■ PRACTICE TIP:

A conciliation agreement usually contains enforcement provisions. For discussion of enforcement, see § 44.45. Commentary by Dale Brodsky.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionComplianceLabor & Employment LawDiscriminationPublic ContractsAffirmative ActionPublic Contracts LawPerformanceGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.20(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. 29 U.S.C. § 793(b); see 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.60.

(n3)Footnote 3. 38 U.S.C. § 4212i(b); see 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.60.

(n4)Footnote 4. [Reserved]

(n5)Footnote 5. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.20(b).

(n6)Footnote 6. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.20(a).

(n7)Footnote 7. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-60.1-60-60.8.

(n8)Footnote 8. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-4.8.

(n9)Footnote 9. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.29.

(n10)Footnote 10. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.20(d).

(n11)Footnote 11. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.20(d).

(n12)Footnote 12. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.2(b).

(n13)Footnote 13. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.2(b).

(n14)Footnote 14. 41 C.F.R. § 60-2.2(b).

(n15)Footnote 15. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(b)(1). For discussion of desk audits and on-site reviews, see [3][b], [c], below.

(n16)Footnote 16. See, e.g., Illinois Tool Works, Inc. v. Marshall (7th Cir. 1979) 601 F.2d 943, 947 ; Pan American, Inc. v. Marshall (S.D.N.Y. 1977) 439 F. Supp. 487, 493-495 .

(n17)Footnote 17. United States Commission on Civil Rights, Federal Enforcement of Equal Employment Requirements (Clearinghouse Pub. 93, July 1987), pp. 85-86.

(n18)Footnote 18. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(b).

(n19)Footnote 19. See, e.g., United States v. New Orleans Public Service, Inc. (5th Cir. 1984) 723 F.2d 422, 426-428 ; but see First Alabama Bank of Montgomery v. Donovan (11th Cir. 1982) 692 F.2d 714, 721-722 (upholding the procedure as reasonable even though it was not premised on suspicion of noncompliance).

(n20)Footnote 20. OFCCP Order No. ADM 92-1/SEL (Jan. 31, 1992).

(n21)Footnote 21. OFCCP Order No. ADM 92-1/SEL (Jan. 31, 1992). Order No. ADM 92-1/SEL instructs directors of the area and field offices to adhere to the selection guidelines set out in § 2 of the User's Manual, which is an attachment to the Order.

(n22)Footnote 22. OFCCP Order No. ADM 92-1/SEL (Jan. 31, 1992), User's Manual § 5.

(n23)Footnote 23. The OFCCP established this system in 1982 to permit some large corporations to monitor themselves and to submit national data only when a disagreement arose necessitating a compliance review. U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Federal Enforcement of Equal Employment Requirements (Clearinghouse Pub. 93, July 1987), pp. 92-93.

(n24)Footnote 24. OFCCP Order No. ADM 92-1/SEL (Jan. 31, 1992), User's Manual § 5.

(n25)Footnote 25. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-60.1-60-60.8.

(n26)Footnote 26. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(a)(1)-(3).

(n27)Footnote 27. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(a), (b). The contractor must show its compliance with the regulations that set forth the required contents of affirmative action programs (41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.10-60-2.15) and the regulations setting forth the required methods of implementing affirmative action programs (41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.20-60-2.26). 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(b). A desk audit may not be necessary in preaward compliance reviews and complaint investigations. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(b)(1). For discussion of preaward compliance reviews, see [2] [a], above. For discussion of complaint investigations, see [5], below.

(n28)Footnote 28. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(b).

(n29)Footnote 29. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(a).

(n30)Footnote 30. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(c); see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.10-60-2.26 (affirmative action and implementation requirements). For discussion of these requirements, see [2], above.

(n31)Footnote 31. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(c).

(n32)Footnote 32. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(c)(1).

(n33)Footnote 33. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(b).

(n34)Footnote 34. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.5.

(n35)Footnote 35. OFCCP Compliance Manual § 3D03.

(n36)Footnote 36. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.3(d).

(n37)Footnote 37. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(c).

(n38)Footnote 38. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(c).

(n39)Footnote 39. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(c).

(n40)Footnote 40. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(c), (d).

(n41)Footnote 41. 41 C.F.R. § 60-60.4(c).

(n42)Footnote 42. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.33.

(n43)Footnote 43. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.33.

38 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.44

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.44 Complaint Procedures

[1] Executive Order 11246 Complaints

Any applicant or employee of a covered government contractor or subcontractor who claims a violation of Executive Order 11246 must file a complaint with the OFCCP within 180 days after the alleged violation unless the time is extended by the Director of the OFCCP on a showing of good cause.ⁿ¹ The complainant must provide complete information to the OFCCP within 60 days, including identifying information for the individual and the contractor, a description of the allegedly discriminatory acts, and any other pertinent information, or the case may be closed.ⁿ² Pursuant to a Memorandum of Understanding entered into by the EEOC and the OFCCP in 1981,ⁿ³ the OFCCP may refer complaints filed with the OFCCP to the EEOC for processing under Title VII.ⁿ⁴ Most systemic or class complaints are retained by the OFCCP.ⁿ⁵

In conducting an investigation of the complaint, the OFCCP must, at a minimum, conduct a thorough evaluation of the allegations of the complaint and develop a complete case record.ⁿ⁶ The case record contains the name, address, and telephone number of each person interviewed; the interview statements; copies, transcripts, or summaries of pertinent documents; a reference to at least one covered contract; and a narrative report of the investigation with references to exhibits and other evidence relating to the alleged violations.ⁿ⁷

Within 60 days after receiving the complaint or within such additional time as the Director may allow on a showing of good cause, the OFCCP must process the complaint and develop the case record to be included in a report to the Director containing the following information: (1) the name and address of the complainant, (2) a brief summary of findings, including a statement regarding the contractor's compliance or noncompliance with the equal opportunity clause, and (3) a statement of the disposition of the case, including sanctions or penalties imposed or recommended.ⁿ⁸ In addition, a written report of every preaward compliance review and a written report describing every other compliance review or other matter involving an apparent violation of the equal opportunity clause and the disposition of the matter must be made.ⁿ⁹ If the OFCCP finds a contractor to have violated the Executive Order, enforcement proceedings must be commenced.ⁿ¹⁰ For discussion of enforcement proceedings, see § 44.45.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

In the course of investigating complaints under the Executive Order, OFCCP's usual practice is to conduct a compliance review of the contractor's facility. In Section 503 and VEVRAA investigations, compliance reviews are not routinely done.ⁿ¹¹ Commentary by Dale Brodsky.

■ PRACTICE TIP:

Complainants should be aware that an OFCCP complaint, unless referred to the EEOC, does not constitute exhaustion of remedies required for a Title VII action. To preserve Title VII remedies, complainants should consider filing complaints with both the OFCCP and the EEOC. Under a work-sharing agreement, the EEOC may request information obtained by the OFCCP in its compliance and investigative work. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

[2] Section 503 Complaints

An applicant or employee who claims that a covered government contractor or subcontractor has violated Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act,ⁿ¹² may file a written complaint either personally or by an authorized representative alleging a violation of the act or the regulations.ⁿ¹³ The complaint must be filed with the OFCCP within 180 days after the alleged violation unless the time is extended by the Director on a showing of good cause.ⁿ¹⁴ In addition to standard identifying and descriptive information, the complaint must include a signed statement that the complainant is disabled, has a history of a disability or impairment, or was regarded by the contractor as having an impairment.ⁿ¹⁵

If the contractor has an internal review procedure, the OFCCP first refers the matter for internal processing and possible resolution.ⁿ¹⁶ If the complaint has not been resolved within 60 days of referral, the OFCCP proceeds with its own investigation.ⁿ¹⁷ The OFCCP must conduct a prompt investigation of the matter and prepare a case record, including (1) the names and addresses of each person interviewed, (2) summaries of their statements, (3) copies or summaries of pertinent documents, (4) a narrative summary of the evidence disclosed in the investigation as it relates to each charge, and (5) recommended findings and resolutions.ⁿ¹⁸

If the investigation indicates noncompliance by the contractor, efforts are made to resolve the matter through means of conciliation and persuasion, followed by a letter of commitment or conciliation agreement by the contractor to take the necessary corrective action.ⁿ¹⁹ If a violation is found and the OFCCP is unable to informally resolve the matter by obtaining a written letter of commitment or conciliation agreement to take corrective action,ⁿ²⁰ the OFCCP must afford the contractor an opportunity for a hearing conducted pursuant to the OFCCP's regulations governing Executive Order 11246 administrative proceedings.ⁿ²¹ For a discussion of enforcement proceedings under Executive Order 11246, see § 44.45.

The OFCCP must develop procedures to ensure that administrative complaints filed under Section 503 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA)^{n21.1} are dealt with in a manner that avoids duplication of effort and prevents imposition of inconsistent or conflicting standards for the same requirements under Section 503 and the ADA.^{n21.2}

[3] VEVRAA Complaints

Complaints under the VEVRAAⁿ²² must first be filed with the Veteran's Employment Service of the Department of Labor through the Local Veteran's Employment Representative (LVER) within 180 days of the alleged violation unless the time for filing is extended by the Director of the OFCCP for good cause shown.ⁿ²³ In addition to standard identifying and descriptive information, the complaint must include the veteran's form DD-214 and, when applicable, VAL-5 or similar VA certification indicating the percentage of disability, updated within one year prior to the filing date of the complaint.ⁿ²⁴ A plaintiff who fails to file a complaint with the appropriate agency may be barred from later bringing a civil action under VEVRAA for failure to exhaust administrative remedies.ⁿ²⁵ The LVER promptly refers

the complaint to the OFCCP for investigation.ⁿ²⁶

As in Section 503 cases,ⁿ²⁷ if a contractor has an internal review procedure, the complaint is first referred to the contractor for resolution, and if no resolution satisfactory to the complainant is made, the OFCCP proceeds with investigation, hearings, and enforcement as necessary.ⁿ²⁸ Investigation and hearing procedures governing VEVRAA complaints are identical to those that are applicable to Section 503 complaints.ⁿ²⁹ On finding a violation under VEVRAA, the OFCCP must afford the contractor an opportunity for a formal hearing in accordance with the hearing procedures for Executive Order 11246 hearings.ⁿ³⁰

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action General Overview Labor & Employment Law Affirmative Action Enforcement Labor & Employment Law U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission General Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.21.

(n2)Footnote 2. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.23(a), (b).

(n3)Footnote 3. See 46 Fed. Reg. 7435 (Jan. 23, 1981).

(n4)Footnote 4. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.24(a). For discussion of administrative processing of Title VII complaints by EEOC, see ch. 42.

(n5)Footnote 5. 46 Fed. Reg. 7435 (Jan. 23, 1981).

(n6)Footnote 6. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.24(b).

(n7)Footnote 7. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.24(b).

(n8)Footnote 8. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.24(d)(1).

(n9)Footnote 9. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.24(d)(2), (3).

(n10)Footnote 10. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.24(b)(3); see 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26 (enforcement proceedings).

(n11)Footnote 11. For discussion of complaint procedures under Section 503 and VEVRAA, see [2] and [3], below, respectively.

(n12)Footnote 12. See 29 U.S.C. § 793.

(n13)Footnote 13. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(a).

(n14)Footnote 14. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(a).

(n15)Footnote 15. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(c).

(n16)Footnote 16. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(b).

(n17)Footnote 17. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(b).

(n18)Footnote 18. 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(e); CWA v. Donovan (S.D.N.Y. 1985) 37 Fair Empl. Prac. Cases (BNA) 1362, 1364-1365.

(n19)Footnote 19. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(g)(2).

(n20)Footnote 20. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.26(g)(2), 60-741.28(a).

(n21)Footnote 21. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-741.26(g)(3), 60-741.29; 41 C.F.R. pt. 60-30.

(n22)Footnote 21.1. 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. For discussion of ADA complaint procedures, see ch. 42, pt. C.

(n23)Footnote 21.2. 29 U.S.C. § 793(e).

(n24)Footnote 22. See 38 U.S.C. § 4212.

(n25)Footnote 23. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.26(a).

(n26)Footnote 24. 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.26(c).

(n27)Footnote 25. Marin v. New York State Dep't of Labor (S.D.N.Y. 1981) 512 F. Supp. 353, 355 .

(n28)Footnote 26. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.26(a).

(n29)Footnote 27. See discussion in [2], above.

(n30)Footnote 28. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.26(b).

(n31)Footnote 29. Compare 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.26(e) (VEVRAA investigations) with 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.26(e) (Section 503 investigations); compare 41 C.F.R. § 60-250.29 (VEVRAA hearing procedures) with 41 C.F.R. § 60-741.29 (Section 503 hearing procedures). For discussion of Section 503 investigations, see [2], above. For discussion of hearing procedures, see § 44.45[3].

(n32)Footnote 30. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.26(g)(3), 60-250.29(b); see 41 C.F.R. pt. 60-30 (Exec. Order No. 11246 hearing procedures).

39 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.45

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.45 Enforcement Procedures

[1] When Enforcement May Be Commenced

Violations of Executive Order 11246 may result in the institution of administrative or judicial enforcement proceedings.ⁿ¹ Violations may be found on the basis of the following:ⁿ²

1. Results of a complaint investigation;
2. Analysis of an affirmative action program;
3. Results of an on-site compliance review;
4. A contractor's refusal to submit an affirmative action program;
5. A contractor's refusal to allow an on-site visit of its facility;
6. A contractor's refusal to supply records or other required information; or
7. Any substantial or material violation or threat of violation of the applicable contractual provisions of the order or the regulations implementing the order.

[2] Order to Show Cause

[a] When Order to Show Cause Is Required

Whenever the OFCCP has reasonable cause to believe that a covered construction or nonconstruction contractor or subcontractor has violated the equal opportunity clause contained in its contract, the Executive Order, or regulations issued pursuant to the order, the agency may issue a notice requiring the contractor to show cause within 30 days why enforcement proceedings should not be initiated.ⁿ³

If the contractor violates a letter of commitment and the OFCCP contemplates enforcement action, it must also issue a show cause notice specifying what enforcement is contemplated. The contractor is given 30 days to show why administrative enforcement should not be commenced, and if conciliation continues to fail, formal proceedings are brought pursuant to procedures for conducting hearings.ⁿ⁴

[b] When Order to Show Cause Is Not Required

When a conciliation agreement has been violated, the OFCCP sends the contractor a notice setting forth the alleged violations.ⁿ⁵ The contractor must respond to the notice within 15 days from receipt.ⁿ⁶ During the 15-day period the contractor may demonstrate that it has not violated its commitments,^{n6.1} but if the contractor is unable to demonstrate this or if irreparable injury will result, the OFCCP may initiate enforcement proceedings without issuing an order to show cause.ⁿ⁷ In any proceeding involving an alleged violation of a conciliation agreement, OFCCP may seek enforcement of the agreement itself, and is not required to present proof of the underlying violations resolved by the agreement.^{n7.1}

If a contractor refuses to submit an affirmative action plan to the OFCCP, refuses to supply records or other requested information, or refuses to allow the OFCCP access to its premises to conduct an on-site review, and if conciliation efforts are unsuccessful, the OFCCP may immediately initiate administrative enforcement proceedings to enjoin the violations, seek appropriate relief, and impose appropriate sanctions without issuing an order to show cause.ⁿ⁸

[3] Administrative Hearings

Administrative enforcement hearings are held if contract compliance violations are not corrected.ⁿ⁹ They are conducted under the control and supervision of the Solicitor of Labor in accordance with the OFCCP's rules of practice, contained in Title 41 Code of Federal Regulations Part 60-30.ⁿ¹⁰ The regulations detail prehearing procedures, including discovery, hearing procedures, posthearing procedures, and expedited hearing procedures.ⁿ¹¹ The OFCCP refers cases for administrative enforcement to the Solicitor of Labor, Associate Solicitor for Labor Relations, Civil Rights Regional Solicitors, and Regional Attorney.ⁿ¹² The OFCCP is designated as the plaintiff in the proceeding.ⁿ¹³ An administrative law judge of the Department of Labor presides over the proceeding.ⁿ¹⁴

The rules of practice governing proceedings under Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973ⁿ¹⁵ and VEVRAAⁿ¹⁶ are identical to those set forth in Title 41, Code of Federal Regulations Part 60-30. The ALJ's recommended findings, conclusions, and decision are certified to the Administrative Review Board, United States Department of Labor, which issues an order enjoining the violations and requiring an appropriate remedy.ⁿ¹⁷ All exceptions and responses to the decision must also be filed with the Administrative Review Board.ⁿ¹⁸

[4] Judicial Enforcement

Whenever the Director of the OFCCP has reason to believe that a contractor has substantially or materially violated or threatens to violate contractual provisions relating to Executive Order 11246, he or she has the discretion to refer the matter to the Department of Justice to enforce the contract in an appropriate federal district court, to seek injunctive relief (including relief against noncontractors, such as labor unions, who seek to interfere with the implementation of the order and regulations), and to seek additional relief, including back pay.ⁿ¹⁹ In practice, this provision has been rarely used.ⁿ²⁰ The Attorney General is also authorized to initiate lawsuits in federal district court against contractors, subject to the approval of the Director of the OFCCP, and to seek the same type of remedies discussed above.ⁿ²¹

Regulations governing Section 503 and VEVRAA proceedings also permit the Director of the OFCCP to seek appropriate judicial action to enforce the contractual provisions pertaining to the two statutes.ⁿ²²

[5] Remedies[a] Sanctions and Penalties Generally

Executive Order 11246 sets forth a wide panoply of sanctions and penalties that the Secretary of Labor may adopt or issue for violation of the order, including the following:ⁿ²³

1. Publishing the names of noncomplying contractors or unions;
2. Recommending to the Department of Justice that it bring a civil action to enforce the provisions of the Order;
3. Recommending to the EEOC or the Department of Justice that proceedings be instituted under Title VII;
4. Recommending to the Department of Justice that criminal proceedings be brought against a contractor who furnishes false information to any contracting agency or to the Department of Labor;
5. Directing the contracting agency to cancel, terminate, or suspend any contract for failure of the contractor or subcontractor to comply with the equal opportunity provisions of the contract; and
6. Debarring the contractor or subcontractor from any future contracts until the contractor can show the establishment of employment policies in compliance with the order.

[b] Contract Termination, Cancellation, Suspension, and Debarment

Contract termination, suspension, cancellation, and debarment are specifically authorized as sanctions in the OFCCP's regulations.ⁿ²⁴ These sanctions, as well as the withholding of progress payments, are also designated remedies for Section 503 and VEVRAA violations.ⁿ²⁵ An order for cancellation, termination, suspension, debarment, or withholding of progress payments cannot be issued without first affording the contractor or subcontractor an opportunity for a hearing.ⁿ²⁶

The OFCCP is required to distribute periodically to all executive departments and agencies within the federal government a list of all contractors or subcontractors who have been declared ineligible for future contracts.ⁿ²⁷ Any contractor or subcontractor who is debarred from future contracts may seek reinstatement by directing a letter to the Director of the OFCCP. The contractor or subcontractor is required to show that it has established and will carry out policies and practices in compliance with the equal opportunity clause.ⁿ²⁸

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

The OFCCP is taking a close look at the scope of its remedial powers and is considering amending its procedural regulations under Executive Order 11246 to increase its enforcement options. Many employers assume that the severest OFCCP sanctions are contract suspension, contract cancellation, and contract debarment. Many employers also assume that none of these remedies is available without either an opportunity to conciliate or a hearing. Although this is true under the current regulations, Executive Order 11246 can be construed to leave a door open for regulations that would allow contract suspensions without conciliation or a hearing.

Executive Order 11246 states that no employer may be debarred from government contracts without a hearing.ⁿ²⁹ The Executive Order also states that the OFCCP may not cancel or terminate a contract, in whole or in part, without first undertaking conciliation efforts to achieve compliance.^{n29.1} The Order, therefore, is silent on the availability of hearing or conciliation in advance of contract suspensions (for example, for one month or one year). Current OFCCP regulations, however, call for both conciliation and a hearing prior to the imposition of any sanction, including contract suspensions.^{n29.2}

In short, while the OFCCP provides pre-suspension opportunities to resolve differences with the agency, the Executive Order itself is less clear. Without attempting to analyze the significant due process issues that would apply to any such shift in enforcement policy, the cautionary note is simply that "fixed term" suspensions without conciliation or a hearing are under consideration. Employers should be aware of this issue and make sure that their OFCCP compliance personnel are adhering to agency policy guidelines.

Commentary by Kirby Wilcox.

[c] Back Pay

Back pay is not specifically mentioned as a remedy in the Executive Order but is set forth as a remedy in the OFCCP regulations,ⁿ³⁰ and for that reason, back pay as a remedy has been the subject of controversy.ⁿ³¹ However, back pay has been upheld as a lawful form of relief under Executive Order 11246 by at least some courts,ⁿ³² and has been widely used by the OFCCP as a means for remedying discrimination.ⁿ³³

[d] Injunctive Relief

Contract violations may also be enjoined in administrative and judicial enforcement proceedings under Executive Order 11246 and its implementing regulations.ⁿ³⁴ Circumstances that may warrant injunctive relief include the contractor's refusal to submit an affirmative action program, refusal to supply records or other requested information, or the refusal to allow the compliance agency access to its premises for an on-site review.ⁿ³⁵ If the matter is referred to the Department of Justice to bring a civil action in federal district court for enforcement, the Justice Department may seek injunctive relief.ⁿ³⁶

[6] Judicial Review of OFCCP Remedies

Determinations by the OFCCP are subject to judicial review in accordance with the provisions of Title 5, United States Code, Sections 701-706.ⁿ³⁷ However, courts have denied contractors judicial review of preliminary matters for failure to exhaust administrative remedies.ⁿ³⁸

With respect to the applicable standard of review of OFCCP determinations, one court has held that the question is "whether the decision was based on a consideration of the relevant factors and whether there has been a clear error of judgment... The court is not empowered to substitute its judgment for that of the agency."ⁿ³⁹ In Partridge v. Reich,^{n39.1} the court discussed the applicable standard of review before finding that there was no basis for coverage under VEVRAA.^{n39.2} An agency decision, the OFCCP under VEVRAA, may be set aside only if it is "arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law", or if the action fails to meet statutory, procedural, or constitutional requirements. An agency's interpretation of law is a question of law that is reviewed de novo: if Congress has spoken on the issue, courts must enforce that direction; if the statute is silent or ambiguous, courts defer to the agency's statutory construction if that construction is permissible. An agency's interpretation of its own regulations is controlling unless "plainly erroneous or inconsistent" with the regulation.^{n39.3}

[7] Private Right of Action

Most courts have held that there is no private right of action under Executive Order 11246ⁿ⁴⁰ or under Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act.ⁿ⁴¹

However, some cases have held that parties expressly identified in a conciliation agreement between the OFCCP and a contractor as persons on whom certain benefits are to be conferred may bring an action as third-party beneficiaries to enforce the conciliation agreement.ⁿ⁴²

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionEnforcementLabor & Employment LawU.S. Equal Employment Opportunity CommissionEnforcementGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a).

(n2)Footnote 2. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a)(1).

(n3)Footnote 3. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.28.

(n4)Footnote 4. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-2.2(c), 60-4.8; see also 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-30.1-60-30.37 (rules of practice for enforcement proceedings).

(n5)Footnote 5. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.34(a)(1).

(n6)Footnote 6. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.34(a)(1).

(n7)Footnote 6.1. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.34(b).

(n8)Footnote 7. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.34(a)(3).

(n9)Footnote 7.1. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.34(a)(4).

(n10)Footnote 8. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a)(2).

(n11)Footnote 9. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a)(2); OFCCP Compliance Manual § 8D02.

(n12)Footnote 10. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(c).

(n13)Footnote 11. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-30.1-60-30.37.

(n14)Footnote 12. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-30.5(a).

(n15)Footnote 13. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-30.5(a).

(n16)Footnote 14. 41 C.F.R. § 60-30.14.

(n17)Footnote 15. 29 U.S.C. § 793.

(n18)Footnote 16. 38 U.S.C. § 4212.

(n19)Footnote 17. See 41 C.F.R. § 1.26; see also 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-30.27 (Executive Order No. 11246), 60-259(b) (VEVRAA), and 60-741-29(b) (Section 503).

(n20)Footnote 18. 41 C.F.R. § 1.26; see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-30.28-60-30.30 (Executive Order No. 11246), 60-259(b) (VEVRAA), and 60-741-29(b) (Section 503).

(n21)Footnote 19. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.26(a)(2), (e).

(n22)Footnote 20. U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Federal Enforcement of Equal Employment Requirements (Clearinghouse Pub. 93, July 1987), p. 89.

(N23)Footnote 21. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(f).

(n24)Footnote 22. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-250.28(b) (VEVRAA), 60-741.28(b) (Section 503).

(n25)Footnote 23. See Exec. Order No. 11246, § 209.

(n26)Footnote 24. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.26(a)(2), 60-30.30.

(n27)Footnote 25. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-30.30, 60-741.28(c), (d), (e) (Section 503), 60-250.28(c), (d), (e) (VEVRAA).

(n28)Footnote 26. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.26(a)(2) (Exec. Order No. 11246), 60-741.29(a)(2), (3) (Section 503), 60-250.29(a)(2), (3) (VEVRAA). For discussion of hearings, see [3], above.

(n29)Footnote 27. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.30 (Exec. Order No. 11246), 60-250.31 (VEVRAA), 60-741.31 (Section 503).

(N30)Footnote 28. 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.31 (Exec. Order No. 11246), 60-250.50 (VEVRAA), 60-741.50 (Section 503).

(n31)Footnote 29. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 208(b).

(n32)Footnote 29.1. Exec. Order No. 11246, § 209(6)(b).

(n33)Footnote 29.2. See 29 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.20(b), 60-1.24(c)(2), 60-1.26(c), (e), 60-30 et seq.

(n34)Footnote 30. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-1.26(a)(2) (administrative proceedings), 60-1.26(e) (judicial proceedings brought by Department of Justice) 60-1.33 (conciliation agreements).

(n35)Footnote 31. See, e.g., United States v. Commercial Lovelace Motor Freight, Inc. (S.D. Ohio 1983) 31 Fair Empl. Prac. Cases (BNA) 499, 502 (referring to the controversy, but unable to conclude that back pay is unavailable as a matter of law).

(n36)Footnote 32. See United States v. Whitney National Bank (E.D. La. 1987) 45 Fair Empl. Prac. Cases (BNA) 983, 984.

(n37)Footnote 33. See U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Federal Enforcement of Equal Employment Requirements (Clearinghouse Pub. 93, July 1987), pp. 89-90 (setting forth statistics for back pay awards).

(n38)Footnote 34. See Exec. Order No. 11246 § 209(a)(2); 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a)(2).

(n39)Footnote 35. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a)(2).

(n40)Footnote 36. 41 C.F.R. § 60-1.26(a)(2), (e).

(n41)Footnote 37. See Legal Aid Soc. of Alameda Cty. v. Brennan (9th Cir. 1979) 608 F.2d 1319, 1331, cert. denied sub nom., Chamber of Commerce of the United States v. Legal Aid Society of Alameda County, 447 U.S. 921 (1980). Under 5 U.S.C. §§ 701-706, final administrative actions are subject to judicial review unless the statute itself precludes judicial review or unless an administrative action is committed to agency discretion by law. 5 U.S.C. § 704; see City of Santa Clara Cal. v. Andrus (9th Cir. 1978) 572 F.2d 660, 666, cert. denied sub nom., Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. City of Santa Clara, 439 U.S. 859 (1978) (test for determining if action is committed to agency discretion is whether there is no law to be applied in case at hand). Preliminary, procedural, and intermediate agency actions are also reviewable in conjunction with the review of the final action. 5 U.S.C. § 704.

(n42)Footnote 38. See, e.g., St. Regis Paper Co. v. Marshall (10th Cir. 1979) 591 F.2d 612, 613-615 , cert. denied, 444 U.S. 828 (1979) .

(n43)Footnote 39. Moon v. Secretary, United States Dep't of Labor (11th Cir. 1984) 747 F.2d 599, 604 , cert. denied, 471 U.S. 1055 (1985) , quoting Citizens to Preserve Overton Park v. Volpe (1976) 401 U.S. 402, 416, 91 S. Ct. 814, 28 L. Ed. 2d 136 , overruled on other grounds by Califano v. Sanders, 430 U.S. 99, 105, 97 S. Ct. 980, 51 L. Ed. 2d 192 (1977) .

(n44)Footnote 39.1. Partridge v. Reich (9th Cir. 1998) 141 F.3d 920 .

(n45)Footnote 39.2. Partridge v. Reich (9th Cir. 1998) 141 F.3d 920, 923-925 ; see § 40.24.

(n46)Footnote 39.3. Partridge v. Reich (9th Cir. 1998) 141 F.3d 920, 923 .

(N47)Footnote 40. See, e.g., Eatmon v. Bristol Steel & Iron Works, Inc. (11th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1503, 1515 ; Cohen v. Illinois Institute of Technology (7th Cir. 1975) 524 F.2d 818, 822 n.4 , cert. denied, 425 U.S. 943 (1976) ; Weise v. Syracuse University (2d Cir. 1975) 522 F.2d 397, 411 n.23 ; McPartland v. American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. (S.D.N.Y. 1985) 623 F. Supp. 1334, 1339-1340 ; Traylor v. Safeway Stores, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1975) 402 F. Supp. 871, 875-876 .

(n48)Footnote 41. Fisher v. City of Tucson (9th Cir. 1981) 663 F.2d 861, 865 , cert. denied, 459 U.S. 881 (1982) ; Davis v. United Air Lines, Inc. (2d Cir. 1981) 662 F.2d 120, 121 , cert. denied, 456 U.S. 965 (1982) ; Simpson v. Reynolds Metals Co., Inc. (7th Cir. 1980) 629 F.2d 1226, 1237 ; Rogers v. Frito-Lay, Inc. (5th Cir. 1980) 611 F.2d 1074, 1084-1085 , cert. denied, 449 U.S. 889 (1980) ; Hoopes v. Equifax, Inc. (6th Cir. 1979) 611 F.2d 134, 135 ; but see Davis v. Modine Mfg. Co. (D. Kan. 1981) 526 F. Supp. 943, 954 (upholding private right of action under Section 503).

(n49)Footnote 42. See, e.g., Eatmon v. Bristol Steel & Iron Works, Inc. (11th Cir. 1985) 769 F.2d 1503, 1514-1516 ; cf. Terry v. Northrup Worldwide Aircraft Services (11th Cir. 1986) 786 F.2d 1558, 1560-1561 .

40 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.46

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.46 Public Disclosure of Information by OFCCP

The OFCCP's regulations governing the disclosure of information provided to the OFCCP by contractors and subcontractors in the course of their compliance with Executive Order 11246ⁿ¹ implement the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA),ⁿ² and supplement the policy and regulationsⁿ³ issued by the Department of Labor under the FOIA.ⁿ⁴ When any person makes a request for records that were obtained or generated pursuant to Executive Order 11246, the records must be made available for inspection and copying, notwithstanding the applicability of the exemption from mandatory disclosure set forth in the FOIA at Title 5, United States Code Section 552(b), if it is determined that the requested inspection or copying furthers the public interest and does not impede any of the OFCCP's functions.ⁿ⁵ However, disclosure is not required if disclosure of the records is prohibited by law.ⁿ⁶ The following documents are examples of documents that must be disclosed, if in the custody of the OFCCP:ⁿ⁷

1. Affirmative action plans, except in the limited circumstances discussed below;
2. Imposed plans or hometown plans, pending or approved;ⁿ⁸
3. The text of final conciliation agreements;
4. Validation studies of tests or other preemployment selection methods; and
5. Lists of dates and times of scheduled compliance reviews.

In addition, the OFCCP must disclose the Standard Form 100 (EEO-1) submitted by a contractor to the OFCCP or a Joint Reporting Committee servicing both the OFCCP and the EEOC, "pending further instructions from the Director."ⁿ⁹

Certain documents, or parts thereof, are exempt from mandatory disclosure, and the OFCCP will withhold these items if it determines that disclosure does not further the public interest and might impede the discharge of the OFCCP's functions.ⁿ¹⁰ These items include the following:

1. Those portions of affirmative action plans, such as goals and timetables, that constitute confidential commercial or financial information because they indicate that a contractor plans major shifts or changes in its personnel requirements, if this information has not yet been made public, but only after the contractor verifies and explains satisfactorily that the information should be withheld;ⁿ¹¹
2. Portions of affirmative action plans that constitute information on staffing patterns and pay scales, but only to the extent that disclosure would injure the business or financial position of the contractor, would constitute a release of confidential financial information of an employee, or would be an unwarranted invasion of an employee's privacy;ⁿ¹²
3. The names of individual complainants;ⁿ¹³
4. Assignments to particular contractors of named OFCCP compliance officers, if disclosure would result in harassment or affect the enforcement of the Executive Order;ⁿ¹⁴
5. Compliance investigation files and reports, to the extent that the information contained in them constitutes trade secrets and confidential commercial or financial information; inter- or intra-agency memoranda or letters that would not be available by law to a private party in litigation with the agency; personnel, medical, or similar files, disclosure of which would be an unwarranted invasion of privacy; data that would be exempt from mandatory disclosure pursuant to an "informant's privilege"; or information whose disclosure is prohibited by statute;ⁿ¹⁵
6. Copies of preemployment selection tests used by contractors;ⁿ¹⁶ and
7. Other records, consistent with the FOIA, on a case-by-case basis with the prior approval of the Director of the OFCCP.ⁿ¹⁷

Contractors' objections to the OFCCP's disclosure of information to third parties have resulted in a number of legal challenges. For example, in one case,ⁿ¹⁸ the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals rejected a contractor's claims that the OFCCP abused its discretion and acted arbitrarily and capriciously when it disclosed copies of a contractor's affirmative action programs and EEO-1 reports to a women's rights organization. The contractor claimed that disclosure would result in a violation of the Trade Secrets Act.ⁿ¹⁹ The court held that the Trade Secrets Act is not an absolute bar to disclosure of information that would otherwise be disclosable under the FOIA.ⁿ²⁰ The court examined Exemption 4 of the FOIA, which excludes from mandatory disclosure trade secrets and privileged or confidential commercial or financial information.ⁿ²¹ The court held that the scope of the Trade Secrets Act is coextensive with the scope of Exemption 4 of the FOIA, and in the absence of a regulation authorizing disclosure, disclosure of information that falls under Exemption 4 is prohibited.ⁿ²² However, the court concluded that the OFCCP had properly considered and applied the factors required under the FOIA in making its decision that Exemption 4 was inapplicable to the facts before it.ⁿ²³ The court further held that the OFCCP is not required to afford an evidentiary hearing to a contractor prior to disclosing information to third parties.ⁿ²⁴ Moreover, the court held that government contractors are not entitled to a trial de novo in federal district court of an OFCCP decision to disclose information. If the OFCCP's fact-finding procedures are adequate, the district court is confined to a review of the OFCCP record.ⁿ²⁵ If the record is inadequate, the case should be remanded to the OFCCP for it to properly exercise its discretion in determining the disclosability of information.ⁿ²⁶

■ CONSULTANT'S COMMENT:

Employers sometimes seek to shield their affirmative action plans from plaintiffs in employment discrimination lawsuits on the basis of a "self-critical analysis" privilege. The Donovan decision,ⁿ²⁷ discussed above, appears to undercut such claims by making affirmative action plans generally available to the public. Commentary by Bill Lann Lee.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawEmployee PrivacyDisclosure of Employee InformationGeneral Overview

FOOTNOTES:

(n1)Footnote 1. See 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-40.1-60-40.8.

(n2)Footnote 2. 5 U.S.C. § 552.

(n3)Footnote 3. 29 C.F.R. pt. 70.

(n4)Footnote 4. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.1.

(n5)Footnote 5. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.2(a), (b).

(n6)Footnote 6. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.2(a), (b).

(n7)Footnote 7. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.2(b).

(n8)Footnote 8. These are applicable in reviews of construction contracts. see 41 C.F.R. §§ 60-4.4, 60-4.5. For discussion of hometown plans, see § 44.42[1][b].

(n9)Footnote 9. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.4.

(n10)Footnote 10. See 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a).

(n11)Footnote 11. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a)(1).

(n12)Footnote 12. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a)(2).

(n13)Footnote 13. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a)(3).

(n14)Footnote 14. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a)(4).

(n15)Footnote 15. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a)(5).

(n16)Footnote 16. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(a)(6).

(n17)Footnote 17. 41 C.F.R. § 60-40.3(b).

(n18)Footnote 18. CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1155, cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988).

(n19)Footnote 19. See 18 U.S.C. § 1905.

(n20)Footnote 20. CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1141, cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988).

(n21)Footnote 21. 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(4); CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1151-1152 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) . Confidential information under Exemption 4 of FOIA has been defined as that which is "likely to ... cause substantial harm to the competitive position of the person from whom the information was obtained." CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1152 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) , quoting National Parks and Conservation Ass'n v. Morton (D.C. Cir. 1974) 498 F.2d 765, 770 .

(n22)Footnote 22. CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1151-1152 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) .

(n23)Footnote 23. CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1155 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) .

(n24)Footnote 24. CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1159 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) .

(n25)Footnote 25. CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132, 1162 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) ; see also NOW, Washington, D.C. Chapter v. Social Sec. Admin. (D.C. Cir. 1984) 736 F.2d 727, 740-741 .

(n26)Footnote 26. NOW, Washington, D.C. Chapter v. Social Sec. Admin. (D.C. Cir. 1984) 736 F.2d 727, 729 .

(n27)Footnote 27. See CNA Financial Corp. v. Donovan (D.C. Cir. 1987) 830 F.2d 1132 , cert. denied, 485 U.S. 977 (1988) .

41 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part C. OFFICE OF FEDERAL CONTRACT COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

3-44 California Employment Law §§ 44.47 through 44.59

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

[Reserved]

§§ 44.47[Reserved]

42 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.60

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.60 Legal Texts

Larson, Employment Discrimination (Matthew Bender).

Ch. 2, "Summary and Coverage of Sex Discrimination Laws," §§ 7.10-7.12.

Ch. 10, "Other Procedural Matters."

Larson and Borowsky, Unjust Dismissal (Matthew Bender), Ch. 6, "Employment Discrimination Legislation," § 6.10[5].

Copus and Rosenzweig, OFCCP and Federal Contract Compliance (1981).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionComplianceLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionConsent DecreesLabor & Employment
LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed PlansLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionDiscrimination

43 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.61

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.61 Encyclopedias

41 Cal. Jur. 3d, "Labor," §§ 4, 5, 86, 88, 91.

53 Cal. Jur. 3d, "Public Works," §§ 5-8.

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionComplianceLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionConsent DecreesLabor & Employment
LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed PlansLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionDiscrimination

44 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY
CHAPTER 44 Affirmative Action
Part D. BIBLIOGRAPHY

3-44 California Employment Law § 44.62

AUTHOR: By Dale L. Brodsky, J.D. and Judy B. Freeman, J.D.

§ 44.62 Law Reviews and Legal Periodicals

Browne, "Comparable Worth: An Impermissible Form of Affirmative Action?" 22 Loy. L.A. L. Rev. 717 (1989).

Note, "Compensating Victims of Preferential Employment Discrimination Remedies," 98 Yale L.J. 1479 (1989).

Kubasek and Grampetro, "Affirmative Action Plans: Legal Hurdles Have Been Removed; Do Philosophical Hurdles Still Remain?" 17 Lincoln L. Rev. 233 (1987).

Nash, "Affirmative Action Under Executive Order 11246," 46 N.Y.U. L. Rev. 225 (1972).

Paterson, "The Future of Affirmative Action," 6(2) Cal. Lawyer 28 (1986).

Rutherglen and Ortiz, "Affirmative Action Under the Constitution and Title VII: From Confusion to Convergence," 35 U.C.L.A. L. Rev. 467 (1988).

Seymour, "A Point of View: Why Executive Order 11246 Should Be Preserved (Banning Employment Discrimination by Contractors)," 11 Emp. Rel. L.J. 568 (1986).

Legal Topics:

For related research and practice materials, see the following legal topics:

Labor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionGeneral OverviewLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionComplianceLabor & Employment LawAffirmative ActionConsent DecreesLabor & Employment
LawAffirmative ActionCourt & Government Imposed PlansLabor & Employment LawAffirmative
ActionDiscrimination

45 of 45 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION IV EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

Chapters 45 -- 49 RESERVED

3-45 - 49 California Employment Law Chapters 45 -- 49

RESERVED

Chapters 45 -- 49 RESERVED

1 of 197 DOCUMENTS

California Employment Law

Copyright 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group.

DIVISION V EMPLOYEE PRIVACY RIGHTS

CHAPTER 50 Limitations on Employer Collection of Private Information About Employees

3-50 California Employment Law 50.syn

AUTHOR: By Kaye M. Reeves, J.D., Edward Baskauskas, J.D.

§ 50.syn Synopsis to Chapter 50: Limitations on Employer Collection of Private Information About Employees

§ 50.01 Overlapping Sources of Privacy Rights

§§ 50.02 through 50.09 [Reserved]

§ 50.10 HIV Test Results

§ 50.11 Arrest Records

[1] Statutory Coverage

[2] Substantive Rights and Responsibilities

[3] Employers Covered and Exempted

[4] Employees Covered and Exempted

[5] Method of Enforcement

[a] Misdemeanor

[b] Civil Action

[c] FORM--Complaint Against Employer for Violation of Labor Code Section 432.7

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

§ 50.12 California Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act

[1] Statutory Coverage

[2] Substantive Rights and Responsibilities

[a] Limits on Employer's Right to Request Preparation of Report

[b] Disclosure and Scope of Report

[c] Employer's Collection of Information in Lieu of Report

[3] Method of Enforcement

[a] Right to Maintain Action

[b] FORM--Complaint for Damages for Failure to Comply With Requirements of Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

§ 50.13 Consumer Credit Reporting Agencies Act

[1] Statutory Coverage

[2] Substantive Rights and Responsibilities

[a] Limits on Employer's Right to Request Preparation of Report

[b] Scope of Report

[c] Limit on Employer's Use of Report

[d] Obligations of Furnishers and Resellers of Credit Information

[i] Persons Who Regularly Furnish Credit Information

[ii] Creditors

[iii] Persons Who Resell Credit Reports

[3] Methods of Enforcement

[a] Procedure for Correction of Information

[b] Action for Damages

[c] FORM--Complaint for Damages for Violation of Consumer Credit Reporting Agencies Act

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

§ 50.14 Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act

[1] Coverage

[a] Scope of Act

[b] State Law Generally Not Preempted

[c] Specific Preemptions of State Laws

[2] Substantive Rights and Responsibilities

[a] Limits on Employer's Right to Request Preparation of Report

[b] Disclosures to Employee or Applicant; Consent to Procurement of Report

[c] Scope of Report

[d] Employer's Duties When Taking Adverse Action Based on Report

[3] Methods of Enforcement

[a] Criminal Penalties

[b] Civil Liability for Willful Noncompliance

[c] Civil Liability for Knowing Noncompliance

[d] Civil Liability for Negligent Noncompliance

[e] Jurisdiction and Limitations Period

[f] FORM--Complaint for Damages for Failure to Comply With Requirements of Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act

[i] Comment

[ii] Form

[g] Administrative Enforcement

§ 50.15 Fingerprints and Photographs

[1] Substantive Rights and Responsibilities

[2] Employers Covered and Exempted

[3] Employees Covered and Exempted

[4] Methods of Enforcement

